אֱלֹהֵי אֲשֶׁר אֱלֹהֵי

ISSUED EVERY FULL MOON.
$1.00 A YEAR.

WYOMING, OHIO.

FEBRUARY, 1901.
VOL. 1, No. 3.

"I AM THE ALPHA AND THE OMEGA, THE BEGINNING AND THE ENDING; THE ONE WHO IS, AND THE ONE WHO WAS, AND THE ONE WHO IS COMING, THE ALL POWERFUL.

BE READY.

Have your windows open and your lamps trimmed and bright
Put on the gospel armor of the purest white;
Keep the pickets at their duty in the highest towers and domes
And be ye therefore ready when the bridegroom comes!

Have your windows open and your lamps trimmed and bright;
For soon the day shall vanish and then dawns dreary night;
When the tempter prowls through darkness as a wild beast from its lair;

When the watchman's light is gleaming he can never harm us there.

Have your windows open and your lamps trimmed and bright;
Behold! the Bridegroom cometh, his raiments pure and white:
He hath bid you to the table for the feast hath long been spread
So be ye therefore ready to eat that living bread!

—Aaron Belford Thompson.

ADIRAMLED recognizes all schools of New Thought and sincerely believes that everyone is doing the right work in the right place. ADIRAMLED is unique and fills a niche not filled by any other journal because it is an individual production in the truest sense, reaching out for its own, and they are coming by the hundreds from all directions. Light, more light!

I AM THAT I AM THROUGH FAITH.
OUT OF THE DARKNESS OF DUALITY INTO THE BRIGHTNESS OF BIUNITY.

Through a Higher Union with the Divine Feminine, I am coming into realization of New Forces and New Powers. The meaning of is made manifest. There is a Wine and there is a Bread which, if partaken, will transform this humble body into an Immortal One. Ask in Silence the Meaning of this Symbol.

TO HIM THAT OVERCOMETH WILL I GIVE TO EAT OF THE HIDDEN MANNA, AND I WILL GIVE HIM A WHITE STONE, AND IN THE STONE A NEW NAME WRITTEN."

AQUARIUS.

All born in favorable February
Are versatile, psychic, magnetic, merry:
Ideal lovers and champions of Truth,
Seeking the fount of eternal youth.

Distinguished Aquarians:—James G. Blaine, Lord Byron, Swedenborg, Horace Greeley, Abraham Lincoln, Ole Bull, Adelina Patti, Henry Irving, Charles Dickens, Charles Darwin, Susan B. Anthony, Li Hung Chang, Copernicus.

It is my desire and purpose to fill the measure of ADIRAMLED full to overflowing with love and power for its readers.

I am but an instrument of the I AM who directs all my affairs. I am seeking just those who are ready for my words and who will be benefited by them.

All who are weary of rattling the dry husks of old thought will behold with joy the ripening kernels of the new.

What we want in advancing thought is not to fossilize forms, or to establish a new kind of cant. Much of metaphysical theorizing is mere moonshine and only a changed aspect of superstitious speculation.

We need to get at the very root of life and learn its secret. "Love is the fulfilling of the law," but how is it? What is the NATURE of the force called Love? and, what is its PRACTICAL utility? How may it be made to subserve the actual human need, so as to be made a source of PERPETUAL LIFE, which it is declared to be?

THIS is what all the world is seeking to know. It is the mission of ADIRAMLED to illuminate this darkness.

PHONO-GLYPHIC WORD ANALYSIS.

The term Phono-glyphic was revealed to me as expressive of the power of letters through their forms. It means "sound carving."

Anciently the sounds of speech were cut or carved on rocks and sticks, as among the Assyrians, Egyptians and Britons.

Sounds were first communicated to man by the Inner Voice, and at the same time a symbol, or idea of representation, was given him.

The most wonderful alphabet of symbols extant is that of the Hebrew.

Like the Bible itself, every Hebrew letter is an allegory and reveals a world of hidden meaning to the esoteric student. Upon this alphabet our own is based, but we have at the present time a number of added symbols expressive of the extension and development of the newer race.

The original Hebrew alphabet consisted of twenty-two letters. According to a very ancient Kabbalistic record, (the Sopher Yetzira), there were three mother letters, Aleph(A), Mem(M), Shin(SH); seven double letters, expressing two sounds; and twelve simple letters, expressing only one sound.

The seven double letters correspond to the seven planets, and the twelve simple ones to the twelve signs of the Zodiac.

The origin of all these letters is from the tenth, the "Yod"(I), since out of this all others are produced by combination. The same is true of "I" in our own alphabet, as I shall later show.

The ancients believed and demonstrated that throughout the Universe there exists but one law. This law governs language as it governs all else. Language is, in fact, its expression; hence, it is possible through the study of language to discover the principle back of the law itself.

Anciently the idea of Eternity was symbolized by a circle; and Unity, as an eternally present idea, was expressed by a dot (yod) within a circle, or as it is now written "10," one and zero. Now "1" or "Yod" is active and masculine, entering into external manifestation through "0," the symbol of the negative feminine.

The dot within a circle is expressed throughout nature in the Atom with its soul germ or vivifying principle in the center. In the egg the yolk is the yod, or masculine nucleus, and the albumen encasement, the feminine expression of this idea.

It is difficult to think of Yod, (I), as existing apart from its form, the ovum. In fact it cannot do so except as a metaphysical concept.

Yod means hieroglyphically a hand, or more exactly, the finger of a hand, extended to command. Or, it may be, reaching out to give to another, or again to draw something necessary to itself.

It presupposes an active agent behind or within itself, but as the actor cannot manifest without this agent, they become synonymous; thus Yod becomes God, and therefore, I AND GOD ARE ONE.

In shape, Yod (3rd letter in the Adiramled Hebrew text, counting backwards) is seen to represent the end of the finger which is the seat of sensitiveness or touch, the point where all the vital forces concentrate. The blind may be said to see with their finger tips. On the other hand, "I" undoubtedly represents the whole finger, like a rod or staff, the vrill stick of Bulwer Lytton, perhaps. This comparison shows what fine discriminative sense the ancients possessed, and it also shows the materialistic trend of modern thought which regards everything as a stick that looks like a stick.

Yod is identical with the Hindu Vishnu, the preserver, and this may assist us to understand our God more clearly, since there is only one principle which is in itself the actual preservative of life. This is the absolute creative force.

Astronomically Yod was Virgo, the virgin, from Vir (manly strength) and its month was August, the harvest month. I(J) is the human symbol nearest allied to Deity, thus we see it as the first letter of Jehovah, Jesus, Israel, John, etc.

By going into the Sanscrit, that wonderful and perfect language, we get even a deeper insight into the meaning of "Yod," for here Yodha gives us the idea of a slaying or sacrificing for the purpose of one's own gain. Other allied words, however, show us that the "Yod" rewards by giving, pouring out blessings and enriching those it seems to rob. On the earth plane, it is like a seeder which pierces the soil but leaves a germ through which the soil is to become enriched.

Again it is the 'reaper whose name is death," but life springs up more radiant after each harvest because the same reaper becomes again a sower with better seed gleaned from the late harvest.

It may also be likened to the Solar Ray which, like a divine hand, reaches down into the human soil, infusing into it new potentiality and a more refined spiritual essence, shining upon it until it has transformed it into something luminous and immortal.

THE PSYCHIC UNFOLDMENT OF SYMBOLS. NO. 1.

The little poem reproduced on the first page of this issue, sings of the Bridegroom and the Heavenly Bread and has given me a text for my first article on Symbolism. Rarely ever do the singers know just what they are singing about—still more rarely does the preacher or the congregation.

This church, however, is an exception to the rule, since its members all "have ears to hear" and are wide awake to listen.

"BEHOLD, THE BRIDEGROOM COMETH!"

What is a bridegroom? The Indians have a very literal paraphrase of the term, which is also a very true definition. With them a bridegroom is a "squaw-man."

Groom is from Anglo-Saxon Guma, a man, and is allied to the Latin, homo. A groom in common parlance is one who has charge of something, as of horses—a servant in a somewhat menial capacity.

In the Icelandic, which is the language par excellence for primitive roots, we have for groom, gromr, equivalent to boy, giving to the word the added sense of youth.

Bride in Icelandic is brudhr ("brooder"), in Danish brud, in German braut (brauen, to brew).

In Greek also we find bruo, to grow (embryo), which gives the sense of germinal or atomic growth.

In studying symbolism, one must remember that there is between words a certain synonymic significance, which in strict etymological analysis would not be admitted.

In the attempt to make words reveal spiritual truths, this occult principle was made use of by all mythic writers, and is, in fact, the key by which symbolical truth may be made manifest.

Thus we are permitted to compare bride with bred and bread and also with brocd or even with bird and bright.

Through a bride, life is bred and becomes bread by being brooded or brewed, after which it rises as a bird to higher planes becoming very bright.

Groom is, throughout, the servant or attendant of this bride. To put the woman before the man seems like an inversion of our understanding of negative and positive forces.

But let us remember that at the "Sun Center" all is inverted from the way we view things externally. The feminine principle is actually

SUPREME, and the word is allright as it stands. A bridegroom is just what he is, viz, a "bride's groom."

FIRST VIEW: David says, "The heavens declare the glory of God. There is no speech or language where their voice is not heard. Their rule has gone out through the earth. In them hath he set a tabernacle for the sun, which is as a bridegroom coming out of his chamber and rejoiceth as a strong man to run a race."

Where are these heavens whose voice is never silent, which rule the earth? Where is the dwelling place of the sun which the psalmist compares to the chamber of a bridegroom?

This, it must be observed, is no ordinary bridegroom but an ideal type, who comes forth a strong man ready to run a race.

The heavens alluded to are in the center of the universe. Up is always towards the center; down, towards the circumference.

Man is the universe. The brain is the moon which shines by reflected light only. Come in from the region of the intellect which falsely says, "I shine," and try to find the true "sun-center," the source of all illumination.

This you can do by becoming this strong man. Rejoice to run the race! Paul says, "Run with patience the race—run that ye may obtain." Paul had already "finished the course" when he said that.

SECOND VIEW: Isaiah says, "I will greatly rejoice in the Lord, for he hath clothed me with the garments of salvation and hath covered me with the robe of righteousness as a bridegroom decketh himself with ornaments." [Marginal reading, "as a priest."]

This garment and robe here must refer to some particular body which is to be clothed.

This clothing saves the body just as the testa or integument of the seed if rightly (righteously) formed, saves and protects and passes over into new life the placenta or life germ within the seed.

With such a body the true bridegroom covers himself as a priest, that is, as one who waits on the tabernacle, the dwelling place of the Sun (Son) of God, the Sanctuary, the Altar, the Holy of Holies.

THIRD VIEW: Jesus said unto them, "Can the children of the bride chamber mourn as long as the bridegroom is with them? but the days will come when the bridegroom shall be taken from them and then they shall fast."

It would seem that a bridechamber would be about the last place to look for children, and yet Jesus speaks familiarly of them as living there, and the other strange implication is that the bridegroom is there feeding them since they must fast when he goes away. This text reveals our bridegroom in much the same light as he was shown etymologically, viz., as a waiter or feeder of children.

Jesus is known to have had an especial fondness for little children, for he said, "Suffer them to come unto me for of such is the kingdom of heaven." Whoso injured one of these little ones, "it were better that a millstone were hanged about his neck."

These little children are, indeed, the "heirs to the kingdom." Whoever finds the bridechamber, and discovers the bride and groom will not fail also to perceive these children.

FOURTH VIEW: "Then shall the kingdom of heaven be likened unto ten virgins which took their lamps and went forth to meet the bridegroom."

I will not quote the entire parable. It is found in Matthew, 25th chapter. Read it carefully, noting the following singular features in connection therewith:

1. That ten virgins should go to meet one bridegroom.
2. That a lamp filled with oil should be a necessary preparation.
3. That all these virgins slept while he tarried.
4. That he came at midnight unexpectedly.
5. That only the well filled and illuminated virgins were permitted to pass in.

This oil which produces light and becomes the passport to the feast is very significant.

It is the same kind of oil that Mary Magdalene brought to anoint the Savior. It is the same oil which "ran down upon Aaron's beard and went down to the skirts of his garment."

Apollonius discovered the nature of this oil and shows how it may be practically employed. He says: "Fire comforts every living creature, and if some priest, himself a pure man, purloin and use it, if he blend it with holy oil, consecrate it, and then anoint some aching limb with it, the malady will be cured."

All kings were thus anointed. The Catholics perpetuate the symbol in the Extreme Unction.

This "anointing" refers directly to a certain "baptism by fire" by which gold is purged of dross.

Observe in the parable just cited that the wise virgins only filled and trimmed their lamps ready for lighting. It is presumed that the bridegroom furnished the fire by which they were ignited, else why all this preparation.

FIFTH VIEW: After Jesus' first miracle, the changing of water to wine at the marriage in Cana, "the governor of the feast called the bridegroom and said unto him, 'Every man at the beginning doth set forth good wine; and when men have well drunk, then that which is worse: but thou hast kept the good wine until now.'"

What does this mean? It means that this particular bridegroom at this feast held the secret of eternal life. That it was concealed in wine which by alchemical processes was converted out of water. All men have such wine and set it out at the beginning, but they become drunken and then—bring out the bad wine, that fatal fluid which is physical death.

The moral is: Keep the wine good to the very last moment of the feast.

There is no mistaking the actual meaning of this symbol especially if we locate the "land of Cana."

Cana is Cain, Cainan, Caanan, all signifying "Low land." [Compare English "cane," "can," to will; German kennen, to know and König, King—that which is low in position is often high in power.]

SIXTH VIEW: John says, "He that hath the bride is the bridegroom; but the friend of the bridegroom which standeth and heareth him rejoiceth greatly because of the bridegroom's voice: This my joy, therefore, is fulfilled."

John, it must be remembered, was the beloved disciple who leaned upon Christ's bosom.

He it is that announces the coming of the bridegroom. He baptizes with water, but his follower baptizes with the Holy Ghost and with Fire. John is a water gate or passage. In Hebrew the name is Yohanna allied to Sanscrit Yoni, and to Greek On. In the passage in Revelations (which is literally translated in the head text under ADIRAMLED), the word He is ON, "the mighty one."

Yet "the least in the kingdom is greater than he" because John is a physical embodiment outside of "the kingdom." All must pass through his baptism into the kingdom, but he at last decreases, is thrown into prison and beheaded. Do not forget, however, if you can receive it, that he rises again and again as Elias, the prophet. He always is, always was and always will be "the voice of ONE crying in the wilderness: Make straight the way of THE LORD (the bridegroom)."

Much light is thrown on this subject by reviewing the various bride texts throughout the bible, which space prevents me from doing at the present time.

In this connection it is well to think of the "living bread" which my friend Aaron refers to by some poetic instinct, though it is not mentioned in the bible in connection with "bridegroom."

The Catholics have a belief that the wafer or bread which the priest eats becomes transformed by some mysterious process into the actual body of Christ. This dogma is based upon the statement of Jesus himself, who said: "Take eat, this is my body, which is broken for you."

Now I assert as a positive fact that the bread referred to by Jesus was an actual substance, a part of the actual body of Christ, which was actually passed over to his disciples by whom it was transubstantiated into New and Immortal Flesh.

The Catholics preserve the symbol but without the slightest knowledge of its meaning.

This is the "living bread which came down from heaven," and is the contribution of the bridegroom at every marriage feast. The reason it is not living bread is because men do not understand how to make it or to "gather it."

Moses said unto the children of Israel, "This is the bread which the Lord hath given you to eat. This is the thing which the Lord hath commanded, 'Gather of it every man according to his eating * * * Let no man leave of it till the morning.' Notwithstanding, they hearkened not unto Moses; but some of them left of it until the morning and it bred worms and stank: And Moses was wroth with them."

And well he might be. But this is precisely what people are doing today. This is the great transgression—the eating of leavened bread.

It may seem to my readers quite a digression to go from bridegroom to bread, but it is not, for the two are intimately connected.

The bridegroom is he who feeds "bread" to the starving children. The bride is she who gives birth to these children, and nurses, clothes, and cares for them until they reach a mature development.

Thus the "bread" becomes bred. The "bridegroom" (Brautigam) is the brewer and the "bride" (Braut) is the brew. All life is one vast brooding or brewing. So Brahma broods upon the Universal Ovum. So also the Spirit of God broods upon the face of the primal waters: SPIRIT—FATHER—MOTHER, I AM.

TONE---VIBRATION.

In order to realize the greatest benefit possible from the study of breathing, it is necessary to use the breath as a means of tone support.

Tone is but the manifestation or expression of breath primarily thrown into vibration at the vocal chords and then focalized and reinforced in the cavities of the mouth and pharynx.

The nature of this reinforcement is very little understood, but it is due to the vortical whirl of the air column which is confined by the automatic action of certain organs beyond the true vocal bands, and set into a cyclonic movement by pressure from the diaphragm.

The accomplishment of this feat lies in a balance or equilibrium of the active and passive forces, and requires both Concentration and Relaxation.

These efforts must first be studied separately before they can be correctly combined.

Concentration is holding together, or centering the energies.

The point of concentration must first be decided upon, and then the thought held to that particular point. Tone furnishes the only aural test of correctly controlled breath, and even, regular vibration.

Vibrations, when properly collected and reflected produce tone, while irregular vibrations produce noise. To bring about this correct result, the breath used in voice production, must be supported and controlled by the diaphragm. A tone not thus supported, is dead, lacking in all power of expression. Only when the diaphragm is under control and all action centered there, is it possible to gain reinforcement by elastic, buoyant, volitional vibration.

No study is equal to this for acquiring that desired condition of "going in the Silence," as it is a continual study of concentration and introspection. Everything here is on the mental plane. The product of the effort—voice—may be termed a spiritual emanation, for it is but the expression of immaterial thought.

Here it is that the Mental Scientist may soonest learn the art of learning: To desire, to will, to think the thought, to pronounce the word, thus bringing desire into objective manifestation—creating an image of which the senses take cognizance.

Everyone is more or less out of harmony. It is the duty of Mental Science to bring all into harmony. A fact not generally known is, that each person has a key tone, a fundamental with which he or she vibrates naturally and symthetically. This individual key tone is usually the monotone of the ordinary speaking voice. It is exactly the center of the natural vocal range. It is the Mese, or middle tone, of the Greeks which modern musicians recognize as the Dominant or ruling tone. Around this central tone all others play.

Through the scientific application of musical thought to rational practice, this tone will be gradually raised in pitch, corresponding to the elevation in essential life character. It is, after all, the character that determines the tone and becomes an index to the status of life. The pitch will represent the plane and the quality the refinement or control on that plane.

Through a course of continual searching within for that which may be externalized in forms of beauty and harmony, the life grows into conformity with the ideal type of its daily contemplation, and as a result a complete transformation takes place in the individual life expression.

PRACTICE LESSON III.

In the giving of new exercises, it is not intended that the student should neglect the old ones. No matter what else you are going to practice, the breathing exercises, or at least some of them, should be practiced every day before attempting any thing else. In going back to old exercises, keep lengthening the time of each, as strength increases, striving for a greater and more relaxed control.

All who desire to sing can extend the vocal exercises to the full compass of the singing voice, which will be about two octaves. Others need only use the range of the ordinary speaking voice, which is about one octave, four notes above and about the same below the natural monotone of the voice.

Ex 1. RESPIRATORY. First position. Inhale in a long flexible sweep of the lungs, which is the true normal movement. Do not take the breath, but let the breath take you. Stop a moment, pucker the lips as if to whistle and then very slowly and quietly blow the breath out through the smallest possible opening between the lips, counting 25 during this exhalation. Hold the breath back easily. Repeat 6 times.

Ex 2. VIBRATORY. Inhale as above. Close the teeth and now, instead of the hissing sound, add tone by letting the breath escape through the teeth in a prolonged zz - - - keeping the buzzing sound vibrating continually against the teeth. Count from 10 to 15 on this escaping breath tone, and repeat on every tone of the voice as high and as low as you can go with perfect ease. Keep the tone very soft and even.

Ex 3. RHYTHMICAL. Stand erect. Step right foot forward as far as possible, and throw all the weight on this forward foot, balancing the body by lightly touching the floor with the toe of the backward extended left foot. You will notice that this throws the body well forward from the hips. Now extend both arms straight out in front, palms upward, just as far as you can. When you have assumed the correct position you will feel all stretched out from the hips and shoulders. Keep your position steadily, round the mouth as if to whistle and then inhale in four little puffs whispering "oo" on each one. Imagine here that you are drinking in four whispered or silent "oos" which you are then going to throw out in tone in the same manner. After inhaling the four "oos" stop a moment, and then throw them out in four explosive "oo" tones. Thus, Inhale silently oo-oo-oo-oo, and sing out as hoo-hoo-hoo-hoo. Repeat on every tone of the voice.

Ex 4. FLEXIBILITY. The exercise in our last was for the knee, this one is for the hip. To know the part of the body most affected by an exercise, helps us in locating the central point of sensation.

Stand erect, hands on hips, weight on left foot with heel of right foot pointing toward instep of left. Throw the right foot out directly sidewise, vigorously, and as far as possible, pointing the toe to the right and toward the floor; that is, when the limb is extended the toe should not be sticking up, but pointing down in a line with the limb. Keep both limbs perfectly straight, swinging the limb from the hip. Then bring the foot back into position. Now take this exercise on 8 counts, one on each outward movement and one as the foot returns to position. This will make four complete movements. Then reverse to other foot. After taking each side separately, go through the 8 counts, swinging each foot alternately.

Nothing fills one with such great happiness as genuine recognition. Following is an extract from a letter enclosing a dollar for subscription. It is needless to say that the letter is of far more real value than the dollar.

"A copy of Adiramled came into my hands through a friend. I have been reading along progressive lines during the past year, and nothing can compare with the perfect setting forth of Eternal Truth as I find it in Adiramled for January."

Science is at last coming in on the home stretch. Within the past month a dead (?) man was restored to life by common salt, and a blind man made to see by the X-Ray. More remarkable things, still, are about to occur. Watch!

I am addressed as Dear Sir and also Dear Madam and one lady begins thus, "Dear—I don't know how to address you."

Let me give you a hint. Stop at the Dear. That is sweet and sufficient. All the additions possible can add nothing.

I rather object to "Sir," because it is both abrupt and ambiguous. King Henry knighted the beef-steak and since then it has been Sir Loin, which really adds nothing to the quality of the beef steak. "Madam" makes the shivers run down my back, to quote the expressive phrase of Elizabeth Towne. Still, I am not like Elizabeth in wanting to dispense with terms of affection and endearment in my correspondence. This world is none too loving. Love, to keep unfolding, needs constant cultivation.

I AM, ADIRAMLED.

I take pleasure in introducing to my readers Emma Gardner, of Eaton, Ohio, who was a student in Mrs. Wilman's first class, and who has a reputation as an excellent healer. She is success, and she is HEALTH.

Francis Edgar Mason sends me his paper, "DOMINION," published bi-monthly at one dollar per year, No. 424 Greene avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. "Dominion" is an evolution of "The Healer," which has long been known and recognized as a leading science journal.

By the way Dominion endeavored to give me a nice complimentary little notice, which is appreciated. It reads: "Adiramled," (whatever this may mean), is another new light which has just risen on the horizon of astrological thought. It is an 8pp periodical 'issued every new moon.' Subscription price not given. Address, etc."—The italics are mine. How was it possible, brother Mason, in the light of my "moon" that you did not see $1.00 per year? Adiramled is by no means an "astrological" exponent. Astrology, like Mathematics and Greek, is a part of our stock in trade, but there is something vastly higher than all these and Adiramled is the Annunciator of this truth. It is, How to find the NEW NAME and discover the Secret of IMMORTALITY.

An article on the meaning of ADIRAMLED, crowded out this month, will appear next.

I have given the past month a large number of Onomastic Character Readings, and everyone is delighted with them. Many do not understand the nature and scope of this reading. It is not by any means "fortune telling" but rather, FORTUNE MAKING.

Through one's name, I come into conjunction with the personality, showing not only what "the stars" reveal, but through the Silent Spoken Word, assist one to Dominate the Stars and become Master of Destiny.

In my reading I employ a combination of sciences, linguistic, astrologic, occult and psychometric, so that such reading virtually becomes a New Art.

Send your full name with date of birth, and ask me any questions you wish. Enclose One Dollar for full reading.—Adiramled.

My friend, the well known astrologer, Frank T. Allen, No. 23 St. Marks street, Brooklyn, N. Y., is preparing to issue a new monthly periodical devoted to "Mental Science from the standpoint of an Astrologer."

There is no doubt that this will be a genuine contribution to New Thought literature as Frank has not only a deep insight into the subjects he writes upon, but also a lucid manner of expressing what he knows. This journal is only 50 cents per year, and those who send him $1.00 AT ONCE, will receive the journal and a written character delineation from the horoscope of any one whose birth date is sent. See notice of Mr. Allen's book in another column.

"Morning Songs" is the name of Aaron Belford Thompson's book of poems, price 65 cents postpaid: Address the author, Rossmoyne, O.

Aaron is one of my sweethearts, who, like Solomon's beloved, is "black but comely." He is a warm hearted lover and sings with a rare native genius.

Moreover, he is an Individual of the right stamp who is demonstrating each step as he goes.

He writes his own poems, prints and binds the books, and then sells them through personal solicitation. Thus Aaron is the WHOLE THING and is destined to lead his race.

I have had a vision of actually walking upon the waters, and with it was also revealed the principle by which it may be accomplished. As it is, with my present understanding, perfectly scientific and possible, and as I have already made what I consider a far more wonderful demonstration, I have no reason to believe but that this and other signs will follow.

A great many are asking me if I am going to discuss the Sex-Question. Most emphatically I am. Next month I shall have something to say about Regeneration.

The world is ready for a new step. Mental Science has paved the way for Soular Science. Mental means the Moon; Soular refers to the Sun. The Moon is the tabernacle of the Sun just as the Mind is the home of the Soul.

The mind is feminine in which the soul exists as the central positive animating principle.

The Mind is intellect and prepares the unfoldment of the soul or intuition. Do you now understand what we mean by "getting into the sun-center?" It is the Soular Center, the actual dwelling place of I AM THAT I AM.

ADIRAMLED is not half big enough to print all the good letters we are receiving from people, and what we would like to say in reply. If you all come into our Conjunctive Center and work with us, we will soon have to enlarge the paper.

Owing to the New Postal law, our sample copies are restricted to the number of our actual subscription, which naturally, as yet, does not run into the thousands, though it is increasing very rapidly.

In order to send out more papers to more new people and save our heavy expense of postage, we will make this offer for February: Single subscriptions, $1.00; two, $1.50; three, $1.75; four, $2.00. See if you cannot roll in a lot of subscriptions.

I have just received from the author, Miss Loraine Follett, a copy of her new book, "Realization." Price 50c: Published by The Order of the White Rose, Syracuse, N.Y. The subject is treated in a masterful manner and will appeal to all thinkers along the line of higher metaphysical research.

DAWN of DEATH

OR THE GOLDEN AGE OF IMMORTALITY.

I trust my subscribers have not all died, waiting for my Death to Dawn.

The fact is Saturn got in conjunction with my printer's Moon so as to seriously delay his work.

But I have, at last, untangled matters and got things to running smoothly above and below.

"Dawn of Death" is ready, and I am proud of the book. It is a practical unfoldment of the Real Resurrection, being a demonstration of the Actual Redemptive Process through an understanding of Sexual Alchemy. "He that hath ears to hear, let him hear."

The book is sent postpaid for 50 cents, and until the first edition is exhausted, it will be given as a premium to all subscribers of ADIRAMLED at the regular price, $1.00 per year. Address,

The JOURNAL of MAGNETISM: $1.00 per year. Edited by Lloyd Jones and published by the Magnetic Publishing Co., 156 Washington street, Chicago, Ill.

This is a new, 20th century magazine, devoted to physical culture and mental science along advanced and sensible lines. Here is a good thought in the editorial for January.

"Experience has taught the editor that the world has enough reformers now. The world is all right; there are myriads of good things in it that we have never heard of.

—The greatest gift in the world; something richer than wealth, something more potent than power—HEALTH."
