The Golden Ladder

This is a book that many have pronounced a revelation . . .

It has helped them to climb up out of the old conditions of sin, sickness, and poverty; to develop individuality and thus to be selfreliant and masterful. One reader says of it, "No words can express the help derived from 'The Golden Ladder.'"

It is wonderful how plain it makes the Science of True Being to the most ignorant.

The Golden Ladder is in three different bindings. Price in rich wine color and gold, cloth, $1.00.
Cream and gold, cloth, $1.00.
Dark green, gold and silver, paper,
50 cents.

The Leprosy of Miriam

By Ursula N. Gestefeld

A POWERFUL SOUL-INSPIRING NOVEL

No one can read this strong work without feeling an uplifting towards better, more spiritual thought; without the realization that one can "live up to one's best," without the firm resolve to "think up, not down."

"The book is pervaded by an intense and illuminating spirituality, in whose light some of the deepest problems of human existence are reverently yet fearlessly discussed. One recognizes instantly that the author is thinking, not of herself, but of the message which she feels that she must deliver. The sincerity of the book is the key-note of its power. It deserves to be widely and thoughtfully read."

Self..... Knowledge

A new monthly paper — free and unprejudiced in every respect. Condemns and endorses no thing nor no one. Permits each one's recognition of truth to speak for itself. It may have been ours yesterday, or we may not yet have reached it — but we give it out freely and fearlessly as food that others may be ready and waiting for as their next step toward the absolute. All are invited to speak of their special consciousness or knowledge of the higher self through these pages, for it takes all relative truth to complete the whole or absolute, and no fraction must be mistaken for the whole.

Self..... Knowledge

A new monthly paper — free and unprejudiced in every respect. Condemns and endorses no thing nor no one. Permits each one's recognition of truth to speak for itself. It may have been ours yesterday, or we may not yet have reached it — but we give it out freely and fearlessly as food that others may be ready and waiting for as their next step toward the absolute. All are invited to speak of their special consciousness or knowledge of the higher self through these pages, for it takes all relative truth to complete the whole or absolute, and no fraction must be mistaken for the whole.

IN PRESS.

TWO BOOKS BY URSULA N. GESTEFELD.

THE BREATH OF LIFE.

A Series of Self-treatments.

For the Morning.
 For the Evening.
 For High Noon.
 When there is a Sense of Injury.
 When there is Fear of Accident.
 When there is Fear of Heredity.
 When there is Fear of Death.
 When there is Fear of Failure in Business.
 When there is Dread of the Future.
 When there is Proneness to Anger.
 When there is Tendency to Self-depreciation.
 When there is Lack of Confidence and Trust.

When there is Difficulty in Letting go the Past.
 When there is the Sense named "Insomnia."
 When there is Dissatisfaction with Environment.
 When there is Need for Patience.
 When the Sense of Sight Diminishes with Advancing Age.
 When one Begins to See the Necessity for a Higher than Natural Affection.
 When it is Desired to Lose Fondness for Money.

These treatments have been given in THE EXODUS, and are now issued in attractive book form, handsomely bound in cloth.

The Wise man does not speak from impulse or sensation. He chooses his words. He knows that words are storage batteries and that the energy they contain is released when he speaks them. Having power over his words, he directs their released energy, which accomplishes that whereunto it is sent. By his chosen words he breathes the breath of life which makes him alive from the dead.

Dedicated to all who can "receive with meekness the engrafted word which is able to save your souls."

Price, 50 cents, postpaid.

HOW WE MASTER OUR FATE.

A series of articles, descriptive and explanatory of human experience, and what we can do to make it satisfactory. Appearing originally in THE EXODUS, they are now published in book form with a preface by the author.

IN PRESS.

TWO BOOKS BY URSULA N. GESTEFELD.

THE BREATH OF LIFE.

A Series of Self-treatments.

For the Morning.	When there is Difficulty in Letting go the Past.
For the Evening.	When there is the Sense named "Insomnia."
For High Noon.	When there is Dissatisfaction with Environment.
When there is a Sense of Injury.	When there is Need for Patience.
When there is Fear of Accident.	When the Sense of Sight Diminishes with Advancing Age.
When there is Fear of Heredity.	When one Begins to See the Necessity for a Higher than Natural Affection.
When there is Fear of Death.	When it is Desired to Lose Fondness for Money.
When there is Fear of Failure in Business.
When there is Dread of the Future.
When there is Proneness to Anger.
When there is Tendency to Self-depreciation.
When there is Lack of Confidence and Trust.

These treatments have been given in THE EXODUS, and are now issued in attractive book form, handsomely bound in cloth.

The Wise man does not speak from impulse or sensation. He chooses his words. He knows that words are storage batteries and that the energy they contain is released when he speaks them. Having power over his words, he directs their released energy, which accomplishes that whereunto it is sent. By his chosen words he breathes the breath of life which makes him alive from the dead.

Dedicated to all who can "receive with meekness the engrafted word which is able to save your souls."

Price, 50 cents, postpaid.

HOW WE MASTER OUR FATE.

A series of articles, descriptive and explanatory of human experience, and what we can do to make it satisfactory. Appearing originally in THE EXODUS, they are now published in book form with a preface by the author.

The Metaphysics of Balzac

As found in
"The Magic Skin"
"Louis Lambert"
and
"Seraphita"

By Ursula N.
Gestefeld

As is generally known, the fiction of Balzac covers his philosophy, and these essays are an attempt to find and uncover the hidden meaning in these three books that is the result of Balzac's effort to find the hidden meaning of existence and our relation to it. He has formulated what he found in a certain system, illustrated by the characters and incidents in the three books, beginning with "The Magic Skin" and ending with "Seraphita." A thread of continuity holds them together as a whole, whose nature is not revealed by any one of them alone—a thread of meaning that richly repays the seeker for it. As the present is the age of interpretation, an interest in Balzac, the Thinker, is legitimate successor to interest in Balzac, the Writer of Fiction; and in no previous day could his ideas have found a more willing reception and appreciation than in our own. For those that seek for a soul behind the seal of the letter these essays will be both interesting and helpful.

The book is beautifully printed on laid paper and handsomely and artistically bound in cloth and gold. Price, $1.00, postpaid

THE BREATH OF LIFE

A Series of Self-Treatments

By URSULA N. GESTEFELD

SECOND EDITION

A special Easter Edition, limited to 250 copies, beautifully bound in white and gold, boxed. Price, 60 cents.
Regular edition, light green, stamped in purple and gold. Price, 50 cents, postpaid.

SOME COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

"The Breath of Life" is a remarkable work of self-helpfulness and is a great masterpiece in the expression of that for which it stands. It may always be relied upon for counsel, with the surety that, when the truths it contains are absorbed into the soul and thence have spread their vast vitalities into the ultimates of being, its individual possessor will be a truly happy person and one whose destiny is in his own hands.—Boston Ideas.

The book is certainly true to its title, every thought being a life-giving inspiration and a ready aid to spiritual development. Simple and direct in presentation, it is a capital work to put into the hands of earnest truth-seekers of every class.—Mind.

The affirmations of this book are healing, strengthening and invigorating as sea breezes. Send it to your weak or ailing friend; hand it to the invalid.—The New Thought.

It meets you with help in every case where help is needed and presents an infallible suggestion, enabling you to overcome difficulties in all relations. . . . A very arsenal of spiritual force.—Morrison's Cyclops.

One of these delightful little books that are exactly the thing to offer to a friend who asks you all sorts of questions concerning mental treatment, and who desires some definite directions how to go to work to apply metaphysical theory in practical action.

How we Master our Fate

SOME COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

The book ought to be read especially by those whose self-reliance and concentration of energy may have been wanting in the attempt to conquer the tyranny of circumstance.—The Outlook.

It is full, complete, and it is our conviction that no greater book has ever been written. It deals with abstractions to the absolutely practical extent that it compels the reader's thought inward by reason of its living, essential power. Judged from any standpoint, the book is an artistic piece of work; judged merely by the fair intellect, it is a superb exposition of Truth.—Boston Ideas.

Happy the man who will obtain this book and read and reflect till its ideas live and work in him the fate-mastering power of its title. The work is simply invaluable to those that "seek power from on high."—Morrison's Cyclops.

BY THE AUTHOR OF "THE BREATH OF LIFE,"
"HOW WE MASTER OUR FATE," ETC.

The Metaphysics of Balzac

As found in
"The Magic Skin"
"Louis Lambert"
and
"Seraphita"

By Ursula N.
Gestefeld

As is generally known, the fiction of Balzac covers his philosophy, and these essays are an attempt to find and uncover the hidden meaning in these three books that is the result of Balzac's effort to find the hidden meaning of existence and our relation to it. He has formulated what he found in a certain system, illustrated by the characters and incidents in the three books, beginning with "The Magic Skin" and ending with "Seraphita." A thread of continuity holds them together as a whole, whose nature is not revealed by any one of them alone—a thread of meaning that richly repays the seeker for it. As the present is the age of interpretation, an interest in Balzac, the Thinker, is legitimate successor to interest in Balzac, the Writer of Fiction; and in no previous day could his ideas have found a more willing reception and appreciation than in our own. For those that seek for a soul behind the seal of the letter these essays will be both interesting and helpful.

The book is beautifully printed on laid paper and handsomely and artistically bound in cloth and gold. Price, $1.00, postpaid

SOME COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

"The Breath of Life" is a remarkable work of self-helpfulness and is a great masterpiece in the expression of that for which it stands. It may always be relied upon for counsel, with the surety that, when the truths it contains are absorbed into the soul and thence have spread their vast vitalities into the ultimates of being, its individual possessor will be a truly happy person and one whose destiny is in his own hands.—Boston Ideas.

The book is certainly true to its title, every thought being a life-giving inspiration and a ready aid to spiritual development. Simple and direct in presentation, it is a capital work to put into the hands of earnest truth-seekers of every class.—Mind.

The affirmations of this book are healing, strengthening and invigorating as sea breezes. Send it to your weak or ailing friend; hand it to the invalid.

It meets you with help in every case where help is needed and presents an infallible suggestion, enabling you to overcome difficulties in all relations. . . . A very arsenal of spiritual force.—Morrison's Cyclops.

One of these delightful little books that are exactly the thing to offer to a friend who asks you all sorts of questions concerning mental treatment, and who desires some definite directions how to go to work to apply metaphysical theory in practical action.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR

How we Master our Fate

A series of articles, descriptive and explanatory of human experience, and what we can do to make it satisfactory. Handsomely bound in cloth. Price, 75 cents, postpaid.

SOME COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

The book ought to be read especially by those whose self-reliance and concentration of energy may have been wanting in the attempt to conquer the tyranny of circumstance.

It is full, complete, and it is our conviction that no greater book has ever been written. It deals with abstractions to the absolutely practical extent that it compels the reader's thought inward by reason of its living, essential power. Judged from any standpoint, the book is an artistic piece of work; judged merely by the fair intellect, it is a superb exposition of Truth.—Boston Ideas.

Happy the man who will obtain this book and read and reflect till its ideas live and work in him the fate-mastering power of its title. The work is simply invaluable to those that "seek power from on high."—Morrison's Cyclops.

He has formulated what he found in a certain system, illustrated by the characters and incidents in the three books, beginning with "The Magic Skin" and ending with "Seraphita." A thread of continuity holds them together as a whole, whose nature is not revealed by any one of them alone—a thread of meaning that richly repays the seeker for it. As the present is the age of interpretation, an interest in Balzac, the Thinker, is legitimate successor to interest in Balzac, the Writer of Fiction; and in no previous day could his ideas have found a more willing reception and appreciation than in our own. For those that seek for a soul behind the seal of the letter these essays will be both interesting and helpful.

The book is beautifully printed on laid paper and handsomely and artistically bound in cloth and gold. Price, $1.00, postpaid

SECOND EDITION

Regular edition, light green, stamped in purple and gold. Price, 50 cents, postpaid.

SOME COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

"The Breath of Life" is a remarkable work of self-helpfulness and is a great masterpiece in the expression of that for which it stands. It may always be relied upon for counsel, with the surety that, when the truths it contains are absorbed into the soul and thence have spread their vast vitalities into the ultimates of being, its individual possessor will be a truly happy person and one whose destiny is in his own hands.—Boston Ideas.

The book is certainly true to its title, every thought being a life-giving inspiration and a ready aid to spiritual development. Simple and direct in presentation, it is a capital work to put into the hands of earnest truth-seekers of every class.—Mind.

The affirmations of this book are healing, strengthening and invigorating as sea breezes. Send it to your weak or ailing friend; hand it to the invalid.

—The New Thought.
It meets you with help in every case where help is needed and presents an infallible suggestion, enabling you to overcome difficulties in all relations. . . . A very arsenal of spiritual force.—Morrison's Cyclops.

One of these delightful little books that are exactly the thing to offer to a friend who asks you all sorts of questions concerning mental treatment, and who desires some definite directions how to go to work to apply metaphysical theory in practical action.

—W. J. COLVILLE in The Faith and Hope Messenger.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR

How we Master our Fate

A series of articles, descriptive and explanatory of human experience, and what we can do to make it satisfactory. Handsomely bound in cloth. Price, 75 cents, postpaid.

SOME COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

The book ought to be read especially by those whose self-reliance and concentration of energy may have been wanting in the attempt to conquer the tyranny of circumstance.

—The Outlook.
It is full, complete, and it is our conviction that no greater book has ever been written. It deals with abstractions to the absolutely practical extent that it compels the reader's thought inward by reason of its living, essential power. Judged from any standpoint, the book is an artistic piece of work; judged merely by the fair intellect, it is a superb exposition of Truth.—Boston Ideas.

Happy the man who will obtain this book and read and reflect till its ideas live and work in him the fate-mastering power of its title. The work is simply invaluable to those that "seek power from on high."—Morrison's Cyclops.

The Metaphysics of Balzac

"Louis Lambert," and "Seraphita"

By URSULA N. GESTEFELD

Some Comments of the Press

"Lovers of Balzac will enjoy and appreciate every page, while those who have held aloof from this French master can in no better way, than by reading this little volume, get an insight into his grasp of human life and action, and the incisiveness of his analytical power."—Boston Times.

"A book which any admirer of the great novelist ought to enjoy reading; the comment is always interesting and inspiring."—The Outlook.

"Mrs. Gestefeld's writing is a rare example of the perfection of literary power and logical acumen. Her analysis is masterly. In her consideration of 'Seraphita' the aspiration of her inspiration is so full and free that one feels the vibration of the wings of the spirit and rejoices that Humanity has attained a growth sufficient to enable individual souls to sometimes wear them and ascend on high."—Boston Ideas.

THE BREATH OF LIFE

A Series of Self-Treatments

By URSULA N. GESTEFELD

SECOND EDITION

A special Easter Edition, limited to 250 copies, beautifully bound in white and gold, boxed. Price, 60 cents.
Regular edition, light green, stamped in purple and gold. Price, 50 cents, postpaid.

SOME COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

"The Breath of Life" is a remarkable work of self-helpfulness and is a great masterpiece in the expression of that for which it stands. It may always be relied upon for counsel, with the surety that, when the truths it contains are absorbed into the soul and thence have spread their vast vitalities into the ultimates of being, its individual possessor will be a truly happy person and one whose destiny is in his own hands.—Boston Ideas.

The book is certainly true to its title, every thought being a life-giving inspiration and a ready aid to spiritual development. Simple and direct in presentation, it is a capital work to put into the hands of earnest truth-seekers of every class.—Mind.

The affirmations of this book are healing, strengthening and invigorating as sea breezes. Send it to your weak or ailing friend; hand it to the invalid.

It meets you with help in every case where help is needed and presents an infallible suggestion, enabling you to overcome difficulties in all relations. . . . A very arsenal of spiritual force.—Morrison's Cyclops.

One of these delightful little books that are exactly the thing to offer to a friend who asks you all sorts of questions concerning mental treatment, and who desires some definite directions how to go to work to apply metaphysical theory in practical action.

—W. J. COLVILLE in The Faith and Hope Messenger.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR

How we Master our Fate

A series of articles, descriptive and explanatory of human experience, and what we can do to make it satisfactory. Handsomely bound in cloth. Price, 75 cents, postpaid.

SOME COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

The book ought to be read especially by those whose self-reliance and concentration of energy may have been wanting in the attempt to conquer the tyranny of circumstance.

It is full, complete, and it is our conviction that no greater book has ever been written. It deals with abstractions to the absolutely practical extent that it compels the reader's thought inward by reason of its living, essential power. Judged from any standpoint, the book is an artistic piece of work; judged merely by the fair intellect, it is a superb exposition of Truth.—Boston Ideas.

Happy the man who will obtain this book and read and reflect till its ideas live and work in him the fate-mastering power of its title. The work is simply invaluable to those that "seek power from on high."—Morrison's Cyclops.

Some Comments of the Press

"Lovers of Balzac will enjoy and appreciate every page, while those who have held aloof from this French master can in no better way, than by reading this little volume, get an insight into his grasp of human life and action, and the incisiveness of his analytical power."—Boston Times.

"A book which any admirer of the great novelist ought to enjoy reading; the comment is always interesting and inspiring."—The Outlook.

"Mrs. Gestefeld's writing is a rare example of the perfection of literary power and logical acumen. Her analysis is masterly. In her consideration of 'Seraphita' the aspiration of her inspiration is so full and free that one feels the vibration of the wings of the spirit and rejoices that Humanity has attained a growth sufficient to enable individual souls to sometimes wear them and ascend on high."—Boston Ideas.

THE BREATH OF LIFE

A Series of Self-Treatments

By URSULA N. GESTEFELD

SECOND EDITION

A special Easter Edition, limited to 250 copies, beautifully bound in white and gold, boxed. Price, 60 cents.
 Regular edition, light green, stamped in purple and gold. Price, 50 cents, postpaid.

SOME COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

"The Breath of Life" is a remarkable work of self-helpfulness and is a great masterpiece in the expression of that for which it stands. It may always be relied upon for counsel, with the surety that, when the truths it contains are absorbed into the soul and thence have spread their vast vitalities into the ultimates of being, its individual possessor will be a truly happy person and one whose destiny is in his own hands.—Boston Ideas.

The book is certainly true to its title, every thought being a life-giving inspiration and a ready aid to spiritual development. Simple and direct in presentation, it is a capital work to put into the hands of earnest truth-seekers of every class.—Mind.

The affirmations of this book are healing, strengthening and invigorating as sea breezes. Send it to your weak or ailing friend; hand it to the invalid.

—The New Thought.
 It meets you with help in every case where help is needed and presents an infallible suggestion, enabling you to overcome difficulties in all relations. . . . A very arsenal of spiritual force.—Morrison's Cyclops.

One of these delightful little books that are exactly the thing to offer to a friend who asks you all sorts of questions concerning mental treatment, and who desires some definite directions how to go to work to apply metaphysical theory in practical action.

—W. J. COLVILLE in The Faith and Hope Messenger.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR

How we Master our Fate

A series of articles, descriptive and explanatory of human experience, and what we can do to make it satisfactory. Handsomely bound in cloth. Price, 75 cents, postpaid.

SOME COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

The book ought to be read especially by those whose self-reliance and concentration of energy may have been wanting in the attempt to conquer the tyranny of circumstance.

—The Outlook.
 It is full, complete, and it is our conviction that no greater book has ever been written. It deals with abstractions to the absolutely practical extent that it compels the reader's thought inward by reason of its living, essential power. Judged from any standpoint, the book is an artistic piece of work; judged merely by the fair intellect, it is a superb exposition of Truth.—Boston Ideas.

Happy the man who will obtain this book and read and reflect till its ideas live and work in him the fate-mastering power of its title. The work is simply invaluable to those that "seek power from on high."—Morrison's Cyclops.

The Metaphysics of Balzac

As found in "The Magic Skin,"
"Louis Lambert," and "Seraphita"

By URSULA N. GESTEFELD

Some Comments of the Press

"Lovers of Balzac will enjoy and appreciate every page, while those who have held aloof from this French master can in no better way, than by reading this little volume, get an insight into his grasp of human life and action, and the incisiveness of his analytical power."—Boston Times.

"A book which any admirer of the great novelist ought to enjoy reading; the comment is always interesting and inspiring."—The Outlook.

"Mrs. Gestefeld's writing is a rare example of the perfection of literary power and logical acumen. Her analysis is masterly. In her consideration of 'Seraphita' the aspiration of her inspiration is so full and free that one feels the vibration of the wings of the spirit and rejoices that Humanity has attained a growth sufficient to enable individual souls to sometimes wear them and ascend on high."—Boston Ideas.

Beautifully printed on laid paper, handsomely bound in violet cloth and gold. Price $1.00, postpaid.

A series of articles, descriptive and explanatory of human experience, and what we can do to make it satisfactory. Handsomely bound in cloth. Price, 75 cents, postpaid.

SOME COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

The book ought to be read especially by those whose self-reliance and concentration of energy may have been wanting in the attempt to conquer the tyranny of circumstance.—The Outlook.

It is full, complete, and it is our conviction that no greater book has ever been written. It deals with abstractions to the absolutely practical extent that it compels the reader's thought inward by reason of its living, essential power. Judged from any standpoint, the book is an artistic piece of work; judged merely by the fair intellect, it is a superb exposition of Truth.—Boston Ideas.

Happy the man who will obtain this book and read and reflect till its ideas live and work in him the fate-mastering power of its title. The work is simply invaluable to those that "seek power from on high."—Morrison's Cyclops.

The Metaphysics of Balzac

As found in "The Magic Skin,"
"Louis Lambert," and "Seraphita"

By URSULA N. GESTEFELD

Some Comments of the Press

"Lovers of Balzac will enjoy and appreciate every page, while those who have held aloof from this French master can in no better way, than by reading this little volume, get an insight into his grasp of human life and action, and the incisiveness of his analytical power."—Boston Times.

"A book which any admirer of the great novelist ought to enjoy reading; the comment is always interesting and inspiring."—The Outlook.

"Mrs. Gestefeld's writing is a rare example of the perfection of literary power and logical acumen. Her analysis is masterly. In her consideration of 'Seraphita' the aspiration of her inspiration is so full and free that one feels the vibration of the wings of the spirit and rejoices that Humanity has attained a growth sufficient to enable individual souls to sometimes wear them and ascend on high."—Boston Ideas.

THE BREATH OF LIFE

A Series of Self-Treatments

By URSULA N. GESTEFELD

SECOND EDITION

A special Easter Edition, limited to 250 copies, beautifully bound in white and gold, boxed. Price, 60 cents.
 Regular edition, light green, stamped in purple and gold. Price, 50 cents, postpaid.

SOME COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

"The Breath of Life" is a remarkable work of self-helpfulness and is a great masterpiece in the expression of that for which it stands. It may always be relied upon for counsel, with the surety that, when the truths it contains are absorbed into the soul and thence have spread their vast vitalities into the ultimates of being, its individual possessor will be a truly happy person and one whose destiny is in his own hands.—Boston Ideas.

The book is certainly true to its title, every thought being a life-giving inspiration and a ready aid to spiritual development. Simple and direct in presentation, it is a capital work to put into the hands of earnest truth-seekers of every class.—Mind.

The affirmations of this book are healing, strengthening and invigorating as sea breezes. Send it to your weak or ailing friend; hand it to the invalid.

It meets you with help in every case where help is needed and presents an infallible suggestion, enabling you to overcome difficulties in all relations. . . . A very arsenal of spiritual force.—Morrison's Cyclops.

One of these delightful little books that are exactly the thing to offer to a friend who asks you all sorts of questions concerning mental treatment, and who desires some definite directions how to go to work to apply metaphysical theory in practical action.

—W. J. COLVILLE in The Faith and Hope Messenger.
