In the spirit-world, apart from material states, there is employed a language universal and easily understood, somewhat similar to that spoken by the English tongue, yet more perfect in construction, free from idioms, and cannot be mistaken, for each term is applied significantly to one meaning or object.

In higher worlds there is no need for external speech whatever, for the thought flows from mind to mind, and is understood by the vibrations which accompany it; therefore one is not obliged to familiarize himself with the tongues of different nations. And yet, we have opportunities, schools and classes, in spirit-life, where one may study the roots of our various languages, if he will, so that he can, in a little while, if his mind is earnestly bent upon his pursuit, come into a knowledge of the various languages of earth, so as to understand them and their flow of thought.

Q.—Are certain conditions required for the development of mediumship in all persons, or do they vary as the temperament, mental faculties and physical organization of individuals vary?

A.—As the development of a flower requires certain conditions of soil and atmosphere, so does the development of that power called mediumship, in human life, require certain conditions in its surroundings. The rule will not, in every particular, apply to every case, yet there are general directions which may be safely followed by all, in seeking the unfoldment of mediumship.

It is well, always, in trying to become thus developed, to seek the ministration and the assistance of good spirits, at stated intervals of time, amid pleasant surroundings, and with a peaceful mind. It is well for one to cultivate a passive condition, so that he may be easily acted upon by those external intelligences who may seek his side, but it may not be wise for one to cultivate passivity to such a degree as will render him completely negative at all times, in his daily life, for to do this he would make of himself a mere machine, to be continually acted upon by others.

One must study himself and his temperament closely, to understand how best to proceed in seeking the development of medium powers. If he is of a very positive nature, self-willed and self-assertive, then must he seek to bend his will to the desire, or to an extent to the desire of those influences who approach, whom he has reason to know are pure and good, and who have no wish to direct or control him for any but wise purposes. He must listen to others, be ready to give up self, in some respects, and not assert his own positive will-power as he has done in the past.

If one is very negative, so much so that the word or the presence of another will influence him to do that which his own judgment would tell him he should not do, then should he do his best to call up from within a more self-assertive force which will counteract this external influence, for this will be of benefit to himself and the good spirits who desire to approach him.

It is well for each one to determine upon a course of procedure, sitting quietly, either alone or with two or three congenial, sincere friends, several times a week, but we should say not more than three, in a dimly-lighted apartment, one well ventilated, and ask mentally the coöperation and presence of good spirits. Be patient but persevering, ready to receive whatever the unseen have to give, and to weigh it in your best judgment. After all this, Mr. Chairman, each particular case may require especial provisions and rules of guidance, and we would have to come in contact with the individual, in order to understand the temperament, habits of life, and other circumstances connected with himself, before we could venture to give such special rules as might serve in the better development of those medial powers which are his.

Q.—In transfiguration is it possible for the spirit-operator to increase and diminish the height of the medium?

A.—Yes, it is possible under very favorable conditions. The laws of mediumship, in every aspect, are very subtle and delicate, resting as fairly and as largely upon the mental atmosphere as they do upon physical conditions; and one should be certain that he has complied with the conditions of these laws when he attempts to express those mediumistic powers which he believes have unfolded within him.

This question of transfiguration, Mr. Chairman, is a very important one, and should be studied closely by students and investigators of occult law or of spiritual phenomena, who really desire to know the truth and to profit by its manifestation.

A medium who possesses the power of passing into the trance state, under the influence of unseen intelligences, we will say, becomes a passive instrument in their hands, having such confidence in their wisdom and guidance as to yield her own will and her own thought to them, and they may subdue them to their higher and more potent will, and make use of her organism as an instrumentality of expressing spiritual instruction to mortal life. Such a medium will, in time, come into the presence and under the influence of a band of spirits; they will surround her with their atmosphere, and she will grow into harmony with them more and more as the months or years roll by.

Perhaps that medium is what is called a personating medium, that is, each individual spirit that takes possession of her brain and organism so infiltrates her being with magnetism as for a time to sway her form and her brain by his thought and his magnetic power. Very well: the spirit begins to express his own characteristics and individuality through his subject, her individuality and characteristics for the time being subjected to this stronger force. The medium begins to appear somewhat as did the spirit when he walked on earth, her features are in a measure transposed or transformed to bear a resemblance to his; and one gazing upon her will begin to mark a likeness, and identify the friend whom he formerly knew.

This is a simple case of transfiguration. The power may be so developed or increased as to make this transfiguration a grand manifestation of spiritual power. As the medium develops, and becomes more closely under the influence of the unseen intelligences, it will be discovered that from time to time not only her features are transformed, but perhaps the very aspect of her form and stature may be changed to an extent. The spirit band operating upon her may be scientifically inclined, or seeking to investigate the laws of nature, and to apply them to their work, in connection with mortals, they may gather up certain elements from the atmosphere, and from the sitters who are present, and collecting them, use their medium as a reservoir through which to pour these elements and particles; for some special purpose they are gathered around the mediumistic form, and you find increase in weight or height, accordingly as they are used by the spirit operators. And yet this may be a direct case of transfiguration, the body of the medium being utilized for building upon by the spirits who are present, her features being used as a means of transformation in expressing to you the lineaments and the likeness of some friendly face you have known in the past.

We believe, Mr. Chairman, that this subject will be more fully discussed and more fully understood during the next ten years than it has been during the last score of years, because we see the tendency of the age is to inquiry, and we also perceive that there are hosts of spirits returning from the other life who are really anxious to present the truth upon all matters with which they are familiar to earth's people. These spirits are even now gaining power to take possession of such instrumentalities in mortal life as are competent and available for mediumistic labors, and such spirits as are in contact with earth for only selfish purposes, who surround their mediums for their own uses, ignoring the fact that they are confounding the people of earth by their strange claims and their inconsistencies, will be swept aside, but the higher classes will perform their work, explaining the laws of nature as they are related to human mediumship, in such ways as man must understand.

It is a fact, and we should not be slow to face this great truth; so much that is uncertain is now appearing in the name of mediumship and of Spiritualism, that even the most honest investigator sometimes fears to press forward, because he knows not what he may meet on this plane of inquiry; but we repeat: Spiritualism had never more power than it possesses at this moment, and the truth shall be made free; it will sweep on from shore to shore; that which is of error, that which belongs to the earth, earthy, which arises from a state of selfishness in the human heart, must be swept aside and ignorance upon these subjects must flee away. We know there is a grand truth in materialization, and that the law of transfiguration will shine forth more clearly by-and-bye. We know these grand subjects have been clouded over by false assumptions and pretensions in various quarters. We assert, friends, and we dare to have our word go forth to the world, that the day is not far distant when the false must be swept aside, and that which is true and abiding will reveal itself to human acceptance.

Q.—Are those who have possessed superior mediumistic qualities in this life, upon their entrance into the spirit-world better able to make known their presence and to communicate their thoughts to friends on earth than those not thus gifted?

A.—One would hardly suppose so, for we have many instances where friends who have possessed grand medial powers which have been utilized by the spirit-world in convincing humanity of immortal truth, have passed on from the body, and have refrained from making frequent communications with earth. Many of your mediums and pioneers in the work of Spiritualism have gone to higher planes of labor and of thought, and it is seldom that you receive a direct communication which bears internal evidence of its origin from these mediums. We know that we are speaking fairly in making this assertion, and yet it by no means follows that those spirits who did mediumistic work on earth, and have gone forward, do not come in contact with you and your labors, nor does it follow that they refrain from exercising their best influence upon the works of the age. They may, if they retain an interest in their earthly labors, and in the pursuits of their friends on earth, find means and avenues of communicating with you, but they are subjected to the same laws that all spirits are subjected to; they cannot communicate without ways and means for so doing; they must have conditions, even as you must have in communicating with your friends across the deep waters in a foreign country.

For instance, your friend crosses to Europe, and although you might call him with your human voice from year to year, he could not hear or learn of it, unless you employed those avenues of communication which the progression of the age affords to humanity. Knowing this, you seek the aid of the cable, of the telegraphic system, or the postal service, and thus reach your friend with such news as you have to impart. So with your spirit-friend; he passes to the great beyond, and he may call to you constantly, day after day, and year after year, and it is possible you will not hear or respond, because those provisions have not been employed which have been made for communion between his world and yours. But does he seek out a sensitive instrument that may afford such means of communication, and does he experiment faithfully and long, until he has mastered the secrets and come into a knowledge of this great system, then may he perhaps send out his thought to you, in intelligent ways, which you may receive and understand. Now, if you, through such a medium, have understood something of the laws of spirit-communication, he would know more readily how to proceed, in finding an avenue through which to make himself known to you.

Were your friend who crossed the ocean to Europe one familiar with the telegraphic system, he might understand how to seek the office where these dispatches are sent forth to the world, and having sought, he would understand by the workings of the instrument whether or no it was conveying correctly his thought and his news to you. So with the spirit who was mediumistic: he would know by the operations of his instrument whether it was clearly revealing to you his idea and his message, but another spirit, not thus familiar with the modes and lines of communication, might have to depend upon the instrument to transmit his thought as best it could be done, not knowing whether it was correctly rendered or not. That is the difference.

It depends altogether upon the amount of sympathy, the grandeur of soul love, the tenderness which arises within the heart of your spirit-friend for you, or for others, whether he shall be drawn closely into your atmosphere, reaching your lives, giving you his best impulses and influence, even though he might not clearly express his thought. If these are strong within him, he will find opportunity and power to come, whether he was mediumistic or not; if these are not strong enough, and the tendencies of his mind are to reach out to other things, or to explore other localities, being content to wait for future unfoldments and reunions, for coming into contact and intelligent communication with you, then might he not seek to return, nor be strongly attracted to your side, even though he had been a medium ten times over during his sojourn on the earth.

Q.—What becomes of the spirit of the medium while he is in a trance? Would it be possible for the spirit of the medium to visit foreign localities, like Europe, and when it returns to the body to describe accurately places and things which it had never seen while in the body?

A.—The spirit of one medium, who seems to be in the trance state, and is so to all intents and purposes, may not pass out from direct contact with his physical body for a moment; he may be so closely allied to the external as to remain in association with it even while his organism and brain are used by a foreign spirit for the purpose of manifestation. The spirit of such a medium might remain in a fully conscious state, realizing what is being said through his organism, and knowing something of what is taking place in his surroundings, and yet be unable to check the flow of language that proceeds through his lips, or to even realize what is to be the next sentence following one which has just been spoken. The spirit of such a medium is fully alive and alert to all that is passing, while at the same time unable to in any way interfere with the work of the operating spirits.

Another medium, also in the trance state, yielding his organism to the use of returning spirits, may pass into a magnetic slumber, through which he is very dimly conscious, perhaps, of what is taking place around him, but having no interest in it, and realizing nothing of its purport after he has returned to his normal condition. Such a medium is overshadowed by the spirit intelligence, his mind and thought subjected to that of the operating spirit, and he is quietly recuperating his forces in the magnetic state, which is one of pleasantness and peace.

Yet another trance medium, while in this superior condition, so called, may be utterly unconscious of what is taking place around him; his spirit may pass out from contact with the mortal organism, holding connection with it only by a slender cord of magnetic force, which cord is never completely severed until the spirit yields up the control of its body and takes up its abode in the other world; but at such a moment, when the organism of the unconscious trance medium is used by the manifesting spirits, the spirit of the subject may pass out into other localities, even visiting foreign lands, and coming in contact there with strange people and passing events, and if it meets any person sufficiently adapted to its use, and negative to its influence, then may it attach itself to that individual, and see clearly the surrounding objects, and even communicate, perhaps, with mortals in that far-off land. This has been done, and it may be accomplished at any time when such a medium is brought under the influence of excarnated spirits. On returning to the physical body, if the spirit has not been affected in his passage by adverse magnetisms and dense atmospheres, he will retain a memory of what has passed before him during his absence, and on awakening to his external surroundings he may relate what he has seen, felt and experienced while his body was used by the foreign intelligence.

Controlling Spirit,

For the following spirits:

Now, Mr. Chairman, we wish to speak a very few words concerning what we have witnessed in our midst this afternoon.

Ella Stapleton.

A young lady is present who desires to reach her mortal friends at a distance, in the State of Michigan. Some of them are turning their thoughts toward Spiritualism, hardly daring to investigate its claims, yet hoping they are true, and wishing to know something of the subject. This spirit possessed a delicate form on earth, and we should judge passed away in consequence of extremely debilitated conditions; you could hardly call it any special form of disease, but rather a wasting away of the vital forces. She gives the name of Ella Stapleton. She has been trying to manifest through a Detroit medium, because she has thought in such a way she could personally reach her friends. She will attempt again to do this, and hopes that some friend will give her an opportunity of coming to him or her directly.

Caroline, or Callie.

A beautiful spirit is present, whose full name we do not get; her Christian name is Caroline, although on earth she was known by her most intimate friends as Callie. This spirit is slight in form, with chestnut hair, and eyes of a blue gray. She does not approach as close as we would wish, but we see there is anxiety in her features, as though something was calling her back to earth. We should judge that her friends are in affliction, and she desires to comfort them, to bring consolation and words of cheer from the spirit-world, and we trust opportunities will be afforded her to reach their lives. We should judge the spirit belonged here, and that her friends also reside in this locality.

Henry, to George.

Now we see a man, scarcely of middle age, tall, with a dark brown beard. He stands rather in the rear of the hall, and points before him diagonally. He is attracted here by a friend whom he calls George: "I have wished to bring you a word from the other side, time and again, but just as I thought I could enter the door was closed and I had to step back. I have been to two different places, trying to send a word home to friends and tell them I am all right; and I want each one to try and think of me as still alive." The spirit wishes to talk, if he can, upon personal matters that seem also to be connected with some gentleman present who has anxiety in his mind—or has had — concerning material affairs, some business arrangements which have not gone as well as might be desired. The spirit has, we should judge, the power to exercise a degree of influence over his friend, although he cannot speak to the consciousness of that friend; and if the mortal would follow the impressions which have moved him most deeply in regard to those material affairs, he will find the shadows becoming lighter and his prospects brightening for another year. We get the name of Henry from the spirit, and we hope what is said will be understood.

Sarah Howe.

An elderly lady looks up at us with a pleading face, as though she would not be denied. She is also attracted here by some one present. All the sympathy and affection of her heart goes out toward some dear ones, we should say children, who are not present, whom she desires most earnestly to reach. We do not think they realize that their mother can return to them in this way. She did not herself accept this truth before passing away, but now she desires her friends to know of and to receive it, to open their hearts to the presence of spirit-friends, who would not come to harm but only to bless. There are others with her in the unseen world who would also be known and remembered. In connection with this spirit we get the names of John and Samuel. We do not know how they may be related, but they come closely, and wish to reach their friends on earth. The spirit gives us the name of Sarah Howe.

We bid you good afternoon, friends, returning many thanks for the beautiful flowers.

SPIRIT MESSAGES,

THROUGH THE TRANCE MEDIUMSHIP OF

Mrs. B. F. Smith.

Report of Public Séance held March 23d, 1888.

Bela Nettleton.

Will you kindly say, Mr. Chairman, that my home was in Newport, N. H., and that my name is Bela Nettleton? My dear wife, Sarah, has lately joined me. How many weary years she walked earth-life, not alone, as she thought, for I stood close beside her; I asked the protection of the dear Father and the angels, that she might be able to realize my presence. Many times she has said: "Where are the dear ones that have crossed over? Why do they not come nearer, that I may be able to know they are here?" Now she understands, for she has crossed the boundary over which it is said by mortals no one ever returns to tell of the home beyond.

How very dark it must seem to those on earth who think their loved ones are so far away they do not return to earth; although I can look back and see that many times I felt their presence, yet never would listen to the thought for a moment that they could speak to me. To-day I am thankful to you, Mr. Chairman, and also to the spirit-control that stands by me, for allowing me a short space of time.

Celia Beals.

I am Celia Beals, and Portland, Me., was my home. I have so many times stood beside Thomas, trying, oh! so earnestly, to make him know I was not dead, and came so near I could place my hand upon his shoulder. I would like this letter to reach Thomas, for he feels that the dear ones are far away from him. Sarah is here, and mother and father, and the sweet little one that was transplanted into heaven.

Now, Thomas, do try and come en rapport with me through some channel where you feel I might come and talk to you. You must do your part; we can't work alone. But I promise you that if you will open the way here in this life we will commune with you.

In the stilly hours of the night I come easily into the room, and I know sometimes you think "Perhaps Celia is near; oh! why can I not see her?" Dear husband, it is because you look with mortal eyes, while we look with spirit-eyes. In heaven we shall be together, never to be separated, and we may go and come at the dictation of the spirit. Learn a little here; it will help you when you enter spirit-life.

Marion Haynes.

I am a little girl, but I'd like to say something. [The child coughs.] I'll feel better pretty soon. I had some trouble in my throat when I went away. My name is Marion Haynes. My papa preaches at the Temple. He don't say anything about my coming. I want him to know I am right beside him ever so many times, and when he goes up into the pulpit. And I want him to know the angels help him every time when he gives out to the people. I wish he would say we are not far away. I know he would feel better if he knew his little Marion was with him. I come many times, for grandma says I am always welcome in the Temple, as every one goes there who wishes to. Papa don't understand wholly when I come. I think sometimes he must really think I am close beside him, when he is writing out what he is going to say.

I don't have to write this down, do I? I can speak it.

I wish papa would try in some way to more clearly sense my presence. He knows full well the angels come to him, but he don't understand as much as I'd like him to know. He sometimes says in his own spirit: "Where, oh! where have they laid my darling?" When the snows come and the rains beat he feels so touched in his soul he exclaims: "In heaven I hope my darling lives." There he will again see me. Yes, papa, for we will all be together, and mamma, grandma, grandfather, and all of us come to help you.

Papa, I know you often look and wonder if I am ever in the Temple. Yes, I go every time, but I don't always stay till the meeting is done; I flit away into other surroundings. We can go and come just as we wish to. And the flowers, oh! papa, are beautiful in spirit. Mamma, I know the flowers were sweet and lovely, but in heaven we bring the beautiful white flowers, for they are emblems of the purity of heaven.

Papa, remember I am growing in spirit, and I shall come often, for though they said I was dead, I knew all that was transpiring around. I am happy, and many sweet little girls come, smaller than I am, and reach up toward the desk, trying to say a word to some dear one here. Grandma says the Saviour said, when upon earth, "Suffer little children to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven;" therefore we all feel we want to come and speak to the loving ones here, for grandma says "we were all children once." Papa's name is Emery J. Haynes, and he preaches at the Tremont Temple, in Boston.

Reuben Nutter.

You may place me as Reuben Nutter, of Millbridge, Me. I am glad I am able at last to make my voice heard. I have been into this council-room, I'll venture to promise you, more than a score of times, but have always failed before to day to speak, having found the door closed before I could enter. Mother, listen, for Reuben comes to your home often. The water was my home a part of the time while in the mortal. I find it makes very little difference whether we follow the sea or dwell upon the land, as we all cross the boundary that is termed death. I do think that word should be blotted out, and life placed in its stead, for I never was more alive than I am to-day. It is many years since I passed out of the mortal.

John is here, and so is Albion. Dear sister, how much you have mourned him, but in heaven you will clasp hands again, never to be separated. This life is but a shadow; we only commence to live as we throw off the mortal and put on the immortal. Grandfather often speaks of mother. Dear mother, try and come into communication with us when you have the privilege. Father has often said that mother does not have the privileges that some mortals do.

We are happy together. I speak for more than myself to-day, and all are anxious to send greetings to the loved ones. Open the door to your spirit friends, and let us come in and commune with you. But little do you understand, while dwelling in the mortal, how near we are to you. Not a day, not an hour passes, but some loving, gentle hand is laid upon you.

Here, as I look yonder, in the aisle, are children going back and forth, anxious to find some one to claim them.

William Briggs.

I am William Briggs, of Stoughton, Mass. I've been trying for a long time, as you count it here, to make my voice heard. I thought, while dwelling in the flesh, that I understood a great deal of spirit-return; but after throwing off the old mortal, I found I understood very little. We have one thing to console us: what we have not learned here we may learn there.

Let me say to each one before me: these privileges you enjoy to-day, you know not how to prize them. It is but a step from you to us, only the veil that secludes us from your sight. Never yet have I met one spirit in the beautiful Summer Land that will say he wishes to return to earth to stay; but we do love to come into communication with the loved ones, for the sociability of the spirit we never lose. Little children have oft been asked by the mothers if they would not like to come back and stay with mamma? "No," is the answer; "I'll stay with grandpa, or grandma, or auntie."

How little you mortals understand how much we try in every way to make you know or feel our presence. Every little tap, every little sound means something—as much as the click of the telegraph. Fifty or sixty years ago would you not have smiled at the thought of talking over wires? You would have said it was absurd. To-day every little sound means something. Oh! listen for it anxiously, and do not pass it by.

Sarah and William send greetings. Louisa, we are happy in our spirit homes. Think not for one moment that we do not have companions there, for we do, but we love to visit those yet left in the mortal form.

Benjamin Woodbury.

I think I will be all right in about three minutes. The cars had something to do with my going out. You may place me in Salem, N. H., Benjamin Woodbury. I think I am all right now. I don't know anything about your meetings here, but it is n't because I have n't been here many, many times, since I went out of the mortal form.

I want to say to Sarah, my wife, that it makes very little difference about creeds, sects, or isms; I find it is the life we live here that builds our home there. Now I will speak to the children, the daughters dear. Bennie is here beside me. Levi is here, also mother Emery. My children are scattered, some in one place and some in another, though I think a letter will reach each one if it is given a chance. Etta, we often come. Don't think father confines himself to one. I can go to Lynn, to Haverhill and Salem, and around in different places where I find they have made their homes. Susie, as your grandma always calls you, we feel that the Dr. is improving a little, for the time-being. He must be very careful, because there is not much vitality to build upon. Take care; these old forms have to be watched very closely. I have promised many times that as soon as power was given me I would send a letter to the loved ones.

The old towns-people won't forget Benjamin Woodbury's sudden going out. I have never looked back with one regret, for I am happy in my spirit-home. And Sarah, it won't be long before we will join hands again. Do n't trouble so much about your eyes, for the spirit-doctor tells me you have little cause for worriment. We won't quote your doctors. Minnie, take care; grandfather is often with you.

Mary Baker.

You may announce me, Mr. Chairman, as Mary Baker, of Nashua, N. H. Long have they been looking over your good paper to see if Mary's name was there. Oh! Charles, how many times has the desire gone out from my spirit that you might be able to know I was near you and the children. I fully realize the changes that have come into the home since you said that I was dead. No, no, dear children, mother lives in heaven, and with all the watchful care that none can hold over the child but a mother, I have been watching closely beside you. Nellie, remember that it is only a step from you to me. I know after mother went, some harsh feelings came up, and I asked the dear Father and the angels to make it all right. But you say there is never but one mother. Dear child, that is true; but be patient, and in God's good time you will come to join that mother in heaven where there will be no parting, no good-byes spoken. I well remember asking, before the spirit took its flight, that I might have sung the good old tune "When I can read my title clear," for it contains a great deal of meaning, but I find now, dear ones, it is the life you live here that helps to build the home yonder.

One joined us only in the last year, and there are but two left. The angel-usher will come but twice more. Dear brothers, how gladly would I speak to you both. One I can speak to, but the other—no; too much Methodism there! Brother Jesse, if it will avail anything, only do right here; be charitable and drop kind words wherever you can, for they cost nothing.

Dear brother Winslow, mother is here to-day, also John. But you will say: "Would it do to speak of him?" Before the angels we fear not man. Yes, brother John is here with me, although going out so suddenly and leaving you all so dark as it seemed for a few moments. But mother came with outstretched hands, saying: "Dear child, come up higher; we will take you to a beautiful bower, where you will find us all together." And in less time than it takes me to express it did he behold all our faces, and said: "Is it possible this is all true?" Yes; and more than we can tell you in the mortal.

Abbie Perkins.

I come from York, Me. My name is Abbie Perkins. I feel a little troubled when I come into earth, as I have so many times, and find myself unable to make my presence known. Only one have I been able to speak to, and that is Cousin Nellie. Oh! Nellie, never will you know, while you dwell in the mortal, how much happiness it has given me to speak to you for the space of from three to five minutes.

Mother is with me, father, and sends greetings to you, and to each one. And Hattie and Mintie, we know you would like to know if we found it different from what we expected. Yes, dear ones, more beautiful than we can express to you in words. William wants me to say that he is here, and will try to send a message as soon as he can, to Clara.

How glad we are when we find we have permission to speak in your meetings, for we feel it may be given out in the paper, and may go to our loved ones. When we have not the privilege of coming into communication with them personally, we look to this place as the next channel that may be opened to us. How anxious is each one of the upturned faces of mortals, watching and thinking some loved one will give a message. We see your spirits and can read it there.

I hope this may reach dear cousin, so that in time she will be able to understand that we must have come, and acknowledge it whenever there is a channel open.

☞ Mother's name is Olive, father's is Granville Perkins.

SPIRIT MESSAGES
TO BE PUBLISHED NEXT WEEK.

March 23 – Appleton Oakes; Dr. John Jennison; Mary Bowers; Lydia Batson; Hiram Gage; Erastus Bates; Mason J. Chapin.

THE MESSAGES GIVEN (THROUGH MRS. B. F. SMITH)
As per dates will appear in due course.

May 4.—Humphrey Titus; Catharine S. Wing; Marinda Ladd; Dr. James Howarth; Caleb Marvell; Sarah Sager; Jane Baldwin; Judge Calvin Morrill; Mary Eastman; James Paul; Samuel Willard; Corbin Gould; Sarah Churchill; Clarence Smith.

METEMPSYCHOSIS.

One instant, loved one, do not move! That pose—
What memory of long ages gone doth stir
And tremble near my consciousness! So close—
It yet eludes the grasp that would deter!
Surely, beloved, we have once before
Lived through this moment in some other state;
The spell is on me—stir not—more and more
I read the past—the veil is lifting—wait!

I see a forest dim—but thou wert there;
The young world, half chaotic, was just born,
And keen with the fresh life of that new air
I sought thee through the star enchanted morn.
I know not what our forms, nor whether form
Or animate life we had; I only know
I yearned unrestingly, and calm nor storm,
Nor strange scenes with unusual light aglow,

Nor yet the first rare bird-songs ever sung,
One moment stirred or stilled my thoughts from the;
Mayhap the veriest atom, thrilled and strung
To such sweet tenor, seeks affinity.
In what deep Aryan woodland, waiting long
My passionate summons, didst thou tarry, love?
And with what tender fibres were our strong
Exultant hopes forever interwove?

And then we seem for ages separate;
But once again I found you—yes—be sure;
I see the tropic fern, the fig, the date,
And in your twilight hair are corals pure;
We wandered hand in hand by Southern seas,
Happy and all unthoughtful of the day,
Content to love, content to watch the breeze
Make fragrant ripples on our white-reefed bay.

Ah! love, you stir; the spell is broke! But I—
What care I for our primal selves, when now
I have the great calm joy to sit near by
And rest my gaze upon your radiant brow!
If all that has been never were, just this—
To blend our souls in this dear present hour,
To hear you speak, to breathe my reverent kiss—
Were surely consummation's perfect flower.

—Charles Henry Phelps, in Lippincott's

In Memoriam.

The following was passed by the Ladies' Aid Society, of Boston, at a recent meeting:

Mrs. Byrnes and Family: We desire to express to you our heartfelt sympathies in your recent bereavement, when the Angel Messenger called the loved mother to "come up higher." We know how great this loss is to you and yours, but the tie that is thus severed is another golden link in the chain uniting you with the eternal world. The dear mother has laid life's burden down, and is safe at last in her Father's house, where many mansions are.

We also feel this loss deeply as a Society: We have parted in the mortal with a true friend, an honored member. May the angel guides that have ministered through you to so many in their hours of affliction be with you and soften all your sorrows; and may we all meet our loved ones again in that day that has no night, and the city that needs no light, for the angels are the light thereof.

MRS. E. A. BLINN,
MRS. A. WATERHOUSE, } Committee.
MRS. E. A. LINCOLN,

McQuillen—Do you believe that theosophy is a remedy for the mundane ills that clog the esoteric development of our inner selves? Miss Foote (Chicago)—I don't know. Mamma always uses goose grease.—Philadelphia Call.

Spiritualist Meetings.

ALBANY, N. Y.—First Spiritualist Society holds meetings each Sunday evening at Van Vechten Hall, 119 State street.—Ladies' Aid Society meets in its rooms adjoining the Hall each Friday afternoon and evening. D. M. S. Fero, President; J. D. Chism, Jr., Secretary.

CLEVELAND, O.—The Children's Progressive Lyceum No. 1 meets regularly every Sunday in G. A. R. Hall, 170 Superior street, commencing at 10½ A. M. Richard Carleton, Conductor; E. W. Gaylord, Secretary.

CINCINNATI, O.—The First New Spiritual Church of Cincinnati, Ohio, meets every Sunday at 10½ A.M. at Murch's Hall, No. 278 West 6th street, Dr. James A. Bliss, Pastor. The public are cordially invited. Seats free. Sunday School meets at 12 o'clock noon every Sunday. Spiritualists, come, and bring your children with you.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Society of United Spiritualists meets at Nos. 116 and 118 Fifth Avenue, every Sunday at 2½ P.M. A hearty welcome is extended to all visitors, but more especially to the mediums. F. B. Geoghegan, President, 17 Wisconsin street.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Chicago Association of Universal Radical Progressive Spiritualists' and Mediums' Society, organized on the 9th of May, A. D. 1884, meets in Spirits' Liberty Hall, No. 517 West Madison street, every Sunday, permanently, at 2½ and 7½ P.M. The public are cordially invited to attend. Admission 5 cents to each meeting. Dr. Norman McLeod, President.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Avenue Hall, 159 22d street. Children's Lyceum, Sunday, at 1½ P.M. Spiritualists' and Mediums' Meeting, 3 P.M. Sociables every Tuesday.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond discourses before the First Society of Spiritualists in Martine's (Ada street) Hall every Sunday morning and evening.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Young People's Progressive Society meets in Martine's Hall, corner Indiana Avenue and 22d street, every Sunday evening at 7½. Hon. Joel Tiffany conducts class lessons in the afternoon, at 3 o'clock. The best speakers and mediums are always engaged.

DENVER, COL.—Meetings are held Sunday evenings at Harmony Hall, Lawrence street, Mrs. F. A. Logan, conducting.

LANSING, MICH.—Spiritual Progressive Meetings are held each Sunday morning and evening at the Hall 106 Washington Avenue. Lecture, readings and tests by Mrs. Lunt Parker and Lily May. Also meetings every Wednesday evening. W. T. Parker, Chairman.

NEW HAVEN, CT.—Meetings are held each Sunday evening at Courier and Journal Building. Mrs. Ella Bacon, President; Thos. F. Davie, Secretary.

NEWARK, N. J.—Meetings will be held every Sunday evening at No. 139 Congress street, commencing at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Jennie A. Smith, Secretary.

NEWARK, N. J.—First Association of Spiritualists. 177 Halsey street, corner of Market, evenings at 7½ o'clock. H. G. Avery, President.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The First Association of Spiritualists, lectures every Sunday morning and evening. Children's Lyceum, 2 P. M., at the hall, 810 Spring Garden street. Joseph Wood President, B. P. Benner, Vice President and Secretary, 940 Warnock street. Second Association meets Sunday afternoon and evening, at its Church, Thompson street, east of Front. T. J. Ambrosia, President, 1223 North Third street. Keystone Association meets Sunday at 2:30 P. M., N. E. corner Ninth and Spring Garden street. Joseph Wood, Chairman. Fourth Association meets Sunday evening, Ninth and Callowhill streets.

PATERSON, N. J.—Meetings are held every Sunday afternoon and evening in Fidelity Hall, corner Market and Church streets, at 2½ and 7½ P.M. Lecturers and test mediums are requested to communicate with John A. Roney, Cor. Sec'y, 65 Holsman street.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.—The First Society of Spiritualists holds meetings every Sunday in the Court of Appeals Room, Town Hall, at 10½ A.M. and 7½ P.M. All are invited. W. B. Mills, President; E. J. Huling, Secretary.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—The Lincoln Society of Spiritualists holds meetings Wednesday and Sunday evenings at its Hall on 5th street.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—The First Association of Spiritualists meets at 2½ P.M. every Sunday in Brandt's Hall, southwest corner of Franklin Avenue and Ninth street. Friends of the cause invited to attend, and correspondence solicited from America and Europe. H. W. Fay, President, No. 313 Market street; Milton Lyle, Cor. Sec., 3906 Olive street.

Advertisements.

NERVES! NERVES!!
What terrible visions this little word brings before the eyes of the nervous.
Headache, Neuralgia, Indigestion, Sleeplessness, Nervous Prostration!
All stare them in the face. Yet all these nervous troubles can be cured by using

Paine's Celery Compound

For The Nervous, The Debilitated, The Aged.

THIS GREAT NERVE TONIC

Also contains the best remedies for diseased conditions of the Kidneys, Liver and Blood, which always accompany nerve troubles.

It is a Nerve Tonic, an Alterative, a Laxative, and a Diuretic. That is why it

CURES WHEN OTHERS FAIL.

$1.00 a Bottle. Send for full particulars.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO., Proprietors,
Je11 BURLINGTON, VT. 1y

MAGNETIC INSOLES

To the Spiritualists of the World!

YOU have been calling for more magnetic life for nearly forty years. The invention of Magnetic Shields places within your reach the most powerful Magnetic Batteries ever constructed, and exactly adapted to all the needs and wants of your physical and spiritual well-being. To magnetize and polarize the body is to intensify and increase all the intellectual and spiritual faculties. All mediums and sensitives should wear Magnetic Shields. The vitalizing and energizing power radiated from these Magnetic Reservoirs of Life will redouble the life potencies and quadruple the spiritualizing entities for every one who wears them. Dr. Thacher's Magnetic Shields excel and transcend all known healing powers and forces except that coming direct from the world of spirit. If the Spiritualists of the world will read our logic and consult with the Highest Intelligence, they will get assurance which will convince every intelligent investigator. All the knowledge which led up to the perfecting of these Shields came from the world of invisible spirit. We are warranted in saying Magnetism is all spirit and an immaterial substance. Spirit is the only substance in the true sense of the word. Spiritualists are too well informed to be misled on this subject. Why not send for our book and read what we have to say of genuine spiritual substance? If you want further proof that we state truth, send $1,00 for a pair of Insoles, or $2,00 for THREE PAIRS.

Please be sensible and investigate. Magnetism will infuse new life into broken-down physical bodies. Try it, and be convinced. Our book sent free.

CHICAGO MAGNETIC SHIELD COMPANY,
No. 6 Central Music Hall, Chicago, Ill.
Ap21 11w*

Dr. F. L. H. Willis
May be Addressed until further notice,
46 Vick Park, Ave. B, Rochester, N. Y.

DR. WILLIS may be addressed as above. From this point he can attend to the diagnosing of disease psychometrically. He claims that his powers in this line are unrivaled, combining, as he does, accurate scientific knowledge with keen and searching psychometric power.

Dr. Willis claims especial skill in treating all diseases of the blood and nervous system. Cancers, Scrofula in all its forms, Epilepsy, Paralysis, and all the most delicate and complicated diseases of both sexes.

Dr. Willis is permitted to refer to numerous parties who have been cured by his system of practice when all others had failed. All letters must contain a return postage stamp. Send for Circulars, with References and Terms.
Ap7 13w*

DR. J. R. NEWTON

STILL heals the sick! Spirit, Mind and Magnetic Cures at a distance through MRS. NEWTON. Send for testimonials to MRS. J. R. NEWTON, P. O. Station G., N. Y. City. 13w* Ap7

SOUL READING,
Or Psychometrical Delineation of Character.

MRS. A. B. SEVERANCE would respectfully announce to the public that those who wish, and will visit her in person, or send their autograph or lock of hair, she will give an accurate description of their leading traits of character and peculiarities of disposition; marked changes in past and future life; physical disease, with prescription therefor; what business they are best adapted to pursue in order to be successful; the physical and mental adaptation of those intending marriage; and hints to the inharmoniously married. Full delineation, $2,00, and four 2-cent stamps. Brief delineation, $1,00, and four 2-cent stamps.

Address, MRS. A. B. SEVERANCE,
Centre street, between Church and Prairie streets,
Ap7 6m* White Water, Walworth Co., Wis.

CUTTER HOUSE,
Wickett's Island.
Opens June 1st, 1888.

PARTIES desirous of spending the summer in a very healthy, quiet, spiritual place, with no inharmonious influences around them, should secure rooms at once. Mrs. M. E. Williams, the celebrated materializing medium, of New York, will spend the season at this place, and her guides will take an active part in coöperation with the Island band as Teachers for the higher unfoldment of physical and spiritual life. For terms and descriptive circular, enclose stamp. Address DR. ABBIE E. CUTTER, Onset, Mass. 13w* Mh31

Psychometric, Clairvoyant, AND Clairaudient Medium,

WILL diagnose and cure all diseases at any distance without the use of medicine. Diagnosis, $1,00; thirty entranced exercises, $10,00. Address GEORGE BANCROFT EMERSON, care N. MacLeod, 532 West Madison street, Chicago, Ill. 15w* Ap14

CORPULENCY

CURED. Vegetable Remedy (new discovery); safe and pleasant. Treatment by mail. DR. EDITH HALE, Specialist in Cancer and Chronic Diseases (home and foreign methods). Ample references. 377 Columbus Avenue, Boston. 4w* My12

MRS. R. T. CLANEY,

BUSINESS AND TEST MEDIUM, No. 411 Lookout street, Chattanooga, Tenn. 6m* 1Y24

ASTONISHING OFFER.

SEND three 2-cent stamps, lock of hair, age, sex, one leading symptom, and your disease will be diagnosed free by spirit power. DR. A. B. DOBSON, Maquoketa, Iowa. Ap14 13w*

BY DIRECTION of her guides, MRS. JENNIE CROSSE will remove to the country for a while, where she will continue to give Life-Readings for $1,00 and stamp, and answer six questions for 50 cents and stamp. Disease a specialty. Address West Garland, Me. My5 4w*

MRS. E. M. PERRY. Readings by locks of hair. Terms $1,00. Waterville, Mass., Box 49. 8w* Ap28

DR. RHODES' FAMILY MEDICINES.
Purely Vegetable
(ALL SUGAR-COATED)
Medical Confections.
A Universal Blessing.
SUITED TO OLD OR YOUNG!

A PERFECT Liver and Kidney Renovator and Blood Purifier. Cleanses the entire system from all Biliousness and Blood Poisons from Malaria, etc. And cures Headache, Backache, Side and Stomachache, Diarrhea, Dysentery, Pains in the Limbs, Lameness, Numbness, Constipation, Piles, Worms, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Nervousness, Weakness, Kidney and Bladder, and all other urinary ailments, etc. Also, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and in fact almost all the various ailments of humanity.

PRICES: Trial box, 25 cents—by mail, 30 cents; second size, 50 cents—by mail, 55 cents; 12 boxes second size, $5,00; large boxes, $1,00; 6 large boxes, $5,00.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

STELLAR SCIENCE.

I WILL give a test of it to any person who will send me the place and date of their birth (giving sex) and 25 cents, money or stamps.

I will write Biographical and Predictive Letters (from the above data). Also advice upon any matter, in answer to questions, in accordance with my understanding of the science, for a fee of $1; Consultation fee $1; at office, 206 Tremont street.

Nativities written at prices proportionate to the detail demanded. Address OLIVER AMES GOULD, Box 1664, Boston, Mass. July 19.

DIAGNOSIS FREE.

SEND two 2-ct. stamps, lock of hair, name in full, age and sex, and I will give you a CLAIRVOYANT DIAGNOSIS OF YOUR AILMENTS. Address J. C. BATDORF, M. D., Principal, Magnetic Institute, Grand Rapids, Mich. My5 1m*

Mediums in Boston.

JAMES R. COCKE,
Developing and Business Medium,
ALSO
Clairvoyant Physician,
1581 Washington Street, Boston.

Sittings daily from 9 A.M. till 5 P.M. Price, $1,00.

Unequalled Advantages.

DR. COCKE gives special inducements for Medical and Magnetic Treatment by the month.

Development of Mediumship a Specialty.

SIX PRIVATE SITTINGS FOR $4,00 IN ADVANCE.

CIRCLES.

Sunday, at 11 A.M., for Development and Tests. At 8 P.M., for Psychometry, Tests and Inspirational Music. Thursday evening, at 7:30, for Development. tf My12

MR. J. W. FLETCHER,
MEDICAL AND TRANCE MEDIUM,
6 Beacon Street,
BOSTON, MASS.

Written Communications on MEDIUMSHIP, HEALTH, etc., My5 tf from Lock of Hair.

AMANDA M. COWAN,
219A Tremont Street, Boston,
Suite 2,

WILL be pleased to meet her friends on Sunday, Tuesday and Saturday afternoons, at 2:30, Sunday and Wednesday evenings at 8. Address all communications to CHAS. D. COWAN, Manager.
My19 1w*

C. DAVENPORT COWAN,
Independent Slate-Writing Medium,
219A TREMONT STREET, Boston, Mass., Suite 2. Sitters may bring their own slates. My19

BERRY SISTERS,
55 RUTLAND STREET, BOSTON.

SUNDAY and Wednesday evenings at 8 P.M., Sunday, Thursday and Saturday at 2:30 P.M. 4w* My5

C. E. WATKINS,
The Medium.

MESSAGES by Independent Writing; Diagnosing by Independent Writing. 109 Falmouth street, off West Chester Park, first street west of Huntington Avenue. Take Back Bay or Huntington Avenue car. tf Ap7

EMMA J. NICKERSON,
BUSINESS, AND MAGNETIC TREATMENT,

566 COLUMBUS AVE., BOSTON. Send 10 cents, name and lock of hair, for free Diagnosis of Disease, and Kind of Mediumship. Treatment by mail. Office hours 2 to 6 P.M. 13w* Mh10

MRS. F. K. RICH,

TRANCE and Business Medium, Parlors No. 38 Evans House, 175 Tremont street, Boston. Office hours 9 A.M. to 6 P.M. Will also go out to hold private circles. Letters answered by photograph or lock of hair. Terms $2,00. Circles every Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. 1w* My19

Something New and Pleasing.

WRITE a letter to your spirit friends and have it answered by independent writing. Questions upon Health and Business answered in same manner. Price $1,00. Address ANNIE LORD CHAMBERLAIN, Box 56, Mattapan Dist., Boston, Mass. 1m My19

MRS. H. W. CUSHMAN,

MUSICAL, Test, Business and Writing Medium. Circles Monday, 7:30 P.M.; Thursday, 2:30 P.M. Six questions answered by mail for $1,00 and stamp. Examination by lock of hair, $1,00. 212 Main street, Charlestown. Mh3 tf

MISS HELEN A. SLOAN,

MAGNETIC Physician. Vapor and Medicated Baths. Celebrated "Acid Cure." Office hours from 9 A.M. to 8 P.M. 171 Tremont street, corner Mason st., Boston. Ap7 tf

MISS A. PEABODY,

BUSINESS, Test, Clairvoyant Medium. Sittings daily. Circles Monday and Thursday evenings. Tuesday afternoon at 3. 1 Bennet st., corner Washington st., Boston. My19 1w*

A. S. HAYWARD, Magnetist, 443 Shawmut Ave., eradicates disease with his healing gift when medicine fails. Hours 9 to 4; other times will visit the sick. For 17 years he has had signal success in cures with his powerful Spirit-Magnetized Paper; 2 packages by mail, $1,00. Ap7 13w

MRS. A. FORRESTER

WILL give Trance Sittings daily, also Magnetic Treatment from 1 to 5 P.M. 39 Chapman street, corner Shawmut Avenue, Boston. 1w* My19

MRS. E. B. STRATTON,

WRITING Medium. Hours 9 to 5 daily, Sundays excepted. Suite 4, Hotel Garfield, 80 West Rutland Square, Boston. 1w* My19

AUGUSTA DWINELS,

SEERESS, Trance and Prophetic Medium. Office 20 Bennet st., off Washington st., opposite Hollis st., Boston. My12 4w*

MISS L. E. SMITH,

MEDIUM for spirit communications, tests and business, personally or by letter (from articles). Terms $1,00, with stamp. 14 Union Park street, Boston. 1w* My12

MRS. ALDEN,

TRANCE MEDIUM. Medical Examinations and Magnetic treatment. 43 Winter street, Boston. Ap28 5w*

Mrs. A. E. Cunningham,

MEDICAL, Business and Test Medium, 459 Tremont street, Suite 1, Boston. Private Sittings daily. Will answer calls for Platform Tests. 4w* My19

MRS. S. M. CORDON,

MEDICAL, Business and Test Medium, 118 Court st., Room 5, Boston. 2teow* My5

MRS. FANNIE A. DODD,

MAGNETIC PHYSICIAN and Test Medium, 48 Winter street, Room 11. tf Ap28

MRS. S. S. MARTIN,

MESMERIC and Magnetic Healer. Hours 2 to 7 P.M. 705 Tremont street. 3w* My12

MRS. HATTIE YOUNG,

TRANCE and Business Medium, 22 Winter street, Room 16, Boston. 2w* My19

JOSEPH L. NEWMAN, Magnetic Healer, No. 8½ Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), Room 4, Boston, Mass. Office hours, from 1 to 4 P. M. Ja7 26w*

MRS. J. M. CARPENTER, 181 Warren Avenue, Boston. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. Examination by letter when patient is not present. My26 4w*

ADVICE relative to Health, Business, etc., $1,00. Write JAMES DODD, Box 2214, Boston, Mass. My5 3w*

DR. A. H. RICHARDSON, Magnetic Healer, Waverly House, Charlestown. S10

J. A. SHELHAMER,
MAGNETIC HEALER,
Office 8½ Bosworth Street (Room 5), Boston, Mass.,

WILL treat patients at his office or at their homes, as desired. Dr. S. prescribes for and treats all kinds of diseases. Specialties: Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lung, Liver and Kidney complaints, and all Nervous Disorders. Consultation, prescription and advice, $2,00. Moderate rates for Medicines, when furnished. Magnetized Paper $1,00 per package. Healing by rubbing and laying on of hands. Parties wishing consultation by letter must be particular to state age, sex, and leading symptoms. Liver, Anti-Dyspeptic, Liver and Kidney, or Strengthening and Soothing Pills, 25 cents per box, or five boxes for $1,00.

Office hours from 10 A.M. to 8 P.M.—except on Tuesdays and Fridays, when he attends out-of-town patients. Letter address care of BANNER OF LIGHT. 13w* Ap7

Mediums in Boston.

TREATMENT
OF Chronic Diseases

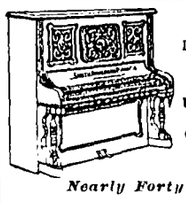
OF the Kidneys and Stomach, also Obesity—a special success. DR. J. R. COCKE, 1581 Washington street, Boston. Refers to the numerous cures performed by his guides. My12 2w*

MRS. K. E. FISHER, Magnetic and Electric Physician, 147 Tremont street, Boston, Rooms 6 and 9. Magnetic and Massage Treatment, Electric and Medicated Vapor Baths; also the celebrated Colorado Sulphur Baths. My19 1w*

MRS. DR. JULIA CRAFTS SMITH gives medical examinations free every Thursday from 9 to 5. Office, Hotel "Cabe," 8 Appleton street, Boston. My19 eow10t*

MRS. J. C. EWELL, Inspirational, also Physician, 172 West Springfield st., Boston. Hours 9 to 4. Mh3 13w*



IMPORTANT!

It is a fact that you can SAVE MONEY in the purchase of a Musical Instrument that stands

UNRIVALLED! UNSURPASSED! OVER 120,000 SOLD!

AND SCATTERED OVER THE WORLD.

Nearly Forty Years' Experience.

SMITH AMERICAN ORGANS AND PIANOS

Are found in Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia, Japan, India, Africa, Australia, Norway and Sweden, South America, California, and nearly every Town and Hamlet over the Globe.

OUR PIANOS
THE TRIUMPH OF THE AGE!

A Model of Perfection! A Splendid FIRST-CLASS Instrument! Its leading characteristics are:

1st. A Full, Rich, Pure Singing Tone.
2d. A Finely Regulated, Delicate Touch.
3d. A Perfectly Even, Well-Balanced Scale.
4th. The whole composed of the Choicest Material, and of the most thorough workmanship.

NOTHING MORE, NOTHING LESS, can or will ever comprise a First-class Piano, and as such, we unhesitatingly place them before the world.

A GOLD MEDAL awarded us by the Mass. Charitable Mechanics' Association at the late Fair of 1887.

For Rent or Sale on Easy Payments. Send for Catalogue.

Smith American Organ & Piano Co.,
531 TREMONT STREET, BOSTON, MASS.
London, Eng. BRANCH HOUSES: Kansas City, Mo.
Ap14 8w

SEALED LETTERS.

ELEANOR MARTIN now makes specialty of business, $5,00. Full Spiritual Message, $2,00. 73 Lane Avenue, Columbus, Ohio. 4w* Ap28

The Writing Planchette.

SCIENCE is unable to explain the mysterious performances of this wonderful little instrument, which writes intelligent answers to questions asked either aloud or mentally. Those unacquainted with it would be astonished at some of the results that have been attained through its agency, and no domestic circle should be without one. All investigators who desire practice in writing mediumship should avail themselves of these "Planchettes," which may be consulted on all questions, as also for communications from deceased relatives or friends.

DIRECTIONS.—Place Planchette on a piece of paper (printing or writing will answer), then place the hand lightly on the board; in a few minutes it begins to move, and is ready to answer mental or spoken questions. Though it cannot be guaranteed that every individual who follows these directions will succeed in obtaining the desired result, or cause the instrument to move, independent of any muscular effort of his or her own, yet it has been proved beyond question that where a party of three or more come together, it is almost impossible that one cannot operate it. If one be not successful, let two try it together. If nothing happens the first day, try it the next, and even if half an hour a day for several days are given to it, the results will amply remunerate you for the time and patience bestowed upon it.

The Planchette is furnished complete with box, pencil and directions, by which any one can easily understand how to use it.

PLANCHETTE, with Pentagraph Wheels, 60 cents, securely packed in a box, and sent by mail, postage free.

NOTICE TO RESIDENTS OF CANADA AND THE PROVINCES.—Under existing postal arrangements between the United States and Canada, PLANCHETTES cannot be sent through the mails, but must be forwarded by express only, at the purchaser's expense.

For sale by COLBY & RICH. tf

ELEVENTH EDITION.

THE VOICES.

BY WARREN SUMNER BARLOW.

THE VOICE OF NATURE represents God in the light of Reason and Philosophy—in His unchangeable and glorious attributes.

THE VOICE OF A PEBBLE delineates the individuality of Matter and Mind, fraternal Charity and Love.

THE VOICE OF SUPERSTITION takes the creeds at their word, and proves by numerous passages from the Bible that the God of Moses has been defeated by Satan, from the Garden of Eden to Mount Calvary!

THE VOICE OF PRAYER enforces the idea that our prayers must accord with immutable laws, else we pray for effects, independent of cause.

Eleventh edition, with a new stippled steel-plate engraving of the author from a recent photograph. Printed in large, clear type, on beautiful tinted paper, bound in beveled boards.

Price $1,00; postage 10 cents.

☞ Persons purchasing a copy of "THE VOICES" will receive, free, a copy of Mr. Barlow's new pamphlet entitled "ORTHODOX HASH, WITH CHANGE OF DIET," if they so order.

For sale by COLBY & RICH. eow

SENT FREE.

RULES
TO BE OBSERVED WHEN FORMING
SPIRITUAL CIRCLES.
BY EMMA HARDINGE BRITTEN.

Comprehensive and clear directions for forming and conducting circles of investigation are here presented by an able, experienced and reliable author.

This little book also contains a Catalogue of Books published and for sale by COLBY & RICH.

Sent free on application to COLBY & RICH tf

NEW GOSPEL OF HEALTH,

CONTAINING seven sections on Vital Magnetism and illustrated manipulations, by DR. STONE. For sale at this office. Price $1 25 cloth-bound copies, $2.50.

THE BHAGAVAD GITA;
OR,
The Lord's Lay.

With Commentary and Notes, as well as References to the Christian Scriptures. Translated from the Sanskrit, for the benefit of those in search of Spiritual Light, by MOHINI MOHUN CHATTERJI, M. A.

The great classic poem of Asia, profound and majestic in its power and harmony. Its translator, one of the most eminent of Hindoo scholars, has been sojourning for a year in Boston, while carrying forward this notable work.

"All Indian authorities agree in pronouncing the Bhagavad Gita to be the essence of all sacred writings. . . . The collected essence of all the Vedas, . . . the best book in existence for the study of the spiritually-minded. As soon as I open the Bhagavad Gita it seems to seize upon my very soul. I am face to face with antiquity. How many are the centuries that have passed since were uttered and written the words of eternal life I am about to read!"—From the Introduction.

8vo, cloth; pp, 280. Price $2,00; postage 15 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

THE SPIRIT OF THE NEW TESTAMENT;
OR,
THE REVELATION
OF THE
Mission of Christ.
BY A WOMAN.

A book for all reformers, workers for the freedom of Woman, Spiritualists and liberal thinkers, who realize that the true spirit of Christianity, long misunderstood and forgotten by the churches, is the most powerful weapon in behalf of liberty and reformation to-day.

"A very remarkable book."—Alpha. "Novel and suggestive ideas."—Woman's Journal. "Unusual force."—Boston Transcript "Some of the grandest thoughts we have ever seen written."—Woman's Magazine, etc.

Published by E. W. ALLEN, London, Eng. Superior cloth, pp. 525, $1,25.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

POEMS AND RHYTHMICAL EXPRESSIONS. BY DR. D. AMBROSE DAVIS.

Contents: Dedicatory; Introductory; Prefatory; Did all Things come by Chance? Humility Inherited; What shall my Mission be? Fraternity; The Prayer of Jesus; Nature's Theology; The Answering Voice; Supernal Guests; The Tiny Raps; Life's School-Rooms; Rural Life; The Mariner's Faith; Acorns and Oaks; The Little Angel Minnewa; The Soul of Beneficence; Soul-Mating; The Ascended Wm. Lloyd Garrison; The Anthem of Nature; We Go Not Out from Nature; Inscrutable Providence; A Kindly Whisper; The Voice I Heard; Never, Never Lost; Tyranny; How Blest I was in Giving; The Little Guest at Supper; The Lost of Earth Forever in God's Keeping; Leaves; Valedictory; Robert Burns's Nuptials with Highland Mary in Spirit-Life; The Dying Poet.

Cloth, 12mo. Price 75 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

HIGHER ASPECTS OF SPIRITUALISM. By M. A. (OXON).

Blue cloth, in form with "Spirit Identity" and "Psychography." Price $1,25, postage 10 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

New York Advertisements.

DUMONT C. DAKE, M. D.,

304 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY, successfully treats all forms of Chronic Diseases, however complicated. Patients afflicted for years, regarded as hopeless, or incurable, testify to permanent restoration. For twenty years his power to diagnose and treat Disease has been and still stands unequaled, so say eminent Scientists, Physicians, Clergymen, and patients from all parts of the country. Voluminous testimony can be seen at his office. Those unable to visit the Doctor in person can be successfully treated at their homes. Send stamp for Circular. Diagnosis, with advice, $2,00.

Extract from a letter by Rev. F. R. M., D. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.: . . . "I am happy to testify to Dr. Dake's high moral character as a man, and his eminent ability as a physician who has achieved a most extraordinary career."
Ap7 tf

Mrs. Stoddard-Gray and Son, DeWitt C. Hough,

HOLD Materializing Séances every Sunday, Wednesday and Friday evening, 8 o'clock. Tuesday and Saturday, 2 o'clock, at 823 West 34th street, New York. Daily sittings for Communications and Business. 13w* Mh17

CARRIE M. SAWYER,

MATERIALIZING MEDIUM, 785 6th Avenue, New York City. Séances Tuesday and Friday evenings and Thursday and Saturday afternoons. 6w Ap14

DR. H. SLADE,

PSYCHOGRAPHIST MEDIUM, 58 East 9th street, near Broadway, New York. tf D24

MRS. A. L. PENNELL, of Boston, Business and Test Medium, gives Private Sittings daily 10 to 3 P.M., and Circles Tuesdays and Fridays, 7:30 P.M., at 18 East 17th street, New York. 2w* My12

MRS. C. SCOTT, Trance and Business Medium. Sittings daily, 10 to 5. No. 21 West 13th street, New York. 8w* Ap21

MARY C. MORRELL, Business, Prophetic and Developing Medium, 230 West 36th street, New York City. 15w* Mh3

MRS. L. HIGGINS, Business and Trance Medium. Sittings daily 10 to 3, 351 W. 27th st., New York. Ap21 10w*

PECK'S
POSITIVE
Kidney and Liver Cure.

SOME ten years ago I lost my only son with Bright's Disease, whom five doctors failed to cure. I also had Kidney Troubles, and got no relief until some three years ago I prepared a Vegetable Compound, which is an infallible remedy for Diabetes; Catarrh or Inflammation of the Bladder or Kidneys; Brickdust, or any cloudy deposit in the Urine; Painful Urination; Soreness or Pain in the Back or Kidneys, or any Urinary Weakness; Female Weakness or Bright's Disease. If you cannot procure it of your druggist, send to the Proprietor, OLIVER PECK, 89 West Bridge street, Oswego, N. Y. Price $1,00 per bottle, or 6 for $5,00. 6w* Ap14

RUPTURES

CURED in thirty days by my MEDICAL COMPOUND and improved ELASTIC SUPPORTER TRUSS. Send Stamp for Circular. Address CAPT. W. A. COLLINGS, Smithville, Jefferson Co., N. Y. {Mention this paper.
Ap21 13w*

A LIBERAL OFFER,

BY A RELIABLE CLAIRVOYANT AND MAGNETIC HEALER.

SEND 4 2-ct. stamps, lock of hair, name, age and sex, we will diagnose your case FREE by independent spirit-writing. Address DR. J. S. LOUCKS, Canton, N. Y. My12 13w*

Clairvoyant Examinations Free.

ENCLOSE lock of hair, with leading symptoms. We will give you a correct diagnosis of your case. Address E. F. BUTTERFIELD, M. D., corner Warren and Fayette streets, Syracuse, New York. 26w* Ja28

SECOND EDITION.

A REVIEW
OF THE
Seybert Commissioners' Report
OR,
WHAT I SAW AT CASSADAGA LAKE.
BY
A. B. RICHMOND, Esq.,

A MEMBER OF THE PENNSYLVANIA BAR; AUTHOR "LEAVES FROM THE DIARY OF AN OLD LAWYER," "COURT AND PRISON," "DR. CROSBY'S CALM VIEW FROM A LAWYER'S STANDPOINT," "A HAWK IN AN EAGLE'S NEST," ETC.

This able and comprehensive work should be read by every thoughtful man and woman who has heard of the Seybert Bequest. Hon. A. B. Richmond, the author, whose eminence as a criminal lawyer, and high reputation as an author, will at once ensure the confidence and attention of the reader, has in this volume replied to the "Preliminary Report of the Seybert Commission" with a soundness of logic, a keenness of satire, a breadth of thought and clearness of perception such as the importance of the subject demanded. He deals his blows at the unfairness, injustice, prejudice, unkindness and irreverence of the Seybert Commissioners with an unsparing hand, and, like Thor, he never strikes a blow in vain. Well aimed and well struck, each blow tells, and must carry conviction to every thoughtful mind.

Mr. Richmond, although not a believer in the Spiritual Philosophy, has here made a fearless and vigorous defense of the reality of the PHENOMENA of Spiritualism. Having received last August, from the hands of a friend just returned from Cassadaga Lake, a communication addressed to him from one dear to him in spirit-life, he was induced to visit the Lake, but went with a firm belief that he should be able to solve the mystery and expose the fraud. His experiences there convinced him of the genuineness of at least a portion of the phenomenal part of Spiritualism, and he accordingly wrote his Open Letter to the Seybert Commission, a document which aroused the interest and admiration of the best minds. Once convinced that the so-called spirit manifestations do occur in many instances where fraud is out of the question, he gallantly and fearlessly comes to the front and wields his weapons with strong, unerring aim in defense of truth and human progress.

After a happy and appropriate introduction of the subject, with all needful explanations concerning the bequest of Mr. Seybert, the author gives in the first Chapter

Banner of Light.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, MAY 19, 1888.

IN RE DR. TALMAGE.

In our issue for May 12th we promised a synopsis of the answer made in Berkeley Hall, Boston, Sunday morning, May 6th, by the guides of MRS. R. S. LILLIE, to the recent attack upon Modern Spiritualism by the Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, of Brooklyn. The question which called forth that discourse was treated, substantially in the same fashion, by Mrs. Lillie in Haverhill, Mass., at a later date. The following is a condensed report of these lectures:

REPLY BY MRS. LILLIE.

Religion, as it is at present divided and subdivided, presents to the observer the aspect of so many walls of defense and attack. A man in choosing the ministerial avocation looks about him, examines these different positions, decides where he wishes to be garrisoned, takes his place behind these walls and begins his work accordingly.

He takes his position as Catholic, Presbyterian, Methodist, Congregationalist, Baptist—or in any other of the many branches of the Christian faith—and whichever of these positions he takes determines his range. He must not reach beyond the limits prescribed for him in any of these instances. He stands behind the pulpit; this is his barrack; the Bible is his wall of defense; in his hand is a banner on which is an inscription: This inscription is the creed of the particular branch of the church to which he belongs; these are the colors he is expected to bear aloft, and these determine what he shall say and how far he can go. The book all accept, but differ in their interpretation, and these banners or creeds tell their point of difference.

People are thinking to-day; they are living in an age of thought and of rich experiences. These thoughts and experiences exert an influence upon the mind of these standard-bearers. They cannot help but feel its quickening breath, and their theology is affected by it. Views of death, particularly, are changing through the influence of the teaching of Spiritualism. These views will and do creep into the sermons of the divines, into the songs of the poet, and are felt in every direction. The popular minister gives his sermon on a future life and describes a future state of existence in such a different way from the old-time theology, that he excites criticism on the part of some of his hearers; they have heard something like it before; they are wide awake, they have been listening perhaps to some spiritual medium, or attended a séance. And they say: "Why, our minister gave us a regular spiritual discourse to-day; talked of the other life just as the Spiritualists do."

Then the said minister becomes frightened—does not wish to be called a Spiritualist, and therefore rises to explain. Mr. Talmage has risen to explain; somebody has called him a Spiritualist, and this would never do.

Now it would be (and was generally) expected that a man occupying the position he occupies, and speaking to the vast assemblies he addresses, would seek to have a thorough understanding of the subject he handles; that he would give it careful investigation and research—know just what it was himself, and then give the people the benefit of that knowledge as a sincere and truthful man, who felt the importance of such movements for public weal or woe.

Contrary to this, it appears that he does not feel called upon to go to work upon Spiritualism because of its faults or its virtues, neither to give the people some great truth, or to expose some great error: Somebody has called him a Spiritualist—and he, the eminent Talmage, fortified by Calvinistic walls, wishes to be known by its tenets. His creed-book teaches foreordination by election for adults, and the doctrine of infant damnation has not yet been expunged. Yet he wishes to be understood. He must not be called a Spiritualist, to whatever spiritualistic pictures of the after-life not in consonance with that creed he may have given utterance in moments of inspiration.

Did he speak on Spiritualism from any desire to reveal truth or expose error we should feel like answering his arguments (if he used any), or meeting his statements or assertions with our reasons for the existence of whatsoever he might criticise; but when a man occupying his position—though he may be called the greatest among his kind—descends to the use of as much misrepresentation of a cause as he has in this case, we consider him scarcely worth the time spent in making any reply whatsoever. Still, as he occupies the place he does, and the world of Christendom eagerly hears or reads what he says, we shall give his positions a cursory glance:

First, what is this sermon? It is practically a resurrection of an old sermon delivered by him, some four years ago, in Brooklyn; it is almost word for word; there is scarcely a point in one that is not to be found in the other; there is no evidence of recent research, and apparently no more study has been devoted to the subject—a subject that is awakening thought in almost every direction, that is finding its way into all conditions of society. He takes a sermon delivered three or four years ago, the text being the only noticeable change, and gives it anew to his intelligent hearers. There in his great congregation are the Spiritualists of Brooklyn, going to hear whether they will now receive fair dealings at his hands. Seated among his people, in all the pews, from among the most intelligent and refined of Brooklyn society, were ladies and gentlemen, judges, lawyers and doctors (even some of the officers of his own church are at least gifted as healers and clairvoyants), in short from every walk in life were present believers to hear themselves abused and misrepresented in these sermons.

He says Spiritualism is an old doctrine: In all ages there have been necromancers—those who consult with spirits of the departed; charmers—those who put subjects in a mesmeric state; sorcerers—those who by taking poisonous drugs see everything and hear everything; dreamers, who in their sleeping moments see the future world and hold consultation with spirits; astrologers, experts in palmistry. Yea, before the time of Christ, Brahmins went through all the table-moving that spirits have exploited to-day. "Is Spiritualism," he asks, "any different from all these? I answer: They belong to the same family, and are exhumations from an unseen world." He then asks: "What does God think about it?" Well, I don't know just what God thinks about it. But I know, through the olden volume by which Mr. Talmage sets such store, what God has done: that he followed Moses into the land of Egypt, and, according to the story, surpassed the necromancers and sorcerers of that land in all the experimental trials, from the turning of a rod in the hands of Moses into a living serpent (which swallowed up all the other rods) to the turning of the dust of the land into creeping vermin; until the magicians, acknowledging themselves beaten and Moses to be the chief of magicians and sorcerers, said: "Surely, this is the finger of God!" We will take their word for that.

Mr. Talmage's next allegation is that our deeds are done in darkness. This is scarcely worthy of notice, as every one familiar with the phenomena knows that although some of the manifestations are given in darkness or semi-darkness, many of the manifestations are in the full light of day. In the very beginning most startling phenomena took place at all hours of the day, and have continued so to do, ever since.

He spoke of bad orthography, bad grammar, and bad morals; speaks of having a communication from a spiritual medium, sending it back, etc.; then follows, by telling us what God says, or gives us his curse on all those who seek "familiar spirits"; and in this quotation the Brooklyn divine cites as the word of God a sentence which we really deem unfit for us to repeat in this place.

To say that the teachings of Spiritualism lead to immorality is as false as the rest of the statements he has made; and any one comparing the same with those he advocates will see whether the tendency to immorality is on the one side or the other. Spiritualism teaches individual responsibility, right for the sake of right, and the law of compensation and retribution following the individual deeds of the individual man: That as a man soweth so shall he reap—in opposition to the doctrine that man can sow discord, sin and corruption, and by belief in the merits of another can escape the logical consequences. Some Spiritualists may lead immoral lives, but it would be as unfair to judge Spiritualism by this as to say that Christianity is to blame for the crimes of some of its ministers.

Let us see how Mr. Talmage holds up Bible pictures: He describes an ancient séance, and willingly depicts this as an object of ridicule. He says: "Saul went to the witch of Endor, called for the spirit of Samuel. Here he comes; the floor of the tenement opens and the gray hairs float up; then the forehead, the eyes, the lips, the shoulders, the arms, the feet, the entire body of dead Samuel wrapped in sepulchral robes appearing to the astonished group, who stagger back, hold their breath and shiver with terror. The dead prophet, white and awful, from the tomb, begins to move his ashen lips, glares upon King Saul and cries out, 'What did you bring me up for?' And the King was terrified." We do not wonder that he was. It would be well for you to read the original story as told in the Old Testament, and see how much scripture our critic has manufactured. If we were as unfair in quoting scripture and embellishing stories as he proves himself to be in this instance, we would describe another Bible séance: Jesus has been crucified; his disciples are terror-stricken; they seek solitude, seclusion; I do not know but it was a dark séance—the historian is careful at least to tell us the doors were locked; they were weeping; he had promised them so much that their disappointment was great; they wondered, and were sore afraid; presently they began to see something on the floor of the tenement; there it was: First the brown curls floated up, then the forehead, then the mild blue eyes, then the pleading lips, then the shoulders, then the pierced side, then the feet, then the entire body wrapped in sepulchral robes! How did it get there? the door was locked; the key in the lock; yet there he was, The Crucified One, looking on the astonished group; and the disciples all burst out laughing! We have been as strictly true to the reading in the one case as Mr. Talmage has in the other; they are both Bible stories, told with a little ministerial license!

The next point sought to be made by Mr. Talmage is that Spiritualism ruins the physical health, wrecks the nervous system and leads to insanity; that there is not an insane asylum from Bangor to San Francisco but has its torn and bleeding victims of this "delusion"! Any one taking the pains to personally ascertain will find that he is either entirely ignorant of the truth of this matter, is not familiar with the statistics, or willfully misrepresents. The fact is that for one Spiritualist to be found in these places, twenty can be found who were brought there through the evangelical type of religious excitement.

Again he says Spiritualism is a social and marital curse, etc.; but this statement of his is only on a par with the residue of his assertions; and we have only to say that it comes with rather poor grace from a minister who naturally, and according to creedal usage, holds up before the people as patterns of excellence such examples of social and marital life as Solomon and David; while the "misfortunes" of the modern clergy in the way of sexual criminality are too well known throughout the land to need any pointing out at the present time by way of answer by comparison between the relative standing of Christian teacher and Spiritual believer.

Then he sums all up and says: "What does God say about Spiritualism? He never speaks of it but in thunder tones of indignation. He says, 'I will be a swift witness against the sorcerer!' Thou shalt not suffer a witch to live, and lest you should make some important distinction between witchcraft and Modern Spiritualism, God says, in so many words: 'There shall not be among you a consulter of familiar spirits, or wizards, or necromancer, for they that do these things are an abomination unto the Lord.'" "Now," he adds: "Be a Spiritualist if you dare!" Let us see; we remember that God prohibited something once before: It was in the Garden of Eden. God had made the garden, and everything within it; then had made man and woman, placing them in the Garden. In the centre of the Garden he had placed two trees, which he did not intend they should make any use of. He was going out for a little while from the Garden, so he called the man and woman to him, and said: "Now look here! I am going away; I want you to enjoy yourselves; here in the Garden is everything to make you happy. All is yours; of all these things you may freely eat. But there are two trees in the middle of the Garden—these you must not touch; if you do you will get into trouble." They waited till his back was turned, then Eve, woman-like, turned around, took a good look at the trees, and, said she, "Now there is something worth having," and she walked right up, shook that tree, took some of the fruit, ate it, and said to her companion: "Adam, that is good; it is splendid; have some!" and Adam took some; and I will guarantee that since Mr. Talmage apostrophized the people with his "Now be a Spiritualist if you dare"—as both himself and God forbid it—the New York and Brooklyn mediums have had more patronage than for a long time before. Forbidden fruit always had a tempting sweetness for mankind; and if a cause had nothing to recommend it of itself it would grow by virtue of the persecutions visited upon it by its opponents. What would Christianity have been but for the persecuting and crucifying Jews? without the crown of martyrdom bestowed upon its reputed founder? Men cannot crucify to-day; they can only hurl coarse and bigoted epithets, which action has always proved the power of growth to the cause so vilified.

Fear not, ye who cherish this great Revelation to the nineteenth century! who have received undoubted evidence of immortality! The believers in Christianity have only faith in that concerning which you have positive knowledge. Truth is mighty; it prospers through obloquy; it grows amid adversity; it is deathless, and its reign shall have no end!

A MERITED REBUKE.

The following, regarding Mr. Talmage's recent onslaught, is excerpted from a letter by "Eleanor Kirk," which has already appeared in the Cape Ann Advertiser, the Cambridge Chronicle and elsewhere, showing that the matter treated possesses a recognized interest at this time. Mr. Talmage, on perusing it, can hardly relish the "plain talk" in which its writer indulges, but friends of fair dealing will at once decide that "Eleanor" has treated him as he richly deserves:

A Little Plain Talk.—When the Rev. Dr. Talmage remarked last Sunday that "Spiritualism was an unclean, adulterous and abominable doctrine, and the sooner it goes down to the hell from which it came up, the better for earth and heaven," did he forget himself, or did he really mean to consign his chief henchman and deacon, Dr. Harrison A. Tucker, to the fires of Sheol? Did he include all the members of his church and congregation who believe in this practical immortality of the soul? And just here I am reminded of a story: On one occasion the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher was approached by a mother whose daughter, a most intelligent young woman and a member of Plymouth Church, had become interested in the subject of Spiritualism. "You must labor with her, Mr. Beecher," said the lady, "and if you find her obstinate, threaten to excommunicate her." "That, madam, would be something of a joke," said the minister with a twinkle of the eye, "because if the folk with spiritualistic tendencies were to be cut off from Plymouth Church I should n't have a corporal's guard to preach to." Now this is the same with the Tabernacle people. I know of members of this church who go to hear Mr. Talmage in the morning and hold séances at their own or their friends' houses in the evening. Many mediums are well supported by the Talmage people. The pastor may not be aware of this state of things, but he does know that Dr. H. A. Tucker is a clairvoyant and a trance-medium, and I believe I am correctly informed that this exceedingly wealthy man—made so by this trance traffic—has prescribed and still continues to prescribe for the Talmage family. Now if this man belongs in hell, why is he allowed to occupy the best seat in the Tabernacle and manage the most important affairs of the church? Now I maintain that in these utterances of the Rev. Dr. Talmage there is neither consistency, charity, religion, dignity nor decency.... This wholesale condemnation is as illogical as it is ungentlemanly and untrue. The charge that Spiritualism is the first stage of epilepsy or catalepsy is groundless. Figures—and they are the stubbornest facts on record—show that in fifty-eight asylums, having 23,323 patients, the number insane from religious excitement was 412, from Spiritualism 59. I am informed that the great Methodist revival now going on in New York, under the ministration of Harrison, "the boy preacher," is reaping a crop of lunatics already. Mr. Talmage is perfectly willing to help this work along, to put an extra tension upon these screaming, howling, dancing creatures, every nerve stretched to the utmost limit, some of the "convicted" falling to the floor in dead faints or trances. A séance conducted in this fashion would be interfered with by the police, and justly so. I attended one of these meetings the other evening, and it did not seem credible that such things could go on even in a semi-civilized community. One hysterical woman was surrounded by a lot of the elders, some singing and clapping their hands, others groaning and praying, chief among them Stephen B. Merritt, Gen. Grant's dissatisfied undertaker, while the boy preacher rubbed his hands and groaned and shouted in alternation. There is need enough of caution on this subject of Spiritualism, and Mr. Talmage might have done some good if he had shown the proper spirit. But bigotry and intolerance and denunciation belong to the time of Galileo and do not belong to this age. It is rumored that the Rev. Heber Newton will have something to say on this subject. He has investigated it.

In Memoriam.

Passed to spirit-life from the home of his daughter, Martha S. Severance, at Painesville, O., on Thursday, April 26th, 1888, BENJAMIN BACON, aged 87 years 3 months.

The cause of his decease was paralysis of the lungs. He was born Jan. 13th, 1801. His life in the earth-form was a long and useful one, and terminated sud denly; old age rather than disease ended his mortal career.

Mr. Bacon was a native of New England, and carried with him through life many of its best characteristics, but becoming a Spiritualist early in the movement, he became wholly liberated from the sectarianism peculiar to that section, and became broad and humanitarian in his religious unfoldments.

For many years a resident of Philadelphia, he left there after "The Centennial" to visit among his children in Ohio and Illinois. While living with his daughter in Painesville six years ago he caught the California fever, and though over eighty years of age he started out with all the enthusiasm of youth, alone, to prospect for a home, and finally settled in San Luis Obispo; while building a home there for himself and wife, Sylvania, she passed away from beneath the same roof he did. As soon as possible after the death of his conjugal companion he returned to Painesville, and took an active interest in the management of his daughter's farm.

Industry, integrity and truth were his chief characteristics; he worked up to the very last day of his life, and at evening quietly passed away in the full belief of a reunion with his friends who had preceded him, and later on with the friends who would surely follow.

Death to him had no terrors. It was but "a kindly frost that cracked the shell and left the kernel room to germinate"; he had more religion and less theology than is ordinarily found even in those liberated from sectarianism and enjoying the light of Modern Spiritualism.

He was a whole-souled, genial man, made friends and kept them, and was endowed with unusual common sense, which he cultivated by much reading and study.

He leaves two children and many friends to mourn his departure; aged as he was, his happy disposition and buoyant spirit inspired all who came within his magnetic sphere.

The funeral services were conducted by Mr. Thomas Lees of Cleveland, and the Grattan-Smith family of singers with their sweet blending voices lent a beauty to the impressive services that must have reached the hearts of the many friends present.

The remains were deposited in Painesville Cemetery, in the same grave where rest the ashes of his well-beloved Sylvania. * * *.

Providence, R. I.—On Sunday, May 13th, the controls of A. E. Tisdale gave two able lectures that were practical as well as interesting. Mr. Tisdale sang at both lectures.—The adjourned annual meeting was adjourned until next Sunday, there being no quorum. MARY E. A. WHITNEY, Sec'y.

Cincinnati, O.—The Society of Union Spiritualists of Cincinnati hold meetings in Grand Army Hall, 115 West 6th street, every Sunday morning at 10:45 and evening at 7:45, also Wednesday evenings of each week, to which all are made welcome.

Springfield, Mass.—A. A. Wheelock addressed the friends at this place on Sunday last, A. M. and evening; excellent tests after each lecture were given by Mrs. W. A. Rich of Boston. The same order of exercises announced for next Sunday.

Haverhill, Mass.—Music Hall.—Mrs. B. F. Smith, well and favorably known in her labors at the Banner of Light Free Circles, and also from her mediumistic work in Lawrence, Mass., occupied the platform of the First Spiritualist Society of this city at two and seven o'clock P. M., Sunday, the 13th inst., good audiences greeting her at both services.

At the two P. M. service Mrs. Smith, under control, contrasted the evidences of immortality, as demonstrated by and through spiritual facts, with the teachings of theology of the present day—closing with a thirty-five minute séance, in which fifty-one names of spirit-intelligences were reported.

The Home Orchestra, Miss Jessie M. Little, precentor, opened the evening exercises by rendering in choice style three selections of their fine instrumental music. Mrs. Smith, again under control, chose for the subject of her remarks: "Charity." After a short speech of about ten minutes the control changed, and Dr. John H. Currier, in spirit-life, made the closing remarks, which seemed to be characteristic of the man while in his earthly career. Mrs. Smith gave the closing séance of the day, occupying fifty-three minutes, reporting sixty four names. One bright little spirit by the name of Annie Burbank reported herself three times during the day—the third time desiring that knowledge of her return be made public through the press.

Next Sunday, the 20th, Edgar W. Emerson will occupy the same platform, it being his closing engagement in New England before going to California to fill a camp-meeting engagement. Our friends in the Golden State may feel sure of a rich treat in Mr. Emerson as a platform test-medium. W. W. CURRIER.

Haverhill and Bradford.—Notwithstanding the rain, Sunday, 13th inst., good audiences were in attendance at Brittan Hall. Mrs. Lizzie S. Manchester of West Randolph, was the speaker. Those who ever heard Prof. Denton, when in the mortal, could not fail to realize how nearly akin to him was the control to which they listened through Mrs. M.—alike in style of eloquence, manner of utterance and in line of reasoning. In the afternoon the theme was the lesson of spring, and its pointings to immortality. In the evening the subject was "The Written and Unwritten History of the Ages," which was treated in a masterly manner. Mrs. Manchester is to speak here again next Sunday. E. P. H.

Rockland, Me.—The Spiritualists here were highly entertained Sunday, May 6th, in listening to an eloquent lecture by Dr. H. P. Fairfield, of this city, followed by Dr. H. F. Merrill, of Bucksport, who gave some fifty clear and convincing tests, all of which were recognized. The meeting was held in Washington Hall, Middle street, and the attendance was very good.—In the evening Dr. H. F. Merrill gave a test séance at the residence of Edward Blackington, which was very successful, and was enjoyed by a large number of neighbors and friends.—The people in Rockland keenly appreciate the labors of the two excellent mediums above-mentioned, who are doing a good work in this vicinity. F. W. SMITH.

WARNER'S SAFE CURE.

BOSTON, MASS., (1314 Dorchester Avenue,) Nov. 20th, 1887.—Although it was four years ago that I was cured by "Warner's Safe Cure," yet at this late date I do not think that I need hesitate in acknowledging the same, particularly as the cure was permanent. It was in the fall of '83 that I first realized that I was not a well person. It was indicated by frequent spells of languidness, loss of ambition, occasional pains across my back in the region of my kidneys, an unusual flow of urine, and afterward scanty, with sediment in the vessel. I put myself under treatment, and took quantities of medicine, which would relieve me for a short time, but when the effect wore off I would feel worse than ever. I would be prostrated for several days with a most excruciating headache. I concluded to give "Warner's Safe Cure" a fair trial, and by the time I had taken half of the second bottle, I certainly experienced a marked relief. The pains were gradually leaving, my rest was not disturbed, my appetite was returning, which, by the way, I had lost. Then my faith was assured. I went right ahead until I was completely restored, and, as I said, permanently.

Mrs A. F. Taylor

Cures Nervous Weakness.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Dec. 11th, 1887.—Some four years ago I was seriously afflicted with Kidney troubles. I suffered intense pains in my kidneys, so severe at times it seemed as if my back would break. My urine was very lightly colored and scant, and it would contain considerable sediment and mucus. I had dull pains in my head, restless at night, and no appetite at all. My business necessitated my riding considerably. I got so bad that I could not sit and ride in a buggy, and began to fear that I would never recover, until finally I was induced to try "Warner's Safe Cure." I took a number of bottles and I am happy to say was completely cured. My father-in-law was almost at death's door with diseased kidneys, and was cured by "Warner's Safe Cure." I consider it the greatest remedy in the world.

D. W. Francis

Represents Allen, Slade & Co., Wholesale Grocers, Fall River, Mass.

HAVERHILL, Mass., (Attorney at Law,) Oct. 25th, 1887.—I can endorse "Warner's Safe Cure" as being a valuable remedy for Kidney and Liver diseases. I have taken it with beneficial results.

Benjamin F. Bickett

For Professional Weariness.

SOMERVILLE, Mass., Dec. 20th, 1887.—I have used "Warner's Safe Cure" since last summer, and it has put me in shape to work once more, which I was not able to do. I got the Malaria in Central America two years ago and have suffered from it since, using calomel, quinine, etc., by the wholesale. "Warner's Safe Cure" cured me.

John E. Hill

Cures Blood Impurities.

HAVERHILL, Mass., No. 1 Spring Place, Oct. 24th, 1887.—In 1881 I took "Warner's Safe Cure," and was wonderfully benefited thereby. I firmly believe it saved my life. It cured me, and I have been well ever since, although I have n't given up its use. I take it whenever any little thing is the matter with me.

Miss Mary E. Doolittle

Cures all Lame Back.

HYANNIS, Mass., (Cape Cod) June 17th, 1886.—I fell from a step-ladder backwards in my stable on to the floor, about six feet. The shock was dreadful, which caused me to have the doctor to draw my water. He had great difficulty because of the clots of blood that kept filling his instrument, which he inserted six or seven times before he could relieve me from pain, which was severe. A lady eighty-one years of age, who had taken only one bottle, which relieved her immediately, wished me to try "Warner's Safe Cure." I took about two doses, and never have had any trouble since. I wish to say furthermore, that I belong to a family that have always been subject to gravel, etc.

Rebecca Baxter

CURES ALL MALARIA.

MANCHESTER-BY-THE-SEA, Mass., Nov. 15th, 1887.—I have taken a great deal of "Warner's Safe Cure" with good results. It has done me more good than all the doctors or medicines that I ever had or taken. For any one to take "Warner's Safe Cure" according to directions, it must lead to a speedy cure.

Harlan G. Morgan

CURES INDIGESTION.

BEDFORD, MASS., Oct. 13th, 1887.—Three years ago I had a serious trouble with my Kidneys, so much so that I thought I had that terrible Bright's Disease. I was in constant pain in my left kidney, as well as in the bladder and groin, with a weakness in my eyes. Having five years before buried my daughter with Bright's Disease, made me more anxious about myself, as I had watched the different symptoms as the disease progressed, which had fastened itself upon her before we were made aware of its approach. I commenced at once the use of "Warner's Safe Cure," and persevered in its use until I found a decided improvement, and kept on until I found my troubles removed. Last fall I had a partial return of the same symptoms, and again had recourse to the same remedy, with the same result.

D. M. Fisk

☞ WE CAN FURNISH MILLIONS OF SUCH TESTIMONIALS. URIC ACID KIDNEY POISON IN THE BLOOD IS THE GREAT CAUSE OF ALL DISEASE. IT CAN ONLY BE CURED BY

WARNER'S SAFE CURE.

MANLY PURITY AND BEAUTY

CUTICURA REMEDIES CURE SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES FROM PIMPLES TO SCROFULA.

NO PEN CAN DO JUSTICE TO THE ESTEEM IN WHICH the CUTICURA REMEDIES are held by the thousands upon thousands whose lives have been made happy by the cure of agonizing, humiliating, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, are a positive cure for every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Rheumatism, Kidney Pains and Weakness speedily cured by CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster. Ja28

The Weekly Discourse;

Containing the Spiritual Sermons by the guides of

MRS. CORA L. V. RICHMOND.

VOLUME III.

No. 1.—THE THREE M'S: MAMMON, MILLIONAIRES AND MURDER.
No. 2.—A LEAP IN THE DARK.
No. 3.—WHAT RELIGION IS BEST FOR MANKIND?
No. 4.—IDEAL SOCIALISM: HOW DOES IT COMPARE WITH CHRISTIANITY AND SPIRITUALISM?
No. 5.—THE IMPORT OF THE DAY.
No. 6.—ANCIENT AND MODERN MIRACLES.
No. 7.—THE JUDGMENT DAY.
No. 8.—THE POWER OF PRAYER.
No. 9.—THE NATURE OF SPIRITUALISM: IN ANSWER TO THE WORLD'S NEEDS.
No. 10.—THE FOUNDATIONS OF THE WORLD.

Price 5 cents each.

Single copies of any numbers of Volumes I. and II. will also be supplied at 5 cents each.

Also The Weekly Discourse, containing fifty-two numbers in each volume, handsomely bound in Half Roan, Gold Ruled.

VOL. I.....$3.00. VOL. II.....$3.00.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

FORTY YEARS ON THE

SPIRITUAL ROSTRUM.

BY WARREN CHASE.

A SEQUEL TO "THE LIFE-LINE OF THE LONE ONE," AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF THE AUTHOR, AS

The World's Child,

WHO GAVE THE FIRST PUBLIC LECTURES IN THIS COUNTRY IN DEFENSE OF MODERN SPIRIT INTERCOURSE, AND WHOSE NAME IS FIRST ON THE LIST OF CALLS FOR COPIES OF "NATURE'S DIVINE REVELATIONS," WHEN IN PRESS IN 1847.

No one is better qualified to place on record reliable information regarding the early history of Modern Spiritualism and of its early advocates and defenders, than the author of this volume. There has been scarcely a worker for the cause he has not known; scarce a city or town in the Union he has not visited; and no place he has visited whose people have not enjoyed greater mental freedom and a better understanding of this life and assurance of a future one from his having been with them.

As a worker in every reformatory movement, Mr. Chase's career has been almost phenomenal in persistency, efficiency and self-sacrifice. He has been a pioneer—a pathfinder in the wilderness of moss-grown superstitions and hide-bound dogmas, making the way clear for the army of freedom-loving men and women that was to follow and destroy it. For this reason this autobiography of his should find place in the home of every friend of human progress and spiritual enlightenment, and be valued as a monument to his memory and his work.

CONTENTS.

CHAPTER I. Internal and External Forebodings of Social, Political and Religious Convulsions, Personal and General, resulting in a Social Effort by the Author.
II. Birth of Spiritualism—Failure of Fourierism—Political Career Opened, and Sketches on the Path of Life by the Crooked and Tangled Line—The First Spiritual Paper, The Univercœlum, and its Objects Explained.
III. Early Work—Boston Investigator—Univercœlum, Spirit Messenger, and Early Workers, etc.
IV. Catalogue of Names and Short Biographical Notices of Early Workers and Persecutions.
V. A Brief and Brilliant Political Career.
VI. Threading my Way along the "Hard Road to Travel On"—Incidents and Events in the Path of Life.
VII. What I have learned from Forty Years' Intercourse with Spirits—Sexual Life in the Spirit-World—My Social, Political and Religious Creed, etc.
VIII. Extracts and Scraps of Correspondence running through Many Years, with Various and Progressive Ideas on Spirit-Life and Intercourse; with Scraps from my Scrap-book worth keeping and largely variegated.
IX. Poetical Selections from Various Sources, Personal and General—Good and Poor, but not Bad, greatly mixed, in Published and Unpublished Scraps.

The volume is embellished with a portrait of the author.

12mo, cloth, pp. 324. Price $1.00; postage 10 cents

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

NEW AND ENLARGED EDITION.

The Spiritual Wreath,

A NEW COLLECTION OF WORDS AND MUSIC FOR THE

Choir, Congregation and Social Circle.

BY S. W. TUCKER.

CONTENTS:

Angels, Come to Me.	Shall We Know Each Other There?
Angel Presence.	The Happy By-and-Bye.
Beautiful Isle.	The Soul's Destiny.
Come Angels.	The Angel of His Presence.
Compensation.	There is No Death.
Day by Day.	They Still Live.
Going Home.	The Better Land.
Guardian Angels.	The Music of Our Hearts.
Home of Rest.	The Freeman's Hymn.
Hope for the Sorrowing.	The Vanished.
Humility.	They will Meet Us on the Shore.
Happy Thoughts.	The Eden Above.
He's Gone.	The Other Side.
I'm Called to the Better Land.	Will You Meet Me Over There?
I Thank Thee, oh, Father.	Who will Guide my Spirit Home?
Jubilate.	Whisper Us of Spirit-Life.
My Spirit Home.	Waiting On This Shore.
Nearer Home.	Waiting 'Mid the Shadows.
Over There.	Welcome Home.
Passed On.	Welcome Angels.
Reconciliation.	We Long to be There.
Repose.
She Has Crossed the River.
Strike your Harps.
Some Day of Days.

NEW PIECES.

Bethany.	Ready to Go.
By love we arise.	Sweet Rest at Home.
Gone Before.	They 're Calling Us over the Sea.
Gone Home.	We 'll Know Each Other There.
Invocation Chant.	We 'll Meet Them By-and-Bye.
I shall know his angel name.	Will Bloom Again.
Nearing the Goal.	When Earthly Labors Close.
No Weeping There.
Our Home Beyond the River.
Parting Hymn.
Rest on the Evergreen Shore.

Boards. Price: Single copies, 35 cents; per dozen, $3.50. (A few copies of old edition at 25 cents per copy, or twelve copies for $2.50.)

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

BANNER OF LIGHT.

AN EXPONENT OF THE PHILOSOPHY OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY.

VOL. LXIII. | COLBY & RICH, Publishers and Proprietors. | BOSTON, SATURDAY, MAY 26, 1888. | $3,00 Per Annum, Postage Free. | NO. 11.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

FIRST PAGE.—Free Thought: What Constitutes a Positive Soul-Condition? Futile Struggles of the Opposition; Disintegration of Mind. Poetry: Memorial Poem. Children's Department: Only in Fun.

SECOND PAGE.—Mr. Baxter's Recent Work. Banner Correspondence: Letters from Massachusetts, New Jersey, Tennessee, Illinois, Connecticut, California, New York, Rhode Island, Minnesota, Indiana, and Colorado. Letter from Mrs. Clara A. Field. Spiritualist Lecturers, etc.

THIRD PAGE.—Poetry: Her Dilemma. Séance with an Old-Time Medium. Rev. Mr. Talmage on Modern Spiritualism. New Publications, etc.

FOURTH PAGE.—Journalistic Calumny. No Women Allowed in the Conference. The Cooper Testimonial. Rabbi Schindler's Lectures. All Sorts of Paragraphs, etc.

FIFTH PAGE.—The Spiritualist Camp-Meetings. American Spiritualist Alliance. Movements of Mediums and Lecturers. New Advertisements, etc.

SIXTH PAGE.—Message Department: Questions Answered through the Mediumship of Miss M. T. Shelhamer; Spirit Messages given through the Mediumship of Mrs. B. F. Smith. A Satisfactory Spirit-Message.

SEVENTH PAGE.—Verifications of Spirit-Messages. Obituary Notices. Spiritualist Meetings. Mediums in Boston. Book and Miscellaneous Advertisements.

EIGHTH PAGE.—Spiritualist Meetings in Boston, New York and Elsewhere. A Fraternal Example. Massachusetts' Verdict, etc.

Free Thought.

WHAT CONSTITUTES A POSITIVE SOUL-CONDITION?

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

In its simplest terms, it signifies a superior soul-impetus over that of its surrounding spirit-body. Now there are undoubtedly many who are thus constituted, for such constitutes the natural human condition — this beginning where the animal reaches a superior soul-condition or growth over that of the spirit-body existing in connection with it, and man naturally begins life with an animalistic spirit-body, or one acting entirely for a sensuous effect. In conjunction with only a fraction of positive or spiritual impetus over the negative or material, and ignorant as to the moral requirements of a spiritual being, he almost universally relapses into the negative state during his primitive incarnation. But once a human spirit, there is no return to the animal kingdom, despite his return to the animal plane as such—one human incarnation being sufficient to purify or transform a portion of his spirit-body into a state of existence having a purely spiritual or intelligent effect, even if this transformed animal impetus does not become intelligence per se, like that of the soul itself. But it permits the soul-nature to amalgamate with it for an intelligent effect, and thus retains its human condition.

Now it does not relapse into the negative state, because the soul decreases in size, but because the spirit-body increases—more sensual than intellectual indulgence during a life's period acts in favor of the spirit-body, and not the soul; and it is reasonable to suppose that the undeveloped races indulge the former in preference to the latter, and thus their return to the negative, or the animal soul-condition. But this does not interfere with the soul's unceasing energy in operating on the material for a spiritualizing effect, and thus creating a condition compatible with its own—the aim of the human soul being to unfold an exterior appendage entirely freed from animalism, and to rise above the animal, or material plane of existence, by adding sufficient force or intelligent impetus to its own condition that will make it positive to material law or attraction. Love-actions and the acquirement of knowledge accomplish this, and in comparison to its degree of positivity it not only rises in the spiritual spheres, but takes rank in mortal life as a controlling power. In a word, the positive man rules, politically and financially—his superior will and penetration being his natural inheritance for this effect.

Of course, some misuse their superior power, but this constitutes selfishness or soul-discord, as sensualism constitutes discord of the spirit-body—selfishness lending the soul a negative impetus in comparison to the force of the evil, and places it in discord with divine nature or the positive of existence, whether it happen to be on the spiritual or material plane at the time being, and naturally in accord with spirits of like condition. Negative souls, on the contrary, when freed from discord, have the sympathy of positive spirits, because they recognize in such the struggling ones of earth, who have fallen to the animal plane through ignorance, and not through selfishness or arrogance—misapplied spirituality. Now, some are born with these evils, but are intuitively striving to overcome them, and although meaning well, they meet with misfortunes nevertheless. Such is due to their negative attractions, who cannot give them the material aid that positive spirits can to mortal; this may be regarded as a wise arrangement when we consider the damage possible, if negative spirits could aid man in this respect.

In the first place, soul-positivity can only be attained by self-exertion, and such would not be benefited in the end; and if negative or discordant spirits possessed the power of control over material things, too many unworthy ones would be aided for unworthy purposes. Thus law or God provides in a way that all are justly dealt with, and those who cannot rule must serve. No mortal wishes to be governed by an animal, and so positive soul-beings feel reluctant to be governed by negative soul-beings or mortals on the animal plane. The former intuitively feel their superiority over the latter, even if the latter often suffer keenly under their disrespect or contempt, although contempt is only manifested when discord exists in conjunction with negativity, and by which the sensitive ones may gauge their standard of perfection—positivity in conjunction with soul-harmony and spirit-purification always commanding respect unsolicited.

Thus the aim of man is to attain a positive soul-condition, freed from discord, and a spirit-body freed from animalism—the latter becoming transformed from an opaque to a transparent condition as the same is purified or spiritualized, as it were, which has been shown to us clairvoyantly, and we made to sense psychometrically at the same moment, in order to convince us of this fact—such completing its mission and releasing it from the physical by virtue of its purely intelligent impetus, which it naturally assumes at this stage. What degree of soul-positivity man is enabled to stand before disintegration takes place, depends, perhaps, on the animus left in the spirit-body to counterbalance the surplus of soul-positivity. We are told that a force of 12 over the negative constitutes the ultimate, because the original composition of the earth contains a spiritual force of 56 to a material force of 44, and is therefore the highest state attainable on this planet. From this we may infer that souls long departed, or those who have developed beyond a force of 12 in favor of the positive, cannot sufficiently combine with matter as to control mediums directly, and must resort to inspiration in order to reach them. And as like attracts like, we suppose a medium, who is inspired by such spirits, must possess some degree of soul-positivity freed from discord, and a good share of spirit-purification, in order to lay claim to ancient spirits and others of a higher order as their guides. But as the majority of spirits who still inhabit the sphere of earth must be of modern date, we cannot see much importance in high-sounding names or those of ancient date, for if such are still enabled to control mediums for a material effect, they must have been very tardy in their progress as positive beings, and thus cannot possess any more information or knowledge of the absolute than nineteenth century spirits of the same category, and we should suppose the latter better suited as companions than the former, as they must understand our present wants better.

But tastes differ, and if some feel honored in being controlled by once titled personages, there can be no harm. We, at all events, feel most comfortable, and free from suspicion, when they approach without titles, as Spiritualism teaches us to judge the spirits by their deeds, and not their names—except for identification in matters of practical importance, as in tests, or when they approach as well-known friends, relatives, etc. Outside of this, we are mostly approached by spirits of our own pattern, and as long as we have not reached soul-positivity, or spiritual purification, we will not be directly controlled by spirits from the angelic spheres, and when we do reach it, we are more apt to be among them in person than they among us.

But such is the light imparted to us, and whether correctly interpreted or not, we leave to the future, hoping that some day, not far off, we will all meet in the positive soul-condition!

A. F. MELCHERS.

FUTILE STRUGGLES OF THE OPPOSITION.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

The opposers of Spiritualism who have come on the stage of action since 1850 are taking a hand in the matter of explaining away the Spiritualist's theory as to how slate-writing and other manifestations are produced, and are writing out long and labored articles explanatory of their explanations, as they foolishly believe their readers in the daily press can be prevailed upon to believe. Once more we hear in quarters where people should be wiser, of the "toe-cracking" and "knee-snapping" theory of 1850–'52 as to the "how" the raps were produced by the Fox Sisters; and one wise head of later growth puts in the explanation relative to Dr. Slade's mode of producing slate-writing—all which fall to the ground with the old veterans, who know by repeated experience that thousands of such writings have been given, and that the proof of spirit agency in their production comes more from the subject matter written than from the manner in which it is written. For instance, Dr. Slade was present with me alone three or four years ago, and there came to me a communication on the slate which was written in a good legible hand, and signed by a person known to me to be deceased, but whose Christian name I did not know, but learned of after the writing was done. If Dr. Slade had taken a pencil in his own hand he could not have written it as written then, neither could I have written it, because neither of us knew the name or anything about the subject matter of the writing.

I once received a like slate communication from an old partner of mine, who died of small-pox in California in 1852, which covered one side of a large slate, with his name written in full, thus: "George W. Hastings." If the medium had taken a pencil, and in her normal condition had tried to have written out the sentiments in that writing she could not have done so, neither could I. (My friends in Waterville, Me., may remember the sad and terrible death of George W. Hastings, to whom I here allude.) The peculiar handwriting and the sentiments thereof precluded the idea of the medium's voluntary part in the communication.

Again: Sitting alone with persons who could neither read nor write in their normal condition, I have received tests equal to those coming to me through better educated mediumistic persons. In my own family, through my little ones, I have also received such. The correspondents of the New York World and papers of lesser note would have us believe that all who pose as mediums, young and old alike, are deceivers and practice the "black art" on us: Our wives, our brothers and sisters, even our little lisping children, all, all are deceivers, and are practicing deception upon us—known under the general name of legerdemain. They would make us believe, if they could, that the little Fox Girls, hardly out of infancy, practiced cunning tricks upon hundreds who visited them, and deceived and led astray some of the very elect.

Gentlemen of the secular press, are not your old, worn-out arguments too late for use in this year of light? Are you not wasting too much of your precious time in kicking "against the pricks"? "Fill up the measure of your fathers," if you will, but remember that "the stone which the builders rejected" will yet "become the head of the corner," the key-stone of the arch.

The Church and the so-called "upper classes" of society have become desperate because of the inroads Spiritualism has made, and is destined to still further make upon their premises, and leave no stone unturned that may help stay the incoming tide of truth. But we all know that there is not a baker's dozen in any one of the individual congregations of the northern cities and towns in our country who implicitly believe to-day in the creeds and dogmas thereof. And why? Simply because reason has taken the place of credulity, and intelligence of ignorance. Men and women have worked out their salvation from the stupid effects of old theology, and the knowledge of God and his laws covers this part of the earth as the sunlight does.

The proof of the fact of the intercommunion of this world and the next, is as well substantiated and fixed as is any fact in nature. Therefore all efforts in the World or through the world to prove it otherwise are impotent.

S. C. CRANE.

Potsdam, N. Y., April 11th, 1888.

DISINTEGRATION OF MIND.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

Facts are stubborn things. Faith, hope and belief though strong as dynamite cannot remove them, and in this case we have some facts that science must admit into her catalogue, however strongly the agnostic skeptic may object. It has long been a settled and well-known fact that the human body, with very rare exceptions of preservation, disintegrates after death, and that the particles, by whatever power brought together and held together during life, separate after the mind and the power that made it, which we call the soul, leaves it; these particles, lifted into gases and the atmosphere, largely fall back and join in making up new bodies and often die in many human bodies, thus making impossible the Christian theory of a physical resurrection, on which for more than one thousand years they have based their hopes and belief of a life after death.

When science in this way removed the basis of the Christian's hope, the skeptics and doubters, of whom I was one, supposed they had equally good evidence that the mind came under the same law, and also disintegrated at death, as the case that held it in this life did. That the body was made and grew in the collection and adhesion of particles by some power unknown and beyond the reach of the scientist, which the Christian called God, but which was equally beyond his reach and knowledge, was an admitted fact, and that it would disintegrate was equally well settled, and only the agency of an unknown God who paid no attention to the laws of nature, which we recognize as God's laws, could restore the forms for a renewal of the same personal life; and yet this was and still is largely the Christian belief, and as Mr. Beecher said, the Christian belief in a physical resurrection is the strongest force arrayed against cremation.

That the mind is collected, developed and organized through the senses, experiences and observations, after the body is formed and born, and in conformity to the brain, has long been an established fact, and hence, being an organization connected with and working in the body and apparently affected if not wholly controlled by it, it was surely not strange that so many students and sound reasoners should conclude that it would disintegrate at the time (or soon after) its house was destroyed or rendered untenable. As we were only acquainted with and dealing with minds in the bodies, how could we know there were any without earthly bodies? Many do not now deal with any others, and they surely are not to be blamed for not knowing there are any such minds fully organized and intact without earthly bodies—and the same minds that once occupied such bodies as we see around us; but when any one gets the knowledge conveyed by Modern Spiritualism, it becomes a fact and settles the question to him that the mind does not disintegrate at death or with the body; facts cannot be set aside by theories, therefore the theory must admit and conform to the fact. This is where we now stand as Spiritualists, and we neither require nor need any more of Christian supernaturalism to account for spiritual or mental life after death than for this life and its growth, birth and death. There is a law in nature which accounts for and supplies both, however ignorant of that law we may be; and to me it is no more a mystery than the law by which a seed germinates and develops a beautiful and fragrant flower.

I cannot see why a superior mental and spiritual sphere may not, by evolution, rise out of this mundane sphere as flowers do out of the soil; and I have the facts over all theories, that my friends do live after their bodies are laid in the grave.

WARREN CHASE.

Evansville, Ind.

Written for the Banner of Light.

MEMORIAL POEM
FOR DECORATION DAY, 1888.

Dedicated to the G. A. R.,

BY JOHN W. DAY,

Post 57.

"Their sun shall no more go down, neither shall their moon withdraw itself; for God shall be their everlasting light."—Isaiah.

Once more the fife's shrill warning thrills
Along the Northland's granite hills;
Once more, with ensigns trailing low,
We breathe the tale of long ago—
While drums roll out, and trumpets sound,
And all our land is holy ground!

As sped Loch Katrine's fiery cross
Fair Scotia's mountain glens along,
So in those years of pain and loss
Rang forth stern Freedom's gathering song;
And mill, and farm, and forest glade,
Poured forth their toilers undismayed!

The sturdy sire with sinewy limb,
The youth with promise burning high,
Passed, while the Nation's eye grew dim,
'Mid trench and fevered swamp to die:
Our Union's deadly price they told
With sun-bronzed cheeks—not Indian gold.

As on the far Judean shore
The coming Martyr poured the wine
And broke the bread—his wand'rings o'er,
And left it for a solemn sign:
"Whene'er assembled ye may be,
In this one rite remember me!"

They poured their lives like chancel wine;
Their flesh was parted for a prey;
And we with springtide flower and vine
Meet in their mem'ry here to-day,
Who dared in Freedom's cause enlist
And taste her gory Eucharist!

Oh, brothers, from the ambient skies
Come to our time-chill'd hearts to-day,
As 'mid the ling'ring snows arise
The bold arbutus buds of May:
Though round you Eden's splendors fall
O'er shimm'ring plain and jasper wall.

Why do we call? Ye have not fled:
Heaven's gates stand open at your will,
Ye walk where'er our feet are led,
Ye are our comrades—loved ones still!
Ye 'll guide us through the waters high,
When roars the foaming Jordan by!

To you, my comrades, living still
In earthly forms of ageing clay:
What stirring mem'ries thronging thrill
Our hearts on "Decoration Day,"
Of hours when hand and sword were wed;
Of camp, and march, and war-field red.

The bugle's swelling strain has died
Along the brown hill's shot-plowed crest;
Hush'd is the shout of martial pride,
And stilled the wildly throbbing breast;
For Victory walked the trembling plain—
And Freedom claimed her own again!

The ziz-zag fence, whence carbines flash'd,
As early morning crystal beamed:
The slope where rumbling cannon dash'd,
And charging bayonets clashed and gleamed,
In time's illuming radiance shine
On history's page——a blood-writ line.

We reached our homes; to some were given
A future's fair and cloudless day;
But some, with wounds and sickness riven,
Still watch life's gloomy night away—
They grimly watch, 'mid toil and pain,
With want and woe, grim comrades twain!

Oh, give them aid! War's blast shall blow—
Again the Nation's sight grow dim—
And He who guides the centuries' flow
Shall see the battle's furnace glow,
And life-leaves torn the winds bestrow,
And sulph'rous navies blazing swim:
But if with grateful children armed,
The storm-swept State shall 'scape unharmed!

Here 'neath the sun that sees no slave,
We lift the voice of solemn praise,
From Eastern to Pacific wave:
ONE LAND, ONE FLAG FOR COMING DAYS!
God keep us free from shore to shore
"Till sun shall rise and set no more"!

THE MIND-CURE AND THE DENTISTS.—A writer in the Hartford Courant says that "a lady patient came last week to have a tooth extracted, and brought her mind-cure doctor with her, she said, 'to prevent pain during the operation.' He stood near the operating chair, and, although my patient showed evidences of suffering, she declared that the operation was absolutely painless! So we were obliged to score one more for the metaphysicians." He tells a queer story about a patient who came to have an upper set of teeth extracted. She insisted upon taking ether. It was in the early days of ether, and there was none of it at hand. In this emergency he put a few drops of the essence of peppermint in some water and directed his patient, when ready, to swallow the dose, immediately open her mouth, and the operation would be painless. She did as directed; in a twinkling the teeth were out, while she exclaimed, "What a wonderful thing this ether is! I have n't suffered the slightest pain!"

RUSSIAN SLEEPING CARS.—These cars are not so large and roomy—fine as ours, but they are full of sleep, and in some respects are better ones. They are in compartments. Man and wife may have a bedroom by themselves; parents and children state-rooms all together; single men may room in more promiscuous groups; the aisle, instead of running through the center of the car, runs right along one side, from which doors open into bedrooms, as they should. You get your room, you go inside and shut your door, undress, and go to bed. You sleep athwart, not fore and aft, as on the American cars, your beds are real beds—spring bottoms, soft hair mattrasses—not the bumpy seats that you and other soggy folks have sat upon all day.—Ex.

Children's Department.

ONLY IN FUN.

BY M. T. SHELHAMER.

"Let 's have some fun, boys! See that little humpbacked newsboy coming down the street? Let 's grab his papers and throw them into the mud just to see him whimper over them."

The boy who made this unmanly proposition was one of a group of lads standing at the junction of two wide streets in the heart of a great city. He was about fourteen years of age, well-dressed, and had the appearance of one who was well fed and cared for. His two companions might have been of the same age, and had nothing remarkable in their appearance, as they lounged at the corner, evidently waiting for a bit of fun.

"I won't do it, Al Stebbins, though I 'd like to see the fun of it, and I'll give the beggar a nickel to help him out, if it spoils the papers," spoke up the second of the group in answer to the first. "I dare you to do it. Here he is now—go ahead!"

The third lad, as if almost ashamed of his companions, stood back against the wall of a building and said nothing, while his two friends started forward as poor little Jimmy Allen, with his bundle of papers under his arm, came down the street calling bravely: "Herald—three o'clock! All the latest news of the big fire; Herald!" He was small for his age, eleven years, and pale, with a pinched, tired look; his body was warped and stunted in a cruel manner, and a large hump between the shoulders made the little man a forlorn object to gaze upon.

Just as he came up to them, the two lads started forward, and the little newsboy unavoidably ran against them in his haste to find a possible customer at the street corner.

"What do you mean, you homely little beggar, in striking against me in that way?" shouted the youth who had been called "Al Stebbens," as he seized the package of papers from under Jimmy's arm, and in pretended rage hurled it into the muddy street. "There! take that for your impudence!"

The pale face of the newsboy grew even paler, and his lips twitched at the outrage committed upon him; but looking up into the face of his tormentor with the air of a little gentleman he said: "I did not mean to run agin yer; yer stepped out so quick I could n't help it. I 'm sorry, but yer 've spoiled my papers"—and the little chap broke down in a sob.

"Oh! my, see him whimper; well, it served you right, you beggar!"

"I 'm no beggar," and Jimmy Allen's pale face flushed scarlet as he replied to this taunt thrown at him for the second time: "I earn my livin', an' I reckon I 'm as good as yerself if yer do wear store clees, an' are better looking."

"Better looking! I should think so," cried "Al Stebbens," in fury; "there! take that for your sauce"—and he gave the poor little cripple a blow that sent him reeling into the street.

"A fight! a fight! come on fellers! what 's the row?" cried a boy with a bootblack's box in hand, rushing to the scene, followed by two or three street urchins of various ages: "As I 'm alive, if here is n't one of the high-toned fellers swooping down on Jimmy Allen. Oh! my now! aint yer ashamed of yer pooty self to hit a poor little mite like that?" and the boy with the box faced the flushed and angry Stebbens with a leer.

"I 'll give you one, too, if you don't mind your own business. I was only in fun when I grabbed his papers; but he sauced me, so I laid him out, as I 'll do you in a minute."

"Only in fun!" and the scorn in the bootblack's voice was worthy that of the highest and noblest man in town: "An' yer 'll lay me out, will yer? Well, I guess not; I 'm 's big as you, an' more used to hard knocks; so come on," and he placed his box on the ground, to get ready for a grand scuffle with his foe.

But glancing around, the bravery of the aggressor suddenly vanished as he discovered that his two companions had disappeared, and that the boot-black, who seemed a host in himself, and not in need of any assistance, had nevertheless been followed by a small squad of boys with sticks and stones, who stood ready to do battle at a moment's notice; consequently "Al Stebbens" began to retreat from the mêlee that he had raised.

But Bob, the bootblack, was not ready to let him go as yet, for with an air of determination he said: "Close up, fellers; do n't let him git away. Come here, Jimmy," to the newsboy, who had gathered himself and his papers out of the mud, and now stood in the rear; "tell us all about it; what did this fine beauty say ter yer?"

"He called me a homely beggar, an' grabbed my papers 'cause I happened to run agin him when he got in my way; I know I 'm homely, but I be no beggar, an' I told him so; I said I wer sorry I run agin him, but I could n't help it," said Jimmy, telling his story in a simple, straightforward manner.

"Yes; and he said he was as good as [illegible], and then I hit him, the homely little wre[illegible]

"Do n't yer dare say that agin; I gu[illegible] as good as yerself, an' a great deal better, mind his own bizness, an' he do n't ste[illegible] people's property, an' spile it, as yer d[illegible] his stock in trade. Git out o' this, or I 'll fetch yer one anyway!" and Bob squared his arms as for a blow: "Guess Jimmy is handsomer than you," he continued in scorn; "guess he is; why he takes care o' himself, an' helps his grandad, too; guess yer do n't do nothin' but loaf, an' make folks trouble. They do say the angels sees us all," and at the sudden thought Bob's rugged face softened—"an' if they do, as the Mission folks say, then they must think Jimmy is a handsome boy, 'cause 'handsome is as handsome does,' an' yer must be as homely as a crooked cow's horn to 'em."

By this time there was a cry of "Cop! cop!" from one of the small boys in the rear; quite a crowd of men and women had collected, and stood watching the scene with interest. The sympathy of each was manifestly with Jimmy Allen and his champion, and "Al Stebbens," who had started out for some fun, was now regarded on all sides with disfavor. Already hands were withdrawn from pockets and fingers were busy dropping cents and nickels into the hand of the deformed boy, who stood hugging his muddy papers to his breast; the little fellow was flushed and ashamed, and muttered something about "being no beggar," but a kindly hand was placed upon his shoulder as a benevolent-looking man said to him: "No, my lad, you are not a beggar; but your wares have been spoiled by a rude and selfish boy, and we must not let you suffer through his unkindness. Take these contributions in payment for the papers you cannot sell. As for you, sir"—addressing the reckless lad who had caused all this disturbance, with an air of severe judgment—"go home and ask pardon of your God for the wrong you have done, and may you be kept from such evil doing in the future."

"Al Stebbens," now thoroughly abashed, slunk away, not, however, without being followed by a half brick, thrown by the hand of one of the urchins who remained, and which fell just short of his retreating figure.

"Yer should n't ha' done that, Jack," said Bob the bootblack in a reproving tone; "I guess he's got enough ter last him."

"Well," muttered Jack, "did n't the Mission folks tell us fellers 'bout the army of the Lord that has to fight his battles agin the Evil One? an' war n't he one of the Evil One's, I 'd like ter know—knocking Jimmy down an' spiling his trade? 'Spect we belong to the Lord's army, anyhow, an' a brickbat 's as good as a sword sometimes. I say, Jimmy, how much have yer got anyway?"

All the others had scattered but the little deformed boy and Bob and Jack; they paused in a sheltered doorway while Jimmy counted his cash: "Two dollars, an' sixty-three coppers; that's pretty good, an' I 'm glad for yer. Yer lost twenty-three papers at two cents apiece; well, yer 've come out all right, Jimmy. Run home now an' get yer grandad some supper; an' next time any one gits down on yer, jest call on Jack an' me, an' we 'll see yer through."

Our little readers may be sure that Jimmy was grateful to his kind friends. He wished to share his sudden wealth with them, but this they would not listen to. His dreams that night were not unhappy ones, nor were those of Bob and Jack, who, in their rude but friendly way, had come to his relief in the hour of need; but we may be certain that the angels who gazed into the heart of the unkind boy who had persecuted the little cripple "only in fun" must have considered him most deformed and unlovely.

Mr. Baxter's Recent Work.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

For several weeks past places in northern Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire have been greatly stirred and benefited by the outspoken lectures and decided mediumship of J. Frank Baxter, particularly Gardner, Peterboro' and Winchendon. On Sunday, May 6th, Mr. Baxter was announced to lecture, sing and exercise mediumship in the large Town Hall of Gardner. In the afternoon some three hundred convened, and in the evening over eight hundred. The exercises were varied and unique, the lectures grand, and Mr. Baxter's good reputation as a medium was fully sustained. Both the Gardner journals spoke in complimentary terms of Mr. Baxter and his forcible work.

On Monday evening, May 7th, we were present in Peterboro', N. H., where Mr. Baxter lectured in the Opera House. The Peterboro' Transcript, which seems to find it incumbent to cater to its conservative, if not prejudiced community, gave a half-column notice of the meeting and those of Mr. Emerson which occurred on the two evenings following, in which it spoke as favorably as allowed of Mr. Baxter's music and lectures, yet of his own and Mr. Emerson's mediumship it evinced prejudice, not to say ignorance. Of Mr. Baxter, whom we report (we were not present at Mr. Emerson's meetings), the Transcript said:

"J. Frank Baxter, one of the ablest advocates of Spiritualism in the country, lectured in the Town Hall Monday evening. His presentation of the standing and tendency of Spiritualism was ingenious, forcible and interesting. In fact it was the strongest and best lecture on this subject we have ever heard, and must have been very satisfactory to all believers. He quoted from a large number of eminent divines who endorse Spiritualism in the strongest terms, and claimed with great confidence and assurance that the day is not far distant when it will be the leading or prevailing belief among the nations of the earth. Mr. Baxter is also a fine singer, and sung several songs with charming effect. Had this comprised the full programme all present would have voted it one of the most interesting and enjoyable lectures or entertainments held here this winter. But undoubtedly the so-called communications from departed spirits which followed were more pleasing and satisfactory, to a portion of the audience at least, than all the rest, though it would be difficult for them to say what had been learned or wherein they were benefited by them."

The editor could not understand how Mr. Emerson could see spirits as mortals clothed in earthly habiliments, and with their deformities, bandages and "porous plasters," since his early education had taught him spirits were clothed in spotless white. The editor needs a little study of psychological law and its effects, at a time when he can be untrammeled by the vagaries of dogmatic theology.

On Sunday, May 13th, Mr. Baxter appeared in Winchendon, a place which has had no lecture on the subject for twenty-eight years, and but once ever. Apparently it was with fear and trembling as to results on the part of the Spiritualists. We knew Mr. Baxter so well we had no fears, but we were present and bound to note the effect. The day was dubious, and most of the time the weather was execrable. We were not surprised, then, that not more than one hundred and twenty-five assembled in the afternoon. But they were well paid, and listened attentively as Mr. Baxter entertainingly related many of his experiences, and were instructed by his ingenious method of teaching by his interpolations of appropriate running comment.

That afternoon advertised his merits, and at 7:30, evening, it was necessary to open the gallery of the roomy hall, for it was found that every seat was occupied. And such a lecture, so well adapted and plainly put, was never uttered in Winchendon before! To the BANNER OF LIGHT readers, who are so conversant with Mr. Baxter's methods, it is only necessary to announce his theme, and they can easily imagine his course, and the effects. It was "Spiritualism; Is it of God or the Devil? Is it Jesus-Taught or Anti-Christ? Is it Biblical or Non-Scriptural? Is it Reasonable or Absurd?" It was controversial, and in Mr. Baxter's best [illegible] Baxter's séance was a good one, but so to most of his audience that a hush came the same, a puzzled look appeared on many ntenance, and as a whole they were dumded.

CHESHIRE.

The republic of Chili is engaged in building two lines of railroad across the continent to the Argentine Republic.

A kicking mare in Portland, Me., has been named "She," because she makes her rider haggard.—Labor Leader.

Banner Correspondence.

Massachusetts.

BOSTON.—A. S. Hayward writes: "Recently a German woman related to me an experience that she and her husband had in Spiritualism. She has been a Spiritualist some years, and is somewhat mediumistic. Her husband had a sick sister residing in Roxbury, who was decidedly against Spiritualism. She had talked with this sister-in-law on the subject, and advised her not to go among the Spiritualists. A few months ago her brother visited her, and she, knowing that she had but a few days to live, said to her brother that if Spiritualism was true, and she could return, she would do so to him.

A short time after her exit he distinctly saw his spirit-sister stand beside him. He fully recognized her, but she did not speak to him. She came and went for more than three hours, but not a word did she utter. When he went to his dinner he told his wife of his experience, and wondered why his sister did not speak, as well as show herself to him. He was so overcome by what had occurred that he did not eat any dinner, but with his wife went to another village in the same town to learn what their granddaughter would see for them, she being a trance medium. They said nothing to the girl of the cause of their visit. She became entranced, spoke of the sister being present, and of nothing further; but, said the spirit guide of the girl, I should think she came to fulfill a promise made. The thought then for the first time came to the brother concerning what was agreed upon by his sister before she took her departure. Everything was then understood, and my informant and her husband returned home, satisfied that the sister was as good as her word. The woman also gave me some account of the wonderful experience of her grandchild as a clairaudient, clairvoyant and physical medium.

Doubtless if the spiritual gifts were cultivated in this German family, good results would follow."

ONSET.—"Excelsior" writes: "Who, either consciously or unconsciously, does not sigh for liberty—liberty—freedom in its true and purest sense? One who has enjoyed a certain degree of freedom—spiritual, intellectual or physical—then through some fatuitous circumstance has been deprived of that boon, can say how keenly he has felt its loss, how he did not fully realize the great blessing till he knew that blessing gone. Oh! thou Goddess of Liberty, thee only will I recognize as worthy of worship, for the larger our share of thy favors the greater our capacity for conferring them on others; the better are we able to unlink the fetters of the captive, as we ourselves have been set free. The expression of a wish, the trembling of a sigh for that Truth which sets us free and makes us lovers of Liberty, is enough to bring myriads of kindred spirits to our aid. We are not alone; it is the poor slave who is lonely—be he a slave to this world's greed of gain or his own passions—a slave to any habit he may have contracted, any of the innumerable gods who hold sway over this lower plane, ay, even to the God of Love himself; that one is lonely who makes not all subservient to Liberty pure and simple: Liberty, which knows no law than that of following our highest, best and noblest impulses—which has no fear save that of injuring, ever so slightly, a fellow-creature, and which owns no other motive but that of benefiting the entire human race. Cast away, then, all shackles, all that impedes thy flight, thou Child of Nature; acknowledge no bondage but thine own better-self—then and only then wilt thou be sure to secure the confidence of all who come in contact with thee."

SPRINGFIELD.—"Observer" writes: "The meetings held by the Spiritualists at Grand Army Hall, in this beautiful city, are increasing in interest and numbers under the ministrations of A. A. Wheelock and the mediumship of Miss Emma Nickerson and Mrs W. A. Rich, both of Boston. Mr. Wheelock's logic in argument has a far-reaching mental grasp, while with finest analysis and apt illustration he carries his audience along the illuminated pathway of explanation to the fountains of knowledge and truth.

Sunday, May 13th, afternoon, in a discourse upon 'The Status of Women,' he referred to the recent discussion in the Methodist Conference in New York, and showed how bravely woman is battling for the right of suffrage.

There were some keen, cutting, though just criticisms regarding the course pursued by man, who, while pretending that woman is an equal, a citizen, assumes the prerogative of making all the laws, and arrogates to himself the especial privilege of sending her to States Prison for crime, and hanging her for murder, while denying her a voice in the law by which it is done!

In the evening his subject was upon what he termed 'A Cowardly Assault by Two Clergymen (Mills and Talmage) upon a Defenseless Woman—called "The Witch of Endor."' No sketch can do this or the afternoon discourse justice.

Mrs. W. A. Rich, upon being introduced, proceeded without hesitation, in a pleasant and graceful manner, to describe spirits she saw in the audience. She gave full names, and such definite descriptions of persons, and the circumstances of their earth-life and death, that there could be little or no doubt as to what she saw, and the truthfulness of it. She gave seventeen tests in the afternoon, all but two being fully recognized, and about the same number in the evening, after the lecture, to the manifest satisfaction of the large audience."

New Jersey.

BELVIDERE.—A correspondent writes: "The commencement exercises of the Belvidere Seminary were held on Tuesday evening, May 8th, before an audience that completely filled the spacious parlors of that institution. At an early hour the guests began to assemble, and soon after eight o'clock, when the exercises began, the seats in the auditorium were all occupied.

Becomingly attired in white, the young ladies made a beautiful picture that charmed the eye, and the interesting character of the exercises deepened the good impression already formed.

The graduates were Miss Adelaide Fitch of Vineland, N. J., and Misses Gould and Gutberlet of Greenwich, Mass., to whom diplomas were awarded at the close of the exercises. Other pupils taking part were Misses Vandruff, Hargreaves and Compton, of Clifton, Ill.; Miss Nellie B. Hubbard, of Chicago, Ill.; Miss Mattie Skeels, of Cincinnati, O.; Miss Lucie Fleetwood, of Hartford, Conn.; Mr. C. Roy Darrow of Guilford, Conn., and Mr. Philip Flummerfelt, of Belvidere.

The principal part of the programme was as follows: salutatory (with essay), 'Onward and Upward,' Minnie Gutberlet; recitation, 'Legend of Bregenz,' Jessie L. Vandruff; essay, 'Be of Good Cheer,' Annie E. Hargreaves; recitation, 'Asleep at the Switch,' Emily A. Compton; piano solo, 'Der Freischütz,' Annie E. Hargreaves; recitation, 'The Lost Child,' Mattie G. Skeels; class poem, 'We Girls,' Jessie L. Vandruff; essay, 'Patience is the Courage of Virtue,' Emily A. Compton; recitation, 'The Model Church,' Lucie F. Fleetwood; essay, 'Am I My Brother's Keeper?' Philip Flummerfelt; recitation, 'Aux Italiens,' Adelaide C. Fitch; recitation, 'The Bald-Headed Man,' Nellie B. Hubbard; essay, 'The Golden Mile-Stone, with Class Prophecy,' Fannie M. Gould; piano solo, 'I Puritani,' Emily A. Compton; recitation, 'The Witch of Wenham Lake,' Minnie Gutberlet; piano solo,' 'Wer weiss, ob wir uns wiedersehn,' Annie E. Hargreaves; recitation, C. Roy Darrow; recitation,' Briar Rose,' Fannie M. Gould; essay, 'Nature's Book,' with Valedictory, Adelaide C. Fitch.

Lack of space forbids anything more than a general notice of the most important features of the programme. The essays were of a very high order, in every instance showing depth of thought and skillful treatment of the subject in hand. The recitations were charmingly rendered and fully deserved the generous applause bestowed by the audience. The class of '88 and the teachers and pupils of the school have every reason to feel proud of the success of their Commencement."

PATERSON.—Warren Sumner Barlow writes: "The First Spiritual Society at this place was, during the first and second Sundays of May, highly entertained and benefited by the valuable services of Mr. and Mrs. Kates of Chattanooga, Tenn. Mr. Kates has a good delivery, and gives a sensible, philosophical lecture; while his companion is not only a fine speaker under control, but also as a public test-medium and psychometrist has few equals. Her tests are generally recognized, and often very remarkable. In her delineations of character, the entire history of a person becomes like an open book before her.

These worthy workers and most genial friends seem to have the cause at heart, and are intensely interested in building up the grand and glorious philosophy of Spiritualism. To this end they voluntarily gave two public séances with their entire proceeds to our new and fast-growing society here in Paterson.

By their united and harmonious efforts and versatility of talent, they are able to do what few single-handed can accomplish in the upbuilding of this cause of all causes and truth of all truths. Long may they live to labor for the elevation of the race."

Tennessee.

BULL'S GAP.—Mrs. Alice Johnson writes: "Last January a party of six decided to sit for spirit manifestations. We knew nothing of how to proceed, excepting what we had read, and there was but one avowed Spiritualist in the number. We sat for an hour three nights, without any results. On the fourth we sat again, with two additions to our circle—my father-in-law, who is a very strong Spiritualist, and a young man who 'wished to see if there was anything in it.' After sitting for an hour or more, we were almost ready to give it up, thinking there was no medium among us, when my husband came in, and we prevailed on him to put his hand on the table. He ridiculed us, but finally sat down; in a few minutes we could hear a faint tapping on the table, like that of water dropping. As it became stronger, we asked questions, which were promptly answered. The spirit claimed to be my husband's mother, who died twenty-six years ago."

The circle continued its sittings, new mediums being from time to time developed, and a large number and variety of manifestations occurred, many of them of a physical nature being very demonstrative, and with the mental phenomena very convincing. These our correspondent describes quite minutely, but as they are similar to what our readers are generally familiar with, we omit her account of them. The experience of herself and friends illustrates the truth that the formation of neighborhood circles in the home of some one of their number is the most effective and satisfactory method of ascertaining whether there is or is not a solid foundation for the claims of Spiritualists. In closing Mrs. Johnson says:

"I have been a strong Spiritualist for nearly five years, and have been alone in my belief in the community, and have had to endure being called 'crazy' and other disagreeable things; but our little home-meetings this spring have proved the opening wedge, and there are several others now here who are firmly convinced of spirit return. Some of the 'holier than thou' professing Christians have said we were 'dealing with the devil'; still we meet, and considerable interest is manifest in regard to our meetings.

The more I learn of Spiritualism, the stranger it seems to me that Christians can reject it; it is the very heart and essence of their religion, yet prejudice will not let them acknowledge it."

Illinois.

CHICAGO.—George Cann, Secretary of the United Society of Spiritualists, writes that that organization celebrated the Fortieth Anniversary of Modern Spiritualism on Sunday, April 1st, at 2:30 P. M., in Madison street Theatre, an audience of five hundred being in attendance. "Mr. Gohegan, the President, presided. Frank C. Algerton, under influence of his guides, delivered the opening address. After the invocation questions were propounded, the answers to which, by the medium, highly interested and instructed the assemblage. The subject for the afternoon's discourse was 'Spiritualism Forty Years Ago, and Spiritualism Forty Years Hence.' Its treatment produced a profound impression upon the audience. Many skeptics and Christians present wondered how a young man without scholastic education could speak so eloquently and scientifically upon an impromptu subject, showing a depth of thought far surpassing many of the noted ministers of Chicago. Mr. Algerton, although but twenty-one years of age, and scarcely eighteen months upon the spiritualistic rostrum, is a most charming speaker, and convinces hundreds of the truths of inspiration. Among the prominent Spiritualists of Illinois and Missouri he is regarded as one of the finest trance speakers.

After the discourse Hon. Judge Holbrook addressed the audience, eliciting hearty applause by his appropriate remarks. He is a very forcible speaker, and his words carry conviction to the hearts of investigators. Tests were then given by Mrs. Thomas, many of which were recognized by the audience, and thus three hours of profitable communion with the spirit-world were had by an audience that included legal and literary lights of Chicago. The society, chartered in November, is doing a grand work for the cause, and adding scores to the already vast number who can truly and joyfully exclaim: 'Oh! Death, where is thy sting? oh! Grave, where is thy victory?'"

Connecticut.

NEW HAVEN.—E. P. Goodsell writes: "As a starting-post for his go-as-you-please tirade against Spiritualism on the 30th ult., Rev. T. D. Talmage found a text in the Bible, and after changing the word woman to witch, worked himself into a high pitch of indignation because millions of people are led to inquire regarding truths pertaining to the life they are destined to live hereafter. The great fact of the return of tens of thousands of the bright immortals to our shores with overwhelming proofs of immortal life, does not harmonize with the Brooklyn man's theology. Hence that angry God, whom the people are enjoined to love and worship, must be brought out to frighten back the wanderers from the popular, pious fold of the earthly Tabernacle. In contrast with such a display of wealth and fashion, of what value can immortal life be when weighed in the popular scale? Mr. Talmage aims to lead the inquirer to the popular theological side, even if not a ray of light emanates therefrom. He does not permit mortals to inquire of those who have gone to the next world, because they may contradict the preacher. The truths they bring must be put out of sight, and they who bring them thrust back to their shining homes.

But I apprehend too much of a task has been undertaken by the Brooklyn preacher. He says: 'It is natural that people should want to know the origin and history of a doctrine which is so wide-spread in all the villages, cities and towns in the civilized world, getting new converts every day.' This history, these facts, these immortal, sublime truths will be sought after by the people more and more, nor can the threatenings of theological thunderers hinder earnest souls from pursuing the object of their search, the assurance that immortality is not a myth."

California.

SACRAMENTO.—A correspondent writes: "There recently passed from this city to spirit-life a very estimable lady, Mrs. Emma H. Ramage, some incidents of whose closing hours are worthy of note by all and of special interest to Spiritualists. The lady had long been sick, and her departure was not unexpected by her many friends. As the moment of transition approached she kissed those of her friends who were at her bedside, bade them good-bye, told them she was very happy, and that she could see many of her dear departed friends and relatives. Her mother kept away the daily papers, so that she might not learn of the deaths of any of her friends, fearing it might worry her. Especially was she careful to keep from her the death of one of her intimate friends who died about one month ago. During her conversation about whom she saw in 'the beautiful beyond' she said to her mother: 'I see Jennie Morton, and she is so happy! Did you know that Jennie was dead?' She said she also saw her father, sister and other persons."

New York.

HEMPSTEAD, L. I.—Mrs. J. Buck writes, deprecating the treatment of mediums by the press and pulpit of New York and Brooklyn, remarking of the latter that while it advocates the truth of events of the past termed miraculous, it disavows precisely corresponding events occurring in our very midst to-day, and which are open to the investigation of all who are disposed to study their nature and object. The inquiry is made why forty years have been allowed to pass since the "hellish doctrine" of Spiritualism, as Brooklyn's sensational preacher is reported to have called it, made its advent, before he ventured to "expose" it as the work of the devil, purposely planned by him to lead souls to his dominion of eternal torment. The denunciatory style of this pulpit haranguer's methods does not argue well for the truth of his position. It is full of anger; and they "whom the gods would destroy they first make mad."

Rhode Island.

NEWPORT.—John C. Peckham writes: "My brother was found dead in the street. He was a Spiritualist, as also was his wife and her sister, Mrs. Jane Peckham, the medium. Soon after his decease he communicated with his wife upon matters of business. This gave her great happiness, and she felt assured that though she had lost his bodily presence, he was present to advise his family when advice was needed.

Mrs. Peckham is influenced by a German doctor. A short time since she was called on to prescribe for a man who had previously consulted three doctors without deriving any benefit. He soon began to improve, and is now, to all appearances, on the way to a full restoration to health. I submit these facts for those who ask, 'What good has Spiritualism done?'"

Minnesota.

ST. PAUL.—Morris S. Liden writes that while appeals are being made and answered in behalf of the clergy and those who through long and faithful labors in the Church have become either infirm or nearly so, similar appeals for workers in the spiritual field who have toiled till late in the day and are approaching the sunset of this life, are but little heeded by those whom they have long and faithfully served. Our correspondent instances two cases of this kind in the BANNER OF LIGHT of April 28th, and suggests that they be responded to with some degree of liberality.

Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS.—Jacob Richards, Massachusetts Avenue, Moore's Block, Room 42, third floor, writes: "I am a printer, seventy two years old, paralyzed for the last three years, (means now exhausted) and wish correspondence and orders for any article that can be sent by mail. I will, on receipt of same, with money or stamps, get the article at wholesale, and forward it, keeping only a small commission, which the one ordering must definitely state in his or her order. Give me a chance—thus I can help you, and you can help me."

Colorado.

ASPEN.—C. D. Guild writes: "This is a prosperous mining city of six or seven thousand inhabitants, one-third of whom are Spiritualists. We have no mediums—at least none that are accessible to the public; hence, what we are most in need of is a good, reliable test medium. To one such a wide field of pecuniary profit and of doing great good is open. Further particulars may be had by addressing me."

Letter from Mrs. Clara A. Field.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

Thinking you would like to know how our cause is prospering here in this "land of perpetual summer," I have concluded to write you again ere I turn my steps toward our good city of Boston. I wrote you in the winter, about the time that Bro. George Colby (sent out by the Southern Spiritual Association) was organizing societies through the State. The society of St. Augustine engaged me for the season as their regular speaker for Sundays, with the privilege of working in other fields during the week-days.

The first place I visited was "Palatka," where I found a few earnest souls ready and willing to do all in their power to forward the cause in their lovely little city on the banks of the majestic St. John's river, changed by the religious element from its original name, "River of Lakes," "Welaka" that the Indians gave it, and which is so sweet and appropriate. Here I was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Hall of the Palmetto House, and gave three lectures at the Opera House, on the subject of "Psychometry," under the auspices of the society. I also had a class in psychometry, several members of which are now using this gift to their own advantage and for the good of others.

Feeling the need of rest and change, I asked for and obtained release from my engagement with the friends at St. Augustine, after serving them for two and one-half months, and returned to Palatka. From thence I went to South Florida and visited our good Bro. and Sister Bancroft, at their pleasant home in Eustis. From thence to Pine Castle, to the hospitable home of Bro. and Sister A. L. Stone, where I received a cordial welcome, also rest and strength to continue on in the battle for the truth.

I then went to Gainesville, and there found but two or three who knew anything whatever of Spiritualism, but succeeded in creating some interest in it through the agency of psychometry. I then returned again to St. Augustine, where by urgent request I remained over Sunday, March 25th, and closed their meetings for the season, having a crowded house at both services.

The next morning found me on my way to Ocala, where I lectured three nights in the Opera House, to large and appreciative audiences, and was entertained at the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Mann of the Florida Southern railroad. I also lectured on Temperance the last evening of my stay.

From there, April 1st, I went to Jacksonville, where I found but little interest and no organization, and being tired, I concluded to rest, which I did for ten days, visiting the Sub-Tropical at the time of the Gilmore concerts. Then I once more turned toward South Florida, and for the past two weeks have been a guest in the delightful home of Prof. H. W. Chant, amid lovely surroundings situated in a quiet charming locality, surrounded by orange groves, now full of green fruit. The air is fragrant with the wonderful magnolias, whose sweetness fills the air, and vies with that of the jessamine and the oleander, both white and red.

This indeed is a land of promise, one that can be made to flow with "milk and honey."

John W. Janzen, an excellent medium, is a member of this home, and in a quiet way is doing much good work, sowing the seed of liberal thought by the best means in the world—doing good! His forte is healing, and he has some excellent controls who give good satisfaction; those who consult him are always pleased and satisfied with his sterling honesty and integrity as well as his mediumship. I wish we could manage to encourage this quiet worker to enlarge the field of his usefulness.

CLARA A. FIELD.

Orange City, Fla., May 5th.

(From The Boston Investigator.)

An Interesting Book.

FORTY YEARS ON THE SPIRITUAL ROSTRUM—A Sequel to "The Life-Line of the Lone One," an Autobiography of the Author, as the World's Child, by Warren Chase.

This book of three hundred and twenty-four pages contains the record of one of the first, ablest, and best-known spiritual lecturers now on the platform as a teacher of that peculiar doctrine or philosophy. All his travels West and East as a lecturer for more than a generation, together with his experience as an editor, politician and agriculturist, are minutely described; also his views on Spiritualism, Christianity, social reform, and various other topics, the whole forming an extensive and interesting history of a very industrious and able man, whose life, or more than half of it, has been devoted to the promotion of reformatory objects, as he honestly supposed.

It is seldom that we discover so much determination and perseverance manifested in behalf of any cause, as appears in the life of Mr. Chase. In this respect he is one of the remarkable men of the day, and we hope his new book may have a large sale. It is a handsome volume, and contains a correct portrait of him as he now appears in his advanced age. Published by Messrs. Colby & Rich, 9 Bosworth street, Boston.

"FAINT NOT IN WELL DOING."

For while the tired waves, vainly breaking,
Seem here no painful inch to gain,
Far back, through creeks and inlets making,
Comes silent, flooding in, the main!

May Magazines.

THE VACCINATION INQUIRER reports in full the proceedings of the Eighth Annual Meeting of the London Society, including the addresses and letters received from those who could not attend; the whole embodying a large amount of valuable information respecting the evils of vaccination, the progress of the movement for the repeal of laws making the dangerous process compulsory, and the encouraging prospects of success attending the Society's efforts. London: E. W. Allen.

THE PHRENOLOGICAL JOURNAL.—W. W. Corcoran, Joseph Jefferson and H. B. Plant have their portraits and biographies in No. 8 of "Notable People." Among the contents is an article upon "The Needs and Possibilities of Anthropometry." New York: Fowler & Wells Company.

THE SIDEREAL MESSENGER. Northfield, Minn.: W. W. Payne.

HERALD OF HEALTH. New York: P. O. Box 2141.

THE PATH. New York: William Q. Judge.

MENTAL HEALING. Boston: L. M. Marston.

While the fire-fiend was getting his work in on the Union Square Theatre, a literary gentleman, who was looking on, asked a friend:

"What three authors would you name in commenting on this conflagration?"

"I don't know," replied the other, "what three would you name?"

"Dickens, Howitt, Burns."—Texas Siftings.

SPIRITUALIST LECTURERS.

MRS. N. K. ANDROSS, Delton, Wis.
MRS. R. AUGUSTA ANTHONY, Albion, Mich.
MRS. M. C. ALLBEE, Barton Landing, Vt.
WM. H. ANDREWS, M. D., Cedar Falls, Ia.
C. FANNIE ALLYN, Stoneham, Mass.
JAMES MADISON ALLEN, Peoria, Ill.
MRS. NELLIE J. T. BRIGHAM, Colerain, Mass.
MRS. E. H. BRITTEN, Cheetham Hill, Manchester, Eng.
MRS. R. W. SCOTT BRIGGS, 18 Aiken street, Utica, N. Y.
BISHOP A. BEALS, 86 State street, Albany, N. Y.
ADDIE L. BALLOU, 759 Market st., San Francisco, Cal.*
DR. JAS. K. BAILEY, P. O. Box 123, Scranton, Pa.
G. H. BROOKS, 802 Hoyt street, East Saginaw, Mich.
J. R. BUELL and MRS. DR. BUELL, Indianapolis, Ind.
MRS. A. P. BROWN, St. Johnsbury Center, Vt.
MRS. S. A. BYRNES, Mill & Adams sts., Dorchester, Mass.*
J. FRANK BAXTER, 181 Walnut street, Chelsea, Mass.
MRS. L. E. BAILEY, Battle Creek, Mich.*
MRS. ABBY N. BURNHAM, 50 Appleton street, Boston.*
MRS. EMMA J. BULLENE, Denver, Col.
MISS LIZZIE D. BAILEY, Louisville, Ky.
MISS L. BARNICOAT, 175 Tremont st., Boston, Mass.*
PROF. J. R. BUCHANAN, 6 James street, Boston, Mass.
MRS. ELLEN M. BOLLES, Eagle Park, Providence, R. I.
MISS S. C. BLINKHORN, 23 Concord Place, Cincinnati, O.
MRS. H. MORSE-BAKER, Granville, N. Y.
JAS. A. BLISS, 7th and Smith streets, Cincinnati, O.
MRS. S. E. W. BISHOP, 540 High street, Oshkosh, Wis.
A. B. BROWN, Worcester, Mass.
MRS. NELLIE S. BAADE, Capac, Mich.*
WARREN CHASE, Cobden, Ill.
DEAN CLARKE, care Banner of Light, Boston, Mass.
MRS. HETTIE CLARK, Onset Bay, Mass.
GEORGE W. CARPENDER, Kendallville, Ind.
MRS. MARIETTA F. CROSS, W. Hampstead, N. H.
MRS. BELLE A. CHAMBERLAIN, Eureka, Cal.
DR. JAMES COOPER, Bellefontaine, O.
A. C. COTTON, Vineland, N. J.
EBEN COBB, Hyde Park, Mass.
JAMES R. COCKE, 1581 Washington street, Boston, Mass.
MRS. LORA S. CRAIG, Keene, N. H.
MRS. A. E. CUNNINGHAM, 450 Tremont street, Boston.
J. W. CADWELL, 401 Center street, Meriden, Conn.
MRS. E. B. CRADDOCK, Concord, N. H.
MRS. ABBIE W. CROSSETT, Waterbury, Vt.
MRS. L. A. COFFIN, Park street, Onset, Mass.
W. J. COLVILLE, 111 Mason street, San Francisco, Cal.
A. E. DOTY, Ilion, Herkimer Co., N. Y.
MRS. C. A. DELAFOLIE, Hartford, Ct.
MRS. S. DICK, care Banner of Light, Boston, Mass.*
MISS CARRIE E. DOWNER, Baldwinsville, N. Y.*
ANSON DWIGHT, Chesterfield, Mass.
CARRIE C. VAN DUZEE, Geneva, O.
CHARLES DAWBARN, 463 West 23d st., New York, N. Y.
MRS. S. A. JESMER-DOWNS, North Springfield, Vt.*
JOHN N. EAMES, Boston, Mass.
J. L. ENOS, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.
MISS S. LIZZIE EWER, Portsmouth, N. H.
EDGAR W. EMERSON, 240 Lowell st., Manchester, N. H.
O. A. EDGERLY, 57 Washington st., Newburyport, Mass.
J. WM. FLETCHER, care Banner of Light, Boston, Mass.
J. FRANCIS, Sackett's Harbor, N. Y.
MRS. CLARA A. FIELD, 59 Clarendon street, Boston, Mass.*
MRS. MARY L. FRENCH, Townsend Harbor, Mass., box 95.
GEORGE A. FULLER, Dover, Mass.*
NETTIE M. P. FOX, Ottumwa, Ia.
MRS. M. H. FULLER, Saratoga, Santa Clara Co., Cal.
P. A. FIELD, Bernardston, Mass.
MRS. ADDIE E. FRYE, Fort Scott, Kan.
DR. H. P. FAIRFIELD, Box 347, Rockland, Me.
MRS. SUE B. FALES, 11 Front st., Cambridgeport, Mass.
N. S. GREENLEAF, Lowell, Mass.
SARAH GRAVES, Grand Rapids, Mich.
MISS LESSIE N. GOODELL, 64 High street, Norwich, Ct.
CORNELIA GARDNER, 118 Jones street, Rochester, N. Y.*
DR. E. G. GRANVILLE, Kansas City, Mo.
MISS E. M. GLEASON, Geneva, Ohio.
MRS. A. M. GLADING, Box 62, Doylestown, Pa.*
LYMAN C. HOWE, Fredonia, N. Y.
MRS. S. A. HORTON, Galveston, Tex.
J. H. HARTER, Auburn, N. Y.*
DR. E. B. HOLDEN, North Clarendon, Vt.
MRS. F. O. HYZER, 423 E. Baltimore st., Baltimore, Md.
MRS. L. HUTCHISON, Owensville, Cal.
MRS. M. A. C. HEATH, Bethel, Vt.
ANNIE C. TORRY HAWKS, Memphis, Tenn.
ZELLA S. HASTINGS, East Whately, Mass.
JENNIE B. HAGAN, South Framingham, Mass.*
C. H. HARDING, 3 Glenwood street, Boston Highlands.
F. A. HEATH, 27 Lawrence street, Charlestown, Mass.
MRS. M. J. HENDEE, San Francisco, Cal.
M. F. HAMMOND, Northport, L. I., N. Y.*
MRS. HATTIE W. HILDRETH, Worcester, Mass.
W. A. HALE, 46 Russell street, Charlestown, Mass.*
ANTHONY HIGGINS, 410 East 23d street, New York.
S. HAINSBACH, cor. 15th and Plum streets, Cincinnati, O.
MRS. M. CARLISLE IRELAND, 3 Moreland Terrace, Boston.
MRS. BELL IRELAND, 365 Elm street, Cincinnati, O.
SUSIE M. JOHNSON, Los Angeles, Cal.
DR. W. R. JOSCELYN, Santa Cruz, Cal.
MRS. DR. J. A. JOSCELYN, Santa Cruz, Cal.
DR. P. T. JOHNSON, Box 746, Coldwater, Mich.
MRS. EMMA JACKSON, Acushnet, Mass.
O. P. KELLOGG, East Trumbull, Ashtabula Co., O.
MRS. R. G. KIMBALL, Lebanon, N. H.
J. W. KENYON, Maquoketa, Iowa.
D. M. KING, Mantua Station, O.
MRS. INEZ A. KIMBALL, Onset, Mass.
MRS. M. C. KNIGHT, Fulton, Oswego Co., N. Y.*
G. W. KATES, Greenville, O.*
MRS. ZAIDA BROWN-KATES, Greenville, O.
MRS. F. A. LOGAN, 1624 Curtis street, Denver, Col.
CHARLES H. LELAND, Hayden Row, Mass.
MRS. R. S. LILLIE, Lock Box 10, Melrose, Mass.
MRS. M. W. LESLIE, 35 Common street, Boston, Mass.
THOS. LEES, 105 Cross st., Cleveland, O.*
MRS. H. S. LAKE, 568 Columbus Avenue, Boston, Mass.
MRS. AMELIA H. COLBY-LUTHER, Crown Point, Ind.
J. J. MORSE, of England, trance, care Banner of Light.
MRS. S. M. MACE, 28 Dartmouth street, Boston, Mass.
P. C. MILLS, Belleville, Kan.
REV. CHARLES P. MCCARTHY, 109 4th ave., New York.
MRS. E. H. F. MCKINLEY, 1307½ Polk st., San Francisco.
PROF. M. MILLESON, care Banner of Light, Boston.
S. T. MARCHANT, 15 Willoughby st., Brooklyn, N. Y.
MRS. LIZZIE MANCHESTER, West Randolph, Vt.
DR. H. F. MERRILL, care Eastern Star, Bangor, Me.
CELIA F. NICKERSON, South Orleans, Mass.
VALENTINE NICKELSON, Foster's Crossing, O.*
THEO. F. PRICE, Monon, White Co., Ind.
LYDIA A. PEARSALL, Disco, Mich.
MISS DORCAS E. PRAY, Augusta, Me.
DR. G. AMOS PEIRCE, Box 1135, Lewiston, Me.
A. S. PEASE, Buskirk, N. Y.
MRS. LUNT PARKER, P. O. Box 343, Lansing, Mich.
PROF. W. F. PECK, 566 Columbus Avenue, Boston.
JOHN G. PRIEGEL, 610 North 2d street, St. Louis, Mo.*
CALEB PRENTISS, 10 Hudson street, Lynn, Mass.
LYSANDER S. RICHARDS, East Marshfield, Mass.
MISS JENNIE RHIND, 33 Boylston street, Boston, Mass.
MRS. HELEN STUART-RICHINGS, P. O., Boston, Mass.*
FRANK T. RIPLEY, Corinna, Me.*
J. H. RANDALL, 78 Seeley Avenue, Chicago, Ill.*
MRS. C. L. V. RICHMOND, 64 Union Park Pl., Chicago.
J. WILLIAM ROYLE, Trenton, N. J.
MISS M. T. SHELHAMER, care Banner of Light, Boston.
DR. H. B. STORER, 406 Shawmut Avenue, Boston, Mass.*
M. L. SHERMAN, box 1205, Adrian, Mich.
MRS. K. R. STILES, 146 Pleasant st., Worcester, Mass.
THOMAS STREET, Lockland, O.
MRS. FANNIE DAVIS SMITH, Brandon, Vt.
MRS. P. W. STEPHENS, Oakland, Cal.
MRS. S. A. SMITH, Athol, Mass.
GILES B. STEBBINS, 107 Henry street, Detroit, Mich.
JULIET H. SEVERANCE, M. D., Milwaukee, Wis.
MRS. JULIA A. B. SEIVER, Tampa, Fla.
MRS.

HER DILEMMA.

I am only a farmer's girl,
John is only a farmer's lad,
But, somehow, when we chance to meet,
The very sound of his coming feet
Can make my heart so glad
That up to my cheeks the warm flush flies,
And he reads his welcome in my eyes.

I am only a farmer's girl,
Master Tom is the Squire's son,
But strange to tell, his feet this way
Turn often toward the close of day,
And after the chores are done,
When John (he passes the meadow gate)
Gives me a scowl, and—will not wait.

I am only a farmer's girl,
So what can the Squire want of me?
My heart is John's; John knows it well;
But it is n't for me the truth to tell—
So bashful a lad is he!—
So the Squire may come and the Squire may go,
But all the answer he 'll get is "No!"

The Squire praises my hair and eyes;
The Squire says I 'm a lady born—
What care I for his foolish speech?
'T is John's voice only my heart can teach
To sing like birds at morn;
But John is a jealous, foolish boy,
And my days are shorn of half their joy.

Oh! I am only a farmer's girl,
John is only a farmer's lad,
But I 'd rather be in his humble life
Than be a "lady" as Squire's wife,
With a restless heart and sad!
But John—so bashful a boy is he!—
Is a long while asking my heart of me

SEANCE WITH AN OLD-TIME MEDIUM.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

On the occasion of the anniversary we held a dark séance with H. B. Allen, musical medium—known in years past as the "Allen Boy." Fourteen harmonious persons were in the circle, and the most satisfactory results were arrived at. A dulcimer was placed on chairs outside the circle, and bells, paper and pencil and a guitar were arranged on a stand within the circle. The lamp-light was extinguished, and we all clasped hands and joined in singing. Soon the spirits began to manifest, first by the exhibition of beautiful lights of various forms and sizes—darting or gliding around, but sometimes stationary—which appeared occasionally to the close of the entertainment.

A number of tunes, some familiar, others unknown, were played upon the dulcimer; some softly, some loudly; and we are fully satisfied that no musician in the form produced them.

The guitar was floated in the air, as it was played upon by unseen hands in time to the whistling by the medium of lively airs; and occasionally the bells were moved about, and sounded in time to the music. As the guitar floated around, it would touch our hands and faces, and occasionally "bump" our heads in time to the music played upon it.

There was rapping, both soft and loud, in intelligent answer to questions. The dulcimer was made to plainly imitate the sawing of a board, the dropping of the piece on the floor, the nailing on of the board, the whetting of a knife, the tuning of the instrument, the boring of a hole, and the removal of the bit.

We could occasionally hear the writing of messages: the tearing of the paper containing them from off the tablet, and the rustling of the sheet made in presenting them to the members of the circle. We could plainly feel the caressing touch of spirit-hands about us; hear their voices and the rubbing and slapping of hands.

When the room was re-lighted we found the dulcimer and the chairs on which it stood placed upon the stand within the circle, the guitar resting on our lap, and the bells upon the floor.

I consider that in this séance the most positive evidence of spirit-presence and power was intelligently exhibited.

Mr. Allen is doing a good work in spreading light and knowledge among skeptical people.

A. H. NICHOLAS.

Fairmount, Kan., May 16th, 1888.

(From The Daily Times, Moncton, N. B.)

Rev. Mr. Talmage on Modern Spiritualism.

EDITOR TIMES: The are a few points in the sermon by Rev. Mr. Talmage, in The Times of Saturday, May 5th, to which a brief reference may be made. The sermon as a whole is in his usual dramatic and entertaining style. He shows in this discourse how easy it is for him to be in word-painting a master, and in reasoning a child.

Mr. Talmage quotes from the scriptures to show that sorcery and necromancy and wizardry and witchcraft are forbidden, and that we should not seek after "familiar spirits that peep and mutter"; that is, we should not seek after communion with unclean spirits or evil spirits. But the Bible does not forbid seeking after communion with the Good Spirit or with the spirits of the saints, whether on earth or in heaven. The trouble with Mr. Talmage is that he has failed to recognize the difference between communion with evil spirits and communion with good spirits.

The spirits of the bad are sometimes called unclean and wicked spirits or devils. The spirits of departed saints are sometimes called angels. "Are they (the angels) not all ministering spirits sent forth to do service for the sake of them that shall inherit salvation?" (Hebrews i: 14.—revised version.)....

That evil spirits that are clothed with the body, and also evil spirits that are not in the body, may approach us and impress us and influence us for evil, is apparent enough. And that from them we should turn away, and that their temptations we should resist, is clearly taught in the sacred oracles. But the coming to us of the spirits of the good who have departed this life, or our seeking communion with them, is never condemned in the Bible. Moses and Elias were good men, and appeared to Peter, and James, and John, on the Mount of Transfiguration, after they had been dead for centuries. Jesus himself approved of this remarkable séance. Mr. Talmage denounces such interviews between the living and the dead as humbugs. But the Bible does not claim that there was anything about these manifestations that was wicked, or fraudulent, or devilish.

John, the Apostle, developed, in his later days, into a medium of the highest order. He had many manifestations from the spirit-world. On one memorable occasion he was permitted to behold many, even a great multitude, of the spirits of departed saints. He saw them so clearly that he could describe their apparel. He recognized them as those who had once dwelt on the earth in mortal bodies, but who now possessed spiritual bodies. They knew, when they were dwellers on the earth, what it was, sometimes, to suffer hunger, and thirst, and weariness. But now John learned from them that they hunger no more, neither thirst any more, neither shall the sun strike upon them,..... and God shall wipe away every tear from their eyes—(Rev. vii: 16, 17). John in this séance had communion, not with bad spirits, but with good spirits. The Bible never has for such an experience any voice of condemnation.

Mr. Talmage, in his sermon, tells us that Spiritualism is growing very rapidly, in these last times, in every village, and town, and city, in the civilized world, and that many of his own congregation are Spiritualists, more or less fully developed. All this may be true enough.

But Mr. Talmage descends to an extravagant use of wholesale denunciation of Spiritualism. He thinks it the most gigantic fraud that was ever born in hell or out of it. He says it has contributed largely to fill all the asylums between Bangor and San Francisco. But he has not favored us with any proof to sustain his assertions. This style of denunciation has been indulged in so largely in the pulpit, on the platform, and in printed documents, by controversialists in defense of creeds and theories and whims of one kind and another, that it has grown somewhat common and rather thin. It suggests that those who indulge in tactics of that kind are rather hard pressed for better arguments.

Some years ago I attended a prayer-meeting in Brother Talmage's Tabernacle in Brooklyn, and "it was good to be there." One of the hymns sung on that occasion began with the words:

"There are angels hovering round
To carry the tidings home."

I have heard the same hymn sung in Moncton. Was there not a truth, grand and inspiring, underlying these words, and breathing through them, or was it all a solemn farce and mockery? Let us hear what Paul says—(Heb. xii: 18, 25): "For ye are not come unto the mount that might be touched, and that burned with fire,.....but ye are come unto (the spiritual) Mount Zion, and unto the City of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, to the general assembly and church of the first-born who are enrolled in heaven, and to God the Judge of all, and to the spirits of just men made perfect, and to Jesus the Mediator..... Wherefore see that ye refuse not him that speaketh." Paul in the beginning of this same chapter had just said that we are compassed about with the sainted dead of the elder dispensation. These are some of the spirits of the just men made perfect—an innumerable company of angels, (that is, spirits, messengers) "ministering for the sake of them who are to inherit salvation."

It will be well for us if those spirits that are "hovering round" are indeed guardian angels to help us, and if we so live from day to day that they can "carry the tidings home" that we are trying, more and more, to seek after those things that are lovely and true, and just, and honest, and of good report among men, and in the sight of God. INQUIRER.

(To this timely and trenchant article, appearing in the columns of a New Brunswick secular paper, and from the pen of a local clergyman, we made recent reference. It deals tersely with Mr. Talmage on Scriptural grounds, and cannot fail of producing a marked impression wherever read. The italics are our own.—Ed. B. of L.)

New Publications.

THE CONDITION OF THE WORKING CLASSES IN ENGLAND IN 1844. With Appendix written in 1886, and Preface in 1887. By Frederick Engels. Translated by Florence Kelley Wischnewetzky. 12mo, cloth, pp. 212. New York: John W. Lovell & Co.

A good exhibit is here made of the causes that led to a socialistic organization and the line of action which the founder of Modern Socialism, Karl Marx, and the author of this volume, followed for more than forty years. The principles of the order are concisely set forth in the "Communist Manifesto" of 1847, given in the preface, which clearly defines them. Mr. Engels's views and aspirations are comprehensive and far-reaching. It appears to him that "the Henry George platform, in its present shape, is too narrow to form the basis for anything but a local movement, or at best for a short-lived phase of the general movement." The book is one those who would learn what the Socialistic Movement is, from its leading friends and advocates rather than from the misrepresentations of its enemies should read and consider.

THE SEVEN LITTLE SISTERS Who Live on the Round Ball That Floats in the Air. By Jane Andrews, with an Introduction by Louisa Parson Hopkins, Supervisor in Boston Public Schools. 16mo, cloth, pp. 142. Boston: Lee & Shepard.

There is a charming fascination inveined with these writings that called forth the admiration of John G. Whittier, the style of which he terms "clear, easy, graceful and picturesque." The "round ball" is the earth, and the "Seven Sisters" are that number of girls of different nationalities, the homes, surroundings, and the manners and customs of whose parents the author describes. The book will interest young children, not much less the old ones, and firmly establish in the mind facts concerning earth's people.

IT IS THE LAW. A Story of Marriage and Divorce in New York. By Thomas Edgar Wilson. 12mo, paper, pp. 218. Chicago and New York: Belford, Clarke & Co.

The inconsistencies of New York law regarding marriage are graphically set forth by the author, who has made his subject a special study for many years. His story includes among its characters several persons who sustain very strange relations, but which are looked upon as correct because "it is the law," as shown by reference in every case to the statutes.

CHIPS FROM A TEACHER'S WORKSHOP. By L. R. Klemm, Ph. D. 12mo, cloth, pp. 408. Boston: Lee & Shepard.

The author has been Supervisor of German Department Public Schools in Cleveland, O., Principal of a Normal Department in Cincinnati, Superintendent of Public Schools, Hamilton, O., and Institute Conductor; and is the author of many schoolbooks. The wide experience attending these positions has furnished him with material for contributions to educational journals that have proved of great value to teachers as aids in their avocation. These articles form the bulk of the contents of this volume, and cannot fail to be highly appreciated by those for whose benefit they were originally intended.

THE DOOM OF THE MAMELONS. A Legend of the Saguenay. By W. H. H. Murray. 12mo, paper, pp. 136. Philadelphia: Hubbard Brothers.

The basis of this story is an old Indian tradition of the Lenni-Lenape tribe that when a marriage between a princess of that tribe and a white man should occur the tribe would become extinct. Such a marriage took place, or was attempted, between Atla, the last queen of that race, and John Norton, a trapper; but before the ceremony was concluded the Indian maiden died, and the prediction was fulfilled. "Mamelons" is the Indian name for the mouth of the Saguenay River, and signifies the Place of the Great Mounds.

PRE GLACIAL MAN AND THE ARYAN RACE. A History of Creation, and of the Birthplace and Wanderings of Man in Central Asia, from B. C. 32,500 to B. C. 8,000, with a History of the Aryan Race, commencing B. C. 15,000, their Rise and Progress, and the Promulgation of the First Revelation; Their Spiritual Decline, and the Destruction of the Nation B. C. 4,705; The inroad of the Turanians, and the Scattering of the Remnant of the Race, B. C. 4,304, as Deciphered from a very Ancient Document. Also An Exposition of the Law Governing the Formation and Duration of the Glacial Period, and a Record of its Effect on Man, and on the Configuration of the Globe. A Chapter on the Deluge: Its Cause, Locality and Extent; and an Account of the "Oannes Myth." By Lorenzo Burge. 12mo, cloth, pp. 272. Boston: Lee & Shepard.

To the voluminous title given above it is only necessary to add, for the information of our readers regarding the book, that the author treats the account of creation given in Genesis as an allegory, containing within it a history written in cipher, which he has undertaken to reveal the meaning of. A number of engravings are given, and the book furnishes an interesting study for those who are curious to solve the problem of past ages.

CASSELL'S NATIONAL LIBRARY. — The following are the titles of recent issues of this low-priced series of standard books: London in 1731, by Don Manoel Gonzales; Sketches of Persia, by Sir John Malcolm, Vol. 1; The Shepherds' Calendar, by Edmund Spenser. The Black Death, and The Dancing Mania, from the German of J. F. C. Hecker. New York: Cassell & Co., 104 and 106 Fourth Avenue.

Clackamas, Ore.

The Clackamas County Society of Spiritualists will hold a Grove Meeting on its grounds at New Era, Ore., beginning Friday, June 8th, and holding over two Sundays.

Slate-writing, trance-speaking and clairvoyant test mediums have been engaged to attend the meeting.

The Committee of Arrangements will use every reasonable endeavor, including the usual reduction of fare, to those attending the meeting, to make the enterprise a success.

The Society has a good hall on the grounds, and a hotel for the accommodation of boarders and lodgers.

A cordial invitation is extended to all.

WM. PHILLIPS, President.
THOMAS BUCKMAN, Sec'y.

The Lookout Mountain Camp-Meeting.

Near Chattanooga, Tenn., will be held during the entire month of July. The following speakers and mediums are engaged: Mrs. A. M. Glading, George A. Fuller, Dr. H. F. Merrill, Mrs. S. A. H. Talbot, G. W. Kates and wife, Dr. Samuel Watson, A. C. Ladd, Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond. Excellent hotel facilities are on the Mountain. Tenting space given free. Address

G. W. KATES, Sec'y, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Camp-Meeting in Minnesota.

The Rice Co. Scientific, Moral and Reformatory Association will hold its first Annual Meeting at Morristown on the third Sunday in June, 1888; and in connection therewith will be held a Spiritual and Liberal CAMP-MEETING, commencing on Wednesday, June 13th, and closing on Monday, June 18th.

Being the first meeting of this nature held in Minnesota, we invite and earnestly solicit the attendance and aid of the Spiritualists and Liberals of this and other States to assist in the inauguration and building up of a permanent Camp-Meeting organization at this or some suitable place in this locality. Ample means for board and shelter will be provided at very reduced rates to all who may come.

We also invite Spiritual and Liberal speakers and mediums. Suitable rooms for holding séances will be furnished gratis.

We wish to employ an independent slate-writing medium who will permit investigators to bring their own closed slates. Such a medium would be of great benefit to the cause, beside reaping a rich harvest for him (or her) self financially, as manifestations of this order have never been witnessed or produced in this locality.

The lowest reductions in railroad fare that can be obtained will be secured.

Conveyance hourly between camp-grounds and séance-rooms; also to all trains for a fare not to exceed five cents per trip. Any further information may be obtained by corresponding with MRS. LAURA A. GRANT, Rec. Sec'y, or D. BIRDSALL, Cor. Sec'y, of Waterville, Le Sueur Co., Minn.

BY ORDER OF EX. COM.

[Spiritual and Liberal papers please copy.]

Orion Lake Camp-Meeting.

The First District Association of Spiritualists will hold a ten days' Camp-Meeting at Orion Lake, Oakland Co., Mich., commencing Saturday, June 2d, 1888, and ending Monday, June 11th. Those intending to camp are desired, if convenient, to erect their tents on Friday, June 1st, that all necessary preparations may be over for services and the election of officers which will occur the day following.

Good speakers will be in attendance, and all who are interested in progressive thought and united humanitarian works are cordially invited to be present.

S. H. EWELL, Vice-President.
MRS. F. E. ODELL, Sec'y.

Miscellaneous.

THE WATCHMAN.

An Eight-Page Monthly Journal, Devoted to the Interests of Humanity and Spiritualism. Also, a Mouthpiece of the American and Eastern Congress in Spirit-Life.

OLD PHILOSOPHER, Spirit Editor.

PUBLISHED BY

BOSTON STAR AND CRESCENT CO.,

P. O. Box 1129, Fort Wayne, Ind.

HATTIE A. BERRY,

Editress and Manager.

ARTHUR B. SHEDD,

Assistant Manager.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION, IN ADVANCE.

One Year, $1.00. Clubs of Ten, $8.00. Six Months, 50 cents. Single Copies, 10 cents. Sample Copies free.

U. S. postage stamps will be received for fractional parts of a dollar. (1's and 2's preferred.)

To any one sending 10 new subscribers and $8.00, we give as a premium a cabinet photo. of WHITE FEATHER, PEACE BIRD, spirit control of the Editress.

☞ Remit by P. O. Order, drawn on FORT WAYNE, IND., or by Registered Letter. ☜ Payable to HATTIE A. BERRY, Editress and Manager.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.

10 cts. per line (Nonpareil) each insertion. Business Cards, 50 cts. per inch each insertion. Special rates for Electrotypes, on application. Preferred position 25 per cent. extra. Objectionable advertisements not inserted under any consideration. Terms strictly in advance. oam—Sept. 27.

THE

N. D. C. AXE and TRUE KEY-STONE,

A FOUR-PAGE SEMI-MONTHLY JOURNAL, especially devoted to the Development of Mediumship, and official organ of The National Developing Circle.

Terms of subscription, $1.00 per annum.

Sample Copy Free.

Send for Book, "How to Become a Medium in Your Own Home," and a personal sealed letter designating all your phases of Mediumship, all for 15 cents.

Address

JAMES A. BLISS,

S. E. Corner of 7th and Smith Streets,

S24 tf CINCINNATI, OHIO.

New Thought;

A VIGOROUS, Eight-Page Weekly Journal devoted to SPIRITUALISM and General Religious and Political Reform.

Published every Saturday by MOSES HULL & CO., at Des Moines, Iowa.

The Organ of the Mississippi Valley Association of Spiritualists.

NEW THOUGHT is a quarto filled with interesting matter, WRITTEN EXPRESSLY for its columns, on the various phases of Spiritualism and General Reform, and nicely printed on heavy paper.

Terms of Subscription: One year, $1.50; six months, 75 cents; three months, 40 cents; single number, 5 cents.

NEW THOUGHT will be sent to new subscribers three months on trial for twenty-five cents—a sum which barely covers the price of blank paper and press-work. Sample copies free. Je4

The Gnostic,

A Monthly Journal of Spiritual Science,

PUBLISHERS AND EDITORS—GEORGE CHAINEY, ANNA K. CHAINEY and W. J. COLVILLE.

EACH number will contain forty pages, devoted to Esoteric Religion, Psychometry, Occult Science, Mental Therapeutics, Human Liberty, and the Culture of all that is Divine in the Human Race.

Terms, $2.00 per year; single copies 25 cents.

Address GEORGE CHAINEY, 17 Flood's Building, San Francisco, Cal. Ap21

SPHINX.

ANTI-MATERIALISTISCHE MONATSSCHRIFT für die wissenschaftliche Untersuchung der „mystischen" und „magischen" Thatsachen, mit Beiträgen von Carl du Prel, Alf. Russ, Wallace, der Professoren Barrett und Coues, mehrerer Brahminen u. s. w., herausgegeben von Dr. Hübbe-Schleiden.

Subscription: $1,75 for six months, $3,50 per annum.

Messrs. COLBY & RICH, 9 Bosworth street, Boston, Mass., will receive subscriptions and forward the same to the publisher. Au21

La Lumiere.

A JOURNAL devoted to the interests of Spiritualism in all its aspects. MADAME LUCIE GRANGE, Editor. The ablest writers contribute to its pages.

Terms of Subscription, in advance, per year, $1,20. In remitting by mail, a Post-office order on Paris, France, to the order of MADAME LUCIE GRANGE, 75, Boulevard Montmorency, Auteuil.

PROPHETES ET PROPHETIES, by Hab.

A BOOK of universal interest and influence. It contains an Historical Relation of Prophecies in Modern Times and Prophetic Spirit Communications. Paper, 12mo, pp. 240. Price 60 cents, postage free. For sale by LA LUMIERE, Paris, France. Aug. 9.

THE CARRIER DOVE,

An Illustrated Weekly Journal,

DEVOTED to Spiritualism and Reform. Edited by MRS. J. SCHLESINGER, DR. L. SCHLESINGER and MRS. J. SCHLESINGER, Publishers. Each number will contain the Portraits and Biographical Sketches of some of the Prominent Mediums and Spiritual Workers. Also Spirit Pictures by our Artist Mediums, Lectures, Essays, Poems, Spirit Messages, Editorials, etc.

Terms: $2,50 per year; single copies, 10 cents.

Address all communications to THE CARRIER DOVE, 32 Ellis street, San Francisco, Cal. F6

SEND NAME

AND POST-OFFICE ADDRESS, plainly written, to THE BETTER WAY, CINCINNATI, O., and receive a sample copy of this bright Spiritual Weekly Newspaper FREE. Subscription, Two Dollars per year, but no obligation to subscribe will be incurred by sending for a sample copy. It will cost you only a postal card and a minute! Au13 tf

Light on the Way.

GEO. A. FULLER, Editor.

MRS. G. DAVENPORT STEVENS, Ass't Editor.

AN EIGHT-PAGE MONTHLY, devoted to the dissemination of Spiritual Knowledge. Terms, 60 cents per year. Specimen copies free. Address, GEO. A. FULLER, Editor and Publisher, Dover, Mass. My7

The Boston Investigator,

THE oldest reform journal in publication.

Price, $3,00 a year,
$1,50 for six months,
3 cents per single copy.

Now is your time to subscribe for a live paper, which discusses all subjects connected with the happiness of mankind.

Address J. P. MENDUM,
Investigator Office,
Paine Memorial,
Boston, Mass.

April 2.

MUSCLE-BEATING; or, Active and Passive Home Gymnastics, for Healthy and Unhealthy People. By C. KLEMM, Manager of the Gymnastic Institution in Riga. With ten Illustrations.

The work is a novelty, and very suggestive. We should not wonder if it would prove a valuable addition to the numerous modes of exercise, especially for chronic invalids and sedentary persons.

Price 30 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Received from England.

RAPHAEL'S ALMANAC:

OR, THE

PROPHETIC MESSENGER

AND

Weather Guide,

FOR 1888:

Comprising a Variety of Useful Matter and Tables.

Predictions of the Events, and the Weather,

That will Occur in Each Month During the Year.

War and Sickness! Strikes and Riot! Heat and Plenty!

A Large Hieroglyphic.

BY RAPHAEL,

The Astrologer of the Nineteenth Century.

Together with RAPHAEL'S ASTROLOGICAL EPHEMERIS of the PLANETS for 1888, with Tables of Houses for London, Liverpool and New York.

CONTENTS.

Sixty-Eighth Annual Address.
Monthly Calendar and Weather Guide.
The Voice of the Heavens.
Raphael's Every-day Guide.
The Farmer's Breeding-Table.
Astro-Meteorologic Table.
Table of the Moon's Signs in 1888.
Symbols, Planets, Moons, Signs, etc.
Useful Tables, Weights and Measures.
Royal Tables, etc.
Covent Garden Measures; Fish Table.
Ready Reckoner and Wages Table.
Farmers' and Gardeners' Tables.
Building and Income Tables.
Manure and Weather Tables.
A Calendar for 200 years.
Tide Table for the Principal Ports.
Stamps, Taxes, and Licenses.
Postal Information.
Pawnbrokers' Regulations, Marriages, Annuities, etc.
Eclipses during 1888.
Best Periods during 1888 for observing the Planets.
General Predictions.
Periods in 1888 for gathering Medicinal Herbs.
A Short Medical Directory for Different Diseases.
Birthday Information; also the fate of any Child born during 1888.
Useful Notes.
The Crowned Heads of Europe.
Explanation of the Hieroglyphic for 1887.
Fulfilled Predictions in 1887.
Hints to Farmers.
Hints to Gardeners.
Horticultural, Botanical, and Herbal Guide
Useful Hints, Legal and Commercial.
The Farmer, Receipts, etc.
Useful Receipts.
Positions of the Planets in the Nativities of the Rulers in Europe.

Price 35 cents, postage free.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Second Edition,

The First Edition having been closed out within a few weeks from date of issue.

THE Hidden Way

Across the Threshold;

OR,

THE MYSTERY WHICH HATH BEEN HIDDEN FOR AGES AND FROM GENERATIONS.

An Explanation of the Concealed Forces in Every Man to Open the Temple of the Soul and to Learn

The Guidance of the Unseen Hand.

Illustrated and made plain with as few Occult phrases as possible.

BY J. C. STREET, A. B. N.,

Fellow of the Order S. S. S. and of the Brotherhood Z. Z. R. R. Z. Z.

A wonderful book.—Boston Traveller.

Surely nothing could be more absorbingly important.—New York Graphic.

His book will excite interest even among those who cannot endorse all of its teachings. It is handsomely printed, and has numerous illustrations of a unique character.—Boston Gazette.

That it is the result of most diligent study and research, and comes from no ordinary hand, is amply proved by a perusal of its pages.—Boston Budget.

The moral teachings are of the highest possible order.—Alta Californian.

This book will be admitted to be a remarkable production. There is surpassing beauty and benefit in the author's conceptions of the motives of human conduct, death, and the future life.—Boston Globe.

The whole book is replete with the Laws of Consequence, and is one of the most remarkable books that has recently come before the public.—Sunday Express.

The chapter which deals with Mind-Cure, Metaphysics and Mental Healing, is one of the brightest and most exhaustive essays on Mind-Cure which has ever been written.—Buffalo Times.

Price $3.50; postage 25 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

IF A MAN DIE,

Shall He Live Again?

A Lecture Delivered by PROF. ALFRED R. WALLACE, at Metropolitan Temple, San Francisco, Cal., Sunday Evening, June 5th, 1887.

This Pamphlet embodies, in clear typography and convenient form, the first and only discourse delivered in America on the subject of SPIRITUALISM by this widely-known English Scientist during his late visit to our shores.

It is devoted largely to a clear and forcible recounting of his own personal experiences among the phenomena, rather than the argumentative or theoretic development of the claims of the New Dispensation upon the consideration of the present age.

Copies may be had for circulation at the following low prices:

Pamphlet, 24 pages, price 5 cents.
13 copies for 50 cents.
30 " " $1.00.

Also an edition of the same Lecture, prefaced by a brief but comprehensive Biographical Sketch of Prof. Wallace, and embellished with a fine autotype portrait of this well-known Scientist.

Price 10 cents per copy.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

The Weekly Discourse;

Containing the Spiritual Sermons by the guides of

MRS. CORA L. V. RICHMOND.

VOLUME III.

No. 1.—THE THREE M'S: MAMMON, MILLIONAIRES AND MURDER.
No. 2.—A LEAP IN THE DARK.
No. 3.—WHAT RELIGION IS BEST FOR MANKIND?
No. 4.—IDEAL SOCIALISM: HOW DOES IT COMPARE WITH CHRISTIANITY AND SPIRITUALISM?
No. 5.—THE IMPORT OF THE DAY.
No. 6.—ANCIENT AND MODERN MIRACLES.
No. 7.—THE JUDGMENT DAY.
No. 8.—THE POWER OF PRAYER.
No. 9.—THE NATURE OF SPIRITUALISM: IN ANSWER TO THE WORLD'S NEEDS.
No. 10.—THE FOUNDATIONS OF THE WORLD.

Price 5 cents each.

Single copies of any numbers of Volumes I. and II. will also be supplied at 5 cents each.

Also The Weekly Discourse, containing fifty-two numbers in each volume, handsomely bound in Half Roan, Gold Ruled.

VOL. I.....$3.00. VOL. II.....$3.00.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Scientific Works

OF

H. B. PHILBROOK.

"WHAT AND WHERE IS GOD?" A Discussion of the Cause, Character and Operations of the Creator. Cloth, 12mo, pp. 480. Price $2.50.

"WORK OF ELECTRICITY IN NATURE." This work contains articles on the subjects of the Offices of Electricity in the Human Body, in the Growth of Plants, Origin of Species, the Earth, and in the Solar System. Cloth, 8vo, about 200 pp. Price $3.00.

"CAUSE AND CURE OF DISEASE." A book containing a description of diseases, and cures for the same where a cure is possible. Cloth, 12mo, pp. 300. Price $2.00.

"MATING IN MARRIAGE." A Discussion of the Question of a Proper Mating of the Sexes in Marriage. Cloth, 12mo, pp. 77. Price $1.00.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

MY EXPERIENCE; OR, FOOTPRINTS OF A PRESBYTERIAN TO SPIRITUALISM. By FRANCIS H. SMITH.

An interesting account of "sittings," with various mediums, by a Baltimore gentleman, which led him to reject Presbyterianism and embrace Spiritualism. Many interesting messages are given.

Cloth, 75 cents, postage free.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

THE SABBATH QUESTION Considered by a Layman, showing the Origin of the Jewish Sabbath—How Jesus Observed It—The Origin of the Pagan Sunday—How it Became Christianized—and the Origin of the Puritan Sabbath. By ALFRED E. GILES.

Paper, 10 cents, postage free; 25 copies $1,50, postage 20 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

A TREATISE ON THE INTELLECTUAL, MORAL AND SOCIAL MAN, written under forty captions, with an Essay on Man. By HIRAM POWELL.

Cloth, $1,50, postage 10 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

FREE!-----PREMIUMS!----- FREE.

UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE.

Persons sending DIRECT TO COLBY & RICH, 9 Bosworth Street, Boston, Mass., $3.00 for a year's subscription to the BANNER OF LIGHT, will be entitled to a choice of the following Premiums:

All New Subscribers, or Old Patrons, on Renewing their Subscriptions

TO THE

BANNER OF LIGHT,

MAY OBTAIN FOR THEMSELVES AND FRIENDS THE FOLLOWING PREMIUMS BY COMPLYING WITH THE TERMS ABOVE MENTIONED.

A choice of TWO of either of the following named

CABINET PHOTOGRAPHS

will be given for one year's subscription, or one of them for a six months' subscription:

MR. LUTHER COLBY, Editor of the Banner of Light; MR. ISAAC B. RICH, Business Manager, or MISS M. T. SHELHAMER, Medium for the Banner of Light Public Free Circles.

These Photographs are all from recent sittings, and are finely executed by one of the best photographers in this city. Price for additional Photographs, if desired, 35 cents each.

Or a copy of either of the following Books:

Spirit Invocations; or, Prayers and Praises

Publicly offered at the Banner of Light Circle Room Free Meetings, by more than One Hundred Different Spirits, of Various Nationalities and Religions, through the vocal organs of the late Mrs. J. H. Conant. Compiled by Allen Putnam, A. M., author of "Bible Marvel-Workers," "Natty, a Spirit," "Spirit Works Real, but not Miraculous," etc., etc.

Mr. Putnam has with skillful hand arranged in this volume, in comprehensive fashion, many living gems of thought, which are clothed in eloquence of diction, and thrill the prayerful heart with spiritual fervor. From the soulful petitions scattered through its pages the doubter of Spiritualism's capability to minister to the devotional side of man's nature can draw ample proof that he is in error. The weary of heart will find in its holy breathings for strength, sent out to a higher power, rest from the cares that so keenly beset the pilgrim in life's highway. The sick in soul may from its demonstrations of the divine possibilities within, drink of the waters of spiritual healing and rejoice; and the desolate mourner can compass, through its unvailment of the certainty of reunion with the departed, a consolation which nothing earthly can take away.

Cloth, pp. 256.

A Romance of Caucasian Captivity; or, The Federati of Italy.

By G. L. Ditson, M. D. This is a romance of the most exciting character, and full of stirring incidents. The Federati were a band or association of individuals in Sardinia when it was still an independent kingdom, who were pledged to undying hostility to ultramontanism, and therefore were friends of a constitutional system.

It is skillfully conceived and constructed, its wide variety of characters affords constant excitement and pleasure, and its progress among a train of pleasurable incidents is almost like a poetic vision of the tripping of the rosy hours. It will provoke a favorable comparison with some of the most praised romances of the times.

Visions of the Beyond,

By a Seer of To-Day; or, Symbolic Teachings from the Higher Life.

Edited by Herman Snow. This work is of exceeding interest and value, the Seer being a person of elevated spiritual aspirations, and of great clearness of perception, but hitherto unknown to the public. The special value of this work consists in a very graphic presentation of the truths of Spiritualism in their higher forms of action, illustrating particularly the intimate nearness of the spirit-world and the vital relations between the present and future as affecting human character and destiny in the hereafter. Bound in cloth, pp. 186.

Or choice of ONE of the below-described beautiful works of art:

ENGRAVINGS.

"NEARER, MY GOD, TO THEE."

Painted by Joseph John, and engraved on steel by J. R. Rice. Size of sheet, 22x28 inches; engraved surface, 16x21 inches.

"THE ORPHANS' RESCUE."

Engraved on steel by J. A. J. Wilcox, from the original painting by Joseph John. Size of sheet, 22x28 inches; engraved surface, 15x20 inches.

"HOMEWARD."

Designed and painted by Joseph John. Size of sheet, 22x18 inches.

"FARM-YARD AT SUNSET."

Copied from the well-known and justly celebrated painting designed by Joseph John. Stein, copied in black and two tints. Size of sheet, 22x28 inches.

"THE DAWNING LIGHT."

From the original painting by Joseph John. Engraved on steel by J. W. Watts. Size of sheet, 20x24 inches.

For each additional Engraving 50 cents extra.

Any person sending $3.50 for one year's subscription to the BANNER OF LIGHT will be entitled to Hollyer's Line and Stipple Steel Plate Engraving of the late

Henry W. Longfellow in His Library

At "Craigie House," Old Cambridge, Mass.

The plate is 24x32 inches. The central figure is that of the GREAT POET. He is seated on the right of a circular table, which is strewn with his books and writing materials. The surroundings are harmonious and symmetrical.

This beautiful historic work of art is a lasting souvenir and ornament for sitting-room, parlor, library or office of any American home. We will mail the engraving free to any one sending us $3.50 for a year's subscription for the BANNER OF LIGHT, or we will send the engraving alone for $1.00. The publisher's trade price for the engraving is $7.50.

Any person sending $1.50 for six months' subscription to the BANNER OF LIGHT will be entitled to ONE of the following Pamphlets:

AN EPITOME OF SPIRITUALISM AND SPIRIT MAGNETISM. The above is the title of a pamphlet of over one hundred pages. We know of no one book that gives to the enquirer so good an understanding of the teachings of Spiritualism as this. It is designed to convey facts to Spiritualists, also to do a missionary work with skeptics and church members. Two copies for one year's subscription, one for six months'.

SUMMARY OF SUBSTANTIALISM; OR, PHILOSOPHY OF KNOWLEDGE. By Jean Story. 12mo, paper, small pica, 113 pages.

DEATH IN THE LIGHT OF THE HARMONIAL PHILOSOPHY. By Mary F. Davis. Paper.

AGASSIZ AND SPIRITUALISM; involving the Investigation of Harvard College Professors in 1857. By Allen Putnam.

DANGER SIGNALS; AN ADDRESS ON THE USES AND ABUSES OF MODERN SPIRITUALISM. By Mary F. Davis. Paper.

TALES OF THE SUN-RAYS. What Hans Christian Andersen tells a dear child about the Sun-Rays. Paper.

THE LIFE. The main object of this little volume is to give to suggestive teaching a recognition and a force (in the domain of religion and morals) greater than dictation has. Paper.

SERPENT AND SIVA WORSHIP, and Mythology in Central America, Africa and Asia; and the Origin of Serpent Worship. Two Treatises. By Hyde Clark and C. Staniland Wake, M. A. I. Edited by Alexander Wilder, M. D.

Or any two of the following pamphlets:

ANSWER TO CHARGES OF BELIEF IN MODERN REVELATIONS, ETC. Given before the Edwards Congregational Church, Boston, by Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Newton.

RELIGION OF SPIRITUALISM. By Eugene Crowell, M. D.

REVIEW of a Lecture by Jas. Freeman Clarke.

SYMBOL SERIES of Three Lectures, by Cora L. V. Tappan.

SOLAR AND SPIRITUAL LIGHT, AND OTHER LECTURES, delivered by Cora L. V. Tappan.

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF EDWARD S. WHEELER, the Distinguished Improvisator and Lecturer. By Geo. A. Bacon.

INNER MYSTERY. An Inspirational Poem, delivered by Miss Lizzie Doten. Paper.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION, IN ADVANCE:

Per Year.....$3.00
Six Months.....1.50

AN EPITOME OF SPIRITUALISM AND SPIRIT-MAGNETISM: Their Verity, Practicability, Conditions and Laws. By the Author of "Vital Magnetic Cure," "Nature's Laws in Human Life," etc. Just the pamphlet to send to skeptics who look upon the subjects as delusion and the teachings without foundation. Let it be circulated broadcast.

Price, paper, 35 cents, postage 3 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

TO BOOK PURCHASERS.

Colby & Rich, Publishers and Booksellers, 9 Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), corner of Province street, Boston, Mass., keep for sale a complete assortment of SPIRITUAL, PROGRESSIVE, REFORMATORY AND MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS, at Wholesale and Retail.

Terms Cash.—Orders for Books, to be sent by Express, must be accompanied by all or at least half cash. When the money forwarded is not sufficient to fill the order, the balance must be paid C. O. D. Orders for Books, to be sent by Mail, must invariably be accompanied by cash to the amount of each order. We would remind our patrons that they can remit us the fractional part of a dollar in postage stamps—ones and twos preferred. Postage stamps in quantities of MORE than one dollar will not be accepted. All business operations looking to the sale of Books on commission respectfully declined. Any Book published in England or America (not out of print) will be sent by mail or express.

☞ Catalogues of Books Published and for Sale by Colby & Rich sent free.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞ In quoting from the BANNER OF LIGHT care should be taken to distinguish between editorial articles and the communications (condensed or otherwise) of correspondents. Our columns are open for the expression of impersonal free thought, but we cannot undertake to endorse the varied shades of opinion to which correspondents give utterance.

☞ We do not read anonymous letters and communications. The name and address of the writer are in all cases indispensable as a guaranty of good faith. We cannot undertake to return or preserve manuscripts that are not used. When newspapers are forwarded which contain matter for our inspection, the sender will confer a favor by drawing a pencil or ink line around the article he desires specially to recommend for perusal.

☞ When our patrons desire the address of the BANNER changed, they should give us two weeks' previous notice, and not forget to state their present as well as future address.

Notices of Spiritualist Meetings, in order to insure prompt insertion, must reach this office on Monday of each week, as the BANNER goes to press every Tuesday.

Banner of Light.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, MAY 26, 1888.

Entered at the Post-Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class Matter.

THE BANNER IS ISSUED EVERY THURSDAY MORNING FOR THE WEEK ENDING ON SATURDAY.

PUBLICATION OFFICE AND BOOKSTORE, 9 Bosworth St. (formerly Montgomery Place), corner Province Street (Lower Floor).

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL AGENTS:
THE NEW ENGLAND NEWS COMPANY,
14 Franklin Street, Boston.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY,
39 and 41 Chambers Street, New York.

COLBY & RICH,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

ISAAC B. RICH.....BUSINESS MANAGER.
LUTHER COLBY.....EDITOR.
JOHN W. DAY.....ASSISTANT EDITOR.

☞ Business Letters must be addressed to ISAAC B. RICH, Banner of Light Publishing House, Boston, Mass. All other letters and communications must be forwarded to LUTHER COLBY. Private letters should invariably be marked "Personal" on the envelope.

☞ Before the oncoming light of Truth, Creeds tremble, Ignorance dies, Error decays, and Humanity rises to its proper sphere of Knowledge.—Spirit John Pierpont.

Decoration Day.

May 30th being a legal holiday, the BANNER OF LIGHT Establishment will remain closed on that date.

Patrons having advertisements which they wish renewed in our issue of June 2d must see that their applications are at this office on Friday morning, the 25th inst.

"The Law of the Spirit, and the Spirit of the Law."

We shall print next week a verbatim report (prepared especially for our columns) of a lecture on the above topic, delivered in Berkeley Hall, Boston, by the guides of Mrs. R. S. Lillie.

Journalistic Calumny.

It is not often we have seen in print a more atrocious instance of evil-surmising and wholesale calumniation, based on ignorance, stupidity and bigotry, than appears in a recent issue of the Washington National Republican. Referring to a late disaster on the coast of California, where the fine steamer, "Queen of the Pacific," sprung a leak and went to the bottom before she could reach a landing—her passengers barely being saved in boats—the editor proceeds to lucubrate as follows (italics ours):

"But the strangest, though not the most improbable feature of the story is that a lot of Spiritualists, slate-writers, and others of that class in San Francisco, had been for some time predicting that the Queen of the Pacific would go down on this trip. These predictions were sent out in all directions and persistently repeated. It is the belief of the captain and the agent, that in order to verify these evil prophecies, these people engaged some one to open the coal port of the Pacific Queen. This is appalling, and it is to be hoped that upon a close examination which is to be made, some other explanation of the disaster will be found, but the revelations recently made in the Diss Debar case in New York leave no doubt that there is a class of infamous conspirators throughout the country who would resort to almost any species of rascality under the cloak of Spiritualism to carry a point. The 'science of Spiritualism,' as it is sometimes called by those who believe in it, offers many conveniences to those who practice deceptions on the public.... If it were discovered that the San Francisco spirit-rappers, mediums, slate-writers and workers in the dark generally had really caused the disaster to the Queen of the Pacific we presume there would be wide-spread indignation among those who follow the same vocation."

It will surprise well-informed people, acquainted with such matters, to learn that "a lot of Spiritualists, slate-writers, and others of that class" in San Francisco, had suddenly and simultaneously turned prophets, and united in predicting the same event. It is rare that more than one person is permitted to foresee such an event, or claims to do so. We were therefore induced to look in our San Francisco exchanges for some mention of so extraordinary an endowment to the "Spiritualists and slate-writers" of the Golden City. What we find is a very different and far more probable story, in the Golden Gate of May 5th, as follows:

"A few weeks ago (Sunday evening, March 11th,) at Odd Fellows Hall, John Slater, the platform test medium, predicted disaster to this vessel. He said, in substance, and in his nervous way, 'I see a large steamship at sea. There appears to be something wrong with her. Her passengers are crowded on deck, and in great confusion. I see large volumes of smoke;' whether from her funnels or from the hull he did not say; 'her passengers are in great danger. The steamer is going south. Her name is Queen of Pacific.' A lady whose son was about to obtain employment on the ship, was advised not to permit him to do so, as a serious disaster was about to happen to the vessel. On several occasions he predicted the same disaster, and positively declared that he foresaw the accident."

So the "lot of Spiritualists, slate-writers, and others of that class," sought to be maligned by the Republican's editor, is reduced down to Mr. John Slater, a clairvoyant medium of good repute, who merely gave forth a warning of disaster as it was presented to his internal vision. Probably he was thus the means of saving from imminent danger a number of people who otherwise might have taken passage in the ill-fated vessel. And this kind act of angelic ministration is made the occasion of a most diabolical, wholesale surmise of evil against not only the Spiritualists of San Francisco, but others "throughout the country!"

The following excerpts from nearly a column account in the San Francisco Chronicle of May 3d, show that extended inquiries were made by its staff to arrive at the central facts connected with this case, and give also some indication as to the keen degree of interest it has aroused in the public mind on the Pacific coast:

"Several gentlemen who had witnessed a number of Slater's exhibitions were seen by a Chronicle reporter during the day, with a view to learn the nature of the medium's prophecy. The stories as told by these gentlemen were substantially the same. They said that his séances were held in Odd Fellows Hall on Sunday afternoons and evenings.... He would break out in a wild, incoherent manner, and after considerable mumbling he would say that he saw fire, and the Queen of the Pacific he always beheld in flames. He generally wound up by advising his audience to stay away from the ill-fated vessel, and to warn their friends and relatives who might be connected with the vessel to leave it immediately.

Mrs. Ada Foye, the medium, was seen by a Chronicle reporter last night and questioned in relation to the alleged 'prediction.' She confirmed the report with an emphatic 'Yes, it is true. The prediction was made by John Slater at Odd Fellows Hall one Sunday night, seven weeks ago. I was not present at the time, but there are six hundred people who can testify that John Slater really predicted the disaster. He singled out a young man and told him that he was going to sea. The man did not deny it, whereupon Slater told him not to do so. He then gave the name of the Queen of the Pacific, and said that she would sink within a few weeks, or rather something would happen to the vessel. The prediction excited considerable comment at the time.... When I read the news of the disaster in the Chronicle I realized what a magnificent test had been given. In my opinion it is something that will aid the cause of Spiritualism more than anything else could have done. John Slater also predicted the Julia disaster two weeks before the explosion, and the man for whose benefit the prophecy was made disregarded the warning, and was killed, I believe.'

When the reporter mentioned the rumor that the disaster was due to the action of some spiritualistic crank who desired that the prediction be fulfilled, regardless of consequences, Mrs. Foye contemptuously remarked that the idea was too utterly absurd for consideration by any sane person. She knew enough of the power of spirits, she said, to predict danger to their friends on earth, and if they chose to disregard the warning it did not argue that Spiritualism was a fraud, or that its votaries could be guilty of such villany as to endanger the lives of several hundred passengers in an attempt to have a prophecy fulfilled.

Mrs. Sears, another medium, stated that the prediction had really been made by Slater, and that its fulfillment did not astonish her one bit. A lady friend of hers, she said, was going to San Diego on the Queen of the Pacific, but her husband, who is a true Spiritualist, insisted that she should go by rail, or by some other steamer. She became alarmed, and went by rail. In Mrs. Sears's opinion, the disaster was only another proof of spirit-intuition. The glorious truths of Spiritualism, she thought, would not suffer by the envious stabs of non-believers.

A gentleman named Barrett, who resides in Oakland, and who is an avowed enemy to Spiritualism, was present at the meeting at which Slater launched forth his dire prediction. He said that he had given the matter little thought until the news of the catastrophe reached the city on Monday. Then he recollected the prophecy with such force as to shake his doubts to the very foundation. He hardly knew what to believe, but he was certain that the disaster had been predicted, and the prophecy fulfilled. That was all he cared to know.

A number of mediums seen later told substantially the same story, and all ignored the supposition that 'villany had been practiced.' In their opinion the occurrence was incontrovertible proof of the genuineness of Slater's mediumship, and of the truths of a great and sublime belief."

It would appear that Mr. Slater and those who were made acquainted with the warning supposed the vessel would be destroyed by fire, whereas she was sunk by a leak. (No doubt the increased fires made to generate extra steam in the effort to reach a landing, caused unusual quantities of smoke, from which a mistaken inference was drawn.) If, therefore, it were conceivable that any one was employed to wreck the steamer in order to verify the evil prophecy, as so charitably surmised, it is altogether probable the vessel would have been set on fire instead of being scuttled. But this bigoted eagerness to accuse Spiritualism and Spiritualists does not stop at facts or probabilities. It cares little for the truth. The blundering stupidity of these public utterances sufficiently indicates the grade of mentality of the editor of the Republican, albeit his lucubrations are given to the world through the columns of a journal which aspires to be the national organ of a great political party.

That journal should remember that numbers of the members of its own party, including such honored men as President Lincoln, Vice-Presidents Wilson and Wade, Joshua R. Giddings, and many others now passed to the higher life, as well as thousands still on the stage of earthly action, have been and are confirmed Spiritualists—made such by evidences of spirit-intervention such as rational minds cannot resist; that there are probably millions of them ("eleven millions," or about one fifth of the whole population, was asserted some years since, by our opponents), to be found in all parties, churches and sects; that they embrace, to say the least, as intelligent, honest and well-meaning people as are to be found in the world; and that if a few tricky adventurers or adventuresses seek to impose on the credulity of the unsuspecting, to make gain for themselves, this is nothing more than what is continually occurring among all classes of people—politicians, merchants, bankers and orthodox church-members. To make such incidents, common to depraved human nature everywhere, occasions for wholesale mud-throwing and sweeping slanderous surmisings against whole classes of respectable people, is indicative only of narrow-minded bigotry and shameful uncharitableness.

Religious Fanaticism

Of the Talmage stamp has caused within the past two months in Menominee County, Mich., eight people and many others in different parts of Northern Michigan to become insane by the exhortations of "evangelists." Those bigoted clergymen in other States who from their pulpits are condemning the Spiritualists had better "look at home" and protect their own flocks!

☞ Amid the clash of contention and the darkness of discord gleams of sunshine may be seen by referring to what our correspondents all over the country have to say of grand meetings held and great interest manifested in our glorious cause. There should be a fraternity and courtesy between all our workers creditable to their hearts and heads. The day of its coming is drawing nigh.

WARREN SUMNER BABLOW endorses the work of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Kates, on our second page.

No Women Allowed in the Conference.

As previously noted in these columns, our Methodist brethren have certainly been getting into a grand row, in their recent general conference in New York, over the vital question of the admission of female delegates to the conference. The excitement in the camp arose over the report of the committee on the eligibility of women as lay delegates, the report being against their admission. One reverend doctor moved that the women whose seats were contested be given seats on the floor during the debate. Another reverend doctor promptly objected. After much discussion the motion was lost. While the vote was being taken, one woman, the president of the woman's foreign missionary society, stood up to be counted, but objection was made and her vote was ruled out. Then a reverend doctor was given permission to open the debate. It was his misfortune to be deaf. He advocated the admission of women as delegates, and asserted that the report did not rightly interpret the law of the church. There was nothing, he said, to restrict women from exercising the same rights as men. Lay delegates were admitted to the general conference in 1872, but it was not decided that they should be men only, the general understanding being that women were eligible equally with men.

More than two-thirds of the members of the Methodist church are women, and he asked if so large a majority had no rights of representation of their own. Are they not, he demanded, to have something to say in the government of the church which they aid most in supporting? He declared that without women one-half of the churches would cease to exist. Women cannot be left out without harm to the church. "I am deaf," said the speaker, "and that is a great misfortune; but sooner would I be stricken dumb rather than this tongue of mine should utter one word against the admission of women."

Several others followed this speaker with similar views, one of them arguing that the Conference had at least the same right to admit women as delegates that the Supreme Court of the United States had to admit women to practice before that tribunal. Then uprose a reverend doctor of a contrary mind, Buckley by name, and the editor of the Christian Advocate, who is considered the best orator in the Conference. "The enemy cometh in like a flood," he began, "but I will lift up a standard against him." He did not consider the issue to be one of persons at all, but of principles. With his large knowledge of Methodist history, he professed to be ignorant of anything that tells them that women should be admitted as delegates. He reminded his hearers that the other denominations of Christians did not admit women into their conferences, and he claimed that there was not a denomination in the world that admitted them, or would admit them.

He did not consider that they were in their right place in such an assemblage. There was nothing in the constitution of the Church that gives them the right to a seat. He professed to stand there to "champion the holy cause of woman"; likewise to challenge the right of women to representation in the body until the members of their sex had an opportunity to express their opinion on the subject. He deprecated the sentimentality of the matter. Every time a woman was put in a legislative body, he said, a man was put out, and to no advantage of that body. The matter ended, as we have before stated, by a refusal to admit the ladies at the present Conference, and a reference of the matter to another.

To complicate this woman question still further, a delegate from Foo Choo presented a memorial to the Conference, asking if converts from heathenism, having more than one wife, can keep their wives as before, and at the same time be good Methodists. It was a poser. Of course it was "referred," and of course, as a new and bothersome issue, it will be smothered in committee. The Philistines are evidently getting upon the Methodist Samson.

☞ The answers to questions propounded at our Public Free Circle-Room—Miss M. T. Shelhamer the medium—on Tuesday afternoon of each week, are considered by those present exceedingly interesting. The questions by mortals and answers by spirit-intelligences—as is well known to our patrons—are published each week on our sixth page. We particularly call attention to those reported in THE BANNER of May 15th, especially the one in answer to the question, "What is Spiritual Truth?" Those clergymen who are warning their hearers against the spiritual philosophy, through ignorance of the subject in some cases, and bigotry and vindictiveness in others, should read the views therein set forth: "Spiritualism," says the spirit-intelligence, "we claim, comes to teach this grand lesson: to appeal to the life of man, and to call it up from the merely temporal conditions of existence to an understanding of the more active forces of life." .... "The grand, primal, basic fact of Spiritualism is the demonstration of immortal life for man, manifested through various agencies and by diverse instrumentalities, but ever one and the same powerful force and activity, which cannot be overcome by opposition or by persecution. From this one grand fact springs the knowledge of not only immortal life and consciousness, but of eternal love, sympathy and soul-tenderness, and also the information that man advances from age to age, from gradation to gradation of unfoldment, ever expanding in nature and unfolding in spiritual force and power."

☞ The friends of the Boston Spiritual Lyceum should bear in mind that there is to be a STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL at Paine Hall, on Wednesday evening, June 6th, for the especial benefit of the children. As the admission fee is only fifteen cents, we hope to see the Hall well filled. Tickets can be had at our counting-room, of Mrs. Maggie F. Butler, and at the door of the Hall.

☞ THE BANNER bids Mr. and Mrs. Lillie good-speed in their Western journey, and earnestly desires the friends they may meet during their summer trip will welcome them with open arms—as no doubt they will—and return them safely to good old Boston in the fall.

☞ Read (on our second page) what The Boston Investigator says of Hon. Warren Chase and his new work: "Forty Years on the Spiritual Rostrum." Colby & Rich have the book on sale.

☞ A. S. Hayward, magnetic physician, will discontinue treatment at his rooms on May 28th, for the summer months, but will visit the sick in Boston and vicinity, also continue his treatment at a distance, by the vehicle of magnetic paper, sent by mail. Application can be made for home treatment, or for paper, by addressing a letter to him at 9 Bosworth street, Boston. See advertisement in BANNER OF LIGHT for future address during the summer months.

The Cooper Testimonial.

THE BANNER printed last week a fine likeness of Robert Cooper, of Eastbourne, the veteran pioneer of Spiritualism in the British Isles, who has in his old age fallen on trying times, financially, by reason of blindness. We made reference also to the meeting held in Holborn Town Hall, London, on the evening of April 27th, in aid of the project to purchase for him an annuity. On that occasion J. Burns, editor of the Medium and Daybreak, read a letter deeply in sympathy with the movement, from William Tebb (then in Greece). Mr. Thomas Shorter and Mr. Hunt had appropriate words to offer, and Mr. Cooper interestingly told the story of his early struggles for the cause, positing the results achieved upon the following earnest and irrefutable sentences:

"I have often thought to myself: what notice would people have taken of anything I might have said had it been a mere matter of speculative opinion that I brought to their notice. But it is the facts of Spiritualism that constitute its power, and armed with 'the inexorable logic of facts,' the humblest advocates of spiritual truth may go forth to sure and certain victory. For 'Facts are chiels that winna ding.'"

The following from The Medium of May 11th, gives the financial results of the testimonial above referred to:

"THE CELEBRATION.—The sum of £7 7s. 7d. was realized from the Holborn Town Hall demonstration, after paying all expenses, and it has been handed over to the Fund on Mr. Cooper's behalf. This sum includes £1 contributed by Mrs. Tebb and £1 by Mr. Everitt. A. T. T. P. distributed tickets to the amount of the £1 already acknowledged in these columns, thus serving a double purpose. All speak in terms of high approval of the Entertainment, which has not only been of use to the Fund, but to the Cause in many ways."

It gives us pleasure to publish from a correspondent the following letter, which is timely and to the point:

"When a noble man and tireless worker in our good cause becomes, through no fault of his own, blind and in destitute circumstances, all Spiritualists should feel it a privilege to help him.

Robert Cooper, of England, has done much for Spiritualism. In his more prosperous days he has always extended a helping hand to those in need, and now that he is suffering Spiritualists should, in no stinted measure, manifest their gratitude. I cannot refuse to aid so worthy a man I therefore enclose money order for five dollars for the purpose, regretting that I cannot give more. Yours truly,

Lowell, Mass., May 19th. E. S. VARNEY."

The Rhode Island gentleman whose outspoken words in behalf of the fund we quoted last week, (and who has already subscribed $25 to the sum now raising on this side of the Atlantic) writes us under the date of May 18th the following significant epistle:

"Please add thirty dollars to my subscription for Robert Cooper."

The account now stands as follows, as far as the American subscriptions are concerned:

From THE BANNER'S God's Poor Fund	$10,00
L. Colby	10,00
A. E. G.	5,00
J. P. H.	25,00
J. P. H. (additional)	30,00
I. B. Rich	10,00
Friend	2,00
C. H. Spear	2,00
W. J. Colville	1,25
Mrs. M. H. Warren	5,00
I. W. Bonnel	1,00
"Dick"	5,00
E. S. Varney	5,00
Augustus Day	2,00

Rabbi Schindler's Lectures.

Frequent mention has been made in these columns, during the last few months, of lectures delivered at the Temple Adath Israel of this city, by Rabbi Solomon Schindler, upon the history of Judaism. These lectures have attracted a large share of public attention by their breadth of thought, liberal views of religious truth, and the light they have shed upon Jewish history. It is, therefore, with feelings of much satisfaction that we announce the appearance of the entire series—twenty-five in number—in a neat and substantial volume of upward of three hundred pages, from the press of the enterprising publishers, Messrs. Lee & Shepard.

The lecturer does not believe religion to be a substance that can be counted, weighed or measured, but that it is something ethereal; something that has been and still is changing its forms and ingredients. He believes it has been one thing at one period and another at some other time; that it has been and is one thing to one man and a different thing to the next; and that "the fault rests with us if we fail to see, or do not wish to see, that religious thoughts must have kept stride with the accumulation of experiences; that religion has been simply the formula by which every age has expressed its highest intellectual attainments." The doctrine of evolution he accepts, and in its application to religion finds a solution for all the changes the religious belief of mankind has undergone. In these lectures he applies the law of evolution to the history of Judaism, in the light of which theory what has in that history hitherto been a most perplexing problem becomes clear and transparent.

The title he has chosen for this book, "Dissolving Views," he considers very appropriate; for as upon a screen a stereopticon picture seems to melt into air, while the form of another slowly appears, increasing in distinctness as the other fades, so a prominent person in Jewish history stands forth on the background of his contemporary age in one lecture, then slowly disappears, giving place to a new person and a new age in the next. The relations long sustained between Judaism and Christianity have been so intimate that what affects one cannot but in a greater or less degree affect the other; therefore, what in the history of either may interest one will with almost equal potency interest the other. There are, for this reason, few who will not find in this volume much that will interest; certainly none who will not value its entertaining presentation of historical truths and progressive religious thought.

☞ "Howard's Gossip" in the Boston Globe is generally very interesting reading. Here is what he says in last Monday's edition of that paper, under the heading, "SCRAP-BOOK RECORDS":

"Scrap-books are tough arguments. A friend of mine was inveighing against Dr. Talmage, who recently preached quite tiradistically against Spiritualism, and read a report of the sermon aloud, whereupon a gentleman in the party twirled a revolving bookcase and pulled out a scrap-book. Then he said:

Here you are. By reference to my scrap-book I find that the same sermon, word for word, was delivered in the Tabernacle in 1875, as you will find by reference to the secular papers of that date, and it has been repeated periodically ever since, notably in Tremont Temple, Boston, and on Sunday in Brooklyn, two Sabbaths ago, and I would remark, by the way, that Mr. Talmage receives quite a large salary for such a simple rehash of an old subject. Even if his people are satisfied with these constant repetitions, the general public get tired and require something more positive than a mere tirade against Spiritualism generally, unsubstantiated by facts. Mr. Talmage is like one of those clever professors whom Goethe describes:

Most learned Dom, I know you by these tokens:
What you can feel not, that can no one feel;
What comprehend not, no one comprehend;
What you can't reckon is of no account;
What you can't weigh, can no existence have;
What you've not coined, that must be counterfeit.

The deadly parallel is a boomerang, sure enough, but a well-indexed scrap-book knocks a boomerang into smithereens."

AUGUSTUS DAY, ESQ., a prominent manufacturer at Detroit, Mich., made us a pleasant call on Monday last. He looks like one able to continue for years the earnest work for Spiritualism which he has accomplished so faithfully in the past in that city, through his personal influence, viz., the Sale and Circulating Library which he has established, and, latterly, the spiritual meetings he has conducted at the new hall he has erected in that city for the purpose, and which seats six hundred persons. Mr. Day announces that he will begin, September 1st, a lecture season of nine months at (his new) Fraternity Hall, 75 State street, corner Park Place, and wishes to engage speakers therefor—those having the power of giving tests from the platform being preferred. Any speaker or medium desiring to know more concerning the plans of this worthy gentleman can address him at the Hall.

☞ A four-page tract has been issued by Colby & Rich, containing an abstract of Mrs. R. S. Lillie's recent reply to the onslaught of Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, also a trenchant extract from the writings of "Eleanor Kirk" in the same direction. See announcement on our fifth page.

ALL SORTS OF PARAGRAPHS.

UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF TEA.
IN SIX STANZAS.

I.

The teapot was blooming with roses,
The cups and the saucers were blue;
Antique were the chairs and the table—
Her teagown, however, was new.

RELIGIOUS THIEVES.—Howard Neff, aged sixteen years; Lewis Godshalk, aged sixteen, and J. L. Curry, aged twenty-one, all well connected members of the Young Men's Christian Association, were held in $500 bail in Philadelphia, May 17th, on charges of stealing two watches from clothing left in the dressing-rooms of the Association's gymnasium. Much property has recently been lost in that way, and the matter being placed in the hands of detectives, the arrests followed. Had Spiritualists been caught stealing, as have these young Christians, the press from one end of the country to the other would print columns of condemnation. It makes a vast difference, it seems, whose ox is gored.

The Virginia Agricultural, Mechanical and Tobacco Exposition will take place at Richmond, under the auspices of the State Agricultural and Mechanical Society. It will be opened Oct. 3d, 1888, and closed not later than Nov. 21st, 1888. Its scope includes all arts, manufactures and products of the soil and mine. Ashton Starke, President; Henry C. Jones, Director General; A. R. Venable, jr., Secretary.

POISONING THE INDIANS.—Breno, a disciple of "manifest destiny" in Brazil, has, it is reported, hit upon the novel practice of giving poisoned food to the Indians of the interior of that country, defending his atrocious acts—by which in one village alone three thousand men, women and children are reported to have died—by the argument (!) that their territories are needed by civilized (?) people. If that were the case, Bueno would himself be entitled to no share in the proceeds.

Life is brief, but strife is long:
It lasts for ages in prose and song.
Thersites of old still lives to-day
In sneaking form to keep up the fray;
But Justice and Right hold regal sway,
As angels of light are leading the way
To realms of peace in the great beyond,
Where the true and the pure shall ne'er despond.

The Record says it is "a rose geranium." "By any other name 't would smell as sweet."

We learn that Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lyman of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., have built a nice house, 26 Clinton street, where they will entertain their guests the coming season. The "Lyman House," as they designate it, has been the stopping-place of many Spiritualists during the past few years, and doubtless the usual patronage will be continued at their new home, the prices being reasonable and the location central and quiet.

If husbands would show a little more attention to their wives there would be fewer divorce cases in our courts and fewer deaths from broken hearts.—Boston Globe.

A dispatch from London, Eng., says that five hundred persons have been drowned by floods in Mesopotamia.

A close student of feminine ways, particularly on the public thoroughfares, contends that it is an easy matter these Spring days to determine a woman's social status by the way she holds up her dress at a sloppy crossing.

Fault-finding is a great enemy to beauty. About the mouth there is certain to come a cluster of lines to tell the world at large of the peevishness of its owner. It makes the eyes smaller, because they contract at the time, and the lips grow extremely sensitive from continual biting.

FIRST IN THE FIELD.—The National Equal Rights party held a Convention at Des Moines, Ia., on May 15th, and put in nomination Mrs. Belva A. Lockwood as its candidate for President. The Convention formally endorsed Woman Suffrage in its platform.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 5th.—The McNulty baby which died yesterday of smallpox was buried last night. The mother is too critically sick to be taken to the pest-house. The disease developed from the virus with which the babe was vaccinated two weeks ago. It came from a Vaccine Company. Further comment is unnecessary.

"Out, brief candle."

There is a certain young man of wealth and leisure about town who is very well appreciated by his club friends and associates, but is of such attenuated physique, and dresses so excessively long-waisted and otherwise à l'anglaise in manner, as to remind one a good deal of a certain caricature portrait of McNeil Whistler, painted not long ago by a New York artist. —Boston Evening Record.

The awful Mississippi River floods still continue. The river is a lake fifteen miles wide near Quincy, Ill. The disaster this year is greater than at any date since 1851. The following paragraph gives a pen portraiture of the situation:

"The trip from Keokuk to Alexandria was made by steamboat, and a landing effected on the crown of the levee, the only dry spot visible for miles. Then a skiff was hired and a tour of the town made. Main street and the streets leading off from it were filled with skiffs, scows, rafts, and every conceivable floating craft, and presented quite an animated appearance."

[QUERY TO THE MODERN CLERGY.]—Is not a soul to be deemed halt and lame, who hates voluntary falsehood, and is extremely indignant at himself and others when they tell lies; and yet receives involuntary falsehood, and does not mind wallowing like a swinish beast in the mire of ignorance, and has no shame of being detected?—Plato, B. C. 427.

Our worthy contemporary, Light, is surely in error when it says that THE BANNER "reproduces the story of the Highland seer, Kenneth Mackenzie," which it [Light] summarized from Murray's Magazine. The fact is the "story" was prepared, before the copy of Light containing it was received at this office, from the pages of Murray before us. The narrative, as it appears in Light and in our columns, bears but little resemblance in the make-up; though the essentials appear in both, they are differently placed.—But this we can say with all due humility: The short article concerning "Swiss Goblins," immediately following the remark alluded to in Light, is there "reproduced" as "we summarized" it from the Woman's World, for it appears with the single and double quotation marks and italics we gave it.

HE ADVERTISED.

Merchant Ben Williams—may his riches grow—
Sat in his office with the lights turned low,
When suddenly he saw amid the gloom
A misty figure writing in the room.
Though feeling blue, Ben smiled and said: "I pray,
If that's a check, hand it to me straightway!"
The visitor replied: "If you are wise
And want to handle checks, just advertise."
The speaker vanished, but another night
He happened in again. Ben's heart was light.
Before him were the books that told the tale
Of honest profits reaped from many a sale.
—New York World.

Drs. Beaman & Child, dentists, 50 School street, up one flight, we recommend as among the most competent in their line of business in this city.

The following story about Dr. Joel Hawes was told by ex Mayor Robinson, of Hartford: "One day he came into my office and said, 'Henry, a man was in my study this morning, and right under my own roof told me I had n't preached the gospel for forty years! What would you have done if you had been in my place?' I said I would have kicked him out of doors. The good old doctor—a man of peace in all respects—looked at me with a queer expression for a moment, and then remarked, thoughtfully, 'I wish you'd been there, Henry.'"

A HEART-BREAKING DISCOVERY.—Anxious Father—Why, what 's the matter? Little Son—Me an' Dick was playin' we was Abe Lincoln, and splittin' rails, an' when we get that big board all chopped up mamma came out an' took the wood in the house fer kindlin'. "But you did n't want the wood, did you?" "No—o." "Then what are you crying for?" "I've just found out I—I aint been playin'. I—I 've been workin'—boo hoo!"—Omaha World.

The Governor of Formosa, China, proposes to light his capital city, Taipak-fu, by means of electricity.

The Spiritualist Camp-Meetings.

Lake Pleasant.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

The Directors of the New England Spiritualists' Camp-Meeting Association held an important session here to-day with nearly a full board present.

Mr. William R. Tice, the Treasurer, was also in attendance. Matters relative to the coming session of the Camp-Meeting were considered, and several important propositions decided affirmatively. The Trustees of the Lake Pleasant Association, consisting of A. T. Pierce, Barrowsville, Lewis Bartholomew, Philadelphia, and A. T. Whiting of Utica, N. Y., also held a session. The prospect for an old time gathering here this summer is well assured. Cottages are being built to stay, and a general improvement of the grounds is in progress.

The list of speakers is now complete, and the finest array of musical talent that we have ever had here has been secured. The several railroads have signified their readiness to coöperate in the way of transportation, and excursion rates will be given on all lines leading to this place.

NOTES.

The stopping of trains is duly appreciated. It was a move in the right direction.

Mr. C. E. Jackson, our Postmaster, has been commissioned a Justice of the Peace.

Mrs. E. A. Lincoln, of Boston, is having a cottage erected on the Bluff. J. H. Smith is contractor for the same.

Dr. E. E. Conant, of the Field Cottage, Montague street, has turned agriculturist. He has several acres in process of cultivation.

"Pine Tree Home" is being enlarged.

James Wilson, Esq., of Bridgeport, Conn., is about to erect a villa of a very pleasing style of architecture upon his lot on Lyman street. It will be one of the handsomest cottages upon the grounds.

The clearing up of the grounds is progressing.

It is expected that the Dillingham Cottage will be open soon.

It would be much to the advantage of all concerned if the mediums would keep their address in THE BANNER.

There is already quite a demand for cottages and rooms.

Mr. John D. Bacon and family have returned to Lake Pleasant, and are occupying their new cottage on Owassa street.

Mr. William R. Tice, the Treasurer of the Association, is to enlarge and beautify his cottage on Lyman street.

Mrs. Fannie Davis Smith of Brandon, Vt., was a visitor in Camp to-day.

Mr. Noble Hopkins of Utica, N. Y., has arrived.

Landlord Barnard, of the Lake Pleasant Hotel, gave a very fine dinner to some twenty guests to-day.

Mr. A. T. Pierce has taken two lots on the Highlands, adjoining those of Hon. A. C. Carey. Mr. Pierce will erect a fine cottage thereon.

The ladies connected with the management at this place will hold a grand Fair during the Camp-Meeting, for which extensive arrangements are being made.

Several parties from New York State will camp at Lake Pleasant this summer, for the first time.

Lake Pleasant, Mass., May 19th, 1888. J. M. Y.

Onset Bay.

The Onset street railway has commenced running for the season, and connects with all trains on the Old Colony railroad. The Onset station opened Monday, the 21st, for the season.

"OBSERVER" writes: "Several of the Onset Bay Association Directors visited Onset, May 16th, to attend a railroad meeting; the Motor was run on the occasion to take them from the Old Colony railroad.

Mr. George Hosmer, Vice-President of the Association, has returned from a three months' visit at Washington, D. C., where he went to avoid the cold east winds of Boston; his health is much improved for his Southern trip; he was at Onset last week, preparing to remove there for the summer months.

Capt. Nash, Mr. Peabody and Mrs. J. P. Ricker have also recently visited Onset, and will soon remove there for the season.

Mr. Butterfield (another Director) and wife are daily expected.

Mrs. Loring has been here, preparing the Bay View cottage; she has now gone to Fitchburg, but will return about the first of June, with Mr. and Mrs. Aplin, for the summer.

Several mediums have arrived.

In alluding to the petition sent to the Selectmen of Wareham, as printed in the items last week in the BANNER OF LIGHT, the vote should have been stated as by the entire stockholders, including the Directors, that no license for the sale of liquor be granted by them to Onset citizens. This movement makes it a Stockholders' vote instead of a Directors' vote alone, as the former notice would indicate.

Mr. Vaughan and family, of Malden, have arrived at their cottage for the season.

Treasurer Dr. Johnson's wife is quite feeble, but it is greatly to be hoped that the invigorating breezes at Onset will restore her to health. She enjoys Onset very much, and takes pleasure in exercising her spiritual gifts; she has done so for hundreds as a free-will offering in past years, and it is the hope of the writer, also many others, that she will be able to continue them as usual this season.

Mrs. S. E. King, owner of the Greenleaf Cottage, under the present conditions and circumstances feels compelled to sell her nice residence, and will do so at private sale if any one feels disposed to pay its value. It is situated on one of the finest points of the water front, with a beautiful view of the bay, and is in nice repair, newly painted, etc.

E. Gerry Brown, one of the Directors, has been at Onset recently."

Sunapee Lake, N. H.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

The meeting of the present year at this charming location on Sunapee Lake bids fair to surpass in varied interest any that have preceded it. Dr. H. B. Storer, the former President of the Onset Bay Association, has the Sunapee meeting in charge, and the speakers, mediums and musicians already engaged rank among the best before the public.

The programmes of the meeting, giving full particulars as to hotel accommodations, reduced fares on the railroads, excursions, time of exercises, etc., will soon be ready for delivery.

Among the speakers engaged may be mentioned: Dr. Geo. A. Fuller, Mrs. Juliette Yeaw, Mrs. E. B. Craddock, Mr. J. Wm. Fletcher, Dr. H. B. Storer, Mr. A. E. Tisdale, Eben Cobb, Esq., Mrs. Susie Willis-Fletcher, Miss Jennie B. Hagan and Joseph D. Stiles.

Three of the best platform test-mediums in the country—Joseph D. Stiles, J. Wm. Fletcher and Edgar W. Emerson—will exercise their psychic powers in the description of spirits present. Dr. C. H. Harding and Madam Snow will also give tests and psychometic readings.

Especial attention has been given this year to the musical exercises and the Saturday evening entertainments. The "Fraternity Quartette," Mrs. Nettie Wentworth, director, will furnish music for the platform, and take charge of the entertainments, which will be a literary and musical mélange comprising professional and varied talent.

The dances on Thursday evening have always attracted large assemblies, and will receive as much attention as heretofore.

Steamboat excursions upon the lake will be announced from time to time.

Mediums intending to be present to give public or private sittings should notify at once Dr. H. B. Storer, 406 Shawmut Avenue, Boston.

Those who decide to spend their vacation at the Camp this year will not be disappointed. A cheery and fraternal spirit has always pervaded these meetings; the intellectual character of the platform has compelled respect even of skeptics; and in the charms of natural scenery Sunapee is unsurpassed.

The Ladies' Aid Fair and Entertainment will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 14th and 15th. The Camp-Meeting commences July 29th and closes Aug. 29th. ☞

California Camp-Meeting.

The Fourth Annual Gathering will be held at Lake Merritt Park, Oakland, Cal., from June 3d to July 1st, inclusive.

The camp-grounds are located on the eastern shore of Lake Merritt, at the northwest corner of Twelfth street and First Avenue. The grounds are in the form of a natural peninsula. The adjacent and surrounding scenery reflects the triumph of nature's great artist.

Visitors arriving by the line of the C. P. R. R., local trains, should alight at Oak-street station; those traveling via the Narrow Gauge should alight at the terminus, corner of Webster and Fourteenth streets; a brief walk will in each case bring them to the camp entrance.

By alighting at Broadway dépôt of C. P. R. R., visitors can take Brooklyn horse cars, which pass the camp-grounds.

The officers of the Association are: President, I. C. Steele, Pescadero; Vice-President, Chas. E. Eliot, Oakland; Recording Secretary, Mrs. S. B. Whitehead, San Francisco; Corresponding Secretary, G. H. Hawes, San Francisco; Treasurer, S. B. Clark, San Francisco; Directors, I. C. Steele, C. E. Eliot, S. B. Clark, Mrs. A. Eliot, W. W. McKaig, G. H. Gilman, Mrs. J. Schlesinger, Mrs. S. B. Whitehead, W. E. Walker, Mrs. H. F. Michener, G. H. Hawes.

The objects of this Association, as set forth in its Constitution, are to encourage Spiritual, Moral, Intellectual and Social growth, and to bring the rapidly increasing numbers who are welcoming and accepting the truths of Spiritualism into closer communion and sympathy. With the view to accomplish the above ends, in part, at least, the managers have made their utmost efforts and the most complete and thorough arrangements to ensure the success of this the Fourth Annual Camp-Meeting on the Pacific Coast.

The managers have placed the matter of music in the hands of a capable committee, and they have great pleasure in stating the engagement of Mr. J. T. Lillie and Mrs. Eugenia W. Clark, with other excellent talent, in this department. The San Francisco Cornet Band, brass and string, will furnish concerts each Sunday, both outside and inside the Grand Pavilion.

As the test medium, the management have this year secured Edgar W. Emerson, who will certainly appear not less than four times each week.

In accordance with established custom, the local mediums of San Francisco and the adjacent cities of the State will be represented, while the facts and philosophy they present will have proper opportunities accorded for their presentation during the meeting. Among those who are expected may be mentioned: Mrs. Ada Foye, Mrs. Julia Schlesinger, Mrs. Sarah H. Harris, J. J. Owen, W. W. McKaig, Dr. C. C. Peet, Wm. Emmette Coleman, etc.

Prominent among the expected visitors will be the veteran medium J. V. Mansfield, who will remain during the season.

The following is the official list of speakers:

Sunday, June 3—11 A. M., Mrs. R. S. Lillie; 2 P. M., W. J. Colville; 7:30 P. M., J. J. Morse. Tuesday, 5th—7:30 P. M., Mrs. R. S. Lillie. Wednesday, 6th—7:30 P. M., W. J. Colville. Thursday, 7th—7:30 P. M., J. J. Morse. Friday, 8th—2:30 P. M., Mrs. R. S. Lillie. Saturday, 9th—7:30 P. M., Edgar W. Emerson (tests). Sunday, 10th—11 A. M., W. J. Colville; 2 P. M., President I. C. Steele; 7:30 P. M., Mrs. R. S. Lillie. Tuesday, 12th—7:30 P. M., W. W. McKaig. Wednesday, 13th—7:30 P. M., Mrs. R. S. Lillie. Thursday, 14th—7:30 P. M., Edgar W. Emerson (tests). Friday, 15th—2:30 P. M., J. J. Morse. Saturday, 16th—7:30 P. M., Wm. Emmette Coleman. Sunday, 17th—11 A. M., J. J. Owen; 2 P. M., Memorial Service; 7:30 P. M., J. J. Morse. Tuesday, 19th—7:30 P. M., Dr. C. C. Peet. Wednesday, 20th—7:30 P. M., Mrs. R. S. Lillie. Thursday, 21st—7:30 P. M., Mrs. J. Schlesinger. Friday, 22d—10:30 A. M., Children's Day. Saturday, 23d—7:30 P. M., Edgar W. Emerson (tests). Sunday, 24th—11 A. M., W. W. McKaig; 2 P. M., J. J. Morse; 7:30 P. M., Mrs. R. S. Lillie. Tuesday, 26th—7:30 P. M., Mrs. Sarah A. Harris. Wednesday, 27th—7:30 P. M., W. J. Colville. Thursday, 28th—7:30 P. M., Edgar W. Emerson (tests). Friday, 29th—7:30 P. M., W. J. Colville. Saturday, 30th—7:30 P. M., Mrs. R. S. Lillie. Sunday, July 1st—11 A. M., J. J. Morse; 2 P. M., W. J. Colville; 7:30 P. M., Mrs. R. S. Lillie.

A Conference meeting will be held every week on Tuesday and Thursday at 2:30 P. M.; and an Experience meeting every Saturday afternoon at the same hour.

A Literary and Social meeting will be held each Friday evening.

Mr. W. J. Colville will conduct one of his interesting Classes in Spiritual Science every Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning, commencing at 10 o'clock.

Mr. J. J. Morse will hold one of his successful Developing Circles every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday morning, at 10 o'clock.

The above gentlemen have generously agreed to donate half the proceeds of their respective meetings to the funds of the Association.

All correspondence to be directed to

G. H. HAWES,
320 Sansome Street, San Francisco, Cal.

Parkland, Pa.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

The Fourth Association of Spiritualists of Philadelphia is now located during the summer at Parkland, holding circles every Sunday afternoon and evening in the Eureka tent. This Association was formed June 7th, 1887, by the guide and its medium "Eureka." •••

AMERICAN SPIRITUALIST ALLIANCE

MEETS AT 219 WEST 42D STREET, NEW YORK CITY, ON EACH ALTERNATE WEDNESDAY AT 8 P.M.

☞ All Spiritualists are cordially invited to become connected with THE ALLIANCE—either as resident or non-resident members—and to take an active part in its work.

THE ALLIANCE defines a Spiritualist to be: "One who knows that intelligent communication can be had between the living and the so-called dead," and all such are invited to become members. NELSON CROSS, President.

J. F. JEANERET, Secretary,
44 Maiden Lane, New York.

The American Spiritualist Alliance.

A regular meeting of The Alliance was held at its parlors, 219 West 42d street, on Wednesday evening, the 16th inst. Judge Cross, as a committee of one to prepare and report in detail a statement of the facts in relation to the Diss Debar case, stated that the press of other business had prevented him from finishing the labor that had been assigned to him; that he found it required the examination of a great mass of papers, and that for much information he would have to go outside his office; that he had entered upon the task assigned him, and had accomplished about one-half the work, and would report progress and ask for further time, which was granted.

Our Secretary, Mr. Jeaneret, then read a short editorial clipped from last Sunday's World of this city, wherein it had commented upon the resolutions adopted by The Alliance at its previous regular meeting, and completely misrepresented their spirit and intention. He then read a letter that he, as Secretary of The Alliance, had prepared and forwarded to the editor of the World, pointing out to him the injustice that had been done us by his editorial, especially in making such comments upon the resolutions, without at the same time printing them, thus causing his readers to form an erroneous opinion in regard to the matter at issue.

Mr. Clark, in a few words, expressed his approval of Mr. Jeaneret's action in this regard, and of the letter, and moved that it be approved by The Alliance—and that if not published in The World, a copy be sent to the Spiritualist press for publication. This motion was seconded by Mr. Sykes, and adopted unanimously.

Remarks by the members upon the subject for the evening, "Spirit Art," were then declared in order, and President Cross gave some of his personal experience with several mediums in procuring pictures in crayon, oil, and by photography. He was followed by Mrs. Beach, Mr. Van Horn, Mr. Clark, Mr. Jeaneret, Mrs. Williams, and others—many interesting facts being presented for consideration.

As scarcely a beginning was made in regard to the highly important subject, which covers a wide field, it was continued for discussion at the next meeting. Reporters from the New York Herald and New York Sun were present.

The next regular meeting will be on Wednesday evening, May 30th.

JOHN FRANKLIN CLARK, Cor. Sec'y
New York, May 17th, 1888.

New England Annual Convention and Festival.

The Twentieth Annual Meeting of the New England Woman Suffrage Association, will open in Tremont Temple, Boston, Monday evening, May 28th, at 7:30 P. M., and will continue on Tuesday at 10:30 A. M., and 2:30 P. M., in the Meionaon. This will be followed by the usual Anniversary Festival in Music Hall, Wednesday evening, tickets for which may be purchased of Miss Catherine Wilde at the Woman Suffrage Headquarters, 3 Park street, Boston.

THE EIGHTH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE LONDON SOCIETY FOR THE ABOLITION OF COMPULSORY VACCINATION was held in that city, April 11th. The President, William Tebb, was unable to be present, he being sojourning in the south of Europe for the recuperation of his health, which has suffered from his devotion to the cause. Remarks were made by C. H. Hopwood, Q. C., John Pickering, Rev. John Page Hopps, Alfred Milnes, M. A., and Rev. Isaac Doxsey. Letters sympathizing with the object of the meeting were addressed to it by Jacob Bright, M. P., Thomas Mills, Earl Dysart, P. A. Taylor, Dr. W. J. Collins, Mrs. E. C. Wolstenholme Elmy, P. A. Siljeström of Stockholm, Dr. Boëns of Charlerol, Dr. Pigeon of Fourchambault, Count Zedtwitz of Vienna, and others. The audience completely filled Balmoral Hall, and deep interest was manifested in the proceedings from first to last. On account of the absence of Mr. Tebb, Mr. C. H. Hopwood, Q. C., Recorder of Liverpool, presided.

MR. RICH'S BENEFIT.—"The Highest Bidder" and "Editha's Burglar" were given at the Hollis Street Theatre, Monday evening, May 21st, by Mr. E. H. Sothern and his company for the benefit of Mr. Charles J. Rich, the assistant manager of the theatre. The house was crowded by a fashionable audience, which was as anxious to do honor to Mr. Rich as to witness the excellent double bill. The young manager has made himself very popular by his courteous treatment of the patrons of this theatre, and his efforts to provide for the comfort and pleasure of all, and the substantial recognition of his endeavors made last evening cannot but encourage him to continue the policy which has made the theatre so successful and himself so popular. A handsome souvenir programme was given out, containing a portrait of Mr. Sothern on the first page. "The Highest Bidder" and "Editha's Burglar" will be given every evening and on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons this week.

IN the June number of THE GROWING YOUTH, the new Magazine for young people, will appear "Old Jack," a story for children, by our talented contributor, Miss M. T. Shelhamer. See advertisement on our fifth page.

☞ In another column the publishers announce the issuance of the twelfth edition of that standard work in spiritualistic literature, "THE VOICES," by Warren Sumner Barlow.

Movements of Mediums & Lecturers.

(Notices under this heading must reach this office by Monday's mail to insure insertion the same week.)

Mary A. Charter, formerly of Boston, can now be addressed at Carlton, Mich. She has engagements in Adrian, Detroit, Lansing and Munroe, Mich., and South Bend, Ind., for the summer months.

J. Clegg Wright speaks during June for the Society meeting in the hall corner of 8th and Spring Garden streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. J. C. Ewell has removed to 1666 Washington street, Boston.

Dr. Horatio L. Tryon, late of Colorado, and Mrs. T. J. Lewis, are now located at 205 Harrison Avenue, Boston.

Frank T. Ripley addressed the Spiritualists of Lowell, Mass., on Sunday, 13th inst., The Times of the next morning speaking well of his efforts.

Mr. J. W. Fletcher will lecture in Berkeley Hall Sunday morning. In the evening he will deliver "Illustrated Spiritualism," showing two hundred views, assisted by the Clinton Male Quartette. This will be the closing Sunday of the Berkeley Hall lectures.

Mrs. H. S. Lake speaks at the closing services of the First Spiritual Temple, corner Newbury and Exeter streets, Boston, next Sunday afternoon, May 27th. The Sundays of June she speaks in Albany, N. Y. She has a few open dates for July and August, and may be addressed after June 1st at 32 Plain street, Albany, N. Y.

Mrs. R. S. Lillie, speaker, J. T. Lillie, vocalist, and E. W. Emerson, test-medium, were announced to hold a meeting under the auspices of the Chicago, Ill., Spiritual Fraternity, at Princess Opera House, 560 West Madison street, on Wednesday evening, May 23.

Dr. Dean Clarke, who gave general satisfaction in his recent labors in Lowell, is now open for engagements for June. He would like a call to the country, where he can labor in field or garden during the week and lecture Sundays till August. Address in care of this office.

Miss Jennie B. Hagan's lecture engagements for July, August and September, 1888, will be: July 1st at Hanson, Mass.; 4th to 9th, Parkland, Penn., Camp-Meeting; 14th to 18th, Harwich, Mass., Camp-Meeting; 20th to Aug. 3d at Cassadaga, N. Y., Camp-Meeting; Aug. 6th to 12th, at Onset Bay Camp-Meeting; 13th to 21st, at Sunapee Lake, N. H., Camp-Meeting; 22d to 28th, at Queen City Park, Vt., Camp-Meeting; 26th to 31st, Etna, Me., Camp-Meeting; Sept. 2d and 9th, at Bridgeport, Conn.; 16th, 23d and 30th, Trenton, N. J. She will be pleased to make week-evening engagements during June in the vicinity of Boston and Worcester, Mass.

Dr. J. C. Street will give his excellent lecture on "Re-incarnation" Sunday evening, June 3d, in Mishawum Hall, City Hall Square, Charlestown District.

A. A. Wheelock will speak again in Springfield, Mass., Sunday, May 27th. [T. M. H.'s letter will appear next week.]

Louis F. Jones, spirit-artist, is now at his home in Leominster, Mass. He will visit Onset Camp in July.

Mrs. Mary C. Knight is now en route for Boston, Mass. Any society wishing to engage her for lectures or grove meetings can address her, Fulton, Oswego Co., N. Y.

Mrs. Clara A. Field spoke in Saratoga Springs, N. Y., May 20th, and is to speak there again May 27th. She would like engagements for the Sundays of June. Permanent address, care BANNER OF LIGHT, Boston, Mass.

In Memoriam.

On Friday, 18th inst., passed to the higher life from her home in West Chester Park, Boston, Mrs. E. R. Dyar-Clough.

She had for some time been ailing from a complication of diseases, and had spent the winter months in Florida, hoping its soft and balmy air would bring a healing power; but tired nature, exhausted and worn by its struggle with pain and suffering, at last succumbed, and the spirit fled from its earthly tenement. Her last moments were smiling and peaceful, and the glow of a heavenly radiance seemed to linger upon her face.

She was a remarkable medium for control by high and exalted spirits, and although her powers were never used for money, or in any professional way, yet she was well and favorably known by her ministrations in the Spiritual Fraternity Society, both at Mr. Ayer's house, West Chester Park, in its commencement, and afterward in the new Spiritual Temple on Exeter street. Knowing, as she did, the certainty of our belief, and in close rapport with a band of wise and progressed spirits, she lived but for one purpose, to carry out their plans for man's enlightenment, and to make others see, as she saw, how lovely this truth is—the beautiful truth of proven immortality, the pure and perfect religion which the angels are striving to bring to an unappreciative world.

Although taken in the fullness of her prime, and with her earthly work apparently unfinished, she, by her virtues, her thoughtful kindness, her benevolence and purity of character, will be a lasting example and a sweet and pleasant memory to all the friends she has left behind.

Funeral exercises occurred at her late residence in this city, on Sunday, May 20th.

A Card.

An article appeared in THE BANNER of March 24th, giving an account of a seance held at my house, 130 Austin street, Cambridgeport—Mr. C. H. Bridge of 46 Chandler street, Boston, being the medium. The article purported to be written by one of the circle in attendance, and as it was overdrawn in nearly every particular, and the date of the séance was incorrectly stated, I at once made an investigation of the subject and found that no member of the circle had anything to do with it, unless it were the medium, and as the article was sent to the publisher with a fictitious signature, the origin of it is, to my mind, self-evident. I am a firm believer in the true principles of Spiritualism, but do not propose to have my name and residence used to favor sleight-of-hand performances or deception in any form. T. M. KENNEY.

130 Austin St., Cambridgeport, Mass., May 18, 1888.

Aid for an Afflicted Medium.

The widow of John P. Dimond is in very destitute circumstances, and greatly in need of help from the kindly disposed. She is confined to her bed at 12 Kendall street, Boston, and is utterly helpless. If those who may feel to aid her pecuniarily will send their offerings to our office we will acknowledge the receipts in these columns, and see that the amounts are forwarded to their proper destination. The subscriptions for this worthy purpose are as follows up to date:

From BANNER OF LIGHT God's Poor Fund.....$5.00
F. B. W., Boston..... 1.00

☞ Dr. Henry Rogers, spirit-artist, is to leave San Francisco, Cal., the last of June, and will pass the season at the home of his mother, "Sweet Fern Cottage," Onset Bay, Mass., where he will give sittings for spirit-pictures in crayon and in oil; and also demonstrate other phases of his mediumship.

NEW MUSIC.—We have received from White, Smith & Co., publishers, 516 Washington street, Boston, Mass., the musical compositions noted below, especially fitted for "Decoration Day": "Cover with Blossoms these Comrades of Ours," song, mixed voices, words by Mrs. F. B. Pratt, music by Geo. Thorne; "In Peace they Sweetly Sleep," song, mixed voices, words by Geo. Russell Jackson, music by Harry Birch; "These Old Comrades of Ours," song, words by H. O. Hedge, music by C. A. White; "Their Country was Calling," song, male voices, by C. A. White; "Come we Again," song, mixed voices, by C. A. White.

THE MOST artistic upholstery fabrics shown by J. H. Pray, Sons & Co. in their new and extensive store; perfect light, and on the street floor.

To Correspondents.

☞ No attention is paid to anonymous communications. Name and address of writer in all cases indispensable as a guaranty of good faith. We cannot undertake to preserve or return communications not used.

H. P., ITHACA, N. Y.—Some time ago we saw the statement made in a New York daily paper that the great inventor you mention has admitted to a visitor that he felt himself to be aided in his work by powers outside of his own intelligence; but we are not now able to recall the name of the journal.

Notice to Speakers and Mediums.

The Society of Union Spiritualists, of Cincinnati, are desirous of corresponding with Speakers and Platform Test Mediums combined, relative to engagements for months of 1889. State what months they can be engaged for and phases of Mediumship. Address

C. C. STOWELL, Sec'y,
Care The Way Publishing Company.

Train-Time to the Camps.

LAKE PLEASANT.

Trains "54," "100," "45" and "43" will stop at the Lake when there are passengers to leave, or when signalled to take passengers.

The above trains, "54" and "100," leave Boston at 6:30 A. M. and 3:05 P. M., arriving at Lake Pleasant at 10:40 A. M. and 6:45 P. M. The trains No. "45" and "43" leave Lake Pleasant at 6:40 A. M. and 2:45 P. M.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.

Each line in Agate type, twenty cents for the first and every insertion on the fifth or eighth page, and fifteen cents for each subsequent insertion on the seventh page.
Special Notices forty cents per line, Minion, each insertion.
Business Cards thirty cents per line, Agate, each insertion.
Notices in the editorial columns, large type, leaded matter, fifty cents per line.
Payments in all cases in advance.

☞ Advertisements to be renewed at continued rates must be left at our Office before 12 M. on Saturday, a week in advance of the date whereon they are to appear.

☞ Only small and light cuts will be allowed in the advertising columns. When accepted, our rates for that portion of the advertisement occupied by the cut will be one-half price in excess of the regular rates.
Electrotypes of pure type matter will not be accepted.
The publishers reserve the right to reject any and all electrotypes.

The BANNER OF LIGHT cannot well undertake to vouch for the honesty of its many advertisers. Advertisements which appear fair and honorable upon their face are accepted, and whenever it is made known that dishonest or improper persons are using our advertising columns, they are at once interdicted.

We request patrons to notify us promptly in case they discover in our columns advertisements of parties whom they have proved to be dishonorable or unworthy of confidence.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Dr. F. L. H. Willis may be addressed as usual for the summer Glenora, Yates Co., N. Y.
Ap7 13w*

Andrew Jackson Davis, Seer into the causes and natural cure of disease. Send for information to his office, 63 Warren Avenue, Boston, Mass. tf Ap7

H. A. Kersey, No. 3 Bigg Market, Newcastle-on-Tyne, will act as agent in England for the BANNER OF LIGHT and the publications of Colby & Rich during the absence of J. J. Morse.

To Foreign Subscribers the subscription price of the BANNER OF LIGHT is $3,50 per year, or $1,75 per six months. It will be sent at the price named above to any foreign country embraced in the Universal Postal Union.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

BEST AMERICAN BRUSSELS

AT

$1,00 Per Yard.

With a view to reducing our stock of Brussels Carpets, we have set aside all those patterns that we do not intend to run another season, and marked them to sell at $1,00 per yard, which is the LOWEST PRICE ever made on grades of THIS QUALITY, and MUCH LESS than the MANUFACTURER'S price, no matter how large the quantity.

☞ Those who call first will naturally find the largest assortment to select from.

JOHN H. PRAY, SONS & CO.,
CARPETS AND UPHOLSTERY,
558 and 560 Washington Street,
30 to 34 Harrison Ave. Extension,
BOSTON.
My19 2w

AMANDA M. COWAN,
219A Tremont Street, Boston,
Suite 2,
WILL be pleased to meet her friends on Sunday, Tuesday and Saturday afternoons, at 2:30, Sunday and Wednesday evenings at 8. Address all communications to CHAS. D. COWAN, Manager.
My26 1w*

C. DAVENPORT COWAN,
Independent Slate-Writing Medium,
219A TREMONT STREET, Boston, Mass., Suite 2. Sitters may bring their own slates. My26

"OLD JACK,"
"OLD JACK,"
"OLD JACK,"
"OLD JACK,"
By MISS M. T. SHELHAMER,
IN The Growing Youth for June. Also serial stories by Carlos Noggs, Elison Ellwood. Those subscribing now ($1 per year) will receive April and May numbers free. The Growing Youth is for girls and boys, and for older people with young hearts. F. B. HAWKINS, Publisher, Mount Vernon, New York. Specimen copies free.
My26 1w*

BEST TRUSS EVER USED.
Improved Elastic Truss. Worn night and day. Positively cures ruptures. Sent by mail everywhere. Write for full descriptive circulars to the
DR. HOUSE N. Y. ELASTIC TRUSS CO.,
744 Broadway, N. Y.
My26 13w*

Dr. Gunn's Magnetic Compound.
A Pure, Concentrated Extract of Roots, Solidified. A wholesome, strengthening and invigorating temperance beverage, for Atony or General Debility. It gives relief in three days. Try it, and be convinced of its merits. One box will make one quart of Tonic Bitters. No sediment. Price $1,00. Sent free by mail. Address F. T. BAILEY, Proprietor, 1225 Guilford Av., Baltimore, Md.
My26

BOOK CHAT.
THE KEY and COMPANION to all the leading magazines of the world. Every reader should subscribe to BOOK CHAT. It is INDISPENSABLE. It indexes the contents of all magazines, gives list of all new Books published here and in Europe, etc., etc.
Published monthly, $1,00 per annum. Single Nos. 10 cts. Send 10 cts. for sample copy. BRENTANO'S, 5 Union Square, New York. 101 State Street, Chicago, Ill.
Ap21 18ow

FOR SALE,
A MORTGAGE on Cottage and Ground at Onset, Mass., of $250, interest payable semi-annually at 7 per cent. This property is situated on Longwood Avenue, in the heart of Onset, and is valued at $1500. For further particulars, address GEO. A. DELEREE, No. 4 Warren street, New York City. 1w* My26

MRS. D. E. PUTNAM
HAS settled at Onset for the season, and is ready for business. Room and Board until July 1st, $6,00 per week. P. O. Box 52. My26

DR. MARTHA LYON,
MEDICAL PSYCHOMETRIST, 620 Tremont st., Boston.
My26 1w*

DR. J. C. STREET,
78 Montgomery street, Boston, Mass.
Ap7 tf

ADVICE relative to Health, Business, etc. Write JAMES DODD, Box 2214, Boston, Mass.
My26 4w*

OBESITY.

People burdened with flesh are often envied by those who are thin, but it is full time that the dangers attending a fat condition should be known.

Undue Fat diminishes labor power, which is a serious evil. Undue Fat makes people tired when they should be strong in life's splendid prime. Fatty Degeneration attacks the vital organs—a secret foe in the citadel—and opens the doors for Heart Difficulties, Pneumonia, Kidney Disease, Nervous Exhaustion, Apoplexy, and a troop of ills to enter in.

To remedy this condition is not merely to prolong our earth-life, but it is to fit women and men to live up to the full grand measure of their powers—making their mark upon the age.

To remove Fat safely, without impairing the strength or injuring the system by the use of Drugs, is to effect a permanent cure.

Dr. Edith Hale presents to the consideration of the corpulent an Obesity Cure which fulfills these conditions; it causes the strength to increase as the fat decreases; mental vigor, a sense of capacity to think and act, greater freedom and ease of motion, power to walk, or go up and down stairs without fatigue or being out of breath, are among the first noticeable results; next, slowly but surely, follows a lessening of size, the figure improves, and the complexion clears as the blood is purified.

Obesity Cure is a new discovery, a new combination of remedial herbs, which positively induces a natural renovation of the system and restores the normal action of all the vital functions, including the action of the Trophic Nerves (nerves of nutrition). Its use does NOT induce wrinkles, and its effect is strictly beneficial to the general health. It is pleasant to the taste and will steadily reduce the flesh. Treatise sent upon application.

To those who have hitherto known Edith Hale, M. D., only as a Specialist in Cancer and Chronic Diseases, Dr. Hale begs to say that the cure of Obesity is in direct line with her studies and research commenced twenty years since in College and Hospital—in lecture room and at dissecting table. To these earlier advantages have been added special opportunities to acquire the latest Foreign Methods of curing disease by Absorption and by recourse to natural, non-poisonous agents, including new Internal Foods, Magnetic Pads and Magnetized Remedies.

Consultation free in all chronic complaints.

Respectfully,

EDITH HALE, M. D.,
(Pupil of Dr. John Gordon of London, and Prof. Carl Eberle of Germany),
Office 377 Columbus Avenue,
Boston, Mass.

OFFICE HOURS 11 A.M. to 5 P. M., 7 to 8 evening.
My26 1813w*

A WONDERFUL BOOK!
The Great Amherst Mystery.
A True Narrative of the Supernatural.
BY WALTER HUBBELL.
12mo, paper. 25 cents.
IT is an immensely interesting story—the story of a girl, Esther Cox, who was attended everywhere she went by a ghost, who upset things generally, etc. But buy and read for yourself.—New York Herald. The author's affidavit as to the truth of his statement, accompanies each volume.
For sale by all Booksellers. Sent postpaid on receipt of price. BRENTANO'S,
5 Union Square, New York. 101 State Street, Chicago, Ill.
Ap21 18ow

ONSET BAY. Old Colony trains now stop at the Onset station, and the street railway is making regular trips. Buy excursion tickets for Onset. My26

QUESTIONS on Health, Business, etc., answered for $1.00—letters only. MRS. SCHOFIELD, 338 Tremont street, Boston. 3w* My26

SUBSCRIBE
FOR THE
BANNER OF LIGHT,
THE BEST
Family Paper
In the World!

It contains Original Essays; Original Stories; Verbatim Reports of Grand Lectures; Answers to Questions by Invisible Intelligences of the Greatest Interest to the World at Large; Characteristic Messages from Departed Individuals to their Friends and Relatives in the Earth-Life; Editorials on a Great Variety of Subjects; Current Events; Highly Interesting Correspondence from all over the Country, Etc., Etc.

Our Premium List,
Which entitles each Subscriber to an Interesting Book or a Fine Engraving,
Is also a Strong Inducement for the People to Subscribe.

☞ As THE BANNER is sold at nearly all the Periodical Dépôts in the United States, and has a wide circulation in foreign countries, it is a capital avenue through which merchants and others can reach customers. REMEMBER THIS FACT!

The Phantom Form.
Experiences in Earth and Spirit-Life—Revelations by a Spirit.
Through the trance mediumship of
MRS. NETTIE PEASE FOX.
This is one of the most deeply interesting Spiritualistic works ever published. Given in a narrative form by a lady whose earth-life was one of strange vicissitudes, startling events and wonderful mediumistic experiences. After many years in spirit-life she returns to earth, and through the fully entranced organism and power of another, gives her earth history, followed by revelations from spirit-life, interesting and instructive to those who would know the condition, opportunities and employments of those who have crossed the "Narrow stream meandering these two worlds between." A better understanding of this remarkable book may be obtained from the following table, giving a few of the many subjects upon which we have revelations from the spirit-world:
Death Foretold; Death-Bed Vision and Revelations; Is There Another Life? Angel Ministrations; Spirit Prophecy Fulfilled; Saved from a Horrible Fate by Spirit Warning; A Father's False Representation Corrected by the Spirit-Mother; Life Saved by Spirit-Power; My Death Foretold; My Sudden Departure from Earth-Life; First Awakening in Spirit-Life; Mansion in Spirit-Land; Return to Earth-Life; Some Spirits Worship a Personal God; Spirits Attend a Marriage Ceremony of Earth; Marriage in Spirit Life; Temple of Science; Library; Modes of Traveling; Visiting Another Planet. Many Revelations are given of life and its employments in the spirit-world deeply interesting.
Cloth, pp. 169. Price $1,00; postage paid to any part of the world.

The Mysteries of the Border-Land;
OR,
The Conscious Side of Unconscious Life.
Also the Second Part of the Volume, "The Golden Key; or, Mysteries Beyond the Veil."
BY MRS. NETTIE PEASE FOX.
These two books, contained in one large, nicely bound volume of nearly six hundred pages, are written in narrative style, said by the spirit author to be founded on fact. They are as entertaining as any novel ever read, and contain more of the phenomena and philosophy of Spiritualism than ever before written in the same space, and they are written in such an attractive form that they cannot fail to please and deeply interest thousands outside the ranks of Spiritualism.
Price $1,50; postage free.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Message Department.

Spiritual Free-Circle Meetings

Are held at the BANNER OF LIGHT OFFICE, 9 Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), on TUESDAY and FRIDAY AFTERNOON of each week.

On Tuesday afternoon MISS M. T. SHELHAMER occupies the platform for the purpose of answering by her spirit guides such questions as may be introduced for consideration.

On Friday afternoon MRS. B. F. SMITH, under the influence of her guides, will afford an avenue through which individual spirit messages will be given.

The Hall (which is used only for these séances) will be open at 2 o'clock; the services commence at 3 o'clock precisely, at which time the doors will be closed, allowing no ingress or egress. The public is cordially invited.

☞ Persons having questions of practical bearing upon human life in any of its departments of thought and labor, which they would like answered by the spirit-world intelligences, may send them to THE BANNER OF LIGHT office by mail, or hand them to the Chairman of the Circle, who will present them to the spirits for consideration.

☞ The Messages published in this Department indicate that spirits carry with them the characteristics of their earth-life to that beyond—whether for good or evil; that those who pass from the earthly sphere in an undeveloped state, eventually progress to higher conditions. We ask the reader to receive no doctrine put forth by spirits in these columns that does not comport with his or her reason. All express as much of truth as they perceive—no more.

☞ It is our earnest desire that those who recognize the messages of their spirit-friends will verify them by informing us of the fact for publication.

☞ Natural flowers upon our Circle-Room table are gratefully appreciated by our angel visitants, therefore we solicit donations of such from the friends in earth-life who may feel that it is a pleasure to place upon the altar of Spirituality their floral offerings.

☞ Letters of inquiry in regard to this Department of THE BANNER must not be addressed to the mediums in any case. LEWIS B. WILSON, Chairman.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED,

THROUGH THE MEDIUMSHIP OF

Miss M. T. Shelhamer.

Report of Public Séance held March 27th, 1888.

Spirit Invocation.

Oh! thou Great and Eternal Spirit, in the uplifting of our hearts we would reach an understanding of thy power; we would that thy smile might shine down into our lives, illuminating our entire being with a warmth and radiance drawn from the heavenly worlds. Oh! our Father God, we feel the need of spiritual strength and of soul instruction; may these blessings be vouchsafed to each one of us at this hour. May influences from thy great eternal home, brought by ministering spirits, be productive of rich and rare fruit in the hearts of thy children. We reach outward for that which will inspire and elevate our minds; we cry for that which will indeed water our lives, and make them bear good seed and rich harvests for the time to come. We would receive truth and gain the wisdom which the angels have to teach, and apply it to our own lives in outward ways, that our minds may grow strong and beneficial to all humanity.

Questions and Answers.

CONTROLLING SPIRIT.—You may now present your questions, Mr. Chairman.

QUES.—Is it absolutely necessary, and one of the immutable laws of nature, that mediums must temporarily lose their physical health; and also some be subject to obsession while they are in process of development?

ANS.—It is not absolutely necessary. It is not an immutable law of nature that mediums, in passing through their development, must lose their physical health, for we know of many mediums who have borne the very best of physical health during the entire season of their development, and also in later years. It is true that some of those very mediums of whom we speak latterly exhausted their physical powers, but this was because of the over-exercise of those occult powers, so to speak, set in operation through the development of their mediumship. They were not wisely guarded by spirits, nor did they wisely regulate their own line of work. Ignoring the fact that the nervous energies are largely drawn upon in the exercise of mediumship, certain of those individuals continued to ply their profession week after week, month after month and year after year, without resorting to that rest or cessation from labor which their physical bodies demanded for recuperative purposes, and then the vital forces ran low, and the person suffered mentally and physically in consequence; but they had violated a law of nature, and hence had to pay the penalty.

It is also true that there have been mediums who did not discover their medial powers until they had passed through a season of physical pain and suffering; ill health encroached upon them, the nervous forces ran low, and thus they were brought into a receptive or negative state, through which the invisible intelligences of another life could not only approach them, but could make an influence felt throughout their organism. The reason of this probably has been that when in full health and physical strength, those mediumistic persons were so positive in their nature that they were impervious to the influence and encroachments of the spiritual world, and could not reflect such influences into outward life; but having come into a state of ill health, they grew more passive to these and other conditions, hence were more easily operated upon by external intelligences.

It does not follow that because a person is mediumistic he must break down in the physical system before he can become a useful instrument of the spirit-world. And, on the other hand, it is a law of nature and a law of physics that when a human being, or indeed when any object in life uses up or exhausts the vital energy which keeps it in motion, there will be a period of inertness or weakness in the individual—of physical debility—and if a medium exercises his mental powers or exhausts his nervous energy by a constant and never-ceasing operation of his gifts, he will in time find himself prostrated, not only physically but probably mentally.

It is not a law of mediumship that one who possesses the power of coming into communication with the unseen world, or of reflecting from that life the conditions and influences pertaining to it, must come under the obsessing influence of spirits.

We make a distinction between obsession and possession. A spirit wise and intelligent may come alone, or may associate himself with others equally as benevolent as himself, and he may take possession or guardianship of a sensitive on earth, for the purpose of performing some good work in connection with his subject. Such a spirit will only exert his influence over the medium when he feels that it will be useful, either to his instrument or to some other human being, mortal or spirit. Such a spirit, in pursuance of his good work, may at times use up all the vital force which the medium has to supply, but he will do his best to restore the wasted energy by imparting magnetic strength to his medium. Such a spirit may possess a medium, even communicating through his organism personally, and for some useful end.

On the other hand, a spirit, carnal-minded, seeking the gratification of his own selfish ends, ignoring the fact that a medium has rights and privileges of his own, may come in contact with a sensitive on earth, and find that he may fasten himself upon that medium, so as to live in the external atmosphere, partaking of whatever impinges upon or exercises the mortal instrument. Such a spirit cares not whether he exhausts his subject or not, provided he may work out his own ends. This is a case of obsession. The spirit will attach himself to the medium, as a parasite attaches itself to a plant, absorbing his vitality, drawing in all the influence from the medium which may be beneficial to himself, not minding whether the result works disastrously or not to his benefactor.

There are many such spirits who come in contact with sensitives on earth, doing their best to gratify self at the expense of others, it is true; but at the same time it is also true that there is exercised over mortals, and especially over faithful mediums, a wise guardianship from the higher planes of spirit-life, and through the exercise of this guardianship, magnetic laws and associations are set in operation which protect, to a large extent, those who might otherwise become the prey of these unprincipled spirits. Such spirits are indeed themselves brought under the dominion and surveillance of the wise and good, and are, to a great extent, held in restraint by the exercise of a higher magnetic law which they cannot overcome.

If a person developing in mediumship discovers that he is obsessed by a persistent spirit whose aims and objects are of a selfish nature, and who will not be dispossessed, and will not detach himself from the sensitive, then it is wise for that person to surround himself with positive elements, with friends who possess great will-force, and also, so far as possible, to exert his own moral will-force in demanding that he shall be freed from the encroachments of such an annoyance. And it would be well for the mediumistic person who cannot free himself from such an annoyance to refuse to sit for further development until it had been removed, and at the same time to earnestly request and desire the presence, guidance and assistance of wise, good spirits who will protect him from harm.

Q.—If the physical and spiritual organisms are so closely related that what affects one affects the other, what is the meaning of those words of the medium of Nazareth, "It is not what entereth into a man that defileth him," etc.? Does not our material food affect our spiritual body through our physical organism?

A.—To an extent, yes; but nothing to the extent that your thoughts, aspirations and desires affect the body which you are by-and-bye to wear, and also the surroundings and habitations which are to be yours in another life. We know that a man may take in his mouth food that is of a poisonous nature, so that through its influence his blood may become vitiated and his entire system diseased. This will, to a certain extent, affect the appearance of the spiritual body, if long continued, and we know that the man who delights in refined food, that which is dainty, and we might almost say of a spiritual nature, will find his physical body becoming finer in its elements, and more spiritualized in appearance, while the spirit body which is being built up will correspond in a degree. And again, we see that the thought, the aspiration and the tendency of the mind, the moral part of man, in fact, the character of the individual, determines more largely than anything else the appearance of the spirit after it loosens itself from the corporeal frame. We have no doubt that the man of Nazareth meant to imply, by his statement, that it did not matter whether an individual on earth was obliged to live in a humble, frugal manner, partaking of the coarsest food, provided that his mind was clear, his spirit intensely seeking after that which is elevating and purifying in its character, growing wide and serene, through the varying experiences of life, for if this were to be the result of a man's career, then would he find himself after his passage from the outward body surrounded by beautiful scenes and elevating objects, then would he discover that he had built up for himself a home, fair to look upon, and that the elements of his spirit-body had only retained the finer qualities and emanations of that which he had externally used. And it is a truth that even coarse food on earth possesses certain qualities, and has a power of exhaling special emanations which are of a refined or spiritual character, and the man of spirituality would, even if obliged to partake of coarse food, retain only in his spiritual system the most refined quality of that food; therefore, we say, that the Nazarene intended to teach a lesson, that while much may depend upon external things and conditions, it is also in the power of man to extract from the coarsest and most rude of these that which may prove a lesson to his soul, even that which may prove the stepping-stone to higher things and grander results.

Q.—Music is sometimes heard from invisible sources during the night, and sometimes like choirs singing beautiful anthems. What is the cause?

A.—We should judge the questioner to be highly endowed with mediumistic power, especially clairaudience, and undoubtedly, during the hours of the night, when the bodily powers are relaxed and the nervous system has come into a state of quietude, his spirit is enabled, in a measure, to detach itself from the outward body and from the things of physical life, and to enter into an atmosphere which belongs really to the spiritual state. Under such conditions the spiritual hearing is awakened, and sounds that are unheard by mortal ears may, at the time, be sensed and realized, and even plainly heard, because of the mediumistic unfoldment. This is a very beautiful phase of mediumship, which one would do well to cultivate, for not only does its exercise afford enjoyment to him who may possess it, but it may also lead to the unfoldment of other medial powers and to certain communication between the two worlds.

Q.—Is life, after the death of the mortal body, eternal; and does the spirit then go through other similar deaths?

A.—So far as we know, life is eternal, continuous, for, having passed through that which was called death on earth, and finding himself alive, filled with consciousness, activity, and with memories, a spirit is safe in concluding that there is no death in the universe, after all; that what seems to be so is merely a transformation or a change. Change always leads to something else; so, if we proceed onward, and by-and-bye meet with a change, we understand that new experiences are to open before us. Very well: that has been done, as far as the first passage from one plane of existence to another is concerned. The man who lies down in the throes of death on earth opens his eyes in the spirit-world to new conditions and surroundings, and he discovers that he never was more alive in his life; perhaps he feels quickened in thought and active in expression. Naturally he looks around him and begins to ponder upon the things he may see and hear, and he questions others whom he may approach, and he discovers that his experience has been the experience of all whom he may meet. It is only natural for a thinking mind to conclude that, having passed through one such experience, he may do so an infinite number of times; having realized that he has exhausted all that he can gain from the earthly condition, he realizes that he has taken up a new plane of activity, to extract from it all that he possibly can, for his expansion or his convenience. It may follow, then, that when he has received all that is possible from that plane of existence, other scenes, other changes await him; there are worlds upon worlds in space, planets upon planets revolving with their grand conditions for affording life, intelligence and knowledge to human beings. May it not be that the advancing man may by-and-bye find the conditions for reaching those planes of existence and reaping the experiences which they afford?

So we believe; and we do know that as man advances in the spiritual realm he grows more refined in appearance and in knowledge, gains greater power to overcome the limitations which have confined his energies, and we have seen those who have traveled on from planet to planet, sending back the information and knowledge which they have found.

In the spirit-world such changes are not deplored. We do not look upon the transformation or elevation of a spirit to a higher world in the light that you gaze upon death; it brings no saddening reflection to our minds; we know that if our friends have passed onward to grander elevations, so may we do so; it is in our power to so expand and so grow in thought and in active expression as to find our limited conditions useless to us, and we may also rise to those other planes of which we speak; therefore we know no such word as death over there; we do know of changing experiences, of gradual elevations, of grander unfoldments for the human soul.

Q.—Does the born idiot possess a spirit? or is death to him complete annihilation?

A.—The born idiot has a spirit which cannot express itself through the outward organism. The idiotic brain belongs to the physical structure alone, and it is only that the brain of the physical body is not developed sufficiently for the spirit to make use of it, and therefore whatever expression may be given is perhaps unintelligible, certainly of a very unlovely character. We know of no births in mortal life that have not the attachment of a human spirit except those which are cold, senseless and still, when they appear in mortal life. The spirits which had desired to attach themselves to such outward forms have become detached and separated from the magnetic atmosphere of the mother, and therefore could not retain their hold upon the physical body they desired to inhabit. But the idiot who comes into mortal life with the physical machinery in motion has an attachment of spirit which, however, it cannot manifest to its own satisfaction or to that of any other.

Then you will ask what becomes of the spirit at the death of the physical form. This spirit has been attracted into the atmosphere of the mother and attached itself as best it could to the unborn child. There is a psychological law holding it in contact with this external form, even though it cannot properly express its power or its thought. When the death of that idiotic body occurs, the spirit is detached, and it enters again into the spiritual atmosphere.

If it is satisfied with its experience, and desires to have nothing more to do with the earth, it will enter the spirit-world and take up its associations with that life and its conditions, and go onward as best it can, developing its powers and gaining in knowledge. Or perhaps that spirit is not satisfied with what he has known of earth, but does not wish to again pass through the experiences and possibly the disappointments of a mortal birth, and so he remains in contact with the earthly atmosphere, attaches himself here and there to passive, mediumistic persons, and through such a condition, gains something of experience and knowledge of earthly things and of material laws.

Again, the spirit may not be at all satisfied with what he found, or what he lacked, in contact with the physical life previously; perhaps he is determined to again essay an attempt to make himself felt and expressed in the external condition, and there is a law, also, provided for the wants of this soul; the spirit may come under the operations of that law, in time (perhaps in a few years, perhaps not for many) he may again possess himself of a mortal organism, be born it to the outward relationships of life, come into vital contact with external, physical objects and laws, and learn of humanity and of the universe in his close relationship with earth.

Q.—Does a spirit keep the shape of its material body after he has left it?

A.—Not always; although every spirit that we know anything of possesses a human form very much in the likeness of that which it possessed when on earth, yet we have seen a spirit whose mortal form was dwarfed, stunted in growth, one very much deformed in the physical, whose spiritual body is straight and symmetrical, not at all corresponding, at a casual glance, with that of the physical body which it possessed; but again, as we gaze more carefully, we find in the lineaments or features, in the expression of the countenance, a likeness to that which it was in outward life.

Again, we have seen a man who was tall, straight and well-proportioned on earth, who, in the spirit-world, that is, on his early entrance and during his first years of spirit life, possessed of a form very much shrivelled, to all appearance stunted in growth. This may seem a startling statement to you, but it is the truth, and we desire to know how this thing should be. We study the case and learn that the man on earth was very narrow and contracted in his opinions, selfishly inclined, dwelt more upon the material things of life than the spiritual, and, indeed, cared very little for the growth and welfare of his spiritual qualities if he could reign supremely happy and influential on the earthly side. What was the result? The spirit did not grow in proportion to the outward structure; it was dwarfed; the natural abilities of the man and their emanations went to the external life more than to the spiritual, and when he entered the spirit-world it was with a body, as we affirm, stunted, lacking in true harmony, proportion and growth.

Such a man would be many years in drawing to himself those nourishing particles and those beautiful elements which will supply his system with the needed strength and vigor, for growth and for gaining in beauty and symmetry. By earnest endeavor, by realizing his condition, by facing himself boldly, and without fear, passing judgment upon his deeds, and realizing how he must set to work to overcome the difficulties of his position, the man may come under conditions and laws which will supply to him those elements of nutriment and of growth which his spiritual structure requires.

There are many strange things connected with the spiritual nature of man which you have yet to learn, and it behooves each one to study himself closely and clearly, that he may not be found wanting in any part or portion of his nature when he is called to step from this plane of existence unto the one beyond.

Johnnie McArthur.

Mr. Pierpont said I might come and say a few words for my father. I want to thank him very much for the beautiful flowers, and to say that I know he does not forget the anniversary when it returns to him, and that he always has a thought of his boy when this season of the year comes round. It did not need the floral remembrance for me to realize his affection, nor to understand his thought, as it comes out to me in the spirit-world; and I come to-day to give him mine in return, and to say that it is all true, as the good spirit has said to him, that I can gain experience and learn of earthly things by coming to him sometimes, and making use of his mediumistic power. Mother has felt this, and she has spoken of it before. She sends her love to father to day, and says she too recognizes the beautiful thought which would bring a flower to her and to me, and appreciates it in great measure.

Mr. Pierpont has said what he thinks concerning the offer which my father has made. It has nothing to do with the public, Mr. Chairman, but it concerns me especially, and I am glad to speak of it to day, and now I bring my little thought in regard to it. I would be highly pleased to be made useful in the way suggested, and I hope I can do so, for I have seen many cases where want and suffering have been, and where a little aid would have been very useful to those in need. I do not know whether I can accomplish that work or not, but I thank father for his thought and his kindly remembrance, and will do what I can to help others when they are in need.

I thought I had a great deal to say, but somehow it slips away. It can just be remembered. I am about the same as I was a few years ago, when I went from the body, older in years, taller in stature, but with the same warm, loving, boyish heart for those I love on earth. I think my father will accept my few words, and understand the affection which calls them forth. Johnnie McArthur.

James Spalding.

I do n't know, Mr. Chairman, but I intrude. I have had an invitation from the other side to come in and speak; I did n't know whether it was in order or not, however, but the temptation was so great to try to reach my friends, that I thought I must take advantage of it, even if I imposed on your good nature.

My name is James Spalding. I was not much over forty when I passed to the spirit-world. It was not exactly from an accident, yet I went more suddenly than I desired to, and before I had completed my plans, or arranged matters as I would like. I suppose, no matter how long a man lives, he has some plans in view that he wants to complete. Probably, if he went on living a thousand years, he would have something coming up before him he would want to live to finish. I do n't know as I have any right to complain; in fact, I do n't complain; I only feel it will be a pleasure to send a word of greeting and affection to my friends, and to tell them that I am very well satisfied with the spirit-condition.

It was strange to me. I did not understand this life out of the body; I did not know into what place I should go; but, taking it all together, looking over the past to the present, and a little ahead to the future, I have come to the conclusion that it is just as it should be.

My friends live in Springfield, this State, and probably some of them will learn of my return. There is a medium whom I never knew in the body, but somehow I have been attracted to her because she is a medium, within a year or two, and I feel that sometime, perhaps, I may communicate through that woman. It seems to me as though I must get familiar enough with her organism to do that. She lives in Worcester. I hardly know what she is called, yet I feel I may some day make use of her instrumentality in reaching my friends. Some one or two of my friends have business relations in the city of Worcester, and are sometimes called to that place. I just give out a word and thought here, hoping they may go to their destination. I shall follow them to see how they are received. If in such a way as I would like, I will make an effort to come again; if not here, at some other place where I can do better, perhaps, and have more to say.

SPIRIT MESSAGES,

THROUGH THE TRANCE MEDIUMSHIP OF

Mrs. B. F. Smith.

Report of Public Séance held March 23d, 1888—Continued from last issue.

Appleton Oakes.

With your permission, Mr. Chairman, I would like to say a few words here, thinking they may reach some one of my dear ones who would be glad to know I have n't been dead these seventeen years. You may place me in Troy, N. H., the old Granite State. Appleton Oakes.

The children are here, Eddie's children, Georgie, Jennie May, are here with me. I have a great anxiety for this letter to be sent right along to Troy. I guess it will have to go over to Fitzwilliam, for Lucy Jane is there. We lived in Troy when I went out. I am in hopes, and I think I shall not be disappointed, that this letter may reach Fitzwilliam.

I am happy. I would not exchange places to-day with one mortal, I do n't care who it is. Brainard said, and he held here a pretty good position, that he did n't wish to return to stay. The family will understand who that is. I am satisfied with the home I have. Eddie, I know mother will say: "Oh! no! no! if your father was coming to earth to talk he 'd come right into the house and say what he had to say." Well, I have spoken a good many times, but I find we must have an instrument to help do the work. It is seventeen years—no, not quite, somewhere, as nigh as I can reckon, from fifteen to seventeen, since they said Appleton Oakes was dead.

I see, Lucy, the change you have made, and feel that you have no regrets, as I certainly have none. I am satisfied with the change; if you and Stephen are happy, I am satisfied with it, for in heaven we shall come together.

Georgie is here, and Mamie, too; yes, and doggie, too, for he has his pet dog all the same. Do n't think, mortals, the intelligence of the animals is lost. No; for the animal kingdom is the same.

Many times I have thought they must have felt I was not far away, but just where they placed me I was unable to tell; but I know where my abiding place is, and thank the great God he has kept his promise that he would give us a mansion, and to-day I am happy in my spirit home.

Eddie, go and visit mother as often as you can, for there will be a last time when you visit in the mortal, for these privileges will soon cease, but never will they cease, for us to visit you from the spiritual.

Dr. John Jennison.

It seems a little hard for me to understand how to come into your meetings. You may place me in Keene, N. H. Dr. John Jennison. I have some things that weigh a little heavily on my spirit, or I should never have made the attempt to speak in public. I would like this letter to reach Lizzie and Mary and as many of the other relatives as possible, but they come uppermost in my spirit to-day, for they have composed the family.

I am satisfied with the home I have found. The first that came to greet me were father, sister Amanda and brother L. J. Oh! how glad they were; but that do n't half express it.

Mother B., let me say to you that I met Mr. Barber and also Isabel—not a little one, but grown to womanhood—and I know you will be glad when you come to join the happy band. My own dear mother, who was laid away so many years ago, came with outstretched hands to welcome me.

I feel a little troubled sometimes, as I drift into earth life, thinking perhaps they may feel that I hold no interest in the dear ones since they laid the body away, but not a day has passed without my coming into the surroundings. I know, Lizzie, you have made quite a number of changes since I left you in the mortal. I feel to-day that some of them have been of an advantage, and some not.

I do not come to find fault, by any means, but would send greetings to each one, for I have some relatives there, and some westward, some in New Haven, Conn., and others scattered even to far-off Southern California.

How glad we are to be able to speak even a few words, although I felt I could hardly do it in the start; but, having help from the good, kind spirits that stood beside me, I have spoken rather imperfectly, but have done the best I could for the first time. One mother—two mothers—and a good mother you were to us. When the dear mother was taken out of the home you came to fill the place, and you did it well. Father and sisters send greetings, also brother L. J., and dear Rosie.

Mary Bowers.

Will you please to say, Mr. Chairman, that I came from Ackworth, N. H.? Mary Bowers. I have often felt a strong desire to come into communication with some friend, that I might make them know we were not dead people by any means. John is here, and Hannah and mother. All are not present at one time.

I have been in your meetings many times, and have thought every time that I would surely give out a word or two, but have failed to make my voice heard. I send greetings to each one. In the old home few are left; some are in Unity, and some in Walpole, N. H. How glad we are, from the depth of the soul, when we speak to some one who will try to help us convey to some loved one the knowledge that we are alive, not dead. We just commence to live when we shake off the mortal. I suffered much while here, but none in passing over; but the beautiful beyond came in sight before the spirit had taken its flight.

I am happy. We all tell the same story, and I often hear mortals say our stories are too beautiful to be true. Wait, mortals, until you try and test for yourselves. Never will you find one little child that will ask to come back to stay. The children—God bless them all! I left them here to the cold world, but the angels have watched over them, and have been faithful to their charge. I am satisfied with my home.

Lydia Batson.

My name is Lydia Batson, of Lunenburg, Mass. I want to say a few words. I have been waiting here patiently while three spirits have been talking. I knew no more where I was going than a child who could not walk; but I did think if a spirit lived, and could come to earth, Lydia would; so I settled down on that.

I find, although I had many struggles here, I 've got just as good a home as any of the rest of 'em. I did n't have much of this world's goods; I did n't suffer any, but I had to earn what I did have.

John is here, also Henry and Lucinda. Mother says they could n't all be present at once. Most all have crossed the boundary; only some distant ones are left.

I would like to say to that medium in the audience: You know you have the power, and you ought to be at work. The fields are white and the workers few. Now I think if I had as much power as that lady I 'd set myself to work and see what the angel world could do with me. You do n't know how many aching hearts you might be instrumental in relieving.

How glad I was when I found there was a place where we could come and send a letter—for I never got in before.

Hiram Gage.

With your permission, Mr. Chairman, I would like to send a message, for some loved ones are waiting anxiously to know if we can send a crumb of spiritual food to them. Not but what they understand a great deal of spirit-return, but would be glad to hear from us.

My home was in Skowhegan, Me., and my name, Hiram Gage. I am thankful I am able to speak a few words. I would like to have what I say conveyed to Daniel Gage, of Cambridge. I have a brother that holds by a thread to-day—Edmund Gage—and I often visit him. I feel that they understand a great deal about our coming. Father, mother, Elmira and Henry stand by my side to-day. Julia is with me—and Julia also yet left in the mortal. I desire that this may reach them, and Frederick also.

I must acknowledge I did not understand this theory when here, and I found I must commence and go to school.

Becky, I would like to come into communication with you as soon as it is convenient for you to help open a channel where I may speak privately. Edmund, not an hour of the day since the anxiety came to you but mother has stood by your side, and Elmira too. I flit out and in, but not so often as some of the others. Frank is present too.

I am satisfied with the home they gave me, for I know it is the home I built when here. I will advise all within the hearing of my voice to try and build that home beautifully, for they will have the privilege while dwelling in the mortal. I am also satisfied with the way things have been done since I left them.

Erastus Bates.

My home was in Cambridge, Mass., my name Erastus Bates. This is not the first time nor the twentieth time I have tried to make myself known. When I found Addison Gage the iceman could speak, I thought it was about time I was using a little more force.

I would say to Sophia and Mary that Lucius is here and will send a message as soon as possible. We can't all talk at once, even if we do get the floor; there 's a little something else to be done. I am happy. I often meet some of the old Cambridge people, who pass and repass just the same—one goes out and another comes in, but in time there is very little said of the one that is gone! Well, I used to say, if they do n't say any good of us they better not say anything. I would like them to know I often come into their homes. Sophia knows it full well, for she has a great deal of mediumship: and if she has been able to see Hudson, I think in time she will be able to see some of the rest of us. Mother is here, father is not; the little child is also here that was laid away years ago and forgotten by some. Grandmother Estes is here, and says that Addie will understand. When they can get a chance to send a little budget along they will try to improve it.

As soon as I found the channel was opened and had permission from the controlling spirits to make use of it, I felt so glad that I hardly knew where to begin, but I think I have made a little inroad, and I shall not stop here, for in time I shall be able to make them know I have come again.

Mason J. Chapin.

You may place me at Wrentham, Mass. [Aside:] Yes, Helen, grandpa won't forget to say you are here. I have tried, as we all say, to make myself known. I know on account of early teachings, they cannot just understand how we should come and control another spirit in the body. I did n't understand when here. But, Charles, go on; you are learning something every day that will help you to progress in spirit-life. I would like for the children—the girls—to understand, and mother also, that the paper contains a word from father. Charles, remember, I have asked you many times to have it conveyed to the home. They can't refuse what this child has spoken before me; and as your mother reads many times, I think she will understand now the passage that says, "And a little child shall lead them." This little angel child has often been able to send a letter. She said: "Grandpa, can't you do it now? I will show you how to make the first line." Darling child, grandpa thanks you to-day.

Charles is here and William, and we have thought many times that the band ought to be strong enough to make you mortals know when we come into the home. I thank the good God who has given us all these privileges; it was no provision of man that we should commune together, and that there is no death, only a change from the body to something better.

SPIRIT MESSAGES

TO BE PUBLISHED NEXT WEEK.

March 30.—Joseph Wight; Sorena Brackett; Mary Turner; Dr. Reuben Hill; Phillip Richardson; Charlotte Stone; Sarah Mason; Charles Wetherbee; Samuel Frost; Polly Witham; Freddie Wood; Hermann Metzmer; Ephraim Chase; Mary Cutter Clement; Emma Jane Granville.

THE MESSAGES GIVEN (THROUGH MRS. B. F. SMITH) As per dates will appear in due course.

May 11.—Martha Noble; Isaac C. Abbott; Eldridge Currier; Samuel Colburn; Newton Chandler; Abbie A. Spinny; Annie Beals; Olive Hill; Sally Emery; James Dickey; Jason Barton; Jeanl Warren; William Seavey; Charles Rhodes; Ollie Seavey.

A Satisfactory Spirit-Message.

A correspondent puts us in possession of the appended communication, which was received as follows:

"Mrs. Lydia Dunklee, widow of the late Wm. A. Dunklee, called, May 10th, upon Mrs. Mary F. Lovering, 81 White street, East Boston, Mass. While on her way she prayed earnestly that she might obtain a word from her husband, and on arriving at Mrs. Lovering's home she remarked: 'I think if you will sit down, William will give me a message through your pen.' Mrs. L. replied that she had not written spirit-messages for a long time, and did not know that she could now do so, but was willing to comply. After playing upon the piano, 'White Wave,' her Indian control, indicated that 'brave Dunklee' was present; she then sat down in a passive condition, but not under control, and the following words coming into her mind, she wrote them on paper. She knows that they were not in her mind when she sat down to write:

'From the land of light and song, of love and blessings, I descend earthward, and breathe a message of hope and cheer to the lonely one I left behind. There is so much, Lydia, I would say, and my capacity for speaking is so cramped, a little may suffice at this time to encourage you on in the path marked out for your feet to travel in. Surely mysterious and winding is the passage leading to the home eternal; yet in all the darkness of my sudden exit from your side, great light is yet to dawn upon you in your onward course. I was taken first. I heard the call from the spheres: "Come up higher." I entered in at the open door and received a joyful welcome from a host of loved ones—friends and neighbors. I felt as though I was making a visit without taking you with me; then I realized "It is all over; the river of death has been safely crossed; I have forded the stream; it was only a ripple; all is well."

I found I needed rest for a while; I was informed of all your doings, anxieties and changes, and my spirit was filled with joy that kind friends were raised up to assist, care for and protect the one I loved on earth, who patiently endured the trying ordeal with Christian fortitude and devoted love.

Our past is in God's keeping; the book of memory is ours, and in spirit-land I shall read its pages with pleasure, and recall the happiness of our lot and earthly pilgrimage together.

To the writer I say, you certainly have the approval of the angel helpers; faithfulness will have its reward; prove as true in the future as in the past, and all will be well.

I would take every brother and sister by the hand, and say, God speed you on in the good way. I shall ever be interested in the movements of the Society of which I was an honored member—thanking them most earnestly for all the kind words and tokens of affection bestowed upon my cold remains, assuring them I still live, and have the cause at heart. As I move on I will bring to bear upon various minds the importance of the work more fully, so that others will be brought in who will assist in many ways to help on the cause of Spiritualism. Let this be the voice of a departed brother from the upper spheres, entreating you all to a more perfect harmony and unity in the future, that hand in hand you may work together for the good of humanity.

Lydia, my spirit will be with you in your travels; many crumbs will be dealt out by the wayside by good Sister Lillie, and your soul will be refreshed thereby.

What more can I say in this message, my first attempt through this organism to give utterance to my pent up expressions of love, good-will unto all?

Be of good cheer; your spirit guides will advance you one step higher upon the ladder of progress this season; and a confiding faith will be yours through the discipline of the past.

Strange! is it not? my second visit in this home under the present circumstances. "Hope on, hope ever," is my watchword given you at this time.

From your loving companion and husband,

WILLIAM A. DUNKLEE.'

The message was read to several of the intimate friends of Mr. Dunklee on Sunday, May 13th, and it so pleased them that they requested that it be forwarded to the BANNER OF LIGHT for publication. Mrs. Dunklee was delighted with it; there were words frequently made use of in the message which were particularly characteristic of Mr. Dunklee, in conversation, so that the communication came home to her with peculiar force as a reality, and as coming from the source designated."

Verifications of Spirit-Messages.

ROBERT WITHERS.

Once more am I highly favored, through the Banner of Light Free Circles, by the beautiful and very accurate communication (in the BANNER OF LIGHT of May 12th) from my dear father, ROBERT WITHERS. It is true that my father passed away in Palmyra, N. Y. I have a brother Robert in this life, to whom my father refers, and it is true what he says about my having to hurry away from him while he was talking to me quite recently. The Mr. Remick spoken of I do not remember, but will try to find out if there was such "an old time friend."

Again, thanking that grand medium, Mrs. B. F. Smith, and her controls, and THE BANNER for the great privilege conferred on me, I remain, Yours for truth, I. G. WITHERS.

132 East 29th street, New York City, en route to San Francisco, Cal.

WATSON B. HASTINGS.

In the BANNER OF LIGHT, April 28th, I read a spirit-message from my son, WATSON B. HASTINGS, and although convinced by it of his identity, still there are some mistakes. He passed away the first of January, 1887. He left his office in Boston about two P. M., and the spirit was released from the body, by apoplexy, at six o'clock the same evening. His son Frank, whom he refers to, was in business with him. Watson manifested at my home several days before his message appeared in the BANNER, saying he had been to the office and reported, but was not satisfied, owing to the confused state of his head, but would try again. His mother, MARY A. BOYER.

Reading, Mass., May 17th, 1888.

BETSEY STONE.

I recognized the message purporting to come from BETSEY STONE, printed in the BANNER OF LIGHT May 12th, received through the mediumship of Mrs. B. F. Smith, at your circle March 16th. Mrs. Stone resided on Worcester street, and was fondly attached to her home and friends. Formerly she resided at Dennis, Mass., where her remains were taken for interment. Yours sincerely,

L. A. HINCKLEY.

CORA BELL SINGLE.

I was very much pleased to read a message given through Miss Shelhamer, and printed in the BANNER OF LIGHT of April 28th, from my darling child, who has been in the spirit-world many years, CORA BELL SINGLE. I fully recognize it, and feel very grateful for her kind words to her mother. I also recognize the spirit who was with her and gave the name of Katie—her full name is Katie Thompson—and I hope she will soon be able to give a full message to her friends, who are anxious to hear from her.

Grateful thanks, LYDIA N. SINGLE.

Wausau, Wis,

Passed to Spirit-Life.

From his home, in Newburyport, Mass., April 15th, 1888, Volney Lincoln Fuller, son of Henrietta F. and Frank H. Fuller, aged 13 years and 9 months.

He was an invalid for nearly eight years, which doubtless was the cause of his peculiar unfoldment in spiritual perception, having been clairvoyant several years, and during the latter part of his sickness his entire spiritual faculties were highly unfolded. The funeral was attended by many friends. The floral tributes were beautiful, and quite in keeping with the departed spirit. Mrs. A. H. Luther gave the address, full of demonstrating and philosophical argument as to the necessity and beauty of death, that individuality might be continued into a life of greater wisdom. COM.

From Boston, Mass., April 26th, Oscar H., son of Mr. Silas F. Allen, aged 22 years.

Oscar was a young man of much promise, and sincerely beloved by all his friends. Realizing the truth of spirit communion, he went calmly into the other life, knowing that he could often be with and bless and comfort his father and brother, whom he leaves in earth-life. The funeral services were conducted by Dr. J. L. Paxson and the writer, with singing by friends. The floral tributes were beautiful, emblematic of the life he lived. Interment at Mount Hope. MRS. M. W. LESLIE.

From the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Mattie Codlington, near Excello, Butler Co., Ohio, of heart trouble, Mrs. Susan J. Morris, aged 63 years.

Her maiden name was Susan J. Floyd. Her father, Martin L. Floyd, was a native of Salem, Mass. His sister Susan is now residing at Brockton, Mass. (aged 92 years Dec. 18th, 1887). The spirit above mentioned has a brother in this city, J. Q. A. Floyd. ***

Springfield, Ill., April 27th, 1888.

May 13th, Mrs. Lydia B., wife of Abraham Fuller, aged 77 years and 7 months.

She has been an earnest Spiritualist many years, and has now joined her beloved husband in spirit-life, who preceded her several years before from their home to Waltham. It was her request that I should officiate at her funeral, which took place at the home of Charles Daniels. Kind friends tendered their sympathies to the family; beautiful flowers were laid upon the casket; angels gave comforting thoughts, and Spiritualism proved once more its value to mortals.

Stoneham, Mass. M. S. WOOD.

From Warsaw, Ill., Sunday morning, April 6th, Prof. Amos H. Worthen.

At the burial the pall-bearers were his six sons, five of whom live in the neighborhood of Warsaw, and the other at Keokuk, Iowa, about five miles distant. Prof. Worthen was born Oct. 21st, 1813. The funeral services took place from his late residence on Tuesday, May 8th, at 2 o'clock P. M., conducted by Mrs. Nettie P. Fox, of Des Moines, Iowa. COM.

[Obituary Notices not exceeding twenty lines published gratuitously. When they exceed that number, twenty cents for each additional line will be charged. Ten words on an average make a line. No poetry admitted under this heading.]

Spiritualist Meetings.

ALBANY, N. Y.—First Spiritualist Society holds meetings each Sunday evening at Van Vechten Hall, 119 State street.—Ladies' Aid Society meets in its rooms adjoining the Hall each Friday afternoon and evening. D. M. S. Fero, President; J. D. Chism, Jr., Secretary.

CLEVELAND, O.—The Children's Progressive Lyceum No. 1 meets regularly every Sunday in G. A. R. Hall, 170 Superior street, commencing at 10½ A. M. Richard Carleton, Conductor; E. W. Gaylord, Secretary.

CINCINNATI, O.—The Society of Union Spiritualists holds meetings in Grand Army Hall, 115 West 6th street, every Sunday at 10½ A.M. and 7½ P.M., also Wednesday evening of each week, to which all are made welcome.

CINCINNATI, O.—The First New Spiritual Church of Cincinnati, Ohio, meets every Sunday at 10½ A.M. at Murch's Hall, No. 278 West 6th street, Dr. James A. Bliss, Pastor. The public are cordially invited. Seats free. Sunday School meets at 12 o'clock noon every Sunday. Spiritualists, come, and bring your children with you.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Society of United Spiritualists meets at Nos. 116 and 118 Fifth Avenue, every Sunday at 2½ P.M. A hearty welcome is extended to all visitors, but more especially to the mediums. F. B. Geoghegan, President, 17 Wisconsin street.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Avenue Hall, 159 22d street. Children's Lyceum, Sunday, at 1½ P.M. Spiritualists' and Mediums' Meeting, 3 P.M. Sociables every Tuesday.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond discourses before the First Society of Spiritualists in Martine's (Ada street) Hall every Sunday morning and evening.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Young People's Progressive Society meets in Martine's Hall, corner Indiana Avenue and 22d street, every Sunday evening at 7½. Hon. Joel Tiffany conducts class lessons in the afternoon, at 3 o'clock. The best speakers and mediums are always engaged.

DENVER, COL.—Meetings are held Sunday evenings at Harmony Hall, Lawrence street, Mrs. F. A. Logan, conducting.

LANSING, MICH.—Spiritual Progressive Meetings are held each Sunday morning and evening at the Hall 106 Washington Avenue. Lecture, readings and tests by Mrs. Lunt Parker and Lily May. Also meetings every Wednesday evening. W. T. Parker, Chairman.

NEW HAVEN, CT.—Meetings are held each Sunday evening at Courier and Journal Building. Mrs. Ella Bacon, President; Thos. F. Davis, Secretary.

NEWARK, N. J.—Meetings will be held every Sunday evening at No. 139 Congress street, commencing at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Jennie A. Smith, Secretary.

NEWARK, N. J.—First Association of Spiritualists. 177 Halsey street, corner of Market, evenings at 7½ o'clock. H. G. Avery, President.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The First Association of Spiritualists, lectures every Sunday morning and evening. Children's Lyceum, 2 P. M., at the hall, 810 Spring Garden street. Joseph Wood President, B. F. Benner, Vice President and Secretary, 940 Warnock street. Second Association meets Sunday afternoon and evening, at its Church, Thompson street, east of Front, T. J. Ambrosia, President, 1223 North Third street. Keystone Association meets Sunday at 2:30 P. M., N. E. corner Ninth and Spring Garden street, Joseph Wood, Chairman. Fourth Association meets Sunday evening, Ninth and Callowhill streets.

PATERSON, N. J.—Meetings are held every Sunday afternoon and evening in Fidelity Hall, corner Market and Church streets, at 2½ and 7½ P. M. Lecturers and test mediums are requested to communicate with John A. Roney, Cor. Sec'y, 65 Holsman street.

Advertisements.

For The Nervous
The Debilitated
The Aged.

Medical and scientific skill has at last solved the problem of the long needed medicine for the nervous, debilitated, and the aged, by combining the best nerve tonics, Celery and Coca, with other effective remedies, which, acting gently but efficiently on the kidneys, liver and bowels, remove disease, restore strength and renew vitality. This medicine is

Paine's Celery Compound

It fills a place heretofore unoccupied, and marks a new era in the treatment of nervous troubles. Overwork, anxiety, disease, lay the foundation of nervous prostration and weakness, and experience has shown that the usual remedies do not mend the strain and paralysis of the nervous system.

Recommended by professional and business men. Send for circulars.

Price $1.00. Sold by druggists.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO., Proprietors,
Jel1 BURLINGTON, VT. 1y

MAGNETIC INSOLES

To the Spiritualists of the World!

YOU have been calling for more magnetic life for nearly forty years. The invention of Magnetic Shields places within your reach the most powerful Magnetic Batteries ever constructed, and exactly adapted to all the needs and wants of your physical and spiritual well-being. To magnetize and polarize the body is to intensify and increase all the intellectual and spiritual faculties. All mediums and sensitives should wear Magnetic Shields. The vitalizing and energizing power radiated from these Magnetic Reservoirs of Life will redouble the life potencies and quadruple the spiritualizing entities for every one who wears them. Dr. Thacher's Magnetic Shields excel and transcend all known healing powers and forces except that coming direct from the world of spirit. If the Spiritualists of the world will read our logic and consult with the Highest Intelligence, they will get assurance which will convince every intelligent investigator. All the knowledge which led up to the perfecting of these Shields came from the world of invisible spirit. We are warranted in saying Magnetism is all spirit and an immaterial substance. Spirit is the only substance in the true sense of the word. Spiritualists are too well informed to be misled on this subject. Why not send for our book and read what we have to say of genuine spiritual substance? If you want further proof that we state truth, send $1,00 for a pair of Insoles, or $2,00 for THREE PAIRS.

Please be sensible and investigate. Magnetism will infuse new life into broken down physical bodies. Try it, and be convinced. Our book sent free.

CHICAGO MAGNETIC SHIELD COMPANY,
No. 6 Central Music Hall, Chicago, Ill.
Ap21 11w*

Dr. F. L. H. Willis

May be Addressed until further notice,
Clenora, Yates Co., N. Y.

DR. WILLIS may be addressed as above. From this point he can attend to the diagnosing of disease psychometrically. He claims that his powers in this line are unrivaled, combining, as he does, accurate scientific knowledge with keen and searching psychometric power.

Dr. Willis claims especial skill in treating all diseases of the blood and nervous system. Cancers, Scrofula in all its forms, Epilepsy, Paralysis, and all the most delicate and complicated diseases of both sexes.

Dr. Willis is permitted to refer to numerous parties who have been cured by his system of practice when all others had failed. All letters must contain a return postage stamp. Send for Circulars, with References and Terms.
Ap7 13w*

DR. J. R. NEWTON

STILL heals the sick! Spirit, Mind and Magnetic Cures at a distance through MRS. NEWTON. Send for testimonials to MRS. J. R. NEWTON, P.O. Station G., N.Y. City. 13w* Ap7

SOUL READING,
Or Psychometrical Delineation of Character.

MRS. A. B. SEVERANCE would respectfully announce to the public that those who wish, and will visit her in person, or send their autograph or lock of hair, she will give an accurate description of their leading traits of character and peculiarities of disposition; marked changes in past and future life; physical disease, with prescription therefor; what business they are best adapted to pursue in order to be successful; the physical and mental adaptation of those intending marriage; and hints to the inharmoniously married. Full delineation, $2,00, and four 2-cent stamps. Brief delineation, $1,00, and four 2-cent stamps.

Address, MRS. A. B. SEVERANCE,
Centre street, between Church and Prairie streets,
Ap7 6m* White Water, Walworth Co., Wis.

CUTTER HOUSE,
Wickett's Island.
Opens June 1st, 1888.

PARTIES desirous of spending the summer in a very healthy, quiet, spiritual place, with no inharmonious influences around them, should secure rooms at once. MRS. M. E. WILLIAMS, the celebrated materializing medium, of New York, will spend the season at this place, and her guides will take an active part in co-operation with the Island band as Teachers for the higher unfoldment of physical and spiritual life. For terms and descriptive circular, enclose stamp. Address DR. ABBIE E. CUTTER, Onset, Mass. 13w* Mh31

Psychometric, Clairvoyant,
AND
Clairaudient Medium,

WILL diagnose and cure all diseases at any distance without the use of medicine. Diagnosis, $1,00; thirty entranced exercises, $10,00. Address GEORGE BANCROFT EMERSON, care N. MacLeod, 532 West Madison street, Chicago, Ill. 15w* Ap14

CORPULENCY

CURED. Vegetable Remedy (new discovery); safe and pleasant. Treatment by mail. DR. EDITH HALE, Specialist in Cancer and Chronic Diseases (home and foreign methods). Ample references. 377 Columbus Avenue, Boston. 4w* My12

MRS. R. T. CLANEY,

BUSINESS AND TEST MEDIUM, No. 411 Lookout street, Chattanooga, Tenn. 6m* 1224

ASTONISHING OFFER.

SEND three 2-cent stamps, lock of hair, age, sex, one leading symptom, and your disease will be diagnosed free by spirit power. DR. A. B. DOBSON, Maquoketa, Iowa. Ap14 13w*

BY DIRECTION of her guides, MRS. JENNIE CROSSE will remove to the country for a while; where she will continue to give Life-Readings for $1,00 and stamp, and answer six questions for 50 cents and stamp. Disease a specialty. Address West Garland, Me. My5 4w*

MRS. E. M. PERRY. Readings by locks of hair. Terms $1,00. Waterville, Mass., Box 49. 8w* Ap28

DR. RHODES' FAMILY MEDICINES.
Purely Vegetable
(ALL SUGAR-COATED)
Medical Confections.
A Universal Blessing.
SUITED TO OLD OR YOUNG!

A PERFECT Liver and Kidney Renovator and Blood Purifier. Cleanses the entire system from all Biliousness and Blood Poisons from Malaria, etc. And cures Headache, Backache, Side and Stomachache, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Pains in the Limbs, Lameness, Numbness, Constipation, Piles, Worms, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Nervousness, Weakness, Kidney and Bladder, and all other urinary ailments, etc. Also, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and in fact almost all the various ailments of humanity.

PRICES: Trial box, 25 cents—by mail, 30 cents; second size, 50 cents—by mail, 55 cents; 12 boxes second size, $5,00; large boxes, $1,00; 6 large boxes, $5,00.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

STELLAR SCIENCE.

I WILL give a test of it to any person who will send me the place and date of their birth (giving sex) and 25 cents, money or stamps.

I will write Biographical and Predictive Letters (from the above data). Also advice upon any matter, in answer to questions, in accordance with my understanding of the science, for a fee of $1; Consultation fee $1; at office, 206 Tremont street.

Nativities written at prices proportionate to the detail demanded. Address OLIVER AMES GOULD, Box 1664, Boston, Mass. July 19.

DIAGNOSIS FREE.

SEND two 2-ct. stamps, lock of hair, name in full, age and sex, and I will give you a CLAIRVOYANT DIAGNOSIS OF YOUR AILMENTS. Address J. C. BATDORF, M.D., Principal, Magnetic Institute, Grand Rapids, Mich. My5 1m*

Mediums in Boston.

JAMES R. COCKE,
Developing and Business Medium,
ALSO,
Clairvoyant Physician,
1581 Washington Street, Boston.

Sittings daily from 9 A.M. till 5 P.M. Price, $1,00.

Unequalled Advantages.

DR. COCKE gives special inducements for Medical and Magnetic Treatment by the month.

Development of Mediumship a Specialty.

SIX PRIVATE SITTINGS FOR $5,00 IN ADVANCE.

CIRCLES.

Sunday, at 11 A.M., for Development and Tests. At 8 P.M., for Psychometry, Tests and Inspirational Music. Thursday evening, at 7:30, for Development. tf My12

J. W. FLETCHER,
MEDICAL AND BUSINESS MEDIUM,
6 Beacon Street,
BOSTON, MASS.

Written Communications on MEDIUMSHIP, HEALTH, My5 BUSINESS, etc., from Lock of Hair. tf

BERRY SISTERS,
55 RUTLAND STREET, BOSTON.

SUNDAY and Wednesday evenings at 8 P.M., Sunday, Thursday and Saturday at 2:30 P.M. 4w* My5

C. E. WATKINS,
The Medium.

MESSAGES by Independent Writing; Diagnosing by Independent Writing. 109 Falmouth street, off West Chester Park, first street west of Huntington Avenue. Take Back Bay or Huntington Avenue car. tf Ap7

EMMA J. NICKERSON,
BUSINESS, AND MAGNETIC TREATMENT,

566 COLUMBUS AVE., BOSTON. Send 10 cents, name and lock of hair, for free Diagnosis of Disease, and kind of Mediumship. Treatment by mail. Office hours 2 to 6 P.M. 13w* Mh10

MRS. F. K. RICH,

TRANCE and Business Medium, Parlors No. 38 Evans House, 175 Tremont street, Boston. Office hours 9 A.M. to 6 P.M. Will also go out to hold private circles. Letters answered by photograph or lock of hair. Terms $2,00. Circles every Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. 1w* My26

Something New and Pleasing.

WRITE a letter to your spirit friends and have it answered by independent writing. Questions upon Health and Business answered in same manner. Price $1,00. Address ANNIE LORD CHAMBERLAIN, Box 56, Mattapan Dist., Boston, Mass. 1m My19

MRS. H. W. CUSHMAN,

MUSICAL, Test, Business and Writing Medium. Circles Monday, 7:30 P.M.; Thursday, 2:30 P.M. Six questions answered by mail for $1,00 and stamp. Examination by lock of hair, $1,00. 212 Main street, Charlestown. Mh3 tf

MISS A. PEABODY,

BUSINESS, Test, Clairvoyant Medium. Sittings daily. Circles Monday and Thursday evenings, Tuesday afternoon at 3. 1 Bennet st., corner Washington st., Boston. My26 1w*

MISS HELEN A. SLOAN,

MAGNETIC Physician. Vapor and Medicated Baths. Celebrated "Acid Cure." Office hours from 9 A.M. to 8 P.M. 171 Tremont street, corner Mason st., Boston. Ap7 tf

A. S. HAYWARD, Magnetist, 443 Shawmut Ave., eradicates disease with his healing gift when medicine fails. Hours 9 to 4; other times will visit the sick. For 17 years he has had signal success in cures with his powerful Spirit-Magnetized Paper; 2 packages by mail, $1,00. Ap7 13w

Mrs. A. E. Cunningham,

MEDICAL, Business and Test Medium, 459 Tremont street, Suite 1, Boston. Private Sittings daily. Will answer calls for Platform Tests. 4w* My19

MISS L. E. SMITH,

MEDIUM for spirit communications, tests and business, personally or by letter (from articles). Terms $1,00, with stamp. 14 Union Park street, Boston. 1w* My26

MRS. A. FORRESTER

WILL give Trance Sittings daily, also Magnetic Treatment from 1 to 5 P.M. 39 Chapman street, corner Shawmut Avenue, Boston. 1w* My26

AUGUSTA DWINELS,

SEERESS, Trance and Prophetic Medium. Office 20 Bennet st., off Washington st., opposite Hollis st., Boston. My12 4w*

MRS. ALDEN,

TRANCE MEDIUM. Medical Examinations and Magnetic treatment. 48 Winter street, Boston. Ap28 5w*

Mrs. Dr. M. O. Mansfield,

566 COLUMBUS AVE., Boston. Mental and Magnetic Treatment. Hours 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. My19 2w*

MRS. KATE R. STILES gives Spiritual Communications and Psychometric Delineations by letter, and Private Sittings. Also responds to calls for platform work. Address 282 Columbus Avenue, Suite 11, Boston, Mss. My19 3w

MRS. K. E. FISHER, Magnetic and Electric Physician, 147 Tremont street, Boston, Rooms 6 and 9. Magnetic and Massage Treatment, Electric and Medicated Vapor Baths; also the celebrated Colorado Sulphur Baths. My26 1w*

MRS. C. H. LOOMIS-HALL, Test and Healing Medium. Answers six questions on business by mail, 50 cents; brief diagnosis from lock of hair and sex, 25 cents. 128 West Brookline street, Suite 2, Boston. My26 1w*

MRS. HATTIE YOUNG,

TRANCE and Business Medium, 22 Winter street, Room 16, Boston. 2w* My19

MRS. S. S. MARTIN,

MESMERIC and Magnetic Healer. Hours 2 to 7 P.M. 705 Tremont street. 3w* My12

MRS. FANNIE A. DODD,

MAGNETIC PHYSICIAN and Test Medium, 48 Winter street, Room 11. tf Ap28

MISS L. BARNICOAT, Medical, Test and Business Medium. Lectures followed by Tests and Psychometry. 175 Tremont street, Room 10, Boston. My12 4teow*

JOSEPH L. NEWMAN, Magnetic Healer, No. 8½ Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), Room 4, Boston, Mass. Office hours, from 1 to 4 P.M. Ja7 26w*

MRS. J. M. CARPENTER, 181 Warren Avenue, Boston. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. Examination by letter when patient is not present. My26 4w*

MRS. J. C. EWELL, Inspirational, also Physician, 172 West Springfield st., Boston. Hours 9 to 4. Mh3 13w*

DR. A. H. RICHARDSON, Magnetic Healer, Waverly House, Charlestown. 810

MISS J. M. GRANT, Test Medium, 705 Tremont street, Boston. 2w* My19

J. A. SHELHAMER,
MAGNETIC HEALER,
Office 8½ Bosworth Street (Room 5), Boston, Mass.,

WILL treat patients at his office or at their homes, as desired. Dr. S. prescribes for and treats all kinds of diseases. Specialties: Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lung, Liver and Kidney complaints, and all Nervous Disorders. Consultation, prescription and advice, $2,00. Moderate rates for Medicines, when furnished. Magnetized Paper $1,00 per package. Healing by rubbing and laying on of hands. Parties wishing consultation by letter must be particular to state age, sex, and leading symptoms. Liver, Anti-Dyspeptic, Liver and Kidney, or Strengthening and Soothing Pills, 25 cents per box, or five boxes for $1,00.

Office hours from 10 A.M. to 3 P.M.—except on Tuesdays and Fridays, when he attends out-of-town patients. Letter address care of BANNER OF LIGHT. 13w* Ap7

Miscellaneous.

COCINISM,
The Science of Practical Will-Ability and Psychological Hygiene.

THIS wonderful science teaches man how to obtain control over the greater part of his nervous system, and to such an extent that, by the exercise of his will, he can direct currents of vital force through any part of the body. When the exercise of this power is once learned, the brain and the whole nervous system can be cleansed, more or less, according to the amount of force exerted by the will.

If pain is experienced in any part of the body, when not the effects of physiological changes, it can be removed simply by removing the cause thereof; and even where such changes have taken place, if powerful currents of vital force can be forced through the parts affected, much foreign matter can be removed, thus giving Nature a chance to repair damages, especially in affections of the Liver. Failing Sight and Memory have been restored in many cases, whilst chest diseases are always amenable to this power.

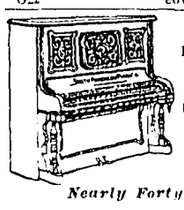
There is another Phase of the Science: The Psychology of Mediumship.

This branch deals directly with the development of Sensitives. Hundreds of persons have been developed as seers who never dreamed that they were mediumistic; whilst, when making experiments, many persons where invited to sit, without knowing anything about what they were sitting for, yet the results were the same: proving, beyond doubt, that to become a medium, all that is required is the proper organism and a fair stock of common honesty.

Sensitives developed by this process never lose their consciousness whilst travelling through the Realm of Spirit; therefore, all descriptions of places seen and information given, whilst journeying through space, are indelibly impressed upon the memory, and to such an extent that where there is sufficient ability, maps of the country and plans of buildings are readily obtained, whilst the identity of spirits seen and spoken to are placed beyond all doubt.

In the event of the world saying that I claim too much for the Psychology of Mediumship, I would refer to an account of a portion of my work in South Africa written by the Spiritualists of Cape Town, together with the address that I received on the eve of my departure for South America, both of which were printed in the Medium and Daybreak, April 24th, 1885.

I feel impressed to give these facts to the world at large, with the view of demonstrating them, wherever I am called upon to do so. Business matters will detain me here in Rosario until next June, after which time, if the people of the United States think sufficient of my Science to invite me to their shores, I can readily prove all that is herein stated. If societies or communities wish to write to me, my address is C. M. COGIN, F. C. C. A.,
O22 Rosario de Santa Fé, Republica Argentina, eow South America.



IMPORTANT!

It is a fact that you can SAVE MONEY in the purchase of a Musical Instrument that stands

UNRIVALLED!
UNSURPASSED
OVER 120,000 SOLD!
AND SCATTERED OVER THE WORLD.

Nearly Forty Years' Experience.

SMITH AMERICAN ORGANS AND PIANOS

Are found in Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia, Japan, India, Africa, Australia, Norway and Sweden, South America, California, and nearly every Town and Hamlet over the Globe.

OUR PIANOS
THE TRIUMPH OF THE AGE!

A Model of Perfection! A Splendid FIRST-CLASS Instrument! Its leading characteristics are:

1st. A Full, Rich, Pure Singing Tone.
2d. A Finely Regulated, Delicate Touch.
3d. A Perfectly Even, Well-Balanced Scale.
4th. The whole composed of the Choicest Material, and of the most thorough workmanship.

NOTHING MORE, NOTHING LESS, can or will ever comprise a First-class Piano, and as such, we unhesitatingly place them before the world.

A GOLD MEDAL awarded us by the Mass. Charitable Mechanics' Association at the late Fair of 1887.

For Rent or Sale on Easy Payments. Send for Catalogue.

Smith American Organ & Piano Co.,
531 TREMONT STREET, BOSTON, MASS.
London, Eng. BRANCH HOUSES: Kansas City, Mo
Ap14 8w

WANTED,
Agents to Sell the Electro-Medicated Belts and Amulets,

MADE by directions of the beneficent band of spirits who have charge of the work at Wickett's Island, for the prevention and cure of Croup, Scarlet Fever, Measles, and all other diseases. They assist in developing spiritual gifts, and prevent evil or undeveloped influences. Agents can do much good, and make money. Enclose stamp for terms and best of testimonials. Address,
DR. ABBIE E. CUTTER, Onset, Mass.

DR. CUTTER describes spiritual gifts and treats patients by correspondence. Diagnosis and advice, $1,00 and stamp. cowtf Mh17

MRS. R. COLLINS,

CLAIRVOYANT and Healing Physician, is now located corner of Hankins and Faulkner streets, Malden—formerly in practice twenty-three years in Boston. Will visit patients at home if desired. Treatments $1,00. My19 2w*

Sealed Letters Answered

BY MRS. ELIZA A. MARTIN, Oxford, Mass. Terms $1,00 and two 2-ct. stamps. 4w* My19

SEALED LETTERS.

ELEANOR MARTIN now makes specialty of business, $5,00. Full Spiritual Message, $2,00. 73 Lane Avenue, Columbus, Ohio. 4w* My26

Voltaic Mineral Rods.

IMPORTANT to Miners and Treasure-Seekers. Send stamp for Circular to E. A. COFFIN, No. 47 Bristol street, Boston, Mass. 4w* My19

FED CROCKETT. Address Onset, Mass., after May 20th. 2w* My19

The Writing Planchette.

SCIENCE is unable to explain the mysterious performances of this wonderful little instrument, which writes intelligent answers to questions asked either aloud or mentally. Those unacquainted with it would be astonished at some of the results that have been attained through its agency, and no domestic circle should be without one. All investigators who desire practice in writing mediumship should avail themselves of these "Planchettes," which may be consulted on all questions, as also for communications from deceased relatives or friends.

DIRECTIONS.—Place Planchette on a piece of paper (printing or writing will answer), then place the hand lightly on the board; in a few minutes it begins to move, and is ready to answer mental or spoken questions. Though it cannot be guaranteed that every individual who follows these directions will succeed in obtaining the desired result, or cause the instrument to move, independent of any muscular effort of his or her own, yet it has been proved beyond question that where a party of three or more come together, it is almost impossible that one cannot operate it. If one be not successful, let two try it together. If nothing happens the first day, try it the next, and even if half an hour a day for several days are given to it, the results will amply remunerate you for the time and patience bestowed upon it.

The Planchette is furnished complete with box, pencil and directions, by which any one can easily understand how to use it.

PLANCHETTE, with Pentagraph Wheels, 60 cents, securely packed in a box, and sent by mail, postage free.

NOTICE TO RESIDENTS OF CANADA AND THE PROVINCES.—Under existing postal arrangements between the United States and Canada, PLANCHETTES cannot be sent through the mails, but must be forwarded by express only, at the purchaser's expense.

For sale by COLBY & RICH. tf

THE SPIRITUAL HARP;
A MUSIC BOOK FOR THE
Choir, Congregation and Social Circle.

By J. M. PEEBLES and J. O. BARRETT.
E. H. BAILEY, MUSICAL EDITOR.

This work has been prepared for the press at great expense and much mental labor, in order to meet the wants of Spiritualist Societies in every portion of the country. It need only to be examined to merit commendation.

Over one-third of its poetry and three-quarters of its music are original. Some of America's most gifted and popular musicians have written expressly for it.

The SPIRITUAL HARP is a work of over three hundred pages, comprising SONGS, DUETS and QUARTETS, with PIANO, ORGAN or MELODEON accompaniment.

Single copy $2,00, full gilt $3,00; 6 copies $10,00, 12 copies $19,00. When sent by mail, 14 cents additional required on each copy.

For sale by COLBY & RICH

SENT FREE.
RULES
TO BE OBSERVED WHEN FORMING
SPIRITUAL CIRCLES.
BY EMMA HARDINGE BRITTEN.

Comprehensive and clear directions for forming and conducting circles of investigation are here presented by an able, experienced and reliable author.

This little book also contains a Catalogue of Books published and for sale by COLBY & RICH.

Sent free on application to COLBY & RICH tf

NEW GOSPEL OF HEALTH,

CONTAINING seven sections on Vital Magnetism and illustrated manipulations, by DR. STONE. For sale at this office. Price $1.25 cloth-bound copies, $2.00.

THE DAY OF REST. By W. McDONNELL, author of "Exeter Hall," "The Heathens of the Heath," etc.

This little pamphlet, from the pen of the well-known author, will be found to contain an able argument against the enforcement of a Puritanic Sabbath handled in a masterly manner.

Paper, 10 cents, postage 2 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

New York Advertisements.

DUMONT C. DAKE, M.D.,

304 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY, successfully treats all forms of Chronic Diseases, however complicated. Patients afflicted for years, regarded as hopeless, or incurable, testify to permanent restoration. For twenty years his power to diagnose and treat Disease has been and still stands unequaled, so say eminent Scientists, Physicians, Clergymen, and patients from all parts of the country. Voluminous testimony can be seen at his office. Those unable to visit the Doctor in person can be successfully treated at their homes. Send stamp for Circular. Diagnosis, with advice, $2,00.

Extract from a letter by Rev. F. R. M., D.D., Brooklyn, N.Y.: . . . "I am happy to testify to Dr. Dake's high moral character as a man, and his eminent ability as a physician who has achieved a most extraordinary career."
Ap7 tf

I CURE FITS!

WHEN I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again. I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my infallible remedy. Give Express and Post-Office.
H. G. ROOT, M.C., 183 Pearl Street, New York.
N5 13teow

Mrs. Stoddard-Gray and Son, DeWitt C. Hough,

HOLD Materializing Séances every Sunday, Wednesday and Friday evening, 8 o'clock. Tuesday and Saturday, 2 o'clock, at 322 West 34th street, New York. Daily sittings for Communications and Business. 13w* Mh17

MRS. C. SCOTT, Trance and Business Medium. Sittings daily, 10 to 5. No. 21 West 13th street, New York. 8w* Ap21

MARY C. MORRELL, Business, Prophetic and Developing Medium, 230 West 36th street, New York City. 15w* Mh3

MRS. L. HIGGINS, Business and Trance Medium. Sittings daily 10 to 3, 351 W. 27th st., New York. Ap21 10w*

PECK'S
POSITIVE
Kidney and Liver Cure.

SOME ten years ago I lost my only son with Bright's Disease, whom five doctors failed to cure. I also had Kidney Troubles, and got no relief until some three years ago I prepared a Vegetable Compound, which is an infallible remedy for Diabetes; Catarrh or Inflammation of the Bladder or Kidneys; Brickdust, or any cloudy deposit in the Urine; Painful Urination; Soreness or Pain in the Back or Kidneys, or any Urinary Weakness; Female Weakness or Bright's Disease. If you cannot procure it of your druggist, send to the Proprietor, OLIVER PECK, 89 West Bridge street, Oswego, N.Y. Price $1,00 per bottle, or 6 for $5,00. My26

RUPTURES

CURED in thirty days by my MEDICAL COMPOUND and improved ELASTIC SUPPORTER TRUSS. Send Stamp for Circular. Address CAPT. W. A. COLLINGS, Smithville, Jefferson Co., N.Y. [Mention this paper.
Ap21 13w*

A LIBERAL OFFER,

BY A RELIABLE CLAIRVOYANT AND MAGNETIC HEALER.

SEND 4 2-ct. stamps, lock of hair, name, age and sex, we will diagnose your case FREE by independent spirit-writing. Address DR. J. S. LOUCKS, Canton, N.Y. My12 13w*

Clairvoyant Examinations Free.

ENCLOSE lock of hair, with leading symptoms. We will give you a correct diagnosis of your case. Address E. F. BUTTERFIELD, M. D., corner Warren and Fayette streets, Syracuse, New York. 26w* Ja28

SECOND EDITION.

A REVIEW
OF THE
Seybert Commissioners' Report
OR,
WHAT I SAW AT CASSADAGA LAKE.
BY
A. B. RICHMOND, Esq.,

A MEMBER OF THE PENNSYLVANIA BAR; AUTHOR OF "LEAVES FROM THE DIARY OF AN OLD LAWYER," "COURT AND PRISON," "DR. CROSBY'S CALM VIEW FROM A LAWYER'S STANDPOINT," "A HAWK IN AN EAGLE'S NEST," ETC.

This able and comprehensive work should be read by every thoughtful man and woman who has heard of the Seybert Bequest. Hon. A. B. Richmond, the author, whose eminence as a criminal lawyer, and high reputation as an author, will at once ensure the confidence and attention of the reader, has in this volume replied to the "Preliminary Report of the Seybert Commission" with a soundness of logic, a keenness of satire, a breadth of thought and clearness of perception such as the importance of the subject demanded. He deals his blows at the unfairness, injustice, prejudice, unkindness and irreverence of the Seybert Commissioners with an unsparing hand, and, like Thor, he never strikes a blow in vain. Well aimed and well struck, each blow tells, and must carry conviction to every thoughtful mind.

Mr. Richmond, although not a believer in the Spiritual Philosophy, has here made a fearless and vigorous defense of the reality of the PHENOMENA of Spiritualism. Having received last August, from the hands of a friend just returned from Cassadaga Lake, a communication addressed to him from one dear to him in spirit-life, he was induced to visit the Lake, but went with a firm belief that he should be able to solve the mystery and expose the fraud. His experiences there convinced him of the genuineness of at least a portion of the phenomenal part of Spiritualism, and he accordingly wrote his Open Letter to the Seybert Commission, a document which aroused the interest and admiration of the best minds. Once convinced that the so-called spirit manifestations do occur in many instances where fraud is out of the question, he gallantly and fearlessly comes to the front and wields his weapons with strong, unerring aim in defense of truth and human progress.

After a happy and appropriate introduction of the subject, with all needful explanations concerning the bequest of Mr. Seybert, the author gives in the first Chapter his "Open Letter to the Seybert Commission"; Chapters II., III. and IV. are devoted to a

Banner of Light.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, MAY 26, 1888.

Spiritualistic Meetings in Boston.

Banner of Light Circle-Room, No. 9 Bosworth Street.—Séances are held every Tuesday and Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock promptly. Admission free. For further particulars, see notice on sixth page. L. B. Wilson, Chairman.

Boston Spiritual Temple, Berkeley Hall.—Lectures by able speakers Sundays at 10½ A. M. and 7½ P. M. Richard Holmes, President; O. F. Rockwood, Secretary; Mrs. Mary F. Lovering, Corresponding Secretary; Albert F. Ring, Treasurer.

Children's Progressive Lyceum No. 1.—Sessions every Sunday at 11 A. M. in (large) Paine Memorial Hall, Appleton street, near Tremont. All seats free. Every one invited. Benj. P. Weaver, Conductor; Henry O. Torrey, Corresponding Secretary. Sewing circle at 1031 Washington street Wednesdays at 3 P. M. Supper and social meeting in the evening.

First Spiritual Temple, corner Newbury and Exeter Streets.—Spiritual Fraternity Society will hold public service Sundays at 2¾ P. M. and Wednesday evenings at 7½. Seats free.

College Hall, 34 Essex Street.—Sundays, at 10½ A. M., 2½ and 7½ P. M. Eben Cobb, Conductor.

Eagle Hall, 616 Washington Street, corner of Essex.—Sundays, at 2½ and 7½ P. M.; also Wednesdays at P. M. Able speakers and test mediums. Excellent music. Prescott Robinson, Chairman.

1031 Washington Street.—The First Spiritualist Ladies' Aid Society meets every Friday. Mrs. H. O. Torrey, Secretary. Private séance for members only, first Friday in each month; doors closed at 3 P. M. Public meetings every Friday evening at 7½.

The Independent Club, 1031 Washington Street, holds regular meetings every Monday evening, at 8 o'clock. The best speakers and music.

Mishawum Hall, City Square, Charlestown.—Mediums' meeting every Sunday at 2½ and 7½ P. M. Dr. Mark Smith, Chairman.

Chelsea.—The Ladies' Social Aid Society meets in Mrs. Buffum's parlors, 196 Chestnut street, every Friday afternoon and evening. All are invited. Mrs. E. H. Pratt, President; Mrs. M. A. Dodge, Secretary.

Cambridgeport.—Meetings held each Sunday evening at 7½ o'clock at St. George's Hall, 603 Main street, by the Spiritualist Society. H. P. Trask, President.

Lynn.—Children's Lyceum meets every Sunday at Cadet Hall, Market street, at 12 M. Conductor, Mr. O. S. Adams; Secretary, Mrs. E. B. Merrill.

Berkeley Hall—Boston Spiritual Temple.—Last Sunday the morning service opened with singing by Mr. and Mrs. Lillie. After an invocation by the latter and a song by Mr. L., Mrs. Lillie's guides spoke upon "Our Work." Forty years ago, they said, certain phenomenal events transpired which called forth millions of spirits who were near earth, though taught heaven was far away. Since that time our work has been to uproot error and plant truth in its place. Spiritualism has brought advancement, improvement and all that blesses you to-day. During the past forty years it has entered your pulpits. It comes to your homes, and your little children are influenced to speak words of wisdom. It displays itself in your works of art, in your literature, in your social life, and its mediums bear messages of immortality more potent, convincing and satisfying than any other form of religion has ever conveyed to mortals. It is touching the hearts of the people and reaching their needs; it talks of a God of Love. The churches look on in holy horror; by-and-bye experiences will come to them; they will weary of the old and seek the new. By-and-bye they will modify their beliefs; ere long the main body of Protestants will acknowledge their error, through the growth of spiritual knowledge that is quietly advancing. The people will hold on to its teachings in the future and all be brought into the fold universal. After an improvisation Mr. Lillie closed the exercises with a song.

Evening.—Following the preliminary exercises the guides of Mrs. Lillie spoke upon "Mediumship, the Bedrock of Spiritualism." Remarking that were there no mediumship there would be no Spiritualism, a review of the immense advantages that have accrued to mankind from mediumship since the first raps at Hydesville was entered upon, deeply interesting a very attentive audience and leading every one to a higher appreciation of the spiritual gifts that in the natural order of evolution come to mankind at this time.

At the close of the lecture Dr. A. H. Richardson made a motion that the sympathy and goodwill of the society be extended to Mr. and Mrs. Lillie in their future and journey westward, and a unanimous vote was taken. After some closing remarks by the President, Capt. Richard Holmes, Mrs. Lillie gave an improvisation, "Love"; Mr. Lillie a song. This closes Mrs. Lillie's engagement for the season. She will occupy the same platform again next October. Mr. J. W. Fletcher will speak next Sunday morning, and in the evening at 7:30 give his illustrated lecture, at which a colored quartette will sing.

MARY F. LOVERING, Cor. Sec'y.
81 White Street, East Boston.

First Spiritual Temple, corner Newbury and Exeter Streets.—Last Sunday Mrs. Lake's guides spoke upon the subject given, viz.: "The Conflict of Life." They said the normal condition of earthly life was one of conflict. We were here to gain experiences; to grow and learn self culture and self-control. Were there no effort, no aspirations after higher and better things, there could be no growth. However dark the cloud of earthly suffering or adverse experience, its silver lining was the compensation of added stature to the soul. All nature heaved and panted with the struggle for diviner expression, and this was life. Its opposite, of perfect rest, was death. Who could limit the human soul in its expansion or its growth and development? and if we cannot limit it, we cannot limit the conflicts which it must perchance endure to gain a more perfect expression.

It has been thought that in spirit-life was unending rest, and peace, but such was not the case. Life, on whatever plane of existence, was in a sense an unending struggle, unending effort for the soul to express itself through substance with more and more perfection and power. The guides closed with a beautiful poem pertinent to the subject elucidated.

Memorial Service.—Next Sunday will be the last service of the season, the Temple being closed until the early Fall. On this occasion will be given a memorial service for the late Mrs. E. R. DYAR-CLOUGH. Mr. D. E. Caswell and Mrs. Lake will conduct the services at the usual hour of 2:45 P. M.

There will also be the usual Temple Fraternity School at 12:30 P. M., and sociable on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. All friends are cordially invited; seats free. W. H. R.

Children's Progressive Lyceum No. 1, Paine Hall, Appleton Street.—Sunday, May 20th, after the music, reading, and the march, in which one hundred and fourteen participated, pupils took part in the exercises as follows: Singing by Mabel Waite, Gracie Scales; duet by Bertha and Maud Davis; recitations by Leroy Thorpe, Emma Russell, Rebecca Rosenthal, Alice Cummings, Mary Lichtenstein. Mr. Augustus Day of Detroit, Mich., made pleasing remarks. Mr. Luther Colby, the editor of the BANNER OF LIGHT, was also present. We assure these true and earnest workers that their visits were highly appreciated. At the close of the Lyceum a gentleman, apparently a stranger, expressed to one of the Leaders his surprise and pleasure that there was a Lyceum in Boston conducted in such an able manner. He said he lived out of town, but next Sunday he should surely attend and bring his children. If people who live out of Boston take such an interest in the Lyceum, is it not a good example for the Spiritualists who live in Boston to imitate? If they cannot attend themselves, let them send their children.

The Lyceum Sewing Circle of last Wednesday was well attended. The evening exercises were unusually interesting; after singing by Mabel Waite and reading by Louise Barlow, Mrs. Butler described some of the various phenomena she had witnessed in the West, after which Mr. Craig made interesting remarks, followed by Mr. Collier and Mrs. Whitlock.

There will be a Strawberry Festival and Dance, for the benefit of the Lyceum, in Paine Hall, Wednesday evening, June 6th. A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present. Memorial services held by the Lyceum Sunday, May 27th. HENRY O. TORREY.
Boston, May 20th, 1888.

The First Spiritualists' Ladies' Aid Society, 1031 Washington street.—The meeting Friday evening, May 18th, was well attended. The exercises opened with singing by Charles W. Sullivan, Miss Bailey and Miss Wakefield, followed by a short address from Dr. Richardson. After a duet by Miss Bailey and Miss Wakefield, Mr. Day, a prominent Spiritualist from Detroit, Mich., spoke upon the Spiritualistic movement in Detroit. Song by Mrs. Gertie Hanson; remarks by Mr. Wagner; song by Mr. Sullivan, Miss Bailey and Miss Wakefield; tests by Mrs. Lewis of Brooklyn, N. Y. We hope all will remember our Poverty Party for May 25th, also the Memorial Services on Sunday, May 27th, at 2:30 P. M. and 7:30 P. M. Able speakers, good test-mediums, also good music. Contributions of flowers solicited.
ALICE P. TORREY, Secretary.

The First Independent Club.—Miss Florence Vinal opened the evening's programme with two instrumental selections, followed by Mrs. Whittemore, who favored us with a vocal selection of superior merit. Miss Lily Vinal rendered with dramatic effect the tale of "Sim's Little Girl," to the interest and pleasure of all. Prof. J. P. Wild delivered an instructive and highly entertaining lecture upon "Phrenology," noting its discovery and rise from the investigations of Dr. Gall, to its wide acceptance at the present day. As a means for disclosing business adaptability, and as an aid in self-culture, the science stands unrivalled. Mrs. S. W. Fletcher and Dr. J. L. Paxson were briefly examined by Prof. Wild, and that their characteristics and qualities were correctly sketched was evident from the applause which greeted their recital.

Miss S. L. Austin, a professional solo singer, rendered two enjoyable selections during the evening, accompanied by Misses Whittemore and Vinal. Miss Maria Wells recited selections which aroused much enthusiasm by their force and freshness.

Mrs. Fletcher, in her inimitable manner, made earnest remarks upon topics of interest to the Club, and testified to the regret she felt that these harmonious meetings were nearly over.

Mrs. Annie E. Gardner recited an exquisite improvisation, and Miss Fay concluded the programme with a piano recital. In spite of the heat the audience was as large as usual, and the outlook for autumn is toward Parker Memorial Hall, or one equally as large, for these meetings.

Next Monday afternoon and evening a Strawberry Festival will be held, and with this the Monday evening meetings will close for several months.
F. V. FULLER, Sec'y.

Mishawum Hall, City Square, Charlestown District.—Well attended meetings were held in this place, last Sunday afternoon and evening. Dr. Smith, the chairman, made the opening address on the "Phenomena of Spiritualism." Miss Josephine Webster gave an excellent address, closing with a fine improvisation. Mrs. Shackley and Mrs. M. A. Chandler gave tests which were recognized, and Dr. Sutton Clark of California gave very interesting spiritual experiences while in the United States Navy.

At the evening session the well-known medium, Dr. C. H. Harding, lectured acceptably and gave convincing psychometric readings. Dr. Clark gave descriptions of spirits.

Dr. C. H. Harding, psychometrist, will speak and delineate next Sunday afternoon and evening at this Hall.

Reception.—The officers and members of the Spiritualistic Phenomena Association, to the number of some forty, tendered a reception to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hall, at their residence, 128 West Brookline street, on Tuesday evening, May 8th.

Dr. Moore being invited to officiate as Chairman, made a few appropriate remarks, referring to the long and successful services as a healing and test medium of Mrs. Hall; and to Mr. Hall as a faithful worker for more than twenty-five years in the cause.

Remarks suitable to the occasion were also made by Mr. J. H. Lewis, President of the Spiritualistic Phenomena Association, and by other officers, in which they alluded to Mr. and Mrs. H. as most untiring workers in the Association (of which both are Directors). Mr. and Mrs. H. appropriately responded. Good music by M. Peet and others added much to the festivities. At a late hour the party were invited to a bountiful repast, which closed a very enjoyable entertainment. M.

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the members of the Boston Spiritual Temple for the election of officers for the ensuing year and for the transaction of such business as may legally be brought before them, will be held at Lyceum Hall, 1031 Washington street, on Wednesday evening, June 6th, at eight o'clock.

Spiritualist Meetings in New York.

Adelphi Hall, corner of 52d Street and 7th Avenue.—The First Society of Spiritualists holds meetings every Sunday at 11 A.M. and 7½ P.M. Admission free.

Columbia Hall, 878 6th Avenue, between 49th and 50th Streets.—The People's Spiritual Meeting (removed from Spencer Hall). Services every Sunday at 2½ and 7½ P. M. Mediums and speakers always present. Frank W. Jones, Conductor.

Meetings for Spiritual Manifestations will be held at Adelphi Hall, corner 7th Avenue and 52d street, New York, every Sunday at 2½ P. M. Tests given by Mrs. E. A. Wells of New York.

Arcanum Hall, 57 West 25th Street, N. E. corner 6th Avenue.—Meetings of the Progressive Spiritualists are held every Sunday at 3 and 8 P. M. Mediums and speakers welcome. Test Medium and Conductor, Prof. G. G. W. Van Horn.

Soul Communion Meetings every Tuesday at 3 P. M. sharp, at Mrs. Morrell's, 230 West 36th street.

First Society of Spiritualists.—Mrs. Amanda M. Spence spoke in the forenoon of last Sunday upon "Mesmerism and Magnetism as Applied to Spiritualism and its Teachings, Ancient and Modern," with great force, and sustained her arguments in a logical manner. In the afternoon Mrs. Spence made interesting remarks upon her experiences as a trance medium, holding her audience in breathless silence for an hour and ten minutes, and assuring her hearers that Spiritualism is a positive knowledge, and not simply a belief. Miss Mamie Horton's whistling elicited applause that was deafening. Miss Lily Runals sang "The Breaking of the Day" and "Ninety and Nine." Mrs. E. A. Wells gave a large number of tests, that fully came up to the record of this famous medium, after which Miss Runals sang "It Matters Not," and the meeting adjourned at a late hour.

In the evening Mrs. Spence spoke upon the "Philosophy of Spirit-Phenomena."

Mrs. Brigham will occupy the platform of the First Society next Sunday.

The array of musical talent of this Society is of a high order, and not surpassed by many of our most expensive churches in New York. Miss Maud F. Pleasants, soprano, and Miss Ella Porter, accompanist, furnish the music for the morning and evening service, and Miss Lily Runals, soprano, and Mr. Isaac C. Kiersted, accompanist, in the afternoon. Mr. Kiersted is a professional organist of high rank, and as a teacher has but few equals. Miss Runals is a special favorite, and regarded as one of the sweetest singers in the land, and is improving every month, and the Rev. H. W. Thomas of Chicago, says that, "As a soloist at the People's Church, the singing of Miss Lily Runals was greatly enjoyed. As a lady and an artist, she is rapidly rising in public favor." Negotiations are in progress to engage that eminent artist, Miss Mamie Horton, the solo whistler, to take part in these exercises.
New York, May 20th, 1888. S.

People's Spiritual Meeting.—Last Sunday a poem, Mathew Arnold's "Wish," was read at the opening, and remarks by Mrs. Self, Mr. E. W. Capron, Mrs. S. A. Slocum, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Morrell, Mr. Bunce, Mrs. H. Lane, Dr. B. M. Lawrence, and others, and psychometric readings by Mrs. Morrell, constituted the exercises of a highly interesting session.

In the evening remarks were made by S. A. F. Goodspeed, Mr. Lane and Mr. Wilson Macdonald.

Next Sunday, the 27th, we shall observe the Whole World's Soul Communion for thirty minutes with closed doors, commencing precisely at 3:15.

Sunday, June 3d, we celebrate our Fifth Anniversary at 2:45 and 7:45. Mrs. N. J. T. Brigham will be with us in the afternoon. Other mediums and speakers will be present, and take part both afternoon and evening. Musical and literary exercises will enliven the occasion. F. W. JONES.
230 W. 36th street, New York, May 20th, 1888.

Testimonial.—The friends of Dr. B. M. Lawrence will tender him a complimentary testimonial at Spence's Hall, 14th street, on the evening of Friday, May 25th.

Spiritualist Meetings in Brooklyn.

Conservatory Hall, Bedford Avenue, corner Fulton Street.—Services every Sunday at 11 A.M. and 7½ P.M.

Fraternity Rooms, corner Bedford Avenue and South Second Street.—Services every Sunday at 7½ P.M. Children's Lyceum at 3 P.M. The Spiritual Literary Union meets the first and third Saturday of each month at 8 P.M.

Johnston Building, Flatbush Avenue, corner of Nevins Street.—Brooklyn Progressive Spiritual Conference every Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock.

Progressive Spiritual Conference.—Saturday evening 19th inst., Mr. D. Elwell of Brooklyn made the opening address upon "The Relation of Spiritual Life to Civil Government." Mr. D. Ellsworth of New York, C. L. Harris, W. C. Bowen, Mrs. E. C. A. Hall, Emily B. Ruggles, and Mrs. S. A. Slocum, filled out the remaining time.

"Spiritualism on Trial," is to be the theme of Mrs. H. M. Walton's address Saturday evening, 26th inst. Mrs. W. is a logical writer and speaker, and we expect another interesting session in Preparatory School Hall, Johnston Building, corner of Fulton and Flatbush Avenues. F. W. JONES.

Washington, D. C.—Friday evening, May 18th, was characterized by one of those delightful social events which our friends, Prof. and Mrs. D. C. Chapman, of 104 C street, Capital Hill, so well understand creating. There is no one connected with the promulgation of the Spiritual Philosophy who visits Washington who has more earnest and appreciative friends among our intellectual people than has MRS. CLARA A. FIELD of your city. On her way North from Florida, where, as you know, she has been health-seeking during the winter, she sojourned here a few days, the guest of Mrs. D. C. Chapman.

On Sunday night last she followed President Wolff's stirring rebuke to Dr. Talmage with a few felicitous remarks. On Friday evening, after a month of social intercourse crowded into one short week, her friends rallied, by Mrs. Chapman's invitation, to bid her goodbye. The evening was unpropitious, but the attractions offered tempted a large concourse of Mrs. Field's friends to take the risks of the inclement weather. The usual programme of music, recitations and short addresses was most charmingly carried out. As this is merely a notice, and not a report, I shall not attempt to give Mrs. Field's reply to the welcome which Mr. Wolff, as spokesman for the company, extended to her. Suffice it to say it was full of beautiful thought excellently expressed, sparkling with wit and often tender with pathos. At 10:30 the guests bade Mrs. Field good-bye, having remained until the last moment allowed for her preparations for departure; and not one was there who did not feel cordially thankful to the genial host and hostess for the delightful treat enjoyed. S.

A Fraternal Example.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

Amid the difficulties and asperities that beset public life in all movements—ours no less than others—it is always gratifying to record evidences of fraternal courtesy when extended by one worker to another, who is laboring in the same sphere of usefulness.

There is no reason why co-workers should not be friendly and fraternal with each other, though, possibly arising from our common frailties, such is not too often the case. But lately, out here in the Golden State, the writer is rejoiced to say that a fraternal example has been set among us that gives modern pith and point to the old injunction to "in honor prefer one another."

The event in question—leading to the above-indicated result—was a Basket Picnic given by Mrs. E. L. Watson, of "Sunny Brae," Santa Clara, Cal., to Mr. J. J. Morse and family, of England. Among the guests was our good friend Mr. Pawley, of the San Francisco Daily Chronicle, and the following article from his genial pen affords independent testimony as to the pleasure and extent of the festival referred to; says our friend:

A reception and social was given in honor of J. J. Morse, at the residence of Mrs. E. L. Watson, near San José, last Thursday. For the past year Mr. Morse has been the speaker of the Religio-Philosophical Society, at Metropolitan Hall, in San Francisco, and has become deservedly popular. Nearly two hundred invitations were issued, and it is said that every one was responded to in propria persona. The San Francisco contingent left by an early morning train, and were met at the station by a number of carriages, and conveyed in good time to Sunny Brae, where the hostess and the already arrived guests welcomed the new-comers. A delicious luncheon was served under the shade trees, where the most complete arrangements had been made. The pleasure of the occasion was still further increased by the attentions of the bevy of fair Hebes who administered the commissariat, for they, in their airy costumes and fancy caps, contributed not a little to the general gaiety. The sentiments peculiar to such an occasion were expressed in excellent brevity and taste, and were much applauded. Vocal and instrumental music and dancing added to the day's enjoyment, while lawn sports and the cherry grounds had many devotees. Late in the afternoon about fifty of the guests returned to San Francisco, and a large number remained to participate in the festivities of the evening, returning on Friday. The excursion was heartily enjoyed, and will long be pleasantly remembered by those who participated in it.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. Schultz, of San José; Prof. and Mme. Arrillaga, Mrs. J. J. Morse, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Rider, Mrs. Mitchiner, Miss E. B. Joy, Mrs. E. Clark, Mrs. J. Schlesinger, Miss Mina Robinson, Miss Bonnie Stitt, of Titusville; Miss Florence Morse, Miss Lulu Watson, Mrs. Morriss, Mrs. Parkhurst, the Misses Morriss, Miss Josie Hill, Miss Libbie Hill, Mrs. H. E. Robinson, F. H. Woods, W. E. Coleman, C. H. Wadsworth, W. H. Mills, Mr. Van Brundt, Capt. Aldrich, Mr. Crosette, and many others.

It gives me great pleasure to add that Mrs. Watson's courtesy to our English friend and his family was in every way deserved, and that in honoring them she has honored herself. Mr. Morse has always a helping hand, a kindly word and a ready act for all good causes and worthy objects, and eminently deserves our best wishes for the good work he has done in our midst as well as for his geniality of disposition. It is no small credit to his tact and ability that he has steadily increased in our regard, and will presently leave us with the united regrets of all sections of Spiritualists in this city.

Thinking the before related fraternal example might be of interest to all and sundry, must be my excuse for trespassing upon your columns.

With a hearty good-speed to THE BANNER, which waves all over the world, believe me,
Your sincere friend,
AN EIGHTEEN YEARS' READER.
San Francisco, Cal., May 14th, 1888.

An Open Letter to Mrs. O. B. Gray.

Madam: As you are aware, (being at your residence on a professional errand,) I stopped at your séance last evening. Having been shown in The World of this morning an account of a so-called exposure at that séance, I have no hesitancy in pronouncing the same from beginning to end untrue. It misstates the usual method of conducting your séances, and misrepresents the point made of catching a form, "Sarah," or of catching any form, and finding the medium. The "grabbers" tried to catch a form which had materialized upon the top of the table—"Carrie Miller"—who dematerialized at once. And as to the medium—the son, who has no side whiskers, as stated—he did not make his appearance from the cabinet until some minutes after, when the "grabbers" had left the séance-room.

I consider the attempted exposé a signal failure every way.

Very truly yours,
IRETUS GREENE CARDNER, M. D.
235 West 34th street, New York, May 17th, 1888.

Haverhill, Mass.—Music Hall.—Sunday, May 20th, before large and appreciative audiences, at 2 P. M., Mr. E. W. Emerson made remarks upon "Little Things," claiming that it is the little things in our everyday experiences by which we grow to manhood and womanhood, and round out our individual character into true nobility.

At the close of his remarks he gave an exercise in mediumship, reporting forty-six full names that were fully recognized. As this was Mr. Emerson's last appearance in this vicinity for at least one year, persons were present from neighboring towns and cities, including Merrimack, Merrimackport and Newburyport, Mass., all of them receiving reports from their spirit-friends.

Evening.—The Home Orchestra, Miss Jessie M. Little, precentor, opened the service with a half-hour musicale, rendering selections of choice music. The choir sang "Memory's Golden Shore," which suggested the theme of Mr. Emerson's remarks on memories of the past. At the close of the remarks he gave an exercise in mediumship, reporting sixty three full names, many of them to parties who have never before been at a spiritual séance, and of which your scribe hopes to speak more fully in the near future.

Mrs. Celia M. Nickerson will occupy the same platform next Sunday, the 27th. W. W. CURRIER.
May 21st, 1888.

Haverhill and Bradford.—As the present lecture course approaches its end, the interest in the Spiritualistic cause appears to deepen, and the signs pointing to the future indicate the approach of another season of growing interest. Mrs. Lizzie S. Manchester of West Randolph, Vt., was again the instrument of utterance last Sunday, giving two addresses of great power and elegance of diction, as well as forcible in conclusions. The theme of the afternoon was "Give us our daily bread"; in the evening, "I will write my law upon their hearts, and they shall be my people, and I will be their God. Mrs. Manchester is to open the next lecture course the first Sunday in October. Next Sunday Mrs. S. R. Stevens of Boston will give the concluding lectures of this course; Mrs. Hattie P. Griffin will render a selection in the evening, and the exercises will also be of a soldiers' memorial character. E. P. H.
Haverhill, May 21st, 1888.

Willimantic, Conn.—Sunday, the 13th inst., Dr. Geo. A. Fuller gave us two excellent lectures. It was his first appearance here, but we hope not his last. We were well pleased with him both as a man and lecturer.

The 20th, Mrs. Ida P. A. Whitlock occupied the platform. She gave two excellent lectures, accompanied by psychometric readings, and to the entire satisfaction of all. This lady should be kept busy.

Next Sunday we have Dr. F. L. H. Willis of Rochester, N. Y. He is an old favorite here, and we hope to give him a full house. He has chosen for his subjects—afternoon: "The Potent Influence of Spiritualism upon Public Opinion"; evening, "The Crucifixion of Truth Illustrated in the History of Spiritualism, addressed to the Rev. Clergy who of late have been firing hot shot into the Camp of Spiritualism."

Lowell, Mass.—Dr. Dean Clarke occupied our platform Sunday, May 20th, and very good audiences, afternoon and evening, assembled to listen to his inspirational lectures.——Next Sunday is the closing one of our meetings for the season. Mrs. Lizzie S. Manchester will occupy the platform. In the evening a Memorial Service will be conducted under the inspiration of Mrs. M. Post 185, G. A. R., has been invited, and has accepted the invitation, to attend. B. S. FREEMAN,
No. 5 Brooks street.

Portsmouth, N. H.—Sunday, May 20th, we had with us again Mrs. E. Clark Kimball, of Lawrence, Mass., who gave in two test séances over a hundred recognized names and incidents of a private character. In the evening every seat was filled, and some had to stand.——On Sunday, the 13th, Miss M. T. Shelhamer gave two fine lectures, pleasing our people very much. We hope to hear from her again.——Next Sunday, the 27th, Mrs. E. C. Kimball will be with us. C.

Providence, R. I.—The Ladies' Spiritualist Aid Society meets in Slade's Building, corner of Eddy and Washington streets, every Thursday afternoon and evening, Room 14. All are cordially invited. Séance in the evening. Mrs. M. H. Waterman, President; Mrs. Sarah Osborn, Vice-President; Mrs. H. C. Troop, Secretary.

MASSACHUSETTS' VERDICT.

The Outspoken Views of Well-Known People.

Truth alone cannot be doubted. Herewith are published some interesting truths spoken by your neighbors and personal friends. You know their good characters and that they would not willingly be parties to fraud. Living in your own community, some of them are accessible. If there exists any lingering doubt in your mind, ask them personally what "Warner's Safe Cure," the giant of medicines, has done for them. Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co. offer $5,000 for proof that, so far as they know, the testimonials published by them are not strict truths. The following are samples of testimonials daily received from this section of the State:

HAVERHILL, Mass., (Attorney at Law,) Oct. 25th, 1887.—I can endorse "Warner's Safe Cure" as being a valuable remedy for Kidney and Liver diseases. I have taken it with beneficial results.

Benjamin F. Bickett

SOMERVILLE, Mass., Dec. 20th, 1887.—I have used "Warner's Safe Cure" since last summer, and it has put me in shape to work once more, which I was not able to do. I got the Malaria in Central America two years ago and have suffered from it since, using calomel, quinine, etc., by the wholesale. "Warner's Safe Cure" cured me.

John E. Hill

Garfield Avenue, Crescent Beach, REVERE, Mass., Nov. 30th, 1887.—My mother has been using "Warner's Safe Cure" and "Warner's Safe Rheumatic Cure" alternately for Rheumatism with beneficial results.

Louis Bury

HAVERHILL, Mass., No. 1 Spring Place, Oct. 24th, 1887.—In 1881 I took "Warner's Safe Cure," and was wonderfully benefited thereby. I firmly believe it saved my life. It cured me, and I have been well ever since, although I have n't given up its use. I take it whenever any little thing is the matter with me.

Miss Mary E. Dalloff

ROSLINDALE, Mass., (Pastor Baptist Church.) Jan. 9th, 1888.—It gives me pleasure to add my testimony to the value of "Warner's Safe Cure." Some years ago I gave it a faithful trial, using six or eight bottles. I received radical benefit.

J. Tuttle Hyman

ANNISQUAM, Mass., Dec. 3d, 1887.—We have used "Warner's Safe Cure" in our family for years, and are never without it. Mother thinks that whatever ails us can be cured by "Warner's Safe Cure."

Master Edmund D. Hodgkins

(From the New York World of May 21st.)

Spiritualism—Fair Play.

To the Editor of The World:

I am not classed as a Spiritualist, nor do I visit the mercenary mediums, yet, with the public at large, wish to see fair play among all disputants. On all sides, in the church and out of it, among all classes, there is a vast amount of trickery, fraud, deception, pretense and falsehood, but a world of deception exposed does not disprove a single truth nor fact. Sneers in the pulpit or out of it prove nothing. Science rests upon evidence, demonstration of facts, realities. "That," as Lord Bacon said, "should be the field of our investigation." I know nothing of Spiritualism from any personal experience. I only know that many of the most scholarly and literary people in the world proclaim its truth, such as Prof. Wallace, the great naturalist; Crookes, the chemist; Varley, the electrician; Zöllner and Flammarion, astronomers; Ulrici, Fichte, Thackeray, the Brownings, Howitts, Mrs. Beecher Stowe, and many others. What is it among millions of adherents that has so shaped their beliefs? The advice of W. E. Gladstone is deserving of attention. He says: "Spiritualism is a question, in the first place, of evidence; it then follows to explain, so far as we can, such facts as have been established."
Orange Valley, May 19th. PASTOR.

Greenwich, Mass.—By invitation the Independent Liberal Church attended, by delegates, the ordination and installation of H. H. Brown as pastor of the First Congregational (Unitarian) Church in Petersham. The delegates were Mrs. Yeaw, Mr. H. W. Smith and Miss H. B. Lochlan. Mr. Brown, for several years one of the ablest speakers upon the Spiritualistic platform, has not "stepped down and out" from sympathy with his former co-laborers, but has been settled in his new position after a two years' course of study at Meadville, Pa., by the unanimous vote of the society, with a full knowledge, on their part, of his views in relation to spiritual inspiration.

The sermon was preached by Rev. John W. Chadwick of Brooklyn, N. Y., and was liberal and comprehensive enough to satisfy the demands of advanced thinkers. "The Right Hand of Fellowship" was given by Rev. Mr. Bailey of Ware, a former army comrade of "Capt. Brown," who feelingly welcomed him, not only to the fellowship of the churches—not only to that of the living, but to the fellowship of the so-called dead, the sacred companionship of such as Channing, Parker and Gannett. All the services indicated a belief in the presence of "the departed."

The interest in our meetings is unabated, and the attendance good. The speaker last Sunday, Mrs. Yeaw, elaborated the theme of Mr. Chadwick, "The Field is the World," emphasizing the necessity of broader intellectual and spiritual culture. The exercises of the Lyceum were spirited and instructive. The interest in the short, historical lectures, given by Mr. Smith, illustrated by views presented by Mr. Photius Fiske of Boston, continues. Services for this season will continue through June, with the same speaker. JULIETTE YEAW.

Worcester, Mass.—Prof. W. F. Peck occupied the platform for the Worcester Association of Spiritualists in Continental Hall, May 20th, afternoon and evening. He was listened to with the closest attention, by large and appreciative audiences. Mr. Peck has but few equals in the lecture-field, either in his lectures or his beautiful songs. He will close his present engagement with us next Sunday, May 27th.

Miss Jennie B. Hagan, who made herself so popular with our people during her stay with us last November, will be with us again for the month of June. T. R. J.

Pittsburgh, Penn.—Mrs. H. S. Richings lectured before the Secular League of this city, Sunday, May 13th. She had a very good audience. The League meet at Maltby's Hall, No. 76 Fifth Avenue. "Spiritual phenomena," says The Post of the 14th, were taken up by the speaker in answer to questions, and she backed up her belief in Spiritualism, mediums and mesmerism with an excellent flow of reasoning."

Norwich, Ct.—The Spiritual Union closed its fifth year's services in Grand Army Hall, Sunday, May 20th, with special ceremonies, of which mention will be made next week.

The Eagle favors woman suffrage, cremation, the abolition of capital punishment, the complete secularization of the public schools, the repeal of the infamous medical act passed in 1887 and designed to restrict competition in the practice of medicine.—Saratoga (N. Y.) Eagle.

To all which the BANNER OF LIGHT says "Amen!"

BEAUTY of Skin & Scalp RESTORED by the CUTICURA Remedies.

NOTHING IS KNOWN TO SCIENCE AT ALL comparable to the CUTICURA REMEDIES in their marvelous properties of cleansing, purifying and beautifying the skin, and in curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair.

CUTICURA, the great SKIN CURE, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; RESOLVENT, $1; SOAP, 25c. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON, MASS.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Dull Aches, Pains, and Weaknesses instantly relieved by the CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster. 25c. F4

BAKER'S
BAKER'S
BAKER'S
BAKER'S
BREAKFAST
BREAKFAST
BREAKFAST
BREAKFAST
COCOA.
COCOA.
COCOA.
COCOA.

COLD MEDAL, PARIS, 1878.

Warranted absolutely pure Cocoa, from which the excess of Oil has been removed. It has three times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrowroot or Sugar, and is therefore far more economical, costing less than one cent a cup. It is delicious, nourishing, strengthening, easily digested, and admirably adapted for invalids as well as for persons in health.

Sold by Grocers everywhere.

W. BAKER & CO., Dorchester, Mass.
Ja7 eow

FORTY YEARS
ON THE
SPIRITUAL ROSTRUM.
BY WARREN CHASE.

A SEQUEL TO "THE LIFE-LINE OF THE LONE ONE," AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF THE AUTHOR, AS

The World's Child,

WHO GAVE THE FIRST PUBLIC LECTURES IN THIS COUNTRY IN DEFENSE OF MODERN SPIRIT INTERCOURSE, AND WHOSE NAME IS FIRST ON THE LIST OF CALLS FOR COPIES OF "NATURE'S DIVINE REVELATIONS," WHEN IN PRESS IN 1847.

No one is better qualified to place on record reliable information regarding the early history of Modern Spiritualism and of its early advocates and defenders, than the author of this volume. There has been scarcely a worker for the cause he has not known: scarce a city or town in the Union he has not visited; and no place he has visited whose people have not enjoyed greater mental freedom and a better understanding of this life and assurance of a future one from his having been with them.

As a worker in every reformatory movement, Mr. Chase's career has been almost phenomenal in persistency, efficiency and self-sacrifice. He has been a pioneer—a pathfinder in the wilderness of moss-grown superstitions and hide-bound dogmas, making the way clear for the army of freedom-loving men and women that was to follow and destroy it. For this reason this autobiography of his should find place in the home of every friend of human progress and spiritual enlightenment, and be valued as a monument to his memory and his work.

CONTENTS.

CHAPTER I. Internal and External Forebodings of Social, Political and Religious Convulsions, Personal and General, resulting in a Social Effort by the Author.
II. Birth of Spiritualism—Failure of Fourierism—Political Career Opened, and Sketches on the Path of Life by the Crooked and Tangled Line—The First Spiritual Paper, The Univercœlum, and its Objects Explained.
III. Early Work—Boston Investigator—Univercœlum, Spirit Messenger, and Early Workers, etc.
IV. Catalogue of Names and Short Biographical Notices of Early Workers and Persecutions.
V. A Brief and Brilliant Political Career.
VI. Threading my Way along the "Hard Road to Travel On"—Incidents and Events in the Path of Life.
VII. What I have learned from Forty Years' Intercourse with Spirits—Sexual Life in the Spirit-World—My Social, Political and Religious Creed, etc.
VIII. Extracts and Scraps of Correspondence running through Many Years, with Various and Progressive Ideas on Spirit-Life and Intercourse; with Scraps from my Scrap-book worth keeping and largely variegated.
IX. Poetical Selections from Various Sources, Personal and General—Good and Poor, but not Bad, greatly mixed, in Published and Unpublished Scraps.

The volume is embellished with a portrait of the author.

12mo, cloth, pp. 324. Price $1.00; postage 10 cents

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

JUST PUBLISHED!
THE SECRET SYMBOLS
OF THE ROSICRUCIANS
OF THE
Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries,
WITH A TREATISE ON THE Philosopher's Stone.
Translated from the German by
FRANZ HARTMANN, M. D.

The plates of the Secret Symbols, twenty-seven in number, have been colored by hand, exactly duplicating the originals which Dr. Hartmann secured during his researches among ancient MSS. and occult works in Germany.

Prof. Elliot Coues, F. T. S., writes in reference to the work as follows: "The publication is timely, and cannot fail to

MAY 31 1888

BANNER OF LIGHT.

AN EXPONENT OF THE SPIRITUAL PHILOSOPHY OF THE NINETEENTH C.

VOL. LXIII. | COLBY & RICH, Publishers and Proprietors. | BOSTON, SATURDAY, JUNE 2, 1888. | $3,00 Per Annum, Postage Free. | NO. 12.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

FIRST PAGE.—The Spiritual Rostrum: The Law of the Spirit and the Spirit of the Law. Poetry: Evening in the Forest. Spirit-Communication: "Man as he Was and Is."

SECOND PAGE.—Suppression of Vice. Banner Correspondence: Letters from New York, Oregon, Massachusetts, Arkansas, Connecticut, Michigan, and Indiana. Free Thought: A Definition. The Reviewer: Forty Years on the Spiritual Rostrum, etc.

THIRD PAGE.—Poetry: The Challenge. Spiritualist Alliance: Once More Injustice. Heredity. The Lyceum at Melbourne, Australia. Obituary Notices, etc.

FOURTH PAGE.—The Eruption of the Talmage Volcano. No Creed—No Leader. Sir Moses Montefiore—Jewish Charity. Renan's Last Book. Poisoning by Vaccination. More Profit-Sharing, etc.

FIFTH PAGE.—Talmage Excoriated. The Ultimate of the "Evil Spirit" Theory in the Past. Spiritualist Camp-Meetings for 1888. Movements of Mediums and Lecturers. New Advertisements, etc.

SIXTH PAGE.—Message Department: Questions Answered through the Mediumship of Miss M. T. Shelhamer; Spirit Messages given through the Mediumship of Mrs. B. F. Smith.

SEVENTH PAGE.—Spiritual Phenomena: Materializations at Mrs. Effie Moss's Cabinet. Spiritualist Meetings. Mediums in Boston. Book and Miscellaneous Advertisements.

EIGHTH PAGE.—All Sorts of Paragraphs. Spiritualist Meetings in Boston and Elsewhere. The Spiritualist Camp Meetings. In Re Mrs. Stoddard-Gray. Spiritualism a Religion. An Able Report. Our Confession of Faith, etc.

The Spiritual Rostrum.

The Law of the Spirit, and the Spirit of the Law.

A Discourse Delivered through the Trance Mediumship of

MRS. R. S. LILLIE,

Before the Spiritual Temple Society, in Berkeley Hall, Boston, Mass., Sunday Morning, Feb. 5th, 1888.

[Reported for the Banner of Light by Miss Ida L. Spalding.]

INVOCATION.

Ministering spirits of wisdom and love, ye who ever willingly turn earthward to direct our thoughts and to bear us richest blessings from your homes above, wend your way toward the land of mortals this morning, bearing that which shall open our intuition and understanding, and enlighten our spirits. Encased as we are in mortal forms, encumbered with many cares, bowed down by life's responsibilities and obligations, at the close of the six days of labor we turn toward the spirit and the spiritual, that we may refresh the inner man that ever gives strength to the outer as the builder thereof. Lift us above the care of mortal life into the realm of spirit, where we may drink from living fountains of wisdom and knowledge, and find that peace which cometh with an understanding of the truth. Receiving the thoughts given us as a blessing from you, we return you our thanksgiving now and evermore. Amen.

DISCOURSE.

Our subject this morning is "The Law of the Spirit, and the Spirit of the Law."

There is no height and no depth throughout the universe that is not permeated with a power, a something, call it what you like, that animates all living things. We find it as a controlling force alike in the blade of grass, the insect, and the planet. Mankind, recognizing this principle but not understanding it, have reared lofty temples and builded altars at which to worship this mystic power, and out of their different definitions of it have arisen all forms of religious belief. The Christians call it God. According to their formula God is a spirit, and they who worship him must worship in spirit and in truth. So far as we can understand the law of the spirit, it is that which man seeks to grasp, or reaches after, and yet does not control; it is the motor power of all life, and of his own soul as well, which, in his endeavors to understand, he can but indifferently comprehend at best.

As an element or power we will speak of it first. We believe it to be world-making, world-controlling, and form-producing, therefore creative in its elements and substance. We cannot shape or give form thereto with our puny, finite understandings, and whenever we attempt to do so we but show the measure of our own souls and not the measure of that which we seek to define. From time immemorial, however, man has endeavored to gain a comprehension of this principle, but wherever he has left his record, we find innumerable mistakes and but a faint glimmer of the infinite truth toward which he reached.

Incomprehensible and elusive, spirit yet contains all that is, all that was, and, we believe, all that ever shall be. To the forms which come into that state where we as forms may meet each other understandingly, we give the name of matter; and if we attempt to analyze this also, we find that it contains a problem almost as insolvable as that of spirit, for when the power or principle within it, which is the life and substance of it, is withdrawn, matter is left in such a condition that it immediately begins the round of change that belongs to it eternally. Whatsoever man has called this life-force, Father, Jehovah, Allah, or God, he means the same always—it is but his attempt, in the different stages of his spiritual unfoldment, to clothe his thought in reference to this power that we denominate spirit.

As we understand it, spirit is the law which produces and governs all things and gives variety of external expression; it is the power of life and energy, God, if you choose; it is the embodiment of all law, and matter or outer form is its expression, and, consequently, is subject to it. The law of the spirit, then, is the controlling law of this vast universe, or, in other words, is the law of God. The manifestations of life, from the least to the greatest, are but forms that spirit has assumed, the Spirit of God being the producing or creating power. Although we may find differences of opinion in regard to this principle, one denominating it one thing and another something else, is it not, nevertheless, true that in our endeavors to gain a comprehension of it we are all walking in the same direction?

What at the present time is denominated Modern Spiritualism recognizes the law of the Spirit, or the law of God, more fully than has any religious system of the past, because the light of to-day is greater than the light of the ages gone before, and because man's understanding is now sufficiently developed to enable him to grasp the truth in relation to the spirit. He no longer attempts to tell how his God looks or to give the measure and form thereof; but, looking forth into the realm of Nature, he accepts all things as the manifestation of His power, and then, his soul expanded and his spiritual perceptions quickened by the entertainment of this lofty conception of the Infinite, he rises in the grandeur of his manhood to praise and adore. This is the result of evolution. It was as natural for man, when controlled by the lower forces of his being and of nature, to bow the knee and worship in fear and trembling, as it now is for him to rise in the dignity of the grand truth that appeals to his understanding and unlifts his soul.

Great as is the light which material science has shed upon mankind, there is a line beyond which its rays cannot penetrate. Modern scientists are unable to lift the veil of materiality that hangs about them. Some are honestly acknowledging that they have found the unanswerable. Some of them have said, "This may be the spirit, as a force or substance, that so many are talking about. It may be that we shall find a law of nature by-and-bye that will interpret it." Such minds as Zöllner, Crookes, Wallace and others, have stood in the presence of this power humble as children, and admitted that it is the spirit, the same creative, form-producing power, which, throughout the limitless ages, has wrought the various forms, worlds and systems of which we are now, and man in the past has been, cognizant. Aside from this acknowledgment on the part of a few of the learned ones of the present, there are experiences taking place with a vast number of human beings scattered over the entire earth, especially among the civilized nations, which, together with the latter-day interpretation of the power producing them, constitute the movement known as Modern Spiritualism. From the humble home at Hydesville, where it had its birth, it has spread all over the globe, until in every land the story of the angels' visitation has been told.

In every instance Spiritualism takes the place of the former religion of the individual who accepts it as a truth. That devout Methodist mother, startled by what she had received through the mediumship of her children, prayed constantly, day and night, for guidance, holding reverently to her church and creed, until she became so illumined with the truth that at last the church naturally receded from her, not she from the church. It was a growth into a knowledge of the truth, and its acceptance brought a blessing not alone to her own home, but to thousands and hundreds of thousands of other homes. It answered that most important question that mankind, through all the ages of the past, have never ceased to ask: "If a man die, shall he live again?" and it answered it so satisfactorily that they became convinced that God is not the being they believed him to be; that he has not the attributes they ascribed to him; but that he is the Spirit of Life, Wisdom, Energy and Power everywhere apparent.

With the acceptance of this belief there comes more or less of a conflict in the mind of the receiver. You have a cabinet of what has been held by you as valuables—texts, creeds, dogmas, man's assertions as to what God is, where he is, what he has done, what he has said. This cabinet of treasures is a legacy from the past, an inheritance from your forefathers. Your parents handed it to you with tears in their eyes, and earnestly prayed you to accept it and jealously guard it. Tender associations cling to it, sacred memories cluster about it, and the human heart, with its strong, filial emotions, reverences it. You ask: "What is true?" Satisfied of the identity of the loved ones gone before, who now return to you, you ask them, "What was your experience? whom did you meet? did you see God, or his Son, Jesus?" and the answer that has always been given is: "God is the infinite, unperceived Spirit of Life; we are finite; we do not meet God personally; we meet but the works of the Infinite, which we believe to be the works of God; we find no avenging personage, no frowning countenance, no angry hand uplifted against us, and no place of torture or punishment that our own deeds have not prepared for us."

With this message from sincere investigators on the other side of life, pause a moment and look at these treasures of the past, handed down to you, it is true, in all honesty of purpose. What are they? Chapters from the Bible of the ages; a record of angelic messages given to your forepatents thousands of years ago, when the conviction of mind was such that the truth could not be presented as it has been presented to you. Their spiritual nature had not evolved to any extent, consequently they ascribed to the Deity the attributes of their own undeveloped nature. When they saw the lurid lightning and heard the thunder crash, they thought God was angry, and sought to appease his wrath with offerings. They had not learned to subdue their passions, for he who cultivates the nobler manhood within will never believe that God is a being to be pacified with a gift when all is his, even the hand that brings the offering.

With this interpretation of the Infinite Spirit there has come up a new sect, as it is sometimes called, but it is the purpose of every wise returning spirit to prevent crystallization into a form which shall make one more, with its vast divisions, of these large religious bodies. It differs essentially from those which have preceded it with this latter-day interpretation, and yet there is not one of them that has not had the same or similar manifestations, that has not had spiritual experiences, and that is not in reality the outgrowth of the law of the spirit which is ever working upon man and producing these results physically, mentally and spiritually. The more a man has grown and outgrown what he was, the clearer his mind and perception, the finer his judgment concerning the Infinite, the future state of the soul, its rewards, punishments, etc.

This truth, as we said in the beginning, takes the place of religion, or what has been previously held as such by all who accept it; and more than this, it solves problems that material science has not been able to solve. That which scientists have been unable to name with certainty, it designates with positiveness as the spirit. It teaches you how to establish a line of communication between yourselves and your loved ones in a more refined realm of being, the realm of the spirit; hence it is a science. Again, it gives you as much of a code of the laws controlling life as the human mind is capable of grasping understandingly, and a set of rules by which to govern your conduct during your earthly pilgrimage; therefore it is a philosophy or an exposition of the law. It comes in conflict with, and opposition to, previously conceived opinions and fixed ideas in reference to spiritual matters, or rather religious matters. It comes more directly in conflict with the dogmatic part of religion, which is its externalism, and which consists of creeds, assumptions, assertions and conclusions unsustained by proof other than that afforded by the Bible. This is handed you as the only true word of the only true God, and you are told that in it may be found all that is necessary to guide you in your life. You take it to look it over, find contradictions here and there, and you begin to make queries, but you are instantly hushed, and told that you must not ask questions. As a reasoning being you are naturally unsatisfied. These communications from your loved ones are in opposition to some of its teachings, but as a rule they conform to the best part of them. Those who have in their keeping the Bible and the Church, finding that the spirit-world opposes their creeds and dogmatic assertions, violently assail us. They have tried in every way, and turned in every direction, in the hope of crushing this movement, and at last have resorted to the law. What is the spirit of the law which they would have passed? It is the spirit of tyranny, oppression and persecution which in the past caused the blood of martyrs to flow, but which in the nineteenth century cannot take that course, for the minds of so many are too far advanced, and though they may not be Spiritualists, they are liberal in their views. Even as Christians, some of them accept the broadest interpretation of our Constitution, which asserts that man shall be free to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience.

Spiritualism is governed by the higher law, which is the law of the spirit, and not the spirit of the law as some would interpret it. We would say to you as Spiritualists, There is work for you to do. Open your eyes and behold what is taking place about you! How many States in the Union have passed, or are endeavoring to pass, laws restricting the practice of medicine to graduates of colleges, which laws are in direct opposition to the spirit of the Constitution? I take up my Bible and I read: "These signs shall follow them that believe, . . . they shall lay hands on the sick and they shall recover." This, then, is being done by Bible-reading communities in a land of Christians! They lay aside their Bibles Monday morning, and, hastening to their legislative halls, seek to make enactments in the interests of a selfish class of practitioners, or, if not doing so themselves, they allow others to do so, when if they believed in the religion taught by Jesus while on earth, they would as "believers" lay hands on the sick and heal them, even as do the Spiritualists of to-day.

Thus far you have been able to successfully oppose this measure in Massachusetts, but in many other States, through the apathy of the liberal-minded, it has been carried into effect. Even here, however, you have need of much watchfulness to guard your rights, for we find a petition before the Judiciary Committee of your Legislature to provide a Bill for the punishment of those detected in palming off fraudulent physical manifestations for genuine, but which, when once enacted, may be used against honest mediums for this class of phenomena.* We have the true and the false; but remember those who are false are human beings, gifted at times it may be, and we believe at times they are, with the genuine power of mediumship. Outside of this class there are bold, unscrupulous pretenders, who, in the name of Spiritualism, seek to deceive the public with spurious manifestations; but, I affirm, a law that provides for the punishment of a fraudulent minister in the Church is good enough to use in meting out justice to the fraudulent minister in our ranks. We appeal to you upon the earthly plane to work discreetly and wisely, for, we repeat, a law intended to reach only those pretending mediumship will be so construed that it will be made capable of reaching mediums who need our protection and the protection of the law. If the laws now in force are not stringent enough, we bid you beware how they are made more stringent, for there is more danger in this direction than in the other. We believe that the law of the spirit will and must control, and that the law of Spiritualism, which is the law of the spirit, is sufficient to adequately deal with all pretenders and evil-doers within our ranks. This is the place where they should be met and dealt with, for the law of the land, as you well know, is capable of misconstruction, and in the cases of this kind that you have seen tried, a little technicality instead of truth has been able to turn the scales of justice. Spiritualism, or the law of the spirit, is sufficient in itself to right these matters.

Spiritualism is a religion, and whatever law is enacted must be subject to the Constitution that protects you as religionists, whether or not it does as scientists, investigators or experimentalists. Spiritualism is your religion, your mediums are your priests and priestesses, through whom you communicate with those gone before, and your legislators have no more right to lay the hand of violent oppression upon them than they have upon any minister of the gospel. If on Sunday a minister preaches purity, virtue, integrity and uprightness, and during the week commits fraud, theft or perjury, he lays himself liable to the law as do our own offenders. During the past forty years Spiritualism has passed through experiences which prove it capable of taking care of itself. We do not believe that it needs any special laws any more than we believe that Christianity does. You should not permit laws to be enacted that, in their application to religious bodies, may be used as a means of venting the spite of any petty tyrant upon his fellowmen.

See what Spiritualism has done during its brief career! It has grappled with every problem of life; it has dealt with every subject of vital importance that has come before the public; its advocates have attacked every evil of the age and been foremost in every reform. It has had attached to it much that had nothing whatever to do with its real philosophy. If a "crank" called himself a Spiritualist, Spiritualism had to bear the burden of his folly; if he called himself a Christian, then Christianity was pointed at derisively. By-and-bye, however, those who attach themselves to the spiritualistic car as it moves onward will, like the little boys and girls you see attaching themselves to the back or sides of a passing vehicle for a sleigh-ride, drop off one by one when they get tired of hanging on. Burdened by unjust laws, this car of Spiritualism will move on through the States of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Iowa and Minnesota, through the states of Sin and Misery even, until it emerges into the state of Perfection, having at last thrown off these encumbrances and gathered in their place new forces and powers.

Let us shout and be exceeding glad that our Spiritualism has within itself that power of spirit and the law of the spirit that conquers difficulties, overcomes obstacles, molds, shapes and fashions all with which it comes in contact, and it will so mold the thought of this century that eventually there will not be enough bigots in any Legislature to pass so unjust a law, one covertly designed to defraud honest people of their rights, as it has been proposed that your legislators shall enact. By-and-bye some one will read their Bible to those who have allowed their prejudices to destroy the brotherly love they should bear one another, and they will be surprised; for they have so long a time turned over its pages as so much rubbish that they have really forgotten the kernel of truth there is in it; but the Revelator of Spiritualism will show them that we are kin—brothers and sisters all—under the spirit of the law which is the law of God.

*This effort of the opponents of Spiritualism was signally defeated shortly after the delivery of this lecture, by a report of the Committee that it was inexpedient to enact a law of the kind proposed.—ED.

For the Banner of Light.

EVENING IN THE FOREST.

BY GENA SMITH FAIRFIELD.

Mantled in purple mists, the mountain
In silence sleeps,
While an entrancing, solemn sweetness
O'er all things creeps.

The dreaming streamlet softly murmurs
To shaded shores,
And night dews kiss the blossoms starring
Their mossy floors.

The swaying leaves have lulled to slumber
The happy birds,
And nothing but a breeze's whisper
The calm disturbs.

And over all a blue arch, studded
With many a gem
In beauty, for earth nightly fashions
A diadem.

Enchanting hour of dusky evening,
Sleep, prayer and thought,
From out thy influence so holy
Are sweetly wrought;

And angels seem to float around me,
Shapes of delight,
Who charm my ear with silvery music,
My eyes with light.

My thoughts chime with a thousand others
In harmony;
The universe seems one grand spirit
Of unity.

On Heaven's broad and loving bosom
Earth rests her head,
While God's most tender benediction
On both is shed.

Rockland, Me.

Recent returns give the population of the Russian Empire as 108,787,235. European Russia has 81,725,185; the Vistula region, 7,900,304; Finland, 2,176,421; the Caucasus, 7,284,547; Siberia, 4,313,680; and Central Asia, 5,327,098. A big country. No wonder England fears it.

Spirit-Communication.

"Man as He Was and Is."

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

I herewith send you a communication titled as above, and written by a spirit giving the name of "Dr. John Mansfield," in May, 1855, through the hand of Dr. A. H. Griswold, then quite a young man, who has long since passed to his spirit-home. There are some things in the message quite interesting and far in advance of the prevailing ideas at the time it was written. It will be noticed that the Darwinian ideas are presented.

Fraternally thine, M. W. COMSTOCK.

Niantic, Ct., 1888.

When man was first created he was not pure, as many think, but he possessed a nature capable of being developed to a degree as to know that he was above the brutes around him, and this was all. What an advancement has been made! From what little beginnings a great superstructure has arisen, and all is yet in its infancy. When mankind made the discovery that they were superior to the brutes around them, they began to exercise authority over them; that was the first attempt toward aggrandizement, and since then mankind have steadily increased in knowledge and power. But man's first step toward spiritual development was much later; for a long time he did not ever suspect that he should live after his earth-life was ended, but when the first rays of that truth dawned upon him, new energy was imparted to his nature. It was the simplicity of his nature that prompted him to worship everything that appeared mysterious to him, yet he did not worship those things for any good that he thought they might do him, but from desire to know of the being he supposed they represented. Then mankind first desired knowledge, and then purity as they understood it, and so it has ever been. When a child first commences to think, it is for knowledge, and till that is in some measure supplied, he does not aspire after purity.

Mankind, like children, first desire to know who made them and how they were made, and that has been the great question even to the present day. Some suppose that God by the word of his mouth spoke mankind into being; and this is far the largest class. Another class supposes that all things took place by chance; this class is small; but there is another class still, one that supposes all things took place according to law; that man and all created things were produced by nature's unfoldings, and all according to the immutable laws of God. This is the only one that has truth on its side, and it is eternal truth, for God did so produce all things. This great principle is to be established first, for till mankind start on a true basis their conclusions will continue to be false. Were there no God there could be no man, and if there were no man there could be no spirit-world; and if there were no spirit-worlds there would be no need of man's improvement, for this would be his only existence and he would have no need for a more elevated condition than the brutes now enjoy.

God works by means, is an old truth, but mankind only receive it when it suits their convenience. If God works by means in one instance he does in all, and if not in one, then all is done by his word. Thus you must see that were God to do every little thing by a direct interposition of his will, all would be dependent on him; but it is not so; he does not operate by the direct force of his will, but through laws, as various as are the things created. Were not God to impart to those laws effective force they would be of no value; but when they were first instituted they were endowed with power to carry out these ends. Thus the law of development was endowed with the power of reproducing in a higher condition each separate germ.

This law of progress has operated through all past time. The first germ of mineral life was perfected and transformed into a higher life, namely, vegetable, but of the lowest kind. Then the same law, operating on vegetable, developed it to the animal, perfected it through a long succession of ages till it assumed the lowest type of man. Once again this law of progress was made active in developing this low type of man; and it does not stop on this sphere, but operates the same in spirit-life, and will operate till all men are made perfect.

It has been considered by opponents of the law of progress that it was fatal to God's supremacy, but it is not so; God works by the laws he has instituted, and those laws are immutable; were they not, there could be no harmony between them, but perfect harmony exists in all their operations. The thunder-storm is no less an operation of certain laws than the opening of a flower, or the singing of a bird; but mankind mourn and pray to God to protect them from the lightning, when in fact God is present in the lightning as in the flower, nor would he make inoperative the law that produces either to relieve man's fears or suffering. Should he do so, what might be the consequence? A world stop in its course for man's comfort? No! It is folly to suppose that God would, could he; but he cannot alter one of his laws, for doing so would imply imperfection, and that is impossible. Were imperfection in God possible, there would be no certainty that the earth would roll on its course another day.

But to return to the subject I am treating: It has been produced as a seeming argument against this law of progress, that, were it true, new forms would be constantly assuming shape and that new races would arise here and there over the earth's surface. The folly of this argument lies in a misunderstanding of this beautiful law. When once a being, animate or inanimate, is developed so as to be a type of its kind, the law that produced it ceases to act and a new one takes its place, more beautiful and better suited for its purpose. There are different races of men on this earth, but the law of progress did not make them, neither will it ever make another. This diversity of appearance is occasioned by the different circumstances under which they were developed. It must be kept in mind that, during the early development of the race, many ages elapsed even before they knew that they possessed powers above the brutes around them. During this time men became separated, scattering hither and thither over the face of the earth, and the circumstances attending their development were very different, and differently affected them. This is the cause of the great diversity of nations among men. Were it not for this diversity of appearance there would be no diversity of intellect; all would be nearly on one plane as regards their spiritual development. When all become of like purity those diversities will very much diminish, but never entirely cease to exist, for they are indications of separate individuality which must eternally re main in order for each man to be a personality, separate and distinct from his fellows.

Why is there such a diversity between the Caucasian and African races? The cause is this: When the inhabitants of this earth were in their infancy all were alike ignorant and undeveloped. (I do not wish to be understood as saying that there was no difference in their abilities.) Not one of them knew why he had an existence, or even supposed he possessed a spiritual nature. (It should be borne in mind that the southern part of Asia was the birthplace of the races.) At this time emigration began, and some went North, others South and West. The nation from which the Caucasian race (as it is called) sprung was the first to migrate. They settled first in the western part of Asia; there they remained for many generations, but that was not to be their abiding-place. Again they marched westward, and their next abode was on the borders of the Red Sea. Here they did not remain long; soon they commenced to separate; some left for the northern regions of Europe, and others for the northern and eastern parts of Asia; the remainder passed to the southern part of Europe bordering on the Mediterranean Sea, and from this portion sprung the race which were antecedent to the Greeks, and from which they sprung. The branch from which the present inhabitants of the United States sprung settled in the middle and western part of Europe, and were a part of the same family that settled the shores of the Mediterranean. They were the progenitors of the Celtic race, who subsequently settled England, all the British Isles, as well as France, and other European States. The other branch started southerly, and finally peopled Africa. This branch first settled in what is now a part of Asia Minor. From there they crossed to Egypt, and thence they sent forth branches that peopled various parts of Northern Africa, and south, along the eastern shore of the Atlantic. In Egypt they advanced rapidly, and soon exceeded all other nations of the earth in knowledge and skill; but they have passed away, and nations that were then unborn are now far superior, spiritually and mentally, but not bodily, to them.

The difference now so apparent, for ages did not exist, and it is mostly occasioned by the peculiarities of climate under which they were developed. When mankind learn to read aright the history of the world they will see that all these seeming inconsistencies are but developments effected by certain unchangeable laws; and what now seems contradictory will then seem plain and simple. Thus it was with me when I entered spirit-life, but from a long study of earth's history, I have learned to read its secret workings and trace the rise and fall of nations that existed more than 60,000 years ago. Not much beyond that period could I find reliable traces of man. He previously existed, but his condition was so low that it was impossible for him to transmit a knowledge of it to succeeding generations.

While man was in that low condition he did not perceive the workings that were constantly taking place around him, workings wonderful to the imaginings of us at the present day. How much greater than even thought can conceive of must have been those wonderful revolutions — those that threw up lofty mountains and sunk mighty continents, yet men coëxistent with them viewed them with no eye of interest, for they had no mind to take cognizance of those mighty events. Yet they expressed no fear if they showed no interest, for they were alike incapable of both fear and interest. When they first began to reflect, they supposed that the earth was alive, and these wonders occasioned by the animal's excessive sufferings. Soon they made an improvement on that idea: they next supposed it was on account of his anger toward them; and this they soon changed for a still higher idea, namely, that it was a monster on whose back they supposed they resided.

Thus you see from what small commencement this wonderful superstructure, whose maker and builder is God, has arisen. When all mankind become of one degree of spirituality, then will take place a new series of events, but that will not occur for many thousands of years. All in the spirit-world and all on earth must first become like the Nazarene, pure and holy. Then a new creation shall take place. The old shall have been transformed into spirit-life ere this grand event takes place, for it is to take the place of this. Why is it that mankind cannot see the truth? It is because they love old things and bear a reverence for them. They do not wish for knowledge if it does not come in old vessels. They cannot see that truth is ever new and fresh and cannot be confined between boards or leaves. The knowledge of to-day is not the food of man, only so far as it is suited to sustain his spiritual nature. But most of mankind look for their sustenance in old decayed and musty lessons of the past. They care not for the fresh nourishing food that is every day placed before them, and this is why they do not become wiser and better; and so long as they thus feed, so long will they look like skeletons — yes, spiritual skeletons.

Suppression of Vice.

ANTHONY COMSTOCK BEFORE A HOUSE SUB-COMMITTEE, MAY 17TH, 1888.

The Law to Prevent the Circulation of Obscene Matter in the Mails Discussed—Mr. Comstock's Methods Opposed and Defended.

The bill to repeal that section of the Revised Statutes under which Anthony Comstock and the Society for the suppression of Vice exercise authority to prevent the circulation of obscene matter through the mails, was taken up by a sub-committee of the House Committee on post-offices and post-roads to-day. Parties representing both sides of the question were heard. Much feeling was shown in the discussion. Mr. J. B. Wolff and Mr. A. E. Giles of Hyde Park, Mass., spoke in favor of the repeal of the law. Mr. Wolff declared that the law was opposed to the institutions of this Government, and was vicious and cruel in practice. He held that it was the function of the several States to exercise the moral police functions. The law was a wrong to suppress a wrong, and failed in its purpose. Morality must come by education and not by force. He held that it was not in the law to declare what was improper in its character.

Mr. Giles said that he believed in the eradication of vice, whereas this law aimed merely to suppress the external signs of vice, the action resulting in more repulsive immorality. He characterized the action of Mr. Comstock and his society as cruel and full of deception.

MR. COMSTOCK'S REPLY.

Mr. Comstock replied to both speeches, defending the law and himself, and showing by example the necessity for the law and the good that has been accomplished by its enforcement. In speaking of the attacks upon and misrepresentations of him by his "Infidel, free-thinking and free-love" assailants, he referred to Mr. Giles as a graduate of free-love conventions.

Mr. Giles said this was untrue.

"It is not untrue!" emphatically declared Mr. Comstock.

The committee interfered to prevent further personality.

Mr. Comstock said that circulars for immoral purposes were sent into female schools. He said that it had been many years, before this Society began its work, an organized business to distribute corrupting literature and vicious contrivances among young people. He said that the Society had fifty tons weight of criminal circulars, etc. Four thousand people were engaged in this work.

Rev. Mr. Hensen, of Chicago, followed Mr. Comstock in defense of the law, pleading for it in the interest of Christian morality.—Washington Evening Star.

"If a Man Die, Shall He Live Again?"

The world-wide reputation of Prof. Alfred R. Wallace as one in the foremost ranks of scientists imparts an added strength and value to the clear elucidation and masterly advocacy of the truths of Spiritualism given by him in his lecture having for its theme "If a Man Die, Shall He Live Again?" published in a pamphlet of twenty-four pages by Colby & Rich, and supplied at the very low rate of 5 cents a single copy, thirteen for 50 cents, or thirty for $1,00. Let it do its work; buy it and circulate it.

Banner Correspondence.

New York.

BUFFALO.—Willard J. Hull writes: "The cause of Spiritualism in this city has received a fresh impetus by the presence of Dr. Henry Slade, upon whose brow rests serenely the many triumphs it has been his portion to witness and enjoy through his own instrumentality in the field of Truth versus Bigotry and Ignorance.

It seemed a fitting close to a prosperous season of intellectual achievement, that this gifted gentleman should be our guest, and by the excellence of his medial powers demonstrate to all who might choose to avail themselves of the opportunity, the fact of intelligent intercommunion between the world of spirit and this rudimentary existence; and I am glad to say that a goodly number visited him, and obtained a glimpse of the power of spirit upon matter.

As a lecturer Dr. Slade is intensely interesting, and in the three discourses he delivered from our platform, proved himself an adept in the art of narration.

It was my good fortune to enjoy a sitting with him, and I feel that a word of testimony is always acceptable; furthermore I believe that the prime duty of the investigator in whatever department of Nature's domain he may penetrate, is acknowledgment and avowal of the truth; hence this communication.

Upon viewing the manifestations taking place in the presence of such an instrument, there comes the thought that we are indeed upon the very outer boundary of a world we little reck of, and that amid the busy and changing scenes of every-day life, there are unseen intelligences at work, whose potency in a great measure molds the affairs of men and shapes the destiny of nations.

Accompanied by my wife, I called upon Dr. Slade, taking with me three new slates. The room was well lighted, the time being the middle of the afternoon. In the center of the room stood a common table, perhaps four feet square. Dr. Slade took his seat at one side of it, at the same time holding one of the slates in his right hand; but before I could think what might occur, the slate shivered to pieces in his hand; not only the slate but the frame was broken into splinters and fell upon the floor. Following this the medium placed his fingers lightly upon the back of my wife's chair, when instantly chair and lady rose from the floor a foot and a half, poised a moment, gently declined to within two inches of the floor, and dropped heavily. While this manifestation was taking place a chair standing near the table, but at least five feet from the medium, moved backward, and tipped over with a crash, but was immediately righted, and again tipped over; simultaneously, loud raps were heard on the table and other articles of furniture. The spirit then signified a willingness to write, and the medium took the remaining two slates, placed a fragment of pencil between them, and held them against my wife's shoulder, his left hand resting upon my own. Immediately the sound of the pencil was heard, and upon opening the slates one side of the lower one was covered with writing which, upon examination, proved to be a communication from my wife's sister, signed with her initials. I then took a book of perhaps two hundred pages from a stand near by, and placed it on the slate; but before the medium had moved the articles from the table the book had vanished, nothing could be seen of it, and it could not be found in the room. After an interval of a minute the book as mysteriously reappeared upon the slate. This ended what, in many respects, were the most remarkable phenomena I ever witnessed.

Dr. Slade's powers do not appear to have diminished with age, and he bids fair to remain for some years to come a valuable instrument in the dissemination of the truths of Spiritualism, a subject in comparison with which all others sink into insignificance."

GLENS FALLS.—M. G. R. writes: "Bishop A. Beals closed a three weeks' engagement with the First Society of Spiritualists of this place, on Sunday, May 20th, going from here to other fields of labor. That success may follow him is the wish of his many friends in this community. His lectures here have been deep, broad, logical and eloquent. His vocal and instrumental music added much to the interest and success of our meetings."

FARMERSVILLE STATION.—William Henry addresses the following as "AN OPEN LETTER TO REV. T. DEWITT TALMAGE": "What you said in a recent sermon of Spiritualism and Spiritualists is so contrary to the sentiments of one recently delivered by you on 'Bigotry,' and another on 'Scandal,' that I can only charitably hope you had forgotten them; forgotten the thirteenth chapter of Corinthians, and forgotten, or never read, Mr. Lincoln's memorable words: 'With charity for all, with malice toward none.' My wife and I, who have lived happily together for nearly half a century, and have been Spiritualists thirty-three years, feel that your assertions are extremely uncharitable. We will not charge you with willful misrepresentation, but believe you lack proof of your accusations; and according to your own statement, no man has a right to pronounce others impostors, vicious, insane or demented without the best of proof. Is it possible you have the proof that nine hundred and ninety-nine out of one thousand belong to the above classes? We have mingled freely with Spiritualists for over thirty years; attended their ordinary meetings, conventions and camp-meetings, and have not only usually been edified, comforted and confirmed in our belief, but feel justified in saying the great mass are among the most earnest, independent, sincere and virtuous people we have met anywhere. We have children and grandchildren of both sexes. Thank God none of them are vicious or drunkards. Not only is this true of our family, but the same may be said of two sisters' families who were raised under the influence of Spiritualism. We could say the same of many other families. For ourselves we would make no protest. But in this age of toleration and charity we think it too hard for our children and grandchildren to be scandalized, and taught to look upon their parents as tricksters, or the victims of such. The only words we can find appropriate to say to you are, if you knew how many hearts have been saddened by your accusations—how many who were already nearly crushed by the loneliness, sorrow and other burdens every reformer has to bear—you would, like Peter, 'Go and weep bitterly,' and feel it would be a relief to be crucified, as Peter was, head downward, as a partial penance for the cruel injustice you have done a holy cause, and many self-sacrificing apostles and prophets."

Oregon.

PORTLAND.—C. A. Reed writes: "We are having a revival in Spiritualism on account of the advent among us of Mrs. Ladd Finegan of San Francisco. She was brought up from a child here, and has always resided in Oregon until within a few years past. I knew her as a remarkable medium when only about fourteen years of age. I remember one incident in her mediumship which at the time created no little interest: A man had been missing for many months. None knew his fate, but suspicion was rife that foul play had been at work. A few persons concluded to consult the young medium, 'Miss Knott,' as she was called at the time; she revealed the fact that the man had been murdered and his body thrown into the Willamette River, and that a portion of the money was buried in a certain low piece of ground just south of the then city limits; she also described the parties who committed the deed. Search was made for the hidden treasure, and it was found just where she had said it was. But some of the parties were so injudicious as to give the description of the men who did the deed, so that they fled the country and made their escape. This was some twenty-five years ago, but the medium still lives and has developed from one stage to another, until, as a platform test-medium, she has few equals, and I think I can say no superiors.

Her private séances are very fine. A few evenings ago I was privileged to be present at one; I think there were some fifteen persons present, nearly each one of whom received a message from the unseen world, proving that their dead still live. But the best of the wine (figuratively speaking) was reserved for the last of the feast. A middle-aged lady present, of English birth, who, it seems, had had a very eventful life, drew the spiritual vision of the medium to her, when such a revealment commenced as seldom occurs. Father, mother, sisters, brothers, husband, children, seemed to vie with each other in their eagerness to be recognized, when the lady remarked, 'How wonderful! Will the spirits now tell me something that will convince me beyond a possibility of doubt?' The medium said: 'I see a burning building, many stories in height. The fire is well under way; many seem gazing at the upper windows of the burning structure. A sash is thrown up; a woman appears at the window, wringing her hands in agony, and seems looking for some means of escape. The ladder is many feet beyond her reach; if she throws herself from the window it is certain death. She hesitates; the flames burst through the roof, which goes down with a crash. The woman throws up her hands, shrieks and falls backward into the flames and is gone!' 'My Lord and my God!' said the lady; 'my sister, my sister! No person in this country knew of her tragical death but myself. I never mentioned it to a living soul; I will doubt no more.' Then the cremated, translated sister came and poured the balm of comfort into her distressed and bleeding soul, assuring her there is no death.

One day last week I took to her (the medium's) son's residence, a man recently from Michigan, an entire stranger to us both. I was invited to remain at the séance, and was well repaid, for such a revealment from the spirit-world seldom occurs, proof-positive that we are an open book from whose pages can be read every act of our lives. 'Spencer,' one of her controls, then entranced her, when the future of our stranger friend was mapped out most graphically, which, if truly done, you will hear from him in the spiritual vineyard, and that at no distant day. Mrs. Ladd Finegan is certainly a most wonderful medium."

Massachusetts.

SPRINGFIELD.—"T. M. H." writes: "Sunday, May 20th, our platform was occupied by Mr. A. A. Wheelock, as it has been for the past seven weeks, and the increasing interest and attendance at our meetings testify to the good work he is doing among us. His logical, instructive and eloquent lectures are highly appreciated. His subjects are generally a little out of the routine of most speakers, full of interest, and forcibly presented.

On the 26th his subjects were handled in his usual forcible and eloquent manner, showing the difference between the 'old doctrines' and 'the new and better way,' the theme having been suggested to Mr. Wheelock's guides by an editorial in the Republican on 'The Good Old Doctrines,' and they paid a very high compliment to that 'excellent journal' for the fearless manner in which it commented on a sermon delivered in the 'good old days of 1666,' when the ministers preached from the pulpit the 'doctrines of damnation,' etc., by Rev. Thomas Vincent, of Maudlines, Milk street, London, extracts of which it printed and severely criticised.

Mrs. F. K. Rich, of Boston, has given tests and descriptions of spirit presence at the close of the lectures for the past two Sundays, which were excellent and convincing, and have given general satisfaction. All speak of her and her mediumship in terms of highest commendation.

The Springfield press has favorably noticed Mrs. Rich, and without exception has spoken favorably of her mediumship. She should be kept in constant employment."

WINCHENDON.—Mrs. E. M. Perry writes: "J. Frank Baxter was with us in this conservative town, Sunday afternoon and evening, May 13th. The audience in the evening was large, taking into consideration the clouds and rain and the sentiments of the people. Mr. Baxter gave fearless utterance to his views, and related some of his remarkable experiences, at the same time saying that many people would be rather skeptical in regard to some of the incidents which he related. He said: 'It would be natural for you to doubt some of these things; but please remember that I was there, and I know.'

In the evening he took for his subject: 'Spiritualism; is it of God or the Devil? Biblical or non-Scriptural? Jesus-taught or anti-Christ? Reasonable or Absurd?' He quoted the sentiments of noted preachers on the subject, and brought forward many Bible passages to sustain his position. It is my impression that some people heard parts of the Bible which were new to them. One remark he made is more than worthy of note. It was this: 'Ridicule is a potent weapon to the weak, and a weak weapon to the wise.'

At the close of the lecture Mr. Baxter gave about a dozen names and short descriptions, all of which I understand were recognized—although not publicly. The ancient, time-worn, moss-grown speech was made by skeptics: 'Oh! well, the Spiritualists have visited the cemeteries and posted Baxter!' What profundity, what wisdom, what depth of thought is displayed in such a sentence! In the minds of those who speak it, it probes the height, depth and breadth of the theme of Spiritualism, and exposes all mediums. Well it is for mortals that they are given an eternity in which to grow; for society in the spirit-world would be very tame did all its members stand on that basis of thought.(?)

We believers in this town intend to 'put our shoulders to the wheel,' and not only secure the services of Mr. Baxter again, but also those of other lecturers and mediums."

BOSTON.—A correspondent writes: "Two level-headed, intelligent business men have become blessed with spiritual gifts, and recently they visited a house in another city, where a private medium was holding a séance. They were entire strangers in the place and to all present at the séance with the exception of the writer; one of them was controlled to give a very satisfactory communication to the medium, teeming with practical instruction, and while the séance was in progress the other gentleman saw, as he declared, as many as twenty-five different spirits, one of whom he described as a lady with but one eye. The lady of the house said a person of the description given resided in the house before she purchased it, a long time previous. No one acquainted with them would question the standing of these men for truth and veracity. Hence no question can arise as to the verity of the statements of either, that they actually saw what they said they did, or that the spirit described was really the former occupant of the house—the opinion of Talmage that it was a demon instead to the contrary notwithstanding."

Arkansas.

VAN BUREN.—Jesse Turner, Jr., sends us the advertising sheet of "Prof. Charles and Mrs. Martha E. Steen of London, Eng.," who announce themselves as "The Originals, No Peers in Their Line," "Assisted by Five of the Most Wonderful Mediums ever seen on any Public Stage, producing Materialization of Spirit-Forms in full gaslight," of whom he writes as follows: "When they first came here we were led to believe they were reliable mediums. We have been woefully disappointed. I think they may be clairvoyant, but their extravagant pretensions to materializing mediumship are without the slightest foundation in truth. They usually exhibit two nights at a place, their first night consisting of rather clever performances in mind-reading, promising their wonderful manifestations in Spiritualism proper, that is, materialization, slate-writing, communications, the medium floating in mid-air surrounded by a bevy of spirits, the spirits to be seen, recognized and talked with by their friends, in full gaslight—on the second night. When the second night comes and the audience is waiting in wonder for the astonishing manifestations promised, Prof. Steen appears and delivers an address, apologizing for a failure to come up to his advertisement, and postponing the exhibition for about ten days, when, after taking a little circuit around the country, they will be back to hold developing circles, exhibit all their materializing wonders and fill their bill. They never come back.

Steen in his address, while here, claimed that himself and wife were Spiritualists; indeed, that they were about the only genuine Spiritualists in the world; had a great deal to say against cabinets and dark circles, and claimed to be the only materializing mediums in the world who materialized on the rostrum in broad gaslight without cabinet or other appliances. This Prof. Steen and his wife, while denouncing mediums as false and fraudulent, are base pretenders who cannot do, and never attempt to do, what they assure the people they will do. Such characters ought to be exposed from the housetop. They are doing Spiritualism more injury than all other causes put together."

[The "Prof. Steen" and the "Martha E. Steen" alluded to above are wholly unknown in the ranks of Spiritualism. Several passages on their show-bill sent us are word for word the same as on one sent out by Annie Eva Fay, on which she is announced as "Just from London with three of the best mediums in the world." The points of identity throughout are very marked.—Ed. B. of L.]

Connecticut.

NORWICH.—A correspondent puts us in possession of the following: "The Spiritual Union closed its fifth year's services in Grand Army Hall, Sunday, May 20th, with special ceremonies. The afternoon was devoted to memorial services for those who have passed to spirit-life within the year. On a memorial tablet formed of a thousand mountain daisies, fringed with smilax and bright-faced pansies, was wrought in purple immortelles in gothic letters the names of 'S. B. Swan,' 'L. N. Taber,' 'E. W. Hull,' 'N. B. Dean,' and 'Charles Denison.' A handsome cross of apple-blossoms, baskets of cut flowers, and bouquets of calla lilies, magnolia blossoms and other flowers adorned the platform, desk and chandeliers.

Music was furnished under the direction of Miss Kate Taber, who presided at the organ, by a double quartette. Miss Jennie Culver sang solos both in the afternoon and evening with clear enunciation, and a most finished and pleasing expression.

Mr. Fletcher spoke to large audiences during the day. His afternoon theme was 'Death as Viewed by Orthodoxy and by Spiritualism.' In the evening Mr. Fletcher paid his respects trenchantly and conclusively to 'The Critics of Spiritualism,' among whom he noted Dr. Talmage of New York, the Rev. Mr. Gordon of Boston and the Rev. Mr. Mills of Newburyport, Mass.

The Spiritual Union's fifth year has been its best, and it shows steady growth. Large audiences have been the rule."

SOUTH NORWALK.—S. A. Farnsworth, a middle-aged lady, writes that she is desirous of acting as a nurse or companion for an invalid, either permanently located or traveling, or as housekeeper at any of the Spiritualist camp-meetings. Ample recommmendations as to character and ability will be furnished.

Michigan.

CARLTON.—Mary A. Charter writes: "I have been very hard at work of late in Buffalo, N. Y., and Detroit, Mich., and am now in Carleton. I have met with our good brother and the old veteran, Dr. Ira Davenport, who is quite unwell at the present time. I find him also in very distressed circumstances financially. He needs our sympathy and the help of friends. I have done what I could for him, and shall try to do more. If any reading this shall feel moved to give him help, I will see that such funds as they may send to my address are promptly applied to the relief of his necessities.

My labors in the West have been willingly accepted in the church, in the temperance cause. Among our dear spiritual friends I am engaged for the summer months. Good mediums could do well in Michigan and other places West, if they would only come out and try for themselves, as I have done and shall continue to do."

Indiana.

WILLIAMSBURG.—Leona L. Bond writes: "We have no organized society at this place, but there are a number of firm believers in the spiritual phenomena. There has been a great awakening of the cause and much interest has been taken within the past year. For the past eight months D. A. Herrick of Jamestown, N. Y., has been located here. He has truly wonderful gifts as a magnetic healer; has all the patients he can treat, and I must say is having remarkable success."

Free Thought.

A Definition.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

Having returned to the United States after an absence of five years in India and Europe, I was very glad to see that the BANNER OF LIGHT is still flourishing; and I would ask its aid to send kind greetings to all my friends, and to let them know that I am as much of a Spiritualist (in the proper meaning of this term) as I ever was. In fact, my experience in foreign countries has made me still more conscious of the fact that there is a spiritual intercourse from the highest planetary spirit going down through all gradations of spiritual and terrestrial orders of existence, and that this intercourse only ceases where the receptivity for influences coming from a higher plane of existence ceases to be active. I have come to a realization of the fact that we are all mediums or instruments through which higher powers are manifesting themselves, and that the nobility of a human being depends on his capacity to grasp high and exalted ideas, and to be a perfect and harmoniously attuned instrument through which spiritual accords may find external expression.

Spiritualism in my conception is the science which teaches the relationship existing between "Spirit" and "Matter"; the two not being two essentially different things, but merely two aspects of the eternal infinite One which is beyond finite conception, or, in other words, two modes of its manifestation. Spiritual science requires a certain amount of spirituality for its understanding, and if properly understood it will be found to contain the truth; but as not all that comes under the head of Christianity is true, and as not everything that is labeled "Theosophy" is divine wisdom, likewise not everything that claims to be Spiritualism is spiritual in its nature—a fact which is known to every enlightened Spiritualist, but which is willfully disregarded by those who have no power of spiritual conception and are not able to discriminate. Such persons reject Spiritualism per se, instead of trying to sift the true from the false and to remember the old doctrine, saying: "Examine all things and select that which is best."

Nearly all dissensions and disputations in regard to things belonging to the world of the unseen arise from a misconception of the terms which are used to describe those things. Difference of opinion exists only where true self-knowledge is absent. Two persons, actually having the same knowledge, will not differ from each other in their opinions, although they may call by different names that which they know. It seems to me, therefore, very advisable that in Spiritualism as well as in any other scientific system we should have an exact definition of terms, and it would be well to employ the term "Spiritualism" to describe the higher and really spiritual aspect of this science; while the term "Spiritism" might be more appropriate to describe the phenomenal aspect and the dealings with the souls or astral forms of the dead.

I know of many who having been disappointed in Spiritism, have also renounced Spiritualism and sank back into Materialism, because they were not able to discriminate. The fact that an intercourse between man and the souls of the departed is possible, has been for many a stepping-stone for entering Spiritualism proper, and the study of the Spiritual Philosophy has aided many to attain spirituality for themselves. On the other hand, there are some persons who never get beyond the merely phenomenal part of Spiritism, and consider the intercourse with the souls of the dead as the end and object of Spiritualism; while there are others who claim that they care nothing for phenomena, forgetting that we are living in a world of phenomena and would know nothing about the world if it were not for the phenomena that are occurring therein. Undoubtedly phenomena as such prove nothing at all except the fact that they occur; but whether true or false—that is to say, whether they are produced in the way we suppose them to be or in some other way—they are calculated to induce us to seek for ourselves for the cause that produces them, and thus to attain knowledge ourselves. Unquestionable belief in authorities is as injurious in Spiritualism as in any other scientific or religious system, and hinders true progress; we can have true knowledge only of that which we have experienced ourselves.

Yours very truly, F. HARTMANN, M. D.
305 South Eleventh street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Reviewer.

(From The Carrier Dove, San Francisco, Cal.)

FORTY YEARS ON THE SPIRITUAL ROSTRUM. By Warren Chase. Colby & Rich, publishers, Boston, Mass. Price, $1,00.

The author of this book is one of the historic workers in the ranks of Modern Spiritualism, and while his book is, necessarily, largely autobiographical, it, nevertheless, possesses a large amount of general interest as a contribution to the earlier history of the progress of the cause.

Mr. Chase tells us that for several years prior to the advent of Modern Spiritualism he had experienced the workings of advancing thoughts in his mind, and that the influence of phrenological and mesmeric studies, in conjunction with an appreciation of the ideas of Fourier, had all tended to prepare him for our gospel. He was, at this time, and those who have heard him speak, or who have read his writings know him still to be, a stanch Freethinker in all religious matters, and his present book evidences that his mental attitude is unchanged. Indeed, the keynote of Mr. Chase's Spiritualism is a scientific philosophy, as altogether opposed to accepted theology. The opening chapter tells how its writer struggled amid poverty and trial, which pressed him on to discover some solution to the industrial, commercial and socials ills prevailing. The result arrived at was the establishing, in 1844, of the "Wisconsin Phalanx," in Fond du Lac County, Wis., the enterprise being named "Ceresco," and existing for some six years. During those six years experiments in mesmerism were made, by which the future advocate was prepared to accept the Spiritual Philosophy a few years later.

In the year 1847, the first book of A. J. Davis, "Nature's Divine Revelations," was given to the world, and Mr. Chase's name was first on the list calling for copies of that widely celebrated production. Mr. Chase perused the book with eagerness and profit, and soon was championing its teachings. In "the latter part of 1847, or early winter of 1848 (the exact date being lost)," Mr. Chase held a discussion in the schoolhouse at Ceresco, with Rev. H. H. Vanamringe, on the origin and merits of "Nature's Divine Revelations," which was his first public speech in defense of the philosophy and the general principles of Modern Spiritualism. Mr. Chase refers regretfully to the fact that Mrs. Hardinge-Britten omits all mention of his work as the first lecturer in our ranks, from her "History of Modern American Spiritualism," but the missing link is thus supplied in the chapter under notice. Mr. Chase, however, pays several deserved tributes to the ability and zeal of Mrs. Britten in this country, and in her own.

The bulk of the book is made up of records of work and travel, in nearly all parts of the Union; work that was full of toil and discomfort, involving long journeys, and many up hill struggles; work that was poorly remunerated in this world's goods, however valuable its results in the form of experience and education have been. For a certain time Mr. Chase acted as manager of the New York Agency of Messrs. Colby & Rich, receiving from them, he says, "the highest and best pay I ever had." Subsequent to the closing of the above agency Mr. Chase removed to St. Louis, and reöpened business for himself, dealing in "Liberal and Spiritual Literature," but it was a failure, by which he "came out as poor as a mouse."

Mr. Chase's forty years of public service have not been exclusively devoted to Spiritualism, for he has sat in "legislative halls," as the chosen of the people; he, too, has been quite an ardent political reformer, as well as an earnest champion of numerous commercial, financial and industrial reforms, as various pages in his book bear frequent testimony.

Aside from historical facts, and the recognition, by name, given to various early workers, the portion of the book that will be best appreciated is that included in Chap. VII., headed "What I Have Learned from Forty Years' Intercourse with Denizens of the Next Sphere." The chapter in question is "meaty and full of good things," tersely and ably expressed; the nature of spirit-life, the subject of "reincarnation," the character of the spirit-land, sex in spirits, are all touched upon, while Mr. Chase's "creed," on pages 165-8, contains a concise summary of the author's convictions.

As one of the oldest workers, in fact the oldest in our ranks, one who has literally "gone the length and breadth of the land," as one who, undaunted by all obstacles, has gone on in his appointed way with patience and persistence, Mr. Chase is eminently fitted to write the book before us. It is valuable, as throwing light upon persons and incidents pertaining to our early days, as well as for giving us a faithful resumé of the career of our oldest itinerant platform worker. Mr. Chase will not, in the nature of things, remain many more years in the form, and if this should be his last work, it will remain, even as it is, the valuable testimony of a long, busy and useful career.

The book contains a good likeness of Mr. Chase, and closes with poetical selections from various sources and authors, among whom are Mrs. Laverna Matthews, Mrs. Sarah A. Harris, and George C. Irvin, names well known to Spiritualists in this State and city. The work is well printed, and nicely bound in cloth, gilt lettered, and will undoubtedly meet a large sale, as indeed it deserves. J. J. MORSE.

THE CENSUS OF MASSACHUSETTS: 1885. Prepared Under the Direction of Carroll D. Wright, Chief of the Bureau of Statistics of Labor. Vol. III., Agricultural Products and Property. 8vo, cloth, pp. 934. Boston: Wright & Potter, State Printers.

One will, upon looking over this volume, readily accept the statement of its compiler, that the difficulty of collecting the statistics of, and relating to, the agriculture of the Commonwealth increases with each recurring census. From the vast amount of information it gives in detail we glean that Massachusetts not only holds its own, so far as the work of its farming population is concerned, but makes a reasonable progress in the interval of each decade of years, the increase from 1875 to 1885 being 28.82 per cent. In 1875 the production of Indian corn was 1,040,290 bushels; it is now more than double that, 2,147,390 bushels. The quantity of milk has been increased from 35,698,159 gallons in 1875 to 72,528,624 gallons in 1885. Potatoes and wheat have fallen, the production of potatoes being 46,041 bushels, less in 1885 than ten years previous; and of wheat, which the first State Census (1845) gave 47,986 bushels, has gradually declined to 7,160½ bushels in 1885. The wool product has increased 50,000 pounds the last ten years. There were 1,292,876 more bushels of apples grown in Massachusetts in 1885 than in 1875, and the increase in strawberries was more than two million quarts. It is impossible to give within our limits the many items of interest of this nature which this voluminous document places before us, but the few above cited will enable our readers to form some idea of what it contains and of the immense labor it represents, and which reflects great credit upon those engaged in the work.

Verifications of Spirit-Messages.

CAROLINE, OR CALLIE.

I read in THE BANNER of May 19th a message given March 20th, through the control of Miss Shelhamer, signed CAROLINE, or CALLIE, as she was known to intimate friends. The names and descriptions given, with anxiety expressed, seemingly to me has opened the way, and nothing would give me greater joy than to assist you in your timely and golden undertakings of recognition. Trusting that the controls will again open the way for your better recognition, thereby substituting knowledge for hope, I remain yours in waiting, M. S.

IANTHUS TURNER.

The message given through the organism of Mrs. B. F. Smith, and printed in the BANNER OF LIGHT of April 21st, I recognize, and all parties spoken of, including my husband, sons and grandchildren, now passed to higher life. I can truly testify to the truth of the statement, and hope the good work will continue. Yours truly, ANGELINE TURNER.

South Lincoln, Maine.

Henry Bergh, nephew of the late Henry Bergh, and secretary of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has been elected president of the society.

THE CHALLENGE.

BY EDGAR L. WAKEMAN.

I heard to day upon the street,
Where beggars sang a careless song,
A note, a tone, so wondrous sweet
That I stood silent in the throng.
But, ah! I saw not those who sang;
I heard not their wild madrigal;
A thousand voices round me rang,
And, sweeter still, one maiden's call,
For which I'd change the fame of men.
My load unloosed like Pilgrim's thrall;
I fed my hungry heart again;
I saw my boyhood home and all—
And heard the blackbirds, nestling, sing
Their tender songs of evening!

Clear, martial call of buried hosts!
How sure thy challenge passed the years!
I saw, like sentries at their posts,
A myriad forms; the pines like spears
Shot through the after-sunset's red;
The darkening fields; the gleam of panes;
The murky dusk, star-panoplied;
The lazy kine along the lanes;
The schoolhouse dun; the village spire;
The home-bent, dusty harvest folks;
The cornfields flamed with sunset fire;
And in our tryst beneath the oaks
We heard the blackbirds, nestling, sing
Their tender songs of evening!

Thus, Angel of our later days,
With ever-hovering, unseen hand,
Are flashed upon our blinded ways
The hidden shrines we understand.
We climb the rugged steeps of Truth,
And falter. Lo! thy helpings bring
The lesser to the larger Youth!
A note, a tone, the humblest thing,
Sweeps irresistless all between,
And there the Now prays with the Then,
Where once our heaven was lived unseen,
And where, like pilgrims come again,
We hear the blackbirds, nestling, sing
Their tender songs of evening!

—New England Magazine.

Spiritualist Alliance.

Once More Injustice.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

Another instance of unfair treatment of Spiritualists by the secular press is hereby submitted. In its issue of Sunday, May 13th, the New York World published an editorial upon the resolutions passed by the American Spiritualist Alliance—resolutions which were printed in THE BANNER of May 12th.

This editorial of The World prompted an answer at the hands of the Secretary of the Alliance. That answer was forwarded to The World's editor with a polite request that he publish it. The Secretary's action was endorsed by the Society at its last meeting, and it was resolved to send The World's editorial and the Secretary's answer to the BANNER OF LIGHT for publication, should The World fail to publish, as it would seem it was in justice bound to do.

As a week has elapsed and no attention has been paid by The World to the request of the Alliance, we enclose to you the whole matter, hoping you will grant us the hearing a prejudiced journal refused.

Respectfully,
J. F. JEANERET, Sec'y A. S. Alliance.
New York, May 21st, 1888.

WORLD'S EDITORIAL.

The American Spiritualist Alliance has passed a series of resolutions with respect to the alleged disrespectful treatment of Spiritualism on the part of the press of this city in the matter of the Diss Debar trial. The Spiritualists protest against the mixing up of the character of the accused with the Spiritualistic creed, and assert that her character alone is the issue in question. It is admitted in the resolutions that she is a medium, but insisted that, to punish her for acting as such is a "species of religious bigotry" and "a violation of constitutional rights." It is resolved that Spiritualists meet and somehow prevent this alleged outrage. It is a little difficult to see how the medium can be separated from the individual in this prosecution for fraud, but if there is any way to punish the culprit without treading on honest though mistaken beliefs that course ought to be adopted. But we are afraid the mixture is hopeless.

To the Editor of New York World:

Your editorial in last Sunday's World regarding the resolutions recently passed by the American Spiritualist Alliance in relation to circumstances growing out of the Diss Debar trial conveys to the minds of your readers an unjust and erroneous conception of the true meaning and purport of those resolutions.

You say the resolutions "assert that her [Mrs. Diss Debar's] character alone is the issue in question." No such assertion is made nor intended; indeed, the resolutions emphatically declare "and we do not here consider her character." The resolutions protest against mixing up Spiritualism and Spiritualists with the charge of conspiracy which has been brought against the defendants, and which, as expressed in the resolutions, is the "only ground" "upon which they can be held," therefore the only issue in question.

Spiritualism and mediumship are not on trial on this occasion; nor on any other occasion can they be put on trial seriously, justly and impartially, until the high-sounding pretences of prejudiced ignorance cease to clamor and proclaim their own fitness to pass judgment upon that which they have no conception of, because they have never studied that which, with their wonderful wisdom, they have already condemned in advance of all hearing. To interfere with the free exercise of any religion or religious belief is a violation of constitutional rights in this free country so long as those religious creeds are not inimical to the laws of the States. Spiritualism is the religion of millions of individuals in this and other countries, and mediumship is the basis upon which Spiritualism rests—not its belief, but its knowledge of what constitutes that religion. To ruthlessly interfere with either is therefore as much a species of religious bigotry and violation of constitutional rights as it would be to interfere with religious services and ceremonies in a Christian church.

If the exercise of mediumship has been willfully and knowingly used by Mrs. Diss Debar or any other medium to bring about results, or commit acts violating the laws of this State, she and all such mediums become individually responsible and should be condemned under the law. No true Spiritualist will knowingly uphold false pretences and fraud. In such a case, however, it is the individual medium who is to blame and should be tried, and not mediumship or Spiritualism. The resolutions passed by The Alliance do not claim immunity from punishment under the law for any individual because a medium, as your editorial makes it appear they do. Neither do the resolutions call upon Spiritualists "to meet and somehow prevent this alleged outrage," (this is your construction, Mr. Editor,) but invite Spiritualists to cooperate and devise means for the protection of their rights and religious liberty—quite a different object indeed!

As a whole, Mr. Editor, you seem in your comments upon the action of The Alliance to entirely misunderstand the purport of these resolutions. Mrs. Diss Debar is therein mentioned only incidentally (indeed, she repudiates Spiritualism, and calls herself a Christian) as the occasion which has been used by the press, and others, to deride, persecute and ridicule Spiritualism and Spiritualists, and their adoption is not to be construed as an attempt to shield that woman from punishment—medium as she may be—if justly proven guilty of reprehensible practices.

It is against the abundant display of injustice, malice, prejudice and unfair treatment which on the occasion of this sensational trial has been lavished upon us and upon our religion that we as Spiritualists protest through The Alliance resolutions.

Only an act of justice would it have been had you, Mr. Editor, printed the text of those resolutions while commenting editorially upon them, thereby giving your readers an opportunity to judge for themselves as to their intent and purpose.

Respectfully,
J. F. JEANERET, Sec'y A. S. Alliance.

HEREDITY.

Secular Press Notes on this Important Topic.

ONE OF MANY.

The New York Graphic gives this pen-picture of one of the many victims of untoward pre-natal conditions:

"Well, the poor boy came into this world with a weak body, for his mother was troubled with much household care and labor when she bore him, and his father, though a churchmember in good standing, was an inordinate tobacco-chewer and kept his strength bolstered up through the stimulus of the weed. So long as the boy ran about loose with other children and played in the sand with bare feet he was tolerably healthy. But when sent to school he pined. At the boarding-school he was counted a good scholar and made great progress in memorizing. At eighteen he was tall, 'spindling,' and slightly stooping, always complaining, eating, according to custom, whatever was set before him, working and studying directly after eating, and complaining of a weak stomach. So he went on in life till the age of twenty-five. Then he married, was always in poor health and in frequent consultation with doctors. First, doctors at home; next, doctors abroad; then, special doctors; now, regulation doctors, with reputations and diplomas, and then in despair applying to outside doctors; herb doctors, bush doctors, botanic doctors; doctors who said it was his liver; doctors who said it was the heart; doctors who said it was malaria; doctors who said he did n't make blood enough; doctors who starved him; doctors who stuffed him; doctors who chilled him in cold, wet blankets; doctors who parboiled him in medicated vapor baths; doctors who advised him to go North; doctors who advised him to go South; doctors who suggested springs; doctors who recommended mud baths; but never a doctor who told him that half the damage had been done before he came into the world, and the other half through his own ignorance and that of the authors of his being afterward. But he died all right, and the doctors then found out what ailed him, and they gave the complaint a Latin name, and it's now raging round seeking whom it may devour."

THE OLD-FASHIONED GIRL.

"Bless the old-fashioned girl," says a Bishop. "Heaven bless her and raise up others like her." So say I, and so say all of us, Bishop. But whose fault is it that there are not more of her? Not Heaven's, by a long chalk. Heaven is n't in the governess and nursery business today any more than it was when grandma nursed her own children, this very "old-fashioned girl" among them. The "old-fashioned girl," from all we hear of her, was a paragon of goodness and common sense when she was a girl, but—"eh, sirs, the falling-off o' the goodly!" What kind of a mother did she make, that good people mourn so sorely over the new-fashioned girl? "Heaven raise up others like her." Why does n't she raise up some like herself, Bishop? The "old-fashioned girl" can't turn her babies over, body, mind, and soul, to an untaught immigrant that landed in Castle Garden with one change of linen and a feather-bed only six weeks ago, and expect Heaven to "raise up" such children as her mother did. Heaven does n't take a silent partnership in that kind of a firm. Unprofitable servants that we are, we want Heaven to do everything. The trouble with the "old-fashioned girl" seemed to be that she lacked staying qualities. She started off well enough, but got skittish about the distance pole, and, instead of perpetuating her own kind, she raised "new-fashioned girls." Put that in your pipe and smoke it, grandma. You and the evolutionists will have to solve this question between you. It's too deep for the jester.—Burdette, in Brooklyn Eagle.

The Lyceum at Melbourne, Australia.

The Spiritualists of Melbourne commenced the autumn and winter term of their Children's Progressive Lyceum March 4th, nearly the time when those on this side of the globe were closing. Mr. W. H. Terry delivered an inaugural address, directed specially to members and officers. It contained much good advice, and many valuable suggestions for the profitable conduct of the school.

Harmony, he said, was the alm and end of the Lyceum; the recognition in its formula of the physical, mental, and spiritual, and their consentaneous cultivation was all in agreement with this central idea. The Lyceum might be likened to a musical instrument, each group representing a string, and the twelve groups the complete instrument. It rested with the leaders to tone their respective strings, bringing them into harmony with themselves; and when this condition was attained, he (the speaker) would endeavor to bring the whole into harmonious accord, which would be pleasing and elevating to themselves, and attractive to all harmonious minds who came within the precincts of the meeting.

With regard to the method, the minds of the youngest section must be reached through the affections; with those in the middle groups both the heart and the head must be appealed to; and those in the higher groups would be reached through the intellect and spiritual perceptions. Our business was to educe; dogmatic teaching was not in harmony with our system; repression might be necessary, but only in exceptional cases; the most angular nature has a germ of goodness in it which, if nourished, will germinate, taking the place of unsightly growths. The Lyceum should be a pleasant place for all to come to; he would not wish one unwilling child to be there. Discipline and order were essential bases of the harmony he aspired to bring about. Order is heaven's first law; it is not only necessary, but would be found in practice very pleasant.

In conclusion, (says the Harbinger, to which we are indebted for the above,) Mr. Terry urged the boys and girls to do their part and push the Lyceum ahead, to make it at least as good if not better than it ever had been. Let us deserve (he said) the name "Progressive," and make the Lyceum an institution to be proud of.

Passed to Spirit-Life.

March 13th, from his home in Kingston, Mass., Francis Washburn; his wife Judith passed on April 25th.

Mr. Washburn was born December 31st, 1801; his wife in June, 1804. Some six weeks intervened between the decease of these worthy people, who were well and widely known in their home locality. Just before his release from the body the husband said to his wife: "You will soon follow me."

He was a firm Spiritualist in belief, and directed that "no minister" should "under any consideration" be employed at his funeral, as he wished the principles to which his life had been devoted might receive due recognition at that supreme hour.

Although one of the oldest men in the community where he resided, his ideas in every direction were of the most progressive and liberal character, as an instance of which it is recorded that he was one of the first to advocate and work for the introduction of water into the corporate limits of Kingston.

Mrs. Washburn was a lovely and gentle woman, and much esteemed by all who came within the influence of her acquaintanceship.

Mr. and Mrs. W. were the parents of Mr. Azel Washburn, proprietor of the Washburn House at Onset Bay, Mass. They left in the mortal five children—four daughters and one son—the demission of the parents being the first break in the immediate family circle.

Dr. H. B. Storer, of Boston, spoke fitting words on both funeral occasions—according to the wish of the deceased; Charles W. Sullivan adding to the spiritual lessons of the obsequies by sweet renditions of the "songs of the new temple." ☞

From her home, in Pembroke, Mass., April 8th, 1888, Mrs. Emily, widow of the late Isaiah Walker, aged 83 years.

Mrs. Walker was for many years an earnest Spiritualist, and a subscriber to the BANNER OF LIGHT since its first publication, always looking forward each week for its coming, and reading it with great interest. She was a true friend to the mediums; her home was ever their place of rest; and all loved to visit there because of the welcome they received. Her husband preceded her to the spirit-world about eighteen months ago with full faith in the teachings of Spiritualism, and just before she passed away she saw him awaiting her coming. All who knew her loved her. A large number of relatives and friends gathered on Tuesday, April 10th, to pay their last earthly tribute to one who lived a useful life, and whom they had long cherished. Seven children survive her—three sons and four daughters. It was long the wish of grandma Walker that Mrs. N. J. Willis and the writer should attend her funeral, and we were both present and spoke such comforting words as the spirits gave us to utter. It was long a home where we found rest when lecturing in Duxbury, and we feel that we have parted with a "mother in Israel." We shall miss her pleasant smile and kind welcome, but we trust we shall meet again in the beautiful beyond. Singing and short addresses by sister Willis and myself were the order of exercises, and many present listened to spiritual teachings unlike anything they ever before received. May the same knowledge of Spiritualism comfort the children as it ever did the dear mother. May her sainted presence cheer all in their lonely hours. Thus another of the true and good hath found rest.

MRS. SARAH A. BYRNES.

From Grand Lodge, Mich., May 5th, 1888, of paralysis, Mr. Joy H. Brown, aged 84 years.

He was born in Newark, N. J., and thirty-five years ago came to Grand Ledge. He was for over twenty years a firm believer in Spiritualism, and labored hard in the cause. He leaves a wife, who is an excellent medium. Funeral services were conducted by Mrs. I. H. Dunham of Ionia. ☞

Camp-Meeting in Minnesota.

The Rice Co. Scientific, Moral and Reformatory Association will hold its first Annual Meeting at Morristown on the third Sunday in June, 1888; and in connection therewith will be held a Spiritual and Liberal CAMP-MEETING, commencing on Wednesday, June 13th, and closing on Monday, June 18th.

Being the first meeting of this nature held in Minnesota, we invite and earnestly solicit the attendance and aid of the Spiritualists and Liberals of this and other States to assist in the inauguration and building up of a permanent Camp-Meeting organization at this or some suitable place in this locality. Ample means for board and shelter will be provided at very reduced rates to all who may come.

We also invite Spiritual and Liberal speakers and mediums. Suitable rooms for holding séances will be furnished gratis.

We wish to employ an independent slate-writing medium who will permit investigators to bring their own closed slates. Such a medium would be of great benefit to the cause, beside reaping a rich harvest for him (or her) self financially, as manifestations of this order have never been witnessed or produced in this locality.

The lowest reductions in railroad fare that can be obtained will be secured.

Conveyance hourly between camp-grounds and séance-rooms; also to all trains for a fare not to exceed five cents per trip. Any further information may be obtained by corresponding with MRS. LAURA A. GRANT, Rec. Sec'y, or D. BIRDSALL, Cor. Sec'y, of Waterville, Le Sueur Co., Minn. BY ORDER OF EX. COM.

(Spiritual and Liberal papers please copy.)

Clackamas, Ore.

The Clackamas County Society of Spiritualists will hold a Grove Meeting on its grounds at New Era, Ore., beginning Friday, June 8th, and holding over two Sundays.

Slate-writing, trance-speaking and clairvoyant test mediums have been engaged to attend the meeting.

The Committee of Arrangements will use every reasonable endeavor, including the usual reduction of fare, to those attending the meeting, to make the enterprise a success.

The Society has a good hall on the grounds, and a hotel for the accommodation of boarders and lodgers.

A cordial invitation is extended to all.

WM. PHILLIPS, President.
THOMAS BUCKMAN, Sec'y.

Orion Lake Camp-Meeting.

The First District Association of Spiritualists will hold a ten days' Camp-Meeting at Orion Lake, Oakland Co., Mich., commencing Saturday, June 2d, 1888, and ending Monday, June 11th. Those intending to camp are desired, if convenient, to erect their tents on Friday, June 1st, that all necessary preparations may be over for services and the election of officers which will occur the day following.

Good speakers will be in attendance, and all who are interested in progressive thought and united humanitarian works are cordially invited to be present.

S. H. EWELL, Vice-President.
MRS. F. E. ODELL, Sec'y.

The Lookout Mountain Camp-Meeting.

Near Chattanooga, Tenn., will be held during the entire month of July. The following speakers and mediums are engaged: Mrs. A. M. Glading, George A. Fuller, Dr. H. F. Merrill, Mrs. S. A. H. Talbot, G. W. Kates and wife, Dr. Samuel Watson, A. C. Ladd, Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond. Excellent hotel facilities are on the Mountain. Tenting space given free. Address

G. W. KATES, Sec'y, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Miscellaneous.

The Weekly Discourse,

A Pamphlet (especially arranged for binding)

Containing one of the Discourses given through the organism of

MRS. CORA L. V. RICHMOND

The preceding Sunday,

Is published each week. Price, $2,50 per year.

Address, WILLIAM RICHMOND,
64 Union Park Place, Chicago, Ill.
My1 cow

THE

N. D. C. AXE and TRUE KEY-STONE,

A FOUR-PAGE SEMI-MONTHLY JOURNAL, especially devoted to the Development of Mediumship, and official organ of The National Developing Circle.

Terms of subscription, $1,00 per annum.

Sample Copy Free.

Send for Book, "How to Become a Medium in Your Own Home," and a personal sealed letter designating all your phases of Mediumship, all for 15 cents.

Address

JAMES A. BLISS,
S. E. Corner of 7th and Smith Streets,
S24 tf CINCINNATI, OHIO.

New Thought;

A VIGOROUS, Eight-Page Weekly Journal devoted to SPIRITUALISM and General Religious and Political Reform.

Published every Saturday by MOSES HULL & CO., at Des Moines, Iowa.

The Organ of the Mississippi Valley Association of Spiritualists.

NEW THOUGHT is a quarto filled with interesting matter, WRITTEN EXPRESSLY for its columns, on the various phases of Spiritualism and General Reform, and nicely printed on heavy paper.

Terms of Subscription: One year, $1,50; six months, 75 cents; three months, 40 cents; single number, 5 cents.

NEW THOUGHT will be sent to new subscribers three months on trial for twenty-five cents—a sum which barely covers the price of blank paper and press-work. Sample copies free. Je4

The Gnostic,

A Monthly Journal of Spiritual Science,

PUBLISHERS AND EDITORS—GEORGE CHAINEY, ANNA K. CHAINEY and W. J. COLVILLE.

EACH number will contain forty pages, devoted to Esoteric Religion, Psychometry, Occult Science, Mental Therapeutics, Human Liberty, and the Culture of all that is Divine in the Human Race.

Terms, $2.00 per year; single copies 25 cents.

Address GEORGE CHAINEY, 17 Flood's Building, San Francisco, Cal. Ap21

SPHINX.

ANTI-MATERIALISTISCHE MONATSSCHRIFT für die wissenschaftliche Untersuchung der „mystischen" und „magischen" Thatsachen, mit Beiträgen von Carl du Prel, Alf. Russ. Wallace, der Professoren Barrett und Coues, mehrerer Brahminen u. s. w., herausgegeben von Dr. Hübbe-Schleiden.

Subscription: $1,75 for six months, $3,50 per annum.

Messrs. COLBY & RICH, 9 Bosworth street, Boston, Mass., will receive subscriptions and forward the same to the publisher. Au21

La Lumiere.

A JOURNAL devoted to the interests of Spiritualism in all its aspects. MADAME LUCIE GRANGE, Editor. The ablest writers contribute to its pages.

Terms of Subscription, in advance, per year, $1,20. In remitting by mail, a Post-office order on Paris, France, to the order of MADAME LUCIE GRANGE, 75, Boulevard Montmorency, Auteuil.

PROPHETES ET PROPHETIES, by Hab.

A BOOK of universal interest and influence. It contains an Historical Relation of Prophecies in Modern Times and Prophetic Spirit Communications. Paper, 12mo, pp. 240. Price 60 cents, postage free. For sale by LA LUMIERE, Paris, France. Aug. 9.

THE CARRIER DOVE,

An Illustrated Weekly Journal.

DEVOTED to Spiritualism and Reform. Edited by MRS. J. SCHLESINGER, DR. L. SCHLESINGER and MRS. J. SCHLESINGER, Publishers. Each number will contain the Portraits and Biographical Sketches of some of the Prominent Mediums and Spiritual Workers. Also Spirit Pictures by our Artist Mediums, Lectures, Essays, Poems, Spirit Messages, Editorials, etc.

Terms: $2,50 per year; single copies, 10 cents.

Address all communications to THE CARRIER DOVE, 32 Ellis street, San Francisco, Cal. F6

SEND NAME

AND POST-OFFICE ADDRESS, plainly written, to THE BETTER WAY, CINCINNATI, O., and receive a sample copy of this bright Spiritual Weekly Newspaper FREE. Subscription, Two Dollars per year, but no obligation to subscribe will be incurred by sending for a sample copy. It will cost you only a postal card and a minute! Au13 tf

Light on the Way.

GEO. A. FULLER, Editor.
MRS. G. DAVENPORT STEVENS, Ass't Editor.

AN EIGHT-PAGE MONTHLY, devoted to the dissemination of Spiritual Knowledge. Terms, 60 cents per year. Specimen copies free. Address, GEO. A. FULLER, Editor and Publisher, Dover, Mass. My7

The Boston Investigator,

THE oldest reform journal in publication.
Price, $3,00 a year,
$1,50 for six months,
3 cents per single copy.

Now is your time to subscribe for a live paper, which discusses all subjects connected with the happiness of mankind.

Address J. P. MENDUM,
Investigator Office,
Paine Memorial,
Boston, Mass.
April 2.

OUR FUTURE DESTINY. Immortality elucidated and Job's question answered. By M. B. CRAVEN. Scientific Materialism refuted by the evidence of Spiritual Existence.

Paper, price 10 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

THE

NEXT WORLD

INTERVIEWED.

BY MRS. S. C. HORN,
Author of "Strange Visitors."

CONTENTS.

Preface.
The Next World.
Prince Albert, "England and the Queen."
Harriet Martineau, "Life in the Spirit-World."
Charles Kingsley, "Reform in Spirit-Life."
Judge Edmonds, "The Two States: Real and Ideal."
Judge Edmonds, "Rich Men of New York."
John Stuart Mill, "Immortality."
Horace Greeley, "Home of Horace Greeley."
Professor Agassiz, "Evolution."
Secretary Seward, "Statesmanship from a Spiritual Stand point."
Bulwer (Lord Lytton), "Metempsychosis."
Titian, "Art Notes."
Abraham Lincoln, "My Passage to Spirit-Life."
Charlotte Cushman, "Death by Fire."
Edwin Forrest, "Present State of the Drama."
Charles Dickens, "Christmas Carols."
De Quincy, "An Opium-Eater's Dream of Heaven."
Fanny Fern, "Spirit-Flowers."
Hans Christian Andersen, "The Story of the Great King."
Georges Sand, "Chateau in the Midst of Roses."
Mrs. Gaskell, "The Spirit-Bride."
Fennimore Cooper, "Lone Star; an Indian Spirit's Story."
Herodotus, "Pre-Historic Man."
Geo. Smith (Assyriologist), "Explorations; Assyrian and Spiritual."
Dr. Livingstone, "Leaves from my Spirit Journal."
Victor Emanuel, "Italy and the Church."
Pope Pia Nono, "Bless, and Curse Not."
Thiers, "To the Republic of France."
G. H. Lewes, "Epic of the Soul."
William Howitt, "Christianity and Spiritualism."
George Thompson, "A Call to Freedom."
Princess Alice, "An Appeal on Behalf of Children."
Ralph Waldo Emerson, "Philosophy: Ancient and Modern."
Lord Beaconsfield, "The Political Situation in England."
George Eliot, "A Change from Materialism."
Dean Stanley, "Spiritualism: The True and False."
Garibaldi, "The Liberator of Italy."
Charles Darwin, "The Law of Creation."
Mary, Queen of Scots, "Destiny."
Gambetta, "For France and Freedom!"
Wagner, "The Music of the Future."
Longfellow, "Outre Mer! Outre Terre!"
Jane Carlyle, "A Tribute to Thomas Carlyle."
Benjamin Franklin, "Spiritual Aphorisms."
Egypt, "Pre-Historic Ages."
Thomas Carlyle, "The Folly of Hero-Worship."
James T. Brady, "The Cause and Treatment of Crime."
Peter Cooper, "Educational Institutions in the Spirit World."
Robert Bruce, "Spiritualism, A Liberator."
Czar of Russia, Alexander II., "The Autocrat's Doom."
Lord Frederic Cavendish, "Capital Punishment Condemned."
Karl Friedrich Zöllner, "Spiritual State of Germany."
Cromwell Fleetwood Varley, "Astronomical Origin o Spiritual Phenomena."
Bishop Colenso, "Mistaken Policy of the Church."
Judge Edmonds, "The Spirit-Editor's Valedictory."
A Stranger, "Visit to the Spirit-World."

Price $1,50, postage 10 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

The Phantom Form.

Experiences in Earth and Spirit-Life—Revelations by a Spirit.

Through the trance mediumship of

MRS. NETTIE PEASE FOX.

This is one of the most deeply interesting Spiritualistic works ever published. Given in a narrative form by a lady whose earth-life was one of strange vicissitudes, startling events and wonderful mediumistic experiences. After many years in spirit-life she returns to earth, and through the fully entranced organism and power of another, gives her earth history, followed by revelations from spirit-life, interesting and instructive to those who would know the condition, opportunities and employments of those who have crossed the "Narrow stream meandering these two worlds between." A better understanding of this remarkable book may be obtained from the following table, giving a few of the many subjects upon which we have revelations from the spirit-world:

Death Foretold; Death-Bed Vision and Revelations; Is There Another Life? Angel Ministrations; Spirit Prophecy Fulfilled; Saved from a Horrible Fate by Spirit Warning; A Father's False Representation Corrected by the Spirit-Mother; Life Saved by Spirit-Power; My Death Foretold; My Sudden Departure from Earth-Life; First Awakening in Spirit-Life; Mansion in Spirit-Land; Return to Earth-Life; Some Spirits Worship a Personal God; Spirits Attend a Marriage Ceremony of Earth; Marriage in Spirit Life; Temple of Science; Library; Modes of Traveling; Visiting Another Planet. Many Revelations are given of life and its employments in the spirit-world deeply interesting.

Cloth, pp. 169. Price $1,00; postage paid to any part of the world.

The Mysteries of the Border-Land;

OR,

The Conscious Side of Unconscious Life.

Also the Second Part of the Volume, "The Golden Key; or, Mysteries Beyond the Veil."

BY MRS. NETTIE PEASE FOX.

These two books, contained in one large, nicely bound volume of nearly six hundred pages, are written in narrative style, said by the spirit author to be founded on fact. They are as entertaining as any novel ever read, and contain more of the phenomena and philosophy of Spiritualism than ever before written in the same space, and they are written in such an attractive form that they cannot fail to please and deeply interest thousands outside the ranks of Spiritualism.

Price $1,50; postage free.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

JUST PUBLISHED!

THE

SECRET SYMBOLS

OF THE

ROSICRUCIANS

OF THE

Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries,

WITH A TREATISE ON THE Philosopher's Stone.

Translated from the German by

FRANZ HARTMANN, M. D.

The plates of the Secret Symbols, twenty-seven in number, have been colored by hand, exactly duplicating the originals which Dr. Hartmann secured during his researches among ancient MSS. and occult works in Germany.

Prof. Elliot Coues, F. T. S., writes in reference to the work as follows: "The publication is timely, and cannot fail to attract and entertain many persons who seek the symbols of eternal verities in these mysterious paths. Whether or not the Rosicrucians ever existed as an actual secret confraternity, is, as you know, an open question with the public; and those who are best entitled to speak with authority are significantly silent in this particular. But no competent occultist or mystic has any doubts, or will ever fully divulge the esoteric facts in the case. The volume before me is handsomely gotten up, showing both taste and enterprise on the part of the publishers; and Dr. Hartmann has already won enviable spurs in the literature of occultism, which he is, from his connection with the Indian Branch of the Theosophical Society, well fitted to adorn."

Finely printed on heavy paper, pages 12 by 16 inches, and handsomely bound in cloth. Price $6,00.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

The Weekly Discourse;

Containing the Spiritual Sermons by the guides of

MRS. CORA L. V. RICHMOND.

VOLUME III.

No. 1.—THE THREE M'S: MAMMON, MILLIONAIRES AND MURDER.
No. 2.—A LEAP IN THE DARK.
No. 3.—WHAT RELIGION IS BEST FOR MANKIND?
No. 4.—IDEAL SOCIALISM: HOW DOES IT COMPARE WITH CHRISTIANITY AND SPIRITUALISM?
No. 5.—THE IMPORT OF THE DAY.
No. 6.—ANCIENT AND MODERN MIRACLES.
No. 7.—THE JUDGMENT DAY.
No. 8.—THE POWER OF PRAYER.
No. 9.—THE NATURE OF SPIRITUALISM: IN ANSWER TO THE WORLD'S NEEDS.
No. 10.—THE FOUNDATIONS OF THE WORLD.

Price 5 cents each.

Single copies of any numbers of Volumes I. and II. will also be supplied at 5 cents each.

Also The Weekly Discourse, containing fifty-two numbers in each volume, handsomely bound in Half Roan, Gold Ruled.

VOL. I.....$3,00. VOL. II.....$3,00.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

"What is that sea whose shore is speech?
What is that pearl which in its depths is found?"
GULSHAN I RAZ.

APOTHEOSIS OF AN IDEAL,

A BOOK WHICH BODES FORTH

THE HIGHER OCCULTISM

AND THE

Supreme Meaning of Life,

IN A

New Order of Literature.

Price 50 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

SPIRITUAL HARMONIES: Containing nearly One Hundred Popular Hymns and Songs, (without music) with the Belief of Spiritualists, and Readings appropriate for Funeral Occasions. By DR. J. M. PEEBLES.

This book may be considered multum in parvo, containing as it does a definition of Spiritualism—the leading doctrines of Spiritualists—readings and responses—about one hundred popular hymns and songs adapted to Camp-Meetings, Grove-Meetings, Spiritual Séances, Social Circles, and Congregational Singing, together with Funeral Readings, original and selected, appropriate for Infants, Children, and the Aged.

Cloth, illuminated covers. Price 35 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

BANNER OF LIGHT:

THE OLDEST JOURNAL IN THE WORLD DEVOTED TO THE

SPIRITUAL PHILOSOPHY.

ISSUED WEEKLY
At 9 Bosworth Street (formerly Montgomery Place) Corner Province Street, Boston, Mass.

COLBY & RICH,
Publishers and Proprietors.

ISAAC B. RICH.....BUSINESS MANAGER.
LUTHER COLBY.....EDITOR.
JOHN W. DAY.....ASSISTANT EDITOR.
Aided by a large corps of able writers.

THE BANNER is a first-class Family Newspaper of EIGHT PAGES—containing FORTY COLUMNS OF INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE READING—embracing

A LITERARY DEPARTMENT,
REPORTS OF SPIRITUAL LECTURES,
ORIGINAL ESSAYS—Upon Spiritual, Philosophical and Scientific Subjects,
EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT,
SPIRIT-MESSAGE DEPARTMENT, and
CONTRIBUTIONS by the most talented writers in the world, etc., etc.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION, IN ADVANCE

Per Year.....$3.00
Six Months.....1.50
Three Months.....75

Postage Free.

In remitting by mail, a Post-Office Money Orders on Boston, or a Draft on a Bank or Banking House in Boston or New York City, payable to the order of COLBY & RICH, is preferable to Bank Notes. Our patrons can remit us the fractional part of a dollar in postage stamps—ones and twos preferred.

ADVERTISEMENTS published at twenty cents per line for the first, and fifteen cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

Subscriptions discontinued at the expiration of the time paid for.

☞ Specimen copies sent free.

COLBY & RICH

Publish and keep for sale at Wholesale and Retail a complete assortment of Spiritual, Progressive, Reformatory and Miscellaneous Books.

Among the authors are Andrew Jackson Davis, Hon. Robert Dale Owen, Dr. James M. Peebles, Henry C. Wright, Giles B. Stebbins, D. D. Home, T. R. Hazard, William Denton, Rev. M. B. Craven, Judge J. W. Edmonds, Prof. S. B. Brittan, Allen Putnam, Epes Sargent, W. F. Evans, Kersey Graves, A. B. Child, P. B. Randolph, Warren S. Barlow, J. O. Barrett, Mrs. Emma Hardinge Britten, Miss Lizzie Doten, Mrs. Maria M. King, Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond, etc.

Any Book published in England or America, not out of print, will be sent by mail or express.

☞ Catalogues of Books Published and for sale by Colby & Rich sent free.

☞ Publishers who insert the above Prospectus in their respective journals, and call attention to it editorially, will be entitled to a copy of the BANNER OF LIGHT one year, provided a marked paper is forwarded to this office.

OUR AGENTS.

BRENTANO BROS., BOOKSELLERS,
5 Union Square, New York,

Authorized NEW YORK AGENTS for the sale of all of Colby & Rich's Publications. A good stock always on hand of Spiritual Books and Publications. Any Book desired which they do not happen to have in stock will be promptly ordered. Subscriptions received for and single copies of the Banner of Light on sale. Address 5 UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK. Branch stores, 1015 PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE, WASHINGTON, D. C., and 101 STATE STREET, CHICAGO, ILL. NEW YORK AGENCY, 5 UNION SQUARE.

PHILADELPHIA BOOK DEPOT.

The Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass., are for sale by J. H. RHODES, M. D., at the Philadelphia Book Agency, 722 Spring Garden street. Subscriptions received for the Banner of Light at $3,00 per year. The Banner of Light can be found for sale at Academy Hall, No. 810 Spring Garden street, and at all the Spiritual meetings; also at 502 North 8th street, and at news stand 826 Market street.

CLEVELAND, O., BOOK DEPOT.

THOMAS LEES, 142 Ontario street (Room 2). All the Spiritual and Reformatory Works on hand published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass. Subscription Agency for the Banner of Light and other spiritual papers and magazines, etc. Residence, 165 Cross street, Cleveland, O.

WASHINGTON AGENCY.

M. L. WILCOX & CO., dealers in Standard and Scientific Books, Pamphlets and Periodicals, 207 4½ street, near Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D. C., keep constantly for sale the Banner of Light, and will supply the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., AGENCY.

J. K. COOPER, 746 Market street, San Francisco, Cal., keeps constantly for sale the Banner of Light, and will take orders for any of the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published and for sale by Colby & Rich Boston, Mass.

CHICAGO, ILL., AGENCY.

CHAS. MACDONALD & CO., Periodical dealers, No. 55 Washington street, Chicago, Ill., keep for sale the Banner of Light, and will supply the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass.

NEW YORK BOOK DEPOT.

The Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass., also the Banner of Light, can be found at the office of The Truth-Seeker, 33 Clinton Place, New York City.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., BOOK DEPOT.

WILLIAMSON & HIGBEE, Booksellers, 62 West Main street, Rochester, N. Y., keep for sale the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published at the Banner of Light Publishing House, Boston, Mass.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., AGENCY.

WM. FOSTER, JR., 50 Battey street, Providence, R. I., will supply any of the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich. He is also agent for the Banner of Light.

DETROIT, MICH., AGENCY.

AUGUSTUS DAY, 12 Park Place, Detroit, Mich., Spiritualistic Sale and Circulating Library. Agent for Banner of Light, and all publications of Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., AGENCY.

JAMES LEWIS, 63 Pynchon street, Springfield, Mass., is agent for the Banner of Light, and will supply the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass.

BRATTLEBORO', VT., BOOK DEPOT.

E. J. CARPENTER, retail dealer in Newspapers, Periodicals, etc., etc., No. 2 Market Block, keeps for sale the Banner of Light, and will supply the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich.

TROY, N. Y., AGENCY.

Parties desiring any of the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass., will be accommodated by W. H. VOSBURGH, 244 Ninth street, Troy, N. Y.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., BOOK DEPOT.

JACKSON & BURLEIGH, Booksellers, Arcade Hall, R

TO BOOK PURCHASERS.

Colby & Rich, Publishers and Booksellers, 9 Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), corner of Province street, Boston, Mass., keep for sale a complete assortment of SPIRITUAL, PROGRESSIVE, REFORMATORY AND MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS, at Wholesale and Retail.

Terms Cash.—Orders for Books, to be sent by Express, must be accompanied by all or at least half cash. When the money forwarded is not sufficient to fill the order, the balance must be paid C. O. D. Orders for Books, to be sent by Mail, must invariably be accompanied by cash to the amount of each order. We would remind our patrons that they can remit us the fractional part of a dollar in postage stamps—ones and twos preferred. Postage stamps in quantities of MORE than one dollar will not be accepted. All business operations looking to the sale of Books on commission respectfully declined. Any Book published in England or America (not out of print) will be sent by mail or express.

☞ Catalogues of Books Published and for Sale by Colby & Rich sent free.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞ In quoting from the BANNER OF LIGHT care should be taken to distinguish between editorial articles and the communications (condensed or otherwise) of correspondents. Our columns are open for the expression of impersonal free thought, but we cannot undertake to endorse the varied shades of opinion to which correspondents give utterance.

☞ We do not read anonymous letters and communications. The name and address of the writer are in all cases indispensable as a guaranty of good faith. We cannot undertake to return or preserve manuscripts that are not used. When newspapers are forwarded which contain matter for our inspection, the sender will confer a favor by drawing a pencil or ink line around the article he desires specially to recommend for perusal.

☞ When our patrons desire the address of the BANNER changed, they should give us two weeks' previous notice, and not forget to state their present as well as future address.

Notices of Spiritualist Meetings, in order to insure prompt insertion, must reach this office on Monday of each week, as the BANNER goes to press every Tuesday.

Banner of Light.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, JUNE 2, 1888.

Entered at the Post-Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class Matter.]

THE BANNER IS ISSUED EVERY THURSDAY MORNING FOR THE WEEK ENDING ON SATURDAY.

PUBLICATION OFFICE AND BOOKSTORE, 9 Bosworth St. (formerly Montgomery Place), corner Province Street (Lower Floor).

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL AGENTS:
THE NEW ENGLAND NEWS COMPANY,
14 Franklin Street, Boston.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY,
39 and 41 Chambers Street, New York.

COLBY & RICH,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

ISAAC B. RICH.....BUSINESS MANAGER.
LUTHER COLBY.....EDITOR.
JOHN W. DAY.....ASSISTANT EDITOR.

☞ Business Letters must be addressed to ISAAC B. RICH, Banner of Light Publishing House, Boston, Mass. All other letters and communications must be forwarded to LUTHER COLBY. Private letters should invariably be marked "Personal" on the envelope.

☞ Before the oncoming light of Truth, Creeds tremble, Ignorance dies, Error decays, and Humanity rises to its proper sphere of Knowledge.—Spirit John Pierpont.

The Eruption of the Talmage Volcano.

Dr. Talmage, as we have taken occasion to say before, has "boiled over" on the subject of Spiritualism, and thereby given occasion to many Spiritualists to resent his riotous treatment of what is the gravest subject of modern times.

Taking the Saul-Samuel-"Witch" of Endor text, he proceeded to work up a narrative on it for a basis that is illuminated with the Talmagian conceptions of what a plain and simple narrative should be. And of course, agreeable to the Talmagian conception, when the spirit of Samuel appears to Saul, "the floor of the (witch of Endor's) tenement opens, and the gray hairs float up, and the forehead, the eyes, the lips, the shoulders, the arms, the feet, the entire body of dead Samuel, wrapped in sepulchral robes, appear to the astonished group, who stagger back and hold fast, and catch their breath, and shiver with terror; and the dead prophet, white and awful from the tomb, begins to move his ashen lips, and he glares upon King Saul, and cries out, 'What did you bring me up for? Why did you break my long sleep? What do you mean, King Saul?'"

This is Talmage's conception of what an excarnated spirit is doing, in what form and garb it would come, and from what direction—downward!—it would make its appearance. And this is the key-note of this characteristic screed of the Brooklyn Boanerges of the modern pulpit. He ends the narrative thus: "The dead prophet stretched forth his finger to King Saul, and said, 'Die to-morrow! Come with me into the sepulchre; I am going now! Come, come with me!' And lo, the floor opens again, and the feet of the dead prophet disappear, and the arms, and the shoulders, and the forehead. The floor closes." And he admits that it was "an awful séance." We should certainly say so, too. It was enough to appal even the nerves of Talmage himself, who notoriously delights in such nightmares of the human imagination.

With all the peculiar expressions his practiced mouth can muster, Dr. Talmage assumes to assail Spiritualism. And yet, after saying his worst, he "hedges" by confessing that "some of the performances of spiritual mediums are not to be ascribed to fraud, but to some occult law that after a while may be demonstrated." How intelligently he is helping forward the demonstration! He goes on with a recital of the list of deceptions that have been practiced, and then charges them every one upon Spiritualism. He undertakes to explain the true by blankly denying its possibility, and trumping up odd conceits that are yet more impossible to bring out to the light the "occult law" which he has to admit exists. All his shallow explanations of the phenomena have been exploded over and over again. He in fact explains nothing, but simply roars out his vociferous denials, asserting that "ventriloquism, and legerdemain, and sleight-of-hand, and optical delusion, account for everything." And still thousands of intelligent people, who are quite as capable of judging and reporting the evidence of their senses, are being continually convinced of the unassailable truth of the phenomena, and all the shouting and sneering and threats of damnation which a thousand Talmages could bring to bear would not shake their direct belief.

Dr. Talmage is especially enraged that so many of the phenomena are presented after the glaring light of day is withdrawn, or, as he loves to express it for the more impressive effect, "in the night." His specific against witnessing them under such very natural circumstances is "to stop eating hot mince pie and take a dose of bilious medicine." He ascribes the appearance of the phenomena in the night to "an outraged physical organism." That is his explanation of "an occult law," and no doubt it satisfies him. But he further denounces Spiritualism as "doom and death to its disciples." He certainly must have himself been a Spiritualist of Spiritualists to know what none others yet know. To prove (?) his assertions he descends to a plane of personal abuse to the level of which we shall not follow him—preferring to yield the palm of precedence to him in this direction.

Dr. Talmage is nothing if not picturesque. He acts precisely as, on occasion, he charges mediums with acting—unconsciously, and without self-control. He is rapt in his ecstasies; while denying and denouncing all mediumistic gifts, he nevertheless employs them himself with the utmost freedom. He is evidently a creature of moods and tenses, knowing nothing of their coming on. The obvious trouble with him is that he acts too much, with tongue and hands especially. There can be no doubt of his being more or less of a medium, receiving the spiritual power in currents whose source he knows nothing of, and discharging it again in bolts whose explosions astonish none more than they do himself. His intellect may fairly be described as kaleidoscopic, his thoughts and conceptions being generally without form, of the most confused and contradictory colors, and never transgressing the limit allowed by the hand that turns the tube.

Not wanting to be counted out of the ministerial combination that is just now driving with all its energies at Spiritualism, attempting as it were a joint inquisition of belief whose progress it despairs of arresting in any other way, Mr. Talmage has come forward confidently in complete war-paint, brandishing his linguistic tomahawk and giving his most ferocious war-whoop. He is not going to be left in any background in this business, if his name continues to be Talmage. Said he: "A cry has been raised to the effect that a new religion had been found. No! no! it is no new religion. It is as old as the text and older"—the same "Witch" of Endor "chestnut" that he had been munching before his enraptured congregation. "The sorcerers," said he, "the soothsayers, the astrologers, the necromancers are all of them exhalations of the pit, and God never speaks of them but in tones of thunder. To him all those who have recourse to such are declared to be an abomination, and they are to be cut off from His people." There was doom in Spiritualism. Saul was doomed. Every one that had to do with mediums was doomed. And, he added, those who were familiar with spirit-rapping were not much fitted for the raps of the real world. This of course would exclude such raps as may be termed the Talmagian. Spiritualism, he said, was still further demoralizing. It was too closely allied with free-love. "The sooner it went to the hell whence it came the better. Down with it! Down with it! Away with it! Away with the religion of spooks!"

Mr. Talmage may appear very dangerous, but he really does not mean anything in particular in what he shoots off after this fashion. People who go in droves to hear him would be dreadfully disappointed if they were not treated to some such sort of action. To-day it is on one subject and to-morrow on another. The tide is closely studied by him. In the sweep of his numerous and varied performances he cannot very well help saying a great many things that are profoundly true, but that is when his mood is an elevated one, winged, so to speak, and carrying him far above and beyond all pulpit partisanship and personal prejudices. At such times he is to a degree inspired, becomes a medium, and unconsciously utters pure truths. Here is a man, now, who had just before preached on the curse of intolerance in the churches; in the next breath, almost, he raves and roars and tears his hair in making a public exhibition of himself as a hater of Spiritualism and all who believe in it, abusing them in the diction which he has made classical, and calling down on them the thunders of the wrath of that God whom he professes to worship as the common Father of us all—the parent of unchangeable love! It is in such spells and spasms that Mr. Talmage is most truly himself, and therefore least to be heeded.

No Creed—No Leader.

A favorite expression of the ministers and clergy who are in the current combination to disparage, denounce, and, if possible, to destroy Spiritualism, and to offset its direct and distinct instructions, is that it is without a creed or any other theoretic form of belief, and that it cannot show any leader. In other words, it comes to mortals without any Westminster Catechism, Syllabus, or Thirty-Nine Articles, and it presumes to declare the simple and welcome truth without the authority of any Peter or Paul, and regardless of the favor or disfavor of any synods or councils. They who insist that spiritual truth shall and can be given to mankind in no way except through such channels ought to be fully able to show that there is absolutely no other, and, more than this, that they are exclusively possessed of a knowledge of the matter which none others have, and can speak with an authority nowise inferior to that of the Supreme Intelligence himself. Such a bold and blasphemous assumption they would hardly dare confess themselves equal to; yet, if they would pause to reflect, they could not well help seeing that it is precisely what they do maintain—nothing more and nothing less.

We therefore stop to challenge these omniscient, but fortunately non-omnipotent preachers and teachers to prove to the satisfaction of the general mind that all the channels by which the All-Father has purposed to communicate the streams of divine influence to his earthly children have been opened in a remote past, and that his resources for their ultimate perfection are exhausted. We insist that they must either do this, or else forever hold their peace. We understand beforehand that they will instantly take refuge between the covers of their idol Bible for their answer, but that proves nothing and satisfies nobody, for the reason that the general intelligence is not willing to believe that God does not exist for his children anywhere except on the pages of a book made with human hands, before the compilation of which, according to their childish statement, the world of men was in a state of blank darkness. If there indeed be no God to communicate with his children, except through the Bible and its contending interpreters, manifestly he must have left his creation wholly uncared for during the ages prior to the human making of that collection of writings, and consequently he must be a God that is full of human imperfections.

Now there is no possible way of arriving at the truth, and especially spiritual truth, but by first peeling off the scales of idolatrous prejudice from the mind's eyes, and accepting its messages gladly from whatever quarter and in whatever way they come. We should do so, and in fact we must do so, unless we so far excel all others in knowledge as to be able to declare with perfect positiveness that the Divine Creator of all things is impotent to communicate the streams of his influence to his children in but one channel, and that a few self-chosen men are able not only to designate it but to control it.

As for the alleged lack of a creed and a leader for Spiritualism, it ought to be obvious that it is all the more authentic as well as valuable as a fresh revelation for the want. The time has happily come in human affairs when forms and men are not needed as symbols of divine truth, but it may be communicated through the humblest and most familiar agencies, and it may be obtained without intervention, permission or purchase. Because Spiritualism does away with all the machinery which men have constructed in the past for the assumed regulation of spiritual things, the machine hands naturally cry out against it and charge it with the desecration of what is divine and sacred. That is simply the fault of their superstition, nothing more. Because they have all their lives followed creeds and obeyed leaders is no sufficient reason, nor indeed any reason, why there never shall be discovered any different and better way. Let them scoff at and scorn the methods of Spiritualism as much as they will, they only betray the narrowness of thought and the poverty of spirit in which their iron-clad creeds have held them imprisoned and starving. Of course they would be expected to demand of Spiritualism that it shall be measured for their short and narrow bed, since they have never known any other. But that does not weaken the testimonies at all by which Spiritualism is constantly declaring the larger and the vital truth to mortals. If it were to depend on the autocratic assertions of any leader to impress its truths on waiting and hungering humanity, it would be far less worthy to arrest and occupy the minds of men than it is now and will continue to be to the end.

Sir Moses Montefiore—Jewish Charity.

This distinguished Jew, who lived to be more than a centenarian, was born in London in 1784. He came from a wealthy Jewish family of bankers, and married into the still wealthier Rothschild family. According to a recent lecture on his life and work by Rabbi Schindler, he held strictly to the minutest prescriptions of the table laws, and clung to the belief that a restoration of the Jewish nationality was both desirable and possible. He visited Palestine in 1829 with that expectation, as another distinguished Jew had done a century before, in the hope of personally discovering a way for the realization of his chimerical dream. But an inspection of the situation dissolved his ideals into a mist. He saw for himself the degraded condition of the oriental Jews, and the absolute necessity of elevating to a higher plane those living nearest to the Holy Land if it were ever to become a central station for the Jews scattered over the world. And to the task of effecting this elevation he devoted his whole life and all his energies, doing all that he could and in the best way that he understood.

He felt himself called upon to be an advocate for the oppressed Jews of all countries. He traveled to Russia, and interceded with the Czar for the Jews living in his dominions. He took active, though ineffective, steps in the Mortara affair. When he died after a hundred years of earth-life, the whole world mourned for him as for one of the noblest philanthropists that has ever lived upon earth. Charity was the inspiration and substance of his long life. It was none the less worthy of the world's admiring sympathy, though, as Rabbi Schindler observes, his money was spent to advance the cause of dying Orthodoxy, and though it impeded the growth and development of modern Judaism.

On this much-worn, yet ever new, subject, Rabbi Schindler remarks that the most profitable and best remunerative of all virtues seems to be charity. A Hebrew proverb says that it "saves from death," and according to a popular adage it covers at least "a multitude of sins." Rabbi Schindler felicitously defines it as an attempt to compromise between the rights of the individual and the imperfect state of society; as a kind of pendulum to regulate the relation between the rich and the poor, the fortunate and the unfortunate; and in this view he says it becomes self-evident that it will and must adapt itself to the demands of the time, and therefore that not only opinions respecting charity but its practice are subject to constant changes.

In times past, especially among Jews, hospitality was esteemed one of the foremost charities. All charity was then private, and was organized only when, as in a general calamity, individual charity was inadequate. No sooner, however, had the new era created new conditions than the sharp eye of the Jew saw that the system of his charities must assume a different form and grow to larger proportions, if it was to keep up with the demands of the time. Public charitable institutions, in which the poor were taken care of, then sprang up like mushrooms. There was hardly a large city in Europe in which Israelites would not found and endow hospitals, orphan asylums, homes for the aged and infirm, and schools for the instruction of the children of the poor. Both the orthodox and the reform Jews vied with each other to see which could show the most charitable men. New life began to circulate, new forces began to concentrate, and the Jews showed to the world by liberal deeds, by facts that spoke more loudly for them than the most glorious orations, that they were not a foreign element, that they were not clannish and secluisve, that they were not lacking in neighborly love, that they were not mere money-grabbers, but that they were as public spirited, as liberal and as charitable as their fellow-citizens.

The world could not always refuse to acknowledge facts that were so evident, and in less than half a century after the Jewish reconstruction their influence was directly felt by all civilized nations. And it is the glory of this reconstruction and reform that it keeps pace with the most advanced movements of the age in charity and abounding good works.

☞ "On Tuesday next the May conversazione of the London Spiritualist Alliance will be held in the Banqueting Hall, St. James's Hall. It will be an 'open' night, without any formal paper, but devoted to music, conversation and inquiry. Such of the audience as desire to ask any practical question, on which they seek for guidance or information, are invited to send up their queries in writing to the President." So says London Light of May 12th, which we here refer to as witness of what the English Spiritualist Alliance is doing. The American Alliance is holding similar meetings in New York City at the present time.

☞ W. H. Terry's practical advice to the Melbourne (Australia) school, (see third page) should be read by every Spiritualist Lyceum worker and member in America.

Renan's Last Book.

The last book written by Ernest Renan, the "History of the People of Israel," completes the series which covers his long since begun undertaking to write a "History of the Origin of Christianity." His "Life of Jesus" formed its most brilliant and notable part. According to his conception, the histories of Greece, Judea and Rome unitedly form the true history of civilization. Christianity was evolved from Judaism by the liberal rationalism of Greece and the humanizing force of Rome. "If there is such a thing as one miraculous history," says Renan, "there are at least three. The Jewish history, which claims to have the monopoly of miracles, is not a whit more extraordinary than Greek history. If supernatural intervention is the sole explanation of the one, so it must be of the other. I will even add that, in my opinion, the greatest miracle on record is Greece herself."

This history of the people of Israel takes them up from the period of their nomad state and follows them along from their settlement in Syria, through their organization into fixed tribes, to the establishment of the kingdom of David, their moral and religious development being particularly kept in view. The progress of the conception of monotheism, through the early Elohim of the wandering state and the Iahveh of the nation, is the leading thought, and is found to consist in reverting from Iahveh to Elohim, in modifying Iahveh, and in stripping him of his personal attributes and leaving him only the abstract existence of Elohim, or the present God of the human race.

Iahveh is taken to be possibly the local God of Sinai, or the provincial God of Palestine, and was the exclusive God of Israel until, through the prophets, Israel became changed from nationalism to idealism. Prophecy supplanted the divining machine or ephod. The prophet became a divine agent. Samuel contributed largely to the coming prophets of the eighth century before Christ, in their efforts to bring Israel back to the primitive Elohism of patriarchal days. David was Iahvehist, creating Jerusalem, which was to be the loved capital of humanity; but he was ignorant of what the religion of Iahveh was to become. As century rolled on after century, we shall find David, in the language of Renan, "the outlaw of Adullam and Ziklag, assuming little by little the airs of the saint, becoming the author of the Psalms, the type of the future Saviour. Jesus will be called the son of David. Pious souls, delighting over the sentiments so full of resignation and tender melancholy contained in the finest books of the liturgy, will fancy themselves in communion with this bandit. Humanity will believe in a future state on the testimony of David, who never believed in it himself."

Greek rationalism is dominant to-day, but for all that, says Renan, the Bible, "whatever may be said, is the great book of consolation for humanity."

Poisoning by Vaccination.

An Ohio journal, the Sandusky Gazette, feels compelled to admit that it is a mooted question whether vaccination does not do more harm than good. Although medical men by a large majority uphold it as a sure preventive of smallpox, many other equally learned men in medical science regard it as highly dangerous to human health. The New York World recently contained a long article, in which was related the experience of a seven-year-old girl who had been vaccinated by an official of the Health Department of that city. Both of her arms became sore, and then the swelling extended to her legs and feet, and thence to her ears, face and eyes, threatening the destruction of her sight, if not of her life. The Sandusky paper relates that the remains of a bright eight-year-old boy were interred in one of the cemeteries of that city during that week, whose death was due to vaccination. His parents had removed to Cleveland from Sandusky a little more than a month before, and the Board of Education of Cleveland ordered the boy to be vaccinated as the condition of admitting him to the public schools. Very soon his arms began to swell, and in less than two weeks he was dead. This leads the journal in question to say that the smallpox virus is often more dangerous than smallpox itself. It is blood-poisoning, and nothing less.

We see it stated in the Boston Herald that, according to the estimate of the Boston Board of Health, about one-fourth of the population of the city are without what is misnamed the protection from smallpox which is claimed for vaccination. The Herald thinks this reveals "a rather astonishing condition of things in view of the law which requires that no person can attend the public schools without first presenting a certificate of vaccination," and recommends as a cure-all that "the first thing to be done" to prevent a spreading of the smallpox which now sporadically manifests itself in Boston—every isolated case of which is caught up and trumpeted abroad by the press—"is to see to it that everybody is vaccinated." But of the terrible results of vaccination itself not a word is said. The life-long suffering, the sapping of the citadel of life, the decay and destruction of the health, the lingering death—of all this the Herald says nothing, when it might add with greater truth that the ravages from vaccination are far more extensive and fatal, if they were only known, than those from smallpox when it becomes epidemic. Vaccination simply means sure blood-poisoning, and it is attempted to enforce it by law.

☞ The New York World once in a while blunders on the truth. Here is a fair specimen:

"The number of Americans going to Europe this year is greater than ever before. The Atlantic steamship companies are having all they can attend to, and could make use of many more vessels than they own. It is becoming more and more clear that there is a brilliant future in store for Europe as an American summer resort. Though we have a population now of but 60,000,000 people, we already largely support the inhabitants of many interesting localities in the effete monarchies. By the time we reach 200,000,000 it can readily be understood that the energies of the Europeans will be mainly devoted to securing a living through making it pleasant for us over there during our pleasure tours and sojourns for health."

☞ The statement we copied from "Howard's Gossip" in the Boston Globe, last week, regarding Mr. Talmage's often-delivered lecture against Spiritualism, really owes its rise, it seems, to an interview held by a representative of the Brooklyn Citizen, Saturday evening, May 19th, (and printed in that paper for the 20th,) with Mr. Frederick F. Purdey of that city, from whose scrap-book the data were originally obtained.

☞ "Reporter's" letter regarding "Mr. Baxter on Cape Ann" will appear next week.

More Profit-Sharing.

We have before us a sheet containing a printed report of the result of the first year of the profit-sharing plan at John Wanamaker's famous sales establishment in Philadelphia. It conclusively shows that the combination of the interests of the wage-earner and the wage-payer is advantageous to both in all ways. From this most welcome report it appears that during the past year, under the profit-sharing system, the cash distributed to the employés of the establishment, over and above usual salaries, amounted to $109,439,68, of which sum over $50,000 were paid in monthly dividends, over $40,000 in annual dividends, and $10,000 to the pension fund in the hands of trustees. This pension fund is for the permanently disabled, who, by reason of old age or accident in the service of the establishment, are no longer able to work.

Wanamaker established his business in Philadelphia twelve years ago, and the plan for dividing the profits among the employés together with the proprietor was given out on Good Friday of last year. It is practical and actual cooperation. The favored beneficiaries at least are not opposed to it. The payment of fixed wages merely can never secure the hearty goodwill, the earnest endeavor, and the best business intelligence of an army of employés, as profit-sharing can.

In his sincerely friendly address to the force employed in his vast Philadelphia establishment, Mr. Wanamaker said it was the first time that any retail dry-goods establishment in the United States had risen to the level of even partial coöperation. He acknowledged the pleasure it gave him to watch the monthly dividends. He assured them that the action he had taken in this profit-sharing was not from any fear of strikes, but simply to benefit them and inspire them to benefit their employers. "The house," he said, "might have been with $109,000 more in bank to-night, had it kept the money, but we increase our capital by increasing your comfort, respect, intelligence and interest."

The monthly dividends, which are paid in addition to the regular weekly salaries, are percentages on the amount of the sales. Annual dividends are paid to those employés who have been in the service of the establishment for seven years. In Mr. Wanamaker's employ are men, women, girls and boys. Connected with this profit-sharing scheme there is a savings-bank, in which sums of two dollars and upward are received on deposit, and the rate of interest allowed on all general deposits is five per cent. per annum. A civil service system has also been set in operation, by which faithful and successful services are rewarded by promotion.

☞ The Daily News of Newburyport, Mass., reports the Rev. Mills as still doing his best to misrepresent Spiritualism and prejudice his hearers against it. He undertook in an evening lecture recently to inform his audience something about "Purgatory," of which he doubtless knows about as much from personal experience as he does about Spiritualism, and consequently the information he gave of the one was on a par with that he gave of the other. The News states that before he led his auditors to the subject of his discourse (Purgatory) he said there had been seven different replies written to his sermon on "Spiritualism," but not one of them answered him to the point; that "each put a sermon in his mouth and answered it themselves." If this is so, he has no one to blame but himself. The writers referred to had no other reports of his discourse to guide them than what appeared in the local papers. As Rev. Mills did not—so far as we are informed—disavow the correctness of those reports, it was natural for every one to presume he admitted them, at least in all essential points, to be true. And probably he knew them to be so; but the statements, charges and insinuations appear to him different in cold type staring him in the face, than they did in the heat of a bigoted tirade in his pulpit. He has, quite likely, come to realize by this time that he was unfortunate in his choice of a model when he took Sydney Smith's Mrs. Partington in her vain attempt to sweep back the ocean with a broom.

☞ "M. A. (Oxon)" in London Light says—and with a good deal of unction—that the Spiritualists should organize on a broad and comprehensive basis. Mrs. Emma H. Britten, the veteran worker in the ranks, also suggests the same thing, and has offered a prize for the best essay upon the subject: "The Best Means of Advancing Spiritualism in Great Britain." THE BANNER has been urging for a long time organization in this country for business purposes—the result of which has been the formation of THE AMERICAN SPIRITUALIST ALLIANCE, with headquarters in the city of New York, which is in successful operation at the present time.

What should be done now, with all possible speed, is the formation of Branches in every city in the United States. It is high time that Spiritualists recognize the importance of this movement, and go to work for its successful advancement. We urge this measure as a matter of safety to the Cause and its martyr mediums. We desire all the Spiritual Societies throughout the length and breadth of the land to take action in this important direction, for the very reason that the common enemy is now more active and vindictive than ever to crush out the grandest philosophy that was ever given to man, coming as it does from the supermundane sphere of life.

☞ We learn from the San Francisco Chronicle that Mrs. Esther Knox, daughter of the late Mical and Mehitable Tubbs, of Oakland, Cal., recently passed to spirit-life. She was a devoted Spiritualist. We knew the lady well, as herself and parents were dwellers in Boston for years.

THE SOUL.—The last number of The Soul contains interesting articles by Mr. Jacob Edson, Prof. A. E. Carpenter, Dr. O. H. Wellington, and a slate-writing with Mr. Mansfield before a committee at Paine Hall. See contents on another page. For sale at the Banner of Light Bookstore.

☞ Attention is called to the advertisement on our third page regarding the published works of that interesting and thoughtful writer, Mrs. Nettie Pease Fox.

☞ Willard J. Hull, of Buffalo, N. Y., writes us (see BANNER Correspondence) an interesting account of his personal experiences with Henry Slade.

☞ The Fall Term of the Belvidere Seminary will begin Monday, Sept. 24th. For circulars address the Principals, Belvidere, Warren Co., N. J.

Talmage Excoriated.

Some idea as to the storm of indignant protest which the late attack on Spiritualism by Rev. T. De Witt Talmage has aroused, may be gained by the numerous articles in the daily and weekly press of the country. We have at the present time, but cannot give publicity to, several such articles in which the Brooklyn divine is exhibited in his true light before the reading world. We have space only for excerpts, and choose the following at random as specimens of the racy flavor of all:

"It is very possible that Judge Abram H. Dailey is not quite as well known in Timbuctoo or Nova Zembla as Dr. Talmage is, but to the two or three millions of people in and about New York he is as well known as the Tabernacle pastor, and in private or public his word will go as far and his character is just as good as the Doctor's. Judge Dailey replied to the Doctor's bitter philippic by challenging him to an open discussion in the largest assembly hall in Brooklyn. He offered to defray one-half of the expense and promised to furnish such proofs in open daylight as should convince the Doctor, but Mr. Talmage refused to meet him, denouncing Spiritualists as liars and fools. Now Judge Dailey is a gentleman of good character, of extensive practice as a lawyer, and a gentleman every way as worthy of consideration and belief as Dr. Talmage himself. When he denounces the great body of Spiritualists as liars and fools, that proves nothing but the Doctor's ill manners and bad temper, both of which are but indifferent recommendations for a first-class clergyman. Judge Dailey asserts on his honor that he has seen materializations, and that they have approached him and he touched them, and then that they vanished into thin air. There are many of us who do not and cannot believe all this; but this man says he saw it, not once but often, and his word would be taken in any court of justice just as soon as Dr. Talmage's or that of any clergyman in New York or Brooklyn."—"BROADBRIM," in Hampshire County Gazette, Northampton, Mass.

I charge (a la Talmage) that the teachings of Jesus have been misrepresented by the church and that the doctrine of Christianity, as taught by the Church of to-day, is totally different from that taught by Jesus, and if the churches had a little more spirituality and less doctrine it might be better. Such a desirable result may possibly be attained through this very Spiritualism which they now condemn, and mainly condemn because they look at and consider only the phenomena of Spiritualism as manifested in various forms, rather than the grand philosophy which underlies it all. My own opinion is that Spiritualism will never form a distinct sect or religious organization of its own, but that it is destined to do its work among the various churches; fermenting, leavening and purifying the whole, so that at last there shall be but one battle-cry all along the line—the battle-cry of freedom from priestly tyranny embraced in the sentence: "The Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man."... Spiritualism now needs no defender, as it is upon us like a flood and 'carrying all before it. Under these circumstances it would seem that the clergy, instead of fruitlessly attempting to stem the irresistible tide, should float with it, endeavoring rather to guide and direct those who are floating thereon than standing in the way and courting their own destruction by attempting to stem the tide.—FREDERICK F. PURDEY, in Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

"He speaks against Spiritualism because the world is beginning to investigate it, and he knows that if the people do investigate, nine-tenths of them will become Spiritualists, and then what will become of Rev. De Witt Talmage?... The reverend gentleman not only tries to convince his hearers, but sends out his influence through the press. He sends forth this sermon to keep the people from danger, but side by side with the sermon we read of two Presbyterian clergymen who committed suicide. Had they been to a séance? No. One did not get salary enough and the other had typhoid fever."—MRS. C. M. NICKERSON, in report of lecture in New Bedford, Mass., Evening Standard.

No fair-minded person who knows anything about Spiritualists or Spiritualism will believe him, [Talmage] and the opinions of others or of him we care nothing for. Nothing can be more false than his description of the physical and mental condition of mediums and advocates of the spiritual doctrine. Spiritualists are, with few exceptions, temperance men and women, and are the outspoken advocates of all reforms in life and practice, and as for the licentiousness he attributes to the followers of the spiritual philosophy, all we have to say is that it is false, and that the clergy furnish more than four to one in proportion to their numbers, as any one who reads the daily papers can testify. His description of the origin of Modern Spiritualism is as incorrect as the balance of his tirade. The raps and noises by which the spirits sometimes make themselves known have been heard for hundreds of years, both in this country and in other parts of the world. The Rev. John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, states in his writings that similar occurrences took place in his home and he attributes them to the spirits, and says emphatically that 'With my dying breath I will defend these proofs of the immortality of the soul.' No religion that ever occupied the minds of the people has made such rapid progress as it [Spiritualism], and if the millions who believe it are underwitted or dishonest, then is the condition of society deplorable indeed. On the contrary many of the world's brightest intellects, and practical business men and women are proud to be known as believers in the only proof of immortality."—J. D. CHISM, JR., in Albany, N. Y., Telegram.

The Rev. Talmage seems exceedingly exercised over the supposed fact that most spirit manifestations occur in the night or hours of darkness, because "deception prospers best in the dark." Granted; but how was it that the wise men of the East, who came to worship the infant Jesus, as well as Joseph who protected him, were invariably warned of danger and only by night; or that Peter, of whom is recorded a most wonderful physical manifestation, viz., being released from prison while sleeping between two soldiers and bound with two chains, should have been loosed by an angel from those iron bonds when the darkness was so dense that a spiritual light was necessary to light their feet past the guards of the various wards out through the great iron gate that led to the city? Also, Paul and Silas were released from prison at midnight by angel visitants; and a vision appeared to Paul by night, "praying him to come over into Macedonia." Thus we might multiply cases ad infinitum, but think the mirror in which Rev. Talmage is invited to see the reflection of a natural and universal law is sufficiently clear and many-sided to prove to reasonable minds, at least, that the same class of phenomena invariably occur, subject to the same conditions, in obedience to an immutable law of Nature....

Who dare assert that any cumulative evidence which proves that death cannot destroy individual faculties, nor blight the clinging affections of the home circle, is not the sublimest truth vouchsafed to the human race?...

Lastly, the charge that Spiritualism ruins mediums and debases the moral sensibilities, is the chief of erroneous suppositions. That many mediums, like other human beings, make grave mistakes, and allow themselves to live unworthy the heavenly teachings they receive, proves nothing against the system of religion, since even the Christian religion, and notably Rev. Dr. Talmage's brilliant sermons, fail to make saints of all who sit under his ministrations, or are baptized into the church militant. Having lived under the blessed sunlight of mediumship for more than thirty years, many of them spent in public ministrations, I can proudly and conscientiously affirm that I never received a communication from the spirit-world that did not glow with pure and exalted thought; always teaching the healthful truth that whatsoever men sow, they must also reap in the life to come."—MRS. E. F. JAY BULLENE, in the Daily News, Denver, Col.

"DR. HARRISON A. TUCKER, trustee of Dr. Talmage's Tabernacle, has been obliged to confess himself a Spiritist, acting under the control of his uncle, a long-time dweller in the spirit-world. By means of the kindly-disposed relative, Dr., Tucker has made hundreds of thousands of dollars. This medium is very fearful that this rumpus will make a coolness between himself and Dr. Talmage. He need not worry. The Tabernacle needs money, and as long as the trance-medium is willing to keep his vast earnings in active circulation he will continue to be a cornerstone. Consistency and charity? Where shall we find them?—ELEANOR KIRK, in Cape Ann Advertiser, Gloucester, Mass.

READS LIKE OLD TIMES.—A tale which resembles those of the early days of the American merchant marine comes eastward by way of San Francisco, Cal., to the effect that piracy in the Chinese seas is still "on deck," and is as bloodthirsty and plundering in its instincts as ever. The costly steamer, San Pablo, Capt. Reed, struck a sunken rock in a thick fog early on the morning of April 24th; the reef was situate off Turnabout Island in the Formosa Straits; and as soon as the steamer was discovered, and in a sinking condition, she was attacked by a swarm of piratical junks, whose occupants endeavored to carry the ship by boarding in the old-fashioned style; but revolvers, repeating rifles and boiling water (the latter from the steamer's pipes) proved too much for the "yellow boys," and they retired after two assaults, with serious loss. The captain, putting crew and passengers into his boats, then fled to the mainland; whereupon the pirates, who had previously drawn off to a safe distance, bore down upon and looted the sinking ship, which was finally destroyed by fire, kindled either accidentally or purposely by the robbers. Thus perished a vessel valued at $500,000—said to be the finest appointed in the Pacific trade.

☞ Read the call for the Sturgis, Mich., Annual Meeting, on our eighth page.

The Ultimate of the "Evil Spirit" Theory in the Past.

Fortunately we live in an age when those who in their ignorance attribute the manifestations of the presence of spirits to malign influences are restrained from reënacting the tragedies of centuries since, when mediums of various grades of development met their death as "witches," in obedience to an Old Testament command, at the hands of just such condemners of the truth; 40,000 in England, 300,000 in France and 17,000 in Scotland. Reminiscences of those scenes of horror in the last named locality have been revived by R. Burns Begg, F. S. A., of Kinross, having read at a meeting of the Society of Antiquaries of Scotland, a paper concerning the assize of witches at the Crook of Devon in Kinross-shire, a report of which we find in the Dunfermline Journal of April 28th, the meetings having been held on the Monday previous.

After referring to the various statutes against witchcraft which followed the Act of the Scottish Parliament of 1563, the impetus given to the "discovery of witches" by the morbid interest in the subject manifested by James VI., the influence of the English judges appointed to administer justice in the Scottish Courts under the Commonwealth in restraining the ferocity of the prosecutions for this statutory crime, and the revival of that ferocity after the Restoration, Mr. Begg went on to give the details of five trials of witchcraft which were held in one small parish in Kinross-shire, that of Fossoway, in the year 1662. These were the more noteworthy, seeing that they took place, not under the superintendence of any of the amateur judges created for the nonce by commission from the Privy Council, but under the presidency of the Justice-General-Depute for Scotland, Mr. Alexander Colville of Blair, a gentleman of professional dignity and training, whose official position was a guarantee that the proceedings were in all respects formal and regular according to the judicial views of the period.

The number of persons placed on trial was thirteen, consisting of one warlock, named Robert Wilson, and twelve witches—women apparently in the humbler ranks of life, one of whom is described in the ditty as "of three-score and nineteen years of age." The Court held five sittings at Crook of Devon between the months of April and October 1662. At the first diet three women were convicted and taken the day after their trial to Lamblaires, to be strangled and burnt. At the second diet Robert Wilson and four women were brought to trial, and met with a similar doom. At the third diet two widows, one on the verge of eighty years of age, were condemned, and at the fourth diet two married women were convicted and burnt.

"The proceedings were," says the Journal, "analagous to those of a modern Jury Court, the Justice-General-Depute sitting as the presiding Judge, while the jury consisted of fifteen persons selected from the land-owners and other responsible persons resident in the district. There can be no doubt but that the accused had their trial conducted before an intelligent Judge and jury. They were apparently men of recognized position and respectability, no doubt shrewd and conscientious, and fairly representative of the intelligence and enlightenment of the age and district." "Nor can it be doubted," continues the writer, "that they were men whose natural leanings would be toward the merciful side, and yet there seem to have been no misgivings amongst them as to the absolute righteousness of their wholesale condemnation of so many persons, their near neighbors, on such meagre and inconsequential—nay, even absurd and self-contradictory—evidence. No stronger or more saddening proof could be obtained of the deep and unreasoning belief in the Satanic influences, or evil-Spiritualism of the time prevailing among all classes of the community."

To this we may add that the course adopted by certain occupants of pulpits at the present time directly tends to the creation and dissemination of the same "unreasoning belief"; but, as we remarked at the beginning of this article, fortunately, the enlightenment of the people and the pressure of public opinion restrain them from ultimating their nefarious plans and purposes.

Aid for an Afflicted Medium.

The widow of John P. Dimond is in very destitute circumstances, and greatly in need of help from the kindly disposed. She is confined to her bed at 12 Kendall street, Boston, and is utterly helpless. If those who may feel to aid her pecuniarily will send their offerings to our office we will acknowledge the receipt in these columns, and see that the amounts are forwarded to their proper destination.

We have received a letter from Mrs. Dimond, under date of May 26th, acknowledging the receipt of $6, which we published, as contributed, last week. She desires to return her sincere thanks to the friends who have so kindly aided her.

The following sums have reached us for the Dimond fund since last report:

Helper	$2.00
Henry J. Horn	1.00
Friend, Taunton, Mass.	1.00

Decease of Abbie E. Cutter.

A dispatch reached Onset Bay on the noon of Thursday, May 24, announcing the sudden passage to spirit-life of Dr. Abbie E. Cutter, at the Planter's Hotel, St. Louis, Mo.—she having been found dead in her room. It is supposed that her demise was caused by heart disease.

Mrs. Cutter was widely known among the Spiritualists of the country as a lecturer and medical practitioner (of the eclectic type). She was a native of Maine, and at the time of her decease had attained to sixty-seven years of life in the mortal. The latter portion of her life was earnestly devoted to the building up of the Wickett's Island Home for invalids, situated on an islet of that name in Onset harbor, which was her property. Her remains will be brought to Onset for interment.

THE INDEPENDENT PULPIT in its May issue reports the decease of George B. Dutton, a resident of Waco, Texas, for thirty years, during which time he held several offices of public trust, being at one time county treasurer and for ten years a member of the city council. Mr. Dutton was a man of the strictest integrity, and it was a common saying in Waco, "George Dutton's word is as good as his bond." He was a Spiritualist, a reader of the BANNER OF LIGHT, of which, we are informed, "he was an ardent admirer." Of his last moments The Pulpit says, "If any man ever died without a single doubt as to his immortality, we believe he did, and his death was without remorse or fear." The Evening Day in a notice of the funeral service remarked:

"There were flowers on the casket and in the room, and their aroma was all-pervading, but not an emblem of mourning. This was in accordance with the wishes of the deceased. He looked upon death as a happy release from an initiatory existence, and did not desire that crape and tears should be features of the last mark of respect shown him. Mr. J. D. Shaw was present by request of the family, and standing at the head of the casket spoke feelingly and eloquently of the life and virtues of the dead. He depicted his long and useful life; his sterling integrity; his broad, never-ceasing charity; his fearless adherence to principles and convictions; his temperate life and habits; his steady industry; his care and love for wife, children and friends—and drew from all these a lesson and example worthy to be learned and followed by any man who desires to live well and die well."

The Pulpit in addition to its "In Memoriam" of Mr. Dutton contains a large number of articles upon subjects of much interest to liberal and progressive minds. Waco, Texas: J. D. Shaw.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST HELD FOR TRIAL.—Judge Pettingill, of the Malden, Mass., District Court rendered his decision on the morning of May 26th in the case of Mrs. Abbey A. Corner, Christian Scientist, who was arrested about three weeks since on charge of manslaughter, in causing the death of her daughter. Mrs. Lottie R. James, by not providing proper treatment during her confinement. The accused is held in $5000 bonds to appear before the Superior Court.

C. E. WATKINS will for the next ten days give séances to Spiritualists—by the request of friends—at reduced rates. He is soon to leave Boston for a much needed rest before the camp-meetings begin.

☞ The Eastern Star is now issued by a company of the same name, at Bucksport, Me.—E. Schuyler Wardwell being editor.

Spiritualist Camp-Meetings for 1888.

The season of out-of-door gatherings on the part of the believers in the New Dispensation is drawing nigh; and the reader will find, by reference to the subjoined, a partial list of the localities and time of session where such convocations are to be held.

The BANNER OF LIGHT has made it a practice for years past to give this list to its patrons each season, and reverts with satisfaction to the fact that at each recurrent period this roster of the army of progress has been repeatedly copied (and widely circulated), either in extenso or by briefer notice, into the columns of Spiritualist and secular papers in many portions of the country:

ONSET BAY, MASS.—The Twelfth Annual Camp-Meeting at this place commences its sessions July 15th, to close Aug. 12th.

LAKE PLEASANT, MASS.—The Fifteenth Annual Convocation of the New England Spiritualists' Camp-Meeting Association will be held at Lake Pleasant, Montague, Mass., (on the Hoosac Tunnel route) Aug. 1st to Sept. 3d, inclusive. The regular session will be preceded with speaking and musical exercises July 22d and 29th.

LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN, TENN.—The Fifth Annual Meeting will be held at this place (near Chattanooga) during the entire month of July.

CALIFORNIA CAMP-MEETING.—The Fourth Annual Gathering will be held at Lake Merritt Park, Oakland, Cal., from June 3d to July 1st, inclusive.

SUNAPEE LAKE, N. H.—The sessions of the Eleventh Annual Meeting commence July 29th, to close Aug. 29th.

QUEEN CITY PARK, VT.—Meeting commences Aug. 21st and continues to Sept. 16th, inclusive.

HASLETT PARK, MICH.—Meeting commences July 26th and continues five Sundays.

VERONA PARK, ME.—Meeting opens Aug. 12th and ends Aug. 27th.

CASSADAGA LAKE, N. Y.—Meeting commences July 21st and closes Aug. 28th. The Annual Picnic and Sunday Assembly of the Cassadaga Lake Free Association will take place June 8th, 9th and 10th.

NORTH COLLINS, N. Y.—The Friends of Human Progress will hold a Spiritual Festival at Forest Temple June 16th and 17th—Mrs. E. L. Watson and Dr. F. L. H. Willis being the speakers.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY SPIRITUALIST ASSOCIATION.—The Sixth Annual Camp-Meeting will commence at Mount Pleasant Park, Clinton, Ia., Sunday, July 29th, to continue five weeks.

MANTUA STATION, O.—The Association will hold a Basket-Meeting Sunday, July 1st, in Atwater's Grove. Societies adjacent are invited to join.

MORRISTOWN, MINN.—The Rice Co. Scientific, Moral and Reformatory Association will hold its First Annual Meeting at Morristown on the third Sunday in June; and in connection therewith will be held a Spiritual and Liberal Camp-Meeting, commencing on Wednesday, June 13th, and closing on Monday, June 18th.

CLACKAMAS, ORE.—The Clackamas County Society of Spiritualists will hold a Grove Meeting on its grounds at New Era, Ore., beginning Friday, June 8th, and holding over two Sundays.

ORION LAKE, MICH.—The First District Association of Spiritualists will hold a ten days' Camp-Meeting at Orion Lake, Oakland Co., Mich., commencing Saturday, June 2d, and ending Monday, June 11th.

PARKLAND, PA.—Meetings begin in July; dates not yet out.

☞ A Philadelphia medical college paper says: "The medical legislator is not usually a pleasant figure to contemplate. The methods of practical politics are so degrading that the physician of high standing is seldom found who will stoop to their employment." These same medical autocrats, who feel so much above the politicians, are, however, frequently found trying to influence them both before and after election for their own personal ends, and have frequently proved themselves ready, in various States of the Union, to make direct use of the "degrading" "methods" above criticised, to obtain the passage of laws obliging sick people to hire them—whether or no! Which is the least pleasant figure to contemplate—a medical legislator or a medical lobbyist?

☞ Mrs. H. W. Cushman, the well-known medium for musical phenomena, will celebrate her birthday at 212 Main street, Charlestown District, this city, on the evening of June 2d. All are cordially invited to attend.——On the 19th of June she goes to Onset Bay, where she will remain till July 1st, after which time she will make her residence at Lake Pleasant Camp, remaining there until Sept. 1st. She may, possibly, be able to visit Queen City Park, Vt., also during the season.——She returns special thanks to the BANNER OF LIGHT, and the friends generally, who have aided her in pecuniary and other ways in the past.

☞ Dr. C. F. Ware called on us recently and renewed his subscription. The Doctor was on his way home from Puget Sound, where he has been spending the winter. He reports our cause as in a favorable condition there as far as heard from. He desires to correct a statement made in a late issue of THE BANNER that Dr. H. F. Merrill is engaged to give tests at the Verona (Me.) Camp at the coming meeting—as he has not been engaged there.

THE JOURNAL OF THE AMERICAN AKADEME for May contains the paper on "Sentimentalism and Realism" read at the meeting of April 17th. A spirited discussion followed its reading, which is given in full. Both essay and discussion are of much interest. The editor (Alex. Wilder) writes of "Liberty and Government." The remaining contents are "Outline of the Vedanta Philosophy," "Electric Phenomena in Plants," "A Meditation" (verse), translated by Julia P. Stevens, and a number of aphorisms. Newark, N. J.: 565 Orange street.

Movements of Mediums & Lecturers.

[Notices under this heading must reach this office by Monday's mail to insure insertion the same week.]

Mrs. Mellie D. Cofran will be located at Keyes Cottage, South Boulevard, corner of 4th street, Onset, Mass., after June 1st.

Dr. Dean Clarke has gone to Woodstock, Vt., where he may be addressed for summer and fall lectures till further notice. Societies desiring his services for the ensuing season are requested to apply at once, so that he can arrange his time practically.

Mrs. T. J. Lewis, platform test medium (late of Brooklyn), was engaged at Springfield, Mass., Sunday, 27th inst. She would be pleased to make engagements with societies near Boston for the Sundays of June. Call or address her 205 Harrison Avenue, Boston.

Mary L. French having closed all engagements for the present season, will lecture, as she has in the past years, for the West Groton Liberal Association during the summer and fall. Is open for engagements for 1889.

On Sunday, May 13th, W. J. Colville addressed two very large and highly appreciative audiences in I. O. O. F. Hall, Spring street, Los Angeles, Cal.

Mrs. Ada Foye's Sunday night meetings in Washington Hall, San Francisco, are crowded to repletion, and her work never seemed so fruitful of good results as now.

Mattie E. Hull would like to make engagements in New England during September and October. Friends can address her 601 East Locust street, Des Moines, Iowa, care New Thought.

H. B. Philbrook is at present in Boston, stopping at No. 223 Shawmut Avenue, where he will be glad to see his friends.

Mrs. Kate R. Stiles spoke in Attleboro', Mass., last Sunday. [The Secretary's letter will appear next week.]

J. Frank Baxter lectured in Woonsocket, R. I., on Tuesday evening, May 29th, and left the last of the week for Cincinnati, O., where he will lecture each Sunday of June. July Sundays he will be in West Duxbury, Park Hill Grove (Scituate), Wachusett Park (Westminster), Parkland, Penn., Camp-Meeting and Hanson respectively. Address, wherever he may be, 181 Walnut street, Chelsea, Mass.

☞ I have more than once expressed an opinion that Hypnotism is not a reasonable plaything, nor does increased experience lead me to modify that conclusion. Hypnotic experiments in a drawing-room, as a more recent substitute for the "willing-game," are decidedly to be deprecated. Indeed it may be fitly said that no such experiments should be attempted at all except by a skilled practitioner who knows what he is doing, and is able to regulate the influence, and especially to remove it completely when the patient is aroused.—Mr. Stainton Moses, in London Light.

☞ Back numbers of THE BANNER for no special date will be supplied at four cents per copy: But parties ordering papers for any special date will be charged the usual price—eight cents per copy.

Norwich, Ct.—On our second page will be found a report of the closing of the Spiritual Union's meetings at G. A. R. Hall, for the season. The annual meeting of the Union was held on the evening of May 23d, the following officers and committees being elected for the ensuing year: Secretary, Mrs. J. Adelaide Chapman; Treasurer, Guilford Parker; Assistant Treasurer, Mrs. J. A. Chapman; Auditors, William P. Myers, R. J. Diffen; Committees on Speakers, R. M. Hubbell, Charles W. Spaulding, Edwin Allen, Julia Robbins, Dr. W. W. Clapp; Committee on Music, Miss Kate Taber, Mrs. J. A. Chapman, Guy Ayer; Trustees on Boardman Fund, Guilford Parker, Richard Hubbell, Edwin Allen, Sanford A. Chapman, Nehemiah Smith.

The report of the Treasurer showed the receipts during the past year to have been $1,412.54; expenditures, $1,396.87; with $16.17 in the treasury. A codicil of the will of the late Jedediah R. Gay, bequeathing $1,000 to the Spiritual Union of Norwich, was read by the Secretary.

Mrs. Chapman, Secretary, adds: "Our audiences have increased steadily, and we shall open our meetings next fall with renewed energy, and, if possible, greater efforts to present our beautiful Philosophy in its truest and best light. The dear BANNER we ever welcome with eagerness, to read the good tidings it always brings."

Fitchburg, Mass.—J. Frank Baxter spoke for the First Spiritualist Society, May 20th, to large and appreciative audiences, exercising his mediumistic powers in the evening successfully—most of the names and incidents being fully recognized at the time they were given; later others were acknowledged. On Monday evening, the 21st, Mr. Baxter gave our society a Literary and Musical Benefit. We all passed a very enjoyable evening.

Mr. J. D. Stiles closed the season's course with a lecture and tests the 27th of May.

Prof. Peck gives our society a benefit the 31st of this month. MRS. E. S. LORING, Sec'y.

Albany, N. Y.—The Ladies' Aid held its weekly meeting Friday afternoon and evening, May 19th. At six o'clock supper was served, after which Mrs. Carrie E. S. Twing occupied the platform, and made a few excellent remarks, and then going under control allowed "Ikabod" to give communications to about twenty persons, nearly all of whom were strangers to her. Mrs. Twing acceptably occupied the platform each Sunday morning and evening during last month. Strangers are always welcome, and will receive due consideration at our meetings.

NEW MUSIC.—The following new selections have been received from the publishers, White, Smith & Co., 516 Washington street, Boston: Instrumental: "Soldier's Joy," grand march, by Paul Keller; "Fairy Step Polka," by O. R. Blum; "Maiden's Heart-Love," by Cooper; "Bells of the Chapel," by Paul Keller. Vocal: "Hope Abides Forever," duet, by C. C. Stearns; "Long Years Ago," by Eben H. Bailey; "Our Nice Young Girls," by J. S. McMurray; "The Irish Soldier," by Chris. Stevens; "We'll All be Forgotten When We're Gone," by Harry Birch.

THE ARTISTIC interiors fitted up by J. H. Pray, Sons & Co. from their extensive upholstery and carpet department are considered models for correct taste and most pleasing effects of color.

Notice to Speakers and Mediums.

The Society of Union Spiritualists, of Cincinnati, are desirous of corresponding with Speakers and Platform Test Mediums combined, relative to engagements for months of 1889. State what months they can be engaged for and phases of Mediumship. Address

C. C. STOWELL, Sec'y.
Care The Way Publishing Company.

Train-Time to the Camps.

LAKE PLEASANT.

Trains "54," "100," "45" and "43" will stop at the Lake when there are passengers to leave, or when signalled to take passengers.

The above trains, "54" and "100," leave Boston at 6:30 A. M. and 3:05 P. M., arriving at Lake Pleasant at 10:40 A. M. and 6:45 P. M. The trains No. "45" and "43" leave Lake Pleasant at 6:40 A. M. and 2:45 P. M.

AMERICAN SPIRITUALIST ALLIANCE

MEETS AT 219 WEST 42D STREET, NEW YORK CITY, ON EACH ALTERNATE WEDNESDAY AT 8 P.M.

☞ All Spiritualists are cordially invited to become connected with THE ALLIANCE—either as resident or non-resident members—and to take an active part in its work.

THE ALLIANCE defines a Spiritualist to be: "One who knows that intelligent communication can be had between the living and the so-called dead," and all such are invited to become members. NELSON CROSS, President.
J. F. JEANERET, Secretary,
44 Maiden Lane, New York.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.

Each line in Agate type, twenty cents for the first and every insertion on the fifth or eighth page, and fifteen cents for each subsequent insertion on the seventh page.
Special Notices forty cents per line, Minion, each insertion.
Business Cards thirty cents per line, Agate, each insertion.
Notices in the editorial columns, large type, leaded matter, fifty cents per line.
Payments in all cases in advance.

☞ Advertisements to be renewed at continued rates must be left at our Office before 12 M. on Saturday, a week in advance of the date whereon they are to appear.

☞ Only small and light cuts will be allowed in the advertising columns. When accepted, our rates for that portion of the advertisement occupied by the cut will be one-half price in excess of the regular rates.
Electrotypes of pure type matter will not be accepted.
The publishers reserve the right to reject any and all electrotypes.

The BANNER OF LIGHT cannot well undertake to vouch for the honesty of its many advertisers. Advertisements which appear fair and honorable upon their face are accepted, and whenever it is made known that dishonest or improper persons are using our advertising columns, they are at once interdicted.
We request patrons to notify us promptly in case they discover in our columns advertisements of parties whom they have proved to be dishonorable or unworthy of confidence.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Dr. F. L. H. Willis may be addressed as usual for the summer Glenora, Yates Co., N. Y.
My19 7w*

Andrew Jackson Davis, Seer into the causes and natural cure of disease. Send for information to his office, 63 Warren Avenue, Boston, Mass. tf Ap7

H. A. Kersey, No. 3 Bigg Market, Newcastle-on-Tyne, will act as agent in England for the BANNER OF LIGHT and the publications of Colby & Rich during the absence of J. J. Morse.

To Foreign Subscribers the subscription price of the BANNER OF LIGHT is $3.50 per year, or $1.75 per six months. It will be sent at the price named above to any foreign country embraced in the Universal Postal Union.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

DR. J. C. STREET,
78 Montgomery street, Boston, Mass.
Ap7 tf

MISS L. E. SMITH,
MEDIUM for spirit communications, tests and business, personally or by letter (from articles). Terms $1.00, with stamp. 14 Union Park street, Boston. 1w* Je2

DR. J. HANDLY WHITE,
ELECTRIC and Magnetic Physician. Celebrated East India Cures. Office 80 Berkeley street, Suite 1, Boston. Hours 10 to 1 and 2 to 4 daily. Consultation free. 1w* Je2

DR. MARTHA LYON,
MEDICAL PSYCHOMETRIST, 620 Tremont st., Boston. Je2 1w*

MRS. C. H. LOOMIS-HALL, Test and Healing Medium. Answers six questions on business by mail, 50 cents; brief diagnosis from lock of hair and sex, 25 cents. 128 West Brookline street, Suite 2, Boston. Je2 1w*

PROF. BEARSE, Astrologer, 259 Meridian st., East Boston, Mass. Your whole life written, horoscope thereof free of charge. Reliable on Business, Marriage, Disease, and all Financial and Social Affairs. Send age, stamp, and hour of birth if possible. 1w* Je2

TO DR. WILLIAM E. MORRIS, 82 P.t torn down. Moved to 145 Henry street, close by. Come to J. B. Brown as quickly as possible, for two weeks or more—indefinite time. Will make all right. See publishers of this paper. 1w* Je2

THE NIGHT-SIDE OF NATURE; or, Ghosts and Ghost-Seers. By CATHARINE CROWE, author-ess of "Susan Hopley," "Lily Dawson," "Aristodemus." Price $1.50, postage 10 cents. For sale by COLBY & RICH.

INFANTILE Skin & Scalp DISEASES cured by CUTICURA Remedies.

FOR CLEANSING, PURIFYING AND BEAUTIFYING the skin of children and infants, and curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age, the CUTICURA REMEDIES are infallible.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the New Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood diseases, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

☞ Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

☞ Baby's Skin and Scalp preserved and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP. ☜

KIDNEY PAINS, Backache and Weakness cured by CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, an instantaneous pain-subduing plaster. 25c. F11

OBESITY.

People burdened with flesh are often envied by those who are thin, but it is full time that the dangers attending a fat condition should be known.

Undue Fat diminishes labor power, which is a serious evil. Undue Fat makes people tired when they should be strong in life's splendid prime. Fatty Degeneration attacks the vital organs—a secret foe in the citadel—and opens the doors for Heart Difficulties, Pneumonia, Kidney Disease, Nervous Exhaustion, Apoplexy, and a troop of ills to enter in.

To remedy this condition is not merely to prolong our earth-life, but it is to fit women and men to live up to the full grand measure of their powers—making their mark upon the age.

To remove Fat safely, without impairing the strength or injuring the system by the use of Drugs, is to effect a permanent cure.

Dr. Edith Hale presents to the consideration of the corpulent an Obesity Cure which fulfills these conditions; it causes the strength to increase as the fat decreases; mental vigor, a sense of capacity to think and act, greater freedom and ease of motion, power to walk, or go up and down stairs without fatigue or being out of breath, are among the first noticeable results; next, slowly but surely, follows a lessening of size, the figure improves, and the complexion clears as the blood is purified.

Obesity Cure is a new discovery, a new combination of remedial herbs, which positively induces a natural renovation of the system and restores the normal action of all the vital functions, including the action of the Trophic Nerves (nerves of nutrition). Its use does NOT induce wrinkles, and its effect is strictly beneficial to the general health. It is pleasant to the taste and will steadily reduce the flesh. Treatise sent upon application.

To those who have hitherto known Edith Hale, M. D., only as a Specialist in Cancer and Chronic Diseases, Dr. Hale begs to say that the cure of Obesity is in direct line with her studies and research commenced twenty years since in College and Hospital—in lecture room and at dissecting table. To these earlier advantages have been added special opportunities to acquire the latest Foreign Methods of curing disease by Absorption and by recourse to natural, non-poisonous agents, including new Internal Foods, Magnetic Pads and Magnetized Remedies.

Consultation free in all chronic complaints.

Respectfully,

EDITH HALE, M. D.,
(Pupil of Dr. John Gordon of London, and Prof. Carl Eberle of Germany),
Office 377 Columbus Avenue, Boston, Mass.

OFFICE HOURS 11 A. M. to 5 P. M., 7 to 8 evening.
My26 18t3w*

The Soul.

A MONTHLY JOURNAL, DEVOTED TO THE THEORIES AND PHENOMENA OF SOUL, MIND AND INTELLIGENCE.

Published by the FACTS PUBLISHING COMPANY, P. O. Drawer 5823, Boston, Mass.

L. L. WHITLOCK, Editor.

Single copies, 10 cents.....$1.00 per year.
With premiums, $1.50 per year.

MAY CONTENTS.

Speculative Affirmations, Mr. Jacob Edson; Mediumship and Mediums, Prof. A. E. Carpenter; A Bit of History Relating to Dr. Phelps, G. H. Wellington, M. D.; Letter from N. P. L.; Independent Slate-Writing, L. L. Whitlock; Let Us Have Truth; Dr. Dobson and $2,000; Truth. Je2

PROF. CAMPBELL,

A RELIABLE Business and Test Medium. Gives Psychometric Readings from handwriting (by letter only). Psychometric, Clairvoyant, Clairaudient, Prophetic and Astrologic. Is reliable, takes time, examines minutely, goes into details, gives satisfaction. Full life-reading (taking in everything), $1.00. Try him. Address, 10 Hudson street, Boston, Mass. 4w* Je2

In Re Dr. Talmage.

A Synopsis of a Discourse by the Guides of
MRS. R. S. LILLIE,
Delivered in Berkeley Hall, Boston, Sunday Morning, May 6th, 1888, in Answer to the Recent Attack on Modern Spiritualism by Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., of Brooklyn.

Also Excerpts from a Letter by "Eleanor Kirk."

The above have been published by COLBY & RICH in four-page tract form, and should be extensively circulated. Price by mail, 5 copies 5 cents; 15 do., 10c.; 30 do., 15c.

YOUR ANSWER OR YOUR LIFE;

OR,
The Riddle Propounded by the American Sphinx.
BY MOSES HULL.

An intensely interesting statement of the dangers which threaten our Republic and civilization.

Mr. Hull says, in his preface: "There is little that is original in this book; I have striven simply to point out some of the dangers we are under, and to signify the way of escape."

Pamphlet, 12mo, pp. 100, with portrait of author. Price 25 cents; postage 3 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

The Historical Jesus

AND Mythical Christ;

OR,
Natural Genesis

AND
Typology of Equinoctial Christolatry
BY GERALD MASSEY.

This work contains the entire Section Thirteen of Mr. Massey's great work, "Natural Genesis." The reader will find at the close of the book the foot notes of the original work, a glossary of the unusual words, and an index of the subjects treated. A careful study of the work will usually result in the conviction that Mr. Massey is correct in his conclusion as to the origin of Christianity.
Paper, pp. 224. Price 50 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

The Tail of the Earth;

OR,
The Location and Condition of th "Spirit-World."
BY WILLIAM DANMAR.

Price 25 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

CONVERSATIONS ON THE CURRENCY. By EDWARD D. LINTON and GEO. V. DRURY. The question to be met and settled now is, Shall money continue to rule and curse mankind, or shall it be made to serve and bless?
Price 25 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

HEAVEN AND HELL, As Described by Judge Edmonds in his Great Work on Spiritualism. This work contains extracts from "Spiritualism," which has been out of print for some years.
Paper; price 10 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Message Department.

Spiritual Free-Circle Meetings

Are held at the BANNER OF LIGHT OFFICE, 9 Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), on TUESDAY and FRIDAY AFTERNOON of each week.

On Tuesday afternoon MISS M. T. SHELHAMER occupies the platform for the purpose of answering by her spirit guides such questions as may be introduced for consideration.

On Friday afternoon MRS. B. F. SMITH, under the influence of her guides, will afford an avenue through which individual spirit messages will be given.

The Hall (which is used only for these séances) will be open at 2 o'clock; the services commence at 3 o'clock precisely, at which time the doors will be closed, allowing no ingress or egress. The public is cordially invited.

☞ Persons having questions of practical bearing upon human life in any of its departments of thought and labor, which they would like answered by the spirit-world intelligences, may send them to THE BANNER OF LIGHT office by mail, or hand them to the Chairman of the Circle, who will present them to the spirits for consideration.

☞ The Messages published in this Department indicate that spirits carry with them the characteristics of their earth-life to that beyond—whether for good or evil; that those who pass from the earthly sphere in an undeveloped state, eventually progress to higher conditions. We ask the reader to receive no doctrine put forth by spirits in these columns that does not comport with his or her reason. All express as much of truth as they perceive—no more.

☞ It is our earnest desire that those who recognize the messages of their spirit-friends will verify them by informing us of the fact for publication.

☞ Natural flowers upon our Circle-Room table are gratefully appreciated by our angel visitants, therefore we solicit donations of such from the friends in earth-life who may feel that it is a pleasure to place upon the altar of Spirituality their floral offerings.

☞ Letters of inquiry in regard to this Department of THE BANNER must not be addressed to the mediums in any case. LEWIS B. WILSON, Chairman.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED,

THROUGH THE MEDIUMSHIP OF

Miss M. T. Shelhamer.

Report of Public Séance held April 3d, 1888.

Spirit Invocation.

Oh! thou Eternal Goodness, thou Omnipresent Spirit of Love and Wisdom, whose splendid vitality and power permeate the universe, we recognize thy skillful work and acknowledge the supremacy of thy law, and bow down in adoration before the evidences of thy power as they unroll before us from day to day. We praise thee that man has passed through the winter-time of doubt and error, and that to-day the promises of a more glorious spring-time, of a grander awakening from past bigotries, are springing up on all sides, revealing to the thinking mind the glories and evidences of eternal wisdom and love that it may take up and make a part of its own existence. Oh! we are indeed gratified to feel that the time has come for humanity to step aside from all that is cramping and confining to the soul, and to rise above those things which would cast it down.

Oh! our Father, we know that still much that is of ignorance, of folly, maintains in the world; we know mankind is still, at times, and in many places, held down by the hand of bondage and servitude; but yet we realize that wrong, injustice and persecution are passing away, and man, aroused to his true condition, to the sense of his relationship to thee, is throwing off bondage and stepping onward toward higher things. We praise thee that the blessed angels have been given power to return to earth bearing their messages of love and good-will; and oh! we pray that the avenues of communication between the two worlds may be multiplied, and that power may be given to thy returning spirits until that blessed time when every heart shall rejoice in a knowledge of thee and thy immortal worlds. Amen.

Questions and Answers.

CONTROLLING SPIRIT.—Your questions may now be considered, Mr. Chairman.

QUES.—What is the full significance of the Bible sentence: "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God"?

ANS.—This passage we look upon as a most spiritual one, containing a deep significance, which every heart should seek to fathom for itself. Who are the "pure in heart"? Those who are spiritually-minded, whose aspirations are of a high and holy order, whose inner characters are uplifted toward the heavenly, and beyond that which is sordid, gross or carnal. You may say: "How, then, can one be pure in heart who is obliged to cope with the difficulties, the temptations, and the bitter experiences of physical life"? He who is seeking earnestly to live a pure and unselfish life, who aspires for association with the good and the true of the seen or the unseen worlds, who spends much time in thinking kindly of his neighbor, and devising ways and plans or means by which he may lighten the load and brighten the pathway of some fellow-being more unfortunate than himself, is decidedly one who is pure in heart; although his outward circumstances be of a humble nature, and he be misrepresented and misunderstood in life, yet if he keeps his thoughts pure, his mind undefiled by selfish purposes, his heart will remain spotless and sweet, even though the external appearance becomes rugged or unlovely to the undiscerning sight of the casual passer-by.

"Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." What does this mean? That they shall come into the presence and behold the face of any personal creator? No; it means that they will speedily behold the likeness of the good, and come into harmony and sympathy with the high and holy conditions and influences of life, and be caught up into the atmosphere of angelic intelligences; and, in short, breathe into their souls and partake of the conditions which produce goodness, and which surround a life with holiness and truth.

The Spirit of all Goodness, the Supreme Soul of all Love and Wisdom, we designate by the name of God, principally because of custom, partially for convenience in the expression of terms; it by no means follows that this Supreme Spirit, this Intelligent, Superior Over-Soul dwells in the likeness of man, and is a personal character such as is each one of you here to-day; but we may believe, and take the thought into our souls, that the Supreme and Over-Ruling Intelligence contains and embraces within itself every power, every attribute of goodness and of wisdom—all things that go to make up the sum and substance of creative, energetic, vitalized life. We believe that this grand superior intelligence must be the perfect Good, designing, ordaining, fashioning and creating laws and systems, and even human beings, for some grand and perfect end, and those who are pure in heart, seeking to live an unselfish life, to do their duty as best they can, and to love their fellow-men, must breathe in the spirit of this goodness, of this divine and beneficent love; must feel it within their lives, even though they may not manifest it in outward speech. Those who see God are they who sense, who perceive in every part and portion of their being the Grand Universal Spirit of tenderness and of peace.

Q.—Is there not a better method of caring for sewerage matter than by throwing it into the sea?

A.—We should judge so, but we must remember that even at the present time and in this age of progress science has not yet perfected all her systems, nor indeed has she performed all the labor which she has in view—of outlining to man ways and means of so working as to provide against the storage of all matter which may prove pernicious to his system, or in other ways outline to him methods of useful work. This one is most certainly of a sanitary character, but as yet sufficient attention has not been given to the disposal of these accumulations, which must in time be provided for in a different manner. We believe, however, that science will reveal to scientific minds ways and methods by which gases, arising from sewerage and from polluted matter generally, will be consumed and their elements absorbed by the atmosphere so as to prove of no injury to man or beast, and undoubtedly the time is not far distant when these methods will be outlined; but, at the present time, you will have to wait patiently, doing the best you can, observing the sanitary conditions of life and health, and looking forward, seeking earnestly and studying patiently for something better which is to come.

Q.—[By C. A. Whitaker.] By whom and in what manner is one who passes from earth, upon entering the spirit-world, clothed in spiritual garments?

A.—You have been repeatedly informed that the spirit of man, even while encased in the mortal flesh, is constantly building its home, or rather throwing off materials and elements which are to go to the building of its home in the future state; also that you may provide certain elements and substances which will be taken up and woven into your spiritual garments. There is a great truth underlying this assertion—one which cannot be practically demonstrated perhaps to you in your present condition, but which may by-and-bye be revealed in its full verity.

As a partial illustration, you may take the productions of a séance-room where true materialization appears. Scientific spirits, understanding the laws governing material things, have the power of extracting from the atmosphere and from individuals with whom they come in contact, certain minute particles of special elements which these spirits are enabled to weave into certain fabrics and to expose them temporarily to your view. True, these delicate fabrics cannot long remain in external existence, but they may be produced, under favorable conditions, for a sufficient length of time to enable you to handle, to perceive and to investigate their substance. What is true in this connection is true in the relations of the spirit-world; and spirits, understanding the laws, have no difficulty in extracting those elements and particles which are necessary to weave the substances of which spiritual raiment consists.

Now, it happens that frequently a spirit, in passing out of the body, comes in contact with a band of intelligent spirits, who are interested in caring for such as leave the mortal life without the attendance of friends or personal relatives, and these spirits receive the new-born spirit, and clothe it with garments which have been prepared for it to wear. Other spirits attract their close relatives, their dear friends, who have preceded them to the higher life, and it becomes the office of these to receive the arising spirit, and to robe him with those garments which are at hand for his use. "Somewhat similar," you may say, "to the child born upon earth, who is taken in charge, clothed and cared for by attendants and friends waiting to receive its arrival." Very true; there is an analogy between spirit birth and that of earth, save in this direction, that the spirit, having gained experience and discipline on earth, having developed its powers of thought and activity, speedily awakens to a realization of these in the spirit-world, and is very shortly able to care for itself, to provide for its own wants, to clothe itself from the elements of the atmosphere, or those which are provided through the workings of its own spirit, the operations of its own mind, and the labor of its own hands, and is not long dependent upon guardians or parents for that sustenance which it receives. Yet it depends entirely upon the maturing and advancing spirit whether his garments shall be beautiful and shining, like the sun, or poor and of rough texture, because the nature of his aspirations, the energy of his mental life, as well as the efforts he makes to be of use, determine the high and beautiful quality of the garments he wears, as well as the appearance of his person.

Q.—Do all spirits who momentarily become visible by adopting a tangible, or as it is termed, "materialized" form, understand the process of its accomplishment, or is the knowledge thereof held by an operating spirit who produces the phenomenon, and by him alone?

A.—We feel safe in declaring that perhaps only one spirit out of ten who attempts to manifest himself through the process of materialization, or by the building up of a temporary form, which may be seen and recognized by mortal eyes, understands the process and the labor which has been fulfilled. Usually, we learn, not only one operating spirit, but a band of spirits, gather together around a medium who may be used for materialization, and experiment with the laws and forces and surroundings of their instrument, until they are enabled to gather from her and her surroundings those elements and that material necessary for the work of building up a materialized form. We know this is so, in a great many cases, because we have closely watched the operation, and we know that this band of spirits, called cabinet spirits by some, guides and attendants by others, performs the work, makes all the necessary arrangements, while the spirit, wishing to manifest itself to some mortal friend who may attend the séance, waits patiently for the work to be completed.

Then, you may ask: "How does the spirit take possession of the materialized form that has been built up for him by other intelligences?" The spirit does not take possession of the form as your spirits possess your mortal bodies. If it can come in close contact with the medium and with her band of operating spirits, then, perhaps, the spirit wishing to make himself known will be able to exercise a positive will-power upon the materialized form, so as to make it subservient to his desire, make it respond to his thought, and thus convey some gleam of intelligence, some idea and loving message to the friends whom he desires to approach.

If he is not able to make a magnetic attachment between the medium and the operating band and himself, then he will not be able to manipulate the materialized form, and it may as well be a dummy, so called, or a statue of clay, which it certainly will prove to be so far as any interference or will of his own are concerned in relation to it.

Furthermore, we have seen a band of spirits in association with a medium possessing fine materializing powers, and have observed those guides gathering their forces and elements, collecting their magnetisms, and forming these substances into a materialized body. We have seen them make magnetic passes over the form until it seemed to start out with life and intelligence, gradually assuming the appearance of some spirit who stood by who wished to make himself known, and they sent it out into the séance chamber for recognition. We have seen the form withdraw, and the same body taken in charge by the guiding band of spirits, re-manipulated and sent forth again in the semblance of some other spirit of an entirely different nature. And so we have seen the one and the self-same form utilized again and again in presenting appearances of departed friends to the various parties who were present at the time.

You must remember that only a certain amount of magnetic force, only a certain amount of the elements which you give forth, and which the medium provides, can possibly be used by these manipulating spirits. You must remember that only a part of your nervous forces can be taken for this work, else you would be completely exhausted, medium and sitters would soon find themselves drained of strength and energy. There is not an immense reservoir of power or of material at the command of these working spirits; they must make over and utilize that which they have for the accomplishment of their work. This we may not object to if it be a truly spiritual work, entered upon for scientific purposes by mediums, sitters and spirits alike for the demonstration of the power of spirit over matter.

If this be the purpose of the labor, then is it a worthy one that should be encouraged. But if we find spirits and their instruments coming together for the purpose of deceiving the public, representing themselves for that which they are not, then we must condemn the work and the process, whatever it may be, for we cannot countenance deception in any form, even though it be manifest that good may come ultimately. There is much to be said upon this subject, and yet the time has not quite arrived when we can outline from the spirit-world all that must ultimately be revealed; not only through one channel, but from various quarters, light is breaking. Truth must be recognized on this as well as upon other matters and phases connected with spiritualistic revealment.

We would add, in connection with this question, that we do not mean to say that a spirit representing himself as a particular identity never builds up the form which appears in his guise. Sometimes a spirit has the power of doing this, because he is a student of the laws, has come into association with spirits who understand their workings, and has become a pupil of theirs, for this especial work; but in the generality of cases the work is performed by special attendants upon the medium, and if the spirit whom the form represents itself to be is present and can in any way manipulate the materialized body, he may do so under the direction and assistance of the guardian band.

Q.—[By R. G. D.] Admitting that all organized existences other than mankind are immortal in their individualities, had they, as it presumed man had, an existence prior to their life on earth?

A.—We do not know that animal life has existed in states of consciousness and activity prior to its experience on the earthly plane; that is, we are speaking of those forms of animal life that have existed on this planet. Whatever forms exist on other planets, we have not to deal with at this present time. We are assured that certain types of animal life exist after the decease of their physical forms, because of experiences with such in those worlds adjacent to this earthly planet, therefore we speak from observation; but we have never affirmed, nor do we at this present time, that every form and type of animal life that has existed on this planet, exists in other worlds at the present time. So far as we understand, the higher types of animal life exist, because they have inherent within them certain elements that partake of the spirit, and link them to the higher laws of existence. And yet we have been informed, and can well believe, that there have existed in the past, types of animal existence which have become extinct, which are not to be found in the spirit spheres. We understand that the cruder, grosser forms of that life were made up of the elements belonging to this mundane sphere entirely, and thus when the life-principle deserted those forms it did not reappear in the spirit-world in similar habitations, but remained within the atmosphere of this planet to, at later times, vitalize and reinvigorate higher types of animal life.

This is a form of transmigration or of reëmbodiment, and we believe that it is a law of existence that as the ages rolled on, the work of evolution progressed, animal life became more refined, more purified, more free from the purely physical elements of existence, and therefore was swept into contact with the spiritual laws, and caught up within their currents. These higher types and forms of animal existence, which we find in the spirit-world at the present time, are more refined than any you have on earth, and they are capable of expression, and intelligence is put forth through them, such as may be studied and understood by the thinking mind of man. We know of no realm of existence where animal life has maintained forever its hold in organized forms in individual appearances prior to its condition on the planet earth. If such have been and are, we have failed to become acquainted with them. We believe that the vital spark animating every form of animal life, and indeed vitalizing every object in existence, came primarily from the great source of all life and animation, but that it has been directed in special ways, for special work and special destinies; this vital force, animating animal forms of life in past ages, has been utilized and reütilized, time and again, and brought into expression through various forms and grades of life, until it is brought upward to the higher plane, where the most perfected types remain in such a condition that it may be taken into the spiritual atmosphere, where it finds an abiding place.

Henry C. Wright.

The months revolve, Chairman, bringing around the annual season when we meet to celebrate our great day, the grand event which brought to the world and humanity the glorious light of immortal life, and as I come again to earth, making you my annual visit, I find many of the old familiar faces still in their accustomed places and doing their work. I find many forms that I have long seen treading the rugged pathway of experience and of hard toil, still doing their work and breaking the way for those who are to follow. It does me good to come and meet these old friends. I bid them God-speed in their labors. It makes me feel young again to mingle with associates who are bearing aloft the banner of truth and progress, and who never turn their faces away from the upward heights.

It is a grand thought to me, Chairman, that those faithful souls, despite the rugged discipline and the heavy experiences which they meet, still climb upward, and have not fallen by the wayside, nor have they descended into the valley of gloom. It is a beautiful thought that we are always marching onward and upward, making our way over this mountain height and that, ever higher, ever beyond.

I do not come to make an extended speech, only to give my fraternal blessing to all mankind, because I should feel as though I had not done my duty if I did not send out from your platform, as I have done for some years past at this anniversary time, my greeting to friends and old associates. I wish them to know I think of them frequently, and in spirit I would join them in all good work that they have in view. I know very well that sometimes the way seems weary and the clouds veil the sunshine, and they do not behold the bright light as it streams beyond, but in pressing onward they find the burdens growing less and they realize that the light is there, ready to burst forth, to warm and to cheer their souls, when the time is at hand.

To those friends who are alert upon the mountain of watchfulness, I say, you have the blessing and the sympathy of brave, good souls who have passed beyond. The apostles of truth and freedom do not pause and turn back; however great the obstacle they find in their path, they remain to climb over that obstacle, or even to make a pathway around it, for they are sure to go forward and to leave that obstruction far in the rear.

I know that those friends on earth who are singing a song of rejoicing at this time because we have seen forty years of mental glory for mankind, because we have passed through forty years of grand spiritual liberty for those who have dared to reach out for this grand blessing, because humanity has known forty years of vital communion with the angel world, are to-day sending out their thought to the old workers and former associates who have gone on into other worlds, over other heights toward the grand and beautiful summit of progress and reform. Those same souls send back loving greeting and precious blessing, and influences of rich beauty, like the dewdrops of heaven, trusting they will refresh the hearts and lives of their co-workers on earth.

I cannot mention all the friends whose names come up to me to-day, whom I would remember especially, for it would fill your pages, Chairman, but I hope every one who remembers me will think I come with a special benediction and word of peace; then shall I be repaid for making my way here. Henry C. Wright.

Horace M. Richards.

Mr. Chairman, I am glad to believe myself welcome upon your platform, for I have many times watched and looked for cheering messages from this place, sometimes receiving myself, for my own use, loving words and tender, significant lines which have been breathed for me on this platform; therefore your Circle-Room has been to me like a tower of strength, at times, when my heart was sore and my body very weak and full of suffering. I did not know why I was held so long on earth, to pass through painful experiences and to meet with much that was sad and bitter; but now I begin to see it and to realize that I did not choose the discipline, strange and varied as it has proved to be.

The kindly angels, God's messengers of peace and love, raised up for me many good friends while I tarried on the earthly plane, and those friends, manifesting their thought and their affection toward me, gave me strength in many an hour of trial, filled me with the power of thought, even while I suffered, and extended to me external offices and kindly ministrations which proved very grateful to my body and to my spirit. To all these friends I send loving greetings and many, many thanks for their kindness, assuring them not one shall be forgotten as the ages roll away.

I did not accomplish all that I wished to, Mr. Chairman. I had a work in mind which I desired to complete and give to the world. Those inspirations and silent thoughts which came around me could not be expressed as I desired, but I sought to send them out, hoping that in a lowly way they might strike some suffering fellow being and find response in his soul. That I did not accomplish all I desired is plain to those who know me best; but perhaps it is well, and my spirit-friends assure me that such work will be taken up and carried on.

I have come here to-day because there has been a grand revival, an awakening of spiritual power over the whole earth. Not that it has at any time ceased to be, or fallen asleep, but it seems as though a grand influx of inspiration and spiritual force has come rolling down upon you during the last week, and you must feel refreshed and invigorated because of its beauty and its power.

I am assisted to come by the sweet spirit who at times sent me tender messages from your platform, Mr. Chairman, and through other avenues of communication wafted her gentle thought and kindly encouragement, which has proved to be more than great riches to my soul. She stands by my side, and desires to give a word of greeting to her friends, so I will step back, only repeating the joyful strain which rings throughout my heart at this time. I thank my God for life and immortality.

While I send greetings especially to kind friends who were near to me in Philadelphia, yet my thought goes out to friends in many places, for I sense their kindly feeling, and reciprocate in the fullest measure. Horace M. Richards.

Achsa W. Sprague.

Only a few words of greeting, Mr. Chairman, shall I offer to you at this time, for I know how many souls have rung forth, within the last few days, their songs of victory, their soul-inspiring words of cheer, and I have myself had the privilege of sending out something of my spirit influence toward those who have come together for a Pentecostal feast, so to-day I come merely to present my friend, and to have him pass through the experience of communicating with you, and reaching his friends through this channel; and also to give to my own personal friends and former associates, everywhere, my loving, tender, sympathetic greetings, and to assure them that never before in all my experience have I felt more strongly endowed for the work of promulgating truth and the knowledge of immortality, and never before have I felt better fitted for the expression of those divine words and ideas which are showered down upon me, and upon thousands and thousands of spirits, for those who dwell in the mortal life to receive and understand. I do not speak in the spirit of vain glory, for I realize my weakness and the humbleness of my position, but I speak because I am proud to be counted one of the workers who have assisted in breaking out that glorious pathway toward the heavens which is now being trod by millions of souls, who are rejoicing because of the knowledge and bright experiences which it has brought to them. I am gratified and proud that I may be counted one of the vast army which, in times past, and in the present, is seeking to perform the work of quelling old errors, of banishing doubt and ignorance from human lives, and bringing forward the era of truth and of knowledge which shall, indeed, bless the world.

I am a Spiritualist, Mr. Chairman, and a mediumistic worker, to-day, just as much as I ever was in the past, when, standing upon your platform, proclaiming to the public here those truths, those ideas of divine life which were presented to me by my invisible guides, and to-day I come to say to my friends and fellow-workers: Oh! be ye not discouraged, be ye not weary in well-doing. Strike on, and with every blow new strength shall come. Stand firm, and in every hour grander assistance and guidance will be yours. Aim high, and as the days go by, you shall find the heavens opening to your view, and the vision of immortal life, with its bands of guardian angels, will meet your sight. Let your thoughts, your purposes and your aspirations be truly spiritual, and you shall be uplifted over all danger and borne upward to realms of safety and peace.

I know, Mr. Chairman and friends, that we have much in our ranks that is unpleasant to meet, much that is painful to bear; the spirit of dissension seems to be abroad; it cuts right and left like a two-edged sword. Yet that very spirit is making a way and preparing for that which is to come, a final condition of peace, of harmony; for those who have encouraged dissension, and who are even now delighting in discord and strife, will find this palling upon them by-and-bye, and they will long, even cry, for the spirit of peace, of harmony, to enter their midst to adjust all differences and quell all disturbances. A longing and aspiration goes forth, this beautiful day, and concord will make its way and take up its abiding place in the hearts of men. This is all I have to say, but it is borne with great love and tender sympathy for all of earth's people. Achsa W. Sprague.

SPIRIT MESSAGES,

THROUGH THE TRANCE MEDIUMSHIP OF

Mrs. B. F. Smith.

Report of Public Séance held March 30th, 1888.

Joseph Wight.

Will you please, Mr. Chairman, record my name as Joseph Wight, of Belfast, Me.? This is no new thing to me. As I left the mortal form I felt that I had walked with spirits all my life. Now it is made plain to me that I did walk with them from my boyhood, that I had been favored in seeing visions many, many times. In younger days when I spoke of them they only laughed, and said I was "a little weak." But let me ask mortals to-day: "Is it a sign of weakness when we say we commune with the angel-world?" No, it is not a weakness, and I found it a great comfort and consolation as one and another was taken from me, and after my dear companion was called up higher, some dozen years ago, I felt that I held sweet communion with her from day to day.

God bless this institution! Let THE BANNER wave all over the world. I looked forward to its coming more than I would to my food, and those days were beautiful when I knew it was to reach me and bring me spiritual food. I would say to each mortal before me: Take THE BANNER, for you never will regret it. I have looked over the fields so many times and have seen one and another starving for spiritual food, not knowing what was the matter with them. Now, take THE BANNER, and you will be fed, as I was in the mortal.

Many loved ones had crossed before the angel usher came for me. Hannah is with me, mother, father, and the old grandfather that walked long in the mortal. I wish to thank Mr. Durham's people for speaking of me so kindly, and all others who helped to officiate when they laid away that old lump of clay. Not dead, but just commenced to live.

Sorena Brackett.

My name is Sorena Brackett. I lived in Boston. Oh! how many times I have stepped into College Hall and some other places, but I always feel a little more at home there, and I do want to speak to Bro. Cobb, and tell him he'd better give it to 'em a little straight in regard to whispering. I don't like it, myself. I've been in the meetings as much as ever since I left the mortal form, and Mrs. Mitchell has been with me a good many times.

[Aside:] I'll tell them you are here, but can't speak to-day.

Oh! how much comfort it has given me to go into the meetings. Don't think for one moment because we have laid aside the mortal form we can't attend your meetings, for if anything, we can come a good deal easier now.

Mother reached out her hands, and said: "Renie, come up higher; all things are ready."

I won't forget to tell you that Charles was there too, and in a little time the friends came close around me. It was more beautiful than I can find words to tell you; we can't express the feeling, and have got to let you all wait and test it for yourselves. Your flowers are sweet, they are beautiful, but I hardly think I should want to exchange with you, for ours are more beautiful and tangible than yours can be.

I have often said to Mary: "Why do you not come and send a message?" The answer came back, "I have been many times, but did not just understand how to take control of the medium." I hardly think I should have done it to-day if the kind gentleman had not assisted me a little. I have been here a great many times, but have n't found the chance to talk that I do to-day. Do n't forget to thank Bro. Cobb.

Mary Turner.

I would like to leave my name: Mary Turner. My home was in Cambridge, Mass. I have been here many times, thinking, perhaps, I might send a cheering word to those who are left. I wish to be remembered to Sister Willis. I found quite a different feeling from her going out to us in the angel-world than from the brother who assisted at the services, termed "funeral." I don't like that word, but I suppose I must use it. I have to say to that brother: "If you do not choose to learn this side, you certainly must on the other." It was meat and drink to me to feel I communed with the angels every day. The dear paper! oh! how much happiness it gave me, as I read message after message, although not from my own kindred, only by Adam. I feel that we are all brothers and sisters, for I know we are all God's children.

I wish to say to the dear ones, that I met my angel mother, long an inhabitant of the spirit-world, and the little children laid away so tenderly, and grown in spirit, not lost, but only gone up higher. What is more beautiful than to know we shall all be reünited in heaven? I thank the Father God that in his wisdom he decreed that his children should never die. I have studied the good book much, for I was long in the mortal, and I could not come to any other conclusion than that spirits walked with us in perfect form.

I find it so in spirit-life, the bright and beautiful beyond. It looked reasonable to me, although I know in earlier days the teachings of the church had an influence on my mind, but I grew in spiritual knowledge fast by studying and comparing what came under my observation, or within my range of thought.

Dr. Reuben Hill.

You may place me as Dr. Reuben Hill of Lowell. Part of my life was spent in Springvale, Me. I have many relatives and loved ones, scattered in different surroundings. I have been here so many times, but have not been able to take the standpoint that I have to-day.

I would like this letter to reach the dear ones, and I know, without asking, it will do so. I would say to Emma that I am not far from her. Learn a little here. I would also speak to Frances and to Lucy and Frank J. I understand what has happened. Do not be too venturesome, for you have injured the spine more than you think. I will, through all the power and influence brought to bear, try to help you, although I know you require an attendant physician to-day. I was not long away from you after this happened, before I was attracted into the home. God bless your home, children.

I have been in attendance with Belle, also with Olive. I think I have a right to go wherever the spirit dictates. I feel I shall not be forgotten in Lowell, neither shall I in Springvale, Me. I often visit the homes. Frank J., I know you will ask me, "Was it sent upon you because you did not yield more readily to spirit-influence?" No, no; cause and effect, is my answer. Frank, your father is not well.

Philip Richardson.

You may register my name as Philip Richardson, of Madison, N. H.—the old Granite State. This is the first attempt I have made, and very likely it will be said by the townspeople that they should not have supposed Phil would make himself known in this way. Let me say to you who speak thus that you know not what you are saying. We in spirit are always glad and thankful to make ourselves known wherever there is a channel open. Mary, learn a little this side—and the children, too, for this life is but a shadow.

For all the sufferings here I am repaid in the mansion that God has given his children. I often step into the home, but oh! how little do they know of my coming and going, and walking around among them every day, while they are still pressing forward in their own earth affairs, as if I did not live to-day. I am more alive than you possibly can be while dwelling in the mortal form. We hear and see and feel—yes, perfectly. Often we hear words spoken that clash harshly on our ears. Oh! mortals, if you think thus, speak it not; you know not how many invisibles are surrounding you. Would you hurt our feelings if you knew it? No. Then be careful what is spoken, for we are not dead; the dead people are on this side, not on ours. We are more alive, to all intents and purposes, than you possibly can be here.

Charlotte Stone.

My name is Charlotte Stone, and my home was in Lowell, Mass. Zina used to call me Lottie. I am glad I have found a place where we may come and send a few crumbs of comfort to those who yet live in the mortal. I have often tried to make him feel that Lottie is not dead, only gone from the suffering body. I would thank all for the kindness shown after they said I was dead—yes, and before.

Ellen, I am happy. [Aside:] Yes, dear. Fidie says: Tell auntie she stands beside me. I have felt, as I have entered the meetings in the hall, so many times, Why, oh! why, would not the mediums just say one word for me? I understand fully that it is not the medium now, much more than I could at first.

I want to say that I am happy to the dear ones that are left. They are looking for a message; I have often seen them turn over the paper—not all of them, but some.

Zina, try to come into communication with your Lottie somewhere. I am yours the same to-day, only the angel usher came and bore me away. No, I have only laid aside the body, the lump of clay, but in spirit I am with you often. Not a day passes, not an hour in the day, dear ones, but that I come so silently and softly with the spirit footstep that you cannot hear, and how earnest are we to make ourselves known. Grandma is with me often, Zina, and your dear old grandma, too. In heaven there is no parting; it is a reünion, and not for a day or a week, but we shall dwell together forever and ever.

I would like to have this letter reach Zina Eugene Stone.

Sarah Mason.

My name is Sarah Mason. I lived in Worcester, Mass. Frank is here, too, and Hannah and John. Not all present, but quite a number. Frank tells me he has spoken once in your meeting, and felt so much happier, I thought I would make the attempt. This is the first time I have ever controlled an instrument, so you must pardon me if I am not just correct. I will try to do the best I can.

I would say to Hattie and Mary, we are all together in spirit, but not all the time, any more than you are here in the mortal. How many times you have thought as you walked the street, "Are they here? Is it true they walk beside us?" Yes, yes; many times do we touch you gently, and many times give out some little sound, but you are sure to mistake it or pass it unnoticed. Let me tell you, dear ones, that when you hear a little sound, speak to us. We hear your voices when you do not hear our spirit-voices; and you will have the response in your own spirit that it is us. I thank the Father and I bless the angels that there is a channel where we can commune with the loved ones.

SPIRIT MESSAGES

TO BE PUBLISHED NEXT WEEK.

March 30.—Charles Wetherbee; Samuel Frost; Polly Witham; Freddie Wood; Hermann Metzmer; Ephraim Chase; Mary Cutter Clement; Emma Jane Cranville.

THE MESSAGES GIVEN (THROUGH MRS. B. F. SMITH) As per dates will appear in due course.

May 18.—Bartlett Ellis; Dorinda Horton; Frankie P. Avery; Richard Bartlett; Darius Stickney; Gracie Maria George; Sarah A. Otis; Oscar Plummer; Rosie Fletcher; John T. Colter; Adelaide Wright Tufts; John Burt; Dr. John Scobey; Lucinda Brown Chickering; Alice Ladd.

To the Liberal-Minded.

As the "Banner of Light Establishment' is not an incorporated institution, and as we could not therefore legally hold bequests made to us in that name, we give below the form in which such a bequest should be worded in order to stand the test of law:

"I give, devise and bequeath unto Luther Colby and Isaac B. Rich, of Boston, Massachusetts, Publishers, [here insert the description of the property to be willed] strictly upon trust, that they shall appropriate and expend the same in such way and manner as they shall deem expedient and proper for the promulgation of the doctrine of the immortality of the soul and its eternal progression."

☞ Read "ZOELLNER'S TRANSCENDENTAL PHYSICS." This is one of the grandest works of the nineteenth century. Everybody should have a copy. Colby & Rich have the work on sale at the Banner of Light Bookstore, 9 Bosworth street, Boston.

Spiritual Phenomena.

Under the above heading the BANNER OF LIGHT publishes from time to time communications contributed by reliable people describing the spirit-form manifestations they have witnessed; but we desire it to be clearly understood that we cannot be held responsible for any accounts of such manifestations appearing in our columns, except those we have witnessed and personally endorsed. Writers in describing the phenomena they have seen, must alone bear the responsibility of their statements.—Publishers B. of L.

Materializations at Mrs. Ellie Moss's Cabinet.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

In THE BANNER of May 19th, in an article by Mr. Frederick Whittaker, headed "Materialization in New York," he gives an account of a séance at Mrs. Moss's residence, at which he was present, in which he states that a form came from the cabinet announcing herself as Lucille Western, and drawing her veil tightly over her face so as to clearly reveal her features, invited those present to look at her. He says that in form and features what claimed to be Miss Western was the medium, especially referring to the height being the same, and says it was a transfiguration.

Inasmuch as Mrs. Moss's spirit controls have solemnly assured her that they would not use her for transfiguration in a materializing séance without stating the fact at the time, if they ever did so, she feels aggrieved that such a statement should have been made by the gentleman, when, from the assurance of her band of spirits, she was informed that he is laboring under a mistake.

At her séance last evening, May 20th, there were twenty-six in the circle, and before entering the cabinet Mrs. Moss spoke to some present of Mr. Whittaker's article and the injustice it did her, and in order that there might be a test, if Miss Western should appear during the evening, she called a lady to her and had their respective heights noted, the lady being about one-fourth of an inch taller than Mrs. Moss, and gave her height at five feet two inches in her boots.

During the evening Miss Western materialized and presented herself, and calling the said lady to her, after some conversation with her called up B. A. R. Ottolengui, M. D. S., and then J. Franklin Clark, and then Hon. Nelson Cross. Miss Western then said to Judge Cross: "It is your custom at The Alliance, when you have anything to investigate, to appoint a committee of three, and I now constitute you here present a committee of three to note my height, form and features, and see if I in any way resemble our medium. You saw this lady stand beside the medium, and they are of nearly equal height. Now note the difference in our height."

We did so, and Miss Western was four inches the tallest, being just the height of Mr. Clark, five feet six inches—Miss Western standing in her stockings, as she showed us. We then noted carefully her features, and in every detail they corresponded with a photograph taken of her when living here on the mundane plane.

Miss Western said: "At the present time there are so many false statements put forward in relation to the spiritual phenomena that justice and truth require I should refute the charge made by Mr. Whittaker, for whenever I appear at this cabinet it is always as a materialization, and not as a transfiguration of the medium; and I wish you to write to THE BANNER a statement of what you have just observed."

On our own part, two of us have met Miss Western in a materialized form at Mrs. Moss's séances over twenty-five times, and the remaining gentleman several times, and she has always presented the same appearance as to height, figure and features, in neither of which particulars does she resemble Mrs. Moss.

While we were not present at the séance referred to by Mr. Whittaker, and cannot of our own knowledge say anything as to Miss Western's appearance on that occasion, we cannot believe that she would have appeared differently at that time than she has uniformly presented herself when we have been present; nor can we believe that she was personated either by the medium or by any spirit attempting to represent her, but are rather forced to think that Mr. Whittaker was inaccurate in his observation and mistaken in his conclusions.

NELSON CROSS.
B. A. R. OTTOLENGUI.
J. FRANKLIN CLARK.

Spiritualist Meetings.

ALBANY, N. Y.—First Spiritualist Society holds meetings each Sunday evening at Van Vechten Hall, 119 State street.—Ladies' Aid Society meets in its rooms adjoining the Hall each Friday afternoon and evening. D. M. S. Fero, President; J. D. Chism, Jr., Secretary.

CLEVELAND, O.—The Children's Progressive Lyceum No. 1 meets regularly every Sunday in G. A. R. Hall, 159 Superior street, commencing at 10½ A. M. Richard Carleton, Conductor; E. W. Gaylord, Secretary.

CINCINNATI, O.—The Society of Union Spiritualists holds meetings in Grand Army Hall, 115 West 6th street, every Sunday at 10½ A.M. and 7½ P.M., also Wednesday evening of each week, to which all are made welcome.

CINCINNATI, O.—The First New Spiritual Church of Cincinnati, Ohio, meets every Sunday at 10½ A.M. at Murch's Hall, No. 278 West 6th street, Dr. James A. Bliss, Pastor. The public are cordially invited. Seats free. Sunday School meets at 12 o'clock noon every Sunday. Spiritualists, come, and bring your children with you.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Society of United Spiritualists meets at Nos. 116 and 118 Fifth Avenue, every Sunday at 2½ P.M. A hearty welcome is extended to all visitors, but more especially to the mediums. F. B. Geoghegan, President, 17 Wisconsin street.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Chicago Association of Universal Radical Progressive Spiritualists' and Mediums' Society, organized on the 9th of May, A. D. 1884, meets in Spirits' Liberty Hall, No. 517 West Madison street, every Sunday, permanently, at 2½ and 7½ P.M. The public are cordially invited to attend. Admission 5 cents to each meeting. Dr. Norman McLeod, President.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Avenue Hall, 159 22d street. Children's Lyceum, Sunday, at 1½ P.M. Spiritualists' and Mediums' Meeting, 3 P.M. Sociables every Tuesday.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond discourses before the First Society of Spiritualists in Martine's (Ada street) Hall every Sunday morning and evening.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Young People's Progressive Society meets in Martine's Hall, corner Indiana Avenue and 22d street, every Sunday evening at 7½. Hon. Joel Tiffany conducts class lessons in the afternoon, at 3 o'clock. The best speakers and mediums are always engaged.

DENVER, COL.—Meetings are held Sunday evenings at Harmony Hall, Lawrence street, Mrs. F. A. Logan, conducting.

LANSING, MICH.—Spiritual Progressive Meetings are held each Sunday morning and evening at the Hall 106 Washington Avenue. Lecture, readings and tests by Mrs. Lunt Parker and Lily May. Also meetings every Wednesday evening. W. T. Parker, Chairman.

NEWARK, N. J.—First Association of Spiritualists, 177 Halsey street, corner of Market, evenings at 7½ o'clock. H. G. Avery, President.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The First Association of Spiritualists, lectures every Sunday morning and evening. Children's Lyceum, 2 P. M., at the hall, 810 Spring Garden street. Joseph Wood President, B. F. Bonner, Vice President and Secretary, 940 Warnock street. Second Association meets Sunday afternoon and evening, at its Church, Thompson street, east of Front. T. J. Ambrosia, President, 1223 North Third street. Keystone Association meets Sunday at 2:30 P. M., N. E. corner Ninth and Spring Garden street. Joseph Wood, Chairman. Fourth Association meets Sunday evening, Ninth and Callowhill streets.

PATERSON, N. J.—Meetings are held every Sunday afternoon and evening in Fidelity Hall, corner Market and Church streets, at 2½ and 7½ P.M. Lecturers and test mediums are requested to communicate with John A. Roney, Cor. Sec'y, 65 Holsman street.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.—The First Society of Spiritualists holds meetings every Sunday in the Court of Appeals Room, Town Hall, at 10½ A.M. and 7½ P.M. All are invited. W. B. Mills, President; E. J. Huling, Secretary.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—The Lincoln Society of Spiritualists holds meetings Wednesday and Sunday evenings at its Hall on 5th street.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—The First Association of Spiritualists meets at 2½ P.M. every Sunday in Brandt's Hall, southwest corner of Franklin Avenue and Ninth street. Friends of the cause invited to attend, and correspondence solicited from America and Europe. H. W. Fay, President, No. 313 Market street; Milton Lyle, Cor. Sec., 3906 Olive street.

Advertisements.

Paine's Celery Compound

For The Nervous,
The Debilitated,
The Aged,

CURES Nervous Prostration, Nervous Headache, Neuralgia, Nervous Weakness, Stomach and Liver Diseases, and all affections of the Kidneys.

AS A NERVE TONIC, It Strengthens and Quiets the Nerves.

AS AN ALTERATIVE, It Purifies and Enriches the Blood.

AS A LAXATIVE, It acts mildly, but surely, on the Bowels.

AS A DIURETIC, It Regulates the Kidneys and Cures their Diseases.

Recommended by professional and business men.

Price $1,00. Sold by druggists. Send for circulars.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO., Proprietors,
1y BURLINGTON, VT. Je11

To the Spiritualists of the World!

YOU have been calling for more magnetic life for nearly forty years. The invention of Magnetic Shields places within your reach the most powerful Magnetic Batteries ever constructed, and exactly adapted to all the needs and wants of your physical and spiritual well-being. To magnetize and polarize the body is to intensify and increase all the intellectual and spiritual faculties. All mediums and sensitives should wear Magnetic Shields. The vitalizing and energizing power radiated from these Magnetic Reservoirs of Life will redouble the life potencies and quadruple the spiritualizing entities for every one who wears them. Dr. Thacher's Magnetic Shields excel and transcend all known healing powers and forces except that coming direct from the world of spirit. If the Spiritualists of the world will read our logic and consult with the Highest Intelligence, they will get assurance which will convince every intelligent investigator. All the knowledge which led up to the perfecting of these Shields came from the world of invisible spirit. We are warranted in saying Magnetism is all spirit and an immaterial substance. Spirit is the only substance in the true sense of the word. Spiritualists are too well informed to be misled on the subject. Why not send for our book and read what we have to say of genuine spiritual substance? If you want further proof that we state truth, send $1,00 for a pair of Insoles, or $2,00 for THREE PAIRS.

Please be sensible and investigate. Magnetism will infuse new life into broken-down physical bodies. Try it, and be convinced. Our book sent free.

CHICAGO MAGNETIC SHIELD COMPANY,
No. 6 Central Music Hall, Chicago, Ill.
Ap21 11w*

Dr. F. L. H. Willis

May be Addressed until further notice,
Clenora, Yates Co., N. Y.

DR. WILLIS may be addressed as above. From this point he can attend to the diagnosing of disease psychometrically. He claims that his powers in this line are unrivaled, combining, as he does, accurate scientific knowledge with keen and searching psychometric power.

Dr. Willis claims especial skill in treating all diseases of the blood and nervous system. Cancers, Scrofula in all its forms, Epilepsy, Paralysis, and all the most delicate and complicated diseases of both sexes.

Dr. Willis is permitted to refer to numerous parties who have been cured by his system of practice when all others had failed. All letters must contain a return postage stamp. Send for Circulars, with References and Terms.
Ap7 13w*

DR. J. R. NEWTON

STILL heals the sick! Spirit, Mind and Magnetic Cures at a distance through MRS. NEWTON. Send for testimonials to MRS. J. R. NEWTON, P. O. Station G., N. Y. City. 13w* Ap7

SOUL READING,

Or Psychometrical Delineation of Character.

MRS. A. B. SEVERANCE would respectfully announce to the public that those who wish, and will visit her in person, or send their autograph or lock of hair, she will give an accurate description of their leading traits of character and peculiarities of disposition; marked changes in past and future life; physical disease, with prescription therefor; what business they are best adapted to pursue in order to be successful; the physical and mental adaptation of those intending marriage; and hints as to the inharmoniously married. Full delineation, $2,00, and four 2-cent stamps. Brief delineation, $1,00, and four 2-cent stamps.

Address, MRS. A. B. SEVERANCE,
Centre street, between Church and Prairie streets,
Ap7 6m* White Water, Walworth Co., Wis.

CUTTER HOUSE,

Wickett's Island.
Opens June 1st, 1888.

PARTIES desirous of spending the summer in a very healthy, quiet, spiritual place, with no inharmonious influences around them, should secure rooms at once. Mrs. M. E. Williams, the celebrated materializing medium, of New York, will spend the season at this place, and her guides will take an active part in coöperation with the Island band as Teachers for the higher unfoldment of physical and spiritual life. For terms and descriptive circular, enclose stamp. Address DR. ABBIE E. CUTTER, Onset, Mass. 13w* Mh31

Psychometric, Clairvoyant, AND Clairaudient Medium,

WILL diagnose and cure all diseases at any distance without the use of medicine. Diagnosis, $1,00; thirty entranced exercises, $10,00. Address GEORGE BANCROFT EMERSON, care N. MacLeod, 532 West Madison street, Chicago, Ill. 15w* Ap14

CORPULENCY

CURED. Vegetable Remedy (new discovery); safe and pleasant. Treatment by mail. DR. EDITH HALE, Specialist in Cancer and Chronic Diseases (home and foreign methods). Ample references. 377 Columbus Avenue, Boston. 4w* My12

MRS. R. T. CLANEY,

BUSINESS AND TEST MEDIUM, No. 411 Lookout street, Chattanooga, Tenn. 6m* 1224

ASTONISHING OFFER.

SEND three 2-cent stamps, lock of hair, age, sex, one leading symptom, and your disease will be diagnosed free by spirit power. DR. A. B. DOBSON, Maquoketa, Iowa. Ap14 13w*

BY DIRECTION of her guides, MRS. JENNIE CROSSE will remove to the country for a while, where she will continue to give Life-Readings for $1,00 and stamp, and answer six questions for 50 cents and stamp. Disease a specialty. Address West Garland, Me.
Je2 4w*

MRS. E. M. PERRY. Readings by locks of hair. Terms $1,00. Waterville, Mass., Box 49. 8w* Ap28

DR. RHODES' FAMILY MEDICINES.

Purely Vegetable
(ALL SUGAR-COATED)
Medical Confections.
A Universal Blessing.
SUITED TO OLD OR YOUNG!

A PERFECT Liver and Kidney Renovator and Blood Purifier. Cleanses the entire system from all Biliousness and Blood Poisons from Malaria, etc. And cures Headache, Backache, Side and Stomachache, Diarrhea, Dysentery, Pains in the Limbs, Lameness, Numbness, Constipation, Piles, Worms, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Nervousness, Weakness, Kidney and Bladder, and all other urinary ailments, etc. Also, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and in fact almost all the various ailments of humanity.

PRICES: Trial box, 25 cents—by mail, 30 cents; second size, 50 cents—by mail, 55 cents; 12 boxes second size, $5,00; large boxes, $1,00; 6 large boxes, $5,00.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

STELLAR SCIENCE.

I WILL give a test of it to any person who will send me the place and date of their birth (giving sex) and 25 cents, money or stamps.

I will write Biographical and Predictive Letters (from the above data). Also advice upon any matter, in answer to questions, in accordance with my understanding of the science, for a fee of $1; Consultation fee $1; at office, 206 Tremont street.

Nativities written at prices proportionate to the detail demanded. Address OLIVER AMES GOULD, Box 1664, Boston, Mass. July 16.

DIAGNOSIS FREE.

SEND two 2-ct. stamps, lock of hair, name in full, age and sex, and I will give you a CLAIRVOYANT DIAGNOSIS OF YOUR AILMENTS. Address J. C. BATDORF, M.D., Principal, Magnetic Institute, Grand Rapids, Mich.
Je2 1m*

Mediums in Boston.

JAMES R. COCKE,

Developing and Business Medium,
ALSO
Clairvoyant Physician,
1581 Washington Street, Boston.

Sittings daily from 9 A.M. till 5 P.M. Price, $1,00.

Unequalled Advantages.

DR. COCKE gives special inducements for Medical and Magnetic Treatment by the month.

Development of Mediumship a Specialty.

SIX PRIVATE SITTINGS FOR $4,00 IN ADVANCE.

CIRCLES.

Sunday, at 11 A.M., for Development and Tests. At 8 P.M., for Psychometry, Tests and Inspirational Music. Thursday evening, at 7:30, for Development. tf My12

J. W. FLETCHER,

MEDICAL AND BUSINESS MEDIUM,
6 Beacon Street,
BOSTON, MASS.

Written Communications on MEDICUMSHIP, HEALTH, BUSINESS, etc., from Lock of Hair. tf
My5

AMANDA M. COWAN,

219A Tremont Street, Boston,
Suite 2,

WILL be pleased to meet her friends on Sunday, Tuesday and Saturday afternoons, at 2:30, Sunday and Wednesday evenings at 8. Address all communications to CHAS. D. COWAN, Manager.
Je2 1w*

C. DAVENPORT COWAN,

Independent Slate-Writing Medium,
219A TREMONT STREET, Boston, Mass., Suite 2. Sitters may bring their own slates. Je2

BERRY SISTERS,

55 RUTLAND STREET, BOSTON.

SUNDAY and Wednesday evenings at 8 P.M., Sunday, Thursday and Saturday at 2:30 P.M. 13w* Ap7

C. E. WATKINS,

The Medium.

MESSAGES by Independent Writing; Diagnosing by Independent Writing. 109 Falmouth street, off West Chester Park, first street west of Huntington Avenue. Take Back Bay or Huntington Avenue car. tf Ap7

EMMA J. NICKERSON,

BUSINESS, AND MAGNETIC TREATMENT,

566 COLUMBUS AVENUE, BOSTON. Send $1,00, name and lock of hair, for Diagnosis of Disease, and kind of Mediumship. Treatment by mail. Office hours 2 to 6 P.M. 13w* Mh10

MRS. F. K. RICH,

TRANCE and Business Medium, Parlors No. 38 Evans House, 175 Tremont street, Boston. Office hours 9 A.M. to 6 P.M. Will also go out to hold private circles. Letters answered by photograph or lock of hair. Terms $2,00. Circles every Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. 1w* Je2

Something New and Pleasing.

WRITE a letter to your spirit friends and have it answered by independent writing. Questions upon Health and Business answered in same manner. Price $1,00. Address ANNIE LORD CHAMBERLAIN, Box 56, Mattapan Dist., Boston, Mass. 1m My19

MRS. H. W. CUSHMAN,

MUSICAL, Test, Business and Writing Medium. Circles Monday, 7:30 P.M.; Thursday, 2:30 P.M. Six questions answered by mail for $1,00 and stamp. Examination by lock of hair, $1,00. 212 Main street, Charlestown. Mh3 tf

MISS A. PEABODY,

BUSINESS, Test, Clairvoyant Medium. Sittings daily. Circles Monday and Thursday evenings, Tuesday afternoon at 3. 1 Bennet st., corner Washington st., Boston. Je2 1w*

MISS HELEN A. SLOAN,

MAGNETIC Physician. Vapor and Medicated Baths. Celebrated "Acid Cure." Office hours from 9 A.M. to 8 P.M. 171 Tremont street, corner Mason st., Boston. Ap7 tf

Mrs. A. E. Cunningham,

MEDICAL, Business and Test Medium, 459 Tremont street, Suite 1, Boston. Private Sittings daily. Will answer calls for Platform Tests. 4w* My19

MRS. A. FORRESTER

WILL give Trance Sittings daily, also Magnetic Treatment from 1 to 5 P.M. 39 Chapman street, corner Shawmut Avenue, Boston. 1w* Je2

AUGUSTA DWINELS,

SEERESS, Trance and Prophetic Medium. Office 20 Bennet st., off Washington st., opposite Hollis st., Boston. My12 4w*

MRS. ALDEN,

TRANCE MEDIUM. Medical Examinations and Magnetic treatment. 43 Winter street, Boston. Je2 5w*

Mrs. Dr. M. O. Mansfield,

566 COLUMBUS AVE., Boston. Mental and Magnetic Treatment. Hours 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. Je2 2w*

A. S. HAYWARD, Magnetic Physician. Letter address for personal treatment or his powerful Spirit Magnetized Paper, during the summer months, 9 Bosworth street, Boston. Two packages by mail, $1,00. Ap7 13w

MRS. KATE R. STILES gives Spiritual Communications and Psychometric Delineations by letter, $1,00, and Private Sittings. Also responds to calls for platform work. Address 282 Columbus Ave., Suite 11, Boston. My19 3w*

MRS. K. E. FISHER, Magnetic and Electric Physician, 147 Tremont street, Boston, Rooms 6 and 9. Magnetic and Massage Treatment, Electric and Medicated Vapor Baths; also the celebrated Colorado Sulphur Baths. Je2 1w*

MRS. FANNIE A. DODD,

MAGNETIC PHYSICIAN and Test Medium, 48 Winter street, Room 11. 1f Ap28

MRS. DR. JULIA CRAFTS SMITH gives medical examinations free every Thursday from 9 to 5, Office, Hotel "Cabe," 8 Appleton street, Boston. My19 eow10t*

JOSEPH L. NEWMAN, Magnetic Healer, No. 8½ Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), Room 4, Boston, Mass. Office hours, from 1 to 4 P.M. Ja7 26w*

MRS. J. M. CARPENTER, 181 Warren Avenue, Boston. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. Examination by letter when patient is not present. My26 4w*

QUESTIONS on Health, Business, etc., answered for $1,00—letters only. MRS. SCHOFIELD, 338 Tremont street, Boston. 3w* My26

MRS. J. C. EWELL, Inspirational, also Physician, 1066 Washington st., Boston. Hours 9 to 4. Je2 13w*

ADVICE relative to Health, Business, etc. Write JAMES DODD, Box 2214, Boston, Mass. y26 4w*

DR. A. H. RICHARDSON, Magnetic Healer, Waverly House, Charlestown. 8t0

J. A. SHELHAMER,

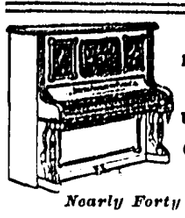
MAGNETIC HEALER,

Office 8½ Bosworth Street (Room 5), Boston, Mass.,

WILL treat patients at his office or at their homes, as desired. Dr. S. prescribes for and treats all kinds of diseases. Specialties: Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lung, Liver and Kidney complaints, and all Nervous Disorders. Consultation, prescription and advice, $2,00. Moderate rates for Medicines, when furnished. Magnetized Paper $1,00 per package. Healing by rubbing and laying on of hands. Parties wishing consultation by letter must be particular to state age, sex, and leading symptoms. Liver, Anti-Dyspeptic, Liver and Kidney, or Strengthening and Soothing Pills, 25 cents per box, or five boxes for $1,00.

Office hours from 10 A.M. to 3 P.M.—except on Tuesdays and Fridays, when he attends out-of-town patients. Letter address care of BANNER OF LIGHT. 13w* Ap7

Miscellaneous.



IMPORTANT!

It is a fact that you can SAVE MONEY in the purchase of a Musical Instrument that stands

UNRIVALLED!
UNSURPASSED
OVER 120,000 SOLD!
AND SCATTERED OVER THE WORLD.

Nearly Forty Years' Experience.

SMITH AMERICAN ORGANS AND PIANOS

Are found in Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia, Japan, India, Africa, Australia, Norway and Sweden, South America, California, and nearly every Town and Hamlet over the Globe.

OUR PIANOS
THE TRIUMPH OF THE AGE!

A Model of Perfection! A Splendid FIRST-CLASS Instrument! Its leading characteristics are:

1st. A Full, Rich, Pure Singing Tone.
2d. A Finely Regulated, Delicate Touch.
3d. A Perfectly Even, Well-Balanced Scale.
4th. The whole composed of the Choicest Material, and of the most thorough workmanship.

NOTHING MORE, NOTHING LESS, can or will ever comprise a First-class Piano, and as such, we unhesitatingly place them before the world.

A GOLD MEDAL awarded us by the Mass. Charitable Mechanics' Association at the late Fair of 1887.

For Rent or Sale on Easy Payments. Send for Catalogue.

Smith American Organ & Piano Co.,
531 TREMONT STREET, BOSTON, MASS.
London, Eng. BRANCH HOUSES: Kansas City, Mo.
Ap14 8w

EXCELSIOR!

THIS ancient Spirit Band have brought their medium (Miss Vial) from Europe for healing purposes, &c. Insanity a specialty. French spoken. Planetary Readings of Character, also Advice on Health, Business, &c., according to the New Science of Solar Biology. Send $1,00 with name and date of birth to Box 25, Onset, Mass. My19 3teow

Sealed Letters Answered

BY MRS. ELIZA A. MARTIN, Oxford, Mass. Terms $1,00 and two 2-ct. stamps. 4w* My19

SEALED LETTERS.

ELEANOR MARTIN now makes specialty of business, $5,00. Full Spiritual Message, $2,00. 73 Lane Avenue, Columbus, Ohio. 4w* My26

Voltaic Mineral Rods.

IMPORTANT to Miners and Treasure-Seekers. Send stamp for Circular to E. A. COFFIN, No. 47 Bristol street, Boston, Mass. 4w* My19

MRS. D. E. PUTNAM

HAS settled at Onset for the season, and is ready for business. Room and Board until July 1st, $6,00 per week. P.O. Box 52. 4w* My26

ONSET BAY. Old Colony trains now stop at the Onset station, and the street railway is making regular trips. Buy excursion tickets for Onset. tf My26

The Writing Planchette.

SCIENCE is unable to explain the mysterious performances of this wonderful little instrument, which writes intelligent answers to questions asked either aloud or mentally. Those unacquainted with it would be astonished at some of the results that have been attained through its agency, and no domestic circle should be without one. All investigators who desire practice in writing mediumship should avail themselves of these "Planchettes," which may be consulted on all questions, as also for communications from deceased relatives or friends.

DIRECTIONS.—Place Planchette on a piece of paper (printing or writing will answer), then place the hand lightly on the board; in a few minutes it begins to move, and is ready to answer mental or spoken questions. Though it cannot be guaranteed that every individual who follows these directions will succeed in obtaining the desired result, or cause the instrument to move, independent of any muscular effort of his or her own, yet it has been proved beyond question that when a party of three or more come together, it is almost impossible that one cannot operate it. If one be not successful, let two try it together. If nothing happens the first day, try it the next, and even if half an hour a day for several days are given to it, the results will amply remunerate you for the time and patience bestowed upon it.

The Planchette is furnished complete with box, pencil and directions, by which any one can easily understand how to use it.

PLANCHETTE, with Pentagraph Wheels, 60 cents, securely packed in a box, and sent by mail, postage free.

NOTICE TO RESIDENTS OF CANADA AND THE PROVINCES.—Under existing postal arrangements between the United States and Canada, PLANCHETTES cannot be sent through the mails, but must be forwarded by express only, at the purchaser's expense.

For sale by COLBY & RICH. tf

SENT FREE.
RULES
TO BE OBSERVED WHEN FORMING
SPIRITUAL CIRCLES.
BY EMMA HARDINGE BRITTEN.

Comprehensive and clear directions for forming and conducting circles of investigation are here presented by an able, experienced and reliable author.

This little book also contains a Catalogue of Books published and for sale by COLBY & RICH.

Sent free on application to COLBY & RICH tf

NEW GOSPEL OF HEALTH,

CONTAINING seven sections on Vital Magnetism and Illustrated manipulations, by DR. STONE. For sale at this office. Price $1 25 cloth-bound copies, $2.50.

AN ADVENTURE
Among the Rosicrucians.

BY F. HARTMANN, M.D.

This is an account of a dream-visit to a Rosicrucian Monastery, and of the topics expounded by its Adept inmates. Among these are the nature and power of Will, Psychic Locomotion, Universal Life, constitution and development of Man, the materialization of Ideas into Forms, the Doctrine of Numbers, of Counterparts, and of Elementals, Organization of Nature and Mind; expediency or otherwise of Theosophical Monasteries; Basic Principles of Alchemy, etc. The book is full of Occult information and suggestions.

12mo, cloth; price $1,00.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

WORKS OF E. D. BABBITT, D. M.

RELIGION AS REVEALED BY THE MATERIAL AND SPIRITUAL UNIVERSE. This work presents the sublime scheme of the universe, and the Deific laws by which it is governed, in a new and original way, and develops a broad and joyous world's religion which rises above creeds and rests on a basis of material and spiritual science.

Price, in cloth, 12mo, pp. 365, with elegant illustrations, $1,50, postage free.

THE CHART OF HEALTH. A beautiful Chart, with colors, rollers and binding, over a yard long.

Price, postpaid, 50 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

FULL AND COMPREHENSIVE INSTRUCTIONS HOW TO MESMERIZE.

Ancient and Modern Miracles by Mesmerism. Also, IS SPIRITUALISM TRUE? By PROF. J. W. CADWELL, for thirty-five years the most successful Mesmerist in America. Contains as Full Instructions as ever given to my Pupils for Ten Dollars Each.

Ancient and modern miracles are explained by mesmerism, and the book will be found highly interesting to every Spiritualist.

It is the only work ever published giving full instructions how to mesmerize, and the connection this science has with Spiritualism.

It is pronounced by Allen Putnam and others, who have read it, to be one of the most interesting books ever written.

Paper, pp. 128. Price 50 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

EATING FOR STRENGTH: A Health Cookery Book. By M. L. HOLBROOK, M. D.

This book should be in the hands of every person who would eat to regain and retain health, strength and beauty. It contains, besides the science of eating and one hundred answers to questions which most people are anxious to know, nearly one hundred pages devoted to the best healthful recipes for foods and drinks, how to feed one's self, feeble babes and delicate children so as to get the best bodily development. Mothers who cannot nurse their children will find full directions for feeding them, and so will mothers who have delicate children, and invalids who wish to know the best foods.

Cloth, $1,00, postage free.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

THOUGHTS ON THE LIFE OF JESUS. The author says: "We propose to lay before our readers such jottings of thought as may help some, we trust many, of our fellow-beings in the pathway of a wise, loving and happy development, strengthening in them the purpose to live more effectively, and thus to anticipate beyond the range of earth-life a brighter, more useful, and a happier career."

Cloth, pp. 95. Price 50 cents; postage free.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

PEOPLE FROM THE OTHER WORLD. By H. S. OLCOTT. Containing full and illustrative descriptions of the wonderful séances held by Col. Olcott with the Eddys, Holmeses, and Mrs. Compton. The author confines himself almost exclusively to the phenomenal side of Spiritualism; to those facts which must elevate it sooner or later to the position of an established science. The work is highly illustrated.

In fine English cloth, tastefully bound, $1,00; gilt, $2,00.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

EXETER HALL. A Theological Romance. Most startling and interesting work of the day.

Every Christian, every Spiritualist, every skeptic and every preacher should read it. Every ruler and statesman, every teacher and reformer, and every woman in the land, should have a copy of this extraordinary book. Astounding incidents and revelations for all.

Price, paper, 50 cents; cloth, 80 cents, postage 10 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

New York Advertisements.

DUMONT C. DAKE, M.D.,

304 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY, successfully treats all forms of Chronic Diseases, however complicated. Patients afflicted for years, regarded as hopeless, or incurable, testify to permanent restoration. For twenty years his power to diagnose and treat Disease has been and still stands unequaled, so say eminent Dentists, Physicians, Clergymen, and patients from all parts of the country. Voluminous testimony can be seen at his office. Those unable to visit the Doctor in person can be successfully treated at their homes. Send stamp for Circular. Diagnosis, with advice, $2,00.

Extract from a letter by Rev. F. R. M., D.D., Brooklyn, N.Y.: . . . "I am happy to testify to Dr. Dake's high moral character as a man, and his eminent ability as a physician who has achieved a most extraordinary career."
Ap7 tf

BEST TRUSS EVER USED.

Improved Elastic Truss. Worn night and day. Positively cures ruptures. Sent by mail everywhere. Write for full descriptive circulars to the

DR. HOUSE N. Y. ELASTIC TRUSS CO.,
744 Broadway, N.Y.
My26 13w*

Mrs. Stoddard-Gray and Son, DeWitt C. Hough,

HOLD Materializing Séances every Sunday, Wednesday and Friday evening, 8 o'clock. Tuesday and Saturday, 2 o'clock, at 323 West 34th street, New York. Daily sittings for Communications and Business. 13w* Mh17

FOR SALE,

A MORTGAGE on Cottage and Ground at Onset, Mass., of $250, interest payable semi-annually at 7 per cent. This property is situated on Longwood Avenue, in the heart of Onset, and is valued at $1500. For further particulars, address GEO. A. DELEREE, No. 4 Warren street, New York City. 2w* My26

MRS. C. SCOTT, Trance and Business Medium. Sittings daily, 10 to 5. No. 21 West 13th street, New York. 8w* Ap21

MARY C. MORRELL, Business, Prophetic and Developing Medium, 230 West 36th street, New York City. 15w* Mh3

MRS. L. HIGGINS, Business and Trance Medium. Sittings daily 10 to 3. 351 W. 27th st., New York. Ap21 10w*

RUPTURES

CURED in thirty days by my MEDICAL COMPOUND and Improved ELASTIC SUPPORTER TRUSS. Send Stamp for Circular. Address CAPT. W. A. COLLINGS, Smithville, Jefferson Co., N.Y. (Mention this paper. Ap21 13w*

A LIBERAL OFFER,

BY A RELIABLE CLAIRVOYANT AND MAGNETIC HEALER.

SEND 4 2-ct. stamps, lock of hair, name, age and sex, we will diagnose your case FREE by independent spirit-writing. Address DR. J. S. LOUCKS, Canton, N.Y. My12 13w*

Clairvoyant Examinations Free.

ENCLOSE lock of hair, with leading symptoms. We will give you a correct diagnosis of your case. Address E. F. BUTTERFIELD, M. D., corner Warren and Fayette streets, Syracuse, New York. 26w* Ja28

SECOND EDITION.

A REVIEW

OF THE

Seybert Commissioners' Report

OR,

WHAT I SAW AT CASSADAGA LAKE.

BY

A. B. RICHMOND, Esq.,

A MEMBER OF THE PENNSYLVANIA BAR; AUTHOR "LEAVES FROM THE DIARY OF AN OLD LAWYER," "COURT AND PRISON," "DR. CROSBY'S CALM VIEW FROM A LAWYER'S STANDPOINT," "A HAWK IN AN EAGLE'S NEST," ETC.

This able and comprehensive work should be read by every thoughtful man and woman who has heard of the Seybert Bequest. Hon. A. B. Richmond, the author, whose eminence as a criminal lawyer, and high reputation as an author, will at once ensure the confidence and attention of the reader, has in this volume replied to the "Preliminary Report of the Seybert Commission" with a soundness of logic, a keenness of satire, a breadth of thought and clearness of perception such as the importance of the subject demanded. He deals his blows at the unfairness, injustice, prejudice, unkindness and irreverence of the Seybert Commissioners with an unsparing hand, and, like Thor, he never strikes a blow in vain. Well aimed and well struck, each blow tells, and must carry conviction to every thoughtful mind.

Mr. Richmond, although not a believer in the Spiritual Philosophy, has here made a fearless and vigorous defense of the reality of the PHENOMENA of Spiritualism. Having received last August, from the hands of a friend just returned from Cassadaga Lake, a communication addressed to him from one dear to him in spirit-life, he was induced to visit the Lake, but went with a firm belief that he should be able to solve the mystery and expose the fraud. His experiences there convinced him of the genuineness of at least a portion of the phenomenal part of Spiritualism, and he accordingly wrote his Open Letter to the Seybert Commission, a document which aroused the interest and admiration of the best minds. Once convinced that the so-called spirit manifestations do occur in many instances where fraud is out of the question, he gallantly and fearlessly comes to the front and wields his weapons with strong, unerring aim in defense of truth and human progress.

After a happy and appropriate introduction of the subject, with all needful explanations concerning the bequest of Mr. Seybert, the author gives in the first Chapter his "Open Letter to the Seybert Commission"; Chapters II., III. and IV. are devoted to a searching criticism of the Report of the Seybert Commission; Chapter V. treats ably of the Bible on Spiritualism: Chapter VI. has for its motto "In my Father's House are Many Mansions"; Chapter VII. contains C. C. Massey's Open Letter on "Zöllner" to Professor George S. Fullerton; Chapter VIII. gives an incident which took place in 1854 at a meeting of the "American Association for the Advancement of Science," with remarks made on that occasion by Professor Robert Hare, etc., etc.; Chapter IX. consists of the "Report of the London Dialectical Society," made in 1869; Chapter X. gives Professor Crookes's testimony from his "Researches in the Phenomena of Spiritualism"; Chapter XI. gives further testimony from two witnesses; Chapter XII., "Summary," and the Proscriptum, close this volume.

"A Review of the Seybert Commissioners' Report" is a strong book, and will be read; it will throw light on some disputed questions, while it cannot fail to bring out in bold relief the puerileness as well as the unfairness of the claims of the Seybert Commission. Its clearness of statement, its unanswerable logic, its scholarly style, at once original and forcible, its abundant wit and fine sarcasm, with here and there an exquisite touch of pathos, its vigorous mentality, and, above all, its loyalty to the highest principles of truth and justice—all combine to make this work a valuable addition to the advanced thought of the day.

12mo, cloth, pp. 244. Price $1,25, postage free.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

NEW AND ENLARGED EDITION.

The Spiritual Wreath,

A NEW COLLECTION OF WORDS AND MUSIC
FOR THE
Choir, Congregation and Social Circle.
BY S. W. TUCKER.

CONTEN

Banner of Light.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, JUNE 2, 1888.

ALL SORTS OF PARAGRAPHS.

UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF TEA.
IN SIX STANZAS.
II.

The sun fell asleep in her tresses,
Her face was a flowerful song;
The sugar grew sweet in her fingers
That poured the delicious Oölong.

As we go to press Gen. Phil Sheridan's condition is regarded as extremely critical, and his death at any moment is to be expected. His malady is defined as valvular failure of the heart.

The Golden Gate says San Francisco has a load to carry in the shape of a "world-renowned and highly-celebrated queen trance clairvoyant"; and quite justly declares that all such pretensions, wherever or by whomsoever made, "may be set down as indubitable evidence of deceptive humbuggery." True enough.

BULLETIN OF THE EMPERORS.—Dom Pedro, of Brazil, is again declared to be sinking; Frederick, of Germany, on the contrary, is reported to be on the mending hand.

LOOK AT 'EM.

Look at 'em, so meek,
On every street,
It 's Anniversary Week.

Rev. Lyman Abbott, D. D., was elected permanent pastor of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., at the meeting of the members held on the evening of May 25th: The vote being 400 to 60. Assistant Pastor Halliday and S. S. Ferris spoke against the election, and several members spoke in its favor. We feel that from his standpoint in spirit-life Mr. Beecher himself cordially endorses Mr. Abbott as "the right man in the right place."

The ludicrous farce of the Diss Debar case in New York will be brought to a close the present month—Judge Gildersleeve having appointed the trial for the 4th inst.

THE "TRUST" ROBBERS.—How contemptible must a people appear in the eyes of foreigners when they submit without a murmur to wholesale extortion through gigantic combinations in restraint of trade, without the slightest serious effort to curb or control the plunderers.... In New York State the Trusts have discovered the meaning of proposed legislation against their interests. It means simply that the professional politicians have found a new set of victims to bleed. The Trusts rob the people, and the politicians blackmail the Trusts. This is American politics.—Philadelphia Record.

It is probable that the next European country to abolish the penalty of capital punishment by means of the guillotine, will be France.

While others rail, let peace prevail,
For rail ways dangerous are:
The case in York of Howe's loose talk,
The courts should quick De Bar!

A devil fish, or ocean vampire, was accidentally caught, near Tampico, Mexico, in a fishing seine recently. Ropes were thrown around the monster, and by the aid of horses it was drawn to the shore. It weighed two tons, and, when spread out on the beach dead, presented every appearance of an enormous bat or vampire. It measured fifteen feet long and seventeen feet wide from the edges of the pectoral fins, and its mouth was five feet across. A number of them had been seen for some time, but all efforts to catch one had proved futile.

MONTREAL, QUE., May 26th, 1888.—The new gasometer at the gas works at Hochelaga exploded at 8:30 this morning. It is supposed that there were from twelve to twenty men in the building at the time of the explosion; five were killed. The property loss was heavy.

ANCIENT "CRANKS."—The great philosophic truths of the past were first uttered in parks and public places. Socrates taught in the streets of Athens; Plato, who was called the divine, taught his new ideas at the Olympic games, and the crowds forgot the combats of the athletæ and flocked about him. Diogenes, the cynic, for years harangued the people of Corinth from the portico of the palace of Jupiter. Aristotle, of Stagira, established a school under the trees of the Lycæum. Zeno, the stoic, held forth from a doorway in Cyprus. Xenophanes, the rhapsodist, was allowed a square in Sicily to tell his ideas. Heraclitus had erected for his use a platform in the streets of Ephesus, and even Kant and Descartes did not refuse to speak in the open air.

The blacksmith is always blowing about his work. —Philadelphia News. Yes, and you can always know that he is going to strike when he goes to work with his hammer, and bellows.—Boston Bulletin.

An armed and uniformed body of Britishers are at present in the United States. They came from London, and arrived at New York by the steamer Trave. There are twenty-one men in the party, and they come as representatives of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of London, to lend their presence to the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary celebration of the younger offshoot of the society in Boston within the next few weeks.

Last week The Record claimed that its Saturday issue would prove a "rose geranium"; May 25th, it declared its intention of being a daffodil next day. How many readers, we wonder, recognized this remarkable floricultural change?

Rev. Edward Hopper, of New York, died suddenly while writing a poem on heaven. He was a Presbyterian.—Wilmington Star. This should be a warning to people who write on tariffs, European politics, or any subject of which they know nothing.—New Orleans Picayune.

Dr. Juneman, an Austrian chemist, has invented what he says is the most destructive fluid known to man. This fluid, when brought into contact with the air after the explosion of a shell in which it has been held, becomes a gas which destroys all living things within its reach, melts iron, bronze and other metals, and sets everything inflammable on fire.

We wish to call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of the BANNER OF LIGHT, published on the fourth page of to-day's paper. It is the best exponent of Spiritualism in the English language, and second to none as a literary journal.—Weekly Tribune, Hornellsville, N. Y.

What would the humble Nazarene think, should he return to earth, materialized, as he did to his disciples, and visiting New York, find that a popular church in that city had just increased its minister's salary from $12,000 to $15,000 a year! Perhaps the New York World, which is the Dives of the nineteenth century, can satisfactorily explain this pious enigma.

AN ACROSTIC ORACLE.

WHO is the man on whom the people's eyes
WILL turn next fall? We only can surmise;
BE sure whoe'er the priceless prize shall gain,
OUR country star of nations will remain;
NEXT autumn when we're voting who shall be PRESIDENT; when in every State we see
THE party strife, let 's keep from anger free.
MAN never is but always to be blest—
WHO is our next no doubt will be our best.
IS it not grand a nation's choice to be,
ELECTED! by the suffrage of the free?
—Boston Courier.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton has been President of the Woman's Suffrage Association twenty years.

"It has sometimes happened that spirits have produced odors just as if the objects of the odors had been present, concerning which, if I mistake not, I have frequently spoken before. To-day, while discussing of flowers and lilies, they produced a very perceptible odor of flowers and lilies, as to which, however, it is only necessary to notice the fact."—Swedenborg's Spiritual Diary, 2,051 par. May 22d, 1748.

We have experienced similar manifestations of spirit-power many times, but only at harmonious séances, when no possible chance for imposition could possibly occur.

Deacon (to oyster dealer)—We are getting up a festival. What kind of oysters have you got? Oyster Dealer—Blue Points and Saddle Rocks, sir. Deacon—Well, I hardly know which to buy. Oyster Dealer—Why not take one of each, sir?—N. Y. Sun.

Spiritualistic Meetings in Boston.

Banner of Light Circle-Room, No. 9 Bosworth Street.—Séances are held every Tuesday and Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock promptly. Admission free. For further particulars, see notice on sixth page. L. B. Wilson, Chairman.

Children's Progressive Lyceum No. 1.—Sessions every Sunday at 11 A.M. in (large) Paine Memorial Hall, Appleton street, near Tremont. All seats free. Every one invited. Benj. P. Weaver, Conductor; Henry G. Torrey, Corresponding Secretary. Sewing circle at 1031 Washington street Wednesdays at 3 P.M. Supper and social meeting in the evening.

College Hall, 24 Essex Street.—Sundays, at 10½ A.M., 2½ and 7½ P.M. Eben Cobb, Conductor.

Eagle Hall, 616 Washington Street, corner of Essex.—Sundays, at 2½ and 7½ P.M.; also Wednesdays at 3 P.M. Able speakers and test mediums. Excellent music. Prescott Robinson, Chairman.

1031 Washington Street.—The First Spiritualist Ladies' Aid Society meets every Friday. Mrs. H. O. Torrey, Secretary. Private séance for members only, first Friday in each month; doors closed at 3 P.M. Public meetings every Friday evening at 7½.

The Independent Club, 1031 Washington Street, holds regular meetings every Monday evening, at 8 o'clock. The best speakers and music.

Mishawum Hall, City Square, Charlestown.—Mediums' meeting every Sunday at 2½ and 7½ P.M. Dr. Mark Smith, Chairman.

Chelsea.—The Ladies' Social Aid Society meets in Mrs. Buffum's parlors, 196 Chestnut street, every Friday afternoon and evening. All are invited. Mrs. E. H. Pratt, President; Mrs. M. A. Dodge, Secretary.

Cambridgeport.—Meetings held each Sunday evening at 7½ o'clock at St. George's Hall, 663 Main street, by the Spiritualist Society. H. P. Trask, President.

Lynn.—Children's Lyceum meets every Sunday at Cadet Hall, Market street, at 12 M. Conductor, Mr. O. S. Adams; Secretary, Mrs. E. B. Merrill.

First Spiritual Temple, corner Newbury and Exeter Streets.—Last Sunday, May 27th, memorial services were held for Mrs. E. R. Dyar-Clough, at which a large audience was present.

The guides of Mrs. H. S. Lake and Mr. D. E. Caswell were the speakers.

Mrs. Lake, entranced, said: "Life and death are measurably mysteries. In Nature's wonderful laboratory the human frame is fashioned, does its work for the spirit, and then is resolved into other states, while the former tenant passes on into new conditions and experiences.

She, whose birth into spirit-spheres we commemorate to-day, has partaken of this change; has put aside the outward for that which to you is less perceptible.

Every soul is an enigma even to itself, and therefore it is impossible for others even approximately to estimate the interior state of a fellow being. Hence differences of opinion must and do arise, and misunderstandings oftentimes occur. By-and bye, when spirits are more highly developed here, the interior state will be more readily recognized. She, whose work was for so long a period identified with this Society, possessed pronounced and peculiar mediumship; she was devoted to its exercise, and persistent and enthusiastic in forwarding such aims as she believed to be essential and necessary. Her zeal, which was unquestioned, should serve as an incentive to others. With a frail physical organism she yet spoke and wrought almost continuously for the last few years of her life, and when removed to our plane carried the consciousness of having performed the work which was hers to perform.

She sensed her coming translation, and realized, in spirit, that it was neither untimely nor unwise. This state was given her by her spirit guardians, who did not find it difficult to impress so sensitive an instrument.

Events such as this we memorialize bring lessons to you all, and should deepen your sense of the uncertainty and unreality of outward life, enlarging the spiritual vision to comprehend your own possibilities and to unfold the same, as the arisen sister tried patiently to do. Fortitude, persistence, enthusiasm and zeal are necessary to success in any work, and these qualities were pronounced in the character of her so lately in your midst. But the work was wrought and the spirit could not linger longer, and now, in newer fields of spiritual experience, will continue to gather that which is necessary to its development. Life, and death as you term it, also, are made to serve the possibilities of the human soul."

Mr. D. E. Caswell, under control, addressed the people, saying that the work of Mrs. Clough was not crowded into the forty-six years of her earthly experience. She came on earth for a work which she accomplished well. Her ambition was but to do the work she realized as hers. She was a medium, and rejoiced in the exercise of this gift, even when to use the same brought obloquy and reproach. Life would have been easier had she disavowed her convictions and disobeyed her influences; but she chose rather to espouse these, and relinquish the material satisfaction which she might otherwise have obtained.

This was evidence of sincerity and devotion to that which she believed to be true. Though she had entered spirit-spheres she would yet continue active in the mortal. Those yet on the outward plane were left to carry on the work.

At the conclusion of these remarks, a memorial tablet was unveiled, bearing the inscription:

"MRS. E. R. DYAR-CLOUGH,
Born, Oct. 25th, 1842.
Passed away, May 18th, 1888.
Her work was well done."

The vocal selections by Mr. Parker and Mrs. Fisher-Wellington were beautiful and appropriate, as was also the organ music by Mr. Truette.

This was the closing Sunday service of the season.

Wednesday evening the usual social—a reception to Mrs. Lake—will be held, to which all are cordially invited.

Berkeley Hall—Boston Spiritual Temple.—Last Sunday the morning exercises were opened with congregational singing, after which Mr. J. W. Fletcher recited Charles Mackay's poem "Eternal Justice." Mrs. Anna Edwards and Mrs. Hattie Carr sang "Gone Before," Mrs. Lovering accompanist. Mr. Fletcher's subject was "The Hope of Modern Spiritualism." "There is so much difficulty," he said, "in realizing what Spiritualism is, the thoughtful student can hardly grasp what its ultimate may be. It teaches continued life after death. One's condition is not in accordance with the doctrine he professes to believe, but with his spiritual development. We need to rise and stand outside ourselves. The intellectual faculties of man in the future will be wise and comprehensive; religion is the desire of the heart. Our God does not repent. The sinner of the world plays as important a part as the saint; evil is the absence of good, as darkness is the absence of light; truth can never suffer from the blows of ignorance. Spiritualism is a demonstration of immortality given through mediumship. Mediums are the pivots upon which Modern Spiritualism turns. Teach your children that better than the respect of others, is the respect each holds for himself."

Mr. Fletcher remarked that true and spiritually effective mediumship must result from an intelligent development, and recommended the establishment of institutions wherein mediums might learn the best methods of cultivating their spiritual gifts, and of employing them to the best advantage for mankind; at the same time serve as homes for weary and exhausted instruments of the spirit-world, places of refuge where they might recuperate their wasted energies. He was frequently applauded during the delivery of his lecture, which was very interesting throughout. Congregational singing closed the exercises.

Evening.—Mr. Fletcher gave his entertaining and instructive illustrated lecture on Modern Spiritualism, excellent vocal music being furnished by the Clinton Quartette. At its close the President of the society, Capt. Holmes, made brief remarks, terminating the lecture season, and announcing that the meetings would be resumed on the first of October, with Mrs. R. S. Lillie as speaker.

MARY F. LOVERING, Cor. Sec'y.
81 White street, East Boston.

Children's Progressive Lyceum No. 1, Paine Hall, Appleton Street.—Despite the threatening weather of Sunday morning the attendance of children was the largest since Conductor Weaver has had charge of the Lyceum—there being one hundred and forty six in the march. The audience, that filled the hall, was well pleased with the programme offered. The hall was handsomely decorated for "Memorial Sunday" with flags and bunting, under direction of Mr. Bancroft, a member of the Grand Army, also a regular attendant of the Lyceum. The table and piano were prettily trimmed with bouquets of natural flowers. Lucette Webster read the "Sleeping Sentinel" in her charming manner. A violin solo by Louis Poole received hearty applause. The following scholars participated in the exercises: Readings, Leroy Thorpe, Mary Lichenstein, Alice Cummins, Jennie Porcelain, Flossie Butler, Lillian Rich, Lillie Wendemuth, Lillian Lansing, Emma Russell, Hattie Dodge and Evelyn Moran; singing, Mabel Waite, Louise Barlow, Grace Scales and Jessie Judkins. Emma Ireland, one of the Lyceum scholars, while under control, delivered an excellent address.

The regular meeting of the Lyceum Sewing Circle of Wednesday, May 23d, was well attended; the exercises of the evening were very interesting. Singing by Mabel Waite, reading by Mrs. Allen, addresses by Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Abbie N. Burnham, Mr. Holmes, who concluded his remarks with a short original poem, and Mr. L. L. Whitlock.

We hope all the friends of the Lyceum will attend the Strawberry Festival and Dance on June 6th in Paine Hall.

The Annual Picnic of the Lyceum will be on Wednesday, June 27th, at Downer's Landing. Tickets at reduced rates may be procured of members of the Association. HENRY O. TORREY, Cor. Sec'y.

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the members of the Boston Spiritual Temple for the election of officers for the ensuing year and for the transaction of such business as may legally be brought before them, will be held at Lyceum Hall, 1031 Washington street, on Wednesday evening, June 6th, at eight o'clock.

Every square mile of land in Great Britain and Ireland has to support 290 persons, and in Germany 216 persons. Every square mile in the United States has to support only 14 persons.

The Spiritualist Camp-Meetings.

Onset Bay.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

Onset is assuming a summer appearance, and new faces are seen upon the street daily. Soon the camp-meeting will be with us in earnest, but, before that, one month for recreation and rest can be indulged in by those who are fortunate enough to have the time and the wherewithal to devote to it.

June 10th has been assigned for the opening day; the tickets have been placed at $1.75 for the round trip—good to return on the same day, or to remain over until Monday the 18th. This is to allow all cottage-owners a chance to examine their property, and to afford those wishing to hire or to engage rooms and board an opportunity to visit the place and also enjoy the Sunday services. Tickets should be purchased to Onset station.

The camp-meeting proper commences July 15th, and closes August 12th. In the way of instrumental music the Middleboro Band has been secured for Sundays; the vocal will be under the supervision of Charles W. Sullivan, as leader of congregational singing. Mr. Frank E. Crane will preside at the organ, which will be one of Smith & Co.'s make.

Many improvements are being effected; new cottages are being built and old ones enlarged. These changes for the better are, however, so numerous that it is impossible to enumerate them here in detail. Major Griffith has arranged his nice cottage with a furnace, and has made it a home for himself and family much of the time during the past winter months.

Wm. F. Nye, of New Bedford, is often at Onset. He is an active man.

It is whispered that a "trotting park" and a horse-railroad are among the coming possibilities at Onset. Everything upon the surface looks prosperous and encouraging.

Several questions of interest to the cottagers of Onset, in a legal point of view, are now under consideration, and are to be adjusted in the courts.

Indications present themselves that soon the residents of Onset will go through the same ordeal passed at Cottage City, i. e., the citizens will petition to the General Court for a separate town, that they may manage their own affairs, and not be dependent upon their father and mother Wareham in such matters.

Dr. Sara E. Hervey has returned from New York City, and opened her cottage for the season.

Rev. S. D. Simonds, from California, has been at Onset for a short time.

W. W. Currier (one of the Directors) and family are looked for at an early day.

Mr. Flowers, from New York, likes Onset so well that he has opened a shop for plumbing work, etc.

All the hotels will soon be ready to accommodate guests.

Mr. George Hosmer, and quite a number of his brethren of the Directors of Onset Bay Grove Association, arrived June 1st for the season. OBSERVER.

Dr. F. H. Roscoe, 26 Stewart street, Providence, R. I., writes us that William Plaisted (formerly of Portsmouth, N. H., where he once conducted meetings,) is about to make his home at Onset Bay, and engage (he understands) in the news business. Mr. Plaisted—Dr. R. informs us—has done all in his power to advance the cause of Spiritualism in Providence for the past few years, and he earnestly recommends him to the good graces of the friends in his new field of usefulness.

Lake Pleasant.

[From Our Regular Correspondent.]

The week has passed in a somewhat uneventful manner, aside from the hurry and bustle incidental to the setting things in order, and the general preparations for the accommodation of the throngs which will soon occupy these grounds.

A much greater degree of interest is being manifested in the erection and the improvement of cottages than has been shown for several years. Several new cottages are being built.

NOTES.

George Pasco, formerly of Hartford, Conn., is the champion fisherman of the camp. He has recently improved his cottage, "Woodland Home."

Mr. Lewis Bartholomew, Treasurer of the Lake Pleasant Association, is at his post of duty.

The coming anniversary of our national independence is to be observed in a becoming manner. Full particulars will be given later on.

The family of John White, Esq., of Buffalo, N. Y., are expected to arrive at "Buffalo Cottage," in the near future.

The board of trustees of the Lake Pleasant Association met the County Commissioners here to-day for the purpose of establishing certain boundary lines. The matter was arranged to the entire satisfaction of all interested.

There are some valuable building lots at the Highlands, which will doubtless be sold in the near future.

We have opened our bookstore and news-stand, for the sale of all first class publications, including the BANNER OF LIGHT.

The Lake Pleasant Hotel will open early.

Henry Smith and wife were in camp recently.

Another number of the Wildwood Messenger will be issued in June. J. M. Y.

Lake Pleasant, Mass., May 26th, 1888.

Cassadaga Lake, N. Y.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

Cassadaga Camp is a thing of the present and our hope of the future. Improvements are in rapid progress, and very noticeable stumps have been uprooted and in their stead is to be seen a sward of living green. By the time Camp opens there will have been thirty cottages erected since last year—most of them commodious and fine in architectural beauty; also a large hall, two stories, with lecture, Lyceum Library and reading-room.

Our annual picnic and Sunday Assembly, commencing the 8th of June and to be held three days with Mrs. Elizabeth Watson of California and Mr. J. Clegg Wright as speakers, cannot fail to be a success. Mr. Wright has never lectured at Cassadaga, but if he is as pleasant an orator as his lectures are readable and instructive, we predict that he will come again. In this the land of her nativity little Libbie Lowe lives in the hearts of her people, and no one will receive a warmer welcome than "the little preacher" of the Golden Gate—Mrs. Elizabeth Watson.

Music will be furnished by the North-Western Band of Meadville, Pa., which needs no comment; it is always of the very best.

The Camp opens the 21st of July and closes the 26th of August. Circulars will be ready for distribution at the Picnic.

Mr. T. J. Skidmore resigned his position as President of the Association at the last annual election, and Mr. A. Gaston of Meadville, Pa., is his successor. Mr. Archie Gaston of same place is Secretary. Persons wishing information in regard to the Camp and for circulars can address the President or Secretary at the above-named place.

Mr. and Mrs. Skidmore are devoting no less time to the interests of the Camp, and have built a beautiful home on the Avenue overlooking the Lake.

Mrs. O. Cook of Jamestown, N. Y., always comes laden with flowering shrubs or plants, beautifying not not only her own cottage and surroundings, but the grounds. She is deserving of mention, and all admirers of the beautiful ought to know to whom they are indebted.

Many families are becoming permanently settled here, and they and all the cottagers who come early enough are working with a will to beautify and make Cassadaga Camping-ground the best in our land.

M. J. R.

[From the Golden Gate, San Francisco, Cal.]

An Able Report.

We heartily commend to every reader of this journal the able report upon "The Proper Method of Scientifically Investigating the Phenomena of Spiritualism," made recently to and adopted by the American Spiritual Alliance, which appears in this week's Golden Gate, and for advance slips of which we are indebted to our brothers of the BANNER OF LIGHT. The report bears the intellectual ear-marks of being the product of the scholarly pen of Henry Kiddle, Chairman of the Committee submitting the same.

As all interested in the cause of Spiritualism will doubtless read this report for themselves, it is perhaps unnecessary for us to make any further reference thereto; but we are pleased to note that it emphasizes a position often referred to in these columns, and that is the responsibility or spiritual status of the circle, as well as of the medium, in the matter of procuring reliable manifestations. The presence of inharmonious, or intensely skeptical or suspicious persons, or persons of low spiritual unfoldment, is always detrimental to good spiritual manifestations, and such should never be admitted to circles where careful study of the phenomena is intended.

The professional or chronic fraud-hunter is no more fitted for careful scientific investigation of spiritual phenomena than an ordinary blacksmith having no knowledge of tones would be for tuning a piano or repairing a chronometer. His every effort would be destructive of harmony, and disastrous of every possible good result.

We are glad that the American Spiritual Alliance has presented this fact in so clear and able a manner.

Lansing, Mich.—Mrs. Lunt Parker was well received by the Spiritualists of Maple Rapids and vicinity. They were so well pleased with the lectures, tests and psychometric readings given by her guides that they are holding out inducements for her to come and locate among them on a salary.——We will close our meetings at Lansing, June 10th, for the season; then hold a two weeks' grove meeting at the half-way house between Lansing and St. John's, Mich., opening Saturday, June 16th. W. T. PARKER.
Lansing, Mich.

In Re Mrs. Stoddard-Gray.

To whom it may Concern:

The New York World of May 17th contained an article purporting to be an account of the "exposé," on the previous evening, of fraud at a spiritual séance held by Mrs. Gray and her son, DeWitt C. Hough, at 323 West 34th street. It was stated in that article that persons who had attended the séance suddenly struck a light and seized a form which had come out of the cabinet, and which, when so seized, was found to be the said medium, DeWitt Hough, enveloped in gauzy drapery.

The undersigned, who were present on the occasion referred to, desire as an act of simple justice to declare that the statement published by The World as above is a most impudent fabrication. The facts are as follows: An attempt was made to seize a form which came from the cabinet, and a light was struck, but no seizure and no "exposé" followed. The instant the light appeared the form, which was standing on the table, vanished! The persons who rushed forward intending to seize it found nothing. The medium was found immediately after in his chair in the cabinet, and no gauzy drapery or other underclothing, as means of fraud, were discovered by any one.

A more absolute fiasco in the way of an exposé can hardly be imagined; and the men who had planned the raid returned crestfallen and confused, not daring to pretend, in the presence of those who had witnessed all that passed, that they had made any discovery or exposé whatever. This is the truth of the case, and to it we set our hand.

G. F. PARSONS,
MRS. G. F. PARSONS,
M. J. PARSONS,
17 West 59th street, New York.
MR. AND MRS. CARECOLIE,
310 West 27th street, New York.
DANIEL SNYDER,
Saratoga Springs, N. Y.
MRS. S. M. MITCHELL,
235 West 126th street, New York.
MRS. S. A. WHITE,
235 West 126th street, New York.
F. MUHLHAUSER,
Cleveland, O.
C. ROPP,
Illinois.

ADDITIONAL.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

A friend in New York sends me a copy of The World of Thursday last week, in which I find a long article describing in a highly sensational manner the exposure of Mrs. Stoddard-Gray and son, 323 West 34th street, on Wednesday night, 16th instant. I happened to be one of those present. I occupied a front seat and witnessed every detail of the séance, and I brand the whole article, every word and every sentence, as relates to any exposure or fraudulent practice, as an utter fabrication—the more contemptible because the reporter, whoever he may be, knew it to be such when he penned it.

As much as I regret the disturbance and breaking up of the séance, I am exceedingly thankful that I was present at one of these so-called exposures. I know exactly now the modus operandi, and the misrepresentations made use of by these so-called *news*papers, for the sake of writing up a sensation. If it is a crime to attack the character of any person, no matter who; if it is criminal to describe what never occurred—to make accusations for which there is no foundation—the New York World must be accounted guilty. F. MUHLHAUSER.
Cleveland, O., May 21st, 1888.

Spiritualism a Religion.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

Several of the modern clergy having engaged of late in a crusade against the New Dispensation, it is well, amid the multitudinous echoes of their opprobious epithets, to call attention to the fact that the status of Spiritualism as one of the recognized religious systems has already been established by legal precedent within the limits of this Commonwealth.

Some seventeen years ago the State of Massachusetts, through the courts, decided that spiritualistic meetings were of a religious nature, and that Spiritualism was to be regarded as one of the religions of the day. The decision came about in the following manner: A Spiritualist camp-meeting was being held at Malden, Mass., and a horse car left the track in going to the grounds, seriously injuring a lady who was on her way to the meeting. She sued the horse railroad company for ten thousand dollars' damage; the case came up for trial, and the defense was that the horse car on which she was injured was running on Sunday; that she was also going to a "show" where there was an admission fee exacted. This "show" proved to be a séance held by Miss Laura Ellis, which the plaintiff claimed to be a part of the religious services of the camp, and in accord with her conscientious belief.

The plaintiff, through her lawyer, took the ground that all forms of religious belief were legitimate in the State of Massachusetts—one as much so as another—and that people could go to a spiritualistic meeting on Sunday without breaking the law as well as to a Protestant or Roman Catholic service; that there was no yardstick—alluding to the old Mosaic command regarding the length of a Sabbath day's journey—that could measure the distance that any one might be allowed to travel to attend a meeting, etc.

The defense brought up the advertisement in the BANNER OF LIGHT to show that the séance in question was advertised as a paying business; but the jury could see no harm in the cars running, and decided that the lady had done a proper thing in taking a horse car which took fares and was run on Sunday the same as other days; therefore its members brought in a verdict that the horse railroad company should pay her five thousand dollars' damage for the injury wrought upon her, and the case was thus settled. This righteous decision makes a precedent for like cases, and gives to Spiritualist gatherings the demonstrated protection of the laws of this Commonwealth.

Boston, Mass. A. S. HAYWARD.

Printed matter is measured by "ems," the letter "m" being the unit. The following compilation is by Prof. A. P. Lyon: The Bible contains 3,500,000 "ems"; Webster's Dictionary, 20,000,000; Chambers's Encyclopædia, 58,000,000; Johnson's Cyclopedia, 56,000,000; Appleton's Cyclopædia, 60,000,000; and Encyclopædia Britannica, 140,000,000 "ems."

Sturgis Annual Meeting.

The Harmonial Society of Sturgis, Mich., will hold its annual meeting in the Free Church in Sturgis, on the 15th, 16th and 17th of June, 1888. Lyman C. Howe and other prominent speakers and mediums will be present to address the meeting. By Order of Committee.

Wisconsin Spiritualists.

The Wisconsin State Association of Spiritualists will hold its next meeting in Milwaukee, June 22d, 23d and 24th. John L. Potter and Mrs. A. H. Colby-Luther are the speakers engaged. DR. J. C. PHILLIPS, Sec'y.

Spiritualist Meetings in New York.

Adelphi Hall, corner of 52d Street and 7th Avenue.—The First Society of Spiritualists holds meetings every Sunday at 11 A.M. and 7½ P.M. Admission free.

Columbia Hall, 878 6th Avenue, between 49th and 50th Streets.—The People's Spiritual Meeting (removed from Spencer Hall). Services every Sunday at 2½ and 7½ P.M. Mediums and speakers always present. Frank W. Jones, Conducter.

Meetings for Spiritual Manifestations will be held at Adelphi Hall, corner 7th Avenue and 52d street, New York, every Sunday at 2½ P.M. Tests given by Mrs. E. A. Wells of New York.

Arcanum Hall, 57 West 25th Street, N.E. corner 6th Avenue.—Meetings of the Progressive Spiritualists are held every Sunday at 3 and 8 P.M. Mediums and speakers welcome. Test Medium and Conductor, Prof. G. G. W. Van Horn.

Soul Communion Meetings every Tuesday at 3 P.M. sharp, at Mrs. Morrell's, 230 West 36th street.

Spiritualist Meetings in Brooklyn.

Conservatory Hall, Bedford Avenue, corner Fulton Street.—Services every Sunday at 11 A.M. and 7½ P.M.

Fraternity Rooms, corner Bedford Avenue and South Second Street.—Services every Sunday at 7½ P.M. Children's Lyceum at 3 P.M. The Spiritual Literary Union meets the first and third Saturday of each month at 8 P.M.

Johnston Building, Flatbush Avenue, corner of Nevins Street.—Brooklyn Progressive Spiritual Conference every Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock.

OUR CONFESSION OF FAITH.

By Which it is Hoped Any Injustice May be Corrected.

To the Readers of the Banner of Light:

In common with many publishers we have been accustomed to look upon certain statements which we have seen in our columns as merely adroit advertising.

Consequently we feel justified in printing a few points from a communication recently received from the proprietors of Warner's Safe Cure, as a sort of vindication of the claims that are made by them, and that have been vouched for by so many persons who have used their remedies.

"We have convinced ourselves that by telling what we know to be true, we have produced at last a permanent conviction in the public mind. Nine years ago we stated what the national disease of this country was, and that it was rapidly increasing. Five years ago we stated that a marked check had been given it.

"The statistics of one of the largest life-insurance companies of this country show that in 1883 and 1884, the mortality from kidney disorders did not increase over the previous years: other companies stated the same thing. It is not presumptuous for us to claim credit for checking these ravages.

"Seven years ago we stated that the condition of the kidneys was the key to the condition of health; within the past five years all careful life insurance companies have conceded the truth of this statement, for, whereas, ten years ago, chemical analysis to determine the condition of the kidneys was not required, to-day millions of dollars in risks are refused, because chemical examination discovers unsuspected diseases of the kidneys.

"Nine years ago we stated that the ravages of Bright's Disease were insignificant compared with other unsuspected disorders of the kidneys of many misleading names; that ninety-three per cent. of human ailments are attributable to deranged kidneys, which fills the blood with uric acid, or kidney poison, which causes these many fatal diseases.

"The uric acid, or kidney poison, is the real cause of the majority of cases of paralysis, apoplexy, heart disease, convulsions, pneumonia, consumption and insanity; over half the victims of consumption are first the victims of diseased kidneys.

"When the recent death of an honored ex-official of the United States was announced, his physician said that although he was suffering from Bright's Disease, that was not the cause of death. He was not frank enough to admit that the apoplexy which overtook him in his bed was the fatal effect of the kidney poison in the blood, which had eaten away the substance of the arteries and brain; nor was Logan's physician honest enough to state that his fatal rheumatism was caused by kidney acid in the blood.

"If the doctors would state in official reports the original cause of death, the people of this country would be alarmed, yea, nearly panic stricken, at the fearful mortality from kidney disorders."

The writers of the above letter give these facts to the public simply to justify the claims that they have made, that "if the kidneys and liver are kept in a healthy condition by the use of Warner's safe cure, which hundreds of thousands have proved to be a specific, when all others failed, and that has received the endorsement of the highest medical talent in Europe, Australia, and America, many a life would be prolonged and the happiness of the people preserved. It is successful with so many different cases because it, and it alone, can remove the uric acid from the blood through the kidneys.

Our readers are familiar with the preparation named.

Commendation thereof has often appeared in our columns.

We believe it to be one of the best, if not the best ever manufactured. We know the proprietors are men of character and influence.

We are certain they have awakened a widespread interest in the public mind concerning the importance of the kidneys. We believe with them that they are the key to health, and that for their restoration from disease and maintenance in health, there is nothing equal to this great remedy.

The proprietors say they "do not glory in this universal prevalence of disease, but having started out with the purpose of spreading the merits of Warner's safe cure before the world, because it cured our senior proprietor, who was given up by doctors as incurable, we feel it our duty to state the facts and leave the public to its own inferences. We point to our claims, and to their public and universal verification, with pride, and if the public does not believe what we say, we tell them to ask their friends and neighbors what they think about our preparations."

As stated above, we most cordially commend the perusal of this correspondence to our readers, believing that in so doing we are fulfilling a simple public obligation.

FORTY YEARS
ON THE
SPIRITUAL ROSTRUM.
BY WARREN CHASE.

A SEQUEL TO "THE LIFE-LINE OF THE LONE ONE," AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF THE AUTHOR, AS

The World's Child,

WHO GAVE THE FIRST PUBLIC LECTURES IN THIS COUNTRY IN DEFENSE OF MODERN SPIRIT INTERCOURSE, AND WHOSE NAME IS FIRST ON THE LIST OF CALLS FOR COPIES OF "NATURE'S DIVINE REVELATIONS," WHEN IN PRESS IN 1847.

No one is better qualified to place on record reliable information regarding the early history of Modern Spiritualism and of its early advocates and defenders, than the author of this volume. There has been scarcely a worker for the cause he has not known; scarce a city or town in the Union he has not visited; and no place he has visited whose people have not enjoyed greater mental freedom and a better understanding of this life and assurance of a future one from his having been with them.

As a worker in every reformatory movement, Mr. Chase's career has been almost phenomenal in persistency, efficiency and self-sacrifice. He has been a pioneer—a pathfinder in the wilderness of moss-grown superstitions and hide-bound dogmas, making the way clear for the army of freedom-loving men and women that was to follow and destroy it. For this reason this autobiography of his should find place in the home of every friend of human progress and spiritual enlightenment, and be valued as a monument to his memory and his work.

CONTENTS.

CHAPTER I. Internal and External Forebodings of Social, Political and Religious Convulsions, Personal and General, resulting in a Social Effort by the Author.
II. Birth of Spiritualism—Failure of Fourierism—Political Career Opened, and Sketches on the Path of Life by the Crooked and Tangled Line—The First Spiritual Paper, The Universalium, and its Objects Explained.
III. Early Work—Boston Investigator—Universalium, Spirit Messenger, and Early Workers, etc.
IV. Catalogue of Names and Short Biographical Notices of Early Workers and Persecutions.
V. A Brief and Brilliant Political Career.
VI. Threading my Way along the "Hard Road to Travel On"—Incidents and Events in the Path of Life.
VII. What I have learned from Forty Years' Intercourse with Spirits—Sexual Life in the Spirit-World—My Social, Political and Religious Creed, etc.
VIII. Extracts and Scraps of Correspondence running through Many Years, with Various and Progressive Ideas on Spirit-Life and Intercourse; with Scraps from my Scrap-book worth keeping and largely variegated.
IX. Poetical Selections from Various Sources, Personal and General—Good and Poor, but not Bad, greatly mixed, if Published and Unpublished Scraps.

The volume is embellished with a portrait of the author.

12mo, cloth, pp. 324. Price $1,00; postage 10 cents

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

BANNER OF LIGHT.

AN EXPONENT OF THE SPIRITUAL PHILOSOPHY OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY.

VOL. LXIII. | COLBY & RICH, Publishers and Proprietors. | BOSTON, SATURDAY, JUNE 9, 1888. | $3,00 Per Annum, Postage Free. | NO. 13.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

FIRST PAGE.—Original Essay: What is Spirit? The Possibilities of Man Shown in Answer to Prayer. The Philosophy of Materialization. [Church Methods—Taken by the "Instantaneous" Process.]

SECOND PAGE.—Banner Correspondence: Letters from Massachusetts, Vermont, New York, Indiana, Minnesota, Arkansas, Kentucky, Kansas, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, and Rhode Island. Poetry: St. Augustine. June Magazines. Free Thought: The Rationale of Spiritual Organization.

THIRD PAGE.—Poetry: Violets. The Reviewer: The Magnetic and Botanic Family Physician. Why I Became a Spiritualist. Jennie B. Hagan in Lynn. Obituary Notices, etc.

FOURTH PAGE.—The Meeting-House Way. How Indians are Treated. Bigotry and Superstition Exemplified. Revival of Ancient "Blue Laws." A Very Satisfactory Spiritual Séance, etc.

FIFTH PAGE.—All Sorts of Paragraphs. Movements of Mediums and Lecturers. New Advertisements, etc.

SIXTH PAGE.—Message Department: Questions Answered through the Mediumship of Miss M. T. Shelhamer; Spirit Messages given through the Mediumship of Mrs. B. F. Smith. Verifications of Spirit-Messages.

SEVENTH PAGE.—Medical Diplomas. Spiritualist Meetings. Mediums in Boston. Book and Miscellaneous Advertisements.

EIGHTH PAGE.—Our Foreign Exchanges. Spiritualist Meetings in Boston, New York and Elsewhere. The Spiritualist Camp-Meetings. Gone to His Reward. Wonderful Changes, etc.

Original Essay.

WHAT IS SPIRIT?

The above question has defied all investigation until Spiritualism and Evolution came to explain, through natural law, the mystery with which ignorance and superstition have through all past ages enveloped it. Spiritualism is very erroneously called "modern." It is not modern. Spiritualism was born with life; spirit is the life-principle; spirit is the creative or God-part of all natural life, animate and inanimate. It is spirit which permeates and gives consciousness of intelligence, and proves the relation of humanity to their creator, God. Each atom of life has a separate and individual force, or intelligence, also an individual body, or form. The spirit is born with the body; lives and progresses in conformity with the conditions and influences which govern the unfolding and development in the surroundings of its daily life; and the more conducive the conditions are for a high standard of development and cultivation, the higher conception humanity can derive of a future existence, and a higher sphere of life develop into when it passes from the mortal to the immortal. The spirit never dies, but lives and progresses forever and forever.

It was through Spiritualism the oracles of Bible history obtained their knowledge when the kings and wise men consulted them; but they surrounded it with myth and mystery in order to keep the lower classes of people in ignorance and subjection, and thus bestow added power upon the priests and rulers. The following is an historical legend, proving that in ancient ages spirits returned in many mysterious ways to benefit humanity, even more than they now do:

Ages since in Egypt a flower grew by the wayside, that when travelers passed would turn its face to them. One day a traveler passing was attracted to the flower and talked to it. The flower opened its petals, and in the flower the man saw an Egyptian god. He dug up the plant that bore the flower, took it to his home, planted it in a vase, sat it upon an altar in his house, and morning and evening bowed before it. The flower imparted to him wisdom and knowledge, and the man became a great and wise ruler, and was called the god Brahm.

This legend may be found in Ancient Egyptian History in the London Museum.

Even as late as Christ's advent, the majority of humanity were so ignorant they had no conception of spirituality, and those who were educated fostered ignorance and superstition in order to more easily subjugate the people to the influences of the priests, and thus through their ignorance aid the Church in its greed for power and wealth. As a result there was no way to make the fact of a future existence known to the world except through a literal form, and Christ was made a living example to teach humanity how they must live in order to insure a perfect future spiritual life. Christ's passing away in bodily form, so that all his disciples could see him go, terminated the lesson he came to teach. He was compelled to leave them in that manner, in order for them to understand the lesson, and prove to them beyond doubt the truth he had taught them of a future spiritual life. What a wonderful mystery that passing away must have been to those few ignorant men and women who at that time were the only believers in a spiritual creator and a future existence—but not mysterious in this enlightened, progressive age to those who have a knowledge of Spiritualism and evolution, by which is explained through natural law all which then seemed unexplainable and impossible.

I desire all to understand that I do not stigmatize or cast disrespect on that which to-day is called Christianity; it is very unwise for Spiritualists to do so; for the church and Bible must be upheld for the benefit of social morality, until progress and science have righted the wrongs committed through the Church's selfish greed for wealth and power. I wish, however, to call your attention to the fact that although the Church has acquired such vast advantages in the past through the strength of its wealth and popularity, with gigantic strides truth and progression have outdone them in the cause of justice and humanity, since Spiritualism was resurrected only forty years since. In utter disregard of all the contempt and derision which that vast mass of wealth and popularity has poured upon Spiritualism, the spirit of truth and justice has compelled the churches to broaden and liberalize their creeds, open wide their doors, and join hands in the march of progression, in order to keep their temples filled, and meet the spiritual needs of consistent, reasoning humanity.

Only a few years since what husks the churches gave our spiritual life to feed upon. They taught us that good works were only filthy rags in God's sight. They taught us good works would not avail to help us in our future life, and if we did not believe in Christ's blood to wash away our sins we must be forever damned. They also taught God made the Bible mysterious for the benefit of humanity, and it was only necessary for our priests to understand it, and their teaching and wisdom must not be questioned by the ignorant—and all reasoning for ourselves on a future life was the working of the devil in us, and a heinous sin in God's sight; but every one who accepted the teaching of Christ's blood as a saving power would secure eternal happiness, and when they died directly enter God's presence and hear the "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter now into thy joys." But now, in direct contradiction to those teachings, spirits are continually returning to tell us those were false teachings and that progression does not end with mortal life. In direct contradiction to the teachings of the church were the teachings of Christ, who declared: By their works ye shall know them. Christ said every act which mitigates the woes of the least of one of God's creatures is a criterion of goodness. Also every wrong committed in mortal life must be atoned before we can hope to enter the presence of that divine spirit which is the creator of all life. It would be a hopeless task to atone for all the wrongs we commit through our selfish ignorance were it not for this comforting truth which Spiritualism teaches: that progression does not end with mortal life, and that we are again to have the companionship and help of loved ones who have gone before, and from whom we are nevermore to be parted by death, the spirit is never to die, but must, through a natural law, live forever and forever.

J. S. BENTON.

101 Main street, Hartford, Conn.

Written for the Banner of Light.

The Possibilities of Man Shown in Answer to Prayer.

I was almost friendless in a strange city, and just able to do work enough to earn money to buy quinine, pay room-rent and get the cheapest diet that the market afforded, for I had been afflicted for months with a kind of chills and fever that no medicine which I could get would break or even check. About nightfall each day my chill came on. The chill was light, but the fever was like a consuming fire and lasted until morning. So great was my suffering that it would seem that morning would never come again; after the fever set in a night seemed like a lifetime.

The last one I had was a memorable one to me. About the time I begun to feel the relentless hand of fever upon me I got out of my bed, and upon my knees, in real earnest, asked the great Governor of the universe to show me that night the possibilities of man, both in the upward and downward course of life, and thereby so engage my mind until morning as to do away with all consciousness of suffering. I then got back into bed; my head had hardly touched the pillow when the door of my room opened, and immediately there stood at the foot of my bed a person whom at first sight I considered the most beautiful woman my eyes had ever beheld. My next impression was that she was far in advance of anything mortal; and I knew that she must be on an errand of kindness to me. But it was so soon after the last words of supplication had fallen from my lips, that I did not think she could be there for the purpose of conducting me through what proved to be a positive and direct answer to my intensely earnest prayer.

She motioned for me to get up. At first I hesitated; but with a look slightly akin to a frown, she motioned again for me to arise and dress myself, which I did without further hesitation. Then her countenance assumed a smile which seemed to communicate much of its pleasantness to me, and I somehow began to understand her wishes without need of look or signal from her.

She gave a look toward the door, and I readily understood that she desired me to go on, and she would follow me. I went out into the hallway, and turned to my right, going to the north end, and there we went up a flight of steps. But to my amazement, when we reached the next floor, instead of finding a continuation of the same building, as I had always done before, it was one endless plain. If I was its master, human language would be too poor to give anything like a vivid description of its lakes, streams, clear running brooks and beautiful sceneries in all of their most enchanting and varied forms and splendid aspects.

We traveled for miles in various directions, not in an idle or unpopulated world, but sometimes in more beautiful cities than I had ever dreamed of. On this plane of life the very atmosphere itself seemed to be charged with a spirit of cheerfulness, and all life to partake alike of the same spirit of delightfulness; for nowhere did we meet with a person whose countenance or appearance showed aught that was in the least degree repulsive, or could possibly be to the most cultivated and refined mind.

After an hour or so of the most delightful wandering, I imagined that my fair guide showed slight signs of restlessness, and so I turned an inquiring look to know if she now wished me to return. But she merely pointed to another flight of steps near by, which I had not before discovered. Where they led to I could not tell, for I could see nothing above but what seemed to be endless space. I asked no questions, but cheerfully obeyed the signal. After making considerable advance, all the time seeing nothing but steps ahead, suddenly they seemed to vanish, and I found we were in another world or plane of life.

Now you can imagine how baffled would be the most educated scholar if called upon to give a description of this phase of life—its splendid music, arts and sciences in their multiplied phases—when I tell you that all here was as far superior to the one just below it as that was superior to the world in which we now live. Nor was this a world of idleness or indifference, for all was, as I then thought, life in its supremest activity, and pleasantness in its greatest capacity. I went about from place to place just as fancy led me, enjoying a degree of happiness which I had never before experienced. I moved about almost without physical exertion, for it seemed that the further I left my native element, or the earth, the freer I became of those heavy forces that are its characteristics.

Thus far I am unable to give the reader more than the faintest glimpse of what I saw that night in these three divisions or stages of life. So I shall make no attempt at giving a description or even an idea of the indescribable beauties and excellences disclosed to my overawed senses in the other nine worlds, spheres, degrees, or whatever they may be called. Yet each one, as I went on my upward journey, seemed to me to be only a higher order of human life. For all the departure that I could see from the human was that as individuals rose morally and intellectually, their form and features seemed to keep in the line and order of development of the inner soul, which of course must express itself through the outward form and features.

After a short stroll and many observations in the twelfth sphere, degree, or stage of development, I became conscious that this was only a transitory visit for me, and so did not wait to be told or ordered to go back, but volunteered to start on my return journey. In a short time my fair guide and myself were again in the hallway from which we started, and I thought I had seen all of the possibilities of man. But she then opened the door at the side of the hallway (this door I had never seen before, and on looking for it that same morning after breakfast I found no door there, though I felt as certain that I had passed through there as I did that I was then alive), and motioned me to go unaccompanied and see still more of the possibilities of man. I obeyed her signal, and quickly found myself on another plane below. You will now perhaps imagine that I saw nothing but misery, but not so; some were mirthfully employed, here and there some were engaged in a quarrel, others in gambling or trifling amusement, but the spirit of contention seemed to be settled upon every face or someway showing itself in the conduct of every individual I met. I traveled several hundred yards in various directions, but everywhere character seemed to be about the same, though there were as many different grades of intellect as we find on the earth. The light seemed to correspond with our dusk.

I soon found another flight of steps and I descended to the next plane below. I will not enter upon a description of this place, more than to say that to me it was indescribably miserable. It was very dark and gloomy. I had never dreamed that mankind could ever descend to such depths of degradation as I saw here, and I soon became so sickened with the crimination and recrimination, vulgarity and profanity, that I made up my mind to leave the other degrees of degeneration unexplored by myself, and leave this place, never to return to it again. And so I hastened back and found my fair angel-guide still waiting for me in the hallway where I had left her.

Knowing that she would now leave me, I commenced to acknowledge my gratitude for the incalculable favor and service which she had done. But she raised her hand, and with a significant show of the index finger stopped the speech in my mouth, and said, "Now you have seen the possibilities of man, both in the upward and downward course of life—the moral and the immoral—learn a lesson." Then she turned and went up the steps, but looked back at me from the top of them with a sort of hopeful and encouraging smile, which has many a time since then served to keep me from going far away from the latitude of right.

I then went to my room, opened my door and went in; and just as the door was closed, I lost all consciousness; but it seemed only a moment afterward I found myself lying on my bed as if just waking from a sound slumber. I was covered with heavy beads of perspiration. A bright and cheerful morning sun was shining through the window across my bed. I soon got up and prepared my breakfast, and ate with a relish, for I was feeling better than I had for months; indeed, I was feeling quite well, except that I was still weak from my long sickness.

I did not have chills and fever after that for over two years, and then they were brought on by useless exposure in a malarious climate.

No doubt most or many persons will regard this as fiction; but if it is fiction it is only because my limited ability does not enable me to tell one-hundredth part of the truth.

Kansas City, Mo. B. F. OLIVER.

His eyes were wild, his teeth were set, as down the street he ran. The crowd made way, as on he went, for this excited man. Was fire, murder, sudden death, the tidings that he bore? Oh, no! he is a baseball crank, who wants to know the score.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF MATERIALIZATION.

Amongst all the phenomena that have obtained the name of "spiritual," and been attributed with unquestioning faith to spirits as the originators, none seems to offer more obstacles to acceptance than the feat of presenting an organism composed apparently of flesh, blood, and all the tissues that make up the human body, and dissolving those component parts again into invisibility.

To ask for credibility on such unparalleled marvels as these, it is, first, necessary to consider what evidences we possess to show that such manifestations ever have taken place. Next, to endeavor to present some rational and plausible theory originating from the spiritual side of being to account for the possibility of such demonstrations; and finally, to show what contributions, if any, such phenomena make to the realms of science and human knowledge.

Touching the first proposition, we have only to cite such testimony as can be obtained from the most reliable sources.

In No. 18 of this journal we have quoted the accounts of phenomena received as early as 1852, at Koon's spirit-rooms in Athens County, Ohio, and in addition to the extracts published in this journal, we refer the reader to pages 338, et seq, and many others of "Hardinge's Modern American Spiritualism," in which the testimony of hosts of respectable witnesses is cited to show that hands—appearing and feeling like veritable flesh and blood—were examined, and proved the fact of flesh and blood materialization.

On papers 143, et seq., of "Nineteenth Century Miracles," are other records of the same phenomena; and in Nos. 16-19, etc., of this journal are details of the most crucial test facts of the organization of whole forms, tissues and dresses witnessed in this country, narrated by Alderman Barkas, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, and susceptible of being proven by the same amount of testimony as that which would determine life and death in any criminal trials.

For further proofs of materializations in various countries, but especially in America and Great Britain, we refer to the files of the different journals, in hundreds of which the phenomena of materialization are perpetually recorded. Allowing for and eliminating a large percentage of possible interpolation by fraudulence, the facts of such demonstrations are as well established by indubitable witnesses as any other historic facts in ancient or modern history.

For the second proposition, namely, upon what plausible theory originating on the spiritual side of being can we account for the possibility of such demonstrations, we offer the following communications, made and reiterated in several instances by spirit guides to the writer of this article. It will be remembered that amongst the functions of organic life are two which play a most important part in the economy of being. The first of these, performed chiefly by aid of the cuticle or skin, is absorption, by means of which we absorb, draw into, and assimilate portions of atmosphere, and all that it holds in solution, through every pore of our bodies. The duality or complement of this form of action is evaporation, performed also through the cuticle or skin, and in this process we give back again to the atmosphere by insensible as well as sensible perspiration and invisible aura some portion of all we are, and all that constitutes the various parts of our entire organism. Besides these two functions, we give off from our whole system—blood, bone, serum, nervous and muscular tissue, in compound, of course, with every breath we expire; and draw in again through the breathing apparatus fresh life pabulum with every breath we inspire. The proven facts of physiology demonstrate clearly enough that absorption and evaporation are as essential—if not more so—to the waste and repair which constitute life as food and digestion. When we add to this the processes of expiration and inspiration, performed by the breathing apparatus, we have the main substratum of the mechanical processes of life. "Now," say the spirits, "what becomes of the invisible, but still tangible portions of the human body that are given off by evaporation? Equally so, what becomes of the incessant streams of air charged with every substance that composes the human body that passes off with every breath that is expired?"

It is acknowledged by all physiologists that every atom of our material frame changes, and is measurably being given off every second of our lives; and though we may account for the chemical alteration which the human breath undergoes in the atmosphere, there is a time when every breath we expire is still in the atmosphere before any chemical change ensues. Thus, it does not seem unreasonable to suppose the spirits are correct when they affirm that every tissue of the human organism is held in solution in the atmosphere where and whenever the human organism is found. When a number of people come together, and are crowded up in a small space, their emanations fill the atmosphere to repletion, and the only element needful to solidify or crystallize those elements back again into the same tissues from which they were drawn, is a strong battery, formed of vital force, or the human life-principle. To arrange an electro-magnetic battery of the simplest kind we need copper, zinc, and a fluid which shall conjoin, yet act unequally upon those metals. In a powerful physical medium we have an excess of the life-principle of that negative polarity which shall serve us as one of these metals; in the spirits we have one or more spiritual bodies whose force of a positive polarity shall serve us as the second metal required. In the combined magnetisms of the circle, charging the atmosphere with their emanations by breathing, and that evaporation before spoken of, we have the fluid or solution necessary to form our battery, and thus it is that taking the spirit designed to be materialized as the lay figure, the circle as the source of the pabulum or invisible atoms of matter held in solution in the atmosphere, and the medium as the reservoir of that force necessary to combine with that of the spirits, "we have our battery," say the spirits, "and all the elements necessary to form a body. By the same process we can gather up materials to construct temporary garments," etc.

Temporary, of course, the whole process of formation must be. To remain permanent the supply must be permanent, and the medium and circle must remain in their places, and be drawn from until their organisms are dissolved, and the entire life-force transferred from the medium to the spirits.

As to the question of darkness or very subdued light, it must be remembered that, if light is the result of an undulatory motion set up in the atmosphere, then light must be a disturbing element, and the inevitable changes caused by the introduction of light must tend to disturb the very subtle processes by which invisible and imponderable flesh and blood atoms are woven around the spiritual body, until they become visible, and, for the time being, ponderable flesh and blood atoms.

We need not remind the chemist that there are thousands of operations, the successful results of which would be wholly destroyed by the slightest interruption or motion. If light is the result of undulatory or any other form of motion, it must tend to produce a complete change in the atmosphere, and hence a complete disruption of the elements in process of crystallization or "materialization."

Noise and music are both sounds, and both act by producing vibrations in the air; but those who have ever seen the curious instruments by which atmospheric vibrations are registered, will know that musical tones produce vibrations equal throughout their entire length, and noise gives vibrations jagged and entirely unequal throughout their length. Space does not permit us to multiply this one illustration by citing chemical experiments, but we repeat, the difference between perfect stillness and motion in very many chemical compounds, is all the difference between the tides of a fresh flowing sea and the vegetable and animal life engendered in the stagnant pond.

We are not now speaking of the expediency of seeking for phenomena that require the condition of darkness, but simply of the modus operandi by which spirits affirm such phenomena are produced. And this brings us to the third proposition, or the cui bono so often insisted on by the antagonists of Spiritualism when all other arguments used against it fail.

What contributions can such phenomena make to the realm of science and knowledge? We know that many things contribute to the realm of science and knowledge that contribute nothing to the realm of practical utility. This is the case with the grandest of all sciences—astronomy. We know much of the stars—ay, even of the sun's constitution, and the elements found in his beams; but of what practical utility this knowledge may be, except to exalt our understanding, we are unable to say. We don't know the actual uses of pebbles, grains of dust, brambles, weeds or noxious animals. We cannot practicalize archæology, and we gain nothing by a thousand other studies that are still very interesting.

May we not include in the same category those marvelous powers of composing and decomposing the tissues of matter displayed by spirits?

Practically, this phase of spiritual phenomena may be of no use to us beyond the occasional evidence that it brings, that there is no such thing as death. Now and then we see the parent and child, the husband and wife, and the long severed friends clasp hands over the gulf of mystery that heretofore divided the mortal and immortal worlds; and then, as we behold the joyful recognition and watch the mortal go forth a totally changed being, we hush the captious questioning, "What is the use of it?"

Whilst we do not pretend, however, to endorse the theories put forth in this paper, and can only repeat them as the statements of the spirit friends whom we have had reason to trust and rely upon in other directions, we still deem their claims for the production of materializing phenomena are plausible.

Whether they will ever be of any more use to mankind than as mere contributions to the realm of spiritual knowledge, we are unable to say. All knowledge is power, and when we have been kept so many ages in profound ignorance of spiritual gifts and powers, we should gladly welcome every contribution that we can gather up toward the unfoldment of a grand and comprehensive arcanum of spiritual science.—The Two Worlds, Edited by Emma Hardinge Britten, Manchester, Eng.

Church Methods—Taken by the "Instantaneous" Process.

"This," said the returned missionary to the Poor Heathen whom he had brought over, "is a church." And the Poor Heathen greatly admired the church. By-and-bye he asked:

"Who is the fat man with the big watch seal, who looks at the church as though he thought some of putting in a fifty-dollar bay-window and raising the rent $500 a year?"

"That is a trustee," said the returned missionary.

"He does most of the praying, I suppose?" said the Poor Heathen, who, in his blindness, knows very little about the way we do these things.

"No," said the returned missionary, "he does n't believe in praying. He is not a member of the church, but he is a good, clear-headed business man, good manager, strong on real estate deals, and so he's a trustee. Does n't take very much of a Christian to be a trustee, except in the country. In a town a church only wants a good business man for trustee."

"And who is the man who stands in the door and glares at the people as they pass in and tries to keep them out?" asked the Poor Heathen.

"That is the sexton," replied the missionary. "He does n't believe in opening the church for religious service at all. He says the church was built to have swell-weddings in, and that for preaching and prayer meetings, and other side shows of that nature, the trustees should hire a hall."

"Who is the very young man who pushes people out of the way that he may have room to pass in, and stoops very low as he enters the twenty-foot door, and sits directly under the steeple lest he should strike his head when he stands up?"

"That," said the returned missionary, "is the new superintendent of the Sunday school. They are all that way at first. By-and-bye, when he has forgotten every line of his beautiful speech, when there are distinguished strangers present, when he has started the wrong tune to an entirely strange hymn, and corrected himself by striking the right tune on a key so high that the Chimes of Normandy could n't ring a second bass to it; when he has flunked, fair, square and outright, on the first ten questions in his question box, he will know less by a ton than he does now, and be a good, useful, earnest and humble superintendent. He 's only young and new, like an August persimmon."

"Here comes the owner of the church," the Poor Heathen said. "He looks as though he had decided to make pemmican of the sexton and trustee, and not hold any service to-day."

"No, that is not exactly the owner of the church," the returned missionary said; "that is the leader of the choir."

"Who is that meek, timid little man who is trying to creep in without letting the sexton see him, and who has just taken off his hat to the leader of the choir?"

"Oh! that is only the pastor of the church," the returned missionary replied. "Will you go inside?"

And the Poor Heathen said he would, because he rather guessed, from their looks, the sexton and the leader of the choir had made up their minds to settle that morning which of the two should take the church and run it.

ROBERT J. BURDETTE.

Banner Correspondence.

Massachusetts.

MANCHESTER.—"Reporter" writes: "Tuesday evening, May 22d, Mr. J. Frank Baxter was for the fourth time in Pigeon Cove, Rockport. Mrs. Henry Story, to whom great credit is due, is indefatigable in her work to interest the people of her section in Spiritualism. She has met with great opposition and much discouragement, and strange to write, not so much from the quarters she anticipated, but one where she expected favor, if not assistance, the Universalists.

When Mrs. Story began her work several were with her who now are indifferent; the Universalist church was open to her, and Mr. Baxter gave his first lecture therein. But some were displeased that the privilege was granted, and Mrs. Story resolved not to ask for its use again, but hired a hall, and has taken an independent course on all other occasions. A Sunday school she established at her house, during the winter, beginning with seven, and now, although not large, the school has outgrown her parlor—increased four-fold—and other quarters are needed. She and her husband have never slackened their interest in the Universalist Society, but have paid their part, kept a Christian temper amid harsh reflections, and when holding their lectures and school scrupulously avoided the same hours.

Mrs. Burnham, Mrs. Cutler and Miss Shelhamer, also Messrs. Emerson and Baxter, have been among her workers called. Some have assisted her with gratuitous labors in her school; and she acknowledges with gratefulness donations of books for her library, and a set of singing-books from Mr. H. W. Smith, of Greenwich.

Mr. Baxter's lectures, as well as those of others, have been well received by those who have had courage to hear; and, considering the opposition and indifference, fairly attended. His lecture on the 22d of May was most interesting, founded as it was on his personal experiences. The "supplement" of tests was excellent, some falling directly to skeptics, and one, particularly, into the enemy's entrenchment. How truly applicable one of Mr. Baxter's verses from the poem he read:

> Those raps were like to bugle calls,
> Summoning friend and foe;
> Though e'er so high men build their walls,
> Where spirits choose, they go.

On Wednesday evening, May 23d, Mr. Baxter appeared before an audience of hundreds in the town hall at Manchester. He was introduced and entertained by Mr. Andrew Lee, a man prominent in business, in town affairs, and social standing. He, with several others interested, made the occasion free, only affording the assembly an opportunity of individually 'dropping their offering' into the hat. Suffice it to say, great interest was aroused, and much eagerness manifested that Mr. Baxter should be secured again. His engagements West prevented this at present, but he will in the fall favor Manchester further.

The lecture of the evening was plain, to the point, and applicable to the people; and his spirit descriptions were perfect in delineation and detail.

The Spiritualists of Pigeon Cove, Essex, Gloucester, Manchester, Marblehead, Wenham, etc., have reason to feel a pride in Mr. Baxter's labors on Cape Ann and its vicinity."

WORCESTER.—T. R. J. writes: "Sunday, May 27th, Mr. W. F. Peck closed a very successful engagement with our society. The audiences have increased in number from the beginning, and the universal opinion is that no course of lectures ever given here has done more to place the Spiritual Philosophy on an enduring and scientific basis than has his. Mr. Peck is certainly the peer of the best speakers on our platform, and those societies that do not make haste to avail themselves of his services will have good cause to regret it. We shall have him for one, possibly two, months next season."

GREENWICH.—Juliette Yeaw writes: "Sunday, May 27th, was the third anniversary of the dedication of the Independent Liberal Church. A large audience greeted the speaker. The platform and altar were beautifully adorned with flowers artistically arranged. We were glad to greet our friend, Mr. Chandler Powers, just returned from a trip to California, and Misses Fannie Gould and Mamie Ruddock, after their prolonged absence at school. As appropriate for the day's discourse, the text selected was 'Let every man stand by his own work.'

The attendance at the Lyceum was large; the exercises were very interesting. Mr. Smith gave a short lecture upon foreign travel, illustrating upon the black board places and objects, and exhibiting relics of great antiquity. There were several fine recitations by the young ladies, and also by the children."

HAVERHILL.—E. P. H. writes: "Sunday, May 27th, was the closing one of the regular lecture course of the Brittan Hill Association. The next lecture season will open October 1st. Mrs. S. R. Stevens of Boston was the speaker in the closing exercises, her subject in the afternoon being 'The Way to the Light,' and in the evening 'The Mediumship of Jesus of Nazareth and the Mediumship of To-day,' both of which were treated in an entertaining and instructive manner. Following each lecture, questions from the audience were answered.

In the evening a short 'Memorial Concert' was given in honor of the cause of the soldier, by Benden's Orchestra and Mrs. Lottie Dean-Goodrich, soloist. In connection with the evening service Mrs. Hattie P. Griffin gave two recitations which were agreeably received. The closing meeting was numerously attended, and the interest in the lecture course was fully sustained from its opening to the close."

ATTLEBORO.—H. F. Merithew, Secretary of the First Spiritual Society of this place, writes: "Mrs. Kate R. Stiles of Boston was with us Sunday, May 27th. In the afternoon she gave us some very earnest and instructive truths of spirit communion; in the evening fine psychometric readings, after which she went among the audience giving words of comfort to those who were hungering for spiritual food, her descriptions being in nearly every case fully recognized. Long may she be permitted to promulgate the truths of immortality. May the angels of Purity, Love and Peace ever guide her in the light of the New Dispensation."

HAVERHILL.—W. W. Currier writes: "Miss Emma J. Nickerson spoke for the First Spiritualist Society of this city, Sunday, May 27th, at 2 and 7 P. M., before good sized audiences. The Home Orchestra opened the evening service with choice selections of music that met with the hearty approval of the audience, and closed by rendering in excellent style the hymn tune, 'Dennis.'

This Society has held a series of meetings during the past lecture season that has drawn some of the best thinkers in the city. While they do not claim perfection, they claim to be progressive and determined to carry forward the good work. Some of the best talent upon the spiritual platform has been engaged for next season, and the full time is intended to be filled with such talent as shall be an honor to the cause we represent, and furnish food for thinking minds.

The Ladies' Aid Society connected with this Society has done noble and efficient work during the past season, and will continue in the good cause. Its entertainments and suppers are of a high and interesting order, and meet with a fine support. The Home Orchestra, Miss Little, precentor, lends a helping hand at these entertainments that is worthy of all praise."

FALL RIVER.—"H. C." writes: "The Spiritualistic Investigating Society of this city closed its sessions for the summer by holding two public meetings Sunday, May 20th. The spirit-guides of Miss Mary B. Williams gave on that day two inspirational addresses—subjects: 'What is spirit-control?' and 'Shall we know our loved ones in heaven?'—which were both instructive and interesting."

Vermont.

FAIRFAX.—Mrs. P. A. Stevens writes a letter addressed to Rev. De Witt Talmage, criticising his discourse on Spiritualism, and quotes far more from the Bible to prove its truth and its consistency with what is termed "revealed religion" than he has or possibly can to the contrary. She regrets the want of charity exhibited by the Brooklyn preacher, and suggests that it would be well for him to realize the existence of a beam of error in his own eye before endeavoring to discover and expose a mote in the eye of others, whose only fault seems to be they believe more in a future life than he does—more largely cultivate their spiritual gifts, have a greater faith in divine guidance and are every way more in accordance with the principles of primitive Christianity than his blustering discourse evinces him to be.

New York.

NEW YORK CITY.—Our New York correspondent, "S.," writes that at the meeting of the First Society of Spiritualists, May 27th, "Mrs. Nellie J. T. Brigham spoke in the morning on subjects selected by the audience, and improvised three poems. The first and leading subject was, 'Can you give us any information concerning the peculiarities of the people that inhabited Los Muertos, and the cause and date of the destruction of the city?' The question came from reading a lecture of Lieut. Frank Hamilton Cushing at a special meeting of the Academy of Science in San Francisco, which led up to his discovery of ancient Los Muertos, or the City of the Dead, in the Salt River Valley, Arizona. Mrs. Brigham spoke intelligently and satisfactorily upon this subject, and with the same readiness and ease as though the subject of this interesting discovery had been made a study.

In the evening Mrs. Brigham spoke upon a subject selected by the influences speaking through her, namely, 'Lost.' Mrs. Brigham treated it, as she does all subjects submitted to her, with much depth of thought and perfection of language. The audience was large upon both occasions.

The Meeting for Manifestations in the afternoon was of much interest and largely attended by highly intelligent and cultivated people. Mrs. E. A. Wells is deserving of great credit for the able manner in which she sustains the high standard of these meetings. The services were opened by Miss Lily Runals singing a solo with sweetness of voice and grace of execution. The applause was pronounced. This was followed by a piano solo by Prof. I. C. Kiersted, which was received with much applause. Dr. M. F. Laughlin told a very interesting experience about the mediumship of Rev. John Quinn and a spirit-picture that came during the hour of prayer upon the portrait of Father Quinn, hanging in the Catholic Church of Providence, R. I., and exhibited photographs of the same. Henry J. Newton, Esq., spoke upon the methods of Prof. Hermann. His remarks were directed to showing the evasiveness of prestidigitators of this calibre, and he drew a strong contrast between them and the great artists of this profession, such as Bellachini, Houdin and Jacobs, all of whom had taken occasion to declare that spirit-manifestations through mediums had no element of prestidigitation in them, and some of them are avowed Spiritualists. Mr. Newton renewed his challenge to Hermann and Kellar as follows: They are to pledge any sum from five hundred to five thousand dollars, that they will do by trick and device what a medium would do under the following conditions: They to come to his house and have the privilege of bringing four persons with them, and he to have the privilege of having four persons present besides the medium, they to do what the medium did through mediumship by trick and device, and to show him how they do it. Mr. Newton's challenge will never be accepted by Herrman or Kellar nor by any of their kind.

Miss Mamie Horton whistled a solo that was encored, and the audience was in raptures over her wonderful abilities in this unique form of musical execution. Mrs. E. A. Wells gave seventeen tests in her usual satisfactory manner. Some were marvelous. The meeting closed with singing."

NEW YORK CITY.—Col. W. A. Silloway (86 McDougal street) informs us that Mrs. Annie L. Pennell has closed her labors in that city for the present to return to her home at Onset Bay, Mass., for rest and recuperation from her arduous labors. "During her last meetings," he writes, "there were present some of the most powerful mind readers and mesmerists in the country, from California, South America, and one from far-off Liberia, in Africa—a colored gentleman who had heard of her at his home there, and when he was sent here by the government of Liberia to investigate our institutions he came on from Washington, he told me, expressly to attend one of her meetings. For myself and wife I can truly say that the tests given to us have been the most wonderful we have received from any medium.

Previous to my visiting her meetings I was a pronounced skeptic and an atheist, but I now see where I was blind and in utter darkness. I was reared in the Methodist church."

He concludes his letter by stating that many of the tests he has received through the aid of "Prairie Flower" were from comrades who fell in the war of '61-5; his infant son and the mother of the writer have also made their presence manifest. He proposes at a future time to bear witness on some platform in Boston to the knowledge he has attained.

Indiana.

EVANSVILLE.—Hon. Warren Chase—writing at the time from this place—opines that the proportion of the skeptical class in the ranks of Spiritualists is rather overrated. Some forty years of experience and extensive travel in this country have convinced him that such is the case. He has ever endeavored to be a defender and friend of mediums everywhere; and is led to think that the chronic doubters are as a class "mainly persons who have been so unfortunate, and so often cheated by persons in this life, that they distrust everybody, and dare not trust their own senses and reason when working together; these join with the enemies of mediums and the paid reporters who are seeking for sensational articles for their papers without regard to truth or honesty, and thus help to persecute the instruments which our spirit friends find, of course, often imperfect and partially developed. Thus they aid the enemies of the cause in their despicable work of crushing out the more sensitive and delicate ones among the media: Scores of them have been unable to bear the persecution visited so remorselessly upon them; still more, like Peter of old, have been forced by the pressure to deny the truth, and get out of the influence of the spirits by joining a church for protection by means of its sectarian walls that shut spirits out, and the truth also.

I have seen so much of this hard-hearted persecution that I do not consider the language of Bro. J. W. Dennis, in a recent number of the BANNER OF LIGHT, too severe. I, too, would have the test conditions—especially the tying—applied to the 'fraud-hunters,' who cannot trust their senses with reason left free, but trust hands and feet. If the tests that the old 'witch-finders' applied to their victims had been applied to themselves their occupation would have been soon gone; and the same is true of our 'fraud-hunters'; they should be searched for the masks, the gauze and the traps they carry to throw into the cabinet in the dark, and which they afterward claim to have found there.

Tie up the skeptics, and let the spirits do what they can; and those who cannot trust their own senses and reason are of very little account to our cause, and we need not try to convince them by abusing both mediums and spirits.

Of course many efforts of spirits are failures, and characterized by imperfect results—often from defects in mediumship, and often from inability of our finite and fallible spirit friends—but these are no more so and no more frequent than the failures in the efforts between us in this life, and we have no right to expect more perfection, as the spirits are as much subject, or more, to conditions, surroundings and environments as we are. If I see a table lifted or tilted with the fingers of a medium lightly touching its surface, I do not need to have it lifted without contact to prove it was spirit power, as one can prove it no more clearly than the other. The intelligence alone that comes through the motions proves to me that it is a spirit, and never has proved it to be anything else.

If I see a form out in the room that claims to be a spirit, and hear the medium talking in the cabinet at the same time—which often occurs—I do not need to seize the spirit to prove it is not the medium; and when told that such actions injure the person whose vitality is drawn out into the form, I certainly shall not do it; and it should not be allowed on the part of any one; if any one is inclined to do it, such person should be tied as a measure of precaution.

When I have my eyes and ears and hands to prove the form of a deceased friend materialized, and it dissolves on the carpet before me, I do not need to have the medium tied and put in a wire cage to prove she is not a fraud; nor do I need the testimony of a fraud hunter to correct my senses and reason, and show me how I was deceived, and how unreliable my sense and reason are. I have always been willing to take what I could get, using my senses first and reason afterward, and always depending on the intelligence that came for the spiritual origin and identity of the person.

The mediums have been persecuted enough; only a few of the early ones are left, and only those who had stamina, vitality, backbone and firmness enough to outride the storm of opposition; I am thankful for these, and sorry for the thousands who have been driven out of the field by persecutions and test conditions which were too severe for their physical or mental powers. No test conditions for mediums, but tests of senses and reason for us, I say."

Minnesota.

MINNEAPOLIS.—A correspondent forwards a copy of the Sunday Tribune, wherein G. L. Woods of the above-named city considers the strictures recently passed on Spiritualism by Rev. G. L. Morrill. From his letter we make the following excerpts:

"Hopkins, in his 'Evidences of Christianity,' uses the senses as a strong argument in favor of Christianity, and upon this very argument, I assert, the foundation of Spiritualism is based. Thus: I 'see a spirit,' therefore I know it to exist; to know is to be sure a thing is; thus, through this method, Spiritualism may be argued and maintained. Of all the persons whom I have known to have investigated Spiritualism, I cannot recall a solitary case of what the church terms a 'back-slider.' Thus we see how investigation is the source of knowledge, and my candid opinion of those who tear down the temple of our religion is that they have never given it an honest investigation. They take for granted what other people say; they investigate through the writings of prejudiced writers; reared, as the majority of them are, in a narrow road of thought, they deviate not the slightest from the pathway trod by their forefathers for years and years gone by: When they discovered that science would n't agree with them they tried to agree with science; when they found that the laws of the human race would not tolerate their rulings, they changed so as to side with the laws; and even now in the nineteenth century, in this era of progression, we find here and there some divine raise his sanctified head and pipe forth from behind the pulpit: 'Spiritualism is a child of the devil, born in the cradle of hell.' 'In the name of science,' says Mr. Morrill, 'I protest.' Against what does he protest? Is it against the shrine to which over thirty-nine thousand citizens of Minneapolis bow? or is it against the people themselves who kneel in this temple of light and truth? The truths of nineteen hundred years ago, did they die when Christ delivered up himself—are they no more? or do they still exist? Have we not, through spiritualistic powers, healed the sick, assuaged the sorrows of the broken-hearted, attended the dying and buried the dead? How many hundreds of thousands have received words of greetings from the spirits of the departed? How many millions to day recognize the truth of their sublime teachings?

Those who attack the Christian Church are called 'Infidels,' 'unbelievers.' What, then, should we term those who rail against the dearest hope nursed in the breast of the loving mother? Is it or is it not a crime to tear away the flower of hope, which is budding in the heart of those who have seen and believed?... Why do not those who term themselves 'divines' see for themselves? Is it that they are afraid of becoming convinced themselves? They slur our public services, and yet we never have preached that man was born to feed the lasting fires of an eternal hell....

Followers of the Brooklyn divine cast their slur upon our creed. Why do we not do the same upon theirs? Simply because for all humanity we stretch forth our aid, and not our destructive power; because of the hereafter we know, while those in the pulpit take for granted; because through these powers and laws we have discovered the penalty of crime. Science demonstrates. Spiritualism is a science. Science is the stay and staff which props the vault of truth."

Arkansas.

STATTLER.—I. M. Stackhouse writes: "The angels have not been deterred by the fact that Orthodoxy is here entrenched behind mountain bulwarks, and reinforced by its most powerful allies, prejudice and ignorance; here, as everywhere, they have unsealed the book of truth to a few, and have 'touched their life with fire from the altar,' so that they are neither afraid nor ashamed to give a reason for the knowledge that is within them. At the little country post-office whose name heads this letter, Daniel Brown leads the faithful pioneers who are blazing the pathway for future generations, through a wilderness of old time hell fire and brimstone, world-created-out of-nothing-in-six literal-days Orthodoxy, of which you can have but little conception unless you have heard Lorenzo Dow preach. But as he draws his inspiration direct from headquarters—spirits and THE BANNER—he is enough for all of them.

In Van Buren, the county seat, Mr. J. Harshaw and a few others—few in number but numerous in zeal and pluck—hold down their end of the lever. They have just lost a noble and untiring worker in the person of Dr. White.

The great need here is mediums. A good test medium could capture the county, and reap beside a generous pecuniary return, if such an one could spend a week at Van Buren, en route via the line from St. Louis to Texas.

In Franklin county, twenty-five miles southeast of here, Messrs. White and Clement, farmers, near Pauline Post-office, are developing a circle that gives promise, if persevered in, of important results.

And so the good work goes on in every nook and corner. In every village and hamlet the angels are giving to their chosen ones, and these to the world, the grand revelations of the nineteenth century."

Kentucky.

LOUISVILLE.—Dr. J. H. Wilson, President of "The First Spiritual Church," writes: "Mrs. Edith Nickless, of New York, lectured for our church on the morning and evening of Sunday, April 29th. Her control, 'Sun Flower,' gave a number of good tests after each lecture, which were all recognized. It affords me great pleasure to say that herself and her genial husband are highly appreciated by this Society—they having spent a month with us during last year.

Mrs. A. M. Glading, of Philadelphia, lectured for us on the evenings of May 18th and 19th, filling our hall with a large and intelligent audience each evening. I need scarcely say that her lectures and tests were entirely satisfactory; for those who have attended her meetings will well understand this to be a fact. The psychometrical readings given by her control, 'Hoolah,' after each lecture, were truly wonderful. A number of different articles were gathered up by myself from the audience, and the owner of each was thoroughly 'read,' while the spirit-friends of several persons were described and recognized.

May the angel-world guard and protect these worthy ladies and all such zealous workers in our great and glorious cause."

Kansas.

FAIRMOUNT.—A. H. Nicholas writes: "The semi-annual meeting of Spiritualists in this section occurred here May 26th and 27th, and was a success, though the attendance was not large, on account of rain. The most perfect harmony prevailed throughout the meeting, which was promoted by the presence of happy children. Many precious tokens of angelic love came to us, and we had a feast of spiritual things that will long be remembered.

Mrs. A. L. Lull, of Lawrence, was our chief speaker. She addressed the assembly on subjects presented to her on the occasion, and did it well. She has an easy, flowing and forcible style which attracts the attention and holds it to the close. Her discourses are as good as the best we read or hear; and her improvised poems are excellent.

Dr. Gile and Mrs. Holiday of Topeka, Mrs. M. P. Henderson of Morse, Kan., (all mediums) were also present and entertained us interestingly. Three young girls of the neighborhood, whose family name is Burroughs, and who are being rapidly developed as mediums, were present, and held a dark séance. We meet again in October."

Connecticut.

NORWICH.—A correspondent forwards an editorial tribute to the powers of Mrs. Helen Stuart-Richings as an elocutionist—which was contained in one of the Norwich papers—from which we extract the following:

"The varied programme [at her farewell reception, after a two weeks' engagement with the Spiritual Union], which comprised dialectic, pathetic and humorous selections, was well calculated to show the versatility and power of the reciter, who adds graceful impersonation to discriminating interpretation and natural expression of her selections. As an actress, she gives pantomimic emphasis to fine elocutionary powers, and has a wonderful faculty of imitating the whistling and moaning of the winds, and the trilling of birds, thereby greatly increasing the realism of her recitations. Norwich has not seen Mrs. Richings's equal as a reciter in many years."

Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA.—A correspondent writes: "The Second Association of Spiritualists of this city held its annual election of officers on Monday evening, May 14th, with the following results: President, T. J. Ambrosia; Vice President, Joseph Leiberger; Secretary, Leonard I. Abbott; Treasurer, Mrs. T. B. Ambrosia; Trustees for three years, Edward F. Roberts, Joseph Leiberger, John Kurtz; Trustee for one year, Mrs. Lydia Leidy.

The Association meets every Sunday at its church, Thompson street, below Front, at 3 P. M. Public circle. Seats free. Public invited."

Rhode Island.

PROVIDENCE.—"The Ladies' Spiritualist Aid Society," so writes a correspondent, "meets in Slade Building, corner of Eddy and Washington streets, every Thursday afternoon and evening, Room 14. All are cordially invited. Séance in the evening. Mrs. M. A. Waterman, President; Mrs. Sarah Osborn, Vice-President; Mrs. H. C. Troop, Secretary; Mrs. Mary Rhodes, Treasurer."

[From the Macon Telegraph.]

ST. AUGUSTINE.

A city built upon the sands,
St. Augustine, the Ancient, stands.
Eastward the black Matanzas wave,
Westward Sebastian's waters lave
The marshes stretching toward the main;
So grim, so gray and old, it seems
A realm of half-remembered dreams.

Where rose her walls there's scarce a clod
Aspires above the leveled sod,
Where trails and clambers, wild and free,
The fragrant rose of Cherokee;
And clumps of stunted cedars grow,
Gnarled willows in the moat below,
Whose depth now measures scarce a span—
Shallow as vaunt of boasting man.

Twin shafts of crumbling brick and stone,
The ancient gateway stands alone;
Around those once commanding towers
Now cling the golden jasmine flowers.
Through you great breach so deep and wide
Oozes a stream whose listless tide,
Emboldened by the sad decay,
Unchallenged winds its sluggish way.

Fair even in age the plaza gay
Where fountains shower their crystal spray,
And wreaths of odorous orange bloom
Burden the air with rich perfume;
And whispering south winds sway and toss
The gray festoons of somber moss,
In shaded nooks where sunbeams play
At hide-and-seek, the livelong day.

Down by the placid river's marge,
Where sloop and schooner, bark and barge,
And gilded yacht at anchor lie,
And white-winged gulls are circling high,
Seaward the current sets, and fast
The ebbing tide goes rushing past;
The waves along the old sea wall
In rhythmic cadence rise and fall.

With awe and reverence strong and deep
I mount the castellated steep
Beneath whose portals, roughly arched,
The mail-clad Spaniard proudly marched,
While boom of thunderous cannon rolled,
And storms of martial music told
That Spain's broad banner still unfurled
Its conquering folds o'er half the world.

Above you rugged arch I trace
Lines that all time can ne'er efface.
Deep graven in the dark grey stone
The royal seal of Arragon!
And just below the graver wrote
A name that like a bugle note
Stirred many a heart, nerved many a hand
The kingly name of Ferdinand!

Deserted now each vaulted room,
And voiceless is the donjon's gloom;
My footsteps in the lonely keep
Disturb the hermit echo's sleep,
Th' "Alerta!" of the sentinel
Is heard no more; the castle bell
Is hushed; and 'neath the turret's crest
A brooding screech owl builds her nest.

Within that tower I sit and gaze
Toward the dull bank of purple haze
Where earth and sky and ocean meet,
And wild Atlantic billows beat
Upon the bar where, ghastly white,
The sand dunes glisten in the light,
Like some dead Isle's gaunt skeleton
Left slowly bleaching in the sun.

Now Anastasia's shore grows dim,
Old Ocean chants his vesper hymn.
A widowed seabird sadly croons
Her lay of grief among the dunes.
From the drear marsh weird voices call,
And bursting through night's sable pall
Ten thousand stars in silvery sheen
Look down on old St. Augustine.

MONTGOMERY M. FOLSOM.

Cedartown, Ga.

June Magazines.

THE MAGAZINE OF ART.—As a frontispiece we are given an etching by J. Doble of the pathetic picture, "Betrayed," by Walter Langley, R. I., exhibited at the Royal Institute of Painters in Water Colors, in 1887. The subject is one that needs the utmost care and delicacy of treatment to avoid mawkishness on the one hand, and repulsiveness on the other, and Mr. Langley has succeeded just where success was most difficult of attainment. The opening letter-press is a sketch of one of the most distinguished, and, in England and this country, one of the least known of great living painters, Jean-Jacques Honner, illustrated with engravings of five of his most notable works. In "Glimpses of Artist Life," we have some account of "Christie's," one of the most curious and interesting of all the remarkable business establishments in England. It was established in 1766 as an auction mart for works of art. In eight months of a recent year its sales amounted to eighteen hundred thousand dollars. Five illustrations are given, including a full-page one of "A Sale at Christie's." Of the remaining contents are "Light and Water Colors," by Prof. Church, "Art Unions and Art Lotteries," by Joseph Grego, "A Dethroned Masterpiece of the Revival," by S. Thompson. New York: Cassell & Co., 104 and 106 Fourth Avenue.

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY has for its first number in the table of contents a two-part sketch by J. P. Quincy, entitled "Miser Farrel's Bequest"; Julia C. R. Dorr tells of journeyings to Cawdor Castle and Culloden Moor, both scenes of marked interest to the student of history; "Yone Santo," by E. H. House, continues to shed a pure and chastened light upon the pages of The Atlantic; Francis Parkman discourses on "The Discovery of the Rocky Mountains"; Ellen Terry Johnson unveils "The Queen Behind the Throne"; "The Despot of Broomsedge Cove" still presides over his unique domain; Theodore Child has much to say of interest concerning "The Literary Career in France"; the usual reviews, Contributors' Club, etc., will be found this month of especial value as to contents. The poetry of the number is by Edith M. Thomas, Graham R. Tomson and—editor Aldrich, presumably. The poem of Tomson has a sad refrain in it, when we think of America's recent united decoration of the soldiers' graves in our own land. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., publishers, Boston, Mass.

ST. NICHOLAS.—In "The Men Who Died," a little negro boy's observance of Decoration Day is described by Ruth Hays. In "Dogs of Noted Americans," accounts are given of favorite canine friends and companions of J. G. Whittier, (who has three,) Garfield, Lee, Eggleston, Mrs. Burnett and Miss Woolson, with pictures of several. A full but simple memorial of the recently ascended authoress, Louisa M. Alcott, is contributed by Louise Chandler Moulton, and is illustrated with an excellent portrait of the popular writer, and one of her adopted daughter, the child of her sister, Lulu Nieriker. "Cat's Cradle" is the title of a charming story by Celia Thaxter. The child sketch from George Eliot this month is "Tom and Maggie Tulliver," illustrated. Four new chapters are given of the attractive serial, "Two Little Confederates," and two on "Drill." The story of a Shetland Pony, a namesake of the big elephant "Jumbo," is told by T. D. Wright, and illustrated by W. N. Drake. Several poems are among the other contents, and "Jack-in-the-Pulpit" is as agreeable and entertaining as usual. The Century Company, New York. Damrell & Upham, 283 Washington street, Boston.

MAGAZINE OF AMERICAN HISTORY.—The interesting narrative by Alice D. Le Plongeon of "The Conquest of the Mayas," is continued. Among the illustrations, of which there are six, is a portrait of Don Francisco de Montejo, the conqueror of Yucatan: the only portrait known and not before published. Mrs. Le Plongeon, when a bride of nineteen, left a luxurious home in England and accompanied her husband into the wilds of Central America on an exploring expedition, remaining there fourteen years. She learned the Spanish language and that of the old Mayas, and greatly aided her husband in his archæological investigations. One building unearthed by them at Uxmal revealed one hundred and twenty rooms, arranged in pairs. Many buildings at Uxmal were on terraces, with hanging gardens like those at Babylon, with rich and elaborate carvings on all sides. "Incidents in the Life of John Hancock," as related by his widow to Gen. W. H. Sumner, and recorded by him in his diary, will be read with interest. "Personal Recollections of W. H. Seward" are given by Chas. K. Tuckerman, and in Part III. of "An Englishman's Pocket Notebook in 1828," is described more of "What he Saw in America." "The Beginnings of Ohio" are shown in two hitherto unpublished letters. New York: 743 Broadway.

CASSELL'S FAMILY MAGAZINE.—"Monica" and "By Misadventure" appear in new chapters, both approximating to the climax of their interest. A series of papers upon "The Love Affairs of Some Famous Men" is commenced by the author of "How to be Happy, though Married." A sprightly sketch is "The Cobweb of a Lonely Spider," and in practical home and personal matters are "Hours in My Laundry," "The Art of Fish Cookery," "How to Make Conversation," and "First Departures from Health." New York: Cassell & Co.

OUR LITTLE ONES.—The first of the summer months brings, in this favorite of the youngest of the household, attractions in keeping with the season of early fruits and flowers. The frontispiece is "The Sea's Harvest," a beach view in Normandie, accompanied with pleasing musical verses by L. S. Goodwin. A score of pleasing stories, sketches and short poems follow, all illustrated. Russell Pub. Co., Boston.

Free Thought.

THE RATIONALE OF SPIRITUAL ORGANIZATION.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

Every great discovery, every new truth, is apt to have at first a disturbing influence, and this disturbing effect seems to be greater the more momentous it is, and the more it appears to conflict with the preëxisting views. We need only think of the advent of the Copernican theory, which was opposed even by the eminent Francis Bacon; of the discovery by Harvey of the circulation of the blood, which was at first admitted by no physician past forty, showing man's reluctance to entertain new opinions; a reluctance and prejudice manifested by scientific minds as well as by the popular mind. A new truth is "so upsetting"; it does not fit into the fabric of one's thoughts. To make it fit it is obviously necessary to modify the fabric of thought, which is painful; it is the labor-pain of progress and development. No matter how precious the new truth may be, it has to reckon with the preconceptions and prejudices of the age, religious, scientific and philosophical, not to speak of the coarser type of minds, the vulgar, and the conceited, to whom the old adage applies: "a little learning is a dangerous thing." As to the vulgar, the parable of the sower in Matt. xiii. shows exhaustively the hindrances encountered.

These remarks I wish to apply to the new truth of Modern Spiritualism. I restrict myself to one class of men only—to the average educated mind. "I do not believe," so writes an educated and refined lady to me—"I do not believe that a communication from a deceased person can be had; I consider that impossible." My reply was that this is not a question of belief, but a question of fact; and that to say beforehand this is impossible is irrational. Arago's dictum should be proclaimed to all who so glibly use the word impossible. That dictum is: "The word 'impossible' is a meaningless word outside the region of pure mathematics." Spiritualism, unlike other religious systems, does not require faith or belief; it claims to have knowledge, demonstration, stubborn facts, and it is useless and irrelevant to say, "I do not believe it possible."

But this leads me to say that inasmuch as Spiritualism relies solely upon facts, its promulgation depends upon the success with which these facts can be brought home to the masses. Mediumistic gifts are rare gifts. Fully developed mediums generally find in large cities the best sphere of activity. Many honest and anxious inquirers say: "If I lived in Boston or New York I could get personal conviction as to the truths of Spiritualism. The facts or phenomena are not accessible to me; neither have I the means for traveling to such a centre." Now what an individual can not do, standing alone, an Association can easily do. If seekers of truth will unite and form an organized society, whose only object shall be to get at the facts, their united efforts will make that possible what is not possible to the individual. The means can thus be raised to enable such a society to send for mediums to come to them and thus give them the only chance of convincing them. I do not approve of a society formulating a creed, calling itself a church and its officers Reverends. I would never join such an organization. But a society as described above seems to me to be possible in all smaller cities and villages where single individuals, men and women, thirst for spiritual truth and are unable to appease their thirst.

Organize, unite, not around a creed, but for the purpose of investigation; and if investigation should result in conviction, then the Association still needs the facts to convince others, and thus will be promulgated a precious truth that alone can redeem our skeptical and materialistic age and inaugurate a new and glorious era of spiritual aspiration. S. WEIL.

Bradford, Pa.

Late Magazines.

THE GNOSTIC.—(April) "Stars and Atoms," by Camille Flamarion, leads a table of contents relating to psychometry, occult science and mental therapeutics. San Francisco, Cal.: 17 Flood Building.

THE COSMOPOLITAN.—(May) "The Pedigree of the Devil," by M. D. Conway, eleven illustrations, and "A Congress of Famous Women," with many portraits, are prominent articles. New York: The Cosmopolitan Publishing Company.

THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE.—(May) "The Oldest of American Cities," (Carthagena) is described by W. E. Curtis, and new chapters are given of "Maximilian," and "The Belles of Old Philadelphia." New York: American Magazine Company.

BIZARRE. NOTES AND QUERIES.—(May) More is said about "Volapük," something about other proposed forms of universal language, and a large number of questions and answers. Manchester, N. H.: S. C. and L. M. Gould.

Among the reforms suggested to the American Medical Association, by its president, at the late session in Cincinnati, was a plan to reduce the number of medical schools, and consequently the number of annual graduates. He evidently thinks too much competition is not good for business. If fewer doctors would make better ones, that plan would do very well, but it probably would n't.—Gardiner (Me.) Home Journal.

For the Banner of Light.

VIOLETS.

BY BELLE BUSH.

Wee, modest flowers that meekly from the sod
Look up to speak of God,
How joys my soul to see your happy smiles,
How peaceful seem to me the forest isles
Where your bright forms appear.
Ye come from year to year,
And in your presence all my cares and fears,
Whatever jars my spirit, disappears;
I look on you and rest,
Till faith within my breast
Builds up anew her desolated towers,
And o'er their gates of pearl
Sweet joy and hope unfurl
Their starry banner garlanded with flowers.

Fair teachers of the field, sweet gifts of spring,
I look on you and sing.
My heart sings, warbling like a happy bird
Whose first love-song its wandering mate has heard,
And wakened sweet reply.
I know that ye must die;
Ye have not long to live, sweet violets;
Yet when I look on you, all vain regrets
For your brief life are stilled;
And unto Him who willed
Your lot and mine I lift in thought my soul,
Till all the throbbing air
Seems vocal with the prayer
That love and truth will all my acts control.

I wisdom learn of you, oh! gentle flowers;
Ye have mysterious powers,
That speak to me as sibyls from a shrine
Within my soul, set up by hands divine.
I listen to your speech,
Till fancy seems to reach
The utmost boundary to the realms of sense,
And pausing there, my spirit looks from thence
On toward the vast unknown;
All doubt and dread have flown;
Through those sweet flowers there is revealed to me
This high and holy truth.
Trust it, oh! heart of youth;
Who cares for them will surely care for thee!

The Reviewer.

THE MAGNETIC AND BOTANIC FAMILY PHYSICIAN, and Domestic Practice of Natural Medicine; with Illustrations Showing Various Phases of Mesmeric Treatment, Including Full and Concise Instructions in Mesmerism, Curative Magnetism, Massage and Medical Botany. By D. Younger. 8vo, cloth, pp. 534. London: E. W. Allen, 4 Ave Maria Lane, E. C.

The author, after an experience of nearly forty years as a professional practitioner of mesmerism, presents in this volume demonstrative proof of the resources of the science for the alleviation of suffering and the cure of disease. His success in its application for these purposes has been somewhat remarkable, and in numerous instances he has far out-distanced medical practitioners of other systems, effecting cures where they despaired of doing so. While denominating mesmerism a science, he does not in this work deal with it strictly as such, but as a curative agent more allied to nature than to books, and for that reason one that may be employed for the removal of pain and sickness as effectually by persons of uncultured intellect as by those of highly educated scientific attainments. The author's idea, as we understand it, is that the means of restoration exist in the elements, and are as free and spontaneous as the air we breathe, and the sun that gives us warmth; that we sustain close and harmonious relations with nature's curative properties either to retain health or to regainit if lost; health being harmony and sickness inharmony with our immediate surroundings.

It is maintained that there is nothing more potent as a subtle, energizing, curative agent than mesmerism. The author emphatically denies the truth of the assertion made by some that there is danger in its use by other than what is termed a regular medical practitioner; he is positive of this from his long period of close observation. "The mesmeric influence," he says, "properly and carefully induced, is always beneficial. The real power of healing is not an acquisition attainable by any physical or mental exertion, but the development of a subtle psychic force, which, in a greater or less degree, is common to all." He looks upon mesmerism as "the great panacea by which the most startling cures the world has ever witnessed have been accomplished, and so palpably one of the laws of nature that it does not require any scientific training to be able to demonstrate the fact." The purpose of this volume is to render familiar with mesmerism, its uses and the methods of applying it, all who desire such knowledge, and no one who gives simply a cursory glance at its pages will fail to recognize its admirable adaptability to this end.

The various phases of mesmerism are first described, following which a specification is given of the acquirements requisite for a successful mesmerist. Reference is made to Reichenbach's experiments with over one hundred sensitive persons, the results of which established in his mind the fact that the human body exerts an influence identical with that of a magnet, and that this influence can be seen by some persons under certain conditions. Mr. Younger says he has had many sensitives assert that they saw this aura, named by Baron Reichenbach "Odyle," flow from his fingers like streams of phosphorescent light. Instructions are given for making the mesmeric passes, the different ones described, and the precautions to be observed. These very important preliminary lessons are made easy of comprehension by a number of engravings. A series of tests for determining susceptibility in choosing subjects is given; the time and effort necessary to produce mesmeric influence are clearly stated, the method of deepening the sleep and of removing the influence is described, and such symptoms are indicated as show a person to be one to whom the sleep would be prejudicial and possibly dangerous. A chapter on clairvoyance enters minutely into a description of the state, giving instructions for its self-development; it includes also remarks upon clairaudience, and relates a singular instance of spontaneous materialization. "On one occasion," he says, "at a private séance I had the good fortune to bring out the doubles of the sensitives. Two came away from the bodies, toward the audience, a distance of fourteen feet; and at the same time, the doubles of the other two sensitives rose up about twelve inches above their heads—exact counterparts of the sensitives! the only difference being that the duplicates were semi-transparent, while the four sensitives sat on the chairs, in a deep trance. All the eight forms were visible at one time, in a strong light, and were seen by twenty-six people."

A very full description is given of the medicinal properties of herbs, followed by "Remedies for External Application," and these by diagnoses of ordinary diseases with instructions for their treatment with botanical remedies and magnetism, and for the infusion and administration of the medicines and tinctures enumerated.

[From the Eastern Star.]

Why I Became a Spiritualist.

Some thirty-five years ago I began to investigate the phenomena, and through a medium was informed by sitting at the table for twenty-three consecutive evenings with my wife we could get communications from our departed friends. We sat as directed, and on the twenty-third evening the table tipped, and from that time they gave us proof after proof, and tests that no one could doubt. About that time we were believers in the Bible, and asked references from it by the spirit to give us greater proof of the spirit intelligence that was then corresponding with us. Immediately the table began to tip, and spelled out the Acts, 14th chapter and 3d verse, where it says: "Long time, therefore, abode they speaking boldly in the Lord, which gave testimony unto the word of his grace and granted signs and wonders to be done by their hands"; the very same wonders and signs given to us by tipping the table. What better proof could we ask for? At another sitting the spirit of William Turner was announced, wishing to communicate with his late schoolmate, who was then on a visit at my house, he stating to her that he was lost at sea. At this unexpected intelligence, I questioned her as to his whereabouts when she left home three months previous. She stated that he was trying to get a chance to go to sea. I immediately wrote to his folks to know where their son was, or the latest information they had of him. The answer returned was that he had arrived at Liverpool, Eng., and they were in no wise uneasy about him, but scouted the idea of his spirit returning. At the time I received the letter I was located on Commercial street, Boston, where thousands of seafaring men were passing every day. As I was reading the letter, a young sailor stepped up and looked into my show-case, and at that very moment I was impressed that he might know something about Turner. I passed the time of day with him, and asked him if he ever had a school or shipmate by the name of Turner. His answer was: "I had a shipmate by that name. But why do you ask me that question?" He said that he was never here before, and did not know me, either. I explained, and showed him the letter, which surprised him very much. I then questioned him to ascertain where he became acquainted with Turner. He stated that he shipped on board of a vessel at Halifax, N. S., bound to Liverpool, Eng., and there formed an acquaintance with him, and they became intimate friends; that Turner belonged at the head of the Bay of Fundy; that his father was a merchant, etc., which was true. I asked him where he last saw Turner. He said the last time he saw him was in Liverpool; that they had shipped on board of another vessel, and as they were casting off their lines to depart, Turner jumped on shore, and that was the last time he ever saw him, but was very anxious to hear from him. The young sailor kept up my acquaintance for a number of years, and every time he came to Boston we talked the matter over, and he said that he had told the circumstance to many people, and it was one of the most singular events of his life.

Now comes the question, Who guided the letter, and the young sailor to meet me at the very moment at my store while I was reading it? I have visited Mr. Turner's family several times since, but they have never heard any tidings of their son.

If this should meet the eye of the young sailor, I should be happy to have him communicate with me, as I have forgotten his address.

102 Tremont street, Boston. J. S. DODGE.

Jennie B. Hagan in Lynn.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

On May 20th and 27th the Spiritualists of this city were enlightened by the guides of Miss Jennie B. Hagan, who always provide something good for the audiences of this brilliant and industrious medium. The suggestion of subjects is left to her hearers; in this city they are not backward in giving her plenty to talk about, and she is equally alert in responding. Sunday afternoon, 27th, her discourse was very eclectic, embracing a variety of themes which numbered a round dozen, but her principal attention was given to this request: "Let Us Know the Truth."

"Do you really understand how much you are asking for?" she queried. "Are you aware how much your request implies? Do you not know that the truth, in and of itself, is infinitely superior to everything even the best of us can conceive? Truth, positive and complete, is grasped by the Infinite Intelligence alone. We obtain some approximate ideas of it, but the essence of truth, pure and undefiled, is that for which, while in the finite state, we will ever seek in vain, for it implies knowledge beyond mortal grasp." This idea was eloquently amplified and illustrated in the modified knowledge we enjoy of the works of nature, even with her great encyclopedia constantly before our eyes.

In responding to a materialistic proposition and question she became unusually animated: "The grave to me seems the end of all things. Can you give me any evidence of a life beyond? I want light."

The evidence was conclusively given in the form of an analytical dissertation upon the laws of nature, in which the seed or germ is the representative of an eternal principle of progress in growth and reproduction.

Some excellent ideas were advanced in improvised versification upon many themes, the most practical among them involving the problem of "Capital and Labor." The argument was to the point, strongly made, that the apparent antagonism of these elements was in appearance rather than in fact, and that a better education will ere long reconcile them completely.

An ambitious and remarkably melodious combination poem was given upon a union of four subjects: "Beautiful Spring," "Light Immortal," "Waiting," "Departed Children." Nothing approximating a fair report of this effort is possible, and only a few detached stanzas are given:

"Waiting, wanderers of life,
Waiting at the break of day,
Waiting in the heat of strife,
Waiting in the twilight grey:
Ever waiting till the call
Shall unloose the mortal cord—
Bring us to the presence, all,
Of that watching one, the Lord."

"They are gone, those sweet, fair blossoms,
Which budded on earth below;
They were called away by the angels
Many long years ago;
But they live in your hearts forever,
And you know that beneath the sod
Lies nothing but dust—your children
Are living with you and their God."

Of "Light Immortal" she said:

"That wondrous light which mortals
Have never, with leaden eyes,
Seen through the glorious portals
Of a glansome paradise."

At six o'clock Sunday evening, Miss Hagan spoke and improvised in verse for the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Lynn, at its hall, and at 7:30 she again addressed the Spiritualist society, and exhaustively treated the theme: "Why is it that some people are so much more happily situated in this life than others?" Her argument enforced the grand idea of Epictetus, that if a man is unhappy it must be his own fault, for God made all men to be happy. Her poems were good and loudly applauded.

The Spiritualists of Lynn are entitled to great credit for good work in the cause, and the President of the society, Mr. S. H. Holbrook, is untiring in his efforts to add to the interest of the public services in this enterprising city.

Lynn, Mass. SWAMPSCOTT.

Passed to Spirit-Life,

From Plainville, Ct., May 15th, 1888, suddenly, Mrs. Belle Johnson, wife of Mr. Calvin Johnson, aged 51 years.

Mrs. Johnson is not dead, only passed out of her poor, frail earthly body into a spiritual one. The immediate cause of her earthly release was congestion of the lungs. She had been in feeble health for a long time, but worked, when able, up to her last day, with the help of her kind husband. She was of a cheerful disposition, and bore her ill health with patience. Beside her husband, she leaves a son, two step-daughters, two grandchildren and other relatives, and many friends. One son preceded her to the higher life, and has welcomed his mother to her spirit-home. Funeral services were conducted at the family residence by Rev. J. W. Backus, the Congregational pastor. Mr. Johnson will miss his wife's presence, as he has been her almost constant companion for years past, but he has a knowledge of Spiritualism, and knows of its consolations. He is, and has been for some years, a subscriber to the BANNER OF LIGHT.

From Keene, N. H., May 19th, 1888, Mrs. Mary Emmons, aged 68 years.

Mrs. Emmons was a woman of sterling character, firm in the faith of the Spiritual Philosophy, and lived a life of unselfish devotion to family and friends. Those who knew her best loved her most. A large number of friends gathered at the home to pay tribute to her sainted memory, and listened, for the first time, to the consolation the spirit-world brings to the mourning children of earth.

ADDIE M. STEVENS.

From Madison, O., May 19th, Mrs. Susan B. Chamberlain.

The deceased has been a firm and devoted Spiritualist for the past thirty years—for a large portion of which time she has been an appreciative subscriber for and interested reader of the BANNER OF LIGHT. She has now entered upon the spiritual enjoyment of the reward of her many good actions done in the mortal. MRS. P. M. FELLOWS.

From Denmark, Lewis Co., N. Y., May 22d, Nina Leone, infant daughter of Emma L. and Asa P. Pierce, aged 1 year and 22 days.

Services conducted by Mrs. Mary C. Knight, of Fulton, N. Y. COM.

Camp-Meeting in Minnesota.

The Rice Co. Scientific, Moral and Reformatory Association will hold its first Annual Meeting at Morristown on the third Sunday in June, 1888, and in connection therewith will be held a Spiritual and Liberal CAMP-MEETING, commencing on Wednesday, June 13th, and closing on Monday, June 18th.

Being the first meeting of this nature held in Minnesota, we invite and earnestly solicit the attendance and aid of the Spiritualists and Liberals of this and other States to assist in the inauguration and building up of a permanent Camp-Meeting organization at this or some suitable place in this locality. Ample means for board and shelter will be provided at very reduced rates to all who may come.

We also invite Spiritual and Liberal speakers and mediums. Suitable rooms for holding séances will be furnished gratis.

We wish to employ an independent slate-writing medium who will permit investigators to bring their own closed slates. Such a medium would be of great benefit to the cause, beside reaping a rich harvest for him (or her) self financially, as manifestations of this order have never been witnessed or produced in this locality.

The lowest reductions in railroad fare that can be obtained will be secured.

Conveyance hourly between camp-grounds and séance-rooms; also to all trains for a fare not to exceed five cents per trip. Any further information may be obtained by corresponding with MRS. LAURA A. GRANT, Rec. Sec'y, or D. BIRDSALL, Cor. Sec'y, of Waterville, Le Sueur Co., Minn. BY ORDER OF EX. COM.

[Spiritual and Liberal papers please copy.]

Clackamas, Ore.

The Clackamas County Society of Spiritualists will hold a Grove Meeting on its grounds at New Era, Ore., beginning Friday, June 8th, and holding over two Sundays.

Slate-writing, trance-speaking and clairvoyant test mediums have been engaged to attend the meeting.

The Committee of Arrangements will use every reasonable endeavor, including the usual reduction of fare, to those attending the meeting, to make the enterprise a success.

The Society has a good hall on the grounds, and a hotel for the accommodation of boarders and lodgers.

A cordial invitation is extended to all.

WM. PHILLIPS, President.
THOMAS BUCKMAN, Sec'y.

Orion Lake Camp-Meeting.

The First District Association of Spiritualists will hold a ten days' Camp Meeting at Orion Lake, Oakland Co., Mich., commencing Saturday, June 2d, 1888, and ending Monday, June 11th. Those intending to camp are desired, if convenient, to erect their tents on Friday, June 1st, that all necessary preparations may be over for services and the election of officers which will occur the day following.

Good speakers will be in attendance, and all who are interested in progressive thought and united humanitarian works are cordially invited to be present.

S. H. EWELL, Vice-President.
MRS. F. E. ODELL, Sec'y.

The Lookout Mountain Camp-Meeting.

Near Chattanooga, Tenn., will be held during the entire month of July. The following speakers and mediums are engaged: Mrs. A. M. Glading, George A. Fuller, Dr. H. F. Merrill, Mrs. S. A. R. Talbot, G. W. Kates and wife, Dr. Samuel Watson, A. C. Ladd, Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond. Excellent hotel facilities are on the Mountain. Tenting space given free. Address

G. W. KATES, Sec'y, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Sturgis Annual Meeting.

The Harmonial Society of Sturgis, Mich., will hold its annual meeting in the Free Church in Sturgis, on the 15th, 16th and 17th of June, 1888. Lyman C. Howe and other prominent speakers and mediums will be present to address the meeting. By Order of Committee.

Wisconsin Spiritualists.

The Wisconsin State Association of Spiritualists will hold its next meeting in Milwaukee, June 22d, 23d and 24th. John L. Potter and Mrs. A. H. Colby-Luther are the speakers engaged. DR. J. C. PHILLIPS, Sec'y.

Miscellaneous.

THE

N. D. C. AXE and TRUE KEY-STONE,

A FOUR-PAGE SEMI-MONTHLY JOURNAL, especially devoted to the Development of Mediumship, and official organ of The National Developing Circle.

Terms of subscription, $1.00 per annum.

Sample Copy Free.

Send for Book, "How to Become a Medium in Your Own Home," and a personal sealed letter designating all your phases of Mediumship, all for 15 cents.

Address

JAMES A. BLISS,

824 tf ELMWOOD PLACE, OHIO.

New Thought;

A VIGOROUS, Eight-Page Weekly Journal devoted to SPIRITUALISM and General Religious and Political Reform.

Published every Saturday by MOSES HULL & CO., at Des Moines, Iowa.

The Organ of the Mississippi Valley Association of Spiritualists.

NEW THOUGHT is a quarto filled with interesting matter, WRITTEN EXPRESSLY for its columns, on the various phases of Spiritualism and General Reform, and nicely printed on heavy paper.

Terms of Subscription: One year, $1.00; six months, 75 cents; three months, 40 cents; single number, 5 cents.

NEW THOUGHT will be sent to new subscribers three months on trial for twenty-five cents, a sum which barely covers the price of blank paper and press-work. Sample copies free. Jy 4

The Gnostic,

A Monthly Journal of Spiritual Science,

PUBLISHERS AND EDITORS: GEORGE CHAINEY, ANNA K. CHAINEY and W. J. COLVILLE.

EACH number will contain forty pages, devoted to Esoteric Religion, Psychometry, Occult Science, Mental Therapeutics, Human Liberty, and the Culture of all that is Divine in the Human Race.

Terms, $2.00 per year; single copies 25 cents.

Address GEORGE CHAINEY, 17 Flood's Building, San Francisco, Cal. Au21

SPHINX.

ANTI-MATERIALISTISCHE MONATSSCHRIFT für die wissenschaftliche Untersuchung der "mystischen" und "magischen" Thatsachen, mit Beiträgen von Carl du Prel, Alf. Russ. Wallace, der Professoren Barrett und Couss, mehrerer Brahminen u. s. w., herausgegeben von Dr. Hübbe-Schleiden.

Subscription: $1,75 for six months, $3,50 per annum.

Messrs. COLBY & RICH, 9 Bosworth street, Boston, Mass., will receive subscriptions and forward the same to the publisher. Au21

La Lumiere.

A JOURNAL devoted to the interests of Spiritualism in all its aspects. MADAME LUCIE GRANGE, Editor. The ablest writers contribute to its pages.

Terms of Subscription, in advance, per year, $1.20. In remitting by mail, a Post-office order on Paris, France, to the order of MADAME LUCIE GRANGE, 75, Boulevard Montmorency, Auteuil.

PROPHETES ET PROPHETIES, by Hab.

A BOOK of universal interest and influence. It contains an Historical Relation of Prophecies in Modern Times and Prophetic Spirit Communications. Paper, 12mo, pp. 240. Price 60 cents, postage free. For sale by LA LUMIERE, Paris, France. Aug. 9.

THE CARRIER DOVE,

An Illustrated Weekly Journal,

DEVOTED to Spiritualism and Reform. Edited by MRS. J. SCHLESINGER. DR. L. SCHLESINGER and MRS. J. SCHLESINGER, Publishers. Each number will contain the Portraits and Biographical Sketches of some of the Prominent Mediums and Spiritual Workers. Also Spirit Pictures by our Artist Mediums, Lectures, Essays, Poems, Spirit Messages, Editorials, etc.

Terms: $2.50 per year; single copies, 10 cents.

Address all communications to THE CARRIER DOVE, 32 Ellis street, San Francisco, Cal. F6

SEND NAME

AND POST-OFFICE ADDRESS, plainly written, to THE BETTER WAY, CINCINNATI, O., and receive a sample copy of this bright Spiritual Weekly Newspaper FREE. Subscription, Two Dollars per year, but no obligation to subscribe will be incurred by sending for a sample copy. It will cost you only a postal card and a minute! Au13 tf

Light on the Way.

GEO. A. FULLER, Editor.
MRS. G. DAVENPORT STEVENS, Ass't Editor.

AN EIGHT-PAGE MONTHLY, devoted to the dissemination of Spiritual Knowledge. Terms, 60 cents per year. Specimen copies free. Address, GEO. A. FULLER, Editor and Publisher, Dover, Mass. My7

The Boston Investigator,

THE oldest reform journal in publication.

Price, $3,00 a year,
$1,50 for six months,
8 cents per single copy.

Now is your time to subscribe for a live paper, which discusses all subjects connected with the happiness of mankind. Address

J. P. MENDUM,
Investigator Office,
Paine Memorial,
Boston, Mass.

April 2.

DIAKKAISM; or, Clairvoyant Travels in Hades. By A. GARDNER, London, Eng. This little book is altogether novel and curious, being sketches of clairvoyant experiences among the inhabitants of Hades, which "is on the earth, under the earth, in the sea, and, indeed, everywhere about the earth, including a great portion of the atmosphere. Here myriads of human beings, who had a physical existence on earth, continue to live. Some in ships, some in houses, many in the woods, and myriads in the air." These persons and their surroundings are described, and conversation with them reported.

Paper, 10 cents, postage free.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

The Phantom Form.

Experiences in Earth and Spirit-Life—Revelations by a Spirit.

Through the trance mediumship of

MRS. NETTIE PEASE FOX.

This is one of the most deeply interesting Spiritualistic works ever published. Given in a narrative form by a lady whose earth-life was one of strange vicissitudes, startling events and wonderful mediumistic experiences. After many years in spirit-life she returns to earth, and through the fully entranced organism and power of another, gives her earth history, followed by revelations from spirit-life, interesting and instructive to those who would know the condition, opportunities and employments of those who have crossed the "Narrow stream meandering these two worlds between." A better understanding of this remarkable book may be obtained from the following table, giving a few of the many subjects upon which we have revelations from the spirit-world:

Death Foretold; Death-Bed Vision and Revelations; Is There Another Life? Angel Ministrations; Spirit Prophecy Fulfilled; Saved from a Horrible Fate by Spirit Warning; A Father's False Representation Corrected by the Spirit-Mother; Life Saved by Spirit-Power; My Death Foretold; My Sudden Departure from Earth-Life; First Awakening in Spirit-Life; Mansion in Spirit-Land; Return to Earth-Life; Some Spirits Worship a Personal God; Spirits Attend a Marriage Ceremony of Earth; Marriage in Spirit Life; Temple of Science; Library; Modes of Traveling; Visiting Another Planet. Many Revelations are given of life and its employments in the spirit-world deeply interesting.

Cloth, pp. 169. Price $1,00; postage paid to any part of the world.

The Mysteries of the Border-Land;

OR,

The Conscious Side of Unconscious Life.

Also the Second Part of the Volume, "The Golden Key; or, Mysteries Beyond the Veil."

BY MRS. NETTIE PEASE FOX.

These two books, contained in one large, nicely bound volume of nearly six hundred pages, are written in narrative style, said by the spirit author to be founded on facts. They are as entertaining as any novel ever read, and contain more of the phenomena and philosophy of Spiritualism than ever before written in the same space, and they are written in such an attractive form that they cannot fail to please and deeply interest thousands outside the ranks of Spiritualism.

Price $1.50; postage free.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

JUST PUBLISHED!

THE

SECRET SYMBOLS

OF THE

ROSICRUCIANS

OF THE

Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries,

WITH A TREATISE ON THE

Philosopher's Stone.

Translated from the German by

FRANZ HARTMANN, M.D.

The plates of the Secret Symbols, twenty-seven in number, have been colored by hand, exactly duplicating the originals which Dr. Hartmann secured during his researches among ancient MSS. and occult works in Germany.

Prof. Elliot Cones, F. T. S., writes in reference to the work as follows: "The publication is timely, and cannot fail to attract and entertain many persons who seek the symbols of eternal verities in these mystic paths. Whether or not the Rosicrucians ever existed as an actual secret confraternity, is, as you know, an open question with the public; and those who are best entitled to speak with authority are significantly silent in this particular. But no competent occultist or mystic has any doubts, or will ever fully divulge the esoteric facts in the case. The volume before us is handsomely gotten up, showing both taste and enterprise on the part of the publishers; and Dr. Hartmann has already won enviable spurs in the literature of occultism, which he is, from his connection with the Indian Branch of the Theosophical Society, well fitted to adorn."

Finely printed on heavy paper, pages 12 by 16 inches, and handsomely bound in cloth. Price $6.00.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

The Weekly Discourse;

Containing the Spiritual Sermons by the guides of

MRS. CORA L. V. RICHMOND.

VOLUME III.

No. 1. THE THREE M'S—MAMMON, MILLIONAIRES AND MURDER.
No. 2. A LEAP IN THE DARK.
No. 3. WHAT RELIGION IS BEST FOR MANKIND?
No. 4. IDEAL SOCIALISM: HOW DOES IT COMPARE WITH CHRISTIANITY AND SPIRITUALISM?
No. 5. THE MIRROR OF THE DAY.
No. 6. ANCIENT AND MODERN MIRACLES.
No. 7. THE JUDGMENT DAY.
No. 8. THE POWER OF PRAYER.
No. 9. THE NATURE OF SPIRITUALISM—IN ANSWER TO THE WORLD'S NEEDS.
No. 10. THE FOUNDATIONS OF THE WORLD.
No. 11. THE POPE, THE PROPAGANDA.
No. 12. THE BETRAYERS OF SPIRITUALISM.

Price 5 cents each.

Single copies of any number to of Volumes I. and II. will also be supplied at 5 cents each.

Also The Weekly Discourse, containing both two numbers in each volume, handsomely bound in Half Roan, Gold Raised.

VOL. I.....$3.00. VOL. II.....$3.00.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

ROSA,

The Educating Mother.

Written for Mothers and Young Ladies of Age.

BY PROF. H. M. COTTINGER, A. M.

The author in his preface says: "I wrote it for mothers and young ladies of age, because such books, purposely composed for them, are an exception to the rule, most of pedagogic works being written for teachers, scholars, or men in general. In order to make it more palatable to the fair sex, I composed it in the form of a correspondence, putting the principles of education into the mouth of a mother. My wife was the model for my letters. In every letter I asked myself if she would have spoken or written that way. If, nevertheless, I missed the true womanly style, the ladies may pardon my assumption."

Price $1,25; postage 8 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

MYSTERY OF EDWIN DROOD,

COMPLETED BY THE SPIRIT PEN OF CHAS. DICKENS.

The press declare this work to be written in "Dickens's happiest vein!" The style, to the very minutiæ of chapter headings, is thoroughly Dickensian. From the Hartford (Conn.) Times: "It is almost equally remarkable, whether one regards it as a literary fraud or a real manifestation of some of the mysterious and puzzling phenomena of Spiritualism. One thing is apparent: the quoted extracts from the ghostly second volume do, undeniably, exhibit many characteristics of Dickens as a writer." There are forty-three chapters in the whole work, which embrace that portion of it written prior to the decease of the great author, making one complete volume of about 500 pages.

We have secured a small number of copies of this remarkable book, and offer them at the following prices:

Cloth, $1,25; paper, 75 cents; postage free.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

THE MEDIUMISTIC EXPERIENCES

OF

John Brown, the Medium of the Rockies,

WITH AN INTRODUCTION BY PROF. J. S. LOVELAND.

This work is not a biography, but simply a part of the mediumistic life of the author. No claim is put forth of literary finish. To make the book readable and comprehensible has been the only aim of the author and editor; and as the former had no education in early life, and has acquired through his mediumship most of what he now possesses, it furnishes another illustration of the good of Spiritualism.

Cloth, pp. 167. Price $1,00.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

THE SEVEN CREATIVE PRINCIPLES.

By HIRAM E. BUTLER, as set forth in Seven Lectures before the Society for Esoteric Culture, at Boston, Mass., together with his Introductory Lecture, "The Idea of God," and also a Lecture on "Color."

Embellished with eight colored plates, showing the relation of the Seven Primitive Colors to the Seven Creative Principles in Nature. It investigates a department of thought highly important not only by the metaphysical knowledge presented, but still more by the possibilities of attainment, suggested by this knowledge and realized by methodically applying it in Self-Culture.

Cloth, with Author's portrait, $1,50; postage 8 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

NEW AND REVISED EDITION.

Psychometry; or Soul Measure;

With Proofs of its Reality, and Directions for its Development,

BY MRS. L. A. COFFIN.

Paper. Price 15 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

DEEP BREATHING, as a means of Promoting the Art of Song, and of curing Weaknesses and Affections of the Throat and Lungs, especially Consumption. BY SOPHIA MARQUISE A. CICCOLINA. Translated from the German by EDGAR S. WERNER. Illustrated. Cloth. Price 50 cents, postage free.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

MESMERISM, SPIRITUALISM, WITCHCRAFT AND MIRACLE. A treatise, showing that Mesmerism is a key which will unlock many chambers of mystery. By ALLEN PUTNAM, author of "Spirit-Works," and "Natty, a Spirit."

Paper, 30 cents, postage free.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

FREE!-----PREMIUMS!----- FREE.

UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE.

Persons sending DIRECT TO COLBY & RICH, 9 Bosworth Street, Boston, Mass., $3.00 for a year's subscription to the BANNER OF LIGHT, will be entitled to a choice of the following Premiums:

All New Subscribers, or Old Patrons, on Renewing their Subscriptions

TO THE

BANNER OF LIGHT,

MAY OBTAIN FOR THEMSELVES AND FRIENDS TEN FOLLOWING PREMIUMS BY COMPLYING WITH THE TERMS ABOVE MENTIONED.

A choice of TWO of either of the following named

CABINET PHOTOGRAPHS

will be given for one year's subscription, or one of them for a six months' subscription:

MR. LUTHER COLBY, Editor of the Banner of Light; MR. ISAAC B. RICH, Business Manager, or MISS M. T. SHELHAMER, Medium for the Banner of Light Public Free Circles.

These Photographs are all from recent sittings, and are finely executed by one of the best photographers in this city. Price for additional Photographs, if desired, 35 cents each.

Or a copy of either of the following Books:

Spirit Invocations; or, Prayers and Praises

Publicly offered at the Banner of Light Circle Room Free Meetings, by more than One Hundred Different Spirits, of Various Nationalities and Religions, through the vocal organs of the late Mrs. J. H. Conant. Compiled by Allen Putnam, A. M., author of "Bible Marvel-Workers," "Natty, a Spirit," "Spirit Works Real, but not Miraculous," etc., etc.

Mr. Putnam has with skillful hand arranged in this volume, in compressive fashion, many living gems of thought, which are clothed in eloquence of diction, and thrill the prayerful heart with spiritual fervor. From the soulful petitions scattered through its pages the doubter of Spiritualism's capability to minister to the devotional side of man's nature can draw ample proof that he is in error. The weary of heart will find in its holy breathings for strength, sent out to a higher power, rest from the cares that so keenly beset the pilgrim in life's highway. The sick in soul may from its demonstrations of the divine possibilities within, drink of the waters of spiritual healing and rejoice; and the desolate mourner can compass, through its unfoldment of the certainty of reunion with the departed, a consolation which nothing earthly can take away.

Cloth, pp. 256.

A Romance of Caucasian Captivity; or, The Federati of Italy.

By G. L. Ditson, M. D. This is a romance of the most exciting character, and full of stirring incidents. The Federati were a band or association of individuals in Sardinia when it was still an independent kingdom, who were pledged to undying hostility to ultramontanism, and therefore were friends of a constitutional system.

It is skillfully conceived and constructed, its wide variety of characters affords constant excitement and pleasure, and its progress among a train of pleasurable incidents is almost like a poetic vision of the tripping of the rosy hours. It will provoke a favorable comparison with some of the most praised romances of the times.

Visions of the Beyond,

By a Seer of To-Day: or, Symbolic Teachings from the Higher Life.

Edited by Herman Snow. This work is of exceeding interest and value, the Seer being a person of elevated spiritual aspirations, and of great clearness of perception, but hitherto unknown to the public. The special value of this work consists in a very graphic presentation of the truths of Spiritualism in their higher forms of action, illustrating particularly the intimate nearness of the spirit-world and the vital relation between the present and future as affecting human character and destiny in the hereafter. Bound in cloth, pp. 186.

Or choice of ONE of the below-described beautiful works of art:

ENGRAVINGS.

"NEARER, MY GOD, TO THEE."

Painted by Joseph John, and engraved on steel by J. R. Rice. Size of sheet, 25x28 inches; engraved surface, 16x21 inches.

"THE ORPHANS' RESCUE."

Engraved on steel by J. A. J. Wilcox, from the original painting by Joseph John. Size of sheet, 22x28 inches; engraved surface, 15x20 inches.

"HOMEWARD."

Designed and painted by Joseph John. Size of sheet, 22x18 inches.

"FARM-YARD AT SUNSET."

Copied from the well-known and justly celebrated painting designed by Joseph John. Stem, copied in black and two tints. Size of sheet, 22x28 inches.

"THE DAWNING LIGHT."

From the original painting by Joseph John. Engraved on steel by J. W. Watts. Size of sheet, 20x24 inches.

For each additional Engraving 50 cents extra.

Any person sending $3,50 for one year's subscription to the BANNER OF LIGHT will be entitled to Hollyer's Line and Stipple Steel Plate Engraving of the late

Henry W. Longfellow in His Library

At "Craigie House," Old Cambridge, Mass.

The plate is 24x32 inches. The central figure is that of the GREAT POET. He is seated on the right of a circular table, which is strewn with his books and writing materials. The surroundings are harmonious and symmetrical.

This beautiful historic work of art is a lasting souvenir and ornament for sitting-room, parlor, library or office of any American home. We will mail the engraving free to any one sending us $3,50 for a year's subscription for the BANNER OF LIGHT, or we will send the engraving alone for $1,00. The publisher's trade price for the engraving is $7,50.

Any person sending $1,50 for six months' subscription to the BANNER OF LIGHT will be entitled to ONE of the following Pamphlets:

AN EPITOME OF SPIRITUALISM AND SPIRIT MAGNETISM. The above is the title of a pamphlet of over one hundred pages. We know of no one book that gives to the enquirer so good an understanding of the teachings of Spiritualism as this. It is designed to convey facts to Spiritualists, also to do a missionary work with skeptics and church members. Two copies for one year's subscription, one for six months'.

SUMMARY OF SUBSTANTIALISM; OR, PHILOSOPHY OF KNOWLEDGE. By Jean Story. 12mo, paper, small pica, 113 pages.

DEATH, IN THE LIGHT OF THE HARMONIAL PHILOSOPHY. By Mary F. Davis. Paper.

AGASSIZ AND SPIRITUALISM; involving the Investigation of Harvard College Professors in 1857. By Allen Putnam.

DANGER SIGNALS; AN ADDRESS ON THE USES AND ABUSES OF MODERN SPIRITUALISM. By Mary F. Davis. Paper.

TALES OF THE SUN-RAYS. What Hans Christian Andersen tells a dear child about the Sun-Rays. Paper.

THE LIFE. The main object of this little volume is to give to suggestive teaching a recognition and a force (in the domain of religion and morals) greater than dictation has. Paper.

SERPENT AND SIVA WORSHIP, and Mythology in Central America, Africa and Asia; and the Origin of Serpent Worship. Two Treatises. By Hyde Clark and C. Staniland Wake, M. A. I. Edited by Alexander Wilder, M. D.

Or any two of the following pamphlets:

ANSWER TO CHARGES OF BELIEF IN MODERN REVELATIONS, ETC. Given before the Edwards Congregational Church, Boston, by Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Newton.

RELIGION OF SPIRITUALISM. By Eugene Crowell, M. D.

REVIEW of a Lecture by Jas. Freeman Clarke.

SYMBOL SERIES of Three Lectures, by Cora L. V. Tappan.

SOLAR AND SPIRITUAL LIGHT, AND OTHER LECTURES, delivered by Cora L. V. Tappan.

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF EDWARD S. WHEELER, the Distinguished Improvisator and Lecturer. By Geo. A. Bacon.

INNER MYSTERY. An Inspirational Poem, delivered by Miss Lizzie Doten. Paper.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION, IN ADVANCE:

Per Year.....$3,00
Six Months.....$.....1,50

THE APOCHRYPHAL NEW TESTAMENT. Being all the Gospels, Epistles, and Other Pieces now Extant, Attributed, in the First Four Centuries, to Jesus Christ, his Apostles and their Companions, and Not Included in the New Testament, by its Compilers. Translated, and now First Collected into One Volume, with Prefaces, Tables, and Various Notes and References, from the Last London Edition.

Cloth. Price $1,00, postage 10 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

TO BOOK PURCHASERS.

Colby & Rich, Publishers and Booksellers, 9 Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), corner of Province street, Boston, Mass., keep for sale a complete assortment of SPIRITUAL, PROGRESSIVE, REFORMATORY AND MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS, at Wholesale and Retail.

Terms Cash.—Orders for Books, to be sent by Express, must be accompanied by all or at least half cash. When the money forwarded is not sufficient to fill the order, the balance must be paid C. O. D. Orders for Books, to be sent by Mail, must invariably be accompanied by cash to the amount of each order. We would remind our patrons that they can remit us the fractional part of a dollar in postage stamps—ones and twos preferred. Postage stamps in quantities of MORE than one dollar will not be accepted. All business operations looking to the sale of Books on commission respectfully declined. Any Book published in England or America (not out of print) will be sent by mail or express.

☞ Catalogues of Books Published and for Sale by Colby & Rich sent free.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞ In quoting from the BANNER OF LIGHT care should be taken to distinguish between editorial articles and the communications (condensed or otherwise) of correspondents. Our columns are open for the expression of impersonal free thought, but we cannot undertake to endorse the varied shades of opinion to which correspondents give utterance.

☞ We do not read anonymous letters and communications. The name and address of the writer are in all cases indispensable as a guaranty of good faith. We cannot undertake to return or preserve manuscripts that are not used. When newspapers are forwarded which contain matter for our inspection, the sender will confer a favor by drawing a pencil or ink line around the article he desires specially to recommend for perusal.

☞ When our patrons desire the address of the BANNER changed, they should give us two weeks' previous notice, and not forget to state their present as well as future address.

Notices of Spiritualist Meetings, in order to insure prompt insertion, must reach this office on Monday of each week, as the BANNER goes to press every Tuesday.

Banner of Light.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, JUNE 9, 1888.

[Entered at the Post-Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class Matter.]

THE BANNER IS ISSUED EVERY THURSDAY MORNING FOR THE WEEK ENDING ON SATURDAY.

PUBLICATION OFFICE AND BOOKSTORE, 9 Bosworth St. (formerly Montgomery Place), corner Province Street (Lower Floor).

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL AGENTS:
THE NEW ENGLAND NEWS COMPANY,
14 Franklin Street, Boston.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY,
39 and 41 Chambers Street, New York.

COLBY & RICH,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

ISAAC B. RICH.....BUSINESS MANAGER.
LUTHER COLBY.....EDITOR.
JOHN W. DAY.....ASSISTANT EDITOR.

☞ Business Letters must be addressed to ISAAC B. RICH, Banner of Light Publishing House, Boston, Mass. All other letters and communications must be forwarded to LUTHER COLBY. Private letters should invariably be marked "Personal" on the envelope.

☞ Before the oncoming light of Truth, Creeds tremble, Ignorance dies, Error decays, and Humanity rises to its proper sphere of Knowledge.—Spirit John Pierpont.

☞ We shall print next week the full text of a lecture (specially reported for the BANNER OF LIGHT) delivered through the medial instrumentality of MRS. H. S. LAKE before the Spiritual Fraternity Society in the First Spiritual Temple (corner Newbury and Exeter streets), Boston, on the afternoon of Sunday, May 6th, and entitled: "The Future of Your Country."

The Meeting-House Way.

If one would fairly understand the method of the churches in controlling everything, let us take the experience of almost any retired New England town for a practical illustration. There is a population of but a few hundred, and a single place of public worship. It was not so long ago that it was punctiliously called a meeting-house; now it has received the name of a church. This alone suffices to show the intense narrowness of former prejudices, forming a recognized part of the current religion, and their inevitable tendency to melt away in the warmth of a more generous sympathy and a larger knowledge. The old puritans made it a part of their religion to hate a church, because they had come out from the English Church and set up a form of worship for themselves. Consequently they made it a religious duty to hate the English establishment, rejecting alike its holy days and holidays, refusing to observe Christmas and Good Friday and establishing Thanksgiving and Fast Day instead, keeping the symbolic cross from off their steeples, tying a white cravat around the throats of their ministers in place of wearing the white surplice of the clergy, and especially naming their places of worship meeting-houses in opposition to churches.

It is this same spirit, of course more or less modified in its manifestations, that prevails and governs in a little town where the Orthodox meeting-house stands to-day. The meeting-house is run by a small handful of men, assisted and supplemented by as many women, and these few persons assume to set up a standard of morals to which the conduct of everybody else in the town is to be subjected. They make the invisible law which all the others are required to obey. It is Orthodoxy in all its hard, repulsive features and most tyrannical exactions. Why do the people at large so obediently submit to this sort of tyranny? No explanation of it can be given, save that they instinctively pay respect to the meeting-house as the visible representative of the Divine Being; and consequently they concede superior authority to those who operate and control it in the community. The feeling is a relic of superstitious regard which it is difficult to eradicate from the heart. Not that the governing power inside the meeting-house is in any respect entitled to the right to exercise superior authority; but for the time it does it, and will continue to do it, until the last remnant of this superstitious feeling has disappeared. This handful of men in a little town, not over two or three sometimes, take up the rod of power as if it naturally belonged to them; and they do it for no better reason than that they do not expect to be opposed or even disputed.

If a new comer chooses to settle within the limits, but shows entire indifference to the authority that centres in the meeting-house, he is made to understand and feel very soon after his arrival that there is but one law in that place, and that it is the law of the meeting-house clique. To ignore that law is inexcusable; to openly disobey and defy it is punishable with the heaviest social disabilities. The rule is simply a rule of terror. He must submit to be bullied into silent obedience, or the invisible inquisition will surely squeeze and stretch him into an unresisting compliance. If he has means which this petty governing power covets, he can buy their favor only by contributing whenever demands are made upon him from the meeting-house quarter. If he is willing to come down liberally when summoned to do so, then all will go along quietly, and he will be as well treated as if he were one of the elect. He is given to understand that he can buy a place in the public esteem by paying over to the power that is entrenched in the meeting-house. A man, however, who refuses to help support this self-constituted and self-righteous power, and especially if he attempts no concealment of his unorthodox views, is sure to be "sat upon" by this power and its willing satellites from the day he ventures to open his lips. He is punished through the obedient assessors, the road-makers, the toadying storekeeper, the sewing-circle, and the children of the deacons and their associates.

His family is made to feel the pressure from all sides. If they were outlaws or outcasts they could not be put in a state of keener suffering. And all because they are not ready to bow down idolatrously to the meeting-house. He is not allowed to participate in public affairs by holding office of any kind. He is counted out in all movements of common interest. His family are ostracised as infidels and unworthy heathen. He can do or say nothing that is recognized as acceptable. But he is compelled to pay his share of the taxes for the protection and benefits which he is not allowed to enjoy. And he is expected to show all possible liberality in responding to the regular and the irregular appeals of the oligarchy of the town for contributions to the continued support of the meeting-house in a state of prosperity.

Meeting-house rule here in New England is a vestige of old Puritanism. It is decaying as fast as circumstances and conditions will permit, but none too fast for the good of the little communities in which it so arrogantly asserts its authority. It is a blight on every place where it exercises its power. It tolerates no kind of combinations even to promote public improvements unless it is itself at their head. It permits no change in political opinion as expressed in the choice of representatives in the legislature. It will permit no roads to be mended unless its own party is the overseer. It alternately starts and suppresses all the current local scandal. For all the backbiting, as well as backsliding, it is chiefly responsible. In every quarrel it has an active hand. The holier-than-thou look of sanctimoniousness is on its dyspepsia-marked face all the time. This is the substance of its religion, that others shall simply acknowledge and feel grateful for its self-appointed supremacy. Oftentimes this supremacy is grasped and for a long time kept in the hands of some single family in the town, whose "numerousness" allows a deacon, a minister and a moderator to be distributed through its ranks. The sceptre is transferred to others in due time, but in no case does an unlineal hand reach forth to grasp it.

Is it to be wondered at, in the face of this condition of things, that men who are calculated to make the best sort of citizens move out of such hide-bound towns as fast as they can get away, and that their sons and daughters make haste to abandon the hated place in which they have had to pass an unhappy and unprofitable youth. In the face of facts like these, men still persist in asserting that there is no union of Church and State in this country, and that every one is at liberty to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience: it is, however, a falsehood with which fewer people are now deceived than formerly.

How Indians are Treated.

The barbarous assertion that the only good Indians are dead ones is illustrated in practice by a most shocking report that comes from the interior of Brazil by way of Rio Janeiro, to the effect that not less than three thousand natives have been poisoned to death in one locality in that empire, and eight hundred in another, strychnine and chlorate of mercury having been administered to them by persons employed by the authorities. A further scheme is reported for poisoning five thousand more by the use of some cheaper drug. Señor Joaquin Bueno is the name of the person who is said to have superintended this most infamously wicked business, having been employed by the local authorities to visit summary punishment on the Indians and to rid the country of them altogether.

This is the way he proceeded to operate under his contract. He would appear at an Indian village at the head of seventy men, the inhabitants having fled in fear. Then he would order his force to put strychnine in the wells and springs, and the vessels of fermented liquor, and all the meat and grain that they could find. Leaving everything in apparently good order, the invading party would retire, taking position on a hill from which they could watch the operations. The natives of course returned when they felt it was safe to do so, partook of the poisoned food and drink, and died. On the following day, the invaders would see crows and other carrion-eating birds descending on the place, with no living person to scare them away. Every human being would be dead. After operating in this manner on the Indian village containing three thousand inhabitants, the invading murderers fell upon the village containing eight hundred inhabitants, and treated them in the same way. This monster Bueno audaciously defends his atrocities, and openly asserts that any one who exterminates Indians for the purpose of taking possession of their territories, which are needed by civilized people, deserves to be rewarded with high praise.

The Chicago Times has this appropriate comment to make on the subject: "The treatment which Indians have received in this country [U. S.] is bad enough; their rights have never been clearly defined or acknowledged; they have been till lately supplied with whiskey with which to kill themselves, and firearms with which to kill each other; border settlers have encouraged tribal wars, and many persons have privately, if not publicly, rejoiced at the prospect of the complete annihilation of the native races of the country. Our treatment of the Modocs was such that the Spaniards residing in Cuba asked the home government to intercede in their behalf. It is perhaps not too much to say that our conduct toward the Indians has been worse than that of any nation on the continent except Brazil."

There is not a doubt of it. All the Chicago Times says about our treatment of the Indians is true, and more. It has been the foulest blot on the national escutcheon. The only consistent policy that has been pursued toward them is one of extermination—by whiskey, by firearms, by hatching tribal wars. And in the face of such an infamous policy, we have the inhuman effrontery to taunt them with being worse than worthless either as citizens or neighbors. Even despised Mexico has shown greater humanity. One of the most distinguished Presidents of that republic, as the Times reminds its readers, was an Indian of pure blood, and so were several cabinet ministers and judges of the higher courts. The French always dealt fairly with the Indians, and consequently had little trouble with them. Canada has taught us a lesson in this respect worth our learning.

The "Indian allies" have always been regarded as a most valuable element in the population of the Dominion. The Six Nations were repeatedly praised by Lord Dufferin, while he was Governor-General, as being among the most industrious, moral, progressive and loyal of all the Queen's subjects in Canada. And it is capable of proof that the recent troubles with the Indians of Western Canada were incited from our side of the border.

Yet the United States, boasting its vast superiority to all the other countries of the Western continent, persists in treating these descendants of the aborigines as it would treat the wild beasts of the plains. We first assume that they are below the reach of all humane considerations, and then proceed to act toward them as if we would rival them in their alleged inhumanity. We first demoralize, corrupt and frenzy them, and then shoot them down at random as the only way to reduce them to endurable subjection. We do everything, in fact, to make them hostile, and then proceed to punish and destroy them for being only what we have made them.

After all, utterly atrocious as is the method adopted by this monster Señor Joaquin Bueno for exterminating the natives of Brazil, we of the United States cannot consistently utter any exclamations of horror over it. The main difference between his method and ours is not much more than a matter of time. His method is much more speedy than ours, but in reality no more effective. He has the courage to avow his purpose openly, accompanying it with a frank statement of his prompting motive, while we more prudently withhold all avowals and vindications, and take refuge behind the meanest, most cowardly and most inhuman prejudices which the heart of man is capable of fostering. Let us not think of overlooking the narrow margin that after all divides the Brazil poisoning policy and our own in the common purpose of exterminating the Indians. We may not point to the mote in our brother's eye and refuse to see the beam in our own. If this most atrocious proceeding as reported in Brazil is to produce any effect at all on us, it should be to shame us as a people out of the no less inhuman course of treatment which we have visited on the Indians, and compel us at once to a worthier policy as a civilized country.

Bigotry and Superstition Exemplified.

Persons who have studied the Spiritual Philosophy and phenomena for a series of years are fully aware of the grand results obtained thereby—especially as shown in the phase known as healing by the laying on of hands—which is in the same direction as the relief imparted to suffering humanity two thousand years ago, but which was lost sight of later, owing to the divisions in the Christian ranks. The ancient records inform us that the humble Nazarene, the divine man and exalted medium between the two worlds—the world of matter and the world of spirit—said there would be those who would come upon the stage of mundane life that would do the things in the healing line that he did, and even more. That time having arrived in this the nineteenth century, mediums have been developed, and for over forty years those afflicted by various diseases have been cured through magnetic treatment and proper medical remedies when the legal medical faculty failed in many instances to restore patients by experimentally using "drugs and medicines."

The public, becoming aware of this fact, resorted to the mediums instead, in order to be restored to health. Some of the church people gradually embraced the salutary remedies prescribed by the mediums; then others at once set their faces against the Spiritual Philosophy, through bigotry alone, and have been warning their people against it ever since.

But the remarkable cures which have been effected have convinced the many that the new system is superior to the old methods. The result has been, therefore, that a few designing persons—some of them medial instruments, perhaps—repudiating the theory of the Spiritualists to gain custom from the church, have set themselves up as "Christian Scientists," etc., etc., with slight changes in method and teaching, really inducing a "craze" among unthinking people.

The case of the late Mrs. Lottie A. James of West Medford, in this State, whose fanatical mother permitted the death of her daughter by and through the teachings of "Christian Science," is a fair sample of the utter inanity of this wide-spread infatuation. The consequence is, as noted by us last week, that the mother is now held for trial before the Superior Court at Cambridge because of her sacrificing to religious bigotry the clearest demands of common sense.

Ho! for Onset Bay.

Everything is looking well at this popular summer resort. Dame Nature is out in her finest "bib and tucker." And the Spiritualists are on the qui vive for eligible localities to enjoy the sea breezes during the sweltering summer months.

The Messrs. Murray & Ainslee, two well known and very popular caterers, have leased the Hotel Onset for a term of years, we understand, and will be ready to serve the public, commencing on June 12th, as a first class family residence.

The other Hotels are also put in perfect order for the accommodation of guests.

No doubt there will be a larger influx of visitors this season at Onset than ever before.

First Nail Factory in the World.

By the following note from our worthy and enterprising townsman, Mr. Jacob R. Huntington—who on the 4th of July next is to present to Amesbury a marble statue (erected at his own expense) of JOSIAH BARTLETT, ESQ., one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence of the United States—it will be seen that the first nail factory, not only in the United States but in the world, was established in Amesbury, Mass.:

AMESBURY, May 13th, 1888.

L. COLBY—My Dear Sir: A machine for cutting and heading nails was first used in this world at Amesbury, Mass. Machine patented January 16th, 1795. Invented by Jacob Perkins. Enclosed please find one of the first nails made by the machine.

Truly yours, J. R. HUNTINGTON.

MR. J. MILTON YOUNG is our authorized agent at Lake Pleasant, and will be pleased to receive subscriptions for the BANNER OF LIGHT. Mr. Young also has a full line of our publications for sale at his bookstore. He will conduct the correspondence for THE BANNER from that camp-meeting.

Revival of Ancient "Blue Laws."

A Scathing Rebuke by Rev. Dr. C. A. Bartol.

At the West Church, last Sunday morning, Dr. Bartol preached on the topic, "Hebrew and Christian Anniversaries and Holy Weeks," his text being the words of John vii., 8: "Come ye up to this feast."

The Doctor said that he would promise that the tabernacle was a commemoration of the past. It was remarkable that Jesus had nothing to say about that past. He was no clerk, no recorder. Hence, added Mr. Bartol, I want to put you in the same attitude regarding your feasts as he took regarding the Hebrew feasts. We hear holy days spoken of. Why, God never made a day that is not holy.

The secular press has lately informed us that Mr. Blair has just introduced a bill to bring back the "blue laws," so called. This bill proposes to interfere with the just liberty of the citizen. Can it be enacted? Who shall determine the questions of necessity and humanity that it would raise? Who can presume to say that the Sunday newspaper is illegal, disturbing the people and the church? Are employés of printing offices to be subject to a tax so unnecessary, inhuman and illicit? What an army of officials would be necessary to carry out the provisions of such a bill! Besides, would not such a law be opposed to the example of the Saviour, when he walked through the field on a Sunday, and ate? I suppose that there never was a stronger theologian than Calvin, who played at ninepins on a Sunday. Let us neither follow his example nor adopt his creed. It is in vain for ministers or legislators to try to impose our Sunday upon us in these wrong fashions. It is lawful to do well on the Sabbath day.

As to the rumshops, in this contest of ordinances with rioting, I see no help for it but to make the church more attractive to sinners and saints. The preacher must be sober, pleasant, winsome, so as to beat all opposition off the track. The true service is to watch yourselves, be free from wrong doing, and aid the widow and the fatherless.

Since my early manhood, the interests of the church have changed, and men no longer have the theatre of instruction. Woman is in the air, and she sparkles in woman's rights associations like a Leyden jar of electricity. Let us make no mistake—women are getting, and are to get, their human rights. Among their claims is this claim to the right to vote. We shall not convert the skeptics among women in this matter by ascribing to them unworthy motives. We have seventy thousand more women than men in this State, yet somehow the mass of the women do not stir. One reason for the unconcernedness of women is the cheapening and vulgarizing of the vote by men. No wonder the ladies think our vote corrupt, and too dirty to touch with their clean, nicely-washed hands. Why, some of the facts known to me in regard to recent gubernatorial elections are enough to make Americans hide their heads in shame. One other ground which leads women to stand aside from this movement is jealousy. It seems harder for women to lead women, than for men to lead men. Women need to agree among themselves.

All this we fully endorse. But the reverend gentleman had nothing to say in regard to the illegal raids and untruthful reports in the sensational daily papers against spiritualistic convocations—which is to be regretted. It is high time that respectable clergymen should come to the front and denounce those bigots who are continually making war upon Spiritualism and the mediums of the nineteenth century, who are doing as much as such devoted men as Dr. Bartol to instill into the minds of mankind the laws of morality and the fact of immortality.

☞ Henry W. Blair, United States Senator from New Hampshire, is a psychic, evidently. He wants money from the United States Treasury—millions—to promote general education. The idea is a good one, undoubtedly; but the question is, Could the scheme be carried out legitimately? If so, it would be a great blessing, as the foundation-stone of the Republic is based upon the individual intelligence of the people. But later Mr. Blair shows his hand in another direction, which only goes to prove that he is a bigot, as he asks Congress to pass a bill making it illegal for the people of the United States to travel on Sunday, or do any kinds of work, or seek rational amusement on that day. In fact, he wishes to establish for the nation the same condition of things once existing in New England many years ago, under which innocent women WHO WERE SPIRITUAL MEDIUMS were hung by the State as "witches"! When Quaker women (two) were hung on Boston Common for being Quakers! When Quakers were first imprisoned in Boston jail, then dragged and flogged through the town at the tail of carts, and then banished to the West Indies! His bill is a ridiculous affair. It is one of the last kicks of theological bigotry, whose prestige is on the wane. The whole thing is a farce, and Psychic Blair should at once be made to understand the fact.

☞ There is just as much rascality practiced in money matters to-day as there was in Burmah many years ago, when the kings of that country, in order to secure for themselves the property of wealthy people who were innocent of any crime whatever, condemned them to death for alleged treason. The procedures in these modern days are in the same direction, though in varied form, such as the accusing people of insanity, as statistics prove, in order that selfish relatives may secure their property; the getting up of "trust" companies on a large scale in order to "freeze out" and ruin small firms; the monopolization of railroad stocks, in order to "water" them and thereby ruin honest stockholders, etc.—all which is about as bad as the method practiced by the Burmese kings. It is recorded that, in order to strike terror to the hearts of the king's enemies, the accused were executed by elephants, who seemed to understand fully what was expected of them, namely: Each one would seize a condemned man by the neck with his trunk, lift him off the ground, give a sudden jerk like flicking a whip, then tread him to jelly beneath his great feet. Sometimes the elephants knelt upon the victims and kneaded them to pulp.

☞ A highly valued correspondent writes: "The time is undoubtedly near at hand when attention must be paid to the antecedents of mediums, in judging whether they should receive our patronage and encouragement." This is an important question, as it has caused more bickerings, more misapprehensions, more misgivings and more contentions in our ranks than anything else, and still continues to do so. It has alienated friends, engendered slander, stirred up animosity among skeptics, and led to attacks upon our séances by unprincipled men and unprincipled newspapers. But, notwithstanding, the Cause maintains its onward march, as it has Truth for its watchword, and Knowledge for its guide.

THE SPIRITUALISTIC PHENOMENA ASSOCIATION, of Boston, held a successful Strawberry Festival at the Ladies' Aid Parlors, 1031 Washington street, Thursday evening, May 31st. It was the last gathering of the Society; its meetings will be resumed next fall.

A Very Satisfactory Spiritual Seance.

On Sunday evening, June 3d, a large company gathered at the home of the Berry Sisters to witness the last séance of the season given by Gertrude Berry. If the medium was fatigued by her arduous labors the past season certainly her séance on Sunday evening last—as we are informed by a reliable correspondent who was present—gave no evidence of the fact, as no more enjoyable or satisfactory one has ever been given. Her controls seemed fairly to outdo themselves in their efforts to convince and to please. At one time three spirits materialized together at different points outside the cabinet, and once two materialized together outside and above the cabinet, and floated gently down. One form came between two chairs, each occupied, standing close together and against the wall, tipping the chairs edgewise as she came up; still another formed herself between and in front of two ladies sitting in the circle. The forms were well made up and able to converse intelligently, and some startling tests were given.

To one lady, who had visited Mrs. Webb, a spirit came, repeating and confirming all that was said there. This lady, by the way, had not mentioned her visit to any one in the circle. One very old lady came, wonderfully made up, who found her granddaughter in the circle and clearly identified herself. She gave the name of her spirit-husband, who was with her. It was an exceptionally harmonious circle, and one where the controls inside and the sitters outside the cabinet seemed to work in perfect unity.

Mr. Albro, the manager, made a few appropriate remarks, thanking the friends, present and absent, who had so generously and stanchly stood by the medium under his charge the past season, after which Mrs. Gertrude, under the control of the leader of her band, bade farewell to the company in the following words:

"Dear Friends: I suppose this is the last evening we shall meet together for some time to come; and I feel as if I ought, in parting, to say a few words to you all. The past season has been one of hard work for the medium, and for the spirit band working with her; but we feel satisfied if we have met with your approval and your support, and have been enabled, in ever so slight a degree, to demonstrate the grand truth of spirit existence and spirit return. The enemies of the truth, the past winter, alarmed at the immense strides taken by our philosophy, have strained every nerve and exerted every muscle to prove it untrue; but without success. A mightier force than they can summon is with us! and we do not mean to retire from this work, nor to be frightened from any locality which we may select as the most fitting field for our ministrations. What our plans are for the future, and whether we shall return to this city or not, we cannot say; but be assured we shall do what we think best for the medium, for ourselves, and for the work. And one word more: Our instrument for this work is as much interested in it as we or you could possibly be, and as eager to establish the truth. To many of you she is not known personally, she being of an exceptionally nervous, sensitive organization, and we thinking it best she should not see too many people, or be under too much excitement, she is willing to follow our directions in everything pertaining to the work. Be assured, however, she loves you all, individually and collectively, and appreciates the hearty and generous support you have always given her. Thanking you all for past favors, and praying that, whether we ever meet again or not, you may be blessed in your work and your lives, I bid you all good night and good-bye."

A vote of thanks to the manager, the medium and the controls was proposed, and passed by the audience.

It is understood, says our informant, that the medium in question will soon visit Onset Bay for rest and recuperation.

"THE VEILED BEYOND. A ROMANCE OF THE ADEPTS," is the title of a volume of 276 pp. soon to be issued from the prolific press of Cassell & Co., New York and London, which is, so far as the publishers know, the first novel dealing with the doctrine of reincarnation; and "whether as a contribution to theosophical literature, or simply as a romance," they deem will be found of more than ordinary interest. From a slight glance at the pages of an advance copy with which Messrs. C. & Co. have favored us, we judge its plot and its revelations are startling and a severe tax upon the credulity of the most credulous to accept; they will, however, be likely to suggest an altogether new line of thought, and as the word "impossible" is supposed to be eliminated from the vocabulary of every progressive mind, the book will claim the attention of every advanced thinker.

"SPIRITUAL PHILOSOPHY," by Lucian Pusch, is a practical teaching concerning the above-mentioned subject. A copy reaches us in pamphlet form from Leipzig; it is well adapted for the purposes in view, the writer having succeeded in looking upon his subject from various points, the treatment of which certainly is most interesting and useful to those seeking knowledge. Particularly readable is the last chapter upon "Practical Advice Regarding the Development of Mediums and the Usefulness of Spiritualism for Artistic Productions"; in it the author shows deep study. He dwells chiefly upon the mode of mesmerizing the subject to be used—some of his views being novel and most acceptable. We would recommend its perusal to our readers, who we think would in doing so derive benefit from the new thoughts which are therein given expression.

DR. W. L. JACK, writing from Haverhill, says that Mr. James M. Palmer, a tried and true Spiritualist, still remains in the mortal, though weak and suffering and longing to depart. "He is, I think, one of the happiest men I ever saw or knew in our grand philosophy and truth of Spiritualism."

☞ We learn that Mr. Luther R. Marsh has disposed of his residence, 166 Madison Avenue, New York, in which spirit pictures were produced, and intends to devote his remaining years to agriculture rather than to law. He is reported to have said:

"I am tired of answering to the calls of the calendar, and will make my future home on the shores of Lake Erie, where I bought a summer residence about six years ago. I shall spend the summers there, and be at liberty to visit Europe or any place I choose in the winter. I expect to go to England next winter."

"This step," he added, "has nothing whatever to do with the Diss Debar matter."

☞ Sept. 20th, 1885, we received a message from S. B. Brittan, through the mediumship of a reliable lady, to the effect that "if ever prompt action were needed in our rank and file, it is now!" ... "Every man to the front with arms ready, should be our watchword. Count me in as by your side, ready to do battle with you for Truth." What has he got to say to-day, we wonder, when the elements of strife are ten times worse than they were when he communicated in 1885?

ANONYMOUS—and therefore inadmissible—articles on various topics continue to arrive at this office. Writers must sign their communications if they expect attention at our hands. Names are necessary as guaranty of good faith, but we will not publish them if so requested.

☞ The Cincinnati (O.) Press Club has established permanent quarters during the Centennial (July 4th to Oct. 27th) at the Exposition Building in that city, and will dedicate them Saturday evening, June 9th, by appropriate exercises.

☞ As noted by THE BANNER some time since, Dr. Henry Rogers, the spirit-artist, who has passed the winter on the Pacific Slope, will make his home at Onset Bay Camp-Ground in the early summer.

☞ A series of resolutions passed by the Spiritual Fraternity Society of Boston, in memory of the late Mrs. E. R. Dyar-Clough, came to hand too late for this issue, but will appear next week.

☞ Received: The Theosophist for May, which we shall more fully notice next week.

☞ See advertisement (page fifth) of Lake Pleasant Cottage to let.

ALL SORTS OF PARAGRAPHS.

UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF TEA.
IN SIX STANZAS.
III.

It seemed like a vision of China:
I saw quaintest birds green and brown,
And yellow and crimson and olive,
With lilies mixed up on her gown.

INSTITUTE OF HEREDITY.—The ninth annual meeting of the Institute of Heredity was held in this city Anniversary week, when Mr. E. B. Foote, Sr., of New York, read a long paper devoted chiefly to answering the criticisms made upon the theory of Dr. Powell in regard to the temperaments and the rules laid down by him for marriage. In the evening the subject of "Scientific Marriage" was discussed by the Secretary of the Institute, Rev. Jesse H. Jones. It was a very interesting occasion, and great interest was manifested upon the subject.

The Argonaut of San Francisco, which has apparently reached its twenty-second volume without becoming known to English fame, is so good as to describe Spiritualists as "that combination of moral wrecks and half crazed idiots who hang just over the border of knavery and along the edges of irresponsibility." But, in the name of common sense, how does a wreck, in combination with an idiot, hang anything, or itself be hung, over a border and along an edge? Any Spiritualist we know, "half-crazed" or otherwise, is sane compared to this scribbler, who writes two columns of sheer, unmitigated nonsense about a subject on which he is painfully and obviously ignorant.—London (Eng.) Light.

A perfect gentleman is never reserved, but sweetly and entirely open, so far as it is good for others or possible that he should be.—Ruskin.

We are gratified to find the above true sentiment endorsed by The Better Way, in which paper we find it.

A Newark, N. J., man bets $20 that it will rain on Sunday, June 10th.

Contention, it is said, is better than stagnation. This is true in a certain sense. But when one uses disreputable means to accomplish selfish ends, as many do, that alters the case.

The use of Massage as a healing agent seems to be growing in favor in this city and vicinity, and many of our most prominent business men and physicians are becoming interested in it. The theory is that the Massage treatment by a person possessing a large amount of vitality and animal magnetism, gives a new and more thorough circulation of blood, drawing it away from the brain and other inflamed parts. This of itself, if accomplished, necessarily relieves the overworked organ and gives nature a chance to perform her own curative work. But it is also thought that the operation transfuses an electric force into the wearied nerve centers of the patient, and gives them a new vitality. Among the most successful practitioners of this art is Dr. W. A. Towne, at his Institute, 332 Main street, Springfield, Mass.—New England Homestead.

Dr. Towne will be at Lake Pleasant during the summer months, ready to treat all patients who may need his services.

Next Sunday two foolhardy cranks are to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel.

Seismic disturbances of a pronounced character have been experienced at intervals for the past ten days in certain sections of Columbia, S. C. On Friday night of last week seventeen distinct shocks were counted.

The new passport system on the continent of Europe is giving American travelers lots of trouble, and they are kicking dreadfully.

HOLD YOUR HEAD UP.

If a brother should deceive you,
And should act a traitor's part,
Never let his treason grieve you—
Jog along with lightsome heart.
Fortune seldom follows fawning;
Boldness is the better plan;
Hoping for a better dawning,
Hold your head up like a man.

If the San Diego (Cal.) Daily Bee "speaks by the book," Jesse Shepard has renounced Spiritualism, and with his Private Secretary, Mr. Tonner, joined the communion of the Roman Catholic church.

Colby & Rich have done a good thing in issuing, in a double column, four-page circular, Mrs. R. Shepard Lillie's lecture in reply to Dr. Talmage. In this tract, also, "Eleanor Kirk" has some straightforward talk, that it will do one good to read.—New Thought, Des Moines, Ia.

San Francisco is to have a crematory. A company has been formed, which owns a valuable lot, and next month work will be begun upon the furnace and chapel.

At time of going to press (5th inst.) Emperor Frederick is reported free from lassitude; Dom Pedro improving; Mr. Bright sleeps well. Gen. Sheridan is still alive, but failing in strength.

There are so many "cussed" mean things in The New York World of late, that it gives us great pleasure to quote a few sensible remarks we found in a late number:

Representative Scull, of Pennsylvania, calls his seat in the House "Golgotha."

A Western editor refers to Col. Robert G. Ingersoll as "the great anti-sheolian."

Victorien Sardou's chirography is more undecipherable than the late Horace Greeley's.

Blanche Roosevelt is collaborating a play with Victorien Sardou, and is not afraid to own it.

There is, after all, mathematical consistency about Ignatius Donnelly's cipher, as it amounts to nought. (What does Bacon think of that?)

Mayor Hewitt seems to be a man who in certain moods would take great delight in snubbing himself if he could.

Nola Twigg, a servant girl of Portland, Ore., has fallen heiress to a fortune of $200,000 in England. This Twigg will now be able to branch out for herself.

"Patent outside" newspapers are usually flabby affairs, and it is a healthy idea that the public are "getting onto" the fraud.

The name of the present Emperor of Germany is Frederick William Nicholas Charles. He was born Oct. 18th, 1831, and he and Victoria Adelaide Mary Louise, Princess Royal of Great Britain, were married in London, Jan. 25th, 1858.

The public debt reduction for May will amount to about four million dollars, twelve millions having been paid out in pensions.

As the editor of The Investigator questions our individual veracity in re the spirit-molds question, we decline to enter into any further controversy with that paper upon the subject-matter involved. At some time in the future the facts in full will be given to the public, and why Dr. Gardner, through prejudice, accused Mrs. Hardy, the medium, of fraud. We tested this matter fully, as did Prof. William Denton, and the result was that Mrs. Hardy's mediumship was fully vindicated.

The Rev. De Witt Talmage says that ninety-nine out of every hundred spiritual manifestations are false. Admitting that, will he please explain the one that, according to his own showing, is genuine?—New Thought, Des Moines, Ia.

Mr. Blaine "swears" he won't be a candidate for the Presidency. That settles it.

The editor of the American Druggist has been having a rather sad experience lately, to judge from the following remarks: "The ancient proverb says, 'You cannot get more out of a bottle than you put in it.' That's an error. Besides what he put in, he can get a headache, a sick stomach, and perhaps ten days in the lock-up."

People who "raise Ned" eat caper sauce.

In one way or another the work of civilizing the heathen keeps moving on. During the past year 849,569 gallons of New England rum were sent from Boston to Africa.—Oil City Blizzard.

English farmers have turned against the sparrows as a pest to agriculture, and are offering rewards for their destruction. It is asserted that these vicious birds cause a loss to agricultural England of $40,000,000 to $50,000 000 per year.

"TALMAGE, THE FANATIC."—The last Investigator publishes a communication from Mr. W. C. Bowen, of Brooklyn, N. Y., under the above caption, in which the writer says: "The recent onslaught of Parson Talmage upon the Spiritualists has proved a veritable boomerang. It turns out that the President of the Tabernacle Board of Trustees—the biggest pew-holder, and, in short, the parson's right-hand man—is a clairvoyant doctor and spirit-medium! It is currently reported that Talmage does n't like the thorough ventilation now given this indisputable fact. One funny thing connected with the Tabernacle tirade is, that had Talmage accepted Judge Dailey's challenge to discuss Spiritualism, strangers attending the discussion, misled by Talmage's unsavory description of Spiritualists, would certainly have thought that Talmage was the Spiritualist, and the Judge the Orthodox man."

The editor of a religious (creedal) paper in New Jersey, it is said, has been arrested for stealing a horse from another Reverend of the Presbyterian faith! Would n't this be a capital text by which the Rev. Mr. Talmage could draw a full house? When the thief was arrested he attempted to drown himself in the canal, and afterward threatened to commit suicide.

"Clara, are you going with me to the Y. P. S. C. E., this evening?" "No, Katy, I. D. T. I. S." "What?" "I do n't think I shall." "Why not?" "Oh! Charlie wants me to go to the Y. M. C. A. sociable with him, and then he is going with me to the W. C. T. U. lecture." "Oh! poob. I think you are J. A. M. A. Y. C. B." "What?" "Just as mean as you can be."—Springfield Union.

Complaint seems to grow at a fearful rate from people who dine or lunch at restaurants, in regard to the expectancy of waiters to be "tipped," and the more fashionable the caravansary the worse the nuisance.

Weight sociables are the latest craze at Yankton. They differ from the wait sociables, where you wait three hours for refreshments and then don't get any. In the former the gentlemen select their ladies by lot, take them to the scales, weigh them, pay a quarter of a cent a pound into the general fund, and then escort them to supper. At a Yankton weight sociable the other night a dime museum fat woman was one of the guests, "just to help the fun along." She fell to the lot of an editor, and next day the unfortunate man was compelled to make an assignment.—Norristown Herald.

There is a class of quasi-reformers abroad who, if they could have their own way, would reform nine-tenths of the community out of existence. These people are simply misanthropes.

THE MORNING.

The glad dawn sets his fires upon the hills,
Then floods the valleys with his golden light,
And, triumphing o'er all the hosts of night,
The waiting world with new-born rapture fills.
And, hark! I seem to hear a song which thrills
The trembling air of earth with heaven's delight,
And straight uplifts with its Celestial Might Souls faint with longing, compassed round with ills.
—Louise Chandler Moulton.

IS N'T THIS SOMEWHAT DANGEROUS?—We are in receipt of an eight-page paper called The Two Edged Sword, brought out at Fort Worth, Tex., "devoted to religion, but interdenominational." We see that its editor demonstrates his religion (?) by an article on "Infidelity," wherein "Atheists," "Pantheists," "Agnostics," "Deists," "Spiritualists," "Unitarians," "Jews," et al., come in for a left-handed blessing. To save composition the editor calls his paper, when speaking of it, the Sword, and while there are but few of the human family left after the above classes are disposed of, we submit that it must be a very dangerous act on the part of the remainder to subscribe for his paper, for does not the Bible (divinely inspired) distinctly declare that "they that take the sword shall perish by the sword"?

Within a certain range in the northerly part of Boston, it is said, more than forty different languages and dialects are spoken.

As a rule, says the Tribune, religious papers do not venture to discuss the merits of Spiritualism, possibly because many of their readers are disposed to acknowledge some of its claims. This is true, and why not? If angels—which are mortals who have put on immortality—exist, why may not they come back to earth? The Catholic Church holds that they can, but that only the bad ones do. But if bad ones can and do revisit their haunts, why cannot good ones do so also? In the divine economy of eternity is evil more powerful than good?—Truth Seeker, New York.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals offers a reward of $25 with a view of preventing the cruel and unnatural practice of docking of horses' tails.

KEY OF THE MIND.

The tongue is the key of the mind;
And whenever it opens the secret-hung door,
What lies in the storehouse behind,
Whether gems or mere rubbish, is hidden no more.

A Southwest Missouri attorney is reported to have made the following remarks in closing a case: "Owing to the perjury of the witnesses, the ignorance of the jury and the prejudice of the judge, I expect to lose this case."

Times of general calamity and confusion have ever been productive of the greatest minds. The purest ore is produced from the hottest furnace, and the brightest flash of lightning comes from the blackest clouds. —Colton.

It rarely happens that a beautiful woman has much style, or that a stylish woman has much beauty.

Movements of Mediums & Lecturers.

(Notices under this heading must reach this office by Monday's mail to insure insertion the same week.)

Prof. W. F. Peck has just closed a very successful engagement at Worcester. He speaks during June at Willimantic, Conn. Is engaged for the fall season at Cassadaga Camp Meeting. He would announce to the many societies which have applied for his services that he has finally concluded to remain in the East another season. Those who wish to make engagements should apply at once. His time is already taken to the first of December. Address until last of June, Willimantic, Conn.

Prof. J. Madison Allen is doing excellent work in the West. His inspirational trance lectures, platform tests, etc., are attracting much attention. He has finished his second engagement in Peoria, Ill., and is now engaged for the month of June. Address 607 Hamilton street. Address during July, Mt. Pleasant Park Camp, Clinton, Ia.

Sunday, June 3d, Mrs. H. S. Lake spoke to interested and enthusiastic audiences at Albany, N. Y. She speaks there each Sunday of June. Parties desiring to arrange for week evening lectures in the vicinity, or to secure the few open dates which she has for July and August, will address her at 32 Plain street, Albany, N. Y.

Mrs. T. J. Lewis, platform test medium, (late of Brooklyn, N. Y.,) having filled successfully engagements in Springfield, Mass., and elsewhere, would like to make further appointments in New England for Sunday and week-day evenings. Call or address her 205 Harrison Avenue, Boston.

Addie M. Stevens will speak in Plymouth, N. H., June 10th and 17th; will attend the New Hampshire State Convention the 22d, 23d and 24th. Will answer calls to lecture or attend funerals. Address Washington, N. H.

Miss Josephine Webster, trance speaker and platform test medium, will, we are informed, answer calls from societies for the fall and winter months. Address her at 98 Park street, Chelsea, Mass.

W. J. Colville lectures in Oakland and San Francisco, Cal., during June and July. He is open to an engagement between San Francisco and Chicago Sunday, Aug. 5th. (Address immediately in care Golden Gate.) He will lecture in Chicago, Aug. 12th, then visit Cassadaga Lake—returning to Chicago for September, and speaking five Sundays for the First Society during the absence of Mrs. Richmond. He can consider an offer from Boston for October.

Mr. J. W. Fletcher will lecture in Mishawum Hall, City Square, Charlestown District, on Sunday next. Afternoon, subject, "Talmage and Spiritualism"; evening, "Ancient and Modern Miracles." The Clinton Male Quartette will furnish music. Mr. Fletcher will be at his office, 6 Beacon street, Boston, every day until July 15th.

Miss Helen Berry, the excellent medium, who has been a resident of Philadelphia, Pa., the past two years, is in town and will soon locate at Onset Bay.

Dr. A. W. S. Rothermel, we are informed, has left Crescent City, Fla., where he has been holding séances of late, and gone—in the capacity of a psychometrist—to Bear Mountain, Ark., in company with Prof. Frank Bosworth, a practical mineralogist.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lowe Watson was to address the Young People's Progressive Society at McVicker's Theatre, Chicago, Ill., Sunday evening, June 3d.

John Slater is reported by A. L. Coverdale to be doing excellent work in Chicago at time of writing.

Dr. F. L. H. Willis is now residing in his old home, Glenora, Yates Co., New York.

Mrs. Clara A. Field spoke for the Spiritualist Society of Saratoga May 20th and 27th. She is now at her cottage at Lake Pleasant, but can be addressed for engagements in care of BANNER OF LIGHT, 9 Bosworth street, Boston, Mass.

A. S. Pease will make Saratoga, N. Y., his headquarters during the summer.

☞ See call for the New Hampshire Convention on eighth page.

Appeal in Behalf of Robert Cooper,

Of Eastbourne, Eng.,

Who, after upward of a quarter of a century's work for the spiritual cause in Great Britain and America, now finds himself, in his sixty-seventh year, without pecuniary means, and smitten with blindness and failing health.

Those Spiritualists in this country who may feel to aid our worthy but unfortunate brother pecuniarily, may send funds to our care for him, which will be duly acknowledged, and faithfully remitted.

J. P. H.	$100,00
From THE BANNER'S God's Poor Fund	10,00
L. Colby	10,00
A. E. G.	5,00
I. B. Rich	10,00
Friend	2,00
C. H. Spear	2,00
W. J. Colville	1,25
Mrs. M. H. Warren	5,00
I. W. Bonnel	1,00
"Dick"	5,00
E. S. Varney	5,00
Augustus Day	2,00
A friend, Baltimore	2,00
Mt. Vernon, New York	2,00
C. G. Helleberg	2,00

[The polls close in Mr. Cooper's case insofar as THE BANNER is concerned with the present date, as we shall on Saturday next remit the amount collected to England, thanking the donors for their aid in behalf of our worthy br ther.]

Aid for an Afflicted Medium.

The widow of John P. Dimond is in very destitute circumstances, and greatly in need of help from the kindly disposed. She is confined to her bed at 12 Kendall street, Boston, and is utterly helpless. If those who may feel to aid her pecuniarily will send their offerings to our office we will acknowledge the receipt in these columns, and see that the amounts are forwarded to their proper destination.

The following sums have reached us for the Dimond fund since last report:

Helper	$2,00
Henry J. Horn	1,00
Friend, Taunton, Mass.	1,00
Ira W. Russell	1,00
L. G.	4,00
A friend to suffering humanity	1,00
M. D. B.	5,00
A subscriber	5,50

Spiritualist Camp-Meetings for 1888.

The season of out-of-door gatherings on the part of the believers in the New Dispensation is drawing nigh; and the reader will find, by reference to the subjoined, a partial list of the localities and time of session where such convocations are to be held.

The BANNER OF LIGHT has made it a practice for years past to give this list to its patrons each season, and reverts with satisfaction to the fact that at each recurrent period this roster of the army of progress has been repeatedly copied (and widely circulated), either in extenso or by briefer notice, into the columns of Spiritualist and secular papers in many portions of the country:

ONSET BAY, MASS.—The Twelfth Annual Camp-Meeting at this place commences its sessions July 15th, to close Aug. 12th.

LAKE PLEASANT, MASS.—The Fifteenth Annual Convocation of the New England Spiritualists' Camp-Meeting Association will be held at Lake Pleasant, Montague, Mass., (on the Hoosac Tunnel route) Aug. 1st to Sept. 3d, inclusive. The regular session will be preceded with speaking and musical exercises July 22d and 29th. Trains "51," "100," "45" and "13," will stop at the Lake when there are passengers to leave, or when signalled to take passengers. The above trains, "54" and "100," leave Boston at 6:30 A. M. and 3:05 P. M., arriving at Lake Pleasant at 10:10 A. M. and 6:45 P. M. The trains No. "45" and "43" leave Lake Pleasant at 6:40 A. M. and 2:45 P. M.

LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN, TENN.—The Fifth Annual Meeting will be held at this place (near Chattanooga) during the entire month of July.

CALIFORNIA CAMP-MEETING.—The Fourth Annual Gathering will be held at Lake Merritt Park, Oakland, Cal., from June 3d to July 1st, inclusive.

SUNAPEE LAKE, N. H.—The sessions of the Eleventh Annual Meeting commence July 29th, to close Aug. 26th.

QUEEN CITY PARK, VT.—Meeting commences Aug. 21st and continues to Sept. 16th, inclusive.

HASLETT PARK, MICH.—Meeting commences July 26th and continues five Sundays.

VERONA PARK, ME.—Meeting opens Aug. 12th and ends Aug. 27th.

CASSADAGA LAKE, N. Y.—Meeting commences July 21st and closes Aug. 24th. The Annual Picnic and Sunday Assembly of the Cassadaga Lake Free Association will take place June 8th, 9th and 10th.

NORTH COLLINS, N. Y.—The Friends of Human Progress will hold a Spiritual Festival at Forest Temple June 16th and 17th. Mrs. E. L. Watson and Dr. F. L. H. Willis being the speakers.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY SPIRITUALIST ASSOCIATION.—The Sixth Annual Camp-Meeting will commence at Mount Pleasant Park, Clinton, Ia., Sunday, July 29th, to continue five weeks.

MANTI STATION, O.—The Association will hold a Basket-Meeting Sunday, July 1st, in Atwater's Grove. Societies adjacent are invited to join.

MORRISTOWN, MINN.—The Rice Co. Scientific, Moral and Reformatory Association will hold its First Annual Meeting at Morristown on the third Sunday in June; and in connection therewith will be held a Spiritual and Liberal Camp-Meeting, commencing on Wednesday, June 13th, and closing on Monday, June 18th.

CLACKAMAS, ORE.—The Clackamas County Society of Spiritualists will hold a Grove Meeting on its grounds at New Era, Ore., beginning Friday, June 8th, and holding over two Sundays.

ORION LAKE, MICH.—The First District Association of Spiritualists will hold a ten days' Camp-Meeting at Orion Lake, Oakland Co., Mich., commencing Saturday, June 2d, and ending Monday, June 11th.

PARKLAND, PA.—Meetings begin in July; dates not yet out.

EVERY ONE furnishing a house realizes that it is of the utmost importance that perfect harmony shall exist between the carpets and upholstery goods. Messrs. J. H. Pray, Sons & Co. are making a special point to see that these two lines of goods are selected with reference to each other.

The newest and choicest selections can be found with this house, saving customers the inconvenience of going to two places for these goods.

Special Notice.

The date of the expiration of every subscription to the BANNER OF LIGHT is plainly marked on each address. The paper is discontinued at that time unless the subscription is previously renewed. Subscribers intending to renew will save much trouble, and possibly loss of a paper or two, by sending in the money for renewal before the expiration of their present subscription. It is the earnest desire of the publishers to give the BANNER OF LIGHT the circulation to which its merits entitle it, and they look with confidence to the friends of the paper throughout the world to assist them in the work. COLBY & RICH, Publishers.

☞ Read "ZOELLNER'S TRANSCENDENTAL PHYSICS." This is one of the grandest works of the nineteenth century. Everybody should have a copy. Colby & Rich have the work on sale at the Banner of Light Bookstore, 9 Bosworth street, Boston.

For Sale at this Office:

THE TWO WORLDS: A journal devoted to Spiritualism, Occult Science, Ethics, Religion and Reform. Published weekly at Manchester, England. Single copy, 5 cents.

HALL'S JOURNAL OF HEALTH. A Progressive Family Health Magazine. Published monthly in New York. Single copy, 10 cents.

BUCHANAN'S JOURNAL OF MAN. Monthly. Published at Boston. Single copies, 10 cents.

THE SOUL. Monthly. Published in Boston. Single copy, 15 cents.

THE CARRIER DOVE. Illustrated. Published weekly in San Francisco, Cal. Single copy, 10 cents.

THE BIZARRE. NOTES AND QUERIES, with Answers in all Departments of Literature. Monthly. Single copy, 10 cents.

THE OLIVE BRANCH: Utica, N. Y. A monthly. Price 10 cents.

RELIGIO-PHILOSOPHICAL JOURNAL. Published weekly at Chicago, Ill. Single copy, 5 cents.

THE NEW THOUGHT. Published weekly in Des Moines, Iowa. Single copy, 5 cents.

THE WATCHMAN. Published monthly at Chicago, Ill. Single copies, 10 cents.

THE TRUTH-SEEKER. Published weekly in New York. Single copy, 8 cents.

THE MIND-CURE AND SCIENCE OF LIFE. Monthly. Published at Chicago, Ill. Single copy, 10 cents.

THE HERALD OF HEALTH AND JOURNAL OF PHYSICAL CULTURE. Published monthly in New York. Price 10 cents.

THE THEOSOPHIST. A Monthly Journal, published in India. Single copy, 50 cents.

THE GOLDEN GATE. Published weekly in San Francisco, Cal. Single copy, 10 cents.

THE BETTER WAY. A Spiritualistic weekly journal. Published in Cincinnati, O. Single copy, 5 cents.

THE EASTERN STAR. A weekly journal. Published at Bangor, Me. Single copies 3 cents.

THE PATH. A Monthly Magazine, devoted to Universal Brotherhood, Theosophy in America, and Aryan Philosophy. Single copy, 20 cents.

THE ESOTERIC. A Monthly Magazine of Advanced and Practical Esoteric Thought. Published in Boston. Single copy, 15 cents.

MENTAL HEALING. A Monthly Magazine. Published in Boston, Mass. Single copies 10 cents.

Notice to Speakers and Mediums.

The Society of Union Spiritualists, of Cincinnati, are desirous of corresponding with Speakers and Platform Test Mediums combined, relative to engagements for months of 1889. State what months they can be engaged for and phases of Mediumship. Address

C. C. STOWELL, Sec'y,
Care The Way Publishing Company.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.

Each line in Agate type, twenty cents for the first and every insertion on the fifth or eighth page, and fifteen cents for each subsequent insertion on the seventh page.

Special Notices forty cents per line, Minion, each insertion.

Business Cards thirty cents per line, Agate, each insertion.

Notices in the editorial columns, large type, leaded matter, fifty cents per line.

Payments in all cases in advance.

☞ Advertisements to be renewed at continued rates must be left at our Office before 12 M. on Saturday, a week in advance of the date whereon they are to appear.

☞ Only small and light cuts will be allowed in the advertising columns. When accepted, our rates for that portion of the advertisement occupied by the cut will be one-half price in excess of the regular rates.

Electrotypes of pure type matter will not be accepted.

The publishers reserve the right to reject any and all electrotypes.

The BANNER OF LIGHT cannot well undertake to vouch for the honesty of its many advertisers. Advertisements which appear fair and honorable upon their face are accepted, and whenever it is made known that dishonest or improper persons are using our advertising columns, they are at once interdicted.

We request patrons to notify us promptly in case they discover in our columns advertisements of parties whom they have proved to be dishonorable or unworthy of confidence.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Dr. F. L. H. Willis may be addressed as usual for the summer Glenora, Yates Co., N. Y.
My19 7w*

Roswell, Astrologer.—All communications confidential. 36 Pearl street, Charlestown, Mass. 1w* Je9

Andrew Jackson Davis, Seer into the causes and natural cure of disease. Send for information to his office, 63 Warren Avenue, Boston, Mass. tf Ap7

H. A. Kersey, No. 3 Bigg Market, Newcastle-on-Tyne, will act as agent in England for the BANNER OF LIGHT and the publications of Colby & Rich during the absence of J. J. Morse.

To Foreign Subscribers the subscription price of the BANNER OF LIGHT is $3,50 per year, or $1,75 per six months. It will be sent at the price named above to any foreign country embraced in the Universal Postal Union.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

MAGNETIC INSOLES

THE following characteristic letter, from the pen of LYMAN C. HOWE, the veteran speaker and writer for the noble cause of Spiritualism, speaks for itself. Mr. Howe has worn our Shields for more than five years, and has had large experience with them among his friends. The readers of THE BANNER have implicit confidence in the integrity and good judgment of Mr. Howe. He always writes and speaks what he knows to be TRUE. Write him for further evidence about our Shields, and he will give his experience.

DR. THACHER.

Dear Sir—Your Magnetic Shields have some merit, but on the whole I am inclined to call them a fraud. They soothe and vitalize the nerves, put new life into the blood, warm cold feet, build up the debilitated and consumptive, create a row among the old sinners in the constitution, and keep stirring them until they either open a way of escape, or commit suicide. Telescope, pain, neuralgia and rheumatism have no combat, nor a weak man vigorous and sassy, and cure family sparrels where they originate in bad blood or depraved nerves; but they don't mend cork legs nor glass eyes, nor cure warts or an evil temper. They should be a specific for total depravity, a collosium, and especially for debilitated pocketbooks. Here is where they fail. If you can improve them so that you can guarantee a perfect cure for financial ills, consumptive bank accounts and religious hydrophobia, your fortune is made. Then, as your best advertising card, I would advise you to cover the Brooklyn Tabernacle and its pastor, and if you cure him you need waste no more printer's ink. Yours for health,

LYMAN C. HOWE,
Fredonia, N. Y.

CHICAGO MAGNETIC SHIELD COMPANY,
No. 6 Central Music Hall, Chicago, Ill.
Ap21 11w*

Dr. Gunn's Magnetic Compound,

FOR ATONY and GENERAL Debility. A finely-flavored stimulant. A mild astringent and demulcent. A wholesome, strengthening and invigorating temperance beverage. It contains no poisonous or nauseous drugs, nor alcohol. It cures by strengthening the physical and nervous system, enabling it to throw off disease by your own engendered magnetism. Respectfully recommended for weakness of any kind, to either sex. It gives relief in three days. Try it, and be convinced of its merits. One box will make one quart of Tonic Bitters; no sediment. Price $1,00; sent free by mail. Address F. T. BAILEY, Proprietor, No. 1225 Guilford Avenue, Baltimore, Md. Je9

MRS. WEBB,

Astrologer and Life-Reader,

FROM 154 West 22d street, New York City, will remain at No. 79 Rutland street, Boston, until June 23d, only. Terms $2,00; Business Life written, five years, $5,00; Ten years, $10,00; Full Life, $25,00. 3w Je9

Advertise in The Onset Hymns.

THE only advertising medium which is allowed to be circulated in the audience. No choir—congregational singing. This publication contains all the words sung, and is distributed free to all. Send stamps for sample copy and advertising rates. FACTS PUBLISHING CO.,
Drawer 5323, Boston, Mass.

ONSET BAY.

TO LET, for the season, a Furnished Cottage of 6 Rooms. Pleasantly located. Apply to E. Y. JOHNSON, Headquarters Building, Treasurer's Office, Onset. Je9

FOR SALE OR TO LET,

COTTAGE of six rooms, at Lake Pleasant. Address MRS. M. V. LINCOLN, 5 Cliff street, Roxbury, Mass. Je9 1w*

FOR SALE OR TO LET,

LARGE House on Broadway, opposite the Park, Lake Pleasant. Apply to MRS. SARAH E. STONE, Everett, Mass. 1w* Je9

DR. J. C. STREET,

78 Montgomery street, Boston, Mass.
Ap7 tf

SEND LOCK OF HAIR and $1,00—have your disease fully diagnosed by the best Healing Medium in the United States. Also six questions answered for 50 cents and stamp. Address MRS. INEZ SILLOWAY, 86 McDougal street, New York City. Je9

TO LET.—One of the nicest Cottages on Montague street, Lake Pleasant; nearly furnished; just painted and repaired. Price for season—June 15th to Oct. 15th—$50,00, in advance. O. M. PARKER, 40 Elm street, Charlestown, Mass. 1w* Je9

MRS. M. E. WALKER, Test and Business Medium. Hours 10 to 4. Sittings by appointment. Terms $1,00. 1469 Washington street, Boston. 2w* Je9

LOVE FOR LIQUOR CURED. Secret free. Address A. WILLIS, Parkville, L. I., N. Y. 18t4w* Je9

NEW EDITION.

Within the Vail;

OR,

KEYS TO THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN.

Spiritual Teachings delivered through the mediumship of W. J. COLVILLE, at the residence of Lady Caithness, Duchesse de Pomar, Paris, July, 1885.

THEOSOPHY AND SPIRITUALISM: Their True Relations to Each Other.

FURTHER THOUGHTS ON IMMORTALITY: To What Extent is Man a Free Agent? A Spiritual View of the Resurrection.

With Answers to Questions and Impromptu Poems.

Price 15 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

POEMS OF THE LIFE BEYOND AND WITHIN. Edited and compiled by GILES B. STEBBINS. These Poems are gathered from ancient Hindostan, from Persia and Arabia, from Greece, Rome and Northern Europe, from Catholic and Protestant hymns, the great poets of Europe and our own land, and close with inspired voices from the spirit-land. Whatever seemed best to illustrate and express the vision of the spirit catching glimpses of the future, and the wealth of the spiritual life within, has been used. Here are the intuitive statements of immortality in words full of sweetness and glory, full, too, of a divine philosophy.

Cloth. 270 pages, 12mo. Plain, $1,50, postage free.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

PHILOSOPHY OF CREATION, Unfolding the Laws of the Progressive Development of Nature, and embracing the Philosophy of Man, Spirit, and the Spirit-World. By Thomas Paine, through the hand of H. G. WOOD, medium.

Paper, 25 cents. Cloth, 50 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

OBESITY.

People burdened with flesh are often envied by those who are thin, but it is full time that the dangers attending a fat condition should be known.

Undue Fat diminishes labor power, which is a serious evil. Undue Fat makes people tired when they should be strong in life's splendid prime. Fatty Degeneration attacks the vital organs—a secret foe in the citadel—and opens the doors for Heart Difficulties, Pneumonia, Kidney Disease, Nervous Exhaustion, Apoplexy, and a troop of ills to enter in.

To remedy this condition is not merely to prolong our earth-life, but it is to fit women and men to live up to the full grand measure of their powers—making their mark upon the age.

To remove Fat safely, without impairing the strength or injuring the system by the use of Drugs, is to effect a permanent cure.

Dr. Edith Hale presents to the consideration of the corpulent an Obesity Cure which fulfills these conditions; it causes the strength to increase as the fat decreases; mental vigor, a sense of capacity to think and act, greater freedom and ease of motion, power to walk, or go up and down stairs without fatigue or being out of breath, are among the first noticeable results; next, slowly but surely, follows a lessening of size, the figure improves, and the complexion clears as the blood is purified.

Obesity Cure is a new discovery, a new combination of remedial herbs, which positively induces a natural renovation of the system and restores the normal action of all the vital functions, including the action of the Trophic Nerves (nerves of nutrition). Its use does NOT induce wrinkles, and its effect is strictly beneficial to the general health. It is pleasant to the taste and will steadily reduce the flesh. Treatise sent upon application.

To those who have hitherto known Edith Hale, M. D., only as a Specialist in Cancer and Chronic Diseases, Dr. Hale begs to say that the cure of Obesity is in direct line with her studies and research commenced twenty years since in College and Hospital—in lecture room and at dissecting table. To these earlier advantages have been added special opportunities to acquire the latest Foreign Methods of curing disease by Absorption and by recourse to natural, non-poisonous agents, including new Internal Foods, Magnetic Pads and Magnetized Remedies.

Consultation free in all chronic complaints.

Respectfully,

EDITH HALE, M. D.,

(Pupil of Dr. John Gordon of London, and Prof. Carl Eberle of Germany

Office 377 Columbus Avenue,
Boston, Mass.

OFFICE HOURS 11 A. M. to 5 P. M., 7 to 8 evening.
My26 18t3w*

SUBSCRIBE

FOR THE

BANNER OF LIGHT,

THE BEST

Family Paper

In the World!

It contains Original Essays; Original Stories Verbatim Reports of Grand Lectures; Answers to Questions by Invisible Intelligences of the Greatest Interest to the World at Large; Characteristic Messages from Deceased Individuals to their Friends and Relatives in the Earth-Life; Editorials on a Great Variety of Subjects; Current Events; Highly Interesting Correspondence from all over the Country, Etc., Etc.

Our Premium List,

Which entitles each Subscriber to an Interesting Book or a Fine Engraving,

Is also a Strong Inducement for the People to Subscribe.

☞ AS THE BANNER is sold at nearly all the Periodical Depots in the United States, and has a wide circulation in foreign countries, it is a capital avenue through which merchants and others can reach customers. REMEMBER THIS FACT!

Mrs. M. M. King's Works.

The Principles of Nature.

As discovered in the Development and Structure of the Universe; The Solar System, Laws and Methods of its Development; Earth, History of its Development; Exposition of the Spiritual Universe.

Vol. I, price $1,50; Vol. II, $1,50; Vol. III, $1,50. The three volumes to one address, $4,00, postage 12 cents per volume.

Real Life in the Spirit-Land.

Being Life-Experiences, Scenes, Incidents and Conditions, Illustrative of Spirit-Life, and the Principles of the Spiritual Philosophy.

Price 75 cents, postage 10 cents.

The Spiritual Philosophy vs. Diabolism.

Two Lectures. A positive and able argument against the theory of evil spirits, and their influence in producing discordant manifestations through mediums.

Price 25 cents, postage free.

What is Spiritualism? and Shall Spiritualists have a Creed?

Two Lectures. These discourses admirably present the fundamental principles of Spiritualism, as discerned by the author, with an argument for the organization of Spiritualists to advocate and develop them.

Price 25 cents, postage free.

The Brotherhood of Man, and what follows from it.

In two lectures, which treat of Man the agent of the Diety on every plane of Life, to supervise and forward nature's work; Original Number of Races of Men, and Where Appeared; Grades of Men a Necessity by Nature's Law of Coöperation of Forces for the Maintenance of Life, etc.

Price 25 cents, postage free.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

In Re Dr. Talmage.

A Synopsis of a Discourse by the Guides of

MRS. R. S. LILLIE,

Delivered in Berkeley Hall, Boston, Sunday Morning, May 6th, 1888, in Answer to the Recent Attack on Modern Spiritualism by Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., of Brooklyn.

Also Excerpts from a Letter by "Eleanor Kirk."

The above have been published by COLBY & RICH in four-page tract form, and should be extensively circulated.

Price by mail, 5 copies 5 cents; 15 do., 10c.; 30 do., 15c.

YOUR ANSWER OR YOUR LIFE;

OR,

The Riddle Propounded by the American Sphinx.

BY MOSES HULL.

An intensely interesting statement of the dangers which threaten our Republic and civilization.

Mr. Hull says, in his preface: "There is little that is original in this book; I have striven simply to point out some of the dangers we are under, and to signify the way of escape."

Pamphlet, 12mo, pp. 100, with portrait of author. Price 25 cents; postage 3 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM According to the Holy Men of Old. By the author of, "Samson, a Myth-Story of the Sun."

We are much indebted to Prof. Max Müller, Rev. G. W. Cox, Dr. Inman, and many others, for furnishing us with the keys to open the secret chambers of the ancient kingdom of heaven, and for supplying us with their labor-saving machinery for doing the Word as clothed upon by them of old time.

Vol. 1, 30 cents, postage free. Vol. 2, 30 cents, postage free.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Message Department.

Spiritual Free-Circle Meetings

Are held at the BANNER OF LIGHT OFFICE, 9 Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), on TUESDAY and FRIDAY AFTERNOON of each week.

On Tuesday afternoon MISS M. T. SHELHAMER occupies the platform for the purpose of answering by her spirit guides such questions as may be introduced for consideration.

On Friday afternoon MRS. B. F. SMITH, under the influence of her guides, will afford an avenue through which individual spirit messages will be given.

The Hall (which is used only for these séances) will be open at 2 o'clock; the services commence at 3 o'clock precisely, at which time the doors will be closed, allowing no ingress or egress. The public is cordially invited.

☞ Persons having questions of practical bearing upon human life in any of its departments of thought and labor, which they would like answered by the spirit-world intelligences, may send them to THE BANNER OF LIGHT office by mail, or hand them to the Chairman of the Circle, who will present them to the spirits for consideration.

☞ The Messages published in this Department indicate that spirits carry with them the characteristics of their earth-life to that beyond—whether for good or evil; that those who pass from the earthly sphere in an undeveloped state, eventually progress to higher conditions. We ask the reader to receive no doctrine put forth by spirits in these columns that does not comport with his or her reason. All express as much of truth as they perceive—no more.

☞ It is our earnest desire that those who recognize the messages of their spirit-friends will verify them by informing us of the fact for publication.

☞ Natural flowers upon our Circle-Room table are gratefully appreciated by our angel visitants, therefore we solicit donations of such from the friends in earth-life who may feel that it is a pleasure to place upon the altar of Spirituality their floral offerings.

☞ Letters of inquiry in regard to this Department of THE BANNER must not be addressed to the mediums in any case. LEWIS B. WILSON, Chairman.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED,

THROUGH THE MEDIUMSHIP OF

Miss M. T. Shelhamer.

Report of Public Séance held April 10th, 1888.

Spirit Invocation.

We lift up our souls to thee, oh! our Father God, in thankful praise for the blessings that are ours. We thank thee for the beautiful things in life which thou hast freely bestowed upon thy children. We praise thee for the sunbeams, and for the shadows which fall more obliquely on our lives, for they also bring their lessons and teach by experience something which thou wouldst have us learn from day to day. We return our thanks for the lovely blossoms on every hand, sending forth their perfume and beauty on the atmosphere, teaching a lesson of peace and of purity.

Our Father God, may we feel something of human and divine sympathy entering into our lives and spreading forth unto others; and may we come into the atmosphere of angel hearts who are seeking to do thy will and to send forth unto the world some inspiration, some uplifting thought and kindly sympathy which shall bless and benefit all whom it may reach.

Oh! ye bright and beautiful angels from on high, we bid you welcome; we give you our strength and our kindly affection, and we would receive from you, in return, something of your love and your peace, which shall in turn strengthen and benefit our own hearts. We ask the blessing of the angel world and of the Divine Spirit of all Love and Peace, now and forevermore, to rest upon mankind, leading all upward, out of the shadows and into the sunlight of perfect day. Amen.

Questions and Answers.

CONTROLLING SPIRIT.—We will now consider your questions, Mr. Chairman.

QUES.—[By Mrs. J. L. K. Haner.] How does the Spiritual Philosophy accept Christ and explain the second birth?

ANS.—The Spiritual Philosophy accepts Christ as the principle of love, peace and goodwill to man, separates Christ, the principle, from Jesus the man, the child of humanity; although the Spiritual Philosophy accepts the fact that the principle of love, peace and goodwill was, to an extent, exemplified in the life of the Nazarene. Jesus, the human being of humble birth, sorely tried and tempted, yet in spite of physical limitations and material conditions rising above temptation, and sending forth an influence of peace and of sympathy to suffering mankind, was, so we are taught, a sensitive instrument, through which the harmonies of the spheres found an echo in external life. Considering the surroundings of the time, taking into consideration the age in which he lived, the narrow ignorance of priestcraft and of autocracy, we can only marvel that the child, and afterward the man, reflected as faithfully as he did the harmony and the lofty spiritual instruction of the higher life. Realizing that he did so, we are glad to accept the explanation that in him was wrought out largely something of the Christ-principle of love and good will, which has rung through all the ages, ever appealing to the heart of man, and calling him up to a better, a more ennobling life. This is taught to us through the spiritual philosophy of life, and by the code of moral ethics which Spiritualism ever endeavors to outline to mortal minds. Christ we accept as a living principle, which may be embodied in every human life that is aspirational, ever seeking for good, trying to elevate itself above the dust, the heat and the turmoil of purely external things and to the plane of spiritual life and ethics. Christ is the principle of universal love and harmony, which will in time be recognized and we trust accepted by all thinking, intelligent people.

We do not confine our idea of the second birth to the life, duty and destiny of any one individual, for we believe that mankind passes through a succession of births. This has been explained in two ways by advancing spirits, certain of whom declare that every human intelligence passes through the second birth when he comes into a full realization of life and its duties, passes through the travail of darkness and ignorance into the light and land of knowledge and of truth, and they tell us that the idea of a second birth has been given forth merely in a parable, to teach mankind of that which is within.

Again, on the other hand, we are told by certain students in the spirit-world that the second birth relates entirely to the passage of the spirit through matter out into the spiritual realm at large, and that man experiences this second birth when, after yielding up all that the material has held for him, withdrawing himself from the physical atmosphere and from the mortal condition, he enters into the land of souls, where he may take up a new experience, a higher elevation of thought and effort. For ourself we accept this idea of the second birth, but we do not confine our thought to this, that the immortal spirit passes only through two births, the material experience on earth, when he enters the form of a little child to take up a mortal discipline, and when he passes from the mortal form to the higher realm of spiritual life; for we believe that man continually passes on, reaping experience, gaining discipline, expanding in knowledge and unfolding in power and achievement. When from each plane of existence he has gained all that it can possibly afford him, he passes on through a higher birth, a grander change, to enter upon more elevated planes of thought and effort, in order to reap grander experiences and higher expansion of soul.

Q.—[By the same.] We have read that the animals of spirit-life are independent of and in no way connected with those of earth-life, but a spiritual counterpart. Can you give any light as to their existence and origin?

A.—So far as we have learned, studied and observed the subject of this question, we must reply according to our own knowledge. We believe that the animal life found in various localities of the spirit-world has gained its force, and even its existence we might say, from the animal life of this planet; that the vital force constituting the soul-power of each form of animal life in the other world has passed on from some form of animal existence on the earth; and that, accordingly, the phase of life for the animal in that spirit-world which is adjacent to this planet, is similarly gained as is that of the human. For instance: man passes through his experience on earth, finds his vital forces loosening their hold upon the material body, discovers that the physical organs are passing into decay, and he is obliged to yield up his hold upon them, and then, after the change called death, he finds himself in another body, located in another world, although he may be passing through experiences somewhat similar to those which he derived from his existence on earth. So with the forms of animal life found in the spirit-world: the vital force illuminating them once illuminated other forms on this planet, held control of those forms, operated through them, vitalized the physical organs as long as possible, and then were withdrawn to enter into other forms of animal life more developed, more fully matured and unfolded in power and in symmetry of organism, perhaps, than those which were accepted and utilized on this lower plane of life.

We again reiterate that every form of animal life which has existed on this planet does not exist in the spirit-world. You have had, during the past ages, forms of animal life on earth which have held their place, done their work, and have passed on, becoming extinct, so far as the variety of species has gone, and have been merged into other forms or types of animal existence, forms and types more fully adapted to find a footing and place upon the planet. Many of those forms of animal life, it seems to us, were the natural outgrowth and development of the times, of the conditions of the planet, and they were formed organically from the emanations of the earth, and were calculated to perform a certain work, this work being to absorb much of the poisonous atmosphere, many of the deleterious elements arising from the planet in its development. We believe that these forms of animal life created from this effluvia were vitalized by a ray of light or a current of power from the great soul-life of all existence, and that when their work was accomplished, their duty fulfilled, this ray of light, this current of power, was withdrawn from those forms, and the organic bodies passed into oblivion, their elements being taken up into other forms and recombined in other substances from the atmosphere and the earth for future work. Such forms as these, we maintain, do not exist in the spirit-world.

There are many conditions of animal as well as vegetable life on earth which are not necessary in the great scheme of existence of other planets, or even in that of the spiritual world connected with this planet earth, and consequently they are not to be found there; those which are found are of the highest type both of animal and vegetable unfoldment, and in accordance with the general plan of existence and with the natural growth of the spirit-world.

Q.—What order of mediumship is planchette writing?

A.—That of so-called mechanical writing. A medium whose hand and arm may be strongly influenced by an invisible intelligence and made to trace by the pencil unknown characters and words, not impressed upon the mediumistic brain, can surely, under proper guidance from the other world, develop that sort of mediumship manifested through the use of the planchette. Very many containing within their organisms this element of mediumship do not suspect the power which belongs to them, and so sometimes take up the little wooden instrument merely as a matter of curiosity, or the work of an idle moment, wishing to discover if it is possible for a little wooden machine to move and trace intelligible characters upon a slip of paper; thus the interest of such is aroused, they begin to experiment with the planchette, and in giving time, patience and perseverance to the work, finally realize that they are receiving from it something of importance, something that is intelligent, and by-and-by e they begin to receive communications, written by the little pencil moved by planchette. These various parties are writing mediums, possessing a certain amount of physical and psychical force, which may be utilized by attendant spirits, and thus the arm or the machine may be used in giving forth the thought and the sentences which invisible but active intelligent brains formulate.

This physical force of which we speak in the case of the planchette is directed through the organism, and especially through the arm of the medium, and brought to bear upon the tiny instrument. You may call it electrical force if you will, and not be far astray in your thought, for we affirm that vital force, whether of the atmosphere, of the physical universe, or conserved within the organic frame of mankind, is electrical power; that it may be made intelligent, and may be utilized by active brains to give forth instruction, words of cheer or consolation, as the case may be, according to the will of the intelligent operators.

Those who find themselves in possession of that power which will move planchette, be it ever so little at first, will do well to attend to it—give time and patience to its development—for by so doing the power will increase, and by and-bye the instrument will move, tracing forth that which may be provided of instruction to those who behold it; and still later, the arm of the medium may be used independently of the planchette, and made to trace forth characters of light and instruction to those who desire to receive them.

Q.—Is the phenomenon known as independent slate-writing more exhaustive to a medium than that of full form materialization?

A.—Decidedly not. The vital force necessary for the production of independent slate-writing is undoubtedly the same in kind as is necessary for the production of materialized forms, but it does not take the same amount of power to produce a written communication, even within the folds of a closed slate, that it does to build up an extemporized human form and send it forth for the inspection of mortal eyes. From our observation we are safe in declaring that the force utilized in the presence of a genuine materializing medium must of necessity exhaust, to a great extent, the human instrument employed. Every individual generates within and around himself a certain amount of nervous force, of physical magnetism, which covers the person as an envelope, protecting him from the encroachments and shafts of other individualities, other magnetisms.

Now, friends, a certain quantity of this magnetic aura is required for the support and health of the individual who generates it. There may be a surplus, and this surplus may be used by attendant spirits in making manifestations in outward life. So far as the utilization of the surplus goes, it will be well for the attendant spirits to operate, for this will not exhaust their medium; but just as soon as they begin to draw upon that supply necessary for his own health and comfort, just so rapidly will they prostrate the physical, and perhaps the mental powers of their mediumistic instrument. Let it be understood that no individual gives forth such a vast quantity of surplus magnetism as to warrant any spirit or spirit-band in producing a large number of materialized forms, for their own amusement or purposes, or for that of the public at large; for by making any such demonstration of power, if the work be genuine and really that of the spirits and the mediumistic instrument, they will most assuredly exhaust their instrument, and lay up for him, in the future, years of debility and of suffering, even if they do not deprive him of those years of life on earth which he has a right to expect for his own experience.

On the other hand, let us not forget that it is sometimes the work of operating spirits at a materializing séance to make use of such material as they have at hand, drawing their supply, as far as they can, from their medium, without prostrating his own powers, and making up that which they need from the magnetic aura of those persons present whom they have invited or permitted to enter. It is possible that under skillful manipulation a combination of spirit attendants of such a circle will be enabled to do much useful work, and to demonstrate beyond all cavil or suspicion the fact that they have materialized forms in outward life, showing the power of spirit over matter and over mundane things.

In relation to the question, Mr. Chairman, of independent slate-writing, spirit attendants make use of that same vital force which may exist in surplus within their mortal instrument; directing their own powers of observation and will upon the instrument, they guide this vital current through his organism, out upon the slate, thus producing by their own skillful manipulations characters and words which are revealed to mortal inspection. A band of skilled spirit operators, understanding their work and the powers of their instrument, will not exhaust his vitality, but will produce just that amount of labor and just those results which they find efficient in drawing the attention of the world to their phenomena, and in producing evidences of immortal thought and immortal life, in their own peculiar way, but they will not deplete their medium of his strength to such an extent as to prostrate his powers, or in any way to injure his life.

Q.—Was the anniversary of the advent of the present open communion between the inhabitants of earth and those of the spirit-world—the 31st of March—celebrated in the last-mentioned sphere of life? If so, in what manner?

A.—The 31st of March is a date dear to the hearts of millions of spirits resident in worlds unseen by mortal eyes; therefore when that date returns, and you of earth who have been blessed by the ministration and inspiration of unseen spiritual friends and guides meet to observe its return in your own harmonious way, there are millions of spirits, also, who meet in association, observing the occurrences and the date in their own familiar way. But these bands of spirits do not all observe the occasion alike; there are many who meet together on the 31st of March, in their spiritual localities, to exchange greetings, to give accounts of their doings during the past year, to outline work and thought for the future, and in other ways to enter a harmonious plane of spirit for helpful associative purposes.

Again, there were thousands of the residents of spirit-life, who did not observe the date and the occasion in their own spiritual localities, but who returned to earth, entering into communion with those on this plane who also observed the occasion, bringing their magnetic influences to inspire and to uplift their friends and fellow-workers on earth, and sending out a wide atmosphere of spiritual magnetism for the uplifting of humanity as well as for future work.

In various localities of spirit-life there were meetings of a social nature, others having largely a religious tendency, aiming at the elevation of the thought and the soul-life of man, looking toward that day when right living and religious service will be held in every heart, and laying plans for outlining work toward that end. It would be impossible for us to enter into a minute delineation of the various exercises that were held in spirit-life by those humanitarian spirits who desire to bless mankind; they were all for some special work, all looking toward some useful end.

We have seen spirits, on the 31st of March, enter into solemn convocation together, unrolling before each other the records of the year past, revealing the attempts they have made to assist humanity and to do good work, and the failures that have come to them, also outlining plans of work which they intend to do during the next twelve months, and so on. These spirits are earnest in thought and zealous by nature, and they send out their influence all over the world, into the homes and the hearts of mankind, touching individuals here with their own electrical fire, hoping thus to arouse them to a higher consideration of their own surroundings and of their own needs, calling humanity up to a thought, a conviction of that which is beyond the temporal, which is more lasting than the material things of time.

Rest assured, friends, that the thirty-first of March is a date dear to the spirit-world, just as the twenty-fifth of December is held in sacred reverence all over this earth, and observed with various pleasing exercises by millions of human hearts; so in the spirit-world, that date of which we speak, March 31st, is looked upon as the date when the heavens were opened, and there were revealed to mankind on earth glimpses and revelations of the life beyond, signs and tokens of immortality; and therefore while there are hearts in the spirit-world that feel fond ties drawing them to earth, that hold an interest in human things on this planet and in human life, there must be a reverence, so to speak, an interest in and a love for that date which brought to earth revelations of the beyond, and also gave to the spirit-world an opportunity to reach its friends on earth and to bless them with uplifting thought and high inspiration.

Lotela, the Indian Maiden.

How do, Wilson brave? Lotela glad to see everybody. Lotela like to thank the good people for the bright flowers; and not only Lotela but all the band of spirits that come here to day, for they look on the flowers and it make 'em feel brighter and happier.

I want to make a little speech, Wilson brave. Lotela is n't a speech-maker. Going to make one this time—going to learn. Lotela does n't come to the places where it has been claimed she does in materialized form. Want to say this right out straight, Wilson brave, because there 's a good deal of confusion about it. In two or three places it has been claimed that Lotela comes most every day and materializes—stands out and makes herself seen. But I don't, and I don't want to, because I 've got other work to do. Lotela is n't drawn into that department at all. Pierpont chief says if Lotela did she could n't do the work she has specially been trained to do. You see, Wilson brave, if Lotela went to those places every day or two and took part in what is going on, why then she would be what you call a cabinet spirit, and her work would be in just such places. That is n't my work at all. There is a heap of spirits can do it, and it 's all right for them, if they want to. Lotela has got work to do here with the band. Sometimes she has to go way off to different parts of the country to carry magnetic forces to the poor people that are in need of spiritual strength: sometimes it is physical magnetism, sometimes it is spiritual strength or magnetism, and Lotela does it under the direction of a large spirit band that have it in charge; so I don't go to do any work except what these spirits tell Lotela to do.

Lotela 's going to see about the poor squaw in Brooklyn that has called for her and some Indian forces to help her out of the trouble she 'd got into. I 'm going right off. I know where to go. It looks to Lotela as though we would be able to bring a strong magnetic force to overcome the other influences and straighten them out, help the squaw and the others along.

I want to tell you about the spirits now here:

Mary Rives.

There 's a squaw here who says she has been trying a long time to reach her friends; they are way down in the South, and understand very little of spirit-return. She says there has been once or twice a little interest manifested in the locality where her friends live, but it has hardly reached them, and they have not aroused themselves to a thought of it, but it has come to her in the spirit-world, drawing her back, with the hope that she might reach those whom she loves, and give them a knowledge of her life in the other world. She sends her love to her sister, whom she calls Julia, and says: "Tell my dear sister, who lives in Augusta, Ga., that I am sometimes permitted to reach her life and give her an influence from my spirit-home. I have met our dear friends on the other side, have been reunited to mother and father and other loved ones whom we mourned as lost, and did not realize whither they had gone; but they are all safe in our Father's kingdom. I am permitted to dwell with them when my duties here in connection with you and others allow me to leave this atmosphere. I wish also to say that my sister's darling boy, Johnnie, is safe and happy in the spirit-world. She must not grieve for him, because he is so tenderly cared for. Some day, when she is called from earth, she will join him, with the other dear ones who have gone before." This spirit gives the name of Mary Rives.

Mehitable Shaw.

Here 's another spirit, who calls herself Mehitable Shaw. She has two brothers in Chicago. She did n't live there. Her brothers are engaged in the same business, and work together. She wants to send her love to them. One of them has been thinking of leaving where he is and going back to the place where he lived in his younger days. This spirit hopes he will; she thinks there are duties calling him to do so. She says he may not be as well situated, and he may sometimes feel that he has given up better prospects; but when he considers the claim others have on him, and how much he will be doing for those that can't do for themselves, she feels that the sacrifice will make him happy. The spirit was told if she came here and said a few words her people would see her letter and understand it. She holds up a wreath of flowers, one half made of purple pansies and the other half of white flowers. It will be understood; it was a floral mourning wreath.

Horace Bond.

A brave comes up to the Day squaw and puts his hand upon her head. He seems to be very much drawn to her, and feels as though he would like to give his love to her and to the dear ones that are here, especially the young brave who is interested in her; and it comes to Lotela that he is looking after him, and trying to open out something for him in the near future that will be of more practical benefit to him than what he has had in the past. I get the name of Horace Bond.

This spirit thinks a heap of your people. If he do n't make himself known, you must n't think he 's gone away off, or is sound asleep; he is n't, he 's wide awake, and looking after things.

Amelia, to Mary.

A spirit comes to a lady down in the council-room. She don't come very close: "Dear friend—I would say more than friend, dear sister—I have seen you in your perplexities during the last few weeks, and tried to help you the best I could. Oh! I have longed for power to make myself known and to do something to remove the obstacles in your way. Sometimes I have chafed against the conditions which prevented me from doing this, but again I have been restrained by a higher power which whispered to me not to fear, for the burden shall be rolled away and the path made straight when the time comes for your dear one to step onward and do that work which is surely spreading out before her. I had hoped you would come to some such place as this, not so much for any word you might hear as for the magnetic influence which your spirit-friends might bring to you, they finding opportunities to do that in such places, when they might not in your home-life surroundings. I bring you greeting and love from many dear friends in the unseen world; rest your faith in them, for they will not desert you; they will give you strength in weakness and light when darkness falls." This is, I think, for Mary, and I get the name of Amelia from the spirit-world.

Charles Watson.

A man stands here who calls himself Charles Watson. He has been attracted to-day by some one in the audience. He says that he did n't think of speaking in such a place as this, but if the chance is given him to say a word or two he will be glad to take it. He wants to send greetings and regards to his friends, and tell them he is not by any means destroyed in body or mind. He finds himself with a body as sound and even better than the one he cast off, and as for his mind, he thinks he can do as much work with that—and perhaps a little more—as he could in the old days. I don't think this spirit lived in Boston; he seems to belong away from here. He says he has been trying to experiment with some mediums to make himself known, and he expects to do so, and is going to try to here in this city, because he has been told that there is power here which he can make use of and learn how to come, and in that way by-and-bye reach more directly the people he has left on earth.

SPIRIT MESSAGES,

THROUGH THE TRANCE MEDIUMSHIP OF

Mrs. B. F. Smith.

Report of Public Séance held March 30th, 1888—Continued from last issue.

Charles Wetherbee.

I am Charles Wetherbee of Belmont, Me. This is about the seventeenth time I have tried to make my voice heard; I have failed every time before, but you know what used to be said, if you don't try you won't accomplish anything. Aunt Hannah, open the door a little further than one inch, because we can hardly get through with so little room. Uncle William has spoken, therefore I thought I 'd make an attempt to day. I would like them to know we are only a step from them—so near, and still they do not know it. I want to ask them to sit by themselves and see if they can't get some manifestations from the immortals, for we come to them often, and not empty handed, but bringing blessings from the spirit-side to each one. I well remember uncle William said: "Try, dear boy, and I feel they will be happier to know you can come into communication with them."

Samuel Frost.

You may place me as Samuel Frost of Effingham, N. H. I also have been trying for a long time to come into communication in this way, although I have at different times communicated partially with two of the family.

I want to say to Jerry and Lizzie that I would not dispose of the farm—but I am not going to talk all business. I would like Samuel and Jennie to know I hold an interest yet, and I would like the people of Effingham Falls to know that Sam Frost aint dead, by any means. I would also like them to know I have been cognizant of what has been going on since I passed out of the mortal. Jennie, your mother is with me to-day, and grandmother also. Although you have come under many clouds it won't always be quite so dark. You will well understand my meaning. I have seen, also, as I have come into the old home, a little feeling in regard to keeping the farm, but will speak more plainly to you if I can come privately, for I 'd a little rather.

Polly Witham.

Will you please, Mr. Chairman, write my name as Polly Witham, of Garland, Me.? although to-day I come from what they term the spirit-world. Oh, how near! only a veil that swings between.

Sarah, I did want so much to speak when Joseph was here. I could not do it that day, but with the kind help of others I am able to do it to-day. I feel so happy in my spirit-home! I am only waiting for the others to join me. Father sends greeting, too—each one wishes to be remembered.

[Aside:] Yes, Josie, I will tell mother you are here. And then Sarah will ask where the rest of the children are. We are not together, dear child, all the time; part of the time we separate, as you do in the mortal, according to the dictation of the spirit. Sarah, many trials have come to you since they said mother was dead. Cruel word, death! We have only commenced to live. I know some days it seems a little cloudy with you and the dear children, but look a little higher when the clouds come, and say: We know, dear ones, that you often come to help us. We feel we cannot work more with the hands, but we work continually with the spirit. I thank the dear Father in heaven that he has given me one of the mansions he has promised his children; and we are all God's children. But, my child, it is the life you live here that builds your home yonder, just back of the veil that hides us from you.

Freddie Wood.

My name is Freddie Wood. Grandma is here, and she told me if this gentleman would allow me to speak I might. I lived in Chelsea, Mass. Father's name is Robert; mother's is Elizabeth. I have n't been gone long, and I came right back again the same day and saw everything they did. They had some flowers, but not just like these you have here. I want them to know I did n't die at all, I only went where grandma was, and so many pretty ladies came around me and said, "Come, and we 'll show you some beautiful flowers; and there are children here." I was n't afraid; when they spoke so kindly to me I knew there could n't be anything wrong.

I did n't know whether you would allow little boys to speak; I was only seven years old, but I 'll be more by-and-bye—as grandma says, I 'll grow to be a man on the spirit-side. We do n't call it so, we call it the summer-land, and it is so nice where I am.

I hope you 'll send this letter right over to Chelsea. I don't want them to be thinking Freddie is dead all the time! And mother cries; but if she knew I was so near and alive, she would n't cry; of course not. I 'm going to make her know I come home.

Hermann Metzmer.

I like to send von vord to mein vife. I vas in Brooklyn, N. Y. I vas von German. I vants Lena to know I aint dead. I vants her to know I got de kinders mit me. Dass vat you calls children. I vants her to know Karl is here, and Karlina, too, and grossfader and grossmuder.

I vants dem to know Fritz, vat you call Fred. Vill you send dis letter to day, so 's mein Pauline can get it? She dinks I vent down in de dark vater. I don't go dere at all. I vants her to know Hermann is all big alive, again, and I have been across de vater to Germany, I finds all in heaps o' trouble dere, and I go right away again.

Ephraim Chase.

I want to say a few words, if you please, if I don't get too nervous. They called me a very nervous man when in the form. I hail from Salem, N. H.—not just now, but that was my home. My name is Ephraim Chase. I want to say to them all I am going to do something else beside talk, for I see I can't reach Wick by just sending a word now and then.

Agatha is with me, and Morton, who has just stepped into spirit-life, and Alma, who has been an inhabitant here for—as near as she can reckon—thirty years. I said to her, on meeting her on the spirit-side: "Alma, you must have been a very poor scholar if you have n't learned a great deal since you crossed over."

I went away very suddenly, but I waited to know if there was a reality in spirit-return. While in the mortal I could not say I did not give it much thought, for I did, like a great many others, rather silently lock the door, for fear somebody would ask me to explain, when I knew I could not—the same as Charles is doing to-day.

Now, boys, open the door and learn a little while in this life. You little know how much benefit it will do you as you cross the portal, for there is but one thing that admits of no doubt, and that is the change called death; you cannot escape from it; it is sure to come to you all, the rich and the poor, the high and the low, all must meet with this change.

I speak a word for Morton. He says: "Tell them I was happily disappointed; I have found the spirit-life more beautiful than I can describe to them." He has just crossed the portal, but feels anxiety, as he comes to earth, for wife and children. He says: "Melvina, talk with us when you can, and also each one of you. In a little while mother will come to join the happy number. Father says often, as we have come to earth, that he has seen the threads breaking one by one that have held mother here."

I am happy in the spirit-life. I would say to Etta and Agatha—(the one in the mortal that has taken the place of the mother)—I often come to them, but they little understand my coming. I ask them to open the door.

Warwick, when you promise to come and talk with us I think you 'd better keep your promise, for we do n't like to be disappointed any more than you would if a man agreed to take a box of eggs and did n't take it.

Mary Cutter Clement.

My name is Mary Cutter Clement, and my home was in Keene, N. H. I have often tried to speak in your meetings, for it is a place where we love to come, and I thank you all in the mortal for the privileges we enjoy here. John is with me to-day—my husband—and he tells the same story; he has tried many times to speak here. My home was formerly in Jaffrey, N. H., and my maiden name Mary Cutter. I am more than pleased to know we are all welcome in your meetings. I thank the guides to-day for the help which they have given out to us, enabling us to speak a few words, that mortals may know there is no death. Oh! open your doors wide in the mortal, and learn a little here. The greatest disappointments we get are when we enter earthly surroundings to find your doors closed so tightly. Think, for one moment—would a mother close the door upon her child if she knew when it came to her? As we have said before, how glad we are! Each tells the same old story: glad to come into communication with you here. I may not be privileged to have a conversation with the loved ones in the mortal, therefore I have been strongly attracted here that they might know I live and am able to make myself known.

I thank you, Mr. Chairman. May the angels bless you and yours for what you have been instrumental in doing for the angel-world.

Emma Jane Cranville.

My name is Emma Jane Cranville, of Brooklyn, N. Y. I have tried before, and now, finding the door wide open, I thought I would speak a word. I have felt disappointed so many times when I have tried to make myself known, for Willie has often asked, why do n't mother come with the rest of those people who write their names? Willie, mother watches over you in heaven, and always will, and when they come to bear you up higher, mother will be there with outstretched arms to take you to her own bosom again. We often come in the stilly hours of the night, and, my darling children, remember mother is but a step from you. Do right. Be careful and do right in this life, for you are building your homes there every day. Willie, do right, mother says again, and I will ask the protection of the guardian angels that they may come to you every day.

SPIRIT MESSAGES

TO BE PUBLISHED NEXT WEEK.

April 6.—Lorenzo E. Thompson; Oliver Thurston; Hannah E. Prince; James Morse; Joseph Wood; Hannah Hultze; Augustus Davis; Caroline Brown; Louisa Merritt; Amos Pearsons; Mary True; Ella Downes Neal; John Carr; Charlie Newhall; Fannie Burr.

THE MESSAGES GIVEN (THROUGH MRS. B. F. SMITH)

As per dates will appear in due course.

May 25.—Thomas D. Morse; Elizabeth F. Lindsay; Oscar Lane; Mary Mich; Ruth Hamlet; Sophia A. Chadbourne; Maria A. Falls; Joseph Merriam; Frank Griffith; John Neal; Delia Peasley Crockett; Charles Woodwell; Samuel Hidden; Carrie Hodgkins Condell; Isaac Proctor Greenleaf.

Verifications of Spirit-Messages.

HORACE M. RICHARDS.

In looking over the BANNER OF LIGHT of June 2d my attention was attracted to the name of HORACE M. RICHARDS, an old acquaintance of mine. Mr. Richards was known by nearly all the mediums and Spiritualists from California to the State of Maine, hence his name of itself was no positive indication of a message from him, but on reading the communication that purported to be from his spirit, I must confess that it sounded just like him—the expressions being much the same as I have often heard him make use of while in the earth sphere.

Last August, while at Saratoga Springs, I had several conversations with him upon the very issues he alludes to in the message.

The portion of his communication in which he speaks in this wise: "I did not accomplish all that I wished to. I had a work in mind which I desired to complete and give to the world," had special meaning to me, as he told me at the time of our last meeting in the mortal that he greatly desired to publish a book of poems that had come to him through his mediumship from time to time.

There were other points in the message eminently characteristic of him.

The communication was given through the mediumship of Miss M. T. Shelhamer. When I read a message which so much resembles one that would be likely to emanate from the spirit answering to the name given, I feel in duty bound to recognize it as coming from the source designated. A. S. HAYWARD.

Boston, June 4th.

WILLIAM EMERSON.

In the BANNER OF LIGHT of March 31st (sent to me by a friend) was a spirit message for me, and I read it with great anxiety, and fully recognize it as coming direct from my late husband, WILLIAM EMERSON. His particular words for "dear Amba" I fully appreciate as coming from him. His sickness was very severe for years before he passed on. His message gave me clear evidence that it came from him, though unexpectedly, as he had but little knowledge of the spiritual philosophy. May the good angels assist im in coming again through Mrs. Smith's mediumistic gifts. God and His angels bless you all.

MRS. AMBA EMERSON.

Manchester, N. H., 1888.

The boating season is at hand, and the simpleton who performs monkey tricks in a row-boat to frighten other occupants, comes forward neither older nor wiser than he was last summer—for he is always of indefinite age and devoid of sense. Next to his brother, the did n't-know-the-gun-was-loaded fool, he is responsible for more deaths than newly graduated physcians. —Detroit (Mich.) Commercial Advertiser.

Medical Diplomas.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

Some years ago the General Court enacted a statute which provided that a few reputable persons could consociate themselves together in the form of a company or an association; and the Secretary of the State was empowered under the general law to grant a charter—which embraced all trades and professions—to do business of any kind or nature that was reputable.

Under this statute a few individuals applied for a charter to form a college for medical teaching, etc., which application was granted. It was soon alleged to be discovered that the presiding genius of this college was issuing diplomas to individuals in other States "C. O. D.," doing all the business by mail, without seeing them, or the student even entering the door of the college, which consisted of a small dwelling-house, situated within the limits of this city.

A complaint was made to the United States mail authorities that the officer in said college was doing alleged illegitimate business through the mail. The officer was by them arrested, and held for trial on this complaint, but as the college had a charter from the State of Massachusetts, he himself, or the college, had a right to grant diplomas, and the United States could not legally interfere, or have anything to do with the institution and its diplomas, any more than with those issued by Harvard College. Therefore the arrested individual was discharged, but the name of the College and the big silver door-plate of the same has not been publicly exhibited since on the door of any resi dence in Boston.

This exposure caused the general court to act in the matter, there being a petition brought before it asking that medical colleges should be deprived of the benefit of the general law to form such colleges and issue diplomas. The bill passed the House without much opposition, and had passed the second reading in the Senate when a remonstrance, headed by two wholesale druggists of Boston and others, was presented, praying that the medical profession should not be deprived of the privileges of the general statute in this regard any more than other trades and professions; it being held that medical men and the medical profession were no more dishonest than other trades and professions, or those receiving a charter for other forms of business or schemes and enterprises, such as stock-mining companies and for patented articles, etc.

The Senate at a glance saw the inconsistency of changing or amending the law, on the ground that there were a few individuals who had done wrong in issuing diplomas that were not legitimate as far as merit was concerned, and suffice it to say that a joint committee was formed by the Senate and House which resulted in a new enactment. Page 654, Public Statutes, contains an act to prohibit certain medical societies from conferring degrees, reading thus:

"Be it enacted as follows (in brief): Sect. 1, No corporation organized for medical purposes under the provisions of chapter one hundred and fifteen of the Public Statutes shall confer degrees or issue diplomas or certificates conferring or purporting to confer de grees, unless specially authorized by the Legislature to do so.

Sect. 2 of the act gives the penalties for granting diplomas without leave of the Legislature, as described above, which reads as follows: 'An officer, agent or servant of any corporation mentioned in section 1, or any other person, shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars.'"

It is alleged that the "Christian Science" college charters were all obtained under the statute above quoted, and that one of them, at least, claims to teach and practice obstetrics or midwifery; and if such college grants diplomas the question is, can it be designated a medical college in the true meaning and spirit of the statute? It might be well to have the rights of these colleges defined, that students may know the value and rights of diplomas conferred to them from said colleges.

The same routine had to be gone through with to get a charter for a college to teach so-called "Christian Science," that the officers did who received a charter for the other college mentioned in the opening part of this article; in fact an individual who requested of the Secretary a charter for the one did also for the other, as the record shows.

The United States Court could not hold the officers of said college who issued the questionable diplomas, previous to the late enactment of the State of Massachusetts, and doubtless it could not to-day, as it is a State law that grants charters and forbids issuing diplomas from these colleges; hence it is wisdom for students in these colleges to see to it that the chartered college has complied with the statute that gives it the power to confer or issue diplomas to its students or grant degrees or certificates of merit. The question should be settled, for the good of all concerned. INQUIRER.

Boston, June 1st, 1888.

At the Methodist conference in New York, May 14th, delegate McCullough of Texas offered a memorial asking the conference to favor the Blair Educational Bill now before Congress. It was referred to the committees on the state of the church.

Spiritualist Meetings.

ALBANY, N. Y.—First Spiritualist Society holds meetings each Sunday evening at Van Vechten Hall, 119 State street.—Ladies' Aid Society meets in its rooms adjoining the Hall each Friday afternoon and evening. D. M. S. Fero, President; J. D. Chism, Jr., Secretary.

CLEVELAND, O.—The Children's Progressive Lyceum No. 1 meets regularly every Sunday in G. A. R. Hall, 170 Superior street, commencing at 10½ A. M. Richard Carleton, Conductor; E. W. Gaylord, Secretary.

CINCINNATI, O.—The Society of Union Spiritualists holds meetings in Grand Army Hall, 115 West 6th street, every Sunday at 10½ A.M. and 7½ P.M., also Wednesday evening of each week, to which all are made welcome.

CINCINNATI, O.—The First New Spiritual Church of Cincinnati, Ohio, meets every Sunday at 10½ A.M. at Murch's Hall, No. 275 West 6th street. Dr. James A. Bliss, Pastor. The public are cordially invited. Seats free. Sunday School meets at 12 o'clock noon every Sunday. Spiritualists, come, and bring your children with you.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Society of United Spiritualists meets at Nos. 116 and 118 Fifth Avenue, every Sunday at 2½ P.M. A hearty welcome is extended to all visitors, but more especially to the mediums. F. B. Geoghegan, President, 17 Wisconsin street.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Chicago Association of Universal Radical Progressive Spiritualists' and Mediums' Society, organized on the 9th of May, A. D. 1884, meets in Spirits' Liberty Hall, No. 347 West Madison street, every Sunday, permanently, at 2½ and 7½ P.M. The public are cordially invited to attend. Admission 5 cents to each meeting. Dr. Norman McLeod, President.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Avenue Hall, 159 22d street. Children's Lyceum, Sunday, at 1½ P.M. Spiritualists' and Mediums' Meeting, 3 P.M. Sociables every Tuesday.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond discourses before the First Society of Spiritualists in Martine's (Ada street) Hall every Sunday morning and evening.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Young People's Progressive Society meets in Martine's Hall, corner Indiana Avenue and 22d street, every Sunday evening at 7½. Hon. Joel Tiffany conducts class lessons in the afternoon, at 3 o'clock. The best speakers and mediums are always engaged.

DENVER, COL.—Meetings are held Sunday evenings at Harmony Hall, Lawrence street, Mrs. F. A. Logan, conducting.

LANSING, MICH.—Spiritual Progressive Meetings are held each Sunday morning and evening at the Hall 106 Washington Avenue. Lecture, readings and tests by Mrs. Lunt Parker and Lily May. Also meetings every Wednesday evening. W. T. Parker, Chairman.

NEWARK, N. J.—First Association of Spiritualists. 177 Halsey street, corner of Market, evenings at 7½ o'clock. H. G. Avery, President.

NEWARK, N. J.—Meetings will be held every Sunday evening at No. 139 Congress street, commencing at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Jennie A. Smith, Secretary.

NEW HAVEN, CT.—Meetings are held each Sunday evening at Courier and Journal Building. Mrs. Ella Bacon, President; Thos. F. Davie, Secretary.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The First Association of Spiritualists. lectures every Sunday morning and evening. Children's Lyceum, 2 P. M., at the hall, 810 Spring Garden street. Joseph Wood President, B. P. Benner, Vice President and Secretary, 940 Warnock street. Second Association meets Sunday afternoons at 3 o'clock, at its Church, Thompson street, east of Front. T. J. Ambrosia, President, 1223 North Third street. Keystone Association meets Sunday at 2:30 P. M., N. E. corner Ninth and Spring Garden street. Joseph Wood, Chairman. Fourth Association meets Sunday evening, Ninth and Callowhill streets.

PATERSON, N. J.—Meetings are held every Sunday afternoon and evening in Fidelity Hall, corner Market and Church streets, at 2½ and 7½ P.M. Lecturers and test mediums are requested to communicate with John A. Roney, Cor. Sec'y, 65 Hoisman street.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.—The First Society of Spiritualists holds meetings every Sunday in the Court of Appeals Room, Town Hall, at 10½ A.M. and 7½ P.M. All are invited. W. B. Mills, President; E. J. Huling, Secretary.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—The Lincoln Society of Spiritualists holds meetings Wednesday and Sunday evenings at its Hall on 5th street.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—The First Association of Spiritualists meets at 2½ P.M. every Sunday in Brandt's Hall, southwest corner of Franklin Avenue and Ninth street. Friends of the cause invited to attend, and correspondence solicited from America and Europe. H. W. Fay, President, No. 311 Market street; Milton Lyle, Cor. Sec., 3006 Olive street.

Advertisements.

Dr. F. L. H. Willis

May be Addressed until further notice,

Clenora, Yates Co., N. Y.

DR. WILLIS may be addressed as above. From this point he can attend to the diagnosing of disease psychometrically. He claims that his powers in this line are unrivaled, combining, as he does, accurate scientific knowledge with keen and searching psychometric power.

Dr. Willis claims especial skill in treating all diseases of the blood and nervous system. Cancers, Scrofula in all its forms, Epilepsy, Paralysis, and all the most delicate and complicated diseases of both sexes.

Dr. Willis is permitted to refer to numerous parties who have been cured by his system of practice when all others had failed. All letters must contain a return postage stamp. Send for Circulars, with References and Terms.

Ap7 13w*

DR. J. R. NEWTON

STILL heals the sick! Spirit, Mind and Magnetic Cures at a distance through MRS. NEWTON. Send for testimonials to MRS. J. R. NEWTON, P.O. Station G., N. Y. City. 13w* Ap7

SOUL READING,

Or Psychometrical Delineation of Character.

MRS. A. B. SEVERANCE would respectfully announce to the public that those who wish, and will visit her in person, or send their autograph or lock of hair, she will give an accurate description of their leading traits of character and peculiarities of disposition; marked changes in past and future life; physical disease, with prescription therefor; what business they are best adapted to pursue in order to be successful; the physical and mental adaptation of those intending marriage; and hints to the inharmoniously married. Full delineation, $2.00, and four 2-cent stamps. Brief delineation, $1.00, and four 2-cent stamps.

Address, MRS. A. B. SEVERANCE, Centre street, between Church and Prairie streets, Ap7 6m* White Water, Walworth Co., Wis.

CUTTER HOUSE,

Wickett's Island.

Opens June 1st, 1888.

PARTIES desirous of spending the summer in a very healthy, quiet, spiritual place, with no inharmonious influences around them, should secure rooms at once. Mrs. M. E. Williams, the celebrated materializing medium, of New York, will spend the season at this place, and her guides will take an active part in cooperation with the Island and band as Teachers for the higher unfoldment of physical and spiritual life. For terms and descriptive circular, enclose stamp. Address DR. ABBIE E. CUTTER, Onset, Mass. 13w* Mh31

Psychometric, Clairvoyant, AND Clairaudient Medium,

WILL diagnose and cure all diseases at any distance without the use of medicine. Diagnosis, $1.00; thirty entranced exercises, $10.00. Address GEORGE BANCROFT EMERSON, care N. MacLeod, 532 West Madison street, Chicago, Ill. 15w* Ap14

MRS. R. T. CLANEY,

BUSINESS AND TEST MEDIUM, No. 411 Lookout street, Chattanooga, Tenn. 6m* D24

ASTONISHING OFFER.

SEND three 2-cent stamps, lock of hair, age, sex, one leading symptom, and your disease will be diagnosed free by spirit power. DR. A. B. DOBSON, Maquoketa, Iowa. Ap14 13w*

BY DIRECTION of her guides, MRS. JENNIE CROSSE will remove to the country for a while, where she will continue to give Life-Readings for $1.00 and stamp, and answer six questions for 50 cents and stamp. Disease a specialty. Address West Garland, Me. Je2 4w*

MRS. E. M. PERRY, Readings by locks of hair. Terms $1.00. Waterville, Mass., Box 49. 8w* Ap25

NEW MUSIC.

BY C. P. LONGLEY.

"ONLY A THIN VEIL BETWEEN US," Song and Chorus. Words and Music by C. P. Longley. Price 25 cents.

"WHEN THE DEAR ONES GATHER AT HOME," Song and Chorus. Words and Music by C. P. Longley. Price 25 cents.

"HOME OF MY BEAUTIFUL DREAMS," Song and Chorus. Words by Miss M. T. Sheihamer; Music by C. P. Longley. Price 25 cents.

"CHILD OF THE GOLDEN SUNSHINE," Song and Chorus. Words by Eben E. Rexford; Music by C. P. Longley. Price 25 cents.

GOD, HOME AND NATIVE LAND. A National Temperance Ode. Words by Mary L. Sherman. Music by C. Payson Longley. Price 5 cents.

Beautiful Home of the Soul	25 cents.
Come in thy Beauty, Angel of Light	25 "
I am Going to my Home	25 "
In Heaven We'll Know Our Own	25 "
Love's Golden Chain	25 "
Our Beautiful Home Over There	25 "
The City Just Over the Hill	25 "
The Golden Gates are Left Ajar	25 "
Two Little Shoes and a Ringlet of Hair	25 "
We'll All Meet Again in the Morning Land	25 "
Our Beautiful Home Above	25 "
We're Coming, Sister Mary	25 "
Gathering Flowers for Heaven	25 "
Who Sings My Child to Sleep?	25 "
Oh! Come, for my Poor Heart is Breaking	25 "
Once it was Only Soft Blue Eyes	25 "

☞ The above songs are in Sheet Music. Single copies 25 cents; 5 copies for $1.00.

We'll All Meet Again in the Morning Land (with portrait of Annie Lord Chamberlain) ..... 35 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Spiritual Workers

Photographed from Crayon Portraits

BY ALBERT MORTON.

Additions to this List of Portraits are being Drawn.

DR. BENJAMIN RUSH.
PASCHAL BEVERLY RANDOLPH.
CHARLES H. FOSTER.
CHARLES H. FOSTER and SPIRIT ADAH ISAACS MENKEN, after Spirit Photograph by W. H. Mumler.
PROF. ROBERT HARE.
PROF. WILLIAM DENTON.
DR. H. F. GARDNER.

Cabinet size. Price 50 cents each.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Dr. Hardcastle's TOOTH-LIFE.

A Delightful Tooth-Powder.

This Powder thoroughly cleanses the teeth, hardens the gums, purifies the breath, prevents decay, etc.

Of the four pages printed matter accompanying each box of "Tooth-Life," old Dr. Blankman, after reading it, made this remark: "It is the best thing I ever read on the subject, and it is all true, too."

The proprietor says: "As a Spiritualist from my youth, I say in all conscience, no person can fail to find in the box of 'Tooth-Life' and four pages of information accompanying it, that which I positively declare to be, on authority of an experience as an American dentist and student dating from 1860, of infinitely more benefit than twenty-five cents' worth of anything else on earth. The tooth-preservative measures taught alone are worth more to parents and guardians than a thousand times the amount of the investment."

Put up in a neat box. Sent postpaid on receipt of 25 cents. For sale by COLBY & RICH.

DR. RHODES' FAMILY MEDICINES.

Purely Vegetable

(ALL SUGAR-COATED)

Medical Confections.

A Universal Blessing.

SUITED TO OLD OR YOUNG!

A PERFECT Liver and Kidney Renovator and Blood Purifier. Cleanses the entire system from all Biliousness and Blood Poisons from Malaria, etc. And cures Headache, Backache, Side and Stomachache, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Pains in the Limbs, Lameness, Numbness, Constipation, Piles, Worms, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Nervousness, Weakness, Kidney and Bladder, and all other urinary ailments, etc. Also, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and in fact almost all the various ailments of humanity.

PRICES: Trial box, 25 cents—by mail, 30 cents; second size, 50 cents—by mail, 55 cents; 12 boxes second size, $5.00; large boxes, $1.00; 6 large boxes, $5.00.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

STELLAR SCIENCE.

I WILL give a test of it to any person who will send me the place and date of their birth (giving sex) and 25 cents, money or stamps.

I will write Biographical and Predictive Letters (from the above data). Also advice upon any matter, in answer to questions, in accordance with my understanding of the science, for a fee of $1; Consultation fee $1; at office, 206 Tremont street.

Nativities written at prices proportionate to the detail demanded. Address OLIVER AMES GOULD, Box 1664, Boston, Mass. July 19.

NEW SHEET MUSIC.

When I Go.

QUARTET.

Words and music by Mrs. Sarah A. Van Blarcom.

Price 25 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

DIAGNOSIS FREE.

SEND two 2-ct. stamps, lock of hair, name in full, age and sex, and I will give you a CLAIRVOYANT DIAGNOSIS OF YOUR AILMENTS. Address J. C. BATDORF, M. D., Principal, Magnetic Institute, Grand Rapids, Mich. Je2 1m*

Mediums in Boston.

JAMES R. COCKE,

Developing and Business Medium,

ALSO

Clairvoyant Physician,

1581 Washington Street, Boston.

Sittings daily from 9 A.M. till 5 P.M. Price, $1.00.

Unequalled Advantages.

DR. COCKE gives special inducements for Medical and Magnetic Treatment by the month.

Development of Mediumship a Specialty.

SIX PRIVATE SITTINGS FOR $5.00 IN ADVANCE.

CIRCLES.

Sunday, at 11 A.M., for Development and Tests. At 8 P.M., for Psychometry, Tests and Inspirational Music. Thursday evening, at 7:30, for Development. tf Je9

J. W. FLETCHER,

MEDICAL AND BUSINESS MEDIUM,

6 Beacon Street,

BOSTON, MASS.

Written Communications on MEDIUMSHIP, HEALTH, BUSINESS, etc., from Lock of Hair. My5 tf

AMANDA M. COWAN,

219A Tremont Street, Boston,

Suite 2,

WILL be pleased to meet her friends on Sunday, Tuesday and Saturday afternoons, at 2:30, Sunday and Wednesday evenings at 8. Address all communications to CHAS. D. COWAN, Manager. Je9 1w*

C. DAVENPORT COWAN,

Independent Slate-Writing Medium,

219A TREMONT STREET, Boston, Mass., Suite 2. Sitters may bring their own Slates. Je9

BERRY SISTERS,

55 RUTLAND STREET, BOSTON.

SUNDAY and Wednesday evenings at 8 P.M., Sunday, Thursday and Saturday at 2:30 P.M. 13w* Ap7

PROF. CAMPBELL,

A RELIABLE Business and Test Medium. Gives Psychometric Readings from handwriting (by letter only). Psychometric, Clairvoyant, Clairaudient, Prophetic and Astrologic. Is reliable, takes time, examines minutely, goes into details, gives satisfaction. Full life reading (taking in everything), $1.00. Try him. Address, 10 Hudson street, Boston, Mass. 1w* Je2

C. E. WATKINS,

The Medium.

MESSAGES by Independent Writing. Diagnosing by Independent Writing. 109 Falmouth street, off West Chester Park, first street west of Huntington Avenue. Take Back Bay or Huntington Avenue car. tf Ap7

Something New and Pleasing.

WRITE a letter to your spirit friends and have it answered by independent writing. Questions upon Health and Business answered in same manner. Price $1.00. Address ANNIE LORD CHAMBERLAIN, Box 56, Marlaga, Dist., Boston, Mass. 1m My19

MRS. H. W. CUSHMAN,

MUSICAL Test, Business and Writing Medium. Circles Monday, 7:30 P.M.; Thursday, 2:30 P.M. Six questions answered by mail for $1.00 and stamp. Examination by lock of hair, $1.00. 272 Main street, Charlestown. Mh3 tf

EMMA J. NICKERSON,

BUSINESS AND MAGNETIC TREATMENT,

566 COLUMBUS AVENUE, BOSTON. Send $1.00, name and lock of hair, for Diagnosis of Disease, and kind of Mediumship. Treatment by mail. Office hours 2 to 6 P.M. 13w* Je9

MISS HELEN A. SLOAN,

MAGNETIC Physician, Vapor and Medicated Baths. Celebrated "Acid Cure." Office hours from 9 A.M. to 8 P.M. 171 Tremont street, corner Mason st., Boston. Ap5 tf

DR. J. HANDLY WHITE,

ELECTRIC and Magnetic Physician. Celebrated East India Cures. Office 80 Berkeley street, Suite 1, Boston. Hours 10 to 1 and 2 to 4 daily. Consultation free. 1w* Je9

MRS. ALDEN,

TRANCE MEDIUM. Medical Examinations and Magnetic treatment. 43 Winter street, Boston. Je2 5w*

Mrs. A. E. Cunningham,

MEDICAL, Business and Test Medium. 420 Tremont street, Suite 1, Boston. Private Sittings daily. Will answer calls for Platform Tests. 4w* My19

MRS. A. FORRESTER

WILL give Trance Sittings daily, also Magnetic Treatment from 1 to 5 P.M. 39 Chapman street, corner Shawmut Avenue, Boston. 1w* Je9

Mrs. Dr. M. O. Mansfield,

566 COLUMBUS AVE., Boston. Mental and Magnetic Treatment. Hours 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. Je2 2w*

MISS L. E. SMITH,

MEDIUM for spirit communications, tests and business, personally or by letter (from articles). Terms $1.00, with stamp. 14 Union Park street, Boston. 2w* Je2

A. S. HAYWARD, Magnetic Physician, of Letter address for personal treatment or his powerful Spirit Magnetized Paper, during the summer months, 9 Bosworth street, Boston. Two packages by mail, $1.00. Je2 5w*

MRS. K. E. FISHER, Magnetic and Electric Physician, 147 Tremont street, Boston, Rooms 6 and 9. Magnetic and Massage Treatment, Electric and Medicated Vapor Baths; also the celebrated Colorado Sulphur Baths. Je9 1w*

MRS. HATTIE YOUNG,

TRANCE and Business Medium, 22 Winter street, Room 16, Boston. 3w* Je9

MRS. FANNIE A. DODD,

MAGNETIC PHYSICIAN and Test Medium, 48 Winter street, Room 11. tf Je2

MISS L. BARNICOAT, Medical, Test and Business Medium. Lectures followed by Tests and Psychometry. 175 Tremont street, Room 10, Boston. My12 4teow*

MRS. J. M. CARPENTER, 181 Warren Avenue, Boston, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. Examination by letter when patient is not present. My26 4w*

JOSEPH L. NEWMAN, Magnetic Healer, No. 8½ Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), Room 4, Boston, Mass. Office hours, from 1 to 4 P. M. Ja7 26w*

ADVICE relative to Health, Business, etc. Write JAMES DODD, Box 2214, Boston, Mass y26 4w*

QUESTIONS on Health, Business, etc., answered for $1.00—letters only. MRS. SCHOFIELD, 338 Tremont street, Boston. 3w* My26

MRS. J. C. EWELL, Inspirational, also Physician, 1666 Washington st., Boston. Hours 9 to 4. Je2 13w*

J. A. SHELHAMER,

MAGNETIC HEALER,

Office 8½ Bosworth Street (Room 5), Boston, Mass.,

WILL treat patients at his office or at their homes, as desired. Dr. S. prescribes for and treats all kinds of diseases. Specialties: Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lung, Liver and Kidney complaints, and all Nervous Disorders. Consultation, prescription and advice, $2.00. Moderate rates for Medicines, when furnished. Magnetized Paper $1.00 per package. Healing by rubbing and laying on of hands. Parties wishing consultation by letter must be particular to state age, sex, and leading symptoms. Liver, Anti-Dyspeptic, Liver and Kidney, or Strengthening and Soothing Pills, 25 cents per box, or five boxes for $1.00.

Office hours from 10 A. M. to 8 P. M.—except on Tuesdays and Fridays, when he attends out-of-town patients. Letter address care of BANNER OF LIGHT. 13w* Ap7

Mediums in Boston.

MRS. F. K. RICH,

TRANCE and Business Medium, Parlors No. 88 Evans House, 175 Tremont street, Boston. Office hours 9 A.M. to 6 P.M. Will also go out to hold private circles. Letters answered by photograph or look of hair. Terms $2.00. Circles every Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. 1w* Je9

MRS. C. H. LOOMIS-HALL, Test and Healing Medium. Answers six questions on business by mail, 50 cents; brief diagnosis from lock of hair and sex, 25 cents. 128 West Brookline street, Suite 2, Boston.

One or two patients will be accommodated with rooms and treatment. 1w* Je9

MRS. E. B. STRATTON,

WRITING Medium. Hours 9 to 5 daily. Sundays excepted. Suite 4, Hotel Garfield, 80 West Rutland Square, Boston. 1w* Je9

DR. A. H. RICHARDSON, Magnetic Healer, Waverly House, Charlestown. 810

COCINISM,

The Science of Practical Will-Ability and Psychological Hygiene.

THIS wonderful science teaches man how to obtain control over the greater part of his nervous system, and to such an extent that, by the exercise of his will, he can direct currents of vital force through any part of the body. When the exercise of this power is once learned, the brain and the whole nervous system can be cleansed, more or less, according to the amount of force exerted by the will.

If pain is experienced in any part of the body, when not the effects of physiological changes, it can be removed simply by removing the cause thereof; and even where such changes have taken place, if powerful currents of vital force can be forced through the parts affected, much foreign matter can be removed, thus giving Nature a chance to repair damages, especially in affections of the Liver. Failing Sight and Memory have been restored in many cases, whilst chest diseases are always amenable to this power.

There is another Phase of the Science:

The Psychology of Mediumship.

This branch deals directly with the development of Sensitives. Hundreds of persons have been developed as seers who never even dreamed that they were mediumistic; whilst, when making experiments, many persons where invited to sit, without knowing anything about what they were sitting for, yet the results were the same; proving, beyond doubt, that to become a medium all that is required is the proper organism and a fair stock of common honesty.

Sensitives developed by this process never lose their consciousness whilst traveling through the Realm of Spirit; therefore, all descriptions of places seen and information given, whilst journeying through space, are indelibly impressed upon the memory, and to such an extent that, where there is sufficient ability, maps of the country and plans of buildings are readily obtained, whilst the identity of spirits seen and spoken to are placed beyond all doubt.

In the event of the world saying that I claim too much for the Psychology of Mediumship, I would refer to an account of a portion of my work in South Africa written by the Spiritualists of Cape Town, together with the address that I received on the eve of my departure for South America, both of which were printed in the Medium and Daybreak, April 27th, 1888.

I feel impressed to give these facts to the world at large, with the view of demonstrating them, wherever I am called upon to do so. Business matters will detain me here in Boston until near June, after which time, if the people of the United States think sufficient of my Science to draw to me to their shores, I can readily prove all that is herein stated. If societies or communities wish to write to me, my address is C. M. COGIN, F. C. C. A., Rosario de Santa Fé, Republica Argentina, South America. O22 eow

WANTED,

Agents to Sell the Electro-Medicated Belts and Amulets,

MADE by directions of the beneficent band of spirits who have charge of the work at Wickett's Island, for the prevention and cure of Croup, Scarlet Fever, Measles, and all other diseases. They assist in developing spiritual gifts, and prevent evil or undeveloped influences. Agents can do much good, and make money. Enclose stamp for terms and best of testimonials. Address,

DR. ABBIE E. CUTTER, Onset, Mass.

DR. CUTTER develops spiritual gifts and treats patients by correspondence. Diagnosis and advice, $1.00 and stamp. eow* My12

Sealed Letters Answered

BY MRS. ELIZA A. MARTIN, Onset, Mass. Terms $1.00 and two 2-ct. stamps. 4w* My19

SEALED LETTERS.

ELEANOR MARTIN now makes specialty of business, $5.00; Full Spiritual Message, $2.00. 75 Lane Avenue, Columbus, Ohio. 4w* My26

Voltaic Mineral Rods.

IMPORTANT to Miners and Treasure-Seekers. Send stamp for Circular to E. A. COFFIN, No. 47 Bristol street, Boston, Mass. 4w* My19

MRS. D. E. PUTNAM

HAS settled at Onset for the season, and is ready for business. Room and Board until July 1st, $6.00 per week. P. O. Box 52 4w* My26

ONSET BAY. Old Colony trains now stop at the Onset station, and the street railway is making regular trips. Buy excursion tickets for Onset. tf My26

The Writing Planchette.

SCIENCE is unable to explain the mysterious performances of this wonderful little instrument, which writes intelligent answers to questions asked either aloud or mentally. Those unacquainted with it would be astonished at some of the results that have been attained through its agency, and no domestic circle should be without one. All investigators who desire practice in writing mediumship should avail themselves of these "Planchettes," which may be consulted on all questions, as also for communications from deceased relatives or friends.

DIRECTIONS.—Place Planchette on a piece of paper (printing or writing will answer), then place the hand lightly on the board; in a few minutes it begins to move, and is ready to answer mental or spoken questions. Though it cannot be guaranteed that every individual who follows these directions will succeed in obtaining the desired result, or cause the instrument to move, independent of any muscular effort of his or her own, yet it has been proved beyond question that where a party of three or more come together, it is almost impossible that one cannot operate it. If one be not successful, let two try it together. If nothing happens the first day, try it the next, and even if half an hour a day for several days are given to it, the results will amply remunerate you for the time and patience bestowed upon it.

The Planchette is furnished complete with box, pencil and directions, by which any one can easily understand how to use it.

PLANCHETTE, with Pentagraph Wheels, 60 cents, securely packed in a box, and sent by mail, postage free.

NOTICE TO RESIDENTS OF CANADA AND THE PROVINCES.—Under existing postal arrangements between the United States and Canada, PLANCHETTES cannot be sent through the mails, but must be forwarded by express only, at the purchaser's expense.

For sale by COLBY & RICH. tf

TWELFTH EDITION.

THE VOICES.

BY WARREN SUMNER BARLOW.

THE VOICE OF NATURE represents God in the light of Reason and Philosophy in His unchangeable and glorious attributes.

THE VOICE OF A PEBBLE delineates the individuality of Matter and Mind, fraternal Charity and Love.

THE VOICE OF SUPERSTITION takes the creeds at their word, and proves by numerous passages from the Bible that the God of Moses has been defeated by Satan, from the Garden of Eden to Mount Calvary.

THE VOICE OF PRAYER enforces the idea that our prayers must accord with immutable laws, else we pray for effects, independent of cause.

Twelfth edition, with a new stippled steel-plate engraving of the author from a recent photograph. Printed in large, clear type, on beautiful tinted paper, bound in beveled boards.

Price $1.00; postage 10 cents.

☞ Persons purchasing a copy of "THE VOICES" will receive, free, a copy of Mr. Barlow's new pamphlet entitled "ORTHODOX HASH, WITH CHANGE OF DIET," if they so order.

For sale by COLBY & RICH. 6ow

SENT FREE.

RULES

TO BE OBSERVED WHEN FORMING

SPIRITUAL CIRCLES.

BY EMMA HARDINGE BRITTEN.

Comprehensive and clear directions for forming and conducting circles of investigation are here presented by an able, experienced and reliable author.

This little book also contains a Catalogue of Books published and for sale by COLBY & RICH.

Sent free on application to COLBY & RICH tf

NEW GOSPEL OF HEALTH,

CONTAINING seven lectures on Vital Magnetism and Illustrated manipulations, by DR. STONE. For sale at this office. Price $1.25; cloth-bound copies, $2.50.

GATHERING CRUMBS. A Lecture by SARAH J. PENOYER, of Saginaw, Mich.

With a view to the great unfoldment of God's truth, we will endeavor to unfurl the banner of freedom to the world, inscribed on this banner is the word Love. Whenever a new truth is born, people are in such a hurry to cover it with swaddling clothes, lest it should be seen as it comes forth from the womb of Nature, that they half destroy its life before they can get it clothed to look according to their ideas of "respectability." Then, when its form is mutilated, it comes forth an ill-shapen and ill-gotten thing.

Paper, 15 cents, postage free.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE. By JOHN GEO. HERTWIG. Equal rights to all in all matters of public concern.

Paper. Price 10 cents.

SUNDAY LAWS. By JOHN GEO. HERTWIG. Equal rights to all in all matters of public concern.

Paper. Price 10 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

THE SLADE CASE: ITS FACTS AND ITS LESSONS. A Record and a Warning. By M. A. (OXON).

This work is full of good advice and excellent hints, tersely and vigorously presented.

English edition, paper. Price 20 cents, postage free.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

New York Advertisements.

DUMONT C. DAKE, M.D.,

304 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY, successfully treats all forms of Chronic Diseases, however complicated. Patients afflicted for years, regarded as hopeless, or incurable, testify to permanent restoration. For twenty years his power to diagnose and treat Disease has been and still stands unequaled, so say eminent Scientists, Physicians, Clergymen, and patients from all parts of the country. Voluminous testimony can be seen at his office. Those unable to visit the Doctor in person can be successfully treated at their homes. Send stamp for Circular. Diagnosis, with advice, $2.00.

Extract from a letter by Rev. F. H. M., D. D., Brooklyn, N.Y.: . . . . "I am happy to testify to Dr. Dake's high moral character as a man, and his eminent ability as a physician who has achieved a most extraordinary career."

Ap7 tf

BEST TRUSS EVER USED.

Improved Elastic Truss. Worn night and day. Positively cures ruptures. Sent by mail everywhere. Write for full descriptive circulars to the DR. HOUSE N. Y. ELASTIC TRUSS CO., 744 Broadway, N.Y.

My26 13w*

Mrs. Stoddard-Gray and Son, DeWitt C. Hough,

HOLD Materializing Séances every Sunday, Wednesday and Friday evening, 8 o'clock. Tuesday and Saturday, 2 o'clock, at 323 West 34th street, New York. Daily sittings for Communications and Business. 13w* Mh17

FOR SALE,

A MORTGAGE on Cottage and Ground at Onset, Mass., of $250. Interest payable semi-annually at 7 per cent. This property is situated on Longwood Avenue, in the heart of Onset, and is valued at $1500. For further particulars, address GEO. A. DEBEREE, No. 4 Warren street, New York City. 4w* My26

MRS. C. SCOTT, Trance and Business Medium. Sittings daily, 10 to 5. No. 21 West 13th street, New York. 8w* Ap21

MARY C. MORRELL, Business, Prophetic and Developing Medium, 220 West 36th street, New York City. 15w* Mh3

MRS. L. HIGGINS, Business and Trance Medium. Sittings daily 9 to 3, 351 W. 27th st., New York. Ap21 10w*

RUPTURES

CURED in thirty days by my MEDICAL COMPOUND and Improved ELASTIC SUPPORTER TRUSS. Send Stamp for Circular. Address CAPT. W. A. COLLINGS, Smithville, Jefferson Co., N.Y. (Mention this paper. Ap21 13w*

A LIBERAL OFFER,

BY A RELIABLE CLAIRVOYANT AND MAGNETIC HEALER.

SEND 4 2-ct. stamps, lock of hair, name, age and sex, we will diagnose your case FREE by independent spirit-writing. Address DR. J. S. LOUCKS, Canton, N.Y. My12 13w*

Clairvoyant Examinations Free.

ENCLOSE lock of hair, with leading symptoms. We will give you a correct diagnosis of your case. Address E. F. BUTTERFIELD, M. D., corner Warren and Fayette streets, Syracuse, New York. 26w* Ja28

SECOND EDITION.

A REVIEW

OF THE

Seybert Commissioners' Report

OR,

WHAT I SAW AT CASSADAGA LAKE.

BY

A. B. RICHMOND, Esq.,

A MEMBER OF THE PENNSYLVANIA BAR; AUTHOR OF "LEAVES FROM THE DIARY OF AN OLD LAWYER," "COURT AND PRISON," "DR. CROSBY'S CALM VIEW FROM A LAWYER'S STANDPOINT," "A HAWK IN AN EAGLE'S NEST," ETC.

This able and comprehensive work should be read by every thoughtful man and woman who has heard of the Seybert Bequest. Hon. A. B. Richmond, the author, whose eminence as a criminal lawyer, and high reputation as an author will at once ensure the cool, keen attention of the reader, has in this volume replied to the "Preliminary Report of the Seybert Commission" with a soundness of logic, a keenness of satire, a breadth of thought and clearness of perception such as the importance of the subject demanded. He deals his blows at the unfairness, injustice, prejudice, unkindness and irreverence of the Seybert Commissioners with an unsparing hand, and, like Thor, he never strikes a blow in vain. Well aimed and well struck, each blow tells, and must carry conviction to every thoughtful mind.

Mr. Richmond, although not a believer in the Spiritual Philosophy, has here made a fearless and vigorous defense of the reality of the PHENOMENA of Spiritualism. Having received last August, from the hands of a friend just returned from Cassadaga Lake, a communication addressed to him from one dear to him in spirit-life, he was induced to visit the Lake, but went with a firm belief that he should be able to solve the mystery and expose the fraud. His experiences there convinced him of the genuineness of at least a portion of the phenomenal part of Spiritualism, and he accordingly wrote his Open Letter to the Seybert Commission, a document which aroused the interest and admiration of the best minds. Once convinced that the so-called spirit manifestations do occur in many instances where fraud is out of the question, he gallantly and fearlessly comes to the front and wields his weapons with strong, unerring aim in defense of truth and human progress.

After a happy and appropriate introduction of the subject, with all needful explanations concerning the bequest of Mr. Seybert, the author gives in the first Chapter his "Open Letter to the Seybert Commission"; Chapters II., III. and IV. are devoted to a searching criticism of the Report of

Banner of Light.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, JUNE 9, 1888.

Our Foreign Exchanges.

Translated for the Banner of Light, by C. G. Helleberg, Cincinnati, O.

[From Le Messager, Liége, May 15th, 1888.]

SPIRITUALISM EVERYWHERE.—Two Protestant preachers by the name of Vidaurre and Torquera, traveling in Chili, South America, stopped at Rancagua the 2d of June, 1887, and held a religious conference in the theatre of that locality. The subject was: "What is man, and what is his fate after death?" Rev. Torquera during his sermon thought it proper to exercise his eloquence at the expense of Spiritualism, laboring hard to cover it with ridicule before his audience, saying it was absurd, and challenged Spiritualists to answer with their theories founded on fantastic illusions and their imaginations.

As soon as the orator had finished, to the great surprise of all, a young fifteen-year-girl rose and accepted the challenge offered with such scorn and presumption. After having refuted the Rev. Preacher's arguments by improvisatory inspiration, the young girl asked him for his written observations against Spiritualism, so as to be able to answer in a manner more ripe and efficacious. The preacher refused to hold the offered controversy in the same place, and proposed the public square, which she in her turn refused, as such a place was not suitable for the subject. They agreed to use the press for the discussion. Two days after, Rev. Vidaurre and Demoiselle Aravena concluded to hold the controversy at the theatre, where the girl was supported by Dr. Rafaël Rojas, a young man very much esteemed through his good character and high intellectual culture. The discussion went on in eloquent style during more than two hours. Finally Rev. Vidaurre had the courage to confess that he knew very little about Spiritualism, and had only incidentally raised his voice against it, but proposed now from what he had heard to make it the subject of deep study.—Revue Spirite de Valparaiso.

[From the Neue Spiritualistische Blätter, Berlin, the 5th of April, 1888.]

SPIRITUAL EXPERIENCE OF AN OLD SEA-CAPTAIN.—In the year 1853 I made a journey around Cape Horn, in company with my wife, who one day said to me: "Can you explain the knockings which I hear so often in the cabin?" I answered: "Perhaps it comes from spirits." When she again heard the knockings I went with her in the cabin, and by the alphabet the name "Lydia" was spelled out. This was the name of my wife's dead mother, and we now knew that she was with us on our journey. When it was very stormy, and my wife, from the heavy rolling of the vessel, became frightened, she was reassured when she, from the knocks, spelled out: "Be still; there is no danger."

One morning, at half past one, she woke me and said: "Quick! up! I hear knockings; maybe it denotes danger." Since in my former travels I have had, during the middle of a night, an experience of a shipwreck, I am in the habit of keeping most of my clothes on in stormy weather; therefore it was not long before I was on deck. I found the head sailor on lookout; nothing unusual had taken place, but I said to him: "In a night like this my vessel was once run down; therefore look out sharp—examine everything and see that all is right."

I returned to the cabin and informed my wife that I had not discovered any danger. Immediately after we heard knockings which spelled out: "The ship Sabine is near—therefore be careful, so as not to strike together." I rushed on deck just in time to avoid a collision with the coming vessel, which passed very near with the utmost haste, so that we, in the storm and darkness, could not even "speak" her. Just as I was conversing with my wife about what had taken place, and had remarked that the danger might come at some time so quickly that we could not have opportunity to spell out the knockings, we heard raps again which rendered this sentence: "In every coming danger we will knock five times in the direction from which that danger threatens." I said: "Give me proof of it," and in the same moment came five loud knocks as from a hammer—so pronounced as to have awakened any one from sleep, had such been his condition.

Spiritualistic Meetings in Boston.

Banner of Light Circle-Room, No. 9 Bosworth Street.—Séances are held every Tuesday and Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock promptly. Admission free. For further particulars, see notice on sixth page. L. B. Wilson, Chairman.

College Hall, 34 Essex Street.—Sundays, at 10¾ A. M., 2½ and 7½ P. M. Eben Cobb, Conductor.

Eagle Hall, 616 Washington Street, corner of Essex.—Sundays, at 2½ and 7½ P. M.; also Wednesdays at 3 P. M. Able speakers and test mediums. Excellent music. Prescott Robinson, Chairman.

Mishawum Hall, City Square, Charlestown.—Mediums' meeting every Sunday at 2½ and 7½ P. M. Dr. Mark Smith, Chairman.

Chelsea.—The Ladies' Social Aid Society meets in Mrs. Buffum's parlors, 196 Chestnut street, every Friday afternoon and evening. All are invited. Mrs. E. H. Pratt, President; Mrs. M. A. Dodge, Secretary.

Cambridgeport.—Meetings held each Sunday evening at 7½ o'clock at St. George's Hall, 603 Main street, by the Spiritualist Society. H. P. Trask, President.

Lynn.—Children's Lyceum meets every Sunday at Cadet Hall, Market street, at 12 M. Conductor, Mr. O. S. Adams; Secretary, Mrs. E. B. Merrill.

The First Spiritualists' Ladies' Aid Society.—Loving hearts and tender hands united in making the parlors of the Society present a beautiful appearance on the day of the annual memorial service, Sunday, May 27th—held in honor of the members of the Society who have entered spirit-life during the past year. Peaceful be their repose! Joyful their awakening! Peaceful and unalloyed the fruition of their immortal experiences!

Upon the platform and a little to the right was placed an easel, upon which rested a life-like crayon picture of our respected ex-President, Mrs. Abbie M. H. Tyler; the frame was beautifully decorated with a wreath of fine white flowers and smilax; at the foot of the easel, and rising from a large mound of foliage, was a vase filled with fragrant white lilies. An exquisite white memorial chair was placed on the left of the platform, while in the centre the flowers were massed in a large bank, rising high from the floor. All the pictures hanging upon the walls were prettily trimmed with vines and blossoms. Flowers everywhere—the most beautiful of the treasures lavished by God's love on earth; flowers as fresh as is the gratitude in our hearts to these departed loved ones for their sacrifices; flowers perishable indeed as their bodies, but like the immortal part renewed year by year forever.

Seven members have been taken from our midst by this year's flight, viz.: MISS HANNAH BALL, MRS. ABBIE M. H. TYLER, MR. E. STONE, GEN. WISEWELL, MR. N. C. DECKER, MRS. LOUISA HOLDEN and MRS. DR. ABBIE E. CUTTER.

The exercises of the day consisted of singing by Mrs. M. E. Whittemore, Miss Amanda Bailey, Miss Ella Wakefield, Mr. Chas. W. Sullivan; addresses by sisters Mrs. Alice S. Waterhouse, Mrs. M. A. Ricker, Mrs. Ida P. A. Whitlock, Dr. A. H. Richardson, Mr. Jacob Edson; tests by Dr. Arthur Hodges.

With the meeting of Friday, June 1st, the work of the society was closed for the summer vacation, to be resumed in October with renewed activity.

ALICE P. TORREY, Sec'y.

College Hall, 34 Essex Street.—Sunday, June 3d, the services at this hall, under direction of Mr. and Mrs. Eben Cobb, were well attended, and a generally harmonious feeling pervaded during the day and evening.

In the morning the speakers were Eben Cobb, Dr. H. B. Storer and Jacob Edson. Miss Peabody gave psychometric readings from articles sent to the desk previous to her arrival; and Miss Cullen described spirits and events through vision and symbol; Miss Roberts added to the interest of the occasion by a fine reading. The evening session was also a success. These meetings will be continued at College Hall during the major portion of the summer. COM.

Children's Progressive Lyceum No. 1, Paine Hall, Appleton Street.—Sunday, June 3d, was the last meeting of the Lyceum for the season. The attendance exceeded that of the previous Sabbath—there being one hundred and fifty-four in the march. The children who took part in the exercises were: Carrie Fowler, Alice Cummings, Rosa Wilbur, Eva Rosenthal, Lillian Rich, recitations; singing by Lillie Wendemuth, Gracie Scales; duet, Maria and Bertha Davis, and Miss Jennie Smith.

On Tuesday evening, May 29th, several of the children, in company with the "children's friend," Mrs. Wm. S. Butler, attended the "Old Ladies' Home" and gave the inmates a very pleasant entertainment. They were assisted by Lucette Webster as elocutionist and Prof. Willis Milligan as pianist.

HENRY O. TORREY, Cor. Sec'y.

First Spiritual Temple, corner Newbury and Exeter Streets.—Wednesday evening, May 30th, a large number of the members and friends of the Spiritual fraternity assembled to express their appreciation of the work of Mrs. H. S. Lake and her guides. The opening speech by Dr. Paxson was a pleasant introduction to the purposes of the evening. He was followed by Mr. D. E. Caswell, who, under control, gave expression to the satisfaction which was felt by the Temple Band with the work of Mrs. Lake, presenting her with some beautiful flowers in recognition of the same. Mr. Eben Cobb, Mrs. Abbie N. Burnham and Mrs. Kate R. Stiles then spoke in a most appreciative manner of the work and worth of their co laborer. All the speeches were as hearty as they were eloquent, and a kindly influence prevailed. Mrs. Lake responded with much feeling to all the good wishes expressed, after which her guide controlled, speaking very briefly, and thanking all for the consideration shown. The meeting was then adjourned until next October. REPORTER.

Eagle Hall, 616 Washington Street.—On Sunday last the meetings at this place were well attended and interesting.

The afternoon exercises consisted of an invocation, followed with remarks by Miss D. P. Simpson, and short addresses by David Brown and Dr. P. C. Drisko; unmistakable tests and spirit delineations were given by David Brown, Mrs. S. E. Buck, Peter McKenzie and Mrs. T. J. Lewis.

In the evening Dr. Drisko, Miss Simpson, Dr. Eames, Mr. Tom Roscoe, Mrs. O. A. Robbins and Mrs. Lewis participated in the exercises.

These meetings will be continued through the summer, on Sundays at 2:30 and 7:30 P. M., also Wednesday at 3 P. M. ••

Mishawum Hall, City Square, Charlestown District.—In the afternoon of June 3d, Miss Josie Webster, Dr. Harding and others were participants. In the evening Dr. Street, Mrs. F. K. Rich and J. W. Fletcher took part in the services.

Next Sunday Mr. J. W. Fletcher will occupy the platform afternoon and evening. Between the afternoon and evening services a free test séance will be held in which Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher, Mrs. F. K. Rich, Dr. Smith and Mrs. Shackley will describe and delineate. MARK SMITH, M. D., Chairman.

Investigator Hall.—Prof. A. B. Philbrook, of Chicago, speaks at this hall, Appleton street, Boston, Sunday, June 10th, at 2½ P. M., continuation of the subject, "Origin of Persons and Animals—A Disclosure of the Cause of Classes, Crimes, and Places of Vice." He speaks in the evening at 7½ o'clock, at 223 Shawmut Avenue; subject: "Electricity or God in the Human Body."

Spiritualist Meetings in New York.

Adelphi Hall, corner of 52d Street and 7th Avenue.—The First Society of Spiritualists holds meetings every Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7¾ P. M. Admission free.

Columbia Hall, 878 6th Avenue, between 49th and 50th Streets.—The People's Spiritual Meeting (removed from Spencer Hall). Services every Sunday at 2¾ and 7¾ P. M. Mediums and speakers always present. Frank W. Jones, Conductor.

Meetings for Spiritual Manifestations will be held at Adelphi Hall, corner 7th Avenue and 52d street, New York, every Sunday at 2¾ P. M. Tests given by Mrs. E. A. Wells of New York.

Arcanum Hall, 57 West 25th Street, N. E. corner 6th Avenue.—Meetings of the Progressive Spiritualists are held every Sunday at 3 and 8 P. M. Mediums and speakers welcome. Test Medium and Conductor, Prof. G. G. W. Van Horn.

Soul Communion Meetings every Tuesday at 3 P. M. sharp, at Mrs. Morrell's, 230 West 36th street.

THE FIRST SOCIETY OF SPIRITUALISTS.—Mrs. Nellie J. T. Brigham spoke forty-five minutes in the morning upon six subjects selected by the audience as follows: "Description of spheres in spirit-life and the conditions that define each;" "God manifested in everything;" "Sleep and Dreams;" "Why do we live the earth-life?" "Spiritual unity; how it is to be attained." "Man as he was and is." The lecture was brilliant and well received. Mrs. Brigham improvised a beautiful and characteristic poem on the subject, "Memorial Day," and two other poems, "The Lilies of the Valley," and "The Month of June in Spirit Land."

In the evening Mrs. Brigham, by request, spoke upon the subject of "Ancient mediumship, necromancy and soothsayers, contrasted with modern mediumship and prestidigitation." The subject was treated with great fairness and unquestioned ability, showing conclusively that there is a wide difference between modern mediumship and the tricks of the prestidigitators.

The Meeting for Manifestations in the afternoon was well attended. Mrs. Wells has received much praise for her inauguration of these very instructive and interesting services. The meeting opened with a piano solo by Prof. I. C. Kiersted, when a lady, a stranger in the hall, asked to make a statement with regard to a test she had received through Mrs. Wells in the hall one week ago, saying that Mrs. Wells gave a minute description of her husband's brother, stating that he was palsied before he died, but that was not the cause of his death, but that he died from the effect of a fall; this the lady did not know at the time, so she wrote to the wife of the brother, and learned by letter received yesterday that a fall was the direct cause of his death, and said further: "that the test fully disabused her mind that mediumship was mind-reading."

Mrs. Henry J. Newton read a poem entitled "Voice of Nature," by Barlow. The gifted Miss Lily Runals sung two solos with success. The accomplished Miss Mamie Horton whistled two solos, to the great pleasure of the audience. Henry J. Newton, Esq., made apt and appropriate remarks upon Talmage and his kind, that were not very complimentary to the reverend gentleman; Mrs. M. E. Williams recited some interesting experiences concerning the late Dr. Abbie E. Cutter in relation to materialization.

Mrs. E. A. Wells gave numerous descriptive tests, all recognized, some of which were very remarkable and appreciatively commented upon for their accuracy. S.

New York, June 3d, 1888.

PEOPLE'S MEETING.—A literary and musical entertainment will be tendered Mr. Frank W. Jones, the conductor of the People's Spiritual Meeting, in Columbia Hall, 878 6th Avenue, Sunday evening, June 17th. Superior talent has been engaged and a good time is guaranteed. •••

Spiritualist Meetings in Brooklyn.

Conservatory Hall, Bedford Avenue, corner Fulton Street.—Services every Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7¾ P. M.

Fraternity Rooms, corner Bedford Avenue and South Second Street.—Services every Sunday at 7½ P. M. Children's Lyceum at 3 P. M. The Spiritual Literary Union meets the first and third Saturday of each month at 8 P. M.

Johnston Building, Flatbush Avenue, corner of Nevins Street.—Brooklyn Progressive Spiritual Conference every Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock.

THE PROGRESSIVE CONFERENCE has enjoyed of late two interesting and instructive sessions. May 26th Mrs. Helen M. Walton read a very fine essay, her theme being "Spiritualism on Trial." Mr. Bogert, Wm. C. Bowen, W. R. Tice and Mr. Koon filled out the time to acceptance.

Mrs. F. M. Holmes gave the opening address, June 2d, her topic being "Inspiration." Mrs. Holmes is an inspirational speaker and writer of more than ordinary ability. Mrs. Gridley, psychometrist, who has just returned to Brooklyn, after an absence of two years, followed the address with practical remarks; Dr. I. M. Cummings, David Ellsworth and Mrs. M. C. Morrell of New York filled out the time to the evident satisfaction of all. Mrs. S. D. Bertine is expected to deliver a trance address next Saturday evening. F. W. JONES.

230 West 36th street, New York, June 4th, 1888.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y.—The Court of Appeals Room in the Town Hall, utilized by the First Society of Spiritualists for Sunday meetings, is occupied for the month of June by the Court, and its use by any other body will not be allowed during the time; the society, therefore, has suspended public services for this month, and will meet at the houses of various members one or two evenings weekly. On Sunday, June 3d, President W. B. Mills invited the friends to visit Locust Grove, his pleasant farm some three miles from the village, where an interesting social time was enjoyed. E. J. HULING.

[The Eagle of June 2d makes excellent reference to Mrs. Field's recent labors in Saratoga, which we shall copy next week.—ED.]

The Spiritualist Camp-Meetings.

Lake Pleasant.

[From Our Regular Correspondent.]

The season at this place may be said to be fairly open, and from this to the time of the early frosts Lake Pleasant will be the scene of activity. The various tradesmen who supply the camp with merchandize say that their sales are opening much earlier than in previous years, and all indications point to a most successful season. Building operations are quite brisk, several cottages being erected and others enlarged and otherwise improved.

NOTES.

The Headquarters are open; come in and register.

Pine Tree Home, the cottage of Mrs. R. L. Sylvester, has been greatly improved. The reception-room is one of the finest upon the grounds.

Among other recent visitors in camp was Landlord Barnard of the Lake Pleasant Hotel.

George James of Boston and S. Carter of Baldwinsville are sojourning in camp for a season. The grounds are being cleared of leaves and débris.

Mrs. Clara A. Field, who passed the winter in the South, has arrived in camp.

Mr. James Wilson, of Bridgeport, Conn., has a force of men at work upon his new villa.

Mrs. Leathers, of Fitchburg, is a recent arrival.

Among the cottages which are being painted are those of Mrs. Maud E. Drake and John D. Bacon.

There will be a boom in house-lots on the "Highlands."

Excursion rates have been secured from nearly all the lines leading to Lake Pleasant.

John H. Smith has built several cottages during the past winter.

The proprietress of the Dillingham Cottage, Mrs. J. Francena Dillingham, is daily expected.

Miss Clara Henry has obtained a situation in the telegraph office at Athol Dépôt.

The Trustees of the Lake Pleasant Association have purchased four new row-boats of an improved pattern, and a new steam launch, which will be placed upon the waters of Lake Pleasant at once.

D. Hilliard, at Highland Home, has a very fine flower garden in embryo.

Mrs. Addie P. Young, of Haverhill, presides at "Daisy Dell."

June is a most glorious month here. The trees and shrubs have put their beauty on.

A delegation from Brooklyn is expected to arrive in the near future.

Noble Hopkins, of Utica, has made a marked improvement on his premises in Heavenly Court.

Dr. Beals, President of the Association, is a frequent visitor in camp.

Decoration Day was very generally observed in this vicinity. The memorial address of Rev. Mr. Hayward at Orange was a masterpiece of oratory. J. M. Y.

Lake Pleasant, Mass., June 2d, 1888.

Onset Bay.

We are informed that as Mr. Shubael Wilder was on his way to Onset Tuesday, May 24th, with a load of furniture, his horse becoming unmanageable, threw him out, dragging him some distance. When picked up, he was found to be dead, and terribly mangled about the head. Mr. Wilder owned a large cottage on Ocean Avenue. He was a stanch Spiritualist, a man of means, and largely interested in the new horse-railroad that is being built at this time.

The death from pneumonia is recorded of Mrs. Harry Swift, at Newark, N. J.—whose cottage is at the corner of West Central and Onset Avenues. Mrs. Swift leaves two children.

"Observer" writes: "Activity and preparation for the coming Camp-Meeting, and the reception of visitors at Onset, are the characteristics of the hour.

It is expected that quite a number will avail themselves of a trip to Onset on 'Opening Day,' and as the 17th comes on Sunday, it affords all who desire an opportunity to stop on Monday and celebrate at the seashore, instead of returning to Boston. This will give a three days' excursion, with the privilege of returning at any time Saturday or Monday morning, or during the day. The round trip ticket is placed at $1.75—good from Boston to Onset station. A Boston firm has leased Hotel Onset, and advertises its accommodations to be first-class in all respects. The house will soon be opened to the public—the same being the case with all of the others. Glen Cove and the Washburn, it is alleged, are to be under the old management of last year.

Mr. Charles W. Sullivan and mother have arrived at their cottage for the season. Mr. Sullivan has grand mediumistic gifts, and might do much good if he would publicly exercise them while at Onset. His ancient-built cottage is a curiosity of itself, and together with his relics of one hundred years ago, constitutes quite a museum.

Mr. S. Dimmock, proprietor of the Hotel Brockton for the past three years, passed on to higher life May 31st, after some months' sickness from consumption. He was well and favorably known as former proprietor of the Hotel Falmouth, at Falmouth, and also the Stearns House at Monument Beach."

Cassadaga Lake, N. Y.

The Annual Picnic and Sunday assembly of the Free Association will take place at Cassadaga Camp-grounds June 8th, 9th and 10th. Speakers, Mrs. Elizabeth L. Watson, of California; Mr. J. Clegg Wright, of New Jersey.

Gone to His Reward.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

One after another of the fearless spirits who first investigated and endorsed the Spiritual Phenomena and Philosophy of this age have entered the higher life whence came the Power which they welcomed, while many around them laughed and jeered at what they deemed to be their credulity. Among the foremost and bravest of the pioneers who joyfully greeted the first rays of the rising star of the New Dispensation as it arose above the Green Mountains of his adopted State, was THOMAS MIDDLETON, of Woodstock, Vt.

On the 29th of May, from Proctorsville, Vt., where he had resided for about five years, he ascended to his spirit-home to join a loved wife and the many friends and co-workers who had preceded him.

His remains were brought here for interment May 31st, and it was the pleasant duty of the writer to officiate at the funeral ceremony at the Universalist Church, which was freely granted for the occasion.

Mr. Middleton was an Englishman by birth, but for more than a half century had lived in this country. The older readers of the BANNER OF LIGHT may well remember the contributions from his able and scholarly pen, which occasionally aided the evolution of our movement in its early days. He was one of the most active and influential of the many brave and noble champions who inaugurated and have continued the great Spiritual Conventions for which Vermont is justly celebrated. At these annual and quarterly gatherings he was ever present, and ready to take the part of an intelligent and earnest listener, or in conference to speak in eloquent diction the grand conceptions of an erudite and philosophical mind. He was one of nature's noblemen, honest, sincere, affable; gentle as a child, or resolute and fearless as a gladiator when occasion required. He was a cultured and perfect gentleman, unobtrusive, but never shrinking to face public or private opinion in defense of his clear and earnest convictions. For about forty years he lived in this very conservative town, where but few endorsed his views, but not a personal enemy can be found among all who knew him. His high character, his gentle and noble demeanor, not only won respect and esteem, but did quite as much as his cogent arguments to command respect for the cause he loved and maintained.

Eighty-two years of active life on earth had fully ripened his noble spirit for its entrance into higher joys, and he now realizes all that his fine intuitions and exalted inspirations had foreshadowed. We congratulate him in the enjoyment of the fruits of a well-spent and exemplary life, now crowned with the palms of a glorious victory. DEAN CLARKE.

Woodstock, Vt., June 1st, 1888.

Attleboro, Mass.—Miss M. T. Shelhamer lectured at the above place June 3d, afternoon and evening. At 2 P. M., under the inspiration of Spirit John Pierpont, the lady discoursed upon "Love, Human and Divine." A beautiful picture was drawn of the blessing of love when, purged from selfishness, it swells in the human heart, first, in kindly and tender affection toward personal kindred and friends, and flowing out in helpful service and gentle sympathy toward mankind. Human love, said the speaker, becomes divine love when in the forgetfulness of self it seeks to uplift and benefit others; and in the spectacle of a life yielding up itself to save another—an illustration of which was graphically drawn in the story of a poor, miserable, sin-laden and helpless man, who in an hour of great peril sacrificed himself to save an invalid mother and her helpless babe—one could find no greater love. In the evening, the guide of the speaker answered questions propounded by the audience in an interesting and acceptable manner.

Miss Shelhamer lectures in Attleboro' the first Sunday of every month. Sunday next Mrs. Ida P. A. Whitcock speaks there afternoon and evening.

Bucksport, Me.—In the last number of THE BANNER is a communication from Dr. C. F. Ware, stating I have not been engaged at Verona Camp as a test medium. In reply to this I want to say I was fairly engaged before the close of last year's meeting. I was also chosen Secretary of the Association, and these are the very words from Dr. Ware to myself: "Whatever your engagements are, remember you are engaged for our meeting next year." A Spiritualist of Bucksport said to me during the winter that I ought not to give tests at Verona after living here all winter, as people would say I had been "Gathering it up." I wrote Dr. Ware to this effect, saying I thought I would resign as Secretary and cancel my engagement, but did not do so. This article in THE BANNER of Dr. Ware's shows a most cruel and unkind spirit, and he has done me an injury and wrong which in his lifetime or mine can never be righted. I have labored well and faithfully for Verona Park, as I have always endeavored to do for our cause everywhere. DR. H. F. MERRILL.

WONDERFUL CHANGES.

The Far Seeing Take Advantage of Them in Time.

Is this country unconsciously undergoing a wonderful change, is the change to take place before we are aware of the fact, and when it has taken place will we wonder why we did not see it before it was too late?

Those that see the changes early avail themselves early, and thereby receive benefit.

The shrewd iron man sees the iron interest transferred from Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania to Birmingham, Alabama, and in his far-sightedness sees the furnaces in Pennsylvania torn down and deserted for this new and prolific field.

We have seen the grain-growing centers of this country shifted to the West. We have seen the pork packing industry flit from Cincinnati to Chicago, and from thence to Kansas City and Omaha. Southern cotton mills undersell New England and American markets, and challenge the world.

We have seen and are seeing all this take place before our eyes, and know that other changes are taking place equally as prominent, and we wonder as we behold them. Ten years ago the insurance companies required an analysis of the fluids only when they were taking insurance for very large amounts. To-day no first-class company will insure any amount unless a rigid analysis is had of the fluids passed, and if any traces of certain disorders are apparent, the application is rejected. In their reports they show that the death of sixty of every one hundred people in this country is due either directly or indirectly to such disorders. The Brompton Hospital for Consumptives, London, England, reports that sixty of every one hundred victims of consumption also have serious disorders of the kidneys.

Among scientists for the treatment of this dread malady the question is being discussed: "Is not this disorder the real cause of consumption?"

Ten years ago the microscope was something seldom found in a physician's office; now every physician of standing has one, and seldom visits his patients without calling for a sample of fluids for examination.

Why is all this? Is it possible that we of the present generation are to die of diseases caused by kidney disorders? or shall we master the cause by Warner's safe cure, the only recognized specific, and thus remove the effects? It is established beyond a doubt that a very large percentage of deaths in this country are traceable to diseased kidneys. For years the proprietors of Warner's safe cure have been insisting that there is no sound health when the kidneys are diseased, and they enthusiastically press their specific for this terrible disorder upon public attention.

This means wonders!

Cannot the proprietors of this great remedy, who have been warning us of the danger, tell us how to avoid a disease that at first is so unimportant, and is so fatal in its termination? Are we to hope against hope, and wait without our reward?

It was formerly thought that the kidneys were of very small importance: to-day, we believe, it is generally admitted that there can be no such thing as sound health in any organ if they are in the least degree deranged.

☞ Warren Chase's Forty Years on the Spiritual Rostrum is a bold and outspoken publication of opinions which, whether we do or do not agree with them, are refreshingly direct and plain. As I read them I cannot help contrasting them with the misty and foggy utterances that usually pass current for instruction on the subject that most of all concerns a man. His life here—a scanty section, at most, of his real life—will not occupy him long, and he has plenty of means of studying how to make the best of it, if he cares to do so. But the after-life, with all its infinite possibilities, with its results flowing necessarily from this earthly existence, is treated by the usual instructor as a closed book which none may read. "That bourne from which no traveler returns" is still on his tongue: any prying into the future is "witchcraft" or devilry; and that which alone can support by experience the essentials of Christian teaching is left to the devil. If any proof were needed of the distance to which our teachers have strayed from the doctrine of Christ, this would suffice. It is not needful to accept all Mr. Chase's remarks as true before commending a clear and plain piece of teaching which is concerned with that which man most needs to ponder.—"M. A. (Oxon.)" in London (Eng) Light.

THE REV. T. DEWITT TALMAGE'S prophecy that the tremendous amount of gratuitous advertising now going on would result in another fortune for the Tabernacle trustee and trance medium, Dr. Harrison A. Tucker, is truer than most preaching! Dr. Tucker has always had enough to do in his special line, but now he is simply overwhelmed with business. Isn't it strange that the most successful medium in the world, financially speaking, should be the leading member of the Tabernacle, and honored and beloved by the pastor?—"Eleanor Kirk," in Cape Ann Advertiser.

WILLIMANTIC, CT.—May 29th it was a great pleasure to listen to our old friend and brother, Dr. F. L. H. Willis, of Glenora, N. Y., after an absence of fifteen years. The lecturer spoke of life's changes and the many new faces that greeted him. He handled the subjects which he selected with all the vigor of days gone by, and at the close gave a magnificent poem in answer to "Talmage brother," as he expressed it.

The 3d inst. Prof. W. F. Peck delivered two of the most able lectures ever given on our platform. He will lecture again next Sunday afternoon and evening. Subject for the afternoon lecture: "Sin, and How to Cure It." For evening: "What Spiritualism has done in Forty Years for the World." Our Lyceum meets every Sunday at 12:15 P. M. with a good attendance, and much interest is manifested. ☞

NEW LONDON, CT.—Prof. J. W. Cadwell, the celebrated mesmerist, closed a highly successful engagement, June 2d, at the Opera House in this place. For the week ending June 9th he is to be in Westerly, R. I., and for the one following in Waterbury, Ct.——Frank T. Ripley delivered two interesting lectures in the Spiritualists' hall, New London, June 3d, afternoon and evening. Attendance good. The Daily Telegraph of the 4th spoke of his efforts in terms of praise.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—A correspondent writes May 28th: "Two questions were furnished by the audience last night, to be answered by Mrs. Helen Stuart-Richings. After these were appropriately considered and in a very able manner by Mrs. R., Mrs. C. L. Stevens, wife of our First Vice President, made brief remarks (under control) on theosophy."

Convention in New Hampshire.

The State Spiritualist Association will hold its annual Convention at Manchester, N. H., on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 22d, 23d and 24th, 1888.

Good speakers and mediums are engaged to be present, and all visiting friends will receive a cordial welcome.

It is expected that the usual fare reductions will be made on the railroads centering there.

Francestown, N. H. GEO. D. EPPS, Sec'y.

The Elixir of Life.

FROM A CHELA'S DIARY.

BY G. M., F. T. S.

Paper. Price 25 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

A DEFENCE OF MODERN SPIRITUALISM. By ALFRED R. WALLACE, F. R. S., etc. With American Preface by Epes Sargent.

This exceedingly interesting, most important and truthful essay, has attracted the attention of the whole civilized world, and the secular press everywhere speak in complimentary terms of the exhaustive arguments of its talented author.

Paper, 25 cents, postage free.
For sale by COLBY & RICH

How to Cure Skin & Scalp DISEASES with the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

THE MOST DISTRESSING FORMS OF SKIN AND scalp diseases, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age, are speedily, economically and permanently cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, when all other remedies and methods fail.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON, MASS.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Relief in one minute, for all pains and weaknesses, in CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster. 25c. Ja21

FORTY YEARS ON THE

SPIRITUAL ROSTRUM.

BY WARREN CHASE.

A SEQUEL TO "THE LIFE-LINE OF THE LONE ONE," AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF THE AUTHOR, AS

The World's Child,

WHO GAVE THE FIRST PUBLIC LECTURES IN THIS COUNTRY IN DEFENSE OF MODERN SPIRIT INTERCOURSE, AND WHOSE NAME IS FIRST ON THE LIST OF CALLS FOR COPIES OF "NATURE'S DIVINE REVELATIONS," WHEN IN PRESS IN 1847.

No one is better qualified to place on record reliable information regarding the early history of Modern Spiritualism and of its early advocates and defenders, than the author of this volume. There has been scarcely a worker for the cause he has not known; scarce a city or town in the Union he has not visited; and no place he has visited whose people have not enjoyed greater mental freedom and a better understanding of this life and assurance of a future one from his having been with them.

As a worker in every reformatory movement, Mr. Chase's career has been almost phenomenal in persistency, efficiency and self-sacrifice. He has been a pioneer—a pathfinder in the wilderness of moss-grown superstitions and hide-bound dogmas, making the way clear for the army of freedom-loving men and women that was to follow and destroy it. For this reason this autobiography of his should find place in the home of every friend of human progress and spiritual enlightenment, and be valued as a monument to his memory and his work.

CONTENTS.

CHAPTER I. Internal and External Forebodings of Social, Political and Religious Convulsions, Personal and General, resulting in a Social Effort by the Author.

II. Birth of Spiritualism—Failure of Fourierism—Political Career Opened, and Sketches on the Path of Life by the Crooked and Tangled Line—The First Spiritual Paper, The Univercælum, and its Objects Explained.

III. Early Work—Boston Investigator—Univercælum, Spirit Messenger, and Early Workers, etc.

IV. Catalogue of Names and Short Biographical Notices of Early Workers and Persecutions.

V. A Brief and Brilliant Political Career.

VI. Threading my Way along the "Hard Road to Travel On"—Incidents and Events in the Path of Life.

VII. What I have learned from Forty Years' Intercourse with Spirits—Sexual Life in the Spirit-World—My Social, Political and Religious Creed, etc.

VIII. Extracts and Scraps of Correspondence running through Many Years, with Various and Progressive Ideas on Spirit-Life and Intercourse; with Scraps from my Scrap-book worth keeping and largely variegated.

IX. Poetical Selections from Various Sources, Personal and General—Good and Poor, but not Bad, greatly mixed, in Published and Unpublished Scraps.

The volume is embellished with a portrait of the author.

12mo, cloth, pp. 324. Price $1.00; postage 10 cents

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

UNANSWERABLE LOGIC:

A SERIES OF

SPIRITUAL DISCOURSES,

GIVEN THROUGH THE MEDIUMSHIP OF

THOMAS GALES FORSTER.

These lectures, in a remarkably clear and comprehensive manner, give a very complete presentation of the phenomena and teachings of Modern Spiritualism, comparing them with those of the past in respect to life here and hereafter, and showing most conclusively that they are identical with the foundation facts and principles of primitive Christianity.

The arguments in support of a natural religion are strong and impregnable to all assaults that may be leveled against them, and commend themselves, by their reasonableness, to the common-sense understanding of every honest-minded person. The views presented of a future life—the undeniable proofs given of the reality, naturalness and immortality of that life—will be consolatory to those who mourn the seeming loss of friends, and inspire them with courage to meet the trials and duties that attend their present form of existence.

The thousands who have listened to the eloquent discourses of Thomas Gales Forster, when in the prime of earth-life, and wished that the truths he uttered, and so ably enforced under the inspiration of his exalted spirit-guides, might be put in a form available for the enlightenment of the world of mankind now and in future years, will welcome this volume with heartfelt gratitude.

The book as a whole is true to its name, and many who might be disposed to combat the author's positions will find that he has fortified them with "Unanswerable Logic."

CONTENTS.

LECTURE I.—What is Spiritualism?
LECTURE II.—The Spiritual Body.
LECTURE III.—The Analogy Existing between the Facts of the Bible and the Facts of Spiritualism.
LECTURE IV.—Philosophy of Death.
LECTURE V.—What Lies Beyond the Veil.
LECTURE VI.—The Resurrection.
LECTURE VII.—Future Rewards and Punishments.
LECTURE VIII.—Joan of Arc.
LECTURE IX.—Human Destiny.
LECTURE X.—Spiritualism of the Apostles.
LECTURE XI.—Heaven.
LECTURE XII.—Hell.
LECTURE XIII.—The Devotional Element in Man.
LECTURE XIV.—Thanksgiving Day.
LECTURE XV.—Do We Ever Forget?
LECTURE XVI.—Clairvoyance and Clairaudience.
LECTURE XVII.—What Spiritualists Believe.
LECTURE XVIII.—Spiritualism Without an Adjective.
LECTURE XIX.—Christmas and its Suggestions.
LECTURE XX.—Protoplasm.
LECTURE XXI.—Anniversary Address.
LECTURE XXII.—Spiritualists and Mediums.
LECTURE XXIII.—Ye have Bodies, but ye are Spirits.
LECTURE XXIV.—The Unity of God.

Cloth, large 12mo, beveled boards. Price $1.50, postage free.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

NEW EDITION, REVISED AND ENLARGED.

Men, Women and Gods.

BY HELEN H. GARDENER.

INTRODUCTION BY ROBERT G. INGERSOLL.

Helen H. Gardener was first introduced to the public by Col. Ingersoll, since when she has won a place in the hearts of all Freethinkers by her ability, and by the brilliancy of her lectures. The contents of this volume are: Men, Women and Gods; Vicarious Atonement; Historical Facts and Theological Fictions.

Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

The Relations of Science TO THE Phenomena of Life.

BY PROF. MICHAEL FARADAY.

Late Electrician and Chemist, of England.

Paper, price 10 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH

SPIRITUAL PHILOSOPHY: Comprising Wise Words from an Exalted Spirit Intelligence known when on Earth by the name of SWEDENBORG. Also, Practical Teachings from an Ascended Pastor.

The teachings contained in this volume are presented to the

BANNER OF LIGHT.

AN EXPONENT OF THE SPIRITUAL PHILOSOPHY OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY.

VOL. LXIII. | COLBY & RICH, Publishers and Proprietors. | BOSTON, SATURDAY, JUNE 16, 1888. | $3,00 Per Annum, Postage Free. | NO. 14.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

FIRST PAGE.—American Spiritualist Alliance. The Reviewer: Girard's Will and Girard College Theology. The Spiritual Rostrum: The Future of Your Country.

SECOND PAGE.—Poetry: A Few of the Trusts. Doings by the Workers: Chicago, Ill.; New York City; Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. Field in Saratoga. June Magazines.

THIRD PAGE.—Poetry: The Ending of the World. Banner Correspondence: Letters from Massachusetts, New York, Illinois, Rhode Island, and Ohio. Obituary Notices, etc.

FOURTH PAGE.—Force and Fact—Faith and Knowledge. Paul in Paradise. James Freeman Clarke. "I Am no Evoluter." A "Haunted House" in Augusta, Me., etc.

FIFTH PAGE.—All Sorts of Paragraphs. Spiritualist Camp-Meetings. Movements of Mediums and Lecturers. New Advertisements, etc.

SIXTH PAGE.—Message Department: Questions Answered through the Mediumship of Miss M. T. Shelhamer; Spirit Messages given through the Mediumship of Mrs. B. F. Smith. Verifications of Spirit-Messages.

SEVENTH PAGE.—Spiritual Phenomena: Materialization in Florida. In Memoriam. Spiritualist Meetings. Mediums in Boston. Book and Miscellaneous Advertisements.

EIGHTH PAGE.—Secular Press Bureau—Spiritualism. Spiritualist Meetings in Boston, New York and Elsewhere. Cleveland (O.) Notes. Grand Rapids, Mich. Passed to Spirit-Life. Our Foreign Exchanges. Divines Disagree, etc.

American Spiritualist Alliance.

At the regular meeting of The Alliance, on Wednesday evening, May 30th, the time was consumed in the reading of the subjoined report, and remarks appertaining to the same subject, and an open letter to Rev. Dr. Talmage, sent to the Corresponding Secretary by I. Lowendahl of Vineland, N. J., with request that he procure the publication of the same.

On motion of Mr. Clark, the Report of Judge Nelson Cross, as a Committee of One, was accepted and the Committee discharged, and the Corresponding Secretary was directed to furnish copies of the same to the several Spiritualistic publications for their columns.

On motion of Mr. Jeaneret, The Alliance adjourned until the second Wednesday in September.

After the adjournment, Mrs. Effie Moss, who was present, entered a small cabinet, and a number of forms presented themselves and talked with their friends or addressed the circle publicly.

JOHN FRANKLIN CLARK, Cor. Sec'y.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON THE ARREST, INCARCERATION AND PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION OF MADAM DISS DEBAR, AND OTHERS, BEFORE POLICE JUSTICE KILBRETH.

Your Committee to whom was referred the several matters aforesaid, in compliance with the duties enjoined upon him, respectfully reports as follows:

Some seven or eight years ago a person passing under the name of Madam Diss Debar became the object of a good deal of interest by reason of certain phenomenal occurrences that took place in her presence, which seem to have increased in interest to the present time.

By those who are best acquainted with her gifts, Madam Debar is conceded to be a spiritual medium for physical manifestations of a certain order. Lest there should be some misunderstanding of this term, it is proper to premise that a medium, in common acceptation, is an individual so organized as to be susceptible of being used as an intermediary of spirits and mortals in their intelligent intercommunication, as by sounds, sight, hearing, writing, spoken language and various other modes, including drawings, paintings and photographic representations, more or less familiar to those who have brought to their investigations of the subject the requisite patience, fairness and intelligence.

Among those who recently availed themselves of Madam Diss Debar's mediumship for the purpose of investigating the phenomena presented through her instrumentality was Luther R. Marsh, a senior member of the New York bar, who has attained great eminence in his profession, as well as in more popular fields of learning, and who is to-day one of the most scholarly members of his profession in this country.

We understand that the extraordinary medial gifts of Madam Diss Debar were brought to the attention of Mr. Marsh by the Hon. John L. O'Sullivan, a well-known citizen, formerly Minister to Portugal, and at one time editor-in-chief of the Democratic Review, who had witnessed many of the marvels attributed to her involuntary agency, among which was the almost instantaneous production of likenesses and sketches in oil colors. Madam Diss Debar was at this time residing on Washington Square in New York City, where Mr. Marsh received indubitable proof of the verity of those claims, which establish her as, perhaps, the most extraordinary physical medium in this or any other country. Satisfied upon this point, it is not strange that a gentleman of Mr. Marsh's acquirements and disposition should embrace the opportunity thus presented to pursue his investigations further into these mysteries, which to the thoughtful are second in interest and importance to no other, and to this end Mr. Marsh subsequently offered his almost tenantless house as a refuge to Madam Diss Debar and her immediate family, that she and they might be placed beyond those distracting cares which so greatly disturb the conditions which are found to be essential to the best results in mediumship.

Without pausing to refute any of the charges which have been brought against Madam Diss Debar by her assailants irrespective of her mediumship, with which alone, under the terms of your resolution, I am called upon to deal, let us here consider some of the phenomena occurring in her presence which have given to her name such unusual prominence and made her in such wide measure an object of contumely and abuse. During her sojourn at Onset Camp-ground in the summer of 1886, and whilst in the water with a bathing party, one of the number playfully bantered her to produce a picture then and there. In answer to the challenge a paper box-cover was produced, and whilst held on the head of one of the party, in the clear sunlight, an oil-painting was distinctly seen to come upon it, apart from the Madam, which certainly was not the work of any visible hand, and with which she could have had no manifest concern.

Again, on a similar occasion, one of a party picked up a clamshell quite at random, and, washing it, solicited of the Madam a picture, which to the astonishment of all present came upon the shell, limned in oil colors, whilst held by the recipient apart from the medium.

More recently, in the city of New York, a female member of this Alliance, in company with two other ladies, all strangers to Madam Diss Debar, called upon her at her studio for the purpose of obtaining what is termed a spirit picture. This was not promised; indeed, the Madam disclaimed any personal direction in producing such a manifestation, asserting what every Spiritualist knows to be true, that she as a medium was used only as an involuntary instrument under the direction of influences never subject to her will. However, upon the production of an ordinary cardboard, one of the party, an excellent clairvoyant, observed a silvery ray of light of remarkable brilliancy which descended upon it, and immediately thereafter all the details of a picture, with landscape and images, were apparent to her vision, precisely as they subsequently came upon the placque whilst held by one of the visitors, who recognized the miniature faces as acquaintances of other days.

Numbers of persons of both sexes have been present with this medium and seen like pictures come at various times and under like circumstances; that is to say, upon the surfaces of placques and canvases, prepared by ordinary methods and sold at the art stores, and that, too, in clear daylight and under conditions which rendered deception impossible. On one occasion a well-known gentleman, whilst sitting in her room by himself and holding an ample canvas upon which a portrait of a distinguished artist of the seventeenth century had been promised for that day, it appeared almost instantly upon the canvas in fresh oil colors, with a strength and accuracy which any trained artist would appreciate.

On another occasion, in Madam Diss Debar's presence a visitor held an artist's blank canvas on his head, upon which appeared seven medallion heads, in oil colors, of well-known historical characters of a remote period.

Also I may mention the case of a gentleman at Onset Bay, in Massachusetts, in 1886, who in the presence of Madam Diss Debar held two slates, with nothing between them, in his right hand, the medium four feet from him. Instantly he heard the sound as if some sharp instrument was cutting one of the slates. His surmise was correct, for upon the lower slate were found three portraits—one female and two males—and a vase of flowers. Besides, deeply cut into the slate, was a moral sentence addressed to the holder, and signed by the initials of decarnated individual friends.

I might multiply similar evidences to a greater extent, thus clearly demonstrating beyond a reasonable doubt to the intelligent and fair-minded, the extraordinary medial gifts of this eccentric woman, into whose keeping Mr. Marsh was induced to commit the dwelling where for the most part they were given, to be dedicated and used in some sort as a sacred tabernacle of what he seriously and not unreasonably regarded as a New Dispensation. The number of paintings and crayons given through her instrumentality at the residence of Mr. Marsh is above seventy, and many persons of both sexes, not all nor perhaps a majority of them Spiritualists, who have witnessed their production, are very positive that they were formed independently of any visible agency; but in the minds of the ignorant and prejudiced they are held in the same category as the tricks of mountebanks and conjurers.

In addition to this, Mr. Marsh had received a large number of communications, written in ink, upon blank books of his own procuring, sometimes fifty and sixty pages at a time, in the course of two and three minutes, for the most part essays and discourses without confusion or break in method and arrangement, sometimes alluding to a present event, and introducing illustrative drawings, and on at least one occasion affixing a cameo likeness of the signer, exquisitely wrought and easily recognized.

Among the many persons who were privileged to inspect these remarkable productions was B. M. Lawrence, M. D., a gentleman of mature years, a Spiritualist of long standing, of unblemished reputation, and withal a member of this Alliance. So deeply was Dr. Lawrence impressed with the value of these phenomena as a means of enlightenment to the thousands in and out of the spiritualistic ranks, that he made them the principal theme of a lecture delivered at the parlors of some of our well-known citizens, assisted by stereopticon views magnified upon a screen. It was with the object of perfecting his plans for a more complete exhibition that the Doctor visited Madam Diss Debar at her residence, 166 Madison Avenue, where a number of stereopticon plates had been prepared and adjusted to an improved lantern, with which experiments were being made.

It was at this stage that Mr. Marsh issued a polite invitation to the editors of the leading New York dailies to visit his residence and inspect these marvelous productions. The invitation contained the candid avowal that, although having been accustomed to critical examinations of testimony in courts of justice for half a century, he had been unable to discover any means by which these pictures and writings could have been produced otherwise than through invisible agencies. Concerning a matter of the above importance it was reasonable for Mr. Marsh to assume that the press would fairly respect his invitation, if only on account of the opportunity it offered for the investigation of what was claimed to be a most valuable truth; but such was not the case. The invitation was responded to by a class of newspaper reporters the very reverse of what Mr. Marsh anticipated, who made their admission to his house the occasion of a malignant attack upon Madam Diss Debar and the evidences of her mediumship submitted to their inspection, and even upon their affable host, holding him up to ridicule as an easy victim of imposture. Indeed, the sensational accounts of the leading city newspapers, emblazoned under the most extravagant headlines, which followed this press exhibition, were not of a character to inspire confidence in these boasted vehicles of popular information. They assume, 1st, That the claim of mediumship, in the sense that any individual is capable of being used as an intermediate for the production of what is termed spirit-paintings and writings, is a pretense and a delusion.

2d, That those persons who have been led to place confidence in any such claims are either self-deluded or the victims of imposture.

Reasoning from the foregoing premises, the conclusion arrived at was that the pictures and writings exhibited by Mr. Marsh were the result of trick and deception practiced upon him by Madam Diss Debar, aided and abetted by the male Debar as an accomplice.

The immediate outcome of these newspaper attacks was a public lecture by Mr. Marsh the following Sunday evening, at Chickering Hall, on which occasion he exhibited stereopticon views of a number of the pictures in question and gave accounts of the circumstances of their production. The lecture was very able, covering a good deal of ground, and dealt some severe blows upon the heads of the scoffers of spiritualistic truth, who cling to many of the absurd superstitions of the past and refuse even to investigate the more reasonable facts so plainly visible in the present, or at least to explain their significance.

In the meantime Dr. Lawrence, Mr. Marsh and Madam Diss Debar had agreed upon the terms of a contract of three parts, which had actually been drawn up, for the exhibition of stereopticon views of these pictures, to illustrate a series of lectures to be delivered at various points by the doctor, for which ample preparations had been made. The one third share of the proceeds, represented by Mr. Marsh, was to go to what was termed the Temple fund.

But before this contract was executed, a strolling theatrical manager, named Randolph, evidently attracted by the notoriety which the newspapers had given to the Debar collection, immediately opened negotiations for their exhibition under his direction, promising great results, and Dr. Lawrence was set aside and the new comer taken into favor. It was at this juncture that Hermann, the conjurer, seizing upon the sensation of the hour as a means of advertising himself, boastingly offered to wager a large sum that he would duplicate any manifestation of Madam Diss Debar at a public performance to be given at a time and place named.

This offer was hastily accepted by the man Randolph, who doubtless supposed the contest would be one of personal skill and draw a "big house"; but, when Madam Diss Debar was informed of his action, she repudiated wager, contract and manager in one breath. The consequence was, that instead of fleecing Mr. Marsh out of thousands, as he says he conspired to do, Randolph found himself, to use a theatrical term, stranded, with nothing better to do than to turn informer.

The next act in this sensational drama was the arrest of Madam and Mr. Diss Debar and the two Lawrences, father and son, upon the grave charge of conspiring to defraud Mr. Marsh of his property and means. This was indeed a surprise, the more so because of the Lawrences, who were known to be altogether above a suspicion of dishonesty. The father, well on in years, who had always borne an unimpeachable character, had only recently become interested in the Debar collection and helped to prepare it for public exhibition, while the son had but then unexpectedly returned to New York after the failure of a projected tour to South America, and being disengaged volunteered to assist his father in this employment. The surprise was heightened when it was discovered that the prosecution was in the name of the aggrieved(?) People of the State of New York, and was set on foot by these two conservators of public justice, Howe and Hummell. The ex-rebel Colonel John R. Fellows, by a curious political turn, had been elected to the responsible office of District Attorney; but by what right or authority he delegated his duties as a sworn prosecutor to the firm in question, is something of a legal puzzle, and on behalf of "the People" should be authoritatively inquired into. At all events the different parts of the legal machinery fitted each other to a nicety. The Committing Magistrate, who issued the warrant, declared in an action tried before him some four years ago wherein Madam Diss Debar was a party, that he would not take the oath of a Spiritualist in his court! This meant, if it meant anything, that if the religion of a witness included a belief in the communication of mortals and spirits, it was of itself sufficiently conclusive of his inability or disinclination to tell the truth to reader him unworthy of belief.

Verily a magistrate so discreetly chosen was likely to meet the expectations of the equally well chosen prosecutors.

It was industriously given out that the New York Bar Association was behind this prosecution; that it was this body that set it on foot, and enlisted the services of Howe and Hummell; but as all such bodies act by resolution duly offered, considered and passed upon, and as your Committee can learn of no such deliberate action, it is but fair to repudiate an imputation which does them so little credit. Indeed, we are forced to the conclusion that this whole business was planned and carried out by the "enterprising" lawyers who appeared for the People by the consent and procurement of District Attorney Fellows!

The city press was jubilant over these results. Here was a new sensation, and newspapers were greatly in demand. All the accounts were one-sided and exaggerated. A vile conspiracy had been unearthed, and the conspirators had been committed to prison. Their bail was fixed at an unusually high figure, and Mr. Marsh upon his offer had been rejected as surety.

After some delay the trial was proceeded with. Mr. Marsh gave an account of a number of pictures, which were produced in court. He was followed by a foreign portrait-painter of the name of Friedlander, who pronounced the pictures on exhibition daubs; and if we are to judge by a portrait of Mr. Marsh by this artist, afterward put in evidence, we must concede his claim of expert in this particular branch of industry.

A cheap sleight-of-hand performer was introduced by the prosecution to perform the writing trick with the aid of a female assistant, who, after retiring to prearrange the experiment, made, as might have been anticipated, a lamentable failure. An attempt was also made to explain the production of spirit-pictures by bringing out upon an apparently blank sheet, by wetting it, a mono-chromatic likeness. These were infantile performances, unworthy of the occasion, and quite beyond the scope of legitimate evidence, but they served to add zest to the show, and satisfy the minds of the ignorant that the effort was to explode a humbug.

A number of witnesses for the defense testified to some important details, sustaining the utmost that was claimed concerning the much ridiculed spirit-pictures and writings; enough, and more than enough, to establish the innocence of all the accused; but at almost every turn of events the over-zealous deputy prosecutors opened their ready mine of prejudice by presenting in no enviable light some of the indefensible characteristics of the principal defendant. Her parentage, early history, past life and personal habits were permitted to be gone into ad nauseam, as if the present accusation were to be adjudged by some vague doctrine of probabilities.

So far as the manipulation of Mr. Marsh's property was concerned, it was shown by him that its transfer to Madam Diss Debar was his voluntary act, as a means, though far from the best, of devoting it to the uses of a religion which had met all the requirements of his intellect and drawn so heavily upon his sympathies. No sinister influences were shown to have been used to bring about this conveyance, nor was Madam Debar aware of his purpose till the deed was placed in her hands. Her residence there, with the several members of her family, was in response to Mr. Marsh's invitation, and almost solely for his personal advantage, in view of her superior gifts. It was evident that, gauged by legal rule, the prosecution must fail, when a new charge was brought against Madam Diss Debar, involving the larceny of a number of valuable oil paintings which were seized at her late residence; but there is a present rumor that this charge has been abandoned.

As to the Lawrences, there was positively no evidence against them whatever. Their arrest and incarceration as conspirators was shown to have been cruel and malicious, and after having been consigned for a number of days to a felon's cell, filthy beyond comparison, in the keeping of a brutal blackguard, whose slightest favor was held at a price; and after being day after day publicly arraigned as criminals, lampooned by the press and subjected to the gibes of a quasi public prosecutor, in what, by a stretch of meaning, is termed a Hall of Justice, they were discharged as guiltless of any offence.

As to Mr. and Madam Diss Debar, your committee is unable to discover any evidence against them tending to sustain the charge upon which they were held. There was no proof of conspiracy nor of any act cognizable to the criminal law of this State, notwithstanding the newly fledged prosecutor took every occasion to unload upon them his ample store of vituperation and abuse.

Concerning Mr. Diss Debar, it was shown that he was an accomplished draughtsman, linguist and translator, who sometimes bought canvases at the art stores. Every suspicion against him was run down with the persistency of a field-hound in hot pursuit, but nothing was found. So, too, in respect to Madam Diss Debar, so far as concerns the charge of having conspired with others, or used any artifice to overreach Mr. Marsh. At the outset her accusers showed themselves unworthy of belief. One was shown to be a vagabond, and the other totally unreliable. All the legitimate proof was in favor of the accused. Mr. Marsh was unshaken in his belief in the genuineness of the manifestations which occurred in her presence, as indeed are millions of others in similar manifestations, and the prosecution was driven to the makeshift of charging the Madam with having made Mr. Marsh a lunatic, doubtless upon the unexplained theory that only a lunatic could be made to accept as true the unusual evidences of mundane and supermundane coördination which this investigation brought to light.

From the course pursued in this investigation, we are forced to conclude that it was, more than all, that Spiritualism was on trial: that, indeed, this whole proceeding was a conspiracy against liberty and the private rights of citizens by the enemies of our Philosophy and our Religion, aided and abetted by a subservient journalistic press, largely directed by persons foreign to our institutions and inimical to the liberality of our people and our times.

The unworthy methods resorted to clearly indicate that the day of persecution is at hand, making it incumbent upon Spiritualists of whatever shades of belief, now numbering some millions in this country alone, to fraternize and band together socially, religiously, and, if need be, politically, for mutual support and protection against the assaults of opposing factions, which do not scruple to use any dishonorable means to bring the religion of Spiritualism into contempt, and hold its votaries up to ridicule as wanting in the common elements of manhood.

The purposes of this Alliance, if rightly conceived and energetically carried out, will do much toward the accomplishment of this result.

The Reviewer.

GIRARD'S WILL AND GIRARD COLLEGE THEOLOGY. By Richard B. Westbrook, D.D., LL.D., author of "Marriage and Divorce," "The Bible—Whence and What?" "Man—Whence and Whither?" etc. 16mo, cloth, pp. 183. Philadelphia: The Author, 1707 Oxford street.

The publication of this volume is stated to be "a matter of conscience," its purpose being to show that the present system of religious instruction pursued in Girard College is in violation of the conditions of the Will, which bequeathed to the city of Philadelphia a property now representing twenty million dollars, one of which conditions is "that no ecclesiastic, missionary, or minister of any sect whatsoever, shall ever hold or exercise any station or duty whatever in said college; nor any such person admitted for any purpose, or as a visitor." Explanatory of his motive in making this provision, Mr. Girard added that he cast no reflection upon any sect or person; he wished that the orphans for whom the college was intended should derive advantage from his bequest, "free from the excitement which clashing doctrines and sectarian controversy are so apt to produce."

"My desire," he said, "is, that all the instructors and teachers in the college shall take pains to instill into the minds of the scholars the purest principles of morality, so that on their entrance into active life they may, from inclination and habit, evince benevolence toward their fellow-creatures, and a love of truth, sobriety and industry, adopting at the same time such religious tenets as their matured reason may enable them to prefer."

After several unsuccessful attempts to break the above condition by those who assumed to think "the purest principles of morality" were not sufficient for the proper guidance of the pupils, they cast about to find some way to evade its requirements; but finding none, they made a bold move and erected on the college grounds an imposing church edifice, called a chapel, entering which to-day the visitor will find in the pews a book entitled, "A Manual for the Chapel of Girard College," containing excerpts from The Episcopal Book of Common Prayer, recognizing a virgin-born Saviour, the second advent of Christ, and a future day of judgment, and scores of hymns inculcating such sentiments as

> "I lay my sins on Jesus,
> The spotless Lamb of God;
> He bears them all, and frees us
> From the accursed load."
>
> "Buried in sorrow and in sin,
> At hell's dark door we lay!
> But we arise by grace divine
> To see a heavenly day."

It is submitted that by permitting such gross violation of the conditions of the Will, the City of Philadelphia forfeits its claim upon the property. Dr. W. remarks that "the best interests of morality and religion require the strictest adherence to the provisions of a trust. Fiduciary unfaithfulness in public affairs is now the one great source of peril to the free institutions of our country, and all moralists and patriots should unite in cherishing that 'eternal vigilance' which is 'the price of liberty.' If the present policy is not soon discontinued or greatly changed, the citizens of Philadelphia should appeal to the courts to judicially enforce conformity to the conditions upon which this great charity was intended to be founded."

A native of Finland, named Runen, was sent two years ago, by that government, to try to discover the art of Persian carpet-weaving. He finally obtained employment in a small factory in Smyrna, where he acquired the desired information and made a design of the loom. A Persian carpet factory has now been established in Finland and great results are expected.

The Spiritual Rostrum.

The Future of Your Country.

A Discourse by Spirit La Fayette, given through the Mediumship of

MRS. H. S. LAKE,

Before the Spiritual Fraternity Society, at the First Spiritual Temple, Boston, Mass., Sunday, May 6th, 1888.

[Reported for the Banner of Light.]

INVOCATION.

Our guides and teachers, counselors and friends in spirit, you who inspire and assist us in our endeavors to attain greater spiritual heights, we ask this afternoon for renewed inspiration and aspiration. May we, as audience, inspirers and instrument, come harmoniously into a recognition of the truth, and may every utterance of this hour be prompted by the highest and best which we are capable of apprehending and expressing, so that, out of the services of this day, there may be evolved within us greater strength and courage, a renewed conviction of duty, a deeper devotion to truth, and a greater love of those principles upon which this government is established.

DISCOURSE.

Ladies and Gentlemen: I am to speak to you this afternoon upon a subject in which I am profoundly interested; one which is, perhaps, the most important which can at present occupy your attention as inhabitants of this mundane sphere, wherein you temporarily reside. I trust that it may be possible for me to convey to your minds all that I apprehend and comprehend, relative to it and the situation involved. At least I shall endeavor to do so in the highest interests of what I conceive to be a love of country, such as your Republic is founded upon—a feeling as deep and as pure as it is possible for human hearts to imagine and understand.

In looking over the conditions which I observe to-day existing in your country, I realize how difficult it is that all persons connected with your institutions shall be able to realize that which I realize, looking from an entirely different standpoint. I also realize how difficult it will be for me to impress upon you those thoughts generated in my brain relative to the conditions I observe, and the apprehension I have in regard to the same. Yet, laboring with all these disadvantages, and animated with a sincere desire to impart that which will be of service to you, I shall venture to present the typical future of your country; and, while I may not possibly be able to give you a correct idea, in all respects, relative to the different elements at work in your institutions, as they now exist, I trust I shall be able to give you something which will be of advantage to you in your individual and collective capacity as citizens of this nation.

There are many conditions now existing which serve to arouse the gravest apprehensions on the part of the far-seeing friends of this Republic, and it is but natural that the patriots, heroes and martyrs of other centuries and different ages should be interested, and very deeply so, in that which concerns one of the fairest spots upon your globe, baptized as it has been with the blood and tears of those who labored to establish a place of refuge for the downtrodden and oppressed of all lands. As we look back over those years, when to be identified with the "Rights of Man" was to be a subject of opprobrium and abuse; when to be imbued with the aspiration and inspiration to free men and women from the rule of a country which did not believe in the equality of men, and in the perpetuity of the liberties of the same, and see now the condition to which the governments of the different nations of the world have been, in the evolutionary process of the spirit, drawn or driven, it is not to be wondered at that we regard with peculiar affection and interest this central idea, as it were, of republicanism, established here in the United States of America. Although the institutions of this government may not be as perfect as we could desire, they are, nevertheless, the expression of the highest formulated wisdom which our world was then capable of introducing upon this planet. Yet, comprehending the difficulties under which you to-day are laboring as a nation, we shall endeavor to point out some of the obstacles which may possibly arise to prevent, or at least to mar, the anticipations of those who are most deeply interested in the welfare of republican institutions, and who have the highest possible conception of the obligations which citizenship imposes upon them.

You possess a vast territory, stretching from ocean to ocean, and dotted with mountains, forests and lakes, whose resources are such that they must, necessarily, bring to you the highest material prosperity. Your physical surroundings are the very best that it is possible for nature, with her lavish hand, to bestow upon the children of men; hence it ought not to be a matter of amazement that, as citizens of this Republic, even with your limited understanding of the advantages which you possess, you should feel a certain amount of pride which may, perhaps, blind your eyes to the dangers threatening your institutions, to so great a degree as we at present perceive. Material advantages and prosperity, after all, are only those methods of expression which the spirit seeks; and, however advantageous may be the conditions of the material world, and the resources of the same, which you are capable of appropriating, unless those resources and conditions are made subservient to the highest and best interest and welfare of the spirit in man, individually and collectively, they have failed of the purpose for which they were designed.

On this new continent, in this new atmosphere, and under conditions which never before existed, this Republic was founded. It was an expression, as I have already said, of the highest wisdom of the two spheres, material and spiritual, which it was possible to blend at that time, and under those circumstances; and there was, and has continued to be since that grand epoch, no cessation of interest on the part of those who are watching the destiny of this Republic, relative to its ultimate condition and future prospects. Wherever there are foes, either foreign or domestic, wherever there are dissensions which threaten the perpetuity of your institutions, there also are the watchful spirit guardians, who seek to repress and control the mental expression of those persons who may be designing to undermine the liberties of the people, and to destroy the conditions that were purchased by such a sacrifice of blood and treasure.

As we look over the history of your Republic, we are called, in memory, back to the time when this land was rocked from centre to circumference in the throes of civil war; when the liberty-loving and justice loving people of this country united with a firm determination to erase from the escutcheon of the nation that blot of human slavery which was so deeply engrained upon its beautiful exterior; and we see, arising from the conditions which then existed, a power of spirit which is to-day felt in all the deliberations of assemblies everywhere, whether state or national: for there is no force ever brought to bear in the realm material, born of the power of principle and of spirit, which is not permanent in its effects. Although the purpose to maintain the rights of man, at whatever cost, is a principle deeply implanted in the breasts of the American people, yet, as all life is made up of conflict, and as all conditions are positive and negative, opposing and conciliating, there is and must always be, so far as we can apprehend, conditions existing, both in this government and in all other governments, which will be of such a character that apprehension must at times be felt. There is being poured constantly upon your continent, and into the borders of your Republic, a current of individual and collective ignorance of republican institutions, which to-day menaces the foundation of this government. The psychological influence of persons imbued with the ideas which are born and nurtured under monarchical rule, in which the rights of the many are not considered as of so much importance as the rights of the few, has more effect upon the perpetuity of your institutions than have the millions of material bodies which work with you, and take part in your elections. Psychological influences, emanating from the shores of the old world, are felt here to-day upon your Western continent in a way that is hardly conceivable by those who are looking only to the external; but we who, as guardians of this Republic in spirit, are watching the hidden forces at work in your national life, may reasonably apprehend some danger thereto, unless you shall be aroused in time to consider the consequences which may possibly ensue from the circumstances which I have named.

It is not possible for men and women to at once eliminate from their minds those ideas and principles which have been transmitted from generation to generation, and incorporated in the blood and bone and muscle and tissue of the organism. Hence, when men and women come here from the countries of the Old World, where they have not been taught to recognize the equality of men but have had instilled into their minds instead the idea that some are born sovereigns and rulers over others, you at once see that the psychological power evolved from this condition forms a powerful battery, by and through which those upon our plane who are interested in those older forms of government can work to influence your national life. It should not, then, seem unreasonable to you, realizing—as most of you do—the force of spirit influence, that it is just as essential for us, upon our side of life, to watch and jealously guard the principles upon which your government is founded, as it is for you, as citizens of this Republic, to do the same upon the outer side of human existence.

It is impossible for us to cast a prophetic vision toward the future of your country without also indulging in retrospect—without taking into consideration that which has been together with that which is to be. Looking from your present state, and understanding some of the conditions of your life as a people and a nation, we wish to impress upon you the fact that it is time that all who believe in republican institutions, who love liberty and who are devoted to the welfare of their fellowmen, should be made to realize the sacredness of citizenship, and understand the impossibility of sustaining a Republic in any condition whatsoever in accordance with the principles of justice, unless every citizen of that Republic shall hold his ballot as sacred as his very soul, and be determined that, whenever his vote is cast, there shall always be a man and a conviction behind the same, and that every expression of political opinion shall be a religious expression, based upon the highest and most beautiful spiritual conception of which he is capable.

In view of the circumstances to which I have briefly alluded, namely: the misapprehension relative to your principles and institutions which exist among those who are coming here so rapidly from other countries, it behooves you, as citizens interested in the welfare of those principles and institutions, to arouse yourselves to a realization of the terrible consequences which must and will ensue unless there shall be developed within the brains and hearts of the people of this country a love of liberty so strong and pure that neither party prejudice nor material gain shall weigh in the least against it. Unless this condition can be generated among the people, we cannot safely predict for you the future of this country, inasmuch as we see, as do also many upon your plane of life, that there is gradually being developed among you a love of aristocracy, of wealth and of distinction, which is a direct menace to democracy and the institution which it represents. We view with alarm this growing sentiment, which is really an outbirth, as it were, on new and prolific soil, of the old parent stem of monarchial government, and the sovereignty of one over many, which has not been eliminated from the organism of the individual nor of the race.

Wherever there is a love of power which is not made subservient to a love of justice, there must always be evolved therefrom a most untrustworthy and dangerous condition; and this motive, which actuates so many of those engaged in the concerns that you call those of citizenship and statesmanship, connected with your government, is one of the most threatening elements with which you have to contend.

Everywhere we find those who, in their efforts to sustain self, or party, or position, forget principle, and that which is more powerful than the material, namely, the spiritual; and that man or woman who should to-day make the statement that a political organization ought to be a religious one, in the highest and best sense of that term, would be a subject of derision. Unless, however, this element of spirituality can be so unfolded within the minds and hearts of the people that love of justice is made paramount to love of party, and love of truth to love of material gain, the dangers which menace this country are numerous and formidable, inasmuch as your very government is established upon the belief that the will of the people is all-sovereign.

The finest illumination of the spirit is required to meet and overcome the dangers which threaten your national life; yet you have excluded from your elective franchise the very ones who possess that element, and who might, very properly, wield the same to prevent the overthrow of those principles. As the condition of human slavery, which existed at the time of the formation of this government, and which continued to exist until your late civil war gave it its death-blow, weakened and undermined the foundations of this nation, by reason of the fact that it was not in consonance with the principles of justice and right; and as, in consequence of that fact, you were obliged to pass through those long and trying years in which the blood and treasure of this country were freely expended to establish a partial condition of justice; so also, we, as spirit guardians of this republican government, say to you this afternoon you will be called upon to pass through even more trying ordeals unless you are willing, as a people, to incorporate into your Constitution that degree of justice which shall enfranchise that half of the citizenship of this country which is now disfranchised—namely, your women.

While you stand before the nations of the world to-day as an ideal Republic, toward which the oppressed and downtrodden of all countries turn for refuge, you are simply an ideal Republic, after all—the foreshadowing only of what may yet be evolved from that inscrutable power which we call Divine Providence. Standing thus in the very forefront of civilization, you are called upon as a people, by virtue of the epoch in which you now live, the era which you have attained as a nation, and the force of those influences of the spirit, impelling all toward a higher and better condition of society, to rise to that plane where you may truly represent the principles of self-government. When I say this I am looking toward the future when this government shall really be that which it is proclaimed to be—"a government of the people, for the people, and by the people."

When this is done, those resources of your country which can supply you with so much of that which is necessary to your material welfare, will be used as they ought to be, in consonance with the spirit.

Men and women everywhere, toiling in all branches of life, will then be remunerated according to the labor which they have performed.

I should fail of having given to you all that is generated in my brain this afternoon, if, in contemplating the future condition of your country, I should omit to mention that the struggle in which the people are engaged is not simply a struggle for mental and bodily liberty, but it is a struggle also for freedom for the soul to express itself through material environments. Therefore, when the toilers of the world, who to-day are gathering upon your great continent in obedience to the law of self-preservation, and are endeavoring to solve the problem of existence, seek to obtain a foothold upon the soil of your country, they find it very largely already in the hands of those who do not use it, and, as a consequence, the workers are deprived of their natural inheritance. Until you recognize this fact, which must be apparent to all justice-lovers, and all seekers after truth, that this grand continent, this planet of yours, belongs to every man and every woman proportionately alike, you have not apprehended the first principles of justice. There are those who begin to realize that, after all, equality means equality of opportunity; and unless opportunities be presented by which men can obtain, first, physical; second, mental; and third, spiritual independence, you have by no means been permitted to exercise your inalienable right "to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." All these things are conditioned and based upon material states, which enable the mind to act, and the spirit to grow; and so, underlying all these other conditions of which I have spoken is, after all, that higher and greater sentiment, a love of justice and a devotion to truth, enabling every man to so love his fellowmen, everywhere, that he shall be unwilling, at all times and under all circumstances, to obtain anything for his own material advantage, if by so doing he shall jeopardize the rights of any one else.

This is the keynote of your advancement as a people; upon this principle, which we call a spiritual one, your government was founded, and upon it it must be maintained, or it must fall as other empires and republics have fallen before.

In speaking of these obstacles which may arise to prevent the fulfillment of the hope of the people, we do so with the desire to arouse and quicken the insight and inspiration of those who listen, and to generate a force of spirit, which may operate as a counteracting element against those conditions of which we have spoken.

As those interested in the welfare and perpetuity of this government, we watch with concern this love of party, so dominant at present, and we most earnestly wish to impress upon the minds of all, the fact that if they would establish and maintain a condition in which all shall have equal opportunities for the development of their individual being, there must be a profound love of justice incorporated in the individual and in the body politic, which must express itself upon all questions, be represented in all your legislative acts, state and national, and be the motive power behind every ballot that is cast by every citizen of this Republic. It is not and cannot be for the best interests of this government and the future of this country, that any citizen should say to himself, or to others: "I have no interest in political affairs; I wash my hands clean of all that concerns the same; I do not care to take part in caucuses and conventions, because they are so corrupt and party-serving." Do you not see that this is one of the great dangers which menaces this government of yours, inasmuch as the bad and undeveloped, those who do not regard the rights of their fellows, have thus the machinery of your government under their control, while the patriotic and justice-loving citizens sit silent and unconcerned? It is time, we repeat, that you were aroused to a comprehension of this danger, that you may act intelligently thereupon. It is time that you rose, in the dignity of citizenship, to an understanding of the same, and became imbued with the principles which formulated this government and which inspired those whom you call your Revolutionary ancestors; causing them to regard no sacrifice as too great, no trial as too terrible and no ordeal unendurable, if thereby they might help to establish, somewhere, a government which should be a hope for the benighted millions of the world.

In transmitting to you such a government, we also transmitted an obligation to maintain, sacredly, those principles for which so many fought and died. This is a heritage of which any citizen may well be proud. It is a legacy which you must sacredly guard. Patriotism is a duty which devolves upon you by reason of the wonderful conditions which are involved therein; for all expressions of spiritual life and force must be given through the outward, which is material. There is no possibility of any expression of spiritual life being made cognizable in any other way; and so we enjoin upon you, as you look toward the future, that you rest not easy and unconcerned in the belief that, as this government has been maintained so successfully thus far, it will continue to exist without your most hearty coöperation. Each one is a factor in maintaining this government, under the conditions which were established by the fathers. There is no possibility of your escaping the responsibility thus laid upon you. You are unworthy descendants of those gone before unless you are able to sink party pride and personal considerations and ambition in the larger love of country and of justice which should be yours. When you have done this, and have transmitted, as a priceless legacy to your children, the idea that equal opportunities everywhere for all persons is the motto underlying the foundation of this Republic; when you have developed a love of principle superior to love of power and party, you may then look forward to a future for this country which shall indeed be a satisfaction, not only to you as citizens of the same, but to the world at large; for I cannot close my address this afternoon without seeking to impress upon your minds the vastness of this object by stating that this republican nation of yours is, after all, what its friends and guardians have always claimed it to be—the hope of the world.

Millions of men and women, toiling in the bondage of oppression and servility, are looking to you as a people, believing that here upon your shores they may attain a certain degree of happiness denied them elsewhere; and these hopes, which have been aroused by the formation of your Constitution and your declaration of principles, must be fulfilled.

It is in the fiat of Divine Providence that it should be so, but let me impress upon you again the fact that you are a part of that Divine Providence, and must do your appointed work.

All these things which are connected either with organizations of people or with individuals are only factors working everywhere toward the establishment of certain ends, for certain purposes; and this government is only one of those purposes working for certain ends. When a people are so developed that their government permits them to think, feel, act and express themselves freely, you have attained the highest expression of spiritual power which it is possible to obtain upon this or any other planet; and you may have this, and will have it. It is the destiny of this Republic to grow more and more in accordance with the principles upon which it was established. It is in accordance with the evolutionary development of spiritual life and force that there shall be no retrograde movement, although apparently there may be one; but upward and onward you shall go, believing in justice and the establishment of truth, realizing, as a sacred trust, that not upon your ancestors, not upon your Revolutionary fathers, not upon those who fought and died in your civil war, but upon each one of you individually — upon your own purity of thought, your own devotion to principle, your own love of justice, and your willingness to sacrifice selfish and unworthy interests, depends the perpetuity of this government, the welfare of this people, who are sovereigns indeed; so that, as the years shall come and go, there shall be one spot upon the face of this globe where men and women shall be free.

A FEW OF THE TRUSTS.

TRUST, that was nurtured in confidence
And born of honor and innocence,
Trust, that once cheered the toiler's way,
Now marks the toiler for her prey,
While murdered competition cries
Vainly for justice to Freedom's skies,
And "limited production" drives
Workingmen home to their hungry wives!

Rubber and Railroad-iron and Reapers—
Trusts of them all are the makers and keepers,
Roofing-paper and Ropes and Rum—
The price is fixed, and the buyer is dumb;
Diamonds, Copper and Butchers' meat,
Limburger Cheese and the Envelope sheet,
Even the Lead a poor man might buy
To put him out of his misery!

Undersell all who refuse to bow
To the edict that furrows the laborer's brow;
The Electric-lamp shall not shine for less,
Nor Gas, to lighten his home's distress;
Coal and Coke and Kerosene oil,
The Plow and the Pot too empty to boil,
The Paper-bag for the penny cake—
None but the gluttonous Trust may make!

Sugar and Salt and Shoes and the Steel
The moneyless wretch at last may feel;
His Sashes-and-blinds and the Slate his lad
Must carry to school are not to be had
Save of a Trust; nor his Mica, his Lard,
His Beeswax and Honey—there 's nothing too hard
Or too tender, indeed, for the money-lust
Of the all-pervading pitiless Trust!

Theatre-posters and Thrashing-machines,
Trunk-lines, Telephones, Tin and Beans,
Telegraph Messages, Cottonseed-oil,
Oil-cloth, Sumach, Cordage, Foil,
Cotton-duck, Linseed-oil and Pitch—
These are the TRUSTS on which some grow rich.
But as for the penniless workingman—
Let him get trust at the shop—if he can!
—J. P. B., in the (N. Y.) World.

[PROSE PORK-POEM.]—Judge Samuel Lumpkin lately sent to the writer a half-dozen hams from his private smoke-house, of the vintage of 1884, that are simply poems in ashes. Any self-respecting pig would have died gladly to have been so idealized. In these hams you catch the flavor of the smoke of the half-smothered oak chips above which they drifted with the seasons into perfection. And the red gravy, clear, consistent, flavorous—it is such gravy as you used to find on your mother's table when you came home from a long day's hunt in the December wind. I had rather have a smoke-house with its loamy floor, its darkened rafters, its red pepper-pods, its festoons of sausage odorous of sage, and one hundred such hams suspended between earth and roof, like small Mahomets, than a cellar of dust-begrimed bottles of Madeira of 1823. Has the art of curing hams in the Georgia smoke-house become a lost one? Shall red gravy go, with Tyrian purple, into the realms of the impossible?—Atlanta Constitution.

Doings by the Workers.

Chicago, Ill.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

On the evenings of May 23d and 24th Mrs. R. Shepard Lillie, Mr. J. T. Lillie and Mr. Edgar W. Emerson appeared before large and appreciative audiences at the Princess Opera House.

It is some years since Mrs. Lillie has spoken in Chicago, and while at the first she was warmly greeted by many old friends, she had spoken but a few minutes before the entire audience were numbered among her new friends and admirers.

Mr. Lillie's genial face and sweet voice at once won the people, and all his songs were well received and warmly applauded.

When the quiet young gentleman announced as Mr. Emerson, came to the front of the stage and began talking to the people there was a decided feeling of wonder mixed with the curiosity strangers always express at coming into the presence of a test-medium: wonder if the most excellent reputation that had preceded his arrival would or could be sustained in Chicago. But when "Sunbeam"—bless her bright name and nature—took possession of her medium, and went beaming about among the people, she soon brought to light so many hidden things that the entire audience softened and warmed into enthusiasm; and as some hard-headed old skeptic would be obliged to acknowledge: "Well, you are right!" the admission drew forth hearty cheering of the bright little spirit, who never failed in a single instance.

Contrary to anticipation, these westward-bound pilgrims were able to remain over Sunday in Chicago, and, notwithstanding the rainy weather that prevailed, the Opera House was well filled both morning and evening.

The lovely and loving spirit of kindness for all, the earnestness and zeal in the presentation of truth manifested by Mrs. Lillie, make her one of the great powers for good in the enlightenment of mankind. The clear, concise, practical answers she gave to questions from the audience, as well as the lofty thought and beauty of expression in her inspirational poems, are very rarely equalled, and the combination for the demonstration of the spiritual philosophy and phenomena, by Mrs. Lillie and Mr. Emerson, certainly cannot fail to dispel the darkness of doubt and error with the clear, white ray of truth.

We anticipate their return to our city about the middle of July with great pleasure.

A. R. O.

New York City.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

The People's Spiritual Meeting of this city celebrated the fifth anniversary of its existence (without organization) Sunday, 3d inst.

Two very interesting sessions were held. In the afternoon the opening exercises consisted of an invocation by Mrs. Nellie J. T. Brigham; remarks and readings of a poem, "Where Are the Dead?" by Mrs. M. C. Morrell; an experience related by Dr. Isaac Hand Gibbs, (eighty-eight years of age,) and remarks by Theodore Bunce and Dr. B. M. Lawrence; Miss Fannie Kimball sang: "Ho! Reapers of Life's Harvest," and Mrs. Brigham delivered an address, also improvising poems upon "Mediumship," "The New Birth" and "Resurrection." Mrs. S. A. Slocum, under inspiration, gave the closing address of the afternoon; the audience sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and an adjournment was had till evening.

The opening song of this second session was: "Give me the Wings of Faith to Rise," rendered by the audience, Mrs. Maggie Morrison organist. Mrs. Morrell read a selected poem; F. W. Jones gave a short history of the rise and progress of "The People's Meeting"; Mrs. M. K. Curtis gave a fine rendering of a song; Mr. Bunce and Dr. Lawrence made remarks; Mr. H. Milleset contributed to the pleasure of the occasion by rendering a humorous song: Mr. Wilson MacDonald made the set speech of the evening, and sharpened our intellectualities by logical reasonings and witticisms.

"We Shall Meet Beyond the River when our stormy voyage is o'er," was then sung by the audience, and thus closed the fifth yearly anniversary meeting of our humble, and we hope useful People's Spiritual Meeting. We have continued pretty successfully for five years, without constitution or by-laws, president, secretary or treasurer—merely having a conductor, who has been styled by one now gone before as "a condition-maker," whose mission seems to be simply to see that a place is made ready for the workers who by their special gifts are qualified to stand between the living and the so-called dead, and bear messages of comfort from the arisen to those left behind.

The thanks of the conductor are hereby tendered to all who have interested themselves in this humble enterprise in a sufficient degree, either by talent or financial support, to insure its existence without interruption for the five years during which it has never missed a single meeting.

FRANK W. JONES, Conductor.
230 W. 36th street, New York, June 7th, 1888.

Cincinnati, O.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

On Sunday, June 3d, Mr. J. Frank Baxter began a series of lectures accompanied by his appropriate selections in music and poetry, and supplemented by his inimitable séances, in Cincinnati, where he had made many friends through previous work over one year before.

The announcement of his return and purpose called out unusually large attendance, both forenoon and evening. The audiences were well paid, and the marked attentiveness and occasional applause plainly told it.

The morning lecture—a grand introduction—presented "The Scope and Value of the Spiritistic Platform," and, also, the catholicity and liberality of the speaker. Mankind were his brethren, humanity was his church, and God the Father of all.

The evening lecture on "The Persistence of Law and Truth," as illustrated in the establishment of principle, justice and love, particularly applied to the history, growth and permanency of Spiritualism; it was terse and conclusive.

While Mr. Baxter holds his audience ably with his earnestness and eloquence, and is to be ranked with the best, yet the interest of the house centers in his exercise of medial powers. On this Sunday we report, the hour's séance was replete with interest. "That's my sister!" said a lady, in recognizing the first spirit description and full name. "That lady married our son," said an elderly lady, speaking for herself and aged husband, in response to the second delineation. "What does 'E. H.' in a plain ring mean?" said Mr. Baxter. "My son's initials, and his marriage ring," said the old lady. "I know him; he was a member of the very Post that meets in this hall," said a man, as a soldier was most completely described. And so on for the hour; the audience listened with spellbound surprise, except as now and then it was impossible to suppress a demonstration of applause.

There are lecturers, there are singers, there are elocutionists, there are mediums; but Mr. Baxter is one of each, and a success in each, and when it comes to combination in an evening, he must be spoken of as one of the greatest powers the spiritual platform has to-day.

A "Ladies' Aid" and "Children's Lyceum" are decided auxiliaries to the Union Society, the former having from time to time financially assisted.

Wednesday evening, June 6th, a Strawberry Festival and sale was the order.

Every Sunday the Lyceum and the Union Society of Spiritualists meet; every Tuesday afternoon a ladies' meeting is held, and every Wednesday evening there is a sociable, entertainment or a lecture.

COM.

Mrs. Field in Saratoga.

Mrs. Clara A. Field addressed the Spiritualists Sunday morning and evening, and left for her cottage on the Lake Pleasant Camp-Meeting grounds Monday morning. While rounded periods and the flowers of rhetoric do not especially characterize Mrs. Field's lectures, in the powerful utterance of new thought, and in the development and application of liberal ideas, she ranks deservedly among the foremost on the liberal platform.

In the morning she held the undivided attention of her audience for an hour and a half, discussing the problems of life, taking the position emphatically that the spirit-world is right here with us, and our spirit friends do not have to "return" to greet us, but constantly mingle in our daily life. With clairvoyant vision she had discerned spirits from her earliest childhood, and said there were a host within view as she spoke, not to listen to her, but because they belonged there. "Spirits," she declared, "cannot leave the atmosphere of this earth, except for a transitory visit, until they outgrow it by development, and this, in a great majority of cases, will take longer than their earthly pilgrimages in the physical body." In other words, we must all work and win for ourselves higher and happier conditions if we would attain unto them. No exalted state is conferred upon anybody as a free gift.

In the evening Mrs. Field deprecated the proselyting spirit, and said it was useless to try and convert people who had not grown large enough to comprehend the superiority of the philosophy of Spiritualism over the prevalent religious superstitions of the day.—Saratoga (N. Y.) Eagle, June 2d.

June Magazines.

WIDE AWAKE.—An amusing story of home boy life is told by Margaret Sydney in an account of "Eurania's Boys and How They Kept House." "The Story of Boston Common," by E. E. Hale, in which he tells about the witches and the wishing-stone, and the old train band parades and the cow pastures, will be read with interest by all, especially those in this locality. Illustrative of a pleasing historic paper by Amanda B. Harris is given an engraving of Landseer's famous painting, "Wild Cattle of Chillingham." "Plucky Smalls; His Story," is a pathetic and amusing serial by Mrs. Crownshield, wife of a naval commander, the scene of which is upon a training ship. In "Double Roses" Mrs. Sherwood continues her narrative of the experiences of two young girls in New York City. The antiquarian writer, Henry Brooks, writes about "The Old Tinder-Box," and other stories and sketches, several poems, including one that, taken in connection with its illustration, is unique and amusing, entitled "The One in the Middle," render this a very attractive number. Boston: D. Lothrop & Co.

THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE.—The third paper of the series descriptive of "Along the Caribbean" relates to Barbadoes, which is the first point reached after leaving the curve of peaks, with their strange fascinating scenery, that with their smoking mountains and riven rocks is all that remains of lost Atlantis, and impart some conception "of the awful forces that buried a continent miles below the waves." Nine illustrations include engravings of public buildings, the interior of a sugar factory and an arrow-root mill. The author, Dr. Hutchinson, makes his chapters highly entertaining and instructive. Gen. Howard contributes an article upon "Our Defenses from an Army Standpoint." An interesting sketch of "Dickens on the American Stage," by Geo. E. Montgomery, is illustrated with pictures of Irving, Burton, Jefferson and Lotta in leading characters of the dramatized works of the novelist. The conclusion is given of "My Dream of Arnachy and Dynamite." There are also several stories and poems, the frontispiece being a portrait of Charles Dickens, Jr., now giving readings in this country. New York: 742 Broadway.

THE THEOSOPHIST in its May number leads its many interesting articles with one on "Ancient Sacrifices," the remark being made at its commencement that what has been termed "the modern science of anthropology" was known to the Orientals and studied by Greeks long before the time of Alexander. A paper upon "Emerson and Occult Laws" is an endeavor to prove, by quotations from his writings, that he recognized as a truth the specific idea of reincarnation. Of these are the following:

"Do not be deceived by dimples and curls. I tell you that baby is a thousand years old."

"It is a secret of the world that all things subsist and do not die, but only retire from sight and afterward return again. Jesus is not dead; he is very well alive; nor John, nor Paul, nor Mahomet, nor Aristotle; at times we believe we have seen them all, and could easily tell the names under which they go."

"Eastern and Western Science," "Nature's Finer Forces," "Renunciation," and "Esoteric Buddhism and its Cosmogony," are the subjects of other papers. Madras, India. Boston: For sale by Colby & Rich.

THE QUIVER.—Good practical advice is given in "On Meeting Troubles Half-Way." The author of "My Brother Basil," etc., commences a new serial story, "In Her Own Right." New chapters are supplied of "Not All in Vain," and a story for the young, hymns, and other matter, fill the remaining pages. New York: Cassell & Co.

VICK'S ILLUSTRATED.—A spray from a rose bush—foliage, bud and flower, all delicately colored—is shown in the frontispiece, and much of the reading matter has reference to the Rose, this month's queen of the garden. In "Foreign Gossip" an account is given of localities where there are miles of rose plantations. No one can be evil-disposed who loves and cultivates flowers; and as this periodical labors to that end, it may be considered in no small degree a saviour of mankind. Rochester, N. Y.: James Vick.

HALL'S JOURNAL OF HEALTH.—The chief articles are two on "Mind Cure," and "The New World Language," (Volapük) by Frederick Whittaker. A variety of hygienic and other matters are the subjects of minor articles. New York: 206 Broadway.

FREETHINKER'S MAGAZINE.—Lyman C. Howe presents the ninth of his series of papers on Spiritualism. In a biographical notice of Mr. Howe, the editor speaks of the Spiritualists as numbering in their ranks "hundreds of thousands of the most exemplary and intelligent people of this country." Buffalo, N. Y.: H. L. Green, editor and publisher.

HERALD OF HEALTH.—The leading contents are, "Experts Tell of Alcohol's Deadly Effects," "Combinations of Quacks and Quack Literature," "New Born Babies, and How to Treat Them." The Supplementary Departments are "Woman and the Household," "Mothers and the Nursery," "Health Inventions and Appliances," etc. New York: Box 2141.

THE SIDEREAL MESSENGER describes, by letterpress and illustrations, "The Surface of the Sun." Professionals, students and young observers are supplied with much valuable information on the pages that follow. Northfield, Minn.: W. W. Payne.

A ROYAL CREMATION.—From Siam we learn that the cremation of the two sons of the king, which was "celebrated" at the end of February, was a ceremony eclipsing in magnificence even that of the king's uncle, whose body was cremated last year. For fifteen days Bangkok was given up to revelry. No work was done, and such amusements as fireworks, illuminations and interminable dramatic performances were provided nightly, and kept up till two or three o'clock A. M. The building in which the cremation was effected had been erected at a cost exceeding £50,000; a fact which, as it is now being demolished, as having served its purpose, shows munificence, if not extravagance. Externally this "premane" presented the appearance of a palace of gold, so gorgeous was its ornamentations; and internally its chief feature was the electric light with which it was illumined throughout. There were two separate cremation days during the fortnight; and the final procession for each was so long that it occupied over an hour in passing a fixed point. —Pall Mall Gazette.

☞We are glad to learn that Warren Chase's new book, "Forty Years on the Spiritual Rostrum," is enjoying a large sale. It is filled with the records of experience—some happy, others sad—with haps, mishaps and grand truths, which are full of significant hints to Spiritualists, thinkers, investigators and general readers. It should be in general demand. Price, one dollar. If ordered by mail ten cents must be added for postage. Order from Colby & Rich, publishers, Boston, or Hon. Warren Chase, Cobden, Ill.—The Better Way.

For the Banner of Light.

THE ENDING OF THE WORLD.

With eyes of childish terror
I heard the story first,
(Born out of Scriptural error,)
How earth by sin accursed
Would by God's wrath be riven,
In fearful flames be curled;
And thus I saw at seven
The ending of the world.

Years on, with woeful weeping,
I met and followed death;
He saw my mother sleeping,
And touched her with his breath.
Each clod that fell above her
Against my heart seemed hurled,
Ah! then I saw—who love her—
The ending of the world.

Chance marched with Time, and wrought me
A path to sea-kissed strands,
And bowing ships soon brought me
To fair and foreign lands,
Where, when the sunset's splendor
Its crimson flag unfurled,
I felt God's pity tender
Thus end the day's warm world.

Then Love came next, unbidden,
Tapped at my lone heart's door,
And entered in unchidden,
But not forevermore.
Love like a meteor darted,
Then into darkness curled,
I saw, when Love departed—
The ending of the world.

But lo! the clouds are riven,
And now faith's steady star
Lights up life's doubtful heaven,
And points to where they are,
The ones whom death made changeless,
Who wait with wings unfurled,
Mid hosts of glad evangels,
The ending of our world!

June 2d. AUGUSTA CHAMBERS.

Banner Correspondence.

Massachusetts.

LOWELL.—Ed. S. Varney writes: "Though our worthy Secretary has from time to time reported for your columns the various Sunday meetings of the First Spiritualist Society of this city, a few words as to the general status of Spiritualism in our midst may be welcome. For several years, as regards organized effort, the cause has been in a somewhat apathetic condition; there seemed to be a general lack of interest, the public services being occasional and sporadic in their nature. But all this time—aided by the uplifting, creedless sermons of the pastor of one of our liberal churches, who has sown good seed for subsequent reaping—a strong undercurrent of spiritual thought and sentiment has slowly gathered force, and we see the good result in the revival of the course of public ministrations which have just closed for the season, to be reöpened with renewed vigor in October. There is reason to believe that our meetings during the past half year have been fruitful in beneficial and lasting results. In the choice of speakers, feeling that the two should be lovingly linked together, we have intermingled the phenomena and the philosophy. Our souls have been warmed and glorified by the beautiful, progressive truths enunciated by the veteran, Warren Chase, the aspirational Mrs. Lizzie S. Manchester, the eloquent Tisdale, that deep thinker, Dr. Dean Clarke, the witty, talented J. W. Fletcher, and others, while the heart of the Spiritualist has been gladdened and the skepticism of the inquirer arrested or overcome by spirit messages voiced by such grand mediums as Mrs. E. Clark Kimball and Frank T. Ripley. The Chairman of the meetings has been our 'old man eloquent'—our toiler in the harness for forty years—A. B. Plimpton.

Our last meetings were held Sunday, May 27th, afternoon and evening, the occasion being a double memorial. Mr. Plimpton, in tenderly reminiscent remarks, commended the moral valor of our arisen local Spiritualist brethren who, during the last twenty years or more, had passed away; he also wove a bright garland of memory for the children of the old-time Lyceum who had 'gone up higher,' saying that they still clustered in groups around their earthly loved ones. Mrs. Lizzie S. Manchester, of West Randolph, Vt., improvised a soul-comforting song upon themes given by Grand Army men, and in a thrilling address paid a merited and appreciative tribute to the nation's saviours. In the course of which she stated the mediumistic source of the Emancipation Proclamation, and impressed the members of the G. A. R. Post present with the cheering fact that their comrades 'over the river' had not forgotten them; that during the war they were anxious watchers of the progress of events; that they were with their earthly companions in spirit, marching by their side during the sacred services of Memorial Day.

A peculiarly encouraging feature of our meetings has been the repeated attendance and hearty interest of church-members, whom one would never dream of seeing at a Spiritualist service. The writer of this knows of several instances where life has been made brighter by the test aptly given, and the mind's horizon widened by the word fitly spoken. And so the good work goes bravely on. The chains of mental servitude are being riven, while the mist-clouds of doubt are vanishing before the ever-brightening sunlight of our sweet revelation.

I am one of your subscribers; can't do without the BANNER OF LIGHT. It has sweetened my life and broadened my mental powers more than I can express. Heaven bless you for what you have done, especially in defending the phenomena and Banner Message Department from assaults of one-sided philosophers. The philosophy is glorious, but the phenomena must be cemented to it to make a complete whole."

HAVERHILL.—"E. P. H." writes that at a meeting near the close of the lecture season at Brittan Hall, Mrs. Hattie P. Griffin made her first appearance before a public audience in that city—reciting a selection entitled: "Trouble in the Amen Corner," which was much appreciated by the audience.

NORTH ADAMS.—John H. Arnold writes that Spiritualists and all other friends of truth may feel assured that, notwithstanding the attacks made upon it by such sensational assailants as Talmage and séance-raiders, the truths, of the verity of which they have incontrovertible proof, will triumph, and, surmounting all obstacles, march on to victory.

HAVERHILL.—W. L. Jack, M. D., writes: "The definition and its excellent application of 'Blessed are the pure in heart,' etc., given in answer to a question at one of the Banner of Light Circles, is a grand reply and fraught with all that could be to the point, which is, they will speedily behold the likeness of the good, and come into harmony and sympathy with the high and holy conditions and influences of life, and into the atmosphere of angelic intelligences, etc."

New Jersey.

VINELAND.—Mr. I. Lowendahl gives one of his own experiences as an offset to Rev. Dr. Talmage's charges. He says: "Spiritualism did more for me in ten minutes than one hundred preachers of one hundred different denominations could accomplish in a hundred years. Thirty-two years ago I lived in Brooklyn. One fine May morning a friend of mine induced me to call with him on Charles H. Foster, the then celebrated medium, in order to find out the fraud and denounce him. We expected to find a witch-like, half paralyzed, cadaverous individual, but to our surprise found him to be just the contrary—a portly gentleman, the very picture of health and good humor, looking more like a happy, jolly, well-to-do German farmer, than anything else. We had scarcely taken our seats when Foster said: 'Here is the spirit of a little child who wants to write her name on my arm.' Saying this he bared his arm, and sure enough we saw the letters just forming in rainbow colors, Rosaly. There were no confederates, no hot iron, no fraud of any kind in the case. We two acute and wide-awake observers had come for the very purpose of finding fraud and denouncing it, but there was nothing of the kind to be discovered. However, while the above writing was being developed, the idea struck me that the child of that name—who had recently died—was only five years old and could not write. This was in my mind; before I had time to express the thought in words, Foster instantly said: 'It is the mother, who, in recognition of your kindness to her child, came to do the writing in order to convince you of immortality.' 'Rosaly' was a poor, lonely Irish orphan, to whom on the previous Christmas—the last for her on earth—I had presented a Christmas-tree loaded with abundant gifts adapted for a child of her age."

Illinois.

COBDEN.—Hon. Warren Chase writes, June 4th: "A few days' rest from my pruning of trees took me to Villa Ridge, at no great distance from Cairo, Ill., for a visit at the fruit farm of my old friends, Mr. and Mrs. John Limbert, who have been believers in Spiritualism from its modern advent, and are weekly readers of THE BANNER and the Two Worlds. Mr. L. is an Englishman born, and an intimate friend of Robert Collier, both being from the same neighborhood in Yorkshire. Mr. Limbert was with us in the pioneer settlement of Ceresco, Wis., by the Wisconsin Phalanx, and his family and my own have been near neighbors for half a century. Joined with a few earnest and efficient Spiritualists in that vicinity, they secured the Grangers' Fair Grounds, two miles from Villa Ridge, and sent out notices, and we had two good meetings and a picnic there Sunday, June 3d, where I was engaged to speak. At the close of the lectures a large number of those present gave in their names and organized a Southern Illinois Spiritual Association—electing Mr. John Conant, President, and Mr. W. H. Leidelgh, Secretary, and taking the necessary steps to adopt a Constitution and organize legally under the laws of the State for religious societies, so they can employ speakers and mediums and select a location for a camp-meeting, which they hope to do next year.

There are many Spiritualists in Southern Illinois, especially among the fruit-growers, who are generally the most intelligent citizens of any section of our country. Southern Illinois is a good section for a camp ground; one there would draw together a large concourse of people without interfering with other distant camps. Our Cause is progressing finely."

Rhode Island.

WESTERLY.—N. E. Nash writes: "I have read in the New York Sunday Mercury a denial of the statements made in the World of May 17th relating to a materializing séance at Mrs. Stoddard-Gray and son's. I was present at that séance and occupied a seat very near the cabinet, partially in front, and from my position could see the medium sitting in his chair. I had as good an opportunity for close observation as could be desired, and feel it my duty to add my testimony to that of others, in declaring that the success of that raid was only successful in being a magnificent failure. The medium did not move from his position in the cabinet until quiet had been restored. From my position I could plainly see him at the time a form was materializing upon the table, and which to me seemed the finest and most satisfactory of any that I have ever seen. It was so near me I could have reached out my hand and touched the form. This was what the raiders proposed to capture, but it dematerialized before they could reach it; in fact, none of them succeeded in getting within several feet of the cabinet at all. I was one of two parties selected by Mrs. Gray to make a close inspection of the cabinet and its surroundings, which I did to my thorough satisfaction, and found no chance of fraud possible."

Ohio.

NEW PHILADELPHIA.—"M." writes: "Mrs. Cobb, of Mantua, O., who has been developed in the last ten or twelve years, is a materializing medium of wonderful powers. While entranced, and utterly unconscious, spirits walk forth from the cabinet in a dim light, and make yard upon yard of cotton or silk fabrics, and walk out into the circle eight or ten feet away from the cabinet. As many as sixteen different forms appeared on the evening of May 31st, many of whom were recognized. Those who have any doubts of the truth and genuineness of materializations should visit Mrs. Cobb."

Passed to Spirit-Life.

From Verona Island, Me., Cora S., wife of Thomas Abbott.

Thus has passed on to the higher life one of our most excellent mediums and workers in the spiritual ranks. As a kind-hearted neighbor, loving and patient wife, the gentle, sweet guardian of the home-circle, sister Abbott had no superior. By her wonderful discerning powers, her remarkable tests of spirit presence, she has made many converts to the truths of Spiritualism. She was sick for several months, and was a great sufferer. Nearly all of this protracted period she waited and longed for the time of her departure, when she would be at rest with her dear spirit-guides and friends, in whom she had the most perfect trust. Her spirit has been able to manifest several times, at one time speaking distinctly to her husband. She will be greatly missed at her home and in the neighborhood, and especially at Verona Park Camp-Meeting, where she was an earnest and faithful worker.

From Otisfield, Me., Mrs. Miranda Edwards.

Sister Edwards was a patient sufferer for many months. She was a firm Spiritualist, and was ready to leave a happy home, an affectionate companion, and sons and daughters, with an assurance of meeting them in the spirit-world, and knowing, also, that she would be able to return and proclaim to them the bright realities of life and immortality. She left the material body with the respect and honor due her most worthy name, and with the smile of heaven upon her lips. Her memory will be hallowed with tender endearments by all who knew her in earth-life.

From Verona Park, Me., Simeon Farmer.

Bro. Farmer was a life-long Spiritualist, and passed on as he had lived, in the full faith of the Spiritual Philosophy. He was an upright, honest New England farmer, whose industry, integrity and excellent character secured to him the confidence and esteem of all who knew him, making him the welcome guest of the neighborhood in which he lived, and where he raised a family of sons and daughters. From his farm was purchased the Verona Park Camp grounds. His remaining children, with their widowed mother, deeply mourn the material presence of one so dear to their hearts. DR. H. F. MERRILL.

From Hillsborough, N. H., May 30th, Harrison C. Ferry, aged 50 years.

Mr. Ferry was a successful business man, honored and beloved by all; a firm Spiritualist, a devoted father, a loving and faithful husband. His genial, manly qualities endeared him to friends and associates, and he will be greatly missed in the business and social relations of the town, while the grief-stricken family would find their sorrow overwhelming were it not for the blessed assurance of his spiritual presence and the sweet communion of souls enjoyed in the sanctity of the home, in which he participated with faithful zeal before the disrobing of his gentle, loving spirit, and now continued in by all with a fond devotion. We cherish his memory with a sacredness faithful and true.

From Deering, N. H., June 1st, Charles Whitaker, aged 70 years.

He was a thinking, intelligent man, with a heart too large for any creed, and found his faith in the facts and philosophy of Spiritualism, meeting the change with a ready welcome born of its assurance. Service in the East Deering Church was largely attended by friends and citizens, many of whom listened for the first time with marked attention to the comforting truths our heaven-born gospel brings.
ADDIE M. STEVENS.

From her home, in Richmond, Ind., Mrs. Armiuda Church Tucker Reynolds.

She was born in Essex, Conn., May 2d, 1824; was married to Elisha P. Reynolds in September, 1842, with whom she lived a very happy and useful life for forty-two years—he preceding her to the beautiful Land of the Soul only four years. Five children were born to them, four of whom passed on in early life, and were waiting there to receive their dear mother. Only one link of the family is left on earth, Erie L. Reynolds being their only surviving descendant.

She was an avowed Spiritualist for over thirty years, and had taken the BANNER OF LIGHT for many years. She was a fine medium for the good spirits to use in giving comfort and cheer to their loved ones on earth. She suffered about six months from a complication of diseases, which terminated her earth life-work. She fell asleep at last in the mortal to waken on the shore where no sickness or parting with loved ones can come.

Mrs. E. D. Smith, a medium of Indianapolis, conducted the funeral services.

[Obituary Notices not exceeding twenty lines published gratuitously. When they exceed that number, twenty cents for each additional line will be charged. Ten words on an average make a line. No poetry admitted under this heading.]

The Lookout Mountain Camp-Meeting,

Near Chattanooga, Tenn., will be held during the entire month of July. The following speakers and mediums are engaged: Mrs. A. M. Glading, George A. Fuller, Dr. H. F. Merrill, Mrs. S. A. H. Talbot, G. W. Kates and wife, Dr. Samuel Watson, A. C. Ladd, Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond. Excellent hotel facilities are on the Mountain. Tenting space given free. Address

G. W. KATES, Sec'y, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Convention in New Hampshire.

The State Spiritualist Association will hold its annual Convention at Manchester, N. H., on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 22d, 23d and 24th, 1888.

Good speakers and mediums are engaged to be present, and all visiting friends will receive a cordial welcome.

It is expected that the usual fare reductions will be made on the railroads centering there.

Francestown, N. H. GEO. D. EPPS, Sec'y.

Camp-Meeting in Minnesota.

The Itica Co. Scientific, Moral and Reformatory Association will hold its first Annual Meeting at Morristown on the third Sunday in June, 1888; and in connection therewith will be held a Spiritual and Liberal CAMP-MEETING, commencing on Wednesday, June 13th, and closing on Monday, June 18th.

Being the first meeting of this nature held in Minnesota, we invite and earnestly solicit the attendance and aid of the Spiritualists and Liberals of this and other States to assist in the inauguration and building up of a permanent Camp-Meeting organization at this or some suitable place in this locality. Ample means for board and shelter will be provided at very reduced rates to all who may come.

We also invite Spiritual and Liberal speakers and mediums. Suitable rooms for holding séances will be furnished gratis.

We wish to employ an independent slate-writing medium who will permit investigators to bring their own closed slates. Such a medium would be of great benefit to the cause, beside reaping a rich harvest for him (or her) self financially, as manifestations of this order have never been witnessed or produced in this locality.

The lowest reductions in railroad fare that can be obtained will be secured.

Conveyance hourly between camp-grounds and séance-rooms; also to all trains for a fare not to exceed five cents per trip. Any further information may be obtained by corresponding with MRS. LAURA A. GRANT, Rec. Sec'y, or D. BIRDSALL, Cor. Sec'y, of Waterville, Le Sueur Co., Minn. BY ORDER OF EX. COM.

[Spiritual and Liberal papers please copy.]

The Wisconsin State Association

Of Spiritualists will hold its next Quarterly Convention at Rehearsal Hall, Academy of Music Building, at No. 583 Milwaukee street, Milwaukee, Wis., June 22d, 23d and 24th.

Engaged Speakers—J. L. Potter of Wonewoc, Wis., and Mrs. A. H. Luther of Crown Point, Ind., (formerly Mrs. Colby, of Boston, Mass.) Other speakers and test mediums expected to be in attendance.

Hotel rates $1.00 per day. Parties desiring to engage board can correspond with J. Spencer, local Secretary, 470 East Water street, Milwaukee.

The management have not, up to the time of publication, been able to make special railroad rates, but hope to do so in time to notify by special circulars.

All communications should be addressed to

Prof. W. M. LOCKWOOD, Pres., Ripon, Wis.,
Or JOHN SPENCER, Local Sec'y,
170 East Water St., Milwaukee, Wis.

Sturgis Annual Meeting.

The Harmonial Society of Sturgis, Mich., will hold its annual meeting in the Free Church in Sturgis, on the 15th, 16th and 17th of June, 1888. Lyman C. Howe and other prominent speakers and mediums will be present to address the meeting. By Order of Committee.

Miscellaneous.

The Weekly Discourse,

A Pamphlet (especially arranged for binding)

Containing one of the Discourses given through the organism of

MRS. CORA L. V. RICHMOND

The preceding Sunday,

Is published each week. Price, $2.50 per year.

Address, WILLIAM RICHMOND,
64 Union Park Place, Chicago, Ill.
My1 eow

THE

N. D. C. AXE and TRUE KEY-STONE,

A FOUR-PAGE SEMI-MONTHLY JOURNAL, especially devoted to the Development of Mediumship, and official organ of The National Developing Circle.

Terms of subscription, $1.00 per annum.

Sample Copy Free.

Send for Book, "How to Become a Medium in Your Own Home," and a personal sealed letter designating all your phases of Mediumship, all for 15 cents.

Address

JAMES A. BLISS,
S24 tf ELMWOOD PLACE, OHIO.

New Thought;

A VIGOROUS, Eight-Page Weekly Journal devoted to SPIRITUALISM and General Religious and Political Reform.

Published every Saturday by MOSES HULL & CO., at Des Moines, Iowa.

The Organ of the Mississippi Valley Association of Spiritualists.

NEW THOUGHT is a quarto filled with interesting matter, WRITTEN EXPRESSLY for its columns, on the various phases of Spiritualism and General Reform, and nicely printed on heavy paper.

Terms of Subscription: One year, $1.50; six months, 75 cents; three months, 40 cents; single number, 5 cents.

NEW THOUGHT will be sent to new subscribers three months on trial for twenty-five cents—a sum which barely covers the price of blank paper and press-work. Sample copies free. Je4

The Gnostic,

A Monthly Journal of Spiritual Science,

PUBLISHERS AND EDITORS—GEORGE CHAINEY, ANNA K. CHAINEY and W. J. COLVILLE.

EACH number will contain forty pages, devoted to Esoteric Religion, Psychometry, Occult Science, Mental Therapeutics, Human Liberty, and the Culture of all that is Divine in the Human Race.

Terms, $2.00 per year; single copies 25 cents.

Address GEORGE CHAINEY, 17 Flood's Building, San Francisco, Cal. Ap21

SPHINX.

ANTI-MATERIALISTISCHE MONATSSCHRIFT für die wissenschaftliche Untersuchung der „mystischen" und „magischen" Thatsachen, mit Beiträgen von Carl du Prel, Alf. Russ. Wallace, der Professoren Barrett und Coues, mehrerer Brahminen u. s. w., herausgegeben von Dr. Hübbe-Schleiden.

Subscription: $1.75 for six months, $3.50 per annum.

Messrs. COLBY & RICH, 9 Bosworth street, Boston, Mass., will receive subscriptions and forward the same to the publisher. Au21

La Lumiere.

A JOURNAL devoted to the interests of Spiritualism in all its aspects. MADAME LUCIE GRANGE, Editor. The ablest writers contribute to its pages.

Terms of Subscription, in advance, per year, $1.20. In remitting by mail, a Post-office order on Paris, France, to the order of MADAME LUCIE GRANGE, 75, Boulevard Montmorency, Auteuil.

PROPHETES ET PROPHETIES, by Hab.

A BOOK of universal interest and influence. It contains an Historical Relation of Prophecies in Modern Times and Prophetic Spirit Communications. Paper, 12mo, pp. 240. Price 60 cents, postage free. For sale by LA LUMIERE, Paris, France. Aug. 9.

THE CARRIER DOVE,

An Illustrated Weekly Journal,

DEVOTED to Spiritualism and Reform. Edited by MRS. J. SCHLESINGER, DR. L. SCHLESINGER and MRS. J. SCHLESINGER, Publishers. Each number will contain the Portraits and Biographical Sketches of some of the Prominent Mediums and Spiritual Workers. Also Spirit Pictures by our Artist Mediums, Lectures, Essays, Poems, Spirit Messages, Editorials, etc.

Terms: $2.50 per year; single copies, 10 cents.

Address all communications to THE CARRIER DOVE, 32 Ellis street, San Francisco, Cal. F6

SEND NAME

AND POST-OFFICE ADDRESS, plainly written, to THE BETTER WAY, CINCINNATI, O., and receive a sample copy of this bright Spiritual Weekly Newspaper FREE. Subscription, Two Dollars per year, but no obligation to subscribe will be incurred by sending for a sample copy. It will cost you only a postal card and a minute! Au13 tf

Light on the Way.

GEO. A. FULLER, Editor.
MRS. G. DAVENPORT STEVENS, Ass't Editor.

AN EIGHT-PAGE MONTHLY, devoted to the dissemination of Spiritual Knowledge. Terms, 60 cents per year. Specimen copies free. Address, GEO. A. FULLER, Editor and Publisher, Dover, Mass. My7

The Boston Investigator,

THE oldest reform journal in publication.
Price, $3.00 a year,
$1.50 for six months,
5 cents per single copy.

Now is your time to subscribe for a live paper, which discusses all subjects connected with the happiness of mankind.

Address J. P. MENDUM,
Investigator Office,
Paine Memorial,
April 2. Boston, Mass.

SPIRIT TEACHINGS.

BY M. A. (OXON).

This work consists of a large number of messages communicated by automatic writing, and dealing with a variety of Religious, Ethical and Social subjects of general interest. Among the subjects thus treated may be mentioned Mediumship and Spirit Control; Spheres and States of Spiritual Existence; The Spirit Creed; God, Heaven, Hell, Faith, Belief, Inspiration, Revelation; Orthodox Theology and Spirit Teaching; The Old Faith and the New; Spiritualized Christianity; Suicide and its Consequences; The Final Judgment of Souls; Capital Punishment; The Treatment of the Insane; The True Philanthropist, etc., etc., etc. The volume contains many cases of proof of the identity of communicating Spirits. The writer has connected the messages by an autobiographical narrative, giving many details of personal experience.

8vo, cloth, pp. 291. Price $2.00.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

The Phantom Form.

Experiences in Earth and Spirit-Life—Revelations by a Spirit.

Through the trance mediumship of

MRS. NETTIE PEASE FOX.

This is one of the most deeply interesting Spiritualistic works ever published. Given in a narrative form by a lady whose earth-life was one of strange vicissitudes, startling events and wonderful mediumistic experiences. After many years in spirit-life she returns to earth, and through the fully entranced organism and power of another, gives her earth history, followed by revelations from spirit-life, interesting and instructive to those who would know the condition, opportunities and employments of those who have crossed the "Narrow stream meandering these two worlds between." A better understanding of this remarkable book may be obtained from the following table, giving a few of the many subjects upon which we have revelations from the spirit-world:

Death Foretold; Death-Bed Vision and Revelations; Is There Another Life? Angel Ministrations; Spirit Prophecy Fulfilled; Saved from a Horrible Fate by Spirit Warning; A Father's False Representation Corrected by the Spirit-Mother; Life Saved by Spirit-Power; My Death Foretold; My Sudden Departure from Earth-Life; First Awakening in Spirit-Life; Mansion in Spirit-Land; Return to Earth-Life; Some Spirits Worship a Personal God; Spirits Attend a Marriage Ceremony of Earth; Marriage in Spirit Life; Temple of Science; Library; Modes of Traveling; Visiting Another Planet. Many Revelations are given of life and its employments in the spirit-world deeply interesting.

Cloth, pp. 169. Price $1.00; postage paid to any part of the world.

The Mysteries of the Border-Land;

OR,

The Conscious Side of Unconscious Life.

Also the Second Part of the Volume, "The Golden Key; or, Mysteries Beyond the Veil."

BY MRS. NETTIE PEASE FOX.

These two books, contained in one large, nicely bound volume of nearly six hundred pages, are written in narrative style, said by the spirit author to be founded on fact. They are as entertaining as any novel ever read, and contain more of the phenomena and philosophy of Spiritualism than ever before written in the same space, and they are written in such an attractive form that they cannot fail to please and deeply interest thousands outside the ranks of Spiritualism.

Price $1.50; postage free.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

THE

SECRET SYMBOLS

OF THE

ROSICRUCIANS

OF THE

Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries,

WITH A TREATISE ON THE

Philosopher's Stone.

Translated from the German by

FRANZ HARTMANN, M. D.

The plates of the Secret Symbols, twenty-seven in number, have been colored by hand, exactly duplicating the originals which Dr. Hartmann secured during his researches among ancient MSS. and occult works in Germany.

Prof. Elliot Coues, F. T. S., writes in reference to the work as follows: "The publication is timely, and cannot fail to attract and entertain many persons who seek the symbols of eternal verities in these mysterious paths. Whether or not the Rosicrucians ever existed as an actual secret confraternity, is, as you know, an open question with the public; and those who are best entitled to speak with authority are significantly silent in this particular. But no competent occultist or mystic has any doubts, or will ever fully divulge the esoteric facts in the case. The volume before me is handsomely gotten up, showing both taste and enterprise on the part of the publishers; and Dr. Hartmann has already won enviable spurs in the literature of occultism, which he is, from his connection with the Indian Branch of the Theosophical Society, well fitted to adorn."

Finely printed on heavy paper, prices 12 by 16 inches, and handsomely bound in cloth. Price $6.00.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

PRICES REDUCED.

WORKS OF KERSEY GRAVES.

THE WORLD'S SIXTEEN CRUCIFIED SAVIORS; or, Christianity Before Christ. Containing New, Startling, and Extraordinary Revelations in Religious History, which disclose the Oriental Origin of all the Doctrines, Principles, Precepts, and Miracles of the Christian New Testament, and furnishing a Key for Unlocking many of its Sacred Mysteries, besides comprising the History of Sixteen Oriental Crucified Gods. By KERSEY GRAVES.

Printed on fine white paper, large 12mo, 380 pages, with portrait of author, $1.50, postage 16 cents. (Former price $2.00.)

THE BIBLE OF BIBLES: Or, Twenty-Seven "Divine Revelations": Containing a Description of Twenty-Seven Bibles, and an Exposition of Two Thousand Biblical Errors in Science, History, Morals, Religion, and General Events; Also a Delineation of the Characters of the Principal Personages of the Christian Bible, and an Examination of their Doctrines. By KERSEY GRAVES, author of "The World's Sixteen Crucified Saviors," and "The Biography of Satan."

Cloth, large 12mo, pp. 440. Price $1.75, postage 10 cents. (Former price $2.00.)

SIXTEEN SAVIORS OR NONE; or, The Explosion of a Great Theological Gun. In answer to John T. Perry's "Sixteen Saviors or One"; an examination of its fifteen authorities, and an exposition of its two hundred and twenty-four errors. By KERSEY GRAVES.

Cloth, price 75 cents (former price $1.00).

BIOGRAPHY OF SATAN; or, A Historical Exposition of the Devil and his Fiery Dominions. Disclosing the Oriental origin of the belief in a Devil and future endless punishment. Also, the Pagan origin of the Scriptural terms, Bottomless Pit, Lake of Fire and Brimstone, Keys of Hell, Chains of Darkness, Casting out Devils, Everlasting Punishment, the Worm that Never Dieth, etc., explained. By K. GRAVES.

Paper, price 25 cents, postage 3 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

The Weekly Discourse;

Containing the Spiritual Sermons by the guides of

MRS. CORA L. V. RICHMOND.

VOLUME III.

No. 1.—THE THREE M'S: MAMMON, MILLIONAIRES AND MURDER.
No. 2.—A LEAP IN THE DARK.
No. 3.—WHAT RELIGION IS BEST FOR MANKIND?
No. 4.—IDEAL SOCIALISM; HOW DOES IT COMPARE WITH CHRISTIANITY AND SPIRITUALISM?
No. 5.—THE IMPORT OF THE DAY.
No. 6.—ANCIENT AND MODERN MIRACLES.
No. 7.—THE JUDGMENT DAY.
No. 8.—THE POWER OF PRAYER.
No. 9.—THE NATURE OF SPIRITUALISM: IN ANSWER TO THE WORLD'S NEEDS.
No. 10.—THE FOUNDATIONS OF THE WORLD.
No. 11.—THE POPE, THE PROPAGANDA.
No. 12.—THE BETRAYERS OF SPIRITUALISM.

Price 5 cents each.

Single copies of any numbers of Volumes I. and II. will also be supplied at 5 cents each.

Also The Weekly Discourse, containing fifty-two numbers in each volume, handsomely bound in Half Roan, Gold Ruled.

VOL. I.....$3.00. VOL. II.....$3.00.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Human Culture and Cure.

BY E. D. BABBITT, M. D., D. M.

TO BE ISSUED IN SIX PARTS.

Part First, "The Philosophy of Cure," including Methods and Instruments.

CONTENTS: 1, Philosophy of Force; 2, Two Great Divisions of Force; 3, Chemical Affinity; 4, Chemical Repulsion; 5, The Law of Harmony; 6, The Law of Power; 7, Relation of Psychological Forces; 8, Diseases that come from Excess of Thermism; 9, Diseases from Excess of Electrical Elements; 10, Magnets, Batteries and Electrical Combinations of the Human Body; 11, The Different Temperaments; 12, Chromopathy, or Healing by Light and Color; 13, Medicating by Light; 14, Healing Instruments; 15, Encouraging Features with Reference to the New Method of Cure; 16, Solar Architecture; 17, Color the Measure of Force; 18, Magnetic Massage; 19, Galvanic and Faradaic Electricity; 20, Mind Cure and Statuvolism; 21, Homeopathy; 22, Hydropathy; 23, The Old School System; 24, Miscellaneous Items.

Price 50 cents; postage 6 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

OUR HOME DOCTOR.

Domestic and Botanical Remedies Simplified and Explained for Family Treatment, with a Treatise upon Suspended Animation, the Danger of Burying Alive, and Directions for Restoration.

BY MOORE RUSSELL FLETCHER, M. D.

It contains 400 pages of matter, and a portrait of the author; it imparts to the people what they want; it makes known the secrets of centuries among the few; it affords information of sickness or disease, with knowledge of simple, safe and curative remedies, and why they are given; it also tells them what not to take; it ignores mercurial and mineral preparations, also all powerful and dangerous drugs.

Extra cloth, gilt side and back, plain edge or sprinkle, $2.00; do. marbled edge, $2.25; cloth, black and gold side and back, bevel boards, gilt edge, $2.50; half imitation Morocco, marbled edge, $3.00; full sheep, sprinkled marbled edge, $3.25; half Morocco, extra marbled edge, $3.50.

Subscriptions received by COLBY & RICH.

THE TRUTH SEEKER'S FEAST; Comprising a Savory Picnic of Theological Knick Knacks, relating to the Groundwork of Modern Christianity. Including other kindred subjects worthy of due consideration. Leading subject: The Grand Council of Nice; compiled by An Aged Veteran Spiritualist for the special benefit of Investigating Truth Seekers and Free Thinkers in general.

Owing to transposition of leaves in binding, and the mechanical part of the book not meeting the expectations of the author, the price of the work is reduced to 25 cents per copy.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

BANNER OF LIGHT:

THE OLDEST JOURNAL IN THE WORLD DEVOTED TO THE

SPIRITUAL PHILOSOPHY.

ISSUED WEEKLY

At 9 Bosworth Street (formerly Montgomery Place) Corner Province Street, Boston, Mass.

COLBY & RICH,
Publishers and Proprietors.

ISAAC B. RICH.....BUSINESS MANAGER,
LUTHER COLBY.....EDITOR,
JOHN W. DAY.....ASSISTANT EDITOR,
Aided by a large corps of able writers.

THE BANNER is a first-class Family Newspaper of EIGHT PAGES—containing FORTY COLUMNS OF INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE READING—embracing
A LITERARY DEPARTMENT,
REPORTS OF SPIRITUAL LECTURES,
ORIGINAL ESSAYS—Upon Spiritual, Philosophical and Scientific Subjects,
EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT,
SPIRIT-MESSAGE DEPARTMENT, and
CONTRIBUTIONS by the most talented writers in the world, etc., etc.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION, IN ADVANCE

Per Year.....$3.00
Six Months.....1.50
Three Months.....75
Postage Free.

In remitting by mail, a Post-Office Money Order on Boston, or a Draft on a Bank or Banking House in Boston or New York City, payable to the order of COLBY & RICH, is preferable to Bank Notes. Our patrons can remit us the fractional part of a dollar in postage stamps—ones and twos preferred.

ADVERTISEMENTS published at twenty cents per line for the first, and fifteen cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

Subscriptions discontinued at the expiration of the time paid for.

Specimen copies sent free.

COLBY & RICH

Publish and keep for sale at Wholesale and Retail a complete assortment of Spiritual, Progressive, Reformatory and Miscellaneous Books.

Among the authors are Andrew Jackson Davis, Hon. Robert Dale Owen, Dr. James M. Peebles, Henry C. Wright, Giles B. Stebbins, D. D. Home, T. R. Hazard, William Denton, Rev. M. B. Craven, Judge J. W. Edmonds, Prof. S. B. Brittan, Allen Putnam, Epes Sargent, W. F. Evans, Kersey Graves, A. B. Child, P. B. Randolph, Warren S. Barlow, J. O. Barrett, Mrs. Emma Hardinge Britten, Miss Lizzie Doten, Mrs. Maria M. King, Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond, etc.

Any Book published in England or America, not out of print, will be sent by mail or express.

Catalogues of Books Published and for sale by Colby & Rich sent free.

Publishers who insert the above Prospectus in their respective journals, and call attention to it editorially, will be entitled to a copy of the BANNER OF LIGHT one year, provided a marked paper is forwarded to this office.

OUR AGENTS.

BRENTANO BROS., BOOKSELLERS,
5 Union Square, New York,

Authorized NEW YORK AGENTS for the sale of all of Colby & Rich's Publications. A good stock always on hand of Spiritual Books and Publications. Any Book desired which they do not happen to have in stock will be promptly ordered. Subscriptions received for and single copies of the Banner of Light on sale. Address 5 UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK. Branch stores, 1015 PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE, WASHINGTON, D. C., and 101 STATE STREET, CHICAGO, ILL. NEW YORK AGENCY, 5 UNION SQUARE.

PHILADELPHIA BOOK DEPOT.

The Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass., are for sale by J. H. RHODES, M. D., at the Philadelphia Book Agency, 722 Spring Garden street. Subscriptions received for the Banner of Light at $3.00 per year. The Banner of Light can be found for sale at Academy Hall, No. 810 Spring Garden street, and at all the Spiritual meetings; also at 503 North 9th street, and at news stand 826 Market street.

CLEVELAND, O., BOOK DEPOT.

THOMAS LEES, 142 Ontario street (Room 2). All the Spiritual and Reformatory Works on hand published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass. Subscription Agency for the Banner of Light and other Spiritual papers and magazines, etc. Residence, 105 Cross street, Cleveland, O.

WASHINGTON AGENCY.

M. L. WILCOX & CO., dealers in Standard and Scientific Books, Pamphlets and Periodicals, 207 4½ street, near Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D. C., keep constantly for sale the Banner of Light, and will supply the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., AGENCY.

J. K. COOPER, 746 Market street, San Francisco, Cal., keeps constantly for sale the Banner of Light, and will take orders for any of the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published and for sale by Colby & Rich Boston, Mass.

CHICAGO, ILL., AGENCY.

CHAS. MACDONALD & CO., Periodical dealers, No. 55 Waddington street, Chicago, Ill., keep for sale the Banner of Light, and will supply the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass.

NEW YORK BOOK DEPOT.

The Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass., also the Banner of Light, can be found at the office of The Truth-Seeker, 33 Clinton Place, New York City.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., BOOK DEPOT.

WILLIAMSON & HIGBEE, Booksellers, 62 West Main street, Rochester, N. Y., keep for sale the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published at the Banner of Light Publishing House, Boston, Mass.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., AGENCY.

WM. FOSTER, JR., 30 Battey street, Providence, R. I., will supply any of the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich. He is also agent for the Banner of Light.

DETROIT, MICH., AGENCY.

AUGUSTUS DAY, 12 Park Place, Detroit, Mich., Spiritualistic Sale and Circulating Library. Agent for Banner of Light, and all publications of Colby & R

TO BOOK PURCHASERS.

Colby & Rich, Publishers and Booksellers, 9 Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), corner of Province street, Boston, Mass., keep for sale a complete assortment of SPIRITUAL, PROGRESSIVE, REFORMATORY AND MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS, at Wholesale and Retail.

Terms Cash.—Orders for Books, to be sent by Express, must be accompanied by all or at least half cash. When the money forwarded is not sufficient to fill the order, the balance must be paid C. O. D. Orders for Books, to be sent by Mail, must invariably be accompanied by cash to the amount of each order. We would remind our patrons that they can remit us the fractional part of a dollar in postage stamps—ones and twos preferred. Postage stamps in quantities of MORE than one dollar will not be accepted. All business operations looking to the sale of Books on commission respectfully declined. Any Book published in England or America (not out of print) will be sent by mail or express.

☞ Catalogues of Books Published and for Sale by Colby & Rich sent free.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞ In quoting from the BANNER OF LIGHT care should be taken to distinguish between editorial articles and the common cations (condensed or otherwise) of correspondents. Our columns are open for the expression of impersonal free thought, but we cannot undertake to endorse the varied shades of opinion to which correspondents give utterance.

☞ We do not read anonymous letters and communications. The name and address of the writer are in all cases indispensable as a guaranty of good faith. We cannot undertake to return or preserve manuscripts that are not used. When newspapers are forwarded which contain matter for our inspection, the sender will confer a favor by drawing a pencil or ink line around the article he desires specially to recommend for perusal.

☞ When our patrons desire the address of the BANNER changed, they should give us two weeks' previous notice, and not forget to state their present as well as future address.

Notices of Spiritualist Meetings, in order to insure prompt insertion, must reach this office on Monday of each week, as the BANNER goes to press every Tuesday.

Banner of Light.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, JUNE 16, 1888.

[Entered at the Post-Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class Matter.]

THE BANNER IS ISSUED EVERY THURSDAY MORNING FOR THE WEEK ENDING ON SATURDAY.

PUBLICATION OFFICE AND BOOKSTORE, 9 Bosworth St. (formerly Montgomery Place), corner Province Street (Lower Floor).

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL AGENTS:
THE NEW ENGLAND NEWS COMPANY,
14 Franklin Street, Boston.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY,
39 and 41 Chambers Street, New York.

COLBY & RICH,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

ISAAC B. RICH.....BUSINESS MANAGER.
LUTHER COLBY.....EDITOR.
JOHN W. DAY.....ASSISTANT EDITOR.

☞ Business Letters must be addressed to ISAAC B. RICH, Banner of Light Publishing House, Boston, Mass. All other letters and communications must be forwarded to LUTHER COLBY. Private letters should invariably be marked "Personal" on the envelope.

☞ Before the oncoming light of Truth, Creeds tremble, Ignorance dies, Error decays, and Humanity rises to its proper sphere of Knowledge.—Spirit John Pierpont.

As June 18th is a legal holiday, the friends are hereby notified that the counting-room of the BANNER OF LIGHT will be closed on that occasion.

Parties having advertisements for the seventh page which they wish to renew in THE BANNER for June 23d must make application by Friday afternoon, June 15th, or they will be too late, as our first forms go to press one day in advance for that issue.

Force and Fact—Faith and Knowledge.

The discourse by Phillips Brooks before the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company and their New York and London guests, on the recent occasion of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of that old military organization, while it was as eloquent and thoughtful a production as was naturally expected from the distinguished preacher, was especially remarkable for the broad and free ground taken that the present age is the age of inquiry after fact, instead of blind submission to force. By force was very plainly meant authority in its many forms, and in all that it implies. This of course includes faith, by means of which alone dogma has been able to hold its ground, or can expect to hold it in the future. Out of the old seventeenth century, observed the speaker, the world came new and different. It had passed from the compulsion of force into the compulsion of fact. The beginning of the seventeenth century saw the movement of the world's affairs decided by the strongest will, backed by the strongest army; at its close the world had fairly entered on that new condition in which the ambition and the purpose of mankind was to discover and conform to the facts of the universe. That is the difference between the ancient and the modern life.

It is modern, said the speaker, to find the fundamental facts in every region and conform to them, to put the sceptre into the hands of the nature of things small. The modern has left the old empire of Force behind; the new empire of Fact has come. The military idea is to undergo a change. Instead of being any longer the minister of wanton force, the soldier will be but the embodiment, in its crudest and most palpable form, of the power of fact. "He will be no thunderbolt flung into the midst of an amazed world. He will be the symbol and expression of the vital forces which are working everywhere for the expression of the eternal facts. He will be no longer the destructive power, but the conservative. To put it in the simplest and severest form, the modern as distinguished from the ancient idea of war is the police idea. The soldier is not himself the changer of the world. He is only the securer and preserver of those conditions in which the vital forces which proceed out of the bosom of the eternal facts can do their work and make their mighty revolutions." This is well said. A grand truth is conveyed in the utterance. His is the large and enlarging mind that can grasp and hold it, not vaguely but clearly and comprehensively.

The wars of ancient days ring with the cries of personal ambition. The sound of modern warfare has always behind it the sober murmur of the council chamber where men are discussing the eternal facts. On its banner is inscribed some calm word of unchangeable justice and the necessary right. It is the eternal facts that shine through the glittering armor of the modern soldier, and righteousness that shakes the earth in his solid tread. He but represents the State and the family. He is the glorified and forceful citizen. Who does not see how the old nature of war is passed forever, and facts, often mistaken, often distorted, but still facts as men conceive them, are the masters of the world? And as the eternal facts never quarrel, the great future of the world is Peace. Yet peace has its perils as well as its victories. The modern world must undertake to answer the question, what substitutes the nations of peace, the nations of agriculture and commerce and science have found, or can find, for the hard schoolrooms of the barracks and the battle-field, in which, through all the ages of the world thus far, these faculties have found their cultivation. But an answer to this question will assuredly be found.

In all ages, a large part of the world's vitality has been absorbed in war; a large part of man's most vital qualities have found their most brilliant fields of education and display in battle. Yet those qualities do not essentially belong to war or battle; they are already finding a more profound education and a more impressive exhibition in the new compulsions of fact which are taking the place of the compulsions of force. Where shall we see implicit obedience and the complete acceptance of a supreme law so absolute as in the eager intensity with which the scientist watches the face of Nature to catch the slightest intimation of her will? Where shall we see magnanimity so entire as in the heart of the true merchant, who feels that the State surrounds his personal fortune and furnishes the sufficient means and the worthy purpose of his becoming rich? Where shall we see such noble self-surrender as in the lanes and alleys of our great cities, "where quiet and determined men and women have bowed before the facts of human brotherhood and human need, and given the full cups of their entire lives to the parched lips of their poor brethren"? The President may be as great a hero as the successful General. The truth seeker's enthusiasm may be as unselfish as that which scales the height and captures the citadel.

"There is nothing good or glorious which war has brought forth in human nature," said the preacher, "which peace may not produce more richly and permanently. When we cease to think of peace as the negative of war, and think of war as the negative of peace—making war and not peace the exception and interruption of human life, making peace and not war the type and glory of existence—then shall shine forth the higher soldiership of the higher battles.... The facts of government, the facts of commerce, the facts of society, the facts of history, the facts of man, the facts of God—in these, in the perception of their glory, in the obedience to their compulsion, shall lie the possibility and promise of the soldier statesman, the soldier scientist, the soldier philanthropist, the soldier priest, the soldier man.... It is not that the power of fight has perished. It is that the battle has gone up on to higher grounds and into higher light. The battle is above the clouds." Man is "changing compulsion for higher and yet higher, the coarser for the finer, the brutal for the spiritual."

But all is not said, concluded the eloquent and philosophic speaker, when we have seen the compulsion of facts issuing from and claiming to take the place of the compulsion of force. There is one last fact behind all other facts to which a man must render his final allegiance. That fact is "himself, his own character, his own personal, spiritual nature filled and inspired by God." His life finds its consummate mastery in his own conscience, filled and illuminated by the light of God. We are brought to the dominion of personal character at last. If we are true to ourselves, we cannot be false to any. "Alas," exclaimed the speaker, "alas! for the man who knows no 'higher law'; who holds himself in such absolute obedience to any power of governor or government on earth that he is not ready to listen when the demands of his own character say to him—disobey! Alas for the man who thinks even the facts of nature his inevitable masters; who will not believe in his power to overcome them, even though it be by undergoing them; who will not rush through fire though it burn, through water though it drown, to do the work which his soul knows that it must do! It is in this last compulsion of character that the brave and faithful of all ages and conditions meet. To this last compulsion of character all the decisions of things must more and more constantly tend."

As the world grows riper fewer and fewer questions will go to the arbitrament of arms: Men will some day learn that legislation ought to have less and less to do. He is a public benefactor who makes "it possible to have one law less. He is a public enemy who would increase arbitrary government by a single burden that might be carried by the conscience and character of the community. It is in the development of this ultimate compulsion of character that is to be found the only perfect hope of man, and therefore his highest duty lies there. The best success and triumph of war and legislation is to make themselves less and less necessary, until at last they shall obliterate themselves. Every just war makes war more impossible. Every righteous law brings men nearer to being a law unto themselves. All is moving on to the ideal condition of mankind, which is the safe and sufficient compulsion and control of character. Law must ever open into higher law. Compulsion must ever give place to richer compulsion. And finally the Kingdom of Heaven will have perfectly come into a world whose law is character—"a world gladly and absolutely obedient to Truth and Humanity and Him."

Paul in Paradise.

On the confessed experience of St. Paul, when he records in his second letter to the Corinthians his having been "caught up into Paradise," Rev. Dr. Wild, of Toronto, delivered a recent discourse, many of the statements in which invite passing attention. Paul distinctly narrates, says Dr. Wild, that he once visited heaven, commonly called paradise. And he as plainly teaches that man can exist outside of a material body as he can within it, continuing to retain his consciousness, his identity and his individuality. If it were not so, reasons Dr. Wild, Paul would not have queried whether he was in the body or out. And Dr. Wild justly considers it to have been a glorious thing for the world that Paul was the conscious recipient of such visions and visitations from time to time; "though our outward man perish," says Paul, "yet the inward man is renewed day by day." He teaches that without a material body we can go to heaven, can live there, and can hear and see.

And Dr. Wild breaks out in an exclamation of the profoundest gratitude to God for such information to us poor mortals on earth. Some people, he remarks, think it wrong to speak in a tone of confidence about the other world and the life it has for us. They refuse to believe that it possesses any reality of which we can have a distinct conception. They believe in a long sleep until the resurrection morn. According to John, there they hunger no more, thirst no more, are not plagued with heat, do not suffer pain or sorrow, or weeping or death. "As light is tempered to my eyes," says Dr. Wild, "and sound to my ears, so heavenly information is tempered to our earthly condition. We have to impart certain kinds of knowlege gradually to our children." Paul said he "heard indescribable things spoken, which it is not possible for a man to speak." He meant that he saw and heard things which he could not describe in human language. Science, says the Doctor, could not have given us the slightest hint of what Paul was able to impart through his visions and revelations.

And still, with a strange inconsistency, Dr. Wild absolutely refuses to place any special confidence in Spiritualism, because it reveals to us what we can understand! To be revelation he thinks it should after all fail to reveal. It should hint of things which it cannot express. And yet he has just asserted that the light is tempered to our unfolding capacity, just as we introduce knowledge gradually into the minds of our children. If spirits are to communicate with mortals at all they must of course do it through the channels and by the agencies which are level with mortal apprehension. They must use symbols in order to be understood. "We can only talk and think about things on the plane of our own experience." For all that, Dr. Wild is willing to accept the revelation only as he fails to understand it. "Spiritualism," says he, "would have won me years ago if it could have described to me anything that I could not find parts of in this earth; but it is fettered to the earth; it is earthy." What he calls for is something that is "not of the earth."

When spirits enter heaven, he believes that they by instinct speak a language common to that life. Remarking on the fact that Lazarus told nothing of what he had seen and known there, he explains it by saying that it was all "sealed down" in his memory so that he could not recall and recite it, if he would. And then he makes this jump back into the arms of old theology again: "That would be the way that you father and you mother will never lose your son if he goes to hell. God will seal the mind, and you will have no knowledge of such a child, just as such things are sealed here." And still we are to be ourselves there although we have thus been stripped of our deepest and richest affections! What inane delusions will not the advocates of the cruel Calvinistic theology accept, only for the sake of holding on to its unnatural assumptions!

Had Dr. Wild been allowed the chance, what sort of questions would he have plied Paul with after his experience with one of these heavenly visions? According to his own confession, he would have sought first of all to gratify his childish curiosity: "First I would have asked him," says he, "what does our Lord and Saviour look like? What is his bulk, his height, his general appearance? Did you see Adam and Eve? I would like to have a description of these good old creatures to whom we are so much indebted. Are they aged? What language do they speak in that heaven where you were? Is it one familiar to earth, or easily understood? How and what do the inhabitants subsist upon? Do they eat and drink? and, if so, whence come their provisions? How are they clothed or attired? What do they do? What are their social relations? Are there any marks of age to indicate whether one is older than another? How do infants get along? How are they cared for? What is their position? What are their opportunities?"

Now this style of questioning would indicate that the person indulging in it cares more for news than for spiritual truth. And Dr. Wild is the same man, too, who finds fault with Spiritualism because it answers the very questions he would ask, besides those of a higher order. He is like the boy who would eat his cake and still keep it. There are numberless details of spirit-life which Spiritualism supplies in response to our inquiries respecting it, yet Dr. Wild rejects it for the reason that it does faithfully answer the very questions he asks, and far more. For a man who professes to want something that is not at all of the earth, we submit that he asks a string of very earthy questions.

It is natural that we should seek to know of that life from the standpoint of our present experience. The further we advance in spiritual growth and development, the less earthy and the more spiritual will become our desire for knowledge respecting that life. While, however, we continue mortal we cannot wholly divest ourselves of interest in mortal subjects; and the character of our questionings will inevitably be colored by so obvious a fact. This stands confessed and plain from the questions which Dr. Wild himself would ask. Yet he insists on having his clerical thrust at Spiritualism for furnishing the very information he professes to be so eager to obtain. The thing for him and for us all to do is to accept what is given us, and accept it gratefully rather than superstitiously. And the truth we get will not fail to verify itself to our individual consciousness.

James Freeman Clarke.

This truly distinctive and distinguished Boston preacher deceased from earth-life late in the evening of June 8th, at his residence in Jamaica Plain, at the age of seventy-eight years. His departure from the long broken circle of the old Boston ministers is an event of more than local interest and significance. He belonged to the famous class in Harvard, of which Dr. O. W. Holmes, Judge B. R. Curtis, Willam Henry Channing, Professor Benjamin Pierce, George T. Davis, and S. F. Smith, author of the national hymn "America," were members. It was in consequence of the intimate friendship he formed with Margaret Fuller that he finally decided on the preacher's vocation. She taught him, by his own frequent confession, to devote his life to a great end. It was in 1841, after the usual preliminary experiences elsewhere, that Dr. Clarke entered upon his lifework in Boston. In that year was formed and established the little Church of the Disciples in Freeman Place, with a free seating, and conducted in every respect in a spirit of studied and consistent simplicity. In addition to his ministerial duties, Dr. Clarke has been a prolific writer, and the fruits of his pen have nourished thousands of famishing spirits.

As a citizen he was esteemed one of the choicest worth. Though not aggressive he was always found combative and defiantly independent. He was no less free and open in his declarations of political than of religious opinion. At all times and in all places he possessed the courage of his convictions. He was openly one of the very few of Theodore Parker's friends, when the latter was set upon by the body of the Unitarian clergy; and no one spoke sincerer or more profoundly merited words of eulogy at the death of the latter than were uttered by James Freeman Clarke. He paid that high respect to Harriet Martineau when she visited this country which her great character deserved. He accepted Emerson for all that he was able to comprehend in the wide range of his perceptive thought. In all respects his aim was to be a true man by being true to himself. For he held that character was something far too deep and high to be compared with mere creed, and that living things were not to be set aside from any habit of reverence for dead ones. He was an early and constant friend of the slave and his freedom, and as such the friend likewise of Garrison and Phillips and Sumner.

Yet he never failed to exercise a supreme discretion, and he knew how to be patient, and wait for the beginnings of what would vindicate his action and thought. He was always candid enough to be willing to submit his convictions to revision; preferring the calm consciousness of right to the flush of mere victory. For a round half century he has been one of the few men in Boston who could be always depended on, and always found standing at their post. This is indeed a great tribute, and a rich one, to pay to any man. Though possessed of a positively original temperament, that might have led him away into the indulgence of idiosyncrasies, he held it in steady subordination to a ruling common-sense, which never failed to strike the high average of things, and to maintain it. Therefore his growing character all the time gathered new strength for its influence, and he was as much trusted as he was beloved. If he was not ambitious, it was because he felt that he needed no additional stimulus to perform his duties in a spirit truly great and exalted. Sufficient unto the day was the good and evil thereof, was the ruling principle of his life. That life, if ever it was true of a human life, was spent in doing good. And he did it bravely, healthily, and left the world much better for having lived in it.

"I Am No Evoluter!"

The General Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church, at its recent session at Baltimore, came out strongly against the evolution theory, and planted itself squarely on the Genesaic "instant-creation" dogma. Prof. Woodrow, an eminent scholar and liberal man—of whose case we have previously spoken—received the censure of these bigots in the matter of his appeal to the Assembly from the decision of the Georgian Synod—the vote, however, showing some advance in the ideas of the clergymen of the Presbyterian Church South since two years ago when Prof. W. was condemned by that Synod. One child of blind faith declared as his sense of the height of the occasion: "I believe God created Adam instanter, likewise the sun and stars"—a large job, quickly done, we should say, in the light of modern astronomic revelations. Another "smart Alec" among the unprogressive element which contributed its 109 votes vs. Prof. W. in victorious opposition to the 34 who dared to vote in his defense, based his own action in the premises on the words quoted above: "I AM NO EVOLUTER!" What a clear-cut crystallization into words of the narrow and short-sighted traditional policy of the Presbyterian church regarding nearly every new truth which has come to mankind since its organization!

Evolution means alike the clear expansion and improvement of mind or matter in harmony with natural law and the demands of changing environments; it is Progress in league with Time. Shattering seismatic convulsions in the mental field can alone be expected to move the Presbyterian "moss-backs" "one jot or one tittle." Let them sleep till the shock comes!

Progress in Illinois.

By a letter from Bro. Chase (third page) it will be seen that he has recently been one of the instruments in organizing a new local effort for the advance of Spiritualism and the establishment of a camp-meeting—the society to be known as the Southern Illinois Spiritual Association.

Convention in Wisconsin.

Attention is called to the announcement of President Lockwood—on our third page—regarding the forthcoming Spiritualist Convention in Milwaukee, June 22d-24th inclusive.

☞ F. W. Jones informs us that the regular services of the People's Spiritual Meeting, New York City, were held last Sunday with marked success. On Sunday evening, June 17th, literary and musical exercises will be the order of procedure. Mr. Wilson Macdonald, assisted by other eminent talent, will furnish the entertainment, and a grand time is expected. He adds that the Brooklyn Progressive Conference is still in actice and useful operation.

☞ J. M. Peebles, M. D., has purchased and will hereafter publish the Atlantic Mirror (weekly) of Hammonton, N. J., H. W. Wilbur being in charge of the editorial department. It is announced that "in matters social, scientific, religious and political, The Mirror will be independent, conserving and encouraging the right, the good and the true wherever found." This is good doctrine, and we trust it will be enforced in practice to the letter.

☞ We are in receipt of a cabinet portrait of Judge Nelson Cross, an active New York lawyer and magazine editor. This gentleman was a general in the late civil war, and will attend the forthcoming Gettysburg ceremonial, it being the twenty fifth anniversary of that great battle. The photograph is not, in our estimation, half as good-looking as the original.

☞ By reference to the advertisement of W. O. Cutter, on our fifth page, it will be seen that the business once conducted by the late Mrs. Dr. Abbie E. Cutter will in future be continued under direction of her son.

☞ "Fair Play's" testimony will appear next week.

SET BACK FOR THE FAITH CURE.—The New York Truth Seeker records that the first instance in South Carolina of a resort to the faith cure is reported from Timmonsville, where it resulted in the death of Annette Maness, a bright girl twelve years old. She was stricken with measles, which finally developed into a more dangerous type of disease. A physician attended her, and soon had the ailment under control. At this juncture Miss Mattie Gordon came to that vicinity, lecturing and claiming to be a faith-healer. She soon induced the child to abandon the doctor's medicine and adopt the faith remedy. The mother protested, but the child, encouraged by Miss Gordon, refused to yield. The disease took a firm hold, and when at length the family recalled the discharged physician it was too late. When last heard from, Miss Gordon was in Charleston, conducting a "holiness" revival. "The people of Timmonsville," says the Truth Seeker, "declare they will make it warm for her if she ever appears in that section again."

☞ Mrs. J. C. Ewell—medium for the past thirty years in Boston—has gone to Belvidere, N. J., for a time. When she resumes the exercise of her spiritual gifts her card will appear in the BANNER OF LIGHT as usual. Letters will reach her as above.

A "Haunted House" in Augusta, Me.

A special to the New York World reports the sensation of a "haunted house" in Augusta, Me. It was occupied for several years by Mr. Charles O. Stone and wife; the former died thirteen months since, soon after which event Mrs. Stone seemed to lose all vitality and strength, and her mind became so much deranged that she was placed in the hospital for the insane. Mr. David Merrill, a coal dealer, moved into the house about twelve months since. A few weeks after his occupancy, one night after he had retired he was awakened by three loud knocks upon the head of his bed. Others followed at intervals, and he heard them in different portions of the house nearly all night, so that he was unable to sleep much. Very naturally he was somewhat frightened, as was his wife, who was also awakened by the rapping. The disturbance was repeated about every two weeks. Once Mr. Merrill thought some one was knocking for admittance at the door, but on opening it suddenly no one was there. Again, in the night, when the rappings were most frequent, he took a lantern and made a careful examination of the premises about the house. A light snow had fallen, but not a vestige of a human footprint could be discovered.

On another night he awoke from a deep sleep and beheld standing by the window the spirit-form of a man. As he raised himself to have a better view it vanished. From descriptions given him of Mr. Stone, Mr. Merrill feels assured that it was him.

Upon Mr. Merrill vacating the premises they were occupied by J. F. Frain, an intelligent young man, pressman at E. C. Allen's publishing-house. A few days after taking possession the children were frightened by hearing voices, and in about a week rappings on the footboard of the bed commenced and a shuffling was heard by the man and his wife in the room below, as if a merry party were whirling in a giddy dance. The husband endeavored to quiet his wife, who is a very nervous woman, by telling her that the noises were caused by the tramping of horses in an adjoining stable. These sounds continued with variation night after night. A clinking as if an anvil were struck with a hammer was occasionally heard from the chambers, apparently on the first floor. Going downstairs the sounds seemed to come from the cellar. On the cellar being visited the sounds appeared to be overhead. On other occasions boisterous laughter has been heard, as if coming from a bevy of lively girls.

The World's correspondent, under date of June 8th, closes by saying: "Mrs. Stone, the wife of the deceased former tenant of the house, died in the hospital about a week ago, and since then the mysterious demonstrations have decreased, and for two nights nothing has occurred. Another tenant will enter the building at once. This is really a remarkable case, and, while readers may scoff, the standing of the parties here is such that it is difficult to disbelieve their assertions."

Mysterious Fires.

George F. Fair, of Moncton, informs us that fires spontaneously breaking out without apparent cause in the dwelling of Mr. Good, of Millville, York Co., N. B., have not only alarmed, and eventually resulted in great loss to Mr. G., but have created much consternation among all persons in that vicinity. The first fire broke out May 29th. It was extinguished; and though thought strange, nothing would have been said of it, but when a fire started in another part of the house, and as soon as extinguished one blazed up in still another part, the repetition occurring every few hours, the strange events became a matter of public concern and anxiety.

A special to the Daily Telegraph, St. John, N. B., of June 5th, says:

"The same mysterious fires continued on Wednesday and Thursday, resulting in the destruction of almost every article of household furniture belonging to Mr. Good. The fire finally caught in the barn, ending in its destruction.

The fires are the talk of the whole neighborhood, and no one seems able to explain their cause. So far as it can be learned, Mr. Good's property was not insured, and the fires were not believed to be the work of human hands or caused by accident."

Vermont Convention.

By the official call for the Quarterly Convention, on our eighth page, it will be seen that the Spiritualists of Vermont are up and doing. Attention is specially directed to what Dr. E. A. Smith proposes to do in the way of reduced rates for excursionists.

INDIAN STATISTICS.—The recent report of the United States Senate Committee on the Indian Appropriation bill shows in an interesting manner the nature of the expense—in various directions—to the government in dealing with the Indian problem: The bill, as reported by the Senate, amounts in toto to $8,172,129, a reduction of something like $226,000. This includes the estimates of the Indian Department and nearly $3,000,000 for the Choctaw claim. The bill, as reported, exclusive of the Choctaw judgments, is less than last year's bill by $13,567. The Senate Committee added $1000 to the salary of the superintendent of Indian schools, gave $21,200 more for the support of the Indian day and industrial school, and $3000 for the new building at Carlisle. The largest reduction was $100,000 in support of Indians at Fort Peck, and taking $4000 from the item for severalty surveys and aid to Indians who take land in severalty. The actual machinery of Indian administration, by subordinates, is only about $300,000 a year. The cost of the treaty fulfillment is in all nearly $3,000,000; $2,201,199 is for permanent treaty support, the rest miscellaneous. The Sioux of different tribes receive altogether $1,318,500; the Crows a little over $100,000; the Utes, $73,000; the Northern Cheyennes and Arapahoes, 56,000. Of the miscellaneous supports, the Arizona and New Mexico Indians, not regularly provided for, receive $170,000 a year. The total cost of Indian schools amounts to $1,308,015.

L'ENCYCLOPEDIE CONTEMPORAINE (Illustrée) issued at 13 rue du Vieux-Colombier, Paris, gives in a recent number, and in a prominent place on its first page, a six-column article signed "Ph. Linet," devoted to an interesting sketch of "Le Docteur Charles E.-Taylor, membre du consel Colonial des Antilles Danoises." Dr. Taylor is well known to readers of THE BANNER, as having fought a determined battle for medical freedom on the island of St. Thomas. Added attractiveness is given the narration through a finely-wrought portrait of its subject. An interesting account is given of Dr. Taylor's life; his wanderings from London (his birthplace) through Canada, the United States and Mexico, to the place that was to become his home—the island of St. Thomas. He is described as a natural musician, and an indefatigable student, especially in scientific directions. He has made hosts of friends by his intellectual and artistic qualities, has finally surmounted all obstacles, and now stands an honored, progressive physician and author. We wish him every success in his diversified life-work.

☞ Dr. Mezger, of Amsterdam, is said to be an excellent healer, but no better than many in this country who advertise in THE BANNER. He is employed among the nobility, and that makes the difference in the estimation of "society people." But to the point: We learn from the St. Steven's Gazette that the good Doctor has had under massage treatment the Queen of Sweden, the Empress of Austria, the Ex-Empress Eugénie, the Queen of Roumania, the Crown Prince of Holland, the Arch-Duchess of Austria, the Duke of Mecklenburg, and several Russian Princes. Dr. Mezger charges his royal patients precisely the same sum that he exacts from plebeian patients. For three minutes of massage rubbing the patient pays five guilders—8*s.* 4*d.*

DR. W. L. JACK is now at York Beach, Me. He expects to be during the summer at Onset Bay and Cottage City, probably at Lake Pleasant. When at the latter place he may be found at his cottage, "Ivy Dell." He finds himself necessitated to limit the number of sittings he shall give during the season, therefore an early engagement for them in each place is desirable, to avoid disappointment.

☞ Read the call for the annual meeting at Underhill Grove, Akron, O., which will be found on our eighth page.

ALL SORTS OF PARAGRAPHS.

UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF TEA.
IN SIX STANZAS.
IV.

With her, through the loveliest bowers,
In fancy I lazily strayed;
We lived in a vine-covered chalet,
And doves in the mulberry swayed.

THE BANNER is the best advertising sheet in the world, as it circulates everywhere. Merchants should bear this fact in mind.

Mrs. Catherine Crowell, the great-great-great-grandmother of Mrs. A. J. Bennett, of Lancaster, S. C., died June 9th, in her ninety-ninth year. She was the mother of sixteen children. Her descendants number four hundred and twenty-two, not including the families and descendants of two of her children who live out West and have not been heard from for many years. She had one hundred and fifty-six grandchildren, two hundred and twelve great-grandchildren, thirty-two great-great-grandchildren and six great-great-great-grandchildren. She was married when she was sixteen, and most of her descendants have done likewise.

The London artillery men had a gay time in Boston, and have gone back to "Old England" chock full of praises for "the Yankees."

Scandal-mongers are still plying their vocation in city, town and village. We are sorry to be obliged to state that this class of "disturbers of the peace" includes individuals who profess to believe in the beautiful truths of the Spiritual Philosophy.

The Emperor of China has begun the study of Volapük. Perhaps he'll take up the faith cure yet.—New York World.

The case of the watch formerly belonging to Louis Napoleon, Prince Imperial, who was killed in South Africa, has been sent to London. It is slightly battered. It bears the young Prince's monogram and crest. The watch was given to him by his mother, ex-Empress Eugénie. An Englishman recently purchased it of a Zulu.

The New York daily press is just now spending all its energies in trying to make Spiritualism appear odious. In this it is joined by the associated press dispatch reports, and will undoubtedly be backed by the leading daily and weekly journals. Mark our word, the ministers are at the bottom of this business, and the right arm of the law will be sought to put Spiritualism down.—The New Thought, Des Moines, Ia.

The infant King of Spain should have been more considerate than to come down with the measles at a time when so many other monarchs are ailing.

A New England man has beaten the green goods sawdust men at their own game. He got one of their circulars, and in reply asked for a sample of their goods. They sent him a genuine $1 bill, and the gentleman of New England stopped the correspondence then and there.—Scranton Truth.

It has fallen to New York to inaugurate an important reform in the method of capital punishment. After the first of January next there will be no more legal hangings in that State. It has been decided by its Legislature that the use of electricity is more civilized and effectual than the gallows, and the Governor has approved its action.

Sometimes it almost seems as if the reason the church steeple keeps pointing heavenward so persistently is because it is trying to distract attention from the debt beneath it.—Journal of Education.

Recent events demonstrate the fact that the evil spirit in man loses no opportunity, and that the brute in his composition is easily aroused.

John Bright read Donnelly's "Cryptogram" through, and fell ill. It generally has that effect.—Herald.

Messrs. Clarke & Carruth, 340 and 344 Washington street, Boston, have in press, soon to be published, "Among the Theologies." by Hiram Orcutt, LL. D.

Our columns will ever remain absolutely free from all invidious personalities, for we emulate the good in humanity, and shall seek to find it in all.—Light on the Way.

Give us your hand, brother. That is the right spirit. There is no other way whereby our erring fellow-mortals can be led into the better way of life than by emulating the good in their natures. And by the exercise of this spirit, we develop the good in our own natures. This is the grand highway that leads to everlasting happiness.—Golden Gate.

A late telegram from Philadelphia announces the fact that Mgr. Bouland, the distinguished French priest who seceded from the Roman Catholic Church in April last, has been received into the French Episcopal Church of St. Sauveur by Rev. Charles Niel.

In New York twenty-one people have been killed and one hundred and thirty-nine injured since Jan. 1st, by horses and vehicles driven by reckless drivers. It is as much as one's life is worth to attempt to cross Broadway at Canal street any day except Sunday.

Emperor Francis Joseph, of Austria, wants peace and——a large army

The Democratic Convention at St. Louis has nominated its Presidential ticket: Cleveland and Thurman are the candidates.

The coarse cuts in the daily press are getting to be vile chestnuts. They are sheer caricatures upon the engravers' art.

Father McGlynn says that the landlord class is the ruling one, bound to grow richer and richer, and the tenant class is the slave class, getting only a bare subsistence and a chance to breed other tenants for the next generation of landlords. This state of things will continue, unless the people unite their forces and put a stop to this usurpation.

THE SHOPPER!

Around the counters and up the stairs,
In attic and basement and everywheres;
The salesmen fainted and cash boys dropped,
But still she shopped, and shopped, and shopped,
And round, and round, and round, and round,
Like a winding toy with a key that 's wound,
She 'd weave and wriggle and twist about,
One way in and the other way out,
Till men grew giddy to see her go.
And by and-bye, when the sun was low,
Homeward she dragged her weary way,
And had sent home the spoils of the day,
A spool of silk and a hank of thread—
Eight hours—ten cents—and a dame half dead.
—Robert J. Burdette, in Brooklyn Eagle.

Correspondents seem to be boring the editor of The Investigator almost continually, and have been for years, in re "haunted houses." He should turn this class of inquirers over to the "Psychical Research Society" of this city, which is composed of clergymen, physicians, et id genus omne! It seems they have issued a manifesto upon the subject of late, going to conclusively show that these Researchers are a very superficial set in the domain of occultism. So dreadfully behind the times are they, that we pity them, as well as their lately imported assistant financial secretary!

A USEFUL FORMULA FOR SPRAINS, BRUISES, ETC.

(Man or beast.)

R.	Smartweed,	2 ozs.
	Mullein Leaves,	2 ozs.
	Saltpetre,	1 oz.
	Strong Rum,	1 qt.

Set aside for ten days—filter. This is the lotion used so successfully by Doctor Sweet.

Now that the presidential "boom" is on, would n't it be a good plan for the two "great parties" to secure the services of men who have lost their legs as "stump orators"?

Three kinds of cake had little Belle,
Of all she did partake.
The first was sponge, the second jell,
The third was stoma-cache.

The St. Louis Convention news wired to the press amounted to two thousand columns of printed matter!

A CHANGE OF PROFESSION.—Customer (to grocer's clerk)—Is n't this young Mr. Classic? Clerk—That is my cognomen, sir. Customer—I thought you were going into journalism on leaving college? Clerk—I did for a little while. You will find that codfish delicious, sir; anything else to-day?—N. Y. Sun.

NEW USE FOR SERMONS.—Kate Foote writes to The (N. Y.) Independent from Washington, that a lady who heard her friends expressing a wish to banish sermons from the church service, protested earnestly, because "it is a quiet time—nobody can interrupt—the pews must not talk back, you know. I—lean back comfortably and plan all my bonnets. It is lovely for that, and your neighbors' bonnets are all round to offer suggestions. Pray do not let the sermons go."

Intend honestly and leave the event to God.—Æsop, B. C. 500.

It is said that the great and immaculate Flavius Josephus Cook was born in Ticonderoga, and was always known by its residents as "Flave."

Among the noblest in the land,
Though he may count himself the least,
That man I honor and revere,
Who, without favor, without fear,
In the great city dares to stand
The friend of every friendless beast.
—Longfellow.

Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, of Boston, a daughter of Louis Agassiz, has for eight years supported free kindergartens in the poorest quarters of Boston and Cambridge, at a personal expense of $50,000.

Attention is called to the prospectus of that sterling journal of Spiritual Philosophy, the BANNER OF LIGHT, which appears on another page.—The Saturday Gazette, Sandusky, O.

META HELLANON ASAN AILOUROI.—"The following translation by Graham R. Tomson," says Mr. Andrew Lang in Longman's Magazine, "is from a Greek 'epigram' that should have settled the old dispute: "Had the Greeks cats?" Clearly, as the epigram proves, cats were exotic animals in Greece. The lady whom her lover laments actually threw him over because he did not, and one Nicias did, bring her cats from Egypt:

"A little lion, small and dainty sweet,
(For such they be!)
With sea-gray eyes and softly-stepping feet,
She prayed of me.
For this through lands Egyptian far away
She bade me pass;
But in an evil hour I said her nay,
And now, alas!
Far-traveled Nicias hath wooed and won
Arsinoe
With gifts of furry creatures, white and dun,
From over-sea."

PUT NOT YOUR TRUST IN PEANUTS!—The latest thing to form the basis of a trust is that interesting vegetable, the peanut. Norfolk, Va., is the headquarters of the combination, which embraces peanuteries in New York, St. Louis, Cincinnati, and various points in Virginia.

A writer wants to know: "How should a young man enter society?" Not having much experience in such matters, we cannot answer definitely, but think it would be very appropriate to enter walking on both feet.—Oil City Blizzard.

BRIEF PRAYER.

Good God of Love,
Look down from above,
And caution Editor Barney;
Just give him the nub,
While at the Hub,
To get off no more blarney.

[OVERHEARD IN THE MARKET.]—"You have a very sour look this morning," remarked a cucumber to his neighbor, a dyspeptic strawberry.—"Yes," was the tart reply, "one is necessarily unpleasantly affected when compelled to associate with such a seedy party as you are."—"Cauliflower by any other name 't will smell as sweet," shouted an onion near by with a peal of laughter.—Ex.

FRENCH OATHS AND ENGLISH PRAYERS.—We find these lines in an exchange, credited to M. Renan, who, it is said, compared the French language to a clear, bright flambeau; adding that it was a marvelous instrument of civilization:

"My idea is that God takes more pleasure in listening to the gay, harmless oaths of the French soldier than to the gloomy prayers of many a Puritan sect. It is a good thing to give contentment to man, and certainly the best way to make him kindly."

Spiritualist Camp-Meetings for 1888.

The season of out-of-door gatherings on the part of the believers in the New Dispensation is drawing nigh; and the reader will find, by reference to the subjoined, a partial list of the localities and time of session where such convocations are to be held.

The BANNER OF LIGHT has made it a practice for years past to give this list to its patrons each season, and reverts with satisfaction to the fact that at each recurrent period this roster of the army of progress has been repeatedly copied (and widely circulated), either in extenso or by briefer notice, into the columns of Spiritualist and secular papers in many portions of the country:

ONSET BAY, MASS.—The Twelfth Annual Camp-Meeting at this place commences its sessions July 15th, to close Aug. 12th.

LAKE PLEASANT, MASS.—The Fifteenth Annual Convocation of the New England Spiritualists' Camp-Meeting Association will be held at Lake Pleasant, Montague, Mass., (on the Hoosac Tunnel route) Aug. 1st to Sept. 3d, inclusive. The regular session will be preceded with speaking and musical exercises July 22d and 29th. Trains "54," "100," "45" and "43," will stop at the Lake when there are passengers to leave, or when signalled to take passengers. The above trains, "54" and "100," leave Boston at 6:30 A. M. and 3:35 P. M., arriving at Lake Pleasant at 10:30 A. M. and 6:45 P. M. The trains No. "45" and "43" leave Lake Pleasant at 6:40 A. M. and 2:45 P. M.

LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN, TENN.—The Fifth Annual Meeting will be held at this place (near Chattanooga) during the entire month of July.

CALIFORNIA CAMP-MEETING.—The Fourth Annual Gathering will be held at Lake Merritt Park, Oakland, Cal., from June 3d to July 1st, inclusive.

SUNAPEE LAKE, N. H.—The sessions of the Eleventh Annual Meeting commence July 29th, to close Aug. 29th.

QUEEN CITY PARK, VT.—Meeting commences Aug. 21st and continues to Sept. 16th, inclusive.

HASLETT PARK, MICH.—Meeting commences July 26th and continues five Sundays.

VERONA PARK, ME.—Meeting opens Aug. 12th and ends Aug. 27th.

CASSADAGA LAKE, N. Y.—Meeting commences July 21st and closes Aug. 26th.

NORTH COLLINS, N. Y.—The Friends of Human Progress will hold a Spiritual Festival at Forest Temple June 16th and 17th—Mrs. E. L. Watson and Dr. F. L. H. Willis being the speakers.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY SPIRITUALIST ASSOCIATION.—The Sixth Annual Camp-Meeting will commence at Mount Pleasant Park, Clinton, Ia., Sunday, July 29th, to continue five weeks.

MANTUA STATION, O.—The Association will hold a Basket-Meeting Sunday, July 1st, in Atwater's Grove. Societies adjacent are invited to join.

MORRISTOWN, MINN.—The Rice Co. Scientific, Moral and Reformatory Association will hold its First Annual Meeting at Morristown on the third Sunday in June; and in connection therewith will be held a Spiritual and Liberal Camp-Meeting, commencing on Wednesday, June 13th, and closing on Monday, June 18th.

PARKLAND, PA.—Meetings begin in July; dates not yet out.

☞ The one year's engagement of Mr. J. J. Morse as lecturer for the Golden Gate Religious and Philosophical Society of San Francisco, Cal., having terminated, a closing reception was held by himself and wife at 32 Ellis street, that city, on Tuesday evening, May 29th, which was attended by upward of one hundred of their friends. From The Chronicle of June 4th we learn that the large double parlors were tastefully decorated with the choicest flowers, vines and evergreens, the halls and stairways being similarly adorned, and that the cordial relations existing between the hosts and their guests were abundantly demonstrated in the good feeling expressed on all sides. The proceedings comprised an admirably devised programme of music, oratory and song, the executants comprising Mrs. E. W. Clark, Miss Florence Morse and W. W. T. Berrill as vocalists; Miss Valerie Hickethier, Miss Lurline Fink and W. Coombs Austin as elocutionists; Professor Henry R. Austin, oboe soloist; F. V. Austin, violinist, each of whom more than charmed the guests. William Emmette Coleman, president of the society, expressed valedictory sentiments in a felicitous manner to Mr. Morse and family, to which that gentleman feelingly replied.

A pretty feature of the occasion was the distribution of a souvenir consisting of a four-page programme, printed in blue and gold upon a delicate cream-hued card, on the third page of which was a photograph containing the pictures of Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Morse, and appropriate mottoes. When the programme was concluded refreshments were served in the tastefully adorned dining-room, at the close of which dancing was indulged in until nearly 2 A. M.

"It was," remarks The Chronicle, "a most delightful evening for all concerned, and will long be remembered by those who participated in it when the hosts of the evening have returned to England, for their circle of friends is extensive in this city which they admire so much."

The Spiritualist Camp-Meetings.

Lake Pleasant.

[MR. J. MILTON YOUNG is our authorized agent at Lake Pleasant, and will be pleased to receive subscriptions for the BANNER OF LIGHT. Mr. Young also has a full line of our publications for sale at his bookstore. He will conduct the correspondence for THE BANNER from this Camp-Meeting.]

"The years move on, we with their tide
Are to the future drifting;
And patiently we will abide
The curtain's lifting."

Change is written upon everything, and it is well that it is so. Lake Pleasant is no exception to the law, and its fourteen years' record is a history of more than ordinary interest.

We recently came across an old book, upon the flyleaf of which was written, "The names of those who are members of the Association this year—1875." The list is a large one. As we read over the names, the query would arise, Where are those people now? and our thoughts turned to Onset, to Cassadaga, to Parkland, to Sunapee, to Queen City Park, to Lookout Mountain, to Verona, to mountain homes, and to tents on the beach, and to that "land upon whose shore there rests no shadow, falls no stain." Not all have gone, but of those who remain, many have reached earth's afternoon, and calmly await the sunset hour.

Among the early speakers was Rev. Rowland Connor, who made his first mark as a clergyman of the Universalist persuasion, but was too liberal to be tied to a sect. We remember him well—earnest, fearless and eloquent; we hope time has dealt gently with him. Another speaker of marked ability was Dr. S. B. Brittan, of New York; a gentleman of culture and refinement, logical and dignified in his address; where did his mantle fall? Another marked change is the substitution of wooden buildings for tents. Then it was a canvas city, now it is long lines of cottages.

What the next fifteen years will develop is of course a matter of conjecture. "We live in deeds, not years," and history is being made fast. Lake Pleasant has been a great center for the promulgation of advanced thought. In the nature of things it must continue to be. The wheels of progress turn only in one direction, and whoever does not keep pace with the spirit of the age is, to say the least, unfortunate. It is the hero who leads, and there are no cowards in the front line of battle.

NOTES.

Mrs. A. E. Blinn, President of the Ladies' Aid Society of Boston, is among the recent arrivals. She is having her cottage enlarged and much improved.

Mr. James Wilson of Bridgeport, Conn., has purchased a lot on Broadway, to which he has removed his tent formerly located on Lyman street.

T. B. Battle and Mrs. Battle, of Athol, are at their cottage on Montague street.

Mrs. Whitney, of St. Augustine, Fla., has located at Pine Tree Home for the summer.

John McDonald will be clerk again at the hotel.

The editor of the BANNER OF LIGHT should make an early visit to this place.

The assessors have been on duty here during the past few days. This is right. We wish to pay our part toward running the town of Montague.

There is a larger demand for cottages than we have known for several years.

An excursion ticket from Lowell will be issued by the B. and M. Railroad; price, two dollars and seventy-five cents. Friends in Eastern Massachusetts take notice.

The cottage of M. W. Comstock on Lyman street is being painted.

Mr. L. P. Barnes, of Boston, is here for a few days.

Mrs. G. S. Palmer, of Boston, is among the recent arrivals.

Mrs. M. E. Fiske, of Hartford, Conn., has arrived for the summer. She has purchased the Babbitt Cottage on Montague street.

The sale of house-lots has already commenced.

Builders are busy and carpenters likewise.

The register is open, and autographs are being entered.

Mr. John F. Whitney, of St. Augustine, Fla., has been visiting the camp during the week. Mr. Whitney is a veteran in the Cause.

Mrs. S. B. Nichols, of Brooklyn, N. Y., has arrived for the summer.

The Lake Pleasant Hotel has been thoroughly renovated. Miss Carrie L. Brown, of Greenfield, will be landlady, a position which she has occupied several years past.

There will be quite a delegation from Cleveland, O., this summer. Rooms are being taken for the season by parties from that city.

We learn with pleasure that Miss Emma J. Nickerson, of Columbus Avenue, Boston, will visit us this season. As a speaker, elocutionist and psychometrist, Miss Nickerson has already taken her place in the front rank.

No anxiety need be experienced because there is a placard, "For Sale," on a building here. When you learn the price, you will see at once that property is not depreciating.

Our regards to all. J. M. Y.

Lake Pleasant, Mass., June 9th, 1888.

Onset Bay.

"Observer" writes: "Col. Wm. D. Crockett, President of the Onset Bay Grove Association, desiring to know whether the severe winter winds and tides had affected the bridge over which passengers and the motor trains make their way daily, sent word to the officials at Onset to examine the structure, and see that it conformed to the demands of public safety. He received in due time the following reply:

'Onset, June 9th, 1888.—We, the undersigned, have examined the Onset Railway Bridge at Onset, and pronounce it perfectly safe, and in better condition than it was last year, or since it was built in 1885. Alfred Nash, Committee on Public Property; B. H. Bourne, Agent for the O. B. G. A.'

Remember the 'opening day,' the 16th of June. Excursion tickets good from Boston to Onset Station and return are placed at $1.75, allowing the holder to return on the same day, or remain over until Monday, the 18th.

Welcome Adams and family from Rockville, Mass., have arrived at their cottage on West Central Avenue for the season.

Mrs. Dr. William Sturdevant and family have arrived at their "Summer Home" cottage on West Central Avenue.

Mrs. M. E. Cox has taken possession of her cottage for the season.

Mr. E. Gerry Brown will not take his family to Onset this season, but, it is alleged, has purchased a house in Charlestown District, where he will remove. Mr. Brown's interest in the prosperity of Onset is as great as ever, and he will spend his time between his newspaper business and the Onset interest.

The management have arranged to run a car from the opposite side of Onset Avenue to Shell Point; the trips began on Saturday, 9th inst.; the car connects with every train."

M. W. Copeland writes, June 8th: "The event of the week was the opening of the East Wareham and Onset Bay horse railway on Wednesday. Free fares all day and a dinner at Hotel Brockton gave the new road a flattering 'send off.' This line connects Onset with the Old Colony Railroad, via East Wareham station, direct, lessening the distance from Boston and intermediate points about two miles.

Sunday, June 17th, the Middleboro band will make its first appearance this season at Onset."

Another correspondent writes under date of June 11th: "The new street railway is now open from the East Wareham station to and through the grove, which saves one and a half miles travel, and by which shorter line tickets are sold from Boston and all stations at less price. By this line passengers are landed at the doors of all the principal hotels, the auditorium, temple, and along the water front, arriving in advance of the old line—if they call for excursion tickets via East Wareham Street Railway.

Next Sunday being the 17th (Bunker Hill day), will occur our annual opening. Special excursion tickets will be sold from all points, and a large gathering is expected. The beautiful waters of the bay are thickly studded with boats of all descriptions, and fishing is followed up by many with both pleasure and profit."

Lake Merritt Park, Cal.

Among the trees that fringe the sloping shores of Lake Merritt the Spiritualists of California, as heretofore announced in THE BANNER, have located their State Camp-Meeting.

A more delightful spot for a camp meeting, says The Chronicle of the 4th inst., could hardly be found so near San Francisco. Everything necessary to make the life of the camper pleasant is close at hand, and where nature has fallen short in some matters, detail-loving art has stepped in and provided them.

This is the fourth annual gathering of the California Spiritualists' Camp-Meeting Association; it opened Sunday, June 3d, under the most favorable auspices.

The tents at the Park increase in number daily. Prominent among them is the large meeting-tent, which has a seating capacity of twelve hundred. It is circular in form, and admirably adapted to the use for which it was built. A convenient and comfortable platform has been erected, and this is flanked by a fine piano and a stand for the San Francisco Cornet Band.

The floral decorations at the opening session were very charming. Sentiments and mottoes were lettered in flowers pendent from post and pole in the commodious tent. Spiritualists from all over the country were present to assist. Among those in attendance were: J. V. Mansfield, of Boston; John L. Slater, of Brooklyn; L. M. Boudoin, of Stockton; R. C. Glover, of Los Angeles; Col. and Mrs. C. P. Hatch, Petaluma; I. H. Mitchell, Ferndale; Dr. L. L. Morse, Lemoore; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. King, San Diego; I. H. Mathews, Fresno; Mrs. S. M. Kingsley, San Diego; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Carr, Santa Rosa; Mrs. L. M. Dougherty, Benicia; B. H. Bacon, El Dorado; Mrs. K. Kohn, San Josè; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Epler, Washington Territory; Mrs. Kate Brewster, Minneapolis; Mrs. M. J. Brown, San Josè; Mrs. Jennie Warren, San Bernardino; Mrs. Mary Upham, Miss Kate Budda, Miss Carrie Thompson, Mrs. Blanch Bargion, Tulare; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Batcheider, Tulare; Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Eves, Stockton; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bigelow, San Josè.

President I. C. Steele, of Pescadero, was in the chair. When he arose to formally open the camp-meeting, the tent was crowded, and at the three services there was a very full attendance. The opening song, written by Eliza A. Pittsinger, was sung, and the president made a few introductory remarks. He spoke of the progress and development in liberal thought in the past few years, and referred to the able men and women who had joined the spiritualistic movement. He then introduced J. J. Morse, the celebrated trance speaker from London.

Mr. Morse was one of the first to take the platform in England in behalf of Spiritualism. He spoke of the spread of the movement in this country, and referred particularly to its phenomenal and philosophical side.

During the morning services music was rendered by Mrs. Eugenia W. Clark and by the San Francisco Cornet Band.

In the afternoon W. J. Colville lectured on the "New Earth and New Heaven." He referred to the growth of California and to the change that had come over the country; that was a new earth. The people were seeking after new truths and trying to arrive at a better understanding of intellectual and spiritual matters. That would make a new heaven. The material blessings had to be sought for, and for spiritual treasures we had to strive also. The speaker recited an impromptu poem, the subject being furnished by the audience.

In the evening Mrs. R. S. Lillie lectured on "Spiritualism" to a large attendance.

The Camp-Meeting will continue until July 1st. A conference meeting will be held every week on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, and a literary and social meeting on each Friday evening. On Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays W. J. Colville will conduct classes in spiritual science; Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays J. J. Morse will hold developing circles.

Lookout Mountain Camp.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

The Natural Bridge Hotel on the camp grounds will charge from thirty to forty dollars per month. Per week, or less than a month, one dollar and twenty-five cents per day; transients two dollars per day.

The new standard gauge railroad is completed to the top of the mountain, and will convey passengers from the dépôt in Chattanooga. The incline railway up the mountain connects with horse cars.

Railroad rates have been effected over lines controlled by the Central Traffic Association, Trunk Line Association and the Southern Passenger Association, for one and one third fares for the round trip. Ask for a certificate when you pay full fare going to Chattanooga and the one-third return fare will be guaranteed.

The new railroads up the mountain and sales of building-lots have increased the value of the camp property and made it necessary to improve by building cottages and greater hotel facilities.

It is an offer of personal investment, where it will do great good, that the Association will make this summer, by asking ten thousand dollars or more stock subscriptions at the original par value. The property is worth five times its cost. Spiritualists should subscribe the necessary stock and insure needed improvements.

For all information address G. W. Kates, Secretary, Chattanooga, Tenn. †

New Era Camp, Ore.

M. F. Moore, the residue of whose letter from East Portland we shall print next week, announces that excellent success attends the ten-days' meeting now in progress at this camp ground. We shall be glad to receive the report of its sessions which Bro. M. so kindly promises.

Movements of Mediums & Lecturers.

[Notices under this heading must reach this office by Monday's mail to insure insertion the same week.]

Mrs. A. E. King will answer calls for lectures or to attend funerals. Address 258 Shawmut Avenue, Suite 10, Boston, Mass.

Mattie E. Hull would like to make engagements in New England during September and October. Friends can address her 601 East Locust street, Des Moines, Iowa, care New Thought.

B. M. Lawrence is now ready to answer calls to lecture before societies on Sundays or on week day evenings, either with or without his stereopticon and spirit pictures. He has a large and interesting collection of the latter. Address him for the present in care of the BANNER OF LIGHT.

J. W. Kenyon will answer calls to lecture and attend funerals anywhere in the United States and Canada. Address 54 Bostwick street, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Dr. H. F. Merrill will speak and give tests in Clinton, Mass., June 17th and 24th; he will then leave for Chattanooga, Tenn., to fill his engagement at Lookout Mountain. Dr. Merrill will cancel all his engagements as test medium in the State of Maine, as he intends to remain South and West longer than anticipated. All letters until further notice should be addressed to him at Chattanooga, Tenn.

Dr. J. K. Bailey has given lectures during May at Champaign, Springfield and Taylorville, Ill. He spoke in St. Louis, Mo., June 3d and 4th.

G. W. Kates and wife will attend the Lookout Mountain Camp Meeting during July. They are engaged to speak at a Grove Meeting to be held near Hicksville, O., Aug. 11th and 12th, and at the Clinton, Ia., Camp-Meeting the balance of the month. They desire to make engagements in the West for the months of September and October. Address at Chattanooga, Tenn.

Mr. J. W. Fletcher will lecture in Misha wum Hall, City Square, Charlestown, on Sunday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Clara A. Field is at present located at 59 Clarendon street, Boston, where she will be pleased to meet her friends and the public. She will speak in Eagle Hall next Sunday evening, and will answer calls to lecture wherever her services are desired.

Mrs. Mary A. Charter is at present located at Carlton, Mich.

Emma J. Nickerson spoke in Salem, Mass., June 10th; she will be there again the 22d and 29th. She is ready to accept engagements for the coming season. Address 566 Columbus Avenue, Boston.

The services of A. E. Tisdale have been engaged for Niantic Camp Meeting, July 22d; Ocean Grove Camp, July 28th and 29th; Lake Pleasant Camp, Aug. 3d and 5th; Onset Bay, Aug. 11th and 12th; Hanson, Aug. 19th; Sunapee Lake, Aug. 25th and 26th; Queen City Park, Sept. 5th and 9th. He desires engagements for Sept. 2d, 16th, 23d and 30th; also for the month of October. He may be addressed at Merrick, Mass.

Dr. Mark Smith, inspirational speaker and test medium, will occupy the platform every Sunday in June and July until Onset Camp-Meeting opens at Lyceum Hall, 1031 Washington street, Boston, at 2:30 and 7:30 P. M.

Dean Clarke will be at the Vermont Convention at Newport June 29th. The Spirit of the Age and the Vermont Standard published fine notices of the late Thomas Middleton, and Dr. Clarke's remarks at his funeral.

☞ Back numbers of THE BANNER for no special date will be supplied at four cents per copy: But parties ordering papers for any special date will be charged the usual price—eight cents per copy.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.

Each line in Agate type, twenty cents for the first and every insertion on the fifth or eighth page, and fifteen cents for each subsequent insertion on the seventh page.
Special Notices forty cents per line, Minion, each insertion.
Business Cards thirty cents per line, Agate, each insertion.
Notices in the editorial columns, large type, leaded matter, fifty cents per line.
Payments in all cases in advance.

☞ Advertisements to be renewed at continued rates must be left at our Office before 12 M. on Saturday, a week in advance of the date whereon they are to appear.

☞ Only small and light cuts will be allowed in the advertising columns. When accepted, our rates for that portion of the advertisement occupied by the cut will be one-half price in excess of the regular rates.
Electrotypes of pure type matter will not be accepted.
The publishers reserve the right to reject any and all electrotypes.

The BANNER OF LIGHT cannot well undertake to vouch for the honesty of its many advertisers. Advertisements which appear fair and honorable upon their face are accepted, and whenever it is made known that dishonest or improper persons are using our advertising columns, they are at once interdicted.

We request patrons to notify us promptly in case they discover in our columns advertisements of parties whom they have proved to be dishonorable or unworthy of confidence.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Dr. F. L. H. Willis may be addressed as usual for the summer Glenora, Yates Co., N. Y.
My19 7w*

Andrew Jackson Davis, Seer into the causes and natural cure of disease. Send for information to his office, 63 Warren Avenue, Boston, Mass. tf Ap7

H. A. Kersey, No. 3 Bigg Market, Newcastle-on-Tyne, will act as agent in England for the BANNER OF LIGHT and the publications of Colby & Rich during the absence of J. J. Morse.

To Foreign Subscribers the subscription price of the BANNER OF LIGHT is $3,50 per year, or $1,75 per six months. It will be sent at the price named above to any foreign country embraced in the Universal Postal Union.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

OBESITY.

People burdened with flesh are often envied by those who are thin, but it is full time that the dangers attending a fat condition should be known.

Undue Fat diminishes labor power, which is a serious evil. Undue Fat makes people tired when they should be strong in life's splendid prime. Fatty Degeneration attacks the vital organs—a secret foe in the citadel—and opens the doors for Heart Difficulties, Pneumonia, Kidney Disease, Nervous Exhaustion, Apoplexy, and a troop of ills to enter in.

To remedy this condition is not merely to prolong our earth-life, but it is to fit women and men to live up to the full grand measure of their powers—making their mark upon the age.

To remove Fat safely, without impairing the strength or injuring the system by the use of Drugs, is to effect a permanent cure.

Dr. Edith Hale presents to the consideration of the corpulent an Obesity Cure which fulfills these conditions; it causes the strength to increase as the fat decreases; mental vigor, a sense of capacity to think and act, greater freedom and ease of motion, power to walk, or go up and down stairs without fatigue or being out of breath, are among the first noticeable results; next, slowly but surely, follows a lessening of size, the figure improves, and the complexion clears as the blood is purified.

Obesity Cure is a new discovery, a new combination of remedial herbs, which positively induces a natural renovation of the system and restores the normal action of all the vital functions, including the action of the Trophic Nerves (nerves of nutrition). Its use does NOT induce wrinkles, and its effect is strictly beneficial to the general health. It is pleasant to the taste and will steadily reduce the flesh. Treatise sent upon application.

To those who have hitherto known Edith Hale, M. D., only as a Specialist in Cancer and Chronic Diseases, Dr. Hale begs to say that the cure of Obesity is in direct line with her studies and research commenced twenty years since in College and Hospital—in lecture room and at dissecting table. To these earlier advantages have been added special opportunities to acquire the latest Foreign Methods of curing disease by Absorption and by recourse to natural, non-poisonous agents, including new Internal Foods, Magnetic Pads and Magnetized Remedies.

Consultation free in all chronic complaints.

Respectfully,

EDITH HALE, M. D.,

(Pupil of Dr. John Gordon of London and Prof. Carl Eberle of Germany

Office 377 Columbus Avenue,
Boston, Mass.

OFFICE HOURS 11 A.M. to 5 P. M., 7 to 8 evening.
My26 18t3w*

CUTTER HOUSE,
WICKETT'S ISLAND.
Open for the Season, 1888.

ACCORDING to the oft-expressed wish of Dr. Abbie E. Cutter, late owner and proprietor, the House will be kept open to guests and carried on as outlined in her notice in this paper, and we hope the friends and patrons of past years, and all who are interested to give the best conditions to those who have passed on to a higher life, will join us in our efforts to give our dear departed one the opportunity to demonstrate what was her highest and dearest object in life.

We have the strongest faith in her ability to return and continue the work she had so earnestly commenced for the benefit of humanity and the world, both for time and eternity.

We take this opportunity to thank the many, many friends who have written us such kind letters of condolence in our GREAT bereavement. Address

Je16 tf W. O. CUTTER, Onset, Mass.

ONSET BAY.

BUY Excursion Tickets for East Wareham, and take the Onset Short Line Horse Railway for Onset Bay, and save money. Horse cars connect with every train. Check baggage for East Wareham. Purchase tickets to East Wareham; good from Saturday morning, June 16th, to Monday night, June 18th. Fare for the round trip, $1,75.

Je16 tf

For Sale at Lake Pleasant.

THE well-known Eagle Cottage, with lot of land, on Montague street, is offered for sale. It contains ten large well-furnished rooms. This is one of the most desirable lots and Cottages for business purposes, or as a private residence. Also Laundry building, which cost $500 to build, will sell for $100 cash. It is 40 feet long, 20 wide, and two stories high. Could easily be converted into ten rooms. Apply to or address MRS. A. D. FRENCH, 351 Columbus Avenue, Boston, Mass. 1w* Je16

CEO. W. ALLEN,

NERVAURIC and Massage Treatments, and Vapor Baths for Ladies and Gentlemen. Boston: Evans House, 175 Tremont street, Room 53, Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M. Brockton: Bixby Building, Room Y, Tuesday and Thursday, 8 A.M. to 6 P.M., and Saturday evening. 2w* Je16

DR. B. F. BROWN,

OF Philadelphia, the Great Healer of Diseases, is located at Hotel Glover, 335 Shawmut Avenue, Boston, Mass. Patients treated by mail. Dr. Bonney's Anti-Obsession Pads $1.00. 4w* Je16

MRS. E. B. STRATTON,

WRITING MEDIUM, 80 West Rutland Square, Hotel Garfield, Boston. After July 1st at Onset.
Je16 1w*

DR. J. C. STREET,

78 Montgomery street, Boston, Mass.
Ap7 tf

W. S. ELDRIDGE,

Clairvoyant and Magnetic Physician, 45 Dover st., Boston.
Je16 4w*

PROF. BEARSE, Astrologer, 259 Meridian st., East Boston, Mass. Your whole life written, horoscope thereof free of charge. Reliable on Business, Marriage, Disease, and all Financial and Social Affairs. Send age, stamp, and hour of birth if possible. 1w* Je16

LOVE FOR LIQUOR CURED. Secret free. Address A. WILLIS, Parkville, L. I., N. Y. 184w* Je9

In Re Dr. Talmage.

A Synopsis of a Discourse by the Guides of

MRS. R. S. LILLIE,

Delivered in Berkeley Hall, Boston, Sunday Morning, May 6th, 1888, in Answer to the Recent Attack on Modern Spiritualism by Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., of Brooklyn.

Also Excerpts from a Letter by "Eleanor Kirk."

The above have been published by COLBY & RICH in four-page tract form, and should be extensively circulated. Price by mail, 5 copies 5 cents; 15 do., 10c.; 30 do., 15c.

YOUR ANSWER OR YOUR LIFE;

OR,

The Riddle Propounded by the American Sphinx.

BY MOSES HULL.

An intensely interesting statement of the dangers which threaten our Republic and civilization.

Mr. Hull says, in his preface: "There is little that is original in this book; I have striven simply to point out some of the dangers we are under, and to signify the way of escape."

Pamphlet, 12mo, pp. 100, with portrait of author. Price 25 cents; postage 3 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

MENTAL EVOLUTION;

OR,

The Process of Mental Action.

BY PROF. MICHAEL FARADAY.

New Series. Pamphlet; price 15 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

WAYSIDE JOTTINGS.

Essays, Sketches, Poems and Songs,

Gathered from the Highways, By-Ways and Hedges of Life, by MATTIE E. HULL.

Cloth, pp. 208. Price $1.00; postage 10 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Mind-Reading and Beyond.

BY WM. A. HOVEY.

This work contains two hundred pages, one hundred and eighty-two of which contain a compilation from the "Report of the Proceedings of the London Society for Psychical Research," with illustrations.

Cloth. Price $1.25.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Message Department.

Spiritual Free-Circle Meetings

Are held at the BANNER OF LIGHT OFFICE, 9 Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), on TUESDAY and FRIDAY AFTERNOON of each week.

On Tuesday afternoon MISS M. T. SHELHAMER occupies the platform for the purpose of answering by her spirit guides such questions as may be introduced for consideration.

On Friday afternoon MRS. B. F. SMITH, under the influence of her guides, will afford an avenue through which individual spirit messages will be given.

The Hall (which is used only for these séances) will be open at 2 o'clock; the services commence at 3 o'clock precisely, at which time the doors will be closed, allowing no ingress or egress. The public is cordially invited.

☞ Persons having questions of practical bearing upon human life in any of its departments of thought and labor, which they would like answered by the spirit-world intelligences, may send them to THE BANNER OF LIGHT office by mail, or hand them to the Chairman of the Circle, who will present them to the spirits for consideration.

☞ The Messages published in this Department indicate that spirits carry with them the characteristics of their earth-life to that beyond—whether for good or evil; that those who pass from the earthly sphere in an undeveloped state, eventually progress to higher conditions. We ask the reader to receive no doctrine put forth by spirits in these columns that does not comport with his or her reason. All express as much of truth as they perceive—no more.

☞ It is our earnest desire that those who recognize the messages of their spirit-friends will verify them by informing us of the fact for publication.

☞ Natural flowers upon our Circle-Room table are gratefully appreciated by our angel visitants, therefore we solicit donations of such from the friends in earth-life who may feel that it is a pleasure to place upon the altar of Spirituality their floral offerings.

☞ Letters of inquiry in regard to this Department of THE BANNER must not be addressed to the mediums in any case. LEWIS B. WILSON, Chairman.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED,

THROUGH THE MEDIUMSHIP OF

Miss M. T. Shelhamer.

Report of Public Séance held April 17th, 1888.

Spirit Invocation.

Oh! thou Divine and Radiant Presence, who giveth life and power unto all creation! thou sun of the universe, giving light, warmth and splendor to every living thing, we recognize thee as the parent source of all life, and acknowledge our relationship to thee, and would be drawn in nearness of spirit with thy laws. Oh! our Father, we desire the gifts of spiritual life, such as appeal to the inmost heart of man, drawing forth that from within which is purest, and sweetest, and best. May we learn to profit by experience, and grow patient and humble, and send forth cheering influences that will inspire and bless other lives. We ask the blessing of the pure and good from the higher life; we would come into association with the angels who delight to do thy will in ministering unto humanity. May we, like them, desire to be of use and to do good.

Questions and Answers.

CONTROLLING SPIRIT.—You may now present your questions, Mr. Chairman.

QUES.—What is the state of the soul before entering the physical body?

ANS.—Allow us, Mr. Chairman, to first define our idea of the soul, for that term is to us distinct from that other term—the spirit. The soul, to our understanding, is that principle of life, that animating, electrical force, which controls and permeates the spiritual part of man, giving it activity, consciousness and power. This soul-force, then, we liken to a flame of light, illuminating, invigorating the outward form, and so far as we understand it, this flame of electrical light is drawn from the great source and fountain-head of all light and love; it is a direct ray from the source of all life, and is born in upon the spiritual part of man—even as the ray of morning light steals in upon your habitations, illuminating, brightening, and giving strength. The spirit of man, however, is distinct, in our mind, from the soul, inasmuch as we believe it to be that which affords the soul-force an opportunity of expressing itself; it is the manifestation of life, under the control of the electrical fire, or life-principle, which we call the soul.

Then, perhaps, the questioner wishes to know what is the state of the spirit, or the entity, the individual being, before its manifestation through a mortal form. So far as our experience proves, it appears to us that the individual is not strongly individualized before his first appearance in a mortal form, but that he is still an entity, apart and distinct from all other beings, possessing a certain consciousness of his own, yet not an active, vital consciousness, which would afford him opportunity and power to express his personality, as it is wise he should do, in his search for experience.

We liken the state of the spirit, before its existence in a corporeal frame, to that of infancy or inexperience, one even sometimes called innocence. The spirit, not having come in contact with vital, objective life, does not understand its own powers, and has no consciousness of the possibilities or the activities which lie within it, yet being an entity it has a feeble consciousness of its existence, and a faint desire, perhaps, to more fully unfold that existence, and give the within expression; yet the spirit is inexperienced, and does not understand how to take hold of life, or to take advantage of its surroundings and the opportunities which come to it. It is not an inhabitant of that spirit-world, peopled by those who have passed through the experiences of matter and gained a spiritual life; yet the atmosphere seems to be peopled with these almost unconscious and certainly imperfect entities. They are attracted from a great soul-world in space, and under the dominion of natural law gravitate in such directions as will afford them the means of unfoldment and of gaining active expression in external ways. These spirits would appear delicate to you, scarcely well defined, not fully formed in the human image, yet possessing a likeness to the human that would stamp them in your mind as a part of the great family; they are not distinct, not clearly defined and formed, in a word, they are filled with the condition of inexperience or immaturity.

Q.—Do we in spirit-life continue to grow old, or is there a period when we remain stationary?

A.—We have seen spirits presenting an appearance of great age. We have seen others who have been inhabitants of the spirit-world for many long years, we may even say for centuries of time, yet who appear youthful. It depends very much upon the condition of the mind how the spirit shall appear in its objective form. One passes from the body buoyant, full of hope and cheer, who cannot be depressed under any circumstances, because there is always that fountain of hope and of youthfulness which bubbles over, so to speak, and gives life and invigoration to the entire form, to the entire spirit. Such a spirit will always remain youthful in appearance, because the outer condition corresponds to the inner state; it is a reflection of the mental and spiritual portion of the nature, and therefore you will find one who may be wise in experience, who may have passed many years in contact with earthly life and spiritual existence, and yet who seems to be indeed young and beautiful. And you may see another spirit who passed away in early life, but whose mind has been weighted with care and anxiety—many things press upon it like a burden, and it is harassed at much that is passing in the world, and is constantly depressed in consequence. The effect is that spirit will present an appearance of age and worriment, just the same as you will do on earth before your time, even showing a whitened head and lines of care, of anxiety upon your features, if you are constantly depressed and filled with nervous anxiety. As long as this state of things remains with the spirit, so long will he appear aged and worn; but if he seeks to come under the dominion of spiritual law, and throws his mind upon the atmosphere, breathing freely in the sunshine of hope and of love, he will find strength to rise above the distressing conditions, to throw off that which is irksome to his spirit, and as he does so his mental and spiritual graces and powers will unfold, putting forth expressions of loveliness; and that appearance of age and anxiety which has been his will be drawn away, and a brighter light will sparkle in his eye, a grander expression will reflect itself from his spirit upon his features, and he will assume the appearance of youth perhaps, or that of matured manhood.

The questioner may ask: "Very well; if this be so with spirits who have dwelt on earth for a period of time, how is it with little children who pass from the body? We are told that they do not remain in the state and stature of infancy, but that they grow to man and womanhood. If this be so, do they press forward to a condition and appearance of age?" No; the condition of childhood in the spirit-life is similar to that stage of immaturity on earth; but to the children of that other world are given opportunities for advancement which add not only to their mental abilities and power, but also to their state of spiritual growth. The little one passes from the condition of inexperience, of immaturity, of childhood, mentally, spiritually and externally speaking, to one of youth, and again to maturity, where it pauses, and does not continue to change in personal appearance, unless you can say that the brightening of the eye, the taking on of a more marked and wise expression through the attainment of knowledge, is a change. There is no whitening of the tresses, no limning of the brow by the furrows of care or time, for to such comes a supply which takes the place of all that has been wasted in the activities of life, and a constant equilibrium is established within the organic structure of the spiritual form; hence, as certain forces are cast off, others are given to the body, and so a condition of beauty, of strength and of vigor may maintain through all the years.

Again the questioner may say: "But we are told of sages and patriarchs in the spiritual world, whose appearance is described to us as corresponding to one of advanced age on earth." It is true that in certain departments of spirit-life there are men and women who in some manner present an appearance of venerable age, but not such as decay brings, not such as a wasting of the vital forces occasions—it is only one such as may be expected in certain organisms and certain temperaments, through the rounding out of experience, the attainment of wisdom, and because of vast researches into scientific law. These are expressed in the outward form, because the outward is ever materialized in correspondence with the condition of the inner, and that is why you are told of the various conditions and appearances of different spirits in the unseen world.

Q.—If reincarnation be true, please state what becomes of the spiritual body in order that the spirit may clothe upon itself absolutely new physical conditions?

A.—This question of reëmbodiment is one that seems to sway and disturb, in a large measure, many minds at the present time; yet it is one that is hardly profitable for discussion, since while many believe in the law, many others are so averse to it as to not wish patiently to give it consideration. As it is impossible, at least in the present generation and at this time, to bring any vital evidence to man on earth of the existence and operation of such a law, it hardly seems feasible or profitable to go closely into the action or the merits of this thing. It is true that intelligences whom we are warranted in calling exalted spirits, believe in this law, indeed, many of them affirm that they have watched its operations, have come in contact with it, and from vital experience can speak of its verity. There are other minds, in the higher life, interested in many things that are practically valuable to mankind, who have not desired to enter into a study of this matter, and who consequently affirm that no such law exists, therefore you have a difference of opinion given to you on this one subject by various spirits returning from the other world, equally honest, perhaps, but not equally qualified to speak upon the subject.

The questioner wishes to know if such a law be in operation, and if certain spirits have the power, the privilege and the opportunity, (if they desire,) to take upon themselves new habiliments of flesh on earth, in order to enter an experience and discipline which shall be of benefit to their unfolding natures, what becomes of the spiritual body, which, of necessity, they must cast off? We do not know that it has ever been affirmed by any responsible, intelligent spirit that those who pass to the other life retain their spirit bodies, those which they have invested themselves with at the change called death, through all the ages of their experience; indeed, we know that many have affirmed that as the spirit advances in knowledge, in experience, in activity and in consciousness, it must, of necessity, part with certain elements and qualities of its nature and of its spiritual habitation, to take up those which are more refined, delicate and spirituelle. This we affirm to be the fact, and after a spirit has gained all the experience it can possibly do in one grade of existence in the other world, as well as this, when it has so developed as to outgrow the body which it has taken up in the spirit-world, then it sloughs off that form gradually and naturally, just as the bursting of the germ within the seedling sloughs off the outer husk, and parts with it, and new forms are provided when the case requires. So a spirit coming under the law of reëmbodiment, if such there be, could not possibly do so until ripe for the change, for a change it would certainly be, nor could he be ripe and ready for that change, that experience, even though he desired to take it up ever so much, until all the conditions of his spiritual life were also in readiness. Then at such a moment he would slip away from his outward coverings, just as naturally as you slip from your couches when the morning sun beams in upon your walls.

Q.—Is it possible that what some persons consider to be remembrances of a former state of existence on earth are memories of what they have experienced in dreams—assuming it to be true that in dream-life we associate with beings of another world who were once inhabitants of this?

A.—We think that it is quite clearly established in the minds of many thinkers that what is called dream-life is a real, practical, tangible existence, and that the spirit of the man can—while the physical body is in repose and the vital powers are relaxed—pass out of its close contact with the material and enter the atmosphere of the spirit-world. Under favorable circumstances that spirit can approach those of loving friends whom it has mourned as lost, and enter into association and communion with them, finding in their blessed companionship strength and vigor and consolation, which remains with him even after he returns to the activities of mortal life in contact with his physical form. The man may not remember closely and distinctly the experiences through which he has passed in his slumber; he may not realize that he has talked with friends of the past, but nevertheless there remains an influence with him which is cheering and invigorating; there remains a magnetism which assists him in his walks through the outward life and aids him in the work he has to do. It is very possible that flashes of something that has gone before, memories of some experience which has been his, of scenes and events in which he has participated, have come to the man; he may suppose that they occurred to him in a previous existence, while in reality they have been a part of his dream-life, or rather a part of his association with spirit friends in his contact with spiritual things, at such times as his bodily functions and organs were held in a quiescent state. This may be, and probably does occur many times.

And again, admitting that the law of reëmbodiment does operate; that it is possible, under certain conditions, for a man to rehabilitate himself with a physical form, then it is possible, under certain conditions and in favorable moments, for the man to receive flashes of memory from the remote past, so that scenes and events which have occurred may return to his mind with startling significance, even though he cannot demonstrate this to the outer world.

Again, there sometimes come to sensitive, nervous, mediumistic individuals, who are open to influences from both sides of life, flashes of thought, gleams of what seem to be memories, stirring the heart and puzzling the mind; and it may seem to such an individual that he remembers events that have taken place and are familiar to him; and yet it may not be anything that has actually occurred in his own life; he being a sensitive, may be in direct contact with some invisible intelligence who flashes its thought over the mind of the sensitive, recalling events belonging to itself, and consequently seemingly familiar, and a part of the mediumistic brain and career.

For instance, we know a mediumistic person who at one time passed to a far-off city, one thousand miles from her own home. She knew she had never visited the place before, yet its streets were very familiar to her; even the homes she entered there, the faces and forms of people with whom she came in contact, she felt as though she had seen and known before, yet in physical life she was well aware none of these had ever come to her knowledge. This was the explanation. By-and-bye she came into communication with spirits who declared themselves to be members of her own guardian band; they informed her that knowing she was to visit this distant locality, to enter into new scenes, to form new associations, they had determined to visit the place in advance of her, to look it over, to ascertain if it was really best for her to go to the place. They did so, entering the homes of the persons she was to meet, traversing the streets, coming en rapport with the place and its surroundings, and when they returned to their charge, she, being a sensitive instrument, open to the conditions of the higher life, caught the influence, felt the power, and thus the familiarity of the place, which was real to her spiritual guides but not to herself, seemed a part of her own experience. Therefore, friends, you have to take into account many laws under which these things may be explained, and it is wise for one to study into them closely if he desires to know their secrets and aught that pertains to them.

Q.—A correspondent, "H. P.," who has possessed the gift of clairvoyance many years, regrets that the ability to describe persons and places is not stronger, and desires to be informed what course to adopt to improve the power in that direction?

A.—We should judge that the correspondent was not favorably surrounded in his home life for the clear development of his gifts, and it may be necessary for him to make a change in his condition before he can fully unfold those powers which are his. We cannot tell unless we could come into direct magnetic rapport with the individual. It is always wise for one possessing such medial powers to do his best to develop them, and he can only tell by experiment which is the wisest course to pursue. It may be that he requires attendance and assistance of a few friends who will sit with him at regular intervals for this purpose. Possibly he is not positive enough in his organization to assist the spirits in their work; he may need three or four friends, positive, yet negative or receptive to truth, not arbitrary by nature, but in full sympathy with the work. If this be so, the presence of such a number will make up what we call a battery of power for the spiritual world, that portion of it which desires to express itself through the correspondent, and perhaps in their presence his development will advance rapidly.

Or, on the other hand, it may be that the presence of friends will only retard the work which is desired, and it is best for the party to sit alone, in a frame of mind that is tranquil and calm, undisturbed by the anxieties of the external world, to sit in a well-ventilated apartment, at a quiet hour, invoking the presence of the pure and good in spirit-life, asking them to do their best with him and his medial powers. It can only be a matter of experiment, one of time and patience. Sometimes a person must sit for months before the power is increased and the work performed; but if your correspondent possesses this clairvoyant power, we should most certainly urge him to do his best in seeking its unfoldment, for the perception is there, and it is only the degree of development that is required. Under other circumstances than those surrounding him at the present time, he undoubtedly will find the fulfillment of what he seeks.

Q.—[By Arthur B. Pierce, Athens, Pa.] Admitting, as is generally claimed, an existence for each individual previous to that in this world, does each individual have a choice of earthly parentage? If so, why do any become the progeny of poor and ill-favored parents?

A.—All spirits preëxisting, as well as those on this earth encased in flesh, and those who have become divested of the mortal and have taken up the immortal condition, are subjected to law. Law, in the universe, regulates all existence, and these spirits or entities of which your correspondent speaks, are no exception to the rule. You have no choice in the mortal as to how you shall depart from this mortal form, although your deeds and your life-work on earth may determine largely how you shall be received, and what will be your state or condition in the other world, yet you are under the dominion of law. That which is called death or change gathers you up within its embrace, and sweeps you onward to another life; and so law gathers up those spirits who are to find an expression on earth, and sweeps them onward in its embrace until they come within the atmosphere of this planet, Earth, and are carried on by its currents of electrical force into places to which they naturally gravitate.

We do not ask if the apple would choose to fall downward to the earth, or rise upward to the skies, when it loosens its hold upon the tree, for we know by the law of gravitation that the apple shall fall to the earth. So that same law of gravitation, operating in the world of human spirit, determines that the spirit shall be carried onward in one certain direction, and does not inquire whether there is a choice that it be carried in one line or through another avenue; thus it seems to us, and as far as our observation goes, that the spirit, uninformed, without experience, having no choice of its own, its grand possibilities not having been unfolded in vital consciousness, is taken up and swept forward by a law which governs it, and brought in contact with such conditions and lines of existence as will gather it up and give it outward expression, whether they be what the world calls favorable for advancement and culture or whether they be unfavorable, even disastrous in certain lines, to human happiness and human unfoldment.

Controlling Spirit.

Now, friends, for a few moments before we close, we desire to speak for the spirit intelligences with whom we are at present in communication:

Thomas Stevenson.

A friend approaches who pronounces himself a stranger, but explains that he has many times attempted to manifest from your circle-room, Mr. Chairman. It is quite a matter of vital importance to him that he should do so, if it be only to speak his name and inform his friend, who has desired his presence here, that he does live, and it is no phantom of the brain which has frequently within the last two years assailed his friend on earth, but it is the living spirit of the associate who has passed onward from beyond the grave. This intelligence claims that for quite a period of time he has found the power of coming in contact with a friend on earth and giving slight intimations of his presence, making certain movements to attract his friend's attention in such little ways, though powerful ones, seeking to demonstrate his power to return from the spirit-world. This friend has said many times, mentally, "If my friend Thomas really does come to me—if I am not deceived nor mistaken—why will he not go to the BANNER OF LIGHT and make himself known, that I may be sure? I am investigating this subject; I want only the truth. I cannot lay down that belief which is mine until I have something substantial to take its place; and if my friends really have an interest in my welfare and in my form of faith, will they not give me something tangible outside of myself?"

The spirit tells us his name is Thomas Stevenson. He has tried many times to answer his friend's request, to make himself known from your platform, but without success. He does not give us the full name of his friend, but calls him Henry R., and tells us he resides in Providence, R. I.

Alice Fisher.

A young lady who passed away, we should judge, between four and six years since, of a wasting disease, for there is an appearance of debility as she comes within the earth's atmosphere, gives us the name of Alice Fisher. She desires to reach her sister Helen, who is at present, or has been very recently, in Brookline, near Boston. This spirit informs us that she has not been very much in contact with physical life since her departure, for she was very weak and exhausted, and felt as though she was losing hold of the things belonging to earth. She was a hard-working girl, and wearied of the struggle of life, so that when she entered the spirit-world, and found herself in her mother's home, she had no desire to return here to take up the old conditions, but a thought of the sister on earth, and the friends who have been kind to her, and whom she loves, has made her strong to try to come back to speak to them, and bring some word of her existence, and to have them know she still lives. So to-day she comes, trying to make her presence known, asking her friends, if they learn of her return, to seek out a private medium in some place, that she may come and quietly converse with them. We trust that the spirit will be gratified in her desire.

Jennie Hill.

A little child, Mr. Chairman, who was not more than four summers old when she passed from the body, and whom we should judge to be about ten years of age, now approaches, asking to be received by her mortal friends. She gives the name of Jennie Hill, and says that her mother lives in Springfield, Ill., and her name is Mary Jane Hill. The child shows a scar upon the left side of the neck which was occasioned by a burn. That was not the cause of her decease; the accident happened to her when quite an infant, and the scar remained. The little one is anxious we should say it is only shown because of the past, it is not a part of her spirit body, and that she is free from it. She holds out beautiful flowers, purple and white, as a floral offering to her mother, who, we learn, is a hardworking woman, having few joys and little consolation in this life. The little one visits her often, trying to bring her peace and comfort, and perchance if she should know her darling lives and can return it will be of service to her in seeking to bear the trials and perplexities of life.

Closing Words.

We desire to thank the friends for their gifts of beautiful flowers; they are appreciated by both the medium and the spirit band, and the sweet incense which goes up from them is very grateful to the invisible intelligences who approach us. The little Indian guide also desires her thanks offered to the friend for his gift, and to say that she has tried to bring an influence to reach him. We think before long he will receive such intelligent, clear communication, as will be a blessing and a help to himself and the dear friend with him. The time will come when much will be given distinctly—not through a great public avenue, but in such private ways as will bear conviction to the heart of one who longs to know, and give counsel and helpfulness in the hour of need.

SPIRIT MESSAGES,

THROUGH THE TRANCE MEDIUMSHIP OF

Mrs. B. F. Smith.

Report of Public Séance held April 6th, 1888.

Lorenzo E. Thompson.

You may place me in Cleveland, Ohio. Lorenzo E. Thompson. For a long time before the angel-usher came for me I well understood that I could come into close communication with the spirits; still I found, after putting off the mortal, that I knew very little comparatively.

I would like to have my message reach the dear ones, which I am perfectly sure it will do, because the old BANNER was a household word with me. Pamelia, I know, will be glad to learn that I am able to send a word, and the children also. I have often been in the home.

I have many friends in Cleveland, O., and many in Winsted, Conn., which was once my home while dwelling on earth.

Oh! how gladly did I leave the old mortal as the welcome sound reached my ears: "Come up higher." More beautiful is our spirit home to-day than we can find words to express to you. As I glance from one side of the room to the other and see the whitened hairs, I think it will be but a little time before the boatman will come for them, and they will test it themselves. Often the first question asked us is: "Are you happy in your spirit-home?" Yes; but I claim my earthly home as much as when I walked in the mortal form. I hold a strong feeling for the Lyceum, and am one among them to-day. I would thank all the dear friends for their kindnesses to me, for I suffered long with the dread disease consumption before letting go of earth. I also would thank the Order which was so kind to me.

Oliver Thurston.

I hardly know how to speak in one of your meetings, but this is not the first time that I have been one of the listeners here when I should have taken a part, but I feel it was not my fault or that of any one. You may put me down as Oliver Thurston, of Freedom, N. H. I would like them to know, and so do we all, that we are not dead people by any means.

William and Josiah are with me to-day but will not manifest. I am in hopes sometime they may speak, even if only to give their names. Down in Effingham, too, they will all remember me. Josiah, my son, went out in a moment in the old city of Boston.

Mary, we all live, and not only live but have the power to make ourselves known. The question will arise whether I understood this in the mortal? No; but it was partially my own fault, for the good paper has lived to quite an age, and yet many up by the mountains little know there is such a paper in existence. I hope, and am strong in the belief, that it will awaken some interest among them in Freedom when they learn that Oliver Thurston has been able to speak his name, and also to let them know we find no dead people on our side—though you may find them this side every day. Sarah will ask: "Is he happy?" Yes; we find no unhappiness in heaven, only different degrees of happiness. I also find that the life you live when in the mortal builds your home there, therefore, oh! mortals, be careful how you build that home.

I have tried many times before to give a few words. I have succeeded to-day, thanks to the angel host and the mortals who have opened the door.

Hannah E. Prince.

You may place me in Portland, Me., Hannah E. Prince. I know what I say to you, Mr. Chairman. Your paper has fed many mortals, and I have been one of the number. I used to say that mortals were suffering for a little spiritual food and did n't understand what they were reaching for. Oh! how glad I am to-day that I learned a little of spirit return while I dwelt on earth.

I would like William Sargent, my brother, in Portland, to know that I am happy. I hope he may see these few words from Hannah; it may help him a little through life's trials, of which certainly he has had his share. Before the breath had left the mortal form, I caught a glimpse of the beautiful beyond, more beautiful than I can find words to express. Little children came around me before it was said that Hannah was dead. Little children; oh! I love them, mortals, deal gently with the little ones, speak kindly, for you know not how much happiness you may give through a kind word.

I often visit the home. Mother is with me to-day. Not all are present, for some have attractions in other homes. I know William will be glad to know I found no disappointments; far better than I could realize here were the beauties of my spirit home.

James Morse.

You may put my name down as James Morse, of Atkinson, N. H. I would like them to know I was not so much "dead" but what I could hear them talk. If I had been dead how could I see, and hear, and feel. I would like them all, Sarah, Hannah and Wash. Poor, to know I have come back. I walk right round among them, and it is as real to me as it ever was in the flesh.

I was speaking but a little time since with Moses Noyes, and he says, "We'll all get round in time." He is in spirit-life, remember. I know you would not make any mistakes, because the mortals in Atkinson would say: "Why, Moses has passed over," and think I did n't know it.

Now this question will be asked: "Did I find it any different from the old teachings here?" Yes, I did; and now I know—I have tested it myself. You must all build your own homes; not with axe or saw, but with your lives. I am satisfied with mine, but I know I can progress and make it more beautiful. I often come into the home and walk among them, in old Haverhill. How little notice they take of us! However, we must be content to wait until they meet us across the line.

Joseph Wood.

My home on earth was at Hyde Park, Mass. You may place my name as Joseph Wood, and I think people will remember me there. I know this letter will reach Hannah and Madeline, Mary Jane and Josie. I thought I 'd single them all out, then they would n't ask: "Why did n't father speak of me?" I have been trying some time to speak, but as I first got into the surroundings I partook a little of the feeling that a person has in the mortal who has lost his sight. For a long time the beauties of earth were blotted out from my sight, but I have good eyesight now—perfect. I can look from one to another and see some familiar faces that I have known; and when I look over the audience, I wonder if they think I can see them. I thank Father God that he gives us perfect senses in the spirit-body. I knew very little comparatively of spirit return.

I am happy. I will say to Hannah that Reuben is with me; Charlie and George are here; but we can't all talk at once, as you do in the little home. I want you to feel I am one of the family, just as much as I was when dwelling in the mortal. I am satisfied with the home. Charlie says: "Tell father that I shall manifest more and more as I progress in spirit."

Hannah Hulse.

I have tried a long time, dear children, to make my voice heard in this room. My name is Hannah Hulse. Many of my dear ones are in Lima, Wis., and some in Lowell. I know these words will reach Lester and William and father, who has the same name—Lester. I know he will ask if I have been cognizant of what has been passing since I left them. Yes, dear husband; yes, I have fully understood all the movements that have been made. I know that at first the children felt that they could not have any one take their mother's place. No, dear children, never in your souls, but one may fill the place for a while, and I am satisfied with the choice. Lester felt a little hard at first, but when the good angel spoke to him and said: "Be still; it is right," he felt in his soul that he would listen to the inner voice and do right. Let me say that I never come empty-handed. I bring a blessing to you, my children, and to the dear one also that has stood by you, Lester, through the trials that have come to you. But the day will come when things will be changed and for the better, and the clouds that have overtaken you will be lightened and grow bright. I ask the dear angel guides every day, my children, to come nearer and nearer to you. George is with me, and Seward and mother also.

Augustus Davis.

I hail from Reading, Mass. Augustus Davis. I have tried many times to make my voice heard in these halls months and years ago, but to-day there seems to be a channel I can speak through and I am granted the privilege, and I am happy to improve it.

My dear mother yet dwells in the flesh in Reading, and I know that a kind friend will send the paper to her. I thank you, Jackson, for all the kindnesses you have shown me, and because you have been the stepping-stone for mother to understand that spirits do return to earth.

I have been able twice to materialize into my own natural form and stand beside my dear mother. Then she said: "Oh! thank God there is a channel that you can come through and make yourself known." Mother, do not worry about Eddie so much; you can't change anything; and as for Stillman, we know more than we will express to-day.

Sister Rossie, be as kind to mother as she acted for you when you could not do for yourself, and to-day she is doing for you; and when her hands are folded for the last time you will look on that face, if permitted to stay longer, and remember you tried to be kind to mother.

I wish father could communicate, but he cannot to-day.

Mother, the little ones you laid away so tenderly are not little ones to-day, but grown to manhood and womanhood in spirit-life. Do not worry; I know what I say to you. You will have enough to go through in this life, and that is enough.

Wallace, I am glad you never forget mother, but go to see her with some little tokens of love.

Aunt Addie, do n't think for a moment we know not of you here, for if we know anything we know a great deal.

I know mother will see that this letter reaches Annie and the children.

Caroline Brown.

You may place me in Exeter Mills, Me. Caroline Brown. This I think must be more than the sixteenth time that I have tried to send a letter. Sometimes they wonder and think, and George has said, "Why do n't Aunt Caroline and Uncle Lewis send a line, as well as others." George, we must wait our own right time; we can't take another's time. I have manifested just as soon as I could.

Lewis is with me; he says: "Do n't ever think, George, of the way I passed out; if there was foul play, those that are left know it, and it makes no matter with us to-day. Blame not, but pity." We are happy together in our spirit home. George, to-day I stepped into the home, and find your mother is feeling much better. Do not trouble or worry over the little ones, for she will care for them better than you or Clara could do, for she understands more fully how to do it. I often see her with one on each knee, and it would puzzle her to tell you which she loved the most.

George, I have promised myself for many, many months, and I have watched for an opportunity to speak a few words, that they might know in Exeter that I was not dead. But I know they will say it will take more than one letter to convince them all. If you are not convinced in the mortal life you must be in the spiritual life. The question often has been asked, as I have heard mortals say, "Well, if they do come to earth, what good does it do?" Let me answer, in my feeble way, that it makes you better men and women by coming into communication with the dear ones; you live better lives for so doing. I have been in the spirit a long time and have watched the course of things, and I know that the influence which the dear loved ones hold over you mortals does help you every day.

SPIRIT MESSAGES

TO BE PUBLISHED NEXT WEEK.

April 6.—Louisa Merrill; Amos Pearsons; Mary True; Ella Downes Neal; John Carr; Charlie Newhall; Fannie Burr.

THE MESSAGES GIVEN (THROUGH MRS. B. F. SMITH)

As per dates will appear in due course.

June 1.—David Bagley; Benjamin Fitzgerald; Milton Emerson; James Gore; Betsey Clark; Katie, to Henry; Nancy A. W. Priest; Charles Damon; Rebecca Damon; Anna Coan Badger; Jacob Chickering; Davis Butler; Hannah Maloy; Nancy Dunbar.

Verifications of Spirit-Messages.

DR. REUBEN HILL.

In the BANNER OF LIGHT of June 2d I notice a communication from DR. REUBEN HILL of Lowell. I wish to say that seventy years ago Dr. Hill taught school in Lebanon, now Springvale, Maine, being hired by my father, who was school-committee, and that I was one of his pupils. At this time he was studying medicine with my father's family physician, Dr. Nathaniel Sever. I have known little of him since his removal to Lowell, but am pleased to hear from him through this avenue, and I have no doubt his communication will be recognized by many others.

DR. CYRUS LORD.

Mattapan District, Boston, Mass.

I see in the BANNER OF LIGHT of June 2d a message from DR. REUBEN HILL of Lowell, given through the mediumship of Mrs. B. F. Smith. I am well acquainted with all the parties mentioned, and would like to say it is correct in every particular.

Yours very truly, FRANK J. PEASE.

Lawrence, Mass., June 1st, 1888.

BELA NETTLETON.

BELA NETTLETON'S spirit message in the BANNER OF LIGHT May 19th, I will say is generally believed to be true. Mr. Nettleton departed this life some thirty years ago. His wife Sarah, he says, has lately joined him. She passed away in February, about thirty days before he gave the message through the mediumship of Mrs. B. F. Smith. J. M. KENERSON.

Newport, N. H., June 4th, 1888.

Spiritual Phenomena.

Under the above heading the BANNER OF LIGHT publishes from time to time communications contributed by reliable people describing the spirit-form manifestations they have witnessed; but we desire it to be clearly understood that we cannot be held responsible for any accounts of such manifestations appearing in our columns, except those we have witnessed and personally endorsed. Writers in describing the phenomena they have seen, must alone bear the responsibility of their statements.—Publishers B. of L.

Materialization in Florida.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

Dr. A. W. S. Rothermel recently held in Lyceum Hall a séance in the light, to the great wonderment of the audience; only a few having before seen such phenomena. A few nights afterward he held a full form materializing séance in the parlors of Prof. Frank Bosworth. The room was filled with invited ladies and gentlemen. The séance opened with physical demonstrations in the light, after which the lights were arranged for the full form appearances. Many appeared at the opening of the curtain and some came out to the sitters. "Emma" (one of the Doctor's controls) came and danced; Ed. Wheeler came quite strong, and walking to a window drew the curtain aside, so that in the bright moonlight all could see him plainly. Many friends of the sitters came, but all could not give their names. At one time two forms appeared at the curtain at once, one of them holding a little child. The séance was quite a success, especially so considering it was in a newly-constructed cabinet. Most of the sitters were wonderstruck, only four of them ever having witnessed full form materialization before. What they beheld will give them food for thought for some time to come.

A. JOSSELYN.

Crescent City, Fla., May 29th, 1888.

In Memoriam.

Passed to Spirit-Life, May 18th, 1888, from her home in Boston, Mass., MRS. E. R. DYAR-CLOUGH.

Mrs. Clough was born Oct 25th, 1842, and the last years of her life here were spent in active mediumistic work connected with the Spiritual Fraternity of Boston. As a speaker she was well known to the spiritualistic public, sparing neither strength nor means in the presentation of our Philosophy. Husband, children, family and friends will greatly miss her gentle ministrations.

Mr. D. E. Caswell, of Charlestown, as the instrument for a band of spirits with whom Mrs. Clough had worked, spoke in eloquent and fitting terms, at the memorial service, of her labor. They recognized her as one who had been chosen for a special mission, which she had conscientiously performed. Their tribute was tender and consoling in the extreme, and was listened to by a large number of friends and acquaintances of the deceased. Mrs. Fisher-Wellington sang, in a most touching manner, some beautiful selections, and thus the birth of the arisen spirit was appropriately recognized by mortals and immortals. H. S. L.

At a meeting held by the Society on the evening of the 4th inst., the following received unanimous endorsement:

We, the members of the Spiritual Fraternity Society of the First Spiritual Temple of Boston, sensible of the loss from the material plane which we have sustained in the passage to the higher life of our sister and late co-worker, Mrs. E. R. Dyar-Clough, desire to place upon our records an expression of our love and esteem, of our appreciation of her pure and unblemished life, our affectionate regard for her memory, and our grateful recognition of her disinterested service for the past four years to the Temple work, and to the truth which she loved so well. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That in the transition of Mrs. E. R. Dyar-Clough to a higher sphere, we miss the visible presence of a devoted and true friend, one who gave her time, her thought and her strength to the angels that they might through her lips more fully establish the proven truth of immortality, and bring in its fullness the true spiritual religion of love to the world: A religion, as she conceived it, possessing such wisdom, sweetness, purity, self-abnegation and holiness, that the world sensing it must have its ignorance and prejudices melted away, leaving veneration and appreciation in their place. Our consolation for our loss is that she has entered upon a more blessed and happy life, and has become freed from the pains and suffering which a diseased body inflicted upon her.

Resolved, That we have ever found her true, in all positions of life, to her highest ideal (which was high indeed), whether as a mother, a wife, a friend or a worker in the blessed vineyard of truth. She being in close rapport with a band of high and developed intelligences, was their mouthpiece, their devoted and faithful servant; laboring at all times to carry out their desires for good and truth, even when her bodily strength seemed little able to sustain her—showing her own to be a remarkable example of true and exalted mediumship.

Resolved, That the beautiful traits of character which she possessed, her sweetness, her benevolence, her sense of duty and ready allegiance to it, her earnest desire to bear witness to the truth, no matter how unpopular, proved her eminent fitness for the work which she assumed. These ennobling and endearing qualities will always dwell in our memories of her, and we will cherish them and strive to imitate them; and although her visible presence is gone from us, we believe that she is still a worker with us, and that we may be worthy to attract her spirit to us as an added member of that angel band whose valuable work and admonitions have made them known to and revered by us.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to the husband and family of our friend, with the assurance of our deep sympathy with them; and although in bodily form she will not be with them as before, yet we are assured that she will be with them in spirit as we trust she may be with us to inspire and uplift, to strengthen and to bless.

W. H. R.

☞ Read "ZOELLNER'S TRANSCENDENTAL PHYSICS." This is one of the grandest works of the nineteenth century. Everybody should have a copy. Colby & Rich have the work on sale at the Banner of Light Bookstore, 9 Bosworth street, Boston.

Spiritualist Meetings.

ALBANY, N. Y.—First Spiritualist Society holds meetings each Sunday evening at Van Vechten Hall, 119 State street.—Ladies' Aid Society meets in its rooms adjoining the Hall each Friday afternoon and evening. D. M. S. Fero, President; J. D. Chism, Jr., Secretary.

CLEVELAND, O.—The Children's Progressive Lyceum No. 1 meets regularly every Sunday in G. A. R. Hall, 170 Superior street, commencing at 10½ A. M. Richard Carleton, Conductor; E. W. Gaylord, Secretary.

CINCINNATI, O.—The Society of Union Spiritualists holds meetings in Grand Army Hall, 115 West 6th street, every Sunday at 10½ A.M. and 7½ P.M., also Wednesday evening of each week, to which all are made welcome.

CINCINNATI, O.—The First New Spiritual Church of Cincinnati, Ohio, meets every Sunday at 10½ A.M. at Murch's Hall, No. 278 West 6th street, Dr. James A. Bliss, Pastor. The public are cordially invited. Seats free. Sunday School meets at 12 o'clock noon every Sunday. Spiritualists, come, and bring your children with you.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Society of United Spiritualists meets at Nos. 116 and 118 Fifth Avenue, every Sunday at 2½ P.M. A hearty welcome is extended to all visitors, but more especially to the mediums. F. B. Geoghegan, President, 17 Wisconsin street.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Chicago Association of Universal Radical Progressive Spiritualists' and Mediums' Society, organized on the 9th of May, A. D. 1884, meets in Spirits' Liberty Hall, No. 517 West Madison street, every Sunday, permanently, at 2½ and 7½ P.M. The public are cordially invited to attend. Admission 5 cents to each meeting. Dr. Norman McLeod, President.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Avenue Hall, 159 22d street. Children's Lyceum, Sunday, at 1½ P.M. Spiritualists' and Mediums' Meeting, 3 P.M. Sociables every Tuesday.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond discourses before the First Society of Spiritualists in Martine's (Ada street) Hall every Sunday morning and evening.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Young People's Progressive Society meets in Martine's Hall, corner Indiana Avenue and 22d street, every Sunday evening at 7½. Hon. Joel Tiffany conducts class lessons in the afternoon, at 3 o'clock. The best speakers and mediums are always engaged.

DENVER, COL.—Meetings are held Sunday evenings at Harmony Hall, Lawrence street, Mrs. F. A. Logan, conducting.

NEWARK, N. J.—First Association of Spiritualists, 177 Halsey street, corner of Market, evenings at 7½ o'clock. H. G. Avery, President.

NEWARK, N. J.—Meetings will be held every Sunday evening at No. 139 Congress street, commencing at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Jennie A. Smith, Secretary.

NEW HAVEN, CT.—Meetings are held each Sunday evening at Courier and Journal Building. Mrs. Ella Bacon, President; Thos. F. Davis, Secretary.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The First Association of Spiritualists, lectures every Sunday morning and evening. Children's Lyceum, 2 P. M., at the hall, 810 Spring Garden street. Joseph Wood President, B. P. Bonner, Vice President and Secretary, 940 Warnock street. Second Association meets Sunday afternoons at 3 o'clock, at its Church, Thompson street, east of Front. T. J. Ambrosia, President, 1228 North Third street. Keystone Association meets Sunday at 2:30 P. M., N. E. corner Ninth and Spring Garden street. Joseph Wood, Chairman. Fourth Association meets Sunday evening, Ninth and Callowhill streets.

PATERSON, N. J.—Meetings are held every Sunday afternoon and evening in Fidelity Hall, corner Market and Church streets, at 2½ and 7½ P.M. Lecturers and test mediums are requested to communicate with John A. Roney, Cor. Sec'y, 65 Holsman street.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.—The First Society of Spiritualists holds meetings every Sunday in the Court of Appeals Room, Town Hall, at 10½ A.M. and 7½ P.M. All are invited. W. B. Mills, President; E. J. Huling, Secretary.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—The Lincoln Society of Spiritualists holds meetings Wednesday and Sunday evenings at its Hall on 5th street.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—The First Association of Spiritualists meets at 2½ P.M. every Sunday in Brandt's Hall, southwest corner of Franklin Avenue and Ninth street. Friends of the cause invited to attend, and correspondence solicited from America and Europe. H. W. Fay, President, No. 313 Market street; Milton Lyle, Cor. Sec., 3000 Olive street.

Advertisements.

THE following characteristic letter, from the pen of Lyman C. Howe, the veteran speaker and writer for the noble cause of Spiritualism, speaks for itself. Mr. Howe has worn our Shields for more than five years, and has had large experience with them among his friends. The readers of THE BANNER have implicit confidence in the integrity and good judgment of Mr. Howe. He always writes and speaks what he knows to be TRUE. Write him for further evidence about our Shields, and he will give his experience:

DR. THACHER:

Dear Sir—Your Magnetic Shields have some merit, but on the whole I am inclined to call them a fraud. They soothe and vitalize the nerves, put new life into the blood, warm cold feet, build up the debilitated and consumptive, create a row among the old sinners in the constitution, and keep stirring them until they enter upon a war of extermination, or commit suicide to escape; put neuralgia and rheumatism hors du combat, make a weak man vigorous and saucy, and cure family quarrels where they originate in bad blood or depraved nerves; but they don't mend cork legs nor glass eyes, nor cure warts on an evil temper. They should be a specific for total depravity, alcoholism, and especially for debilitated pocketbooks. Here is where they fail. If you can improve them so that you can guarantee a perfect cure for financial fits, consumptive bank accounts and religious hydrophobia, your fortune is made. Then, as your best advertising card, I would advise you to cover the Brooklyn Tabernacle and its pastor, and if you cure him you need waste no more printer's ink. Yours for health,

LYMAN C. HOWE,
Fredonia, N. Y.

CHICAGO MAGNETIC SHIELD COMPANY,
No. 6 Central Music Hall, Chicago, Ill.
Je9 4w*

Dr. F. L. H. Willis

May be Addressed until further notice,
Clenora, Yates Co., N. Y.

DR. WILLIS may be addressed as above. From this point he can attend to the diagnosing of disease psychometrically. He claims that his powers in this line are unrivaled, combining, as he does, accurate scientific knowledge with keen and searching psychometric power.

Dr. Willis claims especial skill in treating all diseases of the blood and nervous system. Cancers, Scrofula in all its forms, Epilepsy, Paralysis, and all the most delicate and complicated diseases of both sexes.

Dr. Willis is permitted to refer to numerous parties who have been cured by his system of practice when all others had failed. All letters must contain a return postage stamp. Send for Circulars, with References and Terms.
Ap7 13w*

DR. J. R. NEWTON

STILL heals the sick! Spirit, Mind and Magnetic Cures at a distance through MRS. NEWTON. Send for testimonials to MRS. J. R. NEWTON, P.O. Station G., N.Y. City. 13w* Ap7

SOUL READING,

Or Psychometrical Delineation of Character.

MRS. A. B. SEVERANCE would respectfully announce to the public that those who wish, and will visit her in person, or send their autograph or lock of hair, she will give an accurate description of their leading traits of character and peculiarities of disposition; marked changes in past and future life; physical disease, with prescription therefor; what business they are best adapted to pursue in order to be successful; the physical and mental adaptation of those intending marriage; and hints to the unharmoniously married. Full delineation, $2.00, and four 2-cent stamps. Brief delineation, $1.00, and four 2-cent stamps.

Address, MRS. A. B. SEVERANCE,
Centre street, between Church and Prairie streets,
Ap7 6m* White Water, Walworth Co., Wis.

CUTTER HOUSE,

Wickett's Island.
Opens June 1st, 1888.

PARTIES desirous of spending the summer in a very healthy, quiet, spiritual place, with no inharmonious influences around them, should secure rooms at once. Mrs. M. E. Williams, the celebrated materializing medium, of New York, will spend the season at this place, and her guides will take an active part in cooperation with the Island and as Teachers for the higher unfoldment of physical and spiritual life. For terms and descriptive circular, enclose stamp. Address DR. ABBIE E. CUTTER, Onset, Mass. 13w* M131

Psychometric, Clairvoyant, AND Clairaudient Medium,

WILL diagnose and cure all diseases at any distance without the use of medicine. Diagnosis, $1.00; thirty entranced exercises, $10.00. Address GEORGE BANCROFT EMERSON, care N. MacLeod, 532 West Madison street, Chicago, Ill. 15w* Ap14

EXCELSIOR!

THIS ancient Spirit Band have brought their medium (Miss Viel) from Europe for healing purposes, &c. Insanity a specialty. French spoken. Planetary Readings of Character, also Advice on Health, Business, &c., according to the New Science of Solar Biology. Send $1.00 with name and date of birth to Box 25, Onset, Mass.
My19 3teow

ASTONISHING OFFER.

SEND three 2-ct. stamps, lock of hair, age, sex, one leading symptom, and your disease will be diagnosed free by spirit power. DR. A. B. DOBSON, Maquoketa, Iowa.
Ap14 13w*

ONSET BAY.

TO LET, for the season, a Furnished Cottage of 6 Rooms. Pleasantly located. Apply to E. Y. JOHNSON, Headquarters Building, Treasurer's Office, Onset. 3w* Je9

BY DIRECTION of her guides, MRS. JENNIE CROSSE will remove to the country for a while, where she will continue to give Life-Readings for $1.00 and stamp, and answer six questions for 50 cents and stamp. Disease a specialty. Address West Garland, Me.
Je2 4w*

MRS. E. M. PERRY. Readings by locks of hair. Terms $1.00. Waterville, Mass., Box 49. 8w* Ap28

Dr. Hardcastle's TOOTH-LIFE.

A Delightful Tooth-Powder.

This Powder thoroughly cleanses the teeth, hardens the gums, purifies the breath, prevents decay, etc.

Of the four pages printed matter accompanying each box of "Tooth-Life," old Dr. Blankman, after reading it, made this remark: "It is the best thing I ever read on the subject, and it is all true, too."

The proprietor says: "As a Spiritualist from my youth, I say in all conscience, no person can fail to find in the box of 'Tooth-Life' and four pages of information accompanying it, that which I positively declare to be, on authority of an experience as an American dentist and student dating from 1860, of infinitely more benefit than twenty-five cents' worth of anything else on earth. The tooth-preservative measures taught alone are worth more to parents and guardians than a thousand times the amount of the investment."

Put up in a neat box. Sent postpaid on receipt of 25 cents. For sale by COLBY & RICH.

DR. RHODES' FAMILY MEDICINES.

Purely Vegetable
(ALL SUGAR-COATED)
Medical Confections.
A Universal Blessing.
SUITED TO OLD OR YOUNG!

A PERFECT Liver and Kidney Renovator and Blood Purifier. Cleanses the entire system from all Biliousness and Blood Poisons from Malaria, etc. And cures Headache, Backache, Side and Stomachache, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Pains in the Limbs, Lameness, Numbness, Constipation, Piles, Worms, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Nervousness, Weakness, Kidney and Bladder, and all other urinary ailments, etc. Also, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and in fact almost all the various ailments of humanity.

PRICES: Trial box, 25 cents—by mail, 30 cents; second size, 50 cents—by mail, 55 cents; 12 boxes second size, $5.00; large boxes, $1.00; 6 large boxes, $5.00.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

STELLAR SCIENCE.

I WILL give a test of it to any person who will send me the place and date of their birth (giving sex) and 25 cents, money or stamps.

I will write Biographical and Predictive Letters (from the above data). Also advice upon any matter, in answer to questions, in accordance with my understanding of the science, for a fee of $1; Consultation fee $1; at office, 206 Tremont street.

Nativities written at prices proportionate to the detail demanded. Address OLIVER AMES GOULD, Box 1664, Boston, Mass. July 19.

NEW SHEET MUSIC.

When I Go.

QUARTET.

Words and music by Mrs. Sarah A. Van Blarcom.
Price 25 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

PATENT OFFICE,

28 SCHOOL STREET, BOSTON, MASS.

BROWN BROTHERS, SOLICITORS.

BROWN BROTHERS have had a professional experience of fifteen years. Send for pamphlet of instructions.
April 14.—oam

DIAGNOSIS FREE.

SEND two 2-ct. stamps, lock of hair, name in full, age and sex, and I will give you a CLAIRVOYANT DIAGNOSIS OF YOUR AILMENTS. Address J. C. BATDORF, M.D., Principal, Magnetic Institute, Grand Rapids, Mich.
Je2 1m*

Mediums in Boston.

JAMES R. COCKE,

Developing and Business Medium,
ALSO
Clairvoyant Physician,
1581 Washington Street, Boston.

Sittings daily from 9 A.M. till 5 P.M. Price, $1.00.

Unequalled Advantages.

DR. COCKE gives special inducements for Medical and Magnetic Treatment by the month.

Development of Mediumship a Specialty.

SIX PRIVATE SITTINGS FOR $4.00 IN ADVANCE.

CIRCLES.

Sunday, at 11 A.M., for Development and Tests. At 8 P.M., for Psychometry, Tests and Inspirational Music. Thursday evening, at 7:30, for Development. tf Je9

J. W. FLETCHER,

MEDICAL AND BUSINESS MEDIUM,

6 Beacon Street,

BOSTON, MASS.

Written Communications on MEDIUMSHIP, HEALTH, BUSINESS, etc., from Lock of Hair. My5 tf

AMANDA M. COWAN,

219A Tremont Street, Boston,
Suite 2,

WILL be pleased to meet her friends on Sunday, Tuesday and Saturday afternoons, at 2:30, Sunday and Wednesday evenings at 8. Address all communications to CHAS. D. COWAN, Manager.
Je16 1w*

PROF. CAMPBELL,

A RELIABLE Business and Test Medium. Gives Psychometric Readings from handwriting (by letter only). Psychometric, Clairvoyant, Clairaudient, Prophetic and Astrologic. Is reliable, takes time, examines minutely, goes into details, gives satisfaction. Full life reading (taking in everything), $1.00. Try him. Address, 10 Hudson street, Boston, Mass. 4w* Je2

MRS. WEBB,

Astrologist and Life-Reader,

FROM 154 West 22d street, New York City, will remain at No. 79 Rutland street, Boston, until June 23d, only. Terms $2.00; Business Life written, five years, $5.00; Ten years, $10.00; Full Life, $25.00. 3w Je9

C. E. WATKINS,

The Medium.

MESSAGES by Independent Writing; Diagnosing by Independent Writing. 109 Falmouth street, off West Chester Park, first street west of Huntington Avenue. Take Back Bay or Huntington Avenue car. tf Ap7

Something New and Pleasing.

WRITE a letter to your spirit friends and have it answered by Independent writing. Questions upon Health and Business answered in same manner. Price $1.00. Address ANNIE LORD CHAMBERLAIN, Box 56, Mattapan Dist., Boston, Mass. 1m My19

EMMA J. NICKERSON,

BUSINESS AND MAGNETIC TREATMENT,

566 COLUMBUS AVENUE, BOSTON. Send $1.00, name and lock of hair, for Diagnosis of Disease, and kind of Mediumship. Treatment by mail. Office hours 2 to 6 P.M. 13w* Je9

MRS. F. K. RICH,

TRANCE and Business Medium, Parlors No. 38 Evans House, 175 Tremont street, Boston. Office hours 9 A.M. to 6 P.M. Will also go out to hold private circles. Letters answered by photograph or lock of hair. Terms $2.00. Circles every Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. 1w* Je16

MRS. H. W. CUSHMAN,

MUSICAL, Test, Business and Writing Medium. Circles Monday, 7:30 P.M.; Thursday, 2:30 P.M. Six questions answered by mail for $1.00 and stamp. Examination by lock of hair, $1.00. 212 Main street, Charlestown. Mh3 tf

MISS HELEN A. SLOAN,

MAGNETIC Physician. Vapor and Medicated Baths. Celebrated "Acid Cure." Office hours from 9 A.M. to 8 P.M. 171 Tremont street, corner Mason st., Boston. Ap7 tf

MISS A. PEABODY,

BUSINESS, Test, Clairvoyant Medium. Sittings daily. Circles Monday and Thursday evenings. Tuesday afternoon at 3. 1 Bennet st., corner Washington st., Boston. Je16 1w*

MRS. A. FORRESTER

WILL give Trance Sittings daily, also Magnetic Treatment from 1 to 5 P.M. 39 Chapman street, corner Shawmut Avenue, Boston. 1w* Je16

MISS L. E. SMITH,

MEDIUM for spirit communications, tests and business, personally or by letter (from articles). Terms $1.00, with stamp. 14 Union Park street, Boston. 1w* Je16

MRS. ALDEN,

TRANCE MEDIUM. Medical Examinations and Magnetic treatment. 43 Winter street, Boston.
Je2 5w*

Mrs. A. E. Cunningham,

MEDICAL, Business and Test Medium, 459 Tremont street, Suite 1, Boston. Private Sittings daily. Will answer calls for Platform Tests. 4w* Je16

MRS. K. E. FISHER, Magnetic and Electric Physician, 147 Tremont street, Boston, Rooms 6 and 9. Magnetic and Massage Treatment, Electric and Medicated Vapor Baths; also the celebrated Colorado Sulphur Baths. Je16 1w*

A. S. HAYWARD, Magnetic Physician. Letter address for personal treatment or his powerful Spirit Magnetized Paper, during the summer months, 9 Bosworth street, Boston. Two packages by mail, $1.00.
Je2 5w*

MRS. FANNIE A. DODD,

MAGNETIC PHYSICIAN and Test Medium, 48 Winter street, Room 11. tf Je2

MRS. HATTIE YOUNG,

TRANCE and Business Medium, 22 Winter street, Room 16, Boston. 3w* Je9

MRS. DR. JULIA CRAFTS SMITH gives medical examinations free every Thursday from 9 to 5, Office, Hotel "Cabe," 8 Appleton street, Boston. My19 cow10t*

MRS. J. M. CARPENTER, 181 Warren Avenue, Boston, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. Examination by letter when patient is not present. My26 4w*

JOSEPH L. NEWMAN, Magnetic Healer, No. 8½ Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), Room 4, Boston, Mass. Office hours, from 1 to 4 P. M. Ja7 26w*

MRS. M. E. WALKER, Test and Business Medium. Hours 10 to 4. Sittings by appointment. Terms $1.00. 1469 Washington street, Boston. 2w* Je9

ADVICE relative to Health, Business, etc. Write JAMES DODD, Box 2214, Boston, Mass. My26 4w*

DR. A. H. RICHARDSON, Magnetic Healer, Waverly House, Charlestown. 810

J. A. SHELHAMER,

MAGNETIC HEALER,

Office 8½ Bosworth Street (Room 5), Boston, Mass.,

WILL treat patients at his office or at their homes, as desired. Dr. S. prescribes for and treats all kinds of diseases. Specialties: Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lung, Liver and Kidney complaints, and all Nervous Disorders. Consultation, prescription and advice, $2.00. Moderate rates for Medicines, when furnished. Magnetized Paper $1.00 per package. Healing by rubbing and laying on of hands. Parties wishing consultation by letter must be particular to state age, sex, and leading symptoms. Liver, Anti-Dyspeptic, Liver and Kidney, or Strengthening and Soothing Pills, 25 cents per box; or five boxes for $1.00.

Office hours from 10 A.M. to 3 P.M.—except on Tuesdays and Fridays, when he attends out-of-town patients. Letter address care of BANNER OF LIGHT. 13w* Ap7

WHAT OUR GIRLS OUGHT TO KNOW. By DR. MARY J. STUDLEY.

The author has prepared this book as a real labor of love on her own part, and at the oft-repeated request of the multitude of mothers who know her, and wished the book for their daughters. The work of preparing such a book could hardly have fallen into better hands.

Cloth, nearly 300 pp., $1.00, postage free.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Miscellaneous.

Sealed Letters Answered

BY MRS. ELIZA A. MARTIN, Oxford, Mass. Terms $1.00 and two 2-ct. stamps. 4w* Jy16

SEALED LETTERS.

ELEANOR MARTIN now makes specialty of business, $5.00. Full Spiritual Message, $2.00. 73 Lane Avenue, Columbus, Ohio. 4w* My26

MRS. D. E. PUTNAM

HAS settled at Onset for the season, and is ready for business. Room and Board until July 1st, $6.00 per week. P.O. Box 52. 4w* My26

MRS. R. T. CLANEY,

BUSINESS AND TEST MEDIUM, No. 411 Lookout street, Chattanooga, Tenn. 6m* D24

FOR SALE OR TO LET,

COTTAGE of six rooms, at Lake Pleasant. Address MRS. M. V. LINCOLN, 8 Cliff street, Roxbury, Mass.
Je9 1w*

FOR SALE OR TO LET,

LARGE House on Broadway, opposite the Park, Lake Pleasant. Apply to MRS. SARAH E. STONE, Everett, Mass. 1w* Je9

ONSET BAY. Old Colony trains now stop at the Onset station, and the street railway is making regular trips. Buy excursion tickets for Onset. tf My26

The Writing Planchette.

SCIENCE is unable to explain the mysterious performances of this wonderful little instrument, which writes intelligent answers to questions asked either aloud or mentally. Those unacquainted with it would be astonished at some of the results that have been attained through its agency, and no domestic circle should be without one. All investigators who desire practice in writing mediumship should avail themselves of these "Planchettes," which may be consulted on all questions, as also for communications from deceased relatives or friends.

DIRECTIONS.—Place Planchette on a piece of paper (printing or writing will answer), then place the hand lightly on the board; in a few minutes it begins to move, and is ready to answer mental or spoken questions. Though it cannot be guaranteed that every individual who follows these directions will succeed in obtaining the desired result, or cause the instrument to move, independent of any muscular effort of his or her own, yet it has been proved beyond question that where a party of three or more come together, it is almost impossible that one cannot operate it. If one be not successful, let two try it together. If nothing happens the first day, try it the next, and even if half an hour a day for several days are given to it, the results will amply remunerate you for the time and patience bestowed upon it.

The Planchette is furnished complete with box, pencil and directions, by which any one can easily understand how to use it.

PLANCHETTE, with Pentagraph Wheels, 60 cents, securely packed in a box, and sent by mail, postage free.

NOTICE TO RESIDENTS OF CANADA AND THE PROVINCES.—Under existing postal arrangements between the United States and Canada, PLANCHETTES cannot be sent through the mails, but must be forwarded by express only, at the purchaser's expense.

For sale by COLBY & RICH. tf

SENT FREE.

RULES
TO BE OBSERVED WHEN FORMING
SPIRITUAL CIRCLES.
BY EMMA HARDINGE BRITTEN.

Comprehensive and clear directions for forming and conducting circles of investigation are here presented by an able, experienced and reliable author.

This little book also contains a Catalogue of Books published and for sale by COLBY & RICH.

Sent free on application to COLBY & RICH. tf

NEW GOSPEL OF HEALTH,

CONTAINING seven sections on Vital Magnetism and illustrated manipulations, by DR. STONE. For sale at this office. Price $1.25 cloth-bound copies, $2.50.

WORKS ON HEALTH.

THE MENTAL CURE. By REV. W. F. EVANS. The philosophy of Life; illustrating the influence of the Mind on the Body, both in health and disease, and the Psychological Method of Treatment. 364 pp. The work has received the encomiums of able critics, and is considered one of the best books in the English language, adapted to both sick and well, also the physician, and shows how persons can ward off and eradicate disease without medicine.

Cloth, $1.50, postage 10 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

MENTAL MEDICINE. A Theoretical and Practical Treatise on Medical Psychology. By REV. W. F. EVANS. One of the best, clearest and most practical treatises upon the application of psychic or mental force to the cure of the sick. Its clear-minded author has focalized what light upon this great subject he could obtain from accessible sources, and herein so illuminates the subject that persons of ordinary intelligence cannot only understand the theory, but become qualified to practice the healing art, enabling parents to be their own family physician.

Cloth, 1.25, postage 10 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

THE DIVINE LAW OF CURE. By W. F. EVANS. This treatise is the result of the author's last six years of careful research, study and experience, and makes its appearance at a time when the necessity of the age seems to demand a work of this nature. It is adapted to persons who desire to remain in good health as well as those sick in body and mind, and especially is it applicable to persons who recognize the growing demand for more knowledge in regard to utilizing the power of mind over disease and the subtle forces that are in the universe.

Price $1.50, postage 10 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

SOUL AND BODY; or, The Spiritual Science of Health and Disease. By W. F. EVANS, author of "Mental Cure," and "Mental Medicine." A work worthy of being spread broadcast over the land. It is calculated to do good wherever read.

Cloth. Price $1.00.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

PRIMITIVE MIND CURE. By W. F. EVANS. The Nature and Power of Faith; or, Elementary Lessons in Christian Philosophy and Transcendental Medicine.

Cloth, 12mo, pp. 215. Price $1.50; postage 10 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH

THE VITAL MAGNETIC CURE. By a MAGNETIC PHYSICIAN. The Philosophy of Health; A Treatise upon the Electric, Magnetic, and Spirit-Life Forces of the Human System, and their Application to the Relief and Cure of all Curable Diseases of the Mind and Body. It gives instructions for both Healer and Patient as far as is practical, and must become a standard work, as these natural forces are eternal and universal.

Cloth, $1.00, postage 10 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

NATURE'S LAWS IN HUMAN LIFE. By a MAGNETIC PHYSICIAN. The Philosophy of Happiness, or an Exposition of Spiritualism, embracing the various opinions of extremists, pro and con. Distinguished Theologians, Professors, D. D.'s, and others in opposition to its truthfulness; Normal, Inspirational and Trance Speakers and Writers in favor. Is Immortality Universal? Knowledge of Nature's laws and the destiny of the race result in happiness, also proves an antidote to "Free Love"-ism. 308 pp.

Cloth, $1.50, postage 10 cents.

ESSENTIALS OF MENTAL HEALING: The Theory and Practice. By L. M. MARSTON, M. D. A new work on the subject of Christian Science or Mind-Cure. This is one of the most able treatises on this subject that has yet appeared. It is not only intended for general reading, but as a text-book.

pp. 122. Price $1.00.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

AN APOSTLE OF SPIRITUALISM.

A Biographical Monograph
OF
J. J. MORSE,
Trance Medium.

With an Abstract Report of a Lecture entitled "HOMES IN THE HEREAFTER."

Paper. Price 15 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

WITCHCRAFT OF NEW ENGLAND EXPLAINED BY MODERN SPIRITUALISM. By ALLEN PUTNAM, Esq., author of "Bible Marvel Workers," "Natty, a Spirit," "Mesmerism, Spiritualism, Witchcraft and Miracle," "Agassiz and Spiritualism," etc.

CONTENTS: PREFACE. References. Explanatory Note—Definitions. MATHER AND CALEF. COTTON MATHER. ROBERT CALEF. THOMAS HUTCHINSON. C. W. UPHAM. MARGARET JONES. Winthrop's Account of her, etc. ANN HIBBINS. Hutchinson's Account of Ann, etc. ANN COLE. Hutchinson's Account, etc. ELIZABETH KNAPP. A Case of Spiritualism, etc. MORSE FAMILY. Physical Manifestations, etc. GOODWIN FAMILY. Hutchinson's Account, etc. SALEM WITCHCRAFT. Occurred at Danvers, etc. TITUBA. Examination of her, etc. SARAH GOOD. Her Examination, etc. DORCAS GOOD. Bites with Spirit-Teeth, etc. SARAH OSBORN. Was seen spectrally, etc. MARTHA COREY. Her Character, etc. GILES COREY. His Heroism, etc. REBECCA NURSE. Was seen as an Apparition, etc. MARY EASTY. Her Examination, etc. SUSANNA MARTIN. Her Examination, etc. MARTHA CARRIER. Examination, etc. GEORGE BURROUGHS. His Susceptibilities and Character, etc. SUMMARY. Number executed. Spirits proved to have been Enactors of Witchcraft. THE CONFESSORS. THE ACCUSING GIRLS. Ann Putnam's Confession. THE PROSECUTORS. WITCHCRAFT'S AUTHOR. THE MOTIVE. LOCAL AND PERSONAL. METHODS OF PROVIDENCE. APPENDIX. CHRISTENDOM'S WITCHCRAFT DEVIL. LIMITATIONS OF HIS POWERS. COVENANT WITH HIM. HIS DEFENCE. DEMONOLOGY AND NECROMANCY. BIBLICAL WITCH AND WITCHCRAFT. CHRISTENDOM'S WITCH AND WITCHCRAFT. SPIRIT, SOUL AND MENTAL POWERS. TWO SETS OF MENTAL POWERS—AGASSIZ. MARVEL AND SPIRITUALISM. INDIAN WORSHIP.

Cloth, 12mo, pp. 482. Price $1.50, postage 10 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

WHAT MUST WE DO TO BE SAVED? A Lecture by ROBERT G. INGERSOLL. Contents: Introductory. The Gospel of Matthew. The Gospel of Mark. The Gospel of Luke. The Gospel of John. The Catholics. The Episcopalians. The Methodists. The Presbyterians. The Evangelical Alliance. What do you Propose?

Paper, pp. 87. Price 25 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

New York Advertisements.

DUMONT C. DAKE, M.D.,

304 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY, successfully treats all forms of Chronic Diseases, however complicated. Patients afflicted for years, regarded as hopeless, or incurable, testify to permanent restoration. For twenty years his power to diagnose and treat Disease has been and still stands unequaled, so say eminent Scientists, Physicians, Clergymen, and patients from all parts of the country. Voluminous testimony can be seen at his office. Those unable to visit the Doctor in person can be successfully treated at their homes. Send stamp for Circular. Diagnosis, with advice, $2.00.

Extract from a letter by Rev. F. R. M., D.D., Brooklyn, N.Y.: . . . "I am happy to testify to Dr. Dake's high moral character as a man, and his eminent ability as a physician who has achieved a most extraordinary career."
Ap7 tf

BEST TRUSS EVER USED.

Improved Elastic Truss. Worn night and day. Positively cures ruptures. Sent by mail everywhere. Write for full descriptive circulars to the

DR. HOUSE N.Y. ELASTIC TRUSS CO.,
744 Broadway, N.Y.
My26 13w*

Mrs. Stoddard-Gray and Son, DeWitt C. Hough,

HOLD Materializing Séances every Sunday, Wednesday and Friday evening, 8 o'clock. Tuesday and Saturday, 2 o'clock, at 323 West 34th street, New York. Daily sittings for Communications and Business. 4w* Je16

FOR SALE,

A MORTGAGE on Cottage and Ground at Onset, Mass., of $250, interest payable semi-annually at 7 per cent. This property is situated on Longwood Avenue, in the heart of Onset, and is valued at $1500. For further particulars, address GEO. A. DELEREE, No. 4 Warren street, New York City. 4w* My26

SEND LOCK OF HAIR and $1.00—have your disease fully diagnosed by the best Healing Medium in the United States. Also six questions answered for 50 cents and stamp. Address MRS. INEZ SILLOWAY, 86 McDougal street, New York City. 4w* Je9

MARY C. MORRELL, Business, Prophetic and Developing Medium, 230 West 36th street, New York City. 15w* Je16

MRS. C. SCOTT, Trance and Business Medium. Sittings daily, 10 to 5. No. 21 West 13th street, New York. Je16

MRS. L. HIGGINS, Business and Trance Medium. Sittings daily 10 to 3. 351 W. 27th st., New York. Ap21 10w*

RUPTURES

CURED in thirty days by my MEDICAL COMPOUND and improved ELASTIC SUP

Banner of Light.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, JUNE 16, 1888.

SECULAR PRESS BUREAU,

Organized under the Direction of the American Spiritualist Alliance, 200 Broadway, New York.

[From the Auburn (N. Y.) Advertiser.]

SPIRITUALISM.

A BELIEVER'S REPLY TO AN AUBURNIAN'S SERMON.

To the Editor of The Daily Advertiser:

One of your city papers has given considerable space in its columns to the Rev. C. C. Hemenway's sermon against "Modern Spiritualism," which is a bitter and indiscriminate attack upon the religious convictions of a large number of his fellow citizens, his brethren according to Christ's teachings — whom he accuses of necromancy and sorcery, infidelity, "free love," uncleanness and licentiousness, and of accepting a doctrine or belief that "encourages the most unclean and devilish practices." I trust, therefore, Mr. Editor, you will permit me, as a believer in the basis, facts and doctrines of Modern Spiritualism, a few words in vindication of the truth against this sweeping and ungenerous assault.

It was right for him to preach against what he regards as wrong and hurtful in Spiritualism or among Spiritualists, and unquestionably, as I freely admit, there is, both as to doctrine and practice, in what may be more properly called Spiritism, and among mere Spiritists, what should be disapproved and shunned. This may be said of most, if not all, sects and classes. I suppose that if the reverend gentleman had preached an "able discourse" upon Roman Catholicism, he would have been almost if not quite as severe as he was in his denunciation of Spiritualism.

I notice, however, that, through some influence, the Rev. Mr. Hemenway has departed from the strictly Orthodox Christian belief and has reached the verge of Spiritualistic doctrine. He needs to take but another step to become a decided Spiritualist, of the sort that he so vehemently assails. Thus he says:

"There is nothing in the scriptures to forbid the thought that the dear ones gone still have knowledge of our condition, and, indeed, may be as near us as in life. What a comfort it has been to multitudes of God's afflicted children to feel that their loved ones, better than in life, knew their every thought and saw their every action—perhaps were their most constant and closest companions!"

True, Mr. Hemenway, most beautifully true! And what a check to wrong doing, what a sustainer in the hour of temptation! Does my beloved, sainted mother, says the youth on the brink of the dark gulf of vice and crime, behold me and my surroundings now? No, says the non-Spiritualist; it is only a sentiment, the mere say-so of the clergyman; while the Spiritualist says: Yes, for I know that it was her loved face I saw the other night; it was her blessed words I heard—her language that was written between those locked slates; and did she not tell me that she was ever with me, watching over me? Shall I grieve her spirit by this act of shame? No, never, never, never! And thus the "evil one" is thwarted, and the youth is saved—not because he thought of his mother's presence as a sentimental possibility, but because he knew it as a fact, for she had manifested herself on the sensuous plane. Mr. Hemenway has beautifully answered the question so often sneeringly asked in regard to Spiritualism—cui bono? Of what good is it? How dreadful is the thought that spirits in their new condition can visit their former homes and loved ones, but can find no means—not even by the simple rap—to make their presence manifest! But how untrue this is. The world's annals prove—nay, the Bible itself shows. Was not the spirit communicating with Job, when, in the stillness of night, he showed himself as an "image," and uttered the solemn reproof: "Shall mortal man be more just than God?" Did not the spirits of Moses and Elias communicate with Jesus on the mount? And did not the "spirit of Jesus" communicate with Paul, and direct him and his companion? (See Acts xvi: 7.) The scriptures are full of cases of spirit intervention, manifestation and communication on the part of both orders of spirits, good and evil, the "spirits of just men made perfect," and the obsessing spirits of darkness, whom Jesus and his disciples cast out, some of whom preferred to enter into the bodies of swine rather than to be wholly deprived of the power to manifest themselves on the material plane.

Mr. Hemenway, you are in error, and are teaching error, and depriving your fellow-men of a demonstration of spiritual truth which God, through his immutable laws and in his infinite loving kindness, has vouchsafed to them. You are incurring a great responsibility by so doing. Do you not know that there is nothing so fearful in this period of mere intellectualism as the spread of materialism, the greatest enemy of Christianity and all spiritual truths? God has given a remedy, adapted to the present condition of men's minds, that crave sensuous demonstration, and you are fighting against God.

Modern Spiritualism is but a revival of the Ancient Spiritualism, with accounts of which the Bible is filled, and what Mr. Hemenway says was condemned by both divine and human law was not spirit intercourse or spirit communication, but the abuse of it, the prostitution of it to selfish, unholy purposes, including the actual worship of finite spirits called the "sin of idolatry." There was a legal Spiritualism and divination among the Hebrews. Did not Samuel divine? and before Saul consulted the the woman (not "witch") of Endor, did he not have recourse to the legal methods as practiced by the priests—"dreams, visions and prophets," [what were they?] and only when these failed go to the gifted woman of Endor? The scriptures plainly say that Samuel appeared and communicated; it makes no difference whether directly or through the mortal intermediary; and he truly predicted Saul's earthly fate. Josephus confirms this, and in the book styled "The Wisdom of Jesus, the Son of Siracb," we find a eulogium upon Samuel for this spiritual appearance and prophecy: "and after his death he prophesied, and showed the king his end, and lifted up his voice from the earth in prophecy, to blot out the wickedness of the people." If this was a sin against God, Samuel was guilty of it, or at least particeps criminis. It must be remembered that "The Wisdom of Jesus" is accepted as canonical by the oldest Christian church in the world, and that Luther commended it. Thus is spiritual communication proved, illustrated and commended by the Hebrew scriptures; and certainly if to hold communication with departed spirits were such an awful crime against God, the Messiah would not have set the example by consulting with Moses and Elias, the former being the alleged author of the law and condemning such intercourse; nor would the "spirit of Jesus" have communicated with Paul in Mysia; nor would Paul have so strongly commended and recommended the "spiritual gifts"—the gift of speaking in tongues, of clairvoyance, healing, operations of miraculous powers (physical mediumship), prophecy, interpretations of tongues, etc., saying, "of spiritual gifts I would not have you ignorant." This was Christian Spiritualism, which he approved; while to the damsel "possessed with a spirit of divination," which was used for purposes of mere gain, he said, addressing the spirit: "I command thee, in the name of Jesus Christ, to come out of her." Here the two orders are clearly illustrated.

The fact is, in Spiritualism, as in everything else, we must discriminate; and we must beware of turning, by our own folly and depravity, into a curse what God has given to us as a very great blessing. We must "try the spirits," as St. John said, whether they be of God (good) or not of God (evil); and beware of "seducing spirits" against whom Paul warned Timothy.

Mr. Hemenway, it seems, is even now ignorant of the evidence upon which spiritualistic facts rest. Does he not know that this great subject has been carefully investigated by some of the most eminent scientists, jurists, divines and even prestidigitateurs in the world, and has been endorsed as true? No facts in physical science have been more conclusively established than those of spiritualistic science; and yet this evidently uninformed clergyman is bold enough to deny them. He exclaims, "Better not go to the Bible for their support." It is not necessary to do so, because we have contemporaneous testimony; but there is no book that contains stronger corroborative evidence and illustration than the collection of ancient writings called the Bible. Better not go to Mr. Hemenway's interpretation of the Bible for support, for that is a very different thing—useful not to explain, but to explain away. Indeed, we might as well go to the "seducing spirits."

Mr. Hemenway says Spiritualism "dishonors the Bible." This is not true, for the Bible is mainly a record of Spiritualism, with its accounts of spiritual manifestations, appearances and interventions in the affairs of earth. Take these away from it, and what would remain? It is true that Spiritualists are not all good and pure and wise; neither are all Christians, not even all Christian clergymen. Both classes contain those who dishonor both God and the Bible; but we venture to say that, in proportion, there are far more professing Christians in the State Prisons than Spiritualists, imperfect as are the latter, and affected as they are from the recent recoil from error to truth.

"Free love!" If Mr. Hemenway means to assert, as he seems to, that sexual impurity and a disregard for the marriage tie are sanctioned by the teachings of Spiritualism, he spoke as one grossly ignorant of the subject of his discourse. No people have condemned and denounced more emphatically the infamous doctrine of "free love," or rather free lust, than the Spiritualists. It is true there have been, and doubtless still are, some flagrant offenders, but they violate the principles of their profession, as did some of the early Christians in St. Paul's time, and as many Christians and Christian clergymen do at the present time. This illustrates not the principles of their sacred vocation, but the depravity of human nature as exemplified in their character—a depravity that no laws human or divine can entirely restrain. It is entirely false that "the influence of Spiritualism upon moral life, individual and public, has usually been debasing," as could readily be shown by the citation of facts, were the space sufficient. It is a statement, indeed, that refutes itself—that Mr. Hemenway himself has refuted in what he says of the consciousness of spirit presence—a thing peculiar to Spiritualists.

"God closed the canon of the scriptures," says Mr. H. When? Where? In what way? Where is that fact declared? Did not the Messiah say: "I have many more things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now"? And if the "canon of the scriptures" was closed at the date of the last Biblical writing, why did it take so many centuries to fix it up in the ecclesiastical conventions? And why did the Protestants revise it, a thousand years afterward, by excluding several of the books previously accepted? And why may not a convention now-a-days do the same thing? And why may they not add to as well as subtract from it?

Mr. Hemenway quotes the old mistranslated text, "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable," etc., seeming not to know that this blunder was corrected long ago by Dean Alford, and more recently in the revised version, as follows: "All scripture given by inspiration of God is profitable," etc. Please examine the Greek text, Mr. Hemenway, and quote not a false translation but the genuine scripture correctly interpreted, particularly as you allow no occasion for other and advanced spiritual truth, which the Messiah seemed to promise when, in the progress of mankind, they should be "able to bear it." The Jews, in their bigotry and spiritual darkness, could not bear what the Messiah of that time brought to them; neither can the exponents of religious systems at present bear the light now brought to the earth. "When the Son of Man [again] cometh shall he find faith on the earth?" HENRY KIDDLE.

New York, May 20th, 1888.

Spiritualistic Meetings in Boston.

Banner of Light Circle-Room, No. 9 Bosworth street.—Séances are held every Tuesday and Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock promptly. Admission free. For further particulars, see notice on sixth page. L. B. Wilson, Chairman.

College Hall, 34 Essex Street.—Sundays, at 10½ A. M., 2½ and 7½ P. M. Eben Cobb, Conductor.

Eagle Hall, 616 Washington Street, corner of Essex.—Sundays, at 2½ and 7½ P. M.; also Wednesdays at 3 P. M. Able speakers and test mediums. Excellent music. Prescott Robinson, Chairman.

Lyceum Hall, 1031 Washington Street.—Spiritual meetings every Sunday at 2½ and 7½ P. M. Dr. Mark Smith, Chairman.

Chelsea.—The Ladies' Social Aid Society meets in Mrs. Buffum's parlors, 196 Chestnut street, every Friday afternoon and evening. All are invited. Mrs. E. H. Pratt, President; Mrs. M. A. Dodge, Secretary.

Cambridgeport.—Meetings held each Sunday evening at 7½ o'clock at St. George's Hall, 603 Main street, by the Spiritualist Society. H. P. Trask, President.

Lynn.—Children's Lyceum meets every Sunday at Cadet Hall, Market street, at 12 M. Conductor, Mr. O. S. Adams; Secretary, Mrs. E. B. Merrill.

Children's Festival at Paine Hall, Appleton Street.—Considerable interest has existed among the members of the Lyceum for some weeks in anticipation of the May Pole Dance and Strawberry Festival held in Paine Hall the evening of June 6th. To say it was a success in every way is using but a mild term. Among the early arrivals was a delegation from the "Old Ladies' Home," who seemed to enjoy most heartily everything offered in the way of entertainment.

At 8:15 the children formed for the grand military march, led by Miss Mabel Waite and Master Walter Hargrove. As they circled the hall the sight was a pretty one; the girls were dressed in white, made gay with bright ribbons of all hues, while their joyous countenances bespoke the pleasure that was being afforded them by participating in the festivities. A very attractive feature of this gathering was the orchestra of young lads, eight in number, who performed in a very creditable manner the task assigned to them. Between the dances were singing and dancing by Louise Homer, also Flossie Waite. Master Carleton James, the child violinist, played several fine selections, which were heartily encored. Gracie Scales sang a sweet little song in her usual charming manner. Singing by Miss Cushing, cornet solo, Mr. Brown. The dancing was directed by Prof. Cooper, the well-known teacher of dancing.

At 9:45 Poole's Orchestra filled the hall with strains of melody, inviting all to join in the merry dance. Once opened the festivities continued until a late hour, when the company separated, having had a good time. The entertainment was under the charge of that well-known worker, Mrs. Wm. S. Butler, assisted by several of the Lyceum leaders. The annual picnic of the Lyceum takes place Wednesday, June 27th, at Downer's Landing. Tickets for the trip are to be procured of members of the Lyceum at reduced rates.
HENRY O. TORREY, Cor. Sec'y.

The Boston Spiritual Temple Society.—The annual meeting of this organization was held at Lyceum Hall, 1031 Washington street, on Wednesday evening, June 6th, there being a large and enthusiastic gathering of its members present.

Remarks were made by Dr. J. C. Street, Dr. N. B. Smith, Mr. J. Wm. Fletcher and others. Those efficient workers, Capt. Richard Holmes and Mr. Oscar L. Rockwood, who have so satisfactorily filled the offices of President and Secretary since its organization, were re-elected, receiving 235 of the 266 votes cast, the remaining 31 votes being given respectively for Mr. Wm. H. Banks and Mr. George V. G. Heberton.

During the ensuing lecture season the platform of this society will be occupied by Mrs. R. S. Lillie, Mrs. A. H. Colby-Luther, Mr. J. Frank Baxter and other prominent speakers, and the season to come may confidently be looked forward to as destined to prove more successful, if possible, than those of the past have been. Below is a list of the officers elect:

President, Richard Holmes; Vice Presidents, Dr. J. C. Street, Mrs. Lucy A. Mellen; Recording and Corresponding Secretary, Oscar L. Rockwood; Treasurer, Albert F. Ring; Finance Committee, J. W. Haynes, J. M. Ordway, George C. Paine, J. S. Rogers, David W. Craig, A. L. Knight, L. L. Whitlock, J. M. Fleet, Mrs. J. W. Haynes, Mrs. A. A. Torrey, Mrs. Olive E. Holmes, Miss Martha L. Moore; Trustees, Richard Holmes, Daniel Farrar, F. A. Gould, Mrs. Lucy A. Mellen, Mrs. Harriet C. McInnis, Mrs. Mary B. Smith, Mrs. Ida P. A. Whitlock; Associate Trustees for the Moses Hunt Fund, Daniel Farrar, John W. Haynes.

The Spiritualistic Phenomena Association has leased the hall at 1031 Washington street of the Lyceum for next season, in which it will hold its Sunday meetings and Thursday evening circles. Mrs. W. S. Butler is to have the hall enlarged in width to the full size of the building, and make other changes, after which it will hold over three hundred people, and be one of the finest appointed halls of its size in the city.

Lyceum Hall, 1031 Washington street.—Meetings were held June 10th in this hall, afternoon and evening. Dr. Matthews gave psychometric readings; Dr. Smith, Mrs. Thomas, Mr. Tom Roscoe gave tests.

In the evening Jacob Edson made the opening address; Mr. Roscoe, Mrs. M. A. Chandler, Mrs. Rich and Mrs. Townsend gave tests. These meetings will continue through the summer months.

Spiritualist Meetings in New York.

Adelphi Hall, corner of 52d Street and 7th Avenue.—The First Society of Spiritualists holds meetings every Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7½ P. M. Admission free.

Columbia Hall, 878 6th Avenue, between 49th and 50th Streets.—The People's Spiritual Meeting (removed from Spencer Hall). Services every Sunday at 2½ and 7½ P. M. Mediums and speakers always present. Frank W. Jones, Conductor.

Meetings for Spiritual Manifestations will be held at Adelphi Hall, corner 7th Avenue and 52d street, New York, every Sunday at 2½ P. M. Tests given by Mrs. E. A. Wells of New York.

Arcanum Hall, 57 West 25th Street, N. E. corner 6th Avenue.—Meetings of the Progressive Spiritualists are held every Sunday at 3 and 8 P. M. Mediums and speakers welcome. Test Medium and Conductor, Prof. G. G. W. Van Horn.

Soul Communion Meetings every Tuesday at 3 P. M. sharp, at Mrs. Morrell's, 230 West 36th street.

Mrs. E. A. Wells as a Lecturer.

Mrs. E. A. Wells appeared at Adelphi Hall, yesterday afternoon, in the double capacity of lecturer and test-medium. Her subject was "Mediumship," and she handled it with the prescience of one of that ilk. No one but a medium could have explained as she did a thousand peculiarities of mediumistic gifts, nor described so rich a variety of spirit-phenomena. Her views were illustrated by a remarkable opulence of incident and anecdote, not in her own experience but in that of others about which she had permission to speak.

Her references to spirit paintings were excellent, very especially to those produced through the mediumship of Madam Diss Debar. Many things about these wonders of the world of art were quite new to her hearers, and they were greatly enjoyed. She also described and extolled the tablets produced for Mr. Marsh through the same medium, which are among the most remarkable examples of spirit power anywhere extant.

Substantially the same lecture was delivered in the Opera House at Long Branch last Wednesday night, and was highly spoken of by a critical audience and heartily applauded. Her New York audience was not less delighted, and they gave vigorous expression to sentiments of approval. The lady's services will be in large demand by Spiritualist Societies, for the union of the two offices, lecturer and test medium, is especially desirable. MANHATTAN.

New York, June 11th, 1888.

Cleveland (O.) Notes.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

After eight months of continuous Sunday services the Spiritualists' meetings are suspended during the heated term—July and August—and the Children's Lyceum will follow suit after one or two more sessions.

The Farewell Reception to Mrs. Hyzer, on the occasion of her last lecture, proved to be, as was expected, a very enjoyable evening. The best of instrumental music by Mrs. Van Wormer and Mr. O. Trommlitz, some extra choice selections from the Lyceum choir, strengthened by Mrs. Lizzie Emerson and Mrs. Hoyt. Commendatory remarks on the exalted character of Mrs. Hyzer's lectures, made by Miss E. Anne Hinman, the mental scientist, preceded the answering of questions taken from the audience by Mrs. Hyzer and answered in her usual thorough and brilliant manner. At the close of her short talk, a beautiful floral offering was sent to the platform by Mrs. Umbstaetter and a few West Side friends, and handed to Mrs. Hyzer as a token of their esteem and high appreciation of her ability as an exponent of the Spiritual Philosophy. It then devolved on your correspondent, in the absence of the regular chairman, Mr. Carleton, to bid the fair lecturer "good bye and God speed" in her noble mission, at the close of which a vote of thanks by Mr. J. H. Copeland, for the able ministrations of Mrs. H. for the past two months, was offered and responded to by a rising vote of the entire audience. To all of which, in the most elegant diction possible, Mrs. Hyzer feelingly responded, and capped the climax of inspiration with a telling little poem entitled "Farewell."

"The Spirits' Welcome."—Mrs. Elizabeth Newcomer, the well-known medium of this city, (wife of Dr. George Newcomer) who has lately furnished in a very neat and tasty manner a room in the upper story of her cosey home, recently invited a few friends to the dedication of the apartment, which is to be used exclusively for spiritual purposes. The above name (The Spirits' Welcome) was the one chosen from all others for the room. The geological doctor and his clairvoyant wife will be pleased to receive a call from their spiritualistic friends in or out of the city; they both have been great aids to the cause in Cleveland the past ten years.

Dr. George A. Ferris to the Front.—On the departure from the city of Dr. E. B. Fish, "The Magnetic Cure," on Woodland Avenue, has been closed by Dr. Ferris, and more elegant rooms obtained in "The Kendall Building," 106 Euclid Avenue, rooms 52 and 53. The Doctor is a young man of modest claims, possessing great natural magnetic power, which he utilizes to good advantage in his eclectic methods, and has made hosts of friends by his genial presence, and has built up a constantly growing practice by the cures he has made the past year in Cleveland. Those afflicted should give him a call.

Resolutions of Respect were adopted by The Good Samaritan Relief Society in honor of the highly esteemed member, Mrs. Susan Searles, who recently passed to spirit-life at the advanced age of 82 years. Mrs. Searles was greatly beloved by all who knew her, and a veritable Good Samaritan. (See obituary elsewhere.)

Lyceum Annual Picnic.—The Children's Lyceum will close its sessions for the summer Sunday, June 24th, with its twenty-second annual picnic. An invitation has been extended to the Lyceum by Mrs. Laura Moore, an earnest Spiritualist, to visit her beautiful grounds at Lake Breeze, a delightful spot on the bank of old Lake Erie, about twenty miles west of Cleveland on the Nickel Plate R.R.

Yours for the cause, THOS. LEES.

Grand Rapids, Mich.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

J. W. Kenyon spoke here June 3d, and is engaged for the months of June and July. "Why is there a Spirit and a Spirit-World?" was his theme in the morning; and "The Scientific and Philosophic Evidence of Man's Immortality," was treated in the evening.

During the past two years he has been engaged in Iowa. He was the settled speaker during a year at Maquoketa, Ia. He is ready to answer calls in any part of the United States or Canada. Societies desiring lectures on scientific and philosophic Spiritualism will find his controls able to give good satisfaction.

This city is very active in Spiritualism; many fine mediums are here, and are accomplishing good service for the truth. Dr. W. E. Reid, a fine independent slate-writer, is very popular; Dr. F. Schermerhorn has a great variety of spiritual gifts, and is doing a much needed work; Mr. F. V. Moulton and wife are kept busy—the former being an eloquent inspirational speaker; Dr. W. O. Knowles and Mrs. E. J. Winch are earnest advocates of the cause here—the former being a magnetic healer, the latter a clairvoyant and test medium. Mrs. Lena Bible shows great promise as a clairvoyant, test and inspirational medium. There are many others whom I have not met.

Several very finely developed mediums have gone forth from this city to do their work. Here W. A. Mansfield, the independent slate-writer, was developed, also J. G. Fisher, inspirational artist, now of New York.

Through the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Boozer the outside world has been permitted to investigate through the best mediums the country affords. Some of the clergy of this great and growing city are outspoken in their acknowledgment of the truth of the return of the spirit.

Woonsocket, R. I.—J. Frank Baxter answered a call and came to Woonsocket the evening preceding his departure for Cincinnati and the West. His coming was opportune. One of the finest and largest audiences was out that ever listened to a spiritual lecture here. Several of the first people of the place and church were in attendance—a noted U. S. ex-senator, of course, most conspicuous. The whole work of Mr. Baxter was in his best thought and spirit, and had a lecture been planned, written and applied to Woonsocket citizens, it could not have been better than the one given. The music was good, the lecture was good, and the mediumistic exercises were marvelously fine—barring one slight error that some chose to criticise—and unmistakably conveyed tests of spirit power to any untrammeled mind. Let Mr. Baxter be known here, have a hearing three or four times, and give him good conditions for his mediumship, and Spiritualism would soon have a large constituency in Woonsocket and vicinity.

Dr. Coen, acting on the principle that a stutterer does not stutter when he speaks in a low tone, advises the following course of treatment: Absolute silence for a preparatory period of eight or ten days; speaking only in a low tone for another period of the same number of days; and a gradual elevation of the voice during the next ten or fifteen days.—The Doctor.

DIVINES DISAGREE.

A Discussion Not Decided by Prayer—Intolerance of Opinion.

The following is an extract from a late New York Tribune editorial: "There is, perhaps, no mental vice so common as intolerance of opinion. Even such as think they have emancipated themselves from the clinging defect find it hard to acknowledge frankly to themselves that the opinion of some one else upon a matter they have studied may very well be as deserving of respect as their own, if it differs radically from their own. If we could all get rid of this 'last infirmity,' not only of 'noble minds,' but of nearly all human minds, how much less friction there would be in life, how much less bitterness and heart-burning and envy and all uncharitableness."

In an adjoining column of the same paper was found the following peculiar commentary on the editorial:

"The bitterness of the controversy in the American Board over the question of probation after death was very great. This rather shocked the simple-minded and earnest foreign missionaries who attended the sessions of the Board, one of whom said he had always thought such questions were decided by prayer. But if the debate was not altogether Christian in spirit, it was strictly parliamentary. The brethren did n't forget to put a copy of Cushing's Manual in their valise along with their Bible, and apparently some of them consulted it oftener than the Bible."

Is it a fact that there is but little toleration in this country, and less than in others?

"Comparisons are odorous," said Mrs. Malaprop. Perhaps we have been claiming too much for this free nation.

We must admit that in the professions there is yet much of the old-time prejudice against new ideas. Preachers preach the old doctrines and doctors prescribe the old medicines. Bitter controversies arise when anything new is proposed.

But the march of progress is not stayed. Men are traveling heavenward under new creeds and being cured by new medicines.

Much the same state of facts seems to exist in other countries.

When Dr. Robson, a leading physician of London, formerly of the Royal Navy, proclaimed that Warner's safe cure was a specific in kidney derangements, the hide-bound school to which he belonged threatened to debar him from practice, if he did not recant. But he replied that his statement was based on such evidence that he could not recant.

Since then, Dr. Wilson, F. R. S. E., editor of "Health," a recognized English authority, announces in his magazine that "Warner's safe cure is of a perfectly safe character and perfectly reliable." Many English physicians are now prescribing it.

The "schools" in this country still bar all proprietary medicines. But Dr. Gunn, Dean of a New York Medical College, long since published: "Warner's safe cure is a very valuable remedy;" and says he knows that many physicians prescribe it, though not by name.

Good things in creed or practice are not to be cried down by the old fogies simply because they are new. The spirit of toleration thrives on opposition.

Passed to Spirit-Life.

From Nantasket Beach, Boston Harbor, June 7th, Joseph T. Sprague, aged 65 years and 8 months.

Mr. Sprague was the well-known manager of the Centre House at Nantasket, but his home was at Hingham, where his remains were taken for burial.

An honest advocate for truth, the deceased was a man who loved to speak his convictions in Spiritualism, and to live his faith in his life, that all might see what manner of man a Spiritualist can be. By his sterling integrity and unswerving honesty of purpose, Mr. Sprague held the esteem and friendship of the people of his native town, all of whom feel deeply at this present time that a good man has passed on.

The subject of this notice was a musician of many years, a member of the Philharmonic Club, and of other societies, one whose harmonious nature not only expressed itself in the sweet sounds he evoked from his instrument, but also through the genial manner and cordial associations which endeared him to all who came within his sphere.

A loving companion walked by his side for many years, and until the last had the blessed privilege of ministering to the necessities of the one so dear. To her in this trying hour are borne the peaceful consolations of angels, and she knows that her husband is not dead but gone before.

On Saturday, June 9th, a large concourse of friends from Boston and other places assembled at the old home of Mr. Sprague in Hingham to pay their last tribute of respect to the departed. Miss M. T. Shelhamer of Boston officiated, whose spirit guides gave utterance to the soulful truths of Spiritualism as exemplified in the life and knowledge of this good man. A prayer and address by the speaker, with the beautiful rendition of "Abide with Me" and "Thy Will Be Done," by a trained quartette at the house, and an invocation over the remains at the cemetery, constituted the impressive service which consigned the body to its last repose.

From her home in Cleveland, Ohio, Sunday, May 13th, Mrs. Susan Searles, aged 82 years and 3 months.

Mrs. Searles was a native of England, but a resident of this country more than half her lifetime. She possessed the finest traits of English character. Formerly of the "Church of England," she naturally grew into Spiritualism many years ago, as did also her husband, Dr. Samuel Searles, who passed to spirit-life many years since from Newcastle, Pa.—soon after which the deceased made her home in Cleveland, where still live her two sisters, Mrs. Sarah Harris and Mrs. Jane Standen (the well-known medium of this city).

Until the past two or three years, when deepening age began to make known its claims upon her, she was a constant attendant at the children's lyceums, lectures, and all spiritualistic meetings, and was a generous contributor to the cause of Spiritualism.

Mrs. Searles was also an honored member of The Good Samaritan Relief Society, which passed at its last meeting highly complimentary resolutions in honor of her as a true and estimable woman, and a veritable Good Samaritan.

Her remains were taken to Newcastle for burial in the family lot, where the funeral services were held, the Rev. Dr. R. A. Browne officiating. THOS. LEES.

Our Foreign Exchanges.

Translated for the Banner of Light, by C. G. Helleberg, Cincinnati, O.

FIRE MEDIUM IN OLD TIME.

Extract from a lecture given before the Psychological Society in Munich, January 5th, 1888, by Dr. Carl du Prel. He related many wonders which had taken place in former times among the Mahometans in Algiers, and while the mediums were in a trance; also wonders that had happened even in France according to a work in two volumes entitled: "La Vérité des Miracles, opérés par l'intercession de M. de Paris, etc., Cologne, 1747," written by Carré de Montgéron, a member of Parliament. Carré de Montgéron says: Has not all Paris, on several occasions, seen Marie Sonnet lying in fire without the flames having the slightest effect either on her body or the robe she wore? Here reference is made to the following document:

"We, the undersigned, Francois Desvernays, Priest Doctor of Theology at Sorbonne, Pierre Jourdain, Licenciate at Sorbonne, Domherr von Prayeux, Lord Edward von Rumond of Perth, Louis Bazile Carré de Montgéron, Member of Parliament, Armant Arouet, Treasurer, Alexandre Robert Boindin, Equerry, Herr von Bolbessin, Pierre Pigeon Burgess of Paris, Louis Antoine Archambault and Amable Francois Pierre Archambault, his brother, both Equerries, hereby testify that we this day, from 8 to 10 P. M., saw Marie Sonnet in a trance, lying stiff between two iron chairs, her head on one and feet on the other, with a big fire burning under her body, which fire lasted thirty-six minutes, during which time she lay in the same posture without even having the clothes around her singed, although the flames met above and all around her. We further testify that while signing this document, the said Sonnet again placed herself over the fire, where she apparently slept for nine minutes over the heat, which was intense and continued during two and one-quarter hours, whereby fifteen billets of wood and a back log had been burned. May 12th, 1736." Signatures as above.—Psychische Studien, Leipzig, (of the Russian State Counselor Alexander Aksakow,) for May, 1888.

Says an imaginative statistician: "If Texas were a circular lake and France a circular island, the island could be anchored centrally in the lake out of sight of land, twenty-two miles from any point of the encircling shore."

MANLY PURITY AND BEAUTY

CUTICURA REMEDIES CURE SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES FROM PIMPLES TO SCROFULA.

NO PEN CAN DO JUSTICE TO THE ESTEEM IN WHICH the CUTICURA REMEDIES are held by the thousands upon thousands whose lives have been made happy by the cure of agonizing, humiliating, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, are a positive cure for every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Rheumatism, Kidney Pains and Weakness speedily cured by CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster. Ja28

FORTY YEARS

ON THE

SPIRITUAL ROSTRUM.

BY WARREN CHASE.

A SEQUEL TO "THE LIFE-LINE OF THE LONE ONE," AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF THE AUTHOR, AS

The World's Child,

WHO GAVE THE FIRST PUBLIC LECTURES IN THIS COUNTRY IN DEFENSE OF MODERN SPIRIT INTERCOURSE, AND WHOSE NAME IS FIRST ON THE LIST OF CALLS FOR COPIES OF "NATURE'S DIVINE REVELATIONS," WHEN IN PRESS IN 1847.

No one is better qualified to place on record reliable information regarding the early history of Modern Spiritualism and of its early advocates and defenders, than the author of this volume. There has been scarcely a worker for the cause he has not known; scarce a city or town in the Union he has not visited; and no place he has visited whose people have not enjoyed greater mental freedom and a better understanding of this life and assurance of a future one from his having been with them.

As a worker in every reformatory movement, Mr. Chase's career has been almost phenomenal in persistency, efficiency and self-sacrifice. He has been a pioneer—a pathfinder in the wilderness of moss-grown superstitions and hide-bound dogmas, making the way clear for the army of freedom-loving men and women that was to follow and destroy it. For this reason this autobiography of his should find place in the home of every friend of human progress and spiritual enlightenment, and be valued as a monument to his memory and his work.

CONTENTS.

CHAPTER I. Internal and External Forebodings of Social, Political and Religious Convulsions, Personal and General, resulting in a Social Effort by the Author.

II. Birth of Spiritualism—Failure of Fourierism—Political Career Opened, and Sketches on the Path of Life by the Crooked and Tangled Line—The First Spiritual Paper, The Univercœlum, and its Objects Explained.

III. Early Work—Boston Investigator—Univercœlum, Spirit Messenger, and Early Workers, etc.

IV. Catalogue of Names and Short Biographical Notices of Early Workers and Persecutions.

V. A Brief and Brilliant Political Career.

VI. Threading my Way along the "Hard Road to Travel On"—Incidents and Events in the Path of Life.

VII. What I have learned from Forty Years' Intercourse with Spirits—Sexual Life in the Spirit-World—My Social, Political and Religious Creed, etc.

VIII. Extracts and Scraps of Correspondence running through Many Years, with Various and Progressive Ideas on Spirit-Life and Intercourse; with Scraps from my Scrap-book worth keeping and largely variegated.

IX. Poetical Selections from Various Sources, Personal and General—Good and Poor, but not Bad, greatly mixed, in Published and Unpublished Scraps.

The volume is embellished with a portrait of the author.

12mo, cloth, pp. 324. Price $1,00; postage 10 cents

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

THE MASTEREON; or, Reason and Recompense. A Revelation concerning the Laws of Mind and Modern Mysterious Phenomena. By MARCENUS R. K. WRIGHT.

Cloth, $1,25, postage 5 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

A Call.

An earnest appeal is made to friends in behalf of Mrs. Dimond. Those willing to aid are cordially invited to meet at home of Dr. Rich, 566 Columbus Avenue, Friday evening, June 15th, to arrange a benefit for this sister medium. A widow, helpless and destitute, a pure soul struggling for its birthright, should receive our care.

EMMA J. NICKERSON.
ALBERT F. RING.
MAGGIE F. BUTLER.
J. W. FLETCHER.
KATE R. STILES.
DR. S. K. RICH.

CHICAGO, ILL.—A. L. Coverdale writes that at the lecture given by Mrs. E. L. Watson at McVicker's Theatre, under the auspices of the Young People's Progressive Society, on the evening of June 3d, nearly two thousand people were present. The Chicago Inter-Ocean and other papers gave good reports. The society has adjourned until September.

ALBANY, N. Y.—Mrs. H. S. Lake spoke in Albany last Sunday. She will remain in that city during this month, lecturing every Sunday morning and evening and on Friday evenings, and will fill engagements within reasonable distance on any other evening. [Mr. Chism's letter will appear next week.—ED.]

Vermont Convention.

The Quarterly Convention of the Vermont State Spiritualist Association will be held at Newport, Vt., June 29th and 30th, and July 1st, 1888.

For Speakers, we have engaged the following talent: Dr. H. B. Storer and Mr. Eben Cobb, of Boston; Hon. A. E. Stanley, Leicester, Vt.; Mrs. Fannie Davis Smith, Brandon; Mrs. Abbie W. Crossett, Waterbury; Mrs. Lizzie S. Manchester, West Randolph; Mrs. Emma L. Paul, Morrisville; Mrs. S. A. Wiley, Rockingham; Mrs. A. P. Brown, St. Johnsbury, and Mr. Lucius Colburn, Manchester, N. H.

For Test Medium, we are to have Mr. Joseph D. Stiles, of Weymouth, Mass. Those who have heard him will understand what that means.

Newport is in Orleans Co., near the Canada line, on beautiful Lake Memphremagog, a popular summer resort.

Dr. E. A. Smith has arranged for a Grand Excursion from all points on Central Vermont Railroad; fare for round trip either way from Rutland and return, $4.00; tickets good for June 27th and 28th, return July 2d and 3d. Dr. Smith leaves Brandon Wednesday afternoon, June 27th, on mail train, and stops over night at Essex Junction, and will sell the tickets to all who wish to go.

L. O. Weeks, the Secretary, will leave Rutland June 28th, at 6:45 A. M., by way of Bellows Falls, and will sell the same tickets for $4.00. Parties wishing to go by any other train than the two mentioned must send to Dr. E. A. Smith, Brandon, Vt., and secure the tickets in advance. Tickets are now ready.

Tickets will be sold for half fare over the Portland and Ogdensburg, and Passumpsic and Wells River roads, also from principal stations on the line of the Boston and Lowell and Concord roads.

Boarding at the Lake Memphremagog House at $1,00 per day.

This is to be one of the cheapest and most delightful excursions of the season. We hope thousands will avail themselves of it.

Good music has been engaged: Prof. Obie, Mrs. Florence Ely and other fine talent.

See small bills for full particulars.

L. O. WEEKS, Sec'y.

Proctorsville, Vt., June 5th, 1888.

Spiritualist Meeting in Ohio.

The Annual Meeting of the friends of Spiritualism will be held as usual in the Underhill Grove, two and a half miles north of Akron, O., on the last Sunday in June, 24th.

D. M. King, of Mantua, O., with other mediums and speak

BANNER OF LIGHT.

AN EXPONENT OF THE PHILOSOPHY OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY.

VOL. LXIII. | COLBY & RICH, Publishers and Proprietors. | BOSTON, SATURDAY, JUNE 23, 1888. | $3,00 Per Annum, Postage Free. | NO. 15.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

FIRST PAGE.—Original Essays: John Wesley, the Founder of Methodism; The Third and Fourth Dimensions of Space. Spiritual Phenomena: Independent Slate-Writing. Mediumship Sustained by the Courts.

SECOND PAGE.—Banner Correspondence: Letters from Pennsylvania, Illinois, New York, Minnesota, Massachusetts, Oregon, Connecticut, South Carolina, New Hampshire, and Vermont. "Extraordinary Apparition of a Priest." June Magazines. Spiritualist Lecturers.

THIRD PAGE.—Prof. Fechner and Spiritualism. Over Sixty Years Ago. Poetry: "Over There." Obituary Notices, etc.

FOURTH PAGE.—Lunatico de Inquirendo. Impressions and Their Source. The Decay of the Old Creed. A Witness Not to be Impeached. What is There to Choose? A Generous Act. The Diss Debar Case. Mrs. M. E. Williams. Materialization Séance in a Church, etc.

FIFTH PAGE.—All Sorts of Paragraphs. Movements of Mediums and Lecturers. New Advertisements, etc.

SIXTH PAGE.—Message Department: Questions Answered through the Mediumship of Miss M. T. Shelhamer; Spirit Messages given through the Mediumship of Mrs. B. F. Smith. Verifications of Spirit-Messages.

SEVENTH PAGE.—Poetry: Dover Beach. Planets in June. Spiritualist Meetings. Mediums in Boston. Book and Miscellaneous Advertisements.

EIGHTH PAGE.—Spiritualist Camp-Meetings. Spiritualist Meetings in Boston, New York and Elsewhere. Cincinnati, O. Frontier Frivolities, etc.

Original Essays.

John Wesley, the Founder of Methodism; Dr. Adam Clarke, the Great Methodist Commentator; and One of the Newly-Elected Bishops, the Rev. Dr. Newman, all Spiritualists.

BY J. M. PEEBLES, M. D.

So far as my observation extends, the preachers of no religious denomination have so persistently, and often so very uncharitably, assailed Spiritualism as the Methodists, (with few exceptions,) from the presiding elders down to the more common circuit-riding itinerants, who often make up in noisy quantity what they lack in richness of quality. Why is this? The majority of Methodist preachers seem utterly oblivious of the fact that John Wesley's preaching, practice and spiritual doctrines differed as much from the Methodists of to-day as the plain, simple life of the Nazarene, with its self-sacrifice, its spiritual gifts and fraternal graces, differed from the bitter, bigoted sectarianism that characterizes the sects and schisms of this fast fading century.

History, it is said, repeats itself. If Jesus, in his cheap peasant costume, Syrian-browned face and sandaled feet, were to tread our city streets some of these Sunday mornings of June, healing a poor blind man here, and there making the lame to walk, what evangelical church door would open wide, offering him the cosey comforts of a richly-cushioned seat?

But to the matter of Wesley's Spiritualism. My authorities for what follow upon the subject are "Wesley's Works," Dr. Adam Clarke's "Memoirs of the Wesley Family," "Southey's Life of Wesley," and the "Rev. S. Babcock's Early History of Rev. John Wesley and his Original Letters."

In the year 1716 the Rev. Samuel Wesley, father of John Wesley, was a rector in Epworth, County of Lincoln, Eng., and in the month of December, 1716, there began noises, knockings and disturbances in the parsonage, of which Samuel Wesley kept a detailed account. Other members of the family wrote quite extensively upon the subject at the time. John Wesley went to Epworth in 1720 especially to get all of the particulars from the different members of the family, and from the neighbors. Each member of the family gave him a statement in writing relating to what they had heard and seen, and a portion of these statements were published in the old Arminian Magazine.

The Rev. Dr. Adam Clarke in his "Memoirs" devotes over forty pages to the correspondence of these spiritual matters, and the spiritual manifestations in the Wesley family.

I will give a compend, or the gist of some of these remarkable spiritual marvels.

On the evening of Dec. 2d those present heard sounds and knockings at the dining-room doors, ... then louder knockings and groanings, and upon suddenly opening the door, there was nothing to be seen.

The next morning, between five and six o'clock, they distinctly heard the hall door open, and a person walking that seemed to have on a silk gown or robe, rustling and trailing along, ... but they could see nothing.

"A few evenings after this," says John Wesley, "when we were at family prayers, as usual, and when my father began to pray for the king, a knocking began all around the room, and there was a thundering knock at the word 'Amen!'"

A few months after this, Mr. Hoole, the Vicar of Haxey, was at the Wesleys' for a short time, when he, as well as the members of the family, heard the knockings for the first time in Mr. Wesley's library-room; and the next evening, when Mr. Wesley was going into his study, and upon partly opening the door, it was thrust back with such power that he was nearly thrown down!

Here follow the verbatim words of John Wesley:

"Before it (the spirit) came into any room, the latches were frequently lifted up, the windows clattered, and whatever iron or brass was about the chamber rung and jarred exceedingly."

"When it (the spirit) was in any room, let them make what noise they would, its dead, hollow note would be heard above them all."

"The sound very often seemed in the air in the middle of a room; nor could they make any such themselves by any contrivance.... Scarcely any one of our family could go from room to room but that the door-latch would be lifted up before they touched it.... It never came into my father's study till he talked to it sharply;... and after my mother so desired, it was not heard in the chamber during her devotions."

Some branches of the Wesley family, and a few of the neighbors, said "it must be the devil"; but

I. Why should the devil be in a preacher's house?

II. Why should the devil be in a preacher's library-room, abounding in Bibles, sermons and religious books?

III. Why should the devil almost thrust the pious and devout Mr. Wesley down?

IV. Why should the devil be rapping at family prayers, and give a thundering knock at the Amen?

Mrs. Mary Fletcher, one of the most noble women that ever graced the Methodist Church, in writing, at the time of these Wesley knockings, says:

"It appears to me no way contrary to reason or the Scriptures to believe that the happy departed spirits see and know all they would wish, and are divinely permitted to know. In this Mr. Wesley is of the same mind. And that they (our spirit-friends) are concerned for their dear fellow-pilgrims whom they have left behind, I can but believe."

Dr. Adam Clarke, the distinguished Methodist Commentator, in commenting upon Saul and Samuel (see his Commentaries, pp. 298-299), says:

"I believe Samuel did actually appear to Saul; and that he was sent by the especial mercy of God to warn this infatuated king of his approaching death, that he might have an opportunity to make his peace with his Maker."

"I believe there is a supernatural and spiritual world, in which HUMAN spirits, both good and bad, live in a state of consciousness."

"I believe that any of these spirits may, according to the order of God, in the laws of their place of residence, have intercourse with this world and become visible to mortals."

The bodies of John Wesley and Dr. Clarke lie side by side, and as I stood, a few years since, looking at their graves in the rear of City Road Chapel, in London, I could but think how perfectly their views harmonized in regard to the great fact of spirit-communion, then believed and now scientifically demonstrated.

In the several volumes of Wesley's works there may be found pages upon pages devoted to premonitions, verified dreams, clairvoyance, spiritual marvels and the personal experiences of John Wesley, who was himself a spiritual medium. See Vol. IV, pages 279-86, and others, from which we quote:

"A little before Michaelmas, 1763, my brother George, who was a good young man, went to sea. The day after Michaelmas-day, about midnight, I saw him standing by my bedside, surrounded by a glorious light, and looking earnestly at me. He was wet all over. That night the ship in which he sailed split upon a rock, and all the crew were drowned.

"On April 9, 1767, about midnight, I was lying awake, and I saw my brother John standing by my bedside. Just at that time he died in Jamaica.

"By his death I became entitled to a house in Sunderland, which was left us by my grandfather," etc., etc.

"I know that those who fashionably deny the existence of spirits are hugely disgusted at accounts of this kind. I know that they incessantly labor to spread this disgust among those that are of a better mind; because if one of these accounts be admitted, their whole system falls to the ground. But, whoever is pleased or displeased, I must testify what I believe to be the truth."

He further says that "they (skeptics and materialists) know that if but one account of the intercourse of men with separate spirits be admitted, their whole castle in the air (Deism, Atheism, Materialism) falls to the ground. I know no reason, therefore, why we should suffer even this weapon to be wrested out of our hands. Indeed, there are numerous arguments besides which abundantly confute their vain imaginations."

Again, Mr. Wesley remarks (Vol. II, page 470-1, quoting from Daniel Lott):

"And how much will it add to the happiness of those spirits, who are already discharged from the body, that they are permitted to minister to those whom they have left behind? An indisputable proof of this we have in the twenty-second chapter of the Revelation. When the apostle fell down to worship the glorious spirit which he seems to have mistaken for Christ, he told him plainly, 'I am of thy fellow servants, the prophets'; not God, not an angel, but a human spirit. And in how many ways may they 'minister to the heirs of salvation'? Sometimes by counteracting wicked spirits whom we cannot resist, because we cannot see them; sometimes by preventing our being hurt by men, or beasts, or inanimate creatures. And may not the Father of spirits allot this office jointly to angels, and human spirits waiting to be made perfect?"

Dr. John P. Newman, the eloquent Methodist preacher, Gen. Grant's pastor in Washington, and afterward in the Madison Avenue Congregational Church, New York, was at the late General Methodist Conference, held in the city of New York, elected a bishop—and yet this newly-elected bishop, the Rev. Dr. Newman, has been for years a firm Spiritualist.

Before me lies a printed sermon of Bishop Newman, delivered at the funeral of an aged lady at No. 561 Madison Avenue, New York. Permit the following extracts:

"This venerable woman has gone to the bosom of her God, not to sing songs, nor to be idle, nor indifferent as to the scenes of earth and time. These sons and grandchildren over whom she watched with tenderest love here, she will continue to love and guide hereafter. The belief is all but universal that the spirits of the departed have returned to earth. The best of the Greeks and Romans were strong in this opinion, and those eminent in the church for learning and piety have cherished this common faith.

"Two worlds met in Bible times. The communications were as real then between earth and heaven as between New York and London to-day. From Adam till John of Patmos there was frequent intercourse between those who had gone and those who were left behind."

"Angels dined with Abraham, were companions of Daniel in the lions' den; they conversed with Mary; they delivered Peter from prison; they visited Cornelius, the Roman Centurion. Celestial visions were given to Isaiah and the prophets, to Paul and the apostles, to Stephen and the martyrs, while Samuel and Moses and Elias were returned to earth. And why should we suppose that there is less interest in heaven for earth now than in the glorious past? We have the inspired record of the return of five persons to our earth, three of whom entered the spirit-world through the portals of the grave.'...

"And there was another who was born here and went to that spirit-land and returned to us and remained with us from June 44 A. D. till June 64 A. D., a period of twenty years; and six years after he made this declaration public. He said: 'I was caught up into the third heaven.' This is levitation as taught in 1 Kings, xviii: 12, Ezekiel iii: 14, in Acts viii: 39-40. He went not only to the place of departed spirits, but to Heaven, where he heard unspeakable words. ... Do you say if only one of our own race and time would go and return and witness to us it would be sufficient? Most lawyers are satisfied with one good witness. The law is that two witnesses are sufficient to confirm a fact; but here are eight—Samuel, Moses, Elias, Christ, and four apostles. These eight witnesses are as good as eight hundred.

But do the communications between the two worlds continue to this day? Let us not be deterred in answering this question, because a great Bible fact has been perverted for lust and lucre. Let us rise to the sublimity and purity of the great Bible truth, and on this day of sorrow console our hearts therewith. It was the opinion of Wesley that Swedenborg was visited by the spirits of his departed friends. Dr. Adam Clarke believed that the departed spirits returned to earth."

Bishop Newman refers to the cases of Hannah More, Carnaval, and "the eloquent Buckminister" as further proof that, under certain conditions, spirits return to earth and communicate with mortals.

And now with this undisputed fact that John Wesley, Dr. Adam Clarke, Bishop Newman and other shining lights in the Methodist Church have been and are avowed, clear-headed Spiritualists, believing in the certainty of spirit-communion, can there be anything more repulsive, even to disgust, than to hear Methodist preachers with just ordinary calibers pronounce Spiritualism "fraud," either "all fraud or the work of the devil."

I am not a bigot, I am not a sectarian, neither am I devoid of that "charity which thinketh no evil"; and yet I frankly confess that when reflecting upon the manner in which Methodist preachers generally treat Spiritualism in their pulpits, with the cognate subject psychology, I am filled with a calm, dignified contempt for their illiberal, unchristian conduct.

Hammonton, N. J.

THE THIRD AND FOURTH DIMENSIONS OF SPACE.

BY WARREN CHASE.

The translations of Zöllner's writings—which have partially introduced the German ideas concerning these two strata of conscious organic life, so widely different that we in this do not readily comprehend the nature of the other—have undoubtedly left us in America with a much less perfect idea of the fourth dimension than is expressed in the German language, as we are often told that it is extremely difficult to bring perfect and correctly-shaded expressions into the English from the German. I do not pretend to properly understand all his ideas about the fourth dimension, but taking what I can from him, and adding what I collect from other sources, it seems to reveal something of the nature of spirit-life that is not generally understood even by our friends who live there; or, rather, those who live in the fourth dimension fully realize their conscious existence and identity with very imperfect ideas of their personality or individuality.

Our bodies here are in the third dimension of space, and hence have length, breadth and thickness—which constitute the three dimensions—but our minds, which are as much organic and individual identities as our bodies, do not seem to have these dimensions; at least, no anatomist or physiologist has yet found them, if such exist. At death the mind goes out, but leaves the body in the third, and itself seems to go to the fourth. That each mind retains completely and intact its own identity, seems certain from the many messages by which we identify our friends: in the partial and imperfect forms through which they appear to us in materializations, and the equally imperfect forms in which they appear to our seers and clairvoyants, is clearly shown their imperfect control of forms in which their individuality is presented to us; while the mental identity is usually perfectly satisfactory through the imperfect forms which they seem to try to put up or on for the purpose of reaching us while we are confined to the third dimension.

To me there seems something like this "put up" individuality in our dreams, in which we always seem to have a form put up in the place where we dream ourselves to be at the time, and have no idea how we got there or how we got the dream-body there and left the other.

How much our spirit-life in the fourth dimension may resemble our dreams is not yet settled, but in both the mind seems to act with perfect identity, but with somewhat transient individuality and very imperfect locality. If the individuality is permanently attached to the mental identity there must be some mode of conveyance of the form from place to place—for places, too, must have locality and form. If forms are put up at will and temporarily, and localities are permanent, the identity of minds would only control the forms they put up, and these would appear and disappear at the will of the mental identity.

From the experiments of Zöllner and others it seems that spirits do have at least partial control of forms in our third dimension, as they pass one form which we call solid through another, as in the case of rings and ropes, etc. How far this may extend in our forms of matter is not yet known, nor do I know how far it pertains to the forms in spirit-life, beyond those of their own individuality. It seems to me they imperfectly control and locate and dissolve under some law of their sphere and condition of existence in which identity and individuality seem distinct.

Cobden, Ill.

Spiritual Phenomena.

Independent Slate-Writing.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

If you will kindly permit a non-Spiritualist, who, however, is an honest searcher for all spiritual truth, a few words, it will gratify a certain innate sense of justice and fair play which is deeply implanted in the writer's organism.

Through the invitation of a Spiritualist friend of ample wealth, the writer has had several opportunities, as also have other members of his household, to witness the most wonderful phenomena—spiritual, "supernatural," they may be, but something which even the most reluctant and prejudiced person must consider the work of a third intelligent force, outside of the so-called medium and the investigator.

The medium is Mr. C. E. Watkins, of 109 Falmouth street, Boston. One would be at once struck with the frank, open, honest countenance of this gentleman; but it will not do to trust to appearances and favorable impressions; an investigator is on the look-out, if not to discover fraud, at least not to be imposed upon by the conscious or unconscious acts or feats of the medium: So we bought our own slates at a store on School street, and held a firm grip on them all the while, lest we should have some occasion for doubting the genuineness of any test we might have. We then wrote, at the medium's suggestion, the names of eight friends in the spirit-world, upon eight different slips of paper, with some question upon each to be answered. Folding each of these tightly in the shape of a ball, we arranged them in rows upon a small table. Mr. Watkins (who had been during the operation absent from the apartment) then entered, and sat opposite, or stood near, as his restless nature dictated. In a flash he gave the full name on one of the pellets to which we pointed, and followed this rapidly with other names, and with verbal answers he purported to hear, which had direct bearing upon the questions written.

Soon he told us that one spirit would write to us; directing us to open our slates, he laid a small bit of slate-pencil between them, and holding one corner of the slate himself and in the diagonal corner, about half a foot above the table, we waited for what might follow. In a few seconds we heard a scratching, and then, opening the slates, we found, to our utter amazement, a note addressed to us, with our odd Christian name written in full, the names of persons in the body, to whom we referred, mentioned, and our question specifically answered—though not in full and in detail as we should hope from a friend on earth—and signed in full in our departed friend's own handwriting.

We have conjured up every conceivable philosophy to explain this phenomenon on some other than a supernatural basis, such as "clairvoyance," "mind-reading," and the scientifically acknowledged supremacy and power of mind over matter. We confess that neither of these covers the ground of all we witnessed, and we can only hope that honest, pure-minded mediums like Mr. Watkins, and honest, unbiased, or if biased, then honestly biased, investigators who will be open to conviction or at least ready to admit actual occurrences, will speedily develop some latent spiritual law by which the veil between embodied and excarnated spirits (since all there is of any of us in reality is spirit) may be lifted, and the "communion of saints" which the church teaches theoretically in her creed, but denies practically, even to persecution when fairly demonstrated, may be proven to be possible.

A few lines above we have remarked that we tried to account for all by "mind-reading." We asked one friend a question relating to a matter we have been curious to know about for years; something it was our right to know, but which might make trouble. The friend, after several sittings, when this question had been persisted in, finally agreed to tell us, if we would promise to make no trouble because of it. We gave the promise, and conclusive evidence is ours that the answer given, and about which we were wholly in the dark, was absolutely correct.

We understand that Mr. Watkins, who has no knowledge of Hebrew, Greek or German, sometimes gets writing in these languages.

Mr. Watkins is a cousin of the novelist, W. D. Howells. He enjoys the confidence and esteem of a number of well-known clergymen in Boston and New York who have had frequent sittings with him, and firmly believe in his genuineness—whatever they may think of the wonderful phenomena which puzzle us all.

And now for our main motive in writing this communication. We were told that a great daily paper, bitterly opposed to Spiritualism, sent a reporter recently to write up an exposé of Mr. Watkins, taking it for granted, as many of us have done, that all mediums are fraudulent.

Upon the reporter's entrance, Mr. Watkins said: "You are a newspaper reporter." He disclaimed all connection with any paper, but Mr. Watkins told him it would be impossible for him to be deceived in this instance, whereupon the reporter gracefully accepted the situation. That of course bears no evidence of "supernaturalism," simple mind-reading explaining it. This reporter received genuine evidence of Mr. Watkins's honest methods and of his great power, and said upon leaving: "I came to expose you as a humbug. I cannot do it. I must write the exact truth—the facts—leaving conclusions to others." The reporter did so, and his article having the merit of truth in it, was rejected by the newspaper he represented.

Has it come to this in the nineteenth, almost the dawning of the twentieth century, that a great newspaper feels constrained to withhold any facts or phenomena which are unexplainable and mysterious, but which may have a far greater bearing on the welfare of the human race than any of the subtle forces, e. g., electricity, which a century ago appeared to hold no service for man, but which to-day is an important factor in the world's civilization and progress?

Should not press and people assume an attitude of fearless investigation, and credit every fact as such, and then use reason, intuition, philosophy and research, to explain and understand the laws underlying the phenomena?

This is the writer's position. Mr. Watkins and others may feel that the writer should go further; but let there be more patience on the one hand by the believers in Spiritualism, and more honesty and courage on the other hand from those who investigate to admit facts and phenomena, however apparently unexplainable.

FAIR PLAY.

Mediumship Sustained by the Courts.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

At this time, when the disciples of the church and the law seem uniting to denounce and override the mediums through whose instrumentality alone is rendered possible that communication with excarnated spirit friends which millions in this country and the world hold dear, it behooves us to maintain our ground resolutely, and to point out clearly to the public attention the victories which have been won by our cause since its advent, in the way of popular concession and legal precedent.

In your issue of June 2d, I cited a case wherein it has been decided in the Massachusetts courts that Spiritualism is a religion, the rites of which are to be respected as much as those of any other system—the attendants on meetings devoted to its interests being fully recognized as under the same protection as if convened under the rigid forms of the Orthodox conventicle. I now desire to bring to mind, once more, a decision rendered in the Plymouth County (Mass.) Court, in the year 1871 or '72, looking to a legal recognition of the spiritual methods as presented through its developed mediums:

A man unfolded as an unconscious medium without his special consent or desire, was controlled by what purported to be the spirit of a prominent physician. The medium was himself uneducated, and personally knew but little or nothing of the human organism or of medicine, but while in this unconscious condition an intelligence would examine the sick, and prescribe simple and efficacious remedies that had a recognized beneficial effect upon those who called upon him for aid and assistance in regaining health. He succeeded to the extent that he had a larger practice than the educated physicians of the county, and this caused dissatisfaction among the regular doctors; as they saw that the sick people and their friends in that locality were fast learning to prefer a successful practitioner to any other kind, no matter how learned the unsuccessful one might be.

Matters finally reached a crisis: A case involving the practice of some form of surgery was brought before this clairvoyant physician; it baffled the skill of the spirit-doctor, as exerted through the medium, and the patient brought a suit-at-law to obtain damage for malpractice. The case was tried before one of the judges of the court, with the following result—i. e., a decision that "no damage could be sustained in the case." The judge in his remarks, it is alleged, made something like the following statement in favor of the medium:

The man did not claim to be an educated physician, but did claim to be controlled by an intelligent power (or others did for him), and those employing him knew these facts when they employed him; under these circumstances and conditions, if the intelligence by and through him operating was successful or otherwise, it had nothing whatsoever to do with him individually; if the man complied with the conditions requisite for the intelligence to control him, he, as a man, had done all that was in his power to do, and if the intelligence that the patient employed did not succeed in making a cure, or made a mistake, the fault, if any, was with the spirit controlling and the man who employed that spirit, knowing at the time that the man himself [the human instrument] was ignorant of medicine or surgery.

Of course this is but a brief of the Judge's remarks, but the points made by him are therein indicated. The incident clearly establishes a precedent in Massachusetts, and shows that the courts in this case recognized practical facts regarding spirit control. There are thousands of reputable citizens in this State who employ individuals who are favored with spiritual gifts such as cannot be obtained at medical colleges or any institution of learning; no one has the power to grant a diploma for the exercise of these natural powers; and certainly no man or set of men should be given the power, in this age of intelligence, to withhold one, or even to deprive the people of the right of employing such individuals as they personally desire in case of the sickness either of themselves or families.

The legal decision in this case should have the hearty approval of every thinking man, not only in Massachusetts, but in the world.

A. S. HAYWARD, Magnetic Physician.

Boston, Mass., June 1st, 1888.

After thirteen years the Lick Observatory at Mount Hamilton, California, is completed, and has been formally transferred by the Lick trustees to the State University. The original endowment was $700,000, which with interest brings the sum expended up to nearly $1,000,000. The observatory and instruments are valued at $750,000. It is estimated that it will cost $30,000 a year to carry on the observatory. It is doubtful if the institution can furnish this amount, and an attempt will be made at the next Legislature to get the State to set aside a fund for the maintenance of the observatory.

Banner Correspondence.

Pennsylvania.

ROUSEVILLE.—N. Ross writes: "In the winter of 1868-69 a creek upon the borders of which we resided was frozen so solid that teams crossed on the ice and children went over it to and fro from school. The 9th of January was Saturday; there was no school and the children were at leisure. There were signs of a thaw; the weather was warm, and the boys were standing around and talking about an old signboard on the ice, a short distance from the shore. One of them said if they could get it they could sell it. It was proposed to get it with a spike-pole, but our Charlie, about ten years of age, said he would go and get it. He started to do so, but the ice gave way and let him in; he rose to the surface and caught hold of the ice, but it broke and he went down; he was carried by the current under the ice and we never saw him again. We searched a whole week and dragged the creek, without finding his body. The ice, I think, went out of the creek the night after Charlie was drowned.

I felt very sorrowful, and kept saying to myself: 'Why can't we see him?' for it seemed as though he was present all the time. Shortly after Mr. Abram Bower, a clairvoyant and healer, came from Corry, Pa., to treat me; he stayed all night, and that night my husband said he awoke and Charlie was standing in front of the bed, looking bright and happy, and spoke, then disappeared. Nellie, my little girl, twelve years old, dreamed she saw Charlie, and of saying to him, 'Oh! Charlie, where have you been? I thought you was drowned,' and that he replied to her. Another time she dreamed he came and told her to keep his sled to remember him by; she asked him if it hurt him when he was drowned, and he said no.

The spring after he was drowned Nellie dreamed she tried to drown herself—that she jumped in the creek, but people came and got her out, carried her to Mrs. Hale's, the nearest house, and placed her on a bed, but that she got away, jumped in again, and accomplished her purpose. She stated that when her spirit left the body she saw Charlie and he said to her, 'Nellie, I came for you, but when I died Viletta (his sister who passed on when a babe) came for me.' She saw others of her relatives and friends, and they with Charlie accompanied her to a beautiful city, passing many worlds of various grades of development on their way thither. There she met and conversed with her sister, her grandmother and others. She further dreamed that Charlie and herself came back to earth; that he said, 'Let us go and plague Dora.' Dora was his sister, to whom he had frequently said, when in this life, that if he died first he would come back and haunt her. Charlie now led Nellie to where Dora was sleeping, and pulled all the bedclothes from her. She screamed, and Nellie awoke. I was calling her for breakfast.

Long before the advent of Modern Spiritualism my father had a vision in which it was shown to him that all mankind would finally be saved and be happy. He had formerly been a Methodist, but was a Universalist ever after."

PITTSBURGH.—A correspondent writes: "On Sunday, June 10th, something over one hundred and sixty dollars was raised at the morning and evening meetings in response to a call for help to place the Spiritual Society of Pittsburgh on such a financial basis as would warrant the continuance of meetings another year. The morning collection was the largest ever taken up by the society.

The rostrum was beautifully decorated with the loveliest treasures of greenhouse, garden, field and wood, provided by members and others, and arranged with exquisite taste by the speaker, Mrs. Helen Stuart-Richings.

The services of the day were more than usually interesting. In the evening Mrs. C. L. Stevens, at the invitation of Mrs. Richings, occupied a seat upon the platform and gave a short and pungent address on 'The Power of Spirit.'

After the lecture the President, J. H. McElroy, read a paper prepared by Secretary Lohmeyer, expressive of the society's gratitude toward Mrs. Richings for her generous assistance, and its appreciation of her as a lady, a speaker and a medium.

To this Mrs. R. responded in a few words that evidently came from a warm heart deeply touched. Names, given by skeptics present, were then psychometrized by the lady with wonderful correctness of detail, calling forth hearty applause from the large audience.

A duet, sung by Mrs. S. A. Gray and Mrs. Richings, 'God be with you till we meet again,' closed one of the largest, most harmonious and successful meetings of the first year of the Pittsburgh Spiritual Society.

As Helen Stuart-Richings was the first speaker for this society, it was most fitting and appropriate that she should close the season."

John H. McElroy, President, and J. H. Lohmeyer, Secretary of the Pittsburgh Society of Spiritualists, also jointly forward an appreciative document, setting forth the generous action of Mrs. Richings while in that place, from which the following extracts are made:

"Mrs. Richings has done a grand work in her efforts to give to her hearers—and these number hundreds—a true insight into the teachings of the Spiritual Philosophy, and she surely has succeeded. The invocations that flow so freely from her lips, given by her guides, are grand and soul-inspiring; her ready answers to all questions handed to her by the audience, are such as to satisfy nearly all inquiring minds, and her psychometric readings are second to none.

As a society we unanimously thank Mrs. Richings for her kind and sisterly feeling toward us in giving her time and labor gratuitously; we will hold her ever in grateful remembrance, and cordially recommend her to all societies making engagements with lecturers for the season of 1888-89, as one who will give full satisfaction in every case."

Illinois.

CHICAGO.—"Celia" writes: "On the 22d day of last May was celebrated in this city the first anniversary of The Young People's Progressive Society. The results of its one year's hard labor were plainly manifest Sunday, June 3d, at McVicker's Theatre. Never perhaps within twenty years has such an audience assembled at a Spiritualist meeting in this city as then, when nearly two thousand people, representing the highest classes of society, did so to listen to Mrs. E. L. Watson, of San Francisco, on the subject 'Psychics and Religion.' When Mr. J. J. Morse dedicated the Society, one year previous, to the cause of Spiritualism, he little expected it to accomplish what it has; but with the kind encouragement and help of many worthy friends it has attained great success.

During the year the following speakers and mediums have appeared on its platform: Mr. J. J. Morse, Mrs. Mary Ahrens, Mrs. Ada M. Foye, Mrs. E. Coverdale, Hon. Giles B. Stebbins, Hon. Joel Tiffany, Mr. John Slater, Mr. Barnes, Mrs. B. F. Hamilton, Mrs. Dr. Elliott, Prof. Wilson, Mrs. E. L. Watson, and others, who have proved themselves worthy of the greatest praise. Miss Lulu Langel and Miss Ida Woodbury, whose sweet vocal selections have given such harmony to the meetings, have also to share the most sincere thanks from all. There is no surplus in our treasury, says the President, for we do not need it. Our money must accomplish the greatest good to the greatest number, and though we have taken some grave risks we have lost very little financially, and the good that has been attained is sufficient to compensate us for our trouble. The Society has won the esteem of the press, as well as the respect due it from other sources. It is apparently destined to be a permanent organization, and will no doubt accomplish all its originators designed it should. Beginning next September, it will introduce some prominent speakers during the year."

VILLA RIDGE.—A correspondent writes: "After listening to two addresses from the veteran lecturer Warren Chase, the Spiritualists of this vicinity organized an association styled the Southern Illinois Spiritualists' Association, with J. H. Conant, of Villa Ridge, as President, W. H. Leidigh, Recording Secretary, and John Linegar, of Mound City, Corresponding Secretary, with others, making twenty-one members. We hope to place ourselves in communication with other speakers and mediums who may be passing this way, that they may stop over and help us on in the good work. It is very seldom we have the pleasure of meeting a lecturer or public medium in this locality. Parties desiring particulars can address W. H. Leidigh, Secretary, America, Pulaski County, Ill."

New York.

ALBANY.—J. D. Ulsam, Jr., Recording Secretary of the First Spiritual Society, writes: "We are meeting with very good success in our endeavor to present Spiritualism to the citizens of Albany in its true and proper light. We find hard work and slight encouragement in this undertaking; even those who have been confirmed in a belief in spirit-return many years hold themselves aloof, and do not assist either with their well-filled purses or by their presence at our meetings, but thanks to the indomitable will and energy of a few believers, we have well attended meetings, and are enabled by close financiering to keep our platform occupied the greater part of the time, with speakers who endeavor to build up the glorious truth without pulling down and wrangling over the nearly obsolete dogmas of the churches, that will come down of themselves if we keep busy in disseminating the true principles whenever and wherever we find opportunity.

Several of the bright lights in the churches here evince a strong leaning toward a revision of the old church beliefs. Dr. Ecol, of the Second Presbyterian Church of Albany, preached a sermon Sunday, June 3d, emphasizing very strongly a belief that many of the dogmas of the Presbyterian Church are at variance with truth, and that the time has come for a revision, especially in regard to infants' and the heathen's chances of reaching heaven, also the dogma of election.

Several other ministers have preached equally as radical sermons, which are the means of setting people to thinking as to what they do believe. And it is a remarkable fact that, notwithstanding the continued spiritual meetings, circles, séances, public and private, that have taken place for over two years, and that one of our Sunday secular papers has had from one to four or five columns about Spiritualism every Sunday for about one year, not a single sermon has been preached against Spiritualism in this city in over eighteen months. This is remarkable, and shows that the clergymen have no desire to attempt to stem the tide that is destined to overwhelm and purify all religions of their errors and inconsistencies.

Mrs. Carrie E. S. Twing has filled the third engagement with our society, being here the last three weeks of May. She has made many converts, and led many others to investigate. Her control, 'Ikabod,' is unique, but underlying all his sportiveness runs a vein of truth and good morals for those who have brains sufficient to understand.

Mrs. Twing will return in September, and possibly remain during part of October. In view of her services thus far, the following preamble and resolution were unanimously adopted by the society.

Whereas, Meritorious labor to uncover and teach the great truths of the new dispensation, known as Spiritualism, is entitled to a public expression of appreciation; therefore,

Resolved, That in the person of Mrs. Twing the cause has an earnest, indefatigable and pleasing advocate, and a true medium, through whose efforts much good has been accomplished in this city, and we look forward to her return in September with a great deal of pleasure.

Mrs. H. S. Lake delivered two of the most powerful and convincing lectures Sunday, June 3, that have been heard in this city. The subject in the evening was 'The Future of this Republic,' the treatment of which was greeted with one round of applause after another (something unknown before in our audiences), and the large audience were taken by storm by this eloquent little lady. She will remain with us during this month, and lecture every Sunday morning and evening, also Friday evenings, and stands ready to fill engagements during week-evenings within reasonable distance of Albany.

I close with many congratulations and well wishes for our main standard, the BANNER OF LIGHT."

NEW YORK CITY.—"S." writes: "Mrs. Nellie J. T. Brigham spoke fifty-five minutes in the morning of Sunday, June 10th, upon seven different subjects selected by the audience. The most important were: 'In what does True Religion Consist?' and 'How may we find Perfect Truth?' The subjects were treated very logically, and in that pleasing and instructive manner for which Mrs. Brigham has become so famed. In the evening Mrs. Brigham discussed a passage selected by the influences speaking through her, 'Give us this Day our Daily Bread.' The audience was large on both occasions, and fully appreciated all that Mrs. Brigham had to say, holding her utterances with the same reverence that such angelic opinions as Mrs. Brigham expresses are justly entitled to."

Minnesota.

BRAINERD.—Morris S. Liden writes, May 28th: "Two things occurred to-day that are significant: I am a machinist by trade, and work at it every day, but 'preach' every time I can have a listener. At noon two of my shopmates began to defend the Orthodox religion. To make their declarations, as they thought, more effective, they were pleased to use profanity. This was too much for my guides. I was controlled; and those men had to retire discomfited, amid the laughter of the shopmen gathered around.

I was holding a block of wood against some work in hand, my companion striking the block with a medium-sized sledge, to drive a collar on a shaft, when he missed the block and struck me on the groin, knocking me down. The men rushed up to me, expecting to see me badly hurt, but I met them with a laugh; and beside a slight limp and the least bit of soreness, was unharmed. My seeming escape was to them miraculous; to me it was evident I was put under control before I touched the floor, and guarded against any evil effects of the blow."

Massachusetts.

FITCHBURG.—Mrs. E. S. Loring, Secretary, writes: "May 27th Mr. J. D. Stiles closed the season's course of Sunday meetings for the First Spiritualist Society of Fitchburg, Mass., by two very able lectures and poems. His guides also gave at the two sessions ninety-eight tests, most of which were recognized as correct. On the 31st of May, Prof. Peck kindly gave his services for an entertainment for the benefit of our Society. Our meetings are now suspended until the second Sabbath in September, when we shall resume them, holding two services each Sabbath, instead of alternate Sabbaths, as heretofore. We also intend having occasional entertainments, circles, etc. We have engaged some of the ablest speakers and test mediums, and hope to have every Sabbath arrangement completed before renewing our meetings.

All speakers will confer a favor by stating their terms when communicating with the Secretary, whose address will be during the summer months, Onset, Mass., Box 113."

Oregon.

EAST PORTLAND.—M. F. Moore writes: "We are still advocating the truth of Spiritualism at this place. We have with us three public mediums who are accomplishing good work—one a physical medium, and two, Mrs. Brown from New York, and Mrs. Ladd from San Francisco, developed for platform tests. Our little society in East Portland is progressing. The day I first called the meeting to organize it, I think but thirteen people responded; but last Sunday we had seventy-six.

At West Portland in Grand Army Hall they have from one hundred and fifty to three hundred attendants on Sunday evening. The cause yet lives and flourishes here—ministerial opponents to the contrary notwithstanding."

Connecticut.

NEW LONDON.—"Auditor" writes, June 4th: "Pierpont Hall was yesterday filled with a deeply interested assemblage of our people, both afternoon and evening, the attraction being Frank T. Ripley, the celebrated trance and test medium, who gave them thoughts, information and suggestions respecting the life that follows this of which they had dreamed but little, if at all. The Telegraph of the next morning had the commendable liberality to report the proceedings, in the course of which it said: 'In the evening he spoke upon the "Inhabitants of the Spirit-World," and in the course of his address he taught the audience more about things as they are in the great and mysterious hereafter than those present could possibly have learned from any other source. His manner of putting his knowledge into words made one wish that all the unbelievers in the city were present, so that they could hear and be convinced. If people know just exactly what to expect on the other side of the grave when they shuffle off this mortal coil, they would go through this world with easier consciences than they do now.'"

South Carolina.

SUMTER.—A correspondent noting the article concerning the materializing mediumship of Mrs. Smith, which appeared some time since in THE BANNER, from the pen of Franz Melchers, publisher of the Deutsche Zeitung, in Charleston, adds: "The Watchman and Southron, of this place, had the following to say at the time regarding the medium and her fearless chronicler:

'In the BANNER OF LIGHT, a paper published in Boston, and entitled "An Exponent of the Spiritual Philosophy of the Nineteenth Century," we find the subjoined letter, written to the editor of that paper, from Charleston, S. C., and signed Franz Melchers, which will no doubt be of interest to our readers from the fact that the "materializing medium" referred to is a native of Sumter, and will be better remembered by our citizens as Miss Sue Harrington, daughter of Mr. J. L. Harrington. She is now the wife of Mr. E. D. Smith, to whom she was married in Texas some years ago, while her parents resided in that State. On the return of the family to Sumter, she and her husband came with them, and they have resided here until recently. We had not heard of Mrs. Smith's power as a spiritual medium until now; but understand that she has had some private séances here before going to Charleston.'

The editor then presents the article entire, under the disclaimer, that while he knows nothing of the spiritual theory, he gives it as an item of local interest."

New Hampshire.

CONCORD.—A correspondent informs us that "the body of James Bailey, who was drowned at Franklin recently, was recovered on Sunday, June 3d. The water was drawn off and the body discovered a short distance below the point where it was thought he had fallen into the river. The search was made under the direction of Mrs. Craddock, clairvoyant, of this city, and verified information previously given by her. The Daily Monitor, of the 4th inst., made mention of the affair and gave due credit to the medium."

Vermont.

BARNET.—E. B. Clement writes that in view of Dr. Talmage's well-known fondness for scriptural texts, when treating of Spiritualism, it is well as an offset that the attention of this belligerent divine be called to the self-evident applicability to his own case of the following pungent quotation from the wisdom of Solomon—to wit: "He that answereth a matter before he heareth it, it is folly and shame unto him."—Prov. xviii: 13.

"Extraordinary Apparition of a Priest."

[Under the above heading Donahoe's Magazine (Catholic) publishes a singular narrative, of which the appended is a condensation.—ED. B. OF L.]

It was at the dinner table of one of the highest dignitaries of the Church—a man whose name, were I at liberty to mention it, would command recognition and respect wherever the English language is spoken—that I heard the stories which I am about to relate. I am aware that to give the name of the narrator would add greatly to the value of the account with many minds, and indeed I have no reason to suppose that there would be any objection to my mentioning it; but I did not ask permission to do so... and therefore refrain....

The second story which the bishop related to us was of a different character, and its events took place at a much later period of his life. It appears that on the day in question he had accepted an invitation to dinner at a certain house in one of the midland counties. Happening to arrive somewhat earlier than usual, he found, on being shown into the drawing-room, that the hostess was not yet down, the only occupant of the room being a Roman Catholic priest—a complete stranger to him—who was seated upon a sofa intently reading a large book. As the bishop entered the priest raised his eyes, made him a courteous but silent bow, and again resumed his reading. He was a strongly-built, active-looking man, apparently rather a muscular Christian; but there was in his face an expression of weariness and anxiety that attracted the bishop's attention, and he wondered within himself who he could be, and how he came to be invited to that house.... When seated next to his hostess at the dinner table he remarked:

"By the way, you did not introduce me to that interesting-looking priest whom I found in the drawing-room. Who is he?"...

A very strange look passed over the hostess's face as she said hurriedly, almost in a whisper: "What, did you actually see him, then?"

"Certainly I did," replied the bishop; "but I beg your pardon. I fear I have unintentionally mentioned a subject which is unpleasant to you. I had no idea but that the priest was a simple guest like myself, and his appearance interested me so much that I wished to ask for an introduction."...

"My lord," answered the hostess, still in a low tone, "you misunderstand me entirely; there is nothing that I wish to conceal. I was surprised to hear that the priest had shown himself to you, because until now this has never happened except to a member of our own family. What you saw was no visitor, but an apparition."

"An apparition?" ejaculated the bishop.

"Yes," continued the hostess; "and one whose supernatural character it is impossible to doubt; for during the two years we have lived in this house it has shown itself perhaps a dozen times to my husband and myself, under circumstances in which either self-deception or imposition were quite out of the question. Since we cannot explain it, and are well assured that it is due to no natural causes, we have decided not to speak of it to any one. But since you have seen it, my lord, will you do me a favor?"

"Most certainly, if it be within my power," replied he.

"I have often thought," she resumed, "that if any one could be found who had the courage to address it, we might perhaps be relieved from its presence. Can you, will you, make some trivial excuse for going back to the drawing-room for a few minutes, see if the priest be still there, and, if he be, speak to him—adjure him to depart from this house—exorcise him, in fact?"

After some hesitation the bishop agreed to make the proposed experiment. His whispered conversation with the hostess having been apparently unobserved, he excused himself to her in a louder tone, for a few moments' absence, and left the room, waving back the servant who would have attended him. It was with a strange thrill of awe that, on entering the drawing-room, he perceived the figure of the priest still seated in the same spot—still diligently perusing his great breviary, if such it was; but with unshaken resolution he walked slowly forward and stood directly in front of the apparition. As before, the priest greeted him with a courteous inclination of the head, but this time, instead of immediately returning to the book, his eyes rested with a look of infinite weariness, and yet with a kind of suppressed eagerness, also, upon the bishop's face. After a moment's pause the bishop said, slowly and solemnly, "In the name of God, who are you and what do you want?"

The apparition closed its book, rose from its seat, stood confronting the bishop, and, after a slight hesitation, spoke in a low but measured voice:

"I have never been so adjured before; I will tell you who I am and what I want.... As you see, I am a priest of the Catholic Church, and eighty years ago this house in which we now stand was mine. I was a good rider, and was extremely fond of hunting when opportunity offered, and one day I was just about to start for the neighboring meet when a young lady of very high family called upon me for the purpose of making a confession. What she said of course I may not repeat; but it appeared to me of such supreme importance that (there being certain complications in the case) I committed the grave indiscretion—the sin even, for it is strictly forbidden by our church—of making notes of the confession as I heard it.... For purposes which I need not now detail, I had had a few bricks loosened in the wall of one of the lower passages of this house and a small recess made—just the place, I thought, in which my notes would be perfectly safe from any conceivable accident until my return, when I intended to master the intricacies of the case at my leisure, and then at once destroy the damgerous paper. Meantime I hurriedly shut it between the leaves of the book I had held in my hand, ran down stairs, thrust the book into the recess, replaced the bricks, sprang upon my horse and rode off at full speed.... That day, in the hunting-field, I was thrown from my horse and killed on the spot; and ever since it has been my dreary fate to haunt this earthly home of mine and try to avert the consequences of my sin—try to guard from any possibility of discovery the fatal notes which I so rashly and wrongly made. Never until now has any human being dared to speak to me boldly as you have done; never until now has there seemed aught of help for me or hope of deliverance from this weary task; but now—will you save me? If I show you where my book is hidden will you swear by all that you hold most sacred to destroy the paper that it contains without reading it—without letting any human eye see even one word of its contents? Will you pledge your word to do this?"

"I pledge my word to obey your wish to the letter," said the bishop with solemnity...;

"Then," said the phantom, "follow me."

With a strange sense of unreality the bishop found himself following the apparition down the broad staircase to the ground floor, and then down a narrower one of stone that seemed to lead down to some cellars or vaults. Suddenly the priest stopped and turned toward him.

"This is the place," he said, placing his hand on the wall; "remove this plaster, loosen the bricks, and you will find behind them the recess of which I spoke. Mark the spot well, and—remember your promise."

Following the pointing hand and apparent wish of the spectre, the bishop closely examined the wall at the spot indicated, and then turned to the priest to ask another question; but to his intense astonishment there was no one there—he was absolutely alone in the dimly-lighted passage! Perhaps he ought to have been prepared for this sudden disappearance, but it startled him more than he cared to admit, even to himself. He hurried up the stairs, and presented himself, still breathless with surprise, in the dining-room.

His prolonged absence had caused some comment, and now his agitated appearance excited general attention. Unable for the moment to speak coherently, his only answer to the earnest questions of his host was a sign which referred him to the hostess for explanation. With some hesitation she confessed the errand upon which her request had dispatched the bishop, and, as may easily be imagined, the intensest interest and excitement were at once created. As soon as the bishop had recovered his voice, he found himself compelled to relate the story before the entire party, concealment being now out of the question. Celebrated as was his eloquence, it is probable that no speech he ever made was followed with closer attention than this.... After a very short delay a mason was secured to break down the wall, and the whole company trooped eagerly, under the bishop's guidance, to watch the result of his labors. The bishop could hardly repress a shudder as he found himself once more in the passage where his ghostly companion had vanished so unceremoniously, but he indicated the exact spot which had been pointed out to him, and the mason began to work upon it forthwith.

"The plaster seems very hard and firm," remarked some one.

"Yes," replied the host, "it is of excellent quality and comparatively new; these vaults had long been disused, I am told, until my predecessor had the old brickwork repaired and plastered over only a few years ago."

By this time the mason had succeeded in breaking away the plaster and loosening a brick or two at the point indicated, and though perhaps no one was actually surprised, yet there was a very perceptible stir of excitement among the guests when he announced the existence of a cupboard or cavity, about two feet square and eighteen inches deep, in the thickness of the wall.....

Pale, but collected, the bishop stepped up to the cavity, and after one glance put in his hand and drew forth a heavily bound, old-fashioned book, thickly covered with dust or mould. A thrill ran through the assembled guests at the sight, but no words broke the silence of awe-stricken expectation while he reverently opened the volume, and, after turning over a few leaves, drew from between the pages a piece of writing paper, yellow with age, on which were some irregular, hastily written lines. As soon as the bishop was certain that he had found what he sought, he averted his eyes from it, and the others falling back to make way for him, bore it carefully up the stairs and into the nearest room, and cast it reverently into the fire burning on the hearth, almost as though he were placing a sacred offering upon some Gowastrian altar. Until the last scrap of the mysteriously found document was reduced to tinder no one spoke; and even then, though a few disjointed exclamations as "Marvelous! wonderful, indeed! who could have believed it!" broke forth, the majority were far too deeply impressed for words. The bishop felt that none who were present on that occasion could ever forget its lessons—he himself least of all, and, indeed, he could never tell the story, even after years had passed, without the profoundest emotion. The figure of the priest, he added, was never seen again in the house where he had so long guarded his secret.

June Magazines.

THE CENTURY.—The second of the intensely interesting series of papers by George Kennan, "Plains and Prisons of Western Siberia," is given, the special topic being the Forwarding Prison at Tiumen, which, built to hold five hundred prisoners, contained on the day of Mr. K.'s visit, according to the official bulletin, one thousand seven hundred and forty-one. The conditions were worse than could be thought possible within the limits of a Christian nation. The immense size of Siberian territory is illustrated by the fact that the whole of the United States, Alaska, and all of Europe except Russia might be placed in Siberia, and still there would be three hundred thousand square miles unoccupied. The installment of "Lincoln History" in this number has to do with the Bull Run disaster and the condition in which Lincoln was placed by conflicting reports and the discouraging letters of professed friends, one of them being from Horace Greeley. Under the title, "A Printer's Paradise," is described the Plantin-Moretus Museum at Antwerp, with twenty-two illustrations copied from old paintings and prints. The "Bird Music" this month describes that of the oriole and thrush. Henry James finishes "The Liar," and in new chapters of "The Graysons. A Story of Illinois," Abraham Lincoln is made prominent as an attorney. The poetry of this number is more than usually meritorious; there is a sonnet by Col. Higginson, several "Kansas Bird Songs" by Amanda T. Jones, and a strong, peculiarly phrased poem, "How the Mohawks Set Out for Medoctec," by C. G. D. Roberts. The departments of "Topics," "Letters," and "Bric-à-Brac" are well filled. New York: The Century Co.; Boston: Damrell & Upham, 283 Washington street.

THE INDEPENDENT PULPIT.—"The Decomposition of Protestantism" is the subject of the leading article, based on what must be apparent to all as a fact that we are now "in the midst of a revolution, which, from the importance of the issue, the magnitude of the result and the bloodless character of the conflict, far excels in grandeur all the blood-stained revolutions" of the past. Very truly is it said that the tables are changed, and that churchly power stands to-day "on trial at the bar behind which it sat as judge for a thousand years; and the judge on the bench is the scientific spirit it had so often remanded to the dungeon, or consigned to the flames." Several able writers contribute their quotas to make this an interesting and instructive number, and the editor continues the report of his lecturing tour through Texas. Waco, Texas: J. D. Shaw.

THE PHRENOLOGICAL JOURNAL.—A picture and sketch are given of Helen Keller, born in June, 1880, and in February, 1882, deprived by sickness of sight and hearing, and who has, under the direction of Miss Sullivan, a pupil of the Perkins Institute for the Blind, developed into a psychological prodigy. She learned all the letters of the alphabet, large and small, in one day, was soon able to write by the Braille system, and acquired more in four months than Laura Bridgeman did in four years, though she has advantages Laura did not have in that her senses of smell and of taste are very acute. A specimen page of her writing is given. New York: Fowler & Wells Company.

THE WOMAN'S WORLD.—The frontispiece represents "Prince Charles Edward Stuart disguised as 'Betty Burke,'" one of the illustrations of the "Records of a Fallen Dynasty," the others including one of the Prince and of Flora Macdonald. An interesting contribution to this month's issue, and one suggestive of a wide field of humanitarian usefulness for all who have the time, means and inclination to engage in so commendable a mission, is "Something about Needle-Women," by Miss Clementina Black. It is a sad picture of how some women live, or how they try to, in large cities. Mrs. Edmonds writes of "Modern Greek Poets," giving portraits and selections, and Mrs. Barnett of "The Uses of a Drawing Room." New York: Cassell & Co.

THE VACCINATION INQUIRER places before its readers a great amount of newly developed evidence of the evil results of vaccination and of the tyrannical nature of laws that make it compulsory for a parent to impregnate the blood of a healthy child with germs of disease. London: E. W. Allen, 4 Ave Maria Lane.

THE ELECTRICAL ENGINEER says that "dead" wires are too fast becoming deadly, and is glad to note two instances of a thorough overhauling being made of circuits and removal or proper securing of unused conductors. New York: 11 Wall street.

SPIRITUALIST LECTURERS.

MRS. N. K. ANDROSS, Delton, Wis.
MRS. R. AUGUSTA ANTHONY, Albion, Mich.
MRS. M. C. ALLMER, Barton Landing, Vt.
WM. H. ANDREWS, M. D., Cedar Falls, Ia.
C. FANNIE ALLYN, Stoneham, Mass.
JAMES MADISON ALLEN, Peoria, Ill.
MRS. NELLIE J. T. BRIGHAM, Colerain, Mass.
MRS. E. H. BRITTEN, Cheetham Hill, Manchester, Eng.
MRS. R. W. SCOTT BRIGGS, 18 Aiken street, Utica, N. Y.
BISHOP A. BEALS, 86 State street, Albany, N. Y.
ADDIE L. BALLOU, 759 Market st., San Francisco, Cal.*
DR. JAS. K. BAILEY, P. O. Box 123, Scranton, Pa.
G. H. BROOKS, 802 Hoyt street, East Saginaw, Mich.
J. R. BURLL and MRS. DR. BURLL, Indianapolis, Ind.
MRS. A. P. BROWN, St. Johnsbury Center, Vt.
MRS. S. A. BYRNES, Mill & Adams sts., Dorchester, Mass.*
J. FRANK BAXTER, 181 Walnut street, Chelsea, Mass.
MRS. L. E. BAILEY, Battle Creek, Mich.*
MRS. ABBY N. BURNHAM, 50 Appleton street, Boston.*
MRS. EMMA J. BULLENE, Denver, Col.
MISS LIZZIE D. BAILEY, Louisville, Ky.
MISS L. BARNICOAT, 175 Tremont st., Boston, Mass.*
PROF. J. R. BUCHANAN, 6 James street, Boston, Mass.
MRS. ELLEN M. BOLLES, Eagle Park, Providence, R. I.
MISS S. C. BLANKHORN, 28 Concord Place, Cincinnati, O.
MRS. H. MORSE-BAKER, Granville, N. Y.
JAMES A. BLISS, Elmwood Place, O.
MRS. S. E. W. BISHOP, 540 High street, Oshkosh, Wis.
A. B. BROWN, Worcester, Mass.
MRS. NELLIE S. BAADE, Capac, Mich.*
WARREN CHASE, Cobden, Ill.
DEAN CLARKE, care Banner of Light, Boston, Mass.
MRS. HETTIE CLARK, Onset Bay, Mass.
GEORGE W. CARPENDER, Kendallville, Ind.
MRS. MARIETTA F. CROSS, W. Hampstead, N. H.
MRS. BELLE A. CHAMBERLAIN, Eureka, Cal.
DR. JAMES COOPER, Bellefontaine, O.
A. C. COTTON, Vineland, N. J.
EBEN COBB, Hyde Park, Mass.
JAMES R. COCKE, 1581 Washington street, Boston, Mass.
MRS. LORA S. CRAIG, Keene, N. H.
MRS. A. E. CUNNINGHAM, 459 Tremont street, Boston.
J. W. CADWELL, 401 Center street, Meriden, Conn.
MRS. E. B. CRADDOCK, Concord, N. H.
MRS. ABBIE W. CROSSETT, Waterbury, Vt.
MRS. L. A. COFFIN, Park street, Onset, Mass.
W. J. COLVILLE, 111 Mason street, San Francisco, Cal.
A. E. DOTY, Ilion, Herkimer Co., N. Y.
MRS. C. A. DELAFOLIE, Hartford, Ct.
MRS. S. DICK, care Banner of Light, Boston, Mass.*
MISS CARRIE E. DOWNER, Baldwinsville, N. Y.*
ANSON DWIGHT, Chesterfield, Mass.
CARRIE C. VAN DUZEE, Geneva, O.
CHARLES DAWBARN, 463 West 23d st., New York, N. Y.
MRS. S. A. JESMER-DOWNS, North Springfield, Vt.*
JOHN N. EAMES, Boston, Mass.
J. L. ENOS, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.
MISS S. LIZZIE EWER, Portsmouth, N. H.
EDGAR W. EMERSON, 240 Lowell st., Manchester, N. H.
O. A. EDGERLY, 51 Washington st., Newburyport, Mass.
J. WM. FLETCHER, care Banner of Light, Boston, Mass.
J. FRANCIS, Sackett's Harbor, N. Y.
MRS. CLARA A. FIELD, 59 Clarendon street, Boston, Ms.*
MRS. MARY L. FRENCH, Townsend Harbor, Mass., box 95.
GEORGE A. FULLER, Dover, Mass.*
NETTIE M. P. FOX, Ottumwa, Ia.
MRS. M. H. FULLER, Saratoga, Santa Clara Co., Cal.
P. A. FIELD, Bernardston, Mass.
MRS. ADDIE L. FRYE, Fort Scott, Kan.
DR. H. P. FAIRFIELD, Box 347, Rockland, Me.
MRS. SUE B. FALES, 14 Front st., Cambridgeport, Mass.
N. S. GREENLEAF, Lowell, Mass.
SARAH GRAVES, Grand Rapids, Mich.*
MISS LESLIE N. GOODELL, 63 High street, Norwich, Ct.
CORNELIA GARDNER, 118 Jones street, Rochester, N. Y.*
DR. E. G. GRANVILLE, Kansas City, Mo.
MISS E. M. GLEASON, Geneva, Ohio.
MRS. A. M. GLADING, Box 62, Doylestown, Pa.*
LYMAN C. HOWE, Fredonia, N. Y.
MRS. S. A. HORTON, Galveston, Tex.
J. H. HARTER, Auburn, N. Y.*
DR. E. B. HOLDEN, North Clarendon, Vt.
MRS. F. O. HYZER, 433 E. Baltimore st., Baltimore, Md.
MRS. L. HUTCHISON, Owensville, Cal.
MRS. M. A. C. HEATH, Bethel, Vt.
ANNIE C. TORRY HAWKS, Memphis, Tenn.
ZELLA S. HASTINGS, East Whately, Mass.
MATTIE E. HULL, 601 East Locust street, Des Moines, Ia.
JENNIE B. HAGAN, South Framingham, Mass.*
C. H. HARDING, 3 Glenwood street, Boston Highlands.
F. A. HEATH, 27 Lawrence street, Charlestown, Mass.
MRS. M. J. HENDEE, San Francisco, Cal.
M. F. HAMMOND, Northport, L. I., N. Y.*
MRS. HATTIE W. HILDRETH, Worcester, Mass.
W. A. HALE, 46 Russell street, Charlestown, Mass.*
ANTHONY HIGGINS, 410 East 23d street, New York.
S. HAINSBACH, cor. 15th and Plum streets, Cincinnati, O.
MRS. M. CARLISLE IRELAND, 3 Moreland Terrace, Boston.
MRS. BELL IRELAND, 365 Elm street, Cincinnati, O.
SUSIE M. JOHNSON, Los Angeles, Cal.
DR. W. R. JOSCELYN, Santa Cruz, Cal.
MRS. DR. J. A. JOSCELYN, Santa Cruz, Cal.
DR. P. T. JOHNSON, Box 746, Coldwater, Mich.
MRS. EMMA JACKSON, Acushnet, Mass.
MRS. A. E. KING, 258 Shawmut Avenue, Boston, Mass.*
O. P. KELLOGG, East Trumbull, Ashtabula Co., O.
MRS. R. G. KIMBALL, Lebanon, N. H.
J. W. KENYON, 54 Hostwick street, Grand Rapids, Mich.
D. M. KING, Mantua Station, O.
MRS. INEZ A. KIMBALL, Onset, Mass.
MRS. M. C. KNIGHT, Fulton, Oswego Co., N. Y.*
G. W. KATES, Chattanooga, Tenn.*
MRS. ZAIDA BROWN-KATES, Chattanooga, Tenn.
MRS. F. A. LOGAN, 1624 Curtis street, Denver, Col.
CHARLES H. LELAND, Hayden Row, Mass.
MRS. R. S. LILLIE, Lock Box 10, Melrose, Mass.
MRS. M. W. LESLIE, 35 Common street, Boston, Mass.
THOS. LEES, 105 Cross st., Cleveland, O.*
MRS. H. S. LAKE, 566 Columbus Avenue, Boston, Mass.
MRS. AMELIA H. COLBY-LUTHER, Crown Point, Ind.
B. M. LAWRENCE, care Banner of Light, Boston, Mass.
J. J. MORSE, of England, trance, care Banner of Light.
MRS. S. M. MACE, 24 Dartmouth street, Boston, Mass.
P. C. MILLS, Fairmount, Ark.
REV. CHARLES P. MCCARTHY, 109 4th ave., New York.
MRS. E. H. F. MCKINLEY, 1307½ Polk st., San Francisco.
PROF. M. MILLESON, care Banner of Light, Boston.
S. T. MARCHANT, 15 Willoughby st., Brooklyn, N. Y.
MRS. LIZZIE MANCHESTER, West Randolph, Vt.
DR. H. F. MERRILL, Chattanooga, Tenn.
CELIA M. NICKERSON, South Orleans, Mass.
VALENTINE NICKELSON, Foster's Crossing, O.*
THEO. F. PRICE, Monon, White Co., Ind.
LYDIA A. PEARSALL, Disco, Mich.
MISS DORCAS E. PRAY, Augusta, Me.
DR. G. AMOS PEIRCE, Box 1135, Lewiston, Me.
A. S. PEASE, Buskirk, N. Y.
MRS. LUNT PARKER, P. O. Box 343, Lansing, Mich.
PROF. W. F. PECK, 566 Columbus Avenue, Boston.
JOHN G. PRIEGEL, 610 North 2d street, St. Louis, Mo.*
CALEB PRENTISS, 10 Hudson street, Lynn, Mass.
LYSANDER S. RICHARDS, East Marshfield, Mass.
MISS JENNIE RHIND, 33 Boylston street, Boston, Mass.
MRS. HELEN STUART-RICHINGS, P. O., Boston, Mass.*
FRANK T. RIPLEY, Corinna, Me.*
J. H. RANDALL, 78 Seeley Avenue, Chicago, Ill.*
MRS. C. L. V. RICHMOND, 64 Union Park Pl., Chicago.
J. WILLIAM ROYLE, Trenton, N. J.
MISS M. T. SHELHAMER, care Banner of Light, Boston.
DR. H. B. STORER, 496 Shawmut Avenue, Boston, Mass.*
M. L. SHERMAN, box 1205, Adrian, Mich.
MRS. K. R. STILES, 146 Pleasant st., Worcester, Mass.
THOMAS STREET, Lockland, O.
MRS. FANNIE DAVIS SMITH, Brandon, Vt.
MRS. P. W. STEPHENS,

Banner of Light.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, JUNE 23, 1888.

Prof. Fechner and Spiritualism.

GUSTAV THEODOR FECHNER, late Professor in Vienna, whose name was brought into prominence by the Preliminary Report of the Seybert Commission, deceased on the 19th of last November. Extracts from his diary, giving his opinion of the séances held by Dr. Slade with Prof. Zöllner, have been translated from Sphinx, and appear in Light of June 2d. Dr. Slade's séances with Zöllner were in November, 1877. In his diary, under date of Dec. 14th, Fechner writes:

"Generally we found the phenomena increased in power from séance to séance, as though the spirits became gradually more expert in producing their manifestations in the presence of the assembled circle. Some of the séances took place in the full daylight....

"But allowing, or rather supposing, that the phenomena which we witnessed were not due to deception, the question must still be asked whether they were produced by the operation of spirits from the other world. And if not, then from what source? They must be due to intelligent beings, or the so-called spirit-writing would not have been sensible; and if it did not originate with the spirits of the mortals present, I really do not know who they could be but those of the departed.

"Besides which, Spiritualists attach great importance to the facts of Spiritualism as proving the immortality of the soul; and, indeed, they appear to me to justify the views I hold as to the other world, according to which spirits constantly surround us and influence us without our knowledge. But this intercourse between our world and the spiritual one is so misunderstood in ordinary life that as long as this state of things exists, phenomena like the spiritualistic cannot take place. Why not, however, if the conditions are altered? Those who are called mediums are always in an abnormal state. I compare the state of the spirit-world, both on this side and on the other, which I look upon as proceeding from one universal spirit, with that of ideas and the recollections that arise out of them in our minds. The connection between the world of ideas and that of memory in our minds, is now regulated in a normal manner, and is known to be subject to physiological laws; but with persons subject to hallucinations or delusions, these laws cease to have effect, and with abnormal phenomena abnormal movements may easily occur. If there be really a spiritual intercourse between this world and the other, the possibility of which I cannot deny, I should look upon him from whose development no sign was to be expected either for this side or the other, simply as crazy. And I should likewise believe that the communications which in this wise come to us from the other world, since they have, so to speak, to come through the organization of the medium, will always be influenced by his way of thinking and speaking, or by the ideas of those with whom he is in contact, and in many cases will represent little else. The following circumstance renders it necessary to take this into consideration, if the fact of such intercourse is to be maintained.

"Very often spirits are questioned in mediumistic circles concerning the other world in which they live, and apparently genuine answers are given. But the information received from different sources is sometimes simply silly, or it represents views already current in this world, and which may either consciously or unconsciously be implanted in the medium's mind. They contradict one another frequently, and are not to be argued about simply because they originate from such fluctuating sources on this side. All of them cannot be true at the same time, and therefore we are naturally mistrustful with regard to spiritual manifestations as coming from the other world. Still, here and there we find accounts of spiritual knowledge or clear vision which cannot be explained by anything within the mind of the medium.

"These are thoughts which may be of importance if the facts of Spiritualism are genuine; but I think myself that we ought to argue against their being so as long as possible, though we should not overstep the bounds of skepticism. In any case the inquiries, as the result of which many persons assert that the facts are not genuine—while most people do so without making any inquiries whatever—seem to me much more superficial and incomplete than those by means of which men of exact science, such as Wallace, Crookes, Varley and others have convinced themselves that they are genuine, and I confess that these authorities have great weight with me.

"I wonder rather that the views of the other world, which I have made public in my essay on Life after Death, and more fully in the third part of my Zend-Avesta, have met with scarcely any attention in spiritualistic circles, in spite of their resemblance to the views held by Spiritualists and agreement with spiritualistic facts: not that I have any desire to contribute to their literature."*

Fechner gives some consideration to the conjuring theory as applicable to what himself and others had seen at Slade's séances, but on the whole concludes it to be inadmissible, and as regards any bias of his mind toward admitting that theory as of any weight, says: "I must confess myself vanquished by the facts I have witnessed." Continuing, he remarks:

"The observations by means of which exact inquirers have convinced themselves of the genuineness of Spiritualistic marvels differ from those they would give to the performances of conjurers in the following particulars: the observer is able in his own room to watch the medium, and is quite close to him; the latter has no opportunity to make any preparations for his performances; he has no apparatus of his own with which to operate, and no accomplices; and, above all, we notice particularly those manifestations in which it is impossible for the medium to use his hands or his feet, because they take place at a distance from him—such, I mean, as the movement of objects beyond his reach, and we do not speak of occurrences to which any suspicion can attach, but of those which are beyond suspicion, such as the experiment of tying knots in an endless cord; while the opponent of Spiritualism always takes the opposite course, that is, because some of the manifestations are undoubtedly open to suspicion, he questions the genuineness of others where the same grounds for suspicion do not exist.

"I wish to point out that if it be permissible to suspect Slade, as a professional medium and a stranger, on all sorts of grounds to be a conjurer, there is no foundation for suspicion in the case of others, such as young female mediums known to us, and in whose presence manifestations take place, if not exactly similar to those of Slade, yet equally wonderful. If any one, however, after all the precautions which have been devised and made use of, still says 'I believe it is nothing but conjuring,' that is his own affair, and he simply asserts that it is impossible to prove that conjuring cannot do everything.

"If, as usually happens, all this goes in at one ear and out at the other, I only say, 'I don't ask you to believe me, it is your own affair; the facts are there, and every one fights against believing them as long as he can; no one who has been convinced by them, ever acted differently to begin with. All I maintain is, that no one has the right to express a decisive opinion on the matter, who has neither taken part in séances at which facts of an overwhelming nature have occurred, nor followed the literature written on this subject, and has thereby convinced himself what precautions have been taken, and by what sort of men in their observation of these facts, and especially what kind of material they had to experiment with.'

"The expressed opinion that all may be due to conjuring on the part of those who have nothing to bring forward, except their opinion, can have no weight with those who have been compelled, through the evidence of facts alone, at last to give way and to avow themselves believers."

*The editor of Sphinx appends a note at this point saying that in his later work, Die Tagesansicht, Prof. Fechner really expresses himself as an advocate of Spiritualism.

Over Sixty Years Ago.

A reliable individual puts us in possession of the following, which carries with it the evidence of direct spirit communion enjoyed more than sixty years ago by a still living witness:

"May 21st, 1888, an elderly lady (some ninety years of age) called on me. She proved in conversation to possess as clear an intellect as in the very flower of her youth, and her memory was something wonderful to contemplate. The current of thought turned on certain communications from spirit intelligences which she had received of late, and she was led to aver that she had seen spirit forms more than sixty years ago.

'I married,' she said, 'my sister's husband, and about one year after our marriage, in the night-time, with my eyes and ears open, I saw and talked with her; she came into my room and sat by my bedside in a chair, and I felt frightened. I said to her: 'I thought you were dead.' She replied: 'Do n't be afraid; do n't feel bad; everything is as I wished that it might be.'

The old lady said she remembered it as clearly and as distinctly as though the occurrence had been but yesterday.

She related two other instances of like character, encountered at about the same time. Some four weeks before her husband's exit to spirit-life, she saw him pass through the room, and out into the garden, while in fact he was not anywhere near the house at the time. At another time her husband saw a man where he was staying, coming up the street, and went to open the door for him to enter—while the man at that time was in his store, some distance from the house. Her husband was so frightened by the vision that she had all she could do to pacify him, but the man when he did come gave such a clear description of his movements that her husband was for the time being satisfied that there was some mistake concerning the vision. The man, however, came in some time afterward, complained of not feeling well, and was never able to go to his store again; he passed on to spirit-life in a few weeks."

Written for the Banner of Light.

"OVER THERE."

Dedicated to the Memory of Thomas Middleton.

BY B. C. SOULE.

At my window I sat in the twilight
Of a somewhat clouded day;
But the winds had taken the veils from the hills,
And folded the clouds away.
The last sun-rays had kissed the hilltops
And burnished with gold the west,
Till it seemed like the gate that is always ajar,
Opening into the kingdom of rest.

And I dreamed, in the hush of the twilight,
Of loved ones—the young and the old—
Who from all of earth's trials and sorrows
Escaped through "the gateway of gold."
My heart throbbed with longing unspoken
To hear their dear voices again,
To gaze on their radiant faces,
Till each heart-throb was only a pain.

There came, in the midst of my dreaming,
A calm that bade longing to cease,
A vision of heavenly glory,
That stilled all my spirit to peace.
Beyond all the warfare of doubting
Was the hour when, 'mid splendors divine,
I stood once again in the presence
Of all those dear loved ones of mine!

No portrayal of aught so transcendent
In beauty my language can find;
For above all that's mortal or matter
Is e'er the immortal and mind.
And earth in the freshness of June-time
Cannot in its glory compare
With that world whose bright beings immortal
Have never a sorrow or care.

And I saw, in the midst of the blessed,
A spirit just called from the earth,
That had laid by the pain and the weakness
That alone in the body had birth.
He stood in his strength and his glory—
No burden his spirit could bear—
Rejoicing in all of that freedom
Which angels attain "over there."

Though but little his earthly possessions,
Measured out by the standard of gold,
Yet were knowledge and justice the treasures
He forever could keep and could hold.
As one of the Great Father's children
To every one else he was kin;
His great heart ran over with kindness—
An enemy only to sin.

Learned and gifted, by word and example,
He practiced the lessons he taught.
He was one of the world's busy workers,
And to make the world better he wrought.
Like him let us toil, ever trusting
In God and the angels above,
Who bring, in the hush of the twilight,
Their manifest tokens of love.

Woodstock, Vt., June 3d, 1888.

Passed to Spirit-Life.

From Ashland, O., June 4th, 1888, Mrs. Mary Waters Coffin, aged 74 years.

Mrs. Coffin was born in Bennington, Vt., Aug. 4th, 1813; was married to Frederick W. Coffin Sept. 15th, 1831, at her parents' home, in Troy, N. Y. After a year or two spent in Bennington, Mr. and Mrs. Coffin removed to Troy, where their earlier married life was spent. In 1845 they came to Ohio, and, with the exception of a few years, have always resided at Ashland. Mrs. Coffin was the mother of twelve children, nine of whom grew to manhood and womanhood. For more than thirty-five years the family circle was unbroken, then a daughter, Mrs. Frank H. Smith, passed to spirit-life. Five sons and three daughters remain to miss a mother's gentle, loving presence. Mrs. Coffin was a Spiritualist for more than thirty years, and a reader of the BANNER OF LIGHT over twenty-five years. To her it brought peace and comfort. She passed away knowing her loved ones gone before were waiting to welcome her to the beautiful home prepared in the bright Summer-Land. Although for many years Mr. and Mrs. Coffin were the only Spiritualists in Ashland, the day came when they could see the seed they had sown springing into life and bearing fruit. Mrs. Coffin was a most genial companion for old and young, and few, if any, counted their friends in greater numbers than she. In 1881 Mr. and Mrs. Coffin celebrated their Golden Wedding, at which time Mrs. Martha Waters, the aged mother of Mrs. Coffin, then in her ninety-second year, came from Troy, N. Y., to be present on that joyful occasion. Mrs. Coffin was one of a large family, all of whom have passed to the higher life with the exception of one brother, Mr. Elisha Waters, the well-known Spiritualist of Troy, N. Y., and Mrs. P. M. Marston, also of that city. The funeral services were beautifully conducted by Mrs. F. O. Hyzer, according to the wishes of Mrs. Coffin. It being the first time the people of Ashland ever listened to such funeral remarks, they will do more to awaken an interest in the cause she loved so well than anything that has ever taken place here. Her aged husband still remains, "only waiting till the shadows are a little longer grown," when he, too, will pass into the "beautiful beyond." COM.

May 19th, Mrs. Dr. L. Pitts, aged 54 years.

Mrs. Pitts was many years a resident of Lowell and Lawrence, Mass., but moved to Maine over a year ago, and was living with her son, Mr. Peasley, of Jackson, at the time she passed away. She was a firm Spiritualist and a medium. Her sickness was painful, but brief. The funeral services were held at the house, Mrs. M. J. Wentworth officiating. COM.

From her home, in Pendleton, near Manchester, England, on Easter day, 1888, Mary Bailey, née Ridgway, wife of Thomas Jones. She leaves her husband and five small children and an only sister to mourn her loss.

[Obituary Notices not exceeding twenty lines published gratuitously. When they exceed that number, twenty cents for each additional line will be charged. Ten words on an average make a line. No poetry admitted under this heading.]

The Wisconsin State Association

Of Spiritualists will hold its next Quarterly Convention at Rehearsal Hall, Academy of Music Building, at No. 583 Milwaukee street, Milwaukee, Wis., June 22d, 23d and 24th.

Engaged Speakers—J. L. Potter of Wonewoc, Wis., and Mrs. A. H. Luther of Crown Point, Ind., (formerly Mrs. Colby, of Boston, Mass.) Other speakers and test mediums expected to be in attendance.

Hotel rates $1.00 per day. Parties desiring to engage board can correspond with J. Spencer, local Secretary, 470 East Water street, Milwaukee.

The management have not, up to the time of publication, been able to make special railroad rates, but hope to do so in time to notify by special circulars.

All communications should be addressed to

Prof. W. M. LOCKWOOD, Pres., Ripon, Wis.,
Or JOHN SPENCER, Local Sec'y,
470 East Water St., Milwaukee, Wis.

Spiritualist Meeting in Ohio.

The Annual Meeting of the friends of Spiritualism will be held as usual in the Underhill Grove, two and a half miles north of Akron, O., on the last Sunday in June, 24th.

D. M. King, of Mantua, O., with other mediums and speakers, are expected to be present. All friends invited.

Per Order.

Vermont Convention.

The Quarterly Convention of the Vermont State Spiritualist Association will be held at Newport, Vt., June 29th and 30th, and July 1st, 1888.

For Speakers, we have engaged the following talent: Dr. H. B. Storer and Mr. Eben Cobb, of Boston; Hon. A. E. Stanley, Leicester, Vt.; Mrs. Fannie Davis Smith, Brandon; Mrs. Abbie W. Crossett, Waterbury; Mrs. Lizzie S. Manchester, West Randolph; Mrs. Emma L. Paul, Morrisville; Mrs. S. A. Wiley, Rockingham; Mrs. A. P. Brown, St. Johnsbury, and Mr. Lucius Colburn, Manchester, N. H.

For Test Medium, we are to have Mr. Joseph D. Stiles, of Weymouth, Mass. Those who have heard him will understand what that means.

Newport is in Orleans Co., near the Canada line, on beautiful Lake Memphremagog, a popular summer resort.

Dr. E. A. Smith has arranged for a Grand Excursion from all points on Central Vermont Railroad; fare for round trip either way from Rutland and return, $4.00; tickets good for June 27th and 28th, return July 2d and 3d. Dr. Smith leaves Brandon Wednesday afternoon, June 27th, on mail train, and stops over night at Essex Junction, and will sell the tickets to all who wish to go.

L. O. Weeks, the Secretary, will leave Rutland June 28th, at 6:45 A.M., by way of Bellows Falls, and will sell the same tickets for $4.00. Parties wishing to go by any other train than the two mentioned must send to Dr. E. A. Smith, Brandon, Vt., and secure the tickets in advance. Tickets are now ready.

Tickets will be sold for half fare over the Portland and Ogdensburg, and Passumpsic and Wells River roads, also from principal stations on the line of the Boston and Lowell and Concord roads.

Boarding at the Lake Memphremagog House at $1.00 per day.

This is to be one of the cheapest and most delightful excursions of the season. We hope thousands will avail themselves of it.

Good music has been engaged: Prof. Obie, Mrs. Florence Ely and other fine talent.

See small bills for full particulars.

L. O. WEEKS, Sec'y.

Proctorsville, Vt., June 5th, 1888.

The Lookout Mountain Camp-Meeting.

Near Chattanooga, Tenn., will be held during the entire month of July. The following speakers and mediums are engaged: Mrs. A. M. Glading, George A. Fuller, Dr. H. F. Merrill, Mrs. S. A. H. Talbot, G. W. Kates and wife, Dr. Samuel Watson, A. C. Ladd, Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond. Excellent hotel facilities are on the Mountain. Tenting space given free. Address

G. W. KATES, Sec'y, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Convention in New Hampshire.

The State Spiritualist Association will hold its annual Convention at Manchester, N. H., on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 22d, 23d and 24th, 1888.

Good speakers and mediums are engaged to be present, and all visiting friends will receive a cordial welcome.

It is expected that the usual fare reductions will be made on the railroads centering there.

Francestown, N. H. GEO. D. EPPS, Sec'y.

Miscellaneous.

THE

N. D. C. AXE and TRUE KEY-STONE,

A FOUR-PAGE SEMI-MONTHLY JOURNAL, especially devoted to the Development of Mediumship, and official organ of The National Developing Circle.

Terms of subscription, $1,00 per annum.

Sample Copy Free.

Send for Book, "How to Become a Medium in Your Own Home," and a personal sealed letter designating all your phases of Mediumship, all for 15 cents.

Address

JAMES A. BLISS,

S24 tf ELMWOOD PLACE, OHIO.

New Thought;

A VIGOROUS, Eight-Page Weekly Journal devoted to SPIRITUALISM and General Religious and Political Reform.

Published every Saturday by MOSES HULL & CO., at Des Moines, Iowa.

The Organ of the Mississippi Valley Association of Spiritualists.

NEW THOUGHT is a quarto filled with interesting matter, WRITTEN EXPRESSLY for its columns, on the various phases of Spiritualism and General Reform, and nicely printed on heavy paper.

Terms of Subscription: One year, $1.50; six months, 75 cents; three months, 40 cents; single number, 5 cents.

NEW THOUGHT will be sent to new subscribers three months on trial for twenty-five cents—a sum which barely covers the price of blank paper and press-work. Sample copies free. Je4

The Gnostic,

A Monthly Journal of Spiritual Science,

PUBLISHERS AND EDITORS—GEORGE CHAINEY, ANNA K. CHAINEY and W. J. COLVILLE.

EACH number will contain forty pages, devoted to Esoteric Religion, Psychometry, Occult Science, Mental Therapeutics, Human Liberty, and the Culture of all that is Divine in the Human Race.

Terms, $2.00 per year; single copies 25 cents.

Address GEORGE CHAINEY, 17 Flood's Building, San Francisco, Cal. Ap21

SPHINX.

ANTI-MATERIALISTISCHE MONATSSCHRIFT für die wissenschaftliche Untersuchung der „mystischen" und „magischen" Thatsachen, mit Beiträgen von Carl du Prel, Alf. Russ, Wallace, der Professoren Barrett und Couss, mehrerer Brahminen u. s. w., herausgegeben von Dr. Hübbe-Schleiden.

Subscription: $1,75 for six months, $3,50 per annum.

Messrs. COLBY & RICH, 9 Bosworth street, Boston, Mass., will receive subscriptions and forward the same to the publisher. Au21

La Lumiere.

A JOURNAL devoted to the interests of Spiritualism in all its aspects. MADAME LUCIE GRANGE, Editor. The ablest writers contribute to its pages.

Terms of Subscription, in advance, per year, $1,20. In remitting by mail, a Post-office order on Paris, France, to the order of MADAME LUCIE GRANGE, 75, Boulevard Montmorency, Auteuil.

PROPHETES ET PROPHETIES, by Hab.

A BOOK of universal interest and influence. It contains an Historical Relation of Prophecies in Modern Times and Prophetic Spirit Communications. Paper, 12mo, pp. 240. Price 60 cents, postage free. For sale by LA LUMIERE, Paris, France. Aug. 9.

THE CARRIER DOVE,

An Illustrated Weekly Journal,

DEVOTED to Spiritualism and Reform. Edited by MRS. J. SCHLESINGER. DR. L. SCHLESINGER and MRS. J. SCHLESINGER, Publishers. Each number will contain the Portraits and Biographical Sketches of some of the Prominent Mediums and Spiritual Workers. Also Spirit Pictures by our Artist Mediums, Lectures, Essays, Poems, Spirit Messages, Editorials, etc.

Terms: $2.50 per year; single copies, 10 cents.

Address all communications to THE CARRIER DOVE, 32 Ellis street, San Francisco, Cal. F6

SEND NAME

AND POST-OFFICE ADDRESS, plainly written, to THE BETTER WAY, CINCINNATI, O., and receive a sample copy of this bright Spiritual Weekly Newspaper FREE. Subscription, Two Dollars per year, but no obligation to subscribe will be incurred by sending for a sample copy. It will cost you only a postal card and a minute! Au13 tf

Light on the Way.

GEO. A. FULLER, Editor.

MRS. G. DAVENPORT STEVENS, Ass't Editor.

AN EIGHT-PAGE MONTHLY, devoted to the dissemination of Spiritual Knowledge. Terms, 60 cents per year. Specimen copies free. Address, GEO. A. FULLER, Editor and Publisher, Dover, Mass. My7

The Boston Investigator,

THE oldest reform journal in publication.

Price, $3,00 a year,
$1,50 for six months,
6 cents per single copy.

Now is your time to subscribe for a live paper, which discusses all subjects connected with the happiness of mankind.

Address J. P. MENDUM,
Investigator Office,
Paine Memorial,
April 2. Boston, Mass.

EIGHT

Liberal Lectures,

BY

A. B. FRENCH,

The Eloquent Orator.

This Pamphlet contains one hundred and forty pages, with portrait of the author. All who admire profound, thought-sparkling eloquence and a broad spiritual philosophy, should order this book. The following are the contents:

Lecture 1.—Conflicts of Life.
" 2.—Power and Permanency of Ideas.
" 3.—The Unknown.
" 4.—Probability of a Future Life.
" 5.—Anniversary Address.
" 6.—The Egotism of Our Age.
" 7.—The Spiritual Rostrum—Its Duties and Dangers.
" 8.—What is Truth?
" 9.—Future of Spiritualism.

Paper. Price 50 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

POEMS OF PROGRESS. By MISS LIZZIE DOTEN, author of "Poems from the Inner Life." In this book will be found many of the beautiful Inspirational Poems given by Miss Doten since the publication of her first volume of Poems. Illustrated with a fine steel engraving of the talented authoress.

Price $1,50, postage 10 cents; full gilt, $2,00, postage 10 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

The Phantom Form.

Experiences in Earth and Spirit-Life—Revelations by a Spirit.

Through the trance mediumship of

MRS. NETTIE PEASE FOX.

This is one of the most deeply interesting Spiritualistic works ever published. Given in a narrative form by a lady whose earth-life was one of strange vicissitudes, startling events and wonderful mediumistic experiences. After many years in spirit-life she returns to earth, and through the fully entranced organism and power of another, gives her earth history, followed by revelations from spirit-life, interesting and instructive to those who would know the condition, opportunities and employments of those who have crossed the "Narrow stream meandering these two worlds between." A better understanding of this remarkable book may be obtained from the following table, giving a few of the many subjects upon which we have revelations from the spirit-world:

Death Foretold; Death-Bed Vision and Revelations; Is There Another Life? Angel Ministrations; Spirit Prophecy Fulfilled; Saved from a Horrible Fate by Spirit Warning; A Father's False Representation Corrected by the Spirit-Mother; Life Saved by Spirit-Power; My Death Foretold; My Sudden Departure from Earth-Life; First Awakening in Spirit-Life; Mansion in Spirit-Land; Return to Earth-Life; Some Spirits Worship a Personal God; Spirits Attend a Marriage Ceremony of Earth; Marriage in Spirit Life; Temple of Science; Library; Modes of Traveling; Visiting Another Planet. Many Revelations are given of life and its employments in the spirit-world deeply interesting.

Cloth, pp. 169. Price $1,00; postage paid to any part of the world.

The Mysteries of the Border-Land;

OR,

The Conscious Side of Unconscious Life.

Also the Second Part of the Volume, "The Golden Key; or, Mysteries Beyond the Veil."

BY MRS. NETTIE PEASE FOX.

These two books, contained in one large, nicely bound volume of nearly six hundred pages, are written in narrative style, said by the spirit author to be founded on fact. They are as entertaining as any novel ever read, and contain more of the phenomena and philosophy of Spiritualism than ever before written in the same space, and they are written in such an attractive form that they cannot fail to please and deeply interest thousands outside the ranks of Spiritualism.

Price $1,50; postage free.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

The Weekly Discourse;

Containing the Spiritual Sermons by the guides of

MRS. CORA L. V. RICHMOND.

VOLUME III.

No. 1.—THE THREE M'S: MAMMON, MILLIONAIRES AND MURDER.
No. 2.—A LEAP IN THE DARK.
No. 3.—WHAT RELIGION IS BEST FOR MANKIND?
No. 4.—IDEAL SOCIALISM: HOW DOES IT COMPARE WITH CHRISTIANITY AND SPIRITUALISM?
No. 5.—THE IMPORT OF THE DAY.
No. 6.—ANCIENT AND MODERN MIRACLES.
No. 7.—THE JUDGMENT DAY.
No. 8.—THE POWER OF PRAYER.
No. 9.—THE NATURE OF SPIRITUALISM: IN ANSWER TO THE WORLD'S NEEDS.
No. 10.—THE FOUNDATIONS OF THE WORLD.
No. 11.—THE POPE, THE PROPAGANDA.
No. 12.—THE BETRAYERS OF SPIRITUALISM.
No. 13.—THE HEIGHT, THE DEPTH AND THE BREADTH OF SPIRITUAL TRUTH.
No. 14.—SOME APPROPRIATE ANSWERS TO SUPERFICIAL QUESTIONS.

Price 5 cents each.

Single copies of any numbers of Volumes I. and II. will also be supplied at 5 cents each.

Also The Weekly Discourse, containing fifty-two numbers in each volume, handsomely bound in Half Roan, Gold Ruled.

VOL. I.....$3.00. VOL. II.....$3.00.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

A Book for Thoughtful Radicals.

A STUDY OF PRIMITIVE CHRISTIANITY.

BY LEWIS G. JANES.

CONTENTS.—Introduction: I. Palestine in the Roman Period; 2. Society and Religion in the Roman Empire; 3. Sources of Information; 4. Theological Aspects of the Religion of Jesus; 5. Social Aspects of the Religion of Jesus; 6. Myth and Miracle in the Gospel Stories; 7. The Christianity of Paul; 8. The Apostolic Age; 9. The Martyr Period; 10. Christianity the State Religion.

"One of the most scholarly works on the subject that I have ever seen. I know of no other which seems to me likely to give as much satisfaction to any careful student, who is also candid and temperate."—Daniel G. Thompson, author of "A System of Psychology."

8vo, cloth, gilt top; pp. 320. Price $1.50.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Spiritual Science

OF

HEALTH AND HEALING,

Considered in TWELVE LECTURES, delivered inspirationally by W. J. COLVILLE, in San Francisco and Boston, during 1886.

The author in his preface says: "Those whose minds are fertile as well as receptive, those to whom one idea suggests another, and who have the gift of tracing conclusions to their sources and following thought further than its outward dress can convey it, will doubtless be able to successfully treat themselves and others if they carefully read and meditate upon the contents of this volume, as a perfect system of treatment is definitely outlined in its pages."

270 pages, cloth. Price 75 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

THE

Mystery of the Ages

CONTAINED IN THE

Secret Doctrine of all Religions.

BY MARIE, COUNTESS OF CAITHNESS.

CONTENTS.

Introductory; The Theory and Practice of Theosophy; The Secret of Mythology; Egyptian and Christian Gnosticism; The Theosophy of the Brahmins, Magi and Druids; Buddhist Theosophy; Esoteric Buddhism; Chinese Theosophy; Pagan Theosophy; Theosophic Ideas of the Ancient Romans; The Kabbala, or Hebrew Theosophy; The Sufis and Mohammedan Theosophy; Christian Theosophy; The Theosophy of Christ; The Theosophic Interpretation of the Bible; Conclusion; Soul, Infinity, The Path, Nirvana, The End.

Cloth, beveled edges, pp. 511. Price $3.50.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

STATUVOLISM;

OR, ARTIFICIAL SOMNAMBULISM: hitherto called Mesmerism, or Animal Magnetism. By WM. BAKER FAHNESTOCK, M. D.

Containing a brief historical survey of Mesmer's operations, and the examination of the same by the French Commissioners. Phreno-Somnambulism; or, The Exposition of Phreno-Magnetism and Neurology. A new view, and division of the phrenological organs into functions, with descriptions of their nature and qualities, etc., in the senses and faculties; and a full and accurate description of the various phenomena belonging to this state; including its division into two distinct conditions, viz.: the waking and sleeping, with practical instructions how to enter and awake from either. The identity of these conditions with other states and mysteries, together with an account of several obstetrical cases delivered while in this state; the proper method of preparing subjects for surgical operations; their management during and after the same, and the latest and best method of curing disease, etc., in those persons who are in that condition.

Cloth, $1,50, postage free.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Progression;

Or, How a Spirit Advances in Spirit-Life. The Evolution of Man. Two papers given in the interest of Spiritual Science. By Spirit MICHAEL FARADAY.

Paper, pp. 25. Price 15 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

THE STORY OF A GREAT DELUSION, in a Series of Matter-of-Fact Chapters. By WM. WHITE, ESQ.

"We may fairly call this sturdy volume the anti-vaccinator's bible. It is a determined and well-informed impeachment of the Vaccination theory, bristling with facts, and enlivened by the most biting sarcasm. The author has searched all nooks and crannies of the subject, analyzed the figures and arguments of the upholders of Vaccination, and his conclusion is, that 'Vaccination is a medical monopoly, established, endowed and enforced—a tyranny to overthrow.'"—Chester Chronicle.

Cloth, pp. 627. Price $2,00; postage 15 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

A TREATISE ON THE HORSE AND HIS DISEASES. By B. J. KENDALL, M. D.

Containing an "Index of Diseases," which gives the Symptoms, Cause, and the best Treatment of each; a table giving all the principal drugs used for the Horse, with the ordinary dose, effects, and antidote when a poison; a table with an engraving of the Horse's teeth at different ages, with rules for telling the age of the Horse; a valuable collection of receipts, and much other valuable information, illustrated.

Paper, 25 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

THE BAPTISM OF FIRE. An Autobiographical Sketch. By LUCIFER.

The author gives an interesting account of his life from infancy, and the following chapter heads will give an idea of what the book is composed of: Early Years; Adrift; Alone; A Wanderer; Rest for the Weary; Excelsior; The Unity of Life; Money; Power; Affinity; Justice; Love; Cooperation; Immortality; Marriage; Destiny; Liberty; Our Future Home; Law; Conclusion.

Paper, 83 pages, 30 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

ORTHODOX HASH, WITH CHANGE OF DIET. By WARREN SUMNER BARLOW, author of "The Voices," "If, Then, and When," "Progress of Manhattan Isle," and other poems.

Paper, 10 cents; postage free.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

FREE!-----PREMIUMS!-----FREE.

UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE,

Persons sending DIRECT TO COLBY & RICH, 9 Bosworth Street, Boston, Mass., $3,00 for a year's subscription to the BANNER OF LIGHT, will be entitled to a choice of the following Premiums:

All New Subscribers, or Old Patrons, on Renewing their Subscriptions

TO THE

BANNER OF LIGHT,

MAY OBTAIN FOR THEMSELVES AND FRIENDS THE FOLLOWING PREMIUMS BY COMPLYING WITH THE TERMS ABOVE MENTIONED.

A choice of TWO of either of the following named

CABINET PHOTOGRAPHS

will be given for one year's subscription, or one of them for a six months' subscription:

MR. LUTHER COLBY, Editor of the Banner of Light; MR. ISAAC B. RICH, Business Manager, or MISS M. T. SHELHAMER, Medium for the Banner of Light Public Free Circles.

These Photographs are all from recent sittings, and are finely executed by one of the best photographers in this city.

Price for additional Photographs, if desired, 35 cents each.

Or a copy of either of the following Books:

Spirit Invocations; or, Prayers and Praises

Publicly offered at the Banner of Light Circle Room Free Meetings, by more than One Hundred Different Spirits, of Various Nationalities and Religions, through the vocal organs of the late Mrs. J. H. Conant. Compiled by Allen Putnam, A. M., author of "Bible Marvel-Workers," "Natty, a Spirit," "Spirit Works Real, but not Miraculous," etc., etc.

Mr. Putnam has with skillful hand arranged in this volume, in comprehensive fashion, many living gems of thought, which are clothed in eloquence of diction, and thrill the prayerful heart with spiritual fervor. From the soulful petitions scattered through its pages the doubter of Spiritualism's capability to minister to the devotional side of man's nature can draw ample proof that he is in error. The weary of heart will find in its holy breathings for strength, sent out to a higher power, rest from the cares that so keenly beset the pilgrim in life's highway. The sick in soul may from its demonstrations of the divine possibilities within, drink of the waters of spiritual healing and rejoice; and the desolate mourner can compass, through its unvailment of the certainty of reunion with the departed, a consolation which nothing earthly can take away.

Cloth, pp. 256.

A Romance of Caucasian Captivity; or, The Federati of Italy.

By G. L. Ditson, M. D. This is a romance of the most exciting character, and full of stirring incidents. The Federati were a band or association of individuals in Sardinia when it was still an independent kingdom, who were pledged to undying hostility to ultramontanism, and therefore were friends of a constitutional system.

It is skillfully conceived and constructed, its wide variety of characters affords constant excitement and pleasure, and its progress among a train of pleasurable incidents is almost like a poetic vision of the tripping of the rosy hours. It will provoke a favorable comparison with some of the most praised romances of the times.

Visions of the Beyond,

By a Seer of To-Day; or, Symbolic Teachings from the Higher Life.

Edited by Herman Snow. This work is of exceeding interest and value, the Seer being a person of elevated spiritual aspirations, and of great clearness of perception, but hitherto unknown to the public. The special value of this work consists in a very graphic presentation of the truths of Spiritualism in their higher forms of action, illustrating particularly the intimate nearness of the spirit-world and the vital relations between the present and future as affecting human character and destiny in the hereafter. Bound in cloth, pp. 186.

Or choice of ONE of the below-described beautiful works of art:

ENGRAVINGS.

"NEARER, MY GOD, TO THEE."

Painted by Joseph John, and engraved on steel by J. R. Rice. Size of sheet, 22x28 inches; engraved surface, 16x21 inches.

"THE ORPHANS' RESCUE."

Engraved on steel by J. A. J. Wilcox, from the original painting by Joseph John. Size of sheet, 22x28 inches; engraved surface, 15x20 inches.

"HOMEWARD."

Designed and painted by Joseph John. Size of sheet, 22x28 inches.

"FARM-YARD AT SUNSET."

Copied from the well-known and justly celebrated painting designed by Joseph John. Stein, copied in black and two tints. Size of sheet, 22x28 inches.

"THE DAWNING LIGHT."

From the original painting by Joseph John. Engraved on steel by J. W. Watts. Size of sheet, 20x24 inches.

For each additional Engraving 50 cents extra.

Any person sending $3.50 for one year's subscription to the BANNER OF LIGHT will be entitled to Hollyer's Line and Stipple Steel Plate Engraving of the late

Henry W. Longfellow in His Library

At "Craigie House," Old Cambridge, Mass.

The plate is 24x32 inches. The central figure is that of the GREAT POET. He is seated on the right of a circular table, which is strewn with his books and writing materials. The surroundings are harmonious and symmetrical.

This beautiful historic work of art is a lasting souvenir and ornament for sitting-room, parlor, library or office of any American home. We will mail the engraving free to any one sending us $3.50 for a year's subscription for the BANNER OF LIGHT, or we will send the engraving alone for $1.00. The publisher's trade price for the engraving is $7.50.

Any person sending $1.50 for six months' subscription to the BANNER OF LIGHT will be entitled to ONE of the following Pamphlets:

AN EPITOME OF SPIRITUALISM AND SPIRIT MAGNETISM. The above is the title of a pamphlet of over one hundred pages. We know of no one book that gives to the enquirer so good an understanding of the teachings of Spiritualism as this. It is designed to convey facts to Spiritualists, also to do a missionary work with skeptics and church members. Two copies for one year's subscription, one for six months'.

SUMMARY OF SUBSTANTIALISM; OR, PHILOSOPHY OF KNOWLEDGE. By Jean Story. 12mo, paper, small pica, 113 pages.

DEATH, IN THE LIGHT OF THE HARMONIAL PHILOSOPHY. By Mary F. Davis. Paper.

AGASSIZ AND SPIRITUALISM: Involving the Investigation of Harvard College Professors in 1857. By Allen Putnam.

DANGER SIGNALS; AN ADDRESS ON THE USES AND ABUSES OF MODERN SPIRITUALISM. By Mary F. Davis. Paper.

TALES OF THE SUN-RAYS. What Hans Christian Andersen tells a dear child about the Sun-Rays. Paper.

THE LIFE. The main object of this little volume is to give to suggestive teaching a recognition and a force (in the domain of religion and morals) greater than dictation has. Paper.

SERPENT AND SIVA WORSHIP, and Mythology in Central America, Africa and Asia; and the Origin of Serpent Worship. Two Treatises. By Hyde Clark and C. Staniland Wake, M. A. I. Edited by Alexander Wilder, M. D.

Or any two of the following pamphlets:

ANSWER TO CHARGES OF BELIEF IN MODERN REVELATIONS, ETC. Given before the Edwards Congregational Church, Boston, by Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Newton.

RELIGION OF SPIRITUALISM. By Eugene Crowell, M.

TO BOOK PURCHASERS.

Colby & Rich, Publishers and Booksellers, 9 Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), corner of Province street, Boston, Mass., keep for sale a complete assortment of SPIRITUAL, PROGRESSIVE, REFORMATORY AND MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS, at Wholesale and Retail.

Terms Cash.—Orders for Books, to be sent by Express, must be accompanied by all or at least half cash, When the money forwarded is not sufficient to fill the order, the balance must be paid C. O. D. Orders for Books, to be sent by Mail, must invariably be accompanied by cash to the amount of each order. We would remind our patrons that they can remit us the fractional part of a dollar in postage stamps—ones and twos preferred. Postage stamps in quantities of MORE than one dollar will not be accepted. All business operations looking to the sale of Books on commission respectfully declined. Any Book published in England or America (not out of print) will be sent by mail or express.

☞ Catalogues of Books Published and for Sale by Colby & Rich sent free.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞ In quoting from the BANNER OF LIGHT care should be taken to distinguish between editorial articles and the communications (condensed or otherwise) of correspondents. Our columns are open for the expression of impersonal free thought, but we cannot undertake to endorse the varied shades of opinion to which correspondents give utterance.

☞ We do not read anonymous letters and communications. The name and address of the writer are in all cases indispensable as a guaranty of good faith. We cannot undertake to return or preserve manuscripts that are not used. When newspapers are forwarded which contain matter for our inspection, the sender will confer a favor by drawing a pencil or ink line around the article he desires specially to recommend for perusal.

☞ When our patrons desire the address of the BANNER changed, they should give us two weeks' previous notice, and not forget to state their present as well as future address.

Notices of Spiritualist Meetings, in order to insure prompt insertion, must reach this office on Monday of each week, as the BANNER goes to press every Tuesday.

Banner of Light.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, JUNE 23, 1888.

[Entered at the Post-Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class Matter.]

THE BANNER IS ISSUED EVERY THURSDAY MORNING FOR THE WEEK ENDING ON SATURDAY.

PUBLICATION OFFICE AND BOOKSTORE, 9 Bosworth St. (formerly Montgomery Place), corner Province Street (Lower Floor).

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL AGENTS:
THE NEW ENGLAND NEWS COMPANY,
14 Franklin Street, Boston.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY,
39 and 41 Chambers Street, New York.

COLBY & RICH,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

ISAAC B. RICH.....BUSINESS MANAGER.
LUTHER COLBY.....EDITOR.
JOHN W. DAY.....ASSISTANT EDITOR.

☞ Business Letters must be addressed to ISAAC B. RICH, Banner of Light Publishing House, Boston, Mass. All other letters and communications must be forwarded to LUTHER COLBY. Private letters should invariably be marked "Personal" on the envelope.

☞ Before the oncoming light of Truth, Creeds tremble, Ignorance dies, Error decays, and Humanity rises to its proper sphere of Knowledge.—Spirit John Pierpont.

The Public Free Circles

Held semi-weekly by the publishers of the BANNER OF LIGHT, at 9 Bosworth street, Boston, will be concluded for the present season on the following dates:

The Tuesday séances—Miss M. T. Shelhamer, medium—will close on the afternoon of June 26th.

The Friday séances—Mrs. B. F. Smith, medium—will close on the afternoon of June 29th.

These free meetings will be reopened early in SEPTEMBER next, under the joint mediumship of Miss Shelhamer and Mrs. Smith: Due notice of which will be given hereafter.

Lunatico de Inquirendo.

A society in New York City, styling itself the Medico-Legal Society, one day last week held a meeting in the parlor of a certain hotel in that city, for the purpose of listening to the reading of a paper, called "a most interesting paper" by at least one leading journal, upon the thoroughly silly question raised by the author himself: "Is belief in Spiritualism ever evidence of insanity per se?" The person who raises such a question for the purpose of making an exhibition of his brain-power in answering it, is named Dr. Matthew M. Field. Before trusting ourselves to characterize in few and fit words the intellectual performance of this superficially wise medical man, and wholly self-interested producer of testimony, we will simply state that these "legal" medicos are openly and everywhere the most malignant enemies that spiritual mediums have to encounter, for the self-evident reason that the latter are more efficient in relieving and restoring the sick than the "diploma" professionals are.

Let us see what this "medico-legal" Dr. Field has to say, and note his manner of saying it. He is probably a surgeon in his way, and he therefore proceeded to divide up the believers in Spiritualism as he would cut and slash with his instruments.

He made three classes of them: "First, those who make it a business to mystify, viz: the so-called mediums; second, those who attend séances, who wonder at the strange things they see, and believe they are brought about by supernatural means; and third, those who, without the intervention of others, believe that they see the dead or those at a distance face to face." He then pronounced all of the latter class insane. Doubtless he considers the above classification, as he calls it, a profound piece of work intellectually; but anybody who knows anything about it knows that a believer is a believer, and that those who hold a common belief belong to one, and not to many classes. This slicing them up, as Dr. Field has arbitrarily done, is according to no principle whatever, without sense or reason, and intended merely to show off the speaker in the coveted light of a metaphysical as well as a medical person, "so-called."

He went on to graciously admit that "the abstract belief in Spiritualism is no evidence of insanity." We might return the patronizing judgment by saying that being a member of the medico-legal society is no sign of sanity. Each is a naked assertion only, with the odds of reason and truth largely on the side of the latter. But let us attend to the reasoning of this medico-legal advocate: "A man," he says, "can perfectly well believe that God has spoken to others, but it is when he tells you that God has spoken to him that you have evidence of his insanity. Balaam's ass may have spoken in days of old, but when a man tells you that an ass has spoken to him, you believe him insane." This is meant for the mediums, who, he asserts, "make it a business to mystify." Now no medium that we have ever known or heard of has had the precipitous presumption to tell any one that "God has spoken" to him or to her. So that no insanity is to be inferred for them on that score. The blasphemous coupling of God's speaking and an ass's speaking is the best measure of Dr. Field's quality and quantity that could be suggested. This is the man, notice, who assumes to "classify" believers in Spiritualism. What a nice discriminator, to be sure! He need not fear the charge of insanity in his own case because of an ass's speaking to him, for no one would believe that a self-respecting member of that genus would for a moment so far forget himself.

As for what he says about the second class, which believes in the manifestations produced through (he says "by,") others, while in his opinion it is mainly formed of weak-minded people, with some brilliant exceptions, he does not think this belief indicates insanity, though in the case of a person of mature years and of acknowledged good judgment, it may be taken as a sign of mental deterioration. In this class, he says, there is delusion, but no hallucination, because there is an actual external object produced. Then, if that be the case, and the believer in the manifestation sees "an actual external object," where does the "delusion" come in? And if it be a "delusion" under such irresistible evidence, how does it differ from a "hallucination"? This doctor is a perfect giant for pulling up spears of grass by the roots. Why does a belief in "an actual external object" now indicate "mental deterioration"? We do not ask Dr. Field so hard a question, for he exhibits no particular mental quality that appears to be in any danger of undergoing such a process. Thinking, no doubt, to hit off the subject—if it is one—with a taking illustration, and of course being unwilling to drag his hearers into a "delusion," he states that he has seen several cases of persons who thought Jay Gould was persecuting them; they heard a voice; they connected that voice with the telephone; Jay Gould owned all the telephones; and thus their point was proved. Could there well be an exhibition of mental weakness, nay silliness, to surpass this?

And it is such a man, and a medico at that, that presumes not only to classify but to estimate and judge all those who believe in Spiritualism, charging them with being deluded, when "an actual external object" is produced, but clearly contradicting himself by saying that "the abstract belief in Spiritualism is no evidence of insanity." That is to say, an "abstract" belief is more to be relied on than a belief in "an actual external object," the latter constituting a delusion, while the former supplies no evidence of insanity. This sapient essayist for the Medico-Legal Society of New York, in the course of the so-called discussion subsequently, placed Mr. Luther R. Marsh with those whose belief in Spiritualism does not necessarily indicate insanity. He did not dare to say that he believed Mr. Marsh insane, though he clearly would not object to having people think he was.

Now this is pompous patronage indeed, from a source that challenges only pity tinged strongly with contempt. How does this swelling-frog of a doctor know precisely who are insane, and who are deluded, and how their beliefs, abstract or concrete, tend to make them so?

We might retort by demanding him to explain, if he can, that he is neither insane nor deluded himself by reason of his *dis*belief in Spiritualism, or the doctrine of spirit-intercourse—a fact taught so clearly in the Christian Scriptures, and attested to by millions of capable witnesses all over the civilized world—but we prefer to suggest the proposition only, and allow him to reflect upon it in his cooler moments. At present it is self-evident to even the most casual observer that Dr. Field has been playing with edged tools in this business, and has gashed himself "all up" without knowing it!

Impressions and Their Source.

Interesting incidents illustrative of the guidance and aid of spirit attendants are related in a volume by Rev. Zenas Osborne, of Saratoga Springs, bearing the name "Born of the Spirit," though the writer, following the lead of those of the Old and New Testament, and of thousands since that time, ascribes the help and knowledge he receives to the "Lord," the "Almighty" and the "Holy Ghost." The Saratoga Eagle of a recent date publishes several pages from this volume, treating more particularly upon dreams and presentiments. We are not prepared to say that in the general result it matters much to what source a truth we receive may be attributed, the main thing is to get the truth; but in this day of enlightenment, with our vastly increased and rapidly increasing knowledge of the spirit-world habitants, and of how closely and intimately, and daily more so, that world impinges on this, to attribute the aid and guidance of one or more of that "great multitude, which no man can number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues" to the mythical being of a by-gone age, and a nearly obsolete religious belief, termed "the Holy Ghost," indicates, to say the least, a very limited scope of spiritual vision. Mr. Osborne says: "We can learn more, comprehend more, experience more about the things pertaining to our spiritual and eternal well-being in a moment of time, when under the direct inspiration of the Holy Ghost, than can be gained in all coming time, from every other source."

Now the Christian world, as it is called, has not the remotest conception of what the "Holy Ghost" is, who it is, why it is, or where it is. Its definition of the term, when it is forced to give one, is purely imaginative, and the greater the attempt to define it the more incomprehensible becomes the definition vouchsafed the inquirer. Hence the above passage as it stands is meaningless; but substitute for "Holy Ghost" Spirit-World, and a new light illumines every line, and it takes on a meaning which is readily apprehended by every one.

Mr. Osborne's faith in dreams is very strong. He has unquestionably been all his life an impressional medium, and the "Holy Ghost," as he terms it, but his spirit-guides, as it really is, have warned him of impending dangers and mapped out paths of safety and usefulness for him to pursue. When a lad of fifteen years he was a hundred miles from home, when an impression came to him, he says, "as sudden as a flash of light," that some one who was very dear to him was sick, and that his presence was greatly needed at home. His employer did not wish him to leave and tried to discourage him from doing so; but the impression grew stronger and stronger, until at length he could scarcely eat or sleep; it finally reached a point of intense agony, and at that he started for home.

Traveling in those days was not as rapid as it now is. After thirty-six hours of stage, canal and foot journey, he reached his home to find a household in mourning, and the funeral service of a brother whom he tenderly loved in progress. He had been written to of his sickness, but the letter had failed to reach him, and he knew nothing of the state of affairs other than the impression he had received. In his explanation of this he sets aside what he terms "peculiar notions about the relation that mind sustains to mind, and the strong sympathy that exists between such minds, and the peculiar, invisible and undefinable way such minds have of communing with each other," and says "the impression that came to me on the above occasion I believe was from the Lord." He had similar proofs of his mediumship at various times, but he attributes them to the "Holy Ghost," and to the "Lord," and of one he says "the Almighty telephoned to me most emphatically."

Modern Spiritualism reveals to us whence these "impressions," these mysterious warnings and foreshadowings of events, come. It draws aside the veil and discloses the hand that guides us, and the loving, faithful one who guards us; not the ruler of the universe, an "Almighty," a "God," or a "Holy Ghost," whose august presence might lead us, as John, the Revelator, to fall down and worship, but one whom we find, as did he, to be "thy fellow servant, and of thy brethren," a near of kin, neighbor and friend, who once walked visibly by our side, and now, having passed within the veil, still walks with us, though unseen.

The Decay of the Old Creed.

A small tornado of discussion visited this locality for a brief period recently, caused by the presentation of Rev. Mr. Torrey as the acting pastor of the new Congregational Church in the Dorchester district of Boston. This Mr. Torrey was one of the young men whom the prudential committee of the American Board refused to send as a missionary to India, on account of his views in reference to the future probation of the heathen who die without having heard of the gospel of Christ. The new church in Dorchester is called the Harvard Church, and it is a separation from the old Second Church in consequence of this same variance of views concerning future probation for the heathen to whom Christ has not been preached after the orthodox manner.

It seems that when the ecclesiastical council was called to ordain Mr. Torrey as a minister, a technical objection was cunningly raised, that but poorly concealed the determination to prevent his obtaining a home parish on the ground that he had been rejected by the American Board. This objection was overruled. And the candidate is reported to have behaved, under severe criticism, with such manliness and sincerity as to have won over by his spirit the favor even of those who had assembled to oppose him. So that on the question of his ordination the vote of the council stood thirty-eight in his favor to only two against him.

As the Boston Herald editorially remarked, "when Mr. Torrey plainly declared that his higher purpose was not to be a settled pastor to the church at home, but to go out as a missionary, and his noble spirit won the hearts of those who had opposed him in the board, as well as those who heard his statement for the first time, it seemed as if the chickens were coming home to roost, and that they were roosting on the shoulders of the prudential committee of the American Board. It is the very irony of fate to have Mr. Torrey, without retracting his positions, placing himself in such a position that he must compel the board, sooner or later, to confess itself in error."

Coupled with the above interesting ecclesiastical event is another one, comprised in the election of Dr. Walker to the vacancy created in the Andover Board of Visitors by the death of Dr. Eustis. It was at the meeting of the American Board at Springfield that Dr. Walker spoke out so courageously and vigorously in opposition to the same Dr. Eustis whose place in the Andover Board of Visitors he has just been chosen to fill. Dr. Storrs, of Brooklyn, who was elected President of the American Board, is believed to have been greatly influenced by this speech of Dr. Walker in writing his extremely politic letter of acceptance. As The Herald puts it—"He saw it was time to cry a halt. He saw that the brains of the denomination were not on the conservative side, and he could not afford to have the exclusive support of pious men without brains. The result has been not unlike the easement which takes place when men begin to release the logs in a jam on the river. An obstacle has been removed here and there. Death has done something. Common sense has not been asleep. The wit of men to crawl out of a hole when they have a chance has not ceased to exercise itself. And the result is that we are to hear no more of the Andover heresy, no more about the unsoundness of Dr. Smyth, no more of the iron-clad creeds which the Andover graduates must accept if they are to go as foreign missionaries."

That is about the way the "old cat will die." The politic acceptance of Dr. Storrs will be the model after which all the rest of these iron-clad ecclesiastics will pattern.

A Witness not to be Impeached.

"All my poems," said the venerable Dr. Holmes, in a recent interview, "are written while I am in a sort of spasmodic mental condition, that almost takes me out of my own self, and I write only when under such influence. It is for this reason, I think, that I can never remember a poem a short time after it is written, any more than the subject of double consciousness can recall the idea of his other state."

We quote this significant confession from the lips of Dr. Holmes, in order to present an illustration of the fact which none but confirmed idiots will persist in ridiculing and denying, that high mental operations, as they are recognized by their products, are dependent on mental states, conditions or moods. These come and go as they list, inspiring clear thoughts, bright fancies, and inimitable expression, but can never be controlled or compelled, and are obedient only to conditions and circumstances of which we habitually take little or no heed. Here, then, is plain and open testimony, from one whom the sneerers at spiritual conditions certainly cannot disregard, that the best work of his genius is performed as it were unconsciously, and under conditions which he does not pretend to create or control.

Now this very candid and simple statement of Dr. Holmes will instantly be accepted by multitudes of people who affect to deride and despise Spiritualism as sober sense, equivalent to a confession of inspiration. They of course will see nothing incongruous or impossible in his composing a perfect poem under conditions not of his own choosing, and so far in a state of unconsciousness as not to be able to remember it a short time afterward. But let the medium for spirit communications disavow all consciousness of what has just been transmitted through his or her organization, and insist on certain conditions that shall establish a greater or less degree of harmony between his or her organization and the communicating or inspiring intelligences, and there will be no end of contemptuous disbelief from the self-same persons.

One single admission, made without a thought of its real meaning, like this one made by Dr. Holmes, will do more to substantiate the claims for right conditions on the part of spiritual mediums than all the arguments that could be hurled at willful unbelievers.

What is There to Choose?

In our issue of June 9th we endeavored to hold up to the just condemnation of every lover of humanity the awful policy reported by the daily press to be recently pursued by a certain representative of the Brazilian authorities in poisoning to death thousands of the inoffensive Indian inhabitants of the Empire of the Amazon, to make room for alleged "civilized" settlers. We took occasion, at that time, to animadvert upon our own national policy regarding the Western tribes, but did not imagine that we should soon be furnished with so apt an illustration within the borders of the "many in one." The following dispatch has within the week past appeared in many influential daily journals in America. If true (and we see not the slightest reason for doubting it) we would respectfully inquire: What is there to choose between the wholesale and sudden death dealt out by Bueno in Brazil and the slow starvation of a whole people within the borders of the United States, so thrillingly portrayed by the missionary correspondent of Bishop Marty?

The Turtle Mountain Indians in Dakota some two years ago ceded their lands to the Government with the exception of a small reservation on which they have since lived. The lands were about nine million acres in extent, and as yet not a dollar has been paid for them. The justice of the claim is acknowledged by the department at Washington, but there has never been an appropriation made by Congress of the amount required to complete the purchase. Meanwhile the Indians are, it is alleged, starving. A gentleman in this city received yesterday a letter from Bishop Marty, of Dakota, inclosing a copy of a letter which he had received from J. B. M. Genin, the missionary at the post, and which the Bishop has forwarded to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs at Washington, in which the following statement is made:

Supposing these lands to be ceded to the United States Government forever, at the extremely low figure of 25 cents per acre, they would bring at once the sum of $2,250,000, which, left with the Government at 4 per cent. interest, would give these Indians an annual income of $90,000. The cession of these lands was made years ago, but the final adjustment has not yet taken place. From year to year things remain so, awaiting the consideration of Government authorities, and meanwhile the unfortunate Indians are left to starve. No one could to-day visit the Turtle Mountain Indian Reservation and not feel his heart moved, nor look without tears on these helpless Indians and half-breeds. One hundred and fifty persons died here last winter, mostly from hunger. I have lately spent here, under your direction, forty-five days, busy every day at the bedside of the dying, and burying the dead, of whom in one day I buried three who died of no disease other than hunger. There is no longer any game on the mountains nor fish to catch in the streams, and the personal ration of two pounds of pork and five pounds of flour, issued by the Government agent monthly only, and to one-half of the population, leaving the other half to share it with them, does not go very far to sustain life.

A Generous Act.

Colby & Rich, publishers of the BANNER OF LIGHT, hereby acknowledge with gratitude the receipt from her executor of a donation of $500, bequeathed in the will of the late MRS. MARY A. BASSETT for the maintenance of the Public Free Circles, for sending THE BANNER free to the poor, and for other similar purposes.

Of this sum one hundred dollars are for the use and benefit of the Editor-at-Large fund, of which the American Spiritualist Alliance, New York City, is the representative. Accordingly we forwarded a check for the same, the receipt of which has been duly acknowledged by its President, Hon. Nelson Cross.

Mrs. Bassett was born in Groton, Mass., in the year 1804, and passed to spirit-life from Boston, in August, 1887, at the ripe age of eighty-three years. Her remains were interred at Groton.

Her sympathies were quick and generous, and she was ever found ready to bestow aid on those who stood in need. To the transaction of her business affairs she brought a skill in direction and a sturdy sense of probity and justice which made her a model worthy of emulation in the present age of keen mercantile competition.

She was, from the very advent of Modern Spiritualism, a firm believer in its revelations, and they proved a source of great consolation and happiness to her to the last of her mortal pilgrimage. She has now entered the enjoyment of actual participation in the broader conditions and employments which those in the Higher Life so truthfully portrayed for her when on earth.

The Diss Debar Case.

After weeks of court-burlesque the Diss Debars have been found guilty of conspiracy, when in fact no conspiracy was proved. The whole thing was a travesty on justice. No Spiritualist was allowed on the jury, hence it was a packed affair. This state of things is attributable to the mistaken system inaugurated of late years in putting political judges upon the bench, who are more or less biased by the daily press. The Diss Debars were to be condemned from the start, notwithstanding the fact that the woman is a wonderful medium, in whose presence hundreds of spirit pictures have been made; which fact some of the best people in this country are knowing to and fully endorse. Mr. Marsh, an able lawyer and an honest man, still adheres to the fact that the pictures made in his presence were of spiritual origin. We know this fact also by practical demonstration. Yet the bigots call it fraud, and persecution has been the result.

Under these circumstances we call upon the American Spiritualist Alliance, whose headquarters are in New York City, to sift this affair to the bottom, to the end that religious freedom shall not in this latter end of the nineteenth century be blotted out. If medial instruments are to be thus summarily dealt with upon the recommendation of a mercenary public press, as in this special case, then it behooves the Spiritualists all over the land to form a political party and move en masse for justice by electing men to office who are without a single taint of bigotry in their compositions.

Mrs. Richmond's Labors.

The year of Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond's ministrations with the First Society of Spiritualists of Chicago, Ill., will close Sunday, June 24th. "Emerald" furnishes us an outline re-script of her twelve months' work, which will appear in these columns next week.

W. J. Colville will occupy the platform of the First Society during the month of September, and Mrs. Richmond will resume her work for the coming year the first Sunday in October.

"PILGRIM PENCILLINGS, No. 4," by J. J. Morse—wherein his pleasant experiences in California are interestingly narrated—will appear in THE BANNER for June 30th.

Mrs. M. E. Williams.

We learn from one of our New York correspondents that Mrs. M. E. Williams, the well-known medium for full form materializations in that city, will this week close her séance-room for the season, and will go to Onset, where she will remain for a couple of months, giving the people at that pleasant location an opportunity to become acquainted with her band of spirit workers, to listen to their teachings, and to meet their spirit friends at her cabinet.

We are pleased at being informed that whereas a year ago Mrs. Williams found herself an invalid, and greatly exhausted by the season's labor, at this time she is in good health, with increased medial powers, and has the satisfaction of knowing that during the past year she has through her mediumship been enabled to bring a greater number of people into a knowledge of the truths of Spiritualism than during any like period since she began her labors as a public medium.

We are also informed that in the fall it is the intention of herself and spirit-band to devote one night each week to the answering of questions pertaining to all such knowledge as is possessed by our spirit friends as will be useful for the advancement of man upon the mundane plane of life; and that to better accomplish this object a phonograph will be used to record the exact words as spoken by the spirits.

Spirit Holland, who is Mrs. Williams's chief control, has announced his intention of inviting to these séances from his side such spirits as he knows to be capable of imparting useful information, from knowledge acquired through their long continued experiences, and it is the intention of Mrs. Williams that the persons composing the circle shall be such as can ask intelligent and practical questions. Then with the phonograph to take down the answers verbatim as spoken by the spirits answering, it is hoped that much useful information will be received, and through the press be given to the people at large. Spirit Holland and his band have been, it is stated, for a long time preparing for this work, and they now hope to enter upon it early the coming fall.

Materialization Seance in a Church.

A correspondent (Mr. Chas. A. West) writing from San Diego, Cal., May 31st, informs us that on the previous evening a séance for materialization was held in a Methodist church with very satisfactory results. The mediums were Mrs. Patterson, who, the writer says, has been a private materializing medium two years, and Mr. Percy Clifton, who, from accounts received, appears to be a platform test medium. The Daily Bee of the 31st ult., after mentioning that fully two hundred people were present and describing the preliminary arrangements—Mr. Clifton being seated within the cabinet and Mrs. Patterson outside, near its entrance—says:

"Several spirits materialized, came directly out of the sanctuary (cabinet) and talked with their friends in front. Later Mr. Clifton came out upon the platform and spoke with several spirits who were present and had messages for some members of the audience. In the entire evening fourteen materializations took place, and one hundred and nine tests were given."

Our correspondent says in reference to the probable influence of this séance:

"This proof of the truth of materialization given in a large public hall, where the most skeptical could not cry 'traps' and 'confederates,' must go a long way in attracting attention to and increasing a knowledge of the facts and philosophy of Spiritualism. As a truth it needs only investigation to satisfy any fair-minded man of its inestimable value; and the happiness derived from it will more than recompense one for time and means expended in that investigation.

San Diego is awake to this truth, and it is growing and spreading in our midst. People are beginning to understand and appreciate mediums better; the rough element that formerly made fun of the phenomena is thinking of it in a more serious light—the light of truth."

Versus Vaccination.

Dr. Hanchett, at the recent session of the International Anthropological Congress, took occasion to deal this time-honored medical fallacy a sweeping blow—his trenchant statement being logically to be condensed in the sentence (every word of which we believe to be true) that the practice was "utterly without avail in protecting the community or the individual from the dreaded variola," while it planted the germs of all sorts of evils in the human system.

THE BANNER—at the instance of those in the spirit-world who suffered severely while on earth from this disgusting practice—has continued for years to condemn vaccination, and is glad to note that the number of opponents of this legally entrenched outrage on the personal rights of the individual is rapidly on the increase.

A "Regular" Growl!

The Daily Telegraph, St. John, N. B., sets forth under recent date that certain "British American Surgeons" have invaded that place, and "advertised" their presence "by bills and in other ways." The Medical Council of Physicians and Surgeons (Regulars) has rubbed its sleepy eyes and commenced an attack on the visitors by a warning issued by legal counsel under the provisions of the New Brunswick Medical Act of 1881, which impose a penalty of $20 per day for all unlicensed practitioners who may come that way. Concerning what the visiting irregulars have done in response we are not informed, up to date.

TRANSMITTED MAGNETISM.—Those who have studied magnetic therapeutics know that the cures of the Christian, Spiritual or Mental Scientists, says the Melbourne (Australia) Harbinger of Light, have been equalled by magnetizers who did not accept in any way the formula of the schools referred to, but recognized the reality both of the physical form and of the diseases with which it was afflicted, merely believing that they were assisted in their treatment by spiritual intelligences; the Zouave Jacob, the late Dr. Newton, and Mr. G. M. Stephen, are examples. We could give some instances in our own experience of cures effected by transmitted magnetism, where the patients were ignorant of the magnetism being transmitted to them, as well as where they were cognizant of it; also where they had no faith, and yet were unmistakably benefited by the administration of magnetized water, which the operator only believed to be charged with his superabundant magnetic vitality. Similar instances may be found in nearly all works on animal magnetism.

A "RAP" AT THE NEW YORK WORLD.—That paper of June 14th contains the following remarks. Their writer will be readily recognized by THE BANNER readers as the stalwart editor of The Eagle, of Saratoga:

A fellow-townsman says in your grand and globular journal of Tuesday that half your readers are believers in the Philosophy of Spiritualism. It is intensely improbable that a quarter of them understand it. From a numerical standpoint he is undoubtedly wrong, but if it were possible to make a division of The World's multitudinous readers on purely intellectual grounds, no doubt the believers in Spiritualism would preponderate victoriously. Why, then, do you treat the adherents of this progressive and philosophical movement with derision and denunciation? Are they not entitled to the same courtesy and consideration conspicuously extended to Catholics, Presbyterians, Methodists, Unitarians, and even Infidels of the Bob Ingersoll school?

JOHN JOHNSON.

Saratoga Springs, June 12th.

☞ The Deutsche Zeitung of Charleston, S. C., published by Franz Melchers (an earnest Spiritualist), announces that on July 1st that paper is to be enlarged, to accommodate the increasing demand for the latest news among the German residents of the "beautiful city which is supposed to be the original site of the Garden of Eden." We heartily congratulate Bro. Melchers. The announcement is also made that it is proposed to erect an immense hotel and lay out a spacious park in Charleston, in order to attract "Northern millionaires" to the city and to make it a "winter resort."

☞ On account of changes in the ownership of the premises, Dr. J. R. Cooke has removed from his former quarters to 474 Shawmut Avenue, Boston—as will be seen by his card on fifth page.

☞ The Washburn House, whose advertisement appears on another page, is one of the most retired and home-like places at Onset, and its table has few equals.

Decease of Mrs. Johnson.

Bro. W. W. Currier writes us that on June 16th Mrs. Julia A. Johnson, wife of E. Y. Johnson, Treasurer of the Association, passed to spirit-life from Onset Bay, in the seventy-third year of her age. The interment occurred at Warren, R. I., Wednesday, 20th inst. Our deepest sympathies are with Mr. Johnson in this hour of trial.

What He Expects.

Elder Evans, the distinguished Shaker Spiritualist, has just attained his eightieth birthday, and he says he expects to live to see all the women allowed to vote, all the children in the country educated at government expense, and private ownership in land abolished.

☞ "The Ethics of Spiritualism" was the title of the discourse at Eagle Hall in this city last Sunday evening—or, in other words, "Has Spiritualism an Ethical Side?"—given by Mrs. Clara A. Field. She said:

"If Spiritualism taught us nothing more than the mere fact of man's existence after the dissolution of the body, its mission has been in vain, because it was not necessary for Christians to have proof of this. Jesus taught it two thousand years ago. All human progress, all advance in knowledge, in the arts and sciences, finds its root in selfishness. So with Spiritualism. It appealed at first to the mourners, the bereaved, who had lost their dear ones, and brought them consolation. It aroused the interest of the idle and curious. At length charlatans and tricksters saw their opportunity to profit by the credulity of mankind, [who were not Spiritualists, remember,] and the Cause suffered thereby. But this has been going on so long that a crisis has come. The world will class all Spiritualists as knaves or fools, unless they stand for something higher and nobler and purer, for something that will bear the strong light of moral investigation. Mediums must see to it that their lives are blameless, that their bodies are fit temples for the indwelling of the holy spirit. Spiritualists must be clean in body, pure and unselfish in mind, make right conditions for the working of spiritual forces, and we shall wake up some fine morning to find that the vast majority of upright, thinking men and women are Spiritualists."

☞ Mr. Gerald Massey, the poet and true Spiritualist, lately delivered a lecture in London on the Shakspeare and Bacon controversy, in which he showed that Lord Bacon kept a commonplace book, in which he jotted down all noteworthy sayings; and having thus sucked Shakspeare's brain, he, years afterward, prosified them in his Essays. In other words, "the extract of Shakspeare was the essence of Bacon." These "extracts" appeared in Shakspeare years before they were published in altered form in Bacon's works. The two authors were essentially different. Shakspeare wrote right off. Bacon revised his MS. many times. Shakspeare introduced into literature for the first time much folk-lore from the country, which no city-bred scholar could know anything about. Shakspeare's contemporaries, friends as well as foes, knew him to be the writer of the works attributed to him; the former gloried in his success, while the "educated" numskulls twitted him as they do now. Shakspeare and Bacon belonged to opposite political factions, which caused a split amongst their mutual friends.

☞ The Sociologic Society of America, organized six years since in support of the principles of industrial coöperation, has relinquished the publication of a quarterly sheet, and has adopted a department of the Industrial News, published at Toledo, O., for the dissemination of its views. This is to be under the control of Mrs. Imogene C. Fales, President, as Editor, and Mrs. Lita B. Sayles, General Secretary, as Associate Editor. In its issue of May 5th, "Primary Principles" are set forth by Mrs. Fales, "Coöperative Unity" discussed by Mrs. Sayles, and a Constitution suitable for coöperative societies given.

☞ We published in THE BANNER last week a notice brought to us by Mr. Copeland to the effect that the Middleborough Band would make its first appearance at Onset Sunday, June 17th. Since then we have received notice that no Band was on the ground, and none was expected by the Corporation. Now we wish, so far as this paper is concerned, to have it distinctly understood that it will not knowingly be made an avenue through which belligerent parties at Onset or elsewhere may ventilate their differences in business matters.

"OLD JACK," published in the June number of The Growing Youth, will doubtless please the girls as well as the boys, the editor says—so THE BANNER will reprint it next week.

Movements of Mediums & Lecturers.

[Notices under this heading must reach this office by Monday's mail to insure insertion the same week.]

Peter S. McKenzie, platform test-medium, would like to make engagements with societies and camp-meeting associations throughout New England during the summer and fall months. Call or address him 705 Tremont street, Boston, Mass.

The Medium announces that Miss Lottie Fowler intends to leave London at an early date, not to return. It says "she is going abroad," but whether that means she is coming to this country we are not informed.

Mrs. T. J. Lewis is prepared to answer calls in the Eastern States as an inspirational speaker and platform test medium. Would like to correspond with camp-meeting associations and grove meetings. Can be seen personally, or addressed at 205 Harrison Avenue, Boston, Mass.

Frank T. Ripley can be engaged for August in Maine or Massachusetts, for platform tests and lectures. Address him at Corinna, Me., P. O. Box 164.

Mrs. Jennie K. D. Conant, owing to severe indisposition, will remain with her parents, at East Warren, Me., until July, when she hopes to visit the Onset, Mass., Camp-Meeting.

J. Madison Allen is still continuing meetings in Druid's Hall, Main street, Peoria, Ill. Season to close with July 1st.

Mrs. R. S. Lillie is doing a grand work in California.

George A. Fuller, M. D., of Dover, Mass., will leave Boston Wednesday, June 27th, for Chattanooga, Tenn., to fill an engagement for the month of July at Lookout Mountain Camp-Meeting. Dr. H. F. Merrill, the test medium, is also engaged by the Camp-Meeting Association for July, and will leave Boston at the same time.

J. Frank Baxter, now filling appointments in Cincinnati, will return the last of the month and will lecture in West Duxbury Sunday, July 1st; in Park Hill Grove, Scituate, Sunday, July 8th; in Wachusett Park, Westminster, Sunday, July 15th; at Parkland, Penn., Camp, July 22d; and in Hanson, Sunday, July 29th. He ends his engagement at the Mantua, O., Three Days' Grove Meeting, Sunday, Aug. 5th; will be at Cassadaga, N. Y., Camp, Sunday, Aug. 12th; at Niantic, Conn., Camp, Sunday, Aug. 19th; at Lake Pleasant Camp, Sunday, Aug. 26th; at Etna, Me., Camp, Sunday, Sept. 2d; at Madison Lake, Me., Camp, Sunday, Sept. 9th.

History Repeats Itself!

1848.	1888.
NEW MEXICO.	THE SIOUX RESERVATION.
Oh! Vale of Rio Bravo! Let thy simple children weep; Close watch about their holy fires let maids of Pecos keep; Let Taos send her cry across Sierra Madre's pines, And Algodones toll her bells amidst her corn and vines; FOR LO! THE PALE LAND- SEEKERS COME, WITH EA- GER EYES OF GAIN, WIDE SCATTERING LIKE THE BISON HERDS ON BROAD SALADA'S PLAIN! —John G. Whittier.	It is expected that the Sioux reservation will be open for settlement by Sept. 1st. The signatures of the Indians re- quired to open the reserva- tion, it is thought, will be ob- tained by that time, and the President will issue his proc- lamation immediately after- ward, opening this great res- ervation to settlement. Set- tlers can go on there during September. It will not be necessary for them to wait until the land has been sur- veyed by the Government, but they can locate their claims and make their homes there just as soon as the land is proclaimed to be open by the President.—Telegraphic Dispatches.

Wanted to know, whether anything is really being done to keep the numerous circulars and pamphlets showing the advantages of Canada as a summer resort out of the hands of bank cashiers?—Boston Transcript.

ALL SORTS OF PARAGRAPHS.

UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF TEA.
IN SIX STANZAS.
V.

The skies were a delicate turquoise,
The fields with lush roses were red;
The trees were all blooming with lanterns,
The birds sang till darkness was fled.

An agricultural Cincinnatus has discovered that a "Virginia rail fence," with a four-foot "worm" and ten-foot rails, keeps away from cultivation more than an acre of land in each mile.

The Christian Advocate makes an excellent suggestion to the anti-medicine faith healers, that before they may expect people to believe them they must learn how to feed a multitude with a few loaves and fishes. The faith-healers' pretense is that they have miraculous power. Let them prove it by doing a miracle or two.—Eastern Argus, Portland, Me.

Edison, the great inventor, is, it is stated, about to endeavor to solve the problem of flying machines. He is commissioned by the Spanish Government to make an electric flying machine for war purposes.

It is rather a curious state of affairs when 12,000 crates of fruit are thrown overboard in New York Harbor rather than to glut the market, while thousands of people in the city are too poor to buy any fruit at all. Of course the dealers do not want the trouble of distributing the goods amongst the poor, but if such cases are to happen often it would be worth while to have a committee to take charge of such goods and put them where they would do some good, rather than into the sea.—Gardiner (Me.) Home Journal.

M. Perrotin, the French astronomer, has been observing the planet Mars very closely of late through powerful glasses, and has come to the conclusion not only that our neighbor is inhabited, but that the Martians are actually building gigantic canals, after the custom of men of the earth.

Minister—I understand that you do not believe that a person is sufficiently punished on this earth for his misdeeds. Neighbor—Oh! yes, I do now; but I did n't until I heard you preach. The parson walks on, a little perplexed.—Yonkers Statesman.

June 16th a session of the Summer School of Philosophy was held at Hillside Chapel, Concord, Mass., in respectful memory of its founder, the late Bronson Alcott.

The town of Dubois, Pa., was rapidly laid in ashes June 18th. Nearly three hundred houses were burned, four thousand people rendered homeless, and a property loss of nearly $1,000,000 inflicted.

Since our last issue the pacific Emperor Frederick has passed to spirit-life; the fiery young William II. has succeeded him; and the peace of Europe is trembling in the balance. The late Emperor furnished an illustrious example of "regular" skill, (?) as the post mortem demonstrated that the trouble was a cancer of the larynx—which from the first the German M.D.s stoutly maintained, while the English "experts" stubbornly conducted the case on an opposite theory.

Mr. John N. Lepesch, a merchant of San José, California, died in that city some time since from the effects of vaccination with bovine virus, obtained from a vaccine farm in Pennsylvania. About a week after the operation his arm began to swell from the shoulder to the wrist; erysipelas set in and proved fatal in a few days.

Mary Weller is dead. Who was she? Everybody knows, or ought to know, that she was the pretty housemaid who became the wife of the illustrious Sam Weller. She was the nurse of Charles Dickens in his childhood, and became afterward Mrs. Gibson. One of her highest delights in later years was in reading the famous novelist's works. She was buried at Chatham Cemetery, England, the last Saturday in April. Peace to her memory!—Ex.

It is highly proper that every citizen who exercises the high privilege of governing through the use of the ballot should be able to read and write.

[GOOD ADVICE—will they take it?]—How to elevate the medical profession was the subject discussed in Dr. Jeffries's interesting address before the Massachusetts Medical Society the past week. One way to do it is for the so-called regular members of the profession to cease denouncing those other members of the profession who practice homœopathy as "quacks" and "humbugs." An excess of toleration on the part of the public is, perhaps, no more to be deplored than is a woful lack of it in the medical fraternity.—Herald.

Some writer avers that the Japanese have no taste for religion whatever, and it is impossible that they should ever become a religious people. The youth of Japan, he argues, being free from the thraldom of creeds and free to act according to reason, are so far in advance of Europeans, that instead of talking about adopting a foreign religion, the Japanese should go abroad and preach their religion of reason to foreign countries.

Rest cometh not with worldly joy and mirth;
Rest cometh not until the soul's new birth;
Rest cometh not until we die to earth—
Then cometh rest indeed.

In sentencing a young man who had been found guilty of blackmail, a New York judge recently said: "A blackmailer is about the meanest wretch on God's footstool. He seeks to gain money by threatening to stir up strife in the family circle, destroy the peace of the community, and wreck the lives of children and friends. There is no punishment too severe for him." No doubt this judge would rank the slanderer next to the blackmailer.

Elsewhere in this issue we have given our views of the Diss Debar case. Gen. and Mme. Diss Debar were sentenced by the court, on Monday, 18th inst., to six months' imprisonment each.

He slipped on a banana peel;
The bump it made him wince.
He fell on his head and took to his bed,
And he has n't banana where since.
—Evening Sun.

A hypercritical scientist in New York City is trying to make people believe that there are forty-three bacteria in one-third of a teaspoonful of Boston water—when every schoolboy knows that there are only forty. Ugh!

We shall hail the time when the séance for the manifestation of the psychic form shall be confined exclusively to advanced students in the study of psychic phenomena. Then will the "grabbing" of forms cease, except of pretenders and confederates, and the more of this kind are "grabbed" and exposed, the better for all genuine mediums.—Golden Gate.

Belva Ann Lockwood, in accepting her nomination, demands that everything in the nature of scandal shall be promptly frowned upon by those conducting her canvass. Wish all politicians would "follow suit," likewise various alleged "reformers."

DER WINDBEUTEL.

A windbeutel said to itself one day,
"Now I 'll be frisky, and light and gay,
And I 'll make men think I 'm firm and sound
Because I am Reverend, and big and round,
And I 'll make them think I 'm a thing of brains,
With moral feelings and lofty aims,
But I know I 'm only wind."

So the windbeutel went and blew its horn,
And the world thought there was a genius born,
And it looked so substantial, and big, and grand,
That loudest praises it could command.
And as it was flourishing day by day,
Men thought it was sound, and had come to stay,
Whereas it was only wind.

It blew its trumpet, big and loud,
Till it gained the respect of the average crowd,
And it placed its form on the upper shelf,
And it bragged, and boasted, and spread itself,
And it laid all good at its own front door,
As it pranced along with a rush and a roar,
But the roar was only wind. —Ex.

A new State is about to be added to the sisterhood of nations. Letters patent have been granted to "the British East African Company," giving them full power to erect and maintain a government, with taxes and army. It lies north of the German East African Society, near Zanzibar, and includes some of the finest land in Central Africa.

Theodore Parker, one of the brightest souls and greatest reformers the world ever produced, admitted the worth of Spiritualism as an agent in emancipating the human mind. Frothingham, in his life of this grand character, says: "He blamed the scientific men, Agassiz among them, for their unfair methods of investigating the phenomena; rebuked the prigs who turned up their noses at the idea of investigating the subject at all; and took faithful measure of the unbelief in immortality, which pronounced communication between the visible and invisible worlds impossible. He admitted to his friend, Prof. Desor, that Spiritualism does two good things: 1st, It knocks the nonsense of the popular theology to pieces, and so does a negative service; 2d, it leads cold, hard, materialistic men to a recognition of what is really spiritual in their nature, and so does a positive good."—Golden Gate.

He that loses anything and gets wisdom by it is a gainer by the loss.

SOME COMFORT FOR "NON-LINGUISTS."—It is claimed, says the St. Louis, Mo., Globe-Democrat, that, generally speaking, an aptitude for learning foreign languages is indicative of a low degree of intellectual power, and results from the concentration of the lower intellectual faculties upon such mechanical effort without the distracting influence of the higher reasoning powers.

The grave of Gen. William Henry Harrison, the ninth President of the United States, is on a beautiful natural mound near his old residence at North Bend, on the banks of the Ohio, fifteen miles below Cincinnati. No monument marks the spot, and the grave for years has remained neglected.

A plant grows in Mixteca, Mexico, which the natives call the "herb of prophecy." A dose of it produces sleep similar in all respects to the hypnotic state. The subject answers with closed eyes questions that are put to him, and is completely insensible. The pathologic state brings with it a kind of prophetic gift and double sight. On returning to himself he remembers nothing of what he has done.—Boston Journal.

The "opsiomter" is a new instrument for testing the eye-sight. It consists of a mahogany case with two front eye-holes, behind which are two traveling bands mounted on rollers. Those bands have holes in which different lenses are fitted, and the person whose sight is to be tested looks through the holes and lenses at printed matter behind.

Spiritualist Camp-Meetings for 1888.

The season of out-of-door gatherings on the part of the believers in the New Dispensation is drawing nigh; and the reader will find, by reference to the subjoined, a partial list of the localities and time of session where such convocations are to be held.

The BANNER OF LIGHT has made it a practice for years past to give this list to its patrons each season, and reverts with satisfaction to the fact that at each recurrent period this roster of the army of progress has been repeatedly copied (and widely circulated), either in extenso or by briefer notice, into the columns of Spiritualist and secular papers in many portions of the country:

ONSET BAY, MASS.—The Twelfth Annual Camp-Meeting at this place commences its sessions July 15th, to close Aug. 12th.

LAKE PLEASANT, MASS.—The Fifteenth Annual Convocation of the New England Spiritualists' Camp-Meeting Association will be held at Lake Pleasant, Montague, Mass., (on the Hoosac Tunnel route) Aug. 1st to Sept. 3d, inclusive. The regular session will be preceded with speaking and musical exercises July 22d and 29th. Trains "54," "100," "45" and "43," will stop at the Lake when there are passengers to leave, or when signalled to take passengers. The above trains, "54" and "100," leave Boston at 6:30 A. M. and 3:05 P. M., arriving at Lake Pleasant at 10:40 A. M. and 6:45 P. M. The trains No. "45" and "43" leave Lake Pleasant at 6:40 A. M. and 2:45 P. M.

LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN, TENN.—The Fifth Annual Meeting will be held at this place (near Chattanooga) during the entire month of July.

CALIFORNIA CAMP-MEETING.—The Fourth Annual Gathering will be held at Lake Merritt Park, Oakland, Cal., from June 3d to July 1st, inclusive.

SUNAPEE LAKE, N. H. The sessions of the Eleventh Annual Meeting commence July 29th, to close Aug. 29th.

QUEEN CITY PARK, VT.—Meeting commences Aug. 21st and continues to Sept. 16th, inclusive.

HASLETT PARK, MICH.—Meeting commences July 26th and continues five Sundays.

VERONA PARK, ME.—Meeting opens Aug. 12th and ends Aug. 27th.

CASSADAGA LAKE, N. Y.—The Ninth Annual Meeting commences July 21st and closes Aug. 26th.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY SPIRITUALIST ASSOCIATION.—The Sixth Annual Camp-Meeting will commence at Mount Pleasant Park, Clinton, Ia., Sunday, July 29th, to continue five weeks.

MANTUA STATION, O.—The Association will hold a Basket-Meeting Sunday, July 1st, in Atwater's Grove. Societies adjacent are invited to join.

NIANTIC, CT.—Meeting commences July 8th; closes Sept. 9th.

PARKLAND, PA.—Meetings begin in July; dates not yet out.

The Dimond Benefit.

Sunday evening, July 1st, a social reception will be held at the residence of Dr. Rich, 566 Columbus Avenue, Boston, the proceeds to be used for the benefit of Mrs. Dimond.

Among those who will take part in the entertainment are Mrs. Maggie F. Butler, Mrs. Willis Fletcher, Mr. J. W. Fletcher, Capt. Richard Holmes, Miss E. J. Nickerson, and others. Good music.

Tickets can be secured from the following people at twenty-five cents each:

Emma J. Nickerson, 566 Columbus Avenue, Treasurer and Secretary; J. W. Fletcher, 6 Beacon street; Kate R. Stiles, 288 Columbus Avenue, and at the BANNER OF LIGHT office. •••

Special Notice.

The date of the expiration of every subscription to the BANNER OF LIGHT is plainly marked on each address. The paper is discontinued at that time unless the subscription is previously renewed. Subscribers intending to renew will save much trouble, and possibly loss of a paper or two, by sending in the money for renewal before the expiration of their present subscription. It is the earnest desire of the publishers to give the BANNER OF LIGHT the circulation to which its merits entitle it, and they look with confidence to the friends of the paper throughout the world to assist them in the work. COLBY & RICH, Publishers.

"If a Man Die, Shall He Live Again?"

The world-wide reputation of Prof. Alfred R. Wallace as one in the foremost ranks of scientists imparts an added strength and value to the clear elucidation and masterly advocacy of the truths of Spiritualism given by him in his lecture having for its theme "If a Man Die, Shall He Live Again?" published in a pamphlet of twenty-four pages by Colby & Rich, and supplied at the very low rate of 5 cents a single copy, thirteen for 50 cents, or thirty for $1,00. Let it do its work; buy it and circulate it.

☞ Read "ZOELLNER'S TRANSCENDENTAL PHYSICS." This is one of the grandest works of the nineteenth century. Everybody should have a copy. Colby & Rich have the work on sale at the Banner of Light Bookstore, 9 Bosworth street, Boston.

☞ Back numbers of THE BANNER for no special date will be supplied at four cents per copy: But parties ordering papers for any special date will be charged the usual price—eight cents per copy.

For Sale at this Office:

THE TWO WORLDS: A journal devoted to Spiritualism, Occult Science, Ethics, Religion and Reform. Published weekly at Manchester, England. Single copy, 5 cents.

HALL'S JOURNAL OF HEALTH. A Progressive Family Health Magazine. Published monthly in New York. Single copy, 10 cents.

BUCHANAN'S JOURNAL OF MAN. Monthly. Published at Boston. Single copies, 10 cents.

THE SOUL. Monthly. Published in Boston. Single copy, 15 cents.

THE CARRIER DOVE. Illustrated. Published weekly in San Francisco, Cal. Single copy, 10 cents.

THE BIZARRE. NOTES AND QUERIES, with Answers in all Departments of Literature. Monthly. Single copy, 10 cents.

THE OLIVE BRANCH: Utica, N. Y. A monthly. Price 10 cents.

RELIGIO-PHILOSOPHICAL JOURNAL. Published weekly at Chicago, Ill. Single copy, 5 cents.

THE NEW THOUGHT. Published weekly in Des Moines, Iowa. Single copy, 5 cents.

THE WATCHMAN. Published monthly at Chicago, Ill. Single copies, 10 cents.

THE TRUTH-SEEKER. Published weekly in New York. Single copy, 5 cents.

THE MIND-CURE AND SCIENCE OF LIFE. Monthly. Published at Chicago, Ill. Single copy, 10 cents.

THE HERALD OF HEALTH AND JOURNAL OF PHYSICAL CULTURE. Published monthly in New York. Price 10 cents.

THE THEOSOPHIST. A Monthly Journal, published in India. Single copy, 50 cents.

THE GOLDEN GATE. Published weekly in San Francisco, Cal. Single copy, 10 cents.

THE BETTER WAY. A Spiritualistic weekly journal. Published in Cincinnati, O. Single copy, 5 cents.

THE EASTERN STAR. A weekly journal. Published at Bangor, Me. Single copies 3 cents.

THE PATH. A Monthly Magazine, devoted to Universal Brotherhood, Theosophy in America, and Aryan Philosophy. Single copy, 20 cents.

THE ESOTERIC. A Monthly Magazine of Advanced and Practical Esoteric Thought. Published in Boston. Single copy, 15 cents.

MENTAL HEALING. A Monthly Magazine. Published in Boston, Mass. Single copies 10 cents.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.

Each line in Agate type, twenty cents for the first and every insertion on the fifth or eighth page, and fifteen cents for each subsequent insertion on the seventh page.
Special Notices forty cents per line, Minion, each insertion.
Business Cards thirty cents per line, Agate, each insertion.
Notices in the editorial columns, large type, leaded matter, fifty cents per line.
Payments in all cases in advance.

☞ Advertisements to be renewed at continued rates must be left at our Office before 12 M. on Saturday, a week in advance of the date whereon they are to appear.

☞ Only small and light cuts will be allowed in the advertising columns. When accepted, our rates for that portion of the advertisement occupied by the cut will be one-half price in excess of the regular rates.
Electrotypes of pure type matter will not be accepted.
The publishers reserve the right to reject any and all electrotypes.

The BANNER OF LIGHT cannot well undertake to vouch for the honesty of its many advertisers. Advertisements which appear fair and honorable upon their face are accepted, and whenever it is made known that dishonest or improper persons are using our advertising columns, they are at once interdicted.

We request patrons to notify us promptly in case they discover in our columns advertisements of parties whom they have proved to be dishonorable or unworthy of confidence.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Dr. F. L. H. Willis may be addressed as usual for the summer Glenora, Yates Co., N. Y.
My19 7w*

Andrew Jackson Davis, Seer into the causes and natural cure of disease. Send for information to his office, 63 Warren Avenue, Boston, Mass. tf Ap7

H. A. Kersey, No. 3 Bigg Market, Newcastle-on-Tyne, will act as agent in England for the BANNER OF LIGHT and the publications of Colby & Rich during the absence of J. J. Morse.

To Foreign Subscribers the subscription price of the BANNER OF LIGHT is $3,50 per year, or $1,75 per six months. It will be sent at the price named above to any foreign country embraced in the Universal Postal Union.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

REMOVAL.

DR. J. R. COCKE,

Developing and Business Medium, and Clairvoyant Physician,

HAS removed to 474 Shawmut Avenue, corner of Concord street, Boston, and will remain in the city during the summer. 2w* Jn23

WASHBURN HOUSE,

Longwood Avenue, Onset Grove,

Between Second and Third streets, near terminus of Onset Railroad.

A QUIET and comfortable House. Board, with room, per week, $7 to $10; including lodging, per day, $1,50. Meals per week, $5 to $6; single meals, 50 cents.
Je23 2w*

ONSET BAY.

BUY Excursion Tickets for East Wareham, and take the Onset Short Line Horse Railway for Onset Bay, and save money. Horse cars connect with every train. Check baggage for East Wareham. 1st1 Je16

ONSET BAY.

TO LET—A furnished Cottage of seven rooms, located at No. 12 South Boulevard. Apply to C. F. HOWARD, Foxboro', Mass. 2w* Je23

E. H. MATHEWS,

ELECTRICIAN and Psychometrist, Hotel Helen, Suite 3, Castle, near Washington street, Boston. Hours 9 A. M. to 4 P. M. Will answer calls to hold Seances in or out of the city on application. Can be engaged by Societies. Terms moderate. 1w* Je23

Massage and Magnetism.

MRS. DR. E. M. FAXON, 22 Winter street, Room 7A Boston. Obesity treated. Also instruction given.
Je23 10w*

DR. J. C. STREET,

78 Montgomery street, Boston, Mass.
Ap7 tf

SEND STAMP FOR SAMPLE COPY.—Everybody should advertise in ONSET HYMNS, the only advertising medium that is to be found everywhere, and in everybody's possession at Onset. FACTS PUB. CO., Drawer 5323, Boston. Je23

PROF. BEARSE, Astrologer, 259 Meridian st., East Boston, Mass. Your whole life written, horoscope thereof free of charge. Reliable on Business, Marriage, Disease, and all Financial and Social Affairs. Send age, stamp, and hour of birth if possible. 1w* Je23

MRS. M. E. WALKER, Test and Business Medium, Hours 10 to 4. Sittings by appointment. Terms $1,00. 1469 Washington street, Boston. 1w* Je23

LOVE FOR LIQUOR CURED. Secret free. Address A. WILLIS, Parkville, L. I., N. Y. 18tw* Je9

MRS. PARKER, Magnetic and Massage Treatments, No. 195 Harrison Avenue, Boston. 1w* Je23

Just Received from England.

Spirit Workers

IN THE

HOME CIRCLE.

AN AUTOBIOGRAPHIC NARRATIVE OF PSYCHIC PHENOMENA IN FAMILY DAILY LIFE EXTENDING OVER A PERIOD OF TWENTY YEARS.

BY MORELL THEOBALD, F. C. A.

Some of the most astonishing phenomena in the history of Modern Spiritualism are recorded in this volume, the descriptions of which are given with a marked degree of fidelity to detail and effort to corroborate their truth by unimpeachable testimony. They include independent writing in various languages, on walls and ceilings, in closed apartments and on note books in locked desks; lighting of lamps and fires; filling of kettles with water, and making preparations for breakfast, even to cooking food, making tea and "laying the table"; organ playing with no one visibly present; materialization and dematerialization of forms and fabrics, bringing of flowers, ringing of bells and movements of physical objects. Fac-Similes are given of various writings, one of them in Greek, with a translation. The book covers a period of twenty years, and of each of the phenomena above specified, together with others, numerous instances are narrated.

The author says that the book has been written in the intervals of a busy professional life, which fact has proved of advantage; for, while as careful as possible not to be carried away by enthusiasm, or by imagination, in a region where in there is much scope for their action, the disjointed method of working he was compelled to adopt operated as a protection against a surrender to mere fantasy.

Demy 8vo, cloth, pp. 306. Price $2,50; postage 15 cents. For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Essence and Substance:

A TREATISE ON

Organic and Inorganic Matter: The Finite and The Infinite: Transient and Eternal Life.

BY WARREN CHASE,

Author of "Life-Line of the Lone One" and "Gist of Spiritualism."

Mr. Chase is known to be a deep thinker and close reasoner; his radical ideas are often original, and always frankly and clearly expressed, and this work presents the fundamental principles on which he bases his evidence of eternal life, and gives a concise view of the doctrine of repeated incarnations without re-incarnation. The origin of human life on earth is treated in a new and interesting manner, which cannot fail to interest the reader. The author has given many years and much thought to these subjects, and has put forth in this work a theory that satisfies his critical and skeptical mind of eternal life, which he does not think any more attached to the spiritual forms that we put on at death, and which our friends appear in, than it is to those mortal bodies, although evidently of much longer duration.

Cloth, price 75 cents; paper, 50 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

NINETEENTH CENTURY SENSE:

The Paradox of Spiritualism.

By JOHN DARBY (DR. GARRETSON),

Author of "Odd Hours of a Physician," etc., etc.

It is a very thorough and comprehensive discussion of the subject, which will awaken considerable interest among thoughtful persons. The author's method is ingenious and original, and, aiming as he does to reconcile the apparently unreconcilable, his conclusions will prove worthy of careful consideration.

16mo. Extra cloth, $1.00.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

"Health is a thing to be attended to constantly. There is no kind of achievement in the world that is equal to perfect health."—THOMAS CARLYLE.

"I am weary, oh! my brothers."—MRS. BROWNING.

TIRED!
TIRED!
TIRED!

Is the voiceless cry going up from the world's busy workers to-day. Weariness, which is not a passing sensation but an abiding consciousness, is a direct warning that body and mind have been too long subjected to the overstrain of our present mode of life. Our ancestors may have been stout and strong, but WE manifestly suffer from faults of organization, nourishment or vital stimulation. The attention of thinking people and seekers after truth is therefore invited to a new Curative System, embracing scientific Magnetic Remedies which will restore the harmony and balance of the great nerve centres, and thus virtually renew the springs of life and action.

This practice—the Magnetic Heilend System—has been introduced in this country by DR. EDITH HALE with remarkable success. Its principles are new. It marks the advance of the age in curing serious chronic maladies: Indigestion, Obesity, Nervous Prostration, Liver and Kidney Disorders, Diseases of Women, Heart Difficulties, Paralysis, Scrofula and Cancer, without recourse to drugs, which are poisons in their essential nature.

Natural remedies, given in accordance with natural laws, WILL remove weariness, vitalize the energies, cure the torments of dyspepsia, the miseries of neuralgia, and the scourge of blood and skin disorders.

Semi-Invalids! YOU who seek health and strength, and desire to part company with Depression, Debility and the myriad taints of lurking disease; You who have the intelligence and candor to test these new Magnetic Remedies, are invited to confidential consultation with DR. EDITH HALE, Specialist in Chronic Diseases.

Distant Patients
Successfully Treated.

WRITE, stating your leading symptoms just as you would mention them to your nearest friend. Report your age, weight, temperament. Relate briefly what you know of yourself physically in the past, and what you dread for yourself in the future.

Enclose Consultation Fee—Two Dollars—and rely upon receiving in reply a full Diagnosis of your difficulties, sound counsel as to the means of permanent cure, and estimate of the necessary expense of the same.

Accompanying this Diagnosis will be sent postpaid a trial package of the leading Magnetic Remedy which would be prescribed for the individual case of the applicant.

This trial or sample of Remedy being offered to give the distant invalids the same opportunity of judging in this regard as they would obtain by calling at our office personally.

Further, the Consultation Fee of Two Dollars will be entered on DR. EDITH HALE'S Books, and when treatment or remedies are subsequently ordered, the Fee will be accredited to each one as so much already paid on account.

Treatises on Chronic Diseases, on Obesity, on Cancer, references, and full proof of success, together with general information, will be sent to any address on receipt of stamp.

Every letter will be placed on file, and in the order received will be answered with as little delay as is consistent with careful consideration of each case.

This liberal offer is made in the utmost good faith, desiring to benefit burdened and weary humanity.

Respectfully,

EDITH HALE, M. D.,

(Pupil of Dr. John Gordon of London and Prof. Carl Eberle of Germany.)
(Four Years' Foreign Training.)

Office 377 Columbus Avenue, Boston, Mass.

My26 1s13w*

SUBSCRIBE

FOR THE

BANNER OF LIGHT,

THE BEST

Family Paper

In the World!

It contains Original Essays; Original Stories. Verbatim Reports of Grand Lectures; Answers to Questions by Invisible Intelligences of the Greatest Interest to the World at Large; Characteristic Messages from Decarnated Individuals to their Friends and Relatives in the Earth-Life; Editorials on a Great Variety of Subjects; Current Events; Highly Interesting Correspondence from all over the Country, Etc., Etc.

Our Premium List,

Which entitles each Subscriber to an Interesting Book or a Fine Engraving,

Is also a Strong Inducement for the People to Subscribe.

☞ As THE BANNER is sold at nearly all the Periodical Dépôts in the United States, and has a wide circulation in foreign countries, it is a capital avenue through which merchants and others can reach customers. REMEMBER THIS FACT!

In Re Dr. Talmage.

A Synopsis of a Discourse by the Guides of

MRS. R. S. LILLIE,

Delivered in Berkeley Hall, Boston, Sunday Morning, May 6th, 1888, in Answer to the Recent Attack on Modern Spiritualism by Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., of Brooklyn.

Also Excerpts from a Letter by "Eleanor Kirk."

The above have been published by COLBY & RICH in four-page tract form, and should be extensively circulated.
Price by mail, 5 copies 5 cents; 15 do., 10c.; 30 do., 15c.

YOUR ANSWER OR YOUR LIFE;

OR,

The Riddle Propounded by the American Sphinx.

BY MOSES HULL.

An intensely interesting statement of the dangers which threaten our Republic and civilization.

Mr. Hull says, in his preface: "There is little that is original in this book; I have striven simply to point out some of the dangers we are under, and to signify the way of escape."

Pamphlet, 12mo, pp. 100, with portrait of author. Price 25 cents; postage 3 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

MENTAL EVOLUTION;

OR,

The Process of Mental Action.

BY PROF. MICHAEL FARADAY.

New Series. Pamphlet; price 15 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

LIBERTY AND MORALITY, a Speech delivered by W. S. BELL at the New York State Free Thinkers' Convention at Watkins, N. Y., Aug. 26th, 1862. Paper, 15 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

THE NEW DISPENSATION; or, The Heavenly Kingdom. By D. W. HULL.

An argument showing that the prophecies supposed to refer to the Millennium meet their accomplishment in Modern Spiritualism.

Paper, 15 cents, postage 2 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Message Department.

Spiritual Free-Circle Meetings

Are held at the BANNER OF LIGHT OFFICE, 9 Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), on TUESDAY and FRIDAY AFTERNOON of each week.

On Tuesday afternoon MISS M. T. SHELHAMER occupies the platform for the purpose of answering by her spirit guides such questions as may be introduced for consideration.

On Friday afternoon MRS. B. F. SMITH, under the influence of her guides, will afford an avenue through which individual spirit messages will be given.

The Hall (which is used only for these séances) will be open at 2 o'clock; the services commence at 3 o'clock precisely, at which time the doors will be closed, allowing no ingress or egress. The public is cordially invited.

☞ Persons having questions of practical bearing upon human life in any of its departments of thought and labor, which they would like answered by the spirit-world intelligences, may send them to THE BANNER OF LIGHT office by mail, or hand them to the Chairman of the Circle, who will present them to the spirits for consideration.

☞ The Messages published in this Department indicate that spirits carry with them the characteristics of their earth-life to that beyond—whether for good or evil; that those who pass from the earthly sphere in an undeveloped state, eventually progress to higher conditions. We ask the reader to receive no doctrine put forth by spirits in these columns that does not comport with his or her reason. All express as much of truth as they perceive—no more.

☞ It is our earnest desire that those who recognize the messages of their spirit-friends will verify them by informing us of the fact for publication.

☞ Natural flowers upon our Circle-Room table are gratefully appreciated by our angel visitants, therefore we solicit donations of such from the friends in earth-life who may feel that it is a pleasure to place upon the altar of Spirituality their floral offerings.

☞ Letters of inquiry in regard to this Department of THE BANNER must not be addressed to the mediums in any case. LEWIS B. WILSON, Chairman.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED,

THROUGH THE MEDIUMSHIP OF

Miss M. T. Shelhamer.

Report of Public Séance held April 24th, 1888.

Spirit Invocation.

Oh! thou Infinite Presence of Life and Love, thou Divine Consciousness, thou Grand Intelligence, we recognize thee as the All in All, the great Over-Soul of existence, and realizing that thou dost contain within thyself the entire sum of life, we understand that we are a part of thee, even as thou art in us. Oh! our Father, may we at this time learn some little truth that shall illuminate our souls anew with grander light. May we gain some instruction that shall inspire our minds and expand our natures. May we grow in knowledge, and may we quicken in sympathy with each other, so as to come under thy law of perfect harmony and enduring peace.

At this hour we would enter into close association with thy angel ones, receiving from them such ministration and inspiration as may seem best to them. May we also be ready and fitted to give forth from our own inner lives some helpful influence, some sweet and cheerful magnetism, which will be of use and blessing to those dear ones who return from immortal life. May we feel that we alone are not to be benefited by this soul-communion, but that it is our privilege and our duty to send forth from the deepest recesses of our own hearts something that is holy, and pure, and sweet, that the angels may gather and use for themselves.

We give our welcoming thought, our greeting and our love to such of thy ministering spirits as can and will return to bless our lives. Amen.

S. B. Nichols.

A near and dear friend, Mr. Chairman, has privately requested me to speak from your platform, concerning things as I see them from the spirit-world; and as your spirit president has kindly invited me to precede him in replying to the questions, as I find the moment propitious for my control of your instrument, I feel deeply grateful, for I feared I might not be able to speak toward the close of your meeting.

I do not come with any special word of identification, as I do not specially believe in a spirit seeking his personal friends through such public avenues, unless he has no other possible way of reaching the homes of those whom he loves. Now, my friends can find private avenues through which I may reach them, with my quiet word and characteristic thought, which may identify me personally to them; therefore now I come to speak to my friends at large; those who retain my memory and who think of me at times, not as of one dead, but as a living entity. To each and all, I send my cordial good-will and hearty greeting. I am gratified to come in this way and send them an expression of regard and remembrance.

I would say to the particular friend who has mentally requested me to speak: I have received your thought and understood its purport, and shall try to respond as best I can.

Truly the leaven is working in the great mass of Spiritualism. Just now, and perhaps for some time to come, you will perceive much of turmoil and commotion, and much that will seem upon the surface only, and yet there is a power moving, not only on the face of the waters, but indeed beneath the surface, and it shall by-and-bye express itself in unmistakable ways of service to mankind.

I believe I am speaking only that which is true in these my remarks, for I can, in company with many other watchful spirits, behold a spiritual movement going on now in our very midst. There is, seemingly, an overturning of things, even of principles—but only in seeming—for the great and important work is to bring forth all that which is harmful and tends to disaster in our cause; to slough it off, to get rid of it, and to retain only that which is lasting and beneficial.

I am a friend of all true mediums. I would not for a moment have any innocent instrument of the spiritual world reviled or persecuted; I would cast over each one the mantle of helpful charity and extend to all who are sincere and earnestly desirous of doing good and serving the higher powers, not only the hand of greeting, but that of spiritual support, so far as it can be given; but I am an uncompromising foe to all that is dishonorable and impure in Spiritualism or in any other field of reform or of labor; and if there be such within our ranks I believe there are heavenly powers which will search it out and bring it forth, that it may be cast to the winds and dispelled.

My idea is, that all the commotion and the turmoil at the present time are tending to good results, the purification not only of ideas and opinions, but of individual lives, and I say to my friend who is anxiously asking these questions, as well as to others: Do not fear; let the light shine; let the blow fall if it destroys that which is evil, for it most certainly cannot disastrously affect that which is founded upon truth. As a friend to all honest mediumship, and as a friend to pure Spiritualism, I sometimes, Mr. Chairman, raised my voice in denunciation of that which to me appeared false and impure. I know that at times I was misunderstood and opposed by those who, if they could have realized my true position, would have clasped hands with me and have traveled along the same road.

From my spirit-home I can see the past and realize where mistakes have been made on both sides, and to-day I return, announcing myself the same friend of honest truth as in the past, and yet the same foe to all that is evil or error.

Perhaps some of my critical friends will inquire if I feel myself so perfect that I can afford to be the enemy of all that is imperfect. No; for no one is more conscious of his shortcomings than I. In seeking to set up a standard of progress and of right doing, that I may reach in time by earnest effort, I feel that I have a right to ask the same of those who would claim association and kinship with the spiritual world.

This is my greeting and my word to the friend who has called me, as well as any other friends who desire to hear from me. Though a spirit, I am not idle. I find many things to employ my hands, many thoughts to attract my mind, and as I attend to those which come up to me from day to day, I only find the duties and employments increasing, my spiritual surroundings growing more broad and free, and I realize all the more deeply my duty in life and my relationship to God and the angel world. I not only send my greetings to my friends in Brooklyn, N. Y., but to those in other places. S. B. Nichols.

Questions and Answers.

CONTROLLING SPIRIT.—And now, Mr. Chairman, I will attend to your questions.

QUES.—Will the spirit control please name a cure for neuralgia?

ANS.—Neuralgia is another name for those pains which arise in the physical system through the lack or depletion of nerve force. This may be occasioned by two causes, that of a vitiated state of the vital fluid, with unequal circulation, and that of a decrease of nervous energy because of over-exertion of the mind or body; hence we must look for a remedy in the cause of the complaint, and if one has so abused his system, ignorantly or with his full knowledge, as to produce this state of affairs within it, then he must apply the corrective principle for himself.

It is necessary, then, for one to seek an enrichment of the blood who is afflicted by neuralgia. This can best be done by proper attention to food and exercise, and to the inhalation of clear, fresh air, and pure sunlight. We do not believe very much in the application of drugs of any kind in this matter, because we realize that the very best condition of the blood can be produced by obedience to nature's laws.

It is also necessary for one thus afflicted to refrain from the indulgence of any emotion which preys upon the nervous system—to keep the mind as calm as possible, to avoid over-exertion of the brain in mental employments, and to seek a proper degree of rest or recuperative force.

Neuralgia is very often promoted through want of sleep, or what is called insomnia. One must gain needed hours of rest for the body, if he would be freed from those nervous pains. It would not be wise to lay down any special rules of medical treatment for the general public who may be afflicted with this difficulty, because very much depends upon the constitution, temperament, habit and surroundings of the patient, and what would be beneficial to one might be, if not injurious, at least of no service to another.

We have been told that in systems afflicted by neuralgia, that are phlegmatic by nature, lemon juice, taken daily in clear cold water several times, will, if persisted in, produce a cure; and we have been told, also, that this would not be efficacious to people of a highly nervous temperament, sanguine, quick and impulsive, but that, with such, the daily application to the affected parts of water as hot as can be borne, together with friction applied, or even by the aid of the galvanic battery, a degree of health may be restored; that with such people it would also be well to partake several times a day of a cup of water heated nearly to the boiling point, or at least taken as hot as can possibly be swallowed. So we have been told of various remedies, efficacious in certain cases, but one must know exactly the condition of the patient, his surroundings and general daily habits, before one could give that advice which might be directly beneficial.

It follows, however, from what we know of this form of disease, that he who keeps his physical system in a healthy state, who keeps his mind free from anxieties, and acquires nightly a certain amount of sleep, from seven to eight hours, partakes of wholesome, easily digestible food, will not be afflicted by neuralgia, neurasthenia, or any other nervous disorder.

Q.—Considering the rapid growth of liberal religious sentiment, is it reasonable to suppose that the people of this country as a whole will ever become tyrannized by any one powerful church oligarchy, as those of other countries in past ages have been?

A.—We do not think it possible for the American nation to be brought under the dominion of any churchly rule. This nation is made up of a very large number of forces and of individuals, not conservative, but cosmopolitan, belonging to the world at large, and there cannot be any such stupendous crystallization of opinion and religious thought as would be necessary to give authority in this country to any established church or ecclesiastical rule. We do not fear this in the slightest degree. Man is progressive by nature, and the conditions and surroundings of this great free republic of yours are such that they afford to man almost the highest facility for developing that element of advancement which he certainly contains within himself. We are not going backward, in any sense of the word; we are continually pressing forward. Those countries and nations which have been held under the dominion of churchly rule, of priestcraft, in any form, have only been so because of the old-time conservative opinion and element of the race and of the locality. These have been established for ages, we will admit, and yet, even in those quarters of the globe, and with those people, progress has made its way, and shown itself to the world, consequently man has advanced, outgrowing old opinions, throwing off from himself the shackles of conservative thought, where it would blind and cramp his consciousness and his free independent mind, and although there are localities in the world, even to-day, where the power of the church is maintained over and recognized by the people, yet this power is of but little moment compared to that which it held over its subjects a century or two ago.

In many places this power is merely an outward form, an external force, which, having no spirit within it, cannot possibly wield that authority which one might suppose, not understanding the interior workings of the case; and even in those directions where the greatest amount of potency is maintained even now the shackles are breaking, for thought is becoming more and more liberalized, and man entertains it, even unconsciously to himself.

We look forward to the condition of this country of yours, in the ages that are to come, and we realize that it is to grow more and more liberal—conservative in degree, as far as conservatism is required for the legal and religious protection of its people, but not conservative in any sense where conservatism becomes molded into crystallization and retards progress. We believe that a grand spiritualizing, elevating, religious sentiment will permeate the entire mass of the people in the time that is to be, but that no external creeds and dogmas, no sectarian power or force will hold the people of this country in a mighty and enslaving clasp. The tendency is to outgrow all chains and shackles, to put aside all that does not conform with the laws of reason and of judgment, and as minds expand, as men and women grow stronger, more powerful in thought and in mental courage, we will find the clouds of ignorance dispersing, the light of truth taking their place, and in such an event it would not be possible for any line or rule of ecclesiasticism, any dogma or formula of sectarianism, to confine the people of the state or of the nation.

Q.—Does the spirit of a departed loved one feel any jealousy at the happiness of the former earth-love in his or her happiness with a new-found earth-love?

A.—That depends very much upon the spiritual progression and development of the departed loved one. If the spirit has within his being elements that are akin to the earthly state and of the physical condition, he may possibly feel that emotion called jealousy arising in his heart, when he beholds the object of his affection associating kindly and lovingly with some one else on earth; but such an emotion arising in the heart of a spirit, clearly indicates that its possessor is not a well developed entity; that he is lacking in spiritual grace and unfoldment; that he is of a selfish nature, exacting, seeking only his own gratification, and ignoring the pleasure or the happiness of others. One who truly loves, as spirits ought to love, will not feel any such sensation at witnessing the happiness of a dear one on earth; on the contrary, he will desire to see that loved one surrounded by such conditions of home-life and congenial association as will bring to that friend just the highest degree of happiness and helpful experience possible to attain. Such a spirit will feel gratified when he beholds his dear one on earth entering into those conditions which may afford harmony, peace and happy companionship. A spirit exalted, progressive, unselfish by nature, will not desire to see a loving friend kept amid the clouds of sorrow and unhappiness, merely because of some fond memory or of some experience that is past; he will desire the very best for those who are dear to him. He can indeed find progress and happiness for himself in the contemplation of such a state, in the lives of his beloved, because receiving from them cheerful and happy influences that will react upon his own life and afford him conditions for enjoying the spiritual surroundings which he has found.

Q.—[By L. G. N.] Will parties, married or unmarried, who live at variance in this life, become amicably related in the spirit-world, and through experiencing a change of surroundings and conditions live there in harmony?

A.—It may be. Many have done so, and many more undoubtedly will pursue the same line of experience in years to come. It depends entirely upon the inner qualities of the parties mentioned.

Two may be closely associated on earth, who, not understanding each other, never come so closely within the atmosphere of one another as to blend magnetically. They may live at variance with each other from year to year. Misunderstandings will arise, misrepresentations may occur, there may be much that is unpleasant between them, for they have never really gone down so far into the depths of each other's lives as to comprehend what was within. These persons may pass to the spirit-world, become divested of the environments of earth, and set apart from its physical conditions and limitations they enter the spiritual atmosphere and find themselves more free, more harmoniously related to each other than they ever did before. Why? Because now their atmosphere may blend, for they understand the secret lives of one another and can adjust their differences in an amicable manner. It may be found with such that a true lasting affection is possessed, and that they would not be happy if separated from each other, therefore they gravitate to the same locality in spirit-life, take up similar pursuits and associations, and as the years go by come into closer relationship, blend more completely together than they ever possibly could on earth.

On the other hand, we find two other individuals situated on earth, in the same place, and closely associated together, yet they are never really in harmony with each other, constant bickerings occur, a great diversity of opinion arises in the mind of each, and they can never seem to adjust their differences. These two individuals pass to the spirit-life. There has been, and there is, nothing in the constitution of each which can possibly blend or assimilate with the magnetic aura of the other, therefore they are not spiritually related, they do not belong to each other in any sense of the term, and although they may stand side by side, they are as far apart in thought, in feeling and affection as though the poles of the earth intervened between them. Such spirits can never be harmonized to that extent as to be happy and drawn into each other's presence. They may, perhaps, agree to disagree, and think kindly of one another, but they will not desire to dwell in association together, so each will seek his own class of attraction and his own kind; the two will never make up a union of heart and soul, such as must be formed by two spirits who are in perfect harmony in the spiritual world.

Q.—What are the "difficulties and especially the dangers of spiritual mediumship and development," which are mentioned often?

A.—The difficulties and the dangers of mediumistic development may be many, or they may be few, according to the idea, tendency and general habits of those who seek the unfoldment of mediumship. If one is aspirational by nature, desires to develop his powers only for good works, and is anxious to come under the management and within the influence of good, wise and loving spirits, he need not fear many dangers in his search for mediumship, even though certain difficulties may arise along the way. It is difficult for one to unfold mediumship, unless properly caparisoned for such work and properly surrounded in his daily life. By properly caparisoned, we mean he should have a mind willing to conform to those rules and conditions which higher powers will bring to him in unfolding his medial gifts. He must be content to be a passive instrument in their hands, and while exercising his judgment upon the matter or influence which they bring, that he may be sure they are wise and good, yet willing, when he finds they have the proper qualities, to yield his own will and desire to those which may be superior. By being properly surrounded, we mean the daily life and association, especially the companionship of the searcher, should be that which is helpful to spirit-presence of a high character. He should dwell with those who are sympathetic and affectionate, willing to serve him in any way that will do him good; at the same time he should be willing to accord the same helpfulness to his friends. This creates an atmosphere of harmony which is very beneficial in the development of mediumship. One should also attend to his external life—not only to the food he eats and the air he breathes, but also to his daily exercise. He should hold his sittings in a well-ventilated apartment, with congenial friends, at stated intervals, invoking the presence of the pure and good of spirit-life and willing to accord them all he possibly can of encouragement and of good cheer. If this can be followed patiently and perseveringly there may not be any danger coming to the searcher in his work. At first he may find difficulties arising, because the development may seem very slow and uncertain; but it takes time for spirits to collect their forces, to get their medium's place of sitting magnetized, and to adjust conditions that they be the most harmonious for their work.

After this, the spirits will operate upon their instrument here and there, in various directions, developing and stimulating the vital powers and qualities as best they can, to the end of unfolding mediumship that will be useful to the world, and at the same time beneficial to their subject. It is true that there are dangers connected with the development of mediumship if one leaves his home and goes out into the world, promiscuously sitting with any class of people whom he may happen to meet, because he thinks it possible he may gain some help thereby. The man is likely to come in contact with spirits who may not be highly exalted, who may belong to some undeveloped condition of life, and consequently, if these spirits are strong in magnetic power and positive will, they may fasten upon him, leading him astray by strange statements and falsifying assertions, and bringing to him a painful experience in consequence. If one is impure by nature, selfish, seeking the power of mediumship to enrich himself without caring for the good or ill of others, he will attract spirits who are sordid by nature, ungovernable in temper, and wild in character, and they will, of course, bring to him an influence and magnetism according to their state, which may prove of the greatest injury to him, and to all associated with him; certainly it cannot be elevating. Such an influence should be denied and excluded. These are dangers which one should guard against in seeking to become a medium, and which all may be protected from who are pure-minded, who are careful to search only for the right and the truth, amid harmonious surroundings and congenial friends.

Q.—[By A. S. E.] Is anything known in the spirit-world of those who inhabited New Mexico, the ruins of whose homes and temples still exist, and of the time when those cities were flourishing? If so, please give us such information as your knowledge and the limited time will enable you to impart.

A.—There are not only records in the spirit-world concerning the pre-historic life of that locality now called New Mexico, but there are also, in the great spirit-world, bands of people, progressive by nature and advancing in thought, who once dwelt in humble forms in that same locality. We understand that they are of the Aryan race; that they were quite an educated people, possessing a knowledge of certain arts and sciences, which would be considered in these days signs of culture and enlightenment in those who fortunately held them at this time.

We are informed—although personally we have not come in contact with these bands of people—that in their palmiest days they formed a nation, small but powerful and quite cultured, and that during the life of this nation all those people who came under its management and control were afforded the highest privileges for self-instruction and cultivation. Strange calamities fell upon the people, such as we may not speak of at the present time—for you are not ready to accept or understand them—but such as produced devastation in their midst; and, indeed, were the primary causes of the extinction of the race. In the spirit-world these bands of people maintain their hold upon life, studying the arts and sciences, and progressing from age to age with wondrous facility.

We have been informed by certain students in the spirit-world, who have become interested in this particular branch of study, that there are members of this class who are fitting themselves to return in contact with the earth's atmosphere, and search out mediumistic channels through which they may convey their matter to the world; but the world is not yet ready to receive and understand, therefore the time has not come for the development of such avenues of learning. When it has arrived, undoubtedly those who seek will learn much concerning the pre-historic times of New Mexico and the life and customs of its ancient people; also of that general condition which produced such devastation and even death, as the signs of the locality at this time and for centuries past have denoted to the world.

SPIRIT MESSAGES,

THROUGH THE TRANCE MEDIUMSHIP OF

Mrs. B. F. Smith.

Report of Public Séance held April 6th, 1888—Continued from last issue.

Louisa Merrill.

You may place me in Haverhill, Mass.—Ayer's Village, I guess that would be more correct. Louisa Merrill. I have tried many times to give a few words in your good paper, but have failed.

I would say to the children that father is with me, Jonathan, and also the dear old grandmother and grandfather. Walter, how many times I have stood so near you that I could place my hand on you and bless you. Frank, since the trouble with your eyesight came to you I have stood by you as a mother would, and I never come without a blessing.

I often step into the old home where the spirit took its flight, but changes have come, many changes, since I left the homestead; yet I know I have not been wholly forgotten. I often feel that I am remembered, not only by relatives but by many neighbors.

Martha, I wish you would learn all you can, and I wish the whole family would open the door for the spirits and let us come in and commune with you wherever you can find a channel that we may be able to work through.

Oh! dear Father in heaven, watch over my children. How many times has the prayer gone up from the depth of my spirit that he would open their eyes spiritually, that they might know on this side of life that we are not dead, only changed from the mortal form. How glad was I when I found it was life, not death; that we just commence to live as we throw aside the old garment and put on the new. For all my sufferings here I am repaid in the beautiful home beyond the veil.

Only a thin veil closes mother from your sight to-day, my children. I am waiting just across the shining river to clasp your hands as you come up higher.

Amos Pearsons.

You may place me in St. Paul, Minn. My name, when in the mortal, and I suppose it has n't changed any, was Amos Pearsons. I know I shall well be remembered in St. Paul, as I know also this message will go right along, for there is no stopping your mails, sir, with snow-drifts, not at all. It will reach Clara and Fanny—God bless the child—and George Chandler's folks, beside. There is more than one I want to come into communication with. I know you mortals think St. Paul is a great way off, but it did n't take me more than three or four seconds to come here. You see we do n't need your railroads, neither do we want your telegraphs, we can come much quicker, and this power is given from "the great I Am." Often the question has been asked: "If the spirit went to God, who gave it, how does it get back here again?" Let me ask you, who believe the spirit goes to God, where is God? Everywhere present. Then it brings us with you, does it not? And if God is everywhere present, then we can come to you without much trouble.

Clara, I want you to learn all you can, for I know whereof I speak; it will help you as you come into spirit-life. This life is a life of advancement; our life is one of progression. I know you will teach the darling daughter that father lives, and if he lives, you will live also. It was a hard stroke when they said, "Amos is dead." A cruel word, for death should be changed to the beginning of life.

I know the question will be asked if I am happy in the spirit home. Yes; the answer goes back again and again, I am happy, and if we could return to earth to stay by the turning of the hand we would say no, we thank you, we are contented, happy and satisfied with the homes beyond the veil. We have crossed the portal that you mortals all must cross.

Mary True.

I have a very few words that I would like to speak, and I hardly know how to do it. You may place me at Amesbury, Mass., or Salisbury, it makes but little difference. Mary True. I hope all things will be carried out according to my wishes. I know some will be a little dissatisfied, but, as sometimes has been said in earth-life, there is a little trouble if you leave anything, and there is a little trouble if you do not. So I must make the best of it, and in time I shall speak again; but finding the channel open, I desired to say these few words. Each one will understand which it applies to. I know, for certain reasons, it is better not to speak names.

Ella Downes Neal.

You may place me in Newark, N. J. Ella Downes Neal. I know this message will reach some hearts that will be made glad to know Ella can speak. Mother and father, but a little time and we shall come together. Willie, I am so happy in my spirit-home. [Aside:] Yes, dear. Daisy wishes to be remembered.

I want to tell Minnie that we will try to give her some convincing tests, that she may know we live. She often says she can't just take that down. I have met her father, Hinman, in the spirit, and as soon as he is able he will give out something to her.

I wish, Will, you would send this letter to Loren; also I wish Clara and Eddie and Belle may see it, and I know it will give you all comfort to know I am happy in my spirit-home.

Willie, I have had so much comfort and happiness in the few communications I have given out through some organizations that I have been able to control, as I have conversed with you; but sometimes I could not do all I wished to. It was no fault of the medium—no fault anywhere—but the power was not quite strong enough. You know, Willie, when I can take control and talk right direct to you, it seems more like Ella. I am so glad that I find each one is trying to learn a little something of the beyond.

Frank, he is with me to-day, and Grandma Neal. Lucy says that as soon as she can get power enough she will send a message also; so, you understand, we are all as anxious to come into communication with you mortals as you can be to hear from us, although you feel as if we have drifted so far away that we may not be able to return to earth. Oh! no, we are not so far from you but we love to come to earth, for it is but a step at the most, and much happiness it gives us when we find the doors of the spirit-world open. It is the sociability of the spirit that attracts us to you dear ones here.

Mother, I feel that I shall sometime be able to come into communication with you privately, as I have with nearly all the others. Do n't think that Ella or Daisy forgets you, mother. Never. And, father, how happy you were when you found you could come into communication with Frank and Ella. Father, I know you will say: "Why, Ella, do you not try to manifest in our own home?" Oh! dear father, how little do you understand the spirit law. You understand earthly laws, but not that which we are governed, held and led by, as much as you are by the earthly law. We are not constantly all together, but a part of the time we drift away wherever the dictation of the spirit leads us. I have been with you, Will, for the last twenty-four hours, most of the time, because there was an attraction that held me there.

John Carr.

I would like to send a few words home to the loved ones, thinking it may give them some satisfaction. You may put me down as John Carr, of Windham, N. H. For a long time I have walked up and down in this meeting. I have n't made much noise, but I thought somebody might know I was here. Sally is here with me. I want to tell John to be careful, very careful, or they will come for him before he gets his medicine fixed. I am happy in my spirit home. John, do n't be in such trouble over the child. You can't help that. Let them do as the doctor told you. I do n't mean your doctor in the flesh, but on the spirit side. And I do n't see anything but what it will come all right.

Robbie is here, too. I want to know if Sam is going to fix up that business. It makes very little difference to me, only while I am here I feel just as much of the earth, earthly, as you do, so it came across my mind, and I thought I'd speak of it; but I guess he knows his own business best, Mr. Chairman. But Johnson says: "Let him alone, then." Well, I was going to.

I know, through a kind friend, this will reach some of our people, because I have seen him reading the paper, and he knows all about our folks, although no relative. Do n't always have to be related to do a kind act, I can tell you. I know before I went out some of the neighbors were very kind.

I did n't say what I started to. That's all right enough; I'll just give them thanks; they did all they could for me, and for Sally, too. I am happy and satisfied; but when I come on to the old farm, it do n't look much as it used to. I aint finding any fault, remember. You can put a good long dash there. I know what I see, and I had pretty good eyesight. I never left the fences down; but it makes no difference, they 'll say, if there aint any cattle there.

You may just say it is uncle Johnnie Carr; that 's what a good many people called me. No relation, you know.

Charlie Newhall.

I would like to send a word to father and mother, though the doors are closed close. My home was in Saugus, Mass. Charlie Newhall. Oh! father, I know you mourned me; but what does it signify, for you must know, if you stop to think for one moment, that your boy still lives; for although the machinery sent me out, my spirit was not crushed at all. Charlie stands beside me and helps me, dear, good, faithful old friend as he is.

Mother, you know you taught me to believe in the good book. Turn it over and see what it means when it is said: "Here come men that have been dead two hundred years." Can you explain the meaning of that? Grandmother says: "No, you can't." Then, if they did appear eighteen hundred years ago, dear mother, they do to-day. God's laws are unchanged, unbroken, and we do come. Mother and father, do n't be creed-bound, and do n't think for one moment that it is wrong for your Charlie to come to earth. You often feel like saying: "Why did they take him away, when we loved him as dearly and tenderly as father and mother could?" I felt that if ever there was a channel open, and I could get permission, I would speak to you. I do not ask to come to stay—not even if we were granted the power—but, father, I would ask you to open the door for your boy. Although sent out so suddenly, and you have mourned me so sincerely, father, you know not how much comfort and happiness it would give you if you could feel that you could come en rapport with me. Oh! why is it that we walk around among you, day by day, and you do not know it?

I think sometimes mother senses me a little more than you do, father. Not but what you mourn me the same. I sometimes see you walking back and forth to work, I by your side, and you looking sad all the time. It swept the house clean when they called me up higher, yet it was but a little space of time before I knew I could return home again. You must learn, father, that there is no death, and then you will feel happier, and can come into communication with your dear boy, Charlie.

I know this will reach father, for Charlie says his father will send him the paper, so I do n't ask you, Mr. Chairman, to send it.

Fannie Burr.

I have tried many times to give a few words, that father might know I was not dead. I lived in Everett, Mass. Fannie Burr. Father has felt sometimes that I was near him, and mother also—for we are together. I want to say to father, Georgianna and Allie, that we come often into their homes. When the angels came for me father felt he could not part with me; but mother beckoned me up higher. How sweet was the smile she gave me, as she said, "Come, my darling child, to my arms again." I often step into the home, but I feel sometimes as if they hardly realized for one moment that mother and myself and grandma do come.

I wish to be remembered to my darling friend Ida; when I see her often stitching on the bonnets, I feel that she would smile could she turn and see me standing beside her. I know she will say: "Fannie, I would only be too glad to realize your presence with me." And I feel that in time, dear Ida, you will be more conscious of my presence than you have been. I often come into contact with your Uncle William and the beautiful little Birdie.

I am happy in my spirit-home. Mother sends greetings to father and the children, as she terms them. Father, listen, for the little sounds all mean something, as much as the click of the telegraph. You have heard them. Now listen again, and we feel we may have power given us to make you hear us again. Father, as mother says, this life is but the shadow; ours is the real.

SPIRIT MESSAGES

TO BE PUBLISHED NEXT WEEK.

April 13.—Darius Shaw; Charles Hatch; Lucy Merritt; Susie Union; Adella De Vere Mathews; Benjamin Symerton; Nellie Montgomery; Loammi Baldwin; Emma M. Livermore; Job Simmons; John Farnsworth; William Messenger; Ralph Severance; Arey Oliver; Hiram Chandler.

THE MESSAGES GIVEN (THROUGH MRS. B. F. SMITH) As per dates will appear in due course.

June 8.—Benjamin Chadsey; Lottie Cone; Abbie Newell; Lottie Wood; Celia Thomas; Abbie Cilley; Henry C. Sullivan; Oliver Le Forrest Goss; Jeanette L. Cross; John Bidwell; Sarah Lakey; Mary Andrews; Sarah E. Lyons; Margaret Splaine.

Verifications of Spirit-Messages.

MARY TURNER.

A communication in the BANNER OF LIGHT of June 2d, purporting to come from MARY TURNER, was most characteristic of the late Mrs. Mary Turner, who was a resident of Cambridge, Mass. As is said in the message, Mrs. Turner was a constant visitor to Mrs. N. J. Willis, of that city, and found great comfort in her declining days in communing with spirit friends. No one who had known Mrs. Turner could doubt the truthfulness of the communication which was given through the Message Department of your valued paper. Respectfully yours, 52 Kilby street, Boston, Mass. CHAS. H. BROWN.

HORACE M. RICHARDS.

I read in THE BANNER of June 2d a message from HORACE M. RICHARDS, whom I knew when in the form. It partakes of his truest and best nature, and in the expression of wish when he says "I had a work in mind which I desired to complete and give the world," is like him. To his many Philadelphia friends, and hosts of them in other places, the message gives evidence that he still lives and remembers them, and pleasantly and satisfactorily demonstrates our knowledge of a life beyond, that we can and do hear from those who have passed thither.

W. L. JACK, M. D.

Haverhill, Mass., June 4th, 1888.

AUGUSTUS SMITH.

I extend my thanks to Mrs. Smith for the communication received from AUGUSTUS SMITH, Lynn, Mass., in the BANNER OF LIGHT, May 5th. I trust he will be enabled to reach me again through this channel.

MRS. AUGUSTUS SMITH.

Lynn, Mass., June 13th, 1888.

NEW MUSIC.—We have received from Messrs. White, Smith & Co., publishers, 516 Washington street, Boston, the following choice compositions: Songs: "Spread Out Your White Sails," by C. A. White; "Magnificat," by Ett; "Joy Shall E'er be Thine," C. A. White. Instrumental: "Po-ho-no Waltzes," by Eben H. Bailey; "Heart's Delight Schottische," "The Merry Boatman Barcarolle," and "The Primrose Waltz," by Paul Keller; "Valse Brillante," by Moritz Moszkowski; "Victor," Grand March for banjo, by Geo. C. Dobson.

In Siam the people worship the elephant. In this country they only want to see him.

DOVER BEACH.

Matthew Arnold, the original thinker, and worthy expounder of the gospel of "Sweetness and Light," passed to spirit-life from Liverpool, Eng., April 15th, 1888. By a strange coincidence, he left as his latest literary work the following poem, "DOVER BEACH," replete with the sad undertone of Agnosticism, and voicing a feeling which the Christian Church per se can never assuage. Had not Spiritualism made its advent some forty years ago, the ebbing tide of faith concerning the present life and its ultimate practical value—which Mr. Arnold so strikingly portrays—would long ere this have left the majority of mankind stranded on the shore of blank negation and surrounded by a more than Stygian darkness. Spiritualism, however—the morning star of the world's new day—meets the increasing demand of those who ask concerning the "What good?" of mortal experience, by revealing to all who will receive its light, the true uses of the trials and untoward conditions appertaining to the present existence, and their logical application to the needs of life as encountered in the next state of being.—ED. B. OF L.

The sea is calm to-night,
The tide is full, the moon lies fair
Upon the straits; on the French coast the light
Gleams and is gone; the cliffs of England stand
Glimmering and vast out in the tranquil bay.
Come to the window, sweet is the night air!
Only from the long line of spray,
Where the ebb meets the moon-blanched sand,
Listen! you hear the grating roar
Of pebbles, which the waves suck back and fling,
At their return, up the high strand,
Begin and cease, and then again begin,
With tremulous cadence slow, and bring
The eternal note of sadness in.

Sophocles long ago
Heard it on the Ægean, and it brought
Into his mind the turbid ebb and flow
Of human misery: we
Find also in the sound a thought,
Hearing it by this distant northern sea.
The sea of faith
Was once, too, at the full, and round earth's shore
Lay like the folds of a bright girdle furled;
But now I only hear
Its melancholy, long withdrawing roar,
Retreating to the breath
Of the night wind, down the vast edges drear
And naked shingles of the world.

Ah! love, let us be true
To one another! for the world which seems
To lie before us like a land of dreams,
So various, so beautiful, so new,
Hath really neither joy, nor love, nor light,
Nor certitude, nor peace, nor help for pain;
And we are here as on a darkling plain,
Swept with confused alarms of struggle and flight.
Where ignorant armies clash by night!

Planets in June.

Mercury is evening star. He takes the lead among the planetary brotherhood on the June record, being in the best condition for observation with the naked eye that will occur during the year. He reached his greatest elongation on the 12th, at 3h. P. M., and was then 24° 24′ east of the sun, nearly his maximum distance, and also in northern declination. These two conditions bring him out to the best advantage for northern observers, and he may easily be found by any one who knows his position in the sky. He sets nearly two hours after the sun, and must be looked for in the northwest, forming a triangle with Pollux and Procyon, the planet being west of the stars. An opera-glass will aid the search, and when once found in that way the unaided eye will easily follow the planet's course and recognize his wonderful brilliancy, unlike any other star in the heavens. His movement among the stars is westward.

Jupiter is evening star. He reigns through the month of June without a rival, and is one of the chief attractions of the starlit sky during this beautiful summer month, when the pure atmosphere and the mild temperature invite observers to raise their eyes as well as their thoughts to the star-spangled firmament. The royal planet is still retrograding or moving westward, as is plainly perceptible in his increasing distance from Beta Scorpii, the star he almost touched on May 20th. The nightly sky would be monotonous if there were nothing but the so-called fixed stars to tread over its vast concave. The planets, with their comings and goings, their meetings and partings, their changing size and brilliancy, lend an enchanting variety to the scenic effect that is more highly enjoyed and appreciated the more closely their wanderings are followed.

Mars is evening star. He is losing his ruddy hue and decreasing in size as he recedes from earth, and will soon become a comparatively insignificant star. His diameter when nearest to us at opposition, on April 11th, was 16.″6. He has changed his course, is now moving eastward and will continue to travel in a direct course until the end of the year. Uranus is retrograding, or moving westward, and the planets pass each other for the third time during the year. The first conjunction was on Jan. 9th, the second on May 5th, and the third on June 6th, at midnight, when Mars was 47° south of Uranus. After the last encounter the planets separated, and will not meet again until Mars has made a complete revolution and overtaken his slow-moving brother-planet. Mars is in some respects an unsatisfactory celestial neighbor. It takes him seven hundred and eighty days to move from one opposition to the succeeding one, and favorable conditions for observation continue about a month before and after opposition. The oppositions when Mars and the earth are at the nearest point to each other are separated by the long interval of fifteen years. The completion of this cycle will take place in 1892. Mars will then be four times as bright as he is in oppositions when the two planets are furthest apart.

Spiritualist Meetings.

ALBANY, N. Y.—First Spiritualist Society holds meetings each Sunday evening at Van Vechten Hall, 119 State street.—Ladies' Aid Society meets in its rooms adjoining the Hall each Friday afternoon and evening. D. M. S. Fero, President; J. D. Chism, Jr., Secretary.

CLEVELAND, O.—The Children's Progressive Lyceum No. 1 meets regularly every Sunday in G. A. R. Hall, 170 Superior street, commencing at 10½ A. M. Richard Carleton, Conductor; E. W. Gaylord, Secretary.

CINCINNATI, O.—The Society of Union Spiritualists holds meetings in Grand Army Hall, 115 West 6th street, every Sunday at 10½ A.M. and 7½ P.M., also Wednesday evening of each week, to which all are made welcome.

CINCINNATI, O.—The First New Spiritual Church of Cincinnati, Ohio, meets every Sunday at 10½ A.M. at Murch's Hall, No. 278 West 6th street, Dr. James A. Bliss, Pastor. The public are cordially invited. Seats free. Sunday School meets at 12 o'clock noon every Sunday. Spiritualists, come, and bring your children with you.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Society of United Spiritualists meets at Nos. 116 and 118 Fifth Avenue, every Sunday at 2½ P.M. A hearty welcome is extended to all visitors, but more especially to the mediums. F. B. Geoghegan, President, 17 Wisconsin street.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Chicago Association of Universal Radical Progressive Spiritualists' and Mediums' Society, organized on the 9th of May, A. D. 1884, meets in Spirits' Liberty Hall, No. 317 West Madison street, every Sunday, permanently, at 2½ and 7½ P.M. The public are cordially invited to attend. Admission 5 cents to each meeting. Dr. Norman McLeod, President.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Avenue Hall, 159 22d street. Children's Lyceum, Sunday, at 1½ P.M. Spiritualists' and Mediums' Meeting, 3 P.M. Sociables every Tuesday.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond discourses before the First Society of Spiritualists in Martine's (Ada street) Hall every Sunday morning and evening.

DENVER, COL.—Meetings are held Sunday evenings at Harmony Hall, Lawrence street, Mrs. F. A. Logan, conducting.

NEWARK, N. J.—First Association of Spiritualists, 177 Halsey street, corner of Market, evenings at 7½ o'clock. H. G. Avery, President.

NEWARK, N. J.—Meetings will be held every Sunday evening at No. 139 Congress street, commencing at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Jennie A. Smith, Secretary.

NEW HAVEN, CT.—Meetings are held each Sunday evening at Courier and Journal Building. Mrs. Ella Bacon, President; Thos. F. Davie, Secretary.

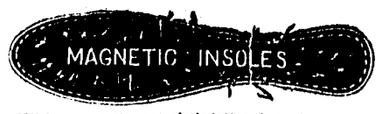
PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The First Association of Spiritualists, lectures every Sunday morning and evening. Children's Lyceum, 2 P. M., at the hall, 810 Spring Garden street. Joseph Wood President, B. P. Benner, Vice President and Secretary, 940 Warnock street. Second Association meets Sunday afternoons at 3 o'clock, at its Church, Thompson street, east of Front. T. J. Ambrosia, President, 1223 North Third street. Keystone Association meets Sunday at 2:30 P. M., N. E. corner Ninth and Spring Garden street. Joseph Wood, Chairman. Fourth Association meets Sunday evening, Ninth and Callowhill streets.

PATERSON, N. J.—Meetings are held every Sunday afternoon and evening in Fidelity Hall, corner Market and Church streets, at 2½ and 7½ P.M. Lecturers and test mediums are requested to communicate with John A. Roney, Cor. Sec'y, 65 Holsman street.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.—The First Society of Spiritualists holds meetings every Sunday in the Court of Appeals Room, Town Hall, at 10½ A.M. and 7½ P.M. All are invited. W. B. Mills, President; E. J. Huling, Secretary.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—The First Association of Spiritualists meets at 2½ P.M. every Sunday in Brandt's Hall, southwest corner of Franklin Avenue and Ninth street. Friends of the cause invited to attend, and correspondence solicited from America and Europe. H. W. Fay, President, No. 313 Market street; Milton Lyle, Cor. Sec., 3006 Olive street.

Advertisements.



THE following characteristic letter, from the pen of Lyman C. Howe, the veteran speaker and writer for the noble cause of Spiritualism, speaks for itself. Mr. Howe has worn our Shields for more than five years, and has had large experience with them among his friends. The readers of THE BANNER have implicit confidence in the integrity and good judgment of Mr. Howe. He always writes and speaks what he knows to be TRUE. Write him for further evidence about our Shields, and he will give his experience:

DR. THACHER:

Dear Sir—Your Magnetic Shields have some merit, but on the whole I am inclined to call them a fraud. They soothe and vitalize the nerves, put new life into the blood, warm cold feet, build up the debilitated and consumptive, create a row among the old sinners in the constitution, and keep stirring them until they enter upon a war of extermination, or commit suicide to escape; put neuralgia and rheumatism hors du combat, make a weak man vigorous and saucy, and cure family quarrels where they originate in bad blood or depraved nerves; but they don't mend cork legs nor glass eyes, nor cure warts on an evil temper. They should be a specific for total depravity, alcoholism, and especially for debilitated pocketbooks. Here is where they fail. If you can improve them so that you can guarantee a perfect cure for financial fits, consumptive bank accounts and religious hydrophobia, your fortune is made. Then, as your best advertising card, I would advise you to cover the Brooklyn Tabernacle and its pastor, and if you cure him you need waste no more printer's ink. Yours for health,

LYMAN C. HOWE,
Fredonia, N. Y.

CHICAGO MAGNETIC SHIELD COMPANY,
No. 6 Central Music Hall, Chicago, Ill.
Je9 4w*

CUTTER HOUSE,
WICKETT'S ISLAND.
Open for the Season, 1888.

ACCORDING to the oft-expressed wish of Dr. Abbie E. Cutter, late owner and proprietor, the House will be kept open to guests and carried on as outlined in her notice in this paper, and we hope the friends and patrons of past years, and all who are interested to give the best conditions to those who have passed on to a higher life, will join us in our efforts to give our dear departed one the opportunity to demonstrate what was her highest and dearest object in life.

We have the strongest faith in her ability to return and continue the work she had so earnestly commenced for the benefit of humanity and the world, both for time and eternity.

We take this opportunity to thank the many, many friends who have written us such kind letters of condolence in our GREAT bereavement. Address

Je16 tf W. O. CUTTER, Onset, Mass.

Dr. F. L. H. Willis
May be Addressed until further notice,
Clenora, Yates Co., N. Y.

DR. WILLIS may be addressed as above. From this point he can attend to the diagnosing of disease psychometrically. He claims that his powers in this line are unrivaled, combining, as he does, accurate scientific knowledge with keen and searching psychometric power.

Dr. Willis claims especial skill in treating all diseases of the blood and nervous system. Cancers, Scrofula in all its forms, Epilepsy, Paralysis, and all the most delicate and complicated diseases of both sexes.

Dr. Willis is permitted to refer to numerous parties who have been cured by his system of practice when all others had failed. All letters must contain a return postage stamp. Send for Circulars, with References and Terms.

Ap7 13w*

DR. J. R. NEWTON

STILL heals the sick! Spirit, Mind and Magnetic Cures at a distance through MRS. NEWTON. Send for testimonials to MRS. J. R. NEWTON, P. O. Station G., N. Y. City. 13w* Ap7

SOUL READING,
Or Psychometrical Delineation of Character.

MRS. A. B. SEVERANCE would respectfully announce to the public that those who wish, and will visit her in person, or send their autograph or lock of hair, she will give an accurate description of their leading traits of character and peculiarities of disposition; marked changes in past and future life; physical disease, with prescription therefor; what business they are best adapted to pursue in order to be successful; the physical and mental adaptation of those intending marriage; and hints to the inharmoniously married. Full delineation, $2.00, and four 2-cent stamps. Brief delineation, $1.00, and four 2-cent stamps.

Address, MRS. A. B. SEVERANCE,
Centre street, between Church and Prairie streets,
Ap7 6m* White Water, Walworth Co., Wis.

CUTTER HOUSE,
Wickett's Island.
Opens June 1st, 1888.

PARTIES desirous of spending the summer in a very healthy, quiet, spiritual place, with no inharmonious influences around them, should secure rooms at once. Mrs. M. E. Williams, the celebrated materializing medium, of New York, will spend the season at this place, and her guides will take an active part in co-operation with the Island band as Teachers for the higher unfoldment of physical and spiritual life. For terms and descriptive circular, enclose stamp. Address DR. ABBIE E. CUTTER, Onset, Mass. 13w* My31

Psychometric, Clairvoyant,
AND
Clairaudient Medium,

WILL diagnose and cure all diseases at any distance without the use of medicine. Diagnosis, $1.00; thirty entranced exercises, $10.00. Address GEORGE BANCROFT EMERSON, care N. MacLeod, 532 West Madison street, Chicago, Ill. 15w* Ap14

ASTONISHING OFFER.

SEND three 2-cent stamps, lock of hair, age, sex, one leading symptom, and your disease will be diagnosed free by spirit power. DR. A. B. DOBSON, Maquoketa, Iowa. Ap14 13w*

ONSET BAY.

TO LET, for the season, a Furnished Cottage of 6 Rooms. Pleasantly located. Apply to E. Y. JOHNSON, Headquarters Building, Treasurer's Office, Onset. 3w* Je9

BY DIRECTION of her guides, MRS. JENNIE CROSSE will remove to the country for a while, where she will continue to give Life-Readings for $1.00 and stamp, and answer six questions for 50 cents and stamp. Disease a specialty. Address West Garland, Me.
Je2 4w*

Dr. Hardcastle's
TOOTH-LIFE.
A Delightful Tooth-Powder.

This Powder thoroughly cleanses the teeth, hardens the gums, purifies the breath, prevents decay, etc.

Of the four pages printed matter accompanying each box of "Tooth-Life," old Dr. Blankman, after reading it, made this remark: "It is the best thing I ever read on the subject, and it is all true, too."

The proprietor says: "As a Spiritualist from my youth, I say in all conscience, no person can fail to find in the box of 'Tooth-Life' and four pages of information accompanying it, that which I positively declare to be, on authority of an experience as an American dentist and student dating from 1850, of infinitely more benefit than twenty-five cents' worth of anything else on earth. The tooth-preservative measure taught alone are worth more to parents and guardians than a thousand times the amount of the investment."

Put up in a neat box. Sent postpaid on receipt of 25 cents. For sale by COLBY & RICH.

DR. RHODES' FAMILY MEDICINES.
Purely Vegetable
(ALL SUGAR-COATED)
Medical Confections.
A Universal Blessing.
SUITED TO OLD OR YOUNG!

A PERFECT Liver and Kidney Renovator and Blood Purifier. Cleanses the entire system from all Biliousness and Blood Poisons from Malaria, etc. And cures Headache, Backache, Side and Stomachache, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Pains in the Limbs, Lameness, Numbness, Constipation, Piles, Worms, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Nervousness, Weakness, Kidney and Bladder, and all other urinary ailments, etc. Also, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and in fact almost all the various ailments of humanity.

PRICES: Trial box, 25 cents—by mail, 30 cents; second size, 50 cents—by mail, 55 cents; 12 boxes second size, $5.00; large boxes, $1.00; 6 large boxes, $5.00.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

STELLAR SCIENCE.

I WILL give a test of it to any person who will send me the place and date of their birth (giving sex) and 25 cents, money or stamps.

I will write Biographical and Predictive Letters (from the above data). Also advice upon any matter, in answer to questions, in accordance with my understanding of the science, for a fee of $1; Consultation fee $1; at office, 206 Tremont street.

Nativities written at prices proportionate to the detail demanded. Address OLIVER AMES GOULD, Box 1664, Boston, Mass. July 19.

NEW SHEET MUSIC.

When I Go.
QUARTET.

Words and music by Mrs. Sarah A. Van Blarcom.
Price 25 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

DIAGNOSIS FREE.

SEND two 2-ct. stamps, lock of hair, name in full, age and sex, and I will give you a CLAIRVOYANT DIAGNOSIS OF YOUR AILMENTS. Address J. C. BATDORF, M.D., Principal, Magnetic Institute, Grand Rapids, Mich.
Je2 1m*

Mediums in Boston.

JAMES R. COCKE,
Developing and Business Medium,
ALSO
Clairvoyant Physician,
1581 Washington Street, Boston.

Sittings daily from 9 A.M. till 5 P.M. Price, $1.00.

Unequalled Advantages.

DR. COCKE gives special inducements for Medical and Magnetic Treatment by the month.

Development of Mediumship a Specialty.

SIX PRIVATE SITTINGS FOR $4.00 IN ADVANCE.

CIRCLES.

Sunday, at 11 A.M., for Development and Tests. At 8 P.M., for Psychometry, Tests and Inspirational Music. Thursday evening, at 7:30, for Development. tf Je9

J. W. FLETCHER,
MEDICAL AND BUSINESS MEDIUM,
6 Beacon Street,
BOSTON, MASS.

Written Communications on MEDIUMSHIP, HEALTH, BUSINESS, etc., from Lock of Hair. My5 tf

AMANDA M. COWAN,
219A Tremont Street, Boston,
Suite 2,

WILL be pleased to meet her friends on Sunday, Tuesday and Saturday afternoons, at 2:30, Sunday and Wednesday evenings at 8. Address all communications to CHAS. D. COWAN, Manager.
Je23 1w*

PROF. CAMPBELL,

A RELIABLE Business and Test Medium. Gives Psychometric Readings from handwriting (by letter only). Psychometric, Clairvoyant, Clairaudient, Prophetic and Astrologic. Is reliable, takes time, examines minutely, goes into details, gives Satisfaction. Full life reading (taking in everything), $1.00. Try him. Address, 10 Hudson street, Boston, Mass. 4w* Je2

MRS. WEBB,
Astrologist and Life-Reader,

FROM 151 West 22d street, New York City, will remain at No. 79 Rutland street, Boston, until June 30th, only. Terms $2.00; Business Life written, five years, $5.00; Ten years, $10.00; Full Life, $25.00. 3w Je9

C. E. WATKINS,
The Medium.

MESSAGES by Independent Writing; Diagnosing by Independent Writing. 109 Falmouth street, off West Chester Park, first street west of Huntington Avenue. Take Back Bay or Huntington Avenue car. tf Ap7

GEO. W. ALLEN,

NERVATRIC and Massage Treatments, and Vapor Baths for Ladies and Gentlemen. Boston: Evans House, 175 Tremont street, Room 53, Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M. Brockton: Hixby Building, Room Y, Tuesday and Thursday, 8 A.M. to 6 P.M., and Saturday evening. 2w* Je16

Something New and Pleasing.

WRITE a letter to your spirit friends and have it answered by independent writing. Questions upon Health and Business answered in same manner. Price $1.00. Address ANNIE LORD CHAMBERLAIN, Box 56, Mattapan Dist., Boston, Mass. 1m My19

MRS. H. W. CUSHMAN,

MUSICAL Test, Business and Writing Medium. Circles Monday, 7:30 P.M.; Thursday, 2:30 P.M. Six questions answered by mail for $1.00 and stamp. Examination by lock of hair, $1.00. 212 Main street, Charlestown.
My13 tf

MRS. F. K. RICH,

TRANCE and Business Medium, Parlors No. 38 Evans House, 175 Tremont street, Boston. Office hours 9 A.M. to 6 P.M. Will also go out to hold private circles. Letters answered by photograph or lock of hair. Terms $2.00. Circles every Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. 1w* Je23

EMMA J. NICKERSON,
BUSINESS, AND MAGNETIC TREATMENT,

566 COLUMBUS AVENUE, BOSTON. Send $1.00, name and lock of hair, for Diagnosis of Disease, and kind of Mediumship. Treatment by mail. Office hours 2 to 6 P.M. 13w* Je9

MISS A. PEABODY,

BUSINESS, Test, Clairvoyant Medium. Sittings daily. Circles Monday and Thursday evenings. Tuesday afternoon at 3. 1 Bennet st., corner Washington st., Boston.
Je23 1w*

MISS HELEN A. SLOAN,

MAGNETIC Physician. Vapor and Medicated Baths. Celebrated "Acid Cure." Office hours from 9 A.M. to 8 P.M. 171 Tremont street, corner Mason st., Boston.
Ap7 tf

DR. B. F. BROWN,

OF Philadelphia, the Great Healer of Diseases, is located at Hotel Glover, 335 Shawmut Avenue, Boston, Mass. Patients treated by mail. Dr. Bonney's Anti-Obsession Pads $1.00. 4w* Je16

Mrs. A. E. Cunningham,

MEDICAL, Business and Test Medium, 459 Tremont street, Suite 1, Boston. Private Sittings daily. Will answer calls for Platform Tests. 4w* Je16

MRS. ALDEN,

TRANCE MEDIUM. Medical Examinations and Magnetic treatment. 43 Winter street, Boston.
Je2 5w*

MRS. A. FORRESTER

WILL give Trance Sittings daily, also Magnetic Treatment from 1 to 5 P.M. 39 Chapman street, corner Shawmut Avenue, Boston. 1w* Je23

MISS L. E. SMITH,

MEDIUM for spirit communications, tests and business, personally or by letter (from articles). Terms $1.00, with stamp. 14 Union Park street, Boston. 1w* Je23

A. S. HAYWARD, Magnetic Physician. Letter address for personal treatment or his powerful Spirit Magnetized Paper, during the summer months, 9 Bosworth street, Boston. Two packages by mail, $1.00.
Je2 5w*

MRS. K. E. FISHER, Magnetic and Electric Physician, 147 Tremont street, Boston, Rooms 6 and 9. Magnetic and Massage Treatment, Electric and Medicated Vapor Baths; also the celebrated Colorado Sulphur Baths.
Je23 1w*

MISS L. BARNICOAT, Medical, Test and Business Medium. Lectures followed by Tests and Psychometry. 175 Tremont street, Room 10, Boston.
My12 4teow*

MRS. HATTIE YOUNG,

TRANCE and Business Medium, 22 Winter street, Room 16, Boston. 3w* Je9

MRS. FANNIE A. DODD,

MAGNETIC PHYSICIAN and Test Medium, 48 Winter street, Room 11. tf Je2

JOSEPH L. NEWMAN, Magnetic Healer, No. 8½ Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), Room 4, Boston, Mass. Office hours, from 1 to 4 P.M.
Ja7 26w*

MRS. J. M. CARPENTER, 181 Warren Avenue, Boston. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. Examination by letter when patient is not present.
Je26 4w*

ADVICE relative to Health, Business, etc. Write JAMES DODD, Box 2214, Boston, Mass.
Je23

J. A. SHELHAMER,
MAGNETIC HEALER,
Office 8½ Bosworth Street (Room 5), Boston, Mass.,

WILL treat patients at his office or at their homes, as desired. Dr. S. prescribes for and treats all kinds of diseases. Specialties: Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lung, Liver and Kidney complaints, and all Nervous Disorders. Consultation, prescription and advice, $2.00. Moderate rates for Medicines, when furnished. Magnetized Paper $1.00 per package. Healing by rubbing and laying on of hands. Parties wishing consultation by letter must be particular to state age, sex, and leading symptoms. Liver, Anti-Dyspeptic, Liver and Kidney, or Strengthening and Soothing Pills, 25 cents per box, or five boxes for $1.00.

Office hours from 10 A.M. to 3 P.M.—except on Tuesdays and Fridays, when he attends out-of-town patients. Letter address care of BANNER OF LIGHT. 13w* Ap7

Mediums in Boston.

W. S. ELDRIDGE,

Clairvoyant and Magnetic Physician, 45 Dover st., Boston.
Je16 4w*

DR. A. H. RICHARDSON, Magnetic Healer, Waverly House, Charlestown. 8l0

WANTED,
Agents to Sell the Electro-Medicated Belts and Amulets,

MADE by directions of the beneficent band of spirits who have charge of the work at Wickett's Island, for the prevention and cure of Croup, Scarlet Fever, Measles, and all other diseases. They assist in developing spiritual gifts, and prevent evil or undeveloped influences. Agents can do much good, and make money. Enclose stamp for terms and best of testimonials. Address,

DR. ABBIE E. CUTTER, Onset, Mass.

DR. CUTTER describes spiritual gifts and treats patients by correspondence. Diagnosis and advice, $1.00 and stamp. eowtf Mh17

Sealed Letters Answered

BY MRS. ELIZA A. MARTIN, Oxford, Mass. Terms $1.00 and two 2-ct. stamps. 4w* Je16

SEALED LETTERS.

ELEANOR MARTIN now makes a specialty of business, $5.00. Full Spiritual Message, $2.00. 73 Lane Avenue, Columbus, Ohio. sw* My26

MRS. R. T. CLANEY,

BUSINESS AND TEST MEDIUM, No. 411 Lookout street, Chattanooga, Tenn. 6m* 1024

FOR SALE OR TO LET,

COTTAGE of six rooms, at Lake Pleasant. Also tent and wooden kitchen attached, on Second Avenue. Address MRS. M. V. LINCOLN, 8 Cliff st., Roxbury, Mass.
Je23 1w*

FOR SALE OR TO LET,

LARGE House on Broadway, opposite the Park, Lake Pleasant. Apply to MRS. SARAH F. STONE, Everett, Mass. 1w* Je23

ONSET BAY. Old Colony trains now stop at the Onset station, and the street railway is making regular trips. Buy excursion tickets for Onset. tf My26

The Writing Planchette.

SCIENCE is unable to explain the mysterious performances of this wonderful little instrument, which writes intelligent answers to questions asked either aloud or mentally. Those unacquainted with it would be astonished at some of the results that have been attained through its agency, and no domestic circle should be without one. All investigators who desire practice in writing mediumship should avail themselves of these "Planchettes," which may be consulted on all questions, as also for communications from deceased relatives or friends.

DIRECTIONS.—Place Planchette on a piece of paper (printing or writing will answer), then place the hand lightly on the board; in a few minutes it begins to move, and is ready to answer mental or spoken questions. Though it cannot be guaranteed that every individual who follows these directions will succeed in obtaining the desired result, or cause the instrument to move, independent of any muscular effort of his or her own, yet it has been proved beyond question that where a party of three or more come together, it is almost impossible that one cannot operate it. If one be not successful, let two try it together. If nothing happens the first day, try it the next, and even if half an hour a day for several days are given to it, the results will amply remunerate you for the time and patience bestowed upon it.

The Planchette is furnished complete with box, pencil and directions, by which any one can easily understand how to use it.

PLANCHETTE, with Pentagraph Wheels, 60 cents, securely packed in a box, and sent by mail, postage free.

NOTICE TO RESIDENTS OF CANADA AND THE PROVINCES.—Under existing postal arrangements between the United States and Canada, PLANCHETTES cannot be sent through the mails, but must be forwarded by express only, at the purchaser's expense.

For sale by COLBY & RICH. tf

THOUGHTS
FROM THE INNER LIFE.

The contents of this book consist of nearly one hundred communications on an equal number of subjects relating to life in the spirit-world, selected from those received during the past eight years at private circles held at the residence of Mr. D. E. Bailey, Buffalo, N. Y., Mrs. Swain of that city being the medium. They were given by what is termed the "independent," or direct voice of the spirits. At the sittings the medium was not unconscious; when the spirit friends began to speak, the company, including the medium, conversed with them the same as with one another. A volume might be filled with accounts of Mr. Bailey's wonderful experiences at these sittings; but he chooses to place the communications before the public with as little comment as possible, in the hope that their readers may find in them strength for the weak, consolation for the sorrowing, and unquestionable assurance of the existence of a life beyond the present for all.

One vol., octavo, pp. 224, with portrait, elegantly printed and bound. Price, cloth, $1.25, postage 10 cents; paper, 75 cents, postage 10 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

TWELFTH EDITION.

THE VOICES.
BY WARREN SUMNER BARLOW.

THE VOICE OF NATURE represents God in the light of Reason and Philosophy—in His unchangeable and glorious attributes.

THE VOICE OF A PEBBLE delineates the individuality of Matter and Mind, fraternal Charity and Love.

THE VOICE OF SUPERSTITION takes the creeds at their word, and proves by numerous passages from the Bible that the God of Moses has been defeated by Satan, from the Garden of Eden to Mount Calvary.

THE VOICE OF PRAYER enforces the idea that our prayers must accord with immutable laws, else we pray for effects, independent of cause.

Twelfth edition, with a new stippled steel-plate engraving of the author from a recent photograph. Printed in large, clear type, on beautiful tinted paper, bound in beveled boards.

Price $1.00; postage 10 cents.

☞ Persons purchasing a copy of "THE VOICES" will receive, free, a copy of Mr. Barlow's new pamphlet entitled "ORTHODOX HASH, WITH CHANGE OF DIET," if they so order.

For sale by COLBY & RICH. eow

SENT FREE.
RULES
TO BE OBSERVED WHEN FORMING
SPIRITUAL CIRCLES.
BY EMMA HARDINGE BRITTEN.

Comprehensive and clear directions for forming and conducting circles of investigation are here presented by an able, experienced and reliable author.

This little book also contains a Catalogue of Books published and for sale by COLBY & RICH.

Sent free on application to COLBY & RICH tf

The Identity of Primitive Christianity
AND MODERN SPIRITUALISM.
BY EUGENE CROWELL, M. D.

DEDICATION.—To all liberal minds in the Christian churches who are disposed to welcome new light upon the spirituality of the Bible, even though it may proceed from an unorthodox source, and who dare weigh and consider, even though they may reject the claim herein made for the unity of the higher teachings of Modern Spiritualism with those of early Christianity, this work is respectfully dedicated.

Two large octavo volumes, handsomely printed and bound in cloth. Price $4.00, postage free.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Poems from the Inner Life.
BY MISS LIZZIE DOTEN.

The exhaustion of thirteen editions of these fine Poems shows how well they are appreciated by the public. The peculiarity and intrinsic merit of these Poems are admired by all intelligent and liberal minds. Every Spiritualist in the land should have a copy.

The edition is printed on thick, heavy paper, is elegantly bound, and sold at the low price of $1.50, postage 10 cents.

Also, a new edition on extra paper, beveled boards, full gilt. Price $2.00, postage 10 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Garnered Sheaves.

An Intensely Interesting Narration of the Good Deeds of a Young Lady of Wealth and Fashion.

BY SHERMAN N. ASPINWALL.

This story will interest you from beginning to end. It is written in an easy and agreeable style; the characters are well taken and held throughout, and it is particularly interesting to the young. The leading character, Hattie, is bright and sparkling with wit and humor.

Cloth, price 75 cents; paper, 50 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

THE HEREAFTER;

A Scientific, Phenomenal, and Biblical Demonstration of a Future Life. By D. W. HULL.

In this book Mr. H. discusses the question of the origin of the Physical and Spiritual man. One chapter is devoted to the demonstration of a future life by the occult sciences. Then follow arguments based on Phenomenal Spiritualism, Clairvoyance, Mesmerism, Somnambulism, and the Bible. Cloth 75 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

NEW GOSPEL OF HEALTH,

CONTAINING seven sections on Vital Magnetism and illustrated manipulations, by DR. STONE. For sale at this office. Price $1.25 cloth-bound copies, $2.50.

New York Advertisements.

DUMONT C. DAKE, M. D.,

304 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY, successfully treats all forms of Chronic Diseases, however complicated. Patients afflicted for years, regarded as hopeless, or incurable, testify to permanent restoration. For twenty years his power to diagnose and treat Disease has been and still stands unequaled, so say eminent Scientists, Physicians, Clergymen, and patients from all parts of the country. Voluminous testimony can be seen at his office. Those unable to visit the Doctor in person can be successfully treated at their homes. Send stamp for Circular. Diagnosis, with advice, $2.00.

Extract from a letter by Rev. F. R. M., D. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.: . . . "I am happy to testify to Dr. Dake's high moral character as a man, and his eminent ability as a physician who has achieved a most extraordinary career."

Ap7 tf

BEST TRUSS EVER USED.

Improved Elastic Truss. Worn night and day. Positively cures ruptures. Sent by mail everywhere. Write for full descriptive circulars to the

DR. HOUSE N. Y. ELASTIC TRUSS CO.,
744 Broadway, N. Y.
My26 13w*

Mrs. Stoddard-Gray and Son, DeWitt C. Hough,

HOLD Materializing Séances every Sunday, Wednesday and Friday evening, 8 o'clock. Tuesday and Saturday, 2 o'clock, at 323 West 34th street, New York. Daily sittings for Communications and Business. Will be at Lake Pleasant during August. 4w* Je16

SEND LOCK OF HAIR and $1.00—have your disease fully diagnosed by the best Healing Medium in the United States. Also six questions answered for 50 cents and stamp. Address MRS. INEZ SILLOWAY, 86 McDougal street, New York City. 4w* Je9

MARY C. MORRELL, Business, Prophetic and Developing Medium, 230 West 36th street, New York City. 10w* Je16

MRS. C. SCOTT, Trance and Business Medium. Sittings daily, 10 to 5. No. 21 West 13th street, New York. sw* Je16

MRS. L. HIGGINS, Business and Trance Medium. Sittings daily 10 to 3, 351 W. 27th st., New York.
Ap21 10w*

RUPTURES

CURED in thirty days by my MEDICAL COMPOUND and improved ELASTIC SUPPORTER TRUSS. Send Stamp for Circular. Address CAPT. W. A. COLLINGS, Smithville, Jefferson Co., N. Y. [Mention this paper.
Ap21 13w*

A LIBERAL OFFER,

BY A RELIABLE CLAIRVOYANT AND MAGNETIC HEALER.

SEND 42-ct. stamps, lock of hair, name, age and sex, and we will diagnose your case FREE by independent spirit-writing. Address DR. J. S. LOUCKS, Canton, N. Y.
My12 13w*

Clairvoyant Examinations Free.

ENCLOSE lock of hair, with leading symptoms. We will give you a correct diagnosis of your case. Address E. F. BUTTERFIELD, M. D., corner Warren and Fayette streets, Syracuse, New York. 26w* Ja28

SECOND EDITION.
A REVIEW
OF THE
Seybert Commissioners' Report
OR,
WHAT I SAW AT CASSADAGA LAKE.
BY
A. B. RICHMOND, Esq.,

A MEMBER OF THE PENNSYLVANIA BAR; AUTHOR "LEAVES FROM THE DIARY OF AN OLD LAWYER," "COURT AND PRISON," "DR. CROSBY'S CALM VIEW FROM A LAWYER'S STANDPOINT," "A HAWK IN AN EAGLE'S NEST," ETC.

This able and comprehensive work should be read by every thoughtful man and woman who has heard of the Seybert Request. Mr. A. B. Richmond, the author, whose eminence as a criminal lawyer, and high reputation as an author, will at once ensure the confidence and attention of the reader, has in this volume replied to the "Preliminary Report of the Seybert Commission" with a soundness of logic, a keenness of satire, a breadth of thought and clearness of perception such as the importance of the subject demanded. He deals his blows at the unfairness, injustice, prejudice, unkindness and irreverence of the Seybert Commissioners with an unsparing hand, and, like Thor, he never strikes a blow in vain. well aimed and well struck, each blow tells, and must carry conviction to every thoughtful mind.

Mr. Richmond, although not a believer in the Spiritual Philosophy, has here made a fearless and vigorous defense of the reality of the PHENOMENA of Spiritualism. Having received last August, from the hands of a friend just returned from Cassadaga Lake, a communication addressed to him from one dear to him in spirit-life, he was induced to visit the Lake, but went with a firm belief that he should be able to solve the mystery and expose the fraud. His experiences there convinced him of the genuineness of at least a portion of the phenomenal part of Spiritualism, and he accordingly wrote his Open Letter to the Seybert Commission, a document which aroused the interest and admiration of the best minds. Once convinced that the so-called spirit manifestations do occur in many instances where fraud is out of the question, he gallantly and fearlessly comes to the front and wields his weapons with strong, unerring aim in defense of truth and human progress.

After a happy and appropriate introduction of the subject, with all needful explanations concerning the bequest of Mr. Seybert, the author gives in the first Chapter his "Open Letter to the Seybert Commission." Chapters II., III. and IV. are devoted to a searching criticism of the Report of the Seybert Commission; Chapter V. treats ably of the Bible on Spiritualism: Chapter VI. has for its motto "In my Father's House are Many Mansions"; Chapter VII. contains C. C. Massey's Open Letter on "Zöllner" to Professor George S. Fullerton; Chapter VIII. gives an incident which took place in 1854 at a meeting of the "American

Banner of Light.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, JUNE 23, 1888.

The Spiritualist Camp-Meetings.

Onset Notes from "Across the Moor."

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

People from the city who are found of boating, fishing and bathing cannot do better than spend a few weeks at Onset Bay Grove. All who come are delighted with the pure invigorating atmosphere, and the scenery viewed from any point is charming, combining seashore with woodland and country views. The O. B. G. R. R. are running their cars to Shell Point this season, accommodating many cottagers in that vicinity. They are also selling excursion tickets by their route to Boston and other points.

David Brown and family have arrived at their cottage; Mrs. Nye at Sylvan Cottage on West Central Avenue; Charles W. Sullivan and mother at Eagle Lodge. It looks pleasant to see "Old Pan Cottage" again occupied.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Greenall, who have been sojourning at Onset the past year, sailed for Liverpool, June 2d, in the steamer Bothnia from Boston. Mrs. Greenall, we understand, is a Chicago lady.

Thursday the Ladies' Industrial Union held its business meeting in the Temple, and appointed a committee of three to confer with the members of the new fire department in reference to purchasing suitable fire extinguishing apparatus for Onset, the fire on West Boulevard last winter proving the necessity of having suitable implements for arresting the progress of a fire.

The fire wardens and citizens held a meeting at the Pavilion Monday evening and voted to purchase hooks, ladders, spades and other necessary implements for extinguishing fires. The money already collected by D. N. Ford, and which was deposited in Wareham Bank, was given into the hands of Major Griffith, the Treasurer, and a committee of two chosen to purchase the needed articles. The Ladies' Industrial Union will contribute toward the same.

The largest dining-room in Onset is the Belmont Café, on Union Avenue, opposite Temple, G. C. Kelley, Proprietor, where a meat or clam and fish dinner can be had any day in the week.

The Children's Progressive Lyceum will hold its first session after vacation June 24th, D. N. Ford, Director.

Mr. Amos Kimball, having bought 'Cedar Cottage," at the junction of Union Avenue and East Boulevard, is now prepared to receive patients for treatment.

Subscriptions for the BANNER OF LIGHT, Golden Gate and Better Way will be received by Gustie F. Howe in the office at headquarters building, also Banner of Light publications and other books on sale at same place. A parcel-room will also be opened there for the accommodation of visitors to the grove. Those wishing information in regard to rooms, cottages to let or for sale, lots for sale, etc., can also apply at the office. GUSTIE F. HOWE.

Another correspondent writes: The twelfth recurrence of "Opening Day" was duly observed at this camp ground on the 16th inst., the services being extended to the 17th.

The afternoon of the latter day services were held at the auditorium, which were of a very interesting and instructive nature, and were listened to with marked attention by a good audience.

The weather was exceedingly fine. Col. W. D. Crockett, President of Onset Bay Grove Association, greeted the people with a few pertinent remarks which were well received.

Charles W. Sullivan led the audience with an appropriate hymn (congregational singing).

Dr. A. H. Richardson made the opening speech; he referred to the veteran workers on the platform and in the audience in an appreciative manner—first alluding to Col. Crockett and afterward to Dr. H. B. Storer and others; his remarks were eloquent and to the point.

Dr. H. B. Storer then followed with a highly satisfactory address, full of reminiscences of the past and allusions to the present; he desired to have fraternity established among the workers in the great cause of Spiritualism.

Mrs. Ida P. A. Whitlock gave some sensible and timely remarks upon the issues of the hour.

Mrs. R. S. Stevens related some of her experiences as a medium, which commanded the attention of the thinkers. She spoke with much force and power.

Mrs. Kate R. Stiles followed vigorously in the same line of thought.

Mrs. Pennell spoke briefly, in sympathetic allusion to Treasurer Johnson's affliction—his wife being then on the border line of the spirit-world, and her demission being hourly expected.

Mrs. Thompson, of Onset, followed with brief remarks fitting the occasion.

Mr. John W. Haynes, much against his will, was compelled to come upon the rostrum, and deliver a powerful address under an influence which purported to be the spirit of "Daniel Webster." His address was universally accepted as being the event of the day.

Congregational singing was interspersed between the speeches, and the occasion passed off to the satisfaction of all present.

If the same spirit pervades the meetings that commence July 15th which was manifest on June 16th and 17th, success will crown the camp-meeting of 1888.

The Brockton House was well patronized.

The Union Villa, the Hotel Onset and Glen Cove House are making preparations for opening at once.

Guests at the Washburn House on the 16th: F. O. Howard and wife, Brockton; C. Smith and wife, Avon; John W. Haynes and wife, Mrs. M. Pennlman, Cambridgeport; Stephen McGill and wife, Brockton; A. S. Hayward, Dr. A. H. Richardson, (Charlestown.) Mr. Bradshaw, (Dorchester.) Mr. and Mrs. Chas. L. Richardson, S. I. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Natson, Herbert Natson, Walter Prickett, J. A. Burrell, Mr. W. Kimball, Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. John Libbey, Salem, have leased the small Greenleaf Cottage for the season.

Dr. C. H. Lang, of Reading, spent Sunday at Onset.

Dr. Brown and wife, of Hyde Park, are spending a few days at Onset.

Mrs. Bliss of New Bedford, Mass., and Mrs. L. S. Cadwell of New York City, are at Onset for the season, and are holding séances for materialization of full forms. Others are expected in the near future.

A large delegation of the Ladies' Aid Society was in attendance at the opening day, including Mrs. Wood, ex-president, Mrs. Butterfield, Mrs. Torrey, Secretary, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Bunker and others; they held a social gathering at the Bunker House in the evening—services consisting of speaking by Dr. Storer, Dr. Richardson and others.

Several social entertainments were also held in the evening; and a meeting in the Pavilion, the subject for discussion being "Reincarnation."

L. L. Whitlock and wife are staying at the Union Villa for a few days.

Mrs. Dr. Pratt was at her nice cottage on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown, of Worcester, are guests of Miss Helen Berry, in her cottage on Pleasant street.

The regular season at Onset will be from Sunday, July 15th, to Sunday, August 12th. The list of speakers is as follows:

Sunday, July 15th, morning, Mrs. M. S. Woods; afternoon, J. Clegg Wright; Tuesday, July 17th, J. Clegg Wright; Saturday, July 21st, Miss M. T. Shelhamer; Sunday, July 22d, morning, Miss M. T. Shelhamer; afternoon, A. A. Wheelock; Tuesday, July 24th, afternoon, A. A. Wheelock; Saturday, July 28th, afternoon, Bishop A. Beals; Sunday, July 29th, morning, Mrs. Sarah A. Byrnes; afternoon, Bishop A. Beals; Tuesday, July 31st, afternoon, Mrs. Sarah A. Byrnes; Saturday, Aug. 4th, afternoon, Mrs. Ida P. A. Whitlock; Sunday, Aug. 5th, morning, E. B. Fairchild; afternoon, Mrs. Sarah A. Byrnes; Tuesday, Aug. 7th, afternoon, E. B. Fairchild; Wednesday, Aug. 8th, afternoon, Memorial Services; Saturday, Aug. 11th, afternoon, A. E. Tisdale; Sunday, Aug. 12th, morning, Miss Jennie B. Hagan; afternoon, A. E. Tisdale.

Conference Meetings will be held Mondays and Wednesdays at 2:30 P. M. Fact Meetings, Thursdays and Fridays at 2:30 P. M.

I see by the new programme of speakers that the name of J. J. Morse does not appear on the list, and by information obtained from the Lecture Committee, find that the Spiritualists of California being desirous that Bro. M. should remain with them during the summer months, the Committee has released him, and have engaged Mr. E. B. Fairchild, a talented man and eloquent lecturer. He was formerly a Unitarian minister, but has become an able exponent of Spiritualism.

Lake Pleasant.

[MR. J. MILTON YOUNG is our authorized agent at Lake Pleasant, and will be pleased to receive subscriptions for the BANNER OF LIGHT. Mr. Young also has a full line of our publications for sale at his bookstore. He will conduct the correspondence for THE BANNER from this Camp-Meeting.]

These grounds are now in fine condition, many improvements having been made since they passed into the possession of the Lake Pleasant Association. A cordial welcome is extended to secular and religious societies to occupy them for picnic purposes. This is a move in the right direction, and will doubtless be largely accepted during the present season.

NOTES.

Mr. George W. Brown, architect and builder, of Bridgeport, Conn., is here with a force of workmen putting up the cottage and pavilion of Mr. James Wilson.

Mrs. M. A. Clayton, of Auburn, N. Y., has arrived at Auburndale Cottage for the summer. Misses Hattie Belle Clayton of Auburn, N. Y., and Bertha Packard of Albany, N. Y., are with her. They are enjoying life among the pines.

The new steamer "Baby Belle" has been launched, and is now ready for use. It is neat and trim, and a fast sailor. The new row-boats are also perfect patterns.

The cottage and grounds of F. A. Steele are in fine condition.

Among recent visitors to camp are Mr. and Mrs. Byron Loomis, and Mr. and Mrs. Banks, of Haydenville.

The "Fourth" will be a big day here. J. M. Y.

Lake Pleasant, Mass., June 16th, 1888.

M. W. Lyman writes: "I have permanently located here, and will attend to the buying, selling and renting of lots for parties unable to be here at the time; also cottages, tents and rooms, sold, rented, repaired and kept in order at moderate rates. Correspondence solicited.

The prospects are good for the largest camp-meeting ever held at this the oldest and largest camp-ground of Spiritualists this season, and it seems no more than natural that it should be so, with the great awakening of thought that is going on all over the world. People who have never seemed to give Spiritualism a moment's consideration are beginning to realize the fact of an open communication between us and the loved ones gone before.

I predict that in twenty-five years spirit communion will be preached in the churches as freely as it is today by Spiritualists. It may not be called Spiritualism, but probably Christian soul-communion, or some name similar to Christian Science, which is only the Mind Cure of the Spiritualists."

"Casual" writes: "I made a flying visit to Lake Pleasant June 14th, passing the night there. A brisk shower had made everything look finely. I found that many improvements and changes were going on in the buildings. Cottage-owners can now make improvements, as they own the land upon which their buildings stand. There seems to be a general desire to comply with rules and regulations, and the grounds are assuming a business-like appearance.

Mr. Bartholomew, manager of the grounds, is a practical man in every sense of the word, and there is no doubt that the new move will result in a benefit all round, if both companies work in harmony for the good of all.

I was astonished to see so many fine building lots on the new grounds, that are available for families desiring to build homes where the land is situated high, overlooking the lake and among the pine trees. Dwellers there can live as quietly as they could in the country, and it is but a short walk to the auditorium. I was a guest at one of these cottages on the new grounds, and must say I had no idea of the very pleasant character of the location.

"Heavenly Court" is being improved. Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Jones are to elevate their cottages several feet. I had supposed that the occupants of these domiciles were satisfied with the heavenly conditions before.

New faces are seen daily on the grounds, and great anticipations of transcendent success are cherished by those having the meetings in charge.

Lake Pleasant in the mountainous country, and Onset by the seashore, certainly afford Spiritualists and others a good chance to decide by selection which climate is the better for their pleasure or their restoration. Both places are equally good in their way."

Cassadaga Lake, N. Y.

"Grapho" informs us that the annual June meeting of the Spiritualists at Cassadaga Lake closed June 10th.

Quite a number who own cottages on the ground (he writes) will remain through the summer. The attendance has been larger than usual at the spring meeting, and on the three days the audiences steadily increased in numbers until, at the concluding lecture, the amphitheatre was comfortably filled. J. Clegg Wright and Mrs. E. L. Watson were the speakers for the three days, and they delivered some very able addresses. Mrs. Watson is a remarkable woman; she possesses rare gifts as a speaker, and her eloquence at times was highly dramatic.

The meetings were enlivened by the excellent music of the Northwestern Band of Meadville, which fine organization has been engaged for the coming season, beginning July 21st and ending Aug. 26th. There was a pleasant "hop" in the amphitheatre Saturday night, June 9th, which was well attended by both young and old.

From conversation with a number of representative people here "Grapho" learns that spirit-communications are by no means the only subject in which Spiritualists are interested: "Christian science, faith cure, mental healing, theosophy, esoteric Buddhism are among the subjects which one will hear discussed at every social circle. From the rostrum one will hear sound sense on the subjects of temperance, the use of tobacco, the laws of health, and on various questions of social economy. The Spiritualists, as a body, are reformers, and while there are some cranks who take advantage of the free platform to ventilate their peculiar ideas, the greater part of the people here are sensible and sober thinkers, earnestly striving to elevate the condition of mankind. Most of the speakers are religious in their temperament. Some are radical, and there are a few who denounce all religion as superstition and all worship as a waste of time. But these are the exceptions rather than the rule. Your correspondent has never heard from pulpit or platform a finer or more eloquent tribute to the character and work of Christ than that of Mrs. Watson in her address on the afternoon of the 10th; while the touching prayer with which she preceded the address would reflect honor upon any pulpit from which it might be uttered."

The grounds of the Association, we are informed, have been enlarged by the recent purchase of twenty acres on the lake front. Many improvements are in progress, several new buildings are in process of erection, and general preparations are being made for the coming season.

The official programme of exercises for the ninth annual meeting reaches us—the subjoined being the list of speakers:

Saturday, July 21st, Walter Howell, London, Eng.; Sunday, 22d, Walter Howell and Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond, Chicago, Ill.; Monday, 23d, Conference; Tuesday, 24th, Dr. J. C. Street, Boston, Mass.; Wednesday, 25th, Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond; Thursday, 26th, Miss Jennie B. Hagan, Mass.; Friday, 27th, Dr. J. C. Street; Saturday, 28th, Lyman C. Howe, Fredonia, N. Y., and Miss Jennie B. Hagan; Sunday, 29th, Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond, and A. B. French, Clyde, O.; Monday, 30th, Conference; Tuesday, 31st, Walter Howell; Wednesday, Aug. 1st, Charles Dawbarn, New York City; Thursday, 2d, Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond; Friday, 3d, Charles Dawbarn; Saturday, 4th, Walter Howell, and Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond; Sunday, 5th, Chas. Dawbarn, and Mrs. Colby Luther, Crown Point, Ind.; Monday, 6th, Conference; Tuesday, 7th, Mrs. Colby-Luther; Wednesday, 8th, J. Frank Baxter, Chelsea, Mass.; Thursday, 9th, Mrs. H. S. Lake, Boston, Mass.; Friday, 10th, J. Frank Baxter; Saturday, 11th, W. F. Peck and Mrs. Colby-Luther; Sunday, 12th, Mrs. H. S. Lake and J. Frank Baxter; Monday, 13th, Conference; Tuesday, 14th, Mrs. R. S. Lillie, Boston, Mass.; Wednesday, 15th, Mrs. H. S. Lake; Thursday, 16th, Rev. Samuel Watson, Memphis, Tenn.; Friday, 17th, Mrs. H. S. Lake; Saturday, 18th, Rev. Samuel Watson, and Mrs. Clara Watson, Jamestown, N. Y.; Sunday, 19th, Rev. Samuel Watson and Mrs. R. S. Lillie; Monday, 20th, W. J. Colville, Boston; Tuesday, 21st, Mrs. R. S. Lillie; Wednesday, 22d, W. J. Colville; Thursday, 23d, Mrs. R. S. Lillie; Friday, 24th, Walter Howell; Saturday, 25th, W. J. Colville and Mrs. Clara Watson; Sunday, 26th, W. J. Colville and Mrs. R. S. Lillie.

The Children's Lyceum will be under the direction of Mrs. E. W. Tillinghast, of Petrolia, Pa. It will, as usual, be made a leading feature, and earnest effort will be put forth to make it of interest and profit to the children on the grounds. Every Friday morning will be set apart for the exercises of the Lyceum, at which time the rostrum will be occupied by the children and their leader.

Prof. W. F. Peck, of Boston, Mass., assisted by an experienced organist and pianist, will conduct and have entire charge of the vocal music during the season. Mr. J. T. Lillie, vocalist, of Boston, Mass., will be there from August 14th till the close.

On Friday evening of each week there will be dramatic and musical entertainments given by outside talent and by the young people and children of the camp.

All mail matter intended for campers should be addressed to Cassadaga Lake Camp Grounds, Cassadaga, Chautauqua County, N. Y.

A. Gaston, Meadville, Pa., is President; T. J. Skidmore, Cassadaga, N. Y., Treasurer; A. E. Gaston, Meadville, Pa., Secretary; T. J. Skidmore, Cassadaga, N. Y.; M. R. Rouse, Titusville, Pa.; W. J. Innis, Oil City, Pa.; C. B. Turner, Cassadaga, N. Y.; Mrs. M. H. Skidmore, Cassadaga, N. Y.; A. Gaston, Meadville, Pa.; and J. W. Dennis, Buffalo, N. Y., being Trustees.

Several noted mediums of varied phases of development have been secured for the summer, so that investigators will have ample opportunity for practical inquiry.

The Meadville (Pa.) Tribune Republican will please accept our thanks for journalistic courtesies.

For information as to the best method of reaching Cassadaga, etc., address A. E. Gaston, Secretary, Meadville, Pa.

Queen City Park, Vt.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

I met at Burlington, June 11th, several of the directors of Queen City Park to complete the arrangements for the coming season. I find things looking very auspicious for a successful meeting.

The hotel will be open the 1st of July ready for summer boarders, and the proprietor, Mr. G. W. Mandigo, is offering good inducements for parties from the city to make a home for the summer.

Mr. B. F. Rugg, of St. Albans, has just completed a new cottage, which is very attractive in appearance. The Bronson cottage is also undergoing very extensive repairs under his management.

Mr. Burland, of Port Kent, N. Y., has greatly improved the grounds and cottage he recently purchased of A. E. Manum.

The Kelly farm, purchased by G. W. Fowler, of Lynn, Mass., rented to Mr. Brown, is in part converted into a garden for the benefit of the camp.

Mr. Williams, of Sunderland, is building a nice summer home near the auditorium. There are several families on the ground already for the summer, and others coming every day.

Miss Jenny Bickford, of Boston, mother and friends are occupying their large cottage on the shore of the lake.

Mr. Potter, of Burlington, has completed a cottage on the north side of the park, where he furnishes ice cream for picnic parties.

It is expected the large and elegant steamer Reindeer will make regular trips from Burlington to the grounds on Sundays. This boat accommodates five hundred passengers.

Since Dr. Seward Webb, of New York, has purchased his two thousand acre park, three miles south of us, and built his palatial residence costing over one hundred thousand dollars, all the available points along the shore of Lake Champlain have doubled in value.

I have arranged for my regular excursion tickets for Burlington at the close of Lake Pleasant and Sunapee meetings. I shall be at the Crawford House, Boston, Tuesday, July 3d, from 12 to 5 P. M., where I shall be pleased to give information about the low rates from Onset to Lake Pleasant, Sunapee and Burlington. E. A. SMITH, President Queen City Park.

Sunapee Lake, N. H.

This well-established Camp-Meeting at Blodgett's Landing, Newbury, N. H., commences July 29th and closes Aug. 29th—Dr. H. B. Storer, President, Boston, Mass.; N. A. Lull, Secretary, Washington, N. H.; V. C. Brockway, Treasurer, Newbury, N. H.

The following well-known lecturers and test mediums have been engaged for the season: July 29th, Dr. H. B. Storer of Boston, and Mrs. Juliette Yeaw of Leominster; 31st, Mrs. E. B. Craddock of Concord; Aug. 1st, Mrs. Juliette Yeaw; 2d, Dr. C. H. Harding, psychometrist, of Boston; 3d, Fact Meeting; 4th (to be announced); 5th, J. Wm. Fletcher of Boston, Dr. Geo. A. Fuller of Dover, Mass., and Edgar W. Emerson of Manchester; 7th, Dr. Geo. A. Fuller and Dr. C. H. Harding; 8th, Edgar W. Emerson and Mrs. S. W. Fletcher of Boston; 9th, Dr. Geo. A. Fuller; 10th, J. Wm. Fletcher; 11th, Edgar W. Emerson; 12th, Mrs. S. W. Fletcher and J. Wm. Fletcher; 14th and 15th, Ladies' Aid Fair and Entertainment; 16th, Miss Jennie B. Hagan of Framingham, Mass.; 17th, J. Wm. Fletcher; 18th, Miss Jennie B. Hagan; 19th, Miss Jennie B. Hagan, and Joseph D. Stiles of Weymouth, Mass.; 21st, Miss Jennie B. Hagan; 22d, Joseph D. Stiles; 23d, Dr. H. B. Storer; 24th, Eben Cobb, Esq., of Boston; 25th, A. E. Tisdale of Springfield, Mass.; 26th, Eben Cobb, A. E. Tisdale and Joseph D. Stiles.

Good music, vocal and instrumental, literary and social entertainments, etc., will be presented, in addition to able services at the platform; and the meeting promises to be memorable with all who may attend.

Niantic, Ct.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

We have our first lectures the 8th of July; our last the 9th of September.

For speakers we have Mrs. Clara A. Banks, Charles Dawbarn, A. E. Tisdale, Mrs. H. S. Lake, J. Clegg Wright, Emma L. Paul, J. Frank Baxter, Lyman C. Howe.

Those who would have an enjoyable time should come and see our beautiful Niantic.

Putnam, Ct. MRS. E. R. DAVIS.

Spiritualistic Meetings in Boston.

Banner of Light Circle-Room, No. 9 Bosworth Street.—Séances are held every Tuesday and Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock promptly. Admission free. For further particulars, see notice on sixth page. L. B. Wilson, Chairman.

College Hall, 34 Essex Street.—Sundays, at 10½ A. M., 2½ and 7½ P. M. Eben Cobb, Conductor.

Eagle Hall, 616 Washington Street, corner of Essex.—Sundays, at 2½ and 7½ P. M.; also Wednesdays at 3 P. M. Able speakers and test mediums. Excellent music. Prescott Robinson, Chairman.

Mishawum Hall, City Square, Charlestown.—Mediums' meeting every Sunday at 2½ and 7½ P. M. Dr. Mark Smith, Chairman.

Chelsea.—The Ladies' Social Aid Society meets in Mrs. Buffum's parlors, 196 Chestnut street, every Friday afternoon and evening. All are invited. Mrs. E. H. Pratt, President; Mrs. M. A. Dodge, Secretary.

Cambridgeport.—Meetings held each Sunday evening at 7½ o'clock at St. George's Hall, 603 Main street, by the Spiritualist Society. H. P. Trask, President.

Lynn.—Children's Lyceum meets every Sunday at Cadet Hall, Market street, at 12 M. Conductor, Mr. O. S. Adams; Secretary, Mrs. E. B. Merrill.

Eagle Hall, 616 Washington Street.—On Sunday, the 17th, the meetings at this hall were interesting and instructive. The afternoon exercises were opened by Dr. P. C. Drisko, under control of his guides, with a most powerful and interesting address. He was followed by Miss Jennie Rhind, Miss D. B. Simpson, Mr. Tripp and Mr. Ridel, each of whom made excellent remarks. Miss Rhind gave a large number of symbolic readings, all of which were recognized as correct. In the evening Mrs. Clara A. Field gave an excellent lecture in response to the question "Has Spiritualism an Ethical Side?" [Noticed in another column.] She was followed by Mr. Tom Roscoe with a few remarks and psychometric readings.

Mishawum Hall, City Square, Charlestown District.—Good audiences were interested Sunday, June 17th. In the afternoon Mrs. Abbie N. Burnham gave an acceptable lecture and some tests which were recognized. Mr. Fred Heath made timely remarks; Miss Gracie Scales gave a recitation. In the evening Mr. J. W. Fletcher lectured to an attentive audience. Dr. Smith gave a number of tests which were pronounced correct. Meetings will be held in this cosy hall all through the summer. All mediums cordially invited. DR. SMITH, Chairman.

Spiritualist Meetings in New York.

Adelphi Hall, corner of 52d Street and 7th Avenue.—The First Society of Spiritualists holds meetings every Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7½ P. M. Admission free.

Columbia Hall, 878 6th Avenue, between 49th and 50th Streets.—The People's Spiritual Meeting (removed from Spencer Hall). Services every Sunday at 2½ and 7½ P. M. Mediums and speakers always present. Frank W. Jones, Conductor.

Meetings for Spiritual Manifestations will be held at Adelphi Hall, corner 7th Avenue and 52d street, New York, every Sunday at 2½ P. M. Tests given by Mrs. E. A. Wells of New York.

Arcanum Hall, 57 West 25th Street, N. E. corner 6th Avenue.—Meetings of the Progressive Spiritualists are held every Sunday at 3 and 8 P. M. Mediums and speakers welcome. Test Medium and Conductor, Prof. G. G. W. Van Horn.

Soul Communion Meetings every Tuesday at 3 P. M. sharp, at Mrs. Morrell's, 230 West 36th street.

The First Society of Spiritualists.—Mr. W. C. Bowen, of Brooklyn, spoke in the morning on "Physical Science," prefacing his remarks with encomiums of Mrs. Brigham, and congratulating the society upon having secured the services of such a speaker. Mr. Bowen said: "Some students of physical science assert that Spiritualism cannot be true, because thought, mind, aspiration, and that which we call spirit, are each and all the results of the molecule action of the brain. This action once stilled by the hand of death, all of its manifestations have ceased forever. The men who make this assertion are tyros in physical science. The great leaders in modern physical science, Tyndall, Huxley, Darwin and Spencer, nowhere make any such assertion." In the evening Mr. Bowen spoke on "The Outlook," and advanced many arguments to sustain his assertions regarding the rapid growth of Spiritualism.

The Meeting for Manifestations in the afternoon was very largely attended, nearly all the seats being occupied. The meeting was opened by Miss Ella F. Porter with a piano solo; Miss Lizzie Perry sang "The Arrow and the Song;" a duet was sung by the Menkle sisters, and a song, "Life's Story," by Miss Alice Green; a solo and encore by Miss Lily Runals; Mrs. Henry J. Newton read a poem entitled "Some Questions for To day," by John W. Storer; Mr. M. M. ("Brick") Pomeroy answered Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage in a unique and novel way that carried conviction to his large audience. The speaker referred to the fact that he had been called out from the office of a very busy business to answer a sensational preacher in Brooklyn, who for years had professed to be a lover of spirituality, or a teacher of spiritual things, and a believer in Spiritualism per se.

Replying to Talmage, he went back to the year 1179, before Christ, and took up the history of Elkanah and his wife Hannah, whose prayer was heard, and who was the mother of the medium or prophet Samuel. In a most graphic manner he gave the history of Eli, the prophet, and his two sons, and how they all lost their power and mediumship by preaching God and spiritual things. He told of Samuel's being fitted for mediumship, and how he was selected to inform Eli of his downfall, of his selection of Saul (who was on a hunt for asses) to be king of Israel, and then of Saul's rise and persecution of mediums, till at last he was told to call on a woman in Endor and ask her to call up and materialize Samuel, the prophet, whose words of advice, as spoken through him by the Lord, Saul had disregarded. For an hour the closest attention was paid to this presentation of the fact that Spiritualism was of God, and a part of his plan to reach humanity, and that those who doubt spirit intelligence, and who loathe those who listen to God and to passed-on intelligences, are in danger of being left as wrecks upon its shore.

Mrs. E. A. Wells gave numerous tests, all of which were recognized, and the meeting adjourned with happy congratulations by the numerous friends, that it was one of the most interesting of the year.

Next Sunday Mrs. E. A. Wells will lecture upon "Immorality of Spiritualism," which will be the last meeting until after the summer vacation. S.

New York, June 17th, 1888.

The People's Spiritual Meeting.—Wilson Macdonald will deliver his great lecture on "Scientific Spiritualism" next Sunday evening, 24th inst., at eight o'clock, before the People's Spiritual Meeting in Columbia Hall, 878 6th Avenue, New York. Skeptical Spiritualists, and skeptics in general, should hear his powerful arguments. It is probable that the People's Meeting, which has had no vacation, nor missed a session for five years, will keep open also this season during the summer. F. W. JONES.

FRONTIER FRIVOLITIES.

The All-Night Dance in Which "Ole Virginia Never Tires."

A writer in the American Magazine gives a very felicitous description of a dancing party in the sparsely settled portion of Virginia.

These parties are events of great importance, drawing friends and acquaintances for many miles around. They will come, perhaps, from distant counties, a day's journey or more, to participate in the festivities.

The method of travel is "on horseback," and as the roads are bad, and frequently bridgeless, the journeying must be accomplished between "sun up" and dark. This would be sufficient reason, if there were no other, for keeping up their merry-making through the entire night, as is the universal custom.

Old and young join in the dancing, which is only suspended for the hearty supper at midnight, and the "sweet supper," as it is called, of cakes, jellies and tarts, which is furnished just before daybreak.

As the sun rises the visitors mount their horses, and start on their homeward journey, perhaps of many hours' duration. It seems like paying a severe penalty for a few hours' enjoyment, but these tough, hardy settlers do not wilt physically as easily as our modern, hot-house society plants.

In the log-cabin days of the early settlers in the Northern States, the all-night dance was a common feature of social life, and old and young, for miles around, were participants. They were a hardy race, perhaps because they enjoyed themselves, took plenty of exercise and but little medicine. They enjoyed a rugged old age, because they found medicine for their simple ailments in nature's remedies, the roots and herbs of near by fields and forests, which cured them, and left no after ill effects.

The people of to-day might be more rugged, and enjoy life better, if they would have recourse to nature's remedies, instead of mineral drugs. With a purpose of giving them a chance to try this course, H. H. Warner & Co., proprietors of Warner's Safe Cure, have had prepared, from the best recipes, used in real log-cabin days, a line of remedies known as Warner's Log Cabin Remedies, comprising a Sarsaparilla, a Hops and Buchu Remedy, a Cough and Consumption Remedy, an Extract for External and Internal use, Liver Pills, Rose Cream for catarrh, Scalpine for Head and Hair, and a porous Plaster. They are all vegetable compounds, harmless, and just such remedies as were used by our grandmothers with the best effects.

Cincinnati, O.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

Cincinnati, O., is in gay attire and excitement the present month—what with the National Reunion of the Orders of Elks, and the assemblage of the Knights of Pythias Supreme Lodge of the World. On Sunday, 10th inst., the attractions were great and numerous without; added to this was the heated state of the weather—for Cincinnati is six weeks in season further advanced than Boston; hence it was a surprise that such large audiences as did assembled within Memorial Hall.

J. Frank Baxter, with his versatility of gifts, is a strong attraction, and on this Sunday, in report, acquitted himself most acceptably. After a fine selection from the orchestra, Mr. Baxter read a beautiful poem: "If People Only Knew!" sang an appropriate song, and delivered a truly opportune address on "The Independence of Spiritualism, and the Positiveness of the Spirit-World," showing the independence of the movement as owing to the inherent power of truth, and its foundation in fact; and the positiveness of spirits through mediums as natural, because experiences had lifted them from the realm of the speculative in theology, to the state of knowledge. "They did testify to that they had seen and heard and did know." Applause was frequent, and the audience thoroughly imbued.

In the evening, Mr. Baxter considered the facts and philosophy of Spiritualism in the light of scientific developments and the conclusions of psychic research, showing how everything indexed the plausibility of the Spiritual Philosophy. Having effectually built a platform of solid material, almost unawares to many present, until they found themselves standing with Spiritualists upon it, having conceded and committed themselves to Mr. Baxter's argument, he presented the Spiritual Philosophy itself as regards the continuity of man, his mode of existence in the spirit-world, the naturalness of the latter, and the eternal progression of all. It was masterly and intensely interesting.

The séance, which with Cincinnatians is a great feature, for an hour held, was convincing and impressive. It opened with an invocation, and description of a ministerial spirit which all readily recognized—could not help it—though no name was given. A child giving its pet name came to Mrs. Dr. Babbitt, who acknowledged the accuracy and a test. Then Mr. Baxter, after describing a spirit, called, going from platform toward the parties: "Bertha! wife!" described a house and seemed to see a man open a door numbered 157, and looking into a storeroom called his sons; started again toward parties in the room, calling: "Robert! Robert! Otto! Otto! my sons!" and began giving advice. A gentleman arose from his seat and said: "We are not Spiritualists; in fact we are strangers." Referring to those with him, as well as self, he said: "We are Robert, Otto and Bertha. Will the spirit give his name, and name of street?" Mr. Baxter was made to answer: "Smith, the street, and the spirit spells his name G-r-o-e-n-l-a-n-d." "Correct! Mr. Groenland is my father, and Bertha, here, is his wife."

Four spirits were described and named in full, one in connection with a river-boat, which was also named. Mr. Baxter then called to rear of hall: "Edward!" "That's my name," said the person addressed. "Yes," said Mr. Baxter, "Edward B. Miller." "Yes, sir," said the gentleman, "and the names of spirits you have given are the names of my brothers in spirit-life." "One of them you never saw," said Mr. B. "True," said Mr. Miller, "my oldest brother you have named, died twenty years before I was born." Two spirits, of a colored man and his father, with very full descriptions, occupied Mr. Baxter's attention, and a colored lady in the audience—a teacher in one of the schools—arose, and most prettily explained and recognized them. And so on, with case after case, every one worthy of full publication in detail in our Cincinnati journals; but enough possibly has been said here to indicate Mr. Baxter's work and method in a general way for your paper. COM.

Brockton, Mass.—The First Spiritualist Ladies' Aid Society of Brockton closed its lecture season June 10th. The last two Sundays the platform was occupied by Prof. A. McMasters of Georgia? He is a very interesting speaker; societies wishing the services of a good lecturer would do well to address him at Whitman, Mass. The society here has closed its hall for the vacation. The Brockton Spiritual Instructive Lyceum closes June 24th.

Fraternally, MRS. H. N. KEITH, Cor. Sec'y.

[IT LOOKS SADLY LIKE IT, NOW.]—A Chicago landlord has been arrested for brutally assaulting a widowed tenant who was unable to pay her rent. He is reported to have entered the house before mother or daughter had risen, seized a sewing machine as security for back rent, and then hustled the family and furniture into the street, striking the women over the head with a chair when they attempted to feebly protest against such treatment. Had such an eviction occurred in Ireland, the columns of the American press would have teemed with indignation. Are we really getting so accustomed to such things in the United States as to have become hardened to all sense of right and justice?—Journal of United Labor.

To Correspondents.

☞ No attention is paid to anonymous communications. Name and address of writer in all cases indispensable as a guaranty of good faith. We cannot undertake to preserve or return communications not used.

MRS. W., NEW YORK CITY.—No such communication as you refer to in your private note has been received at this office.

Spiritualist Meetings in Brooklyn.

Conservatory Hall, Bedford Avenue, corner Fulton Street.—Services every Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7½ P. M.

Fraternity Rooms, corner Bedford Avenue and South Second Street.—Services every Sunday at 7½ P. M. Children's Lyceum at 3 P. M. The Spiritual Literary Union meets the first and third Saturday of each month at 8 P. M.

Johnston Building, Flatbush Avenue, corner of Nevins Street.—Brooklyn Progressive Spiritual Conference every Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock.

BEAUTY of Skin & Scalp RESTORED by the CUTICURA Remedies.

NOTHING IS KNOWN TO SCIENCE AT ALL comparable to the CUTICURA REMEDIES in their marvelous properties of cleansing, purifying and beautifying the skin, and in curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair.

CUTICURA, the great SKIN CURE, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; RESOLVENT, $1; SOAP, 25c. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON, MASS.

☞ Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

☞ Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP. ☜

Dull Aches, Pains, and Weaknesses instantly relieved by the CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster. 25c. F4

FORTY YEARS

ON THE

SPIRITUAL ROSTRUM.

BY WARREN CHASE.

A SEQUEL TO "THE LIFE-LINE OF THE LONE ONE," AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF THE AUTHOR, AS

The World's Child,

WHO GAVE THE FIRST PUBLIC LECTURES IN THIS COUNTRY IN DEFENSE OF MODERN SPIRIT INTERCOURSE, AND WHOSE NAME IS FIRST ON THE LIST OF CALLS FOR COPIES OF "NATURE'S DIVINE REVELATIONS," WHEN IN PRESS IN 1847.

No one is better qualified to place on record reliable information regarding the early history of Modern Spiritualism and of its early advocates and defenders, than the author of this volume. There has been scarcely a worker for the cause he has not known; scarce a city or town in the Union he has not visited; and no place he has visited whose people have not enjoyed greater mental freedom and a better understanding of this life and assurance of a future one from his having been with them.

As a worker in every reformatory movement, Mr. Chase's career has been almost phenomenal in persistency, efficiency and self-sacrifice. He has been a pioneer—a pathfinder in the wilderness of moss-grown superstitions and bide-bound dogmas, making the way clear for the army of freedom-loving men and women that was to follow and destroy it. For this reason this autobiography of his should find place in the home of every friend of human progress and spiritual enlightenment, and be valued as a monument to his memory and his work.

CONTENTS.

CHAPTER I. Internal and External Forebodings of Social, Political and Religious Convulsions, Personal and General, resulting in a Social Effort by

JUN 29 1888

BANNER OF LIGHT.

AN EXPONENT OF THE SPIRITUAL PHILOSOPHY OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY.

VOL. LXIII. | COLBY & RICH, Publishers and Proprietors. | BOSTON, SATURDAY, JUNE 30, 1888. | $3,00 Per Annum, Postage Free. | NO. 16.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

FIRST PAGE.—Original Essay: True Spirituality. Spiritual Phenomena: An Early Experience. Pilgrim Pencilings. Old Jack. Mrs. Richmond's Labors.

SECOND PAGE.—Poetry: Dream, Baby, Dream. Banner Correspondence: Letters from Iowa, District of Columbia, Pennsylvania, New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, California, Rhode Island, Maine, and Illinois. Synopsis. Even a "Regular" is Fallible, etc.

THIRD PAGE.—Poetry: The World's Need. From Our English Contemporaries. The Immorality of Spiritualists, etc.

FOURTH PAGE.—Priests, Preaching and Presumption. Alleged Death from Vaccination. Spiritual Phenomena in China. "Psychic Research"—A Significant Vision. The Medical Spirit Confessed, etc.

FIFTH PAGE.—Materialization. It is Actively Unsectarian. A Practical Philanthropy. All Sorts of Paragraphs. Movements of Mediums and Lecturers. New Advertisements, etc.

SIXTH PAGE.—Message Department: Questions Answered through the Mediumship of Miss M. T. Shelhamer; Spirit Messages given through the Mediumship of Mrs. B. F. Smith.

SEVENTH PAGE.—The Late Emperor's Banker. Verifications of Spirit-Messages. Spiritualist Meetings. Mediums in Boston. Book and Miscellaneous Advertisements.

EIGHTH PAGE.—Spiritualist Camp-Meetings. Spiritualist Meetings in Boston, New York and Elsewhere. Medical Freedom. J. Frank Baxter's Work in Cincinnati, O. College of Therapeutics. Memorial, etc.

Original Essay.

TRUE SPIRITUALITY.

BY W. H. R.

I noticed in a short editorial of THE BANNER'S issue for June 2d, an endorsement of the words of M. A. (Oxon) advising that "Spiritualists should organize on a broad and comprehensive basis," and urging the formation of branches of the American Spiritualist Alliance in every city of the United States. This is timely and wise; for, disunited as Spiritualists are, they cannot protect mediumship from the assaults of prejudice and ignorance, nor can they, without a compact organization, capable of concentrating their power for public good, command the respect of men and educate them in the different phases of spiritualistic phenomena, in ways free from the suspicion of fraud which the money-getting propensity so freely engenders, nor adequately sustain such mediums as teach the high and holy truths which the angel-world are desirous of bringing to us. Considering this thought of the desirability of organization brings us to the question why Spiritualists, who, as we feel assured, possess more of truth than any other class, should be so disunited and antagonistic, each claiming the truth in his own way and generally impatient of the views of others, if at all dissimilar, and of any restraint which is not self-imposed. This individualism and intellectual egotism we look upon as the reaction from the binding creeds of our fathers. Having eschewed authority in all matters of religion, and learned to think and reason for ourselves upon these important matters, unshackled by Bible, creed, or any ecclesiastical authority, we may at times swing too far. From such a condition heaven defend us, for there seems little to choose between the superstitious devotee of ecclesiastical power and the intellectual egotist who feels there is nothing more in the universe for him to learn.

Mrs. Richmond's guides, in the work "The Soul in Human Embodiments," speak of the soul as passing through three general classes of embodiments: the first being the Adamic stage of purely physical expression of life; from this the second, called the Hermetic or intellectual expression, is reached through many embodiments, and finally, through successive steps, the third or last human expression, the Messianic or spiritual.

These three stages or degrees of expression are primarily stamped upon the human race, and the history of the past shows the gradual evolution of souls from the first to the second step toward intellectual culmination, which the world is generally reaching at the present time among cultivated nations. Nevertheless there are and have been individual examples of the last stage of expression of the spiritual in its fullest unfoldment, as there are many of the first and more of the second in the general expression of intelligence in the world of today.

In stating that the world is fast culminating in intellectual development, verging upon the spiritual, a great truth as we conceive is enunciated, and it is shown that mankind is true to its states and conditions, and that universal skepticism and critical analysis are as true to this age as unthinking acceptance was to the ages past, when reason and intellect were not so fully developed. Yet as all states are latent in the soul, and as different races make different degrees of progress, so all different degrees of development have been and may be found.

If many Spiritualists have not as yet risen from the intellectual to the spiritual condition, is it not plain that we should do all that in us lies to gain that higher and grander development, and through prayerful aspiration seek for that which is highest and holiest, thereby shortening our probation in earthly embodiments? It is indisputable that spirits of every grade linger upon our earth-plane, and that we attract and bring to us those who are en rapport with our mental and moral condition. If we would rise we must become truly spiritual, get rid of the egotism which intellectualism engenders, and, humble as a little child, pray for those intelligences that are higher and wiser than ourselves, to inspire and perfect our moral and spiritual development. He who is puffed up with his own wisdom effectually bars out all higher influences than his own, and may dwell indefinitely in the region of hair-splittings and intellectual sophisms. True religion is not simply an intellectual conception of life and its duties, but an at-one-ness with the divine—becoming en rapport with those high spheres where dwell the perfected angels of the Father. It can only be reached by endeavoring to imitate in our finite way the Father's love, guided by wisdom, putting self under our feet, and humbly praying for that which is highest, holiest and best. In that love once reared shall be found the true cement that shall bind all Spiritualists, nay, all people, in the bonds of holy union. Organization if simply on the external plane is but a rope of sand, love and soul-sympathy being wanted.

Let us endeavor to infuse more of love into our movement, putting away all those qualities that may drag us down. Let us ignore jealousy, scandal, selfishness and uncharitableness, and try always to do that which seems right and best, having no thought but to advance those high and holy principles which are the foundation of all religions, and then true organization will become cemented by the spirit of love, and the true religion of Spiritualism will cease to be rejected, but the world seeing its fruits of holiness, will hasten to pluck of the tree which bears such fruitage—a universal spiritual religion, based upon the true facts of communion and communication with the so-called dead; with the angel mother or child, the martyrs and sainted souls of the ages past, who, through much trial, have risen to wear the victor's crown of perfected man and womanhood, is the sure prophecy of to-day. Ay, it is already here; its auroral tints even now are lighting up the morning sky. It must increase and spread until the earth is flooded with the light of truth.

The angel-world—the hosts of heaven—are here with their holy influence to lift up all who desire and aspire. Pray that you may be blessed in your families and households by their sweet presence. The world of sense can give nothing that will exalt the soul and bring such enduring satisfaction as the conquering of one propensity that would drag downward. And the love of the great All-Father and Mother God, whom no soul can fathom, but only sense the sweetness of communion with, will make itself more and more real until earth shall blossom as heaven with divine sweetness.

Boston.

Spiritual Phenomena.

An Early Experience.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

When I was a boy of fourteen my widowed mother sent me to the village of I——, near Landau, in the Rhine province of Bavaria, to pursue my preparatory studies for the seminary. I occupied a cheerful room which my mother had rented for me. It was on the ground floor and had two windows, one facing the open yard which led to the street, the other commanding a view of a square of about ten or twelve feet, a space surrounded by the solid brick or stone walls of the adjacent houses. One night I came to my lodging at about ten o'clock and lighted a candle, brought from my trunk needle and thread, which maternal foresight had provided me with, in order to sew on a button that had "come off" from the young bachelor's waistcoat. The family had retired and all was quiet. As I grappled with the difficulties of the operation, I suddenly heard a knocking close to the window that faced the closed alley.

This knocking was startling, for it sounded like the knocking of a person who desired to attract the attention of some one. I instinctively felt that no one who wished to see me at such an hour would knock at this window. Looking out I saw no one, yet the knocking continued. I was alarmed. The knocking seemed to be on a large deal board which stood against the wall by the window. This board was used by my landlord, who was sexton and undertaker, to wash dead bodies upon, which circumstance increased my fright.

Knock, knock, knock, knock, knock, it went, keeping time as in drumming. I remember blowing out the light and hastily going to bed. The drumming continued. I covered my head in terror and still heard the sounds. How long I thus lay I cannot tell. When I awoke late in the morning the sun was shining into my room. I was almost ashamed now to have been so terrified. But when the following night I heard the knockings again, I determined to tell the family of it. Next morning when they were breakfasting I ventured to say: "For two nights I heard strange knockings near my window." I expected to be laughed at. But none of the family seemed to be surprised, and the daughter, a young lady of about twenty, exclaimed: "That's the drum of last year," whereupon her father looked sternly and rebukingly at her, and I felt that the subject was uncongenial.

The knockings continued on the succeeding nights, and after searching the neighborhood for the probable natural cause, and finding no clue, I asked for the missing shutters, which apparently had been detached. These were brought, and I nailed them on, using alternately a hammer and a heavy axe for the purpose. What was my astonishment and dismay when on the very night succeeding this effort, the knockings came, at first as usual, then suddenly varied by exactly repeating and imitating, as in mockery, the blows of hammer and axe which I had dealt in nailing on the shutters. It gave me the impression as if the mysterious knocker had said, "Your efforts are in vain, you cannot stop me."

Next day I for the first time told the matter to my two teachers, and again I was not ridiculed. "It is said that a child had been murdered in that house," they said. I then requested my landlady to give me another room in the same house, which she did. But I was so disturbed by unaccountable noises in the garret above, that I could not sleep. I finally left, and rented lodgings elsewhere.

At that time I had not heard anything about Spiritualism. The readers of this episode are left to draw their own conclusions. As I myself now look back, I suppose there was a medium in the house. Perhaps it was the young lady who mentioned the drum. As for the knockings, they seemed to emanate from intelligence, for there was method in them, and my impression was that they came from a person who wanted to attract attention. If, instead of being frightened, I had asked, What is wanted? or had known what happened in the Fox family at Hydesville, I might have perhaps entered into communion with an excarnated spirit.

S. W.

Bradford, Pa.

PILGRIM PENCILINGS.

NO. IV.

BY J. J. MORSE.

Specially compiled for the Banner of Light.

By reference to that literary "safe deposit vault," my scrap-book, the Pilgrim makes discovery that it is almost a year ago since THE BANNER housed his last communication under the above entitled heading. Yet, every week, without a break, THE BANNER has waved before us, bringing news of work done by brave men and women this great country over, for the glad gospel of our heaven-sent truth; telling us, too, of many interesting facts and evidences demonstrating spirit return, and the many methods whereby such is proven alike to our senses and our reason; from time to time giving us the eloquence of many a spirit-inspired speaker and writer—always and ever a welcome messenger, in whose hands are many good things for all tastes. May winter's snows and summer's suns see it waving ever in the fore-front of our hosts.

So full of business have been hands and brain that, save some three or four brief letters for your columns, Mr. Editor, there has literally been time for nothing more. Now, while in between the close of one engagement and the commencement of another, the camp here, there is breathing space, and time to tell in outline how the Pilgrim and his family have fared out here, since arriving, just fifty-four weeks ago, though our coming was for but three months, as we thought!

The first month's duties were at the State Camp-Meeting. As leading and specially retained speaker, the Pilgrim had all his work before him. The faithful friends, unseen to mortal eyes, sufficed for all, though; during thirty-three days they delivered twenty-three regular discourses! As each meeting was largely attended, and as the Board of the State Camp-Meeting Association presented a highly complimentary series of resolutions, and as the good people present were most cordial all the time, it may be fairly assumed the Pilgrim's labors were completely satisfactory. Thus passed the month of June away.

Commencing with the second Sunday in July the Pilgrim begun a two months' engagement with the Spiritualists' society meeting in Metropolitan Temple, "The Golden Gate Religious and Philosophical Society," holding a charter from the State of California. In a letter sent to THE BANNER, and which appeared therein on September 10th last, the indulgent reader of these pencilings will find a descriptive account of the above-named hall and the meetings held therein, therefore old ground need not be retraced here. Suffice it to say that the two months originally arranged for extended to eleven, and then but closed owing to the regular vacation having again come round, and the health of the society's speaker, Mrs. E. L. Watson, known to Eastern readers as "Our Libbie," having sufficiently recovered to enable her to resume her desk. I found the officers of the society most courteous in all things—genial and earnest gentlemen, doing their best with commendable singleness of purpose, and aiming high in the standard of work they were engaged in.

Mrs. Watson owns an extensive fruit farm, some sixty miles from San Francisco, in a cozy nook among the foothills of the southern fork of the Sierra Nevada mountains, about eight miles out from Santa Clara. The Pilgrim and his family were very pleasantly entertained there on two occasions of a week each time, and the recollections of their visits will long continue as sunny as are the skies of the beautiful Santa Clara valley.

Spiritualism in San Francisco has, of course, its various party lines, in some cases accentuated with more of acrimony than reflection; the at present oldest organization is the "Spiritual Union," which, though keeping up its charter, does not hold meetings. Then there are the society of "Progressive Spiritualists," the "Mediums' Meeting," and the society above referred to, for which the Pilgrim labored; neither body possesses all the virtue of our great cause, but each fills its place and does its work. Independent meetings are run from time to time, Mrs. Ada Foye, John Slater, Mrs. J. J. Whitney, W. J. Colville and others conducting. There are two weekly journals, devoted to our cause, published in the city, one the Carrier Dove, the other The Golden Gate, respectively edited by Mrs. J. Schlesinger and Mr. J. J. Owen. The first named has generously seconded the Pilgrim's work by publishing a large number of his inspirers' lectures in its pages. The secular press, notably the Chronicle and Examiner, are commendably considerate in their treatment of our cause, and public opinion here appears to lean decidedly in our favor.

In the early part of November last the Pilgrim visited Tulare City, some two hundred and sixty miles in the interior, holding two very largely attended meetings there. The city is situated in the San Joaquin Valley, and its surroundings are extremely picturesque. Our cause has some few faithful supporters there, and no doubt there is room for future growth of importance and extent. Outside of San Francisco Spiritualism does not have any considerable sustained public presentation, but in every city and hamlet there are circles and mediums in plenty. Public meetings and professional teachers are not the real elements of our cause. Such are in the private life and domestic Spiritualism, at the pure and unsullied altars of family communion with the unseen angels who inspire and guide us. San José, Santa Cruz, Los Angeles, San Diego and Stockton among the larger centres, keep the lamp alight with more or less brilliancy and constancy. Mediums practice in each place and find good patronage, but our people out here are growing more and more cautious, demanding work rather than glowing advertisements that promise so much and result in so little.

The Pilgrim's controls have taught a number of classes in spiritual and psychic subjects since August last, and with good results. Eschewing, as they did in their teachings, all countenance of the diverting and disintegrating teachings that, at one time, had full swing out here, they surely built up a healthy public sentiment upon such matters, and as a result many an exuberant speculation has been penned down to rational limits, and Spiritualism put first, as it should be by Spiritualists. At the present time the unseen ones are directing the Pilgrim in developing mediumship, very interesting "circles" being now in progress.

The year's residence and work on the Pacific Coast has been more than pleasant and quite satisfactory. The good friends rallied round the Pilgrim and his family from the first, and their friendship has increased each month. Mr. M. B. Dodge, the manager of our late meetings, and his most estimable wife, have been extremely kind; but there, to enumerate by name all our friends, in the Temple Society and out of it, would convert this part of the article into a page or two of a city directory, so let it suffice that all are remembered and all are truly thanked. Finding a painful lack of social fraternizing among our people, the Pilgrim, acting upon an impulse from beyond, and aided by the good wife and willing daughter, instituted a series of monthly sociables to bring the friends together. To enable us to do this each month the handsome double parlors and the dining room at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Schlesinger were generously placed at our entire disposal. Much good was done by these monthly gatherings, some sores were healed, and not a few came to know each other better from seeing each other closer.

Without "boom" or boast, the Pilgrim's work went steadily forward upon its appointed way, and he anticipated bidding adieu to the Golden Gate early in July. But it was not to be so! Unknown, good friends felt they could not permit it, so they earnestly requested us to make our home here a little longer yet. The unseen workers assented, and so presently a further two months' course of lectures will be commenced—this time upon an independent basis, entirely distinct from any society or party, in no wise responsible to any such, but under the personal management of the Pilgrim and his unseen helpers. This arrangement will not interfere with Eastern engagements for ensuing season's lectures, or for work at Camp-Meetings next year, but to all, and sundry, let it be said the Pilgrim positively returns to England after next year's camps are done.

Briefly, then, as herein set down, is the abstract and chronicle of a year's labors, so that Inquiring friends, far and near, may find answers to their queries as to how fares it with us out here, among the descendants of the Argonauts. As THE BANNER will reach all I know and love, on its folds let these lines be inscribed, that they may be seen in many lands. May each of us strive to be all we insist upon others becoming, and as we would that justice be done to us, so let us render justice to all. The heaven we make around us is the measure of the heaven possessed within us.

331 Turk street, San Francisco, Cal., June 11th, 1888.

From The Growing Youth.

OLD JACK.

"What does all this mean? Move on, all of you," said Policeman Brown, or "Number 44," as he was called at his station.

As he spoke the group of laughing, shouting boys began to scatter in all directions, for well they knew the officer would not allow them to encumber the sidewalk of his "beat."

But there was one that did not obey the order of the crowd-disperser. It was a small-sized monkey, dressed in a suit of scarlet and blue flannel, very dingy and greasy from much wear and handling. The little animal looked at the officer in a defiant way, and the latter laughed in spite of himself. The boys meanwhile waited at a good distance to see how it would all end. That the monkey belonged to some Italian organ-grinder the policeman felt certain, but he looked in vain for him up and down the street. While his back was thus turned, the monkey, without warning, sprang upon his shoulder, and fastened a grip in the collar of his coat.

A scream of delight went up from the throats of the street Arabs as the man tried to shake off the chattering, shivering monkey that clung tenaciously upon its lofty perch, for Policeman Brown was a tall man, and his dignified figure looked very funny to the bystanders surmounted as it was by this obtrusive little visitor.

The monkey was master of the situation, and Mr. Brown was in an embarrassing predicament.

Finding that he could not loosen its hold upon him, Number 44 wisely concluded to take himself and his keeper to the station, where he must soon report for duty, and with a few words of warning to the grinning boys, with here and there a threatening motion toward the most impertinent ones, the policeman hurried away.

When the station office was reached the monkey loosened his grip, and, springing from his perch, settled himself upon a heavy cornice of the ceiling. For some time the officers tried to induce him to leave this place, but he would not do so until Policeman Brown held out a large bun which he had brought from a bakery near by. Then the weird little thing, with a face as old-looking as that of a very, very aged man, seized the bun, and once more mounting to the officer's shoulder, devoured his cake with the utmost satisfaction.

Finding no owner for the monkey, Number 44, with his captain's permission, concluded to keep him.

In a short time Old Jack, as they named him, became a great pet with the men at the station. They found that he could perform many tricks, such as swinging by his tail from high places and catching what was thrown to him by the men, turning the strangest kind of summersaults and figures, and doing much more that was very comical to see.

Two weeks had passed, when one day an old weather-beaten man with an organ strapped to his back entered the station, and looked eagerly around as if in search of something. As he caught sight of the intruder Jack gave a shriek and jumped upon the old organ.

"Ha, it is Zepho! I find you! What for you leave me? So bad I feel not to have you no more. They tell me my Zepho be here. I come for you. You leave me no more."

The old man continued to talk to the monkey as if he were a human being, and the creature seemed to understand as he blinked and nodded in his master's face.

After listening to the Italian the captain was satisfied that Old Jack belonged to him, but he would not let the monkey go until an investigation was made.

That night Policeman Brown visited the miserable tenement given as the foreigner's home, and, finding that the Italian's story was true, Old Jack was given up, but not without regret.

Ten months later, while passing along his beat, Number 44 felt a slight shock as something bounded upon his shoulder.

It was Old Jack, more dingy in appearance and faded in apparel than ever. Officer Brown was very glad to see his old friend again, and so were the men at the station, who shook hands with him, and treated him to cakes and peanuts.

A visit to the old Italian found the man very ill upon his ragged bed.

"I die," he said, "I die and be no more. I all hurt and bad in here," pointing to his chest. "Zepho he git out; he go leave me; the door not shut, he go. I know he find the perleese who take him before. You keep Zepho; he be very old, very wise; he know much; he be one hundred, I tinks. You keeps him, and be good to Zepho."

The poor old man was taken to the hospita when he closed his eyes on mortal life a few days after.

For a long time Old Jack was kept at the station, and finally Policeman Brown gave him to a boy who lived out of town.

Old Jack found a pleasant home at last.

Many were the amateur circus performances given by the youths in the neighborhood. Of course Old Jack, with his funny antics and clever tricks, was the chief actor, and his presence was always a source of delight.

Policeman Brown visits his old pet whenever he can find time, and has preserved the tawdry clothes and faded feathers of the little animal. He values them highly as mementos of one of the most embarrassing predicaments which he ever experienced.

MISS M. T. SHELHAMER.

Mrs. Richmond's Labors.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

The direct spiritual work of the guides of Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond has been unbroken during the year (which closed June 24th), and in the yielding of a rich harvest we have abundant evidence of the good seed sown. At each quarterly meeting of the society the list of membership has been largely augmented, and a growing interest in the subject of Spiritualism has been manifested in the large audiences which Sunday after Sunday gathered to listen to the utterances of a divine truth.

In the congregation have been seen prominent clergymen, judges, lawyers, doctors, men of science and others who, by their presence, have proven that this great subject is one which has in its unfolding grown to command the respect and attention of thinking minds especially. The Sunday evening discourses have been published in pamphlet form, with the customary poem appended. The morning discourses, consisting of Bible interpretations according to the Cabala, have proved of intense interest, and inspired by a very advanced spirit. Following these a series of lectures on the Messiahs and their angels will, when completed, constitute a line of spiritual work never before presented in so elaborate a manner, thus indicating that the guides must feel the growing fitness of the mortal mind to incorporate the eternal truths so graciously bestowed.

The friends of Mrs. Richmond are aware that the guides of this lady have given through her a series of lessons on the "Soul-Embodiments in Human Form." These have culminated in the publication of a book which gives a concise statement of the philosophy, with notes and references so classified as to make it comprehensive, logical and conclusive. If it is not already on the market, the work can be obtained of the publishers, at 61 Union Park Place, Chicago. This book, together with the advanced thought of the regular work twice every Sunday, has inaugurated a marked era in spiritual literature, the demands for the published matter from the Pacific Slope to England being unprecedented.

Music.—The choir, consisting of a quartette of professional singers, has been no small factor in the success of our meetings. Earnest, heartfelt enthusiasm has marked their song services each Sunday, and they have sung as though the blessing of the spirit-world rested upon them.

Entertainments.—The Band of Harmony, an auxiliary of this Society, has been giving a series of parties during the past winter, which have been brilliant successes, both socially and financially. At the "Phantom" and Fancy Dress Parties, as well as Bal Masque, over one hundred couples were on the floor in every conceivable variety of fancy dress and costume. The suppers on each occasion were sumptuous and the table decorations unique and beautiful. Our hall is to be remodeled, enlarged and beautified this summer in every particular. Reception-rooms, end gallery with boxes, and card-rooms for those who do not dance, and an arched platform, will be prominent additions. In view of these facts tickets will at once be issued for a series of six "Court Receptions" (as they will be called), the participants appearing as representatives of various courts, and to be costumed according to the court they represent. The proceeds will be devoted to carrying on the spiritual work of this society.

Decorations.—I cannot close this brief outline of our work without reference to the Floral Decorations. Every Sunday (and at each entertainment) the whole face of the platform, forty feet in length, has been covered with the different varieties of evergreens; while on the floor of the platform were banks of mosses, which, when surmounted by vases of flowers, were as high as the speaker. Flowers have been massed in rich profusion, and the designs have been very beautiful and novel.

The flowers donated to and worn by Mrs. Richmond at each service, syllable the love and respect of her friends.

W. J. Colville will occupy the platform of the First Society during the month of September, and Mrs. Richmond will resume her work for the coming year the first Sunday in October.

Very respectfully, EMERALD.

Chicago, Ill.

Mr. Bradlaugh, who was refused his seat in the English Parliament for five consecutive years, has now succeeded in carrying a bill to abolish the very oath by which he was debarred, and that, too, by a majority of one hundred. This leads the London Standard to declare that the English nation is no longer distinctively Christian, and that a large per centage of the people there no longer accept the religion embodied in the Bible.

DREAM, BABY, DREAM.

Darling, lay your tired head down,
And take a trip to sleepy-town;
Pick up all the dreams you see,
And bring them home to tell to me.

Dream you're a honey-bee poised on a rose,
Draining the dew where the deep color glows.
Dream you're a lily fair, stately and white,
Folding your petals to sleep all the night.
Dream you're a twinkling star up in the sky,
But don't stay there long, my pet, stars are so high.
Dream you're a violet, hiding your head,
Safe from the chilly winds, in mossy bed.
Dream you're a pearly shell, deep in a cave,
Nestling by corals and washed by the wave.
Dream you're a butterfly, golden and gay,
Wooing the sweetest flowers all the long day.
Dream you're a silver bell ringing the hours,
To waken the fairies that sleep in the flowers.
Dream on, sweet baby, dream of all bliss,
Till you wake like a rosebud for mamma to kiss.

—Mary C. Hungerford.

Banner Correspondence.

Iowa.

TABOR.—James Vincent, Sr., writes: "That Spiritualism is making more rapid conquests than any religious system has ever made, is becoming more and more apparent, when we see such abuse and calumny heaped upon it by such orthodox representatives as T. DeWitt Talmage and the National Republican at Washington. For the benefit of such as may have felt inclined to listen to said Talmage's vagaries with favor, I wish to give just a little of my own experience recently.

While in Cincinnati, Ohio, about two weeks since, I inquired if there were any mediums who were known to be persons of repute, in whom confidence could be placed. I was directed to several.

One lady was a spirit medium for the trumpet. At first I was strongly disinclined to attend any of her circles, but having a spare afternoon I concluded to go. It is to be borne in mind that the medium knew nothing of me—neither my name, nor from what part of the country I hailed. So with every member of the circle: I knew nothing of either of them, nor they of me. Furthermore, I had no knowledge whatever of how such séances were conducted.

I heard spirit-voices talking with their friends. I heard the sobs of gladness of those whose spirit friends were conversing with them. While I was wondering if I should receive a visit from any of my friends, I heard a voice close to me. I asked: 'Who is it?' 'Mary,' was the reply. 'What!' I exclaimed, 'is it my Mary, my precious wife?' 'Yes,' she said, and immediately there followed the sound of kisses, which was heard by the entire circle. I asked her what she wanted to say to me, and she talked to me of what belongs to me alone. I knew it was her voice, more especially when she said, as she has so often said while in life, as she lay her head on my shoulder, 'Oh! my dear husband!' I could not be mistaken. But to make sure, I said to her: 'My dear, have you heard me sing to you every day since you passed over?' 'Yes,' she said. 'Do you know what I have sung?' 'Yes.' 'Now, then.' I said, 'please tell me what it is.' Instantly she said: 'Nearer, My God, to Thee, Nearer to Thee. Sing it now, and I will sing it with you.' I sung it, and she with me, beautifully, and while her voice was much improved to what it was in earth-life, I carefully noted her own distinctive peculiarities. I know it was her, for how could it be otherwise, when not a soul in the whole world knew that I had ever sung that to her but myself. The entire circle broke out as with one voice at the close: 'Did you ever hear anything so grand as that?'

I must not write more of my own experience, or visits from the dear wife, and will only add, as to myself, that at another séance, with another medium, an old friend, a lawyer, who passed away between three and four years ago, came to me and gave me his name, and, among other things, assured me that he had been constantly with me. This spirit-friend has come to me every time I have had an opportunity to sit with a medium—at Ottumwa, at Davenport, and now at Cincinnati, where the medium did not know me from Adam, nor that such a person as Robert Percival had ever had an existence.

One fact more, which I know to be a fact, because I had it direct from the party interested himself. This is for the Washington Republican man. The gentleman had been sitting with a medium, and almost the first thing that her Indian guide said to him was that before the end of the month he would hear about some money that was coming to him. He said it sounded so much like gypsy fortune-telling that it came near causing him to distrust the medium; still he could not do that, for she was a lady whose entire life forbade it. The statement as to the money was soon lost sight of in the remarkable visits he had from his near friends in spirit-land, and he said that he never once thought about the money until three days before the close of that month he received intelligence of a legacy, a part of which was coming to him, and asking how he wished to have it forwarded.

I do not believe the rampant editor of the Republican would object to spirit-prediction of this kind to himself, and verified as this was. Then why seek to injure a whole class of people much broader in their investigations and belief than he is himself, by trying to make it appear that they predict things, then to prove their predictions true will go such lengths as to scuttle a ship at sea, involving the sacrifice of many lives? Had that editor good common sense he would have drawn a more rational conclusion, and have counselled his readers not to turn from such warnings, but to give heed to them—enough at least to give them due examination."

DES MOINES.—V. C. Taylor gives sprightly expression to his views regarding the vast differences existing between the various descriptions of the spirit-world by its denizens, which are given through mediums. He has read, he says, revelations from Spirit Judge Edmonds in "The Next World Interviewed," remarks by Dr. E. C. Crowell, in "The Spirit-World," descriptions by Washington Irving, in Mrs. Horn's "Strange Visitors," etc., but has failed to learn as much from them all as is conveyed by a message from a spirit communicating at the Banner of Light Free Circle, who said: "Our world is both objective and subjective." This he regards as "a straight announcement" at any rate. He thinks Spirits S. B. Brittan and W. S. Courtney eminently qualified to give answer to the desire for enlightenment in this important direction.

District of Columbia.

WASHINGTON.—P. O. Jenkins writes: "What prophetic vision was far-reaching enough to take in the significance of and the stupendous results to culminate from the Rochester knockings of four decades ago! Who, when in 1848 the Fox children excited the wonder of the world as the instruments of these mysterious manifestations, dreamed of their marking a new era in the world's history? Who entertained the slightest conception that they were the foreshadowings of a day when man was to be emancipated from his ignorance and his distorted conceptions of God and of human destiny? Who dared hope that they were the beginning of a missionary work of angels, whereby the problem of man's future life was to be solved and forever settled? Rapid and marvelous have been the progressive developments, until now spirit communion is enjoyed in every land.

In general terms, these statements show what Spiritualism in its past and present has done for humanity. And what of the future? Again we may exclaim that no prophetic vision can take in the scope. Mediums are increasing in numbers and in power all over the civilized world, and thousands are giving in their adhesion to the purifying and enlightening truths vouchsafed to humanity through their instrumentality, and are rejoicing in the knowledge and experience which come to them in the incontestible realization of the fact that death does not 'end all,' and that their loved ones whom death has separated from them, still live and still love them. Of the future of Spiritualism in its mission to man, we can only say, the hand of God is in and guiding the work, and no human power can stay it. Spiritualism will live when Talmage and his like shall no more be heard; when they are gone and forgotten. It is cheap logic to use mere statements and cry 'humbug,' but this class of vituperators exerts very little influence upon thinking minds. The time will come when all such falsifiers of truth and progress will be ashamed of what they have done.

The work of the spirit-world in behalf of humanity is exhibiting itself in all parts of the land. Here in the city of Washington many of the best citizens are giving their support to the cause, and many more becoming earnest investigators.

I close by reminding Spiritualists that while we are not called on to defend fraudulent mediumship, we are called upon to be discreet in our judgment of the character and cause of what may seem to be, or really may be fraud; for some of the best mediums known have, from their negative, psychological natures, been overpowered by evil influences to commit fraud. Let this be remembered; and let our judgment be tempered by our knowledge of this fact. The best surroundings possible should be had for mediums, and it is the business of Spiritualists to effect this as far as possible."

Pennsylvania.

PITTSBURGH.—A correspondent writes that Sunday, June 10th, the closing services of the season were held by the Pittsburgh Society of Spiritualists, and the occasion was made a memorable one by Mrs. H. S. Richings, who a few days previous had solicited donations of flowers, and whose fine taste and industry were shown in the use of what she received in decorating the hall. Those who contributed floral offerings were Mr. J. H. McElroy, William Fleming, Mrs. Grey and Mrs. Johnson. Mrs. Richings also gathered a fine collection of flowers and ferns. The Pittsburgh Leader, reporting the evening meeting of the Sunday previous, alluded favorably to Mrs. Richings's abilities as a public speaker, and said:

"It has been the custom of Mrs. Richings at each meeting to give psychometric readings, in which she claims the power of delineating the disposition and characteristics of persons, even though they may have long since passed out into the great somewhere. To do this she needs but the name of the individual. Last evening, as Mrs. Richings called for a name, a tall young man in the back part of the room gave that of 'William Duff,' adding that the audience would all recognize him by the name of William Chalet. 'The individual named [said Mrs. R.] has passed out of the body, and in meeting death experienced a painful choking in the chest. I get the sense of one suffering from lung affection. He was of a nervous, sanguine temperament, active, energetic and popular, always hail-fellow-well-met! He should have left wealth, for he made money, but spent it fast. At one time in his life he was inclined to Spiritualism, but for years previous to his death he had concluded that there was little in the theory.' As the lecturess delivered the above the crowded hall was so still that one could hear her labored breathing. Mrs. Richings resumed: 'That man is standing beside me now. His thoughts are with his family, and he is constantly saying, "Oh! my poor wife! I did not think things would turn out that way." He asks his friends here to tell his wife that he wants to communicate with her in regard to business matters which he left unfinished. I don't know what this man's business was, but I now seem to be looking on a lighted stage.' At this the audience broke into the wildest applause, which so disturbed the medium that she declared herself unable to continue."

CORRY.—Mr. G. F. Lewis reports Bishop Fowler of the Methodist Episcopal Church as having said in a sermon before the General Conference at New York, in alluding to the orthodox doctrine of the atonement:

"Let me be specific. No debt has been paid. It is not in the field of commercial values. If it were a debt to be paid by the sufferings of Christ, then it would be already paid, and there could be no further claim against the sinner. He would need no pardon. His release would be demanded by justice. But such is not the case. No debt has been paid. No penalty has been inflicted. The innocent may suffer for the guilty as a mother suffers for a bad child. But it is the coarsest kind of cruelty to inflict a punishment upon the innocent for the guilty. If penalty were inflicted it would be all that justice could demand; when one has endured the penalty of a crime, then he is entitled to a discharge. He does not plead for pardon, but demands a discharge. Moreover, it is not thinkable that guilt can be transferred to the innocent. It inheres in the party sinning. It is monstrous and unthinkable injustice to hold the innocent as guilty. The fiction of substituting a supposed penalty upon Jesus for a penalty due the guilty, must be revolting to all sense of justice. Guilt could not be transferred. Penalty could not be inflicted upon the innocent. Penalty inflicted at all must be upon the guilty, and then pardon would be impossible. There would be nothing to pardon. No penalty has been inflicted."

Commenting upon the rapid spread of the reasonable view of the subject enunciated by Bishop Fowler, Mr. Lewis says:

"We are coming to see that doctrines, books, churches, etc., are not religion, any more than plows, hoes, etc., are agriculture; they are only tools or instruments for carrying on agriculture. When a wise farmer finds a new and improved tool, he prefers it to the old one; while the ignoramus of India, Spain and Mexico plows with the same root-plow, because it is old and sanctified. Who does not rejoice that better religious tools are coming into use?"

New York.

FLUSHING.—A. E. Hempstead writes that Mrs. Jennie Holmes, who will be remembered as one of the earliest mediums for materialization, and other physical demonstrations of spirit presence and power, has, after six years' suspension, resumed holding séances, giving one each week, on Thursday evening, at her residence on Grand street, East New York, near Cypress Hills Cemetery. Our correspondent says: "Mrs. Holmes has lost her husband and her pecuniary resources, but not the rare gifts of mediumship, with which she is richly endowed. She gave a trial séance in her home on the evening of June 7th, at which I was at first the only one present. I assisted in arranging the cabinet, and fastening the windows and doors. I entered every room in the house, and was positively certain Mrs. H. and myself were the only persons in it. The medium felt somewhat disappointed in not seeing other sitters. She has recently passed through a severe illness, and being feeble was easily discouraged, and distrusted obtaining any demonstration that would be satisfactory. But she said she would try her new cabinet; perhaps her controls would like to prepare her surroundings. I took a seat, commenced singing an old familiar hymn, and had scarcely reached the end of the first verse when the curtains parted, and a beautiful form stepped from the cabinet, and then withdrew. Soon another form followed, different entirely from the first. Four distinct forms came out. Some moved in front of the cabinet back and forth, paying no special regard to me. I ventured to suggest that the occasion was devoted to their work exclusively, and that I was not asking tests, which was responded to by three raps. Other raps in the direction of the front door announced the arrival of some mortal friend behind time, and with consent to admit whoever it might be, I soon stood face to face with the carpenter who had put up the cabinet a few hours before, and who, through the kindness of Mrs. Holmes, had come to his first investigation. Joining our hands we commenced our singing, as if no interruption had taken place. Forms came, all distinctly different, paying no heed to my skeptical friend, until he received the salute from the cabinet, 'Hello, boss,' from a large fine male form that stepped in view, coat off, sleeves rolled up, in the sombre colors of a workman's suit. He instantly recognized his old boss, from whom he learned his trade. Soon a very large female form came out, walked the length of the room on one side, then back across the front of the cabinet, and up the other side; in coming back she stopped at a table, and looked curiously at the old well-worn musical instruments on it, which accompanied their owner for twenty years or more in her travels. She finally took up a tambourine, looked wonderingly at it, and gave it a playful shake. She then lifted a heavy chair in one hand without the least apparent effort, carried it ten feet across the room, then returned to the cabinet, opened the curtains without entering, and led out to the chair a smaller, weaker form, and seated her thereon, standing by her side. Fully six feet from the medium these forms whispered fully three minutes, when the largest helped the feebler one back to the cabinet, which they both entered. The guitar in the cabinet was being played while the two forms were out. We had two forms out three times, with several good male forms. We had as many as twelve forms in all."

Our correspondent closes by saying that Mrs. Holmes is greatly in need of sympathy and support, and that as her health is being gradually restored she will give one séance a week at her home, the location of which he has mentioned.

SARATOGA SPRINGS.—A correspondent writes: "A brighter day never greeted mortals than that of June 3d, nor a happier or more harmonious company ever welcomed such a day and participated in the enjoyments of so pleasurable an occasion than that which then assembled at the residence of Dr. W. B. Mills, Locust Grove. Dr. Mills has ingratiated himself by the liberal exercise of his spiritual gifts into the highest esteem of a large number of highly appreciative friends, many of whom met him this day within his own home with their warmest congratulations and best good wishes. An hour was passed in communion with the beauties of Nature and a social interchange of thought, after which, and vocal and instrumental music, Dr. Mills in words of great appropriateness welcomed his friends to the hospitalities and enjoyments of his home and its surroundings. Peter Thompson and Gen. Bullard made remarks, and a poem was recited with much good taste by Miss Consalus. Mrs. Mills also heartily welcomed her friends, and remarked that nothing beyond her immediate family was more highly esteemed by her than Spiritualism, with its beautiful philosophy of life and its endless continuity. During the day Dr. Mills described spirits that were by his clairvoyant vision seen to be present, and gave messages clairaudiently heard by him, all of which being correct were very gratifyingly received by all present."

NEW YORK CITY.—Frank W. Jones, Conductor, writes, June 21st: "The musical and literary entertainment given by the People's Meeting was an enjoyable occasion. A good audience, with Wilson Macdonald for Master of Ceremonies, and willing and distinguished talent, rendered the gathering one of pleasure and profit. After the opening song by the audience Mr. Macdonald gave a short address. The following programme was then in order: Recitations, 'The September Gale,' by F. W. Jones; 'Entertaining Sister's Beau,' Miss Mattie Morrison; recitation by Miss Fannie Morrison; reading, 'Mr. De Splae,' Mrs. Maggie Morrison; remarks by Theodore Bunce; songs, 'Roving Swallow,' by Mrs. C.; 'Nearer, My God, to Thee,' Miss C.; 'The Stream of Time,' Mr. H. Millenet; 'Flee as a Bird,' and 'Baby's Lullaby,' by Miss Norma Wills; an original song, 'When You and I Were Young, Tom,' by Wilson Macdonald; 'Annie Laurie,' and 'Uncle Joe,' by Mr. Macdonald, who seemed to be in a happy frame of mind, and conducted the exercises to the evident satisfaction and pleasure to all.

Each part of the programme was finely rendered, and the people present expressed themselves as highly pleased with the evening's entertainment.

We have decided to continue our meetings through the season. We have a pleasant and comfortable hall, and the sessions should be well supported.

Mr. A. E. Laurene, of Brooklyn, is expected to deliver his very valuable lecture on 'Mediumship,' Sunday evening, July 1st."

Connecticut.

NEW HAVEN.—William Hart writes: "The ever-welcome and highly prized BANNER OF LIGHT reaches this city each week and affords instruction and consolation to many.

Meetings are held here in Spiritualists' Hall, Sundays. A conference in the afternoon and séances Sunday evening. Circles are held at the hall each Wednesday evening. The meetings are well attended. Mrs. J. J. Clark, the well-known and gifted medium, held séances at her parlors each Sunday evening up to a recent date. Her tests surprised and delighted hundreds, and changed the minds of skeptics regarding spiritual things. Mrs. Clark will go to Lake Pleasant to stay during the months of July and August. Hosts of friends in this city desire that her trip shall be a pleasant and enjoyable one, and that she may return rested and refreshed to resume her duties as a trusted and faithful medium."

BRIDGEPORT.—E. B. Leavenworth writes that he has attended several of the materializing séances of Mrs. Effie Moss in New York City, of one of which he says: "There were nine persons present, and perfect harmony prevailed. One of the first spirits to appear was Lucille Western; perfect materialization; five inches taller than Mrs. Moss. She called me to the cabinet, and proved to me she had nothing on her head or feet to add to her height; then entered into conversation, telling me of what was then occurring in my home at Bridgeport, which on my return I found to be correct. All in the circle received visits from spirit-friends and relatives, occasionally two appearing at the same time. Being again called to the cabinet, I there met my sister and sister in-law, both of whom stood and talked with me for some minutes in full view of all present; then taking me into the cabinet, they continued to converse, while at the same time the spirit control, Jack, spoke to me from another part of the cabinet; spirit Brooks, an English lady, and Lillie, the child-control of this cabinet, also spoke to me from still another quarter. Minnie, the Indian girl, who controls the medium during the séance, then spoke. Mrs. Moss being seated in her usual place in the corner of the cabinet.

During the séance a spirit materialized in front of the cabinet; all could plainly see her as she arose. She was recognized by a gentleman as his wife.

In all eighteen or twenty forms appeared, and were recognized.

As a usual thing but one form comes at a time at these séances of Mrs. Moss, but each is wholly unlike the medium, and the room is comparatively well lighted, better, in fact, than most seance-rooms I have visited.

The cabinet is simply a wooden frame, covered with dark Canton flannel, and stands at one end of the room against a wall with no door or window near it, an open hall way being below it.

I have had Mrs. Moss in my own home at Bridgeport, and there witnessed manifestations similar to those above described."

Massachusetts.

NEWBURYPORT.—F. H. F. writes: "The Newburyport First Spiritualist Society held its annual business meeting Monday, June 1st. The reports of the Secretary and Treasurer were read, giving interesting details of the progress of the Society for the season. There were held during the season twenty-nine Sunday meetings and test circles, and we close the term with all our bills paid, and a small balance in the Treasury. The sermon preached by Rev. Mr. Mills has done us great good; it set church people thinking, and our officers are repeatedly asked, when does Mrs. Luther come again?

The Society has elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: President, Albert Russell; Vice-President, Albert R. Patten; Secretary, present incumbent, F. H. Fuller; Treasurer, Daniel T. Reed. The business meeting passed off in a very harmonious manner. The usual vote of thanks was passed, thanking the Board of Officers for faithful services rendered. After the appointment of Committees, and mapping out the work of the next season, the meeting adjourned to the first Monday in September.

Mr. Oscar Edgerley, one of our local mediums, has been meeting with good success. He has lectured in Connecticut, New York, Portland and Rockland, Me., Portsmouth, N. H., and everywhere was well received. He goes to Temple Heights Camp-Meeting, Me., as one of the speakers. He is a fine lecturer and test medium.

The Independent Club is doing well; it holds circles and is keeping up an interest in the cause. Miss Ewer, of Portsmouth, N. H., held a circle in its rooms, 54 State street, Sunday evening last. The attendance was large, and her tests and descriptions very satisfactory. She is a very fine medium, and will probably come again soon. So the seed is being sown in our grand cause, and it will ripen and bear good fruit."

California.

SAN JOSE.—"A Member" of the Spiritualist Society writes: "The Spiritualists of our city are gathering for more systematic work than has been done here for some time. A few years ago Bro. Caleb Caldwell passed on, leaving a small legacy to the Spiritual Society 'to provide a place for spiritual meetings in San José.' The interest on this sum—owing to the skillful management of the Directors—is now sufficient to pay the rent of a pleasant little place of meeting, and the Society has secured the G. A. R. Hall for the year. All feel that we have now 'a local habitation.'

Regular morning meetings have been held each Sunday since the first of January. At these meetings Mrs. E. B. Crossette, a young and talented inspirational medium, has been the regular speaker, giving thorough satisfaction to her hearers in the clear and skillful handling, by her guides, of any question the audience may suggest. The public have shown a growing interest in these meetings by an increased attendance from Sunday to Sunday.

Evening meetings have been held from time to time when speakers or platform test mediums could be secured. Thus we have been enabled to hear Prof. D. Allen, of Chicago, in a series of discourses on 'The Science of Life,' some pleasant 'Talks' by J. M. Moore, late of Topolobampo; instructive inspirational essays from the pens of Mrs. L. H. Champion, Miss Sarah Ramsdell, and others. Several fine displays of test power have been given by W. K. Colby, and his daughter, Miss Ida. An entertaining evening has been spent with Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Tomson, of Philadelphia, and other good things have been given by local and visiting talent. An instructive feature of some of the meetings has been 'the exchange of ideas,' a modified form of debate, carried on among the members.

The morning meetings have been satisfactorily presided over by Bro. Mark Silcox; and Bro. William C. Vinter, whose name and Spiritualism are inseparable in San José, has conducted the evening meetings.

With the first of June the Society discontinued its public meetings for the summer vacation, as 'all San José' goes to the seashore or mountains during June and July. Then, too, all mediums and members wish to enjoy the feast of good things our State Camp-Meeting Association is providing for us at Lake Merritt."

Rhode Island.

NEWPORT.—John C. Peckham writes that nearly all the remarkable events narrated in the Bible took place in the night, in the dim twilight or darkness, and directs the attention of the objectors to the conditions required for similar phenomena in these times to the fact. He feels assured that there are men occupying pulpits, with "big pay" attached, who endeavor to retain their hold on the pulpits and the pay by preaching against Spiritualism at one time and for it at another in order to please all, and in that way contrive, by sitting on a fence and smiling alternately to those on each side, to retain their exalted positions.

Maine.

BUCKSPORT.—Dr. C. F. Ware writes, June 15th: "Allow me to explain, in response to the notice of Dr. H. F. Merrill in a recent issue of your paper—i. e., that he considered himself engaged to give tests at the Verona Camp-Meeting this summer—that in my statement that he would not appear at that meeting I simply took him at his word, as Dr. Merrill wrote me he should, under no circumstances, give tests at the Park, as he had cancelled all engagements in Maine, and that he had resigned his office as secretary of our society."

Illinois.

SPRINGFIELD.—Mrs. Watson and Mrs. Beach state that Mr. C. J. Barnes has, as a test medium, given satisfaction to many. They further say that he is preparing to attend the camp-meetings at Vicksburg and Haslett Park, Mich., and desire to recommend him to all as worthy of patronage.

(Reported for the Banner of Light by Mary F. Lovering.)

Synopsis

Of a Remarkable Sermon upon "The Future Life," delivered by Rev. Edward B. Maglathlin, of Westford, Mass., in the Pulpit of the late Rev. Warren H. Cudworth, East Boston.*

The body at death suffers dissolution; but that principle in man which thinks does not depend upon the physical organism.

The brain and thought do not hold the relation of cause and effect. The brain is the organ of thinking, and not the being who thinks. Parts of the brain may be removed, limbs severed, the activity of the senses diminished or destroyed; and yet the personality remains intact. We have not the same brain-substance that we had in our early years—are we not the self-same thinking beings? Consciousness declares itself to be a light that can never be put out.

When dear friends have long been parted, they often gaze upon one another as strangers. The outward expression would not renew the fellowship. The elements of attraction lie deeper. The soul knows a profounder communion. Without the aid of word, look or gesture, some subtle movement of soul upon soul thrills each heart, awakening an interchange of feelings by which they recognize their former friendship. Something like this happens in our common daily life, when, feeling the nearness of a friend, we mention his name and soon he comes.

The soul is a tenant occupying a house—the human frame—and it has faith that the same power which gave the soul a home to live in while here, will provide another and more beautiful one when the tabernacle of flesh is laid aside.

To many minds the hypothesis of the development of life, as enunciated by Charles Darwin and Alfred Wallace, imposes an objection to the belief in immortality. There is no cause for alarm. It is presumable that these eminent scientists themselves understood their theory as well as any one can understand it. They saw nothing in it which was hostile to the ancient belief in the future life; and Mr. Wallace is the illustrious advocate and expounder of the cardinal doctrine of Modern Spiritualism. "Where are our departed loved ones?" They are with God, and God is with us. The spirit-world is very near. Those who have had their friends pass through the thin veil can best realize how close to us is the heavenly home. While Jesus was upon the earth he saw and associated himself with those who had passed through death unto life eternal. With him both worlds were as one world. His inward eye could see, his inward ear could hear, and his soul rejoiced in the glorious realities of the world unseen.

A few years ago a young lady who was a pupil of mine was stricken with diphtheria. The disease developed rapidly, and she lived but a few days. Her mind was bright through the illness, and just before she passed away she looked up and said: "The room is filled with light. I see my mother and father; yes, they are all here." A smile passed over her features and she fell asleep. Experiences like this we cannot explain away. They are as real and true as the communion of Jesus with Moses and Elias.

I have often thought that our departed friends can help us to bear our burdens, and strengthen us to resist the temptation to do wrong. If they can help us to live well in this world, they will best prepare us for life in another. Living victorious over sin and sorrow, and having made our lives contributions to humanity, we can give welcome to the messenger when he summons us to that heavenly land when the former things—our little day of trial, strife and toil—shall have passed away!

*Rev. Edward B. Maglathlin is a scholarly preacher, and is well known as an educator. He was for several years Principal of the Partridge Academy in Duxbury, and afterward taught in the Cambridge High School.

PAMPHLETS RECEIVED: The Wilkesbarre Letters on Theosophy. A Series of Letters Contributed to The Sunday Morning Leader, Wilkesbarre, Pa., by Alexander Fullerton, F. T. S. pp. 26. New York: The Path.

The New Statement and Symbol (Positive.) "So to Be, is the sole Inlet of So to Know." pp. 26. Malden, Mass.: H. R. Burdick.

The National Sin of Literary Piracy. A Sermon by Henry Van Dyke, D. D. pp. 26. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons.

The Soul of Man is not Immortal. A Lecture by O. H. Harris. pp. 63. Newman, Ill.: The Progressive Pub. Co.

The Great Amherst Mystery. A True Narrative of the Supernatural. By Walter Hubbell. pp. 108. New York: Brentanos, 5 Union Square.

Problems of the Day. By Dr. R. C. Flower. pp. 52. Boston: Spectator Pub. Co.

The Bible; Esther and The Song of Songs Analyzed, Translated and Accompanied with Critical Studies. By Rev. L. A. Sawyer. pp. 67. Whitesboro', N. Y.: L. A. Sawyer.

The American Art Printer. C. E. Bartholomew, 22 College Place, New York.

Every one is the artisan of his own fortune. If you wish a fortune, keep healthy by the use of Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla, which purifies the blood and thus gives health and strength. Largest bottles on the market.

EVEN A "REGULAR" IS FALLIBLE.

Shall we give the Allopaths the sole control of medical practice? Read and ponder.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

The Journal of Health, Boston, for June contains some good ideas. It has changed its form from a paper to that of a pamphlet, since the last issue, wherein I read the attempt of its editor or reporter to burlesque and cast ridicule upon clairvoyance and mediumship, by taking a lock of hair from the tail of a dead dog to be examined or diagnosed for disease.

The June issue has no doubt a just criticism upon a clairvoyant who advertises in the secular papers for patronage, but this article may do the cause of Spiritualism and clairvoyance much harm in the minds of those who read it and do not believe the gift exists at all; hence I would say to the editor that it would be well for him to investigate still further before making a wholesale condemnation of clairvoyance and its use for the diagnosing of disease. It is not justice to single out any one individual who does or does not possess the gift, and make that person appear as representing all such modes of treatment—any more than it would be to class all so called regular physicians in one category as to ability, etc.

The following report of a sad case, and the editorial remarks upon the same, appear in the Boston Record of June 19th. Will the Journal of Health be manly enough to print the account, thus acknowledging that it is human to err in every class of society or mode of life or practice? and also that there are ingredients made use of in the regular medical practice which are dangerous to tamper with, even if the individual is legally authorized by the State to do so:

WORCESTER, June 18th.—G. W. Goss, a very prominent citizen of the town of Clinton, and connected with the Lancaster National Bank, died at his residence to-day from the effects of a dose of poison administered by mistake. He was suffering two weeks ago from a severe cold and sore throat, and when his family physician, Dr. C. A. Brooks, came to attend his daughter, he asked for something for himself. The doctor handed him a powder, and told him to take it. He tried to, but could not swallow it. He so remarked, and was told to wash it down with water. This was done, and immediately he complained of severe pain.

The doctor discovered he had given him a large dose of bi-sulphate of mercury instead of bismuth. Everything was done to relieve him, and his physician has done all in his power for him. But he was so seriously burned that there was no relief for him. Dr. Brooks has been a regular practicing physician in Clinton for thirty years, and feels his terrible mistake so greatly that he is completely prostrated.

G. W. Goss, who died at Clinton yesterday, was one of the leading men in that town, and his energy and activity entitled him fairly to be such. He died by poison, it having been administered to him by mistake by his physician. Probably no man in Clinton feels so badly over it as this same physician, but that does not palliate the act. Here was a man licensed, after examination, to handle, compound and administer poisons. Through nothing but sheer carelessness he gave a deadly poison by mistake to his patient, and the latter has died. There is no condoning this fact by the plea of carelessness. It was the doctor's business not to be careless. There has been altogether too much of this sort of thing lately where men have died from poisons given by physicians, and it is about time that something was done to put an absolute stop to it.

I notice also in the same issue of the Herald of Health a lengthy editorial article on licensing physicians, which is evidently the first gun fired to assist the movement of the allopathic physicians to regain their prestige by obtaining a law from the General Court in the near future to keep out all intruders in the form of new modes of eradicating disease—even including the homeopaths with the irregular "quacks." Is the Journal of Health established by the regulars, or is it a "quack" production under the cover of the so-called regulars, while in fact it advertises books and treatment that do not come under the strict discipline of the old school practice? Where shall the line be drawn between what is from a "quack" and what is from the opposite.

Are doctors who make mistakes like the above to be labelled "quacks," even if they are members of the allopathic school of practice?

Will this doctor be arrested for manslaughter as was Mrs. Corner for "neglect," or, in other words, would not neglect have been advisable in this case cited?

Finally, does the best good of the community demand that men of his class be entrusted with the manipulation of a grinding legal monopoly of the healing art, to the exclusion of all others however successful in their practice?

ANTI-MONOPOLIST.

ABOLITION CEREMONIES IN BRAZIL.—The events of the past week in connection with the passage of the abolition act have been unusually exciting in character. There was almost no opposition and very little oratory, and every vote was attended by the abolition societies and large numbers of spectators. The Senate decided upon a Sunday session to pass the bill, which was attended by hundreds of excited, enthusiastic people. The Princess Regent also arranged to come down from Petropolis on the same day to sign the bill. The streets of the city were gay with bunting, and the newspaper offices of Rua do Ouvidor were elegantly decorated with flags and flowers. Processions carrying banners and preceded by bands of music paraded the streets, cheering our colleagues of the press and giving vivas for liberty, the Imperial family and the abolition leaders. At 3 o'clock P. M. the Princess Regent arrived at the City Palace, where an immense crowd had congregated to await the final act in the abolition of Brazilian slavery. The engrossed copy of the law was signed at 3:15 P. M., the Princess using a pen richly set with diamonds, which was provided for the occasion by a popular subscription. Renewed vivas were given on the announcement that the act had become law, and the crowd slowly dispersed. The streets, however, remained full of people until a late hour of the night, torchlight processions were organized, and many offices and private residences were illuminated. The whole affair passed off with perfect order and good temper.—Rio de Janeiro News, May 15th.

July Magazines.

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY presents Part II. of J. P. Quincy's peculiar paper entitled "Miser Farrel's Bequest"; Lillie B. Chace Wyman writes of "The Village System" in "Studies of Factory Life"; "Yone Santo," by E. H. House, tells an awful tale of human cupidity and diplomatic brutality exhibited in the treatment of the Japanese by two so-called Christian nations, regarding the Asiatic Cholera and its introduction into that land; Bradford Torrey descants attractively on "A Green Mountain Cornfield," and what was seen there in a morning ramble; Harriet Waters Preston has in "A Changing Order" a thoughtful paper on Roman history; "The Despot of Broomsedge Cove," "Boston Painters and Paintings," "A Browning Courtship," "The Telephone Cases" and other contributions, combine with the departments in constituting a choice summer number. No poetry. H. O. Houghton & Co., publishers, Boston, Mass.

OUR LITTLE ONES and THE NURSERY.—The present is a capital number, the Fourth of July being "to the fore" in frontispiece and letter-press. "The little ones" will like it, especially the boys. The Russell Publishing Company, 36 Bromfield street, Boston.

No one by merely conversing with a fish ever succeeded in drawing him out. Merely conversing with a Warner's Log Cabin Plaster would not draw out a pain in the back, but an application of it would give relief at once.

Written for the Banner of Light.

THE WORLD'S NEED.

It is not in the thunderbolt alone
God speaks to man;
Not in the fury of the winds and waves
His ways we scan:

Not in the dread volcano, bursting forth
Vials of wrath—
Making earth tremble, while destruction sure
Walks in its path!

But in the still, small voice, as soft and low
As murmuring rill,
Or like the fluttering of an angel's robe
When all is still:

And speaking thus: "My kingdom is the world;
There's work to do;
The fields are white, the harvest truly great,
The laborers few.

Sin, sorrow, suffering on every hand
Around us lurks;
The heavenly kingdom cannot come except
Through faith and works.

Then, clothed in patient meekness, go thou forth
To bless mankind—
Help those in want, and those in pain relieve,
And guide the blind:

Lift up the fallen; speak to them as Christ
Spake once before:
'Neither do I condemn thee, go in peace,
And sin no more.'

Minister to the helpless, and the weak
And faltering lead;
Pour out the Balm of Gilead, freely give,
For all have need—

Need of encouragement and sympathy
In their distress,
Need of a steadfast friend on which to lean
In loneliness.

For better than the shrieking vulture is
The cooing dove;
Better than hatred, malice or the sword,
Is human love."

Thus saith the spirit; who hath ears to hear,
Turn not away,
But let your light shine bright until the dawn
Of perfect day.

So should all live, and soon all wars would cease
And strife be o'er;
The weary world needs tenderness and peace
Forevermore. ROSE MAXIM.

FROM OUR ENGLISH CONTEMPORARIES.

"Angel Visitants Materializing for the First Time in a Public Hall."

Under the above heading the Harbinger of Light reprints from the New York Sunday Mercury its report of the very successful séance for materialization held by Mrs. M. E. Williams in Adelphi Hall, New York, last February, remarking editorially upon it as follows:

"Be it remembered that the report of this wonderful séance is not taken from a spiritualistic paper, but from the editorial matter on the front page of an old established New York weekly, and that the reporter speaks of the large audience as refined and intelligent, implying that there were some hundreds of first-class witnesses to the fact that at least forty forms of departed friends were rehabilitated in mortal form before them, and in numerous instances 'dematerialized' or resolved themselves into 'thin air' before their eyes. Deep-rooted prejudice alone prevents this marvelous event being telegraphed all over the civilized world, and published far and wide as a much-needed demonstration of the reality of a future life.

"We may be well assured, however, by previous experiences that whilst a large number of intelligent people will be impressed by the weight of evidence here given, by far the larger number will demand a reproduction of the phenomena, and the imposition of some irrational conditions, such as their individual presence on the platform, the tying up of the medium, and as a climax an examination of the materialized form; and when these demands are refused, will stigmatize the whole matter as a stupendous fraud, to the intense satisfaction of those who have already made up their minds on à priori grounds that the thing is impossible. This will not materially retard the acceptance of the fact; but attempts in the same direction by mediums whose desire for notoriety is fostered by unwise spirits, having the will but not the power to accomplish so difficult a demonstration of spiritual chemistry, are more likely to bring discredit upon the fact and delay its general recognition than the opposition of prejudiced opponents; still we have every confidence that the truth will continue to make headway in even greater ratio than it has in the past. The accounts which reach us of other phenomena, especially Psychography (or direct spirit writing), indicate that the spiritual chemists are actively at work and steadily perfecting their experiments by and through which the spiritual world is being brought into conscious rapport with the material, and a rational basis is given to religious belief on the ascertained and demonstrated continuity of individual life after the change called death."

More Light, published at Greytown, Wairarapa, N. Z., completed its first year with its May number. Noting this it says: "Looking back we are gratified with the progress made and the work accomplished, but we hope for greater things in the future. A correspondent from Napier writes that the subject of Spiritualism is being earnestly inquired into by a large number of people there, and a lady medium at Taradale has large numbers at her meetings. The Wellington Association of Spiritualists, of which Mr. W. McLean is President, is doing good work, and holds weekly meetings."

Is Spiritualism Dangerous, Immoral or Wrong?

A correspondent of the Medium and Daybreak (W. C. Stokes) furnishes it with a brief report of an address delivered by the spirit-guides of Mrs. Yeeles at Peckham. After remarking that some people having come to the conclusion that Spiritualism is dangerous, have determined to have nothing to do with it, it was said:

"Man is a spirit; therefore it must be dangerous for man to have to do with man! Spirit has ever tried to demonstrate itself on this earth-plane; not only in the form of a tiny babe, but in the gray-headed old man, who has spent his life in toiling by the sweat of his brow to earn a living to sustain the body, and to keep that spirit in it. But the teaching of Spiritualism is: to do to others as you would wish to be done by. Is that dangerous? The teaching of Spiritualism is: if you see a brother low, go help to raise him up. If you see your brother in need of your sympathy, go wrap the mantle of love around him and strengthen him. Let the weak one see that you cultivate the good spiritual power, which God is ever ready and willing to bestow upon his children of earth through his ministering spirits.

"Spiritualism immoral! Oh! friends, could we only show to you the beauty, the love, the vitality that is ever being poured upon this world of yours to influence man to lead a higher and nobler life! Is that dangerous teaching? Is that wrong? Is it immoral? Is it of the devil? No! friends. It goes further—it comes in the form of the husband, who has been torn from his wife, the partner of his life; he has passed from the body, leaving the dear ones to struggle with their material life; yea, perhaps to work to earn the bread that he would fain have done had he been permitted to continue longer in the body. Yet that loved one comes with the mantle of love to give strength, courage, energy, and in the still silent hours of night to watch over those loved ones to him so dear. Is that immoral? Is that dangerous?"

Of Walter Besant, who has recently given to the public a new book, entitled "Herr Paulus," Light (London) says:

"If he wished to write a burlesque on Spiritualism he might at least have kept to the truth, and have refrained from maligning an honest man by name. He saw Dr. Slade, he says, exchange a blank slate for one which he drew from a slide under his table, a slate afterward found to be full of writing. As the London Spiritualist Alliance happens to possess the table which Dr. Slade used, we should like Mr. Walter Besant to point out to us where the slide is, or has been."

From what we learn we judge that Mr. Besant, who has hitherto held an enviable position in the literary world, has lowered himself to the plane of a sensational penny-a-liner, and exhibited the same totality of ignorance of his subject all others have displayed who have undertaken to destroy Spiritualism, which from its very nature is indestructible.

We opine it will be as fruitless an undertaking for Mr. Besant to find that slide, or where it once was in the table, as for some American "exposers" we wot of to find the sliding panels and trap doors, or the places where they once were, through which, they alleged, mortal confederates passed to assist certain mediums, by assuming to be denizens of another world.

The Immorality of Spiritualists.

How singularly some people fit things to things. Some days since an individual who, with a lead pencil or a pen, manufactures public opinion, had much to say against Spiritualism, because Mrs. Jencken, one of the original Fox sisters, has of late years followed the example of tens of thousands of other women in New York, and taken to drink. The editor above referred to takes the occasion to berate Spiritualism as the cause of her downfall.

Let us look at the garments hanging on the line.

Mrs. Jencken gets drunk. Her physical system is no different from that of others. Liquor is alike powerful over all its votaries and victims. Its record shows millions upon millions of lives frayed, wrecked and ruined. Our contemporary says nothing against the prime cause of this great trouble—intemperance. Instead, he charges the result to Spiritualism. As well charge it to the dove that was sent from Noah's Ark.

A few days previous to the arrest of Mrs. Jencken for neglecting her family, Rev. Mr. Hermance, a minister of religion, went into his pulpit in White Plains, New York, and there committed suicide. Why not make this the occasion to berate religion as something loathsome? Why not charge the dead man with being an enemy to all that is good, simply because trouble greater than his weak mind or will-power could resist forced him to a fatal act? Drunkenness is not a crime. It is a pestilential malaria of disease that is born of the still, and taken into the homes of religious and irreligious persons who like to make themselves miserable, and who, as drunkards, are the fruit of the great tree of social life in this country.

Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, who rides opportunities to attract attention as a bark rides a billow, lately came out with a bitter, uncalled for, untruthful attack on Spiritualism as the great essence of all that was vile, mean, degrading and bestial—as a thing he loathed from his very soul. Let us see. He had in Ann O'Delia several names and Diss Debar in his mind. But she is not a Spiritualist, except that, like Talmage, she has a spirit, and therefore is a Spiritualist exactly as he is one. She is a weak, sinful, wicked woman, whose great aim is money, as a great aim of Talmage is sensation. She is not truthful, nor is Talmage truthful or just.

Talmage preaches of spirits in heaven and on earth. He preaches that there is spirit individuality. That God is a spirit. That millions of angels, each a spirit, are doing God's bidding. He preaches that he and all others are to be good spirits or bad spirits, good persons or bad ones, in the spirit-world. Thus he is a Spiritualist, as is every human being who believes in immortality, or who believes that life is eternal.

To berate Spiritualists as immoral, licentious, etc., is unjust. Of the great number—tens of thousands of drunkards, thieves, etc.—whose lives have not been good in this city, nine out of ten are not Spiritualists, so called. They are men and women of the world, educated in churches. The court records of the United States prove that more ministers of religion, like Talmage, than of school-teachers, journalists, lawyers or any other profession, have been before the courts for all of that which Talmage rises to denounce.

Stand all the immoral Spiritualists in this country in line, and then let the leprous preachers who have established court records for immorality in nearly every county in the United States, stand in line beside the immoral Spiritualists, and the immoral Spiritualists would not be a marker to the line of dirty preachers.

We will agree to produce the names of twenty ministers of the gospel in this country, charged with seduction of girls, with debauching of wives, with betrayal of parties in the church, for every one immoral Spiritualist, man or woman, in this country, that Talmage can name. We will take our list from court records, while he may take his from public rumor, and will meet him in the press or on the platform, at any time he will appear, to show our string of suckers and compare it with his.

But all this would prove nothing against Spiritualism or against religion, which does not consist in slinging mud to the accompaniment of table-tipping or bell-ringing, or to hopping about on a platform to a cornet accompaniment.

Bro. Talmage is a Spiritualist who preaches spirit-existence, immortality of the soul and individualized spirit existence, and who then, for effect, denounces Spiritualism.

No wonder there are stores or dépôts for misfit articles.

Meanwhile we are ready to exhibit strings with Bro. Talmage at any time—ours from court records and his from gossip.—Pomeroy's Advance Thought.

Passed to Spirit-Life.

From Ludlow, Vt., June 8th, 1888, Mary M. Simonds, wife of John M. Vezzy, aged 63 years 5 months and 2 days.

She leaves a husband and daughter, brothers and sister. Her suffering was protracted by Bright's Disease of the Kidneys; all that love and affection could do was freely bestowed to soothe her suffering. She had no fear of death, as she felt assured she could return to watch over and guide her dear ones; they also are comforted with the knowledge that she can return. Kindred and friends spoke of her true worth with dim eyes. They gathered in her late home, bringing flowers to beautify the change, and words of consolation were spoken by the writer; kindred hands took the flower-covered casket and lowered it to its resting-place, and we know there was another ministering angel.

From Rockingham, Vt., May 11th, 1888, Louisa, wife of John Proctor, aged 64 years.

The change came without a moment's warning (apoplexy); but she was well prepared for her departure, as she was a true wife, a loving mother, a sympathizing friend and ever useful woman. Her companion and son will miss her as none others can. For many years she was an earnest worker in the spreading of spiritual knowledge, and we shall miss her; but we know she will bless us with her spiritual presence. Kindred and friends will bless her memory. Funeral services were conducted at her late home by the writer.

From Bartonsville, Vt., March, 1888, Quartos M. Dorand, aged 84 years.

He was a firm believer in the return of the spirit, and felt assured his companion would meet and welcome him home. He filled many positions of trust for his townsmen, and was universally esteemed by all. He will be greatly missed in the Association of which he was an active member. His funeral was held in the Spiritualist Hall in Bartonsville, the writer officiating. SARAH A. WILEY.
Rockingham, Vt.

From Sackett's Harbor, N.Y., Sept. 23d, 1887, after an illness of three weeks, Rev. James Francis.

He remained firm in the faith he had taught nearly forty years. Mrs. Francis, his wife—who was a firm Spiritualist also—preceded him to spirit-life some nine years. M.

From East Epping, N. H., March 5th, David Carr, aged 68 years.

He had received many convincing tests from spirit-life—although not a professed Spiritualist. He was honorable in his dealings, independent in his views, and outspoken in their expression. JOSEPH CARR.

Vermont Convention.

The Quarterly Convention of the Vermont State Spiritualist Association will be held at Newport, Vt., June 29th and 30th, and July 1st, 1888.

For Speakers, we have engaged the following talent: Dr. H. B. Storer and Mr. Eben Cobb, of Boston; Hon. A. E. Stanley, Leicester, Vt.; Mrs. Fannie Davis Smith, Brandon; Mrs. Abbie W. Crossett, Waterbury; Mrs. Lizzie S. Manchester, West Randolph; Mrs. Emma L. Paul, Morrisville; Mrs. S. A. Wiley, Rockingham; Mrs. A. P. Brown, St. Johnsbury, and Mr. Lucius Colburn, Manchester, N. H.

For Test Medium, we are to have Mr. Joseph D. Stiles, of Weymouth, Mass. Those who have heard him will understand what that means.

Newport is in Orleans Co., near the Canada line, on beautiful Lake Memphremagog, a popular summer resort.

Dr. E. A. Smith has arranged for a Grand Excursion from all points on Central Vermont Railroad; fare for round trip either way from Rutland and return, $1.00; tickets good for June 27th and 28th, return July 2d and 3d. Dr. Smith leaves Brandon Wednesday afternoon, June 27th, on mail train, and stops over night at Essex Junction, and will sell the tickets to all who wish to go.

L. O. Weeks, the Secretary, will leave Rutland June 28th, at 6:45 A.M., by way of Bellows Falls, and will sell the same ticket 3 for $4.00. Parties wishing to go by any other train than the two mentioned must send to Dr. E. A. Smith, Brandon, Vt., and secure the tickets in advance. Tickets are now ready.

Tickets will be sold for half fare over the Portland and Ogdensburg, and Passumpsic and Wells River roads, also from principal stations on the line of the Boston and Lowell and Concord roads.

Boarding at the Lake Memphremagog House at $1.00 per day.

This is to be one of the cheapest and most delightful excursions of the season. We hope thousands will avail themselves of it.

Good music has been engaged: Prof. Obie, Mrs. Florence Ely and other fine talent.

See small bills for full particulars.

L. O. WEEKS, Sec'y.
Proctorsville, Vt., June 5th, 1888.

The Lookout Mountain Camp-Meeting.

Near Chattanooga, Tenn., will be held during the entire month of July. The following speakers and mediums are engaged: Mrs. A. M. Glading, George A. Fuller, Dr. H. F. Merrill, Mrs. S. A. H. Talbot, G. W. Kates and wife, Dr. Samuel Watson, A. C. Ladd, Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond. Excellent hotel facilities are on the Mountain. Tenting space given free. Address

G. W. KATES, Sec'y, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Miscellaneous.

THE WATCHMAN.

An Eight-Page Monthly Journal, Devoted to the Interests of Humanity and Spiritualism. Also, a Mouthpiece of the American and Eastern Congress in Spirit-Life

OLD PHILOSOPHER, Spirit Editor.

PUBLISHED BY

BOSTON STAR AND CRESCENT CO.,
P. O. Box 1129, Fort Wayne, Ind.

HATTIE A. BERRY,
Editress and Manager.

ARTHUR B. SHEDD,
Assistant Manager.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION, IN ADVANCE.

One Year, $1.00. Clubs of Ten, $8.00. Six Months, 50 cents. Single Copies, 10 cents. Sample Copies free.

U. S. postage stamps will be received for fractional parts of a dollar. (1's and 2's preferred.)

To any one sending 10 new subscribers and $8.00, we give as a premium a cabinet photo. of WHITE FEATHER, PEACE BIRD, spirit control of the Editress.

☞ Remit by P. O. Order, drawn on FORT WAYNE, IND., or by Registered Letter. ☜ Payable to HATTIE A. BERRY, Editress and Manager.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.

10 cts. per line (Nonpareil) each insertion. Business Cards, 50 cts. per inch each insertion. Special rates for Electrotypes, on application. Preferred position 25 per cent. extra. Objectionable advertisements not inserted under any consideration. Terms strictly in advance. oam—Sept. 27.

The Weekly Discourse,

A Pamphlet (especially arranged for binding)

Containing one of the Discourses given through the organism of

MRS. CORA L. V. RICHMOND

The preceding Sunday.

Is published each week. Price, $2.50 per year.

Address, WILLIAM RICHMOND,
64 Union Park Place, Chicago, Ill.
My1ow

THE

N. D. C. AXE and TRUE KEY-STONE,

A FOUR-PAGE SEMI-MONTHLY JOURNAL, especially devoted to the Development of Mediumship, and official organ of The National Developing Circle.

Terms of subscription, $1.00 per annum.

Sample Copy Free.

Send for Book, "How to Become a Medium in Your own Home," and a personal sealed letter designating all your phases of Mediumship, all for 15 cents.

Address

JAMES A. BLISS,
S24 tf ELMWOOD PLACE, OHIO.

New Thought;

A VIGOROUS, Eight-Page Weekly Journal devoted to SPIRITUALISM and General Religious and Political Reform.

Published every Saturday by MOSES HULL & CO., at Des Moines, Iowa.

The Organ of the Mississippi Valley Association of Spiritualists.

NEW THOUGHT is a quarto filled with interesting matter, WRITTEN EXPRESSLY for its columns, on the various phases of Spiritualism and General Reform, and nicely printed on heavy paper.

Terms of Subscription: One year, $1.50; six months, 75 cents; three months, 40 cents; single number, 5 cents.

NEW THOUGHT will be sent to new subscribers three months on trial for twenty-five cents—a sum which barely covers the price of blank paper and press-work. Sample copies free. Jel

The Gnostic,

A Monthly Journal of Spiritual Science,

PUBLISHERS AND EDITORS—GEORGE CHAINEY, ANNA K. CHAINEY and W. J. COLVILLE.

EACH number will contain forty pages, devoted to Esoteric Religion, Psychometry, Occult Science, Mental Therapeutics, Human Liberty, and the Culture of all that is Divine in the Human Race.

Terms, $2.00 per year; single copies 25 cents.

Address GEORGE CHAINEY, 17 Flood's Building, San Francisco, Cal. Ap21

SPHINX.

ANTI-MATERIALISTISCHE MONATSSCHRIFT für die wissenschaftliche Untersuchung der „mystischen" und „magischen" Thatsachen, mit Beiträgen von Carl du Prel, Alf. Russ, Wallace, der Professoren Barrett und Couss, mehrerer Brahminen u. s. w., herausgegeben von Dr. Hübbe-Schleiden.

Subscription: $1.75 for six months, $3.50 per annum.

Messrs. COLBY & RICH, 9 Bosworth street, Boston, Mass., will receive subscriptions and forward the same to the publisher. Au21

La Lumiere.

A JOURNAL devoted to the interests of Spiritualism in all its aspects. MADAME LUCIE GRANGE, Editor. The ablest writers contribute to its pages.

Terms of Subscription, in advance, per year, $1.20. In remitting by mail, a Post-office order on Paris, France, to the order of MADAME LUCIE GRANGE, 75, Boulevard Montmorency, Auteuil.

PROPHETES ET PROPHETIES, by Hab.

A BOOK of universal interest and influence. It contains an Historical Relation of Prophecies in Modern Times and Prophetic Spirit Communications. Paper, 12mo, pp. 240. Price 60 cents, postage free. For sale by LA LUMIERE, Paris, France. Aug. 9.

THE CARRIER DOVE,

An Illustrated Weekly Journal,

DEVOTED to Spiritualism and Reform. Edited by MRS. J. SCHLESINGER, DR. L. SCHLESINGER and MRS. J. SCHLESINGER, Publishers. Each number will contain the Portraits and Biographical Sketches of some of the Prominent Mediums and Spiritual Workers. Also Spirit Pictures by our Artist Mediums, Lectures, Essays, Poems, Spirit Messages, Editorials, etc.

Terms: $2.50 per year; single copies, 10 cents.

Address all communications to THE CARRIER DOVE, 32 Ellis street, San Francisco, Cal. F6

SEND NAME

AND POST-OFFICE ADDRESS, plainly written, to THE BETTER WAY, CINCINNATI, O., and receive a sample copy of this bright Spiritual Weekly Newspaper FREE. Subscription, Two Dollars per year, but no obligation to subscribe will be incurred by sending for a sample copy. It will cost you only a postal card and a minute! Au18 tf

Light on the Way.

GEO. A. FULLER, Editor.
MRS. G. DAVENPORT STEVENS, Ass't Editor.

AN EIGHT-PAGE MONTHLY, devoted to the dissemination of Spiritual Knowledge. Terms, 60 cents per year. Specimen copies free. Address, GEO. A. FULLER, Editor and Publisher, Dover, Mass. My7

COMPLETE WORKS OF A. J. DAVIS,

Comprising Twenty-Nine Volumes, all Neatly Bound in Cloth.

Answers to Ever-Recurring Questions from the People. This popular volume—a sequel to "PENETRALIA"—is of the widest interest, the answers contained therein comprising an attractive range of topics. The book is admirably calculated to awaken inquiry and develop thought..... 1.50
Postage 10 cents.

Approaching Crisis; or, Truth vs. Theology. Dr. Bushnell's Sermons on the Bible, Nature, Religion, Skepticism and the Supernatural, here find a keen and searching critic, the errors of the church dogmas upheld by the clergy being clearly proven. This review also contains a convincing essay on the "Origin of Evil."..... 1.00
Postage 10 cents.

Arabula; or, The Divine Guest. This book, while to some extent a continuation of the author's biography, is also a record of deeply interesting experiences, and gives a collection of Living Gospels from Ancient and Modern Saints..... 1.50
Postage 10 cents.

Beyond the Valley: A Sequel to the Magic Staff, an Autobiography of Andrew Jackson Davis. Six beautiful illustrations picturing what the Seer has seen. "Beyond the Valley" is a companion volume to the "Magic Staff." Cloth..... 1.50
Full gilt..... 2.00
Postage 10 cents.

Children's Progressive Lyceum. This manual, containing directions regarding the formation and management of a system of Sunday schools for the young, which shall be best adapted to both the bodies and minds of the pupils in attendance, has accomplished a great work among the members of our Spiritualist societies. To the end that Children's Progressive Lyceums may multiply all over the land, we offer the latest editions at the following reduced prices: Tenth unabridged edition, single copy..... 50
Postage 3 cents.
Twelve copies..... 5.50
Full gilt..... 1.00

Death and the After-Life. The following table of contents presented by this book will serve to give the reader some insight as to why so many editions of it have been sold: 1—Death and the After-Life; 2—Scenes in the Summer-Land; 3—Society in the Summer-Land; 4—Social Centres in the Summer-Land; 5—Winter-Land and Summer-Land; 6—Language and Life in Summer-Land; 7—Material Work for Spiritual Workers; 8—Ultimates in the Summer-Land; 9—Voice from James Victor Wilson. This enlarged edition contains more than double the amount of matter in former editions, and is enriched by a beautiful frontispiece, illustrating the "Formation of the Spiritual Body." Paper..... 50
Postage 3 cents.
Cloth..... 75

Diakka, and their Earthly Victims. Being an explanation of much that is false and repulsive in Spiritualism, embodying a most important recent interview with James Victor Wilson, who has been for the past twenty-five years a resident of the Summer-Land. Cloth..... 50
Paper..... 25

Fountain: With Jets of New Meanings. This is the book whose two chapters (viz.: XIII and XIV) brought down upon Mr. Davis the alarming charge of "Recantation." But while the criticisms on the errors and extremes of many in the ranks of Spiritualism are rejoiced to be just and timely, the charge that the author had "gone back" on the spiritual facts and principles is seen to be without foundation. Its table of contents is varied and interesting to the liberal thinker. Cloth binding, in good style..... 1.00
Postage 6 cents.

Free Thoughts Concerning Religion. This sterling work, which has just been re-stereotyped, and enlarged by the addition of many most telling facts and arguments against the absurdities of the popular church doctrines, aims to present the most radical thoughts, critical and explanatory, concerning popular religious ideas, their origin, imperfections, and the changes that must come. Paper..... 50
Postage 2 cents.
Cloth..... 75
Postage 5 cents.

Genesis and Ethics of Conjugal Love. This new book is of peculiar interest to all men and women. It treats of all the delicate and important questions in Conjugal Love; is straightforward, unmistakably emphatic, and perfectly explicit and plain in every vital particular. Paper..... 50
Cloth..... 75
Full gilt, morocco..... 2.25
" " half morocco..... 1.75

Great Harmonia: Being a Philosophical Revelation of the Natural, Spiritual and Celestial Universe. Five volumes, viz.: "THE PHYSICIAN," "THE TEACHER," "THE SEER," "THE REFORMER," and "THE THINKER," comprise this series, in which his views are more definitely expressed upon the origin and nature of man, the philosophy of health, disease, sleep, death, psychology, healing, etc., etc.; spirit and its culture; the existence of God; magnetism, clairvoyance, etc. "THE REFORMER" is devoted to the consideration of "Physiological Vices and Virtues, and the Seven Phases of Marriage," and treats upon the uses of the conjugal principle, woman's rights and wrongs, etc.; the entire work acting powerfully in the direction of mankind's regeneration and happiness. "THE THINKER" is distinguished for its comprehensiveness, analyzing, as it does, the nature and powers of mind, illustrating the philosophy of universal progress, and treating of the origin of life, and the law of immortality. These five volumes, each..... 1.50
Postage 10 cents each.

Harbinger of Health. From these pages is sought to be evolved a plain and simple guide to health; and the knowledge is imparted whereby the individual availing himself of it may be greatly assisted in resisting and overcoming the assaults of disease. More than three hundred prescriptions, for the cure of over one hundred forms of disease, are given. As a book of family reference, it is adapted to universal use. The three volumes, "PHYSICIAN," "HARBINGER," and "MENTAL DISORDERS," by Mr. Davis, would make a reliable medical library for a family, or for a student of philosophy and the science of life and health..... 1.50
Postage 10 cents.

Harmonial Man; or, Thoughts for the Age. This book is also revised and re-stereotyped, so that it is uniform with the other volumes. It is designed to enlarge man's views concerning the political and ecclesiastical condition of America, and to point out the paths of reform. Paper..... 50
Postage 2 cents.
Cloth..... 75
Postage 5 cents.

History and Philosophy of Evil. This volume has recently been re-stereotyped, new matter introduced, and is now uniform with the Harmonia. It discusses the whole question of evil, and makes suggestions for more ennobling institutions and philosophical systems of education. Paper..... 50
Postage 3 cents.
Cloth, firmly bound..... 75
Postage 5 cents.

Inner Life; or, Spirit Mysteries Explained. This is a Sequel to "Philosophy of Spiritual Intercourse," recently revised and enlarged. It presents a compend of the Harmonial Philosophy of "Spiritualism," with illustrative facts of spiritual intercourse, both ancient and modern, and a thorough and original treatise upon the laws and conditions of mediumship. Printed and published in first-rate style, with illustrations and diagrams. Cloth..... 1.50
Postage 10 cents.

Magic Staff: An Autobiography of Andrew Jackson Davis. This is a well-authenticated history of the domestic, social, physical and literary career of the author, with his remarkable experiences as a clairvoyant and seer..... 1.75
Postage 12 cents.

Memoranda of Persons, Places and Events. Herein will be found Authentic Facts, Visions, Impressions, Discoveries in Magnetism, Clairvoyance and Spiritualism; also, Quotations from the Opposition. With an Appendix, containing Zschokke's great story, "Hortensia," vividly portraying the difference between the ordinary state and that of clairvoyance..... 1.50
Postage 10 cents.

Penetralia, Containing Harmonial Answers. This work, which at the time was styled by the author "the wisest book" from his pen, has long been prominently before the American public. While some of the chapters are overflowing with rare and glorious revelations of the realities of the world beyond the grave, others are devoted to many questions, theological and spiritual..... 1.75
Postage 12 cents.

Philosophy of Special Providences. In this work the author illustrates by a series of clairvoyant visions, and lastly by an "Argument," the whole chain of special providences which mankind attribute to the direct acts of the Deity. Paper..... 30
Postage 2 cents.
Cloth..... 50
Postage 5 cents.

Philosophy of Spiritual Intercourse. This volume is the first from the author directly on the subject of "Spiritualism," and its positions and principles and good results have stood the test of many years of the most varied and searching experiences by thousands of mediums and investigators. Cloth..... 1.25
Postage 10 cents.

Principles of Nature: Her Divine Revelations, and a Voice to Mankind. This work (in three parts), the first and most comprehensive volume by this author, gives the basis and an ample outline of that Harmonial Philosophy of which he was the pioneer. 34th edition..... 3.50
Postage 25 cents.
Red line edition, full gilt, best morocco..... 12.00

Stellar Key to the Summer-Land. This remarkable book—which is illustrated with diagrams of celestial scenery—aims to direct the mind and thoughts into channels hitherto wholly unexplored, and to furnish scientific and philosophical evidences of the existence of an inhabitable sphere or zone among the suns and planets of space. Revised edition, uniform with the companion volume, "Death and the After-Life." Cloth binding..... 75
Postage 5 cents.
Paper covers..... 50
Postage 3 cents.

Tale of a Physician; or, The Seeds and Fruits of Crime. In Three Parts, complete in one volume. Part I—Planting the Seeds of Crime; Part II—Trees of Crime in Full Bloom; Part III—Reaping the Fruits of Crime. Cloth..... 1.00
Postage 10 cents.

Temple: Or Diseases of the Brain and Nerves. A book of 460 pages. Herein are developed the Origin and Philosophy of Insula, Insanity and Crime, with full Directions and Prescriptions for their Treatment and Cure. Frontispiece illustrative of "Mother Nature Casting (D)evils Out of Her Children." Cloth..... 1.50
Postage 10 cents.

Views of Our Heavenly Home. A Sequel to "A Stellar Key." Illustrated. Cloth..... 75
Postage 5 cents.
Paper..... 50
Postage 3 cents.

☞ Price of Complete Works of A. J. Davis, Bound in Cloth, $30.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

BANNER OF LIGHT:

THE OLDEST JOURNAL IN THE WORLD DEVOTED TO THE

SPIRITUAL PHILOSOPHY.

ISSUED WEEKLY

At 9 Bosworth Street (formerly Montgomery Place) Corner Province Street, Boston, Mass.

COLBY & RICH,
Publishers and Proprietors.

ISAAC B. RICH.....BUSINESS MANAGER,
LUTHER COLBY.....EDITOR,
JOHN W. DAY.....ASSISTANT EDITOR,
Aided by a large corps of able writers.

THE BANNER is a first-class Family Newspaper of EIGHT PAGES—containing FORTY COLUMNS OF INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE READING—embracing
A LITERARY DEPARTMENT,
REPORTS OF SPIRITUAL LECTURES,
ORIGINAL ESSAYS—Upon Spiritual, Philosophical and Scientific Subjects,
EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT,
SPIRIT-MESSAGE DEPARTMENT, and
CONTRIBUTIONS by the most talented writers in the world, etc., etc.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION, IN ADVANCE

Per Year.....$3.00
Six Months.....1.50
Three Months.....75
Postage Free.

In remitting by mail, a Post-Office Money Orders on Boston, or a Draft on a Bank or Banking House in Boston or New York City, payable to the order of COLBY & RICH, is preferable to Bank Notes. Our patrons can remit us the fractional part of a dollar in postage stamps—ones and twos preferred.

ADVERTISEMENTS published at twenty cents per line for the first, and fifteen cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

Subscriptions discontinued at the expiration of the time paid for.

☞ Specimen copies sent free.

COLBY & RICH

Publish and keep for sale at Wholesale and Retail a complete assortment of Spiritual, Progressive, Reformatory and Miscellaneous Books.

Among the authors are Andrew Jackson Davis, Hon. Robert Dale Owen, Dr. James M. Peebles, Henry C. Wright, Giles B. Stebbins, D. D. Home, T. R. Hazard, William Denton, Rev. M. B. Craven, Judge J. W. Edmonds, Prof. S. B. Brittan, Allen Putnam, Epes Sargent, W. F. Evans, Kersey Graves, A. B. Child, P. B. Randolph, Warren S. Barlow, J. O. Barrett, Mrs. Emma Hardinge Britten, Miss Lizzie Doten, Mrs. Maria M. King, Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond, etc.

Any Book published in England or America, not out of print, will be sent by mail or express.

☞ Catalogues of Books Published and for sale by Colby & Rich sent free.

☞ Publishers who insert the above Prospectus in their respective journals, and call attention to it editorially, will be entitled to a copy of the BANNER OF LIGHT one year, provided a marked paper is forwarded to this office.

OUR AGENTS.

BRENTANO BROS., BOOKSELLERS,
5 Union Square, New York,

Authorized NEW YORK AGENTS for the sale of all of Colby & Rich's Publications. A good stock always on hand of Spiritual Books and Publications. Any Book desired which they do not happen to have in stock will be promptly ordered. Subscriptions received for and single copies of the Banner of Light on sale. Address 5 UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK. Branch stores, 1015 PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE, WASHINGTON, D. C., and 101 STATE STREET, CHICAGO, ILL. NEW YORK AGENCY, 5 UNION SQUARE.

PHILADELPHIA BOOK DEPOT.

The Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass., are for sale by J. H. RHODES, M. D., at the Philadelphia Book Agency, 722 Spring Garden street. Subscriptions received for the Banner of Light at $3.00 per year. The Banner of Light can be found for sale at Academy Hall, No 810 Spring Garden street, and at all the Spiritual meetings; also at 503 North 8th street, and at news stand 826 Market street.

CLEVELAND, O., BOOK DEPOT.

THOMAS LEES, 142 Ontario street (Room 2). All the Spiritual and Reformatory Works on hand published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass. Subscription Agency for the Banner of Light and other Spiritual papers and magazines, etc. Residence, 105 Cross street, Cleveland, O.

WASHINGTON AGENCY.

M. L. WILCOX & CO., dealers in Standard and Scientific Books, Pamphlets and Periodicals, 207 4½ street, near Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D.C., keep constantly for sale the Banner of Light, and will supply the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., AGENCY.

J. K. COOPER, 746 Market street, San Francisco, Cal., keeps constantly for sale the Banner of Light, and will take orders for any of the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published and for sale by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass.

CHICAGO, ILL., AGENCY.

CHAS. MACDONALD & CO., Periodical dealers, No. 55 Washington street, Chicago, Ill., keep for sale the Banner of Light, and will supply the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass.

NEW YORK BOOK DEPOT.

The Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass., also the Banner of Light, can be found at the office of The Truth-Seeker, 83 Clinton Place, New York City.

BRATTLEBORO', VT., BOOK DEPOT.

E. J. CARPENTER, retail dealer in Newspapers, Periodicals, etc., etc., No. 2 Market Block, keeps for sale the Banner of Light, and will supply the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., AGENCY.

WM. FOSTER, JR., 30 Battey street, Providence, R. I., will supply any of the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich. He is also agent for the Banner of Light.

DETROIT, MICH., AGENCY.

AUGUSTUS DAY, 12 Park Place, Detroit, Mich., Spiritualistic Sale and Circulating Library. Agent for Banner of Light, and all publications of Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., AGENCY.

JAMES LEWIS, 63 Pynchon street, Springfield, Mass., is agent for the Banner of Light, and will supply the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass.

CORRY, PENN. AGENCY.

Parties desiring any of the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published and for sale by Colby & Rich, will be supplied by G. F. LEWIS, publisher of the Day Star, in that city.

TROY, N. Y., AGENCY.

Parties desiring any of the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass., will be accommodated by W. H. VOSBURGH, 244 Ninth street, Troy, N. Y.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., BOOK DEPOT.

JACKSON & BURLEIGH, Booksellers, Arcade Hall, Rochester, N. Y., keep for sale the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass.

AUBURN, N. Y., AGENCY.

Parties desiring any of the Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass., can procure them of J. H. HARTER, Auburn, N. Y.

WASHINGTON BOOK DEPOT.

The Roberts Bookstore, D. MUNCEY, Proprietor, No. 1010 Seventh street, above New York Avenue, Washington, D. C., keeps constantly for sale the Banner of Light, and a supply of Spiritual and Reformatory Works published by Colby & Rich, Boston, Mass.

MILWAUKEE, WIS., BOOK DEPO

TO BOOK PURCHASERS.

Colby & Rich, Publishers and Booksellers, 9 Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), corner of Province street, Boston, Mass., keep for sale a complete assortment of SPIRITUAL, PROGRESSIVE, REFORMATORY AND MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS, at Wholesale and Retail.

Terms Cash.—Orders for Books, to be sent by Express, must be accompanied by all or at least half cash. When the money forwarded is not sufficient to fill the order, the balance must be paid C. O. D. Orders for Books, to be sent by Mail, must invariably be accompanied by cash to the amount of each order. We would remind our patrons that they can remit us the fractional part of a dollar in postage stamps—ones and twos preferred. Postage stamps in quantities of MORE than one dollar will not be accepted. All business operations looking to the sale of Books on commission respectfully declined. Any Book published in England or America (not out of print) will be sent by mail or express.

☞ Catalogues of Books Published and for Sale by Colby & Rich sent free.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞ In quoting from the BANNER OF LIGHT care should be taken to distinguish between editorial articles and the communications (condensed or otherwise) of correspondents. Our columns are open for the expression of impersonal free thought, but we cannot undertake to endorse the varied shades of opinion to which correspondents give utterance.

☞ We do not read anonymous letters and communications. The name and address of the writer are in all cases indispensable as a guaranty of good faith. We cannot undertake to return or preserve manuscripts that are not used. When newspapers are forwarded which contain matter for our inspection, the sender will confer a favor by drawing a pencil or ink line around the article he desires specially to recommend for perusal.

☞ When our patrons desire the address of the BANNER changed, they should give us two weeks' previous notice, and not forget to state their present as well as future address.

Notices of Spiritualist Meetings, in order to insure prompt insertion, must reach this office on Monday of each week, as the BANNER goes to press every Tuesday.

Banner of Light.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, JUNE 30, 1888.

[Entered at the Post-Office, Boston, Mass., as Second-Class Matter.]

THE BANNER IS ISSUED EVERY THURSDAY MORNING FOR THE WEEK ENDING ON SATURDAY.

PUBLICATION OFFICE AND BOOKSTORE, 9 Bosworth St. (formerly Montgomery Place), corner Province Street (Lower Floor).

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL AGENTS:
THE NEW ENGLAND NEWS COMPANY,
14 Franklin Street, Boston.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY,
39 and 41 Chambers Street, New York.

COLBY & RICH,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

ISAAC B. RICH.....BUSINESS MANAGER.
LUTHER COLBY.....EDITOR.
JOHN W. DAY.....ASSISTANT EDITOR.

☞ Business Letters must be addressed to ISAAC B. RICH, Banner of Light Publishing House, Boston, Mass. All other letters and communications must be forwarded to LUTHER COLBY. Private letters should invariably be marked "Personal" on the envelope.

☞ Before the oncoming light of Truth, Creeds tremble, Ignorance dies, Error decays, and Humanity rises to its proper sphere of Knowledge.—Spirit John Pierpont.

The Public Free Circles

Held semi-weekly by the publishers of the BANNER OF LIGHT, at 9 Bosworth street, Boston, will be concluded for the present season on the following dates:

The Tuesday séances—Miss M. T. Shelhamer, medium—will close on the afternoon of June 26th.

The Friday séances—Mrs. B. F. Smith, medium—will close on the afternoon of June 29th.

These free meetings will be reopened early in SEPTEMBER next, under the joint mediumship of Miss Shelhamer and Mrs. Smith: Due notice of which will be given hereafter.

Special Notice!

Wednesday, the 4th of July, being a legal holiday, the BANNER OF LIGHT Establishment will remain closed on that date.

Patrons having advertisements which they wish renewed in our issue of July 7th, must see that their applications are at this office on Friday morning, June 29th.

Notices, etc., must arrive at this office on Monday morning, the 2d, (instead of Tuesday, the 3d,) as the forms go to press one day earlier than usual.

Priests, Preaching and Presumption.

We quote an English writer on Spiritualism: "It is asked frequently, when creeds are cast away what will be left? God will be left; man will be left; and reason, man's noblest gift from his Maker, will be emancipated in regard to religion, as it is in everything else. When Christianity becomes free of priestcraft, when men cease to trade in it, its true mission will begin—'its mission of brotherly love,' social liberation, and universal peace. It is only so long as men are weak in mind and afraid to look in the face of the glorious nature which surrounds and inspires them, that they require certain fixed forms of support on which to lean. Men accumulate experience only gradually, and the knowledge derived from it but slowly."

This apprehension that all will go when the creed-props are knocked away, is bred of heredity and ignorance. It is a timidity that to the majority of minds is an implacable tyrant. None have imbedded such a fear in the popular thought with such assiduity as the priest-class, which first pretends to know all there is to be known about God and the future, and afterward seeks to terrify into lifelong submission all who dare to doubt the sufficiency or substantiability of the doctrines its own members alternately formulate and fight over. Is the world, let us ask, any less religious for the visible disappearance of the professed belief in an eternity of punishment for the finite errors, called sin, of ignorance, heredity and unfavorable surroundings? The real truth is that nobody ever did believe in so diabolical a dogma, however positive their professions of such a belief. The dogma is one that it is impossible for a human mind to conceive; as much so as to conceive of infinity, or an omniscient and omnipotent being. When it weakens, decays, revolts the hearts of men with the bare recollections of its blasphemy, and is thrown out of the thoughts as the vilest and wickedest of all the theological rubbish, there is just as much vital religion left in the world as before, and a great deal more. So monstrous a dogma was eating out the healthy life of all religion that derived its sustenance from a trust in the never failing love of the Allfather God.

The gradual spread of knowledge among the people, as it inevitably drives superstition into its hiding-places, and dissipates it in its stronger light, so it steadily weakens the influence of the priest-class, by whatever name and title they flourish, and in time will put them away from between the individual and his Maker, so that the intercourse will be without so needless and expensive an obstruction. None see and understand this better than the leaders of this class themselves, which accounts for the virulence with which they and their intellectual followers assail every one who ventures to announce the opening of any other avenues between man and God. They want the monopoly of their carefully constructed bridge to the other world themselves, and they mean to have it if it costs even the confusion of the established social order. Nothing in human history is more apparent than this combined determination of the priests of every order, to claim the human spirit as their special property, whose hopes and fears they are privileged to work upon in such ways as their councils and synods and secret meetings may direct.

Now in the illuminating light shed by science in these modern times, has it never occurred to these conscience-keepers for others that the teaching of the great Creator's wonderful works would do far more to advance morality, and thus religion, than to keep up this playing on the fears of minds that are fast becoming emancipated through a broader knowledge, and so are escaping from their disheartening thralldom? Why are they not willing to try the change? Is there anything in any of the works of the beneficent Creator that can be justly deemed irreligious in the human contemplation? Is not one place as holy as another, and are not all days as sacred as any one? Is it man's devices and designs, like the institution of the Sabbath, the establishment of the church, and the interpretation of God in creeds, that are to be accounted too sacred to be approached with inquiry, while the divine laws of health, of harmonious existence on earth, and of the wonderful creation into which we are born as heirs, are regarded as not worthy of pulpit treatment and too secular to be taught on the day which they ostentatiously claim to be the Lord's?

Look over again the simple record of Christ's teaching—called preaching now—and what is to be found but one unbroken talk to the people on the spiritual kingdom into which he sought to introduce them by both his life and speech. He acted no prophet's part, set up no claim as a philosopher, did not indulge in the frenzy of the poet, was simply and entirely a man of the people. The Jews derided him for keeping the company of gluttons and winebibbers, of publicans and sinners. They wondered what he could reply to the woman brought to him who was taken in the act of adultery, and wondered still more when he made that divinely-inspired answer, mingled reproof and forgiveness, which will live in the memory of the human race as long as human hearts continue to beat. He addressed man as man. The Jewish Church, with its decaying ceremonies, was never attacked with such vigor and effect as by him, and it was for this lofty courage in his teaching that, like Socrates before him, he was murdered by the authorities. He recognized no church. The Bible was not in existence. All that had gone before, classed as the law and the prophets, he put aside as of no value except as they might vindicate the one great law of love to God and the neighbor. What Christ taught and exemplified would never make men atheists, as theological teaching only does. Spiritualism is the new advent of the spirit of Christ, the Comforter he promised to send, and it comes direct to the people as he did.

Religious ceremony—fasting, long prayers, and the like—never received more unqualified condemnation than at the hands of Jesus while on the earth. And the humanly constituted church has industriously piled one ceremonial upon another ever since, demanding the scrupulous observance of them by its followers. Now which is right, Christ, who is called the head of the church, or the church, that pays so little heed to his most serious injunctions? It is easy enough to see the dilemma in which the church stands. And its priests and preachers presume to denounce those who prefer to seek avenues to the other life other than the one bridge at whose hither end they stand and exact a toll fee of all believers. They hate Spiritualism because it brings the ceremonies and creeds and professions with which their authority is buttressed to an end. If it were only God and His boundless love that they would have us know, why should they be angry because we report that we have found out God and immortality by another way than theirs? If their spirit was in any true sense religious, they would rather rejoice over the discovery that more than ever manifested God to man and brought us into a nearer communion.

The belief that is instilled into the human mind from earliest childhood by the priest-class, that constant attendance on the outward ceremonies of religion in a particular edifice which they have themselves "consecrated" will be placed to one's credit in the eternal account whose balance-sheet is to be presented on the fabled judgment-day, is sufficient evidence of the importance attached to forms and ceremonies by those who devise and operate them. The profession with the lips of a creed to which the intellect only gives a sluggish and slavish assent is insisted on as the single condition, not to be dispensed with, of so-called salvation hereafter. Yet these are the very mummeries which Jesus brushed aside in the old Jewish church, and in no sense so complicated and elaborate as they are now, declaring them to be without meaning and of no effect, and substituting in their place the simple law of Love—love to God and man—to which the heart alone could render obedience. No priests or teachers are needed for the exposition of that searching and all-embracing law. No intermediary is called for to give it interpretation. Each one becomes his own priest, and draws near to the spirit that fills all worlds without the permission of any other.

The puerile contentions over such a question as whether the real body of Jesus, who was inhumanly put to death eighteen centuries ago, is partaken of when believers eat a piece of "consecrated" bread or a wafer that has been "blessed," sink into merited contempt before the brightening knowledge of this modern day. And yet, no class of priests or preachers dare assail such inanity of belief as this with the ridicule it deserves, though they are swift to denounce the physical accompaniments of the trance, and sweat in traducing the character of all mediums. They prudently abstain in the one case, and recklessly assail in the other, from the inspiration of no higher than a class and bread-and-butter motive. Let the great majority of men and women become believers in spirit-intercourse, with their belief resting on actual knowledge, and the clergy would veer as easily as the weather-vanes in the wind, obedient to the same sordid motive still. The world is not to be impressed, influenced and ruled by this self-selected class of men always. Knowledge has spread its wings for a bolder flight, and human reason and conscience are to govern the affairs of men.

Alleged Death from Vaccination.

While utterly powerless for good, vaccination is a certain cause of disease and death in many cases, and is the probable cause of about ten thousand deaths annually, by five inoculable diseases of the most terrible and disgusting character.—Mr. Alfred Russel Wallace, LL. D., London, Eng.

The important subject of vaccination has been brought prominently before the active thought of this community of late by reason of the decease of Dr. Warren S. Stokes, and the cloud of uncertainty as to the cause which to many minds surrounds his demission.

The discussion had its rise in the columns of the Boston Daily Globe, from which it quickly spread to those of The Post, The Record and The Herald—also the Sunday papers. From the original statement appearing in The Globe of June 22d we condense an outline of the points there presented in support of the allegation that Dr. Stokes came to his death by the effects of impure vaccine matter upon his system; subjoined thereto we give place to the official denial of the doctors who had the case in charge. Our readers can peruse these, and arrive at whatsoever conclusion may seem to them best—a course of action alone likely to produce satisfaction regarding this particular case, as The Globe of the 23d (the same one in which the card of the doctors appeared) truly says: "No two persons hold exactly the same opinions concerning that mysterious chain of incidents preceding the Doctor's demise":

STOKES.—In this city, June 18th, Warren S. Stokes, M. D. Funeral from the Harvard street Baptist Church, Friday, June 22d, at 2:30 o'clock. Relatives and friends invited to attend without further notice.

Dr. Warren S. Stokes was born in Vermont about thirty-two years ago. He graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons, 34 Essex street, in 1882. Since then he has been connected with the Faculty of the institution, and during the past year has been lecturer on medical chemistry and instructor in pathology. His generous soul, his affable ways and his intellectual endowments endeared him to hundreds of friends in the city. Running over as his heart was with enthusiasm for his profession, he was deeply interested in all its phases, and devoted much time to the investigation of physical and psychical science.

He was engaged a great deal at the North End, being at the Dispensary on Charter street every day. Thrown almost continually into contact with infectious diseases, and not having been vaccinated since his early childhood, he determined to make himself doubly sure against danger. He talked it over with Dr. Wallace, and the latter, on Saturday, June 2d, vaccinated him, using the virus in the Dispensary.

On the Monday following his vaccination Dr. Stokes suffered terribly from nausea and other symptoms of poisoning.

Though feeling very ill, he managed to keep on his feet and attend to his duties until Friday, when he was so ill that he was forced to take his bed. Dr. Tilton, his hostess and friend, summoned Dr. Wallace and Dr. A. F. Pattee. They attended the case until last Saturday, when Dr. Stokes was removed to the City Hospital.

It was not until Dr. Stokes had gone mad that his sister was notified of his illness. Her anguish was not mitigated by the assurances of the attending physicians that her brother's sufferings were not due to the effects of vaccination. There is no doubt that they fully believed the virus was not the cause of the symptoms, and possibly they had their own theory of the case and were bound to prove it correct. However this may be, it is asserted they prescribed no antidotes for poison....

Dr. Stokes's agonies were ended by death at 4:30 on Monday afternoon. A post-mortem examination revealed the fact that there was no trace of typhoid, malaria or erysipelas in his system. Everything was perfectly normal. He had died of blood-poisoning....

A member of the Massachusetts Legislature said yesterday that the compulsory vaccination law was doomed, and that efforts for its repeal would be made in the next General Court.

[The Boston Evening Record of June 23d also contains this paragraph (among others bearing on the case), the statement in which we have not seen specially denied:

"Dr. A. R. Stokes, of St. Johnsbury, Vt., his brother, says: 'The autopsy revealed no adequate cause of death. He was worn out and tired from overwork, and the vaccination probably hastened his death, developing symptoms which otherwise might not have supervened.'"]

PER CONTRA.

Statement of the Attendant Physicians.

To Editors Boston Globe:

A sensational and decidedly misleading statement having appeared in your issue of yesterday morning concerning the sickness and death of Dr. W. S. Stokes, will you allow us to make the following statement in your columns. Dr. Stokes was vaccinated at his own request, by his own lancet. The vaccine was obtained from C. H. Goldthwait & Co., Washington street, and was strictly pure, as twenty-five or thirty others were vaccinated from points from the same lot. Only a single point was used. This was done on Wednesday, May 30th, and Dr. Stokes was not taken ill with the symptoms of his fatal sickness till about two weeks later. The facts connected with the case are these: The vaccine disease had already passed its climax at the first call made upon him, when he was found to have slight fever, with excessive nervous and mental symptoms which yielded readily to treatment, and the patient was apparently progressing favorably until Thursday night, when, under the excitement produced by disturbing circumstances, he grew rapidly worse to such a degree as to require that he be sent to the City Hospital for his own safety, where every attention and care was given to him. A statement was made, at the time of his admission to the hospital, to the superintendent's assistant, of Dr. Stokes's previous symptoms. The autopsy made at the City Hospital by Dr. W. W. Gannett, failed to reveal any sufficient cause of death, and the supposition is that he died from nervous exhaustion, supervening upon prolonged mental exertion. And it is absolutely certain that Dr. Stokes did not die of blood poisoning, as has been assumed by the writer of the article referred to.

(Signed)
F. H. WALLACE, M. D., Dartmouth, 1885.
ASA F. PATTEE, M. D., Dartmouth, 1857.
JOHN W. JOHNSON, M. D., Harvard, 1877.

Boston, Friday, June 22d, 1888.

THE BANNER has no information in regard to the matter treated above other than that which has appeared in its Boston contemporaries—therefore cannot reasonably presume to express a definite opinion in the premises; it certainly does not propose to have the case ventilated to any further extent in its columns, since both sides have been represented:

But as regards the general subject of the practice of vaccination itself, we feel no hesitation in declaring it to be our firm conviction that it is (wherever met, whether in the Old World or the New) a grievous and unmitigated evil.

Many returning spirit intelligences have, from the earliest days of this paper, repeatedly borne witness in our hearing to the dire effects wrought upon their physical forms, when they were in the mortal, by vaccination; and they have repeatedly besought us to editorially oppose the dangerous practice—which request we have endeavored to comply with as far as in our power, as the files of THE BANNER will show.

We have no doubt that Prof. Alfred R. Wallace is right when he sets the probable contributive death-rate of this disgusting practice at ten thousand persons per annum.

We believe the British Medical Journal is right when it says: "In addition to the fact that people are ill after vaccination, it is important to remember that people die after the operation."

We believe that Dr. Samuel Eadon, M. A., of Gloucester, Eng., asks a question whose answer is not far to seek, when he says: "With such abominable fouling of the human body, (by vaccination) is there any wonder that consumption, scrofula, cancer, etc., should rage amongst us?"

We believe, with Sir Joseph Pease, of the English House of Commons, that "Vaccination slaughters children wholesale."

We believe, with that stanch anti-vaccination apostle, William Tebb, of London, that: "The history of the Jennerian system from its introduction in 1802 to the present time has been a continuous record of humiliation and disappointment which no ingenuity can palliate or explain away."

We believe, with another thinker on this profoundly important theme, that while "compulsory education is an equal sharing of the national stock of acquired knowledge, compulsory vaccination is a distribution of the national stock of acquired diseases."

Therefore we earnestly hope that the present profound excitement on this subject in Boston will—by stimulating to action those who up to the present time have allowed the disgusting but legally prescribed process to go on unchallenged—bring forth good fruit next autumn in an earnest, well-digested and united effort on the part of her enlightened citizens to sweep away the compulsory vaccination law which now encumbers and disgraces the statute book of the Old Bay State!

Spiritual Phenomena in China.

The late Captain Hunt of Salem, Mass., a wealthy tea merchant in China for a long time—previously a sea captain, trading between that country and this—in his last days settled down at Salem, and became a confirmed Spiritualist; in fact, he was a capital medium himself. He was in the habit of visiting our office once or twice a week, when before the great fire of '72 we were located at 158 Washington street. We remember he called one day to bid us good-bye for a brief period, as, he said, he was going to pay a visit to his Chinese merchant friends, and was delegated in the meantime to convey official dispatches to China from our Government. He remarked that as many of the old Chinese merchants understood English, he should carry out samples of our spiritual works and also a large number of BANNERS for distribution, and thus, he smilingly remarked, become a sort of "missionary among the heathen" of that distant clime.

He went. We did not hear from him for a long time. Finally, on his return, he called to see us again, to post us in regard to his spiritualistic "China mission." He said he was astonished, when he introduced the modern (as he supposed) spiritual literature, to find that some of the most learned of the Chinamen knew more than he did upon the subject, and assured him that there were many spiritual séances then being held in different parts of the empire. He finally was invited to several of their circles, which are similar, he said, to those in this country and Europe. It was then he first learned that the remedial use of animal magnetism was well known and had been applied in China for ages. It is called the "Chong fou," and is taught by the bonzes or priests.

Table-tipping was also an old affair with them. Their methods during the manifestations, he remarked, were different from those employed by our mediums. Mr. Hunt gave us in detail many facts, showing that the Chinese are fully convinced that their departed friends can return and communicate, as he had had evidence when in China of the fact himself.

We were interested to know more about Chinese Spiritualism, and in our researches came across a statement exactly to the point descriptive of the manifestations, which had been published by an American missionary named Rev. R. S. Mackay, who was twelve years in China. He says: "In this, as in many other things, they are in advance of the practitioners among ourselves. The mode of carrying on this operation is somewhat different from that in vogue in the United States. The table is turned upside down upon a pair of chopsticks laid at right angles over the mouth of a mortar or bowl filled with water. Four persons lay one hand upon each leg of the table, while the other clasps the free hand of one of the four, and thus the circle is completed. An incantation is now chanted by the medium, and soon the table begins to move. The circle move with it, and in a minute or two it is whirling rapidly upon its axis, until it is thrown violently off its balance and falls to the floor. The motion is universally attributed to supernatural agency."

This missionary then goes on to say that "there is no necessity for resorting to so clumsy a method of communication with the dead, as the spirits have been induced to write their communications: A table is sprinkled with some kind of powder, or flour, or bran, or dust. Then a small basket without a handle is armed with a pencil, or chopstick, which is tied to its edge or thrust through its interstices. The basket is then turned upside down, its edges resting on the tips of one or two fingers of two persons standing on opposite sides of the table, and in such a manner that the pencil touches the powdered surface. In a short time the pencil moves, leading after it the basket and the fingers on which it rests, and tracing on the dusty table lines and figures, in which a good linguist easily recognizes the characters of the China language. In this way information is communicated on subjects of which the operators have no knowledge. Sometimes, indeed, a spirit thus invoked may be unable to write Chinese, or may be unwilling to exercise its powers, and then nothing can be discovered but unmeaning lines and angles. But in general the composition is good and the information valuable."

Thus it will be seen that the Spiritual Philosophy is "no new thing under the sun," but was known centuries ago; and yet, when at the present time its details are better understood, the clergy especially and others of like ilk denounce the whole thing as a fraud, and take every occasion possible to annoy, vilify, persecute and imprison our medial instruments, not daring to murder them as did their bigoted ancestors of two hundred years ago.

☞ The Golden Gate announces that on their arrival in San Francisco, a pleasant evening reception was tendered Mrs. R. S. Lillie and her husband, at the residence of the editors of that journal. Eloquent speeches, music and song comprised the exercises, which were participated in by Mr. and Mrs. Lillie, W. J. Colville, Miss Emily Peelor (of San José) and others. Misses Alice Beighle and Mattie Hughes assisted in receiving. Among the goodly company present were J. V. W. Mansfield, Mrs. Ada Foye, Mrs. Ruffin (of Cincinnati), Mrs. Dr. Dunklee (of Boston), Edgar W. Emerson, Hon. I. C. Steele, President of the California Camp-Meeting Association, Dr. W. W. McKaig, its Vice President, Dr. and Mrs. Albert Morton, Mrs. Morton-Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Henry Rogers and others.

"PSYCHIC RESEARCH"—A SIGNIFICANT VISION.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

A few evenings since, while in the company of a lady who, though not a professional medium, is gifted with psychic powers of a rare order, I was privileged to have an unexpected interview with an old friend, now a denizen of spirit-life. He accosted me familiarly, announced his name and proceeded to discuss in an interesting and intructive manner a philosophic problem on which my mind had been for some days more or less engaged. Of this, however, I do not propose now to speak, but to mention what followed.

After my friend had concluded, and bidden me good-night, the lady said she saw open before her a vision which appeared to have some significance. She described it substantially as follows: "I see a large boat floating upon the water, in which are a number of dignified and learned-looking gentlemen and one or more ladies. On the boat I see the name 'PSYCHICAL RESEARCH.' One gentleman holds the stroke-oar and appears to be endeavoring to propel the boat forward; but each of the other occupants holds a rudder; there seem, queerly enough, to be rudders all around the boat, and each man is trying to direct the movement according to his own ideas. As they all differ from each other in their notions, the boat only goes round and round in a circle, and gets nowhere. On the stroke-oar, and also on each rudder, I see a motto or legend which seems to express the leading idea of the one who holds it. That on the oar reads, 'Down with materialization frauds!' One rudder has 'No Ghosts!' On another I can see the words, 'Perceptions of the trained intellect versus the wisdom of babes,' and so on. A very intellectual-looking lady in the stern of the boat runs up a flag on which is inscribed 'Clever conjuring!' All appear to be in the pride of intellect and self-confidence, and to lack that receptivity and teachableness which are necessary to any correct apprehension of spiritual truth. Each has on spectacles or goggles of colored glass, and all different; so that while one is ready to swear that everything he sees is green, another is equally sure that all is blue, another that everything is red, and so on through all the colors of the spectrum. He of the stroke-oar at first appeared to be looking through clear glasses; but some one told him that green was the proper color for 'Psychic Research' spectacles, so he donned a pair of green ones over the others! Then another assured him that blue was the correct thing, and he added a blue pair. Then others advised other colors, and he has adopted all their suggestions, so that his nose is now ornamented with a variety of different colored spectacles, and he presents a comical appearance. He seems to be trying to look through all those spectacles at once, and he do n't know what he sees!"

The vision here vanished. As no allusion had been made in the previous interview to "Psychical Research," or anything said to call up such a picture, its presentation was entirely spontaneous and unsought. I cannot therefore but think that it represents the view held by some dweller on the spirit-side of life regarding the proceedings and probable outcome of those organizations, both in this country and England, which have assumed the task of "sifting" and passing judgment upon the facts of Modern Spiritualism. No one can fail to recognize in the spectacled lady who flouts the flag of "Clever conjuring," the author (Mrs. Sidgwick) of an essay published by the English society, in which that "lame and impotent conclusion" is set forth. Does the man of the stroke-oar and the many colored spectacles point to the present (imported) Secretary of the American Society? Is he looking at matters through the many-hued glasses (theories) of his associates rather than his own uncloudled perceptions? And is he specially hostile to materialization séances? Who can tell us?

A STUDENT.

The Medical Spirit Confessed.

The formal address of Dr. B. Joy Jeffries to the Massachusetts Medical Society, which was in annual session (its one hundred and seventh) in Boston recently, contained all the exclusive spirit and conceit of learning which it was possible to crowd into so peculiar a performance.

The main objects of attack in this address of a regular physician to a society of regular physicians were "quacks" and "trade doctors," among whom he classed homeopathists, psychopathists, and all healers and restorers in general, save the chosen few who are permitted to enroll their names on the list of regulars. These are of course all right, while the rest are all wrong.

To keep the regulars down to the number required to maintain them as a select class, this high-horse speaker expressed the wish that nine-tenths of all the medical schools and colleges in the country were abolished, and all medical education was concentrated in two or three universities. Naturally only a limited number could then be turned out, and they would be educated up to the exclusive standard. Nobody, said he, even among the most intelligent, knows what the educated physician knows. Everybody has some vague conception of what is legal and what is religious, but on medical subjects everybody but the physician is ignorant. And therein lies the physician's power.

The whole tone of this address, coming as it did from a man of merited distinction for knowledge and skill in his profession, was that of superiority, which was vaunted with the most open freedom. It was destitute of human sympathy, while it burned with the fire of pride. The public may well shrink from putting their lives in the hands of a power so utterly unfeeling. The very "quacks" that give the regulars so much apprehension, exciting their hatred correspondingly, might be depended on to expend vastly more of that sympathy on the sick and suffering which is the chief element of practical success, than could be bought and coaxed from a regiment of regulars who are so full of knowledge as to have no room left to entertain humanity.

Spiritualist International Convention.

It is reported that there is to be a Spiritualist International Convention in Spain at the time the Barcelona Exhibition is held.

THE CALIFORNIA CAMP-MEETING at Oakland has its lectures, platform tests and general proceedings, together with personal memoranda and passing incidents, interestingly recorded in The Daily Dove, edited and published by the proprietors of the Carrier Dove.

☞ G. W. Kates's "Lyceum Stage" has been reduced in price to twenty-five cents. See announcement on our fifth page.

It is Actively Unsectarian.

When the General Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, at its meeting last May, thought it advisable to announce to the world its belief that "the Constitution of the United States is a virtual agreement or compact to administer the Government without reference to Christ or the Christian religion," it enunciated only that which all the world know before; and in thus making an exhibit of its tardiness in recognizing a long and universally accepted fact, led many outside of its fold to surmise that possibly there are other truths it is equally slow in acknowledging the existence of.

Certainly no truth is more apparent than that the government of this country is unsectarian! It could not consistently be otherwise in view of the intention of its founders to make it a friendly asylum for the people of all nations; and long may it continue such. It will be a sad day for the prosperity of this country and the hopes of liberty-seeking people throughout the world, when bigots and religious malcontents engraft upon its Constitution pledges of loyalty to any one or more forms of sectarianism; an event which may all the powers of light forefend.

The resolution of the Reformed Presbyterians from which the above sentiment is quoted, further states that an incorporation with our national government on the basis of its Constitution, as thus defined by them, is "an act of disloyalty to Christ," remarking upon which the Golden Gate very justly says: "There is more manifest treason in that resolution than has been manifested by American subjects since the days of Arnold."

Materialization.

Of the laws governing the phenomena of Materialization, of the required conditions for its production, and somewhat of his own experience, Mr. W. H. Terry, editor of the Harbinger of Light, Melbourne, Australia, says in that publication for May:

"Very little is known of the laws of materialization, but this much has been ascertained, that the substance of which the materialized form is built up is abstracted largely from the medium, who is supported by those in magnetic affinity or sympathy with him, and such as these have been in the cabinet with mediums without interfering with the manifestations. A skeptic, no matter how passive he might be, would not give these conditions, and would at the very best be as a block of ice in the magnetic aura with which the medium is surrounded. All physical phenomena are produced through laws at present very imperfectly understood. Certain conditions are found to be essential, and philosophical investigators accept the conditions. To demand the phenomena outside the ascertained conditions is unphilosophical and unreasonable.

"We have seen in our own private room, with the gas turned low, and without any cabinet, a human form materialize and dematerialize, commencing about six feet from the floor in a semi-luminous mist, from which first the head, then shoulders and breast and drapery were gradually developed. The form moved forward, touched ourself and two friends who were present with a hand as material as our own, though lower in temperature, passed over our heads, sweeping the drapery over our face and shoulders, returned to the corner of the room, and slowly dissolved. Our experience is not singular. There are many reliable living witnesses of the gradual materialization and dematerialization of forms representing our departed friends."

A Practical Philanthropy.

Mr. Henry Lomb, of Rochester, N. Y., a few years since offered cash prizes for four essays on subjects deeply and intimately connected with the daily life of the American citizen, and more especially of the wage-earner. These prizes amounted in the aggregate to eleven hundred dollars, and were offered through the American Public Health Association, under the supervision of which awards were made by specially appointed committees, and the essays subsequently published, namely:

No. 1. Healthy Homes and Foods for the Working Classes. By Victor C. Vaughan, M. D., Ph. D. 8vo, pp. 62.

No. 2. The Sanitary Condition and Necessities of School-Houses and School Life. By D. F. Lincoln, M. D. 8vo., pp. 38.

No. 3. Disinfection and Individual Prophylaxis against Infectious Diseases. By George M. Sternberg, M. D., U. S. Army. 8vo, pp. 40.

No. 4. The Preventable Causes of Disease, Injury and Death in American Manufactories and Workshops, and the Best Means and Appliances for Preventing and Avoiding Them. By George H. Ireland. 8vo. pp. 19.

Of the above No. 1 has been published in German, and No. 3 in German, French and Flemish. The entire series are of great practical value to every family, and to secure their wide dissemination are furnished by the Association at a price that barely pays the cost of manufacture and unavoidable incidental expenses.

Mr. Lomb offers two prizes this year, one of $500, another of $200, for essays upon "Practical Sanitary and Economic Cooking Adapted to Persons of Moderate and Small Means." The essays must be in the hands of Dr. Irving A. Watson, Secretary of the Health Association, Concord, N. H., on or before Sept. 15th, 1888. Further particulars may be obtained on application to Mr. Watson, as above.

"Sermons for Our Day."

Since the discontinuance of the monthly periodical, The Truth Seeker, of which Rev. John Page Hopps was editor, that liberal writer and stanch advocate of various reformatory movements, social, political and religious, has published the above-named series of discourses, one number containing two sermons, appearing each month, commencing with January last. They are published in a neat pamphlet form by John Heywood, 11 Paternoster Buildings, London, Eng.

☞ Dr. H. B. Storer is active as usual, speaking at Onset Bay Grove on the opening day, officiating at the funeral of Mrs. E. Y. Johnson at Warren, R. I., on Wednesday, and delivering four addresses at the New Hampshire Convention on Friday, Saturday and Sunday last. He will speak at the Vermont State Convention at Newport on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 29th, 30th, and July 1st. He will preside at the Cape Cod Camp-Meeting, which commences July 15th, and go thence to the Sunapee Lake Camp-Meeting, which commences July 29th. He is engaged at Temple Heights Camp-Meeting from Sunday, Aug. 12th to the 19th, thence returning to Sunapee until the close, and from thence to the Queen City Park Camp at Burlington, Vt.

"THE PIPE OF PEACE" is the name of a semi-monthly publication issued by "Frank Purdy and David Sherman, Printer Boys," at the Indian School, Genoa, Neb. It makes a very creditable appearance. In the copy received at this office, words of praise are bestowed on "Angelique, one of the Indian girls, who superintends the bakery," for "the beautifully browned loaves" she produces. "Very poetical and full of sentiment," says the editor, "was the remark recently made by one of the Indian children in the sewing-room. The wind was whistling and moaning around the building more in the style of a sweet lullaby than a blizzard, when the girl said to her teacher, 'I cannot work at all, for the wind talks to me so.'"

☞ The American and Colonial Exchange and Club, occupying premises in Northumberland Avenue, opposite the Hotel Métropole, London, is a great convenience for visitors from this country desiring reliable information. Particulars regarding it may be obtained of the agents of Thomas Cook & Son, in this or any of the principal cities of the world.

☞ Read the card of Mrs. Sarah A. Danskin, in another column.

ALL SORTS OF PARAGRAPHS.

UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF TEA.
IN SIX STANZAS.
VI.

I tell you, the beauties of China,
And all other regions, unfurl
In your vision, when sipping sweet Oolong
With a lovely Fifth avenue girl.
—R. K. M., in Puck.

We understand that good lecturers and mediums are in demand at the West. So the grand work goes bravely on.

A MEATY CONVERSATION.—"How do you feel?" asked the Mutton of the Sausage Meat. "All out up," replied the Sausage Meat. "How are you this morning?" "I feel quite chop fallen."—Tid-Bits.

Telegraph poles are preserved in Norway by making an auger hole about two feet from the ground, in which four or five ounces of sulphate of copper in coarse crystals are placed and plugged in. The chemical is gradually absorbed by the wood until its whole outer surface turns of a greenish hue. The sulphate requires an occasional renewal, and is said to be a perfect preservative.

In writing for the News write on one side of the paper, sleep over what you have written, strike out nine tenths of the adjectives, stew down to news and strain; place what is left in the hull of a mustard-seed; shake until you hear it rattle, then direct the same to the editor in a legible hand.—Willacooche (Fla.) News.

More than one-half the scholarships given at Cornell this year have been won by female students. These scholarships were given as prizes for the best records in mathematics, agriculture and botany.

BUNKER HILL—17TH JUNE, 1888.

Sweet mem'ries hover all around the hill;
But sweeter far did Hatch's larder fill
Our inner man; while 'round the festive board
Naught could be seen that mortals e'er ignored.
It was indeed a very happy throng;
All that was lacking was a Longley song!

The following is given as a "sure killer" for the cut-worms that are injuring so many gardens: "Add a gill of coal oil to a bucketful of water and sprinkle freely." It is said not to hurt the most tender vegetables in the least. This is a simple remedy and is certainly worth trying.—Burrton Graphic.

Bridal dresses for June weddings are made in the Empire style with the corsage fronts in plaits from the shoulders, crossed on the bust in surplice fashion, and disappearing under a wide, soft sash which passes around the waist, is knotted on the left side, and falls thence nearly to the foot.

A man in a town not a thousand miles from Bangor is trying the experiment of grafting apple-twigs upon a pine tree. He wants to raise pineapples.—Bangor Commercial.

QUITE ALARMING, YOU KNOW!—A New York daily is responsible for the startling statement that the Chinese Sunday school pupils of Gotham, Brooklyn and Jersey City recently attended a suburban grove meeting, and, becoming somewhat enthusiastic, were led to sing on their way home the following mysterious composition. They called it "Hymn 72," but who knows how much of Bret's original "darkness" lies concealed in the folds of its spasmodically-waving garments?

Yow foo hing die yoong gaw hin nay,
Dong yow jip saw Yesu ming;
Dong sue fon moon hin wy fooi hay,
Gaying fong gy moo sum woon ning.
CHORUS:
Mingjy hoy; ming hing hayung;
Ling go song sue yow hay mong.
[Repeat.]

The presidential election this year occurs Nov. 6th; the 4th comes on Sunday.

Professor of Class in Journalism—What is the difference between an editorial and an editorial paragraph? Student—An editorial is of the same nature as an editorial paragraph, but is larger, and does n't have as much to say.—Harper's Bazar.

Harvard graduated two hundred and thirty-seven young men in June, from the academic department. Yale stands next in the list, with one hundred and twenty-four graduates.

LEGAL BACKING FOR THE WHEELMEN.—The following is the decision of Judge Snell, one of the Supreme Judges at Washington, D. C.:

"In the eyes of the law a bicycle is a carriage having, in common with other carriages, equal rights to the streets and highways, protected by the same laws; and its rider is amenable to the same road laws governing the drivers of other vehicles."

That particular jackass who hangs around the rooms of a newspaper office to get stupidities of his own printed that otherwise would never have had a show, appears to have got full control of the Boston Herald, says the New York Sun.

Teacher—What is the plural of child? Boy (promptly)—Twins.—Town Topics.

RUB THE OTHER EYE!—A medical man is responsible for the following, which he says he gleaned from a railway engineer: When a cinder finds lodgment in the eye, do not "rub the eye with the cinder in it at all, but rub the other eye as vigorously as you like." He professes to have tried it with good success.

EPITAPH ON A PRINTER.

Here lies a form—place no imposing stone
To mark the head where weary it is lain;
'Tis matter dead! Its mission being done,
To be distributed to dust again;
The body is but the type, at best, of man,
Whose impress is the spirit's deathless page;
Worn out, the type is thrown to pi again;
The impression lives through an eternal age.

A new danger threatens St. Augustine, Fla., in the form of a musical observatory. Fact, for one of the papers there says such a terror is about to appear in town. The St. Augustine Press, however, refuses to be stampeded, and coolly asks if the pupils are to be required to read their notes through telescopes.

"Necessity is the mother of invention." Can invention prevent the necessity of having to defend an invention?—Fibre and Fabric.

"Docking" horses, "dehorning" cattle, and other choice modern amusements of the "sovereign creature man," have their rise in ideas as essentially cruel and utterly nonsensical as the following, which Johnson's Universal Cyclopedia says was once regarded as an infallible specific for hydrophobia:

"Columella, a writer on husbandry in the first century, alludes to an opinion common among shepherds that a dog may be insured against rabies by biting off the last bone of its tail on the fortieth day after birth."

The present address of Miss Augusta Chambers is desired at this office.

With all its faults the newspaper of to-day is a tremendous power for good; for the perpetuation of freedom; for the criticism and reform of government; for the betterment of social conditions. The daily press has reformed many things, and ought to be, and is, fully able to reform itself.—"Correct Journalism," in The Century.

Benjamin Harrison (grandson of old "Tippecanoe") of Indiana, for President, and Levi P. Morton of New York, for Vice President of the United States, are the nominative fruits of the Chicago Republican Convention.

ENTERTAINMENT AT DIXMONT.—Mrs. Stuart-Richings gave an entertainment at Dixmont last night, producing the charming English one-act comedy, "A Happy Pair." She was ably supported by Mr. Charles Edwards. Dr. Hutchinson expresses himself as deeply indebted to Mrs. Stuart-Richings for the many unique and enjoyable entertainments she has generously given for the benefit of the patients, who greeted her last night with a round of applause, which plainly expressed their delight at her appearance. After the entertainment, by special request, Dr. Hutchinson conducted the party through some of the wards.—Pittsburgh (Pa.) Commercial Gazette, June 19th.

A New York cigar factory was burned on 38th-39th street, June 25th; loss $475,000.

The Maine Medical Association does not seem to have got over Gov. Bodwell's veto of the medical bill yet. It will be remembered that Gov. Bodwell first signed the bill, and then changed his mind and vetoed it, and the doctors claim that he had no right to call it back after having signed it. At its meeting in Portland last week it voted to instruct counsel to take measures to get the opinion of the Supreme Court upon the legality of the veto. The Governor, Council, Senate and House of Representatives are the only ones who can require an answer of the court to such questions, and whether the Association can get the opinion it wants or not remains to be seen. But as no one but the doctors appear to have much interest in the matter, the country will probably continue to do business even if they do not succeed in making the bill a law.—Gardiner (Me.) Home Journal, June 20th.

"That is a dangerous-looking dog you have there, deacon. Aren't you afraid he will injure somebody?" "Well, yes," replied the deacon uneasily. "I have n't much confidence in the animal. If you hear of anybody who wants a good dog let me know, and I 'll sell him cheap."

"MAN RUN OVER!"

"Where, where could this sad accident be?"
"Right here on this very bridge," said he.
Then many a frame with terror shook,
There was many a horror-stricken look,
And the new reporter then took out his reportorial book.

"Was the man run over here?" he cried.
The conductor nodded and deeply sighed.
"Tell us all," and he waved his pencil slim.
The conductor answered, sad and grim,
"He was under this bridge a-digging clams and the train ran over him."

Professor Kellar and Charles H. Bridge have had a passage at arms. The meeting transpired in the Boston Theatre on Sunday evening last, before a large audience—the result being in favor of the prestidigitator. It looks as if the old "Martin"-box business was being revived.

The rifle, though not sociable in its habits, rarely goes off by itself.—Harper's Bazar.

Bokhara, an old Asiatic capital, has been brought under the influence of modern life by the introduction of the railroad. There was great excitement when "the fiery Araba," the first steam engine, entered the town with its Russian flag, and a banquet celebrated the event.

Aid for an Afflicted Medium.

The widow of John P. Dimond is in very destitute circumstances. She is confined to her bed at 12 Kendall street, Boston, and is utterly helpless. If those who may feel to aid her pecuniarily will send their offerings to our office we will acknowledge the receipt in these columns, and see that the amounts are forwarded to their proper destination.

The following sums have reached us for the Dimond fund since last report:

Previously acknowledged	$20.50
C. B. Keese	5.00
Friend, Boston	1.00
Mary G. Waite	1.00
Subscriber	1.00
W. D. F.	5.00
Mrs. H. M. W.	1.00
Morris S. Lilen	1.00

JOURNAL OF THE AMERICAN ACADEME.—"Aristotle's Doctrine of Reason" was treated upon in a paper read at the May meeting of the Akadémé by Dr. W. T. Harris, and given in the June number of the Journal, together with a report of remarks with which it was supplemented by members. The subject, an extremely abstruse one, afforded Dr. Harris a fine opportunity for the exercise of his exalted power of thought and close reasoning, of which he fully availed himself. Of the remaining contents of this month's issue are short articles upon "Metanoetics and Repentance," "The Active Intellect," and "Cycles," Alexander Wilder, editor, 565 Orange street, Newark, N. J.

☞ We tender our sincere thanks to the generous friends who have so kindly placed elegant flowers on our Free Circle Room table at every session of late—to the evident pleasure of the spirits, as well as mortals present.

☞ Prof. J. S. Loveland—President of the Clinton, Ia., Camp-Meeting—who is now in the East temporarily, made us a pleasant call last Tuesday.

☞ Mrs. F. K. Rich will discontinue her sittings for the present on account of ill health.

Movements of Mediums & Lecturers.

(Notices under this heading must reach this office by Monday's mail to insure insertion the same week.)

J. Frank Baxter addresses the people of Plymouth County, Mass., on Sundays, July 1st, 8th and 29th, at West Duxbury, Park Hill Grove, and Hanson respectively; on Sunday, July 15th, at Wachusett Park in Worcester County; on Sunday, July 22d, he will speak at the Parkland, Pa., Camp-Meeting.

Bishop A. Beals closed his engagement at Stafford Ct., Sunday, June 24th; he speaks at Hartford, Ct., the first Sunday of July. Can be addressed there.

Dr. J. C. Street, of Boston, has been appointed Chairman at the Cassadaga Lake (N. Y.) Spiritualist Camp Meeting, for the season of '88. He has also been called upon to give a course of instruction with charts, etc., on the occult sciences, beginning the last week in July—a special building having been erected for the purpose by J. W. Dennis, of Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. A. E. Cunningham's address after July 1st and until Sept. 1st will be Lake Pleasant, Mass.

Mrs. T. J. Lewis (late of Brooklyn, N. Y.) occupied the platform Sunday, 24th inst., to general acceptance as a test medium at Mishawum Hall, Charlestown District. She would like to make further engagements for Sundays or week-day evenings near Boston. Call, or address her at 205 Harrison Avenue, Boston.

Mrs. Addie L. Ballou, the well-known writer and spiritual lecturer, has returned from a three years' sojourn in Australia. Mrs. Ballou intends soon to visit the East, and would like engagements to lecture in Salt Lake, Denver, Kansas City and other places en route; also at camp meetings. Communications may be sent to care of Albert Morton, 210 Stockton street, San Francisco, Cal.

Mrs. E. Cutler, of Philadelphia, Pa., platform test-medium and psychometric reader, wishes engagements on reasonable terms from societies, for the season of 1888-9. Will give benefits and aid those who engage her. Post office address for the summer: Eden P. O., Parkland, Bucks Co., Pa.

Mary F. Lovering leaves Boston, July 6th, to attend the National Educational Convention, held at San Francisco, Cal., the 16th, 17th and 18th of the month. All letters should be addressed to her during July and August at the San Francisco post office.

Spiritualist Camp-Meetings for 1888.

The season of out-of-door gatherings on the part of the believers in the New Dispensation is drawing nigh; and the reader will find, by reference to the subjoined, a partial list of the localities and time of session where such convocations are to be held.

ONSET BAY, MASS.—The Twelfth Annual Camp-Meeting at this place commences its sessions July 15th, to close Aug. 12th. Express trains from Boston, 9 A.M., 4:05 P.M., on Old Colony R. R.; Sundays 8:15 from Boston.

LAKE PLEASANT, MASS.—The Fifteenth Annual Convocation of the New England Spiritualists' Camp-Meeting Association will be held at Lake Pleasant, Montague, Mass., (on the Hoosac Tunnel route) Aug. 1st to Sept. 3d, inclusive. The regular session will be preceded with speaking and musical exercises July 22d and 29th. Trains "54," "100," "45" and "43," will stop at the Lake when there are passengers to leave, or when signalled to take passengers. The above trains, "54" and "100," leave Boston at 6:30 A. M. and 3:05 P. M., arriving at Lake Pleasant at 10:40 A. M. and 6:45 P. M. The trains No. "45" and "43" leave Lake Pleasant at 6:40 A. M. and 2:45 P. M.

CAPE COD CAMP-MEETING.—From July 15th to 24th inclusive.

NEW HARTFORD, IA.—The Spiritualists and Liberals of New Hartford hold a three days' Grove Meeting Saturday, Sunday and Monday, July 7th, 8th and 9th.

VICKSBURG, MICH.—The Fifth Annual Camp-Meeting will be held in Fraser's Grove July 14th to Aug. 13th.

PARKLAND, PA.—Meetings begin June 30th, and close Sept. 5th.

LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN, TENN.—The Fifth Annual Meeting will be held at this place (near Chattanooga) during the entire month of July.

CALIFORNIA CAMP-MEETING.—The Fourth Annual Gathering will be held at Lake Merritt Park, Oakland, Cal., from June 3d to July 1st, inclusive.

SUNAPEE LAKE, N. H.—The sessions of the Eleventh Annual Meeting commence July 29th, to close Aug. 29th.

QUEEN CITY PARK, VT.—Meeting commences Aug. 21st and continues to Sept. 16th, inclusive.

HASLETT PARK, MICH.—Meeting commences July 26th and continues five Sundays.

VERONA PARK, ME.—Meeting opens Aug. 12th and ends Aug. 27th.

CASSADAGA LAKE, N. Y.—The Ninth Annual Meeting commences July 21st and closes Aug. 26th.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY SPIRITUALIST ASSOCIATION.—The Sixth Annual Camp-Meeting will commence at Mount Pleasant Park, Clinton, Ia., Sunday, July 29th, to continue five weeks.

MANTUA STATION, O.—The Association will hold a Basket-Meeting Sunday, July 1st, in Atwater's Grove. Societies adjacent are invited to join.

NIANTIC, CT.—Meeting commences July 8th; closes Sept. 9th.

Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla Regulates the Regulator. Best blood purifier. Largest bottles in the market. Manufactured by the proprietors Warner's Safe Cure. Sold by all druggists.

The Dimond Benefit.

Sunday evening, July 1st, a social reception will be held at the residence of Dr. Rich, 566 Columbus Avenue, Boston, the proceeds to be used for the benefit of Mrs. Dimond.

Among those who will take part in the entertainment are Mrs. Maggie F. Butler, Mrs. Willis Fletcher, Mr. J. W. Fletcher, Capt. Richard Holmes, Miss E. J. Nickerson, and others. Good music.

Tickets can be secured from the following people at twenty-five cents each:

Emma J. Nickerson, 566 Columbus Avenue, Treasurer and Secretary; J. W. Fletcher, 6 Beacon street; Kate R. Stiles, 288 Columbus Avenue, and at the BANNER OF LIGHT office.

THE WISCONSIN STATE ASSOCIATION of Spiritualists has organized an auxiliary Society, known as the Wisconsin State Benevolent Society of Spiritualists, which proposes to bury its dead and leave a little sum for sorrowing relatives of those who pass away. This is a start in the right direction.—The New Thought.

NEW MUSIC.—We are in receipt of the following from White, Smith & Co., 516 Washington street, Boston: Instrumental: "Cradle Song," Theodore Oesten; "Bewitching Fairy Polka," "The Harvest Dance" and "Dress Parade March," Paul Keller; Thirty-six studies for violin by Kayser. Vocal: "Resolve to Be Merry," Harry Birch; "I've Called You Back Again, Kathleen," and "Madeline," C. A. White.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.

Each line in Agate type, twenty cents for the first and every insertion on the fifth or eighth page, and fifteen cents for each subsequent insertion on the seventh page.
Special Notices forty cents per line, Minion, each insertion.
Business Cards thirty cents per line, Agate, each insertion.
Notices in the editorial columns, large type, leaded matter, fifty cents per line.
Payments in all cases in advance.

☞ Advertisements to be renewed at continued rates must be left at our Office before 12 M. on Saturday, a week in advance of the date whereon they are to appear.

☞ Only small and light cuts will be allowed in the advertising columns. When accepted, our rates for that portion of the advertisement occupied by the cut will be one-half price in excess of the regular rates.
Electrotypes of pure type matter will not be accepted.
The publishers reserve the right to reject any and all electrotypes.

The BANNER OF LIGHT cannot well undertake to vouch for the honesty of its many advertisers. Advertisements which appear fair and honorable upon their face are accepted, and whenever it is made known that dishonest or improper persons are using our advertising columns, they are at once interdicted.
We request patrons to notify us promptly in case they discover in our columns advertisements of parties whom they have proved to be dishonorable or unworthy of confidence.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Dr. F. L. H. Willis may be addressed as usual for the summer Glenora, Yates Co., N. Y.
My19 7w*

Andrew Jackson Davis, Seer into the causes and natural cure of disease. Send for information to his office, 63 Warren Avenue, Boston, Mass. tf Ap7

H. A. Kersey, No. 3 Bigg Market, Newcastle-on-Tyne, will act as agent in England for the BANNER OF LIGHT and the publications of Colby & Rich during the absence of J. J. Morse.

To Foreign Subscribers the subscription price of the BANNER OF LIGHT is $3.50 per year, or $1.75 per six months. It will be sent at the price named above to any foreign country embraced in the Universal Postal Union.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

CAUTION!

SPIRITUALISTS who desire to support Mediums, Camp-Meetings and Speakers, and who intend to visit

ONSET BAY

this season, are cautioned to buy their excursion tickets for "ONSET." The 9 A.M. and 4:05 P.M. trains from Boston are the most rapid express trains. Sundays, at 8:15, from Boston.

For

COMFORT, SPEED AND SAFETY.

Buy "ONSET" tickets, and thereby avoid the dust and annoyances of horses, and reach the Grove in advance of any other way. You will also help to support the meetings and

SAVE MONEY

For yourself, as you will secure advantages by showing your "ONSET" railroad ticket at the

CAMP-MEETING.

Je30 1stf

Cape Cod Camp-Meeting,

Ocean Grove, Harwich Port, Mass.
From July 15th to 29th Inclusive.

A PLEASANT Grove by the sea-side; cool, south west breeze through oak and pine trees on the bluff. Dr. H. B. Storer will preside.
Speakers: Dr. H. B. Storer, Geo A. Fuller, Eben Cobb, Jennie B. Hagan, A. E. Tisdale, Prof. A. E. Carpenter, Joseph D. Stiles, Celia Nickerson, L. K. Washburn, Mrs. Sarah A. Byrnes.
Excursion tickets, Old Colony Railroad, from Boston and return. Lots for sale. Carriages to and from the depôt to the Grove.
☞ Ample accommodations for board and lodging on the grounds. 182w Je30

ONSET BAY.

BUY Excursion Tickets for East Wareham, and take the Onset Short Line Horse Railway for Onset Bay, and save money. Horse cars connect with every train. Check baggage for East Wareham. 18tf Je16

HEALING.

SEND One Dollar, a two-cent stamp, lock of hair, age, sex and one symptom, to 1606 North Gilmore street, Baltimore, Md., and get a diagnosis by Spirit Dr. Rush, who has wrought many wonderful cures through the widow of Washington A. Danskin. 5w* Je30

Mrs. Sarah A. Danskin,

WIDOW of Wash. A. Danskin, still continues to practice in the New School of Medicine. Enclose one dollar, a lock of hair, and receive a correct Diagnosis of Disease. No. 1606 North Gilmore street, Baltimore, Md. Je30

Ancient Spirit Medium.

DR. W. COE CLARK, Clairvoyant and Magnetic Physician, Psychometrist. Readings by mail. Treatments at residence or at patients' homes. Correspondence solicited. Address 15 Crescent Avenue, Beachmont, Mass. Je30 1w*

Most Astonishing Cures

THROUGH SPIRITUAL POWER.

SEND year, date of birth, with leading symptoms, and Sex. Trance Medium. Business and Medical Tests given on receipt of 50 cts.; medicine included also, 50 cts. extra; 10 postage. Address MRS. DR. R. S. SHERMAN, 411 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, Ill. eowtf Je30

DR. C. C. YORK,

THE Spirit Medium and Clairvoyant, will be at Lake Pleasant July and August to heal the sick and read the future. Has good lodgings in tent or cottage, at his old place, 43 Montague street. 4w Je30

The Wilkesbarre Letters on Theosophy.

AN Exposition of a Topic much discussed. Price 10 cts. Address THE PATH, Box 2659, New York.
Je30 3w*

DR. J. C. STREET,

78 Montgomery street, Boston, Mass.
Ap7 tf

PROF. BEARSE, Astrologer. Office 172 Washington street; residence 259 Meridian street, Boston, Mass. Whole life written, horoscope free. Reliable on Business, Marriage, Disease, Speculation, etc. Send age, stamp, and hour of birth if possible. 1w* Je30

TO LET—At Onset, a five-room furnished Cottage, centrally located, near the water. Particulars given by A. S. HAYWARD, Boston, or MRS. J. R. RICKER, Onset, Mass. 4w Je30

DR. NOAH SMALL, please send your address to MRS. H. M. H. D., 219 Bridge street, Northampton, Mass. 1w* Je30

LOVE FOR LIQUOR CURED. Secret free. Address A. WILLIS, Parkville, L. I., N. Y. 184w* Je9

MENTAL EVOLUTION;

OR,

The Process of Mental Action.

BY PROF. MICHAEL FARADAY.

New Series. Pamphlet; price 15 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

"Health is a thing to be attended to continually. There is no kind of achievement in the world that is equal to perfect health."—THOMAS CARLYLE.
"I am weary, oh! my brothers."—MRS. BROWNING.

TIRED! TIRED! TIRED!

Is the voiceless cry going up from the world's busy workers to-day. Weariness, which is not a passing sensation but an abiding consciousness, is a direct warning that body and mind have been too long subjected to the overstrain of our present mode of life. Our ancestors may have been stout and strong, but WE manifestly suffer from faults of organization, nourishment or vital stimulation. The attention of thinking people and seekers after truth is therefore invited to a new Curative System, embracing scientific Magnetic Remedies which will restore the harmony and balance of the great nerve centres, and thus virtually renew the springs of life and action.

This practice—the Magnetic Heilend System—has been introduced in this country by DR. EDITH HALE with remarkable success. Its principles are new. It marks the advance of the age in curing serious chronic maladies: Indigestion, Obesity, Nervous Prostration, Liver and Kidney Disorders, Diseases of Women, Heart Difficulties, Paralysis, Scrofula and Cancer, without recourse to drugs, which are poisons in their essential nature.

Natural remedies, given in accordance with natural laws, WILL remove weariness, vitalize the energies, cure the torments of dyspepsia, the miseries of neuralgia, and the scourge of blood and skin disorders.

Semi-Invalids! You who seek health and strength, and desire to part company with Depression, Debility and the myriad taints of lurking disease; You who have the intelligence and candor to test these new Magnetic Remedies, are invited to confidential consultation with DR. EDITH HALE, Specialist in Chronic Diseases.

Distant Patients Successfully Treated.

WRITE, stating your leading symptoms just as you would mention them to your nearest friend. Report your age, weight, temperament. Relate briefly what you know of yourself physically in the past, and what you dread for yourself in the future.

Enclose Consultation Fee—Two Dollars—and rely upon receiving in reply a full Diagnosis of your difficulties, sound counsel as to the means of permanent cure, and estimate of the necessary expense of the same.

Accompanying this Diagnosis will be sent postpaid a trial package of the leading Magnetic Remedy which would be prescribed for the individual case of the applicant.

This trial or sample of Remedy being offered to give the distant invalids the same opportunity of judging in this regard as they would obtain by calling at our office personally.

Further, the Consultation Fee of Two Dollars will be entered on DR. EDITH HALE'S Books, and when treatment or remedies are subsequently ordered, the Fee will be accredited to each one as so much already paid on account.

Treatises on Chronic Diseases, on Obesity, on Cancer, references, and full proof of success, together with general information, will be sent to any address on receipt of stamp.

Every letter will be placed on file, and in the order received will be answered with as little delay as is consistent with careful consideration of each case.

This liberal offer is made in the utmost good faith, desiring to benefit burdened and weary humanity.

Respectfully,

EDITH HALE, M. D.,
(Pupil of Dr. John Gordon of London and Prof. Carl Eberle of Germany.)
(Four Years' Foreign Training.)
Office 377 Columbus Avenue,
Boston, Mass.
My26 18t3w*

Cassadaga Lake

FREE ASSOCIATION.

THE Spiritualists of Western New York, Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio, will hold their Ninth Annual Meeting on their grounds at

CASSADAGA LAKE,
Chautauqua County, N. Y.,
From July 21st to August 26th, 1888.

PROGRAMME.

Saturday, July 21st, Walter Howell, London, Eng.
Sunday, July 22d, Walter Howell, and Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond, Chicago, Ill.
Monday, July 23d, Conference.
Tuesday, July 24th, Dr. J. C. Street, Boston, Mass.
Wednesday, July 25th, Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond.
Thursday, July 26th, Miss Jennie B. Hagan, Massachusetts.
Friday, July 27th, Dr. J. C. Street.
Saturday, July 28th, Lyman C. Howe, Fredonia, N. Y., and Miss Jennie B. Hagan.
Sunday, July 29th, Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond and A. B. French, Clyde, Ohio.
Monday, July 30th, Conference.
Tuesday, July 31st, Walter Howell.
Wednesday, Aug. 1st, Chas. Dawbarn, New York City.
Thursday, Aug. 2d, Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond.
Friday, Aug. 3d, Chas. Dawbarn.
Saturday, Aug. 4th, Walter Howell and Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond.
Sunday, Aug. 5th, Chas. Dawbarn and Mrs. Colby-Luther, Crown Point, Ind.
Monday, Aug. 6th, Conference.
Tuesday, Aug. 7th, Mrs. Colby-Luther.
Wednesday, Aug. 8th, J. Frank Baxter, Chelsea, Mass.
Thursday, Aug. 9th, Mrs. H. S. Lake, Boston, Mass.
Friday, Aug. 10th, J. Frank Baxter.
Saturday, Aug. 11th, W. F. Peck and Mrs. Colby-Luther.
Sunday, Aug. 12th, Mrs. H. S. Lake and J. Frank Baxter.
Monday, Aug. 13th, Conference.
Tuesday, Aug. 14th, Mrs. R. S. Lillie, Boston, Mass.
Wednesday, Aug. 15th, Mrs. H. S. Lake.
Thursday, Aug. 16th, Rev. Samuel Watson, Memphis, Tenn.
Friday, Aug. 17th, Mrs. H. S. Lake.
Saturday, Aug. 18th, Rev. Samuel Watson and Mrs. Clara Watson, of Jamestown, N. Y.
Sunday, Aug. 19th, Rev. Samuel Watson and Mrs. R. S. Lillie.
Monday, Aug. 20th, W. J. Colville, Boston.
Tuesday, Aug. 21st, Mrs. R. S. Lillie.
Wednesday, Aug. 22d, W. J. Colville.
Thursday, Aug. 23d, Mrs. R. S. Lillie.
Friday, Aug. 24th, Walter Howell.
Saturday, Aug. 25th, W. J. Colville and Mrs. Clara Watson.
Sunday, Aug. 26th, W. J. Colville and Mrs. R. S. Lillie.

For Circulars, address A. E. GASTON, Secretary, Meadville, Pa.

HOW TO GET TO CASSADAGA LAKE.

Passengers over the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway, Nickel Plate Railway, Western New York and Philadelphia Railway, and Western Division of the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railway, change cars at Dunkirk, N. Y., and take the Dunkirk, Allegheny Valley and Pittsburgh Railway to Lily Dale Station.

Passengers over the "Erie" system, including the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio Railroad and the Buffalo and Southwestern Railway, change cars at Falconer Crossing, three miles east of Jamestown, N. Y., and take the Dunkirk, Allegheny Valley and Pittsburgh Railway for Lily Dale Station.

Inquire of Railroad Ticket Agents for Excursion Rates to Lily Dale. 182w Je30

Price Reduced from 50c. to 25c.

THE

LYCEUM STAGE:

A COLLECTION OF

Contributed, Compiled and Original

Recitations, Dialogues, Fairy Plays, Etc.

Adapted for the Children's Progressive Lyceum and School Exhibitions.

BY G. WHITFIELD KATES.

Price 25 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

In Re Dr. Talmage.

A Synopsis of a Discourse by the Guides of

MRS. R. S. LILLIE,

Delivered in Berkeley Hall, Boston, Sunday Morning, May 6th, 1888, in Answer to the Recent Attack on Modern Spiritualism by Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., of Brooklyn.

Also Excerpts from a Letter by "Eleanor Kirk."

The above have been published by COLBY & RICH in four-page tract form, and should be extensively circulated. Price by mail, 5 copies 5 cents; 15 do., 10c.; 30 do., 15c.

PRICE REDUCED.

CHRIST AND THE RESURRECTION

IN THE

Light of Modern Spiritualism.

A Discourse delivered by PROF. HENRY KIDDLE, On Easter Sunday, April 25th, 1886, in the New Spiritual Temple, Boston, Mass.

Price 5 cents, postage 1 cent; six copies for 25 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Message Department.

Spiritual Free-Circle Meetings

Are held at the BANNER OF LIGHT OFFICE, 9 Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), on TUESDAY and FRIDAY AFTERNOON of each week.

On Tuesday afternoon MISS M. T. SHELHAMER occupies the platform for the purpose of answering by her spirit guides such questions as may be introduced for consideration.

On Friday afternoon MRS. B. F. SMITH, under the influence of her guides, will afford an avenue through which individual spirit messages will be given.

The Hall (which is used only for these séances) will be open at 2 o'clock; the services commence at 3 o'clock precisely, at which time the doors will be closed, allowing no ingress or egress. The public is cordially invited.

☞ Persons having questions of practical bearing upon human life in any of its departments of thought and labor, which they would like answered by the spirit-world intelligences, may send them to THE BANNER OF LIGHT office by mail, or hand them to the Chairman of the Circle, who will present them to the spirits for consideration.

☞ The Messages published in this Department indicate that spirits carry with them the characteristics of their earth-life to that beyond—whether for good or evil; that those who pass from the earthly sphere in an undeveloped state, eventually progress to higher conditions. We ask the reader to receive no doctrine put forth by spirits in these columns that does not comport with his or her reason. All express as much of truth as they perceive—no more.

☞ It is our earnest desire that those who recognize the messages of their spirit-friends will verify them by informing us of the fact for publication.

☞ Natural flowers upon our Circle-Room table are gratefully appreciated by our angel visitants, therefore we solicit donations of such from the friends in earth-life who may feel that it is a pleasure to place upon the altar of Spirituality their floral offerings.

☞ Letters of inquiry in regard to this Department of THE BANNER must not be addressed to the mediums in any case. LEWIS B. WILSON, Chairman.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED,

THROUGH THE MEDIUMSHIP OF

Miss M. T. Shelhamer.

Report of Public Séance held May 1st, 1888.

Spirit Invocation.

Oh! Holy Spirit, Source of all Light Divine, thou who art tender, merciful and kind, we approach thee as thy children, and bow down before thy majestic power in humble recognition of thee and thy works. We do not grovel before thee with servile mien, for we realize that we, as thy human children, partake of thy infinite good, and breathe into our own lives something of thy nature and skill. So, oh! our Father, while acknowledging thy supremacy and bowing down before thee in adoration and praise, we would also realize the possibilities that are within human life, and be ready at all times to do our part in unfolding those powers and sending them forth into active expression for useful ends.

We draw near unto thee and thy angels at this hour in thought, in aspiration, in sympathy and in soul-force, for oh! we would breathe in something of thy atmosphere; we would feel the holy influence of angelic lives and be inspired by their example and presence. We know, oh! Father, that no child can be lost from thy embrace, no spirit stray outside thy fold, for thy kingdom is the entire universe of space, and wherever a soul may be, however remote it may find itself from all other human habitations or presences, it must remain within thy borders and be subject to thy law. So we would recognize thy power on every hand, and recognizing it, acknowledge thee and thy wisdom, and send forth aspirations for more light and knowledge and comprehension of truth as our minds expand and our souls enlarge.

Questions and Answers.

CONTROLLING SPIRIT.—We will now attend to your questions, Mr. Chairman.

QUES.—What occupations do people have in spirit-life?

ANS.—You may very properly affirm that the number of occupations in spirit-life is infinite, for each spirit, varying in temperament and in constitutional habits from every other spirit that lives, also varies to some degree his occupation or line of employment from that of every other spirit. One is not forced in the spirit-world to enter into any pursuit for which he is not adapted, and which is uncongenial to his nature. As life on earth affords many sources of employment to the denizens of this planet, and as the very conditions and circumstances of life here open out various pursuits to man, so in the spirit-world life and its conditions afford many sources of occupation to the inhabitants of that world. There are fields of science which have never been explored by mortals, which in the spirit-world open avenues of research to the investigating mind, affording many and varied lines of employment to those who are interested in such research. And as in the scientific fields of life, so also in the various other departments of existence. In that higher world there is opportunity given to man to expand his inquiring nature and develop his energy. Is he of an inventive turn of mind, then most certainly will he find means for the employment of his inventive faculties and of giving them expression externally, so that he alone may not be benefited, but that his fellows may be benefited likewise, and so on.

While it is true that you of necessity have certain occupations or employments which belong to the physical world alone, and which have no counterpart in the higher spiritual department of existence, it is also true that many pursuits which you have here are duplicated in the higher life, and also there are opening to the advancing mind, the energetic spirit, other and newer lines of occupation, such as you have never heard or dreamed of in this life of yours, and the nature of which you could not comprehend were we to attempt a description of them.

Q.—Can spirits read the thoughts of those they knew in earth-life?

A.—That depends upon the degree of assimilative affection existing between the spirit and his mortal friends. If he is in perfect sympathy with them, so that his thought blends with their own, and his magnetism mingles with their magnetic life, then will he be able, on approaching his friends on earth, to clearly read their minds as he would the pages of an open book. But there are others with whom, probably, the spirit would not come in such close contact as to be able to read their thoughts and understand the secret motives of their lives. It altogether depends upon the sympathy and assimilation of magnetism which exists between the mortal and the spirit, whether the latter can closely blend with the former, understand what is taking place with him, read his thoughts and follow his life-workings or not.

Q.—Do spirits progress according to their own will? or does a higher power control them?

A.—We are all governed by a higher power or superior law. You may personify this law or power to your mind, if you can more readily understand it thus, since this higher and supreme power must contain within itself all of intelligence and of wisdom, else it would not be infinite, it would not be supreme. And yet we maintain that man must of necessity develop outward from within himself, that he contains within himself all the elements and possibilities necessary for the unfoldment of a grand nature, of a living, vitalized, intelligent entity, and he cannot express himself as such in a beatified manner and perfected form, unless he is greatly advanced on the road of progress. Man learns largely by experience, rounds out and develops through discipline, and over the line of progress he is indeed apt to find many experiences and much of the needed discipline. While led and governed without, on the one hand, so to speak, by a higher power, a superior law, yet man, collectively or individually, finds his progress accelerated and made certain through the expression of his own aspirations and the development of his own pure desire for goodness and for truth. Because of this he makes effort to rise above contention and strife. He reaches upward for light and guidance and helpful assistance, which are not denied to the earnest spirit, and as he continues to endeavor to do right, even though failure, struggle and hardship are part of his experience as he travels along, he will find himself growing stronger in spirit and more powerful in will-force, so that he gains assistance, through the very development of his own nature, to crush temptation under his feet, to resist evil, and to gain the kingdom of purity and peace. So the man advances, step by step, onward and upward to higher grades of mental and moral attainment, finding his views of life enlarging as he moves along, and learning something of his own character and his own spiritual proclivities by the way; and when finally he sums up that which is past, and what has been in his own life, he comes to realize that through his own endeavor, through his own personal progress attained by constant striving and aspiration, has he gained the very best and highest advantages which have come to him.

Q.—[By M. M. Brown, Chico, Cal.] Are there times and occasions when the spirit-friends of a person in whom they have a deep interest, and over whom they usually throw a protective power, cannot shield them from impending danger, loss of earth-life or great suffering?

A.—There are times when spirits who have exercised watchful guardianship and careful guidance over certain loved friends on earth, fail in warding off the approach of danger and in preventing some impending calamity. You may inquire why this is so. We believe that sometimes it is necessary for an individual to pass through a certain experience which proves very painful to him. Perhaps it is in a financial direction. He encounters losses which occasion pain, even suffering, of a mental as well as physical nature to himself, possibly also to others, and he may inquire: "Why did not my spirit-friends prevent this, if they had the power to assist me as they claimed?" We must remember that every man rounds out his life-powers and develops his possibilities, even the greatest strength of character, through discipline, which is sometimes in the form of severe suffering; and possibly his spirit friends were unable to exercise that care and to throw around him their protecting influence in the hour of need, because their strength in this direction was withdrawn from them by still higher powers, who saw the necessity of the man's nature to pass through just such a discipline, and acted accordingly.

Spirit friends who come nearest to their loved ones on earth are attracted because of their affectional natures. Their love and sympathy are very strong, and they surround their dear friends with all the power they possess. Through this love and sympathy your spirit friends would undoubtedly do their utmost to protect and guard you from every danger; but still higher powers, wiser, grander teachers and guardians who are above these planes of existence, and who understand what is the best road for you to pursue in the acquirement of knowledge and the attainment of experience, may foresee that it will not be wisdom for your nearest spirit friends to always guard and shield you in the way desired, and therefore they may bring an intervening power to act against that which your nearest and dearest would exercise in your behalf. Again, we must remember that man is placed here in order to exercise his own judgment, to develop his own powers of endurance, strength of character, and other proclivities belonging to the essential part of his nature. If he came to rely entirely upon external forces and sources of protection, he might grow careless, not exercise his own reasoning powers and best judgment, and, indeed, grow weak in those very portions of his nature which ought to be strengthened and developed while on the earthly plane. Therefore it might not be wise for his friends always to bring that intervening power to prevent a certain calamity or experience coming to him, because by so doing they might work the man a more fatal injury in his nature than they would do did they refrain from exercising their care for the time upon him.

Q.—[By H. P.] Can spirits who lived on earth thousands of years ago come nearer to those on earth to day, and by reason of the knowledge they have attained be of greater benefit to them than others?

A.—No; decidedly no. We know that we are running counter to certain expressed opinions from spirits and mortals in giving our opinion on the question, but it is one that we have studied closely, and from observation feel qualified to speak upon. We do not think that spirits who dwelt upon the earth thousands of years ago come into a more direct and close relationship with the present denizens of this planet than do spirits who have passed out of the body in more modern times. It is true that there are a few spirits whom we may call ancients, because many centuries have elapsed since they dwelt upon the earthly plane, who take an interest in the well-being of humanity on earth, and who are exercising their magnetic forces, and to a degree their positive will power, in shaping movements and guiding certain institutional affairs that look to the general welfare of communities rather than to the benefit of the individual, and that are of such a nature as will be most lasting and helpful in their results to humanity. These spirits, although very progressive by nature, have not yielded up their interest in mankind, and still maintain an oversight over humanity struggling with the problems and vexing questions of physical life at the present time as they have done through ages past. Feeling that the times are progressive, and that whatever forces and magnetism may be exerted can be utilized for beneficent ends, these spirits are consolidating their forces for the purpose of sending out a general wave of inspiration and magnetism that shall reach receptive minds in various quarters, drawing their attention to the fact of the world's needs and of the great necessity for an answering supply.

But, coming back to the question, we must candidly state that it is our opinion that the great mass of spirits who dwelt on earth, gained their experience, ripened through discipline, and passed on to higher and other grades of unfoldment and planes of existence, are not more closely attracted to earth's people than are other spirits who passed on in later times; and why? Because the great law of association is ever in operation, and it holds humanity in its strong embrace. What is the consequence? As this law operates, human sympathy and affection are evolved, and maintain their hold upon the hearts of mankind.

This great law of association, of social life, so to speak, creates an atmosphere of its own, which we may call congeniality, and within this atmosphere dwell those spirits who are in harmony with their kind and with their kindred. Souls that are attracted together, whose magnetisms assimilate so as to accord one with the other in sympathy and affection, will maintain their hold upon each other, however great the distance which may seemingly exist between them. Therefore those spirits who have dwelt on earth in the near past, your mothers and fathers, your brothers and sisters, wives and husbands, children and dear friends, are the ones most likely to be attracted nearest to you. They dwell in this atmosphere of congeniality; they are, to an extent, operated upon by the law of association and by the faculties of affection and sympathy. While they are progressing in their spiritual homes, gaining new understanding of life, learning of their wise teachers and exalted guides, who themselves have been interested in humanity on earth and may be in your welfare to-day, yet their desire is to bless your lives, to instruct your minds, and assist you in developing the best part of your natures. Consequently the world, in receiving messages from beyond the tomb, in coming into direct communion with the realms above, has found its communications, its lines and words of cheer and instruction coming principally from those departed ones who have left dear and loving friends on earth, and who desired to express their continued affection and care for those dear ones. Though you may occasionally receive some word of helpfulness or instruction from a spirit claiming to be one of the ancients who dwelt upon this planet thousands of years ago, yet you may thoroughly believe that the same word of instruction, the same expression of tender sympathy, might be fully as well expressed and come as closely to your heart, if uttered by some other spirit who is still linked to humanity and to the world's condition, because of the waves of affection and of sympathy which pass out to him from this life and back again to you.

We are not, however, to suppose that any spirit of wisdom—no matter how remote the time since he dwelt on earth—who cares for the struggles of humanity and who has an interest in life on earth, has withdrawn entirely his attention from this planet and its people. He may have passed on to other worlds and taken up new lines of unfoldment, yet if his wisdom is of a superior character, if the knowledge he has gained is such that he can look back upon his past unfoldments and experiences, and penetrate into the hidden life of this world, undoubtedly he will send back his influence and join with other spirits in exercising a wise and helpful guardianship over those who may be uplifted by it. It does not follow, however, that he comes in person, speaks individually to you, and expresses his identity; for the latter he cannot do; and yet you may be generally benefited, and even blessed, by the united magnetism of all-wise and advanced spirits, however long it has been since they trod the pathways of earth.

Q.—[By M. Carpenter, Delphi, N. Y.] Are spirits able to improve the physical health of their friends on earth? And if so, do they ever approach them for that purpose?

A.—There have been hundreds of cases, ay, many more than that, where spirits have physically benefited the friends on earth whom they approached. Many on earth have directly felt their influence and uplifting power. They know that new strength and vitality have been infused into their systems by this invisible presence and potent force, but it is not always the case that a spirit can benefit in this line an earthly friend, even though he desires to do so. There may be one who is physically debilitated, weak, worn and prostrated in the nervous and mental systems. The conditions of daily life are harrowing, and it may be that the associations and surroundings are of such a positive and physical nature that the spirit friends of the sufferer, however earnestly they may desire to help him, are unable to bring their magnetic power and helpful influence to bear upon his system to any appreciable degree, therefore he does not feel any assistance from their presence. Nevertheless, there may be moments, when outward life is still and the physical senses are in repose, that the attendant spirits may infuse a little magnetic strength into the sufferer, so that he awakens refreshed and for a time feels much better than he did before.

Yet in another case, which may be a type of many, we find one who has been prostrated through external causes, who is physically debilitated because of earthly conditions. He is, however, as sensitive and absorbent to spiritual forces as to physical ones, and in a little while, conditions and surroundings being favorable, his spirit attendants are enabled to infuse life, vigor and vitality into his system, he becomes renewed in strength, and feels like a new man. This result has been brought about simply by bringing him under the influence and medical care of spirits who use no drugs, but who find their healing balm in the magnetic forces of their own beings.

Q.—[By a student.] By what phase of mediumship can spirits communicate with mortals with the least degree of the mind of the medium affecting the communication?

A.—It depends altogether upon conditions and circumstances in earth and spirit-life. Various bands of spirits who have been attendant upon various mediums will present to you different statements upon this subject, and they will be perfectly justified in so doing, their observation and experience in this line having proven to them the wisdom of their course and of their opinion.

One band of spirits will declare that an unconscious trance medium presents to you the very best instrumentality for conveying to earth-life the unbiased and undiluted thought and opinion of the spiritual world; and it is true that such a medium, when brought under the direct dominion of a band of wise and well-informed spirits, will indeed present a fine instrumentality for such a work. Another band of spirits attendant upon a different kind of medium will declare that they have no reason to think this would be the case, and that, for their purpose, they prefer a medium, whether conscious or unconscious, whose hand can be used mechanically without any attachment or connection with the thought of his own brain, affirming that by thus using the hand of their medium they can convey to you, undiluted and directly, their thought and opinion upon any subject whatsoever. Yet another class of spirits experimenting in another line would affirm that they should not care to make use of either the brain or the hand of their medium. They would prefer to extract from his organism a certain amount of surplus energy, and, by directing this with their own will-power, so act upon an inert piece of matter, we will say a pencil, as to make it trace characters upon slate or paper independent entirely of either the hand or brain of their instrument, declaring to you that in this way they could best keep their own thought detached from the mental movements of their medium, and so on.

We might outline cases without number, and every band of spirits would be justified in each statement because of his own experience. All depends upon the passivity of our instrument, upon his development and fitness for the work. If a medium, whatever his phase may be, has been wisely guarded and attended by spirits who understand his powers and their own line of labor, who desire to exercise his mediumship for a special work and operate upon his organism to that end, surrounding him with their own magnetic atmosphere, gradually, through the process and time of development, drawing him within their own environments, then when the times comes for them to exercise their thought and perform their work in connection with their instrument, they will undoubtedly be able to do so without finding any positive interference from the brain or external condition of their subject. But if a medium is only partially developed, is not passive nor ready to yield to the demands and work of his spirit-guides, and if his band of attendants is not well-regulated and instructed, then you will undoubtedly perceive uncertainties arising in that which is delivered to you through his agency; you will find discrepancies and what seems to be a mixture of earthly and spiritual, in fact much that conflicts with your thought and idea of spiritual life and its conditions. Therefore, we say, much depends upon your medium—his environments, associations and daily habits—whether you receive that which comes independent of the earthly and entirely from the spiritual, or that which is confused and decidedly mixed.

Q.—[By A.] Are messages containing information, or the views of the communicating spirit on matters in relation to which there are strongly defined diverse opinions in this life, affected in a greater or lesser degree by the established views and opinions of the medium?

A.—This question might be included in that which we have just considered, for if a medium is well developed and fully under the influence of his guides, the opinions which they hold upon any subject may be directly opposed to those held by their instrument, and yet the expression coming to you on that theme from the spiritual world will not be affected by the thought of the medium. But if the instrument is only partially influenced, and if his mind is in such active operation at the time of expression that he exercises his own thought and judgment upon it, thus creating a mental confusion in his mind which his spiritual attendants cannot overcome or subdue, then undoubtedly what you receive will be a mixture of the thought of the medium as well as of the expression of his spiritual guides.

There are many instances of expression from the spiritual world to mortal life upon subjects which the medium and the spirit controlling differed upon. For instance, take the subject of reëmbodiment. There are spirits who pronounce themselves satisfied that this subject contains within itself a large element of truth, that such a law exists by which human beings may build up a form and temporarily inhabit it, in order to gain some experience or discipline which their nature requires. Upon this subject spirits disagree, many giving positive statements upon one side, and others equally honest and intelligent as positively making their affirmations upon the other. As with spirits so with mortals. There is a diversity of opinion. We select this subject for illustration because it is a mooted one. We have personally expressed from our platform our own decided opinion upon this subject, which has run diametrically opposite to the equally positive opinion which our instrument has held upon the same theme; therefore her mind or brain could not possibly have exercised any activity in connection with our expression when we gave it forth to the world. And so we find it with other mediums in using their brains or organisms to express our thought upon some active question and giving to the world what we believed to be the truth on the subject, although we positively knew that the thought and opinion of our instrument was directly opposite to ours. Therefore we know from actual experience that a spirit can communicate through a medium whom he is familiar with, whom he can fully influence, expressing his own thought and giving counsel, even though the mind of his instrument be opposed to his opinion and directly opposite.

We might add in connection with this thought that a band of spirits who have decided views and opinions upon certain questions of importance may in time so bring their instrument within their own atmosphere as to have him absorb their opinions, and possibly voice them in later days. For instance, a spirit who is familiar with the organization of a certain medium, philanthropic in his desire to bless humanity, came to his instrument month after month, for a series of years, with a beneficent object in view. For some time his medium was directly opposed to the fulfillment of that object, was unwilling to serve as an instrument in the work, and yet saw no reason why it should not be accomplished; but as the months rolled on, and the years advanced, the medium, coming so constantly under the influence of her guides, and caught up into their atmosphere, so to speak, absorbed their magnetism, and, unconsciously to herself, began to imbibe their ideas and express their thought. As a consequence, she came into sympathy with their views, learned how they might be just and honorable and helpful to mankind, and became in time a willing worker in the movement to which she was formerly so opposed.

SPIRIT MESSAGES,

THROUGH THE TRANCE MEDIUMSHIP OF

Mrs. B. F. Smith.

Report of Public Séance held April 13th, 1888.

Darius Shaw.

You may locate me as formerly in South Weymouth, Mass. Darius Shaw. I have tried very many times to take control in a meeting like this, but have always failed before to-day, when, with the help of some loving ones in spirit, I have been able to control a medium.

Mother is with me, also John and Hannah; and I am happy in my spirit-home. No aches nor ills come to us there; no inharmony reaches us; we are all rightfully understood in spirit-life.

I would ask once more that they would try again and again to open the door that we might commune with them. I know, in the mortal, it is discouraging when they try to come into communication with us and fail; but then, if we were to lose our courage as they do, I feel we should not be able to reach them at all.

Charles Hatch.

You may locate me as from Natick; Charles Hatch; and I hope I shall not be forgotten by many there. I, too, Mr. Chairman, have tried many times to even give my name in this room, which of all rooms that I enter is the most sacred, where mortals and spirits may commune together, and be able to send a few crumbs of comfort to the loved ones here.

Father and mother are with me to-day, and so is Eva. Jennie, I enjoyed as much in coming into communication with you as you ever could with me. I have often said to mother that it is sometimes a little strange when we enter earth-life, when so many loved ones—brothers and sisters—are yet left in the mortal, that but one has been willing to open the door that we might speak to them. Oh! let me say, dear sisters and brothers, open the door, for you know not how much happiness you lose in not trying to come into rapport with us.

Not a day has passed, Addie, but I have been with you in some part of the day, and with the dear children. I know the cares of life and the burdens have been heavy on your shoulders, but God has been good to you, and has given out power through mortals, for darling Sadie has been helped so much in the physical part of life. I am thankful to the Great Father and the angels that she to-day is able to walk again.

Dear brother Gardner, I would like to come into communication with you, but I know you will say: "Charles, I don't just understand how spirits can come and converse as they did in the mortal." Then listen a little to others, and you will learn, and I promise you will be much happier for so doing. You do not forget our father's belief, when dwelling in the mortal, of the sleep of the dead. No, no, dear brother and sisters, you do not believe that we do go into the grave and sleep we know not how long. Father now says that he well understands that there is communication between mortals and spirits to-day; but he would not listen to it in the mortal.

Sister Jennie, Samuel is here, and says to me that, if possible, he will also send a message to you at some future time. Dear sister, you have been a ministering angel to the children, and I am happy in my spirit-home; but we do love to come into conversation with the dear ones here when we possibly can. Jennie, tell the sisters that I don't forget one of them, for I love you all, and in spirit I understand now more of the depths of love than I could while dwelling in the mortal.

Lucy Merritt.

I, too, have tried many times to come. You may place me in Somerville, Mass. Lucy Merritt. I feel a little of the chill of the water, but it will be past in a moment. I know father, mother and the dear ones have often asked the question: "Oh! Lucy, why was it you went out from us in this way?" Ask it not, mortals, for I cannot explain, and they tell me that another time I will not partake of these feelings. But oh! mother, I am happy in my spirit-home. Grandma says father is very near the gate, and we will come with outstretched hands and welcome him to us.

I would like to thank Mr. Hardy's people for the kindnesses they have shown me, and also father and mother. Rachel, stay with them; it won't be long that you will need to be with father. Oh! how many times has mother said in her soul, "Lucy, are you near? oh where is heaven?" Only a step, dear mother, only a step from you is your child Lucy to-day. Mother, learn a little this side, and how much happier will you be, and how much further advanced as you cross into spirit-life. It seems like a shining river, a group on one side and on the other, and we can almost clasp hands across, and in a little time we shall be able to clasp hands in that beautiful and bright beyond that knows no partings, and where no tears are shed, and no farewells are said. Mother, your Lucy lives to-day, and is able through the help of the good angel spirits to come into communication with you. I would like to talk to you privately, if I could, rather than to come in public, but when we find that we are denied those privileges we seek every channel possible, that we may reach the dear loving ones here. Oh! yes, mother, I am happy; I am satisfied with the home I have now; but I am waiting patiently for the time when we shall be reunited.

Susie Union.

Will you please, Mr. Chairman, let me say that I am Susie Union, of Plymouth, N. H.? I am very happy to know that I have got control, so that I may be able to add a few words that may reach some loving hearts. On my first attempt at coming into communication with mortals, I was denied the privilege, until one kind heart opened the door and said: "Come; all are welcome, whether kindred or no." I could not reach my relatives, therefore I sought an open channel wherever I might find it. I would thank the dear one who was so kind. Let me call him George, who opened the door, and said to me, "Susie, you are welcome, although a stranger when dwelling on earth." I have tried many times to give a message, that he might understand how much thankfulness I had in my soul. I have once before tried here to give a message, but it was not just correct, therefore I would like to say that the place is the north part of Plymouth, N. H., then the friends and loved ones will understand which Susie Union it is, for there were two by the same name.

I would also like to say that Gracie is here—two of the same name again—and Abbie, on the side, are with me, and as soon as possible will send a message to the dear ones here, for often your paper is turned quickly to the messages to see if some loved one has not been able to give a few lines. We see it, dear mortals, and often do we see you looking eagerly to see who may have spoken in the meetings. I thank the great Father that he ever prompted you to open a place where we might be able to reach the loved ones through your good paper. The dear BANNER! let it wave throughout the world, that they may know it is a truth that there is a life beyond, from whence we can come back. Come back, did I say? Oh! no; we are so near you all the while that it hardly seems as if we came back. We are here, that's where to place us every time; not away in the northeast corner of heaven, but here, so near you we can place our hands upon you.

Adelia De Vere Mathews.

I have tried before to-day to send through the good paper a message to the dear ones, although many miles come between you and dear father and mother.

I passed out in Canton, Ohio, but my home was in New Philadelphia. Father! mother! oh! mother, why do you mourn me so much?

My name, Mr. Chairman, is Adelia De Vere Mathews. I almost forgot to give my name. Mother will be pleased to know I have been able to speak a few words, for she eagerly grasps your paper and opens it quickly to see if Della's name is there. Della she usually called me, though Adelia was my name.

Mother, I know you have often said in your soul: "Oh! why do you not come, Della, and give me some little message?" How many times I have heard you speak aloud. As you understand a great deal of spirit-return, dear, dear mother, do not be heart-broken; do not be saddened. I know you will say: "How can I help it, when they snatched you away in one week's time?" Mother, be reasonable; be patient; for in God's own good time you will understand why the angel usher came for your "darling daughter," as you class me. You love the older ones, but my being the youngest, you doted on me I know, and when I went away to learn a little more music, you looked eagerly forward to the time when I should be able to give a great deal of it to you and to the world.

You ask me many questions that I cannot answer all at once. You say: "Della, are you happy?" Yes, I am, dear mother; but grandma says you are a little unreasonable, when you understand a great deal of spirit return, and, dear mother, as you have the power so strong in a mediumistic way. But as you can't use all the phases, be satisfied, and in God's own good time he will make known to you in what way the angel-world wishes to use you.

Materialization is true, mother dear. Doubt not your senses, although others may speak thus to you. God has given you reason; use it according to the dictation of the spirit. Try and find some one that you call an instrument, and I may speak to you privately, as I would much rather; but not being favored in that way, I have taken this opportunity to-day to give you what little I may.

I understand full well the trials and troubles that have overtaken father. But be patient, for the doctor in spirit-life says he would gladly give him some liniment, if you would only open a channel that he could speak to you.

Mother, we are happy in the spirit-world together, but not all the time, any more than you are in the mortal. You often think: "Della, would you like to come to earth and stay?" Oh! mother, you know not the consequences of the question you ask. The earthly music is sweet, but not to be compared with the music of heaven. The flowers are beautiful, but not to be compared with those in the spirit-land. Mother, be patient, for in a little time there will be a channel available, so that you will be able to talk to your "own darling daughter, Della," as you have wished to.

I thank you very much, Mr. Chairman, for allowing me to speak in this meeting, which certainly I never was in the habit of doing in the mortal life. My father is Major Mathews.

Benjamin Symeton.

Will you please, Mr. Chairman, to announce me as from Wiota, Iowa? I find they can come here from all sections of the country. My name is Benjamin Symeton. I, too, have tried many times to control, but have failed till to-day.

The question has been asked by the loved ones, the dear relatives, why such and such ones do not manifest through your good paper? There are various reasons which would not apply to all spirits, but I am only too glad of the opportunity to-day; therefore I will simply speak for myself. I would like to say: Ann, take the troubles of life a little lighter and you will last longer; do not make them look so dark. I know you will say: "Father, they are dark enough." Most assuredly they are, dear child, I know; for, being able to see and hear more perfectly than we could in the mortal, we understand full well the trials that you mortals are compelled to endure while in the earth-life, but not in the spirit-life.

Daniel, mother is beside me, but I rather take it upon me to talk for her to-day. She sends greetings to you all, and says: Don't trouble over John. Things may prove a little more satisfactory in the coming season than they have done. You have enough on your own shoulders, without taking others' burdens. We are so happy together in our spirit-home. We have companionship, but that does not satisfy. What we love to come into communication with is the loved ones here; it is the sociability of the spirit that attracts us to the dear ones of earth. I did n't understand of spirit-return while dwelling in the mortal, although I walked long on earth. Dear children, we did not have the privileges that you are granted to-day.

Oh! ye mortals, open the spirit-door for all that come to you for good, whether kindred or no. We are waiting the coming of the others, which will make the family reünion. Not long will it be before we shall all be reünited in heaven. I thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Nellie Montgomery.

My name is Nellie Montgomery. I passed out in Boston, but my home was in Derry, N. H. Joseph Montgomery is my father's name. He often thinks of me—his Nellie. I am a little afraid, father, you place me too far away. I know you mourn me, and have said in your soul: "Oh! why did you leave us, Nellie?" Mother is with me; yes, both mothers, for there were two, and we are happy together. Father, through all earth's trials that have overtaken you, mother tells me to say that you have not been alone; she has been with you so much, and even before I went away.

Now, father, I have heard a gentleman more times than one saying to you that he firmly believed Nellie lived and would be able to converse with you, if you would place yourself in the right condition. Do your part, dear father, for I promise you, before the angels, that I will do my part—for your Nellie is not dead! No, no, father, we are only a step from you; and mother tells me to say to you, father, that she has noted all the changes you have been making in the past twelve months, and she has been with you much of the time; also grandma and myself, all anxious to make our presence known.

Father, but a little while since I saw you reading a message from one of your old neighbors. You looked at it and you read it through; then you looked at it again and read it again. You spoke not a word aloud, but we saw your spirit, and deep down in your soul the thought came: "Is Nellie able to make herself known?" And to-day, father, through the kindness of the good guides, I have been permitted to send a few loving words to you. Father, Nellie does n't forget you. In heaven we shall all be together again. Sisters dear, we shall all be reunited, and it will be a blessed moment when we come together and join hands again, and it will be as real as it was in the mortal, and more so. Dear father, learn a little here, for you are going down the hill of earth-life, and in a few years will flit away so quickly and join the happy number—the group that is waiting for you—just across the shining river. It has been said and sung: "Shall we know each other there?" Yes, we shall.

SPIRIT MESSAGES

TO BE PUBLISHED NEXT WEEK.

April 13.—Loammi Baldwin; Emma M. Livermore; Job Simmons; John Farnsworth; William Messenger; Ralph Soverance; Arey Oliver; Hiram Chandler.

THE MESSAGES GIVEN (THROUGH MRS. B. F. SMITH) As per dates will appear in due course.

June 15.—Betsey Hatch; Carrie E. Marshall; William S. Weymouth; Calvin Gilmann; Annie Barker; Edward Sargent; Minnie Dawson; Emily Olney; Jerusha Kesey; Lewis D. Whitney; Alfred Twiss; Carrie Matthews; Sallie Griffith; John Wilson; John Hitchcock; Georgie Adams.

The Late Emperor's Banker.

A STORY ABOUT A FAMOUS FAMILY OF GERMAN CAPITALISTS.

On his accession to the throne the late Emperor Frederick of Germany appointed Baron Cohn, of Dessau, who was his father's banker, to fill the same office for himself. The Cohns of Dessau owe their prosperity to the faith and generosity of the grandfather of a New Yorker, who gave the present baron's father his first start in the world. In 1770 Rev. Moritz Speyers was at the head of a band of Lutherans in Dessau, and, by frugal living, had managed to save up considerable money, all of which was in silver coin. Rev. Moritz Speyers was unlike a great many modern preachers, in that he helped his flock as he helped himself. Living in Dessau at that time, in circumstances so humble that they were nearer poverty than comfort, was a young couple named Cohn. They had not been married long, and the young husband had lost all he had. Still he worked and worked, and finally he and his wife made enough to live comfortably. Young Cohn was naturally sharp and shrewd, and was always looking out for a chance to increase his few coins. The chance presented itself. All he needed was $2000 worth of German money, and he said his fortune would be made. He would be wealthy; but a poor man, unknown and comparatively friendless, had but little chance of raising $2000. He had one hope, his pastor, and straight way he called on the Rev. Moritz Speyers. Would he lend a poor man, without any security, $2000? He would, certainly, but Herr Cohn must come with his wife and take it away. The next day Cohn and his wife came with a handcart and took the silver. They were safe, because they lived in Dessau, and Dessau had no aldermen then. That was Cohn's opportunity, and he prospered. Ten years later he repaid the loan, with interest. Still he prospered, until he was appointed banker for a district, then for a duke, and then kings, and finally the great Emperor William gave into his keeping all the royal treasure. When he died, his son, the present baron, took his place.

Mr. Albert G. P. Speyers, a broker, of No. 15 Exchange Place, New York City, says The World, is a grandson of Rev. Moritz Speyers of Dessau, and when he went to Berlin a few years ago the papers announced his arrival. Shortly after Baron Cohn called on him, in full court dress, and thanked him for the great kindness his grandfather had shown to the baron's father.

Verifications of Spirit-Messages.

ENOS WHEELER.

In the May 5th issue of the BANNER OF LIGHT I saw a communication from ENOS WHEELER, late of Lowell, Mass. Yes, all stated there is true: he was a soldier, and passed on in '79, by reason of diseases incurred during the war at and near Suffolk, Va. How beautiful it is to know that he is free from pain, and himself again; that my darling Nellie is with him in spirit-life, and they are so far advanced as to come and tell me of themselves and their happy home, and that there is no death, but that immortality is innate "from the beginning"; that a happy reunion is near; that my life has been blameless; that they approve of my endeavors to prepare myself to heal the sick in body and in mind; that light is about my work, and some degree of happiness is promised me; and now that I am near the spot where he defended the flag, my soul is stirred, and old memories tell me that life is real, and the grave is the new birth; for no one but he could have told me of the touch with his two fingers only; no mind-reading, no legerdemain could have given that test to me. Respectfully,

MRS. ELIZA A. WHEELER.

Hygea Hotel, Fortress Monroe, Va., June 10th, 1888.

JOSEPH LANE—POLLY WITHAM.

In the BANNER OF LIGHT of April 14th, I find a communication from my husband, Joseph Lane, through Mrs. Smith, which is true in every particular. He passed to spirit-life twenty-eight years ago, in Poland, Me., as he says. Wentworth was a brother of his. Masena, Lester and Josie are our children on the other side, I having three on this side. Nelson, our oldest son, has never investigated Spiritualism.

Also in THE BANNER of June 9th, I find a message from my mother, giving her name as POLLY WITHAM of Garland, Me., which is correct. We fully recognize and appreciate all the points throughout each message, for which we give thanks. SARAH M. LANE.

CAROLINE BROWN.

We read with great satisfaction the message published in the BANNER OF LIGHT of June 16th from our sister CAROLINE BROWN, who in it mentions Lewis, and the words he sends to his friends, and hasten to inform yourself and readers that it is correct in every particular, and is fully recognized by the friends and acquaintances of both in this place as coming from them through Mrs. Smith, the medium.

MR. AND MRS. A. J. SKINNER.

South Exeter, Me., June 19th, 1888.

Late June Magazines.

THE BIZARRE. NOTES AND QUERIES.—The present month's issue includes that of July. In addition to an interesting variety of questions and answers it contains a very complete list of works that have been published upon Cyclometry and Quadratures, with brief mention of the solutions and theories advanced by each writer. Manchester, N. H.: S. C. & L. M. Gould. For sale by Colby & Rich, Boston.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES (April and June).—The planetary influences of April, May and June are given; a continuation of A. G. Trent's paper, "The Soul and the Stars," and other papers and items relating to astrology. Boston: Grant & Co.

Spiritualist Meetings.

ALBANY, N. Y.—First Spiritualist Society holds meetings each Sunday evening at Van Vechten Hall, 119 State street.—Ladies' Aid Society meets in its rooms adjoining the Hall each Friday afternoon and evening. D. M. S. Fero, President; J. D. Chism, Jr., Secretary.

CLEVELAND, O.—The Children's Progressive Lyceum No. 1 meets regularly every Sunday in G. A. R. Hall, 170 Superior street, commencing at 10½ A. M. Richard Carleton, Conductor; E. W. Gayford, Secretary.

CINCINNATI, O.—The Society of Union Spiritualists holds meetings in Grand Army Hall, 115 West 6th street, every Sunday at 10½ A.M. and 7½ P.M., also Wednesday evening of each week, to which all are made welcome.

CINCINNATI, O.—The First New Spiritual Church of Cincinnati, Ohio, meets every Sunday at 10½ A.M. at Murch's Hall, No. 278 West 6th street, Dr. James A. Bliss, Pastor. The public are cordially invited. Seats free. Sunday School meets at 12 o'clock noon every Sunday. Spiritualists, come, and bring your children with you.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Society of United Spiritualists meets at Nos. 116 and 118 Fifth Avenue, every Sunday at 2½ P.M. A hearty welcome is extended to all visitors, but more especially to the mediums. F. B. Geoghegan, President, 17 Wisconsin street.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Chicago Association of Universal Radical Progressive Spiritualists' and Mediums' Society, organized on the 9th of May, A. D. 1884, meets in Spirits' Liberty Hall, No. 517 West Madison street, every Sunday, permanently, at 2½ and 7½ P.M. The public are cordially invited to attend. Admission 5 cents to each meeting. Dr. Norman McLeod, President.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Avenue Hall, 159 22d street. Children's Lyceum, Sunday, at 1½ P.M. Spiritualists' and Mediums' Meeting, 3 P.M. Sociables every Tuesday.

NEWARK, N. J.—First Association of Spiritualists, 177 Halsey street, corner of Market, evenings at 7½ o'clock. H. G. Avery, President.

NEWARK, N. J.—Meetings will be held every Sunday evening at No. 139 Congress street, commencing at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Jennie A. Smith, Secretary.

NEW HAVEN, CT.—Meetings are held each Sunday evening at Courier and Journal Building. Mrs. Ella Bacon, President; Thos. F. Davie, Secretary.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The First Association of Spiritualists, lectures every Sunday morning and evening. Children's Lyceum, 2 P. M., at the hall, 810 Spring Garden street. Joseph Wood President, B. P. Benner, Vice President and Secretary, 940 Warnock street. Second Association meets Sunday afternoons at 3 o'clock, at its Church, Thompson street, east of Front. T. J. Ambrosia, President, 1223 North Third street. Keystone Association meets Sunday at 2:30 P. M., N. E. corner Ninth and Spring Garden street. Joseph Wood, Chairman. Fourth Association meets Sunday evening, Ninth and Callowhill streets.

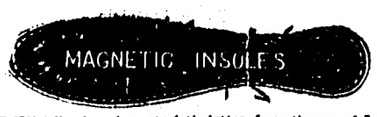
PATERSON, N. J.—Meetings are held every Sunday afternoon and evening in Fidelity Hall, corner Market and Church streets, at 2½ and 7½ P.M. Lecturers and test mediums are requested to communicate with John A. Roney, Cor. Sec'y, 65 Holsman street.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.—The First Society of Spiritualists holds meetings every Sunday in the Court of Appeals Room, Town Hall, at 10½ A.M. and 7½ P.M. All are invited. W. B. Mills, President; E. J. Huling, Secretary.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—The First Association of Spiritualists meets at 2½ P.M. every Sunday in Brandt's Hall, southwest corner of Franklin Avenue and Ninth street. Friends of the cause invited to attend, and correspondence solicited from America and Europe. H. W. Fay, President, No. 313 Market street; Milton Lyle, Cor. Sec., 3006 Olive street.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—The Lincoln Society of Spiritualists holds meetings Wednesday and Sunday evenings at its Hall on 5th street.

Advertisements.



THE following characteristic letter, from the pen of Lyman C. Howe, the veteran speaker and writer for the noble cause of Spiritualism, speaks for itself. Mr. Howe has worn our Shields for more than five years, and has had large experience with them among his friends. The readers of THE BANNER have implicit confidence in the integrity and good judgment of Mr. Howe. He always writes and speaks what he knows to be TRUE. Write him for further evidence about our Shields, and he will give his experience:

DR. THACHER:

Dear Sir—Your Magnetic Shields have some merit, but on the whole I am inclined to call them a fraud. They soothe and vitalize the nerves, put new life into the blood, warm cold feet, build up the debilitated and consumptive, create a row among the old sinners in the constitution, and keep stirring them until they enter upon a war of extermination, or commit suicide to escape; put neuralgia and rheumatism hors du combat, make a weak man vigorous and saucy, and cure family quarrels where they originate in bad blood or depraved nerves; but they don't mend cork legs nor glass eyes, nor cure warts on an evil temper. They should be a specific for total depravity, alcoholism, and especially for debilitated pocketbooks. Here is where they fail. If you can improve them so that you can guarantee a perfect cure for financial fits, consumptive bank accounts and religious hydrophobia, your fortune is made. Then, as your best advertising card, I would advise you to cover the Brooklyn Tabernacle and its pastor, and if you cure him you need waste no more printer's ink. Yours for health.

LYMAN C. HOWE,
Fredonia, N. Y.

CHICAGO MAGNETIC SHIELD COMPANY,
No. 6 Central Music Hall, Chicago, Ill.
Je9 4w*

CUTTER HOUSE,
WICKETT'S ISLAND.
Open for the Season, 1888.

ACCORDING to the oft-expressed wish of Dr. Abbie E. Cutter, late owner and proprietor, the House will be kept open to guests and carried on as outlined in her notice in this paper, and we hope the friends and patrons of past years, and all who are interested to give the best conditions to those who have passed on to a higher life, will join us in our efforts to give our dear departed one the opportunity to demonstrate what was her highest and dearest object in life.

We have the strongest faith in her ability to return and continue the work she had so earnestly commenced for the benefit of humanity and the world, both for time and eternity.

We take this opportunity to thank the many, many friends who have written us such kind letters of condolence in our GREAT bereavement. Address

Je16 tf W. O. CUTTER, Onset, Mass.

Dr. F. L. H. Willis
May be Addressed until further notice,
Clenora, Yates Co., N. Y.

DR. WILLIS may be addressed as above. From this point he can attend to the diagnosing of disease psychometrically. He claims that his powers in this line are unrivaled, combining, as he does, accurate scientific knowledge with keen and searching psychometric power.

Dr. Willis claims especial skill in treating all diseases of the blood and nervous system. Cancers, Scrofula in all its forms, Epilepsy, Paralysis, and all the most delicate and complicated diseases of both sexes.

Dr. Willis is permitted to refer to numerous parties who have been cured by his system of practice when all others had failed. All letters must contain a return postage stamp.

Send for Circulars, with References and Terms.

Ap7 13w*

DR. J. R. NEWTON

STILL heals the sick! Spirit, Mind and Magnetic Cures at a distance through MRS. NEWTON. Send for testimonials to MRS. J. R. NEWTON, P. O. Station G., N. Y. City. 13w* Ap7

SOUL READING,
Or Psychometrical Delineation of Character.

MRS. A. B. SEVERANCE would respectfully announce to the public that those who wish, and will visit her in person, or send their autograph or lock of hair, she will give an accurate description of their leading traits of character and peculiarities of disposition; marked changes in past and future life; physical disease, with prescription therefor; what business they are best adapted to pursue in order to be successful; the physical and mental adaptation of those intending marriage; and hints to the inharmoniously married. Full delineation, $2.00, and four 2-cent stamps. Brief delineation, $1.00, and four 2-cent stamps.

Address, MRS. A. B. SEVERANCE,
Centre street, between Church and Prairie streets,
Ap7 6m* White Water, Walworth Co., Wis.

WASHBURN HOUSE,
Longwood Avenue, Onset Grove,

Between Second and Third streets, near terminus of Onset Railroad.

A QUIET and comfortable House. Board, with room, per week, $7 to $10. Including lodging, per day, $1.25. Meals per week, $5 to $7; single meals, 50 cents.

Je23 2w*

Psychometric, Clairvoyant,
AND
Clairaudient Medium,

WILL diagnose and cure all diseases at any distance without the use of medicine. Diagnosis, $1.00; thirty entranced exercises, $10.00. Address GEORGE BANCROFT EMERSON, care N. MacLeod, 552 West Madison street, Chicago, Ill. 1w* Ap14

ASTONISHING OFFER.

SEND three 2-cent stamps, lock of hair, age, sex, one leading symptom, and your disease will be diagnosed free by spirit power. DR. A. B. DOBSON, Maquoketa, Iowa. Ap14 13w*

ONSET BAY.

TO LET—A furnished Cottage of seven rooms, located at No. 12 South Boulevard. Apply to C. F. HOWARD, Foxboro', Mass. 2w* Je23

BY DIRECTION of her guides, MRS. JENNIE CROSSE will remove to the country for a while, where she will continue to give Life-Readings for $1.00 and stamp, and answer six questions for 50 cents and stamp. Disease a specialty. Address West Garland, Me.

Je30 2w*

ONSET BAY. Old Colony trains now stop at the Onset station, and the street railway is making regular trips. Buy excursion tickets for Onset. tf My26

Dr. Hardcastle's
TOOTH-LIFE.
A Delightful Tooth-Powder.

This Powder thoroughly cleanses the teeth, hardens the gums, purifies the breath, prevents decay, etc.

Of the four pages printed matter accompanying each box of "Tooth-Life," old Dr. Blankman, after reading it, made this remark: "It is the best thing I ever read on the subject, and it is all true, too."

The proprietor says: "As a Spiritualist from my youth, I say in all conscience, no person can fail to find in the box of "Tooth-Life" and four pages of information accompanying it, that which I positively declare to be, on authority of an experience as an American dentist and student dating from 1860, of infinitely more benefit than twenty-five cents' worth of anything else on earth. The tooth-preservative measures taught alone are worth more to parents and guardians than a thousand times the amount of the investment."

Put up in a neat box. Sent postpaid on receipt of 25 cents. For sale by COLBY & RICH.

DR. RHODES' FAMILY MEDICINES.
Purely Vegetable
(ALL SUGAR-COATED)
Medical Confections.
A Universal Blessing.
SUITED TO OLD OR YOUNG!

A PERFECT Liver and Kidney Renovator and Blood Purifier. Cleanses the entire system from all Biliousness and Blood Poisons from Malaria, etc. And cures Headache, Backache, Side and Stomachache, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Pains in the Limbs, Lameness, Numbness, Constipation, Piles, Worms, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Nervousness, Weakness, Kidney and Bladder, and all other urinary ailments, etc. Also, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and in fact almost all the various ailments of humanity.

PRICES: Trial box, 25 cents—by mail, 30 cents; second size, 50 cents—by mail, 55 cents; 12 boxes second size, $5.00; large boxes, $1.00; 6 large boxes, $5.00.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

STELLAR SCIENCE.

I WILL give a test of it to any person who will send me the place and date of their birth (giving sex) and 25 cents, money or stamps.

I will write Biographical and Predictive Letters (from the above data). Also advice upon any matter, in answer to questions, in accordance with my understanding of the science, for a fee of $1; Consultation fee $1; at office, 206 Tremont street.

Nativities written at prices proportionate to the detail demanded. Address OLIVER AMES GOULD, Box 1664, Boston, Mass. July 19.

NEW SHEET MUSIC.

When I Go.

QUARTET.

Words and music by Mrs. Sarah A. Van Blarcom.
Price 25 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

DIAGNOSIS FREE.

SEND two 2-ct. stamps, lock of hair, name in full, age and sex, and I will give you a CLAIRVOYANT DIAGNOSIS OF YOUR AILMENTS. Address J. C. BATDORF, M.D., Principal, Magnetic Institute, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Je2 1m*

Mediums in Boston.

JAMES R. COCKE,
Developing and Business Medium,
ALSO
Clairvoyant Physician,
474 Shawmut Avenue, Boston,
(Corner of Concord street.)
Sittings daily from 9 A.M. till 5 P.M. Price, $1.00.

Unequalled Advantages.

DR. COCKE gives special inducements for Medical and Magnetic Treatment by the month.

Development of Mediumship a Specialty.
SIX PRIVATE SITTINGS FOR $4.00 IN ADVANCE.

CIRCLES.

Sunday, at 11 A.M., for Development and Tests. At 8 P.M., for Psychometry, Tests and Inspirational Music. Thursday evening, at 7:30, for Development. tf Je9

J. W. FLETCHER,
MEDICAL AND BUSINESS MEDIUM,
6 Beacon Street,
BOSTON, MASS.

Written Communications on MEDIUMSHIP, HEALTH, BUSINESS, etc., from Lock of Hair. My5 tf

REMOVAL.

DR. J. R. COCKE,
Developing and Business Medium, and Clairvoyant Physician,

HAS removed to 474 Shawmut Avenue, corner of Concord street, Boston, and will remain in the city during the summer. 2w* Je23

C. E. WATKINS,
The Medium.

MESSAGES by Independent Writing; Diagnosing by Independent Writing. 109 Falmouth street, off West Chester Park, first street west of Huntington Avenue. Take Back Bay or Huntington Avenue car. tf Ap7

Something New and Pleasing.

WRITE a letter to your spirit friends and have it answered by independent writing. Questions upon Health and Business answered in same manner. Price $1.00. Address ANNIE LORD CHAMBERLAIN, Box 56, Mattapan Dist., Boston, Mass. 1m My19

EMMA J. NICKERSON,
BUSINESS, AND MAGNETIC TREATMENT,

566 COLUMBUS AVENUE, BOSTON. Send $1.00, name and lock of hair, for Diagnosis of Disease, and kind of Mediumship. Treatment by mail. Office hours 2 to 6 P.M. 13w* Je9

MRS. H. W. CUSHMAN,

MUSICAL Test, Business and Writing Medium. Circles Monday, 7:30 P.M.; Thursday, 2:30 P.M. Six questions answered by mail for $1.00 and stamp. Examination by lock of hair, $1.00. 212 Main street, Charlestown. Mb3 tf

MRS. F. K. RICH,

TRANCE and Business Medium. Parlors No. 3 Evans House, 175 Tremont street, Boston. Office hours 9 A.M. to 6 P.M. Will also go out to hold private circles. Letters answered by photograph or lock of hair. Terms $2.00. Circles every Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. 1w* Je30

DR. B. F. BROWN,

OF Philadelphia, the Great Healer of Diseases, is located at Hotel Glover, 345 Shawmut Avenue, Boston, Mass. Patients treated by mail. Dr. Bonney's Anti-Obsession Pads $1.00. 4w* Je16

MISS HELEN A. SLOAN,

MAGNETIC Physician. Vapor and Medicated Baths. Celebrated "Acid Cure." Office hours from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M. 171 Tremont street, corner Mason st., Boston. Ap7 tf

MRS. A. FORRESTER

WILL give Trance Sittings daily, also Magnetic Treatment from 1 to 5 P.M. 20 Chapman street, corner Shawmut Avenue, Boston. 1w* Je23

MRS. ALDEN,

TRANCE MEDIUM. Medical Examinations and Magnetic treatment. 43 Winter street, Boston. Je2 5w*

Mrs. A. E. Cunningham,

MEDICAL, Business and Test Medium, 659 Tremont street, Suite 1, Boston. Private Sittings daily. Will answer calls for Platform Tests. 4w* Je16

Massage and Magnetism.

MRS. DR. E. M. FAXON, 22 Winter street, Room 7A, Boston. Obesity treated. Also instruction given. Je23 10w*

MISS L. E. SMITH,

MEDIUM for spirit communications, tests and business. Circles Tuesday, 8 P.M. 14 Union Park st., Boston. Je30 1w*

A. S. HAYWARD, Magnetic Physician. Letter address for personal treatment or his powerful Spirit Magnetized Paper, during the summer months, 9 Bosworth street, Boston. Two packages by mail, $1.00. Je2 5w*

MRS. K. E. FISHER, Magnetic and Electric Physician, 147 Tremont street, Boston, Rooms 8 and 9. Magnetic and Massage Treatment, Electric and Medicated Vapor Baths; also the celebrated Colorado Sulphur Baths. Je30 1w*

W. S. ELDRIDGE,

Clairvoyant and Magnetic Physician, 45 Dover st., Boston. Je16 4w*

MRS. FANNIE A. DODD,

MAGNETIC PHYSICIAN and Test Medium, 48 Winter street, Room 11. tf Je2

MRS. DR. JULIA CRAFTS SMITH gives medical examinations free every Thursday from 9 to 5. Office, Hotel "Cabe," 8 Appleton street, Boston. My19 eow10t*

MRS. J. M. CARPENTER, 181 Warren Avenue, Boston. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. Examination by letter when patient is not present. Je26 4w*

JOSEPH L. NEWMAN, Magnetic Healer, No. 8½ Bosworth street (formerly Montgomery Place), Room 4, Boston, Mass. Office hours, from 1 to 4 P.M. Ja7 26w*

ADVICE relative to Health, Business, etc. Write JAMES DODD, Box 2214, Boston, Mass. Je23

DR. A. H. RICHARDSON, Magnetic Healer, Waverly House, Charlestown. S10

J. A. SHELHAMER,
MAGNETIC HEALER,
Office 8½ Bosworth Street (Room 5), Boston, Mass.,

WILL treat patients at his office or at their homes, as desired. Dr. S. prescribes for and treats all kinds of diseases. Specialties: Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lung, Liver and Kidney complaints, and all Nervous Disorders. Consultation, prescription and advice, $2.00. Moderate rates for Medicines, when furnished. Magnetized Paper $1.00 per package. Healing by rubbing and laying on of hands. Parties wishing consultation by letter must be particular to state age, sex, and leading symptoms. Liver, Anti-Dyspeptic, Liver and Kidney or Strengthening and Soothing Pills, 25 cents per box, or five boxes for $1.00.

Office hours from 10 A.M. to 3 P.M.—except on Tuesdays and Fridays, when he attends out-of-town patients. Letter address care of BANNER OF LIGHT. 13w* Ap7

Seven Dozen Gems.
COMPILED BY J. P. THORNDYKE.

All who appreciate spiritual, progressive, liberal, humanitarian and sympathetic sentiments, poetically yet strongly expressed, will find much to their taste in this neat volume, the contents of which are from the writings of Longfellow, Lowell, the Cary Sisters, William Denton, Richard Realf, Will Carlton, Florence Percy, Lizzie Doten, Ella Wheeler and others. Two mediumistic poems are included in the collection, one by Mrs. K. R. Stiles and one by Carrie E. S. Twing. The book is printed on extra fine paper, and should grace the homes of all as a means of refreshing and cheering to continued activity in the battle of life those who become weary with its toil and turmoil.

200 pages, neatly bound in cloth. Price $1.00; postage 10 cents.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

CHRISTIANITY; Its Origin, Nature and Tendency, considered in the light of astro-theology. By REV. D. W. HULL.

Paper, 25 cents, postage 2 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

Miscellaneous.

Sealed Letters Answered

BY MRS. ELIZA A. MARTIN, Oxford, Mass. Terms $1.00 and two 2-ct. stamps. 4w* Je16

SEALED LETTERS.

ELEANOR MARTIN now makes specialty of business, $5.00. Full Spiritual Message, $2.00. 73 Lane Avenue, Columbus, Ohio. 8w* My26

MRS. R. T. CLANEY,

BUSINESS AND TEST MEDIUM, No. 411 Lookout street, Chattanooga, Tenn. 6m* D24

FOR SALE OR TO LET,

COTTAGE of six rooms, at Lake Pleasant. Also tent and wooden kitchen attached, on Second Avenue. Address MRS. M. V. LINCOLN, 8 Cliff st., Roxbury, Mass. Je30 2w*

FOR SALE OR TO LET,

LARGE House on Broadway, opposite the Park, Lake Pleasant. Apply to MRS. SARAH E. STONE, Everett, Mass. 2w* Je30

The Writing Planchette.

SCIENCE is unable to explain the mysterious performances of this wonderful little instrument, which writes intelligent answers to questions asked either aloud or mentally. Those unacquainted with it would be astonished at some of the results that have been attained through its agency, and no domestic circle should be without one. All investigators who desire practice in writing mediumship should avail themselves of these "Planchettes," which may be consulted on all questions, as also for communications from deceased relatives or friends.

DIRECTIONS.—Place Planchette on a piece of paper (printing or writing will answer), then place the hand lightly on the board; in a few minutes it begins to move, and is ready to answer mental or spoken questions. Though it cannot be guaranteed that every individual who follows these directions will succeed in obtaining the desired result, or cause the instrument to move, independent of any muscular effort of his or her own, yet it has been proved beyond question that where a party of three or more come together, it is almost impossible that one cannot operate it. If one be not successful, let two try it together. If nothing happens the first day, try it the next, and even if half an hour a day for several days are given to it, the results will amply remunerate you for the time and patience bestowed upon it.

The Planchette is furnished complete with box, pencil and directions, by which any one can easily understand how to use it.

PLANCHETTE, with Pentagraph Wheels, 60 cents, securely packed in a box, and sent by mail, postage free.

NOTICE TO RESIDENTS OF CANADA AND THE PROVINCES.—Under existing postal arrangements between the United States and Canada, PLANCHETTES cannot be sent through the mails, but must be forwarded by express only, at the purchaser's expense.

For sale by COLBY & RICH. tf

The Boston Investigator,

THE oldest reform journal in publication.
Price, $3.00 a year,
$1.50 for six months,
8 cents per single copy.

Now is your time to subscribe for a live paper, which discusses all subjects connected with the happiness of mankind.

Address J. P. MENDUM,
Investigator Office,
Paine Memorial,
April 2. Boston, Mass.

Received from England.

RAPHAEL'S ALMANAC:
OR, THE PROPHETIC MESSENGER
AND
Weather Guide,
FOR 1888:

Comprising a Variety of Useful Matter and Tables,
Predictions of the Events, and the Weather,
That will Occur in Each Month During the Year.
War and Sickness! Strikes and Riot! Heat and Plenty!
A Large Hieroglyphic.
BY RAPHAEL,
The Astrologer of the Nineteenth Century.

Together with RAPHAEL'S ASTROLOGICAL EPHEMERIS of the PLANETS for 1888, with Tables of Houses for London, Liverpool and New York.

CONTENTS.

Sixty-Eighth Annual Address.
Monthly Calendar and Weather Guide.
The Voice of the Heavens.
Raphael's Every-day Guide.
The Farmer's Breeding-Table.
Astro-Meteorologic Table.
Table of the Moon's Signs in 1888.
Symbols, Planets, Moons, Signs, etc.
Useful Tables, Weights and Measures.
Royal Tables, etc.
Covent Garden Measures; Fish Table.
Ready Reckoner and Wagers Table.
Farmers' and Gardeners' Tables.
Building and Income Tables.
Manure and Weather Tables.
A Calendar for 200 years.
Tide Table for the Principal Ports.
Stamps, Taxes, and Licenses.
Postal Information.
Pawnbrokers' Regulations, Marriages, Annuities, etc.
Eclipses during 1888.
Best Periods during 1888 for observing the Planets.
General Predictions.
Periods in 1888 for gathering Medicinal Herbs.
A Short Medical Directory for Different Diseases.
Birthday Information; also the fate of any Child born during 1888.
Useful Notes.
The Crowned Heads of Europe.
Explanation of the Hieroglyphic for 1887.
Fulfilled Predictions in 1887.
Hints to Farmers.
Hints to Gardeners.
Horticultural, Botanical, and Herbal Guide
Useful Hints, Legal and Commercial.
The Farmer, Receipts, etc.
Useful Receipts.
Positions of the Planets in the Nativities of the Rulers in Europe.

Price 35 cents, postage free.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

PRICE REDUCED.

"SHADOWS":

Being a Familiar Presentation of Thoughts and Experiences in Spiritual Matters, with Illustrative Narrations.

BY JOHN WETHERBEE.

The features of this book are simplicity of statement-freedom from dogmatism—and manifest truthfulness, by one who claims to have common sense, and presents his ideas and experiences to like-minded people.

It is a book that will be appreciated and valued by Spiritualists, and one also that skeptical and indifferent people will read with interest, and credit the author certainly with being intelligent and honest.

The several chapters are distinct articles in themselves, without reference to consecutive order, but in their wholeness will show why the author is a Spiritualist and why every one else must be who believes in the truthfulness of his statements.

In one volume of 288 pages, handsomely bound in cloth, beveled boards, with portrait of author.

Cloth, $1.00, postage free; paper, 75 cents, postage free.

For sale by COLBY & RICH.

SENT FREE.

RULES

TO BE OBSERVED WHEN FORMING

SPIRITUAL CIRCLES

BY EMMA HARDINGE BRITTEN.

Comprehensive and clear directions for forming and conducting circles of investigation are here presented by an able, experienced and reliable author.

This little book also contains a Catalogue of Books published and for sale by COLBY & RICH.

Sent free on application to COLBY & RICH. tf

NEW GOSPEL OF HEALTH,

CONTAINING seven sections on Vital Magnetism and Illustrated manipulations, by DR. STONE. For sale at this office. Price $1.25 cloth-bound copies, $2.50.

ELEMENTS OF UNIVERSAL HISTORY

FOR

Higher Institutes in Republics, and for Self-Instruction.

BY PROF. H. M COTTINGER, A.M.

Cloth. Price $2.00.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

THE LIGHT OF PROPHECY; or, The Religion of the Future. By EDWIN A. HOLBROOK.

This is a book peculiarly adapted to the present period of religious progress; calculated to attract, for its literary merit, being written in an easy, flowing style of poetic verse, presenting the meaning of the author as unmistakably as the plainest prose. One hundred and twenty-six pages are devoted to an epic poem on the grand theme of human life and destiny, the remainder to miscellaneous poems of both a pleasing and consoling nature.

Cloth, 12mo, pp. 156. Price 60 cents; postage free.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

MEDIUMSHIP. A Chapter of Experiences. By MRS. MARIA M. KING, author of the "Principles of Nature," "Real Life in the Spirit-Land," etc.

Paper, 10 cents.
For sale by COLBY & RICH.

New York Advertisements.

DUMONT C. DAKE, M.D.,

304 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY, successfully treats all forms of Chronic Disease, however complicated. Patients afflicted for years, regarded as hopeless, or incurable, testify to permanent restoration. For twenty years his power to diagnose and treat Disease has been and still stands unequaled, so say eminent Scientists, Physicians, Clergymen, and patients from all parts of the country. Voluminous testimony can be seen at his office. Those unable to visit the Doctor in person can be successfully treated at their homes. Send stamp for Circular. Diagnosis, with advice, $2.00.

Extract from a letter by Rev. F. R. M., D.D., Brooklyn, N.Y.: . . . "I am happy to testify to Dr. Dake's high moral character as a man, and his eminent ability as a physician who has achieved a most extraordinary career."

Ap7 tf

BEST TRUSS EVER USED.

Improved Elastic Truss. Worn night and day. Positively cures ruptures. Sent by mail everywhere. Write for full descriptive circulars to the

DR. HOUSE N. Y. ELASTIC TRUSS CO.,
744 Broadway, N.Y.
My26 13w*

Mrs. Stoddard-Gray and Son, DeWitt C. Hough,

HOLD Materializing Séances every Sunday, Wednesday and Friday evening, 8 o'clock. Tuesday and Saturday, 2 o'clock, at 323 West 34th street, New York. Daily sittings for Communications and Business. Will be at Lake Pleasant during August. 4w* Je16

SEND LOCK OF HAIR and $1.00—have your disease fully diagnosed by the best Healing Medium in the United States. Also six questions answered for 50 cents and stamp. Address MRS. INEZ SILLOWAY, 86 McDougal street, New York City. 4w* Je9

MARY C. MORRELL, Business, Prophetic and Developing Medium, 230 West 36th street, New York City. 10w* Je16

MRS. C. SCOTT, Trance and Business Medium. Sittings daily, 10 to 5. No. 21 West 13th street, New York. 8w* Je16

RUPTURES

CURED in thirty days by my MEDICAL COMPOUND and improved ELASTIC SUPPORTER TRUSS. Send Stamp for Circular. Address CAPT. W. A. COLLINGS, Smithville, Jefferson Co., N.Y. [Mention this paper. Ap21 13w*

A LIBERAL OFFER,

BY A RELIABLE CLAIRVOYANT AND MAGNETIC HEALER.

SEND 4 2-ct. stamps, lock of hair, name, age and sex, we will diagnose your case FREE by independent spirit-writing. Address DR. J. S. LOUCKS, Canton, N.Y. My12 13w*

Clairvoyant Examinations Free.

ENCLOSE lock of hair, with leading symptoms. We will give you a correct diagnosis of your case. Address E. F. BUTTERFIELD, M. D., corner Warren and Fayette streets, Syracuse, New York. 26w* Ja28

SECOND EDITION.

A REVIEW
OF THE
Seybert Commissioners' Report
OR,
WHAT I SAW AT CASSADAGA LAKE.
BY
A. B. RICHMOND, Esq.,

A MEMBER OF THE PENNSYLVANIA BAR; AUTHOR OF "LEAVES FROM THE DIARY OF AN OLD LAWYER," "COURT AND PRISON," "DR. CROSBY'S CALM VIEW FROM A LAWYER'S STANDPOINT," "A HAWK IN AN EAGLE'S NEST," ETC.

This able and comprehensive work should be read by every thoughtful man and woman who has heard of the Seybert Bequest. Hon. A. B. Richmond, the author, whose eminence as a criminal lawyer, and high reputation as an author, will at once ensure the confidence and attention of the reader, has in this volume replied to the "Preliminary Report of the Seybert Commission" with a soundness of logic, a keenness of satire, a breadth of thought and clearness of perception such as the importance of the subject demanded. He deals his blows at the unfairness, injustice, prejudice, unkindness and irreverence of the Seybert Commissioners with an unsparing hand, and, like Thor, he never strikes a blow in vain. Well aimed and well struck, each blow tells, and must carry conviction to every thoughtful mind.

Mr. Richmond, although not a believer in the Spiritual Philosophy, has here made a fearless and vigorous defense of the reality of the PHENOMENA of Spiritualism. Having received last August, from the hands of a friend just returned from Cassadaga Lake, a communication addressed to him from one dear to him in spirit-life, he was induced to visit the Lake, but went with a firm belief that he should be able to solve the mystery and expose the fraud. His experiences there convinced him of the genuineness of at least a portion of the phenomenal part of Spiritualism, and he accordingly wrote his Open Letter to the Seybert Commission, a document which aroused the interest and admiration of the scientific minds. Once convinced that the so-called spirit manifestations do occur in many instances where fraud is out of the question, he gallantly and fearlessly comes to the front and wields his weapons with strong, unerring aim in defense of truth and human progress.

After a happy and appropriate introduction of the subject, with all needful explanations concerning the bequest of Mr. Seybert, the author gives in the first Chapter his "Open Letter to the Seybert Commission"; chapters II., III. and IV. are devoted to a searching criticism of the Report of the Seybert Commission; Chapter V. treats ably of the Bible on Spiritualism; Chapter VI. has for its motto "In my Father's House are Many Mansions"; Chapter VII. contains C. C. Massey's Open Letter on "Zöllner" to Professor George S. Fullerton; Chapter VIII. gives an incident which took place in 1854 at a meeting of the "American Association for the Advancement of Science," with remarks made on that occasion by Professor Robert Hare, etc., etc.; Chapter IX. consists of the "Report of the London Dialectical Society," made in 1869; Chapter X. gives Professor Crookes's testimony from his "Researches in the Phenomena of Spiritualism"; Chapter XI. gives further testimony from two witnesses; Chapter XII., "Summary," and the Prescriptum, close the volume.

"A Review of the Seybert Commissioners' Report" is a strong book, and will be read; it will throw light on some disputed questions, while it cannot fail to bring out in bold relief the puerileness as well as the unfairness of the claims of the Seybert Commission.

Banner of Light.

BOSTON, SATURDAY, JUNE 30, 1888.

The Spiritualist Camp-Meetings.

Lake Pleasant.

[Mr. J. MILTON YOUNG is our authorized agent at Lake Pleasant, and will be pleased to receive subscriptions for the BANNER OF LIGHT. Mr. Young also has a full line of our publications for sale at his bookstore. He will conduct the correspondence for THE BANNER from this Camp-Meeting.]

An impromptu service was held at Headquarters on Sunday morning, 17th inst., at which nearly one hundred persons were present. The exercises opened with introductory remarks by Mr. P. H. Babbitt, of Barre, followed with singing by the audience. Mrs. Clara Banks, of Haydenville, was then introduced. She offered an invocation, and then addressed the audience for an hour, upon the attitude of the people to-day upon religious matters, and the outlook for the future. The speaker gave several interesting reminiscences of her experience, which she termed "pictures that were carved upon the walls of her life." She considered the present the golden age, and the best time to live that ever was. It is an indication of progress that people are taking down the fences about their houses, and locating their rooms so that the sunlight may enter. If we let Satan alone, he will go out and the angels will come in; they cannot live together. We should make the most of this life, and not forget duty here in our dreaming of the "sweet by-and-bye." The address was logical and well received. A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Banks for her kindness in giving the lecture. She will return to camp at an early day, and it is quite likely that we may hear from her again.

There will be speaking on Sundays for the most of the time until September.

NOTES.

The cottage of Mr. A. T. Pierce, of Barrowsville, is being painted.

Dr. W. A. Towne, of Springfield, has arrived.

The annual circular is out, and being forwarded to all parts of the world.

Mrs. John W. Wheeler and family, of Orange, have been in camp during the week.

Mr. C. E. Watkins, the slate writing medium, will be at his cottage on Lyman street in the near future.

The "Fourth" is to be most appropriately celebrated here. Gen. John L. Swift, of Boston, will speak upon the "Tariff." Mrs. Livermore will speak upon "Woman Suffrage," and there will be solo singing by Miss M. Lilian Cushing, of Boston. The Worcester Cadet Band will be present. The affair is under the auspices of the Lake Pleasant Association.

There is quite a demand for cottages and rooms.

The hotel will be open June 20th.

Mrs. Deveraux, of Boston, and daughter Alice, are tenting on Montague street.

H. A. Skinner, of Greenfield, is here for the season Mr. Skinner is an active man in camp.

No. 2 of the Wildwood Messenger is about being issued. The edition will be a large one.

Miss Jennie Rhind, the gifted lady from "Bonnie Scotland," has come for the season. The Star of Bethlehem will soon be out.

A gothic organ of the celebrated Estey make is one of the adornments at Headquarters.

The secular papers are giving good notices of Lake Pleasant.

The fare from Lowell to this place and return is but $2.75. Tickets on sale July 1st. Make a note of this, and pack your trunk.

The new steamer, "Baby Belle," is the admiration of all. She makes good time.

Mr. Mowrey, of Greenwich, N. Y., has the Ice Cream Rooms, at the pavilion.

Letters are received nearly every day from parties who have never visited Lake Pleasant, saying they are coming this year.

The "Saratoga Special," which is to be put on July 16th, will stop at Lake Pleasant. This is an indication. J. M. Y.

Lake Pleasant, Mass., June 23d, 1888.

Onset Bay.

There is probably no resort in this State which has been kept more prominently before the public the past, as well as previous winters, than Onset Bay, the great Spiritualistic camp-ground of the country, located in Wareham.

The preparations for the great tide of summer travel so confidently expected are being rapidly pushed here. Boats are being overhauled, cottages painted and renovated, and the hotels approaching readiness for promised guests.

The postoffice is now under the official charge of C. H. Stuart of East Wareham. It is expected that the office will be made a money order office by July 1st, as papers pending such a step are now in the hands of the proper officials at Washington.

There are a few changes in hotel management. Mr. J. B. Clark has placed the Hotel Onset in the hands of Messrs. Murray and Ainslie of Boston. Electric bells and other conveniences have just been added to this first-class establishment. Mrs. H. S. Dimmick has charge of the Hotel Brockton since her husband's demise. Charles R. Pines of Brockton will manage the Central House. Messrs. Yeaton and Aldoes will conduct the Hotel Burgess. Mrs. M. F. Whitney, formerly of the Aquarian Cottage, is to have charge of the Highland House. The Glen Cove and Washburn houses will remain under the same management as last year. G. C. Kelley of Brockton will this year look after the old establishment of Macomber and Simpson, and has re-christened the place the Belmont Café.

The local yacht owners are doing a thriving business carrying out parties blue fishing, and A. M. Phillips has opened his "float" for the letting of row boats.

David Brown, the well known Boston medium, is at his cottage on Fourth street.

Mrs. C. E. Bliss, of Boston, medium, is at her cottage on West Central Avenue.

Miss L. C. Cadwell, of New York, materializing medium, is pleasantly located on West Central Avenue.

Mr. Rogers, the Boston medium, is also on West Central Avenue.

A. B. Brown, of Philadelphia, is at the cottage of one of the Berry Sisters, Pleasant avenue.

Alfred Nash and family, of Boston, are on the South Boulevard.

Mrs. C. P. Pratt is at her cottage on Pleasant avenue.

Mrs. E. S. Loring, of Fitchburg, is at the Bay View cottage on the South Boulevard for the heated months. This cottage was the first erected at Onset.

George W. Vaughn, the well known Malden expressman, has located at the Bell Rock cottage, Onset avenue.

Mrs. Dr. S. E. Hervey, of New York, has settled down in her Ninth street cottage for the season.

J. H. Young and family, of Matfield, Mass., are pleasantly located at the Huckins cottage, Onset avenue.

George Hosmer, of the firm of Hosmer & Codding, Boston, is at the Bayside cottage on the Boulevard.

George B. Arnold and family, of New York, are summering at their cottage on the Bluffs.

Mrs. M. D. Coffran, of Boston, is at the Trowbridge cottage on the South Boulevard.

The preparations for a large celebration July 4th are being pushed as fast as possible. Bands, fireworks, races of every nature, and other like features are promised.

Prof. Crane spent a few days at Onset last week. He is engaged as organist for the regular season.

Mrs. Haines is at her cottage for this season. Will not lease the cottage, but will rent rooms.

Mrs. Washburn of Boston was at her cottage for a few days last week.

Parkland, Pa.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

The Tenth Annual Camp-Meeting of the First Association of Spiritualists of Philadelphia, will open at Parkland, about twenty miles out on the line of the Bound Brook Branch of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, on Saturday, June 30th, and close on Wednesday, Sept. 5th, 1888.

The following is the official list of speakers: Sunday, July 1st, J. Clegg Wright; Thursday, 5th, Saturday, 7th, Sunday, 8th, Miss Jennie B. Hagan; Saturday, 14th, Sunday, 15th, Dr. H. P. Fairfield; Sunday, 22d, J. Frank Baxter; Sunday, 29th, J. William Fletcher; Sunday, Aug. 5th, Mrs. C. Fannie Allyn; Sunday, 19th, Mrs. E. V. Paul; Sunday, 26th, Mrs. H. S. Lake. Speakers for week-days not indicated, will be announced on the previous Sundays and in the newspaper notices.

The attractions at Parkland have been so multiplied since the last year's announcement that it is hard to enumerate them. New and beautiful roads and walks through the meadows and groves; many new and commodious boats have been added to the fleet on the broad Neshaminy; abundance of tables and benches in shaded nooks for family picnics, are among the attractions; lovers of dancing are well provided for, and the pleasures of the little ones are not lost sight of in the preparations.

An efficient police force will tend to render all comfortable and happy.

The dining-room, under the charge of Mrs. Hopf, is a model of its kind, and the extremely reasonable rates are a matter of surprise.

Furnished or unfurnished rooms for lodging or tents may be secured on application to the Superintendent.

The freight of tenters, after June 25th, if marked "Care of H. A. Thompson, Superintendent, Parkland, Pa.," and delivered at depôt, Front and Noble streets, before 10 A. M., will go same day, free of charge.

Letters to tenters should be addressed: "Spiritualists' Camp-Meeting, Eden, Bucks County, Pa."

For further information apply to Robert A. Thompson, Superintendent, Eden, Pa. ***

"R. E. Porter" writes: "The camp season of '88 was preluded here in Parkland by an enterprising management (all Spiritualists) with a series of June meetings, where Charles Dawbarn lectured on subjects of vital importance to the human race. Mr. D. presents the truth in a most pleasing manner, with chaste but vigorous language; his discourses are full of new thoughts, entertaining and instructive. Among his subjects were 'Unborn Man,' 'The Manufacture of Success,' 'Birth of a New Religion.'

The grove meetings in Parkland have been well attended—Mr. W. Ewers and other celebrated cornet-soloists, with Prof. Thaler at the piano and organ, with Messrs. Fray and Smith vocalists. The coming weeks the managers intend presenting to the campers and visitors great attractions in the shape of a musical treat, also in intellectual lectures, free spiritual circles, etc. Mrs. Brown has officiated in conjunction with Mrs. Cutler, Anthony and Mr. Wallace on the rostrum, in delineating the spirit-presences among the audience.

The regular Camp-Meeting will commence Sunday, July 1st, opening by J. Clegg Wright.

On Wednesday, July 4th, the managers announce a gala day for the campers and visitors: two bands of music, review of Parkland Navy, dancing, etc. Miss Jennie B. Hagan will be with us on July 4th.

Mr. Bronson and his company are sparing neither pains nor expense to make every one happy here in Parkland.

In another letter we shall endeavor to give some description of Parkland, its rural beauties, its tents and cottages, with pen portraits of the manager, the assistants and the dwellers in our midst."

Haslett Park, Mich.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

The Sixth Annual Camp-Meeting of the Michigan Spiritualists will be held at Haslett Park, commencing Thursday, July 26th, and closing Monday, Aug. 27th, including five Sundays.

Sunday, July 29th, the services will be as follows: 10:00 A. M., Welcome address by the presiding officer, G. H. Brooks, of Wisconsin; 10:30 A. M., Dedication of new Auditorium, by Mrs. R. S. Lillie, of Boston; 2:00 P. M., Speech by the Hon. Wm. L. Bancroft, of Port Huron. Subject; "The Enterprise;" 3.00 P. M., Address by Mrs. Lillie.

Saturday, Aug. 4th, will be kept as Memorial Day.

Sunday, Aug. 5th, Mrs. Lillie will deliver two discourses.

Sunday, Aug. 12th, the meeting will be addressed by Mrs. Nellie Baade, Capac, and Hon. A. B. French, of Clyde.

Sunday, Aug. 19th, Hon. Giles B. Stebbins, Detroit, and Mrs. E. C. Woodruff, South Haven, will be the speakers.

Sunday, August 26th, Mrs. Carrie Firth, of Coldwater, speaks in the morning, and Hon. F. M. Fogg, of Lansing, in the afternoon. Subject, "Ancient and Modern Religions."

A regular dance will be conducted on Friday evening of each week.

For many years Mr. James H. Haslett, of Port Huron, Mich., has had it in mind to invest a sum of money for the benefit of the cause of Spiritualism, and for the furtherance of its aims and objects. In harmony with this view, he last year purchased a tract of land at the cost of several thousand dollars, on the borders of what was then called Pine Lake, a beautiful sheet of water situated on the line of the Chicago & Grand Trunk Railway, ten miles east of Lansing.

Among the objects sought by Mr. Haslett in establishing and endowing Haslett Park are: To offer an attractive resort for all disciples, professors or inquirers in regard to Spiritualism, philosophically and religiously considered, or its material manifestations. To establish a platform for teaching Spiritualism, and for fair discussion of all subjects, and where truth and freedom shall be freely vindicated against error and superstition; and to prepare a spot at once beautiful, convenient, and easily accessible for outdoor meetings, open to all, and also for the resort of parties seeking pleasure only.

Mr. John M. Potter has been selected by Mr. Haslett as manager of the property, and he has the fullest confidence in the ability of Mr. Potter to give satisfaction to all visitors and patrons.

The Auditorium, for which a portion of the money was raised last year, is now in process of construction. The building will be 60x96 feet when completed, and will seat about 2,000 people. We expect to have it in readiness by the 20th of July. The regular dedicatory services will be held Sunday, July 29th. Mrs. R. S. Lillie, of Boston, will deliver the address upon that occasion. It was largely through the personal effort of Mrs. Lillie that we were enabled to construct the building for this season.

The Presiding Officer, Prof. G. H. Brooks, has given Lyceum work his special attention during the past year, and will conduct a Lyceum at 10 A. M. each day, Sundays excepted.

There will be a Conference each week day, subject to the call of the presiding officer, who will from time to time announce the speakers and ceremonies for each day's entertainment.

The plat of land associated with and a part of Haslett Park consists of about one hundred acres. Two hundred and sixty-four lots have been platted, and about sixty have already been sold. Many very neat cottages have been constructed and others are in the process of construction.

The steamboat, Belle Haslett, now plying on Pine Lake, is a comparatively new boat, with a capacity of one hundred and fifty passengers. It is in charge of a competent engineer, and will meet all regular and special trains on the C. & G. T. R. R., landing them at the Haslett Park dock, and thence to the Pine Lake House, situated one mile from the park at the north end of the lake.

The post-office is located one-half mile from the camp, and mail will be delivered to all campers at 11 A. M. and 6 P. M., each week day. Letters to be mailed should be ready as follows: going West, 10 A. M., going East, 5 P. M.

Arrangements have been made with the Chicago & Grand Trunk Railway to run special Sunday excursion trains to and from the grounds. This arrangement will accommodate the people on the whole line between Port Huron and Battle Creek.

The railroad also makes a liberal reduction in fare to those who may choose to visit the Park during the week. Parties who choose to bring tents will find excellent facilities. A beautiful farming country surrounds the lake; fresh fruits and vegetables can be purchased by those who desire such commodities, and hotel accommodations can be had at reasonable rates.

Questions regarding additional points will be promptly answered by the manager, J. M. Potter, if addressed to him at Pine Lake, Mich. "TENTER."

Mount Pleasant Park, Ia.

The Mississippi Valley Spiritualists' Association Camp-Meeting will be held at Mount Pleasant Park, Clinton, Ia.—it being the sixth session.

The grounds will be open for cottagers and tenters July 1st, close August 26th, 1888.

The camp grounds are high, and so sloping that no matter how hard it may rain, in an hour they are drained and dry, retaining scarcely any dampness after two hours of sun.

Clinton is a natural commercial and railroad center, as well as a port for the several lines of steamboats that go up and down the river from New Orleans to St. Paul, and many intermediate cities and towns, hence it is easily reached from any point of the compass.

During July there will be such Sunday lectures, conferences and social gatherings as may be organized by the people present.

The regular camp-meeting season will commence by a business meeting of the Association Saturday, July 28th, 1888, at 2 o'clock P. M.

Every Sunday during the season at 9 o'clock A. M., a Progressive Lyceum will be held in the interest of the children.

There will be three lectures every Sunday, commencing at 10:30 A. M., 2 P. M. and 8 P. M. There will also be a lecture every day except Mondays until Aug. 25th.

Prof. Kreyer's Band has been engaged, and will be on the grounds through the whole season.

Mrs. Frankie Cole, of Chicago, will have charge of the vocal music, assisted by Mrs. E. A. Hulser, as pianist, and with their associate, Dr. J. Winfield Scott, will organize periodical entertainments.

Sunday, July 29th, 1888, 10:30, Prof. J. S. Loveland will give the opening lecture. Subject: "The Methods Demanded for a More Thorough Exposition of the Facts and Principles of Spiritualism."

Among the speakers engaged are Prof. J. S. Loveland, of California; Rev. Moses Hull and Mattie E. Hull, of Des Moines, Ia.; Hon. Warren Chase, Boston, Mass.; Dr. Juliet H. Severance, Milwaukee, Wis., and Dr. J. H. Randall, Chicago, Ill.; George W. Kates, Mrs. Zaida Brown-Kates; J. Clegg Wright, Philadelphia, Pa.; Mrs. M. A. Freeman, Chicago, Ill.

The managers promise to try and make everybody who comes happy.

Parties desiring information can address the Secretary, Dr. J. H. Randall, until July 15th at 220 Honore street, Chicago; after that, Clinton. IOWA.

Fraser's Grove, Mich.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

The fifth annual camp-meeting of the Spiritualists of Southern Michigan and Northern Indiana will be held at Fraser's Grove, Vicksburg, July 14th to Aug. 13th.

Speakers, W. H. Blair, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Rose Shepard Lillie, Melrose, Mass.; Hon. L. V. Moulton, Mrs. Sarah Graves, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Helen M. Gougar, Lafayette, Ind.; D. M. King, Mantua Station, O., and others.

Séances will be held every day and evening throughout the entire meeting.

There will be ample accommodations for all. Hacks and carriages will be on hand to convey people to and from the ground, and everything will be carried on upon the principle of "live and let live." Reduced rates on railroads. VIDETTE.

Lookout Mountain, Tenn.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

This camp-meeting will commence Sunday, July 1st. All the speakers and mediums announced will be present and take part.

Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond, Mrs. Glading, Dr. Fuller and others will lecture, Dr. Merrill will give tests.

A Methodist clergyman, now stationed in Kentucky, will make his début at the camp as a spiritual speaker. He is said to possess fine inspirational powers, and cannot content himself to longer hide his light under a bushel, nor under the patronage of the church.

An Indian squaw, daughter of the chief of the Six Nations (of the Mohawk tribe), has promised to attend the camp. She is said to be an excellent healer and speaker.

Applications for rooms, tents and cottages continue to pour in. The camp will be attended by a great number of people this season.

The Piedmont Chautauqua, near Atlanta, Ga., has obtained a one fare round trip rate from nearly all points. That will help many to attend our camp, by going via Atlanta. From there the fare is only two cents per mile to Chattanooga.

The two railroads up the mountain will issue special camp-meeting tickets. From all points the railroad rate is full fare going and one-third fare returning. But each person must obtain of local agent a certificate that he has paid full fare to Chattanooga.

☞

Cape Cod Camp-Meeting.

The new grounds at Ocean Grove, Harwich Port, Mass., on the line of the old Colony Railroad, offer great inducements to lovers of the seaside. High land, oak and pine groves, cool breezes, excellent bathing facilities are among the attractions, to which the skillful management have added good speaking by Dr. H. B. Storer, George A. Fuller, Eben Cobb, Jennie B. Hagan, A. E. Tisdale, Prof. A. E. Carpenter, Joseph D. Stiles, Celia Nickerson, L. K. Washburn and Mrs. Sarah A. Byrnes.

Dr. H. B. Storer will preside.

Cassadaga Lake, N. Y.

Read the official announcement on our fifth page regarding the projected camp-meeting exercises for '88 at this popular resort.

Spiritualistic Meetings in Boston.

Banner of Light Circle-Room, No. 9 Bosworth Street.—Séances are held every Tuesday and Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock promptly. Admission free. For further particulars, see notice on sixth page. L. B. Wilson, Chairman.

College Hall, 34 Essex Street.—Sundays, at 10¾ A. M., 2½ and 7½ P. M. Eben Cobb, Conductor.

Eagle Hall, 616 Washington Street, corner of Essex.—Sundays, at 2½ and 7½ P. M.; also Wednesday at 3 P. M. Able speakers and test mediums. Excellent music. Prescott Robinson, Chairman.

Mishawum Hall, City Square, Charlestown.—Mediums' meeting every Sunday at 2½ and 7½ P. M. Dr. Mark Smith, Chairman.

Chelsea.—The Ladies' Social Aid Society meets in Mrs. Buffum's parlors, 196 Chestnut street, every Friday afternoon and evening. All are invited. Mrs. E. H. Pratt, President; MRS. M. A. Dodge, Secretary.

Cambridgeport.—Meetings held each Sunday evening at 7½ o'clock at St. George's Hall, 663 Main street, by the Spiritualist Society. H. P. Trask, President.

Lynn.—Children's Lyceum meets every Sunday at Cadet Hall, Market street, at 12 M. Conductor, Mr. O. S. Adams; Secretary, Mrs. E. B. Merrill.

College Hall, 34 Essex Street.—The three services at this meeting last Sunday were quite interesting. Mr. Eben Cobb opened the exercises with pertinent remarks, especially in the afternoon, wherein he took for his theme, "Spiritualism or Spiritism, What Is It?" He illustrated the subject in a sensible manner, which was highly appreciated. Mrs. Forrester gave satisfactory readings, after which Mr. Jacob Edson made one of his characteristic addresses on the progress that has been made in mechanics in his day, and had extended to all professions and trades. He spoke quite spiritedly, and made some telling points which interested the audience, Mr. Cobb criticising some of his positions afterward in a genial manner.

During the day quite a number of the mediums participated in the exercises. Miss A. Peabody is remarkable in her readings. Mrs. T. J. Lewis, late of Brooklyn, N. Y., gave tests in the morning, Dr. McKenzie also, and Arthur McKenna in the afternoon. These meetings generally take the form of a conference or kindergarten way of demonstrating Spiritualism. They are to be continued during the summer months. COM.

Spiritualist Meetings in New York.

Columbia Hall, 878 6th Avenue, between 49th and 50th Streets.—The People's Spiritual Meeting (removed from Spencer Hall). Services every Sunday at 2½ and 7½ P. M. Mediums and speakers always present. Frank W. Jones, Conductor.

Arcanum Hall, 57 West 25th Street, N. E. corner 6th Avenue.—Meetings of the Progressive Spiritualists are held every Sunday at 3 and 8 P. M. Mediums and speakers welcome. Test Medium and Conductor, Prof. G. G. W. Van Horn.

Soul Communion Meetings every Tuesday at 3 P. M. sharp, at Mrs. Morrell's, 230 West 36th street.

First Society of Spiritualists.—Mrs. Nellie J. T. Brigham spoke in the morning upon several subjects submitted by the audience, and improvised three poems. The audience was fairly large, considering the intense heat. The Chairman, Henry J. Newton, Esq., announced that this was the closing day of service until the second Sunday in September. Miss Jennie Pierce and Miss Maud F. Pleasents sung each a solo, and together a duet that was very pleasantly commented upon for excellent execution, and was loudly applauded.

In the evening Mrs. Brigham spoke upon a subject selected by the influences speaking through her, "Hints." The speaker said it was a suitable subject for the occasion, being the end of the day and the season. She spoke with much feeling, having in mind the approaching temporary separation of those accustomed to meet on each first day of the week.

The Meeting for Manifestations in the afternoon was much larger than anticipated. After vocal and instrumental music by Miss Ella F. Porter, Miss Jennie Pierce and Miss Mamie Horton, Mrs. E. A. Wells gave a lecture upon "Immorality of Spiritualism" that deserves more than a passing notice. The speaker said: "This desire to communicate with God; this belief in God and the good angels, who are his thought-messengers; this belief in immortal life, or an endless existence beyond the conditions in which we are now placed, is Spiritualism, the ladder by which the great majority of humanity ascend to higher planes, regardless of the forms of local methods. Spiritualism teaches that the soul soiled with envy and avarice, or stained by hypocrisy, cannot at a moment's notice change—become a saint; that as the tree leans so will it fall, and as it falls so will it lie, until time, disposition and opportunity work the change that brings benefit."

The speaker proceeded at some length to institute a comparison on the plane of morality between those of the world at large who are not Spiritualists and those who are, greatly to the advantage of the latter. The contrast of a life devoted solely to material pursuits and one that blended harmoniously the spiritual with the material was vividly presented. The lecture was brimful of sound, practical advice, that carried conviction to the hearer, and was listened to with profound attention; it elicited round after round of applause.

Mark M. ("Brick") Pomeroy made some remarks, and alluded to God as the Alpha and Omega, the spirit origin, and the future rest of the spiritually inclined people. He spoke in the most commendable terms of the success of these meetings, and recommended that they be continued in the same spirit and manner as soon as the vacation is over, employing as we have good talent, and make the meetings interesting and instructive, predicting that within a year's time there would not be a hall in New York large enough to hold the people that would then assemble.

The eulogism of Mr. Henry J. Newton as President of the First Society, and his loyalty to the cause of Spiritualism, was well put, as also that of Mrs. E. A. Wells and her faithful mediumship, and the able manner in which she has conducted and kept up these afternoon meetings.

Mr. Pomeroy closed his remarks by offering a resolution that the heartfelt thanks of this Society be, and the same are hereby tendered, to Mrs. E. A. Wells for her able, faithful and courageous work before this Society the past season, and also to the President of the Society, its managers and assistants, including those who have taken part in the musical exercises of the Society. The resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote.

Mrs. E. A. Wells gave twenty tests, all recognized, and several showing combinations in description that surprised the most ardent supporters of her increasing powers as a test medium.

The meeting closed by Miss Mamie Horton whistling the "Tripping Feet Polka," which brought forth rounds of applause. The Society will look forward with great pleasure to the second Sunday in September, when they will meet again. S.

New York, June 24th, 1888.

The People's Spiritual Meeting.—Notwithstanding the torrid wave we were subjected to last Sunday, a fair-sized audience assembled at Columbia Hall, 878 6th Avenue, at 8 o'clock P. M., to listen to Mr. Wilson Macdonald on "Scientific Spiritualism." Owing to the great heat Mr. Macdonald abridged his lecture, but gave enough of logic and good common sense, mingled with mirth and sarcasm, to interest, instruct and highly entertain.

Sunday, July 1st, Mr. John Bentley will relate some of his experiences in Spiritualism and mediumship at 3 P. M., and Mr. A. E. Laurene, of Brooklyn, will give an address at 8 o'clock upon "Mediumship." Mr. Laurene's lecture will be a very excellent one, and should be listened to by all Spiritualists.

F. W. JONES.

230 W. 36th street, New York, June 25th, 1888.

Genuine cheerfulness is an almost certain index of an honest heart. Dyspepsia and genuine cheerfulness never go hand in hand, but Warner's Log Cabin Hops and Buchu Remedy will ensure you good digestion, the certain index of genuine cheerfulness and the honest heart.

Medical Freedom.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

The battle for medical freedom is evidently to be fought again in Massachusetts. While the friends of liberty were asleep the State of Maryland has been captured by Regularism, and now they are preparing to assail Massachusetts with an energy never before displayed. They have many advantages in the contest, and unless the friends of liberty are both vigilant and active they may be astonished by medical legislation, which once established will be hard if not impossible to overthrow.

This is not the language of needless alarm. The campaign is already opened. A newspaper, the Journal of Health, has been established in Boston, and its circulation pushed with untiring energy, especially among legislators and the influential classes, its chief object being by slanderous attacks to disgrace everything that deviates from Regularism, and urge the establishment of a rigid medical law. Slander will do its work if it is not counteracted. But what are we doing? Absolutely nothing—trusting to Providence!

Meantime the addresses of Dr. Jeffries and Dr. Newell to the State Medical Society at the recent meeting sound the war-whoop of a savage contest. They denounce in the severest language everything as quackery and knavery outside the pale of Regularism, insisting that all independents shall be treated as knaves, and as the people are fools on such subjects the profession must act to protect them from the knaves. Dr. Jeffries says "the whole laity are but a parcel of children in their relation to us, destitute of discernment, ability to discriminate, power of observation and deduction." He adds that a man or woman in pain on seeing those that they love suffering "is wholly without mental balance, and seems to lack at times even common sense."

The laity are disposed to employ the doctor who is most successful, instead of accepting such men as Dr. Jeffries at their own estimate, and his remedy is to abuse the quacks vigorously and "stop all social as well as professional intercourse with every pretender," that is, every one not of his own medical sect. And yet he speaks with sovereign contempt of "the ill-bred and half-educated graduates of the remaining nine-tenths of the medical schools of this country." Both Dr. Newell and Dr. Jeffries speak with scorn of the Homœopaths as well as all others who deviate from the regular standard.

It is plain that medical bigots are nerving themselves for another contest, and taking very active measures in an effective way. It is high time that we had a national society—a Liberty League well supplied with funds to defend the right. I have urged this heretofore, and it is believed by those who are sincerely devoted and pledged to this cause that the time has arrived for action, and that a vigorous Liberty League in Massachusetts may be instrumental in ultimately freeing our whole country from the incubus of monopoly legislation. The struggle for medical liberty in Iowa completely reversed the sentiment of the Legislature, and may be equally successful in other States if pursued with equal vigor.

J. R. BUCHANAN.

J. Frank Baxter's Work in Cincinnati, O.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

The heat was very oppressive, in the midst of a long spell, on Sunday, June 17th—the temperature within doors up to the nineties. It would seem people must be much interested to leave their homes to meet in assemblage in a sultry hall; yet, under the circumstances, the attendance upon Mr. J. Frank Baxter's lectures at Memorial Hall in this city was large, appreciative and decidedly representative.

After an orchestral overture at each session, Mr. Baxter prefaced his lecture with a poem and song, and at its close orchestra, choir and congregation united in a familiar hymn.

The morning lecture was on "Spiritualism and Its Morality vs. Spiritualists and Their Morals." It was manly yet radical, scathing yet true. The Better Way gave a capital synopsis in its local department, as the BANNER OF LIGHT frequently reports its Boston speakers. It was a timely production, to the discomfiture of false critics, and the honor of all true Spiritualists and Spiritualism. The plea for spirituality among "Spiritists," that they might be "Spiritualists" indeed, was finely put, and merited the applause it received.

The evening lecture dealt with the value of phenomena as a basis of every theory, belief and position. Mr. Baxter alluded to the inconsistency of the church, which claimed phenomena not necessary to establish a belief in immortality, but that faith was wholly sufficient; and by incontrovertible argument he showed how the very faith so much relied upon and recommended rested itself on phenomena. "Take away the spirit heralding, guiding and guarding of Jesus—omit any influence from the works Jesus performed—blot out the manifestations attendant upon his birth, life, death and resurrection, and where would church faith be? If such remote and doubtful phenomena can inspire such faith, what must be the value of present manifestations resulting from spirit-interference, when mankind generally can be made to give heed and investigate. Is not knowledge assured as well as faith strengthened?"

An hour's séance followed the evening lecture, and many descriptions, involving hundreds of perplexing details, not to say grand tests, were entertainingly and forcibly given. Mr. Baxter objects, on certain well-taken grounds, to the term "tests," but it has often puzzled many here, including the society management, to know what more appropriate word can be applied to the marvelous powers and their results, as exhibited in Mr. Baxter's "exercise of mediumship," as he seems to prefer to speak of them.

One more Sunday will Mr. Baxter be here, when the season's meetings come to a successful end. COM.

Cincinnati, O., June 18th, 1888.

College of Therapeutics.

The undersigned students of the College of Therapeutics, speaking in behalf of more than a hundred others, who have attended the instructions and eloquent lectures of Prof. Buchanan with satisfaction and delight, feel it their duty to inform the intelligent public of the marvelous discoveries in the constitution of man, which have been not only lucidly presented but positively demonstrated by experiments in our presence, in which we have actively participated.

These discoveries, which have been presented only in Medical Colleges and before scientific committees, and which have as yet a very limited publication, are regarded by the enlightened physicians and medical professors who have witnessed the demonstrations as by far the most important in the whole history of medical science, as they reveal the heretofore unknown laws of the brain and nervous system, and introduce many new methods in medical and electric practice, which we believe ere long will be represented by a medical college of a high order.

We make this publication to attest the fact that we, in common with all others who have had the pleasure of witnessing the demonstrations of Dr. Buchanan in Therapeutic Sarcognomy, Psychometric diagnosis, and Electro-Therapeutics, regard them as beyond the shadow of doubt, and as surpassing both in philosophic importance and in practical utility any philosophical discoveries of the present century, and laying the foundation for a true scientific system of Therapeutics.

LESTER A. HULSE, Lowell, Mass.
EDMUND B. MYERS, York, Penn.
WM. E. WHEELOCK, Moline, Ill.
CHARLES H. SIMS, Boston, Mass.
A. J. SYMES, Cleveland, O.
R. G. MAXWELL, Resaca, N. C.
H. A. CAMERON, Folkestone, Eng.
ALICE M. DENKINGER, Boston, Mass.
ANNIE M. CLARK, New London, Ct.
ADALINE E. COLT, Hartford, Ct.
ABRAHAM KNOBEL, Louisville, Ky.
J. P. CHAMBERLIN, South Weymouth, Mass.

Boston, June 9th, 1888.

Spiritualist Meetings in Brooklyn.

Conservatory Hall, Bedford Avenue, corner Fulton Street.—Services every Sunday at 11 A.M. and 7½ P. M.

Fraternity Rooms, corner Bedford Avenue and South Second Street.—Services every Sunday at 7½ P. M. Children's Lyceum at 3 P. M. The Spiritual Literary Union meets the first and third Saturday of each month at 8 P. M.

Johnston Building, Flatbush Avenue, corner of Nevins Street.—Brooklyn Progressive Spiritual Conference every Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock.

Brooklyn Conference—The next session (June 30th) of the Conference will, by a unanimous vote, be devoted exclusively to mediums who may be present, for the exercise of their spiritual gifts, and it is especially desired that they will not allow their talents to be "folded in napkins" and laid aside for "a more convenient season." Our session of the 23d was a very interesting one. A large variety of thoughts were expressed, Mr. D. Elwell leading, followed by Mrs. E. C. A. Hall, Mrs. S. A. Slocum, Mrs. Brown, Mr. C. L. Harris, Captain Davids, D. Elwell, and the chairman. F. W. JONES.

☞ Attention is called to an advertisement of a furnished cottage at Onset on page five of this paper.

Memorial.

Mrs. Julia A. Johnson, wife of Dr. E. Y. Johnson, Treasurer of Onset Bay Grove Association, passed to spirit-life June 18th at their summer home at Onset, in the seventy-third year of her age.

Mrs. Johnson had been failing for some years, but seemed at last to be gaining in health; while moving about in her cottage she unfortunately met with a severe fall, which no doubt caused her exit to spirit-life at an earlier date than might have naturally been expected. She was, however, perfectly willing and resigned to go if she could not recover her health.

She distinctly heard spirit-singing a few days previous to her departure—she being blessed with spiritual gifts which were a great source of comfort to her.

In the early days of Spiritualism she, together with her husband, became satisfied of the truthfulness of the new Philosophy, for the advancement of which the twain, finding themselves mediumistic, worked harmoniously and confidently. She also devoted much time to giving spirit-communications to those calling upon her, doing so cheerfully, without fee or reward.

Mrs. Johnson was a noble, good woman, and a most remarkable medium (prophetic and otherwise) of a mental nature. She was somewhat deaf, and could understand what people said only when she was addressed in a loud tone of voice, but she could with her spiritual gifts (which were remarkable) take up the subject of conversation that others were considering and deal with the issue as clearly as she would have done had she possessed the most acute sense of hearing.

Individuals who have been accustomed to calling upon her for words of spirit instruction, will miss her the coming season at Onset.

Seldom is there found such spirit-unity and action as existed between herself and husband; they were of great assistance to each other, as they had unbounded confidence in spirit directions and followed them strictly to the letter with as much faith and trust as the record indicates was possessed by the children of Israel in the power and intelligence that led them in their earth wanderings in the wilderness.

Dr. Johnson will sadly miss his beloved companion's earthly presence, but her spirit without question will follow him in all the walks of life.

He comprehends life here and in the beyond in a manner that takes away the sting of death; to him there is no death, and what seems such is but birth into higher conditions of life, which is the destiny of all the human family.

Her relatives, friends and neighbors in Warren will miss her genial earthly presence and associations, but it is without question well with her, and their loss is her gain.

Her material body was taken to her home in Warren, R. I., where appropriate funeral services were held. COM.

Greenwich, Mass.—The Cause at Greenwich is not allowed to lose ground, thanks to the indefatigable energy of Henry W. Smith, whose Independent Liberal Church has continued to attract the eager seekers after truth for miles around, who come to listen to the spiritual teachings given within its walls.

On Sunday morning, June 24th, Mrs. Juliette Yeaw of Leominster—who has so ably ministered to the society during the greater part of the year—delivered a thoughtful and comprehensive discourse upon "The Judgment." Nothing but a full report of this masterly production would do justice to the subject, and the writer felt only regret that it could not have been heard by every earnest mind in the land.

At 1:15 P. M. the Children's Lyceum convened in the vestry. The exercises were filled with interest for all present. In addition to the usual services of singing, responses and marching by the school, recitations and readings by a number of scholars, reading and remarks by Mrs. Yeaw, a reading by Mr. Smith, and an address by Miss M. T. Shelhamer of Boston, were presented at this session.

On Sunday next the church will close for the summer season. The exercises on that day will take the form of a special service for the children, and a most enjoyable time is anticipated by those who will attend.

For some months the Spiritual Society at Greenwich has been holding weekly sociables at the homes of its various members, which occasions have been highly enjoyed by all.

On the evening of Thursday, June 21st, the weekly Sociable was held at the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Allen, who opened their hospitable doors to nearly one hundred guests, all of whom showed by unmistakable signs their appreciation of the cordial welcome extended to them by the hostess and host. The occasion was one long to be remembered by those participating in its festivities. An entertainment of music, song, and literary readings, and of social conversation, together with a bountiful collation of rich cakes and fruits, composed the order of exercises, at the conclusion of which the guests parted with their entertainers with expressions of cordial good-will, and with the uttered wish that they might soon be called to this home again.

On the evening of June 28th the next Sociable will be held at the home of Mr. Eugene Southworth, when an enjoyable time will surely be experienced.

All honor to the good Spiritualists of Greenwich who have set the glowing torch of Truth in this town, the light of which can never be quenched, but will shine down the ages of the future with undimmed splendor and power. ***

INFANTILE Skin & Scalp DISEASES cured by

BANNER OF LIGHT.

AN EXPONENT OF THE PHILOSOPHY OF THE NINETEENTH

VOL. LXIII. | COLBY & RICH, Publishers and Proprietors. | BOSTON, SATURDAY, JULY 7, 1888. | $3,00 Per Annum, Postage Free. | NO. 17.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

FIRST PAGE.—The Rostrum: Fourth of July Oration.

SECOND PAGE.—Poetry: Fraternal Love. A Remarkable Private Medium. The Instinct of Immortality. Whence? Concessions of Vaccinators. Woman Suffrage. Free Thought: Re-incarnation.

THIRD PAGE.—Poetry: Rodney's Ride. Banner Correspondence: Letters from Minnesota, Massachusetts, Missouri, New York, and Connecticut. July Magazines, etc.

FOURTH PAGE.—The Betrayers of Spiritualism. What Labor Wants. Mr. Kellar as an "Exposer." Sensible Pulpit Preaching. Mediumship as a Penal Offense! Barking Again! etc.

FIFTH PAGE.—All Sorts of Paragraphs. Movements of Mediums and Lecturers. New Advertisements, etc.

SIXTH PAGE.—Message Department: Questions Answered through the Mediumship of Miss M. T. Shelhamer; Spirit Messages given through the Mediumship of Mrs. B. F. Smith. Spiritualist Lecturers.

SEVENTH PAGE.—New Publications. Spiritualist Meetings. Mediums in Boston. Book and Miscellaneous Advertisements.

EIGHTH PAGE.—Spiritualism in the Golden State. Cincinnati, O. Spiritualist Camp-Meetings. Spiritualist Meetings in Boston, New York and Elsewhere. In Memoriam, etc.

The Rostrum.

FOURTH OF JULY ORATION.

By the Spirit Control of

J. J. MORSE,

Of London, England.

Brothers and sisters of this great Republic, situated between the waters of either ocean, skirted by the snows of the frozen north, and warmed by the suns of the radiant south; a Republic that has for over a hundred years taken a place among the peoples of the world as the exponent of liberty, equality and justice; on this, its natal day, let your minds go upward to the great hearts and noble lives that throbbed and were laid down in days gone past that you might enjoy the liberties you now possess and have this fair flag still floating in the breeze.

The oldest empires wax and wane, lose their influence, and each descends the hills of oblivion, yet leaving marks of progress made for mankind at large. Revolution always has been the stepping-stone of evolution in the national and political unfoldment of mankind. The history of your struggles, trials and efforts in the bygone days is written in imperishable characters upon the scrolls of time, and future ages will, perchance, better appreciate the grandeur of that effort, and the nobility of that struggle, than even you do at the present time.

Barely four hundred years of human time and this fair land—that now is dotted from end to end with centers of industry and teeming life—was the home of the uncultured and untutored savage. Far away in the old country the hardy traveler set forth to find a new passage across the trackless deep, and incidentally to the labor of that effort, Columbus led the way to the discovery of this broad land that in later years was to take its place among the nations of the earth.

The scene of history rolls on, and we find that by the pioneer labors of Spain and other nations, some of the wilderness had been transformed into gardens of human habitation. Then, behold, arising from the strong conflicts and religious oppression of European countries, a wail of persecution, and earnest men, and true-hearted women, who, failing to find liberty in the land wherein they lived to worship God after the manner of their own hearts and consciences, sought liberty and freedom in a new clime, and in 1620 these separatists from the English communion, hearing of the new world beyond the waves of the broad Atlantic, resolved that they would seek in that new country to found a new home, a new communion, and a fresh community, where Liberty, and Justice, and freedom of conscience, should have for them actual reality.

They sailed in their ship from a cozy English port, they braved the tempestuous winds and waves of the English Channel, drifting to seaward until the land they were renouncing faded to a speck on the horizon behind them, and the gloom of the night closed round on every side. Across the wild and weary waste, battling with the winds and billows, grappling with the waters that surged and rolled around them, with the fierce tempests beating upon them, their gallant ship stood bravely upon her course, and the sturdy hearts of the Pilgrim Fathers aboard that brave old vessel, that was indeed the flower of May as well as the "Mayflower," for future generations, steadily forged on their way, until, at last, the iron-bound and inhospitable shores of the New England coast received the weary and worn wanderers from afar.

Then in the name of justice and right, in the name of religious liberty and personal freedom that man might be a man, the English foot was planted on the coast of the new world, and the sturdy character of the Anglo-Saxon race had its seat in new soil, and from the sowing of that seed on that rough New England shore sprang up the men of might, and men of power and thought, who opened a way for the freedom, the liberty, and the blessings that you enjoy to-day. If there is one word written in your hearts, if there is one name more worthy than all others to be borne upon the prow of your battle-ships, that word should be the "Mayflower" that brought your forefathers here to set the example, and plant the principles of personal liberty and freedom of conscience for all mankind.

A few years of time again roll on, and 1620 gives place to later years, wherein there unrolls before your mind a wonderful picture: The fair city of Boston begins to be established; the surrounding land becomes settled; the English king begins to assert his power, and through his parliamentary agencies proposes to exact his tribute in life and conscience, as well as wealth, from the colonies of the new world.

Undoubtedly, in these early days, the colonists were loyal men, loving the country from which they came, and willing to give it reasonable allegiance. But when kings mistake their office of leaders of the people, and seek to become their masters, despotism follows, and then revolution; and if the people are wise enough and strongly enough armed with right and clothed with justice, there is no despotism the wide world over that can stand against a revolution backed by the people's might. The exercise of power should ever be connected with justice, and justice should ever be associated with mercy. There is no doubt that had the English power been exercised with justice and with mercy, had justice gone side by side with power, there might have been a different ending to the struggle—nay, that struggle might never have begun.

But the world was waiting in that century for a new empire out of the east, that should shine like a star in the coronet of nations. In what better place could that Empire have its rise? In the old world kingcraft, and priestcraft, and wealthcraft, had taken deep root; the land was filled with the traditions of authority and absolutism. But, in the new land, they had not had time to grow in its virgin soil—here was freedom from all the old evils of Europe. Where a land to be found, better for the new Empire to arise from out the sea, and shine upon the pages of history like the day-star in the morning of the world? In all the world there was no other land but this!

But difficulties arose. The English king, with foolish advisers—men who knew not the people, and the people who knew not the men—were in conjunction at this particular time, and the English sovereign determined to coerce his loyal subjects three thousand miles away. Coercion failed them; it has failed before and since. History tells you of that memorable little tea-party you had in Boston Bay; how its waters, tinged with a deeper color, flowed out with the tide into the broad bosom of the Atlantic, and told the world of a people who would not be driven, mastered or coerced; a people who would stand up for the rights that belonged to them, the rights that belong to those who produce all that they have and hold dear, who had made the colony what it was, and who were truly the only people from whom its laws should come.

So, little by little, the conflict arises. The English king grows more obstinate, his advisers more persistent in demands and assertions, until at last the colonists will no longer submit, and the first tinge of blood colors the tide of civil life; then, having gone too far to recede, the effort must go on. It is either freedom with national existence, or submission with its virtual extinction. The hardy sons of the Pilgrim stock who had dared three thousand miles of weary ocean waste that they might found a new community; who had braved the elements of Nature, and even the chastisement of God in the inhospitality of a strange country, were not the men nor women who would supinely submit to the shifting vagaries of despotic rulers.

In the pleasant lands of fair Virginia there lived a family of eminence and excellence whose hearts throbbed with patriot devotion to the new order of life founded here upon this great continent, from which noble and sturdy stock there came one graceful boy, whose life was full of purity, obedience and truth—of whom it is said he never told a lie. The little boy grows to be the youth, the youth becomes a man, and shows his self-reliance in the days of his youth. His voice grows stronger, the nation calls for this man, and in response to the call of the new colonies, George Washington comes upon the stage of public life. All honor to George and Martha Washington! May that sweet Virginia home ever remain a glorious and sunny presence in your national heart! May the services of that patriotic man who, when his duty was done, scorned further honors, laid aside the power the nation had conferred upon him—may that sublime example of true patriotic abnegation be an example to Columbia's sons to-day! And may they learn from it the wise and needful lesson that whatsoever the nation gives the nation can take away; that whatsoever the nation has from you, you in turn owe all that you have had to the nation that conferred it on you. And serving your brethren, fighting for your liberties, striving to preserve your country, learn that when your duty is done, if you have the patriotic impulse that fired the breast of Washington in 1775-6, and if it stirs the breasts of Columbia's sons to-day, then all of you shall find the spirit of a Washington beating in your hearts, guiding your lives, ruling your councils and carrying your nation onward to higher glories and achievements.

Then follow the thunder of cannon, the clash of arms, the conflict of opposing forces, and the Continental troops grow weary and dispirited. Some are afraid that ammunition, the commissariat and money will fall short, that for lack of numbers and lack of material the conflict will have to dwindle into an ignominious conclusion. At this time one of the stanchest lovers of liberty that stood upon the scene of Continental strife makes his voice heard and presence felt. For some years a mighty agitation had been inaugurated by this man, whose voice that had vigorously assailed the old systems of ecclesiasticism and politics was yet sounding on the air. This man's bright mind and earnest soul were cast with full weight and force into the destiny of the Continental struggle, with heart and soul, mind and brain, tongue and pen, so that when the Continental forces were growing weary, "The Rights of Man" rung out upon the breeze. Those writings were printed, distributed broadcast, and read at the head of every company of the Continental forces. There was the pivotal point; "The Rights of Man" stirred every soldier's breast, gave new life and fresh courage to the army, and from that sprang such determination to do or die, that it conquered in the end, and gave you the liberty you this day fully enjoy. This man has been denounced; bigots have reviled him, ignorant fanatics have obscured the labor he did and the service that he gave you, but the enlightened present and a still more enlightened posterity will tell you who he was, and it will be found that you will have to give him his due and proper place in the framing of that Declaration of Independence whose principles you celebrate to-day. When, hereafter, that name stands revealed, all will know the soul who did so much to revive the courage, stir the pulses, expose the errors and the evil that were oppressing your forefathers, who helped them forward in their hour of trial, and then the world will write in letters of gold in the heart of Columbia herself the name of THOMAS PAINE.

No wonder religious people feared him in the country across the sea. If his doctrines were true, he had undermined a State that sanctioned the theory of the divine right as associated with kings; torn the mask away from a hereditary ruler, uprooted the fiction of an aristocracy that, like leeches, sucked the blood from the common laborers of the land. No wonder they denounced him, for his voice was as the voice of a god, kindling life and action in the hearts of men, that, in the name of liberty, they might drive the evils that oppressed them from the world!

From a fair land across the broad Atlantic, from France, a great and noble heart lays his sword and service at your hands, and LAFAYETTE demands a word of recognition, a loving friendship. Remember him with greatest praise for his noble service in those early and perilous times.

Then the good and true men, whose signatures are appended to that document you all treasure in your hearts, after the lapse of over a hundred years, meet in solemn conclave, and mutually agree that they must all hang together, or they will surely hang separately if they fail.

But, like brave and valiant patriots, they do hang together, in the patriotic and fraternal sense, and their names go forth in the document before them, and that old bell, in that hall in Philadelphia, that you know as Independence Hall, rings out upon the summer air a nation's birth; a new child has come to the family of earth, a new babe is born in agony, sorrow and disaster, in care and pain and blood, as children are born in the travail, and in suffering, of their earthly parents. And this new babe, stepping out into the genial sunshine, raising its shrill voice on the hospitable air, proclaims the gospel of immortal fraternity and justice to all the world. In that tower that bell rings out, the echoes of which went ringing, ringing, ringing right around the world. They found an entrance into the courts of Europe, an echo in the most select centres of aristocracy; they reverberated in the chambers of legislative bodies in the lands beyond the seas; it was an echo that stirred the hearts of all the world. These echoes are ringing, ringing still, and will go on ringing round and round the world so long as Columbia's children are true to the Declaration they have sworn to and the constitution under which they live!

The struggle ends; ends by reason of the fact that, though despotism's arm may be strong enough to smite an Empire, it is neither long enough nor strong enough to stretch over three thousand weary miles of watery waste, and you, being masters of the situation, gained triumph at last, and asserted yourselves to be a people free, having an independent national existence.

Thirteen States! This is a mystical number, of which much might be made, but for the present our purpose is practical. Thirteen States enter into a confederated union, and, if it were possible to suppose such a thing, when the news of this confederation and consolidation reached the Court of St. James, it is probable that the king, sitting there, would inwardly moan for thinking that another jewel had been sacrificed from out his crown. True, it was a rough diamond then, an unpolished jewel, but a jewel nevertheless that since the days of 1776 you have been vigorously engaged in polishing until it has reached the brightness it now possesses.

All honor, then, to those times and to those men. Remember what they did for you, and so long as you remain a nation never let their memories pass behind you, but always keep them loyally and lovingly before you.

These thirteen States united, consolidated, became the nucleus around which the after States have been grouped and ranged; they are the forefathers, so to speak, of the great family of united communities that now reaches from the wave-washed shores of the Atlantic coast, onward and forward, over field and hill, up the towering mountains that make the backbone of your country, descending through the gorges, reaching across the plains, on and on until there leap to view the shining waters of the ever-smiling Pacific seas.

Under that flag [pointing to the nation's banner,] those thirteen bars will ever be a reminder to you of how your forefathers labored, strove and struggled. Go back at least once in each year of your mortal lives to that glorious day, that ever-to-be-remembered July the 4th, 1776, when the people swore fealty to the new declaration, and so assured a nation's people of political equality, social rights and religious freedom, which are for all time to come the charters of the constitution under which you live.

Then the colonies set themselves to work to put their house in order, to evolve a governmental system, to found a new nation—as the authors of the Declaration of Independence truly said, "the most stupendous and momentous task that can engage mankind." It was the sundering of old political ties and associations and the building up of new ones; in a word, the evolving of a new nationality. The work went on bravely, and for a few years all seemed happy; but the new republic was doomed to suffer. Of course the authority it had emerged from would naturally be unfriendly, and the older dynasties of Europe would not favor a system of government so unlike their own. So England and France unite to oppress your commerce, injure your trade, and make your people miserable and unhappy. In 1812 another war with the older country engages the pages of history. The result was peace at last, and from that time to this—barring only the various piques and jealousies of two differing peoples who have quarreled, or the private spite in public prints and of orators upon the platform—from that time to this, thank God, the relationships of your parent land and yourselves have remained unsullied by the stain of human blood.

From 1812 the country goes on increasing in might and power, sends out its own diplomatic agencies, perfects the government, sustains its majesty, elects the ruling officer, its presiding genius, and taking a firm and noble stand upon its broad principles, it gradually takes the shape of a great and wonderful nation.

But in the heart of the nation there was a canker, a plague-spot which tainted all the blood of the body politic, and the gibe and sneer went forth from the old countries: "Ah! behold the land of the brave and the home of the slave." A plague-spot was there. Religion sanctioned it, to its shame; politics sanctioned it, to its shame also, and great political parties bended their knee to it, to their shame also.

But men of mark and principle still remained in the Commonwealth of the nation, and Garrison and Beecher were there; two ringing voices, with myriads of others, rang out upon the air, "Slavery is a curse to a free people, and a disgrace to the Republic of the United States."

But before this spot could be cut out from the nation's heart, a bitter surgery had to be applied to that offending point; the surgery of the bayonet, the medicine of the cannon, the caustic of blazing powder. And when the sturdy North, still vindicating the right of freedom, as befitted the descendants of that sturdy stock of old Plymouth birth—when the sturdy North resolved that rather than this should be they would fight for the principle of liberty, and boldly and bravely lay down their lives for it; when it was discovered that it was slavery and the Union, or slavery without the Union, then the North, having the issue squarely placed before them, could do naught else but fight again for the principles and freedom they had fought for a hundred years before.

You know the story well; how the first roar of the cannon sent a ball rolling through the murky gloom of night upon Sumter's walls; how its echo rang from one end of the land to the other; how some two or three millions—your brothers—roused to the call to arms to preserve the Union and free the slave; you know the deadly encounter of those four bitter years of awful strife and carnage; how brother ruthlessly shot at brother; how the house was divided against itself; you know how human blood saturated fair nature's breast, and colored the clear waters of stream and river; you know of the army of souls that were suddenly thrust out from life that is to life beyond; and you know how fair towns and cities were ruined, rich plantations laid waste, how blood and treasure were poured out as though there were no end to the one or the other. You know that after the march from Atlanta to the sea, after the triumph of the Northern army, when Grant crowns the whole by leading the Northern forces to final victory, Liberty again rises fair and all-powerful to succor and free the slave.

And then, then, something else. He whose hand had penned the document that gave freedom to the blacks, whose heart and great soul were for liberty and equality for every citizen of the great republic—you know how this great heart and noble life, he who away in the backwoods was called up from the log cabin to the White House to become the executive officer of this great nation to which you belong—you know how this noble heart was sacrificed on the altar of maliciousness, and had to lay down his life after his task was done. Oh, let your hearts be stirred with pitiful remembrance; let your souls go back to those sorrowful times when a nation's heart almost wept tears of blood as their moist eyes followed the form of ABRAHAM LINCOLN to its grave. Great heart, loving soul, wherein did dwell the impulse of a Washington revived, all honor to that noble man! One of the people, serving the people, beloved by the people, and still remembered by the people who do him honor!

Then another page; on a fair, white page, is inscribed in golden characters, one of the grandest sentiments, one of the noblest acts, one of the most godlike pages of human history that it is possible to find—A GENERAL AMNESTY FOR ALL THE CONQUERED SOUTH. "We have fought like men, we have suffered like men. Let us now live like men and brothers—here is the Northern hand!"

No nation in the world's history ever opened its heart and received its conquered foe into its bosom in the same glorious and magnanimous spirit as the Northern States received their Southern brethren. The blue and the gray are forgotten, the North and the South as separate points have ceased to be—the Republic is one and indivisible, one great family of brothers and sisters forevermore!

Again, behold the welcome morn of peace! The tide of empire rises, the damages of war are being repaired, the hatreds of kindred are being assuaged, wounded hearts are being healed, and then another cloud as one more occupant of the presidential chair falls a victim to a dastard's malicious act, and GARFIELD is gathered to the home beyond. But on that sad event there has hung so much of good that one might almost say that the sacrifice—though great and sorrowful indeed—was a sacrifice full of benefit and promise; for across the blue Atlantic, in the empire of Britain, sitting there in the northern seas, there ran through every town, city and hamlet, a thrill of sympathy and loving confidence that has done more to heal the sorrows of a hundred years ago, and bind the Republic of the seas into closer friendship with the people of Britain than any other incident in modern times. From Britain's queen down to Britain's humblest subject this wave of loving sympathy rolls onward to stricken Columbia, and in the name of God, the truth, and justice of your great Republic, let that wave roll in upon you so it may grow stronger and deeper in its pulses with every passing year.

You have now, in hasty review, had passed before you the history of your land. What are its lessons? What are its morals? What application can we find in it to the conditions of to-day?

You are beginning to be divided between two opinions: Shall these United States continue to be the refuge of the political exiles and social outcasts, the industrial poor? Shall it be a home where the oppressed, the downtrodden and the poor shall find a welcome? or shall it be America for Americans? If it is a land of liberty and of freedom, there is no incompatibility by a rational interpretation of the thesis that it is a home for the oppressed, and it may also be America for Americans. You do not want the extremes, you want the points that lie in the middle distances between these two arguments. But remember this: that if your gates are open and your doors swing easily upon their hinges, and you give hospitality to the oppressed and downtrodden of the world, then, emphatically and always, you must tell these seekers for freedom when they come to you, these poorer brethren from afar, these sorrowing and distressed ones: "Here are our land, our broad and beautiful country, our farms and our homes, our towns, cities and villages; here are our industries: come here, be one with us, work with us, live with us, abide by our laws, and accept the responsibilities we impose upon you in return for the hospitality we accord you."

There is but one flag for the United States of America, the red, white and blue of the stars and stripes. The red flag of anarchy is an alien weed; you must pull it up by the roots. Anarchy, Nihilism, Socialism, in their extremes, are the poison virus that would infect the blood of your national life. Liberty, equality, justice, are the opponents of all such wild schemes. Equal rights imply equal duties, and in partaking of your hospitality your guests must learn to behave while enjoying your board and cheer. Your forefathers made this land, your sires continued their work, you are carrying it forward still, and every man born upon the soil has an inalienable right to all that soil can give him. The native born American is the owner of America, individually and collectively, and if you are unwise enough to let foreigners come in and steal your land, you will have an alien landlordism and all its evils in your midst, and be deprived of that which is truly your own in the sight of God.

America for Americans, but America the asylum of the oppressed still, who must learn their duties as well as their privileges. American institutions to be administered by Americans born on American soil. America's honors to be enjoyed by Americans who have served America. And when this truth is borne clearly home upon the national conscience, you will cease to incorporate any of the effete civilization of Europe. The despotisms and their long train of associated evils of the old countries will no longer show themselves in your very council chambers, for un-American Americans will find no seats therein.

We have no word against your hospitality, no word against your taking in the oppressed and suffering. God bless you all for what, as a nation, you have done in these regards; but you must remember that this philanthropy, good nature and hospitality, should never be allowed to run away with the inestimable rights of men for which your fathers fought and bled, or squandered upon the scheming and ingrate.

A few other points alone remain for consideration. Republics have always been considered both impermanent and ungrateful; they have always been considered transitory and phenomenal. That GEORGE WASHINGTON'S name, life and work have lived over a hundred years is an eloquent proof that you are not growing ungrateful. That you exist to-day, after the same length of time, is a proof that your roots must be growing very strong and striking very deep, and it will take a very considerable digging up hereafter to pull you out of the soil whereon you live. We know of no gardener that we should advise to undertake the task of lifting the roots of the American Republic of the United States.

What is the lesson of Republicanism throughout the world? The reason why republics have hitherto been ephemeral is simply this: Previous to their existence, monarchy, imperialism and absolutism have been the rule. For ages men and women have been born in it, bred in it, fed upon it—it has become part and parcel of their bones. They have been absolute slaves to the monarch, emperor or queen. It takes a great deal of agitating and modifying to change these phases of human life. Every decade that you can perpetuate your existence reduces that quantity of virus in your national blood; it will be entirely eliminated by-and-bye. You will then build up a quality of character in the United States, and such institutions as will cause this Republic to go on growing stronger, able to sustain itself by its own life, and there shall be no power to blot it off the surface of the globe. Happily the time will come when this will be.

We must now leave the topic with a few final considerations, that, we trust, will equally commend themselves to your gracious judgment as has that which has gone before.

From the cold waters of the blue Atlantic washing the ironbound coasts of Maine; pushing round the old capes near the Bay of Massachusetts; rolling in through that marvelous harbor wherein sits queenly New York City; down, down south to the warm and limpid waters of the Gulf, onward across the land, over its mountains, reaching upward and skyward, like the aspiring souls of the people who dwell thereon, descending the gracious slopes down to the fair land of the West, there are cities and towns and villages, farms and homes, wherein dwell seventy odd millions of people, and there is to-day among them all that feeling of patriotism, of love, of admiration for this now no longer experimental Republic, that is throbbing in the breasts and inspiring the lives of and banding together as one family the millions of this great land of yours. Threading it from end to end are iron bands, long metallic threads that will do more to bind the North and South, the East and West, in one eternal brotherhood than all the Fourth of July orations that could ever be delivered—long metallic threads along which run the flying coach and the iron horse; gliding through the valleys, rushing across the plain, boldly climbing the mountains, going through gorges, winding around cañons, descending the hills, coming to the lower levels again, this magnificent steed careers on, bearing your commodities, extending your commerce, delivering your messages of love and friendship to distant places, bringing you in close relation and communion with each other, and binding the Republic in one great family as he daily journeys from the waters of the East to the waves of the West.

But finer and more subtle threads are woven across the face of nature; thin, thin wires that throb and burn with an electric soul, with a divine spirit in their heart, and these, facilitating commerce, distributing the news of the day and the events of the hour, the tidings of sorrows or the words of joy and affection, bind in closer relation even the great Republic than does the achievement of the iron horse. In ages to come the name of MORSE will stand out as one of the world's greatest benefactors, and with it the name of BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, who brought down the thunderbolt from the muttering clouds by his kite and key, shall shine with undimmed splendor.

Then there is the mighty influence of the free press, wherein the citizen can ventilate his wrong, his grief, his opinion, his hope, his desire—the free press, the one bulwark that you have between the wrong and the right; treasure it, sustain it, and ably maintain it by every means. But oh! let our voice reach those who manipulate this mighty power that drives the great engine of thought and progress; make it the reflection of the people's life and will, and then the people will maintain it as a power that shall make oppression tremble, and drive into their holes and caves whatsoever evils that would dare to show themselves in the light of the present time.

East and West, North and South, having learned the lessons of the past, may you in the coming future put all these to greater ends and nobler purposes, and present a grander life to humanity even than you present to-day. Over your heads soars the golden eagle, emblem of that aspiring nature and desire that you possess. And, when climbing onward to grander political heights, greater glory still, when citizenship is truly accorded to man and woman alike, that eagle shall look down upon a progressive, harmonious and united people, who shall, in this last respect, as well as in all that has gone before, be the most glorious example to the world that history presents you any record of.

Over your head waves that fair, fair flag, with its glorious stars—emblematic of the blue empyrean depth beyond, filled with orbs of light that appear in the darkness of the night, typical of different States coming out from the gloom of your sorrow and your despair. These bars will ever be emblematic of those thirteen States that labored and strove together to build up and render possible all you enjoy to-day; this glorious banner whereon you have written the names of Liberty, Equality and Justice—look lovingly upon it and swear again to day, in your freedom and the ardor of your national love, that man has the inalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Treasure those principles in your heart, and in the name of all the noble workers of the past, in the name of all the grand patriots living now, in the name of all the sacred influences and the holy associations pertaining to this birthday of your national life, lay your hands upon your hearts, swear to God, humanity and truth that you will guard inviolate the principles, the rights, the privileges and the glories that your forefathers handed down to you; that you will deliver them to your children pure and unsullied, and give to them the legacy of freedom and usefulness in their turn that you have received from the past. Swear this in the name of humanity and truth, and then you will give a holy baptism to these great United States that shall cement and bind them closer and closer together; and East and West, North and South, joining in one glad pæan to liberty and progress, mankind outside your boundaries shall learn that here, between the two great oceans, dwells a happy, free, enlightened people, and that your nation is, indeed, the most glorious political example the pages of history ever presented to the admiration of the world!

Regulate the Regulator with Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla. Manufactured by proprietors of Warner's Safe Cure. Largest bottle in the market. All druggists sell it.

Written for the Banner of Light.

FRATERNAL LOVE.

BY M. T. SHELHAMER.

In ancient days—the story runs—
In Eastern lands, where Orient suns
Reflect their burning gorgeous dyes
On seas of glass, from summer skies,
Two travelers on their toilsome way
Met at the closing hour of day;
One, worn with weakness, spent with heat,
Fell prostrate at his fellow's feet.

The spot was drear; no friendly shed
Stood nigh to offer couch or spread;
The distant city gleamed afar,
Like some long watched-for, welcome star.
Alone the strong man might—who knows?—
Reach it ere morning sunbeams rose;
But, burdened by another's weight,
His homeward steps were slow and late.

Bending above the prostrate form,
With gentle touch and kindness warm,
He chafed the pulseless finger tips,
Poured cordial through the fading lips,
Brought from his pouch a cooling balm,
Spicy with odors—myrrh and palm;
Laved brow and hands and tired feet,
Until they lost their burning heat.

The pilgrim raised his drooping eyes,
And gazed in wondrous glad surprise
Upon the face, that, bending low,
Seemed with compassion all aglow.
Was it an angel's sweetest grace
That flashed from out that bearded face?
Had Heaven—the poor man's dream—at last
Brought peace and comfort unsurpassed?

But no! The fancy mists dispersed,
As quietly his friend rehearsed
The story of their meeting there
When twilight glimmered sweet and fair.
"I, pushing on mine homeward road,
Wast filled with thoughts of mine abode,
Where love and peace sweet consort hath,
When thou didst fall across my path.

"I did my best," the stranger said,
"To bring thee strength to raise thy head;
And now, if thou canst move along,
I 'll help thy steps to travel on."

* * * * * * * * *

"Now, Allah bless thee, give thee length
Of days, with boundless joy and strength
Make thy heart constantly rejoice!"
The wanderer cried with trembling voice.

"But leave me now to creep apace,
Speed swiftly on to thine own place;
My steps are slow, I cannot haste,
I must not make thy time a waste."
"Nay! nay!" the ministrant replied,
"I travel only at thy side.
What matter if the dawn be cast,
We 'll reach the city's gate at last."

And so they journeyed through the night,
Nor reached they home till noonday light.
The strong man took the stranger in,
For he was friendless—without kin;
And when he fell across the road
His heart was hopeless with its load.
But Allah—for his work be praised—
This brother's love had for him raised.

The years rolled on, and from that hour
The strong man gained in rank and power;
The stranger brought within his gates
Seemed to attract the happiest fates.
And when he died, the neighbors said,
A crown of glory wreathed his head,
Which bore these words in mystic light,
"Allah reclaims his own to-night!"

A Remarkable Private Medium.

To the Editor of the Banner of Light:

I was conversing with a prominent business man, June 26th, when he confidentially related to me in brief his experience in Modern Spiritualism. He was willing that I should let the facts be known if his name was withheld: He was a member of the Episcopalian church, in good standing, when his attention was called to the subject of Spiritualism, and to his astonishment and delight he found that he had in his organism wonderful spiritual gifts that had remained dormant until this time—such as clairaudience, etc.—and soon commenced to talk in foreign languages, speaking in Hebrew quite fluently. I think he said he had under "the influence" talked in some six different languages. He was called upon to visit a professor who had the Hebrew language at his command, and the scholar could not understand how it was that his guest could talk so correctly in Hebrew when he had never studied that language, while he (the professor) had spent much time in the Holy Land, and was well-versed in all pertaining to this "scriptural" tongue.

He called upon the Professor just before his departure to spirit-life; the raps came upon the bedstead in profusion, and he prophesied correctly for him as to his demise, which was soon verified.

He has also the independent slate-writing gift, the writing coming upon the inside of two slates, while they are tied and sealed together—six different communications on one slate.

The gifts of this gentleman are sought by persons hearing of him, residing in Denver, Kansas City, and other localities in the West, as well as at points nearer home—said persons being among the first citizens where they dwell; but while he has always been ready to accommodate these applicants, he refuses to be known to the public, on account of business and other reasons. There are really but few of his business friends who know that he possesess these spiritual gifts.

He was at one time often unconsciously controlled, but more recently his gifts are exercised in a conscious state, and he speaks out many truths that of his individual self he does not pretend to comprehend or understand.

He is so favored with material conditions that he has always made his spiritual work a free-will gift where he can exercise it; though he is known in everyday life as one who is ever at his post, and who devotes his closest attention to the details of his business duties. He knows that he is assisted by excarnated spirits in his material work.

