The difficulty existing in the jurisdiction of Quebec is so well known that it is hardly necessary to allude to it. The fact however is patent to all on this side of the Atlantic, who love the honour and dignity of Masonry, that rejected material from other jurisdictions can obtain degrees at a lower figure than anywhere else, and within a shorter period, from these lodges existing in Montreal, under the authority of the Grand Lodge of Scotland. To maintain that such a state of affairs should be tolerated is unjust, and whatever may be the arguments in favour of the action of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, I can only say, that unless some speedy termination is come to, no Grand Lodge on this continent will recognise a brother hailing from the Grand Lodge of Scotland. Some years ago, when the Grand Orient of France recognised a spurious Masonic organisation in the State of Louisiana, one Grand Lodge after another in the United States withdrew all fraternal relations with her, and her adherents were unable to obtain admission into any subordinate lodge, and so it must unfortunately be with our Scottish brethren, if lodges working in Montreal under the authority of the Grand Lodge of Scotland continue to accept the rejected material of other Grand Lodge jurisdictions.

These are the troubles, then, that at the present time ruffle the blue waters on which the ship of Canadian Masonry calmly floats. They are not many, still they should not exist, and if clear judgment could only influence these recreant brethren, there would soon not be any. Ambition defrated has been at the bottom of every one of these movements. A few men who loved title and power more than Masonry have vented their spleen in secession, schism, and rebellion, and in order to gratify their vanity, and satiate their covetousness, have thrown to the winds their Masonic obligations, and attempted to stab with a poisoned dagger those whom they should have supported and upheld.

In every Grand jurisdiction throughout the Dominion, Blue Lodge Masonry, but for these difficulties, is in a very satisfactory condition. In the treasury of the mother Grand Lodge of Canada there is now over £10,000 stg., and in those of Quebec, Nova Scotia, &c., amounts equal in proportion. The widows and orphans of our brethren are not neglected, and much is given to aged brethren, and those in distress. The lodges as a rule are well attended, and the work is generally excellent.

Before closing I would suggest that the better plan, in fact the only feasible one, for settling these difficulties, would be for the disputants to leave the subject to some impartial judges from sister Grand Lodge jurisdictions. The present position of these organisations is far from pleasant for all parties, and I feel confident that, the different Grand Lodges that have been injured by these bodies would willingly forget the past, and receive within their folds those who have deserted and differed from them, and thus harmony and peace amongst the fraternity would reign from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and the escutcheon of Canadian Freemasonry would not be disgraced, as it now is, by the schisms and attendant bickerings and discords of rivalry and jealousy.

MASONIC BANQUET AT DUBLIN.

Preceptory 245, of the Order of the Temple, gave a banquet in celebration of the wedding of H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, Great Prior of the Order in Ireland. Andrew Fitzpatrick, Preceptor, occupied the chair, supported by R. W. Sheekleton, Esq., G.C.; Edward Hamilton, Esq., M.D.; the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, Sir John Barington, Alderman Manning, Capel Macnamara, Esq., Alderman Cochrane, George Woodward, Esq., Samuel Boucher, Esq., J. D. Cope, Esq., Hepburne, Esq., M.D., Powell, Esq., M.D., R. Wade, Esq., M.D., T. McGovern, Esq., Forsythe, Esq., M.D., R. Mitchell, Esq., W. Pulano, Esq., R. Herron, Esq., R. Clay, Esq., J. Wilson, Esq., D. Armstrong, Esq., W. F. Lawlor, Esq., Henry Gibson, Esq., John Young, Esq., W. Marr, Esq., Freeman, Esq., Fitzmaurice, Esq., C. Rankin, Esq., T. Atkinson, Esq., Wm. McCoy, Esq., Joseph Wonfer, Esq., W. Curtis, Esq., James Flynn, Esq., Registrar, and others.

The M.E. Preceptor in proposing "The Health of Her Majesty the Queen," said he had much pleasure in doing so, for it was a toast that was always received in assemblages of Irish gentlemen with becoming manifestations of loyalty and respect, but particularly amongst Irish H.K. Templars, and he simply stated the truth when he said that in no assembly and from no people did the name of Queen Victoria receive a more warm welcome or a more royal reception than at their board, for they yielded to none in their allegiance to their Sovereign. The toast was drunk with great enthusiasm, and the National Anthem sung, all the brethren joining heartily.

The next toast, being that of "His R.H. the Prince of Wales, the Princess of Wales, and the other members of the Royal Family," was proposed, and received a hearty welcome and warm response. Song, "God bless the Prince of Wales."

The M.E. Preceptor again rose and said: We now come to a toast which I am sure will be hailed by you with the applause and welcome which it deserves—it is that of "H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught and his Royal Bride." (Great cheering, which continued for some minutes.) This is not the first time that the walls of this banqueting hall have resounded with the plaudits evoked by the toast of the health of this Royal and accomplished Duke. By associating his name with Freemasonry in this country he has won the esteem of many; by identifying his name with this Christian Order he has added increased lustre to his Royal name, and we sincerely trust that the solemn covenant he has entered into may serve to increase his future happiness, and that himself and his Royal bride may be long spared to each other and see many happy days. The toast was received with immense enthusiasm. R. W. Sheekleton, Esq., G.C., responded in an eloquent speech, and said he trusted the day was not far distant when they would have the honour of giving H.R.H. and his Royal bride a hearty welcome upon the Irish shore.

Dr. O'Donoghue presided at the piano, and played a march which he composed for the occasion, and sang an ode.

Bro. Samuel Boucher sang a few Irish ballads suitable for the occasion.

The Right Hon. the Lord Mayor proposed "The Health of the Officers of the Preceptory."

The evening was very much enlivened by music and the singing of several songs. The company separated at an early hour.

BRO. DAY KEYWORTH'S STATUE OF THE LATE BRO. BANNISTER.

We have just seen in the studio of Bro. Wm. Day Keyworth, of Buckingham Palace-road, the finished model of a colossal statue of the late Bro. Bannister, the "bluff" but kindly-hearted and highly popular Alderman of Hull. When executed in marble the statue will take its place in the Town Hall, among the other celebrities from the same gifted chisel. These are: Andrew Marvel, Milton's friend and coadjutor; William de la Pole, the famous Hull merchant of mediæval times, and founder of an historic race whose blood mingled with that of the Royal Tudors; Michael de la Pole, Earl of Suffolk, another member of the same family; and lastly, James Clay, for many years M.P. for Hull, and one of our greatest authorities in all matters pertaining to the game of whist.

The figure which is to join this distinguished company of the silent is that of a strong bearded, massive headed, broad shouldered, bluff Englishman, who, in the consciousness of truth and a righteous cause, stands, thumb in waistcoat, with an easy, natural dignity arising from perfection of physique, and which might have pertained to Hercules, had he been a clothed Christian, instead of a nude Pagan gentleman. The modelling of the figure is wonderfully facile, and the likeness, as well as the air and character of the whole man, have been seized, we are assured, with undoubted success. We can bear testimony of our own knowledge to its being the most life-like and artistic performance that has yet come from Bro. Keyworth's hand.

In the same studio will be found in low relief a three-quarter face of the late Rev. Edward Wormald, the eloquent pastor of the Albion Congregational Church, Hull. It will form part of a monument to be erected to his memory, and will doubtless prove very grateful to the congregation from the delicate and tender modelling the artist has bestowed on the spiritual face of their beloved pastor.

R.W. BRO. HENRY MURRAY'S RECITAL OF "OTHELLO."

The Birmingham Daily Gazette of the 7th March says a large number of the members of the Order many of whom wore Masonic decorations, and their friends assembled in the Masonic Hall, the previous evening, to listen to a reading of Othello by R.W. Bro. H. Murray. To attempt to sustain the attention of an audience for over two hours by a simple reading, no matter how splendid the subject, is at all times an ambitious task. Bro. Murray, however, acquitted himself to the complete satisfaction of his numerous hearers in his delineation, by the music and variation of the human voice, of the varied characters and passions in the tragedy of Othello. In the first act the scenes in which Roderigo, Iago, and Brabantio take part gave a fair specimen of Bro. Murray's elocutionary ability. The lines of Roderigo were read lightly, and the interpreter did not fall into the common error of making Roderigo, who is simply a foolish gentleman, into the stage buffoon. Iago was a blunt soldier, and only in the last scene of this act did the audience get the first glimpse of the subtle villain who is to wreck the happiness of the noble Moor. In this act the reader gave special prominence to the speeches of Brabantio, the powerful grief of the wronged and deceived father being rendered with telling effect, and receiving hearty marks of approval from the listeners. The fine speeches of Othello before the Senate were delivered with much taste, not in a loud tone, but with a voice capable of great modulation. The quiet dignity of manner was improved by the skillful use of emphasis in some of the best-known passages, the words of which are probably as well known to a Warwickshire audience as to the elocutionist himself. The reading of the second act was chiefly noticeable for the accomplished manner in which the chief character in the play was brought into his place, the speeches of Othello being rendered with increasing power, and eliciting hearty applause. The story of the confiding and weak-minded Cassio's temptation to drink by Iago was also a cleverly rendered scene, the part of the Moor's lieutenant being given with taste, and the subtle craft of the tempter showing in well defined contrast. The closing speech of the wily Antient was read with spirit, which finely illustrated the hidden hatred rankling in his breast. The third act, always a favourite with readers and audiences, showed Bro. Murray to full advantage. The well-known lines in which the Moor is first taught to suspect the fair Venetian whom he has made his wife were not given, as we are so apt to hear them on the stage, in the half hiss, half whisper of the melodramatic villain, but in a subdued conversational tone, every word having its due effect and significance, whilst the gradual breaking of the meaning of the story on the mind of the Moor was shown with a quiet power which was fully acknowledged by the stillness of the audience during the long scene. All through Iago never let his triumphs appear, but was the plain blunt soldier and the seeming friend. Nor did Othello's grief take the form of boisterous rant, but was portrayed with a sympathy which was effective because it was natural. When at last, however, the full light of his position is realised, then Bro. Murray rose to the occasion, and the burst of passion at the end of the third act showed that the reader possessed a reserve of dramatic power which the audience had not suspected. The spirit of this scene was finely illustrated, and the dramatic vigour of the reader was heartily applauded. Much of the fourth act was omitted—the incident of the handkerchief and the parts of Desdemona and Emilia were equal to any part of the reading. The opening speech in the fifth act was a masterpiece of pathetic elocution—in fact, it was the gem of the entertainment, every word having its full weight in each sentence, and the deeply sympathetic tone pictured finely the storm of passion and pity struggling for mastery in the bosom of the Moor. The death of Desdemona and the poetical justice which is meted out to the fiendish Iago were also very effective. The final speech of Othello was the signal for long continued applause, in response to which Bro. Murray thanked his audience for the attention they had given to his efforts, and trusted that that evening would be "the fair beginning of a time, and that he should be again permitted to read to a Birmingham audience, whose kindness he should long remember.

CONSECRATION OF THE CORNHILL LODGE No. 1803.—The above new lodge was consecrated by Br. Lieut.-Col. Shadwell Henry Clerke, S.G. Deacon, on Tuesday, the 18th inst., at the New City Club, George-yard Lombard-street. Bro. Edwin March was installed W.M. Bro. Alfred J. Thomas, S.W.; Bro. Chas. Henry Jeff J.W.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has graciously consented to be the patron of the Hospital of Women, 60th-square.

FREEMASONRY IN NEW ZEALAND.

The installation of W.M. and officers of the Lazar Lodge took place on Friday, January the 10th, at 3 p.m., in the Masonic Hall, Kumara. The R.W.D.G.M., Bro. Lazar, assisted by his D.D.G.M., Bro. Bevan, and the following D.G. Officers, Bros. J. Hudson, P.D.G.S.W.; Binning, D.G.J.W.; the Rev. G. T. N. Watkins, D.G.C.; Thomson, D.G.S.B.; H. Hyams, D.G.D. of C.; James Bevan, D.G.J.D.; J. Klein, D.G. Pur.; H. Robinson, D.G.S. Lazar Lodge; and Past Masters W. H. Revell, Greymouth Lodge, 1233 (E.C.); James Wyld, Canterbury; and many brethren from Hokitika and Greymouth attended. The ceremony was performed by the R.W.D.G.M., Bro. Lazar, in his usual brilliant style, and although now at the advanced age of 76 years the old veteran seemed to have lost none of his vigour and impressiveness. The ceremony was listened to with the greatest attention by the brethren, and much appreciated.

The W.M. elect having been presented by the retiring W.M., Bro. E. Ancher, was then duly placed in the chair of K.S. with the usual formalities, and saluted as W.M. in the various degrees. Before closing the lodge a most hearty vote of thanks was recorded on the minutes to the R.W.D.G.M. and his officers for their kindness in performing the ceremony; the newly installed W.M. returned thanks in a few appropriate words, and the lodge closed in peace, love, and harmony, at 5.30 p.m. In the evening about 50 brethren sat down to a splendid banquet in the Empire Hotel, Kumara. The newly installed Bro. Furby presided, and on his right were the R.W.D.G.M., the W.D.D.G.M., Bro. P.M. Revell, and on his left Bro. I.P.M. E. Ancher, the Rev. G. Watkins, and P.M. Biney, W.M. of the Pacific Lodge, Hokitika, and other brethren of Masonic rank. The toast of "The Queen and Craft," "His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M. of England, and all the Royal Family," "The M.W.G.M.'s of Ireland and Scotland," having been duly honoured, the W.M. called on the brethren to drink to "The Health and Happiness of our venerable and esteemed Chief, the R.W.D.G.M., Bro. Lazar," and expressed a sincere hope that it would please the Great Master of us all to preserve him for us for many more meetings of a similar nature.

The R.W. brother on rising to respond was greeted with the warmest applause, and said: W.M. and brethren, I thank you heartily for the kind manner in which you have responded to the toast, and beg to assure you that as long as I am spared health and strength to travel I shall always consider attending the installations of officers of the various lodges within my district a labour of love. It affords me great pleasure in having installed our worthy Bro. Furby, as W.M., and although young in years he has had good Masonic education, which will no doubt be made proper use of during his term of office as Master of this lodge, and with the assistance of the I.P.M., Bro. Ancher, and his officers I have no fears but that the lodge will be conducted in the same satisfactory manner as it has been for the last two years. The W.W. brother concluded by wishing prosperity to the Lazar Lodge. (Applause.)

Bro. P.M. Ancher proposed "The Health of the W.D.D.G.M., Bro. John Bevan, and the D.G. Officers," and paid a very high and well-merited compliment to the abilities of Bro. Bevan as a Mason. He, Bro. Ancher, was sure that he only expressed the sentiments of all present in saying that Bro. Bevan was in every way worthy of the exalted position he held in the Craft in Westland, having known Bro. Bevan from the earliest days of Masonry on the west coast, and seen the great interest he took in everything concerning Freemasonry.

The D.D.G.M., Bro. Bevan, on rising to respond was received with the most cordial applause, and said that he felt grateful to the I.P.M., Bro. Ancher, for the very kind manner in which he had proposed the toast, and likewise to the brethren for their kind reception of it; he assured the brethren that it gave him the greatest pleasure to be present on the occasion of Bro. Furby's installation. Having known Bro. Furby for a long time, he, Bro. Bevan, thought that the newly-installed W.M. could do no better than by following in the footsteps of his predecessor, Bro. Ancher, and the lodge would be sure to go on in the same excellent manner as it had done since its formation. He congratulated the brethren, and said that the Lazar Lodge was really a credit to the whole of the Institution, and particularly to the district of Westland. Bro. Bevan again thanked the brethren, and resumed his seat amidst great applause.

Bro. P.M. Ancher then called on the brethren to charge their glasses, and said, in proposing the next toast: I know that it only requires of me to name it to ensure it that cordial response to which it is entitled, namely, "The W.M., Bro. Furby." (Great applause.) Bro. Furby had held the office of J. and S.W. in the Lazar Lodge, and by his kindly and gentlemanly disposition had won the respect and esteem of his fellow officers and members of the lodge, and although he, Bro. Ancher, had opposed Bro. Furby at the last election, to which some brethren at the time objected, yet he thought and felt certain that Bro. Furby himself was not sorry now, having had another year's experience. Bro. Furby was comparatively a young man and Mason, and he could safely say that Bro. Furby was one of the youngest Masters in the Craft—in fact, he was one of a thousand, having attained so high a position at so early an age, but from the proofs given by Bro. Furby in lodge of instruction, he, Bro. Ancher, felt satisfied that the lodge would be well conducted during the ensuing twelve months by Bro. Furby, seeing that he had used great care in the selection of his officers. Bro. Ancher concluded by assuring the W.M. that he might at all times rely on his hearty assistance, and called on the brethren to drink health and happiness to their W.M., Bro. Furby, which was done in a most enthusiastic manner. Song by Bro. J. W. John Williams, "Three times three."

Bro. Furby on rising was greeted with hearty applause, and said: R.W.D.G.M. and brethren, I scarcely know what to say in response to the very flattering remarks made by the I.P.M., Bro. Ancher, in proposing the toast of my health since the Lazar Lodge has been in existence, now a period of two years, I have, during that time, filled the offices of J. and S.W., and I have endeavoured to the utmost of my ability to discharge the duties of those offices creditably, and, from the remarks that have fallen from Bro. Ancher, P.M., it affords me extreme gratification to learn that my endeavours have been successful. You have, brethren, chosen me as W.M. of your lodge, and I can assure you that while I have the privilege of presiding over you I trust that I shall do so with credit to myself and honour to the lodge, but I must in this depend, to a great extent, on the willing support of my officers, and if I obtain from them that support which I require I have no doubt of my success, and when my term of office has expired I trust that you will have no cause to regret your choice. I thank you very much, brethren, for the hearty manner in which you drank the toast of my health.

The D.D.G.M. then proposed "The Health of the I.P.M., Bro. E. Ancher," saying that it afforded him great pleasure in being privileged to propose this toast as he had been an intimate friend of Bro. Ancher for many years, in fact, ever since the foundation of Masonry in Westland, and felt much pleasure in bearing testimony to the untiring zeal of Bro. Ancher. In anything that concerned Masonry he (Bro. Bevan) quite agreed with the remarks that had fallen from Bro. Ancher, that the newly-installed W.M. had gained much experience by serving another year as S.W., and, from the manner in which the lodge had been conducted during the term of the I.P.M.'s office, he felt sure that Bro. Furby would remember many useful lessons. He called on the brethren to drink heartily to the health and prosperity of Bro. Ancher.

Bro. Ancher, P.M., in rising to respond, said that he felt extremely obliged to his friend, the D.D.G.M., Bro. Bevan, for the very kind manner in which the toast had been proposed, and also for the kind reception it had received at the hands of the brethren. Bro. Bevan had said a great deal in his (Bro. Ancher's) praise as regards the management of the lodge during his term of office as W.M., and knowing that Bro. Bevan was always sincere in his remarks regarding any officer's conduct he (Bro. Ancher) thought that he had just reason to feel satisfied that his services had been approved of by all. From the formation of the lodge to the present time he had always endeavoured to maintain order and discipline in the lodge, as he was well convinced, from long experience, that without that no institution could possibly prosper; he was also pleased to state that he had at all times received the most cordial and kind assistance from his officers, and was pleased to see that his successor in office had so carefully considered these brethren's past services, and promoted them to higher offices, for which he knew they were well qualified. Bro. Ancher concluded by again thanking the brethren, and resumed his seat amidst applause.

The R.W.D.G.M. then proposed "The Health of the Newly-Installed Officers," coupled with the names of Bros. Nicholson and Williams, S. and J. Wardens, and said that he felt convinced that the selection the W.M. had made was most satisfactory. He (Bro. Lazar) was more particularly so, judging from the very marked attention given to the various charges which he had that day delivered to the officers at their installation, and also from the manner in which each officer had discharged his respective duties in the lodge during the day, and, further, seriously exhorted them to zealously assist the W.M. during his term of office, reminding them that it was only by strict attention to their duties, and obedience to the W.M., that they could expect similar obedience from the members. The toast was drunk with enthusiasm. Bro. Nicholson, in reply, begged to thank the brethren for the cordial manner in which the toast had been responded to, and assured the brethren he should endeavour as far as lay in his power to prove himself deserving of the honour which had that day been conferred upon him. Bro. Williams also addressed the brethren, and said that he heartily thanked the R.W.D.G.M. for the flattering manner in which the toast had been proposed, and likewise for the kind reception given to it by the brethren. He, Bro. Williams, was aware that it was essentially necessary that the officers should to the utmost of their power assist the W.M. in the discharge of his duties, as without it the lodge could not prosper, and knowing this he begged to assure the brethren that nothing should be wanting on his part to do so, and in all matters strive to render himself worthy of the high honour that had been conferred upon him. Bro. Williams concluded by again thanking the brethren.

"The Rearing Officers" was proposed by Bro. P.M. Revell, who in a very neat speech acknowledged the pleasure he felt at being present, and tendered some very good advice to all Masons generally.

Bro. P.M. the Rev. G. T. N. Watkins then proposed "The Lazar Lodge," coupled with the names of Bros. Ancher and Furby, the principal founders of the lodge. He said that it afforded him at all times the greatest pleasure to visit the Lazar Lodge; there was in his, Bro. Watkins's, opinion, something so cosy and comfortable about the Lazar Lodge, and at the same time everything seemed to be carried on as if one spirit animated the minds of the whole of the officers and members. He thanked the brethren for having afforded him the pleasing privilege of being present on this auspicious occasion, and trusted that he would see many brethren of the Lazar Lodge in Greymouth when their installation of officers took place. He again thanked the brethren, and resumed his seat amidst great applause. Bro. P.M. Ancher and Bro. Furby, W.M., briefly replied.

"The Pacific Lodge of Hokitika, E.C.," was then proposed by Bro. P.M. Ancher, who said that the Pacific Lodge was unquestionably one of the best conducted lodges that it had been his privilege to visit; he congratulated the W.M. of that lodge, Bro. Binning, on the very excellent management of the Pacific Lodge, and trusted that the brethren present would muster up and go down to Hokitika on the occasion of the installation of the newly-elected W.M., Bro. James Bevan, whom he was glad to see present amongst them. Bro. Binning briefly replied, and assured the Kinnard brethren of a hearty welcome whenever they came his way.

"The Sister Lodges" was then proposed by Bro. Williams, and responded to by Past Masters Hudson, Revell, Watkins, and Bevan.

"The Lodges under the S.C. and I.C." was then proposed, coupled with the name of Bro. Michel, S.W., of the Westland Kilwinning, by Bro. P.M. Hudson, and briefly replied to by Bro. Michel.

"The Newly-initiated," coupled with the names of Bros. Brookfield and Wells, by Bro. P.M. Ancher. Bro. Brookfield replied in a few pleasing words.

"The Visitors," proposed by Bro. Furby, W.M. Bros. Klein and Ward responded.

Tyler's toast, by the Tyler.

The brethren dispersed at one a.m., after having enjoyed a most pleasant evening. Several of the brethren sang some very good songs, and all expressed a wish of "happy to meet again."

Order of St. Lawrence.

YORK.—Ebor Lodge.—A meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday, the 18th inst., the W.M., Bro. Geo. Simpson, presiding, the following officers also being present: J. S. Cumberland, S.W.; T. Cooper, J.W.; A. T. B. Turner, Recorder; T. Humphries, I.G.; Rev. W. C. Lukis, Chaplain; W. P. Husband, K. of G. The previous minutes having been confirmed, two candidates were introduced and advanced to the degree, Bro. T. B. Whytehead, P.M., acting as Conductor. The Recorder was instructed to make inquiries concerning the reported movement for forming a central ruling body for the degree, of which no official communication had been received by the lodge.

Public Amusements.

CHEETHAM TOWN HALL, MANCHESTER.—A dramatic and musical entertainment was given on Tuesday evening, the 17th inst., in this hall by Bros. Albert Brenner and John Wainwright. The performance commenced with the petite comedy entitled He's a Lunatic, in which Bro. Wainwright sustained the part of "March Hare," a character he has performed no less than 500 times. It is needless to remark that his personification was as good as ever, and drew forth loud expressions of approval from the audience. In this he was ably seconded by Miss Fanny Clark, who acted with great spirit. A miscellaneous concert followed, in which Miss Annie Salted sang "Wapping Old Stairs" very fairly, and Mr. G. Sheldon gave a humorous song, entitled "Sam Blowcoach," which greatly tickled the audience. Bro. Albert Brenner then gave, with great taste and feeling, "Annie, Dear, Good-bye," and, in response to a vociferous encore, sang "I am so very Sleepy," from The Sultan of Mocha, in which opera Bro. Brenner has been lately performing. "My Lord Tommody" was next recited by Bro. Wainwright in good style, and, in response to an encore, gave a pathetic rendering of the "Ratcatcher's Daughter." This portion of the entertainment concluded with a recitation by Bro. Doubavaand, entitled "Jamie's Frolic," a Lancashire poem, which he gave in such grand style that he was summoned before the audience, and then recited "The Ivy and the Bell." The entertainment concluded with Bidbin's ballad opera The Waterman, in which Bro. Albert Brenner very ably performed the part of "Tom Tug." His renderings of "The Jolly Young Waterman," "Farewell, my Trim built Wherry," and "The Bay of Biscay," were received with great favour, especially the latter, which was encored, and the last verse repeated. Bro. J. Wainwright was irresistibly comic as "Robin," and fairly convulsed the audience, while Mr. G. Sheldon acted the part of "Mr. Bundle" very creditably. There was a very fair attendance, amongst whom we noticed several of the Masonic fraternity.

SHEFFIELD.—On the 27th ult. the Sheffield Masonic Amateur Dramatic Society gave the opening performance of its second season, the plays selected for the first night being Alice and Perfection, and for the following evening Our Wife, Sweethearts, and Braganzio the Brigand. So far as Alice, Perfection, and Sweethearts were concerned they were most admirably rendered, and left nothing to be desired. Our Wife was well played, but the previous efforts of those engaged in it certainly led us to expect something even better, as in the bye-play and business there was evidence of a lack of study. Braganzio the Brigand was a—well, perhaps the less we say the better. Too much praise cannot be accorded to the managers, whose efforts were simply untiring, the scenery being a very great success; and another praiseworthy and noticeable feature was the music. The company received valuable assistance from Miss Frederica Taylor and Miss Marie Montgomery, who rendered their several parts with their acknowledged ability, meeting with a warm reception and repeated plaudits. The hall was crowded, showing these entertainments have passed into an "institution" with our worthy Sheffield brethren and their lady friends. From these two performances may be deduced the useful lesson, not to look Alice for Perfection in Sweethearts, or even Our Wife, much less in a Brigand.

Masonic and General Tidings.

"Hughan's Numerical and Numismatical Register of Lodges, &c.," is the first work to give a list of the special jewels worn by certain lodge members in England. It also contains the first complete register of lodges to whom centenary warrants have been granted, and is the only volume in which an account is afforded of all the jewels allowed to be worn by members under the Grand Lodge of England. The "Masonic Register" is, moreover, the first illustrated work on Masonic Numismatics ever published in England, and the first to present in proper order the numbers of all the lodges immediately before and after the "Union" of Dec., 1813, and as altered in 1832 and 1863, by which tables any lodge can be traced which was on the roll of either Grand Lodge at the "Union," and all its numerical changes can easily be noted. The frontispiece of the arms of the United Grand Lodge of England, and five plates of special and Royal Masonic medals are, the first of the kind ever produced, and, being in appropriate colours, are of considerable value.

The Annual Dinner of the Royal Asylum of St. Ann's, on the 26th inst., and that of the Eating House Keepers on Monday, May 5th, at which Bro. Sheriff Burt will preside, will be held at the Cannon Street Hotel, and not at Willis's Rooms, as stated in our last.

The annual installation meeting of the members of the Pembroke Lodge, No. 1299, took place on Thursday afternoon at Rawlinson's Hotel, West Derby, near Liverpool. A full report of the proceedings will be given in next issue.

AMABLE VAUGHAN.—Bro. Emma Holmes, whose new work, recently reviewed in these pages, was dedicated, by permission, to our young, amiable, student Prince, President of the Royal Society of Literature and Art, has, we learn, just received a very gratifying communication from Bro. R. H. Collins, the Prince's private Secretary, in which the courteous writer says:—"His Royal Highness Prince Leopold desires me to thank you for the two copies of your work which you have sent to him, and to inform you that he will lay the second copy before the Queen for Her Majesty's acceptance."

At a meeting held at Cheltenham, on Saturday, 15th inst., it was announced that Bro. Agg Gardner, M.P., would not seek re-election to the House of Commons. A deputation was appointed to induce him to reconsider his determination.

Bro. Dr. Charles Hogg, of Charterhouse-square, has engaged to give a lecture on "The Genius and Poetry of Burns," on Tuesday, the 25th inst., at the lecture-room of the Weigh House Chapel. The lecture will be illustrated by a choice selection of songs (by Burns), to be given by Mrs. Marshall, assisted by her friends.

Bro. William Stokes, of the Royal Polytechnic, is re-engaged at the Aquarium, Westminster, and his pupils are giving some extraordinary proofs of acquired power of verbal memory, obtained by the system of Mnemonics.

THE LATE C. E. CAWLEY, M.P.—A posthumous life-sized portrait of this gentleman, painted by Bro. Captain Charles Mercier, has been presented by subscription to the Royal Masonic Library, Salford, which borough Mr. Cawley represented in Parliament for many years.

National Hospital for Diseases of the Heart and Paralysis, Soho-square.—At the annual meeting of Governors, the Right Hon. the Earl of Glasgow in the chair, the report and balance sheet were submitted and passed. The number of in-patients were during the year 87, and the attendance of out-patients 8866. Col. Aikman, V.C., proposed a vote of thanks to the noble Chairman, which was duly carried. Amongst others present were Messrs. Malcolm Low, Layton, Handley, Booty, Syms, Sheridan, M.P., Captain Gilmore, R.N., Drs. Vincent Ambler, Ridsdale, Duncan, Verley. A new lease having been obtained of the hospital, most extensive repairs have had to be executed at a large outlay.

An amateur dramatic performance will be given at the Aquarium Theatre, on Monday next, in aid of the Printers' Pension Corporation. The bill contains the attractions of "Box and Cox," "The Lady of Lyons," and "The Two Bonnycastles," and the cast contains some names well-known in Press circles.

The wife of Lord Grosvenor, P.G.W., gave birth to a son and heir at Saughton Towers, Chester, on Thursday, an event which has caused great rejoicing in the house of Eaton, the Countess having given birth previously to two daughters. Dr. Dobie, the family physician, was in attendance, and his latest bulletin is that both mother and the child, a fine boy, are doing well.

DEAR AND CHEAP VEGETABLES.—The Pall Mall Gazette of January 18th mentions that in a suburb of London the following prices are charged for vegetables:—Carrots, 1d. each; turnips, 3d. each; parsnips, 3d. each; savoy, 2d. each; potatoes proportionately dear. These exorbitant prices should induce all who have a spare piece of ground to grow their own vegetables. Messrs. Sutton & Sons, the Queen's seedsmen, Reading, supply collections of vegetable seeds for the amateur's small garden at 12s. 6d., 15s., and 21s. each, the latter collection carriage free; while those who prefer making their own selection can have all seeds sent free by post (except peas and beans) on receipt of order. "Sutton's Amateur's Guide in Horticulture," which contains full particulars as to when to sow, what to sow, and how to sow, may be had post free for 15 stamps, or for 1s. at all the railway bookstalls.

HOLLOWAY'S PULS AND OINTMENT.—During piercing winds and excessive variations of temperature every one is more or less liable to internal and external diseases. Throat, chest, liver, bowels, kidneys, and skin all suffer in some degree, and may be relieved by rubbing in this Ointment, aided by proper doses of the Pills, for administering which full directions accompany each box; in truth, any one who thoroughly masters Holloway's "instructions" will, in remedying disease, exchange the labour of an hour for the profit of a lifetime. All bronchial, pulmonary, and throat disorders require that the Ointment should be thoroughly well rubbed upon the skin twice a-day with great regularity, considerable briskness, and much persistence.—[Adv.]

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

METROPOLITAN LODGE (No. 1507).—The members of this lodge met at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street, on Wednesday, the 19th inst., the W.M., Bro. J. Douglass, in the chair. There were also present the officers, Bros. C. J. Scates, S.W.; W. Side, J.W.; R. T. Kingham, I.P.M.; J. J. Michael, P.M.; J. Willing, P.M., Treas.; W. Stiles (W.M. 1732), Sec.; H. Stiles, I.G.; H. Lovegrove, W.S.; and Daly, Tyler; with members, Bros. Edmonds, Gilbert, Gilbert, jun., Killingback, Rancy, Tuck, Beattie, H. Clark, C.C., Cruikshanks, F. J. Perks, Smith, Clarkson, Ward, Dimsdale, G. Edwards, Brooker, Deboul, Musgrave, and others. There were several visitors, Bros. Hubbard, Detray, Kauffman, Moss, Browning, and others. As the candidates for initiation and passing were not in attendance there were, for the first time in the history of the lodge, no ceremonies worked, so the business on the summons was proceeded with. The election of Treasurer was unanimous in favour of Bro. J. Willing, P.M., who has held the office for some years to the satisfaction of the lodge; Bro. Daly was re-elected Tyler, and the S.W., Bro. C. J. Scates, was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing twelve months. It was proposed by Bro. R. T. Kingham, I.P.M., and seconded by Bro. J. Willing, P.M., "That the summer festival be held, as usual, in July," and a Committee was appointed for the purpose of carrying out the arrangements for the same. The following members were elected to serve on the Audit Committee:—Bros. Tuck, Cruikshanks, Beattie, Edmonds, and Ward, all the officers being ex-officio members. A vote of thanks was, by acclamation, given to Bro. J. Douglass, W.M., for the attention he had given to his duties, and the skilful manner in which he had performed them, during his year of office. At the conclusion of the business the brethren adjourned to the banquet, where the usual toasts were given, and some excellent singing by Bros. Stiles, Musgrave, and Moss was much appreciated.

TEMPLE BAR LODGE (No. 1728).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held on the 20th inst., at the London, Fleet-street, under the presidency of Bro. T. W. C. Bush, W.M. There were also present, among others, Bros. Dixon, I.P.M.; Geo. Adamson, P.P.S.A.D.C. Kent; C. Butcher, S.W.; A. E. Staley, J.W.; Kennett Harris, W.S. 1185, S.D.; B. Buckworth, J.D.; J. Kimpton, I.G.; W. Woodward, W.S.; Jas. Rexworthy, D.C.; Frost, Organist; Recknell (acting Secretary), Mackrell, Charles, Chapman, Carter, and others. Visitors: Bros. Bayley, S.W. 185; A. Sturt, 1328; Moss, and Reeves. After the reading and confirmation of the minutes of last meeting, Bro. Andrews was passed to the Second Degree, and Messrs. Fowler, Gathercole, Meek, and Bleck were initiated in a most impressive manner by the W.M., which won for him the applause of all the brethren present. Some other Masonic business having been disposed of, the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to a well served banquet in the adjoining saloon, and afterwards honoured the customary toasts. The W.M., in response to the toast of his health, took the opportunity of thanking the members of the lodge for the very handsome manner in which they were supporting him in his Stewardship for the Girls' School at the coming festival, for which he was proud to tell them that his list already exceeded 100 guineas. The Visitors, in responding to their health, thanked the W.M. for the pleasure they had experienced both in his excellent working and the hospitality of the lodge. In proposing "The Officers" the W.M. expressed his grief at the great loss their worthy Treasurer, Bro. Adamson, had sustained in the death of his son, and also at the loss of the Dover pilot cutter off Dungeness, by which fifteen brother Masons had been suddenly called to the Grand Lodge above, one of them being P.M. and Treasurer of his mother lodge. The Tyler's toast brought an agreeable evening to a close, which was made the more cheerful by some excellent music and singing by Bros. Rexworthy, Kennett Harris, Bayley, Frost, and Recknell.

SOUTHAMPTON.—Royal Gloucester Lodge (No. 130).—At the last monthly meeting of this lodge the I.P.M. was presented by the officers and members with a five guinea Past Master's jewel, the square with the forty-seventh proposition of the Book of Euclid on a plate pendant within it, in recognition of his services to the lodge for the year 1878. During the present month Bro. Phillips has presided at the lodge of instruction, working under the warrant of the above lodge, when, in accordance with the bye-laws, the Seven Sections of the First Lecture have been worked as follows:—First night, First Section, Bro. Bemister; Second Section, Bro. H. Lashmore; Third Section, Bro. Curd; Fourth Section, Bro. Phillips (the questions in the fourth being asked by Bro. R. Sharpe, P.M., Hon. Sec. and Treasurer of the lodge). Second night, Fifth Section, Bro. James Cole; Sixth Section, Bro. C. Marshall; and Seventh Section, Bro. T. Lashmore. Bro. Sidney Myer has been elected W.M. of the lodge for the month of April, when the remaining eight Sections of the Second and Third Lectures will be worked, previous to the summer recess of the lodge, which, thanks chiefly to Bro. Sharpe, is in excellent working order, and has been the means of assisting materially in their duties the W.M.'s and officers of more than one of the lodges in the town during the past year.

SHEERNESS.—Adam's Lodge (No. 158).—On Thursday, the 20th inst., a large number of the brethren of this old-established and very prosperous lodge celebrated their annual festival in the board-room of the Sheerness Local Board of Health (kindly lent for the occasion). The adjourned regular meeting of the lodge was duly opened at 2.30 by the W.M., Bro. J. P. Watts, the all important event of the assembly being the installation of Bro. Robert Derry, S.W. and W.M. elect. The following Installed Masters were present at the installation: Bros. T. M. Rigg, P.M., 1089, P.P.G.Reg.; W. Pannell, P.M. and Secretary 1089, Z. 158, P.P.G. Superintendent of Works; Alexander Spears, P.M. and Treasurer 158, P.Z. and T. 158, P.P.G.O.; John Bagshaw, P.M. and S. 158, P.Z. and E. 158, P.P.G.O.; George H. Chixfield, W.M. 127; J. M. Longhurst, W.M. 133; William Rankin, W.M. 184; H. G. Clarkson, W.M. 1089; Henry Tuff, W.M. 1273; Wm. Furner Carpenter, P.M. 158; Thos. J. Firminger, P.M. 158; Joseph R. Brett, P.M. 158; M. W. West, P.M. 1089; E. J. Penney, P.M. 1089. Previous to proceeding with the installation, the W.M., Bro. Watts, presented, in appropriate terms, to Bro. W. T. Carpenter, P.M., in the name and by the unanimous vote of the lodge, a beautiful P.M.'s jewel, as a mark of the esteem felt for him by his brethren, and for the very valuable services he had rendered to the lodge. Bro. Derry having been presented to the W.M. by Bro. Firminger, D.C., was duly and according to ancient custom placed in the chair of King Solomon in such a masterly and impressive manner by Bro. Watts, as to elicit the highest commendation from the brethren. Having been raised to the seat of government, the newly-elected Worshipful Master invested the following brethren as his officers during his term of office:—Bros. J. P. Watts, I.P.M.; C. Austin, R.N., S.W.; M. J. Sullivan, R.N., J.W.; Alexander Spears, P.M., Treas.; W. T. Carpenter, P.M., Sec.; G. T. Green, S.D.; E. Stutely, J.D.; T. J. Firminger, D. of C.; W. W. Grimwood, Org.; F. C. Paul, I.G.; H. Sole and J. H. Lee, Stewards; and J. Akhurst, Tyler. The investment being concluded, the W.M. presented the I.P.M., Bro. Watts, with a Past Master's jewel, as a mark of respect for his services during the past year. Votes of thanks were unanimously given to Bro. Watts, P.M., for the very excellent manner in which he had installed his successor to the chair, and to the members of the Board of Health for the loan of the board-room. Nothing further offering for the good of Freemasonry in general, and for Adam's Lodge in particular, the lodge was closed, according to ancient custom, with solemn prayer. After the business had been closed, the brethren adjourned to the lodge-room, in the Victoria-buildings, where a most excellent banquet had been provided for them by Mrs. Green, of the Britannia Hotel, widow of the late Bro. J. G. Green, P.M. of Adam's, and P.P.G.J.D. of the province of Kent. The banquet was well served, well attended, about seventy-five being present, and thoroughly enjoyed by all, under the presidency of the W.M. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were afterwards honoured. The toast of "The W.M." was rapturously received, and gracefully acknowledged by Bro. Derry. After a most enjoyable evening, the brethren separated. Bro. Grimwood, the newly-appointed Organist, most ably presided at the pianoforte.

SCARBOROUGH.—Old Globe Lodge (No. 200).—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the lodge-room on Wednesday, the 19th inst., the W.M., Bro. Charles Emerson, in the chair. There was a large number of the brethren present, and among the Past Masters were Bros. Woodall, P.P.G.J.W.; Walshaw, P.P.G.D.C.; Williamson, Millner, and Tomlinson. The officers present were Bros. W. B. Richardson, S.W.; J. R. Dippee, J.W.; C. Roberts, Sec.; E. Cooper, J.D.; and R. Hume, I.G. The lodge having been opened in ancient form, the minutes of the previous lodge were read and confirmed, and the ballot was taken for two candidates for initiation to the mysteries and privileges of our ancient Order, Messrs. Creed and Whittingham, who were unanimously accepted, and duly admitted. The lodge was raised to the Second Degree, and Bro. Bishop having been examined, was entrusted, and retired, when the lodge was opened in the Third Degree, to which Bro. Bishop was duly raised. Some slight commotion arose during the solemn ceremony owing to the sudden illness of a visiting brother. The lodge having been lowered to the First Degree, the Treasurer, Bro. J. W. Woodall, presented his report, which showed the financial position to be very prosperous, and which was accordingly received and adopted. Votes of thanks were passed to Bro. Woodall, as Treasurer, and to Bros. Knaggs and Fowler, the Auditors, also to Bro. Millner, P.M., for his present to the lodge of a handsome pair of Deacon's wands. Bro. Woodall, who is a P.M. of this lodge and a very eminent Mason, expressed his desire to present a life policy of insurance to the Old Globe Lodge, for the purpose of founding a Masonic hall in this town when the lease of the present premises expires. The W.M., on behalf of the brethren of the Old Globe Lodge, tendered Bro. Woodall the best thanks of the lodge for his generous offer, which, he said, was very gladly accepted. The reports of the Easter Entertainment Committee, presented and read by Bro. W. Fraser, and of the Furnishing Committee, read by the W.M., were adopted. After a candidate for initiation had been proposed, and "Hearty Good Wishes" tendered by the visiting brethren, the lodge was closed about 9.45 in ancient form, after which a very pleasant hour was spent in social harmony and fraternal love, enlivened with songs and toasts, the E.A. song being especially honoured.

OPENSHAW.—Lodge of Faith (No. 581).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Wednesday evening, 19th inst., at the Drivers' Inn, Openshaw. At 6.30 p.m. the brethren sat down to tea, which was, as usual, most comfortably provided by the host, Bro. John Battersly, in his usual efficient manner. The lodge was opened in due form, and with solemn prayer, at 7.15, by Bro. Henry Darbyshire, P.M., acting Master, owing to the decease of the W.M., Bro. John Bedford, which took place on the 2nd inst., as duly reported in the Freemason. The following officers and brethren were present: Bros. Greenup, S.W.; Hickson, J.W.; Walker, S.D.; Brougham, J.D.; Parker, P.M., Treasurer; Tyers, P.M., D.C.; Speakman, Hon. Sec.; Johnson, I.G.; Swift, Steward; Beswick, Tyler; Brown, Cordingley, Bradburn, Knott, J. Swift, Lloyd, J. T. Entwisle, J. Hilton; and visiting Bros. Hewitt and Reed, 78; and a brother from Lodge 471. The minutes of the last regular meeting were then read by Bro. Lee Speakman, Hon. Sec., and were unanimously confirmed, also the minutes of the emergency meeting which was held on the 7th inst., as also the dispensation authorising the brethren to wear the clothing of their respective offices on the occasion of the funeral of their W.M., was read by the Secretary, and confirmed. The lodge was then opened in the First Degree by the acting W.M., when Bros. Brougham and Lloyd gave the tongue of good report for Mr. Richard Norris, who was then balloted for, and duly elected and initiated into Ancient Freemasonry by the acting W.M. The working tools of an Entered Apprentice Freemason were very ably explained by Bro. Greenup, S.W., to Bro. Norris, and the charge of initiation by Bro. Hickson, J.W., was, with much ability, delivered. The lodge was opened in the Second Degree, when the test questions were put to Bro. James T. Entwisle, to entitle him to be raised to the Sublime Degree of a M.M., and being answered in a satisfactory manner, he was entrusted with a seat of merit leading to the degree into which he sought to be admitted; he was then ordered to retire to prepare for the ceremony. The lodge was then opened in the Third Degree by the acting W.M., who then called upon Bro. John Parker, P.M. and Treasurer, to take the chair of K.S., and raise Bro. J. T. Entwisle to the Sublime Degree of M.M., which he did in his usual very impressive and effective manner, after which the acting Master then assumed the duties of the chair, and, by authority, declared the M.M. Lodge was closed, and left open in the Second Degree, which degree was also closed, and left open in the First Degree. "Hearty Good Wishes" were then expressed by the visiting brethren, when the acting W.M. delivered a charge or message entrusted to him by the late and much lamented W.M. (for the brethren) shortly before his decease. The message was, with much brotherly love and feeling, delivered by the acting W.M., and with equal feeling and respect received by the brethren, who esteemed their late W.M. very highly. The lodge was then closed in due form, and with solemn prayer, at 9.50 p.m., when the brethren adjourned to the festive board, and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and on this occasion the harmony was dispensed with. The brethren, as usual, were taken to town by the bus provided each lodge night for their convenience.

WOOLWICH.—Nelson Lodge (No. 700).—The usual monthly meeting of the above lodge took place on Wednesday, the 19th inst., at the Masonic Hall, William-street, Bro. A. C. Woodley in the chair, supported by the following officers: Bros. Waters, I.P.M.; J. Wilkins, J.W.; T. Butt, P.M. and Treas.; C. Norman, P.M. and Sec.; C. Cooke, Org.; E. B. Hobson, S.D.; W. McCoy, J.D.; G. Beaver, I.G.; H. Roberts, D.C.; and B. Norman, Tyler. Amongst the visitors were Bros. A. J. Manning, I.P.M. 1472; E. J. Lloyd, J.W. 1472; C. Jolly, 913 (Freemason), &c. The lodge having been opened in due form and with solemn prayer, Mr. E. Deeks was, after approval, initiated into the mysteries of the Craft by the W.M. A distressed brother was then relieved with two guineas, and then the lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to refreshments. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were fully honoured. Bro. Waters then proposed the toast of "The W.M.," expressing his, and the satisfaction felt by every member of the lodge, at the way in which the W.M. had carried out his duties. The toast was drunk most heartily. The W.M., after thanking them, said he very much regretted to see so few present. It was the smallest gathering during his year of office. He had tried to do his best for the lodge, and the way in which they had received the toast convinced him that he had the respect of every one in the lodge. There was one thing that must be looked to in accounting for the comparatively few present (some forty-five), and that was that their numbers now were not so great as they were six or seven years ago, when they numbered 120. The opening of the United Military Lodge at Plumstead had taken nearly all their military brethren from them, and now they only numbered 95. He trusted to see a fuller lodge at their next meeting; and concluded by again thanking them for the toast. The toast of "The Visitors" was responded to by Bro. Lloyd, who expressed his great pleasure in making this, his second visit to the lodge. The first time he was very much impressed with the excellent style of the work done in the lodge, and the unanimity that prevailed among the whole of the members; and this time he was equally pleased with not only its working, but its cordial reception of its visitors. At the installation of the W.M. of his lodge, the Henley Lodge, on the 3rd inst., Bro. Woodley had spoken of the interest the Nelson Lodge took in the Henley Lodge as one of its children. They felt proud of being the child of such a worthy mother, and he certainly trusted that interest would always continue for their mutual benefit. "The Health of the Initiate" followed, and Bro. Deeks suitably replied. In giving the toast of "The Past Masters," Bro. Woodley complimented the lodge upon having such an array of Past Masters as it had, and especially upon such as were present that night. The toast was drunk enthusiastically. Bro. Waters, P.M., in reply, said that his office was a sinecure, in fact he had nothing to do, for the W.M. was so well up in the ceremonies that he was compelled to acknowledge that his office was a sinecure. As to his two brother Past Masters present they had something to do in the lodge—one as Treasurer, the other as Secretary. Every Past Master was willing and desirous of giving his experience to any brother who required it, and were anxious to do all in their power for the welfare of the lodge generally. Bros. Butt and Norman briefly replied, and after "The Officers" had been toasted, the Tyler's toast concluded the business and pleasures of the evening.

WEST DERBY.—Pembroke Lodge (No. 1299).—The annual installation meeting of the members of this lodge, which has its head-quarters at Bro. Rawlinson's Hotel, in one of the numerous pleasant out-townships of Liverpool, took place there on Thursday afternoon, the 20th inst., and the prestige secured by this lodge in the province was clearly evinced by the attendance and quality of the working. The annual celebration of the festival of the Patron Saint of Freemasonry in connection with the "Pembroke" is invariably marked by much enthusiasm and undoubted success, and that of 1879 may be fairly added to the increasing list of these festive and interesting gatherings. The chair at the opening of the lodge (fixed for half-past 3 o'clock) was occupied by Bro. J. Capell, W.M., and the officers present were Bros. Joseph Clegg, P.M.; W. Crane, P.M.; R. Bennett, P.M.; W. S. Vines, P.M., P.P.G.D.C.; F. Bramham, J.W.; Peter Macmurdrow, P.M., P.P.S.G.D., Treas.; T. G. Fisher, Sec.; W. S. Bennett, S.D.; W. Hiles, J.D.; W. Avis, I.G.; W. Jones, P.M., D.C.; and J. Robinson, Tyler. The members present were Bros. H. Lyon, C. Ainsworth, J. P. Bradford, H. P. Bloomer, G. Baxter, S. Ibbotson, C. Bank, E. M. Hughes, L. Bramwell, J. Bramham, R. W. Taylor, R. J. Swales, W. Brown, J. P. Caperton, T. W. Blackstone, R. W. Crosby, and D. Parry. The visitors present were Bros. T. Sammons, P.M. 1393; J. Hughes, P.M. 220; F. Barnett, W.M. 249; J. Hayes, P.M. 249, P.G.S.; T. Davies, W.M. 1182; W. Boddington, 1016; F. J. Turley, 74; J. Cave, 1095; T. F. Hill, S.W. 220; H. Hatch, J.W. 220; J. White, 1620; J. Corson, 823; S. P. Gore, 1356; W. J. Constantine, 1356; and W. Longbottom, 1013. After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and unanimously confirmed, the chair was taken by Bro. W. Jones, P.M., who installed Bro. Francis B. Bramham as the W.M. for the ensuing year, in a highly satisfactory manner. The following officers were subsequently invested for the year:—Bros. John Capell, I.P.M.; W. S. Bennett, S.W.; T. G. Fisher, J.W.; P. Macmurdrow, P.M., P.P.G.S.D., Treas. (re-elected); W. Hiles, Sec.; W. Jones, P.M., D.C.; H. P. Bloomer, S.D.; L. Bramwell, J.D.; J. P. Bradford, I.G.; C. Ainsworth, S.S.; R. W. Taylor, J.S.; and J. Robinson, Tyler. The balance-sheet, which was taken as read, showed that the lodge at the close of this year was in a much better financial position than it was when the last statement of the Treasurer was submitted. After business, the brethren sat down to an excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Rawlinson, the chair being occupied by Bro. F. B. Bramham, W.M., who gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. P. Macmurdrow, P.P.G.S.D., and Bro. W. Vines, P.P.G.D.C., responded for "The Right Hon. Col. Stanley, M.P., D.P.G.M., and the P.G. Officers, Present and Past." Bro. J. Capell, I.P.M., submitted the toast of "The Worshipful Master," to which Bro. Bramham responded, thanking the brethren for the honour conferred on him that day, and assuring them that he would maintain the position of the lodge to the best of his ability. After the toast of "The Installing Master" had been proposed, to which Bro. Jones responded, the W.M. gave "The Health of the Worshipful Past Masters," and in doing so presented a valuable Past Master's jewel to Bro. J. Capell, I.P.M., on behalf of the lodge, as a mark of esteem, along with an elegant coffee service, the gift of private members. The presentation was acknowledged by Bro. Capell in feeling terms. He said that twelve months ago he told the brethren that, on being placed in the chair of the Pembroke Lodge, he felt that to be one of the happiest moments in connection with one of the greatest honours which he had ever enjoyed, and now, at the close, he was extremely gratified to say that his year's occupancy of the W.M.'s position had been one of unalloyed happiness. He regarded the honour now with even increased feelings of pride, and, in looking at the very valuable and elegant presentation which had been made by the W.M.—one on behalf of the lodge and the other by private friends—he could hardly find words to express his joy and thanks for these altogether undeserved marks of their esteem and personal regard. He hoped long to be able to continue to work for the welfare and prosperity of the Pembroke Lodge, indeed, so long as the T.G.A.O.T.U. gave him health and ability he would spare no effort to enhance the position and increase the prosperity of a lodge in which he had so deep an interest. The toast of "The Past Masters" was also responded to by Bro. Past Masters Bennett, Vines, and Jones. "The Visitors," given by the W.M., was acknowledged by Bros. T. Sammons, P.M. 1393; T. F. Hill, S.W. 220; P. S. Gore, 1356 (who presented a valuable W.M.'s gavel to the lodge); H. Hatch, J.W. 220, and others. An excellent musical programme was supplied by Bros. T. F. Turley, Barker, Hughes, Hill, Hiles, Spinks, and Gough (who was the pianoforte accompanist). It should be stated that the "Happy Moments" of Bro. Hiles, the Secretary, gave "minutes" of delight to those who had the privilege of hearing his artistic rendering of the celebrated "Mariana" song. The brethren adjourned at an early hour, and the majority returned to town, greatly delighted with the pleasant day's proceedings.

HAMPTON WICK.—Wolsey Lodge (No. 1656).—The installation meeting of this lodge was held at the White Hart Hotel on Monday, the 10th inst., when there were present Bros. W. Hammond, P.P.G.D. of Middlesex, W.M.; Baldwin, P.P.G.P. of Middlesex, acting S.W.; Rev. C. de Crespigny, P.P.G.C. of Middlesex, J.W., W.M. elect; Lieut.-Col. F. Burdett, R.W.P.G.M. of Middlesex; J. Hammond, P.G.S. of Middlesex, Hon. P.M.; Nuthall, Treas.; T. O. Ockenden, Sec.; J. Hurst, P.M. 1512, J.D.; T. C. Walls, P.P.G.O. of Middlesex, I.G. (Freemason); Scott, W.S.; Gilbert, P.G.T. of Middlesex, Tyler. The visitors were Bros. Elsam, P.P.G.D.C. Surrey; S. Hill, P.M. 109; Inglis, P.M. 708; Purnell, P.M. 804; Noble, J.W. 975; Day and Murphy, 1512. The minutes of the February meeting, and an emergency meeting held on the 8th inst., were read and confirmed. There were present at the latter Bros. W. Hammond, W.M.; Forge, acting S.W.; Walls, acting J.W.; Ockenden, Secretary; Featherstone, acting S.D.; Hurst, J.D.; Bonell, acting I.G. The business of the emergency consisted only of the passing of Bros. Gerhold and Ellis. The ceremony of inducting Bro. the Rev. C. de Crespigny into the chair of K.S. was most ably performed by Bro. J. Hammond. The officers appointed and invested were Bros. W. Hammond, I.P.M.; Bond, S.W. (by deputy); Aston, J.W. (by deputy); Nuthall, Treas.; Ockenden, Sec.; Hurst, S.D.; Walls, J.D.; Scott, I.G.; Honeywell, Organist (by deputy); Featherstone, W.S.; Gilbert, Tyler. Bro. Walls having given notice of motion as to the alteration of one of the bye-laws, the lodge was duly closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet, which was well served by the caterer, Bro. Andrews. The preliminary Royal and Craft toasts having received full justice, "The Health of the R.W.P.G.M." was warmly proposed by the W.M., and most enthusiastically drunk. Bro. Col. Burdett, in reply, said that as he was the first Grand Master of the province he necessarily had had a great deal of experience of Freemasonry in Middlesex, and he was gratified at being in a position to state that he knew of no instance where a lodge had attained such large proportions in so short a time as the Wolsey Lodge had. This state of things for a young lodge was exceedingly creditable. It appeared to him that its consecration, at which he was present, was a thing of yesterday, and he well remembered being told at the time that the lodge would be a failure. This augury of ill-omen, however, was not borne out by fact, and he was pleased to think that the residents of the village had availed themselves of the opportunity of joining a local lodge. The success that had attended it was mainly due to the exertions of the first W.M., Bro. Hammond, who, during the two years that he had filled the chair had used every endeavour to increase its prosperity. He hoped that the members would strive to keep up the quality of the lodge; quantity was all very well in its way, but discrimination in the selection of candidates for admission was the chief thing to be considered. In conclusion, he said he felt proud at being present on so auspicious an event as the installation of the vicar of the parish into the chair of the Wolsey Lodge. He felt confident that their reverend brother had the interest of the lodge at heart, and that he would do everything in his power to render it a still greater success, and as the hour was getting late he should take the opportunity of proposing "The Health of the W.M." This toast having been received with excellent "fire," Bro. the Rev. C. de Crespigny briefly responded. He said that he followed in the footsteps of one who had set an example which would not easily be forgotten. He hoped that the members of the lodge would evince the same spirit during his tenure of the chair that had actuated them whilst under the sway of his predecessor. In the manifold and arduous discharge of his duties he hoped to be cheered by the presence, and assisted by the counsel, of the I.P.M., but, in any event, he should not disgrace the position. In concluding his remarks, the W.M. said that he should endeavour fearlessly to act according to those constitutions of the Order which had been laid down for the guidance of the Craft. "The D.P.G.M. and the rest of the Grand Officers" followed, coupled with the name of Bro. Walls, who duly acknowledged the compliment. "The I.P.M." came next, and at its conclusion Bro. Hammond was presented with a Past Master's jewel. In the course of his reply the I.P.M., in very feeling terms, alluded to the premature death of Bro. Bernard Sharp, one of the founders of the Wolsey Lodge, and who, at the time of his demise, held the position of W.M. elect. He said that the idea of founding a lodge at Hampton Wick emanated from him, and he had taken, as they were fully aware, whilst his health permitted, a very active interest in its welfare. Their late lamented brother had achieved high honours in many degrees of Freemasonry abroad, and would, no doubt, have distinguished himself equally as well in England had it pleased the G.A.O.T.U. to have spared his life. Out of compliment to his memory the W.M. had requested that the members should appear in Masonic mourning, and he (the I.P.M.) was pleased that the brethren had obeyed the mandate. This toast having been drunk in solemn silence, the remaining pledges, viz., "The Treasurer and Secretary," "The Masonic Charities," and "The Officers," terminated the proceedings.

HOUNSLOW.—Royal Hanover Lodge (No. 1777).—A meeting of this lodge was held at the Town Hall, on Saturday, the 22nd inst., when there were present Bros. H. A. Dubois, P. Prov. S.G.D., P.M., P.Z., W.M.; Henry Lovegrove, S.W.; George Clark, jun., J.W.; W. Ramsay, I.P.M.; H. B. Marshall, Treas.; W. H. Barber, Sec.; Henry Clark, S.D.; C. C. Cruikshanks, J.D.; Dr. Whitmarsh, I.G.; F. J. Perks, D.C.; G. J. Dunkley, Organist; J. Daly, Tyler; W. Heelis, C. J. Axford, T. W. G. Wood, W. S. Dunkley, and W. A. Villars. The visitors were Bros. M. S. Larham, P.M.; C. P. McKay, W.M. 720; H. Baldwin, White, E. W. Dubois, and H. C. Levander, M.A., Prov. Grand Secretary of Middlesex, and V.P. Board of General Purposes. The minutes of the consecration and two emergency meetings were read and confirmed, and the ballot having been taken for some joining members, the lodge was opened in the Second and Third Degrees, and Bros. H. B. Marshall, W. Heelis, C. J. Axford, and T. W. G. Wood were raised to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason, the ceremony being performed (by permission of the W.M.) by Bro. McKay, W.M. 720, a friend of one of the candidates for raising, the whole ceremony, including the lecture and traditional history, being given. The W.M. then resumed the chair, and passed Bros. W. S. Dunkley, and W. A. Villars to the Second Degree. Messrs. F. W. Gretten and N. Voice, who had been previously balloted for, were duly initiated in the mysteries and privileges of Ancient Freemasonry. The draft bye-laws were read and approved, and ordered to be submitted to the Prov. Grand Secretary for approval by the Prov. Grand Master. An important part of the proceedings was the presentation by Bro. H. B. Marshall of a very handsome copy of the Sacred Law, which he had promised on the evening of his initiation. The W.M. thanked the donor in an appropriate speech, and proposed a vote of thanks, which the J.W. seconded, and will be recorded on the minutes. Bro. H. Lovegrove expressed the pleasure felt by himself and the founders of the lodge at the presence in their midst of a very distinguished Mason, Bro. H. C. Levander, Prov. G. Sec. (who was prevented from being present at the consecration), and proposed that he be requested to accept honorary membership of the lodge. This proposition was seconded by Bro. G. Clark, J.W., and carried unanimously. At the close of the proceedings, which lasted over three hours, the brethren adjourned to the Red Lion Inn, where a banquet had been provided, and a pleasant evening was spent.

INSTRUCTION.

CHARTERHOUSE CLUB.—This well known and deservedly appreciated club, formed some years since for the purpose of working ceremonial alone, to the entire exclusion of section working, thereby enabling brethren appointed to office in lodges to have immediate opportunity for perfecting themselves in their duties, has now, after a period of unfortunate changes of places of meeting, settled down in most comfortable quarters in West Smithfield. The removal of the club to the excellent hostelry of Bro. T. Butt, the New Market Hotel, King-street, Snow Hill, E.C., took place a few weeks ago, and the meetings since then have shown evidence of a new vitality which bids fair to ensure a great success for the club. On the 4th inst., it was resolved to inaugurate the change of quarters by holding a first annual festival on Tuesday, April 1st, in the large new assembly room recently built by Bro. Butt for the enlargement of his extensive premises, and this festival promises to be of a noteworthy character. Bro. Wm. Butt, P.M. of Lodges 917 and 1677, will officiate as President; Bro. James Stevens, P.M. 720, 1216, and 1426, as Senior Vice-President; and Bro. William Webb, W.M. of the Royal Union Lodge, 382, at Uxbridge, as Junior Vice-President. The Director of the Ceremonies on this occasion will be Bro. John Syer, of the Panmure, 720, and Montefiore, 1017. A lodge will be opened at 6 p.m., and the ceremony of installation will be worked by Bro. James Stevens, P.M., the Great City Lodge, 1426, &c.; this will be followed by a banquet. Further particulars will be found in our advertising columns. At the club meeting on Tuesday, the 18th inst., there was a goodly gathering of members, Bros. James Stevens, as W.M.; Simmons, S.W.; Humphreys, J.W.; Wm. Hames, Preceptor; when the ceremonies of the First and Second Degrees were worked, and the detail of arrangements for the festival discussed. We wish the club every success, and that the approaching entertainment may result in advantage to the Craft generally and the thorough enjoyment of its members.

WANDSWORTH LODGE (No. 1044).—At the meeting of this lodge of instruction, which was held at the Spread Eagle Hotel, on Tuesday, the 25th inst., the following brethren attended:—Bros. J. J. Holland, W.M.; W. A. Blackmore, S.W.; J. Frost, J.W.; P. V. Denham, S.D.; A. N. Newens, I.G.; J. G. Carter, C. Digby, F. H. Newens, and A. A. Denham, Bro. Holland, who was complimented by Bro. Carter (the Preceptor) for his proficiency, went through the working of the two degrees, Bro. A. N. Newens being the candidate. Bro. P. V. Denham gave notice of motion as to the disposal of the lodge funds now in hand. It is proposed to devote a portion of the money to presenting Bro. J. G. Carter with a testimonial for his untiring energy and kindness in acting as Preceptor.

FINSBURY PARK LODGE (No. 1288).—A meeting of this lodge of instruction was held on Wednesday, the 19th inst., at the Earl Russell, Isledon-road, Holloway. Present: Bros. L. R. Rogers, P.M., W.M.; T. Press, S.W.; J. Pigot, P.M., J.W.; J. Pigot, Treas.; H. B. Dunn, Sec.; A. Goode, S.D.; Dunn, J.D.; S. Goode, I.G.; P.M.'s Bros. P. Dickinson, Preceptor, J. Pigot, L. R. Rogers, T. Goode, J. W. Wright, L. Grout. The lodge was opened and the minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed. The lodge was then opened in the Second Degree, and Bro. T. Goode, candidate for raising, examined, entrusted, and retired. Lodge opened in the Third Degree, and ceremony of raising rehearsed, and traditional history given. The lodge was closed in Third and Second Degrees. Bro. Press having been elected W.M. for the ensuing week, the lodge was closed.

Royal Arch.

ROBERT BURNS CHAPTER (No. 25).—The installation meeting of this chapter took place at Freemasons' Hall, on Monday, the 24th inst. Present: Comps. John Bertram, M.E.Z.; G. R. Sherville, H.; C. Martin, J.; W. Kirby, P.Z., Treas.; W. Platt, P.Z., S.E.; Joseph Last, P.S.; E. C. Rowley, 1st Asst.; W. Land, 2nd Asst.; Hatton, Elsbj, Baxter, and others. The first business was to elect and install the officers, and the following companions were duly appointed:—Comps. G. R. Sherville, M.E.Z.; C. Martin, H.; Land, J.; Baxter, N.; Hatton, P.S. Bros. J. E. Shand, J.W. City of Westminster Lodge, 1563, and George Draton, I.G. Robert Burns Lodge, 1025, were then balloted for, and duly exalted. A banquet followed, and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and responded to. Songs and a recitation by Comp. Thomas followed, and a most pleasant evening was spent.

MACDONALD CHAPTER (No. 1216).—The usual convocation of this chapter was held on Thursday evening, 20th inst., at the Head Quarters of the 1st Surrey Rifles, Flodden-road, Camberwell, and was, as usual, well attended. The fittings and furniture of this chapter are both unique and elegant, and never fail to elicit from visitors general admiration. Present: Comps. W. J. Messenger, M.E.Z.; P.Z. Waterall (acting H. in the absence of Comp. Hastie); Newington Bridges, J.; W. H. Thomas, Scribe E.; A. Bradley, P.S.; Captain Styan, A.S.; and W. Allen, Janitor. The visitors were Comps. Larham, and J. Stevens, P.Z. 720; and H. Thompson, J. 619. The chapter having been duly opened, the minutes of the consecration of the 16th January were read and confirmed. Bro. G. H. Bealy, of the Macdonald Lodge, was then introduced, and in a very able manner exalted by the M.E.Z. into the Supreme Degree of Royal Arch Masonry, the whole ceremony being well performed. After some other business the chapter was closed in due form, and the companions adjourned for refreshment, which was provided by Bro. Kethro, the caterer to the corps, and it gave general satisfaction. The whole of the customary toasts were not given, for reasons assigned, but that of "The Health of the M.E.Z." was not allowed to be omitted. It was proposed in very appropriate terms, in which the ability he had displayed in the performance of the ceremony received its due share of commendation. The M.E.Z. very briefly returned thanks for the honour conferred upon him, and then proposed "The Health of the Visitors," and in doing so remarked that he was glad to see present amongst them that evening Comp. Thompson, from whom, when attending the Domestic Lodge of Instruction, he had received a considerable amount of assistance in qualifying him for the duties he had to perform in the Craft. He also welcomed amongst them Comps. Stevens and Larham, of the Panmure Chapter, and was glad to have the opportunity of proposing their health. The toast was very cordially drunk by the companions. Comp. Stevens said that when he found himself in a difficulty he thought the sooner he got out of it the better, and, therefore, he at once returned thanks to the companions for the favourable manner in which they had received his name, and expressed the renewed pleasure he had experienced in being amongst them that evening. Comp. Thompson also returned thanks, and said that he had very great pleasure in visiting the chapter that evening for the first time, as he on many occasions had had most gratifying meetings and associations with the members of the 1st Surrey. In the first place he had for many years experienced repeated acts of kindness in meeting with them "on the tented field" of Wimbledon; in the next he had the gratification of meeting them in the Macdonald Lodge, and that night his pleasure had been supplemented by meeting them in the Macdonald Chapter. Their M.E.Z. had been pleased to refer to the services he had rendered to him in the lodge of instruction, but he believed he had over-estimated any little assistance he might have rendered, but as regarded the Royal Arch Degree at any rate the pupil had outstripped the teacher, and although he might endeavour to do so, he thought it would be long indeed before he should be able to overtake him in the race. Humble, however, as might be his efforts, he would try what he could do, and if he failed to reach his high standard he would try to emulate his bright example. Thanking the companions for the hospitality they had shown to him, he said his visit to the Macdonald Chapter would ever remain in his mind as one of the most agreeable evenings he had ever spent in the company of the members of the 1st Surrey. Comp. Larham also responded, and said that as he had so often been a visitor there he almost began to consider that he was a member of their chapter, and he should briefly thank them for including his name with the toast. Comp. W. Cranch sung in exquisite style "The Thorn," and some other songs, and a most pleasant evening was passed, the companions adjourning about eleven o'clock.

HANDSWORTH.—St. James Chapter (No. 482).—The annual convocation of this chapter was held at the New Inn, on the 17th inst., at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The chapter was opened in due form by the Principals, E.Comps. the Rev. W. Randall, M.E.Z.; J. Jacobs, P.Z., H.; F. Caddick, J.; when the rest of the companions were admitted, among whom we noticed Comps. J. F. Pepper, E. (acting P.S.); F. W. Payton, N.; G. J. Payton, Treas.; R. T. Horley, 1st A.S.; W. H. Ward, T. Parton, and F. Garner, Janitor; also the following visitors: Comps. Thos. Hawkins, P.Z. 43; John Pursall, P.P.G.J. Warwickshire; J. S. Kennedy, M.E.Z. 1031; Thos. E. Shaw, M.E.Z. 1016; Henry Smith, M.E.Z. 74; P. Howse, H. 1016; W. T. Belcher, H. 1031; J. H. Parkes, 938. The minutes having been read and confirmed, and the bye-laws read, the ballot was taken for Comps. W. B. Tatlow, Wolverhampton, Thomas Parton, West Bromwich, as joining members, also for Bros. James Roberts, J.W. 662, and Heywood Hartland, O. 662, for exaltation, and found in each case to be unanimous. Those brethren being in attendance were duly exalted, the whole ceremony, with lectures, being given in a very efficient manner. The M.E.Z. invited E. Comp. Thos. Hawkins to take the chair as Installing Principal, when E. Comp. the Rev. W. Randall was re-installed as M.E.Z.; F. Caddick, as H.; W. H. Ward, as J. The M.E.Z. then invested the following companions as officers, viz., J. F. Pepper, S.E. (for the fourth time); F. W. Payton, S.N.; G. J. Payton, Treas.; R. T. Horley, P.S.; J. Jacobs, P.Z., D.C.; F. Garner, Janitor. After several propositions had been made, the companions adjourned to an excellent banquet, when the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, the M.E.Z. thanking E. Comp. T. Hawkins, Installing Principal, for the splendid manner in which he had performed his work. The Visitors complimented the Principals and acting P.S. on the manner in which the ceremonies had been rendered.

TYWARDREATH.—Unity Chapter (No. 1151).—The usual quarterly communication of this chapter was held on Tuesday, the 18th inst., in the Masonic Rooms. Present: Comps. W. Tonkin, M.E.Z.; Rev. Dr. Treffry, as H.; T. Polkinghorne, J.; Emra Holmes, P.G. Standard Bearer Cornwall, P.Z.; De Legh, P.Z.; T. C. Stephens, P.Z.; W. Roe, Treas.; W. Rundle, S.E.; W. P. Smith, C.E., Prin. Soj.; J. Stephens, and others. The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed, and this being the annual convocation the ballot was taken for the officers for the ensuing year, when the following were duly elected:—Comps. E. Holmes, P.Z., as M.E.Z.; J. Polkinghorne, H.; W. P. Smith, C.E., J.; E. Wellington, Scribe E.; N. H. Lamb, Scribe N.; Sylvanus Trevail, Treasurer; Walton, Principal Soj.; Elliott, Janitor. A candidate having been proposed for exaltation at next meeting, and the other business disposed of, the chapter was closed in ancient form and with solemn prayer.

Mark Masonry.

MARYPORT.—Whitwell Lodge (No. 151).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Thursday evening, the 20th inst., in the Masonic Hall, Eaglesfield-street. Present: Bros. J. H. Banks, W.M.; W. Armstrong, S.W.; P. Dodgson, J.W.; J. S. Cumberland, M.O. York Lodge (T.I.), as M.O.; J. W. Robinson, S.O.; G. W. Thompson, J.O.; W. F. Lamony, W.M. 229, Chap. (Freemason); Jos. Nicholson, P.M., Treas.; J. Adair, Sec.; J. Cardiner, P.M.; J. Harrison, J. R. Banks, and Jos. Abbott. The minutes of the two previous meetings were read and confirmed. The lodge then proceeded to consider certain alterations in the existing bye-laws, the first of which had reference to the Tyler's salary. Rule XIII. reading thus, "Brethren of lodges holden under foreign jurisdiction shall pay the extra fee for registration and certificate," was altered as follows: "Brethren of lodges holden under foreign jurisdiction, acknowledged by the Grand Lodge of Mark Masters of England, in addition shall pay the extra fee for registration and certificate." This latter alteration is made to meet the case of brethren belonging to lodges holding under the Grand Chapter of Scotland, now working in England, who may wish to become joining members of Whitwell Lodge. One of these Scotch Mark Lodges has been working in Maryport for some years past, but is now practically broken up, though we are not aware that the warrant has been called in. Another alteration was made in the mode of proposing candidates for advancement. It was agreed to subscribe the sum of two guineas to the list of Bro. Geo. Dalrymple, W.M. Henry Lodge, No. 216, who is a Steward for the Mark Benevolent Fund Festival. After some other matters had been disposed of, the lodge was closed.

CHIPPING SODBURY.—Lyegrove Lodge (No. 218).—The members of this lodge assembled at the Town Hall, on Monday, the 24th inst., for the purpose of installing a W.M. for the ensuing year. There were present amongst the visitors Bro. I. Walker, M.A., P.M., and D.P.G.M.; and Bros. E. Hill, P.M.; E. J. B. Mercer, W. M. Howes, Jesse Haward, W. H. Young, J. S. Tuckey, &c. The installation ceremony was admirably performed by Bro. Wm. Munro, W.M. (Canyuge), P.P.S.W. (Somerset), P.G.S., after which Bro. James Payne Curtis, W.M., made the following appointments to office: Bros. Geo. Rennie Powell, P.G.J.W., I.P.M., and Treasurer; W. M. Lowick, S.W.; F. J. Vizard, J.W.; Algernon Ludlow, M.O.; Thomas Parker, S.O.; Thomas H. Hughes, J.O.; Thomas Tinsley, Secretary; Wm. Munro, D.C.; James Iles, Org. and Registrar; John Naysmith, S.D.; Joseph R. Monks, J.D.; Samuel Davies, Steward; and C. Iles, Tyler. After the business of the day the brethren sat down to a capital dinner at the Grapes Hotel, which was presided over by the W.M., Bro. James Payne Curtis. The toasts usual on such occasions having been proposed, "The Health of Bro. the Rev. C. R. Davy, P.G. Chaplain and P.G.M. for Gloucestershire, with his Deputy, Bro. I. Walker, M.A." was accepted with the greatest enthusiasm. The D.P.G.M. submitted in an admirable speech "The Health of the W.M., Bro. J. P. Curtis," which was most cordially drunk. The W.M. then returned thanks, and also proposed "The Health of the I.P.M., Bro. Geo. Rennie Powell," to whom, on behalf of himself and the other members of the lodge, he presented a very handsome jewel of the Degree. The I.P.M. having thanked the brethren for their kindness of feeling, "The Health of the Installing Officer" was proposed, and responded to by Bro. Munro in suitable terms. "The Health of the Visiting Brethren" was then given, and called forth capital speeches from Bro. Hill and other visitors. The usual concluding toast, "All Poor and Distressed Masons," was cordially responded to, and the proceedings of a very capital meeting were closed.

COCKERMOUTH.—Faithful Lodge (No. 229).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Hall, Station-street, on Wednesday evening, the 19th inst. The following members were present:—Bros. W. F. Lamony, W.M. (Freemason); R. Robinson, S.W.; W. H. Lewthwaite, J.W. and Org.; Capt. Sewell, M.O.; R. W. Robinson, S.O.; T. C. Robinson, J.O.; J. Black, Treas., Reg. M., and Sec.; H. Peacock, S.D.; W. Shilton, I.G.; J. Hewson, Tyler.—Bro. T. Weatherston, Whitwell Lodge, No. 151, Maryport. The minutes being read and confirmed, a ballot was taken for Bro. W. Paisley, Steward Skiddaw Lodge, No. 1002, which proved unanimous, and he, being in attendance, was admitted, and regularly advanced to the degree of M.M. The W.M. stated it had been his intention to act as Steward for Faithful Lodge at the ensuing festival of the Mark Benevolent Fund; but having received an intimation from the W.M. of Henry Lodge, No. 216, stating the intention of that W. brother to act in a like capacity, he (the W.M. of Faithful Lodge) thought one lodge in a small province like Cumberland would be sufficient, and he would let it stand over till next year, so far as Faithful Lodge was concerned. Bro. Thomas Mason, of Skiddaw Lodge, No. 1002, having been proposed and seconded as a candidate for advancement, the lodge was closed with the address from the chair.

Knights Templar.

MOUNT CALVARY PRECEPTORY.—This distinguished encampment met on Tuesday, the 11th inst., at the Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen-street. There were present, amongst others, Sir Knights D. M. Dewar, G.R., acting M.E.C. in the unavoidable absence of Sir Knt. Morgan; E. Baxter, P.E.C., acting Prelate; Paas, P.E.C., Almoner; Driver, 1st Captain; S. Rosenthal, P.E.C., &c., acting 2nd Captain; T. C. Walls, Expert (Freemason); A. Williams, C. of the Lines; Rawles, Equerry. The minutes of the previous encampment having been read and confirmed, Comp. R. Berridge was most impressively and ably installed a Knight of this ancient Order, and duly proclaimed. The conclave having been closed, an encampment of Knights of Malta was formed, and Sir Knights Walls, Williams, and Berridge received that interesting and quaint degree. The ceremony was performed by Sir Knight Dewar, assisted by Sir Knights Rosenthal and Paas. The Sir Knights then adjourned to an elegant banquet, well served by Comp. Best and assistants. At the conclusion of the repast the customary toasts of the Knights Templar Degree were given briefly but pertinently by the acting M.E.C. Sir Knight Rosenthal ably responded on behalf of "The Grand Officers." In giving "The Health of the M.E.C.," Sir Knight Paas congratulated the encampment upon possessing a member who at a moment's notice could carry out the impressive and arduous ceremony of installation so well as Sir Knight Dewar had done that evening. In concluding his remarks he hoped that their genial and talented P.E.C. and Recorder would be spared many years to come among them, and to render his valuable aid in the performance of the ceremonies of their beautiful Degree. Sir Knt. Dewar having briefly responded, then gave "The Newly-installed Sir Knight." This toast having been heartily received, Sir Knt. Berridge made a neat reply, in which he expressed the great satisfaction it had afforded him at being present that evening, and also the impression the ceremony had made upon him. In conclusion he hoped that the members of the Mount Calvary Preceptory would never have occasion to regret having admitted him among them. "The Past Eminent Commanders" was acknowledged in a humorous speech by Sir Knight Baxter. "The Health of the Officers" followed, coupled with the names of Sir Knights Driver, Walls, and Williams, who severally replied. The Equerry having been called upon to discharge his duty, the meeting terminated.

PLYMOUTH.—Royal Veterans Preceptory (No. 10).—The annual meeting of this Preceptory was held at the Huyshe Masonic Temple, on Friday, the 21st inst., and after the inception of a new Frater, the installation of the E. Commander elect, Sir Knt. J. Henry Keats, took place. The ceremony was performed by E. Sir Knt. Charles Godtschalk, P.E.C., P.P.G.M., in the presence of a large Board of Installed Commanders; amongst others were Sir Knts. Vincent Bird, P.G. Treas.; Hon. W. Hylton Jolliffe, P.G.M.; Col. Fitzgerald, P.G.C.; Rear-Admiral F. H. Glasse, B.B., P.G.S.P.; Samuel Jew, P.P.G.T.; E. A. Davies, P.P.G.V.C.; J. B. Gover, P.P.G.T.; L. D. Westcott, P.P.G.M.; Isaac Watts, P.P.G.I.; J. Austin, P.P.G.E. The following Fraters were appointed as officers for the year: Sir Knts. Samuel Jew, P.E.C.; Thos. Heath, 1st Cap.; S. L. R. Templar, 2nd Cap.; L. D. Westcott, Pre.; Josiah Austin, Treas.; J. B. Gover, Regr.; W. Browning, Ex.; John James, C. of L.; J. P. Sawyer, Herald; F. B. Westlake, S.B.; I. Watts, A.; T. Smith, Guard. The Priory of Malta was then opened, and Sir Knt. J. H. Keats was duly installed as E. Prior. The Fraters adjourned to the Globe Hotel for refecton.

STONEHOUSE.—Loyal Brunswick Preceptory (No. 24).—A meeting of this preceptory was held at the Sincerity Masonic Hall, on Thursday, 20th inst., when Sir Knight Rev. T. W. Lemon, P.P.G.C., was installed as the E. Commander, the ceremony being performed by Sir Knt. E. A. Davies, P.E.C., and P.P.G.V.C., assisted by Sir Knights J. J. Daw, P.P.G.H.; Hon. W. Hylton Jolliffe, P.G.M.; Colonel Fitzgerald, P.G.C. (England), and P.G.C. (Devon); I. Watts, P.P.G.T.; F. R. Toms, P.P.G.A. The following officers were appointed: Sir Knights J. J. Daw, P.E.C.; Hon. W. Hylton Jolliffe, 1st Cap.; Elliot Square, P.P.G.C., 2nd Cap.; Rev. J. E. Risk, P.P.G.C., Prelate; J. Harris Square, Examiner; W. Molesworth St. Aubyn, C. of L.; I. Watts, Treasurer; J. E. Curtis, Arch T. and P.P.G.R., Reg.; H. Bartlett, 1st H.; T. W. Coffin, 2nd H.; J. F. Matthews, S.B.; J. Rogers, Guard. The usual banquet was held at the Globe Hotel, Plymouth.

YORK.—Ancient Ebor Preceptory (No. 101).—On Tuesday, the 11th inst., the installation meeting of this preceptory was held at York, when a candidate was admitted to the Order, and the E.P. elect (Sir Knt. J. S. Cumberland) was installed in the chair of E.P., the ceremonies of the evening being worked by E. Sir Knt. T. B. Whythead, P.E.P., G. Capt. of Guards England. The epidemic of bronchitis, which has prevailed in the north during the late bad weather, prevented many from being present, and numerous letters were read from members confined to bed through serious illness. There was a good attendance of visitors, amongst whom were E. Sir Knts. W. Hill, Sub-Prior of West Yorkshire; W. Beanland, P.E.P., Bradford; C. L. Mason, E.P. Fidelity, Leeds; Andrews and Monckman, Bradford; and S. E. Seanor, Leeds. The E.P. appointed and invested his officers as follows: Hon. W. T. Orde-Powlett, Const.; G. Simpson, Marsh; P. H. Rowland, Sub. M.; Rev. W. Valentine, Chap.; T. B. Whythead, Reg.; A. G. Duncombe, Herald; J. G. Croft, Swd. Bearer; C. Palliser, Std. Bearer; G. H. Simpson, Org.; M. Millington, Capt. of Guards; J. Ward, Equerry.

Multum in Parbo; or, Masonic Notes and Queries.

ALBAN, ST.—Albanus is said by some to have been a Roman Knight, who was converted to Christianity by Amphibalus, of Caerleon, and to have presided over the operative Masons. He is said to have been at Rome seven years, and served under Diocletian; but in consequence of hiding his friend and convert, Amphibalus, to have been put to death in 303, and thus become proto-martyr of England. The Guild Legends all mention St. Alban as having benefited the operative Masons, though there is a little variation as to the amount; as having obtained for them a charter, probably a Guild charter, and as having presided over their assemblies. This is, of course, only pure Masonic tradition, but it is very continuous and distinct. In an unpublished poem, by John Lidgate, in the British Museum, "Lansdowne 699," we have a full account of St. Alban's martyrdom. The poem is very long, and was written 1439 by John Lidgate, for John Whitehamstede, Abbot of St. Albans, and translated from French and Latin. According to this account St. Alban was "Borne, as I said, in Brutis Albion, a Lordis sonne," an Englishman; sent to Rome with Bassianus, son of Severus; made a Knight of Rome by Diocletian, and on his return from Rome became High Steward, and was "beloved and dred of hih and low degre." Carausius destroying Bassianus, according to Lidgate, St. Alban received and was converted by Amphibalus, and as Amphibalus escaped, St. Alban was put to death. Lidgate states that St. Alban's family coat of arms was St. Andrew's Cross. He may have been, and probably was, the President of the Roman Guild of Masons.

ALDWORTH, THE HON. MRS.—She was the Honourable Elizabeth St. Leger, and the only daughter of Arthur St. Leger, first Viscount Doneraile. She married Richard Aldworth, Esq., of Newmarket, county Cork. At that time the meetings of Lodge 44, an aristocratic lodge, were held at Doneraile House, her brother, Lord Doneraile, who succeeded his father in 1728, being the W.M. On one occasion, the adventurous young lady, hearing that the lodge was about to assemble, was anxious to hear what was going on; and, according to one account, she concealed herself in a clock, and according to another she saw the proceedings of the lodge through a crevice in the wall; that she was made a Freemason is undoubted, though when so made does not quite clearly appear. Her portrait in Masonic clothing hangs in many of the Irish lodge rooms, and relics of her are preserved, such as her apron and chair. Her name appears in the list of subscribers to Field D'Assigny's pamphlet, Bro. Hughan points out to us, in 1744. She was a great benefactress of the poor and needy. One panegyrist has said, "She was the best and kindest of women." Some writers have found fault with the story of the clock; we, on the contrary, think that it only serves to show how true it is, after all, that sentiment, like kindness, "makes the whole world kin." She died about the beginning of this century, having been born about 1713. But the dates of her life and death are uncertain, though why, we know not. The only account of her, published at Cork in 1811, is singularly meagre. We think it right to add that her family believe the story of the clock to be incorrect, and prefer the statement of the crevice in the wall.

ANCIENT MASONS, ALSO CALLED ANTIENT MASONS, OR ATHOL MASONS.—They form the body which seceded in 1739 from the Grand Lodge, on some grounds of real or pretended complaint, and formed illegal lodges of their own. They took the name of Ancient York Masons, though very improperly, and they established a Grand Lodge of their own, and chartered many private lodges eventually. We need not to-day go into the cause of the schism, as at this distance of time it is impossible to lay down accurately either the grounds or facts connected with such a regrettable act. Some of our writers have said that the main cause was the making of certain alterations in the ritual. But as in 1813 there was really no irreconcilable difficulty in the union of the two Grand Lodges as regards working, we are inclined to believe that the points of difference were very trifling, and purposely exaggerated by those who perhaps thought they had hardly sufficient of merit acknowledged, or dignity awarded, in the old Grand Lodge. Laurence Dermott seems to have become ere long the ruling genius of the rival Grand Lodge, though he was not on the scene in 1738. It has been said also that the institution of the Royal Arch was a great cause of difference and division, but this is hardly borne out by the facts of the case. It is probable that Ramsay's manipulations were known in England, though there is no proof that we are aware of that Ramsay ever had anything to do with our Grand Lodge, which, as he was an avowed Jacobite, was not prima facie very likely. But Dermott may have seen, and possibly did appropriate, the words "Royal Arch," and though this nomenclature was new, the substance was well known. Hence, practically, the differences between the two bodies were really very small, though we may admit that the Ancients more fully developed what is now termed the Royal Arch Grade, and gave to it its distinct position and separate organisation. After 1775, the Ancient Masons seem to have been generally called Athol Masons, in honour of the third Duke of Athol, Grand Master in 1771. He was installed March 2, 1771, and Dermott as D.G.M. Bro. Hughan mentions this on the authority of the records of the ancient Grand Lodge. In 1813, H.R.H. the Duke of Kent, father of our gracious Queen, was Grand Master of the Athol Masons, and H.R.H. the Duke of Sussex Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England. The happy union was effected, to the great good of Freemasonry alike in England and in the world. Preston says that the Ancients had no Grand Master until 1772, but Preston seems to be in error. For the list of Grand Masters, see the word Grand Master.—Keating's Cyclopaedia of Freemasonry.

Obituary.

BRO. RICHARD RODDA.

We regret to announce the death of Bro. Richard Rodda, of East Stonehouse, Devon. On Monday evening, the 17th inst., he was at a Masonic banquet at Devonport, and never seemed to have been in better spirits. He made one of those interesting speeches on matters affecting the Craft for which he was well-known among the brethren, and when the meeting for a short time became convivial, he amused the company by one of his Cornish recitations, for which he had such an aptitude, and no wonder, for he was a Cornishman, having been born at Redruth in 1816, and was consequently sixty-three years of age. On Tuesday he attended to his usual business, but in the afternoon he was seized with violent inflammatory pains, and not becoming better, Dr. Hingston was sent for, who administered to the relief of the patient; but on Wednesday, the symptoms becoming alarming, Dr. Bulteel was called in to advise, and the united assistance of the two physicians procured for a short time relief from the intense pain he suffered. On Friday, however, it was apparent that the sickness was one unto death, and although, to a great extent, relieved of the pain, he gradually yet quickly sank, and expired at 12.25 at mid-day of Saturday. Our deceased brother was well known to the Craft in the West of England, and a most devoted Freemason, as the following list of his connections with the Craft will show:—He was at the time of his death P.M. of Lodge Fortitude, having served the office of W.M. on two occasions, and was P.P.G. Reg. of Devon. In Mark, he was P.M., P.P.G. Reg.; Royal Arch, P.Z., P.P.G.S.E.; Knights Templar, P.E.C., P.P.G. Chan., Past Grand Almoner of England; Rose Croix, P.M.W.S. Huyshe Chapter. About twelve years ago he was presented by his brother Masons with a testimonial—a salver, &c.—in recognition of his exertions in getting up the Fortescue Memorial Fund, which was raised in memory of the late Lord Fortescue, and by Bro. Rodda's personal efforts upwards of £1000 was collected, and at the present moment there are about a dozen persons receiving £26 yearly from the fund. He was seldom behindhand with his donations, both private and public, for any good or for charitable purposes, and although few knew of his private charities there are many who will miss his kindly donations. Bro. Rodda was a widower, his second wife having died about ten years ago. He leaves a family. The funeral took place on Thursday last.

BRO. JAMES SETTLE ELLISON.

We are exceedingly sorry to have to chronicle the sudden death, from apoplexy, of one of the truest Masons this century has produced, in the person of Bro. James Settle Ellison, who died at his residence at Leamington, on the 11th inst., aged 62. The news will be a great shock to our brethren in Gibraltar, where our Bro. Ellison held an important Government appointment for a great number of years, and from which he only retired in 1872. Bro. Ellison, whose Masonic career was both long and useful, was initiated nearly 40 years ago, in Lodge 325, I.C., held in that island, becoming its W.M. in 1845, having previously joined the Lodge Friendship, No. 278, E.C. He was, in Dec. 1845, appointed District Senior Grand Deacon, in 1853 District Senior Grand Warden, and in 1859 District Grand Secretary, which office he only relinquished on leaving the island in 1872. In Royal Arch Masonry Comp. Ellison in due course reached the chair of First Principal in Chapter 325, I.C., at the same time being a member of the Calpean Chapter, No. 278, under the English Constitution. Bro. Ellison did not confine his energies to Craft and Arch Masonry, having taken the degrees of Mark Master Mason in 1846, Knight Templar in 1863, Rose Croix 1866, Knight of Constantinople 1868, Red Cross of Rome and Constantine in 1870, &c., &c.

CERAMICS IN MASONRY.

In a second article on this subject, the Liberal Freemason (New York) says that in general terms all articles of porcelain or pottery bearing Masonic emblems or devices may be classed under the name of Staffordshire ware, and that bowls, pitchers, &c., coming from China are due to special orders from shipmasters and others. The following review of the present state of the art will be found interesting:—

"The productions of this country (America) are entirely devoid of any originality, but much progress has been made within the past five years in the common grades of earthenware. China and Japan manufacture largely at the present time, but their work does not compare with the older pieces of centuries ago. England, since the Paris Exhibition of 1867, has made great progress, for at that time they discovered that the French display far excelled theirs, and at the Exhibition of 1878 the porcelain from England was pronounced the most attractive feature of the entire collection. The manufacturers of porcelain in England receive great encouragement from the nobility, and His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales is one of their best patrons, both by purchase and advice, often loaning rare specimens of his own to be copied.

"France received a blow at the time of the war of 1871 from which it has not yet recovered, but the great taste of this nation shows itself, most particularly in its productions of porcelain, and it will soon once more compete with the world. The Royal factory at Sevres flourished under the Empire, but at present it produces nothing new. Germany has its Royal factories at Dresden and Berlin, both of which are carried on with enterprise and taste. Their productions at present are magnificent, and command the admiration of all the world. The manufacture in the smaller towns has largely increased within a few years, but mostly by imitations of the work done at the Royal factories. Austria has several factories of importance, and is making great progress. Italy is reproducing copies of the last century, but makes nothing new."

PORTRAITS OF PROMINENT AMERICAN FREEMASONS.

There was recently presented to the Library Committee of the Grand Lodge Free and Accepted Masons, of Pennsylvania, life-sized oil-painted portraits of fourteen of the H.W. Past Grand Masters of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, F. and A.M., some of whom are still living, but the majority of them are deceased. These portraits were presented by R.W.P.G.M. Robert Clark and R.W.P.G.M. and present R.W. Grand Secretary John Thomson. The Library Committee have had these portraits handsomely framed, and they now occupy conspicuous places on top of the book-cases in the Library in the new Masonic Temple. The paintings are creditable works of art, and the likeness in each portrait is very striking.

The following are the names of those represented in the paintings, together with the dates of their administrations as R.W. Grand Masters:—

Cornelius Stevenson, 1812 (serving only one year); Samuel Badger, 1828 and 1829; John M. Read, 1836 and 1837; Samuel H. Perkins, 1838 and 1839; Joseph R. Chandler, 1840 and 1841; Wm. Barger, 1843 and 1844; James Page, 1845 and 1846; Peter Fritz, 1847 and 1848; Wm. Whitney, 1849 and 1850; Dr. Anthony Bournonville, 1851 and 1852; James Hutchinson, 1853 and 1854; Peter Williams, 1855 and 1856; Dr. John K. Mitchell, 1857. (Dr. John K. Mitchell died during his term of office.)

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—The Grand Secret.—With the variable temperature of this country, ill-health will creep in unless the blood from time to time be purified, and noxious matters be expelled from the body. In this the public may be its own physician. Holloway's Pills may be purchased at a trifling cost; in-tentions for taking them will be furnished with the Pills, and a little attention, with few instructions, will enable persons to keep themselves in health under every trying circumstance. These Pills act as alteratives, tonics, and aperients. Holloway's medicine should be ready for instant administration when the slightest symptom gives warning of approaching indisposition.—[ADVT.]

FREEMASONRY IN AUSTRALIA.

The installation of the officers of the Orion Lodge, No. 1153, E.C., took place on Wednesday, the 11th of Dec., at the lodge room, Ballarat; Bro. Kelly, P.M., being the installing officer. Bros. T. Kennedy was installed as W.M.; T. Potter, S.W.; M. S. Clark, J.W.; J. Embling, Sec. and Treas.; Shorthouse, S.D.; Baker, J.D.; E. Ellis, I.G.; Wholohan, Tyler. There were a large number of visitors from other lodges, including Bros. Wheeler, W.M.; Nevett, Little, and Peake, P.M.'s, Yarrowee Lodge; Herbert, W.M.; and White, M'Cartney, Robertson, and Trevor, Past Masters, St. John's Lodge; Hamilton, W.M., and Hale, P.M. Buninyong Lodge; Weickhardt, P.M. All Nations Lodge, Clunes; Babington, P.M. Zetland Lodge, Kyneton; and Tait, P.M. Havilah Lodge, Creswick. The S.W. of the Smythesdale Lodge, Bro. Bishop, and Bro. Salmon, of the Avoca Lodge, Ararat, were also present. The installation ceremony was ably performed by P.M. Bro. Kelly, who, during the meeting, was presented by the newly-installed W.M., on behalf of the brethren of the lodge, with a handsome Past Master's jewel. Bro. Kelly suitably acknowledged the gift, and feelingly thanked the donors for the kindly feelings they entertained towards him. After the lodge was closed, about forty-five of the brethren sat down to an excellent banquet provided by Bro. Wilkins. This having been done ample justice to, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were honoured. Bro. Wheeler, W.M. Yarrowee Lodge, proposed "The Health of the W.M.," Bro. Kennedy, remarking as he did so that the Orion Lodge had shown great discernment in choosing so able a Mason to preside over it. The toast was drunk with musical honours, and in replying Bro. Kennedy said:—W.M. of the Yarrowee Lodge—I return you my most sincere thanks for proposing my health; to you worshipful sir, for the very flattering manner in which you proposed it, and to all for its hearty acceptance. I have to thank the brethren of my own lodge for placing me in my present honourable position. I trust I am fully sensible of the honour of being elected to preside over you, which, in my opinion, is the highest compliment any body of men can jointly bestow on any of their members. I shall to the best of my skill and ability, without either fear or favour, endeavour to discharge the duties of my office in accordance with our ancient laws and regulations. I am happy to say our lodge has materially improved, both numerically and financially, for the last twelve months, and I hope at the expiration of my term of office my successor will find it in as good if not in a better position. If I can succeed—it is my earnest desire to do anything that will tend to the advancement of Masonry in general, and the brethren of my own lodge in particular—I shall retire perfectly satisfied. Brethren, I again thank you for the very kind way my health was proposed and received. Bro. Hamilton, W.M. (Buninyong) then proposed "The Health of the Installing Master, Bro. Kelly," and complimented him upon his zeal as a Mason, and the way in which he had performed his duties that evening. The toast was enthusiastically received, and in responding Bro. Kelly said: Bro. Hamilton, W.M., and brethren, I return you my most sincere thanks for the cordial manner in which my health has been proposed and drunk. Nothing I have done during my term of office afforded me greater pleasure than that of placing Bro. Kennedy in the chair of King Solomon. I am sure he will, as he told you, discharge his duties to the best of his skill and ability; and though the usefulness of the lodge and the happiness of the brethren will materially depend on the zeal and ability of the W.M., yet his labours will be of little avail if not well assisted by his officers and supported by the brethren. I believe there is no ceremony connected with Masonry which so well illustrates its dignity as the one I have this night performed. What a vast field of thought does the placing of our W.M. in the ancient chair of King Solomon open up to us. It points out Masonry as the line of union between the civilised countries of every age and of every clime. It is the only institution that connects us with the sages of antiquity. It has frequently been asked, whence Freemasonry takes its rise, but the question is not easily answered, because it has been anterior to the age of history, and contemporary with, if not preceding, civilisation itself. Some date its origin from the building of the holy temple at Jerusalem by King Solomon; but though that may be an epoch in its history, it no more marks its origin than the Grand Mastership of St. John the Evangelist, or of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. Centuries before the building of King Solomon's temple, when the golden fleece was watched by the sleepless dragon, when Priam reigned at Troy, Freemasonry flourished. The legend of the golden fleece is regarded as a lively fancy, the very existence of Troy has been questioned, and Jerusalem is only known from its sacred conceptions. Still Freemasonry flourishes full of life and vigour. Our greatest and most venerable institutions are but of yesterday when compared to it. Freemasonry was an ancient institution when the first Pope was placed in the chair of St. Peter, when the first king sat on the throne of England, when democracy was rocked in its cradle at Athens. It saw the growth and decay of all the great States of the past from Nineveh to Venice; it saw the founders of Rome suck the wolf on the banks of the Tiber; it saw the same Rome as mistress of the world, with Greece and Judea, Egypt and England, as Roman provinces paying tribute to the Cæsars; it now sees it as the decorated tombstone of its buried greatness. Other institutions have occupied human attention for a short time. Freemasonry has seen them all come and go. It saw the Magi perform their rites at Memphis, heard the Delphic oracle mystify its votaries, witness the age of chivalry pass through the south and west of Eur. pe as a brilliant meteor. Their very existence is now only known to the historian, yet Freemasonry flourishes throughout every part of the globe. Why? Simply because of the solicity of its foundation. It is founded, not on the gratification of the passions, not on the promotion of self-interest, not even on the achievement of ambition, but on the practice of every moral and social virtue. Those excellent precepts which are taught in a Masonic lodge must leave some impression on the minds of its members, and though they may be sometimes disregarded, can never be entirely forgotten. I do not go so far as to say that they can alter human nature, and change a depraved and worthless person into an honourable man, but I do say they restrain the evil propensities of the wicked, and call into action the virtues of the good. They supply us with fortitude to withstand the pleasant allurements of vice, and teach us not only to moderate our passions, but to be temperate in our conversations and our very thoughts. And I have no doubt that so long as Freemasons place men like Bro. Kennedy in their chairs, Masonry will continue to flourish throughout every part of the globe, and be influential in dispelling the beauties of virtue and lessening the aggregate of human misery and vice. Bro. Embling next gave "Sister Lodges," to which Bro. H. Herbert, Wheeler, Weickhardt, Hamilton, Bishop, and Salmon replied. The toast of "The newly-installed Officers," proposed by Bro. H. I. White, was replied to by Bro. T. Potter, S.W.; and the following toasts were then drunk: "Our Visitors," by Bro. M'Donald, responded to by Bro. Little, P.M.; "Past Masters of the Orion Lodge," by Bro. Robertson, P.M., responded to by Bro. Kelly; "Past Officers of the Orion Lodge," by Bro. Nevett, P.M., responded to by Bro. Price. Bro. Kelly, P.M., then proposed, in deservedly complimentary terms, "The Health of Bro. Price" (who is on the eve of leaving the colony), and the toast was feelingly responded to by Bro. Price. The toasts of "The Ladies," "The Press," and "The Host and Hostess" followed, and a very pleasant evening was brought to a close.

The following officers were installed at St. John's Lodge, 427, I.C., Ballarat, on Thursday, Dec. 12th, 1878, by the installing Master, P.M. Bro. Herbert.—Bros. J. Showman, W.M.; H. Hunt, S.W.; W. Lawson, J.W.; Bryce Paton, Sec.; W. P. Martin, Treas.; J. Leggo, S.D.; Proctor, J.D.; Hennah, I.G.; Murgan, Tyler. The installing ceremony was ably performed by the installing Master, Bro. Herbert, P.M. There was a large number of brethren of the lodge present, and amongst the visitors were Bros. Baker, D.P.G.M.; Small, P.P.G.S.W.; C. B. Finlayson, P.D.G.J.W.; Scott, R.W.D.I.; Robertson, P.P.G.D.C.; H. Wheeler, W.M., and Little, P.M. of the Yarrowee; T. Kennedy, W.M.; Kelly, P.M. of the Orion; Babington, P.M. Zetland Lodge, Kyneton; A. Wilson, W.M., and J. Hart, P.M. Havilah Lodge, Creswick; Batson, Weickhardt, and Eberhard, P.M.'s All Nations Lodge, Clunes; Smith, W.M., and Alice, P.M. Sebastopol Lodge; Caselli, R.A.C.; and the Rev. Charles Clark. At the conclusion of the ceremony the brethren adjourned to the Gallery of Arts in the Academy of Music, where over 100 of them partook of a banquet, supplied in capital style by Bro. Walker. After the supper the toasts of "The Queen and the Craft," "The Three Grand Masters," coupled with the name of the G.M., the Prince of Wales, were proposed by Bro. Showman, W.M., and duly honoured. Bro. Showman, W.M., then proposed the toast of "The Three Provincial Grand Masters," coupled with the name of Bro. Baker, D.P.G.M. Bro. Baker, in responding, apologised for the absence of Bros. J. T. Smith, P.G.M.; Ellis, P.G.S.; A. Hart, P.G.J.W.; and J. Durose, P.G.I.G., who had intended to be present, but who were prevented by unforeseen obstacles. Bro. Kelly, P.M., proposed "The Health of the Provincial Grand Officers," coupled with the name of Bro. Small, P.G.S.W. Bro. Small suitably responded. Bro. C. B. Finlayson, P.D.G.J.W., then, in fitting terms, proposed the toast of "The W.M. Elect, Bro. Showman," and, in doing so, dilated upon the onerous duties he had before him, and the certainty he felt, from his knowledge of the newly-installed Master, that they would be faithfully performed. Bro. Showman, W.M., in responding, thanked the brethren for the kind and hearty way in which the oath of his health was received. He felt proud of being placed in the honourable position of W.M. of St. John's Lodge, a position, he thought, worthy the ambition of any one. He was grateful for his preferment, more particularly as he considered he had been chosen from amongst men quite as worthy of the honour as himself, if not more fitted to the position; and that too, by the unanimous vote of the lodge. He hoped the success that had attended his humble efforts in the cause would encourage the younger members to persevere in learning and fulfilling the tenets of the Order. He could say that as he advanced he became more and more enthusiastic in pursuing his course, and the more he saw of Masonry the more he admired and revered it. The question was often asked of Masons, what was Masonry? It was an elevated system of morality. Many different theories had been propagated as to its rise and origin, but it is certain that the date of its origin was very remote. In the building of King Solomon's temple was to be found the symbol of the life of every true Mason. Each block and stone used in building the temple had to be hewn square and truly formed, and every Mason should enact that life which will show no blemishes or imperfect formation of character. The universality of Freemasonry was admitted, and it was to be found practised in all nations, by men of every religion. He would inform the brethren that there were no less than seventy-five Grand Lodges, numbering in all 450,000 members; and this, with the addition of some 50,000 who were in countries where the practice of the Craft was forbidden by the laws of the land—such as Russia and some countries in South America—would make about half a million of members. When it is known that the Masons form the elite of society, it will be understood that they exert a very peaceful influence in the world. The theme of Freemasonry was infinite, and as he felt he was not able to do justice to it with the few remarks he had made, he concluded by again thanking the brethren for the manner in which they had drunk his health, and stating that he would do the best he could to faithfully discharge the onerous duty they had placed upon him. Bro. Little, P.M., then proposed "The Health of Bro. the Rev. Charles Clark," which was duly honoured and responded to. Other toasts followed, and a very pleasant evening was brought to a close.

NOTES OF AMERICAN MASONRY.

By BRO. ROB MORRIS, OF LA GRANGE, KY., P.G.M., &c.

Several of our Grand Lodges have become embarrassed by debts, incurred through building projects; and as references to them occur in our published records, it is proper that I should explain them to the readers of the Freemason. I will commence with my own Grand Lodge, that of Kentucky.

The organisation of this body occurred in 1800. Meetings were held at Lexington, one of the oldest cities in the State, and before the inauguration of railways, the largest. A Masonic temple was built there as far back as 1820, and upon its destruction by fire, an edifice of fine proportions, and occupying a commanding site, was erected. In 1858 the sittings of Grand Lodge were removed to Louisville, which, at the present, is very much the largest city in Kentucky, and the Masonic temple there is principally owned by the Grand Lodge.

The debt which troubles us in Kentucky was incurred in the construction of our Masonic Widows' and Orphans' Home at Louisville, completed and dedicated last year. This noble edifice, worthy of the great fraternity, was erected by voluntary subscriptions, and nearly completed, when, through the influence of a tornado, in 1876, the central portion was thrown down, and so an absolute loss followed of some thirty thousand dollars. Even this might, in better times, have been overcome, but the great depression in business caused the financial ruin of many of its most liberal donors. In 1876 the Grand Lodge ordered a proposition to be submitted to the consideration of all the lodges (500 in all) for an annual assessment of one dollar per year for five years upon each member of the lodges. To the honour of Kentucky liberality this was adopted by a handsome majority, and already two annual assessments have been paid. But the burden is heavy; many have become recalcitrant, and a feeling is abroad through the State that may lead to rescinding the assessment. I think it will not carry, yet the very agitation of the proposition is working injury to the cause. The "home," as it is affectionately styled, is doing its charitable work, about 150 pupils being boarded, clothed, and educated under its roof. A printing office has recently been established in a building near by, erected for the purpose, and some twenty of the boys are learning the typographic art. Bookbinding is proposed, and other industrial pursuits. For it is not deemed proper in a country like ours to rear boys and girls in idleness, even though the "home" is a grand charity.

In Indiana the financial trouble of Grand Lodge arises from a different cause. Eight years ago the Grand Lodge of that State was in possession of a large and commodious hall at Indianapolis, with ample grounds attached, and not a dollar in debt. Dissatisfied, and desiring to have a finer building, they tore down their hall, and, like the man in the parable, "built greater." The outstanding debt is about seventy-five thousand dollars. The rooms and offices are not rented, as was anticipated, and so there is no income. Foreclosures and judgments threatened the Grand Lodge until they have ordered an annual assessment of one dollar per member upon the lodges, to run for five years.

Massachusetts is in trouble from the same cause. They built a costly and imposing edifice when prices were at their highest, and thought to carry the unpaid portion for twenty-five or fifty years until the debt could be liquidated. But rumour has it that the sheriff has made a levy, and their splendid temple will be sold for its debts.

New York is in trouble for similar causes. Owning a noble hall, of which they are justly proud, the debt presses upon them as an incubus. Their building would not sell to-day, if forced upon the market, for the amount of its incumbrance.

Pennsylvania has an enormous debt (nearly a million dollars) resting upon that matchless temple in Philadelphia, which was such an attractive sight to visitors there during the centennial year. Yet so well are the financial affairs of that Grand Lodge conducted, and such faith have the citizens of the Quaker city in Masonic matters, that no trouble is found in carrying the burden, heavy as it is.

Maryland is in trouble; and the principal business of Grand Lodge for a number of years has been to keep afloat their bonds, and prevent their liabilities from crushing them.

But I will not draw out the gloomy tale any further. Perhaps it will serve to warn your readers that there is nothing so burdensome to a Masonic organisation as debt. Many of our secular lodges have found it so, and if once we recover from the financial depression, which begun in 1874 (may God speed it), let us hope that the record I have brought forward will stand as a warning for the generations to come.

TIME'S CHANGES.

Time, that great arbiter of human life and destiny, is ever active and busy amongst us and ours. It accompanies us along our earthly pilgrimage, beginning with "our cradles," and ending with our "graves;" it lightens up our often arid and discontented present with pleasant memories of the past, and it throws over the dim and distant horizon of our future hopes the glamour of brighter aspirations, and better, because enduring expectations. Not that time itself can ever satisfy the longings or the wants of man. No, being passing and limited in duration, it does not, and cannot, consort with the innate anxieties and anticipations of even this mortal race of ours, but still it is the most important "factor" in the great and lifelong history of humanity, and is replete with the most solemn, the most tender, the most cherished, nay, the most sacred feelings, we believe, of us all alike. We should not like to believe it otherwise, and so we dismiss the doubt with indignant alacrity. And hence, short though the measure of time be for us all alike, the highest and the humblest of human beings, many are its effects, important its influences on us all. It often leaves us, for instance, when most we desire its presence, when its gifts seem to us the most varied, and its promises the most refreshing. It accompanies us often but a little portion of the normal way, often arrests its footsteps at an early milestone, and for us, sometimes when we least expect it, we find ourselves bereft of time, our journey over, our tale told out. For time, be it well understood, is the one limit here, in the good Providence of T.G.A.O.T.U., of all our hopes and plans, all our longings and our dreams, our joys and our sorrows, our labours and our duties. Curious paradox! Though sometimes most ephemeral, it often goes with us to a green old age, mellowing the memories, and deepening the responsibilities of earth, and making the decline of life itself venerable and loving to those who still dare to trust in the reality of old affections, of proved friendship, and of lingering souvenirs. And thus we see, we think, clearly how many and great indeed time's changes must be to us all, whether as mortals or as Freemasons. We behold, for instance, in the every day condition of our common humanity, family ties severed, and loving hearts disunited: we miss the tender voice, the beaming smile, the gracious presence, the bright promise of youth, the comely associations of old age. For few of us all "time's changes" have no significance, for many of us they have consequences momentous and enduring. Time was, time is, and yet time is not, alike for us and ours. The friends and hopes of youth are gone; bright anticipations have yielded to sobered sadness; the vacant chairs round our board are not filled up; the empty spaces in our family circle are not closed in; and amid all assemblies comes the sad and subduing recollection both of the "touch of a vanished hand, and the sound of a voice that is still." We need hardly add how that this account of time's changes squares with that of our Masonic circle with which many of us are so bound up. Week by week we miss the true and trusty, the old and bold, the kind old friend of long years, the cheery mate, ever smiling, always confiding; and as we look back to-day a sigh comes to us all as we recall the friendly faces which are wanting among us, the cheery voices which are hushed, the warm hearts which are still. And if time's changes then bring to us all those trials and troubles, and careworn hours, and chastening recollections, which are, more or less, the heritage of us all equally, let us also trust that they may appeal to us, with some elevating emotions, and some better and purer, and we will add eternal anticipations. Time will not be always time—its changes will one day end, its ravages, and havoc, and decay will one day be done away with, thank God, for ever. For when time has ceased to dominate this lower world and dying man, it will be exchanged in God's own good time for the glad hours, blissful recognition, blessed privileges, and perfect knowledge of eternity.

CAMBRIDGE LOCAL EXAMINATION AT CHRISTMAS, 1878.

We are glad to note the great success which has attended our Boys' School in this important examination. Fourteen boys went up, and all passed. Nine obtained "honours" in the first class, three in the second class, one in the third class, one in the fourth class. We congratulate the authorities and Bro. Dr. Morris on this auspicious state of things, and it will be a pleasure to our brethren to know that the efficiency of the School is thus so fully maintained.

NEW GRAND LODGES.

We confess that we look with some apprehension, and no little doubt, on the constant formation of Grand Lodges in our Colonial Dependencies. Too often they are the result of the proceedings of a "caucus" of irresponsible brethren, the product of the exertions of mere "wire pullers," or party agitators. There are, however, new "Grand Lodges and new Grand Lodges," and while we do not deny that under certain circumstances the formation of a Colonial Grand Lodge is both allowable and tends to good, we advise all our colonial brethren to be very cautious in taking part in proceedings which are questionable, and in getting up jurisdictions which are needless. Let them beware of Masonic agitators.

THE ANCIENT AND ACCEPTED SCOTTISH RITE.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In the letter of Ill. Bro. Graham, the Secretary of the Supreme Council of New Zealand, which was in the Freemason of the 8th inst., it appears that, in General Pike's opinion, the Supreme Council of England and Wales was originally formed in consequence of Dr. Crucefix, its founder, having received the obligation by communication. It is a well-known fact, that the A. and A. Degrees have been frequently so conferred. The General, however, says that "nothing could have been more irregular. Yet it is too late to question the legitimacy of the Supreme Council of England."

Such a remark comes with particular bad grace from General Pike, the head of the Supreme Council of Charleston, U.S., for it is a notorious fact that that Council was spuriously formed by one Mitchell, who without the slightest authority assumed the 33rd Degree, conferred it on one Dalcho, and, although one of the fundamental rules of the Order is, that not less than three Sovereign Grand Inspectors General can form Supreme Councils, yet these two individuals formed General Pike's Council, which he now so modestly designates the "Mother Council of the world." Truly, "Those who live in glass houses should not throw stones."

Yours fraternally,

JOHN THOMAS LOTTY, 33^o,
Member of the Supreme Council of the G. Orient of France.

CAMBRIDGE LOCAL EXAMINATION, 1878.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The Governors' report of the Cambridge Local Examination notifies that thirteen out of the fourteen girls sent up from this Institution to the examination have passed.

Frances Gardner has taken second class honours, with distinction for religious knowledge and zoology.

Five have taken third class honours, viz.:—Doral Bowles, Ellen Cates, Helene Meacock, Alice Thornbury, and Letitia Whitley.

Six have satisfied the examiners in all subjects generally, viz.:—Eliza Beveridge, Katherine Emery, Edith Nash, Annie Pattison, Elizabeth Roberts, and Bearice Wray.

One, Dora Jennings, has satisfied the examiners in all the preliminary subjects, religious knowledge, and English.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The monthly meeting of the General Committee of this Institution was held on Thursday afternoon, at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. J. A. Rucker in the chair. The other brethren present were:—Bros. A. H. Tattershall, William Stephens, H. A. Dubois, Herbert Dicketts, F. Letchworth, Col. Peters, Fredk. Adlard, C. H. Webb, F. K. W. Hedges, (Secretary), and H. Massey (Freemason).

The business of the meeting was merely formal.

CONSECRATION OF THE DINBYCH CHAPTER, No. 1177.

On Wednesday afternoon, the 19th inst., the Dinbych Chapter, No. 1177 of Royal Arch Masons of England, was consecrated at the Royal Gate House Assembly-rooms, Tenby, in the presence of several distinguished members of the Craft. The chapter having been duly opened, and the companions of the new chapter having entered, the acting M.E.Z. proceeded to constitute the companions into a regular chapter according to ancient form. The ceremony of consecration was most impressively performed by M.E. Comp. Captain S. George Homfray, P.Z., P. Standard Bearer of the Supreme Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of England, P.G.H. of Monmouthshire, assisted by E. Comps. White, as H.; W. Watkins, as J.; and Roberts, as D.C.

At the conclusion of the ceremony of consecration, the following companions were installed as Principals for the ensuing year:—Comps. Howell Davies, M.E.Z.; Henry Adams, H.; George Parry, J.

The following companions were appointed and inducted officers of the chapter:—C. W. R. Stokes, Scribe E.; W. H. Richards, Scribe N.; R. Lock, P.S.; R. W. Williams, 1st A.S.; A. W. J. Stokes, 2nd A.S.; J. R. Rowland, S.; W. H. Richards, Treasurer.

The musical arrangements were under the direction of Comp. W. H. Ribbon, Hwlford Chapter (464).

The brethren dined together in the evening at the Royal Gate House Hotel, the newly-installed E. Comp. M.E.Z. presiding. The banquet was put on the table by Bro. J. Gregory in his usual well-known style. The usual Royal Arch toasts were given, and during the evening the proceedings were enlivened by several songs by the companions, and the utmost harmony prevailed.

On the following day a number of brethren belonging to the Tenby and neighbouring lodges were balloted for as companions, and the following were duly exalted:—Bros. J. G. Lock, J.D. 1177; J. L. Lister, Sec. 1177; C. B. Priest, 1177; M. M. Thomas, 1177; R. J. Morley, 1177; and R. Mathias, Org. 1177. The last named was subsequently appointed Janitor; Bro. Lock, J.J.; and Bro. Priest, D.C.

A banquet took place in the evening at the Royal Gate House Hotel, at which a good number were present.

SOUTHAMPTON NEW MASONIC HALL.

The corner stone of this new hall was laid, without official demonstration or ceremony, on Monday afternoon last, by the R.W. the Grand Master of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight, Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P., who was met by the D.P.G.M., Bro. W. Hickman (Chairman of the Hall Company), Bro. J. R. Weston, P.M., Vice-Chairman, and several of the directors, with many shareholders and Masons. The stone having been duly laid, thanks were tendered to the P.G.M. for his presence, and he subsequently lunched with a few of the brethren in the present hall.

The principal elevation of the new hall, which is to be in the Italian style of architecture, freely treated, faces Albion-terrace, and is fifty feet in length; the side elevations, facing the beautiful Western Bay of Southampton, and overlooking the New Forest, extending about 73 ft. The passage, five feet wide, is approached by an arched porch, with a passage and a corridor or lobby, nine feet long, leading to a cloak room, with bay windows overlooking the Western Bay. There will be an ante-room or chapter-room, 26 ft. 4 in. by 18 ft. 9 in., with a height of eleven feet, its bay windows overlooking the Western Shore. The lodge-room will be 45 ft. by 30 ft. and 18 ft. high, and will be lighted by two lanterns from the roof. There will be a banqueting room, facing Albion-terrace, 38 ft. 6 in. by 25 ft., also 18 ft. high, together with a kitchen, wash-house, pantry, and serving passage. A back entrance will be from Forest View. On the one pair floor, over the ante-room, will be four rooms, and other accommodation for the lodge-keeper. The material is to be of white brick in all the exposed parts, with dressings partly in moulded brick, and of stone to the architraves and pediments. The roofs will be slated and tile capped. The plan altogether is adapted to a very irregular frontage in Forest View. The architect is Bro. J. G. Poole, of Portland-street, and the builder, Bro. S. Stevens, who it is hoped will have the hall ready for occupation during the present year. The corner stone was placed in the north-east corner of the building, and bears a suitable inscription.

Major-General Sir John Woodford, K.C.B., the oldest of the surviving Waterloo officers, died on Saturday last, at his residence, Lake View Villa, Keswick.

The next Installation Meeting of the Holy Palestine Preceptory of the United Orders of the Temple and Malta will be held at 33, Golden-square, on Wednesday next, the 2nd prox., at 6 p.m.

The consecration of Chapter Sincerity, No. 1019, was appointed to take place at the Masonic Hall, Zetland-street, Wakefield, on Friday, the 28th inst.

THE FREEMASONS' HALL, IPSWICH.

Our readers, more especially the Suffolk brethren, will be pleased to hear that the new Masonic Hall, Ipswich, is now completed, and that the formal opening ceremony is shortly expected to take place, most likely in Easter week, when a large gathering of the brethren in the province is certain. The P.G.M., Lord Waveney, and the D.P.G.M. of Suffolk, Bro. Rev. J. Martyn, P.G.C., are expected.

The new hall is built of red brick and stone facings. It consists of a very handsome lodge-room, about fifty feet long by twenty-three feet wide, and twenty-two feet high, ceiled lights, &c. The banquet hall below is same size. There are various rooms and chambers, kitchen, lavatories, &c., with every requirements for Masonry. The total cost will not exceed, including furniture, £2000, partly raised by voluntary subscription. The architect is Bro. H. Luff, of Ipswich, who has given great satisfaction to the Committee. The building has been carried out under supervision of Bro. Oliver T. Gibbons, manager for Messrs. E. and E. C. Gibbons, builders, Ipswich, who has done his contract exceedingly well. In fact, the work has only occupied some four months from commencement.

The St. Luke's Lodge, 225, held their first meeting there last week, when Bro. T. Wentworth, W.M., one of the trustees to the building, gathered together over fifty brethren to a sumptuous supper after the work of the lodge was over. The business occupied nearly five hours, as there were four raisings, three passings, and three initiations down for that evening.

The Masons of Ipswich may be congratulated on having now got such a capital hall to hold their various lodges in, as they have all united in the erection of this building.

LAYING THE FOUNDATION STONE OF FREEMASONS' HALL, MERIDIAN LODGE, No. 1469, AT CRADOCK, SOUTH AFRICA.

The above lodge was established in 1874, Bro. W. B. Chalmers, Civil Commissioner and resident Magistrate, being the first W.M., and has held its meetings in the Government School-room, under a five years' lease. The desirability of the lodge possessing its own building had frequently been discussed by the brethren, and the approaching termination of the lease of the government buildings necessitated action of a decisive nature. Bro. Henry Beadle, J.W., placed at the disposal of the lodge, for less than half its cost, a valuable and suitable building site, and this generous deed was supplemented by money subscriptions from other brethren and promises of further assistance from extraneous sources. Little time was lost in commencing the serious work of building. Bro. W. Stonin Leigh, P.M., who is well known to members of the Craft in England and Scotland, kindly furnished appropriate plans, and undertook the duties of Secretary and Treasurer of the Building Committee, and Bro. Albert Ziervogel, Dis. Gr. Pur., I.P.M., the Chairman of the Committee, arranged for the supply of the requisite building material at the lowest possible outlay; other brethren actively assisting in various ways.

The foundation walls having been built, it was decided to lay the corner stone, with Masonic rites, on the 12th of February, 1879, being the day of regular monthly meeting, and accordingly the lodge was opened at 5.30 p.m. The following brethren were present:—Bros. J. E. Green, W.M.; A. Ziervogel, D.G. Pur., I.P.M.; W. B. Chalmers, P.M.; W. Stonin Leigh, P.M.; A. E. Austen, S.W.; Henry Beadle, J.W.; T. R. Smallman, as Treas.; James W. Riches, Sec.; S. J. Griffiths, S.D.; A. C. Maynard, as J.D.; James J. Games, Steward; A. Saunders, as I.G.; W. H. Hepworth, M.D.; A. Campbell, E. Plumbridge, Geo. Armstrong, A. J. Wright, and J. S. Distin, jun., and the following visiting brethren:—Bros. O. Fehrsen, M.D., Goede Hoop Lodge (D.C.); T. W. Smith, Canonbury, 955; D. W. Canood, lately Meridian, 1469; Henry Rowland, Albany, 389; Frederick Munnik, Goede Hoop Lodge (D.C.); W. R. Taylor, Wodehouse, 1467, and others.

The procession was then formed in the following order: Band of Cradock Volunteer Rifles, playing the "Freemasons' March" in slow time; the builder (Mr. James Mills), with plan; Tyler (Bro. John Urie), with drawn sword; visiting brethren two and two; members of Meridian Lodge two and two; Incer Guard with dirk; Bro. Hepworth, M.D., with mallet, and Bro. Plumbridge with trowel; Steward with corn in golden vessel; Junior Deacon with wine, and Senior Deacon with oil in silver vessels; Secretary with scroll, and Treasurer with box; Bro. Campbell with Bible; Bro. Rev. W. C. Wallis, rector of St. Peter's Church, wearing surplice and stole; Junior Warden and Senior Warden; the Past Masters; Worshipful Master; detachment of Cradock-mounted volunteers, under Lieut. Kirger.

On arriving at the site of the new building the procession opened out, allowing the officiating brethren to take up their position at the stone, the brethren forming a circle round it. The band played "The Queen's Anthem" while the stone was raised to the required height. The Rev. W. C. Wallis offered up the following prayer: "Almighty and Eternal God, architect and ruler of the universe, Maker of all things, and Judge of all men, regard, we humbly beseech Thee, with Thy special favour this our present undertaking, and grant that the work which we now commence in Thy name may conduce to Thy glory and to the temporal and eternal good of Thy dependent creatures. Bless the Craft in this town with Thine especial blessing, and grant that all who shall enjoy the benefit of this work may continue Thy faithful servants unto their lives' end. Let their practice shadow forth the blessed principles of Faith, Hope, and Charity; and when Thou shalt be pleased to call them hence, and the earthly house of this tabernacle shall be dissolved, give them a building of God, a house not built with hands eternal in the heavens;" followed by the Lord's Prayer, in which the brethren joined audibly, and the response Amen. So mote it be.

The Secretary read aloud the inscription to be placed under the stone, and the Treasurer placed in the cavity in the lower stone a tin box, covered with blue velvet, containing the inscription, and sundry coins of the present reign.

The W.M. spread cement over the lower stone, and the upper stone was slowly lowered; three distinct stops being made in bringing it down; and was properly laid by the W.M., assisted by the I.P.M., S.W., and J.W., the band playing "The Vesper Hymn," and the brethren standing "to order," with arms crossed. The J.W. was called upon to plumb the stone, the S.W. to level it, and the I.P.M. to square it, and with three knocks the W.M. declared it "well and truly laid," saying, "May the Great Architect of the Universe look down with benignity upon our present undertaking, and crown this edifice, of which we have now laid the foundation stone, with every success. So mote it be."

The builder handed the plan to the W.M., who, on returning it, enjoined him to use due care and diligence in the erection of the building, and expressed a hope that it would be completed without accident to the workmen, and prove creditable alike to the builder and the Craft.

The vessel containing the corn was handed to Bro. Leigh, P.M., who strewed it upon the stone, saying, "Corn being a symbol of prosperity and abundance, I strew it upon this stone that our lodge may continue successful and promote the benefits resulting from Brotherly Love, Relief, and Truth." The wine was handed to Bro. Chalmers, P.M., who poured it upon the stone, saying, "Wine being a symbol of refreshment and cheerfulness, I pour it upon this stone that our lodge may enjoy the blessings arising out of perfect peace and tranquillity." The oil was handed to Bro. Ziervogel, I.P.M., who poured it upon the stone, saying, "Oil being a symbol of joy and happiness, I pour it upon this stone that our lodge may reap the advantages of Masonry with rejoicing and festivity."

Bro. the Rev. W. C. Wallis then said, "May the all-bounteous Author of Nature bless the inhabitants of this place with all necessaries, conveniences, and comforts of life, assist in the erection of this building, protect the workmen against every accident, and long preserve this structure from decay, and grant us all a supply of the corn of nourishment, the wine of refreshment, and the oil of joy. So mote it be." Response by the brethren: "Glory be to God on high. As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be. Amen."

This closed the ceremonial, and after the band had played "The Queen's Anthem," the procession reformed and returned to the lodge room, the band playing the "Freemasons' March" in quick tin c.

Bro. W. Stonin Leigh, P.M., as Secretary and Treasurer of the Building Committee, gave a brief statement of the funds collected. Votes of thanks were passed to Bro. the Rev. W. C. Wallis and others for assistance rendered on the occasion, and the lodge was then called off to resume with the regular business at 8 p.m.

It is expected that the new building will be completed and ready for occupation by the 24th June, St. John's Day, the day of annual installation, and most probably the dedication and consecration ceremonies will be united with that of installation of W.M.

MASONIC BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTES

WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.

Lest some of my readers may be startled at the real object of the present article I shall defer presenting a full revelation until a pause has been duly honoured. The pamphlet now "looking at me" is a rare octavo, of some thirty-nine pages, and has experienced over some hundred and ten summers. I have never seen more than another copy before, which had London on the imprint, but the present one was reprinted at Dublin by W. G. Jones and J. Milliken, during the same year, 1768, the title being "Masonry the Way to Hell: a Sermon, wherein is clearly proved, both from reason and Scripture, that all who profess these mysteries are in a state of damnation; Mystery, the Whore of Babylon, &c., Revel." London, &c. Where this most extraordinary sermon was delivered, and by whom, we know not. It cost a "British sixpence" on publication, but now it is such a curiosity that it would take many of such little coins to procure a copy. The London edition consisted of twenty-two pages, but the Dublin one, from which I quote, contains thirty-nine. I am not sure now exactly as to the character of the first issue, but as there are representatives of this wonderful discourse in the grand libraries of Bros. E. T. Carson and R. F. Bower, perhaps one, or both, of these brethren would kindly state how far their copies agree with the following. The writer of the pamphlet commences with the verse 5 of Revelations xvii., and proceeds to explain the errors commentators have fallen into by presuming the word mystery referred to the Romish Church, for "the words of the text relate entirely to Masonry." The author considers he proves in the sermon, "both from reason and revelation, that by the title Babylon is understood Masonry," especially because it is evident because "upon her forehead was a name written mystery." The relevancy of such a proof we must not stay to consider, but evidently it quite satisfied the mind of the author, and others similarly constituted. The application of the word harlot (page 9) is curious. "As women of that character affect to inspire men with the warmest ideas of pleasure, &c., so the Freemasons or male harlots * * * (!) practise upon others their deceitful arts, to invite them to be initiated in their mysteries." The seven heads of the woman of prophecy would have nonplussed any ordinary mind, but the writer perceives the allusion at once, as (of course) it is the seven members necessary to constitute a perfect lodge, who would doubtless on such occasions bring their heads with them. Should such a suggestion not be acceptable to all his readers, he suggests that the description applies to the "seven steps."

At page 15 the method of the reception of "the poor deluded candidate" is most graphically described, but it would not do to reprint these wonderful revelations without permission, for if they led many to keep from our society from their perusal how sad it would be. However, to speak frankly, my time is scarcely at my command sufficiently to write out such stuff, and, indeed, were it otherwise, and any gentleman was led to determine never to enter a Masonic lodge because of his belief in the statements made in the pamphlet, or in any other stupid exposé, I should consider that a positive benefit had accrued to our society, as there would be one weak-minded individual the less in our ranks, and the Order would be the gainer by the result.

From page 19 to page 23 the author seeks really to show there is no mystery really in Freemasonry, or his argument falls to the ground as to its being the Babylon mentioned in Revelations. The writer is evidently well informed of the movements of his Satanic Majesty, as he ravenly tells us that "whenever two or three Masons are met together to celebrate their mysteries, there the devil is essentially in the midst of them."

The crime of murder, it seems, is quite an ordinary event amongst the Freemasons, "and to this terrible charge may be added a strong attachment to the diabolical art of necromancy."

The author asks of the distinguished men who patronise the Craft "When shall the time come that an English alderman, like a Roman citizen, shall be contented with his frugal meal of turnips?" On this subject we are not able to offer an opinion. The last division of the pamphlet is devoted to show that all those who adhere to the abominations of Masonry will be damned.

Finally the writer implores the brethren to "Be not any longer the wicked instruments of bringing upon children yet unborn the horrors of temporal, and upon their deluded fathers eternal misery."

The work is numbered 857 in Bro. Carson's most excellent "Mason Bibliography," and styled by him "an exceedingly scarce pamphlet." His copy was published in London, and the Dublin edition appears still scarcer.

Of course many answers were forthcoming, not the least curious being one entitled "Masonry Vindicated: a Sermon, wherein is clearly and demonstratively proved that a Sermon entitled 'Masonry the way to Hell' is an entire piece of the utmost weakness and absurdity," &c. (London, 1768); and another, known by the startling title "Masonry the Turnpike Road to Happiness in this Life, and Eternal Happiness Hereafter" (London 1768). All these pamphlets are scarcely ever heard of now, but Freemasonry continues to increase in prosperity and usefulness.

MASONIC HIGH GRADES IN CANADA. (From the Prescott Messenger, Feb. 14.)

In writing upon Masonic High Grades, I wish, as a preliminary, to be distinctly understood as meaning, by the term, a variety of degrees, conferred by a variety of rites, and which degrees are in effect not strictly, but merely quasi Masonic. They are not strictly Masonic, for the reason that the Craft Grand Lodge, the ruling body in pure, ancient and symbolic Masonry, of which every Master Mason's lodge is a component part, entirely ignores them. It—the Grand Lodge—does not forbid them; it does not acknowledge them; it simply knows them not. Every Master Mason is well aware that all the benefit that he can personally derive from the Order, all the relief and assistance that those near and dear to him can claim, in short all Masonic utility, emanates either from the Craft lodge or Grand Lodge. Hence all useful, practical, and beneficial Masonry begins and ends in the Master Mason's lodge, and the Master Mason himself—being raised to the Sublime Degree—is the peer and equal of any Mason upon earth. This being the case, all the "High Grades," professing to be Masonic, cannot in strictness be considered as properly so; they are only, as before stated, quasi Masonic. It is true that there is no real harm in any Mason taking any or all of them; they are in most cases amusing, in some instructive; they are the toys or recreations of an idle hour, in which many Masons, being but children of a large growth, find pleasure by indulging in. They are generally harmless, always useless, and in truth are valueless excrescences upon the body Masonic. With this declaration of what is generally held to be the sound Masonic law upon the subject, I will proceed to notice the manner in which the "High Grades" are used and sometimes abused in Canada. The rites claiming to possess them are as follow:

The Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Thirty-three Degrees, which originated at Charleston, South Carolina, U.S.A., 31st May, 1801.

The Rite of Mizraim of Ninety Degrees, which originated at Milan, in Italy, in 1805.

The Rite of Memphis of Ninety-six Degrees, which originated at Paris, in France, 7th July, 1838.

The Ancient and Primitive Rite of Thirty-three Degrees (being a condensation of the Rite of Memphis of Ninety-six Degrees), which originated at Paris, in France, in 1862.

The manner in which these various rites were primarily constituted was this. During the latter half of the last century, a vast number—some hundreds—of pseudo Masonic degrees were fabricated and set afloat in Europe, and were generally entitled "Side Degrees." It at length occurred to some enterprising Masons that it would be both pleasant and profitable to congregate a quantity of these

Degrees together, to number them consecutively, beginning with the fourth (leaving to genuine Masonry the questionable honour of being the first, second, and third), and administer them to brethren who had a fondness for high sounding titles, resplendent jewelry, and "fuss and feathers" generally, at a price. The Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, being first in the field, led off the game, and the others followed suit, and they have continued up to the present time, sometimes flourishing, sometimes nearly dormant, their good or ill success chiefly depending upon the state of the times, that is, as to whether money was plenty or scarce. The Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite has been, by all odds, the most successful, and is at the present time by far the most widely diffused of all these rites, but at the same time it has shown itself to be in many cases the most intolerant and arrogant amongst them. Owing to its priority of origin, and some pretended charter of constitution, purporting to emanate from Frederick the Great of Prussia (which most Masonic writers of repute now consider forgeries), it seems disposed in some countries, of which Canada is one, to claim for itself the sole right and title to propagate the "High Grades," and to pocket the fees attendant upon such propagation. The most learned and distinguished member of this rite, the Hon. Albert Pike, Thirty-three Degrees, Chief of the Supreme Council of the United States—the Mother Supreme Council of the world—distinctly repudiates any such design on the part of himself or his Supreme Council, to practise this selfish and illiberal policy. In a letter to the chief officer of the Rite of Memphis in Italy, bearing date 18th February, 1877, Bro. Pike says: "We have never interfered to prevent the establishment within our jurisdiction of what is here called the Oriental Rite of Memphis (which has been reduced by its possessors to thirty-three degrees), because we conceded to the fullest extent the right of all Masons to practise any Masonic rite, ancient or modern, without hindrance from any one, and because we hold that each, our own included, ought to stand or fall, succeed or fail, upon its own merits."

Now, Bro. Pike is not only a distinguished Mason, but a distinguished jurist also, and as it is generally admitted that to his very great genius and ability the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite owes almost entirely its present prominence among the rites, it must, therefore be evident to every impartial mind that this opinion of Bro. Pike, so liberal and truly Masonic in its principles, expresses the law of his rite, and that in effect, arrogance or intolerance are no real or fundamental part of its constitution, and that these objectionable qualities are merely errors into which men of narrow minds and weak understandings—inflated by imaginary distinctions—have unwittingly fallen. It may now be affirmed as a settled truth that the law of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite neither requires nor permits its members to interfere with other rites, and those who have done so have displayed not only intolerance but ignorance.

I have been led into this disquisition upon High Grade Rites and their relations to each other by a recent perusal of the proceedings of the Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite for the Dominion of Canada, at the last session held in Montreal in October, 1878. In his address, the Presiding Officer, "The Most Illustrious and Most Puissant Sovereign Great Commander of The Holy Empire"—(Great Cæsar, what a title! the Brother of the Sun! and Father of the Moon! and Lord of a thousand white Elephants! of Oriental fame, must pale and fade away before the lustre of this Magnifico!)—This stupendous Potentate, I say, took occasion to fall foul of some aspiring brethren in the small and insignificant village of Maitland, Ontario, who not having the fear of the Supreme Council before their eyes, had the audacity and atrocity to obtain lawful authority to confer the Degrees of the Rites of Mizraim and Memphis, and the Ancient and Primitive Rite, and to publish to the Masonic world a very mild and modest register of the various rites and degrees worked in that ambitious little village. For this act of so called rebellion against the "very superior persons" (in a Disraeli sense) of the Supreme Council, these presumptuous villagers were hauled over the coals most unmercifully, were called "prostitutors of Masonry," and defiers of the powers that be, "traffickers in degrees," in short, a most unsavoury stream of mock Masonic Billingsgate was poured upon their defenceless heads. Perjury was plainly intimated, and swindling, if not worse, hinted at. And why all this swelling indignation, this letting loose of a tornado of wrath? Merely because the Maitland brethren had done that which Bro. Albert Pike, the very highest authority in this same Ancient and Accepted Rite, had publicly proclaimed every brother had a perfect right to do without molestation from any one.

But as if to show the inconsistency into which a rage for supremacy, combined with a greed for fees, will hurry even "Sovereign Grand Inspectors General of the Holy Empire" (I write this title with awe), it was deliberately resolved by the Supreme Council at this same session, that as the mountain would not come to Mahomet, Mahomet must go to the mountain; that as the general insensible public would not so far appreciate the beautiful and sublime Degrees of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite as to seek after them, that these Degrees must "go for" the public, and that consequently emissaries must be sent into the cities and towns of Canada to endeavour to stir up the enthusiasm of the Masonic fraternity, and induce them to receive the Degrees of Perfection—Fourth to the Fourteenth—at the rate of thirty dollars per head. The "denounced" of Maitland only published a Register of Degrees, and that without a scale of fees; the "Illustrious" ones of the Supreme Council not only advertise their price, but in addition send out "Drummers" to dispose of their wares. In this connection I feel irresistibly impelled to give a quotation from Pickwick. Mr. Alfred Jingle having eloped with Miss Rachel Wardle, and being desirous of obtaining a marriage licence, consulted Mr. Weller—the immortal Sam.

"Do you know-what's-a-name—Doctor's Commons?" said Mr. Jingle.

"Yes, sir," replied Sam.

"Where it is?"

"Paul's Churchyard, sir, low archway on the carriage side, booksellers at one corner, hotel on the other, and two porters in the middle as touts for licenses."

"Touts for licenses?" said Mr. Jingle.

"Touts for licenses," replied Sam. "Two cores in white aprons touches their hats as you walk in. License, sir, license? Queer sort them, and their masters, too, sir."

As Jack Bunsby, another of Dickens' characters, would say, "The bearing of this here quotation lies in the application of it." My application is this. Can a discriminating Masonic public draw a parallel between the "two cores in white aprons touting for licenses," and two illustrious deputies of the Supreme Councils, also in white aprons, touting for thirty dollar fees through the towns and cities of Ontario and Quebec?

As regards the real value of these High Grade Degrees, I can speak with authority, being possessed of about all of them. As I said before, some are interesting, some amusing, and all harmless. To a Master Mason they are of no practical utility, he already having all that Masonry can give him, as regards rank, benefit, or position. Still if he is possessed of Masonic curiosity and a spirit of research, if he can spare the time and can afford the expense, I can with good conscience recommend him to take them, if it can be done conveniently, and he is not victimised by enormous fees. If they will do nothing else for him, they will at least entitle him to affix certain mysterious numbers to his signature, to wear a variety of costly jewels, and to call himself by magnificent titles, such as "Illustrious Brother," "Sovereign Prince," or "Sovereign Grand Inspector General." To my mind, and in this I am sustained by most Masonic writers, the grades or degrees known as the "Rose Croix" and "Kadush" are by far the best, and singularly enough these are Templar Grades, properly belonging to the "Order of the Temple," and of which it was somewhat surreptitiously deprived. They have no connection with and are out of place in the hotch-potch aggregation of "Side Degrees," which form the principal ingredients in all the High Grade Rites. The Order of the Templar, I may here observe, is not in any sense a Masonic rite or Order, although the degree of a Royal Arch Mason is now required as a pre-requisite for admission to it. It is a Christian chivalric Order, and is generally considered to be a genuine continuation of the old knightly Order of the Temple of the Crusades, and admission to its ranks is eagerly sought after and highly esteemed.

Feb. 6th, 1879.

FREEMASONRY IN CHINA.

The Northern Lodge of China, No. 570, held its anniversary meeting on the 27th December, 1878, in Shanghai, when the Worshipful Master was installed, and the officers appointed for the ensuing year. The lodge was opened at nine p.m. by W. Bro. H. S. Morris, W.M., at which time there were about forty brethren present, including Bros. Pemberton, W.M.; Birt, P.M. 428, S.C.; Jansen, W.M., Ancient Landmark, Am. Com.; Koch, P.M., Lodge Germania; Weiler, S.D.G.W.; Drummond Hay, D.G. Treasurer of the District Grand Lodge of Japan, and several well-known brethren. At 9.15 p.m. the R.W. District Grand Master, Bro. C. Thorne, entered the lodge, accompanied by Bros. Hart, D.G.J.W.; J. I. Miller, D.G. Registrar; Thos. W. Kingsmill, Pres. D. Board of G. Purposes; Moore, D.G. Sword Bearer; Orme, D.G. Secretary; Evans, D.G.S.D.; Fentum, D.G. Organist; Brown, D.G. Pursuivant, and was received with the customary honours. The lodge having been opened in the Second Degree, Bro. Morris, W.M., requested Bro. Thorne to honour the lodge by performing the installation ceremony, and Bro. Thorne, D.G.M., having acceded to the W.M.'s request, assumed the chair. Bro. Anderson, S.W., who had been unanimously elected as Master for the ensuing year, was then presented, and was duly installed in due and ancient form. The lodge having been closed respectively in the Third and Second Degrees, the W.M. invested his officers as follows: Bros. A. Robinson, S.W.; J. F. Holiday, J.W.; Wm. White, Treas.; J. D. Bishop, Secretary; H. A. Johnston, S.D.; J. Findlay, J.D.; T. Hore, Tyler. After which the D.G.M. delivered addresses to the W.M., Wardens, and the lodge respectively. The W.M. then thanked the R.W.D.G. Master and his officers for their attendance and assistance in the working of the installation ceremony. The R.W.D.G.M., in reply, expressed the pleasure it afforded him to assist at all times in the working of our ceremonies. He called the especial attention of the brethren to the necessity of their making themselves conversant with our ritual, so that they might always be ready to aid the W.M. in the working of the lodge, should any of the officers, unfortunately, be absent; he also urged them by their conduct outside the lodge to uphold the high character of our Masonic institution. The W.M. then thanked the visitors for their attendance, and after some Masonic business had been attended to, the lodge was closed in perfect harmony at 10.45 p.m., and the brethren adjourned to the adjoining room, where a cold collation was spread. After ample justice had been done to the viands, and the loyal toasts had been duly honoured, Bro. Morris, P.M., proposed "The M.W. the Grand Masters and Grand Officers of Sister Grand Lodges," which was responded to with honours. The W.M. then proposed "The R.W.D.

G.M. and the D.G. Officers of the District Grand Lodge of Northern China," and Bro. C. Thorne briefly replied, thanking them for the kindly feeling shown to him. Bro. Robinson, S.W., proposed "The Past Masters," coupling with it the name of Bro. Kingsmill, P.M., to which Bro. Kingsmill responded, and whilst thanking the brethren on their behalf, he must ask them to pay a special mark of honour to one who had only that evening taken his seat amongst the Past Masters; he alluded to Bro. Morris, P.M., who had presided over them as W.M. during the past year; how well he had performed his duties, and how kind and courteous he had proved to all, was so well known, that to dilate upon his many virtues would be superfluous. To prevent being tedious, he would call upon them to show their appreciation of Bro. Morris by the manner in which they responded to the toast of the health. Bro. Morris replied, and heartily thanked the brethren for the assistance rendered to him during the past year. He thanked Bro. Kingsmill for bringing his name before the lodge, and the brethren for thus enthusiastically responding to it. He had to express his thanks to the brethren of the sister lodges who from time to time had visited the Northern Lodge and assisted in its working. Personally he had received much attention at the hands of the P.M.'s of those lodges. That night they were favoured with the company of many of the members, and he felt assured the brethren would with him pay their tribute of respect by responding to the toast of "The Sister Lodges." He would couple the toast with the name of Bro. Short, W.M. elect of Lodge No. 1097. Bro. Short briefly replied, and thanked the brethren on behalf of his own lodge, as also on behalf of the Royal Sussex Lodge. Bro. Thorne, D.G.M., in the absence of Bro. Hart, D.G.J.W., drew the brethren's attention to the happy selection of officers made by the W.M. Many of them had filled subordinate offices, and were now gaining the reward of merit. All promised fairly for a successful year. He pointed out to the officers some of the duties expected from them, and urged them to a regular attendance to their duties. He commended to the brethren the toast of "The Officers of the Lodge." Bro. Bishop, Secretary, in a few well chosen words, expressed on behalf of himself and brother officers their thanks for the notice taken of them. He then proposed the toast of "The Visitors," which was most enthusiastically received. Bro. Housbury, in returning thanks, said how pleased all brethren were to visit the Northern Lodge of China, where they always received a hearty welcome. That night they had partaken of its hospitality, and he was sure by the happy faces of his brother visitors, who stood with him, that they felt deeply indebted to the brethren for the kindness received at their hands. The Tyler's toast was then given, and the brethren separated at 12.30 a.m.

The election and installation of office-bearers of the Cosmopolitan Lodge, No. 428, for the ensuing year took place at Shanghai, on the 20th December, when the lodge, in response to an invitation of Bro. T. Pemberton, the R.W.M., had the honour of a visit from the District Grand Master of English Freemasons in Northern China, accompanied by his officers. The lodge met half-an-hour earlier than usual, and balloted for the candidates who had been previously nominated for the different offices, the voting resulting in the election of the following: Bros. T. Pemberton, R.W.M.; W. Burt, I.P.M.; W. Youngson, S.M.; U. W. Harris, S.W.; F. T. Williams, J.W.; W. Youngson, Treasurer; J. J. G. Thurston, Secretary; J. Gould, S.D.; J. D. Clark, J.D.; J. Beckhoff, I.G.; R. A. J. Andersen, S.S.; J. Tonkin, J.S.; A. Silverthorne, D.C.; W. Van Corbach, B.B.; G. Baffy, Hon. Org.; T. Hore, Tyler. The W.M., Bro. Pemberton, thanked the members for the confidence they had reposed in him by his election a second time to the highest position in the lodge, and took the opportunity to thank his officers for the great assistance they had rendered him, without which he was sure the success that had characterised their proceedings during the last twelve months would not have been achieved. Punctually at nine o'clock, the R.W. District Grand Master of Northern China, English Constitution, Bro. Cornelius Thorne, and his officers, were announced, and were received by the brethren with the customary honours of their rank. The R.W.D.G.M. was accompanied by the following of his officers:—Bros. Hart, D.G.J.W.; F. W. Kingsmill, President of Board of General Purposes; H. Evans, D.G.J.D.; Geo. B. Fentum, D.G. Orgaust Moore, D.G. Sword Bearer; and J. Brown, D.G. Puist. W. H. Anderson and H. J. Camajee, D.G. Stewards; and among the visitors present were Bros. Rohl, of the Lodge Germania, German Constitution; M. H. Cook, I.P.M. Ancient Landmark Lodge, Mass. Constitution; D. C. Jansen, W.M. Ancient Landmark Lodge, Mass. Constitution; Weiller, S.D.G.W. of the District Grand Lodge, Japan, and other eminent Masons, there being altogether about seventy-five brethren present. The R.W.M. expressed to the R.W.D.G.M. and his officers the pleasure their visit afforded to the brethren of the lodge. It was an honour of which they were all proud, and their pride would be enhanced by the R.W.D.G.M. kindly consenting to officiate as Installing Master. The R.W.D.G.M. thanked the brethren for the warm reception accorded to him and his officers, and said it was always a pleasure for them to meet their brethren on occasions like the present. Being himself a honorary member of the lodge, it was his duty to be present and assist in the labours; therefore, they had, as it were, doubly honoured him in asking him to conduct the installation ceremony. The R.W.M. thereupon vacated the chair, and handed over the gavel to the R.W.D.G.M., who then proceeded with the business. Bro. Burt, I.P.M., presented the retiring W.M. for re-installation, explaining that he had again been elected Master of the lodge by a large majority. Bro. Pemberton was then re-installed in the chair of K.S., and was saluted by all the brethren in due and ancient form. At the request of the R.W.D.G.M., Bro. Hart, D.G.J.W., obligated and invested the office bearers in their respective positions, which was followed by the usual addresses, given by the R.W.D.G.M. to the R.W.M., Wardens, and brethren. The R.W.M. again thanked the Master and officers of the District Grand Lodge, and the visitors generally, for their attendance, and hoped they would not leave without partaking of the refreshments provided. The lodge was then closed in peace, harmony, and brotherly love, and the brethren retired to the banqueting hall, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Full justice having been done to the good things provided, the W.M., Bro. T. Pemberton, rose and proposed the first toast, "The Queen and the Craft," and then gave "The Rulers of our respective Countries," after which Bro. W. Birt, P.M., 30, proposed "The District Grand Lodge of Northern China," and thanked the R.W. District Grand Master, Bro. C. Thorne, and his Deputy District Grand Master, Bro. Jas. Hart, and the other officers of the District Grand Lodge for their presence, and for conducting the installation of the Master and officers of the Lodge Cosmopolitan, to which Bro. Thorne, R.W.D.G.M., returned thanks for the kind manner in which the toast had been proposed and responded to, and afterwards proposed "The Health of the Worshipful Master." At the call of the R.W.D.G.M., the health of the W.M. was then drunk with musical honours. The W.M. graciously acknowledged the compliment the R.W.D.G.M. had paid him by proposing his health in such felicitous terms, and thanked the brethren for the hearty manner in which they had received it. In conclusion, he proposed "The Healths of the Officers of the Lodge," and again referred to the great assistance they had rendered him during the last twelve months. Bros. Johnston, S.W., and Youngson, J.W., each responded. Bro. Johnston next proposed "Our Sister Lodges in Shanghai," coupling with the toast the name of Bro. Kingsmill. Bro. Kingsmill responded. Bro. Cook, in response to loud calls, also said a few words as to the good feeling that existed among the different lodges in Shanghai, and took occasion to propose the toast of "The Grand Lodge of Scotland," and Bro. Birt, replied, thanking the members of the District Grand Lodge and visitors for the cordial reception given to the toast. The W.M. next called upon the brethren to drink to "The W.M.'s elect of Sister Lodges," which was accordingly done, and Bro. Anderson, of the Northern Lodge, and Bro. Short, of the Tuscan Lodge, replied. The Tyler's toast, "Poor and Distressed Masons," was then given, whereupon the majority of the members of the District Grand Lodge withdrew. Several other toasts were afterwards given, interspersed with songs; and the gathering, which may well be described as one of the largest and most successful held under the auspices of Scottish Masonry in Shanghai, was appropriately brought to a close by the health of the founder of the Cosmopolitan Lodge, Bro. Donaldson, being drunk in a bumper.

Masonic and General Tidings.

Lieut. Teignmouth Melvill, 24th Regt., and Lieut. Col. Arthur Geo. Durnford, killed at Isandula, on the 22nd January, 1879, were both Masons.

Bro. William Malthouse, of the Central Meat Market, will come forward as a candidate for the office of Common Councillor for the Ward of Farringdon Without, when a vacancy occurs.

Bro. John Soffery has received from Her Majesty the Queen, and also H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, letters thanking him for copies of his poems "Welcome" and "Epithalamium."

The public will be glad to learn that the medical attendants of the Vice-Chancellor Malins consider that he is making such satisfactory progress towards recovery from his late accident, that he is sanguine of being able to resume his judicial duties early in the Easter Sittings.

The Annual General Meeting of the Royal National Life-boat Institution was held at Willis's Rooms on Tuesday week. The meeting was numerous and influentially attended, His Grace the Duke of Northumberland occupying the chair. The report stated that the lifeboats of the Institution had saved 471 persons from shipwreck, and helped to rescue seventeen vessels from destruction.

The trustees of the British Museum have decided that the galleries of that Institution shall be opened to the public until eight o'clock p.m. from May 8th till the middle of July, and thenceforward to the end of August until seven o'clock.

The want of cooling and refreshing drinks, which are at the same time slightly though not overwhelmingly stimulating, has long been felt, and has been acknowledged by the faculty. We are glad to be able to state that several eminent physicians have testified to the value of the Pilsener beer imported and sold by Bro. F. Jacob and Co., of Gracechurch-buildings, and now sold at all the best restaurants. It contains all the properties of a gentle stimulant and an innocuous quencher of thirst. We strongly recommend our readers to patronise this very nice and wholesome beverage. In our advertisement columns will be seen the opinion of the merits of the "Pilsener" beer by the Daily Telegraph, no bad authority on matters of taste.

MASONIC SONGS.—A selection of Masonic Songs, set to popular airs, written by Bro. E. P. Philpots, M.D., F.R.G.S., is now ready, forming a handsome volume, bound in cloth, with gilt edges, 3s. Sent post-free from the office of this paper on receipt of stamps or post-office order value 3s. 2d.—ADVT.

ROSIERUCIAN SOCIETY.—The Quarterly Convocation of the Metropolitan College will be held at Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen-street, on Thursday next, 3rd April.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has consented to preside at a festival dinner in aid of the funds of the Cabdrivers' Benevolent Association, 15, Soho-square, to be held at Willis's Rooms, King-street, St. James's, on Monday, May 5.

Mr. W. Spottiswoode, President of the Royal Society, was presented at the levee held by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales on Monday. Amongst those who attended were Bro. J. D. Alcroft, M.P., Mr. E. L. Lawson, Mr. J. D'A. Samuda, M.P., Mr. Marwood Tucker, and Bro. Professor Erasmus Wilson.

We learn that the installation of the Master of the Temple as Dean of Llandaff will take place in Llandaff Cathedral at the morning service on Tuesday next.

The usual Quarterly Court of the Governors of the Scottish Corporation was held on Wednesday, the 26th inst., at the temporary offices, Fleur-de-lis-court, Fetter-lane, Bro. Dr. Charles Hogg in the chair. A letter was received from Mr. Cross on behalf of the Queen, acknowledging the receipt of an address by the Governors on the occasion of the death of the Grand Duchess of Hesse.

The annual meeting and distribution of prizes to the pupils of the Masonic Female Orphan School, Dublin, will take place in the Exhibition Palace, Earlsfoot-terrace, on Thursday, the 8th May next.

The North Warwickshire Hunt Meeting, at the Regent, on Wednesday last, was presided over by Bro. Lord Leigh, P.G.M. Warwickshire, who has recovered from his recent attack of bronchitis and gout. The arrangement with Mr. Lant, Nailcote Hall, for hunting the country remains undisturbed, but complaints of inadequate subscriptions were made.

The master, wardens, court of assistants, and clerk of the Glass-sellers' Company are arranging a complimentary dinner, to be given next month, in honour of Bro. Sheriff Burt. The entertainment is not to trench on the funds of the company, and the members of the court are restricted to one visitor each.

On the occasion of the University Boat Race the Maria Wood will be moored off the winning post at Mortlake by Bros. Ritter and Clifford. There will be a band on board.

The balance sheet and report of the second Tottenham, Enfield, and Edmonton Masonic Charitable association has been issued by which it appears that a sum of £176 2s. 6d. has been subscribed, out of which sixteen appropriations have been made to the three Charities. The members are to be congratulated upon having secured the services of a Treasurer and Secretary, whose zeal and energy have assisted materially its prosperity.

ROYAL SEA BATHING INFIRMARY.—The annual general meeting of the governors of this charity was held on Tuesday, at the offices, 1, Queen-street, Cheap-side, Bro. Colonel Creton presiding. Bro. Clabon, Hon. Sec., read the report, which stated that while a large number of patients had been received during the year the mortality was about a third less. They had admitted during the year 647 patients, of which number 517 had been discharged and 11 had died, leaving in the hospital on January 1, 1879, 119 patients. The subscriptions amounted to £784 1s. 5d., and the "Hodgson" 5s. fund to £1257 7s. 10d. There was a considerable falling off in the donations and legacies, the former amounting to £452 5s. 7d., and the latter to £889 10s. 3d. The balance-sheet showed total receipts £5546 0s. 5d., and expenditure £8414 17s. 5d., leaving a deficit of £2868 17s. to be made up by the sale of stock. The Chairman proposed the adoption of the report, which was seconded by Mr. Spencer Smith and carried. The following gentlemen were appointed Vice-Presidents: Lord Sondes, the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, Sir Moses Montifiore, Hon. Spencer Law, Sir Thos. Tyler, Canon Zarver, Mr. Jocelyn Percy, Alderman Sir Thomas Dakin, Mr. Robert Heath, Mr. Chas. C. Hardy, and the Rev. Samuel Prosser, M.A. The Directors, Auditors, and Treasurer were re-elected, and a vote of thanks to the Chairman closed the proceedings.

THE LONDON COTTAGE MISSION.—Our readers will be gratified to hear that the London Cottage Mission, of 14, Finsbury Circus, E.C., gave their twelfth Irish Stew Dinner, on Wednesday, at Conder-street Hall, Limehouse, E., to several hundred poor children, numbers of whom were turned away as funds were so low. The little ones were as hungry as ever; for many of their parents are still out of work and cannot provide the common necessities of life for them. For three months this charity has laboured hard to assist the poor suffering children, and has succeeded so far as to have given several thousand dinners, besides free teas, during this severe and trying winter. This mission studies in every way to do good, both temporarily and spiritually, and has a missionary agency a colporteur to circulate pure literature, free reading rooms for working men, Sunday schools, mothers' meetings, clothing club, penny bank, evangelistic services, and lectures for the people, and a variety of good work. A bazaar and fancy sale is also in progress to enable the promoters to purchase Conder-street Mission House and Hall, and it is to be hoped that our readers will not allow so good a charity to flag for want of means, but will aid it with goods or money, which will be gratefully received by Miss F. Napton, 304, Burdett-road, Limehouse, E., and by Mr. Walter Austin, at the office of the Mission, 14, Finsbury Circus, E.C.

In consequence of the visit of the Queen to Italy, the annual presentation of drawings by the boys of Christ's Hospital to her Majesty will not take place this year.

Prince Waldemar, third son of the Crown Prince of Germany, died suddenly of heart disease at half-past three o'clock on Thursday morning. The deceased Prince was born on the 10th of February, 1868, and had, therefore, completed his 11th year.

The Eastern Telegraph Company have concluded their arrangements, and the ships carrying the cables will depart immediately. The first ship will sail right away to Natal, and will commence to lay the cable towards Mozambique. The other ships will join her, and, taking there several sections of cable, will make a complete cable to Aden, where it will join the Eastern Telegraph system, which communicates directly with India, China, Australia, &c. The cable will be worked under the general administration of the Eastern Telegraph Company.

AMBULANCE CLASSES.—Major Duncan, R.A., on Wednesday last distributed, in connection with the ambulance classes of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, the certificates gained by members of the 2nd Middlesex (her Majesty's Customs and the Docks) Artillery Volunteers. The ceremony took place in the lobby of the Custom House. Major Duncan in his address mentioned that ambulance classes had now been established in no less than fifty of the principal cities and towns in England, the most recent being Margate and at Rugby Junction, where fifty porters had been enlisted in the cause. It was not their intention to intrude on the province of the doctors, but rather to assist them in the first instance. All the collieries had readily accepted the proffered aid, and he was glad to hear that only recently there were five cases of saving life due to the action taken.

DEAR AND CHEAP VEGETABLES.—The Pall Mall Gazette of January 18th mentions that in a suburb of London the following prices are charged for vegetables:—Carrots, 1d. each; turnips, 3d. each; parsnips, 3d. each; savoys, 2d. each; potatoes proportionately dear. These exorbitant prices should induce all who have a spare piece of ground to grow their own vegetables. Messrs. Sutton & Sons, the Queen's seedsmen, Reading, supply collections of vegetable seeds for the amateur's small garden at 12s. 6d., 15s., and 21s. each, the latter collection carriage free; while those who prefer making their own selection can have all seeds sent free by post (except peas and beans) on receipt of order. "Sutton's Amateur's Guide in Horticulture," which contains full particulars as to when to sow, what to sow, and how to sow, may be had post free for 15 stamps, or for 1s. at all the railway bookstalls.

Craft Masonry.

LODGE OF ANTIQUITY (No. 2).—This distinguished lodge met in goodly numbers on Wednesday, the 26th ult., and we observed among the visitors present Bros. Lieut.-Col. Shadwell Clerke, G.D.; J. C. Parkinson, P.G.D.; and Brodie. Bro. J. A. Batley was raised to the Sublime Degree of a M.M. by Bro. W. Hope, D.M., in a very effective manner, and then took place a ceremony, which was undoubtedly the great event of the evening, and which conferred both pleasure and prestige on all concerned, as well as afforded much satisfaction to all present. It had been decided to present Bro. Lieut.-Col. Creaton with his portrait, painted by Bro. Stephen Pearce, and the presentation was now to take place. Bro. P.M. Swinburne, by permission of the D.M., addressed Bro. Creaton in the following manly and touching words, which were warmly appreciated and applauded by the brethren assembled: "Bro. G. Treasurer, I have been commanded by the W.M. to communicate to you the pleasure we all feel at your recent promotion to the office of high dignity and trust which you now hold in Grand Lodge, and to assure you that we all feel that by your promotion to this office the lodge has had an honour conferred upon it also. You have for many years been a prominent member of the Craft, and have especially been associated with what we all consider its greatest good, namely, the noble Charities, which are the practical result of the teaching we have received in our profession as Masons. You have not alone given with an open hand, again and again, but you have done more than this, for although there have been many calls upon your time in the performance of the duties which have devolved upon you as a soldier, a magistrate, and a gentleman, you have, nevertheless, given the first and the best of your time, of your thought, of your patience, and of your labour to those excellent institutions, which are the chief honour of English Masonry. But it is not as a distinguished officer of Grand Lodge, nor as a distinguished patron of the Masonic Charities, that I have been commanded to address you this evening. You have a personal claim nearer even than these, great as they are, in our common brotherhood. You are one of ourselves, a distinguished member of this grand old lodge, where you have especially served us in a manner most gratifying to its members, namely, by promoting its unanimity and concord by your own kind and genial nature, and by upholding its dignity and traditions as its Master. The good work of a man is his best and most lasting monument, and his mission is, in one sense, illustrated by the monument of our greatest Master in the noble cathedral that adorns our city, for you read, on entering that building, that should you wish to see the monument of him who erected it, you must look around, and there it stands a grand and imperishable record of a Master of his lodge. Still, in this room we find records of him scattered around us, and records not alone of him but of other illustrious Masters of this lodge, whose names are household words in Masonry. We have felt that one who has done so well should not alone be remembered by his contemporaries, but by those who are to follow hereafter, and we trust who will follow in the footsteps of such a leader. And it occurred to us, on reflecting on your own good work, that at some future time, when we shall all of us have gone hence, some might care to know what this Master of Antiquity was like that men spoke so well of, and who did such good work in his time. And we therefore said, we have amongst us a distinguished painter; we will confer with him; he may perhaps help us to hand down—not the memory of our good friend and brother, for that we trust will be ever green—but his semblance as he appeared amongst us. And our good friend and Bro.

Stephen Pearce, with that generosity so characteristic of an artist, and of such an artist, has reproduced you here. Accept this, dear brother, from us as a pledge of our brotherly love and friendship. And may you live long to enjoy the good will of this old Lodge of Antiquity, and when no longer with it, may this picture be where good Masons may sometimes see it, and when looking on it, say, 'Ah, that was Creaton, the Grand Treasurer; he was a Master of Antiquity, he stood well in the Craft, did good work in his time, and his name will go down to posterity on the Grand Muster Roll of good and great Masons.' The following is the inscription on the picture: "Presented by H.R.H. Prince Leopold, K.G., &c., &c., and the members of the lodge, to Lieut.-Col. Creaton, Past Master of the lodge." At the conclusion of his able address, Bro. P.M. Swinburne uncovered the portrait, which as a work of art was greatly admired, and reflects the most undoubted credit on the "limner's cunning hand." Bro. Creaton "more suo" returned thanks for the kindly and fraternal compliment in a few well-chosen words, which clearly came from the heart. It was then moved by Bro. J. Sampson Peirce, P.M., and seconded by Bro. Erasmus Wilson, P.M., and carried unanimously, "That the best thanks of the lodge be offered to Bro. Stephen Pearce, for his kindly assistance in placing his great talents at the disposal of the lodge, to do honour to Bro. Lieut.-Col. Creaton." Bro. Stephen Pearce acknowledged the compliment in a few feeling words. The lodge being duly closed, the brethren adjourned to the banquet and the pleasant reunion of the social circle, separating at an early hour, highly gratified with the gathering, and which will ever remain an "Alba Dies" in the warm memories of the many good Masons and friendly men who compose the "phalanx" of "Old Antiquity."

IVY LODGE (No. 1441).—On Tuesday, the 25th ult., the installation meeting of this lodge was held at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell, under the guidance of Bro. Louis Cornellisen. The officers present were Bros. Ashwell, S.W.; T. F. Knight Smith, J.W. and W.M. elect; Foster, S.D.; Skeggs, J.D.; Burgess, I.G.; A. Vernon, W.S.; W. S. Ashford, D.C.; Noke, P.M.; Tolly, P.M., Sec., and others. The minutes of last lodge meeting were duly read and confirmed. After the usual questions, Bros. Trehearne and Shaw were passed to the Fellow Craft Degree. The lodge was then opened in the Third Degree, and Bro. Francis Gill was raised to the Sublime Degree of a M.M. The W.M., though speaking in (to him) a foreign tongue, performed these several ceremonies excellently. The lodge was then resumed in the Second Degree, when the chair was taken by Bro. C. Smith, P.M., one of the founders, and the father of the lodge. Bro. T. F. Knight Smith was then duly inducted into the chair of K.S. The ceremony was rendered by Bro. Smith, P.M., in a truly admirable manner throughout, the various orations being delivered fluently and impressively, and made a lasting impression on the minds of those brethren who had the happiness of being present. The W.M. duly appointed and invested his officers. The W.M. had the pleasing duty to present to the I.P.M., Bro. Louis Cornellisen, a very beautiful jewel, and in so doing expressed a wish that Bro. Cornellisen might live many years to wear it, as a mark of the great esteem the Ivy Lodge felt for him, and for the generous spirit he had frequently manifested. After some other business the lodge was closed in due form. The brethren then adjourned to the Holborn Restaurant, in consequence of the large hall being let for other purposes. This was to many a great inconvenience, and to a certain extent accounted for the sparse attendance, many members having to come from great distances. The interests of the Craft are not so well considered at this hall as formally, at least murmurings of dissatisfaction are rife, and one would think it is certainly to the interests of the proprietors to endeavour to remedy this in future. On reaching the Holborn Restaurant the brethren found an atmosphere of warmth, brightness, and geniality there, which soon dissipated both the effects of the journey and the very unpleasant weather, and sat down to a very excellent banquet, which gave great credit to that establishment and to its admirable manager, Bro. Hamp. In presenting the various loyal and Masonic toasts, the few remarks which fell from the W.M. were well received, and on replying to the toast proposed to his health by Bro. Cornellisen, I.P.M., the W.M. said he felt it a great honour to be placed in the position he was in that evening for many reasons,—he was one of the first initiates made in the lodge, and the first who had risen to the chair of the W.M.; but not only that, he loved Masonry for its own sake, for its splendid traditions, its grand teachings, and its widespread Charities, and he would impress upon the brethren the importance of living up to those principles. In the First Degree the beauties of moral truth were unveiled to the eyes of the brethren; in the Second their attention was directed to the wonders of art and science, those endless fields of human investigation; and in the Third those sublime teachings with regard to the future, the spirit of all religions, the necessity of preparing by well-ordered lives here if we would wish to obtain a happy entrance to the Grand Lodge above. In presenting "The Health of the Installing Master, P.M. C. Smith," the W.M. said it afforded him a great pleasure, as the P.M. was one of the founders and father of the lodge. He had initiated him and now completed the work he had so well begun by installing him in the chair of K.S., and in so admirable a manner that it would make a lasting impression both on his mind as well as on the minds of all the brethren present. Bro. C. Smith, in replying, said it afforded him great pleasure to render any service he could to the lodge, for he looked upon it as his child, and loved Masonry in his heart, and trusted it would go on and prosper in the future as it had done in the past. The toast of "The Visitors" was well responded to by Bros. Farwig, W.M. St. James's Union, and Dr. Oswald, P.M. 1328. The toast of "The Past Masters" was duly honoured and acknowledged by I.P.M. Bro. Cornellisen and P.M. Bro. Matlock; and P.M. Bro. Cattle the services of Treasurer. Bro. P.M. Matlock and Bro. P.M. Jolly were duly acknowledged, and after "The Officers" the Tyler's toast brought a very happy evening to a close. The brethren were enlightened during the evening by some songs well sung by Bros. P.M. Ion Cattle, Kift, Martin, and Cooper; and some excellent readings by Bro. Reynolds. Bro. Kift presided efficiently at the piano. Among the visitors present were Bros. Pollard, W.M. 1694; Farwig, W.M. 180; W. H. Morgan, 1388; L. Sarre, 1402; J. G. Rush, 1201; J. P. Tonge, 1216; and P.M.'s Hull, 87, and J. W. Oswald, 1328; Thurkle, P.M. 87; and Bros. Cottebrune, P.G.P. (Hon. Mem.); W. J. Large, S.W. 1321; and many other brethren.

SIR HUGH MYDDELTON LODGE (No. 1602).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held in the Agricultural Hall on the 28th ult. There were present Bros. T. J. Coombs, W.M.; E. Somers, P.M.; E. G. Sim, P.M.;—Lee, P.M.; A. J. Rowley, S.W.; John Weston, J.W.; John Greenfield, Treas.; John Osborn, Sec.; W. Norris, S.D.; W. T. Poulton, J.D.; H. Field, I.G.; W. Oppenheim, D.C.; R. G. Thomas, Organist; T. J. Rimell, Steward; W. Steedman, Tyler; R. Allison, J. Firlong, E. Payn, Wm. Payn, James Alexander, E. J. Pearcey, J. Brewer, James Crocker, E. Pelikin, J. Raffety, G. Tarrant, J. Kitchiner, C. Parslow, H. T. Godolphin, S. Hollidge, and A. H. Chisholm (Freemason). The visitors present were Bros. H. Sprake, 815; J. O'Connor, 1339; B. Clark, 1507; J. Humphreys, 167; R. Pearcey, W.M. 228; J. L. Cogan, W.M. 1365; and E. Roberts, 1623. The lodge was opened at five o'clock, and the minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, Bro. Alexander was passed. The ballot was then taken for Mr. T. C. Duncan, who, being unanimously approved, was initiated into the secrets and privileges of Freemasonry. Bro. A. F. Rowley was, by a majority of one, elected to fill the office of W.M. for the ensuing year, and Bros. Greenfield, Treas., and Steedman, Tyler, were unanimously re-elected. Bros. Tarrant, Raffety, and Firlong were appointed Auditors. A handsome Past Master's jewel was, on the motion of Bro. Somers, voted out of the funds of the lodge to the retiring W.M., which will be presented to him at the installation meeting in May. Bro. Coombs, in a few appropriate remarks, acknowledged the generous presentation, after which the lodge was closed, and the brethren sat down to dinner in the lodge-room, the W.M. presiding. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts followed, interspersed with some capital songs, and after spending a few pleasant hours together, the brethren adjourned until the 23rd of May.

WEST SMITHFIELD LODGE (No. 1623).—The regular meeting of this well established and most prosperous lodge was held at the New Market Hotel, King-street, West Smithfield, on Thursday, the 20th ult. Bro. G. S. Elliott, W.M., opened the lodge. The minutes of the last regular meeting were read, unanimously confirmed, and signed by the W.M. The ballot taken for Mr. John Rose was declared to be unanimous in favour of his admission. The W.M., Bro. G. S. Elliott, in an impressive, correct, and painstaking manner raised Bros. Greenwood, Smith, Woolridge, P. Bowley, and Allen, passed Bros. Kinloch and Cork, then completed his heavy duties by initiating Mr. Richard Titcomb into Freemasonry. Bro. G. S. Elliott, W.M., was highly complimented for the admirable style in which he had rendered every part of the work, his working being an intellectual treat to all who had the good fortune to be present. The proposed bye-laws were then read through by the energetic Secretary, Bro. E. Mallett, P.M. 141, who explained to the lodge that he had sent a copy of these bye-laws to every member, as every item in them had been fully discussed at a previous meeting. On the motion of Bro. W. Malthouse, J.D., seconded by Bro. G. H. Stephens, W.S., it was unanimously resolved, "That the bye-laws, submitted to the lodge, do become its bye-laws, that they be submitted to Grand Lodge, and when approved of by the Grand Secretary the same be printed, and copies issued to all the members." Bro. W. Malthouse, J.D., who had been unanimously elected as Steward to represent the lodge at the forthcoming festival of the Boys' School, made an eloquent and soul-stirring appeal to the members to support him, as their representative of the lodge, at that festival. If eloquence and a clear matter of fact statement, showing how much the noble Institution needed their support, had any effect—and we are sure no Steward could equal our zealous brother in his endeavours to enlist the sympathies of all who were present—no doubt his list will be well supported. The names of several gentlemen were given in who were anxious to be initiated into Freemasonry. Letters of apology for absence were read from those officers who could not attend in consequence of severe illness, viz., Bros. John Johnson, J.W. (since died, on the 29th ult., of bronchitis and disease of the heart), and Frederick Walters, P.P.G.D. Middlesex, P.M., Treasurer. Business being ended, the lodge was closed and adjourned. The banquet then followed, served under the special superintendence of the kind and genial host, Bro. Thomas Butt, who was well supported, in his endeavours to give satisfaction and comfort to all present, by his sons, Bros. T. M. Butt and W. Butt. We need hardly here remark that the worthy host has earned a good and lasting repute for the good catering and lavish expenditure to make everything first-rate with which he puts on all his banquets. Great things were expected of him when he commenced his career as a Masonic caterer, and he has proved his capabilities by the exquisite manner he has done his business. The usual routine of Masonic toasts were given and responded to, that of "The Visitors" being answered by Bro. Elliott, 749 (father of the Worshipful Master, Bro. G. S. Elliott), thanking the W.M., Past Masters, officers, and brethren for the cordial manner the toast had been given and responded to. He also expressed the great delight he felt at seeing his son in the eminent position as their W.M. The Tyler's toast brought a pleasant meeting to an agreeable close. There were present, besides those named, Bros. J. Howes, P.M., S.W.; H. J. Lardner, D.C., as J.W.; W. Pennefather, P.M., S.D.; T. M. Butt, I.G.; W. Snow, C.S.; T. W. Adams, I.P.M.; Woolridge, Preece, Leggett, Davis, Goodwin, Howard, Roberts, F. J. Howes, G. S. Wintle, P.M.; Delofons, Crombie, Greenwood, Smith, and many others. The visitors were Bros. Elliott, 749; D. Moss, 1275; Van Roelth, J.W. 917; V. Chipp, 1158; H. Blackwell, 177, and many others, whose names we were unable to ascertain.

ROYAL SAVOY LODGE (No. 1744).—A meeting of this lodge was held on the 25th ult., at Ashley's Hotel, Covent-garden, under the presidency of Bro. James Willing, jun., W.M. There were also present, among others, Bros. J. Douglass, S.W.; Clemow, J.W.; Treadwell, Treas.; Stiles, Sec.; Jones, S.D.; Hyland, J.D.; Deller, I.G.; Holt, W.S.; Smith, D.C.; Hixon, Philpott, Barham, Sillis, Callaghan, Cook, Read, and Lloyd. Visitors: Bros. Moore, P.M.; H. Stiles, S.D. 1507; Kauffman, 1744; Read, 177; and others. Bros. R. W. P. George, J. W. Wheeler, and F. J. Jagels were raised, and Bro. P. W. Earle, G. C. Dickey, and G. R. Carter passed. Afterwards, Messrs. G. Eschey and Alfred Ramsden were initiated. It was agreed, upon the proposition of the W.M., to have a summer festival, and ladies to be invited. An influential committee was appointed to carry out the same. The list of the W.M., as Steward representing the lodge at the ensuing festival of the Girls' School, was liberally subscribed to, and the brethren adjourned to banquet, after a long evening's work, which was very ably performed.

DARLINGTON.—Restoration Lodge (No. 111).—A somewhat unusual occurrence took place in connection with this lodge in the death of two of its members, both Past Masters, within a day of each other. Bro. T. Brunton died on the 28th ult., at the age of forty-three, and Bro. A. F. Robinson on the 29th ult., aged forty-one. The former was interred on Tuesday, the 1st inst., and the latter on Wednesday, the 2nd inst. Both funerals were attended by a large number of brethren, who had assembled at the Masonic Hall. Among them were noticed Bros. W. Hobson, W.M. 111; J. M. Meek, W.M. 1379; J. C. Martin, P.M.; George J. Wilson, P.M. and Sec. 111, P.P.G.J.W. Durham; J. Macnay, P.M., P.P.G.D. Durham; John Morrell, P.M.; John Bailey, P.M., P.P.G.J.W. Durham; H. Maddison, John Hodgson, sen., Thomas Ness, John Watson, John Burney, F. Tovey, G. N. Watson, Ottiwell Smith, Minter, P.M.; B. Boulton, P.M.; W. Lear, P.M.; E. Hutchinson, R. A. Luck, John Hodgson, jun., Smith Ward, W. Dryden, A. J. Martin, John Willis, S. Carlton, W. Milford, J. W. Armitage, W. Swales, D. Brebner, James Hoggett, Dr. Frazer, George Cooper, Wm. Salkeld (C.E.), Thomas Garbutt, and F. A. Kelly (Freemason). Bro. Robinson was also a member of the Marquis of Ripon Lodge, in which he held the office of W.M. a few years ago. Bro. Brunton was a member of the Perseverance Court of Foresters, a large number of whom attended his funeral. He had also held the office of 2nd Principal in the Vigilance Royal Arch Chapter, 111. Bro. Robinson being an active member of the Temperance Society, his remains were accompanied to the grave by a large concourse of the members of that society and other friends. The greatest respect to the departed was shewn by the inhabitants of Darlington, for all along the route that the cortege traversed the shops were partly closed, and blinds drawn.

MANCHESTER.—Lodge of Integrity (No. 163).—The monthly meeting of this highly esteemed and influential lodge took place on Wednesday, the 26th ult., at the Freemasons' Hall, Cooper-street, Bro. Henry Walley, W.M., presiding, supported by the following officers:—Bros. Joseph Mackie, P.M., S.W.; Alfred Heald, J.W.; J. M. Sinclair, S.D.; Joseph Senior, J.D.; B. Williams, P.M., Treas.; William Siddeley, Sec.; W. D. Waddell, P.M.; William Livesey, John Studd, and Henry Heap, Stewards; H. H. Warburton, P.M., I.G. (pro. tem.) and Org.; and J. Kirk, Tyler. There was a very large attendance of brethren present, including Bros. G. F. East, P.P. G.D.C., and J. W. P. Salmon, P.P.G.D.C. East Lancashire. The visiting brethren included members from Lodges Nos. 1664, 1011, 1161, 654, 581, 1045, 993, 1609, 44, 204, and 317. At six o'clock between sixty and seventy brethren sat down to a well-served tea, à la fourchette, at the conclusion of which they assembled in the spacious lodge-room. The lodge was opened in ancient form, and the minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. Mr. Alfred Francis Youle having been unanimously elected a member of the lodge, was initiated into the mysteries of the Craft by the W.M., assisted by his officers. At the conclusion of this ceremony, Bro. Leo Bernstein, who was a candidate for passing, was interrogated, and then withdrew. On his re-admission he was passed to the degree of a Fellow Craft Freemason, the ceremony in this, as in that of the E.A. Degree, being impressively rendered by the W.M. and his officers. The charge was then delivered to both candidates by the S.W., Bro. Alfred Heald, and at its conclusion the lodge was lowered to the First Degree. "Hearty Good Wishes" were expressed by the visiting brethren, and the lodge was closed in due form, after which the brethren adjourned downstairs to the refreshment board. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts having been proposed, and duly responded to, "The Healths of the Newly-Initiated Brethren" were next proposed, in response to which Bros. Youle and Bernstein returned thanks. The toast of "The Visitors" was drunk with enthusiasm, and acknowledged by three of the brethren. During the evening several excellently rendered glees and quartets were given by Bros.

Dumville (two), Lister, Turner, and Salmon, and Bro. Greenwood's comic powers caused peals of laughter, his singing of "Brown, the Tragedian," being very funny, while his imitations of Phelps, Buckstone, Fechter, Compton, and Toole were exceptionally good, and did him great credit—in fact, we have never seen this gentleman's equal off the stage. We have before dilated upon the abundance of vocal and instrumental talent among the members of this lodge, and we are quite sure that any of our Lancashire brethren who may pay a visit to the Integrity will not only be cordially received, and hospitably entertained, but will retain a pleasurable recollection of the same.

BEDFORD.—Stuart Lodge (No. 540).—The March meeting of this lodge took place at the Swan Hotel, on Wednesday, 26th ult., Bro. Capt. Colburne, the W.M., presiding, supported by the following officers: G. Nash, I.P.M.; R. H. Coombs, S.W.; H. Thody, J.W.; J. Carter, S.D.; R. Stafford, J.D.; J. Sergeant, Treas.; J. R. Bull, Steward; Capt. Verey, I.G.; Cookson, acting Organist, and about twenty brethren. The minutes of the former lodge were read and confirmed. A ballot was taken for a brother of the Ionic Lodge, No. 227, who was unanimously elected and initiated, the W.M. ably performing the ceremony, in which he was well supported by his officers. The lodge unanimously placed the lodge votes for the Boys' and Girls' Schools in the hands of the W.M. Bro. R. Boughton-Smith having offered to represent the Stuart Lodge as Steward at the Boys' School Festival in June, Bro. Bull proposed, and Bro. Coombs seconded, that the offer be accepted, and that the sum of ten guineas be placed on his list out of the funds of the lodge—unanimously agreed to. Several other items of business were transacted. A solicitor of Bedford was duly proposed and seconded as a candidate for initiation, and the lodge was closed in due form, and upwards of twenty brethren adjourned to refreshment, and spent a pleasant evening.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—Fraternity Lodge (No. 1418).—The March meeting of this lodge was held in the Freemasons' Hall, St. John's-road, on Thursday week, the 27th ult. Present, Bros. J. J. T. Thorman, W.M.; J. P. Banning, S.W.; James Hall, J.W.; W. J. Watson, P.M., Treas.; John Broome, Sec.; G. E. Pybus, S.D.; J. Pickering, J.D.; G. E. Smirk, I.G.; A. Crosby, Scwd.; J. Trenholm, Tyler; T. Bowman, T. Gibson, T. W. Pybus, J. Cook, R. Bradley, C. Burnett, W. Mace, G. Pickering, W. Henderson, J. W. Richardson, E. F. Wallace, J. Bolt, J. McBride, and R. Headlam. Visitors, Bros. A. S. Fowler, P.M. 940; B. R. Smith, Past Master 940; W. Kinney, George Lazonby, J. Ellis, T. W. Hudson, W. A. Hodgson, John Doherty, and F. A. Kelly (Freemason). The lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the last meeting having been read and confirmed, Bro. Peter Hallstrom, after due examination, was passed to the Degree of Fellow Craft. The election of officers was then proceeded with. There were six brethren eligible for the office of W.M., but the votes were unanimous in favour of Bro. J. P. Banning, the Senior Warden. His installation will take place on the 24th inst., when a large gathering of brethren is expected. Bro. W. J. Watson, P.M., was unanimously re-elected Treasurer, an office he has held since the foundation of the lodge. Bro. Trenholm was also re-elected Tyler. The names of two gentlemen were then submitted for initiation at the next meeting, one of whom, Mr. W. H. Atkinson, was the winner of the Queen's Prize at Wimbledon in 1876. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banqueting table. After the cloth was removed, the following toasts were proposed. "The Queen," "H.R.H. the M.W.G.M.," "The Pro and Deputy Grand Masters, and the rest of the Grand Officers, Present and Past," which were all done full justice to. The toast of "The Prov. Grand Officers" was coupled with the name of Bro. W. J. Watson, to which that brother ably responded. The W.M. then proposed "The Visitors," on behalf of whom, by request, Bros. W. Kinney and F. A. Kelly responded. In reply to the toast of "The W.M. elect," which was very warmly received, Bro. Banning shortly but forcibly replied. Bro. Jackson, P.M. 940, then proposed "The Health of Bro. Thorman." In the course of his remarks, he highly complimented the retiring Worshipful Master for the efficient manner in which he had performed the duties of his office. Bro. Thorman neatly replied. The brethren shortly afterwards separated. The brethren of Stockton are to be congratulated upon possessing such a splendid building in which their meetings are held, devoted solely to the Craft. The following particulars will, we are sure, be read with interest. The building is situated in St. John's-road, and the Stockton Masonic Club was commenced on the 1st of January, 1871, in the Freemasons' Hall, which building had been erected the previous year by the Lodge of Philanthropy, No. 940. It was soon proved that the rooms in the hall available for club purposes were insufficient for the wants of the rapidly increasing number of members, and in Nov., 1875, the corner stone of the present commodious and handsome building was laid by Bro. James Usher, the W.M. for that year, and opened for the use of the lodges of the town and the club in August, 1876. The new hall, which is the property of the Philanthropy Lodge, cost about £7000, and contains large lodge and banqueting rooms, besides others which are let to the club, including separate rooms for reading, conversation and smoking, billiards, in which room are two splendid tables, library, luncheon, &c. The present number of the brethren belonging to the club is 130. One of the conditions of membership is that each member must be a subscriber to a regular lodge. The club has served and still serves the very desirable purpose of promoting and maintaining kindly relations between the different lodges of the town by affording opportunities of agreeable social intercourse among their members. This institution has been singularly fortunate in having for its President Bro. Alderman John Hunton, J.P., and ex-Mayor of the borough. The members prove their esteem and appreciation of Bro. Hunton's character and services by every year unanimously re-electing him to his honourable office. The success and prosperity of the club are also in a very great measure due to the ability and indefatigable exertions of its Hon. Sec., Bro. A. S. Fowler, who is, in the opinion of the members, so much the right man in the right place, as to be, like the President, annually re-elected with entire unanimity. Other towns would do well to emulate the example shewn by the brethren of Stockton.

HAMPTON.—Hemming Lodge (No. 1512).—This prosperous provincial lodge met in great strength, it being the annual election meeting, at the Lion Hotel, on the 20th ult. There were present Bros. Fox, P.M. Lebanon, W.M.; Jessett, S.W.; Ockenden, J.W.; J. Hammond, P.G.S. Middlesex, I.P.M.; W. Hammond, P.P.G.D. of Middlesex, Secretary; E. Hopwood, P.P.G. S.B. of Middlesex, Treasurer; Raw, Hon. P.M.; J. Hurst, P.M., &c. Kent, J.D.; Hiscox, I.G.; Moody, D.C.; Day, A.W.S.; T. C. Walls, P.P.G.O. of Middlesex, S.D. (Freemason); Gilbert, P.G.T., Tyler. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Bunyan bring in attendance was duly and impressively raised to the degree of a M.M. by the I.P.M. The election of officers resulted unanimously in favour of Bros. Jessett as W.M.; E. Hopwood, as Treasurer; Gilbert, as Tyler. The bye-laws were then read. Upon the motion of Bros. Hurst and J. Hammond, a Past Master's jewel was unanimously voted to the W.M., who duly acknowledged the high compliment thus paid him. All Masonic business being ended, the lodge was duly closed, and the brethren adjourned to a collation. The visitors were Bros. C. J. Costelow, S.D. 780; T. Pinckney, 1638. Upon the removal of the cloth the W.M. gave in very brief terms the preliminary Royal and Craft toasts, which were duly honoured. "The R.W.P.G.M. and the rest of the P.G. Officers" was acknowledged at length by the Secretary, Bro. W. Hammond. In proposing "The Health of the W.M.," the I.P.M. dwelt upon the long connection of Bro. Fox with the lodge. It had been his misfortune during his year of office to have been seriously indisposed, and which untoward circumstance had necessarily interfered very much with the proper discharge of his duties. He had, however, as far as was compatible with his health, carried out the duties of his position efficiently, and on his retirement he carried with him the good wishes of every member of the Hemming Lodge. The W.M. having replied, gave "The Visitors," which was responded to by Bros. Costelow and Pinckney, in which they complimented the lodge upon its excellent "working." "The Past Masters," "The Treasurer and Secretary," and "The Officers," quickly followed. In giving the latter toast the W.M. took occasion to return his thanks to the members comprising the staff for the very good support they had given him during his year of office, and he hoped that they would bestow the same amount of attention to the discharge of their duties during the reign of his successor. Bro. Jessett, S.W., W.M. elect, responded upon behalf of himself and colleagues. He, in conclusion, also thanked the brethren very heartily for the great honour that they had conferred upon him by electing him W.M. for the coming year. He should endeavour to follow in the footsteps of those who had gone before him in the chair by discharging the responsibilities of his position as far as in him laid. The proceedings shortly afterwards terminated.

CHISLEHURST.—Chislehurst Lodge (No. 1531).—The regular March meeting of this flourishing lodge was held on the 22nd ult. at the Bull's Head, under the presidency of Bro. Henry Gloster, W.M. Amongst the brethren present were Bros. W. Kipps, I.P.M.; John Mason, S.W.; J. Griffin, J.W.; Hutchings, S.D.; Hunt, J.D.; E. Kipps, I.G.; W. O. Goldsmith, Sec.; and visitors Bros. H. Chappell, 147; E. Lambert, 1362; C. Nightingale, 1362; J. Healey, 1348; C. Featherstone, 79; W. Medcalf, S.W. 1621; F. Dawes, 147; B. H. Swallow, P.M. 1568; and H. Massey, P.M. 619 (Freemason). The work of the lodge consisted of electing Bro. Wm. Ireland Levevre (No. 211), and Bro. Edward Good (No. 871), as joining members, and passing Bros. Brailey and Jupp to the Second Degree. On the proposition of Bro. J. Griffin, J.W., it was resolved to petition Grand Chapter for a charter for a chapter to be attached to the lodge, and the proposition was received with the heartiest satisfaction by the brethren, the Chislehurst Lodge having, by its work, prosperity, and strong support of the Charities of the Order, assumed a leading position in the province of Kent. Bro. W. O. Goldsmith, Secretary, standing as Steward for the next festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, the lodge voted five guineas to his list, which already amounts to over eighty guineas. There being no further work before the lodge, the brethren closed down, and adjourned to a most comfortable little supper, which was made the more agreeable to the visitors by the hearty welcome with which they were received and entertained. The usual toasts followed, but the speeches were very short, and more attention was paid by the brethren to amusing each other with some excellent music and singing than placing before them again all the good qualities of Masonry, which are the stock theme of after-banquet oratory. The cause of the Charities was by no means forgotten, and not only Bro. Goldsmith, who represents the lodge this year as Charity Steward, but several other brethren enforced upon their hearers the necessity of sending up a good list. The brethren returned to town by the last train, after spending a delightful evening.

LIVERPOOL.—Dramatic Lodge (No. 1609).—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday afternoon, the 25th ult., at the Masonic Hill, Hope-street, Liverpool, where there was an attendance of about sixty brethren, including visitors. Bro. Lindo Courtenay, W.M., presided during the business, supported by Bros. W. J. Chapman, I.P.M.; Joseph Bell, P.M., P.G.S.; J. McKenzie, S.W.; W. Sandbrook, J.W.; A. Woolrich, Treas.; John Atkinson, Sec.; J. Pifer, I.G.; R. Burgess, Org.; W. Savage, S.S.; H. P. Squire, J.S.; and W. H. Ball, Tyler. Amongst the "privates" present were Bros. J. M. Boyd, J. Shrapnell, M. P. Tieski, W. Heap, P. Lowndes, H. Leslie, J. Wainwright, F. Duncanson, R. J. Roberts, J. A. Mercer, H. Round, Dr. Whittle, Dr. Pitts, Dr. Johnson, Dr. Williams, C. Courtenay, Ownes, R. Evers, J. F. Ainscow, H. Holden, J. Kert, J. Wiatt, W. Williams, W. Hildyard, Barley, C. Burby, C. Campion, G. Martin, and others. The list of visitors included Bros. T. Fezzard, P.M. 1035; D. Donbavand, P.M. 317; W. H. Ivatts, S.W. 155; H. Hallam, 218; Sergeant Walker, and others. Messrs. Collinson and Addis were initiated into the Order, and Bros. J. Wainwright, J. Wiatt, and Sergeant Bullock were raised to the Sublime Degree of a M.M. by the W.M., assisted by the I.P.M. It was unanimously resolved, after considerable discussion, that the £100 odd realised by the performance last December at the Royal Amphitheatre, under the auspices of the Dramatic Lodge, should in the meantime be held by the Treasurer, and that the House Committee be informed that unless the decoration of the banqueting-room of the Masonic hall be commenced within three months the sum named would be devoted to the benevolent fund of the Dramatic Lodge. The sum of five guineas was voted for the relief of the orphans of a deceased brother, who belonged to the York Lodge, No. 236, and the lodge was afterwards closed. The brethren banqueted at a later period, and a special toast was proposed, and received with enthusiasm—"Bro. R. J. Roberts, Stage Manager of the Royal Alexandra Amphitheatre," who is about to proceed to Australia. During the evening several songs and recitations were given by Bros. J. Busfield, R. J. Roberts, A. Woolrich, D. Donbavand, Webster Williams, W. Hildyard, and R. Burgess, Organist (whose pianoforte accompaniments were again of the choicest nature).

INSTRUCTION.

CHARTERHOUSE CLUB.—The first annual festival of this club took place in New Market Hotel, Snow Hill, on Tuesday evening last. Although the club has been in existence, in name at least, for the last ten years, it appears to have hitherto been in a disorganised condition, owing to the want of a proper place of meeting. During that period it has had to make five changes in this respect, which greatly weakened its numbers. But having acquired suitable accommodation in the above hotel, and a fresh access of members, it is once more beginning to get its head above water. While it is a regular lodge of instruction when occasion requires, its primary object appears to be to afford to Masons the means of acquiring a knowledge of the ceremonies and principles of the Craft by mutual interchange of ideas without necessarily going through the ordinary working of lodge ceremonies. At a meeting of the Masonic Club, held on the 4th ult., it was decided to celebrate the rising fortunes and the removal of the club to Bro. Butt's hotel by a festival, which it is the intention of the brethren connected with the club to hold every year. Previous to the festival the ceremony of installing the W.M., and the appointing and investing of his office-bearers, took place in the lodge room. Bro. James Stevens, P.M. 1426, and Senior Vice-President of the club, kindly undertook the duties of Installing Officer, which he performed in the most efficient manner. The names of the office-bearers are as follows: Bros. Wm. Hames, 1677, P.M. 917, W.M.; James Stevens, P.M. 720, 1216, and 1426, S.W.; Wm. Webb, W.M. 382, J.W.; T. B. Humphrey, Sec.; R. R. Harper, W.M. 1017, S.D.; R. W. Brown, I.G. 179, J.D.; W. Carlton Hale, S.D. 1216, I.G.; J. Seymour Smith, 743, Organist; and John Syer, 720 and 1017, D.C. Before the lodge was closed a vote of thanks was accorded to the Installing Master, which he in a few well chosen sentences acknowledged, after which several brethren were proposed as joining members, and they adjourned to an adjoining chamber, where they partook of an excellent banquet, provided by mine host of the New Market Hotel. Bro. Hames, the W.M., occupied the chair. Besides those whose names we have already mentioned there were present Bros. W. Stead, P.M. 113; F. R. Hayes, 73 and 1697; Maurice H. Levington, 1017; G. W. Taylor, P.M. 917; Robt. Prime, 917; J. L. Coulton, P.M. 382; John Syer, 107 and 120; Wm. Hames, 917 and 1677; P. P. Chandler, 1017; T. F. Vann Raalte, J.W. 917; R. B. Greenwood, 1623; W. H. Gulliford, P.M. 1017; J. W. Wallace, P.M. 1509; Seymour Smith, 742; John Bain 360 (S.C.); Wm. Webb, 382; W. Heath, 584; W. J. Hunter, W.M. 1677; R. D. Cummings, 1677; J. Morgan Lee, 211; and A. H. Chisholm, 1602 (Freemason). At the conclusion of the banquet the customary toasts followed. "The Queen and the Craft," "H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M.," "The M.W. the Prov. G.M. and the rest of the Grand Officers, Present and Past," having been duly honoured, Bro. Stevens proposed, in a happy speech, "Success to the Charterhouse Club of Instruction," coupling with it "The Health of the President, Bro. Wm. Hames," Preceptor of the club. Bro. Stevens was quite sure that the brethren would all be prepared to do full justice to this toast, which it was his good fortune to propose. Referring first to the club itself, he thought he might be permitted to advert to some of its past vicissitudes. The existence of the club had not been unmingled with very many happy and prosperous days since its establishment some ten years ago. For himself he had known the Charterhouse Club of Instruction but for the short space of six weeks. But he had had nevertheless during those six weeks the opportunity of associating with many of its members who were well able to inform him with regard to its past history. It did not profess to work a sectional part of Masonry, but really gave itself up entirely to the full working of the ceremonies, and therefore, afforded to every Mason an opportunity of quickly making himself perfect in the office which he might be connected with in his own mother lodge. But for circumstances in its early history over which it had no control, there was little doubt that the club would have by this time occupied a very different position. Those circumstances had been occasioned, not by any inherent defect in itself, but rather owing to the various houses in which it had met during the last few years. He had been given to understand by those who had been associated in it for some considerable time that there had been no less than five changes made as to the place of meeting, and they all knew that no change of this kind took place without some detriment ensuing. In ordinary life it was a common saying that two or three removals were equivalent to a fire, and after such unfavourable experiences as they had had, it was matter of surprise that the Charterhouse Club of Instruction had not been buried out altogether. Some five or six weeks ago, when their Junior Vice-President was elected to the Mastership of a lodge at Uxbridge, he requested him (the speaker) as a friend to attend on one occasion the lodge of instruction in the Goswell-road, for the purpose of supporting him in going through the ceremony. But he could not say they were in the fire that night, but on the contrary they were out in the cold, and a bitter cold night it was. The house where this meeting was to be held was undergoing repairs, and they were literally left out in the streets. In this sad position they were found by one or two brethren, he might say shivering physically and Masonically without a rag to cover themselves (laughter), and they did not know what to do to spend the hour they had intended to give up to Masonry. But devoted as they were to the Craft, they made up their minds not to be baffled, and accordingly they walked to the New Market Hotel. Instead of receiving there a cold reception, they were ushered into a very comfortable room, which he was proud to say was now their lodge room. (Hear, hear, and cheers.) All the brethren then considered that the Charterhouse Club of Instruction could not find a better resting place, and he was certain that the opinion they entertained then had been fully realised by the events of the evening. (Hear, hear.) He desired it to be particularly understood that there was nothing whatever antagonistic to the ancient rules, charges, or constitution of the Order of Freemasonry in the means they adopted for the purpose of conveying instruction to one another. In his mind there was no more fit occupation for Freemasons than to meet together as a club and talk over their principles, tenets, and ceremonies, and mutually explain to one another their different significations. Besides, it was one of the best methods of making the young officers who came amongst them fit for carrying out the duties of their respective offices. After a few more words of a similar import Bro. Stevens concluded by referring in a few complimentary remarks to the President, who he was sure had earned the good will and respect of all the members of the club by his untiring interest in its welfare. The toast having been heartily drunk, the W.M. rose to thank the brethren for the honour they had done him in associating his name with the toast. He joined the club when it was first formed, and had consequently gone through all its vicissitudes and ups and downs. (Hear, hear.) During the time he had been its Preceptor they had had some very good meetings and some very bad ones, but he ventured to express the hope that all their bad days were now behind them (hear, hear), and that the club would in the future prosper to such an extent that it would be an honour for any Preceptor to preside over it. He would conclude by simply saying that, so far as he was personally concerned, he would always have the greatest pleasure in doing all that he could to promote the interests of the Charterhouse Club of Instruction. (Hear, hear.) It was a lodge to which many were indebted for their first knowledge in Masonry. He could point out at the present time several brethren, who had filled the Master's chair in different lodges, who were indebted to the club for all the knowledge they had gained in Masonry, and he thought if they would rally round each other, and work together in the spirit they had done since they had come to Bro. Butt's, they would in time regenerate the lodge and make it as good as it was at any former period of its history. (Hear, hear, and cheers.) Bro. Wm. Webb, Junior Vice-President, next proposed "The Visitors" in a brief, but happy speech. Bro. Morgan, of 211, replied, and, in doing so, remarked that during the ten years of the club's existence it had been instrumental in doing good service in teaching its members some of the finest principles of Freemasonry, and although in the course of its meanderings it had not met with the prosperity which they would all have wished, still, with such associations as this, they must not look for unqualified success. The W.M. had much pleasure in proposing "The Health of the Vice-Presidents, Bro. Stevens and Webb." They had been extremely indebted to Bro. Stevens for the very able manner in which he acted as Installing Master. During his whole career in Masonry he could not remember having seen the ceremony worked in a more efficient manner. The Vice-Presidents having both appropriately acknowledged the toast, "The Treasurer and Secretary," "The Masonic Press," "The Club Host, Bro. T. Butt," were, in quick succession, drunk and replied to, and the Tyler's toast brought the meeting to a close. In the course of the evening Bros. Seymour Smith, Stevens, Prime, Heath, Greenwood, and Turner greatly added to the enjoyment of the brethren by some capital singing.

WANDSWORTH LODGE (No. 144).—A meeting of the brethren of this lodge of instruction was held at the Spread Eagle Hotel, on Thursday, the 1st inst. Bro. W. A. Blackmore was the W.M.; and there were present Bros. J. Frost, S.W.; P. V. Denham, J.W.; J. J. Holland, S.D.; H. J. Newens, J.D.; F. Reed, I.G.; and W. A. Morgan, J. G. Carter, C. Digby, J. Sanders, and A. A. Denham. Bro. Hunt was a visitor from the Beaconsfield Lodge. The W.M. worked the First Degree, Bro. Morgan being the candidate. The W.M.'s chair was then taken by Bro. C. Digby (the W.M. of the Doric Lodge), who went through the ceremony of raising Bro. Hunt, which was done in a perfect manner. Bro. P. V. Denham, pursuant to notice, moved as to the disposal of the funds now in hand. He suggested that a portion should be spent in giving Bro. J. G. Carter some token for the benefit he had conferred on the brethren as Preceptor, and that a banquet, to celebrate the occasion, should be held. Bro. Carter, with becoming modesty, declined to accept a testimonial paid out of the funds, as he thought they should be given to the Charities. Bro. W. A. Morgan hinted that the better course would be for the brethren to subscribe, and this was agreed to. Bro. P. V. Denham, proposed, Bro. A. A. Denham seconded, and it was carried, "That a banquet be held of the members at a convenient date." It was resolved, upon a motion by Bro. J. J. Holland, seconded by Bro. C. Digby, that the lodge adjourn from the last Tuesday in April to the first Tuesday in September.

Royal Arch.

CHAUCER CHAPTER (No. 1540).—The regular convocation of this chapter was held on Wednesday, 26th ult., at the Bridge House Hotel, London Bridge. The chapter was opened by Comps. Fuller, P.Z., as M.E.Z.; Littaur, P.Z., as H.; Stidolph, J., and other Installed Principals. The companions were then admitted. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and unanimously confirmed. Apologies were received from Comps. T. J. Sabine, M.E.Z., and J. C. Mason, H.; also from candidates for exaltation excusing their absence, caused entirely from unavoidable circumstances. The resignation of Comp. Frederick Walters, P.Z. and S.E., of his membership of the chapter, was accepted with very great regret, he having tendered it through ill health. The election for S.E. was unanimously in favour of Comp. T. J. H. Wilkins, S.N., who was duly invested with the robe, collar, and jewel of that office. Business ended, the chapter was closed and adjourned. There were present besides those named Comps. Hudson, P.S.; H. Faija, A.S.; Ricardo, Spencer, and others.

LEWES.—South Saxon Chapter (No. 311).—At the annual meeting of the above chapter, held at Freemasons' Hall, on Wednesday, 26th ult., the following officers for the ensuing year were elected: Comps. R. H. Ellman, M.E.Z.; Jos. Farncombe, H.; S. Tanner, J.; R. Crosskey, Treasurer; G. Stone, E.; Hodgkin, N.; J. Stedman, P.S.; H. Hall, Janitor. A P.Z.'s jewel was voted to Comp. R. Crosskey, he having filled the position of First Principal during the past year.

INSTRUCTION.

METROPOLITAN CHAPTER OF IMPROVEMENT.—The usual weekly convocation of this excellent chapter of improvement was held on Tuesday, the 1st inst., at the Jamaica Coffee-house, Cornhill, and was attended by some of the best working Royal Arch Masons in the metropolis. The three chairs were filled by Comps. Brown, Waterall, and Thompson, and the office of P.S. was most efficiently performed by Comp. Lee, who is now the prospective P.S. of a very flourishing chapter. The ceremony of exaltation was most correctly rendered by the M.E.Z., Comp. Gabb being the candidate, and the subordinate offices were well filled. Comp. Slainey, of the St. Machar's Chapter, No. 37 (Scotch Constitution), was elected a member. The principal offices for the ensuing fortnight were filled as follows:—Comps. Wood, M.E.Z.; Waterall, H.; and Thompson, J. The chapter was then closed in due form and adjourned.

Knights Templar.

NOTTINGHAM.—Abbey Chapter Preceptory.—The installation meeting of this the oldest preceptory of the Knights Templar, Knights of Malta, Knights Mediterranean Pass, &c., was held on Wednesday, the 26th ult., at the Maypole Hotel. There were present, amongst others, Sir Knights J. Thompson, E.C.; M. Vowles, P.E.C.; C. Truman, P.E.C.; R. Fitz Hugh, P.E.C.; C. Wragg, P.E.C.; R. Boughton-Smith, H. Hatherly, W. Hickling, E. Buckoll, W. Glover. The minutes of the previous preceptory having been read and confirmed, the ceremony of installing Sir Knight Robert Boughton-Smith as Eminent Commander was then performed in a very able manner by Sir Knight C. Wragg, P.E.C. Having been duly proclaimed, Sir Knight Boughton-Smith briefly expressed his acknowledgments to the members for the honour they had done him in placing him in that high position, which he would endeavour to fulfil in as able a manner as it had been by his predecessor. The E.C. then appointed his officers as follows: Sir Knights H. A. Attenborough, Seneschal; M. Vowles, Prior; R. Fitz Hugh, Prelate; H. Hatherly, 1st Capt.; E. Buckoll, 2nd Capt.; D. W. Heath, Marshal; C. Wragg, Registrar; J. Comyn, Treasurer; C. Truman, Expert; R. T. Ingram, Constable; R. G. Hanson, Herald; W. Hickling, Capt. of Lines; H. Glover, Equerry. There being no other business, the preceptory was duly closed. An adjournment was then made to the banqueting room, where a sumptuous banquet was provided. The E.C., Sir Knt. Boughton-Smith, presided. The usual routine of toasts were duly proposed and honoured. "The Health of the E.C." was warmly proposed by Sir Kur. Thompson, and most heartily received by the Sir Knights. He replied, and said he felt it a great honour to be installed the E.C. of the Abbey Chapter Preceptory, and he could sincerely say that nothing should be wanting on his part to make his year of office a successful one, feeling certain he should receive the same support from the Past E.C.'s as others had done before him. After a very enjoyable evening was spent, the Equerry's toast at an early hour terminated the proceedings.

PLYMOUTH.—Holy Cross Preceptory (No. 30).—The annual meeting of this preceptory was held at the Hayshe Masonic Temple recently. The E.C. elect, Sir Knight Elliot Square, P.P.G.C., was installed by the retiring E.C., Sir Knight Admiral F. H. Glasse, C.B., Prov. Sub-Prior of the Province of Devon, supported by the following Board of I.E.C.'s:—Sir Knights Col. Fitz Gerald, Past G.C. of England, and P.G.C.; C. Godtschalk, P.P.G.M.; S. Jew, P.P.G.T.; J. B. Glover, P.P.G.T.; E. Aitken Davies, P.P.G.V.C.; L. D. Westcott, P.P.G.C.L.; J. H. Keats, P.G.H.; G. V. Hilson, P.P.C.S.B. At the close of the installation the following Sir Knights were invested as officers:—Admiral Glasco, P.E.C.; J. S. Short, 1st C.; R. Pengelly, 2nd C.; Admiral Glasse, Prelate; L. D. Westcott, Treas.; J. Harris Square, Regis.; Jas. Griffin, Ex.; A. Vernon Maccall, C.L.; G. V. Hilson, H.; Lieut. St. Clair, S.B.; Lieut. Littledale, Alm.; Jas. Gidley, T. Smith, Equerries. The preceptory was then closed, the Priory of Malta opened, and Sir Knight Elliot Square installed as Prior. The E.C., in reply to the congratulations of the Fraters on his accession to office, said before separating he could but notice that the pleasure of their meeting had a sad gloom thrown over it by the decease of their distinguished Frater and Freemason, Sir Knight Richard Rodda. That night week Bro. Rodda was in good health and excellent spirits, and had promised to attend on the present occasion to conduct the installation. Providence had willed it otherwise. Their brother had been taken from them, and his remains now lay awaiting the rites of sepulture on Thursday next. During his busy life Bro. Rodda had been widely known in his sphere as an active and able business man. In the Masonic Order he had been a thorough Mason, and risen to eminence in all the various branches of the Order. It had always been his aim to extend and benefit the Order. His loss, he was sure, would be very generally felt throughout the Masonic body, and his memory respectfully cherished by the brethren who knew him. He felt sure all present would join in a vote of condolence with the bereaved family. It was at once resolved: "That the members of this preceptory desire to express their deep regret at the death of Sir Knight Richard Rodda, P.E.C., and their heartfelt sympathy with the members of his family at their loss." The P.E.C.'s among the visitors present, who represented all the other preceptories in the three towns, joined with the members of the Holy Cross Preceptory in their vote of regret and sympathy. The vote of condolence was directed to be drawn up and presented to the family, signed, in addition to the E.C. of the Holy Cross Preceptory, by the E.C. of the Royal Veterans Preceptory, and a representative P.E.C. from the Loyal Brunswick and the Royal Sussex Preceptories.

Masonic Notes and Queries.

The catalogue of Masonic books in the British Museum, commenced in the April number of the Masonic Magazine, promises to be of great use to readers, and I would suggest that the plan of this excellent chart be still further extended, by adding a supplementary list of works, not exclusively Masonic, and, therefore, not catalogued as such, which contain many references and allusions to Masonry. As examples of the class of work referred to I may instance "The Archaeologia;" "Anthologia Hibernica (1794);" "Wren's Parentalia;" "Higgin's Anacalypsis;" "Plot's Natural History of Staffordshire;" "Hope's Essay on Architecture;" "Dalloway Anecdotes of the Arts in England;" "De Quincey;" &c.

It struck me as a little singular that such well-known works as "Fort's Antiquities of Freemasonry," and "Kenning's and Mackenzie's Cyclopædias," were not obtainable in the British Museum.

R. F. G.

BOHME, JACOB (called also Jacob Bohmen), was born in 1575, and died in 1624. He was originally a master shoemaker at Gortitz, but about 1594 began, it is said, to study the Bible very carefully, and at the same time the writings of Paracelsus and Val Weigel. He then began with visions, and soon after this appeared as a mystic writer. His first work, "Aurora," appeared in 1612, and in "The Description of Three Principles of the Divine Being" we hear of "sex puncta mystica, sex puncta theosophica." Bohme's fundamental speculation is that "the forthcoming of the creation out of the Divine unity . . . which is itself distinguishable into a Trinity . . . can be contemplated by mystic illumination, and expressed in words." He seems about this time to have come across the clergy at Gortitz; then in 1624 the "Handbuch" tells us he found milder judges among the Dresden Consistory in 1624, in which year he died. He was called "Philosophus Teutonicus," because he made use of the German language, and his works have been published several times since 1675, their first appearance, ten volumes in one edition of 1682, six volumes in 1846. The "Handbuch" tells us that a certain Jane Leade, in 1697, instituted the society of "Philadelphists" which made its aim the diffusion of his writings. Some writers have contended that Freemasonry was greatly affected by the "Theosophy" of Jacob Bohmen, but we think there is a good deal of exaggeration in any such statement, though perhaps his name was often used by those who knew nothing of his writings. Such as we have seen are pure mysticism, constituting a jargon of its own without anything that we can discern of practical utility or good. That Swedenborgianism was coloured to a great extent by the reveries of Bohme is, we apprehend, undeniable, and that those restless spirits who made up the Rose Croix and Hermetic Adepts of the end of the last century made use of his theosophy is also probably true. But beyond this the evidence does not go.

ANNIVERSARIES.—The two great anniversaries of the Masonic Order are St. John the Baptist's Day, June 24th, and St. John the Evangelist's Day, December 27th. When the custom began of considering the two St. Johns the patron saints of Freemasonry is not very clear. It is in all probability a relic of the old Guild customs. Many of the Guilds kept St. John the Baptist's Day, many St. John the Evangelist's, and others kept the festivals of various saints; and we have, we are inclined to think, in this association of St. John the Evangelist and St. John the Baptist, another witness to the Guild connection. In Bro. D. Murray Lyon's valuable work, the "History of the Lodge Mary's Chapel, Edinburgh," he gives us some very early regulations—viz., 1599—for the choosing of the "Wardenis" on St. John the Evangelist's Day. The first election which he records is St. John's Day, 1601. Nothing is said of St. John the Baptist, and we know from the Westminster Fabric Rolls that in the 13th century the Masons claimed neither of the two St. John's Days, but they belonged to the king, and were working days. The Guild custom seems then to be later, and the Masonic observance of them is, we think, not ancient. St. Andrew's Day seems to have been the Scotch Masons' anniversary, just as St. George's Day is for the English Grand Lodge practically now, or rather the Wednesday following St. George's Day.

CARBONARI, ORDER OF.—Properly the charcoal burners. The "Handbuch" says, and we agree with it, that it sprung up in Italy, in the early part of this century, though it may have had something to do with other such societies, which were prolific at the end of the last century. Some have affirmed that there was a society in France of "Charbonniers" and "Fendeurs," and "Bons Cousins," from whom the Carbonari also took the appellation of "Bons Cousins." They claim for themselves a high antiquity, and their patron saint is St. Theobald. They appear to have borrowed many of their forms from Masonry, but as a secret political order we entirely agree with Mackey that they are "entitled to no place" in a Masonic cyclopædia, except, perhaps, to give us an opportunity of repudiating the notion that they are in any way, however slightly, really connected with Freemasonry.

IONIC ORDER, THE.—One of the three famous Grecian Orders of Architecture, and so called from Ionia in Asia Minor, it is averred. It is distinguished by what architects term the volute of its capital, and is, as Mackey well puts it, more delicate and graceful than the Doric, and more simply majestic than the Corinthian. Preston preserves a tradition that it was formed after the model of an agreeable young woman of an elegant shape, with her hair carefully dressed, as a contrast to the Doric, which was said to be formed after the model of a robust young man. We doubt our old historian in this instance much. It has been also pointed out that the distinguishing features of the Ionic order are these—the body of the pillar is usually channelled or furrowed with twenty-four gutters, and its length with the capital and base is twenty-nine modules, the chapter being chiefly composed of volutes or scrolls. It represents with us symbolically the W.M., and is supposed to be an emblem of wisdom.—Kenning's Cyclopædia of Freemasonry.

BRO. JOHN JOHNSON.

Bro. John Johnson, S.D. 1423, J.W. 1623, 176, Caveac Chapter, M.C. 176, Era, Mark, &c., died on Saturday, March 29th, at his official residence of the Gas Light and Coke Co., 148, Goswell-road, after a short but painful illness. He was initiated at the Era Lodge, No. 1423, in the early part of 1875. He commenced office by being appointed D.C. in 1876, and was J.W. nominate at his decease. He was a founder of the West Smithfield Lodge, also we believe of 1719, Evening Star Lodge. He was exalted into Royal Arch Masonry at the Caveac Chapter 176, and was afterwards a founder of the Era Chapter, 1423. He was advanced to the ancient and honourable degree of a Mark Master Mason at the Era Lodge, 176, was a founder of 211, Hammersmith, Mark, and 223, West Smithfield, Mark, Lodges. He was a Past Steward, and a Life Governor of all the Masonic Charities. His last public act in Masonry was representing his 1623, West Smithfield Lodge, when the large sum of over £14,000 was collected at that auspicious anniversary. He was always found to be a kind, genial friend, a worthy brother, and one beloved by all who knew him. He has left a widow and sorrowing children to lament his early decease, besides a large circle of relations and friends, who deplore his loss. Our deceased brother was a native of Leicester, and by profession a gas engineer, in which business he greatly distinguished himself. He was in his 51st year.

W. BRO. A. J. WHEELER, P.M.

It is with deep regret we learn that this worthy brother, who was Editor of the Masonic Jewel at Memphis, Tennessee, has fallen a victim to that dreadful scourge—the yellow fever. He remained at Memphis during the late trying times, and took up the heavy work connected with the Secretaryship of the Masonic Relief Fund, and did his utmost to relieve the sad suffering that surrounded him. Through his zeal for the good of his fellow men, he was constantly visiting those stricken by the fell disease, and at last became one of its victims. The Masonic Jewel held a high place in American Masonic literature. We had missed its regular issue for some months, but considered the terrible plague that was ravaging the southern portions of the United States was the cause of its silence, and hoped to see it again as soon as things were more settled. But the sad fate that has now met its editor being known, we fear one periodical, which so ably advocated the cause of Masonry in the great Republic, will be lost. The loss will be a serious one, for the true spirit of Masonry was infused in its pages, and it was conducted with that ability characteristic of our American Masonic journals. Bro. Wheeler died at his post. He did his duty unflinchingly. He shared the toils and perils of that trying period bravely—a period most terrible that has visited America for years. He was as honest and conscientious in the discharge of his duties as he was ready and able with his pen in defending the rights of our noble Order. May he meet with his reward in the Grand Lodge above!—Masonic Record of Western India.

FUNERAL OF BRO. R. RODDA, OF STONEHOUSE.

The funeral of the late Bro. Richard Rodda, for twenty-one years high balliff of the Stonehouse County Court, took place on Thursday, the 27th ult. The cortege of twenty carriages proceeded from the deceased's residence in Durnford-street, Stonehouse, to the parish church of St. George, of the congregation of which Bro. Rodda was a member. There was a large attendance, including many prominent Freemasons, among whom the deceased had held high office. In the first mourning coach were Mr. Jonathan Rodda and Mr. Charles Rodda, sons of the deceased; Master Rodda, grandson; Mr. William Rodda, brother; and Mr. Thomas Rodda, nephew. Second—Mr. Martin Thomas, of Manchester, nephew; Mr. John Ivey, of Penzance, nephew; Bro. W. J. Hughan, Past S.G.D. of England; and Mr. George Cox, Manor-office. Third—Mr. R. G. Edmond's, Registrar of the County Court; Messrs. J. E. Curtels and T. S. Bayly, the executors; and Mr. J. R. Newcombe. Fourth—Bearers: Four P.E.C.'s of the Masonic Knights Templar—Fraters Colonel H. C. Fitz Gerald, R. R. Rodd, J. Sacler, and I. Watts. Fifth—Bearers: Four Past Masters of Lodge Fortitude, No. 105—3ros. George Hilson, G. C. Bignell, W. H. Anthony, and John James. Among others present were, in the first cab, Messrs. Davey, Field, and Castle, clerks of the County Court, and Mr. Mugford, clerk to Mr. Charles Rodda; in the next, the bailiffs of the court, and in the others, Dr. Wilson, Messrs. S. Jew, S. Hyne, S. Vosper, F. R. Tomes, J. S. Roach, G. Temple, T. W. Bastow, R. P. Culley, R. M. Bennett, G. V. Hilson, W. Brown, M. H. Rickard, J. E. E. Dawe, J. F. Veal, W. Powell, W. Woods, J. F. B. Hodge, F. A. Thomas, W. J. Thuell, P. Hamley, J. Williams, J. Baxter, J. Ingram, Mark F. Oldrey, high bailiff of the Totnes County Court; F. Lake, W. W. Bray, W. Harries, E. Aitken Davies, M. Watts, Horswill, H. Cochrane, W. Mitchell, H. Scott, E. Taylor, and H. E. James. Mr. Matthew Fortescue, judge of the County Court, wrote expressing deep sympathy with the family in their bereavement, and added that he would have been present at the funeral but for severe indisposition. Letters of sympathy had been sent by several other friends, who regretted their inability to be present to pay a last token of respect for the deceased.

At the church gate the corpse was met by the Rev. Percy R. Scott, the vicar, and Bro. the Rev. W. Whitley, P.P.G. Chaplain of the Freemasons, and minister of the Independent Chapel in Batter-street, Plymouth, who walked together into the church, where the vicar read the Psalm and the lesson, Bro. the Rev. W. Whitley occupying a chair by the reading desk. Mr. Scott having had one placed there in order that Bro. Whitley might remain near him. The hymn, "A few more years shall roll," was sung, and as the mourners left the church the Dead March in "Saul" was played on the organ. Mr. Scott and Bro. Whitley rode together to the Plymouth cemetery, where a vault in which rested the remains of the deceased's second wife had been prepared for the reception of the body. This vault is situated in the Nonconformist portion of the ground, and here the concluding portion of the beautiful service of the Church was read by Bro. Whitley, Mr. Scott standing by his side, and leading the responses. At the close of the service, Bro. Whitley gave a brief address to the Masonic brethren present. He pointed out the suddenness of the death. In the full vigour of life on the Monday evening, an inanimate corpse on the evening of the following Saturday. Cut off before the usual span allotted to man. How soon for aught they knew might that be the fate of any one of them. What a solemn admonition to live so that it might be a life of preparation for the certain lot of all. Might they all be looking forward to that hopeful reunion promised to all that proved sure and faithful. A large number of the brethren gathered around the grave to take the last farewell of their brother according to the rites of the Order. The deceased, although he suffered much in his illness, died in perfect consciousness. His end was one of hopeful faith; almost his last words were, "The blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth us from all sin." The coffin was covered with floral remembrances; among them Lodge Fortitude contributed a large and handsome wreath containing the square and compasses in camellias, azalias, and lilies of the valley, a similar wreath with a triangle came from the gardens of Mount Edgecombe, and another in the form of a P.E.C.'s cross was sent by Frater J. E. Curtis.

The cost of the improvements at St. George's Church will entail an expenditure of £600, without including the re-seating, which is also contemplated. A portion of the £600 is as yet not gathered. On the Monday before Mr. Rodda's decease he was in conversation with the vicar and churchwardens at the church on the question of providing a central painted window, and on being told that it would cost £50 he at once undertook to obtain ten parishioners, including himself, who would provide the money by contributing £5 each. Towards the improvements recently effected Mr. Rodda contributed largely in personal exertions and pecuniary aid, and in obtaining an organ he was an active member of the Committee and contributed liberally. The opening performances were given on it on Friday previous, when he was on what proved to be his deathbed, and its next performance, besides accompanying the services on Sunday, was at his funeral.

STRASBURG CATHEDRAL.

There is a quaint old tradition, which comes down to us from ancient times, tottering under its load of age and replete with superstitions of the past. On the borders of Alsacia there lies a great city, dating its foundation far back, to the old Roman days, and rich in those architectural relics of the olden time which are ever so dear to the antiquary.

"Quain offspring of centurial years, the town of Strasburg stands;
Rich in the love of a mighty past, in legend, and in story;
Rich in high hearted, honest sons, a country's truest glory;
Rich in its old Cathedral Church, with clustering ivy spread,
The Santa Croce of the land, where sleep her noble dead."

The story runs that once in every twelve months, on the eve of St. John, when the quiet burghers of that ancient city are wrapt in slumber, and when the hour of midnight clangs out from the loud-tongued bell which hangs in the old cathedral tower, that the spirits of the stonemasons, by whose hands the sacred pile was erected, arise from the tomb and once more revisit the scene of their former labours. Up from the dark and gloomy crypt, along the columned aisles and vast dim nave, across the white gleaming marble floor, checkered with ghostly shadows that stream from pictured oriel, past the stone-carved statues that keep watch and ward with their swords and sceptres, comes the long train of death-like, night-wandering shadows. Clad in their quaint old mediæval costume, the Masters with their compasses and rules, the Craftsmen with their plumbs and squares and levels, the apprentice lads with their heavy gavels, all silently greeting their companions, old and new, with time-honoured salute and token as of yore. While the last note of the deep-mouthed bell is still trembling in the air, reverberating from arch to arch, and dying away amid the frozen music of the traceryed roof, forth from the western portal streams the shadowy throng. Thrice around the sacred edifice winds the waving, floating train, brave old Erwin himself leading the way, while far above, up above the sculptured saints who look down upon the sleeping city, up where at the very summit of feathery, fairy-like spire, the image of the Queen of Heaven stands, there floats a cold, white-robed female form, the fair Sabina, old Erwin's well-beloved child, whose fair hands aided him in his work. In her right hand a mallet, in her left a chisel, she sits among the sculptured lace work of the noble spire like the genius of Masonry. With the first faint blush of dawn the vision fades, the phantom shapes dissolve, and the old Masons return to their sepulchres, there to rest until the next St. John's Eve shall summon them to earth.

HAMPTON COURT.—Era Lodge, No. 1423.

—The installation meeting of this well-known Middlesex lodge will take place on Saturday, 12th inst., at the Island Hotel, Bro. Tagg's, at 3.30 p.m. The installation ceremony will be conducted by Bro. Thos. J. Sabine, P.M. 73, 1540, P.P.G.S.B. Middlesex, the present W.M., assisted by Bro. J. W. Baldwin, P.M. 1423, P.P.G.P. Middlesex. Splendid views of the river Thames, extending on one side as far as Hampton Court Palace, and on the other as far as the village of Hampton, are obtained from this hotel. The charming locality chosen for the meeting of the Era Lodge should render it one of the most popular of the London summer lodges.

We are glad to hear that as the result of our paragraph announcing that thirteen out of fourteen of the girls of the Masonic Schools had passed the Cambridge Local Examinations, a Suffolk brother has offered to take the fourteen competitors, with two attendants, to a grand morning concert to be given at St. James's Hall, London, in May next, in aid of the funds of the new Hospital for Women, 222, Marylebone-road, London.—East Anglian Daily Times.

The installation of Bro. E. W. Devereux, of the Era Lodge, 1423, and Hon. Sec. of the Surrey Masonic Club, will take place at the Island Hotel, Hampton Court, on Saturday, the 12th inst.

Constitutions of the Ancient Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons, containing the Charges, Regulations, E.A. Song, &c. A copy should be in the possession of every brother. It may be obtained for 2s. at the office of the Freemason, or will be sent post-free to any part of the United Kingdom on receipt of twenty-five penny stamps. Address, Publisher, 198, Fleet-street, London.—ADVT.

THE LONDON MASONIC CHARITY ASSOCIATION.

A special general meeting of the Committee of this association took place on Wednesday last at the offices, 1, Clifford's Inn, when the arrangements for the elections were carefully considered, and several communications ordered to be replied to. A meeting will take place on Wednesday next, the 9th inst., at 5 o'clock p.m., of the General Committee to make the final arrangements. All voting papers should be at once sent, not filled up, to Bro. A. Tisley, 1, Clifford's Inn, Fleet-street, E.C., in order that the same may be registered and properly applied.

FAREWELL BANQUET TO BRO. J. CLARK.

A farewell dinner was given by Freemasons belonging to several lodges in the Portsmouth district on Wednesday, the 26th March, at the Golden Fleece, Commercial-road, Landport, to Bro. John Clark, Senior Warden of No. 1776, agent for the Buttery Iron Company, on the completion of an extensive contract for sliding caissons in the new extension works of Her Majesty's Dockyard, Portsmouth. Bro. E. S. Maine, P.M., &c., occupied the chair, and Bro. J. Craven, P.M., &c. the vice-chair. The dinner was of a substantial character, and reflected great credit on the host.

After the cloth had been removed the Chairman gave the customary loyal and Masonic toasts; and in proposing the toast of the evening viz., "The Good Health and future Prosperity of Bro. John Clark," remarked that Bro. Clark had been a sojourner in Portsmouth for about six years, that he came among them a stranger, but during this period he had, by his good nature, geniality, and courtesy of manner, gained a large number of friends. Not the least sincere were those who surrounded the festive board that night. In bearing testimony to the many good social qualities of Bro. J. Clark they must not omit to pay a tribute of respect and admiration to the great Craft to which they belonged, inasmuch as however great the qualifications of Bro. J. Clark might be, he would not have had the opportunity of making so many or such genuine friends had it not been for the organisation of the great Order of Freemasonry, which enlisted men of all classes under its banner and enabled them to interchange their ideas and form the basis of many sincere friendships which death alone would sever. He need not say how exceedingly delighted they were to meet their guest that night, and regretted that it should be occasioned by his leaving the neighbourhood, and hoped that he would carry away with him kindly feelings towards the Masons of Portsmouth, and receive a cordial welcome from the brethren in Derbyshire.

The toast was drunk with musical honours, and Bro. J. Clark, who was much affected, in response, said that he could not find words to express his lasting gratitude to the Freemasons of Portsmouth for the kind, cordial, and sincere manner they had treated him during his stay there; he had never received an unkind word from them, but, on the contrary, had received from them the greatest assistance. He regretted much that he was compelled to leave them, but as they had finished their contract, there was no alternative for him but to return, and, as a consequence, the best of friends must part; he should, however, ever remember the unexpected kindness in inviting him to a farewell dinner in the handsome manner they had done. Again thanking them for their fraternal conduct, he resumed his seat amidst considerable enthusiasm.

Bro. J. Clark next proposed "Success to the Borough of Portsmouth Masonic Hall and Club Company," and observed that he was certain the company would prove a great success, and be highly beneficial to Freemasonry in Portsmouth. He coupled with the toast the names of Bros. H. Cawte, P.M., and G. Cunningham. Bro. H. Cawte, P.M., in reply, said that he had long desired to see a company formed for the purpose of affording lodges good accommodation in a central part of the borough; they had at last succeeded in their object, and secured the co-operation of brethren belonging to all the lodges. Bro. Cunningham also, in reply, observed that the company must be a success from the perfect unanimity which prevailed amongst the Masons there with respect to the objects of the company; he remarked that he was a Mason of some years' standing—he had belonged to the Robert Burns, No. 25, London, since his initiation, but he had become an affiliated member of the newly-constituted Landport Lodge, and intended to do his utmost to make the new company successful for the benefit of the Masonic lodges of the borough. They had succeeded in inducing the Mayor, Bro. W. D. King, to be the chairman, and from his known aptitude for business augured well for its ultimate prosperity.

Bro. J. Willmott, W.M. 342, who was mainly instrumental in getting up the dinner, proposed "The Health of the Chairman and Vice-Chairman," which was briefly responded to by Bros. E. S. Maine and J. Craven. Some capital harmony was rendered by the brethren during the evening, and a most agreeable and happy evening was spent.

There were present Bros. E. S. Maine, P.M.; J. Craven, P.M.; H. Cawte, P.M.; A. Riddell, P.M.; Clay, P.M.; W. Payne, P.M.; R. Turney, P.M.; Willmott, W.M. 342; R. Barnes, S.W. 342; C. G. Adames, J.W. 1776; Baci-galupo, E. J. Smith, G. Cunningham, J. G. Niven, G. Chamberlain, A. Holbrook, R. King, J. Cowd, A. H. Hancock, J. Smith, Lenanton, Groom, Matthews, Robinson, German, Parkhouse, Green, McKinlay, Johns, J. Clark, and others.

The Goldsmiths' Company announce that several exhibitions in their gift are vacant at the universities of Oxford and Cambridge.

Notes on Art.

The Paris Salon promises to be unusually good this year, artists having no such counter-attraction as the Exhibition Fine Art Galleries proved last spring. All the pictures had to be sent by Friday, the 28th ult. Amongst the most noticeable are a portrait of Victor Hugo by Bonnat, the well-known portrait painter, yet another episode of the struggle in 1870 by M. Detaille, "Defence of Champigny by the Division Faron," a military scene in Brittany by M. Berne-Bellecour, and an enormous triptych depicting the miracles of St. Cuthbert—large enough for the wall of a Cathedral—by M. Duez. M. Henner sends a painting of Naiads on the banks of a stream, and a head of a sleeping girl, taken promptly from one of his models who had been overcome with drowsiness, and M. Carolus Duran, one of his usual portraits; but MM. De Neuville, Vibert, and Munkaczky will not be represented at the Palais de l'Industrie.

THE TELEPHONE.—At the Royal Society's soirée, held at Burlington House on Wednesday evening, the 2nd inst., there was a demonstration of the power of Edison's new loud-speaking telephone.

LORD BEACONSFIELD.—Mr. Jabez Hughes has executed some remarkably life-like photographs of the Premier.

The Society of Painters in Water-Colours have elected Mr. A. P. Newton a member, and Mrs. Helen Angell and Mr. H. M. Marshall Associates of the Society.

The sun will not shine for a longer period than seventeen million years, according to Professor Dubeis Reymond, of the University of Berlin. By that time, he adds, the earth will be covered with glaciers.

NATIONAL GALLERY.—The National Gallery will be closed, for cleaning, from Monday, the 7th inst., to Saturday, the 12th inst., inclusive, but will be re-opened to the public on Easter Monday, and during the whole of the Easter week, including Thursday and Friday—the days ordinarily reserved for students.

ROYAL GIFT TO THE BIRMINGHAM LIBRARY.—At a meeting of the Birmingham Town Council on Tuesday, the Mayor read the following letter, which had been received from General Ponsoby, on behalf of the Queen:—"Buckingham Palace, March 24, 1879.—Sir,—I am commanded by the Queen to inquire if the managers of the Birmingham Library will accept from Her Majesty the volumes, a list of which I enclose. Not being certain to whom I should address myself, I venture to trouble you with this letter in the hope that you will communicate the Queen's offer in the proper quarter. I have the honour to be, Sir, your obedient servant, Henry F. Ponsoby.—The Mayor of Birmingham." The list of volumes is as follows:—"Lepsius' "Denkmale aus Aegypten und Aethiopien," 12 volumes, large folio; Dr. F. Bock's "Kleinodien des heiligen Romischen Reichs Deutscher Nation," 1 volume, large folio, Wien, 1864; Nash's (Joseph) "Windsor," London, 1848; and Wyatt's (Mr. Digby) "Industrial Arts of the 19th Century," London, 1853. On the motion of the Mayor, it was resolved "That the letter of Lieutenant-General Ponsoby be received and entered on the minutes, and that he be requested to be the medium of conveying to Her Majesty the Queen the grateful acceptance by this Council of her gracious offer to present to the free library of this borough a valuable selection of books."

Bro. Stephen Pearce, who has painted the likeness of Bro. Lieut.-Col. Creaton—see report—is well known by his exhibited life-sized portraits at the Royal Academy Exhibition. We well remember the eminent President of the Royal Society, General Sabine, painted by him some few years ago, and also his fine mainly portraits of the distinguished Arctic heroes, Sir Leopold McClintock, Sir Robert McClure, Captain Penny, and others. Then, if we mistake not, there were very beautiful portraits of the late Duke of Bedford, Sir Francis Beaufort, and Sir John Barrow, also exhibited in successive years on its walls.

The Duke of Connaught has appointed Dr. Charles Murchison Physician-in-Ordinary.

Professor Virchow has left Berlin for Troy in acceptance of an invitation of Dr. Schliemann.

Mr. Carlyle has been unanimously re-elected President of the Edinburgh Philosophical Academy for the ensuing year.

A somewhat novel haul was made by a fishing-boat from St. Ives last week, for in the meshes of a large net, besides some hundred mackerel, were found 400 gulls, kittiwakes, and "murra."

Lord Beaconsfield has placed Mr. Frederick Martin on the Civil List for a pension of £100 a year, in recognition of the service he has rendered by compiling the Statesman's Year Book, which he has now issued for sixteen years.

According to report, the White Lady, whose visits always precede the death of some member of the Royal Family, was seen on the eve of Prince Waldemar's death. A soldier on guard at the old castle was the witness of the apparition, and in his fright fled to the guard-house, where he was at once arrested for deserting his post.

At Paris, on Monday, the church of St. Germain l'Auxerrois was the scene of a funeral service, conducted, with the greatest pomp, over the remains of M. Heriot, one of the proprietors of the immense shop in the Rue de Rivoli, known as the "Magasin du Louvre." The hearse was followed by all the employés of the vast establishment, divided into nine groups; the last group consisted of the young women of the shop, to the number of upwards of 200. M. Heriot rose from the position of a shop-boy to that of part owner.

THE FREEMASON.

SATURDAY, APRIL 5, 1879.

WHAT FREEMASONRY DOES DO.

We are often asked by the curious and the impertinent, what does Freemasonry do? We are often taunted by the credulous or the sceptical that it is practically "much ado about nothing." We have thought it well, then, to throw our thoughts together, so to say, and to answer these doubting or deprecatory queries, by pointing out to-day what Freemasonry does do, and we hope next week equally clearly to demonstrate what Freemasonry does not do. And in order to clear the way from the "debris" of all that dreadful rubbish which socialist Freemasons themselves, alas! a goodly number, or Ultramontane opponents, have placed in our way, misleading the gullible, and also deceiving the confiding, we wish, in the first place, to state what we mean by Freemasonry. In using that word we do not include in its use fictitious systems, or perverted jurisdictions. We do not claim as our brethren those who denounce or deny the fundamental tenets of our universal Order. We openly repudiate any teaching or any body which throws over Freemasonry and Masonic teachings, aims, or practice, the hurtful colouring of political reveries, or the debasing, the grovelling animus of sectarian violence. The Freemasonry we mean is that which is now openly professed before the world by above a million of Freemasons, banded together in brotherly love, peace, and goodwill, intent and never ashamed in its lodges to "own" T.G.A.O.T.U. under all circumstances, and, at all times, anxious ever to promote the welfare of humanity, to advance the brotherhood of Freemasonry, and to sympathize with any fallen, struggling, weak, erring, and dying brother and sister of the dust. And thus it is that Freemasonry seeks ever by its unselfish efforts, and its generous devotion to benevolence and timely aid, to make clear to all men that it is not merely a goodly profession, that it does not begin and end in fine words alone, but that it is a reality, practical and active, God fearing and philanthropical, seeking to render all its meetings and organizations, its brilliant assemblies, and its social pleasures all alike minister, and minister truly, to the help of truthful indigence, the raising up the fallen, the friendless, and the destitute. And therefore, at this very moment, while it proclaims and promulgates with unflinching voice, whenever and wherever "Freemasons most do congregate," the goodly and ever needful axioms of toleration, justice, sympathy, kindness, liberty of conscience, goodwill for all men, and, above all, the "household" of Freemasonry proper; it also tries to evince that its practice and its profession go hand in hand. It does not content itself with goodly dogmata or didactic morality; it despises and discountenances the baneful sophistries of "Pecksniff," and the vulgar hypocrisy of "Stiggins;" it knows nothing of "bunkum" or "high falutin," the brainless outpourings of the fanatic, and the childish moonshine of the self-constituted censor, but it works manfully to make its words good, its aims evident, and its use admitted in the great thoroughfares of life, as well as in the more secluded recesses of the lodge-room. Hence, to-day "charity," true charity, in its widest meaning and fullest sense, is the keynote which nominates all true Masonic harmonies. It begins in the lodge, it goes on in the Prov. Grand Lodge in our provinces, it continues in the Grand Lodge, it culminates in our great Metropolitan Charities, and is also to be clearly traced in those local efforts for education and the like, which are such a credit to those warm-hearted brethren who have constituted them, and kept them afloat in many of our Masonic provinces. All honour to them. There is no earthly society that we know of which does more, year by year, to prove that it "says what it means, and means what it says," than does our own good old Craft. And long may it so continue. Warned by the follies and the falls of foreign bodies, by the pitfalls and the stumbling blocks they place in the way of weaker minds, the discredit they bring on the Order, the injury they do to Masonry proper, let us all hope and strive that Anglo-Saxon Freemasonry may long pursue the "even tenour of its way," without deviating to the right or the left, advocating and practising that great virtue of charity, which ennobles all its efforts, sanctifies all its aims, and elevates all its struggles, as it marches on to-day, leaving stragglers and "malingerers" behind, under that emblazoned banner high over head, on which we still read the good, old, and sacred motto, "Glory to God on High, on earth peace, goodwill, and kindness to men."

A PLEASANT PRESENTATION.

On Wednesday week, as by a report elsewhere, it will be seen that the brethren of the Lodge of Antiquity presented to their Treasurer and esteemed Bro. Col. Creton, now Grand Treasurer, a very admirable portrait of himself, painted expressly for this presentation by that distinguished artist, Bro. Stephen Pearce. It is not too much, we think, to say that in this little fraternal episode the greatest credit is reflected on all concerned, and the genuine principles of Freemasonry, alike in their theoretical aspect and practical effect, are remarkably exemplified in the generous and unselfish exertions of the Craftsman artist, on the one hand, as well as by the fraternal regard and friendly sympathy of the brethren on the other. Our Grand Treasurer is too well known and too widely appreciated to need any encomiums from us in our unassuming pages. His services to the Lodge of Antiquity, as to the Craft at large, have been many, and great, and untiring, and the brethren of that most ancient and distinguished lodge have testified to their appreciation of his Masonic career, as well as of his private worth and personal amiability, by a presentation both pleasant and praiseworthy to all, and a lasting memorial of the skill of the artist, and the worth and eminence of Bro. Lieut.-Col. Creton.

THE LONDON MASONIC CHARITY ASSOCIATION.

At the approaching elections for the Girls' and Boys' Schools this, in our humble opinion, valuable and useful Association will endeavour to secure the election of several London candidates, who, for want of effective support, might probably otherwise "be left out in the cold." On their behalf we think it is advisable that all brethren unpledged should send in their votes at once to the Secretary, Bro. C. Tisley, 1, Clifford's Inn, Fleet-street, E.C., as they may feel confident that all votes, so generously given, will be both gratefully received and faithfully appropriated to their much needed purpose.

Original Correspondence.

[We do not hold ourselves responsible for, or even approving of, the opinions expressed by our correspondents, but we wish in a spirit of fair play to all, to permit—within certain necessary limits—free discussion.]

THE ELECTIONS IN APRIL.

Dear Bro. Kenning,—
May I be permitted in your pages to ask any of my brethren who have votes to spare for the Boys' and Girls' School, to kindly give them to me? I shall be truly grateful for any little help.
Yours fraternally,

A. F. A. WOODFORD.

IGNORANCE AND INTOLERANCE.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—
Under the above heading you have lately published some remarkable intelligence of great interest to your readers, and the Craft in general. I venture to think that the case I am about to state will, if you deem it worthy of insertion in your columns, prove both interesting and surprising, if not even startling, to your readers in all parts of the world.

The week before last I received a visit from a Norwegian clergyman, Pastor J. H. Simonsen, a priest of that branch of the Lutheran Church which is established in Norway. He brought me a letter of introduction from my friend, Bro. Oscar Dickson, of Gothenburg, whom many will remember as one of the Swedish deputation at the Prince of Wales' installation, in the Albert Hall, in 1875. A few years ago Bro. Simonsen was appointed pastor of a Norwegian congregation in Wisconsin, one of the United States of America; and he went out there to discharge the duties of his office. It happened that he had been initiated into Freemasonry in Christiania, but had only received the First Degree when he went over to America. He was, however, not inclined to "hide" his Masonic "light under a bushel," and it came to the knowledge of his brother clergy that he actually was a Freemason. They took counsel on this (to them) extraordinary fact, and he was summoned before the Wisconsin Norwegian Synod, at their annual meeting in the town, or city, of Lisbon. The Synod not only required that he should abjure Freemasonry, but that he should denounce it as "sin!" Our brother declined to do either of these things; but, on the contrary, had the courage to deliver before the Synod a very bold defence of Freemasonry, in which, with perhaps more courage than caution, he strongly rebuked the narrowmindedness of his opponents. But he paid dearly for his outspoken advocacy of our Order; he had not a single supporter in the Synod, which by an unanimous vote then and there deposed him from his pastorate. He had, however, gained the affections of his flock, who would not submit to his deposition; and he continued for three years to act as their minister. But at length the persecution to which he was now subjected was such that he felt compelled to resign, and return to his native land. And even there it has followed him! The persecutors reported his case, accompanied by slanders of different kinds, to the bishop at Christiania, who now refuses to license him to any church, or to permit him to advance in any way in his profession. I must say that I was greatly surprised to hear this, well knowing that in Sweden many Lutheran priests, and some of them eminent men, are members of the Craft. But Bro. Simonsen tells me that in Norway there are but eight priests who are Masons, as against about from one to two hundred in Sweden, and that these eight have not "come to grief" simply because their Masonry is somewhat "sub-rosa," while he has drawn down the episcopal ire upon his devoted head by frankly defending it, and still more by allowing a brother to publish his "Defence," in a pamphlet.

Bro. Simonsen has come over to England with a view to circulate a translation of his pamphlet, and in the hope that by the sale of copies he may raise funds to enable him to live until something can be done to reinstate him in his position as a clergyman in the Norwegian Church; a good brother in Christiania having given him a free return ticket by one of the Hull steamers. I tell him that I do not know that we can do much to help him over here, but that the best thing I can do for him (after giving him some pecuniary assistance, which I would not mention except as an example) is to ask you to make this case known by this letter. I have also told him it is a great pity that he did not take his Third Degree before coming to England to seek admission into our lodges as a visiting brother. I will only add that he is a married man, with a young family dependent on him.

I remain, yours, faithfully and fraternally,

Past Grand Chaplain of England, and Canon of the Order of Knights Templar in Sweden.

DR. HOPKINS' MASONIC CHARTS, &c.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I have several times drawn attention to the Masonic and Ecclesiastical charts, so beautifully drawn by the W. Bro. Dr. Henry Hopkins, P. Prov. S.G.W. of Warwickshire, &c., of 14, Belvedere, Bath, not only because of their great value and excellence as symbolical charts accurately and most artistically executed, but likewise because the proceeds of their sale were devoted to one or more of our "Great Masonic Charities." This Dr. Hopkins had done for many years, until the cost of the materials being ultimately a considerable burden, he has of late years given one half of any profits for so good an object.

The charts are a marvel of skill and ingenuity, and just "brim full" of Masonic or Ecclesiastical suggestions, so much so that they have but to be seen to be admired and purchased. The price, however—because of the time involved—did not bring them within the reach of some who could only admire; but now, happily, our brother has had them photographed by Messrs. J. and J. Dutton, of Bath, and the charts can now be obtained at 3s. each, or 2s. each, according to the sizes required (see advertisement). I shall be very pleased to be the medium of the sale of any of these gems of art and industry, or communications may be sent direct to Dr. Hopkins. As upwards of £100 have been devoted to our Charities through this means alone, it will readily be seen that brethren can gratify their tastes and their benevolent proclivities at the same time.

THE GRAND LODGE OF IRELAND.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Although in no wise desirous of putting myself forward as the champion of the Grand Lodge of Ireland, I cannot allow your remarks regarding the Irish Grand Lodge balance sheet to pass without protesting against the manner in which you put the subject before our English brethren. You appear to take a leaf out of the books of those who sneer at everything Irish, which I cannot help thinking is scarcely in accordance with the principles laid down for your guidance, and if your Irish brethren are not educated enough to make out a balance sheet sufficiently clear to please fastidious England, let yours be the task to teach, not to ridicule.

Yours fraternally,

H. S. CAMPBELL, P.M. 95.

[Our worthy brother is wrong, both in his premise and his conclusion, as far as we are concerned. Our good Irish brethren have no warmer admirers than ourselves. —Ed.]

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

As an Irishman I most strenuously object to your remarks on the balance-sheet of the Grand Lodge of Ireland; brotherly love does not seem to preclude the tone of your article, judging from the sneering allusions you make to the "Irish way" things are done, and the "Flemish account" you would expect. Did you have an inquiry?

Allow me to suggest you are in the position of the man in the glass house who threw stones. Look well to the doings of your own Grand Lodge, and tickle the fancy of your English brethren by a few facetious remarks against the position assumed by some of its late officers.

The disbursements of Grand Lodge of Ireland may not be in accordance with your views, but Irishmen have yet to learn of anything detrimental to the cause of Masonry by one of its members.

I am, dear Sir and Brother, yours fraternally.

A. H. SUNNER.

[We refer our impetuous brother to our editorial remark above.]

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I consider the "cutting" the Freemason so neatly is a great improvement, and I have reason to believe that many agree with me in that statement, for it is a great convenience, and the paper keeps better for binding. One other change is still needed (which has been pointed out by my friend and Bro. Captain F. G. Irwin), and that is to keep all the advertisements on separate sheets, that may easily be detached and excluded from the part to be bound. We have wished the Freemason every health and happiness on its tenth birthday, and are glad to see that as its age increases its appearance continues to improve, which is more than can be said of,

Yours fraternally,

WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.

A QUERY.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Could you kindly give me any information about Botzaris Eustratius Kras, a P.M. in Liverpool before 1867, and for many years a member of lodges under various degrees in that city, as to what lodges he belonged?

A line in the Freemason would greatly oblige,

Yours fraternally,

C. L. CONSTANTINUS, 1009.

ANCIENT AND ACCEPTED RITE.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Your weekly columns indicate that the lines of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite are not falling in pleasant places; its paths are so tortuous, traversed and crossed as to form a labyrinth, from which the only escape is by jumping the barriers. Many, unable to escape in any other way, have so vaulted over them, probably on the principle that repudiation of one oath, unwittingly taken, is better than constant perjuries. Some time ago a Sovereign Grand Inspector General, Sublime Prince of the Royal Secret, and Sovereign Prince, Rose Croix, of one of the Supreme Grand Councils of the Holy Empire, led me to the top of one of the pinnacles of his temple, and directing my attention to a mirage, which he imagined, in his distempered fancy, to be a landscape of cities and kingdoms, said: "All these things will I give thee if thou wilt fall down and worship me." I replied "Nay, not so, but I will view this landscape of mystery from the summit of the pyramid of Memphis, which embraces a prospect few have comprehended, and those few Orientals, and I will not defile myself by the worship of those who are marked with the mark and number of the beast. Listen to what a modern seer, who visited the temple of visions, whither we shall follow, has recorded of thee and thy Rite."

"His face was covered with pimples, such as accompany a burning fever, his eyes had a ferocious look, his breast swelled out into a great prominence; from his mouth he belched forth fire, like a furnace, his loins seemed on fire; in place of feet he had bony ankles without flesh; and from his body there exhaled a foul and stinking heat. I was terrified at the sight of him, and cried out, 'Approach no further, tell me whence you are?' He replied, in a hoarse tone of voice, 'I am from below, and live there in a society of two hundred, which is the most super-excellent of all societies; there we are all emperors of emperors, kings of kings, dukes of dukes, and princes of princes; no one is barely an emperor, or barely a king, duke, or prince. We are seated there on thrones of thrones, and thence dispatch our mandates over the whole world, and even beyond it.' I then said to him, 'Do you not perceive that you are in a state of insanity, arising from the fantasy of super-eminence?' He replied 'How can you talk in this manner, when we absolutely seem to ourselves, and are also acknowledged by ourselves, to have such distinction?'"

To abandon abstruse sentiment, and to descend to facts and to plain things, which every one can comprehend. It seems that by the impulse of its own inordinate vanity the Rite is now at war within itself in every quarter of the world. The latest dissention has arisen in Canada, and I have just received from a brother, holding high degrees in the Ancient and Accepted Rite, a printed slip of a newspaper letter, which I send herewith for the indulgence of its insertion.

The writer's argument applies equally to this country.

The Constitution of the Rite, Article 5, Section 3, provides:—"In each great nation of Europe, and in each kingdom or empire, there shall be a single Council of the said degree." Now England, Ireland, and Scotland form only one nation and one kingdom, namely, the British Nation and the United Kingdom, and is therefore only entitled to one S.G.C., and not three S.G.C.'s, as at present existing. That of Ireland was formed August 13, 1824; Scotland claims from 1814, but this is doubtful, as other authorities only allow her to date from 1843; England, 1845. Now leaving Ireland and Scotland to settle the point of priority between themselves, it is very certain that England was the latest constituted, and consequently, by establishing her S.G.C., has invaded the rights of either Scotland or Ireland; therefore the English Supreme Grand Council of the Ancient and Accepted Rite must of necessity be a nullity, and is spurious for that reason, but also for others, and clandestine. Moreover, there is no escape, for the Constitution (forged no doubt though it be) ordains that it shall remain for ever the supreme law of the Rite. As Bro. Pike points out, every member has sworn to obey it, and hence so long as these three councils continue separate every English member violates his oath, and puts himself as an honourable man outside his Rite.

Whilst adopting a representative Constitution the Ancient and Primitive Rite, or Oriental Rite of Memphis, avoided such a mistake by obtaining a charter for the whole of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, added to which it has degrees of great value in addition to its Knights Rose Croix and Royal Arch ceremonies.

ANCIENT AND ACCEPTED SCOTTISH RITE IN CANADA.

A question of very great importance to the members of this Rite in Canada has suggested itself to my mind from a careful study of the Constitutions of 1786. The question is this. Are these Constitutions regarded by members of the A. and A. S. Rite as the fundamental law of the Rite? Dr. Mackey, in his admirable Encyclopedia of Freemasonry, says most distinctly and emphatically that they are so regarded. Bro. Albert Pike, the Grand Commander of the Supreme Council for the Southern Jurisdiction of the U.S.—the mother Supreme Council of the world—published these Constitutions in 1872, in Latin, French, and English, and in his exhaustive annotations respecting them says: "The Supreme Council of Charleston (formed in 1801) had a perfect right to adopt them as the law of the new Order, no matter where, when, or by whom they were made, as Anderson's Constitutions were adopted in Symbolic Masonry; that they are and always have been the law of the Rite, because they were so adopted, and because no man has ever lawfully received the Degrees of the Rite without swearing to maintain them as its supreme law." In view of this testimony, so decidedly given, by the two most eminent and learned members of the Rite, I think that all interested must, without hesitation, acknowledge, that the Constitutions of 1786 are, and have always been, the supreme and fundamental law of the A. and the A. S. Rite. Let us now consider carefully one particular clause of the Constitutions, and the bearing that it has upon the present position of Canadian members of the Rite. I refer to Article V. Section III., which reads as follows: "In each of the Great Nations of Europe, whether Kingdom or Empire, there shall be but a single Supreme Council of the 33rd Degree. In all those States and Provinces, as well of the Main land as of the Islands, whereof North America is composed, there shall be Two Councils, one as great a distance as may be from the other. In all those States and Provinces also, whether of the Main land or the Islands, whereof South America is composed, there shall be Two Councils, one at as great a distance as possible from the other. Likewise, there shall be one only in each Empire, Supreme State, or Kingdom in Asia, Africa, &c." In the preamble it is declared that "these Decrees are and for ever shall be the Constitutions, Statutes, and regulations, for the government of the Rite," consequently they cannot, by any authority whatever, be ever abrogated, altered, or changed. I think it must be held as an undeniable fact, that by the Constitutions of 1786, unaltered and unalterable as they are, and binding upon every member of the Rite, inasmuch as he has solemnly sworn to observe them in their integrity, that two Supreme Councils, and two only, can legally exist in North America, and that if more than that number should have been inadvertently created, that those in excess of the two first are of necessity illegal, and are in fact nullities. Unfortunately there are now more than two Supreme Councils in North America: there are three, to my certain knowledge, and possibly may be more, as, for all I know to the contrary, Mexico and the Central American States may claim to possess one each. Those of which I have information are as follows: first, the S.C. of the Southern Jurisdiction of the U.S., dating from 1801. Second, the S.C. of the Northern Jurisdiction of the U.S., dating from 1815. Third, the S.C. of the Dominion of Canada, dating from 1874. The S.C. of the Northern Jurisdiction has authority over only fifteen States, which were specially given up to it by the S.C. of the Southern Jurisdiction, which claims the remainder of the States, on account of its priority of origin, amongst which States are Iowa, Minnesota, and California.

As it has been proved that only two Supreme Councils can legally exist in North America, and as it is certain that the two legal councils are those of the Southern and Northern Jurisdiction of the U.S., it behoves Canadians, claiming to be members of the A. and A. S. Rite, to consider what their real position is. It must be evident to every one who has followed the proofs above given, that the so-called Supreme Council of Canada, created in 1874, was, and is, an illegal body, being formed contrary to both the letter and the spirit of the Constitutions of 1786. It is true that this S.C. was inaugurated by Bro. Pike himself, under warrant from the S.C. of England, but neither Bro. Pike nor the S.C. of England, nor any other man or body of men, had the power or authority to repeal or set aside even one section or article of those Constitutions, which are the fundamental law of the Rite. No doubt the mistake was unwittingly made, but still the mistakes and oversights that the ablest of men at times fall into cannot exonerate others if they persist in violating an acknowledged law, after the existence of that law has been plainly pointed out to them. It is now, therefore, incumbent upon the members of the Rite in Canada to yield their allegiance to the body that is alone entitled to receive it, and that body is, without a shadow of doubt, the Supreme Council of the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States, which has the sole right to exercise authority over the whole of North America, excepting only that portion which was yielded to the S.C. of the Northern Jurisdiction at its formation in 1815. Up to 1874 all members of the Rite made in Canada, under the authority of the Supreme Council of England, and by the tacit consent of the S.C. of the Southern Jurisdiction, U.S., are regular and legitimate. Since the withdrawal of the English authority in 1874, and the illegal creation of the so-called Supreme Council of Canada, all persons receiving Degrees under the auspices of the last mentioned body are irregular and illegitimate, and must of necessity be healed by the lawful authority alone entitled to receive them before they can be considered as members of the A. and A.S. Rite at all. The only course that can now be lawfully followed is this: let the Supreme Council of the Southern Jurisdiction, U.S., declare the so-called Supreme Council of Canada dissolved, as being from its inception an illegal body; form its members into a Grand Consistory for the Dominion of Canada, and give it authority to heal those brethren who have been inadvertently misled into considering themselves members of the Rite. This will no doubt be a bitter pill for Canadians to swallow, but what else can be done? The fundamental Constitutions to which the Rite owes its existence, and under which alone it exercises its lawful authority, must be obeyed to the very letter, because, to again quote Bro. Pike, "no man has ever lawfully received the Degrees of the Rite without swearing to maintain them as its Supreme Law." This solemn obligation, now that it is brought plainly to our remembrance, must be respected, even at the sacrifice of national feeling or of personal consequence. We must now retrace our steps, and yield our allegiance to that Supreme Council—that of the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States—which is alone entitled to receive it, and which cannot lawfully refuse to receive it.

Ontario, Canada, 11th March, 1879.

P.S.—By a singular coincidence, the reverse of the paper whence I send the enclosed cutting has the following "Inscriptions from Egyptian Tombs," which I beg to transfer to your columns. Surely, the checks of the Christian Knights and Princes of the Holy Empire will tingle when they read the sentiments, by which these un-saved pagans directed all their lives. If they do not so tingle mine would blush for the degradation of humanity:—

"He loved his father and mother, and honoured his brother. He never entered his house with an angry heart. He never favoured the nobleman above the simple."

"On earth I was a prudent and wise man, and my soul ever loved God. If I was a brother to the noble, I was a father to the poor, and never scattered hatred among men."

"I will tell you, O ye that live after me, how it was with me during my life. I was not haughty, neither did I curse, neither did I revile, neither did I love to quarrel with my neighbour. I never withstood the poor and oppressed, but always sought by word and deed for reconciliation."

"I honoured my father and respected my mother, and loved my brother. I provided burial for those that died and were not laid in the earth, and supported the children who were born. I founded houses for them, and filled them with good deeds, as a father doleth by his own children. For behold! it was an evil time in Sais, when the great disaster passed over Egypt."

THE MASONIC CHARITIES. A REPORT TO THE LODGE HOPE AND CHARITY, No. 377. By Bro. GEORGE TAYLOR, F.M., P.G. Purst, Worcester-shire, Kidderminster: W. Hepworth, Sun Office, Bull Ring. We have read this "brochure" with singular pleasure. It is alike simple and yet lucid in statement, ably drawn out, and effectively written. Bro. Taylor has done good service to our Metropolitan Charities, by a seasonable and eloquent recital of their work and their merits, their needs and their claims. We recommend any of our brethren who wish to be "posted up" in a few comprehensive words as to what our Masonic Charities really do, to obtain Bro. Taylor's pamphlet, as many who do not like to wade through long reports will find in his clear pages and concise statements, complete justification of Masonic usefulness and Masonic Charity. We hope to see a fuller review of this little publication in the Masonic Magazine for May. We thank Bro. Taylor for it, and sincerely hope that it may be widely circulated and largely read.

AN ADDRESS BY THE REV. J. H. SIMONSEN AT THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE SCANDINAVIAN WISCONSIN SYNOD. George Kenning, 198, Fleet-street.

It appears that the Rev. J. H. Simonsen, a Norwegian Lutheran clergyman, has been practically excommunicated by the Synod of his co-religionists, both in America and Norway, and deprived of the means of living for himself and family, simply for his defence of Freemasonry. The "appeal" we have just noticed is put forth by him to attract the notice and sympathy of brethren in England, and is alike forcibly written, and appears to make out a good case. Such, at any rate, is the opinion of competent judges like our worthy P.G.C., Bro. Bent, whose acquaintance with Swedish affairs is well known. We confess that we are deeply struck by the intolerance manifested, and the injustice perpetrated. Some Scandinavian Lutheran "pastors" in America seem to be excessively active in condemning Freemasonry, so let us preserve the names of the worthies, the Revs. Preus and Hvistendahl. Their main objection seems to be the fact of secrecy, though, as ardent controversialists, they forget that to secrecy, per se, there is, and can be, no objection, and that the only possible condemnation of it can be found in opposition to the laws of the land. We have recently observed in some of the American Masonic papers allusion to these high-handed, loud-voiced Scandinavian acts of intolerance and injustice, which remind us of the worst excesses of an ignorant and blatant Ultramontanist. But then, as we know, the spirit of persecution is the same in all ages, if under altered forms, and we only ascribe it to that petulance, ignorance, and unfairness of human nature, which like to impose what is subjective for what is objective, with all the bitterness of sectarian rancour, on the minds and consciences of fellow mortals. We trust that Bro. Simonsen's pamphlet may lead to a more critical examination of the whole affair, and may induce many worthy brethren, haters of injustice and intolerance, to study the case for themselves. We also trust that Bro. Simonsen's energetic and eloquent appeal may be largely read with profit to this modern victim of an unreasoning opposition to, and dislike of, Freemasonry. Some of us may ask, is such a state of things possible in 1879? But so it is, my masters, and as the world wags apace we fear there is but little change and less amelioration in the baleful and hopeless tendencies of our poor, our weak, our selfish humanity!

Public Amusements.

THEATRE ROYAL, BIRKENHEAD.—A grand dramatic performance was given at the above theatre on Wednesday evening, the 26th ult., in aid of the funds of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, London, and the Cheshire Royal Masonic Institution. The entertainment enjoyed the distinguished patronage of His Worship the Mayor of Birkenhead (John Laird, Esq.); David MacIver, Esq., M.P.; Bro. the Hon. Wilbraham Egerton, M.P., R.W. Deputy Prov. G.M. Cheshire; Bro. the Viscount Combermere, R.W.P.D.G.M. Cheshire; Bro. Æneas J. McIntyre, Q.C., V.W.G.R. of England, R.W.G.S.W. Cheshire; Bro. Lord Richard Grosvenor, P.G.S.W. England, P.G.J.W. Cheshire; Bro. the Hon. Col. F. Stanley, M.P., R.W. Deputy Prov. G.M. West Lancashire; Bro. G. W. Latham, R.W.P.G.D. England; Bro. Major Horner, P.P.G.S.W. West Lancashire; William Laird, Esq., J.P., Birkenhead; C. J. Preston, Esq., Birkenhead; Clarke Aspinall, Esq., J.P., Bebington; Lieut.-Col. King, Oxtou; Thos. Brasey, Esq., Major Walker, and officers of the 1st Cheshire Engineers; Worshipful Masters of lodges in the district, and others. The performances began with A Kiss in the Dark, in which Bro. C. Courtenay, 1609, as "Frank Fathom," Mr. Stoddart as "Mr. Pettibone," Miss F. Courtenay, Miss Stinton, and Miss Smith took part. After an interlude, in which the band of the 1st Cheshire Engineer Volunteers played a selection of popular music, Tom Taylor's comedy of Still Waters Run Deep, was played by the Amphitheatre company. Bro. Lindo Courtenay, W.M. 1609, took the leading rôle as "Captain Hawksley," and Bro. W. Constantine, I.P.M. 1609, was a capital "John Mildmay." Miss L. Courtenay as "Mrs. Sternhold," and Miss Florence Courtenay as "Mrs. Mildmay," sustained these characters with effect; while the subordinate characters were represented by Mr. F. Clarke "Potter," Mr. Forrest, "Jessop," Bro. C. Courtenay, "Dunbilk," Mr. Wilson, Mr. Harris, and Bro. H. Leslie, the latter as "Gimlet." The actors were several times applauded, and the performance as a whole was much admired.

THE LONDON COTTAGE MISSION.—The crowd of hungry children, numbering several hundred, that presented themselves on Wednesday at the doors of Conder-street Hall, Limehouse, E., to partake of the 14th Irish stew dinner, given by the London Cottage Mission, of 14, Finsbury-circus, E.C., was no mean sight, and one that shows only too plainly the sad distress that still exists, even though mild weather has come upon us. The little ones brought, as usual, their plates and spoons, and quietly waited until their turn came to participate in so good a meal. They were ravenously hungry, and devoured the Irish stew with the greatest rapidity and relish, which was repeatedly served to them. Such a real work of charity that feeds the hungry, and has for its one aim the social, intellectual, and religious elevation of the working classes, should have the warmest support of the benevolent and philanthropic; and, as the funds are now exhausted, we hope that as our readers have so far enabled this mission to do so much good that they will not allow it to collapse for the want of means, and the smallest donations will be cordially received and acknowledged by Mr. W. Austin, at the office of the Mission, 14, Finsbury-circus, E.C.

THE ALTAR IN MASONRY.

The presence of the altar in the lodge-room testifies emphatically that Freemasonry recognises and enforces the truth that there exists one only true and living God, who is the hearer and answerer of prayer. So long as that altar remains, so long must the fraternity continue to be theists; but when it is removed, or the First Great Light is removed from on it, and it comes to be termed merely a pedestal, then those that gather around it are no longer Freemasons, but only an organised society of atheists. What is the history of the decline and fall of the Craft in France, as it exists under the present Grand Orient? It is simply the history of the removal of the Bible from the altar, and the degradation of that altar into a pedestal. Bro. Mackenzie in his Royal Masonic Cyclopædia most erroneously says: "In an ordinary English Craft lodge, the altar is also called the pedestal." There could not be a more radical error—one more calculated to undermine the pure principles of Masonry. Bro. Woodford, in Kenning's Cyclopædia, states the truth in this connection when he says: "It is a mistake to call the altar the 'pedestal,' which is purely the Master's desk, and such a confounding of two distinct things is a remnant of the slovenly working of the early part of this century." But it is more than slovenly, it is a departure from principle, and surely entails, as we have shown, the most fatal results.

There were two altars in King Solomon's Temple, the altar of sacrifice and the altar of incense; and in like manner there are two altars in Masonry. In the Blue Lodge there is only the altar of sacrifice, but in the Royal Arch Chapter there is besides it the altar of incense. We shall not do more now than refer to the latter. The altar, par excellence, in Masonry, is the altar of the Blue Lodge, that of sacrifice—the sacrifice of prayer, and the pledging of solemn vows.

In American lodges the altar is placed in the centre of the lodge room, but in English lodges it is located not only in front, but also near to the Master's station. The former position appears to us to be the true one. King David said: "I will wash my hands in innocency; so will I compass thine altar, O Lord"—compass, that is, pass around and go to. How true is it that the candidate for Masonry compasses the altar, and having reached it, does he not offer a sacrifice thereon—the sacrifice of prayer, and the offering up of his vows? Some, perhaps, pray there who never prayed before. It is a solemn moment, and its lessons are for a life-time.

Man is naturally a worshipping animal—indeed, it is this quality which chiefly distinguishes him from the brute creation. All heathendom had, and still has, its altars. The famous city of Athens was wholly given to idolatry when St. Paul visited it, so that it is said to have been easier to find a God there than a man! There were altars to all the known Gods, and one to the unknown God!

Prof. Chase has termed the world-renowned Acropolis at Athens "one grand, vast altar." It was, and is, a natural altar. It is an immense table of rock, one hundred and fifty feet high, eleven hundred feet long, and five hundred feet broad. This altar is now covered with the remains of stupendous and magnificent temples, the grandest being the Parthenon. These ruins are the most remarkable in the world, exemplifying, as they do, such unique classic beauty, monumenting so vast a body of history, and suggesting so great a pageant of immortal memories. In the language of a modern historian: "As Pausanias saw it, the Acropolis was covered with statues, as well as with shrines. It was not merely a Holy of Holies in religion, it was also a palace and a museum of art. Even all the tides and slopes of the great rock were honeycombed into sacred grottoes, or studded with votive monuments."

There is one other well-known natural altar—the noted Rock of Cashel, in Ireland. Upon it is its great cathedral, the Parthenon of the place, and near by it is the holiest of all, the beautiful Cormac's Chapel. Around the base of the rock flourished a number of abbeys—all looking out upon the golden Vale of Tipperary. We do not wonder that men revered the Acropolis of Athens, and the Irish Rock of Cashel, since both seem designed by nature for the worship of nature's God.

Freemasonry now, whatever may have been its early origin and intermediate history, honours and worships the one only true and living God, who is the Grand Architect of the Universe. We believe in the principle of progress, and we think we clearly see how mankind and Mason-kind have been steadily advancing more and more into the light, and towards the highest truth. Among the Jews, the Abrahamic or patriarchal dispensation led up to the Mosaic or priestly, that to the Solomonic or kingly, and that in turn to the crowning ultimate or Christian dispensation, under which we are now living. So, if Masonry began, as some allege, in its simpler form in the earliest times, it is developed and been gradually evolved into its present highest form of pure Freemasonry. It owes this purity and prosperity primarily to one great cause—its acknowledgment of the one only true and living God, the prominent symbol of which is the altar in the lodge room.

Let us cherish the Masonic altar, together with the First Great Light which rests upon it, for in them is, as it were, the very life-blood of the Craft. Were there no God in Masonry, Masonry would be dead. Degrade the altar into a pedestal; remove the Holy Bible and replace it with the Book of Constitutions; take away the Square and Compasses, and substitute the crossed swords, and you sign, seal, and deliver the death-warrant of Freemasonry.—The Keystone, Philadelphia.

The Marquis of Hartington, Lord Rector of Edinburgh University, has offered a prize of twenty-five guineas annually, during his term of office, for the best historical essay, to be competed for by students of the University. The subject of the first essay is "The Share of Scotland in the creation of British India."

MASONS AS JUDGES, JURORS, &c.

There is a popular belief that Masons, when acting as judges, jurors, or citizens, frequently permit the guilty members of the Craft to escape such justice as they would measure to those not members of the Order. An eminent officer of the government addressed me on this subject, and although believing that such conduct was in opposition to the law of Masonry, yet he had no faith that it was adopted by many as the rule for their guidance. Not long since one of the Craft was tried in this State for murder. The evidence adduced was such as would authorise conviction, yet the jury failed to agree, nine being in favour of a verdict for murder in the first degree, and three for it in the second degree. Of the nine four were Masons—of the three, two were Masons; and the public generally believed that the disagreement was occasioned by Masonic influence in behalf of the accused, because he was a Mason. If the brothers who adhered to the lesser finding were controlled by the fact simply that the accused was a Mason, then it is hardly necessary to inform you that they failed to do their duty as jurors, and had no precedent for such action in Masonic law.

Masonry acknowledges the supremacy of the government, enforces respect for the civil magistrates, and enjoins upon its followers an obedience to law, to be exemplary in the discharge of civic duties, and to be quiet and peaceable citizens. It does not array itself against law, or seek, however remotely, to shield the guilty from punishment. It has its own trials, and convicts offenders who have been acquitted in civil courts by reason of legal or verbal technicalities; and, while it exercises, as far as practicable, a sympathising equity, it exacts, when the occasion demands, a rigid justice. There is no condonation of crime in Masonry. One is first a citizen, then a Mason. Bad citizens make bad Masons. Good Masons are always good citizens. They recognise their duties to society as paramount, and are aware that the general welfare reaches them as well as others; that, as all is more than a part, their duties as good citizens to the common community are among their primary obligations; and that support to the laws and the punishment of law-breaking is alike expected, irrespective of the professions of the offenders. It is time that less-informed Masons and the non-Masonic community should be told that neither judge nor jury, as Masons, have a right to avert a merited punishment from a guilty Mason, or in any civil procedure to have their verdicts influenced in favour of a party because he is a Mason. This is not Masonry, and if it were, then Masonry would be justly doomed.—Grand Master Browne, of California.

THE PRINCESS ALICE.

(From "England's Royal Home.")

LOVING MINISTRY.

"The following letter (recently found amongst some treasured papers), was written by the Princess Alice in the early part of the year 1861, which ere it closed, was to bring such deep sorrow to the Royal Home. It shows how truly she had already learned the lesson of sympathy which so markedly characterised her after life. Mr. Corbould, to whom the letter was addressed, had the office of drawing master to the Princess, and the loss he had experienced was the death of a daughter. The Princess wrote:—

"Tuesday Morning, May 24th, 1861.

"Dear Mr. Corbould,—Having just heard of your sad bereavement, I cannot refrain from sending you a few lines to tell you how truly I sympathise with and mourn over your loss. Having so lately, for the first time, seen death (the Duchess of Kent died in March) and felt its grief, and the anguish of losing one we love so deeply, so truly. I know what bitter trial you have, and how little words from others can bring comfort to the bleeding heart at such a moment. There is but One who can give you consolation, and we have that blessed hope of meeting again to part no more. She has only left you for a little while, and her gentle spirit watches over you, and waits for you. If the sympathy of one who feels, and that most warmly, for your grief, can bring you the slightest consolation, I do sympathise with all my heart. May God support, strengthen, and comfort you, and your wife and children, under this heavy affliction. This is the fervent prayer of

Mr. Manley Hopkins writes to the Times that the absence of caloric during the past winter has extended to Hawaii (20 deg. N. lat.), where, in January, the mercury touched 50 deg.—a very unusual reading in that latitude. Mr. Edwin Freshfield states that on the 25th of January, after a calm for some days, the Bay of Smyrna was, to the astonishment of the inhabitants, found frozen, the ice extending about 40 yards into the sea. There is no record of such a circumstance ever having occurred before.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—The stomach and its troubles cause more discomfort and bring more unhappiness than is commonly supposed. The bowels should settle there may be prevented or dissolved by the judicious use of these purifying Pills, which act as a sure, gentle anti-acid aperient, without annoying the nerves of the most susceptible or irritating the most delicate organization. Holloway's Pills will bestow comfort, and confer relief on every headache, dyspeptic, and sickly sufferer, whose tortures make him a burden to himself and a bugbear to his friends. These Pills have long been the popular remedy for a weak stomach, for a disordered liver, or a paralyzed digestion, which yield without difficulty to their regulating, purifying, and tonic qualities.—[A.D.]

Masonic and General Tidings.

The Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M., has intimated his intention to appoint Viscount Ebrington, eldest son of Earl Fortescue, to the Provincial Grand Mastership of Devonshire, vacant by the resignation of the Rev. L. Huyshe, of Clyst Hydon. Lord Ebrington is Senior Warden of the Barnstaple Lodge, and is now only 24 years of age. His grandfather, however, was Provincial Grand Master of Devon for 42 years.

The Consecration of the Prince Leopold Lodge of Mark Master Masons will take place at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, on Monday next, the 7th inst. We understand that H.R.H. Prince Leopold has permitted the lodge to use his crest and arms upon the summonses, jewels and lodge banner, and has further conferred upon the lodge the distinguished honour of enrolling his name as its first honorary member. The day fixed for the consecration is the anniversary of the birthday of His Royal Highness.

In our report of the Holmesdale Lodge meeting last week Bro. J. Greig was described as G.M. of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania; it should have been Past D.D.G.M.

Among the forthcoming pictures for the Royal Academy Exhibition will be a powerful work by Keeley Halswelle, A.R.S.A., entitled, "Waiting for the Blessing." The scene represents some groups of Italian peasantry, seated on a wall, under a brilliant sunlight effect, awaiting, with expectant faces, the appearance of Pius IX.

Bro. J. R. Hodgkins, a Past Master of Victoria Lodge, No. 1026 (E.C.), Hong Kong, China, has been visiting in Boston, Mass. Bro. Hodgkins was present in February, 1878, at the opening of the first Hindoo Lodge in Bombay. He also states that the first Parsee was made a Mason in Paris in 1847, and is still living.

MEMORY AND THE FINE ARTS.—Some extremely ingenious applications of the Mnemonic Art have been made by Bro. Stokes for teaching principles of the fine arts, in a little publication, "Stokes's Rapid Drawing," now before us. As its price is but a shilling, we advise all to read it, and we are confident that those who give the book most attention will be most pleased. All that is worth knowing is put into the book. Bro. Stokes is lecturing as usual at the Polytechnic.

The next convocation of the Frederick Chapter of Unity will be held at the Greyhound Hotel, Croydon, on Tuesday next, at 4 p.m., when the election of Principals and Officers for the year will take place.

We are glad to hear that Bro. Thomas, who is as celebrated for his pastry as his "Hots," has taken extensive premises at 167, Fleet-street, where we hope he will be as successful as he is energetic.

Their Royal Highnesses Prince Philip and Princess Louise of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha honoured Messrs. Felton and Sons, in Albemarle-street, on Thursday week, with a visit, and graciously favoured them with commands for the renowned "Specialite" Sherry.

PRESENTATION.—A set of gavel, made of sandal wood from Hawaii, having been presented to the Fortitude Lodge of Instruction, 131, Truro, by its sole honorary member, Bro. J. J. Taylor, W.M., of Penzance, on the eve of his leaving England, at the last lodge meeting, the hearty thanks of the members were voted to him. The gavel, each of which is suitably inscribed, were cut from wood Bro. Taylor obtained for the purpose from the King of Hawaii, David Kalagna, who is himself an enthusiastic member of the Craft.

The third biennial Aldersgate ball, under the patronage of the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs of Middlesex, and a large number of gentlemen of influence and position, will take place at Freemasons' Hall, on Thursday, the 24th inst. The band of the Hon. Artillery Company will attend, and Messrs. A. J. Altman, W. G. Howard, T. Illman, and T. M. Jones will officiate as Masters of the Ceremonies. The proceeds of the ball are to be devoted to one of the Aldersgate Charities.

The Haberdashers' Company have voted £10 10s. in aid of the funds of the Royal Caledonian Asylum, for the Education and Maintenance of the Orphans of Scottish Soldiers, Sailors, and Marines.

At a meeting of the United Wards' Club on Wednesday evening last, at the Salutation Hotel, Newgate-street, Mr. Bonnewell urged the advisability of establishing a fish market at Smithfield.

At the meeting of the Lodge of Antiquity on the 26th ult., Bro. Col. Creaton, Grand Treasurer, was, by the command of Bro. H.R.H. Prince Leopold, P.G.J.W., W.M. 2, presented with an admirable painting, executed by Bro. Stephen Pearce, a member of the lodge. The subject of the picture is Col. Creaton himself, and the portrait is of life-like truth. The presentation was made by Bro. Chas. A. Swinburne, P.M. 2.

A presentation portrait of Bro. Sheriff Burt, painted in his official robes, has just been completed by Mr. J. Edgar Williams. It is said by all who have visited it to be not only a successful likeness, but an admirable specimen of the "art which doth immortalize."

MASONIC SONGS.—A selection of Masonic Songs, set to popular airs, written by Bro. E. P. Philpots, M.D., F.R.G.S., is now ready, forming a handsome volume, bound in cloth, with gilt edges, 3s. Sent post-free from the office of this paper on receipt of stamps or post-office order value 3s. 2d.—Advt.

Bro. Sheriff Burt will preside at the twelfth annual dinner of the City Waiters' Provident and Pension Society, to be held at the Cannon-street Hotel, on Tuesday, the 29th inst.

The Lord Mayor, Bro. Sheriff Burt, and Mr. Sheriff Bevan, have accepted an invitation from the Master and Court of the Tylers and Bricklayers' Company to dine, on Monday, the 21st inst., at the Albion.

The Right Hon. Earl Cairns (the Lord Chancellor) will preside at the 90th anniversary dinner of the Royal Literary Fund, to be held at Willis's Rooms on Wednesday, May 7th.

THE OWL CLUB.—Monday was a "ladies night" at this club, when an excellent concert was given in the great hall of the Cannon-street Hotel. The attendance was good, and the selections gave evident satisfaction. The programme, consisting of glees, part songs, songs, ballads, and pianoforte solos, was rendered by Mr. Burgess Perry, Mr. A. James, Mr. Moss, Mr. Collins, Mr. Thompson, Mr. Musgrave, Mr. Hubbard, and Mr. Harper. Mr. Burgess Perry was much applauded for his song, "Afton Water." Mr. James, with a fine baritone voice, gave, with considerable effect, the ballad, "The Thorn." Mr. Thompson's clear tenor was heard to advantage in several concerted pieces, and especially in his solo, "Just as o' Old." Mr. Hubbard assisted materially with his bold and powerful bass voice. These three gentlemen were undoubtedly the favourites of the evening. The part songs and glees were good; and Mr. Harper's pianoforte solo, comprising selections from Sterndale Bennett and Bach, was executed in artistic style. The club will reassemble early in October. The Secretary is Mr. C. E. Layton.

Sir Wilfred Lawson is to lay the foundation-stone of the Temperance Hospital on the 8th of May. Some twenty M.P.'s have already promised to assist at the ceremony.

Orders have been received from the Admiralty directing the armour-clad ships Nelson and Audacious to be completed, the former by the end of this month, and the latter by the middle of June. The Flying Fish is to be out of hand by the latter end of May.

The Council of the Royal Agricultural Society have added to the other attractions of the Exhibition by taking advantage of the railway embankment in the show-yard and arranging for an international horticultural display of growing plants. A comparative museum of ancient and modern farm implements will enable the visitors to form some idea of the rapid advance made in agricultural machinery during recent years. £13,188 has been allotted in prizes for live stock and produce. The subscriptions received by the Mansion House Committee amount to about £7000, whilst it is anticipated that at least £20,000 will be required to cover the expenses of the Exhibition. At Liverpool, last year, £7500 was raised by the local Committee, and taking into consideration the fact that the Show Yard this year will be fifty per cent, larger than at Liverpool, and that other expenses will be correspondingly large, it is evident that, unless the subscriptions be considerably increased, the Society will suffer seriously in its finances. All donations forwarded to the Mansion House (Agricultural) Committee will be gladly received and duly acknowledged.

The marriage of the Right Honourable Lord Richard d'Aquila Grosvenor, M.P. for Flintshire (only brother of the Duke of Westminster), with Miss Eleanor Frances Beatrice Hamilton Stubber, daughter of the late R. Stubber, Esq., of Moyne, Queen's County, Ireland, was solemnised on Thursday, in All Saints' Church, Ennismore-gardens, Knightsbridge. The Rev. John Blomefield, Vicar of All Saints, performed the ceremony. The wedding was carried out with almost Quaker-like simplicity, the bride being attired in a plain brown dress and bonnet to match. Her only bridesmaid was her sister, Miss Florence Hamilton Stubber, who was similarly attired. The bride's brother, Mr. Robert Hamilton Stubber, gave the bride away. There were scarcely 100 people present, and amongst them were the Duchess of Westminster, Lord Wenlock, Sir Michael Shaw Stewart, &c.

MASONIC PRESENTATION.—On Tuesday, the 1st inst., the W.M. and several members of the York Lodge, 315, waited on Bro. Hugh Saunders, at his Brighton residence, and presented him with an illuminated testimonial. It marked the respect in which Bro. Saunders was held by the brethren, and their great regret at his retirement from the post of Treasurer, after holding office thirty-three years. Bro. C. Hudson, W.M., presented the address in appropriate terms, and his remarks were endorsed by several Past Masters and officers of the York Lodge, who formed the deputation.

OPENING A NEW STREET.—On Saturday last Sir James M'Garel-Hogg, M.P., accompanied by several members of the Metropolitan Board of Works, opened to the public a new street in connection with the Bethnal-green improvements. The street thus thrown open for traffic is 2,000 ft. long and 60 ft. wide, and forms a junction between High-street, Shoreditch, and the wide portion of Bethnal-green-road.

DULWICH COLLEGE.—The annual distribution of prizes to the boys of the Lower School Dulwich, took place last Tuesday in the large hall of the new building. The Rev. W. Rogers, chairman of the governors, presided on the occasion, and the Rev. Mr. Carver, head master of the College, and the Rev. Mr. Smith, head master of the Lower School, delivered addresses.

Bro. Sir John Bennett lectured on "The Paris Exhibition, its Lessons and its Warnings," in the Wardour Chapel, Wardour-street, on Thursday last. Mr. E. F. Storr presided.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

FAITH LODGE (No. 141).—This lodge met at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street, on the 25th ult., when there were present Bros. C. Dairy, W.M.; Rumball, S.W.; Morrison, J.W.; Carter, P.M., Treasurer; Stuart, P.M., Secretary; Mallett, I.P.M.; Clark, I.G.; Titley, W.S.; Hopwood, P.P.G.S.B. of Middlesex, P.M.; Green, P.M.; Davis, P.M.; Cobham, P.M.; T. C. Walls, P.P.G.O. of Middlesex (Freemason). The visitors were Bros. A. Cameron, P.M. 180; W. Stephens, W.M. Unity; A. H. Coleman, W.M. St. John's, Wapping; J. Endicott, 147; C. E. Gobby, 1599; W. Vincent, S.W. 1624. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, the W.M. raised Bros. Bendall and Lloyd, passed Bro. Whadcoat, and initiated Mr. Henry Hart, the ceremonies being well performed. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to an excellent banquet. Upon the removal of the cloth the preliminary Royal and Craft toasts were done full justice to. "The Health of the W.M." was proposed in very flattering terms by the I.P.M. The W.M., in reply, thanked Bro. Mallett for the very handsome manner in which he had proposed his health. In alluding to the encomiums passed upon him by the I.P.M., he said that he had simply done his duty as W.M. of the Lodge of Faith, and if he had given them satisfaction he felt amply repaid. If any action of his, however, had given offence to any individual member, he felt sorry, because what he had done had been carried out for the good of the lodge. In conclusion he said that he hoped to be spared many years to come among them as a Past Master, and he thanked them all very heartily for the very many acts of kindness that he had received at their hands. "The Initiate" followed, and was modestly acknowledged by Bro. Hart. In giving "The Visitors," the W.M. expressed his gratification at seeing so many distinguished Masons present, and he hoped that their visit had been in every way satisfactory to them. If there had been any shortcomings that evening in the "working" of the ceremonies, he trusted that their visiting brethren would kindly excuse them. Bro. Cameron, in reply, said he felt extremely gratified with his reception. He had been many years connected with their W.M., Bro. Dairy, and he congratulated him upon the great honour he had attained in being elected to fill the chair of so old and popular a lodge as 141 undoubtedly was. Bro. Stephens in the course of his response said that it was not the first time that he had had the pleasure of visiting the Lodge of Faith, and of giving his humble meed of praise in honour of its "working" and hospitality. He congratulated them upon possessing a W.M. who was thoroughly imbued with the true principles of Freemasonry. He, their W.M., had been a regular attendant at lodges of instruction, and had endeavoured in every way to render himself worthy of the great honour that had awaited him in his mother lodge. In conclusion he complimented the lodge upon the very handsome amount their W.M. had taken up to the recent festival in connection with the R.M.B.I. (Hear.) The remaining toasts were "The Past Masters," "The Treasurer and Secretary," and "The Officers." In the intervals several brethren musically entertained the lodge. The proceedings, which were throughout thoroughly enjoyable, terminated at eleven with the Tyler's toast.

ROYAL KENSINGTON LODGE (No. 1627). This prosperous lodge held its last meeting for the season on Friday, the 4th inst., at Freemasons' Hall. Present: Bros. W. E. Gordon Leith, W.M.; B. F. Cramer, S.W.; C. E. Sappet, I.P.M., as J.W.; Hyde Pullen, Treasurer; D. M. Dewar, Secretary; George Matthews, S.D.; J. B.

Stevens, J.D.; Jos. Steele, I.G.; J. Percy Leith, P.G.D.; Eugène Delacoste, W. L. Harvey, G. W. Tustin, J. B. Ball, G. T. Robinson, Chas. Waters, and R. Potter, Tyler. Visitors: F. Curlier, 11; D. Nicols, 12; E. E. B. Kidder, 12; H. C. Barker, 29; John Welch, 3; and F. Darnoisean, 1017. After the minutes of last meeting had been read and confirmed, Mr. Gustave Masson was balloted for, unanimously elected, and initiated into Masonry. The lodge voted £5 5s. (afterwards increased to £6 17s.) from the alms fund on account of the Secretary's list as Steward for the Boys' School Festival, and after the transaction of some other business the lodge was closed, and adjourned to an elegant banquet, served in Bro. Best's most superior manner.

BATH.—Royal Cumberland Lodge (No. 41).—At the monthly meeting held at the Masonic Hall on Thursday, the 3rd inst., the lodge was opened at a quarter to eight by Bro. Braham, W.M., supported by the following officers: Bros. F. Wilkinson, I.P.M.; Dr. Hopkins, P.M., &c. S.W.; Hunt, J.W.; Ashley, P.M., Treas.; T. Wilton, P.M., Dir. of Cir.; Radway, Sec.; Cater, S.D.; Mercer, J.D.; Holmes, I.G.; Ames and Peach, Stewards; Bigwood, Tyler. The Past Masters present were Bros. Rubie, Moutrie, and Brown, P.P.G.S.W. The minutes having been read and confirmed, the Treasurer read his report, as audited by the Committee, which was passed. At this stage of the proceedings it was announced that the W.M. and some members of the Royal Sussex Lodge, as well as others, sought admission, when by request of the W.M. the Dir. of Ceremonies received them at the porch and conducted them to their seats. Among them were Bros. C. Collins, W.M. 53; Col. England, S.W. 53; Sumsion, 53, and P.M. 335; Gen. Doherty, P.P.G.S.W., and P.M. 53 and 906; W. Smith, P.M. 53; Timmins, 53; W. F. Collins, 53; G. Bush, Org. 53; Vowles, W.M. 446; Innes, W.M. 639. Bro. Charbury was examined, entrusted and dismissed for preparation. The lodge was opened in the Second Degree, after which the candidate was re-admitted and duly passed to the rank of F.C. by the W.M. Bro. Mercer explained the working tools, and Bro. Dr. Hopkins gave the charge and also the lecture on the Tracing Board. The lodge was closed in the Second Degree. The W.M. proposed that a very aged Mason, Bro. Marsh, who was initiated in this lodge in 1819, subsequently filled the chair of W.M., and has had an active Masonic career of 60 years, be elected an honorary member. This was seconded by the I.P.M. and carried. At the request of the W.M. the S.W. then read a paper which he had prepared, giving some curious statistics and details, suggested by perusal of an old Masonic book in his possession, specially in connection with Freemasonry in Bath, drawing comparisons on some points between the two periods, making several suggestions based on his own experience of more than 30 years, lamenting the present apathy in regard to Masonic literature in the city, and the limited use made of the library, for which he accounted to some extent by the want of a resident curator and a reading room. The S.W. also mentioned that he had prepared for publication a series of large Masonic charts, which had been photographed, and that he hoped to raise a considerable sum for the Charities by the sale thereof. These he had been kindly permitted to dedicate to the W.M. Pro. Grand Master, and to the R.W. Prov. Grand Masters of Warwickshire and Devonshire. A vote of thanks to the visitors terminated the proceedings, and the lodge was closed at 9.30.

MIDDLETON.—Imperial George Lodge (No. 78).—The regular monthly meeting of this old and prosperous lodge was held on Thursday, March 27th, at the Asheton Arms Hotel. There was a fair attendance of members. The W.M., Bro. F. Fothergill, presided, and there were also present Bros. Hatton, S.W.; P. Lawton, J.W.; J. Reed, Sec.; H. Heywood, P.M., Treas.; E. Dodd, S.D.; W. Clarke, J.D.; S. Hewitt, Org.; and J. Kent, Tyler. The lodge having been opened with solemn prayer, the minutes of the last meeting were read by the Secretary (Bro. Reid), and received confirmation. Mr. James John Dunbabin was proposed as a candidate, and the ballot being unanimous in his favour, he was accordingly initiated into the mysteries and privileges of Ancient Freemasonry by the W.M., Bro. F. Fothergill, who likewise presented the working tools, and delivered the address. The ceremony throughout was very impressive. Hearty good wishes were accorded by a visiting brother, and charity having been attended to, the lodge was closed in due form and with solemn prayer. The brethren adjourned to the festive board, and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and duly honoured. The Tyler's toast brought an agreeable evening to a close.

MANCHESTER.—Lodge of Affability (No. 317).—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge took place at the Freemasons' Hall, Cooper-street, on Thursday, the 3rd inst. The following officers and brethren were present: Bros. J. R. Lever, W.M.; D. Donbavand, I.P.M.; Mark Vickers, S.W.; W. Nicholl, J.W.; J. Smethurst, P.M., Treas.; J. Dawson, P.M., Registrar; J. Church, Secretary; J. Bladon, P.M., D.C.; R. Tomlins, S.D.; E. J. Cohen, I.G.; J. Wilson, Steward; S. Titmas, P.M.; H. Walmsley, L. Oppenheimer De Yongh, and R. R. Lesenden (Freemason). Visitors: R. Dottie, S.D. 1161; S. H. Ormerod, J.W. 1011; J. H. Greenwood, 163; W. Pettite, 581; and Matthew Owen, 163. The lodge was opened in ancient form, and the minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed, as well as the emergency meeting, held March 12th, and of which a report was given in these columns. Bro. John Whitfield Edwards being a candidate for raising was interrogated by the W.M., and having answered the questions in a very satisfactory manner, withdrew. On his re-admission he was raised to the Sublime Degree of a W.M., the ceremony being performed by Bro. D. Donbavand, I.P.M., in a truly impressive and faultless manner. Bro. Donbavand also presented the working tools, and Bro. J. Dawson delivered the charge, after which the W.M. assumed the duties of the chair, and by authority declared the M.M. Lodge was closed, and left open in Second Degree, which was also closed, and left open in the First Degree. The W.M. then informed the brethren of some particulars concerning the grant of £20 made by the Board of Benevolence to a member of the lodge, who had for some time past been in very needy and unfortunate circumstances. It appeared that a petition was signed by members of the lodge praying the Board to grant a sum of money for this brother's relief. The petition was favourably answered, and the sum of £20 voted. Bro. John Hervey, the Grand Secretary, thereupon wrote to the W.M., informing him what had been done for their brother, and enclosed £5 for his immediate want, the remainder to follow. "Hearty good wishes" having been expressed by the visiting brethren, the lodge was closed in due form. The brethren afterwards assembled at the refreshment board, when the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and responded to. "The Health of the newly-raised Bro. Edwards" was proposed and drank with enthusiasm, and acknowledged by him in a few well-chosen words. The W.M., in proposing "The Health of the Visitors," said it was always a source of pride to him, and he was sure also to all the members of the Affability Lodge, to see visitors amongst them, and on this occasion he felt not only proud, but grateful to them for coming, on account of there being so few of their own members present. As he was well acquainted with the vocal and instrumental abilities of some of the visitors, he would ask them in place of the usual response to their healths to sing a song, and he would, therefore, call upon Bro. Ormerod to favour them. Bro. Ormerod, who was suffering from a cold, excused himself from singing, but gave a reading from Hans Breitman, in a very humorous manner, after which Bro. Dottie, who has gained great renown for his elocutionary power, recited a Lancashire story, which very much amused the brethren by the drollery of the incidents in it, and the comical utterances of the Lancashire dialect by Bro. Dottie. Bro. Pettite next sang the "Armourer," with great feeling, and was accompanied on the piano by Bro. J. H. Greenwood. This last gentleman gave, in masterly style, Sullivan's "From Rock to Rock," and accompanied himself, both singing and playing being effective. With a recitation by Bro. Donbavand, entitled "Little Jem," given in his usual masterly style, a most agreeable meeting was brought to a close.

MOTTRAM.—Loyalty Lodge (No. 320).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Wednesday evening, the 2nd inst., the following officers being present: Bros. Wm. Hadfield, W.M.; Wm. Hanson, I.P.M.; Hugh Kinder, S.W.; Harrison, P.M., acting S.W., Treasurer; J. Ashton, P.M.; Rollinson, S.D.; Wardle, J.D.; Woodhouse, Sec.; Birch, I.G.; and Collier, P.M., Tyler. A goodly number of brethren were also in attendance, as were also several visiting brethren from Lodge Industry, 361. The lodge was opened in due form, with solemn prayer, at 6.30. The minutes of the last meeting having been read and confirmed, the ballot was taken for Mr. Thomas Smith, and he was unanimously elected. Mr. Smith was initiated by the W.M. in a very able and impressive manner. Bro. Saxon then showed his proficiency, and retired. The lodge was then opened in the Second Degree, and Bro. Saxon was passed to the degree of a F.C. by the W.M. Hearty good wishes were expressed by the visitors, and the lodge was closed in peace and harmony. The rest of the evening was spent in the usual Masonic manner at the festive board, and a most pleasant reunion was brought to a conclusion a little before 11 o'clock.

SYDENHAM.—Crystal Palace Lodge (No. 742).—At the meeting of this lodge, held at the Crystal Palace on the 3rd inst., Bro. C. D. Hume, W.M. presiding, the usual routine business was followed by the election of W.M., Treasurer, and Tyler for the ensuing year, Bro. H. Speedy, being elected W.M.; Bro. Foxall, Treasurer; and Bro. Woodstock, Tyler. The Audit and Benevolent Fund Committees having been appointed, several propositions were received for the installation meeting in June next, and the lodge adjourned. The banquet which followed fully sustained the reputation of the caterers, Bros. Bertram and Roberts, and a most enjoyable evening was spent, concluding with a hearty recognition of the arrangements made by them for the comfort of the lodge. Amongst those present were Bros. H. Speedy, S.W.; Dick Radclyffe, J.W.; T. Foxall, P.M., Treas.; Wm. Land, P.M., Sec.; Blundell, S.D.; Frederick Orme, J.D.; Eyre, I.G.; Lassam, W.S.; Cole, D.C.; Roberts, I.P.M.; Ayres, S. P. Acton, P.M.; Baxter, P.M.; Blott, Blunson, H. Cox, P.M.; Graddon, Hazelmann, Pullen, F. Speedy, H. T. Thompson, P.M.; G. Weeks, P.M.; and others. Visitors: Bros. R. B. Newsom, P.P.G.S.B. Kent; C. Eaton, 1692; H. W. Chappell, 1553; C. W. Fox, P.M. 1326; J. B. Walter, and others.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.—Prilory Lodge (No. 1000).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Middleton Hotel, on Thursday, the 3rd inst. The W.M., Bro. J. C. Johnstone, P.M. 20, Sligo (I.C.), presided, and there were also present Bros. G. F. Jones, S.W.; G. Berry, J.W.; Rev. H. J. Hatch, P.M. 160, P.P.G.C., Chap.; J. A. Wardell, P.M. 160 and 1000, M.E.Z. 1000, P.P.G.D., Sec.; T. F. Barrett, S.D.; W. D. Merritt, J.D.; F. D. Grayson, I.G.; A. Martin, Tyler; A. Lucking, P.M. 160 and 1000, P.Z. 1000, Prov. G.D.C.; E. E. Phillips, P.M. and P.Z. 379 and 1000, P.P.G.D.; H. Rowley, P.M., P.P.G.D.; J. R. Herman, P.M., P.P.G.D.; S. McCall

Walker, F. Howell, W. Griffin, C. Pooley, W. Wallis, G. Glasscock, H. Beecher, W. Poplewell, W. Waterhouse, G. R. Dawson. Visitors: Bros. J. M. Farr, 1536; E. Rowley, P.M. 879; and A. R. Foster, 1679. After the usual routine business, the ballot having proved unanimous in his favour, the W.M., in a very able manner, initiated Mr. N. Millar into the mysteries of Freemasonry, and afterwards delivered the charge and the Lecture on the Tracing Board. After the lodge was closed, the brethren adjourned to refreshment, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and the Tyler's toast concluded the proceedings.

CARLISLE.—Bective Lodge (No. 1532).—The installation festival of this lodge was held in their rooms, English-street, Carlisle, on Wednesday, the 2nd inst. Amongst the members present were Bros. G. Noakes, 34th Regt., W.M., P.G.A.D.C.; G. Potter, P.M., P.G. Steward; G. Hetherington, Treas.; J. Cook, P.M. and Sec., P.P.G.J.D.; Jas. Haswell, J.W., W.M. elect; F. Allen, J. Ewing, T. L. Thorpe, G. Oliver, J. Mason, W. Carrick, G. Thorpe, J. Relph, R. Atkinson, and others. The visitors were Bros. W. B. Gibson, P.M. 119, P.G. Sec; G. W. Kenworthy, P.M. 119, P.G. Treas.; J. A. Wheatley, P.M. 310, P.P.J.G.W.; J. Banning, P.M. 310, P.P.G. Org.; W. F. Lamonty, P.M. 1002, P.P.G. Reg. (Freemason), and others. The Installing Master was Bro. W. B. Gibson, and the addresses were delivered by Bro. Kenworthy. The following were invested officers for the year: Bros. F. Allen, S.W.; J. Ewing, J.W.; Rev. J. Tyson, Chaplain (re-appointed); G. Hetherington, Treas. (re-elected); J. Cook, P.M., Sec. (re-appointed); T. L. Thorpe, S.D.; G. Oliver, J.D.; R. Atkinson, I.G. The lodge being closed, the brethren adjourned to the County Hotel, at 6.30 p.m., for banquet, which was served up in a most superb style. Bro. Haswell, W.M., presided, faced by his Wardens, and supported by all the Past Masters present. A very pleasant evening was spent, and in the course of the proceedings Bro. Noakes, P.M., was presented with a handsome gold Past Master's jewel, as a token of the very able manner in which he had performed the work of Bective Lodge during his year of office. Bro. Noakes, in reply, spoke of the many happy hours he had spent in Bective Lodge during the few years he had been stationed at the Carlisle garrison, and, though he was leaving the border city, he should make a point of visiting his old lodge now and again. Bro. Noakes, it may be mentioned, has been appointed Acting Conductor in the Commissariat and Transport Department of the War Office, and his new station is Glasgow.

GREAT STANMORE.—Abercorn Lodge (No. 1549).—The first regular meeting of the season was held at the Abercorn Hotel on the 2nd inst.; the W.M., Bro. G. Tidcombe, ably supported by his officers, and assisted by Bros. Helsdon, P.M.; Vincent, I.P.M.; Garrod, P.M., and several brethren. Visitors: Bros. Holah, G.M.L., 1; Denison, 1541; Cecil Austin, 811; Greenwood, 100. The lodge was opened by the W.M. in the First Degree at 3.40, and the minutes of last regular meeting, of October, 1878, were read and confirmed. The lodge was opened in the Second Degree, and Bro. Paten was examined and approved, prior to raising. The lodge was opened in the Third Degree, and Bro. Paten was raised by the W.M. to the Sublime Degree of M.M. On resuming to the First Degree, the W.M. feelingly alluded to the first loss the lodge had sustained by the death of their respected brother, T. Peach, and a letter of condolence to the widow was voted unanimously. The ballot was then taken for Bro. John Welford, as a joining member, and found unanimous in his favour. Bro. John Clark tendered his resignation, which was accepted with regret. The W.M. then announced his intention to represent the lodge as Steward for the Girls' School, and received the thanks of the lodge, with many promises of support. "Hearty Good Wishes" having been expressed by all the visiting brethren, and four candidates for initiation, and one joining member for next meeting in May, the lodge closed in peace and harmony at 5.40. The customary banquet followed, with the usual Masonic toasts ably given and received—the musical brethren were also equal to their duties; and the meeting closed satisfactorily at 9 p.m.

STAINES.—Musgrave Lodge (No. 1597).—A regular meeting of the above lodge was held at the Angel and Crown Hotel, on Saturday, the 15th ult. Present: Bros. J. Wilson, E. Amphlett, G. H. Edmunds, A. S. Paterson, G. P. Gillard, H. F. Bing, Alex. Paterson, W. Cock, F. G. Hubbard, R. L. Sindall, R. G. Jewell, Col. Francis Burdett, P.G.M., and several visiting brethren. In the unavoidable absence of Bro. Keily, P.G.T. Middx., the W.M., Bro. J. Wilson, took the chair, and installed the W.M. elect, Bro. E. Amphlett, as W.M. for the ensuing year. Bro. Amphlett, W.M., then appointed and invested his officers. It was proposed, seconded, and carried unanimously that the Secretary convey to Bro. Keily the thanks of the brethren for the way he presided over them for the past year, and that a bar be presented to him to be added to the jewel that was voted to him on the completion of his first year as W.M. of this lodge. A vote of thanks having been given to Bro. Wilson for the admirable way in which he had conducted the ceremony of installation, the lodge was closed, and the brethren partook of an excellent dinner provided by Bro. Jewell, and returned to town at an early hour.

ALFORD.—Hamilton Lodge (No. 1600).—The installation of the W.M. and festival of St. John was celebrated on the 31st ult. The hour of opening the lodge was fixed at half-past three in the afternoon, in order to accommodate brethren and visitors travelling by railway. Lodge was opened in due form, all the officers being in their places. The minutes of the previous lodge were read and received unanimous confirmation. The Deputy Provincial Grand Master of this province (Lincolnshire), W. Bro. E. Locock, and several Provincial Grand Officers being announced, were received with the usual honours. Bros. W. Budbent, C. Robinson, T. Needham, and F. Needham signed and received their Grand Lodge certificates. The W.M. elect, Bro. Thos. Cartwright Johnson, S.W., was now presented by the two first W.M.'s of the Hamilton Lodge (Bros. C. Smyth and R. Garfit) for installation, and the W.M., Bro. F. Higgins, passed him through the first stages of the ceremony. Upon the opening of the Board of Installed Masters, Bro. C. Smyth continued the ceremony, and installed Bro. Johnson into the chair of K.S. according to ancient custom. The beautiful ceremony of installation was completed by Bro. Smyth in a manner which subsequently earned for him a hearty vote of thanks. Bro. R. Garfit acted as D.C., Bro. F. Higgins was invested I.P.M.; and the following officers were appointed and duly invested, viz: Bros. the Rev. B. A. Galland, P.P.G.S.B. Oxon, P.M. 1067, S.W.; E. A. Young, J.W.; F. Higgins, P.M., Treasurer; Chas. Smyth, P.P.G. Purst., P.M., Secretary; R. Garfit, P.P.G. St., P.M., D.C.; Dr. F. A. Handsley, S.D.; Dr. G. Bosson, J.D.; J. E. Mason, I.G.; W. N. Mason and C. Mason, Stwds.; R. P. Hodgson, Tyler. The visiting brethren were W. Bro. E. Locock, D.P.G.M.; F. D. Marsden, P.M. 712, P.G. Secretary; the Rev. G. Lowe, W.M. 272, P.G. Chap.; James Robinson, P.M. 792, P.P.G.D.; A. Bates, P.M. 792, P.P.G.D.; John Mawer, W.M. 712; Wm. Griffin, P.M. 712, P.P.G.D.C. Letters expressing regret at not being able to be present had been received from W. Bro. W. H. Smyth, Grand Master of Lincolnshire (a member of this lodge), and other distinguished brethren. A vote of thanks was accorded to the retiring W.M., Bro. F. Higgins, for the zealous and assiduous discharge of the duties of the office of W.M. during the past year, in which he has been punctually and effectively assisted by all the officers and brethren. Hearty congratulations were offered to the newly installed W.M. from the Provincial Grand Lodges of Oxfordshire and Lincolnshire, and from Lodges Apollo, 357 (Oxford); Harmony, 272 (Boston); Hundred of Elloe, 469 (Spalding); Lindsey, 712 (Louth); Pelham Pillar, 792 (Grimsby); St. Albans, 1294 (Grimsby). The honour of a visit from the Deputy Provincial Grand Master was referred to by Bro. C. Smyth, much regretting their honoured chief the Provincial Grand Master was away from home and not able to be with them. The W.M. in a few well chosen sentences conveyed the thanks of the lodge to Bro. Locock, who in reply stated he was exceedingly gratified with the hearty welcome accorded him; it was a pleasure to visit lodges of the calibre and standing of the Hamilton, and the skilful manner in which the work had that day been done, reflected infinite credit upon the lodge. The lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to the White Horse Hotel, where an excellent banquet was served by Mr. Hibbitt. The usual Masonic toasts were given and responded to.

Royal Arch.

DOMATIC CHAPTER (No. 177).—The installation meeting of this prosperous chapter was held at Anderton's Hotel, on the 27th ult., when there were present Comps. Weaver, M.E.Z.; Hill, H.; Adams, P.Z., acting J.; Cottebrune, P.Z., S.E.; Buss, P.Z., Treas.; Lawrence, S.N.; Briggs, 1st Asst. S.; Cubitt, P.Z.; Foulger, P.Z.; Bolton, P.Z.; G. Everett, M.E.Z. 1381, H. elect. The visitors were Comps. Lockhart, Union; J. Michael, 829; T. C. Walls, J. elect 185 (Freemason). The minutes of the previous convocation having been read and confirmed, Bro. Noton, Acacia, was ably exalted to the R.A. Degree by the M.E.Z., with the assistance of his very efficient staff of officers. The ceremony of installing the Principals was then proceeded with, the "work" being carried out by the veteran Comp. T. Adams. The officers invested were as follows: Comps. Everett, H.; Lawrence, J.; Buss, Treas.; Cottebrune, S.E.; Briggs, P.S.; Maclean and Jones, Assistants. The convocation was then closed, and the companions adjourned to the banquet. Upon the removal of the cloth, the customary and preliminary Royal Arch toasts were quickly given and duly responded to. "The Health of the M.E.Z." was proposed in very flattering terms by the I.P.Z., and having been received with excellent "fire," the M.E.Z. responded in fitting terms. "The Exaltée" came next in order, and, having been duly drunk, Comp. Noton briefly replied. In giving "The Past Principals," the M.E.Z. dwelt at length upon the merits of each. In concluding his remarks, he touched upon the services and abilities of the I.P.Z., and presented him with the jewel which had been unanimously voted to him at the last convocation. Comp. Weaver, in reply, ably expressed his gratification for the kind manner in which the M.E.Z. had proposed his health, and in the course of his speech he said he should prize the jewel which they had awarded him most highly. In conclusion, he said he particularly desired to impress upon the minds of the young officers of the chapter, who were advancing to the high and honourable position which he had just quitted, the urgent necessity of being punctual in their attendance and zealous in the discharge of their duties. "The Second and Third Principals" followed. In pre-facing this toast, the M.E.Z. spoke highly of the qualities of Comps. Everett and Lawrence, who had been inducted to those responsible positions that evening. He felt confident that he should receive their hearty support and co-operation during his year of office, and, as the Third Principal had been compelled to leave early in the evening, he should call upon Comp. Everett to respond for himself and colleague. The Second Principal, in reply, having kindly and favourably reviewed the services of Comp. Lawrence to the Domatic Chapter, briefly said, upon his own behalf, that, owing to very fortuitous circumstances, and over which he had no control, he found himself occupying the proud position of Second Principal of their old and deservedly popular chapter. As he held the positions of P.M. and Treasurer of the mother lodge, it was a very gratifying thing indeed to be on the road to the First Principal's chair in the chapter. As one of the oldest members of the former, he looked back with pride to the twenty-one years of his Masonic association with No. 177. In concluding his remarks, he said that, although at the risk of being thought egotistical, he would say that whatever position in Freemasonry he had held he had striven hard to conscientiously perform its responsibilities, and he believed that he had succeeded in pleasing those who had elected or appointed him to office. The companions of the chapter, therefore, might depend upon him to further their interests in every possible way. "The Treasurer and S.E." followed, and having been enthusiastically received, Comps. Buss and Cottebrune duly responded. "The Visitors" was acknowledged by Comps. Lockhart, Michael, and Walls. "The Officers" and "The Janitors" terminated the proceedings.

HONITON.—Fortescue Chapter (No. 847).—The annual installation festival of this chapter was held in the Masonic Hall on Wednesday, the 19th ult., when there was a good attendance of the companions and visitors from the neighbouring chapters. Amongst others present were V. Ex. Comps. Keyworth, P.P.G.J.; Stone, Bruyn, Prov. G.P.S.; Maynard, P.P.G.D.C.; Woodgates, P.P.G.R.; Bishop, P.P.G.S.B.; and Haynes, Prov. G.A.S. The ceremony of installing Ex. Comp. J. Albert Orchard, as Z., and Ex. Comp. Barker, as H., was most beautifully performed by V. Ex. Comp. Keyworth. Comp. Read's absence, through ill-health, prevented the performance of the ceremony of installing him as J. The following companions were invested as officers of the chapter for the ensuing year:—Comps. Swann, S.E.; Thornton, S.N.; Ackland, P.S.; Ward, 1st Asst. S.; Gray, 2nd Asst. S.; Sutton, Treas.; Burrows, Reg.; Wilton, Standard Bearer; V. Ex. Comp. Woodgates, P.P.G.R., Org.; Comp. Goleworthy, Janitor. After the installation an exaltation took place, when V. Ex. Comps. Bruyn and Maynard rendered various portions of the ceremony in an able and impressive manner.

YORK.—Eboracum Conclave (No. 37).—On Thursday, 3rd ult., the annual installation ceremonies of this conclave were held. In the absence of the M.P.S., Sir Knt. Thos. Cooper, who is labouring under severe illness, the ceremonies were performed by Ill. Sir Knt. T. B. Whythead, P.S., Int. Gen. unattached. The following is the list of officers for the year: Sir Knts. Earl of Zetland, Grand Viceroy of England, M.P.S.; J. S. Cumberland, V.E.; C. G. Padel, S.G.; G. Simpson, J.G.; L. Murphy, H.P.; A. T. Turner, R.; M. Millington, Prefect; T. Humphries, S.B.; W. P. Husband, Herald; H. Jackson, Sentinel.

Rosicrucian Society.

METROPOLITAN COLLEGE.—The quarterly convocation of this college was held at Freemasons' Tavern, on Thursday, the 3rd inst. Present: Fraters Stanton Jones, T. W. White, Cubitt, Weaver, Dewar, Foulger, Thiellay, Levander, Massa, Peck, Rosenthal, Dr. Woodman, George Kenning, and others. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Henry Reed, P.M. 733, was admitted to the grade of Zelator.

Royal and Select Masters.

A meeting of the members of the Grand Masters' Council, No. 1, of the Degree of Royal and Select Master, was held at 2, Red Lion-square, on Wednesday, the 2nd inst., Bro. T. C. Walls, very ably filled the chair of Dep. M., assisted by Bros. Poore, Cooyer Smith, and Donald M. Dewar. There was a good attendance, and, after the usual business, the following candidates were duly admitted: Bros. W. Klingenstein, Mark Lodge, No. 2; George Kenning, St. Mark's Lodge, No. 1; W. Hickman, St. Andrew's Mark Lodge, No. 63; Fentham Hedges Weir, University Mark Lodge, No. 55, and other brethren.

We understand it is contemplated to establish a Masonic Club of the highest class in the neighbourhood of Pall Mall. Many distinguished Masons have already signified their approval of the scheme, and we look forward to the head of the Craft giving it his valuable support. Brethren desirous of obtaining further information should apply to Bro. Stephens, 8, Carlton Chambers, Waterloo-place, S.W.

The Earl of Hardwicke has met with another serious accident in the hunting field. He was with the Royal Buckhounds, and was thrown heavily while his horse was leaping a stile. No bones were broken, but it is feared his spine is injured. He was removed by special train to London.

The Consecration of Trinity College Lodge of Mark Master Masons, No. 244, will take place at Trinity College, on Tuesday, the 22nd inst., at 4.30 p.m. The ceremony will be performed by Col. F. Burdett, 32, assisted by Bro. W. G. Brighton, and other Grand Officers.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF WEST YORKSHIRE.

Under the banner of the Lodge of Harmony, 275, the annual meeting of West Yorkshire Provincial Grand Lodge took place on the 2nd inst. in the Masonic Hall, South-parade, Huddersfield, under the presidency of the Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Master (Sir Henry Edwards), assisted by Deputy Prov. Grand Master Bro. Tew, and a large array of Prov. Grand Officers. Only six lodges out of sixty-six in the province were unrepresented, the attendance numbering about 250.

The customary salutations having been tendered to the Prov. Grand Master and his Deputy, Bro. Tew, the following brethren were appointed as officers:—

- Bro. R. I. Critchley, 208 Prov. S.G.W.
- " B. Broughton, 302 Prov. J.G.W.
- " Rev. B. Towns Prov. G. Chap.
- " Rev. J. Room Prov. G. Chap.
- " C. L. Mason, 304 Prov. G. Treas.
- " D. Allison Shaw, 837 Prov. G. Reg.
- " H. Smith, 387 Prov. G. Sec.
- " John Fawcett, 904 Prov. S.G.D.
- " G. F. Crowe, 1211 Prov. J.G.D.
- " Pratt, 1034 Prov. G.S. of W.
- " J. Beedle, 1042 Prov. G.D. of C.
- " J. Edwards, 296 Prov. G.D. of C.
- " W. W. MacVay, 154 Prov. G. Swd. B.
- " S. Suckley Prov. G. Org.
- " P. Parker, 264 Prov. G. Purst.
- " Thos. Knowles, 308 Prov. G.A. Purst.
- Bros. Dr. Paley, 837; S. Slack, 910; J. Menzies, 61; J. Sykes, 1514; C. E. Freeman, 275; and W. Harrop, 290 } Prov. G. Stewards.
- Bro. J. Lee, 290 Prov. G. Tyler.
- " J. Sheard, 208 Prov. G.A. Tyler.

Sir Henry Edwards, Bart., Prov. Grand Master, said—Brethren of the Province of West Yorkshire, it gives me much pleasure to greet you here to-day, for I feel that the progress of your Masonic Institutions has been one of success, and especially since this lodge was first opened in 1789, and of prosperity since its warrant was renewed in 1839. We cannot, therefore, but feel gratified that the Craft has been once more invited by the Lodge of Harmony, No. 275, to hold the annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge under its banner in Huddersfield, a lodge in which the late Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Bentley Shaw, exerted his benign influence for very many years in the cause of Freemasonry. When last I occupied this chair in this hall, it was for a few brief moments, on the occasion of the assembly of the brethren to render a tribute of respect to the memory of a virtuous brother and excellent Mason, and to pay our last homage to departed worth. No one who looks around this hall can fail to be struck with the portraits of many administrators in the Craft in this province, and how well you have invoked the painter's skill to adorn your walls with the likenesses of the rulers and governors of our Order. Let us imitate their virtues, and follow in their footsteps, and practise the lofty principles of these builders and founders of our Institutions, whose resemblances you have been pleased to perpetuate with such fidelity. Moreover, when I examine the roll of this lodge, I find the names of a large number of Past Masters, the majority of whom have been thought worthy at various times to hold different offices in this Provincial Grand Lodge. No brother who reads the names of those who form your list of Past Masters, no one who noted the record of their services, can doubt that the Masonic work they have accomplished has been done for this lodge under the most able guidance, and has been of a thoroughly solid and satisfactory character. Your present Worshipful Master, Bro. W. C. Keighley, can look back upon a brilliant set of Masonic occupants of the chair which he himself, I am well assured, fills in an accomplished manner; and his warm heart, which at Barnsley prompted this invitation, will, I am sure, reflect with genial influence beneficially over every action of this lodge, whose charity, harmony, and prosperity will always be deeply interesting to me and to the members of this Provincial Grand Lodge. The latest illustration of your principles is the generous contribution of nearly £90 to the "Bentley Shaw Memorial Fund Prosecution," and £50 to the "Aged Freemasons' and Widows' Annuity Fund;" and further, the Worshipful Master has set a good example by making himself a Steward at the annual festival of the Boys' and Girls' Institutions, accompanied by a donation to each of these Masonic schools. This Lodge of Harmony is, as it were, the centre of a Masonic system. Where we meet to-day we are surrounded by other lodges of planetary brilliancy. There is a lodge, No. 290, with ninety-four members; No. 521, with 100 members; No. 1514, with seventeen members; No. 652, with twenty members; No. 140, with thirty-five members; No. 1783, with fourteen members; and this centre lodge itself, No. 275, with ninety-seven subscribing members. Thus we see with what success Freemasonry has ramified and increased until this part of West Yorkshire is covered with Masonic institutions, after the same pattern as our central institution, the Grand Lodge of England; and the importance which is represented by the brethren and friends I see gathered around me; and by the lists of the lodges, which testify to the number of novitiates who, under your auspices, are entering Freemasonry and the world of geometric science and of moral culture. Since we met under the Friendly Lodge, I and my Deputy, Bro. Tew, attended the festival on the 12th February of the Aged Freemasons and Widows, in the Freemasons' Hall. We supported our gallant friend and neighbour the Provincial Grand Master of East Lancashire, when the largest sum collected within those walls was announced; and, in consequence, at the meeting of the Committee of this Institution the following day, it gave my Deputy and our Secretary, who were present, the satisfaction to acquaint me that the number of vacancies for widows was increased from six to sixteen. (Applause.) As the Chairman of our charity will shortly inform us, this province has one widow and two aged men candidates for our sympathies. This augmentation of admission will give our voting power and our efforts a far higher prospect of success for these worthy but unfortunate claimants on our benevolence. Our Chairman and Vice-Chairman have laboured earnestly for us, and will do their best at the elections. We hope their efforts will be rewarded with success. When we last assembled at Barnsley we offered our sympathies to Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen on the death of her daughter Her Royal Highness the Princess Alice. To day it is our duty to express our felicitations towards the same Royal lady on her acquisition of a Royal daughter-in-law. His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, who, on the day of the installation of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales as Grand Master of England, was described by our Royal Grand Master as the youngest Entered Apprentice in the Craft, has been united in marriage to the Princess Louise Margaret Alexandra Victoria Agnes of Prussia. We offer the congratulations of the Craft in this province, not only to Her Majesty, the Patroness of our Order, but also to the newly-wedded Royal couple. May this bride and bridegroom realise the heartfelt aspirations of the Craft that there will be a most ample fulfilment of the promise ratified in the ancient chapel of St. George, at Windsor, of a happy and contented married life. (Applause.) Our Poet Laureate has said of his typical English Margaret—

"From the westward-winding flood,
From the evening-lighted wood,
From all things you have won,
A tearful grace as though you stood
Between the rainbow and the sun."

The new English Margaret has indeed a tearful grace, and on Thursday, the 13th March, in St. George's Chapel, this Royal lady stood indeed "between the rainbow and the sun." (Applause.) The time has again come round when I must part officially with those of the acting Provincial Grand Lodge officers, and select other to fill their chairs for the coming year. The demands upon the services of these retiring brethren have been indeed during the year just closing excessive. I thank all the outgoing officers for their zeal, and the ready performance of their, at times, difficult duties; and, perhaps, more particularly the Registrar, on whose time, patience, and legal knowledge this province has largely drawn. But in the annual constitutional change of officers comes the most difficult, onerous, and disagreeable of my duties—so many worthy brethren on whom I should like to confer Provincial Grand Lodge recognition, and so few official favours to bestow. I always approach this duty with difficulty, anxiety, and delicacy—viz., out of a long list, yearly increasing in number, to select names for the ensuing year of the most energetic, able, and zealous Past Masters. Those brethren, therefore, who shortly will receive from me the appointment of office must, under the difficult circumstances by which I am surrounded, accept even the lowest office it is in my power to offer them as the equivalent of the highest position in the Craft. It is not by placing you in a chair that I can best confer recognition on your Masonic labours. I want you to feel your work in the Craft is far more precious than that which lodge rank confers. It is because your labours and generosity cause your names to be respected in every lodge, it is because you give to your Masonic work something which to my mind is far more precious and rare than the mere merit of the apron of Provincial Grand Lodge—intelligence, and the single-hearted devotion of a well-spent Masonic life. I thank you all, and honour these Past Masters because they have helped the lodges within and the brethren without, and because they have touched the chords which have evoked the impulses of benevolence and charity towards others who could not without assistance help themselves, either within or outside the walls of the lodge. It is for their mental and administrative endowments I appreciate and recognise and thank them most; for their examples of fortitude, prudence, and justice. The best of endowments and the most enduring reward they can possess is the memory they leave in their lodges, which impels those who come after them to strenuous efforts and exalted aims. I accept the invitation of the Scarborough Lodge, No. 1214, to meet at Batley, in October, the place of the next Provincial Grand Lodge gathering. In consequence of the depression of trade, and other matters which I named at Barnsley at the last quarterly meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge, I deem it inexpedient this year to hold an intermediate quarterly meeting in July. (Loud applause.)

Bro. Tew, Deputy Prov. Grand Master, also addressed the brethren, joining in expressions of gratitude to the retiring officers, especially paying a high compliment to the zealous, genial, and able manner in which Bro. Malcolm had discharged the duties of Prov. Grand Registrar, an office which had largely trespassed on his time during the past year.

In the course of the day the Prov. Grand Master, in the name of the Prov. Grand Lodge, presented Bro. Malcolm with a handsome jewel as some slight but permanent recognition of his services, and expressed the pleasure he felt in pinning it on his breast.

Bro. Malcolm briefly acknowledged the gift, but felt he had done no more than his duty as a Mason.

PROVINCIAL GRAND CHAPTER OF EAST LANCASHIRE.

The annual meeting of the above Prov. G. Chapter was held in the Town Hall, Blackburn, on the 3rd inst., a numerous assemblage of companions from all parts of the province testifying to the interest taken in Royal Arch Masonry in this district. Amongst those present were Comp. Col. Le Gendre N. Stacker, M.E. Prov. G. Superintendent; Comps. R. H. Hutchinson, as Prov. G. H.; Dr. Royle, as Prov. G. J.; J. B. Carr, P. Prov. G. Scribe N.; W. O. Walker, P. Prov. G. Scribe N.; Wm. Roberts, P. Prov. G.P.S.; Chas. Davis, Ralph Landless, Thos. Hargreaves, P. Prov. G. 2nd Assistant Sojourners; G. P. Brockbank, T. J. Hooper, P. Prov. G. Treasurers; T. S. Ainsworth, Prov. G. Registrar; E. Heywood, Prov. G. Sword Bearer; Ellis Jones, Benj. Taylor, P. Prov. G. Sword Bearers; E. Sleight, P. Prov. G. Standard Bearer; J. H. Sillitoe, Prov. G. Dir. of Cer.; R. Whittaker, P. Prov. G. Dir. of Cer.; Jas. Varley, Prov. G. Org.; T. R. Peck, J. W. P. Salmon, W. Nicholl, Prov. G. Stwds.; Thos. Mitchell, Prov. G. Janitor; and representatives from all the chapters in the province, with only one exception.

The Provincial Grand Chapter was opened at 1.45 p.m., and after the roll of chapters had been called over and letters of apology from absent Provincial Grand Officers had been read, the M.E. Prov. G. Superintendent called attention to the fact that the absence of the 2nd Prov. G. Principal, Comp. J. L. Hine, was occasioned by a painful bereavement, namely, the loss of his beloved wife. The Provincial G. Superintendent in fitting terms then proposed that a letter of condolence be sent to Comp. Hine. The motion was duly seconded and carried, with universal expressions of sympathy with Comp. Hine in his deep affliction.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, as were also the accounts of Provincial Grand Chapter for the past year.

Comp. Edmund Heywood was unanimously elected Prov. G. Treasurer.

The M.E. Prov. G. Superintendent appointed the following companions as Prov. G. Officers for the ensuing year, and they were severally invested with their jewels of office, and saluted accordingly, viz:—

- Comp. C. R. N. Beswicke-Royds Prov. G. 2nd P.
- " Franklin Thomas Prov. G. 3rd P.
- " John Tunrah Prov. G. Scribe E.
- " James Newton Prov. G. Scribe N.
- " Geo. Higgins Prov. G.P.S.
- " Denis Towers Prov. G. 1st A.S.
- " R. Timperley Prov. G. 2nd A.S.
- " Edmund Haywood Prov. G. Treas.
- " John E. Anderton Prov. G. Reg.
- " John Smethurst Prov. G. Swd. B.
- " Julius Arensberg Prov. G. Std. B.
- " John W. P. Salmon Prov. G. D. of C.
- " Edwin Halliwell Prov. G. Org.
- Comps. Saml. Haworth, N. Jones, } Prov. G. Stewards.
- R. Gornall }
- Comp. T. Mitchell Prov. G. Janitor.
- Comps. John E. Lees and Thos. Grime were appointed Auditors of the Prov. G. Chapter accounts.

A Committee was appointed for the purpose of framing a code of bye-laws for the government of the Prov. G. Chapter.

It was determined that the Scribe E. of each chapter in the province be desired to send a copy of the circulars, convening meetings of chapters, to each of the three Prov. G. Principals.

A grant of £10 was made to the East Lancashire Systematic Masonic Educational and Benevolent Institution.

All business being concluded, the Prov. G. Chapter was closed at 2.45 p.m., and the companions adjourned to banquet at the Old Bull Hotel.

SWEDENBORGIAN RITE.

This promising branch of philosophical Masonry is still putting forth fresh leaves of the eternal acacia. Although its progress has been comparatively slow, its vitality is evinced by many satisfactory tokens, no doubt to be followed by many more. The strong, calm good sense and energy of the Lancashire and Cheshire men has done much to promote the success of the Primitive and Original Rite of Freemasonry, which illustrates in so remarkable and pleasing a way the purity and eternity of Craft Masonry. Those acquainted with its excellent principles earnestly advocate its extension, and labour unceasingly to water the branch so successfully planted by the original founders about three years since. And among these labourers there are none more deserving of honourable mention and reward than our brethren, the members of the Royal Oscar Lodge and Temple, No. 9, of Liverpool, the meeting of which occurred on Thursday last, under the presidency of W. Bro. W. T. May, supported by W. Bro. Thomas Clark, P.M. of the lodge and Temple. The Royal Oscar Lodge was actually founded by Bro. Thomas Clark, and the Supreme Council of the Rite have recognised his eminent services by promotion to a high office in Supreme Grand Lodge. It would be perhaps invidious to mention the names until officially given, and hence we do not give them now, but they will doubtless be announced in our next issue. They have had two severe losses this year in the persons of Bros. Captain Charles Scott and H. F. T. Irwin, whose several devotion in their special positions will ever remain engraven on the pillars. The meeting of the Royal Oscar was interesting, as several brethren were admitted, advanced, and elevated on the occasion.

Bro. R. N. Field, has removed from No. 28, to No. 77, Cheapside.

PROVINCIAL GRAND MARK LODGE OF MIDDLESEX AND SURREY.

A special meeting was held at the Bridge House Hotel, London Bridge, on Monday, the 24th ult. At 4.30 the Mallet and Chisel Mark Lodge, No. 5, was opened by Bro. C. H. Rogers Harrison, P.M., in the unavoidable absence of the W.M., after which the chair was taken by Bro. W. G. Brighton, P.M., Grand Supt. of Works, and Prov. G.M. Sec. of Middlesex and Surrey, who proceeded to the installation of Bro. A. W. Hume, as W.M. for the ensuing year, after which the W.M. advanced Bro. Turner to the degree of M.M.M. The Mallet and Chisel Lodge was closed at 6 p.m., when the P.G. Lodge was opened, when there were present Bros. the Right Worshipful Prov. G.M.M., Col. Francis Burdett; the V.W. F. Davison, D.P.G.M.M.; Major C. H. Harding, P.G.J.W.; the Rev. Ambrose Hall, Prov. G. Chap.; C. Hammerton Prov. G. Treas.; R. Davies, Prov. G. Reg.; W. G. Brighton, P.G. Sec.; F. Draege, P.G.J.O.; R. P. Spice, P.G.S.D.; S. W. Lambert, P.G.J.D.; J. B. Shackleton, P.G.D. of Ceremonies; J. B. Batten, Sword Bearer; A. W. Hume, Standard Bearer; H. Court, jun., Org.; E. Passawer, I.G.; C. Palmer, W. L. Nicholls, and R. W. Brown, Stewards; W. Taylor, P.P.S.W.; D. M. Dewar, P.G.O.; R. H. Thrupp, G.J.O.; E. S. Bakie, P.M.O.; J. Stevens, P.P.M.O.; and J. K. Pitt, W.M.

There were likewise present the following visiting brethren:—Bros. Henry Lovegrove, jun., 234; H. J. Stark, 5; H. J. Sparks, J. Horton, W.M. 176; E. J. Hoare, Org.; H. C. Jepps, E. W. Lote, B. Haynes, S.O. 211; M. Ramsey, P.M. 13, W.M. 7; E. Hopwood, S.O. 181; and C. H. Rogers Harrison, P.M.M.

The first business of the evening was to confirm the minutes of the previous Provincial Grand Lodge meeting, held at the Greyhound, Croydon, on 29th June, 1878, and these having been duly confirmed, the Prov. Grand Secretary, Bro. W. G. Brighton, then proceeded to call over the roll of lodges, twenty-one in number, and reported on the great progress made by the province during the past year, the lodges therein having increased in number, and each in number of members.

The following Mark lodges were represented:—Keystone, 3; Mallet and Chisel, 5; Carnarvon, 7; Hiram, 13; Macdonald, 104; Percy, 114; Panmure, 139; Grosvenor, 144; Era, 176; Francis Burdett, 181; Croydon, 198; Duke of Connaught, 199; Hammersmith, 211; West Smithfield, 223; Menatschin, 224; Brixton, 234.

The following were unrepresented:—Studholme, 187; Clapton, 236.

The P.G. Sec. further reported that warrants had already been granted for three new lodges in the province, and that they would be consecrated during the ensuing month, namely, Prince Leopold, 238; Royal Naval, 239; and Trinity College, 244.

The proposed new bye-laws were then read, and it was moved by the V.W. Bro. Davison that such bye-laws be adopted by this province, and that the Prov. Grand Sec. do forthwith have a proof thereof prepared and submitted to Grand Mark Lodge for the purpose of taking its opinion thereon, and, if possible, obtain such opinion and consent of Grand Mark Lodge prior to the annual meeting of this Provincial Grand Mark Lodge in June next, when these minutes would come on for confirmation.

This motion was seconded by Bro. James Stevens, P.G. J.O., and carried unanimously.

Several letters of regret for enforced absence were read, and Provincial Grand Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to a banquet, where the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured.

FREEMASONRY IN EUROPE.

An American with American ideas of Masonry can form no conception of the difference between Masonry here and in Europe, particularly on the Continent. Here the rule is to find Masons everywhere; there it is the exception. The peculiarity of European society may in part account for this; again, it may be due to the difference in the price of labour between the United States and Europe.

In this country the doors of Masonry are open to every man of good moral character who has a friend to propose him who desires to become a Freemason, and has the small amount of initiation fee required. In Europe this is all different. Many men are members of the Order there, entirely unknown to any but the brethren; much more secrecy is practised; emblems of Masonry are seldom or never worn. The members of the lodges, as a general thing, are much older than here, mostly, even in the middle-class lodges, heads of families, or principals of some factory, business, or store, or perhaps government officers. A journeyman or clerk a Mason is hardly ever seen; and, it is safe to assert, a private soldier, or even a non-commissioned officer, never. Very few Masons in Germany ever advance beyond the E.A. degree; all business is transacted in E.A. lodges. Much decorum, and a generally worn and uniform black dress, with neat white gloves and aprons, are observable in the lodges.—New York Masonic Newspaper.

CITY IMPROVEMENTS.—Nearing completion in Fleet-street, at the corner of Poppin's-court, is a handsome new building, which it is intended shall in some measure form a memorial of the ancient history of the site. It was here that the town house of the abbots of Cirencester stood, and many years afterwards a celebrated inn called the Poppinjay. The new building is in the Italian style, in red brick and stone, with enrichments of Sicilian marble and majolica.—Citizen.

DEVON MASONIC EDUCATIONAL FUND.

The first annual meeting of the donors and subscribers to the Devon Masonic Educational Fund was held recently at the Hayshe Masonic Temple, Plymouth. Among those present were R.W. Bro. L. P. Metham, D.P.G.M., who presided; Bros. the Hon. W. Hylton-Jolliffe, H. Horton, the Rev. W. Whittle, S. Hyne, S. Jew, L. D. Westcott, V. Bird, J. B. Gover, E. Aitken-Davies, D. Box, K. Lose, F. B. Westlake, John Lynn, G. R. Barrett, R. Pengelly, G. J. Firks, J. R. Lord, R. Cawsey, and Bircham.

Bro. Whittle raised the question whether the bye-laws prepared by the Committee ought not to be confirmed by that general meeting before other business was proceeded with, but the Chairman ruled that the agenda paper should first be gone through.

The following officers were elected:—Bros. Lord Ebrington, L. P. Metham, J. Tanner-Davy, the Hon. W. Hylton-Jolliffe, W. Moore, W. Derry, W. Vicary, Jas. Murray, and F. B. Westlake, the number being limited to nine; G. R. Barrett, and S. Jew, Auditors; V. Bird, Treas.; J. B. Gover, Sec.; H. Horton, R. Lose, and S. Hyne, Finance Committee; the Rev. W. Whittle, S. Jew, D. Cross, R. Lose, Stonehouse; W. Vicary, Newton; S. Jones, Exeter; A. A. Carter, Exmouth; T. Perry, Torquay; W. Brodie, Okehampton; S. Loram, Dawlish; J. Tanner-Davy and the Rev. Mr. Russell, Southmolton, the Educational and General Purposes Committee, with the Chairman of the annual meeting, the Treasurer, Secretary, and Honorary Solicitor, as ex-officio members.

The number of candidates to be elected at the coming election was then discussed. It was thought the average cost of each would be £15 per annum, and at present the Treasurer had received about £125, of which £101 10s. was from Life Governors, Vice-Presidents, &c., and the remainder (over £20) from eighty annual subscribers of 5s. and 10s. each. It was urged that the money subscribed by the life voters should be invested and capitalised, and not used as present annual income, but it was decided to leave that question open for the next general meeting. The present amount received by the Treasurer was considered to be no criterion of what the income would be, and as large sums were known to be lying in various lodges, and not yet sent in owing to the lodges not having made up their accounts, it was ultimately agreed that the election of candidates should commence with the election of four, the present prospects of the fund admitting of this expenditure. Some difficulty had occurred in arranging with the Prov. G. Secretary to grant the certificates of periods of subscribing membership of the fathers of candidates, and it was arranged that the matter should be left to depend on the reports made by the lodges to which the fathers belonged. It was decided that deceased members' families who had removed out of the province should be entitled to furnish candidates, and that a special general meeting of donors and subscribers to elect to the four vacancies should be held in June; all applications of candidates to be sent in by May 13th.

The question of confirming the bye-laws was next considered, and it was resolved that it was a mistake to consider them finally adopted by the resolution of the committee meeting of March 19th, and that they must be put to the general meeting. They were so put, and carried, and adopted.

MASONIC CONVERSAZIONE AT WHITBY.

On Friday evening, the 28th ult., an elegant and attractive conversazione and musical and miscellaneous entertainment took place in the Masonic Hall, John-street, West Cliff, under the auspices of the W.M., Past Masters, officers, and brethren of the Lion Lodge, No. 312. It is not often that the uninitiated have a chance of entering the Masonic Hall, perhaps the most commodious and well proportioned assembly-room in the borough, and since the last gathering of a semi-public nature was held there the interior has been beautified and embellished, in excellent taste and in a superior style of artistic treatment. The W.M., Bro. John Stevenson, is now presiding over the Lion Lodge for the fourth time, and his third year of office, 1878, was distinguished by the improvements alluded to in the lofty and spacious hall, towards the consummation of which his own liberality and resources contributed very materially. The present was therefore an appropriate and well chosen time for such an assemblage as the one under notice. It is perhaps unnecessary to inform those who had not the privilege of being present that there was nothing in the order of procedure or in the externals that met the eye to reveal any of the secrets or mysteries peculiar to the Craft. Nevertheless, the brethren who attended were easily distinguishable from the non-elect, as they moved about in the gay and lively throng, by their Masonic clothing—Craft and Royal Arch—which in the eyes of many was pleasing from its novelty, if for nothing else. Each member of the lodge had liberty from the W.M. to introduce two friends, and as the gathering numbered about 150 altogether, it was evident that the opportunity had been duly improved. The attendance included the W.M., many of the Past Masters, the officers and brethren, and a numerous body of both lady and gentlemen visiting friends. The large hall had a brilliant appearance; and in addition to the musical attractions and social pleasures, there was an extensive collection of valuable pictures, which were exhibited in an effective manner. The owners of these fine works of art kindly lent them to enhance the gratification of all interested in the success of this event, and as the collection included the productions of most of our well-known local artists, it will be readily believed that it was one of the choicest which has been brought together for many years. There was also an exhibition of curiosities, telephone, and other scientific instruments, the aggregate forming an instructive and highly interesting variety of objects. The arrangements were excellently contrived and carried out by Bros. Moss, P.M., Stonehouse, P.M., Waller, and others. The first part of the evening's entertainment consisted of a programme of select music, in which Bros. Hallgate, P.M., Armfield, and Padel (J.W. Eber Lodge, York) performed some first-class instrumental music in an admirable style. Bro. Armfield favoured the company with a song. Bro. Padel executed a sonata in exquisite style, and Bro. Hallgate was applauded in his masterly solo on the violin. Miss E. Marwood was encored in her song, "My Laddie, far away." The solo and chorus, "God bless the Prince of Wales," concluded the first part. The second part was miscellaneous, and was composed of suitable readings by Bros. Bottomley, P.M., and Wolsey, S.D., a recitation by Bro. Stonehouse, P.M., and songs by Bros. Hallgate, P.M. (Organist to the lodge), Godfrey Hirst, P.M., Crowther, J.W., Farrow, J.D., Trueman, S.S. (who was enthusiastically encored), and others. Bro. Padel was pianist. There was an ample and varied supply of superior refreshments, which were served during the evening; and the Stewards, Bros. T. H. Trueman and T. Harland, were very attentive and active in ministering to the wants of their brethren and visiting friends in this important department. The proceedings from beginning to end were animated and agreeable, and were kept going with unceasing and unflagging zest until a late hour of the evening; the W.M., the Past Masters, officers, and brethren co-operating with great harmony to make the occasion one of unmixed enjoyment.

DISTRICT GRAND LODGE OF NORTHERN CHINA.

The regular meeting of the District Grand Lodge of Northern China was held at the Masonic Hall, Shanghai, on Tuesday, 7th of January, 1879. Present: R.W. Bro. C. Thorne, D.G.M.; W. Bros. James Hart, D.G.J.W., acting D.D.G.M.; J. I. Miller, D.G.R., acting D.G.S.W.; T. W. Kingsmill, P.D.B.G.P., acting D.G.J.W.; the Very Rev. Dear Butcher, D.D., acting D.G.C.; Peter Orme, D.G.S.; Robert Fergusson, D.G.S.D.; H. Evans, D.G.I.D.; F. J. Marshall, D.G.S. of W.; H. S. Morris, D.G.D. of C.; Lewis Moore, D.G.S.B.; G. B. Fentum, D.G.O.; J. Brown, D.C.P.; H. D. Camajee, W. H. Anderson, Bro. B. Palamoutain, and W. Bro. R. G. Goldspink, D.G. Stewards; Bro. T. Hore, D.G. Tyler; W. Bro. W. H. Short, W.M. 1027; Bro. Wm. Miller, S.W. 1027; A. Robinson, S.W. 570. Visitors: Bros. E. P. Lalcaca, Sec. 501; J. Inokay, M.M. 501; W. Bros. A. Weiller, P.D.G.W. of District Grand Lodge of Japan; D. Hay, D.G.T. of District Grand Lodge of Japan; Bro. T. W. Harrocks, Member of the District Grand Lodge of Japan; W. Bro. W. Birt, P.M. 428, S.C.; Bros. J. Petersen, 428, S.C.; R. Anderson, 428; W. Bro. W. L. Koch, jun., P.M. Lodge Germania; Bros. G. Baffy, D.M., T. Huchings, and Chas. Schmidt, Lodge Germania; W. Bro. M. H. Cook, P.M., Bros. A. Bruse, G. L. Skinner, W. Graham, Ancient Landmark Lodge, Mass. Con.; J. Sharples, 477; and others.

The District Grand Lodge was opened in due form at five p.m. with solemn prayer.

The circulars calling the meeting were read, and the minutes of the last regular communication were read and confirmed.

The President of the Board of General Purposes was then called upon to present the report of the meeting of the Board.

The report was received and ordered to be inserted in the minutes of the District Grand Lodge.

The next business before the District Grand Lodge being the election of a District Grand Treasurer for the year, W. Bro. Miller, D.G.S.W., asked if any one had consented to act, and the R.W. the District Grand Master stated he was happy to say that W. Bro. Orme had done so. W. Bro. Morris, D.G. Dir. of Cer., enquired if it was allowable to take the vote by acclamation, and the R.W.D.G.M. said he had looked at the bye-laws and found it must be by ballot. This having been taken, it was found on opening the ballot box that W. Bro. Orme, D.G. Secretary and P.D.G.J.W. of China, had been elected unanimously. Whereupon the W. Bro. addressed a few words to the brethren, thanking them for the honour they had conferred on him.

The R.W.D.G.M. said that it was not customary in District Grand Lodges to re-appoint officers from among those who had already held office, but as this was a small district, he was enabled to advance brethren who had served and had worked well during the past year, and had also been regular in attendance, without debarring any worthy brother from a position in D.G. Lodge. He then proceeded to appoint the following officers:

W. Bro. J. Hart, P.M. 525	...	Dep. D.G.M.
" J. I. Miller, P.M. 1027	...	D.G.S.W.
" T. W. Kingsmill, P.M. 570	...	D.G.J.W.
" P. Orme, P.M. 1027	...	D.G. Treas.
" H. Evans, P.M. 501	...	D.G. Reg.
" R. Fergusson, P.M. 570	...	Pres. D.B. of G.P.
" W. H. Anderson, W.M. 570	...	D.G. Sec.
" A. B. Menzies, P.M. 1433	...	D.G.S.D.
" H. S. Morris, P.M. 570	...	D.G.J.D.
" F. J. Marshall, P.M. 238	...	D.G. Supt. of W.
" L. Moore, P.M. 1027	...	D.G. Dir. of Cer.
" J. Brown, P.M. 501	...	D.G. Swd. B.
" G. B. Fentum, P.M. 525	...	D.G. Org.
" W. H. Short, W.M. 1027	...	D.G. Purst.
Bros. A. Johnsford, W.M. elect 501;
E. P. Lalcaca, acting Sec. 501;
W. Miller, S.W. 1027; D. A.		D.G. Stewards.
Emery, W.M. elect 1433	...
Bro. F. Hore	...	D.G. Tyler.

In accordance with bye-law No. 10, the brethren then proceeded to ballot for three members to serve on the District Board of General Purposes, and on the same being closed, the following were declared elected:—W. Bro. Moore, P.M. Tuscan Lodge, 1017, D.G. Director of Ceremonies; W. Bro. Short, W.M. Tuscan Lodge, 1017, D.G. Pursuivant; and Bro. Johnson, S.W. and W.M. elect Royal Sussex Lodge, 501, D.G. Steward. In the case of the latter it was explained that although not at present eligible to serve, he would be so before being called on to act, as he was the W.M. elect of the Royal Sussex Lodge, 501.

W. Bro. Moore, acting D.C. Treasurer, now presented the accounts for 1878, which shewed a balance of Tals 136.02, and on the motion of the R.W. the District Grand Master, seconded by W. Bro. Kingsmill, D.G. Junior Warden, these were received and passed unanimously.

The R.W.D.G. Master then said a well-known brother had spoken to him in lodge a few meetings back, saying that he failed to see what beneficial effect Masonry had produced. He did not dispute the excellence of its foundation, but he observed that it did not apparently regulate the conduct of many who had been admitted to its privileges. This, brethren, the R.W.D.G.M. observed, is a matter for our very serious consideration. It behoves us not simply to study our own lives and actions, but also teaches us to be careful not to introduce any into the Craft who will not conscientiously fulfil the promises they make previous to their admission. Should any one desire to join our lodges, he ought to be told that the institution being founded on the purest principles of morality and virtue, those who enter it are bound to act up to these principles. After the candidate has acknowledged his belief in the G.A.O.T.U. he is urged to practise every virtue; the address delivered to him on conclusion of the initiatory ceremony points out more fully the line of conduct expected from him. Perhaps brethren, if we look fully into our own conduct, we may find much in it which requires amendment: many of us now present are Installed Masters, and we ought not to forget that when we received the benefit of installation we were especially warned to impress upon our brethren the dignity and high importance of Masonry—we were serious to admonish them never to disgrace it—we were to teach them to practise out of the lodge those duties they were taught within it, so that by amiable, virtuous, and discreet conduct they might prove to the world the large beneficial effects of our institution. If every Master would act up to these precepts, I am perfectly sure we should have an improvement amongst the members of the Craft generally, so that remarks similar to those of the brother alluded to could not be made with justice. I would earnestly ask the co-operation of all present to the end that we may elevate the name of Mason to something beyond an empty title. In closing our lodges in the Second Degree, we always call upon the brethren to remember that the eye of God is upon them, wherever they are or whatever they do, and if, brethren, we carry this feeling with us out of lodge, it will regulate our lives in such a manner as to make members of our fraternity respected by the world at large. Be especially careful whom you introduce into Masonry, lest you cause a slur to be cast upon our institution. Before proposing a candidate for initiation, you should ascertain whether he has seriously considered what Masonry really is, and what it demands of its professors, and if you find him to be sound on these points, then by all means propose him, but do not propose any one unless you have fully explained to him some of our principles; we should thus raise our Masonic standard, and instead of as at present, giving the outside world a chance to sneer at our institution, we shall gain the esteem of all right-minded men. Brethren, I trust you will duly think on these remarks, which I commend to your earnest consideration.

The R.W. District Grand Master then congratulated the brethren of the District Grand Lodge on having among them as visitors members of the District Grand Lodge of Japan, and lodges working under Scotch, American, and German Constitutions, but more especially the former, as there were Past District Grand Warden, and the District Grand Treasurer present. W. Bro. Weiller, Past D.G. Warden of the District Grand Lodge of Japan, replied, returning thanks for the reception he and his brother visitors had received.

W. Bro. Nya, D.G. Registrar, asked a few questions regarding the knocks given in the various degrees, to which the R.W. District Grand Master replied.

There being no further business, the District Grand Lodge was closed in due form, and with prayer, at 6.20 p.m., the brethren separating in peace, harmony, and brotherly love.

LODGE SUPPERS.

Three times a day the world is happy—at breakfast, dinner, and supper—the only exceptions being in the cases of those persons who have nothing to eat. It may not consist with our idea of the intellectual and spiritual dignity of man to deride his most frequent and pronounced happiness from the gratification of his appetite, but it consists with facts as they exist, and have always existed. Eating and drinking, whether or other, fill a man with happiness, with good cheer, and also, not unfrequently, with good sense. At breakfast he is ready for business, after dinner for business, pleasure, and after supper for pleasure, and sleep. Masonry, with its sagacious practical character, takes a man as it finds him, and finding him to be in the sense a feeding animal, it provides for filling him with good things material, as well as good things moral and intellectual—in other words, in accordance with the traditions and usages of the Craft, the banquet or supper has been considered an integral part of Masonry. The wisdom of this provision is apparent, for it grows out of the nature of man. There is nothing merely fanciful or theoretical in Masonry—its purposes are all practical. It aims to mould its members into a true brotherhood, and to supply to each the means to gratify his moral, intellectual, and physical wants. The Holy Bible is the fountain-head of its morality, the sciences and arts the sources of its intellectual teachings, and the banquet-table the seat of its pleasures, physical and mental. And Freemasonry has never been conspicuously prosperous, gathering together the large body of its membership at regular meetings, except when labour and refreshment were steadily combined.

It is a great mistake to omit the supper or collation from the regular proceedings of a lodge; it does not pay to omit it. Neither work, nor a lecture, nor even a Grand Visitation, will attract like a banquet. It may be humiliating in some respects to make the statement, but it is true. Men love to eat and drink, and to chat over it, and enjoy good fellowship, and make new acquaintances. While in the lodge they are required to be distressingly orderly, but in the banquet-hall they may talk at will, laugh until they grow fat, sing a song or make a speech, and all in the intervals of tickling their palates with toothsome solids and inspiring liquids. If the reader has not discovered it before we inform him now, that we are pronouncedly in favour of the supper or banquet in Masonry, and for the same reason that we are in favour of supper at home in the circle of the family—it attracts all "around the mahogany," and unites all into a loving throng.

We do not know whether King David, when he made the declaration, "Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity," had in his mind's eye a host of brethren whose minds and hearts formed, as it were, one great unit, and the contents of whose stomachs were precisely the same, because they had filled them from the same bounteous table; but we do know that disagreement at a lodge table is impossible. When the stomach is full of good things the head is empty of all bickerings, and especially when sentiment, jest, and general good-fellowship accompany and follow the liquids and solids. If a serious difference of opinion should ever arise in a lodge, let it be ordered to lie on the table—the supper table—for sure are we that it will never be taken up from there. At a banquet no one wishes to taste of that dish. While there, every brother realises that grand saying of our traditional Grand Master, King Solomon: "He brought me to the banquetting-house, and his banner over me was love." When the brethren are enjoying a lodge supper they are in the Craft's banquetting house, the very atmosphere of which is an atmosphere of love. We breathe it with every breath, and it fills us with good thoughts, good feelings, and good humour.

One of the wisest known traditions of antiquity, handed down to us in mythology, is the story of a certain banquet of the gods in Olympia. There was a Royal marriage in heaven, and all the deities were invited to the nuptials except Discordia. Enraged at this slight, she who was the friend of Mars, the god of war, and the sister of Death, and who had been dismissed by Jupiter from heaven because of her continually fomenting quarrels in the supernal household—this Discordia, at the banquet of the gods consequent upon the marriage, threw a golden apple among the guests, bearing the inscription, "to be given up to the fairest." Thereupon Juno, Venus, and Minerva each claimed the apple for herself. Jupiter ordered the three goddesses to Mount Ida, to submit their claims to the judgment of Paris—who decided in favour of Venus. The Trojan war followed, in the human world, when Venus naturally took the side of Paris, and her rivals, Juno and Minerva, that of his opponents, and thus did gods on both sides fight with men, and hence the ruin of Troy, and the infinite misfortunes of the Greeks. But all this occurred in an imaginary world, among the imaginary beings. In the real world, with which we have to do, no apple of discord ever appears at our banquets.

Another of the legends of Olympia tells of a feature of the banquet of the gods that is no less unknown upon earth, and especially in Freemasonry. It horribly relates, that Tantalus, preparing to feast the gods, had boiled the mangled body of his son. The frightful banquet had begun, when the crime was detected, and the Goddess of Fate drew from the cauldron the revivified body of Pelops. One shoulder only was missing—Ceres had unfortunately swallowed it! but the place of the absent limb was ingeniously supplied by an artificial one of ivory. And Tantalus was hurled to his merited doom in Tartarus. Now, Freemasons do not prey upon each other in any manner—we have heard of "roast missionary," but never of roast Freemason. Backbiting is forbidden in Masonry!

Brethren, let us rightly estimate and wisely use the banquet, for it belongs to Masonry as truly as our daily meals do to the regime of our families. There are in it the elements of sociability, conviviality, and fraternity, and in its absence there is nothing else that can take its place. There is no better antidote to non-affiliation, no surer source of attraction to the entire membership of a lodge, and no greater pacifier and harmoniser in the Masonic world than a lodge supper!—Philadelphia Key-stone.

We are glad to hear that Bro. Thomas, who is celebrated for his poetry as his hats, has taken extensive premises at 167, Fleet-street, where we hope he will be as successful as he is energetic.

Sir Frederick Leighton, P.R.A., has accepted the presidency of the Birmingham Society of Artists for the ensuing year.

The Brussels Gothic Museum have purchased for £8000 the picture of the Holy Family, by Quentyn Matsys, from the clergy of St. Pierre at Louvain.

Notes on Art, &c.

At the ordinary meeting of the Royal Society on Thursday week last, the Right Hon. R. A. Cross was elected a Fellow, and the following were elected as foreign members:—Arthur Auwers, Berlin; Luigi Cremona, Rome; J. L. A. de Quatrefages, Paris; Georg Hermann Quincke, Heidelberg; Theodor Schwann, Liège; Jean Servais Stas, Brussels.

The next concert of the Royal Albert Hall Amateur Orchestral Society will be given on Saturday evening, April 19th, in aid of the funds of the Royal Scamen and Marten Orphan School at Portsmouth, under the patronage of the Duchess of Edinburgh, who has signified her intention to be present.

THE TURKISH LANGUAGE.—The Turkish Commission on the alphabet propose, we learn, to go even further than we lately stated. Besides applying the Arabic alphabet phonetically to maps, they are prepared to recommend for staff military maps that, while Turkish orthography is preserved, the Roman alphabet shall be used. This is supported by the plea that the Arabic alphabet does not allow so many names to be put on a map in the same space as the Roman. This, of course, is a step by Mudif Effendi towards Romanising the Turkish language and increasing the Romanised area in Europe—Athenæum.

The artist Couture has died in France at the age of sixty-four. His most celebrated painting, "Les Romains de la Décadence," hangs in the Paris Luxembourg, and his "Baptism of the Prince Imperial" is also well-known, while his works in general were remarkable for the immense amount of labour and finish bestowed upon them.

SCIENTIFIC EXPEDITIONS.—Dr. Jules Crevaux has brought his second journey through Guiana and across the Tumac Runic range into Brazil to a successful termination, having reached Para in the middle of January. He has paid special attention to the geology of the region traversed, and is bringing home with him numerous observations taken on the rivers Oyapock and Paru. We hear that Dr. Otto Finckh will shortly start on his expedition among the islands of the North Pacific, but Captain H. Sengstake will be unable to accompany him, as he has undertaken to lead an expedition for the relief of Professor Nordenskiöld. Dr. Bastian, who started on a scientific expedition in Persia, India, and the Eastern Archipelago in the early part of last summer, has written from Calcutta to the Berlin Geographical Society stating that he is about to leave that place with the view of pursuing his ethnological studies in Assam and Java.—Academy.

The Ober-Ammergau Passion-Play has been performed recently at San Francisco, where a storm of indignation has been aroused by its representation. The manager, however, refuses to withdraw the play, and points to the extreme decorum and reverence which has prevailed amongst the audience as a proof of the propriety of the production. The acting is highly spoken of, and Bach's Passion Music accompanies the play.

Sir Joshua Reynolds's chair, in which so many of his sitters were painted, will probably be presented to the Royal Academy by Sir Frederick Leighton. The chair was last in possession of Sir Francis Grant, and at the sale of the remaining works of the late President it was bought for 73 guineas by Sir F. Leighton, who at the same time acquired a sketch by Sir Joshua for a picture of Edmund Burke and Lord Rockingham, in which the chair appears.

The statue of Harvey, to be erected in commemoration of the discoverer's tercentenary, is to be executed by Mr. Bruce Joy, who is the artist of Model B in the exhibition of the competitive designs at South Kensington. Mr. Joy's design shows Harvey in his doctor's gown, standing upright, with head erect and his right hand placed on his breast to feel the pulsations of the heart, while in his left hand is the heart of some creature. The features—as in the other designs—are copied from the portrait by Jansens in the Royal College of Physicians. The statue will be of bronze on a granite pedestal.

It is announced in the London Gazette of last week that the Queen has been graciously pleased to confer the Albert Medal of the First Class on Captain Peter Sharp and John McIntosh, A.B., of the Annabella Clark, of Ardrossan. The following is an account of the services in respect of which these decorations have been conferred:—On the 20th November, 1878, at about 5.45 p.m., a fire suddenly broke out on board the French ship Mélanie, which was lying in the River Adour, at Boucan, near Bayonne, loaded with 500 barrels of petroleum, of which 40 were on deck. A mass of flame shot up from the main hatch, and the ship quivered all over from the explosion of some of the barrels. The ship's seams opened at once, and the petroleum pouring through spread a belt of flame around the ship. The master and a seaman then jumped overboard, but the mate remained to try to save his son, who was lying helpless under some heavy objects which had fallen on him. Captain Peter Sharp, master of the Annabella Clark, of Ardrossan (which was lying close by in the river), accompanied by a seaman named John McIntosh, came at once to his assistance. They rowed their boat through the flames, picked up the seaman who had jumped overboard, and took the mate from the blazing vessel. Captain Sharp and McIntosh both sustained severe injuries. It was feared at first that Captain Sharp would lose the sight of one eye and John McIntosh the use of his hands.

Mr. Alfred P. Newton has been elected a member of the Society of Painters in Water Colours; and Mrs. Helen Coleman Angell and Mr. Herbert M. Marshall have been elected associate exhibitors.

SATURDAY, APRIL 12, 1879.

WHAT FREEMASONRY DOES NOT DO.

Though it is sometimes difficult, as they say, to prove a negative, yet there is no difficulty, as it seems to us, in laying down categorically, alike for the information of friend or foe, what Freemasonry does not seek to do, and does not do, under any circumstances here, despite the assertions of the malevolent, the cynical, or the intolerant. There is a great deal of pseudo-Freemasonry going on in the world just now, which, though it apes the form and assumes the name of our excellent Order, is not really and truly, and cannot be ever Freemasonry proper, in that it is as different from it as light is from darkness, as truth is from falsehood. For instance, Freemasonry knows nothing whatever, even in the slightest measure, of political questions; it entirely and happily ignores altogether theological controversies. Those burning debates in the great arena of political struggle which so divide and agitate persons and communities in this combative and combatant world of ours, do not intrude their "shibboleths" of party within the peacefully closed recesses of our lodges. Those endless subtleties and sophistries, those logomachies of worthy but wordy disputants, which often so distress the religious mind, and so divide the religious world, are not permitted, luckily, to harass the consciences of Freemasons, or impede the peaceful progress of Freemasonry. If, then, in any jurisdiction we note to-day political partisans rampant, or hear of ill-concealed or ill-omened cries of seditious sympathy; if on colourable pretences, or upon no pretences at all, the religious, but not sectarian, the universal, but not sectional character of Freemasonry is made to yield to a resolute faction, or a turbulent clique, much as we may deplore the fact, we may fairly exclude that special portion of the Masonic family from our consideration, "pour le moment." It never can be too often repeated that Freemasonry positively ignores and repudiates all political questions, and, in our opinion, none have any moral, much less a legal, right to discuss, "in secret," be it noted, public measures at all, and not even these "social questions," which are always best regulated whether by the municipal or legislative bodies of the country. Indeed, the idea which in some jurisdictions its members appear to take of Freemasonry is this, that it is a sort of secret debating society, in which the most abstruse social questions and the most absurd and visionary theories may be safely and profitably brought before the lodge. We have in this the secret of intense weakness of much of foreign Masonry. The authorities of any country have clearly a right to object to a secret Order discussing matters of government and even social questions, and it is this tendency to render our lodges political and social debating clubs which has too often brought down upon Freemasons abroad the disapproval and interference of the general or police authorities. There is another custom in some jurisdictions abroad, which cannot be too much reprobated. Each Mason is armed, and the consequence is, that the authorities lock upon Freemasons in lodges as an armed body of secret conspirators. Freemasons are by their principles, which never change, peaceful citizens and loyal subjects, hostile to anarchy and revolution, friendly to tranquil progress and loyal improvement, and we have felt that in these two special particulars some foreign jurisdictions gravely err, and raise up "stumbling blocks" where otherwise, probably, none might be found to exist. True Freemasonry does none of these things, but holding aloof from political complications and disavowing the "odium theologicum," above all, it seeks to maintain "peace with all men," and to advance and develop a spirit of good will and geniality among all classes and all conditions of mankind. One other mark of true Freemasonry is its comprehensiveness. It seeks to exclude none who honestly accept and avow the "Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man." It imposes no tests, it asks for no submissions; it desires to lay down no limitation of thought or membership, except what is rational and of immemorial usage. To proclaim Freemasonry to be a society without a God, without a moral law which comes from God and is of God, must ever be fatal to any such body of men, for such a theory outrages the innate sympathies and convictions of us all alike. On the specious and hypocritical pretence of liberty of conscience, to take away from countless believers the right of acknowledging T.G.A.O.T.U. at all is one of the greatest proofs of perverted views and tyrannical irreligion which it has been our lot, in this generation, at any rate, to realize. Thus, then, true Freemasonry never seeks to renounce the universal and immemorial acknowledgment of T.G.A.O.T.U. as the foundation truth, the vital teaching of Freemasonry. Neither does it, on the other hand, seek to exclude any who, accepting this ancient and simple "formula," agree to assist each other in humanitarian efforts and "labours of love." From this reality of things arise the breadth and height and width of Freemasonry, perhaps at first sight somewhat of a "paradox," per se, but yet that distinguishing characteristic which renders it the admiration of its friends and the astonishment of its enemies. We find that some considerations flow out of these remarks, which we will deal with in our next number.

A SAD CASE OF PERSECUTION.

We can hardly realize that we are living in the year of light 1879, when we read of the persecution of Bro. Simonsen, a Norwegian clergyman, simply because positively he is a Freemason. It seems that Bro. Simonsen was originally located in Norway, and became, unfortunately for him, an initiate in the Masonic Order at Christiania, and he subsequently went to America, and settled in Wisconsin, U.S., as a minister to Norwegian congregations. The Synod, adopting the views of the Missouri Synod, seems to have desired to censure him in the annual assembly, and in his attempt and "trap" Bro. Simonsen appears to have defeated his opponents utterly. The Norwegian congregations clung to their "Pastor" for three and a half years, despite every sort of attack and slander, and even personal violence, when Bro. Simonsen thought it better for the sake of prudence, peace, and safety to return to Norway. Here, however, the same opposition was revived, and a special attack was made by a Rev. Mr. Preuss on Bro. Simonsen as a Freemason, and so angry was the feeling that the Bishop said he could "not see how a minister could remain a Mason." By these proceedings he was practically silenced, and had to withdraw from the ministry. He has come to England, we understand, to seek some assistance for himself, and his wife, and his young family from the brotherhood, and, as we understand, also to enable him to bring his case before the "Storting"; the brethren at Christiania are, in the meantime, taking care of his wife and children. Our worthy Bro. Bent, P.G.C., a high authority on Swedish matters, has lent his well-known name in support of Bro. Simonsen's appeal, and we confess that we have every confidence that his story is true, and that he deserves the sympathy and support of the Craft. He has published a pamphlet, or rather the translation of his address to his own people, which seems to us a very clear and straightforward document. If his statements are true, and we have no reason to doubt their literal exactness, on the contrary, we think that his is an "over true tale," alas! for the liberality and toleration of 1879. Some of our worthy brethren may interest themselves in the case, and we should suggest a conference, at which Bro. Simonsen might be asked to attend, and state his own position fully and freely. To any such arrangement we would give our hearty support. In the meantime Bro. Lake, at 198, Fleet-street, will give any information to brethren who may wish for it. It does seem a "strong order" and "hard lines" indeed, that in 1879 a Norwegian minister, simply because he is a Freemason, should be driven from his post, and left to starve with his wife and children. But does anything surprise our readers in this queer world of ours? Certainly nothing surprises us.

THE BUDGET.

Though it be a trite remark that Freemasons are not politicians, and know nothing of party, most properly, like other fellow citizens, they are keenly alive to that very serious fact, the "incidence of taxation," and the amiable calls of the untiring tax collector, with which the contemporaneous history of our great people is so intimately and closely bound up. Some of us may remember an olden skit, which declared and demonstrated that Britons were "taxed for everything" in this nether world, yes, "everything," and though since that time fiscal reforms and happy alleviations have lightened the burden of our Anglican "Issachar," yet, quite enough remains to prove that with us taxation is still a reality, a necessity, and a luxury combined. It will be a great relief to many honest Masonic breadwinners to be told, on the "best authority," that, except a slight additional duty on cigars, pace our young men, (a very proper tax indeed), there is to be no increased taxation in the current year. This will be very good news to many up and down the land who read the Freemason carefully week by week, and, like them, we ourselves feel to be in a very grateful and contented mood of mind, when studying the formidable array of figures and the bristling army of facts, which constitute the new Budget of her Majesty's Chancellor of the Exchequer. We are glad also to note some faint gleams of reviving trade and of returning prosperity, and we trust sincerely, as despite hasty vaticinations and profound calculations, that most important and able official has so well brought out his own figures in the twelve months that are sped, so in the year to come his auguries may be realized, and his satisfactory arrangements made still more satisfactory to a confiding and taxpaying people. We shall all of us probably, independently of mere politics, as Masonic philosophers, if you like, take rosy or despondent views of the "situation," as the case may be. But, perhaps, after all the best and safest mode of treating all such subjects is to adopt the good advice and better example offered to us by the facetious and friendly poet. So pray attend and practise his directions, kindly readers all—

"Some public principles he had,
But was no flatterer nor fretter,
He rapped his box when things were bad,
And said, 'I cannot make them better.'
And much he loathed the patriot's snort,
And much he scorned the plieeman's snuffle,
And cut the fiercest quarrels short
With 'Patience, gentlemen, and shuffle.'"

THE BOYS' AND GIRLS' SCHOOLS ELECTIONS.

Dear Bro. Kenning,—
You will perhaps permit me to add in this week's impression, that any of my brethren who may kindly retain votes for me will find me (D.V.) in Freemasons' Hall on Saturday and Monday next, and I shall be most grateful for every vote.
Yours very fraternally,

THE ANCIENT AND ACCEPTED RITE.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I much regret, for one, the tone and temper displayed by "Memphis" in your last issue, in his letter on this subject. The most serious objections may fairly be made, even by the most neutral, much more by the partizan, to the whole style and verbiage of his diatribe. I am not a member of the Ancient and Accepted Rite myself, and, therefore, write quite calmly on the subject, but I doubt much the good of such letters as that in your last, and almost wonder at your allowing it to appear at all, without tremendous pruning, at any rate. For, to say the truth, the whole animus is as un-Masonic, and ungenerous, and ungenial as can possibly be conceived. And knowing how many excellent men and Masons form part of the Ancient and Accepted Rite, I think, for one, "Memphis" had better amend his taste, his similes, and his vocabulary, before he ventures to write again on the subject.

Even as an outsider his letter strikes me as "mighty offensive." I know the difficulties editors have, who wish to be fair, in pruning or excluding correspondence, and probably the Ancient and Accepted Rite in this country will say, "What does it all signify, this 'leather and prunella,' it amuses 'Memphis' and don't hurt us?" Seriously speaking, "Memphis" cannot fairly adduce any arguments from the Constitutions of 1786, which are either real, historical, or valid.

That the members of the Ancient and Accepted Rite have a right to have a central authority in England is to me clear as day. If "Memphis" wishes, keeping clear of personalities, attacks, and inuendos, I shall be happy to discuss the matter with him in the pages of the Freemason.

But I much fear that the letter from the last paragraph is only another attempt to "puff" that ridiculous rite of "Memphis."

I am, yours fraternally,

AN OUTSIDER.

THE RITE ECOSSAIS, ANCIEN ET ACCEPTE.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

My attention has been drawn to the Cosmopolitan Masonic Calendar and Diary for the present year, and as the advertisement on the title page sets forth its being "A comprehensive Masonic book of reference, with full particulars of every Grand Masonic body throughout the globe," I am at loss to know how its compiler or editor could possibly have fallen into so grave an error as that which I find at page 211, where, under the heading of "Grand Orient of France, Supreme Council Thirty-Third Degree," the honoured name of Adolphe Crémieux is given as Sovereign Grand Commander of that body.

The Supreme Council of France, Rite Ecossais Ancien et Accepé, acknowledges as its T.P.S. Grand Commander, Grand Maître, the V. Ill. Bro. Adolphe Crémieux, Senator, and not the Grand Orient. As your Calendar circulates extensively throughout these countries and abroad, it is but right this error should be corrected, as it cannot fail to be prejudicial to the interests of the Supreme Council to attribute its Gr. Commander, Gr. Master, to the Grand Orient, which latter body has completely suppressed the Grand Mastership. I am desired by the Grand Treasurer, the V. Ill. Bro. Maurice Schwalb, 33°, to request a correction in the columns of your journal, in the name of the Supreme Council, and as the Council is too important a body to be thus completely ignored, I append a list of its officers and members.

As I am well aware that the position of the Supreme Council and Central Grand Lodge of France with reference to the Grand Orient is not generally understood by the majority of the English brethren, and that too frequently the lodges under its obedience have been confounded with those of the Grand Orient, I will simply state that the lodge summonses bear a heading which translates thus, "To the glory of the Great Architect of the Universe," and the better to explain the position, I send you certain short articles on "Freemasonry in France." Perhaps one of the most important occurrences in the history of Freemasonry during this century took place on the 24th October last year—I allude to the Grand Masonic Fête, held under the auspices of the Supreme Council of France, in honour of the foreign brethren prior to the close of the International Exhibition. I cannot soon forget the magnificent picture which the interior of the palace of the Trocadero presented upon that important occasion, nor the brilliant addresses delivered by the V. Ill. Gr. Commander Crémieux, and the Gr. Orator, the V. Ill. Bro. Emmanuel Arago. In the words of the Grand Chancellor, the V. Ill. Bro. George Guiffrey, 33°, reviewing this important circumstance: "On the occasion of the International Exhibition we celebrated a Masonic fête, at which Masons from all quarters of the globe were gathered together; the most distant Supreme Councils and Grand Lodges responded to our call, and we have seen hastening to this rendezvous, held in honour of peace and labour, the followers of Hiram spread over the entire face of the globe. Even in the outer world, France herself exercises an influence upon the entire destinies of humanity, and in this circumstance we have proved that Freemasonry of the "Rite Ecossais" has been called upon in France to perform an important rôle in concert with the Freemasons of the entire world. We fully recognise the proofs of sympathy and regard which have been evidenced to us upon this occasion in assuring to foreign Supreme Councils our spirit of concord and devotion; in unison with them we will onward march in the progressive path of civilisation, since it is universal Masonry which should assure to us the definite triumph of the great principles of fraternity and justice."

Needless to say this memorable fête was presided over by the V. Ill. Bro. Adolphe Crémieux, and that amongst the visitors and representatives from foreign Grand Bodies were the M.P. Sovereign Grand Commander, the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale; the Grand Chancellor, J. M. Pulteney Montagu, D.L. (whose able reply on behalf of the foreign brethren was admirably given in the French language); the Grand Secretary-General, Lieut.-Col. Shadwell Henry Clerke, and others; many of the Supreme Councils and Grand Lodges of Europe and America having been also represented. Yet, in the words of the Orator of the Central Grand Lodge of France, the V. Ill. Bro. Fabien, 33°, "Who will guarantee but that within a century it will not be said that the grand Masonic fête of the Trocadero was presided over by Ad. Crémieux as Grand Master of the Grand Orient?"

I shall conclude this communication with a passage translated from a letter of the V. Ill. Bro. Fabien, 33°, addressed to the V. Ill. Bro. Delongray (Grand Capt. of Guards and member of the Administrative Executive Commission of the Supreme Council)—"Strangers contest the regularity of our lodges; we should make ourselves recognised, but to do this we must show ourselves, act, speak, proclaim our principles, since our very existence, even, is ignored in London."

I am, Sir and Bro.,

Very faithfully and fraternally yours,

J. H. LLOYD, LL.D., M.R.I.A., 32^d, France.

THE PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF DEVON.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Having of late years left correspondence in your columns very much to younger men, it may appear unseemly to interfere on a question purely local, concerning a province not now my own. My Masonic life has been spent in four provinces, each respectively for 10, 9, 8, and 5 years, and, having been active in all, I naturally still feel an interest in their doings, more especially as an honorary member of lodges in all. I see that the venerable and beloved P.G.M. for Devon has at last resigned his high position, which he has so long filled with credit to himself and advantage to the Craft. His love for it has induced him to retain the office for many years, during which most men would have sought repose; yet no one who saw him, as I did, at the last provincial meeting could charge him with deficiency in mental vigour during a very lively discussion, for though courtesy and kindness have been marked characteristics of his character, he could and did act with decision and firmness when necessary. When I was first under his rule we several times differed materially on important points, yet he was open to conviction, and there was no departure on either side from kindly personal feelings. My experience in Devon convinced me of the desirability of dividing the province into two portions, and this was greatly strengthened by what occurred at the Provincial Grand Lodge meeting at Okehampton last autumn, so much so that I sent you a letter on the subject, which appeared in your columns on Sept. 7th. I am glad to find that the course I then advocated commends itself to many brethren in Devon, and that steps are being taken to bring the matter before the M.W.G.M. The following appear to be the chief points in its favour:

1. The great extent of the province, about seventy by sixty-five miles.
2. The large number of lodges, nearly fifty, and more than half that number of chapters.
3. The scattered position of the lodges, and the difficulty the brethren have in attending meetings at so great a distance.
4. The impossibility of Provincial Grand Lodge holding meetings, except at very long intervals, at all the lodges, where a hearty welcome would be given.
5. The fact that there are two great centres, Exeter and Plymouth, widely apart, the one in the south, the other in the north, each somewhat jealous of the other in regard to appointments in the Prov. Grand Lodge.
6. There are now upwards of 400 P.M.'s, and the number necessarily increases at the rate of more than thirty annually, who stand no chance of the purple, though many of them have proved themselves highly worthy of such distinction.
7. The inequality between so large a province and many small ones, with less than a fifth of the number of lodges, where Provincial honours are conferred upon brethren who have never passed the chair.
8. The difficulty in selection which the Prov. G.M. encounters, and hence the risk of his popularity among those who are passed over.
9. The present seems a most favourable opportunity for making so desirable a change, which may not occur again for many years.

Commending the matter to the careful consideration of those in whose hands the power is vested, and trusting that the examples of Yorkshire and Lancashire in this respect will be deemed ample precedents for the course proposed,

I remain, yours faithfully and fraternally,

H. H.,

THE "FREEMASON" IN SOUTH AFRICA.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Public attention is now largely directed to Her Majesty's colonies in the various districts forming South Africa. Far-seeing commercial men regard the whole as a magnificent field of a very immediate future for the display of energy and enterprise. The temporary settlement of 10,000 British soldiers, and the arrangement of many disputes other than those involved in the Zulu war, will tend to the further development of the material interests of the different colonies forming a South African dominion. The readers of the Freemason will be glad to know that our Craft exists there in strength, numbers, and prosperity. A hearty welcome will, therefore, be in readiness for such of our brethren as may be proceeding to the Cape on loyalty, business, or pleasure bent. The Freemasons of South Africa share "labour and refreshment" under two Constitutions, the Dutch and the English. The Masonic lodges under the Dutch Constitution are 21 in number, under the English 25, the Royal Arch numbering 8. The numerical strength of the fraternity is considerable. Hitherto the brethren there have been without representative literature. The readers of the Freemason will be glad to know that a spirited effort is about to be made by the proprietor of the Freemason to promote a further union of the lodges of the colonies and the mother country by establishing a local agency for your valued journal, and the other three Masonic publications issued from the Fleet-street depot. On Friday, April 4th, Bro. A. F. Baxter, recently initiated in the Lion and Lamb, sailed in the "Warwick Castle," with his young bride, to settle as a mercantile agent in South Africa, and to act as special representative for Bro. George Kenning's publications. The object of this letter, Mr. Editor, is threefold: 1. To draw the attention of the brethren at home to the strength and importance of the fraternity in South Africa, and to ask them to regard their progress with continued affectionate interest. 2. To acquaint our South African brethren that the four Masonic publications can henceforth be supplied regularly by R. W. Baxter & Co., Cape Town, and forwarded to subscribers in all parts of the colonies. 3. To bespeak a kindly welcome from veterans in South Africa to a young initiate and settler, who comes to them with the best and most fraternal good wishes of the "Lion and Lamb."

Apologising for thus intruding upon your valuable space,

I am, Sir, yours fraternally,

THOMAS JONES, 1657.

FREEMASONRY IN ASIA MINOR.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In Captain Burnaby's very interesting work, "On Horseback through Asia Minor," chapter lxxv., I find the following: "I have been a great deal in the mountains, and know the Kurds well. There are Freemasons amongst them. Their Freemasonry dates back from the time of the ancient Assyrians." The speaker, with whom Captain Burnaby was conversing, was a Turkish colonel of artillery, who had been educated at Woolwich, and spoke English remarkably well.

If Captain Burnaby is a member of the Masonic fraternity himself he might be able to give some more particulars respecting these Kurdish Freemasons than are embraced in the above extract. It would be very interesting to know upon what grounds the Turkish colonel believed that the Kurds derived their Freemasonry from the ancient Assyrians. Perhaps Captain Burnaby would not object to give fuller details through the columns of the Freemason, should the subject be brought under his notice.

Yours fraternally,

G. C. L.

A QUERY.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Is there good reason to suppose that a lady was once made a member of the Craft; and if so, what was her name and lodge?

Yours fraternally,

SECRETARY.

[Yes; the Honourable Elizabeth St. Leger, afterwards the Honourable Mrs. Aldworth. See Kenning's Masonic Cyclopaedia.]

MAY'S BRITISH AND IRISH PRESS GUIDE FOR 1879.

159, Piccadilly, London.

It seems, from this most useful and needful work, a vade mecum for all connected with the Press, in its sixth annual issue, that there are now 1924 newspapers in the United Kingdom, and that of these 505 are published in the metropolis alone, 1015 in the provinces of England, 174 in Scotland, 148 in Ireland, 62 in Wales, and 20 in the British Isles.

Of these 1924 newspapers, 693 are published on the Saturday, 440 on the Friday, 129 on the Thursday, 120 on the Monday, 113 monthly, 112 on the Wednesday, 87 daily in the morning, 65 on the Tuesday, 59 daily in the evening, 27 three times a week, 16 fortnightly, 14 five times a week, 9 on Sunday, though we are glad only one of these—the Observer—is actually published on a Sunday, and which we regret as a fact. Sunday publication is, in our opinion, a wrong to all concerned. 7 seem to be numbered among the "irregular and miscellaneous," and one paper is published quarterly. Of these 1924 papers, as the fact may interest our readers, we repeat what Mr. May tells us, in his clear tabular statement, that 567 are of professedly Liberal principles, 329 of Conservative, 70 of Liberal Conservative, and 958 independent or neutral. Of this little army of the press, 1016 are penny papers—what a wonderful fact in itself—261 are at twopenny, 108 a halfpenny, 105½ threepence, 97 sixpence, 91 three halfpence, 61 fourpence, and the rest vary from threepence-halfpenny to two shillings, while 11 are published gratuitously. These are facts and figures which deserve attention and consideration. If we turn to the periodicals (including magazines and reviews), it seems that there are 860 published in the United Kingdom. Of these 580 are monthly, 105 are quarterly, 96 are weekly, 49 are irregular and various, and the remaining 24 vary from "twice a week" to "half-yearly." Of these publications—scarcely remarkable fact—283 are issued at 1d., 108 at 6d., and the remainder vary from a halfpenny to six shillings, 19 being published gratuitously. We may observe, that in addition there are periodicals varying from 2d. to 5 guineas per annum, though this note we confess we do not quite understand unless, as it appears this list includes about 70 of the 860. Of this 860, 360 have a religious tendency, 305 are illustrated periodicals, and of these 25 contain coloured plates and six are illustrated by photography. 83 periodicals are devoted to the juvenile portion of the community, 111 are trade journals, 12 represent the labour question, and 58 are set forth of "temperance principles," 7 seek to advance the interests of women, and 28 are given up to "fashions." Several periodicals are issued in the Welsh and French languages, one in Arabic and Hindostani, and others are partly printed in the Gaelic and Lancashire dialect. Two magazines contain literary compositions by patients of asylums for the insane. Are not these "facts" indeed worth noting and which if they would have startled our forefathers, must have even some effect on our apathetic and unimpressed age.

FIRST ANNUAL REPORT OF THE HOME HOSPITALS' ASSOCIATION FOR PAYING PATIENTS.

Harrison and Son, 11, St. Martin's-lane, Printers to the Queen.

We have read this report with much interest, as a tentative effort to what many deem a much needed reform. We confess ourselves, however, to be somewhat in a haze and doubt on the subject, inasmuch as the movement, however well intended, seems to us to antagonise the great and beneficent idea of the "hospital," per se. It may be right, it may be a necessity of our times, but, none the less, it does at first sight appear to run counter to the genial and philanthropic principles of gratuitous hospital aid to the poor and suffering. So many kind-hearted and worthy persons have taken up, however, the theory, that we feel it deserves honest consideration and respectful treatment. The report so far is only preliminary. Something like £8000 have been received, of which £1185 have been paid as a deposit on the purchase of leasehold property, Berkeley House, Manchester-square, where the hospital work is to be carried on. We confess we do not exactly see why the block of St. Thomas's Hospital was not leased as an experiment. No doubt the Committee had good and sufficient reasons for their decision, but we venture to think the experiment would have started as well there as in or near Manchester-square. When "doctors differ who shall agree?" is an old adage, and we shall await, with no little interest, the second report of this new hospital. But we think it right to add that a good deal of nonsense, in our opinion, has been talked on the subject, and by those who ought to have known better too.

THE ROSICRUCIAN for January, 1879.

This number shews proof of able editing, and is full of articles of interest and pleasurable reading. For those who affect the mysteries of the "Rosae Crucis," to all who care for abstruse disquisitions and Hermetic researches, we recommend this well-printed and well-edited magazine.

THE MONDE MAÇONNIQUE for March. Edited by Bro. Caubet.

This well-known French magazine, ably edited as it always is, though we do not always profess to agree with it, has its usual articles, all, no doubt, full of information for French brethren, but possessing, for various reasons, little interest for English readers. It is, alas! only too marked, alike in tone and temper, the change which seems to have come over French Freemasonry.

LA CHAÎNE D'UNION for March.

Bro. Hubert continues the even and useful tenour of his way, and we always read his magazine with pleasure. Of course we do not always agree with the sentiments of the speakers, as French Freemasons too often wander, in our opinion, into devious paths, and un-Masonic regions, but no one can be insensible to the vigorous and enlightened editorship of Bro. Hubert, just as no one can doubt his honesty of purpose and Masonic singleness of aim.

THE LODGE OF ANTIQUITY, NO. 2.

It seems, though it is a fact which, as far as I know, has escaped even the attention of Bros. Hughan and Gould, and Masonic Student so far, that in 1794, the Lodge of Harodim, 467, was discontinued on being united to No. 1, the then Lodge of Antiquity. If I am in error on the point of this being a new statement I shall be glad of being corrected.

ANDERSON'S LIST OF LODGES.

I should like to draw the attention of Masonic students to "Anderson's List of Lodges for 1738," in the Masonic Magazine for April, especially to the valuable explanatory notes. There is no name to the article, but I fancy the writer is well known to me as an earnest and able Masonic student.

I have been trying to place the present numbers to those lodges which bear the *, and think that consecutively they run as follows: 2, 4, 6, 8, 10, 16, 14, 12, 18, 20, 21, 23, 26, 28, 29, and 33. Old 68 (London in list) has a , and also 69. The latter is evidently 35, now held at Isle of Wight. Have not yet placed 68*. Then follow 45, 55, and 56 (now at Arundle). For country lodges we have now 39 (Axeth); 37 (Bolton); 41 (Bath); 42 (Bury); 43 (Birmingham). After this it is not easy to follow the stars. Newcastle-on-Tyne, of 1735, has a star. Should it not be 48 (Gateshead)? 51 (Colchester); 52 (Norwich); 61 (Halifax), then come regularly.

MASONIC WORKS IN THE BRITISH MUSEUM.

I quite agree with our Bro. R. F. G. in his estimate of the value of the catalogue, commenced in the April number of the Masonic Magazine, of Masonic works in the "British Museum." I find, however, many names absent of modern English Masonic works, viz., several of Dr. Oliver's, and of my own works only one is mentioned out of five, for which I hold the regular receipts of the British Museum. It certainly does seem strange that well known and useful works like the Cyclopaedias published by Bro. John Hogg, and the one published by Bro. Kenning, cannot be obtained by readers in the British Museum. Why is this? Surely both Bros. Hogg and Kenning have sent the copies, as required, for the use of that Institution and the Universities, &c.

Works which allude to Freemasonry, though not strictly Masonic, should also be catalogued, just as Dr. Kloss has ably done to the year 1844.

FUNERAL OF BRO. JOHN JOHNSON.

The funeral of Bro. John Johnson took place on Wednesday, the 2nd inst., at Abney Park Cemetery. On behalf of West Smithfield Lodge, 1623, as their representatives, were Bros. E. Mallett, P.M. 141, Secretary; H. J. Lardner, G. H. Stephens, J. J. Howes, who were in the grounds, and followed his remains to the church. They proceeded to the head of the grave, accompanied by Bro. Summers, P.M., who had provided himself with a sprig of acacia, which he placed in the hands of Bro. T. W. Adams, I.P.M. 1623, who (on the arrival of the deceased brother's remains, and prior to the reading of our beautiful funeral service) put that sprig on the head of the coffin as a token of Masonic respect.

There were at the funeral a numerous assemblage of the employés of the Gas, Coke, and Light Company, apparently from the highest to the humblest of the firm, where he was held in the greatest respect, as he had devoted a lifetime of energy and talent in the best interests for the firm. Upwards of twenty carriages followed in the procession, and amongst the occupants we noticed Bros. J. H. Pearson, Church, Fraser, Crombie, and many other eminent Masons. Universal sorrow and regret was expressed at his loss; great sympathy and condolence was felt for his sorrowing widow and his three children, the eldest of whom is but thirteen years old.

The last public act of our worthy brother was his representing West Smithfield Lodge, 1623, when on his list he collected seventy-five guineas for the Royal Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and their Widows. His end was peace. He lived respected and died regretted.

Apologies were received from the Secretaries of his lodges, from a large number of the members who regretted their absence, caused by unforeseen circumstances, amongst whom were Bros. F. Walters, T. M. Butt, W. Butt, F. Howes, Egbert Roberts, and others.

THE DISASTER AT SZEGEDIN.

We have been requested to publish the following, which we gladly do:—

St. John's Grand Lodge of Hungary, Budapest. To the glory of the Great Architect of the Universe. To all W. and W. lodges and to all brethren of the globe. Or. Budapest, 14th March, 1879.

W. and Bel. Brethren,—

Szegedin, one of the most prosperous Hungarian cities, was inundated on the 12th March by the floods of the Theiss river, and was almost completely destroyed.

Thousands of inhabitants of that unfortunate city found their death, parents lost their children, and children their protectors and supporters.

Seventy thousand persons are exposed to the greatest misery and privation, and are left to wander about without shelter. Even the hope of gaining a livelihood is taken away from those unfortunate sufferers by the fact of hundred thousands of acres of fertile ground around being completely flooded.

In that city, once so industrious and now crushed by misfortune, for which it cannot be made responsible, exists one of our most active lodges, the Arpad Lodge. Its members have always shown themselves very assiduous in the services of the Royal Art, and have often proved their Masonic spirit by acts of charity. To-day they are themselves in need of help, for their property is destroyed, and the results of years of toil have become a prey to elementary force.

The different lodges working under the authority of St. John's Grand Lodge of Hungary have immediately been called upon to render all possible assistance, but, in spite of their readiness to do so, their power to carry efficient help to the numerous brethren in Szegedin must be pronounced totally inadequate to the magnitude of the calamity. In consideration of this sad fact the Grand Lodge of Hungary herewith addresses itself to all warranted and worshipful lodges, as well as to all brethren of the globe, with the urgent request to remember the unfortunate sufferers of Szegedin, and to assist them in finding the means for a new existence.

We are convinced that you will take part in such an act of humanity, and ask you kindly to direct your contributions to the office of St. John's Grand Lodge of Hungary, in Budapest, Josephplatz 11. The sums received shall be acknowledged in its official paper, Orient, and the Grand Lodge shall cause their distribution to be conducted by the brethren of the Arpad Lodge working under its authority in the Orient of Szegedin.

We greet you with brotherly love.

For the St. John's Grand Lodge of Hungary,
FRANCIS PULSZKY, The Grand Master.
ALEX. UHL, The Grand Secretary.

FREEMASONRY IN CHINA.

The sixteenth annual installation of W.M. of the Tuscan Lodge took place on Monday, the 30th December, 1878, on which occasion the various officers were also invested.

W. Bro. J. C. Hughes, the W.M. for 1878, being unfortunately absent from Shanghai, the lodge was opened at nine o'clock p.m. by W. Bro. Lewis Moore, I.P.M., the hall being well thronged with brethren, among the more distinguished of whom were the following:—W. Bros. Weiller, D.G. Supt. of Works, and Drummond Hay, D.G. Treasurer, of the D.G. Lodge of Japan; Thos. Pemberton, W.M. Lodge Cosmopolitan, 428, S.C.; M. H. Cook, P.M., and D. C. Jansen, W.M. Ancient Landmark Lodge, Mass. Constitution; W. L. Koch, jun., W.M. Lodge Germania, and many others.

Shortly afterwards the R.W.D. Grand Master, Bro. C. Thorne, entered the lodge, accompanied by the following District Grand Officers:—W. Bros. T. W. Kingsmill, President Board of General Purposes; P. Orme, D.G. Sec.; H. Evans, D.G.J.D.; H. S. Morris, D.G. Dir. of Cer.; G. B. Fentum, D.G. Org., who presided at the organ; J. Brown, D.G. Purst.; W. H. Anderson and Bro. B. Palamountain, D.G. Stewards, and others, and they were received with the customary honours.

W. Bro. Moore thanked the R.W.D.G.M. and his officers for the honour of their company, to which the R.W.D.G.M. replied, that from the time of its foundation he had always taken the greatest interest in the Tuscan Lodge, and, as an honorary member of it, he felt an additional pleasure in the exercise of his right as D.G.M. to assist at these ceremonies.

W. Bro. Moore then requested W. Bro. Thos. W. Kingsmill, President of the Board of General Purposes, to conduct the installation, and W. Bro. Kingsmill having accepted the gavel, took the chair, and proceeded to install the W.M. elect, W. Bro. W. H. Short, who, after the observance of the ancient customs, then invested his officers for the ensuing year, viz.: Bros. Wm. Miller, S.W.; H. J. Fisher, J.W.; C. H. King, Treas.; John Morris, Sec.; Cecil W. Holiday, S.D.; J. W. L. M. Williamson, J.D.; R. Markwick, D.C.; G. E. York, Steward; J. A. Sullivan, I.G.; T. Hore, Tyler.

The W.M. thanked W. Bro. Kingsmill for his kindness in undertaking the installation, and expressed his admiration of the able manner in which it had been conducted at his hands.

W. Bro. Kingsmill, in reply, paid some very high compliments to the working of the Tuscan Lodge, which he had enjoyed many opportunities of witnessing, and concluded by wishing the lodge continued prosperity.

The W.M. then thanked the numerous visitors for their presence, and invited them to partake of a supper which had been provided.

The lodge being closed, the brethren adjourned to the banquet room, which had given Bro. Hore, the Tyler, an opportunity of displaying the decorative art in a very effective manner, seasonable evergreens being happily blended with Masonic devices.

After the refreshments, the W.M. rose to propose the first toast of the evening, viz., "The Queen and the Craft," and said—Our Queen shows her interest in Masonry by the generous support she gives to the Charities, and although the ladies are not represented at our Masonic meetings, Her Majesty has ever shown her kindly feelings towards the Craft. The present time, however, is one of sorrow to the Queen, and I am sure I express the sentiments of the Craft at large, when I say how heartily we sympathise with her in her bereavement by the lamented death of the beloved Princess Alice. The feelings of love and loyalty to Her Majesty extend, indeed, to the very ends of the earth, and I need, therefore, do no more than call upon you to honour the toast, "The Queen and the Craft."

The National Anthem having been sung, the W.M. said—The next toast it is customary to divide, but, as time is short, I am sure it will not be considered disrespectful if I unite with our Most Worshipful Grand Master, the Pro Grand Master, his Deputy Grand Master, and the officers of the Grand Lodge of England. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales looks personally into all details connected with his office, and causes much enthusiasm amongst the Grand Officers by his own example. Indeed, no matter what duties he undertakes, he throws so much goodwill and work into them as to gain the affections of those around him. The Pro Grand Master and Deputy Grand Master also are ever to the front when needed in any Masonic capacity, while the Grand Officers well support their endeavours to promote the welfare of Freemasonry. I now ask you to drink "To the Most Worshipful Grand Master, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the Officers of the Grand Lodge of England."

W. Bro. Orme, P.M., then rose to propose a toast which he felt would meet with cordial acceptance from the brethren. Much of the success which had attended Freemasonry in China was owing, he said, to the mutual understanding and general good fellowship which had at all times existed between sister lodges working under various Constitutions. In a place so distant from our homes, and where the community was so purely cosmopolitan as in China, such friendly feelings could not be too warmly appreciated, and it gave him great pleasure, as he was sure it did to all the members of the Tuscan Lodge, to see so many illustrious brethren hailing from sister lodges among them that night. This was not the first time it had been the privilege of the Tuscan Lodge to meet brethren from sister lodges at the festive board, and he hoped it would not be the last. The example set by the Ancient Landmark Lodge, Mass. Constitution, and so successfully followed by other lodges in Shanghai, was a good one. He believed that such meetings did a great deal towards cementing union among Masons of different nationalities; it enabled them to become acquainted with each other, and assisted in finding out the amiable qualities of each. He greeted with pleasure the representatives of the Lodge Germania, working under the Three Globes, Berlin, many of whose members were initiated into Freemasonry in the Tuscan Lodge, and he should always feel a warm interest in their welfare and prosperity. There were also members present from the Cosmopolitan Lodge, No. 428, under the Grand Lodge of Scotland, and of the Ancient Landmark Lodge, under the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, all of whom he heartily welcomed. Much had already been said on Masonic subjects during the evening, and as there were several speakers to follow him, he would, without further preface, ask the brethren to drink "The Health of the Grand Masters and Officers of Sister Grand Lodges."

W. Bro. M. H. Cook, P.M. Ancient Landmark Lodge, responded on behalf of the Lodge of Massachusetts. Masonry, he was proud to say, had established a firm footing in America, and the Grand Lodge which he represented was one of the oldest offshoots of the Craft in the New Continent. He was happy to meet on common ground with brethren hailing from other Constitutions, and the Ancient Landmark Lodge felt itself honoured by the kind hospitality which had that evening been extended to its members.

The W.M. then said the toast he had now the pleasure to propose was "The District Grand Master and Officers of the D.G.L. of Northern China." All Masons working under the English Constitution must feel very proud of the rare abilities of R.W. Bro. Thorne. W. Bro. Kingsmill, too, had that evening conducted the installing ceremonies in a most highly efficient manner, whilst W. Bro. Moore had had the bulk of the lodge work to direct during the past year, owing to the unexpected departure of W. Bro. Hughes, who held the chair. The W.M. concluded by proposing the toast of which he had given notice.

The toast was acknowledged by W. Bro. Thorne, R.W.D.G.M., who said—W.M., Bros. Wardens and brethren, in returning you thanks on behalf of the officers of the D.G. Lodge for the kind response you have made to the toast proposed in such eloquent terms by the W.M., I can assure you it is a pleasure at all times for us to take part in your ceremonies. The admirable manner in which the installation has been performed by our W. Bro. Kingsmill will, I hope, make its proper impression upon you, so that you may carry out the principles inculcated thereby. Masonry is doing good service in Shanghai, and I am sure if we all strive to promulgate its true principles, we shall find much benefit accrue to others who are not within our pale. The D.G. Officers are ever ready to lend their aid in assisting the working of the various lodges, and I trust the junior members of the Craft will emulate their example. To shew what may be achieved in this way, I may instance the career of our W. Bro. Henry Eneas Sidford, who was largely instrumental in establishing the Tuscan Lodge, in connection wherewith he overcame a multitude of difficulties. We all know his services to the Doric Lodge at Chinkiang, and we now hear of his visiting Amoy to install the W.M. of the new Ionic Lodge there, the D.G.M. of Hong Kong having recognised Bro. Sidford's long and able services by appointing him his District Grand Senior Warden. Before I resume my seat I have to ask you to join me in drinking "The Health of the W.M." our W. Bro. Short, who by the manner in which he handles the gavel gives promise of proving himself a worthy successor of former incumbents of the Tuscan chair, and may our best wishes help him on the way.

The W.M. said he had already addressed the brethren on several occasions, and need scarcely say there was no more gratifying one than the present, but as he had no wish to monopolise the conversation, he would simply ask their acceptance of his heartfelt thanks and wish prosperity to every one present.

Bro. Wm. Miller, S.W., said the next toast was one which would be received with much satisfaction. Unlike the one they had last honoured, this was not a personal but a collective toast, yet it gave him (Bro. Miller) an opportunity of mentioning by name several of their senior brethren, who not only had benefitted Freemasonry generally, but had given himself great assistance, and allowed him to profit by their more extended experience. He alluded more particularly to W. Bros. J. C. Hughes, Louis Moore, J. I. Miller, P. Orme, R. S. Gundry, and last but not least to W. Bro. C. Thorne, our present R.W.D.G.M., who had been associated with the Tuscan Lodge from its very foundation, and although he had never filled the chair of that particular lodge, had always favoured us with his attendance on all possible occasions. Bro. Miller concluded by proposing "The Health of the Past Masters of the Tuscan Lodge" coupled with the name of W. Bro. Orme.

In replying to the toast, W. P. M. Orme, P.D.G.J.W. for China, alluded to the pleasure it always afforded Past Masters in the Craft to view the progress and improvement of Freemasonry. It was of course very gratifying to the Past Masters of the Tuscan Lodge particularly to mark the strides it had made during the past few years. One of its founders was present here that night, R.W. Bro. C. Thorne, and to him many thanks were due, not only for work formerly done in the lodge, but for the instruction and guidance afforded to its rulers, since he had been appointed by the Prince of Wales to the high office he at present occupied; and it must be very gratifying to him to see the very creditable institution that had been erected on the foundation of the Tuscan Lodge. Bro. Miller had made very flattering allusion to the works of W. Bros. Gundry, J. I. Moore, L. Moore, and himself (W. Bro. Orme), and doubtless all the Past Masters would agree with him in feeling that their labours were rewarded by the high position the Tuscan Lodge now held. He noticed the improved working in Shanghai lodges generally, and recommended the junior brethren to attend regularly the Lodge of Assiduity which had so largely led to this result, and with a tribute of praise to the W.M. and officers lately electd, he closed his remarks by thanking the brethren for their cordial reception of the toast of the P.M.'s.

W. Bro. Kingsmill said a pleasing duty devolved on him in the toast he now had to propose. They had heard of the present officers of the Tuscan Lodge, and they had seen how worthy they were of the promotion which had fallen to their lot, but what of those of the past, without whose exertions the lodge could never have attained its present position? He had for many years noted the zealous discharge of their duties by the Masters who year after year had been elected to fill the chair, and under whose bountiful care the lodge had always been conducted in a manner which reflected credit on Masonry in Shanghai. He was sorry to miss from amongst them W. Bro. Hughes, their I.P.M., who had been summoned from Shanghai during his year of office, but all, or nearly all, the past officers of the year were then around him, and in proposing their health he would couple it with the name of one of the most distinguished of their number, a well-known and honoured Mason, W. Bro. Lewis Moore.

W. Bro. Moore, in reply, said: W.M. and brethren, I regret W. Bro. Hughes, the I.P.M., is not present here this evening, as he could have replied to the toast in a far more able manner than I can. However, on his behalf, I beg to thank you. I am sure you all regret that he was obliged to leave before his term of office had expired, as he had the working of the lodge at heart. On behalf of the officers I also beg to return their sincere thanks. They have all done their best to enable the working of the lodge to go on smoothly, and I am glad their endeavours have been so much appreciated. The praise poured on me by the W.M. I am afraid I am not entitled to, because I have only done my duty as a Mason ought to do, and further I shall at all times be ready to assist the lodge as far as lies in my power, when called upon. I trust the Tuscan Lodge will continue to work as heretofore, and that it will shortly be, if it is not already, second to none in Shanghai.

W. Bro. Moore again rose and said: W.M. and brethren, I am glad that the proposal of the next toast has been entrusted to me. You have heard W. Bro. Orme dilate upon the Sister Grand Lodges, and incidentally refer to the lodges in Shanghai working under their rule. It is "Prosperity to these Lodges and Health to their Members" that I ask you to respond to, and I am certain it requires no commendation from me to ensure an enthusiastic reception to this toast. We have present with us to-night members of the Lodges Ancient Landmark, Cosmopolitan, and Germania. Lately, many of us assisted at the installation ceremonies of the two former, and afterwards enjoyed the hospitality of their members. I regret to say that, through the ignorance of many of our own members of the German language, we are not enabled to join in the ceremonies of the latter lodge as we would like to do, but we can at all times bear testimony to the fraternal feeling that exists between the members and ourselves, which is fully borne out by the ready and kind manner in which they attend our meetings, and cheer us by their genial cordiality. They also unite with us in aiding the relief of suffering amongst the brethren, when, unfortunately, it is necessary to enlist their sympathies. Brethren, I was going to say a great deal more, but I have just been reminded time is short. I will not, therefore, detain you further, but at once ask you to unite in wishing prosperity to our sister lodges, and continued health and strength to their members.

W. Bro. Jansen, W.M. Ancient Landmark Lodge, Mass. Constitution, in a humorous speech, acknowledged the toast on behalf of his own and the other lodges, and favourably contrasted the warmth of his reception with the severity of the weather, the thermometer being at the time somewhere in the neighbourhood of zero. He was glad, however, to see that W. Bro. Kingsmill kept up a generous flow from the capacious punch-bowl before him, and which he fancied the coldness of the night would render more attractive than his speaking. W. Bro. Moore had claimed for the officers of the Tuscan Lodge that they had done their best in Masonry. He (Bro. Jansen) did not doubt they had also done their best to warm the room, and he could have wished that greater success had rewarded their labours in that direction. For his own part, however, he had been very glad to partake of their hospitable entertainment, and would conclude by asking the brethren to drink to "The Health of the Officers of the Tuscan Lodge." (Cheers.)

Bro. H. J. Fisher, J.W., acknowledged the compliment on behalf of himself and his brother officers.

W. Bro. Orme, in a few appropriate words, then proposed "The Health of the Visitors," which was acknowledged by W. Bro. Weiller, of the D.G. Lodge of Japan.

The Tyler's toast brought the formal part of the programme to an end, but the punch-bowl yet retained some hidden secrets which the more mysterious of the brethren were resolved to conceal.

The Provincial Grand Chapter Lodge of the Royal Order of Scotland will hold a meeting at 33, Golden-square, on Thursday, the 15th May, at 4 o'clock. Names of candidates (who must be members of the Royal Arch and 18°), should be sent to the Provincial Grand Secretary at the above address as soon as possible.

The half-yearly convocation of the Provincial Grand Chapter of Cumberland and Westmorland will be held in the Freemasons' Hall, Castle-street, Carlisle, on Wednesday, the 16th inst., under the banner of the Union Chapter, No. 310, the Earl of Bective, M.P., M.E.P.G. Supt., presiding.

Bro. Sawyer, whose name was so well known to the frequenters of the Crystal Palace as the refreshment contractor, has entered on the management of the Station Restaurant (beneficent to be called Sawyer's), Railway-place, Fenchurch-street. We trust he will be quite successful in his new venture.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

WANDSWORTH LODGE (No. 1044).—A meeting—the closing one for the season—was held at the Spread Eagle Hotel, on Wednesday evening, Bro. W. A. Morgan, the W.M., presiding. Bros. T. Arnison and W. Bell were raised. Bro. A. N. Newens was elected as the W.M. elect. It was resolved, after some discussion, to remove the lodge from its present quarters.

CAPPER LODGE (No. 1076).—The usual monthly meeting of the above lodge took place at the Guildhall Tavern, Grisham-street, City, on Thursday, the 10th inst., Bro. Francis Brien, W.M., in the chair, supported by the following Past Masters, officers, and visiting brethren:—J. White, I.M.P.; H. B. Halliday, P.M.; T. G. Day, P.M.; J. Dorton, P.M.; P. McCarthy, S.W.; W. Taplay, J.W.; James Mitchell, Sec.; J. T. K. Job, S.D.; W. Neverd, I.G.; A. R. Mason, D.C.; B. Norman, Tyler; G. S. King, 1256; C. Jolly, 913 (Freemason); and others. The lodge having been duly opened, and the minutes of the last meeting confirmed, Bro. Sykes was raised to the Sublime Degree by the Master in rare style. Bro. White, P.M., then brought forward, pursuant to a notice of motion, the following resolution: "That the annual subscriptions be raised to 2½ guineas for town members, and £1 for country members, the additional subscriptions to be placed to the credit of the Vice-President Fund of the Masonic Charities." In putting it Bro. White, in eloquent language, pointed out that by the addition of 7s. 6d. per year to their present subscription the immense good the Charities would receive, and the large number of votes the lodge in a few years would have at its disposal for charitable purposes. For less than 2d. per week per member they could each year get a Vice-President for either of the Charities. A discussion ensued, and it was ultimately carried. Bro. Taplay then moved, in accordance with a notice of motion, "That the meetings of the lodge begin in October instead of September, and close in April instead of May." This, he said, would give them two months more rest than they had at present, and at the same time be a saving to the funds of the lodge. The resolution was seconded and carried unanimously. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to refreshment, when the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given by the W.M., and cordially responded to. Bro. P.M. White, in proposing the toast of "The W.M.," spoke of his excellent work and just impartiality as his ruler, and wished him all prosperity. Bro. Brien, in response, drew attention to the motion of Bro. White, and expressed his conviction that the more they saw of its working the better they would like it. (Hear, hear.) The next toast was that of "The Past Masters," and Bros. White, Halliday, and Dorton severally responded. Bros. King and Jolly responded for "The Visitors," and the latter returned thanks for the Masonic press. The toast of "The Officers" followed, and Bro. McCarthy responded, and in so doing spoke with pride of the resolution passed that night. He likened the Masonic Institutions to lifeboats, and their little nieces and nephews and poor old brethren and sisters to drowning and shipwrecked castaways those lifeboats were to save from death and destruction. He believed it would be a work that would prosper and would have a blessing with it. (Cheers.) He concluded a stirring speech with thanking the W.M. and the brethren for the reception given the toast. Bros. Taplay, Job, Mitchell, and Nevin as well responded, and then the Tyler's toast concluded the meeting. We cannot close our report without mentioning the pleasure afforded the brethren by Bro. King's intensely laughable recitation, "The Choice of a Trade," and as well the excellent singing of Bros. Sherwin, Taplay, Halliday, and others.

ISLINGTON LODGE (No. 1471).—The installation meeting of this lodge took place at the Cock Tavern, Highbury, on Thursday, 10th inst. Present: Bros. Braine, W.M.; Banson, S.W.; Knell, J.W.; Cook, Treas.; Holness, Sec.; Sanders, S.D.; Blinkhorn, J.D.; Cox, I.G.; Halestrap, W.S.; Lake, D.C.; Mather, P.M.; Bowyer, P.M.; Davy, P.M.; Shaw, Hunt, Davies, Baker, and others. The following visitors were present: Bros. Dosell, P.M. 55, P.P.G.D.C. Surrey; Ford, 1580; and Shipley, J.W. 30. The lodge was opened in the First Degree, and the minutes having been read and confirmed, Bro. Colmer answered the usual questions and was entrusted. The lodge was then opened in the Second Degree, and Bro. Colmer was duly passed to the Degree of Fellow Craft. The lodge then resumed in the First Degree, and Mr. Samuel Henry Wallis was regularly initiated into Freemasonry by Bro. Braine, in ancient form. The lodge again resumed in the Second Degree, and the dispensation granted by the M.W.G.M. to enable Bro. Banson, the W.M. elect, to take the chair of this lodge (he being at present W.M. of the Cranbourne Lodge, No. 1580), was read, and Bro. Banson, having been presented, was installed into the chair of K. S. by Bro. Braine, the W.M. The following appointments were made: Bros. Braine, I.P.M.; Knell, S.W.; Sanders, J.W.; Blinkhorn, S.D.; Cox, J.D.; Lake, I.G.; Halestrap, D.C.; and Shaw, W.S. At the close of the business, the lodge adjourned to a banquet provided by Bro. Baker (who is a member of this lodge). The usual loyal toasts were given. The toast of "The Past Masters, I.P.M., and Installing Master," afforded an opportunity to present the retiring Master with Past Master's jewel. The toast of "The Initiate" was received with great enthusiasm, and responded to by Bro. Wallis. The toast of "The Visitors" followed, and Bro. P.M. Dosell, in responding, thanked the lodge for the hospitality extended to the visitors, and also for the Masonic treat he had enjoyed in witnessing the able working of the Installing Master. He said that, during an experience of more than twenty years in Freemasonry, and having heard the ceremony of installation worked by many Grand Officers and Masters of lodges, he had never before heard it rendered in so perfect a manner as on this occasion. He also alluded to the able working of the ceremony in the First Degree, and trusted the present W.M. would be able to instal his successor in like manner. Other toasts followed, and the proceedings were enlivened by some excellent songs, Bro. Braine being well to the fore with his "Five o'clock Bus."

CREATON LODGE (No. 1791).—This rapidly rising lodge held its second regular meeting at Freemasons' Hall, on Thursday, the 10th inst., when there were present Bros. Col. J. Creaton, W.M.; H. J. Johnson, S.W.; J. J. Cante, P.M., Hon. Sec.; J. Nielson, S.D.; H. Buck, J.D.; R. G. Shute, D.C.; W. Williams, W.S.; J. Kift, Organist. The W.M. being detained by other business a little beyond the time for opening, P.M. Cante opened the lodge in due form, and Bros. R. H. Rogers and A. Walter, who were candidates for passing, having answered the questions in an excellent manner, were entrusted, and afterwards passed to the Degree of F.C. by the P.M. The ballot was taken for three joining members, Bros. Renshaw, Colevill, and Paetel, it was also taken for two initiates, Messrs. E. Austin and A. Beaumont, being in all cases unanimous. Just at this moment a telegram arrived from Mr. A. Beaumont, saying, he was detained in the country and would not be able to be present in time. The W.M. then took his seat, and in a most impressive manner initiated Mr. Austin into our ancient Order. The Secretary read a letter from Bro. J. William, Junior Warden, stating that in consequence of a domestic affliction he could not be present—Bro. P.M., Thurkle acted as Junior Warden in his absence. The office of Treasurer having only been held by Bro. S.W. pro tem., Bro. Thurkle, P.M., who had been duly elected to that office, was now invested. All business being over, the lodge was closed in due form, when the brethren adjourned to the tavern, where an excellent banquet was served to them by Bro. A. Best, after which the usual Masonic toasts were given. In proposing "The Initiate," the W.M. expressed his pleasure at the attention and general bearing of Bro. Austin, and hoped he would take a great interest in the Craft. Bro. Austin thanked the W.M. and brethren, and hoped he should prove in time all they wished him to be. Bro. P.M. Cante then addressed the brethren, saying he had been granted the use of the gavel for a short time, and the purpose to which he should use it was one which every brother would obey from the bottom of his heart—it was to propose "The Health of the W.M.," and he felt sure no W.M. could be more beloved by the members of a lodge than theirs was by them, and he (Bro. Cante) felt proud of having such a W.M., and he was sure they all felt the same pride that he had. For twenty-seven years their W.M. had been a Mason. During that time he had filled the chair of K.S. twice in the Lodge of Antiquity, one of the highest and most celebrated lodges of the Order. He had by them been appointed to represent the lodge as Grand Steward, and he had been appointed by the M.W.G.M. to the position of Grand Deacon. He had in turn been President of all the Charities, and now they had to congratulate him upon another honour, which the Creaton Lodge considered greater than all, for it showed the great confidence the Craft had in their W.M., for they had elected him to the post of Grand Treasurer by an overwhelming majority, and over the head of one who held a far higher position in a worldly sense, but the Craft knew what Bro. Colonel Creaton had done for them, and took the opportunity of showing their great faith in him. Turning to the W.M., Bro. Cante said—And now I have to inform you that I am deputed by my brother officers of this lodge to present you with this gold key, the emblem of your new office, as a mark of their love and esteem, and as I place this upon your collar, where, after a few days, it will be your duty always to wear it, think you are receiving it, not for any actual value it may possess, but when you look upon it think this was given you with feelings of most sincere love and kindest regards, and may the G.A.O.T.U. spare you for many years, and give you health and strength to wear it and be amongst us, and discharge the great duties of your important office. Col. Creaton, in responding, said he scarce knew how to reply to what had been said and done. He felt deeply moved at the kindness that had been shown him, and thanked them very much indeed, and hoped he should be spared for many years to be with them. The toast of "The Visitors" was next given, and responded to by Bro. Letchworth, of Antiquity Lodge, No. 2, saying he was very pleased to have been present and seen the excellent working of the lodge; in every respect the officers seemed to be thoroughly well up to the work they had to do, and, for so young a lodge, he thought it was a sign that what they had commenced they intended to carry out well. He congratulated the W.M. upon being Master of such a lodge, and the brethren upon having such a tried and worthy brother as their W.M., one who had done all he could to forward Masonry in every way, especially its Charities. Wishing the lodge every success, he thanked them on behalf of himself and brother visitors. The toast of "Treasurer and Secretary" was proposed by the W.M., who said they had not had the opportunity of trying their new Treasurer, but he had no doubt he would prove an efficient officer. With regard to Bro. Cante, the Secretary, they had a great deal to thank him for, as he was decidedly the founder of the lodge; he was a zealous officer, and he asked the brethren to join him in the toast. The toast was responded to by Bros. Cante and Thurkle, and "The Officers" and Tyler's toasts followed. There were present as visitors Bros. Knight Smith, W.M. 1441; Reynolds, 1441; Martin, Acacia; Morgan, Unity; W. Williams, 724; Letchworth, 2; McLeod, 1624; Flatterly, 1624; Coulter, R. Union. Some excellent music was rendered by Bros. Kift, Martin, Reynolds, Knight Smith, and Cante, making a most enjoyable evening.

LIVERPOOL.—Merchants Lodge (No. 241).—The usual monthly meeting of what may be recognised as the premier lodge of West Lancashire—the Merchants, No. 241—took place on Tuesday evening, the 8th inst., at the Masonic Hall. Bro. James Winsor, W.M., presided over a goodly gathering of members and visitors, amongst the Principals present being Bros. G. Broadbridge, P.M., P.P.G.D.C., D.C.; Thomas Salter, J.W.; Dr. McGeorge, P.P.G. Reg., Treas.; John Latta, S.D.; J. Proeber, Org.; J. Pendleton, I.G.; P. Ball, P.G.T.; Tyler; D. Wright, W. Stediford, John Winsor, W. A. Cottle, F. Shaw, J. W. Davis, J. Quayle, A. Ewart, O. Roberts, S. Jude, S. Broadbridge, E. S. Hall, P. Wade, J. Hayden, W. Rigby, P.G.R.; John Atkinson, Sec. 1609; M. Boyd, 1609; and others. The minutes of the previous meeting having been confirmed, the W.M. opened the lodge in the Second Degree, when a brother was passed to the rank of Fellow Craft in a very admirable manner. The brethren were afterwards called off to the festive board, where a pleasant few hours were spent. "The Health of the Worshipful Master," given in highly eulogistic terms by the J.W. (Bro. T. Salter), was most pointedly and appropriately acknowledged from the chair by Bro. Winsor. Several capital songs were given, and the brethren separated at an early hour.

LANCASTER.—Lodge of Fortitude (No. 281).—The regular meeting of the brethren forming this lodge was held on the 9th inst., in the Masonic Rooms, Athenæum, St. Leonardgate. Bro. Edwd. Carlwell, W.M., presided, and there was a good attendance of brethren and visitors. The lodge was opened in the First Degree with solemn prayer, and the minutes of previous meeting read and confirmed. Bros. Nicholson and Burrows, who had been initiated the previous lodge night, were advanced to the pedestal and examined as to their proficiency as Craftsmen. This being concluded, they were entrusted and retired. The lodge was then opened in the Second Degree, and Bro. Nicholson being re-admitted, he was passed to the Degree by the W.M. Bro. Burrows was afterwards re-admitted, and passed to the Degree of Fellow Craft by Bro. Kelland, P.M., the working tools being presented to the candidates by the S.W. (Bro. W. Warbrick). Bro. Jowitt, I.P.M., afterwards gave the lecture on the First Degree tracing board, and was awarded a hearty and cordial vote of thanks on its conclusion. The working of the several officers was admirably and efficiently gone through. The usual proclamations were made, which elicited hearty good wishes from the visiting brethren, and the lodge was closed with the formalities of the Craft.

SALISBURY.—Elias de Derham Lodge (No. 586).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Thursday, the 10th inst., at the Masonic Hall, New Canal. The following officers and brethren were present: Bros. A. Tucker, W.M.; T. Norwood, I.P.M.; C. H. Card, S.W.; T. S. Fletcher, P.M., as J.W.; J. Rumbold, P.M., Sec.; F. J. Hannan, S.D.; E. E. Bartlett, J.D.; A. Aylward, Org.; J. T. Calkin, as I.G.; F. J. Russell, P.M.; E. W. Wiltshire, J. H. Dear, R. Dear, E. J. Mannings, E. Hall, T. Harwood, J. Folliott, G. Wilkes, H. Crawford. Visitor: Bro. Slader. The lodge was opened in ancient form and the minutes of the previous lodge read and confirmed, when the ballot was taken for Mr. H. W. Larkam, which proved unanimous in his favour. The lodge was opened in the Second Degree, when Bro. Crawford was examined, entrusted, and dismissed for preparation. The lodge was then opened in the Third Degree, after which the candidate was re-admitted and duly raised to the Sublime Degree of a Master Mason by the W.M. The lodge was closed in the Third and Second Degrees, when Bro. Geo. Wilkes, E.A., was examined, entrusted, and dismissed for preparation. The lodge having been again opened in the Second Degree, Bro. Wilkes was re-admitted, and duly passed to the rank of F.C. by the W.M. The lodge was closed in the Second Degree, and the name of a gentleman for initiation having been proposed and seconded, hearty good wishes were expressed by the visitor, when the lodge was closed in peace and harmony.

LANCASTER.—Rowley Lodge (No. 1051).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Rooms, Athenæum, on the 7th inst., the chair of K.S. being occupied by Bro. Helme, the W.M., who was supported by his respective officers; a fair number of members and visitors being also present. The lodge was opened in the First Degree, and minutes of previous meeting read and confirmed. Bro. Cutts, who was a candidate for being passed to the Second Degree, was examined as to his proficiency in the former, which proving satisfactory, he was entrusted and retired. The lodge was then opened in the Second Degree, and Bro. Cutts re-admitted and passed to the Degree of Fellow Craft by the W.M., the working tools being presented by the S.W. (Bro. Taylor). The J.W. (Bro. J. T. Jackson) afterwards gave the lecture on the Second Degree tracing board, in a very effective manner, and for which he received the encomiums of the brethren present. The lodge was then closed down to the First Degree, when a candidate was proposed for initiation, and the usual proclamations having been made and responded to, the lodge was closed in peace, love, and harmony, and with solemn prayer.

CHEETHAM.—Derby Lodge (No. 1055).—On Thursday, the 10th inst., the annual installation meeting of this lodge was held at the Knowsley Hotel. The W.M. (Bro. J. Pollitt), supported by several P.M.'s, the officers, and many members and visitors, opened the lodge punctually at 3.30, as announced on the summons. Amongst the visitors were Bros. Robert McDowel Smith, P.P.G. Treas.; John P. Salmon, P.G.D. of C.; Jas. H. Sillitoe, P.P.G.D. of C.; W. Parker, W.M. 993; W. Brandon, W.M. 1219; Walley, W.M. 163; A. Lister, W.M. 1011; F. R. Hollins, P.M. 581; N. Dumville, P.M. 152; M. Dumville, P.M. 1011; Ernst Link, P.M. 633; A. Jackson, P.M. 1077; J. Startop, P.M. 344; H. D. Miller, 1357, and others. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, and other routine business transacted, after which Bro. J. R. Boulton, the W.M. elect, was presented to the W.M. for installation. The W.M., Bro. Pollitt, having addressed the usual admonitions, proceeded with the ceremony until all the brethren below the rank of Installed Masters were requested to retire. Bro. E. G. Hughes, P.M., then assumed the office of Installing Master, and assisted by other P.M.'s of the lodge, viz., Bros. R. T. Glendinning, John West, G. F. Freeman, Geo. Kenyon, and Turner, completed the very interesting ceremony in most ample and comprehensive form. After the return of the brethren, and the newly-installed W.M. had been formally greeted, the following were invested as officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. W. Mollison, S.W.; Hope, J.W.; R. T. Glendinning, P.M., Treasurer; Hooper, Secretary; Wimpor, S.D.; John West, P.M., D. of Ceremonies; Joseph Snape, I.G.; Jones and Sharples, Stewards; and J. Kirk, Tyler. Hearty good wishes were expressed by the visiting brethren, and the lodge was duly closed. About eighty brethren adjourned to the banquet room, where a most sumptuous dinner was served by the host, Bro. Bremehel, presided over by the newly-installed W.M. (Bro. Boulton), at the close of which the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and duly honoured. "The Health of the W.M." was most heartily given and enthusiastically received and ably responded to. The gavel was then passed to Bro. Turner, P.M., who, in proposing the toast of "The I.P.M.," presented him with a handsome P.M.'s jewel attached to a collar. Bro. Pollitt, in a very feeling manner, acknowledged the presentation, as well as the many kind expressions which had been made and cordially endorsed in his favour. Bro. Smith, P.M., proposed "The Health of the Visitors" in a humorous speech, to which Bro. Link was called upon to reply. Other toasts followed. We must, however, not overlook the musical portion of the evening's entertainment, with such an array of professional talent as Bros. Miller, N. Dumville, W. Dumville, H. Lister, and, though last not least, Bro. F. R. Hollins, accompanied on the pianoforte by Bro. Fielding. It is needless to say that seldom has it fallen to our lot to listen to such ably-rendered glees, trios, and songs as on this occasion.

LIVERPOOL.—Temple Lodge (No. 1094).—The annual celebration of the festival of St. John in connection with the above lodge, which is justly recognised as a kind of pattern lodge in the province of West Lancashire, took place on Wednesday evening, the 9th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Liverpool. There was a large gathering of members and visitors, and the whole of the day's proceedings could hardly have been more successful or pleasant. Bro. Thomas S. Williams, W.M., presided at the opening of the lodge, and there were also present during the evening Bros. R. C. Yelland, P.M.; W. Healing, P.M.; Dr. Sheldon, P.M.; R. R. Martin, P.M., D.C.; Richard Washington, P.M., S.W. (W.M. elect); T. Birch, J.W.; Joseph Wood, Treas. (Freemason); T. Marsh, Sec.; H. B. Jones, S.D.; J. Alexander, J.D.; H. Horspool, I.G.; J. Skeaf, O.G.; Thomas Carr, S.; E. J. Callow, S.; and Peter Ball, Tyler. The members' list included Bros. F. E. Boustead, E. Sephton, W. Jones, R. Bethel, J. Cave, M. Yeoman, Dr. J. K. Smith, P.M., P.P.G. Registrar; N. Callow, G. F. Pringle, W. Pye, R. Ellinger, E. W. Boulding, D. Critchey, E. Chater, and J. Speer. Amongst the visitors were Bros. J. Pemberton, P.P.G.S. of W.; T. H. Williams, 324; W. J. Chapman, P.M. 1609; John Atkinson, Sec. 1609;

J. B. MacKenzie, S.W. 1609; J. W. Burgess, P.M., Treas. 1325; J. G. Hallwood, 1505; W. Cottrell, P.M. 823; J. M. King, 823; A. Peters, P.P.G.S.W. N.W. and Salop; T. Shaw, P.M. 823; J. C. Robinson, P.M. 249; H. S. Alpass, P.G. Sec.; Dr. R. H. D. Johnson, P.M. 1094 and 1609; D. Callow, 823; C. Mandesley, 823; W. S. Brenchley, 477; J. Haynes, P.M. 249; Captain W. J. Newman, P.M. 786; S. J. Waring, 1502; S. Butterworth, 1547; J. Busfield, 216; A. Gieffan, 1393; Joseph Clegg, P.M. 1299; W. Ladyman, 477; P. Pennington, and G. Maxwell, 594. After the transaction of the ordinary initial business and the minutes of the previous meeting had been unanimously confirmed, the chair was taken by Bro. Dr. J. Kellett Smith, P.P.G. Reg., who, in a most admirable and effective manner, proceeded to instal Bro. Richard Washington as the Worshipful Master for the ensuing year, an honour which was rendered all the more valuable by reason of the fact that he occupied the chair of the Temple Lodge about six years ago. The W.M. then proceeded to invest the following as his officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. Thomas S. Williams, I.P.M.; T. Birch, S.W.; Harrison Barclay Jones, J.W.; Joseph Wood, Treas. (re-elected for the fourteenth time); Thomas Marsh, Sec. (also re-appointed to that office for the fourteenth time); John Alexander, S.D.; H. Horspool, J.D.; J. Skeaf, P.G.O., Org.; E. J. Callow, I.G.; J. Carr, S.S.; R. Bethel, I.S.; E. W. Boulding, A.S.; and P. Ball was re-elected Tyler. At the conclusion of the ceremony, the W.M. presented a very valuable Past Master's jewel to Bro. T. S. Williams, I.P.M., in token of the esteem in which he was held by the members of the lodge. The gift was briefly acknowledged by Bro. Williams. The P.G. Sec. (Bro. H. S. Alpass) then brought before the members of the Temple Lodge the scheme for the general decoration of the Masonic Hall, which would cost about £2000, and made an eloquent appeal for the liberality of the brethren in seeking to carry out the proposed and highly necessary work. Bro. W. Cottrell, P.M. 823, also addressed the brethren on the necessity for the decoration of the hall, and the W.M. promised that the subject should have the careful consideration of the lodge at its next meeting. After "hearty good wishes" had been conveyed to the newly-installed W.M. by about a score of representatives of other lodges, the business of the evening was brought to a close, and the brethren immediately adjourned to an excellent banquet, presided over by Bro. R. Washington, the esteemed W.M. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and received with extreme heartiness, and Bro. H. S. Alpass, in responding to the toast of "The R.W.P.G.M., the D.P.G.M., and P.G. Officers," said that Lord Skelmersdale continued to take an ever-increasing interest in Masonry from day to day, and every fresh position which he received only quickened his zeal for the Order. They were very greatly honoured in having him as their head in West Lancashire, and he trusted that his lordship would long continue to occupy the proud position which he now filled. Bro. Dr. Johnson, P.M., in giving "The West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution," spoke of the great and noble work which it was carrying out. Bro. the Rev. P. Pennington, P.M., acknowledged the toast, and, while speaking generally of the advantages of education, he called upon every brother to do what he could to support the Charity, which afforded instruction to those who might not otherwise have received any tuition. Bro. Joseph Wood, Treasurer (Freemason), also responded to the toast of "The West Lancashire," and said he was pleased to have the opportunity of bringing the claims of the Institution more forcibly before the lodge than they had been before. He was somewhat ashamed of the individual subscriptions to this Charity, and he trusted that these would be increased in the future. That day he had had the pleasure of handing the sum of 15 guineas to the Institution, as the proceeds of the charity box, to endow the W.M.'s, S.W.'s, and J.W.'s chairs with life governorships; and he had received from Bro. R. Brown, one of the joint Secretaries of the Institution, a cordial letter of thanks for the generous gift. Bro. T. S. Williams, I.P.M., said he felt considerable pride in rising to propose "The Health of the W.M.," because every one who knew Bro. Washington would be aware that he was a thoroughly good, honourable, open-hearted, friendly, and loving brother, not only in Masonry, but in the social and domestic circles of the outer world. He was an honest, faithful, and genial friend, a kind neighbour, and one who was always ready to help those who needed help, having a word of sympathy and kindness for every one who came into contact with him. Every one present knew that in placing Bro. Washington in the chair they had placed the best possible man in the place of honour, and he (Bro. Williams) was sure they would all strive as one man to make his second term of office in the chair as pleasant and successful as he deserved. The toast was received with enthusiasm, and in acknowledging the compliment the W.M. said he felt he did not deserve the eulogiums which had been passed upon him. No words could express his sense of the high honour which had been conferred upon him in being again placed in the chair of that lodge, but he would do all in his power to hand the warrant to his successor pure and unadulterated as he had received it. The W.M. proposed "The Visitors," acknowledged by Bros. P.M.'s Johnson and Cottrell. "The Installing Master," given from the chair, was acknowledged by Bro. Dr. Smith, who concluded by proposing "The Past Masters," responded to by Bro. Dr. Sheldon, P.M. Other toasts followed, and a pleasing musical selection was given during the evening by Bros. Busfield, Gieffan, Sheldon, and J. Skeaf, P.G.O. (who presided at the piano, and gave his own composition, "The Sabbath Evening Chimes," as a solo.)

by Bro. A. W. Duret, the retiring W.M., at the King's Arms Hotel, where the brethren assembled in good numbers. This lodge, so well known in the Province of Kent for its hospitality to visitors, was honoured by the presence of many distinguished brethren from London and local lodges, among whom were Bros. H. M. Levy, Joppa, 188; A. W. Dawson, W.M. Progress, 1768; E. Phillips, W.M. Panmure, 715; A. C. Spaul, J.W. Progress, 1768; Dinham, Fortitude, 105; A. D. Renshaw, J.W. St. Paul, 194; G. S. Bigley, Sec. Royal Standard, 1208; F. W. Greenville, Loyalty, 243; Burgess-Brown, Belvedere, 503; Vine, Phoenix, 173; and J. Wheaton Lewis, 1185. The lodge was opened by Bro. A. W. Duret, W.M., in the Three Degrees, and resumed in the First Degree, and the ordinary work was gone through. The brethren were then "called off" for a short period. On the arrival of the W.M. elect, Bro. Banks, the brethren were "called on," and work resumed. Bro. Banks was then installed in the chair of K.S. by Bro. A. W. Duret, the Wardens' chairs being occupied, pro tem., by Bros. Newsons and Mortlock. Bro. W. C. Banks, on taking the chair, appointed and invested his officers as follows:—Bros. A. W. Duret, I.P.M.; C. J. Dodd, S.W.; J. Webb, J.W.; Durnall, P.M., Treas.; J. H. Jewell, P.M., Sec.; Smalman Smith, S.D.; J. T. Baker, J.D.; A. S. Owen, I.G.; S. Laver, D.C.; E. Pilliner and H. E. Hall, Stewards. The W.M. then presented Bro. Duret with a handsome and massive jewel, and said it gave him great pleasure to place in his hands the spontaneous offering of the officers and brethren of the Amherst Lodge, in recognition of the ability and efficiency with which he had managed the business of the lodge during his year of office, and the high esteem in which he was held by one and all; expressing the hope that he might wear it for many years to come. Bro. Duret very briefly and feelingly acknowledged the great honour paid him. It should always be, as it had always been, his most earnest wish to promote the interest of the lodge and the happiness of the brethren. On resuming his seat, Bro. Duret was warmly congratulated by the members and visitors on the very efficient and impressive manner in which he had performed the ceremony of installation. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet, where the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to. "The Health of the W.M." was then proposed, in appropriate terms, by Bro. Duret, and the toast was most cordially received by the brethren. Bro. Banks, in responding, hoped that he might be able to discharge his duties in such a way as to merit the praise so justly given to his predecessor. The W.M. then proposed "The Health of the Visitors," coupled with the names of Bros. H. M. Levy and Dawson, who expressed the great pleasure it had given them to see the very good work done in the Amherst Lodge, and also to partake of the kind hospitality with which they had been received, and hoped that it would again be their good fortune to visit the brethren of the Amherst Lodge. "The Health of the Past Masters" was then proposed by the W.M., who alluded to the valuable assistance they at all times rendered to the Masters and brethren. Bro. Duret, I.P.M., returned thanks, and added he was deeply sensible of the complimentary remarks which the brethren had been pleased to pass upon his working, but all he did was for the benefit of the lodge. He did hope every officer and brother would do his utmost to assist the Worshipful Master in carrying out the duties of his important office, by making themselves proficient to fill any post to which they might be called by the W.M. Bro. E. J. Dodd, P.M., added a few words intimating that he was a Steward for the next Anniversary Festival of the Girls' School, and he felt sure this Charity needed and deserved their support, and hoped they would prove that the members of the lodge were liberal in act as well as in word. Bro. Durnall, P.M., as Steward for the Boys' School, spoke also in favour of that Institution, and trusted that the brethren would divide their favours. "The Health of the Officers" and several other complimentary toasts were proposed, among them "The Health of their most esteemed Bro. Mortlock, P.M.," whose good working is proverbial in the Craft. After spending a most pleasant evening, enlivened by recitations, songs, and glees, the brethren returned to Sevenoaks in order to meet the 9.34 p.m. for London.

LEWES.—Pelham Lodge (No. 1303).—The annual meeting and installation took place at Freemasons' Hall, Lewes, on Thursday, the 10th inst. The usual day of meeting had been changed, by permission, but there was a very limited attendance, owing, no doubt, to its falling on the eve of Good Friday. Bro. W. H. Hodgkin was installed in the chair of King Solomon by Bro. F. Noakes, P.M., and P.P.G. Sword Bearer (Sussex). A Past Master's jewel was presented to Bro. Kraeutler on his retiring from the chair. The banquet took place at Bro. Whitcomb's, Bear Hotel, and was admirably served. The newly-installed W.M. presided. The guests included Bros. Kraeutler, I.P.M.; S. Tanner, W.M. South Saxon, Lewes; Wilkinson, W.M. Royal York, Brighton; Sandeman, W.M. St. Cecilia, Brighton; Martin, P.M. Royal Brunswick, Brighton; A. Taylor, W.M. Tyrian, Eastbourne; F. Tanner, W.M. Mid-Sussex, Horsham; Whatford, W.M. Lodge of Friendship, Worthing; R. H. Ellman, P.M.; J. C. Lucas, P.M. and P.G.D. Sussex; G. Stone, P.M.; J. Stedman, T. R. White (Sec.); Jos. Farncombe, P.M. South Saxon, and Prov. G. Sword Bearer Sussex (Freemason). Bro. Jos. Farncombe was called on to respond for "The Provincial Grand Lodge of Sussex." He regretted the absence of his superior officers, as there was no doubt whatever that the hearty manner in which the toast had been received was due to their efficiency and popularity. In Sir Walter Burrell they had a Prov. Grand Master whose heart and soul was in Masonry, and who was eminently fitted for the distinguished position which he held in the province. In Bro. John Henderson Scott Sir Walter had a most able Deputy, and in Bro. V. P. Freeman they had a Provincial Grand Secretary who was held in the highest esteem. In the discharge of his onerous duties there could not fail to occur occasions when his authority had to be exercised in an apparently somewhat severe manner, but this was necessary for the good government of the lodges in the province. Invariably little occurrences of this kind led to a good understanding ultimately, with the cementing of a lasting friendship. Personally, as well as on behalf of the Present and Past Officers of the Prov. Grand Lodge of Sussex, he thanked the W.M. for the high compliment which it had been his pleasure to acknowledge. Bro. Kraeutler gave "The Health of the Newly-Installed Master" in flattering terms. The W.M., in reply, said his early life had been spent in Lewes, and it was a great pleasure to him to fill the honourable position of Master of the Pelham Lodge. It was true that they were not a numerous body, but, at the same time, they numbered among them several distinguished Masons. The toast of "The Visitors" was responded to by Bro. S. Tanner, and other visiting brethren. The after dinner proceedings were not prolonged, but while they lasted they were of a most enjoyable character.

HAMPTON COURT.—Era Lodge (No. 1423).—The seventh installation meeting of this celebrated Middlesex lodge took place on Saturday, the 12th inst., at Bro. Tagg's Island Hotel, Hampton Court. Notwithstanding the exceptionally unpropitious condition of the weather, which was more in accordance with mid-winter than mid-spring, there was a goodly muster of members and visitors. Among the former we may mention Bro. J. J. Moss, P.M., P.P.G.R. Middlesex; Baldwin, P.M., P.P.G.P. Middlesex; T. J. Sabine, W.M., P.P.G.S.B. Middlesex; Theillay, P.M., P.P.G.S.B. Middlesex; E. W. Devereux, S.W. and W.M. elect; Faulkner, Hon. Dental Surgeon to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls; Pearson, Dr. Ryley, T. G. Tagg, Elliott, Henman, and others. Among the visitors we may enumerate Bro. the Prov. Grand Master of Middlesex, Colonel Burdett, J.P.; Dr. Barringer, P.P.G.W. Herts; Graham, Holmesdale Lodge, Tunbridge Wells; Cash, Devereux, W. A. Simmons, P.M. New Cross Lodge, 1559, and others. The lodge was opened, and the minutes of the previous meeting having been confirmed and signed, the W.M. referred in most feeling terms to the great loss which the lodge had recently sustained by the death of the S.D., Bro. J. Johnstone. The Secretary was directed to send a letter of condolence and sympathy to the widow and family. The W.M., Bro. T. J. Sabine, then proceeded with the installation of the new W.M., Bro. E. W. Devereux, who was presented for the benefit of the ceremony by Bro. J. W. Baldwin, P.M., &c.; after which a Board of Installed Masters was formed, in accordance with ancient usage, and the members below the chair retired for a short time. On their re-admission, the Acting Director of Ceremonies then proclaimed and the brethren then saluted the newly-installed Master, according to ancient custom. The appointment and investment of officers was as follows:—Bro. Loos, S.W.; Faulkner, J.W.; Baldwin, P.M., Treas.; Wright, Sec.; Pearson, S.D.; Dr. Ryley, J.D.; Elliott, I.G.; Henman, D. of C.; Wingate, Steward; Gilbert, P.G.T. Middlesex, Tyler. The Installing Master, Bro. T. J. Sabine, then gave in a very perfect and impressive manner the three addresses. On the motion of Bro. Moss, P.M., &c., a special vote of thanks was passed to Bro. T. J. Sabine for the very efficient manner in which he had carried out his duties as Installing Master. The lodge being closed in perfect harmony, the brethren and visitors adjourned to the banqueting-room, where Bro. Tagg served up a repast equal to the best London houses. The menu and toast list combined was in itself a little work of art, illustrated with sixteen suitable quotations from Shakspeare. Ample justice having been done to the very excellent and well-served dinner, the W.M., Bro. E. W. Devereux, then proposed the usual loyal and Masonic toasts—"The Queen and the Craft;" "The M.W.G.M. of England, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales;" "The M.W. Pro Grand Master, the R.H. the Earl of Carnarvon;" "The R.W. Deputy Grand Master, Lord Skelmersdale, and the rest of the Grand Officers, Present and Past," which were heartily received and responded to with enthusiasm. In proposing "The R.W. Prov. G.M., Bro. Col. Burdett, J.P., P.G.W. of England, and Representative of the Grand Lodge of Ireland at the Grand Lodge of England," the W.M. said he was exceedingly happy to welcome their venerated chief in the names of the members of the lodge on that occasion. The P.G.M. had, by a straightforward discharge of his duty, won the respect and esteem of all the lodges in the province, which, under his guiding care, had very materially increased since it was established a few years ago. Col. Burdett, in reply, thanked the brethren for the hearty welcome which he had received, and assured them that it was his earnest wish and desire to promote the interest of true Freemasonry—to keep all the lodges in his province in a state of harmony and good working. He was glad to find that several of his Past Grand Officers were present, and that one had just left the chair of the lodge after installing his successor. The next toast was "The W. Deputy G.M., Sir Charles Bright, and the rest of the Prov. Grand Officers, Present and Past," coupled with the name of Bro. J. T. Moss, P.G. Registrar. Bro. Moss, in reply, addressed the brethren in his usual humorous style, and attributed the success of Freemasonry in Middlesex to the great interest the P.G.M. (Col. Burdett) took in the proper working of the lodges. Bro. T. J. Sabine, I.P.M., in proposing "The Health of the W.M.," said: I cannot but congratulate the lodge on the advance this day to the Master's chair of one of the first brethren who were initiated in the Era Lodge. It is an evidence of a new departure, and, I trust, one which will bring with it a continuance of the prosperity which has hitherto attended the lodge. It was originally arranged that the founders of the lodge should go through the chair, and as that arrangement commenced with Bro. J. T. Moss, so to-day it has ended with me. Hence, I take it, there is a new departure. The veterans of the lodge have laid the foundation. These initiated in the lodge from to-day continue the work. I have every confidence in the arrangement. I have every confidence in the newly-installed W.M., who since the day of his initiation has passed through the various offices he has held with great credit to himself, with unquestionable advantage to the Lodge. He has set an example not only of constant attendance, but of perfect working, and I feel certain that during his year of office he will bear out the expressions of confidence I have used. I ask you to drink his good health, long life and prosperity, and a successful year of office. The W.M. (Bro. Devereux), in reply, thanked Bro. Sabine, for the very flattering manner in which he had been pleased to speak of him and his work. He also thanked the members and visitors for their hearty response. For himself he had made up his mind from the first to do his duty, and at the end of his year of office should not fear to be judged by results. He much regretted that the Easter holidays and the Christmas weather had prevented many from attending; he thanked those visitors who had favoured the lodge with their presence, and he trusted during his year of office to see them again, when the lovely scenery of the district could be enjoyed under more congenial circumstances. He again thanked them for the honour conferred upon him that day, and for the hearty expressions of success during the ensuing year. The W.M. (Bro. E. W. Devereux) then proposed "The Past Masters of the Lodge," and paid them collectively a high compliment for the work done by them. Addressing his Immediate Past Master (Bro. T. J. Sabine), he said: It is my pleasing duty to present you in the name of the members of the lodge with this handsome P.M.'s jewel, which I hope you may live many years to wear, and also with this elegant three-bottle liquor stand, which when used by you in your circle of friends will serve at all times to remind you of the Era Lodge which as a founder you helped to start, and which as a W.M. you have helped to support, and which as a P.M. you will be expected still to feel some interest in. The jewel and liquor stand are engraved as follows:—"Presented April 12th, 1879, by the members of the Era Lodge, No. 1423, to W. Bro. Thos. J. Sabine, P.M. 73, 1540, P.P.G.S.B. Middx., founder and Past Treasurer of the lodge, in appreciation of his valuable services as Worshipful Master 1878-9. Bro. T. J. Sabine, I.P.M., in reply, said: The Past Masters of the lodge have at all times felt it a pleasurable duty, not only to attend with becoming regularity, but to assist in promoting the interests of the lodge. For myself, I can only say that from the day of consecration until this moment it has been to me a pleasure to attend and work with my fellow-members. It is my hope, if the G.A.O.T.U. gives me good health, to be as frequently among you as ever. I cannot sit down without thanking my brother members for the handsome vote of the lodge, which I shall treasure as souvenirs of my pleasant connection with the lodge during my life. I think, W.M., I may add, on the part of my brother Past Masters and myself, that you may rely on us to give you the assistance you may need, and at all times to support you in your laudable undertakings on behalf of the lodge. The W.M. then proposed "The Visitors" in suitable terms, referring to the work those present had done in Freemasonry, and offering them a very hearty welcome. Bro. Dr. Barringer, P.P.G.W. Herts, replied, thanking the brethren for the hearty way the toast had been received, and congratulating the new W.M. on his accession to the highest office the brethren can give in his mother lodge. He was also pleased with the excellent working of the installation ceremony by the I.P.M., Bro. Sabine. He might have heard it given in a more showy and more brilliant manner, but never with more effective heartiness. There was no attempt at display. It was given with earnest impressiveness, with almost faultless correctness, and delivered as if every word was heartily felt. He trusted to visit them again on some other occasion, for he was sure he should enjoy himself very much, not only in the lodge, where he should find careful workers, but outside the lodge, for the pleasant prospect up and down the river was in fine weather most enchanting. Bros. Graham, Cook, and Simmons also replied. The Tyler's toast brought the proceedings to a close. During the evening, the company were entertained with some excellent singing by Bros. Dr. Barringer, Graham, Dr. Ryley, and others.

MORECAMBE.—Morecambe Lodge (No. 1541).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held on the 4th inst., in the Masonic Hall, Edward-street, Morecambe. Bro. Thomas Longmire, the W.M., presided. There was not a large attendance of brethren or visitors. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, and there being no special business to transact, a conversation on Masonic topics took place. The lodge was subsequently closed in peace, love, and harmony.

LEICESTER.—Albert Edward Lodge (No. 1560).—Tuesday, the 8th inst., was the birthday of his Worship the Mayor of Leicester (Bro. Ald. Clement Stretton), and it being the ordinary meeting of the above lodge, of which his worship is a member, the occasion was availed of to give him a special fraternal greeting. There was consequently a large and influential gathering both of the members of the Albert Edward and the sister lodges, especially, perhaps, of St. John's, of which the Mayor was for two successive years W.M., as he is now for a second year occupying the civic chair of the borough. The ordinary business of the lodge having been transacted, the brethren at a later period of the evening sat down to an excellent banquet, under the presidency of the esteemed W.M. (Captain J. G. F. Richardson). The following other brethren were also amongst those present: Bro. Clement Stretton (the Mayor), P.M. 279, Prov. S.G.W.; C. G. Merewether, Q.C., M.P. (Recorder of Leicester); W. Kelly, P.P.G.M.; the Rev. C. Henton Wood, Prov. G.C.; T. A. Wykes, P.M. 523, P.G.T.; S. S. Partridge, P.M. 423, Prov. G. Sec.; R. Taylor, W.M. 523, Prov. G. Sup. Works; W. Millican, P.M. 523; J. M. M'Allister, P.M. 279, P.P.G.S.D.; W. T. Rowlett, P.M. 523, P.P.G.O.; J. B. Haxby, P.P.S.G.W.; J. F. L. Rolleston, J.W. 1560; W. Sculthorpe, P.M. 523; Clement E. Stretton, P.M. 279, P.P.G. Supt. of Works; Albert Stretton, 1560; G. Toller, jun., P.M. 523, P.G.S.B.; J. Vaughan, 279, P.M. 86; J. D. Harris, W. L. Emmerson, 523; the Rev. Edward W. Woodcock, P.P.G.C.; Wm. J. Freer, Robert Waite, P.M.; J. H. Thompson, 279; William Beeson, and others. The usual loyal and patriotic toasts having been duly honoured, the W.M. proposed "The Health of Bro. Clement Stretton, the Mayor of Leicester," prefacing the toast with a few complimentary observations upon the honourable position which the family of the Strettons had so long occupied amongst them, until he might truly say the name had become a household word. They were both proud and pleased to have the honour of the Mayor's presence with them that evening as one of their brethren, and as a fellow-citizen who had distinguished himself in the high office which he held as chief magistrate of the borough. In the discharge of the duties of that important position his worship had ably acquitted himself, and he had, at the same time, in the most hospitable manner, proved himself a worthy successor of his ancestors. In his Masonic career, too, he had not only won his way to very high office, but he had also distinguished himself by great generosity, being always ready to cater to the wants of others; and not only was his purse always open to the relief of such wants, but it was always so without the slightest ostentation. He (the W.M.) had therefore the greatest possible pleasure in proposing "The Health of Brother Stretton," coupled with a wish that he might live long to enjoy the honourable position to which he had attained, and the duties of which he had so worthily fulfilled. Bro. Stretton, in acknowledging the compliment, said the manner in which the toast had been proposed by the Worshipful Master, and the cordial way in which it had been received by the brethren, was very gratifying to him, and he was very grateful to them for such a numerous attendance in honour of his birthday. It was only two weeks ago that he spent his Masonic birthday, for on the first of the month just sixteen years ago Bro. Haxby, assisted by Bro. Kelly, introduced him into Masonry. He had been through most of the offices in Masonry, until he had arrived at the height of a Mason's ambition, namely, that of being P.G.S.W. During his connection with Masonry he had made many kind friends, and only this last year Masonry had been of very great assistance to him. When, by an unfortunate occurrence, it again fell to his lot to be again invited to take office as Mayor, he had recourse to his Masonic friends for their advice. Some of them present would no doubt remember that he solicited their advice as to whether he should accept office a second time; and the advice he received from his Masonic friends, of both political parties, determined him to accept the office which had been again so kindly offered to him. He could not do more than thank them most heartily and sincerely for the very kind manner in which they had received him on that, as on all occasions. Bro. S. S. Partridge said he had great pleasure in proposing to them "The Health of their much esteemed W.M. of the Albert Edward Lodge," who so very admirably filled the office. It was not given to every one to occupy the chair in the manner in which Bro. Richardson now filled it, for he did not aim to go through the duties in a mere parrot-like, schoolboy way; but both in the lodge, and at their banquets afterwards, the admirable way in which he presided over them commanded their greatest admiration. His officers must all be very pleased to serve under him, and he (Bro. Partridge) was sure all the brethren present would unite in wishing him very good health and prosperity during his year of office. The W.M. said he thanked them very much for the great honour they had done him by the cordial manner in which they had received the toast so kindly proposed by Bro. Partridge. He said he never anticipated the honour of passing the chair in any lodge, and certainly never expected he should have the honour of presiding over such a lodge as the Albert Edward. He could only say that it would be his greatest endeavour to conduct it impartially, and with the best feelings towards all the brethren. "The Health of the Officers of the Lodge" was next eloquently proposed by the W.M., and suitably acknowledged; "The Visiting Brethren," responded to by Bros. S. Cleaver, W.M. of the St. John's, 279; Richard Taylor, W.M. 523; and T. A. Wykes, I.P.M. 505; and this was followed by other complimentary toasts. During the evening the proceedings were greatly varied and enlivened by the musical performances, both vocal and instrumental, of several of the brethren, including Bros. W. T. Rowlett, P.P.G.O.; Scott, Organist of 279; A. Wykes, R. Taylor, and others; the meeting being altogether a most enjoyable one. The chief work in lodge was to raise to the Third Degree Bro. James Neale, F.S.A. (the distinguished author of the beautiful architectural work on St. Alban's Abbey, who is a native of Leicester). The ceremony was performed by the P. Prov. G.M., Bro. W. Kelly, F.S.A.

YORK.—Eboracum Lodge (No. 1611).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held at York on Monday, the 14th inst. Present: Bros. J. S. Cumberland, W.M.; T. B. Whythead, I.P.M.; C. G. Padel, S.W.; J. T. Seller, J.W.; G. Balmford, P.M., Treas.; J. Kay, Sec.; T. Humphries, Asst. Sec.; M. Millington, S.D.; T. D. Smith, J.D.; G. Simpson, M.C.; H. Jackson, as I.G.; P. Pearson, Tyler; together with several other brethren and visitors.

The work of the evening consisted of the ceremonies of passing Bros. Haslam and Atkinson to the Second Degree, after which the following presentations were made to the lodge:—Three Masonic works from the Library Committee of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania; illuminated vite of thanks from the Mary Commandery of Knights Templar, Philadelphia, for the hospitality and attention shown to their pilgrims when in York last year; four beautifully framed water-colour drawings of the four ancient gateways, or bars, of the City of York, from Bros. W. P. Husband, J. Marshall, and A. T. B. Turner; plate of arms of the Grand Lodge of England from Bro. W. J. Hughan; "Hughan's Masonic Register," and photograph group of the Mary Commandery pilgrims from Bro. T. B. Whythead. After the close of the lodge a very harmonious evening was spent, the loyal and Masonic toasts being duly honoured, and "Health and Bon Voyage" drank to Bro. J. Haslam, who is proceeding to South Australia, where he has received a Government appointment. The proceedings were culminated by the part singing of Bros. Cumberland, Lee, Humphries, and other members of the Lodge Gleec Club, accompanied by Bro. C. G. Padel.

INSTRUCTION.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT LODGE (No. 1524).—A meeting of this lodge of instruction was held at the Havelock Tavern, Albion-road, Dalston, on Wednesday, the 9th inst., when the following brethren were present: Bros. C. Lorkin, W.M.; F. Brasted, S.W.; J. Dignum, J.W.; A. R. Olley, S.D.; W. Ferrar, I.G.; W. Fieldwick, Preceptor; J. Williams, Sec.; also Bros. C. Olley, Marsh, and G. Ferrar. The ceremony of passing was rehearsed, and Bro. C. Olley, candidate, having answered the necessary questions, was passed to the Second Degree of a Fellow Craft. Assisted by the brethren, Bro. F. Brasted worked the First and Bro. Lorkin the Second and Third Sections of the Lecture. Bro. F. Brasted was elected W.M. for the ensuing Wednesday. Nothing further offering, the lodge was adjourned. Any brother desirous of attending the lodge will be heartily welcome.

LION AND LAMB CHAPTER (No. 192).—The April meeting of the above chapter was held on Wednesday last, at the Cannon-street Hotel. Companions present: Comps. J. C. Chapman, M.E.Z.; F. D. R. Copestick, P.Z., acting H.; H. Birdseye, P.Z., acting J.; George Kenning, P.Z., Treas.; Charles Arkell, S.E.; George Newman, P.Z., acting P.S.; James Lorkin, A.S.; John Kent, Thomas Cohe, W. Darnell, Brand, Harmsworth, Cheese, Potter, and Perry. Visitors, Comps. Gompertz and Darcy. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Charles Lorkin, Duke of Connaught Lodge, 1524, was exalted to the Royal Arch Degree. The sum of two guineas was voted to the George Chambers Testimonial Fund, and three guineas to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. A brother was proposed for exaltation at the next meeting.

WANDERERS' CHAPTER (No. 1604).—The installation convocation of this military chapter was held on Tuesday evening, the 15th inst., at Freemasons' Hall. The presiding officers were Comps. Thos. H. Meredith, M.E.Z.; Sergeant-Major W. J. Parish, R.E., H.; and T. R. McIlwham, J. The other companions present were Comps. Charles Fuller, Treas.; W. H. Bird, S.E.; F. J. Wray, P.S.; C. A. Cottebrune, W. Brown, C. Taylor, J. Gibson, C. Burmeister, E. Cole, Charles Smith, W. Vincent, D. G. Brown, B. Barton, Horace White; and visitors Comps. Rev. P. M. Holden (Vane Chapter); G. W. Dixon, Z. 771; and H. Massey, P.Z. 619 (Freemason). Comp. Meredith installed Comp. Sergeant-Major W. J. Parish, R.E., as M.E.Z., and Comp. McIlwham, P.Z., as H. Comp. Meredith was again elected as J., and took his seat accordingly. The other officers were Comps. W. H. Bird, S.E.; George Bolton, S.N.; Chas. Fuller, Treas.; Chas. Smith, P.S.; James Gibson, 1st A.S.; and Edward Cole, and A.S. After the installations and investitures Bro. Daniel Gibson Brown, of Lodge 1604, was exalted in excellent style, and Comp. Vincent, of the Stockwell Chapter, was admitted as a joining member. This concluded the business of the evening, and the chapter was then closed, and the company adjourned to a very nice banquet at the Freemasons' Tavern, and afterwards honoured the usual Royal Arch toasts. Comp. Burmeister, P.Z., proposed "The Health of the M.E.Z.," and in doing so adverted to the great services of Sgt.-Major Parish to Freemasonry, both in the Craft in the Wanderers' Lodge and in the Wanderers' Chapter. The M.E.Z., in reply, said that Comp. Burmeister had been pleased to refer to his connection with Craft Masonry in the Wanderers' Lodge and in the Wanderers' Chapter. He (the M.E.Z.) never expected when he entered Masonry to occupy the proud position he did now. He did certainly think it was his duty as a Mason to attain those honours which he saw were so ably and gracefully worn by companions in other lodges and chapters. He could only thank the companions for the honour they had done him, and although they had as regarded the way the ceremony was performed done the best, he said yet he should try to do whatever he could to render the beautiful ceremonies of the ancient ritual creditably and to the satisfaction of the companions of the chapter, and he hoped he should achieve the success he desired and the chapter deserved. He hoped that the companions would meet in the chapter in large numbers and support the chair, and they might rely upon it the chair would support them. He then proposed "The Health of the H. and J.," and regretted the absence from the banquet table of Comp. McIlwham, who had been compelled to leave immediately after the working of the chapter through ill-health. He was happy to say that the H. and J. of the Wanderers' Chapter were both P.Z.'s, and therefore if he were at all at a loss for any of the ritual he would be able to obtain the knowledge he required from those two officers. Comp. Burmeister and Comp. Meredith replied, and the latter in the course of his reply assured the M.E.Z. that any assistance he could render during his year of office he should most willingly give, and he hoped the working of the chapter would be satisfactory to every Royal Arch companion who entered it. The M.E.Z. next gave "The Newly-Exalted, Comps. Brown and Smith." While doing so he said it must be the endeavour of the companions of the Wanderers' Chapter to introduce to it only such brethren as they would not be ashamed to meet in their own domestic circle. Keeping this cardinal point before them they would make the chapter an honour to Royal Arch Masonry. Comp. Smith assured the companions that he took great interest in Freemasonry, which he looked upon as the greatest of human institutions, and in following up his Masonry he should endeavour to make himself an efficient officer. Comp. Brown also replied, and informed the chapter that he had been very much struck with the way in which the ceremony had been performed, and with the splendid ritual of the Order. The M.E.Z. afterwards proposed "The P.Z.," and in introducing the names of Comp. Meredith, to whom a P.Z. jewel had been presented, and Comp. Cottebrune reminded the companions of the great services which those companions had rendered to the chapter. Referring to the distribution of honour which had been bestowed on Comp. Meredith, he said he was certain that the compliment was no hollow one, for it was given to a companion who was thoroughly honoured and respected in every walk of life, and was conferred as an evidence that the companions of the chapter entertained the same feeling for him. With respect to the performance of the ceremonies that evening, there was no doubt that the installation, which only a few of the companions had been privileged to witness, had been conducted with the strictest regard to ancient form, and with a fluency and ability which would shed credit on any companion who attempted it. Comp. Meredith replied as P.Z., as Installing Z., and as Present J. Alluding to the remarks of the M.E.Z. in reference to the work of the past year, and the P.Z.'s jewel presented to him, Comp. Meredith said he had not performed the ceremony to his own satisfaction, but at all events he had done his best under the circumstance of his having a bad cold, and of having had a great deal to do lately, which had precluded him from getting up the ceremonies as he would have wished. The toast of "The Visitors" followed, to which Comps. Holden and Dixon were called upon to reply. Comps. Holden, Dixon, and Massey replied, and "The Officers of the Chapter" having been proposed, the Janitor's toast was given, and the companions separated. Some excellent songs and recitations were given during the evening by several companions.

CROYDON.—Frederick Chapter of Unity (No. 452).—A convocation of the above chapter was held at the Greyhound on Tuesday, the 8th inst. The business of the evening was to exalt Bro. Steele, of 1627, and to elect the officers for the ensuing year. There were present Comps. Frances, P.Z., P.G.D.C.; Ohren, P.Z.; J. E. Evans, P.Z.; S. W. Sugg, H.; Edwards, J.; Pawley, N.; Blount, Dickenson, Jeffrey, and others. In the absence of the M.E.Z. (Comp. Sugg), the chair was taken by Comp. Frances, who impressively gave the beautiful ceremony of this degree, and he was ably assisted by Comps. J. W. Sugg and Edwards, as H. and J. At the completion of the exaltation, ballots were severally taken, and the following companions declared duly elected: Comps. J. W. Sugg, P.G.S.B. Z.; Edwards, H.; Pawley, J.; Ohren, S.E.; Dickenson, N.; and Jeffrey, P.S. In consequence of the illness of Comp. Robins (an announcement which was received with great regret by the companions), he was not re-elected Treasurer, but Comp. Evans, P.Z., was selected to fill the vacant post. At the close of the chapter the companions adjourned to refreshment. After the usual loyal toasts had been given and duly responded to, the M.E.Z. gave "The Grand Superintendent of the Province (General Brownrigg), and the Officers of Prov. Grand Chapter," observing that although their Provincial Grand Z. held the highest and most honourable position in the province, it was not one without its difficulties, and the chief among those was the proper bestowal of the honours he had at his disposal. He (the M.E.Z.) felt assured that the general never gave the Provincial collar to any one unless either from personal knowledge or reliable information that the recipient was thoroughly worthy. Of course in the large number of Masons in the province many who were worthy were passed over, but the fault was in the few tokens of recognition at the disposal of the Grand Superintendent, not from an unmindful disposition on his part. The M.E.Z. coupled this toast with the name of Comp. W. Sugg, H. It was enthusiastically received by the companions, and felicitously replied to by Comp. Sugg. The toast of "The Newly-Exalted Comp. Steele" had a somewhat mournful interest, inasmuch as his proposer, Comp. Masterman, P.Z., had died since the last meeting of the chapter, and the M.E.Z. paid a fitting tribute to his memory. Comp. Ohren, in replying to the toast of the S.E., made some appropriate comments on the remarks that had been made in the course of the evening with respect to the G.S., cordially agreeing with them, and observing that though the Prov. G. Chapter was in the first year of its existence, it had some of the best R.A. Masons in the province for its officers. The toasts of "The H. and Z." were responded to, and the Janitor's toast finished an agreeable evening.

Mark Masonry.

OLD KENT LODGE (T.I.).—This time immemorial lodge held its installation meeting at the Ship and Turtle, Leadenhall-street, on Wednesday, the 9th inst. There were present Bros. Chas. Jacques, W.M.; E. C. Mather, S.W.; Henry Venn, J.W.; Jas. Moon, M.O.; H. Dicketts, S.O.; W. B. Date, J.O.; J. O. Wood, I.G.; T. Keene, Col. Peters, Jos. Tanner, and others. Visitors: Bros. Hyde Pullen, C. F. Matier, P.G.W.; Thos. Poore, Lieut.-Col. Shadwell Clerke, Rev. P. M. Holden, W. T. Christian, and E. M. Money. After the minutes had been confirmed, Bro. Matier advanced Bros. Sappet, Pinder, Gimivgham, Leaman, and Silvestre, in his usual perfect manner, and Bro. Dewar, P.M., installed Bro. E. C. Matier in the chair of this ancient and prosperous lodge, who thereupon appointed his officers and invested them with their respective collars and jewels. After the lodge had voted £5 5s. to the Mark Benevolent Fund, and transacted other business on the agenda, the brethren dined together under the presidency of their W.M.

COCKERMOUTH.—Faithful Lodge (No. 229).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Wednesday evening, the 9th inst. There were present Bros. W. F. Lamonby, W.M. (Freemason); R. Robinson, S.W.; W. H. Lewthwaite, J.W., and Org.; Capt. Sewell, M.O.; R. W. Robinson, S.O.; T. C. Robinson, J.O.; J. Black, Sec., Treas., and P.M.; H. Peacock, S.D.; W. Paisley, as J.D.; W. Shilton, I.G.; and Jos. Hewson, Tyler. The minutes having been read and confirmed, a ballot was taken for Bro. Thos. Mason, No. 1002, which proving unanimous he was admitted, and regularly advanced to the honourable degree of M.M.M. The lodge was then closed.

India.

TRICHINOPOLY.—Rock Lodge (No. 260, E.C.).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held at Trichinopoly on Friday, the 20th December, 1878. There were present W. Bros. J. E. Lillywhite, W.M.; and J. W. Borthistle, I.P.M.; Bros. J. Lennox, as S.W.; P. Webber, as J.W.; J. Elder, Sec.; A. Jones, as S.D.; W. Battensby, as J.D.; W. Barrow, I.G.; and Walford, Tyler. The lodge was opened with prayer in the First Degree, and the minutes of the last regular meeting were read and confirmed, and the summons convening the meeting was read. Before proceeding to elect a Master for the ensuing year, the W.M. stated that there were three candidates for the E.C., viz., himself, W. Bro. Borthistle, and Bro. Littlewood, but the Secretary would, in the course of the evening, read a letter from Bro. Littlewood in which he regretted that owing to his duties he would not (if elected) be able to enter upon his duties as W.M. The brethren then voted for W. Bros. Lillywhite and Borthistle, the former obtaining four and the latter three votes. W. Bro. Borthistle then congratulated W. Bro. Lillywhite on his re-election, when W. Bro. Lillywhite thanked the lodge for the honour they had conferred on him. At the suggestion of the W.M., W. Bro. Borthistle was by acclamation appointed Treasurer, and Bro. Walford re-elected Tyler for the year. A letter was read from W. Bro. Koeman requesting affiliation into the Rock Lodge. A letter was read from Bro. Littlewood, which was referred to by the W.M. in the earlier part of the proceedings; also another from Garrison Sergeant-Major E. Marshall, acknowledging receipt of Rs. 20, and tendering his own and the Vestry Orphans' thanks to the lodge for the donation in aid of the Christmas treat. A letter was read from W. Bro. C. W. Pearce, P.M. Lodge No. 273, requesting that Dr. O'Hara, civil surgeon of this station, be proposed as a member. The W.M. proposed, and W. Bro. Borthistle seconded, that Dr. O'Hara be balloted for at next regular meeting. Lodge was closed at 8.25 p.m.

Proceedings of a special meeting of the Rock Lodge, held at Trichinopoly on St. John's Day, 27th December, 1878.—The lodge was opened with prayer in the First Degree at sunrise, and the brethren called from labour to refreshment, and from refreshment to labour. The lodge was closed at 8 a.m., and re-opened in the evening at 7 o'clock, and the summons convening the meeting read. The lodge was raised to the Second or F.C.'s Degree, after which the W.M. invested each of the undermentioned brethren with the collar of office as specified against his name:—Bros. John Lennox, S.W.; P. Subbyer, J.W.; J. Elder, Sec.; W. Barrow, S.D.; P. Webber, J.D.; C. Kite, I.G.; and J. Walford, Tyler. The W.M. then proposed, and Bro. Webber seconded, that Bro. J. A. Wright, of Lodge No. 260, be balloted for affiliation at next regular meeting. Bro. Barrow proposed, and Bro. Battensby seconded, that a vote of thanks be passed to Bro. Elder for decorating the lodge. The lodge was closed at 7.50 p.m.

The consecration of the Trinity College Lodge of Mark Master Masons, No. 244, will take place at Trinity College, 61, Weymouth-street, Portland-place, on Tuesday next, at four p.m. Bro. Dr. E. Passawer is the W.M. designate, and the ceremony of consecration will be performed by the R.W. Bro. Colonel F. Burdett, 32^d, Prov. G. Master of Middlesex and Surrey, assisted by W. Bro. W. G. Brighton and other Grand Officers.

The Whitehall Review says that the officers of the corps of the Royal Engineers contemplate raising a memorial to their gallant comrades, Bros. Col. E. W. Durnford and Lieut. F. H. MacDowell, who lost their lives in the terrible massacre at Isandula on January 22nd. If they carry out this idea, we would suggest that the memorial take a substantial form, and be made, in the first instance, to benefit the families of those who fell.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The Quarterly Court of Governors and Subscribers of this Institution was held on Monday, at Freemasons' Tavern, Bro. Col. Creaton, Grand Treasurer elect, in the chair. Among the brethren present were Bros. Robert H. Griffin, W. H. Spaul, G. T. Wright, W. Winn, Thomas Hill, W. H. B. Tomlinson, John Wordsworth, Henry Smith, E. M. Haigh, Alfred W. Stanfield, Wm. Stephens, John Coutts, A. J. Ireton, W. H. Main, R. N. Harper, F. B. Davage, Fred. Adlard, N. B. Headon, Gaston Murray, T. W. Sedgwick, S. Rawson, C. H. Webb, W. W. Morgan, G. Bolton, Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, J. G. Stevens, Thos. Meggy, H. M. Levy, D. D. Berry, W. W. Morgan, D. R. Still, James Cowan, D. Rose, A. H. Tattershall, George Adamson, Thos. Bull, E. Coste, C. F. Maier, E. S. Snell, Thos. Fenn, L. Ruf, Hyde Pullen, W. Clifton Crick, John Mason, E. Cox, Raynham W. Stewart, Chas. Coote, J. L. Hine, A. J. D. Filer, W. F. C. Moutrie, J. Godtschalk, Gen. Neal, Andrew Middlemass, D. D. Mercer, G. Ward Verry, W. H. Saunders, Prov. G.S.D. Middlesex; W. J. Murlis, Thos. W. White, Col. J. E. Peters, R. F. Webster, E. Binckes, Secretary, and H. Massey (Freemason). The brethren from West Yorkshire were Bros. Thos Hill, W. H. B. Tomlinson, John Wordsworth, W. B. Alderson, A. W. Stanfield, and Henry Smith, Prov. Grand Secretary.

The minutes having been read were put for confirmation, when Bro. C. F. Matier, objecting to the new Rule 55, requiring that the father of a candidate for the school should have been for seven consecutive years a subscribing member to a lodge, except in case of death or shipwreck, moved to strike out the word "consecutive." The motion was seconded by Bro. John Constable, but the Chairman, following the opinion of Bro. McIntyre, G.C., and G. Reg., at the Quarterly Court of the Girls' School on Saturday, ruled that all that could be done at this Court with reference to the new rules was to confirm or non-confirm the minutes. Bro. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, P.G.C., and several other brethren supported Bro. Matier's view, that it would be a hardship if the son of a Mason who had subscribed seven years in the aggregate, whether consecutive or not, to a lodge should be disqualified for candidature, and this feeling was very general among the brethren. Bro. Binckes, while following the generally-expressed opinion, pointed out to the brethren that if the rule was not confirmed there would be no rule for the General Committee to proceed upon in selecting candidates for the October election, and no candidates could be added for that election to those who would be unsuccessful at the present Quarterly Court. Thereupon Bro. Matier withdrew his proposition, and gave notice of motion for the October Quarterly Court to alter the rule.

Bro. J. A. Birch gave notice of motion for October that the election of Secretary of the Institution should take place by proxy instead of personally.

Bro. George Plucknett was re-elected Treasurer of the Institution.

The General Committee was re-elected, and Bro. C. H. McKay was elected to fill the place of the late Bro. Jesse Turner on that Committee.

The Scrutineers of Votes were then chosen, and the brethren proceeded to the election of sixteen boys out of an approved list of sixty-eight candidates for the benefits of the Institution. The poll was declared by Bro. R. B. Webster, Chairman of the Scrutineers, at four o'clock, when the following was announced to be the result of the election:—

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The Quarterly Court of the Governors and Subscribers of this Institution was held last Saturday, at Freemasons' Tavern. Col. Creaton, Grand Treasurer, presided, and there were also present, amongst a very large assemblage of brethren, Bros. E. J. McIntyre, G.C., G.R.; J. L. Hine, C. F. Matier, Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, Arthur E. Gladwell, Thos. J. Sabine, J. E. Le Fuvre, Charles John Perceval, W. H. Spaul, J. Vaughan, P.P.G.J.W. Warwick; George Wyatt, P.P.G.S.W. Isle of Wight; Capt. John Wordsworth, West Yorkshire, 1019; Alfred W. Stanfield, J. Thompson, P.M. W. Yorkshire, 1019; J. G. Stevens, Thomas J. Barnes, R. B. Webster, J. J. Berry, Robert Wylie, J. P. Platt, P.P.G.S.W. Cheshire; Thomas Hill, W. H. B. Tomlinson, W. Yorkshire; Henry Smith, Prov. G.S. W. Yorkshire; W. J. Murlis, Ed. Hopwood, M. Stern, A. H. Tattershall, Rev. W. White, Albert Elford, James A. Birch, John Barker, W. James Gill, F. Adlard, Thomas Meggy, Herbert Dicketts, G. R. Sherrill, Henry Venn, H. Hacker, Fredk. Binckes, John M. Clabon, E. M. Haigh, George Bolton, F. B. Davage, H. M. Levy, W. W. Morgan, D. R. Still, James Cowan, George Adamson, E. Coste, E. S. Snell, Thos. Fenn, John Mason, Edward Cox, L. Ruf, F. R. W. Hedges (Secretary), and H. Massey (Freemason).

The following brethren represented West Yorkshire:— Bros. W. H. Gill, J.P.; A. W. Stanfield, J.P.; W. H. B. Tomlinson, J.P.; John Wordsworth, Henry Smith, and Thomas Hill.

After the minutes had been read, Bro. J. A. Birch said there was an alteration in the rules which the brethren in the provinces certainly thought might have been made with advantage to the Institution. The provincial brethren believed that voting for the Secretary of the Institution might be allowed to be conducted by proxies instead of as at present in person. If provincial brethren now wished to vote for Secretary they had to come up to London, probably at an expense of £5 or £6, otherwise they were powerless to vote. They could vote by proxy for candidates for the Schools or the Aged Institution, and it seemed to him and numerous other provincial brethren that the same privilege might be extended to voting for Secretary.

The Chairman said the attention of the Committee for altering the rules had been directed to this subject, and they thought that the law should remain as it was. Bro. Birch's proposition not being a new matter it was competent for him now to move upon it.

Bro. Birch said he should be very glad to make a motion on the subject. The voting for Secretary was really now in the hands of the London brethren.

Bro. Thomas W. White said that though this was not a new matter, he must submit that the present was a meeting for the confirmation of the laws as altered, and he could not see how Bro. Birch's motion could be brought on without notice.

Bro. Woodford also drew attention to the question of seven years and seven consecutive years.

The Chairman, after conferring with the Grand Registrar, said that all that could be legally done at the present meeting in this respect was that Bro. Birch might move that the part of the laws that he objected to be not confirmed. With regard to seven years the Chairman said the matter would be settled on Monday.

Bro. Birch said he would move then to strike out the word "present" in Rule 73.

Bro. Thos. W. White said if this word was struck out it would leave the wording exactly as it had been in the old law.

Bro. McIntyre said, that being so, the old law would be revised. Bro. Birch might give notice of motion to alter the bye-laws at next Quarterly Court, or he might move for a Committee to revise that particular law.

Bro. J. A. Birch said he would give notice of motion for the Court in October.

The minutes of last Quarterly Court were then put to the meeting and confirmed.

Bro. McIntyre, G.R., proposed that Col. Creaton, Grand Treasurer elect, be elected Treasurer of this Institution.

He was quite sure that every one who was present at last Grand Lodge was delighted at the unanimity with which Col. Creaton was elected Grand Treasurer. He had been one of the most active, able, and earnest supporters of the Masonic Charities, and every one would combine in doing honour to him who did such honour to this Institution.

Bro. Clabon, President of the Lodge of Benevolence, said that as one who was put in competition with Col. Creaton at the election of Grand Treasurer, and who so gladly saw the result, he had the greatest pleasure in seconding the proposition.

Col. Creaton was then elected unanimously as Treasurer of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls.

Bros. N. C. Browse and J. J. Caney were elected on the General Committee.

The scrutineers of votes were then chosen, and the election of eighteen girls out of an approved list of forty-seven candidates was proceeded with. The poll was declared at four o'clock, when the following was found to be the result:—

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

The monthly meeting of the Committee of this Institution was held on the 9th inst., at Freemasons' Hall. Bro. Col. Creaton, Grand Treasurer elect, presided, and there were also present Bros. Samuel Rawson, Past District Grand Master of China; C. A. Cottebrune, P.G.P.; Raynham W. Stewart, P.G.D.; Frederick Adlard, J. A. Farnfield, James Brett, P.G.P.; John J. Stevens, A. H. Tattershall, John Newton, Charles F. Hogard, Thomas Cubitt, P.G.P.; Edgar Bowyer, Charles J. Perceval, L. Stean, Erasmus Wilson, G.D.; W. Hilton, Charles Horsley, Charles G. Hill, William Hall, James Terry, Prov. G. J. W. Herts (Secretary); and H. Massey (Freemason).

The Secretary reported the deaths of one male and two female annuitants.

The Warden's report was read, and the report of the Finance Committee was read and adopted. The Chairman was authorised to sign cheques, and it was resolved that £3000 should be deposited at the banker's at interest.

The petition of Mrs. La Croix (Hampshire) was rejected, the necessary ten years' dues of her late husband not having been completed.

Bros. Col. Creaton, J. A. Farnfield, and Griffiths Smith were nominated as the Committee to draw up the annual report.

The application of a widow for half her late husband's annuity, and for leave to reside in the asylum, was granted.

Bro. Col. Creaton's motion, "That owing to the continued growth of the Institution, and the additional work consequent thereon being very great, the salary of the Secretary be increased £100 per annum from the 1st of March last," was carried unanimously, and the proceedings closed with the usual compliment to the Chairman.

The annual festival of the Chapter of Fortitude, and annual meeting of the Prov. Grand Chapter of Leicestershire and Rutland, will be held at the Freemasons' Hall, Leicester, on Thursday next.

FREEMASONRY AT HOME.

If it be true, as we have endeavoured to point out in two preceding articles, that Freemasonry in what it does do, and what it does not do above all, has ever human happiness as its aim, and human well-being as its end, surely, we should be disposed to think, it must be highly appreciated among men. And yet, strange to say, for it is a paradox per se, this friendly, useful, and beneficent fraternity, for it is all this and even more than this, has had countless attacks to meet, and numerous and bitter foes to contend with. It has been assailed by ridicule and by obloquy, it has been menaced by spiritual excommunications and temporal condemnation; it has been for a time silenced, suppressed, and supposed to be extinguished under some unwise Governments in various parts of the world, and; even at this hour, the opinions of the outer world seem curiously intermingled, whether of admiration or detraction, approval or disapproval, sympathy or sarcasm, respect or ridicule. Why is this? What has Freemasonry done to disentitle it to fair play and equitable treatment, to the consideration of the tolerant and the approbation of the just? The truth is, and we will say it all at once, and once for all, the divided state of public opinion is due to the perseverance of malignant calumny, originally set on foot by the Jesuits and the Ultramontane party in the Church of Rome. It is more than possible, indeed, we think, and on no light evidence, that the Jesuits, with their worldly acumen, sought at one time to make use of the secret organization of Freemasonry to further their own political or religious views. According to the strict ideas of some Roman Catholic writers there have not been a few "heretics" even amongst the Jesuits themselves, and it is just possible that towards the end of the last century, for instance, when all society and all authority were decomposed and decomposing, that astute and secret sodality may have thought that they could turn Freemasonry to their own aims and their own benefit. But if so, this endeavour did not last long, and the earliest condemnation of Freemasonry, in 1738, procured by the Jesuits, probably represents their official, and latest, and deliberate views on the subject. Hence, their great object always has been to confound Freemasonry with revolution, and to represent Freemasonry as a destructive secret political society. In the earliest Bull of Clement, indeed, another ground is taken, namely, the pernicious fact that Roman Catholics and Protestants meet together—horrible act!—but the uniform tenor of all subsequent Roman Catholic anathemata and allocutions, and Bulls and Briefs, has been to confound Freemasonry with Fenianism, and the Carbonari, and other secret political societies, or rather to put them all, as we say, "in a lump" together on one level. In Great Britain, America, and the Canadas, and Germany, Sweden, Denmark, and Holland, any such charge was quite unfounded, as many Roman Catholics know and admit—though we are obliged in fairness to confess that in Germany latterly some unwise individual utterances have been heard, proclaiming, with much egotism, that Freemasonry was simply an opposition to Roman Catholicism—a very great mistake in every respect. Still the old slander has been handed on, and it has even grown in younger and unskilful hands, until Freemasons are accused of all revolutions, of king-murder, of violence, turbulence, anarchy; of being the hidden cause of all the national tumults of past years or to-day. Anything more ridiculous or more false as a matter of history never has been promulgated on fallible or even infallible authority. With the "Illuminati," for instance, with whom Freemasons have been often, and still are, confounded by Roman Catholic authorities, they have had nothing whatever to do in any measure. The Illuminati were founded by Weisnaupt, a Roman Catholic and a Jesuit, on the system of Freemasonry, it is true, he being a Freemason, though not when, it is curious to note, he founded his Order, and it is more than doubtful whether in what he did he was not following the "dicta" of countless leading Jesuit teachers, by whom revolution and king killing, and disobedience to rational laws, and anarchical and anti-social principles, have been openly expressed and carefully manipulated. Thus the prejudice, such as it is, lingering against Freemasonry in the world, rests, as such prejudices mostly do, on open or anonymous slander, and may well at once be dismissed for ever by the thoughtful, the studious, and the equitable. If any one asks of us to-day "what is Freemasonry, and what does it do?" we reply at once "Si queris circumspice." There is no human society in Great Britain which, with limited numbers and not very wealthy members, is doing as much as Freemasonry does do for genuine charity, for the mitigation of the sorrows, the woes, the trials of humanity, for lightening the burdens of this earthly pilgrimage, in reverence for God and in love for man. And here we stop to-day.

MASONIC LITERATURE.

Often as we use these words, and often as we have used them in the Freemason, we never touch upon the subject without some misgiving and much reluctance, and the reason is obvious. Our worthy brethren, excellent in many ways and capacities, zealous, earnest, undaunted, and untiring, do not yet quite see, for some reason or other, the need, utility, and advantage of Masonic literature—in itself and by itself—whether for themselves in particular, or Freemasonry in general. True it is that there is Masonic literature, and we will add "and Masonic literature," and, that, despite apathy and forgetfulness, "caterers" are still to be found to supply a "pabulum" for the Masonic mind, regularly, carefully, and effectively. But yet, alas! what is the record and result of most Masonic literary ventures, but this—loss, failure, breaking down? In both hemispheres the cry is "still they come," and above all, "still they fail." Goodly argosies, well freighted too, founder in the great ocean of Masonic indifference, and are heard of no more. Pale ghosts of departed "weeklies" and "serials" seem to haunt us still, reminding us that they have been once amongst us in the "body," but are now "disembodied" with a vengeance. And why is this, we repeat once more? We fear there is but one answer—our Masonic public wants "educating," not, indeed, in the vulgar necessities of the three "R.'s," but as to the high importance and value, and light imparted by "Masonic literature." As a rule, we fear, the less profound artistic and æsthetic level of Masonic literature is preferred, which deals with the "menu" and the "songs," which sets up elaborate "summonses" and deftly decorated invitations as the "summum bonum" of Masonic literary taste and power. If a few of the old "stock books" are sought for and read, that is all, and, despite the changes of time, the advance of criticism, and the discoveries of archaeology, we fear the majority of our Order remain perpetually indifferent to the lucubrations of the Masonic antiquarian, or the pages of the Masonic historian. Of course we are not insensible to the prevalence of the old Masonic hostility to all publications, and though we admit, promptly, that there may be over publication, we have yet to learn why Freemasonry, so rich in its legends and its traditions, its quaint customs, and its remarkable symbolism, is to be without a literature at all, and to be alone in the world, so to say, without any exposition either of its esoteric tokens or its esoteric formulæ. We trust sincerely that better days are yet in store for Masonic literature, and that the many thousand works, not all of course of the same value, which have been issued by Masonic writers since 1723, may be more studied by the "coming Freemasons" than they have been, we apprehend, by their worthy predecessors. Our publisher has lately issued two literary efforts which call for the thanks of Masonic students, and the support of intelligent and reading Masons, and deserve a place in all lodge libraries, be these many or be these few. The one is a catalogue of Masonic books, which will be excessively useful to Masonic collectors, and as the forerunner of a later and larger one seems to point, let us trust, to Masonic studies and literary interest. The other is Vol. I. of a Masonic Archæological Library, which contains the Book of Constitutions of 1723, and the Wilson MS. The work is beautifully printed, and is a fitting commencement of a useful Masonic archæological library. In America, where Masonic archæology has more votaries than in Great Britain, these works will, we know, meet with much sympathy and approval as steps in a right direction, and we hope that we may see in them, as the Editor of Vol. I. of the Masonic Archæology Library states in his preface, "auspicious melioris ævi," the promise that is of "that good time coming," of which Mackay writes, alike for men and for Masons.

PROVINCIAL EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATIONS.

We publish elsewhere a scheme, originating in West Yorkshire, for the formation of a local benevolent effort, somewhat on the system of the Lancashire and Cheshire Associations, to assist the education of indigent children of Freemasons in that province. A somewhat similar society, with similar aims, also exists at Leeds. We are glad to note and announce these proposals, because though they do not go as far as we could wish, they yet are good as far as they do go. In our opinion the time has come when the provinces should seek to have what the French call "succursales," or subsidiary institutions, to our great central Educational Charities. There can be no possible reason why one system of education, even the same books, might not be used among all the Educational Institutions, and as they would all lead up to the great central Schools, a qualifying examination might well be added to the election by subscribers as at present. Supposing, for instance, that West Yorkshire had a preliminary school of its own, its children who go to the central Schools might be there from 12 to 15, and 12 to 16, respectively, and the younger provincial children would be provided for in a provincial school, and the London juveniles in a London school kept up by the London brethren alone. There are some few obstacles in the way, no doubt, but none which might not be got over by patience and perseverance. There is no difficulty, for instance, as Dr. Morris and Miss Davis could tell our readers, in having one system of education for girls and boys all over the country, and it is just possible that we have in this fact the practicability of carrying out Bro. Clabon's view of bursaries or scholarships. The one great hindrance in the way of Bro. Clabon's benevolent scheme is, that whereas the Benevolent Fund is the contribution of the whole Craft, and meant for general benevolence, the proposal to alienate a portion of it to the Schools seems to savour to some of limited and special purposes, antagonistic to its avowed object. But if there were alike provincial and metropolitan "Bursaries" this objection would be met, and much good to Masonry would accrue. Do any of us think that our Educational Institutions with our growing order can stand where they are now, taking into consideration our applications for admission and the wear and tear of life? Any such idea is in our opinion a mistake. We must, while the sun shines, look out for increased wants and accumulated claims, and having "put our hands to the plough," let us not "look back" or "weary by the way," but resolutely set ourselves to the work of carrying on, developing, and perfecting Institutions so honourable to our Order, so blessed for the young, and so helpful to humanity.

THE LONDON MASONIC CHARITY ASSOCIATION.

We have reason to believe that at the last elections this much needed association has done good service to many poor candidates. The recent election has been a very difficult one to contest, for various reasons, and is probably an omen of what each succeeding election must be. Indeed, in this fact alone is an apology to be found, if apology be needed with any, for the formation of an organization so friendly to our great Charities, and so helpful to poor candidates. We await the official report, which will go into details, and probably touch both on the "modus operandi" and the serious difficulties which arise from a keen and earnest competition for the benefits, many and great, of our admirable Institutions. We understand that at the next meeting of the Committee several new members will be proposed.

ANCIENT AND ACCEPTED RITE.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

As I did not write for "An Outsider," who is not a member of the Ancient and Accepted Rite, I do not see why he should trouble himself about my tone; nevertheless, I have no special fault to find with his views, unless it be that they are singularly onesided for a disinterested person. My views of Masonry are, to say the least, as impartial as his own. I have no wish to say anything that may annoy "An Outsider," but I do not see how he can complain, if a society which has so little respect for the opinion of others occasionally receives a little in exchange of its own Billingsgate commodity.

My letter, I must remind your correspondent, was written in view of one signed "Maitland," which appeared in your impression of the 28th ult. I recognise the hand as that of a gentleman of good education and position, who was introduced to me by one of the Sovereign Grand Inspector Generals of the Ancient and Accepted Rite for Canada. In the aforesaid letter he writes that the Maitland brethren "were called 'prostitutors of Masonry,' and defiers of the powers that be, 'traffickers in degrees.'"

Perjury was plainly intimated, and swindling, if not worse, hinted at. Now, whoever was the author of such a vile attack is of very little consequence, because I do not wish to make such unpleasant matters a personal affair apart from the Rite, and in this I think I act more Masonically than if I sought out and attacked the individual. It is enough for me that the Ancient and Accepted Rite has no authority outside its own members. Such language is, therefore, a mad conceit, and "An Outsider" is quite intelligent enough to see my comparison without my attempting to point it out more clearly, which would only add in his eyes to my offence. It is enough to know that the brethren attacked are quite as honourable as those who attack, and that is saying but little.

As "An Outsider" is not a member of the Ancient and Accepted Rite, I do not see how he is competent to discuss the question of the legality of the English Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Rite, and I think the Canadian discussion of the subject is in good hands. As it can only be resolved favourably to his views by showing that neither oaths or laws or anything else are binding, it would be impossible to consider it without implications. Moreover, I do not see any good in a discussion between a brother who can know nothing with certainty about the question, and one who (whilst his own opinions are respected) cares nothing about it.

As to "An Outsider's" gratuitous and partial attack upon that "ridiculous Rite of Memphis" (his words), by which (in view of the opening part of his letter) I am sure that he can mean no offence, I will answer him by a little of candid and open information, by which doubtless I shall bring upon the members the wrath of every man of the Ancient and Accepted Rite, to be followed elsewhere by special acts of annoyance. As man is punished by suffering, the Rite will be purged by annoyance. The first 20 degrees of the "ridiculous Rite of Memphis" are a selection of the 33 ceremonies of the Ancient and Accepted Rite, but deprived of their erroneous history, and with its titles of Sovereign Princes, Princes, Pontiffs, &c., reduced to simple knighthood; its next ten ceremonies are schools for the consideration of the ancient religions, and deducing therefrom the doctrine of immortality of the human soul and the fatherhood of God and brotherhood of man, the same being applied to the first Three Degrees of Masonry. If "An Outsider" can find anything ridiculous in this I regret his position, for he had better have never been born. One title to which objection may be taken is "Prince Mason," which is the Thirty-second Degree, and presiding officer of the chapters, senates, and council, but the English brethren did not consider themselves entitled to make a change in the general nomenclature.

There is a good and proper feeling in "An Outsider's" letter, for which I thank him, and I regret that he has destroyed its value by the tone of a partisan.

MEMPHIS.

THE HOLMESDALE LODGE.

Dear Sir,—

The graphic and interesting report of the installation meeting at the Pump Room, on Wednesday, the 19th ult. (in your paper of the 22nd ult.), must have been highly gratifying, not only to the Craft, but to the outside world. As regards their meeting room, I have had the pleasure of seeing it, and can endorse the description given, that is, as far as my uninitiated eyes can form an opinion. The writer of the article referred to has felicitously and elaborately described the furniture and fittings. Passing from the robing room into the lodge, one can but be impressed with the chasteness and beauty of all its accessories; every detail, I assume, that is distributed throughout the lodge has a sign, or emblem, of the cardinal virtues.

The after dinner speeches, at the Calverley Hotel, by the brethren of the Craft enlightens us to a certain extent of the deeply-rooted current of pure feeling that underlies and pervades the fraternity of Freemasonry. Those of the P.M.'s show us that the duties, although arduous, are labours of love, its attainment of very high honour, and the culminating point of human felicity. Few of us of the outside world (as one of the P.M.'s with the bright hues of inspiration and the colours of reality designated those out of the pale of the brotherhood) but have been in different degrees associated with the brethren, and have had opportunities of forming their estimation, and discovering the prominent features and principles of the Order. My father, and also my son, were Masons, and I may have had exceptional privileges as one of the outside world. On reading the speech of the W.M. we see he refers to the Sacred Volume, showing us that Masonry was not a name only, but a reality; and that there was a kindred nature between Masonry and that old Book. I believe that members are taught on the threshold of the institution to reverence God, truth omnipotent, immaculate, and eternal, that learned from Heaven, radiating from the throne of the Most High, the prominent feature of Freemasonry, love to God, and inculcating a veneration for religion; friendship towards all mankind—friendship that shields from reproach, counsels against evil, and defends from aspersion; just in all the duties and relations of life, cemented, and embodied in Christian charity are their cardinal virtues.

The brother Hudson, in replying to the toast of "The Visitors," in a genuine and entirely unaffected speech, must have delighted his hearers. His lucid, eloquent, and appropriate remarks must have found an echo in every human breast present. It must have been through the knowledge and eloquence of such master minds of the present and past centuries, backed by the magic force of erudition, that these profound theories and organisations survive to make an enduring impression on our race. The uninitiated in the mysteries of Freemasonry cannot fail to perceive, if depending solely on Mr. Hudson's genial remarks, that there is a bond of brotherhood that binds them together by obligations the most sacred, and that strangers meet together as one family, and in the universal brotherhood of man, and that Masonry has survived the scorching heat, and winds of prejudice and opposition, and by the blessing of Heaven has become a majestic tree whose branches shadow the land as the waters cover the sea.

A CATALOGUE OF BOOKS ON FREEMASONRY.

George Kenning, 198, Fleet-street, E.C.

This catalogue is likely to be very useful, and we are glad to note it and peruse it. As a first tentative effort it is manifestly limited and incomplete, but it is suggestive of a much larger catalogue ere long, which will be helpful and useful in the highest degree to all Masonic students in both hemispheres, as well as for all who seek to increase their libraries, learn the value of books, and encourage the circulation and expansion of Masonic literature.

MASONIC ARCHÆOLOGICAL LIBRARY.

George Kenning, 198, Fleet-street, E.C.

We are pleased to be permitted in the Freemason to announce this third volume of a Masonic Archæological Library. As it may seem perhaps a little too much like self-laudation to say much of the work here, we will merely add that it is admirably printed and illustrated, and dedicated to Bro. Hughan. Many brethren may like to possess a copy of a now scarce work "The Constitutions of 1723," and we therefore call the attention of all Masonic students to the reasonable appearance of this work.

HOW TO AVOID THE DOCTOR.

By Bro. J. R. Greenway, M.D. W. Nash, Tunbridge Wells.

We have perused this work, which is very pleasant reading, though, we confess, with some doubt, and we allude to it even with more "reserve." For in its idea it is probably most Masonic and benevolent, but in its development and application we somewhat fear that it may prove to be anything but helpful to the "non expert." We doubt very much, for instance, whether the average run of persons, mothers and the like, are capable of understanding and using the medical "formula" so kindly given, and whether, on the other hand, they may not "confound," both by their multiplicity or by their very minuteness. We appreciate Bro. Greenway's "idea," as we said before, but we are not quite sure, we confess, as to the "practicability" of his publication. Is it not better to send for a doctor when you have need of him? and can you do without a doctor here below? These are questions we venture to propound for Bro. Dr. Greenway's serious consideration. If Mr. Oldbuck's view be correct, that the "Doctors live by our diseases, the lawyers by our quarrels, and the clergy by our sins," doctors would seem to be a necessity of this mortal state of existence. We remember of old time, those who habitually studied "Buchan's Domestic Medicine," and "Buchaners," as they were called, they generally made themselves ill, and everybody else ill, including the servants about them. Our good Bro. Greenway will probably remember that most injured chemist in "Pickwick," at M. S. Bardell's "Breach," as Mr. Weller, senior, used to say, who informed the irritable judge and the sympathetic audience that his errand boy had a habit of supposing that "Epsom salts meant oxalic acid, and syrup of senna, laudanum." We are a little afraid of what the effect on some elderly or youthful patients may be in the hands of some excitable female, for instance, of some of the able writer's clear prescriptions. But still the work has a value and importance for those many excellent housewives who are "awmost," as they say in Yorkshire, "as good 't' doctor hisself," and for them this very pleasantly written and most readable work will be a treasure. That do what we will, we cannot do without a doctor, we venture to believe here, though, certainly, if such a state of things could be realized in this sublunary scene, Bro. Dr. Greenway will have done a good deal to herald its approach, and pave the way for its success. So all who object to doctor's prescriptions, &c., &c., may look to Bro. Dr. Greenway for the promise of more auspicious days, and less "medicinalized" hours.

THE HYGIENE OF THE SKIN. By J. L. MILTON. Chatto and Windus, Piccadilly.

This pleasant and chatty little work opens out to the public the "aporreta" of skin complaints, alike in their origin and development, their mystery and their evidence. Just now there seems to be a growing taste for medical works, whether a good taste we may perhaps be permitted to doubt, for the great and prescribed-for public. Like Masonry for the lodge room, medicine seems better adapted on the whole, we say it with all deference, for the "consultation," and in our humble opinion its "chaste mysteries" ought to be reserved for "experts." But no doubt Mr. Milton knows better than we do, and as his little work has reached a 6th edition, he can point to the greatest "factor" after all in this world's affairs—"success." As we have said before, we have run through the work, as "non experts" of course, and can bear willing testimony to its ease of diction, and agreeable flow of words. We quite appreciate the writer's motives, and do not wonder at his success, and we have no doubt that all our readers, who like to turn over its pages, will be glad to have made the acquaintance of another and genial writer.

THE LAW OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES. By G. C. Whiteley, Barrister-at-Law. London: Chas. Knight & Co.

In this little book, which seems to have been prepared with great care, we have a complete collection of the law of weights and measures, with the decisions of the Courts on various points connected with it, and the cases in which the questions have been raised. The book is not only necessary for the table of Justices of the Peace, and the authorities who are called on to adjudicate in the numerous weights and measures cases which come before them, but will be a valuable help to inspectors of weights and measures, and may also very profitably be read by those tradesmen who at present do not appear to be quite cognisant of what constitutes a pound or pint.

MASONIC WORKS IN THE BRITISH MUSEUM.

Referring to the list of works on Masonry, a catalogue of which appears in the Masonic Magazine for this month, I may mention one that has no place. This is "The Spirit of Masonry," by Bro. W. Hutchinson, published at Carlisle, in 1796; but whether that was the only edition, I am unaware. Bro. Hutchinson was, moreover, the author of the now scarce and valuable "History of Cumberland," published in two quarto volumes, in the year 1798, also at Carlisle, a clean and perfect copy of which I have known purchased at an auction sale for £15.

W. F. LAMONBY.

I have been aware for several years of the fact noted by "Antiquity" in the Freemason of the 12th inst., having a copy of the calendar containing a list of the erasures and Unions for the year 1794, and I have pointed this out more than once. The lodge called the "Harodim" was constituted in 1790 by the "Moderns," soon after which Preston and his friends were reinstated by the Grand Lodge (2nd May, 1790), the warrant having been obtained "to empower the companions of the Order of Harodim to meet as a regular lodge of Masonry." Its number was 467 as altered on 18th April, 1792, but its existence was indeed brief. During its continuance, the funds of the Lodge and of the Chapter of Harodim were united for mutual good, and especially to promote the latter. Bro. R. F. Gould, the author of "The Four Old Lodges" (now in press), thus writes at page 6: "In 1794 it absorbed the Harodim, No. 467, constituted March 25th, 1790." I have had the pleasure of examining some of the first sheets of the "Four Old Lodges" in which this statement occurs, and anticipate much pleasure in reading the complete work shortly. In the Masonic Eclectic for 1878, and printed by Bro. G. H. Ramey in a most excellent manner, we have had the laws of the "Order of Harodim" reprinted of 1787, and in the Rosicrucian (then edited by our lamented Bro. R. W. Little) for Oct., 1876, will be found the revised laws for the same Order of 1790, and the by-laws of the "Harodim Lodge," referred to by our Bro. "Antiquity," of 1790 (dated 9th Dec., 1790). As the chief members of the Grand Chapter of Harodim were members of the branch of the "Lodge of Antiquity" which for a few years met under the wing of the "Grand Lodge of all England" held at York, and subsequently returned to their allegiance as members of the "Moderns," London, any facts relating to this interesting subject are of value, and though those stated by "Antiquity" are not new to us Masonic students, we feel sure that on pursuing his researches he will find many additional items of interest if he has access to the old records of that ancient lodge. I have been anticipating information about the Lodge of Antiquity from the Deputy Master of H.R.H. Prince Leopold, viz., Bro. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, M.A., who has many times before now "struck light" where formerly was darkness, and I trust will do so many times more.

W. J. HUGHAN.

[In last communication of mine as to Anderson's Lodge, No. 39 is of Exeter, not Axeth.—W. J. H.]

Bro. Hughan's criticism of the list (1738) published by me in the current number of the Masonic Magazine, invites more remark than is possible under existing circumstances, the bulk of my lodge lists for the past century being now in the hands of the printer; and no one knows better than the esteemed author of the Masonic Register the difficulty of explaining in detail the discrepancies of successive calendars without all one's memoranda to refer to.

I think, however, I can answer the queries to Bro. Hughan's satisfaction, though I must refer general readers to my lists of the eighteenth century, which, embodying the full descriptions of more than three thousand lodges, will be shortly before the Craft. Old 68 and 69 in the 1738 list (Masonic Magazine) are at present "Strong Man" and "Medina" respectively. The lodge at Newcastle-on-Tyne (p. 437 Masonic Magazine) is the present Lodge of Industry, Gateshead. This connection is at first view very confusing, the natural inference being that, as per engraved lists there was a lodge at Gateshead in 1735, the present Gateshead Lodge, also dating from 1735; is identical therewith.

The notes, however, to my reprint of the 1740 list, show that the lodge numbered 127 on that list, meeting at the Fountain, Gateshead, and constituted 8th March, 1735 (really 1736: see Masonic Magazine, page 437), was erased 17th Nov., 1760, and again on 27th Jan., 1768, also, the engraved list of 1778 has the following:—

61, Lodge of Industry, constituted June 24th, 1735. This date corresponds with the period of establishment placed against the Newcastle Lodge in all editions of the engraved lists, and if Bro. Hughan refers to the same number (61) in his own list for 1774, which he was kind enough to lend me some months since (the list for that year being absent from the collection in the library of Grand Lodge), he will find "No. 61, Masons' Arms, Swallow, near Newcastle-on-Tyne."

R. F. GOULD.

Replying to "Antiquity."—In my work, the "Four Old Lodges," at pages 7 and 45, will be found a reference to the absorption by the Lodge of Antiquity of the Harodim Lodge, No. 558 (1790). A full description of this latter lodge is given in two lists appended to my work.

A marginal (MS.) note in the Freemason's Calendar (G.L.), 1793, informs us that the Lodge of Harodim was erased 9th April, 1794, which therefore may presumably be regarded as the date of its amalgamation with the Lodge of Antiquity.—R.F.G.

VICTORIA.—Orion Lodge (No. 1153, E.C.).—The installation of the officers of this lodge took place on 11th December, 1878, P.M. Bro. Kelly being the Installing Officer. Bro. T. Kennedy was installed as W.M.; T. Potter, S.W.; M. S. Clark, J.W.; J. Embling, Secretary and Treasurer; Shorthouse, S.D.; Baker, J.D.; E. Ellis, I.G.; Wholohan, Tyler. There was a large number of visitors from other lodges, including Bros. Wheeler, W.M.; Nevett and Little, P.M.'s, Yarrovec Lodge; Peake, W.M., and H. I. White, M'Cartney, Robertson, and Trevor, P.M.'s St. John's Lodge; Hamilton, W.M., and Hale, P.M., Buninyong Lodge; Weickhardt, P.M., All Nations Lodge; Clunes, and others. The installation ceremony was performed with great ability by Bro. Kelly, who during the meeting was presented by the newly-installed W.M. with a handsome Past Master's jewel, for which gift he feelingly thanked the donors. After the lodge was closed about forty-five of the brethren sat down to an excellent banquet. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were honoured. Bro. Wheeler, W.M., Yarrovec Lodge, proposed "The Health of the W.M., Bro. Kennedy," remarking as he did so that the Orion Lodge had shown great discernment in choosing so able a Mason to preside over it. Bro. Kennedy replied eloquently. During the evening that brother was frequently applauded. Bro. Hamilton, W.M. (Buninyong), then proposed "The Health of the Installing Master, Bro. Kelly," and complimented him upon his zeal as a Mason, and the way in which he had performed his duties that evening. In replying, Bro. Kelly dwelt historically and classically on the antiquity and excellency of Freemasonry. The following is an extract from that brother's eloquent oration:—"What a vast field of thought does the placing of our W.M. in the ancient chair of King Solomon open up to us. It points out Masonry as the line of union between the civilised countries of every age and of every clime. It is the only institution that connects us with the sages of antiquity. It has frequently been asked, whence did Freemasonry take its rise? but that question is not so easily answered, because it has been anterior to the age of history, and contemporary with, if not preceding, civilisation itself. Some date its origin from the building of the Holy Temple at Jerusalem by King Solomon, but though that may be an epoch in its history, it no more marks its origin than the Grand Mastership of St. John the Evangelist, or of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. Centuries before the building of King Solomon's temple, when the Golden Fleece was watched by the sleepless dragon, when Priam reigned at Troy, Freemasonry flourished. The legend of the Golden Fleece is regarded as a lively fancy, the very existence of Troy has been questioned, and Jerusalem is only known from its sacred connections. Still Freemasonry flourishes full of life and vigour. Our greatest and most venerable institutions are but of yesterday when compared to it. Freemasonry was an ancient institution when the first Pope was placed in the chair of St. Peter, when the first King sat on the throne of England, when democracy was rocked in its cradle at Athens. It saw the growth and decay of all the great States, of the past, from Nineveh to Venice; it saw the founders of Rome suck the wolf on the banks of the Tiber; it saw the same Rome as mistress of the world, with Greece and Judea, Egypt and England, as Roman provinces paying tribute to the Cæsars; it now sees it as the decorated tombstone of its buried greatness. Other institutions have occupied human attention for a short time. Freemasonry has seen them all come and go. It saw the Magi perform their rites at Memphis, heard the Delphic oracle mystify its votaries, witnessed the age of chivalry pass through the south and west of Europe as a brilliant meteor. Their very existence is now only known to the historian, yet Freemasonry flourishes throughout every part of the globe. Why? Simply because of the solidity of its foundation. It is founded, not on the gratification of the passions, not on the promotion of self-interest, not even on the achievement of ambition, but on the practice of every moral and social virtue. Those excellent precepts which are taught in a Mason's lodge must leave some impressions on the minds of its members, and though they may be sometimes disregarded, can never be entirely forgotten. I do not go as far as to say that they can alter human nature, and change a depraved and worthless person into an honourable man, but I do say they restrain the evil propensities of the wicked, and call into action the virtues of the good. They supply us with fortitude to withstand the pleasant allurements of vice, and teach us not only to moderate our passions, but to temperate in our conversations and our very thoughts. And I have no doubt that so long as Freemasons place men like Bro. Kennedy in their chairs Masonry will continue to flourish throughout every part of the globe, and be influential in dispensing the beauties of virtue and lessening the aggregate of human misery and vice." The annual installation took place on 13th December at St. John's Lodge, 427, I.C., the Immediate P.M., Bro. Herbert, being the Installing Master. The new officers are Bros. J. Showman, W.M.; H. Hunt, S.W.; Lawson, J.W.; B. Paton, Secretary; Marlin, Treasurer; Leggo, S.D.; Proctor, J.D.; Hennah, I.G.; and Morgan, Tyler. The lodge was exceedingly well attended. The Installing Master's work was faultlessly done. The Masonic Anthem was very finely sung. Among the visitors to the lodge were Bros. Baker, D.P.G.M.; Small, P.P.G.S.W.; Finlayson, P.D.G.J.W.; Scott, R.W.D.J.; Robertson, P.P.G.D.C.; Wheeler, W.M., and Little, P.M., of the Yarrovec Lodge; Kennedy, W.M., Kelly, P.M., Babington, P.M., A. Wilson, W.M., and Hart, P.M., Havilah Lodge, Creswick; S. Batson, P.M., Weickhardt, and Everhardt, All Nations Lodge, Clunes; Smith, W.M., and Alroe, P.M., Sepastopol Lodge; Caselli, P.M., R.A.C.; Rev. Charles Clark, and others. About eighty brethren sat down to an excellent banquet. Several toasts were eloquently given and responded to. In response to the toast of "W.M.," Bro. Showman, addressing the younger members of the lodge, said, "Practise the Masonic virtue of patience," and if they did so they would in time be as richly rewarded as he had been. He was not naturally an enthusiast in its cause. A question often asked of Masons was what Freemasonry was. It was a system of the very highest morality, and whether its origin were very ancient or comparatively modern, it had always taught the doctrines of morality, of liberty, of education, and of fraternity breaking down the barriers of despotism and ignorance. The worthy brother, referring to the universality of Freemasonry, said that "Statistics showed that 500,000 of the inhabitants of the globe were Freemasons, and that the influence for good of Masonry upon the world could scarcely be over-estimated."

CASTLEMAINE. — Mount Alexander Lodge (No. 692, E.C.).—The annual installation of W.M. of the above lodge took place on 5th December, 1878. The lodge was honoured by the attendance of Bro. Lempiere, R.W. Grand Sec., and a large number of brethren from all parts of the district, including fourteen Past Masters. Bro. T. L. Brown was duly installed W.M. for the ensuing twelve months by Bro. Dallas, P.M., of Guildford, who performed the ceremony in a highly creditable manner. The W.M. appointed the following brethren as his officers:—Bros. D. L. Henry, S.W.; Philpots, J.W.; Cramer, Chap.; Beard, Treas.; Starken, Sec.; Adams, S.D.; Halford, J.D.; McLean, I.G.; Glendinning and McClean, Stewards; J. Brown, Tyler. The banquet following passed off very pleasantly, and, as several brethren are excellent vocalists, the proceedings were agreeably diversified. The R.W.D. Grand Sec., Bro. Lempiere, made some happy remarks in responding to the toast of his health, and expressed his conviction that Mount Alexander Lodge was rapidly regaining its former position as the leading lodge in the district. The excellent progress made by the lodge during the last twelve months reflected the highest credit on the retiring W.M., Bro. Dolphin.

The Fifteen Sections will be worked by the members of the Eccleston Lodge of Instruction, No. 1624, at the King's Head Tavern, Ebury Bridge, Pimlico, on Saturday evening, 19th inst., commencing at 7 o'clock—Bro. D. H. McClell, P.M. 1624, W.M.

The Prince Leopold Lodge of Mark Master Masons, No. 238, was consecrated on Monday, the 7th inst., at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street, by Bro. W. G. Brighten, P.M. No. 144, Grand Superintendent of Works, and Prov. Grand Secretary for Middlesex and Surrey. Prior, however, to the consecration of the lodge, Bro. Brighten advanced Bro. Sir Charles James Palmer to the Mark Degree, for which purpose a special dispensation from Grand Mark Lodge was granted.

The brethren present at the consecration were Bros. W. W. B. Beach, M.P., Past Grand Mark Master; Col. W. Wigginton, A. Tisley, Charles Horsley, T. R. Richnell, J. N. Rogers, F. H. Cozens, Don. M. Dewar, J. W. Baldwin, A. H. Hubbard, E. Hopwood, Dr. E. Passawer, H. C. Levander, and H. Massey (Freemason).

The consecration was appointed for the 7th April, on account of that day being the birthday of Bro. His Royal Highness Prince Leopold, who, in addition to granting permission for the lodge to bear his name, most graciously permitted the lodge to use his crest and arms upon the summonses, jewels, and lodge banner, and having further conferred upon the lodge the distinguished honour of enrolling his name as its first honorary member.

After the lodge had been formally opened, the Consecrating Officer called upon Bro. Beach to deliver the address.

Bro. Beach thereupon said that probably there was nothing in Masonry so remarkable as the progress of Mark Masonry in recent years. Not so many years had elapsed since Mark Masonry was practised only to a small extent in England, and throughout the world also to a limited degree. But of late years Mark Masonry had increased in an unparalleled degree. Lodges had sprung up in every part of the country, and in every colony and dependency attached to the British Crown, through the exertions of brethren who were animated by a desire to extend the principles of Mark Masonry, because they believed that Mark Masonry was an intrinsic relic of the past, that it was indissolubly blended with the best interests of Freemasonry, was an important link in our traditional history. That being so, they bound themselves together to spread it to the utmost of their ability all over the world. Some brethren, however, who presided over Craft Masonry declared that Mark Masonry was not a part of ancient Freemasonry, according to the traditions they had received from their Masonic ancestors. Mark Masons then took the resolve to establish an authority of their own. It would not have been fair to themselves, or to Mark Masons in every part of the world, were they deprived of some supreme power to rule over them. However zealous Freemasons might be to carry out their principles, it was necessary that they should have a supreme head, to which they might look for directions, and therefore Grand Lodge of M.M.M. was established, and it had reached to a point of permanent success. There were attempts at one time to check it, and attempts to depreciate it, but they had been totally unsuccessful, because the Mark Masons pursued their course undeviatingly; they did not set out hastily, but followed their object with steady resolution. They endeavoured to carry out those true principles of the Craft, endeavours to promote a good understanding between all the degrees of Freemasonry, and by that means they had achieved their great success. At first, of course, Grand Lodge of Mark Masters was not acknowledged in every part of the world or in many quarters, but of late Mark Grand Lodge of England had been acknowledged in most parts of the world, and had obtained a position which now it would be difficult to put aside. It would be the effort of those connected with the Order to do their duty to the best of their ability for the welfare of the degree, and it was the duty of brethren who were entering a new lodge and establishing a new lodge to exert themselves to make that lodge an important unit among the lodges which were ruled over by the Grand Mark Master Masons' Lodge. He trusted that all the brethren then present would do their best to support this lodge. It was a very gratifying thing to have new lodges established, especially when there was every reason to believe that they would be successful.

The consecration of the lodge was then proceeded with, Bro. Brighten being in the Consecrating Officer's chair, Bro. Beach in the Deputy Master's, Bro. Baldwin in the S.W.'s, and Bro. Hopwood in the J.W.'s. The ceremony was performed throughout in faultless style. The musical portion was most effectively rendered by Bros. Cozens and Hubbard.

When the lodge had been formally dedicated to Mark Masonry, Bro. Brighten installed Bro. Col. William Wigginton, P.M. 181, Past Grand Superintendent of Works, and Past Provincial Grand Superintendent of Works, Middlesex and Surrey, as W.M. of the lodge. The brethren invested as officers for the year were Bro. T. C. Walls (J.W. 211), S.W.; Bro. A. Tisley (Sec. 211), J.W.; Bro. Charles Horsley (P.M. 1), M.O.; Bro. T. R. Richnell (1803), S.O.; Bro. C. J. Palmer, J.O.; Bro. Charles Horsley, Treas.; Bro. J. N. Rogers, Sec.; and Bro. G. Harrison, Tyler. Before the lodge was closed, the W.M. read letters of apology for inability to attend from Sir E. Lechmere, Sir A. Trollope, Lord Henniker, Lord Holmesdale, and the letter from Bro. Collins, Secretary to His Royal Highness Prince Leopold, announcing that H.R.H. gave permission to the lodge to use his arms and crest. Prince Leopold was then elected an honorary member of the lodge, and the thanks of the lodge were voted to Sir Albert W. Woods (Garter), for furnishing a sketch of Prince Leopold's arms and crest. The following brethren were elected honorary members of the lodge:—Prince Leopold, the Earl of Limerick, the Rev.

G. R. Portal, Sir E. H. Lechmere, Bro. W. W. B. Beach, Lord Skelmersdale, Lord Henniker, Col. Burdett, Bro. Brighten, Bro. H. C. Levander, Bro. F. Binckes, and Bro. Donald M. Dewar.

Bro. Beach acknowledged the compliment, and a vote of thanks was afterwards passed to Bro. Brighten for consecrating the lodge and installing the W.M. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to banquet. The usual toasts were proposed in due course. The W.M. proposed the toast of "Prince Leopold, and the other Honorary Members of the Lodge;" and Bro. Beach, in responding, said he had had the opportunity of meeting Prince Leopold several times in Masonry, and he could fully testify to the truth of the remarks that had been made as to his merits. He witnessed His Royal Highness's installation as Provincial Grand Master of Craft Masons for Oxfordshire, since which time as well as before, he had taken the warmest and most active interest in Freemasonry. He had never relinquished his interest in Masonry, but wherever he had been resident he had made a point if possible of attending any Masonic ceremony. It was very gratifying to the feelings of Masons that His Royal Highness felt so much interested in the ancient Craft, and it was much to be regretted that his health had prevented him from being oftener among the brethren than he had. The brethren hoped, however, for better health for him, and that they might have the pleasure of his presence more frequently than hitherto. His talents and his wishes eminently qualified him for a Masonic career. He (Bro. Beach) had never heard any one, when he was first made Provincial Grand Master, more qualified and able to preside over Masonic ceremonies than he. He had that gift of eloquence which enabled him to preside with efficiency over a body of Masons. With regard to the honour this lodge had done him in electing him an honorary member, the lodge had done itself an honour. The other honorary members felt very grateful for the compliment paid to them. It was very gratifying when any one had done his duty for a number of years to have his exertions acknowledged. It was the highest reward which a soldier who had fallen on the field of battle could have, that his services were appreciated by his country. When Freemasons had done their duty they hoped their brother Masons would fully appreciate their endeavours. The honorary members of the Prince Leopold Mark Lodge thoroughly valued the honour that had been conferred on them. It would incite them to take a warm interest in the prosperity of the lodge, and he hoped that the auspicious work commenced that day would lead to great success.

Bro. Beach also replied to the toast of "Lord Skelmersdale," which was proposed by Bro. Brighten, and reminded the brethren of what he had said in lodge as to the great progress of Mark Masonry. He remembered when Lord Carnarvon was the first Grand Master of the Mark Grand Lodge of England, and various changes were made at different times. But there was one circumstance which he recollected that occurred during his (Bro. Beach's) own Grand Mastership, which he rather had to congratulate himself upon, and that was, that for the first time moveable Grand Lodges were held. It had been complained for some time in Craft Masonry that the Grand Lodges were not sent throughout the country. But it was resolved that in Mark Masonry there should not be this complaint, and therefore the brethren did what they could to remove any cause for it. That was carried out during his year of office, and one or two moveable Grand Lodges were held, and he had the great pleasure of presiding over them. The system had a most beneficial effect, and it had been continued ever since. It had been productive of very good results. It did not interfere with the meetings in London, and it offered a very nice occasion for visiting different parts of the country, and giving Mark Masons an opportunity of rallying round the standard of the Order, and conducting to the progress of the degree. Since the time when he had the honour of presiding over G. Lodge of the Mark Degree great progress had been made, which he believed was very much owing to the exertions of Bro. Portal, than whom, he thought, no one had ever taken so much interest in the degree. Since Bro. Portal's time other Grand Masters had presided, all of whom took great interest in the Order, and the result had been such success that while obtaining a firm footing in this country, the Grand Lodge of Mark Masters had been acknowledged by the Grand Lodges and Grand Chapters of other countries.

Bro. H. C. Levander, Grand Registrar, replied to the toast of "The Grand Officers," and Bro. Brighten to the toast of "The Consecrating Officer."

Bro. Beach proposed "The Newly-Advanced Brother," to which toast Sir Charles Palmer responded, and stated that he felt deeply gratified at having entered the Order, which he looked upon as an essential part of Freemasonry.

In proposing the toast of "The Officers of the Prince Leopold Lodge," Bro. Brighten referred to the great services Bro. Charles Horsley had rendered to Freemasonry for many years, whom he described as a veritable Atlas, almost the world being on his shoulders. He prophesied continued success for the lodge with such an officer, and trusted he might live to a ripe old age to witness the fruit of his exertions on behalf of the lodge.

Bro. Horsley replied, and the proceedings were shortly afterwards brought to a close.

Some beautiful singing was given during the evening by Bros. Cozens and Hubbard.

MASONIC SONGS.—A selection of Masonic Songs, set to popular airs, written by Bro. E. P. Philpots, M.D., F.R.G.S., is now ready, forming a handsome volume, bound in cloth, with gilt edges, 3s. Sent post-free from the office of this paper on receipt of stamps or post-office order value 3s. 2d. —Edvt.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

On Thursday, the 10th inst., the first meeting of Stewards of the Girls' School, 1879, took place at Freemasons' Hall at four p.m., when Bro. Major Ramsay, Deputy Grand Master Punjab, was elected President of the Board of Stewards, and Bro. A. F. A. Woodford, P.G. Chap., was elected acting Vice-President.

Bro. Hedges announced 221 Stewards. The usual routine business was transacted, and the Stewards' fee fixed at two guineas. The festival will take place on the 14th May. The Chairman is not yet fixed, although hopes are entertained that H.R.H. Prince Leopold may yet be able to preside.

The next meeting of the Board will take place on Monday, the 28th inst., at 4.30, at Freemasons' Hall.

There was a numerous assembly of Stewards for a first meeting.

AN OLD MASON.

Bro. Chas. Marsh, of Tunbridge Wells, in his ninety-first year, was initiated into Freemasonry Aug. 6th, 1819, in Royal Cumberland Lodge, Bath, 41, then 48; became W.M. in 1828. In 1832 was appointed P.G.S.D. for the County of Somerset; was also a member, and became P.Z., of Royal Arch Chapter. He was subscribing member to both lodge and chapter over twenty years, when he removed to Liverpool, and subsequently went to Sydney, New South Wales, where he was one of the founders, and was elected honorary member of Zetland Royal Arch Chapter there. On his return to England in 1856 he lost his sight. Soon after he took up his residence in Tunbridge Wells, and in 1861 was one of seven to form the Holmesdale Lodge there, 874, and acted as P.M. till the first W.M. had passed the chair. Though increasing infirmity has prevented him from attending the duties he has been subscribing member ever since. Reference was made to him in the report of the March monthly meeting of the Bath Lodge in our columns, and in the meeting of the lodge this month the W.M., Bro. Philip Braham, proposed that Bro. C. Marsh should be elected honorary member, which met with a unanimous response, and the following letter was addressed to Bro. Marsh's son at Dover, who is a member of Lodge 199:—

April 6th, 1879.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

At the regular lodge held on Thursday, April 3rd, the Worshipful Master, Bro. Philip Braham, proposed that your dear father, and our old esteemed brother, should be elected an honorary member of this, his mother lodge, and I need scarcely say that the proposition met with the unanimous response of the members present. There can be no doubt our brother is the oldest living Mason in England. I shall feel much obliged if you will cause to be conveyed to your father the fact of his unanimous election, and the proud pleasure this ancient lodge feels that their old Past Master is still living, and may the Great Architect of the Universe continue to shed His protecting influence around him.

Believe me, dear Sir and Brother, fraternally yours,

C. W. RADWAY,
Secretary.

The Fifteen Sections will be worked at the Southwark Lodge of Instruction, Southwark Park Tavern, on Wednesday, the 23rd inst., by Bro. T. Pulsford, P.M. 1158, assisted by the brethren of the Southern Star Lodge of Instruction.

The collection of funds instituted by the Dutch Central Committee for Arctic Exploration for the renewed outfitting of the Willem Barents, which vessel is shortly to start on another expedition of some eighteen months' duration, is progressing so favourably that it may be reasonably expected that the 50,000 florins which are required for the expedition will soon be completely subscribed.—Nature.

COMPLIMENT TO A LIVERPOOL THEATRICAL BROTHER.—Bro. R. J. Roberts, of the Dramatic Lodge, No. 1609, a popular comedian, and the stage manager of the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Liverpool, who will sail for Australia next Tuesday, under a special engagement with Bro. A. Garner, was entertained at a farewell dinner at the Union Hotel, on Wednesday evening, the 9th inst., when there was a good representative gathering of gentlemen connected with the theatrical profession, along with several private friends. Bro. F. Wilkinson, S.D. 1609, occupied the chair, and Bro. J. Clegg, P.M. 1299, the vice-chair. After a recherché dinner, provided in first-class style by Mr. Thomson, the usual loyal and patriotic toasts were proposed. The chairman afterwards gave the health of the guest of the evening, referring to his many amiable qualities, his professional ability, and wishing him the greatest success at the antipodes. The vice-chairman also bore testimony to Bro. Roberts's many excellent qualities, and after the toast had been received with the utmost cordiality, it was acknowledged in suitable and feeling terms by Bro. Roberts. Other toasts followed, and a pleasant evening was spent.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—All our Faculties.—Almost all disorders of the human body are distinctly to be traced to impure blood. The purification of that fluid is the first step towards health. Holloway's Pills recommend themselves to the attention of all sufferers, no injurious consequences can result from their use, no mistake can be made in their administration. In indigestion, confirmed dyspepsia and chronic constipation the most beneficial effects have been and always must be, obtained from the wholesome power exerted by these purifying Pills over the digestion. Persons whose lives have been restored to ease, strength, and perfect health by Holloway's Pills, after fruitless trial, of the whole pharmacopoeia of Physic, attest this fact.—[Aver.]

Masonic and General Tidings.

The M.W. Grand Master, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, has been pleased to appoint R.W. Bro. Lord Tenterden, K.G.B., to be Provincial Grand Master of the Province of Essex, vacant by the death of Bro. Robt. Bagshaw, in August last.

The regular meeting of the Israel Lodge, No. 205, will be held on Tuesday next, at the Cannon-street Hotel, at five o'clock, p.m. Bro. W. Bassington is W.M. There are four candidates for initiation and three for passing at this meeting.

The half-yearly meeting of the Provincial Grand (Craft) Lodge of Cumberland and Westmoreland was held in the County Hall, Carlisle, on Wednesday, the 16th inst., under the banner of the Bective Lodge No. 1532, the Earl of Bective, M.P., R.W.P.G.M., presiding.

The installation of Bro. Richard Washington as the W.M. of the Temple Lodge, No. 1094, took place on Wednesday afternoon last, the 9th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Hope-street, Liverpool. A report of the interesting proceedings will be given next week.

POLICEMEN'S NUMBERS.—A correspondent writes:—"My wife was recently witness of gross misbehaviour by a policeman on the road to one of the suburbs, and would have felt it her duty to report it, but a bushy beard effectually hid the number on the collar. Either the beard or the number is surely in the wrong place."

The regular convocation of St. Thomas's Royal Arch Chapter, No. 142, will be held at the Cannon-street Hotel this afternoon, at 4.30. Comp. H. C. Levander is M.E.Z.; Comp. G. A. Rooks, H.; and Comp. J. W. Lambert, J. There are three candidates for exaltation at the meeting, after the performance of which ceremony the companions will proceed to the election of Principals and officers for the ensuing year.

Leo XIII., motu proprio, has appointed Baron Ceschi, the late Lieutenant or Deputy Grand Master of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, or Knights of Malta, to be Grand Master or Sovereign of the Order. For the last 70 years or upwards there has been no Grand Master, the functions of that official being entrusted to a Lieutenant. The Grand Master of the Order of Malta takes the rank of a Sovereign or quasi-Sovereign in Roman Catholic Courts.

The closing meeting of the present session of the Upper Norwood Lodge of Instruction, No. 1586, will be held at the White Hart Hotel on Monday evening, the 28th inst. In addition to the usual business the lectures on the Tracing Boards in the Three Degrees will be given, the 1st and 3rd by Bro. Francis, P.M., P.P.G.S.D., the Hon. Preceptor; and the 2nd by Bro. Sudlow, the Hon. Sec. The lodge will be opened at 6.30 punctually.

BRIGHTON.—The installation meeting of the flourishing lodge Hova Ecclesia, No. 1466, will be held at the Old Ship Hotel, on Wednesday next, April 23rd. Upon this occasion the Provincial Grand Master, Sir Walter Wyndham Burrell, Bart., M.P., will visit the lodge, with his Provincial Grand Officers. The lodge will be opened at 3.30 p.m., when there will be two candidates for the degree of Fellow Craft, after which the Deputy Prov. Grand Master, Bro. J. H. Scott, will proceed to instal Bro. C. J. Smith, P.M., in the chair of K.S. for the second time.

THE METROPOLITAN HOTEL.—Monday, the 27th, under the Chairmanship of Sir Edward Watkin, M.P., this new hotel, in South-street, Finsbury, which is intended to supply accommodation for passengers by the Great Eastern Railway to Liverpool-street, the Great Northern and other lines to Moorgate-street, and the Broad-street Station of the London and North-Western, was opened in the presence of a large company, among whom were Lord Alfred Churchill, Mr. Myles Fenton, Mr. J. Bell, Mr. William Hudson, and other gentlemen representing the various interests of metropolitan traffic. This hotel, which provides more than fifty beds, is fitted with all modern improvements and appliances, and contains public and private dining-rooms, billiard room, and ladies' dining-room, all of which are decorated with excellent taste; and the manager, Mr. James Adams, has made a selection of wines which, together with a well-arranged cuisine, will doubtless prove an attraction to diners in the City, the hotel being only five minutes' walk from the Bank. The hotel has been furnished, in a very substantial manner, by the well-known firm of upholsterers, Messrs. Brew and Claris, Finsbury-place North.

It is understood that the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall will assemble at Fowey on Tuesday, the 10th June, under the wing of Fowey Lodge, No. 977, held in that town. The lodge was warranted in 1863, and has proved a worthy successor of a lodge originally chartered in 1761, but, as 84, erased in 1828. The membership of Fowey ranks about the tenth in the province, being at the present time about 60. Its senior Past Master is Colonel J. W. Peard (the Senior Grand Warden of Cornwall in 1866), and the next is Bro. the Rev. Dr. E. T. Treffry, Prov. Grand Chaplain in 1868. In point of age it is the eighteenth on the list in the province, having nine juniors, making a total of twenty-seven lodges under the rule of the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe, Prov. G.M. The membership of the province has nearly tripled since 1863, and is now about 1600. The choice of a meeting place lay between St. Matthew's, No. 859, Lostwithiel, and the Fowey Lodge. A large gathering of brethren is expected, especially if liberal arrangements are made by the railway company.

We are asked to state that the next meeting of the Evening Star Lodge will be held on Tuesday next, at Freemasons' Hall, when the desirability of altering the day of meeting will be considered.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

KENNINGTON LODGE (No. 1381).—The last meeting of the season of this prosperous transpontine lodge was held at the Surrey Club House, Kennington Oval, on the 1st inst., when there were present among others Bros. T. Walls, P.P.G.O. of Middlesex, W.M.; H. Kohler, S.W.; Speedy, J.W.; W. Stuart, P.M., Sec.; Reeves, I.P.M.; Webb, S.D.; Marston, J.D.; Stokes, D.C.; Stranger, W.S.; Bolton, A.W.S.; Koch, P.M.; G. Everett, P.M.; Higgins, P.M.; Drysdale, P.M.; Longstaffe, Tyler. The visitors were Bros. W. H. Saunders, P.G.D. of Middlesex, P.M. 1503, W.M. Dobie; Maloney, P.M. Robert Burns; Charles Dairy, W.M. 141, and others. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, Bro. Cockburn was passed to the Second Degree. Previously to the lodge being closed a very deserving case for Masonic support, that of a poor widow, aged eighty-six, was brought before the brethren by Bro. Saunders, which appeal resulted in a handsome collection being made. The lodge also unanimously consented to the W.M. and Wardens signing her petition, she being a resident of Kennington, to the Irish Grand Lodge for relief. There being no other business on the agenda, the lodge was duly closed, and the brethren adjourned to an excellent collation. Upon the removal of the cloth the customary and preliminary toasts were done full justice to. "The Health of the Visitors" having been heartily drunk, Bro. Saunders, in reply, expressed the gratification his first visit to the Kennington Lodge had afforded him. He complimented the lodge upon the handsome and ready manner in which they had supported the case of the widow, whose husband's Masonic career commenced upwards of half a century ago. They were taught that "a Mason's charity should know no bounds save those of prudence," but it was a very graceful act of the lodge, simply upon his recommendation, to afford the poor lady so hearty and substantial a mark of their benevolence. Bro. C. Dairy and Maloney also expressed their satisfaction for the hospitable way in which they had been treated by the members of No. 1381. The toast of "The Past Masters" followed, and was duly responded to by Bros. Koch, Everett, Higgins, Drysdale, and Honeywell. "The Treasurer and Secretary" came next in order, and was briefly acknowledged, in the unavoidable absence of Bro. Page, Treasurer, by Bro. Stuart, the Secretary. "The Officers" and the Tyler's toasts brought the proceedings to a close. During the evening Bro. Honeywell and others instrumentally and vocally entertained the brethren.

MIZPAH LODGE (No. 1671).—The installation meeting of this lodge was held on the 12th inst., at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street. Bro. D. R. Still, W.M., presided, and raised Bro. Seckbach to the Third Degree. Bro. John Hervey, G.S., then installed Bro. Walter W. Medcalf, S.W., and W.M. elect, as W.M. of the lodge, and the following brethren were appointed as officers for the year:—Bros. D. R. Still, P.M. 1203, and P.P.G.D.C. Middlesex, I.P.M.; J. Bergmann, S.W.; Carl Schmidt, J.W.; the Rev. R. J. Simpson, P.G.C., Chaplain; J. J. Avery, P.M. 70, and P.P.G.T. Devonshire, Treasurer; H. G. Buss, Asst. G.S., Secretary; R. A. Morgan, S.D.; H. H. Wells, J.D.; Henry Warden, I.G.; J. Bromwich, D.C.; G. Lewis, Steward; J. Hill, Organist; H. Shaw, Tyler. The brethren did not banquet on this occasion, the meeting falling on the day after Good Friday, when most of the brethren were out of town. An emergency meeting was, however, held on Saturday last, when the following brethren were present:—W. M. Medcalf, W.M.; J. Bergmann, S.W.; C. Schmidt, J.W.; Rev. R. J. Simpson, Chaplain; J. J. Avery, Treasurer; H. G. Buss, Sec.

R. H. Morgan, S.D.; James Bromwich, D.C.; John Hill, Org.; Nelson Reed, P.M.; W. E. Downey, C. H. Meitre, S. Heilbut, Geo. Coppard, Richard Nelson, P. Alpetre, N. Wilson, Joseph Zeder, Chas. Sissons, John Cartwright, A. R. Cartwright, J. Bedford; and visitors, Bros. A. Coultery, 70; John Cox, P.M. 190; R. H. Saunders, W.M. 889, P.M. 1503, G.D. Middx.; Henry Gates, Treasurer 1599; Julian Hartley, 1426; W. S. Whitaker, P.M. 1572; Kenneth Harris, S.D. 1728; Thos. W. C. Bush, W.M. 1728; Thos. Thextor, 1572; W. C. Hale, S.D. 1216; J. Slade Brown, P.M. 1056; John Green, P.M. 27; A. T. Pearce, W.S. 1572; J. Hamer, S.D. 1426; Henry Hoadley, S.W. 172; J. Llewellyn Jones, W.M. 657; Donald Clark, 1426, and 1632, Std.; H. M. Levy, P.M. 188; H. Massey, P.M. 619 (Freemason); and Walter Joyce. The W.M. raised Bro. Heilbut, and passed Bros. J. W. Cartwright and A. R. Cartwright, and performed his work in a way which gave unmistakable promise of a year of efficient working. The working also of the other officers was admirable. Bro. D. R. Still, I.P.M., was away on business at Manchester, and the brethren were thus deprived of the pleasure of seeing him presented with a splendid ten guinea Past Master's jewel, which had been voted him by the lodge, and which was handed round for the inspection of the members and visitors. The working of the lodge was followed by a banquet of the choicest description, to which succeeded the usual toasts. The Rev. R. J. Simpson and Bro. Buss were called upon to respond to the toast of "The Grand Officers," and Bro. Simpson in doing so said that as one of the brethren present at the consecration of the Mizpah Lodge, he saw it was then a promising child, and he was happy to say it had fulfilled the promise it then gave. The true spirit of Freemasonry was present in the lodge, and it had been well carried out by the P.M.'s, and would be kept before the brethren's view by Bro. Buss, whose character both as a Mason and a man was well known to Freemasons. He looked upon the different brethren who had been initiated in the Mizpah Lodge as the right sort of brethren to belong to the Order. They were all honourable men, and the Mizpah Lodge was calculated to produce honourable men. Such men should all Masons be, and whatever might be the distinctive religious or political professions of a man, it would ever be considered a great and emphatic feature in his character that he bore the character of a body to which he belonged. Every Mason was pledged to hold forth a high example to the world, an example of being an honourable man. As such, he hoped they would give their minds and attention more and more to the subject which was cropping up in the Masonic papers, and still more in Masonic minds, of the mode in which the Charities of the Order were conducted and the admission to them was regulated. He hoped they would soon endeavour to be just as well as generous, and deal with the children of the Masonic brethren as the urgency of their cases demanded, and with as little as possible of weight of responsibility, expense, and worry to the unfortunate widows. Bro. Buss said the brethren who started the lodge were the majority of the lodge at present, and as long as the lodge was under their guidance it would not fail to be a success to the Craft. Bro. Simpson, in speaking of the Charities, had cautioned them to be careful on whom they bestowed their interest. The Mizpah Lodge would be as careful as they possibly could be in the execution of that duty, and the appropriation of that patronage which they from time to time exercised. They had already done some good that way, and he hoped they would do still more. He was sure the lodge was likely to prosper, and it would in time to come constantly apply itself to the object of doing good. Bro. Nelson Reed, P.M., proposed "The Health of the W.M.," through whom he prognosticated a successful year for the lodge from the admirable way in which he had conducted the ceremonies on the occasion of his first presiding over the brethren. Every brother present had been delighted with the way in which he had done his first day's work. The lodge numbered among its members some of the first Masons in London, Bros. Hervey, Monkton, Fean, Simpson, and Buss, besides several others who did not wear the purple. The work of the lodge showed that it was no dishonour to them to be members of the lodge. The present W.M. would do everything in his power to raise it above the level of other lodges, however well they stood in the estimation of the Order. The W.M., in reply, said that from the period of the formation of the Mizpah Lodge he had always taken a deep interest in it, and so long as God gave him breath he should continue to do the same. His interest was bound up in that of the Mizpah Lodge, as he was one of its many fathers. Bro. Still and Bro. Nelson Reed had also shown every disposition to further the cause of Masonry, especially in connection with this lodge. If he had asked them how to do this or that particular thing he had always received from them that kind instruction which should always be given by Mason to Mason. In no case had it been more freely given to him than with regard to the Mastership of this lodge. He was a very young Mason, and to be placed in that distinguished position made him feel a little nervous; at the same time, he thought he would do his best, and doing that he knew the brethren would excuse deficiencies. He hoped in future to show less hesitation and more determination than he had that evening. Filling the chair for the first time was a very difficult matter. He had often seen brethren placed in that position, and he had thought to himself that it should ever fall to his lot to be so placed, he hoped he would fill the position with as much credit as they had. Without thinking that the brethren would flatter him in any way, he could tell them from the bottom of his heart that he had done his best. He had made a few mistakes, but he hoped the brethren would overlook them, and if God gave him health and strength he would, when he next occupied the chair perform his duties, he hoped, without any coaching whatever. The W.M. next proposed "The Installing Officer, Bro. John Hervey," who he regretted was not present, and he regretted it the more because Bro. Hervey was not in good health. Bro. Buss said that he had been instructed by Bro. Hervey to say that he had intended to be present, but unfortunately, through he had lately been comparatively well, within the last few days he had had a return of illness, and he much regretted he could not attend the present meeting. Bros. Llewellyn, Jones, and Saunders responded to the toast of "The Visitors." Bro. Jones referred to his own connection with the lodge as one of the brethren who signed the recommendation for its warrant, and it had given him great pleasure, on the two visits he had paid to the lodge, to see how admirably it had been worked. Bro. Saunders, in his reply, drew the brethren's attention to the candidature of the late Bro. Stone's boy for the Masonic Institution for Boys, which case had been kindly taken up by Bro. Still, and though not successful at the last election, over 500 votes had been secured for him. Bro. Bush, in the course of his remarks, said that as a W.M. himself he had been surprised at Bro. Medcalf's self-possession, and at the fluency with which he performed the duties of the chair. It had been his pleasure for some few years to visit lodges, but never had he seen the ritual performed in a more creditable manner the first time the Master was in the chair than it had been that night. He was not at all surprised, for the W.M. and himself had for several months been in the habit of attending lodges of instruction, and he had noticed the zeal and assiduity with which Bro. Medcalf had applied himself to learn the duties of the chair. Bro. Medcalf had received the just reward of all his labours for the past twelve months, and the visitors that night wished him a happy and prosperous year of office. He (Bro. Bush) was certain he would have it, and that he would leave the chair with credit to himself and honour to the Mizpah Lodge. Bro. Nelson Reed replied to the toast of "The P.M.'s," and regretted that Bro. Still was not present to receive the handsome jewel which the brethren had been shown. The W.M. coupled the toasts of "The Masonic Charities and the Press," and calling on Bro. H. Massey to reply, that brother said that he felt peculiar pleasure in responding for this Holy Alliance, because he had had the immense satisfaction of having secured the kind friendship of so many supporters of the Masonic Charities at the late elections that the daughter of a very dear late colleague of his on the Standard newspaper who was found dead in his bed on the 26th of June last, was elected into the Girls' School, on her first application with 1055 votes, and the candidate of another press friend of his (Bro. Middlemass), the little boy, Arthur Salter, was also successful on his first application for the Boys' School. It was in emergencies like these when a man's real friends were discovered, and he felt he could never sufficiently thank his brother Masons for what they had done. The press was always pleased to support the Charities, and though he felt that in the Mizpah Lodge there was no necessity for the presence of any one to advocate their cause, he could not refrain from saying that any assistance bestowed on those Institutions was given to a worthy object. In his capacity as a pressman he was always pleased to bring the Masonic Charities before the Masonic and general public. Bro. Avery and Bro. Buss replied to the toast of "Treasurer and Secretary." Bro. Avery said the lodge was in the proud position of having no liabilities, and no arrears of subscriptions; besides which it had £60 invested, and an available balance at the Master's disposal of £30. Bro. Buss referred to the same subject, and said that the brethren paying their dues so readily saved the Treasurer and Secretary an enormous amount of labour. Bros. Bergmann, Schmidt, and the other officers replied to the toast of "The Officers," and Bro. H. Shaw having given the Tyler's toast, the brethren separated, after spending a delightful evening, which was rendered additionally enjoyable by some beautiful vocal and instrumental music and also recitations, by Bros. Avery, Morgan, Heilbut, Reed, Bergmann, Bromwich, Clark, Whitaker, Meiter, Hill, Flack, and Schmidt.

FARRINGTON WITHOUT LODGE (No. 1745).—This young and prosperous lodge met on the 31st ult., at the Holborn Viaduct Hotel. There were present Bros. W. H. Jackson, jun., P.M. Royal Arthur, W.M.; C. Jacques, S.W.; W. Ramsey, P.M., Treas.; H. A. Dubois, P.P.G.D. of Middlesex, Hon. I.P.M.; H. J. Lardner, S.D.; M. Samuel, J.D.; Quilter, D.C., acting I.G.; Walls, P.P.G.O. of Middlesex, J.W. and Secretary pro tem. (Freemason); Parkinson, Tyler. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, Bro. W. Potter, jun., and Strugnell were raised, and Bro. W. Williams passed to the Degree of F.C., both ceremonies being most ably performed. Bro. Hart, who had been elected an honorary member at the previous meeting, was then invested by the W.M. with the collar of Organist. A Committee, consisting of the founders and Bro. W. Potter, jun., and Strugnell, having been appointed to audit the accounts and to consider the bye-laws, on the 28th of April, the election of W.M., Treasurer, and Tyler was then proceeded with, and resulted unanimously in favour of Bros. C. Jacques, W. Ramsey, and Parkinson. A jewel of the value of ten guineas having been unanimously voted to the outgoing Master, the lodge was closed and the brethren adjourned to the banquet, which was well served. Bros. Larham, P.M. of several lodges, and Acland, of the Lodge of Israel, were visitors. Upon the removal of the cloth the usual routine of toasts were briefly given by the Worshipful Master, and duly responded to. "The Health of the W.M." was proposed in flattering terms by the Hon. I.P.M. This toast having been heartily drunk by the brethren, was acknowledged by the W.M. in a neat and modest speech. "The Visitors" followed, coupled with the name of Bro. Larham, who, in his reply, complimented the Farrington Without Lodge upon the success which had hitherto attended it. He said that they were particularly fortunate in having so good a place to meet in as the Viaduct Hotel, because in consequence of the handsome and complete manner in which the lodge rooms were furnished the effect of the ceremonies were greatly enhanced. In concluding his remarks he said it also afforded him as an old Mason a great deal of pleasure in testifying to the admirable "working" of the officers of the lodge, some of whom would bear favourable comparison with any in the Craft. "The Honorary I.P.M." came next in order, and was modestly acknowledged by Bro. Dubois. The concluding toasts, viz., "The Treasurer," "The Officers," and the Tyler's, having been given, the proceedings terminated.

GATESHEAD.—Borough Lodge (No. 424).—This lodge held its usual monthly meeting on Monday last, the 21st inst., at the Half Moon Hotel, High-street, Gateshead. The lodge was opened at 7 o'clock by Bro. J. Marchant, P.M., W.M., assisted by the following officers and brethren:—Bros. J. Probert, P.M.; A. Anderson, S.W.; John Mackay, J.W.; W. F. Poole, Sec.; John F. Boyes, S.D.; John Redpath, J.D.; J. Beeby, Steward; G. W. Wealleans, I.G.; John Curry, Prov. Grand Tyler; Tyler; Thomas Ramsey, E. A. Gibson, A. Walkie, R. Nicholson, T. S. Miller, R. Kearon, and Thomas Pearson. Visitors: Bros. J. Cook, P.M., P.P.G.S.W.; R. Whitfield, W.M. 48; M. Corbitt, I.P.M. 48; W. McLerron, and F. A. Kelly (Freemason). The minutes of the last meeting having been read and confirmed, the lodge was opened in the Third Degree, when Bro. Capt. Robert Kearon, having been previously examined and found proficient, was duly raised to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason by the W.M., Bro. J. Marchant, who also delivered to the newly-raised brother the explanation of the Third Degree Tracing Board in a very distinct and able manner. The lodge was then closed to the First Degree, when the Building Committee for the new hall for this lodge submitted their report, and promised that the plans of the new building should be in the hands of the W.M. on the following Friday, after which day they would be open for the inspection of the brethren. The names of two candidates for Freemasonry were proposed by the W.M., who then adjourned the lodge for refreshment, where the usual loyal toasts were proposed, and heartily received with musical honours. The W.M., in proposing "The Visitors," said how happy the members of the Borough Lodge were at all times to entertain visitors, and trusted that all present felt heartily welcome. Bro. R. Whitfield, Worshipful Master of the Lodge of Industry, No. 48, responded. The W.M. then proposed, in complimentary terms, the toast of "The Press," coupled with the name of our representative, to which Bro. Kelly replied. In proposing "The Health of the Newly-Raised Brother, Captain R. Kearon," the W.M. recounted an interesting and pleasing experience of the advantages of Freemasonry that Bro. Kearon had recently met with. Bro. Kearon had the misfortune to get on shore with his ship, in a storm on the 7th inst., on the Northumberland coast, near Blyth. His distress was increased by the fact that his wife was on board. On reaching the shore, he was met by Bro. Wilson, of the Coast Guard Station at Hartley, who, on discovering that he was a Freemason, exhibited the greatest courtesy and attention, and assisted Bro. Kearon in his efforts to land his wife, and treated her with the greatest hospitality whilst measures were being taken to remove the vessel from shore, which was happily effected, after many trying hours. Bro. Kearon, in reply, endorsed everything that the W.M. had said as to Bro. Wilson's kindness, and further related that he (Bro. Wilson) had been good enough to forward his wife home to Shields, which entailed upon him a walk of nearly five miles to the nearest railway station. Bro. J. Probert, P.M., then proposed "The Health of the W.M.," complimenting him in very eulogistic terms for the able manner in which he had carried out the duties of W.M. The cheers with which the remarks of Bro. Probert were received was conclusive proof of the popularity of Bro. Marchant. The brethren separated shortly before eleven o'clock.

BRIGHTON.—Yarborough Lodge (No. 811).—An official visit was paid to this lodge on Saturday, the 19th inst., by Sir W. W. Burrell, Bart., M.P. (Provincial Grand Master of Sussex), and a special vote of thanks was passed, thanking the Prov. G. Master and his officers for their attendance. At the conclusion of the business of the lodge a banquet took place at the Royal Pavilion in honour of the occasion. About sixty guests were present. Bro. H. Abbey (W.M.) presided, and he was supported by several distinguished visitors. The Provincial Officers included Sir W. W. Burrell, P.G.M.; Bros. J. H. Scott, D.P.G.M.; W. Sergison, S.W.; V. P. Freeman, Sec.; Dawes, acting Registrar; Mark Tanner, S.D.; C. Tomkinson, Supt. of W.; Corder, acting D.C.; Jos. Farncombe, Sword Bearer (Freemason); A. King, Organist; Nell, Parst.; Hawkes, Holford, McWhinnie, Evershed, and Rubie, Stewards. Bros. G. Vickers, S.W., and J. C. Chalk, J.W., filled their allotted places. There were also present, Bros. W. R. Wood, P.G. Steward; S. Tanner, W.M. South Saxon; Wilkinson, W.M. Royal Clarence; Bennett, W.M. Royal Brunswick; Horsley, Dr. Taaffe, H. Hallett, W. L. Bridgen, G. Reeves Smith, H. Martin, J. Smith, W. Smith, J. Stedman, Mayall, J. Eberell, and G. De Paris. The W.M. gave "The Queen and the Craft," also that of "H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, Grand Master of England." In giving the latter toast he said his Royal Highness had carried all hearts captive by his genial manner and the great interest he had manifested in everything belonging to the Craft. Bro. W. R. Wood proposed "The Health of the Pro Grand Master of England, the Earl of Carnarvon." Bro. Horsley gave "The Health of Lord Skelmersdale, Deputy Grand Master, and the Officers of Grand Lodge, Present and Past." Bro. Wood responded. The W.M. next gave "The Health of Sir Walter W. Burrell, their Provincial Grand Master," and expressed the great pleasure it had afforded him that Sir Walter should have visited the Yarborough Lodge during his year of office. They were all aware of the deep interest which he took in the Craft, and trusted he might long enjoy good health to fill the important office which he now occupied. The Provincial G.M., in responding, said he had only two or three more lodges to visit before completing the task which he had set himself of personally judging of the work in every lodge in the province. It had proved a very pleasing ordeal. He had always been well received, and the working of the lodges had invariably met his approval. He wished the officers of lodges to impress on members, by their example, the grand principles of the Craft, and if they had any differences he trusted they would endeavour to settle them with the right hand of fellowship. The W.M. next gave "The Health of Bro. J. H. Scott and the Officers of Prov. G. Lodge, Present and Past." He said Bro. Scott was personally known to many, and was respected by every Mason in the province. Bro. Scott replied, and passed a high compliment on Bro. De Paris, Secretary to the Yarborough Lodge. He pointed to him as an example it would be well for other lodges to follow. Bro. De Paris was an old and tried Mason, and nothing was more conducive to the welfare of a lodge than to have a brother of experience as Secretary. It required peculiar qualifications for that post—"to the manner born." He deprecated the recent practice of appointing young and inexperienced brethren to the office of Secretary. Having congratulated the members of the lodge on the success of their candidate, who stood sixth on the list for the recent Girls' School election, he referred to the recently-formed Charities Committee in the province, and said the case he had mentioned was an instance of the good arising from their energies being concentrated. He could not but think it most desirable that they should use all their votes for local candidates. He mentioned as a singular fact that the Yarborough Lodge was No. 811. The last lodge was numbered exactly one thousand more, and as this large increase had occurred in 19 years, it was at the rate of one new lodge a week. There was no doubt but that the accession of the Prince of Wales to the Grand Mastership had given an impetus to Masonry, but the rapid increase had commenced before the time of his Royal Highness. He mentioned this fact to show that Freemasonry was no passing fancy—not a thing of fashion and a day. He urged the brethren to uphold the dignity of the fraternity in every way. While they continued true to themselves and the Craft they need not fear the result. Bro. W. Sergison, S.W., and Bro. V. P. Freeman, G. Secretary, also responded. Bro. Holford, I.P.M., proposed "The Health of the W.M." and he suitably responded. Bro. Dr. Taaffe gave "The Visitors." Bros. Hallett, Bridgen, and Eberell acknowledged the compliment. The toast of "The Past Masters" was acknowledged by Bros. W. R. Wood and F. Holford; "The Officers of the Lodge" by Bros. G. Vickers and J. C. Chalk. During the evening some capital vocal selections were given by Bros. Conti and Faulkner Leigh, Bro. G. Vickers accompanying on the piano. Mr. Booth, East-street, supplied the banquet.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—Holmesdale Lodge (No. 874).—The regular meeting was held at the Pump Room, on Wednesday, the 16th. There were present Bros. H. D. M. Williams, W.M.; W. B. Bacon, I.P.M.; B. S. Wilmott, P.M., P.G.S., acting S.W.; J. Burton, J.W.; W. F. Elers, P.M., Treas.; T. F. Bates, Sec.; J. Dunkley, S.D.; T. Waterman, J.D.; R. W. Delves, D.C.; C. Graham, A.D.C.; C. Heale, I.G.; Strange, Tyler; A. Arnold, G. Farrer, Langridge, Rule, Ranking, Ramsbotham, Williams, J. Read, P.M.; W. Delves, P.M. The visitors were Bros. C. H. Cronwell Marsh, 199; W. T. Wrighten, 23; and J. G. Caleday, 1619. The lodge was opened in the First Degree, and the minutes having been read and confirmed, Mr. Thos. Boorman Lansdell was regularly initiated into Freemasonry in a most impressive manner, the W.M. giving the charge in excellent style. On P.M. Bacon bringing forward his resolution, "That all brethren being three years in arrears should be struck off the lodge," an amendment was put by Bro. P.M. Elers, seconded by Bro. Arnold, "That the Treasurer should write to or see those brethren who were in arrears, and inform them that unless they paid up their subscriptions before the next regular meeting in May, they will be struck off the lodge," which was carried. Hearty good wishes having been given, the lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to the Royal Kentish Hotel, where an excellent banquet was served to them by Bro. Rule, after which the usual loyal toasts were given. The toast of "The Initiates" was received with great enthusiasm. Bro. Lansdell replied briefly but pertinently. The toast of "The Visitors" was next given, and responded to by Bro. C. H. C. Marsh, of Peace and Harmony Lodge, Dover, who said it was very pleasing to him to be the guest of the Holmesdale Lodge, especially as his father was one of the founders of the lodge, and the oldest Mason in England, having been initiated into the Craft in 1819, at the Royal Cumberland Lodge, No. 41, Bath, of which he has just been elected an honorary member, and wished him (Bro. Marsh) to inform the W.M. that although absent he was always pleased to hear of the continued prosperity of the Holmesdale Lodge. Other toasts followed, and during the evening the company were entertained with some excellent singing by Bros. Wrighten, Boorman, and Bates.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—Hartington Lodge (No. 1021).—One of the distinguishing features of Freemasonry is that its adherents rarely forget valuable services, and the brethren connected with this lodge fully exemplified this in presenting Bro. Henry Cook with a beautiful illuminated address, which reads:—"To Brother Henry Cook, P.M. 119, 1021, Wor. Prov. Senior Grand Warden for Cumberland and Westmorland. Worshipful Sir,—Your year of office as Master of this lodge is about to terminate, and the brethren desire to express to you their high appreciation of your valued services. During your residence in Barrow you have ever manifested a warm interest in the welfare of the lodge, and have twice filled the highest position in it to the entire satisfaction of the members. They are pleased to remember that your labours in Freemasonry are generally recognised, and that you were their Worshipful Master when a neighbouring province conferred upon you the distinguished office of Senior Grand Warden. They earnestly hope that you may be long spared to continue by your Masonic example and teaching to beneficially influence your brethren." (Here follows the signatures of the officers.) As an acknowledgment Bro. Cook was pleased to present to the lodge a faithful and beautiful portrait of himself—the work was universally admired, and reflected great credit on the artist, Bro. Richards, J.W. 1021. The presentation was made in Bro. Cook's usual characteristic style, and called forth the warm applause of the brethren. Bro. Reid, W.M., on behalf of the lodge accepted the pleasing gift, and in very felicitous terms expressed the obligations the brethren were under to their worthy Bro. Cook.

LANCASTER.—Duke of Lancaster Lodge (No. 1353).—The above lodge held their regular meeting at the Masonic Rooms, on the 16th inst.; Bros. R. Wolfenden, W.M.; J. Ellershaw, S.W.; W. Parker, J.W.; J. Acton, P.M., Sec.; F. G. Dale, I.P.M.; H. Hartley, S.D.; H. Sturzaker (acting), J.D.; C. J. W. Stork (acting), I.G.; and a very good gathering of the brethren were present. The lodge was opened in the First Degree. The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and confirmed. The lodge was opened in the Second and Third Degrees. The W.M. gave the charge and the historical part to a brother who had not received it. The lodge was closed to the Second Degree. Bro. F. G. Dale, I.P.M., gave the Second Lecture on the tracing board in a very efficient manner. The lodge was closed to the Second Degree, Bro. J. Ellershaw, S.W., gave the charge, the brethren who had not heard it before standing. Bro. J. Acton, P.M., Sec., read the by-laws of the lodge. A unanimous vote of thanks was given to Bro. Dale, I.P.M., for giving the lecture, and to Bro. Ellershaw, S.W., for giving the charge. There was one proposal, and the business of the evening being ended the lodge was closed.

STRETFORD.—Prince Leopold Lodge (No. 1588).—The annual installation meeting of the above lodge was held in the Masonic Rooms, Herbert-street, on Monday, the 14th inst. This being Bank Holiday, and a beautifully fine day, there was a large attendance of the members of the lodge as well as visiting brethren. The lodge was opened at 2.45 p.m., by Bro. Wakefield, P.M. (in the unavoidable absence of the W.M.), who was supported by the following officers: Bros. Crompton, S.W., W.M. elect; Barber, W.M. 1730, J.W.; Goodacre, P.M., P.P.G.P. Cheshire, Treasurer; Crosby, Sec.; Andrew, S.D.; W. Cole, Org.; Boden, I.G.; Worthington, Tyler. Amongst the visiting brethren were Bros. the Rev. H. B. Jones, P.P.G. Chaplain; W. Bowden, P.P.G.S.B.; Rev. E. H. Cooke, Chaplain 1730; Hollins, W.M. 152; England, S.W. 1730; Allison, J.W. 1730; Magee, W.M. 548; Erskine, 724; Vetter, 815; Bradbury, W.M. 1357; Batty, W.M. 1387; Watson, W.M. 1496; Dodd, S.D. 78; Miller, Sec. 1357. The lodge having been opened in the several degrees, Bro. Crompton was presented by Bro. Bowden, P.P.G.S.B., for installation, the ceremony throughout being performed by the Installing Master, Bro. Goodacre, P.M., P.P.G.P. Cheshire. The W.M. then appointed his officers for the ensuing year: Bros. Crosby, S.W.; Andrew, J.W.; Goodacre, P.M., Treas., re-elected; J. E. Boden, Sec.; Wm. Cole, S.D.; Jas. Cole, J.D.; Geo. Barber, W.M. 1730, D. of C.; Thos. Avison, I.G.; and Wallwork, Tyers, and Sharp, Stewards. Hearty good wishes having been expressed by the visiting brethren, the lodge was closed at 5 p.m. An omnibus being in attendance, the brethren were conveyed thereon to the Lord Nelson Hotel, Urmston, where they sat down to an excellent banquet provided by the worthy hostess, Mrs. Holliday. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed, and suitably responded to, and a very pleasant evening was brought to a close at 10.30 p.m.

TEDDINGTON.—Sir Charles Bright Lodge (No. 1793).—An emergency meeting of this lodge was held on the 29th ult. There were present Bros. J. Hurst, P.M. 1512, W.M.; Forge, S.W.; Weaver, P.M. Lily of Richmond, acting J.W., in the absence, through indisposition, of Bro. Piller; Fitt, Sec.; Linton, J.D.; Goodchild, I.G.; Stevens, Org.; Abett, D.C.; Walls, P.P.G.O. of Middx., S.D. (Freemason); Gilbert, P.G.T. of Middx., Tyler. The visitors were Bros. the Rev. C. de Crespigny, P.P.G.C. of Middx., W.M. 1656; Day, 1512; Eyres and Scott, 1656. Bro. Goodchild was passed to the degree of F.C., and Messrs. Humpries, Owen, and two other gentlemen duly initiated, the ceremonies being performed in a satisfactory manner. Several propositions having been handed in, the lodge was closed until the last Saturday in April. The brethren then adjourned to an excellent banquet, which was admirably served. It being an emergency meeting, the after proceedings were shorn of the formality usually observed at regular meetings. "The P.G. Officers of Middlesex, Present and Past," was acknowledged by Bro. Walls, who immediately afterwards proposed "The Health of the W.M." This toast having been heartily received, the W.M. made a brief reply, and then proposed "The Initiates." This pledge having been drunk with the usual honours, each of the newly-admitted brethren responded. In giving "The Visitors" the W.M. took occasion to thank very heartily several of the visiting brethren for the kind manner in which they had officiated in various capacities during the working of the ceremonies. In concluding his remarks, he expressed an opinion that one of the greatest supports of Freemasonry was the practice of brethren interchanging visits. It not only made and cemented friendships, but it cultivated the growth of one of the vital principles of the Order, "Brotherly Love." This pledge was acknowledged in fitting terms by Bros. Weaver, Day, Eyres, and Scott. The toast of "The Officers" terminated the proceedings, which were greatly enhanced by the musical efforts of Bros. Stevens, Hurst, and others.

INSTRUCTION.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT LODGE (No. 1524).—A meeting was held on Wednesday, 23rd inst., at the Havelock Tavern, Albion-road, Dalston. Present: E. Dignam, W.M.; A. R. Olley, S.W.; J. Williams, Sec.; J. Lorkin, J.D.; W. Fieldwick, Preceptor; W. Ferrar, I.G. The lodge was opened in ancient form with solemn prayer. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Williams being candidate. Bro. J. Lorkin, assisted by the brethren, worked the first and second sections of the lecture. Bro. J. Lorkin, assisted by Bro. A. R. Olley, also worked the third section of the lecture. Bro. W. Fieldwick proposed, and Bro. C. Olley seconded, that Bro. A. R. Olley be W.M. for the ensuing Wednesday evening. Nothing further offering, the lodge was closed in ancient form. Time of meeting from 8 till 10.

ST. THOMAS'S CHAPTER (No. 142).—A convocation of this new chapter was held at the City Terminus Hotel, on Saturday last. There were present Comps. H. C. Levander, M.E.Z.; G. A. Rooks, H.; J. W. Lambert, J.; C. F. Hogard, P.Z., S.E.; W. Beattie, S.N.; F. W. Levander, P.S.; F. J. Macaulay, 1st A.S.; F. S. Hobson, 2nd A.S.; H. A. Dubois, P.Z., Treasurer; and other companions. Visitors: Col. Burdett, Sup. Middx.; J. Lewis Thomas, G. St. B.; F. T. Dubois, 1216; and J. H. Crowther, 1185, Lewis Chapter. Bro. G. Webb was duly exalted, the mystical lecture being given by Comp. C. F. Hogard. The election of officers resulted as follows:—Comps. G. A. Rooks, M.E.Z.; J. W. Lambert, H.; C. F. Hogard, J.; W. Beattie, S.E.; F. W. Levander, S.N.; F. J. Macaulay, P.S.; H. A. Dubois, Treasurer; and Harrison, Janitor. Comp. Hogard then proposed that as a mark of respect and esteem, also as a slight recognition of the great services rendered in the formation of the chapter, as well as its first M.E.Z. a P.Z.'s jewel of the value of £10 10s. be presented to Comp. H. C. Levander. This was seconded by Comp. G. Motion, and carried. Comp. Levander acknowledged the compliment, and the chapter was then closed. The companions afterwards dined together.

JERUSALEM CHAPTER (No. 185).—The installation meeting of this very old chapter and the last convocation of the season was held on the 8th inst. at the Freemasons' Tavern. There were present Comps. Wagner, M.E.Z.; P. Robinson, H., M.E.Z. elect; J. Mander, J., Second Principal elect; Davage, P.Z., S.E.; Elsam, J., P.Z.; Stewart, and Davis, 1st and 2nd Assistants; Holbrook, P.Z.; Walls, S.N., Third Principal elect (Freemason); Parkinson, Janitor. Comp. Watts, Third Principal of the St. James's Union, was a visitor. The minutes of the previous convocation having been read and confirmed, Comp. Robinson was duly installed First Principal by Comp. Wagner. The M.E.Z. then installed Comps. Mander and Walls as Second and Third Principals, the ceremonies being ably performed. The other officers invested were as follows:—Comps. Davage, S.E.; Harfeld, Treas. (by deputy); Moss, S.N. (by deputy); Stewart, P.S.; Davis and Ellborn, Assistants; Parkinson, Janitor. Bro. Smith, W.M. of the Jordan, was then ably exalted to the R.A. Degree by the M.E.Z. Previously to the chapter being closed the I.P.Z. was presented with a handsome jewel, in recognition of his services during his year of office. Comp. Wagner having suitably acknowledged this compliment, the convocation was duly closed, and the companions partook of a most excellent banquet. Upon the removal of the cloth the customary preliminary toasts were done full justice to. "The Health of the M.E.Z." was proposed in very flattering terms by the I.P.Z. He said that the career of Comp. Robinson, in the Jerusalem Chapter, had been marked by everything that was desirable in a good Mason. He had been attentive to his duties, and most energetic in mastering the details of the various offices which he had successively occupied. In concluding his remarks he said he looked forward with a very considerable amount of satisfaction to their M.E.Z.'s year of office, which tenure, he believed, would not only reflect credit upon Comp. Robinson but upon the whole chapter. The M.E.Z. having replied, then gave "The Exalter," which was suitably acknowledged by Comp. Smith. "The Health of the Visitor" came next in order. Comp. Watts, in response, complimented the Jerusalem upon possessing so strong and efficient a staff of officers, who would do honour to any chapter. He had been exceedingly pleased with the "working" that day, and gratified at witnessing the unanimity displayed by the members, who appeared to be all working for one common end, namely, the well-being of their old and deservedly popular chapter. The toasts of "The Second and Third Principals," "The Past Principals," "The Treasurer and Scribe E.," and "The Officers" followed in quick succession, and were duly responded to. The Janitor having been called upon to discharge his duty, the proceedings, which were throughout thoroughly enjoyable, then terminated.

ASAPH CHAPTER (No. 1319).—The April convocation of this chapter was held on Monday at Freemasons' Hall, when there were present, among others, Comps. E. Stanton Jones, M.E.Z.; Chamberlain, H.; W. A. Tinney, J.; Wellard, P.S.; Edward Terry, 1st A.S.; and Harry Cox, 2nd A.S. Bros. Victor Tussaud, H. Whaley, R. Soutar, and J. Maclean, of Lodge 1319, were exalted to the R.A. Degree. The elections then took place, when Comps. Chamberlain was chosen Z.; W. A. Tinney, H.; Frewin, J.; Edward Terry, S.E.; C. S. Jekyll, S.N.; Wellard, P.S. Comp. E. Stanton Jones having served a second year as M.E.Z., the companions voted another bar to the P.Z.'s jewel already held by him.

WHITEHAVEN.—Sun, Square, and Compasses Chapter (No. 119).—The quarterly convocation of this flourishing chapter, now numbering between ninety and one hundred members, was held on Friday, the 18th inst., in the Freemasons' Hall, College-street, Whitehaven. The following signed their names at four o'clock:—Comps. W. Sandwith, P.Z., as Z., in the absence, through illness, of Dr. Henry, M.E.Z.; John Barr, P.Z.; W. F. Lamony, H. (Freemason); E. Tyson, J.; J. Rothery, S.E.; F. Hodgson, as S.N.; J. Atkinson, P.S.; J. T. Ray, 1st A.S.; J. Cooper, Org.; G. Fitzgerald, Janitor; Capt. Sewell, G. Sparrow, G. Dalrymple, E. Clark, J. W. Miles, C. W. Hodgson, W. Jackson, jun. This, it must be confessed, was only a small muster; but, when it is considered that a great majority of the members belong to other towns, the paucity of numbers, for once, may be excused. The chapter having been opened, the remainder of the companions were admitted, and the minutes of the former convocation read and confirmed. A ballot was then taken for Bro. Chas. Mossop, Lodge 119, Whitehaven, which being unanimous, he and Bro. Dr. Dodgson, P.M. Lodge 1002, P.P.G.J.D. (who had previously been accepted), were admitted, and duly exalted to the Sublime Degree by the M.E.Z. in the chair. The historical, symbolical, and mystical lectures were respectively delivered by Comps. Tyson, Lamony, and Barr. This was all the business, and, for once in three or four years, there were no propositions for exaltation. The chapter was then solemnly closed.

CHORLTON-CUM-HARDY.—Chorlton Chapter (No. 1387).—The bi-monthly meeting of this chapter was held at the Masonic Hall, on Wednesday, the 16th inst. The chapter was opened by Comps. J. H. Sillitoe, Z.; J. Rains, H.; and W. P. Groves, acting J. The attendance was not numerous, and after the ordinary business had been disposed of, the election of officers for the ensuing year was proceeded with. Comps. J. H. Sillitoe was re-elected Z.; J. Potts, H.; J. G. Batty, J.; R. Davies re-elected S.E.; J. J. Lambert, S.M.; J. Dewhurst re-elected P.S.; A. Love, Treasurer; and W. Chesshyre, Janitor. The chapter was duly closed.

BODMIN.—St. Petrock Chapter (No. 330).—The annual installation of Principals in connection with this chapter took place at the Masonic Hall, on the 15th inst., being the first annual meeting since the consecration of the chapter in April, 1878. The following companions were present: Col. Peard, P.Z., P.P.G.H.; T. C. Stephens, P.Z. of 1151, as Z.; Thomas Hawken, H.; J. R. Collins, J.; Dr. De Leigh, P.Z.; and W. P. Smith, 1151; Wm. Rowe, Scribe E.; B. G. Derry, Scribe N.; Dr. Controller Bake, 1st A. Sojourner; J. F. Pagen, and Sojourner; J. Crang, Treasurer; T. H. Spear, John Dennis, Richard Adams, John Stephens, 1151; and Gust. E. Liddell, 454; Kandy Newera, Ceylon. A special and cordial vote of thanks was given to Comps. T. C. and J. Stephens, of 1151, for their constant and invaluable attendance at the chapter during the past year, without which the chapter could not have held its meetings, and also to Ex. Comps. Peard, De Leigh, and Smith, for their attendance on this occasion. The several companions suitably replied to the votes of thanks. Ex. Comp. Stephens most impressively installed Comp. Thomas Hawken as M.E.Z., John Richard Collins as H., and William Rowe as J. The other appointments and investitures were Comps. Dennis, Scribe E.; Controller Bake, P.S.; J. F. Pagen, 1st Asst. Sojourner; T. H. Spear, 2nd Asst. Sojourner; John Crang, S.N. and Treasurer; P. Carroll (who was exalted by dispensation from the P.G. Supt.), Janitor; B. G. Derry and R. Adams, Stewards, and others.

MACDONALD LODGE (No. 104).—The regular meeting of this lodge, for the election of W.M. and Treasurer, was held at the Guildhall Tavern, Gresham-street, on Friday, the 18th inst. In the absence of Bro. North Ritherdon, the W.M., consequent on business engagements at a considerable distance from London, the chair of A. was occupied by the W. Bro. Alfred Williams, P.G.S.D., I.P.M., and there were present, amongst others, V.W. Bro. James Stevens, P.G.J.O., P.M., as S.W.; Bros. R. P. Spice, as J.W.; W. P. Colling, M.O.; W. Bro. Wm. Worrell, P.G. Org., P.M. and Sec.; G. Ward Verry, S.D.; W. C. Hale, J.D.; W. Johnstone, L. Hirsch, J. Humphrey, and others. Visitor: Bro. Kidder, Bon Accord Lodge. The absence of the V.W. Bro. Thomas Meggy, P.G.M.O., P.M. and Treasurer, occasioned by illness, was generally regretted, as also was that of several other officers and brethren, whose apologies bore testimony to the ill effects of the late inclement weather. The minutes of the previous meeting having been confirmed, the brethren proceeded to the discharge of the only business then before them, and unanimously elected Bro. Edward Moody (the well known and deservedly esteemed Secretary of The Great City Lodge) as their W.M. for the ensuing year. Bro. Meggy was also unanimously re-elected Treasurer. The office of Tyler was again conferred upon Bro. Grant, although his serious and much regretted illness precludes all possibility of his personal attention. His functions have been for some time past, and will continue to be discharged by his friend, Bro. Rowles, so that the lodge will not suffer by his enforced absence. Bros. Humphrey and Johnstone were appointed on the Audit Committee. After propositions were made, the lodge was closed, and the brethren dined together, under the presidency of Bro. Williams, and a most agreeable evening was spent by all present.

HAMMERSMITH LODGE (No. 211).—A meeting of this young but fairly successful lodge was held at the Windsor Castle Hotel, Hammersmith, on the 19th inst. Amongst the officers present were Bros. Baldwin, W.M.; T. C. Walls, S.W.; Goodall, J.O., acting J.W.; A. Tisley, Secretary; J. Mason, J.P.M., &c.; Haynes, S.O.; and Game, D.C. The accounts having been audited, the lodge was duly and formally opened. The report of the Audit Committee was received and adopted, and ordered to be entered on the minutes. There being no other business on the agenda, the lodge was then duly closed. There was no banquet. There will be an emergency meeting to advance several candidates on the third Saturday in June.

The week before last the exhibition of French water-colour paintings was privately opened. The two rooms forming the exhibition contained a select public, and the exhibition called forth the admiration of everybody, for though the number of pictures exhibited is small, they are really a collection of gems. The artists who have exhibited and who have founded the club are seventeen in number—Baron, Vibert, Doré, Lemaire, Heilbuth, Lame, Isabey, Jacquemard, Detaille, Madame de Rothschild, Lambert, De Beaumont, Maurice Leloir, Louis Leloir, Worms, Français, and Jourdan. Among the works which most strike one at first sight are Lame's pictures, the colouring and depth of which are extremely remarkable; those of Isabey, which are warm and of masterly firmness; a souvenir of the Palais Borghese and a Woman and Swans by the distinguished painter Heilbuth—two masterpieces of colour and spirit; Madame Lemaire's flowers, standing out from the canvas full of life, as fresh as if they had just been plucked; a grand work by Doré, the portrait of his mother, powerful and bold, like all that issues from that genius, full of artistic warmth and wayward inspiration, and two bright landscapes by the same; several works teeming with humour, colour, and life by Vibert; self-confident, gay, and animated soldiers by Detaille, and a fan by the same; a helter-skelter of Prussians, which is very original and lively; landscapes by Jacquemard, full of sunlight and life; cats by Lambert of unsurpassable truth to nature; pictures by Baron and Français rather oldish in style, but accurate and staid as befits masters who uphold good traditions; and, lastly, to do homage to wealth which embellishes its leisure by praiseworthy artistic efforts, the carefully-studied landscapes of Madame de Rothschild, who has painted them herself. The first evening was certainly a success. This courageous enterprise seems to be destined to have a brilliant future.

A hailstorm of extraordinary severity passed over the Tipperah district in Eastern Bengal on the 13th of March. The magistrate's official report says:—"Some hailstones fell as large as cricket balls. The storm lasted about fifteen minutes, and its track was apparently not more than 300 yards wide. Large trees were uprooted; bamboo clumps swept down like grass, and houses levelled with the ground. Twenty-nine persons were killed and 114 wounded, mostly by the falling trees and houses. A considerable number of cattle were killed, and among the victims was a tiger."

The New World is busy studying its antiquities, and American archaeologists have established a special organ to report on their labours.—American Antiquarian.

A Himalayan Club has been formed in India, whose members intend to make the ascent of the highest peaks of the chain, and notably of the Great Dwalagiri, which has an altitude of over 28,000 feet.

The Platform of St. Paul's Cross in St. Paul's Churchyard has been discovered during the works now going on for laying out the garden on the north-east of the Cathedral. As the Cross was believed to have stood on that site, the workmen were directed to search for any traces, and at a depth of six feet they found the identical platform on which the superstructure stood, and which exactly corresponds, by its octagonal form, with all descriptions. Paul's Cross is described by Stow as a "pulpit cross of timber," and from hence preached the most eminent divines from the time of Edward I. until the reign of Charles I.—the last monarch who heard a sermon preached from the Cross. The Long Parliament had the Cross demolished in 1643.

THE LATE PROFESSOR CLIFFORD.—Macmillan and Co. will publish shortly the following literary and scientific remains of the late Professor W. K. Clifford:—(1) A volume of mathematical papers which have been read before the Royal Society or contributed to scientific journals; Mr. William Spottiswoode, F.R.S., will probably see this collection through the press. (2) Two volumes of collected essays and lectures, edited by Mr. Leslie Stephen and Mr. Frederick Pollock; Mr. Pollock will also contribute a biographical introduction to this work. (3) A small volume containing three popular lectures on "Seeing and Thinking."—Nature.

CONSECRATION OF THE ST. DUNSTAN'S CHAPTER, NO. 1589.

A new Royal Arch chapter in connection with the St. Dunstan's Lodge, No. 1589, was consecrated on Wednesday last at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street, by Comps. James Terry, P.Z., Prov. G.D.C. Herts, as M.E.Z.; Lieut.-Col. H. Radcliffe, P.Z., as H.; and the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, P.G.P.S., P.Z., and J. 2, as J. There was a large attendance of companions present, amongst whom were Comps. Walter Wellsman, H. W. Dalwood, A. Tisley, T. C. Walls, G. R. Richnell, George Manners, Henry Turner, George Kenning, P.Z. 192; D. W. Pearse, H. 1293; E. Kimber, W. Bristo, W. Lake, F. H. Clemow, John H. Dodson, E. Sharpe, P.Z. 28; J. W. Rogers, 1503; W. H. Hooper, Z. 1506; J. H. Naggs, Z. 1503; H. T. Whaley, 1319; George J. Palmer, P.Z. 11; George Campion, P.Z. 19; Edward Terry, Scribe E. 1319; J. W. Baldwin, P.Z. 73; William H. Wear, 19; F. Lawrence Knyvett, M.E.Z. 58, Treasurer, Prov. G. Chapter Herts; Harry F. Cox, 1319; Thomas Preston, 720; F. R. W. Hedges, 1319; W. Ansell, 176; John Mason, P.Z. 73; P.P.G.O. Middlesex; Fredk. Dyer, 91; Thos. E. Taylor, H. 657; W. H. Lee, 1st Asst. S. 975; C. B. Payne, G.J.; and H. Massey, P.Z. 619 (Freemason).

After a few observations by Comp. J. Terry, following the opening of the chapter, and the introduction of the companions, the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford delivered an "oration," which, owing to pressure on our space, we are compelled to defer printing until next week, when it will appear "in extenso."

The consecration of the chapter was then proceeded with, and at its completion Comp. Lieut.-Col. H. Radcliffe, P.Z. Nos. 9 and 91, installed Comps. Walter Wellsman, P.M. 1589, as M.E.Z.; Henry Wadham Dalwood, P.M. 1589, as H.; and John Henry Dodson, W.M. 1589, as J. The officers appointed were Comps. A. Tisley, Scribe E.; T. C. Walls, P.S.; Manners, 1st A.S.; W. Lake, 2nd A.S.; and J. Gilbert, Janitor. Comp. W. Winthrop Praed, Treasurer, was not present, and his investiture was postponed. Comp. Dalwood then proposed that Comps. Terry, Radcliffe, and Woodford, the Consecrating Officers, be elected honorary members of the chapter. The motion was seconded by Comp. Dodson, and carried unanimously, after the proposer, seconder, and M.E.Z. had passed a high eulogium on the splendid manner in which the ceremonies had been conducted. Comps. Terry, Radcliffe, and Woodford acknowledged the compliment, and trusted that the chapter would have a prosperous career in furthering the interests of Freemasonry.

Propositions for joining and exaltation were then given in, and the chapter was duly closed.

The companions afterwards adjourned to banquet, which was of a choice description, and was admirably served.

The usual Royal Arch toasts were duly given. The M.E.Z. in proposing "The Queen and Royal Arch Masonry" referred to Her Majesty's visit to Italy, and regretted that the weather she had had while there was not such as Englishmen had been led to believe was the usual climate of the Sunny South. But whatever the weather had been, the people of that country, where constitutional government was on its trial, had received Her Majesty with a warmth and cordiality for which Englishmen must ever feel grateful.

In giving "The Health of the Prince of Wales, the Grand Z. of the Order," the M.E.Z. said that the St. Dunstan's Chapter had its warrant signed by the Prince of Wales himself, and assured the companions that His Royal Highness took great interest in the Order, and required that the issue of warrants for Royal Arch chapters should be exercised with the very greatest caution. It was a matter which the St. Dunstan's Chapter would always be proud of, that their warrant bore His Royal Highness's sign manual.

The M.E.Z. next gave "The Pro Grand Principal, and the Rest of the Grand Officers," and called upon Comp. Woodford to reply.

Comp. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, Past Grand P. Soj., in responding to the toast, said that it was a very great privilege for any member, whether a Past or a Present Grand Officer of England, to return thanks for such an honour as had been done him that evening. The toast was always warmly given, and in every company of Royal Arch Freemasons at which he had been present it had always been warmly received. He could only say for those distinguished companions of the Order who presided with such ability in Grand Chapter, as well as the subordinate members, that they were all animated by a wish for the good of Freemasonry, which they endeavoured on all occasions zealously to promote. The M.E.Z. had been pleased to allude in flattering terms to the ceremonial in which he (Comp. Woodford) had been taking part, and he felt it a very great compliment. He had been asked to perform the part of J. to assist Comps. Terry and Radcliffe in the consecration of the chapter. The duty of J. on all such occasions was to his mind one of great importance. The truths that he put forward, and the lessons he proclaimed to his companions, were intended to produce a good effect, and he trusted they might not have been enunciated that day altogether in vain. He had endeavoured, almost at the close of a Masonic career, to put forward those principles which were imprinted in golden letters on the standard of Freemasonry—reverence to God, obedience to authority, and love to one another. On those principles Freemasonry acted, and while it acted on those principles it needed not the voice of a prophet to say that it would prosper, and that it would flourish in the world. Before he sat down he wished to say a few words with regard to the present position of Masonry. We had in this country no intestine troubles to combat, no discords, and no quarrels. We had not to go far abroad to behold Freemasonry convulsed with struggles; but in this country, happily, we keep aloof from all those hateful discussions which involved political questions, we banished all intrusions of political and religious topics. We proclaimed ourselves humble servants of our great Creator, lovers of our brotherhood, and friends of mankind; the principles by which Freemasonry in this country always had been actuated; and he hoped they would lead us year by year to be held more and more in estimation by our fellow men. But there was one other characteristic of Freemasonry which he felt to be the keystone of the Order. Many of the companions present were interested in other charitable institutions—many of them took part in those noble and magnificent hospitals and charities in the metropolis which adorned it; but he asked, was there any Order, or body of men, which was really doing so much in such an unostentatious manner as Freemasonry, though in some countries it was excommunicated, and in others declared inimical to law, order, and peace? Though not a wealthy Order—an Order which had not many millionaires in its ranks—it raised over £40,000 a year for the great Masonic Charities alone. They said nothing, when they mentioned that, of what they were doing in their Prov. Grand Lodges, and by educational institutions, and free gifts out of their lodge funds; in addition to which it was not known to the world what was given month by month by the Lodge of Benevolence. When they "totted" it up, as the saying was, it came to a sum that all Freemasons might be proud of. He was inclined to say of Freemasonry, when any one asked the value of Freemasonry and what it does, as was said of their great Master of the Lodge of Antiquity, Si monumentum queris circumspice, for it supported the aged, and educated and trained up orphan children of the brethren. Its great principles were reverence for the Creator, loyalty to the throne, love of the brotherhood, toleration, liberty of conscience, equity, and truth, and he would say, and all would also echo the aspiration, he thought, "Floreat Freemasonry." (Applause.)

Comp. Terry proposed "The Health of the M.E.Z.," who, he said, had performed his duties in the St. Dunstan's Lodge with great ability, and by so doing had earned the position which the Grand Z. of the Order had appointed him to in the chapter.

Comp. Wellsman, in responding, said that companions who had served in a regiment as privates and been asked to come out and command a battalion, knew what it was to get into a glorious state of confusion. He felt in a similar position that evening—in the position of being called forth as a private in the Royal Arch to take command of a battalion. Whether he should do honour to the St. Dunstan's Chapter or disgrace it was in the future. That he should not disgrace it he hoped; that he should do honour to it he doubted; but it should be his most anxious effort. He had the honour of being one of the founders and the second Master of the lodge, and he hoped that the same efforts as he had made in the lodge would be as successful in the chapter. When he filled the chair of the lodge he endeavoured to do his duty, and the brethren were well pleased with him. It was a more arduous duty to fill the chair of the chapter. It seemed that the ceremonies of a lodge were nothing as compared with those of the chapter; but he was earnestly preparing himself for the work, and he hoped he should not disgrace the office, and that the companions would be able to say at the end of his year that he had done all he could, if he had not done all he ought. This chapter occupied a singular position in R.A. Masonry. He did not know that there was a parish chapter existing in London. There were but few parish lodges, and the St. Dunstan's lodge was the only lodge that had ventured to add a chapter to it. He was disposed to think sometimes that good luck followed when Comp. Terry consecrated. When he consecrated St. Dunstan's Lodge he wished every good wish for the Lodge, and it had done nothing but prosper from that day to this. The lodge was full, there were forty-nine brethren on the books, and unless there were any accidental vacancies they would not add more to the number. If Comp. Terry's prognostications of the chapter were as true as of the lodge, it was good for them that he had been with them. He hoped that all the good wishes of Comp. Terry might be fulfilled to the utmost extent, and that when the companions met next year they would be able to say that the St. Dunstan's chapter was no disgrace to the lodge. Their first M.E.Z. would then be able to sit down with gratification, and feel that what he had proposed to himself he had done.

The M.E.Z. then proposed "The Consecrating Officers," and said that in the works of Shakespeare, whose birthday it was "they have indeed bettered expectations." He regretted it was only the P.Z.'s who could form an opinion of the whole of the work, as it was only them who had the privilege of being in the chapter the whole time. He was convinced that it was impossible to select from Royal Arch Masons three Principles who could do the work more completely than Comps. Terry, Radcliffe, and Woodford. He had seen that evening how difficult it was to get the ceremonies up. It required great memory and exactitude. Comp. Terry was "to the manner born," whether in consecrating a lodge or a chapter, or installing a W.M. or M.E.Z. he was always ready to do it. Comp. Radcliffe had performed the difficult ceremonies of installation in a way which could be done by few. Col. Radcliffe, senior P.M. of his Craft Lodge was one of his earliest instructors in Masonry, and his mind naturally turned to Comp. Radcliffe, when he selected an Installing Officer in the chapter. Comp. Woodford had in his eloquent oration impressed the companions with the knowledge of the true principles of Masonry, which he hoped the companions would use their best endeavours "in season and out of season" to carry out in their lives. The chapter honoured itself in making these companions honorary members.

Comps. Terry, Radcliffe, and Woodford responded, and Comps. Knyvett and Kenning responded for "The Visitors."

Comp. Knyvett wished success to the chapter, at the consecration of which he knew when he received an invitation he should have a very great treat. That had been fully realised.

Comp. George Kenning said he had been at the consecrations of many Royal Arch Chapters, but he had never seen one conducted more ably than that of the St. Dunstan's Chapter. The M.E.Z. in proposing the toast had been pleased to mention his, Comp. Kenning's name as the proprietor of the Freemason. Some ten years ago he established that paper, and he was proud to say it had given satisfaction to the Craft. He felt very proud of the paper, the position of which, at the present time, was highly satisfactory. It had been his endeavour to make it so, and no efforts were ever wanting to make it a thoroughly representative organ of the Craft. That was the course which he, and those who conducted it, were resolved to pursue; and it was very satisfactory to him to know that the Craft at large appreciated it. He had been unable to be a member of the St. Dunstan's Chapter, although a Fleet-street man, as its meetings happened on those evenings when he was otherwise engaged. Nevertheless, he wished it every success, and had no doubt, from its favourable inauguration, that there was a brilliant future before it.

Comp. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford proposed "The 2nd and 3rd Principals," and from what he knew of them, Masonically and personally, he was sure the chapter could not have made a better selection when recommending them to the Grand Z. The H. was a pillar of Masonry and a pillar of the church, a church which boasted of Dr. Donne and Dr. Johnson. With regard to the J., his services as Master of Lodge 55 had won for him, as they merited, the esteem and confidence of the brethren, and as a Principal of the chapter they would equally do so. There were no more important officers than the three Principals of a chapter. As an old Mason, initiated in 1842, he knew that the whole prosperity of a chapter depended on the three Principals. They gave the tone with which to govern the future of the chapter; and knowing the three Principals of the St. Dunstan's Chapter, he believed that the same Masonic principles which had actuated them in the lodge would actuate them in the chapter. He predicted, as Comp. Terry had predicted, a similar future for the chapter, and expressed his most earnest aspirations that the prosperity of the chapter would be as great and eminent as had been that of St. Dunstan's Lodge.

Comps. Dalwood and Dodson replied; after which Comps. T. C. Walls, P.S., and Tisley, Scribe E., responded to the toast of "The Officers," and Comp. Gilbert having given the Janitor's toast the companions separated.

A nice selection of music by Comps. Seymour Smith, G. T. Carter, and T. C. Walls were given during the evening, and Comp. E. Kimber entertained the companions with a very humorous sketch of proceedings in the House of Commons.

THE PROPOSED GRAND LODGE FOR NEW SOUTH WALES.

Sir,—It is with extreme reluctance and regret that I request you to publish the following correspondence, but it is a duty I owe to the "Most Worshipful Grand Master of England," as well as to the lodges and brethren of the English Constitution, whom I am solemnly bound to guide, to guard, and protect in Masonry. I am compelled to give this warning to those who are Freemasons, and also to others who are intending to become Freemasons, and who might otherwise, from inadvertence or ignorance of facts, be led to join the self-constituted body called "The Grand Lodge of New South Wales," thereby excluding them from admission or recognition by any of the lodges under the Constitution of the Grand Lodge of England.

JOHN WILLIAMS,
District Grand Master and Grand Superintendent of Royal Arch Masons, New South Wales, E.C.

22nd December, 1878.

"Dear Sir and Right Worshipful Brother,—Bro. Machin, P.M. of No. 930, Melbourne, having addressed a letter to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, inviting him to recommend the Grand Lodge of England to recognise the proposed Grand Lodge of New South Wales, I beg, for your information, to enclose copy of the letter I have written in reply, by command of the Prince.

"I remain, dear Sir and Right Worshipful Brother, yours truly and fraternally,
JOHN HERVEY.

"John Williams, Esq., R.W. District Grand Master,

"22nd November, 1878.

"W. Sir and Brother,—I am commanded by His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, the Most Worshipful Grand Master of England, to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 31st July, to which he has devoted great consideration. His Royal Highness does not consider it necessary to answer your various arguments in detail, suffice it to say that he cannot assent to them, nor approve of the course taken by—he is correctly informed—a small number of brethren to form an independent Grand Lodge of New South Wales. The Grand Master declines, therefore, to adopt the view you recommend, and to call upon the Grand Lodge of England to recognise the so-called Grand Lodge of New South Wales.

"I am, W. Sir and Brother, yours fraternally,
JOHN HERVEY.

"Montague S. Machin, Rushcutter Bay,
New South Wales."

DEDICATION OF THE NEW FREEMASONS' HALL AT IPSWICH.

The ceremony of dedication of the above hall took place on Friday afternoon, the 18th inst., and was attended by over 100 brethren of the Craft, including many visitors. The beautiful ritual was most ably carried out by Bro. the Rev. J. C. Martyn, Rector of Long Milford, D.P.G.M. of Suffolk, and P.G.C. of England, in the unavoidable absence of Bro. Lord Waveney, P.G.M. of Suffolk. Bro. Martyn's great zeal and popularity amongst his Masonic brethren is well known, and no more welcome guest could have been found to complete the ceremony of consecration.

The new hall is a very handsome building of red brick and stone, and consists of a beautifully arranged lodge room about 50 feet long, 23 feet wide, and 23 feet high. The banquet room below is the same size, only 16½ ft. high. There are various other rooms for Masonic purposes, besides lavatories, kitchen, &c. The entrance hall is very imposing, and commodious. The architect is Bro. H. Luff, of Ipswich, and he can be commended for his very convenient arrangements in every way, not a single inch of room but is utilised. We may here mention Bro. H. Luff is now engaged, under Government, in superintending the new post office erection in Oxford at the present time. The contract was given to Messrs. E. and E. C. Gibbons, Ipswich, and has been most satisfactorily carried out by Bro. Oliver T. Gibbons, their manager in the building department. The cost will be, including land, &c., about £1600. About half this sum has been subscribed voluntarily.

Amongst the brethren present were the following, who signed the presence book.—The Rev. C. J. Martyn, P.G.C., D.P.G.M. Suffolk, W.M. 1224; P. de L. Long, P.G.D.; J. H. Staddon, P.M. 376, P.P.S.D.; N. Tracy, P.M. 376, P.P.G.J.W.; William Clarke, 114, P.G.D.C.; T. J. Wentworth, W.M. 225; A. C. Barber, P.M., Sec. 225; J. Talbot, S.D. 225; C. Emmerson, P.M. 1224; S. R. Anness, S.W. 376; W. G. Cunnold, S.W. 225; W. Pearson, 936; S. Wright, 114; O. T. Gibbons, 225; J. Napier, J.W. 225; S. H. Wright, P.P.G.J.W., P.M., 316; H. J. Wright, S.W. 936; the Rev. W. W. Bird, P.M. P.G.C., 555; H. Harris, P.P.G.S.D.; Dr. Fleming, P.P.G.S.W.; G. H. Hart, 959; W. H. Finch, 959; R. Senton, 225; E. Buckham, 376; R. Cade, 376; W. E. Smith, 376; F. A. Hammond, 376; J. W. Daniels, 225; C. F. Browne, P.M. 81; A. Cowtan, S.D. 376; J. Barnes, 376; H. Nason, 771; T. B. Bird, 376; W. Eaves, 225; R. Anness, J.D. 376; T. Saul, 225; Jesse Sheppard, 225; L. J. Woodard, P.M. 936; J. B. Fraser, P.M. 376; John King, 225; G. Bedingfield, 376; P. Harrison, 959; B. P. Grimsey, J.D. 114; J. Brice, 650; E. Oxborough, 376; W. Fisk, 225; T. R. Elkington, 376; W. Spalding, Sec. 114; E. U. Butler, J.W. 114; Thos. Hooper, 376; C. E. A. Chapman, 376; W. Armstrong, P.M., P.P.G.J.D., 1592; G. S. Elliston, S.W. 114; J. L. Brook, 225; A. Cannon, J.W. 376; T. S. Grayston, 959; F. H. Fosdick, 114; D. H. Booth, 114; F. W. Wilson, 114; Rev. R. N. Sanderson, P.M. 959; J. L. Brown, S.W. 276; G. Abbott, P.G.S.B., 225; J. K. Sidgwick, P.P.G.R., 757; J. Hunt, 376; H. C. Casley, W.M. 114; Rev. J. J. Burton, P.M. 114, P.P.G.D.C. Cambs.; R. F. Ladell, 114; D. D. Steele, 959; C. Schulen, P.P.G.D.C. 114; W. T. Westgate, P.P.G.D.C., 376; J. Whitehead, P.M. 225; P. Whitehead, P.M. 225; A. J. Barber, P.P.G.O., P.M. 114; W. H. Sidgwick, 68; Rev. T. G. Beaumont, P.P.G.C., 114; Rev. A. Tighe-Gregory, P.P.G.C.; Dr. W. P. Mills, P.P.G.S.W., 376; H. Ribbans, 114; W. D. Paine, W.M. 959; F. Bennett, 959; G. J. Paine, S.D. 1008; H. Luff, P.M. 376, P.P.G.S. of W.; W. H. Lucia, G.S.B., Pro. G. Sec.; H. Miller, jun., P.M. 114, P.P.G.P.; Wm. Norman, H. Sidney, P.M. 376; G. Spalding, Tyler, 225.

The proceedings commenced by the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, the Rev. C. J. Martyn, being conducted into the lodge room by the Past and Present Provincial Grand Officers. The lodge having been opened, prayer was offered by the P. G. Chaplain, Bro. the Rev. W. W. Bird, and the D.P.G.M. expressed his pleasure in meeting the brethren in their new hall, congratulating them upon erecting such a building. He was desired to express the regret of the P.G.M., the Right Hon. Lord Waveney, in being unavoidably absent. Lord Henniker had also, with several other brethren, written letters of apology.

The plans of the hall were then handed in by the architect, Bro. H. Luff, who was congratulated upon the result obtained, and the Chairman of the Committee of Management, Bro. N. Tracy, detailed the various steps taken by the Craft to obtain a building as their home. In 1865 some energetic members of the Prince of Wales Lodge took in hand the erection of a building in St Stephen's Churchyard, which have recently been lost to the Craft by the mortgagees requiring a larger sum for the building than the Committee considered they were justified in giving. The facts connected with the erection of the present hall were then referred to at length.

The anthem, "Behold, how good and joyful," was then rendered by Bros. Abbott, Grayston, Steele, and Miller, Bro. C. Cooke presiding at the organ.

After the dedication prayer and invocation, a procession was formed and the ceremony of dedication performed by the D.P.G.M., and the proclamation made by the Director of Ceremonies.

The Provincial Grand Chaplain then delivered an oration, and after the singing of the hymn, "Lift the strain of high thanksgiving," the Lodge was closed in the usual form.

A grand banquet was then held, at which over seventy sat down to a splendid repast, supplied by Bro. George Ashford in excellent style. Bro. C. J. Martyn presided. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given.

The Chairman in proposing "The Health of the R.W. P.G.M., Lord Waveney," remarked that he took the greatest interest in everything connected with Freemasonry, and greatly regretted his inability to attend.

Bro. P. de L. Long, P.G.D., and Vice-President of the Board of General Purposes, proposed "The Health of the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Martyn." A better man and a better Mason it was impossible to meet, and no man stood higher in the Craft in the Grand Lodge. (Cheers.)

Bro. Martyn, in responding, trusted that the hall would be a very great success. Freemasonry in the province was going on successfully and well, and a petition had just gone up for the signature of the Grand Master (the Prince of Wales) for the consecration of a new lodge at Clare, which would make twenty in all. He concluded by giving "The Provincial Grand Officers, Present and Past."

Bros. W. H. Lucia, G.S.W., and Prov. G. Sec.; W. P. Mills, P.P.G.S.W.; and J. B. Fraser, P.P.G.S.W., responded to the toast.

Bro. R. N. Sanderson, P.P.G.C., proposed "The Visitors," to which Bro. Browne, S.W. Good Fellowship Lodge, Chelmsford, responded, stating that he should take home with him such a report of what he had seen and heard, as would, he hoped, inspire the brethren at Chelmsford to rear up a similar hall, though not on so noble a scale. (Applause.)

Bro. Brice, Star of the East Lodge, Harwich, also responded.

Bro. the Rev. J. J. Burton, P.P.G.S.W. Cambs, gave "The Masters of Lodges in the Province," to which

The Chairman responded; and proposed "Success to the Freemasons' Hall, and Prosperity to the Four Ipswich Lodges—its Founders." It was a very great source of pride to all Suffolk Masons to feel that in the town of Ipswich there was a hall in which they could not only carry out the ceremonial of the Craft, but where they could offer visitors that hospitality which was so dear to every Freemason's heart. (Applause.) He hoped and trusted that from the dedication to-day and from the commencement of the Masonic life of this house there might grow a great structure, which should not only be perfect in all its parts but honourable to the builders. (Cheers.)

Bro. H. Casley, W.M. 114, responded on behalf of his lodge, and as a Trustee and one of the most energetic members of the Building Management Committee, spoke most hopefully of the future success of the building. It ought to be known that, as a solicitor, Bro. Casley has done all the legal business for the hall free of any cost to the Committee.

Bro. T. I. Wentworth, W.M. 225, who is also a Trustee, and has subscribed most liberally, and also thrown great energy into the whole affair since its commencement, responded on behalf of his lodge, and urged in most emphatic terms the great necessity of every Mason in Ipswich contributing towards the expenses incurred.

Bro. S. R. Anness, S.W. 376, replied in similar terms on behalf of his lodge, as did also Bro. Payne, W.M. 959.

The other toasts included "The Architect and the Builder," and was ably responded to by Bro. H. Luff, and Bro. Oliver T. Gibbons. "The Masonic Charities" followed, when a collection was made on behalf of the new building, after a powerful appeal from Bro. Rev. Martyn. The very handsome sum of £110 was handed in, after a most amusing scene of the various members vying with each other in their contributions. This amount is quite exclusive of the regular subscription lists. Several musical brethren gave their services, and a most happy evening was brought to a close by three ringing cheers for the Queen, the Prince of Wales, and especially for Bro. Martyn.

There is no doubt now that Ipswich will be greatly benefited in a Masonic sense by the new hall, and it reflects great credit on all concerned in its erection. We shall bring this notice to a close by wishing that Masonry may flourish in the good old town of Ipswich.

CONSECRATION OF ST. ANNE'S CHAPTER, No. 970.

East Loos presented a very gay appearance on the 10th inst., on the occasion of the consecration of a Royal Arch Chapter in connection with St. Anne's Lodge, No. 970. A great number of Masons assembled to take part in and witness the ceremony, amongst whom were Comps. the Earl of Mount Edgecumbe, Grand Sup.; Col. Peard, P.Z., P.G.J.; E. T. Carlyon, P.Z., P.G.E.; E. D. Anderson, P.Z., P.G.H.; G. Kerwill, P.Z., P.P.A.S.; J. B. Kerwill, P.A.S.; R. A. Courtney, P.Z. 510, P.P.G.M.C.; J. W. Chegwidden, P.Z., P.G.M.C.; W. Rooks, P.G. Janitor.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, which was ably performed by the Grand Superintendent, assisted by Comps. Peard and Anderson, the following companions were invested as officers of the chapter:—Comps. J. R. Bishop, Z.; Isaac Dawe, H.; J. Hill, J. pro. tem.; Thomas Cook, crite E.; James Walters, S.N.; J. H. Dawe, P.S.; J. S. Tucker, S.A.S.; J. Crossman, J.A.S. pro. tem.; George Roseveare, Janitor, pro. tem.

Amongst the visiting companions were Comps. R. Coath, P.Z. 510; W. Nettle, J. 510; J. Beaglehole, S.E. 510; W. Huddy, S. 510; Albert Elford, P.S.E.

The business being ended in the lodge-room, the principal officers were entertained at luncheon by the Z. elect, Comp. Bishop.

The companions repaired to Bro. Cook's, Ship Hotel, where they were met by the W.M. of St. Anne's Lodge (Bro. J. G. Henwood), and about forty brethren of the Craft, and partook of an excellent banquet, and a very pleasant evening ended a day which will be long in the memories of the Masons of this "ancient old borough."

Bro. Colonel Creaton, Grand Treasurer, has been unanimously elected Treasurer of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF CUMBERLAND AND WESTMORLAND.

The half-yearly meeting of this Provincial Grand Lodge was held on Wednesday, the 16th inst., the same day as that of the Royal Arch Province, in the County Hotel, Carlisle, under the banner of Bective Lodge, No. 1532. In the absence of the Earl of Bective, M.P., R.W. Provincial Grand Master, on the continent, Colonel Whitwell, M.P., P.M. 129, P.G.W. of England, R.W. Deputy Prov. Grand Master, presided, supported by Bros. J. Holme, P.M. 129, P.P.G.J.W., as D.P.G.M.; H. Cook, P.M. 119, P.G.S.W.; J. R. Bain, P.M. 1400, P.G.J.W.; Rev. E. M. Rice, M.A., P.M. 1002, as P.G. Chaplain; G. W. Kenworthy, P.M. 119, P.G. Treas.; W. B. Gibson, P.M. 119, P.G. Sec.; J. Mills, P.M. 1390; P.G.S.D.; J. Gardiner, P.M. 371, P.G. Supt. of Works; G. J. M'Kay, P.M. 129, P.G.D.C.; H. Bewes, P.M. 327, P.G.Swd. B.; R. G. Nelson, P.M. 129, P.G. Pur.; J. Salisbury, P.M. 872, P.G. Tyler; T. Mandie, P.M. 371, P.G. Steward; G. Potter, P.M. 1532, P.G. Steward; W. Kirkbride, P.M. 339, P.P.G.S.W.; F. W. Hayward, P.M. 1220, P.P.G.S.W.; J. A. Wheatley, P.M. 310 and 1532, P.P.G.J.W.; J. Talbot, Past Master, 129, P.P.G.J.W.; W. F. Lamonby, P.M. 1002, P.P.G. Reg. (Freemason); J. Slack, P.M. 310, W.M. 1220, P.P. G.S.D.; R. Foster, P.M. 412, P.P.G.S.D.; J. Tattersall, P.M. 129, P.P.G.J.D.; A. Walter, P.M. 371, P.P.G.S.B.; W. Court, P.M. 310, P.P.G.S.B.; J. J. Robinson, P.M. 872, P.P.G. Tyler; J. Haswell, W.M. 1532; J. Barron, P.M. 339; W. Martin, W.M. 1660; J. B. Thwaites, P.M. 339; Capt. Sewell, W.M. 1002; J. Tweedie, W.M. 310; and others.

All the nineteen lodges in the province were represented but one—Greta, No. 1073, Keswick.

The Provincial Grand Lodge having been opened in form, the minutes of the annual festival, held at Millom last September, were read and confirmed. The dues from the respective lodges and fees of honour from officers were next received by the P.G. Secretary and Treasurer, and it was announced that the total number of members in good standing was 927, rather fewer in numbers than the former year, but, nevertheless, a decided gain, inasmuch as there had been a weeding out of those in arrears in the different lodges.

The Charity Committee's report was brought up by the P.G. Secretary, and amongst the recommendations therein were, the sum of £10 to the widow of a brother of Lodge 1400; the united support of the province to secure the election of a son of the before named deceased brother into the Boys' School at the October election; and the support of an aged brother of Lodge 872, as an annuitant of the Benevolent Fund. The following notice of motion by Bro. G. J. M'Kay, P.M. 129, was also recommended for adoption: "That the sum of fifteen guineas be voted to the Widows' Fund, and the sum of thirty-five guineas to the Male Fund of the Benevolent Institution, in order to constitute this Provincial Grand Lodge a Vice-President in perpetuity."

The Prov. Grand Secretary, in answer to the R.W.P. G.M. in the chair, said there was a sum of £197 in hand, available for the purposes of charity.

Bro. Lamonby, P.M. 1002, asked the Prov. Grand Secretary the relative amount of votes held by the province, as a province, for the Boys' and Girls' Schools, when it appeared that the proportion in favour of the Boys' School was more than two to one, as also in lodges and private votes. He said he should give notice at the proper time for an augmentation of the voting strength of the province, as regards the Girls' School.

The Charity Committee's report was then adopted unanimously in its entirety.

The next business was the place for the annual festival, and it was unanimously resolved to recommend to the R.W. Prov. Grand Master that the festival be held at Appleby, under the banner of Eden Valley Lodge, No. 812.

The Prov. Grand Lodge was then closed in form, and the brethren adjourned to the County Hotel, where an elegant luncheon was served. Col. Whitwell, M.P., presided, and, after two or three toasts had been honoured, business was resumed in Prov. Grand Chapter.

PROVINCIAL GRAND CHAPTER OF CUMBERLAND AND WESTMORLAND.

The half-yearly convocation of this province was held on Wednesday, the 16th inst., in the County Hall, Carlisle, under the banner of Union Chapter, No. 310, Colonel Whitwell, M.P., P.Z. 129, P.G.S.N. of England, Prov. Grand H., presided, supported by M.E. Comps. W. B. Gibson, P.Z. 119, P.P.G.J., as H.; and J. Holme, P.Z. 129, P.G.J. The other members of the province present were Comps. G. J. M'Kay, J. 129, P.G.S.E.; H. Bewes, P.Z. 327, S.N.; J. A. Wheatley, H. 310, P.G. Swd. Br.; J. Gardiner, Z. 327, P.G. St. Br.; W. Kirkbride, P.Z. 339, P.P.G.P.S.; W. Court, Z. 310, P.P.G. St. Br.; J. Talbot, H. 129, P.P.G.A.S.; R. G. Nelson, J. 129, P.G. Steward; G. W. Hayward, P.Z. 310; J. Haswell, S.E. 310; W. F. Lamonby, H. 119, P.P.G. Swd. Br. (Freemason); and others.

The business was purely formal, and was confined to confirming the minutes of the previous convocation, and the bye-laws for the government of the province, and receiving dues and fees from chapters and officers.

Before the Provincial Grand Chapter was closed, it was announced that an eighth chapter would be consecrated at Maryport, the following Tuesday, in connection with Lodge of Perseverance, No. 371, to be called the Nicholson Chapter, in honour of Bro. Joseph Nicholson, P.M. 371, P.P.G.S.W., M.E.Z. designate, one of the oldest members of the Craft in the north of England.

THE FREEMASON.

THE ENDURANCE OF FREEMASONRY.

One of the most remarkable characteristics of Freemasonry is its endurance in the world, and, above all, its endurance of antagonism and attack. We might draw a potent argument, according to Lord Macaulay, for its own inherent excellency and vitality, from this very actuality, but we prefer on the whole to allow the reality of its history to speak for itself, alike to the "geist" of the ingenious, and the appreciation of the judgmatical. Numerous as have been the attacks on Freemasonry, in ancient and modern days, by able or by inept writers, it has survived every assault and flourished amidst every storm. It has been assailed by prescripts and proclamations, by ban and Bull, by allocation and aspersion, by "Mandement" and manifesto, by the shafts of ridicule, the insidious treachery of slander, and the denunciations of open and vulgar violence. And still there it is as before the world to-day in every quarter of the habitable globe, counting its faithful "alumni" by thousands and tens of thousands. Indeed, such is the alarm with which the "secrecy, fidelity, and obedience" which mark all true Freemasons everywhere, have filled the suspicious and timid minds of Ultramontane accusers and enemies, that they have, forsooth, invented a Masonic army "in buckram," and have grandiloquently turned our thousands into millions. Indeed, it would be laughable were it not such a parody on all kindly feeling and just treatment in the world to note the panic terror which seems to seize on Ultramontane opponents, on Bishops and Archbishops, on Cardinals, yea, and on Popes themselves, infallible though they are said to be, when they have to deal with the feared, yet hated subject of Freemasonry and Freemasons. And, no doubt, to them, one and all, its "staying power" is a fact, alike inexplicable and undeniable as it is an unpalatable "factor" they by no means like to be recognized in the progress of man, society, and the world. For despite unjust accusations, despite unjust sentences, notwithstanding allocutions and anathemata, Bulls by the dozen, and calm excommunications by the score, these "wicked Freemasons" seem to get on in the world pretty well, to take things easily enough in all conscience, to be none the worse for all this "noisy artillery of menace and malediction," and, in fact, on the whole to be as "well," if not "better," than could be expected under the peculiar circumstances of the case. Since 1738, let us bear in mind 140 years ago now, Freemasonry, through no fault of its own, has been the subject alike of public condemnation by the Church of Rome, and the object both of the petty malice and puny wit of countless scribblers of different nationalities. We do not say that, abroad especially, the conduct of Freemasons has been always discreet, or their "saying and doings" justifiable and wise Masonically; that, unfortunately, we cannot assert. But this we may fairly remark, that even supposing the complaints of the Church of Rome to be in any sense justified in respect of Freemasonry, the course pursued by its authorities has been simply, as we say, and from their own point of view, "to intensify the alleged evil," and men have revolted from their "debasement practice of prosecution," and the childish, the empty fulmination of ridiculous and mendacious "Bulls." As amusing instances of the "endurance of Freemasonry" of attacks in bygone years, and in the present generation, we give, in conclusion, one or two illustrations. In 1748, the Abbé Larudan, a man of little character and less ability, published at Amsterdam, "Les Francsmaçons Ecrases; the Freemasons crushed, wiped out," as a supplement to the work of the Abbé Peran, at Geneva, in 1742, called "L'Ordre des Francsmaçons trahi; the Order of the Freemasons betrayed." We who know to-day what Freemasonry is, and what it has done in the world since 1748, can well understand how the childish prophecy of an intolerant and ignorant Roman Catholic antagonist has had no weight, and no fulfilment. Is Freemasonry "Ecrase?" Let its enemies supply the fitting answer to the question. De Quincey wrote some foolish attacks on Freemasonry some years back, both in London newspapers and a London magazine, and boasted still more childishly that the "whole bubble of Freemasonry had been shattered" by his words. We must always allow a good deal for the "aberrations" of that brilliant but beclouded writer, though no one reads to-day essays which are worthless, diatribes which are puerile, because penned in complete ignorance of the history, much less of the reality, of the Order he was so eager and so bitter to denounce and decry. And what has the denuciation even of a Pope done to Freemasonry? Of Freemasonry it may well be said to-day "Mens immot manet," amid all the changes of time and the revolutions of the world; and wherever it truly exists, and is properly vitalized, it endures, let us believe reverently, in the wisdom and protection of T.G.A.O.T.U., because it is manifestly of utility to society, of honour to the Most High, and of blessing to mankind.

A WORD OF WARNING.

We have seen lately some evidences of a rather hasty and reckless school of Masonic exposition and symbolism setting in amongst us, against which we think it well to raise a few friendly notes of warning and remonstrance. One of the greatest evils Freemasonry has had to contend with archæologically, is the uncritical school. And this fact arises from two other facts, curiously enough, which deserve noting and watching. We have had practically, since 1717, two systems at work in English Masonic teaching, and ritual, and symbolism—namely, the Johannite and the Universal. In the earlier part of the last century, practically, no doubt, despite the avowed teaching of Grand Lodge, the ritual of the lodges under the modern Grand Lodge was more or less Johannite, and the same tendency was observed and preserved in the lodges of the "Antient Masons." And hence have arisen two conflicting schools of teaching and symbolism in our Order. Oliver leant to the Johannite system, and as Oliver is a "household word" with many Masons, his views still linger in England, and find favour specially in Ireland and Scotland, where the prayers are not, as with us, Universal, but Christian. Now, we do not object to a great "liberty of prophesying" in this respect. We do not and cannot see why, within certain limits, at any rate, the two schools cannot legally co-exist. There always have been Masons amongst us who see in Masonic ritual Christian symbolism, whether of designed or undesigned coincidence, and we are not prepared to say that they are altogether wrong either in their assumptions or their conclusions. And, therefore, we always read with interest and respect the arguments of Johannite Masons, though we cannot agree to depart from the compact of 1813. There seems just now to be a danger, whether, in the search after what is new, striking, and sensational, some of our good brethren are not emitting theories which are erratic and propounding teaching which must do harm rather than good. We, therefore, think it well to impress upon our readers all proper reticence in dealing either with Masonic ritualism or Masonic symbolism. We learn, for instance, that a Bro. Maddiver, in Scotland, teste the Scottish Freemason, has been dilating on a subject—perhaps the most difficult and doubtful that he could have selected. If he liked in a lodge of those who held Johannite views to propound this peculiar opinion, be it so, only we object strongly to have a subject started in our midst which, exploding like a bombshell, may lead to a sort of general controversy and conflagration. We had not noticed the fact ourselves, we can only add "culpa nostra," but our able contemporary, the Keystone, alludes to it in these few, but expressive, words, and we think it well to transfer his remarks to our columns: "The learned Bro. Dr. Maddiver, of Rothesay, (as the Scottish Freemason fraternally styles him), electrified the brethren of Lodge St. Vincent, No. 533, Glasgow,

Scotland, on February 26th, by 'clearly showing that the emblems on a Freemason's apron represented the Trinity,' and that Freemasons wore the lambskin 'as an emblem of purity and innocence, representing the Lamb, or Son of God.' Truly, much learning hath made our brother mad, and he is appropriately named, 'Maddiver.' Now, though we do not agree with the interpretation which our able "confrere" in America has put on such explanations, and think that a brother might, in the dangerous ease of suppositious symbolism, use such words without being, as we say, "off the nut," yet we have thought it not unseasonable or improper to allude to the subject in our columns, and we confess that we deeply regret that such hurtful "allegorizing" and such needless sensationalism should be in vogue amongst us just now. We feel bound, once for all, to protest against it, in the interests of peace and harmony, for the avoidance of ridicule, and as repugnant to our uncontroversial Brotherhood, and above all tending to introduce amongst us an unsound and uncritical school of Masonic "exegesis," alike as to the symbolism and teaching of our excellent Fraternit y.

THE CONSECRATION OF THE ST. DUNSTAN'S CHAPTER.

This interesting ceremony, which took place on Shakespeare's Birthday, is fully reported elsewhere, minus the oration, which, owing to printing exigencies, will appear next week. This is, curiously enough, a parochial chapter, associated with St. Dunstan's Parish and Fleet-street, and summoning up memories of eloquent Donne, and honest Isaac Walton, as well as the stately form of Dr. Johnson. We wish the chapter all success.

GOOD NEWS FROM ZULU LAND.

Except for the poor mourning families at home, and

"The pangs which o'er the heart-strings creep,
At every post that comes,"
among the friends of our gallant soldiers and sailors abroad, the news from Zulu Land is cheering in the extreme. Ekowe has been relieved, the Zulus defeated in two encounters, and the avenging arms of England will soon restore peace and tranquility, and subdue, by God's help, a treacherous and savage foe.

THE ANCIENT AND ACCEPTED RITE.

Dear Sir and Brother,—
I am not at all surprised at "Memphis's" reply—it is pretty much what I expected. I thought he was a little too bold in his challenge as regards the legality of the Grand Council of the English Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, and I do not wonder at his shrinking from an honest, open, manly, unpersonal discussion. Only, henceforth, to use a vulgar phrase, let him "shut up." His plea that, because I am an "Outsider," I can know nothing of the Ancient and Accepted Rite is, I must beg to remark to him, not only a very absurd "petitio principi," but it is a declaration of intense weakness on his part, which cannot escape the notice of the critical and the competent. What in the name of everything mentionable and unmentionable does it signify to him, or any one else, who I am, or whence I hail from? The argument is a very simple one. Has the G. Council of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite a "locus standi" legitimately in this country, as the governing body of the Rite? This is the entire "Cruz" to be settled. I say it has, "Memphis" says it has not; but "Memphis" will not argue the question with me, because he says I am an "Outsider." Perhaps it might be found as the controversy progressed, that, as it happens, I know as much of the history, and Constitutions, &c., of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite as "Memphis" does, some people might think a little more, though an "Outsider." And, at any rate, I have this advantage, that I am arguing the whole question from the ground of history, precedent, and common sense, whereas "Memphis" is clearly intent on writing for "pure personality," and for pure personality alone, I very much fear me.

And now let me ask "Memphis" a question, which he can answer or not, as he likes. Is "Memphis" legally a member of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, or if he has once belonged to it and does not belong to it now, why has he left it? Is he even still in it? I have reason for asking these questions, because it is possible that, as "Memphis" will not discuss the matter with me, because I am an "Outsider," he may find a great difficulty in inducing any member of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite to discuss it with him at all.

With regard to the "Rite of Memphis" itself, it is possibly perfectly true, that, as it is tersely put in "Kenning's Masonic Cyclopaedia," to which I refer my readers, the grades of Memphis seem to be taken from the "old high grade system worked in France."

But then, as I have always considered all this "paraphernalia" of high grades as supremely useless, I do no injustice to "Memphis" in terming the grade he seems so anxious to puff a "ridiculous one." But then I do not profess to do more than to offer my own subjective opinion on the subject; I do not dogmatize for others or to others; and if the word "ridiculous" hurts the sensitive nerves of "Memphis" I gladly withdraw it. It is quite sufficient for me that many excellent Masons believe in such "grades." They have as much right to their "Pine apple" as I have to mine.

Yours fraternally,

AN OUTSIDER.

SWEDENBORGIAN RITE.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I have the pleasure to inform you that a new lodge and temple in the primitive and original rite of Freemasonry, otherwise known as the Swedenborgian Rite, has just been warranted for the town of Sheffield, named the Britannia Lodge and Temple, No. 10—the warrant being dated the 17th April, 1879. Its first W.M. is our well-known and energetic Bro. Samuel B. Ellis, who is also the Chief Adept for Yorkshire of the Rosicrucian Society; the first S.W. is Bro. Thomas Blair, and Bro. John Eadon Reaney is the first J.W. This lodge proposes to hold its consecration meeting on the 3rd of May next, and Bro. John Yarker, the S. Grand Master, had been invited to be present on the auspicious occasion.

A meeting of the Yorkshire College of the Rosicrucian Society will subsequently be held, and it is anticipated that both gatherings will be well and influentially attended. May I ask you to oblige me by adding to this letter the subjoined list of Grand Officers for the year 1879-80, corresponding to the Order date, A.O.S., 7752-3? The names in italics mark the promotions in Grand Lodge as well as the new members who have been admitted to the purple. I may add that the meeting of the Royal Oscar Lodge and Temple, No. 9, Liverpool, took place on the 10th inst. when Bros. Charles Jacobs and Thomas Henry Hall were duly elevated to the degree of Perfect Freemasonry by Bro. William Thomas May, the W.M.

I remain, dear Sir and Brother, faithfully and fraternally yours,

KENNETH R. H. MACKENZIE, IXth,

Supreme Grand Secretary.

Hounslow, 21st April, 1879.

Officers of the Supreme Grand Lodge and Temple 1879-80:

AN OLD MASON.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In your last number, at page 165, a letter from the Secretary of the Royal Cumberland Lodge, No. 41, Bath, speaking of Bro. Charles Marsh, who was initiated in that lodge on the 6th Aug., 1819, has the following:—"There can be no doubt that our brother is the oldest living Mason in England."

It would be interesting on all grounds to ascertain to whom belongs the distinction of being the "Father" of our English Craft, and as a contribution to the ventilation of this subject in your columns, I may state that an initiate of the Moira Lodge, No. 92, is entitled to seven years priority over Bro. Charles Marsh. Bro. Sir Moses Montefiore was received into Masonry in the Moira Lodge (then No. 118) on the 13th April, 1812.

Yours fraternally,

R. F. GOULD, P.M. 92.

BALANCE SHEET OF A LODGE.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I have taken the trouble to copy out the balance sheet of a lodge, which has been forwarded to me as a specimen of what you and all right-thinking Freemasons have so often decried, what a misnomer the word "charity," the watchword of our Order, is, with respect, I fear, to a large number of our lodges; in this instance £155 10s. spent on banquets, out of the total subscriptions of one year, £155 14s. and £4 4s. to charity, actually less than the amount, £4 14s. 3d., collected at the banquets for the express purposes of charity. What a farce! No words of mine could speak half so eloquently or forcibly as the printed figures now before me.

Yours fraternally,

CHARLES JOHN PERCEVAL.

FREEMASONRY IN SOUTH AFRICA.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In November last you were informed that a change was contemplated in the rituals for the symbolic degrees in lodges working under the G.E. of the Netherlands. The brethren who were members of other lodges working under the Grand Lodge of England felt indignant at this contemplated change, and have now applied to the Grand Lodge of England for a warrant for a new lodge at Du Toits Pan, to be named the Charles Warren Lodge (after our much esteemed and popular Administrator). The 1st W.M. is ... Bro. R. M. Connolly.

" J.W. " ... " R. J. Scholtz.

Bro. J. J. Wil-on, P.M., well-known in Masonic circles, has been a prominent supporter of Dutch lodges in this province, and occupied the principal offices in lodge and chapters, is also a charter member of this new lodge; and it is now believed that Dutch lodges in this province will soon be a thing of the past. It is rumoured that another warrant from the Grand Lodge of England will soon be applied for to open a second lodge here, at Du Toits Pan. The only difficulty appears to have been whether the several W.M.'s who have occupied the chair for the full period will be recognised as Past Masters by the Grand Lodge of England. Upon this your opinion is earnestly solicited. I give you list of lodges and chapters now working at this place (Du Toits Pan):

"BY-LAW," or "BYE-LAW."
To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,

This question has been raised several times in these columns, but I am not aware that it has been settled, and may be never will, yet the following opinion will be found interesting and valuable, when coming from so high an authority as Professor A. S. Wilkins, M.A., being an extract from a lecture on "The Origin of the English People," delivered by him in Manchester, in November, 1871:—

"Wherever you find places ending in by, as Whitby, Derby, Rugby, there you find Danes have been. By is the old Danish form for town or borough; and when you talk about 'by-laws,' you simply mean the borough laws as distinguished from the laws of the country. Of course now we use the phrase for the laws of a railway or club; but originally by-law meant borough law, as distinguishing it from the national law of the great Parliament."

Fraternally yours,
AD REM.

COMPTE RENDU, DE LA FETE OFFERTE AUX
MACONS ETRANGERS LE 24th OCTOBRE, 1878,
PALAIS DE TROCADERO.

We are indebted to the Grand Conseil of the Rite Ecossais, Ancien et Accepté, at Paris, for two copies of this account of the gathering of October last. The work is admirably printed and illustrated, and is for the members of the rite a fitting souvenir of a memorable meeting. We are very sorry to find that some lamentable errors relative to the "Grand Conseil" have crept into the "Cosmopolitan Calendar," but which we doubt not its careful editor will correct in the next issue. They have been unintentional. But there is this justification, the publisher of the "Cosmo" has never received, up to the present, any official calendar or list from the "Secretariat General," in the "Rue de la Victoire." If it had been duly forwarded, the mistake, which is quite excusable under the circumstances, would not have occurred.

REPORT OF THE IRISH MASONIC ORPHAN BOYS' SCHOOL FOR 1878.

We have read this report with much pleasure, as we think we note in it satisfactory marks of progress and efficiency. It is moving on. Its income for 1878 was, for instance, £2989 7s. 6d., as against £1822 7s. 3d. for 1877; but, as the report warns us, too sanguine hopes must not be founded for the future on this isolated fact, as the receipts include a legacy from the Rev. W. H. Higginbotham of £932 18s. 6d. There is, indeed, a falling off of about £60 in individual subscriptions, but this deficiency will, it is fairly assumed, be made good in 1879. But the great step in advance is the purchase of the lease of the Adelaide Hall, Merrion, with three acres of land, facing the sea, and which, being in substantial repair, can accommodate forty boys. There will be twenty-six boys in the school in August next, and as the Board have selected a Head Master and Assistant Master, and a Matron, and is seeking by economising the expenses to increase the number of boys, there seems a fair call on Irish—yes, and on English brethren—by a kindly and judicious support to "extend the operations of this greatly needed charity." During the last twelve months the financial accounts exhibit, including the balance (£552 7s. 3d.) of 1877, a credit side of £3541 18s. 9d., and a debit side, including a balance carried forward (£525 os. 11d.), and purchase of £1000 Midland G. W. Railway Stock, and £700 deposit, the same figures. Thus the actual expenditure, minus these items, is £1319, in round numbers. Of this £1073 15s. are for education and maintenance; outfits, £30; incidental and miscellaneous payments £17 17s.; stationery, printing, and postage, £92 16s. 9d., and salaries the modest sum of £70. We feel sure that this useful and meritorious institution has a future of importance and success before it, and we call the attention of many kindly brethren, readers of ours, to its unpretending reality, and its bona-fide claims on all who value and believe in the duty and blessedness of helpful education for the orphan sons of deceased or destitute brethren.

THE WESTMINSTER AND KEYSTONE LODGE.

A warrant bearing date January 28th, 1721-2, was issued under the seal of the Grand Lodge, enabling certain brethren named thereon to open and hold a lodge of Freemasons, its number being seven before 1740, in which year it became six, and five from 1756 to the "Union of 1813," after which it assumed the number ten.

In 1792 its name "Tyrian" was exchanged for that of the "Westminster and Keystone." Quite a revival occurred in 1855 by a number of Oxonian joining; the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon (now M.W. Pro G.M.), initiated there in February 5th, 1856, was installed as W.M. 20th May, 1857, in the presence of the M.W.G.M., the Earl of Zetland, and ever since the lodge has preserved the prominence thereby conferred.

On May 2nd, 1860, "the lodge received the sanction of the M.W.G.M. to celebrate its centenary (which was completed in 1821), by a jewel to be worn by the members, which has accordingly been provided, the design having received universal approbation for its appropriateness and beauty."

The jewel may be briefly described as follows: Portcullis (in centre) of black with gold chains and studs. Lettering in gold on blue enamel—"Westminster and Keystone Lodge, 1721," and from the top is suspended a small key-stone of cornelian, having the Number 10 thereon. Medal is worn attached to a light blue ribbon.—From Bro. Hughan's Masonic Register: George Kenning, London.

A FRENCH CERTIFICATE OF FIFTY YEARS AGO.

I have recently been shown a Master Mason's certificate, under French regime, and should be obliged if some learned brother will inform me whether it belongs to pure Craft Masonry, or otherwise. The query, on my part, arises from the reference to "Lodge of St. John of Scotland," as also "Herodom Orient of Paris," which appears on the parchment.

I should explain that the certificate in question belonged to a deceased Prov. Grand Master of Cumberland, whose name I am not at liberty to mention. The design is very elaborate, and headed, "A la Gloire du Grand Architecte de l'Univers. La R. L. Ec. des amis constants de la Vraie Lumière, a Tous les Mac. Répandus sur les Deux Hemispheres, Salut." The body is divided into five corresponding columns, in French, Latin, German, English, and Italian. The English column reads as follows, the blanks, of course, containing the name, &c., of the R.W. brother to whom the certificate was granted:

"We, Ven. Masters and Brothers of the R. Lodge of St. John of Scotland, regularly established to the Grand Or. of Paris, in 1818, under the distinctive title of the Constant Friends of the True Light, certify that the M. W. B. _____, born at _____, is an active member of this lodge, in the degree of Master, which he has merited by zeal, virtue, and experience.

"We recommend him in this capacity to our M. W. B., who will receive him with cordiality, and all the benevolence due to a good M."

"Herodom O. of Paris, the 1st of March, year of the G. L. 5824, vulgair Aera 1st. March, 1824."

I should add that the grade "Master," on the parchment, is in manuscript, thereby implying that certificates were granted to other than Master Masons. The seal bears the title of the lodge, with the year 1818, and there are six signatures, the ranks of the attesting officials being thus described: "Le Vénérable," "1er Surveillant," "2e Surveillant," "Trésorier," "Le Secr. Genl.," and "Orateur." The W.M. and Orator have the figures 33 after their names.

W. F. LAMONBY.

LODGE OF ANTIQUITY.

I have read Bros. Hughan and Gould's friendly replies. No doubt Bro. Hughan has alluded to the "Harodim" before, but I could not find the mention of it in any of his works, relative to the Lodge of Antiquity. Such a fact could not escape such a "master of the work." I had not seen Bro. Gould's "Four Old Lodges" when I wrote, or else I should not have penned the note. I am glad it has struck "oil," and drawn out so much "light."

A history of "Old Antiquity" is still a "desideratum" for Masonic literature, but must, for the present, be left to the future.

"THE SPIRIT OF MASONRY."

I have a copy of the "Spirit of Masonry," by Bro. Wm. Hutchinson, Master of the Barnard Castle Lodge of Concord, published in London in 1775 by authority of Grand Lodge, and dedicated to Lord Petre, the Grand Master. The Appendix contains "Certain Questions, with Answers to the same, concerning the Mystery of Macorrey; written by the hand of Kyngc-Henrye, the sixth of the name, and faithfully copied by me Johan Leylande, Antiquarius." Doubtless this is an earlier, perhaps the earliest, edition of the work mentioned by your correspondent W. F. Lamonby. I should be glad to know if the book is rare.

NEWINGTON BRIDGES.

HUGHAN'S MASONIC REGISTER.

After a careful perusal, we can say with truth that, in our opinion, it is one of the most valuable works on Masonry ever published. The title might frighten some of those brethren who are not given to reading or study, but, if they can only muster up courage to read the book, we feel sure they will soon become deeply interested in its contents. We will now give a short summary of them. First, then, we find the arms of the Grand Lodge of England, beautifully illuminated and emblazoned, under the immediate supervision of Bro. Sir Albert Woods, Garter King at Arms, Past Grand Warden, and Director of Ceremonies of the Grand Lodge of England, to whom the volume is dedicated. Then follow five plates—No. 1 containing the obverse and reverse of the Royal Medal of the Lodge of Antiquity; No. 2—Medal of Grand Master's Lodge (No. 1), Medal of Royal York Lodge of Perseverance (No. 7), and obverse and reverse of that of Royal Somerset House Lodge (No. 4). Plate 3—Royal Medal of the Prince of Wales Lodge (No. 259). Plate 4—Medal of Centenary Lodge (ordinary); Westminster and Keystone (No. 10); Royal Alpha Lodge (No. 16); and Star of the East Lodge (No. 67). Plate 5—Commemorative Medal of the Inauguration Festival, 1869; that of Royal Installation, 1875; The Freemasons' Hall Medal, A.D. 1780; the Charity Jewel for the Past Stewards of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, Boys, and Aged Masons and Widows. All these are splendidly got up and illuminated—a perfect work of art. After an introductory chapter come some excerpts from Dr. Plott's "Natural History of Staffordshire," referring to Freemasonry in his day; and "Articles of Union between the Grand Lodges of England," Ancients and Moderns, of 1813. We now come to some curious and interesting old records of lodges, also an account of the coat of arms as used by the old Company of Freemasons, granted by the Clarendon King at Arms, A.D. 1472-73, which were again confirmed in A.D. 1520-21, and "Entered in Visitation of London," made 1634. To this are added the coats of arms of the Ancients, Moderns, and the York Grand Lodges. A description follows of the various medals already mentioned above, and the lodges, &c., to which they belong. After lists of lodges entitled to centenary jewels, and describing those authorised to be worn by officers of Grand, Prov. Grand, and Subordinate Lodges, we come to a "Roll of lodges at the Union of December, 1813." This roll also gives dates of warrants and changes in the numbering of lodges, as made in 1832 and 1863. In conclusion we find "A list of lodges in existence at the time of the Union in 1813, but subsequently erased from the roll." It will be seen from this summary that much valuable information as to the Craft in England, that must have taken years of hard labour to compile, is contained in this elegantly got up volume. We are glad to find that our worthy and learned brother promises us two more volumes to complete the series, viz., "Records of the Ancients," and "of the United Grand Lodge of England." We trust that Bro. Hughan will, at some future time, turn his attention northwards to Scotland, which he would find far more prolific in ancient Masonic records, charters, &c., even than England. Every Mason, wherever he may be, should get a copy of "Hughan's Masonic Register."—The Scottish Freemason.

THE ALBION LODGE, No. 9, LONDON.

The present warrant of the Albion Lodge is dated June 30th, 1774, but at first it was registered as "July 17th, A.D. 1751, A.L. 5751.—Vol. 1., letter A" in the first Book of Records of the "Ancients." It is almost certain that the Seceders commenced their organisation in 1751, though no minutes were kept until the following year (according to a note in the earliest volume of Transactions) hence some of the "Ancient" lodges really date before the formation of their Grand Lodge; Nos. 7, 9, and 11 being of this class. No charters apparently were granted before 1753, in which year the premier Grand Master, Bro. Robert Turner, W.M. No. 15, was elected, all such documents having been signed either during that year or subsequently, and bear thereon an acknowledgment, when necessary, of the date of origin. The Albion Lodge was 5/11th on the roll until the "Union," when it became No. 9, and has so remained, its centenary warrant being dated April 24th, 1857.

The special jewel was designed by Bro. W. Moring (P.M. No. 9), High Holborn, London, and is both neat and effective. A five-pointed star, which encloses an Egyptian lily, is suspended from a scroll, tastefully arranged in the form of a circle, on which its rests, the latter bearing the appropriate inscription: "Albion Lodge Centenary, A.D. 1851." It is made in gold, or silver gilt and enamel.—From Bro. Hughan's Masonic Register. G. Kenning, London (12s. 6d.)

Obituary.

BRO. WILLIAM ARCHER.

The grave closed over all that was mortal of the remains of the late Bro. William Archer, P.G.J.D. of West Lancashire, at the quiet country churchyard of St. Mary's, Walton-on-the-Hill, near Liverpool, on Wednesday, the 16th inst., and the fast falling tears of many amongst the numerous brethren who gathered to pay the last sad office of respect to departed merit showed how greatly the deceased was esteemed while in the flesh, and how much he was mourned for after death. No one who knew Bro. Archer, and he had only reached his 45th year at the time of his sudden and somewhat unexpected death on the previous Sunday, failed to value him for his honesty of purpose, uprightness of intention, cordiality of temperament, and large-hearted open-handed generosity, not only in his public life but especially in that inner and more sacred circle of Masonry to which he had been so long and so intimately attached, and the blank thus caused in the Masonic world in Liverpool, particularly that which exists at what is known as the north end of the town, will be long painfully felt and not easily filled. His zeal and Masonic earnestness in connection with the Walton Lodge, No. 1086, have for several years been most conspicuous, and largely through his exertions does that lodge now occupy the honourable position which it now does among the others in Liverpool and throughout the province. Bro. Archer was appointed Prov. G.J.D. at the last meeting in October of the Provincial Grand Lodge of West Lancashire, at the Philharmonic Hall, Liverpool, that honour being conferred upon him by Bro. Lord Skelmersdale, P.G.M., in recognition of the eminent services he had rendered to the Craft, more particularly at the north end, having been chiefly instrumental in securing the erection of the Skelmersdale Hall. He was also P.M. and Treasurer of the Walton Lodge, No. 1086, P.Z. of the chapter attached to it, and S.W. of the Mark Lodge, No. 161. He was also Chairman of the Skelmersdale Hall Committee. About ten o'clock upwards of 200 brethren assembled at the Skelmersdale Hall, amongst those being Bros. J. T. Callow, P.G. Treas.; J. Wells, P.G.D.C.; W. Vines, P.P.G.D.C.; T. R. Goepel, Past Prov. Grand Dir. of Cir.; J. Lunt, P.P.G.D.C., P.M. 1086; T. Chesworth, P.G.D.C. (Cheshire); Councillor S. Ibbs, P.P.G.S.B.; J. Hayes, P.M. 249, P.G.S.; R. Abram, P.M. 1086; J. P. M'Arthur, J.P., P.M. 1086; J. G. Townshend, W.M. 1086; G. E. Hamner, P.M. 1086; J. Ellis, P.M. 1086; with the following officers and members of this lodge:—Bros. J. Leece, S.W.; J. Casey, J.W.; Hugh Spencer, Sec.; R. Beckett, J.D.; J. Savage, I.G.; R. Reader, S.S.; Walker, Fimpleton, H. Gill, Marsden, Rolgers, W. P. Vines, Senior Deacon 1570; Roberts, Beer, Ottawell, Langton, Woodend, Worthington, Thomas, Moss, Williamson (Tyler), Dr. Macbeth, Lewis, Griffiths, Lansing, and Barrow. The representatives of the Klirkdale Lodge, No. 1756, were Bros. E. Johnston, W.M.; Gick, S.W.; Ferguson, J.W.; Mitton, Treasurer; Bargery, S.D.; Hay, J.D.; Grierson, Sec.; West, S.S.; Marshall, J.S.; Thornton, and T. Singleton; and from other lodges there were present Bros. R. Brown, P.M. 241; J. Winsor, W.M. 241; John Latta, S.D. 241; T. M'Wear, P.M. 1035; J. M'Wear, W.M. 1035; G. Sculthorpe, P.M. 1035; R. R. Forshaw, S.W. 1035; T. Fozzard, P.M. 1035; J. P. Bryan, 1035; Crosby, 823; J. Atkinson, Sec. 1609; Wade, 241; G. G. Walmsley, 292; Abram, 1393; Barlow, 1713; Whitehead, 673; Lyon, J.D. 1713; H. Burrows, P.M. 673; R. R. Martin, P.M. 1094; H. Davidson, 1393; Jones, 1264; Johnson, 249; Hunter, 249; Macindoe, 1796; E. T. Ingham, 1620; H. Gribbin, 1356; Jones, J.W. 292; J. C. Fish, 1264; Hindhaugh, 1490 (Bengal); L. Peake, 1035; Gordon, 1035; S. K. Gardham, 1035; Dr. M'Gregor, 680, and others. There were also present at the funeral Mr. James Sykes, Mr. P. Sykes, and Mr. J. D. M'Gregor, friends of the deceased. Each Past Master of the Walton Lodge carried a beautiful wreath of white camellias to throw into the grave, and all the brethren carried sprigs of acacia for the same purpose. The brethren, wearing white gloves and ties, after marshalling at the Skelmersdale Hall proceeded to the deceased brother's late residence, in Westminster-road, where they were joined by the relatives and near friends. All the shops and places of business in the vicinity were closed in respect for the occasion. The procession took its way to the parish church, Walton, where it was met by Bro. Rev. Dr. Hyde, J.W. 1086, and Chaplain, who began the burial service. The churchyard was crowded with sympathising spectators, and the brethren and friends quite filled the sacred edifice. The service was most impressively carried out by the rev. Chaplain, and at its close sprigs of acacia were thrown into the grave by all the brethren. At the close of the burial service, Bro. the Rev. Dr. Hyde gave a short address. He said that the beautiful service just read by him required no addition from him—that service, so full of comfort for survivors and hope for those who were gone. Still he could not refrain from saying a few words with reference to their late brother, Bro. Archer. Here, in his case, hope was exchanged for assurance. They parted with their brother, not with the hope only, but with the assurance that "we have committed his body to the ground in sure and certain hope of his resurrection to eternal life." As he lived, so he died, a peaceful, truthful Christian. May our end be like his, and may we be enabled, by Divine help, to leave as good a name behind us as our late brother has done. At the conclusion of the most impressive ceremony the brethren returned to Skelmersdale Hall, and separated after partaking of luncheon. The funeral arrangements were well carried out by Bro. Croxton.

LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

The monthly meeting of the Lodge of Benevolence was held on Wednesday evening at Freemasons' Hall. Bro. Joshua Nunn, Senior Vice-President, occupied the President's chair; Bro. James Brett, Junior Vice-President, the chair of Senior Vice-President; and Bro. W. T. Howe, E.P., the chair of Junior Vice-President. The other brethren present were Bros. Henry Garrod, P.M. 749; S. Rawson, P.D.G.M. China; Thos. Cubitt, P.G.P.; Charles Atkins, P.M. 27; Griffiths Smith, P.G.S.; W. Mann, P.M. 187; J. M. Klenck, P.M. 1339, &c.; Charles Frederick Hogard, P.M. 204; W. H. Perryman, P.M. 3; George D. Steggs, J. Adamson, H. Roberts, C. C. Bell, Chas. Davy, G. W. Dyer, John Holden, E. M. Hubbuck, W. West Smith, Charles H. Webb, Neville Green, Thos. Smith, G. P. Britten, F. G. Baker, John Constable, George Bibby, A. M. Thomas, J. H. Matthews, Alfred Withers, John Cooper, R. W. Chamberlain, Wm. Henry Farnfield, Edward K. Parr, George Free, G. Macdonald, H. A. Stacey, R. H. Blatchford, M. D. Loewenstark D. M. Belfrage, J. Newton, William Stephens, Edwin Bonner, B. W. Swallow, Hy. J. Avery, William Richards, E. J. Bumstead, W. R. Marsh, John Hervey, G.S.; H. G. Buss, Assistant G.S.; and A. A. Pendlbury.

The new list comprised no less than thirty-eight cases. The brethren, after sitting more than four hours, relieved thirty-four of these cases, with sums amounting in the whole to £639. One case was dismissed, one was withdrawn, and two cases were deferred.

WEST YORKSHIRE MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

The following was referred to in a leader last week, but was left out owing to pressure on our space:—

1. The Institution shall be called the "West Yorkshire Masonic Benevolent Institution."
2. The objects of the Institution shall be:—
 - (A) The boarding, clothing, and educating, wholly or partially, the children of deceased brethren, and the children of brethren who, from misfortune, are prevented from properly educating or providing for their children.
 - (B) Assisting the advancement of any such child on leaving school.
 - (C) The granting of annuities to aged and decayed Freemasons and the widows of Freemasons.

3. The Provincial Grand Master and the Deputy Provincial Grand Master shall be, respectively, ex-officio, President and Vice-President of the Institution.

4. The Institution shall be managed by a Committee of twenty members, who, together with the Treasurer, shall be elected at the annual general meeting of the donors and subscribers.

5. The Chairman and Vice-Chairman shall be elected by the Committee, which shall meet monthly, at such time and place as they shall appoint. The Committee shall appoint a Secretary.

6. The funds of the Institution shall be provided by bequests, donations, and annual subscriptions.

7. A donation of £5 shall entitle the donor to two votes for life; and a like number for every additional £5.

8. A lodge or chapter making a donation of £10 shall be entitled to two votes; and one vote for every additional £5.

9. A lodge, chapter, or individual subscribing 5s. per annum shall have one vote at every election of children or annuitants; and one vote for every additional 5s.

10. The petitioning lodge of any candidate shall contribute not less than one-tenth of the annual cost thereof; and shall also be responsible to the Committee for the due appropriation of all grants made to such candidate.

11. All bequests and donations shall be invested, and also such portion of the surplus funds above annual expenditure as the Committee shall from time to time deem advisable.

12. The Trustees to be appointed as shall be hereafter determined.

13. No funds of the Institution shall be expended on buildings.

14. No child shall be eligible whose father has not been for five consecutive years a subscribing member of a regular lodge within the province of West Yorkshire, except in case of death, or of his becoming incapacitated by blindness, paralysis, or infirmity, from earning a livelihood.

15. No Mason who has not been a subscribing member of a regular lodge within the province for five consecutive years, and no widow whose late husband has not been a subscribing member for three consecutive years, shall be eligible for an annuity.

16. The annual general meeting shall be held in the month of June, at such time and place as the Committee may appoint.

17. That when, and as soon as any child shall be elected to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys or Girls, or when any annuitant shall be elected to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, they shall cease to be the recipients of the benefits of this Institution.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The General Committee of this Institution met on Thursday last, at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. E. Letchworth in the chair. The other brethren present were Bros. A. H. Tattershall, H. M. Levy, Herbert Dicketts, Francis H. Webb, Henry Venn, S. Rosenthal, E. Cox, Thos. Kingston, R. B. Webster, W. F. C. Moutrie, James E. Peters, (Lieut.-Col.) Wm. Paas, Thos. Cubitt, H. Muggidge, Peter de Lande Long, Dr. Hope, Joshua Nunn, Thomas W. White, J. Faulkner, W. Baily, H. Massey (Freemason), and F. R. W. Hedges (Secretary).

Two candidates were placed on the list for the October election.

The following brethren were proposed for the House Committee for election at the next meeting:—Bros. Edward Cox, H. A. Dubois, W. Hops, M.D., E. Letchworth, Pete, De Lande Long, E. Mather, Joshua Nunn, Col. Peters, J. A. Rucker, Griffiths Smith, A. H. Tattershall, Thomas White, R. Warner Wheeler, Frank Richardson, Charles Hammerton, and John Mason.

The propositions for the Audit Committee were Bros. W. Baily, J. G. Chancellor, Herbert Dicketts, Thomas Kingston, H. C. Levander, W. Roebuck, R. B. Webster, H. Venn, James Cuthbush, H. M. Levy, and Robert Berridge.

The Committee then adjourned.

CONSECRATION OF THE ROYAL NAVAL MARK LODGE, No. 239.

The consecration of this new Mark lodge took place at No. 2, Red Lion-square, on Friday, the 18th inst. After the ceremony of advancement the lodge was consecrated to Mark Masonry by R.W. Bro. C. F. Matier, P.G.W., in a most correct and impressive manner, assisted by V.W. Bro. Dewar, Grand Asst. Sec., and W. Bro. Hyde Pullen, P.G.S.B.

Bro. Matier afterwards installed Bro. Stephen Baston Wilson as W.M. of the lodge, who thereupon appointed and invested his officers.

Bros. C. F. Matier, Frederick Binckes, and Donald M. Dewar were unanimously elected honorary members of the lodge.

Amongst the brethren present we observed, in addition to those mentioned above, Bros. Mothersill, Hart, Brett, Homann, Healey, Homann, jun., Chapman, Pulley, and Glasspool.

The brethren afterwards dined at the Albion Hotel, Southampton-street.

The Standard of Wednesday last announced that the Rev. R. J. Simpson had declined the Bishopric of Barbadoes, but on the following day it stated that this was an error. The rev. gentleman had declined the suggestion of a deputation from the Synod of Jamaica.

DISTRICT GRAND LODGE OF MALTA.

The usual half-yearly meeting of this District Grand Lodge was held on Thursday, the 10th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Valletta. The District Grand Lodge was opened in ample form at 8.30 p.m., R.W. Bro. William Kingston, D.G.M., on the throne. Present: W. Bros. Chev. E. Rosenbusch, D.D.G.M.; A. M. Broadley, D.G.S.W.; W. Watson, D.G.J.W.; G. Legond, D. G. Treas.; Capt. F. W. Beechey, P.D.G.J.W.; C. Riechelmann, P.D.G.J.W.; W. Rotherham, P.D.G. Registrar; and Starkie, as D.G. Sec.; and many other Grand Officers, together with the Masters, Past Masters, and Wardens of all the lodges in the district, and many visiting brethren.

The minutes of the last meeting held on the 24th September, 1878, were read and confirmed, and those of the Committee of the Board of General Purposes held on the 3rd inst. were read and adopted.

The R.W.D.G.M. then nominated and invested the officers of D.G.L. for the ensuing year. He had, after much consideration, decided upon appointing the present D.G.S.W., Bro. Broadley, W.M. of Ancient Carthage Lodge, No. 1717, Tunis, to the office of D.D.G.M., which he did, with the hearty concurrence of W. Bro. Rosenbusch, the present D.D.G.M., who had discharged the duties in a most efficient manner. W. Bro. Broadley was obligated and invested, the D.G.M. remarking that as his visit to Malta would be short, and availing himself of the presence of all the Masters of the lodges in his district, he would take the opportunity to read the patent of W. Bro. Broadley's appointment. After which, the D.G.M. appointed the following brethren as officers of D.G.L. for the ensuing year, to each of whom, on investing them, he delivered a short address, impressing upon them the importance of the duties of their respective officers, viz.:

- Bro. Riechelmann, P.M. 407... D.G.S.W.
- " C. E. Coffey, W.M. 349... D.G.J.W.
- " W. Dahu, W.M. 407... D.G. Reg.
- " Rev. G. N. Godwin, J.D. 349... D.G. Chap.
- " J. W. Starkey, Sec. 349... D.G. Sec.
- " W. J. Jones, S.W. 349... D.G.S.D.
- " G. Crabtree, S.W. 515... D.G.J.D.
- " Professor S. Souiller, 1717... D.G. S. of W.
- " Professor H. Stilon, J.W. 515... D.G. D. of C.
- " E. Grebbell, Sec. 407... D.G. Swd. Br.
- " A. B. Tagliaferro, 349... D.G. Std. Br.
- " J. A. Matthews, 407... D.G. Org.
- " G. Westrup, 515... D.G. Puist.

W. Bro. Segond (W.M. 515) was unanimously re-elected D.G. Treasurer for the ensuing year, and Bro. Beck, D.G. Tyler. These officers were duly invested.

The D.G.M. then stated that he had received several letters of apology from members who were unable to attend the meeting, and read those from Bro. J. H. Stevens, the acting British Consul-General at Tunis, S.W. 1717, and from Bro. the Chevalier Tului de la Tunisie, Imperial German Consul at Tunis, also a member of No. 1717. He then requested the D.D.G.M. to translate to the meeting a letter in Italian from the W.M. of the Italian lodge, Risorgimento, at Tunis, containing fraternal greetings and good wishes. The D.G.M. then called upon the W.M.'s present to name D.G. Stewards for the ensuing year, when W. Bro. Coffey named Bro. R. F. King for No. 349; W. Bro. Dahu named Bros. Birch and Stanley for No. 407. W. Bros. Segond and Broadley both expressed their desire to reserve their appointments. The D.G.M. expressed the great satisfaction he felt in reviewing the very prosperous condition of Masonry in his district. Referring to the oldest of all the lodges, that of St. John and St. Paul, he warmly praised the great exertions of W. Bro. Watson during the past year, which were being ably followed up by the present W.M., Bro. Coffey. The Union Lodge was in a very flourishing state, and was on the point of investing a part of its available funds in Consols; the condition of the Zetland Lodge was also very satisfactory, whilst the progress made by the Lodge of Ancient Carthage, at Tunis, was extraordinary, and owing to the great zeal displayed by the D.D.G.M., Bro. Broadley, W.M., the roll of members exceeded one hundred. He had the pleasure of visiting this lodge in June, 1878, and was much gratified with the satisfactory manner in which all the books, &c., of the lodge were kept, and with the good feeling and harmony that prevailed all the members. Tunis having become such an important part of his district, he had appointed W. Bro. Broadley his D.D.G.M. for the ensuing year, feeling confident that that brother would zealously follow the excellent example of his predecessor in office, Bro. Rosenbusch.

Bro. Broadley, in returning thanks, assured the D.G.M. that every member of No. 1717 considered it a high privilege to belong to the district over which he had so long and successfully presided. The D.G.M. then referred to the state of the funds of D.G.L., and remarked that £150 had been invested in Consols. No further business being before the meeting the D.G.L. was closed in ample form at 10 p.m.

The officers and members of D.G.L. and many of the visitors adjourned to a banquet, which was presided over by the D.G.M. After the toasts of "The Queen and the Craft," and "The M.W.G.M., the Prince of Wales," had been proposed by the D.G.M., and responded to most enthusiastically, the D.D.G.M., Bro. Broadley, proposed in appropriate terms "The Health of the D.G.M., Bro. Kingston." He said the D.G.M. had in D.G.L. referred in flattering terms to the flourishing state of the lodges in the district, and the zeal and activity displayed by those who ruled over them, but he felt sure that the brethren would agree with him that the satisfactory condition of these Masonic bodies was chiefly due to the great exertions, Masonic knowledge, and wide popularity of their chief ruler. The present meeting was peculiarly interesting, as the D.G.M., Bro. Kingston, had now completed the first decade of his rule. These remarks of the D.D.G.M. were received most cordially, and the toast was responded to in the heartiest manner.

The D.G.M. warmly thanked the brethren for the kind manner with which the toast of his health had been received, and proposed "The Health of the P.D.D.G.M., Bro. Rosenbusch," whom he most cordially thanked for the valuable aid he had rendered him during his two years' tenure of office, and testified to his unflinching zeal for the prosperity of Masonry in the district.

W. Bro. Rosenbusch briefly replied in suitable terms.

The D.G.M. then proposed "The Health of the newly-appointed D.D.G.M., W. Bro. Broadley," of whose indefatigable zeal during the past two years as the W.M. of Ancient Carthage, and the successful manner in which he had advanced English Masonry in Tunis, he could not speak too highly. The toast was cordially received with the accustomed honours.

The D.D.G.M. having returned thanks, gratefully alluded to the fraternal conduct of his friend Bro. Rosenbusch, who had done all that laid in his power to further his appointment. He then referred to the visit of the D.G.M. to Tunis in June last, who had braved the heat of a tropical summer, and by his exertions had done much good work in Tunis in the cause of Masonry. Speaking of Masonry in that part of Africa, he traced its history for a considerable time, and said that the Lodge of Ancient Carthage numbered amongst the hundred members composing it brethren of no less than seven different nationalities, and five different creeds, who all worked together with the greatest harmony, and were all united by their willing allegiance to the Grand Lodge of England. Bro. Broadley, in conclusion, referred to the R.A. Chapter, No. 1717, and the valuable assistance rendered by M.E.Z. Comp. Rotherham in its foundation. He congratulated the D.G.L. upon the appointment of so excellent a Mason to the S.W. chair for the ensuing year, and proposed his health, as well as the health of all the D.G. Officers who had been appointed that evening.

The toast was enthusiastically received, and W. Bro. Rotherham returned thanks.

A telegram of congratulation from Dr. Funaro and the officers of the Italian lodge, Risorgimento, at Tunis, was received by the D.G.M. during the banquet and communicated to the brethren, who warmly appreciated this token of goodwill.

Several other toasts were given and responded to heartily during the course of the evening, which was most enjoyable to all present.

The brethren at Tunis have presented the D.G.M. with a very handsome album, containing views of the city and neighbourhood, in remembrance of his visit in June, 1878, and of the recollections connected with it. The dedication is signed by the principal officers of Ancient Carthage and Kingston Mark Lodges, and of the Royal Arch Chapter, No. 1717. The Kingston Mark Lodge was founded to perpetuate the memory of the D.G.M.'s visit to Africa.

SERIOUS ILLNESS OF LORD SKELMERSDALE.

On Thursday, the 17th inst., a memorial stone to the memory of the late Rector of North Meols was laid in the walls of All Saints' Church, Southport, by Admiral Barton. The church is just now undergoing alterations, it being enlarged so that it will be made to accommodate, when completed, about 1200 persons. The land for the erection of the sacred edifice, as well as an endowment, was given by Mrs. Charles Hesketh. The cost of the alterations will be about £4500. At the laying of the memorial stone there was a very large attendance of those interested in the Church movement. The memorial stone should have been laid by Bro. the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, D.G.M., R.W.P.G.M. West Lancashire, but a letter was received from Lady Skelmersdale to the effect that his lordship was suffering from bronchial catarrh and considerable fever, but that the worst symptoms were over.

Masonic and General Tidings.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.—The Earl of Zetland, Prov. G.M. of Freemasons for the N. and E. Riding of Yorkshire, will preside at the next anniversary festival of this Institution in 1880. We doubt not that he will be strongly supported by our Yorkshire brethren.

The Fifteen Sections will be worked at La Tolerance Lodge of Instruction, No. 538, held at the Green Dragon, 2, Maddox-street, W., on Wednesday evening, 30th inst., when Bro. J. Hurdell, I.G. 1348, Hon. Sec. of the lodge of instruction, will preside. Lodge will be opened at 7 p.m.

The installation of E. Companions Mark Samuel Larham, as Z., Thomas Poore, as H., and Richard Noakes Field, as J., of the Panmure Royal Arch Chapter, No. 720, will take place at the Horn's Tavern, Kennington, S.E., on Monday, the 12th of May, at five p.m. The Installing Principal on this occasion will be ex-Companion James Stevens, P.Z., and Scribe E. of the chapter.

The installation meeting of the Northern Counties Lodge, No. 406, will take place on Wednesday next, the 30th inst., at the Freemasons' Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne, when Bro. John Page, S.W., will be installed into the chair of K.S. by Bro. Robert L. Armstrong, P.G.P., the presiding W.M. The Prov. Grand Officers will be present on the occasion.

Major A. W. O. Saunders has been installed as Right Worshipful District Grand Master of the Madras Freemasons.

A Shakespearian menu! Good. The plats are well garnished, too, thanks to the wit of Comp. Walter Wellsman, M.E.Z., who has arranged them suitably to the Bard of Avon's Natal day, when St. Dunstan's Chapter enjoyed a consecration banquet. The menu itself is adorned by a photograph of W.W. himself, by Mayman of Fleet-street, and the M.E.Z.—Jon't ask who they are—are warned—from "Hamlet" that "brevity is the soul of wit," while the Second and Third Principals are informed,—from "The Merry Wives" that they are "Men of my Kidney," and the chapters generally—from "Othello"—that "we cannot all be masters." With such feast of reason, good digestion must have waited on appetite.—Whitehall Review.

The annual festival of the Wellington Lodge of Instruction, No. 548, will be held at the lodge house, the White Swan, High-street, Deptford, on Monday next, the 28th inst., at seven p.m. Bro. Burnstead, P.M., and Secretary of the mother lodge, will preside, and he will be supported by several well-known brethren of the South London District.

We understand that R.W. Bro. John Fawcett, P.G.M. Durham, has decided to hold the next annual meeting of his Provincial Grand Lodge in Gateshead, under the banner of Lodges Nos. 48 and 424. The meeting will be held on or about October 21st.

The ceremony of installation will be worked at the Royal Arthur Lodge of Instruction, Princes' Head, York-road, Battersea, on Tuesday evening next, at eight o'clock. Bro. Joseph Wright, P.M., will install the S.W. of the Royal Commemoration Lodge. Brethren are kindly invited to attend.

The Fifteen Sections will be worked at the Finbury Park Lodge of Instruction, No. 1288, Earl Russell, Isledon-road, Holloway, by the members of the Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, by invitation, on Wednesday next, the 30th inst., at 7 o'clock precisely. Bro. R. G. Tolmie, W.M. 861, will preside.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Sure relief.—The weak and enervated suffer severely from nervous affections when storms of electric disturbances agitate the atmosphere. Neuralgia, gouty pains, and flying pains, very distressing to a delicate system, may be readily removed by rubbing this Ointment upon the affected part after it has been fomented with warm water. The Pills taken occasionally in the doses prescribed by the instructions keep the digestion in order, excite a free flow of healthy bile, and regenerate the impoverished blood with richer materials, resulting from thoroughly assimilated food, wanting which, the strongest must inevitably soon sink into feebleness, and the delicate find it difficult to maintain existence. Holloway's Ointment and Pills are infallible remedies.—[Advr.]

GRAND FESTIVAL.

Grand Festival of English Freemasons was held on Wednesday, the last Wednesday in April, according to ancient custom. Grand Lodge was opened shortly after five o'clock in the evening, when about five hundred brethren were present. The Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, M.W. Pro Grand Master, presided, having General Brownrigg, Provincial Grand Master for Surrey, on his right as Deputy Grand Master, and Bro. Samuel Rawson, Past District Grand Master of China, on his left as Past Grand Master. Lord Henniker was in the Senior Grand Warden's chair, and Captain Platt, Past Junior Grand Warden, in the chair of Junior Grand Warden. The other Grand and Past Grand Officers present were Bros. Sir Albert W. Woods (Garter), G.D.C.; Sir M. Costa, P.G.W.; A. J. McIntyre, G.R.; Col. Shadwell H. Clerke, G.D.; Erasmus Wilson, G.D.; Dr. Jabez Hogg, P.G.D.; James Glaisher, P.G.D.; J. M. Case, P.G.D.; E. E. Wendt, G. Sec.; German Correspondence; A. J. Duff Filer, P.G.S.B.; Peter de Lande Long, P.G.D.; C. C. Dumas, P.A.G.D.C.; Robert Grey, P.G.D.; S. Leith Tomkins, P.G.D.; John A. Rucker, P.G.D.; Francis Robinson, P.G.A.D.C.; Joshua Nunn, P.G.S.B.; Thomas Fenn, P.G.D.; Charles W. C. Hutton, Past Grand Deacon; Henry Gustavus Buss, Assistant Grand Secretary; J. Tyler; A. A. Pendlebury, W. Dodd, W. Lee, Neville Green, James Willing, J. Clewom, John Allen, Herbert Dicketts, Colonel James E. Peters, William Stephens, Colonel Somerville Burney, George Kenning, H. Massey (Freemason), and John White.

After Grand Lodge had been formally opened, Bro. John Hervey, G.S., read the minutes of last Quarterly Communication so far as they related to the election of Most Worshipful Grand Master. These having been duly confirmed, Sir Albert Woods (Garter), G.D.C., proclaimed his Royal Highness, by all his titles, Grand Master of the Order.

The Earl of Carnarvon then said it was his duty to announce the appointment again this year of himself as Pro Grand Master, and the announcement was received with several rounds of applause. When the applause had ceased, his Lordship said that though the office was not an elective one he felt deeply grateful for the proof the brethren had just given that he had the confidence of Grand Lodge.

Sir Albert Woods then proclaimed the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon as Pro Grand Master, and the customary grand salute was given.

The Earl of Carnarvon next said that the Grand Master had again appointed Lord Skelmersdale as Deputy Grand Master, and he regretted that in consequence of indisposition his lordship was not present with the brethren that day.

The following brethren were then announced as Grand Officers for the year, and those who were present were duly invested with the collars, badges, and jewels of their respective offices:—

- Lord Kensington, M.P. S.G.W.
- Major-Gen. the Hon. Somerset G. Calthorpe J.G.W.
- Rev. W. A. Hill G. Chap.
- Rev. Chas. Spencer Stanhope Asst. G. Chap.
- Lieut.-Col. John Creaton G. Treas.
- A. J. McIntyre, Q.C. G. Reg.
- J. B. Monckton Pres. B.G.P.

- John Hervey G. Sec.
- Ernst Emil Wendt G. Sec. Ger. Cor.
- Reginald Bird S.G.D.
- George Mellor S.G.D.
- Horatio Lloyd J.G.D.
- Matthew Clark J.G.D.
- John Gibson G.S. of W.
- Sir Albert W. Woods (Garter) G.D. of Cer.
- Sheriff George Burt Asst. G.D. of Cer.
- Samuel Mullens G.S.B.
- Christopher Willing G. Org.
- H. G. Buss Asst. G. Sec.
- W. Wilson G. Purs.
- James Kench Asst. G. Purs.
- C. B. Payne G. Tyler.

The Earl of Carnarvon next said he had to declare that the Most Worshipful Grand Master appointed Worshipful Bro. W. T. Howe, Past Grand Pursuivant, to take rank and wear the clothing of a Past Grand Pursuivant.

Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary, at the request of the Earl of Carnarvon, read the following list of Grand Stewards for the year:—

- Alderman John Whitaker Ellis Lodge 1
- John Batley 2
- Horace James Browne 4
- Henry James 5
- Captain Wm. Robert G. Farmer 6
- Edward John Beale 8
- John N. Smith 14
- Robert Paulson Spice 21
- Edward Charles Davies 23
- Wm. Coppard Beaumont 26
- Hilton C. Barker 29
- Thomas Birch Dyer (M.D.) 46
- Thomas Reynolds 58
- John Thornton Chancellor 60
- Robert Winter Sprague 91
- Arthur Steains 99
- Edward Cutler 197
- George Plucknett, jun. 259

The Earl of Carnarvon again rose, and said: There is only one piece of business that yet remains to be discharged, and it is that I should announce to you that Bro. William James Hughan, Past Senior Grand Deacon of England, has compiled a numerical and numismatical register of lodges which form the Grand Lodge of England, and he states in the letter which accompanies this book that he desires to present it for the acceptance of Grand Lodge on this, the annual Grand Festival, and that it is the first work on English Masonic numismatics, and the first which has given the arms and bearings of Grand Lodge. I cannot say myself I have had the opportunity of examining it closely, but it seems to me to be very carefully drawn up and to be embellished by some very well executed drawings, particularly some of the medals and jewels of the Craft, and I have no doubt it will be the pleasure of Grand Lodge to give their thanks to Bro. Hughan for this presentation copy.

The brethren having signified their assent by applause, no other work remaining to be done, Grand Lodge was closed in ample form.

The brethren then adjourned to Freemasons' Tavern, where a sumptuous banquet was provided by Bro. Alfred Best, the proprietor, to the order of the Grand Stewards. Between two or three hundred brethren sat down, the Earl of Carnarvon presiding. Most of the Grand Officers and Past Grand Officers who attended Grand Lodge were present, together with the Grand Stewards, Past Grand Stewards, and the Grand Stewards for the coming year, whose names were announced in Grand Lodge by Grand Secretary.

When dinner was over grace was sung, and the usual toasts given at Grand Festival were proposed.

The Earl of Carnarvon, in giving the toast of "The Queen," said: Brethren, on these occasions the old saying is perfectly true, that "brevity is the soul of wit;" but there is one toast which can never be omitted from the meeting of all loyal Englishmen, let alone Masons; it is the toast which comes first and foremost, which is most loyal, most ancient, most acceptable to us all, "The Health of Her Majesty the Queen."

The toast having been most cordially drunk, was followed by the National Anthem.

The Earl of Carnarvon next said: Brethren, in the old, and I suppose I may venture to say the unenlightened, days of Freemasonry, it was considered almost high treason in the Craft to admit the name of any woman. Since then we have mended our manners, and I rejoice to see so many bright eyes looking down upon us this evening. But there is the name of one lady, a very great lady in England, for whom we make still a great exception, and whom we always honour second on our list. May it always be so. It is many years in the life of this generation now since the Princess of Wales first landed on these shores. With every year that has rolled by we have learned to know her better, to admire her more, to accept her, if it is possible, more and more as the adopted daughter of this country (hear, hear); and though many years have rolled by she seems to us as fair, as beautiful now as the hour she landed; and, as our experience has taught us, infinitely more prized and deeply loved. Brethren, "The Health of Her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales and all the Royal Family."

The Earl of Carnarvon: Brethren, the next toast that I have to propose is, I am sure, a very welcome one to you. There are, doubtless, many here who were present this time last year, and if so, they will remember His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, our Grand Master, presided on that occasion. The Craft gave him one of those hearty and cordial welcomes that the Craft alone can give. He is prevented this year from attending, but though absent from us, I doubt not that he carries us in his mind; and of this at least we may be sure, that he is present in our minds this evening. Brethren, the period during which His Royal Highness has ruled over us has been one signalised in the history of English Freemasonry by a continual progress and prosperity. Lodges have been added, and perhaps in almost greater numbers than was desirable; members have flowed in upon us, which have been, as far as I know, no check, or stint, or limit to the prosperity of the Craft; and though prosperity teaches ever the lesson of caution, still we may truly and fairly connect that prosperity with the rule of our Grand Master. Brethren, let me give you "The Health of His Royal Highness the Most Worshipful Grand Master of England."

Sir Henry Edwards, Prov. G.M. for West Yorkshire: My Lord, Ladies, and Brethren, it is with extreme diffidence I rise to propose the next toast, which I was not aware was going to be entrusted to me till the moment I came into this room. I am sorry I did not know it sooner, as I might have prepared some remarks to put it before you in all its bearings, and dilated upon the merits of our Most Worshipful Pro Grand Master. In Yorkshire and Lancashire there is no one living better known than he is, though he has not come among us very frequently; but the more we see of him, the more we like him; and I assure you that on the last grand occasion he visited us it was perfectly enchanting to see the whole of a vast room filled with people who came to meet him, and to hear it ringing with applause. I say this to his face—Lord Carnarvon, as Pro Grand Master, is the most popular Pro Grand Master we ever had. I think this is a case in which we may mention, without fear of contradiction, that in public, as well as in private life, Lord Carnarvon is well known. He has been well known from the time of his boyhood to the time when he was at a public school, to the time he left school, at the university where he distinguished himself, as we all know; and since then as a statesman and as a public man he has earned the respect of every man he came in contact with. I cannot help saying he has earned the respect of every man in the kingdom, as a politician and as a private gentleman. Now, my lord, it is a great gratification to me to have to stand up here to propose your health, and I hope that many years to come, in different parts of the country where we so often meet on these festive occasions, I may again have the great privilege—for privilege I count it in no small degree—of meeting you. We have amongst us, as the heads of our Order—I say nothing more now about our Grand Master, as we have already drunk his health, or Lord Skelmersdale, and others I could name—but I must say that it will be a pleasure, and a great pleasure, to all to respond to the toast, I am about to propose to you "The Health of Lord Carnarvon, Most Worshipful Pro Grand Master of English Freemasons," with all the honours.

The toast having been received most enthusiastically, The Earl of Carnarvon, in reply, said—Brethren, I hardly know how to find adequate words in which to convey my feelings to all of you for the kind reception you have given my name. I have been now so familiarised by your kindness on a hundred occasions that I have almost to repeat the same formula each time we meet over and over again, and yet pray believe me that the words are not the words of mere idle compliment and form, but they flow from the inmost depths of my heart; and I assure you that I never come among brother Masons, not only without a sense of their deep kindness and their sympathy, but also without feeling how very little I have really done, how little I ever can do, to make an adequate and fitting return for that kindness. Brethren, the last time that I had the pleasure of listening to the genial eloquence of my kind friend, Sir Henry Edwards, it was in his own province, where, I will venture to say, no man ever won greater or more deserved popularity. He made me feel that Yorkshiremen were not only among the most noble but that they were among the most kindly men in England, and I can assure you that not only has it been a great pleasure to me, holding the office which I do, but that I have also conceived it to be my duty, as far as I could, whenever business or any other cause leads me to other parts of the country, to become known to my provincial brethren, and to communicate with them fairly face to face upon all those subjects which interest the Craft. Brethren, I will take this occasion of saying that which I have said often before, that the more London and country brethren can be brought together, the more they can understand the requirements each of the other, the more, above all, they learn, as they are certain to learn by communication, that the interests of the two are one and indivisible in the Craft, the better it is for them and for the Craft. Brethren, it has been my lot to be a Mason and to pass through various stages and degrees of Masonry now for many years—more years, perhaps, than I like quite to reckon; but I may say that, looking back on that period, whatever it is, I think I can trace many changes that have occurred in the Craft; and, I will venture to say, those changes have been all good. We had this evening in Grand Lodge, as you are aware, an interesting book presented to us, containing the register of many curious events in English Masonry running over many generations and years. How many lodges have since come into existence; how many lodges have passed away; and, again, how many lodges that seemed to have nearly died out have sprung into renewed existence, and sometimes into reinvigorated existence; and yet I venture to say that, taking all in all, the changes which have occurred since the events which that book chronicles, those changes have been all, on the whole, good and wholesome, and in the true direction of Masonry. Let me only say this, that we, as a body, must experience changes, and if we accept it in the right sense, those changes can do nothing but good to us. But let us always when accepting every change keep steadily in view the great landmarks of the Order, which the wisdom of those who went before laid down for us; so shall we prosper; so shall we hand down the great heritage committed to us, not only in unimpaired honour and credit, but even in additional strength, vigour, and reputation to succeeding Masons. (Great cheering.)

The Earl of Carnarvon: Brethren, I am sorry to trespass so frequently and so rapidly upon your patience, but there is another toast, and I cannot permit any one to take from me the privilege of proposing it to you; it is "The Health of my noble friend and brother, Lord Skelmersdale, the Deputy Grand Master." Bro. Lord Skelmersdale, I doubt not, would have been with us today, as he has been on so many occasions, but for indisposition. I regretted to hear that he was detained by illness, but I rejoiced afterwards to hear that illness had much passed away. I regretted, however, that it had not so far abated to allow of his being here to-night. Though he is absent we shall delight to honour him with this toast, and we shall remember him with every good wish and hearty hope that before long he may be entirely restored to health, and able to take part in all our entertainments.

Col. Whitwell, P.G.J.W.: Most Worshipful Pro Grand Master of England, with your permission, and at your request, I rise to ask you and the brethren to join with me in drinking the next toast. Hitherto the toast has been purely personal. I ask the Grand Lodge of England now to expand their feelings, and extend them to the brother lodges of Scotland and Ireland. Within the territory of Her Majesty the Queen three independent nationalities of Masons exist; but the Pro Grand Master told us though there is divisibility, there is union (cheers); and in this case while there is a trinity of lodges, there is unity of brotherhood. (Cheers.) Situated, as my province is, close to the brethren of Scotland, we know the friendly feeling that exists between the Scotch and English Masons, and the interchange of international relations. For Auld Lang Syne we will remember Scotland for once. (Cheers.) And if with me you had gone to Ireland you would have experienced the cordiality of the brother Masons of that interesting island. (Hear, hear.) We feel the nationality of Masons is maintained with dignity, and yet through all there is, while separated, that identity, so that we cease to forget there is any difference in our localities, and when I meet a brother Mason in any part of the world he is our brother Mason. (Cheers.) If I go to Canada I meet a number of my Scotch brethren. On the plains of India, and in the battle fields of that country, many a Scotch Mason has grasped the hand of an English brother in the hour of danger. This is the principle that unites us one and all, and I am sure you will drink enthusiastically "Prosperity and Success to the brother Grand Lodges of Scotland and Ireland." (Cheers.)

Bro. Eneas J. McIntyre, G.C., Grand Registrar: Most Worshipful Pro Grand Master, at the request and command of the Pro Grand Master I rise for the purpose of proposing the next toast, and I will say that it is a toast which will always be received among Masons with the greatest satisfaction, and, with respect to the brother who is called upon, with great confidence; because we know the toast is well deserved, and, upon the principle of honour to whom honour is due, is always received with respect, especially by Freemasons in old England. The toast is that of the Provincial Grand Masters holding office under the Grand Master of England. As the Grand Master of England, as head of the Craft, receives the respect of all Masons throughout the whole country, so the Provincial Grand Masters in provinces and counties deserve and receive the respect of Masons who hold under their banner. In times gone by, and at the present time, the Worshipful Master has selected for office those brethren who have distinguished themselves in the Craft, and hold high positions in the provinces. We know a great number of the Provincial Grand Masters of England. I am glad to say on this occasion we have one among us who holds office in one of the most distinguished and important provinces in the country, namely, the West Riding of Yorkshire; and when I mention the name of Sir Henry Edwards (cheers), who proposed the health of the Pro Grand Master on this occasion, I have only to ask you to receive him as a sample of what the other Provincial Grand Masters are, and if they are all as good as he (and I trust they are) you will not find a better body of men throughout the whole of England. I beg to propose for your acceptance the toast of "The Provincial Grand Masters of the Provinces of England," coupling with it the name of Sir Henry Edwards, the Provincial Grand Master of the West Riding of York. (Cheers.)

Sir Henry Edwards: My Lord, Ladies, and Brethren, by your favour I rise again for the second time (though I ought to make an apology for so doing), to respond to the toast proposed just now. I have been for the last four years a Provincial Grand Master of England, under the favour of our noble chief, and I may say this, whatever the country may think of our Provincial Grand Masters in their separate counties they ought all to be under great obligations to those men who take the trouble, and who spend so much of their time in attending to the interests and the duties of Freemasons in their respective counties, and I say that without hesitation, for I am quite sure it will be accepted by the Masonic body generally as a truism. (Cheers.) Without a good chief what are you worth; without good officers how can a regiment work? The fact is that it is through good generals and good officers that the Masonic body throughout this great country of England, and also of Scotland, is worked in the manner it is at the present moment, and I trust it is done to the satisfaction of those over whom they preside. In the West Riding of Yorkshire I have authority over 3500 Masons, and a more loyal body of men never lived on the face of the earth. (Cheers.) I speak of the Masonic body in the West Riding of Yorkshire in every respect; their number is increasing year by year, and everything is done that is necessary in the interests of Masonry. I am very much obliged for the honour you have done me and the Provincial Grand Masters in drinking our healths. (Cheers.)

The Pro Grand Master: When on these annual occasions we meet for the purpose of Grand Festival, it is not only to take stock of all that has happened in the year, but it is also to announce the appointment of those Grand Officers who discharge the executive duties of the Craft during the ensuing twelve months. The duties that devolve on those brethren are very weighty and great duties; they are the duties of administration; they are bound to support the Pro Grand Master (cheers); to help him in his work in Grand Lodge; they are bound to familiarise themselves with all the principles of Masonry, not only to practise them here in London, but to communicate them to their own provinces elsewhere. (Cheers.) If I can judge rightly from the marked approval which Grand Lodge gave to the appointments which were announced this evening, I may augur very satisfactorily indeed for the tenure of office of those brethren appointed to-day. (Cheers.) We wish them all success, and I am quite certain of this, that in the duty on which they now enter they will always receive the hearty and cordial support of Grand Lodge and of every loyal Mason and member of the Craft. I have to give you with this toast "The Health of the Newly-Appointed Grand Wardens and other Grand Officers, both Present and Past," remembering those who have done good service, as well as paying honour to those who are to do it in the future, and I beg to couple with it the name of the noble Lord Kensington, who has to-day accepted the great and important office of Senior Grand Warden in Grand Lodge. (Cheers.)

Lord Kensington: Most Worshipful Pro Grand Master and Brethren, in obedience to the commands of the Pro Grand Master I rise to return thanks for the toast which has just been proposed by him, and which you have just so kindly received, namely, the toast of the Grand Officers, Past and Present, of Grand Lodge. I venture to think that I labour under some disadvantage in rising on this occasion to return thanks for the toast. In the first place, this is the first time I have had the honour of being present in Grand Lodge; in the second place, I am afraid I must lay myself open to the charge of showing some disrespect to the Worshipful Pro Grand Master, by being compelled to turn my back on him while I address you (a laugh); but I assure you when I look round and see so many officers, Past and Present, in the lodge, who would have returned thanks in a much more able manner than I can, I almost begin to think I wish the Pro Grand Master might have made a better choice and selection in calling on some one else to return thanks for this toast; but I hope, when I return thanks for those whose spokesman I am on this occasion, as well as for myself, for the great honour conferred on me in placing me in the Senior Grand Warden's chair—I say I hope, in thanking you for that honour, I may also say the province to which I belong claim some honour to themselves as belonging to the Western Division of South Wales, on my being placed in the office of Senior Warden in Grand Lodge. (Cheers.) The Pro Grand Master has referred to the duties that devolve on the officers of Grand Lodge. I for one shall lay those words to heart, and those who hold office in conjunction with me I am sure will do the same, and the best assurance I can give you (and these are no idle words) is this, that my brother officers and myself will take our examples from those who preceded us in the offices we have the honour to hold (cheers), and we hope that when our year of office has expired we shall not be found wanting, but that we shall have discharged our duties to the satisfaction of the Most Worshipful Grand Master and the Pro Grand Master of this Grand Lodge. I beg to express my cordial thanks to the Pro Grand Master for the terms in which he has proposed this toast, and to you, brethren, for the kind manner in which you have received it. (Cheers.)

The Rev. C. J. Martyn: In proposing the toast which it is a pleasure to me to propose I shall be very short; but I venture to think that the toast I have the honour to propose by command of the Pro Grand Master is emphatically the toast of the evening, because it is the toast of the Masonic Charities. (Cheers.) I will not detain you with statistics of the Girls, or Boys, or the Old Men and Women, but I hope in the coming year you will try and see if you can put your hands in your pockets and help to support the Masonic Charities. (Cheers.) With this toast I beg to couple the name of Bro. Hedges. (Hear, hear.)

Bro. Hedges: My Lord and Brethren, in rising to respond to this toast, I cannot but be most deeply sensible of the honour conferred upon the Charities of our Order by this very kindly recognition on the part of the Grand Lodge of England, and while thanking you for the very cordial manner in which you have received this toast, I feel it a great privilege to be allowed this opportunity of expressing my gratitude to the Craft at large for the very liberal support which they at all times have extended to our Charities. In view, my Lord, of the approaching festival of the Girls' School, which takes place on the 14th of the coming month, on which occasion I have the honour to announce that our much esteemed newly-elected Grand Treasurer, Col. Creaton, has kindly consented to preside, I can only express my confidence that it will, as in the past, but afford another proof of the interest at all times taken by the Craft in that institution, and that on the occasion of its 91st anniversary we shall have the honour and pleasure to record another great success for the Masonic charities. (Applause.)

The Rev. R. J. Simpson: My Lord and Brethren, I have been asked to propose a toast, which, however humble among the toasts of the evening, is a toast readily proposed, and inasmuch as the Most Worshipful Pro Grand Master has proposed many toasts, and is almost physically incapable of proposing this, I beg to propose "The Health of the Grand Stewards, and Bro. Mackintosh, the Treasurer of the Grand Stewards." I am sure that this is a toast that requires no speech, more particularly as you will prefer the duty we are going to perform, by joining the ladies at the concert in the Temple, to the speech from which you are likely to escape.

Bro. Dr. Mackintosh: My Lord and Brethren, at this late hour of the evening it would be unwise in me to detain you with any long speech in reply to the toast which has just been proposed. I trust that the number of the brethren who had appeared before us this evening is a sufficient guarantee that they are pleased with the trouble we have taken in order to provide them with a comfortable banquet; and, sir, we return you our most grateful thanks for the honour you have accorded us in having presided on this occasion. We are sure that on any future occasion should that be our privilege, we shall spend as pleasant and happy an evening as we have to-night. (Cheers.)

The company then adjourned to the Temple, where a grand concert was given. The ladies and gentlemen who performed were Miss José Sherrington, Madame Antoinette Sterling, Mr. Vernon Rigby, Mr. Coates, Bro. A. Lester, Bro. H. Taylor, Bro. Chaplin Henry, Mr. Lewis Thomas, Mr. Fountain Meen, and Bro. Wilhelm Kuhe, under the direction of Bro. C. E. Willing, Grand Organist.

The whole of the arrangements for the evening reflected the greatest credit on the Board of Stewards, who were Bros. G. Findlay, 197, President; Charles T. Kingsford, 58, Sec.; Hugh R. Mackintosh, M.D., 4, Treas.; Edward Fenner, 1; Thomas Greatham, 2; Frederick Newton, 5; William T. Marriott, G.C., 6; John T. C. Winkfield, 8; Charles H. Turner, 14; John Knight Stead, 21; Robert Douglas, 23; William Fickus, 26; Spencer John Herrepath, 29; James H. Vaughan, 46; Thomas Stoward, 60; Thos. Robert Marshall, 91; Edward Caffin, 99; and John Aird, 259.

Bro. James Hayho was toast master.

REPORTS, etc., intended for insertion in current number, should reach the Office, (198, Fleet-street), by 6 o'clock p.m., on Wednesdays.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

ROYAL ALBERT LODGE (No. 907).—The installation meeting of the above lodge took place on Monday the 21st ult., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Bro. F. A. White being the Installing Officer for the second time in succession. The lodge was opened by Bro. White, who has this year occupied the chair under peculiar circumstances, and was supported by the following officers and visitors: Bros. R. Jennings, S.W., and W.M. elect; G. T. Barr, J.W.; W. H. Farnfield, Sec. and P.M.; J. A. Farnfield, Treas. and P.M.; T. Butt, S.D.; W. Wordley, J.D.; H. J. Lewis, D.C. and P.M.; S. P. Moore, J. Dennis, T. Griffiths, and T. Hastings Miller, Past Masters. Bro. F. Cozens presided at the organ, and among the visitors were Bro. F. Binckes, Secretary of Boys' School; E. P. Albert, P.M. 192, and P.G.P. Eng.; G. Anderson, S.W. 60, and G.S. Eng.; C. Coupland, P.M. 913, and P.P.G.J.W. Kent; T. G. Day, P.M. 1076, and P.G. Sup. of Works Essex; T. Saunders, P.M. 912; C. S. Salmon, P.M. 173; J. W. George, P.M. 1329; F. Bartram, P.M. 754; E. Kent, P.M. 177; J. Lancaster, S.D. 534; J. Chinnery, S.W. 145; T. Bates, I.G. 1716; E. J. Marner, 1673; H. S. Harris 569; W. E. Ruddle, 1589; J. F. Pudton, 1608; J. H. Mance, 180; J. Judge, 1178; H. Good, 1874; J. S. Johnson, 174; F. W. Farnfield, 256; L. Potts, J.W. 1716; J. W. King, I.G. 905; F. Buffen, 28; C. S. Boardman, 212; and C. Jolly, 913 (Freemason). The lodge having been opened in due form and the minutes of the last meeting confirmed, the lodge was opened to the Second Degree, and Bro. Jennings was presented, in appropriate terms, by Bro. Dennis to the Installing Officer for the benefit of installation. The ancient charges having been assented to, Bro. Jennings was presented to a Board of Installed Masters, and with the usual honours placed in the chair of K.S. He then proceeded to invest his officers as follows:—Bros. Barr, Senior Warden; Butt, J.W.; W. H. Farnfield, Sec.; J. Farnfield, Treas.; Snelgrove, S.D.; Wordley, J.D.; Lewis, D.C.; Cozens, Org.; Panter, I.G.; and Harrison, Tyler. The charges were given by Bro. White magnificently, every word being clearly articulated and eloquently rendered; the applause greeting our brother at the conclusion was both warm and unanimous. A vote of thanks, to be inscribed upon the minutes of the lodge, was then voted him, and he returned thanks suitably. The lodge having been closed in due form, a move was then made to the banquet, which having been discussed, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and heartily responded to. To that of "Lord Skelmersdale, and the rest of the Grand Officers," Bro. Albert, in response, said he rose with a great deal of pleasure to respond to the toast, but with a great deal of diffidence, because in speaking of the Grand Officers of England, and for them, he spoke of himself as one of them, and it was no easy task so to speak as not to appear egotistical. But he could say that the work of the Grand Officers was willingly done. They took a deep interest in the welfare of the Craft. He was especially proud to have been present that day, because it was a great pleasure and pride for him to see the prosperity of the lodge, and to be present at an installation ceremony so well and ably conducted. (Cheers.) On behalf of the Grand Officers, more especially Bros. Anderson, Binckes, and himself, he begged to thank them heartily for the toast. Bro. White proposed "The Health of the W.M." He said that having had the pleasure of installing him, there was yet another pleasure for him, and that was to propose his health. It was to him a very pleasing task, because Bro. Jennings was not only in name the W.M. of that lodge, but one whom they could look up to and honour as a ruler in the Craft. (Applause). He had served every office in the lodge, and it was only through some private scruples and considerations of his own that he was not W.M. twelve months ago, and then he would have held the position that he (Bro. White) held that day as I.P.M. (Cheers.) In every position Bro. Jennings had held he had done them to the satisfaction of the lodge, and he felt sure that when their W.M. left that chair, he said he would leave it with the same honour and credit that he had gained in his progress through the other chairs. He asked them to drink the toast in a bumper. (Great cheering.) The W.M., in reply, said he was very much obliged to them for the honour they had paid him. He had not much to say for himself, but should do his very best to maintain the position they had placed him in with credit to himself and honour to the lodge. The toast of "The Visitors" brought Bro. Binckes to the front, and he said he should be very short in his remarks, not because he had not an abundance of words to say to them, but because there were many more present who would have something to say to the toast. He should simply content himself with saying how delighted he was at the invitation he had received to be present, and his reception was such that he trusted some day to repeat it. Bro. Anderson as well returned thanks. Bro. Coupland expressed the pleasure he had experienced in being present as the guest of their I.P.M., Bro. White, who was a neighbour of his. He had not been in a lodge for some time where the senses were more gratified than they had been that evening. In the first place the sense of pleasure derived from beholding good Masonic work had been highly gratified; and then there was the gratification of the intellectual senses of sight and sound—the sight of a goodly number of the brethren in peace and harmony—the delightful music that gratified the sense of hearing; and last, but not least, the splendid banquet gratified the sense of taste, and the combination was so pleasing that he should not forget it for some time to come. He wished the lodge and its Master every prosperity. (Cheers.) Bro. Dennis then in eloquent terms proposed "The Health of Bro. White, the Installing Officer." He said it was his proud privilege to have been for many years a Past Master of the lodge, and in that time he had seen a great many of the brethren initiated into the mysteries of the Craft; among them were the Present Master and the Installing Officer, whom he had had the pleasure of initiating and installing. How that brother had carried out the duties of the various offices in the lodge he would leave them to say. In the name of the brethren of the lodge he asked Bro. White to accept this handsome gold Albert chain, with Past Master's jewel attached, not only as a recognition of the esteem and respect in which he was held by them, but for services rendered in installing his successor for the second time, and concluded by wishing him long life to enjoy the good wishes and support of the lodge. Bro. White said that it was the second time his health had been drunk as the Installing Officer, and the second time he had received some mark of their regard, and he felt sure he had their regard and best wishes. He might not be worthy of all their approbation, but he had endeavoured to do his duty by the Royal Albert Lodge. (Cheers.) Their W.M. was one whom he had associated with from his first night in the lodge. Bro. Dennis had told them that he had the pleasure of initiating him into Freemasonry, and he felt sure that what he then learnt would never be eradicated from his heart. He could not sit down without returning them his heartfelt thanks for many favours he had received at their hands. He hoped that with health and strength he should long be able to do good service to the lodge, and continue to deserve their best wishes. (Applause.) Bro. W. Farnfield then proposed "The Charities of the Order," and Bro. Binckes and Nell replied in suitable terms, and the former saying that he was there at the special invitation of Bro. White, who was Steward for the forthcoming festival of the Boys, and he hoped the brethren would help him in getting a good list, as the Charity was in want of all the help it could get. The other toasts were "The Secretary and Treasurer," "The Officers," and Tyler's toast. The musical direction was under Bro. Cozer's, and Bros. Chaplin Henry, Montem Smith, Carter, and Lester sang selections during the evening splendidly.

GATESHEAD.—Lodge of Industry (No. 48).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Monday last, the 28th ult., in the temporary rooms in Denmark-street. Lodge was opened in due form by the W.M., Bro. R. Whitfield, assisted by the following brethren: Bros. M. Corbitt, I.P.M.; John Wood, S.W.; J. G. Smith, J.W.; W. Brewis Elsdon, Treas.; Edward Liddell, Sec.; F. W. Middlemast, S.D.; J. Moul, J.D.; J. Boyett, I.G.; G. C. S. Liddell, S. R. Ferry, Org.; and J. Curry, Tyler; G. G. Davidson, J. W. A. Boyett, Wm. Baker, George Corbitt, A. Rhagg, Thos. Swan, R. T. Swallow, T. E. Brigham, T. Law, D. Sinclair, and others. Visitors: Bros. George Harby, W.M. 1643; J. Cook, P.M. 481; J. Marchant, P.M., and W.M. 424; J. Prbert, P.M. 424; J. Goss, H. J. Weldon, A. D. Campbell, George B. Barter, R. Waugh, George S. Sims, John Beby, M. C. Cowan, E. A. Gibson, A. Brodie, and F. A. Kelly, (Freemason). The lodge was opened in the First Degree, and after the confirmation of the minutes of the last meeting, and the Treasurer's report, Mr. Jacob Matthews was regularly initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry. The lodge was then opened in the Second Degree, when Bros. Wm. Baker and George Corbitt, were passed to the degree of Fellow Craft. Bro. Whitfield proposed, and Bro. R. H. Cook seconded, that Bros. M. Corbitt, I.P.M.; John Wood, S.W.; J. G. Smith, J.W.; Edward Liddell, Sec.; and the W.M., should form a reception committee to act in conjunction with the Borough Lodge, No. 424, to make the necessary arrangements for receiving in proper form the Provincial Grand Lodge of Durham in October. The motion was carried unanimously, the lodge was shortly afterwards closed.

PLUMSTEAD.—United Military Lodge (No. 1536).—The usual monthly meeting of the above lodge took place at the Masonic Hall, Anglesea Hill, Bro. Garbett's house, on Friday, the 18th ult., Bro. H. G. Picken, W.M., in the chair, supported by the following officers:—Bros. W. Weston, P.M.; H. Shaw, S.W.; D. Deeves, J.W.; W. Murphy, Treas.; G. Kennedy, Sec.; W. Welding, S.D.; T. Holleyman, J.D.; H. Hardy, Org.; W. A. Watkins, Steward; and J. Lackland, Tyler. Among the visitors were Bros. J. Warren, S.W. 700; G. Beaver, I.G. 700; R. Beaver, 700; A. Deans, I.G. 13; J. Hazard, 348; T. Hassell, 13; H. De Grey, 706; W. McCoy, J.D. 700; T. A. Dobson, St. David's, Edinburgh (S.C.); C. Jolly, 913 (Freemason). The business before the lodge consisted of the initiation of one candidate, and the raising of two brethren, which was happily fulfilled. The W.M. recited the A.E. charge, and worked the degree in excellent style. The case of a deceased brother's widow was then brought before the lodge by Bro. Weston, and supported by Bro. Jolly, and it was determined that one of her children should become a candidate for the Girls' School of the charity, and the contents of the broken column should be hers for her immediate wants. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned for refreshments. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were honoured, as were those of "The Master," "Past Masters," "Initiate," "Visitors," and "The Officers." Special toasts were drunk in honour of Bro. Fountain, who had just been gazetted to a commission, and who is universally respected in the lodge; to Bro. Stevens, on his return from India; and a most earnest and hearty one was drunk to the brethren in Zulu Land, Bros. Spinks, Brooks, Harris, Tims, Cook, and Field. The contents of the charity box yielded £2 2s. 6d., and it was placed in Bro. Jolly's hands for the widow's immediate wants, and, after a most enjoyable evening, the Tyler's toast finished the proceedings.

LEWISHAM.—Ravensbourne Lodge (No. 1601).—The installation meeting of this lodge was held yesterday week at the Board of Works, Catford Bridge, under the presidency of Bro. W. B. Roberts, W.M. The brethren present were Bros. Nelson Reed, S.W.; F. Burdett, J.W.; W. Taylor Jones, Chaplain and P.M.; W. G. Lemon, Treas.; Samuel Edwards, Sec.; Samuel J. Jerrard, J.D.; Edwin Howard, I.G.; C. W. Steel, D.C.; H. W. Jackson, Archibald Currie, E. Harlock, Thos. W. Willis, G. W. Murnane, H. D. Grazebrook, John Carline, R. L. Sindall, W. H. Young, A. G. Hennell, J. M. Collins, John Kimpton, L. Siebel, B. Horton, T. W. Williams, H. M. Heal, Alfred Thompson, James Whitehead, Alfred Layton, D. W. Joyce, J. Terry (Hon.), F. E. Wilkinson, C. W. Thompson, P.M.; and visitors: Bros. F. Belcher, M.M. Zetland, 655; T. J. Hanley, M.M. Universal, 181; H. Keeble, W.M. Mount Lebanon, 73; G. Hartman, Pilgrim, 238; John Layton, P.M. Universal, 181; Albert J. Pearce, W.S. Carnarvon, 1572; F. H. Willocks, M.M. Carnarvon, 1572; Thos. W. C. Bush, W.M. Temple Bar, 1728; Rev. R. J. Simpson, P.G.C. Westminster and Keystone, 10; C. T. Oxenham, M.M. Waverley, 929; W. S. Whitaker, P.M. and Sec. Carnarvon, 1572; J. J. Avery, P.M. St. John, 70, Treas. 1671; Sampson White, M.M. Great City, 1426; Bertram Noakes, M.M. Moria, 92; L. Hopkins, M.M. and Org. Carnarvon, 1572; J. Curtis, D.C. Prudent Brethren, 145; R. H. Morgan, S.D. Mizpah, 1671; W. Joyce, M.M. 1158; and H. Massey, P.M. 619 (Freemason). The work done was raising Bros. Thomas W. Willis, George Webster Murnane, Henry D. Grazebrook, and Archibald Currie, and passing Bro. Hannibal Murch Heal. Bro. Roberts then installed Bro. Nelson Reed as W.M., and the following brethren were appointed to office:—Bros. W. B. Roberts, P.M. 181, I.P.M.; F. Burdett, S.W.; Magnus Ohren, P.P.G.C. Surrey, J.W.; W. T. Jones, P.P.G.C. Middlesex, Chaplain; W. G. Lemon, P.M. 165, Treasurer; S. Edwards, Secretary; S. J. Jerrard, S.D.; E. Howard, J.D.; J. Claricoats, Treasurer 1572, I.G.; R. L. Sindall, S.W. 1293, D.C.; J. Carline, W.S.; H. Shaw, Tyler. The brethren after the lodge was closed went to the Albion, Aldersgate-street, where a choice banquet awaited them. The usual toasts followed. The Rev. R. J. Simpson, P.G.C., in responding to the toast of "The Grand Officers" after some introductory remarks, said, that Bro. Nelson Reed was one who adorned his Masonic position, and would be true to the spirit of him whose name he bore when he said "England expects every man to do his duty." He was one who would bring honour to the lodge. He thought it was a most happy circumstance in connection with Freemasonry that so many men who were pillars of the State, and who adorned every position in life, should be members of the Order, and he hoped that Masonry would always have such men as members. Referring to the position recently taken up by Grand Lodge with reference to the Grand Orient of France, he wished to relate an anecdote he had heard that day concerning a great minister of France who lately passed to his rest. After the great war with the Germans which terminated in the humiliation of France, that great minister, who professed his disbelief in any Supreme Power, when he heard that the people of France had made up more money than was necessary to fill the German coffers, and that the harvest of France was more plentiful than it had been in former years, burst into tears, and said, "God be praised; God I knew would remember dear France." So that though he was a professed disbeliever of the Great Architect of the Universe, he could not help, out of the abundance of his heart, praising God with his mouth for sending help to his devoted country. He thought the anecdote pointed a moral and adorned a tale. Each of the brethren should learn to do likewise in their respective spheres, and consider, whoever might be the head of their Craft and the ruling officers in the same, the Grand Officer above was the officer they ought to serve. Bro. W. B. Roberts, I.P.M., proposed "The Health of the W.M.," who, he said, was not an untried Mason, but one whose career was well and honourably known as that of a brother who had served the Order with zeal and fidelity. This was an assurance that his Mastership of the Ravensbourne Lodge would be all that could be desired and would bring lustre to it. As one of the founders of the lodge he (Bro. Roberts) felt as every one ought to feel who took the position of Master of a lodge, that a brother's interest in his lodge did not cease the moment he vacated the chair. The honour, reputation, and usefulness of a lodge depended, in a great measure, on the way a Master managed its concerns, and the future fortunes of the Ravensbourne Lodge were thoroughly safe in Bro. Nelson Reed's hands. He (Bro. Roberts) had done during his year of office what he could, but though he had been deprived of the pleasure and honour of occupying the chair during that year it had been a great comfort to him to know that his place was occupied by other Past Masters of the lodge who were quite competent, and he now left the chair in very good hands. He hoped he should appear for many years in the same position, and he was sure that as long as the Past Masters of the future followed the example of the brother just installed the lodge would be a great one, and do honour to the neighbourhood in which it was established and to the Craft in general. Bro. Nelson Reed, W.M., in responding, said Bro. Roberts had overrated his (the W.M.'s) abilities as a Mason, but he could tell the brethren that anything he undertook to do he strove to the utmost of his ability to carry out. Bro. Reed then proposed "The Installing Officer," and, after reminding the brethren of the efficiency with which he had performed his duties, invested Bro. Roberts with a Past Master's jewel, which the lodge had voted him as a mark of esteem and affection. Bro. W. B. Roberts, I.P.M., acknowledged the gift and toast. As to the jewel, he thought it had been scarcely earned by his exertions during the past year. At some meetings of the lodge he had been prevented filling his place, but he had been fortunate that evening, though under some difficulties, to show that when an opportunity presented itself he was prepared to perform the ceremonies. He could not help thanking Bro. James Terry for his assistance as D.C. in the installation ceremony. For the jewel presented to him he was deeply grateful, and though he had not sons to hand it down to, he hoped his daughters would value it and hand it down to others. Bros. Bush, W.M. Temple Bar Lodge; James Curtis, Prudent Brethren; and Hanley, University Lodge responded to the toast of "The Visitors." Bro. Bush noticing that that day was the anniversary of Shakespeare's birthday, which was being celebrated in numerous places, said the Masonic Order was much indebted to the immortal bard, who, while writing "Julius Cæsar," found time to think of what would be the Ravensbourne Lodge and the visitors thereat, that "they are all welcome." The truth of the line had been amply verified that evening, for the visitors had received princely hospitality. He congratulated the lodge on the accession of Bro. Nelson Reed to the chair. He had watched that brother's career for some years, and it had never been his lot to meet with a brother who had the interests of the Craft more devoutly at heart, or more determined to promulgate the glorious tenets of the Order. He (Bro. Bush) was Master of a lodge of which Bro. Reed was Secretary, and he considered that a great deal of that lodge's prosperity was due to him. Bro. Reed had that night inaugurated his year of office in a way which bade fair for great success for the remainder of his term, and no doubt when he left the chair he would be crowned with honour, and the lodge would have made rapid strides towards great prosperity. Bro. James Curtis, in responding, observed that Macaulay, speaking of former times, said that "breakfast was the most social and enjoyable of meals," but our manners must have altered, or Macaulay was never at the Ravensbourne Lodge, because that evening they had had a most social and enjoyable evening, in which, as Shakespeare in Henry V. said "and friendship shall combine, and brotherhood." The brethren were happy in the name they had chosen for the lodge, because it carried our thoughts to a place where was a tree near which Wilberforce talked of Emancipation from Slavery. The Ravensbourne Lodge, he hoped, would ever serve in that interest, emancipate all wrong, and elucidate right. That was a free, just, perfect, and complete education, which taught man more justly, generously, and successfully to perform the great duties and offices of life, both in public and private, in peace and in war, looking up to the Great Architect of the Universe, the Grand Centre. So long as the lodge was under the presidency of Bro. Nelson Reed, these principles would be handed down to other Masters. Bros. the Rev. W. Taylor Jones and C. W. Thompson responded to the toast of "The P.M.'s." Bro. Jones said the lodge had before it a very honourable sphere of usefulness. They all felt that Masonry was not an "idea," but a reality. Taking the words of Shakespeare, so often referred to that evening, they knew their principle was, "God be with us, for our cause is just," for their motto was "Brotherly love, relief, and truth." It would be the anxiety of the brethren of the lodge, and the Past Masters, to carry out this in their several positions. Their duty was to be up and doing, to work while it was yet called to-day. They had already laid the foundation of a benevolent fund, which was an honour to the lodge, and when he said they had invested that day £100 in Consols, it showed the reality of the view they had. He trusted that example would be followed by other lodges. Bro. Thompson having also said a few words in reply, the W.M. proposed "The Charities." The Sections said that charity was the best test and surest proof of the sincerity of their religion, and he was sure that was quite enough to recommend this toast to the brethren's notice. The Ravensbourne Lodge had already made itself a life subscriber of the three Masonic Charitable Institutions, and they had still in hand for the Benevolent Fund over £100. Bro. James Terry, in reply, said the Institutions had grown extensively during the last six or seven years. Six or seven years ago the total income of the three Institutions did not reach above £16,000 or £17,000. Last year it totalled over £42,000. During the same period there had been an enormous increase in the number of lodges, in kindly feeling, and in the wealth of the members who had joined the Order. The advent of the Prince of Wales to the chair gave a great stimulus to the Order which he hoped would always be felt. The festival this year of the Benevolent Institution had been the most successful of any festival yet: £14,000 was brought in by a body of men who had no other desire but to do good and communicate happiness to others. He hoped that the Girls' and Boys' Festivals would be as successful, but as yet neither had any Chairman. The right man would, however, no doubt turn up at the right time. The Benevolent Institution had 290 annuitants on its books, the Girls' School 200 girls, and the Boys' School 210 boys. The Masonic Charities were different from other charities, because they had but a limited circle to appeal to. He hoped they might long be considered worthy of the support of the Order. They did a vast amount of good to those who could not help themselves; for evidence of which he invited the brethren to go and see for themselves. If they did he was sure they would be sorry they had not visited them before. Bro. Terry concluded by thanking the Ravensbourne Lodge for what it had done in the cause of charity. The Tyler's toast concluded the evening's proceedings, which were enlivened by numerous songs and recitations by Bros. Willcocks, Morgan, Hopkins, Pearce, Avery, and Whitaker.

NEWCASTLE - ON - TYNE.—Hotspur Lodge (No. 1626).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held on Thursday week, the 24th ult., in the Freemasons' Hall, Maple-street. The brethren present were Bros. Luke Armstrong, W.M.; W. S. Hughes, I.P.M.; T. J. Armstrong, acting S.W.; R. C. Symonds, J.W.; Robert L. Armstrong, P.M., Treas.; Seymour T. Bell, acting Sec.; Hugh T. Bowman, S.D.; R. A. Dodds, J.D.; R. Ferry, as Org.; J. B. Reid, jun., I.G.; George Nesbitt and B. J. Proctor, Stewards; George S. Sims, Tyler, and the following brethren: Bros. George T. Trewman, R. Waugh, Thomas Morgan, Thomas G. Wynship, W. T. Wilson, C. W. Wilson, J. A. Dixon, and R. W. Walton. The visiting brethren included Bros. Benj. J. Thompson, P.M., Prov. Grand Sec.; R. Whitfield, W.M. 48; Wm. Cooper, W.M. 1342; W. M. Bell, W.M. 1557; John Page, S.W. 406; S. G. Homfray, R. Terry, R. Willis, F. A. Kelly (Freemason), W. B. Bolland, W. H. Thomson, United Service Lodge, No. 1341, Hong Kong; W. T. Lowrey, C. B. Ford, and John Usher. The lodge was opened in due form and with solemn prayer at 7 o'clock by the W.M., assisted by his officers. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Apologies for unavoidable absence were received from Bros. John Bell, S.W., and Wm. Smith, Secretary. The ballot was then taken for Mr. Charles Couper Cripps, proposed at the last meeting, and he was declared duly elected. Bro. Cripps being in attendance and properly prepared, was admitted in due form, and initiated into the secrets and mysteries of ancient Freemasonry by the Worshipful Master: the working tools of this degree were explained by the J.W., Bro. Symonds. Bros. George White and C. W. Wilson, being examined as to their proficiency in this degree, received the test of merit and retired for preparation. The lodge was then opened in the Second Degree, when Bros. White and Wilson were admitted and passed to the degree of Fellow Craft by Bro. W. S. Hughes, P.M., who also explained the working tools. The lodge was closed down to the First Degree, when Bro. Trewman proposed, and the W.M. seconded, a candidate for initiation at the next regular meeting. An application from the Masonic Hall Company, Limited, was brought before the lodge, but on the motion of Bro. W. Hughes, P.M., seconded by Bro. T. J. Armstrong, P.M., it was referred to the Finance Committee for their consideration and report at the next meeting. There being no further business, the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to refreshment, where the usual toasts were proposed and duly responded to.

MANCHESTER.—Avon Lodge (No. 1633).—The ordinary monthly meeting of this lodge, and the celebration of Shakespeare's anniversary, was held on the 23rd ult., at the Denmark Hotel, Moss Side. The brethren began to assemble towards six o'clock, soon after which they sat down to tea, provided in one of the rooms of the hotel. About 7.30 the lodge was opened by Bro. P.M. Bostock, who sat in the chair of K.S., in the absence of Bro. J. D. Brinkles, W.M. of the Avon Lodge for the present year. Bro. Painter occupied the chair of S.W., and Bro. Whittaker, J.W. There were present, in addition to the members of the Avon Lodge, several visitors from neighbouring lodges. There being no special business, the formal routine of opening and closing in the Three Degrees was gone through, after which the members and visiting brethren assembled round the festive board. The customary loyal and preliminary Masonic toasts having been drunk, Bro. P.M. Bostock rose and drew the attention of the brethren to the fact that this being the anniversary of the birthday of William Shakespeare, he should ask the members sitting round the Avon Lodge board to drink one toast to his memory. When some few years ago the officers of the new lodge agreed upon the name Avon, they little anticipated the peculiar circumstance that might arise that one of the meetings must necessarily be held on the poet's birthday. He, therefore, in proposing this toast, hoped those brethren who were about to favour them in the course of the evening would bear in mind that "Shakespeare" was the password, and act accordingly. The toast was then drunk in solemn silence. Bro. C. H. Stephenson, stage manager of the Theatre Royal, Manchester, a member of the Avon Lodge, then read a paper, entitled, "Was Shakespeare ever a Soldier?" He commenced by assuming, from certain historical facts, that Shakespeare at some period of his existence must have followed the armies of the Earl of Leicester into the Low Countries. That he must have had the most intimate knowledge of military service in all its surroundings, Bro. Stephenson ably proved by the technical phrases and quotations used by Shakespeare throughout his various plays. The short extracts read by the essayist from the poet's works in support of his theory gave the paper an unusual interest, and being delivered with the force and emphasis of a veteran actor and scholar, were heartily enjoyed. At the conclusion Bro. Stephenson received a unanimous vote of thanks for the pleasure he had afforded the members. Bro. W. Brown subsequently gave the scene from King John, "Hubert and Arthur," the stirring story being most pathetically rendered, the contrast from the boyish pleadings of the one to the gruff responses of the other being cleverly marked. Other Shaksperian recitations were "Fall of Walsey," Bro. A. T. Forrest; "Queen Mab," Bro. T. Cavanah; "Othello's Apology," Bro. D. Donbovand; in addition to which were some capital duets for piano and violin by Bros. Stanislaus and Vetter, songs by Bro. Whittaker, and a recitation from Bret Harte's writings, by Bro. Bracewell, the whole forming a most delightful and instructive meeting.

INSTRUCTION.

STABILITY LODGE (No. 217).—The last meeting of the season of the above lodge of instruction was held on Friday, the 25th ult., at the Guildhall Tavern. Present: Bros. Henry Mugeridge, E. M. Hubbuck, H. Birdseye, E. F. Storr, Hewitt, Jonas, Birdseye, Crossfield, Gale, Myers, Ashwell, Cosens, F. D. R. Copestick, Charles Arkell, George Kenning, Townsend, and others. Bro. Henry Birdseye was presented with a jewel for his services as Secretary. Bro. Mugeridge informed the brethren that in consequence of the great exertion necessary for the carrying out of the usual festival at the Cannon-street Hotel, he had decided not to continue it.

SOUTHAMPTON.—Royal Gloucester Lodge (No. 130).—In continuation of the sections noticed in our last reference to this lodge of instruction, during the present month the remainder of the series of fifteen have been worked, Bro. Sidney Myer presiding this month. Bros. H. Lashmore, R. Sharpe, P.M., Carl, J. Adams, P.M., and T. Lashmore, P.M., gave the five of the second lecture at the first meeting, and at the closing meeting of the session on Monday last Bros. Tilling, P.M., J. Adams, P.M., and T. Lashmore, P.M., the three of the third. At the conclusion Bro. J. Blount Thomas, P.M., the Mayor of Southampton, in the name of the brethren of the lodge, presented Bro. R. Sharpe, P.M., its Honorary Secretary and Treasurer since its commencement eight years ago, with a gold centenary jewel of the mother lodge, as a slight recognition of his indefatigable services and his unflinching courtesy—a compliment whose value was enhanced from the secret of its intended presentation having been well kept. Nearly forty brethren, including several visitors, were present to take part in the presentation of this mark of respect and esteem.

Royal Arch.

LIVERPOOL.—Sacred Delta Chapter (No. 216).—The annual meeting of this chapter was held at the Masonic Hall, Hepe-street, Liverpool, on Thursday, the 24th ult. Comp. J. McKune, P.Z., was the installing chief, assisted by Comp. J. R. Goepel, P.Z. The following Principals were chaired:—Comps. D. S. Davies, M.E.Z.; the Rev. J. Rees Jenkins, M.E.H.; and R. P. Gill, M.E.Z. The officers invested were Comps. Dr. D. D. Costine, P.S.; Wm. Thomas, S.E.; A. McFabert, S.N.; J. Skeaf, Org.; and T. Armstrong, Treas. Bros. Dr. Chauncey Puzey and Banner were exalted to the Royal Arch Degree, and the companions afterwards adjourned to banquet.

LIVERPOOL.—Everton Chapter (No. 823).—The usual monthly meeting of this chapter was held on Tuesday, the 22nd ult., at the Masonic Hall, Liverpool. There were present Comps. J. W. Ballard, Z.; T. Shaw, P.Z.; Jesse Banning, P.Z., acting H.; H. Ashmore, J.; W. Brassey, S.E.; H. Trevitt, S.N.; J. M. King, P.S.; and Peter Ball, Janitor. There were also present Comps. W. Russell, W. Hindhaugh, J. G. Hussell, E. Morgan, J. Jacobs, J. D. Griffiths, T. Delamere, D. Callow, J. Sharples, J. Pendleton, E. Kelly, R. S. Milne, A. Pennell, A. Hart, J. Coming, and J. Harding. The visitors included Comps. Thos. Chesworth, P.P.G.R., P.Z. 1086; Hugh Williams, P.P.G.S.B., P.Z. 580, 1091; Wm. G. West, 1086; R. C. Yelland, Z. 1094; E. Cottrall, 203; T. Roberts, M.E.Z. 673; R. Washington, P.Z. 1094; R. H. Evans, P.Z. 292, and H. 393; and Joseph Wood, Treas. 249 (Freemason).

Mark Masonry.

BATH.—Royal Cumberland Lodge (F.I.).—The annual meeting of this ancient lodge was held at five p.m. on Thursday, April 24th, at the Masonic Hall. Very soon after that hour the lodge was opened by Bro. John Dutton, W.M., assisted by the following officers:—Bros. Cater, I.P.M.; Dr. Hopkins, Chaplain; Rubie, S.W.; C. Wilkinson, J.W.; Braham, Secretary; Murlis, M.O.;

Radway, S.O.; Dingle, J.O.; Peach as S.D.; Mercer, J.D.; Penly, I.G.; Sparrow, Org.; Bigwood, Tyler. Several visitors of distinction were present, among them R. W. Rev. Bro. Davey, P.G. Chaplain, and the recently appointed Prov. G.M. for Gloucestershire; General Doherty, and others. There were also Past Masters Wilton and James Dutton, and a larger attendance of the members than usual, as it had become known that arrangements had been made to add éclat to the proceedings. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, the annual report of the Treasurer was presented, duly audited, and was satisfactory, considering the recent expenses in completing the requisite furniture. A short time ago some of the brethren discovered that Masonic musical rituals for the Craft and Mark Degrees, under the sanction of Grand Lodge, had several years ago been drawn up by the Chaplain of the Cumberland Lodge, and published in the Freemasons' Magazine, and afterwards issued as separate works by Bro. W. Smith, at that time the proprietor and editor, to whom the copyright had been presented. It was determined by a few of the members to introduce this, or at least the greater portion of it, and meetings for practice had been held under the guidance of Bro. Sparrow, who presided at the harmonium. A ballot was taken for Bro. Harry Smith as a candidate for advancement, which having proved favourable, he was admitted, and duly advanced to the rank of M.M.M. by Bro. James Dutton, P.M. The several officers performed their duties more efficiently than on any former occasion, and the music interspersed throughout the ceremony added to its solemnity and effectiveness. The Prov. G.M. for Gloucestershire especially expressed his approval. The chair was then taken by Bro. Dr. Hopkins, Past G.J.W. of the Grand Mark Lodge of England. The W.M. elect was presented, the preliminary proceedings were gone through, the brethren below the chair were dismissed, and in their absence Bro. Rubie was duly installed by Bro. Dr. Hopkins. On their return the ceremony was continued, and the following were invested as officers for the next year:—Bros. John Dutton, I.P.M. and Treas.; Dr. Hopkins, Chaplain; C. Wilkinson, S.W.; Braham Sparrow, Org.; Mercer, S.D.; Penly, J.D.; Peach, I.G.; Holmes, Steward; Bigwood, Tyler. The Installing Master concluded the business by addresses to the W.M., the Wardens, the Overseers, and the brethren. Votes of thanks for their attendance were passed to the visiting brethren, and to the retiring Master for his services during the past year. Several letters of apology for unavoidable absence were read. The lodge was closed at 7.30, and the brethren adjourned to the Castle Hotel for the usual banquet, which was thoroughly enjoyed, the manner in which the proceedings had been conducted appearing to have an exhilarating effect on all present.

PROVINCIAL CHARITY COMMITTEE FOR N. AND E. YORKS.

On Monday afternoon, the 21st ult., the members of the Committee for the organisation of the Charity Voting for the Province of North and East Yorkshire met in the Masonic Hall, York.

Those present were Bros. Dr. J. P. Bell, W. Dep. Prov. G. Master; and M. C. Peck, Prov. G. Sec.; Bros. J. W. Woodall, Wm. Lawton, W. Petchall, J. Thompson, and T. Clough, the stewards appointed by the province, and the following representatives of lodges:—Bros. W. Tesseymann, P.M. Humber, 57; G. H. Walshaw, P.M. Old Globe, 200; Sir James Meek, P.M. York, 236; W. H. Cowper, W.M. North York, 602; James Hogg, W.M. Marwood, 1244; C. Waistell, P.M. Anchor, 1337; R. Boggett, P.M. De la Pole, 16.5; J. S. Cumberland, W.M. Eboracum, 1611; R. H. Peacock, P.M. Leopold, 1760.

Several suggestions were made by the brethren present as to the rules to be adopted, and eventually a Sub-Committee, consisting of Bros. Bell, Woodall, Meek, Lawton, Tesseymann, Thompison, Petchell, Cumberland, and Peck (Sec.), was appointed to draw up a code of bye-laws and present them at the next meeting of the Committee, to be held in July.

It was arranged that the regular meetings of the Committee should be held in York, at the best available centre, in the months of January and July in each year.

We are requested to state that the Prov. Grand Secretary will be glad to receive suggestions regarding the proposed rules from any brother of experience in such matters.

The W. Dep. Prov. G. Master, the Prov. G. Secretary, and several of the representatives were entertained at luncheon on their arrival in York, by the Eboracum Lodge, at the Queen's Hotel, and in the evening they were present at the regular meeting of the York Lodge, where there was an unusually large muster of members and visitors.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

A large and special meeting of the Board of Stewards was held on Monday last at Freemasons' Hall. It having been announced that no Chairman had yet been obtained, the Board of Stewards passed an unanimous resolution, requesting Bro. Lieut.-Col. John Creaton, Treasurer and Trustee of the Institution, to preside at the Anniversary Festival. Some subsidiary arrangements having been attended to, the Board adjourned to Monday next, at 4.30.

THE CASE OF BRO. SIMONSEN.

We understand that a subscription has been set on foot to assist Bro. Simonsen, and that Bro. Bent, P.G.C., has consented to act as Treasurer. A full account will appear in our next.

ST. DUNSTAN'S ROYAL ARCH CHAPTER.

 M.E. Consecrating Officer, Comp. Principal H., and Companions,—I have come here to-day in response to the courteous invitation of the companions of this new chapter, conveyed through acting Scribe Ezra, to deliver the customary oration, and the duty in such a case is rendered both a pleasure and a privilege, because associated, sir, with yourself, in the interesting and solemn ceremonial of to-day, and because also, like yourself, as I know full well, I have a very great regard and reverence for the beautiful ritual of the Royal Arch Grade. In common with yourself and many more, and among whom I may fitly mention our esteemed and valued Grand Ezra, Comp. John Hervey, a name highly prized among Royal Arch Masons, as well as by brethren of the Craft at large, I have seen with deep satisfaction the increase of Royal Arch chapters amongst us of recent years. To my mind, as I believe to the minds of many more, there is no portion of our Masonic system more simple, and yet more beautiful in itself, more striking from its historical and archaeological connection with the one true system of Masonry, and, above all, more definite, more sublime, more practical, and more valuable in the teaching it sets forth, in the moral beauty, wisdom, and duty which it inculcates. Shall I be deemed an optimist or a visionary, sir, when I express before you and this distinguished gathering to-day the hope and the anticipation that the time will come when all English lodges will have a Royal Arch chapter attached to them, as the rightful complement of all Masonic instruction, as the just, and befitting reward of all loyal Master Masons? For let us ever bear in mind that, though severed in its arrangement, and distinct in its nomenclature, and changed in its ceremonial from Craft Masonry, the Royal Arch is not really or truly a fourth grade, per se, but actually the destined consummation of the labours, anxieties, and mysteries of the Third Degree. As the apex of our Masonic pyramid, it serves, as it were, to connect, compact, cement the whole deftly united building, as resting on the broad foundation of Craft Masonry; it soars toward Heaven on the sublime enunciation of the principles and tenets unfolded in the picturesque ritual of Royal Arch Masonry. Let us, therefore, hail, sir, the expansion and development of Royal Arch Masonry amongst us, and as the distinguishing characteristic of Anglican Masonry, in the exalted place it fills, and the prominent position it assumes; let us be proud of it, and seek to diffuse its chapters and its ceremonial, its goodly tenets and its gracious declarations, its kindly sanctions, and its ennobling precepts far and wide. But as, sir, under your able presidency we are about to consecrate a new chapter to-day, it seems alike reasonable and seasonable for the orator to seek to convey to the companions some of the teaching, at any rate, of this exalted grade, both, as we say, to improve the occasion and as a fitting commemoration of to-day's proceedings. It would be impossible, sir, as you well know, in one short oration, or many, to draw out the fulness of Royal Arch teaching, and I can but attempt in some poor feeble words of mine, shortly, with your kind concurrence, and subject to the friendly criticism of my hearers, to glance at a portion of the truths conveyed to us, and preserved for us in this unrivalled portion of our mystic rites. There are then, as it appears to me, and, as I think, sir, you will agree with me, three truths which are conspicuous in the special teaching of our Royal Arch ceremonial, and these are, reverence for God, obedience for authority, and love for the brotherhood. Is it wrong to say that the famous triad "Fear God, Honour the King, Love the Brotherhood," is reproduced by "designed" or "undesigned" "coincidence" in the teaching of the Royal Arch? Let us take these axioms seriatim, though necessarily as time only permits very briefly, and we shall see that they constitute alike the strength and the reality, the glory and the grace, the vitality and the use not only of Royal Arch Masonry, but of all true Masonry in the world. (Hear, hear.) 1. We are taught in the Royal Arch Grade not only, as in a former degree, to bend with resignation to the will of T.G. & O.T.U., to dedicate our hearts purified from every sinful and malignant passions, and fitted only for the reception of moral truth and virtue, as well to His glory as the welfare of our fellow creatures, but even a little more than this, good and true and valuable as it is. In the Royal Arch grade we are bid remember that we are et before the knowledge, the wisdom, the moral control, the just judgment of the Most High—that His eternity, His omniscience, His omnipotence, His supreme and creign law, are alike our hope and safety, our joy and our delight. We are reminded that as His creatures, servants, and subjects, we are ever in His providential care, that "our times are in His hand," that we are "not our own but His," that the acts of our lives, the hopes of our hearts, and plans and exertions of to-day, the pathway of our feet, and the very essence of us all, be we who we may, high or humble, are overlooked by Him, that it is our solemn duty, not to have our happy privilege, to believe in His providence, to accept His decrees, to accept His dispensations without murmur, and to look up to Him confidently in every emergency of life, for strength, for comfort, for health, for support and for safety. Now we know that it is just this good old teaching of English Masonry which so displeases some modern teachers, and so bew-fangled expositors of Masonic lore. They do not see the idea of that reverent acknowledgment of T.G. & O.T.U., of a personal and living God, the living Creator, Benefactor, Guide, Sovereign, Saviour, Judge of all things which English Craft Masonry avows, and the Royal

Arch so emphatically proclaims. They seek to evade the recognition of God, and to substitute for it either a specious "Nihilism," which sweeps away the God of our forefathers, and substitutes in His place an "Anima Mundi," the old resource of infidelity, or they pompously put forth a blinding trust in humanity, our poor humanity indeed; or they set up an "independent morality," which really means no morality practically at all, which leaves us without a present God or a future life, which ignores the moral responsibilities, and consequently all moral duty, and renders us blind votaries of chance or fate, like the moles in the subsoil—atoms which to-day are and to-morrow are gone, and forgotten for ever. Sir, you and I, with all now present, deploring the aberrations and erratic proceedings which mark some bodies of Masons to-day, will rejoice to think that we in England uphold with unflinching and unwavering faith the better teaching of our forefathers, and make the beginning and the end, the first and the last, the foundation and the apex, the strength and the glory of English Masonry, Craft and Royal Arch, in no spirit of intolerance, but humble genuine piety, a reverent acknowledgment of God, over all Most High and most blessed for evermore. (Applause.) And, in the next place, marked is the teaching in this degree in respect of obedience to supreme authority. As English Freemasons, happily, we are taught from the very first never, under any circumstances whatever, to forget, as loyal citizens, the allegiance due to the Sovereign of our native land, to avoid all plots and conspiracies against Government, and to be zealous friends to order and social stability, and hostile always to anarchy, agitation, confusion, and revolution! We, in this Royal Arch Grade, are all enjoined to bear in mind, that while resistance to usurped authority sometimes becomes the duty of the patriot citizen and Freemason, reverence for lawful authority is ever a solemn duty incumbent upon us all, be we who we may, who profess to be members of our peaceful, philanthropic, legalized, and law-abiding Fraternity. One of the greatest charms of Freemasonry for us all, perhaps, to-day is its avoidance of, and distance from the petty tumults of sectional differences, the cries of controversy, and the existing and severing topics of political discussion. Unfortunately for Freemasonry in some portions of the Masonic world, these obvious truths and salient duties are forgotten, in the mistaken impetuosity of unwise teaching, and hence we can understand how too often Freemasonry, through no fault of its own, has fallen under prescription and suspicion, has even been for a time suppressed, has been treated as inimical to government and order, and antagonistic to authority and law. Happily for us all in England, the loyalty of Freemasons has ever been conspicuous and avowed, and as such duly recognized by that Royal and august Family which Providence has placed in supreme authority over these united realms, and in times past, as to day, the happy connexion between the English Royal Family and English Freemasonry has been maintained in loyal fervour and attachment, undimmed and unchanging, alike for the strength and pride and welfare of our English Craft. Long may it so continue, and long may we, as Royal Arch Masons, and intelligent and prudent citizens, while we advocate peaceful progress, liberty of conscience, and equal rights for all classes, never forget the reverence due to authority, and as patriots and Freemasons, for us the throne and institutions of our country will always be a subject of paramount reverence and devotion. Faithful to our God, our Sovereign, our country, and our laws, we shall rejoice in the success of our gallant soldiers and sailors abroad; we shall carefully seek to help to maintain peace and prosperity, order and tranquillity at home. (Applause.) And, lastly, we are reminded to love the brotherhood. Yes, sir, as companions of the Royal Arch Grade, we shall indeed feel proud of that golden chain of fraternal sympathy which binds us so closely to our excellent Order, and to one another here below. It is that inner mystic circle of genuine faithful brotherhood which constitutes the excellent grace, and ought to be the unchanging glory of Freemasonry. It has sometimes occurred to me, that partly arising from our more limited numbers, there is amongst Royal Arch Masons a more close connection, a more intimate cohesion, than is sometimes found in Craft Masonry. Sure I am, that numerous lodges do not constitute the strength or the happiness of Freemasonry, that they are too often the cause of weakness, disunion, and discord, and that the more we know each other, the more carefully we select our associates, the more calmly we strive to render Masonic fellowship and membership or special and personal privilege, not to be obtained too easily by every one, the greater chance there is, humanly speaking, both for the safe progress and happy permanency of Freemasonry. As Royal Arch Masons we are bidden to love the brotherhood, and to prove our love, by our words without guile, and our acts guided by honour, sincerity, and loyalty to one another. To suppose or to believe for one moment that the profane vices of slander, envy, backbiting, malice, the invidious scandal, or the lying accusation, the defamation of a brother's character, could find their way into a Royal Arch chapter, would constitute an abject parody on all our eloquent professions, would rob Freemasonry of its good, and serve as the best of weapons in the hands of our accusers and maligners. Therefore, let us assume, sir, if you please, to-day, that in these peaceful abodes of friendship and mutual esteem and goodwill, we have shut out the harsher voices of an angry and vindictive world, and that, bound to each other by the unbreakable chain of fraternal concord and affection, we are brethren and companions in deed as well as in word, in heart as well as in name. Sir, I fear I have almost exceeded the limits of your forbearance and my companions' patience, but there are yet two words I wish to say. Though our love for the brotherhood is to be shown forth in all moral sincerity and energy, there is another proof of its reality which we can also evidence to our brethren and the world. Active, single-handed, and single-hearted charity is the distinguishing badge of Freemasons, and, on an occasion like this, I think it is always the orator's duty to remind the companions of a new chapter that the great Metropolitan Charities of our Order, which constitute the great pride of all Freemasons, claim from Royal Arch Masons as well as Craftsmen active sympathy and support. I need hardly remind my hearers of that most successful anniversary, at which you, sir, so properly reaped the return of arduous labours in an unexampled success for that excellent Institution—the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution—and in which all must feel the deepest interest. But I may be permitted to mention that the Girls' School anniversary, close at hand, and that the Boys' School anniversary at a later period, demand the warm support of all who wish Masonic charity to be so gracefully exemplified and so practically carried out, as it is now is, in those really noble and invaluable Charities of Freemasonry in this great metropolis of ours. Sir, I have now done. Let us all unite in earnest aspirations for the future peace, prosperity, happiness, harmony, and progress of the St. Dunstan's Chapter. May it take a leading position amongst our many goodly chapters, and may it ever be distinguished by the zeal and devotedness of its members, their submission to Masonic law and rule, their faithful adhesion to Grand Chapter, and their realization of the great tenets of Royal Arch Masonry. Thus, sir, as trusty Royal Arch Masons, let us humbly endeavour to discharge our temporal and passing duties with the zeal and fidelity incumbent upon us all, so that as we pass on peacefully and happily through these fleeting years of time, we yet may be permitted, in the good Providence of the Most High, to find that this our sublimary state has been the portal to one which is alike enduring and eternal. (Applause.)

PROVINCIAL GRAND CHAPTER OF WEST YORKSHIRE.

The annual meeting of this Provincial Grand Chapter took place at the picturesque village of Uppermill, Saddleworth, under the auspices of the Confidence Chapter, 337, the Principals of which opened a preliminary chapter, when about ninety companions from various parts of the province assembled.

M.E. Comp. Lieut.-Col. Sir Henry Edwards, Bart., Provincial Grand Superintendent of West Yorkshire, and the officers of Provincial Grand Chapter having entered, the usual salutation was heartily accorded him, and, in reply, Sir Henry Edwards said that he had felt necessitated to call them together sooner than had been customary, in consequence of his having to leave Yorkshire for London, and as this was his first occupancy of the chair in opening Provincial Grand Chapter since his installation as Provincial Grand Superintendent at Sheffield, on Wednesday, October 30th, 1878, he had been desirous not to delegate the duties to another. Sir Henry added—"I may here observe that I have laid it down as an absolute rule never to recommend an application for a new charter until the draft bye-laws have been submitted for approval, the form of which, without undue interference, I should desire to follow. For instance, the first page to contain the founders' names, dates of charter and consecration, index, tables of fees, and certificates in due order. The chief object is to bring all chapter bye-laws into harmony and almost uniformity, and I am happy to learn from our Registrar that one half of the chapters have already revised their bye-laws in accordance with this excellent system. In the appointment of officers in Provincial Grand Chapter in this province it has been the custom, as you may be aware, to select but Past First Principals; and at my installation it was my endeavour, as it shall be, to distribute the officers as widely as possible. Our Registrar, who has so much to do in the revision of bye-laws, was induced to accept the office once more, and I hope it will be your pleasure to assist his endeavours in the matter of complete revision of bye-laws. On referring to the annual returns, I find we have on our rolls 884 Royal Arch Masons; and of that number there are upwards of 249 Principals and Past Principals. It is with every feeling of thankfulness I am thus able to speak of the prosperity of Royal Arch Masonry in this great province of West Yorkshire; and whilst we should be grateful for the position we have already attained to, let us each and all endeavour faithfully to discharge our duty; and may peace and happiness, health and prosperity, love and unity, ever attend us. Excellent companions, I thank you for your kind attention, and, in conclusion, ask you to join with me in passing a cordial vote of thanks to our companions in this part of the province for entertaining us, and in wishing this chapter every possible measure of prosperity."

The officers were appointed as follows for the ensuing year:—

THE CHAIRMANSHIP OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL FESTIVAL.

It is known to most of our readers, probably, that the delay which has occurred in announcing a Chairman, has arisen from difficulties over which the authorities of the School had no possible control. It was ardently desired that H.R.H. Prince Leopold should preside, alike for the best interests of the School and the deep gratification of the Order. But from the date of the announcement of his inability to comply with the wishes of his brethren, zealous attempts have been made to induce in succession some of the most distinguished of our Prov. Grand Masters to preside. In all cases, amounting, we are informed, to no less than ten, they declined, on the ground, more or less, that it would be impossible in so short a space of time to organize a good provincial canvass for the School. The last refusal was on Monday last, by telegram. Under these circumstances the Stewards gathered in a special assembly, in goodly numbers, on Monday last, when the true position of affairs was laid before them by the Chairman of the meeting. The only question remained, "what was to be done in the interests of the School?" Luckily, a solution of the difficulty was found, which, we venture to think, will commend itself to a very large number of zealous and hardworking Masons, as a happy extrication of the Stewards and Charity from the unavoidable, though unwelcome, dilemma in which they were placed, and through no fault, be it observed, in any way, of their own. Bro. Lieut.-Col. Creaton, the Grand Treasurer elect, Trustee and Treasurer of the Institution, had, after the communication by the Chairman of the Board of Stewards and the Secretary of the actual facts of the case, placed himself at the disposal of the Board of Stewards. Most unwilling to put himself unnecessarily forward, and most grateful for the great honour recently conferred on him by his brethren, our gallant brother yet felt, as a soldier and a Freemason, that in an hour of intense difficulty he was bound to "come to the rescue" of an Institution in which he took so deep, and abiding, and personal an interest, and, therefore, following good precedent, and in default of any more efficient Chairman, was willing to take upon himself the trouble, responsibility, and privilege of the post. The Board of Stewards, in our opinion, most wisely and most gratefully, passed an unanimous resolution asking Lieut.-Col. Creaton, as Treasurer and Trustee, to preside at the Anniversary Festival, and we are privileged in being able to announce that he most kindly acceded to their request, and (D.V.) will preside on May 14th. There are 234 Stewards, and we anticipate a gay gathering and a goodly muster. The long and devoted services of Lieut.-Col. Creaton to Freemasonry will attract the sympathy and support of a large number of influential brethren, and we feel certain that, thoroughly recognizing not only our gallant brother's past services and present work, but his anxiety ever to aid his brethren, or promote the cause of our great Metropolitan Charities, he will receive that influential and energetic adhesion, and "backing up," which he so justly merits at the hands of our warm-hearted fraternity. We, ourselves, have no fear but that the Anniversary Festival of May 14th will be a great success, and the Stewards are sparing no pains to make the arrangements perfect, and the comfort of the brethren and ladies complete. One response will be made, we are convinced, to this announcement, namely, that our brethren alike from Metropolis and Province will rally round the gallant Chairman, and make the Girls' School Anniversary of May 14th a triumph in every respect.

CHARITY VERSUS SACK.

The publication of a very striking lodge balance sheet in our columns last week, and the letters we receive, and the opinions we have heard on the subject, have led us on the present occasion to devote a little space to the consideration of a subject which is, no doubt, considerably "exercizing" the minds of many of our good brethren just now. And yet we feel bound to remark, at the outset, the subject is not a very easy one to deal with, or, rather, a somewhat delicate one to handle, for various well known and cogent reasons. In the first place, we do not think that it is the function of the Freemason to seem to "preach" at anything or at anybody. In the next, some will at once object to a dictatorial interference, as they like to call it, with the "liberty" of the Masonic "subject," "quoad refreshment;" and, once again, as we by no means wish to be enrolled amongst those fanatics who deem all social enjoyment wrong, and even a careful and moderate use of created good things doubtful and dangerous, we trust that in what we are about to say, we shall be credited, both with the graces of discretion and good sense. So, then, we will start with this proposition, to which we ask our readers to note, that though lodge banquets are good things in their way, they become bad things when by their admitted and lawful use, we are tempted to forget or forego the higher claims of duty or charity. Can any one object to so modest and cautious a thesis? We hope not, we trow not. But what have we read lately? A lodge, happily so far nameless, with an income of £202 13s. 7d., spends £4 4s. on charity and £154 10s. on "sack," and £28 12s. on Grand Lodge payments and lodge expenses. It has £18 11s. 7d. in hand on the general account and £6 4s. 2d. on the charity account. Can this be right? Is it not positively wrong? Is not such indulgence in sociality out of proportion, injurious to Masonry and the members of the lodge? Surely we think that there can be but one answer on all these points, and that, in our opinion, sadly enough, must be an answer in the affirmative. For what a parody, "my masters," is such a balance sheet in itself on Masonic professions and Masonic declarations. We who are always speaking, when we meet, of "charity, brotherhood," and the like, what can we say when the stern accuser points to this "damning proof" of Masonic liberality, and asks indignantly "Is this the way you spend your money, 99 $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. on sack, as against the $\frac{1}{4}$ in charity?" We have seen many balance sheets in our time, and studied them, and audited them laboriously, but never do we remember any one which affords so startling and melancholy a proof of the want of reality, vitality, and we must add true Masonic feeling in any lodge of Freemasons. Now do we not wish, as we said before, to seem to "preach," or to speak too severely. And we will fain hope, moreover, that such a balance sheet is an exception and an inadvertence, and will be materially changed and amended in 1879. For, surely, the brethren of this good lodge "Irroy," 3999, will feel that Masonic Charity has larger claims upon them than they seem to know of, or even to dream of! A guinea to each of our great Charities is a sad totality of Masonic charity, as contrasted with £155 of material expenditure. Are there no aged Freemasons needing help? no widows requiring assistance? no orphan boys and girls, children of our deceased brethren, to be clothed, taught, and cared for? no poor, pining brother to be sent on his way with the substantial and kindly aid of the good Samaritans? no wounds of our common humanity to be staunch, no friendly sympathy to be manifested? Out upon it, brethren of the nameless lodge! Let us ask you in the name of the very Brotherhood of Masonry to change your ways, to increase your charities, and to limit yourself indulgence, and to prove to the world a to your brethren, that you say what you mean and mean what you say, when you talk so fluently of Masonic Charity and Brotherhood, and thence do not wish to be held up to others, and as to your own Fraternity, as being still utterly sensible to these sound claims of duty, which are alike our most gratifying duty and our greatest happiness.

THE NEW GRAND OFFICERS.

As will be seen by a report elsewhere, the following brethren have been appointed by the Grand Master to the purple for 1879-80:—Bro. Lord Kensington, S.G.W.; Major-General the Hon. S. G. Calthorpe, J.G.W.; Rev. W. A. Hill, G. Chap.; Rev. Chas. Spencer Stanhope, Asst. G. Chap.; Lieut.-Col. John Creaton, G. Treas.; Æ. J. McIntyre, Q.C., G. Reg.; J. B. Monckton, Pres. B.G.P.; John Hervey, G. Sec.; Ernst E. Wendt, G. Sec. Ger. Cor.; Reginald Bird, S.G.D.; George Mellor, S.G.D.; Horatio Lloyd, J.G.D.; Matthew Clark, J.G.D.; John Gibson, G.S. of W.; Sir Albert W. Woods (Garter), G.D. of Cer.; Sheriff George Burt, Asst. G.D. of Cer.; Samuel Mullens, G.S.B.; Christopher Willing, G. Org.; H. G. Buss, Asst. G. Sec.; W. Wilson, G. Purst.; James Kench, Asst. G. Purst.; C. B. Payne, G. Tyler. We hope in our next to give an account of their Masonic services.

THE RESTORATION OF THE WEST FRONT OF ST. ALBAN'S CATHEDRAL.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I have been directed by my Committee to forward to you the enclosed circular, which will fully explain the proposed scheme for carrying out the above-mentioned object, and I shall be much obliged if you will bring this matter before the Worshipful Master and the members of your lodge, and trust that we may obtain their active support for this great Masonic undertaking.

I shall be glad to receive a list of the names of those who subscribe, or promise to do so, on the annexed form, at your early convenience.

I have the honour to remain, yours faithfully and fraternally,

CHARLES E. KEYSER,

47, Wilton Crescent, London, S.W. Hon. Secretary.

N.B.—Subscriptions are invited from 1s. up to £5. [See appeal printed elsewhere.—ED.]

AN OLD MASON.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

As Bro. R. F. Gould has dethroned Bro. Charles Marsh from being the "Father" of English Masons, or the oldest living Mason in England, in favour of Bro. Sir Moses Montefiore, so must I depose the latter in favour of Bro. "James Norris," the present Warden of the Royal Benevolent Institution of the Order, who was initiated on the 10th day of March, 1812, in the Lodge of "Sincerity" then No. 290, now 174 now. Bro. James Norris was born in January, 1798, and is now not only in very fair health, but held in high esteem by all who have the pleasure and honour of his acquaintance.

Yours fraternally,

CHARLES JOHN PERCEVAL, V.P. 174.

In answer to the letter of Bro. Gould in your last number, asking if there is an older Mason than Bro. Sir Moses Montefiore, I am in a position to tell you there is in the person of Bro. James Morris, the esteemed Warden of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution at Croydon.

Bro. Morris was initiated in the Lodge of Sincerity, then No. 290, now 174, on March 10th, 1812. I am happy to add that he is very well, and in full possession of all his faculties.

Yours fraternally,

HENRY J. STRONG,

M.D., Hon. Surgeon to the Benevolent Institution, Croydon.

THE INSTALLATION ENGRAVING.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Those who were privileged to witness the installation of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, at the Albert Hall, four years ago this day, as M.W. Grand Master, can never forget the impressiveness and surpassing grandeur of the scene. This scene, making allowance for the almost insuperable difficulties in the way, arising from its magnitude, and the necessity of turning the faces of the great majority, at least, of the brethren represented towards the spectators, our worthy Bro. Harty has succeeded in depicting successfully, and he has been ably seconded by the talented artists whom he engaged to execute the engraving.

Satisfactory, however, as the print is in other respects, there is one respect in which it is, to my mind, and I imagine to every subscriber, sadly deficient—the want of a key by which to identify the portraits of the many eminent members of the Craft included in it.

Even to the metropolitan brethren, who can constantly attend the Quarterly Communications of Grand Lodge, very many of the portraits introduced must be unknown to them, whilst to the bulk of the brethren who, like myself, are only able occasionally, owing to distance, to be present, but few, very few, of them are recognisable.

I happen to possess engravings of the well-known pair of historical pictures, by West, "O iver Cromwell dissolving the Long Parliament," and "Charles II. landing on the beach at Dover," the former engraved by Hall, and the latter etched by Woollett, and engraved by Sharp, which are accompanied by a key in outline, the faces numbered and described below, and I believe it has been the invariable rule for such historical representations to be accompanied by such a key.

Soon after the issue of the engraving, I saw our excellent Bro. Harty in town, and named this great desideratum to him, when I understood it to be his full intention to furnish such a key to the subscribers, and that he was only waiting to get the proper Masonic titles, &c., of the numerous brethren represented.

As a very considerable time has since elapsed without anything further having been heard of this key, may I ask if this project has been unfortunately abandoned. Without such a key the picture might as well represent so many Browns, Joneses, and Robinsons, instead of men eminent in rank and in the Craft; with it, the historical value of the engraving will be very greatly enhanced.

I am, dear Sir and Brother, yours fraternally,

WILLIAM KELLY, F.S.A.,
P. Prov. G.M., and G. Supt.
Leicestershire and Rutland.

Leicester, April 28th, 1879.

P.S.—As a case in point, I may mention the key to the portraits of the Royal Dukes, the Chevalier Ruspini, and others, in the well-known engraving of the "Festival of the Royal Freemasons' School for Female Children."

SUPREME GRAND CHAPTER.

The following is the agenda of business for Wednesday, 7th May:—

The regulations for the government of the Supreme Grand Chapter during the time of public business to be read.

The minutes of the last Quarterly Convocation to be read for confirmation.

Installation of Principals, and appointment and investiture of officers for the ensuing year.

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF GENERAL PURPOSES. To the Supreme Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of England.

The Committee of General Purposes beg to report that they have examined the accounts from the 15th January to the 15th April, 1879, both inclusive, which they find to be as follows:—

To Balance, Grand Chapter	757	18	9
" Unappropriated Account	177	15	5
" Subsequent Receipts	399	9	3
			£1335	3	5
By Disbursements during the quarter	331	6	3
" Balance	929	1	8
" in Unappropriated Account	174	15	7

which balances are in the Bank of England, Western Branch.

The Committee have likewise to report that they have received the following petitions:—

1st. From Comps. James Meacham Batham, as Z.; Henry Charles Adolphus Wandram, as H.; Frederick Irving de Lisle, as J.; and twelve others for a chapter to be attached to the Victoria Lodge, No. 1577, Napier, to be called the Victoria Chapter, and to meet at Napier, Wellington, North Island, New Zealand.

2nd. From Comps. Charles Thomas Pearce, as Z.; John Peter, as H.; John Kempthorne, as J.; and seven others for a chapter to be attached to the Loyal Victoria Lodge, No. 557, Callington, to be called the Valletort Chapter, and to meet at the Masonic Hall, Callington, in the county of Cornwall.

3rd. From Comps. Edward John Bradshaw Bumstead, as Z.; John Franks Chittenden, as H.; William Youldon, as J.; and seven others for a chapter to be attached to the Wellington Lodge, No. 548, Deptford, to be called the Wellington Chapter, and to meet at the White Swan Hotel, Deptford, in the county of Kent.

4th. From Comps. Henry Thomas Wood, as Z.; Charles Chester Cheston, as H.; Peter Lund Simmonds, as J.; and six others for a chapter to be attached to the Marquis of Dalhousie Lodge, No. 1159, to be called the Marquis of Dalhousie Chapter, and to meet at No. 33, Golden-square, London.

5th. From Comps. William Henry Lee, as Z.; George William Frederick Neville Green, as H.; Thomas Charles Chapman, as J.; and six others for a chapter to be attached to the Duke of Connaught Lodge, No. 1524, Dalston, to be called the Duke of Connaught Chapter, and to meet at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, in the City of London.

These petitions being in all respects regular, the Committee recommend that the prayers thereof be respectively granted.

They have also received a petition from Comps. William Alexander Barrett, as Z.; Charles Gooden, as H.; Wilhelm Ganz, as J.; and six others for a chapter to be attached to the Orpheus Lodge, No. 1706, to be called the Orpheus Chapter, and to meet at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, London.

This petition is regular in form, but as the lodge has not yet been in existence for two years, the Committee, tearing their resolution in mind that three years should elapse before a charter to be attached to a lodge be granted, except in very exceptional cases, cannot recommend that the prayer of the petition be yet complied with.

A letter, dated 14th March last, from Comp. the Hon. Henry Tholy Prinsep, Grand Superintendent of Bengal, was read, pointing out the great inconveniences which arise from Superintendents not being able to issue provisional charters pending the applications to Grand Chapter.

The Committee, feeling fully satisfied that the complaint is well grounded, beg to recommend that the Supreme Grand Chapter authorise the Most Excellent First Grand Principal to grant powers to such Superintendents as he may think fit to issue dispensations for the meeting of chapters in cases of necessity, pending the applications for charters to the Supreme Grand Chapter.

The Committee beg further to state that on the 1st November, 1876, a charter was granted to be attached to the Fitzalan Lodge, No. 1432, Oswestry, which has not been taken up, and from information they have received they have reason to conclude that it never will be taken up. Under these circumstances, the Committee recommend that the charter be cancelled.

(Signed) JOHN CREATON,
President.

CONSECRATION OF NICHOLSON CHAPTER, No. 371.

This new chapter of Royal Arch Masons, attached to Lodge of Perseverance, No. 371, Maryport, was consecrated on Tuesday, the 22nd ult., at the Masonic Hall, Eaglesfield-street, Maryport. It makes the eighth chapter in the Royal Arch province of Cumberland and Westmorland, and, judging from the fact that the promoters, though resident in Maryport, are members of the Whitehaven and Wigton Chapters, there is sufficient reason that a chapter at Maryport was necessary; whilst, from the substantial beginning, there can be little doubt that, ultimately, it will prove one of the most flourishing Royal Arch organisations in the two counties. The title is most appropos, and a direct compliment to Comp. Joseph Nicholson, the oldest P.M. of Lodge of Perseverance. Comp. Nicholson, though now in the sear and yellow leaf of seventy-three winters and summers, nevertheless, is yet fully as active and indefatigable in Masonic pursuits as half-a-century ago, when he "first saw light." He it was, along with a brother now deceased, who, many years since, by pecuniary sacrifices, and a thorough love of our grand old Institution, kept the tottering Lodge of Perseverance on its legs, and he can now look with pride on what is one of the most flourishing Masonic bodies under the regime of the Earl of Bective, M.P., P.G.M. and Sup. of Cumberland and Westmorland.

The important duty of consecration and dedication was delegated to M.E. Comp. John Bowes, P.Z. of half-a-dozen chapters, and P.P.G.S.N. Cumberland and Westmorland, as also P.P.G. St. Br. of West Lancashire. The other companions present were: Comps. H. Bewes, P.Z. 327, P.G.S.N.; F. W. Hayward, P.Z. 310; Capt. Sewell, 119; P. Dodgson, 119; J. Abbotts, 327; J. R. Banks, 119; and W. F. Lamony, H. 119, P.P.G. Swd. B. The Principals designate and charter members of the new chapter were as follows: Comps. Jos. Nicholson, Z.; P. de E. Collin, H.; Thos. Mandle, J.; J. H. Banks, E. G. Mitchell, A. Walter, J. Gardiner, R. Brown, and J. Quay.

No fewer than five of the nine mentioned are Past Masters of Lodge of Perseverance. About three o'clock the chapter was opened by the Installing Principal, assisted by Comps. Bewes and Hayward, in the Second and Third Principals' chairs. On the other companions being admitted, the beautiful ceremony of consecration was proceeded with by M.E. Comp. Bowes, who, at the proper place, delivered the following oration:—

Companions,—From time out of mind—from time whereof the memory of man reacheth not to the contrary—it has been customary among Royal Arch Masons, on occasions like the present, to deliver an address, usually called an oration, on some subject connected with our Royal art. A former Grand Chaplain of this province, some fourteen years ago, at a great Masonic gathering at Cockermouth, eloquently remarked that every traveller in foreign lands had been struck with the memorials of ancient greatness in the ruined buildings, that, standing in majestic solitude, are now the only remains of those great empires of antiquity which played such a distinguished part in the world's history. Egypt, once the centre of learning and power of the world, has left behind her little to boast of but those magnificent temples, triumphs of Masonic art, that amaze the Nile traveller at Karnæ, at Luxor, or at Thebes. Thoughts of sadness must be excited in the breasts of those who, standing in the luxuriant plain of Coele-Syria, by those three enormous and highly-decorated columns of the Temple of the Sun at Baalbec, they will doubt which most to admire, the chasteness of the carving or the stupendous grandeur of the architecture; but, in either case, they will involuntarily raise their hands, and exclaim, "Oh, wonderful Masons!" What traveller, but has painfully pleasurable motions stirred up within him when, according to Mahomedan rule, he takes his shoes from off his feet, and treads noiselessly in thoughtful silence over the temple area of Mount Moriah, where our Grand Master Solomon, guided by the Great Architect of the Universe, built that temple to the Most High, in which were the emblematic pillars? Wander now over the marshy plain through which the Meander flows, and what is now left of the once proud capital of Pro-consular Asia—Ephesus? Where now is that temple with its one hundred and twenty-seven kingly pillars, the shrine of the great goddess Diana, of whom Demetrius, the Craftsman—not, indeed, of our Craft—boasted, perhaps, with a little pardonable vanity, "All Asia and the world worshippeth?" Why, its site cannot now be identified—its pillars, each of them the gift of a king, serve only to adorn the Mosque of St. Sophia, in Stamboul. Yes, companions, Greece has bequeathed to us her ever-living tongue, and Rome the germs of polity and law; but the bright collection of endowments, which go to form civilisation, having no root in itself, could not weather the storms of time and change. But there is a community which has weathered all these storms. Taking its rise in the earliest ages, founded on the purest principles of piety and virtue, it has pursued an onward course from age to age, a three thousand years' tale, not yet full told; but there is light all along its course, pointing the pathway to a happier land. Companions, Freemasonry can boast not only a most remote origin, but a most glorious career. Like a golden thread in some texture of beauty, it has run through the varying fabric of human thought, and like, the mighty Nile, it has wound its devious way through many a land, overflowing and fertilising the nations in its course. Meeting with various forms of religious belief and civil government, it has allied itself to all in proportion as each system was disciplined by order, practised in virtue, and founded on truth. Ours is indeed, a glorious fabric! Founded in strength, ordered by wisdom, and adorned with beauty! Purity of thought, integrity of life, benignity of manner, and, above all, charity, are the garments with which every true Royal Arch Mason is invested. It would be easy, companions, to dilate on the teachings of the Three Craft Degrees; but when we approach what seems to be the Fourth Degree in Freemasonry—the Holy Royal Arch—our ease disappears. Like the ladder in Jacob's dream, the base rests on a solid foundation, the intermediate steps are clear and well defined; but the summit is buried in the clouds! We naturally pause in the presence of that awful name, around which centres the solemn mysteries of this Supreme Degree, and a voice whispers to one and all of us:—"Draw not nigh hither; take off thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is Holy Ground." Let us, then follow the safe and reverential guidance of God's ancient people, the Jews, and the High Priest, when he entered the sanctum sanctorum, to make atonement for the sins of the people. The Essenes, a sect of the Jews, and from whom some think the Royal Arch Degree was derived, were especially careful on the point of secrecy. They formed themselves into a strict association, bound together by the most solemn obligations, spending their substance on their poorer brethren, and avoiding all topics of religious discussion. They advanced by successive degrees, at intervals of a year, and after repeated examinations. On admission, the initiate was adjured to lead a pure and holy life, to guard carefully, and transmit faithfully the secrets of the Order. Let us, then, imitate the reverence by which they were actuated. May it, companions, lead us to a proper reverence for the incomprehensible Jehovah, the Ruler of the Universe, the elemental life, the primordial source of all its principles, the very spring and fountain of all its virtues. Companions, if we have used the working tools of a Royal Arch Mason aright, if, with the pickaxe, we have cleared away the ruins of the temple of a fuller nature; if, with the trowel, we have built up a fairer temple for the reception of truth and virtue; if, with the sword by our side, we have fought for the weak against the strong, the true against the false, the good against the evil; if, with the spade, we have buried the rubbish of the body of the old Adam, then to us, as to our ancient brethren, the sun at its meridian shall dispel the mists of doubt, ignorance, and error, and make that light to us in death which was dark in life. Then, prostrating ourselves on the mercy of the true and living God, Most High, we shall be exalted to the Grand Chapter above. Then shall we see Jehovah, not as through a glass darkly, but face to face.

The three Principals who assisted the Consecrating Principal were Comps. Hayward, Bowes, and Gardiner, and Comp. Lamonby acted as Director of Ceremonies.

After the new chapter had been dedicated and constituted, the three Principals designate were installed by M.E. Comp. Bowes.

The officers appointed were as follows:—Comps. J. R. Banks, S.E.; J. H. Banks, S.N.; A. Walter, P.S.; R. Brown, 1st Ass. S.; E. G. Mitchell, 2nd Ass. S.; J. Gardiner, Treas.; J. Quay, D.C.; P. Dodgson, St. Br.

M.E. Comp. Bowes having been thanked for his services, and elected an honorary member of Nicholson Chapter, propositions of candidates for exaltation and joining members were given, after which the chapter was solemnly closed.

Subsequently the companions partook of a banquet, presided over by M.E. Comp. Nicholson, Z.; supported by Comps. Collin, H., and Mandie, J.

An emergency chapter was held the following evening, when Bro. J. H. Raven, Lodge 371, was exalted by M.E. Comp. Bowes, assisted by M.E. Comp. J. Barr, P.Z. 119, as P.S.

GRAND PRIORY OF LANCASHIRE.

By command of Sir Knight Clement Robert Nuttall Beswicke-Royds, Grand Commander of the County Palatine of Lancaster, the Knights of that division were summoned to attend a Grand Priory of the United Religious and Military Orders of St. John of Jerusalem, Palestine, Rhodes, and Malta, at the Guild Hall, Preston, on Wednesday, the 23rd ult., to assist in the transaction of divers urgent and important business in connection with the province of Lancashire.

The Prince of Peace Preceptory was opened shortly before one o'clock, and the Prov. Priory was subsequently opened by the V.E.G.C., Sir Knight C. R. N. Beswicke-Royds. The Registrar called over the muster roll of P.G. Officers and of the priories in the province; letters of apology from absent officers were acknowledged; and the minutes of the Prov. Grand Conclave, holden at Southport on the 18th day of May, 1878, were submitted and confirmed.

The appointment and investiture of the Provincial Officers were subsequently proceeded with, but, unfortunately, we are unable to give these, owing to the singular action of the Grand Commander of the province. Our representative asked for the courtesy usually extended to him by the heads of the various Masonic bodies to be allowed to copy the list of appointments, but this privilege was refused without any valid reason being assigned. Under these circumstances it is impossible to give information which must have proved interesting to our numerous readers in Lancashire.

The assembled Knights banqueted after business.

ST. ALBAN'S CATHEDRAL.

We have been requested to publish the following appeal, which we do with much pleasure, thoroughly approving of the object:—

"The proposed restoration of the West Front of the Cathedral Church of St. Alban's by the Freemasons of England, under the patronage of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, K.G., M.W.G.M.; H.R.H. Prince Leopold, K.G., P.G.M. Oxfordshire; Lord Skelmersdale, D.G.M., P.G.M. West Lancashire; His Grace the Duke of Manchester, P.G.M. Hunts and Northants; Earl Ferrers, P.G.M. Leicestershire and Rutlandshire; Earl of Zetland, P.G.M. North and East Yorkshire; Viscount Holmesdale, M.P., P.G.M. Kent; Lord Leigh, P.G.M. Warwickshire; Lord Methuen, P.G.M. Wiltshire; Lord Sherborne, P.G.M. Gloucestershire; Lord De Tabley, P.G.M. Cheshire; Lord Suffield, P.G.M. Norfolk; Lord Henniker, S.G.W.; Sir W. W. Burrell, Bart., M.P., P.G.M. Sussex; W. W. B. Beach, M.P., P.G.M. Hampshire and Isle of Wight; Gen. J. Studholme Brownrigg, C.B., P.G.M. Surrey; Lt.-Col. F. Burditt, P.G.M. Middlesex; Col. E. C. Malet De Carteret, P.G.M. Jersey; John Fawcett, P.G.M. Durham; Montague Guest, P.G.M. Dorsetshire; T. F. Halsey, M.P., P.G.M. Hertfordshire; Major W. H. Smyth, P.G.M. Lincolnshire; Lt.-Col. Le Gendre N. Starkie, P.G.M. East Lancashire.

"On Feb. 11th, 1879, a meeting was held at the Freemasons' Tavern, to consider a proposal that the Freemasons of England do undertake the restoration of some special portion of St. Alban's Cathedral as a memorial to St. Alban. A proposal to this effect had originated with the Hertford Lodge, No. 403, and has since been brought forward at the Provincial Grand Lodge of Hertfordshire, held at Watford, on July 26th, 1878, and the scheme approved, and a local Committee appointed to endeavour to carry out the undertaking.

"At the meeting of Feb. 11th, 1879, after a full explanation as to the nature of the proposal, it was unanimously resolved that the Freemasons of England be invited to subscribe towards the restoration of some special portion of the Cathedral, and a Central Committee was thereupon appointed, with power to add to their number, to carry out this object. It was further decided to undertake the restoration of the West Front of the Cathedral, or, in the event of the funds not being sufficient to carry out the whole scheme, one or more of the three beautiful but sadly dilapidated porches at the west end of the building.

"These porches may justly be considered not only to exhibit the most beautiful architectural details of this grand Cathedral, but from the extreme delicacy and beauty of their design, they cannot be excelled by any other examples of this or any other date throughout the kingdom. They were built by Abbot John de Cella, at the commencement of the 13th century, and formed part of a magnificent design for the reconstruction of the nave of the Abbey Church, which from want of the necessary funds was only partially carried out. The style of architecture is that commonly known as "Early English" or "First Pointed," and may well compare with similar examples to be found at Lincoln, Ely, Salisbury, and Wells Cathedrals, the Western or Galilee Porch of Ely Cathedral bearing a special resemblance to the central porch at St. Alban's.

"It is this central western porch which the Committee propose first to undertake, and their proposal has been most strongly approved by the executive Committee for the restoration of the Cathedral, who are specially anxious to see this portion of the work taken in hand, as this will form the completion of the main structural repairs, which have been going on for several years. A rough estimate was prepared by the late Sir Gilbert Scott, shortly before his death, which states that the probable cost for the restoration of the central porch would be £2500, and for each of the side porches £2000, or for the entire west front £9000. These sums appear at first sight very large, but very much will have to be done on account of the decayed and mutilated condition of the stone work. There can be no question as to the improvement which will be effected by the careful restoration of the west front. At some period, probably in the 16th or 17th century, some economical repairs were carried out. The outer portions of the north and south porches were cut away, and a plain and unsightly wall built up, which has entirely concealed the north and south porches, and the early English arcade on each side of them.

"It must, we think, be acknowledged that the Abbey Church of St. Alban's has a special interest for, as well as a special claim on the consideration of, all English Freemasons. The original church, built by King Offa in the 8th century, and of which portions remain, was erected by him, and, as we are told, the "Hond Masons," to the memory of St. Alban. Without asserting for Freemasonry a positive connection with St. Alban, it is nevertheless an undoubted fact that all the operative Guild legends from the 15th century claim Alban as a patron of Freemasons, and as the person who procured a charter for the assembly, and settled the amount of Masons' wages. This statement probably refers to the fact, that he was in some way officially connected with one of the operative Guilds or 'Collegia Fabrorum,' from which the Guilds clearly came. The earliest mention of St. Alban in connection with Masony is to be found in the Prose Constitutions, among the additional MSS. of the British Museum of date 1425. There we read at line 605:—"And Saint Alban loved well Masons, and he gave them first their charges and manners first in England, and he ordained convenient times to pay for the travail."

"This statement is repeated and amplified in numerous other Guild legends, such as the two Harleian MSS., the two Sloane, the three York, the Scottish MSS., the Lodge of Hope and the Alwrick MS. In the Lansdowne MS., A.D. 1560, we find these words:—"St. Alban was a worthy knight and steward of the king, his household, and bad government of his realm, and also of the making of the walls of the said town, and he loved well Masons, and cherished them much, and made their pay right good for he gave them 3 and vid. a week and iiii.; before that time all the land a Mason took but one penny a day and his meat, till St. Alban mended it, and he gave them a charter of the king and his "counsell," for to hold a general assembly, and gave it to name assembly."

"In the Antiquity MS. of date 1686, we find this further statement in addition to the above:—"And he got them a charter from the king and his "counsell," to hold a general "counsell," and gave it to name "assemblee," therat he was himself, and did help to make Masons, and gave them charges as you shall heare afterwards."

"In 'Krause's' so-called York MS., of date the beginning of this century (but of which it is fair to remark the original is so far unknown), we find this statement, amplified somewhat in these words:—"He, "that is St. Alban," made constitutions and charges for the Masons, and taught them the customs, everything as Amphibalus had taught him. He procured for them also good pay, for he gave to the workmen two shillings per week and three pence for their food, while formerly they had only one penny and their food. He also obtained a charter from the Emperor Carausius according to which the workmen in the whole of Britain were made into a society by themselves, and were placed under the architects, which had not been the case before, as each individual had taken work where he found it to do. St. Alban belonged to this society himself, helped to admit new workmen, and took care that they had always plenty of work, and he was the first to do this in Britain." With this unvarying tradition then before us, it seems most reasonable that the Freemasons of to-day, remembering their own Guild legends, will be glad to co-operate in the present reasonable and needful effort to restore that noble memorial of the pious labours of the past, which so appeals to our sympathies as patriots, lovers of architecture, and as Freemasons.

"Is it too much to hope that the present scheme will commend itself to the Freemasons of England, as it has to those of Hertfordshire, as well as to our Royal Grand Master and the Central Committee in London, and that our numerous and generous brotherhood will gladly embrace the opportunity of aiding to restore the godly fabric of St. Alban's Cathedral, and thus, as speculative Masons, identify themselves with those famous operative sodalities which have left such striking witnesses of their devotion to art and religion in these glorious 'Houses of God in our land,' which, like that at St. Alban's, remain to attest the good and kindly 'art of Masonry?'"

"To carry out this object, subscriptions are invited from the entire Craft, in such amounts as the brethren may be disposed to give, the maximum donation of each individual brother being limited to £5. Payments may be made either to the London and County Bank, Head Office, Lombard-street, E.C., or to the Branch at St. Alban's; or direct to the Hon. Secretary, Bro. C. E. Keyser, by whom formal receipts for all contributions will be given."

CONSECRATION OF THE HERVEY LODGE, No. 178E.

This new lodge was duly consecrated on the 8th of March at Mount Moriah, Port of Spain, Trinidad, by W. Bro. Cook, P.D.D.G.M., &c. The brethren having entered the lodge-room, Bro. Cook took the chair, and the Wardens were nominated. W. Bro. C. H. Phillips, W.M. 405, P.D.G.S.W., &c., officiated as Secretary.

The other worshipful brethren taking part in the ceremonial were Bros. M. R. Marquez, P.M. 368, and representative, by patent of appointment, of lodges in the Republic of Venezuela, assisted by J. H. Rat, W.M. 911; J. D. Giljezan, P.M.; L. E. DesRoses, P.M. 368; L. J. Alcazar, W.M. 368.

After the lodge had been duly opened in the Three Degrees, prayer was offered, and the Presiding Officer, in a brief address, stated the nature of the meeting.

The warrant constituting the new lodge was read by W. Bro. Phillips, and the brethren having signified their approval of the officers named in the warrant, Bro. Phillips then delivered an oration on the excellences of the Craft. The ceremony of the consecration was ably and impressively done.

The lodge having been resumed in the Second Degree, Bro. W. R. Prizgar, S.W. 405, P.D.G. Treas., the W.M. designate, a brother well able to propagate the general principles of the institution with zeal and ability, was duly installed as the first Master of the Hervey Lodge, this sublime ceremony being rendered with astonishing solemnity and effect.

The W.M. then invested his officers as follows:—W. Bro. C. H. Phillips, S.W.; J. H. Rat, J.W.; J. D. Giljezan, Sec.—these three exalted brethren (who are already up the ladder of Freemasonry) most willingly consented for the success of the new lodge to fill the offices to which they were appointed; Bros. P. A. Francis, Treas.; H. W. Armstrong, S.D.; C. B. Clement, J.D.; A. B. Warner, I.G.; and J. Matthews, Tyler.

The names of brethren who were ready to become joining members were given to the Secretary, and their applications read.

The lodge having been closed, a very choice banquet followed, provided by Mr. S. C. Baynes, of the Cosmopolitan Hotel, in his well-known first rate style, the table being tastefully decorated, and the viands and all the wines were of the most excellent quality.

It is needless to add that a most pleasant evening was spent, and all concurred in wishing Bro. Prizgar and the Hervey Lodge every possible success.

PROVINCIAL GRAND CHAPTER OF LEICESTERSHIRE AND RUTLAND.

The annual convocation of this Provincial Grand Chapter was held in connection with the installation meeting of the Chapter of Fortitude, No. 279, at the Freemasons' Hall, Leicester, on Thursday, the 24th ult.

Superintendent, Comp. Kelly, delivered the Mystical Lecture.

On the conclusion of the business the companions sat down to an elegant banquet, to which full justice was done, and a few hours spent very pleasantly and harmoniously.

In reference to the Treasurer's account of this chapter it may be mentioned that whilst the balance from last year and the receipts amounted to £89 9s. 6d., the only outlay upon refreshments was £1 19s. 6d., deficiency in the Stewards' accounts for the year ending February, 1878. There was contributed in charity £16 16s.; Grand Chapter fees £14 7s. 6d.; rent of hall £10; subscriptions, &c., to Masonic library at the hall for books £5 12s., &c., &c., leaving a balance in hand of £33 15s.

PROVINCIAL GRAND MARK LODGE OF CHESHIRE AND NORTH WALES.

By command of the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, Bro. the Hon. Wilbraham Egerton, M.P., the annual Provincial Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons of the united province of Cheshire and North Wales was held on Friday, the 18th ult., at the Masonic Hall, Llandudno. The Provincial Grand Lodge was held under the warrant of St. David's Lodge, Number 38 on the roll of Grand Lodge.

The R.W. Prov. Grand Master was attended by the following Prov. Grand Officers:—Bros. William Bulkeley Hughes, M.P. (acting), V.W.D.P.G.M.M.; George Higgins, P.S.G.W.; Frederick K. Stevenson, P.S.J.W.; W. L. Banks, P.G.M.O.; R. M. Townsend, P.G.J.O.; Richard Newhouse, P.G. Sec.; Donald Fraser, P.G.R.; Hugh Williams, P.G.A.D.C.; William Warren, P.G.I.G.; J. Worthington, P.G. Coxhead, P.P.G.A.D.C.; Lilley Ellis, P.P.G.S.D.; Reginald S. Chamberlain, P.P.G.D.C.; and several other Past Provincial Grand Officers of this and the adjoining province.

The Provincial Grand Lodge was opened in due form with solemn prayer at three o'clock by the R.W. Provincial Grand Master, when in answer to the roll call every lodge in the province was represented.

Newelle Tanner, T. H. Kirk, John Pemberton, C. H. Matier, R. C. Griffiths, and J. R. Ross.

The Provincial Grand Secretary read the minutes of the last Provincial Grand Lodge held at Birkenhead, which were duly confirmed.

A grant was made of fourteen guineas each to the Cheshire and North Wales and Shropshire Masonic Educational Institution.

The R.W.P.G.M.M. nominated and invested the following brethren as Provincial Grand Officers for the ensuing year:—

After the other business had been transacted, the R.W. Prov. Grand Master thanked the brethren for the large attendance, and congratulated them on the increasing prosperity of Mark Masonry. He particularly thanked the Prov. Grand Officers for the assistance and attention they had rendered him during the last twelve months.

After the lodge closed the brethren sat down to an excellent banquet, which gave satisfaction to all, at the Imperial Hotel.

PROVINCIAL GRAND MARK LODGE OF JAMAICA.

TESTIMONIAL TO THE REV. G. W. MACDONALD, B.A.

A highly successful entertainment was given in the Assembly Rooms, Holbeach, on Wednesday evening, the 16th ult., under the auspices of the Alexandra Lodge of Freemasons, when a purse of upwards of £40 was presented to the Rev. Grant W. Macdonald, B.A., who has been curate of this parish for the last eight years, and has just been preferred to the vicarage of Holbeach, St. Mark's. The audience was one of the largest we have seen collected in the rooms for some time past, and it was a cheering sight to see so many of the parishioners taking an evident interest in what was going on, and must have done the rev. gentleman's heart good to feel that his labours amongst the people had been appreciated.

The proceedings commenced with a speech from the Worshipful Master (Bro. Hodgkins), who said that Masons had assembled that evening to do honour to the son of a distinguished Mason, while parishioners were there to express their esteem for one who had been their pastor for some time.

An excellent programme was then performed, of which we have only room to state that the singing was very good, and the audience testified, by their repeated encores, how much they appreciated its superior character.

Bro. A. M. Welch, I.G. 985, then advanced up the room with a large purse, and, addressing the Worshipful Master, informed him that it contained over £40, collected from subscribers, and the W.M. then called upon Canon Hemmings, the vicar, to present the testimonial.

The rev. gentleman then said that he could only compare the proceedings that evening to the opening of Parliament in the absence of the Queen; they had had the flourish of trumpets, &c., in the good concert they had enjoyed, and it was his part now to read the Queen's speech, like the Lord Chancellor (laughter). He was sure his dear brother would fully appreciate their kindness to him that evening, one, like many other kindnesses, dealt out to him, and they were very glad to offer him this token of their respect. Clergymen lived in glass houses; they all looked to see how they lived. For his part, he was glad to feel they were not to lose him from the neighbourhood, and he trusted their prayers would follow him to his new sphere of work. It had been his pleasing duty to promote both curates whom he had found in the parish when he came to it, and concluded by presenting the testimonial.

The Rev. Grant Macdonald, in his reply, thanked the parishioners for the honour they had done him, and said that he would long remember their kindness, though he felt he did not deserve it; it was not the first time they had been so good to him, so that he was under a double debt of gratitude, which he could never repay. To the Freemasons he must especially return his thanks that evening, because he was not a Freemason himself, but as the son of the late Grand Master of Southern India, and the grandson of a former Grand Master of Sumatra, he felt that it was only an accident he was not a Mason, for Masonic blood might be said to be in his veins. He felt, with regard to his work in the parish, many others would have done it better, and fully appreciated their goodness in looking at it so kindly by taking the will for the deed, and, quoting an anecdote about Sidney Smith's first elevation to a benefice, which excited the laughter of the audience, he hoped his feelings were not of a similar nature. He reminded them that he was called to increased responsibilities, and concluded by asking for their prayers.

After singing the "National Anthem" the audience separated, having spent a very enjoyable evening, and we are sure that all wish Mr. Macdonald success in the future of his ministry.

Obituary.

BRO. JOHN TUNNAH.

The brethren of East Lancashire and many other brethren will learn with regret that their veteran Prov. G. Secretary, Bro. John Tunnah, departed this life on Sunday, 27th ult., in his 72nd year. The deceased brother was seized with an attack of paralysis about eight weeks ago, and for the past six weeks it had assumed such severity as to completely prostrate him. He was attended by Dr. F. B. Mallett, but all his skill proved unavailing, and death ensued at a quarter to four on Sunday afternoon, at his residence No. 111, Manchester-road, Bolton. Initiated on the 5th of July, 1849, in the Anchor and Hope Lodge, then No. 44 (now No. 37), Bolton, deceased was immediately appointed Secretary of his lodge, in which office he exerted himself assiduously for about seven years, and on his retirement from that office he was presented with a gold Past Master's jewel. In the year 1868 he served as Master of his mother lodge. Soon after his initiation he joined the St. John's Lodge, then No. 268 (now No. 221), Bolton, serving the office of J.W. in 1850, and W.M. in 1851. In 1854 he was appointed Prov. G. Secretary by Lord Francis Egerton (afterwards Earl of Ellesmere), R.W. Prov. G. Master, which office he continued to hold up to the time of his death, a period of 25 years, during which period he had without exception attended the whole of the meetings of the Prov. G. Lodge. On his re-appointment in 1874 for the 21st time as Prov. G. Secretary he was presented by Col. Starkie, R.W. Prov. G. Master, with a splendid jewel, as a mark of his appreciation of Bro. Tunnah's long and eminent services. At the installation of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales as M.W. Grand Master, on 28th April, 1875, Bro. Tunnah attended as one of the special Stewards from East Lancashire. Bro. Tunnah was exalted into Royal Arch Masonry in the Chapter of Concord, No. 37, Bolton, on the 2nd Oct., 1850, and after passing through the various offices, served as First Principal in 1855, and for many years he has held the office of Prov. G. Scribe E. Deceased was also a P.E.C. of the St. James of Jerusalem Encampment of Knights Templar, a Past Prov. G. Mark Overseer of Lancashire, and a member of the Eighteenth Degree, and numerous other Masonic Orders, but his great affection in Masonry was for the Craft Degrees. By profession he was a public accountant and auditor, having been in practice in Bolton (his native town) upwards of 40 years, the last 10 years of which he was in partnership with Bro. James Newton, who had for many years previously been his confidential clerk. By the expressed wish of the deceased the funeral, which took place on the 1st May, was strictly private.

BRO. WILLIAM BROWN.

On Wednesday afternoon, the 23rd ult., there was a large gathering of Masonic brethren (in spite of the exceedingly unpleasant weather), at Anfield Cemetery, on the outskirts of Liverpool, to pay the last tribute of respect to the remains of Bro. William Brown, who for a good many years had been identified with the Pembroke Lodge, No. 1299, meeting at West Derby, and latterly with the Marlborough Lodge, No. 1620, meeting at Tuebrook, near Liverpool. Amongst those present were Bros. H. Hindle, W.M. 1620; C. Tyrer, S.W. 1620; W. Woods, P.M. 1620; Luke Bagnall, Treasurer 1620; Thomas McCracken, J.D. 1620; W. King, I.G. 1620; F. B. Bramham, W.M. 1299; W. S. Bennett, S.W. 1299, and S.D. 1620; P. McMildrow, P.M. 1299, P.P.G.S.D.; W. Jones, P.M., D.C. 1299; W. Hiles, Sec. 1299; H. P. Bloomer, S.D. 1299; C. Ainsworth, S.S. 1299; K. W. Taylor, J.S. 1299;

R. Langley, P.M. 1299; T. Sammons, P.M. 1393; A. Mackay, T. E. Ingham, E. G. Tisdale, W. Bulcock, J. A. Barrow, J. McFall, W. Cotter, J. P. Titterton, G. King, 823; R. Armitage, T. J. Newman, W. J. Seymour, and others. There were altogether about 60 brethren, but the attendance would have been much larger if the time of the funeral had been better known and the weather more favourable.

HUTCHINSON'S "SPIRIT OF MASONRY."

Referring to Bro. Newington Bridges' note on "The Spirit of Masonry," in your last, and my own note thereon in the previous week's issue of the Freemason, I have, since the latter was written, fallen across a comparatively new edition of Bro. Hutchinson's admirable work, edited by Bro. Dr. Oliver, from which I find that "The Spirit of Masonry" was "originally sanctioned by Lord Petre, G.M., and the Grand Lodge, in 1766." The edition of 1796, mentioned by myself, as also that of 1775, referred to by Bro. Bridges, were, therefore, subsequent to the first edition. I formerly remarked that Bro. Hutchinson was also the author of the now scarce "History of Cumberland." A well-known antiquarian in this neighbourhood now informs me that Bro. Hutchinson, about the same time (1796), published a similar "History of Durham," and, further, that he was a native of the county of Durham. We have always claimed him as a Cumbrian. "The Spirit of Masonry," I may add, is sold by Bro. Kenning, 198, Fleet-street.

Masonic and General Tidings.

The Granite Chapter, of which M.E. Comp. Jas. Lewis Thomas, G.S.B. of England, is the M.E.Z. designate, is to be consecrated at Freemasons' Hall, on Friday next, the 9th inst., by M.E. Comp. John Hervey, Grand S.E. of England, assisted by M.E. Comp. Colonel Francis Burdett as H.; and M.E. Comp. Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, P.G.C., as J.; E. Comp. Buss, G. Swd. Bearer, will act as Director of Ceremonies.

Our Bro. John Batley's third daughter, Edith, was married to Mr. J. F. D. Waggett, the grandson of an old Freemason, and formerly a member of the Lodge of Antiquity, on Monday last, by Bro. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, P.G.C., at St. John's, Notting-hill, before a most brilliant gathering, a sister by the Rev. Mr. Gel, and Rev. Dr. Thornton. It is a curious coincidence that both Bros. Woodford and Batley belong also to the Lodge of Antiquity.

A TETOTAL RIFLE SHOT.—Of Dr. W. F. Carver, whose skill as a marksman has excited some interest at the Crystal Palace, the Times (April 15) says.—"The Tetotalers will be pleased to know that Dr. Carver has never tasted any intoxicating drinks, nor does he use tobacco in any form."

The Borough of Portsmouth Freemasons' Hall and Club Company, limited with a capital of £3000 in 600 shares of £5 each, has been formed for the purpose of acquiring a building and adapting it for the accommodation of Masonic lodges, chapters, &c.

A large and distinguished body of brethren were present on Wednesday last, at the installation meeting of the Northern Counties Lodge, No. 406. A report of the proceedings will appear in our next.

The London Fever Hospital, whose funds have been so much in need of assistance that the committee has had constantly to encroach upon its small invested capital, has received an anonymous donation of £1000.

Alderman Sir J. C. Lawrence, M.P., took part in the opening of a bazaar in aid of the funds of the Surrey Association for the general welfare of the Blind, at the Masonic Hall, Camberwell New-road.

We are sorry to learn that Bro. Coward, Past Grand Organist, is seriously ill of congestion of the lungs.

A Grand Council of the Illustrious Knights K. H. 300, will be held at the Hall, 33, Golden-square, on Tuesday next, at 4.45 p.m.

A National Great Priory of the United Orders of the Temple and Malta, will be held at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, London, on Friday next, at three o'clock, when the Great Prior will nominate and invest his officers, and other business will be transacted. The banquet will take place at half-past, under the presidency of the Great Prior, the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, G.C.T.

Live for something. Do good, and leave behind you a monument of virtue that the storm of time can never destroy. Write your name in kindness, love, and mercy on the hearts of thousands you come in contact with year by year; you will never be forgotten. No; your name, your deeds, will be as legible on the hearts you leave behind as the stars on the brow of the evening. Good deeds will shine as the stars of heaven.—Chalmers.

The Marquis of Hartington, M. P., will preside at the twenty-first annual dinner of the Railway Benevolent Institution, at Willis's Rooms, on Wednesday, May 14th.

Mr. Alderman Hadley, after making a tour in North Germany, has gone on a visit to Vienna.

The following reports of Lodge Meetings, &c., are in type, but stand over for want of space:—Lodge of Fraternity, Hova Ecclesia Lodge, Wellington Lodge of Instruction, Duke of Connaught Lodge; Presentation to a Prov. Grand Chaplain.

Some quaint pictorial cards have been issued by Bro. F. Thomas, hatter, 167, Fleet-street. The pictures are the outcome of a lively fancy, and at the back of the cards the merits of Mr. Thomas's specialities are described in verse, which is suggestive of the time when a certain firm of outfitters kept their own poet.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Pure Blood.—As this vital fluid, when in a healthy state sustains and renovates every part of the living system, so, when it becomes impoverished or impure, it exerts a precisely contrary effect. It is abundantly manifest that any medicine that does not reach the circulation can never exterminate the disease; but any preparation capable of exercising a sanitary influence over the blood, must with it be carried to every living fibre of the frame. The lungs, liver, heart, kidneys, and skin all receive benefits from its more wholesome condition. Holloway's Purifying Pills operate directly, powerfully, and beneficially upon the whole mass of blood, whether venous or arterial. They strengthen the stomach, excite the liver and kidneys, expel disease, and prolong existence.—ADVT.

sations for the meeting of chapters in cases of necessity, pending the application for charters to the Supreme Grand Chapter." When this letter was read the Committee felt the force of the argument of Comp. Prinsep, and at once, without going into any details, desired to recommend to this Grand Chapter that that which Comp. Prinsep sought should be brought before Grand Chapter and granted, or at all events proposed. The report was printed and circulated before the Committee discovered that in 1875 those powers were given to the Grand Z. Therefore those two paragraphs in the report would fall to the ground, and he might state that Comp. Sandeman, who took a great deal of interest in the revision of the laws, consulted with the other companions with whom he was in connection on the Committee, and supported that law which gave what Comp. Prinsep asked for. As the Superintendents had the wished-for power already, the two paragraphs would fall to the ground. He would, therefore, move that, with the exception of those two paragraphs, the report be taken as read.

Comp. James Lewis Thomas seconded the motion, which was put and carried, and on the motion of Col. Creation, seconded by Comp. James Lewis Thomas, was received and ordered to be entered on the minutes.

Col. Creation moved, and Comp. James Lewis Thomas seconded, the granting charters for the following chapters, for which petitions had been received:—

- 1st. From Comps. James Meacham Batham, as Z.; Henry Charles Adolphus Wandram, as H.; Frederick Irving de Lisle, as J.; and twelve others for a chapter to be attached to the Victoria Lodge, No. 1577, Napier, to be called the Victoria Chapter, and to meet at Napier, Wellington, North Island, New Zealand.
- 2nd. From Comps. Charles Thomas Pearce, as Z.; John Peter, as H.; John Kempthorne, as J.; and seven others for a chapter to be attached to the Loyal Victoria Lodge, No. 557, Callington, to be called the Valletort Chapter, and to meet at the Masonic Hall, Callington, in the county of Cornwall.
- 3rd. From Comps. Edward John Bradshaw Bumstead, as Z.; John Franks Chitenden, as H.; William Youldon, as J.; and seven others for a chapter to be attached to the Wellington Lodge, No. 548, Deptford, to be called the Wellington Chapter, and to meet at the White Swan Hotel, Deptford, in the county of Kent.
- 4th. From Comps. Henry Thomas Wood, as Z.; Charles Chester Cheston, as H.; Peter Lund Simmonds, as J.; and six others for a chapter to be attached to the Marquis of Dalhousie Lodge, No. 1159, to be called the Marquis of Dalhousie Chapter, and to meet at No. 33, Golden-square, London.
- 5th. From Comps. William Henry Lee, as Z.; George William Frederick Neville Green, as H.; Thomas Charles Chapman, as J.; and six others for a chapter to be attached to the Duke of Connaught Lodge, No. 1324, Dalston, to be called the Duke of Connaught Chapter, and to meet at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street, in the City of London.

Colonel Creation said the Committee have also received a petition from Comps. William Alexander Barrett, as Z.; Charles Gooden, as H.; Wilhelm Ganz, as J.; and six others for a chapter to be attached to the Orpheus Lodge, No. 1706, to be called the Orpheus Chapter, and to meet at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, London. This petition is regular in form, but as the lodge has not yet been in existence for two years, the Committee, bearing their resolution in mind that three years should elapse before a charter to be attached to a lodge be granted, except in very exceptional cases, cannot recommend that the prayer of the petition be yet complied with.

Comp. Barrett said he should like to explain what he and the other companions, as signatories of the petition, and members of the Orpheus Lodge, considered to be exceptional circumstances in making their petition for this new chapter. It was true their lodge was not quite two years old, but they had eighty-five subscribing members, and among that eighty-five they had twenty Past Masters, so that there was no possibility of a failure of succession to the Three Chairs; and they had a great number of brethren who were anxious to be exalted in that which they were taught to believe was the perfection of the Master Mason's Degree. For that reason it was that they had thought that theirs was an exceptional case, and he, therefore, before the recommendation of the Committee was granted, appealed to Grand Chapter to allow the matter to be reconsidered and the petition granted. He, therefore, moved the granting of the petition.

After a pause, Comp. Herbert Dicketts thought it was only fair to Comp. Barrett, who had stated his case fairly, that Grand Chapter should have the opportunity of recording their opinion upon it, and it was with that view he would second the motion.

Comp. E. J. Barron said there was nothing to distinguish this case from those cases which Grand Chapter had had before it on many previous occasions. In fact, at the last meeting but one, they had even a stronger case in its exceptional incidents than that which Comp. Barrett had just put before them, and the arguments there would equally apply to the present case. Many Past Masters and others would have to wait another year or two was all that could be said; but if Grand Chapter laid down a rule, such as they had, it ought not on every occasion of some small trifling inconsiderable advantage to an individual member be set aside. If Grand Chapter did that it might just as well have no rule at all. As a supporter of the rules of Grand Chapter he felt bound to speak against the proposition.

Comp. E. S. Snell said there was the case of a theatrical lodge which met in the daytime, because its members could not meet in the evening, where the charter for a chapter was refused. Those circumstances were very exceptional, and he could not think that, having refused that charter, they ought to grant it to others.

Bro. James Glasher said the rule had been laid down as an absolute rule, and followed implicitly. Occasionally reasons for breaking the rule had been brought before the companions, but it was a difficult thing to break through a rule on some occasions, and cling to it on others. On the occasion of a lodge applying for a chapter, when the members of the lodge were travellers, he was in a minority when he voted against it on the same principles as those enunciated by Comp. Birron. He should like it to be now settled for ever that no lodge could have a charter granted for a chapter unless the lodge had been three years in existence. The rule had been broken through, but he should like it not to be broken through in future.

Comp. James Lewis Thomas thought each case should be taken on its own merits, and no hard and fast line, such as that enunciated by Comp. Glasher, laid down by Grand Chapter. The Committee of Grand Chapter most earnestly desired to look on every case in a fair and equitable way, and they had looked on this case as they had on others, and, therefore, they did not recommend Grand Chapter to grant a charter. If the Grand Chapter Committee could have seen any exceptional circumstances in this case that they could have brought before Grand Chapter they would have done so, and as they had not discovered any such circumstances, he should certainly vote against the amendment.

Comp. A. J. Duff Filer hoped Comp. Barrett would not for one moment consider that the Committee would not recommend this petition to Grand Chapter for any ulterior object, or any reason than that of the rule laid down for Grand Chapter to follow. They had refrained from giving an opinion upon it, except that they could not recommend it, but they left it in the hands of Grand Chapter, feeling that they could not decide it themselves. If these rules laid down were not abided by, Grand Chapter might be considered as ignoring them altogether.

Comp. S. Rawson said the companions had the motion before them. He would like, however, to draw attention to one or two of the remarks that had been made as to the rule being a positive rule. It was not a rule of Grand Chapter at all; it was merely a rule made by the Committee for the good of Royal Arch Masonry. Where Grand Chapter saw it was needful, or saw the case was so exceptional that they could admit of a departure from that regulation (not a rule), Grand Chapter had power to do it, which they would not if there was a positive rule laid down. He had heard a little about this case, and he thought it an exceptional case, and one fit to be considered by Grand Chapter. The proposed chapter was to be attached to a lodge which from its very name showed that music was one great feature. He believed the chapter was to be carried out on the same rules and regulations, and with the same ideas; and therefore he thought when the brethren applied for a chapter, when they had twenty Past Masters in it, and several Past Principals, they would be able to carry it on without pushing forward brethren not duly competent. He thought this an exceptional case; but it was only his private opinion, and he rose only to inform Grand Chapter that the rule referred to was not a rule of the Order, but merely a resolution passed by the Committee of Grand Chapter some years ago, which it was always open to Grand Chapter not to abide by.

Comp. Joshua Nunn begged to be allowed to ask a question. It was stated that at least twenty members of the lodge were Past Masters. Were the whole of the twenty Royal Arch companions? He was only asking this because he thought in putting the question of this petition to Grand Chapter the companions ought to know the full extent of the question put before them, and whether there was really any matter given which would require additional consideration. If the twenty Past Masters were members of this Grand Chapter it would certainly make a very great difference.

Comp. J. March Case would also like to ask how long the lodge had been in existence.

Comp. Joshua Nunn said a year and a half.

Comp. H. G. Buss said since June, 1877.

Comp. Barrett, replying to Comp. Joshua Nunn, said that among the twenty Past Masters of the lodge five were honorary members, who were members of Grand Chapter and present Grand Officers; eight of the remaining fifteen were Royal Arch Masons. He thought that was quite sufficient to show there were enough to carry on the chapter, because there were sufficient companions ready to go on and take the chairs even though they were not Past Principals. In the lodge they had Past Principals, including honorary members, nine or ten; he was not quite certain which.

Comp. S. Rawson then put the motion in favour of granting the charter, when there appeared ten votes for it and twenty-four against it. The charter was, therefore, refused.

Comp. Col. Creation: The Committee beg further to state that on the 1st Nov., 1876, a charter was granted to be attached to the Fitzalan Lodge, No. 1432, Oswestry, which has not been taken up, and from information they had received they had reason to conclude that it never will be taken up. Under these circumstances the Committee recommend that the charter be cancelled.

Comp. Joshua Nunn seconded the recommendation, which was then put as a motion, and carried unanimously.

The Committee of General Purposes for the year ensuing was nominated as follows:

- Comp. H. C. Levander, Z. 742; nominated by Comp. Hogard.
- Comp. W. Stephens, P.Z. 862; nominated by Comp. Thos. Cubitt.
- Comp. James Lewis Thomas, P.Z. 13; nominated by Comp. Col. Creation.
- Comp. C. F. Hogard, P.Z. 141; nominated by Comp. Peter de Lande Long.
- Comp. Messent, P.Z. 8; nominated by Comp. Mullens.

Massey, P.Z. 619 (Freemason); W. H. Perryman, H. 1348; Henry Venn, H. 23; J. J. Berry, Z. 554; E. J. B. Bumstead, P.Z. 79; S. W. Lambert, J. 142; H. Grutenden, J. 74; T. Cubitt, P.Z. 177; W. Stephens, P.Z. 862, 874; T. Massa, J. 1296; H. Roberts, P.Z. 79; W. Dodd, P.Z. 1194; S. Mullens, P.Z. 733; H. C. Levander, Z. 142; G. Miller, P.Z. 300; J. Messent, Z. 8; J. E. Carpenter, P.Z. 1196; W. A. Barrett, H. 1537; H. Thompson, J. 619; and H. Sadler, H. 169, were also present.

The minutes of the last Quarterly Convocation having been read and confirmed, Comp. Hervey read the regulations for the government of the Supreme Grand Chapter during the time of public business.

Comp. Hervey read letters from Comps. Lord De Tabley and Lucia, regretting their inability to attend Grand Chapter, the former on account of business in Cheshire and the latter from indisposition.

The next business being the installation of the Principals, Comp. Hervey said that H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, the Earl of Carnarvon, Lord Skelmersdale, and Lord De Tabley having been already installed, they did not require re-installation.

The following companions were then installed as Grand Officers for the current year:—

| Comp. John Hervey ... | ... | G. Scribe E. |
| " Ernst Emil Wendt ... | ... | G. Scribe N. |
| " Lord Kensington, M.P. ... | ... | O.P.S. |

| " Matthew Clark ... | ... | G. Std. B. |

Comp. S. Rawson then rose and said there was one other officer usually installed next, and he was sure it was with very great feelings of regret that they had seen the last of Comp. C. B. Payne, who had for so many years filled that office, which was that of Janitor to Grand Chapter, and Grand Tyler to Grand Lodge. The news of his demise he was sure must be received with very great grief by every companion present. It was not now for him (Comp. Rawson) to appoint Comp. Payne's successor, but thinking that a record of the regret of Grand Chapter should be made at Comp. Payne's death, and the loss which they had all sustained by his demise, he would propose that the regret of Grand Chapter be recorded on the minutes.

The motion was seconded by Comp. Platt, and carried unanimously.

Col. Creation then said that before moving the reception of the report of the Committee of Grand Chapter he had to inform the companions that a mistake had been made in that report, in the insertion of paragraphs 8 and 9, which were to the following effect:—"A letter dated 14th March last, from Comp. the Hon. Henry Thoby Prinsep, Grand Superintendent of Bengal, was read, pointing out the very great inconveniences which arise from Superintendents not being able to issue provisional charters pending the applications to Grand Chapter. The Committee being fully satisfied that the complaint is well grounded, beg to recommend that the Supreme Grand Chapter authorise the Most Excellent First Grand Principal to grant powers to such Superintendents as he may think fit to issue dispen-

Comp. E. H. Letchworth, P.Z. 2; nominated by Comp. Jas. Lewis Thomas.

These companions were elected unanimously, and Comp. S. Rawson announced that the First Grand Principal had nominated on the same Committee Comps. Col. Creaton, Robert Grey, and A. J. Duff Filer. Grand Chapter was then closed.

REPORTS, etc., intended for insertion in current number, should reach the Office, (198, Fleet-street), by six o'clock p.m., on Wednesdays.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

ROYAL OAK LODGE (No. 871).—The regular meeting of the above lodge was held on Thursday, the 24th ult., at the White Swan Hotel, 217, High-street, Deptford. Bro. R. Harman, W.M., initiated Mr. Taylor, and raised Bro. Clark, all the work being very well done. Bro. Frederick Walters, P.P.G.D. Middlesex, P.M., resigned the Secretaryship through ill-health. His resignation was accepted with great regret. A notice of motion was given to place him on the list of honorary members. Bro. J. J. Pakes, P.M., was appointed and invested Secretary. A vote of thanks was given and placed on the minutes for services rendered by Bro. H. J. Fisher, late Organist. A committee was appointed to search in question the eligibility of members to be placed on seafaring and country members' list. Business being ended the lodge was closed, and adjourned to meet on Thursday, July 24th. A banquet followed. Toasts, songs, recitations, and good music passed away some pleasant hours. There were present Bros. R. Harman, W.M.; J. G. Vohmann, S.W.; G. Harvey, J.W.; John J. Pakes, P.M., Sec.; W. A. R. Harris, S.D.; E. Good, J.D.; G. Porter, I.G.; G. Andrews, P.M., D.C.; J. Truelove, P.M.; H. J. Tuson, P.M.; Whibley, Buhler, Sanders, Stanley, Base, Stringer, Fellows, Hill, Luckcraft, Simmons, Clark, Horton, Atkins, Wildermuth, Fisher, Alsford, Woollett, Buchele. The visitors were Bros. G. Robinson, 1259; C. Bell, W.M. 140; W. C. Holland, P.M. 1321; Rev. H. Wells, 140.

SIR HUGH MYDDELTON LODGE (No. 1602).—An emergency meeting of this lodge was called on Friday, the 2nd inst. Present: Bros. T. J. Coombs, W.M.; Edward G. Sim, P.M.; G. Somers, P.M.; A. F. Rowley, S.W.; John Weston, J.W.; J. Greenfield, Treas.; John Osborn, Sec.; J. Poulton, J.D.; P. G. Thomas, Org.; H. Field, I.G.; J. G. Rimmell, W.S.; and W. Steedman, Tyler. Members: Bros. J. Hollidge, W. Payne, J. Crocker, E. Payne, E. Harris, W. Weil, E. Abrams, J. Alexander, C. Gwyn, E. Prilkin, H. Godolphin, E. J. Percy, J. Kitchiner, C. Parslow, and A. H. Chisholm, (Freemason). Visitors: Bros. Fraser, of St. John, New Brunswick; T. Weil, 185; and E. Roberts, 1683. In consequence of the indisposition of the W.M., Bro. Sim took the chair. The lodge having been opened in the Second Degree, and Bro. J. Alexander having given satisfactory proof of his claims to preferment, it was opened in the Third Degree. Bro. Alexander was then raised, Bro. Sim performing the ceremony in his usual effective manner. The lodge having been resumed to the Second Degree, the W.M. took the chair, and passed Bro. T. C. Duncan, who previously satisfied the brethren with his progress in Masonic knowledge. The lodge was then closed in this degree, and the principal business which had called the brethren together, namely, the initiating of Mr. W. Weil and Mr. Elias Harris, both of whom are about to proceed to the Cape, was gone through. The brethren afterwards sat down to an excellent dinner, presided over by the W.M. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were drunk, interspersed with some excellent singing by several of the company, and having spent a very enjoyable evening, the brethren separated shortly after eleven o'clock.

BATH.—Royal Cumberland Lodge (No. 41).—The last regular meeting of the season was held at the Masonic Hall, on Thursday, the 1st inst., when the lodge was opened punctually at 7.30 by Bro. Braham, W.M., assisted by Bros. F. Wilkinson, I.P.M.; Dr. Hopkins, P.P.G.S.W., and P.M. of 43 and 958, S.W.; Jas. Dutton, P.M. as J.W.; Ashley, P.M., Treasurer; Radway, Secretary; Peach as S.D.; Mercer, J.D.; Holmes, I.G.; Ames, Steward; Bigwood, Tyler. The only other P.M.'s present were Bros. Brown, P.P.G.S.W., and Moutrie, and the attendance of members was unusually scanty, for which in several cases explanation was given, as another meeting was held at the same hour, calling away some who would otherwise have attended. The Secretary announced the receipt of a very good letter from the son of the aged Bro. Marsh, an old P.M. of this lodge, as mentioned in the last report, and also stated that in consequence of his remark that this brother is probably the oldest Mason in England, a communication had been sent to him claiming that position for Sir Moses Montefiore, who was initiated in 1812. Bro. Ashley announced that the candidate for the Boys' School from this province at the recent election had succeeded in obtaining admission. The lodge was opened in the Second Degree. Bro. Charbury, a brother desiring to be raised, was examined, entrusted, and dismissed for preparation. The lodge was opened in the Third Degree, and he was duly admitted to the rank of M.M. by the W.M., who, performing the ceremony for the first time, proved himself entitled to the compliments of the brethren on his efficiency, and openly received them, expressed in favourable terms by the Secretary. The S.W.

gave the traditional history, the charge, and an elaborate lecture on the Tracing Board. The J.D. very nicely explained the symbolism of the working tools. The lodge was lowered to the Second, and afterwards to the First Degree. The W.M. called the attention of the brethren to the photographs of the Masonic charts executed and just published for the benefit of the Masonic Charities by the S.W., and proposed that a set of the larger ones be purchased and framed, which, being seconded by Bro. Mullis, was carried. The lodge was closed at a quarter to ten.

GIBRALTAR.—Inhabitants Lodge (No. 153).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held on the 7th ult., in the new and commodious rooms in Armstrong's Terraces, Scud Hill, under the presidency of Bro. E. Bacon, W.M.; supported by Bros. J. Conroy, I.P.M.; J. Cunningham, P.M.; and J. Crawley, W.M. 325, I.C. The following officers were in their places: Bros. B. White, S.W.; J. King, J.W., and Org.; Charles T. Armstrong, Treas.; F. Myatt, Sec.; J. Button, S.D.; W. Allen, J.D.; H. Clipson, M.C.; P. Lyons, I.G.; and M. Ghio, Tyler, besides about forty members and visitors. The business of the evening was to initiate, if approved, Messrs. Ponsonby and Norton, of the Royal Artillery, and H. Clark, of the Royal Engineers, also to ballot for as-rejoining members Bros. Sinclair, 71st Regt., and J. Crompton, R.E. Department, and to raise Bro. Padmore. The ballot, in all cases, proving favourable, Messrs. Ponsonby, Norton, and Clark were admitted and initiated into the secrets and mysteries, in the Worshipful Master's usual style, and the charge was given them by Bro. White, S.W., in a form both able and impressive. The lodge was then opened in the Second and Third Degrees respectively, and Bro. Padmore was raised to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason by Bro. Bacon, in a manner which drew forth afterwards from two or three of the visiting brethren some very high encomiums, not only with reference to the Sublime Degree itself, but also to the general working of the lodge. Indeed, Bro. Bacon must be congratulated not simply on his own success, but likewise upon the efficiency of his officers, all of whom display an energy, interest, and correctness of work which augurs well for the lodge's future. The lodge was then lowered to the First Degree. A candidate for initiation and two joining members being proposed, and some routine business disposed of, the lodge was closed in due and ancient form, and after a short admonition from Bro. Crawley, W.M. 325, the brethren retired to the refreshment room. After supper the W.M. proposed the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, and in speaking to that of the "Newly Initiated," dwelt on the high character and well-known fitness for Masonic privileges of Bros. Ponsonby, Norton, and Clark, and trusted that as they had proved themselves good men without Masonry, so inside its pale they would become better men. Bro. Ponsonby replied for the initiates in a few well-chosen remarks, and thanked the officers and brethren very heartily for the honour conferred by admitting them to the lodge. The W.M. again rose, and said: I must beg the attention of the brethren for a few moments while I perform a duty which is at once pleasing and rare. It is to present to our I.P.M., Bro. Conroy, a small jewel as a slight recognition of his services during the past year, a duty and pleasure which abler hands than mine would do more justice to. Brethren, towards the end of last year there was a generally expressed wish that Bro. Conroy should receive some memento of his year of office, but the lodge funds being of necessity low, owing to removal, &c., an individual subscription was resorted to, and when I tell Bro. Conroy that this jewel was purchased with the contributions of more than thirty members, and that too when the numbers were very fluctuating, I feel assured that its value, in his eyes, will be considerably enhanced. Bro. Conroy (turning to the I.P.M.), nothing I can say will add to the estimation in which you were held by the brethren whilst in the chair of K.S., and which is tersely expressed on the reverse of the jewel. On behalf of the subscribers, I have much pleasure in pinning this on your breast, and may you long live to wear it. After his health had been duly toasted, Bro. Conroy replied that he was more than pleased with the feeling which had animated the brethren in doing him so much honour—an honour which he certainly never expected. He was of opinion he was undeserving of such kindness, for after all he had only done what was the duty of every W.M. in whom, as in his case, so much confidence had been placed, and from whom so much was very properly expected. He must beg leave, however, to tell them, that it was not to his own efforts only that success had been obtained last year, but to the unflinching interest and efficiency displayed in the lodge work by his officers. His Wardens were ever ready with their charges and lectures, and his Secretary always foremost with his advice and assistance. Under these circumstances he could not help taking the opportunity of stating to the brethren again the obligation he was under to those who had rendered him such signal service. He should always wear the jewel with pride, not only as a memento of his past honoured position, but as a testimony of the esteem of the brethren who had placed him in that position. He concluded by wishing the lodge continued prosperity. The toasts of "The Joining Members," "The Visitors," and the Tyler's toast wound up a most agreeable evening. Between the toasts and replies some excellent songs were given, those of Bros. Ponsonby, Lyons, and Armstrong being especially applauded for their humorous execution. The W.M. has exercised a wise discretion in restoring the musical accompaniments in the different Degrees given in this lodge.

MANCHESTER.—Lodge of Affability (No. 317).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge took place at the Freemasons' Hall, Cooper-street, on Thursday, the 1st inst., at six o'clock. There were present Bros. John Roger Lever, W.M.; Daniel Donbavand, I.P.M.; William Nicholl, S.W.; John Bladon, D.C., acting J.W.; Tomlin, S.D.; Halliday, J.D.; John Smethurst, Treasurer; John Church, Secretary, J. Wilson, acting I.G.; Steward; J. Kirk, Tyler; J. Dawson, P.M.; J. Sillitor, P.M., P.P.G.D.C. East Lancashire; S. Titmas, P.M.; E. B. Harding, Clark, De Yongh, Higginbottom, Percival, John Lawton, G. Heywood, J. W. Edwards, Rix, Sumner, E. H. Bates, Walmsley, and R. R. Lisenden (Freemason). Visitors: J. Cummins, 1633; J. Davis, 1147; Stephenson, 1319 and 1633; Forrest, 1633; S. Kewson, P.M. 317; T. R. Peel, 1147 and 1488; J. Elliott, 1147 and 1488; and Birchall, 1547. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, after which Mr. John George Elderton, having been balloted for and elected a member of the lodge, was duly initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry. Bro. S. Titmas, P.M., performed this ceremony, and also explained the working tools. At the conclusion of the ceremony of initiation, and the retirement of the candidate, the lodge was raised to the Second Degree, and Bro. John Lawton having satisfactorily answered the necessary questions for passing, retired. The W.M. then resumed the chair, and passed Bro. Lawton to the degree of F.C., and also explained the working tools in a very able manner. This being all the business, the lodge was closed to the First Degree, and the W.M. informed the brethren that the widow of a deceased brother (the particulars of whose case was brought before the lodge at last meeting) had applied to him for relief, and as the brethren knew the particulars of her case, which was a very hard one, and deserving of support, he would propose that a petition on her behalf be sent to Grand and Provincial Grand Lodges, signed by himself and his officers, and majority of the brethren then present. The proposition was seconded by Bro. J. Dawson, P.M., and being put to the lodge, unanimously carried. A candidate for initiation was proposed by Bro. Halliday, and "Hearty good wishes" having been expressed by the visiting brethren, the lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to the refreshment board, where a substantial supper was served, to which about thirty sat down. On the removal of the cloth the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and responded to. The W.M. then proposed "The Health of the Initiate, Bro. John George Elderton," which was drunk with enthusiasm by all present, and briefly acknowledged. Other toasts followed, and some excellent glees by Bros. Lever, Robberds, and Gouldthorpe, comic songs humorously sang by Bros. Stephenson, Gouldthorpe, and Robberds, and a recitation by Bro. Forrest, given with great pathos, added greatly to the enjoyment of the brethren, who separated before eleven o'clock.

MANCHESTER.—Lodge of Integrity (No. 163).—The monthly meeting of this influential lodge was held at the Freemasons' Hall, Cooper-street, on Wednesday, April the 30th, at six o'clock. Officers present: Bros. Henry Walley, W.M.; John Edward Williams, S.W.; Alfred Heald, J.W.; B. Williams, P.M., Treasurer; Wm. Siddeley, Secretary; J. M. Sinclair, S.D.; Joseph Senior, J.D.; George F. Smith, I.G.; H. H. Warburton, P.M., Organist; Joseph Mackie, P.M.; W. D. Waddell, Wm. Livesey, John Studd, and Henry Heap, Stewards; and J. Kirk, Tyler. There was a very numerous attendance of the members. Visitors from lodges Nos. 44, 1459, 1147, 1053, 815, 1219, 1319, 1633, 1496, 537, 1357, 657, 1117, and 1473 were also present. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, after which Bro. A. F. Youle was passed to the Degree of F.C. by the W.M., who performed the ceremony in a creditable manner, assisted by his officers, of whom Bro. J. M. Sinclair, S.D., deserves honourable mention. On the retirement of Bro. Youle the lodge was opened in the Third Degree, and Bro. W. Rome, P.M., resumed the chair, and raised Bro. Leo Bernstein to the Sublime Degree of a M.M. in such a praiseworthy manner that fully bore out the credit this lodge has won for its "working." At the conclusion of this ceremony the lodge was lowered to the First Degree, and two new candidates were proposed for election. "Hearty good wishes" having been expressed by the visitors, the lodge was closed in ancient form, and the brethren assembled round the social board. The customary loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, and the W.M. then proposed "The Healths of Bros. Youle and Bernstein," which were enthusiastically received and responded to in suitable terms. Bro. the Rev. — Cottam, W.M. of the Friendship Lodge, replied on behalf of the visitors in a most eloquent speech. Other toasts followed, and during the intervals several brethren musically entertained the lodge. The proceedings throughout were of a most enjoyable character, and the brethren separated at eleven o'clock.

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE.—Northern Counties Lodge (No. 406).—The installation meeting of this distinguished lodge was held on Wednesday, the 30th ult., at the Freemasons' Hall, Maple-street, and was graced by the presence of the Deputy Grand Master of the province, Bro. L. M. Cockroft, and the following provincial officers:—Bros. Adam Robertson, P.M., W.M. 1167, P.G.S.W.; John Ridsdale, P.M. 406, P.G.J.W.; George Robinson, P.G.C.; George Cockburn, P.G. Reg.; John Bolam, P.G.S.D.; E. D. Davis, P.G.D. of C.; Geo. I. Dean, I.P.M. 541, P.G.A.D. of C.; Bertram P. Ord, P.G. Org.; Joseph Cook, P.M. 481, P.P.G.S.W.; W. E. Franklin, P.M., P.P.G.S.D.; and W. Waller, P.P.J.G.W. Yorks, N. and E. Ridings. The lodge was opened in due form by the W.M., Bro. R. L. Armstrong, Prov. Grand Purst. assisted by the following brethren:—Bros. G. Thompson, P.M., P.P.G.S.W.; R. B. Brown, P.M.; T. J. Armstrong, P. R. Knox, P.M.; Monday, P.M.; John Page, S.W.; R. Salmon, J.W.; John Ridsdale, Treas.; George W. L. Secretary; S. M. Harris, S.D.; E. Dunford, J.D.; J. S.

Bell, J. A. Macdonald, A. Hume, W. G. Sisson, R. Charlton, J. F. Turnbull, H. Coxon, Alex. Laing, R. J. Milbourne, P. Bourgoigne, H. Hunter, A. Hunter, Henry E. Joel, John Nicholson, Thos. Forster, George Bradford, Charles Harrington, and R. Bellby. Among the visitors present were Bros. Raph Carr, W.M. 24; Wm. Cooper, W.M. 1342; W. M. Bell, W.M. 1557; James McCulloch, I.P.M. 1643; John Wood, S.W. 48; John Usher, J.W. 181; R. C. Symonds, S. G. Humfray, jun.; R. A. Dodds, Wm. Pearson, R. Ferry, A. J. Joel, G. E. Macarthy, C. B. Ford, J. W. Gibson, and F. A. Kelly (Freemason). The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Ballot was then taken for the initiation of Mr. Duncan Macdonald, who was declared duly elected. At this point the W.M. was informed that the Grand Officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge were without, awaiting admittance. They were at once admitted, the brethren receiving them by standing, in which position they remained until the Provincial Grand Officers were seated upon the dais. Mr. Macdonald, having been properly prepared, was admitted, and received from the hands of Bro. Armstrong, W.M., the First Degree in the mysteries of Ancient Freemasonry, the explanation of the working tools being well given by Bro. R. G. Salmon. The report of the Finance Committee was then read, from which we learn that a very satisfactory amount was in the hands of the Treasurer. The report, on the motion of the W.M., seconded by the Junior Warden, was unanimously adopted. The leading event of the meeting was then proceeded with, viz., the installation of Bro. John Page as W.M. for the ensuing year. After the usual charges had been read by the Secretary, the lodge was opened in the Third Degree, when all the brethren below the rank of Installed Master withdrew. Bro. R. L. Armstrong then, in a most able and impressive manner, installed Bro. John Page into the chair of K.S. On the re-admission of the brethren, the working tools in the several Degrees were presented, and the newly-installed W.M. was saluted in ancient form. Bro. John Page then appointed and invested the following brethren as his officers for the ensuing year: Bros. Robert Lamb Armstrong, P.G.P., I.P.M.; R. G. Salmon, S.W.; George W. Laz, J.W.; Rev. E. Humble, Chap.; John Ridsdale, P.G.J.W., Treas.; Solomon M. Harris, Sec.; E. Dunford, S.D.; J. S. B. Bell, J.D.; Robert Knox, P.M., D. of C.; R. Ferry, Organist; J. A. Macdonald, I.G.; A. Hume, S.S.; W. G. Sisson, J.S.; and G. S. Sims, Tyler. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren repaired to the Turk's Head Hotel, where an excellent banquet awaited them, and which was presided over by Bro. J. Page, W.M., supported on the right by Bro. Adam Robertson, Prov. Grand Senior Warden, and on the left by the Immediate Past Master, Bro. R. L. Armstrong, Prov. Grand Pursuivant. On the removal of the cloth the following toasts were given:—"Her Majesty the Queen," "H.R.H. the M.W.G.M.," "The M.W. Pro G.M., the Earl of Carnarvon, the R.W. Deputy G.M., Lord Skelmersdale, and Officers of the Grand Lodge," "The R.W. Prov. G.M., Earl Percy, the V.W.D.P.G.M., Bro. L. M. Cockroft, and the Officers of P.G.L. of Northumberland," proposed by the W.M., and responded to by Bro. A. Robertson, Prov. Grand Senior Warden; "The Provincial Grand Master of Durham, R.W. Bro. John Fawcett, and Officers of the P.G.L. of Durham," which was acknowledged by Bro. Hopper; "The Worshipful Master," proposed by Bro. Armstrong, and acknowledged by Bro. John Page; "The Immediate Past Master and Installing Officer," proposed by Bro. R. B. Brown, P.M., in very complimentary terms, and gracefully acknowledged by Bro. Armstrong; "The Past Masters of the Northern Counties Lodge," to which Bro. John Ridsdale, Prov. Grand Junior Warden, ably responded. Bros. R. G. Salmon, S.W., and Past Master Monday respectively replied for "The Present and Past Officers." "The Visiting Brethren," given by Bro. Armstrong, and replied to by Bro. Joseph Cook. Bro. John Bolan, Prov. Grand Senior Deacon, proposed "The Masonic Charities," which was replied to by Bro. George Thompson. The Tyler's toast, proposed by Bro. George Sims, brought to a conclusion one of the most brilliant and successful Masonic meetings that have been held in Newcastle.

NORTH SHIELDS.—St. George's Lodge (No. 431).—At the regular monthly meeting of this lodge, held on Monday, the 5th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Norfolk-street, North Shields, there were present Bros. Thos. Robson, W.M.; John Harcus, P.M., P.G.S.D.; A. Mustart, S.W.; J. Burdass, J.W.; W. J. Ward, P.M., P.P.G.J.W., Treas.; James Roddam, P.M., Sec.; W. Perkins, J.D.; John G. Tulloch, P.M., P.P.G.S.W., D. of C.; C. Haswell, Org.; W. B. McLearn, I.G.; G. H. Stansfield, Steward; Joseph Robertson, Tyler; P. Matthews, Thos. Anderson, J. G. Gibson, N. C. K. Fenwick, H. Sale, E. Prince, A. Anderson, James Murray, W. W. Bell, R. B. Stannard, E. Towns, Thos. Mothersdale, C. Hellberg, L. R. Inch, R. Reid, C. L. Taws, R. B. Henderson, Wm. Carnaby, and Thomas S. Massey. Visitors: Bros. A. Read, 32 (I.C.); W. H. Dodds, J.D. 1119; C. W. Henzle, 541; George Davidson, 240; C. Rooke, 24; Thomas G. Douglas, 94; and F. A. Kelly (Freemason). The lodge having been opened in the First Degree, and the minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed, Bros. Thompson and Stannard, candidates for the Second Degree, were examined, and having proved their efficiency retired. The lodge was then opened in the Second Degree, when the candidates were again admitted, and passed to the degree of Fellow Craft by the W.M., the working tools being explained by Bro. A. Mustart, S.W. Bro. J. R. Inch was examined, and, having answered in a satisfactory manner, withdrew. The lodge being opened in the Third Degree, Bro. Inch was raised to the rank of Master Mason by the Worshipful Master, who also explained the working tools. The lodge was shortly afterwards closed, and the brethren adjourned to refreshment.

HAMPTON COURT.—Burdett Lodge (No. 1293).—The usual meeting of this prosperous lodge was held at the Mitre Hotel, on the 26th ult. The chair was, in the unavoidable absence through illness of Bro. Shaboe, W.M., taken by Bro. Southwell, I.P.M. He was supported by Bros. Sindall, S.W.; Gordon, J.W.; Buss, Treas.; Pearce, Sec.; Kentish, S.D.; Sanders, J.D.; Maple, W.S.; and Bindoff, I.G. The visitors were Bros. J. L. Thomas, A.G.D.C.; Howe, G.P., and several others. Bro. Southwell raised Bro. Spralling to the Sublime Degree of a M.M., and afterwards initiated Messrs. Farr and Ward into the mysteries of Freemasonry. Bro. Raynham Stewart, P.G.D., and P.D.G.M. Middlesex, passed his son, Bro. Francis Stewart, to the Second Degree. All the work was done in the most efficient manner. A sum was unanimously voted to present a small testimonial to Bro. Buss, as a token of the esteem and respect in which the lodge holds him, and also as a recognition of the labour he has undergone as Secretary, and (owing to the lamented illness of Bro. Little, the late Treasurer), for many years past as Treasurer and Secretary. After labour the brethren adjourned to a banquet, provided with the usual care and liberality by Bro. Sadler, and the usual toasts were given and responded to.

STOCKTON.—Lodge of Fraternity (No. 1418).—The annual festival and installation of the Worshipful Master of this lodge was held at the Freemasons' Hall, Wellington-street, on Thursday, the 24th ult. The lodge having been duly opened, two gentlemen were balloted for, Mr. Wilson Furness initiated a brother, and Bro. Peter Hallstrom raised. The next business was the installation of Bro. John Purkis Banning as Worshipful Master of the lodge, the ceremony being performed by Bro. W. J. Watson, P.M., P.J.G.D., concluding with the usual saluting of the Worshipful Master after he had been duly placed in the chair. The Worshipful Master afterwards appointed the following brethren as his officers, viz.—James Hall, S.W.; G. E. Pybus, J.W.; W. J. Watson, Treasurer; J. Broome, Secretary; G. Pickering, S.D.; G. E. Smirk, J.D.; J. Reed, I.G.; A. Crosby and Thomas Bowman, Stewards; Thomas Preston, Organist; and J. Trenholm, Tyler. At the close of the installation ceremony, Bro. J. Broome, Secretary, in accordance with a resolution passed at the previous lodge, presented in graceful terms a vote of thanks, beautifully illuminated and engrossed on vellum, to the Immediate Master, Bro. John T. T. Thorner, in recognition of his services as Worshipful Master during the past year. Bro. Thorner feelingly acknowledged the gift, which he assured the brethren would ever be prized by him as a memento of their kindness towards him. The brethren present were J. P. Banning, J. T. T. Thorner, P.M.; G. D. Leng, P.M., J. Hall, W. J. Watson, J. Broome, G. E. Pybus, J. M. Pickering, G. E. Smirk, J. Reed, A. Crosby, M. W. Pybus, J. Cook, T. Gibson, T. Bowman, J. McBride, W. Breckon, T. Preston, W. Henderson, J. Bot, C. Burnett, J. Tirman, and W. Furness, Fraternity, 1418; J. Hutton, P.M., P.P.G.D.; Thos. Wilkes, P.M.; J. F. Mann, P.M.; J. Usher, P.M.; J. F. Craggs, W.M.; J. H. Hart, R. W. Foss, R. Dickinson, and J. Hatcher, Philanthropy, 940; A. Iley, P.M.; D. H. Watson, J.D.; E. J. Fullerton, F. J. H. Bellinger, and W. Brayshaw, Tees, 509; J. Burn, Waverley, 1322; Chas. E. Kerr, Dalziel, St. John, 406. The lodge being closed, the brethren and friends adjourned to the banquet hall, where a sumptuous repast was served up in an admirable manner. After dining, the Worshipful Master, presiding, proposed the toast of "The Queen and the Craft," the company assisting in the National Anthem. He next submitted that of "The Health of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M. of England," who, he said, would hand a name down to posterity as one of the brightest ornaments of Freemasonry. Song, "God Bless the Prince of Wales," Bro. J. Hall. The toast which followed was that of "The Health of Bro. the Earl of Carnarvon, R.W. Pro G.M. of England." Song, Bro. C. Burnett. Bro. J. Hutton, P.M., P.P.G.D., proposed the toast of "The R.W.D.G.M. of England, with the Present and Past Grand Officers." In offering the toast he said Lord Skelmersdale had proved the right man in the right place, or the brethren would never have placed him in the proud position which he now occupied and ably discharged the duties, which remark he added might apply equally well to the Present and Past Grand Officers. Song, Bro. G. E. Smirk. Bro. James Hall gave the next toast, "The R.W.P.G.M. of Durham (Bro. John Fawcett)." Song Bro. L. H. Hart. Bro. Pybus proposed "The Health of the W.D.P.G.M. of Durham, and the Present and Past G. Officers," coupling with the names Bro. W. J. Watson, P.M., P.J.G.D., who returned thanks. Song, Bro. Hall. Bro. W. J. Watson then proposed the toast of the evening, "The Worshipful Master of the Lodge of Fraternity (Bro. J. P. Banning)." In doing so he said he had very great pleasure in proposing the toast. Bro. Banning was one of their oldest members. Five years since he (Bro. Watson) had the honour of raising him to the Third Degree, and that day of placing him in the chair of their lodge, in which, from the very great attention that he had given to the work of the lodge, he felt sure they would have under him a very pleasant and he trusted a successful year. He had carefully watched him through the various responsibilities that had devolved upon him, and when he remembered how well he had fulfilled the duties of the chairs as he passed on to taking that day the highest in their province as a lodge could confer upon a brother, he doubted not he would carry out the principles of Masonry and fulfil their last honour in the manner they had looked forward to see him do. He sincerely trusted he would have a very happy year. He should not like him to be discouraged in the performance of his duty by any scarcity or even a great amount of work, but hoped he would steadily push on, having with him the assurance that the brethren would assist him to the best of their ability. Song, Bro. R. Ventress. The Worshipful Master, in replying to the toast, thanked the brethren for the honour they had conferred upon him, adding that he thought Bro. Watson, in proposing the toast, had gone too far respecting the manner in which he had performed his duties. He (the W.M.) had certainly done the very best that he could for the lodge. He had studied Masonry ever since he was admitted into its mysteries, and in order to fully comprehend many matters he had had to trouble Bro. A. S. Fowler on numerous occasions, or he would never have been able to discharge the duties of the office. For his many acts of kindness as well as those of Bro. Watson he took that opportunity of thanking them. To those of his brethren who entered office he would say if they should require any assistance he would be most happy to accord it to them. He might say he saw nothing to prevent the lodge prospering, which of course depended greatly upon the officers, who he thought they had good reason to believe would prove good and efficient ones, so that the ensuing year he trusted would be a successful one. For his own part he would endeavour to make them happy during his year of office, and try to make himself worthy of the honour they had conferred upon him. Bro. Wilkes, P.M., proposed the toast of "The Immediate Past Master (Bro. Thorman)," who responded. Song, Bro. W. J. Watson. Bro. G. D. Leng gave the toast of "The Installing Master (Bro. W. J. Watson)," who in a few practical and well directed remarks returned thanks. Song, Bro. T. Preston. Bro. W. G. E. Smirk proposed "The Health of the Initiates," coupled with the name of Bro. W. Furness, who replied. Bro. Pickering next submitted "The Health of the W.M., Officers, and Brethren of the Tees Lodge, No. 509," which was responded to by Bro. A. Iley. Song, Bro. Fullerton. Bro. Leng then proposed "The W.M., Officers, and Brethren of the Lodge of Philanthropy, No. 940," coupling with the name Bro. J. F. Craggs, the W.M., who acknowledged the compliment. Song, Bro. J. W. Richardson. The W.M. proposed "The Lodges of Instruction," adding to the toast the name of Bro. A. S. Fowler, P.M., who replied. Song, Bro. R. Dickinson. The toast of "The Officers of the Lodge" being responded to by Bro. Reed, the proceedings, which had been agreeably enlivened by the accompanying of the vocalists on the pianoforte by Bro. R. Dickinson, were closed with the usual toast.

BRIGHTON.—Hova Ecclesia Lodge (No. 1466).—The installation meeting was held at the Old Ship Hotel, on Wednesday, the 23rd ult., when a large number of brethren assembled to do honour to an occasion of more than ordinary interest. The R.W. Prov. G. Master, Sir W. W. Burrell, with the officers of his Provincial Grand Lodge, was, after the lodge had been opened, received with the customary ceremony. After Bro. Capt. Napier had been elected a joining member, the W.M., Bro. Capt. Frederick Huth, passed to the degree of Fellow Craft Bros. A. Marshall and L. S. Lloyd. The report of the Audit Committee was then presented and adopted; from this it appeared that the lodge had enjoyed a most successful year, during which time the number of members had increased from 22 to 34—viz., five joining members and eight initiations, against one resignation. The W.M. having given place to the Deputy Prov. Grand Master, Bro. J. H. Scott, Bro. C. J. Smith, P.M., was presented for installation into the chair of K.S. for the second time. The ceremony was admirably performed by Bro. Scott, who was assisted by Bros. Freeman, Prov. Grand Secretary, and Corder, acting as Prov. Grand D. of C. The officers for the year were then appointed as follows: Bros. Capt. Frederick Huth, I.P.M.; Rev. E. Richard Adams, S.W.; H. O. Dowell, J.W.; W. H. Cockburn, S.D.; Capt. Luttman Johnson, J.D.; Capt. Handley, I.G.; Capt. S. B. McWhinnie, P.M., D. of C.; W. H. German, P.M., Treasurer; Percy White, Secretary; R. Neil, Chaplain; Reginald Huth, Steward; C. W. Kelly, Org.; and T. Haper, Tyler. The next point of interest was the presentation, by the W.M., of jewels to Past Masters Bros. German and F. Huth. These brethren expressed the gratification they felt on receiving such kindly mementoes of their respective years of office. The lodge then became the recipients of further presents, the W.M. offering on behalf of a lady, a pair of handsome crimson silk nets for the two large pillars, and on behalf of Mrs. Gower (who on previous occasions had made handsome presents to the lodge), a silver Square and Compasses for the V. of S., &c. Thanks to these ladies were carried by acclamation. Mr. Audley Lovell, of the Coldstream Guards, was then proposed as a candidate for initiation by the W.M. And then, after "Hearty good wishes" had been offered by the many visiting brethren present, the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet, which fully sustained the reputation of the Old Ship. A very pleasant evening was spent, the patience of the brethren on this occasion being put to very slight test, the toasts losing none of their interest by the brevity which characterised excellent speeches. There were present, members of Provincial Grand Lodge, R.W. the P.G.M., Bro. Sir W. W. Burrell; the Dep. P.G.M., Bro. J. H. Scott; Bros. J. St. Clair, P.G.W.; V. P. Freeman, P.G. Sec.; W. Hale, P.G.S.D.; M. B. Tanner, P.G.J.D.; C. J. Corder, as P.G.D. of C.; J. H. Farncombe, P.G. St. Br.; A. King, P.G. Org.; W. Nell, P.G. Par.; E. Bright, F. Holford, G. Evershed, A. J. Hawkes, J. Rubie, P.G. Stewards. Visitors: Bros. T. Price, W.M. 56; Rev. H. M. Davey, W.M. 38; B. Bennett, W.M. 732; C. Hudson, W.M. 315; C. Sandeman, W.M. 1636; C. P. Henty, P.P.G.S.W.; Gerald Ford, P.M. 271; W. A. Wood, P.P.G.S.W.; T. J. Sabine, P.H.G.S.B. Middx.; G. Smith, P.P.G. Pur.; W. Smith, P.P.G.S.B.; A. Adams, J. C. Adams, C. F. Lewis, A. F. Gell, C. Folkard, G. Vickers, Alfred Green, Past Master 211; J. Robertson, and the following members of the lodge: Bros. C. J. Smith, W.M.; Capt. F. Huth, I.P.M.; W. H. German, P.M.; McWhinnie, P.M.; Rev. E. R. Adams, H. A.

LIVERPOOL.—Dramatic Lodge (No. 1609).—At the usual monthly meeting of this lodge, held at the Masonic Hall, Hope-street, there was a good attendance of members and visitors, presided over by Bro. Lindo Courtenay, W.M., and amongst the Masonic chiefs present were Bros. W. J. Chapman, I.P.M.; Joseph Bell, P.M., P.G.S.; B. B. Marson, P.M., P.G.S.B.; J. B. Mackenzie, S.W.; W. Sandbrook, J.W.; A. Woolrich, S.W. 1356, Treas.; John Atkinson, Secretary; Richard Burgess, Organist; J. Pyer, I.G.; W. Savage, S.S.; H. P. Squire, J.S.; John M. Boyd, acting J.D.; and Ball, Tyler. The members present were Bros. W. Addis, J. W. R. Brown, P. F. Back, L. B. Brough, C. Courtenay, J. F. Cowdell, W. Hildyard, J. Kret, J. Levy, H. Leslie, P. Lowndes, J. A. Mercer, G. Martin, W. Mears, J. Penny, J. Reay, J. Shrapnell, R. Williams, and others. The visitors included Bros. Hall, 241; E. Paull, Treas. 1356; J. Hayes, P.M. 249, P.G.S.; Jesse Banning, P.P.G.O., Cumberland and Westmoreland, and others. After the lodge had been duly opened, and the minutes confirmed in the usual way and unanimously, the W.M. most impressively initiated Mr. J. Bayliss and Mr. James Hont into the privileges of the Order; the work of passing Bro. W. Addis being done by Bro. W. J. Chapman, I.P.M. The lodge voted a sum of money for the help of a widow and several orphans (on the application of Bro. J. Hayes, P.G.S.), and the brethren subsequently adjourned for refreshment, a pleasant evening being subsequently enjoyed.

LIVERPOOL.—Antient Briton Lodge (No. 1675).—The annual installation meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday evening, the 22nd ult., at the Masonic Hall, Hope-street, Liverpool, where there was a large gathering of the fraternity. The chair was taken and the lodge opened at five o'clock in the "Old Lodge Room" by Bro. R. Wylie, W.M., P.P.G.S.D., and the officers present included Bros. Dr. J. Kellett Smith, P.M., P.P.G. Reg.; E. O. C. Rothwell, P.M.; J. R. Bottomley, S.W.; Thos. Evans, J.W.; Rev. J. Rees Jenkins, Treas., P.G. Chap.; J. W. Johnson, Sec.; R. Fairclough, S.D.; Hugh Jones, I.G.; H. Pritchard and Alex. Thomp, Stewards; and M. Williamson, Tyler. The members present were Bros. W. E. Coxon, W. C. Cowell, G. Charney, J. Hughes, E. Jones, J. F. Lloyd, W. H. Rowland, T. H. W. Walker, H. Pritchard, H. Wynne Parry, Robert Parry, W. Williams, Joseph Woods, John Lewis, Hugh Hughes, J. J. Knight, John Melloden, Jacob Davies, George Neville, George Porter, J. R. Jones, W. Murphy, G. W. Davies, D. S. Davies, P.M. 216; Robt. W. Wynne, Maurice Jones, John Pritchard, Robert, Hitchmough, H. R. Parry, John Parry, James Ireland, and Joseph Wood (Freemason). The list of visitors included Bros. Y. Holden, 1182; John Devaynes, P.M. 667; James P. Bryan, 1035 and 203; J. W. Williams, W.M. 1356; Jesse Banning, P.M. 310, 1209, P.P.G.O., C. and W.; John Hayes, P.M. 249, P.G.S.; W. Corbett, S.W. 249; R. C. Mellor, 605, P.P.G.J.D. North Wales and Salop; Joseph Skeaf, P.G. Org.; E. Paull, Treas. 1356; C. Arden, J.W. 1356; J. R. Goepel, P.M. 823, 155, P.P.G.D.C.; J. Busfield, 1299, 216; B. B. Marson, P.M. 1356, P.G.S.B.; John Hill, 1609; Alfred Woolrich, S.W. 1356, Treas. 1609; and Lindo Courtenay, W.M. 1609. After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and confirmed, and other matters of routine business transacted, Bro. J. R. Bottomley, the W.M. elect, was presented by Bro. Dr. J. Kellett Smith and Bro. Goepel, P.P.G.D.C., and installed by Bro. R. Wylie in a highly impressive and almost perfect manner. The usual honours having been paid, the W.M. invested the following officers for the next twelve months:—Bros. R. Wylie, I.P.M.; Dr. J. Kellett Smith, P.M.; D.C.; Thomas Evans, S.W.; J. W. Johnson, J.W.; Rev. Evan T. Davies, Chaplain; W. E. Coxon, Treas.; R. Fairclough, Sec.; J. W. Cowell, Asst. Sec.; Dr. J. Howard Pugh, S.D.; Hugh Jones, J.D.; Hugh Pritchard, I.G.; John Hughes, G. W. Davies, T. H. W. Walker, Stewards; and M. Williamson was unanimously re-elected Tyler. The accounts were presented, and a short statement made by the Treasurer, and after they had been duly adopted by the unanimous vote of the brethren, Bro. Dr. J. Kellett Smith, P.M., P. Prov. G. Reg., arose, and said: W.M. and brethren, it has been considered by the brethren of this lodge that this would be the most fitting time when we should present to our Bro. the Rev. John Rees Jenkins, P.M., Prov. G. Chap. of W. Lancashire, a testimonial in recognition of his services as Treasurer of this lodge from its formation, and as a token of the sincere regard in which he is held by the brethren. A sum of money was voted at our last meeting to supplement, if necessary, the contributions of the brethren for this purpose, but the whole matter has been accomplished without having taken one penny of that sum. I mention this to point out that the appreciation of Bro. Jenkins' worth is not confined to a few, but all experience the effect of his courteous and affable manner. Bro. Smith then placed on his breast a beautiful Prov. G. Chaplain's jewel, which was adorned with diamonds, at the same time wishing him, on behalf of the brethren, every happiness in his new home. Bro. Jenkins then said: I thank you, Bro. Dr. Smith, for the very kind expressions you have been pleased to make use of in conveying to me this very beautiful token of the esteem and regard of my brethren of this lodge. From the formation of it I have had charge of its financial affairs, and I have cared for them with a tender care, and have always been proud of the position in which we have stood from the first. Although I am leaving this lodge and province, I am going into one which is my mother province, and a very vigorous and active one too, that is, Monmouthshire, where I hope to be able to serve our Craft as I have served it here. I can never forget, however, my connection with this lodge, nor cease to regard with some pride the fact that I have been the Prov. G. Chaplain of a province like West Lancashire. I cannot but be touched with the expressions of personal regard and friendship which have met me on all hands among brethren, not only of this lodge, but also outside of it. Ever since I came to Liverpool, which was six and a half years ago, I have given much time and attention to the discharge of duties connected with committees of a general nature, such as the Relief Committee, but the work itself has always been to me its own reward. In going away I realise to its fullest extent that I am leaving many personal friends, indeed more than I had ever thought I possessed; and that I take with me the best and kindest wishes of all. To thank you for this I will not try, for its continuance does not depend on mere words, which words would after all but dwarf it in its living reality. After business, the brethren banqueted under the presidency of the W.M., who subsequently gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts. The I.P.M., Bro. Wylie, gave "The B.W.P.G.M., and the other P.G. Officers of West Lancashire," and coupled with it the name of the P.G.C.; Bro. the Rev. J. Rees Jenkins. Bro. Wylie said it was well-known to London Masons, and to brethren throughout the provinces who visited London lodges, that the Pro G.M., Lord Carnarvon, was one of the best working Masons in England. He also spoke in high terms of praise of Bro. Lord Skelmersdale, P.G.M.W.L. In reply to the toast Bro. the Rev. J. Rees Jenkins returned thanks on behalf of the Officers of Grand and P.G. Lodges, in a feeling manner. He maintained that the Supreme Officers of the Order had at heart the welfare of the brethren generally. He was exceedingly proud to hold the position of an officer in the Prov. G. L. of West Lancashire, particularly when visiting our Provincial Lodges, of say, 400 members, for in this province there were as many thousand members. During the last six years he had taken a great interest in Mesonry connected with this province, and if he had attained a high position, he had also looked after and done as much as he humbly could for the interests of the brethren generally—such had been his object. He was leaving Liverpool, going far away, and he was almost sorry he had to go. He sometimes felt he would perhaps have been happier had he stayed, or, on the other hand, could take with him many kind friends whom he had made here. Those friends had been dear, and were dear to him, and he assured them and all the brethren that he regretted to leave them. Bro. Wylie, I.P.M., next proposed "The Health of Bro. Bottomley, W.M.," who, he said, had given much labour in the advancement, and was in a great measure instrumental in forming the Antient Briton Lodge. He (Bro. Wylie) had an earnest wish and desire to see this a pure Antient Briton lodge, in which the working would be given in the Welsh language, which would, no doubt, come in time. In acknowledging the toast, Bro. Bottomley thanked Bro. Wylie and the brethren for the cordial manner in which the toast had been received, and assured them that he would do his best to please them during his year of office. His officers had been selected with great care, and if any one considered himself slighted who had been passed over he tendered to him his apology. The W.M. proposed "The Installing Master, Bro. Robert Wylie, P. Prov. S.G.W., the I.P.M.," and called upon Bro. Jenkins, Prov. G. Chap., to present to him a testimonial from the brethren. Bro. Jenkins said: W.M. and brethren, I thank you very much for the privilege granted to me of presenting to Bro. Wylie on your behalf these cases of fish carvers and fish eaters. We have all realised the courtesy and the assiduous care and attention with which he has watched over the development of this lodge, which moral qualities have been only rivalled, perhaps, by his dignified and commanding appearance. Bro. Wylie, on behalf of the brethren, I have to thank you most cordially for the time and care you have given, and the skill and ability with which you have guided the affairs of this lodge, and I now ask you to accept this present as a small indication of the esteem in which you are held, and of the good wishes that accompany them. Bro. Wylie then thanked Bro. Jenkins and the brethren generally for their kindness and the cordial words that had been used towards him. I was, he said, at the first pleased with my Bro. Dr. Kellett Smith at the head of affairs in this lodge without our seeking it, but having been so placed I then felt it my duty to do all that was in my power, and to employ such talents as I have towards perfecting the organisation and the ritual of this lodge, and as this lodge, as its name will signify, and as was intended from the first, is essentially a lodge for Welshmen, I am exceedingly anxious that a Welshman should as soon as possible occupy its chair, and such a Welshman too as will be able to give the various degrees in the Welsh language when considered necessary or desirable. I thank you, brethren, for having set such a value to my services, which will continue, I hope, for many years to be at the service of this lodge. Other toasts followed, and a pleasant entertainment came to a close at an early hour.

TEDDINGTON.—Sir Charles Bright Lodge (No. 1793).—This lodge held its last regular meeting for the season at the Clarence Hotel, when there were present among others Bros. J. Hurst, P.M. 1512, W.M.; Forge, S.W.; Piller, J.W.; Elsam, P.P.G.D.C. Surrey, &c., acting I.P.M.; Fitt, Sec.; Linton, J.D.; Goodchild, I.G.; Stevens, Org.; Abbott, D.C.; Reinhardt, acting Tyler; Walls, P.P.G.O. of Middlesex, S.D. (Freemason). The visitors were Bros. Elsam, P.M. 201, 889, &c.; May, P.M. 700, 1638; Muller, Crescent; Tily, 1446; Handel and Bonell, 1656. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, the W.M., with the able assistance of Bro. Elsam, raised Bro. Goodchild and passed Bro. Collier, Owens, Humphries, and Beauchamp, the ceremonies being well performed. It was then unanimously resolved that in consideration of the W.M.'s long and zealous services to the cause of Freemasonry in the province he should be recommended to the R.W.P.G.M. of Middlesex as a P.G.S. Several propositions having been handed in the lodge was duly closed, and the brethren adjourned to an excellent and well served collation. The customary Royal and Craft toasts having been loyally disposed of, "The Health of the W.M." was proposed by Bro. Walls. The W.M., in reply, briefly said that he could only reiterate what he had said on former occasions, that he felt highly gratified in being the first Master of their local lodge, more especially as that honour had emanated from the general wish expressed by the promoters. He, however, was sorry that, in consequence of extreme pressure of business, he had not been able to give that amount of attention to the duties of the chair as he hoped to be able to bestow upon it after the summer recess. In conclusion, he said he would take that opportunity of returning his very sincere thanks to Bro. Elsam, who, in the character of acting I.P.M. that day, had rendered him such valuable aid. The W.M. then gave "The Visitors," in which he said that, although he had just mentioned the name of one of the visiting brethren that evening, namely, Bro. Elsam, he felt bound to briefly speak of him again. He, Bro. Elsam, held, and deservedly so, a very high Masonic position both in London and in the province of Surrey, and which honourable position he had worked very hard to attain. With regard to his working capabilities, he (the W.M.) could only state that he had attended a club of instruction under his Preceptorship, and he had reaped very considerable benefit from his teaching. Of the remaining visitors, Bro. May, P.M., and others, he, on behalf of the members of No. 1793, gave them a very hearty welcome, and trusted that their visit had been in every way agreeable to them. This toast having been received with excellent "fire," Bro. Elsam, in reply, said that, speaking for himself, he would say that it had afforded him the greatest possible amount of satisfaction at being present that day. With regard to the very high encomiums bestowed upon him by the W.M. he could only say that to assist in the working of any Masonic ceremony gave him the most unqualified pleasure. In conclusion, he expressed an opinion that the Sir Charles Bright Lodge had a very high career marked out for it in the Masonic province of Middlesex, and it had his best wishes for its success. Bro. May, P.M., and the remaining visitors having replied in a similarly eulogistic vein, the W.M. immediately arose, and gave, in a neat speech, "The Health of the Officers." This pledge having been warmly received, the proceedings terminated with the Tyler's toast.

INSTRUCTION.

WELLINGTON LODGE (No. 548).—The annual banquet of this lodge took place on Monday, the 28th ult., at the White Swan Hotel, High-street, Deptford. The lodge was opened at seven o'clock p.m., Bro. Burnstead, P.M. and Sec. 548, P.Z. 79, &c., occupying the chair of W.M., and the other offices being filled as follows:—Bros. Batchelor, J.D. 548, P.S. 79, as S.W.; Hutchings, J.W. 147, S.D. 1531, as J.W.; Catterson, S.D. 548, as E.D.; Hunt, I.G. 1662, as J.D.; and Price, 471, as I.G. After the confirmation of the minutes of the previous meeting, the ceremony of initiation was eloquently rehearsed by the W.M. The working of the First and Third Sections of the Lecture, by the Junior Warden, followed, and the time had then arrived for an adjournment from labour to refreshment. The lodge was accordingly closed, and the brethren, to the number of forty, sat down to banquet, which was served by Bro. Morgan, the host, in a style that produced commendations from all present. The same officers presided as at the working of the lodge. The Stewards were Bros. Batchelor, J.D. 548, P.S. 79; Carman, 248; Gloster, W.M. 1531, I.G. 1326; Griffin, P.M. 933, J.W. 1531, P.Z. 79, &c. (Preceptor and Treasurer); Gibson, 1531, Hon. Sec.; Hutchings, J.W. 147, S.D. 1531; Hunt, I.G. 1662, and Vuhmann, S.W. 871. The usual Masonic toasts having been duly honoured, the W.M. invited the brethren to drink the toast of the evening, "Prosperity to the Wellington Lodge of Instruction," which he coupled with the name of Bro. Griffin, its Preceptor and Treasurer. In proposing this toast he desired to impress upon the minds of every brother present the necessity of frequently attending a lodge of instruction. To those young in Masonry it was necessary as a preparation for the time when they might be summoned to take office; while for those more experienced, occasional, if not regular, visits to a lodge of instruction would serve to "rub off the rust," and conduce to the securing of correctness in the delivery of the ritual; and while upon the subject of ritual he desired to express his deep regret at a practice, which of late years had become common amongst Preceptors of lodges of instruction, of introducing phraseology of their own in the working of the ceremonies instead of employing the ancient and recognised ritual. He felt very strongly on this point. The innovations thus made upon the ancient landmarks of the Order were rapidly increasing; one heard from time to time of a certain form being "Bro. So and So's working," and, indeed, it had become difficult to find two lodges of instruction where the ritual was identical. In fact, the working in many lodges resembled an ancient picture which had passed through the hands of a modern "restorer," or, if he might descend to a more humorous parallel, he would allude to the celebrated dog whose owner declared had been originally a greyhound, but his ears and tail being cropped became converted into a mastiff. He concluded by inviting the brethren to drink the toast, which was done with enthusiasm. Bro. Griffin replied, thanking the brethren for the cordial manner in which they had responded. For his own part, the remarks of the W.M. concerning the innovations in the working of the ceremonies did not apply, as he could confidently declare that he had neither introduced nor suppressed, but taught the ritual in the precise form he had received it. In conclusion, he expressed a hope of meeting the brethren round the festive board upon many future occasions. The next toast proposed was that of "The Visitors," of whom there were some twenty present. Bro. Abbott, W.M. 765, briefly responded. Bro. Griffin then proposed "The Health of the W.M., Bro. Bumstead," who, he said, had, to some extent, retired from Craft Masonry and identified himself with the Royal Arch Degree, but nevertheless by his working on that evening had shown that he was no stranger to Craft ritual. He hoped at some future time, on a similar occasion, again to attend the Wellington Lodge of Instruction, where he had received his first lessons in Freemasonry. The W.M. then proposed "The Hon. Secretary." Bro. Gibson, in returning thanks, quoted some statistics to show that the attendance at the lodge of instruction during the financial year just expired had attained a satisfactory increase upon previous years. The toast of "The Officers of the Lodge" followed, and was acknowledged briefly by Bros. Batchelor, Hutchings, Catterson, Hunt, and Price. The Tyler's toast was subsequently given, and terminated one of the most successful festivals given by this lodge of instruction for many years past. The pleasures of the evening were enhanced by the vocal efforts of several of the brethren, both members and visitors.

Fenner, H. B. D. Dunn, Campbell, Gardner. Bros. S. Beattie, of Lodge 1507; Earl, 1695; and Swinyard, were elected joining members. Bro. R. G. Tolmie, W.M. 861, was elected an honorary member of the lodge, and a vote of thanks was accorded to him and entered on the lodge minutes. Great praise is due to the presiding officers and brethren who assisted them for the able and efficient manner in which the work was performed.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT LODGE (No. 1524).—This lodge held its meeting at the Havelock Tavern, Albion-road, Dalston, on the 7th inst. Present: Bros. J. Lorkin, W.M.; F. Carr, S.W.; A. McMillan, J.W.; C. Lorkin, J.D.; C. Olley, I.G.; W. Fieldwick, Preceptor; J. Williams, Sec.; and several other brethren. The lodge was opened in ancient form with solemn prayer. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. A. R. Olley, being the candidate. Bro. J. Lorkin, assisted by the brethren, worked the First, Third, and Fourth Sections of the Lecture. Bro. J. Lorkin, assisted by Bro. F. Carr, worked the Second Section of the Lecture. The lodge was advanced to the Third Degree, and then closed down. Bro. Fieldwick proposed, and Bro. McMillan seconded, that Bro. Carr be W.M. for the following Wednesday, 14th inst.; carried unanimously. Nothing further offering for the good of Freemasonry, the lodge was closed in ancient form. Time of meeting from 8 till 10.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT LODGE (No. 1558).—This lodge held its usual meeting on Wednesday evening, the 30th ult., in the class room of the Sutherland Chapel, 346, Walworth-road, S.E. There were present Bro. T. E. Walker, W.M.; Power, S.W.; Williams, J.W.; Stokes, S.D.; Taylor, J.D.; Lawrence, I.G.; Corpe, Treas.; Walker, Sec.; Dann, Preceptor; and other brethren. The lodge was opened, and the minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Corpe as candidate. The lodge was opened in the Second Degree, and the questions for raising were answered. The lodge was then opened in the Third Degree, and the ceremony of raising was duly rehearsed, Bro. Brooke acting as candidate. The lodge was then closed down to the First Degree. The S.W. was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. A vote of thanks was unanimously given to the W.M. for his efficient working in the chair. The meetings in its new quarters are most satisfactory, there being a much larger attendance than formerly, while the members continue to express satisfaction at the labour being disassociated with refreshment.

Royal Arch.

METROPOLITAN CHAPTER (No. 1507).—This meeting being election night, a large mustering of the brethren took place. Comp. Willing, M.E.Z., presided, assisted by Comps. J. R. Stacey, H.; W. J. Ferguson, J.; T. A. Adams, P.Z.; W. M. Stiles, Scribe, E.; C. W. Hudson, Scribe N.; H. Stiles, as P.Z. (Comp. J. Douglass being absent owing to the production of a new piece, "Two Reigns," at the Park Theatre, by the M.E.Z. and Comp. Leonard Rae). Companions present included Comps. Gilbert, Daniels, Humphreys, Deller, Holt, Cook, Edmonds, Brattin, and others. Visitors: Comps. E. Swanborough (Strand Theatre), Eldridge, and others. After the minutes were read and confirmed, Bros. F. Johnson, Van der Pump, and Dimsdale were balloted for and exalted to the R.A. Degree. The election of officers was then proceeded with, when the following companions were unanimously elected for the ensuing year: E. Comps. Stacey, H., M.E.Z.; Ferguson, J., H.; Stiles, S.E., J.; Willing, P.Z., Treas.; Comps. Hudson, S.N., S.E.; Douglass, P.S., S.N.; H. Stiles, A.S., P.S.; Barnes, Janitor. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Comp. J. Willing for his services as First Principal and founder of the chapter, accompanied with a jewel of the value of £10 10s., the latter, by the earnest wish of the M.E.Z., being reduced to the value of £5 5s. The progress of this chapter has been very rapid, and must give great satisfaction to the companions. They muster over forty in number, and bid fair to become one of the strongest and most important chapters in London. The companions adjourned to banquet about half-past seven, and spent a pleasant evening, breaking up at ten o'clock.

WARRINGTON.—Elias Ashmole Chapter (No. 148).—An emergency convocation of this chapter was held on Monday evening, the 5th inst., at the Chapter Rooms, Sankey-street, at half-past six. The M.E.Z., Comp. John Bows, assisted by E. Comps. R. Brierley, P.Z., as H.; James Jackson, J.; D. W. Finney, P.Z.; and P. J. Edelsten, P.Z., P.S., opened the chapter, after which the rest of the companions were admitted. Amongst those present we noticed Comps. Potter, W. H. Robinson, Jos. Pickthall, Dr. Evans, W. Richardson, Jno. Armstrong, and Dr. Joseph. Comps Percival Pearce, No. 62, and W. Taylor, No. 220, were visitors. The M.E.Z. then announced that the business of the meeting was to ballot for, and, if elected, to exalt Bros. Charles Skinner, Arthur Peake, James Charlton, and Richard Starkey. The ballot box having been sent round respectively for the four brethren, and each case being unanimously in favour and, being present, they were exalted in ample form by the M.E.Z., who also delivered the mystic lecture. The symbolic and historic lectures were given by Ex. Comps. Finney, P.Z., and James Jackson, J. There being no further business the chapter closed with the usual solemnities.

CHARLES BRYANT PAYNE.

It is only a week since the Grand Festival and the investiture of officers for the year, and we have to chronicle the decease of the well-known and dearly loved Bro. Charles Bryant Payne, who has filled the offices of G. Tyler of the G. Lodge, and G. Janitor of G. Chapter of England, for upwards of twenty years. He had been ill some time, and it was the remark of many brethren in Grand Lodge that he then appeared very poorly. It was only, however, on Monday that he gave up and took to his bed; he died on the following evening. His genial disposition and real Masonic character endeared him to all who knew him. He was initiated in the Industry Lodge, No. 186, London, on 26th Nov., 1833, and was a member some years. He joined the Egyptian Lodge, No. 27, London, 3rd April, 1857, and was W.M. in 1862; exalted into Royal Arch Masonry in Moriah Chapter, No. 9, 3rd Jan., 1839; joined the Domestic Chapter, No. 177, 25th June, 1857; served the Three Chairs and M.E.Z. in 1868. He was appointed G. Tyler and G. Janitor in 1857. We think it may safely be said of him that he never did an unkind action to any one, and, we believe, has not left an enemy, or one who would speak unkindly of him.

W. BRO. HARRY JOHN FREW, P.M. No. 825.

By the mail leaving England to-day our brethren in India will receive the sorrowful intelligence of the loss they have sustained by the death of W. Bro. Harry John Frew, P.M. of Lodge Excelsior, No. 825 of England. Bro. Frew was for the last fourteen years an officer of the Treasury in Calcutta, and in 1874 he was selected by the Government for the arduous and responsible charge of the public accounts connected with famine expenditure in Bengal, for which duty he was deputed to the distressed districts of Behar and Tirhoot. There his health began to give way, but he laboured on up to the termination of the relief measures conducted by Sir R. Temple, K.C.S.I., the present Governor of Bombay. Bro. Frew remained at his post in Calcutta for months afterwards, until his health entirely broke down and he was compelled to return home. About two months ago pleuro-pneumonia set in, and after a period of acute suffering, borne with patient resignation—whilst he was throughout supported by the gentle ministrations of a devoted wife—he, on the 1st instant, entered into his rest, at the age of thirty-four years. His remains were interred in the Honor Oak Cemetery on Monday last, and at the funeral both his lodge and chapter were represented by R.W. Bro. Thomas Jones, P.G.S.W. of Bengal, P.M. of Lodge Excelsior, and P.Z. of Chapter Hope, No. 109. The generous and amiable disposition of our deceased brother gained for him many friends in India, while his talents and zeal in Masonry brought him forward at an unusually early period of life to high office and distinction in the Craft. In 1874, at the age of twenty-eight years, he was installed as W.M. of Lodge "Excelsior," and was afterwards elevated to the chair of Third Principal in Chapter "Hope."

BRO. H. WINTON.

The East Sussex News reports that on Monday, the 28th ult., was interred at St. Michael's Cemetery, Lewes, the remains of the late Bro. Harry Winton, who died at his residence, Chace Green, Enfield, on the 21st ult. He was an old Lewes townsman, and was born at Horsham in May, 1799. The deceased was a zealous Freemason of the South Saxon Lodge, and did much to advance the interests of the Craft. He was instrumental in securing the Castle Keep in perpetuity for the Freemasons from the late T. R. Kemp, Esq., M.P., and was Master of Ceremonies of the Masonic deputation on the reception of the late King William IV. and Queen Adelaide, on the occasion of their visit to Lewes. About the year 1835 he received an appointment under Government and left Lewes for Brighton, on which occasion he was presented by the Masonic body of Sussex with a service of plate and his portrait as a mark of esteem. After some years of active service the Government accorded him a retiring allowance, and he passed many years in retirement, devoted to the pursuit of organic chemistry, the outcome of his labours being some useful chemical processes and patented inventions. He was an indefatigable worker in behalf of Masonic Provident Institutions. The deceased was always greatly attached to Lewes, and was buried there at his own desire. The body was conveyed by train, and the hearse, which left the railway station at three o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, was followed by Mr. H. J. L. Winton, Mr. E. W. Winton, and Mr. D. Winton (sons), also by Mr. W. K. J. Langridge. At the White Hart Hotel the following Freemasons joined the cortege:—Bros. S. Tanner, W.M. South Saxon Lodge; G. Stone (Newhaven), J. C. Lucas, J. Inskip, H. Wingham, Jos. Farncombe, R. H. Ellman, A. Holman, Lenny, Honey, and several old townsmen.

PROVINCIAL GRAND CHAPTER OF NORTHUMBERLAND.

A convocation of the Provincial Grand Chapter of Northumberland was held on Tuesday week, the 29th ult., in the Masonic Hall, Grainger-street West, Newcastle, under the banner of the Tyne Chapter. The chapter was opened by the Three Grand Principals, assisted by the companions present, among whom we noticed Comps. Lonadale M. Cockroft, Prov. Grand Supt.; W. Twizell, P.G.H.; J. S. Challoner, P.G.J.; J. S. Wilson, P.G.E.; A. Potter, P.G.N.; John Ridsdale, P.G.P.S.; T. Blenkinsop, P.G.A.S.; George Thompson, Prov. G. Treas.; Paul O. Smith, P.G.S.B.; G. A. Allan, P.G. Std. Br.; F. D. Davis, P.G.D. of C.; W. J. Ward, G. I. Dean, Mean, Guthrie, A. Mustart, and others.

The minutes of the last convocation were read, and the roll of Chapters was then called, as follows:

1. Chap. De Swinburne ...	No. 24
2. " De Sussex ...	406
3. " De Ogle ...	431
4. " St. Peter's ...	481
5. " Tyne ...	991

Very gratifying reports of all the chapters were given by the representatives of their prosperous and harmonious state. The report of the Provincial Fund was read, to the effect that they had examined and audited the Treasurer's accounts, and found the balance in hand to be £12 4s. 6d. The report was confirmed. The Provincial Grand Treasurer's report was then read, received and adopted. Comp. George Thompson was unanimously re-elected Provincial Grand Treasurer for the ensuing year. The following proposition was received from Comp. Wm. Twizell, seconded by Comp. Challoner, that the balance of £12 4s. 6d. in the Treasurer's hands be invested in the Monarch Building Society. The Provincial Grand Superintendent, Comp. L. M. Cockroft, then appointed and invested the following companions as his officers for the ensuing year:

M.E. Comp. John Straker Wilson ...	Prov. G.H.
" A. Potter ...	Prov. G. J.
" John Ridsdale ...	Prov. G.E.
" W. J. Ward ...	Prov. G.N.
" T. Blenkinsop ...	Prov. G.P.S.
" Mein ...	Prov. G.A.S.
" Guthrie ...	Prov. G.J.A.S.
" Geo. Thompson (elected) ...	Prov. G.Treas.
" G. I. Dean ...	Prov. G. Reg.
" Underwood ...	Prov. G.S.B.
" Montgomery ...	Prov. G. St. Br.
" E. D. Davis ...	Prov. G. D. of C.
" Thos. Smith ...	Prov. G. Org.
" Curry ...	Prov. G. Janitor.
" Bell ...	Prov. G. Stewards.
" Reid ...

The Provincial Grand Superintendent announced that the meeting of the Provincial Grand Chapter will be held under the banner of Chapter De Swinburne.

There being no further business the Provincial Grand Chapter was closed in solemn form.

The Royal Savoy Lodge has decided to hold the annual summer festival under the presidency of the W.M., Bro. Willing, on the fourth Thursday in July.

THE GIRLS' SCHOOL FESTIVAL.

We think it right to remind our many readers that the Anniversary Festival of this excellent Institution takes place on Wednesday, the 14th inst., Lieut.-Col. John Creaton, Grand Treasurer, in the chair. As was explained last week, owing to various disappointments and delays, which were utterly unavoidable, our gallant brother, the Grand Treasurer, came forward at the eleventh hour to rescue the Stewards and the Charity from a serious dilemma. As Trustee and Treasurer of the Girls' School, as Chairman of the Building Committee, his services have been many and great, and no one is more qualified to advocate the cause of the School, just as no one is better acquainted with its needs and its claims. We do not doubt ourselves, that a large number of brethren, friends to the School, will rally round our Grand Treasurer, so deservedly popular in the Craft, and we are inclined to think, from what we hear, that the Festival of 1879 will be a success for the Girls' School, its managers, and the Secretary. No brother can do better, even at this late period, than join that gallant crew who are striving so hard to come in No. 1, and as there is no Masonic Institution more admirably and efficiently conducted, so there is not one which more deeply appeals to our sympathy and attachment, and we will add pride, as men and Masons. May the Anniversary of 1879, despite many hindrances and difficulties, arising from the fluctuations of commerce, and the badness of trade, be, nevertheless, another striking proof that the "hearts" of English Freemasons are "in the trim," and that to them the goodly word of Charity, as emblazoned on their historic banners, is not merely the "outcome" of lip service, or much talking, but is indelibly graven on their hearts.

ANTI-MASONIC PAPERS.

By the kind courtesy of an American brother, we are indebted for a "sight" of one of these remarkable productions. It is yept "The Christian Cynosure," and is published at Chicago, edited by J. Blanchard, with an assistant editor termed H. L. Kellogg. It is indeed a very striking periodical in itself, and that on every possible ground of reason, moderation, justice, toleration, and truth, above all. Blanchard, the editor, is, we fancy, that same "excellent being" mentioned by "Weller, senior," and to whom we poor Masons ought to apply his striking words, "If we get no more light, my worthy creature, than that ere moonshine of yours, we are like to continue night coaches for the rest of our journey." Is not Blanchard the great and august Blanchard, who in the name of religion has been vituperating and vilifying Masons and Masonry, even in so-called "prayers," utterly forgetting the Christian graces he affects to believe in, of charity, equity, and goodwill? Is he not the "real and original Blanchard," who has amused himself with "running a rig" at Masons, forgetting in his blinded and pharisaical prejudices that there are thousands and tens of thousands of Masons in America who are an ornament to their country, the joy of their family, the pillars of their churches, and as religious and God-fearing, as sincere and spiritual, as enlightened and earnest, nay, may we not suspect a good deal more so, than Mr. Blanchard or Mr. Kellogg, or all the Blanchards and all the Kelloggs in the world? We have read "The Christian Cynosure" with amusement, mingled, we regret to add it, with contempt, if such be Masonic in any sense. From first to last we are struck with its irreverent tone and its profane dealing with holy things. Amid the great struggle going on in this world just now with sin and sorrow on all sides, amid that stern combat that is ever progressing between religion on one side, and the spirit of all ill on the other, we confess that we are deeply affected with the ineptitude, the recklessness, the childishness, the perversity, and the wickedness of those brainless, but mischievous, fanatics, who are waging war with a useful, benevolent, God-fearing, man-loving sodality like Freemasonry. Freemasonry does not suit Blanchard and Co. in its secrecy, its universality, its toleration, and its charity, and, therefore, forsooth, from their subjective view of its unholiness and ungodliness, they pronounce "ex cathedra," with all the dignified authority of an infallible Pope, that Freemasonry is irreligious, and is to be "put down." Blanchard put down Freemasonry! Bravo, Blanchard! As the little boy in the pantomime says to the clown, "Hencore." Some of our brethren, remembering Gulliverian incidents and episodes of travel, and the like, will laugh heartily at Blanchard's attempt to extinguish Freemasonry, and at Blanchard's flow of spasmodic anathemata. Let us realize the actual position of affairs. Here is a professedly Christian minister invoking the most sacred name and the most holy sanctions with an unctious, and a freedom, and a fluency which strongly remind us of "Pecksniff" and "Stiggins" combined, to say nothing of "Tartuff's" abject hypocrisy, or "Mawworm's" offensive nonsense, denouncing an Order which, with many shortcomings, is one of the most religious and benevolent in the world. And all because, mark it, my masters, it does not agree with Blanchard, it does not please Blanchard, it does not teach Blanchard, it does not affect Blanchard. Think of a man loudly avowing religious principles, on no evidence whatever, accusing our reverent and kind-hearted Fraternity of speculation, profanity, atheism, and immorality, disowning of God, and imposition on mankind—all in the same breath. "The Christian Cynosure" may call itself Christian, and may represent the "Cynosure" to Blanchard, but, in our opinion, it is neither Christian nor a "Cynosure" at all. Theirs must be little minds, and theirs benighted intellects, and they very irreligious religionists, to whom Blanchard's paper is the "star of light to direct them on their course." That it can do any harm to Masonry we do not believe, as the world is getting ahead of intolerant impertinences and vulgar denunciations. We are amused to note that, like all impostors and mendicant lackeys in all ages of the world, Blanchard's paper, like every similar hurtful publication, hurtful to the best interests of religious sincerity, kindness, and fair play, has to "send round the hat," and, therefore, we say to our brethren in America, let Blanchard curse, they can call to mind how the "curses" of the hired "Vates" turned out "blessings" to the true servants of God. Freemasonry, strong in the goodness of its intentions, the justice of its cause, and the reality of its efforts for the "honour of God" and the welfare of man, leaves its justification to the world at large, caring little what its accusers may allege, and, above all, what maligners may proclaim.

THE LATE GRAND TYLER.

We deeply regret to have to announce the fact of the somewhat sudden death of our late excellent Grand Tyler, Bro. Chas. Payne, though it will be seen, from a report elsewhere, that Bro. Payne has been ailing for some little time. His death will come as a sad shock to many to whom his cheery face, and genial qualities, and Masonic services have been well and pleasantly known for years. Bro. Payne was one of the most hard-working, kindly, and yet obliging and unassuming of mortals, fulfilling his duties to the satisfaction and respect of all, and he has left a void very hard to fill in the regard and memory of his brethren.

SERVICES OF THE GRAND OFFICERS.

GRAND CHAPLAIN.

The Rev. W. A. Hill, M.A., now re-appointed Grand Chaplain, is vicar of Throwley, Kent, and a veteran in Masonry, having been initiated in the year 1844 in the Lodge of Good Report, No. 135. Our reverend brother was exalted into Royal Arch Masonry in the St. James's Chapter, No. 2, in 1846, and filled the office of W.M. of the Mount Moriah Lodge in 1847. He was Provincial Grand Chaplain of Worcestershire in 1854 and subsequent years, and on removing into Kent as vicar of St. Peter's, Maidstone, on the installation of Lord Viscount Holmesdale, M.P., at Gravesend, in Oct., 1860, as Provincial Grand Master, was appointed Prov. Grand Chaplain, and has so continued to this date, having been presented, at the Grand Festival held at Canterbury last year, with a magnificent evidence of esteem in the shape of money and plate. He is sincerely attached to our ancient landmarks, and his pulpit addresses, and the orations delivered at the consecration of the lodges in the province during the firm but genial reign of the noble P.G.M., have been greatly appreciated. This year he presides as First Principal of the High Cross Chapter, No. 829.

PRESIDENT OF THE BOARD OF GENERAL PURPOSES.

Bro. John B. Monckton was initiated into Masonry in the Belvidere Lodge (503), Maidstone, Kent, about the year 1855. In January, 1864, he joined the Jerusalem Lodge (197), famous in the Craft as the lodge at whose centenary meeting, in February, 1871, when Bro. Monckton was I.P.M., H.R.H. the Prince of Wales first saw English Masonry. In 1867 Bro. Monckton was active in founding the Buckingham and Chandos Lodge (1150), of which he is now the Senior Past Master. In 1868 he represented Jerusalem Lodge as Grand Steward, and served as Secretary of the Board of Grand Stewards, and in the same year he was elected on the Board of General Purposes, of which in the following year he became Vice-President, a post he held by successive elections for three years. In 1871 he was appointed Senior Grand Deacon of England, and two years later succeeded the lamented Bro. Horatio Lloyd, Q.C., as, and has ever since remained, President of the Board of General Purposes, having for some time previously acted as President of the Colonial Board. By virtue of his office, Bro. Monckton was Chairman of the Committee who successfully carried out the memorable installation at the Albert Hall of H.R.H. the present Grand Master, without doubt the greatest Masonic event in modern times. He is Past Grand Principal Sojourner in Grand Chapter, member of many lodges, Mark Mason, Knight Templar, and 32°, and has been frequently Steward of the Charities.

SENIOR GRAND DEACON.

Bro. Reginald Bird, M.A., Fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford, was initiated in the Apollo University Lodge, No. 357, in the year 1852, when Bro. W. W. B. Beach was Master. After an absence of several years from England, he was on his return appointed to a Wardenship in his mother lodge, and served the office of Master in the year 1872. In the following year (1873) H.R.H. the Grand Master filled that chair, and appointed Bro. Bird as his Deputy Master. Also in the year 1872 Bro. Bird was appointed Senior Warden of the province of Oxfordshire (by the present Grand Registrar), who was then administering the province. Upon the resignation of Bro. K. J. Spiers in 1874, Bro. Bird was appointed (also by the Grand Registrar) Deputy Provincial Grand Master, which office he continues to hold under H.R.H. Prince Leopold. In the same year he was elected Treasurer of the Apollo Lodge, Oxford, which office he now holds. During the ensuing year he was installed first Master of the St. Mary Magdalen Lodge, No. 1523, of which he was one of the founders. He has also served Stewardships for all the Masonic Charities, and is a member of various other lodges in London and Oxfordshire.

JUNIOR GRAND DEACON.

Bro. Matthew E. Clark was initiated, passed, and raised in Lodge of Harmony, No. 255, by Lord Tenterden, K.C.B., and occupied the Master's chair in 1871. He was appointed D.P.G.M. for Essex in 1875, by the late Bro. Robert Bagshaw, P.G.M. Essex; ruled the province during 1875, 1876, and 1877, during which time he had entire care, owing to the P.G.M.'s ill health. He resigned the office in 1878 on account of an illness. In April, 1879, he received notification from Grand Lodge, and was appointed Grand Deacon on the 30th ult. He is Past Master of Harmony Lodge, No. 255, and Bagshaw Lodge, Buckhurst Hill; Past Principal Chapter of Iris; member of Studholme Lodge of Mark Masons.

ASSISTANT GRAND DIRECTOR OF CEREMONIES.

Bro. George Burt was initiated in the Old Dundee Lodge, No. 18, on the 2nd December, 1851, served the office of J.D. in 1855, S.D. in 1856, J. Warden in 1857, S.W. in 1858, W.M. in 1859. On the consecration of the De Moilham Lodge, No. 1146, at Swanage, Dorset, in March 1867 Bro. J. Mowlem was appointed W.M., Bro. J. Freeman, S.W., and Bro. G. Burt, S.W., being the three members of the firm of John Mowlem and Co., who founded the lodge. In 1868 Bro. Bird served the office of Senior Warden in the same lodge, and in 1869, as also in 1870, was the W.M. thereof. Further in 1859 he served as Steward of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. In 1864 Steward of the Boys' School, Festival. In 1867 Steward of the Girls' School Festival; in which year (1867) he was made Provincial Grand Senior Warden of Dorset, and in 1879 Assistant Grand Director of Ceremonies of Grand Lodge.

GRAND SWORD BEARER.

Bro. Samuel Mullens was initiated in September, 1860, in Prince Frederick William Lodge, No. 753, and served the office of W.M. in that lodge for two successive years—1869 and 1870. In 1867 he was one of the founders (in conjunction with Bros. J. B. Monckton, P.B.G.P., and P. de Lande Long, P.G.D., and others) of the Buckingham and Chandos Lodge, 1150, which was first established in connection with the First Middlesex Artillery Volunteers, of which corps the founders were all members. He served the office of W.M. in that lodge for the year 1870-71, holding the office of Master of two lodges at the same time, by dispensation. He was a member of the Board of General Purposes during three years, and was one of the special Stewards at the installation of the present M.W.G.M., in 1875. He is a Life Governor of each of the four Masonic Charities.

ASSISTANT GRAND PURSUIVANT.

Bro. James Kench, the Assistant Grand Pursuivant, was initiated on the 3rd January, 1867, in the Lodge La Tolerance, No. 538, a lodge originally founded by some French refugees, residing in London, but which would have been erased from the books of the Grand Registrar in 1866 had not some English brethren met together and succeeded in resuscitating it. Bro. Kench was the first initiate that entered the lodge after its resuscitation, and was installed W.M. of the same in 1870. In the following year he was elected Treasurer of the lodge, a position he has held ever since—having been re-elected every year to that office. In the same year that he was initiated into the mysteries of the Craft, Bro. Kench became a member of the Rural Philanthropic Lodge, No. 291, that meets at Highbridge, in Somersetshire, and in the year 1869 he was one of the founders of the Stanhope Lodge, No. 1269, whose meetings are held at the Thicket Hotel, Anerley. In the same year that he was W.M. of his mother lodge, Bro. Kench was elected W.M. of the Stanhope Lodge. He had, therefore, to apply to the M.W.G.M. (the Right Hon. the Earl de Grey and Ripon) for a dispensation to enable him to be W.M. of both lodges at the same time, and as at that time there was no other brother in the Stanhope Lodge eligible for the position, Bro. Kench was successful in his application. This was, we believe, a very exceptional circumstance, as it is only in very rare instances such dispensations are granted. Bro. Kench was exalted in the Royal Arch on the 20th October, 1868, in the Industry Chapter, No. 185, and in the year 1874 he was one of the founders of the Vane Chapter that is attached to the Lodge La Tolerance. He is a P.Z. and the Treasurer of that chapter, and also the I.P.Z. of the Stanhope Chapter, No. 1269, the chapter that is attached to the lodge of the same name. Bro. Kench is, we believe, a very zealous Mason, being indefatigable in his exertions to maintain the efficiency of the working members of his lodges and chapters, and to extend the influence of the mystic art, and it was in a great measure due to his exertions that the La Tolerance Lodge of Instruction was formed, a lodge that is noted for its excellent working under the stern discipline of its able Preceptor, Bro. Charles Davis, P.M. of the Royal Union Lodge, Uxbridge. Bro. Kench is a Life Governor of the three Masonic Institutions, having frequently represented La Tolerance and the Vane as a Steward at the different festivals.

ANCIENT AND ACCEPTED SCOTTISH RITE.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

The minute books of the Grand Lodge of Scotland for the period between 1797 and 1805, or thereby, are unfortunately lost, but an abstract of the more important minutes is given in Laurie's "History of Freemasonry." In the edition of 1804 we have, under date 1802, a statement as to the institution of the Supreme Council of Southern Jurisdiction of the United States of North America, now designated by its Sovereign Grand Commander "The Mother Council of the world."

If it be correct that the "Mother" Supreme Council was formed about 1802, it is clear that Frederick the Great, who died in 1786, had no part in the formation of these councils; and I concur in thinking with some of your correspondents that it would have been for the peace and advantage of Freemasonry had they never existed.

The edition of Laurie's "History," in which this important statement is made, is now scarce. It was written by the well known philosopher, Sir David Brewster, sometime principal of the University of St. Andrew's, and afterwards principal of the University of Edinburgh. The statement was published shortly after the occurrence of the facts to which it relates, and as it possesses an historical value, and is omitted in the subsequent edition of Laurie's "History," and is, therefore, apt to be lost sight of by "Masonic Students," I take the liberty to request you to give it a place in the Freemason. It is as follows: "1802. A circular letter was this year received from the Grand Lodge of America. The spirit of illumination which it breathes, and the supernumerary degrees, amounting to about fifty, which it authorised, were sufficient reasons for drawing down the contempt of Scotch Masons, whose honour it is to have preserved Freemasonry for many centuries in its original and simple form, and whose pride it shall ever be to transmit to the latest posterity the principles and ceremonies of their Order unpolluted and unimpaired."

The views of the Grand Lodge of Scotland are so correct that I cannot help expressing my surprise that Supreme Councils have succeeded in obtaining any footing in the estimation of ordinarily well informed Craftsmen. But yet we see brethren of high, social, and Masonic position induced, probably by the high-sounding but ludicrous titles attached to the offices, however humble, which they hold in these bodies, associating themselves with them, to the prejudice of the general interests of Freemasonry, and in face of the resolutions of their respective Grand Lodges refusing them recognition. These Councils too are, in almost all cases—the Councils of Charlestown and Scotland not excepted—of spurious origin. It is to be hoped that such brethren act unthinkingly in connecting themselves with such bodies, which are not only not Masonic, but are in principle antagonistic to Freemasonry.

The valuable Masonic library of your distinguished correspondent Bro. Hughan will likely possess the circular referred to in the statement quoted from Laurie's History, and if it does, I respectfully suggest that he should kindly oblige your readers by publishing it in the Freemason.

Yours fraternally,

PAST MASTER.

AN EDUCATION SCHEME.

Dear Bro. Kenning,—

You may probably recollect that I wrote some letters to you last year and the year previous, some of which you published in the Freemason, on the subject of provincial education, and if by your great influence any other province could be induced to adopt the same simple method of providing for the education of the children of distressed and deceased Freemasons, especially those who are candidates for the central Charities, "pending their election," many of which are unsuccessful, and through no fault of their own, but their age, have to retire, "because they are ineligible," much to the regret of those concerned, after great trouble, anxiety, and pecuniary loss, and perhaps receiving no benefit from Freemasonry—I think your influence might obtain a benefit for these poor unfortunates, whose characteristic is to be forsaken or forlorn, and though non-election always will be a source of regret, it will not be attended by those heart-burnings that now take place after their last chance is gone. The rapid increase in the numbers of the Craft must necessarily make a corresponding increased demand upon our central Charities, by increasing the number of candidates.

I beg to remain, dear Bro. Kenning, yours faithfully,

ROBT. THORPE, P.M. 588.

Sleaford, Lincolnshire,

16th April, 1879.

The following circular has been sent to the W.M.'s of lodges in the province of Lincolnshire:—
St. Botolph's Lodge, Sleaford, Lincolnshire.

W. Sir and Brother,—

The enclosed motions have been forwarded to the P.G. Sec. by Bro. Thorpe, P.M. 588, in order to their being brought before the next meeting of the Prov. G. Lodge, and I am requested by the members of the above lodge to ask you to give the subject your consideration and support, also to use your influence with the members of your lodge in obtaining their assistance. You may probably recollect some allusions made to these motions by the R.W.P.G.M., in his address at the last meeting of the Prov. Grand Lodge at Grimsby.

Bro. Thorpe has the unanimous support of this lodge.
I am, W. Sir and Brother, yours fraternally,

T. J. TOMLINSON,
P.M. and Sec. 588.

BENEVOLENT FUND RULES.

Rule I. This fund shall be called "The Masonic Benevolent Fund of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Lincolnshire, established for granting temporary relief to aged, distressed, or necessitous brethren of this province, or their indigent widows and children (as well as for making grants to assist in the education of their children if considered requisite), and shall be restricted to purposes of Masonic benevolence either of a 'local' character or in connection with the general Charities of the Order."

PROV. G. BYE-LAWS.

Rule XV. Every lodge in the province shall pay to the Prov. G. Lodge the sum of one shilling per annum for each contributing member, and a further sum of three-pence (contingent upon the above alterations that in Rule XV. of the Prov. G. bye-laws the word "three-pence be altered to "sixpence") per quarter to the Benevolent Fund.

THE INSTALLATION ENGRAVING.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In reply to the letter of the P. Prov. Grand Master of Leicester and Rutland, W. Bro. Wm. Kelly, permit me to inform him and your readers generally who were good enough to become subscribers to the engraving, that the key (which is in the form of a neatly-bound little book) is now being printed and bound by your own printer, and will be ready for issue, I hope, in about three weeks.

It has been a source of great trouble, vexation and delay to compile and procure the correct Christian and surnames of the various brethren whose portraits are inserted; as also their Masonic rank, and the number or name of the lodge, &c., &c. This, I hope, will be a sufficient excuse for the unavoidable delay in issuing it.

I am, dear Sir and Brother, fraternally yours,
EDWD. J. HARTY.

TO ENGLISH FREEMASONS.

Brethren,—

From the statements given in my recently published pamphlet, "Freemasonry and Intolerance," and from further particulars made known in a "review," a "letter," and an "editorial" of the London Freemason of April 5th and 12th this year, it will be seen that I (being a Freemason) have been deprived of my office as a pastor both in America and Norway, for having defended Freemasonry against the attacks of my colleagues. I have considered it my duty to the Craft and brethren in general, as well as to myself and family (wife and five children) in particular, to make this case of persecution known to you, and I now confidently ask the English brethren kindly and fraternally to assist me in procuring means to have this case of intolerance and injustice thoroughly tried before the Courts and Storting of my native country, to have my rights vindicated, or eventually to find a new existence.

Yours most humbly and fraternally,

J. H. SIMONSEN.

London April 28th, 1879.

P.S.—Letters will find me at 198, Fleet-street, E.C., or to Rev. R. P. Bent, P.G.C., who has kindly consented to act as Treasurer. Address, Tickencote Rectory, Stamford.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The Board of Stewards for next Wednesday's Festival of this Institution held another meeting last Monday at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, P.G.C., President of the Board, in the chair, and Bros. Edward Cox, Treasurer, and F. R. W. Hedges, Secretary, were also present.

Bro. H. A. Dubois was chosen Chairman of the Ladies' Stewards, and the Musical Committee brought in their report, by which it appeared that they had accepted Bro. Lehmeier's tender for the music. In the programme of artistes is the name of Miss Hopekirk (niece of Bro. W. Hopekirk), who has offered her services gratuitously for the festival.

The offer was accepted with best thanks.

The list of Stewards numbers now 240 brethren, the largest list for this Institution that has ever been got together.

The Stewards' visit to the Institution will be paid next Monday, when Bro. Col. Creton, the Chairman of the festival, will distribute the prizes to the successful pupils.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The General Committee of this Institution was held on Saturday last at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. Raynham W. Stewart in the chair. There were also present Bros. George J. Row, S. Rosenthal, Leopold Ruf, Donald M. Dewar, Edward B. Graham, Rev. Richard Morris, A. H. Lilley, Joyce J. Murray, R. B. Webster, F. Adlard, Peter de Lande Long, J. Wm. Dosell, Hyde Pullen, W. Roebuck, W. F. Collard Moutrie, Thos. Meggy, Richard Tyrrell, George P. Gillard, John Young, Lewis Berry Garnett, F. Binckes (Secretary), and H. Massey (Freemason).

After the reading and confirmation of the minutes the brethren took into consideration the recommendation of the House Committee, that the boy Wilkinson, who was the highest unsuccessful candidate at the late election, for whom a scrutiny of votes polled for him had been demanded, he being only six votes below the lowest successful candidate, be admitted to the school. The brethren, however, believing that such a course would be a bad precedent, resolved that the recommendation be not adopted. The scrutiny of votes will therefore take place.

It was resolved to admit William Russell Cooper by purchase, on payment of £178 10s., the Secretary reporting that there was sufficient accommodation in the Institution.

Four candidates were placed on the list for next election, one from Preston, one from Goole, one from Chatham, and one from Alnwick.

An outfit was granted to one boy who after leaving the Institution obtained a situation, and gave satisfaction to his employers; and £10 was also granted under exceptional circumstances to another boy who desired to be apprenticed.

The House and Audit Committee for the ensuing year were nominated, and as no new members were given in the old Committee were re-elected.

Bro. Binckes read a letter from Bro. H. Browne, acknowledging the receipt of the letter of condolence of the Committee on the death of his late father, and returning the thanks of himself, mother, sisters, and brother. The letter was ordered to be entered on the minutes; and with a vote of thanks to the Chairman, the proceedings of the day were brought to a close.

PROVINCIAL GRAND MARK LODGE OF DORSET.

The first meeting of a Provincial Lodge of Mark Master Masons for the Province of Dorset was held at the All Souls' Lodge, Weymouth, on Wednesday, the 30th ult., for the purpose of installing Bro. Montague John Guest, of Bere Regis, in the county of Dorset, to be Provincial Grand Master of this Order, who, it is well known, is already the Provincial Grand Master of the other Orders in this province.

Lord Skelmersdale had promised to attend and instal the Master elect, but through illness was prevented from doing so.

The Most Worshipful Bro. Past Grand Master Portal, who is also Provincial Grand Master of Hampshire, therefore attended, and in a suitable and impressive manner, performed the ceremony. He was supported by the Provincial Grand Master of Devon, Colonel Davy, the Grand Treasurer of the Order, and Bro. Dewar, the Assistant-Grand Secretary of the Order, and many other illustrious brethren from this province, as well as other provinces.

The Installing Master spoke at great length as to the merits of the Provincial Grand Master elect, and also as to the rapid progress this Order had made, adverting to the great number of lodges it could boast of and the thousands of brethren connected with it. The Rev. Bro. W. M. Heath was appointed Deputy-Provincial Grand Master, and the Provincial Grand Master then proceeded to appoint the following officers:

Bro. G. R. Crickmay	Prov. G.S.W.
" H. C. Burt	Prov. G.J.W.
" W. Chick	Prov. G.M.O.
" H. T. George	Prov. G.S.O.
" W. Turner	Prov. G.J.O.
" Rev. C. J. Browne	Prov. G. Chap.
" R. N. Howard	Prov. G. Sec.
" F. Tanner (elected by ballot)	Prov. G. Treas.
" J. Lundie	Prov. G. Reg.
" T. R. Charles	Prov. G.S.D.
" J. B. Cole	Prov. G.J.D.
" J. S. Webb	Prov. G.I. of W.
" C. W. Wyndham	Prov. G.D. of C.
" J. A. Sherrin	Prov. G.A.D. of C.
" Long	Prov. G. Swd. B.
" W. Smith	Prov. G. Std. B.
" A. Graham	Prov. G.I.G.
" J. Dring, Bro. Curtis (Poole), & Bro. H. Russell (Portland)	Prov. G. Stewards.
" D. Hazlett (elected)	Prov. G. Tyler.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the brethren adjourned to the Victoria Hotel, where Bro. E. Dunn supplied the luncheon, which gave the greatest satisfaction, about sixty members sitting down. The usual toasts were drunk, and the Installing Master, in speaking of the Charities of the Order, stated that recently a fund had been started for aiding and assisting Mark Masons in distress, so as to educate their children in their own towns instead of sending them from home, by granting them advances. The Assistant-Grand Secretary, Bro. Dewar, spoke at some length, and explained the object of the intended charity, and also returned thanks for Bro. Binckes, whose health had been proposed, and whose absence from unavoidable circumstances was much regretted.

The whole arrangements for the comfort of the brethren, under the personal superintendence of Bro. Chick, W.M. of the All Souls' Lodge, and Bro. Howard, the P.G.S., deserve the highest commendation.

CONSECRATION OF THE FIDELIS LODGE, NO. 1089.

An important epoch in the history of Freemasonry in Guernsey was attained on Monday last, when a new lodge was consecrated in due and solemn form. The ceremony was conducted at the Masonic Hall, Court Place, by Bro. James Gallienne (P.D.P.G.M., P.M. No. 82), W.M. No. 168, who has been duly vested with power from the Grand Lodge of England for this special purpose. As W.M. of Mariners' Lodge, Bro. Gallienne summoned the members of that lodge for this particular occasion, and it assembled at 6 o'clock in the evening. About 70 members were present, including visitors from other lodges in the island, as well as brethren from a distance, amongst whom we noticed Bro. W. H. Guilford, I.P.M. 1017, I.G. 1614, &c.

The lodge, as it had been previously arranged, was designated Fidelis Lodge, No. 1809, and the brethren to whom the charter was granted, under the seal of His Royal Highness Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, Grand Master of England, were Bros. T. M. Bichard, J. Toms, T. Le Ray, J. T. Snell, J. S. Sneath, J. H. Parsons, B. Place, and S. J. Hutchinson. Bro. F. Clarke, P.M. No. 168, acted as Director of Ceremonies, and Bro. Wilkins, P.M. No. 84, undertook the duties of Chaplain. The other officiating brethren were the regular officers of Mariners' Lodge.

The musical arrangements were under the direction of Bro. J. W. Hinton, M.A., Mus. Doc., No. 84.

The brethren assembled in the banqueting-room, and from thence entered the lodge in procession.

The lodge was opened in the Three Degrees, after which the Acting Chaplain delivered an appropriate prayer.

The Presiding Officer then addressed the brethren on the nature of the meeting, and called upon the Secretary to state the wishes of the brethren of the new lodge. He did so, and afterwards read the petition and warrant as requested by the Presiding Officer.

The Presiding Officer then enquired of the brethren of Fidelis Lodge if they approved of the officers nominated in the warrant, and afterwards of the nominated officers if they promised to conform to the laws of the Grand Lodge of England.

This assent was given in Masonic form to each enquiry.

The Chaplain then delivered an oration on the nature and design of the Institution of Freemasonry.

The Chaplain then offered up prayer.

The Presiding Officer gave the invocation. The lodge-board was next unveiled by the brethren who bore it into the room.

The name of the M.H. was placed upon the pedestal by the Director of Ceremonies, before and after which the Presiding Officer made the usual address and supplication.

The consecration then took place in ancient and solemn form, the Consecrating Officer strewing corn upon the ground, the emblem of plenty; the Senior Warden pouring out wine, the emblem of joy and happiness; and the Junior Warden pouring out oil, the emblem of unity.

A prayer was offered by the Presiding Officer, and the W.M. and Wardens of the new lodge deposited the emblems they bore upon the lodge-board.

The Chaplain, bearing the appropriate emblem, went round the lodge and performed the usual ceremony.

The third portion of prayer was then given by the Presiding Officer, and the G.H. was then given, led by the Director of Ceremonies.

A prayer by the Chaplain followed, and the Presiding Officer then declared in solemn form Fidelis Lodge duly consecrated, and pronounced the Constitution, and the Presiding Officer delivered the finale recitative—"He shall build me an house, and I will establish him therein for ever. I will be his father and he shall be my son, and I will not take my mercy away, but I will settle him in mine house and my kingdom for ever."

The lodge was then resumed for the purpose of the installation of the W.M. designate.

The ceremony of installing Bro. T. M. Bichard, the first W.M. of Fidelis Lodge, was then proceeded with in due form, and the W.M. invested as his officers Bros. Thos. Le Ray, Senior Warden; J. T. Snell, Junior Warden; and T. S. Sneath, Treasurer and Secretary, pro tem. This being completed, Mariners' Lodge was resumed, and before closing the proceedings the new W.M., in the name of the charter brethren, most cordially thanked the Consecrating Officer for the very able and most perfect manner in which the impressive ceremony of the day had been conducted, and on behalf of those brethren presented Bro. Gallienne with a very handsome Royal Arch apron and sash.

This gift was most feelingly acknowledged by Bro. Gallienne, and the lodge was closed according to ancient usages.

A banquet was afterwards held under the presidency of Bro. Gallienne, to which about sixty brethren sat down and did good justice to the sumptuous fare provided. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to with full honours, and a most harmonious evening was spent, the brethren separating ultimately with the most hearty wishes for the prosperity of Fidelis Lodge.

Public Amusements.

PARK THEATRE.—A new piece, Two Reigns, was brought out at this theatre on Saturday, May 3rd, freely adapted from the French, by Bros. Leonard Rae (John Douglass) and James Willing. The piece seemed to give great satisfaction to a crowded audience, and was announced amid cheering for repetition every evening. We congratulate these young authors on their first venture, and hope the piece will have a long run.

BRO. WILLIAM STEPHENS' AND MRS. STEPHENS' SILVER WEDDING.

The celebration of the completion of twenty-five years of married life by Bro. William Stephens, Past Master of the Clapton and Marquis of Ripon Lodges, with Mrs. Stephens, took place on Tuesday at the Metropolitan Societies' Asylum, Ball's Pond-road, when, in addition to four daughters and one of the sons of Bro. and Mrs. Stephens, some eighty ladies and brethren were present. At the dinner, which was graced by a magnificent wedding cake, Bro. S. H. Parkhouse, W.M. Earl of Carnarvon Lodge, No. 1642, took the chair, and Bro. W. J. Murlis and W. Grist the vice-chairs.

After the dinner the Chairman, in a felicitous speech, presented the gift of the Earl of Carnarvon Lodge, which consisted of a handsome silver tea and coffee service, weighing 100 ounces. He also presented the gift of the Marquis of Ripon Lodge, consisting of an elegant bronze dining-room clock and pair of vases. Bros. James Terry and Thos. Cubitt presented a dozen silver dessert knives and forks. On the presentation of each of these gifts congratulatory speeches were made. There was also presented an address on vellum in illuminated writing, framed and glazed, setting forth Bro. W. Stephens' well-known Masonic career as follows:

Earl of Carnarvon Lodge, No. 1642, to Bro. William Stephens, P.M., P.Z., &c., &c.

Dear Sir and Brother,
We the undersigned, on behalf of the brethren of the Earl of Carnarvon Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, having been associated with you in the mysteries of the Craft for a number of years, avail ourselves with pleasure of this opportunity of paying to you personally a slight tribute of our sincere regard and esteem. There are among us many who have been associated with you during the whole period of your Masonic career, and others who have known you only since the period of their introduction to the Craft, but we are unanimous in feelings of appreciation and admiration of the generous bestowal of your Masonic gifts in the interests of the Earl of Carnarvon Lodge, and of your substantial support of the various Masonic Benevolent Institutions, which are the means of affording such great assistance and relief to the poor and necessitous of the Order; we therefore beg your acceptance of the accompanying silver tea and coffee service, on the occasion of your Silver Wedding, as a slight token of our regard, and fervently hope that the Great Architect of the Universe may grant you many years of health, prosperity, and domestic felicity.

Samuel Henry Parkhouse, W.M.; Edward M. Lander, S.W.; Samuel Smout, J.W.; George Penn, Treasurer; W. J. Murlis, Hon. Sec.
London, 6th May, 1879.

Bro. W. Stephens, in acknowledging the various presents, said: Brethren and ladies, I hardly know how to find words to adequately thank you for the kind expressions you have thought fit to use in proposing the health of myself and wife, and the kind reception you have given our names. I will take this occasion of saying that if I fail to sufficiently thank you for your kindness it is not in lacking gratitude, but for want of words to convey to you my feelings on the present occasion, I am so familiar with the kindness I receive from all I see around, and knowing how little I have ever done to merit these compliments, to express my deep obligations to you for these superb presents. It is an event in my life that will never be forgotten, and believe me when I assure you these are not merely idle words, but expressions from the depths of my heart, that I could not have supposed I lived so much in the esteem of my brethren as to merit this generosity. I am sure I cannot tell in what way I can make a fitting return for this kindness, I can only promise to faithfully carry out the duties of Masonry according to its teachings, and devote my energies for the good of those who are less fortunate than myself. You have been good enough to mention in this address my connection with the Charities of our Order; I have devoted some time and a little money—at any rate, as far my circumstances have permitted, I have done my best to carry out those duties; and, if pleasurable to me to receive this mark of your esteem, it has also been a source of pleasure to me, in my humble way, to assist in alleviating the distress of those less fortunate than myself. Again thanking you for myself and wife, I trust these handsome presents will be handed down as heirlooms in my family, and be considered and appreciated by my children as we appreciate them on the present occasion.

Bros. Pushman, Grist, and High, and the Misses Bartle, the Misses Stephens, and Miss Smout sang several songs and duets.

A most delightful evening was passed by the company assembled, who did not separate till a late hour.

The strides taken by art in what used to be considered minor matters is very noticeable, and extremely praiseworthy. We are now specially alluding to the very tasteful garden border tiles and stable pavings produced by Messrs. Muir and Co., of the Strand, whose terra-cotta, encaustic tiles, &c., are produced in infinite variety and great beauty, and will well repay a visit to their establishments at 36, Strand, London, W.C., where there are to be seen some really very beautiful patterns of tiles. These are designed by artists, gentlemen of cultivated tastes and high education, who by no means consider their talents thrown away upon these matters, which many persons are prone to despise as being unworthy of consideration. We are glad to learn that Messrs. Muir's contributions to art education in small matters are as successful from a business point of view as they certainly are from the aesthetic standpoint.

The Marquis of Hartington has written to say that he will be happy to join and co-operate with the "George Smith of Coalville Fund" Committee.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE GREAT PRIORY OF CANADA IN 1878.

I have been favoured with a copy of the "Proceedings" of the "Templars" for Canada by the distinguished Freemason-archæologist, the R.W. Bro. Col. W. J. B. Macleod Moore, who is the Great Prior for that Dominion. The pamphlet is most interesting, and to do it justice should almost be given entire. The National Great Priory assembled in the city of Montreal 11th day of October, 1878, and from the account sent in it is evident that the meeting was a success. Indeed, with such a President we could not anticipate any other result, for Col. Moore gives his whole heart to the Order, and endeavours to incite in others somewhat of the enthusiasm enkindled in his own, as well as to lead the members to a more careful study of the past history of the society.

The proceedings were conducted with great dignity, and certainly if the Templars of the present day are the actual descendants or lineal representatives of the fratres of old, which, as the Rev. Bro. Woodford says, remains to be proved, then the dignity was well ordered.

The address by the Great Prior, to my mind, is one of his happiest efforts, and in the attempt to show "what the Order really is," he has conferred a boon on many students of its history. The "encampment" and "commandery" style of nomenclature receives hard blows. The independence of Canada as much as England and Ireland, Masonically, and in Knights Templar, is not only plainly stated, but is proved, for it is as peer of the other contracting parties, that Canada appears on the roll of the Convent General. In that spirit Canada protests against certain alterations in the statutes, "at the same time the Great Priory can still adhere to her own views of the question without departing from the federation of the whole body." The chief point of the objection is to the term "Eminent Commander," which the Canadian Knights Templar deem an unhistorical designation for the chief of a preceptory. The question of "past rank" also is an objection in some respects, as the fratres of Canada only care for it in a limited or restricted sense, not wishing for a multiplication of honours to such an extent as to lessen their value.

The revision of the ritual having become necessary, so to "assimilate with historic truths and the changes that have taken place in the Constitution," the ritual of the Templar Order as revised by Convent General, with certain alterations made by the Committee of Great Priory of Canada, was confirmed, adopted, and exemplified at the assembly. The officiating preceptory was the "Richard Cœur de Lion," the Preceptor being Bro. McMinn. The Great Prior expressed his approval of the excellent work and correct rendering of "the beautiful and impressive ceremony which Great Priory had that day proclaimed."

Colonel Moore remains a firm adherent of the present qualifications for admittance to the Order, and speaks most forcibly against fanciful pre-requisites. The action taken at the last triennial meeting of the Grand Encampment of the U.S.A. is not at all relished by the Great Prior, as it seems our American fratres declined to accept Canada as its peer on the representative question. The scope of the changes made of late in the Templar body is clearly exhibited in the address, and proves that the originators of the scheme had a large field in view for their operations. That the Great Prior of Canada appreciated the great aims of the Convent General will be seen from the following: "The object was to form the nucleus of a cosmopolitan chivalric fraternity, which it was hoped all English speaking Templars would gladly join, acknowledging H.R.H. the Prince of Wales as the only Grand Master." The United States Templars, however, do not fancy such an absorption, and practically the plan is not feasible, however beautiful it looks on paper. It is interesting to note that our able brother remarks on the K.T. in U.S.A., "The earliest Grand Encampment, that of New York, was chartered by a Consistory 32," thus "receiving its first impetus from the S.C. of the Ancient and Accepted Rite. The Order with them is therefore peculiarly American, derived from the Kadous * * *, on which the death of the last Grand Master, De Molai the Martyr, is commemorated." * * * It is an ably formed organisation. * * * Whatever the practices of the United States may be, they form no rule for the British branches of the Order. Appearing in public with Templar or Masonic emblems of any kind is opposed to our customs and long established usages, and contrary to the wish of our Royal Grand Master." As Templars it would be well if this advice were always followed, but as a matter of fact, in England we have known a procession take place when the muster roll did not number 50, and a sorry exhibition it was a few years since in a country town, affording amusement to the crowd, but a source of grief to earnest brethren. Under the heading Historical References, Bro. Moore alludes to the charter granted by the "Mother Lodge Kilwinning," Scotland, to certain brethren in Dublin, A.D. 1779, styling themselves the High Knights Templars' Lodge. Our learned brother handsomely acknowledges his indebtedness for correct information as to this matter to R.W. Bro. James Horner Neilson, a well known Masonic antiquarian of Dublin, who has fully elucidated the whole subject. Bro. Moore thinks the petitioners must have been Templars before they applied for the warrant, and he is doubtless correct, and though the authority was simply for the Craft Degrees, we know often the presence of such a charter was all that was needed in the eyes of our brethren of the last century to assemble in any Masonic degrees. The Canadian Craftsman contains several articles of late by Colonel Moore, Great Prior, on the "Modern Order of Knights Templar" and other chivalric subjects, which though too long and important for brief notice here should be carefully studied by all interested in the subject.

The author does not think it likely that the high degrees were all invented and sprung suddenly into existence at the commencement of the last century, without some feasible foundation of long standing to warrant their introduction, though he is "free to confess it is not easy to account satisfactorily for the absence of all records to show any connection with Freemasonry from the time of the Reformation, when the combined Orders of the Temple and Hospital disappeared, and were not again heard of until the Masonic revival in the last century."

I quite agree with him in the assertion as to titles, that "the addition Sir, as a title to the name, we, as Masons, have no claim or right to whatever, and although the pretentious compound word of two syllables—Sir Knight—is now commonly adopted, it seems to have been only applied occasionally in former times when speaking of, not to, a person." Why wish, I ask, for more than the title brother? What can be more expressive or Masonic? Surely the time has gone when Freemasons desire to pass for actual knights, and, therefore, the prefix Sir is out of place, and altogether as unnecessary as objectionable. A few years will witness the dropping of many absurd titles in connection with our society, and then I shall hope to see more attention paid to the duties of the brotherhood. The admirable address concludes with the appropriate words, "May the Lord bless us, and show us the light of His countenance, and be merciful to us."

A circular was issued by the Great Prior of Canada on 9th January, 1878, expressive of the great sorrow felt in that Dominion on the decease of Bro. Richard Wolfe (Woolf), F.S.A., the representative near the Great Priory of England. The page devoted to his memory in the "Proceedings" is thus arranged:—

In Memoriam.
The Frère Chevalier
RICHARD WOLFE, F.S.A., &c.,
Registrar of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem in England,
Representative of the Great Priory of the United Orders of the Temple and Malta for Canada, near the Great Priory of England.

A faithful brother, who, taking the warmest interest in the prosperity of the Order in Canada, helped still more to strengthen the ties that bind them to the parent body.

Born 15th December, 1821. Died at Worcester, England, 16th December, 1877.

This appropriate and kindly reference to our dear and lamented friend, Bro. Wolfe, will be esteemed by his many fratres in England. Bro. Emma Holmes, K.C.T., an enthusiastic Templar, was elected in his place to the honourable position of representative, which was so ably filled by the English historian of the Templars. The representative for Ireland is our esteemed brother, the Hon. Judge Townshend, LL.D., K.C.T., &c.

These two distinguished brethren are honorary members of the Great Priory, as are also Dr. Rob. Morris, Dr. Alfred Creigh, General Albert Pike, Bros. T. B. Whytehead (of York), and G. C. Tyler, of Vermont, U.S.A.

MASONIC WORKS IN THE BRITISH MUSEUM.

I find that the April number of the Masonic Magazine contained the commencement, or first part, of the list of Masonic Works in the "British Museum," and not, as I surmised, the whole of the list obtained by the brother who had so kindly furnished it for the information of the Craft universal. The list bids fair to be a most useful compilation, and already I have had enquiries about several works which were hitherto unknown to general readers of the Freemason, though they occurred at a sale of the large collection of Masonic works of the late and lamented Bro. Richard Spencer. Bro. Lamouby's reference, if not a typographical error, is not correct as to Hutchinson's "Spirit of Masonry." The first edition of 1775 was sanctioned by the Grand Lodge (or the M.W.G.M.) in that year, not in 1766. Lord Petre was not the M.W.G.M. until 1772, and continued in office until 1776. His lordship was a most energetic and able President of the society, and a much respected Roman Catholic nobleman. Under his rule, Preston's "Illustrations," and Hutchinson's "Spirit of Masonry," received the sanction of the Grand Lodge.

W. J. HUGHAN.

P.S. In a catalogue by Bro. Spencer we see that 1766 is stated as the year when the "Spirit" was sanctioned. It may be that 1776 was intended.

BOMBAY.—Keystone Chapter (No. 757, E.C.).—The regular meeting of this chapter was held at the Masons' Hall, Nesbit-lane, Byculla, on Monday, the 13th of January. Present:—M. E. Comps. Counsell, P.Z.; Watson, P.H.; Cooper, P.J.; Barrow, P.P.Z.; Rowe, P.P.Z.; McKenzie, P.P.Z.; Comps. Tomlinson, S.E.; Kapadia, S.N.; Armstrong, P.S.; Brennan, 1st Asst. S.; Jones, 2nd Asst. S.; Robinson, Treasurer; Seager, Janitor. The summons convening the meeting was read. The minutes of the last convocation were read and confirmed. The minutes of the Permanent Committee were read and adopted. M.E. Comp. P.Z. then informed the companions present that the business of the evening was of a pleasing nature—it was to present M.E. Comp. Barrow, P.P.Z., with a jewel of the chapter pattern, for the long and valuable services he had rendered to the chapter. The jewel was then attached with a few neat and appropriate remarks. M.E. Comp. Barrow replied in suitable terms. Read a letter from V.E. Comp. Mitchell, who was compelled to leave Bombay through sickness, and consequently tendered his resignation, which was received with regret. Read a letter from M.E. Comp. Hussey, D.G.S.E., asking the chapter to consider the proposal therein made of re-establishing a District Grand Chapter of R.A. Freemasons of Bombay and its territories, also asking the chapter to bear a share of the expenses of the attempt to establish the same in the year 1874. After some discussion on the subject it was agreed to pay the amount, viz., Rs. 38-3-11, forthwith, in consequence of the retirement of M.E. Comp. Honourable J. Gibbs, D.G. Superintendent and first P.Z. One companion was proposed and seconded as a joining member. There being no further business before the chapter, it was closed in due form at 8-30 p.m.

Masonic and General Tidings.

The funeral of Bro. Chas. Bryant Payne, the Grand Tyler, will take place at Abney Park Cemetery on Saturday next, at 3 p.m.

ROYAL ORDER OF SCOTLAND.—A Provincial Grand Lodge of London and the Metropolitan counties of the Knights Companions of the R.S.Y.C.S. will meet at 33, Golden-square, on Thursday, the 15th inst.

Earl of Carnarvon Lodge, No. 1642. The regular meeting of this lodge was held on Thursday evening. There was a large and influential attendance, and as the agenda paper contained a more than usually long list of initiations, &c., a heavy evening's work was the result. We shall give a report in our next.

Bro. Lazarus, who is a candidate (No. 17 on the list) for the Annuity of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, is eighty years of age, and has been fifty-six years a Mason, having been initiated in the year 1823. He is a P. Prov. G.S.W. of Wilts, P. Prov. D.C. of Somerset, a P.M. of three lodges, and P.Z. of two chapters.

The Treasurer of the City and Metropolitan Police Orphanage has been paid £50 9s. 7½d., the proceeds of a recent concert given by the Police Minstrels at Twickenham.

At a convocation of the Supreme Council 33°, to be held at 33, Golden-square, London, on Tuesday, the 13th inst. Bro. Magnus Obren, member of the 31°, will be received into the 32°.

PRESENTATION TO A PROV. G. CHAPLAIN.—On Friday evening, the 25th ult., Bro. the Rev. J. Rees Jenkins, P.M., P.G. Chaplain West Lancashire, late incumbent of Holy Trinity Church, St. Anne street, Liverpool, who has recently removed to Abergavenny, received a handsome testimonial from the members of his former congregation, among whom he ministered for the last six years and a half. Prior to the presentation, which took place in the schools of the church, in Wilton-street, there was a social tea meeting. Afterwards the present incumbent, the Rev. J. H. Skewes, took the chair, and the churchwardens (Messrs. Joseph Woodcock and A. F. Mackay) presented to the Rev. Bro. Jenkins a set of handsome silver salvers and an address, beautifully illuminated by Mr. J. O. Marples, and which expressed to the rev. gentleman the feelings of the congregation for the earnest Christian labours which he had performed amongst them, and their regret at his departure from their midst. The silver plate, which was supplied by Bro. Washington, bore the following inscription:—"Presented to the Rev. J. Rees Jenkins, M.A., and Mrs. Jenkins, as a token of the high esteem and affectionate regard in which they were held by the congregation of Holy Trinity Church and other friends in Liverpool. April, 1879." Bro. Jenkins, in suitable and feeling terms, acknowledged the presentation.

The installation meeting of the Pannure Royal Arch Chapter, No. 720, will take place at the Horns Tavern, Kennington, S.E., on Monday, the 12th of May, at five p.m. The Installing Principal on this occasion will be Ex-Companion James Stevens, P.Z., and Scribe E. of the chapter.

THE AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITION.—The Prince of Wales has accepted the invitation of the Lord Mayor to dine at the Mansion House on Tuesday, July 1st, when a grand banquet will be given in connection with the holding of the Royal Agricultural Society's Exhibition in London.

The Indestructible Paint Company, 27, Cannon-street, are now applying their invisible preservative solution to Cleopatra's Needle.

THE NEW MARKET HOTEL.—Bro. Burt the energetic proprietor of this hotel held his anniversary dinner on Tuesday last, on which occasion the new banquet hall recently erected was inaugurated. This hall is intended to be used for Masonic and other purposes, and is admirably adapted for such gatherings, being a well proportioned and capacious room, capable of affording accommodation to upwards of two hundred guests. The host was well supported on the occasion by a numerous gathering, presided over by Bro. James Stevens. During the evening the various loyal and other toasts were proposed, including "The Host and Prosperity to his undertaking." This was received and drunk with hearty applause. A special feature in the evening's proceedings was an excellent musical programme, which greatly added to the enjoyment of the guests.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are the medicine most in repute for curing the multifarious maladies which attack humanity, when wet and cold weather gives place to more genial temperatures. In short, these Pills afford relief, if they fail of being an absolute remedy in all the disturbances of circulation, digestion, and nervous energy, which at times oppress a vast portion of the population. Under the wholesome, purifying, and strengthening powers exerted by these excellent Pills, the tongue becomes clean, the appetite improves, digestion is quickened, and assimilation rendered perfect. Holloway's medicine possesses the highly estimable property of cleansing the whole mass of blood, which, in its renovated condition, carries purity, strength, and vigour to every tissue of the body.—[ADVT.]

When dinner had been disposed of grace was sung by the professional brethren and ladies, and the toasts were proposed.

The Chairman, in proposing "The Health of the Queen," said: The first toast I have to submit to your notice is one which is always given in every assembly of Englishmen and Masons—the health of Her Gracious Majesty the Queen. (Cheers.) It requires no words of mine to commend this toast to your notice. I will simply tell you, which probably you all know, that the Queen is the daughter of a Mason, and the mother of three distinguished members of our Craft. (Cheers.)

The Chairman: The second toast I have to offer to you is that of "His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, Most Worshipful Grand Master, Patron, the Princess of Wales, Patroness, and the other Members of the Royal Family." (Cheers.) The Prince of Wales has endeared himself, alike to his own countrymen and to all with whom he has come in contact abroad, by his geniality, courtesy, friendliness, consideration, and attention to all the minute of business. (Cheers.) I call upon you, as loyal Freemasons, to drink the toast, with one cheer more for the great grandchild born yesterday. (Cheers.)

The Chairman: I now call upon you to drink "The Healths of the Pro Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon, Lord Skelmersdale, the Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers, Present and Past." (Cheers.) All those who are in the habit of attending Grand Lodge are well aware how nobly and well the Earl of Carnarvon presides over it. (Hear, hear.) Lord Skelmersdale likewise is a favourite, and does his work well when it becomes necessary for him to preside. The rest of the Grand Officers are ever anxious to uphold the honour and dignity of Grand Lodge. I will couple with the toast the name of Col. Burdett, Prov. Grand Master of Middlesex. (Cheers.)

Col. Burdett, in reply, said: M.W. Bro. Chairman, in responding for the Grand Officers whom we have around us, and whom we see in such large numbers, you may be sure I feel rather diffident and bashful in addressing such a large assembly of brethren. Still, at the same time, you will, perhaps, excuse me for saying a few words about the Grand Officers Past, as well as those who are Present Grand Officers. It is a great satisfaction to the Grand Officers of Grand Lodge generally that we have such a Grand Master as H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. Still, though he is not the first Prince of the Royal blood that we have had to preside over Grand Lodge of England, I do not believe there has been any Grand Master who has presided over it with greater satisfaction or pleasure to himself and that of Grand Lodge than the present Prince of Wales. (Cheers.) The Pro G.M. and the Deputy Grand Master you know so well that I need say nothing in the world about them; but as long as we are able to keep them in the position they now hold we shall be glad to see them, no matter how many years it may be. (Cheers.) With respect to the Grand Wardens, you may be sure that in the hands of the Prince of Wales proper appointments are quite safe. During all the time he has had the appointment of Grand Officers no one has come forward and cast a single word against the appointments. I am quite satisfied that the Grand Officers he has appointed as yet are quite willing, and endeavour to do their duty as earnestly, zealously, and well as those that have preceded them; and I believe that those who have preceded the present Grand Officers have given the greatest satisfaction, both to the Grand Master and to Grand Lodge, as well as to the whole of the Craft. (Hear hear.)

Bro. Col. Creaton then rose, and said: Brethren, I feel sure that I can rely on the courtesy and consideration of my brethren, which I have so often experienced, and of which I am always sensible, to bear with me while I endeavour, "though imperfectly," to commend to their notice the toast of the evening, "Prosperity to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls." (Cheers.) It is in the knowledge of all why, in default of a more distinguished brother, I occupy the post of your Chairman, and I need hardly add that that fact constitutes another claim, a claim which I know will not be made in vain, on your kindly forbearance and lenient criticism. We are here to-night to celebrate the ninety-first Anniversary Festival of the Girls' School, instituted Lady-day, 1788. I, for one, rejoice to remember a fact, which all present will rejoice in too, that whereas in 1788 the School was under the patronage of H.R.H. the Duchess of Cumberland, wife of the then Grand Master, it is now under the patronage of H.R.H. the Princess of Wales, wife of the present Grand Master. (Loud cheers.) Happy coincidence, and full of gratification to the always loyal members of our Order. It seems needless on such a festive occasion as this to occupy your time with elaborate statistics or a long speech; it may suffice us all gladly to remember that, making a small beginning, our School has grown, as the years have run away, until it has become a great and important Institution, perhaps unique amid existing educational establishments in England for the thoroughly good, useful, practical, and sound instruction which it imparts, and the homely care it takes of the poor orphan or destitute children of our brotherhood. (Cheers.)

There is no institution, I make bold to say—and I know it well, having worked for it long—which more commends itself to our sympathy and support than the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls. Owing to constant claims for admission, and long lists of unsuccessful candidates, we have successively added to the school buildings, and increased the number of its inmates, until 200 girls are receiving a thoroughly satisfactory training and fostering care within the sheltering walls of a happy home. Those of us who have lately visited the School will be struck, as all must be, with the cleanliness, order, and system every where apparent, with the brightness, vivacity, and happiness of the children, all betokening the assiduity of the governing body, the skill of the teachers, and the practical value of the general system of management, supervision, and instruction. (Cheers.) With regard to the lists about to be read, I cannot help saying a few concluding words. In 1859, Lord Panmure at the festival of the School considered £1500 a most remarkable return; what would he have said, had he lived till now, when the hundreds of 1859 are changed into the thousands of 1879? As a very old Mason now, I feel proud, I do not hesitate to say, at the liberality of our Order, which nothing interferes with, and nothing wearies, and feel sure we shall shortly listen to a return which will redound alike to the liberality of the Craft, zeal of the Stewards, the good of the Institution, and the labours of Bro. Hedge. I call on you to drink with hearty good wishes, "Prosperity to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls." (Loud cheers.)

The toast having been duly honoured, Bro. J. A. Rucker, P.G.D., in reply, said: Ladies and Brethren, it has pleased the Chairman of this evening to nominate me to respond to the toast which you have just drunk. I am inclined to think that the duty is imposed on me to return thanks on behalf of the Institution for the honour that you have done it in drinking success to it, because I am the oldest member of the House Committee of the Institution. As such oldest member you may suppose that I have seen very great alterations and changes. When I was first a member of the House Committee there were something like 100 or 120 children at the School; there are now 200 within its walls, as our Chairman has told us, and the education and care of those 200 children are carried on with the same regularity, the same care, and the same punctuality as when the 120, or the 80 of a few years before, were in the Institution. How this Institution should have continued to increase from year to year it would be difficult now to go back and say; but I have no doubt when the announcement of the lists by Bro. Hedges is made to-night, it will be a proof of the earnestness and sincerity of the brethren on behalf of the Institution for which I am now responding. I have not the slightest doubt that as years go on and the brotherhood increases, there will still be, year after year, at the several festivals a sufficient sum supplied to meet the needs of the more needy brethren, and that they have no occasion to fear that their children will not be looked after in the future. (Hear, hear.) I thank you on behalf of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, and particularly the Stewards of this present evening, for the manner in which they have brought this festival to a successful issue, and at the close I am sure we shall have to thank them still more.

Bro. Hedges then read the following lists of subscriptions:—

Bro. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, P.G.C.: The toast which I am now privileged to propose is one which, I am happy to say, needs no commendation from me. It is "The Health of our worthy and distinguished Chairman." (Loud cheers.) In speaking of him to you—you who know him so well—it needs no remarks to remind you of his many, his long and unwearying services to Freemasonry, especially in connection with our excellent and admirable charities. (Cheers.) And I venture to think that we owe him a great debt of gratitude on the present occasion; because when, owing to peculiar circumstances, we, within three weeks of the festival, found ourselves without a chairman, our Grand Treasurer, with that kindness and zeal which always distinguished him, stepped forward to fill up the breach, and placed his services at the disposal of the Board of Stewards, following the precedent of another Grand Treasurer. If any one should contend that the selection which has been made was not a good one, the answer to it is to be found in the fact that, under his presidency the lists of Grand Stewards amount to £11,700—£3000 in excess of last year, and £2000 in excess of any previous anniversary of the Institution. (Cheers.) We all know the services—and we all appreciate them highly—which our brother, Col. Creton, has rendered us in presiding at the meetings of our charitable institutions, and, above all, to that Institution which it was our privilege and happiness to visit on Monday. (Cheers.) Under the labours of the Building Committee we have seen great additions made to that Institution, rendering it second to none of all the educational institutions in England. (Cheers.) Those who, on Monday, saw the happy faces of the children, and observed the order and exactitude with which every duty was performed—those who admired the recitations, and, above all, the calisthenics, and noticed the cleanliness and system which prevailed in every part of the Institution, must have felt that a deep debt of gratitude was due to the Building Committee, which has so successfully enlarged the School. (Cheers.) I am unwilling to add another word to the toast, which, I am sure, commends itself to the sympathy, the remembrance, and the heart of every brother present. I will, therefore, content myself with asking you to drink a bumper toast to our Chairman, to whom we must all feel thankful for having come forward, at a moment of great emergency, to preside at this, I am happy to say, most successful anniversary. (Loud cheers.)

Bro. Col. Creton, in response, said: I feel it difficult to express myself sufficiently consonant with my feelings for the kind way in which Bro. Woodford has spoken of my humble services, and to you, brethren, for the very handsome way in which you have received my name. I assure you it has been a source of great gratification to me to-night to be here and to receive that kindness from my brethren, which, I must tell you frankly, I had anticipated, but not to the extent which I have met with to-night. I can assure you that it is always a great pleasure to me, especially in regard to our Charities, if my humble services can be made available in any way. I do not think I need say more, brethren, than heartily to thank you, as I do at the present moment from the bottom of my heart, for the kind and handsome reception which you have given me to-night. (Cheers.)

The Rev. C. J. Martyn proposed "The Vice-Patrons, Vice-Presidents, Trustees, various Committees, and Medical Officers of the Institution." In doing so he said: "The toast which I have the honour to propose to-night is in favour of our Charities, and you know when the Chairman commands, I am too good a Mason not to obey. The toast embraces a large number of persons, and I wish you to drink their health. Every one of the persons embraced in the toast has done the best in his power to advance the success of the Institution. I am not going to dilate on their respective merits in a long speech, but I will select one among the whole body, the Medical Officers, and I am sure what I say will meet with your sympathy when I tell you that they have conscientiously and devotedly discharged the duties of their office. All the other brethren comprised in the toast also perform their duties in the same manner. I shall ask you to join me in drinking this toast, and I shall couple with it the name of a brother who is almost new to Masonry, but who has shown his hearty zeal and wish to support our noble Charities, by making himself in a few years a Vice-Patron of our three Institutions. He is almost new to London Masons, and when I mention the name of the Baron Ferrieres, I have no doubt it is one you are not accustomed to hear. It is a name of a thoroughly good man, as I myself know. I don't care what he has done in other things, but he has done much for his fellow-creatures and brother Masons, and has thrown himself most heartily into the work of our Charities, and you know, very well they are the gem of our Order.

Baron de Ferrieres, in reply, said: Mr. Chairman, Ladies, and Brethren, I feel somewhat diffident in having to respond to this toast after the very complimentary and undeserved terms in which Bro. Martyn has been pleased to propose it. However, I cannot refuse to respond, as my name has been mentioned, and I must say this, that having only lately had the honour of qualifying as Vice-Patron of the Institution, I felt I could no longer trust merely to report, but must go and see for myself what the Girls' Institution was like. I went there last Monday, and I must at once be allowed to say that I was very much struck with the appearance of the girls in that Institution. Their pleasing and lively and healthy look, so different from what the children often are in large institutions, struck me very much, and when I remained there for some time, and heard their recitations and their music, and saw how well they were instructed, I felt satisfied that that was an Institution which deserved the support not only of Masons, but of all those who wish to benefit the children and the rising generation. I am sure that the instruction given there is a credit to Miss Davis and all those who are responsible for the instruction, and I am also sure that the girls trained in this school will be a credit not only to their sex, but to Masonry, because I hold this, that as the fact of being a Mason is an honour to any man, which is proved by his upright walk and conversation, and his desire in all things to be a credit to manhood, so I believe the fact of being the daughter of a Freemason will be a credit to womanhood in general. I trust that all the girls brought up there will be a credit to Masonry, and that in fact any young man wanting a wife will be sure to find a good one there. I will not take up your time any further, but I am sure that all those associated with this toast, and in fact all those connected with this Institution, must feel highly gratified that their labours and efforts have not been thrown away, but that they are helping to carry on an Institution which in every way is a great success. (Cheers.)

The Rev. R. P. Bent, P.G.C., proposed "The other Masonic Charities, and Success to them, viz., the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, and the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution." If the Craft could boast of its loyalty, it could also boast of its charity. The Grand Master, the Prince of Wales, laid down that dictum at his installation, and that had been the principle on which the Craft had acted ever since. We had it on the highest authority, that charity was a virtue greater even than faith and hope, for in that wonderful trinity of virtues "the greatest of these is charity." He would not at that late hour make a long speech, for the toast he was proposing did not require it. He would alter the old proverb and say "what is least said is soonest commended" to the notice of the brethren. They had every reason to be proud of what they had done for charity, although he did not say it boastfully. The Masonic Charities had no rich endowments and no landed estates to fall back upon. What was done for them was done spontaneously by the willing hearts of the brethren. The Benevolent Institution Festival last February had the largest sum ever brought in at a Masonic festival, and the Girls' School was creeping up in that direction, and he hoped the Boys' School would do the same. He wished that each and all of the brethren did still more for the Charities, and this was what he wished impressed on the minds of every Entered Apprentice, and if this was done, as Bro. Terry said, there would be no need of festivals or elections, because all applicants could be met.

Bro. Binckes replied, and congratulated Bro. Hedges on the success which had just been announced. The other Institution could by no possibility grudge success to it. The little girls were very dear to the brethren, and they were most generously and heartily supported. He, knowing the generosity of the brethren, had no fears for the success of the festival of the Boys' School. It had also, like the Girls' School, not been able to get a chairman till lately, but he had the pleasure of announcing that the Earl of Rosslyn would take the chair at the forthcoming festival. The Boys' School deserved every sympathy that could be shown to it, and, with intense feelings of gratitude for what the brethren had done for it in the past, he doubted not that they would support it in the future, and give it all that assistance which it so urgently needed.

Bro. James Terry also replied, and ventured to hope that in June next Bro. Binckes would have a great increase on the sums he had yet announced as the Benevolent Institution and the Girls' School had had this year. In that case, the year 1879 would have to be recorded as one of the greatest successes that had ever attended the efforts of any of the Institutions in the Craft. He begged the brethren would do all they could for the Girls', as the oldest Institution, to remember the Boys', which had also a claim on their charity; but, above all, remember that they never would have had the girls or the boys if they had not had the old men and women.

Dr. Jabez Hogg proposed "The Stewards," to which toast Bro. Edward Cox replied, and after Bro. H. J. P. Dumas had proposed "The Ladies" the brethren adjourned to the Temple, where a concert was given, in which, under the direction of Bro. S. Lehmyer, Madame Liebhart, Madame Madigan Bilharz, Madame Thaddeus Wells, Miss Helene Arnim, Miss Ellen Marchant, Bro. Wilford Morgan, Bro. Faulkner Leigh, Bro. Walter Clifford, and Mr. Herbert Mayhew took part. Madlle Victorina De Bono and Miss Helen Hopekirk also performed, the former on the violin, and the latter on the piano, with exquisite taste and skill, to the delight of the whole of the visitors. Bro. Wilhelm Ganz conducted.

Bro. James Hayho was toastmaster at the dinner.

REPORTS, etc., intended for insertion in current number, should reach the Office, (198, Fleet-street), by Six o'clock p.m., on Wednesdays.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

SUNDERLAND.—St. John's Lodge (No. 80).—The May meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday last, the 13th inst., in the Masonic Hall, Park-terrace, when the following brethren were present: Bros. A. J. Turnbull, P.M., Prov. Grand Purs., Durham; Thomas Elwin, P.M., Past Grand Purs. Durham; J. S. Pearson, P.M., Past Grand Purs. Durham; J. Mitchinson, P.M.; M. Frampton, W.M. 94; T. Sharp, P.M. 97; W. Hawdon, S.W.; R. Kinmond, J.W.; Thomas Godfordson, Treas.; T. G. Curry, Sec.; Charles McNamara, S.D.; R. Seymour, J.D.; Edward Garvey, Steward; J. Thompson, Prov. Grand Tyler, Tyler; Thomas Lemon, John Muther, John Cook, Thomas Bamlett, Wm. Kilvington, J. Waller, Wm. Brown, J. R. Smart, J.W. 94; G. C. Watson, 97; Joseph Sprout, 178 (S.C.); and F. A. Kelly (Freemason). In the unavoidable absence of the W.M., Bro. John Newton, the lodge was opened by Bro. Past Master Mitchinson. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, after which Bros. Lemon and Cook were separately and respectively passed to the degree of F.C. by Bros. J. S. Pearson, P.M., and Thomas Elwin, P.M., the charge to the two candidates being most impressively delivered by Bro.

M. Frampton, W.M. of the Phoenix Lodge, No. 94. The lodge was then lowered to the First Degree, when the names of a candidate for initiation and one for joining were received. The lodge was shortly afterwards closed, and the brethren partook of refreshment, the usual toasts being given and responded to.

COCKERMOUTH.—Skiddaw Lodge (No. 1002).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday evening, the 6th inst., in the Masonic Rooms, Station-street. The following members were present: Bros. Capt. Sewell, W.M.; J. Black, I.P.M.; T. Bird, S.W.; T. C. Robinson, J.W.; R. Robinson, P.M. and Treas.; W. H. Lewthwaite, P.M. and Org.; Dr. Dodgson, P.M.; W. F. Lamonby, P.M. (Freemason); J. Fearon, Sec.; H. Peacock, S.D.; R. W. Robinson, J.D.; R. Harrison, I.G.; J. Hewson, Tyler; S. Thwaite, J. Towers, I. Evening, J. Borrowdale, T. Mason, and H. Ritson. The W.M. not having arrived, the lodge was opened by the I.P.M., and the minutes confirmed. A ballot was then taken for the admission of Mr. Henry Carruthers, which being unanimous, he was regularly initiated into Masonry by Bro. Lamonby, P.M., by previous arrangement with the W.M., the candidate, like the officiating W.M., being old members of the Order of Odd Fellows, M.U. The E.A. charge was subsequently delivered by the W.M., Captain Sewell. Bro. T. Mason was presented with his Grand Lodge certificate, and it was stated by the Secretary that another certificate had been procured for his son, Bro. T. C. Fearon, to replace that lost with his effects, when shipwrecked some months back, in the Bay of Biscay, on the voyage to Valparaiso. Bro. Fearon again embarked a week before the lodge meeting. On the proclamation being put, Bro. Lamonby, P.M., presented the lodge with a large Biblical chart, for which he received a vote of thanks. The labour of the evening was concluded with the hymn, "Now the evening shadows closing."

MORECAMBE.—Morecambe Lodge (No. 1561).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Hall, Edward-street, Morecambe, on the evening of the 1st inst., the W.M., Bro. Thomas Longmire, occupying the chair of K.S. The lodge was opened in the First Degree with solemn prayer, and the minutes of previous meeting read and confirmed. The brethren then proceeded to the election of Worshipful Master for the ensuing year, when the unanimous vote of the members was given in favour of Bro. William Longmire, S.W., whose installation will take place early in the ensuing month, the Installing Officer being Bro. Dr. Moore, P.M., P.G.S.B. of E., &c. Some other routine business having been transacted, the lodge was closed with the formalities of the Craft.

STAINDROP.—Rose of Raby Lodge (No. 1650).—The members of the above lodge held their annual installation in the Scarth Memorial Hall, on Tuesday, the 29th ult., when Bro. the Rev. J. M. Shepherd, M.A., and Provincial Grand Chaplain, Vicar of Ingleton, was duly installed Worshipful Master for the ensuing year. The installation was performed by Bro. Babington Boulton, P.M., P.G.D., with accuracy, vigour, and eloquence. After the ceremony the newly-installed W.M. appointed and invested his officers, as well as those appointed by the lodge: Bros. Rev. W. Stuart Harris, B.A., S.W.; John Hawdon, J.W.; Joseph Lax (re-invested), Secretary; R. H. Dixon, Treasurer; John Fawcett, S.D.; C. T. Stephenson, J.D.; C. J. Spence, D.C.; P. W. Dixon, I.G.; Wm. Davidson and Wm. Close, Stewards; Thos. Pyburn, Tyler. There was a good attendance of the brethren of the lodge, and several Past Masters, as well as distinguished visitors from other lodges. After the ceremony of installation and the business of the lodge had been concluded, the brethren adjourned to the banquet at the Queen's Head Hotel, which was of an excellent character, and served up in Mr. Hart's usually good style. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were afterwards given and duly honoured. A most happy and harmonious evening was spent, which was much enlivened by the effective singing of some of the brethren of the lodge and visitors.

BRIDGEND.—Ogmore Lodge (No. 1752).—A meeting of the above lodge was held at the Wyndham Arms Hotel on Monday evening, April 28th, and the proceedings were invested with additional interest, as a testimonial was made to Bro. Podmore, Treasurer, who is leaving the district for Barnsley. The testimonial, a handsome clock, bore a suitable inscription; and this very useful article was selected from the choice stock of Bro. L. Beha. Prior to the closing of business, Brother J. S. Woolley, W.M., made the presentation on behalf of the lodge in a felicitous speech, expressing the satisfaction felt by the members at being able to acknowledge the services of Bro. Podmore as Treasurer, and in testimony of his Masonic qualities generally. They all, however, felt much regret that his business engagements would cause a speedy separation. Bro. Podmore, in a few suitable remarks, acknowledged the testimonial and the kind expressions which had accompanied it. At this meeting the brethren of the Ogmore voted five guineas to the Masonic Girls' School. The following visitors were present on the occasion:—Bros. S. G. Homfray, P.A.G.D.C., and D.P. G.M. Monmouth; W. T. Canton, I.P.M. 237; R. Southern, W.M. 36; J. C. Sladen, W.M. 1573; G. Bradford, P.M. 237; Wm. Williams, P.M., P.G.S.W. Monmouth, 818; John Jones, S.W. 1578; W. F. Betty, 1388. The presence of the above was acknowledged in hearty Masonic fashion, and the visitors generally expressed much satisfaction at the marked progress of the Ogmore Lodge, and the very able and efficient way in which the W.M. performed his onerous duties. A most agreeable hour was afterwards spent at the supper table.

INSTRUCTION.

BROADSTAIRS.—Broadstairs Lodge.—This lodge, which is held under the sanction of the Lewises Lodge, No. 1209, met to celebrate its annual festival in the Assembly Rooms, on Thursday, the 8th inst. There was a large attendance of brethren from the different lodges in the Isle of Thanet. Bro. Edmund F. Davis, of St. Peter's, occupied the chair, and was supported by Bros. L. G. Finch, P.M. 429; W. Call, P.M. 1209, P.P.G.D.C.; T. Fenwick, P.M. 429; T. Hillier, W.M. 492; C. Andrews, P.M. 429; G. Page, P.M. 1209; T. B. Eve, P.M. 1209, and others. On the removal of the cloth Bro. Davis, after thanking the brethren for the honour they had conferred upon him by asking him to preside on that occasion, said the first toast which he had to propose was one which took precedence of all others. It was the health of that lady whose name was always received by every one in this country with the greatest enthusiasm, the greatest love, and the greatest respect, "The Queen;" and he felt sure that there was no body of men who received the toast with greater or more genuine love than the Freemasons of this country. When they thought of the way in which she had reigned for upwards of forty years, a period of British history unparalleled for its prosperity and progress, and when they thought how she had always endeavoured to win respect for this country abroad, and which she had especially done of late by her visit to Baveno, where he was sure they all trusted she had been much benefited in health, they could not but entertain feelings of the deepest love and admiration for the Sovereign lady of these realms. (Hear, hear, and cheers.) He begged to couple with the toast "The Craft." The National Anthem having been sung, the President, again rising, said it was with feelings of much humility that he rose to propose the next toast, not because he believed it was one which would not be received with the greatest acclamation, but because it was one which he could not speak upon in such terms as ought to fall from the mouth of a Freemason. He felt he could not do this because he was not so well versed in Masonic matters as those who sat around him, and, therefore, could not perhaps so well appreciate the services rendered to their Order by the subject of the toast. He had the honour to propose "The Health of the M.W.G.M., H.R.H. the Prince of Wales." If he had been asked to propose this toast at any other meeting, he should have felt that he could not do it justice; but when he came to combine with it the honour and benefit which had been conferred upon the Craft by the M.W.G.M. since he had joined it, he felt the difficulty of his position intensified. The Prince of Wales was well-known to them all, not only for the acts he had done to express his love of, and admiration for, the ancient Order to which they belonged, but for the able manner in which he had filled the chair of the M.W.G.M. of England. (Hear, hear.) During that period he had been actuated by ever a thought which, he ventured to think, should predominate in the breasts of every Freemason. He had shown them not only by his acts daily throughout England, but also abroad, that he was ever anxious and willing to further the interests of any institution that was for the benefit of mankind, and he (the speaker) would go the length of saying that every Freemason would acknowledge that this was one of the true principles of their Order. (Hear, hear.) Not longer ago than last week, for instance, they saw his Royal Highness presiding over the Cab Drivers' Association (hear, hear), because he deemed that that was an institution not unworthy of his support and recognition, and, in fact, there was scarcely a week passed in which he did not preside over some kindred institution. He (the speaker) felt that in Freemasonry they should all have this one thought constantly in their minds, that one of the principles of the Craft was charity, not only in act, but charity in thought. (Hear, hear.) This was the feeling with which he entered the ranks of the Order, and he trusted he would ever be actuated by it. (Cheers.) When they came to think that there were upwards of 1700 Masonic lodges under the English Constitution alone, not to mention the fact that every civilised country in the world had lodges of its own, they could conceive in some measure the powerful influence which must be spread abroad by Freemasonry; and when they came to add to this the list of distinguished and honoured names, such as the Prince of Wales and his two brothers, the Emperor and Crown Prince of Germany, and Prince Frederick of Denmark, and many more who stood at the head of the Order in their respective countries, they must admit that theirs was a no mean brotherhood. There could be little doubt that since the accession of the Prince of Wales to the office of M.W.G.M. Freemasonry had been very much raised in the estimation of the outside world (hear, hear), as might be inferred from the increased number of members who had joined the Order during the last few years, and the number of lodges that had been recently consecrated. Notwithstanding all that its enemies had said against it, Freemasonry was now stronger than ever it was before, and while it continued to boast of such distinguished brethren as His Royal Highness it must ever go on prospering. (Cheers.) The toast having been duly honoured, "God save the Prince of Wales" was sung, after which Bro. Eve, in proposing "The Health of the M.W.P.G.M., the Earl of Carnarvon," remarked that the noble lord was not merely a Mason in name but in thought and act. (Hear, hear.) He (Bro. Eve) had had the pleasure of being present at Grand Lodge when the M.W. Pro G.M. took his position in the chair in the absence of the Prince of Wales, and the very excellent manner in which he performed the duties devolving upon him was a proof that he evidently took the greatest interest in their Order, and while they had such men guiding them they need have no fear of the Craft in any way decaying. (Hear, hear.) Bro. Page briefly proposed "The L.G.M., Lord Skelmersdale," and the rest of the Grand Officers, Present and Past," after which Bro. Finch said it was with a great deal of pleasure that he rose to ask the brethren to drink "The Health of the R.W. Prov. G.M., Viscount Holmesdale." There were a great many present who had the pleasure of knowing his lordship, but, perhaps, no one knew him more intimately than he (the speaker) did, and he, therefore, felt it an exceedingly grateful duty to bring his name under their notice that evening. Viscount Holmesdale had been Prov. Grand Master of Kent for nearly twenty years, and during that time he had performed the duties falling to his position with entire satisfaction all through the province. (Hear, hear.) And it was no slight work that he had to perform, considering that at the present time there were forty-three lodges to preside over, and when he (Viscount Holmesdale) took upon himself the responsibility of office he (Bro. Finch) thought there were only seventeen lodges in the province (hear, hear), thus increasing the number of Freemasons in Kent about threefold. Whether it was in East or West Kent, or wherever they went throughout the province, the name of Viscount Holmesdale was always received with very great pleasure, but not more than what it really deserved. He hoped that many of the brethren would have the opportunity of meeting the M.W. Prov. G.M. in about a month's time. He would be at Margate on the 11th of June, and whoever had the pleasure of meeting him there would be perfectly satisfied that his lordship was the right man in the right place. Bro. Hillier having proposed, in a happy speech, "The D. Prov. G.M., Bro. Eastes, and the rest of the Prov. Grand Officers, Present and Past," Bro. Finch acknowledged the toast in equally felicitous terms, remarking that it was not a very easy nor a very pleasant task which fell to the lot of the D. Prov. G.M., Bro. Eastes. It devolved upon him more than upon any one else to select those brethren on whom the M.W. Prov. G.M. conferred the honour of being his officers during the twelve months that they held the purple, and out of forty-three lodges there were, as a matter of course, some worthy in each of those lodges deserving of his lordship's favour. But when they considered that there were only eleven purples to be distributed amongst forty-three lodges it became a very difficult task for Bro. Eastes to judge who those eleven favourites should be. (Hear, hear.) But he sincerely believed that Bro. Eastes as far as possible did his duty conscientiously, and chose the brethren according to the ability and fitness which they had shown during their Masonic career. (Hear, hear.) Bro. Finch concluded by earnestly urging the younger members of the fraternity to look upon their connection with Masonry as an honourable one. It was a society that they might all justly be proud of, and even the outside world, so far as it knew the objects of the Order, were bound to admit its right to popular gratitude and esteem. Bros. Fenwick and Page having also briefly responded, "Prosperity to the Broadstairs Lodge of Instruction" was proposed by Bro. Page. Bro. Hillier appropriately acknowledged the toast on behalf of the lodge. At this stage of the proceedings, the sum of £10 10s. being available for two life subscriptions to the Masonic Charities, was drawn for, the ballot resulting in favour of Bros. Walter Searles and C. J. Ayton. Bro. Call then proposed "The Health of the W.M. of the Lewises Lodge," to which Bro. Ayton gracefully responded. Bro. Hillier, in a few complimentary remarks, next proposed "The Health of the Chairman." Bro. Davis, in reply, said he felt deeply indebted for the way in which Bro. Hillier had proposed his health and the cordial response which it had called forth. He had felt very much flattered in being selected to be their President, that evening especially, as he was painfully convinced of his own shortcomings in Masonic knowledge. But he knew that with all his faults they loved him still. (Cheers.) He ventured to hope that in time to come they would see him elected to the chair, when it might reasonably be expected that some of his defects would vanish. He now had another and more pleasant duty to perform before resuming his seat. He did so with particular satisfaction, because he felt it was a duty of which any man might be proud; it was to propose "Success to the Masonic Charities." Bro. Finch had asked him to take that toast, although it was one which did not usually fall strictly within his province as Chairman. It appeared to him that the main principle and fundamental teaching of Freemasonry was charity. If he was right in that observation, then the most important duty which they as Freemasons had to perform was to support the noble and benevolent Institutions of the Craft. (Cheers.) When he thought of the circumstance that there were more institutions belonging to the Masonic body than, perhaps, to any other corporation in existence, he ventured to say that they had much reason to be proud of their connection with the Craft. When they could feel that their lives had not been wasted, when they knew that they were following the Divine teaching which said, "teach me to feel another's woe;" when they felt that by supporting these Charities they were doing incalculable good, that they were doing that which Providence had decreed that they should do, it was a matter which they as men should be very proud of. (Hear, hear.) When they bore in mind that they had Institutions for the decayed and aged poor, and Schools for the young of both sexes left unprotected for they could not but be convinced of the utility of their common brotherhood. To his mind there could be no nobler mission in life than to support philanthropic institutions such as they boasted of (hear, hear). Bro. Davis concluded with an eloquent appeal in behalf of the Charities, reminding the brethren that this was an exceptional time of distress from bad trade and war, and calling for exceptional liberality on the part of Freemasons. He trusted that every one would, as far as his means would allow, contribute his quota, and thus fulfil one of the purest and finest principles taught by the Craft. He begged to couple with the toast the name of Bro. Finch. (Hear, hear.) Bro. Finch replied for the Charities, which he characterised as the foundation of the Order. The more the brethren did towards supporting the Institutions, the more they carried out, as their President had said, the principles which they undertook to maintain at their initiation. (Hear, hear.) The remaining toasts, "The Visitors," and "To all Poor and Distressed Masons," were then drunk, and the brethren separated about eleven o'clock. During the evening several capital songs were sung by members of the company. The arrangements for the festival were admirably carried out by Bro. Clarke, of the Lord Nelson.

PANMURE CHAPTER (No. 720).—A convocation of this flourishing chapter was held at the Horns Tavern, Kennington, on Monday, the 12th inst., for the purpose of installing the Principals, and investing the officers for the ensuing year. Companions present: G. Waterall, M.E.Z.; M. H. Larham, H.; T. Poore, J.; James Stevens, P.Z., S.E.; Samuel Poynter, 1st A.S.; Henry Smith, P.Z., Treas.; Thomas Meggy, D.C.; John Gilbert, Janitor; R. H. Harvey, P.Z.; H. C. Levander, P.Z.; John Watts, Thos. Preston, John Walmsley, George T. Thornes. Visiting companions: Comps. G. W. Dixon, Z. 771; S. Lazarus, P.Z. 53 and 188; E. P. Albert, P.Z. 188; W. W. Morgan, 141; John S. Terry, J. 140; N. B. Headon, 145; and W. Lake, H. 131 (Freemason). The chapter having been duly opened, and the minutes of last convocation confirmed, the election and installation of officers was proceeded with. On this occasion Comp. James Stevens, P.Z., undertook the duties of installing Principal, and those who know his admirable working in Craft Masonry will understand how impressively the beautiful ceremony of installation could be rendered by him. We can only say that we have rarely seen it so well done, and have no doubt Comp. Stevens's services will be often sought for on similar occasions. The first business was the installation of E. Comp. Mark S. Larham, H., as M.E.Z.; Thos. Poore, J., as H.; and Richard N. Field as J. The M.E.Z. then appointed his officers as follows: Comp. James Stevens, P.Z., as E. (twelfth re-appointment); Samuel Poynter, N.; Thomas Meggy, P.S.; Henry Smith, P.Z., Treasurer; J. Watts, D.C.; J. Gilbert, Janitor. The appointment of 1st and 2nd Assistant Sojourners was postponed. After a unanimous and hearty vote of thanks had been accorded to the installing Principal, the chapter was closed and the brethren adjourned to a banquet. After the usual loyal toasts had been disposed of, the M.E.Z. presented, in the name of the chapter, a handsome Past Treasurer's jewel to Comp. Levander, who had acted as Treasurer for several years, and expressed his regret that his valued services could not be continued. The toast of "The Visitors" was then proposed by the M.E.Z., who said that the members of the Panmure Chapter were always well pleased at the presence of visitors. Comp. Lazarus responded on behalf of the visitors, and took occasion to expatiate on the grandeur and sublimity of the Arch Degree, showing how closely its rites resembled those of the Jewish Synagogue. The toast of "The Past Principals," responded to by Comps. Stevens and Levander, "The Press," "The Officers of the Chapter," responded to by Comps. Poynter and Watts; and songs from Comps. Poynter, Meggy, and others, brought this interesting meeting to a close.

SUNDERLAND.—De Lambton Chapter (No. 94).—The annual convocation of this old chapter was held last Tuesday, in the Masonic Hall, Queen-street. There were present Comps. R. B. Lutert, M.E.Z.; John J. Clay, H.; James D. Todd, J.; James S. Pearson, P.Z.; George Wandlass, P.Z.; W. W. Collie, S.E.; and a number of other companions belonging to the chapter. Visitors: Wm. H. Crookes, P.Z., and Provincial G.S.E.; and E. Comps. Robt. Hudon, Fred. Maddison, Wm. Little, M. Douglas, H. Turnbull, and Wm. Craven, all of No. 80; Comps. Thos. Watson and Chas. Macnamara, No. 97. The chapter having been opened by the Principals, and the minutes of the previous convocation read and confirmed, the ballot was then taken for Bro. Wm. Watts, of the Phoenix Lodge, No. 94, which proved unanimous in his favour. Bro. Watts was then exalted to the Sublime Degree of a Royal Arch Mason. At this meeting the Principals elected at the last quarterly convocation were duly installed and placed in their respective chairs by M.E. Comp. Robt. Hudon, in a very able manner. John J. Clay, Z.; J. D. Todd, H.; M. Frampton, J.; and the following officers were invested: Wm. W. Collie, S.E.; R. Wilson, S.N.; M.E. Comp. Robert B. Lutert, Treasurer; Comps. S. Sutherland, P.S., by proxy; John W. Brown, Janitor. The companions then retired to refreshment, which was served up in the usual excellent style.

BRO. C. B. PAYNE, GRAND TYLER.—The funeral of Bro. Payne took place on Monday, at Abney Park Cemetery. Grand Lodge was represented by Bros. Hervey, G.S.; H. G. Buss, Asst. G.S.; Pendlebury, and Dodd. Among the other brethren present were Bros. Richards W.M. 27; J. B. Poole, P.M.; W. H. Libbiss, Bingham, W. Stephens, Jas. Brett, Thos. Cubit, Figg, (brother-in-law), Charles Atkins, and Henry Young.

H.R.H. Prince Leopold will take the chair at the annual meeting of the Association in Aid of the Deaf and Dumb, to be held at Grosvenor House on Friday.

Bro. J. D. Allcroft, M.P., will preside at the annual breakfast of the Lord's Day Observance Society, to be held to-morrow at St. James's Hall.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The visit of the Stewards for the ninety-first anniversary festival of this Institution to the Schools at St. John's Hill, Battersea Rise, was paid on Monday last, when between four and five hundred brethren and ladies attended to see the pupils give proofs of their proficiency, and the successful competitors of the year receive their prizes. The weather was well suited for the occasion, a sudden change in the bleak winds of the last six months having taken place in the course of the previous night, and a beautiful spring temperature prevailing in their stead.

The company began to assemble soon after three o'clock, and shortly after four the pupils were arranged in the handsome new hall, which accommodated without any inconvenience the whole of the large company, which but for the new building would have been unable to witness the performances. The small gallery was appropriated to the use of those of the pupils who did not take part in the exercises, while those who did were seated in the centre of the hall, on the south side of which was erected a dais for the Chairman, the House Committee, and Miss Davis, the Head Governess. The arrangement was admirable, and by means of it every one in the room was enabled to see and hear all that passed.

Bro. Col. Creaton, Grand Treasurer of England, and Treasurer and Trustee of the Institution, and Chairman of the present year's festival, presided, and was supported by Bros. J. A. Rucker, E. H. Leachworth, Edward Cox, Dr. Jabez Hogg, the Rev. Dr. P. H. E. Brette, Baron de Ferrieres, H. A. Dubois, Col. James E. Peters, Louis Hirsch, J. H. Southwood, James Terry, Griffiths Smith, and Constantine Burke, District Grand Master of Jamaica, and F. R. W. Hedges, Secretary.

The list of the brethren, ladies, and gentlemen (non-Masons) who were present, comprised the following names:—Mrs. and Mrs. Griffiths Smith, Mrs. Nicholson, Mr. Culmer, Miss Pendlebury, Miss Hayes, Mrs. Cox, Mr. Crick, Miss Crick, Miss Pepper, Bro. C. E. Williams, Mrs. Williams, the Baron de Ferrieres, F. R. W. Hedges, A. J. Ireton, Julius Brustodt, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Brookman, Edith Brookman, Charles Whichels, J. W. Baldwin, T. Hastings Miller, P.P.G.D. Middlesex; Edgar Bowyer, P.P.G.D. Herts; Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Caswell, A. C. Halestrap, D.C. 1471; H. Higgins, P.M. 1381; J. Tanner, P.M. 1707; Mrs. Byers, Mrs. Tyerman, Mrs. Clements, W. J. Murliis, P.M. 1642; R. B. Webster, G. W. Watson, John Green, 889; W. B. Weeks, 1076; F. E. Thompson, 1076; Charles Hammerton, Edward Terry, Mrs. Terry, R. W. Chamberlain, Mrs. Withers, Mrs. Radcliffe, Mrs. Harding, Mrs. Colson, Mrs. Ireton, W. Moring, 9; J. F. Weber, P. S. Weber, E. Farwig, L. E. Wilkinson, A. Jolley, Jas. Terry, W. J. Crutch, Mrs. Salton and daughters, Miss Harland, Miss Taylor, J. A. Perkins, 765; W. H. Morson, 1320; John H. Southwood, P.M. 1260; A. E. Gladwell, J.W. 172; Mrs. P. L. Bradley, Mrs. A. E. Gladwell, H. J. Amphlett, 1511; L. Lygo, L. C. Page, L. Page, Mrs. Dickinson, Mrs. Chamberlain, H. A. Dubois, Henry Birdseye, Miss Birdseye, James Blyth, Miss Stephenson, Mr. H. Lucking, Lizzie Ward, M. Clayton, H. M. Levy, J. J. Berry, John Hill, John W. Saunders, G. Beveridge, J. T. Pilditch, Capt. The Memorial Prizes of Three Guineas, given by the Lodge of Prudent Brethren, in memory of the late Bro. John Boyd, was awarded to Frances Elizabeth Gardner.

At the conclusion of the children's performances Col. Creaton, said, that after the entertainment the company had just had he could not allow this opportunity to pass without thanking Miss Davis, the Head Governess of the Institution, to whom they owed so much. It was entirely due to her exertions that the efficiency of the school and its high state of perfection had been reached. The opportunity was a fitting one for thanking Miss Davis, and on behalf of the Committee, the subscribers, and all those who were then assembled he thanked her for her exertions, and hoped they might have her services for many years to come.

Col. Creaton then distributed the prizes, and when this had been done, he said he had had great pleasure in doing what he had done, and in congratulating the children sincerely on having earned them so well. He trusted that those children who were not prize-takers, and who were seated in the gallery looking down on their successful schoolfellows, would exert themselves, and come to the front next year and try to obtain the reward of merit. Before the company adjourned to refreshment he wished to inform them that Miss Jarwood, the Matron to the Institution for many years, had lately not been very well, but he was happy to say that she was now much better. He was glad to tell the subscribers in that great assembly that the benefits which had arisen to the Institution from the management of Miss Jarwood were very numerous, and that in the course of the number of years during which she had been matron her management had done wonders. He trusted that she would live many years to see the fruits of her labours.

The Honorary Chaplain of the Institution proposed the thanks of the meeting to the Chairman for his kindness in coming to distribute the prizes, which he had performed to the satisfaction of every one concerned. He (the Hon. Chaplain) was very glad indeed to have the opportunity, as they all had, of welcoming Bro. Colonel Creaton there, inasmuch as he (the Hon. Chaplain) had had the opportunity of officiating in that capacity when Bro. Col. Creaton laid the foundation stone of the new wing in which they were assembled. It had not been formally opened yet, but they all hoped and trusted that on another occasion it would receive the presence of the high lady whose name it was about to bear, that of the Princess of Wales. Bro. Col. Creaton from the time he laid the foundation stone had given the greatest attention to the erection of the buildings, and it must be a great gratification to him to be present now in a room such as that in which he was now speaking. The thanks of all the officers of the Institution, the audience, the House Committee, the teachers, and every one else were due to Bro. Col. Creaton for giving them so much space, and they would all feel gratified that they had had more space. They knew how essential it was to have plenty of air for the lungs, and the children could not have acquitted themselves so well if they had not had such a quantity of fresh air. He begged to express his own gratification at being there that day, and he hoped all the company would join in expressing their thanks to Bro. Col. Creaton.

Bro. Dr. Jabez Hogg seconded the motion, and testified to the great zeal of Bro. Col. Creaton with regard to the welfare of this and the sister Institutions, over all of which he spent a great deal of time and attention.

Bro. Col. Creaton thanked the company sincerely for the vote, and said it was quite by accident he was there that day as President of the meeting. He was Treasurer of the Institution, and in that capacity had been called on to take the chair.

The company then adjourned to tea, after which they accompanied the little girls in walking about the grounds, and in the course of the evening witnessed the calisthenic exercises, and wound up the day by joining the children in dances, which continued till about ten o'clock. On no previous occasion has such an unqualified success been attained for the Stewards' visit to this Institution. The additional building prevented any crowding, and the dances, which were carried on in the old school-room as well as in the new, were not sufficient to fill both. Consequently there was no undue heat, and the comfort of the visitors and children was maintained throughout the day and evening.

Bro. Hedges, we were informed, had up to that day 247 Stewards for his festival, and expected that his subscriptions would exceed £10,000.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

The monthly meeting of the Committee of this Institution was held on Wednesday afternoon, at Freemasons' Hall, Col. Creaton presiding. There were also present Bros. James Brett, John G. Stevens, Raynham W. Stuart, J. A. Farnfield, Wm. Hilton, S. Rawson, Wm. Stephens, Edgar Bower, Dr. Jabez Hogg, Erasmus Wilson, C. G. Dille, and James Terry (Secretary).

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, Bro. Terry reported that the Earl of Zetland, Prov. G.M. for N. and E. Yorkshire, had consented to preside at the festival of this Institution for 1880. Bro. Terry also read letters from Col. Starkie and J. L. Hine acknowledging receipt of votes of thanks passed at last meeting in February. He also reported the death of three male annuitants, and read the Warden's report for the past month. Cheques in payment of annuities and salaries for the ensuing quarter were directed to be signed, and the draft annual report was submitted and approved. The list of attendances of the Committee for the year was read, and the three brethren who had attended least retired. Two were nominated for re-election, and a third for election. The application of the widow of a deceased annuitant for half her late husband's annuity was granted, and leave of absence from the asylum for three months was granted. The Committee then adjourned.

A Grand Council of Illustrious Knights, K.H., 300, of the Ancient and Accepted Rite, was held at the hall, 33, Golden-square, on Tuesday last, when several new members were admitted.

Bro. Locock Webb, of the Chancery Bar, has been elected a Bencher of the Middle Temple.

THE GIRLS' SCHOOL FESTIVAL.

The anniversary on Wednesday last was, indeed, a triumphant success. £11,700, with nineteen lists to come in, was truly a grand total, £3000 ahead of 1878, £2000 more than any previous festival. With nineteen lists yet to come in, it is more than probable that before the close of 1879 the returns for the Girls' School will not fall far short of £12,000. Again, we repeat, a magnificent totality. Despite the badness of trade, despite the complaints of the agricultural interest, despite hasty prophecies and doubting valuations, the zeal of English Freemasons betrays no lessening, points to no falling back; and we agree with Bro. Binckes, when, as he truly and tersely puts it, "bad times and hard times do not seem to affect the hearts and hands of Freemasons." It is, indeed, a subject of great rejoicing to all members of our Order to note how nobly our great Charities are supported, year by year, by the spontaneous and hearty offerings of our large-hearted fraternity. We venture to repeat what we have remarked before, that there is no earthly society, that we are aware of, essaying, or succeeding to accomplish, what English Freemasonry yearly brings about, for the great cause, the goodly claims, the needs, the work, the "outcome" of charity. Some of the circumstances attending the Festival of 1879 deserve to be noted and remembered. Three weeks before the Festival there was no Chairman found, or even apparently findable, and then it was that our gallant and energetic Bro. Lieut.-Colonel Creton placed himself, in a most fraternal and commendable spirit, and following a good precedent, in the hands of the Boards of Stewards. It was felt for many reasons, that under the then circumstances of the case, the actual position of affairs, this was an offer not lightly to be rejected, or hastily ignored. Lieut.-Colonel Creton possessed advantages for the post which none others, we make bold to say, are endowed with. He was Trustee and Treasurer of the Institution, he was Chairman of the Building Committee, his services to all the Charities have been conspicuous and unceasing. He had recently, also, been elected Grand Treasurer of England, and it was not unreasonable, to expect that the brethren, mindful of his Masonic career, and glad to recognize his undeniable claims on their sympathy, good will, and respect, would rally round our distinguished brother. And the result has proved how sound these views were, and how seasonable was the action of the Board of Stewards. If it be true that a "more distinguished brother" in mere social position might have been found, yet we venture to think that a "more distinguished brother" in Masonic services, and zeal, and sacrifices for the Charities cannot be found than our kindly friend, the Grand Treasurer. And hence, no doubt, the warmth of his reception, and the success and prestige of the gathering. We congratulate all concerned—the Stewards, the Managing Committee, and, above all, Bro. Hedges. As the old adage runs, the "proof of the pudding is in the eating," and we are glad to find that the anniversary of 1879 affords the most complete vindication of those many brethren, who in the election of Bro. Hedges, sought to carry out true Masonic teaching, in "commending industry and rewarding merit." We reserve for next week an analysis of the return,—the more so as we shall probably have to say a good deal on the subject, and we refer our readers to the full and faithful report of the Festival.

THE LAST MEETING OF GRAND CHAPTER.

The last meeting of Grand Chapter was an important one in all respects, in that it dealt with a case, not uncommon just now, of the application for a charter to be attached to the Orpheus Lodge, No. 1706. The lodge it seems had not been in existence three years, and as three years should elapse, we are told, before a charter to a lodge be granted, the Committee recommended that the "prayer of the petition be not complied with." This recommendation of the Committee was carried on a division by 24 to 10; the application for a charter was therefore lost. The term of "three years" is not forced by the Royal Arch Constitutions, but by a resolution of the Committee of Grand Chapter in 1875, approved of by Grand Chapter. We think, with all deference to Grand Chapter, that such a resolution is a mistake, and requires amendment, and for these reasons. In the first place, we object to the government of the members of the Royal Arch Grade by a "resolution" of the Committee; any such provision ought to be inserted in the "Constitutions." In the next place, the resolution is, in our opinion, a mistake, and one not suited to 1879, whatever it may have been so late even as 1875. Twelve months is quite a sufficient term of delay to prove the stability of a lodge, and the present system is a great practical hardship on lodges and brethren, and is the cause of the paucity of Royal Arch Masons as compared with Craft Masons. A charter is granted in a provincial town, for instance, where there is only one lodge. A large influx of members takes place. They are all eligible for exaltation at the expiration of twelve months, but as the lodge cannot get a charter for three years, they either go to another town, or they stop where they are, and never are exalted at all. Hence, at this moment, not one quarter of our Master Masons are members of the Royal Arch. We venture to think that an injustice is thus done to Master Masons, and Royal Arch Masonry is kept back, evidently by a "resolution" which certainly seems to ignore, whenever put in force, the wants and position of our lodges today. In the case of the "Orpheus," it has eighty-five members, and twenty of the members are P.M.'s. So that there is, indeed, plenty of support to be in it found for the more limited area of Royal Arch Masonry. If in former times, when Royal Arch Masons were fewer, and lodges were less numerous, such a restriction was not improper, it has ceased to have any reason and meaning when Royal Arch Masonry is increasing rapidly in favour and numbers amongst us. We hope soon, therefore, to hear that this resolution is amended in the sense we have ventured to indicate, and that the provision, be it what it may, be incorporated in the Constitutions. The Committee was, no doubt, perfectly justified in upholding a previous resolution, approved of in Grand Chapter, and still unrepealed, but we are, nevertheless, distinctly of opinion that, with the best motives in the world, such a resolution is an interference with the just rights and lawful claims of Master Masons, and is, above all, most antagonistic to the proper development and increase of Royal Arch Masonry. We beg respectfully to call the attention of our rulers to the subject, anxious as we know they always are to do what is right and fair to all."

SERVICES OF THE NEW GRAND OFFICERS.

GRAND TREASURER.

Lieut.-Col. Creton was initiated in the Phoenix Lodge in 1852, and joined the Lodge of Antiquity in 1857. He was exalted in St. James's Chapter in 1857, and is a P.Z.; and was W.M. Lodge of Antiquity 1860 and 1861. He was Grand Steward in 1860 (President of the Board); Grand Deacon in 1862; Grand Sword Bearer Grand Chapter in 1862, and is Steward for all the Charities. He is Vice-Patron and Trustee to all the Charities, Treasurer Girls' School; and President Grand Chapter Committee; Chairman Building Committee Girls' School, and Grand Treasurer. Has been Member of Board of General Purposes and of the Colonial Board four years.

GRAND SECRETARY FOR GERMAN CORRESPONDENCE.

Bro. Ernest Emil Wendt, now re-appointed Grand Secretary for German Correspondence, was initiated into Masonry on the 1st of November, 1843, at Stettin, Germany, in the lodge of The Three Compasses, working under the system of the Grand National Mother Lodge of the Three Globes. Having been passed on the 18th December, 1844, and raised on the 25th November, 1846, he was admitted on the 25th January, 1850, to the Old Scotch Master's Degree, which, under the above system, is considered equivalent to the Royal Arch. Having, in the interim, removed to England, Bro. Wendt, in the years 1860 or 1861, was delegated by the two senior Grand Lodges of Berlin to arrange with the Grand Lodge of England a mutual interchange of representatives, such intercourse having up to that time taken place only with the Grand Lodge, Royal York of Friendship, the youngest of the three Berlin Grand Lodges. The lengthened negotiations which this important change entailed were not brought to a conclusion until the year 1869, after Bro. Hervey had become Grand Secretary, in which year the late Bro. Dundas was admitted as representative of the three Grand Lodges of Berlin, and in the following year Bro. Wendt was appointed Grand Secretary for German Correspondence, in which office he has now for the tenth time been re-invested. Through his intermediation an equally cordial Masonic intercourse has been established between the Grand Lodges of Berlin and those of Scotland and Ireland. Bro. Wendt was promoted on the 2nd of July, 1860, to the first steps of the so-called Inner Orient of the Three Globes; on the 23rd of May, 1864, to those next following, and on the 30th of the same month to the highest Degree in that system, which is understood to combine everything that Freemasonry undertakes to teach. In April, 1870, he joined English Craft Masonry, in the St. Mary's Lodge, No. 63, and while in the chair of that lodge in 1873 delivered a series of lectures upon Freemasonry in Germany. In 1877 he was exalted in the Belgrave Chapter, and in the same year became one of the founders of St. Mary's Chapter, No. 63, at the consecration of which, in May, 1878, he was installed Second Principal, and he is at the present moment M.E.Z. elect. He was appointed Grand Scribe N. at the meeting of Grand Chapter on the 8th inst. Bro. Wendt is a Life Governor of all the Masonic Charities, and served as Steward to two of them in 1872 and 1878. He also enjoys the rare distinction of being an honorary member of the Three Globes Grand Lodge, and of the Countries of Germany Grand Lodge, both these honours being conferred for eminent services to the Craft.

MASONIC GRAMMAR, &c.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I venture to call your attention to the use of a word in last report of the Committee of Grand Chapter, which I hardly think is correct. It is said—"except in very exceptional cases."

Is this a proper use of the word "exceptionable?"

Exceptionable, or exceptional, according to Dr. Johnson, means "liable to objection," though, I admit, it is often incorrectly used in common conversation, to denote "special," and the like. It seems, however, a pity in Masonic public documents to use words which are not strictly correct, and as a stickler for the purity of our English tongue, I venture to call attention to this misuse of words. The word "special" or "peculiar" would be the proper term to apply. As it is, the sentence is bad English.

I am, yours fraternally,

LINDLEY MURRAY.

AN OLD MASON.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Will you permit me to correct two errors in your last number; one in the letter of Bro. Perceval, the other in that of mine. Bro. Jas. Norris was born January 21st, 1790, not 1798. The name should be Norris, not Morris.

I enclose a letter, received this morning, from Bro. Coombe, of Hayle, Cornwall, on the subject.

Yours faithfully and fraternally,
HENRY J. STRONG, M.D.,
Hon. Surgeon R.M.B.I., Croydon.

May 5th, 1879.

Dear Bro. Strong,—

Referring to your letter, replying to my quotation and remark therein, you stated Bro. Norris was born 21st January, 1790. Bro. Perceval's letter in the Freemason, 3rd inst., stated that he was born January, 1798. Which is correct? You both agree with the date of his initiation, viz., 10th March, 1812.

I have no hesitation in saying that Bro. Norris is the oldest known Mason in England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, and the United States of America. I would again refer you to reply to my enquiry in America: "The oldest Mason, so far as is known, is Francis Brinley Fogg, now residing in Memphis, Tennessee. He was made in St. Paul's Lodge, No. 14, in 1817, and is one of the charter members of the present St. Paul's Lodge. Next come S. Aynault Robinson, now of Wakefield, who was made in St. John's Lodge in 1819; William S. Clarke, Providence, St. John's, 1822; Freeman Mayberry, Newport, St. John's, 1824. Capt. John Howland, of this city, was made a Mason in Mount Vernon Lodge, Providence, in 1821."—Newport Mercury, Rhode Island, U.S., January, 1877.

The second oldest in England is that of Bro. Nicholas Donnithorne, late Tyler of the Cornubian Lodge, No. 450, Hayle, Cornwall, who was born 12th July, 1789, and was initiated in the Royal Cornwall Militia Lodge, No. 618, now 230 (One and All), Bodmin, 6th April, 1812. He came from and old Masonic stock, his father having been a member of the Craft for many years, and who died 1803. Bro. D. also enjoys excellent health.—See Freemason, vol. 8, p. 229 (Bro. Rich's letter, "Father of Freemasons").

The third is that of Sir Moses Montefiore, who is the oldest man, and seven days junior Mason to the last mentioned.

Bro. Marsh, initiated 1819 (I believe there are many of that age in England).

Bro. Norris, born 21st January, 1790, initiated 10th March, 1812.

Bro. Donnithorne was born 12th July, 1789, initiated 6th April, 1812.

Bro. Sir M. Montefiore, born 24th October, 1784, initiated 13th April, 1812.

If you think these hasty remarks are of any service to the Freemason you are at liberty to use them by making the necessary corrections, &c.

Apologising for the liberty I have taken in trespassing on your time, if you will kindly inform me if Bro. Norris was born in 1790 or 1798 I should feel obliged.

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

JOHN COOMBE, P.M., P.Z., 450,
P. Prov. G.D. Cornwall.

Reviews.

FREEMASONRY AND INTOLERANCE. By Bro. Rev. J. H. SIMONSEN. George Kenning, 198, Fleet-street.

This little "brochure," well-printed, and put forward for "private circulation" by Bro. Rev. J. Simonsen, deserves to be read and thought over. We have already alluded to the subject, and will only add that it is an address by the Rev. Bro. Simonsen to the Scandinavian Lutheran Synod at Lisbon, Wisconsin, U.S., condemnatory of certain intolerant proceedings against Freemasonry and against himself as a Freemason. It is both sad and strange to note that the persecuting spirit of Ultramontanism should be rampant in a Scandinavian Lutheran Synod, and that objections to Freemasonry should be made on a mournful misuse of a text of scripture, and complete and fanatical ignorance of the principles of scriptural exegesis. We commend Bro. Simonsen's pamphlet to the notice of our readers.

A DISSERTATION ON THE CELESTIAL SIGN OF THE RAINBOW. By PROTEUS. Hodges, Foster, and Figgis, Grafton-street, Dublin.

This is one of a class of works abounding just now on which we look with astonishment, we confess mingled with awe. It is, with all its excellences, too "transcendental" for us, and though it may be "caviare" to the initiated, is, we are free to admit, beyond our powers of comprehension, digestion, and assimilation. But then we speak with deference and with bated breath. This school of interpretation, philology, ethnology, is very popular just now, and it is just possible that we are wrong and the "novi homines right." As Freemasons we are always bound to be tolerant and trusting, no less than open to conviction, and friendly to free discussion, and we, therefore, note the appearance of a class of literature, remarkable in itself, and which seems to have many purveyors and readers in the present day.

DICKENS' DICTIONARY OF LONDON, 1879. By Bro. CHARLES DICKENS, 26, Wellington-street, Strand, W.C.

This most useful little hand-book has come before us, and we commend it unhesitatingly to the notice and approval of our readers. It is a hand-book and vade mecum, which worthy "provincials," and even acute "Londoners" may well possess, and the information if useful, valuable, and concise in itself, is conveyed in kind and forcible language, which none can misunderstand. Foreigners will also find it a very useful book to possess, and we feel forced to add that Bro. Charles Dickens deserves great "Kudos" for thus seeking to place before visitors and inhabitants alike a mass of information relating to our "great metropolis," difficult to put together, and yet most interesting and useful when thus summed up in so compact and handy a guide. We trust that the Dictionary of London will meet with the success that it so well deserves.

LIFE OF THE PRINCE CONSORT, Vol. IV. By THEODORE MARTIN. Smith, Elder & Co., 15, Waterloo-place.

This is a delightful volume of a very remarkable man, which we have taken up with pleasure and put down with a sigh, for it recalls to us most vividly, and makes us realize more than ever, the irreparable loss which the Queen and the country sustained in the premature death of that truly great man, the late Prince Consort. Mr. Martin, who is fulfilling his responsible task with great clearness, fidelity, and honesty, deserves the thanks of all who like to contemplate the biography of the good and the great, and survey the "causes" of "events," and realize the "arcana" of States, and the true explanation of the progress of those curious episodes which the scriptural term "fate," and the faithful consider "Providence." The lights and shadows, the "chiaro oscuro" which make up the picture so well limned, come before us, the more we are convinced how real, and true, and noble, as touched up by a master hand, as we ponder over them, was the man whom these faithful volumes attempt to portray. And not only this, but the singular virtues and gifts, and early training and matured intelligence of a constitutional monarch were never more fitly represented than in these minute yet effective touches, which display the warm heart, the good sense, the rare discrimination, and the truthful judgment of the Queen. We await Vol. V. with the deepest interest.

CONSECRATION OF THE GRANITE CHAPTER, NO. 1328.

The chapter attached to the celebrated Granite Lodge, No. 1328, was consecrated on Friday, the 9th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, by Comp. John Hervey, Grand Scribe E.; who was assisted by Comp. Col. F. Burdett, Grand Superintendent of Middlesex, acting as H.; Comp. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, Past Grand Chaplain of England, as J.; and Comp. H. G. Buss, Past Standard Bearer, acting as Director of Ceremonies. Comps. Seymour Smith, G. T. Carter, and Theodore Distin performed the musical portion of the ceremony, which being held in the Zetland Room, had the advantage of the use of the nice little organ that is placed there. The robes of the Principals were some of the most handsome and costly that could be employed, and the banners, staves, and other appointments of the chapter were such as to do the greatest credit to the manufacturers.

The ceremony commenced a little before five o'clock, and the list of companions attending comprised the names of Comps. Col. Francis Burdett, G. Supt. Middlesex; R. Giddy, G. Supt. Griqualand; S. Rawson, P.G. Supt. China; Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, P.G. Chap.; Col. J. Creighton, G. Treas.; J. Hervey, G. Scribe E.; E. S. Snell, P.G.D.; J. A. Rucker, P.G.D.; J. Glaisher, P.G.D.; J. M. Case, P.G.D.; Lieut.-Col. Shadwell H. Clerke, P.G.D.; F. Robinson, P.A.G.D. of C.; A. J. Duff Filer, P.G.S.B.; W. Hyde Pullen, P.G.S.B.; H. G. Buss, A.G. Sec.; J. W. Ellison Macartney, M.P., Dr. Hugh Mackintosh, Rev. P. M. Holden, Rev. J. Selbé, Chaplain to the Forces; E. H. Letchworth, F. Richardson, Lieut.-Col. Peters, Fredk. Binckes, Jas. Terry, George Kenning, Dr. Kimber, Donald M. Dewar, H. C. Levander, G. R. Shervill, W. Batty, J. Lambert, G. A. Ibbetson, F. G. Bailey, G. E. Wainwright, Prov. G. J. Surrey, P.Z. 370; T. Ford, W. Woodward, J. Lewis, C. F. Hogard, Herbert Dicketts, J. Chyneweth, John Gibson, John Oliver, J. O. Gardner, J. Western, John W. Cox, W. Lake, and H. Massey (Freemason).

Officers: Comps. J. Lewis Thomas, P.G.S.B. of England, Z.; F. West, H.; D. W. Pearce, J.; W. H. Mugeridge, E. designate; Dr. J. H. Oswald, N.; Capt. J. Ritchie, R.A., P.S. designate; Woodstock, P.Z., Janitor.

After the formal opening of the convocation Comp. John Hervey, delivering the inaugural address, said: "Companions, we are met here to-day for the purpose of consecrating this Royal Arch chapter, and I trust that, considering the strength of the lodge to which it is to be attached, we shall find that as a chapter it will progress not only in numbers but in good work. The Granite Lodge I believe is celebrated for its good work; I have not recently been there, and, therefore, I cannot of my own knowledge state what the work is; but I am quite sure that in confiding the sceptre, as I shall do this evening, to Comp. Thomas, I shall place it in the hands of one who will take care that the rules of Royal Arch Masonry are properly carried out, and that the regulations of the Royal Arch are strictly adhered to. We all know that the origin of the Royal Arch is a matter of some obscurity, and although I am not about to read you a long dissertation upon the Royal Arch, yet a day or two ago I came upon one or two memorandas about the Royal Arch which, perhaps, it may not be out of place to mention here. Mackey, the American, writes of Royal Arch Masonry being established before 1740, and states then that the Royal Arch formed a portion of the Third Degree, and was separated when the schism took place between what were then termed the ancient and the modern lodges, and then they made it a distinct degree for their own purposes. Dr. Oliver, who was also a man of considerable research, as we all know, thinks that it was fabricated by the Chevalier Ramsay between 1736 and 1740, and Dr. Dusing speaks of it as a degree of 1744. Those dates are not widely divergent, but, at any rate, there is a sufficient divergence among them to show that we have not at all arrived at a period of certainty when the Royal Arch was first established—the first official allusion to the time of it is in the minutes of the Ancient Masons on the 4th March, 1752; and Dunkerley, a reputed son of George the Second, is supposed to have established the first Royal Arch chapter under the Moderns in 1779. This, however, must be a mistake, because the fact is that, from the books in the possession of Grand Lodge, there was more than one chapter warrant granted in the year 1769, ten years earlier. The first chapter in the register of the Moderns is 1768. The Grand Chapter of England is reported to have been formed in 1797, but no records can be found in proof of that statement. That a Grand Chapter did exist is incontestable, as at the Union in 1813 the degree was not only adopted in the Articles of Union, but on the 30th of Nov., 1813, a Grand Chapter was held, and the Duke of Sussex was nominated to conclude the union with the Duke of Kent and the Court of Ancients. On the 18th of March, 1817, the duke's report was read, received, and adopted, and a Committee was appointed to prepare laws which were to form the rules for the future. The next day the Grand Lodge met and formed the United Grand Chapter, under which name meetings were held until Feb., 1822, when the old appellation of Supreme Grand Chapter was renewed by which it is still called. In 1825 the total receipts of the Grand Chapter were £204. In 1837 they amounted to £166; in 1857 to £652; and in 1874 to £1441. That, we admit, is a large increase in a given number of years. Whether this increase will be maintained is another question. No chapter appears on the Grand Lodge Calendar until 1837, when the London chapters are mentioned, and, four years later, in 1841, a general list appears. The Ancients, in a register book in the possession of Grand Lodge, claim to have established their Grand Chapter in 1771, and Lawrence Dermott claims to have been exalted in 1746 in No. 26, Dublin. These are a few stray memoranda which have come under my notice which I have jotted down for use on a proper occasion, and I do not know that I could have made a better use of them than on an occasion when we meet together for the purpose of still again increasing the roll of chapters, and increasing, I trust, not only the roll of chapters, but also the respectability of the Order, and its numerical advance. At all times, as I believe you are aware, it affords me great pleasure when I have the opportunity of devoting my services to the benefit of the Craft or the Arch, and on the present occasion I have still that feeling of devoting my services to the Craft, although unfortunately not in very good trim for carrying out the duties of the office. I will, however, do my best, and I am sure I shall receive the support of all the companions who are here present in carrying out those duties in a manner which I trust will reflect credit on the Craft in general.

Following the usual formalities of the address of the acting Scribe E., the Consecrating Z.'s reply and directions, the reading of the petitions for the charter, the demand for the approval of the companions of the Principals named, and the assent of the companions, the oration was delivered, in doing which Comp. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford said:

M.E. Consecrating Officer, M.E. Comp. H., and Companions: I have been requested by the companions of this new chapter, through the kindly intermediation of our worthy and esteemed M.E. Comp. Thomas, to deliver the customary oration, and I shall, therefore, venture to trespass upon your attention for a short time. Greatly as I esteem the privilege of being permitted to address you on the present occasion, the pleasure is mingled with pain. I look round the chapter to-day and miss one familiar face, and one very worthy companion always associated with ceremonies of this kind. It is hardly three weeks ago that at the consecration of St. Dunstan's Chapter, we were assisted by the genial presence and truly cheerful aid of Comp. Charles Payne, and I feel sure, sir, we shall all sincerely feel that in his death we have lost an old friend, a most excellent companion, and a most faithful member of our Order. It is not without evidence of sadness that we recall the loss of old friends and companions, whose place know them no more, but the Masonic worth and meritorious services of Comp. Payne will long be remembered by all who valued his sterling qualities, and were witnesses of his kindly, calm, and untiring zeal for Freemasonry. Sir, it is not very easy, as you know well from your long and varied experience, to find the subject matter of frequent orations. Just now consecrations of chapters are not so uncommon as they used to be a few years back, then the exception to the rule, and it is difficult to avoid the always unwelcome process of repetition and of sameness; perhaps the wearisome reiteration of well-known truths, or the unedifying use of familiar verbiage. We are always in danger, we who have often to address meetings like these, of becoming heavy or commonplace, wearisome and turgid. Hence it became a serious matter for me to consider what I should say, when I sat down to put together a few thoughts suitable to this interesting occasion, and if, sir, and companions all, in what I am about to say I shall try your forbearance, or weary your patience, kindly bear in mind that I have done my best to speak as the heart dictates, what seems to me alike suitable and reasonable on an occasion like this. We are met, sir, to consecrate a new chapter. We are assembled, let us gladly note, in the fear of God and love of our brotherhood, reverencing and acknowledging T.G.A.O.T.U., the Eternal and Triune Jehovah, and with hearts beating, let us trust also, with true fraternal sympathy and goodwill for our companions and fellow workers, to constitute another Royal Arch Chapter to the honour of the Most High, and the happiness, unity, and concord of its members, one and all. On such an occasion the mind naturally turns to our foundation truths, as the best test of the value, as the truest criterion of the interest of Freemasonry, that so we may realize why we are here, and wherefore it is we seek to celebrate our mystic rites, and to increase and enlarge the borders of our excellent brotherhood. In the Royal Arch Grade we have, as we often say esoterically, the "summum bonum" of Masonic teaching and excellence. It seems to connect and compact the whole building "fitly-framed together," into one consistent whole, and to lend its colouring of religious reverence, and its tone of faithful service, to every legend, every axiom, every dogma, every declaration of Freemasonry! It is, however, unnecessary for me in this distinguished assembly, to dilate upon the goodly principles, and living truths of Freemasonry, on its pure morality, its genial philanthropy, its sacred precepts, or its benevolent aspirations, because they are not only well known to all present, but because, above all, in the Royal Arch Grade, we seem almost, as it were, if I may so say, to stand on higher ground, to have reached to the pinnacle of our goodly Masonic Temple. All that Craft Masonry proclaims in edifying clearness and graceful diction is enforced in the Royal Arch Grade, and with this addition, that the veil is, as it were, lifted for a moment, which the eyes of human reason cannot penetrate, unless assisted by Divine light, and we look with reverence and gratification combined on that sacred and illuminating scroll, which points out to us the pathway of our feet here below, in reverence of and obedience to God, in love for man, in loyalty and devotion to our civil duties, and in careful compliance with the decrees and resolutions of our own supreme authority. But this is not all. Though we are thus bid look up with trusting submission to the providential rule of God, through all the intricate windings of this mortal life, our hopes are raised, our hearts are elevated, our minds are cheered, with the promise of the futurity of the being of this crumbling mortality of ours, when dreams and shadows all are ended, and we stand in the full light, perfect illumination, and unfading happiness of a better life, in a better world. It is I think always affecting for us to bear in mind, that unless we are the most dull or the most apathetic of beings, we cannot enter our lodges or our chapters, without having our moral sense impressed and warned, our minds enlightened and expanded, our hopes raised and bettered, and we ourselves taught the once needful lesson of kindness, goodwill, tenderness and interest, sympathy and forbearance for others, mortal, suffering, and dying, too, like ourselves. And do not think, companions, that I take too sombre or severe a view of our teaching. I feel sure that he is the best orator on such occasions who tries to bring out fully the reality of the admirable teaching of our ceremonial, and who is not so much intent on the mere use of eloquent words, as to say that which may commend itself to the feelings and good sense of all present. I do not for one, sir, consider those idle ceremonies, for which you have come to preside over us to-day. I do not consider it my duty merely to let the occasion pass with a few trivial remarks, a few stereotyped passages, a few oft repeated sentences. Let me illustrate what I mean by two remarks. It seems to me, sir, I may be wrong, that we are in danger just now of two great evils, which we may term the "Scylla and Charibdis" of present Masonry. The first is "indiscreet haste of admitting members into our body," the other is a "more material view of what Freemasonry is and is meant to be." In Royal Arch Masonry, which is more limited, and in one sense more select, we do not run in danger of the evil of indiscriminate admission, but my remarks on this head have rather a general application, as reasonable and as reasonable, I make bold to say, on any such occasion as this, because they have a practical bearing on our whole Masonic system, of which, as I have before pointed out, the Royal Arch is the completion and the apex. Is it not, sir, quite clear to us all now that we are suffering in many ways from a too hasty and indiscriminate admission? from a want of selection? from a desire to increase our numbers, in season and out of season? Would it not be better for us in every respect if fewer in numbers, we knew more of each other? saw more of each other? were really brethren and companions of our good Order? rejoicing in each other's happiness, sorrowing in each other's sorrows? bearing each other's burdens, and thus developing the true teaching and the inestimable value of the internal as well as the external brotherhood of Masonry? Is it not too true, that when we talk of brotherhood and sing praises of fraternity, and boast of our intimate union, harmony, and concord, we all of us feel that we might yet be drawn closer together than we are in the bonds of genuine and mutual interest and goodwill? Let us then keep before us this one maxim to stop a growing evil, and to stop then our whole system, "that no one, be he who he may, has a right to claim admittance to a lodge or a chapter simply because he wishes to join one, or has means to pay the fees, but that it is a privilege to be sought and obtained with much care, consideration, and knowledge of the applicant." Freemasonry from various causes is popular in the world at this moment, has great attractions for some, and greater benefits for others, and too many I fear are knocking at our doors who do not seek admission from love of Masonry or a wish to render themselves more extensively useful to their fellow creatures, but because it possesses attributes, and good things, which either flatter their pride or suit their convenience, or can be made to minister to their temporal benefit. And then, sir, let us glance for a moment at that too material view which lowers Freemasonry to a benefit club or a convivial assembly. I am the last person in the world to object to moderate and befitting use of the good things which a benign Creator has provided for us, His creatures here. I believe, reverently, that all things here are "good" if used and not abused, if profited by in a proper spirit and within due bounds. I object to that fanaticism which calls the needful and lawful things of this world "evil," and would lay down arbitrary laws, as incumbent upon all, of renunciation and rejection, of innocent pleasures, legitimate amusements, and social enjoyments. But, I fear, sir, a good many of our companions, not penetrated by the mysteries of even the Royal Arch Grade, prefer to be adepts in a still more exalted and energetic grade, a fifth degree, lost in the antiquity of years and the sublimity of association, namely, the "Knife and Fork Degree." Over its "chaste mysteries" let you and I, sir, draw a discreet veil to-day. Suffice it to say that it has many votaries, and is very often, strange to remark, more admired and more appreciated than any other portion of our mystic ceremonial. Nay, it has a literature of its own, highly æsthetic, I may almost say ritualistic, and I should not be surprised if even some members of this new chapter preferred to share its secrets, and rather penetrate its mysteries than listen serenely to the orator. Sir, while we maintain and uphold the hospitality of our lodges and chapters, let us not lose sight of this great truth, that Freemasonry is and means something more, something higher, and that if that is all the good we find in it we are abusing it, and not using it. Some of us have read a famous balance-sheet of a Masonic body in which £155 were spent on "creature comforts," and the enormous sum of £4 4s. on our Charities and all other Masonic charity. Is this not a parody on all Masonic professions? But, sir, as the old adage has it, "verbum sat sapientem." Let it be our endeavour to enable Masonry to minister to its true purpose, by carefully remembering its higher duties and its exalting characteristics. Charity emblazoned on its banners is its great and distinguishing feature, its ornament and its reality; the test of its usefulness and necessity; and whether we assist our great Charities, such as our noble educational establishments, and the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, or pour the balm of consolation into the bosom of the afflicted, or help a poor, destitute, or struggling brother, we are doing the best in our time or generation to make our good old Order useful to mankind, a pride to its members, and the admiration of contemporary non-Masons. Sir, I have done. May all of good attend the Granite Chapter. May its excellent First Principal long continue to receive the support of his companions, and the esteem and regard of his many friends and brethren, and may you, sir, in your official capacity, and amid your multifarious and onerous duties, remember the ceremonies of this eventful day with gratification and happiness, because they may, perhaps, enable you to realize once more that goodwill, regard, attachment and respect with which your companions in Royal Arch Masonry, as well as your brethren in the Craft, regard your faithful services and your untiring efforts to extend and uphold the prestige and reality of English Freemasonry.

The remainder of the consecration ceremony was then performed, and Comp. Hervey installed Comp. James Lewis Thomas, Past Sword Bearer of England, P.Z. No. 13, as M.E.Z. Comp. James Terry installed Comp. Frederick West, P.M. No. 1328, as H., and Comp. David W. Pearse, P.M. 1293, as J.; Comp. Dr. J. W. Oswald was appointed Scribe N.; and Comp. Thomas Woodstock, Janitor.

Letters of regret at unavoidable absence were read from Comps. General Studholme Brownrigg, Grand Supt. Surrey; Sir Albert W. Woods, Garter, P.G.W.; Æneas J. McIntyre, Q.C., Grand Registrar; J. B. Monckton, President Board of General Purposes; Capt. Platt, P.G.W.; Rev. C. W. Arnold, P.G.C.; Rev. C. J. Martyn, P.G.C.; J. C. Parkinson, P.G.D.; T. Fenn, P.G.D.; Erasmus Wilson, P.G.D.; Dr. R. Woodman, P.G.S.B.; P. de Lande Long, P.G.O.; C. A. Cottebrune, P.G.P.; Fred. A. Philbrick, Q.C., P.G.A.S.; Capt. N. G. Phillips, P.G.S.N.; H. J. D. Dumas, P.G. Standard Bearer; Col. Somerville Burney; Col. Wilson Randolph; J. Aird, P.G. Steward; F. J. Macaulay, Dr. Kempster, W. Beattie, G. Hackford, R. C. Mount, F. T. Dubois; a telegram from Comp. R. Grey, P.G.D., regretting his being suddenly called away; and a telegram from Comp. Oliver, one of the petitioners, regretting unavoidable absence.

The Consecrating Officers, Comps. Hervey, Burdett, Woodford, Buss, and Terry, were elected honorary members of the chapter, and the names of twenty brethren seeking exaltation at next meeting of the chapter, with a list of six members for joining, were read by Comp. J. Lewis Thomas, after which the chapter was closed, and the companions adjourned to a very superior banquet at Freemasons' Tavern.

The usual toasts followed.

In giving the toast of "The Prince of Wales, the M.E.Z. of the Order," Comp. James Lewis Thomas said that all the companions knew how admirably his Royal Highness fulfilled his duties, both Masonically and socially. At one time he was in a foreign country endeavouring to advance art and science; the next day he might be presiding over some of the humblest individuals in our own country, as he was some few evenings since. Whatever he did was with his heart and soul, and the companions, as Masons, recognised the excellent way in which he presided over Craft and Royal Arch Masons.

The toast of "The Rest of the Grand Principals, the Earl of Carnarvon, Lord Skelmersdale, and Lord De Tabley," which was proposed in eulogistic terms by Comp. J. Lewis Thomas, was responded to by Col. Burdett, who said there were a great many officers of Grand Chapter present, and he felt confident it gave them the greatest pleasure to attend when a chapter was to be consecrated that was attached to the celebrated Granite Lodge. They were all aware of what the Granite Lodge was; they had all seen its working, and he believed all the members of the Order had the highest respect for it, not only because its members were brethren they could respect, but because the performance of the lodge ceremonies was always satisfactory. The lodge had now been in existence a long time, and its members now came forward to hold a chapter. Their petition had been readily granted by Grand Chapter, and the consecration had just taken place to the satisfaction of every one. Although almost an inactive Principal at the consecration he might say that he was as much pleased as any one could be with it. Comp. Woodford had delivered a most valuable oration, and in other portions of his duties as J. had impressed the companions with the value of good working at a consecration; and Comp. Hervey and the other companions who had assisted had also discharged their duties most ably. He referred particularly to Comp. Terry, who had installed Comps. West and Pearce in the H. and J. chairs. In conclusion, he repeated that no working could have been better than they had witnessed that evening.

Comp. James Lewis Thomas next proposed "The Consecrating Officers," who, he said, had performed their duties in a way that would long remain in the memory of the companions, and establish the day as a very remarkable one in Masonry. He did not think he had ever seen a consecration performed more admirably. Comp. John Hervey, who had been obliged to leave already, had consecrated the lodge under very trying circumstances; his health being very delicate, his presiding had been a great effort. The companions ought, therefore, to take it as a very great compliment. However much debility had interfered with his performance, the consecration had been marked by that earnestness and feeling which always characterised everything that was done by the Grand Secretary of England. Although their modest companion, Col. Burdett, endeavoured to ignore the part he took in the ceremony, the companions must always appreciate very highly the excellent way in which he discharged the duties of H. But what should he say of Comp. Woodford, who was a tower of strength in Masonry, in the Craft, in the Royal Arch, and in fact in everything connected with Freemasonry. Although it required no words from him (Comp. Thomas) to extol a companion whose name was a household word among Masons, he could not help referring to the magnificent manner in which he had performed the duties of the chair of J., and the splendid oration he gave, which ought to be engraved in letters of gold. He could only say he was exceedingly obliged to Comp. Woodford, and to the other Consecrating Officers, with whom all the companions were highly delighted.

Comp. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, in replying, said he deeply regretted on the present occasion Comp. Hervey was not there to return thanks for the very kind way in which Comp. Thomas had proposed the health of the Consecrating Officers. They would all have been pleased to listen to the kind words which he would have delivered, and which always came from his heart, and were always acceptable to the companions or brethren. He (Comp. Woodford) for one most deeply deplored Comp. Hervey's absence, because it compelled him (Comp. Woodford) to return thanks for the toast which Comp. Hervey, in his usual effective manner, would have rendered more justice to than he (Comp. Woodford) was capable of doing. But as Comp. Thomas had coupled his name with the toast, he from his heart was very grateful, as he was sure Comps. Hervey and Burdett were, for the honour which had been done them. It gave them, as it gave himself, great happiness at all times to assist in the extension of the Royal Arch among Masons, because, like himself, the more they knew of it, the more they liked its principles, and the more they wished to see it extended through the length and breadth of the land. Unfortunately, for some years past Royal Arch Masonry had been in abeyance, but he hoped the time was coming when in Grand Chapter the restriction of former years would be removed and every lodge allowed after twelve months to have a chapter if so it wished. (Cheers.) He had always considered it a great injustice that brethren who in new lodges were advanced to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason were obliged to go to chapters attached to other lodges for the Royal Arch Degree because their own lodge was unable to have a chapter attached to it for three years. He trusted that the time was not far distant when Grand Chapter would be induced to rescind the present rule. He was not a young man; he had served Masonry a great number of years; and the longer he had lived the more he felt its great charm was to make Masons a band of brothers, caring for one another, sympathising with one another, supporting one another in their absence as well as in their presence, and always ready to assist in the great cause of charity, which was the true characteristic, as they said themselves, and as he hoped it ever would be of every Freemason's heart among them. It was a very great pleasure to him to think men of different views, men of different professions, men of very different feelings on many subjects, yet animated by this one great feeling, reverence for God, and love for their brother man, joining together in this great bond of union in Masonry. (Cheers.) Long might it flourish, and long might it expand and extend in the world. He had had a hint given him that night that long speeches would not be acceptable, and he was quite certain that a pleasant evening might often be spoiled by making speeches a little too long. Therefore, he would conclude his observations with a toast which had been placed in his hands, and which he was certain the companions would do full justice to—"The Health of the First Principal." The First Principal of the new chapter which the companions had had the pleasure of assisting in consecrating, Comp. J. Lewis Thomas, was well known. His career in Masonry and his zeal in the Craft had been rewarded by the greatest honour the Grand Master could bestow. In this new chapter he would still maintain the same brilliant services to that Order of which he was a distinguished ornament. The warmth of his heart, and his zeal to serve a brother, would maintain the success of the chapter. The Granite Chapter would revive the harmony and good feeling which, he knew, prevailed in the Granite Lodge. He (Comp. Woodford), therefore, asked the companions to drink, with their heartiest good wishes for the success of the Granite Chapter, "The Health of the First Principal, Comp. James Lewis Thomas."

that the compliments of Comp. Woodford were very undeserved, because the chapter was a new chapter, just consecrated, and there had been no opportunity of telling what the merits of the chapter were. He had, however, the interests of the chapter very much at heart, and he hoped it would come to a successful issue; as Col. Peters, whom he was glad to see present, often said, "Nothing succeeds like success." There was one thing he had to deplore, that in the short career of the chapter it had had several vicissitudes to go through. It was started with the co-operation of their esteemed Comp. Bosworth, who was to be its Second Principal. He shook hands with that companion one day at five o'clock in the evening, and at ten o'clock he was dead. That sad event threw them back a good deal. There was another dear old companion who was also a petitioner for the chapter. Comp. Boyd, they knew, devoted himself almost entirely to Royal Arch Masonry, on which he was a great authority, and he promised he would be the first Scribe E. of the Granite Chapter. With Comp. Boyd's kindness and his knowledge of Royal Arch Masonry, the chapter would have floated very well indeed. But Comp. Boyd, poor fellow, had gone to his rest. These were peculiar vicissitudes. The charter was granted by Grand Chapter in May, 1878, and twelve months had elapsed before it could be consecrated. It was utterly impossible for him to attempt to put together any words which would touch the companions' feelings so completely as the very eloquent expressions of Comp. Woodford, who was constantly before them in Masonry, and told them truly what they ought to do, and what was expected of them in Craft and in the Arch; and the very kind way in which Comp. Woodford had expressed himself in regard to him (Comp. Thomas) he was quite sure was far more than he deserved, but at all events he should aspire, if he possibly could, to act up to Comp. Woodford's standard—not that it was really in his power to attain to it, but he should do his best to do so. If he did that, the companions would have launched the little barque successfully, of which they had seen the birth that evening, and at the end of two years would be able to say that it was really well founded. He hoped that he would for many years be able to stand up and speak of the success of the chapter. It consisted now of but five members, but at next meeting he expected to have the gratification of exalting twenty brethren, and welcoming six joining members. The Principals were exceedingly obliged to so many kind friends for coming forward to assist at the consecration, and under such good auspices he did not think it at all impossible the chapter might arrive at a successful issue.

Comp. J. W. Ellison Macartney, M.P., in replying for the toast of "The Visitors," said he felt it a distinguished honour to be asked to do so. He was deeply grateful to his friend the M.E.Z. for having invited him to be present at the consecration of this chapter. It was a most interesting ceremony, and to him most instructive. Not the least instructive part of it was the lecture delivered, and he thought the companions who were present ought to bear the lessons that were conveyed to them in that lecture in their memories. One of the parts that struck him most was the impressive way in which they were told that they ought to remember the sacred link that bound Masonry, and particularly Royal Arch Masonry, to truths revealed in the Word of God; also the impressive way in which the duties were instilled into them, of love to brethren, whether they were in or out of the Order. On an occasion like that he believed that brevity was the soul of wit, and he had the advantage of wishing to be brief because the M.E.Z. conveyed to him the notice that he was going to ask him to return thanks for the visitors, and since that time he had been in a state of utter confusion. (Laughter.) He never was able to prepare a speech, and he was always taken by surprise if he got a notice of ten minutes, but he thought it did not require to compose a speech to answer on the present occasion. The wonderfully good way in which the ceremony was performed, and the well-known character of the Granite Lodge, promised a glorious future for the chapter, which he thought none of them should be doubtful of. He did not wish to trench upon the office of H., who was the prophet, but he thought he might venture to say the future of this chapter, if it was to be at all in consonance with its first step, must be a grand one. Their Excellent Z. had said that only for the absence of some one member whom he expected that evening, the chapter would be floated much higher. He (Comp. Macartney) doubted that. He did not think that granite was a substance that could float. (Laughter.) If it could be kept above the surface of the water, as by the assistance of some other substance the needle of Cleopatra was conveyed to England to prevent it from sinking, it was all right. He did not think the Granite Chapter would sink, and if it was composed of the same materials as the Granite Lodge, it must be prosperous. One could not wish the chapter a more prosperous career than the lodge. If the two combined together, as he supposed they would, they would offer a bright example to all Masonic chapters and lodges. He returned on the part of himself and the other visitors his most heartfelt thanks, and he was sure the visitors would be most happy on future occasions to attend and see the progress of the Granite Chapter.

Comp. F. West replied to the toast of "The Officers," and Comp. F. Binckes and James Terry to that of "The Charities."

The Janitor's toast was then given, and the companions separated.

Bro. Edward Terry has announced his annual benefit at the Gaiety Theatre for Monday evening, May 19th, on which occasion he will appear in H. J. Byron's comedy, "Cyril's Success and 'Little Doctor Faust,'" and deliver an original address, written by F. C. Burnand, Esq.

CONSECRATION OF THE ZION (HEBREW) LODGE, No. 1798.

This, the first Jews' lodge in East Lancashire, was consecrated in the lodge-rooms, Hulme Town Hall, Manchester, on Monday, the 12th inst., by Bro. George Mellor, Wor. Deputy Prov. Grand Master, assisted by the following Prov. Grand Officers:—Bros. the Rev. E. H. Aldridge, Prov. G. Chap.; E. Haddon, P.G.S.D.; T. Lancashire, P.P.G.S.D.; J. Kenyon, P.G. Supt. of Works; J. Salmon, P.G.D. of C.; J. H. Sillitoe, P.P.G.D. of C.; J. R. Fletcher, P.G. Org.; and J. Newton, acting P.G. Sec.

A Craft lodge was opened by Bro. Elias Nathan, P.M.; at 2 o'clock, and there were present a large number of brethren.

Amongst the visitors were Bros. Professor Prag, 1502; W. Aronsberg, J.P., 1055; Shuheshaft, W.M. 1502; M. Hart, P.M. 1502; Tobias, J.W. 1502; J. Vertigans, P.M. 865; H. Rocca, S.W. 865; W. Bostock, P.M. 1633; Jacob Meyer, 1633; D. Donbavand, P.M. 317; N. Dumville, P.M. 252; J. Haarbleicher, 204; W. Dumville, P.M. 1011; Hudson Sister, W.M. 1011; T. R. Williams, P.M. 1147; F. Peel, P.M. 1147, and others.

The V.W. Deputy Provincial Grand Master and his officers entered the lodge. After having assumed the chair, and receiving the customary greetings, he commenced the ceremony of consecration by requesting the P.G. Chap. to offer up a prayer.

The acting Prov. Grand Sec. produced and read the warrant for the new lodge, and the promoters having testified their approval of the officers named therein, the Consecrating Officer called upon Bro. J. H. Sillitoe, P.P.G.D. of C., to deliver an oration, which was as follows:—

Very Worshipful Sir and Brother: Without entertaining any extravagant opinions respecting the antiquity of our Order, it will, I think, be appropriate on this auspicious occasion if we take a short retrospective glance at our early history, and refer to some of the secret Jewish societies existing in the olden time and not mentioned in our traditional ritual; and, as they bear so remarkable a resemblance to Freemasonry of the present day, both in usages and customs, as well as their fundamental principles, I think we are justified in assuming that we are descended from, if we are not now an exact counterpart of those societies, and that the Jews have been instrumental in preserving and handing down through succeeding generations the tenets and principles of our venerable order. It must, however, be admitted that considerable changes in our Constitution, as well as modifications and additions in our customs and ceremonies, have been made during the intermediate periods of time. The Jewish historian tells us that the Levites practised in their grand Sanhedrim in three degrees of initiation, consecration, and ministration, and were presided over by one chief and two assistant chiefs or wardens. The Essenes were a mysterious Jewish order, whose doctrines were contained in certain mystical interpretations of the Hebrew Scriptures, received from ancient tradition, handed down from time immemorial by oral transmission, and preserved with the most profound care and secrecy, and their members wore white aprons or girdles, and they had also a cable of tow around their necks. They observed three degrees of probation, and they were required to bind themselves by most solemn obligations to do justice, to do no wrong, to keep their hands clean from fraudulent dealings, and not to communicate any of their secrets to the profane, even though it should be to save their lives. After the destruction of the Jewish nationalities by the legions of Rome, the Jews were widely scattered throughout Persia, Mesopotamia, and many parts of the Roman Empire, where they founded academies and institutions of learning. In whatever province they settled they became famous as profoundly learned astronomers, mathematicians, and geometers. Pythagoras, the Greek philosopher, acquired a material portion of his knowledge of geometry while sojourning amongst the Babylonish Jews. On his return to Greece he founded a secret society or lodge of geometers; he communicated his instructions by symbols and parables. The fundamental principles of his society were—Reverence to God, filial piety, conjugal love, chastity, probity, the forgiveness of injuries, and constant employment. The philosophy of the Egyptians, the manners, principles, and customs of the Hebrews, so far as they form part of our system, having reference to the reverence of the Almighty Creator, were introduced into this land by the Phœnicians, and we still retain in our lodges many Mosaic emblems—such, for instance, as the Mosaic pavement; and let our minds now return to that original which it copies. Let it remind us that to-day our feet tread in prosperity, to-morrow we may totter on the uneven paths of weakness, temptation, and adversity. Let us all, therefore, endeavour to live in brotherly love, faith, hope, and charity. Faith is the foundation of justice, the bond of amity, and the chief support of society. Hope is the anchor of the soul, both sure and steadfast. Charity is the keystone of our mystical fabric—it is the brightest gem that can adorn our Masonic profession. It embraces more than mere almsgiving. It is not enough to regard it in the practical and substantial light of giving liberally to our institutions, although this forms an important part of our system. Money is not the only thing the poor and unfortunate stand in need of; compassion points out to those who are not blessed with riches many ways by which they can befriend and assist a distressed brother, such as to soothe the unhappy, to sympathise with their misfortunes, to compassionate their miseries, to give advice, consolation, and protection, and to make known their wants and distresses to those who are in a position to relieve them. So shall the blessings of Him who was about to perish rest upon us, even though we give but the good-will of our recommendation. By the exercise of brotherly love we are taught to regard the whole human species as one family, created by one Almighty being, and sent into the world to aid, support, and protect each other. Relief is another tenet of our Order; to relieve the distressed is a duty incumbent upon every man, but more especially upon Masons, who are bound together by an indivisible chain of sincere affection. Truth is the foundation of every Masonic virtue; to be good men and true is a lesson we are taught at our initiation. Temperance is that due restraint upon our passions and affections which makes the body tame and governable, and frees the soul from the allurements of vice. Fortitude is that steady and noble purpose, equally distant between rashness and cowardice, which enables us to undergo any labour, and overcome any difficulty. Prudence teaches us to regulate our lives and actions according to the dictates of reason; it is that habit of mind by which men wisely and prudently judge and determine on all things relating to their future, as well as their present happiness. Justice is the boundary of right, and constitutes the cement of civil society; it teaches us to do right unto all, and to give to every man that which belongs to him. It is to these fundamental principles and cardinal virtues that I would direct the attention, and recommend to the serious study of those who are about to form this new lodge. May its government be founded in concord and unanimity. Every member has unerring rules laid before him whereby to form his conduct. The volume of the Sacred Law, our acknowledged Masonic law book, is placed before him, so that he cannot say that he has erred in ignorance. Upon its open pages are laid the compasses to limit and direct the progress and circumference of his work; also the square, to prove whether his manners and conduct are uniform and regular, intimating that from high to low a Mason's mind should be inclined to good works, above which no man is exalted by his fortune. All your jewels and ornaments imply that in sensations, passions, and pleasures, in infirmities, maladies, and wants, all men are equal and on a level; nature has given no superiorities. To be an upright man is to add lustre to a Mason's character. To do justice and to have charity are excellent steps in Masonic life. By such means may you be proved, and testify that your emblematical jewels are but ensigns of the inward man, so shall you stand approved before heaven and before men, purchasing honour to your profession, and felicity to yourselves as members of the Masonic body.

The Consecration Ceremony was then proceeded with by the Consecrating Officer and Provincial Grand Chaplain in a most impressive manner, at the end of which Bro. Maurice Hart assumed the Chair of Installing Master. Bro. Elias Nathan, P.M. 204, was presented as the W.M. designate by Bro. Sillitoe. The ceremony of installation was most beautifully rendered by Bro. Hart, and the newly-installed W.M. invested the following brethren as officers:—Bros. Julius Aronsberg (P.M. 1161) as I.P.M.; Rev. H. Davis Marks, S.W.; L. A. Cohen (by deputy), S.W.; Rev. M. Klinkowstien, Chaplain; M. Newman, Treasurer; S. Mameloh, Secretary; A. M. Hart, S.D.; D. A. Davis, J.D.; F. Retter, Organist; S. J. Jordan, I.G.; E. Wise, Steward; J. Siv, Tyler. The addresses were delivered by Bro. Hart in a very impressive manner, and after six propositions for initiations, and twelve for joining members, were made, the Lodge was closed in peace and harmony.

The brethren adjourned to a banquet, provided by Bro. Bianca, of the Café Royal, and not only a sumptuous feast, but one of the most intellectual evenings was enjoyed. The speeches of Bro. Prag, Klinkowstien, and Mark, as to the Hebrew origin of our society, were well appreciated and listened to as Masonic lessons. The musical arrangements, which were in the hands of Bro. Retter, assisted by Bros. W. Dumville, H. Miller, W. Dumville, and H. Lister, were all that could be desired, the members of the new lodge contributing materially to the enjoyment by their musical talents.

Masonic and General Tidings.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.—The Right Hon. the Earl of Rosslyn, K.G., Her Majesty's Lord High Commissioner to the Church of Scotland, M.W. Past Grand Master of Scotland, has, in the kindest manner, consented to preside at the Eighty-first Anniversary Festival, to be held at the Alexandra Palace, on Wednesday, 25th June next.

Bro. Councillor Thomas Sutton, J.W., was last Tuesday evening, unanimously elected W.M. of the Gilbert Greenall Lodge, 1250, Warrington, for the ensuing year. Bro. D. W. Finney, Prov. G.T., the retiring Master will perform the ceremony of installation at the next regular meeting in June (2nd Tuesday).

ROYAL ORDER OF SCOTLAND.—A Provincial Grand Lodge of London and the Metropolitan counties of the Knights Companions of the R.S.Y.C.S. was held at 33, Golden-square, on Wednesday last. Several brethren were admitted members of the Order.

NORTH YORK FOLKLORE AND DIALECT.—Mrs. G. M. Tweddell, of Stokesley (whose "rhymes and sketches to illustrate the Cleveland dialect" has gained her "golden opinions from all persons") has been encouraged by the well-merited success of her former volume to prepare another for the press, which is shortly to be published by subscription, under the title of "Mrs. Fernbrake's Lucky Bir 1," and other pieces, or tales and poems to illustrate the folklore and dialect of North Yorkshire. The leading tale has already appeared in one of the Christmas numbers of the Masonic Magazine, where it was much admired.

The regular meeting of the Frederick Lodge of Unity will be held at the Grey Hound Hotel, Croydon, on Tuesday, the 20th instant, when the election of W.M. and Treasurer will take place.

Bro. J. D. Alcroft has forwarded a donation of £50 to the Masonic House Fund in aid of the forthcoming Agricultural Exhibition in London.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

FAITH LODGE (No. 141).—The last regular meeting for the season of this lodge took place at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street, on the 20th ult. There were present among others Bros. C. Dairy, W.M.; Rumball, S.W.; Morrison, J.W.; Carter, P.M., Treas.; Stuart, P.M., Sec.; Hepghy, S.D.; Clark, I.G.; Tildy, W.S.; Hopwood, P.P.G.S.B. of Middx., P.M.; Green, P.M.; Themans, P.M.; M. Davis, P.M.; Cobham, P.M.; T. C. Walls, P.P.G.O. of Middx., J.D. (Freemason); Longstaffe, Tyler. The visitors were Bros. J. Wilson, P.M. 1155; Saunders, J.D. 1293; Whiting, 87; Andrews, 382; Lowins, 433; Arlett, 869; Abrahams, 1608; Cole, Crystal Palace; Scott, Sincerity; Williams, Justice. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, the W.M. raised Bros. Joy and Wadcoat, and passed Bro. Hart, the ceremonies being well performed. A vote of condolence to the family of one of the oldest members of the lodge, Bro. Wilson, who had died that day, was unanimously ordered to be sent. Several propositions having been handed in, the lodge was duly closed, and the brethren adjourned to an excellent banquet, which was well served by Bro. Clemow and assistants. After the Royal and Craft toasts had been proposed and received with the usual honours, "The Health of the W.M." was proposed by Bro. Stuart, P.M. He said that the members of the lodge had had ample opportunities during the W.M.'s year of office of judging of the able manner in which he had conducted the affairs of the lodge, and in concluding his remarks he said he believed that at the end of his tenure they would return him—the W.M.—their unanimous vote of thanks for the way in which he had discharged the duties of his position. The W.M., in reply, briefly said that if he had given the lodge satisfaction he was amply repaid for the trouble he had taken in order to prepare himself for the responsibilities of the chair. He hoped on the re-assembly of the lodge in September that every member then present would be in the enjoyment of good health. In conclusion, he said that for the support and kindness he had received from the members of the lodge during his occupancy of the chair he desired to return them his heartfelt thanks. In giving "The Visitors" the W.M. tersely said it was a toast that was always a pleasing one to propose. The members of the Lodge of Faith were always gratified in receiving visiting brethren. They were favoured that evening by the presence of several very distinguished Masons, and he hoped that their visit had been in every way agreeable to them. This toast having been warmly received, Bros. Saunders, Whiting, and Scott responded. The former said that the working of the lodge had afforded him not only great pleasure, but had given him much valuable instruction. He owed the pleasure of his visit that evening to the good offices of one of their oldest members, Bro. Hopwood, P.M., and although he (the speaker) had some distance to go that inclement evening, that discomfort would be more than compensated by the recollections he should carry with him of the social amenities and able working of No. 141. During his connection with the Craft he had witnessed the work of many outlying lodges, but none of them were to be compared with what he had seen that evening. He, in conclusion, said he attributed this happy state of things, in a great measure, to the exertions of the Past Masters. The remaining toasts, "The Past Masters," "The Treasurer and Secretary," and "The Officers" terminated the proceedings.

MACDONALD LODGE (No. 1216).—The elevenh anniversary of this well known Metropolitan lodge was celebrated at the Head Quarters of the 1st Surrey Rifles, at Camberwell, on Thursday, the 8th inst. The steady progress of this lodge towards a recognised position in the Craft, as well for its "working" as its liberality towards the Institutions, and its hearty welcome of visitors, has always caused each successive installation to meet with great success, and this occasion proved to be no exception to the rule. Being composed entirely of effective or honorary members of the 1st Surrey Rifle Volunteers, the uniforms of the several ranks in the corps and the Masonic regalia and appointments of the lodge room together form a "coup d'oeil" at once pleasing and attractive. The lodge was opened by Bro. T. Woodbridge Carnell, W.M., and there were present during the evening the following amongst other brethren, viz., Bros. C. Fountain, S.W.; D. A. Ross, J.W.; Capt. Styan, Treas.; W. J. Messenger, P.M., and Sec.; W. C. Hale, S.D.; T. Harper, J.D.; C. H. Nevill, D.C.; A. Bradley, W.S.; Past Masters James Stevens, Newington Bridges, G. Waterall, M. S. Larham, and H. Hammond; Bros. F. H. Cozens, A. R. Cranch, F. Fitzer, P. Clay, A. G. White, E. W. Dubois, C. F. Hildreth, C. H. Rugg, J. J. Curtis, A. Woodcock, A. J. Style, W. S. Harvey, A. Youngman, F. De Rossignol, C. E. Goldring, T. D. Turner, H. Bridges, H. Cuss, A. H. Mann, F. Staley, J. Carpenter, G. H. Besley, F. P. Yonge, C. W. Davis, W. Foster, A. Goggs, C. J. Henton, F. Hutchins, T. Dane, and others. Visitors: Bros. J. P. Probert, P.M., P. G. Steward; John Close, P.M. 463, P.P.G.D.C. Surrey; H. A. Dubois, P.P.G.D. Middx.; J. Cawan, P.M. 1572; W. F. Bertram, and H. J. Bertram, The Great City, 1426; G. Carrington, 1593; J. Boulson, 1026; W. Liddell, 157; G. J. Earney, 511; J. Shipley, 30; E. H. Stammwitz, P.M. 435; A. F. Lowrie, 1556; H. Ashton, 1181; F. Fladgate, Gibraltar; Joseph Dezer, Mizpah; Lawler, Moira; and others. Previous minutes having been confirmed, and a few business matters disposed of, the installation of the W.M. for the ensuing year was undertaken by Bro. N. Bridges, P.M., who, in a very able and efficient manner, placed in the chair of K.S. Bro. Charles Fountain, whom he had introduced for initiation in this lodge in 1869, and who is the first honorary member of the corps who has attained to that eminence in the Macdonald Lodge. The newly-installed W.M. at once "fleshed his maiden sword," and, in thoroughly perfect and admirable style, initiated Mr. Victor Henry D'Avaux into the Order. The correct and impressive rendering of the ceremony by a presumed novice appeared to surprise some of the visitors present, but those who have attended each recurring installation in this lodge expected no less than such perfection, for no appointment has yet been made to the Macdonald chair without full preparation by the candidate for that honourable position. The congratulations of members and visitors having been offered to and accepted by the W.M., the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the spacious mess-room of the corps, where a very sumptuous banquet was prepared for the numerous company. The several magnificent silver trophies, shields, and cups, which testify to the shooting qualities of so many members of the lodge as volunteer riflemen, and the choice flowers and "button holes," so profusely decorating the tables, were fit accompaniments for one of the most elegant "menus" we have yet seen; at once chaste and comprehensive, comprising bill of fare, toast list, musical arrangements, and list of officers, it was much admired for the perfect taste of its adornments. After the cloth had been cleared, and "Non Nobis" sung, the W.M., who was most enthusiastically received, proceeded to submit the several loyal and Masonic toasts with easy confidence and in impressive, though brief terms. Bro. T. W. Carnell, I.P.M., then proposed "The Health of the W.M., Bro. C. Fountain," truly remarking that no words of his own could more effectually eulogise the qualifications of the new Master for his office than the display he had already given of his ability both in the lodge and at the banquet table. The toast was drunk amid acclamation, and the W.M., referring to the pleasure it gave him to reflect upon the progress he had made from his initiation in the lodge to the present moment, assured his hearers that no pains should be spared on his part to discharge the duties of his high office to their entire satisfaction. "The Health of the Installing Master, Bro. Bridges," was heartily received and responded to. The initiate, Bro. D'Avaux, made a very telling response to the toast proposed in his honour. To that of "The Visitors," each of whom the W.M. welcomed by name and reference, responses were made by Bros. J. P. Probert, Stammwitz, and H. A. Dubois, and their respective remarks on the working of the lodge and the hospitality of their hosts must have been especially gratifying to those to whom they were addressed. "The Past Masters" were received with hearty greetings, the I.P.M., Bro. T. W. Carnell, being presented with the handsome "Macdonald" jewel, and complimented on his able management during the past year, for which expressions of esteem he made his acknowledgments. Bro. James Stevens, P.M. (and originator of the lodge), also responded on behalf of the other Past Masters and himself. "The Officers" and the Tyler's toast then brought to a conclusion one of the most agreeable evenings of the very many enjoyed in connection with this thoroughly well organised and disciplined lodge. The musical part of the business of the evening was conducted by Bro. F. H. Cozens, Org., assisted by Bros. Lawler, H. Ashton, H. Bertram, A. R. Cranch, and the "topical" poet of the corps and lodge, Bro. C. T. Hildreth, whose very witty parodies of popular songs invariably afford much entertainment.

EARL OF CARNARVON LODGE (No. 1642).—This lodge met on the 8th inst., at Ladbroke Hall, Notting-hill, under the Mastership of Bro. Samuel H. Parkhouse. There was a very large attendance of brethren, among whom were the Grand Master of Jamaica (Scotch Constitution), Bro. Constantine Burke; Bros. Dr. Jabez Hogg, P.G.D.; E. P. Albert, P.G.P.; J. Wright, W. Besley, and Prickett. Bros. Cowland, Robson, and Russell were passed, and Messrs. Taylor, Huish, Burgess, and Foskett initiated. Bros. Walter Graves (753), James Flood (201), and Stephen Etherington (1305), were elected joining members. All the work of the lodge was admirably performed, and after the lodge was closed the brethren partook of an excellent banquet, and honoured the usual toasts. In giving "The Health of the Earl of Carnarvon, Pro Grand Master," the W.M. said that this toast had always special interest for the Earl of Carnarvon Lodge, as it was named after his lordship. Every one present on the last occasion remembered the great interest he took in this lodge, and those who had the privilege of attending Grand Lodge would know how efficiently and well his lordship did his duty as Pro Grand Master in Grand Lodge. He (the W.M.) attended on last occasion, and noticed with what enthusiasm the name of the Pro Grand Master was received, when it was announced that the Prince of Wales had appointed him as Pro Grand Master for the ensuing year. That showed that his lordship was appreciated not only in the Earl of Carnarvon Lodge, but in every lodge holding under the Grand Lodge of England. In proposing "The D.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers," coupled with the names of Dr. Jabez Hogg, P.G.D., and Bro. Albert, P.G.P., the W.M. said he had frequently attended the Lodge of Benevolence and saw the great interest taken by Dr. Hogg in the work of benevolence. It gave him great pleasure to see the great care and discrimination which were exercised in the investigations of cases which came before the lodge for assistance, and also the endeavours that were used to distribute the funds, not only with discretion, but with liberality. Dr. Jabez Hogg, in reply, said he had frequently been invited to attend this lodge, but this was the first time he had been able to come. After expressing his gratification at the working which he had witnessed in lodge, he drew attention to the great hospitality shown by the lodge at the banquet table. The brethren had all enjoyed themselves most heartily. On the subject of the Grand Officers, which had been alluded to, those brethren endeavoured in every possible way to make themselves useful to the Craft, and he felt it was their duty and their privilege to do so, because their experience in the working of the Craft and the different departments of the ritual was greater than that of many other brethren, and they ought to show how they appreciated the good and kind feelings always meted out to them when they visited various lodges in the Craft. He thought they should endeavour to assist in all possible ways in the consecration and establishing of new lodges. He performed his own duties very imperfectly, because the exigencies of his profession made it impossible to be present at the time he ought to be, and consequently he did not perform his duties in the way that many of the brethren did. He hoped he should be able to assist the lodge again. He looked on Freemasonry as cultivating the highest virtues, and bringing out the Christian and highest feelings that human beings were capable of. They abandoned in lodges all secular matters, and did not allow those things to come in to disturb the mind. Consequently in a Masonic lodge they truly enjoyed the society of each other. A brother had mentioned to him that evening that he got the greatest amount of good in this way out of Freemasonry. That was what he (Dr. Hogg) had found in his experience of the Order. Bro. E. P. Albert also replied. The W.M. in giving the toast of "The Initiates" said that on almost every occasion when this lodge met it had had an initiate, and as far as the officers of the lodge personally were concerned they had endeavoured to have the right men. There had not been much trouble in getting them, for gentlemen had only been too anxious to join them. But the brethren of the lodge followed that very proper course not to introduce to the lodge any but those whom they would be pleased to receive in their own homes and families. No other men should be proposed for Freemasonry. It was the desire of the brethren of this lodge that there should be a bond of brotherhood, and in proposing gentlemen for initiation they had ascertained that there was no angry feeling outside the lodge between them. The consequence of this had been that there was not a disagreeable word with any brother of the lodge. The lodge had been a very great success, simply because they had tried to get the right men into it. That evening four such gentlemen had been introduced, thus keeping up the old character of the lodge. The W.M. then recounted the various merits of the respective candidates, all of whom were known to the brethren, and concluded by proposing "The Initiates." Bro. Taylor, in responding, after saying that he considered it a great honour to be introduced into Freemasonry, trusted he should be a worthy member of the lodge, and a diligent and zealous pupil. He would endeavour to acquit himself to the satisfaction of the brethren, and to acquaint himself as fully as he possibly could with the duties that appertained to a Mason. Bros. Huish, Foskett, and Burgess, in replying, requested the brethren to adopt the words of Bro. Taylor as their own. Bro. Penn, P.M., proposed "The Health of the W.M.," with whose working that evening all the brethren were highly delighted. Every one who knew the W.M. knew he was a thorough Mason, and that he had the interest of the lodge at heart. It must be very gratifying to the W.M. to see such a large assembly of brethren present, and to have so many initiates and joining members on the books. It showed the popularity of the W.M., and that the brethren made no mistake when they elected him as their head. The W.M., replying, said it was a proud moment for him when his humble abilities to represent such a lodge as the Earl of Carnarvon Lodge were so acknowledged. The brethren could understand that when he accepted the office of W.M. of the lodge he did it with a great deal of hesitation, but he admitted that at the same time he felt very proud. He had received so much kindness not only from his I.P.M., but from all the members of the lodge, that it had more than repaid him for any trouble he had taken to make the lodge a success. It had been his aim from first to last to make it so, as it had been the aim of the P.M.'s. They had worked very hard for the success of the lodge. They had said they should like to see it represented first on the list of the supporters of the Charities, and second to none of the lodges in London. He thought that the visitors would give the brethren credit for this, and say that the lodge was really a success. It was really a local lodge, but they gathered around them the principal representative men of the Notting Hill Board. As long as the brethren of the lodge continued to conduct themselves as they had done, and to assist the cause of the Charities, the lodge would be esteemed by the Order. In proposing "The Health of the Visitors," the W.M. said the lodge endeavoured to bring as many visitors as they could about them, and such a goodly array did credit to the lodge. They were always delighted to see so many visitors around them, but more especially when they had among them, as they had that night, a foreign visitor, Bro. Constantine Burke, District Grand Master of Jamaica, for Scotland, a brother whom several of those present had the pleasure of meeting the previous day week at Grand Festival. Whenever a foreign brother came among Masons in England they always held out to him most heartily the right hand of fellowship. Bro. Constantine Burke, in reply, said it was a matter of considerable pleasure to him to be called upon to respond at a lodge of this character to such a toast as the toast of the visitors. As a good Mason, and paying most perfect obedience to the W.M., he responded to the toast, but he must at the same time take one very small exception to a remark of the W.M.'s, who had said, in proposing the toast, and speaking of him, that he was a distinguished foreign brother. The W.M. probably did not think that standing there he (Bro. Burke) could not claim the character of a distinguished brother. He stood there as an English colonist, coming from one of the most ancient colonies, where Masonry had been observed during the last 200 years, and he was very proud to tell the brethren that the manner in which Masonry was worked in Jamaica would give pleasure and pride to every good Mason, and one who felt that the essential principles of Masonry should extend over the whole universe. It was but within the last twelve days that he had come across the Atlantic, travelled over 5000 miles, and landed on the English coast, which they in Jamaica claimed as their mother country, and he might truly say that the very first hand of fellowship that was held out to him was that of a brother Mason, who told him the morning after his arrival that the Grand Lodge of England was to meet that afternoon, and that if he could by any means make his way there the brethren would be very glad to see him. This was about the most practical exemplification of the universality of Freemasonry and of the important advantages of a man being a Freemason. He had to thank the brethren most sincerely for the manner in which they had received the toast, proposed so kindly by the W.M., who coupled his (Bro. Burke's) name with it. He could only say he had travelled a great deal, and had been a long time a Freemason although only a young man, and he had felt its important advantages wherever he had been. It was no ordinary institution, but one whose principles were such as to recommend it to every man who desired to do good in his country or any country he might be placed in; it was a bond of brotherhood that united the whole world, and made us all feel that its essential principles bound man to man wherever he might be. He had never failed to observe this, or to inculcate it in his country, where he represented the Grand Lodge of Scotland as Provincial G.M. If the brethren went to the tropics he could tell them they would have a better chance of a cordial reception if they were Masons than if they were not. If they felt the warmth of the country there they would find warm hearts that beat towards the old country, and to every man who belonged to the old country, whether a Mason or not, but more especially if he was a brother. With reference to the Earl of Carnarvon Lodge, the W.M. had proved himself a thorough good Mason by the way in which he had given the degrees that evening, and he could not have failed to make an impression on the initiates. He could not have failed to make them understand it was not a mere idle display, a joining the Order for fellowship alone, but he had shown them there was something more glorious, that it was a high privilege to belong to the Order. He was glad the lodge bore the name of such a distinguished statesman and Freemason as the Earl of Carnarvon. There was not a colony where the noble earl was not looked upon as a man who had identified himself with progress, and shown himself interested in the union of the colonies and the mother country. Bros. W. Beasley, Prickett, and other brethren also replied, and the remainder of the toasts having been given, the brethren separated.

NEW FINSBURY PARK LODGE (No. 1695).—An emergency meeting of this very rising young lodge was held on Tuesday, the 20th inst., at the Alexandra Palace, Muswell Hill. The brethren present were W. T. Purkess, W.M.; T. Press, S.W.; H. B. D. Dunn, J.W.; R. V. Davies, Treas.; A. J. Berry, Secretary; J. N. Thompson, J.D.; J. Eldridge, D.C.; E. Grout, Org.; H. Hollis, F. Bouts, J. H. Bastable, W. Earl, J. Reid, C. Hutchinson, F. Austiss, W. F. Richmond, G. Chutter, S. Hawkins, A. Ayden, T. Jackson, and J. Cox. Visitors: Bros. J. T. Rowe, 167; R. Perkins, 34; H. Follett, 45; J. W. Wright, 1298; J. F. O. Wood, 1288; H. W. Levy, 188; W. B. Stannard, 1275; W. C. Maddever, 504; and W. Wilkinson, 167. The lodge having been opened the following brethren were balloted for, and unanimously elected joining members of the lodge: J. Swinyard, of Lodge 1178, F. H. Tibbetts, of Lodge 59, and A. Speller, of No. 217. A ballot was then taken for Mr. Fred. Madgen, when, having been unanimously elected, he was duly initiated into the mysteries of the Craft. Bros. Richmond, Earl, and Austiss were then passed to the Second Degree, and a motion by Bro. Berry for an alteration in the months of meeting having been carried, the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to a most excellent and elegantly served banquet, reflecting the greatest credit upon Bros. Bertram and Roberts. The usual toasts were proposed and enthusiastically responded to, and the proceedings of the evening having been enlivened by the capital singing of some of the brethren and visitors, a very happy and successful meeting was brought to a close.

DARTFORD.—Emulation Lodge (No. 299).—The installation meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday, at the Bull Hotel. In the unavoidable absence of Bro. William G. Wingrove, W.M., the lodge was opened by Bro. Thomas Wills, I.P.M., and there were also present Bros. George Churchley, S.W.; E. J. Sears, J.W. and W.M. elect; N. Martin, P.M., Treas.; P. Harvey, P.M., Sec.; Alfred Heeley, S.D.; J. W. Wells, J.D.; W. Light, I.G.; Thos. W. Neech, D.C.; C. White; J. Howden; John Miles, P.M.; John C. Davison; Edmund Mackney, P.M.; C. S. Boardman, Thos. W. Kittle, James Gray, Robert Stone, John Brock, John Keeges, Charles Storr, J. M. Longley, George Fletcher, H. G. Picken, W.M. 1536; J. R. Ford, W.M. 583; F. J. Wingrove, 1343; Horace White, 1604; H. Massey, P.M. 619 (Freemason); James Cox, P.M. 765; J. Perkins, S.W. 765; Thomas Deane, W.M. 77; H. S. Neate, P.M. 77; H. W. Rankine, W.M. 184; F. Carpenter, 77; Henry Winter, 913; G. O. Abbott, P.M. and Sec. 192; R. B. Webster, P.M. 140 and 1320; T. Y. Zeal, J.W. 1362; J. Bradly, 507; Orlando Latreille, J.W. 1260; J. J. Cornell, 1227; G. Brown, S.D. 140; W. Page, P.M. 1725; Robert Alfred Spencer, Prov. Grand Sec.; W. A. Mills, G. Coast, H. H. M. Paul, W. R. Bradbrooke, Robert Jamblin, Chaplain; Albert Thorn, F. C. Patton, Charles Scott, J. M. Longley, and George Fletcher. Bro. Alfred Keaton Gower, No. 951, Steward of Darent Asylum, was unanimously elected a joining member; after which Bro. Edmund Mackney, P.M., took the chair, and installed Bro. Edward Joseph Sears, J.W., as W.M. of the lodge. Bro. Wills was invested as I.P.M., as deputy for Bro. Wingrove, and the following brethren were invested as the other officers for the year:—Bros. A. Heeley, S.W.; J. W. Wells, J.W.; Noah Martin, P.M., Treasurer (for the sixteenth year); P. Harvey, P.M., Secretary; the Rev. Robert Jamblin, Chaplain; W. Light, S.D.; T. W. Neech, J.D.; C. S. Boardman, I.G. and Org.; C. White, D.C.; Corden and Brock, Stewards; and Cooper, Tyler. On the motion of Bro. Wills, P.M., seconded by Bro. Noah Martin, P.M. and Treasurer, Bro. Miles, P.M., was elected delegate of the lodge for the Charity Committee of the province, and Bro. Miles, in returning thanks, said he most cheerfully accepted the office. Bro. Miles, P.M., proposed a vote of thanks to the Installing Officer, which was seconded, and carried unanimously, and ordered to be entered on the lodge minutes. Bro. Mackney, in acknowledging the compliment, said it had given him great pleasure to install so worthy a brother as Bro. Sears, who, he was certain, would do honour to so old and distinguished a lodge as the Lodge of Emulation. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of an excellent banquet, which not only did credit to the proprietor of the hotel, Bro. Bray, but fully supported the hospitable character of the lodge. At the conclusion of the banquet the usual toasts were duly honoured. After the toasts of "The Queen and the Craft," "The Most Worshipful the Grand Master, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales," "The Most Worshipful the Pro Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon," "The Most Worshipful the Deputy Grand Master, Lord Skelmersdale, and the rest of the Grand Officers, Past and Present," had been honoured, the W.M. proposed "The Provincial Grand Master, the Deputy Prov. G.M., and the rest of the Provincial Grand Officers," and excused himself for hurrying the early toasts by saying that Bro. Spencer, the Prov. G. Secretary, and Bro. Page, Past Prov. G. Warden, were obliged to leave by a train which was just on the point of starting for their destination. It was greatly to the credit of the province of Kent, he said, that its Masonic affairs were administered in so excellent a way. There was never any difficulty; they had only to answer the summonses and carry out the work. The Prov. G. Secretary did his work admirably. The Prov. G.M., Lord Holmesdale, was one of the most excellent working Masons they could have; indeed the province had never had a better Provincial Grand Master, the interest he took in Masonry was very great, not only in general but in detail. If they were to look for another Grand Master to-morrow they could not find a better, and the brethren hoped it would be a long time before he would sever his connection with them. He (the W.M.) had a letter from his lordship apologising for not attending this meeting, which was due to a prior engagement. His duties they all knew were numerous, both as a county member and as a county magnate. Bro. Spencer, P.G. Sec., in reply, said, that having frequently had the pleasure of meeting Lord Holmesdale, and seeing the way in which he performed the duties of his office, he maintained that there was no brother who performed his duties more efficiently. He was sorry his lordship was not able to be present on that occasion, but lately he had been suffering from bad health, and in a letter received from him a day or two ago he conveyed the intelligence that he had been unable to rise from his bed. After apologising for not being in lodge at the commencement of the working, Bro. Spencer went on to say that he was very much pleased that Bro. Sears had been installed in the chair of a lodge not the least among the lodges of Kent, in which all the officers performed their duty well. Kent always came out well, and among the Charities stood well to the fore. Bro. Finch, whose hard work in this cause was well known, had written him a letter, in which he said he had been worked tremendously lately, but that the brethren of the Province of Kent did not support sufficiently the Masonic Charitable Institutions; that there were between 2300 and 2400 Masons in the Province of Kent, and not one third of the numbers made themselves annual subscribers or Life Governors of the Institutions. He (Bro. Spencer) wished to enforce this upon the brethren—if they could not do one thing they could do another; if they could not afford to be Life Governors they could manage to be annual subscribers. If lodges would impress this on their members it would materially support the Institutions. Bro. Page also responded, recalling his early recollections of Dartford, where he first became a fully fledged Mason. With such a connection with the town he was additionally pleased to be present that day, and it was very satisfactory to him to see the lodge progress as it did. The W.M. here announced that the collection for the lodge charity box amounted to 37s. 9d. The W.M. then proposed "The Visitors," and gave them a hearty welcome. Bros. Brown, 140, and Latreille, 1260, replied, both of whom complimented the Installing Master for the way in which he performed the installation ceremony, and congratulated the lodge on having such able officers it. Bro. Wells, P.Z., proposed "The W.M.," stating that the brethren all knew they had put the right man in the right place. He was sure they had selected a brother who would do credit to the lodge and to its members, and at the end of his year of office they would honour him as I.P.M. The W.M. replied. In a position so new to him he somewhat trembled, but after such kind words and their reception he felt a kind of help forward a long, long way. The records of the Lodge of Emulation were good, and he should not like those records to fall into discredit by any blot on the high standard the lodge had attained by any act of his. He should endeavour, by the help of the G.A.O.T.U., and by the assistance of those glorious rules that had been read out, so to conduct the affairs of the lodge that there should be nothing on his part wanting to make it second to no lodge in the province. He was a young member of the lodge, and comparatively a young Mason, and the honour just conferred upon him had come upon him somewhat unexpectedly. It was from no fault of his that he was now in the position, but, from unfortunate circumstances, the esteemed brother who had been occupying the chair of S.W. for the last year there was a difficulty in the way of his election, but he hoped at a future time, by the generosity of the brethren and his own qualifications, that brother would be placed in the W.M.'s chair. He hoped the brethren would look as kindly as possible over any shortcomings on his (the W.M.'s) part, and that he would receive from the highest to the lowest that cordial co-operation which was necessary on the part of every member of a lodge to the well conducting of its affairs. The present was a proud moment to him, and he thanked the brethren now, as he did in open lodge when he was elected, for the high honour conferred upon him. It was a memorable occasion for him, and he hoped it would be imprinted on his heart as long as he lived that he had that day been installed as Master of his mother lodge, the Emulation, at Dartford. He had been solicited to join other lodges; and in the Royal Arch he had made one point; but if he wished to seek other fields and pastures new there was time for that after he had served his year of office, when he would have sufficient time to work himself up in the ceremonies. It was enough, however, for him at present to devote his care and attention to the well being and prosperity of his own lodge, and to place it first among the Kentish lodges. At the end of twelve months it would be time to say yes or no to the earnest solicitations of some of his numerous friends and brethren. The W.M. concluded by thanking the brethren for their kindness, and the numerous visitors for honouring him with their presence. He then proposed "The P.M.'s," and presented, through Bro. Churchley, P.M., a magnificent gold Past Master's jewel to Bro. Wingrove, I.P.M. He then reminded the brethren of the great services the Past Masters had rendered to the lodge, and selected Bros. Noah Martin, Treas., and P. Harvey, Sec., as specimens of brethren who devoted the greatest zeal and ability to the affairs of the lodge. Bro. Martin, in reply, said it was twenty-five years that day he had attended this Dartford Lodge, but he had never been so happy in it as he had been that day. Everything seemed to have gone on most pleasantly and prosperously. He had been Treasurer of the lodge fifteen or sixteen years, and he hoped if he should be spared he would be in that office many years to come. While he was supported and upheld as he now was, and as he always had been, it was one of the greatest pleasures of his life. Bro. P. Harvey, Secretary, and Bro. Miles, also replied. The W.M. proposed "The Masonic Charities." He was a Life Governor of the Girls' School, and during his year of office he should act as Steward for the Boys' School at its festival of 1880. He would have plenty of opportunities of appealing to the brethren for support, and he hoped to be assisted by them in making up a good list. He called on Bro. R. B. Webster, 140, as a very strenuous supporter of the Charities, to respond. Bro. Webster replied, and the W.M. proposed "The Masonic Press," and said he pinned his faith to the Freemason, than which there was no better conducted Masonic publication. He liked to see what was going on in Freemasonry, and the Freemason never omitted any information that was necessary on this subject. Bro. H. Massey replied. "The Officers'" toast having been given, and replied to by the S.W., the Tyler's toast brought the proceedings to a close. The evening was enlivened by some excellent music.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—St. Peter's Lodge (No. 481).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held on Monday, the 13th inst., when the lodge was opened by the W.M., Bro. R. Eynan, P.P.G.A.D.C. Northumberland, assisted by the following officers and brethren: Bros. H. S. Sewell, I.P.M.; J. Watson, S.W.; J. Usher, J.W.; E. Gibbon, Sec.; C. B. Ford, as S.D.; J. Goss, J.D.; R. Ferry, Org.; G. S. Sims, Tyler; J. Cook, P.P. G.S.W.; J. Spearman, P.P.G. Supt. Wks.; W. Irvine, F. C. Nicholson, J. C. Robinson, W. C. Scott, W. Dawson, J. McKay, R. Younger, R. L. Armstrong, P.M., P.G.P.; O. Rowell, and M. Corbitt, I.P.M. 48. Visitors: Bros. H. Usher, J.D. 481; W. Cooper, W.M. 1342; G. E.

Dean, P.M. 541; R. Wightman, Sec. 541; W. Smith, J.D. 1342; J. Ridsdale, P.M. 406, P.G.J.W. Northumberland; J. Wood, S.W. 48; J. G. Smith, J.W. 48; B. P. Ord, W.M. 1427, P.G.O.; and J. Page, W.M. 405. Bros. Grant and Walklet were passed to the Second Degree, and Bros. Lowes, Robinson, and Nicholson raised to the Sublime Degree of M.M. by the W.M., who also explained the working tools. In a suitable and feeling manner the W.M. referred to the lamented death of the Treasurer, Bro. G. Thompson, P.M., and proposed that the following resolution should be recorded on the minutes of the lodge: "That the deep regret of the brethren be recorded in the minutes at the death of our esteemed Bro. G. Thompson, P.M., who was for many years Treasurer of this lodge." This was seconded by Bro. Sewell, P.M., and unanimously agreed to. Bro. R. L. Armstrong, P.M., nominated Bro. J. Spearman, P.M., as Treasurer for the ensuing year, and the W.M. nominated Bro. G. S. Sims as Tyler for the ensuing year. In accordance with notice of motion, the W.M. moved, that the sum of ten pounds be given to the widow of a lately deceased brother. Bro. Sewell, P.M., seconded the motion, which was carried. Several Past Masters of various lodges tendered expressions of sympathy and regret at the loss sustained by the lodge and the Craft generally by the death of Bro. G. Thompson, P.M. There being no further business, the lodge was closed, and the brethren quietly dispersed, without refreshment and the usual social gathering after the lodge is closed.

SALISBURY.—Ellas de Derham Lodge (No. 586).—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, New Canal, on Thursday, the 8th inst., when the following were present:—Bros. A. Tucker, W.M., in the chair; F. J. Russell, P.M., as I.P.M.; C. H. Card, S.W.; T. S. Fletcher, P.M. and Treas., as J.W.; J. Rumbold, P.M., Sec.; F. J. Hannan, S.D.; E. E. Bartlett, J.D.; A. Aylward, Org.; H. Silverthorn, Tyler; G. W. Wiltshire, R. Dear, J. Folliott, T. Harwood, E. Hale, G. Wilkes, H. Crawford, G. J. Mannings, J. T. Calkin, and W. B. Haskell. Visitor: Bro. Jefferies, 1478. The minutes of the last regular lodge having been read and confirmed, the lodge was opened in the Second Degree, when Bro. G. Wilkes was examined as to the progress he had made in Masonry, which proving satisfactory, he was entrusted, and dismissed for preparation. The lodge was then opened in the Third Degree, and on Bro. Wilkes being re-admitted he was duly raised to the Sublime Degree of M.M. by the W.M. The lodge having been lowered to the Second and also to the First Degree, Mr. H. W. Larkam and Mr. G. J. M. Main (who had been previously balloted for and elected) were separately admitted, and impressively initiated into the mysteries and secrets of ancient Freemasonry by the W.M. The name of a brother having been proposed and seconded for joining, the lodge was closed at 9.10 in ancient and solemn form. The brethren afterwards sat down to an excellent supper, presided over by the W.M. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, the brethren separating at 11 o'clock, having spent a very enjoyable evening.

GUILDFORD.—Royal Alfred Lodge (No. 777).—The anniversary of this lodge was held at the Angel Hotel, on Thursday, the 15th inst. The lodge having been opened in First Degree, and the minutes of last regular lodge read and confirmed, letters of apology were read from the R.W. Prov. G. Master, Major-General Brownrigg, C.B.; the Past D.P.G. Master, Bro. Harrison; Bros. Earl of Onslow; Earl Percy, M.P.; Col. Thomas Martin, the W.M. of Surrey Lodge, Reigate, and other brethren, regretting their inability to attend the meeting. Mr. Robert Pink was initiated into the First Degree of Ancient Freemasonry by the W.M., Bro. Edgar Drewett, P.P.G.W. of Surrey. The Deputy Grand Master of Surrey, Bro. C. W. Arnold, P.G. Chap., then took the chair, and duly installed Bro. Denzil Roberts Onslow, M.P., as W.M. for the ensuing year. The claims of the various Masonic Charities having been disposed of, the lodge was duly closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banqueting hall, where the rest of the evening was spent in peace and social harmony. The W.M. was ably supported by his two Wardens, Bros. De La Fargus and H. F. Day. Amongst the company present were Bros. Dr. Spence, P.G.W. of Surrey; Loveless, W.M. 1046; Dawes, S.W. 1046, P.P.G. Org. of Surrey; Andrews, J.W. 1046; W. Vine, P.M. 1046; Charles Anderson, P.M. 1046; Asher, 1395; Dr. Piper; E. Grissbrook, P.M. 771, P.P.G.D. Berks and Bucks; and Andrews, 1329.

HULME.—Blair Lodge (No. 815).—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Town Hall, on Friday, the 9th inst. There were present Bros. John Vertegans, P.M., acting W.M.; Henry Louis Rocca, S.W.; W. R. Sowtar, J.W.; A. E. Gaskell, Hon. Sec.; S. Hildesheimer, S.D.; E. Harris, I.G.; H. R. G. Bayley, P.M., D.C.; J. F. Anderson, Organist; John Sheldrick, J. St. Patrick Riley, J. R. Straus, C. Oldham, A. Bickley, W. Renshaw, W. Fell, J. J. Newton, P.M. Visitors: Bro. T. R. Williams, P.M., Ellis Jones, P.M., Thomas Elliott, P.M., and W. Haddon, J.W., 1147; J. W. Almond, 1773; Henry Briggs, P.M. 330; A. Chendon, 1730; John Cooper Virtue, 152; John Church, Sec., W. Nicholl, J.W., and R. R. Lisenden (Freemason), 317. This lodge, which is a very prosperous one, has this year had to mourn the loss of their W.M., the late Bro. J. O. Moore, who was installed in October, 1878, and who was only permitted by T.G.A.O.T.U. to preside as the head of the lodge some three or four times. The late Bro. J. O. Moore died February 8th, of the present year, and was interred at the Salford Cemetery, on February 13th, and followed to his resting place by Bros. Rocca, Sowter, Vertegans, Gaskell, Hildesheimer, Harris, Bayley, and others. His presence is greatly missed and deeply mourned by all who knew him.

As a man he was the very personification of truth and honour, of kindness and goodwill towards men. As a Mason he was one of the truest and the best, and in his death Masonry in general, and the Blair Lodge in particular, lost a sincere and an earnest member. He served in all the offices except Secretary. The lodge was opened in the First Degree, and the minutes of previous meeting read and confirmed. There being no business the lodge was "worked" up to the Third Degree, and after an interval, down again to the First. A proposition was put forward by Bro. H. R. G. Bayley, P.M., D.C., and seconded by Bro. Henry Louis Rocca, S.W., that the lodge meetings be adjourned from June 13th until Friday, September the 12th, for the summer vacation, which was carried. "Hearty good wishes" having been expressed by the visiting brethren, the lodge was closed with solemn prayer. The visitors having been kindly invited to stay to supper, afterwards assembled, with the officers and members of the lodge, around the festive board. A substantial supper was prepared, of which some thirty brethren partook. On the removal of the cloth the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, with good Masonic "fire," the brethren being led by Bro. Bayley, who makes an indefatigable D.C. The toast of "The Visitors" was received with warm applause, and responded to by each in turn, the W.M. exercising his prerogative by insisting on each one saying something for himself, which caused some little diversion and amusement. Other toasts followed, and the intervals were enlivened with some songs, one of the most enjoyable meetings it has been our privilege to be present at being brought to a close shortly after eleven o'clock.

PLUMSTEAD.—Pattison Lodge (No. 913).—The regular monthly meeting of the above lodge took place on Thursday, the 1st inst., at the Lord Raglan, Bro. T. D. Hayes, W.M., in the chair, assisted by the following officers:—Bros. C. Coupland, P.M., and P.P.G.J.W. Kent; T. Hastings, P.M., and P.P.G.P. Kent; W. T. Vincent, P.M.; A. Penfold, P.M.; H. Butter, I.P.M.; W. B. Lloyd, S.W.; James Chapman, J.W.; E. Denton, P.M. and Sec.; R. Cook, S.D.; H. Mason, J.D.; C. Cooke, Organist; H. Pryce, D.C., and Thos. Read, W.S. Among the visitors and brethren were Bros. J. Warren, S.W. 700; R. Hanson, S.D. 927; W. J. Harris, 700; W. Weiss, 706; D. Baker, 30 (S.C.); C. Jolly (Freemason); and others. The lodge having been opened in due form, and the minutes read, Mr. John Gould and Mr. Richard Taylor were, after ballot and approval, initiated into the mysteries of the Craft; Bros. A. Flagg and H. Towns were passed; and Bro. Messer (as Tyler) was raised to the Sublime Degree. The whole of the ceremonies were admirably rendered by the W.M., who worthily sustains the prestige of this important lodge for its good working. £10 was voted to Bro. Weston's list for the Boys' School, he having agreed to take office as Steward at the forthcoming festival. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren assembled round the table. The preliminary toasts were drunk with that aplomb and heartiness that characterize Masons; and then in reply to the toast of "Bro. Eastes and the rest of the Grand Officers of Kent," Bro. Coupland said he always felt proud of responding to such a noble toast, although it was a difficulty to say anything fresh about it. The care and interest of the Grand Officers in the Craft in the province spoke for itself, and the time was shortly coming when every member of that lodge would have an opportunity of seeing the whole of the Provincial Officers together, and those who took it would, he felt sure, agree with him that both Bro. Lord Holmesdale and Bro. Eastes were worthy of all the great esteem they were held in throughout the whole of the province, particularly by the Pattison Lodge. (Loud cheers.) The I.P.M., Bro. Butter, then rose to propose the toast of "The W.M." He said it was always a difficult toast to propose satisfactorily by an I.P.M., because, after the first time or so, all the eloquence necessary to give it due effect had been used up. Upon this occasion he should try and say something new about him, and if he did not rise to the dignity of the occasion, it would be because he had to say it to his face instead of behind his back. If one had to speak of one who was not present one could Butter one up as much as one liked, but it was a difficult thing to do where one so modest as their W.M. was looking at him, and perhaps laughing at him in his sleeve all the time. However, he would say one thing about him—and he had said a good many in his time—but he would say that he was an honest man and an honest Mason, and Robert Burns had said, and rightly, that "an honest man was the noblest work of God." He did not know whether he had ever called him that before. They had confided to him the Mastership of the lodge, and he had faithfully and honestly done his duty to that trust, and so an honest Mason was an honest man, and an honest man was the "noblest work of God." Unfortunately for himself, he could not attend that evening in time to see the ceremonies, but he stood outside the door and listened, and to his ears came murmurs and music, like to those who, it was said, just before entering it, hear the divine melodies of Heaven, and so it was with him, and he longed to be within those sacred walls, and see and hear their Master carry out, as he could, the beautiful ceremonies entrusted to his hand. He asked them to drink the toast as it deserved. The W.M. said in the I.P. Master they had always a good stock of Butter, always pure, fresh, and good, and much more acceptable than a little dry Hay, which, however, he hoped would never get musty. So far as the beautiful rituals were concerned, he thought that a Master should give them as solemnly and as impressively as he possibly could, and he had done his best, and done it honestly, and he trusted to their satisfaction. He threw his whole heart and soul into the work, and it was most satisfactory to him to hear their expressions of praise and confidence. As an Englishman and a Mason, he felt that anything that was undertaken with spirit and determination was sure to succeed; for when he first took office he felt as if he should have liked to give it up at once, but he had persevered, and worked with a will, and he was not ashamed of the result. The toasts of the "The Initiates," "Past Masters," and "The Officers" followed, and a most enjoyable evening was passed.

KNUTSFORD.—De Tabley Lodge (No. 941).—The brethren of this lodge held their monthly meeting on Monday, the 12th inst., when there were present Bros. the R.W. Prov. G.M., Lord De Tabley, the W.M., officers, and brethren of the lodge. The minutes of the last lodge were read and confirmed. The business of the lodge being ended, the W.M., Bro. Leigh, said: R.W. Provincial Grand Master, officers, and brethren, I rise to perform a most pleasant and agreeable duty, and one which I am quite sure every member of this lodge will feel most deeply interested in. I have the honour and very great pleasure, on behalf of myself and the officers of this lodge, to present our very worthy and much esteemed Bro. Nicholls, P.M., with this very handsome Past Master's jewel, for the valuable services rendered to this lodge, and I only hope (and I am sure I am expressing the sentiments of every member of this lodge) that the Great Architect of the Universe will long spare you to continue your valuable services to this lodge, and wear this jewel upon your breast for many years to come, as a memento of the high esteem in which you are held by every member of this lodge, and hand it down to your posterity as a heirloom in the family. The R.W. Prov. G.M., in rising, said: Worshipful Master and brethren, it gives me the greatest possible pleasure to be present on this occasion and witness the presentation to our worthy and much esteemed Bro. Nicholls, P.M. The very efficient manner in which he performed the duty of installing at your installation reflected the highest credit upon himself and the lodge, and I can only reciprocate the wish you have expressed, "that the Great Architect of the Universe will long spare him to wear the jewel you have presented him with, in token of his valuable services and the high estimation he is held in by every member of this lodge." Bro. Nicholls, in response, said: R.W. Provincial Grand Master, Worshipful Master, and officers, words are inadequate to convey to you how deeply and sincerely I thank you from the bottom of my heart for this very handsome present of a Past Master's jewel, and the beautiful inscription engraved upon it. Valuable as the jewel may be of itself, the kind expressions of fraternal friendship which accompanied the presentation enhances its intrinsic value a thousand fold, and, as you have so feelingly expressed it, I hope the Great Architect of the Universe will spare me for many years to come to devote my best energies for the good of Masonry in general, and of this lodge in particular, and may the crest of our lodge, with the word "Teneto," shine with greater lustre and more Masonic brilliancy. The jewel is a very chaste piece of workmanship in gold, and bears the following inscription on the cross bars: "Palman qui meruit ferat" (in English "The palm which he merits let him bear"); and on the square, "Presented to Bro. W. Nicholls, P.M. of the De Tabley Lodge, 941, by the officers, in recognition of valuable services rendered. 12th May, 1879."

LANCASTER.—Rowley Lodge (No. 1051).—The duties of Masonry in this lodge were resumed on the 5th inst., at the regular meeting held in the Masonic Rooms, Athenæum. Bro. N. W. Helme, W.M., presided, and was supported by his respective officers, there being also a good attendance of members and visitors. The lodge having been opened in the First Degree, the minutes of preceding meeting were read and confirmed. The lodge was then opened in the Second Degree, and Bro. Cutts being a candidate for being raised to the Sublime Degree of a M.M., was examined, entrusted, and retired. The lodge was then opened in the Third Degree, the chair of K.S. being occupied by Bro. Longman, P.M. and Sec. Bro. Cutts was then re-admitted and raised to the Sublime Degree of a Master Mason, the working being very impressively and efficiently gone through by Bro. Longman, who also gave the working tools. Bro. Helme then re-occupied the chair, and by the powers vested in him resumed business in the First Degree, when the ballot was taken for the Rev. William Taylor Newbold, M.A., and proved unanimous. The candidate was then admitted into lodge with the formalities of the Craft, and duly initiated into the mysteries and privileges of ancient Freemasonry by the W.M. in a very effective manner, the working tools being presented by Bro. J. T. Jackson, J.W. The usual proclamations were then made, which elicited "Hearty good wishes" from members of 89, 281, 1353, and 1561, and the lodge was closed in peace, love, and harmony, and with solemn prayer.

LIVERPOOL.—Hamer Lodge (No. 1393).—The monthly meeting of this lodge (changed from the fourth Friday to the third Thursday in the month) was held in the Old Lodge Room of the Masonic Hall, on Thursday, the 15th inst., when there was a very large gathering of members and visitors. Bro. J. McCarthy, P.M., was in the W.M.'s chair, and among others of the "Hamerites" present were Bros. H. Jackson, P.P.G.A.D.C., P.M.; R. Leason, S.W.; W. C. Erwin, J.W.; H. R. Evans, P.G.S., Treasurer; T. Sammons, P.M., D.C.; M. Callaghan, S.D.; R. Kynaston, J.D.; W. H. Jewitt, I.G.; T. Pierrpoint, Org.; J. J. Smith, A.S.; F. Pentin, J.S.; M. Williamson, Tyler; F. Alder, F. Lomeria, H. Davidson, W. Clark, J. C. Merilees, A. E. Richardson, W. J. Henderson, T. Sharp, R. L. Stockton, E. Williams, A. Henderson, J. Tatlock, G. W. Barn, and others. The visitors' list included the names of Bros. T. McCracken, Sec. 292 and 1620; J. Boyle, 823; J. Casey, 1086; F. J. Pentin, W.M. of Wilbraham Lodge; the Rev.—Leslie, J.W. of the Wilbraham Lodge; Councillor W. J. Lunt, P.M.

823; A. C. Wylie, S.W. 202; Dr. Pitts, J.W. 1620; J. B. MacKenzie, S.W. 1609; and others. Two candidates were initiated most impressively by the acting W.M. (Bro. McCarthy), and the ancient charge was very effectively delivered by Bro. H. Jackson. The election of W.M. was afterwards proceeded with, and the result of the voting for this high and most important office was unanimously in favour of Bro. Leason, S.W., who briefly thanked the brethren for the honour which they had conferred upon him. Bro. R. H. Evans, P.M., was also cordially and unanimously re-elected Treasurer. Other routine business was transacted, after which the brethren adjourned to the festive board, at which a pleasant evening was spent.

BLACKPOOL.—Blackpool Lodge (No. 1476).—On Tuesday week the annual festival of St. John, in connection with this lodge, was held at the Clifton Arms Hotel, when the following were present: Bros. H. Gardner, E. G. Stead, H. Johns, E. Gregson, J. L. Smith, R. W. Braithwaite, A. Hodgson, A. Moore, W. Lister, Edmondson, A. J. Holloway, J. Todd, and A. Wade. There were also present Bros. Bidder, Manchester; Whitehead, 113; Carr, 1170; Spencer, 314; Barber, 113; Hollins, 581 and 1009; Taylor, 1061; Partington, 146; Wray, 1061; Rushton Perkins, 1061; Batchelor, 1456; Whitaker, 1061; Howell, 1140; Ormanson, 960; Leigh, 484; and Harding, P.P. S.G.D. The lodge being opened at 3 o'clock, Bro. Todd was passed to the Second Degree in an able manner by Bro. Gardner, W.M. Afterwards, Bro. S. P. Bidder, the Installing Master, took the chair, when Bro. Gardner presented Bro. Stead as W.M. elect, who was duly installed by Bro. Bidder, in his usual masterly manner, after which the following officers were invested: Bros. J. Waddington, S.W.; F. Pateson, J.W.; H. Johns, Treas.; T. B. Lane, Sec.; W. Lister, S.D.; Edmondson, J.D.; A. Hodgson, I.G.; H. Johns, M.C.; T. Watson and J. L. Smith, Stds.; and R. W. Braithwaite, Org. Bro. Johns then delivered the charge to the W.M. and Wardens, and Bro. Bidder concluded the ceremony, after which the brethren, numbering over thirty, adjourned to the dining room, and sat down to a splendid banquet, prepared in Bro. Holloway's usual style. Bro. Stead, W.M., proposed the toast of "The Queen," also "The Prince and Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family," which was drunk with musical honours, Bro. Batchelder presiding at the piano. Bro. Stead then gave "The Earl of Carnarvon, R.W. Pro G.M.," and also "Lord Skelmersdale, R.W.D.G.M.," and P.G.M. West Lancashire, and the rest of the Grand Officers." Bro. Braithwaite proposed "The Hon. F. Stanley, W.D.G.P.M. West Lancashire, and the rest of the Prov. G. Officers." Bro. Harding, P.P.S.G.D., responded, thanking the brethren for the kind manner in which they had received the toast, and said it was an astonishing fact that there was no Provincial Grand Officer in the Blackpool district. There were in Lancashire 13,000 paying Masons, 6,000 in the east and 7,000 in the west province, and he thought it was time to divide Lancashire into three provinces. He trusted they would soon have a provincial officer in their ranks. Bro. H. Gardner proposed "The Health of Bro. E. G. Stead, the newly-invested W.M.," and hoped that he would have a happy and pleasant year of office. Bro. Stead thanked the members of the lodge for electing him to fill such a high position, and promised to do all that laid in his power to further the interests of the lodge. Bro. H. Johns, in a neat speech, proposed "The Immediate Past Master," and flattered Bro. Gardner for the manner in which he had conducted the lodge for the past twelve months. Bro. Gardner responded. Bro. Stead then proposed "The Health of Bro. Bidder, the Installing Master," and thanked him for attending to install him W.M. Bro. S. P. Bidder, in responding, thanked all present, and said he had great pleasure in installing Bro. Stead in such a position, as it was a glorious position for any man to occupy, being "the band of love and the bond of fellowship." Bro. Bidder then proposed "The Newly-Invested Officers." Bro. Patterson responded. Afterwards "The Visiting Brethren," "Masonic Charities," and "All Poor and Distressed Masons," were given, after which the evening was devoted to songs and recitations.

GREAT STANMORE.—Abercorn Lodge (No. 1549).—The second regular meeting of this prosperous lodge was held on the 7th inst., at the Abercorn Hotel, Bro. G. Tidcombe, the W.M., presiding, well supported by his officers, several members, and the following visitors:—Bros. Hall, 34; Pinnizer, 186; Middleton, late of 1549; Honeywell, 889, the latter now taking the duty of Organist to the lodge, for which he is so fully competent. The lodge was opened in due form at 3.50, and after confirming the minutes of last meeting, Bro. Biggs was examined, and approved for passing. The lodge was then opened in the Second Degree, and this brother received instruction as a Craftsman. On resuming to the First Degree, the ballot was unanimously taken for Bro. Cecil Austin, 811, as a joining member, and also in favour of Mr. Edwin Bamford and Dr. R. Campbell Puckett as initiates, both of whom were regularly enlightened into the mysteries of the Craft. The annual reading of the bye-laws by the Secretary then preceded the election of W.M. for the ensuing year. Bro. Heldon, P.M., acting as S.W., in the absence of Bro. J. Ebbs through a long illness, announced that the absent brother would be soon equal to take his position again, which he always did with such great satisfaction to all, and he was thereupon unanimously approved as W.M. elect. The election of Treasurer also passed as usual in favour of Bro. Dr. Rogers, and Bro. J. Middleton was appointed Tyler. The Audit Committee were appointed, and to meet on June 11th. Various small matters having been disposed of, the lodge was closed in peace and harmony at 6.15. At the banquet the customary toasts were duly honoured; that of "The W.M.," for the last time, was appropriately given by the I.P.M., Bro. Vincent, and thankfully acknowledged by Bro. Tidcombe, speaking very highly of the progress of Masonry in the locality, and especially of this lodge in particular, which would always meet with his warmest support. Our brother took a handsome donation to the Girls' School at the festival, and is always first in the cause of charity. The musical contributions of the brethren were good, as usual, and an agreeable evening closed at 10 p.m.

PONTYPRIDD.—Merlin Lodge (No. 1578).—On Monday, the 5th inst., the members of this lodge held their annual festival. The lodge was opened in due form at three o'clock by P.M. Bro. Hurman. The minutes of the lodge were read and confirmed, after which the lodge was raised, and the newly-elected Worshipful Master, Bro. J. Jones, was conducted to the chair, and the ceremony of installation commenced. The Secretary read the ancient charges, and the newly-elected Master was duly obligated. The lodge was raised again, and a Board of Installed Masters was formed, who installed Bro. J. Jones in the chair. Bro. Tennant, Deputy Provincial Grand Master of the Eastern Division of South Wales, performed the duties of Installing Master with great ability. The newly-elected Worshipful Master was then proclaimed in the customary manner. He afterwards proceeded to appoint his officers for the ensuing twelve months as follows:—Bros. George John Alexander, I.P.M.; William Merchant, S.W.; Robt. Charles Hunter, J.W.; William Lewis, Chaplain; William Williams, Treasurer; Thomas Dickson, Secretary; John Lindsay Leckie, S.D.; Thomas Rogers, J.D.; James Rees, Organist; Richard Male, Dir. of Cer.; Walter Herbert Morgan, I.G.; William Howells Key and William Henry Matthias, Stewards; and William Baird, Tyler. The following members of the Merlin Lodge were present:—Bros. John Jones, W.M.; Robt. C. Hunter, J.W.; Wm. Lewis, M.A., Chaplain; William Williams, Treas.; Thomas Dickson, Sec.; J. L. Leckie, S.D.; Thos. Rogers, J.D.; R. Marc, D.C.; W. H. Morgan, I.G.; W. H. Key and W. H. Matthias, Stewards. Members: H. P. Davies, Edward Rees, Morgan Price, W. H. Morgan, John Davies, Stephen Lewis, Gordon Lenox, J. J. Jenkins, H. N. Davies, Evan Rees, Evan W. Davies, R. G. Price, and W. Morris. Among the visitors present were Bros. M. Tennant, D.P. G.M.; T. G. Homfray, D.P.G.M. Monmouth; D. R. Lewis, 110; M. P. S. Tozer, P.M.; T. J. Jones, P.M. 110; C. Wiggins, P.M. 110; J. W. Gunn, 110; W. Griffiths, 110; F. M. Whale, 960; F. W. Goodfellow, W.M. 110; T. Stockwood, jun., 1752; Edwin Price, 1752; John Hurman, 1752; John Hemming, 833, Sec. 1752; C. Videon Harding, P.P.G.O., 476; C. E. Perry, 1752; S. R. Jones, Chap. 36; J. M. Lewis (Figi); G. Bounder, 723; G. A. Noel, W.M. Bute, 960; John Jones Watson, I.P.M. 36; Titus Lewis, 1258; R. Southern, W.M. 36. The lodge room had been beautifully decorated with plants and flowers for the occasion, under the superintendence of Bros. Hunter, Dickson, Male, and Key. At five o'clock the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet, provided by Bro. Morris, at the New Inn. The toasts of the evening were "The Queen," "The M.W. Grand Master," and "The R.W. Provincial Grand Master." Bro. Tennant responded to the latter; Bro. Hurman responded to the toast of "The Past Masters;" Bro. Homfray, D.P.G.M. Monmouth, acknowledged the same compliment when paid to the visitors, as did also Bro. D. Hopkins, P.W.M. Bute Lodge. In the course of the evening several of the brethren sang some good songs to the accompaniment of Bro. Videon Harding, who also added to the harmony of the proceedings with one or two songs. General satisfaction was expressed at the excellent way in which the banquet was served up by Bro. Morris.

EAST GRINSTEAD.—Sackville Lodge (No. 1619).—The first regular meeting (this year of this successful lodge took place on Tuesday, the 6th inst., at the Crown Hotel. The lodge was opened at five o'clock p.m., and there were present Bro. C. Sawyer, W.M.; C. T. Young, S.W.; John G. Horsey, J.W.; E. A. Head, Sec.; S. Davison, S.D.; W. Rudge, J.D.; J. G. Calway, I.G.; C. W. Noehner, P.M.; A. W. Betchley, J. Woodbridge, G. Woolgar, F. Sargent, W. Harwood, J. Cooper, J. Hare, J. E. Woodbridge, and E. D. Dickman. After the reading and confirmation of the minutes of the last meeting, held on Oct. 1st, 1878, a notice of motion, that a jewel be presented by the lodge to the W.M., Bro. Sawyer, on the expiration of his year of office, by Bro. Hook, P.M., was referred to by the W.M., who stated he had just received a telegram from Bro. Hook, stating his inability to attend, and deputing either Bro. Horsey or the Secretary to bring the motion forward. After some discussion, in accordance with the motion, Bro. Horsey proposed, and Bro. Young seconded the proposition, and a jewel was unanimously voted to the W.M. The lodge was then opened in the Second Degree, and, after replying to the usual questions, Bro. G. Woolgar was entrusted, and retired. The lodge was then opened in the Third Degree, when this brother was raised to the Third Degree. The lodge was then resumed to the First Degree, when, after being approved, Mr. Wm. Pile was regularly initiated. The election of W.M. was then proceeded with, the result being that Bro. John G. Horsey, J.W., was voted to the chair for the ensuing year. Bro. Hale, P.M., was re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Sargent Tyler. After the appointment of the Audit Committee the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to banquet. The installation of Bro. John G. Horsey as W.M. will take place on Tuesday, July 1st., at which the Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Sir W. Burrell, and his Grand Officers are expected to be present.

INSTRUCTION.

ST. GEORGE'S LODGE (No. 140).—This lodge of instruction closed its session on Monday evening with a banquet at the Globe Tavern, Royal Hill, Greenwich. About thirty members assisted, ably presided over by Bro. E. M. Hubbuck, P.G.S., P.M. 140; 320, &c., faced by Bro. Hill, I.G. 140. Of the officers of the lodge present were Bros. Tattershall, P.M. and Secretary; Webster, D.C.; Dennant, J.W.; Brown, S.D.; Spark, J.D. There were also present Bros. Johnson, P.M. 140; Wallace, P.M. 140; Blackmur, P.M. 140; Roberts, P.M. and Secretary 79; Dussec, P.M. 79; Moorson, W.M. 1320; Edwards, W.M. 1494; Rees, I.G. 1593; Bates, J.W. 1155; and others. The banquet was served in a manner highly creditable to the proprietor, and gave general satisfaction. The Chairman in a few suitable remarks proposed the first toast, "The Queen," to which succeeded the National Anthem, followed, of course, by that of "The Grand Master, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales." The Chairman then rose to propose the toast of the evening, "Success to St. George's Lodge of Instruction," and in a speech fraught with expressions of kindness and encouragement, referred to the good work it had done, and still was doing, in diffusing that sound instruction which had for many years gained for the mother lodge a notoriety for good working. He coupled with that toast the name of the Preceptor, Bro. G. Brown, who, in responding, said he could not allow the occasion to pass without a reference to the melancholy occasion which had placed him in the position of Preceptor of that old and important lodge of instruction—the awfully sudden death of the late Preceptor, Bro. Jardine. Passing in review the work of the year, Bro. Brown said that whilst on the subject of imparting instruction in Masonry, and seeing one or more brother Preceptors present, he could not help referring to a subject which had occupied his mind for some time past, viz., the differences of working in the several lodges, for there were not two whose working was identical, the consequence of which was such as to deter brethren from seeking instruction sufficiently often to prepare themselves for office, and it checked that mutual interchange of visitations to other lodges of instruction. He then referred to the fact that, about two years ago, hearing that there existed a source from whence the correct ritual of Freemasonry could be acquired, he, together with the late Bro. Jardine, joined the Emulation Lodge of Improvement, at Freemasons' Hall, and that working was now adopted pure and simple in St. George's Lodge, and taught in this instruction lodge. In proof of its popularity at least one other lodge in the neighbourhood had adopted the same working, viz., the Royal Naval College Lodge. In conclusion, Bro. Brown made a strong appeal to the brethren to correct and adjust themselves to the acknowledged and only correct ritual of Freemasonry. The Chairman said that there were certain ladies in Greenwich and neighbourhood which called for the most kindly consideration of the members of St. George's Lodge of Instruction, and, although a reference to the fair sex was somewhat irregular, in Masonic parlance, he thought he might allude to the kindred institutions as "Sister Lodges of Instruction." He (the Chairman) could not help agreeing to the desirableness of one recognised ritual in lodges of instruction. He would couple that toast with the name of Bro. Roberts, Preceptor of the Pythagorean Lodge of Instruction. Bro. Roberts, in responding, said he had listened to the observations on similarity in Masonic working with a considerable amount of interest, and whilst mainly agreeing with the desirableness of it, and considering it a consummation devoutly to be wished, said he must remind the brethren that it was from an Emulation-taught Preceptor that they originally derived their instruction, for it was Bro. Collington, who, at one time, stood alone in his ability to impart the Masonic knowledge which he derived from Bro. Stephen B. Wilson, and although innovations may have crept in, and become imperceptibly, as it were, acknowledged, he could not but think that the Emulation working had been subjected to material modification since Bro. Collington's time. During the evening the proceedings were enlivened by songs and recitations. Bro. Denna presided at the piano, and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

LA TOLERANCE LODGE (No. 538).—A meeting of this lodge of instruction was held on Wednesday, the 7th inst., at the Green Dragon, 2, Maddox-street, W. There were present Bros. J. Hurdell, W.M.; C. A. Woods, S.W.; A. Ginger, J.W.; C. J. W. Davis, Treas.; E. Childs, Sec. pro tem.; T. W. Cooper, S.D.; J. Skinner, J.D.; L. G. Langdon, I.G.; E. Farwig, P.M.; E. Baber, P.M.; R. F. Potter, P.M., and about sixty others. The Fifteen Sections were worked as follows:—

Ten brethren were elected members, and Bro. C. A. Woods, S.D. 145, elected honorary. A vote of thanks was given to Bro. John Hurdell (Sec. of the lodge) for presiding over the lodge for the first time at the Fifteen Sections.

FINSBURY PARK LODGE (No. 1288).—A meeting of this lodge was held at the Earl Russell, Isledon-road, Holloway, on Wednesday, the 7th inst. Present: Bros. Alfred Goode, W.M.; T. Press, S.W.; E. Goodale, J.W.; L. R. Rogers, P.M.; S.D.; T. Tremere, J.D.; W. Payne, I.G.; P. M. Dickinson, Preceptor; H. B. D. Dunn, Secretary; Past Masters Dickinson, Rogers, and Wright. Brethren: A. Goode, T. Press, E. Goodale, T. Tremere, W. Payne, Alderson, Holesworth, E. Harris, W. Weil, Oldis, and Dunn. The lodge was opened, and the minutes read and confirmed. Bro. Alderson was a candidate for initiation. The ceremony was then rehearsed. Bro. Peter Dickinson, P.M., worked the First and Second Sections of the Lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. T. Press elected W.M. for ensuing week, who appointed officers in rotation. Bros. Harris and Weil, of Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge, were elected joining members. Lodge was then closed.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT LODGE (No. 1242).—A meeting of this lodge of instruction was held at Havelock Tavern, Albion-road, Dalston, on the 21st inst. There were present Bros. A. McMillan, W.M.; J. Dignam, S.W.; McDowell, J.W.; J. Lorkin, S.D.; A. R. Olley, I.G.; W. Fieldwick, Preceptor; J. Williams, Secretary, and several other brethren. The minutes having been read and confirmed, the ceremony of raising was rehearsed. Bro. Williams, candidate, having answered the necessary questions, was passed to the Sublime Degree of a Mark Mason. Bro. C. Lorkin, assisted by the brethren, worked the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Sections of the Lecture. Bro. Fieldwick proposed, and Bro. McDowell seconded, that Bro. Dignam be W.M. for Wednesday, 28th inst., which was carried unanimously. Nothing further offering, the lodge was closed in ancient form.

LIVERPOOL.—Mariners Lodge (No. 249).—After a season's valuable and arduous work, the brethren connected with this lodge of instruction—departing from labour to go to refreshment "for this occasion only"—assembled at the Masonic Hall, Hope-street, on Thursday evening, the 8th inst., for the purpose of holding their annual festival meeting. There was a large gathering of the brethren connected with the lodge of instruction, and the spirit which marked the whole of the festival proceedings clearly demonstrated the vitality which characterises the existence of a Masonic "college" which in its time has been the means of training several good and worthy Masons. Bro. John Hayes, P.M., P.G.S., the most indefatigable and talented Preceptor of the lodge, occupied the chair on this occasion, and he was supported by brethren who have long shown a warm interest in the welfare and progress of the institution. A capital supper was served by Bro. Chaplin, the House Steward, and after the "decks had been cleared" the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given from the chair by the Preceptor. Bro. J. C. Robinson, P.M., then rose, and said he had great pleasure in proposing "The Health of their worthy Preceptor." He had heard that it was customary in other lodges for the I.P.M. to be Preceptor of the "Instruction," but he was glad it was not so in this instance, as it would be very difficult indeed to find one who would so well, faithfully, and efficiently fulfil the duties of that office as they were by Bro. Hayes. (Hear, hear.) They all knew how admirably he had done his work in the Craft and all the higher degrees with which he was connected, and he was sure that Masonry in connection with the Mariners Lodge would lose none of its lustre while he occupied the position of Preceptor. (Hear, hear.) The toast was honoured enthusiastically with Masonic honours. Bro. Hayes thanked the brethren for the cordiality with which the toast had been received, and Bro. Robinson for the too flattering terms in which he had referred to his services. He was the first Master who occupied the chair after the lodge of instruction had been formed, and he was happy to state that, with two exceptions, he had never missed a single meeting. So long as he had health and strength he trusted to be able to continue a similar regular attendance, and his earnest effort would be to fulfil the duties of his office in the best manner possible. (Hear, hear.) The Preceptor then gave "The Officers of the Lodge of Instruction," referring to the admirable services which Bro. W. Corbett had rendered in his capacity of Secretary. Bro. Corbett responded in suitable terms, and alluded to the valuable help he had received in the discharge of his duties from Bro. John Pye. Bro. Joseph Jenaway responded for the toast of "The P.M.'s of the Lodge of Instruction," and the "Honorary Members" was coupled with the name of Bro. Mackenzie, who thanked the Preceptor and brethren for the promised privilege of giving a degree at next, and final, meeting of the lodge of instruction for the present season. Other toasts followed, and several excellent songs were given by Bros. Thornton, Messenger, Davies, Jenaway, and others.

MOUNT LEBANON CHAPTER (No. 73).—The regular convocation of this well-established chapter was held on Thursday, the 8th inst. Comps. John Mason, Z.; James C. Mason, H.; M. D. Loewenstark, J.; with the Past Principals who were present, opened the chapter. The minutes of the meeting held in January were read, unanimously confirmed and signed by the M.E.Z. Comps. T. J. Sabine, P.Z. and Treasurer, and W. Dunham, P.S. and J. elect, resigned their memberships of the chapter. Their resignations were accepted with very great and deep regret. The ballot for Joshua was unanimous in favour of Comp. Arthur John Treton, 1st A. S., the popular W.M. 1614, Covent Garden Lodge. All below the rank of Installed Principals having retired, Comp. Wm. Smeed, P.Z., &c., in his well-known correct and most impressive manner installed Comps. J. C. Mason, M.E.Z.;

M. D. Loewenstark, H. On the re-admission of the companions the officers appointed were Comps. J. W. Baldwin, P.Z., Treasurer; F. Walters, P.P.A.S. Middx., P.Z., S.E.; B. Isaacs, S.N.; W. Clark, P.S.; S. Barney, 1st A.S.; W. H. Goodall, 2nd A.S.; C. T. Speight, Janitor. A cordial vote of thanks, and the same to be entered on the chapter minute book, was unanimously voted to Comp. W. Smeed, P.Z., for the admirable, painstaking, and correct manner in which he had rendered the all important ceremonies of the installations. Apologies were received from absent officers, and also from the candidates for exaltation. Business being ended, the chapter was closed, and adjourned to meet on Thursday, October 9th, at five o'clock p.m. There were present, besides those named, Comps. J. H. Spencer, W. H. Willoughby, and several others. The visitors were Comps. J. Bown, P.P. G.S.N. Lancashire, M.E.Z. 148; W. A. Barrett, H.; Louis Beck, 1326; and others. The regular banquet was supplied. The usual toasts were given and responded to. Comp. John Mason, I.P.Z., had the usual ten-guinea P.Z.'s jewel presented to him, which had been voted to him from the chapter funds, he having had a most successful and prosperous year of office. Songs, recitations, and some excellent music brought this successful meeting to a happy close.

WORCESTER.—St. Wulstan's Chapter (No. 280).—The installation convocation of this chapter was held on Wednesday, the 14th inst., at the Masonic Hall. There were present the following companions:—Comps. J. C. Gregg, M.E.Z.; C. S. Faram, H.; W. Stallard, J.; J. R. Buck, S.E.; and many other companions, including three visitors, Comps. Orlando Shellard, P.Z. Palladian Chapter, 120; Henry Gurney, Palladian Chapter, 120; Henry Muggeridge, P.G.S.B. The chapter was opened in due form, and the minutes of the last convocation were read and confirmed. At the request of the M.E.Z., Comp. Henry Muggeridge, P.G.S.B., then took the chair, and, in a conclave of Installed Principals installed Comps. C. S. Faram, M.E.Z.; W. Stallard, H.; J. R. Buck, J. The conclave was closed, and the companions re-admitted, and the following were inducted into the different offices:—Comps. H. Wilson, S.E.; F. H. Lingham, P.S.; T. Pike, 1st A.S.; J. F. Roberts, 2nd A.S. The chapter was then closed in ancient form, and the companions adjourned to another room and partook of an excellent banquet, and spent a very pleasant evening.

TORQUAY.—St. John's Chapter (No. 328).—The annual meeting was held at the Masonic Hall on Thursday, the 8th inst., at 3.30. In the absence of the First Principal, the Board of Installed Principals was opened by Ex. Comp. Perry, P.Z. In consequence of the death of Ex. Comp. Pescott, H., his chair was taken by Ex. Comp. Murray, P.Z.; Ex. Comp. Bradnee was in his place as J.; Ex. Comp. Dr. Hopkins, P.Z. 328, 1587, 710, acted as Immediate P.Z. On the admission of the companions the chapter was opened with Comps. Hurrell, E.; Fulwood, N.; and Morgan, Pr. Sojourner. After the confirmation of the minutes, Ex. Comp. Warren arrived, and took his place as Z. A ballot was held for Bro. Knight, which being unanimously favourable, he was admitted and duly exalted by the M.E.Z. Ex. Comp. Bradnee delivered the historical, Ex. Comp. Murray the symbolical, and Ex. Comp. Dr. Hopkins the mystical lecture. All below the rank of Principal then retired, and Dr. Hopkins, who had been invited from Bath for the purpose, duly installed Comps. Bradnee, Hurrell, and Fulwood, respectively in the three chairs of Z., H., and J., the two former under dispensation, owing to the death already mentioned. The following officers were then invested: Comps. Morgan, E.; Dodge, N.; Goss, jun., Pr. Soj. Some discussions followed on matters interesting only to the members, and the chapter was closed at 7. The companions then adjourned to the Queen's Hotel for the banquet, which was admirably served by the host, Bro. Bolt, and was in all respects satisfactory. A very pleasant evening was spent, and the companions separated at 11.

NEWTON ABBOT.—Devon Chapter (No. 1138).—The members of this chapter met on Tuesday, the 13th inst., at the Masonic Hall, when there was no business except the installation of Principals and investment of officers for the next year. The three chief chairs were occupied by Ex. Comps. Capt. Bewes, Z.; Philip Michelmore, H.; and Bradnee, M.E.Z. 328, as J. The chapter having been opened, the companions were admitted, the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, and the Treasurer's report was received and adopted. Among those present were Ex. Comps. Beechey, P.Z., and Dr. Hopkins, P.Z. 328, 587, 710, as a visitor. The latter was requested to perform the ceremony of installation in the absence of Ex. Comp. Rev. R. Bowden, who had been expected to do that duty, and the companions below the chairs withdrew. Owing to the removal of the Principals from Newton, it was necessary to continue the 1st and 2nd Principals in office for another year. They were, therefore, re-installed as Z. and H., and Comp. Harris as J.; Comp. Olver was invested as E.; Comp. Martin as N.; Comp. Stevens as Pr. Soj.; and Ex. Comp. Beechey as Treas. The Pr. Soj. deferred his nomination of Asst. Sojrs. On the proposition of Ex. Comp. Beechey, P.Z., seconded by Ex. Comp. Michelmore, H., a cordial vote of thanks was passed to Ex. Comp. Dr. Hopkins for his prompt and efficient services as Installing Principal, for which a suitable acknowledgment was made. Several matters of only local interest were discussed, and the chapter was closed at 9.30.

HAMPTON COURT.—Royal Middlesex Chapter (No. 1194).—The installation meeting of the above chapter was held on Saturday, the 17th inst., at the Mitre Hotel. Companions present: Comps. Donald

M. Dewar, M.E.Z.; Rev. Dr. P. H. E. Brette, H.; Harry Bateman, J.; Roebuck, Treas.; Dodd, S.E.; Soppett, Taylor, Horsley, Laxton, Rosenthal, A. J. Altman, Bro. Kman, Jolliffe, Brown, Owen, Col. Burdett, Grand Superintendent; H. G. Buss, Dosell, George Kenning, and others. Bros. Henry Robert Perry, Constitutional Lodge, 55; Alfred John Protheroe, Neptune Lodge, 22; and Frank Ch. de Rialp, Salisbury Lodge, 435, were exalted to the Royal Arch Degree by Comp. William Dodd, assisted by Comps. Brette and Bateman. Comp. Dodd then installed Comp. Rev. Dr. P. H. E. Brette M.E.Z.; Comp. Harry Bateman H.; and Comp. Soppett J. A valuable P.Z. jewel was presented to Comp. Donald M. Dewar, on his vacating the chair of M.E.Z. The companions then retired to dinner, under the rule of Rev. Dr. P. H. E. Brette, M.E.Z.

Mark Masonry.

BRIXTON LODGE (No. 234).—A meeting of this lodge was held at the Surrey Masonic Hall on Saturday, the 10th inst., the W.M., Bro. Thomas Poore, P.G.I.G., in the chair, supported by Bros. C. P. McKay, S.W.; H. Lovegrove, J.W.; G. Clark, M.O.; H. Baldwin, Sec.; Dr. Pearce, S.D.; G. Moss, J.D.; Ackland, acting I.G.; Dunkley, Org.; and R. Potter, Tyler. After the confirmation of the minutes of the previous meeting, the ballot was taken for Bros. H. Chambers, H. Clamp, J. Barnes, J. H. Powell, and J. Clarkson, which proved unanimous. Bro. Clarkson was in attendance, and was duly advanced to the degree of Mark Master in the usual impressive style of the W.M., with full musical ceremony. After the transaction of some routine business the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to refreshment. It was decided to hold an instruction meeting just before each lodge meeting, at which all Mark Masters would be welcomed.

MARYPORT.—Whitwell Lodge (No. 151).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Thursday evening, the 15th inst. There were present Bros. J. H. Banks, W.M.; W. Armstrong, S.W.; P. Dodgson, J.W.; Jos. Nicholson, P.M. and Treas.; J. Gardiner, P.M.; W. F. Lamonby, W.M. 229, Chaplain; E. G. Mitchell, M.O.; J. R. Banks, as S.O.; G. W. Thompson, J.O.; J. Adair, Sec.; J. Abbott, as S.D.; F. Harrison, Visitor; Bro. T. Mason, Faithfull Lodge, No. 229. The minutes being read and confirmed, the first business was the election of W.M. for the ensuing year. All those present, who were qualified, withdrew in favour of Bro. P. Dodgson, S.W., who was put to the ballot, and unanimously elected. Bro. Jos. Nicholson, P.M., was also unanimously re-elected Treasurer, and in so expeditious a manner (show of hands) that the veteran had no time to interfere. The election of Tyler stood over till a brother is available for the office. A hearty and well-merited vote of thanks was accorded to the W.M., on the proposition of Bro. Gardiner, seconded by Bro. Lamonby, and after a modest reply from Bro. Banks, the lodge was closed with "Hearty good wishes" from Faithfull Lodge, Cokermonth. [We beg to point out that the form of election of Treasurer in this case was wrong. Clause 63 of the "Book of Constitutions" lays down that the election must be conducted by ballot.]

COCKERMOUTH.—Faithfull Lodge (No. 229).—The ordinary meeting of this lodge was held on Wednesday evening, there being present Bros. W. F. Lamonby, W.M.; R. Robinson, S.W.; W. H. Lewthwaite, J.W. and Org.; Capt. Sewell, M.O.; T. C. Robinson, J.O.; J. Black, Sec., Treas., and P.M.; T. Mason, as S.D.; W. Shilton, I.G.; and J. Hewson, Tyler. Amongst other business, the sum of two guineas was voted to the list of Bro. G. Dalrymple, W.M. Henry Lodge, No. 216, the representative of the province at the ensuing festival of the Mark Benevolent Fund. It was decided to close the lodge till the second Wednesday in July (election night), unless there should be any candidates for advancement.

MASONIC WORKS IN THE BRITISH MUSEUM.
Many thanks to Bro. Hughan for his kind correction re the date of Hutchison's "Spirit of Masonry." The error on my part arose exactly as suggested in the postscript to Bro. Hughan's note. I have to refer to another old Masonic work which appears in the British Museum catalogue. This is the "Proofs of a Conspiracy," &c. In the Masonic Magazine for April the work is in the British Museum catalogue as "Robinson, J.: Proofs of a Conspiracy against all Religions, etc., of Europe. 3rd edition, 8vo., London, 1798." In the Masonic Magazine for May also, the work is described as "Robinson, J.: Proofs of a Conspiracy, etc., of Europe, etc. 5th edition, 8vo., Dublin, 1798." What I have to point out is another edition, printed at Edinburgh the year before either of the editions mentioned, which, as yet, I cannot find in the British Museum list. The edition I refer to, I may explain, I bought for an "old song" a few days ago, at a "curiosity shop." It is a perfectly clean copy, and I gather from the engaved coat of arms and name, on a label inside the cover, it belonged to one "nobly born, or a gentleman of the first fashion" in Edinburgh. The title page is as follows:—"Proofs of a Conspiracy against all the Religions and Governments of Europe, carried on in the secret meetings of Freemasons, Illuminati, and Reading Societies. Collected from good authorities by John Robison, A.M., Professor of Natural Philosophy, and Secretary to the Royal Society of Edinburgh. Nam tua res agitur paries cum proximus ardet. Edinburgh: Printed for William Creech; and T. Cadell, junior, and W. Davies, London, 1797." The name of the author is Robison, not Robinson, as appears in the Masonic Magazine twice.

Answers to Correspondents.

HILDA.—There is no actually recognised jewel for a M.M., though one is often worn, namely, the five-pointed star. There is certainly none for a Lewis. The emblem of the five-pointed star is very appropriate and graceful in itself, and no objection can really be against it.

FRESHWATER.—In our opinion decidedly yes. But allowances are sometimes made at the formation of a new lodge. Still we confess to a strong opinion on the point.

THE STEWARDS' LISTS FOR THE FESTIVAL OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

The Stewards' lists for the last festival are very remarkable in their way, and deserve attentive perusal and consideration despite the wearying reiteration and often confusing accounts of long rows of figures. As often happens in this good world of ours, truth lies sometimes hidden in very common things indeed, which the careless and the unthinking pass contemptuously by. There are some unfortunate beings to whom "a daisy is a daisy and nothing more," but as we do not profess to write for such, we trust that, for all who like to think and care to learn, what we are about to say may be neither boring nor unedifying. Let us then take the Stewards' lists for the last festival and look at them thoroughly and minutely, for depend upon it under their startling figures lies much of instruction, encouragement, and even warning for us all. They are not merely figures, arithmetical tokens, but profess a Masonic language of their own, easy to be understood by the sagacious and the intelligent. Let us begin with the metropolitan returns. The whole amount as returned at the festival was in round numbers £11,700, but which sum has been increased since, and will, no doubt, be augmented (as we said last week) to £12,000 before many days have elapsed. Of this the metropolis contributes £5850. Of the metropolitan lodges the largest amount sent in is by the Creaton Lodge, 1791, Bro. J. L. Cantle, Steward, namely, £238 1s. Now, this is very noteworthy, because the Creaton Lodge has been consecrated, so to say, but recently, and is one of our youngest lodges, and yet here it is, to the fore of all the metropolitan lodges, with £238. No doubt the lodge has wished to show their regard for their first W.M., the Grand Treasurer, the Chairman of the festival, and who well deserves the good opinion of his brethren, but the result is highly creditable to the Creaton Lodge, and we congratulate Bro. J. C. Cantle most sincerely on this, his goodly list. We wish all other young lodges had followed his bright example, but we are very sorry to note, we beg our readers to lay the remark to heart, that from No. 1700 only eight lodges have sent anything at all. This is by no means a creditable state of things, and we fear, is attributable to one of two causes, either that the entrance fees are insufficient for the expenses, or that the lodges are already in debt to their Treasurers. As this was also the case at the Benevolent Festival, and we fear, may be the case at the Boys' School gathering, we beg to call the attention of many worthy brethren to the subject. The next lodge to the Creaton Lodge is No. 25, Bro. G. R. Shervill, Steward, which remits £175 7s., and which, curiously enough, is tied by No. 1383, Bro. J. M. P. Montagu, Steward, with its £175 7s. Bro. J. Cowan, Steward, No. 1572, brings up £171 13s. 6d., and which is succeeded by Chapter No. 813, Bro. J. Gabb, Steward, with £141 15s., and, most curious coincidence, this is tied again by No. 1728, Bro. T. W. B. Bush, Steward (a most creditable return, by the way), also with £141 15s. No. 1421, T. S. Taylor, succeeds with £131 5s., and this is hardly pressed by No. 27, T. J. Maidwell, with £125. We note with much pleasure No. 174, C. J. Perceval, with £115 10s., and No. 211, Alfred Withers, with 115 4s., No. 2, E. H. Letchworth, £113 9s., Nos. 179 and 1586, W. Hopekirk, £111 6s., No. 657, Edward Cox, £111, and No. 58, W. Smithett, £101 17s. The remaining returns vary from £97 2s. to £4 15s., and all seem to point to the great and vivid interest taken by the metropolitan brethren in the support and success of the Girls' School. The provincial returns are equally striking and suggestive. West Lancashire leads on this occasion with £594 17s., and is followed by West Yorkshire with £420, which again is closely pursued by Kent with £407 16s. Warwickshire is near at hand with £380, next to which comes Cornwall, under the able leadership of Bro. W. J. Hughan, with £378, while Staffordshire presses on Cornwall with £376 3s., and Cheshire and Middlesex appear with £356 4s. and £352 10s. 6d. respectively. East Lancashire next appears on the scene with £285, to which follow, after a little interval, Gloucestershire with £260, Somersetshire with £247 16s., Devonshire with £242 1s., Sussex with £231 1s., and Durham with £227 17s. We also have to note Hertfordshire with £144 2s., Worcestershire with £141 15s., and South Wales (Eastern Division) with £105. The remaining provinces vary from Hants with its £99 15s. 6d., down to Lincolnshire with its £21. But thus equally the provincial returns testify to the great interest felt by the Craft in the progress and prosperity of that excellent Institution, our well-managed and efficient Girls' School. As a general summary London, with 119 Stewards, has collected £5850 in round numbers, the provinces, with 131 Stewards, have sent up £5826 in round numbers, leaving a very small balance in favour of London, but this may be affected on either side by the lists which have yet to be received. While the fact speaks volumes for the zeal and energy of the metropolitan brethren, it also betokens the general interest of the Craft in this work and claim of true Masonic charity. The London brethren may certainly feel proud of their cheery efforts to support the Girls' School, as, though there is a popular delusion afloat that the London brethren are a degenerate body, which is not the case, they claim, as they will have, the thanks of their brethren, when they remember what has been done by the 105 lodges and chapters represented, and one Mark Lodge. Equally, however, we must give all praise to the efforts of our good provincial Stewards, and thank them and our provincial brethren for their zealous and continuous support of the great Charities of our Order. Indeed the considerations which the magnificent returns of the festival give rise to are both gratifying and encouraging in the highest degree, because they testify better than words can speak, to the great if simple fact, that Masons' hearts are in the right place, and that with them charity is not merely a name, a word, or a profession, but a reality, a truth, a living and gracious power. Once more we congratulate the Stewards and all concerned, and not the least, Bro. Hedges, on the really noble returns to the anniversary of the Girl's School for 1879.

THE ACCOUNTS OF THE ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

On reading these always, to me, interesting and almost sensational statistics, I was struck with two points, about which I should like to have a few words from our good Bro. Terry.

1. Why in the general statement are dividends from stock omitted? We are told in a special paragraph that there are invested on the male account £32,870 stock, and on the female account £20,655, and that the permanent income from both accounts is £2445; and yet under male account I only find £59 10s., and under female account £33 3s. 10d.; clearly some great mistake somewhere.

2. It seems that there is a balance on the two funds and deposit accounts of £8170. Is not this too large a balance?

I ask these questions in all deference as a

YOUNG MASON.

THE EARLIEST USE OF THE WORD "FREEMASON."

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In the history of the Lodge of Edinburgh (Mary's Chapel), No. 1, of Scotland, it is stated that the minute of the lodge of 27th December, 1636, contains the earliest instance then discovered of the word "Freemason" being in Scotland applied to designate members of the Craft, and that the word is not again used in the minutes until January, 1725, a period of about ninety years, but that its use became common after 1729.

The Past Grand Chaplain of Scotland, the Rev. J. Thomson Grant, a well-known archæological scholar, has kindly given me the following extract, which he recently discovered in the MS. records of the Presbytery of Jedburgh, parish of Minto. It is as follows:—"1652. James Ainslie, A.M. . . . called 11th January, and admitted and instituted (after being sustained by the General Assembly) 9th December, 1652, objection having been taken because he was a Freemason, and the neighbouring Presbytery consulted previous to entering him on trials. The Presbytery of Kelso, 24th February, 1652, shewed that to their judgment their is neither sinne nor scandale in that word, because in the purest tymes of this kirke Maisons having that word have been ministers, that Maisons and men having that word have been and are daylie in our sessions, and many professors having that word are daylie admitted to the ordinances."

The minute of the Lodge of Edinburgh of 1636 speaks of the Freemasons of Edinburgh, and the above extract clearly shews that the word "Freemason," although not found in Masonic records between 1636 and 1719, was yet in general use between these periods. But the extract is also important as shewing that "in the purest times of the (Scotch) Kirk," which the Presbytery minutes indicate were prior to 1652, some of its ministers had been Freemasons, and that at that date "many professors" were so. This is another evidence that non-operatives were admitted members of the Order prior to Ashmole's admission in 1646. Indeed, as the minutes of the Lodge of Edinburgh shew, several eminent non-operatives were admitted members of the lodge in 1634, and the immediately subsequent years; and we find one in active membership of it so early as 1600. We have no record of his admission, but it must have been prior to 1599, the date of the oldest existing minute of the lodge.

Yours fraternally,

P. M. No. 1, S.C.

SIXTY-SEVEN YEARS A MASON.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

The following extract from the minutes of the Lodge of Sincerity, now numbered 174, may, at the present time, be interesting to your numerous readers.

Yours truly,

J. NEWTON, P.M. and Sec. 174.

"Lodge of Sincerity, No. 231, March 10th, 1812.

"At a lodge of instruction held on Sunday, March 8th, Bro. Price proposed that Robert Whitaker become a Mason in this lodge—seconded by Bro. Watkins, and carried nem. con.; and also that Mr. James Norris, taylor (sic), aged twenty-four years, be made a Mason in this lodge, and seconded by Bro. Wade, and carried nem. con.

"March 10th. * The lodge this evening was opened in due form, and Mr. James Norris initiated in the First Degree of Masonry, and passed to that of Second Degree, or Fellow Craft.

"Proposed by Bro. Hall, and seconded by Bro. Judge, that Bro. Norris become a regular subscribing member of this lodge, and carried nem. con.

"The R.W.M. went through part of the First Lecture, and closed the lodge in its usual good harmony."

* The lodge was then held at the Lion and Castle, Cherry Garden Stairs, Bermondsey.

A CORRECTION.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I desire to call your attention to a slight error you have made in last week's number of the Freemason under the heading of "Assis'ant Grand Pursuivant." Towards the end you are pleased to mention the excellent working of La Tolerance Lodge of Instruction, and give me credit of being the Preceptor, which is not correct; the office I hold is that of Treasurer. From the commencement of the lodge our Preceptor was, is now, and I trust will be for some time to come, Bro. T. Alex. Adams, P.G.P.

I am, dear Sir and Brother, yours fraternally,

CHARLES J. W. DAVIS,

P.M. Royal Union, No. 382.

ORIGINAL RESEARCH.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

The work called "Original Research" to which I have drawn your attention in previous numbers, will, I beg to say, be published at a minimum price in the course of the year. It will be dedicated to the Grand Lodges of all nations, to whom copies will be presented, with right of translation, in the earnest hope that it may be the means of spreading the sacred truths therein set forth, not only among brethren, but among all orders of men.

I am, yours fraternally,

W. N. CRAWFORD.

A NEW NOVEL?

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I am much amused to see an advertisement of a new novel, bearing the attractive title of "The Freemason's Daughter," by J. F. Smith, published, I believe, by the firm of Tinsley Brothers. Now, some twenty years since I took in a story, in parts, entitled "Amy Lawrence, the Freemason's Daughter," by J. F. Smith. The volume is in my possession now, and I believe that I am correct in stating that the story had previously appeared in the columns of the London Journal. I cannot say that the stories are identical, the titles are nearly so.

Yours truly and fraternally,

SENIOR WARDEN.

A VISIT TO THE GIRLS' SCHOOL

I wish in the much read and truthful pages of the Freemason to record the impressions of a visitor to this remarkable Institution for the first time. Strange as it may seem to some of my readers, though an old Life Governor and Steward, I had never had the opportunity of seeing the "tout-ensemble" at St. John's Hill, Battersea Rise, with my own eyes. I had heard of it, and had myself spoken about it, basing my confidence, not undeserved, on its yearly reports, but this year, "health and weather permitting," I determined to seek for personal evidence, in lieu of passive authority, alike for what I believed as for what I said. So on one fine day, one of the finest of this most ungenial year, and despite a treacherous east wind, in company with two very well dressed and angelic beings of the "softer sects," as Mr. Samuel Weller has it, I took myself in such pleasant company to that classic common, on the borders of which rises the new, the large, and almost imposing building, entitled the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls. The School is not a school built qua a school, but is an adaptation of a private house, by needful alterations, to the purposes of a school. It has increased in numbers from 60 to 120, and now to 200 inmates, and the recent additions have been most skilfully made by Bro. Massa, reflecting credit alike on him and the Building Committee, under Bro. Lieut. Col. Creator.

I was specially struck with the new hall, the infirmary, and the laundry, all on the most modern and approved principles, whether of ventilation or of hygiene, and which it is not difficult to see at a glance must add materially to the comfort, wants, and efficiency of the School.

There are now, as I have already said, 200 girls, and I will venture to add 200 healthier or happier looking girls are not to be seen in England. Indeed it was impossible for any one, especially those acquainted with educational work and similar institutions, not to come to the conclusion that one of the great ends of any such establishment was fully secured in the comfortable appearance and smiling faces of the children, who, though many of them had been deprived from early years of the inestimable advantage of parental care and supervision, had yet found in the good Providence of God a happy home for themselves, and sincere friends, and motherly care, and skilful tuition in that pleasant and peaceful refuge for many a poor and otherwise desolate little girl—the Masonic Girls' School on Wandsworth Common. Indeed, I think it right to add that the School is really "sui generis" and "unique," as far as I know, and I think I know what I am writing about, amongst all similar institutions in England, nay, in Europe. There are many admirable homes where 200 girls are trained and cared for, but then they are class schools, so to say, and all on a level. Now the peculiarity of the Girls' School, like as the Boys' School, consists in this, that it is made up of different, and often of most contrasted, classes, and the difficulty, and "crux," at once confront us, how are you to give a good uniform education for these poor girls, differently brought up, and even fitting often widely different stations in life, without reducing the School to the level of a merely elementary or eleemosynary school, on the one hand, or elevating it above the needs and proper position of the children on the other?

In the Girls' School, as it seems to me, (all praise to Miss Davis and the House Committee), the happy "mean" has been found, so that the education imparted is alike practical and thorough, real and useful, needful and beneficial to all alike, fitting them thoroughly for the "rough battle of life," preparing them for the after struggle of each individual career. Without forgetting to develop latent talent or to draw out existing ability, without losing sight of the truth, that all education, to be education, is to expand, adorn, enrich, and control the mind; and that what God has implanted we are bound to seek carefully and tenderly to nourish and advance, the children are proficient, as their own neat and comely dresses show, in all housewifery, in sewing, and marking, and knitting, in all the duties of the house, and in cookery.

Some of us remember the old song—

"Had she been a daughter of mine

I'd have taught her to hem and to sew," and the House Committee have always very wisely encouraged this good old-fashioned work, so needful and so beneficial for girls.

I was quite struck with the carefulness and clearness with which the girls have been prepared for their "repetitions," and the admirable manner in which the German and French were pronounced, not merely the "French of Bowe," (see Chaucer), convinced me how really first rate was the instruction imparted. The calisthenics were most striking and worth seeing, being alike healthy for the girls and graceful and pleasing in themselves.

Thus, go when you may, look at what you will, listen to this, and observe that, everything seems to point to a thoroughly reliable and intelligent, and able instructress, one who knows her "metier" and likes and loves it for its opportunity of doing good to others, and there can be no question that to Miss Davis the success of the School, scholastically, if I may so say, is entirely attributable. To her untiring zeal and important labours the School owes its great vitality and prestige, and under her skilful direction the talents of the orphans are alike most carefully supervised and properly developed. All who saw the School on Monday must rejoice to think that the School is under her direction, assisted as she is by willing teachers, most of them, we believe, trained by herself, and who carry out her admirable plan of teaching and instruction, and steady, kindly interest in the personal work, and happiness, and welfare of the children.

The School is also very fortunate in having as Matron Miss Jarwood, who has, I believe, been fifty years in the Institution, was originally a pupil, and in whom the Committee and Subscribers have most properly every confidence. Her kindness and motherly care to all are ever evinced in many ways, and I was pleased to realize that where so much personal sorrow must often exist in the mind of a poor orphan, the genial consideration and the unceasing friendliness manifested for all in the School, had secured to Miss Jarwood the regard and attachment of the pupils and teachers. I have seen many girls' schools, large and small, but I never visited any which had more the appearance of a home, and less of a mere school, than our Masonic Institution for Girls.

To the House Committee the best thanks of all subscribers of the School are due for the unceasing attention to, and watchful control over, all matters affecting the routine, discipline, and character of the School. We should all feel that to their wise measures and sensible administration it is really owing that the excellent qualities of Miss Jarwood and Miss Davis have been encouraged and supported, until, alike in its domestic and scholastic character, the School may fairly challenge comparison with any existing institution. Long may it flourish, a blessing to many a poor orphan, and securing for itself the loyal admiration, attachment, and sympathy of thousands of honest-hearted Masons.

Obituary.

BRO. EDWIN HUGHES, P.M. 249.

On Friday, the 16th inst., the remains of Bro. Edwin Hughes, P.M. of the Mariners Lodge, No. 249, were interred at Southdown-road Cemetery, Liverpool, the funeral being attended by a large concourse of people. The deceased was a well-known solicitor in Liverpool, and during the earlier portion of his life he served under Garibaldi in the fight for national liberty in Italy, and also in the great American war, in connection with which he saw some active service. The cortege left the late residence of the deceased, Brooklands, Elm Vale, Fairfield, Liverpool, at half-past ten. Amongst those present were Mr. R. Hughes, son; Mr. William Hughes, brother; and Mr. H. W. Cooke, brother-in-law of the deceased; Dr. Commins, Mr. Councillor M'Arde, Dr. Speer, Captain Murdock, 1st L.A.V.; Bro. Dr. Sheldon, Bro. Captain Berry, Messrs. Walter Commins, John Atkinson, W. H. Pride, Martin Browne, C. Connor, A. Crilly (of the Financial Reform Association, of the council of which Bro. Hughes was a member), Henry Vaughan, M. Hynes, D. Callow, H. Neale, managing clerk to the deceased, and others. The burial service was read by the Rev. H. Postance.

BRO. JOSEPH POORE.

Bro. Joseph Poore, P.P.G.J.W. of the Isle of Wight, Senior Past Master of the Albany Lodge, No. 151, late 176, died at his residence, in Newport, on Sunday, the 4th inst., in the 87th year of his age. Bro. Poore was initiated into Freemasonry in the Union Lodge, No. 626, held at the Blue Anchor Tavern, St. George's-square, Portsea, Hants, on the 17th April, 1814; joined Lodge No. 148 August 20th, 1816, and was enrolled a Mark Mason in Gibraltar, where our brother was engaged on the fortifications. On his return to the Isle of Wight, in 1817, joined the Vectis Lodge, No. 578, and the chapter Mark and Albany Lodge, No. 151, late 176, in 1838, from which date until his decease he continued to be a subscribing member, and during the long period of forty-one years was the most regular in attendance at the meetings of the lodge, always endeavouring to promote the interests of Freemasonry, and that of the Albany Lodge in particular, to the best of his ability. The remains of our venerable Bro. Past Master Poore were followed to his last resting place in Carisbrooke Cemetery, on the 9th, by the Rev. the Worshipful Master, Past Masters, and brethren of the Albany Lodge, who at all times entertained a high estimate and fraternal regard for his straightforward, honest bearing, and integrity of purpose, and most sincerely did they sympathise with him at the time his kind heart was deeply sorrowing, on the 18th November, 1870, when he lost the dear partner of his life, with whom he had blissfully enjoyed fifty-four years of conjugal happiness, their spinster daughter dutifully attending to and comforting her aged parents with loving cheerfulness to the end of their lives. Out of a family of eight children, five daughters and one son survive, with grand and great grandchildren.

Signed, JOHN CREATON, Grand Treasurer,
Vice-Patron, Chairman.

Freemasons' Hall, London, W.C.,
16th May, 1879.

The following is the report of the Committee of Management.

The Committee of Management desire to congratulate the donors and subscribers upon the continued success which has attended the Institution during the past year, resulting in a larger amount of donations and subscriptions being received than on any preceding twelve months since its foundation.

The anniversary festival was held, by command of the Patron, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W.G.M., on the 13th of February last, and having obtained the consent of Lieut.-Col. Le Gendre N. Starkie, R.W. Prov. G.M. for East Lancashire, to preside, a Board of Stewards 294 in number was formed, of whom eighty-one were from the Chairman's province. Their exertions were rewarded by being enabled to present the largest sum yet obtained at any of the festivals, viz., £14,386, and the Committee tender, not only to them their sincere thanks for raising such an amount, considering the great depression of trade unhappily prevailing throughout the country, but also to the Chairman for his powerful advocacy of the claims of the Institution on the day of the festival, and for the deep interest he displayed throughout his province in inducing the brethren to support his presidency.

At the last election there were 145 male and 135 female annuitants upon the fund. There are thirty-three men and forty-three widows candidates for election to-day.

Since May last twenty-two men and eight widows have died, and the Committee have resolved not only to fill up these vacancies, but to augment that number by the election of an additional ten widows, so that there will now be 145 annuitants of both sexes receiving the benefits of the Institution, the amount of whose annuities will be £10,440. There are also twelve widows receiving half their late husbands' annuities, who each receive £20 per annum, so that the Institution is committed to an annual payment of £10,680 without the working expenses.

To meet this large outlay the Committee rely in the future, as they have done in the past, upon the continued liberality of the Craft, feeling convinced that that reliance will not be in vain.

The Committee have much pleasure in reporting that the balance remaining in the hands of Messrs. Willis, Percival and Co., at the time of their failure, in 1878, has been paid in full by the Trustee of the estate of the late Treasurer, Samuel Tomkins, Esq., thereby preventing the Institution from sustaining loss.

The Committee desire to tender their thanks to Grand Lodge for the renewed grant of £70 made in September last, to provide the residents of the Institution at Croydon with coals during the winter months.

Vacancies in the Trusteeship have occurred during the past year by the deaths of the late Grand Treasurer, Samuel Tomkins, Esq., and Sir F. M. Williams, Bart. According to the laws the former vacancy will have to be filled by the newly-elected Grand Treasurer, Lieut.-Col. Creaton, and they recommend Lord Skelmersdale to fill the other vacancy.

The Committee have also much pleasure in reporting that the Institution at Croydon is in a thorough state of repair. They have made an addition during the past year by the erection of a lodge for the residence of a gardener, who will also discharge the duties of gatekeeper, and various other minor offices, which will tend to the comfort of the residents.

To Henry J. Strong, Esq., M.D., they tender their grateful thanks for his thoughtful kindness and care in ministering to the comforts, and alleviating, as far as human aid can, the sufferings of the residents. They have much pleasure in stating that at a meeting of the Committee of Management it was unanimously resolved that, as he had given his valuable services as honorary surgeon for eighteen years, a testimonial of the value of 100 guineas should be presented to him, a compliment they considered he justly deserved.

Subjoined is a statement of the receipts and expenditure during the past year, ending the 31st March, 1879, together with the particulars of the permanent income of the Institution.

The report was then adopted. Bro. Bellerby and Griffiths Smith were re-elected on the Committee, and Bro. Goode was elected. The Auditors were re-elected.

Lord Skelmersdale, D.G.M., was elected Trustee of the Widows' Fund, in accordance with the recommendation in the report.

On the election of Trustees of the Male and Sustentation Fund comin? on

Bro. A. J. Duff Filer, P.G.S.B., said he proposed Bro. William Winn, who, he believed, was so well known to all the brethren as to render his (Bro. Filer's) saying anything in his favour unnecessary; but, inasmuch as he had heard that a great mistake had arisen as to who Bro. Winn was, he might say he was a member of a very eminent shipping firm of the Port of London, trading under the style of Termlin and Nephew. What Bro. Winn had done in Freemasonry was such as to require very little more in the shape of honour, but the brethren could confer such honour upon so worthy a brother by electing him a Trustee of the Male and Sustentation Fund. He was sure he had only to propose the name for it to meet with immediate acceptance.

Bro. R. B. Webster seconded the motion, which was then carried unanimously.

Bro. Raynham W. Stewart proposed, and W. H. Perryman seconded, Bro. Æ. J. McIntyre, G.C., as the Second Trustee, which motion was also carried.

The scrutineers of the votes for the election were then chosen, and the brethren proceeded to elect twenty-two men and eighteen widows. At the declaration of the poll the following was found to be the result:—

terest, not only in this but in other countries. He need not remind them of the active part His Royal Highness took in the late Exhibition held in Paris, when by his praiseworthy efforts he made himself not only the most popular man in England, but the most popular man in France. (Cheers.) As to the Princess, she was beloved by all, and the English people would always cherish with pleasant memory the day when the rose of Denmark came and sat beside the rose of England. (Applause.) He hoped the Royal Family might long exist to the benefit of the nation, and he was sure that as Masons they would ever have reason to be proud of His Royal Highness as the head of the Craft. (Applause.)

The Chairman then gave "The Right Honourable the Earl of Carnarvon, Most Worshipful Pro Grand Master." He said the noble earl was well known to many in the room, and his health would always be received in Lancashire with that warmth and enthusiasm that it ought to be. The earl came down at great inconvenience, putting aside many engagements to instal him (Colonel Starkie) in the chair he now occupied, and which the Masonic brethren had made very pleasant to him by exhibiting a true Masonic spirit. (Applause.)

Bro. W. Slater, P.P.G.S.W., proposed "The Health of the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, Deputy Grand Master, and the Grand Officers, Present and Past." He was sure the toast needed no eulogy from him. Lord Skelmersdale had worked with them as a brother ought to do, and with regard to the Grand Officers, he was pleased to say they had all done their duty well and nobly, and he was glad to see such a large number present on that occasion. It spoke well for the Order, and was an honour to the Masonic fraternity of Salford. (Hear, hear.) That would be a red letter day in the history of the Royal borough, and the Masonic Order in this province would long remember with pleasure their meeting that day. (Cheers.)

The R.W.D.P.G.M., Bro. G. Mellor, in responding, said the officers who had been invited that day would, he had no doubt, do their duty, and at the end of the year their services would be acknowledged by the Grand Master of the province. He had the honour to propose a toast which he was sure would be received with enthusiasm by each and every brother present, "The Health of Colonel Le Gendre N. Starkie." (Loud applause.) Where was there a man more respected than their worthy G.M.? Colonel Starkie was a man whose universal benevolence, kindly disposition, sympathetic nature, and cheerful countenance commanded their good will, and if they had searched the whole province through he doubted whether they could have found his equal. (Applause.)

The toast was received with musical honours, and the brethren upstanding gave a right hearty "twenty and one."

The Chairman thanked the brethren for the kind manner in which they had drunk his health, as the G.M. of that important province, and for the eulogiums which had been passed upon him, which he was afraid were not deserving in many cases. He was glad to see so much brotherly love and true friendship prevail amongst them, as it tended to hide the many imperfections of humanity. Having the charge of that important province he had perhaps unwittingly given offence to some brother in the discharge of his duties. ("No, no.") If he had done so, he wished to take that opportunity of saying to that brother that he felt exceedingly sorry. The most perfect being was apt to make a slip sometimes, but anything he had done wrong had not been done wilfully, and therefore he hoped it might be forgiven. He had been reminded that day that he used military law. (Laughter.) That might be so, but he was then on parade. He was off parade now, and he wished everybody to enjoy themselves. (Hear, hear, and applause.) He had to thank the brethren for the exertions they had made at a time of great commercial depression and distress in sending such a noble subscription this year—the largest that had ever been obtained to the Masonic Charities. In acknowledgment of that subscription the Committee of the Institution for Aged Freemasons had transmitted to him an address beautifully illuminated, and it was his intention to keep it as a memento as long as he lived. (Applause.) Changes and vicissitudes in their Masonic circle had occurred during the past year, and they had to lament the loss of brethren who had long been associated with them. His most intimate neighbour, Colonel Townley Parker, a man who worked hard and well for Masonry in his own part of the country, was gone, and they had lost one near and dear to them in their late P.G.S., Bro. Tunnah. His successor had been appointed that day, and he (the P.G.M.) should take care that the business was carried on on the old lines. It was simply the man changed. He (the P.G.M.) was the admiral of the ship, and the man who steered it should steer by his orders. (Applause.) The meeting that day had been one of the grandest he had ever had the honour of presiding over, and he thanked the brethren for having made it such a great success. (Applause.)

"The Health of the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Mellor, and the Provincial Grand Officers, Present and Past," was next proposed by the Chairman, who said that he had to thank them individually as brethren for the great kindness, brotherly, and Masonic feeling which they displayed, which enabled the business of a province to be conducted in such a creditable manner. During the whole time that he had been Provincial Grand Master he had never had a single disagreement with any Grand Officer. The Deputy Provincial Grand Master had proved a worthy successor to Bro. Callender, and the province had a right to be justly proud of him. (Hear, hear.) He was a thorough good fellow to the back bone, and was so highly esteemed by his neighbours and those among whom he lived that he had thrice been elected mayor of the town in which he resided. He (Colonel Starkie) should always consider to the best of his ability when brethren ought to be advanced, but in a great province like that there were so many deserving officers that it was sometimes difficult to make a choice. Therefore those who might be left out were not left out because they did not deserve the honour, but because of the peculiar exigencies of the case. Some Provincial Grand Lodges had only eight or ten lodges, whereas East Lancashire had nearly ninety, and if all the officers could be promoted as they deserved they would receive very high honours indeed. (Applause.)

Bro. Mellor, S.G.D., responded. He said it was always a pleasure to him to be surrounded by brethren at the festive board, because their interests were identical, and were one and the same in all respects. As one of the Provincial Grand Officers he could assure them that nothing should be wanting on his part to forward the best interests of Masonry. (Cheers.)

In proposing "The Salford Lodges," the Prov. Grand Master thanked the brethren of the local lodges for the excellent arrangements they had made, and for their liberality in contributing to the Masonic Charities. He hoped the lodges would always be careful as to the candidates they admitted into their fraternity. It was better that a brother should forego the prestige of saying he had carried his man than that he should introduce schism into a lodge. (Applause.) The difference between Masonry and an ordinary benefit society was that, while Masons contributed their money for charity, they had no knowledge directly where that money would go. They contributed to universal charity, knowing that their contributions would be distributed by people of honour and integrity to the most deserving, whereas the contributions of a benefit society were applied to the very object for which they were paid in. The Masons ought, therefore, to be most careful not to admit into their ranks men of sordid motives, who would seek assistance for worthless objects. He asked them to be on their guard against the hypocrite, the crawler, the perjurer, the violator of everything that was good—men who would traduce the honesty and independence of Masonry, and bring their Order into disgrace and opprobrium. (Applause.)

Bro. T. Hansbrow, Newall Lodge, Bro. Hudson Lister, Richmond, and Bro. Southern, acting W.M. Harmony Lodge, responded.

Bro. Southern said they had been highly honoured in having a meeting of the Prov. Grand Lodge in Salford. The Salford brethren were very anxious that the gathering should be a success; that it should be such a meeting as would win the approval, not only of the R.W.P.G.M., but of all the brethren who should attend. No doubt many of the brethren would go away fully impressed with the remarks that had been made by the R.W.P.G.M. on the necessity of keeping their lodges select. He (Bro. Southern) might say that so far as the Salford lodges were concerned, they would bear favourable comparison with most of the lodges outside the province. (Cheers.)

Bro. Statham, P.P.G.T., in a lengthy speech, proposed "The Masonic Charities." He said it was a great honour to take part, however small, in such an important meeting, and before such distinguished and intelligent members of the Craft. As an old Salford Mason he felt that a great honour had been conferred upon the borough by that gathering of the Prov. Grand Lodge of East Lancashire, and nowhere could be found brethren more anxious to forward the best interests of Masonry than were to be found in the Royal borough of Salford. (Applause.) It was not necessary to remind the brethren present that one of the most prominent principles of Freemasonry was charity—(hear, hear)—and if they believed the words of Shakespeare—

"Charity is twice blessed;

It blesseth him that gives and him that takes."

The institutions of Masonry recognised this, and he felt that each brother would support the Charities to the best of his ability, and would be always ready to assist a brother in need. (Applause.)

The other toasts were "The Visiting Brethren," proposed by Bro. B. Taylor, P.G.T.; "The Mayor and Corporation of Salford," proposed by the Rev. Henry Cottam, P.A.G. Chaplain, responded to by Bro. E. Brookes; "The Army, Navy, and Volunteers," proposed by Bro. Hoffgaard (Danish Consul), responded to by Bro. Rocca; and "To all Poor and Distressed Masons."

The proceedings then terminated.

It ought to be stated that the music, which was under the direction of Bro. Hudson Lister, W.M. 1011, was admirably rendered by Bros. Miller, Sec. 1357; N. Dumville, P.M. 152 and 332; W. Dumville, P.M. 1011; Lister, W.M. 1011; and H. T. Robbards, P.G. Org., and P.M. 993.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE BRO. GEORGE THOMPSON.

The funeral of this lamented brother took place last week, when the mortal remains were deposited in the family burial place of the deceased in Jesmond Old Cemetery. The funeral cortege, which consisted of a hearse and five mourning coaches, left the residence of the deceased in Ryehill at eleven o'clock, and proceeded by way of Westmorland-terrace Grainger-street, and Northumberland-street to Jesmond. On the road it was joined by the private carriages of several gentlemen, including that of the Mayor of Newcastle (Ald. Robinson), who himself, with the Sheriff (Mr. J. G. Youll) and several members of the Corporation, was present at the funeral. At the Barras Bridge a large number of the Masonic body, of which Bro. Thompson, was also a very active member, were assembled, and from thence marched in front of the hearse to the cemetery. The office for the dead was performed by the Rev. Anchor Thompson, M.A., master of the Holy Virgin Hospital, Ryehill, assisted by the Rev. J. Smithard Hind, D.C.L., vicar of Cramlington, and Chaplain to St. Peter's Lodge of Freemasons, and one of the many recruits which the deceased gentleman had brought to the Order. The funeral was a most impressive one, and many a silent tear was shed over the grave of the kind-hearted and genial gentleman, while the grief of others who had more directly experienced the goodness of his heart was uncontrollable. The following brethren attended: Bros. Richard Eynon, W.M. 481, P.P.G.A.D.C.; W. W. Smith, P.M. 481; Jos. Cook, P.M. 481, P.P.G.S.W.; Jno. Hopper, P.M. 481; Henry Sewell, I.P.M. 481, P.P.G.S.W.; J. Watson, S.W. 481; J. Usher, J.W. 481; J. Goss, J.D. 481; W. B. Ford, S.S. 481; G. S. Sims, Tyler, P.P.G.S.D.; Jno. Page, W.M. 406; W. S. Hughes, P.M. 406; Jno. Ridsdale, P.M. 406, and Prov. G.J.W. Northumberland; Jno. Spearman, P.M. 406; J. Jensen, P.M. 406; R. L. Armstrong, I.P.M. 406; George J. Dean, P.M. 541; E. S. Gibbon, W.M. 541; Thos. Blinksop, P.M. 541; Jno. Harcuss, P.M. 431, P.P.G.J.D.; Bertram P. Ord, W.M. 1427, P.G. Org.; J. C. Mowbray, I.P.M. 1427, P.P.G.S. Herts; Jas. Nicholson, P.M. 1427; B. J. Thomson, P.M., and Prov. G. Sec. Northumberland; Wm. Cooper, W.M. 1342; Thos. Forster, P.M. 685; J. G. Youll, P.M. 685; J. S. Wilson, W.M. 685; Donkin, P.M.; R. B. Brown, P.M.; C. Franklin, P.M.; —Robinson, Prov. G.S.W. Durham; —Clapham, P.M.; T. B. Winter, P.M.; C. D. Davis, P.M., Prov. G.D.C., and P.P.G.S.W.; W. M. Bell, W.M. 1557. About 150 to 200 brethren attended in all

The monthly meeting of the Lodge of Benevolence was held on Wednesday evening, at Freemasons' Hall. Bro. John M. Clabon, President; Bro. James Breit, Junior Vice-President; and Bro. W. Wilson, G. Pursuivant, occupied the three chairs in the early portion of the evening; and Bro. James Brett, J. M. P. Montagu, P.G.D.; James Kench, Asst. G. Pursuivant, occupied the chairs for the remainder of the sitting. Bros. John Hervey, G.S.; H. G. Buss, Asst. G.S.; and A. A. Pendlebury attended. There were also present Bros. Henry Garrod, 749; E. P. Albert, P.G.P.; Chas. Fredk. Hogard, P.M. 205; John Wright, P.G.P.; S. Rawson, P. Dist. G.M. China; Charles Atkins, P.M. 27; W. H. Perryman, P.M. 3; W. Maple, P.M. 657; W. J. Christian, 1662; W. J. Murliis, P.M. 1642; Walter W. Tyler, 1305; John Yeomans, 167; Edwin Marsh, 1803; Frederick Newton, 5; J. H. Mather, 143; J. Shepherd, 1349; Charles Godtschalk, P.M. 70; F. H. Foster, 19; William Butcher, 558; W. Hammond, 1326; W. West-Smith, P.M. 79; John Holden, 435; Arthur E. Taylor, 1201; Chas. Daniel, 65; J. Russell Clipperton, 66; Geo. Fredk. Swan, 1321; J. H. Southwood, 1460; G. Squirrel, 206; G. D. Skeggs, 144; F. W. Koch, 820; E. J. Allen, 733; C. W. Smith, 1382; J. W. Gray, 1556; G. P. H. Lewis, 1584; Geo. G. Symons, 45; M. A. Loewenstark, 1668; E. J. B. Bumstead, 548; George W. West, 1287; C. Digby, 933; J. Mander, 1201; and H. Massey, P.M. 619 (Freemason).

At the Board of Masters, which was previously held, the agenda paper for next Grand Lodge was settled.

The Lodge of Benevolence first confirmed grants to the amount of £410, recommended at last meeting, and then considered the new list. There were twenty-three cases set down. Three of these stood over, not being complete. The remainder were relieved with £530, made up of one £100, two £50, one £40, two £30, two £25, five £20, two £15, and five £10.

Lodge was closed at nine o'clock.

WHAT GOOD IS FREEMASONRY?

The question is often asked—What good is Freemasonry? Among the uninitiated a favourite idea prevails that a man must be in possession of good digestion to fulfil the chief requirements of brotherhood, and that the "grip" consists to a great extent of a firm hold of a knife and fork. At a banquet given by the Yarborough Lodge on Saturday, some interesting particulars were given by the Deputy Prov. Grand Master of Sussex on the rapid increase of lodges during recent years. Although he explained to some extent the cause of this, he did not do so fully. He proved that no less than a thousand new lodges had been sanctioned and consecrated during the last 19 years—an average of one a week. Why this great increase? He admitted that the accession to the Grand Mastership by the Prince of Wales gave the additional impetus to the movement, but he said the increase had been going on for the last 20 years, thus proving Freemasonry to be no passing fashion, but a stern reality. This large increase of members is not confined to England. On the continent we see Emperors, Kings, and Princes at the head of the Craft in their respective countries, and although all Freemasons were excommunicated by the late Pope of Rome, the number of members increases, even in Catholic countries. What reason is there, then, for such large bodies of men—chiefly of the superior class—banding themselves together? It is on the principle "many can help one—one cannot help many." Look at the magnificent institutions which the Freemasons of England have raised for the aged and the orphan. Is it nothing that those who are overtaken by sheer misfortune should have extended to them the helping hand? Mercenary motives are at direct variance with the principles of Freemasonry, but

LODGE OF ANTIQUITY (No. 2).—The monthly meeting of this famous lodge took place on Wednesday evening last, the 28th inst. Among the visitors present were Bros. Whichcord, P.G.D.; Chevalier Habicht, P.G.S.; Russell, P.M. The lodge voted £10 10s. to the Boys' School, and £10 10s. to the St. Alban's Fund. The brethren, though few in number, owing, we suspect, to the Derby Day, adjourned to a very pleasant, social meeting, and separated at an early hour. Bros. Hope, D.M.; Woodford, I.P.M.; Lieut.-Col. Creaton, Treas., and G. Treas.; Barron, P.M. and Sec.; Sampson Pierce, Erasmus Wilson, P.M.; and Greetham, J.W., were among those present.

PANMURE LODGE (No. 720).—The installation meeting of this lodge was held at the Balham Hotel, Balham, on Monday, the 19th inst. Lodge was opened at 4 p.m., by the W.M., Bro. C. P. McKay, and there were present during the evening the following brethren, viz.:—Bros. W. R. Sheadd, S.W.; E. Mitchell, J.W.; James Stevens, P.M.; D. Trusler, P.M.; H. Payne, P.M.; Thos. Poore, P.M., and Sec.; M. Spiegel, S.D.; W. Gunner, J.D.; C. A. Blogg, Organist; G. Lambert, I.G.; G. Mulley, Steward; W. Steedman, P.M., Tyler; also Bros. Lilley, Syer, Smith, Plater, Whittaker, Richardson, Max Brenner, Anthony, Ash, Barton, Glenister, Melhuish, Hall, Laver, Treves, Kerr, and others. Visitors: Bro. C. Sawyer, W.M. 1619; E. Kidman, P.M. 1586; G. Yaxley, W.M. 463; W. W. Prickett, 1327; J. Howes, P.M. 1623; J. J. Barrett, 619; W. Foulsham, P.M. 1790; and J. New, W.M. 1238. The installation of the S.W., Bro. Wm. Sheadd, as W.M., was undertaken by Bro. Poore, and was performed with the usual clearness and perfect ceremony for which this worthy brother is so greatly distinguished. Bro. James Stevens assisted him as D.C., and delivered the admirable address to the brethren in explanation of the "three lesser lights" which he, in conjunction with Bro. Poore, has recently introduced with great effect into the installation ceremony. The result was most satisfactory to members and visitors. After presentation of the warrant, &c., Bro. Sheadd, W.M., appointed and invested his officers in the following order, viz.: Bros. E. Mitchell, S.W.; M. Spiegel, J.W.; Thos. Poore, P.M., Sec., and Treas.; W. Gunner, S.D.; G. Lambert, J.D.; F. C. Pascall, I.G.; G. Mulley, D.C.; C. A. Blogg, W.S. and Org.; C. Richardson, Steward; and W. Steedman, P.M., Tyler. The usual addresses to the W.M., Wardens, and brethren were then given by the Installing Master, and the newly appointed W.M. at once gave evidence of his working powers by ably initiating Mr. J. R. Blackmore into the Order. Great sympathy was felt for the W.M., who has been for many months suffering from the effects of a very serious accident, causing him to be entirely dependent on crutches for support, but whose pluck and determination on this occasion elicited the admiration of all present. He neglected no effort necessary to perform his duties throughout the entire evening, and the heartiest wishes of the brethren for his speedy restoration were freely expressed. Before the lodge was closed, a proposition was made to mark the sense of the lodge towards Bro. Poore, by the presentation of a handsome testimonial. At the excellent banquet which followed, Bro. McKay, the I.P.M., received at the hands of the W.M. a Past Master's jewel, and to the toast in his honour made effective response. The visitors found able representatives in the persons of Bros. Foulsham and Yaxley, whose replies were admirably delivered. The Senior P.M., Bro. Stevens, also responded on behalf of himself and other Past Masters, and especially directed the attention of some of the brethren to the necessity for aiding the W.M., under his present unfortunate state of health, by a stricter adherence to order and regularity than even they had hitherto evinced. The whole proceedings were throughout agreeable, and the brethren separated at a reasonable hour.

SIR HUGH MYDDELTON LODGE (No. 1602).—The installation meeting of this lodge took place in the Agricultural Hall, on the 16th inst. There was a large attendance of both members and visitors. The lodge was opened at 4.30 by the retiring W.M., Bro. Coombs, supported by his officers, Bros. A. F. Rowley, S.W.; J. Weston, J.W.; John Greenfield, Treasurer; John Osborn, Secretary; W. F. Poulton, J.D.; R. G. Thomas, Org.; H. Field, I.G.; and Past Masters E. Somers and Edward G. Sim. The minutes of the ordinary and emergency meetings having been read and confirmed, the Treasurer submitted the balance-sheet for the year 1878—1879, which showed that the lodge had surmounted all its financial difficulties, and commenced the year with a fair balance in hand. It was, therefore, unanimously adopted. The W.M. was now replaced in the chair by Bro. P.M. Sim, who proceeded to initiate Messrs. Percy John Stuart Taylor and George William Larker. Bro. T. C. Duncan having been examined in the usual manner, and found qualified to be passed, retired, and the lodge was opened in the Second Degree, and Bro. Duncan on being re-admitted was duly passed, the presiding W.M. performing the ceremony with exceptional ability. There being no other business before the lodge save the installation, it was opened in the Third Degree, and Bro. Coombs, as D.C., presented the W.M. elect, Bro. Rowley, to Bro. Sim, who kindly undertook to act as Installing Master. This he did in a manner that we have rarely seen equalled for unhesitating precision and solemnity. On being installed the W.M. elect appointed and invested the following brethren as his officers for the year: J. Weston, S.W.; J. Osborn, J.W.; J. Greenfield, Treas.; C. F. Passlow, Sec.; W. Norris, S.D.; W. F. Poulton, J.D.; H. Field, I.G.; R. G. Thomas, Organist; J. H. Oppenheim, D.C.; J. Rimell, W.S.; R. Allison, A.W.S.; and W. Steedman, Tyler. Before the lodge was closed it was, on the motion of Bro. Poulton, seconded by Bro. Somers, unanimously resolved that a letter of condolence be sent to the Grand Lodge of Brussels on account of the death of the Grand Master, Bro. Anspach. The lodge having been closed in due form, the brethren sat down to an excellent banquet, the newly-elected W.M. presiding. Besides those whose names are already mentioned there were present Bros. J. Percy, W. Francis, R. J. Towne, H. Keil, J. Francis, G. Goyne, E. Peterkin, S. Hollidge, E. Payne, W. Payne, J. Crocker, J. Gibbs, P. S. Taylor, G. Tarrant, H. L. Godolphin, J. Alexander, E. Abrams, C. Preston, J. Kitchiner. Visitors: Bros. J. Terry, P.G.J.W. Herts; J. D. Langton, S.D. 1673; E. W. Braine, P.M. 1471; J. Kew, P.M. 179; F. Goode, P.M. 1288; W. B. Kidder, P.M. 12; H. Fisher, 1480; C. Hubbard, W.M. 820; W. Hirst, 15; W. Cook, 1774; G. Hicks, 813; D. Galley, 1309; J. Field, 917; H. M. Levy, P.M. 188; E. Roberts, 1623; Goldstein, 917; and W. Riches, J.W. 946. At the conclusion of the banquet the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were drunk. "The Queen and the Craft," "The M.W.G. Master," "The M.W. Pro G.M.," "The D.G.M., and the rest of the G. Officers, Present and Past," having been honoured, Bro. Coombs proposed "The Health of the W.M.," and remarked that from what the brethren had seen of Bro. Rowley in the past there could be little doubt that he would give ample satisfaction during his year of office. He felt sure that the W.M. might rely on all the sympathy and support, not only of the officers, but of all the brethren in the lodge. The W.M. having acknowledged the toast, next proposed "The Health of the Installing Master." Bro. Sim, he observed, had a great claim to the gratitude of the brethren of the Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge for the unceasing interest which he always took in its welfare, and, as a working Mason, he was an example that they might all copy with profit. (Hear, hear.) As Installing Master that evening he had given them a proof of his ability, which it required no words of his to praise. If the brethren could only follow in the footsteps of Bro. Sim, they would have no reason to be afraid for the cause of Freemasonry. Bro. Sim, in responding, said that it had given him a great deal of pleasure to be connected with the Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge, and, in accepting whatever office he had held, he had conscientiously endeavoured to do his duty whatever might have been the result. If he had gained their approval for the way in which he conducted the ceremony of installation, all he could say was that he was well repaid for any time and attention it had cost him. The W.M. had kindly stated that he (the speaker) was an example that those who might succeed him would do well to follow. But he would assure them that every one who undertook a certain duty would find an amount of satisfaction in endeavouring to perform it perfectly which more than compensated for any additional trouble he might be put to. This fact brought to his mind the words which their Past Grand Chaplain quoted at the consecration of the lodge—

And the grave is not its goal;
'Dust thou art, to dust returnest,'
Was not spoken of the soul.
"Let us then be up and doing,
With a heart for any fate,
Still achieving, still pursuing—
Learn to labour and to wait."

"The Initiates" having been drunk and acknowledged, the W.M. next gave "The Visitors," in behalf of whom Bro. Kidder, P.M. 12, replied, and in doing so paid a well merited compliment to the officers of the lodge for their general efficiency. Bro. Coombs in replying to "The Health of the Past Masters" reminded the brethren that it was now just three years since the Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge was consecrated, and he felt convinced that if they continued to go in the future as they had done in the past they would become a splendid lodge. They all saw how excellently appointed their lodge room was, and of course they knew that it could not be appointed without a good deal of money, yet he had the greatest pleasure in announcing that they had not only paid all the expenses they had incurred, but they had contributed a fair amount to the Benevolent Funds of the Craft, and had a fair balance in hand. (Hear, hear). Bro. Coombs concluded by thanking the brethren for a beautiful Past Master's jewel with which he was presented, and assured them that it would always be worn by him with the greatest pleasure as a memento of his year of office. In responding for "The Charities," Bro. Terry acknowledged the efforts made by the Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge to promote the interests of the Masonic Institutions. When he looked around that room he saw several brethren who had served as Stewards, and who had brought up sums of money which represented in the aggregate a large amount. He could only trust that in the future the lodge would continue to be a great benefactor to these Institutions. After reminding the brethren of the obligation which every Freemason took upon himself at his initiation with respect to the poor of the brotherhood, Bro. Terry trusted that it was not a mere profession with them, but that it was deeply impressed upon their minds, and would be fulfilled so long as life was spared to them. The Charities were three in number. The Girls' School had just celebrated its ninety-first anniversary with a list of 200 children, who had been maintained, clothed, and educated by their bounty. The Boys' School was about to celebrate its eighty-first anniversary at Wood Green, having on its roll the large number of 210 boys, who had enjoyed the same blessings, and, in passing, he would take leave to state what was not generally known, that at the last Cambridge examination, out of fourteen boys belonging to this Institution, there being fifteen first-class honours only to be taken, their School took nine. (Cheers.) He ventured to think that out of fourteen boys sent up from any educational institution no greater distinction could have been attained. (Hear, hear.) They had also to congratulate the Girls' School for its efficiency. Of fifteen girls that went up for examination seven gained first class, and four gained second class honours, while other four received honourable mention. (Hear, hear.) Not one failure had been recorded among any of their children when they presented themselves for examination. The old people had, of course, no such test of merit to go through (laughter and cheers), and it was his misfortune as their representative that he could not refer to any such achievements. But he fancied he could do more than that, for he could refer to years and years of a well-spent life—to a life without a blemish or a stain, and he thought it was a great thing after all to boast of that a man should live four score years and nobody be able to point a finger of scorn or malice at him. After referring to the enormous development of Freemasonry, and its Charities, Bro. Terry went on to say that, although there had been a great depression of trade, and a consequent diminution of the income of the other great charities of the country, not only had the income of the Masonic Charities been kept up, but it had increased in a direct proportion to the increased numbers that had joined their ranks, from which he ventured to infer that there must be something very sound in the management of their Institutions, and the principles upon which they were established, otherwise the Craft would not have supported them as they had done. (Hear, hear.) A family of 700 was no small number to have under their care, but it would, perhaps, surprise them if he mentioned what a small sum would enable them not only to maintain these Institutions, but to do a great deal more. He begged to repeat that five shillings a year from every Mason to each charity would bring in a sufficient amount of money to enable them to do away with every festival, to do away with every election, and whenever the Committee considered any case to be deserving and eligible for any of the three Institutions to deal with it at the very earliest moment. Fifteen shillings a year was not a large amount. It only amounted to threepence a week. Now, he ventured to ask, was there a Mason living, enrolled under the Grand Lodge of England, that could say he could not pay threepence a week towards the support of these noble Institutions? He believed there was not; and, yet, how many thousands there were that never had given that amount. It was not the majority that supported their Institutions. It was the small minority, and what they wanted to know was how could they possibly reach the pockets and touch the affections of the great majority who had never given anything? He remembered well when the Marquis of Ripon, their late Grand Master, presided at the Boys' Festival, two or three months before he seceded from the Order, in looking through the list of subscribers to the Masonic Institutions, he remarked that he found there repeated time after time the same names. Now, what they wanted to see was the name of every Mason as a subscriber to each of the Institutions connected with the Craft. If that could be arrived at one of the grandest principles of Freemasonry would be carried out. "The Treasurer and Secretary" and "The Officers of the Lodge" having been drunk and acknowledged, the Tyler's toast brought the proceedings to a close. During the evening Master Manning, Master Payne, Bros. Steedman and Roberts contributed much to the enjoyment of the company by singing some excellent songs.

WEST SMITHFIELD LODGE (No. 1623).—The regular meeting was held on Thursday, 15th inst., at Bro. T. Butt's, New Market Hotel. Bro. G. S. Elliott, W.M., presided, and in a splendid manner raised Bro. E. Roberts and C. Corke, and initiated Mr. W. Rose. On behalf of the lodge he presented Bro. Frederick Walters, P.G.D. Middx., P.M., Treasurer, with a vote of thanks done on vellum, and mounted in a gilt frame, which had been voted to him from the lodge funds for his services rendered to the lodge as its first Secretary, and one of the founders, ten pounds having been voted from the lodge funds for that purpose. Bro. F. Walters acknowledged the gift. Some propositions were received for initiation. A vote of condolence was voted and ordered to be sent to the widow of the late Bro. John Johnson, J.W., he having died since the last meeting. The lodge was closed and adjourned to meet in July. There was not any banquet. There were present besides those named Bros. J. Howes, P.M., S.W.; G. S. Wintle, P.M., as J.W.; E. Mallett, P.M., Secretary; W. Pennefather, P.M., S.D.; T. Butt, I.G.; H. J. Larder, D.C.; G. H. Stephens, W.S.; and several others. Visitor: Bros. T. Horton, 871.

HENRY MUGGERIDGE LODGE (No. 1679).—The second anniversary meeting of this lodge was held on Saturday, the 24th inst., at the Prince George, Parkholme-road, Dalston. Present: Bros. Henry Muggeridge, acting W.M.; Edward F. Storr, S.W.; James Lorkin, J.W.; Henry John, S.D.; James H. Wilkin, J.D.; William F. Darnell, I.G.; J. Bagot Scriven, Treas.; and a number of brethren, including several visitors. The lodge was opened in due form, and after the confirmation of the minutes of the last meeting, Mr. Job. Sherriff Sandland was initiated into Freemasonry. Bro. Henry Muggeridge then installed Bro. Edward Francis Storr, W.M. for the ensuing year, who appointed Bros. James Lorkin, S.W.; Henry John, J.W.; James H. Wilkin, S.D.; Wm. F. Darnell, J.D.; Alfred Sack, I.G.; Edwin C. Dyer, D.C.; Henry S. Leah, Sec. J. Bagot Scriven was invested as Treasurer. The lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to an excellent banquet, presided over by the W.M., Bro. Edward F. Storr, who stated his intention of serving as Steward to the three Masonic Charities during his year of office. In the course of the evening great regret was expressed for the death of the late Master of the lodge, Bro. Francis Fellows, and many of the brethren promised to do all they could to get two of his children elected into the Masonic Institutions for Girls and Boys at the October elections, the widow and children being left unprovided for.

GATESHEAD.—Lodge of Industry (No. 48). The regular monthly meeting of this old-established lodge was held on Monday, the 26th inst., at 34, Denmark-street. The lodge was opened in due form shortly after seven o'clock p.m., by the W.M., Bro. Robert Whitfield, assisted by the officers, viz.: M. Corbitt, I.P.M.; John Wood, S.W.; J. G. Smith, J.W.; W. Brewis Elsdon, Treasurer; E. Liddell, Secretary; E. W. Middlemist, S.D.; G. A. Allan, acting J.D.; Jas. Boyatt, I.G.; R. Ferry, Org.; J. C. S. Liddell, S.S.; Joshua Curry, Tyler. There were also present the following members of the lodge: Bros. B. P. Ord, W.M. 1427, P.M.; F. P. Jonn, P.M.; David Sinclair, P.M.; J. E. Robson, P.P.G.S.S.; W. Baker, J. E. Wilkinson, Robert Tate, T. E. Brigham, Thos. Law, G. G. Davidson, J. T. Hedley, J. T. Ancomb, Robert Dixon. Amongst the visitors who honoured the W.M. were Bros. Jos. Cook, P.M. 481, P.P.G.S.W., Northumberland; W. Gladstone, W.M. 991; G. A. Allen, P.M. 991, P.P.G.J.W. Northumberland; George Turnbull, J.D. 991; P. W. Thompson, J.S. 991; W. White, I.G. 991; R. W. Sisson, 406; R. A. Dodds, 1624; J. B. Lowick, 1664; D. G. Anderson, Sec. 1664; A. Gray, P.M. 949; R. Willis, 949; P. O. Smith, P.M. 541; G. B. Barker, 24; E. A. Gibson, 424; W. F. Poas, Sec. 424; G. J. McKinley, 424. After the minutes of the previous meeting had been confirmed, the ballot was taken for Mr. Michael Jackson Wheatley, proposed at last regular meeting, when he was declared duly elected. Bro. Jacob Matthews was examined as to his proficiency for the Second Degree, received the test of merit, and retired for preparation. The lodge was then opened in the Second Degree, when Bro. J. Matthews was passed as a Fellow Craftsman by the W.M., the working tools being explained by the S.W.; after which the lodge was closed in the Second, and remained open in the First Degree, when Mr. M. J. Wheatley, being in attendance and properly prepared, was initiated into the mysteries of Masonry by I.P.M. M. Corbitt. The working tools of this Degree were explained by the S.W. Bro. M. Corbitt, I.P.M., announced that the surplus funds of the charity box for the past two years (after all demands for relief had been properly attended to), amounting to £10 10s., had been invested for a vote in perpetuity for the Master's chair, in the Boys' Institution. The "Hearty good wishes" of the visiting brethren were tendered to the W.M., after which the lodge was closed. The brethren adjourned to the refreshment room, when the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given. During the evening several glees and part songs were sung in an efficient manner by Bros. Sinclair, P.M.; J. G. Smith, J.W.; R. Ferry, Org.; B. P. Ord, and W. Willis, and were much appreciated by the brethren.

VALETTA.—St. John and St. Paul's Lodge (No. 349, E.C.)—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held on the 5th inst., at the Masonic Hall. Present, the W.M., Bro. Coffey, also R.W.D.G.M. Bro. Kingston; Bro. C. W. Spencer Stanhope, 10, 357, 428, Grand Chaplain, &c., and a large number of brethren and visitors. In the absence of the S. and J. Wardens, these chairs were filled by Bro. Capt. F. W. Beechey, R.M.L.I., P.D.G.J.W., as S.W.; and Bro. Capt. C. J. Blake, R.A., as J.W. The lodge having been opened in the First Degree, and the minutes confirmed, Capt. Arthur Thomas Chapman, Capt. Augustus Finch Noyes, and Staff Surgeon Matthew Trevan, were initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry. Bro. Surgeon Nicholas Leader, A.M.D., and Bro. Lieut. G. H. McLaughlin, R.A., who were initiated in this lodge on the 7th ult., were then called to the pedestal, and having passed a creditable examination in the First Degree, were entrusted, and retired to be prepared for the Second Degree. The lodge was passed to the Fellow Craft Degree, Bros. Leader and McLaughlin re-admitted, and passed to the noble degree of Fellow Craft. The lodge was lowered to the First Degree, and after some routine business had been transacted, was closed in due and ancient form. The brethren then adjourned to the refreshment room, where the usual loyal and other Masonic toasts were given and duly honoured.

An emergency meeting of the above lodge was held on Tuesday, the 20th inst., at the Masonic Hall, 27, Strada Stretta, Valetta. Present: Bro. Coffey, W.M., also R.W.D.G.M. Bro. Kingston, P.D.D.G.M. Bro. Rosenbusch, officers, and numerous brethren. Lodge having been opened in the First Degree, a ballot was taken for Mr. Thomas Steele, as a candidate for initiation into the mysteries of Freemasonry, which resulted unanimously in his favour. Lodge was then passed to the Second Degree, and Bros. Leader and McLaughlin having shown that they possessed a satisfactory knowledge of this Degree, were entrusted and retired. Lodge was raised to the Third Degree, and Bros. Leader and McLaughlin having been re-admitted, they were, under dispensation from the D.G.L. of Malta, raised by the D.G.M., Bro. Kingston, to the Sublime Degree of M.M.'s, who performed the ceremony in a most impressive manner, and to the admiration of all the brethren present. Lodge having been successively reduced to the Second and First Degrees, a vote of thanks was passed to the D.G.M. for working the Third Degree, after which lodge was closed in due form. The brethren adjourned to the refreshment room, where, after the usual loyal and Masonic toasts had been given and duly honoured, the W.M., Bro. Coffey, rose and proposed in the warmest terms, "The Health of the R.W.D.G.M., Bro. Kingston," whose admirable working of the Third Degree that evening had called forth from all present the highest encomiums. The W.M. referred to the approaching departure of the D.G.M. for England, where he will spend the summer, and said he felt sure that all the brethren present would unite with him in wishing him a happy time whilst absent, and a safe return to Malta in the autumn. This toast was received with the greatest enthusiasm, and feelingly replied to by the D.G.M.

LIVERPOOL.—Alliance Lodge (No. 667).—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, on Tuesday, the 20th inst., when the chair of K.S. was occupied by Bro. Henry Firth, W.M., supported by a goodly gathering of officers, members, and visitors. Amongst the former were Bros. J. Ellis, I.P.M.; J. E. Jackson, P.M., P.G.S. of W.; G. Willings, P.M.; J. Devaynes, P.M.; W. Balmer, P.M.; J. H. Gregory, S.W.; T. Peake, J.W.; A. Bucknall, S.D.; R. Foulds, J.D.; J. Bailey, I.G.; J. Lees, S.; R. Hudson, S.; P. Ball, Tyler; J. Barker, G. Harvey, W. Walker, H. Sefton, S. Williams, S. Crate, W. Creak, J. Beak, I. Luya, R. Stewart, Isaac Levy, W. Borks, J. Bowyer, J. Broadbent, D. Jones, T. Titterton, T. R. Williams, E. Griffiths, J. Cotton, B. Callow, R. Wright, J. Lomas, J. Jackson, Willings, W. Barry, and others. The visitors' list contained the names of Bros. J. R. Goepf, P.P.G.D.C.; J. C. Philipps, 1185 (London); J. T. Callow, P.G.T.; J. T. Alston, W.M. 203; T. Clark, P.M. 673; H. Burrows, 673; J. R. Granby, 823; D. H. Lyon, 594; J. Shaw (Canterbury, Kilwinning Lodge); J. Hughes, 1675; J. R. Jones, 1675; J. Fish, 1264; J. B. MacKenzie, S.W. 1609; C. Costigan, 1356; W. Barnett, 1675, and others. Two candidates (Messrs. W. L. Cooper and H. M. Davies) were initiated by the W.M. in an excellent manner, and the lecture in the Second Degree was afterwards given by Bro. G. S. Willings, P.M., with masterly impressiveness. Bro. J. E. Jackson, P.M., P.G.S. of W., moved that the sum of £25 be given from the funds of the lodge towards the decorations of the Liverpool Masonic Hall, but an amendment by Bro. J. Ellis, I.P.M., that £12 10s. should only be given, was carried after considerable discussion. The brethren subsequently adjourned to banquet, and a pleasant evening was spent under the presidency of Bro. H. Firth, W.M., the proceedings closing at a seasonable hour.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—Holmesdale Lodge (No. 374).—This old established lodge held their meeting at the Pump Room on Wednesday, the 21st inst., when there was a numerous attendance of the brethren. The lodge was opened in due form by the W.M., Bro. H. D. M. Williams, assisted by Bros. W. B. Bacon, I.P.M.; W. H. Hodgkin, W.M. 1678, S.W.; J. Burton, J.W.; J. F. Bates, Sec.; J. Dunkley, S.D.; R. W. Delves, D.C.; C. Graham, A.D.C.; Boorman, Org.; Cheale, I.G.; G. Strange, Tyler; Past Masters W. Delves, P.P.G.R.; Roper, J. Read, H. Sopwith, P.P.G.R., and B. S. Wilmot, P.G.S. Kent; A. Arnold, Buching, G. Farrer, C. W. Holt, T. B. Lansdell, Ranking, and others. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. T. B. Lansdell being a candidate for passing, was interrogated, entrusted, and withdrew. The lodge was opened in the Second Degree, when he was admitted, and passed to the degree of Fellow Craft, P.M. Sopwith giving the explanation of the tracing board in a faultless manner—in fact, all the officers performed their duties very efficiently, and the music interspersed throughout added greatly to the impressiveness of the ceremony. The lodge was closed to the First Degree, when Bros. Wroughton and Goodall were proposed as joining members, and the names of two candidates for Freemasonry were given in. Notice of motion was given by Bro. Hodgkin, "That our worthy Bro. Marsh should be elected an honorary member." The W.M. was elected Almoner. There being no other business on the agenda, the lodge was duly closed.

SUNDERLAND.—Williamson Lodge (No. 949).—The installation meeting of this lodge was held on Monday, 12th inst., in the lodge room, under St. Stephen's (Presbyterian) Church, Monkwearmouth. There was a large attendance of the lodge, and the other lodges in the town and from a distance. The lodge was opened at three o'clock, Bro. Nicholas Taylor, the retiring W.M., presiding. After two candidates had been initiated, the installation was then proceeded with by Bro. R. Shadforth, P.M. Bro.

John Eggleston, S.W., the W.M. elect, was presented by Bro. N. Taylor, and the ceremony was ably and efficiently performed by the Installing Master. The W.M. appointed the following brethren as his officers for the ensuing year: Bros. N. Taylor, I.P.M.; A. T. Munro, S.W.; George Porteous, J.W.; Chas. Cobham, S.D.; B. Swain, J.D.; J. G. Kirtley, I.G.; R. Shadforth, P.M., Treasurer; John Barlow, Secretary; R. Willis, Organist; J. Thompson, Tyler; G. B. Hall, P.M., D. of C.; J. Coates and John Grubb, Stewards; Chas. Bell and George Denton, Auditors. The brethren afterwards dined at the Royal Hotel, Bro. Titman's, who in his usual and efficient way provided a most excellent dinner. The evening was spent in a pleasant and harmonious manner; the usual loyal and Masonic toasts being proposed and responded to by the brethren. Several brethren contributed to the harmony of the evening by singing some excellent songs.

STOCKPORT.—Egerton Lodge (No. 1030).—The annual festival of St. John in connection with this lodge was celebrated on Monday, the 19th inst., at the George Hotel, when Bro. Captain F. B. Staples (Chief Constable of the borough) was duly installed as Worshipful Master for the ensuing year, in the presence of a numerous and distinguished assembly of the Craft. His Worship the Mayor (Bro. J. L. Vaughan), who is a Past Master of the Egerton Lodge, was present, together with many other members of the lodge, including Bros. G. A. Fernley, P.M., P.P.G.W. (Cheshire); J. A. Elliott, P.M., P.P.G.R. (East Lancashire); E. Hardon, P.M., P.P.G.D. (East Lancashire); W. H. Vaughan, W.M.; J. W. Abbott, P.M.; T. Meadows, P.M.; W. Bale, P.M.; A. E. Ferns, E. S. Newton, G. L. Vaughan, A. Wilkinson, A. Pemberton, S. Kershaw, G. H. Thorniley, W. Hope, G. Floyd, jun., J. B. Hammond, G. H. Norris, and others. The duties of Installing Master were very ably discharged by Bro. H. Finch, P.M., St. John's Lodge, 104, who also invested the officers appointed by the W.M., viz.: Bros. W. H. Vaughan, I.P.M.; A. E. Ferns, S.W.; G. L. Vaughan, J.W.; J. B. Hammond, Treas.; G. H. Norris, Sec.; O. Wilkinson, S.D.; A. Pemberton, J.D.; J. W. Abbott, P.M., D. of C.; W. Hope, Org.; S. Kershaw, I.G.; Jos. Meadows, Lodge 322, Tyler. At the conclusion of the lodge business the brethren adjourned to banquet, and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly proposed and honoured, that of the Worshipful Master, proposed by Bro. Captain Howard, being received with great enthusiasm. The visitors present included Bros. E. B. Harding, P.M. 1496, P.P.G.D. (West Lancashire); W. H. Bibby, P.M. 993; C. H. Hinde, P.M. 1565, Prov. G.R. (Cheshire); H. Finch, P.M. 104; J. W. P. Salmon, P.M. 163, P.P.G.D.C. (East Lancashire); W. Parker, W.M. 993; W. Brandon, W.M. 1219; H. Statham, P.M. 1253; T. Nash, 1253; W. Gouldthorpe, 999; J. C. Chetham, P.M. 322, P.P.G.S.B. (Cheshire); S. W. Wilkinson, P.M. 322, P.P.G.D. (Cheshire); and others. In the course of the lodge business Bro. Staples, on behalf of the lodge, presented the retiring W.M. (Bro. W. H. Vaughan) with a handsome gold Past Master's jewel, in recognition of the services he had rendered to the lodge.

HAMPTON.—Lebanon Lodge (No. 1326).—The season was commenced at the Red Lion Hotel, on Saturday, the 17th inst., after eight months' rest. Unfortunately the W.M., Bro. J. C. Woodrow, was too ill to be present. Bro. J. B. Shackleton, P.M. 1524, S.D., opened the lodge. The minutes of the meeting held in August were read and unanimously confirmed. Ballots, taken separately, were unanimous in favour of the admission of Messrs. H. J. Buckley, W. R. Smith, D. Brown, and J. Cavell. Bro. J. B. Shackleton, in splendid style, first raised Bro. J. S. Thompson, and afterwards Bro. A. J. Rogers. His manner was both most impressive and solemn. Bro. W. Hammond, P.P.G.D. Middx., P.M., having arrived, and being a P.M. of the lodge, he took the chair. In his usual superior manner he initiated Messrs. Wickens, Henry James Buckley, William Robert Smith, David Brown, and James Cavell; as each candidate was introduced separately it made the ceremony all the more impressive. Bro. W. Stanton gave a notice of motion for lodge funds to be spent in purchasing a Life Governorship of the Girls' School. Bro. Edwin Gilbert, P.M., with his usual liberality consented again to represent this lodge as its Steward for the Boys' School at the forthcoming festival. Two joining members were proposed, also several gentlemen for initiation. Business ended, the lodge was closed, and adjourned to meet on Saturday, June 21st, at half-past three o'clock. There were present Bros. J. Hammond, P.G. Steward Middx., P.M.; J. W. Frederick Walters, P.P.G.D. Middx., P.M., Secretary; J. W. Baldwin, P.A.G.P. Middx., P.M., J.D.; H. Gloster, W.M. 1531, I.G.; D. Steinhauer, D.C.; J. Laurence, C.S.; H. Potter, W.S.; J. M. Jackson, J. Thompson, C. Lucop, F. Knight, S. Page, G. J. Whitcombe, R. R. Millington, R. Pooley, A. Allen, P. Brown, and others. The visitors were Bros. W. C. Davey, 1512, and H. C. Murphy, 1512. Banquet followed.

HALLIFORD.—Acacia Lodge (No. 1309).—The election meeting of this lodge was held at the Ship Hotel, on the 27th inst. The lodge was opened by Bro. C. G. C. Stahr, W.M., P.M. 871. In an admirable manner Bro. C. G. Rushworth, P.P.G.R. Middx., P.M., raised Bro. Woods. The ballots were unanimous in favour of Bros. R. P. Tebb, S.W., as W.M.; F. Walters, P.P.G.D. Middx., P.M., Treas., as Treasurer. Auditors were elected. Bro. Taylor, P.M., 11, unanimously elected a joining member. The usual five guinea Past Master's jewel was unanimously voted to Bro. C. G. C. Stahr, W.M., from the lodge funds. Bros. C. Horsley, P.P.G.R. Middx., P.M.; J. G. George, P.M.; and many others present. Several visitors attended. The lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to banquet.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—Percy Lodge (No. 1427).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held on the 20th inst., under the Mastership of W. Bro. M. B. P. Ord, P.G.O., and there were also present Bros. John C. Mowbray, I.P.M.; P.P.G.S. Works, N.; W. S. Lishman, S.W.; J. Braithwaite, J.W.; B. J. Thompson, Treas., P.G. Sec. Northumberland; C. A. Bushell, Sec.; G. E. Macarthy, S.D.; W. Magall, J.D.; R. Ferry, Org.; Henry Dixon, I.G.; G. S. Sims, Tyler; J. Maclarin, S.S.; A. Farma, J.S. Members: J. Wood, S.W. 48; J. E. Reid, W. G. Burnip, R. Braithwaite, H. Caspersen, J. J. Sayer, W. Coulson, J. T. Naylor, W. Gibson, R. L. Armstrong, P.M.; W. A. Stewart, W. Smith, W. Whyte, R. Armstrong, H. Steel, W. E. Burn. Visitors: Bros. E. D. Davies, P.M. 685, P.G.D.C.; J. Cook, P.M. 481, P.P.G.S.W.; N. Mend, P.M. 541, P.P.G.S.D.; Geo. J. Dean, I.P.M. 541, P.G.A. D.C.; T. T. Stafford, J.S. 481; G. B. Barker, 24; E. W. Middemast, S.D. 48; J. Page, W.M. 406; R. Whitfield, W.M. 48; W. Cooper, W.M. 1342; R. Wightman, Sec. 541; E. Liddell, Sec. 48; J. Jensen, P.M. 48; R. G. Salmon, S.W. 406. Bro. W. Burridge was passed to the Second Degree, and Bro. W. E. Burn raised to the Sublime Degree of a M.M. This being the night for the election of W.M., Bro. W. S. Lishman, S.W., was balloted for, and declared unanimously elected. Bro. B. J. Thompson was also unanimously elected Treasurer, and Bro. G. S. Sims Tyler for the ensuing year. The brethren then adjourned to the refreshment room, and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and a most enjoyable evening was spent, it being enlivened by some good songs and recitations. The W.M. proposed "The Health of the Visitors," and spoke of the pleasure it gave him to see such a number of distinguished brethren amongst them, and he would call on the youngest W.M. in the room to respond, Bro. Page, W.M. 406. Bro. Page returned, for the visitors and himself, his sincere thanks for the very hospitable reception they had received, and spoke of the great pleasure they always derived in visiting the Percy Lodge. The W.M. proposed "The Health of the W.M. elect, Bro. W. S. Lishman," and of the great pleasure it gave him to see so worthy a brother unanimously elected W.M., and hoped he would have a happy and prosperous year. Bro. Lishman responded, and thanked the W.M. and the brethren for the toast, which was so heartily given and responded to; he should do all in his power to still keep the same love and harmony that had hitherto existed in the lodge. Several other toasts were given and responded to, when the Tyler's toast brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

HOUNSLOW.—Royal Hanover Lodge (No. 1777).—A meeting of this lodge was held in the Town Hall, on Saturday last, when there were present Bros. H. A. Dubois, P.P.S.G.D., P.M., P.Z., W.M.; H. Lovegrove, S.W.; G. Clark, jun., J.W.; W. Ramsay, Hon. I.P.M.; Horace Marshall (E.C.), Treasurer; H. Clark, S.D.; C. C. Cruikshanks, J.D.; F. J. Pecks, D.C.; G. J. Dunkley, Organist; J. Daly, Tyler; W. Heelis, C. J. Axford, T. W. G. Wood, and others; with visitors Bros. M. Larham, P.M.; E. W. Dubois, and George Dawson. After the reading of the minutes the lodge was opened in the Second Degree, when Bros. W. S. Dunkley and W. Villars, having been examined, retired, and the lodge having been opened in the Third Degree, they were admitted and raised to the Sublime Degree, the full ceremony being given. The lodge was then closed down, and Bros. Voice and Gritten were passed to the Second Degree. The ballot was then taken for Mr. C. A. White, R.N.M., and as the candidates balloted for at a previous meeting were not in attendance, Mr. White was duly initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry. Bro. H. Lovegrove, S.W., announced that the bye-laws had been approved by the R.W. Prov. Grand Master, and printed, the copies being ready for distribution. After the discussion of some routine business, several propositions were made, and the lodge was closed in due form. The brethren partook of refreshment at the Red Lion Hotel, after which the usual toasts were honoured, and the party returned to town by an early train.

INSTRUCTION.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT LODGE (No. 1524).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held at the Havelock Tavern, Albion-road, Dalston, on Wednesday, the 28th inst. Present: Bros. J. Dignam, W.M.; McDowell, S.W.; A. R. Olley, J.W.; Maples, J.D.; W. Ferrar, I.G.; G. Ferrar, Treas.; W. Fieldwick, Prepr.; J. Williams, Sec.; and several other brethren. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Williams being the candidate. Bro. J. Lorkin, assisted by the brethren, worked the First, Second, and Third Sections of the Lecture. Bro. Fieldwick proposed, and Bro. Olley seconded, that Bro. McDowell be W.M. for the ensuing Wednesday—carried unanimously. Nothing further offering, the lodge was closed in ancient form.

CAVEAC CHAPTER (No. 176).—The convocation of this chapter was held at the Albion Tavern, on Saturday, the 24th inst., Comps. W. M. Goss, M.E.Z.; C. Browne, H.; J. B. Surrell, P.Z., as J.; P. A. Nairne, P.Z.; C. T. Dorey, P.Z.; F. Walters, P.P.G.A.S. Middx., P.Z., Treasurer, opened the chapter. The resignation of Comp. A. Williams, J. elect, C.E., was accepted with regret. Ballot for J. was declared to be for Comp. J. B. Sorrell, jun., S.E., who was duly installed by Comp. P. A. Nairne in a faultless style. Ballots were unanimous in favour of the admission of Bros. J. W. Leaske, 176, and Harry Leach, 176, as candidates for exaltation; Bro. Harry Leach being present was duly advanced, the ceremony as usual, being exceedingly well done, the M.E.Z. in particular and all officers being perfect. The chapter was closed and adjourned to meet on Saturday, September 27th. Banquet served. Present, Comps. A. Middlemass, S.N.; S. Pounceby, as P.S.; H. Boyson, 2nd A.S.; H. C. Soper, J. Soper, J. H. Dobson, Wancell. Visitor, [Comp. Buryard, 22.

ST. DUNSTAN'S CHAPTER (No. 1589).—The first regular meeting after the consecration of the above chapter was held at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street, on Wednesday last. The three chief chairs were occupied by Ex. Comps. Walter Wellsman, M.E.Z.; H. A. Dalwood, H.; and J. H. Dodson, J. On the admission of the members, the chapter was opened with Comp. A. Tisley, E.; F. L. Knyvett, N.; and T. C. Walls, P. Soj. The ballot was then taken for Bros. William Henry Clemmow, Frederick Farrington, William Ebenezer Farrington, Robt. Henry Clemmow, John William Beningfield, John Bamber, Arthur Nixon Clemow, and Benjamin Humphry, which was unanimous in their favour, and those in attendance were duly exalted. Comps. William Lake, Henry Turner, William Bristo, and Thomas Richard Richnell were also unanimously elected as joining members. The ceremony of exaltation was very ably performed by the three Principals, assisted by Comp. Stacey and Knyvett, who gave the Symbolic and Mystical Lectures most expressively.

LIVERPOOL.—Mariners Chapter (No. 249).—The installation meeting of the members of this chapter was held on Thursday, the 15th inst., at the Masonic Hall, 22, Hope-street. The proceedings commenced at six o'clock in the evening. Comp. J. E. Jackson, Z., was in his position, with Comp. Alexander Cotter as J.; and there were also present Comps. Peter B. Gee, P.Z.; J. R. Goepel, P.Z.; Henry Firth, S.E.; John Ellis, P.S.; Joseph Wood, Treasurer; and Wm. H. Ball, Janitor. The members were Comps. A. C. Morrison, John Hayes, H. 594; Richard Edwards, C. J. Jones, T. J. Luya, Thomas Hunt, John Tickle, Joseph Croxton, James Bailey, J. S. Warden, A. Bucknall, Peter Robbi, James Ashworth. The visitors included Comps. Joseph Skeaf, P.Z. 216; Hugh Williams, P.Z. 580, 1094, and P.P.G.S.B.; H. Burrows, H. 673; Wm. Thomas May, P.Z. 673, 220; E. Fairbrother, Royal Burmah Chapter, 832, India; Thos. Clark, P.Z. 673, and others. The minutes of the previous regular meeting were read and confirmed. When the companions retired Comp. Peter B. Gee proceeded to instal Comps. J. E. Jackson, as Z. (for the second year); Alexander Cotter, as H.; and John Ellis, as J. The following officers were afterwards invested: Comps. A. C. Morrison, as S.E. (for Comp. Thos. M. Creak); John Hayes, S.N.; Henry Firth, P.S.; Joseph Wood, Treasurer (for the ninth time); W. H. Ball was elected and invested Janitor. The Treasurer's balance-sheet was read and passed. Comp. J. R. Goepel, P.Z., proposed a cordial vote of thanks to Comp. Joseph Wood, Honorary Treasurer (Freemason), for the really admirable and satisfactory way in which he had fulfilled the duties of his important office during the long period of eight years. This motion was seconded and carried nem. con., and it was also resolved that the same should be recorded on the minutes. Comp. Wood in a few well-chosen and feeling words thanked the companions for their kind expressions of appreciation, and assured them that nothing would be wanting on his part to fulfil his duties efficiently, so as to merit their continued approbation. One brother was proposed for exaltation, and after some further formal business the business portion of the chapter proceedings closed. The company of companions then retired to banquet (provided by Bro. Chaplin, the House Steward, in capital style), under the presidency of the three Chiefs. A most harmonious and agreeable evening was spent, the companions separating at an early hour.

SOUTHEND.—Priory Chapter (No. 1000).—The annual installation meeting of this chapter took place at the Middleton Hotel, on Wednesday, the 21st inst. There were present Comps. J. A. Wardell, M.E.Z.; J. Willing, jun., H.; Rev. H. J. Hatch, J.; J. C. Johnstone, P.Z. 20 (I.C.), Scribe E.; W. Pissey, Scribe N.; S. J. Weston, Treas.; E. Judd, Prin. Soj.; J. R. Meinmann, 1st Asst. Soj.; A. Lucking, I.P.Z.; Rev. S. R. Wigram, P.Z., P.G. 1st Asst. Soj.; J. Terry, P.Z., P.G.D.C. Herts.; E. E. Phillips, P.Z.; H. Luken, G. Jones, Rev. — Heaton. Visitor: Comp. Hudson, Scribe E. 1507. There were three candidates for exaltation, viz., Bros. C. Palmer, H. Beecher, and A. Martin, 1000, and being in attendance they were duly exalted by the M.E.Z., Comps. H. and J. giving the lectures of their respective chairs, and Comp. A. Lucking, P.Z., the mystical lecture. Comp. J. Terry then proceeded to the installation of the Principals for the ensuing year, viz., Comps. J. Willing, jun., Z.; Rev. H. J. Hatch, H.; W. Pissey, J. The other officers invested were Comps. J. C. Johnstone, P.Z. (re-invested for the fifth time), Scribe E.; E. Judd, Scribe N.; A. Lucking, P.Z., Treas.; J. R. Heinmann, Prin. Soj.; G. Jones, 1st Asst. Soj.; Rev. — Heaton, 2nd Asst. Soj.; A. Martin, Janitor. A cordial vote of thanks was accorded to Comp. J. Terry, P.Z., for his able services and his kindness in attending to instal the Principals, also Comp. Weston received a hearty vote of thanks for his services as Treasurer from the foundation of the chapter. The companions afterwards adjourned to a banquet, presided over by the M.E.Z. in his well-known, able, and efficient manner. A handsome P.Z.'s jewel was presented to Comp. J. A. Wardell, I.P.Z., as a token of the esteem and regard in which he is held by the companions. The Janitor's toast brought a most enjoyable evening's proceedings to a close.

HAMPTON.—Era Chapter (No. 1433).—A convocation of this provincial chapter was held at the Island Hotel, on the 10th inst. Among the officers present were Comps. Thielley, P.P.G.D.C. of Middlesex, M.E.Z.; W. Hammond, P.P.G.A.S. of Middlesex, acting H.; Baldwin, acting J.; T. C. Walls, P.G.O. of Middlesex, S.N.; Faulkner, P.S.; T. O. Ockenden, 2nd Asst. S.; Harrison, acting Janitor. Comp. Haslett, J. elect of the Prudent Brethren, was a visitor. The minutes of the previous convocation having been read and confirmed, the ballot was taken upon behalf of Comp. Haslett, as a joining member, and declared to be unanimous. The election of officers then took place, with the following result:—Comps. F. Walters, M.E.Z.; W. Hammond, H.; Walls, J.; Thielley, Treas.; Baldwin, S.E.; Faulkner, S.N.; Ockenden, P.S.; Gilbert, Janitor. The chapter then unanimously voted the sum of five guineas towards the purchase of a Past Principal's jewel, for presentation to Comp. Thielley. The bye-laws having been read and discussed, a notice of motion was given by Comp. Walls, for consideration at the next meeting, that the chapter should meet in future four times a year, and also that, to suit the convenience of several of the companions, the meetings of the chapter should take place on the third Saturday in lieu of the second. The chapter was then closed, and the companions partook of a collation. The only toasts given were "The Queen and Royal Arch Masonry" and "The M.E.Z." The installation of Comp. Frederick Walters, P.P.G.A.S. of Middlesex, as M.E.Z., will take place on the second Saturday in July next.

Mark Masonry.

PRINCE LEOPOLD LODGE (No. 238).—The first regular meeting of this lodge since its consecration was held at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street, on Tuesday, the 20th inst. Among the officers present were Bros. W. Wigginton, P.G.S. of Works, P.M. 181, &c., W.M.; A. Tisley, Secretary 211, J.W.; Charles Horsley, P.M. 1, Treasurer and M.O.; Dodson, S.D. The minutes of the consecration and installation meeting having been read and confirmed, the ballot was taken as an honorary member upon behalf of Bro. Collins, Private Secretary to Bro. H.R.H. Prince Leopold, and having been declared unanimous, the ballot was then taken for the advancement of Bro. F. H. Clemow, J.W., Savoy, which proving also to be unanimous, that brother was duly advanced to the Degree of a M.M.M., the ceremony being ably performed. The question of the alteration of the advancement fees having been discussed, was adjourned until the next meeting in June. The lodge was shortly afterwards closed, and the members partook of a collation.

GIBRALTAR.—Inhabitants Lodge (No. 43, E.C.).—At the regular meeting, held at Armstrong's Buildings, South, on the 13th inst., the business was to advance Bros. G. Ogg and U. Padmore, 153, E.C., which was performed by the W.M., Bro. Cunningham, in an earnest manner; to ballot for Bro. J. C. Phillips, 653, as a joining member (this proved unanimous); to instal the W.M. elect, Bro. E. J. Barker, P.J.W. The ceremony was performed by the outgoing W.M. in a style which did not detract from his well known abilities in Masonry. The W.M. then invested his officers for the ensuing year, as follows: Bros. E. Bacon, S.W.; J. King, J.W.; J. Button, M.O.; J. C. Phillips, S.O.; R. McGrath, J.O.; H. Clippson, R.M.; E. Bacon, Treas.; B. White, Sec.; H. Abrams, Org.; W. Allen, S.D.; P. Lyons, J.D.; W. Walton, I.G.; and M. Ghio, Tyler. The I.P.M. drew attention to the death of the late Bro. Olphert, who had, after a short and painful illness, been taken away by T.G.A.O.T.U., leaving a wife and six children to deplore his loss, and though not a member of this lodge, it was unanimously decided to transmit a letter of condolence to his widow and family, with a small sum of money. The S.W. proposed in a neat speech a vote of thanks to the I.P.M. for the able manner he had performed the installation ceremony; this was seconded by the M.O., and carried unanimously. In returning thanks, the I.P.M. said it had always afforded him great pleasure to work for Masonry, and this lodge in particular, especially when his efforts were backed up by his indefatigable Secretary. The S.D. did, in an eloquent speech, supplement the remarks of the S.W., attributing the great success of the year to the assiduity and energy of the late W.M., and so ably helped by the brilliant intellect and untiring abilities of his Secretary; he, therefore, proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the late W.M. and his Secretary, seconded by the W.M., who said he could fully endorse every word spoken by the S.D. Carried nem. dis. The I.P.M. proposed a cordial vote of thanks to the installing Officers, Bros. Franceri, P.M., and Holliday, W.M. of 325, I.C., who had readily come forward now, and always showed a willingness to assist all in their power—seconded by the W.M., and carried nem. con. Bro. Franceri responded in a flowery speech, and said he could answer for Bro. Holliday and himself; they were only too pleased to come and assist at any time, more particularly an installation ceremony. The loving cup having traversed the lodge, the latter was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquetting hall, where a recherché supper had been laid out under the auspices of the W.M. Ample justice having been done thereto, the following toasts were given in speeches, which would occupy too much space to detail, but suffice it to say, were replete with attestations of good feeling and a thorough dependence upon the members to assist in the great and glorious undertaking:—"Queen and the Craft," "G.M. and G.L.," by the W.M.; "The Newly-Advanced Brethren," by the I.P.M.; "Visiting Brethren" and "Joining Brother," by the W.M.; "The W.M.," by the I.P.M.; "Incoming Officers," by the I.P.M.; "Outgoing Officers," by the W.M. No. 3 was responded to by Bro. Ogg and Padmore; No. 4 by Bros. Hollday and Ross; No. 5 by Bro. Phillips; No. 6 by the W.M.; No. 7 by Bro. Bacon; No. 8 by the L.P.M. All replies were rendered in very felicitous and happy terms. The enjoyable evening was brought to a close at a late hour by the P.J.W. being called on for the Tyler's toast.

HAYWARD'S HEATH.—Southdown Lodge (No. 164).—This lodge commenced its summer meetings on Friday, the 23rd inst., at the Station Hotel, presided over by Bro. H. G. Martin, W.M., P.G.M.S.B.; Bro. J. Newman, S.W.; and Bro. C. Golding, J.W.; and there were also present Bros. Lord A. W. Hill, P.M., Prov. G.M.S.W., Prov. G.M. Devon; J. Pearson, P.M., &c.; W. Hudson, P.M., Past G.M.A.D. of C., &c.; W. T. Clarke, P.G.M. Sec., &c.; Rev. G. Rose Johnson, Chap., P.G.M. Chap. Hants; T. Chandler, M.O.; T. Cable, J.O.; W. Newsome, I.G. Visitors: Bros. T. J. Pulley, P.M., &c. (Reading); Bayliss, A. Burrows, R. Paige, and others. When the brethren were assembled, and the officers had taken their respective positions, Bro. Lord A. W. Hill, P.M., &c., in well-chosen remarks, presented to the lodge three handsomely carved oak chairs and pedestals, with beautiful silver mountings, for the three principal officers; this magnificent gift was supplemented by the kindness of generous Bro. Capt. J. Braithwaite, P.M., P.P.G.M.S.W., &c., giving three handsome Overseer's pedestals. Bro. Braithwaite was, unfortunately, absent, in consequence of the death of an aunt, so his present was, in his name, presented by Bro. Lord A. W. Hill. The W.M. very suitably acknowledged the gifts, and moved a vote of thanks, seconded by Bro. Rev. G. Rose Johnson, to the generous donors. The lodge was opened, and after the reading of minutes, communications, &c., a ballot was taken for Bro. W. Saxby, Royal York, 315, and he was unanimously elected a member of the lodge. Bro. Saxby, being in attendance, was duly advanced according to ancient usage. A ballot was next taken for W.M., and Bro. C. J. Smith, P.P.G.M.D. of C., P.M. 168, &c., was unanimously elected. A ballot was taken for Treasurer, resulting in Bro. F. Millard being unanimously re-elected. Bro. T. Hughes was also re-elected Tyler. A communication was introduced and read by the W.M. from the W.M. of the East Sussex Lodge, No. 166, suggesting certain proceedings as to the appointment of P.G.M.M., the province at the present time being in charge, by command of the M.W.G.M.M., of the G.M. Reg., and they were unanimously rejected. All business being ended, the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to a sumptuous spread, consisting chiefly of real Southdown, Bro. Golding catering in his usual faultless style.

TUNIS.—Kingston Lodge (No. 222).—Twelve months have now elapsed since the English Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons granted its warrant for the consecration of a Mark Master's lodge upon the site of ancient Carthage. The English Mark brethren have no cause to regret having thus extended their "protection" to Mark brethren on the far distant North African coast, for the Kingston Mark Lodge has already developed itself in a way which redounds alike to the credit of its most able and enthusiastic Master, Bro. A. M. Broadley (D. District Grand Master in the Craft), and of his equally efficient officers. No less than forty-three brethren, resident in Tunis, have been advanced to the Mark Degree during the past twelve months, and at the present moment the number of members is forty-eight. The foundation of this lodge is a subject of peculiar interest to Freemasons in every part of the world, for the site of the Kingston Mark Lodge is that upon which ancient Carthage stood, the mighty Carthage! said to have been founded B.C. 852, and which flourished during a period of almost uninterrupted prosperity, covering no less than seven hundred years. Carthage was founded by those ancient Phœnician builders, who were compatriots of our Grand Master, H.A., and hewn ashlar and keystones, sculptured with the chief builder's "mark," are constantly being discovered. As if to perpetuate the symbols of our Order, the "marks" and signs, with which the ancient builders distinguished their work were adopted and repeated by the Mahomedan conquerors, who have subsequently pillaged and devastated this once thickly populated and highly cultivated land. The modern Regency of Tunis (the Zeugitana of the Romans), indeed, offers a vast field for archaeological and Masonic research, and members of the Craft should take the first opportunity which may present itself for visiting the neighbourhood of Tunis. A Mark brother will be sure of a most fraternal welcome from his brethren in Tunis, and will find himself amongst associations and scenes which cannot but repay him for his visit. Fragmentary indeed are now the actual ruins which mark the site of the ancient city, for in very fact "Deleta est Carthago;" but the magnificent site (so well chosen), the beautiful bay, the cisterns, the foundations of the Temple of Æsculapius, the few vestiges which still remain of the Palace of Dido (from which the beautiful Queen is said to have watched the departure of Æneas), are all pregnant with surpassing interest. Pre-historic monuments abound; Phœnician, Punic, and Arabic inscriptions; fragments of triumphal arches; beautiful columns of marble, and of porphyry and granite, red and black, are often met with, upon which the Masons' marks are distinctly visible; whilst corner stones, cut with triangular lewis holes, and keystones, sculptured with figures in correct Masonic positions (more especially in the Second Degree), are not unfrequently found. Small stones have also been unearthed engraved with Masonic emblems. Bro. Broadley (Worshipful Mark Master) himself possesses a blood stone, now set in a ring, oval in shape, and about the size of a shilling, on which is engraved one of our most mystic words, repeated in every possible variety of combination; it is probably a relic of the Gnostic sect, and is, so far as its owner knows, unique. But to return to our report of the proceedings of the Kingston Mark Lodge.

An emergency meeting was held on the 1st of May, at which Bro. A. M. Broadley, W.M.M., and D.D.G.M. (Craft), presided. He was most ably supported by his S.W., Bro. G. Pentecost; his J.W., Bro. Dr. Perini; his Sec., Bro. Professor Souiller; his M.O., Bro. Dr. Cassanello; and by Bros. Paleologo, S.O.; J. H. Stevens (acting British Consul general), J.O.; M. Le Gallais, S.D.; Barsotti, J.D.; Enriquez, I.G.; and Eymon, Tyler. Four candidates presented themselves for advancement, viz., Bro. Jessel, of Lodge 1717; Bro. Henry Wilson, of the Minerva Lodge, 250, Hull; and Bros. Madonia and Ben Zaineb, of the Ancient Carthage Lodge, 1717, Tunis. The ceremony was most impressively performed, each part having been given by the learned Worshipful Master in the English, the Arabic, the French, and the Italian languages, for it so happened that the four candidates were of four different nationalities, and neither of the four understood any other language but his own mother tongue. After the ceremony a petition to the M.W.G.M.M., Rt. Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, was adopted, asking that Malta and Tunis may be constituted a Provincial Grand Mark Lodge. This petition was unanimously adopted, and a similar petition was read which had been previously adopted and unanimously signed by the members of the Keystone Lodge of Mark Master Masons of Malta, No. 107, on the roll of English Grand Mark Lodge. The Worshipful Mark Master, Bro. Broadley, afterwards explained for the information of his Mark brethren the educational scheme, and he urged them to contribute to its support. The lodge was then closed in solemn form, and adjourned until the regular meeting of the 10th of May. On the occasion of the regular lodge (10th of May) there was a large attendance of officers and members, and amongst the visitors was Bro. Henry Ecroyd, of the Britannia Mark Lodge, Sheffield (No. 53), a Past Master of the Royal Brunswick Lodge, No. 296. The minutes of the emergency lodge having been read and confirmed, the chief business of the evening was introduced, viz., the election of a Worshipful Mark Master for the ensuing year. Bro. George Pentecost, S.W., and Bro. Dr. Perini, J.W., were proposed by the Worshipful Master as eligible for election, but as neither had passed the chair of a Craft lodge, a special dispensation was requisite—he had pleasure in stating that such dispensation had already been granted by the English Grand Lodge in favour of Bro. George Pentecost, whom he, therefore, nominated for the chair. This was very warmly seconded by Bro. Dr. Perini, the J.W., and unanimously voted. Bro. Pentecost returned thanks for the honour which his Mark brethren had done him, and promised to use every endeavour to maintain the lodge in the very high state of efficiency into which their beloved Bro. Broadley had brought it. The business of the evening being ended, the Worshipful Master alluded to the pleasure he felt in welcoming amongst them so distinguished a brother Mason as Bro. Henry Ecroyd (P.M. in the Craft). He begged Bro. Ecroyd to convey to the Britannia Mark brethren in Sheffield the "Hearty good wishes" of the Kingston Lodge. Bro. Ecroyd, in returning thanks, expressed the great pleasure it had given him to visit the Tunis brethren, and witness the admirable working of their Worshipful Mark Master. He hoped to see the Kingston Lodge take a most prominent position upon the muster roll of Grand Mark Lodge, and further added that he was glad that the Mark brethren of Malta and Tunis had petitioned for the constitution of a Provincial Grand Mark Lodge, expressing a hope that it will be duly granted. There could not of course be any division of opinion, said Bro. Ecroyd, amongst those present as to who should be entrusted with the Provincial Grand Mastership, for Bro. Broadley alone had earned such a distinction by his successful revival of Freemasonry in Tunis. He felt sure that the P.G.M.L., should it be granted, will prove as great a success as the other English Masonic bodies have already proved to be. A collection for the Charities having been made, the Mark lodge was closed in solemn form, the installation of Bro. Senior Warden Pentecost having been fixed for Saturday, the 31st of May.

READING.—Leopold Lodge (No. 235).—The regular meeting of this flourishing lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Reading, on Monday, the 26th inst. There were present Bros. E. Margrett, W.M.; T. J. Pulley, P.M. and Sec.; Chas. Stephens, S.W. and Treas.; A. Welch, J.W.; G. Westall, M.O.; H. Brett, as S.O.; W. Homann, as J.O.; Rev. C. R. Honey, Chap.; J. M. Dormer, S.D.; S. Bradley, J.D.; H. Ayres, I.G.; W. Hickie, Org.; W. Hemmings, Tyler; C. Park, Glasspool, Moffatt, Hinckley, Long, and others. Visitors: Bros. F. W. Ausell, 225 (W.M. designate of the newly-warranted Alfred Lodge, 247); and W. G. Bayliss, D.C. Royal Sussex, 75. The minutes of the last regular lodge having been read, confirmed, and signed, Bro. C. G. Butler, of the Craft Lodge of Union, 414, was advanced to the Honourable Degree of M.M.M. by the W.M., the work being accomplished in the most able manner, the whole of the officers being particularly careful in rendering assistance to the W.M., full musical service lending additional interest to the ceremony. The bye-laws, as amended, were confirmed and passed. A ballot being taken for the advancement of a brother, and declared favourable, the W.M. rose, and proposed a resolution—"That it is desirable, in the interests of Mark Masonry, that a Provincial Grand Mark Lodge should be constituted for the counties of Berks and Oxon." This was seconded by the S.W., and carried with the utmost unanimity. The name of a Royal and distinguished brother being suggested as Provincial Grand Master, and hopes being expressed that H.R.H. would honour the province by accepting the office, a copy of the resolution was ordered to be forwarded to the Grand Secretary for the consideration of the M.W.G.M.M. It was announced that similar steps for the formation of the province are being taken by the other Mark lodges in the two counties. The sum of five guineas was then voted to the list of the W.M., who will represent the lodge at the next festival of the Mark Benevolent Fund. Five pounds were also refunded to the founders of the lodge, and Bro. Moffatt was invested as Steward. The lodge was then closed in ancient form, and the brethren adjourned for refreshment to Bro. Bailey's, at the Ship Hotel.

COCKERMOUTH.—Dykes Conclave (No. 36).—The quarterly assembly of this conclave was held on Tuesday afternoon, the 20th inst., in the Masonic Hall. The attendance was very limited, including Em. Sir Knights T. Mandie, M.P.S.; R. Bailey, V.E.; R. Robinson, P.S.; W. F. Lamonby, P.S. (Freemason); Sir Knight W. H. Lewthwaite, Treas. and Org.; J. Gardiner, Rec.; J. Quay, as S.G.; T. Bird, as J.G.; H. Peacock, H.; and J. Hewson, Sentinel. The minutes having been read and confirmed, a ballot was taken for Bro. P. de E. Collin, P.M. Lodge of Perseverance, No. 371, Maryport, P.P.G.D.C., and he was unanimously accepted. The candidate was then introduced, and regularly installed and proclaimed a Knight of the Order by the M.P.S., assisted by Em. Sir Knight R. Robinson, P.S., and Em. Sir Knight W. F. Lamonby, P.S., as Prefect, who also delivered the historical oration. The election of officers for the ensuing year next took place, when Em. Sir Knight R. Bailey, V.E., was unanimously voted to the throne of M.P.S.; and Sir Knight J. Gardiner, Rec., to the stall of V.E.; whilst Sir Knight W. H. Lewthwaite was, for the third time, unanimously elected Treasurer. On the proposition of Em. Sir Knight W. F. Lamonby, seconded by Em. Sir Knight R. Robinson, the sum of two guineas was voted from the funds in aid of the orphan children of a P.S. of the conclave, who recently died under very distressing circumstances, after a long illness, his wife, also, having pre-deceased him only three days. Nothing further remaining to be done, the conclave was closed in F.U.Z., and the Sir Knights adjourned to the Rampant Bull refectory for refreshment.

Royal and Select Masters.

A meeting of the members of the Grand Master's Council of this Order was held on Thursday, the 8th inst., at the Masonic Rooms, Red Lion-square. There were present amongst others Bros. T. C. Walls, R.J.D.M.; T. Poore, as P.C. of W.; D. M. Dewar, P.J.A.G.R., as C. of the G.; A. Williams, Dr. F. W. Ramsey, F. Hedges, Dr. C. T. Pearce, T. Cubitt, S. Rosenthal, R. Roy, George Kenning, E. B. Florence. The minutes of the previous Grand Master's Council having been read and confirmed, Bro. R. P. Spice and Bro. the Rev. C. A. Solbé, Chaplain of the Scots Guards, were duly admitted, and received into the degree of M.E.R.S. and S.E.M., the ceremonies being performed and the histories delivered by Bro. Walls, ably assisted by Bros. Poore, Dewar, Rosenthal, and Cubitt. Some minor business having been satisfactorily disposed of, the Council was duly closed, and the members adjourned to the banquet, which was ably served at the Holborn Restaurant. In the unavoidable absence of the Rev. Bro. R. Portal, R.J.G.M., the chair was taken by Bro. Walls. Upon the removal of the cloth the customary toasts were given. "The Health of the R.J.G.M." was proposed, and most heartily received. The toast of "The Grand Council" followed, and was acknowledged in fitting terms by Bro. Binckes, Grand Recorder, in which he congratulated the members of the Order upon the rapid strides the degree had recently made, which augured well for its prosperity. He regretted the unavoidable circumstances that had prevented Bro. the Rev. R. Portal from being present at their first anniversary festival. As the first Grand Master of the Order in England and Wales, he (Bro. Portal) had taken a very active interest in its formation and subsequent progress in this country. He concluded by returning thanks upon behalf of the other Grand Officers. "The Health of the R.J.D.M." was proposed, in very flattering terms, by Bro. Rosenthal, and duly acknowledged. The toast of "The Newly-Admitted brethren" followed, and was ably responded to by Bros. Solbé and Spice, in the course of which they expressed themselves highly impressed with the ritual of the Order into which they had that evening been received and admitted. The proceedings shortly afterwards terminated.

THE STEWARD'S LIST FOR THE BOYS' SCHOOL FESTIVAL.

There are now 200 Stewards for the festival of the Boys' School, June 25th, and of these 94 are Metropolitan, and 106 Provincial.

We regret much to observe that from No. 1700 only four lodges are so far represented, though No. 1805, much to its credit, has put in an appearance with an active Steward, Bro. R. J. Fennell. We trust that before the festival many more London lodges will be represented. Of the provinces Kent sends up nine Stewards; Berks and Bucks, six; Oxfordshire, five; and Gloucestershire, Lancashire East, Lancashire West, Derbyshire, and Middlesex, four each; West Yorkshire, generally foremost, only so far sends three, which we do not profess to understand; and many of the provinces may yet be, as we trust they will be, more fully represented.

There is yet nearly a month before the festival, and we trust to hear of a considerable augmentation of the list of Stewards.

Alderman Sir Francis And Lady Truscott gave their second dinner party of the season at their residence, at 5, Park-crescent, Portland-place, on Thursday.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The General Committee of this Institution met on Thursday last, at Freemasons' Hall. Col. Creaton, Grand Treasurer, presided, and there were also present, among others Bros. the Rev. A. F. A. HOUSE COMMITTEE.—Bro. Edward Cox, nominated by Bro. A. J. Duff Filer; Bro. Henry A. Dubois, nominated by Bro. A. J. Duff Filer; Bro. Chas. Hammerton, nominated by Bro. Henry Venn; Bro. William Hope, M.D., nominated by Bro. A. J. Duff Filer; Bro. Edward Letchworth, nominated by Bro. A. J. Duff Filer; Bro. P. de Lande Long, nominated by Bro. A. J. Duff Filer; Bro. John Mason, nominated by Bro. James Terry; Bro. Edmund C. Mather, nominated by Bro. A. I. Duff Filer; Bro. Joshua Nunn, nominated by Bro. A. J. Duff Filer; Bro. Lieut.-Col. James Peters, nominated by Bro. A. J. Duff Filer; Bro. Frank Richardson, nominated by Bro. Herbert Dicketts; Bro. John A. Rucker, nominated by Bro. A. J. Duff Filer; Bro. Griffiths Smith, nominated by Bro. A. J. Duff Filer; Bro. Alfred H. Tattershall, nominated by Bro. A. J. Duff Filer; Bro. R. Warner Wheeler, nominated by Bro. Herbert Dicketts; Bro. Thomas W. White, nominated by Bro. A. J. Duff Filer.

AUDIT COMMITTEE.—Bro. William Bailey, nominated by Bros. Filer and Moutrie; Bro. Robert Berridge, nominated by Bro. White; Bro. John G. Chancellor, nominated by Bros. Filer and Moutrie; Bro. James Cutbush, nominated by Bro. Kingston; Bros. Herbert Dicketts, Thomas Kingston, and Henry C. Levander, nominated by Bros. Filer and Moutrie; Bro. Hyam M. Levy, nominated by Bro. Rosenthal; Bro. William Roebuck, nominated by Bros. Filer and Moutrie; Bro. Henry Venn, nominated by Bros. Dicketts and Moutrie; Bro. Robert B. Webster, nominated by Bros. Filer and Moutrie.

A scrutiny of the votes at the last election for the Girls' School having been demanded for the candidates Wain and Hicks, Scrutineers had since been appointed, and the following report was now handed in:—

"We do hereby certify that we have gone through the votes that were polled on the 12th April, for the election of children to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, and find that No. 32 case, Wain, is entitled to twenty-nine votes more than were recorded; and that No. 39 case, Hicks, is entitled to sixty-six votes more than were recorded. No. 3 case, Sampson, was credited with thirty-nine votes more than entitled to. No. 2 case, Garnett, was credited with sixty-six votes more than entitled to."

Freemasons' Hall, 29th May, 1879.

Bro. L. Hirsch, asked whether this mistake made any difference in the result of the election.

The Chairman said it did not, but that the correct number of votes would be credited to the candidates who should have had them at last election.

Bro. Louis Hirsch called attention to the circumstance of a mistake having occurred, and thought that more care should be taken with regard to the scrutiny at the election. He thought that the Scrutineers should be elected by the meeting, and not those brethren accepted who put themselves forward to act as Scrutineers.

Bro. J. Winter supported Bro. Hirsch. Bro. Edward Cox observed that some alteration might be made with respect to the elections. The scrutiny was now a gigantic business, and it was inconvenient to have the poll declared the same day as the election. At present the poll was closed at three o'clock, and the brethren and the friends of the candidates were kept waiting about an hour and a half before the result was known. He thought the poll should not be declared the day of the election, but the friends of the candidates should be informed the next day.

Bro. Thomas Meggy expressed an opinion against the present mode of declaring the poll the same day as the election, and gave notice of motion for altering the present rule.

Bro. Walter Hopekirk was of the same opinion as Bro. Edward Cox, and thought the poll should be made known the next day.

Bro. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, with reference to the remarks as to the scrutineers, said that those brethren performed a very arduous duty, and did it well. The scrutiny was now a very heavy business, but it was executed with great care and caution. Occasionally mistakes would occur, but they occurred very seldom, and if they affected the result of the election the House Committee had power to admit a child who having been declared unsuccessful was found to have been successful. The scrutineers, from his experience, deserved the best thanks of the brethren. (Hear, hear.)

The petition of twelve candidates for the October election as then read, and ten were placed on the list, two only deferred.

At the declaration of the poll for the election of the House and Audit Committees the following was found to be the result:

7. REPORT OF THE BOARD OF GENERAL PURPOSES. To the United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England.

The Board of General Purposes regret to make known to Grand Lodge that Bro. Charles Bryant Payne, who had for twenty-two years past filled, with credit to himself and satisfaction to the Craft, the office of Grand Tyler, died at Freemasons' Hall on the 6th inst.

(Signed) JOHN B. MONCKTON, President.

Freemasons' Hall, London, W.C., 20th May, 1879.

At the meeting of the Board held on Tuesday, the 20th inst., after the ordinary business had been disposed of, the following resolution was passed, viz. —

"The members of the Board unanimously desire to express their sense of the ability and courtesy uniformly displayed, on all occasions, by Bro. Monckton, as President of the Board of General Purposes."

(Signed) HENRY C. LEVANDER, Vice-President.

To the report is subjoined a statement of the Grand Lodge accounts at the last meeting of the Finance Committee, held on Friday, the 16th day of May instant, shewing a balance in the Bank of England of £5,065 2s. 2d. and in the hands of the Grand Secretary, for petty cash, £75; and for servants' wages, £96 15s.

8. REPORT OF THE COLONIAL BOARD. To the United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England.

The Colonial Board beg to report that at their meeting on Tuesday, the 6th inst., after the President had quitted the chair,

It was unanimously resolved—

That the thanks of the Colonial Board be hereby presented to its President, the W. Bro. John Anthony Rucker, P.G.D., for his able management of, and assiduous attention to, the business of the Board during the long period he has filled the office of President.

THE APPROACHING ANNIVERSARY OF THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

On the 25th of June the Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys will be held at the Alexandra Palace, under the distinguished presidency of the Earl of Rosslyn, K.T., P.G.M. of Scotland. There are up to the present 200 Stewards, but we trust that by the time when the Festival takes place this number will have largely increased, and we recommend all brethren wishful to assist this needed and useful Institution to forward their names at once to Bro. Binckes. There are many reasons why the Boys' School seems to have a pressing claim on the sympathy and support of our Order. It has emerged successfully from financial difficulties and overwhelming expenses, rendered necessary by the attempt, wise and reasonable, in our humble opinion, to make the School, architecturally and structurally, a success and an ornament, and to provide all the newest systems of scholastic arrangement, for the health, the comfort, the well being of the orphan sons of Freemasons. At the present moment the School is pursuing the "even tenour" of its educational course, in a state of thorough efficiency and good all round work, which are alike a credit to the Managing Committee and Bro. Dr. Morris. Probably never in its history was its moral tone better, its scholastic prestige higher, the health, the happiness, the advancement of the boys more attended to than at the present hour, when, with the favouring support of a warm-hearted fraternity, it possesses in itself every condition of well being, every guarantee of success. We, therefore, urge upon our brethren, up and down the land, and we also ask our genial brethren in the "Land o' Cakes," to testify their interest in this most valuable and much needed School, by rallying round that distinguished nobleman, who has so kindly consented to preside on June 25th, and we trust, that we shall have to record in these truthful pages another striking proof of the large-heartedness of our always benevolent Craft, and to announce, in congratulatory terms, another signal success for Bro. Binckes.

ROMAN CATHOLIC OPPOSITION TO FREEMASONRY.

We sometimes ask ourselves the question, perhaps uselessly, what is the reason of this persistent opposition on the part of the Roman Catholics to Freemasonry? And for our own part we should like much that some candid and courteous Roman Catholic would condescend to give us the "why and the wherefore" on the subject, to enlighten our dark minds, to satisfy our doubting deprecation. To us it is simply inexplicable and indefensible, unmeaning and unreasonable in the highest degree. The Freemasons of Essex are going to hold a most peaceful and praiseworthy assembly, in order to instal Lord Tenterden, U.S. of State for Foreign Affairs, and P.G.W., as Prov. G.M., under the distinguished presidency of Lord Carnarvon, and straightway some agitated Roman Catholic, as we hear, opposes the loan of a county building for this most innocent gathering of his fellow citizens and of a benevolent Order, because, forsooth, oh, great crime! they are actually "Freemasons." We are happy to be informed that after "hearing Mr. Croome, barrister, in support of the renewed application for the use of the Shire Hall, at Chelmsford, the Court of Quarter Sessions at once acceded to it. "We said we were happy in making this announcement, in hearing this statement, but, in truth, we feel profoundly humiliated when we remember, that in the year of grace 1879, such an application should be needed, when we realize that such cold-blooded prejudices and rampant bigotry should exist in our very midst, for it is added, as if by way of commentary on these proceedings, that the "refusal" of the Chelmsford magistrates in the first instance is "attributed to the influence of a Roman Catholic magistrate." And, therefore, it is that we ask again, what is the reason of this Roman Catholic opposition to Freemasonry, alike, in our humble opinion, senseless and sad, uncharitable and unjustifiable? Of course we shall be told "that the Freemasons are condemned by the Pope." Be it so, but what if such condemnation can be proved to be altogether puerile and preposterous? Why, we ask, should sensible and rational Roman Catholics pay any attention to them any longer? The first ground of condemnation taken up by an infallible Pope in 1738, the first Bull, let us note, was on the ground of Freemasonry being a meeting place, "horribile dictu" for Roman Catholics and Protestants. That, we need hardly point out, was a most un-Christian proceeding, per se! So great was the crime in the eyes of the meek and forgiving Clement, that he ordered all Freemasons to be handed over to the Inquisition, and the "secular arm" to be burnt in fact, their property to be confiscated, and the very houses to be pulled down in which lodges were held. Oh, most just judge! Subsequent Popes have taken different grounds. Leo indeed confirmed the condemnation of Clement with the same charitable intent. Pius VII. mixed up the Carbonari with Freemasonry, and condemned both equally. Pius IX. "lumped" the Fenians and Freemasons together, and Cardinal Cullen was evidently of opinion that the Freemasons in Ireland and elsewhere were "booked for something uncomfortable," and to many charitable and friendly Roman Catholics Freemasonry is still a "bugbear," a "spectre," and a "bête noire." Tell them it is a munificent Order, they shrug their shoulders; assure them it is a religiously-minded fraternity, they contemptuously smile; point out to them that it is a loyal sodality, emphatically loyal, "à toute épreuve," with the Prince of Wales at its head, they significantly shake their heads; for on all these points the Roman Catholic authorities know better than anyone else. And vainly do you sum up its acts of benevolence, or recount the success of the charitable appeals of Freemasonry, the prestige and prosperity of its educational establishments, its goodly annuity funds, its genial toleration, and its enlightened aspirations; Roman Catholics will "have none of it." Alas, it is a sad chapter in the history of the human race, that record of "Fetish," which seems to damp enthusiasm, to deaden charity, dwarf faith, degrade truth, and banish common sense, until the worst passions of heathen malignity seem to have obscured and overpowered alike the dictates of morality, the tenderness of religion, and the benign and eternal consolations of the Gospel of faith, hope, and charity, of the religion of the Most High in this world of ours.

NEW MEMBERS.

We have always understood that it was a cardinal principle of Freemasonry not to ask any one to join our Fraternity. We had, until quite lately, supposed that such continued to be both the theory and the practice of our English Order. From one or two facts which have lately come to our knowledge, we are inclined to think that both among Masons and non-Masons a very great laxity indeed prevails on this head. The curiosity of the latter seems only to be equalled by the vulgar eagerness of the former. New lodges are formed, and "Poppleton," a young and rising Mason, thinks it well to increase his mother lodge, and so he discourses on Masonry "gushingly" before non-Masons, until a succession of eager youths, induced by his eloquent description, and emphatic assurances, and savoury promises, enter into Freemasonry without much, if any, consideration, of whom a proportion is always disappointed, when the real and actual are found not to correspond with the ideal and the ecstatic. We regret to hear, for instance, always deeply such a speech as this, "I was induced to enter Freemasonry by what Poppleton said to me," &c., &c., inasmuch as such a confession militates entirely with every ancient profession, every wise practice of our generally cautious confraternity. And, therefore, for fear of increased or increasing laxity in this respect, so prejudicial to the best interests of our Order, we think it well to say a few words to-day. Caution is incumbent on all Freemasons in respect of those they recommend as candidates for Freemasonry. It is not every one who professes to wish to become a Mason who is therefore at once to be admitted. We should always carefully consider if he be, to use well-known expressions just now, of a "good sort," in "good form," of the "stuff" likely to make a good Mason. The "Drones" are very many in our great Masonic hive, will he be a "Bee?" The dullards are numerous, will he be a "bright Mason?" The adepts in the mysteries of the high grade of the "Knife and Fork" are abounding, will he be among those to whom Freemasonry is something better, higher, truer, more enduring, than a convivial gathering, a benefit order, a goose club? Should we like to introduce the new member to our friends and families? or would we freely consort with him out of the lodge? Unless we can safely answer these questions in the affirmative we have no right, it seems to us, to introduce or to admit a new member into our little fraternal circle, the lodge. The time has passed, happily, when the old view can any longer prevail, that "as long as a man could pay the fees and his subscription" that was all that we need "enquire about." Much of the present weakness of Freemasonry, such as it is, prevails from want of caution in admitting new members, and the forgetfulness of many of our good brethren of their responsibility in this respect. All elements in a lodge which are neither congruous nor compatible with our system or our teaching must lead to demoralization and discord, and we know of no more uncomfortable or unhappy state of things, than when a lodge is composed of heterogeneous materials, for it is sure to break up either into sections and factions, or to degenerate into a debating club or a "caucus." We speak these words in all kindness and fraternal good will, and with some little experience, and trust they will be well taken by all those whom they may in any way concern.

ANCIENT AND ACCEPTED SCOTTISH RITE.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Through the kindness of a valued American friend and brother I have perused the last published Proceedings of the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction of the U.S. of America, at Boston, and I find it there declared "that it is a settled principle of the law of the rite that in a dependency, colony, or province of a country, in which there is a Supreme Council, no foreign power can create or authorise the creation of a Supreme Council, and a body so created as a Supreme Council has no legal existence."

We are not told when, or by what authority, such a principle of law was settled, and I respectfully dispute both the accuracy and soundness of the statement.

No such principle is embraced in the Constitutions of the Order. Indeed, it is absolutely antagonistic to the objects and principles for the propagation of which the Order was instituted, and which the Constitutions nobly sub-sum by shortly declaring to be everywhere, "in fine, to do the works of peace and mercy."

The Constitutions, too, declare in their very first article that the Thirty-third Degree invests those Masons possessing it "with the character, title, privileges, and authority of Sovereign Grand Inspectors General of the Order," and among these is enumerated the power to form Supreme Councils in places where the degree may be established.

The Constitutions do not restrict the action of a Sovereign Grand Inspector General in the formation of Supreme Grand Councils, either by his own nationality or by that of the Council from which he derived his patent. His power, like the objects and principles of the Order, is cosmopolitan, and to carry them out it is essential that his powers should be so, for, as already stated, those objects and principles are "everywhere," irrespective of locality, to do "works of peace and mercy," for which in every country there is, alas, too vast a field.

But has the Supreme Council of Boston, which propounds this proposition, been in its own actions regulated by it? It has not, for although a Supreme Council existed in both Ireland and Scotland, prior to the formation of the Supreme Council of England and Wales, the Supreme Council of Boston, a foreign power, created, or authorised the creation, of the Supreme Council of England; and it still recognises it as a lawful body, in direct violation of the principles it now lays down.

If the principle of the Boston Supreme Council be settled law, it follows that the Councils both of England and Scotland are unlawful; and that Boston has acted unlawfully in creating the Supreme Council of England, and still acts an illegal part in recognising both it and the Supreme Council of Scotland.

We also find on the part of the Supreme Council of France a similar disregard of the principle in question, for, according to the representations of the Supreme Council of Scotland, that body was formed under the authority of the Supreme Council of that country, although at the time a Supreme Council was in active existence in Ireland. There are other similar cases.

The principle of law laid down as settled by the Supreme Council of Boston, tested by its own actions, by those of other Supreme Councils, and by the Constitutions of the Order is thus manifestly unsound in principle, and incorrect in fact.

Yours fraternally,

A 33rd.

THE VALUE OF FREEMASONRY.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Annexed I beg to hand you an extract of a letter from a personal friend, a Colonel in the army, in reply to inviting him to my lodge; it records an interesting fact—probably a valuable suggestion—and it occurs to me that you might consider it sufficiently so to reproduce it in the columns of your paper.

I remain, dear Sir, yours faithfully,

P.M. G.M.L., No. 1, P.G.D.

22nd May, 1879.

(EXTRACT.)

"I have always considered Freemasonry the most valuable fraternity in existence, and to a soldier and traveller about the world a most useful institution. As an instance of it, Colonel ——— tells me that when he was in Cabul (in the first Afghan war) he found the Afghans full of hatred and dislike to our presence; but one day passing through the bazaar he saw two Afghan chiefs make the Masonic sign to each other. Colonel ———, who was a Mason, did the same to them. They all three spoke Persian, and ——— asked them if there was a lodge in Cabul, 'Oh, yes,' they said, 'a very large one, and if you like we will introduce you there.' He accordingly went. They were very civil to him. He soon became friendly with them, and wherever he desired to go about the country they detailed a party to accompany him and protect him. With their aid he visited the ruined cities of Alexander the Great, and collected Greek coins there. Marching away with General Sale, they saw him safely off; and, in my opinion, the Masons in the army in the present campaign would do well to look up the lodges in Afghanistan, and make friends with the chiefs through their lodges."

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Most of the lodges (Masonic) in and around London instal the W.M. about this time of year, and I have been honoured by very kind invitations to a great many more than I have been able to attend, but at almost all those that I have attended the W.M. has been generally rewarded for his conduct in the chair by an unanimous vote to the brother of a P.M. jewel of the value of five or ten guineas, according to the state of the lodge funds. If a brother does his duty in the chair, and has given the different degrees and lectures in a creditable manner, I think that some recognition of his services should be awarded him, but in some instances I have seen the W.M. already in possession of a Past Master's jewel; therefore, it is not of the same value to him as it would be to another passing the chair for the first time. It has lately struck me that the guineas awarded for jewels would be much better spent on our Charities, and instead of voting five guineas for a jewel it might be given to one of the Charities in the name of the P.M., thereby giving him a vote for life and being of considerable benefit to the Charities, which should be recorded on the minutes. I think it very probable that in many instances if a brother were asked on his leaving the chair, he would prefer a life subscribership in one of the Charities to a jewel, and I think many would choose the life subscribership, whereas a jewel is a pretty decoration, but of very little benefit to any one but the jeweller. However, when the money is voted a brother who has just passed the chair might have his choice.

Yours Fraternally,

MASONIC GRAMMAR, &c.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Your correspondent, signing himself "Lindley Murray," describes himself as a stickler for the purity of our English tongue. He is no doubt aware of the fact that the term stickler is derived from the practice of prize-fighters, who are in the habit of placing seconds with sticks to interpose as occasion may require in seeing that all proceedings between the parties are conducted fairly; but it is to be regretted that your correspondent has, in this instance, interfered unnecessarily; and that, after a well-meant effort on his part, the purity of the English language, for which he is so ready to stand up, should owe him nothing.

Let me say, in the first place, that many will fail to see the propriety of quoting Dr. Johnson as an authority in this matter. It must be admitted that modern usage is a great authority in deciding the meaning to be attached to particular words. Johnson lived a hundred years ago, and it is quite natural that after the lapse of a century many words should come to be used in different senses to those in which they were used by the great lexicographer. Your correspondent himself admits that usage in the particular case to which he refers warrants the use which he condemns of the word exceptionable.

I observe in the next place that your correspondent is quite in error in supposing, as he does, that exceptional and exceptionable are synonymous words. As a stickler he ought to have been more discriminating. The word exceptional is applied to such things as form or make an exception; whereas the term exceptionable implies that things are liable to objection. There is a clear distinction here which it is remarkable that a correspondent having such a nom de plume should have failed to discover. Accepting this as the correct interpretation of these words, exceptional might have been used in preference to exceptionable; and, indeed, except for the proximity of the word except, in preference to special or peculiar.

In conclusion let me point out that in your correspondent's letter there is little to show that he is qualified for assuming the office of a censor in this matter. In the first sentence of his letter he has misplaced the adverb hardly. He says he hardly thinks, whereas he immediately proceeds to show how strongly indeed he thinks. The word hardly in his letter is evidently intended to have more to do with the correctness than with his thinking, and he ought to have written "which I think is hardly correct." It is further to be noticed that at the close of his letter he uses the past tense of the potential mood would be where he might more correctly have used the pluperfect would have been, since, of course, there is now no likelihood of the words of the report being altered to suit his erroneous idea of what is correct. It is also very doubtful whether he could not have used a better word than apply in the connection in which it occurs.

I am, yours fraternally,

T. M. IRON, J.W. 417.

MASONIC WORKS IN THE BRITISH MUSEUM.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In the article on Masonic Books in the British Museum in the Freemason of last week, mention is made as to the probable date of the publication of Robison's "Proofs of a Conspiracy, &c." Upon referring to the Preliminary Discourse to the third volume of Barruel's Memoirs (mine is Clifford's translation, and edit., 1798), I find the author there speaks of Robison's work appearing just as his third volume was going to press. Barruel's attention was called to this work by his translator, and therefore if the Preliminary Discourse is in the first edition of translation, it will give the date of publication of Robison's work. In the Memoirs the name is spelled Robison.

Yours fraternally,

May 29th, 1879.

Reviews.

THE FOUR OLD LODGES. By Bro. R. T. GOULD, Barrister at Law. Spencer, London.

It is impossible in the limited space of our review column to do justice to this interesting and important work, which deserves all the notice we can afford, and much more in truth than we can possibly afford to its consideration and analysis. To Bro. Gould all Masonic students owe a deep debt of gratitude in that, following in the footsteps of Bro. Hughan and others, he has devoted no little time, patience, and acumen to the elucidation of that often "verata questio," the numeration and identification of English Lodges. Indeed it is but fair to say that to Bro. Gould's persevering researches and lucid statements we are indebted for much that is for the first time clearly brought before Masonic students and archaeologists. Some brethren are apt hastily to say that such enquiries are "lost labour, industry, and energy expended in vain; for what does it matter, 'cui bono' to any one?" But in this view we entirely disagree with them, and think them, moreover, entirely wrong. However trifling, however tedious, however minute, however meaningless, seemingly such enquiries may appear to them to be, and to some other superficial talkers, they are very important in themselves, in that they serve to illustrate and uphold the true history of our Order, in that they pave the way for archaeological enquiries and discoveries, and in that, above all, they serve to point out clearly to all, how curious and how complicated are these lodge annals of ours, which we too often coldly neglect or contemptuously under-value. Bro. Gould has wisely seen and seasonably demonstrated, and in this we heartily go with him, that not only is the true history of English Freemasonry to be yet written, but that if you wish for an accurate representation of it in general, you must base it upon a correct application of lodge life and history in particular. We therefore beg to call attention to this very valuable work, which we have read with great pleasure, and trust sincerely that it may receive both the support and circulation which it so truly merits. We hope that a much fuller review of it will appear in the pages of the June Masonic Magazine.

We have perused this report—kindly sent us by Bro. Riche—with interest and approval. So far, happily, the "Grand Conseil" of the Belgian Ancient and Accepted Rite is standing by the ancient landmarks and "formulae," and we, therefore, are glad to recognize this agreeable fact. We fear, however, that untoward influences are at work with all foreign Freemasonry just now, whether under Grand Orients or Grand Councils, which, unless checked, must tend to undermine and bring down all Freemasonry, whether High Grade or Craft. For instance, the Ancient and Accepted Rite abroad has, we believe, no "prayers, and simply acknowledges, as a compromise, a "principe Createur," a "force Superieure," utterly unreal, unhistorical, and unsatisfactory as such expressions are. We fear that such is the consequence of un-Masonic principles at work, whether in French or Belgian Masonry. Admitting, as we must do all who know Belgium, that, owing to Ultramontane bigotry, the position of Freemasonry in that country is a very difficult one, nothing, in our opinion, can excuse the folly of those Belgian Masons in the Grand Orient of Belgium, who have been imitating and even surpassing alike in fatuity of resolutions and violence of words, the excesses of the Grand Orient of France, and which must, we fear, rest on the Grand Conseil of Belgium, however, professedly, desirous to remain "dans la voie droite." For, as we have often said, and experience proves how true it is in general and particular, no more sinister or perverse proceeding has ever taken place in the annals of Freemasonry than that undignified and intolerant course which the "movement party" have compelled the Grand Orient of France, "nolens volens," to pursue. For the nonce French Freemasonry lies prostrate before an extreme party, alike in politics and irreligion, and we can only again repeat our distinct opinion, that if Bro. Caubet and others had worked to play into the hands of the Ultramontane and Jesuit party, they could not have acted more determinedly or more significantly to that end, by what they have said and by what they have done. But why in the name of all that is sacred, reverent, and Masonic is the Belgian Grand Orient to follow in the same suicidal path? to parody even the most offensive perversities of the Grand Orient of France? The Belgians are a very religiously-minded people, and anything more foolish, more senseless, or more un-Masonic than the violent words of Belgian Freemasons, and the hopeless resolutions of Belgian lodges we have never read and realized. We feel deeply interested in the history of Belgian Freemasonry, because, like the French, it was originally English in origin, tone, and teaching, and now we see it drifting helplessly down that fatal path which identifies Freemasonry with the watchwords of revolution and party politics, which rejoices in avowals of positive irreligion and unbelief, which shocks the reverent, and keep honest folks away. Thus it is that Belgian Freemasonry, even in Belgium itself, lies "under a cloud," which we can only sincerely hope that wiser counsels and a more Masonic course will help to dissipate and dispel. We wish the Grand Conseil of Belgium success in its endeavours to keep entirely aloof, as it most properly professes to do, from political and religious discussions, and to adhere as a Masonic body to the ancient and universal tenets of our Order.

Masonic Notes and Queries.

I have been asked whether "prayer" is used in all the "High Grades." I feel in some difficulty as to answering the query distinctly. In some of the Foreign High Grades there are "prayers," but in some there are certainly not any. Curiously enough, I fear too, their use is rapidly decreasing. There are prayers in the Knights Templar Encampments, and in the ceremonies of the Knights of St. John, and in the Rose Croix, but not in the Mediterranean Pass in this country. Prayers are used in Mark Masonry and the Red Cross of Constantine. In some of the Foreign Grades undoubtedly no prayers are now to be found, or were apparently ever to be found. I apprehend, however, such is not the normal state of English High Grade Masonry. Bro. Hughan can probably throw a little light on the subject. In the Thirtieth Degree of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, for instance, prayer is undoubtedly used. I think it is safe to say that in English High Grade Masonry prayer is undoubtedly used.

MASONIC STUDENT.

THE EARLIEST USE OF THE WORD FREEMASON.

I have been most agreeably surprised on reading the interesting communication of "P.M. No. 1 (S.C.)," never having heard of such a reference to Freemasonry and the Presbytery before. The record is all the more important because of its retrospective character, and we are indebted—as Masonic Students—to Bro. the Rev. J. T. Grant, P.G.C., for the fortunate discovery. Bro. Woodford considers the earliest use of the word "Freemason" is in 1435—at least so far as traced—when a "Freemason" contracts with Richard Duke of York to build Fotheringay Chapel (note Kenning's Cyclopaedia). It is also noted in Act of Parliament A.D. 1548, and in Masonic MSS., as we already know. These references however are operative in character, hence the value of the discovery of Bro. Grant's, made known by our Bro. P.M. No. 1 (S.C.) Bro. Ashmole's initiation is of course also most important, being a record of that celebrated antiquary in his journal of 1646. The reference to Freemason noted by Bro. D. Murray Lyon in his Grand History of No. 1 (S.C.) had regard to those "Friesones of Edwr." as an operative body.

W. J. HUGHAN.

Our indefatigable Bro. Lamony has evidently obtained for "An Old Song" the first edition of Robison's "Proofs of a Conspiracy," which was issued in 1797, pp. 496. The second edition was published in the same year, the following year witnessing the advent of other editions. The work has not the financial value of a "Good Old Song," being still plentiful, and often to be met with for a few shillings, neither has it much within its pages of interest to Masonic students, save as proof of the credulity of the author, who was a Professor of Natural Philosophy and Secretary to the Royal Society of Edinburgh. Bro. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, M.A., in Bro. Kenning's Cyclopaedia says "his work is now practically forgotten."

China.

SHANGHAI.—Royal Sussex Lodge (No. 501, E.C.)—The annual installation of W.M. of the Royal Sussex Lodge took place on the 28th January, 1879. There were about 67 brethren present. The lodge was opened at 9.15 o'clock p.m. by W. Bro. Evans. Shortly afterwards the R.W.D.G.M. of Northern China and his officers were announced, and received in the lodge with Masonic honours. The W.M. thereupon rose and said: R.W.D.G. Master, on my own behalf and that of the Royal Sussex Lodge permit me to offer you and the officers of the D.G. Lodge the right hand of fellowship, and cordially welcome you amongst us. Knowing, as we all do, R.W. Sir, the great interest you take in all that tends to the benefit and advancement of Freemasonry, we cannot but feel highly gratified at your presence here this evening, it being a further proof, if any were needed, of the great anxiety you feel for the welfare and prosperity of the Craft. On such an occasion as the present, that of the installation of our W.M., we feel especially pleased and grateful to you, and for your kindness in consenting to perform the ceremony of installation; and particularly would we thank you for the sympathy you have constantly and invariably shewn the Royal Sussex Lodge, in its adversity as well as in its prosperity. R.W. Sir, in now surrendering into your hands this gavel, which has been the symbol of my authority for the past two years, I do so expressing a sincere wish and a fervent hope that in the future our lodge may become more prosperous than it has been in the immediate past. The R.W.D.G.M., in replying, said—Worshipful Bro. Evans, although I never visit your lodge without being received with every mark of fraternal regard, I was quite unprepared for the very flattering reception which has been so spontaneously accorded to me by you and the brethren assembled. I have always taken great interest in everything pertaining to the Craft, feeling assured that when our principles are faithfully disseminated much good must result therefrom, and this lodge has materially assisted in promulgating those principles. The Royal Sussex Lodge, though not the first established in Shanghai, is the oldest in China. It was removed to this port under the auspices of the R.W. Bro. Samuel Rawson, Past Provincial Grand Master in China, one of its former Masters, who was ever foremost in promoting the welfare of his brethren when with us, and who continues in the good work now that he resides in his native country. We rarely take up a Masonic newspaper without finding his name mentioned therein, associated with work calculated to prove beneficial to the Craft. The first Master of this lodge in Shanghai was R.W. Bro. H. G. Murray, the Immediate Past District Grand Master for China, who will be remembered by most of you for his zeal in Freemasonry, and whose name is cherished with regard. Many worthy brethren have filled the chair since then, and you, W. Sir, have so gained the affection of the members, that on three occasions have you been elected to the high position, and the brethren have again testified their approval of your services by their endeavour to retain you as their head for another year, but which, by the rules of our Constitution, they are unable to do. I must not detain the lodge by further remarks now, but I will request you to retain the gavel until the commencement of the installation ceremony, when I shall have pleasure in receiving it from your hands, and of installing our W. Bro. Johnford into the position which he has been elected to occupy. After the lodge had been opened in the Second Degree, the R.W.D.G.M. took the chair, and officiated as Installing Master. Bro. Johnford was presented as W.M. elect, and was duly installed, after which the following officers were also invested:—Bros. E. P. Laleaca, S.W.; S. Ballard, J.W. and Treas.; U. W. Harris, Sec.; T. Ford, S.D.; J. Howell, J.D.; C. T. P. Hudson, I.G.; J. B. Browne, Org.; T. W. Harrocks and T. Roberts, Stewards; T. Hore, Tyler. W. Bro. Evans, P.M., then rose and said: R.W.D.G. Master, Officers of the D.G. Lodge, and visiting brethren, to you, R.W. Sir, and the Officers of the D.G. Lodge, on my own behalf and that of the Royal Sussex Lodge, I return my sincere thanks for your presence, and for the great assistance you have rendered us throughout the ceremony of installation. More especially, R.W. Sir, to you are our thanks due for the very eloquent and impressive manner in which you have conducted this ceremony. It affords me intense gratification, and I am sure it does the members of our lodge, to see so large a gathering of the brethren here tonight, and as we have on this, our first meeting in the new year, so many present, I think it augurs well for the future, and I sincerely hope that a period of revival in Freemasonry is about to set in. The R.W.D.G.M. replied: Worshipful Sirs, I am sure I am only expressing the feelings of the District Grand Officers when I say that they have derived pleasure and instruction from visiting your lodge this evening. In performing the ceremony of installation, in this, as well as in other lodges, it has been my earnest endeavour to impress upon the Worshipful Master, his officers, and the brethren generally, the necessity of acting up to the professions they make from time to time, and I am sure if we will so act, the blessing of T.G.A.O.T.U. will rest upon us, and the good wishes you have so forcibly expressed, that Masonry may flourish, and that a bright future will be in store for the Craft in Shanghai, will be fully realised. On behalf of myself and officers I return you many thanks for your kind expressions towards us, and we hope that the year on which we have now entered may prove one of prosperity to the Royal Sussex Lodge and its members. The various ceremonies having concluded, Worshipful Bro. Evans rose and said: Brethren, I scarcely know how to address you, or thank you sufficiently for the great honour you have conferred upon us this evening. It is indeed a source of great pleasure to see so many of you and to welcome you all here with the right hand of fellowship. Brethren, there can be, I think, but one opinion as to the value of our D.G. Lodge lately established amongst us. It is, I think, the nucleus or germ from whence a revival in Masonry will come, and be assured that while the baton of D.G.M. remains in the able hands that now wield it, Masonry must flourish, and a bright future for the Craft in Shanghai is in store. Brethren, in again thanking you all for your attendance here, before I sit down permit me one word more, and that is simply to say it is very evident to my mind from this large meeting that "love of the Craft" in Shanghai is not so dormant as some would have us believe. We have proof to-night that "where there is a will there always is a way." Such being the case, I would urge upon the brethren to be more regular in their attendance at our stated meetings, such attendance being at all times most grateful to the rulers in the Craft. Remember, brethren, it will take "a long pull, and a strong pull, and a pull together," to make Masonry as flourishing in Shanghai as it once was. Let us put our shoulders to the wheel and see if we can accomplish it. The newly-installed Master then invited the brethren to join him and his officers at a banquet provided in the adjoining room, and the lodge was thereupon closed in due and ancient form. Full justice having been done to the good things provided, Bro. Johnford, the W.M., rose and proposed the first toast, namely, "The Queen and the Craft," remarking that it required no words from him to ensure for it a hearty reception. After the National Anthem had been sung, the W.M. said the next toast was also one which all Masons delighted to honour—it was that of "The Health of the most Worshipful Grand Master, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, and Past Grand Masters of the Lodge." The W.M. said a pleasing duty now devolved upon him, and it was to propose "The Health of the R.W.D.G.M., and the Officers of the D.G.L. in Northern China." The brethren of the Royal Sussex were all proud of the presence of the R.W.D.G.M. and his officers, and he, on their behalf, begged to thank the R.W.D.G.M. for the able and impressive manner in which he had conducted the installation ceremony. All Masons working under the English Constitution, as well as those working under the American, German, and Scottish Constitutions, knew the value of the work the District Grand Lodge was doing, and they were proud of the untiring zeal and ability of their Right Worshipful D.G. Master, who, aided by his officers, was always ready to render assistance for the good of the Craft. It was unnecessary for him to detain them longer; and he would now ask them to honour the toast as it deserved to be honoured. The R.W.D.G. Master, in returning thanks, said: Worshipful Sir, this is the third time I have addressed the brethren during the evening, but I feel constrained on behalf of the Officers of the D.G. Lodge, as well as on my own behalf, to again return our unted thanks for the kind hospitality extended towards us. We are trying to emulate our worthy predecessors who were so intimately connected with this lodge. On the wall of this banqueting room we see suspended the portraits of those well-known and highly esteemed brethren to whom I have previously alluded, viz., our R.W. Bro. Samuel Rawson, P.P.G.M., and R.W. Bro. Henry Murray, P.D.G.M. for China, and who set an example worthy to be followed by all who are desirous of increasing the influence of Masonry, or to benefit their fellow creatures. We have observed how well our newly-installed W.M. has wielded the gavel this evening, and I hope and trust we may augur from this that a year of prosperity is in store for the lodge over which he has been elected to preside. We know that he will have not only the sympathy and assistance of the brethren working under the English Constitution, but also that of the brethren working under other Constitutions, as we have many proofs that the right hand of fellowship is warmly given by those rejoicing in the tie of brotherhood, no matter from what country they may hail; and this, W. Sir, reminds me that you have permitted me the privilege of proposing the next toast, and I, therefore, hasten to do so. It is one always warmly received by the Shanghai brethren, amongst whom so much harmony exists. We have present many brethren owing allegiance to other Constitutions, and I ask you to join me in wishing "Prosperity to the Sister Grand Lodges." You, brethren, are acquainted with the kindly interest that is always exhibited to us by the brethren working under the D.G. Lodge of Scotland, the D.G. Lodge of Massachusetts, and the Three Globes of Berlin. Their virtues have been so frequently brought before you, that I am sure I need not detain you by referring to them, but ask you, without delay, to join me in the toast of prosperity to the Sister Grand Lodges. R.W. Past Master Bro. W. Birt, 30°, thanked the members of the Royal Sussex Lodge for the very kind and cordial reception they had given to the toast of the Sister Grand Lodges, proposed so ably by the R.W.D.G. Master. He (Bro. Birt) felt a double pleasure in being present at their installation that evening, first as a representative of the Scottish Craft working in China, and, secondly, as he was paying dutiful homage to his mother lodge, inasmuch as it was within the Royal Sussex Lodge, some sixteen years ago, that the first rays of Masonic light beamed upon his vision. He congratulated the Royal Sussex Lodge upon the large attendance, and particularly upon the numbers of Past Masters and other exalted members of the Craft who were present, testifying plainly their unabated interest in China in an old Masonic lodge, and their esteem for the newly-installed Master, Wardens, and officers. The duty now devolved upon him to propose "The Health of the Newly-installed Master, Wardens, and Officers of the Royal Sussex Lodge." Bro. Johnford's Masonic career was known to all of them. For many years past he had been a most industrious worker in Ma-sorry, having held the offices of Inner Guard, Deacon, Junior and Senior Wardens, and this evening his brethren had further expressed their confidence in him by selecting him as their Master. He, therefore, begged the brethren present to drink to "The Health and Prosperity of the Master, Wardens, and Officers of the Royal Sussex Lodge." The R.W.D.G.M. also rose and said—Brethren, it is a very important duty and pleasure that now devolves upon us all. It is to wish our W.M. health and prosperity during his year of office. I hope, brethren, you will duly consider how much rests with yourselves in rendering his office one of usefulness and pleasure. We are aware, from what we know of him, that nothing will be required on his part to uphold the dignity of his lodge. He has selected officers—tried and good brethren—who may also be depended on for the faithful discharge of their duties, so that "with a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull altogether," so ably suggested by our Immediate Past Master, W. Bro. Evans, we may look for great success during the coming year. Brethren, I ask you for a hearty response to the toast of "The Health of our W.M., Bro. Johnson, and his Officers," so ably proposed by R.W. Past Master Bro. Birt. The W.M., in felicitous terms, briefly acknowledged the toast. W. Bro. Hart said the next toast had been placed in his hands to propose, and it was pleasing to think that irrespective of any remarks from him he was sure it would meet with an enthusiastic reception. The toast he had to bring to their notice was "The Health of the Past Masters of the Royal Sussex Lodge." The Royal Sussex Lodge seemed to have been particularly fortunate in obtaining good men to occupy the chair in the lodge, and two of them had occupied most distinguished positions in Masonry in China, and he was happy to say that they were still useful in promoting the welfare of the Craft at home. He believed the first D.G.M. of China, or, as he was called, the P.P.G.M., was a P.M. of the Royal Sussex Lodge. He need hardly say he referred to W. Bro. Rawson; and then there was also W. Bro. Murray, who was also P.D.G.M., and a P.M. of the lodge. These two brethren he needly hardly say commanded the respect of all Masons in China, and were much respected in England. W. Bros. Brown and Camajee had also worthily filled the chair of the lodge, and W. Bro. Evans, who had vacated it this evening after two years of good service, had, during his (the speaker's) residence in China, always been an active promoter of the Craft, and he had proved his ability by the many useful methods he had adopted to make Masonry more generally useful. The brethren were well acquainted with the very distinguished manner in which the Past Masters had conducted the affairs of the lodge while under their control, and, therefore, he would not trespass further upon their time, but ask them to drink to the health and prosperity of the P.M.'s of the Royal Sussex Lodge, coupling with the toast the name of W. Bro. Evans. P.M. W. Bro. Evans, in responding, said: In calling upon me to respond for the Past Masters of the R.S. Lodge, I think you have made a mistake, as I scarcely know what to say, but I do think that you are doing injustice to me, to P.M. Bro. Brown, and to our visitors. First, to me, because I have already twice addressed you this evening; to our visitors because I think they would like to hear some other brother's voice, and to P.M. Bro. Brown, because I think this duty should have devolved upon him, and looking at the other end of the table I can see that he is impatient to unburthen himself of the eloquence he feels pent up within him. I will, W.M., with your permission, call on P.M. Bro. Brown to respond to the toast of the Past Masters of the R. S. Lodge. P.M. Bro. Brown said: Having been unexpectedly called upon to reply to the toast of the Past Masters, I feel unprepared to do justice to my eminent predecessors. A great deal has been said about the Past Masters of this lodge, but I notice that the names of one or two of the most useful and best men have been omitted. I refer to Wor. Bros. Parker and Stent. I had the pleasure to be initiated in this lodge by the former, and in the presence of Right Wor. Bro. Murray, D.G. Master of China, and have pleasant reminiscences of the manner in which the ceremony was performed, and I have pleasant recollections of having served in various offices under the Mastership of Bro. Stent. On their behalf, and that of the Past Masters present, I therefore tender my hearty thanks for the enthusiastic manner in which you have received this toast. Before resuming my seat I avail myself of the opportunity to propose "The Health of the Visitors," coupled with the name of Wor. Bro. Weiller. W. Bro. Weiller, D.G. Sup. of Works of the District Grand Lodge of Japan, in a very humorous speech responded. The Tyler's toast was next drunk, and shortly afterwards the company separated.

IRISH MASONIC ORPHAN BOYS' SCHOOL.

The monthly meeting of the Board of Governors was held on Tuesday, 13th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Molesworth-street, Dublin, at 4 o'clock p.m., Bro. John H. Edge, Vice-Patron, in the chair.

The result of the recent ballot for the election of four pupils from the list of candidates for admission to the Institution was announced, whereupon S. M. Gilbert, H. Skipton, C. S. Oswald, and C. Topham, having the greatest number of votes, were declared duly elected pupils of the School.

The report of the Education Committee, who have been engaged for some time past in the consideration of applications of candidates for the appointments of head master, matron or lady superintendent, and assistant master of the School, was presented to the Board. In accordance with the recommendation of the Committee, Mr. A. L. Sparkes, A.B., and B. Sc. London, was appointed head master of the School, and Mrs. Sparkes, his wife, was appointed matron or lady superintendent. The Committee have not yet presented their report respecting the appointment of an assistant master.

In compliance with the request of Bro. Thomas Valentine, of Belfast, it was resolved that a deputation from the Board should proceed to Belfast to confer with the Governors of the School residing in that neighbourhood as to the condition and future prospects of the School; and that the deputation consists of Bro. Edge, P.M. 728, and a Vice-Patron of the School, and Bro. R. O'Brien Furlong, Hon., Sec., who have kindly consented to bear their own expenses.

The next meeting of the Board will be held at Freemasons' Hall, Molesworth-street, Dublin, on Tuesday, 10th June, 1879, at 4 o'clock p.m.

CONSECRATION OF THE OLD ENGLAND LODGE, NO. 1790.

This new lodge, the warrant for which was recently granted by the M.W.G.M., was consecrated on Thursday, the 22nd inst., at the new Masonic Hall, which has lately been built for this lodge at New Thornton Heath, near Croydon, Surrey. The building is admirably adapted for that purpose, and the arrangements of the rooms are all that can be desired. The building has been raised by the exertions of the founders of the lodge who were anxious to have a place of meeting for themselves unconnected with any tavern.

The proceedings commenced at half-past three, when the brethren met in the ante-room, and marched in order to the lodge-room, when the ceremony of consecration commenced.

The officer appointed for the purpose was Bro. James Terry, P.G.S.W. Herts, who appointed as his officers pro tem. Bros. Dr. H. J. Strong, P.P.G.J.W. Surrey, as S.W. W. Bausor, W.M. 1580, as J.W.; Thos. W. C. Bush, W.M. 1728, as I.G.; and J. L. Mather, P.G.D.C. Herts, as D.C.; and H. Sadler, as I.G.

The lodge was opened in the Three Degrees, and after the usual preliminaries had been gone through, Bro. Terry delivered an impressive and eloquent address on the merits of Freemasonry and the duties of its members.

The ceremony of consecration was then performed in a solemn and impressive manner, the musical part of it being heartily joined in by the brethren.

The Board of Installed Masters was formed, and the W.M. designate, Bro. Foulsham, P.P.G.S.W. Northumberland, was presented to the Installing Officer, and was duly installed into the chair of King Solomon according to ancient form.

On re-admission of the brethren, the W.M. was saluted in the various degrees, and at once proceeded to invest his officers as follows:—Bros. B. Buckworth, S.W.; H. Harland, J.W.; T. C. Pascall, S.D.; E. Whitaker, J.D.; J. Taylor, I.G.; J. Buckworth, Sec.; and Buffin, Tyler.

Several propositions for initiation and joining having been received, the lodge was closed.

The brethren then proceeded to an adjoining room, where they partook of a very enjoyable banquet. At its termination the usual loyal and Masonic toasts followed.

"The Health of the W.M." was proposed by Bro. Terry, in a few well-chosen sentences, in which he heartily wished the lodge every success, to ensure which he impressed upon them the necessity of exercising great caution in preventing the admission of unworthy persons, and to take care that the candidates should be of such a character as to add lustre thereto. He was certain that, under the supervision of their W.M., the lodge would prosper.

The W.M. suitably replied, and proposed the toast of "The Consecrating Officers," dwelling with great emphasis upon the splendid rendering of the ritual by Bro. Terry. The W.M. apologised for an omission in lodge. The brethren of the lodge had fully intended conferring the honorary membership of the lodge on Bros. Terry, Strong, Mather, Bausor, and Bush for their kind assistance, but it had by accident been omitted. This, however, would be remedied at the first regular meeting of the lodge, on June 5th.

Bros. Terry and Strong replied. The toast of "The Visitors" was then given, and suitably replied to by Bro. Bush.

The remaining toasts were duly honoured and replied to, and the Tyler's toast brought a very happy evening to a close.

The arrangements for the banquet were very creditably carried out, and everything possible was done for the comfort of the visitors.

A very handsome Bible was presented to the lodge by Mrs. Buckworth, the wife of the esteemed Senior Warden, to whose untiring exertions the completion of the arrangements was, in a great measure, due.

In addition to the above-named brethren we noticed Bros. Rev. J. H. Roberts, P.M. 1143; V. Keen, P.M. 203; J. Browning, Granite, 1328; C. A. Blogg, and others.

LAYING THE FOUNDATION STONE OF ST GEORGE'S CHURCH, MOSSLEY.

On Saturday last the town of Mossley was en fête. Early in the afternoon the trains from Ashton, Staley-bridge, and neighbourhood conveyed hundreds of holiday makers to join with the inhabitants of this thriving place in their festivities. Triumphant arches spanned the streets, flags and banners were suspended from the windows of hotels, shops, and private houses, giving to the grey stone walls a more lively appearance than they had ever been known to possess before, and adding much to the picturesque scenery which opened out at every corner of the steep streets, looking over the valley to the hilly slopes on the opposite side.

About two o'clock a procession was formed in the market-place, consisting of Oddfellows, Foresters, Druids, Orangemen, Shepherds, school teachers and children, numbering over 2000, headed by a company of the 4th West York Rifle Volunteers, accompanied by four bands of music, and marched through the principal streets.

At the same time a Masonic lodge was opened in the Mechanics' Institution, by the W.M. and officers of the Prince Alfred Lodge, No. 1218, and at 2.30, the Very Worshipful Deputy Provincial Grand Master of East Lancashire (Bro. George Mellor, Grand Senior Deacon) entered the lodge, attended by the following Provincial Grand Officers, viz.: Bros. J. L. Hine, P.P.G.S.W.; Dr. Lees, P.P.G.S.W.; C. Beswick N. Royds, P.P.G.S.W.; George Higgins, P.G.J.W.; John Chadwick, P.G. Secretary; Benjamin Taylor, P.G. Treasurer; J. L. Anderton, P.G. Reg.; J. Tweedale, P.P.G. Reg.; Edwin Brookes, P.G.S.D.; J. F. Hoffgaard, P.G.J.D.; C. L. Bruno, Grand Lodge of Denmark; Henry Hayes, Asst. P.G. Director of Cers.; John Salmon, P.P.G.D. of C.; J. H. Sillitoe, P.P.G.D. of C.; R. Caldwell, P.G. Sword Bearer; J. Kenyon, P.P. G. Supt. of Works; Julius Aronsberg, P.G. Purs.; Edwin Radcliffe, Asst. P.G. Purs.; H. T. Robberds, P.G. Org.; and several others. The lodge was adjourned and formed in procession, according to their respective columns (the brethren altogether numbering about 200).

The monster procession of friendly societies on reaching the site of the new building formed two deep on each side of the way, completely lining the route from the churchyard to within a few yards of the Institution. The Masonic procession passed through this living avenue, and took up their position immediately around the stone; the other societies being placed in an outer circle, the school teachers and children occupying the ground intended for the nave of the church.

In the unavoidable absence of the Prov. Grand Chaplain, Bro. the Rev. J. E. Roberts, Senior Warden of the Prince Alfred Lodge, commenced the proceedings by offering up prayer, after which the children and the large assemblage chanted a psalm, and sang an appropriate hymn, accompanied by one of the bands; the thousands of voices producing a grand effect.

Bro. Mellor then addressed the large congregation as follows:—Ladies and Gentlemen, and Brethren—Having been requested by the brethren of the Prince Alfred Lodge to lay the north-east stone of this church, I have very great pleasure in acceding to their request, for we, as Masons, at all times consider it to be our duty to come forward and give what sanction we can by our own peculiar rites and ceremonies to the erection of temples of religion. (Hear, hear.) And what higher or noble service can we perform than in assisting to raise another structure to the honour and glory of the Great Architect of the Universe, for the spiritual welfare of all those who think proper to worship their Creator in the beauty of holiness within its walls, and from whence we sincerely trust that pure and undefiled religion may ever emanate? I hoped we may be all spared to witness the completion of this church, that no casualties or strikes will occur during its erection, and that goodwill and harmony will exist and prevail amongst all those who are interested in the building. (Hear, hear.) I hope and trust also that the clouds of adversity which have for so long a period obscured the commercial horizon will ere long be dispelled, and the sun of prosperity once more shine upon our manufacturing industry—(hear, hear)—and that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety, may be established among us for many generations. I beg to thank all those ladies and gentlemen, and the friendly societies in particular, who have shown by their presence an interest in this day's proceedings, and my Masonic brethren especially for their attendance and support. I may add, in conclusion, that whilst Masonry knows nothing of political parties, yet, in all countries and times, the Order has taught its disciples the fundamental doctrines of liberty, equality, and fraternity, and these principles Masonry taught long before modern Republics had existence. Liberty regulated by law, obedience to established authority, the fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of man, and tolerance of private religious and political opinions are the very essence of Freemasonry, and, brethren, let us ever bear in mind that so long as we recognise the supreme authority of the Great Architect of the Universe, so long as we take the volume of the Sacred Law for our guide, direct our actions by the square and compasses, and guide our conduct by the dictates of prudence, wisdom, temperance, and virtue, discarding all those barriers which bigotry or intolerance would set up, we need not be ashamed of our Order, but proud of our position as Masons. Brethren, we will now commence the work allotted to us. (Applause.)

Bro. Roberts (acting Prov. Grand Chap.) again offered up prayer.

The stone was slowly lowered about twelve inches, during which the Masonic choir sang the first verse of "When the Temple's first stone was slowly descending."

The Prov. Grand Treasurer placed the bottle, containing coins, documents, &c., in the cavity, and the Prov. Grand Secretary read a copy of a scroll placed in the bottle.

The stone was again slowly lowered, the choir singing the second verse of the Anthem.

Bro. James Buckley, W.M. of the Prince Alfred Lodge, presented the trowel with some very appropriate remarks. Bro. Mellor having replied, spread the cement.

The stone was, with a third drop, lowered to its bed, the choir singing a "Masonic Gloria."

The Lewis was removed from the stone by an Entered Apprentice, who was requested to place it in the archives of the lodge as a memento of that day's proceedings.

Bro. Mellor directed the P.G.J.W. to apply the plumb rule; having done so, he reported that he found the stone "perfect and trustworthy."

Bro. Mellor then directed the P.G.S.W. to apply the level; having done so, he reported the stone to be "well founded."

Bro. Mellor then requested the acting Deputy Provincial Grand Master (Bro. J. L. Hine) to apply the square, which he did, and declared the stone to be "properly formed and adjusted."

Bro. J. Hayes, P.M., then addressed Bro. Mellor, and said:—"Very Worshipful Sir,—The stone being now at rest, we pray you assume the setting maul and test its stability in the name of the four cardinal virtues."

Bro. Mellor taking the maul, struck the stone on the four corners, saying "With temperance, fortitude, prudence, and justice let our work be founded, and may the Almighty Architect of the Universe look down with benignity upon our present undertaking, and crown the edifice of which we have now laid the foundation stone with every success." The Prov. G. Supt. of Works then presented the plans, which Bro. Mellor examined and returned.

The acting D.P.G.M. then presented the vessel containing corn, the emblem of plenty.

Bro. Mellor scattered corn on the stone, saying, "May the all bounteous Creator of the Universe shower down his choicest blessings on the inhabitants of this town, and grant them a full supply of the corn of refreshment."

Prov. G. Chaplain read Psalm 72, verse 16.

The P.G.S.W. presented wine, the emblem of joy and gladness.

Bro. Mellor poured wine on the stone, saying, "May He whose name is love grant that we may be all of one heart and one mind, and may we ever dwell together as brethren in unity."

The P.G. Chaplain read Numbers, chapter 15, verse 7. The P.G.J.W. presented oil, the emblem of charity.

Bro. Mellor poured oil on the stone, saying, "May God give us grateful hearts, and may we be ever ready cheerfully to relieve the wants of others."

The P.G. Chaplain read Exodus, chapter 30, verses 25 and 26, and afterwards delivered an impressive oration.

The whole assembly then joined in singing "The Church's one foundation," accompanied by the bands, during which a collection was made.

The P.G. Chaplain (Bro. Roberts) then pronounced the Benediction, and the procession reformed, and returned to the Mechanics' Institution. The Masonic choir consisted of Bros. Mark Stafford, W. Dumville, N. Dumville, H. Lister, John Salmon, and H. T. Robberds.

The Masonic ceremony was arranged and conducted by Bro. J. H. Sillitoe, Past Provincial Grand Director of Ceremonies.

Too much praise cannot be given to the W.M., officers, and P.M.'s of the Prince Alfred Lodge, for the admirable arrangements they had made for the comfort and convenience of such an immense gathering. Only one opinion was expressed, and that was "that the arrangements were perfection."

During the ceremony of laying the stone about 400 members of the 4th West York Rifle Volunteers arrived on the ground, and at the conclusion fired a feu-de-joie in honour of Her Majesty's birthday.

A banquet afterwards followed in the Institution, presided over by Bro. George Mellor, and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

FUNERAL OF BRO. E. MARTEL.

In the Masonic Craft, Bro. Martel—whose body was taken to the Temple, Jersey, on Wednesday evening, the 7th inst.—stood high in the estimation of his brother Masons, and in the various duties which he from time to time discharged, his aptitude was everywhere manifestly apparent, and in his manner of conducting the business of a lodge he had but few, if any, equals. He was a Past Master of the Royal Sussex Lodge, and also of St. Aubin's Lodge. He was also a P.M.P.S. of the Concord Conclave, in connection with the Red Cross Knights of Constantine, and likewise enjoyed the titles of P.Z. and P.G.J.W., the latter being the last honour conferred on him. He had been the recipient of several valuable gifts for services rendered to the Craft of which he was so exemplary and honourable a member. He was one of the delegates from Jersey who were present at the installation in London of the Prince of Wales as Grand Master of the Masonic Craft, and received a gold medal in commemoration of the event; therefore, under these worthy circumstances, it need be no matter for surprise that a dispensation was readily granted by V.W.B. Dr. Le Cronier, D.P.G.M., for a Masonic funeral such as that which has been witnessed by thousands of the community, and the like of which has not been seen for years in the town of St. Helier. The profession, which left the Temple about three o'clock, comprised representatives from the following lodges, with their banners and regalia: Royal Alfred, 877; La Césarée, 590; Mechanics, 245; Yarborough, 244; Royal Sussex, 491; St. Aubin's, 958.

The hearse was an open one, drawn by six horses. Following the above came a large number of the members of the Ancient Order of Foresters, wearing the new funeral neck ribbon, and next in order were the Oddfellows, wearing cobourg hatbands, the whole forming a most imposing, yet sad, spectacle, the strains of the "Dead March in Saul," and "Adeste, Fideles," played alternately by Mr. W. McKee's band, falling upon the ear with solemn effect as the mournful cortege, in which the Cæsarean Dramatic and Literary Society was represented, traversed Stopford-road, David-place, Bath-street, Beresford-street, Halkett-place, Morler-lane, and the Royal Square, to the Town Church, where the Masons opened out, and the coffin was borne on shoulders within the sacred edifice. After the first portion of the burial service had been read by Bro. Rev. Jordan Cave-Browne-Cave (St. James's), the procession re-formed in Bond-street, and proceeded by way of Broad-street, Charing Cross, York-street, the Parade, Cheapside, and St. John's-road, to the Parochial Cemetery, where the Masons opened out, and the body was borne to the grave prepared for its reception, and where the last sad rites were performed with all the due solemnity befitting the occasion, and which had called together such a large number of the Masonic Craft. Bro. O. Dodge, P.M., P.P.G. Reg., delivered the funeral oration at the grave with much sympathetic feeling, the custom of breaking the wands and of throwing sprigs of acacia upon the coffin terminating the sad and long to be remembered spectacle. Many present were visibly affected, the closing proceedings being of a most touching character, and the like of which is seldom witnessed in this island. After the procession had re-formed, it returned by way of St. John's-road, Rouge Bouillon, Midvale-road, David-place, and Stopford-road, to the Temple, where the lodge was duly closed, the Foresters and Oddfellows proceeding to the Prince of Wales Room and the Minden Hall, respectively, and shortly afterwards separating for their various homes, not soon however to forget the solemn mission in which they had been engaged but a short time previously. Bro. Edward Martel is the third Mason of note who has died in less than a twelvemonth, Bro. Albert Schmitt having passed away in June, 1878, and Bro. Philip W. Benham in January of the present year. There was just eleven months, day to day, between the deaths of Bros. Schmitt and Martel.

We ought to add that from the summit of the Temple the Royal Standard and Union Jack floated half-mast as a mark of respect to the deceased brother, whose death is alike regretted by the Masons, Foresters, and Oddfellows, and although he may be most missed by the Masonic Craft, still the members of the other societies, and more especially the members of the Court of Foresters with which he had been so long and so intimately associated, will not forget his worth, and a tribute to perpetuate his memory would indeed be only a just due to one who served his court so faithful and well, and whose deeds will live to recall a name both revered and respected by all in the Order of Foresters who had the pleasure and the honour of his acquaintance. We sympathise with his family in the hour of their affliction, and hope that their loss is his eternal gain.

THE LATE PRINCE CONSORT AND FREEMASONRY.

Bro. Samuel Poynter sends the following extract from Theodore Martin's "Life of the Prince Consort." Vol. IV., page 402:—

"... I will get Alice to read to me the article about Freemasons. It is not likely to contain the whole secret. The circumstance which provokes you only into finding fault with the Order, viz., that husbands dare not communicate the secret of it to their wives, is just one of its best features. If to be able to be silent is one of the chief virtues of the husband, then the test, which puts him in opposition to that being towards whom he constantly shows the greatest weakness, is the hardest of all, and, therefore, the most commendable of virtues, and the wife should not only rejoice to see him capable of withstanding such a test, but should take occasion out of it to vie with him in virtue by taming the inborn curiosity which she inherits from her mother Eve. If the subject of the secret, moreover, be nothing more important than an apron, then every chance is given to virtue on both sides, without disturbing the confidence of marriage, which ought to be complete.—Letter of the Prince Consort to the Princess Royal, 16th March, 1859."

Masonic and General Tidings.

The consecration of the Duke of Connaught Chapter, No. 1524, takes place at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, to-day (Friday). A full report will appear in our next.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall is to have a busy day on Tuesday, the 10th prox. The Prov. G.M., the Right Hon. the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe, has arranged to dedicate the new Masonic Hall of the St. Matthew's Lodge, No. 856, Lostwithiel, at 9.30 a.m. Then to proceed, in a special train provided for the members, to Fowey, and open the Prov. Grand Lodge, at 11.50 a.m. At 12.30 there is to be a procession to church, the sermon to be preached by the Prov. Grand Chaplain, Bro. the Hon. and Rev. J. T. Boscawen. The business programme is a heavy one this time, but, fortunately, the Prov. G.M. is a most able chairman, and, therefore, it is likely the whole arrangements will be duly carried out to the full satisfaction of all concerned.

We are informed that, through the untiring energy and perseverance of Bro. W. T. Clarke, a new lodge, to be named the Burrell Lodge, is about to be started at Shoreham. A petition, influentially signed, and fully recommended by the Prov. G.M. Sussex, Sir W. W. Burrell, Bart., M.P., W.M., &c., also by the officers of the Royal York and Southdown Lodges, has been sent to Grand Lodge. Bro. Lord A. W. Hill, P.G.M.C. Devon, to be first W.M.; Bro. Capt. C. R. Burrell, first S.W.; and Bro. Wm. Tunstall Clarke, first J.W. Some of our readers, no doubt, will remember that a lodge, named the Lodge of Harmony, was formerly held at the noted old town of Shoreham, which died out, and was struck off the roll of lodges. We heartily wish our Shoreham brethren success.

The great flower show of the season at the Crystal Palace, was held on Saturday last, with entire success. The exhibits comprised a choice collection from some of the most celebrated florists, and from private sources, the azaleas and roses forming the chief attractions. During the afternoon a concert was given in the Centre Transept by the Crystal Palace Choir, the bands of the Scots Guards, and the Crystal Palace Orchestra, under the able direction of Mr. Manns.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has been pleased to consent to lay the first stone of the new wing of the Royal Hospital for Incurables, West-hill, Putney-heath, on Monday, July 7th.

An effort is being made to obtain admission to the Royal Asylum of St. Anne's Society for a daughter of the late Mr. Duckett, a reporter on the staff of the Standard, who died suddenly from sunstroke last summer. The case is strongly recommended by Sir E. Watkin, M.P., Mr. Alderman Cotton, M.P., Mr. D. Cronin, Mr. W. H. Mudford, Mr. George Kenning (of the Freemason), Mr. G. R. Bengough, C.C., Mr. J. Faulkner, C.C., Mr. W. Walford, C.C., and other gentlemen.

The Mayor of Leicester, Bro. Clement Stretton, P.G.S.W. of Leicestershire and Rutland, on Monday last turned the first sod of the new public park near the Abbey ruins, Leicester, in the presence of the members of the corporation and a large concourse of people. The corporation bought the land, which extends about forty acres, and the cost of laying it out will be £10,000.

Grand Lodge having been formally opened, Grand Secretary read the minutes of the last Quarterly Communication of 5th of March, and of Grand Festival of 30th of April, which were respectively put and confirmed.

Bro. James Stevens, P.M. 25, &c., rose and said: M.W.G.M. in the chair, before the papers are distributed for the elections which are about to come forward—(cries of "order, order," in the midst of which Bro. Stevens resumed his seat).

The M.W.G.M.: Brethren, the first business that I find upon the paper is the appointment of the Grand Tyler. I am sure, brethren, all of you must deeply regret to see the notice that stands at the bottom of the page of the agenda paper, by which we are informed that Bro. Charles Bryant Payne has been taken away from the Craft. We know he worked for many years very actively for the benefit of Freemasonry in this kingdom, and it is a great grief to us to find that he was removed from us almost suddenly. It is my duty now to inform you that the Most Worshipful Grand Master has appointed in his place Bro. Henry Sadler. (Loud applause.) I am sure, brethren, that this announcement will meet with your approval, and I beg to call upon him to come up for investment. (Hear, hear.)

Bro. Henry Sadler was then introduced, and invested by the Acting Grand Master with the regalia of Grand Tyler amidst loud applause.

The M.W.G.M.: Brethren, the next business is the election of members of the Board of General Purposes, of the Colonial Board, and for the Committee of Management of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons.

Bro. James Stevens, P.M. 25, &c., said: M.W.G.M., before the papers are distributed for the election that is now about to take place, I wish very respectfully to ask whether the sanction of the Board of General Purposes or any section of Grand Lodge has been given to the distribution of lists before the business commences, to the brethren who attend Grand Lodge, with a view apparently, though we cannot positively say so, of biasing the minds of those who are entitled to vote, in favour of those who are known to some friends in the Craft, rather than for any good they have done to the Order. I think that the impropriety of the act itself is quite sufficient to obviate the necessity for speaking at large on the question. I, therefore, shall content myself by asking whether it is an act which is sanctioned by the Board of General Purposes, or by any section of Grand Lodge, or whether it is their wish that the minds of the brethren should be biased in favour of certain brethren by lists being placed in their hands when they attend Grand Lodge.

Bro. J. B. Monckton, P.G.D., President of the Board of General Purposes, said: M.W.G.M., it is within my knowledge as a member of Grand Lodge that on most annual occasions various lists of suggested brethren have been handed about the room, and various ones have been placed in my hands; but in answer to the brother who had just spoken I must say that the Board of General Purposes had no such knowledge in former years of such lists, and with regard to the present they know of none now.

Bro. C. W. C. Hutton, P.G.D., said: M.W.G.M., I think we have a very good precedent indeed for such lists in the principle adopted by the very first institution of this country, and that is the Bank of England. I think it is a very happy thought which has characterised the Grand Lodge of England that a house list should be distributed in order to guide the brethren who may not know (cries of no, no), in order to inform those who are not so well acquainted with the merits of the brethren. (Renewed cries of no, no).

Bro. Raynham W. Stewart, P.G.D., said: M.W.G.M., I would say this, that I think it would be a very simple matter indeed if every brother when he signs his name and takes his bone before coming into Grand Lodge had delivered to him a voting paper, and every Grand Officer, when he signs his name, should also have a voting paper. I have a strong objection to seeing dozens of papers handed round this Grand Lodge. I know some members get more than one paper, for, unfortunately, on the occasion of the last election there were more votes given than there were brethren in Grand Lodge. If we were to adopt the principle of every brother having a voting paper when he signs his name, that would be remedied.

Sir Albert Woods (Garter), G.W.C., then called for the Grand Deacons and Grand Stewards, who thereupon delivered voting papers to the brethren. The Scrutineers of Votes, of whom Bro. Thos. Fenn, P.G.D., was appointed Chairman, were entrusted, and retired to their room to scrutinise the votes. On their retirement from Grand Lodge,

The M.W.G.M. said: Brethren, I hold in my hand a book which has been presented to the Grand Lodge by Bro. R. F. Gould of the names and dates of the Four Old Lodges. I have no doubt several brethren present have heard of it. I personally have looked at it, and I have every reason to believe that it is a volume which will be of great service to the Craft and a valuable addition to the Masonic library. I am sure we heartily thank Bro. Gould for presenting this book to Grand Lodge, and I beg to propose that a vote of thanks be given to Bro. Gould for his kind gifts. (Hear, hear.)

Bro. S. Rawson, acting Dep. G.M.: M.W.G.M. in the chair, I beg to second the motion with great pleasure, as I have known Bro. Gould a great many years, and I know he takes great interest in Freemasonry.

The motion was then put, and carried unanimously.

Bro. Grand Secretary having read the report of the Lodge of Benevolence for March, April, and May, on motions duly made by Bro. J. M. Clabon, and seconded respectively by Grand Treasurer, Bro. Case and Glaisher, the following grants were confirmed:—

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF GENERAL PURPOSES. To the United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England.

The Board of General Purposes regret to make known to Grand Lodge that Bro. Charles Bryant Payne, who had for twenty-two years past filled, with credit to himself and satisfaction to the Craft, the office of Grand Tyler, died at Freemasons' Hall on the 6th inst.

(Signed) JOHN B. MONCKTON, President. Freemasons' Hall, London, W.C., 20th May, 1879.

To the report is subjoined a statement of the Grand Lodge accounts at the last meeting of the Finance Committee, held on Friday, the 16th day of May instant, showing a balance in the Bank of England of £5065 2s.; and in the hands of the Grand Secretary, for petty cash, £75; and for servants' wages, £96 15s.

On the motion of Bro. J. B. Monckton, President, seconded by Bro. H. C. Levander, Vice-President, the report of the Board of General Purposes was taken as read.

Bro. Monckton, President of the Board of General Purposes, said: M.W.G.M. in the chair, I now move that the report be received and entered on the minutes. Grand Lodge will receive with regret the announcement it makes, which has already been alluded to by the M.W.G.M. Grand Lodge, however, will be glad to know that the board has nothing to report upon on the ground of any Masonic misbehaviour.

Bro. H. C. Levander, Vice-President, seconded the motion, which was thereupon put and carried.

REPORT OF THE COLONIAL BOARD. To the United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England.

The Colonial Board beg to report that at their meeting on Tuesday, the 6th inst., after the President had quitted the chair,

It was unanimously resolved—

That the thanks of the Colonial Board be hereby presented to its President, the W. Bro. John Anthony Rucker, P.G.D., for his able management of, and assiduous attention to, the business of the Board during the long period he has filled the office of President.

(Signed) GRIFFITHS SMITH, Vice-President. Freemasons' Hall, London, 6th May, 1879.

On the motion of Bro. Griffiths Smith, Vice-President, seconded by Bro. Erasmus Wilson, P.G.D., this report was taken as read.

Bro. Griffiths Smith: M.W.G.M. in the chair, I now propose that the report be received and entered on the minutes, and as Vice-President of the Board it is with great satisfaction I mention that the vote of thanks was proposed and given unanimously to Bro. Rucker, who has been President for the last three years, during which time I have acted under him as Vice-President. In that position I can testify to the merits of Bro. Rucker, and I fully concur in the vote that has been passed.

Bro. Erasmus Wilson, P.G.D., seconded the motion, which was put, and carried unanimously.

The M.W.G.M.: Brethren, I am sorry to say there has been an omission in the proceedings. I should have read the following:—

At the meeting of the Board held on Tuesday, the 20th ult., after the ordinary business had been disposed of, the following resolution was passed, viz:—

"The members of the Board unanimously desire to express their sense of the ability and courtesy uniformly displayed, on all occasions, by Bro. Monckton, as President of the Board of General Purposes."

(Signed) HENRY C. LEVANDER, Vice-President.

(Hear, hear.) I am sure, brethren, that this announcement requires no words from me. Bro. Monckton is, I may say, known to all of you far better than he can be to me; but I know one thing, brethren, that Bro. Monckton's name is not only familiar to the brethren in the Grand Lodge of England, but it is also universally known and respected throughout all the lodges in the provinces, in the Colonies, and in India. (Hear, hear.)

Bro. S. Rawson, acting Dep. G.M.: M.W.G.M., I beg to second the motion, and I can assure you that no one joins more heartily than I do in expressing esteem for Bro. Monckton.

The motion was carried unanimously. Bro. Monckton: M.W.G.M., I beg to thank you and the brethren.

The M.W.G.M. called upon Grand Secretary to read the report of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution.

Grand Secretary said: M.W.G.M. in the chair, the report of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution is yearly presented to Grand Lodge. There is no action taken on it; no law has to be altered, and consequently nothing can be done further than to present it to Grand Lodge, which accordingly I do now.

On the motion of Sir Albert Woods (Garter), P.G.W., G.D.C., seconded by Col. Creaton, Grand Treasurer, the report was received.

Col. Creaton, Grand Treasurer: M.W.G.M. in the chair, I beg leave to move

"That the sum of £70 be given from the Fund of General Purposes; that the money be placed in the hands of the Secretary of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, to supply the residents of the Institution at Croydon with coals during the winter months."

This is an annual grant, M.W.G.M., and I think it needless to take up the time of Grand Lodge by doing more than make the motion.

Bro. J. M. Case, P.G.D., seconded the motion. Carried unanimously.

Bro. J. M. Clabon, P.G.D., President of the Lodge of Benevolence: M.W.G.M. in the chair, the motion of which I have given notice is as follows:—

"That, considering the large amount which has been accumulated from the surplus income of the Fund of Benevolence, it is not expedient to continue the accumulation of the whole of that surplus."

I will very briefly state to you the facts relating to the Fund of Benevolence. In the year 1844 that fund amounted to £10,700 Consols. In the years from 1845 to 1868 it had increased at the rate of £860 a year, and then amounted to £20,000 or thereabouts. It will be in the remembrance of Grand Lodge that in the year 1868 a committee was appointed to consider various suggestions for alteration of the management of the Fund of Benevolence. That committee reported, and I may state at once that with one exception all its recommendations were adopted. The exception was this: they recommended that the annual surplus of the Fund of Benevolence should be divided into three parts; that one of those parts should still be allowed to accumulate for the objects of benevolence: of the other two parts they recommended that one should be given to the children in the Girls' School, and the other to the children in the Boys' School, for the purpose of furthering their prospects in after life on leaving school by apprenticing them, giving them exhibitions in higher schools, or some objects of that kind. Grand Lodge was pleased on that occasion (I think they had hardly fully considered the proposed application) to decide that with £20,000 only the time had hardly arrived for applying a part of the Fund of Benevolence to any other objects than those of benevolence. After five years, in 1873, the fund had then gone on increasing at a much larger annual rate, at about £1,600 a year, and in the year 1873 it amounted to nearly £40,000. I then renewed the recommendation of the committee of 1868, proposing again a division of the surplus of each year into thirds, and the same application of those thirds. Again Grand Lodge thought the time had not arrived; they thought that a fund of £38,000 was not enough, and they still negatived the proposition. The Fund has now increased at a still larger ratio during the last six years. The first period was £960 a year, the second was £1,600 a year; it has now gone on increasing at the rate of £1,900 a year; and during the last year, 1878, the surplus amounted to no less a sum than £2,889, or say, to £3,000. You may take it, in short, that the Fund at present amounts to £50,000. You have never, during the whole history of the Fund of Benevolence, touched a penny of that accumulated Fund. Now, I would ask you, are you to go on increasing that Fund for ever? (Cries of "No, no," and "Yes.") What is the use of it? It is put into coffers in which no use is made of it; it accumulates in the Bank of England, and is not applied to benevolent purposes. Now for this sum of £50,000. I, having proposed on two former occasions a specific application of a proportion of that annual surplus, and Grand Lodge having negatived it—not, I believe, from any impression that my idea was a bad one, but simply on the ground that the time had not arrived for the proposed application of the Fund—I thought that the step ought to be taken as a tentative one, and that I should merely ask the opinion now of Grand Lodge whether they considered the time had come when they should determine whether or no the accumulation should go on for ever; because, if it is not to stop at £50,000, it may not stop at £100,000, so that you may go on like a miser who puts his gold into a chest for ever, and not make any use of it. I thought if my motion was put in this form, "That it is not expedient to continue the accumulation of the whole of the surplus," if you said "Yes, it was expedient," well there is an end of it for the present; if not, then I ought to be prepared to move for a committee to consider the matter, or that I should make a specific proposition to Grand Lodge. To-night my motion embraces this, whether the whole of the surplus of £3,000 a year is to go on accumulating from this time. That being so I have a very strong impression myself that we ought to do some good for Masonry in this our time of prosperity and for future Masonry. I have been this night in consultation with those who understand matters of form better than I do, and the opinion has been expressed that the motion ought to have been more specific—that it ought to involve a direct and intermediate alteration of the Constitutions relating to the Fund of Benevolence. I am convinced that the representations made to me by high authority are the true ones, and it would have been wise in me probably to have consulted higher authorities before I gave my notice; so at this time, with the impression the result of those communications that my notice is rather a bad one from want of form—not, I hope, from want of substance—I propose not to make it on the present occasion; but after consulting with authorities, and having advanced a regular form of notice, I hope to bring it forward on some future occasion before Grand Lodge. (Cheers.)

Bro. James Mason, P.G.S.B.: M.W.G.M. in the chair. I think that after this matter has been introduced in the way it has been, it is not quite right for our Bro. Clabon to make a statement here in Grand Lodge and then to withdraw his proposition. I must remind brethren that I have a word to say upon this subject.

Sir Albert Woods: I rise to order. There is no question before Grand Lodge.

The M.W.G.M.: I think that Bro. Clabon withdrew his motion.

Bro. James Mason: It think there is a great deal to be said on the other side, M.W.G.M.

Bro. Driscoll: There is a strong feeling expressed in the part of the hall where I am standing that Bro. Clabon should persist in the course he has taken.

The M.W.G.M.: It appears impossible for a brother to make a motion unless he puts his proposal in a proper form, and if he desires to withdraw his motion we cannot force him to bring it on. (After a pause.) Brethren, I am commanded by the Grand Master to announce that he has appointed Bro. Monckton to be President of the Board of General Purposes. I have also great pleasure in announcing that his Royal Highness has appointed Bro. J. A. Rucker to be President of the Colonial Board. The result of the elections will be announced at the close of the scrutiny in the Grand Master's Room, and I shall remain there to receive it.

Grand Lodge was then closed in ample form.

The following is the result of the election for members of the Board of General Purposes, and of the Colonial Board:

REPORTS, etc., intended for insertion in current number, should reach the Office, (198, Fleet-street), by Six o'clock p.m., on Wednesdays.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

MANCHESTER.—Lodge of Integrity (No. 163).—The regular monthly meeting of this prosperous lodge was held at the Freemasons' Hall, Cooper-street, on Wednesday, the 28th May. A substantial tea à la fourchette was prepared for the brethren at six o'clock in the spacious banqueting room, of which some forty-two partook. At 6.45 the lodge was opened in ancient form, Bro. H. Walley occupying the chair of K.S., supported by the following officers:—Bros. H. H. Warburton, acting S.W.; Alfred Heald, J.W.; J. M. Sinclair, S.D.; J. Senior, J.D.; Geo. F. Smith, I.G.; William Siddeley, Secretary; R. Williams, P.M., Treasurer; H. H. Warburton, P.M., Organist; Joseph Mackie, P.M.; W. D. Waddell, William Livesey, John Studd, and Henry Heap, Stewards; and J. Kirk, Tyler. There were also present Bros. William Rome, P.M.; J. Wildgoose, P.M.; Geo. F. Smith, P.M.; J. Mackie, P.M.; J. W. P. Salmon, P.M., P.P.G.D.C.; R. Nield, P.M.; H. Child, P.M.; B. Standen, S. Davis, E. Russell, J. A. Gee, J. Clemmey, B. Williams, James Hilton, W. D. Holbrook, Walter Stott, John Studd, J. Collins, Murray Thomson, W. D. Waddell, T. H. Lawton, A. F. Youle, W. Hilton; Visitors, J. A. Berch, 287; C. Hind, 1113 (Preston); A. Turner, 1011; W. C. Tiplady, 345 (Blackburn); E. Fryd, 1009; W. J. Chapman, P.M., 1609; Hudson Lister, W.M. 1011; G. D. Pochin, P.M. 1375, P.P.G. Reg.; W. Drousbey, 1164; W. Dumville, P.M.; and R. R. Lisenden, 317 (Freemason). The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, Mr. Phillip Casper and Mr. Richard Lowe McMillan were severally balloted for and elected to become members of the lodge, and afterwards initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry by the W.M., who also explained the working tools. It is scarcely necessary to remark that the W.M. performed the ceremony in a most efficient manner, and great praise is also due to Bro. A. Heald for his delivery of the charge to both initiates. At the ceremony of initiation Bro. J. W. P. Salmon, P.M., proposed, and Bro. Geo. F. East, P.M., seconded, that the meetings of this lodge be adjourned from June to September, which was carried. Bro. Salmon next proposed, and Bro. J. Mackie seconded, that a committee be appointed to make arrangements for the annual picnic, which was to be self-supporting. This was also carried, and hearty good wishes having been expressed by the visitors, the lodge was closed in solemn prayer, and the brethren assembled at the social board, where the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and responded to. "The Health of the Initiates" was next proposed by the W.M., and enthusiastically received by the brethren. Bros. Lowe and Casper briefly acknowledged the compliment. The toast of "The Visitors" followed, and was responded to by three of their number. Other toasts followed, and the proceedings throughout were enlivened by some good singing by Bros. Lister, Dumville, Standing, Greenwood, Heald, Senior, &c., the meeting terminating about eleven.

COCKERMOUTH.—Skiddaw Lodge (No. 1002).—The ordinary monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday evening, the 3rd inst. There were present:—Bros. Capt. Sewell, W.M.; T. Bird, S.W.; T. C. Robinson, J.W.; W. Shilton, P.M.; R. Robinson, P.M. and Treas.; W. H. Lewthwaite, P.M. and Org.; W. F. Lamonty, P.M. (Freemason); J. Featon, Sec.; H. Peacock, S.D.; R. W. Robinson, J.D.; R. Harrison, I.G.; W. Paisley, Steward; J. Borrowscale, J. C. Nicholson, T. Mason, S. Thwaite, J. Towers, and others. The lodge having been opened in form, the minutes were read and confirmed, after which Bro. H. Carruthers gave evidence of his proficiency, claimed preferment, was instructed, and retired. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, and Bro. Carruthers was regularly passed to the degree of F.C. by the W.M., the working tools being presented by the J.W., whilst the S.W. delivered the charge incidental to the degree, and the lodge having been closed down, the Treasurer explained the first tracing board. Finally the lodge was closed in form.

MORECAMBE.—Morecambe Lodge (No. 1561).—This lodge held its principal meeting of the year in the Masonic Hall, Edward-street, on the afternoon of the 29th ult., and it is worthy of note to remark that nearly every member of the lodge was present, in order to show their appreciation of the brother who was that day to be elected to the highest and most honourable position in the lodge. Bro. Thos. Longmire, the W.M., presided, and was supported by his officers, Bros. Duff, I.P.M.; W. Longmire, S.W. (W.M. elect); K. A. Stansfeld, J.W.; W. Stephenson, Sec.; W. W. Wilde, S.D.; R. Bannister, J.D.; J. L. Gorton, Org.; A. Poole, I.G.; Bingham and Brown, Stewards; and T. Wilkinson, Tyler. Amongst the other members were Dr. Moore, P.M., P.G.S.B. of E.; C. H. Garnett, P.M., P.G.S.W.; H. Longman, P.M. 1051; E. Cardwell, W.M. 281; J. J. Croskell, J.W. 281; A. E. Brayshay, T. Thornton, H. Hartley, S.D. 1353; Geo. Knipe, T. Tidswell, J. Hutton, and J. Schofield. Amongst the visitors who were present on the occasion were Bros. R. Wolfenden, W.M., and W. Parker, J.W. 1353; W. J. Sly, P.P.G.J.D.; J. E. Hannah, 1051; James Hatch, P.M.; John Hatch, P.M.; Ed. Simpson, P.M., P.G. Pars.; Thos. Atkinson, P.M.; W. Bagnall, P.M.; W. Warbrick, S.W.; John Atkinson, S.D. 281 (Freemason); S. Hall, I.G. 1070; and W. Pyrah, 600. The lodge having been opened in due form, the W.M. elect—Bro. William Longmire—was duly presented and installed into his office by Bro. Dr. Moore in a very marked, impressive, and efficient style. The W.M. then appointed his officers for the ensuing year as follows:—Bros. T. Longmire, I.P.M.; K. A. Stansfeld, S.W.; W. W. Wilde, J.W.; R. Hartley, Treas.; G. Bingham, Sec.; R. Bannister, S.D.; A. P. Poole, J.D.; J. L. Gorton, Org.; J. Hutton and T. Thornton, Stewards; and T. Wilkinson, Tyler. The Installing Master inducted each brother to his office, and then gave the customary address to the W.M. and I.P.M., Bro. Longman that to the Wardens, and Bro. John Hatch to the brethren, and after the transaction of other business, including a vote of thanks to the Installing Officer, the lodge was closed. The whole of the brethren and visitors then adjourned to the house of Bro. T. Longmire, the West View Hotel, where the installation banquet was spread in a profuse and liberal manner, the menu including most of the delicacies of the season. The newly-invested W.M. presided, supported by Past Officers and visitors, the duties of vice-chair being ably discharged by Bro. H. A. Stansfeld, who was supported by the junior officers of the lodge and other members. "The Queen and the Craft," "The M.W.G.M." "The Pro. G.M., D.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers," and "P.G.P.M. and Officers of Provincial Grand Lodge," having been duly honoured. Bro. Duff briefly proposed "The Health of the W.M." which was received with acclamation. Bro. W. Longmire, who was very heartily received, after thanking the company for the cordial way in which the toast had been received, said it had been his ambition, ever since he joined the lodge and became a Mason, to work his way to the chair which he then filled. He remembered that it was only some few years ago since he returned thanks in that room as one of the junior officers of the lodge, and he recollected making the remark on that occasion that he would not rest satisfied till he had attained to the principal office in the lodge. Now that he had attained the object of his desires, it would always be his endeavour to promote the welfare of Masonry and work up the lodge to the best of his skill and ability. They had heard rumours as to the probability of a very important Masonic gathering coming off in Morecambe during the ensuing summer, and they might rely that anything he could do to bring that about would be done, and so far as the efficiency of his lodge might be concerned he should strive his best to bring it to the highest point of excellence. He had the better assurance for saying that from the fact that he knew they had a Past Master in Bro. Moore who only needed to be asked in order to give them any information, and than whom no one could be better qualified to give them instruction in Masonic matters. He hoped during the coming year to so conduct the lodge as to meet with the approbation of both members and visitors, and should always feel glad to see plenty of the latter present, his great endeavour being to fill the office with credit to the lodge and no less to himself. The Chairman concluded by proposing "The Health of Bro. Moore, the Installing Officer," in very eulogistic terms, whom they were justly entitled to look upon as the founder of their lodge. Bro. Moore, in responding, gave some well timed and judicious advice to the brethren on Masonic matters, and before sitting down paid a high compliment to the retiring Worshipful Master of the lodge, Bro. Thomas Longmire, who, he said, "retired from the chair of the lodge with honour, credit, good-will, and the sympathy of all the brethren," a sentiment which was most heartily applauded. He concluded by saying that the lodge had deputed to him the pleasing task of handing to the Worshipful Master a Past Master's jewel, with a request that he would affix it to the breast of his father and predecessor in office. The Chairman, in performing this pleasing duty, said he had great pleasure in doing so, and hoped the I.P.M. would live long to wear it. Bro. T. Longmire, in a few brief sentences, feelingly acknowledged the gift, and said that if his services to the lodge had been appreciated by the members he was well paid for any services rendered. The jewel is a very handsome one, the emblem representing symbolically the forty-seventh proposition of the first book of Euclid. On the reverse side was the following inscription:—"Presented to Bro. T. Longmire, P.M., by the Morecambe Lodge, No. 1561, as a mark of esteem, and in appreciation of his services as W.M. of the lodge. May 29th, 1879." The remaining toasts, usual at a Masonic gathering, were then given, the several duties being entrusted to Bros. Bagnall, E. Simpson, Jas. Hatch, and John Hatch, and responded to by the several officers whose names were included therein. A cordial vote of thanks was also passed on the motion of Bro. Moore, to Bro. W. Stephenson, for his past services as Secretary of the lodge, but who had been obliged to relinquish the office on account of public duties. In the course of the evening the proceedings were enlivened by the vocal efforts of several of the brethren.

LIVERPOOL.—Dramatic Lodge (No. 1609).—The usual monthly meeting of the members of this lodge took place at the Masonic Hall, Hope-street, Liverpool, on Tuesday afternoon, the 27th ult., when there was a fairly numerous attendance of brethren, the visitors especially mustering in strong force. Bro. Lindo Courtenay, W.M., opened the lodge at half-past two o'clock prompt, and amongst those present were Bros. W. J. Chapman, I.P.M.; J. B. MacKenzie, S.W.; W. W. Sandbrook, J.W.; A. Woolrich, Treas.; John Atkinson, Sec.; Frank Emery, J.D.; J. Pyer, I.G.; R. Burgess, Org.; W. Savage, S.S.; H. P. Squire, J.S.; and W. H. Ball, Tyler. The private members of the Dramatic Lodge present were Bros. S. Mattison, T. J. Avann, W. M. Armand, A. Allan, W. Addis, L. B. Brough, C. Burby, C. Courtenay, C. Campion, J. W. Collinson, W. Hildyard, W. Heap, H. Holden, Dr. R. H. D. Johnson, James Keet, L. Y. Lablache, G. Martin, J. Penney, H. Round, J. L. Shrapnell, R. Williams, Webster Williams, and others. The visitors included Bros. John Dewhurst, Weston, Messenger, Maddox, Griffiths, Prince, and others. After the minutes of the previous regular meeting had been read and confirmed, Bro. Collinson was passed to the rank of F.C., and Bros. Allan and Addis were raised to the Sublime Degree of M.M.'s. The brethren subsequently banqueted, under the presidency of the W.M., and during the evening various songs and recitations were given by Bros. Webster Williams, L. B. Brough, J. Dewhurst, Prince, Allan, Griffiths, and others, the accompaniments to the songs being played by Bros. R. Burgess, Org., and Collinson.

MANCHESTER.—Avon Lodge (No. 1933).—The ordinary monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Denmark Hotel, Greenheys, on Wednesday, the 28th May. The lodge was opened by the W.M. (Bro. J. D. Brickles) at 5.15 p.m. There was a numerous gathering of members and visitors. Amongst the latter were Bro. G. Mellor, G.S.D., Very Worshipful Deputy Grand Master of East Lancashire; Bros. P. Royle, M.D., P.P.G.S.D.; John Chadwick, P.G., Secretary; J. H. Sillitoe, P.P.G.D. of C.; — Magee, W.M., 548; — Steyermann, 1180; J. Buckley, W.M. 1218; J. Heys, P.M. 1218; Rev. J. E. Roberts, S.W. 1218; W. Jaffray, S.W. 152; W. Blackie, J.D. 152; J. Lane, W.M. 764; Ernest Link, P.M. 633; — Jones, P.M. 1496; — Sutcliffe, J.D. 204; — Mac Ilwrick, S.W. 350; — Harrap, 152; J. Meyer, 1791; — Frith, 1496, and others. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Four candidates were proposed, balloted for, and accepted. Mr. Isaac Thomas George, a native of Sierra Leone, was initiated into the mysteries of the Craft by the W.M. Afterwards Mr. John Edgar was initiated by the I.P.M. (Bro. W. Leigh), and Mr. Samuel Horatio St. Austin by the W.M. The lodge adjourned from labour to refreshment, and, on resuming Masonic duties, Mr. John Aitchison was initiated by the W.M. The working tools were presented to the four candidates by Bro. Whittaker, J.W. Hearty good wishes were cordially expressed by the visitors, and the lodge was closed in peace and harmony at 9 p.m. About 60 brethren assembled round the festive board under the presidency of Bro. J. D. Brickles, W.M. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts having been given and duly honoured, Bro. Brickles called upon the brethren to "fill to a bumper." This having been done, he proceeded to give a toast, which he was sure would be heartily appreciated by all present, it being that of the "Very Worshipful Deputy Provincial Grand Master." He considered that their lodge, now in its third year, was highly honoured by having as their guest Bro. George Mellor, who, in consequence of his health, was not often able to be present at the festive board. He (the W.M.) felt quite sure that not only the members of the Avon Lodge, but the visiting brethren also, were glad to meet their esteemed Deputy Provincial Grand Master, who, by his genial and brotherly disposition, had gained a prominent position in the hearts and affections of the whole province. Bro. Mellor was always ready to assist in any good work which would tend to promote the interests of the Craft and the welfare of mankind in general. He, therefore, had pleasure in asking them to drink to the health of their V.W. Deputy Provincial Grand Master. The toast was warmly received and the honours enthusiastically given. Bro. A. T. Forrest (Athenæum Dramatic Society) recited in a masterly manner, and by special request, a poem entitled the "Ivy and the Bell." Bro. Mellor, on rising to respond, was loudly cheered. He regretted that he was compelled to leave them rather hurriedly as he had to catch an early train, he, however, felt compelled to say a few words of thanks for the kind manner in which he had been received amongst them, and, at the same time, to express his gratification at the very correct and able manner in which the ceremonial had been performed. He congratulated the lodge on possessing such an efficient W.M., as well as such excellent Past Masters and officers, who, one and all, seemed to be thoroughly up to the work required of them. As his time was up he wished them all a very pleasant evening, and hoped at some future time, not far distant, to repeat his visit. After Bro. Mellor had retired, the W.M. proposed the toast of "The Newly-Initiated Brethren," which was cordially received. Bro. Isaac T. George first responded, Bro. Edgar expressed his gratification on being admitted a member of the Craft, of which he had for a long time formed a favourable opinion. Bros. S. Austin and Aitchison also responded. The next toast, "The Visitors," was proposed by Bro. W. Bostock, P.M. He said that no doubt there were two reasons why there was so large a gathering on that occasion, the first was the pleasure which every brother felt in meeting their Deputy Prov. Grand Master, and the other was the extent, as well as the novelty, in some respects, of the work upon the circular. It was somewhat of a rarity to initiate a coloured gentleman, but he was glad that it had fallen to their lot to do so, in this case, as he felt sure Bro. George would prove a worthy Mason. He was pleased to see so many distinguished visitors present, such, for instance, as their old friend, Dr. Royle, and the newly-appointed Prov. Grand Secretary (Bro. Chadwick), who, he was sorry to say, had been compelled to leave early; also their indefatigable Bro. Sillitoe, and so many other brethren of distinction. The toast was received with enthusiasm. Bro. Royle, in reply, congratulated the lodge on its continued prosperity. He had been very much interested in the ceremonies that evening, one of which proved the spirit of Masonry to be irrespective of either creed or colour, and that the great Catholic sentiment of order and truth prevailed in its ranks, which he trusted would permeate over the entire globe, and shed its influence upon all sects and nations. Bro. Sillitoe also replied, and complimented the W.M. on the manner in which he had performed the ceremony of initiation for the first time. He (Bro. Sillitoe) felt some interest in the progress of the lodge, as he had assisted at its consecration. It gave him great pleasure to visit them from time to time, and witness their admirable working. What he had seen that evening satisfied him that in the hands of the present W.M. and his able officers the lustre of the lodge would not diminish, but that their well-earned reputation would continue to increase. Bro. St. Austin convulsed the audience with a comical ditty. Afterwards the S.W. (Bro. Painter) proposed "The Health of the W.M.," evidencing the interest Bro. Brickles took in the lodge by the fact that he frequently travelled from London purposely to attend the meeting, returning the same night. The W.M. replied, and stated that although he had been resident in London for some years, he considered Manchester his home, and he rejoiced at the opportunity of attending the meetings of his lodge to meet some of his oldest personal friends. Bro. Stephenson with a comic song met with the usual reception. Bro. T. J. Hooper, P.P.G. Treasurer, officiated as Director of Ceremonies, and Bro. F. Stanislaus presided at the pianoforte, much to the enjoyment of all present. The Tyler's toast was given at 10.50.

INSTRUCTION.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT LODGE (No. 1524).—A meeting of this lodge of instruction was held at the Havelock Tavern, Albion-road, Dalston, on Wednesday, the 4th inst. There were present Bros. A. McDowall, W.M.; A. R. Olley, S.W.; A. McMillan, J.W.; J. Diggs, man, J.D.; C. Lorkin, I.G.; W. Fieldwick, Preceptor; J. Williams, Sec., and several other brethren. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, and the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. C. Olley being the candidate. Bro. C. Lorkin, assisted by the brethren, worked the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th Sections of the Lecture. Bro. Fieldwick proposed, and Bro. McMillan seconded, that Bro. A. R. Olley be W.M. for the ensuing week. Carried unanimously. Bro. T. Slater proposed, and Bro. A. McMillan seconded, that Bro. W. Woodward, of Temple Bar Lodge, 1728, be a member of this lodge of instruction. Nothing further offering, the lodge was closed in ancient form.

Jamaica.

ROYAL LODGE (No. 207).—At the ordinary meeting of this lodge, held at Kingston, on the 5th ult., the principal business being the installation of the Master elect and officers for the ensuing year—all ordinary work was postponed. Bro. J. Thirlwall, Senior Warden and Master elect was introduced by Wor. Bro. M. Dias, and installed by Wor. Bro. G. J. Sargeant, retiring Master, assisted by a number of Past Masters. The appointment and investment of officers were then proceeded with as follows: Wor. Bro. G. J. Sargeant, I.P.M.; Bros. E. X. Leon, S.W.; W. Duß, J.W.; J. N. Aguilar, Treasurer; J. M. Simpson, Secretary; R. J. Macpherson, S.D.; S. A. Iffa, J.D.; W. Ryder, I.G.; E. Simpson and H. Demercudo, Stewards; G. Magnus, Tyler. At the close of the installation, and after the officers had returned thanks, Wor. Bro. G. J. Sargeant, I.P.M., read and presented a report of the affairs of the lodge during his administration, showing that he held 25 lodges, initiated 18 candidates, passed 18, and raised 16 brethren; thus adding several members to the roll, which now numbers 70. He had the pleasure of handing over to his successor the sum of £226 in cash and good securities; this, placed against the amount received by his administration, showed a net increase of £84, after dispensing charity to the extent of £27, and paying the working expenses to date. He also reported that during the year he received an official visit from Dr. R. Hamilton, R.W.D.G. Master, and his officers, and that they were pleased to express their entire satisfaction at the admirable manner in which the books were kept, and the general working gone through. The report having been received and ordered to be entered on the minutes, a vote of thanks was recorded to Bro. Sargeant, and his administration, and it was unanimously resolved "That a testimonial be procured and presented by this lodge to the Wor. George James Sargeant, as a mark of appreciation of his services, and a token of the esteem and regard in which he is held by the brethren of this lodge." The lodge having been closed, the brethren, numbering over 100, adjourned to the refreshment room, where a splendid banquet was provided. The attention paid to the visitors by the members of the Royal Lodge rendered the evening a most enjoyable one, the brethren separating at 2.30 next morning.

HAMILTON LODGE (No. 1440).—The installation meeting of this lodge took place at the Lodge Rooms in Spanish Town, on the 7th ult. There was a goodly number of Past Masters and members of the sister lodges present. The following is a list of the officers forming the administration Wor. Bro. W. G. McFarlane, W.M.; Bros. A. G. French, S.W.; C. T. Sanguisette, J.W.; W. D. Byles, Treas.; J. F. Rickards, Sec.; G. Levy, S.D.; C. M. L. Kerr, J.D.; C. J. James, I.G.; J. Dedcon, Tyler. Lodge having been closed, the brethren adjourned to a sumptuous banquet, at which every one enjoyed himself.

NEW WORKS ON FREEMASONRY.

I am very pleased to see that Bro. Lamony is about to issue a history of the Craft in Cumberland and Westmoreland from 1740 (according to the veteran Mason, Bro. Tweddell), and I trust that other provinces will be privileged to find members who will continue the good work. The history of certain lodges, and of all old provinces, is a most useful and necessary work, and our esteemed Bro. Gould's "Four Old Lodges," with the valuable lists of lodges from 1723, will enable brethren willing to look up their lodge histories to trace all such of the "moderns" from 1723 to the "Union."

W. J. HUGHAN.

BODE, JOHANN J. C.—He played a considerable part in German Freemasonry towards the latter part of the last century. He was born at Brunswick in 1730, and died at Weimar in 1793, where his grave lies between Lukas Cranach and Musäus, with this inscription: "Restless and courageous he sought after truth, enlightenment, the welfare of humanity." He was made a Mason at Hamburg, in 1761, in the Absalom Lodge, and aided to constitute the Tempel der Ewigkeit Lodge, at Hildesheim, in 1763. In 1764 he joined the Strict Observance, and was for some years a warm supporter of it. He met at the Convent of Wilhelmsbad, in 1782, Baron von Knigge, and was introduced by him into the Illuminati Order. He afterwards became as zealous an opponent of the Strict Observance as he had previously been in its favour, and took part in forming a "Bund" or Union of German Freemasonry. His utility was, however, marred by his unreal and unhistorical theory of the Jesuit origin of Freemasonry, now entirely given up, however at one time, in the interests of the House of Stuart, these astute intriguers may have endeavoured to make use of Freemasonry. He was a man of attainments and ability, and a friend of Lessing's, and published many translations and works both at Hamburg and Weimar. His was an adventurous life. He began as a musician in the Brunswick army, he then joined the Hanoverian service, and published some musical compositions. He then went to Hamburg, where he became first a teacher of languages, and then a bookseller. He married three wives, and outlived them all, and seems to have had much family unhappiness and misfortune. From 1778 to 1793, the date of his death, he remained at Weimar, devoting himself to literature, finding a friendly patroness in the widow of the well-known and eminent statesman Von Bernstorff. He translated Bonneville's "Les Jesuites chassés," etc., and was editor from 1776 and 1793 of the "Almanach für die Br. Freimaurer." Kloss mentions several controversial pamphlets of his. Lenning and the "Handbuch" tell us that he died a "Geheimrath" of Hesse Darmstadt. Thory says he was an "Aulic Counsellor."—Kenning's Cyclopaedia.

MASONS, COMPANY OF.—Is one of the Livery Companies of London, but not one of the twelve great ones. In the reign of Edward III., however, it was represented in the council. The company had a coat of arms granted them by Wm. Hawkeslowe, Clarenceux King of Arms, in the fourth of Edward IV., 1464, confirmed by Thomas Benett, alias Clarenceux Kyng of Armes of the South, in the twelfth year of King Henry VIII., 1521, and entered by Henry St. George Richmond, 1634. See "Arms of Freemasonry." It is doubtful, somewhat, when this company was actually incorporated by Royal Charter. It has been said, not until the reign of Charles II. Ashmole mentions a meeting in the hall in Basinghall-street in 1684; but the minutes of the company do not refer to it, and Ashmole was not a member of the company. It was, in our opinion, entirely distinct from the "Society of Freemasons," though many of the Freemasons mentioned by Ashmole as present at the meeting in Basinghall-street were members of the Masons' Company. Indeed the fact that they were members of the Masons' Company, and yet admitted into the "Fellowship" in Masons' Hall, Basinghall-street, is a proof to our mind that the two associations were entirely distinct. No record of such meeting exists in the books of the company, and the Masons' Company did not dine that day or that year at the Hall-Moon, Cheapside. Indeed, when we come to look into Ashmole's words critically, it is plain, we think, that at that memorable meeting two events took place,—first, that he himself, as he says, was admitted into the Fellowship of Freemasonry; and secondly, that several other persons were admitted into Freemasonry. In what Ashmole's admission consisted, we are not told. He calls himself the "Senior Fellow" among them (his terminology being neither very critical nor correct). He probably means no more than this: that he was the oldest Freemason actually amongst those present. Whether Ashmole was admitted to what we call the Second Degree, or Third Degree, is impossible, we apprehend, to say; though, following the evidence of the Scottish Minute Books as far as they are decisive on the subject, as we have so far no available English evidence of that date, we should be inclined to say Fellow of Craft. The "Fellows" appear to be indifferently used. The accepted "Fellows" seem to have been nine in number. The allusion to William Wise, Master of the Company in 1684, which is historically correct, proves that there was an essential difference between the two associations—the one being the Masons' or Freemasons' Company, the other the "Society of Freemasons," to which "Worshipful Society of Freemasons of the City of London" Robert Padgett Clerk belonged who transcribed the Antiquity MS. in 1686, and who, we are assured by competent authority, did not belong to, nor is his name to be found in the books of, the Masons' Company. We then come to the conclusion that the Masons' Company was one thing, the Society of Freemasons, like those lodges mentioned by Dr. Plot as existing in Staffordshire in 1786, quite separate and sui generis.

Obituary.

BRO. JOHN HEGARTY.

We take the following from the Ceylon Times of the 24th April:—

We deeply regret to announce the death of Bro. John Hegarty, the manager of the Colombo Gas Works, which occurred very suddenly early yesterday morning. Bro. Hegarty's health has never been strong since the visit of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales to the island; the worry, anxiety, and exposure to the heat he then experienced in superintending the illuminating of the city in honour of the occasion culminating in an attack of typhoid fever, which completely prostrated him for a while, and permanently weakened his constitution. For some months back he had been contemplating a voyage home to recruit his health, and had made arrangements, we believe, to leave early next month. On Saturday, however, he felt so ill that he took to his bed, but was not considered to be in danger. On Monday he appeared to be much better, and decided to move from his rooms at the gas works the next day to a friend's bungalow in the Cinnamon Gardens. About four a.m., however, he was found dead in his bed. Bro. Hegarty was 39 years of age, and his death will be deeply deplored by all who knew him. He was a man of the strictest integrity, assiduous in the discharge of his professional duties, and extremely popular from his many genial qualities. He was a most accomplished and conscientious Mason withal, and not only held the rank of Past Master, but was also one of the principal officers of the recently-established Provincial Grand Lodge of Ceylon. The great respect and esteem in which he was held was testified yesterday by the large and representative assembly at his funeral, amongst those present being Bros. Captain Gorman, P.G.M., Ceylon; J. Maitland, D.P.G.M.; and about 30 or 40 of the brethren, together with many of our leading citizens. The pall-bearers were—Mr. R. Tatham, Mr. Grinlinton, Captain Gorman, Mr. Cantuelli, Mr. E. B. Creasy, Mr. Guthrie, Dr. Tyner, and Mr. Wardrop. There were also present, amongst others, Mr. Hugh Neville, Mr. E. C. Britton, Mr. E. C. Davies, Mr. A. O. Joseph, Mr. Ludovici, Mr. Vanderstraaten, &c., &c. The funeral service was performed by the Rev. W. F. Kelly, Colonial Chaplain. Bro. Hegarty leaves a widow and three children, who are in England.

Mrs. Hegarty is now residing in Croydon, and she is very anxious to get one or two of her children into the Masonic Schools. No doubt, when the circumstances of the case are made known to the Prince of Wales, His Royal Highness will interest himself in the matter. Masons in Croydon, as indeed they are everywhere, are always energetic in aiding those entrusted to their care, and probably no case more pathetically appeals to them than this. Bro. Matthew Pratt, of Brigstock House, Thornton Heath, has, in the kindest manner, offered to use his influence, which, we need scarcely say, is, in a Masonic sense, most valuable.—Croydon Guardian.

BRO. CHARLES H. PULHAM, UNA LODGE, No. 773, NEW YORK.

The soul of this worthy and highly-esteemed brother quitted its earthly tenement for the Grand Lodge above on Tuesday, the 13th ult. The event has cast a gloom and a very saddening influence over our American brethren as well as many friends at Warrington and Frome, by all of whom the deceased was regarded with affection. His upright walk in life, dignified courtesy, and gentlemanly bearing combined to render him also a general favourite. Bro. Pulham was originally educated by his father for the Church, but, this idea being abandoned, he adopted the profession of a teacher, and was for some years with a brother well known to our readers, Bro. John Bwes, of Warrington. After leaving Warrington, he accepted a mastership at Shoreham College, Sussex. In 1870 Bro. Pulham emigrated to America and embarked in the profession of journalism, first in connection with the New York Express, and afterwards with the Times, of which paper he was the city editor for nearly seven years, and till his death. In 1877 our brother was elected president of the Press Club, a position both of honour and responsibility. The New York Times thus refers to the deceased: "As a journalist he was distinguished by a keen appreciation of news, untiring energy and marked executive ability. In his personal relations Bro. Pulham illustrated the best traits of the old English stock from which he sprang. Honourable, manly, and genial, he made friends readily, and retained them tenaciously. His tastes ran in natural history, but his duties left him little time to pursue them." His Masonic career is one which especially concerns us. After filling various offices in the Una Lodge, he was in December last unanimously elected its Worshipful Master, and in that position fully maintained his popularity. In the lodge he earnestly exhorted his brethren ever to remember that Freemasonry is a beautiful system of morality, veiled in allegory and illustrated by symbols, and that the most apparently trivial incidents in the ceremonies had their deep and hidden meanings. Masonry, he was wont to say, is not a mere matter of secret ceremonies, it is something far higher and holier than these. A man may have attained to the highest honours the Craft can bestow, and be perfectly up in all its lore and working, and yet be as far from being a Freemason as he was before his initiation. The rites and ceremonies of Freemasonry are essential to its existence—they form the outworks whereby its treasures are, as they ought to be, guarded from the unworthy, and, therefore, cannot under any circumstances be dispensed with; but Masonry exists in the heart, and is composed of brotherly love, relief, and truth, and that heavenly consummation of all virtues, charity, so beautifully explained in the Volume of the Sacred Law, as "bearing all things, hoping all things, believing all things, enduring all things, and thinking no evil," and it is to the practice of this virtue that our Masonic efforts should ever tend, not only in its common acceptance of pecuniary relief, but as embracing true brotherly love to the full extent inculcated in the sacred writings. Initiation alone never did, nor never can make a man a true Mason; it gives the key, but the mere possession of the key does not constitute ownership of the treasure; it sows the seed, but unless the soil be good, and carefully cultivated, fruit will not be produced; it opens the portal, but unless the road be traversed the goal cannot be attained; it lays the foundation, but without labour the superstructure cannot be raised. Bro. Pulham died of consumption, although the doctors assured him recently that he had a "sound pair of English lungs." He had been ailing since Christmas last, but had resumed his editorial duties early in May. He was found dead in his bed on the 13th ult. Alluding to this fact, there are lines in the New York Mail, of which the following is the closing verse:—

"Unlike the common fate of men,
He died alone, yet not alone—
For ministering angels took him then
Before his Lord and Master's throne."

His funeral took place on the 15th ult., from St. Paul's Chapel, Broadway. For an hour before the service the "casket" containing the body remained in the vestibule of the church, and the lid being thrown back, such of his friends as desired to take a last look at his features were permitted to do so. A large number of journalists, brethren of the mystic tie, official personages, and others assembled on this occasion. The first-named numbered at least two hundred. Among the beautiful floral decorations with which the "casket" was covered was a large scroll of white camellias, roses, lilies of the valley, white carnations, and spirea; the ends of the floral rod from which the scroll depended were of pansies. On the face of the scroll were the words "Well done." This was a tribute from the editorial staff of the Times. A conspicuous emblem was a broken column of white carnations twined with simlax and rosebuds, sent by and bearing the initials of the New York Press Club. A floral star and wreath inclosing Masonic emblems bore the name of Una Lodge. Besides this there was a pillow of white flowers, crossed by a quill pen, wreaths and bouquets from other friends. On the lid of the "casket" also lay the Masonic apron and jewels of the dead Master. The service was that of the Protestant Episcopal Church, which was rendered chorally. As a last sad tribute of respect our brother was interred in Greenwood Cemetery, with Masonic rites, according to ancient form. The ceremony was impressively performed by W. Bro. J. Wallace McWhinnie, the W.M. of Montgomery Lodge, assisted by the officers and brethren of the Una Lodge.

CONSECRATION OF THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT CHAPTER (No. 1524.)

At the last meeting of the Grand Chapter a charter was granted for a Chapter to be attached to the Duke of Connaught Lodge, No. 1524, to meet at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-Street, the consecration of which took place on Friday, the 30th ultimo.

Comp. William Stephens, Z. 874, P.Z. 862, 1365, and 1489, was the consecrating officer, and he was ably assisted by Comp. H. G. Buss, Past Grand Standard Bearer, acting as H. Comp.; John Hervey, Grand Scribe, E. as J.; and Comp. C. A. Smith, Z. 1305, acting as Director of Ceremonies.

The three principals named in the Charter were Comps. William Henry Lee, P.M. 975, and 1524, Z.; Neville Green, W.M. 1524, H.; and Thomas Charles Chapman, P.M. 1524, Z., 192, J.

After the Chapter had been formally opened, the M.E.Z. Comp. William Stephens delivered the inaugural address, and said: "We are met here to-day for the purpose of consecrating this R.A. Chapter, and I must apologise if I fail to carry out the work according to usual precedent, or with that solemnity which is customary on occasions of this kind. Greatly as I esteem the honour of assisting in the duties of the R.A. degree, I cannot forget the solemn duties I have undertaken in endeavouring to render this ceremony acceptable to you, and in accordance with the sublime precepts it teaches. It affords me great pleasure in rendering my humble services to the members of this proposed new chapter; and I should have felt most diffident had I been alone to-day, but having the able assistance of the Grand Scribe E., and that of Comp. Buss, P.G.S.B., I have no doubt they will keep me in the right path, and remind me if I stray from what is the usual course on occasions like the present. R.A. Masonry has always been to me most attractive; it is the most august, sublime, and more important than all the degrees which precede it. It impresses on our minds a belief of the being and existence of the Supreme Grand High Priest of our salvation, who is without beginning of days or ending of life, and forcibly reminds us of that reverence which is due to His Most Holy Name. In this degree matters of great importance in Freemasonry are brought to light after being lost for a period of nearly 500 years, and without a knowledge of which no student in this degree can become proficient. I therefore hope all who enter this chapter as members will appreciate its teachings, that the officers will diffuse its principles, and that in after years we may find it bearing good fruit. With these remarks I am sure I shall receive the support of the companions who are present in assisting us to carry out these duties with propriety and decorum.

The petition and charter were then read by Comp. W. H. Brand, acting Scribe E., and the companions formally approved of the officers named therein.

Comp. John Hervey, Grand Scribe E., then said that having been called upon rather unexpectedly and at a late period to take part in the proceedings of the day he was not prepared with a lengthened oration. He reminded the companions that when he first entered Royal Arch Masonry very great difficulty was experienced in obtaining a charter for a new chapter, and in almost every case the petition formed the subject of much discussion and contention in Grand Chapter. In fact, unless a lodge had a large number of members, and was strong in influence, it was impossible to succeed with the petition; but in the present day there was a continual increase in the number of new chapters, for when nine regular registered Royal Arch Masons signed a petition, and the lodge had been a certain time in existence, the charter was granted almost as a matter of course. In times gone by the chapter was more closely attached to a lodge than in the present day; in fact the charter was then considered in a great degree as belonging to the lodge in which the chapter was attached; but this had gradually changed, for the reason that in starting a chapter it was very difficult, except in special cases, to obtain from a young lodge a sufficient number of Royal Arch Masons to form a chapter. You could not always find three qualified installed Masters to occupy the chairs, and competent brethren to fill the other offices. Another reason for the severance of this alliance was that, unless a lodge had a large number of members it could not of itself feed a chapter, which required a continual influx of new blood to supply the places of those members who resigned or dropped out from various causes. Hence it was that, as a rule, chapters gradually lost their connection with the lodges from which they derived their number and their origin. Thus it was that, as time progressed, the number of Royal Arch Chapters had steadily increased, and he had great pleasure in attending to-day, to assist Comp. Stephens in consecrating the Duke of Connaught Chapter, thus adding another to the long roll of chapters on the register of the Grand Chapter of England. He had every confidence in the Principals who were to be installed to-day, and he felt sure that every effort would be made by all the members of the chapter to render the ceremony of the Royal Arch degree in a manner befitting its importance and solemnity, for if this was not strictly attended to the ceremony would be deprived of all its beauty, besides being perfectly unintelligible to the candidate.

The consecration ceremony was then proceeded with, after which Comp. Stephens installed Comp. William Henry Lee, P.M. 975 and 1524, as M.E.Z., Comp. Neville Green, W.M. 1524, as H., and Comp. Thomas Charles Chapman, P.M. 1524, W.M. Elect 869, Z. 192, as J. The M.E.Z. then invested Comp. W. H. Brand, S.W. 1524, as Scribe E., Comp. R. A. Steel, P.M. 1194, as Scribe N., and Comp. Elias Somers, P.M. 1603, as P.S. Comp. Marsh was elected Janitor.

A vote of thanks was cordially given to the Consecrating Officers, and Comps. John Hervey, Grand Scribe E.; Henry G. Buss, Past Grand Standard Bearer; and Wm. Stephens, P.Z., &c., &c., were unanimously elected honorary members of the chapter.

A long list of candidates for exaltation was read by Comp. Brand, acting Scribe E., after which chapter was closed until Wednesday, the 11th inst., when the first regular meeting will be held.

The musical portion of the ceremony was ably rendered by Comp. Frederick H. Cozens and Theodore Distlo.

The brethren then adjourned to an elegant banquet, served in Bro. Clemow's best style, after which the usual list of toasts was proceeded with.

Comp. William Henry Lee, M.E.Z., said: I now rise to propose the toast which at all our Masonic gatherings invariably takes precedence, it is "The Health of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen," may she live long to reign over us, and may the remainder of her reign be characterised by increased prosperity in the country, happiness and contentment among all classes of her subjects, and peace throughout the extent of her vast dominions. I give you "The Queen and Royal Arch Masonry."

Comp. Lee, M.E.Z., said: The next toast I have to introduce to your notice is that of "His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales," M.W. Grand Master of Freemasons, but this evening we drink his health as the First Grand Principal of the Order of Royal Arch Masons. The great interest His Royal Highness takes in Freemasonry is well known to all the companions present, and when we consider the multifarious duties His Royal Highness is called upon to perform both at home and abroad, and the very able manner he discharges those duties among all classes of society, we must acknowledge that the Craft is deeply indebted to His Royal Highness for devoting so much time and attention to the interests of Freemasonry. At one time we have His Royal Highness visiting the subjects of Her Majesty in a far distant country, and performing his Masonic duties among our brethren in the East; at another time we find him busily engaged in promoting the success of an International Exhibition across the Channel; to-day, perhaps, performing the social duties of his position among the highest and noblest in the land, while to-morrow may find him interesting himself in promoting the welfare and the benefit of the humblest classes. May he be spared to us for many years, and may he in conjunction with his amiable wife, the Princess of Wales, the beloved of her adopted country, long continue to enjoy every happiness.

Comp. Lee, M.E.Z.: I have now to propose, for your acceptance, the next toast, which is that of "The Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, Pro Grand Z., Lord Skelmersdale, Grand H., and the rest of the Grand Officers, Present and Past." Most of the companions present have had the pleasure and the privilege of witnessing the able manner in which the Earl of Carnarvon presides over Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter, and the great tact and ability he displays in the fulfilment of his important duties. His zeal for Freemasonry is an earnest that he takes the greatest interest in the Order, the prosperity of which he is ever ready to further. Lord Skelmersdale devotes a great deal of time and attention to Freemasonry, and officiates in a very able manner in the occasional absence of Lord Carnarvon. We have with us this evening two distinguished Grand Officers, whom I am very pleased and proud to welcome among us, I allude to our Comps. John Hervey, Grand Scribe E., and Buss, Past Grand Standard Bearer, to both of whom we are very much indebted for their attendance here to-day. They are always ready and willing to render every possible assistance either in Craft or Arch Masonry, and I am sure I am expressing the feelings of the companions present when I express the hope that they be spared for many years to assist the Craft with their counsel and advice.

Comp. Hervey, Grand Scribe E., in returning thanks for the Grand Officers, expressed the high opinion he entertained of the Pro Grand Z., who was so kindly and genial in his manner as to render him beloved by all who knew him. Lord Skelmersdale deserved well of the Craft for his zealous exertions in its behalf, while the rest of the Grand Officers were ever ready to assist the Craft with their counsel and advice.

Comp. Stephens, P.Z., &c.: In the absence of a Past Principal, the duty devolves on me of proposing the health of the M.E.Z. I have known him in Freemasonry for a considerable time, and know how capable he is to fulfil the duties of the Principal's chair in this chapter. I know he is surrounded by many companions who entertain the kindest of feelings towards him, or they would not have placed him in the proud position he occupies. I have no diffidence in submitting this toast, feeling assured it will be received in the same spirit in which it is proposed. Therefore, I offer for your acceptance the name of Comp. Lee, wishing him health and strength during the year so as to perform the arduous duties of his office, and that he may long be spared to be associated with the Duke of Connaught Chapter, and to see the fulfilment of his earnest desire, viz., the future prosperity of this chapter. I propose "The Health of Comp. Lee, M.E.Z."

Comp. William Henry Lee, M.E.Z., said that he fully appreciated the very kind manner in which Comp. Stephens had proposed his health, although he was very diffident with regard to his ability to carry out the duties of the important position he had undertaken, by accepting which he felt that a great responsibility had devolved upon him. In occupying the first chair of the Duke of Connaught Chapter this evening, his mind reverted to the time when he was installed, some four years since, as first W.M. of the Duke of Connaught Lodge, and he could not help calling to mind some well-known faces present on that occasion, but who had since gone from amongst us. The lodge was consecrated by the late Bro. Little, and Bro. John Boyd and John Emmeus, Past Grand Officers, were present on that occasion, as also Bro. Charles Payne, the late Grand Tyler, all of whom had gone to their long home. He should endeavour by a faithful discharge of his duties to merit the confidence reposed in him.

Comp. Lee, M.E.Z.: I now rise to propose a toast, which I may fairly designate as the toast of the evening, it is "The Consecrating Officers." I need hardly say how much we are indebted to those distinguished companions for the very able manner in which the ceremony of consecration has been carried out, to say nothing of the installation ceremonies so efficiently worked by Comp. Stephens. Comp. Stephens has carried out the duties allotted to him most admirably, and he has been ably seconded by Comp. Hervey, who so kindly came forward to assist in carrying out the duties of the consecration. We have also had the advantage of the helping hand of Comp. Buss, who is one of those genial companions we invariably appeal to when we get into difficulty or require assistance in Masonic matters; indeed there is scarcely a lodge or a chapter in the London district that is not indebted to Comp. Buss for some advice kindly given, or assistance considerably rendered at some period or another. On my own behalf, and on behalf of the founders of the chapter, I tender to the Consecrating Officers our sincere thanks for the very valuable services they have rendered to us this day.

Comp. William Stephens, M.E. P.Z., &c.: I thank you very sincerely for the very kind remarks made by you in proposing the toast of the Consecrating Officers. Individually I thank you very much for the manner in which the toast has been proposed, and also the companions generally for the kind reception which it met with at their hands, and I am more than grateful if my poor services have met with your approval. I assure you, Most Excellent that on receiving your invitation to consecrate the chapter, I felt very much flattered by the wish expressed by you on behalf of the companions; but having never before undertaken the important duties of Consecrating Officer, I hesitated at first to comply with the request, but knowing that I was well acquainted with the majority of the founders, and that my failings would be overlooked, I consented, although with a little anxiety, particularly as some difficulty was experienced in finding a companion to act as Chaplain. However, Ex. Comp. Hervey, with his usual kindness, came to our assistance, but without his aid and that of Comp. Buss, I fear I should have signally failed in carrying out the duties to your satisfaction. However, I am pleased that this day's proceedings have been in accordance with your wishes, and I feel assured that this chapter, under the guidance of such excellent Principals and officers, will flourish and become one of the best working chapters in the City of London. Again thanking you on my own part, and feeling assured my colleagues would wish to say a few words in response, I shall conclude with my best wishes for the future prosperity of the Duke of Connaught Chapter.

Comp. John Hervey, Grand Scribe E., briefly responded, and expressed his great satisfaction at the able manner in which Bro. Stephens had performed his duty, and the gratification it had given him to assist in consecrating the Duke of Connaught Chapter, and to which he wished every possible success.

Comp. Buss, P.G. Standard Bearer, also responded and thanked the M.E.Z. and companions for the kind manner in which his name has been mentioned in connection with the toast, and for the high appreciation they entertained of his small services. He wished to the Duke of Connaught Chapter every success and every prosperity, and would at the same time advise them to be particularly careful in the admission of new members. Every companion who signed the petition became a member of the chapter, and it was very difficult indeed to get rid of either exaltees or joining member who afterwards made himself obnoxious; but he was speaking to companions who had had a little experience in a matter of this kind in connection with the lodge, and he was quite sure that the interests of the chapter would be well watched over by the principals. They had in Comp. Lee a companion who was well acquainted with the laws and regulations both of the Craft and Royal Arch, and he was ably supported by his two principals.

Comp. Lee, M.E.Z., then proposed "The Visitors," gave them a hearty welcome to the chapter, and called upon Comp. Charles Arthur Smith, Z. 1305, to respond.

Comp. C. A. Smith, Z. 1305, in returning thanks for "The Visitors," expressed the great gratification he felt at having had the privilege of being present at the consecration of the Duke of Connaught Chapter, more especially as he had had the opportunity of assisting at the installation of Comp. Lee, whom he had known for many years, from his first introduction into Freemasonry in the lodge of which he himself was a member. He was sure that under the combined rule of Comp. Lee and the other principals the chapter would be a great success.

Comp. Lee, M.E.Z., then proposed "The Second and Third Principals," and said that he felt much satisfaction in having such able companions as Comps. Green and Chapman to assist him as second and third Principals. He had been associated with those companions for some considerable time in connection with the lodge, and he was sure that they would work as harmoniously in the chapter as they had done in Craft Masonry. In Comp. Chapman they had a companion who was the present first Principal of the Lion and the Lamb Chapter, a very important and influential chapter, and he felt sure that from him they would receive every assistance and support.

Comp. Green, in responding, said that, on behalf of himself, he heartily thanked the M.E.Z. for the most kind way in which he had proposed the toast, and also the companions for their kind reception of the same. He must, at the same time, express on his own behalf the pleasure it had given him at receiving such a mark of their confidence, and hoped that his conduct as second Principal would be satisfactory to the members of the chapter, and that in due time he would be thought worthy of the distinguished position that Comp. Lee now held.

Comp. Thomas Charles Chapman (P.Z. 192), J., said he felt grateful to the M.E.Z. for the very kind manner in which he had referred to him as the J., and should always be ready to do his best to promote the best interests of the chapter. He cordially endorsed the remarks of Comp. Buss as to the indiscriminate admission of candidates, who were more easily admitted than got rid of.

Comp. W. H. Lee, M.E.Z., next proposed "The Officers," and said that although the officers were not at present very numerous they were full of zeal. To Comp. Brand, S.E., he was greatly indebted for the able assistance he had rendered in the arrangements for the consecration, and all present must have been gratified with the manner in which Comp. Steel, S.N., had carried out the duties of Wine Steward that evening, in a manner which had added greatly to the comfort of the companions and the success of the gathering. There was yet another officer he must refer to, he alluded to Comp. Somers, the P.S. of the chapter, an office of considerable importance, and the duties of which would, he had no doubt, be ably and efficiently performed by Comp. Somers.

Comps. Brand, S.E., and Steel, S.N., briefly responded, and returned thanks for the honour conferred upon them.

Comp. Somers, P.S., also responded, and expressed his willingness to do all in his power to promote the success of the chapter.

The Janitor's toast was then given by Comp. Marsh, and the companions separated.

The proceedings were enlivened during the evening by some excellent singing by Comps. F. H. Czerns, Theodore Distin, and Bro. Bell.

The visitors were Comps. C. A. Smith, Z. 1305; John Osborn, 975; and H. W. Mayes, 55.

Reviews.

THE CONSTITUTIONS OF FREEMASONRY FOR THE LODGE OF ANCIENT CARTHAGE, No. 1717.

We have received, thanks to the great courtesy and fraternal goodwill of Bro. Broadley, D.D.G.M. Malta, and W.M. and M.E.Z. 1717, a very elegant copy of the "essential parts of the Book of Constitutions," translated into Italian for the use of the brethren of the Ancient Carthage Lodge, Tunis, E.C. As the preface says—"The Italian language being that most generally known by the members of the Ancient Carthage Lodge, this work has been published in pursuance of a resolution passed on the subject. It is dated Tunis, April 6, 1879. It is translated into Italian by A. Perini, M.D., J.W. 1717. The little work is neatly printed, and seemingly most admirably translated, and reflects no little credit on the brethren of the lodge and the zeal of the able translator, Dr. Perini. We are pleased to see it, in order that our good Italian brethren may see it and study it. Nothing would give us greater pleasure than to hear that the Grand Orient of Italy had determined to "work back" and "work forwards" on the "old lines" of the English Book of Constitutions, once used by it remembered in Italian Masonry, as we feel quite sure of this, that to the reverent Italian mind, unbiassed by Ultramontane violence and superstition, the tolerant and yet religious position of the Grand Lodge of England would be certain to commend itself. And nothing would so strengthen Freemasonry in Italy, nothing would constitute so safe a reply to those who attack it from a Roman Catholic, or those who weaken it from an unbelieving point of action. We thank Bro. Broadley much for the Book, and congratulate Bro. Perrin sincerely on the able manner in which he has performed his pleasing task.

THE AGAMEMNON OF ÆSCHYLUS. Translated by the EARL OF CARNARVON. John Murray.

We cannot find room, unfortunately, in our limited columns for an adequate review of this contribution to classical studies by our esteemed and distinguished Pro Grand Master. Any work emanating from his pen would always command the attention of Freemasons and the public, and whether we have regard to his hereditary prestige or public services, as an Order we may well rejoice to have him at our head. The work which he has just put out, though, perhaps, in its scope and study, a little above the average readers of the Freemason, deserves the attention of the student and the scholar, as worthy of his high name, and a graceful offering to the classic muse. We are among those who truly deprecate the insane attack which some pseudo-reformers in educational matters have lately made upon the Greek language. It will be a very evil day for us, as patriots, when our statesmen and leading citizens rejoice in their ignorance of classic studies, and if university education, and we are pleased to note that among that goodly band of men of high culture and university renown, Lord Carnarvon is not ashamed to be included—a good example to many who seem to be only too ready to throw a stone at the kindly mother who trained them and made them. It is impossible in a notice like this to give a critical review of so interesting a work, but we can do this, we can commend it to the study of those who have time to spare and inclination to read an effective and honest English translation, one of the most remarkable of the tragedies of Æschylus. Even to-day we can reopen our old "Dundorf" with pleasure, and follow Lord Carnarvon through his faithful renderings of the Greek text.

THE ROSICRUCIAN. April, 1879. George Kenning 198, Fleet-street.

We congratulate the Editor on the improved appearance of this magazine, in that the trying double columns, trying that is for the eyes, have given way to a goodly page and a neat margin. The Rosicrucian has now a useful career before it, and we trust that though from praise is needless and might seem misplaced, that in its future numbers it will continue to maintain its high character for editorial care and Masonic utility. "Ne plus ultra" seems to be its motto, and which it seeks to make specially its own.

THE NEW DISTRICT GRAND MASTER OF BOMBAY.

Bro. Tyrrell Leith has just been installed District Grand Master of Bombay, vice Bro. Gibbs, who comes home. Bro. Tyrrell Leith was initiated in the Isaac Newton University Lodge, Cambridge, and was one of the founders and P.M. of the University Lodge, No. 1118, London. He is also a P.M. of Lodge St. George, Bombay, and a member of the University Chapter 1118, and many other lodges and chapters in his district. Bro. Tyrrell Leith is a member of the 33^d, Ancient and Accepted Rite, and Knight Templar, &c. He was educated at Trinity Hall, where he took the legal degrees of LL.B., and joined the Middle Temple. Bro. Tyrrell Leith was also the founder of the first Hindoo Lodge in India.

Our worthy Bro. William Harris, after eighteen years' service of important duties, sixteen of which were at the Executive Department at Scotland Yard, has been appointed by Col. Sir W. G. Henderson, K.C.B., as superintendent of the S. or Hampstead Division. He leaves his office with the heartiest good wishes of all those brought in contact with him, and we heartily congratulate him on the appointment and the S Division on their having so able and esteemed an officer over them. Bro. Harris has been frequently specially commended, and holds the position of J.W. of the Domatic Lodge, &c., &c.

MASONIC STATISTICS.

We have often before remarked how very valuable a "factor" correct Masonic statistics would be in the general consideration of the "status" and prospects of Freemasonry to-day. Partial efforts, from time to time, have been made to take a general survey of the Masonic world, but so far, at the best, they are but "approximate" efforts, and err generally on one side or the other, exaggeration of numbers or defect of precision. Accordingly, the most sensational statements are sometimes hazarded, and the most divergent views tendered as to the exact number, for instance, in the world to-day. Alarmed Ultramontanes, with a strong leaning to "old wives' fables," talk of the "millions" of this "dangerous secret society," and even some Masonic writers are too fond of "drawing the long bow," and swelling out, beyond authority, the members of our Masonic family. In Great Britain the number is variously estimated, as we are enthusiastic or cautious, and varies from 150,000 to about 90,000, that is to say, about 100,000 for England, and 50,000 divided between Ireland and Scotland. We are ourselves inclined to think the numbers are in England about 70,000, Scotland and Ireland about 20,000 each. But, of course, we may err on this side or the other a little, and we do not profess to do more than make a guess by an approximate calculation, allowing an average for lodge membership. The Neue Freie Presse, of Vienna, which the Times says last week, is supposed to have access to exceptional sources of information on Masonic subjects, gives the following statistics of the recognized lodges:—In Germany, 342; Switzerland, 33; Hungary, 44; Roumania, 11; Servia, 1; Ireland, 330; Gibraltar, 5; Malta, 4; Sweden and Norway, 18; France, 287; Spain, 300; Portugal, 22; Italy, 110; Greece, 11; Turkey, 26; Egypt, 28; various parts of Africa, 25; South African Colonies, 61; Aden, 1; India, 118; among the islands of the Indian Seas, 16; China, 13; Japan, 5; Australia, 226; the Australian Islands, 4; New Zealand, 84; the United States of North America, 9894; Canada, 535; Cuba, 30; Hayti, 32; Mexico, 13; Brazil, 256; in the other South American States, 170—altogether about 1500 lodges. The number of Freemasons on December 31st, 1878, exceeded five millions. It will be noticed that there are some very important omissions in the enumeration of the Viennese paper. Great Britain, Holland, Belgium, Denmark, and Russia have been quite passed over." It is clear that this account cannot be relied on, and that the "sources" of information on Masonic subjects, which the Times supposes the Neue Freie Presse to possess, are not purely Masonic or sufficiently accurate. As a general rule the number of lodges may be assumed, we think, nearly to be correct, with the exception of Spain, the number of which is greatly exaggerated; but if to the number we add the lodges of England, Holland, Belgium, and Denmark, we shall, according to Van Dalen's carefully compiled Jahr Buch fur Freimaurer, and making certain needful allowances for evident exaggerations, reach pretty clearly, we think, the safe number of 14,580 lodges in the world, of course in round numbers. In the United States and Canada the Freemasons number about 700,000, and we feel sure, from clear calculations, that in Europe they may be estimated at about 300,000 more. If we take South America and the East into calculation, we probably assume at a grand total of something like 1,300,000, and with that "tottle" we must be content, eschewing fabulous legends and mythic millions. Probably, the next few years will witness a rapid increase of our Order, and it is not impossible that in the year of light and grace 2000, the Freemasons in the world may reach 3,000,000. But the statement of the Neue Freie Presse that the number of Masons in the world now exceeds "five millions" is manifestly inaccurate, and cannot, in any sense, be relied upon. Still, here is ground for alarm for many timid and turgid minds, but we think it right to point out that "Freemasons" have nothing to do with political secret societies, whether Jesuit or others, and that that only is true Freemasonry, which seeks to avow T.G.A.O.T.U. as before men, and to develop Masonic charity and morality, as well as loyalty and order, and the social virtues on the sacred sanctions and by the holy injunctions of the law and the word of God.

SPURIOUS FREEMASONRY.

We notice in the Monde Maçonnique for May the following paragraph, which we have carefully translated from the French—see page 16: The independent lodge of "Les Philadelphes et la Concorde reunis, Orient de Londres" proceeded on the 2nd April to the installation of its officers for the year 1879-80. After the opening of the work by Bro. Benoit, W.M., Bro. Moire, P.M., took the gavel of W.M., and reinstalled Bro. Benoit as W.M. All the officers were then installed in their respective offices. At the banquet which concluded this meeting, the three regular toasts of the lodge were drunk. 1. To the oppressed of the whole world and to their freedom." This was spoken by a Bro. Bourgeois. 2. "To progress and its triumph." This was spoken by Bro. Florent, the Orator. 3. "To all Masons and to the speedy triumph of our Masonic motto." This was spoken to by a Bro. John Lane, Treasurer, who it seems addressed the meeting in English. Now we think it right to call the attention of our brethren to this fact, because this lodge is a clandestine and illegal assembly, professing and practising spurious Masonry. It is famed for its peculiar and political proclivities, and is absolutely illegal by Masonic law, as well as contrary to the laws of the land. We can only warn our English brethren about it, as attendance at its meetings is an act of Masonic illegality, which may be visited by suspension or even expulsion. We are also anxious to mention it because the Treasurer bears an English name, Bro. Lane, and we are desirous of knowing whether he is an English Mason, or merely a member of a surreptitious, illegal assembly of French refugees, unlawfully calling themselves a Masonic lodge. Les Philadelphes have no "charter," and are ipso facto, to use a French expression, "hors de la Maçonnerie," outside of Masonry. We shall be glad to learn that Bro. Lane is not an English Mason, as we must repudiate indignantly this mixing up of political bitterness and violence with the mild, and genial, and truly fraternal spirit of Freemasonry, which, as we have often said before, is only Freemasonry when it adheres to the great principles of loyalty and charity, of reverence for God and of sympathy for man. To represent Freemasonry as a semi-political society, setting itself against rulers and order, a friend to the anarchical and communist, is untrue in itself, dishonouring to Freemasonry, and destructive of its real character. If Bro. Lane be really an English Mason, we trust that measures will at once be authoritatively taken, to prevent him disobeying and disavowing publicly, as before our own loyal English Craft, the fundamental principles and unchanging Constitutions of our Order.

TRUE CHARITY.

The Monde Maçonnique for May contains an extract from La Rivista, which we assume to be authentic, and if so deem it worthy of note. It is a portion of an address by some "brethren of the Christian Faith" to the children of one of the schools in Italy, and certainly is a most elegant and most Christian production, as we feel sure our brethren will admit. It is just possible that their use of the word "Christian" in the present special case may be similar to that which the well-known Duke of Buckingham put upon it, when in Peveril of the Peak he addresses "Ganlesse," or "Christian," that most consummate scoundrel—"Oh, most Christian, Christian." But listen to the flowers of poesy, propriety, and perfume which drop from the lips of this most gentle fraternity, which, by the way, is said to have a very Jesuit flavour, and to be, in fact, an offshoot of that most "secret society." "Freemasonry which mendaciously terms itself a society of benevolence is a collection ("ramassis") of atheists, impious materialists, rationalists, of rascals and debauchees. Freemasonry is the scourge of the Church, of the state of families, and of the world, the scandal of honest people, the perpetual shame, degradation, and dishonour of humanity. According to their Constitutions the Mason, with very few exceptions (pray note that) can only be a skilful thief and an assassin. Their society has for its end to deny God in order to justify, for its own criminal designs, which are to throw down thrones and altars, and to destroy all constituted authority." Lest our readers should think we are exaggerating, which we beg to assure them we never do, we give Bro. Grimaux's translation. "La Maçonnerie qui s'entitule mesongèrement société de bienfaisance, est un ramassis d'athés, d'impies, de matérialistes, de rationalistes, de fripons, et de débauchés. La Maçonnerie est le fléau de l'Eglise, de l'Etat, des familles et du monde, le scandale des honnêtes gens, la honte perpétuelle, la dégradation, le déshonneur, de l'humanité. D'après ses Constitutions, le Maçon,—à part très peu d'exceptions,—ne peut être qu'un habile voleur et un assassin. Cette société a pour but de nier Dieu, afin de justifier ses propres desseins scélérats, qui sont de renverser les trônes et les autels, et de détruire toute autorité constituée." Are not these, kind readers, noble, true, and Christian words? What can be the mental state of such religionists who dare to give utterance to such absolute lies?

ASSISTANT GRAND CHAPLAIN.

The Rev. C. W. Spencer Stanhope, vicar of Crowton, Cheshire, M.A., Merton College, Oxford, was initiated into Freemasonry in the Apollo Lodge, 1862, and having served various offices in that lodge and the Churchill, became W.M. in 1865. In due course, he took the Royal Arch Degree, and was one of the three first Principals at the formation of the Apollo University Chapter. During his residence at Oxford he was most active in all Masonic festivities at "Commemoration," and having taken the Mark Degree in the University Lodge, became W.M. in 1867, and in the following year appointed Grand Chaplain of the Mark Degree in England. He took the Knights Templar Degree in Cœur de Lion Encampment in 1863, and became E.C. in 1867, and afterwards Grand Almoner of England. Bro. Stanhope is a member and Past Master of 428, Sincerity, Northwich, De Tabley, 941, Knutsford, and Unity, 321, Crewe, and has been a member of lodges in Herts and Derbyshire. On the death of George Cornwall Legh, Esq., M.P., he was appointed in 1877 Grand Prior of Cheshire, and during the same year was instrumental in forming the Stanhope Chapter, of the Rose Croix Degree, at Chester, and since then has been elected a member of the 32°. In 1868 Bro. Stanhope was appointed Prov. Grand Chaplain of Cheshire, and is now D. Grand Mark Master of Cheshire and North Wales.

ANCIENT AND ACCEPTED SCOTTISH RITE IN FRANCE.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—
The following extract, translated from a Paris paper, La France, may prove of interest to your readers:—
The Supreme Council of the Scottish Rite has dissolved the Justice Lodge, No. 133, of which the democratic spirit is well known. Several members have further been punished by being suspended from their Masonic privileges, owing to their having demanded that the general regulations of the Craft should be altered to assimilate more closely with modern democratic ideas. This decree of the Supreme Council is one of great importance, as it is signed by Bro. Cremieux, Grand Master of the Scottish Rite, and countersigned by Bro. Guiprey, Grand Chancellor. This decision, affecting a lodge, which, according to La France, is a most active and meritorious one, has provoked much comment, and there will probably be a necessity for calling together a general assembly of lodges.

No doubt, most English Freemasons will consider that Bro. Cremieux acted, under the circumstances, quite rightly; for he evidently wishes the Scottish Rite to be kept free from the taint which affects the Grand Orient, and which has caused that body to be disowned by Freemasons in Great Britain.

I am, Sir, yours fraternally,
S. H. D'AIRGDER,
J.W. Kaiser-i-Kind, No. 1724,
Secretary Bayard, No. 1615.

POLLING FOR THE HOUSE COMMITTEE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—
As I was present last Thursday when this little event came off, pleasing some and displeasing others, I wish to make a suggestion. Owing to the excitement arising from the main business of the day, strange to say, that most important matter the election of female children for the list of candidates took place in almost dumb show. In vain did the gallant Chairman call order, and ask for attention; one or two brethren, who shall be nameless, would talk at the very top of their voices, and completely drowned in the turmoil the accents of Bro. Hedges, and disregarded the requests of our worthy Grand Treasurer. Of all the children elected, six I believe, we could neither hear the names, much less the claims.

It seems that by the present laws it is held that the poll commences at the commencement of the meeting, and closes at five.

At the election for Children in April and October a clause is introduced in the law, declaring that the voting shall commence at the close of the business.

Why should not the same provision be incorporated with the section relating to election of House Committee? As several alterations are likely to be made in October, why will not some energetic brother give notice of such a clause at the next monthly meeting, as it would facilitate business, and render the meeting a reality and not a sham?

Yours fraternally,
A LIFE GOVERNOR.

BOYS' SCHOOL FESTIVAL.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—
In your remarks on Stewards' List for above festival you do West Yorkshire an injustice. I have before me our charity subscription list, issued 1st April, 1879, which shew them twenty-one stewards with a subscription of £309 15s. This number and the amount I have no doubt is more by this time.

I am, sir, yours fraternally,
JOHN BARKER,
Life Governor.

[We are very glad to hear this. We took our information from the official printed list, which was not then complete.]

BOYS' FESTIVAL, JUNE 23RD.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—
Allow me space to correct an error, into which you have fallen, in your issue of the 31st ult., page 220. You say West Yorkshire, generally foremost, has but three Stewards for the coming festival. I cannot tell from what source you obtained your information, it certainly does us an injustice.

We have twenty-two Stewards, of whom two have served once previously, one five times, one six times, and one twelve times before.

Yours faithfully,
HENRY SMITH,
Prov. G. Sec. W. Y.

THE COST OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—
As the following appears in an evening paper, professedly based on a Masonic paper, I beg to say that nothing is more erroneous:

Institution.	No. of Inmates.	Expenditure.
London Orphan Asylum	540	£17,093
Fatherless Children	282	8,076
Royal Albert Asylum	198	5,521
St. Anne's	335	12,707
Royal Masonic Institution for Girls	195	15,317

The comparison is not very favourable to the Freemasons' School."

I hope next week to point out clearly its entire fallacy as a reliable statement.

I am, dear Sir and brother, yours,
A FRIEND TO THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

MASONIC GRAMMAR.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—
I venture to return to this little question, having noticed the remarks of Bro. Dron in your last issue.

I objected originally, as you will remember, to the use of the word "exceptionable," because really conveying an altogether different meaning from that which the context evidently was intended to supply, and I stated that "exceptional" and "exceptionable" were the same, though exceptional was, I was aware, often used, though I thought erroneously now a days.

I do not understand from Bro. Dron's communication that he has yet realized what was the purport of my letter.

Its tone and temper are, as too commonly, I regret to note, in the simplest Masonic discussions, both "bad form" and purely personal, but with these things I have nothing to do, and for them I care nothing, and simply proceed to point out what are the real facts of the case.

There is a modern use, undoubtedly, of "exceptional," which is, however, not warranted by any "standard authority."

The word is unknown to Johnson, cannot be found in Bailey, Richardson, Webster, and is even "non est" in Walker's well-known pronouncing dictionary. Boyer (French), Flügel (German), Velasquez (Spanish), contain it not; and only after some difficulty have I found it in Spiers's French and English dictionary, and with such a peculiar use of it as to support entirely my own humble view of its "status" in our English language.

Under the French word "exceptionnel" we find "exceptional, a1 exception," but, curiously enough, in the English portion of the dictionary, Spiers ignores the word, and only mentions "exceptionable."

Bro. Dron says "exceptional" is applied to such things as form or make an exception," but where does he, except on his own "ipse dixit," find this laid down? It is thus, as I contend, of foreign origin and use.

"Exceptionable," Johnson says, comes from exceptus, which Faciolati informs us means "an exception, a clause, a restriction, a proviso," and also was a law term—practically an exception or objection.

In all probability our word comes from the French "exception," which, as Boyer shows, has also two similar meanings. And thus, no doubt, we get to "exceptional" of or belonging to an exception. But still though this is so, curiously enough we can find no recognition of it in our standard authorities, though its use is not uncommon, and had exceptional been printed instead of "exceptionable," I should have said perhaps nothing, though there is no actual authority for its use—except what is to be found in slipshod writing and common conversation. But I suspect that the writer of the clause took it, as I did, as equivalent to "exceptionable," but used it in the French sense of "exceptionnel," not, as I have pointed out, in the English sense "exceptionable" properly.

Bro. Dron seems to doubt what is the proper word to use. I say again either "special" or "exceptional" if you can validate the claim to any usage at all, which so far rests on the "authority" of Bro. Dron, though not uncommon I allow in writings of the day, but like a good many other words of foreign or other derivation having unauthorizedly crept into our "patois" and "vernacular" of the hour. I prefer still "special" or "peculiar"—as exceptional is of doubtful use and authority—though it would read correctly if understood as "exceptionnel." As regards "stickler," Bro. Dron does not seem to be aware that it is an old English word, and referred originally to "fencers," not to "pugilists" at all. Stickler has been applied to a "second" in a duel, as well as to an obstinate, pigheaded, contentious fellow.

Will Bro. Dron permit me to doubt his right, and certainly his capacity, to set up as either an "arbitrarius" or a "Ducta dibutantium" much less a "master of the school," and that having read his verbal criticisms, their proper destination appears to me, in all deference to him be it said, the waste paper basket.

Yours fraternally,
LINDLEY MURRAY.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—
In passing down Great Queen Street the other day I noticed on the door of the tavern kept by that excellent Brother, Alfred Best, best of good fellows and unsurpassed caterer, the title—"Freemason's Tavern," in the possessive case singular, you will observe, instead of the possessive case plural. Strangers might imagine that the Tavern in question, instead of being as announced, the Tavern of the Freemason, it was that of an

A WORD OF WARNING.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—
The brethren of every new lodge ought to thank you Sir, for your timely words of warning on the pernicious habit of soliciting candidates, which, I fear, is much too prevalent.

Every thinking Mason ought to do his utmost by practice and example, to put down so reprehensible a practice.

Many a lodge has had to lament the introduction, through well meant, but ill judged anxiety to increase its numbers by this means, of the seeds of disruption. I trust that the kindly words to which you have given utterance will also induce more reflection before candidates are proposed.

I am fraternally yours,
E. M.

The annual installation meeting of the Neptune Lodge, No. 1264, was held on Monday last, the 2nd inst., at the Masonic Hall, Hope-street, Liverpool, where Bro. W. Cotter was installed W.M. for the second time. A report of the proceedings will appear in due course.

Bro. Farwig, P.M., 180, was, on Thursday evening, unanimously elected Preceptor of the Great Northern Lodge of Instruction, 1287. Bro. P. M. Adams, P.G.P., having resigned in consequence of his great age.

Bro. W. Smithell was on Thursday installed W.M. of the Felicity Lodge.

Bro. Theodore Distin has just carried off the first prize of £10 offered by the Huddersfield Glee and Madrigal Society, for a comic glee. Bro. Distin intends giving the glee "Jack Horner" at his concert at the Horns in the ensuing month.

GRAND MARK LODGE.

The summer half-yearly Communication of Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons of England and Wales, and the Colonies and Dependencies of the British Crown, was held on Tuesday evening, at Freemasons' Tavern. The Earl of Limerick, Past Grand Master, presided; Bro. S. Rawson, Past Grand Master for China, occupied the post of Deputy Grand Master; and the Rev. J. R. Grosvenor Lodge, 144; and C. H. Pike, Grosvenor Lodge, 144.

After the opening of the Grand Lodge, the Earl of Limerick was saluted in due form.

The Earl of Limerick then rose, and said that before proceeding to the business of the evening he thought it right, as he had been commissioned by Lord Skelmersdale to do so, to express his lordship's regret that he was unable to be present. Not very long ago he was suffering from a severe illness, from which he had only lately recovered sufficiently to barely discharge his public duties for about a fortnight before Parliament adjourned for the Whitsun recess. He had not yet completely recovered his strength, and he was obliged to take some rest since Parliament had adjourned. All who were acquainted with the Grand Mark Master knew that it was not his custom to shirk his duties, and they were sure he would have been present if he possibly could. The circumstances, however, were entirely beyond his own control, and the brethren would excuse his lordship's presence. He (Lord Limerick) was also commissioned by the Earl of Donoughmore, Dep. Grand Master, to apologise for his non-attendance. Lord Donoughmore had only returned within the last three or four days from Bulgaria, where he had been acting on a commission, and he had at the present time so much public duty to perform in reporting on that commission and the result of his labours in Bulgaria, besides a great deal of private business, that it was entirely impossible for him to attend this Grand Lodge, and he hoped the brethren would accept his expression of regret for his enforced absence.

Grand Secretary then read the minutes of the half-yearly Communication of 3rd Dec., 1878, and of the emergency meeting of 18th Feb., 1879, which were several y put and confirmed.

The following report of the General Board was afterwards taken as read, and received and ordered to be entered on the minutes.

REPORT OF GENERAL BOARD, TUESDAY, 3RD JUNE, 1879.

During the six months terminating on 31st of March last, the number of certificates issued was 640, thus bringing the roll of advancements to 12,413.

In the same period there were issued ten warrants for new lodges, viz:—

No. 235, Leopold, Reading.
 " 236, Clapton, London.
 " 237, St. Andrew's, Rochester.
 " 238, Prince Leopold, London.
 " 239, Royal Naval, London.
 " 240, Royal Keystone, Jamaica.
 " 241, Watford, Watford.
 " 242, Phoenix, Jamaica.
 " 243, St. Ethelbert, Hereford.
 " 244, Trinity College, London.

A reference to the accounts appended will show—

Since the last half-yearly Communication, two new provinces have been constituted, viz., Gloucestershire and Dorset.

As Provincial Grand M. Master of Gloucestershire, R.W. Bro. Rev. C. Rex Davy, was installed at Cheltenham, on Saturday, 8th March, the Grand Secretary presiding, by special nomination of the M.W. Grand M.M.M.

R.W. Bro. Montague Guest was installed as Provincial Grand M. Master of Dorset, at Weymouth, on Wednesday, 30th April, by the M.W. Past Grand M. Master, the Rev. G. R. Portal.

In each case the assembly of brethren was numerous and influential, and it is confidently believed that by the constitution of the two provinces, the interests of the Order in the respective localities will be considerably advanced.

The M.W. Grand M. Master has been pleased to place the Provinces of Lincolnshire and Sussex under the charge of the Grand Registrar.

The Board announce with great gratification that the Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Quebec has addressed a formal communication, with recognition of this Grand Lodge as Supreme Head of Mark Master Masons. The Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Illinois, U.S.A., has expressed a wish to interchange representatives, nominating as its representative near this Grand Lodge R.W. Bro. Charles Fitzgerald Matier, P.G.W., and proposing as representative of this Grand Lodge near that Grand Chapter, M.E. Comp. Samuel W. Waddle, Deputy Grand High Priest.

The Board recommends Grand Lodge to approve the conferring of the rank of Past Master on the following brethren:—

Dhanjeebhoy J. Camadore, Ramsay Lodge, No. 180, Murree; Major G. B. Wolseley, Garnet Lodge, No. 228, Dinapore; Lord Ossulston, Frontier Lodge, No. 204, Peshawar; on the recommendation of R.W. Prov. G.M. of Bengal, they not having served the office of W. Master for twelve months, owing to the peculiar and difficult circumstances in which the lodges have been placed in consequence of the war in Afghanistan.

The Board recommends a grant of £50 to the daughter of the late Bro. J. M. C., to be disposed of in such manner as the Board may direct; and

£20 to Bro. G. N., under the same conditions. A Grand Lodge of Emergency was held at No. 2, Red Lion-square, on Tuesday, 18th February last. The Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, M.W.G.M.M., on the throne, when a vote of condolence with Her Most Gracious Majesty was unanimously adopted, as printed with the report of half-yearly proceedings, to which the following gracious reply has been received:—

"Captain Edwards presents his compliments to Mr. Dewar, and is commanded by the Queen to thank the Mark Master Masons of England and Wales, and the Colonies and Possessions of the British Crown in Grand Lodge assembled, for their address of condolence, and to express Her Majesty's sincere appreciation of the kind sympathy therein conveyed on the death of her dear daughter, Princess Alice, Grand Duchess of Hesse.

"Windsor Castle,
 "28th February, 1879."

The Assistant Grand Secretary having undertaken the duty of Steward at the ensuing Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, the Board recommends that they be allowed to place the sum of £21 on his list.

The General Board unanimously recommends that the sum of £50 be given as a gratuity to the Assistant Grand Secretary, Bro. Dewar, in recognition of his exertions in recovering long-standing arrears due to Grand Lodge, amounting to upwards of £500.

The Board recommends that the words "in one or more payments within twelve months" be omitted in Law VI., and that the words "in sums of not less than £5 5s. each" be added to Law IX. of the Education Bye-laws.

21st April, 1879.

Bro. the Rev. G. R. Portal, M.A., P.G.M., moved the approval of the following recommendation:—

To confer the rank of Past Master on Bro. Dhanjeebhoy J. Camadore, Ramsay Lodge, No. 180; Major G. B. Wolseley, Garnet Lodge, No. 228; Lord Ossulston, Frontier Lodge, No. 204; on the recommendation of the R.W. Prov. G.M. of Bengal; and in doing so he said, Grand Lodge was no doubt aware that no one could confer this rank but Grand Lodge. The circumstances under which they were asked to do this were that owing to the late Afghan war the three brethren named, who were Masters of their lodges at the time, were sent to the front, and their lodges were left without any Masters. The consequence would have been that when the Masters returned their year of office was at an end. These lodges in India had a very short allowance of Past Masters, and there were no P.M.'s who could conduct the working of the lodges. The Provincial Grand Master authorised some one to act for them, but in order that they might not lose their rank of Past Master, as they would have had to do if they had not served twelvemonths, he recommended Grand Lodge to confer on them the rank of Past Master. The General Board who had considered the matter agreed entirely in the recommendation of the Provincial Grand Master, to whom all the circumstances had been disclosed, and it was on this knowledge that he made the recommendation.

Bro. S. Rawson, Acting D.G.M., seconded the motion, which was then put and carried.

Bro. the Rev. G. R. Portal, P.G.M., then moved the following grants from Benevolent Fund:—

£50 to the daughters of Bro. J. M. C.; £20 to Bro. G. N.

The first grant was seconded by Bro. Thomas Meggy, and the second by Bro. James Stevens.

Both grants were unanimously adopted.

Bro. the Rev. G. R. Portal also moved that the following alterations be made in the bye-laws of the Educational Branch:—

1. That in Law VI., the words "in one or more payments within twelve months" be omitted.

2. That in Law IX., the words "in sums of not less than £5 5s. each" be added.

Law VI., he said, as it present stood, read thus:—"A donation of five guineas, in one or more payments within twelve months, gives five votes for life at every election, and constitutes the donor a life subscriber. Representations had been made to the General Board that there was great inconvenience in this rule, which enabled a subscriber to separate his payments and distribute them over different periods, provided the whole five guineas were paid in twelve months. It had been thought most convenient that the payment should be made in one sum, if the privilege of Life Subscribers was to be obtained.

The motion, having been seconded by Bro. Alfred Williams, was carried.

Bro. Portal, in moving the second recommendation, to add to Law IX., the words "in sums of not less than £5 5s. each," said that this alteration followed upon the one that had already been sanctioned, and granted to lodges the same privileges on payment of double the amount paid by individuals. The brethren would be glad to learn that a beginning had been made with the Educational Fund, and that one boy had been elected to be educated under it. A brother who had been himself a schoolmaster had fallen into decay. He was a Manchester Mark brother, and had been very anxious that his son should be sent to the Manchester Grammar School. This Educational Fund had enabled the brethren to grant his request, and as long as his boy conducted himself properly, he would receive his education at the Manchester Grammar School.

Bro. C. F. Matier seconded the motion.

Bro. S. Rawson thought the brethren had not sufficiently considered the alteration. He thought that every inducement should be offered to lodges to subscribe, and that if they made donations in different sums till they amounted to ten guineas the privilege of Life Subscribers should be granted to them. Such a resolution as this should not be passed hastily, and though he at all times disliked opposing the recommendations of the General Board, who had had the opportunity of fully considering the questions brought before them, he thought the brethren should carefully consider the present matter.

Bro. Binckes said a lodge was not prevented giving a smaller sum than ten guineas. For every five shillings subscribed they would have a vote, but the vote would not be permanent. The matter was fully discussed at the General Board, which was unanimous on the subject.

Bro. Rawson said then a lodge would not have the privilege of permanent votes if it subscribed less than £5 5s. at one time.

Bro. Binckes said it would fall back on Law 5. "Every sum of five shillings per annum subscribed to the Mark Benevolent Fund gives the Subscriber one vote at a single election."

The Earl of Limerick said he thought Bro. Rawson was quite right. If the words had been put in as suggested, they would have governed Law 5, as well as the others, and shown that it was necessary to give five guineas, or else there would not be a privilege at all. He thought that was not intended. The words "Similar life privileges" would show that that would not apply to Clause 5. If the words were put in without some such definition it was quite clear that that clause would govern the other clauses. The word "Life" might be put in, and it would apply to Laws 6, 7, and 8.

Bro. Binckes suggested that the word "permanent" would be preferable to "life."

Bro. the Rev. G. R. Portal thought the Grand Master in the chair was perfectly right. It was never intended to interfere with lodges giving 5s.; it was simply intended that they should not be life subscribers unless they paid five guineas at a time. If the word "permanent" were put in that would meet the difficulty. He suggested that Clause 9 should read:—"Similar permanent privileges are acquired by lodges on payment of double the above amounts, in sums of not less than five guineas each."

Bro. C. F. Martin seconded the motion.

Bro. Charles Horsley enquired whether a lodge paying five guineas in twenty-five payments of 5s. each would be prevented having a permanent subscribership vote.

Bro. Binckes explained that, to entitle a lodge to twelve votes in perpetuity, the ten guineas must be paid in two sums of five guineas each.

The motion was then put and carried.

On the motion of the Rev. G. R. Portal, seconded by Bro. James Salmon, £21 was voted from the funds of Grand Lodge on account of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys in name of the General Board.

Bro. Donald W. Dewar, Assistant Grand Secretary, having retired from Grand Lodge, Bro. the Rev. G. R. Portal moved that £50 be voted from the Funds of Grand Lodge as a gratuity to the Assistant Grand Secretary in recognition of his exertions in recovering long-standing arrears due to Grand Lodge. He said that all the brethren who were acquainted with such an organisation as Grand Lodge of Mark Masters must be aware that from time to time lodges did fall into arrear, and however much they might be written to, they did not pay up. When Bro. Dewar was appointed in Grand Secretary's office a year and a half ago, his attention was particularly called to the fact of the arrears. By his indefatigable exertions since then, and his continuous letter writing, he had succeeded in recovering £500, and the General Board thought unanimously that in recognition of those exertions they could not do less than give him a per-centage on the sum recovered.

Bro. S. Rawson seconded the motion.

Bro. Binckes said he thought he should be guilty of a great want of respect and of a dereliction of duty if, before this resolution was put, he did not, as Grand Secretary, bear his more than willing testimony to the very faithful and admirable manner in which Bro. Dewar had performed his duties in office ever since he (Bro. Binckes) recommended him to it. The brethren present had witnessed the way in which Bro. Dewar had discharged his duties, and would agree with him that there should be some recognition of it.

Bro. Thomas Meggy, as Grand Auditor, also bore testimony to the admirable way the accounts of Grand Lodge had been kept by Bro. Dewar, and also to the success which had attended his zeal in recovering the arrears due to Grand Lodge.

The Earl of Limerick said he was sure the expressions made use of by the several Brethren would be felt by Bro. Dewar almost more than the pecuniary amount of the compliment which Grand Lodge was asked to make to him. Grand Lodge was very much indebted to Bro. Dewar for the very zealous manner in which he had discharged his duties, as was shown by the increase that had been made to Grand Lodge funds. (Hear, hear.)

The motion was put, and carried unanimously.

Bro. D. M. Dewar having returned to Grand Lodge,

The Earl of Limerick said it was his pleasing duty to inform Bro. Dewar that Grand Lodge had, as some recognition of his very valuable services, which had so greatly improved the financial position of Grand Lodge, passed the following resolution:—"That £50 be voted from the funds of Grand Lodge as a gratuity to the Assistant Grand Secretary, in recognition of his exertions in recovering long-standing arrears due to Grand Lodge." He thought it only right to say that the vote was accompanied by the most flattering expressions from several of the brethren who were best able to speak to those services, including the Grand Secretary and Grand Auditor.

Bro. Dewar thanked the brethren for their kindness in passing the vote and expressing themselves so favourably of his services. It would be an incentive to him to do as well in the future.

On the motion of Bro. W. Roebuck, seconded by Bro. C. F. Maier, the report of the General Board was adopted.

The Earl of Limerick here said that he was unable to stay any longer, as he had a considerable amount of business to attend to. It had been almost impossible for him to come at all, but he did not like to absent himself entirely. He regretted that he was unable to stay so short a time, and he hoped the brethren would excuse him and grant him leave of absence.

His lordship then retired, and Bro. the Rev. G. R. Portal took the chair.

Lord Skelmersdale was duly announced as Grand Master for the ensuing year, and the following are the Grand Officers for the year.

C. T. Spright ... G. Tyler.

Bro. Portal informed the brethren that the Grand Master had been pleased to nominate him as President of the General Board, and Bros. T. Meggy, S. Rosenthal, S. C. Di din, C. F. Maier, Thos. Cubitt, and Robert Berridge, members of the Board.

The following brethren were elected to serve on the Board:—Bros. Alfred Williams, T. J. Sabine, W. Roebuck, T. C. Walls, and O. H. Pearson.

Bro. Binckes informed the Grand Master that he had received letters and telegrams from the following brethren, regretting their inability to attend, and apologising for their absence:—The M.W.G.M., Lord Skelmersdale; the R.W.P.D.G.M., Sir E. A. H. Lechmere; R.W. Bros. J. F. Halsey, G.J.W.; Col. Bædett, P.G.M. Middlesex and Surrey; Wm. Kelly, P.G.M. Leicestershire; V.W. Bros. Rev. F. W. Thoytes, P.G.C.; Dr. E. Brette, P.G.C.; W. Bros. R. G. Smith, G.J.D.; Capt. G. Watson, G.J.D.; J. C. Ročen, P.G.D.; E. T. Inskip, P.G.D.; F. Long, P.G.D. of C.; Martin Kemp, G.A.D. of C.; G. Higgins, G.S.; S. Jones, G.S.; G. Harrison, G.S.; P. de E. Collin, G.S.; R. Butlerworth, P.G.S.; Wm. Nott, P.G.S.; R. G. Glover, P.G.S.; W. S. Gillard, P.G.S.; Benj. Cox, P.G.S.; S. H. Knaggs, G.S.; and Magnus Ohren.

Grand Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the Sussex Room of Freemasons' Tavern to an excellent banquet.

When the toasts were proposed, Bro. Thomas Cubitt responded to the toast of "The Grand Officers," and said it was a very proud position for any of the Grand Officers to arrive at, and for himself he appreciated the honour very highly that had been conferred on him that night. He hoped the M.W.G.M. would not regret any appointment he had made.

The Rev. C. R. Davy, Prov. G.M. for Gloucestershire, proposed "The Past Grand Masters," and said they all looked upon Bro. Portal as the resuscitator of Mark Masonry in England. Wherever he (Bro. Davy) had been in Mark Masonry, his ideas had always reverted to Bro. Portal. He was not only the resuscitator but the maker of Mark Masonry, and the brethren had had so many opportunities of witnessing the excellence of his working and his geniality of manner that it was unnecessary to decant upon them.

Bro. Portal replied. The brethren would agree with him that the great success that had attended their degree was very mainly owing to the secret that at a critical moment of his history they had been able to secure the services of distinguished men as Grand Masters. At the time the degree was launched, certain influential brethren in the Craft Grand Lodge did all they could to prevent the Mark Grand Lodge being formed, and he believed they would not have succeeded in establishing it if it had not been for securing Lord Leigh as their first Grand Master. A little later on they obtained the Earl of Carnarvon, who was of great service, as his acceptance of office completely shut the mouths of those who tried to make out that Mark Masons were endeavouring to oppose Craft Grand Lodge, because Lord Carnarvon was then Deputy Grand Master in the Craft. It was of great importance to have Lord Skelmersdale, the intimate friend of the present Grand Master, in the Craft. The success of the degree had been something astonishing, fifteen years ago there were scarcely any Mark Lodges; now there were 247, besides ten immemorial lodges; so that there were now nearly 257 lodges on the roll. Excepting the Craft, there was no Masonic body making the same progress. Nothing gave him greater pleasure than to come amongst the brethren and to be of any use he could to Mark Masonry.

Bro. F. Davidson, G.T., proposed "The Mark Benevolent Fund." This fund had already £1000 invested. It had made grants that evening of £50 to the daughters of one brother, and £20 to another brother, who took at one time a very active interest in the degree. He had every satisfaction in saying that the fund was progressing.

Bro. Binckes replied, and after tracing the progress of the Fund and the good it had done, announced that the annual festival would take place on the 2nd of July, at the Alexandra Palace, and that Lord Arthur Hill would take the chair.

Bro. Hargreaves, of Manchester, responded for "The Visitors," shortly after which the brethren separated.

In the course of the evening the brethren were entertained with some beautiful singing by Bros. Hodges, Stedman, De Lacy, and Masters Manning, Dunster, Payne, and Probert, of the Westminster Abbey choir, under the direction of Bro. C. M. Lott, Grand Organist.

PLACING THE CORNER-STONE.

The following address was delivered by the M.W. Grand Master, Bro. Edward L. Judson, at the placing of the corner-stone of the U.S. Custom House and Post-Office, Albany, N.Y.:—"Fellow Citizens,—The services which you are about to witness are to be performed at the invitation of the authorities on laying the foundation stone of a building to be devoted to public uses, and while it will add another stately edifice to the many already adorning our ancient and goodly city, it will also be a monument to the public spirit and increasing importance of the American people. That these ceremonies are to be directed by an association which has long flourished in the midst of this people will be the justification—if any were needed—for a brief trespass upon your patience at this time. The custom of laying the corner stones of public buildings comes to us from a remote antiquity, so remote indeed that no man can point to its exact origin. The elements used, viz., corn, wine, and oil, have in all ages and by all people been regarded as the emblems of national prosperity, the essential elements of sustenance and domestic comfort. Naturally a ceremony so nearly allied to operative Masonry would fall to an association like ours, which employs the working tools of the builder to convey the lessons of morality and truth to its adepts. Hence in the past it has been the custom in many countries, but especially in this free land of ours, for the authorities to invite our services in laying the corner-stone with the solemnities of our Craft, thus at once by the fact of the ceremony announcing the importance of the building to follow, and the appreciation of the patriotic spirit which moves this venerable association to respond to the call of public duty, and to the extent of its power, to place the seal of its prestige and good wishes upon the work in hand. That this may be made more apparent a brief explanation of the nature of our society and its claims to that public approval of which the proceedings in which we are now engaged are an evidence will not at this time be regarded as inappropriate. The ancient and honourable fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons, represented in this ceremony, has existed so long that it may be truly said, 'the memory of man runneth not to the contrary,' yet always and in all places it has been the exponent of that idea, so grandly carried out in our national institutions, a government of the people for and by the people, recognising as it does that its rules, for time being, act by delegated powers conveyed through the medium of written constitutions and laws. The earliest and most emphatic of our inculcations, that which meets the neophyte at the very threshold of the institution, and beckons him forward and upward, 'as a pillar of cloud by day and of fire by night,' until at last he is laid away to the final rest, is an unswerving belief in God, the Father and Creator of the Universe, in whom we live, move, and have our being, and without whose knowledge not even a sparrow falls to the ground. And yet, withal, it is impossible that sectarianism should enter our fold, or that we should be the exponents or the enemies of any special mode of faith. Our organisation surrounds the globe; it marches into the primeval forest with the pioneer, and affords the means of a continual advancing civilisation; it is with the sailor in the solitude of the ocean, with the soldier by the camp fires and in the storm of battle; and though it may not stay the uplifted arm or the deadly missile, it gives a cup of water to a wounded enemy and grieves over the cruel necessity that has called for his wound or his death. You will find it in every rank and station of society. It accompanies the cheerful clang of the artisan's hammer, is with the farmer at seed-time and harvest, with the merchant in his warehouse, the senator at the forum, the judge upon the bench, and the minister at the altar. Even royalty is exalted by its honours, and the poorest brother walks beneath the folds of its banner with a higher consciousness of manhood, for as before God and the law, all men are equal, so on the broad pavement of Freemasonry the king and the peasant are brethren, and he among them all is mightiest in whose life-walk there is best exemplified the influence of a steady and right-doing faith in the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. Again, our inculcation demands that in whatever country he may be, a Mason is ever to be loyal and obedient to the Government thereof, and always to respect the civil magistrates—supreme and subordinate. There is with us no interference with the right of private judgment. Our regulations do not prevent a brother, in his capacity as a citizen, from being the most extreme partisan either way his predilections may incline. But when he enters the temple he must leave his partisanship at the door, and within its sacred precincts be only the loyal citizen, man and Mason. Hence in our lodge-rooms, during the most excited political canvass, all is calm, and the men who may differ widely upon the platform will be found side by side discharging the peaceful and loving duties of the Craft, as though no hostile breath had ever been known to them. From this brief statement of incontrovertible facts it seems to be clear that, as Masons, we can neither be sectarian in religion nor partisans in politics, though we cheerfully and fully concede to each individual, as has already been said, his own private opinion. This society has no religious bias save in the merest acknowledgement of the Father, which is the beginning of all faith, however wide may be the ultimate differences—no influence in politics save the teachings which require us to be peaceful citizens and loyal observers of the laws made by the country in which we reside. What we desire, and the true object of our association, is to furnish a retreat from the cares and dividing influences of the world, a union that shall bring together good men without reference to their particular opinions; a union apart from the influences of caste, nation, or race; a union of hearts and hands for the promotion of brotherly love, relief, and truth, for the broadening and elevation of our social life; a union that shall lead men onward and upward to better levels, whence they may see the errors of the past, and look forward to a higher and better life in the future. If, by their connection with the society, men are induced to cultivate the social virtues; if by it they are constantly reminded of the duties they owe to God, their country, their neighbours, and themselves; if thus they are led to be more upright in their dealings, more ready to forgive injuries and to unite in good works, then by their acts the community is benefitted, and its moral tone elevated. We believe, and we say it reverently, that this work has the Divine approbation, for to-day, as in the long past, it is going forward with unabated zeal and many tokens of encouragement. We believe, that in every country where the institution is approved, as I am happy to say it is in this, there is an additional safeguard for the promotion of a virtuous life and social decorum. It is not claimed that all who bear the name of Mason fully live up to its requirements, for we are but men inheriting the weaknesses of common humanity; but even, in this respect, we are, at least, the peers of any other worldly institution, and labouring, as the great majority do, with full faith and earnest sincerity, we have a right to claim that our work is not without its reward, and that society is the better for our organised existence and peaceful labours, for it is by no means an untenable proposition that, living as we do, so that we may be seen and known of men, it follows that the influence exerted by the fraternity upon its membership has a reflex action upon the general community. Teaching thus, by example as well as by precept, it has a moral power—a vitalising tendency—which does not in the same ratio insure to men professions of creed and dogmas. Silently and without ostentation it moves in the execution of its appointed work, witnessing the rise and decay of empires, the formation and extinction of sects and doctrines, without being moved from the straight road of eternal truth on which it is based, and which will keep it in the vigour of youth, though centennial years were yet before it; and when at last the ransomed hosts of men are summoned to the presence of the Master, it can fearlessly present its work for inspection. Such, fellow citizens, is a brief outline of the nature and scope of the fraternity which to-day makes one of its rare public appearances, to consecrate by its time-honoured ceremonial the chief stone of the corner, above which is to rise the building devoted to the use of the National Government, in which every citizen, from the highest to the humblest, has an abiding interest. Sharing with you in this interest, joining with you in the fullest measure of local pride, we most cordially greet you, and respectfully invite your observance of the further solemnities of the occasion."

Masonic and General Tidings.

We beg to remind our readers that the Prov. Grand Lodge of Cornwall will be held on Tuesday next, the 10th inst., at Fowey, under the auspices of the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe. The Great Western Railway having made excellent arrangements it is expected there will be a very large gathering of the brethren. In addition to the usual business Bro. Emra Holmes is down in the agenda paper with a motion to appoint a committee to solicit subscriptions for the new cathedral at Truro, "so that a lasting memorial of the Freemasons of Devon and Cornwall may be erected in the new edifice." The Christmas number of the Masonic Magazine (which may still be had at the office of this journal) contains an article on Fowey from the pen of our brother, entitled "An Unknown Watering Place."

The installation meeting of the Lodge of Amity (No. 171) took place at the Ship Hotel, Greenwich, on Tuesday last. We hope to give a report of the proceedings, which included the presentation of a P.M. jewel to Bro. J. W. Clever, in our next.

Bro. Sheriff Burt attended Grand Lodge on Wednesday in his office of Assistant Grand Director of Ceremonies.

The Summer Festival of the Domatic Lodge, will be held at the Star and Garter Hotel, Richmond Hill, on Friday, the 27th inst.; the banquet will be at 4.30 and there will be a ball and concert.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Though it is impossible, in this climate of changing temperature, to prevent ill-health altogether, yet its form and frequency may be much mitigated by the early adoption of remedial measures. When hoarseness, cough, thick breathing, and the attending slight fever indicate irritation of the throat or chest, Holloway's Ointment should be rubbed upon these parts without delay, and his Pills taken in appropriate doses, to promote its curative action. No catarrhs or sore throats can resist these remedies. Printed directions envelope every package of Holloway's medicaments, which are suited to all ages and conditions, and to every ordinary disease to which humanity is liable.—[A.B.V.]

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

AMITY LODGE (No. 171).—The installation meeting of this lodge was held at the Ship Hotel, Greenwich, on Tuesday, the 3rd inst., Bro. J. W. Clever, W.M., in the chair. There were also present Bros. J. Clever, Sec.; W. H. Mardon, S.D.; G. T. Goodinge, J.D.; Past Masters Batty, Whiteley, and Cooper; Bros. S. P. Smith, Fenn, J. R. Brown, Dodd, Toms, Buck, and J. Maddick. Visitors, Bros. Soliagni, G. and Tickle, P.M. 1196. The minutes of the last meeting having been read and confirmed, the W.M. proceeded to pass Bro. J. R. Brown to the Degree of a Fellow Craft. The ballot was then taken for Mr. F. L. Toms, which was unanimous in his favour. He being in attendance was thereupon initiated into the mysteries and privileges of Ancient Freemasonry. The W.M. elect was then presented for the benefit of installation, to which ceremony a peculiar interest was attached, from the fact of the W.M. elect being the father of the Installing Master, he having performed the same ceremony for his son at the last installation meeting of the lodge. After having been duly saluted, the newly-elected W.M. proceeded to appoint and invest his officers as follows: Bros. E. Phillips, S.W.; W. H. Mardon, J.W.; G. T. Goodinge, S.D.; H. L. Buck, J.D.; F. C. O. Fenn, I.G.; and Smith, Tyler. The next business was the presentation of a Past Master's jewel to Bro. J. W. Clever. The W.M. said: Brethren, you can readily understand my feelings upon this occasion much better than I can describe them. It would under ordinary circumstances be a great pleasure to me to present a jewel to my predecessor, but upon this occasion I cannot find words to express the gratification I feel in presenting the jewel to my son. Bro. Clever, I place this jewel upon your breast, and may T.G.A.O.T.U. grant you long life to wear it, and uphold the dignity and well being of the Amity Lodge. The I.P.M., in reply, said: W.M. and brethren, I feel deeply the honour you have conferred upon me in presenting me with this jewel; however many it may be my good fortune to wear, none will possess the same amount of interest that will attach to this one, it being the jewel of my mother lodge. After some formal business, the lodge was closed in due form with solemn prayer and adjourned. After the banquet the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and were warmly responded to. Bro. J. W. Clever, I.P.M. and Sec., in proposing "The Health of the W.M.," said: Seeing the gavel in my hand will be sufficient intimation of the toast I am about to propose, namely, that of "The Health of the W.M." Brethren, you will, I am sure, feel with me the position in which I am placed this evening, the subject of the toast being my own father. None of you, perhaps, know so well as myself the time and attention which he has given, and still gives, to Masonry in all its branches, and I feel sure that in performing the duties attached to his office, he will perform them as zealously as he did during his former Mastership. It is with very great pleasure that I give you "The Health of the W.M." The W.M., in replying, said: Bro. Clever and brethren, I cannot describe to you the pleasure it affords me to occupy the chair of this old lodge a second time. I shall during my Mastership endeavour to carry out the ritual of Masonry in its entirety, and I look to my officers to assist me in so doing. I shall at all times be happy to afford them any instruction which they may feel they require to fit them for the performance of the duties of their respective offices. Brethren, I beg to thank you for the kind manner in which you have received this toast. The next toast was that of "The Initiate, Bro. T. L. Toms," which was cordially responded to. The initiate's song was admirably rendered by Bro. Whiteley, P.M. The W.M. then proposed the toast of "The Visitors," which was responded to in a very able manner by Bro. Tickle. He referred to the fact of having been present at the last installation meeting, and of witnessing the unusual ceremony of the installation of a son by a father. The meeting this year was doubly interesting from the fact of the son installing the father, an occurrence which he had no hesitation in saying was a most unusual one. In proposing "The Health of the Installing Master," the W.M. said: Brethren, I ought not, perhaps, to have included this toast in the list, but I feel that I must do so, and sink my paternal feeling. I little thought when I initiated him into Masonry five years ago to-night, that I should have the pleasure of installing him into the chair of this lodge, much less did I think that the duty of installing me into the chair a second time would devolve upon him, which duty, I feel sure you will agree with me, he has performed in such a manner as it has seldom been performed by so young a Mason. Brethren, it is with very great pleasure that I give you "The Health of the Installing Master." Bro. J. W. Clever, in reply, said: W.M. and brethren, it affords me very great pleasure to be able to respond to this toast. My ambition has always been to instal my successor, and I am very glad that that successor happened to be my father. I feel certain that you will not regret your selection; he will, without doubt, carry out the principles of Masonry to a letter, and I trust that we shall render him all the assistance in our power. Many other toasts were honoured, among them "The Past Masters" and "The Officers of the Lodge," which were responded to by Bro. Whiteley, P.M., and Bro. Batty (acting as S.W.) respectively. The meeting here broke up, and it is needless to say it was a most enjoyable one.

ALL SAINTS' LODGE (No. 1716).—The regular June meeting of this lodge was held on Friday, the 6th inst., at the Town Hall, Poplar, there being present Bros. J. Dennis, W.M.; J. Kemp Coleman, S.W.; L. Potts, J.W.; W. C. Young, J.D.; T. Bates, I.G.; J. House, D.C.; J. Grout, Org.; W. H. Farnfield, P.M., and other brethren, members of the lodge, also the following visitors: Bros. Chas. B. Bennett, P.M. 1382, who kindly acted as S.D.; R. Ould, S.D. 781; Chas. Brown, I.G. 1804; and B. Ayres Moore. The minutes of the last regular meeting having been read and confirmed, ballot was taken for Mr. W. G. Wilshaw, and proved unanimously in the affirmative. The work was then proceeded with by the W.M., Bros. Robinson and Day being raised, and Mr. Wilshaw initiated; the ceremonies were performed in the most impressive and thorough manner, the W.M. propounding the ritual in a manner that cannot be called other than perfect, and the officers emulating one another in the performances of their respective duties. The traditional history was given by the W.M. in the course of the Third Degree, proving alike a novelty and instructive, while, in the First Degree, Bro. House, D.C., recited the ancient charge and explanation of the Tracing Board, to the delight of all present, and those brethren who had never before heard this part of the ritual were more fully than ever impressed with the value and beauty of the tenets and principles of the Craft. The lodge being closed, the brethren adjourned to an adjoining room to partake of light refreshment. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and the visitors in responding to the toast in their favour, one and all expressed the pleasure they had received in witnessing the work in the lodge, pronouncing it perfect. Bro. J. K. Coleman, S.W., Steward for the lodge at the forthcoming festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, passed his list round, and had the pleasure of seeing it very fairly supported.

FARRINGTON WITHOUT LODGE (No. 1745).—The installation meeting of the lodge was held at the Holborn Viaduct Hotel, on Monday, the 26th ult., when there were present Bros. W. H. Jackson, jun., W.M.; C. Jacques, S.W., W.M. elect; W. Ramsay, P.M., Treasurer; H. J. Lardner, S.D.; M. Samuel, J.D.; Hart, Hon. Org.; Quilter, D.C., acting I.G.; J. Terry, P.G.J.W. Herts, and J. Clarke, P.P.G.D.C. Herts, Hon. P.M.'s; T. C. Walls, P.P.G.O. Middx., J.W. and Sec. pro tem. (Freemason); and Parkinson, Tyler. The visitors were Bros. A. Andrews, 382; R. Walker, 656; H. McDougall, 656; and B. White, 907. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The W.M., with the assistance of his officers, then raised Bro. A. Williams, and initiated Mr. Thomas Simpson, the ceremonies being well performed. The installation of the W.M. was then ably carried out by Bro. Jas. Terry, assisted by Bro. Clark as D.C. The officers appointed and invested were Bros. T. C. Walls, S.W.; H. J. Lardner, J.W.; Jackson, I.P.M. and Secretary; W. Ramsey, P.M., Treasurer; Samuel, S.D.; Quilter, J.D.; C. Potter, I.G.; Hart, Organist; Strugnell, D.C.; Parkinson, Tyler. A vote of thanks was unanimously passed to Bros. Terry and Clark for their services as Installing Officers. The report of the Audit Committee was received and approved, and a copy thereof was ordered to be printed and sent to each member. The subject of the final approval of the bye-laws was postponed until the next meeting in July. Previously to the lodge being closed the W.M. presented the I.P.M. with a very handsome jewel. The presentation was accompanied by a very able address by the W.M. The interesting ceremony of presenting each of the founders with a jewel, in recognition of their services in founding the lodge, having taken place, the lodge was duly closed, and the brethren adjourned to a very elegant banquet, which reflected great credit upon Bro. Acland, the manager of the hotel. Upon the removal of the cloth the customary Royal and Craft toasts were done full justice to.

MARYPORT.—Lodge of Perseverance (No. 371).—The feast of St. John was observed in connection with this lodge, according to old custom, on Tuesday, the 10th inst., in the Masonic Hall, Eaglesfield-street. The following members signed their names in the Tyler's book:—Bros. J. W. Robinson, W.M.; E. G. Mitchell,

S.W.; J. Elliot, J.W.; Jos. Nicholson, P.M. and Treas., P.P.G.S.W.; T. Carey, I.P.M.; W. B. Gibson, P.M. 119, P.G. Sec.; G. W. Kenworthy, P.M. 119, P.G. Treas.; W. Armstrong, P.M., P.P.G.D.C.; J. Gardiner, P.M., P.G.S. of W.; T. Mandle, P.M., P.G. Steward; A. Walter, P.M., P.P.G. Swd. Br.; J. R. Banks, W.M. elect; W. Stoddart, Sec.; F. Armstrong, S.D.; T. Waite, I.G.; J. Smith, Org., P.P.G. Org.; R. Brown, Jos. Thompson, F. Harrison, J. Quay, P. Dodgson, G. W. Thompson, J. Kendall, J. B. Harrison, J. Wilson, J. Newton, J. H. Raven, J. G. Fletcher, T. Baylis, W. Skelton, P. Wedgwood, T. Moore, G. Brown, T. Weatherston, and J. Messenger, Tyler. The visitors were Bros. T. Dixon, P.M. 1400; W. H. Hodless, P.M. 327, P.G. Steward; J. Wood, P.M. 962; J. Milligan, S.W. and W.M. elect 119; J. W. Miles, Sec. 119; J. Casson, Steward 119; J. J. Coverdale, Sec. 962; W. Whitehead, I.G. 962; J. Rothery, J.W. 119; R. Thomas, 962; J. J. Little, 962; J. Harrison, St. Andrew's, 199, Cumbernauld, N.B.; and W. F. Lamony, P.M. 1002, P.P.G. Reg. (Freemason). The lodge having been opened in form, the minutes were read and confirmed. Subsequently the chair was taken by Bro. Kenworthy, P.M., and Bro. J. R. Banks was regularly installed, saluted, and proclaimed W.M. for the ensuing year. The officers were appointed as follows:—Bros. J. W. Robinson, I.P.M.; F. Armstrong, S.W.; W. Stoddart, J.W.; Jos. Nicholson, P.M., Treasurer, for the thirty-fourth time; T. Waite, Sec.; W. Armstrong, P.M., D.C.; R. Hetherington, S.D.; J. H. Raven, J.D.; J. Quay, I.G.; J. Smith, Org.; J. Newton and J. J. Fletcher, Stewards; J. Messenger, Tyler. The addresses to the M.W. and Wardens were delivered by Bro. W. B. Gibson, P.M., and to the brethren generally by the Installing Master. After votes of thanks to Bros. Kenworthy and Gibson, and hearty good wishes from the visiting brethren, the lodge was closed in form. At six o'clock the brethren sat down to dinner, which was laid out in the hall. Bro. J. R. Banks, W.M., presided, faced by his Wardens, and supported right and left by the P.M.'s and Provincial Officers present. Very little of the post prandial proceedings were, however, participated in by the brethren from a distance, owing to the near approach of the last trains, and it is a pity the work of the day was not begun at least an hour earlier.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—Harbour of Refuge Lodge (No. 764).—Bro. C. S. Lane having been reinstated as the W.M. of this lodge, the ceremony of installation took place on Tuesday, the 10th inst., in the presence of a distinguished assembly of brethren, Bro. E. Hudson, P.M., being the Installing Officer. The ceremony, which is a very elaborate one, and in the hands of Bro. Hudson peculiarly impressive, was followed by the investiture of officers. These were as follows:—Bros. G. Carter, S.W.; G. Young, J.W.; E. Hudson, D.C.; R. P. Harpley, P.M., Treas.; J. Brown, Sec.; W. Mayson, S.D.; Baumann, J.D.; Quincey, Org.; J. Stonehouse, I.G.; Lamb and Sissing, Stewards; and Wm. Atkinson, Tyler. The banquet, which, like the installation, was influentially attended, was afterwards held at the Commercial Hotel (Bro. Hobson's). The company included Bros. Liddle, P.M., P.P.J.G.D., of the William Lodge, Sunderland; Bro. R. Ventress, of the Tees Lodge, Stockton; and Bro. H. A. Bordie, of St. Helen's Lodge, Hartlepool.

PLUMSTEAD.—Pattison Lodge (No. 913).—The regular monthly meeting of the above lodge took place at the Lord Raglan, Plumstead, on Thursday, the 5th instant, under the presidency of the W.M., Bro. T. D. Hayes. There was a large attendance of both members and visitors, and the proceedings throughout were of a most cordial and unanimous character. The following officers assisted the W.M.: Past Masters C. Coupland, P.P.G.J.W. Kent; C. Ellis-Fermor, J. McDougall, A. Penfold, W. T. Vincent, and H. Butler, I.P.M.; Bros. W. B. Lloyd, S.W.; J. Chapman, J.W.; E. Denton, P.M. and Sec.; R. Cook, S.D.; C. Cooke, Org.; H. Pryce, D.C.; Thos. Reid, W.S.; and R. Lister, Tyler. Bros. Sadler Long and Rees acted respectively as J.D. and I.G., in the absence of the officers holding those positions. Among the brethren and visitors present were Bros. A. Woodley, W.M. 700; F. J. Dawson, P.M. 700; T. Butt, P.M. 700; W. Weston, P.M. 1536; W. Ramsden, P.M. 1434; W. T. Palmer, P.M. 9; T. Hutton, S.W. 13; J. Warren, S.W. 700; J. Wilkins, S.W. 700; W. Holleyman, J.D. 1536; G. Beaver, I.G. 700; J. H. Roberts, D.C. 700; A. Fenn, 700; W. Harris, 700; J. Chapman, 942; E. Tappenden, 700; C. Beard, 700; E. W. Crews, 13; S. Hare, 706; W. Watkins, 1536; and C. Jolly (Freemason). The business before the lodge consisted of the balloting for of Bro. A. Joskey, 1076, as a joining member, which proved unanimous. Bros. J. Gouli and R. Taylor were then passed to the Second Degree, and Bros. A. Flagg and H. Towns were raised to the Sublime Degree. The ceremonies were most impressively rendered by the W.M., the third especially. The next business was the election of W.M. for the ensuing year, and Bro. Lloyd, S.W., was unanimously elected to that office, and returned thanks. Bro. A. Jessup, who had been seriously ill for some time, was then, as unanimously, re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Lester was re-elected I.G. Bro. Butler then, in a speech replete with eloquence and taste, referred to the successful and harmonious year that had just passed under the leadership of Bro. Hayes, and concluded by proposing that the usual jewel, of the value of ten guineas, should be presented to him as a mark of the esteem in which he is held by the lodge, and of their sense of the manner in which he had conducted the business of it during the past year. Bro. Lloyd seconded, and it was carried unanimously. The W.M. then drew attention to the long and arduous services of their esteemed Secretary, Bro. Denton, P.M., who had for eighteen years served the lodge as Secretary without fee or reward. He attributed the success of the lodge in every respect to that brother's valuable and unstinted service, and proposed that a Secretary's jewel, of the value of ten guineas, be presented him in the name of the lodge. This was seconded, and supported by Bros. Fermor, Coughland, Penfold, and Chapman. Bro. Fermor said that it might be made to set gracefully upon their brother's breast if they added something to it from their own pockets, and started a subscription list with two guineas, for the purpose, as he suggested, of presenting Bro. Denton with one, two, or more Life Governorships in the Masonic Charities. A running fire of guineas and half-guineas followed, and a Committee was at once formed to carry out Bro. Fermor's suggestion. Bro. Denton thanked the brethren for their gift of a jewel, which, he said, would fully repay him for all his work for them, for it was truly a labour of love to him. He was already a Life Governor of the three Institutions, but would leave their intention entirely to the Committee. Bros. Day and C. Jolly were then appointed from among the ranks on the annual Audit Committee, and after "Hearty good wishes" had been wished by the representatives of the several lodges present, the lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren then adjourned to supper, and afterwards to the social board, where the usual loyal and Masonic toasts and some excellent singing passed the time along merrily, until the Tyler's toast and "Old Lang Syne" brought the meeting to an end.

WESTERHAM.—Amherst Lodge (No. 1223).—The members of this lodge met at the King's Arms Hotel, on Saturday, the 7th inst. There were present the following brethren: Bros. Wm. Coppard Banks, W.M.; C. J. Dodd, S.W.; R. Durnell, P.M., Treasurer; J. H. Jewell, P.M.; P.G.O. Kent, Secretary; Smalman Smith, S.D.; Thos. J. Baker, J.D.; S. Lavis, D.C.; Alfd. S. Owen, I.G.; H. L. Hall, W.S.; R. B. Newsome, P.M.; P.P.G.S.B. Kent; E. J. Dodd, P.M.; P. M. Hadley, T. Cressell, J. Waller, and J. Morgan. Visitors: John G. Horsey, J.W. 1619; and Jas. W. Lambert, P.M. 142. The lodge was opened with prayer at half-past three o'clock, and the minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed. The Secretary then informed the brethren that the W.M. had placed in his hands a very handsome and useful pair of compasses as a present to and for the use of the lodge. A vote of thanks was unanimously passed, and ordered to be recorded on the minutes. There were four candidates on the summons for initiation, but only one attended; two having been approved at former meeting, the other two were now balloted for, viz., Messrs. Chas. E. Birch and Thos. Fishenden, and both unanimously approved. Bro. John Morgan, a candidate for passing, having replied to the usual questions, was entrusted, and retired, and the lodge being opened in the Second, he was passed to the Degree of F.C. The lodge having been resumed to the First Degree, Mr. C. E. Birch was initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry. A notice of motion was then given by Bro. E. J. Dodd, P.M., for the removal of the lodge from its present place of meeting. We congratulate the W.M., Bro. W. C. Banks, on the able and impressive manner in which he gave the two ceremonies. The lodge being closed, the brethren adjourned to a sumptuous banquet, at which the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and heartily responded to. Owing to many of the brethren having to return to London, the proceedings closed at about 8.30.

LIVERPOOL.—Neptune Lodge (No. 1264).—Whit-Monday was the annual installation day of the above lodge, and the members of the "good and true" old lodge assembled in strong force on the afternoon of that day (notwithstanding the thousand and one attractions outside, enhanced by really splendid weather) at the Masonic Hall, Liverpool, where business commenced about half-past three o'clock. The lodge was opened in due form by Bro. J. Korn, W.M., and amongst others present were Bros. Joseph Healing, P.M.; H. Williams, P.M.; W. C. Webb, S.W.; A. C. Wylie, J.W.; P. B. Gee, P.M., Treas.; J. H. Linaker, Sec.; T. H. Arden, S.D.; C. Fothergill, J.D.; A. Cotter, D.C.; J. S. Warden, I.G.; J. Tickle, S.; G. Crute, S.; and P. Ball, Tyler. The members on the list of attendance included Bros. R. S. Coyle, A. Williamson, A. Soldats, R. Edwards, W. Robson, S. Campbell, G. W. Dillire, J. C. Fish, H. Ravenscroft, J. W. Gaul, J. Shaw, W. Davies, J. Davies, J. A. Morton, W. Garner, D. Buchanan, W. Fish, and J. B. Barker. The numerous visitors present included Bros. J. Keet, Sec. 1356; E. George, S.D. 1356; J. N. Gotham, 823; J. L. Houghton, W.M. 594; H. Jones, J.D. 1675; A. C. Forshaw, 1035; T. Peake, J.W. 667; J. Skeaf, P.G.O.; R. Crispe, 724; J. Bretherton, 241; T. Foulkes, 1325; J. H. Gregory, S.W. 667; S. P. Gore, 1356; T. Clark, P.M. 673; J. Devaynes, P.M. 667; H. Burrows, P.M. 673; C. Wadsworth, S. 292; A. Child, 1505; J. T. Callow, P.G. Treas.; J. Hocken, W.M. 1505, P.M. 673; H. Firth, W.M. 667; J. B. MacKenzie, S.W. 1609; Joseph Wood, (Freemason). After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and confirmed, the chair was taken by Bro. Joseph Healing, P.M., who proceeded to install Bro. Alexandra Cotter as W.M. of the Neptune, an honour which he once before had conferred upon him. The ceremony was well performed by Bro. Healing, who has on previous occasions done similar service to the Neptune. The following were the officers invested for the ensuing year:—Bros. J. Korn, I.P.M.; A. C. Wylie, S.W.; T. Arden, J.W.; P. B. Gee, P.M., Treas. (re-elected for the third time); C. Fothergill, Sec.; J. Healing, P.M., D.C.; J. S. Warden, S.D.; G. Crute, J.D.; J. Tickle, I.G.; J. Ashworth, S.S.; J. H. Linaker, J.S.; J. Shaw, Asst. S.; and Peter Ball, Tyler (re-elected). At the conclusion of the ceremony, Bro. P. M. Gee moved that a vote of thanks be given to Bro. Healing, and recorded on the minutes, for the able and efficient manner in which he had performed the duties of the installation ceremony that afternoon. It required no words from him (Bro. Gee) to recommend that proposal to their hearty acceptance, as every one had witnessed the excellent way in which on that and other occasions this ceremony had been performed by Bro. Healing. Bro. Korn, I.P.M., seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously, and the compliment was acknowledged by Bro. Healing, who remarked that his work that day had indeed been a labour of love to him, which he would be at all times happy to perform for the good of the Neptune Lodge. "Hearty good wishes" were given from about a dozen representatives of other lodges, and the business was afterwards brought to a close. The brethren afterwards dined together, and during the after-dinner proceedings a very handsome Past Master's jewel was presented to Bro. Joseph Korn, I.P.M., in recognition of his services to the lodge during his year in the chair, as well as during the period he has occupied other offices.

LIVERPOOL.—Stanley Lodge (No. 1325).—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Hope-street, on Monday evening, the 26th ult., when there was a good attendance of members, the chief business of general interest being the election of W.M. The lodge was opened by Bro. J. H. Bradshaw, W.M., and the officers present were Bros. F. Knight, P.M.; T. Foulkes, J.W.; J. W. Burgess, I.P.M., Treas.; R. B. Burgess, Secretary; N. Robertson, S.D.; A. Samuels, J.D.; John Holme and M. Campbell, Stewards; and M. Williamson, Tyler. The members present were Bros. Henry Mallinson, Samuel Gordon, William J. Bell, James Ashton, Peter Dickenson, John Davies, George Lewis, William J. Maxwell, John H. Ewing, John Corbett, Henry Braddack, George Argyle, Isaac Thompson, J. Threlfall, William Johnson, Isaac Beckett, W. H. Quayle, Peter S. Johnson, Thomas Rose, Richard B. Hughes, Thos. Gray, W. J. Constantine, M. Brown, Benjamin Littleton, and C. Cranwell. The visitors included Bros. David Jackson, W.M. 673; A. D. Hesketh, J.W. 1182; A. C. Forshaw, 1035; Joseph Barlow, 440, Montreal; James P. Bryan, 1035 and 203; Joseph Boyle, 823; Fredk. S. Halpin, 1086; Richard Washington, W.M. 1094; W. Kitchen, 1756; R. R. Forshaw, S.W. 1035; John McWean, P.M. 1035; Alfred Woolrich, S.W. 1356; J. Hodgson, 1350; and Joseph Wood, Treas. 1094 (Freemason). After the minutes had been confirmed, Mr. T. F. Powell was unanimously elected, and afterwards initiated into the mysteries of the Order, and Bros. Davis, Dickinson, and Beckitt were raised to the Degree of M.M., the work of both Degrees being effectively performed. Bro. Thomas Foulkes, J.W., was unanimously elected W.M. for the coming year, and Bro. J. W. Burgess, I.P.M., was re-elected Treasurer nem. con. A letter was read by the Secretary from Bro. Winkskill, late S.W. of this lodge, thanking the brethren for the handsome testimonial with which they had presented him on his retirement, on account of his going to reside permanently in Kendal. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banqueting hall, where an excellent supper was served by the House Steward. During the evening Bros. T. Foulkes, J. Hodgson, J. P. Bryan, and W. J. Bell contributed to the enjoyment of the company by singing several excellent songs. After a most enjoyable evening the brethren separated at an early hour.

FELTHAM.—Elliot Lodge (No. 1567).—The ordinary meeting of this successful lodge was held at the Railway Hotel, on Saturday, the 7th inst., when there was a good muster of the brethren. The officers present were Bros. J. Nichols, W.M.; J. H. Pearson, S.W.; T. W. Clarke, J.W.; John Mason, P.M., P.G.S.D. Middx., Treas.; John Elliott, P.M., Sec.; F. Jacob, J.D.; J. Davie, Org.; W. H. Goodall, I.G.; and R. Potter, Tyler; and the following brethren: Bros. W. W. Elliott, R. Schmidt, R. Pearce, J. Fletcher, D. Wilkins, E. E. Crombie, R. J. Fennell, F. Wadson, R. C. Smith, G. R. Nichols, F. A. Pemberton, R. Wadsworth, A. Stevenson, J. Harris, R. Jones, J. Dixon, G. F. Lawrence, H. G. Sanders, and W. T. Price. The visitors were Bros. H. Leah, P.M. 193; T. W. Murby, S.W. 257; and W. Bradford, 862. The lodge was opened in due form by the W.M., and after passing two of the brethren to the Fellow Craft Degree, he raised Bro. Wilkins to the Sublime Degree of a M.M., and initiated Mr. Julius Hatry into the brotherhood. The lodge being closed in due form and with solemn prayer, a banquet was served in Bro. Harris's usual style; it is needless to add, full justice was done to the same, and general approval expressed thereof by the brethren. The customary loyal and Masonic toasts were given by the W.M. with commendable brevity, and well received by the brethren. The toast of "The Provincial Grand Officers" was acknowledged by Bro. Mason. Bros. Leah and Murby responded for "The Visitors," and Bros. Clarke, Jacob, and Goodall for "The Officers of the Lodge." The Tyler's toast brought to a conclusion a most enjoyable evening.

FRIZINGTON.—Arlecdon Lodge (No. 1660).—The installation festival of this young and flourishing lodge was held in the Masonic Hall, Frizington, on Wednesday afternoon, the 4th inst. Bro. W. Martin, the W.M., presided, assisted by his officers, and the following visitors were present:—Bros. John Barr, P.M. 119, P.P.G.S.D., and Installing Master; E. Tyson, W.M. 119; J. Rothery, J.W. 119; C. Hodgson, 119; W. F. Cox, P.M. 1021, Barrow-in-Furness; Rowland Baxter, W.M. elect 1267; F. Whittle, 1267; W. Walker, St. John's, 157, B'ith, Scotland. The minutes having been read and confirmed, the W.M. elect, Bro. Edward Clark, P.M. Kenlis Lodge, 1267, P.G.J.D., was formally placed in the chair, saluted, and proclaimed according to ancient custom, after which his officers were invested as follow:—Bros. W. Martin, I.P.M.; R. Wilson, S.W.; G. Dalrymple, J.W.; J. Moffatt, Treas.; J. Harris, Sec.; Dr. Luce, S.D.; W. Tremble, J.D.; D. Dixon, I.G.; B. Craig, Tyler. The charges having been delivered in a most effective manner by the Installing Master, followed by "Hearty good wishes" from the various visiting brethren, the lodge was closed in form. Subsequently the brethren partook of supper, and two or three hours were harmoniously spent in toast and song, till about ten o'clock.

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE.—St. Nicholas Lodge (No. 1676).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held in the Freemasons' Hall, Granges-street, on Tuesday, the 2nd inst. The lodge was opened at three p.m. by the W.M., Bro. J. T. Taylor, P.G.A.P., assisted by the following brethren:—Bros. T. Cochran, I.P.M., P.P.G.A.D.C.; A. R. Taylor, S.W.; M. E. Catchyside, J.W.; J. Mockay, S.D.; F. Blencowe, Sec.; W. Cummings, J.D.; R. Ferry, Org.; J. Cook, D.M., P.M., P.P.G.S.W. Northumberland; E. Marsten, I.G.; J. Curry, Tyler; R. Veitch, S.S.; J. B. Clark, J.S.; J. H. Tanner, R. L. Armstrong, P.M., P.G.P.; R. W. Cummins, R. Hempton, A. Ross, W. S. Armstrong, R. Muller, J. Beeby. Visitors: T. Walton, 1664; J. Probert, P.M. 424; B. P. Ord, P.G.O., W.M. 1427; T. Creuser, W.M. 636; W. M. Bell, W.M. 1557; R. C. Symonds, J.W. 1626; R. Eynon, W.M. 48, P.P.G.A.D.C. Northumberland; W. Walter, 681, P.M., P.P.G.J.W. North-east Riding of Yorkshire; G. S. Sims, 15. The minutes of the previous regular meeting were read and confirmed, and the Treasurer's report was received, showing the lodge to be in a prosperous condition, with a good balance in hand. The lodge was then opened in the Second Degree, when Bro. Arthur H. Taylor, S.W., W.M. elect, was presented to Bro. R. L. Armstrong, P.M., P.G.P., by the W.M., to receive from him the benefit of installation. The W.M. elect having taken the obligation, the lodge was then opened in the Third Degree, when all below the rank of W.M. or installed Master withdrew, and a Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. Arthur Reed Taylor was duly installed in the chair of K.S. by Bro. R. L. Armstrong, P.M., Installing Master. The brethren were then re-admitted, and saluted the W.M. in the usual manner, the working tools in each degree being severally given by the Installing Master, Bro. R. L. Armstrong, P.M., P.G.P. The W.M. then proceeded to invest his officers as follows:—Bros. J. T. Taylor, P.G.A.P., I.P.M.; M. E. Catchyside, S.W.; F. Blencowe, J.W.; R. W. Cummins, sen., Sec.; R. W. Cummins, jun., S.D.; E. Marston, J.D.; J. Cook, P.M., P.P.G.S.W., M.C.; R. Veitch, I.G.; J. Curry, Tyler; J. B. Clark, S.S.; R. Muller, J.S. The usual addresses were given by the Installing Master in a most able and impressive manner, and bode well for the success of Masonry in this province. The ceremony was closed by a round of applause from the brethren for the Installing Master, Bro. R. L. Armstrong, P.M. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the Douglass Hotel, where a most magnificent dinner was served in a manner seldom surpassed. After the dinner the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given by the W.M. The W.M. proposed "The Provincial Grand Lodge of Northumberland," responded to by Bro. R. Eynon, W.M. 48, P.P.A.D.C., who thanked the W.M. for the honour he had done him in coupling his name with this toast. He was quite sure he was unable to respond to the toast in the manner it merited, as he thought every one in the room was sufficiently acquainted with their P.G.M., Earl Percy, and the officers of P.G.L., to know that everything was done by them to keep Masonry in Northumberland in the position it merited, second to none in the provinces. The W.M. proposed "The P.G. Master of Durham," responded to by Bro. Probert, P.M. 424, who said: "W.M., I only regret how feebly the toast will be responded to in comparison with his labours in Freemasonry. I am proud to say we have the oldest P.G.M. in England over us, and he is always ready with his advice and well known ability to help any brother as far as it is in his power, both in word or deed. Bro. R. L. Armstrong, Installing Master, proposed "The W.M.," and said: "Brethren, at the formation of this lodge two years since, from his zeal and ability he was appointed the first J.W., and he has worked steadily till he has arrived at the position of W.M. of this lodge; and I must say I am proud to stand this day as the Installing Master of so distinguished a brother as the W.M., and I sincerely hope he may have as prosperous a year as his predecessor. The W.M., in response, said: "I thank you, Bro. P.M. Armstrong and brethren, for the kind manner you have proposed my health and success in Masonry, and to the brethren in the manner they have responded to it. I can only say I will do my best to keep up the prestige of this lodge, and it will be my greatest pleasure to hand it down to my successor in the same unsullied manner it has been handed to me this day, and I must ask of you to accord to my officers the same kindly feeling you have this day given to me, and that you will think of the saying, to be to our virtues kind, and to our faults generous. "The Health of the I.P.M." Bro. John A. Taylor, was proposed by Bro. Ord, P.G.O., P.M. 1427, in a feeling and appropriate manner, to which the I.P.M. responded in a most able manner. The W.M. then proposed "The Health of P.M. Armstrong, Installing Master, P.G.P.," and said: "Brethren, you all know his kindness of manner, and the ability and zeal he displays in whatever he takes in hand in this province. He was one of the founders of this lodge, and from the manner he this day installed me into the chair of K.S. I can only think he has a brilliant career before him, and that he is only on the first round of the ladder that leads to fame and success, as whatever he takes in hand always prospers, and I wish him health and long life to enjoy the laurels I am sure he will win. Bro. R. L. Armstrong, in responding, thanked the W.M. for the kind manner he had proposed his health, and for the reception it had received from the brethren. There had been a great deal said about the part he took in the formation of the lodge, but I must say they were trivial in comparison with what my esteemed friend P.M. G. Thompson, whom we have so lately seen taken from amongst us, took in the formation of this lodge, as he took the chair at the first meeting, and he suggested several most important ideas, which helped us with our labours in the formation of this lodge. W.M. and brethren, I thank you for the kind feeling you have expressed to me, and hope you may go on and prosper. The W.M. proposed "The P.M. of St. Nicholas Lodge," responded to by Bro. J. Cook, M.O., P.P.G.S.W. The W.M. proposed "The Past and Present Officers of St. Nicholas Lodge," responded to by Bro. Blencowe, J.W. The I.P.M. then proposed "The Masonic Charities," which was responded to by Bro. R. L. Armstrong, Installing Master, P.M., P.G.P. "The Visiting Brethren" was duly given by Bro. R. L. Armstrong, P.M., responded to by Bro. Eynen, W.M. 481, P.P.G.A.D.C. Bros. Frery, Blencowe, Robinson, MacKay, Armstrong, Cummings, and several other brethren gave some capital songs and recitations, when the Tyler's toast brought a happy meeting to a close.

INSTRUCTION.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT LODGE (No. 1524).—A meeting of this lodge of instruction was held at Havelock Tavern, Albion-road, Dalston, on Wednesday, the 11th inst. There were present Bros. A. R. Olley, W.M.; A. McMillan, S.W.; S. Dignam, J.W.; A. McDowall, S.D.; W. Ferras, I.G.; W. Fieldwick, Preceptor; J. Williams, Sec., and also several other brethren. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Williams, the candidate, having answered the necessary questions, was passed to the Second Degree of a Fellow Craft. Bro. J. Lorkin, assisted by the brethren, worked the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Sections of the Lecture. The lodge was closed down to the First Degree, and Bro. J. Lorkin, assisted by the brethren, worked the 1st and 3rd Sections of the Lecture. Bro. Fieldwick proposed, and Bro. Dignam, seconded—"That Bro. McMillan be W.M. for the ensuing week." Carried unanimously. Nothing further offering, the lodge was closed in ancient form.

WEST SMITHFIELD LODGE (No. 1623).—The brethren of this lodge, with the assistance of those from other lodges, worked the Fifteen Sections on Monday, June the 11th, under the able direction of Bro. H. J. Lardner, J.W. 1745, W.M., who appointed his officers as follows: Bros. G. H. Stephens, S.W. 1623; Stuart, P.M. 141, J.W.; Jackson, 1475, S.D.; Whadcoat, 141, J.D.; Tremere, 1309, I.G.

- 3rd " " Davis, 879.

Preceptor, W. Pennefather, P.M.; Hon Secretary, E. Mallett, P.M. The Sections being ended the lodge was then resumed, and the W.M. rose to make the usual enquiries, when the following brethren expressed a desire to become members of the lodge, were proposed, seconded, and unanimously elected, viz., Bros. R. H. Hallam, S.W. 1349; T. Tremere, 1309; Davis, J.D. 879; Dickinson, P.M. 1299; W. E. Whadcoat, 141; J. Cox, P.M. 765; W. Martin, 879. They thanked the brethren of the lodge for their unanimous election, and expressed themselves in terms of admiration at the very able manner in which the W.M. had discharged his duties as Lecture Master, asserting that the lodge could not fail support with such brethren amongst them. Bro. G. H. Stephens, 1623, was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing lodge meeting, the 16th inst. He thanked the brethren, and appointed his officers as usual. A vote of thanks was passed and recorded on the minutes to the brethren who had rendered assistance in the various Sections. It was then unanimously resolved, on the motion of the worthy Preceptor, Bro. Pennefather, P.M., that a vote of thanks be entered on the minutes to Bro. Lardner, for the very able manner he had discharged the arduous duties of W.M. The W.M., in reply, thanked the brethren for their acknowledgement in his efforts to discharge his duties. He felt more than at the present moment he was able to express, and went on to say that from the day he was initiated he had given his love to Freemasonry, and as he progressed from stage to stage, his love became greater, until nothing but the Fifteen Sections would appease him; and having thus far fairly accomplished his undertaking, he felt gratified at the reception recorded him. Before resuming his seat he would like to say a few words upon a subject that appeared to him an important question, viz., the constant practice as a necessity for the uniformity of working the visiting more often of each other's lodges of instruction, for nothing had confused him more than trying to do what he had been taught, to visit a lodge and told he was wrong; he hoped the brethren present, many of whom were P.M.'s, would not think he reflected upon any particular system; such was not the case; he thought there must be a right way, and thought that way might be arrived at by more constant communication with each other. Again thanking the brethren for the confidence reposed in him, and trusting to meet each other again before long, he would ask them to assist him to close the lodge according to ancient custom, which he accomplished, and the brethren separated, having spent a most enjoyable evening, the attendance being very large.

Royal Arch.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT CHAPTER (No. 1524).—The first regular meeting of this chapter was held at Andertons Hotel, Fleet-street, on Wednesday, the 11th inst. Present Comps. W. H. Lee, M.E.Z.; Neville Green, H.; T. C. Chapman, J.; W. H. Brand, S.E.; R. A. Steel, S.N.; E. Somers, P.S.; W. Stephens, P.Z.; Marsh, Janitor. The chapter having been formally opened and the minutes of the consecration meeting read and confirmed, ballot was taken for seven candidates for exaltation, which proved unanimous in their favour, and Bros. Frederick Brasted, John L. Payne, William Beasley, and Robert George, all of the Duke of Connaught Lodge, No. 1524, being in attendance, were duly exalted into Royal Arch Masonry. After some other business had been disposed of the companions adjourned to banquet, after which the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured. The visitors were Comps. T. Green, H. 975; and F. Brown, N. 538.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS. — Holmesdale Chapter (No. 874).—The regular convocation of this prosperous chapter was held on Monday, the 2nd inst., at the Pump Room, Comp. W. Stephens, M.E.Z., presiding, supported by Comps. B. S. Wilmot, P.Z.; W. B. Bacon, J.; R. W. Delves, S.E.; H. D. M. Williams, S.N.; Chas. Graham, P.S.; W. B. Bates, 1st A.S.; A. Arnold Goodhall, I. G. Whitehead, and Wrighton. The chapter was visited by Comp. G. Buss. The minutes of the previous convocation were read and confirmed. The ballot was then taken for Comps. W. T. Wrighton, Crystal Palace Chapter, No. 23, and H. S. Goodall, of the Wellington Chapter, No. 874, as joining members, also for Bro. Albert Arnold, M.M. No. 874, which proved unanimous. The last named, being in attendance, was duly exalted into the mysteries of the Royal Arch, the ceremony, as is usual in the chapter, being given in an admirable manner. Comp. Wilmot, P.Z., proposed—"That the day of installation be in future the first Monday in December," which was carried. This concluded the business before the chapter, which was closed in ancient form, and the companions adjourned to the Mount Ephraim Hotel, when an excellent banquet awaited them. The usual loyal and Royal Arch toasts were given from the chair very briefly, and they were duly honoured. "The Health of the M.E.Z." was proposed by the Treasurer of the chapter, Comp. Wilmot, P.Z. The M.E.Z., in thanking the companions for the toast, congratulated them on their prosperity, and said it was a great pleasure to him to preside over them, and he would do all in his power to promote the interest of the Holmesdale Chapter. "The Health of the Newly-Exalted Companion" followed, and was duly acknowledged by Comp. Arnold. "The Health of the Visitor" was proposed, in an eulogistic speech, by the M.E.Z. Comp. Buss thanked the M.E.Z. for proposing the toast, and the companions for the enthusiastic manner in which they had received it. The intervals between the toasts were pleasantly enlivened with some excellent songs by Comps. W. T. Wrighton and Bates. The proceedings terminated with the Janitor's toast. Our esteemed Comp. Wrighton, the author of "Her bright smile haunts me still," has located himself at Tunbridge Wells, and would be delighted to see any old friends at his house, the Mount Ephraim Hotel—

"For you may travel around
Where hotels are found,
At Dover, Hastings, or Brighton,
But there's one you should seek
On Mount Ephraim's peak,
Which is kept by a regular Right 'un."

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The General Committee of this Institution met on Saturday last, at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. W. Roebuck in the chair. There were also present Bros. S. Rosenthal, Henry W. Hunt, Joyce Murray, R. B. Webster, Arthur E. Gladwell, A. J. Duff Filer, W. F. C. Moutrie, Rev. Rich. Morris (Head Master of the School), Don. M. Dewar, C. F. Matier, G. J. Palmer, Geo. Gillard, W. Paas, F. Binckes (Secretary), and H. Massey (Freemason).

The Chairman gave notice of motion for next meeting to increase the salary of the Head Master £50 a year, and in giving the notice stated that the brethren all knew the result of the last examinations, when such a success was achieved as he believed had never before been attained by any Institution. When Dr. Morris first came to the school there were 110 boys in it, there were now 230. There were also additional masters, and the labours of Dr. Morris were very much increased. It was on these grounds he (the Chairman) gave the notice of motion.

All the brethren agreed that the success of the Institution under Dr. Morris had been extraordinary.

Five candidates were placed on the list for the October election, and the members of the House and Audit Committees were declared re-elected, no nominations for new members having been made.

Two outfits were granted to former pupils of the Institution, and the Committee adjourned after passing a vote of thanks to the Chairman.

It will be seen from the advertisement on our front page that the Provincial Grand Lodge of Middlesex will be held on the 28th inst., not on the 21st, as at first proposed.

CONSECRATION OF THE SIR THOMAS WHITE LODGE, No. 1820.

This new lodge, founded by brethren who were educated at Merchant Taylors' School, to scholars of which only membership will be confined, was consecrated on the 6th inst., at the London Masonic Club, 101, Queen Victoria-street. The founders of the lodge were Bros. Robert Grey, P.G.D.; Dr. W. Rhys Williams, P.A.G.D.C.; Dr. Trollope, P.M. 40, P.P.S.G.W. Sussex; the Rev. R. F. Hosken, F. J. Vialls, H. Bué, J. M. Hare, Joseph J. Forrester, Alfred Cooper, P.M.; and W. Brown.

It is an interesting fact that the Merchant Taylors' Company, under whose auspices the school in Charterhouse-square flourishes, have been more intimately associated with Freemasonry than is perhaps generally known. The Duke of Buccleugh was installed as Grand Master of Freemasons in the Merchant Taylors' Hall, and he first proposed the scheme of raising a general fund for distressed Masons, and in the year following his successor, the Duke of Richmond, appointed twelve Masters of contributing Lodges, together with the Grand Officers, to form a committee, which has since been modified, and which now forms our Lodge of Benevolence. On the 29th January, 1730, the Duke of Norfolk was duly invested and installed as Grand Master in Merchant Taylors' Hall, and amongst other gifts to Grand Lodge he presented "a sword of State for the Grand Master, being the old trusty sword of Gustavus Adolphus, King of Sweden." This is the sword now used in Grand Lodge. In 1732 Lord Viscount Montague was installed in the ancient Hall, and on the 27th April, 1767, the Duke of Beaufort was also installed in the same place, shortly after which Masonry was enabled to found a hall of its own.

The consecration ceremony was performed by Bro. John Hervey, G.S., himself an old Merchant Taylors' scholar; the S.W. chair was occupied by Bro. C. A. Murton, P.G.D.; the J.W. chair by Bro. Francis Robinson, P.A.G.D.C.; Bro. Thomas Fenn, P.G.D., P.A.G.D.C.; Bro. J. M. Hare was Secretary; and Bro. H. R. Cooper Smith, P.M., P. Prov. G.W. Oxford, acted as I.G.

The musical portion of the ceremony was ably performed under the direction of Bro. Faulkner Leigh, P.G. Org. Herts, by that brother and Bros. Henry Parker, P.P. Org. Middlesex, J. Hodges, and W. Bolton.

The full list of the brethren who attended was as follows:—Bros. John Hervey, G.S.; Dr. J. E. Cox, P.G.C.; C. A. Murton, P.G.D.; J. C. Parkinson, P.G.D.; Thomas Fenn, P.G.D.; F. P. Morrell, P.G.D.; P. De L. Long, P.G.D.; C. C. Dumas, P.A.G.D.C.; F. Robinson, P.A.G.D.C.; Sir Charles Bright, D.P.G.M. Middlesex; F. W. Forrester, W.M. 222; J. W. Ellis, Grand Steward, G. Parbury, A. Rickards, and F. G. Faithfull, 1615, Clerk of the Merchant Taylors' Company; Gordon Brown, P.M. 1; F. Richardson, P.M. 14; Charles Tyler, P.M. 19; W. Hollingworth, P.M. 63; J. Houle, P.M. 92; J. Forrester, P.M. 222; W. J. Starkey, P.M. 322; R. H. Thrupp, P.M. 255; J. Bué, P.M. 357; H. Massey, P. M. 619; G. Drysdale, F. Hayter, Faulkner Leigh, Walter Bolton, Henry Parker, John Hodges, G. Roper, J. W. Sewell, R. G. Hall, J. C. Walker, G. H. Haydon, G. H. Savage, G. Pettillieu, Alfred Gilbert, and D. Allen Duke, and H. Massey (Freemason). After the lodge had been opened,

Bro. John Hervey said: Brethren, the ceremony of the consecration of a lodge is not now so unusual as it used to be in times gone by. Lodges are daily accumulating in our midst, the Craft is extending its branches far and wide, not only in England, but in the Colonies and Dependencies of this country, and I trust that it is extending its influence not only in numbers but for good. In London naturally we have had a great many class lodges established. When I say "class lodges," I mean lodges which emanate from some particular number of gentlemen who associate themselves together because they have derived their business from one source, or, that from circumstances, they are disposed to congregate together as a lodge when not meeting in the ordinary social way as men and gentlemen. Now, of late years we have had a great many of that class, and this Sir Thomas White Lodge is, perhaps, the youngest of those which may be considered class lodges, as it emanates from that great school which has turned out many eminent men, among whom we can count great scholars and most eminent persons, both in the Church and in the State. I am sure that it must be a gratifying thing to the members of this new lodge to originate a lodge which is founded upon such principles, and we may hope, I think, in future years to find that the Sir Thomas White Lodge—although probably the founders might have taken a more immediate name, and called it "The Merchant Taylors' School Lodge"—will show its influence in the Craft and prove to the members of it that the lodge has not originated in vain. Now, we have many lodges which take their names from something which is to distinguish them as belonging to a particular calling, and I see among the first which may be ranked as a class lodge, one that is called the Asaph, a lodge which is a musical lodge, where the members meet in the middle of the day that their Masonic duties may not interfere with their professional engagements. They do their work in the lodge, and early in the afternoon they separate, and they have only one banquet a year to celebrate their hospitality among themselves. The next which I find on a short list which I have made here is called the Covent Garden Lodge, and that, brethren, originated with salesmen, highly respectable men, all of them, I believe, fruiterers and salesmen in Covent Garden Market. I find the Crichton Lodge which meets down at Camberwell, and is principally composed of schoolmasters and men who make education their particular aim. Next comes the Evening Star Lodge, which, I think, a very good name for it, inasmuch as it is principally composed, and I might say almost entirely composed, of men who are connected with gas factories, and who turn night into day. We then come to a lodge called the Northern Bar Lodge. I think, perhaps, our Bro. Inner Guard perhaps might be better able to tell you about that than I can. (Bro. Cooper Smith: No, Worshipful Master, I have no acquaintance with it.) I thought perhaps you had visited it; but it originated then in the fact that when the alteration took place in the different circuits, the baristers who were members of the Northern Bar originated the lodge in order that they might meet together socially, although they did not meet professionally on circuit. It is a very jovial lodge, as I can testify, and it is composed certainly of some of the most eminent men who are connected with the bar of this country. Then comes another musical lodge, called Orpheus Lodge, a parochial lodge, called St. Clement Danes Lodge, of which our Rev. Bro. R. J. Simpson was in a great measure the originator. We have then another parochial lodge, called the St. Dunstan's Lodge, and all of these are connected with a particular class. There is another, called the St. Leonard Lodge, Shoreditch, which is again a parochial lodge. The University Lodge we all know emanated from the fact that the Westminster and Keystone Lodge was a very large lodge, composed chiefly of Oxford men, and the Cambridge men thought they would like to have a finger in the pie as well as the Oxford men, and, therefore, they originated the lodge as a sort of outlying element in associating the members of the University of Cambridge. And the last, brethren, and I may say not the least, which I shall trouble you with is a lodge which was established by the non-commissioned officers of London. They complained that they had no lodge in which they could associate; the lodges generally speaking were too expensive for their men, and they, therefore, wished to have a lodge where they might all meet together, on the same level, as men and brethren, I will not say out of uniform, but at any rate out of the pale of the military control. The Wanderers' Lodge is now, I believe, considerably above 100 strong, and it has not confined its labours to the non-commissioned officers, or those who are associated with them, because a great number of the officers of the army hearing of this lodge have joined with their subalterns, and become members of the Wanderers' Lodge. Bro. Fenn just now reminds me that a short time ago I had the pleasure of consecrating a lodge at the Alexandra Palace, and of installing our Bro. Cooper Smith (who is kindly acting as our Inner Guard to day) as first Master of that lodge; and that lodge also bears a close resemblance to this, inasmuch as it emanated from a school called the Cholmondeley, which has, I think, its head-quarters at Highgate, and therefore I was wrong in saying this was the first of these lodges which have appeared in a scholastic form. Brethren, I am sure from the number we see round this room, that you wish this lodge good speed, and I trust that when the labours of the day are finished we shall hand over the warrant and the government of the lodge to those who will well guard them. I naturally take an interest in this lodge, being an old scholar of the Merchant Taylors, and I shall be glad to see it flourish and prosper. I will not trouble you any further, I have perhaps said a great deal too much about these things; but at any rate you will forgive me on such an occasion as this, when the Installing Master is expected to make some observations on the work he is engaged in. (Hear, hear.)

After the usual formalities following the opening address, Bro. Hervey called on Bro. the Rev. J. Edmund Cox to deliver the oration.

Bro. the Rev. J. Edmund Cox, D.D., P.G. Chaplain, then said: Brethren, I am called upon, somewhat unprepared, to address you on this occasion, and I must throw myself upon your consideration and fraternal good will, if I should fall short in the duty imposed upon me, as I fear in all probability will be the case. Nevertheless, I will endeavour to do my best to promote the interests of the lodge, and to show how much I love and admire the great principles and tenets of our Order. My first duty will be to direct you to the highest and noblest of principles enunciated in the whole tenets of the Craft—"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, goodwill towards men." Masonry, so long as it has flourished in its pure and palmy condition, has never lost sight of the first great duty of paying adoration and ascribing glory and honour to The Great Architect of the Universe, Masonry in itself having promoted through the length and breadth of the world that "brotherly love, relief, and truth" which are combined in those words of sublime expression, "peace on earth, goodwill towards men." I have a strong conviction for my own part, that Masonry is derived from the very earliest times. I have on several occasions been somewhat ridiculed for maintaining this position, but the more I have studied Masonry, and the longer I have enjoyed taking part in its ceremonies, the more am I persuaded that it has been handed down from a period which is little thought of, I fear, by many of those who have been initiated into the Order. My own firm conviction is, that it first of all sprang into notice at the Great Dispersion, when language was founded, and my belief is that though the brethren, the then Masons, the Craftsmen of that period (for we know the Dispersion took place on account of their attempting to build a tower that should reach to Heaven, so that it should save future generations from the waters of a Flood)—carried away with them, as they could never speak the same language hereafter, certain substituted "signs and symbols," by which they should be known one to another wherever they might plant their foot, or inhabit far distant countries. I take this for granted in a great measure from circumstances, of which you are probably aware, that wherever you travel over the face of the earth and water, whether it be far distant or unexplored islands of the sea, or whether it be among those poor unhappy men now contending and fighting against our power in South Africa, there you will find that there are signs and symbols of our Order, and even these those signs are given, accepted and received as proofs of fraternity existing amongst them. Of the power of Masonry in other parts of the world I may detain you with an anecdote concerning a dear boy of mine now gone to his rest, an old Merchant Taylor, a schoolfellow of one or more members of this lodge, whom I have the pleasure of addressing. At the age of eighteen he went out to India at the flag end of the Mutiny. As soon as he was brought into active service he had to lead a detachment in order to capture the great rebel, Tania Topee. Five minutes before his arrival the rebel had escaped, and so his detachment was unable to catch him. He had however a fight, with thirty men under his command, with a body of the mutineers. This mere stripling of eighteen was about to be struck down by a stalwart Hindoo; but he remembered the last piece of advice I gave him on the ship's deck as he was leaving Southampton—"If ever you find yourself in difficulty or danger, never forget the sign of grief and lamentation"—for, I may say I myself initiated him into Masonry, passed, and raised him before he left this country, by dispensation, he being a lewis. The moment he was about to be cut down he gave that sign, the man dropped his sword and not only saved his life, but led him to his lines. That is an evidence of what is effected through the instrumentality of Masonry, and is among my evidences of its being connected with the Dispersion. As time went on the Egyptian mysteries sprang into notice. We know that Moses was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and I have a firm conviction that he took away with him from Egypt the secrets of the Order which were afterwards developed in still wider extent, as time shows, by the rearing of the Tabernacle in the Wilderness. The great features of Masonry culminated in the building of King Solomon's Temple, and from that time to the present it has gone on increasing in force and vigour, declining at some periods of the world's history, reviving again in majesty and pride, but ever promoting the great principles upon which it is founded, "glory to God in the highest, and planted on earth, peace, goodwill towards men." We cannot look at our cathedrals, those ancient fanes, throughout the length and breadth of our country as elsewhere in the world, without bearing testimony to the fact that they are the products of Masons who were operative, of the guilds of Masonry that existed not only in this land but every land in the world, not even excepting India—buildings which are still the marvels of our age brought to perfection by the skill of the Craftsmen. I need not remind you, who are well informed concerning the progress of Masonry in our own land, how it has developed within the last few years. I hope and trust it will develop more and more, and that we may have quality amongst us rather than quantity, that the true principles of Masonry may be looked to before receiving a brother within our portals, and that none but worthy, and worthy men alone, shall find admission within the precincts of our lodges. I do most earnestly hope and trust still further that we may find many of the ceremonies revived which I remember being carried out in my young days, and which, at the age of five years, induced me to say if I lived to be old enough I would be a Mason—a determination which I never forgot. Whenever such events occur I believe they make a great impression, and will continue to do so continually; but I regret to say that of late years the laying of the foundation stones of noble and stately edifices has been greatly neglected. I did hope and trust, and I made every effort to get it carried out, that when that pile of buildings in the Strand, the Law Courts, were about to be commenced, the first stone might have been laid in Masonic form and of order. When His Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex was Grand Master of the Order, he would not, on any consideration whatever, have permitted any building of importance to be reared without the Grand Lodge being present, and he himself, or his Deputy, laying the chief corner stone; and I do hope if stately buildings are to rise still more and more among us, His Royal Highness, our worthy, esteemed, and noble Grand Master, may be induced himself to take the line which his grand-uncle always took, and that we may have Masonry recognised before the world as it is recognised among ourselves, as being of immense utility in promoting the noblest actions combined with the grandest matters that can possibly be conceived. I throw these remarks out with diffidence, and in bringing this imperfect and unprepared oration to a close, I wish this lodge every prosperity that can possibly befall it, and that I may live to see it improving in its work, and promoting the welfare of the Craft, individually and collectively, to the advancement of the "Glory of God in the highest, on earth peace, goodwill towards men." (Applause.)

The ceremony of consecration was then proceeded with and completed, and at its close Bro. Hervey installed Bro. Robert Grey, Past Grand Deacon, as Master of the lodge, on the presentation of Bro. Thomas Fenn, P.G.D. Bro. W. Rhys Williams, P.A.G.D.C., was invested as S.W., and Bro. Thomas Trollope, P.M. as J.W. Bro. Joseph J. Forrester was unanimously elected Treasurer, and invested with the collar and jewel of his office. Bro. J. M. Hare was invested as Secretary; Bro. F. Vialls, S.D.; Bro. Rev. R. F. Hosken, J.D.; Bro. H. Bue, I.G.; and Bro. J. Daly was elected and invested as Tyler. Votes of thanks to the Consecrating Officers were passed, and those brethren were elected honorary members of the lodge. A long list of names of intending initiates and joining members was given in, and the brethren then closed lodge, and adjourned to a choice banquet. The usual toasts followed in due course.

The W.M., in proposing the toast of "The Queen and the Craft," said he proposed to set an example that he hoped would be followed in this lodge, that of making short speeches. The sincerity of the brethren's thoughts and wishes were none the less for brevity, and he was perfectly certain the brethren would appreciate it the more. The first toast that naturally sprang to their lips was one that they as Masons, doubly so as those Masons were old Merchant Taylors' boys, gave with that loyalty and enthusiasm which he hoped and trusted it was impossible to surpass—"Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen," the mother of their Grand Master, who by her high qualities had so endeared herself to her subjects by the true principles of morality and virtue which had ever distinguished her thoughts and actions.

The W.M., in giving "The Health of the M.W.G.M., the Prince of Wales," said the toast was always given and received by Freemasons in the way that it deserved, with true loyalty and affection; but it was not on every occasion that they could return their heartfelt thanks and gratitude to their G.M. as they could that day, for having placed in their possession a warrant which they meant to uphold and honour. The G.M.'s qualities were known so well to every Englishman, so well to every Mason, that it would be superfluous for him (the W.M.) in any way to illustrate them on this occasion, and he would merely ask the brethren to drink "Health, Happiness, and Long Life to our well beloved Most Worshipful Grand Master."

The W.M. then said he now passed on to a toast, sincere as their feelings and their sentiments were in the first two, which possibly appealed more nearly to the brethren from the fact that they were about to drink the health of some brethren who were present; and he had first of all to ask them to do honour to that worthy, able Pro Grand Master, who so admirably seconded their illustrious leader. He asked them also to recognise with the meed of praise that was due to him, Lord Skelmersdale, a most thorough Mason, a most thorough English gentleman. He asked them also to do honour—although he was one himself—to the body of Grand Officers, present and past; and he might here say that he recollected on a recent occasion, when having made the mistake of saying "past and present," he was told by a Grand Officer—a present Grand Officer in both senses of the word (and long might he continue to be in that position)—that a living jackass was better than a dead lion. He (the W.M.) felt the force of the observation, but he also felt how much better was the living lion than the dead jackass. He felt as he always did feel when that brother was present, that they had a real lion in their presence—their much beloved and respected Bro. John Hervey. (Cheers.) They had to-night to do honour to the lodge such an assemblage of Grand Officers, present and past, as was seldom seen at the consecration of any lodge. Several Grand Officers had written the kindest letters to him expressing their inability to be present. Some had even so far strained their engagements as to be present to assist in consecrating the lodge, but had not been able to remain to partake of the hospitality of the banquet; but he was sure the lodge heartily thanked them for their attendance, and heartily thanked the Grand Officers who had on this occasion come to witness the birth of this lodge. He could only hope that they might in future days over and over again visit the lodge to watch its growth and progress, and give the advice and assistance which they were ever willing to render to any and every lodge in the Craft. He would couple with the toast the name of the Rev. Dr. Cox, who had so ably delivered the oration and performed all the duties of Chaplain that evening.

The Rev. J. Edmund Cox, D.D., P.G.C., in reply said: W.M. and Brethren, as the Senior Grand Officer of Grand Lodge here present, and in virtue of the rank which I have the honour to hold in Grand Lodge, the W.M. has been pleased to couple my name with this toast, and I rise on behalf of my brethren and myself to acknowledge with the utmost gratitude the kind and fraternal manner in which we have been received here, and also for the admirable manner in which the health of our respected chiefs, the Earl of Carnarvon and Lord Skelmersdale, have been received. I have had great pleasure in assisting at the consecration of this lodge, to-day, and if I have in any way whatever contributed to your happiness, and to the benefit of the lodge by being present and taking part in the work, I am abundantly rewarded. When I had the honour of receiving the invitation, so fraternally and kindly offered to me, I at once hastened to accept it; for although I am not an old Merchant Taylors' boy myself, yet there is no Company within the City of London in which I am more interested than in that grand old guild, for are they not the patrons of the preferment I have the honour to hold under their care and their consideration, which consideration and care are always manifested with the utmost kindness, and with every mark and token of friendship and regard, day by day more and more endearing me to that society with which I have the gratification, though late in life, to be in a certain sense connected? But it is not merely in recognition of that appointment which I hold and under which, as I say, I receive every mark of kind consideration and courtesy that I have the pleasure of being here to assist in the conversation and working of the lodge, and to address you as at present, but I have had two sons educated in that school, one of whom I have mentioned to you to-day, the only one who was a Mason. The elder is still living, and is serving his Master, I hope to the best of his power and ability, in a large sphere of usefulness in Liverpool; but if he were aware of our meeting here to-night, and of the establishment of this lodge, though he is no Mason, and has always shrunk from becoming one (and I have never attempted to induce him to join the Craft, for I hold that we have no right to ask or desire any one that he should do so unless he does it of his own free will and accord), yet I am satisfied his heart would leap towards his old school-fellows, many of whom have surrounded me this day, and congratulated me concerning himself, no less than that I am still able to continue among you to show that my interest in the Craft has never ceased, that my desire for its progress has never wavered, that my anxiety has never in the slightest degree diminished in order that might see it go forward and flourish, carrying out its great principles through the length and breadth, not only of our own land, but through every portion of the world. Pardon me, brethren, if my feelings somewhat carry me away on an occasion of this kind. There is deep solemnity in the services of that profession to which I have the honour to belong; but I can safely say, and I am sure you will bear with me in saying it, that deeply as I feel the importance and the reverence of those services in which I have to minister, I can yet add that I do feel as deeply, as sincerely, and as conscientiously in whatever I can do for the cause and the progress of Freemasonry, each with regard to ministrations having the same duties to fulfil, the same rites to perform, the same occupation to carry forward to the utmost of one's power and ability, to promote that holy principle to which I have already adverted this day, of proclaiming and striving to produce "peace on earth, goodwill towards men." For myself, and brother Grand Officers here present, who do me the honour to permit me to be their spokesman on such an occasion, I return you my sincere thanks, assuring you that this day will remain in my recollection so long as I live, as I am sure it will be in theirs—to be one "that must ever be marked with red chalk." (Applause.)

The W.M., in proposing "The Health of the Consecrating Officers," said that it was no small thing when he told the brethren that of all the Consecrating Officers he would have wished to hold the office and to be present at the time he was installed he could not have selected five officers for whom he felt a deeper respect. There were no officers to whom he owed more in Masonry than he did to the five officers who had that day assisted in the consecration of the Sir Thomas White Lodge. Bro. Hervey was so well known to the brethren and wherever Masonry was held under the English Constitution, or, he might say, under any other Constitution Bro. Hervey's name was known, and where it was known it was needless to say, respected to the utmost. He (the W.M.) deeply felt the kindness Bro. Hervey had shown to him since the time that he (the W.M.) was a newly-raised M.M. Bro. Hervey had assisted and taken an interest in lodges he (the W.M.) had belonged to, and had shown to him personally the most unvaried kindness. Bro. Dr. Cox he (the W.M.) owed in some measure an apology to, but at the same time he did not propose to render it; as, although by some accident, he (Bro. Cox) was not aware that he would have to deliver an oration, he (the W.M.) could not but think that it was somewhat of a happy mistake, as, had Bro. Cox studied what he had to say ever since the time he received his invitation, he could not have chosen more apt, fit, or impressive words than he had delivered. The brethren all appreciated what he did say, and they all thanked him from the bottom of their hearts. He (the W.M.) would then pass on to his father in Masonry, Bro. Murton, who had so kindly filled the office of S.W. Every Mason who loved Masonry for Masonry's working liked Bro. Murton; they knew how indefatigable he had been and was at the only school of Masonry—the Lodge of Emulation—that school in which they had all worked in their time (if they had not, the sooner they began the better). Bro. Robinson, the J.W. at the consecration, whom he (the W.M.) had known so many years, was the highly esteemed and respected Treasurer of the Prince of Wales's Lodge. Bro. Robinson was so well known to all the brethren of the Craft that he (the W.M.) could only sincerely thank him; not a word which he (the W.M.) might say could in any way possibly add to his well known character as a Mason. He then passed to one who was not present at the table—to whom Masonry, indeed, owed much—Bro. Thomas Fenn—who, from the time he took office in Grand Lodge, had been an indefatigable worker. He (the W.M.) felt certain that if Sir Albert Woods was present he would say how much he appreciated Bro. Fenn's assistance, and acknowledge how much he owed to his assistance. Bro. Fenn, although having another engagement, had, at great personal inconvenience to himself, attended at the consecration of the Sir Thomas White Lodge. The kindness he had shown him (the W.M.) invariably from the commencement of his Masonic career had only been followed in this instance. What did they, as a lodge, not owe to the Consecrating Officers? Those brethren had attended on this most impressive and solemn occasion to launch forth into life a new lodge with prospects of no one knew what before it. They had entrusted to the keeping of the founders the warrant that had been granted by the Grand Master. The founders felt as deeply as Masons could feel the depth of the gratitude they owed the Consecrating Officers; that they had done services that day to the lodge which he trusted would never be forgotten.

Bro. John Hervey, G.S., in reply, said the feelings of the other Consecrating Officers, like his own, were that, in coming that day to assist in the consecration of the Sir Thomas White Lodge, they were simply performing a duty which ought to be undertaken by every man who was competent enough to undertake it, and that they ought not at any time to shirk the responsibility which devolved upon them in their various situations. The other brethren who had assisted him felt with himself highly honoured by the compliment paid to them by electing them honorary members of the lodge, and he thought he might also say on their part as well as his own that they would look forward to coming to the lodge again to see how it was progressing, to see how its duties were performed, and to ascertain from personal inspection how the work was carried on. To pass from that which was personal to himself to something else, he would now do that which was much more congenial to his feelings than talking of himself even, although he was associated with several members respected in the Craft and had done good service that evening. He wished now to propose for the brethren's acceptance the toast of "Success to the Sir Thomas White Lodge." He thought that success was already assured, because when one looked how the lodge had been started, when one knew that in the Master's chair they had one who had already fulfilled the office in two other lodges, one of the most leading lodges of the day being one of them, the Prince of Wales's, and one of the most comfortable lodges in the Craft, the St. Andrew's, he thought he might say that the future of the lodge was secured under such management. Passing on then to the S.W., they had their Bro. Rhys Williams, who had already passed the chair of the Old Union, and who in that capacity fulfilled his duties in a manner to secure the happiness of the brethren and the well being of the lodge. The J.W., Bro. Trollope, was a Past Provincial Grand Warden of Sussex, and of course he would not have attained that position without having worked hard for the Craft. Offering this toast to the brethren's notice, he (Bro. Hervey) was only performing the duties which devolved upon him as Consecrating Officer. In coupling the W.M.'s name with the toast he might add that what he had already said would show that Bro. Grey was no new man, that he was not a man who had not been trusted, but he was a man to whom the Sir Thomas White Lodge might look forward with confidence as one who would conduct their barque through all the shoals and difficulties to which a newly launched vessel was exposed, and who would do his best to insure every success and prosperity to the Sir Thomas White Lodge, No. 1820, and he might say that the brethren would drink it in 1820 port that had been presented to the lodge by the W.M. of St. Andrew's Lodge, Bro. Forrester, to insure the success of the lodge.

The W.M., in reply, said: Brethren, I have now to return thanks for the toast that has just been proposed by Bro. Hervey, with which he couples my name. The toast was "Prosperity to Sir Thomas White Lodge." How is that prosperity to be assured but by each and every one of us in our respective offices both doing our own duties to the utmost of our power, and attempting to the utmost of our ability to leave a good example to our successors. We hope and believe that many unborn Masons awaiting at the present moment to enter our fraternity will join our lodge. We know that in bringing Merchant Taylors into the Craft we are making no mistake; we know that we are bringing in those who have been good and true boys, those that we doubt not will in due course turn out true and good Masons. I know I am speaking for my brother officers, as well as for myself, when I say we intend, by God's help, to do the very best we can for the prosperity of the lodge and for the prosperity of the Craft; we have its interests at heart, and we mean to avail ourselves of the possession of the knowledge. Brethren, you were kind enough to couple my name, as the Master of the lodge, with this toast. It is no small position for a Mason to hold that of the first Mastership of a lodge. I feel deeply the importance of the trust placed in me. I feel how utterly inadequate I am to express to this meeting the feelings and the words that should come from this chair on such an important occasion as that on which we have this evening met, but whoever might fill this chair, nobody could more sincerely express the feelings that I now possess, the hope that this lodge may be a prosperous one. I hope and trust that it will be a credit and an honour to our great fraternity. Bro. Hervey, in the name of our lodge, and in the name of myself, I heartily thank you for your kind expressions.

Bro. J. C. Parkinson, P.G.D., in responding to the toast of "The Visitors," said although it is undoubtedly a great privilege, at the same time it is a very heavy responsibility to be called upon to speak on behalf of so distinguished, so brilliant, and on the whole so representative an assemblage as I now see before me. What can I possibly say on their behalf? Only that they, with myself, have entered most thoroughly and sympathetically into your feelings this evening, that we have shared with you your appreciation of the ceremony upstairs, that we have noticed with you that despite infirmity of years, and occasional ill health, our Bro. Hervey is so vigorous, so strong, so fully capable of rendering in its entirety the beauty of the Masonic ritual. Were I to seek to gauge the hearts of the brethren whom I represent, I would venture for the moment to say that behind their enjoyment is a feeling of resentment against fate, that they too are not Merchant Taylors; this has seemed an exceedingly hard thing to me this evening. Seeing and appreciating as I have done that result of all clique feeling, I should say the one that dates from school boy days is the best, and it seems hard to me that I could not unite my deep love of Masonry with some reminiscence of schoolboy days, and that I do not, as members of this lodge do, belong to a lodge which recalls those happy, pleasant feelings of boys; but we are not like that gentleman who remained unmoved when the affecting charity sermon was preached, when every eye in the church was wet, and who when he was asked how it was he maintained his unrivalled and unequalled composure, answered, with unbroken calmness, "I do not belong to this parish," for we, thanks to the universality of Masonry, are able to sympathise and enjoy with you, to share your pleasures, we can appreciate and look forward to the triumphs I am sure this lodge is destined to achieve. Speaking in the City, brethren, you are so young as a lodge, and Freemasonry is so old, that I may perhaps be permitted if I quote from a speech I once heard delivered at an ancient company by a very eloquent prelate, the late Bishop of Winchester, who in returning thanks for the House of Lords said that it represented the past and the present, that it maintained its freshness by absorbing into its ranks the foremost men of each generation, and so kept its vigour unimpaired. As he said, it combines that reverence for the past without which the present is a bubble, and it maintains that hold on the present without which the past is a ruin-like the bloom upon the cheek of the comely matron it speaks at once of the pictures of her youth and the dominion of her age. It had seemed to me this evening, through it may be a curious reflection, that I have shared in the pleasant pangs of parturition in taking part in the birth of a new lodge.

The remaining toasts were then given, and the brethren separated.

Bros. Faulkner Leigh, J. Hodges, Walter Bolton, and Henry Parker entertained the brethren in the intervals between the toasts with some charming solo and part singing.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

The monthly meeting of the Committee of this Institution was held on Wednesday, at Freemasons' Hall. Bro. Col. Creaton, Grand Treasurer, presided. The other brethren present were Bros. Raynham W. Stewart, P.G.D.; Richard Hervé Giraud, P.G.D.; James Percy Leith, P.G.D.; C. G. Dilley, Thomas Goode, J. A. Farnfield, V.P., Chas. James Perceval, V.P., A. H. Tattershall, Thomas Cubitt, P.G.P.; Louis Stean, John G. Stevens, V.P., James Kench, Assistant G.P.; J. Newton, Dr. Jabez Hogg, P.G.P.; J. M. Case, P.G.D.; Lieut.-Col. H. G. Somerville Burney, J. H. Leggott, V.P., S. Rawson, P. Dist. G.M. Chlms; W. Hillton, W. Stephens, C. F. Hogard, and James Terry (Secretary).

The Secretary reported the deaths of Bro. William Watson, of Sudbury, Bro. J. Willis, of London, and Mrs. M. Jenkins, of Devonport. He also reported the names of the successful candidates at the election of 16th of May last.

The Chairman was then authorised to sign the necessary cheques, and the Committee adjourned.

BOROUGH OF PORTSMOUTH FREEMASONS' HALL AND CLUB COMPANY, LIMITED.

This company, incorporated on the 17th April last, promises to be the most successful undertaking in which the Freemasons of Portsmouth have ever embarked. The nominal capital is £3000, in six hundred shares of £5 each, £2 a share is paid on allotment, and the remainder is to be paid in calls of £1 each, at intervals of not less than one month. This capital, with judicious management, should be sufficient to carry out the main object of the undertaking, i.e., in providing suitable accommodation for the several Masonic lodges in Portsmouth, at a fair rental, so as to make the company commercially successful by paying a moderate dividend to the shareholders. The lodge rooms will be available for the accommodation of lodges in April next; and from the large and increasing support given to the company by the Craft in the borough, irrespective of the lodges to which they belong, will cause it to prove a lucrative investment, and strengthen the fraternal feeling already existing between the several lodges in this locality. Some years since a joint Committee was appointed to consider a scheme for building a hall in which the several lodges could meet, but it was considered impracticable, and the idea was abandoned. Had a company been formed at that time in the same manner as the present venture, we doubt not, but that a considerable sum of money would have been saved by the lodges, and the Masonic Charitable Institutions correspondingly benefited.

The premises to be built at No. 79, Commercial-road, Landport, for the accommodation of the Masonic Club about to be formed, will be a handsome building, and in keeping with the magnificent offices of the Gas Company at the corner of the block of buildings. Accommodation will also be provided in this building for the Borough of Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce, and an entrance formed to lead to the lodge room in the rear. The foundation stone of this building will be laid in the course of a few weeks by His Worship the Mayor. The desirability of forming a Masonic Club for the Freemasons of the borough has been long apparent, and we doubt not but that it will prove the most successful part of the undertaking.

Considerable credit is due to the directorate for the admirable, judicious, and economical manner this company has been promoted, especially to the Chairman, His Worship the Mayor, Alderman William David King, J.P., &c., and the Vice-Chairman, Mr. Councillor George Thomas Cunningham, who have been indefatigable in their exertions to make the company a success. Some 400 shares have been taken in the short space of six weeks, and the remaining 200 will doubtless be quickly disposed of.

Those Freemasons who wish to identify themselves with the company should apply at an early date to the Secretary, Mr. E. S. Main, St. Clair-terrace, Buckland, for the remaining shares.

Obituary.

BRO. CAPT. GEO. WATTSON.

We regret to announce the death of Bro. Capt. Geo. Wattson, which occurred suddenly on the 8th inst., at his residence, "Eastbourne Villa," Rochester. He was a most energetic and devoted Freemason, as the following will show:—He ranked as P.M. 1050, P.P.G.R. Kent, P.Z. Chap. 20, P.M.M. 69, G.M.J.D., and at the time of death was W.M.M. of 237, of which lodge he was the founder about four months since.

A warrant has been granted for a new lodge at Shoreham, to be called the Burrell Lodge, No. 1829.

Answers to Correspondents.

By an oversight of the "Reader" several Latin words last week are misspelt, much to our annoyance and that of the writer's. Thus "ipse" is put for "ipse"; "Ducta dibutantium" for "Ductor dubitantium"; and "eligitium" for "elegantiarum."

SATURDAY, JUNE 14, 1879.

OUR FUND OF BENEVOLENCE.

Our Fund of Benevolence has now reached it seems £50,000, no doubt a considerable sum, and sundry proposals have from time to time been made in respect of its application and use. Our esteemed and distinguished Bro. J. M. Clabon, whose opinion we all value, and whose services we all recognize, has propounded, if we understand him rightly, a scheme, or rather has drawn indistinctly the outline of a scheme, for the appropriation of the accumulation by devoting a portion of it annually to "exhibitions" or "scholarships" for the Girls' and Boys' Schools, for those who shall pass, of course, a specific examination from our two great metropolitan Institutions. Another suggestion has been made, namely, the making of increased grants to our Masonic Charities. And thus the matter seems to come before us, the more so as Bro. Clabon's withdrawing his motion at the last Grand Lodge on a point of order, proposes to reintroduce it on a subsequent occasion, in a way too which will necessitate certain changes in the Book of Constitutions. We fear somewhat that our esteemed Bro. Clabon has a little underrated, in his honest desire to do good, the difficulties of the case. The Fund of Benevolence, according to our Book of Constitutions, must be "solely devoted to charity." Scholarships and exhibitions may come under the practice of charity, but we doubt if they are consistent with the theory of the Book of Constitutions. Annuities are clearly charity in its widest sense, but could we give annuities from the Fund of Benevolence under the present Book of Constitutions? We think there can be but one answer to the question. And as we, in common with all Masons, honour Bro. Clabon's motives and intentions, we feel sure that he will forgive us, if we point out to him that many difficulties and grave questions must arise in any such appropriation of the Fund of Benevolence. The original intention of that fund is general Masonic charity. We now propose to divert a portion of it to the limited area of two Schools, no doubt most excellent institutions in themselves, and most Masonic. How will such an appropriation affect our provincial brethren? and how will it deal with provincial educational organizations? How does it bear on the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution? Will Grand Lodge consent to give to the Schools large annual grants without distinct control over the expenditure? Or is Grand Lodge likely to part with its funds without some guarantee that they will be devoted to the purpose for which they are professedly asked? Now these are questions to which our brethren will certainly want an answer. Let us suppose for a moment that Bro. Clabon carries his motion—what must be the result? One of two things; either a Grand Lodge Committee will have to be formed for the arrangement and management of these exhibitions or a joint Committee of the Educational Institutions and Grand Lodge must be constituted to work out the details, because certain contingencies and consequences are inevitable. If we are to grant exhibitions we must have examinations, a Board of Examiners, a Board of Managers. For to suppose that Grand Lodge will blindly grant a lump-sum to the Schools is, we feel sure, a chimera, which will have to be abandoned when once ventilated before the common sense of Grand Lodge itself. We ourselves do not deny that it would be both feasible and possible to constitute a central Board of Management, which would appoint examiners, but then all Masons' sons and daughters, alike in province and metropolis, must be permitted to compete for the scholarships. There could, no doubt, following the arrangements of the Oxford and Cambridge Middle Class Examinations, be "local centres" for examinations for those unable to come to London. But all this requires a vast amount of thoughtful organization and an expensive machinery to work out. But we venture to doubt whether the Grand Lodge or the Craft is prepared or wishful for so great a change, and we are still more inclined to disbelieve that a majority would welcome this arrangement of the matter. We are afraid, as we said at the outset, that the grave and essential difficulties of any such plan are hardly yet realized even by our distinguished Bro. J. M. Clabon. Any proposal of his will, however, always receive from the Order the respectful attention and consideration which his high position and Masonic services demand, and when his motion comes before us again in tangible form and with practical bearing, we shall be most happy to receive it, and discuss it in that tone and temper which best become Freemasons. But we think it well to sound a note of caution, as a good deal can necessarily be said on both sides of the question.

WIRE PULLING.

The conversation which arose in the last Grand Lodge was both reasonable and noteworthy. We all of us, at least a good many of us, saw or received a certain mysterious list, on whitey-brown paper, before the Quarterly Communication, which was undoubtedly issued by some "Masonic wire puller." Authority knew it not, and the President of the Board of Purposes, "more suo," most eloquently and emphatically repudiated any such proceeding on the part of any supposititious authority. Bro. Monckton stated the fact correctly, when he pointed out, that lists had been issued from time to time at Quarterly Communication, and to such a bonâ fide representation of the liberty of Masonic choice and voting we, ourselves, make no objection. But we do most strongly object, on every principle of legitimate and manly exercise of the voting power, that any brother or brethren, more or less distinguished as the case may be, should circulate surreptitiously and industriously before the meeting of Grand Lodge, and among a "select circle," thus packing Grand Lodge, this distinct appeal to party organization. It is one thing—and very often useful—to circulate lists in the Grand Lodge itself of those whom the brethren are invited in a fraternal spirit to vote for, because then all such lists stand or fall by their own merits, but it is quite another thing to constitute practically a private canvass of members of Grand Lodge some days before its assembly, in order to carry a list recommended by certain brethren. This, in our opinion, is a proceeding alike undignified and undesirable, and more "honoured (Masonically) in the breach than the observance." Because one of two consequences must ensue, either we are dictated to by a "clique"—a "caucus," or we accept the nomination of one or two active and enterprising brethren, who, to use a common saying, put in "two words" for others and "half-a-dozen" for themselves. Strictly speaking, it would be better if we were all content with the official list distributed in Grand Lodge, and did not require to be told how to vote, or whom to vote for. But the lists circulated in Grand Lodge, as we said before, are one thing, the lists circulated before Grand Lodge meets are quite a different thing. There is one consolation, however, in the matter. No "clique" or "caucus," no reign of individualism, can long flourish in English Freemasonry. Were these proceedings to be perpetuated and grow into a nuisance, threatening alike the independence and prestige of Grand Lodge itself, the good sense and united action of independent Masons would speedily sweep away the organization of "wire pullers," and render our elections a dignified representation of the fair play and accurate selection of the brethren of our amiable and excellent Craft, of those whom they deemed the best qualified for the Board of General Purposes.

A DISAGREEABLE SUBJECT.

There are a good many subjects in this queer world of ours about which it is better not to write at all. It is always wiser, in our opinion, to "wash our own dirty linen at home," and it seems very injudicious to communicate to a curious public what properly belongs alone to the domain of private sentiment and personal settlement. But the Editor of a paper like the Freemason is not always his own master in this respect. He has public duties to perform in the way of warning or protest as the case may be, which, though they often militate with personal feelings, and seem often to antagonize private sensibility, are, nevertheless, needful courageously to make and to assert in the cause of Masonic progress and the maintenance of Masonic prestige. With this little "caveat" we call attention to a matter which has forced itself disagreeably on our notice, and is a growing scandal and a nuisance to Masonry. We mean the habit of some brethren of making themselves Stewards of our Charitable Anniversaries, and forgetting, despite frequent appeals from the Secretaries, to pay either their Steward's fees or even for the tickets supplied to them and used by them "notâ bene." Were this only an occasional and exceptional case, we should have preferred to have passed over these "spots" on our "feasts" of Charity in silence, but the evil is increasing and is assuming very serious proportions. For not only is this the case in one charity, but Stewards who have forgotten to pay their fees for this charity become Stewards to another festival, leaving the old score still unpaid, and we are not exaggerating when we say that there are Steward's fees in all the Charities, we believe, two and three years in arrear, while those who have not settled with the Secretary of this good charity, despite his earnest appeals, are acting as Stewards for another charity, and probably will repeat the old story. Certain Stewards put down their names, and their fees unpaid have to be cancelled as "leakage," considered as "bad debts." Can anything be a greater discredit to Freemasonry or to charity? Such proceedings are very hard on the Secretaries, very inconsiderate to the Boards of Stewards, and thoroughly derogatory to the honourable name of Masons and the sound cause of Masonic benevolence. We trust we have said enough to remedy an evil and to close a "running sore." We have not wished to exaggerate or sensationalize, we are only desirous for the sake of that charity which we all profess to admire, and those institutions we all desire to uphold, to touch upon, with no unfriendly voice and no heavy hand, a very melancholy forgetfulness by some brethren of ours of those principles they themselves declare, before the Craft and the world, they admire and seek to maintain both in theory and practice. May our words be well taken and result in good.

THE COST OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

As I fancied, the comparison which appears in the Echo, on professed Masonic authority, in respect of the expenses of the Girls' School, turns out to be a "mare's nest."

The statement in the Echo is as follows:

London Orphan Asylum ...	540 inmates	£17,093
Fatherless Children ...	282 "	8,076
Royal Albert Asylum ...	198 "	5,521
Saint Anne's ...	335 "	12,707
R.M. Institution for Girls ...	195 "	15,317

This statement is said not to speak "favourably for the Girls' School."

In the first place, before this sapient critic can make good his allegation, he has to show: 1. That the other four Institutions are of a similar calibre with the Girls' School, not educating altogether, on a lower level, as well may be; and 2. What is the proportion actually expended on the building, &c., which is passing, and the children, &c., which is permanent expenditure.

It seems from the following analysis of the Girls' School expenditure for 1878, that the whole amount received was £20,202 17s. 10d., the whole amount expended was £20,202 17s. 10d., minus a balance of £885 9s., so that the actual expenditure was £19,317 8s. Of this amount, the purchase of new land essential to the School cost £2316; the new buildings cost £2943 15s. 5d.; furniture, £583 19s. 7d.; and laying out the grounds, &c., £826 17s. 6d. £4000 were repaid to Willis and Co.; £1556 2s. 8d. were expended on special and abnormal items; while the ordinary expenses of the School amounted to £7085 6s. 11d. This amount is made up as follows: Provisions for 195 girls and 24 adults, 210 persons, £2186 14s. 3d.; clothing and boots, £1196 18s. 4d.; Salaries and wages, School, £1053 19s.; office, £663 6s. 8d.; coals, gas, and water, £380; medical attendance, £60; gardener, £84 3s. 11d.; school stationery and books, £77 1s.; printing, £314 9s. 5d.; house utensils and turnery, £203 13s. 3d.; furniture and house linen, £266 0s. 6d.; painting and general repairs, £204 12s. 7d.; rates and taxes, £203 10s. Some smaller items bring up the amount of the normal expenditure, as I said before, to £7085 6s. 11d. This makes for 195 girls the average of £36 6s. 8d. in round numbers, and of 200 £35 2s. 6d., exclusive altogether, be it noted, of the twenty-four adults. And thus, even supposing you could fairly add the special items, amounting to £1556 2s. 8d., to the regular expenditure, which you cannot do, because many do not occur two years running, and are clearly "abnormal" in every sense, you might slightly raise the average cost per girl, which, considering the education given and the house care afforded, is certainly most moderate and very well expended.

I think we may dismiss at once, then, these idle comparisons—which are often made and always fail—neither true in theory nor of any value in practice, and believe firmly—as we may safely do—that our Girls' School is most economically and efficiently conducted, entirely subserving the great end of its institution, and is a credit to all concerned in its management and direction, and can challenge comparison with any similar existing institution in England or elsewhere.

I am, dear Sir and Brother, yours fraternally,
A FRIEND TO THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

THE PRESTONIAN LECTURE.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In the "Freemasons' Calendar and Pocket B.ok," amongst the "Remarkable Occurrences in Masonry," I find the following: "Brother William Preston, of the Lodge of Antiquity, author of the 'Illustrations of Masonry,' bequeathed, amongst other Masonic gifts, £500 Consols to the Fund of Benevolence, and £300 Consols for the Prestonian Lecture, 1819." Now, as this lecture has not been delivered for many years, may I be permitted to ask "the reason why," whether any one is to blame, and if so, whom? In former years Bro. Stephen Jones, a Past Master of the Lodge of Antiquity, delivered annually this lecture, the duty having been entrusted to him by His Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex, then Grand Master, and Master of the Lodge of Antiquity, and subsequently by Bro. Laurence Thompson, the last surviving pupil of Preston, and its delivery always attracted a great assemblage of members and visitors. I believe that the last time this lecture was delivered the duty devolved upon Bro. Henry George Warren, the former proprietor of the Freemasons' Magazine and Mirror, and I know from being present that it was most interesting and highly explanatory, and I should really like to know why this important Masonic legacy is never heard of at the present day, and to what purpose, if any, the accruing dividends on the £300 Consols are applied.

I am, dear Sir and Brother, your fraternally,
P.M. 177 and 1158.

MASONIC GRAMMAR.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In the hope that you may be more charitable than "Lindley Murray" in your estimate of my criticisms, and at the risk of appearing to make too much of a matter which, indeed, scarcely admits of discussion at all, I beg to write a few words in reply to your correspondent.

He originally found fault with the phrase "except in exceptional cases." Now, exceptional is not the word which I should myself have used in the connection in which it occurred; and it is an expression on the defence of which, as used in that connection, I am not now about to enter, neither did I defend it in what I wrote. Your correspondent in his first letter, to which he will, perhaps, refer, clearly stated, or, by what he wrote, undoubtedly implied, that according to Johnson exceptional and exceptional were synonymous words; and although he now informs your readers, and apparently is himself greatly pleased to find, that exceptional is not found in Johnson at all, it was this asserted synonymy which, in the first instance, induced me to write. As I have already pointed out, it is a fact that the words are not synonymous; but it is a fact that, if they were synonymous, as "Lindley Murray" made out, he had not the shadow of a ground for finding fault with the use which was made, in the report, of the word exceptional.

"Lindley Murray" is unwilling to admit that exceptional is a legitimate word at all. He says the expression is only to be found in "slipshod writing and common conversation." I leave to your readers, many of whom are, doubtless, more able to judge of the accuracy of such an assertion than I may be, and, perhaps, than even "Lindley Murray" is; and I hope for the credit of the Freemason that, if that should be so, it is a word which it, in particular, has always carefully eschewed. But will "Lindley Murray" deny that many English words have become legitimate simply because they were used in "common conversation?" Common conversation becomes an authority in such a matter. Few expressions, for example, are more forcible than "mob" and "sham," yet it is a fact that at the time of the Revolution these words were considered slang; and, from all that I can see, grave writers, however they have managed hitherto, will ere long be under the necessity of employing another word which is as old as Bonnell Thornton, and which is also very expressive. I mean the word humbug. It is quite amusing to see how determinedly your correspondent sets his face against the adoption of the word exceptional. Certain authorities, whom he quotes, do not recognise it. Nor will he. He does not share the belief of Horace—

Signatum presente rota procudere nomen."

And such I hold to be the character of the word exceptional. At the same time, I maintain that this word has already, by the sanction and use of many classical writers, been admitted as an expression with which it is useless, not to say presumptuous, to find fault. One has not the time, and, if one had, it were unnecessary, to hunt for evidence in support of a statement which none but "Lindley Murray" will impugn.

I have not consulted the authorities whom your correspondent quotes, and will therefore not dispute his statement that in none of them is the word exceptional found. Were I at all doubtful about the matter, however, I should not dream of looking in some places where he has been agreeably disappointed. Flügel and Velasquez, whatever they may have done for their own languages, can scarcely be regarded as authorities whose opinions would be likely to decide such a question as this; nor can their evidence have the weight of that of the editor of the Imperial Dictionary. It is surprising that this work—I may say the standard work on such questions—should not have been quoted; and, had not your correspondent been a brother Mason, I should have supposed it was because the word is to be found there. He will also find it, however, in the Student's English Dictionary, published by Blackie and Son, where it is said to have the meaning which I gave it, "forming or making an exception." I did not therefore lay this down on what has been called my "ipse dixit."

I am in no doubt as to the word which ought to have been used. I should have written "unless in exceptional cases" in preference to "except in exceptional cases;" but beyond all question the latter phrase is correct. Your correspondent says exceptional and exceptional are synonymous, and therefore I say beyond all question it ought to have appeared to him that he had no business to find fault.

I have seldom come across any one who delighted to be so particular as your correspondent. It may therefore interest him to know that neither he nor myself was strictly accurate in accounting for the origin of the word stickler. A stickler originally was "an officer who cut wood for the Priory of Ederose within the King's parks of Clarendon." Without enquiring now into the age of the word, or the accuracy of what "Lindley Murray" says, I decline to accept his account of this matter—firstly, because it is unsupported by any evidence; secondly, because the Imperial Dictionary distinctly gives the origin of the meaning of the word as I gave it; and lastly, because common sense would lead us to imagine that the seconds in a pugilistic encounter, being armed with sticks, might be in a position to interfere, whereas it would be impossible for them, being so armed, to interrupt swordsmen.

Let me say, in conclusion, that, whatever my letter was, it was not intended to give offence personally to your correspondent, who is unknown to me (except as a Brother Mason writing under an assumed name. But he must be an inconsistent brother, otherwise he could not have charged me with being personal, and then commit the same fault himself in a worse degree. He would appear, too, to be a busybody, a crotchety, disputatious, dogmatical brother, whose time, it is more than likely, lies heavily on his hands. Let me urge him to make a better use of it in the future, and to be especially careful never to forget the proverb: "Ne sutor ultra crepidam." This last advice is not meant to be personally offensive, for although "Lindley Murray" may happen to be a literal "sutor," I employ the word in its metaphorical, and therefore more harmless sense.

Yours fraternally,
T. M. DRON, J.W. 417.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

The letters on Masonic Grammar which have appeared in the Freemason can only raise a smile, and provoke a wish that your space were better used. I do not know who may have assumed the style and title of "Lindley Murray," but it is enough to make that old worthy sit in his grave to read such a sentence as that which closes his modern representative's last letter.

Read it, and say, any who remembers his own early school days, whether a third-form school boy would not treat the English language better:—

"Will Bro. Dron permit me to doubt his right, and certainly his capacity, to set up as either an 'arbiter elegantiarum' or a 'Ductor dubitantium' much less a 'master of the school.' Having read his verbal criticisms, their proper destination appears to me, in all deference to him be it said, the waste paper basket."

For such a writer to talk about capacity, and "waste paper baskets," shows that there is no lack of self-esteem in his composition, whatever there may be of grammar and logic. Such criticism in private would be ludicrous, in public it is mischievous.

Fraternally yours,
June 7th. W. S. M.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I was not previously aware that Freemasons in any way differed in the construction of the English language to others. Bro. "Lindley Murray" is good enough to call the question "a little question." I think, with all respect to my brother, that the preservation of the English, or any other language "pure and undefiled," is a very great question. It is probable that the languages of Teutonic origin, viz., English and its correlate, German—glorified by Martin Luther—will eventually replace all the southern forms of expression. Tongues spoken below a certain latitude appear to soften and lose much of their expressive forms and force, and hence it is that vituperation and great energy are required to convey meanings which our own language carries with it in a few dignified phrases. It is not necessary in English, I mean, to use violent gesticulation in order to give emphasis. This is an important point in the Masonic delivery of lectures.

The advice of Hamlet is most apposite in this connection. "Speak the speech," he says, "I pray you, as I pronounced it to you, trippingly on the tongue; but if you mouth it, as many of your players do, I had as lief the town crier had spoke my lines."

Bro. "Lindley Murray" can no doubt pursue the remainder of the passage. He appeals to many dictionaries about "exceptional," "exceptionable," and "stickler." He does not, however, mention a work which I fraternally commend to his notice. Dr. Peter Mark Roget, unhappily passed from among us, wrote a work without which no lover of the English language ought to be, the "Thesaurus of English Words and Phrases." In this book Bros. Dron and "Lindley Murray" will find all that can settle their amicable controversy about "exceptional," "exceptionable," and "stickler."

It seems difficult to me to realise (here you have an Anglo-American word) how brethren can fall out, and refer their several letters to the waste paper basket, when with a little forethought (a Saxon word) they might have agreeably met and referred to John Horne Tooke's "Epea Pteroenta," commonly known as the Divisions of Purley.

The two books I have named are "reliable" (Anglo-American) and "trustworthy" (Anglo-Saxon) authorities.

Our greatest writers, such as Shakespeare, Massinger, Ford, Dekker, Spencer, and others, maintained the indissolubility of the English tongue. Milton, whose influence has been great and enduring, perpetuated the traditional love for pure speech; and the "noblest Roman of them all," whose chaste and charming diction is a monument of English philology, was Walter Savage Landor, every one of whose works would by any appreciative prince, if he had tolerated them, have been written in letters of gold.

By referring to Roget, my Bro. "Lindley Murray" will find that this is an "exceptional," not an "exceptionable" letter.

I remain, dear Sir and Brother, yours sincerely and fraternally,

KENNETH R. H. MACKENZIE, IX^o.

Hounslow, 7th June, 1879.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

With reference to a letter in last week's Freemason, signed "Lindley Murray," I find the word "exceptional" in the large edition of Webster (1859). It is also in Dr. Ogilvie's Imperial Dictionary, and in the more recent Dictionary by Dr. Latham.

The definition in the latter is "constituting an exception to a rule," and illustrations of its use are given from Erskine May's "Constitutional History of England," and Herbert Spencer's "Inductions of Biology."

The word is in very common use.

Yours fraternally,

THOS. FENN.

THE BOYS' SCHOOL FESTIVAL.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I am pleased to see that the Alexandra Palace has been again chosen for the Festival of the Boys' School, and I have no doubt that this time Bro. Binckes with his characteristic forethought has arranged that his visitors shall not be mulcted in the additional shilling entrance fee. As they do not go there to see the palace I see no reason why the dinner ticket should not include the entrance fee.

Yours fraternally,

P.M.

OLD MASONS.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In your paper of the 17th May, I see there is a letter from Bro. John Coombe upon the ages of Masons, and names Bro. Norris as the oldest Mason.

I now hold in my hand a certificate of baptism of Bro. R. Knight, born Aug. 8th, 1790, Dover. I have also before me his certificate of Masonry of the Lodge of St. John, No. 15, in Dublin, dated the 11th January, 1811. Bro. Knight was many years Tyler of lodge here, 119, Peace and Harmony, the lodge in which I am a member.

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

C. BEECHING.

A CAUTION.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Will you kindly give space to the following for the information of charitable brethren.

A man, giving the name of J. E. Wharton, was relieved on Whit-Monday by St. David's, 384. He stated that he was a member of St. Matthew, No. 1447, Barton-on-Humber, and that his certificate was in custody of a Jew in London along with a life policy, in consideration of which he had £5 more on the policy; that he was a landscape painter on his way to Aberystwyth. He was a man of about 35 years of age, and 5ft. 9in., and appeared as if he had been in training by the red's or the invisible greens.

He was very shabbily dressed—a small-brimmed round hat, short coat, trowsers with a large patch on. (Should he see this paragraph I hope he will amend his ways and consider his l—c—, as much as he did the part of his trowsers.)

I wrote for information to one of the officers of St. Matthew, No. 1447, giving a description of the man, and received the following reply:—"There is no person of the name of Wharton, a member of our lodge, or any person answering the description of the "Landscape

Painter," whom you have relieved, neither has there ever been a person of that name a member. He is evidently an impostor, and the sooner he is treated as a common vagrant the better."

There was a caution sent to us from a neighbouring lodge about nine days previous of a "cadging Mason giving the name of S—x—n, dressed superior sailor fashion; had been abroad."

Our old friend Watson, from Perth, made an appearance in his usual vagabondish style with that prominent part of the face being patched up with diachylum. He was this time minus his illuminated parchment.

It seems that there are many who don't deserve the name of brethren "abroad" just now.

I am, dear Sir and Brother, yours fraternally,

ONE THAT RELIEVED.

A CORRECTION.

To the Editor of the "Freemason."

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I venture to correct an error in your impression of last week with regard to the music performed at the Grand Mark Lodge banquet. The four choirister boys are members of Bro. Stedman's choir, and not of Westminster Abbey.

I am, Sir, yours fraternally,

EDWIN M. LOTT, Grand Organist.

CAGLIOSTRO.

In a book of the well-known Bonneville, published in French, at London, in 1788, called "Mémète," &c., at page 94, appears the following advertisement by Cagliostro, which Bonneville professes to have taken in its "ipsissima verba," from the Morning Herald, for Tuesday, November the 2nd, 1786:—

MASONIC STUDENT.

THE POLISH NATIONAL LODGE, No. 534, (London).

No. 534 was warranted on 28th August, 1846 (then 778), with permission from the M.W.G.M. for its members to wear the Polish White Eagle at all Masonic meetings, and for the Master and the Immediate P.M. to be distinguished by the "Commanders' white Eagle."

The jewel of the snow white Eagle, with wings spread heavenward, represents the national bird of Poland, which is understood to be "The token of honour and of steady resistance unto death to oppressors of liberty;" its wings symbolically reminding the brethren of the undying spirit of freedom and of love and charity to all men, irrespective of their nationality or creed. The Eagle as the kingly-bird, while it is a symbol of power, is intended to incite all who wear the decoration to soar superior to low passions or selfish motives.

The distinctive ribbon is of blue and black; the "Commander's white Eagle" being a similar jewel, only worn attached to a neck ribbon by a "Royal Crown" of gold.

The Master on his installation is invested with one of the latter decorations, on which are engraved the names of the Right Hon. the Earl of Zetland, M.W.G.M., and the Right Hon. the Earl of Yarborough, D.G.M., in appreciation of the favours conferred on the lodge by the former, who granted the warrant, and the latter, who presided at its consecration.—From W. J. HUGHAN'S Masonic Register.

JUBILEE MEDALS (1868-78).

The medal for No. 356 was issued in 1868 to the Harmonic Lodge, St. Thomas' Island, Jamaica, it having been warranted in 1818 as No. 708. In 1832 the number was altered to 458, and from 1863 it has been 356.

The second jubilee medal was granted in 1878 to the Australian Lodge, No. 390, and held at Sydney, New South Wales, the lodge having been chartered in 1828, and was known as No. 820, until in 1832 it was changed to 548, and in 1863 to its present number.

These are the only two of the kind, and so far such jubilee commemorations have been confined to lodges assembling abroad.—From W. J. HUGHAN'S Masonic Register.

LODGE JEWELS OF GOLD.

There are but two lodges permitted to have gold (or silver gilt) jewels of office, viz., the Lodge of Antiquity, No. 2, alluded to at page 42, and the British Lodge, No. 8, Freemasons' Hall, London. The latter was chartered 19th January, 1721-2, and was changed from 6 to 5 in 1740, to 4 in 1756, and to 8 after the union of December, 1813, its present number. We are not aware why such a distinction was conferred upon the lodge, and though dating from so early a period it does not appear to have any other special privileges; it being absent from any of the foregoing lists, and is not represented in the roll of twenty-six special centenary jewel warrants granted from 1861 to 1866.—From W. J. HUGHAN'S Masonic Register.

PRESTON, WILLIAM.—Was born 1742, and died in 1818. He was originally a printer. When he was initiated is not clear; it has been said, at a lodge which met at the White Hart, in the Strand, in 1760, under an Athol warrant. He seems to have belonged to several lodges under the moderns, and at last joined the famous Antiquity Lodge. He was Deputy Grand Secretary under Bro. Heselstine, and is said to have prepared the "History of Remarkable Occurrences." He resigned this office probably in 1779, when an unfortunate dispute arose between Grand Lodge and the Antiquity Lodge. During the next ten years he remained out of the Grand Lodge, and applied to the Grand Lodge of York for a warrant to form a Grand Lodge south of the Trent. Such a warrant was granted, though, of course, "extra vires," and officers were appointed. In 1787, however, a reconciliation was happily made, and Wm. Preston, who had been expelled from Grand Lodge, hastily and unjustly, as we think now, was restored to his former honours, and the Grand Lodge south of the Trent came to an end. In 1787 he founded the Order of Harodim—a somewhat doubtful proceeding. His famous "Illustrations of Masonry" were first published in a modest volume in 1772. The second edition was issued in 1775; and before his death he had seen no less than nine editions, and some say twelve. Several editions of his famous work have been published in America and Germany. He may be fairly called the father of Masonic history, and his work will always be a standard work for Masons. He was a painstaking and accurate writer; and though we have access to MSS. which he never saw, yet on the whole his original view of Masonic history remains correct. It is, in fact, essentially the guild theory of Anderson. He died in 1818, as we said before, and is buried in St. Paul's. The name of Wm. Preston will always be greatly honoured among Freemasons.—Kenning's Cyclopaedia.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF CORNWALL.

The annual Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall, and General Communication of the Freemasons of that province, was held on the 10th inst., at Freetay. The attendance of brethren was very numerous. Among the officers present were R.W. Bro. the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe, P.G.M.; W. Bros. Colonel Peard, P.P.G.S.W., D.P.G.M., pro tem.; J. F. Penrose, P.G.S.W.; Sir Charles B. G. Sawle, Bart., P.P.G.S.W., P.G.J.W., pro tem.; the Rev. F. J. Winde, rector of Beer Ferris, and the Hon. and Rev. J. T. Boscawen, rector of Lamorran, P.G. Chaps.; W. Tweedy, P.G. Treas.; T. B. The Grand Lodge first assembled at Lostwithiel, where a Masonic lodge, the St. Matthew's, was established in 1861. In unison with the general body of the Masonic lodges in England, the St. Matthew's has entertained a desire to possess its own private lodge rooms, and that wish has at length been gratified by obtaining permission to convert part of the old Duchy Palace, recently occupied as Duchy offices, which are now removed elsewhere, into the requisite suite of rooms. The Duchy Palace is a venerable edifice, full of interest to the archaeologist. It is supposed to have been erected about the middle of the thirteenth century as a residence for the earls and dukes of Cornwall, who, for the convenience offered by the river Fowey, then spelt Foy-hud, moved there from Restormel Castle, which had been their previous abode, another interesting ruin, still standing on an adjacent hill. The walls of the part of the palace appropriated have been thoroughly repaired. In places where they were built with earth-mortar the work has been pulled down and rebuilt in blue lias lime. The rest of the exterior has been repointed, and the buttresses, which were much disfigured, repaired, and, in some cases, rebuilt. A porch has been built on the east elevation for the entrance to the rooms. A fine pointed arch of Pentewan stone and its door, that stood on the south end of the palace, have been removed to form part of the entrance porch. A new staircase has been built where the original stone steps stood; but the width of the stairs has been reduced to allow of a candidates' room being built on the north side. The principal apartment obtained by the conversion being a lodge-room of dimensions in excess of the wants of the lodge, it has been divided into two rooms by a moveable partition. The outer apartment thus obtained has been appropriated to the use of country brethren for the writing of letters, &c. Beneath the rooms are large vaults in the basement. The strength of the old building is shown by the footings, which are in courses nine feet wide, and the ground floor is laid on an arch five feet thick at the springing and three feet thick at the corner. In order to get more light one of the old windows, which had been long since blocked up, has been re-opened and glazed with coloured glass in Masonic designs. New principals have been put to the roof. A fine piece of carving, on the north elevation, of the ancient arms of Cornwall in Pentewan stone, has also gone under a process of restoration. The architect of the restorations has been W. Bro. W. P. Smith, P.M. of the St. Matthew's Lodge, who has been ably supported by an efficient Building Committee of the brethren. The dedication of this converted part of the palace to the purposes of Masonry was the cause of the brethren first assembling at Lostwithiel. After a breakfast at the Talbot Hotel, of which over 100 of the brethren partook, the Provincial Grand Lodge walked in procession to the Duchy Palace, where the dedication was very impressively performed by the R.W. Bro. the P.G.M., supported by his officers. The musical portion of the service was rendered by a choir of Bros. Hocking, Kistler, Sims, and Rodda, under the direction of Bro. R. H. Heath, P.P.G.O.

The Secretary of the lodge, in explaining to the P.G.M. the manner in which the lodge had at length obtained the present building the R.W. brother was called upon to dedicate, stated that the minutes of the lodge showed that from the very first meeting of the lodge after its consecration an arrangement with the Duchy had been attempted to be carried out to rent the Duchy Palace. The negotiations had, however, failed until now, when with the generous offer of assistance made by the P.G.M., his earnest appeals at provincial meetings, coupled with the energy and perseverance of the I.P.M., Bro. Smith, the object had been obtained. The gross value of the work was about £600, towards which sixty mortgage debentures of £5 each had been issued; about £260 had been raised by voluntary contributions from the brethren and a few friends, and with a grant from the lodge funds a debt on the building of about £40 had been left. In obtaining that ancient and interesting building the lodge had not practically increased its expenses. The sixty debentures had been taken by the brethren at the low rate of 3 per cent, per annum, and with rent received for the commodious vaults underneath the rooms, the lodge was in about the same position financially as when at the hotel, whilst the fact of having such a noble lodge was inducing many to join the Order who would not have done so had the lodge continued to meet at the hotel. The ultimate trust of the building after the debt was removed was vested in his lordship as P.G.M. for the province.

At the close of the dedication the brethren proceeded in procession to the railway station, and were conveyed by a special train to Fowey.

There the annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge was opened by the R.W. the P.G.M. at the Working Men's Institute, a handsome and convenient building, recently erected by the townsfolk on the Town Quay, much to the credit of Fowey.

The arrangements for the reception of the Grand Lodge were carried out by the local lodge of that port, the Fowey Lodge, No. 977.

The P.G.M. said he felt sure of the sympathy and great regret felt by the brethren with him at the sad loss of their D.P.G.M., Sir F. M. Williams, and he suggested that a vote of condolence should be conveyed to Lady Williams at the sad event.

A unanimous expression of the heartfelt approval of the brethren of his lordship's suggestion was exhibited.

The P.G.M. also stated that the portrait of their late P.G.M., Bro. Augustus Smith, presented by them to Mr. Dorrien-Smith as a memorial of the respect in which his uncle had been held by the brethren of the province, had reached that gentleman, and he read two letters from Mr. Dorrien-Smith, acknowledging the kindness and expressing his gratification at the kind remembrance in which the memory of his uncle was held by the brethren.

The P.G. Treasurer reported a balance in hand of £104 10s. 6d., about the same sum as was in hand at the close of the previous year. The Secretary's report stated the number of lodges in the province to be 28. During the past year the number of initiations has been 110, joining members 33, members from previous year 1497, total 1640; against for 1878—number of initiations 149, joining members 47, members 1480, total 1676; decrease during the year 36. During the past year the returns of the attendance of P.M.'s of the various lodges eligible for office had come in much better than heretofore, but three lodges had omitted to fulfil that duty, the performance of which was essential in order to allow the merits of any brethren of the lodges to come before the P.G.M.

Both reports were received and adopted.

The brethren then proceeded in procession, with bands playing and banners displayed, to Fowey Church to attend Divine service. That noble edifice, a fine specimen of the decorated gothic, rebuilt in 1466, and recently restored at an expense of £5000, was crowded. W. Bro. the Hon. and Rev. J. T. Boscawen preached from John, chap. 13, v. 35. The discourse was an eloquent dissertation on brotherly love. At the close of the service there was a collection of £13 2s. 4d. From the church the brethren returned in procession to the institute, where business was resumed.

The report of the Cornwall Masonic Annuity and Benevolent Fund showed donations and subscriptions for 1879 £149 17s., against £164 4s. 6d. for 1878, a decrease of £14 7s. 6d., which principally arose from the decease of the late D.P.G.M., Sir F. M. Williams, who was a liberal contributor. Balance in hand, up to December, 31st, 1878, £165 10s. 9d., receipts from interest on stock and bonds £58 14s. 7d., total £374 5s. 4d.; outlay £208 1s. 3d.; balance in hand £166 4s. 1d. During the past year there had been four annuitants, each receiving £30 a year, and two children in receipt of educational grants of £15 a year each. One of the latter now ceased to be paid, the time for which the payment was voted having expired. Petitions for relief had been received from a brother of the Phoenix Lodge, Truro, and a brother of the Cornubia Lodge, Hayle. Also a petition for an educational grant to a child of Bro. Thomas Barrett, deceased, formerly of the St. Anne Lodge, Looe. The voting on each of those petitions took place that day. Since the last annual meeting the capital account had increased £96 18s. 1d. By the lamented death of the R.W. Bro. Sir F. M. Williams, Bart., the number of trustees was reduced to three, and under Rule 6 of the lodge bye-laws it was necessary to appoint additional trustees at that meeting.

The report was received and adopted, and W. Bro. Sir Charles Graves Sawle, Bart., was elected a trustee of the fund.

The annual report from Bro. W. J. Hughan, Past S.G.D. and P.P.G. Sec., respecting his management of the votes for the London Masonic Charities on behalf of the province, was read. (Bro. Hughan was unable to attend.) The failure in obtaining the election of the candidate from Fowey to the Girls' School, it stated, had arisen from the boys' votes not been exchangeable on the day of election, an unusual circumstance. It was, however, hoped that the province would be successful in October. It recommended votes of twenty guineas each to the Girls' School, and Aged Freemasons' Institution. Bro. Hughan concluded by submitting the resignation of his office of managing the votes. After services of ten years, he said, he should esteem it a favour to be relieved.

The report was received and adopted. The resignation of Bro. Hughan was unanimously disapproved of, and the matter was left with the P.G.M. to endeavour to reconcile the brother to a further service.

The voting on the proposed grants resulted in a vote of £15 per annum for five years to the son of Bro. Barrett, and £10 to the brother of No. 331.

W. Bro. Emra Holmes brought forward his proposition to appoint a committee to solicit subscriptions towards the erection of the proposed Truro Cathedral; Devon to be invited to assist, and the money to be expended in some feature of the cathedral to be a lasting memorial of the Freemasons of Devon and Cornwall. He shewed that similar steps had been carried out by the Freemasons in several other provinces.

W. Bro. John Thomas rose to propose an amendment, and there appearing to be sufficient opposition to the measure to lead to a long discussion, at the recommendation of the P.G.M. the matter was for the present postponed.

Bro. Holmes gave notice that he should revive the proposition at the next annual meeting, and hoped, for the credit of the province, that it would be continued to be urged until it was carried.

On the proposition of Bro. T. Geach, £50 was voted to the assistance of a worthy brother, a P.P.S.G.W., now nearly eighty years of age, who had been reduced to straitened circumstances. Twenty guineas each were voted to the Masonic Girls' School and to the Aged Freemasons' Institution. Twenty-five guineas were voted to the "Cornwall Masonic Annuity and Benevolent Fund," and the following officers appointed to the management of the fund for the ensuing year:—W. Bros. W. Tweedy, Treas.; T. Chirgwin, Sec.; J. C. R. Crewes, Asst. Sec.; Wilson L. Fox, No. 75, and G. S. Bray, 599, Auditors.

W. Bro. W. Tweedy was unanimously re-elected as the Prov. G. Treas. The P.G.M. invested the following brethren as his officers for the ensuing year:—R.W. Bro. Col. J. W. Peard, D.P.G.M.; W. Bros. T. Hawken, 330, S.W.; A. Elford, 977, J.W.; the Hon. and Rev. J. T. Boscawen, 699, and the Rev. E. S. T. Daunt, Chaps.; W. Tweedy, 331, Treas.; H. Tilly, 75, Reg.; E. T. Carlyon, 331, Sec.; R. A. Courtney, 510, S.D.; John Dennis, 350, J.D.; W. P. Smith, 856, S. Wks.; W. Rowe, 330, D.C.; J. Jeffery, jun., 318, A.D.C.; T. B. Williams, 977, S.B.; James Lovell, 121, O.; H. Trembath, 318, G. Purs.; W. Rooks, 131, A. Purs.; Stewards: J. Bishop, 970; H. H. Kidd, 856; W. Cawse, 893; E. S. Angove, 129; E. Edwards, 131; and J. Hooper, 699. Bro. Beale, P.G. Tyler. W. Bros. J. F. Childs, T. Chirgwin, W. Tweedy, E. T. Carlyon, and F. Harvey, were appointed the Committee of Relief. The collection at church was distributed, one-fifth to vicar's charities, two-fifths to the Local Cottage Hospital, and two-fifths to the Cornwall Masonic Annuity Fund.

A resolution was unanimously carried that "The P.G.L. of Cornwall, at this their first meeting after the death of their respected D.P.G.M., Sir F. M. Williams, Bart., desire to express their deep regret inspired by that event and their sincere sympathy with Lady Williams in her sad bereavement. The P.G.L. also express a hope that a copy of the resolution may be communicated to her ladyship."

In the evening a large number of the brethren dined together at the Town Hall. The P.G.M. presided.

ANCIENT AND PRIMITIVE RITE OF MASONRY. (MEMPHIS AND MIZRAIM.)

We have been requested to publish the following: Illustrious Brethren.—As considerable delay has taken place in the arrangements of the Order, it may be necessary to explain it as arising from the illness of the Treasurer General, (Illustrious Bro. Leather, 33°), and two Principal Officers of the Rite. The Order has to lament the death on the 8th January last, of the worthy and Illustrious Bro. Captain Charles Scott, R.N., J.P., of Strathroy, 33°, Supreme Grand Inspector General, also on the day following, Illustrious Bro. Herbert Irwin, of Bristol, 32°.

Due to these, and other untoward events, the Order has not added very considerably to its members, but has been proceeding slowly in its organisation. With the dues which the Sovereign Sanctuary have obtained, it has printed four volumes of its own, and paid the costs of certificates and similar items; hence the Illustrious Brethren will see that in the hands of our Treasurer General, the Order's Funds have been carefully used. These printed books are:—1, Constitutions—2, Public Ceremonials—3, History, (5s. 6d.), 4, Ritual of Senate (part 2), 5s. Also Chapter, Senate, Council and Mystic Temple Bye-Laws, (6d. each.) Translations have been made of several of the works of the Illustrious Bro. Jacques Et. Marconnis, 33-96°, late Grand Master of the Order; the pressing needs of the Rite are the printing of the remaining rituals in six to eight books, which will be proceeded with as the Sovereign Sanctuary is in possession of funds from the reception of candidates and other sources. The library has also acquired several most valuable additions.

The S.G.M. and Sov. Sanc. have sanctioned the conferment of the corresponding grades of the Rite of Mizraim upon our brothers, and the ritual will form a separate book.

The Mystic Temple, 32°, of Canada, has elected as Sovereign Grand Master, Illustrious Bro. George Canning Longley, 33°, with whom we are in fraternal relations. The opposition which was at one time offered to our Rite by similar associations has been withdrawn by a leading magnates of such opposing Masonic bodies, and notably by Bro. General Albert Pike, who may be considered the leading authority of all the Supreme Councils of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite.

On behalf of the Supreme Grand Officers, we avail ourselves of this opportunity of offering our fraternal salutations, and to request that you will furnish us with any information which may aid in the spread of the salutary principles of the Rite and its Degrees, and to beg that you will use your influence on its behalf by the organisation of working bodies, and the introduction of worthy neophytes in conformity with our Constitutions.

Fraternally yours,
BEEBY BOWMAN LABREY, 33-95°,
Grand Chanceller General, Sublime Dai, and Grand Master of Light for the Province of Lancashire.

P.S.—If you have any candidates to propose for the Degrees of Rose Croix (11-18°), Knight Grand Inspector (20-33°), or Sub-Master of the G.W. (30-90°), please forward their name, address, and Masonic rank as above, or to the immediate presiding officer of your chapter, senate, or council.

The Ascot Gold Cup was won on Thursday by Isonomy, Insulaire being second, and Touchet third.

COROMANDEL LODGE (No. 456) I.C.—The annual installation of officers took place on 16th January. The installing Master this (as last) year was Bro. Grand Secretary, W. J. Rees, P.M. 454, I.C., who came from Auckland on the occasion. There was a large attendance of members and visitors. The new W.M. Bro. Andrew King, then invested his officers as follows: J. H. Harrison, J.P.M.; J. B. Hannah, S.W.; F. Woodward; J.W.; A. J. Cadman, Sec. and Treas.; W. White, S.D.; J. B. Gatland, J.D.; R. Nazer, I.G.; Charles Coghlan, Tyler. The W.M. thanked the brethren for electing such efficient officers to aid him in the government of the lodge, and sketched a plan to make the monthly meetings attractive to members. As there was, and was likely to be, a lack of new business during the year, he proposed, after the routine business on each regular meeting night was over, to resolve the lodge into a lodge of instruction, and work J. P. and R. lectures on T.B., or to have a reading from some of the numerous Masonic works in their valuable library. After receiving the congratulations of visiting brethren, the brethren adjourned to a banquet, served in a splendid style. After the usual Masonic toasts, Major Keddell, P.M., in responding to the toast of "The Past Masters" gave a review of the history of the lodge since the commencement, at which he was one of the founders, and had no doubt when the depression that hung over the district was removed, the prosperity of the lodge would return. A very agreeable evening was spent and enlivened by vocal and instrumental music. Bro. F. Woodward, J.W., ably presided at the piano.

Masonic and General Tidings.

The Marquis of Dalhousie Chapter will be consecrated on Thursday next, at 33, Golden-square. The ceremony will be performed by Lieut.-Col. Shadwell H. Clarke, P.G.P.S., who will be assisted by Comps. H. D. Sandeman, P.G. Superintendent Bengal, as H.; the Rev. John Studholme Brownrigg, P.G.A.S., as J.; and R. W. H. Giddy, P.Z., as D.C. The Principals nominate are Comps. H. Trueman Wood, M.E.Z.; Charles Cheston, H.; and Peter Lund Simmonds, J. The ceremony will commence at half-past four p.m.

Bro. Albert G. Goodall, on May 20th, delivered a lecture before Holland Lodge, of New York city, which was at once interesting, instructive, and ornate. The subject was, "Bro. Goodall's experience of Masonry in the Orient, and his researches in connection with the Eleusinian mysteries of Ancient Greece."

Miss Marion Beard announces a harp concert to take place on the 23rd inst., at 108, Lancaster-gate (the residence of Bro. J. D. Allcroft, M.P., and Mrs. Allcroft). The principal performers, in addition to herself, will be Mrs. Osgood, Mme. Liebhart, Miss Alice Fairman, Signor Urio, Signor Vergara, Herr Ludwig, M. Albert, and Herr Oberthur.

Mr. G. R. Sims (son of Bro. G. Sims, C.C.) has just issued the first number of Our and All, a journal of fiction and general literature. Mr. Sims has risen rapidly to his present rank in journalism, and we wish the new venture with which he is associated every success.

Bro. John Sartain, of this city, on April 8th ult., read a curious paper on "The Four Elements" before the Philadelphia College of the Rosicrucian Society, a handsomely printed copy of which paper has been laid upon our table. Ability and originality are apparent throughout this essay, which proposes not a few novel, not to say startling, doctrines; but then we suppose a Rosicrucian is nothing if not a philosopher.—Keystone, Philadelphia.

We are glad to announce that Sir Bartle Frere has ordered a cross to be erected in memory of Bros. Melville and Coghill on the spot where the bodies of those brave young officers were found about a week after the Isandhlwana disaster. The monument is in the form of a cross, and bears the following inscription:—In memory of Lieutenant and Adjutant Teignmouth Melville and Lieutenant Nevill J. A. Coghill, 1st Battalion 24th Regiment, who died on this spot, 22nd January, 1879, to save the Queen's colours of their regiment. On the obverse are the words: "For Queen and Country. Jesu Mercy."—The Whitchall Review.

On Friday evening, the 30th ult., Miss Helen Hopekirk, niece of Bro. Walter Hopekirk, who recently made her successful debut at the Crystal Palace, gave a pianoforte recital in the Royal Normal College for the Blind, Upper Norwood, in the presence of the pupils and several ladies and gentlemen. The programme comprised a "Nocturne, in A flat (Chopin)," "March from Carnival" (Schumann), "Humoresken" (Grieg), "Gavotte" (Niemann), "Kriesleriana" (Schumann), "Gavotte" (Reinecke), "Finale" (Schumann), "Nocturne in D flat (Chopin)," "Rhapsodie Hongroise" (Liszt), and "Three Mazurkas" (Chopin). Miss Hopekirk used one of Broadwood's fine grand instruments, which was in excellent tone. Her style of playing is that of a modern school, being exquisitely faultless and full of grace, the forte passages being given with considerable force, although without any apparent exertion on the part of the soloist. The beautiful "Rhapsodie," a work of no mean execution, gave a splendid opportunity to the talented artiste to display her fine abilities; and the rich composition was given in such a manner as could only result from years of study. Miss Hopekirk has certainly but few equals, and there is no doubt that during the coming summer she will meet with every possible success as a soloist.—South London Press.

The annual distribution of prizes to the pupils of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, will take place next Wednesday afternoon, at the School House, at Wood Green. Lord Henniker, P.G.S.W. will preside.

At the last meeting of the Mariners Lodge, No. 249 at the Masonic Hall, Hope-street, Liverpool. Bro. W. Corbett was elected W.M. for the ensuing year, and Bro. Dr. J. Kellert Smith, P.P.G Registrar, was re-elected Treasurer. The installation Ceremony will be performed by Bro. Barnett the retiring W.M., at the next meeting of the Lodge.

The final meeting of the Committee of the Burdett Testimonial Fund is to be held at the Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen-street, on Tuesday next, at 5 p.m., when the chair will be taken by Sir Charles Bright, the Deputy Provincial Grand Master for Middlesex.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—There is nothing in the whole "Materia Medica" like these Medicaments for the certainty of their action in lumbago, sciatica, tic-doloureux, and all flying or settled pains in the nerves and muscles. Diseases of this nature originate in bad blood and depraved humours, and until these are corrected there can be no permanent cure. The ordinary remedies afford but temporary relief, and in the end always disappoint the sufferer. Holloway's Ointment penetrates the human system as salt penetrates meat, and the Pills greatly assist and accelerate its operation by clearing away all obstructions, and giving tone to the system generally. The prophylactic virtues of Holloway's remedies stand unrivalled.—[Adv.]

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

LIVERPOOL.—Mariners Lodge (No. 249).—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Hope-street, on Thursday, the 5th inst., and as the annual election took place on this date there was a large attendance of members. Bro. Frederick Barnett, W.M., opened the lodge about six o'clock, supported by Bros. J. C. Robinson, I.P.M.; J. Hayes, P.M., D.C.; Rev. H. Philip Pinnington, P.M.; W. Corbett, S.W.; Dr. J. Kellett Smith, P.P.G. Reg., Treas.; J. Whalley, S.D.; H. Wynne Parry, J.D.; Wm. H. Vernon, I.G.; A. B. Ewart, Org.; J. Jenaway, S.; Morris Davies, S.; and Wm. H. Ball, Tyler. The members present were Bros. Peter Ball, J. P. Jones, M. Parker, Wm. Pye, J. Baines, Walter Lothian, T. Evans, H. J. Pye, B. J. Parry, David W. Cangle, R. Thompson, J. Messenger, J. Molloy, J. Sykes, J. Pye, S. Johnson, A. Samuel, H. Hall, T. Joseph, J. Simpson, A. Barnard, T. Haymans, J. Travis, C. Davis, J. Crebbin, J. Nicholas, J. White, R. G. Bradley, M. Golston, G. C. Beecham, M. Howarth, jun., T. Poyser, J. H. Walker, W. Mooney, F. Cooper, Wm. Gamble, R. Thomas, D. Oliphant, F. J. Porter, J. N. Pendleton, and J. Wood (Freemason). Amongst the visitors to the lodge were Bros. D. Hughes, 241; Alexander Allan, 1609; T. Malcolm, 594; J. W. King, 823; R. B. Burgess, Sec. 1325; W. N. Grundy, 1325; J. Jacobs, 724 and 1576; A. Hayes, 1250; Hugh Williams, P.G. St.; J. P. Bryan, 1035, 203, &c.; Wm. Leatham, 594; T. Gray, 1325; and S. Prince, 594. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, the ballot was taken for Messrs. Isaac Wilson and Thomas Grindall, who, being duly elected and in attendance, were subsequently admitted and initiated into the mysteries of ancient Freemasonry, according to ancient custom, by the W.M. The E.A.'s having retired, the lodge was then opened in Fellow Craft Degree, when two brethren were duly passed. After the lodge had been again closed to the First Degree, and Bro. W. Corbett, the S.W., was elected W.M. by acclamation and all but unanimously, Bro. Corbett thanked the W.M., Past Masters, officers, and brethren for having elected him to the proud position of the chair of such an old, honourable, and numerous a lodge as that of the Mariners, and he assured them he would do his best, relying on the support of his brethren, to make his year of office a success. Bro. Dr. J. Kellett Smith, P.M., P.P.G. Reg., was unanimously re-elected Treasurer in continuation of a succession of several years' office. Bros. J. Hayes, the Rev. P. Pennington, and Dr. Smith, P.M.'s, were elected trustees for the lodge, and the auditors were afterwards appointed. On the motion of Bro. Dr. Smith, it was resolved, nem. con., that a letter of condolence should be written, in name of the lodge, to the widow of the late Bro. Edwin Hughes, P.M. Several communications having been read by the Secretary, one or two cases of distress relieved, and one proposition made for initiation, the lodge was closed in ample form. The brethren then sat down to an excellent supper, provided by Bro. Chaplin, House Steward, and during the evening the usual patriotic and Masonic toasts were given and heartily responded to. Songs and recitations also made the pleasant evening "as merry as a marriage bell."

LANCASTER.—Lodge of Fortitude (No. 281).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Rooms, Athensum, St. Leonardgate, on the 11th inst., the chair of K.S. being occupied by Bro. Edward Cardwell, the W.M., who was supported by his respective officers; a numerous body of the members and visiting brethren being also present. The lodge was opened in the First Degree with solemn prayer, and the minutes of the previous meeting afterwards read and confirmed. The ballot was then taken for Mr. Arthur Heath Sykes, and proving unanimous, he was duly initiated in the mysteries and privileges of ancient Freemasonry by Bro. Jowitz, I.P.M., acting as W.M., the working being gone through in a very impressive manner; the working tools being given by Bro. Crockell, the J.W. On the motion of Bro. James Hatch, P.M., seconded by Bro. George Kelland, P.M., a vote of condolence was moved to the family of the late Bro. Wm. Storey, P.M., expressing the regret of the brethren, and sympathising with them in the loss they had sustained by the removal by death from amongst them of one who was a good husband and parent, a kind and generous employer, and a good and worthy member of the Craft. It was resolved that the anniversary of St. John the Baptist should be held at the house of Bro. Wm. Longmire (W.M. 1561), Morecambe, on the 25th inst. The usual proclamations were then made, which elicited "Heartly good wishes" from the visiting brethren, and the lodge was closed in peace, love, and harmony, and with solemn prayer.

MALTA.—Lodge of St. John and St. Paul (No. 349, E.C.)—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held on the 2nd inst., at the Masonic Hall, Valletta. There were present the W.M., Bro. Coffey, several Past Masters, and a large number of brethren. The lodge having been opened in the First Degree, Bros. Noyes, Chapman, and Freeman were called up to the East, and having been examined, retired to prepare for the Second Degree. Mr. Thomas Steele being in attendance, and duly prepared, was then initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry. Bro. Steele having retired, the lodge was opened as a Fellow Craft lodge. Bros. Noyes, Chapman, and Freeman having been re-admitted, were passed to the noble degree of Fellow Craft. The lodge was closed in this degree and opened in the First Degree. The newly-initiated brother then re-entered. Two brethren having been proposed as joining members and some routine business transacted, the lodge was closed in ancient form, and the brethren adjourned to the refreshment room, where the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and duly honoured.

CHESHUNT.—Gresham Lodge (No. 869).—The installation meeting of the above lodge took place on Saturday, the 14th inst., at Cheshunt Great House, Cheshunt Park, and truly may we say that never was this beautiful ceremony performed with greater effect than on the occasion referred to. The place, which had been like the palace of a king, the abode of a cardinal (Wolsey, whose portrait still adorns the wall), and in still more ancient times devoted to the austere life of the recluse, gave a charm to that beautiful part of our ritual so ably rendered by the Installing Master, Bro. Gompertz, assisted by the Treasurer of the lodge, Bro. F. D. Rees Copestick, P.M., acting as Director of Ceremonies. The above mentioned lodge has been extremely fortunate in securing this fine old baronial hall for its reunions (kindly placed at their disposal by their much respected Chaplain, the Rev. Chas. Erskine Mayo, M.A., P.P.G. Chap. Herts), and not only in their place of meeting—for the whole building is equally at their disposal—they are thus enabled to provide for their creature comforts in a manner that would do credit to many a first-class country hotel; thus freed from tavern influence, having their own cuisine and cellar, they are enabled to offer to their visiting brethren a hearty and generous welcome. The present Master, Bro. T. C. Chapman, P.M. of the Connaught Lodge, and M.E.Z. of the Lion and Lamb Chapter, was initiated in the Gresham Lodge in 1871, since which time he has filled in succession nearly every office in his mother lodge, culminating in the proud position of W.M. The officers appointed were Bro. T. Perry, S.W.; C. B. Cheese, J.W.; F. D. Rees Copestick, P.M., Treasurer; W. E. Gompertz, P.M., Sec.; C. E. Mayo, Chap.; Gompertz, jun., S.D.; W. R. Dixon, J.D.; Eugene Benard, I.G.; J. R. Dickie, Organist; J. T. Mabey and A. A. Johnson, Stewards. In presenting the Immediate P.M., Bro. Doctor Pottle, with a P.M.'s jewel, the W.M. expressed the earnest hope that he might live long to enjoy the esteem and affection of the brethren, the jewel which he now placed upon his breast being but a slight mark of the esteem in which he was held by the brethren. Several toasts having been proposed, and duly responded to, the W.M. called upon the Prov. G. Sec.; Bro. Dr. Iles, to make a few remarks upon the movement now before the public for the restoration of St. Alban's Abbey. In doing so Bro. Iles expressed the hope that the brethren would disabuse their minds of the impression that this was a sectarian movement. He denied that it was anything of the kind. It was purely an endeavour to restore one of our most ancient and grand historical monuments, associated nearly and dearly with the cherished principles of Freemasonry, of which St. Alban was the founder and first exponent in England. Our space will not admit of a further report of the numerous speeches which occupied the remainder of the evening; suffice it to say that the brethren spent a most enjoyable evening. Amongst the brethren present were Bros. T. C. Cnapman, W. F. Gompertz, P.P.G.P. Herts; J. Copestick, P.P.G.J.W.; R. Bruce, P.P.G.D.; J. Forsyth, P.P.G.S. of Wks.; A. C. Wylie, P.P.G.S.B.; F. D. Rees Copestick, P.P.G.S.B.; G. E. Pottle, P.P.G.S.B.; Thos. Perry, C. B. Cheese, W. R. Dixon, J. R. Dickie, Gompertz, jun., J. Rignal, E. Benard, T. S. Holland, J. T. Mabey, H. A. Johnson, Arthur Clegg, Allan Brown, Humphreys, and George. Among the visitors were Bros. Wilson Iles, Prov. Grand Sec. Herts, P.M. 404; Thomas Stephens, I.P.M. 1475; Henry Vickery, W.M. 1475; Thomas Jackson, S.D. 1475; Henry M. Walker, 1475; Henry W. Gompertz, W.M. 1364; Alfred Dotteridge, P.M. 172; C. W. Kent, P.M. 879; George Collier, 1237; E. Tholander, 8, Gothenberg, Sweden; F. Purvis, 1327; W. Bradstock, 1327; A. Andrews, 1604; C. Powler, J.D. 1558.

BATTLE.—Abbey Lodge (No. 1184).—Sir Walter W. Burrell, Bart., M.P., paid an official visit to this lodge on Thursday, the 12th inst. He was attended by his Provincial Grand Officers, who arrived shortly before two o'clock. The occasion was the annual installation, Bro. Lambourn, a Past Master of the lodge, being again elevated to that position. The usual banquet took place at the George Hotel. A warrant has been granted for a new lodge of Freemasons at Shoreham, to be named the Burrell Lodge, No. 1829. The first officers will be Bro. Lord A. W. Hill, P.G.M. Co. Down, W.M.; Bro. Capt. C. Raymond Burrell, P.M., S.W.; Bro. W. Tunstall Clarke, J.W. The R.W. Prov. Grand Master has fixed Thursday, July 17th, for the consecration of the Atlingworth Lodge, No. 1821. The ceremony will take place at the Royal Pavilion, Brighton, and be performed by the Deputy Prov. Grand Master (Bro. John Henderson Scott). Bro. T. J. Sabine is to be the first W.M.

WARRINGTON.—The Gilbert Greenall Lodge (No. 1250).—On Tuesday last the annual meeting of this flourishing and popular lodge was held at the Masonic Rooms, Sankey-street, and there was a goodly attendance of brethren present to celebrate the advent of Bro. T. H. Sutton, J.W. and W.M. elect, to the chair. Bro. D. W. Finney, P.M., Prov. G. Steward, W.M., took the chair shortly after three o'clock, and was supported by the following brethren: Bros. T. H. Sutton, J.W., W.M. elect; J. Knight, J. H. Galloway, Spencer Wallhead, H. Hoult, T. Domville, W. Woods, P.M.; W. Taylor, J. S. Green, P. J. Edelman, P.M.; W. Pellitt, P.M.; W. H. Jenkins, T. O. Speakman, H. Hind, J. Farrington, J. Baird, J. H. Potter, R. Bricley, P.M.; J. Hannah, J. R. Jones, J. Smethurst, G. Cropper, Geo. Fairhurst, J. O'Brien, John Jones, W. Richardson, P.M.; H. Houghton, G. Mackey, W. S. Hawkins, P.M.; A. W. Brundith, W. Bolton, A. G. Webster, J. W. Tonque, A. Potter, jun., D. Hooley, R. Heaton, E. Auckland, J. Currey, W. Reid, and J. Barlow. Visitors: H. S. Alpess, Prov. G. Sec.; John Bowes, P.M., P.P.G.J.W. Cumberland and Westmorland; J. Pichall, P.M. 148; A. Crawford, 148; A. E. Ogden, W.M. 680; J. Rymer Young, W.M. 148; J. R. Tomlinson, P.M. 368; E. C. Cooper, P.M. 484, Prov. G.S.B.; T. Jones, 241; W. Bradford, 965; W. Leigh, W.M. 941; and C. E. Hindley, S.W. 148. The minutes of the last meeting having been read and confirmed, the installation of Bro. Sutton was at once proceeded with. At the I.M.'s request, Bros. P.M.'s Bierley, Richardson, and Edelman took the positions of S.W., J.W., and I.G. respectively, and Bro. Sutton was duly presented. Afterwards a Board of I.M.'s was in proper and due course opened, the W.M. elect introduced thereto, and placed in the chair of K.S. according to ancient custom, saluted, and greeted. This part of the ceremony being completed, the Board of I.M.'s was closed, and the rest of the brethren admitted by seniority, and saluted the new W.M. in Masonic form. Bro. Sutton then appointed and invested the following brethren as his officers for the ensuing year: viz., Bros. J. H. Galloway, S.W.; S. Wallhead, J.W.; W. Richardson, P.M., Treasurer; E. W. Finney, P.M., Sec.; T. Huichinson, S.D.; G. Cropper, J.D.; W. Taylor, I.G.; J. Jones and J. Farrington, Stewards; T. Domville, Tyler. These officers were introduced to their respective positions by the I.M., and suitable advice and admonition delivered to each, after which the annual addresses were delivered to the W.M., Wardens, and brethren. At the close of the ceremony Bro. P.M. Richardson rose to propose that the best thanks be given to Bro. Finney for the able and efficient manner in which he had conducted the installation. The W.M. seconded, and the resolution was carried with acclamation, and ordered to be entered upon the minutes. Bro. Finney made a suitable reply. We should not omit to say also that before the brethren separated a very handsome and chaste P.M.'s jewel was presented to the retiring W.M. for his services and conduct in the chair during the past twelve months. After some further routine business the lodge was duly and solemnly closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet at the Lion Hotel. Here Bro. Sutton was supported in the chair by most of the brethren above named. Many good things were provided by the purveyors of the "Lion" for "hungry souls," to which good things we need hardly say ample justice was done. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to with fervour and eloquence. In proposing "The Health of Bro. Sutton," the Prov. G. Sec., with unusual warmth, enforced the duty of Masonic charity along with other practical and useful advice, and we trust, and indeed we feel that it will be so, that the good seed thus sown will take root downward and bear fruit upward. After a most successful and happy gathering the Tyler's toast brought the proceedings to a close about ten o'clock, and the brethren separated in perfect harmony.

PLYMOUTH.—Dundas Lodge (No. 1255).—The annual meeting of this lodge was held on Monday last, at the Huyshe Masonic Temple, Princess-place. W. Bro. James Hellyer Dawe, the W.M. elect, was installed by W. Bro. Samuel H. Hearle, P.M. 1255, supported by the following Board of I.M.'s:—W. Bro. C. Godtschalk, P.P.G.D.; T. J. Smith, William Bell, Samuel B. Harvey, W. H. Triplett, W. G. Ball, P.M.'s 1255; L. D. Westcott, P.P.G.S. Wks.; E. Aitken Davies, P.P.G.S. Wks.; J. B. Gover, P.P.G.A.D.C.; H. F. Hearle, P.P.G.A.D.C.; J. T. Browning, W.M. 105; and J. G. Kevern, W.M. 1550. At the close of the installation the following brethren were invested the officers for the ensuing year:—W. Bro. T. J. Smith, I.P.M.; Bros. G. R. Barrett, S.W., and Admiral F. H. H. Glasse, C.B., J.W.; W. Bro. William Bell, Treas.; and S. B. Harvey, Sec.; Bros. William Cann, S.D.; R. E. Holmes, J.D.; John Hammond, D.C.; H. C. Jago, I.G. W. Bro. S. B. Harvey was elected the representative of the lodge at the Committee of Petitions, and Bro. G. R. Barrett, the Steward of the lodge, for the Devon Masonic Educational Fund. In the evening the brethren of the lodge and visitors dined together at the Globe Hotel. Among the toasts were "The new P.G.M., R.W. Bro. Lord Ebrington, and might he prove a worthy successor in that office to his grand sire;" "The Past Prov. G.M., R.W. Bro. the Rev. John Huyshe, M.A.;" and "The Past Prov. G. Officers." There were hopes, it is said, of Bro. Huyshe returning to an improved state of health, and the wish was expressed that he might yet be spared for some years to adorn the Order, and by his occasional presence among the brethren revive warm reminiscences of his beneficent rule.

HAMPTON COURT.—Era Lodge (No. 1423).—The regular meeting of this lodge took place at the Island Hotel, on the 14th inst. There were present Bros. E. W. Devereux, W.M.; T. J. Sabine, I.P.M.; J. W. Baldwin, P.M.; W. Hammond, P.M.; A. Loos, S.W.; G. L. Wingate, E. T. Herman, and B. Wright, Sec. The visitors were Bros. W. R. Smith, 1326, and H. Buckley, 1326. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed, and the ballot was taken for J. S. Fowler, and was declared to be unanimous in his favour. On the motion of Bro. Baldwin, and seconded by the W.M., it was resolved to request the late Secretary, Bro. Walters, to accept the honorary membership of the lodge, which was unanimously carried. The lodge was then closed.

PLUMSTEAD.—United Military Lodge (No. 1536).—The usual monthly meeting of the above lodge took place on Friday, the 13th inst., at Bro. Garbett's Hall, on Anglesea Hill, and was well attended by both the brethren of the lodge and visitors. Bro. H. G. Picken, W.M., was in the chair, supported by the following Past Masters and officers: Past Masters Bros. W. Weston and A. Penfold, Bros. H. Shaw, S.W.; D. Deeves, J.W.; W. Murphy, Treas.; G. Kennedy, Sec.; W. Welding, S.D.; T. Holleyman, J.D.; and H. Harding, Org. Visitors, Bros. T. D. Hayes, W.M. 913; J. G. Holmes, P.M. 407, P.P.G.S.W. Malta; T. Hutton, W.M. elect 13; J. Warren, S.W. 700; E. Knightly, 473; T. Hassell, 13; W. McCoy, 700; G. F. Fraser, 700; H. Grise, 13; W. Hume, 640 (S.C.); A. Archer, 1089, D.C.; E. Clarke, 184; and C. Jolly (Freemason), 913; and others. The lodge having been opened in due form, the Three Degrees were worked by the W.M. in a most reverent and excellent manner. The brethren then proceeded to elect a W.M. for the ensuing year, and Bro. H. Shaw, S.W., was elected unanimously. Bro. Murphy was then re-elected Treasurer, and the Tyler was re-elected to that onerous position. It was then proposed by Bro. Weston, and seconded by Bro. Shaw, that a Past Master's jewel, of the value of ten guineas, should then be presented to Bro. Picken for his services to the lodge during the past year, and it was carried unanimously. Bro. Weston, who is always foremost in the cause of charity, then brought before the lodge the cases of the widows of two brethren who had died abroad, Bros. Cullen and Cook, the latter of whom died at Natal of fever in camp. He said that no doubt one of Bro. Cook's children would be taken up by the province as a candidate for the Masonic Schools, and asked them to unloose their purse strings when the broken column went round. We are pleased to say that Bro. Weston's appeal was effective, for the sum of £2 15s. was at once collected, and placed in the hands of Bro. Watkins for the immediate want of our brothers' widows. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren assembled round the social board, where an hour was spent in Masonic harmony and brotherly love.

STANMORE.—Sub-Urban Lodge (No. 1702).—The installation meeting of this lodge was held yesterday week at the Abercorn Arms. Consecrated on the 19th of October, 1877, this lodge has made excellent progress in Freemasonry, and now holds a very important position among the lodges of the new province of Middlesex. The first Worshipful Master, Bro. Japheth Tickle, has held the office for twenty months, and has conducted the affairs of the lodge with admirable skill. The brethren have passed a most happy time under his rule, and the lodge has fully carried out the intentions of its promoters, that it should be an agreeable summer adjunct of the Urban Lodge, whose members were its founders. The brethren met early in the day, when the lodge was opened, and in the course of the meeting the following brethren were present:—Bros. Japheth Tickle, W.M.; Chas. Hawksley, S.W.; A. F. Roberts, J.W.; Joseph W. S. Wall, Sec.; Wm. Radford, S.D.; J. J. Hepburn, D.C.; W. T. Buck, I.G.; C. Winstanley, Charles Buck, George H. Carter, W. H. Exton, W. R. Shutt, T. Hay Ritchie, C. Veal, P.G.S.D. Middx.; W. C. Maddever, W.M. 804; A. Birch, H. M. Chigwell, Jas. Terry, P.G.J.W. Herts; J. L. W. Ruff, S.W. 95; H. G. Buss, Asst. G.S.; H. C. Levander, P.G.S. Middx.; T. W. Eckstein, J.W. 1196; Dr. J. E. Carpenter, P.M. 1196; J. Pearson, P.M. 1196; Edwin G. Legge, P.M. 1196; W. F. C. Moutrie, P.M. 11; H. Buck, J.D. 171; T. T. Bell, S.W. 1178; and H. Massey (Freemason). After reading of and confirmation of the minutes of last lodge, Mr. Thomas Hay Ritchie and Mr. William Henry Gaskell Exton were initiated in the Order. Bros. Thomas Milbourn, 1196, and Henry Thomas Tiddeman were elected joining members, after which, on the presentation of Bro. James Terry, Bro. A. F. Roberts, W.M. elect, was installed by Bro. Tickle as Master of the lodge, and the following brethren were appointed to office:—Bros. Japheth Tickle, I.P.M.; W. Radford, S.W.; J. Wall, J.W.; Japheth Tickle, Treas.; Charles Hawksley, Sec.; W. Buck, S.D.; J. T. Hepburn, J.D.; Chas. Buck, I.G.; C. Winstanley, D.C.; G. H. Carter, Steward; and J. Middleton, Tyler. Bro. Legge delivered the address to the W.M.; Bro. James Terry the address to the Wardens; and Bro. Tickle the address to the brethren. Lodge was immediately afterwards closed, and the brethren partook of a charming banquet, provided in excellent style by Bro.

Veal. The customary toasts followed. Bro. Buss, Asst. Grand Secretary, responded to the toast of "The Grand Officers." Bro. H. C. Levander, Prov. G.S. for Middlesex, in replying to the toast of "The Provincial G.M., Bro. Col. Burdett, and the rest of the Prov. G. Officers," said that all the Provincial Grand Officers were anxious to do everything in their power for the welfare of the province, and, in so saying, he might, perhaps, be allowed, on behalf of himself, to add that they did everything in their power for the province. The present was his first visit to the Sub-Urban Lodge, or to any lodge at Stanmore, and it had given him so much gratification that he looked with pleasure on the next meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Middlesex, which was to be held at Stanmore on the 28th of this month. He expected a great and successful gathering on that occasion, and although the Prov. G.M. had not been well lately he hoped to see him then presiding. The Prov. G.M. would be much pleased to be supported by all the brethren in the province. He (Bro. Levander) congratulated the W.M. on being installed that day as the successor to such a distinguished Mason as Bro. Tickle in the Mastership of a lodge which he hoped to see one of the best, if not the best, of the lodges of Middlesex. The W.M. here announced that as this was the proper day to elect a Steward for the province he should propose Bro. Tickle, and Bro. Tickle having signified his willingness to accept the office, the motion was seconded by the S.W., and carried. Bro. Tickle said he felt highly complimented by being recommended to the Prov. G.M. for the office of Prov. G. Steward, and he assured the brethren that the Sub-Urban Lodge should not lose anything by the recommendation. The W.M. next proposed "The Health of the Initiates." Bro. Ritchie thanked the brethren for their heartiness in accepting the toast, and hoped to see a great deal more of Freemasonry on future occasions. Bro. Exton in the course of his reply, said, he had long had a desire to be numbered among the members of the Order, and Bro. Buck suggested to him that if he would like to join the Craft he would find the Sub-Urban Lodge a favourable lodge to be initiated in. He had of course heard a great deal outside Freemasonry about it, but he did not believe what he heard or he should not have been present that day. If he was spared he should devote his time, attention, interest, and care to the welfare of this lodge, and to the welfare of the Craft, and he wished the lodge and the Provincial G. Lodge every prosperity, hoping that nothing would happen during the time he belonged to the lodge in any way to interfere with its happiness and prosperity, or the happiness and prosperity of the Craft. His membership of the lodge he hoped would only end with his life. Bro. Tickle, I.P.M., proposed "The Health of the W.M." He ventured to think that there never was a Mason who more deserved his health drunk than the present W.M. of the Sub-Urban Lodge, for if ever there was a brother who made strenuous and genuine efforts to reach that chair, and to justify the confidence reposed in him, it was Bro. Roberts. Unfortunately, Bro. Roberts had been an invalid for about the last six months, and it was only at great personal sacrifice that he was now present. He asked the brethren, therefore, now to drink Bro. Roberts's health. He (Bro. Tickle) had known him a long time as a citizen, a man, and a Mason, and in all three characters he had proved himself worthy of the friendship of all who had come in contact with him. He believed in proposing the health of their present W.M., and a long series of years of prosperity to the Sub-Urban Lodge, there was no member of it who had its success and prosperity more at heart than Bro. Roberts, and that there was no member more willing to make sacrifices on its behalf. The W.M., in reply, said it was true he had not been in good health for a long time, but as regarded the sacrifices Bro. Tickle had spoken of he had only done what he should do again. As long as he was able to get up to Stanmore to take the chair he should be there, and be ready to make double or treble the sacrifices he had made. What he hoped to see consummated in the Sub-Urban Lodge was, that it might be a credit to the Craft. As its members increased it might be noticed more than it was now, although he took it as a very great compliment that it had had such great honour conferred on it that evening by having such distinguished brethren present. It was his intention during his year of office, if he was spared, and blessed with health, to do all he could for the prosperity of 1702, and whatever lay in his power the brethren might depend upon it he would do to carry forward the success of the lodge and the Craft to the very utmost. Bro. Dr. Carpenter, P.M. 1196, responded to the toast of "The Visitors." Having buckled fortune on his back, he would endeavour to support it. He felt it a greater honour to be an honorary member of the lodge than he did to be a visitor, and for reasons sufficiently obvious. He was an honorary member under peculiar circumstances. He did not repudiate the title which Bro. Tickle had given him, of being grandfather of the lodge. Being the father of the Urban Lodge, he must be grandfather of the Sub-Urban, which sprang from it. He could only say in this character, "Bless you, my children," and express the great delight he felt at seeing such a lot of his family growing up around him. Travelling out of the record for half a moment, he must be permitted to express the very great satisfaction he felt with the way in which Bro. Tickle performed the elaborate duties of the office of Installing Master. In saying this he was perhaps a little egotistic; but remembering as he did that he (Dr. Carpenter) had the honour and pleasure of installing Bro. Tickle in the chair, when he was made Master of the Urban Lodge, it must be exceedingly gratifying to him to recognise the excellent way in which Bro. Tickle had carried out his duties to the very end. Dr. Carpenter concluded by returning thanks on behalf of himself and all the other visitors. The W.M. proposed "The Health of Bro. Tickle, I.P.M.," of whom he might say, having known him many years most intimately, that if the brethren were to seek the City round they could not find a brother in whom they could repose more confidence. It was therefore a double pleasure to him to have to propose his health, and at the same time to pin to his breast a handsome Past Master's jewel, voted to him by the brethren as a mark of the estimation in which he was held by them, and to show their admiration of him as Master of the Sub-Urban Lodge. He sincerely hoped they might have Bro. Tickle with them for many years to come, that their friendship might not slacken, but would be cemented still firmer. Bro. Tickle, I.P.M., in acknowledging the toast, said he hardly knew how to find words to respond to the honour conferred on him by presenting him with such a handsome jewel. He well remembered leaving the chair of his mother lodge, and the gratification he felt when the Master of that lodge, his successor in the chair, placed on his breast another handsome jewel he now wore. He did not think at that time he should ever have an additional jewel presented to him, more especially with such high commendations as had been passed on him that evening by the brethren he now saw around him. With regard to the lodge he could assure the brethren it was no easy task to endeavour to establish a new lodge. It was a source of a great deal of anxiety and effort to make the new lodge a success. The Sub-Urban Lodge was now only in its second year. Personal sacrifices had been made in order to insure its success, but he ventured to think that in the second year, on the second installation day, the fact that they had been able to add two initiates was an epoch in the history of the lodge to be remembered, more especially as those initiates were two gentlemen whom they might all be proud of having the pleasure of admitting. It was a great pleasure to the brethren that the lodge was firmly established, and that there were evidences that it would go on and prosper. When the consecration took place he well remembered one of the Consecrating Officers stating, with a very great deal of feeling, that he believed the lodge was composed of men who meant to insure success, and he ventured to think that the forecast by that brother, the Provincial Grand Chaplain, Bro. Holden, was a true utterance. He (Bro. Tickle) believed that that success was now assured, and that Bro. Roberts, whom he had had the honour and pleasure of installing, would have a prosperous and successful year of office. That was the wish of him (Bro. Tickle) and all the other brethren, and also they wished that he might have health and strength to enjoy his honours, and that when he left the chair he might do so with as much pleasurable regret as he (Bro. Tickle) now did. His period of office had been a year and three-quarters of labour, but that had been a labour of love, and when he saw the lodge in the grand success it had achieved that day, he was fully repaid for any trouble he had taken, and any time he had bestowed upon it. He thanked the brethren warmly for the compliment they had paid him, and for the kindness which he had received from all of them, and he trusted that his successor in the chair, Bro. Roberts, who was a worthy brother indeed, would receive from the members of the lodge all the support and kindness which he (Bro. Tickle) had himself received. He hoped they might all have many, many pleasant days and evenings together. Bro. James Terry, in responding to the toast of "The Masonic Charities," proposed by the W.M., said he trusted that as long as Freemasonry lasted this toast would never cease to be given at Masonic banquets. It was a very comprehensive toast, and one which in the fulness of their hearts they had stated they would to the greatest extent support. To those who knew the Charities he need not speak; but from those who did not know them he asked forbearance while he told what they were. Freemasons had three distinguished Institutions, the Girls' School, the Boys' School, and the Old Men and Women's Institution. The Girls' School was the oldest. It had just celebrated its 91st anniversary, and, notwithstanding the depression of trade, the largest amount ever brought in in one year had been brought in for that Institution, £12,100 had been brought in by the individual efforts of the Stewards who served on that occasion. The Boys' School festival would take place on the 25th inst.; that would be its 81st anniversary, and he hoped and trusted that an equal, if not a larger, sum might be then collected on behalf of the 210 boys, boarded, clothed, and educated in that school. When he spoke of the Educational Institutions of Freemasonry he spoke of magnificent Institutions, which could compare most favourably with any other similar Institutions throughout the length and breadth of the land. Take the result of the last Cambridge examinations for the Boys' School. Out of all the boys sent to that examination from all schools in England fifteen first class prizes were earned, and out of those fifteen, nine were gained by boys from the Masonic Boys' School. Fourteen boys went up from this Institution, and four gained second-class prizes, and one obtained honours. Out of the whole of them only one failed. It was a great thing for Freemasonry. The girls in the Masonic Girls' Schools had been just in the same way successful. Fifteen girls went up for their examination, and eight of them obtained first-class prizes, five took second-class, and one third-class honours. If the brethren considered what this meant, they would see that the system of education pursued in both those Institutions was successful, and it was a proud thing to be able to support such Institutions. For the old people he could not put in any Oxford or Cambridge examinations. He could not put the I.L.D. to their names, but he could place before the brethren the honour which they had obtained of a blameless life. He hoped the I.L.D. might be added to their names by the brethren endeavouring, as far as they could, to Lengthen Life's Days. He knew that although this lodge was a very young lodge, all the members were interested in the Charities, and that when the lodge came into the possession of funds there were willing hearts and just as willing hands to assist the Institutions as were to be found willing to assist any Institution. The three Masonic Institutions had over 700 persons dependent upon them between the ages of ninety years and eight years. These were supported without show of ostentation, and in spite of the great depression of trade it had been done without difficulty. Instead of the funds decreasing with the badness of the times, they had increased in a larger proportion than in any corresponding previous three years in the history of the Craft, not only because the Grand Master in his wisdom had granted warrants for new lodges, but he believed because the Craft at large were awakening to their duties and supporting their own Charities, knowing that those Charities could not appeal for support to the outer world. There were over £40,000 raised last year for the three Institutions. But at each election a large number of unsuccessful candidates were left over. If, however, every Mason would subscribe five shillings a year to each Institution, they would be able to meet all claims without an election. It mattered not to him which of the Institutions the brethren should think fit to support, but he would remind them that it was fifty years after Masons established the Girls' Schools, and forty years after they had established the Boys' School, that they thought of themselves, and established the Old Men and Women's Institution. He ventured to think that the claims of this Institution would bear comparison with any other Benevolent Institution, and if there was any brother who wished to become a Steward, he would submit to him the claims of the Benevolent Institution. The other toasts were then given, and the brethren returned to town.

INSTRUCTION.

WELLINGTON LODGE (No. 548).—The Fifteen Sections were worked at a meeting of this lodge of instruction, held at the White Swan Hotel, High-street, Deptford, on Monday last, the 16th inst., when there was a large attendance of brethren, chiefly members of lodges in the vicinity. Bro. J. G. Milbourn, of the Union Waterloo Lodge, No. 13, presided, the other offices being filled by Bros. J. J. Hutchings, J.W. 147, S.D. 1531, as S.W.; S. P. Catterson, J.W. 548, as J.W.; W. Fieldson, S.D. 548, as S.D.; Martin, 879, as J.D.; and Price, 1255, as I.G. The lodge having been opened, the Sections appertaining to the First Degree were worked as follows:—The First by Bro. Waterman, W.M. 147; the Second by Bro. Gibson, 1531, Hon. Sec. to the lodge of instruction; the Third by the J.W.; the Fourth by the S.W.; the Fifth by the W.M., the questions being put by the S.W.; the Sixth and Seventh by the J.D. After a brief adjournment from labour to refreshment, the lodge was opened in the Second and Third Degrees. Being resumed in the Second Degree, the First Section of the Lecture was worked by Bro. Tuck, 834 and 1531; the Second by the S.W.; the Third by Bro. Waterman; the Fourth by the J.D.; and the Fifth by Bro. Speight, I.P.M., and Sec. 147. On the resumption of the lodge in the Third Degree, the remaining Sections were worked, the First by Bro. Tuck; the Second by Bro. Griffin, P.M. 933, P.Z. 933 and 79, J.W. 1531, the Preceptor and Treasurer of the lodge of instruction. The labours of the evening being thus terminated, the lodge was resumed in the First Degree, and in due time closed after an unanimous vote of thanks had been accorded to Bro. Milbourn for his kindness in undertaking to preside, and as an acknowledgment of the ability displayed by him in fulfilling the duties of the chair.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT LODGE (No. 1524).—A meeting of the above lodge of instruction was held at the Havelock Tavern, Albion-road, Dalston, on Wednesday, the 18th inst. There were present Bros. A. McMillan, W.M.; J. Lorkin, S.W.; C. Lorkin, J.W.; A. R. Olley, S.D.; C. Olley, I.G.; W. Fieldwick, Preceptor; J. Williams, Sec., and several other brethren. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of raising was rehearsed. Bro. T. Slaughter, candidate, having answered the necessary questions, was raised to the Sublime Degree of Master Mason. Bro. T. Slaughter, assisted by the brethren, worked the First and Second Sections of the Lecture. The lodge having been resumed to the degree, Bro. Fieldwick proposed, and Bro. C. Lorkin seconded—"That Bro. J. Lorkin be W.M. for the ensuing week." Carried unanimously. Bro. A. R. Olley proposed, and C. Lorkin seconded—"That Bro. Payne, Duke of Connaught Lodge, 1534, be a member of this lodge of instruction." Carried unanimously. Nothing further offering, the lodge was closed in ancient form.

WALTHAM NEW TOWN.—King Harold Lodge (No. 1327).—The closing meeting of the season of this prosperous lodge of instruction was held at the Britannia Hotel, on Thursday, the 12th inst. The brethren present were Bros. J. Robinson, as W.M.; J. Noyes, S.W.; T. Reilly, P.M., as J.W.; A. Malcolm, W.M. of the mother lodge; J. Tydeman, I.P.M.; J. Gaskell, P.M.; F. Drummond, P.M.; W. Bradstock, Preceptor and Sec.; Brewster, Blackmore, Cox, Eversfield, Fisher, Holdsworth, Imrie, Kent, J. Knight, J.W. mother lodge; Lewis, Newman, Rogers, Richardson, Cooke, Walker, Wheeler, and Woollard. Visitors: Bros. Kent, P.M. and Preceptor 879; Beavis, 879; Martin, 879; Plumridge, 879; Osgathorp, 1437; Shepherd, 122; Young, Searl, Norman, Newall, P.M.; Davis, 13; Howlett, Dunan, P.M. The lodge was opened, and the Sections of the First Lecture very ably worked by the following brethren, Bro. John Robinson, as W.M. and Lecture Master, supported by Bro. P.M. Kent, 879, as Preceptor:—

- 1st Section... Bro. Gaskell, P.M. 1076 and 1327.
- 2nd " " " " Martin, 879.
- 3rd " " " " Reilly, P.M. 1327.
- 4th " " " " Beavis, 879.
- 5th " " " " Shepherd, 122.
- 6th " " " " Lewis, 849 and 1327.
- 7th " " " " Noyes, J.D. 1327.

Experienced brethren among the visitors declared they had seldom seen the Sections worked in better form—very great credit was due to Bro. Robinson, who, although a young Mason, had taken a lively interest in the lodge of instruction, and in acquiring the Masonic ceremonies, his proficiency in the latter being evinced by the able manner in which he worked the Sections on this occasion. Votes of thanks were passed to all who had taken part in the Lecture, and especially to Bros. Kent, Beavis, and Martin, 879, whose valuable assistance had greatly contributed to its success. The business of the meeting being concluded, the brethren retired to a dinner provided by the worthy host, Bro. F. E. Cooke. After the usual loyal and Masonic toasts had been duly honoured, the W.M. said he had a very pleasing duty to perform, which was to present a very handsome gold pen and pencil case, subscribed for by the brethren, to P.M. T. Reilly, who had acted as Secretary and Preceptor for some years in the lodge of instruction, as a token of esteem and respect. Bro. Reilly returned thanks in suitable terms for the kindness he had always received from the brethren, and for this handsome mark of their favour. The Tyler's toast brought the evening to a close, and the brethren separated, very pleased with the proceedings.
