chief documents relating to the question have not been studied by him, he really should first have examined them, and then stated his views if they were not in agreement with the writer's. Study first and write afterwards is our motto, and surely it is one that will commend itself to Bro. J. S. B., and all other Masonic Students, who, like him and me, are anxious to gather information and discover the truth. Bro. J. S. B. tells us that there are "proofs open to any brother, if properly gone about," of there having been "a Hereditary Grand Master of the Scottish Masons." The proof he submits is "an old Masonic Record, written about the middle of last century," which is in his possession, and from which he quotes at length an account of the origin of the Grand Lodge of Scotland. I take it that the old Masonic Record he has is simply a transcript from the "Freemasons' Pocket Companion," first published at Edinburgh, A.D. 1761, and of which we have a copy. The "Record" and the "Pocket Companion of 1761" read just word for word, and this confirms me in my belief as to the origin of the M.S. Bro. J. S. B. possesses. About the "middle of the last century" is then a fair guess, and we may accordingly leave the date to stand as an approximation. Now, what do the "Record" and "Pocket Companion" say on the subject? namely as follows:—"That King James I. was the 'Royal Grand Master' of the craft, attended the lodges, and appointed a yearly sum to be paid to a Grand Master chosen by the brethren. William St. Clair, Earl of Orkney, &c., became Grand Master by authority of King James II., and subsequently by virtue of the same power that office was made hereditary to the heirs and successors of the said Barony of Roslin. The Barons of Roslin, having ever since continued to support and countenance the Craft as Grand Masters, assembled their Grand Lodge at Kilwinning, gave authority to the lodge at Kilwinning to erect lodges (as Grand Masters), and until William Sinclair, of Roslin, having no children of his own, resigned his distinguished and hereditary rights into the hands of the Craft, A.D. 1736." Now it is easy to prove all these statements respecting the Craft to be entirely wrong, and a most unwarrantable misrepresentation of the true facts of the case.

(a) King James I. was never "Grand Master," no such title ever having been used until A.D. 1717. If such a cognomen was known or used before by the ancient Freemasons, whose documents and charges exist to this day, and date from the fourteenth century at least, then let the same be pointed out. I have published over a dozen complete MSS., and am familiar with all the rest known, and will forfeit a hundred pounds to our charities if the appointment of "Grand Master" can be traced prior to the last century. Remember, I go in thoroughly for the antiquity of Freemasonry, but not of such titles, &c., as Grand Master, Grand Lodge, and the King James' being Grand Masters, and such like nonsense.

(b) What record is there of King James I. attending a lodge? Please, Bro. P. S. B., produce the minute.

(c) What MS. mentions a yearly sum to be paid to the Grand Master during James I.'s reign? I have copies of all the MSS. as yet traced in Scotland anterior to 1736 relative to Masonry, but they contain no such clause. In which MS. or record are the dues mentioned as payable to such an officer?

(d) The so-called "old record" declares the G.M. was to be chosen by the brethren, and then almost directly afterwards states that the Earl of Orkney received his appointment as G.M. from the King! When was the one law made, and the alteration of it affected? Who can tell? The answer will be the same as to the inquiry, "What were the first words Adam said to Eve?" nobody knows.

(e) In the first Charter, of A.D. 1600 (circa), no word is said about the Earl of Orkney whatever; and in the second Charter, of about A.D. 1628, although the Lords of Roslin are mentioned as 'patrones and protectoris,' there is no reference made to the authority of King James II., and on neither of the Roslin Charters does the office of Grand Master appear. It is true that in the later MS. a fire is noted, which consumed the documents said to contain certain grants made to the Roslin family, but in the earlier Charter no such conflagration is recorded; and, what is more remarkable still, the date of the fire is not chronicled, and as the editor of the "Genealogie of the Saint-Clares of Rosslyn," (Edinburgh, 1835), has noted "these particular writings were consumed, and yet all the remaining Charters, forming a complete chartulary of Rosslyn escaped!" Surely such a lame story as this cannot be accepted by Masonic students without other testimony to its truth than is afforded in the second Charter? Another fact must be remembered, viz., If the office of Grand Master was really hereditary at the period mentioned, then the Earl of Orkney (the representative of the elder branch of the St. Clairs) had the power to convey his privileges (if such conveyance had been provided for, which was not the case) to other parties, and not the representative of the younger branch of the same family. Father Richard Augustus Hay, Prior of St. Pieremont, never mentions any other documents than these two charters as illustrative of the connection of the St. Clairs with Masonry, and even this writer's transcripts are not exactly correct—so Bro. D. Murray Lyon, the Scottish Masonic historian, informs me, as he has compared the Hay MSS., in Advocates' Library, Edinburgh, with the originals in the archives of the Grand Lodge of Scotland. As full particulars of these valuable documents will be given in my friend's forthcoming History of the Lodge of Edinburgh, as also fac-similes, I need not now allude any further to them, excepting to draw attention to the fact that the Charter of A.D. 1628 (circa) was by the authority of the Hammermen as well as the Masons, and so it is not for the latter to claim any exclusive interest in it, but only in common with the Hammermen; and hence, if the Charter proves the Masons of that period had the honour of having Hereditary Grand Masters to rule over them, so also had the Hammermen. The truth is neither had such a distinction conferred upon them at any time, but simply patrons, protectors, judges and such like were elected and appointed to manage and control the Masons and other crafts.

(f) No record exists of any Grand Lodge having been held by the St. Clairs at Kilwinning, and the minute of the Mother Lodge, Kilwinning, of which we are one of the honorary members, and a diligent student of its records, never once alludes to any authority given it by the Grand Master of Scotland prior to the last century to constitute lodges.

(g) If Bro. J. S. B. will turn again to William St. Clair's deed of resignation (at page 115 Masonic News), dated 4th November, 1736, he will find that that distinguished brother does not refer to the Earl of Orkney, but only to his own immediate predecessors. William and Sir William St. Clairs, in whose favour the documents were drawn of 1600-1 and 1628-9, never once mentions the Grand Master as being hereditary in his, the younger branch of the Roslin family, and simply resigns the hereditary appointment for himself and his heirs of Patrons, Protectors, Judges, or Masters of the Masons of Scotland. He resigned the office, but not in any one's favour.

I think, then, brother J. S. B. will see he has not submitted any proof that the member of the "German Masonic Union" was wrong in his statement, but, on the contrary, the "deed of resignation" of 1736 establishes the fact, that there was no "Hereditary Grand Master," such as is understood by so grand a title.

WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.

CIRCULAR ISSUED TO FREEMASONS UNDER THE SCOTTISH JURISDICTION.

THE EVILS OF THE PROXY SYSTEM IN THE GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND AND THEIR REMEDY.

Nothing has been more detrimental to the interests of Freemasonry in Scotland than the Proxy System in the Grand Lodge. What this system is may be made clear by a very brief statement; and that statement will of itself sufficiently show that great evils might very readily arise from it, as in fact they have arisen and long prevailed. Theoretically, the constitution of the Grand Lodge is this, that it consists of the Masters and Wardens of all the lodges holding charters from the Grand Lodge, three representatives from each lodge, viz., the Master, the Senior and Junior Wardens. Were this the actual constitution of the Grand Lodge, the Freemasons of Scotland would be fairly represented in it, and their interests would be safe under it. But its actual constitution is very different; because any lodge that chooses to do so is permitted to appoint a Proxy Master, instead of its actual Master, to be one of its representatives in the Grand Lodge, and the Proxy Master, so soon as he is appointed, has power to nominate two Proxy Wardens, who, with himself, become members of the Grand Lodge. Any Master Mason holding diploma of the Grand Lodge of Scotland is eligible as a Proxy Master or Proxy Warden; and thus a lodge may be represented—and this is very often the case—by brethren who are in no way connected with it, who never were present at one of its meetings, and who are personally unknown to any of its members. It is easy to see that this system opens a wide and ready door for great abuses; and it is hardly possible to imagine any greater than those which have actually grown out of it, and now exist, as they have existed for many years. It is worthy of observation that, in the Grand Lodge of England, than which no Grand Lodge has ever been better worked, there is no Proxy System, but it consists of actual Masters, Past Masters, and actual Wardens only. Were the Proxy System abolished, a new character would be given to the Grand Lodge of Scotland, and new life to Scottish Freemasonry. We have given notice of a motion for its abolition, which will come on for consideration at the next Quarterly Communication of the Grand Lodge, to be held in May 1873, in terms as follows:—

"That the Grand Lodge of Scotland, from and after the beginning of the next Masonic year, be composed entirely of Right Worshipful Masters, Past Masters, and actual Wardens only."

But the number of Proxy Members in the Grand Lodge is so great, that we can hardly hope for its immediate success; and look for the accomplishment of this great and most desirable object to the combined action of the Freemasons of Scotland, and their assertion of their rights in securing the representation of their lodges by their actual Masters and Wardens. So deeply-rooted is the Proxy System, and so long continued has it been, that many lodges elect their Proxy Master quite regularly, and as a matter of course—their members seeming to think that it is a Masonic duty, like the election of the Office-bearers of the lodge. Other lodges, however, often make no such appointment for many years, and only do so when specially invited to do it by some one who has an interest in carrying some question in the Grand Lodge, and suggests to them for election a brother on whose vote he knows that he can depend. Thus it sometimes happens that the probable votes of the members of the Grand Lodge being considered, and it being found that some votes are wanted to turn the scale, letters are sent to brethren in different parts of the country, suggesting the appointment of Proxy Masters by the lodges to which they belong, and giving the names of the persons whose appointment is desired. The wish expressed is generally complied with; all the more readily, because the Proxy Master is expected to pay the annual fee to the Grand Lodge for the lodge which he represents. A law recently passed by the Grand Lodge, that the Masters and Wardens of lodges must pay the Grand Lodge fees, whether present or absent, whether represented or not, may, perhaps, slightly abate the existing evil, by securing the constant representation, in one way or other, of almost all lodges, so that it will not be so easy, as it has hitherto been, to pack the Grand Lodge by sending down to fifteen or twenty lodges in towns or villages, getting as many Proxy Masters appointed, and bringing them with their thirty or forty Proxy Wardens to the next Quarterly Communication of the Grand Lodge, for the sake of their votes on a particular question. But only the entire abolition of the Proxy System can effect a thorough cure, and place Freemasonry in Scotland in a position worthy of its ancient reputation. The Grand Lodge can never be, properly speaking, the representative body which it ought to be, so long as its members are mostly members of Edinburgh Lodges, and a large proportion of them members of one particular lodge. Were the Masters and Wardens of Provincial Lodges to attend its Quarterly Communications in person, they would carry with them to their own lodges new information and new ideas, the affairs of the Grand Lodge would become known throughout the whole country, and the general opinion of the Brotherhood would be brought to bear on the determination of all important questions coming before it. It could no longer be ruled by a small clique, concocting measures in private, counting votes, writing letters to all parts of the country to secure the appointment of new members, and virtually nominating them. For the honour of Freemasonry we almost hesitate to state—and if it were any secret we would not state—that it has been common, not only for Proxy Masters, appointed by Country Lodges to represent them in the Grand Lodge of Scotland, to pay the fees due for the lodge, but also for the money to be supplied for this purpose by those who had need of their services in the Grand Lodge. Thus it has been managed:—A brother, having a particular purpose in view, attends the meeting of a lodge. He mentions the subject which he has at heart in private and confidential communication with a few brethren. He finds their views accordant with his own, and says—"Would you like to be a member of the Grand Lodge?" Receiving a reply in the affirmative, he says that the thing can be accomplished immediately. Brother

A. B. may be at once appointed Proxy Master of Ochterbury, but Brother A. B. must pay the fees for the Ochterbury Lodge. Brother A. B. has not a well-replenished purse, but his friend helps him. He will pay the fees. And so the little matter is adjusted. Brother A. B. becomes a member of the Grand Lodge, and votes there, according to the vote of the Brother to whom he is indebted for this honour. He sees that Brother hold up his right hand and holds up his own right hand accordingly. This it was stipulated that he should do, and this he does. He is a member of the Grand Lodge, and all men—particularly all Freemasons—must honour him. It may be, however, that he has never been elected to the lowest office in his own lodge—never has been thought worthy of it. And, in fact, many men have been made members of the Grand Lodge whom their own lodges never thought worthy of election to any office. A man may be made a Mason to-night, and, after being made, may be asked if he would like to be a member of the Grand Lodge; and on his replying in the affirmative, he is made a Proxy Master or Warden at once, with the condition, however, that he is to vote in a certain way, and to hold up his right hand when he sees a certain right hand held up. Yet this man is called to judge in the most difficult and important questions, of Freemasonry, although he is a novice and utterly ignorant of all that concerns these questions or the interests of the Order. The worst of the matter is, that his fees are paid for him, so that votes in the Grand Lodge are really purchased by those who have an interest in so doing. It is impossible to imagine any abuse worse than this; and yet this has existed for a long time, and may not, perhaps, be very easily done away with. We have heard of cases in which a Freemason could not answer the most simple questions, so as to become admissible to any lodge, and yet he was a member of the Grand Lodge. We need not say more to show the badness of the present system, which we hope will soon be reformed.

We hope you will consider these things, and do all you can to support and assist us in the object we have in view, and especially by attending in person at the Quarterly Communication of the Grand Lodge in May, that you may vote in favour of our motion. We suppose you are aware that, if your lodge is at present represented by a Proxy Master and Wardens, you have the power of cancelling their appointment—giving one month's written notice to the present Proxy Master, and also to the Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge—and then you are entitled to take your own place in the Grand Lodge, to vindicate your own rights for the present time, and to secure for yourself and your successors the enjoyment of them for the future.

Yours fraternally,

MASONIC PRESENTATION.

The presentation of an address and testimonia to Bro. Francis Quin, Past Grand Organist of the Masonic Body in Ireland, took place on the 1st inst., in the Freemason's Hall, Molesworth-street, Dublin, in acknowledgment of his lengthened services as Grand Organist to the Masonic Order in that city. There was a numerous and highly respectable attendance of the subscribers. At five o'clock, on the motion of Bro. Warren, D.L., High Sheriff, seconded by Bro. Lucius H. Deering, Rep. from the G.L. of Louisiana, the chair was taken by The Hon. Judge Townshend, P.D.G.M.

There were also present—

Letters of apology were received from the following brethren:—

Bros. M. C. Close, D.L., P.G.M. Armagh; Right Hon. Major-General Dunne, P.G.M., Midland Counties; Hon. David Plunket, M.P., J.G.D.; Edmond J. Armstrong, J.P. XII.; Alderman Manning, Grand Director of Ceremonies; P. C. Smyly, M.D., Secretary G.M.L.; J. R. Nagle, M.D. No. 242; R. B. De Burgh, No. 25; George Hepburn, G.S.B.; G. H. Major, G.M.L.; F. J. Lindsay, D.L., G.M.L., and others.

The Chairman said that he had been asked to take the chair on the present occasion, and he had very great pleasure—as well as feeling it a very great honor—to do so. He did not know whether because he was an old Past Grand Officer that he was called upon to preside on an occasion when they met to do honour to another Past Grand Officer, but in any case he was glad to preside on the present occasion. They were not always able to do what they wished to do, but they were all aware of the services Bro. Quin had rendered them as Grand Organist—that he had been at a great many of their festivities, and they all knew how greatly his musical talent had contributed to their amusement. They did not know how irksome it was for a gentleman who ought to seek relaxation after his day's labour, to come out to afford them amusement by an occupation which was anything but relaxation to the man whose business it was. Nevertheless, they must bear in mind that Bro. Quin had most cheerfully, courteously, and kindly done what he could to contribute to the pleasure of the Masonic Brethren (hear, hear). But many of them must know that Bro. Quin had been a most zealous and efficient Mason. He was a Mason of high standing, and he was secretary of one of the best worked Prince Mason's Chapters. That was a position that involved much trouble and anxiety, and most of them could testify to the fact. They could all testify to the kindness and courtesy which always distinguished that gentleman, and they felt that he was not merely a brother, but a gentleman, equal to move in any sphere of society, and not merely an agreeable, but a brotherly companion (hear, hear). He believed that the reason of Bro. Quin's retirement, and of their presentation, was chiefly owing to his failing health, and none could speak on that subject more than he (Judge Townshend) could himself, more especially when health interfered with the profession by which they were enabled to make their livelihood (hear, hear). They had, therefore, determined to present him with an address, which they would all say was very handsome, and a suitable present.

The address was read as follows:—

"To Bro. FRANCIS QUIN, Past Grand Organist of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons in Ireland, Member of the College of Philosophical Masons, and P.S. and Secretary Prince Masons' Chapter, No. 5.

"Dear Bro. Quin,—Some of your friends in the Masonic Order, anxious to present to you some token of their respect and esteem, deem that your happy recovery from recent illness presents a favourable occasion for requesting your acceptance of the testimonial which they offer you herewith. They are convinced that you will regard this expression of their friendship and goodwill far more than the present which accompanies it. They, therefore, desire to record in this short address their approval of your honourable character, and their high estimation of the services you have rendered to our Order. Not only have you been an active, accomplished, and exemplary member of several of our Masonic bodies, but you have most readily given to our society the aid of your professional talents, not merely as Grand Organist of the Order in Ireland, for a period of nine years, but by kindly giving your gratuitous aid in the examination of the pupils of our Female Orphan School, and also in arranging and conducting the musical portion of the programmes at the annual meetings of the institution. The eminent success of the Masonic Glee Union, which owes its origin chiefly to you, is the best proof of your ability as a musician, and your deserved popularity in the Masonic Order of Dublin.

Wishing you prolonged health, prosperity, and happiness, we are, with fraternal salutations and greetings, dear Bro. Quin, most sincerely yours,

"T. FITZHENRY TOWNSEND, Chairman.

P. CRAMPTON SMYLY, }
J. VOKES MACKAY, } Hon. Secretaries.

SAMUEL B. OLDFHAM, Hon. Treasurer."

The Chairman then, amid loud applause, presented Bro. Quin with the illuminated address and a purse containing £150.

Bro. Quin replied as follows:—

"Right Worshipful Sir, and Brethren—For the many varied proofs of affection which, in my long connection with our beloved Order, I have received, none can be compared to that which on this occasion has assembled my brethren. When I became associated with the Craft in Dublin, it appeared to me that the refining gifts of my art might well be added to the sterling virtues of the Order; I, therefore, gladly placed at their service those gifts to the possession of which you have so kindly alluded. The handsome testimonial which you so generously offer me is, if possible, enhanced by the gracious moment you have selected for presenting it. In rendering thanks to the Great Architect of the Universe for His mercies lately vouchsafed to me, I shall ever bear in mind this expression of your continued kindness. That my labours in Masonry and elsewhere have been perfumed by the incense of your approbation is an assurance which will cheer and encourage me in my future career. To you, personally, Right Worshipful Sir, I take this opportunity of acknowledging the invariable kindness which, during a period of fourteen years, I have constantly received from you, not only in the higher degrees of Masonry, but in my public life. To these you have now added a crowning proof of friendship in so kindly presiding on this, to me most flattering occasion. To you all, my brethren, I return my most grateful acknowledgments (loud applause).—I remain Right Worshipful Sir, and Brethren, yours, most faithfully

"FRANCIS QUIN, 30°.

"Past Grand Organist."

The second Masonic chair being taken by Lord Athlumney,

On the motion of Bro. Dr. Owens, J.P., seconded by Bro. George Moyers, a cordial vote of thanks was passed to the prior chairman.

The Hon. Judge Townshend expressed his acknowledgments, and the proceedings terminated.

OLD MINUTE BOOK.

In Halliwell's 2nd Edition of the Masonic Poems, in a foot-note it is stated "Mr. Black possesses a minute book of the Freemasons of Chester, of the beginning of the 10th century." Can any brother tell me who Mr. Black is, and where this minute book is to be seen, or found?

A MASONIC STUDENT.

A QUESTION FOR OUR DUTCH BRETHREN.

In an interesting pamphlet by Wilhelm Kesser, on the "Universal History of Freemasonry,"* some statements are made, apparently on the authority of the able Bro. George Kloss, which deserve careful consideration, and at any rate a distinct examination. It is there stated that there still exists in Holland, the original of what has been called the "Charter of Cologne," and certain memoranda, or minutes, of the Lodge "Het Vredendal, das Friedenthal" of the Hague, from 1637.

Among other documents are to be found, it is said:—

1. The original of the Constitutions of the "Amsterdam Vredendals," from 8th March, 1519, in English.

2. A list of all the members of this lodge from 1519 to 1601.

3. The original of the Cologne Charter, or parchment, in Latin; the text in the secret Mason writing, the signatures in the usual cursive characters, the most of the names being distinguished by signs, or marks.

Facsimiles of these papers, it is said, were distributed among the Dutch lodges by order of the then G.M. Prince Frederick. What I am anxious to know is, where can these facsimiles be seen? And where are the originals?

As regards the "Charter of Cologne" the general opinion of Masonic critics is certainly so far unfavourable, but, if the original exists the matter might be fairly re-considered.

We in England are so far interested in the matter, that, it is alleged "in the year 1519, the lodge of Friedentshal was established by Master John Allen from a London Lodge," and that this lodge lasted until 1601, when it was closed.

In 1637, the four still living brethren of it united with four other brethren at the Hague, in order again to open the lodge and did so, at the Hague, under the patronage of the then Stadtholder Frederick Henry, and called the lodge with his consent "Frederick's Vredendal."

It will be most interesting, therefore, if any Dutch Brother can verify the above statement; or if not, if he can say how much of it is in any way founded in fact; or whether we must treat the history and the somewhat romantic account of the discovery of Botzelaar's and Walekenaar's papers, as another Masonic myth. —A MASONIC STUDENT.

THE MARK DEGREE.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

It is the special desire of Mark Master Masons to work harmoniously with their brethren of the Craft, and to avoid giving them offence in anywise.

It is, therefore, unfortunate that your reporter, in giving an account of the recent meeting of the Provincial Grand Mark Lodge of West Yorkshire, should have omitted the word "Mark," and thereby have given occasion for the protest of "a P.P.G.O., for West Yorkshire," which appears in your paper of last Saturday.

In the Mark Degree, the word "Mark" is used before the title of every Officer and the name of every lodge, so as to make a proper distinction between the Mark Degree and the Craft.

I have already shown you how the word is used in the name of a lodge, the Master of that lodge is the Prov. Grand Mark Master Mason for West Yorkshire, the Wardens are Prov. G. Mark Wardens, the Treasurer is the Prov. G. Mark Treasurer, and others. This is clearly set forth in the Book of Mark Constitutions (I have the 1872 edition before me now), and should be strictly followed.

No possible advantage to Mark Masonry could accrue by the usurpation of titles appertaining to an older body than Grand Mark Lodge, and let me assure "a P.P.G.O. for West Yorkshire" that there is not even the smallest intention or wish to do so.

Mark Master Masons are a powerful organisation, are daily increasing in numbers and importance, and have no need (even if they had the desire) to seek adventitious aid by any questionable or dishonourable proceedings.

I am Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours Fraternally,

JAMES W. SMITH.

G.M. Steward, Prov. G.M. Sec. (Kent).

ROYAL ARCH CEREMONIES.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Will you grant me a small space in the Freemason to enable me to reply to the questions put by "Cheshire."

1st. The first Principal "Z" should never be addressed by himself. All communications should be made to the three Principals as if the three were one person. Their title is "Excellent Principals." They are not entitled to the prefix "Most" either collectively or individually.

The summons should be issued by command of the "Excellent Principals," not by that of the "M.E.Z.;" there is, in fact, no such person as M.E.Z. in a private Royal Arch Chapter.

With regard to Cheshire's 2nd question, I will not, at present, offer any remarks, as it is a subject on which I want more light myself.

Yours fraternally,

G. SHANKS, 18° K.M.,

Past J. of Prov. G. Chap., Devon.

PROV. G. LODGE OF CORNWALL.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I have not the pleasure of knowing Bro. Hughan personally, though I have frequently derived much pleasure and information from a perusal of his Masonic writings; but, notwithstanding my high opinion of his Masonic lore, what he has written at page 244 (ante) has not had the effect of changing my opinion, but rather strengthening it. Acting on his advice I have re-perused the report of this Prov. Grand Lodge, at page 202 (ante), and I still find that it is there called a meeting of the Prov. Grand Lodge; at which (inter alia) the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe the Prov. G.M. designate, and Bro. Reginald Rogers, Prov. D.G.M., were present, the latter presiding by reason of the inability of the Prov. G.M. to do so, until his Installation, besides which all the other Prov. G. Officers are described by their official titles as present officers.

The report in your paper seems to have mixed up the private meeting and the so-called Prov. Grand Lodge meeting which was held subsequently, and although the distinction is now pointed out by Bro. Hughan, it does not alter my opinion one jot; for no Prov. Grand Lodge can be held until the Prov. G.M. has been installed. It therefore follows that the election of Treasurer and the investment of the other officers are invalid. I fancy a mistake has been committed, and I think Bro. Hughan is also of that opinion, for in the last ten lines of his letter he says, "I am not myself clear on the point, but I rather incline to believe that the Province, Masonically speaking, does not exist until the installation of the Prov. G.M. is an accomplished fact." That is it. Bro. Hughan has hit the right nail on the head at last, for that is the sum total of my contention.

The Prov. G.M. has no legal status until he has been installed, and Bro. Rogers has no official existence as D.G.M. until he has been invested by the Prov. G.M. in a legally constituted Prov. G. L.

A familiar instance of this exists in the Mark G. L. Earl Percy is elected G.M.; but as he has never been installed, he cannot act. Again: a Brother can be elected or appointed to an office—say, for instance, the W.M. of a Lodge—but he cannot exercise the functions of that office until he has been installed. A justice of the peace may be appointed, or a town councillor elected, but they cannot act until they have qualified, or, in other words, been installed. Again: a clergyman may be appointed to a living, but he cannot legally perform all the functions of his office until he has been inducted, or read in. I could multiply instances of the kind but I think it unnecessary. With respect to Bro. Rogers, the same reasoning applies; for, as the old Prov. G. L. ceased to exist on the death of the late Prov. G.M. (see Book of Constitutions, page 55), no Prov. D.G.M. can exist until the new Prov. G.M. makes a fresh appointment, and that appointment is of no force until he has been invested; for it needs installation to complete the title of the Prov. G.M. to his office, and it needs investment to do the like for all his subordinate officers. The registering in London amounts to nothing.

I am decidedly of opinion that the laws passed at the so-called meeting are invalid, by reason of their having been passed at an unformed lodge; and I would strongly recommend the Prov. G. Sec. to have them again passed at the first legally constituted lodge that may be held; for no fund of benevolence can be legally constituted, or laws passed, unless in the manner pointed out by the Book of Constitutions (page 53, Article 4), which must be done at a Prov. G. L. regularly convened for that purpose; and it naturally follows, that if the Prov. G. L. at which they are passed is informal, they are not worth the paper on which they are written.

In answer to Bro. Hughan's last question, it will be seen from the foregoing remarks that I am of opinion that no Prov. G. L. acquires a legal existence until the Prov. G.M. has been installed.

My Cornish Brethren, especially Bro. Hughan, will, I hope, not feel offended with me, as I am only anxious that all things should be done decently and in order, and that if a mistake has been committed, it should at once be set right, rather than have an objection raised at some future time, impeaching the validity of these bye-laws.

Yours fraternally,

H.

FAITH LODGE, No. 141.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

The attention of members of the above Lodge has been directed to a statement in your Journal, to the effect, that a widow of a member of the Faith Lodge, 141, was voted the sum of £200.

The lodge not having had an application to the Board of Benevolence for any member or widow, and the announcement having taken the lodge by surprise, I am desired to request you to rectify the error, it not being desirous of accepting honour where it is not due. The whole credit belongs to the lodge making the application, and should be given there, and not to the Faith Lodge, No. 141.

Apologising for trespassing on your valuable page

Believe me to be yours faithfully,

J. A. ELLIS, P.M., Sec.

THE INHABITANTS' LODGE, GIBRALTAR.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I am directed by the W.M., and the Officers of the Inhabitants' Lodge (No. 153), on behalf of their Lodge, to state that the Brethren have read with feelings of surprise the report of the consecration of the new Lodge-room in Gibraltar, as contained in your issue of the 22nd ult.

Whilst paying a just and merited tribute to Bro. Morgan for his zeal in Masonry, the members of the Inhabitants' Lodge cannot but say that they fail to understand the reasons why their Lodge has been made to occupy so secondary a position.

In the negotiations relative to the securing of the rooms, and other matters connected therewith, the services of the W.M. on behalf of the Lodge were equally unremitting as those of the Brethren who are made to occupy so prominent a part in the report. The Inhabitants' Lodge takes an equally important position as the St. John's Lodge as regards Masonry generally; and the Brethren are assured that no one more than the Brethren of St. John's regret that the claims of the Inhabitants' Lodge have been omitted.

There are other details that have occupied the attention of the Brethren relative to the report in question, but upon which it is perhaps not necessary to animadvert in your journal. They therefore desire, with your permission, to respectfully protest against the very partial report, and, what they cannot but consider as a want of judgment, and an exhibition of bad taste on the part of your correspondent.

I am, Sir, Yours fraternally,

F. J. WILLIAMSON.

Sec. Lodge 153.

UNAUTHORISED OFFICES

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Referring to the question asked by B.E.T.A. as to whether "Senior Grand Warden" or "Grand Senior Warden" is correct (see Freemason for March 15, 1873), the Book of Constitutions, under the head of Public Ceremonies, gives the title as "Senior Grand Warden," and we, of course, ought to accept this as correct.

Obituary.

THE LATE BRO. F. W. ELLIS, OF LODGE No. 823.

Death has again struck down suddenly a brother in the Masonic circle in Liverpool, causing a blank which will be realised for some time. Bro. F. W. Ellis, of Rice House, Walton, who has been for about five years a highly respected, esteemed, and valuable member of the Everton Lodge, No. 823, died suddenly at Buxton, on the 5th inst., and in accordance with his express desire, the funeral, which took place at Walton, on Tuesday last, the 8th inst., was attended by a large number of his Masonic brethren of the "Everton" and accompanied by Masonic ceremonial. A lodge of emergency was held in the morning at the Masonic Temple Hope-street, and was opened by Bro. J. Holland, W.M. who was supported by the following officers and brethren:—Bros. W. Crane, P.M.; T. Shaw, S.D.; J. Davies, J. Brooksbank, C. Tyler, S. R. Wild, J. B. Jefferey, J. M. Browne, Cave, G. Graham, T. Bloomfield, J. Holden, W. Atherton, P. W. Oglesby, J. Houlding, E. Morgan, C. C. Medcalf, T. H. Careful, and others. After the lodge had been formally opened and the dispensation had been read, the brethren proceeded to Walton to pay the last tribute of respect to their departed brother. Here they were joined by a large number of other brethren, and the procession as it moved from the deceased's late residence to the place of sepulture attracted a large crowd of spectators. The Brethren appeared in full Craft Masonic clothing, and as they gathered round the open grave the sight was exceedingly impressive. After the W.M. (Bro. Holland) had directed the attention of the Brethren to the uncertainty of life, and its solemn lessons, he pronounced the usual Masonic invocations, to which the Brethren responded in fitting terms, and with Masonic honours. During the ceremony the Secretary advanced to the open grave, and threw in a scroll (with the usual forms), bearing the following inscription:—"Bro. F. W. Ellis, Member of the Everton Lodge, No. 823, of Antient, Free and Accepted Masons, initiated and raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason in the year of our Lord, 1868; died at Buxton, on the 5th day of April, 1873, and was interred at Walton Church, on the 8th day of April, 1873. Joseph Holland, W.M." The W.M. then repeated in an audible voice, "Glory be to God on high! on earth peace, goodwill towards men!" To which the Brethren responded, "So mote it be now, from henceforth, and for evermore." The Master then concluded in the following terms:—

"From time immemorial it has been a custom among the Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons, at the request of a Brother on his death-bed, to accompany his corpse to the place of interment; and there to deposit his remains with the usual formalities.

"In conformity with this usage, and at the special request of our deceased Brother, whose memory we revere, and whose loss we deplore, we are here assembled in the character of Masons, to resign his body to the earth whence it came, and to offer up to his memory, before the world, the last tribute of our fraternal affection; thereby demonstrating the sincerity of our past esteem, and our inviolable attachment to the principles of the Order.

"With all proper respect to the established customs of the country in which we live, with due reference to our superiors in Church and State, and with unlimited good-will to all mankind we here appear clothed as Masons, and publicly express our submission to order and good government, and our wish to promote the general interests of mankind. Invested with the badge of innocence, we humbly bow to the universal Parent, implore His blessing on all our zealous endeavours to extend peace and good-will and earnestly pray for His grace to enable us to persevere in the principles of piety and virtue.

"The Great Creator having been pleased, out of His mercy to remove our worthy Brother from the cares and troubles of this transitory life, to a state of eternal duration, and thereby to weaken the chains by which we are united man to man; may we, who survive him, anticipating our approaching fate, be more strongly cemented in the ties of union and friendship; and during the short space which is allotted to our present existence, wisely and usefully employ our time in the reciprocal intercourse of kindly and friendly acts, and mutually promote the welfare and happiness of each other.

"Unto the grave we have resigned the body of our deceased friend, there to remain until the general resurrection; in favourable expectation that his immortal soul will then partake of the joys which have been prepared for the righteous from the beginning of the world: and may Almighty God, of His infinite goodness, at the grand tribunal of unbiassed justice, extend His mercy towards him and all of us, and crown our hope with everlasting bliss, in the expanded realms of a boundless eternity? This we beg for the honour of His Name, to whom be glory, now and for ever. Amen."

During the ceremony sprigs of acacia were thrown into the open grave by the W.M. and several of the Brethren. After the funeral a cold collation was provided for the Brethren who were present.

The funeral arrangements were conducted by Bro. Holland, of Pembroke-Place, Liverpool.

Masonic Tidings.

BRITISH, FOREIGN AND COLONIAL.

The Fifteen Sections will be worked at the next meeting of the Lodge of Instruction, held under warrant from the Palatine Lodge, No. 97, at the Masons' Hall, Park-terrace, Sunderland, on Wednesday, April 23rd, commencing at 6 p.m., by the following Brethren, viz: James H. Coates, W.M. 949 (in the chair); R. Humphrey, W.M., 97, P.G. St.; J. J. Clay, P.M. 97; R. Hudson, P.M., 949, P.G.D. of C.; W. Liddell, P.M. 949, P.G.J.D.; and Geo. Young, 80, P.G. St.

We regret to hear that, in consequence of increasing years, the Rev. J. Huyshe has been compelled to resign his office as Provincial Grand Master of Devonshire. He will, however, be worthily succeeded by Capt. Tanner Davy, of Rose Ash, Southmolton. We may add that Capt. Tanner Davy introduced the Mark Degree into this Province by establishing the Senior Lodge, Fortescue No. 9, Southmolton; and to this fact is due the recommendation of the Rev. J. Huyshe that he should be succeeded by the gentleman now nominated. The new Provincial Grand Mark Master will be formally installed at Plymouth about the end of the present month. Colonel Elliott has kindly consented to act as Deputy G.M.M.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.—At the regular meeting of the Victoria Lodge (No. 1) on the last lodge night, the following Officers were elected:—Bro. F. W. Williams, W.M.; Bro. John Weiler, S.W.; Bro. R. Foster, J.W.; Bro. H. Jones, Treas. (re-elected); Bro. I. G. Vintner, Tyler (re-elected).—Daily British Colonist.

GOOD MASON—The good Mason is an example to his neighbours, and his name and character are proverbial. Those who are younger venerate him; his companions love him. In his family he is high without severity, and condescending without meanness; his commands are gentle; indeed, his wishes are his commands; for all are equally ready to answer his desires. To his wife he is the tender husband, not the usurping lord; to his children he is the kind providential father, not the domineering tyrant; to his servants he is equally the friend as the superior. Thus ruling, he is obeyed with cheerfulness; and thus his home is, whether a cottage or a palace, while he is present, the habitation of peace. When he leaves, it is with reluctance and when absent his return is expected with pleasing avidity.—Inwood.

CROSS RD., N.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered. CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma. CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague. CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhoea, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms. CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

From Lord FRANCIS CONYNNGHAM, Mount Charles, Donegal, 11th December, 1868.

"Lord Francis Conyngham, who this time last year bought some of Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne from Mr. Davenport, and has found it a most wonderful medicine, will be glad to have half a dozen bottles sent at once to the above address.

"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he had received a dispatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera had been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, Dec. 1, 1864.

From W. VERSALIUS PETTIGREW, M.D., Hon. F.R.C.S. England;

Formerly Lecturer on Anatomy and Physiology at St. George's School of Medicine.

"I have no hesitation in stating, after a fair trial of Chlorodyne, that I have never met with any medicine so efficacious as an Anti-spasmodic and Sedative. I have used it in Consumption, Asthma, Diarrhoea, and other diseases, and am most perfectly satisfied with the results."

From Dr. THOMAS SANDIFORD, Passage West, Cork.

"I will thank you to send me a further supply of Chlorodyne. It was the most efficacious remedy I ever used, affording relief in violent attacks of Spasms within a minute after being taken. One patient in particular, who had suffered for years with periodical attacks of Spasms of a most painful nature, and unable to obtain relief from other remedies, such as Opium, &c., finds nothing so prompt and efficacious as Chlorodyne."

From J. M'GREGOR CROFT, M.D., M.R.C.P. London, late Staff Surgeon to H.M.F.

"Sir,—After prescribing Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne for the last three years in severe cases of Neuralgia and Tic-Doloureux, I feel that I am in a position to testify to its valuable effects. Really, in some cases it acts like a charm, when all other means had failed. Without being asked for this report, I must come forward and state my candid opinion that it is a most valuable medicine, and I have recommended several Chemists in this neighbourhood not to be without it for prescriptions."

From Jno. E. GOULSTONE, M.D., late Principal Surgeon to the Steamship "Great Eastern."

"I can confidently state that Chlorodyne is an admirable Sedative and Anti-Spasmodic, having used it in Neuralgia, Hysteria, Asthma, and Consumption, with remarkably favourable results. It relieved a fit of Asthma in four minutes, where the patient had suffered eleven years in a most distressing manner, no previous remedy having had so immediate and beneficial an effect."

From Dr. B. J. BOUTON, and Co., Horncastle.

"We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation, in whatever organ and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after effects."

J. C. BAKER, Esq., M.D., Bideford.

"It is, without doubt, the most valuable and certain Anodyne we have."

CAUTION.—BEWARE OF PIRACY AND IMITATIONS.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the defendant, Freeman, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See Times, 13th July, 1864.

Sold in Bottles at 1/1 1/2, 2/9, 4/6, and 11/0 each. None is genuine without the words "DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each Bottle.

MAY ELECTION, 1873. ROYAL BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION FOR AGED FREEMASONS.

The Votes and Interests of the Governors and Subscribers of this Institution are earnestly solicited on behalf of BRO. JOHN LLEWELLEN, P.M., Pembroke-Dock,
AGED 66 years.

This worthy Brother was Initiated, Passed, and Raised in the St. David's Lodge, No. 306, in the year 1841. He joined the Royal Welsh Lodge, No. 378, in 1849, and to which he has been a subscribing member to the present time. He filled the situation of Warden and the office of Master of the latter Lodge with credit to himself and advantage to the Craft; being, at all times when in prosperous circumstances, ready to contribute liberally, and to relieve distress wherever found. He is now dependent on a small agency for support, and has neither child nor relative to assist him when incapacitated by age and increasing infirmity.

- This Case is strongly recommended by the following Brethren:—
Sir Pryse Pryse, Bart., R.V.P.G.M., W.D., South Wales.
Major J. A. Lloyd Phillips, D.P.G.M., ditto.
T. C. Meyrick, Esq., M.P., P.P.D.G.M., ditto.

CROSBY'S
BAI SAMIC
COUGH
DISEASES OF THE
LUNGS AND AIR-VESSELS.
CROSBY'S
BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opium, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles, at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.

*Invaders should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had Gratis of all Chemists.

ELECTION, MAY, 1873.
ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR AGED FREEMASONS.

The Votes and Interest of the Governors and Subscribers are earnestly solicited on behalf of

Bro. WILLIAM JOHNSON,

P.G. Tyler, N. and E. Ridings Yorkshire.

He was initiated in the Humber Lodge, Hull, in February, 1832, and has continued a Subscribing Member ever since. He is now above Seventy-one years of age, and is unable to follow any occupation for a living, having only a small annual income from the Humber Lodge Fund. He was formerly Steward and Captain of a River Steamer, and has respectably brought up a large family.

The case is strongly recommended by the following Brethren:-
J. P. Bell M.D., J.P.G.M. N. & E. Yorks., S.G.D. of England Hull.

George Marwood, P.D.P.G.M. N. & E. Yorks., Busby Hall.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

MOUNT LEBANON LODGE.—(No. 73).—The last regular meeting of the season of this old lodge was held on Tuesday, 15th inst., at the Bridge House Hotel, Borough High Street, Southwark. The lodge was opened by Bro. G. J. Grace, W.M., who was supported by Bros. A. L. Dussek, S.W.; G. Morris, P.M. as J.W.; E. Harris, P.M., Treas.; F. Walters, P.M., Sec.; J. S. Gomme, S.D.; T. J. H. Wilkins, J.D.; J. H. Batten, P.G. Steward Middlesex, I.G.; C. Rayden, D.C.; F. H. Ebsworth, P.M.; D. Rose, P.M.; G. Free, P.M.; and others. There was a considerable amount of work, which was ably got through. Three members were raised, and Messrs. Eggesfield, Hole, and Stephens were duly initiated into ancient Masonry. The proposed bye-laws were read, and it was agreed to discuss them at the next meeting. A poor member was relieved with £5 from the charity fund. A gentleman was proposed for initiation, and the lodge was closed. It was agreed to hold some emergency meetings during the recess, so as to bring into operation the effects of the arduous duties so well performed by the committee who had been appointed to revise the bye-laws. The visitors were Bros. H. Bartlett, W. M. 147; J. Wavery, P.M. 619, P.M. 1178, and others.

LANCASTER.—Lodge of Fortitude (No. 281).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Rooms, Athenæum, on Wednesday, 9th inst. The chair of K.S. was occupied by the W.M., Bro. W. Fleming, who was supported as follows:—Bros. W. Hall, I.P.M.; E. Airey, S.W.; J. L. Bradshaw, J.W.; E. Simpson, P.M. and Sec.; R. Jervis, S.D.; R. Taylor, J.D.; W. Duff, I.G.; Past Masters J. Daniel Moore, P.G.S.B. of England; G. Kelland, J. L. Whimpray, F. Dean, J. Fenton, E. Storey, and a number of brethren, Bro. Jas. Taylor presiding at the organ. The usual business of the lodge was transacted and the ballot taken for Mr. Tewman Edmondson, proprietor of the Lancaster Observer, as a candidate for Freemasonry, which proved to be unanimous in his favour; and he being in attendance was in an emphatic manner duly initiated into the order by the W.M., the working tools being presented by Bro. Airey, S.W., and the ancient charges read by Bro. W. Hall, I.P.M. Some discussion took place respecting alterations in the lodge room, and the musical arrangements, and a candidate having been proposed for initiation, the lodge was closed in due form.

BRADFORD.—Shakespeare Lodge (No. 1018).—The installation meeting of this young but prosperous Lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, on the 9th inst., and there can be no better evidence of the progress of Freemasonry in this Province than the genuine prosperity of this Lodge. Only consecrated nine years ago, it musters a large and united band of brethren, to whom Freemasonry is no empty name, but who act together as one man in the endeavour to uphold and practice its noble principles. The ceremony of installation of Bro. Geo. Althorpe, the W.M. elect, was highly interesting, and the meeting one of the most successful that has been held in the district. There was a large attendance of the Brethren of the Lodge, and an unusually large attendance of P.M.'s and W.M.'s of other lodges out of respect to the W.M. elect, amongst whom we noticed A. Nicholson, I.P.M., 1018; C. J. Bannister, P.M., and P.G.S.B. of England; C. F. Unna, W.M., Harmony, 600; J. Ambler, W.M., Pentalfa, 974; Manoah Rhodes, P.M., 302, P.P.G.S.W.; J. A. Unna, P.M., 600, P.P.G. Reg.; Wm. James, P.M., 1074, P.P.G.S.D.; J. Oddy, P.G. Chaplain; C. H. Taylor, P.M., 302, P.P.G.S.D.; W. W. Barlow, I.P.M., 302; James G. Hutchinson, P.M., 1034; J. Ahrons, P.M., 600; John Eaton, jun., P.M., 430; Thomas Johnson, P.M., 600; J. D. Sugden, P.M., 302; William Hodgson, P.M., 1034; John Dodd, P.M., 1018; I. Leeson, P.M. 974; Thomas Peel, P.M. 600, P.P.G. Registrar; Edward Clifton, P.M. 1018; Arthur Briggs, P.M. 974; Wm. Wroe, P.M. 1018; S. O. Bailey, P.M. 600, P.P.G. Supt. of Works; Henry Ward, P.M. 1018; S. Barnsdorf, P.M. 600; F. Böurnfeldt, P.M. 1018; J. Bealand, P.M. 600; J. Dewhurst, P.M. 600; John Sutcliffe, King Solomon, Australia, 432. After the installation and the investiture of the Officers, the W.M., invited all present to favour him by their presence in the refreshment room, where the brethren partook of a most recherché dinner; the caterer being Bro. Dewhurst, who, on this occasion, had evidently taxed his resources to the utmost, and succeeded in giving the greatest satisfaction. The dinner finished. The W.M. who was supported by all the visitors and brethren who had been in lodge, proposed "The Queen" in appropriate language, and in giving the toast "The Prince and Princess of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family" referred in graceful terms to the great interest taken by the Prince in all matters pertaining to the advantage of Freemasonry, making especial allusion to his recent efforts on behalf of the Royal Institution for Aged Freemasons; both toasts were received by the brethren most rapturously. Rev. Bro. J. Oddy, Prov. G.C. in giving "The immortal memory of St. John the Evangelist" said he wished he might have been allowed to visit the Lodge of Shakespeare without having to discharge the duty of proposing this privileged toast. Language failed him to place in a proper light more than one or two thoughts which he should like to put before the brethren; the carrying out of which would tend to make them better Masons. St. John was remarkable for sweetness of temper and lived to high one hundred years—yet his thoughts were ever fresh; and if they imitated the spirit of his character and life they should be better men and better Masons. We must consider our duty to our great Creator, but in addition we must look to those around us and succour and relieve all we can. St. John did this—and I wish we could always endeavour to call up in our minds his eventful life. I ask you to drink in solemn silence to the immortal memory of St. John the Evangelist. The W.M. then gave "The Most Hon. the Marquis of Ripon, M.W.G.M. of England, and the rest of the Grand Officers," jocosely saying that, as the Marquis was not present on that occasion, although he should have been proud if he had been, he would couple with the toast the name of Bro. J. C. Bannister, P.M. 1018, P.G.S.B. of England, a Past Grand Officer, who had honoured them by his presence, a brother with whom he felt honoured in having been associated for many years, and one who had gained the highest position in the Craft. Bro. J. C. Bannister in reply said—W.M., P.M.'s, Officers and Brethren, I thank you most heartily for the way in which you have proposed and received this toast. I have not words sufficient to thank you for your kind expressions in favour of the Marquis. I thank you on his behalf and that of his Deputy, the Earl of Carnarvon, and all the Officers of Grand Lodges; and assure you that you may at all times command my services, and beg to express to you my deep regret that illness has prevented my taking a more active part in the proceedings in the lodge. The S.W., Bro. Longley, proposed "The Health of the R.W.P.G.M. of West Yorkshire." The J.W., Bro. J.W. Monckman, proposed that of the "Most Worshipful Bro. Bentley Shaw, D.P.G.M. and the rest of the Provincial Grand Officers." Bro. Manoah Rhodes, P.M. 302, P. Prov. G.S.W. in responding said he was pleased to have this opportunity of expressing his thanks on behalf of the D.P.G.M. and the rest of the Provincial Grand Officers. When an officer of the province he did not know that he did much, but he did what he could. He had great pleasure in being present to congratulate the W.M. on his installation, and to see young Masons obtaining office, and felt certain that he would do everything in his power for the welfare of his lodge, and that the officers and brethren would do all they could for him, during his year of office. With respect to the Marquis of Ripon, our P.G.M., he knew of no individual who could take greater interest in all pertaining to the welfare of the Craft than he did, and although his time was necessarily much occupied as Grand Master of all England, yet he made opportunity to take a most active part in the business of the province as our P.G.M. Then as to Bro. Bentley Shaw, D.P.G.M., his name had become a household word in the Craft, and whatever duties he had to do he did in such a kind courteous way that no one could help feeling they were done on velvet. Our worthy D.P.G.M. has said that, having held office so long, he must give it up, but I tell him he must continue as long as he lives. Bro. Henry Ward, P.M. 1018, then proposed "The Retiring Master," saying that he did so with fear and trembling, for the evening before he had thought of a nice speech that he fancied would have eclipsed all others, even including that of the W.M., but now said he, I feel abashed, as my speech has quite deserted me. I could have long dilated on the excellencies of our Bro. Nicholson, but it is not necessary to do so, since you all know him equally well, and though young in life, he has the esteem of all the brethren. I call upon you to drink to the health of our retiring Master. Bro. A. Nicholson, I.P.M. 1018, on rising was received with loud and reiterated cheering. Addressing the W.M., Officers, and brethren, he said, I should indeed have as good health as any one, if good wishes would give it, for I have lately been so frequently toasted, I can tell you it has no good effect on the nerves. I thank you for your good wishes, and trust the lodge will still prosper, as I have no doubt it will under the guidances of our newly-elected W.M., to whom I beg to offer my congratulations on his installation. Bro. D. Wroe, P.M. 1018, in proposing "The Worshipful Master" said worthy P.M.s., Officers, and Brethren, we are again assembled to commence another year. It has been my pleasing duty to install our W.M., and any who has filled that position knows it requires a little tact to preside over a large and as a decision requires, to throw oil over the troubled waters. Bro. Althorpe as a business man, knows the value of punctuality, and will be one who will keep his officers to their duty. He also has a little of the gift of speech, and by that, at times, can get us over a difficulty. Then he is very desirous of winning the good esteem of the brethren, and that I doubt not he will do. I can assure him of every assistance from the P.M.s., both of this and other lodges, and wish to find, if he have health, that he will make an excellent W.M. I ask you to drink his very good health. The W.M. Bro. G. Althorpe, on rising was received with vociferous and long continued cheering. He said worthy P.M.s., Officers and Brethren I can hardly agree with Bro. Wroe, P.M., he has so exaggerated my abilities. I have been reminded whilst at this festive board by the presence of Bro. Barnsdorf, P.M., who initiated me, of the past, and have fancied what must be his feelings at seeing a stripling like me occupying such an exalted position. It is true I have passed through most of the offices in the lodge, and I have done my utmost to efficiently discharge their duties. And I feel proud to be your elected W.M. and shall endeavour to rule you with suavity, and courtesy to all. Every brother, even the youngest, shall have the same consideration at my hands. At the same time I shall look to those who have filled this post and hope for their help and sympathy. I shall endeavour, if need be, as Bro. Wroe said, to cast oil on the troubled waters, holding that as W.M. it will be my duty to sink my own individuality and to consider the views of others. I trust my health may be sufficiently good to perform the duties of my office. I look with pride on my officers, feeling that I shall have something to do to keep up with them. Allow me, in conclusion, again to thank you all for the honour you have done me. Bro. J. Dodd, proposed, "The Worshipful Masters of Visiting Lodges," and said—In years gone by I remember, W.M., that nothing gave me greater pleasure than to see around me W.Ms. of other Lodges, and confess I have been astonished to-night at seeing here 25 W.Ms. and P.Ms. I am delighted to see Bro. C. F. Unna, W.M., of Harmony, 600, our Mother Lodge; and Bro. J. A. Unna, P.M., 600, who ranks as the Father of this Lodge. He tells me he has installed 26 W.Ms., so he is getting to be quite a patriarch amongst us. We have also Bro. Ambler, the W.M. of the Pentalpha, 974, and Bro. W. W. Barlow, I.P.M. of the Hope, 302, and Bro. J. G. Hutchinson, P.M. of the Eccleshill, 1034. I am sure you all, along with me, feel indebted for their presence, and will heartily join with me in drinking their good healths. Bro. C. F. Unna, W.M., Harmony, 600, in responding for his Lodge, expressed the pride he felt at being the Father of such a Lodge, and his pleasure in being present, although he could not well consider himself a visitor in his own rooms. Bro. J. Ambler, W.M., Pentalpha, 974, in responding for his Lodge, wished to congratulate the W.M. on his election, and to tender him his good wishes. He begged to thank them for proposing and receiving the toast as they had done, and assured them that he should always welcome them whenever they paid the Pentalpha a visit. The W.M. called upon Bro. Barlow, I.P.M., of the Lodge of Hope (in the absence of the W.M.), to represent that Lodge, who said, Worshipful Sir, Officers, and Brethren, it affords me much gratification to offer to Bro. Althorp my best and hearty wishes for a prosperous and happy year, both for him and the rest of the brethren of the Shakespeare Lodge, feeling sure, from what I know of the high estimation in which he is held, that we shall see those wishes amply realised. On the part of the W.M. of my lodge, I have to offer an apology for his absence. Indeed he is so much engaged from home just now that he has requested me to preside for him in our own lodge meeting. At the same time I can offer the right hand of fellowship to the W.M. and brethren of the Shakespeare Lodge, and tell them that their presence in the Hope meetings will be always most welcome, and personally, as well as for the brethren of that lodge, I tender you my hearty thanks for the way in which the toast has been proposed and received. The W.M. also called upon Bro. Hutchinson, as senior P.M. of the Eccleshill Lodge (in the absence of the W.M.), to respond, and in doing so he said, Worshipful Sir, I beg to congratulate you on your election, and wish you health and happiness during the year. I cannot take upon myself to say, in the language of the W.M. of the Harmony, that I feel at home because in my own rooms; but I can say that, whenever I come to visit your lodge, I always do feel at home. It has given me the greatest pleasure in being present to-night, especially to see the progress made by your W.M. He is a most enterprising brother, and we need not be surprised to see him in P.G.L., or even in the G.L. itself. I should also fail did I not express the pleasure it affords me to see that you have P.M.'s amongst you who can go through the ceremony of installation. I was delighted to see your I.P.M. take the earlier part of the ceremony, and another young P.M., the remainder. This augurs well for the Shakespeare Lodge; and on the part of my Lodge (Eccleshill), and for myself, I beg to return you the heartiest thanks for coupling our names with the toast. The remaining toasts were respectively proposed and responded to by Bro. Althorp, W.M.; Nicholson, I.P.M.; Ed. Clifton, P.M.; Thos. Peel, P.M.; J. A. Unna, P.M.; C. H. Taylor, P.M.; Wm. James, P.M.; J. Dodd, P.M.; T. G. Andrews; W. Longly, S.W.; J.W.; — Mullen, F. W. Granham, J. Dewhurst, P.M., and regret we cannot report their speeches, excellent as they were, having already given more space than usual in reports of private Lodges. We concur in the congratulations offered to the W.M. on this interesting meeting, which terminated at an early hour on the Tyler's toast being given. The evening's enjoyment was greatly increased by the excellent songs and recitations of the various Brethren who kindly volunteered their services.

UPTON.—Upton Lodge (No. 1227).—This well-attended summer lodge held its first meeting at the Spotted Dog, Upton, on Thursday, the 17th inst., present:—Bros. English, W.M.; Bratton, S.W.; Chidley, J.W.; Weyland, Treas.; Goddard, P.M., Hon. Sec.; Posener, S.D., pro tem; Holtham, J.D.; Slee, J.D.; Bolton, I.P.M.; Mather, P.M.; Picking, P.M., and numerous other brethren. Business of the evening—the initiation of Messrs. F. C. Kiuncar, and J. Isaacs; and passing of Bro. Witherston. Bro. D. Posener was appointed Steward to attend the festival in May next for the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls. The lodge was then closed with solemn and impressive prayer. The brethren next adjourned to a capital banquet prepared by Br. Vase, the worthy host. After removal of the cloth, the usual Masonic toasts were proposed, and briefly and very appropriately responded to by the initiates. Brother Mather, P.M., 65, returned thanks to the toast "To the Visiting Brethren," and the lodge separated highly pleased with the evening's entertainment.

ACACIA LODGE (No. 1309).—On Wednesday, April 9th, at the Railway Hotel, Potters Bar, the regular meeting of this lodge was held. The lodge was opened at a quarter to six by the W.M., Bro. John Henry Butler, P.G.S. Midx., supported by his efficient officers. The minutes of one regular and two emergency meetings were read, put separately, and unanimously confirmed. The ballots, taken seriatim, were declared to be unanimous in favour of Messrs. Henry Bryceson, John Bryceson, and William Lorberg, as candidates for initiation and members of the lodge. Although a large amount of work was on the agenda paper, all that was done was the passing of Bro. George to the Fellow Craft degree, and initiating Mr. Thomas Smith Lewis, into the mysteries of Ancient Freemasonry. The election for the honourable position of W.M. for the ensuing year was declared to be in favour of the S.W. Bro. E. W. Richardson. Bro. E. Sillifant, P.M. and Treas., was unanimously re-elected Treasurer for the fourth time, J. Bayin, P.M., Tyler, was also re-elected. Notice of motion having been duly given, after some further discussion, it was resolved that in future the lodge be held on the fourth Saturdays of April, May, June, July, and August, instead of the alternate months on the second Wednesday. Some candidates were proposed for initiation. The Committee for Audit was appointed. It was arranged that the Audit should be held in town. Apologies were tendered for the absence of the Treasurer, Bro. E. Sillifant, P.M., P.G.J.D., Midx., caused by ill health, and for Bro. Frederick Walters, P.M., Sec., through pressure of his professional duties. The lodge was then closed. It was arranged to hold the Installation meeting on Wednesday June 11th.

LEBANON LODGE No. 1326.—This flourishing lodge held its usual meeting at the Red Lion Hotel, Lion-square, Thames-street, Hampton, at the appointed time the lodge was opened by Bro. Frederick Walters, Past Master and Secretary. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and unanimously confirmed, ballots taken separately were unanimous in favour of the admission of Bros. S. Gibbs, 147; T. Whiteman, 1275; and W. Vine, 1310, as joining members. Also for Messrs. T. Wallis, C. M. May, and J. Johnson as candidates for initiation into Freemasonry and members of the lodge. There was as usual here a long list of work on agenda paper but being holiday week, but few were present so many of the members being out of town. The veteran old Brethren praised his capabilities by the impressive manner he read Bro. S. M. Mildred, J. Newton, Joseph Thompson, and J. H. Webster, 1703, to the sublime degree of Master Masons. Passing Bro. Jesse Smith, C. W. Williams, 1275; R. W. Williams, 1275; to the Fellow Craft degree and commencing the ceremony of initiating Messrs. T. Wallis, J. Fenn, and Elsdon into the ancient mysteries of Freemasonry. Bro. J. T. Moss, P.G.S.D., Middlesex, W.M., arrived having been detained in town through his numerous and professional engagements which precluded his earlier attendance. He in a fluent and agreeable manner finished the initiation ceremony which had been so ably commenced. A long list of business was then disposed of, Bro. David Davison Beck, P.M. 1309, S.W., having announced that in consequence of his being the next in rotation at his mother lodge the Industry No. 186, for election as W.M., and not wishing to prevent younger brothers from progressing he resigned his office as S.W. The W.M. then appointed as his officers for the remainder of the year:—Bros. H. A. Dubois, S.W.; J. W. Jackson, J.W.; W. Hammond, P.M., S.D.; E. Gilbert, J.D.; J. Hayward, I.G.; J. Gilbert, Tyler. Several joining members were proposed and the usual number of initiates. Business being ended the lodge was closed. Banquet followed. Besides those already mentioned there were present:—Bros. C. Heitzmann, Toser, Jones, Lawrence, J. W. Baldwin, R. Godfrey, R. Gower, Dray, F. Bourts, R. Gutteridge, and many others. Several Visitors were present.

INSTRUCTION.

UNITED CHATHAM LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE (No. 84).—On Tuesday evening the 15th inst., an interesting gathering of the Brethren connected with this Lodge of Instruction, took place at the "Nelson Inn" Brompton, Chatham, for the purpose of presenting their Preceptor, Bro. Redman, P.M.W.M. 184, with a handsome testimonial for his faithful and gratuitous services. About 30 brethren were present, including Bro. Ashdown, P.M. 1050, P. Prov. G.P. Bro. Cole, P.M.W.M. 1424, P. Prov. G.P., Bro. Nicholls, W.M. 1050; Bro. S. Strown, P.M. 184, and several other visitors, who partook of a most excellent repast, which Bro. Walker had provided in his usual satisfactory manner. After grace had been said and the cloth removed Bro. Rankin, W.M., gave the first toast, "The Queen and the Craft," and the National Anthem was ably sung. He then proposed, "The Most Hon. the Marquis of Ripon, Most Worshipful Grand Master of Masons," "The Right. Hon. the Earl of Zetland, and H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, Most Worshipful Past Grand Masters." He then proposed the health of the "Prov. Grand Master of Kent, Lord Holmesdale, and the rest of the P. Grand Officers," coupled with the names of Bros. Ashdown, P.P.G.P.; Redman, P.P.G. S.W.; and S. Cole, P.P.G.P. The several Prov. Grand Officers responded in very appropriate terms. Bro. Ashdown then rose to propose the toast of the evening, viz., the health of Bro. J. G. Redman, P.M.W.M. 184, P.P.G.D.W., Preceptor to the Lodge of Instruction attached to 184. In doing so he gave a brief history of the working of the lodge since Bro. Redman had been Preceptor. He spoke in a very high and eulogistic manner of the services rendered to the Lodge of Instruction by Bro. Redman; he had given his services faithfully and gratuitously, he had been indefatigable in expounding the great and useful truths of Masonry, and by his constant attention and hard working he had made the Lodge of Instruction, 184, second to none in the province. He now with great pleasure, in the name of the brethren, presented him with this testimonial (a handsome gold ring) as a small token of their brotherly love and esteem, and may he live long to wear it, and may he be spared to adorn the lodge with his presence for years to come. (Long and continued applause) Bro. Redman in returning thanks said he was unable adequately to express his feelings after the very high encomiums passed upon him. In accepting this handsome ring, which was unexpected, he could only say he had tried simply to do his duty; he expressed his lively sense of gratitude for the manner in which his health had been received, and begged to assure the brethren that nothing gave him greater pleasure than imparting a knowledge of Masonry to those who required it. Masonry has taught us multitudinous duties, that beautiful temple based on love, truth and justice; bounded by Faith, Hope, and Charity, teaches us the duties we owe to one another. We are indebted to Masonry for the knowledge we have of the arts and sciences; empires have risen and fallen, nations have lived before, arts have been lost and found, but Freemasonry stands firm and pre-eminent through all ages, Masonry desires us to overcome our passions, to act as moral and wise men, cultivating brotherly love, the foundation and cope-stone, the cement and glory of this ancient Fraternity, that all may see the benign influence of Masonry, as all true Masons have done from the beginning of the world, and will do until the end of time. (Applause.) In conclusion, he hoped that he may be spared many years to come to unite with the brethren in working for the interest of the Craft, with that brotherly love which at all times characterise Freemasons. He again thanked them sincerely for this token of their regard, and resumed his seat amidst loud applause. The health of the visitors was next proposed, coupled with the names of Bro. S. Cole, W.M. 1424, and Bro. Nicholls, P.W.M. 1050. The brethren expressed their thanks in very appropriate terms, and were proud of the honour of being invited to such a prosperous Lodge of Instruction. Bro. Redman had great pleasure in proposing the Officers of the Lodge of Instruction, coupled with the names of Bros. Young, Rankine, Johnstone, McDonald, and Allingham, the Hon. Sec. and Treas. To Bro. Allingham we are mainly indebted for the prosperous financial condition of the lodge, through his energy and zeal we have been enabled to contribute to charitable institutions, and meet here this evening to display the true beauties of love and harmony, and we tender him our sincere thanks. The several brethren responded in very appropriate terms, Bro. McDonald being noted for his brevity. The health of the Tyler and Host was drank and duly responded to. Some very excellent singers were present, whom it would be almost invidious to particularise. Suffice it to say the brethren spent a most pleasant evening, and separated at an early hour.

MOUNT LEBANON CHAPTER (No. 73).—The ninth installation meeting of this prosperous chapter was held at the Bridge House Hotel, Borough, High-street, Southwark, on Thursday, April 10th. The chapter was opened by Companions C. A. Cottenbrune, P.Z., as M.E.Z., J. T. Moss, H.; E. Harris, J.; F. Walters, P.Z., S.E.; R. Watts, P.Z.; G. Kenning, P.Z.; W. Smead, P.Z.; and others who were present. The companions were then admitted. The minutes of the previous meeting were read, and unanimously confirmed. Ballot for companion B. Isaacs to be admitted as a joining member was unanimous in his favour. Ballots taken separately were unanimous in favour of the six brethren, who were candidates for exaltation. Bros. Mahony, 25; Spencer, 73; H. A. Dubois, S.W. 1423; R. Limpus, S.D. 1509, and Frail being in attendance were regularly exalted into Royal Arch Freemasonry. The work being done in an admirable manner, the installations of the Principals were next done. Companion J. T. Moss, H., was installed as M.E.Z., E. Harris, J., as H.; J. H. Button, S.N., as J. The following companions were then installed with the collar and jewel of their office—viz., Companion A. D. Lowenstark, P.Z., Treasurer (reinvested for ninth time); F. Walters, P.Z., S.E. (reinvested for ninth time); E. Shillers, S.N.; M. D. Loewenstark, P.S.; G. J. Lowe, 1st., A.S.; J. W. Baldwin, 2nd., A.S.; W. Y. Laing Janitor. It was unanimously resolved that the usual five guinea P.Z.'s jewel be presented to Companion J. Trickett (C.E.), P.Z., for his services rendered to the chapter. Companion A. P. Stedman was elected to serve the office of Steward for the Girls' School at the ensuing festival, to be held on May 14th. Several propositions were received of candidates for exaltation. The chapter was closed for the season. The next meeting will be held on Thursday, October 9th. The usual good banquet followed. Companion J. H. Spencer, as usual with him, pleased all by the admirable manner he attended to the comforts of all those who were present. The visitors were Companions G. Kenning, P.Z., 192, W. Smead, P.Z., 946.

LIVERPOOL.—Walton Chapter (No. 1086).—A meeting of this chapter was held at the Masonic Hall, Kirkdale, Liverpool, on Thursday, the 27th March. The Comps. present were—Thomas Chesworth, M.E.Z.; Josh. C. Lunt, H.; Geo. de la Perelle, J.; H. Hughes, S.N.; J. P.

McArthur, P. Soj; Wm. Archer, P.Z., Treas.; Jno. Lunt, P.Z., and a large attendance of members. Amongst the visitors were Comps. W. J. Lunt, P.Z., P. Prov. G.S.B.; and J. T. Banning, H., 823. The chapter having been opened by the Principals, the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Fitzsimmons of Lodge 220, was then balloted for and was declared duly elected. Being in attendance, he was exalted in a very impressive manner by Comp. Chesworth, M.E.Z., Comp. J. C. Lunt, H., giving the symbolic, and Comp. Geo. de la Perelle, J., the historic lecture. The rest of the officers performed their respective parts in an efficient manner. The Comps. then proceeded to refreshment, when the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and a thoroughly enjoyable evening was spent.

Mark Masonry.

MACDONALD MARK MASTERS LODGE (No. 104).—This lodge met at the head-quarters of the First Surrey Rifles, Camberwell, on Saturday, the 12th inst., the W.M. Bro. Charles Hammerton, P.G.O., W.M.; being supported by the W. Bro. Dr. Eugene Cronin, Grand Deacon, I.P.M.; the V. W. Bro. Thos. Meggy, P.G.O., P.M., and Treasurer; the V. W. Bro. James Stevens, P.G.O., P.M.; Bro. A. Wolton, S.W.; A. Williams, as J.W.; Berridge, M.O.; White S.O., and Secretary; E. Moody, I.G.; F. H. Cozens, Org.; Southam, Bassett, W. P. Collins, W. Binney, and others. The lodge having been opened in ancient form, and with full musical service, notices of motion having reference to suggested alterations of bye-laws, were discussed and determined upon. The election of the W.M. and Treasurer for the ensuing year, then took place, and the choice of the brethren was unanimous in favour of the S.W., Bro. A. Wolton, as W.M., and of the V. W. Bro. Thos. Meggy, as Treas. The respective announcements from the chair of A. being received with acclamation. Bro. Grant was re-elected Tyler. On the motion of the V. W. Bro. James Stevens, P.M., a Past Masters' jewel was voted for the retiring Master, whose manifold services to the lodge from its establishment, and during his term of office were highly spoken of by both proposer and seconder. Propositions for advancement having been taken, the wages were distributed, the lodge was closed, the closing hymn sung, and the brethren adjourned to supper, at which, on the cloth being cleared, the usual loyal and Mark Masonic toasts were duly honoured.

SUNDERLAND.—Union Lodge of Mark Masters (No. 124).—The second annual meeting of the members of this lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Park Terrace, Sunderland, on Monday afternoon, April 21st., when Bro. P. Kristendahl was installed W.M. for the ensuing year, by Bro. S. Y. Strachan, Prov. G.S. After having been placed in the chair the newly installed W.M. appointed and invested the following officers, viz., Bros. B. Levy, I.P.M.; W. Liddell, S.W.; Jas. H. Coates, J.W.; R. Humphrey, M.O.; J. Riseborough, P.S.O.; F. Maddison, J.O.; R. B. Lutert, Treas.; J. Davison, Reg. Marks; B. Crick, Sec.; R. Hudson, S.D.; J. S. Pearson, J.D.; D. Clark, I.G.; J. Thompson, Tyler. The annual festival was held the same evening, the W.M. in the chair, supported by Bros. A. Clapham, D.P.G.M.M.; Bro. Levy, P.P.J.G.W.; T. Y. Strachan, Prov. G.S.O.; and others. There was a good attendance of the brethren at both the installation and festival.

WHITEFIELD.—Wike Lodge (No. 142)—On Wednesday, the 9th inst., the ordinary meeting of the Wike Lodge of M.M.M., No. 142, was held at the Church Inn, Whitefield. There was a fair attendance of members, the following visitors being present:—Bros. Thomas Hargreaves, P.M.M., Blair, 113, Junior Grand Mark Deacon of England; Joseph Handley, P.M.M., Alfred, 136, Thomas Nuttall, P.M.M., 113; and Henry Maiden, W.M., 136. In the unavoidable absence of the W.M. Bro. Chambers, the lodge was opened at five p.m. by Bro. Handley, acting W.M. The most important business being the installation of the W.M., Bro.

W. Barlow, and being in attendance he was accordingly presented by Bro. Handley, and installed into the chair according to ancient custom by Bro. Hargreaves. Other business was then transacted, and the lodge was closed in peace and harmony at 5.45. Banquet was then served, and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts brought the evening to a close.

BECTIVE LODGE (No. 147).—On Monday last the installation of the W.M. of the Bective Lodge of Mark Masters of Cumberland and Westmoreland at Keswick took place, when Bro. Wood was duly installed. The brethren present were, in addition to the brethren of the lodge, Bro. Easher, G.S.W.; Bro. Porter (Wigton), G.S.D., England; Bro. R. Wentworth Little, Sec. Girls' School, London; Bro. R. Levander, G.D.C., England; G. G. Hayward, Carlisle, P.G.J.C.; and others. After the business of the lodge was gone through the brethren present sat down to a splendid banquet, prepared under the management of Miss Charlotte Franks, at the Keswick Hotel, which was very much commended. The chair was taken by the new W.M. and a very pleasant hour or two was spent.

BOLTON.—Rose and Thistle Lodge (No. 158).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held in Freemasons' Hall, Church Institute, Bolton, on Monday, 14th April, at 6 p.m., when there were present, Bros. G. P. Brockbank, Past Grand Warden, W.M.; John Tunnah, Past Prov. G. Overseer, S.W.; Thomas Norris, Prov. G. Sword Bearer, as J.W.; Rutter, J.O.; Brown, S.D.; Horrocks, J.D.; Sharples, Treasurer; Jas. Newton, Sec.; Thomas Entwistle, P. Prov. G. Master; C. Fitzgerald Matier, J. G. Warden, and others. The lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed. The ballot was taken for Bro. Jas. Gooden, M.M., 221, as a candidate for advancement, who was unanimously elected. Bro. W. H. J. Jones, M.O., St. John's Mark Lodge, was unanimously elected as joining member. The election of Master for the ensuing year then took place, the result being the unanimous election of Bro. John Tunnah, S.W., P. Prov. G. Overseer. Bro. Rutter and Crother were appointed to audit the Treasurer's accounts. It was unanimously agreed to recommend Grand Lodge to issue a warrant for a Royal Ark Mariners Lodge, to be held in connection with this lodge, to be denominated the "Mount Ararat Lodge." Two brethren—viz., Bros. James Pilkington, W.M., 37, and Rev. E. J. Bolling, who had been previously elected, were admitted and advanced to the honourable degree of Mark Master, by Bro. C. F. Matier, J.G. Warden. The business being concluded, the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to refreshment.

Sir Knights Templar.

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE.—Royal Kent Preceptory.—On Good Friday the annual general meeting of this Preceptory, was held in Maple-street Masonic Hall, when there was a large gathering of the Sir Knights. The Preceptory was opened shortly after three o'clock by the Eminent Preceptor, Sir Knight William Brignall, jun., assisted by the usual officers. Amongst the Sir Knights present were:—Sir Knts. C. J. Banister, P.E.C.; A. Clapham, P.E.C.; W. Foulsham, P.E.C.; J. F. Frolich, P.E.C.; H. Hotham, P.E.C.; Jens Jensen, P.E.C.; H. G. Ludurg, P.E.C.; T. Robinson, P.E.C.; J. Ionis, P.E.C.; John Trotter, E. Preceptor; J. Straker Nilson, 1st Captain and E.P. elect; R. Cooke, 2nd Captain; P. Hirstendahl, Major J. Monks, Lord Ernest Vane Tempest, B. Levy, R. Humphrey, J. H. Thompson, John Trotter and others. The minutes of the previous Preceptory having been read and confirmed the Preceptor vacated in his stall in favour of Sir Knight C. J. Banister, who installed Sir Knight J. Straker Nilson as Preceptor for the present year. The Sir Knights having accorded the newly installed Preceptor his usual salutation, he proceeded to appoint and invest the following officers:—Sir Knts. W. Brignall jun., P.E.P.; W. Punshon, Prior; W. Hotham, Sub-Prior; Rev. S. Atkinson, Prelate; B. J. Banister, Chancellor; H. Hotham, Treasurer; R. F. Cooke, 1st Captain; J. H.

Thompson, 2nd Captain; James Monks, Expert; J. S. Trotter, Equerry. The Preceptor stated he would not appoint any Sir Knights to the offices of Captain of Lines, Standard Bearer, 1st and 2nd Heralds until he knew more of the intentions of those who had framed the new Statutes of the Convent General. Several minor matters of importance having been transacted the Preceptory was closed in due form. A council of the Knights Grand Cross of the Temple was then held, under the presidency of the Grand Master, H. G. Ludurg, when Sir Knt. William Brignall jun., was exalted to this most distinguished and honourable degree as a Knight Grand Cross in an extremely impressive manner. All business having been concluded, the council was closed according to the ancient rites and ceremonies, and the various Sir Knights adjourned to the banqueting hall, where an excellent repast awaited them. The usual toasts followed, which however were not interspersed with harmony, it being eschewed on this occasion owing to the sanctity of the day.

Red Cross of Constantine.

LANCASTER.—Red Rose Conclave (No. 12).—A regular meeting of this conclave was held at the Masonic Rooms, Athenæum, on Monday, the 14th inst. There were present, the Sir Knight J. Daniel Moore, M.D., M.P.S., Intendant General for North Lancashire; Eminent Sir Knight W. Bagnall, V.E. Recorder; Sir Knights E. Airey, as S.G.; W. J. Sly, as J.G.; W. Hall, Prefect; J. Bell, Herald, and others. The usual business of the conclave was transacted, and two candidates for installation balloted for, and unanimously elected. The formation of a code of bye-laws was discussed, and candidates proposed for ballot at the next meeting. The conclave was then resolved into a Preceptory of Instruction under the direction of the M.P.S.

LIVERPOOL.—Liverpool Conclave (No. 55).—An assembly of this highly prosperous conclave was held on Friday, the 11th inst., at the Adelphi Hotel, Lime-street, Liverpool. Em. Sir Knight J. R. Goepel, M.P.S., occupied the throne, and the other knights of the chivalric order present were—Ill. Sir Knight G. Turner, Int. Gen. for West Lancashire; Ill. Sir Knight Dr. J. K. Smith, Past Sov.; Sir Knights H. M. Molyneux, V.E.; H. James, S.G.; T. Clark, J.G.; R. Warlington, H.P.; J. Wood, Treas.; W. Doyle, Rec.; J. E. Jackson, Prefect; J. B. Mackenzie, H.; R. Young, J.S.; G. H. Turner, D.C.; P. Ball, Sen.; W. C. Thomson, A. Mitchell, J. Ellis, J. Capell, W. Cron, J. B. Jeffery, A. Jarvis, H. Pearson, and others. Sir Knight the Rev. J. Rees Jackson, M.P.S., 23, was present as a visitor. After the conclave had been duly opened, and the records of the previous assembly read, Bro. P. Armstrong was duly initiated into the ineffable mysteries of the order. The assembled knights next proceeded to the annual election of chiefs, when Sir Knight H. M. Molyneux was unanimously chosen the M.P.S.; Sir Knight Clark, the V.E.; and Sir Knight Wood, the Treasurer (for the third time). After the muster roll had been called, the conclave was closed in peace and harmony. An excellent repast was subsequently provided, and the members parted at a seasonable hour, after passing an exceedingly enjoyable evening.

GLASGOW.—St. Andrew's Chapter (No. 50).—On Tuesday, April 8, this chapter had a visit from the Prov. Grand Chapter. The deputation consisted of the Prov. Grand Superintendent, Comp. F. A. Barrow, who was accompanied by Comps. Porteus, P.G.H.; A. Smith, P.G.J.; T. Halkett, Z. 113, P.G.T.; A. McTaggart, M.A., P.G.S.E.; J. Crabb, Z. 50, P.G.S.N.; Jas. Balfour, P.G.P.S.; G. B. Adam, P.G. 2nd S.; and G. Macdonald, Z. 73, P.G.S.B. The Most Excellent having expressed a desire to see the chapter opened, Comp. O. D. Humpin, P.G. 2nd S., and Z. of 69, assumed the chair; and in the absence of his own officers, requested Comp. G. W. Wheeler, H. 73, to fill the chair of H.; J. Duthie, Z. 67, to act as J.; and T. O. Parkes, Z. 122, as M.S. After the chapter had been regularly opened, the P.G.Z. congratulated the companions on their working, and also on the state of their books; at the same time sympathising with the 1st Principal in the complaint he had made of want of support by his own Principal Officers who had been conspicuous by their absence; and commending the fraternal spirit that had so readily supplied the deficiency. After the deputation withdrawing, the M.E.Z., with the assistance of the officers already named, advanced Bro. Chisholm to the Mark degree.

GLASGOW.—Glasgow Chapter (No. 69).—The Prov. Grand Superintendent, Comp. F. A. Barrow, who is engaged in inspecting all the chapters in his province, paid a visit to No. 50, at the usual monthly meeting on Thursday, 10th inst. He was accompanied by several Prov. Grand Officers. As in consequence of the absence of the Scribe E., the examination of the books could not be gone into, no report was made. Comp. J. Crabb, the M.E.Z. of the chapter and P.G.S.N., then requested Comp. G. W. Wheeler, H. 773, to act as S.W., G. McDonald, Z. 773, to act as J.W., and with their assistance proceeded to open a Mark Lodge, and afterwards advanced to that degree Bros. J. Miller and James Love. A Holy Royal Arch Chapter was then opened, Comps. Wheeler acting as H., and J. Duthie, Z. 87, as J., when Bro. George Gurabey was entrusted with the secrets of Most Excellent Master, and then exalted to the Arch Degree. All the ceremonies were worked with that care and precision that characterises Bro. Comp. Crabb. Comp. A. Smith, Treas., then proposed that in consequence of the continued absence of the Scribe E., E. Lentite be appointed to that office; this was unanimously agreed to and the Chapter was closed in harmony.

GLASGOW.—Thistle and Rose Lodge (No. 73).—The brethren of this lodge met on April 15, in their Hall, Buchanan-street, Bro. G. Macdonald R.W.M.; W. Donaldson, S.W.; A. MacLeod, S.W.; J. Harbridge, Sec.; W. Walton, T. There were several visitors, including Bros. Camner of Milford, and J. Smith, of Lodge 473, Nottingham. The work comprised the initiation of Mr. Wm. Bissett, which at the request of the R.W.M., was performed by Bro. W. B. Pattison, P.M. At the close of the ceremony the R.W.M. read a circular sent by the R.W.M. of No. 48, commenting on the evils of the Proxy System as existing in the Grand Lodge of Scotland, which he supplemented by giving instances that had come within his own knowledge. Bro. G. W. Wheeler, then moved and Bro. MacSkie, D.M., seconded "that our Worshipful Master and Wardens be requested to attend the next quarterly communication, and support a motion for the abolition of the system of proxy," Bro. Stewart, P.M.; Walton, T.; and Amphord, having supported the motion, it was carried unanimously. It was stated that most of the lodges in the West of Scotland are moving in the same direction to put an end to this crying evil.

GLASGOW.—Thetis Chapter (No. 122).—The companions of this chapter were favoured with a visit from the Provincial Grand Chapter, on the 31st of March. The chapter was opened by Comp. T. O. Park, M.E.Z., Comps. J. Scott and J. Doamen acting as H. and J. The deputation was then ushered into the chapter, and received with due honours. The Provincial Chapter was represented by Comps. F. A. Burrows, Provincial Grand Superintendent; A. A. Smith, P.G.H.; A. M. Tagger, P.G.S.E.; J. Crabb, P.G.S.N.; T. Halkett, T. The P.G. Scribe E. then reported that he had carefully examined the books of the chapter, and was very glad to be able to report that they had been kept with perfect accuracy. The P.G.Z. said, it gave him great pleasure to have to give a report, and also to be able himself to bear testimony to the efficient working of this the greatest chapter in the province. He was sure that many of greater age and pretensions might be proud to have such officers and show such work. Compensation Park acknowledged the compliment paid the chapter in suitable terms. The companions then adjourned for refreshments, when all departed well pleased with the visit of the Provincial Grand Officers.

Obituary.

BRO. WESTMACOTT.

On Tuesday, 15th inst., the remains of the late Brother Westmacott were interred with Masonic honours, he being (except Bro. Sir Daniel Gooch, Bart., M.P., and Bro. W. F. Gooch), the oldest member of the Loyal Sussex Lodge of Emulation, 355, at Swindon. The brethren of the Loyal Sussex Lodge, in full masonic craft costume, with badges and emblems covered with crape, assembled at the Lodge Room, at the Goddard Arms Hotel, under the presidency of the Worshipful Master, Bro. John Toomer, for the purpose of going through the preliminary ceremonies in accordance with the rules of the craft. They then formed in procession, and marched to the residence of the deceased brother, where they joined the funeral cortege, proceeding to the churchyard in the following manner:—Tyler (Bro. John Savory); Director of Ceremonies (Bro. William Read, P.M.); brethren of the Gooch Lodge, two and two, juniors preceding; members of the Devizes Lodge, followed by members of the deceased's lodge (the Loyal Sussex Lodge of Emulation), two and two, juniors preceding; next came Bro. T. Hatt, I.G., Bro. Liddiard, J.D., Bro. Affleck, S.D., and Bro. Birch, P.M., J.W. (pro tem); Bro. T. G. Coale, S.W., Bro. H. C. Tombs, I.P.M., carrying a volume of the sacred law, with emblems supported on black velvet cushions; the Worshipful Master, Bro. John Toomer; Bro. Maclean, medical attendant of the deceased, and the Rev. H. G. Baily, Vicar of Swindon. Then came the body, the pall being borne by six Past Masters of the Lodge, viz.: Bros. H. Kinneir, R. S. Edmonds, R. Bradford, R. Tarrant, J. Goodwin, and R. J. Braid. Immediately behind the pall-bearers were two Tylers with drawn swords (Bro. W. Baker and Bro. G. M. Osmond). Then came the mourners and relatives, the rear being brought up by a large number of the deceased's fellow-townsmen and neighbours, by whom he was universally respected, a fact which received confirmation, if it were needed, by the circumstance that along the route to the churchyard, shutters were up and blinds drawn. The mournful ceremony having ended, the funeral cortege returned to the residence of the deceased, where the Freemasons left, and returned in procession to their lodge room, where the W.M. dismissed them.

Masonic Tidings.

NORWICH.—The unseemly dissension in the ranks of our brethren in this city has been healed for a time. Bro. Marshal is censured, and is to apologise for ordering Bro. Gore from Lodge Social (what a misnomer), during the working, he having been specially invited by Bro. Loftus, but the commission of inquiry, appointed by the Dep. Prov. G.M., actually blamed Bro. Gore for attending the lodge, and make charges against him which he is determined to refute before a higher tribunal. Much ill-feeling has been engendered in the city with regard to this matter, but we trust peace and harmony will shortly prevail.

Bro. William Ramsey, of 83 and 84, Farringdon-street, and Brixton, has joined the directorate of the Surrey Masonic Hall Co. (Limited).

"After suffering many years from indigestion and biliousness, for which I could find no remedy, I was at length induced by a friend to try your Vegetable Pain Killer for it, and the first bottle I used of it gave me entire and permanent relief.—J. L. HAYLOCK, Manchester, July 15, 1867.—To Perry Davis & Son, London, W.C."

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Many persons are apt to regard the Winter past, when a few bright days enliven them; and some are rash enough at once to change warm for lighter clothing; much risk attends their imprudence, though the inevitable ill-health resulting from it can be readily set right by recourse to these purifying and corrective pills—invaluable to the sickly at all times and doubly useful at this season, when they cast out the impurities of Winter and fortify the system against the sudden variations and frequent epidemics attending Spring. Holloway's Medicine relaxes the skin, permits free transpiration through its pores and thus rids it of the irritation and harshness which increasing temperatures make annoying to the Nervous and Sensitive.—ADVT.

THE ST. CLAIR CHARTERS (PAGE 218).

I feel it necessary to reply to the statements made by Bro. D. M. Lyon in page 218 of The Freemason, concerning the copies of the St. Clair Charters which I sent nearly a year ago, and appeared in The Freemason of June 8th, 1872. He says, that "minus the copyists' or printers' errors which they contain" they appeared to him at the time, to be "a literal transcript of the copies from the originals" made by himself and published by him two years ago, and he seems to think this good ground of a grave charge against me, in making which he certainly uses very strong language; for he says, I should not "have appropriated 'his' work" in any case, without the courtesy of acknowledgement. When Bro. D. M. Lyon makes any real contribution to our knowledge of Masonic antiquities, I shall be prompt to acknowledge it, and to give him all due credit for it; but I am not aware of anything of this kind which he has yet done. Certainly in the present case he has done nothing to boast of. He does not seem to be aware that any copies of these charters were ever published before his transcript of what he calls "the originals" in the possession of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, which he published two years ago." But the fact is, that, copies of them were published so long ago as 1835, in a work entitled "Genealogies of the Saint Clairs of Rosslyn" by Father Richard Augustin Hay. This work was published in Edinburgh, by Stevenson, the well known antiquarian bookseller and publisher. Bro. D. M. Lyon will find the Charters there at pp. 159 to 163, in good plain type. They will be found also in pp. 435 to 440 of "The History of Freemasonry, and the Grand Lodge of Scotland", by the late Bro. William Laurie, Secretary to the Grand Lodge of Scotland, a work with which I can hardly suppose Bro. D. M. Lyon to be unacquainted, although it may be that amidst all his researches, Father Hay's "Genealogies of the St. Clairs of Rosslyn" may have escaped his observation. Being well acquainted with both these books, I saw no need of acknowledging Bro. Lyon's transcription of "the originals" as any service done to the brotherhood.

Bro. D. M. Lyon takes it upon him to assert that I was ignorant of "the existence of the original charters" till he informed me of the fact through the Freemason. He ought to be a little more cautious in his assertions. It is not very safe for a man who desires always to say what is true, and nothing but what is true, to assert in the most unqualified manner what he does not know, and cannot know, to be true. Nor is it right, and in the present case what Bro. Lyon asserts is the very opposite of the truth. Of the existence of what he calls the original charters, in the possession of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, I was well aware before he ever published any thing about them in the Freemason, or otherwise, and I suppose long before he ever saw or heard of them. Many years ago they were shown to me by a brother Mason who had borrowed them from the late Bro. Professor Aytoun for the purpose of having a lithographed fac-simile of them made, of which he thought to endeavour to get each of the lodges holding of the Grand Lodge of Scotland to purchase a copy. I said to him that I did not believe them to be the principal charters, as these would most probably be written on parchment, but merely drafts from which these would afterwards be extended; and in consequence of this he gave up the idea of having them lithographed. I am still of the same opinion. The charters in possession of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, which are written on paper, are no doubt genuine. They may even be called, in a certain sense, the originals; as from them the charters intended for preservation and reference would be extended; but if these could be found they would be of higher authority. It would be interesting to compare them with each other, and perhaps this may yet be possible. I would not be much surprised if the charters fairly engrossed on parchment, or vellum, were yet to be found in the Earl of Rosslyn's charter chest. Meanwhile, the copies in the Hay MSS., in the Advocates' Library, may probably be assumed as representing the charters in their perfect and final form. The differences between them and the drafts—as I take them to be—in possession of the Grand Lodge, would thus be easily accounted for, excepting, perhaps, in the matter of abbreviations, which Father Hay may readily be supposed to have made for himself in transcribing. The greater the discrepancy between his MSS. and the Grand Lodge charters, the greater would the probability appear to be that he did not copy from them, but from the charters as finally extended for preservation, and to which in preparing his Genealogy of the Saint Clairs of Rosslyn, he may be very probably supposed to have access.

That the Grand Lodge Charters are drafts, I think very certain. All who are acquainted with the subject of deeds, whether contract or charter, where the interests of two parties are concerned, know that these documents are not prepared easily, or, at once, as it were "off the reel." A certain procedure is necessary: first, one of the parties drafts the deed, and sends it to the other for revision. Perhaps several revisions, and by both parties, take place, till both are satisfied with the terms. This draft, thus finally determined upon, is signed by both parties, and is sent to be engrossed. Having been engrossed, the principal, in contradistinction to the draft deed, is signed with the usual formalities which constitute it de facto the deed. Important documents, such as sasines and the like, are always extended on vellum or parchment; but in former years every deed which required to be preserved was written on the same substance. However, in absence, or in the loss of the principal deed, the draft takes its place; and even in questions raised concerning the terms used in the principal, reference is made to the draft for their elucidation. It would be very improbable, even in a charter of recent date, that a copy on paper was the principal one—the charter properly so-called; but much more so as to a charter of the seventeenth century.

I hope to have the opportunity ere long of carefully comparing the Hay MS. copies with the Grand Lodge Charters, and if anything of real interest is thus brought to view I will not be long in communicating it to the readers of the Freemason if place can be found for it in its columns.

I shall not imitate Bro. D. M. Lyon in the use of reproachful language, nor bring against him railing accusations of ignorance, or any other thing such as he has ventured to bring against me. I leave the readers of the Freemason, and I leave himself to judge whether his conduct in so doing is Masonic and becoming. In sending copies of the St. Clair Charters to the Freemason for publication, thinking them well worthy of being laid before its readers, in the historical sketch which I gave of the Saint Clairs of Rosslyn, I preferred to send printed copies rather than to take trouble of transcribing them, and I do not hesitate to say I cut them out of the Freemason, instead of cutting them, as I might have done, out of a valuable book. If, therefore, there were in them errors of the copyist as he hints, he will know whose errors they were.

It is thirty-eight years since the St. Clair Charters were published, consequently there can be nothing new presented to the Brotherhood by D. M. Lyon.

CHALMERS I. PATON.

HEREDITARY GRAND MASTER OF SCOTLAND.
We omitted to state that this interesting article by Bro. W. J. Hughan, P.M., on the above subject, was reprinted from the "Masonic News" published in Glasgow.

PROV. G. LODGE OF CORNWALL.

I thank Bro. H. for his well-meant criticism of the last meeting of the above Prov. G. L., and feel glad he has called attention to it in a most fraternal and able manner. I am bound to admit the correctness of most of his statements, and trust that his letters will lead to an authoritative decision on the subject. The points which are open to consideration, and explanation, appear to me to be the validity of the Patent held by the D. P. Prov. G.M. and secondly as the Prov. G.M. designate, did not attend the Prov. G.L., his Lordship cannot be said to have held it. I have every respect for our new Prov. G.M., but, like Bro. H., am anxious to have the matter in dispute finally settled, and feel certain that his Lordship will be one of the first to desire the fullest enquiry.—W. J. HUGHAN.

CONSECRATION OF THE DYKES CONCLAVE, RED CROSS OF CONSTANTINE.

On Tuesday, the 15th inst., this conclave was inaugurated at the Masonic Rooms, Cocker-mouth, under the auspices of the Intendant General of the Division, Ill. Sir Knt. Edward Busher, P.G.S.G., who was assisted by Ill. Sir Knts. J. Whitwell, M.P., G. Chamberlain; R. Wentworth Little, G. Treas.; H. C. Levander M.A., G.H.A.; Jesse Banning, H.P., 77; H. Rauthmell, 20; John Pearson, Richard Robinson, Dr. William Jones, William Taylor, and Thomas F. Taylor. The ceremony of inauguration was performed with great effect, Sir Knt. Dr. Jones officiating as Grand Organist. The following brethren were then installed as Knights of the Order, John R. Tickle, P.M., 371; Wm. Armstrong, P.M., 371; John Lawson, W.M., 371; W. H. Tickle, S.W., 371; James Gardiner, J.W., 371; George M. Tickle, Sec., 371; Thos. Moore, S.D., 371; Quintin Moore, J.D., 371; Robert Brown, D.C., 371; Thos. Manley, P.S.W., 371; David Tillington, Joseph Abbott, David Bell, Joseph Carter, Henry H. Melmore, and Jonathan R. Banks, of 371; Jas. Porter Prov. S.G.D., P.M., 327; Geo. Shannon, W.M., 327; George Carrick, J.W., 327; Edward Fearon P.M., 119; Crowther Morton, P.M., 872; Edward Ablett, S.D., 872; Dr. Emmerson Henry, John L. Paitson, Isaac Harkness, John Mills, J.W., 1390; John Wood, P.M., 1073; Wm. F. Lamsonby, J.G., 1002; Henry Moncrieff, 1002; Dr. Henry Dodgson, P.M., 1002; Rev. H. L. Puxley, Prov. G.C., P.M., 1002; Robert Bailey P.G.W., 1002; Edward Tyson, and Wm. Potts.

The grade of Ensebius was conferred on Sir Knts. Henry Rauthmell, 20; Jesse Banning, H.P., 77; Thomas F. Taylor, John Wood, Rev. H. L. Puxley, C. Morton, H. Dodgson, J. R. Tickell, J. Porter, and G. Carrick; and that of Sovereign upon Sir Knts. R. Robinson, Rauthmell, Wood, Taylor, Puxley, C. Morton, Dodgson, Tickell, and Porter.

Sir Knt. R. Robinson was duly enthroned as the first M.P.S. of the conclave, vice Iredale, whose health would not admit of his holding the office; and Sir Knt. Pearson was inducted into the chair of E. The appointment of officers was deferred until the next assembly, and the conclave was then closed, the knights having to attend a meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cumberland and Westmoreland, at the Town Hall, shortly after the conclave.

It was intimated that Sir Knt. Col. Whitwell, M.P., the Deputy Provincial Grand Master would accept the post of Intendant General for Cumberland, and Westmoreland, in the room of Sir Knt. Busher, who desires to retire in his favour.

The furniture and appointments of the new conclave were very splendid, and the whole arrangements reflected great credit upon all concerned.

STANDARD OF CHARITY.—Men measure their charities by a peculiar standard. A man who has but a dollar in his pocket would give a penny for almost any purpose. If he had a hundred dollars he might give one. Carry it higher and there comes a falling off. One hundred would be considered too large a sum for him who has ten thousand, while a present of one thousand would be deemed miraculous from a man worth one hundred thousand, yet the proposition is the same throughout, and the poor man's penny, the widow's mite, is more than the rich man's high-sounding and widely-trumpeted benefaction.

NOTES ON THE UNITED ORDERS OF THE TEMPLE AND HOSPITAL.

BY W. BRO. EMRA HOLMES, P.M., &c.

RE CRAFT MASONRY.

A lecture was delivered before the members of the Prudence Encampment of Knights Templar, Ipswich, on the 31st of July, 1872, and subsequently, in an extended form, was published in the Freemason. I had intended to write a few pages respecting Bro. Holmes's lecture, but as the Editor has closed the friendly discussion, so far as Knights Templar are concerned, I shall simply confine my remarks to the subject as it affects Craft Masonry. By the prefix "Masonic" being eliminated from the "Orders of the Temple and Hospital" (so warmly supported by Bro. Holmes), it appears to me that their only claim for recognition has been removed; and certainly if it is agreed that the "Orders of the Temple and Hospital" shall be no longer Masonic, but chivalric in character, such a body has legally no right to administer oaths of secrecy to its candidates for membership, seeing it is not a Masonic organisation, and consequently not empowered to require such an O.B. as comes under the denomination of an oath. The present Order of the Temple, if it is not Masonic, is a sham and delusion; for as it cannot be proved to be the legitimate descendant of the ancient order of that name, and the members discard their Masonic relationship, thereby being neither a chivalric order, nor a Masonic body, clearly the United Orders of the Temple and the Hospital, about which we have heard so much lately, are fanciful creations of a few Brethren who have managed to put the extinguisher on a society formerly connected with, and flourishing under the wing of, Freemasonry. It is easy enough to prove that the Masonic Knights Templar have been in existence about one hundred years; and on the ground of their age, and the distinguished roll of craftsmen who have adorned their ranks, many, who care little for show or grandeur, would be ready to acknowledge such a body as being Masonic by adoption, and entitled to a liberal support by Freemasons, especially if they are everywhere conducted as in the United States. To cut away the prefix "Masonic," however, actually removes the only ground they can possibly have for their continuance or existence. The remarks of "Civis," in the Freemason of 22nd February, are much to the point, and worth a reperusal by all those interested in the enquiry. We are persuaded that, rather than act a lie by claiming to be the lineal descendants of the original Knights Templar, many "Sir Knights" will leave the ranks! Whatever our Bro. Holmes may say about the ancient Lodge of Aberdeen, and its connection with the Knights Templar, there is nothing in the minutes to confirm his position; and for the future it would be wise for contributors to the Freemason to refrain from claiming ancient Craft Masonry either in Scotland or elsewhere, to be in any way the supporters of Masonic Knights Templar prior to the last century. On this point, the words of our friend the "Masonic Student" should be carefully noted. Many of the readers of the Freemason will, no doubt, in common with numbers, be glad to know what is meant by the statement that "our learned Bro. Dr. H. B. Leeson is the last surviving member of the Order of Harodim." Our lamented Bro. was alive when that sentence was written, and during his eventful Masonic career we have often seen similar statements made respecting his connection with that order. Dr. Leeson was not a York Mason, neither was he a member of the Ancient and Accepted Rite originally, but received his degrees of 18°, &c. under the wing of Knights Templar. As to the Royal Order having documents "upwards of 300 years old," we shall be glad to see or know of any even of fifty years later date. Then we are told that St. John's Lodge, No. 3, has a charter from William the Lion, "which is indisputable—date 1174." Would Bro. Holmes kindly tell us what the St. John's Lodge has to do with this charter? I believe the correct date is about 1190, but cannot discover any proof of that Lodge having a claim to be of that date, or in any way to be considered in existence as a Lodge in the 12th century. When did the St. John's Lodge possess the charter? It is not in existence now, and nothing has yet been submitted to identify this Lodge with such a document. The sill and one of the windows in Glasgow Cathedral has also been mentioned as of curious import, and containing the "square and compass engraved, the All-seeing Eye above, the sun, moon, and stars, and a finger pointing to the three steps." Bro. W. P. Buchan has kindly sent us a sketch of these emblems, and we find the sun absent from the design; the ladder has five steps; and the finger actually points away from the latter! The Grand Lodge of all England never recognised the Masonic Knights Templar until the eighth decade of the last century, and soon after that organisation expired; so that it does not appear to have profited much by the relationship. I had intended saying more respecting Bro. Holmes's interesting lecture; but, on consideration, I am of opinion that if the dropping of the prefix "Masonic" is persisted in, the "United Orders of the Temple and Hospital" have nothing in common with Freemasonry, and therefore are unsuitable for discussion in these pages. In conclusion, as Bro. "Masonic Student" has already ably stated, "We cannot admit that the Masonic Knights Templar have anything historically or lineally to do with the famous soldiers of the Temple;" consequently if they disconnect themselves from the Craft, they cease to be either Masonic or chivalric.

W. J. HUGHAN.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF CUMBERLAND AND WESTMORELAND.

The members of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cumberland and Westmoreland held their preparatory, or business meeting, at Cockermouth, on Tuesday, 15th inst., under the presidency (in the unavoidable absence of the Right Hon. the Earl of Bective, M.P., Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master of Cumberland and Westmoreland) of the Right Worshipful the Deputy Provincial Grand Master Bro. Whitwell, M.P. (Kendal), and P.G.S.W. of England.

The Provincial Lodge was opened in the Court-house at one p.m., the Right Worshipful D.P.G. Master being accompanied on to the dais by Bro. Lemon, P.G. Treas. Acting D.P.G.M., Bros. the Rev. H. Puxley, William Rutherford, P.P.G. Chaplains; Bros. Wentworth, Little, Middlesex, Levander, Wilts, Gibson, Barr, Whitehaven, Rauthmell, Kendal, and others.

The following Past and present Provincial Grand Officers were present, and recorded their names in the signature book:—E. W. Henry, P.M. 119, P.J.G.W.; E. Busher, P.G.S.B., England, P.G. Sec.; A. Mott, 1390, P.S.G.W.; E. Fearon, P.M. 119, P.G.D.C.; R. Robinson, P.M. 1002, P.P.S.G.D.; G. G. Hayward, P.M. 310, P.P.G.S.B.; J. Barr, P.M. 119, P.P.G.S.B.; P. Quin, P.M. 119, P.P.G.S.W.; W. Alsop, Sec. 119, P.P.G.S.; G. Brooker, P.M. 962, P.G.P.; J. Cooper, Org. 112, P.P.G.O.; W. Court, W.M. 310, P.P.G.P.; H. Rauthmell, W.M. 129, P.P.G.D.C.; R. Dodgson, W.M. 1390, P.G.S.B.; G. Carrick, J.W. 327, P.G.S.; C. Morton, P.M. 872, P.P.S.G.W.; H. L. Puxley, P.M. 1002, P.P.G.C.; J. Porter, P.M. 327, P.G.S.D.; G. Shannon, W.M. 327, P.G.S.; R. Wentworth Little, P.G. Sec., Middlesex; and H. C. Levander, P.M., P.G.S.D. Wilts.

The Provincial Grand Lodge having been duly opened, the Provincial Lodge meeting was recommended to be held at Whitehaven, subject to the approval of the Right Worshipful P.G. Master. The usual charitable votes were then passed, after which the lodge closed, and the brethren adjourned to the Globe Hotel, to dinner. The chair was taken by Bro. Whitwell, M.P., and the vice-chair by Bro. Busher, but prior to the cloth being removed, these brethren together with Bros. Mott, Little, and Rauthmell, had to retire, having to leave by train. Thereupon Bro. Lemon was unanimously elected to the chair, and Bro. Gibson to the vice-chair. The Chairman in eulogistic terms, proposed "The health of the Queen, the Prince of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family." Song, "God bless the Prince of Wales," by Bro. Porter. The Chairman in succession proposed, "The health of the Grand Master of England, the Marquis of Ripon," "The Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers," and remarked that the province ought to be justly proud of having had that day amongst them two Past Grand Officers of England—viz., Bro. Whitwell, and Bro. Busher. The Chairman next proposed "The health of the Provincial Grand Master, the Earl of Bective." He (the chairman) much regretted that the noble Lord their Masonic Master, was not able to be present with them on that occasion, as he knew from experience, from the many acts of kindness which he had personally received from his Lordship, as well as from the great interest which the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master had always taken in the Masonic charities, and the liberal way in which he had supported the same, that he had Freemasonry at heart. He had great pleasure in proposing "his Lordship's health." The toast was drank with full Masonic honours. Bro. F. W. Wicks (Chaplain of Lodge 119, Whitehaven), in a neat and appropriate speech, proposed "The health of the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Whitwell, M.P., and the rest of the P.G. Officers," coupling the toast with the name of Bro. Henry, P.M. 119, and P.G. J. W., who responded. The Chairman then proposed "Success to Skiddaw Lodge, 1002, Cocker-mouth," which, in the unexplained absence of the W.M., and Wardens, was responded to by Bro. Dr. Dodgson, P.M. The Chairman next proposed the health of "The Visitors," some of whom had come from a considerable distance to assist at that meeting, and he for one felt, and he was convinced that that feeling would be reciprocated by every brother present—that to Bro. Little and Bro. Levander, every praise was due for their zeal in Masonry. The toast was received enthusiastically and with all Masonic honours.

Several other toasts followed, and the meeting broke up shortly after six p.m.

PROVINCIAL GRAND CHAPTER OF EAST LANCASHIRE.

The annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons for the Eastern Division of the county of Lancaster, was held on Wednesday, the 9th inst., in the Freemasons' Hall, Church Institute, Bolton. There was a numerous attendance of companions from all parts of the province, amongst those present being Col. Le Gendre N. Starkie, M.E. Prov. G. Superintendent; J. L. Hine, Second Prov. G. Principal; John Tunnah, Prov. G. Scribe, E.; William Roberts, Prov. G. Principal Sojourner; William Ashworth, First Asst. Prov. G. Sojourner; John Higinbottom, Prov. G. Registrar; Herod Turner, Prov. G. Standard Bearer; Wm. Abbey, Prov. G. Director of Ceremonies; Thos. Law, Prov. G. Organist; Henry Maiden, P. Prov. G. Principal Sojourner; John Smith, Prov. G. Sword Bearer; C. M. Jones, P. Prov. G. Standard Bearer; and representatives from 28 of the 35 R. A. Chapters in the province. The Chapter having been opened, the usual business of the province was proceeded with. The M.E. Prov. G. Superintendent appointed the following companions as Prov. G. Officers for the ensuing year, viz.:—J. L. Hine, Prov. G. Second Principal; J. A. Birch, Prov. G. Third Principal; John Tunnah, Prov. G. Scribe E.; Thos. Entwistle, Prov. G. Scribe N.; Isaac W. Petty, Prov. G.

Principal Sojourner; James Hall, Prov. G. First Assistant Sojourner; Charles Sutcliffe, Prov. G. Second Assistant Sojourner; Richard Hankinson, Prov. G. Registrar; Ellis Jones, Prov. G. Sword Bearer; Robt. Harwood, Prov. G. Standard Bearer; Robt. Whittaker, Prov. G. Director of Ceremonies; H. T. Robberds, Prov. G. Organist; T. H. Winder, J. W. Taylor, Jas. Newton, Prov. G. Stewards; Wm. Dawson, Prov. G. Janitor. The Treasurer's accounts for the past year were unanimously confirmed, and Comp. G. P. Brockbank was unanimously elected Prov. G. Treas. A beautifully ornamented sword was presented to the Prov. G. Chapter on behalf of Comp. Jas. Holroyd, P. Prov. G. Sword Bearer, and the thanks of the Prov. G. Chapter were ordered to be conveyed to him for his handsome present. Comp. J. W. Taylor and Herod Turner were appointed to audit the Prov. G. Treasurer's accounts for the ensuing year. A grant of £5 5s. was made to the East Lancashire Systematic Masonic Benevolent Fund. All business being concluded the chapter was closed, and the companions adjourned to the banquet which was celebrated in the Banqueting Hall at the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway Station. The proprietor (Mr. Restron) had evidently determined that nothing should be wanting to ensure the comfort of his guests. An ample bill of fare comprised all that could be desired by the most fastidious, whilst the decorations and appointments of the table, consisting of gold and silver epergnes, adorned with choice flowers, cornucopias loaded with fruit; also sea-horses, dolphins, dragons, &c., attracted universal admiration. The M.E. Prov. G. Superintendent (Colonel Starkie) presided, supported by the Prov. G. Officers and a numerous assemblage of R.A. Masons. After the cloth was drawn the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and received with enthusiasm, the proceedings of the evening being enlivened by a glee party consisting of Messrs. Edmondson, W. Dumville, N. Dumville, and Lister, Comp. H. T. Robberds, Prov. G. Org., presiding at the pianoforte.

PROVINCIAL GRAND CHAPTER OF WEST LANCASHIRE.

On Wednesday afternoon, the 15th inst., the Provincial Grand Chapter for the Western Division of the County of Lancaster, held a meeting at the Town Hall, Preston, for the purpose of installing the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale as Provincial Grand Superintendent. Representatives were present from London, Liverpool, Manchester, Wigan, Ormskirk, Southport, Blackpool; amongst the most prominent being:—Companions H. S. Alpass, G.S.E.; T. Wylie, P.G.R.; J. Skeaf, P.G.O.; R. Wentworth Little, P.G.S.E., Middlesex, P.Z. 177, 975, 1194, &c., Secretary of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, London; H. C. Levander, P.Z., H. 720, &c., London; R. Radcliff, P.Z. 345; W. Laidlaw, P. 1st. A.S.; C. Hill, J. 241; H. W. Johnston, P.Z. 113; J. W. Turley, S.E. 241; J. M. Johnston, P.Z. 292; D. Jones, P.Z. 216; C. Sherlock, P.Z. 32; P. Armstrong, S.E. 1086; S. Johnston, M.E. 3220; W. Doyle, J. 249; T. Clark, P.Z. 673; P. M. Larsen, P.Z. 220; A. H. Whitehead, H. 113; E. Kyle, S.E. 673; T. Nevett, J. 113, S.E. 703; J. Pemberton, L. 1094; A. Green, N. 113; J. Worsley, 113; J. Scott, 220; W. Jones, P.Z. 249; J. Hoeken, P.Z. 220, Z. 673; J. T. Callow, J. 673; H. Burrows, S.N. 673; T. Armstrong, T.P.P.S.; T. Taylor, S.P. 462; T. Walmsley, F.P.; J. Baron, T.P.; R. Stevenson, P.Z. 148; T. Serjeant, J. 220; C. Harwell, 216; J. Wood, Treas. 249; J. Hamer, P.G.T.; C. Hill, Z. 580; J. Platt, P.Z. 613; J. Baxendale, P.G.A.S.; R. Pearson, P.Z. 220; M. de Frece, 216; J. R. Gærpel, P.Z. 86; J. W. J. Fowler, P.P.G.S.; R. Landless, H. 703; T. Jackson, 333; J. D. Moore, G.S.B. Eng.; G. de la Perelle, J. 680; B. W. Rowson, P.P.G.P.S.; O. G. Sharpler, P.M. 703; R. Pearson, J. 995; J. W. Baker, P.Z. 241; J. Case, O.T. 995; T. Emitt, 333; W. Smith, H. 314; T. Birchall, P.P.G.H.; P. Ball, P.G.J. 249; L. L. Rowbottom, P.P.S.N. 178; W. Clark, P.S. 333.

After the lodge had been duly opened, and some formal business had been transacted, the warrant: was read from the Grand Chapter of England appointing Comp. the Right Hon. the Earl of Skelmersdale the P.G.S. for West Lancashire in place of the late Sir Thomas Fermor-Hesketh, Bart., M.P.; and after his lordship had been installed with the usual ceremonial, he appointed the following as his officers:—Comps. E. Sherlock, M.E.H.; W. H. Johnston, M.E.J.; Alpass, Scribe E.; Major Wilson, Scribe N.; Platt, Prin. Soj.; D. H. Finney, 1st Assist. Soj.; Peter M. Larsen, 2nd Assist. Soj.; Hamer, Treas.; T. Wylie, Reg.; J. Mercer Johnson, S.B.; J. W. Baker, St. B.; H. Jones, D.; Skeaf, O.; and Landless, St.

The Prov. Grand Chapter unanimously voted the sum of £10 to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, London; and ten guineas towards procuring the election of Comp. Gilpin to the Institution for aged Freemasons.

After the business, the companions dined at the Bull Hotel under the presidency of Lord Skelmersdale, who subsequently proposed "The Queen;" "The Prince and Princess of Wales;" and "The Three Principals of the Order, the Marquis of Ripon, the Earl of Carnarvon, and Lord de Tabley;" the last toast being acknowledged by Comp. Dr. Moore. "The P.G. Supt.," proposed by Comp. Wylie, was responded to in happy terms by Lord Skelmersdale. "The P.G. Officers" was given by Comp. Birchall; and the "Chiefs of the P.G. Chapter" by Comp. Sherlock. After Lord Skelmersdale had left, Comp. Alpass, Prov. G.S.E., proposed "The Masonic Charities," of which there was an efficient advocate in Comp. R. Wentworth Little, Secretary to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls. That distinguished companion, in responding, reminded the members present of the approaching festival of the institution with which he was connected, and trusted that as Lord Skelmersdale had kindly consented to preside on that occasion, he would be well supported by other representatives of chapters in the province. Colonel Birchall proposed "The Health of the Provincial Grand Secretary, Comp. Alpass," calling attention to the special difficulties with which he was surrounded, and the zealous manner in which his duties were ever performed. Comp. Alpass in reply was much pleased at learning that his efforts in the cause of Freemasonry had been so much approved by the proposer, and those present, and although he found those duties increasing in a very material degree, he hoped still to be able to perform them to the satisfaction of the province.

The evening's entertainment was much enlivened by excellent music, discoursed by Messrs. Skeaf, Armstrong, D. Jones, E. Jones, and others, and a great deal of the success of the day's proceedings must be attributed to the efforts of that indefatigable member of the Masonic fraternity, Comp. H. W. Johnston, Prov. G.J.

CONSECRATION OF A NEW MARK LODGE IN LIVERPOOL.

The Walton Mark Lodge, No. 161, E.C., was consecrated with the usual ceremonial at the Masonic Hall, Kirkdale, Liverpool, on the 31st ult., and as the greatest clat marked the day's proceedings there seems every likelihood that the youngest assembly of Mark Masters will quickly gather strength and influence.

As a preliminary to the consecration ceremonial a meeting of the lodge was held under dispensation on the 28th February last, when six candidates were proposed for advancement and one for joining. Three of the proposed being then in attendance were advanced to the degree of Mark Masters by Bro. Ashmore, W.M. 65.

The Prov. G.M.M., Bro. W. Romaine Callender, having named the 31st of March as the day for consecration, the necessary arrangements for the performance of the ceremonial were perfected without delay. A meeting was held immediately before the consecration for the purpose of advancing Bro. the Rev. C. R. Hyde, J.L.D. Cantab, who had been previously elected, and the ballot was also taken for three joining members, who were also elected.

The Prov. G.M.M., accompanied by nearly all his P.G. officers, entered the lodge room and were saluted according to their rank. Amongst those present were Bros. W. Romaine Callender, Prov. G.M.M., Lancashire; Geo. Mellor, Prov. G.G.W.; Jno. Duffield, Prov. G. Treas.; Jno. Chadwick, Prov. G. Sec.; T. J. Lancashire, Prov. J.O.; W. G. Alpass, Prov. M.O.; W. O. Walker, P. Prov. G.M.O.; Thos. Morris, Prov. G. Sword Bearer; Jno. Brandwood, Prov. G. Standard Bearer; W. H. Prince, P. Prov. S.G.D.; J. Hamer, Past G.M.O. and Prov. G.M.O.; W. J. Lunt, Past G.S. of Works; J. Kellet Smith, Grand Sword Bearer; Chas. Leedham, Past G. Steward; Thomas Ashmore, W.M. 65; W. Shortis, M.O. 65; C. H. Hill, R.O.F.M. 65; John Heyes, S. 65; J. Sillitoe, Joppa Lodge 11; J. C. Lunt, W.M. Designate; Thos. Chesworth, S.W. Designate; Robt. Cain, J.W. Designate; Jesse Banning, P. Armstrong, Wm. Divelly, Rev. Dr. Hyde, G. E. Hanmer, Wm. G. Barker, H. Jackson, and others.

Bro. J. C. Lunt, W.M. designate, explained the reason why a warrant for the new lodge had been applied for, and pointed out the advantages which it was hoped would accrue therefrom to Mark Masonry.

Bro. Chadwick, P.G. Sec., then read the warrant, and the members expressed their approval of the officers named therein.

The R.W.P.G.M.M. then proceeded to consecrate and dedicate the Walton Mark Lodge No. 161, E.C., according to ancient usage and custom.

Bro. J. K. Smith, Grand S.B., then presented Bro. J. C. Lunt to the R.W.P.G.M.M. for the benefit of installation as the first W.M. of the new lodge. A board of installed Masters was declared open, when Bro. Lunt was regularly installed, and on the readmission of the brethren they saluted him with the honours due to his rank.

The W.M. afterwards invested the following brethren as his offices:—Bro. W. J. Lunt, P.M., Past Grand S. of W., J.P.M.; Thos. Chesworth, S.W.; R. Cain, J.W.; T. Ashmore, W.M. 65, M.O.; J. Banning, S.O.; R. Brown, J.O.; Rev. Dr. Hyde, Chaplain; R. Armstrong (elected unanimously) Treas.; W. S. Barker, Sec.; G. E. Hanmer, S.D.; Wm. Dwelly, I.G.; Geo. Ladmore (unanimously elected) Tyler; the rest of the offices remaining open until the next meeting.

The W.M. afterwards proposed that the heartiest thanks of the lodge should be given to the R.W.P.G.M.M. and his officers for their presence and assistance on that occasion, and further that the vote should be recorded on the minutes. This motion was seconded by Bro. Banning, S.O., and carried unanimously.

The P.G.M.M., in returning thanks for the honour, said it gave him great pleasure to be present on that occasion.

The duties of Chaplain were very efficiently performed by Bro. Dr. Hyde in the absence of Bro. the Rev. J. L. Figgins, M.A., P.G.C., who was prevented by illness from being present.

At the banquet which followed, the W.M. gave the usual loyal toasts, which were followed by that of Bro. the Rev. G. R. Portal, M.A., G.M.M. of England, with his deputy the Earl Percy, G.M.M. Elect, and the rest of the Grand Officers.

The W.M. proposed the "R.W.P.G.M.M.," and said:—In our present Prov. G.M. we have an excellent and worthy Mason who is ever ready to sacrifice time and convenience to show his appreciation of Masonry, and who, since his appointment, has done very much for Mark Masonry. We have to thank him for his presence here to-day, and for the admirable manner in which he has consecrated the Lodge. I am sure you will show by your hearty response how much you appreciate his kindness, and let us hope that at some future date he will favour us with his presence to witness the working, &c., of the Lodge.

The P.G.M. was warmly received, and replied at great length, referring to Mark Masonry, and to the very great pleasure it had given him to be present to consecrate the Lodge in such an important town as Liverpool, where Masonry was making such rapid progress.

The Prov. G.M. asked permission to propose the next toast, his time being limited. He then gave the "Health of the W.M., and prosperity to the Walton Lodge," congratulating the Brethren in having so worthy a Brother to preside over them. He also spoke of the duties of a W.M., and the difficulties to overcome in directing a new Lodge, and concluded by wishing it every prosperity. It would give him very great pleasure, he said, to visit the Lodge on a future occasion.

Bro. J. C. Lunt, who on rising was warmly received, thanked the P.G.M. for the kind manner he had spoken of him, and to the Brethren for the manner in which they had responded. It was almost needless for him to say that he was deeply sensible of the honour of being the first Master of the Walton Mark Lodge. He should endeavour to discharge the duties of the office to the best of his ability. He was happy to think of the efficient assistance he was sure to receive from the officers of the Lodge, and trusted that they would be all animated with one desire to promote the welfare of the Lodge. If Masonry entailed duties, it also conferred great advantages. He was fully conscious of the responsibilities and duties devolving upon him, and it would be his constant endeavour so to conduct the lodge as to give complete satisfaction.

"The W.M., and brethren of the West Lancashire Lodge, No. 65," proposed by Bro. Banning, S.O. was responded to by Bro. Ashmore, W.M.

The W.M. proposed "The Visiting Brethren," which was acknowledged by Bro. H. Morris, P.G.S.B.; C. Leedham, P.M., 65, P.G.S.; and Bro. C. H. Hill, R. of M. 65.

In giving "The Officers of the Lodge," the W.M. said he knew that they had accepted office with the determination to fulfil the duties with zeal and to the best of their ability.

Bro. Chesworth, S.W. responded, and the evening's proceedings shortly afterwards terminated.

PRESENTATION TO BRO. S. B. OLDHAM, P.M. AND SEC. NO. 4, DUBLIN:

The regular monthly meeting of the lodge was held at Freemasons' Hall, Molesworth-street, on Tuesday, March 25th, when there was an unusually large attendance of the members of the lodge. The Visitors present included the R.W. the Deputy Grand Master, the Grand Treasurer, the Grand Chaplain, Bro. Quin, Past Grand Organist, the Deputy Grand Secretary, the Representatives from the Grand Lodges of Canada and Nova Scotia; apologies were received from several of the other Grand Officers, including the Hon. Judge Townshend, P.D.G.M., Right Hon. Major General Dunne, Hon. D. Plunket, M.P., M. C. Clos, D.L., P.G.S.

The lodge having been closed, the brethren adjourned to the spacious dining room, where a superb banquet was served in Bro. Murphy's best style. The usual loyal toasts and those of the Grand Officers having been proposed and responded to, in the most hearty manner, the W. Master, (Bro. William Deaker) announced that the members of the lodge had decided upon taking that opportunity of presenting to Bro. Samuel B. Oldham, their valued Secretary, a token of their respect and esteem for him individually, and their of appreciation of his services as their Secretary for the last thirteen years; an office which he hoped Bro. Oldham would long continue to hold.

Bro. Oldham having been brought up by the two Senior Past Masters of the lodge, amidst the most enthusiastic applause—the brethren all standing—the W. Master called on Bro. G. Woodward who had acted as Secretary to the Presentation Committee, to read the address, which was as follows—

"Dear Bro. Oldham,—We your brethren of the Victoria Masonic Lodge No. IV., Dublin, being desirous of expressing in some measure our sense of the many obligations we are under to you for the manner in which you have fulfilled the duties of our Secretary for the past thirteen years, beg your acceptance of the accompanying purse of sovereigns, as a mark of our esteem and appreciation of your fraternal labours on our behalf. The present flourishing condition of our lodge is mainly owing to your own untiring zeal and exertions, and we congratulate ourselves on the happy circumstance of being associated with one possessing so much worth, and who has endeared himself to all who know him. We trust you will receive this gift as an inadequate mark of the brotherly love and regard we entertain for you, and we sincerely pray that you may be long spared to enjoy the many degrees the order has conferred on so worthy a member. (Signed) William Deaker, W. Master; Benjamin Mullen, Senior Warden; Thomas J. Robinson, Junior Warden; George Wood, Secretary; March 25th 1873.

The W. Master then, in the name of the lodge presented Bro. Oldham with the address, which was beautifully illuminated and superbly bound in blue morocco, and enclosed in a handsome morocco case; and along with it, a highly ornamental purse containing One Hundred and Seventy-five Sovereigns.

Bro. Oldham having briefly returned thanks for the unusually enthusiastic reception which had been accorded to him, read the following reply:—

"W. Sir and Brethren,—Most heartily do I thank you for the kind and highly flattering address, and very valuable present, which you have just presented to me. When some thirteen years since, I acceded to the unanimously expressed desire of my brethren, to undertake the duties of Secretary, I did so, I confess, with considerable diffidence; fearing, lest any want of experience, or deficiency of judgment, on my part, should have a tendency to lower in any degree, the high position which the Victoria Lodge had attained in the Masonic Order in Ireland. It was a critical period in the history of our lodge, as we had but recently lost the valuable and highly valued services of some of our oldest and most experienced members. And it was only natural that I should shrink from undertaking the duties of a position which had been so ably filled by my predecessors. You have been kind enough to speak in the most flattering terms of the way in which, during the last thirteen years, the duties of that office have been performed, and I beg most heartily to thank you for the fraternal manner in which you have overlooked my many shortcomings, while, at the same time, you have vastly overrated any services I have rendered. Without at all underrating the important—and at times onerous—nature of the duties devolving on your Secretary, I must be allowed to say, that the present flourishing condition of our lodge is mainly owing to that mutual confidence and good feeling which exists amongst its members, and the truly Masonic spirit with which they merge all minor differences where the welfare of the lodge, or the good of the Order at large, is concerned. Allow me most sincerely to assure you that your gift—munificent though it be—was not at all requisite to convince me of the fraternal regard and esteem of my Brethren of Lodge IV. I accept it gratefully, most gratefully; but believe me, I value far more highly the truly brotherly feeling which prompted it, and the words of kindness and confidence with which it is accompanied; and I shall deem myself happy indeed, if, by perseverance in the course you have approved, I am able to retain those feelings of esteem you have expressed and of which I shall ever cherish a grateful remembrance. (Signed) Samuel B. Oldham, 30°."

THE PERILOUS MOMENT.

BY ROBERT MORRIS, LL.D.

Then Brother Larkin informed the excited crowd that he was a peaceful tradesman, journeying to the East, and took care to say that as a Freemason, he had his diploma in his pocket.

This turned the tables. A dozen men in the company formed a semi-circle before him, their backs toward him, and declared he should not leave the house till morning. The grey-haired preacher loudly approving their determination.

At his own suggestion he was guarded through the night in the landlord's private parlour, but not hand-cuffed. At early day his notes to old friends in St. Louis brought a half-dozen prominent citizens to identify and release him. And after an interchange of cards with the "silent friends," who had stepped forward at that opportune moment, Brother Larkin went his way rejoicing that he had neither killed nor been killed. While the veritable Tom Brailey was picked up a week afterwards in a totally unexpected place, and subjected to one of those hasty initiations, common in the West, where nothing is left of candidates but the stump of a rope and a new-made grave. And this is the story as related to me by Brother Larkin himself, not a year ago, of the "Perilous Moment."

THE MARK DEGREE.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

As a Mark Mason I am specially pleased with the first clause of the worthy Mark Mason's observation, "to avoid giving offence," and for belonging to this finishing degree of Craft Masonry.

No Mark Mason would willingly offend a "Craft Mason," or wound his sensibility, but the Mark Mason will not yield his opinion that the "Completion of Craft Masonry is with the Mark Degree." See the Mark Mason's Song, now publishing by Bro. Kenning.

The words of the song are very remarkable, and evidently founded upon the foregoing quotation. Let us hope that the spirit of the words of the song may soon be realised.

Let no Craft Mason attempt to disparage this beautiful and finishing degree, when they know nothing of its loveliness, but let them perfect themselves in it, by learning its mysteries, through joining the brotherhood. No brother will repent it, and he will find that to be a Complete "Craft" Mason, he must secure the "Corner Stone," the "Key;" only in the possession of the Mark Degree.

Yours truly fraternally,

G.O.

PROXIES IN GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I have perused the circular in the Freemason (vol. 6, No. 215), by the R.W.M. of St. Andrews Lodge, Edingurgh, and beg to support his well considered and expressed communication respecting the evils which must, and do necessarily result from the Proxy System now so prevalent in Grand Lodge of Scotland.

"Proxies" are of value for distant lodges, but certainly the convenience under present circumstances is much abused, and with the exception that I think lodges under the jurisdiction of Scotland, but existing out of that country should still have the privilege of appointing "Proxy Masters," it appears to me that Bro. Douglas's notion deserves success.

The time has arrived for the method of conducting the business of Grand Lodge to be strictly enquired into, and the whole of the finances to be carefully studied and put on a proper basis. As Scottish Freemasons we need not look beyond the "border" for an example of a well conducted Masonic organisation, for in the Supreme Grand Royal Arch Chapter, under the able management of E. Comp. Mackersey, we have an institution to be proud of; Bro. Laurie, G. Sec. if supported properly can do likewise.

ROYAL ARCH CEREMONIES.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In reply to Cheshire in No. 214 of the Freemason, you must address the Z. as Most Excellent; H. and J. as Excellent; and the P.Zs., as Excellent, the rest as Companions; and by command of the M.E.Z., is quite correct. Where is right, and Within the centre, if Cheshire will look at the pedestal next time he goes to chapter, he will see that it is within the centre.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Why have you not published the usual return of the Election of Boys? In the country we have no means of getting Masonic information, except by reading your Freemason.

MASONIC HALL AT GIBRALTAR.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

On finishing the perusal of the letter describing the consecration of the new lodge rooms at Gibraltar, in your edition of the 22nd ult., I could not help arriving at the conclusion that the account was an extremely one-sided one, and for reasons, which, with your permission, I shall now endeavour to place before your readers. In doing so, I feel that I am only carrying out a truly Masonic precept, viz., justice, and giving "honour to whom honour is due."

It may first be mentioned that Lodges St. John's 115, Inhabitants' 153, and the Mark Lodge attached to the latter, have entered into joint possession of the new rooms, a fact not deducible from the letter.

I do not wish for one moment to detract from, but rather bear testimony to the credit that is due to, Bro. Morgan, W.M. 115, for his services and general Masonic enthusiasm; but I feel convinced that he would be the first to deprecate any omission in the account of the proceedings, of the credit, due also to other brethren; and it would certainly appear to me that your correspondent has made a very serious omission of this nature as regards the name of Bro. Henry, and also to a certain extent that of Bro. Haynes.

The former Bro. having twice occupied the chair of St. John's, working in Spanish, is now occupying that of the Inhabitants', working in English. To secure the new rooms, as W.M. of one of the lodges, he necessarily acted in conjunction with Bro. Morgan, and was equally indefatigable, and untiring in his efforts, indeed, but for his ever ready pocket, and love for Masonry, I feel assured that the interesting ceremony might never have taken place. His practical experience is well known to the brethren in Gibraltar, and his zeal and devotion to our great cause, have been eminently displayed on two occasions, when mainly by his efforts lodges were resuscitated and placed in their present prosperous condition.

To Bro. Haynes also, whose professional skill contributed in no small degree to overcome many difficulties, a just share of credit is due.

I could expatiate at much greater length on this subject, but I do not wish to trespass further upon your space; I shall, therefore, content myself by asserting that I believe the success of Masonry in Gibraltar is almost wholly attributable to the heartfelt sympathy and co-operation existing between Bros. Morgan, Henry, Haynes, and though last not least Cavana, brethren of whom any institution might feel proud. The last named is frequently heard in our midst, pouring forth from his eloquent lips, in pure Castilian, the words of genuine Masonic feeling.

In conclusion, and in justice to myself, I may state that I am a member of more than one lodge in Gibraltar, and that in tendering this explanation, I am not actuated by any feeling of captiousness, but simply by that spirit which should be, par excellence, the characteristic one in all the dealings of Masons one with another, viz., that of,

FAIR PLAY.

NATIONAL GRAND PRIORY.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

As the first National Grand Priory is to be held on the 9th of May, it is to be hoped those Knights Templar who are entitled to vote will muster in full force; for not only are there several most important questions to be asked, but the traitor who introduced a reporter at the meeting on the 7th inst., and so brought down upon us the insulting articles in the Spectator of the 12th inst., and the Saturday Review of the same date, has to be denounced and chastised.

Yours fraternally,

A MASONIC KNIGHT TEMPLAR.

THE GRAND LODGE OF QUEBEC.

The following proclamation and appeal have been issued by the Grand Lodge of Quebec:—

To all brethren in obedience to the M.W. the Grand Lodge of Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons of the Province of Quebec:

Whereas, the Grand Lodge of Quebec, at its last annual communication, passed the following resolutions, namely:

Whereas, the Grand Lodge of Quebec, earnestly desires the peace and harmony of Masonry over the whole habitable Globe, and is solicitous that the tenets of the order be preserved in all their ancient purity; and be perpetuated under those wise regulations which the royal craft from time to time enacted for its guidance, in all matters of general government and interest;

And whereas, this Grand Lodge is profoundly of opinion, that in order to carry out this beneficial and laudable object, every Grand Lodge should possess, hold, and exercise supreme and undivided Masonic authority and jurisdiction over all Masons within their legitimately recognised territory, such territory being always conterminous with the political boundaries of the state, province, or territory, or as the case may be, whose name such Grand Lodge may elect to assume and may claim to be designated by;

And whereas, this Grand Lodge more immediately and intimately desires the peace and harmony of their beloved brethren in the Dominion of Canada, and more especially to heal the present unhappy differences which exist between this Grand Lodge and our well beloved sister the Grand Lodge of Canada;

And whereas, it has come to the knowledge of this Grand Lodge, that the M.W. the Grand Master of Canada has expressed an earnest desire to adjust the differences that exist between this Grand Lodge and the Grand Lodge of Canada; be it resolved—That a Committee of seven, to be named by the M.W. the Grand Master, be appointed to meet a like Committee to be appointed by the Grand Master of Canada, and effect, if possible, an adjustment of the differences, in accordance with the resolutions passed by this Grand Lodge, at its last Annual Communication.

Resolved—That the Grand Secretary be instructed to withhold the publication of these resolutions for the space of six weeks, in which time, a meeting of the said Committees must take place, when, if an adjustment of difficulties be effected, an Emergent Communication of this Grand Lodge be held in the City of Montreal, to ratify and confirm the same, but should no adjustment take place within the time specified, then the Grand Master shall proceed as directed by the resolutions of Grand Lodge, affecting this question adopted at the last Annual Communication.

The Grand Secretary is ordered to transmit a copy of the foregoing resolutions to the Grand Master of Canada for his information.

Be it therefore known unto you all, that in accordance with the aforesaid action of Grand Lodge, I appointed, (together with myself), the following able and prudent brethren as a committee to confer with the like committee proposed to be named by the M.W. the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Canada, to consider, and if practicable, effect an adjustment of the very unhappy differences still existing between our respective Grand bodies viz:—R. W. Bro. James Dunbar, D.G.M. Quebec; J. H. Isaacson, G. Sec. Montreal; G. H. Borlase, P.D.D.G.M. Sherbrooke; Alex. Murray, P.D., D.G.M. Montreal; M. R. Meigs, D.D.G.M. Bedford; M. M. Tait, D.D.G.M. Montreal;

I was subsequently informed through our Grand Secretary, that Grand Master Wilson of the Grand Lodge of Canada, had appointed seven brethren, all from the Province of Quebec, as the committee of conference to represent that Grand Body, of whom the R.W. Bro. Thomas White, D.G.M., Montreal, was convener.

A day for the meeting of the Joint Committee was then suggested to the G. Master of Canada, but information was received shortly thereafter by me through our Grand Secretary, from R.W. Bro. Thomas White, convener of the committee named by the G.M. of C., that on account of certain correspondence then taking place between himself and the G.M., it would not be practicable for said committee on their part to meet on the day proposed. After some further delay, I was subsequently informed of the existence of difficulties as to the arrangements on the part of Canada.

I again caused to be communicated to the G.M. of C. the renewed assurance of our fraternal regard, and our earnest desire for the early constitutional adjustment of all our difficulties. Like assurances were received from the G.M. of C., together with the expression of his intention, if necessary, of remodeling his committee so as to remove certain obstacles, the carrying out of which would unavoidably occupy some time. Various other correspondence ensued, and in order that no want of forbearance on our part might seem to exist, still further delay was granted; but even now, no fraternal action in reference thereto has been taken place on the part of the officers of the Grand Lodge of Canada and the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Canada having, by letter of the 30th ult. (Jan. 1873), declared, that "under present circumstances he did not consider it expedient to take further action in the matter," and having, on our part, exercised forbearance until it would seem that no fair-minded brother at home or abroad, can justly feel that precipitate action on our part has been taken; and the Grand Lodge of Canada, under two successive Grand Masters, having since the formation of the Grand Lodge of Quebec, the utter violation of all prudential and constitutional considerations, granted warrants to form several new lodges in this province, and has also granted copies of old warrants to construct duplicate lodges, under circumstances most injurious to the peace, harmony and prosperity of the craft in this province, all of which, and other such like acts, being done in gross violation of the laws and traditions of our fraternity, and the establishment and sovereignty of Grand Lodges; and although the Grand Lodge of Canada, as well as this Grand Lodge, did appeal to the Grand Lodges of the world for their decision on the great constitutional questions involved in the formation of the Grand Lodge of Quebec, yet she refuses to abide by the decision rendered by the great majority of the Grand Lodges with whom she has hitherto been in fraternal correspondence, and to whom she has appealed; and since the Grand Lodge of Canada has continued to pursue a course so unworthy of a Grand Lodge of Freemasons, and so injurious to the unity and general welfare of the craft in this province, and has even appointed the city of Montreal, the chief city within the jurisdiction of this Grand Lodge, as the place of holding its next annual communication.

Be it therefore known unto you all, that in view of this and many such like unconstitutional, and most unfraternal acts, and in vindication of the sovereignty of this Grand Lodge, and of the inherent rights and prerogatives of our ancient, honourable, and loyal fraternity; and in justice to all those grand lodges whose recognition has been so honourably and worthily extended to this Grand Lodge; I therefore, by the solemn action of the Grand Lodge of Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons of the Province of Quebec, do hereby declare and proclaim all Masonic intercourse to be suspended, and to cease between this Grand Lodge, its subordinate lodges, and all brethren in obedience thereto, and the G.L. of Canada, and all lodges and brethren in obedience thereto; and all brethren of the G.L. of Quebec, are hereby solemnly commanded to hold no Masonic intercourse with any brother in obedience to said G.L. of Canada, as far as Ancient Craft Masonry is concerned, and this edict shall be and remain in full force and effect until revoked by the Grand Master, or the Grand Lodge of Quebec; and it is hereby further ordered that due proclamation of this edict be made to all brethren in obedience to this Grand Lodge; of all which they will take notice and govern themselves accordingly, and also that the same be communicated to all regular Grand Lodges throughout the world.

Done at Richmond, Province of Quebec, Dominion of Canada, this 4th day of February, A. L. 5873, J. H. Graham, Grand Master; John H. Isaacson, Grand Sec., G.L., of Q.

"APPEAL.

"Grand Lodge of Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons of the Province of Quebec.

"Office of the Grand Master,

"Richmond, P. Q., 4th Feb. 1873.

"To the M.W. the Grand Masters, Officers, and Brethren of the Grand Lodges of the District of Columbia, Maine, New Hampshire, Iowa, Wisconsin, Texas, Nebraska, Nova Scotia, Nevada, Kansas, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Georgia, Mississippi, Arkansas, North Carolina, Connecticut, Indiana, New York, Vermont, Rhode Island, West Virginia, Alabama, Brazil, Idaho, Louisiana, Montana, South Carolina, California, Utah, Belgium, Portugal, La Plata, Peru; and all regular Grand Lodges of Freemasons throughout the world to whom these presents may come.

Greeting:

Brethren;

On the 20th day of October, A.L. 5862, the Grand Lodge of Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons of the Province of Quebec, Dominion of Canada, was duly formed in accordance with the principles and Constitutions of our ancient, and honourable fraternity, and has hitherto received from you, (being upwards of thirty of the leading Grand Lodges of the World) fraternal recognition, as an independent, sovereign Grand Lodge of Freemasons;—and as such, both in accordance with your recognition, and the great principles of our fraternity, is entitled to, and in duty bound to exercise exclusive Masonic authority over all ancient craft Freemasons, and all lodges of such, within the territorial jurisdiction of the Province of Quebec, and

Whereas, the Grand Lodge of Canada, in violation of all the considerations implied in her appeal (in conjunction with this Grand Lodge) to you and other Grand Lodges for a decision on the questions involved in our formation, still refuses to yield to, and abide by said decision against her claims and pretensions,—rendered by so many Grand Lodges; and,

Whereas the said Grand Lodge of Canada, has not only not extended fraternal recognition to this Grand Lodge, as of right the exclusive Masonic authority in and for the Province of Quebec—but in total want of fraternal prudence, and also in utter violation of the customs and constitutions of our fraternity, and consequently in a manner most injurious to the peace, unity, and prosperity of the Craft in this Province—has even granted warrants to form several new lodges within the territorial jurisdiction of this Grand Lodge, and also under circumstances of most aggravating character, created duplicate lodges therein—and further that persistent attempts on the part of officials of the same Grand Body have been made to cause dissensions within our jurisdiction, and to create additional lodges therein;

The fearful results of such a course of action on the part of said Grand Lodge, can be readily understood by the Craft abroad by supposing our case to be their own, and although existing from somewhat similar causes, in a far less objectionable and aggravating form in the old "Province of Canada," out of which by the formation of the Dominion of Canada, in 1867, the two like Provinces of Ontario and Quebec were created;—said evils resulting from multiplied Grand Lodge jurisdiction in the same territory, were certainly not over-stated by Grand Master Harrington, in his annual address to the Grand Lodge of Canada, at Hamilton, in 1864—wherein he said:—

"About three of them, we have already been in difficulty, and are never out of danger of trouble with each and all. I believe no dishonour could attach to the Grand Lodge of Canada, if considering the practical trouble we have to encounter, we were even now to issue a notification with respect to these lodges, such as we should have done when we took our places amongst other Grand Lodges of Freemasonry.

It is a delicate subject, but a matter of real grievance, and certainly opposed to Masonic jurisprudence, and causes an important defect in our otherwise perfect structure."

Of the multiplied evils necessarily resulting from such divided grand lodge jurisdiction, our M.W. Brother might have mentioned that of applicants for initiation, rejected by a lodge holding a warrant from one grand lodge, making application to, and being received by another lodge in the same or in some other locality holding a warrant from another grand body—and hence many persons being made Freemasons who for sufficient reasons could never otherwise have been received into the fraternity,—all of which has been and still continues to be fraught with grave evils to the Craft in this jurisdiction, and is especially destructive to that unity and harmony which should ever be among the chief characteristics of our order; and notwithstanding this G.L. has repeatedly protested against all these and other such like wrongs, and has reiterated its anxious desire for a constitutional adjustment of all differences existing between it and the Grand Lodge of Canada, whose sovereign territory is now necessarily the large and goodly province of Ontario, still the Grand Lodge of Canada has continued to persist in her refusal to deal justly by this Grand Lodge; and, as if pursuing a course of judicial and Masonic madness, has appointed Montreal, the chief city in the Province of Quebec, as the place of holding its next annual communication; and

Whereas these and other like acts are wholly unworthy of a Grand body entitled to exercise the prerogatives and to enjoy the privileges of a recognised Grand Lodge of Freemasons; therefore having foreborne with the G.L. of Canada until forbearance has almost ceased to be a virtue, I now communicate to you that for all these and many other obvious and important reasons, and in virtue of the resolutions passed at the two last annual communications of this Grand Lodge, and in vindication of the inherent and indefeasible rights of the Craft, and our just and duly recognised prerogatives as an independent sovereign Grand Lodge of Freemasons, as well as in justice to your Grand Lodges whose recognition has been so honourably extended to this Grand Lodge, I have this day directed and proclaimed that all Masonic communication and intercourse be suspended between all lodges and brethren in obedience to this Grand Lodge, and all brethren and lodges in obedience to the Grand Lodge of Canada, until the said G.L. of C. shall in all respects deal justly by the Grand Lodge of Quebec, and shall withdraw her jurisdiction from this province in accordance with the vital principle of the exclusive sovereign authority of every Grand Lodge of Ancient Craft Masons within its own territorial limits.

Therefore, Brethren of the above named Grand Lodges, and of all regular Grand Lodges of Freemasons throughout the world, we hereby appeal to you to uphold and sustain us in this our action in maintenance and vindication of our lawful Grand Lodge sovereignty. Our case unless averted, may soon be yours. The fundamental principle of exclusive territorial jurisdiction so clearly evolved in the history of the Craft, is assailed and imperilled, here and in a few instances elsewhere. It appears to us that the time has fully come when it behoves all regular Grand Lodges of Freemasons to take such united action as will uphold and defend this pædium of Masonic unity and Grand Lodge existence. The absolute right of every Grand Lodge to sole and exclusive territorial jurisdiction over all members and lodges of ancient Craft Masons must be maintained.

The Grand Lodge of the State of Vermont, has already suspended all Masonic intercourse with the Grand Lodge of Canada, until it ceases to assert any jurisdiction over any Lodge of Masons in the Province of Quebec. Other Grand Lodges have practically asserted the same principles, and the Grand Lodge of Quebec now solemnly makes this her appeal to all regular and loyal Grand Bodies of our ancient and honourable fraternity. Praying the Most High to maintain the rights and perpetuate the blessings of our beloved Order to the latest generations. So mote it be.

THE TWO PILLARS.

BY LEON HYNEMAN.

The two pillars of the Solomonian Temple represent the dual principle in nature which is the active principle in the unfoldment and formation of all physical phenomena. The entire structure of the temple represents nature as one universal system, and its various parts are all representative of the great principles which sustain nature's life in its ever constant and continuous changes of formation, reproduction, and decay. The pillars represent Wisdom and Love, which exist in the Father and Ruler of the universe. Each pillar represents a dual unit, one representing Wisdom and Power, the other Love and Beauty; the two combined represent the dual unit principle, which has its ultimate in Divine being. It is truly said that in God we live and move and have our being. And as the human is a microcosm of the universe, embodying within himself all the principles and laws of nature and its phenomena, it is only by man obtaining a knowledge of himself that he can truly gain a knowledge of divine manifestation in the unfoldment of nature and its laws and mode of manifestation.

A close investigation will show that the entire system of nature was unfolded through the dual unit principle, which has its ultimate in the bisexual principle of male and female. It is the principle of all combination, all affinity in production, reproduction, and all phenomenal expression of nature. World, planets, and the entire system of nature, were formed by and through the dual unit principle; all visible and invisible materiality—the forces, elementaries, and even the life of nature, were evolved through the bisexual or dual unit principle. It will be evident that the male and female form a dual unit, and it is clear that the one could not exist without the other, as there is a perfect unity and uniformity in divine manifestation. As in the ultimate unfoldment of the dual unit principle in the human, male and female, so in its primal elimination there could be no combination nor formation, unless by and through the dual unit principle.

These thoughts, entering into the highest domain of science, are suggestive of the great principles upon which the system of Masonry is constructed. Masonry has not been inaptly termed a science, and most truly a science embracing all other sciences. It is founded upon the eternal principles of God; its object the improvement and elevation of man—this is the acme of all science, of all progressive intelligence and culture. As the pillars of the temple required a foundation to rest upon, could not be placed in position without it; and as without a foundation no structure can be erected, so the logical deduction is, that the interior esoteric teachings of the base or foundation of things is illustrative of the divine Former who is the foundation—the source of all life and being.

LIFE.—Life is a very great mystery. The question, "What is your life," comes very often, uncalled for, and, the question proves itself through the multitude of thoughts and memories, and clamours for consideration. "What is your life?" Am I making the best possible use of the opportunities of life as they are presented? Are you meeting the ends of your being, and discharging the high responsibilities resting upon you, in view of the positions you occupy in our Order and in the State? I ask myself the question, "How I, in youth, as an Entered Apprentice, industriously occupied my time in the attainment of useful knowledge; and in manhood am I applying that knowledge in a faithful discharge of the duties which I owe to God, my neighbour and myself?" Are we all so applying these lessons and duties, that we can look forward to the time of age, in the hope of enjoying the happy reflections consequent upon a well-spent life, and wait our appointed time, when we shall be, like ripe sheaves in the harvest time, gathered into the great garner of eternity.

A BOON TO EVERY HOUSEHOLD.—Boots, with the celebrated wire-quilted soles, wearing twice as long as ordinary leather, for all ages; and children's boots with metallic tips, which never wear out at the toes, may be had at most shoe dealers. Insist on giving these a trial, and judge of their merits;

THE BURNING OF CHICAGO.—A spirited allegorical picture of the burning of Chicago, painted by Mr. Armitage, R.A., has been on view during the past week at the Scottish Gallery, 48, Pall-mall. The picture, which is the result of subscriptions set on foot by the staff of the Graphic, is intended to be presented to the City of Chicago as a memorial of the frightful catastrophe which befel it two years ago. The execution of the work is very fine, and is well worthy of the subject of which it treats. The burning city occupies but a small portion of the canvas, the principal part of which is devoted to three noble figures, a nearly nude beautiful girl, representing Chicago, in the arms of another female, Columbia, and bent over by a third, Britannia. The American eagle and British lion take the extreme ends of the group, and form a pretty tout ensemble. The lion is particularly well drawn, and deserves special attention. A visit to the Scottish Gallery, will amply repay the trouble, as there will be found some exceedingly clever sketches of a variety of subjects, and among them are some nicely selected scenes from "The Wandering Heir," and some bright cartoons by Mr. G. Du Maurier.

THE ENTERED APPRENTICE.—As Blue Masonry forms the basis, and is the foundation of all other branches of our mystic Order, so the Entered Apprentice degree is the corner-stone of Freemasonry, upon which all other degrees are built. It is in this degree the initiated is brought to light, to behold the beauties of the Masonic Order; and has revealed to him the system, which in the beginning of his Masonic creation, connects him in the chain of Fraternity with the brotherhood throughout the globe. In this degree he is linked in the universal chain and is hailed as a brother, and the hand of Masonic fellowship is extended to him. The initiation of a candidate into the mysteries of Freemasonry ought to be considered by him an important event, he enters a new life, forms new relations and connections, and as a member of the cosmopolitan Order, he becomes a citizen of the world, in every part of which we find a home and the brothers of the same family. To him it is a new birth; he is ushered into existence, as it were, from the womb of darkness into the light or day. He is then first taught to stand erect in the majesty of his manhood, and as all the children of the Good Father should stand before him, free from sin and guiltless before God and men. As a child he is taught to walk with careful steps lest he should stumble and fall into the narrow path which leads to God. He is also, like a youthful learner, taught in his first lessons of the mystic science in easy symbolic language, significant and impressive, so that on the heart's tracing-board they may be indelibly fixed. Happy the learner within whose bosom these teachings are firmly traced and acted out in every day. An Entered Apprentice, like a newborn infant, is always greeted with a hearty welcome, and hailed with gladness and joy, and becomes at once domiciled and affiliated with the members of the household under whose guidance he has placed himself. As a dutiful child he should learn his lessons well, be obedient to his instructors, and in his daily walks and conversation exhibit a lively gratitude for the favour shown him in electing him to a relationship with the ancient and honourable Order.—Masonic Register.

ROYAL BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION FOR AGED FREEMASONS.

The Votes and Interests of the Governors and Subscribers of this Institution are earnestly solicited on behalf of BRO. JOHN LEWHELLIN, P.M., Pembroke-Dock, AGED 66 years.

This worthy Brother was Initiated, Passed, and Raised in the St. David's Lodge, No. 366, in the year 1841. He joined the Royal Welsh Lodge, No. 378, in 1849, and to which he has been a subscribing member to the present time. He filled the situation of Warden and the office of Master of the latter Lodge with credit to himself and advantage to the Craft; being, at all times when in prosperous circumstances, ready to contribute liberally, and to relieve distress wherever found. He is now dependent on a small agency for support, and has neither child nor relative to assist him when incapacitated by age and increasing infirmity.

- This Case is strongly recommended by the following Brethren:— Sir Pryse Bayly, R.W.P.G.M., W.D., South Wales. Major J. A. Lloyd Phillips, D.P.G.M., ditto. T. C. Meyrick, Esq., M.P., P.P.D.G.M., ditto. Geo. Parry Esq., W.M. 378, P.P.S.G.W., ditto. *Thos. Phillips, P.M. 378, 090, P.S.G.W., ditto. Dr. Geo. Griffiths, P.M. 306, P.P.S.G.W., ditto. T. The Cosmopolitan. "It is a newspaper in every sense of the word, selecting from its daily contemporaries nearly everything that is of interest to the general reader, and supplying what is really wanted in this country—a thoroughly impartial reflex of public opinion."—Standard. "The editor is a gentleman well-known to the readers of Fraser's Magazine, as well as to the transatlantic world, and wields a ready, graceful, and fluent pen."—Morning Post. "It is gaining great praise here from its thoroughly independent tone."—Droit Chronicle. ONE POUND A YEAR.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR. DISEASES OF THE LUNGS AND AIR-VESSELS. Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL. Dr. Royle, Scarborough, quoted in the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how completely and happily it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease." This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.

Invards should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had Gratis of all Chemists.

For Cheap Watches, Clocks, Gold Chains and Jewellery, go to KIBBLES', 22, GRACECHURCH STREET (one door from Lombard-street). Gold Watches £2 15s. Silver Watches £1 5s. Timepieces... .. from 9s. 6d. Every article warranted. Plate, Watches, and Jewellery bought or exchanged. List of Prices post free.

WHITMORE'S STOMACHIC DINNER PILLS. No Pill is so efficacious in promoting digestion, strengthening the Stomach, correcting acidity, preventing or removing Headache, Giddiness &c. arising from a Costive Habit, Debilitated Stomach or Torpid Liver. They require no change of diet, and those of the most delicate constitution can take them with safety. Taken as an adjunct with Wilkinson's Sarsaparilla with the greatest success.

SARSAPARILLA. WILKINSON'S ESSENCE, OR FLUID EXTRACT OF RED JAMAICA SARSAPARILLA, prescribed by the Faculty for PURIFYING THE BLOOD, DEBILITY, LIVER COMPLAINTS, and treating the system from effects of Mercury. Exclusively used in India and the Colonies as a prevention to Tropical diseases. "Superior preparations that may always be relied upon."—Sir Astley Cooper. "We are in every respect satisfied with it."—Lancet. "We recommend yours as the best."—Medical Review. In Quarter, Half, and Pint Bottles. CAUTION.—Spurious and injurious preparations are offered to the public. See that Bottle and Label have the name and Address, "T. Wilkinson, late Wilkinson, Bridge, and Co., No. 270-Regent-street, London."

QUINTESSENCE OF JAMAICA GINGER and CAMOMILE. WILKINSON'S Preparation of Ginger and Camomile has long been deservedly known as an excellent domestic medicine. It is a most efficient Stomachic Tonic, and the best remedy for Flatulency and disorders arising from impaired digestion, and is not affected by climate. No European in India or tropical climates should be without it. In one-eighth, quarter, and half-pint bottles.

ELECTRICITY IS LIFE. PULVERMACHER'S Improved Patent GALVANIC CHAIN BANDS, BELTS, BATTERIES, and ACCESSORIES. Price from 2s. and upwards. Reliable evidence in proof of the unrivalled efficacy of these appliances in Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Deafness, Head and Tooth Ache, Paralysis, Liver Complaints, Cramps, Spasms, Nervous Debility, Functional Disorders, &c., is given in the Pamphlet, "GALVANISM NATURE'S CHIEF RESTORER OF IMPAIRED VITAL ENERGY." TO THE PUBLIC.

E. MOSES and SON (the Originators of the Ready-made Clothing system) have maintained their popularity through a long series of years by constant and unwavering attention to the wants of all classes, by punctuality, promptitude, and care in the execution of orders, and by giving their customers full value for their money.

Every department is furnished with a large assortment of goods for all occupations and all occasions, and notwithstanding the great advance in the prices of material and labour, E. MOSES and SON have made no appreciable advance in their charges, but continue to supply well-made fashionable, comfortable and durable articles at prices which are only rendered possible by the extraordinary advantages they possess.

E. MOSES and SON beg to acquaint the Public that they have recently made extensive internal alterations on their City Premises, and the additional accommodation thereby afforded will be found a great convenience to their numerous customers.

N.B.—The price of every article is marked on it in plain figures, and no abatement can, under any circumstances, be made.

Any article not approved of will (if not worn or injured) be exchanged, or the amount paid for it will be returned.

E. MOSES and SON subjoin a List of their Departments:

- Ready-made Clothing for Adults.
- Ready-made Clothing for Juveniles.
- Ready-made Clothing for Sailors and Mechanics.
- Clothing made to order.
- Hosiery and Drapery.
- Mantles, Shawls and Ladies Underclothing.
- Hats and Caps.
- Boots and Shoes.
- Outfits for Sea or Shore.

E. MOSES and SON respectfully invite an early inspection of their Stock for the Spring and Summer Seasons, which has been prepared on a scale of magnitude surpassing all their previous efforts.

E. MOSES and SON'S easy and accurate system of self-measure together with list of prices, fashion sheet, and patterns, gratis and post free.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

SUNDERLAND.—Lodge of Instruction (No. 97).—The closing meeting of the present session of this thriving lodge of instruction was held at the Masonic Hall, Sunderland, on Wednesday, April 23rd. The meeting was in every respect an attractive and interesting one. Nearly one hundred brethren were present, among whom were the W. Masters of Nos. 80 (J. Davison); 94 (J. S. Pearson); 661 (W. Forster); 1389 (W. Crookes, P.G.S.); M. Douglas, P.M. 80. P.P.G. J.D.; T. Elwen, P.M., 80, P.P.G. J.D.; S. J. Wade, P.M. 80, P.P.G.D. of C.; Candlish and Ayre, P.M.'s 661; W. Adamson, P.M. 949; George Lord, P.M. 97, P.P.G.S.B., J. Riseborough, P.M. 94, P.G.P.; P. Hvistendahl, P.M. 30, P. Prov. G.P.; T. Henderson, P.M. 94, and others. The programme of the evening's proceedings included the working of the fifteen sections which was done in an extremely efficient manner. The chair was occupied by Bro. Jas. H. Coates, W.M. of 949, and the officers were—Bros. R. Humphrey, W.M. 97, P.G. St., as S.W.; J. J. Clay, P.M. 97, as J.W.; R. Hudson, P.M. 949, P.G.D. of C., as S.D.; W. Liddell, P.M. 949, P.G.J.D., as J.D.; George Young, 80, P.G. St., as I.G. The introductory addresses and the questions were given by the acting W.M. (Bro. Coates), and the answers in the first lecture to sections 1 and 6, by Bro. Humphrey; 2 and 7, Clay; 3, Hudson; 4, Liddell; 5, Young. In the second lecture: section 1 by Bro. Humphrey; 2, Clay; 3, Hudson; 4, Liddell; 5, Young; and in the third lecture, section 1, by Bro. Humphrey; 2, Clay; 3, Hudson. Hearty votes of thanks were accorded at the close to the brethren who took part in the work, and every brother present expressed himself highly gratified with the instruction given.

LODGE OF ISRAEL (No. 295).—The last regular meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday, 22nd inst., at the Cannon-street Hotel. Bro. Hogard, W.M.; J. Emanuel, S.W.; Ayden, J.W.; Waylett, S.D.; Buckland, J.D.; R. Hall, M. of C.; Pexworthy, W.S.; Bro. Cohen, P.M. and Sec.; also P.M. Emanuel (2), Littaur, Harris, and about forty other brethren were present. The W.M. initiated Messrs. Pardo and C. Acland; passed Bros. McLeod, Schade, and Hood; and raised Bros. Whitmann, Rowden, and J. P. Cohen. Bro. Anerham of the Joppa Lodge was also unanimously elected a joining member. Bro. Littaur, in a eloquent speech, proposed that the sum of ten guineas should be taken from the lodge funds towards a testimonial to be presented to P.M. Cohen for his indefatigable exertions as Sec. to the Lodge for the last seven years, this sum to be supplemented by a subscription amongst the brethren. Bro. Hall seconded the proposition. The W.M., on putting it to the Lodge, took occasion to bear testimony to the assistance he had at all times received from Bro. Cohen, and said it gave him the greatest pleasure to ask the brethren to vote. The motion was unanimously carried amid great cheering, and most of the brethren present added their subscriptions to the list, which will no doubt be increased as soon as the absent brethren have been communicated with. The brethren then sat down to an excellent banquet, and after the usual toasts had been disposed of, the W.M. gave that of "Prosperity to the Benevolent Fund of the Lodge," which was duly honoured, and the president announced that Bro. Anerham (the joining member) had handed him five guineas for the fund, Bro. Pardo one guinea, Bros. Acland and S. Gompers a half-a-guinea, with other sums, the amount of which we were unable to gather.

HAMPTON COURT.—Burdett Lodge (No. 1293).—This prosperous lodge met at the Mitre Hotel, Hampton Court, on Saturday, the 26th inst., under the presidency of the W.M., Bro. D. Rankin Still, who was supported by R.W. Bro. Col. Burdett, P.M., and Prov. G.M.; Bro. R. W. Stewart, Dep. Prov. G.M.; H. Pythian, S.W.; Frederick Keily, J.W.; R. Wentworth Little, Prov. G. Sec., P.M. and Treas.; H. G. Buss, Prov. G. Treas., Sec.; S. Rosenthal, Prov. S.G.W.; David R. Pearce, D.C.; Chas. Coote; Geo. Kenning, P. Prov. G.D.; I. Coalbank, I.G.; W. Owen; R. Kotenberg; T. Lancaster; C. Groombridge Berrie; L. Raf; W. F. Laxton, P.M. 1238, Prov. G. Steward; and about half-a-dozen other brethren. After the usual preliminaries Bro. Berrie was raised to the degree of M.M. by the W.M., who performed his duties most admirably. The brethren voted an additional sum of five guineas to make the lodge a life governor of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls,—it being already a governor of both branches of the Masonic Benevolent Institution. Bro. R. Kenyon, I.P.M., Prov., G. Steward, was unanimously recommended by the lodge to the Provincial Grand Master for office in the province, and Bro. Still, W.M., for appointment as Provincial Grand Steward. Several propositions were made. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren spent the evening together in the enjoyment of that genial, social, and fraternal intercourse which has ever distinguished the Burdett Lodge during its short but pleasant existence.

ST. JOHN OF WAPPING LODGE (No. 1356).—The fourth installation meeting of this lodge was held at the Gun Hotel, High-street, Wapping, on Wednesday, April 9th. At the appointed time the lodge was opened by Bro. William Mann, P.M. and Treasurer, the W.M., Bro. David Davison Beck, being unavoidably absent. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and unanimously confirmed. The W.M., Bro. D. D. Beck, arrived and took the chair. He in a painstaking, correct, and most impressive manner, passed Bro. Goldsron to the second degree, and raised Bro. Meek to the sublime degree of Master Mason. The ceremony of installation was proceeded with. Bro. W. Mann, P.M. and Treasurer, presented to Bro. D. D. Beck, W.M., the W.M.-elect, Bro. Dawson, (P.M. 144) S.W., to receive at his hands the benefit of installation. The presentation was attended to, Bro. Dawson being duly installed as the W.M. He appointed and invested as his officers Bros. W. Beck, S.W.; Mead, J.W.; W. Mann, P.M. (the father of the lodge) Treas. (reinvested for the third time); J. W. Jackson, S.D.; T. Willets, J.D.; T. Pallet, I.G.; Ray, Gordon, Chaplain; Leftly, W.S. The addresses were then beautifully given by the Installing Master, and when the ceremony was completed, a hearty burst of applause proved how well the members appreciated the work so ably rendered. It is pleasurable to notice that Bro. David Davison Beck, P.M., is one of the many excellent workers in Craft and Arch whom Bro. James Brett, P.G.P. has instructed. A cordial vote of thanks, to be entered on the minutes, was unanimously given to Bro. D. D. Beck, P.M., for his working of the ceremony of the installation. This mark of approbation was duly acknowledged by the Installing Master. The important event of the evening was the presentations made to Bro. D. D. Beck, P.M. We may here remark, that when the lodge was founded no one of the founders displayed more energy, greater exertions and indefatigable perseverance in his endeavours to make the lodge a triumphant success. This work met with its reward, for now the lodge is second to none, either for working or the support given to the charities. It had long been thought that something ought to be done to show how the lodge appreciated the good work done for it by Bro. David Davison Beck, P.M.; accordingly, the opportunity of presenting him with a ten guinea Past Master's jewel was the time selected to carry out the wishes of his friends and admirers. The usual ten guinea Past Master's jewel was unanimously voted to him at the previous meeting, and was, of course, presented to him by the W.M. on behalf of the lodge. Before resuming his seat, a splendid fifty guinea gold chronometer was handed to him to present to Bro. D. D. Beck, which had been subscribed for by the members of the lodge (subscriptions being limited to this lodge only). The W.M., Bro. Dawson, acquitted himself of his agreeable duties in a praiseworthy manner. Bro. D. D. Beck, P.M., on rising to return thanks, was received with a perfect ovation, and some minutes had to elapse before the enthusiasm of his reception had subsided, ere he could return thanks (which he did in a neat and appropriate speech). At the conclusion of his remarks he received a renewed amount of applause. The watch bears on the outside case, a monogram beautifully executed, of D. D. B. On the inside case there is engraved the following:—"Presented by the Brethren of the St. John of Wapping Lodge, No. 1356, to Bro. David Davison Beck, P.M., as a mark of esteem, and in acknowledgement of his services as one of the principal founders; and the very courteous and earnest manner in which he discharged the duties of W.M. during the year 1872-73. April 9th, 1873." After some routine business was disposed of, the lodge was closed. Bro. Hayward supplied the usual first-class banquet, and a happy evening was agreeably spent. Amongst an unusual large number of visitors, we noticed Bros. T. Mortlock, P.M. 186; Kirk, P.M. 144; Kirk, jun., 144; C. S. Simpson, 1326, and others.

ANDOVER.—The St. Hubert Lodge (No. 1373), now just twelve months old, celebrated its anniversary on Monday, 28th inst. The chair for the past year has been occupied by Bro. J. Rankin Stebbing, D.P.G.M. (Hants), and a large number of new members have been admitted. This gentleman is succeeded by the Rev. Evan Yorke Nepean, one of the Provincial Grand Chaplains, who was installed on Monday by the Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master, W. W. B. Beach, Esq., M.P. The ceremony was performed in a most impressive style, and the lodge was well attended. After the appointment and investiture of officers and other routine business, the W.M. occupied the chair at a banquet given at the Star Hotel. The usual toasts were given and responded to, and excellent speeches made by Bro. Beach, P.G.M.; Bro. Stebbing, D.P.G.M.; Bro. T. Best, P.M. 357, P.P.G.R. (Oxfordshire); Bro. Drew, P.M., and others, and altogether a most pleasant and profitable day was spent.

LIVERPOOL.—Harmer Lodge, (No. 1393).—The usual monthly meeting of this young lodge was held on Tuesday evening, 22nd April, at one of the apartments, No. 2, Windmill-restaurant, dock-road. Bro. W. F. M., W.M., in the chair. Amongst the others present were: Bros. J. Jones, S.W.; J. Harriman, Sec.; C. Tyre, Treas.; T. Barry, S.D.; C. H. Evans, J.D.; H. Jackson, I.G.; W. G. Vale, Org.; N. F. Johnson, 28; T. Bileoch, J.S.; M. Williamson, Tyler; J. McCarthy, R. Dunderdale, G. Lamb, R. Farr, W. Warriner, T. H. Price, H. Roberts, R. Lamson, H. Davidson, T. W. Rigby, G. Bowley, M. J. O'Foole, R. W. Rowlands, R. Roberts, C. A. Caspar, E. Wilson, H. Burrows, E. Dutch, J. J. Smith, N. Thornthwaite, J. Braeshaie, G. McCannell, C. C. Davidson, D. J. Houlding. The visitors present were: Bros. Rev. T. W. Richardson, Chaplain 1086, J.D. 1380; T. A. Jackson, 1264; R. Cox, 123; A. Rankin, 74 (Ireland); J. Wood, Treas. 1094; and H. W. Nicholas, 249. No fewer than eight gentlemen were initiated by the W.M. into the mysteries and privileges of the Order. After business and excellent banquet was served. It may be stated that the first annual ball in connection with the Hamer was held on Easter Monday, and whether as regards the attendance, pleasantness of gathering, or the truly fraternal spirit which was manifested, it was universally voted a complete success.

Knights Templar.

PROVINCIAL PRIORY OF SUFFOLK AND CAMBRIDGE.

The Annual Provincial Priory was held under the banner of the Prudence Preceptory, Ipswich, on Friday, the 25th April.

The Prudence Preceptory having been opened by Sir Knt. Beaumont, R.N., Eminent Preceptor, Staff-Surgeon H.M.S. Northumberland, the Sir Knights were marshalled by Sir Knt. Emra Holmes, Grand Provost, and formed the Arch of Steel, when the Provincial Prior, Sir Knt. Capt. Phillips, attended by his Sub Prior, Sir Knt. Rev. R. N. Sanderson; Provincial Chancellor, C. T. Townsend; Prelate, Rev. T. G. Beaumont; Sword Bearer, G. Cresswell; Standard Bearer, S. B. King; H. Dubose, 1st Grand Capt. of Lines of England; Major Shadwell Clarke, P.P.G. Commander, West Indies, entered in state, the organ playing.

The Provincial Prior then declared the Priory duly opened, and on the Preceptor's being summoned, the Tancered Preceptory was found to be unrepresented.

The minutes of last Provincial Grand Conclave were read and confirmed.

The report of the Managing Committee, which will be found below, was read and passed nem. con.

Sir Knt. Taylor was elected Treasurer, and Frater Spalding, Provincial Equerry.

Sir Knt. Holmes proposed that a suitable habit for the Equerry should be procured, which was seconded by Sir Knt. Sanderson, and carried.

The Provincial Prior appointed the following officers for the ensuing year, observing that he had not filled up some of the offices, purposely leaving them open until an explanation from the Tancered Preceptory had been received:—

Sir Knts. Rev. R. N. Sanderson, Sub Prior; Rev. T. W. Beaumont, Prelate; Dr. Beaumont, R.N., 1st Capt.; J. H. Townsend, 2nd Capt.; C. T. Townsend, Chancellor; R. Taylor, Treasurer; W. T. Westgate, Director of Ceremonies; G. J. Findley, 1st Standard Bearer; S. B. King, 2nd Standard Bearer; Capt. Terry, A.D.C.; H. Woods, Capt. of Lines; J. A. Pettit, Herald; Norman, Organist; Frater Spalding, Equerry.

Sir Knt. Emra Holmes, Grand Provost, moved that a loyal address to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, congratulating His Royal Highness on his happy accession to the Grand Mastership of the United Orders of the Temple and Hospital, be prepared and transmitted on behalf of Province of Suffolk and Cambridge.

Sir Knt. Sanderson, Sub Prior, cordially seconded the motion.

The Provincial Prior observed, that he had no doubt such an address would be acceptable to His Royal Highness, and it was afterwards resolved that a Sub-Committee, consisting of Sir Knts. Sanderson and Emra Holmes should be formed to carry out the wishes of the Provincial Priory.

“Report of the Managing Committee of the Provincial Priory of Suffolk and Cambridge for the year 1872-3.

“April 22th, 1873;

“Very Eminent Sir,

“The Managing Committee of your Province much regret that they are not in a position to lay before you their usual statistical report of its condition, owing to the neglect of the authorities of the Tancered Preceptory, Cambridge, to send in their returns.

“This, after the remonstrance in their report of last year, printed by order of the Provincial Priory, and circulated in the Province, the Committee cannot but consider a grave dereliction of duty, and they reluctantly feel bound to request you to require an explanation of the neglect, and, this failing, to visit the offending Preceptory with some mark of your displeasure.

“As far as can be ascertained from the returns sent in, the muster roll of the Province shows a total decrease of three, so that there are now seventy-one Knights ranged under your banner, against seventy-eight last year.

“The accounts of the province have been examined by the Auditors, and show a balance in favour of the Provincial Priory amounting to £19 11s. 6d.

“In view of the impending changes in the statutes and regulations of the Order, your committee judged it prudent not to proceed with the issue of the reprint of the Provincial bye-laws as ordered at the Provincial meeting in 1872; which delay recent events have fully justified, as an entire revision of the bye-laws is now required to bring them into accordance with the new statutes of the Convent General. A draught of changes recommended by the committee for adoption has been prepared, and the alterations will, with your permission, be submitted for approval by the Provincial Priory seriatim.

“The committee beg to remind the Knights of the Province that, though the status heretofore known as Past Rank is now abolished, yet this change is not retrospective, they venture, however, in consideration of their successors most respectfully to express their opinion that, seeing it is plainly set down in the statutes of the Convent General that Past Rank is abolished in consideration of the introduction of the Dignities of Knights Grand Cross and Commanders, the change bears somewhat hardly upon Provincial Officers, who cannot presume to look forward to the attainment of such high honours, yet are now debarred from any official recognition of their past services. Entirely admitting the propriety of dispensing permanent badges of honour with a far more sparing hand than formerly was the custom, the committee venture to state that in their opinion a powerful incentive would be given to the zeal of Knights of the United Orders by the institution of a cross of merit, or some other token, the right of wearing which might be granted to a limited number of Knights specially granted by the Grand Master, and a limited number of Provincial Officers being Preceptors, or Provincial Prelates, accompanied by their provincial Priors, as having done good service in their respective localities, and approved by the Grand Master. The committee desire to ask your opinion whether it would be proper that this suggestion be brought under the notice of the chief authorities, either as a petition, or in any other form.

“Knights intending to propose candidates for inception are requested to take notice.

“1st. That the power of the Provincial Prior to forbid the name of an intended candidate to be submitted for ballot need not be exercised for seven clear days after the receipt of the said name at the Head Quarters of the province.

“2nd. That all communications to the Provincial Prior must pass through his deputy, the Sub-Prior.

“3rd. That the notice of a meeting of the members of a Preceptory should be issued seven days before the said meeting.

“4th. That, allowing for unavoidable delays by postage in the transmission of the names of intended candidates through the proper channels, it is fit that the notice of their intention be given at least eighteen clear days before the meeting at which the candidates names are to be submitted by ballot.

“The Committee recommend that the Provincial Sub-Priors be empowered to ascertain the price of a suitable cope to be worn by the Provincial Prelate, and when in his opinion the funds of the province admit of it to give an order to the Provincial Treasurer for the purchase thereof.

“Had it not been for the unhappy omission to which reference has already been made, your Committee are opinion that both the muster roll and the accounts of the province would have been even more satisfactory than they appear at present, and although the numerical increase is not so marked as in the previous year, they consider that both you, Very Eminent Sir, and your Knights, are on the whole to be congratulated on the condition of the Priory.

“Signed on behalf of the Managing Committee,

“C. T. TOWNSEND,

“P. Prov. 1st Grand Captain, Suffolk and Cambridge; Past 2nd Grand Capt. of Lines of England; Provincial Grand Chancellor.

“Provincial Chancery Masonic Hall, Ipswich.”

The Report was received and adopted nem. con., the Provincial Prior merely remarking, that at present he was unprepared to express an opinion with regard to the proposed Cross of Merit. The proposed changes in the by-laws were read and approved, and the Committee for the ensuing year was then appointed, the Provincial Prior nominating Dr. Beaumont, R.N., and the Rev. J. Hardy, Tancered Encampment, the Provincial Chancellor proposing four other members, who were duly elected by the Priory.

The other business being disposed of, and the Provincial Priory having been closed, the Arch of Steel was again formed, the organ played, and the Provincial Prior attended as before, retired.

The Prudence Preceptory was then closed in due form.

A banquet was served in the adjacent dining-hall, in Frater Spalding's best style, at which the courteous and popular Provincial Prior, Sir Knt. Capt. Phillips, presided, supported by Sir Knts. Major Shadwell Clarke, P. Prov. Grand Commander, West Indies; the Rev. R. N. Sanderson, Prov. Sub Prior; the Rev. T. G. Beaumont, Prov. Prelate; C. T. Townsend, Prov. Chancellor; H. Dubose, Dr. Beaumont, R.N., the Rev. A. W. G. Moore, and others.

PRESTON.—Prince of Peace Preceptory.—The regular meeting of this Preceptory for the purpose of the installation of the newly elected preceptor, was held on Monday, 21st ult., at the Assembly Rooms, Bull Hotel, Preston. There were present:—The Preceptor, Sir Knt. J. Daniel Moore, M.D., P.G.S.B., England; Sir Knts. Lieut.-Col. Birchall, P.G. Chamberlain of England; Major T. Wilson, P.G.B.B. of England; James Worsley, P.P.G.H.; G. Galloway, Pro. G. Sub Prior; Captain Whitehead, T. M. Shuttleworth, G.C. elect, and an assembly of knights of the order. After the preceptory had been opened, and some preliminary business transacted, the ballot was taken for Comp. W. W. Cottam, of the Chapter of Unanimity, Preston, who was declared to be unanimously elected, and being in attendance, was duly and regularly installed as a knight companion of the order by Sir Knt. Moore. Sir Knt. Lieut.-Col. Birchall, P.E.C., etc., presented the preceptor elect, Sir Knt. Thomas M. Shuttleworth, to receive the benefit of installation, and in due course that zealous member of our fraternity was installed in the throne of the preceptory, and entrusted with the baton of command. After being proclaimed and saluted, he invested his officers as follows:—Sir Knts. Dr. Moore, P.E.C.; Lieut.-Col. Birchall, Prelate; Capt. Whitehead, First Capt.; Capt. Lockheart, Second Capt.; John Worsley, Registrar; G. Galloway, P.E.C., Treasurer; R. Robinson, Hospitaller; Major Wilson, P.E.C., Almoner; James Worsley, P.E.C., Expert; Edward Airey, First Standard Bearer; W. Helme, Second Standard Bearer; W. W. Cottam, Capt. of Lines; Moore and Galloway, Heralds; Knowles, Equerry. The preceptory was closed in due form, and the knights companions adjourned to refreshment, under the presidency of the newly-installed preceptor, after which the loyal, Masonic, and chivalric toasts were duly honoured.

LANCS.—Fidelity Encampment.—The regular meeting of this Encampment was held at the Fidelity Masonic Hall, on Tuesday, the 22nd of April. Amongst those present were:—Sir Knts. W. J. Beck, P.E.C.; J. D. Kay, P.E.C. as Prelate; T. C. Smythe, 1st. Captain; I. Gibson, 2nd. Captain; James Walker, Expert; James Allen, Registrar; W. F. Smithson, Captain of Lines; Sir Knts. Gaunt and Sugden, P.C.S.'s. of the Faith Encampment Bradford; Sir Knt. Menzies, E.C. of the Salamanca Encampment Halifax; and Sir Knt. J. Greenwood, P.E.C.; Prince Edward Encampment, Eastwood. Comp. S. E. Seanor was duly installed a K.T.

After the close of the Encampment a Priory of Malta was opened when Sir Knts. T. C. Snythe, J. Walker and Wm. Baines were installed as Knights of Malta. The presence of so many Sir Knights from the neighbouring towns augurs well for the prosperity of the Order in West Yorkshire.

IPSWICH.—Preceptory of Prudence.—The usual quarterly meeting of this Preceptory was held at the Masonic Hall, Ipswich, on Wednesday, April 23rd. The Preceptory was opened by the eminent Preceptor Sir Knight Emra Holmes, Grand Provost of England with the usual formalities, and the muster roll having been called, the Knights present answered to their names, amongst whom were, the Rev. R. N. Sanderson, P.E.C. Sub Prior, Suffolk, and Cambridge; J. Pitcher, P.E.C.; G. S. Findley, P.E.C., Registrar; J. Franks, R. W. Beaumont, R.N., S. B. King, and others. The Preceptor in resigning office, announced that there were no arrears in subscriptions, every Knight had paid his dues, the minutes of the last regular and special meetings were read, the resignation of Sir Knight C. Davy, and Rev. G. W. M. ... were accepted and confirmed, and Sir ... Holmes having resigned the baton in the hands of Sir Knight Pitcher, who for many years has inducted the Preceptors into their office, that worthy frater proceeded to install Sir Knight Beaumont who had been unanimously elected to that honourable post, Sir Knight Sanderson, Sub Prior, assisting in the ceremony. The Knights present then saluted the Eminent Preceptor in ancient form. The Preceptor then proposed as a candidate for installation, Dr. Clarke, Royal Artillery, his name having been previously entered on the summons, and approved by the Provincial Prior. It was decided to defer the appointment of officers till Friday, the 25th, when a special meeting was held to receive the Provincial Prior. At this meeting, which is reported in another column, Dr. Clarke was balloted for and accepted, and the following were appointed and invested as officers by Dr. Beaumont, R.N., Preceptor;—Sir Knts. Franks, First Capt.; P. Cornell, Second Capt.; Rev. R. N. Sanderson, Sub Prior Suffolk and Cambridge, Prelate; G. S. Findley, P.S.C., Registrar; A. J. Barber, Expert; Capt. Terry, 60th Rifles, Almoner; Vacant, Capt. of Lines; S. B. King, First Standard Bearer; Captain Hales, 27th (Inniskilling), Second Standard Bearer; Capt. Ormsby, 2nd Dragoon Guards, First Herald; F. Ashburner, 2nd Dragoon Guards, Second Herald; J. Pitcher, P.E.C., Treasurer. The Knights afterwards dined together under the presidency of Sir Knt. Capt. N. G. Phillips, Provincial Prior of Suffolk and Cambridge.

Red Cross of Constantine.

KENDAL.—Kentis Conclave (No. 20).—A meeting of this conclave was held at the Masonic-rooms, Kendal, on the 16th ult., under the presidency of M.P.S. Sir Knt. Whitwell, M.P., G. Chamberlain. Bro. Gooding was duly installed a Knight of the Order. Sir Knt. John Holme was elected and enthroned as M.P.S. Sir Knt. H. Rauthmell inducted into the chair of E. Sir Knt. Busher, elected Treasurer, and G. Gawith, Recorder. The conclave was visited upon this occasion by Sir Knts. R. W. Little, G.T., and H. C. Levanter, G.H.A., of London, members of the Council of the Order.

"More than a year ago one of my children was attacked with bronchitis, and, after a long illness, was given up by all physicians as 'past cure.' I was then induced to try your Vegetable Pain Killer, and from the time I began the use of it the child rapidly got better, and it is now strong and healthy.—JOHN WINSTANLEY, 10, Whittle-street, Liverpool, 1869.—To Perry Davis & Son."

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS: Exercise most wonderful powers in promoting appetite, improving digestion, regulating the Bowels, and in removing Nervousness and Debility. The weakest will take no harm from the use of this alterative and tonic Medicine, but will gradually regain their health, the Strongest will preserve themselves from many of the mishaps into which their boasted strength and fearlessness of results often betray them. Long suffering Invalids may look towards this rectifying and revivifying Medicine with the certain hope of having their Maladies mitigated if not removed by its means.—In short for all ages, circumstances and conditions, Holloway points out the treatment, which is competent to check the progress of disorder and expel its seeds from the human frame.—ADVERT.

ORDER OF THE TEMPLE.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

It is often a subject of remark that the proceedings of private meetings should so frequently find their way into public print, there to be exposed to the impertinent criticism of those whose "bread and cheese" depend upon the adroitness (?) with which they apply their malignant pen. Fair criticism in the hands of a "gentleman," could scarcely be objected to, provided the subject on which he writes, be well known, and understood by him. I regret that the subject to which I refer has not fallen into such hands.

Some low, disloyal, and ignorant penny-a-liners have thought fit to spit their insolent venom against an Ancient, Honourable, and Loyal Order, "The Knights Templar," and just because it happens to be presided over by royalty, and receive the patronage of Her Most Gracious Majesty. I grieve to add that editors have been found, not only to admit such virulence, but even to append some equally absurd remarks of their own such as could only be expected from the pen of a "reviler." In the present day there seems to be no limit to the license, I will not call it liberty, of the press; and there is no person, be he prince or peasant, who can pursue the legitimate course of his life without interference, especially if it suits a political purpose to attack him. The writers of the articles in the Saturday and the Spectator of April 12th may be Republicans if they please, I hope they are not! but at any rate should they attempt to gain admission to the Order in question they will find the grapes very sour indeed, if they have not already experienced such disappointment; and I may further add that it must be a satisfaction to the Royal Patroness of the Order, and to His Royal Highness the Grand Master himself to know that the observations to which I have alluded, have not proceeded from the more respectable of the periodicals of the day—they have assumed a different tone.

The members of this and other orders will doubtless in future be more sparing of their contributions to public periodicals.

I am, dear Sir, yours faithfully,
DEVONIENSIS.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

So long as the Installation of our Royal Grand Master remained to be accomplished, and also so long as the Lupus-Holmes controversy was diverting the attention of Knights Templar from the far more important subject of the radical constitutional change effected by the vote of Grand Conclave, in December last, I purposely refrained from taking any part in the discussion; although, in common with a vast number of others, I felt unmitigated dissatisfaction with the pressure put upon the Grand Conclave, in the shape of what is now, happily, proved to have been an unauthorised, and untrue, intimation of the wishes of that Grand Master whom we all rejoice to hail as such.

But, now that these matters are things of the past, I wish to be allowed, in all sober sadness, to ask a question, the importance of which it is impossible to exaggerate.

As a member of the Templar body, and as a Preceptor of two Preceptories, I have taken more than one solemn obligation to a Masonic body. Now, on a former occasion, I have written very strongly in your columns, about playing fast and loose with Masonic obligations. I have, therefore, now to ask, can a mere vote of Grand Conclave, (a vote especially, which was practically passed in the ignorance of nine-tenths of that body, and under pressure put upon the remainder), release me from the O.B. which I have taken? I think not. I conceive that my O.B. as a "Masonic" Knight Templar is still binding—more—I expect that my undivided allegiance is still due to the Masonic body, whereas, I may find it. I fear that the body which now obtrusively rejoices in its abandonment of the Masonic title, has ceased to have any legal or moral claim to the allegiance of those who joined such body, because they believed, as I did, (and some years of careful study have only deepened the conviction), that it formed an integral portion of the Masonry of the present day, but has no locus standi whatever, except such as is Masonic.

I think that if you will open the columns of the Freemason to a free and temperate discussion of the question which I have started, you will largely promote the best interests of the Order.

Fraternally yours,

P. H. NEWNHAM.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Shakespeare says "What's in a name? A rose by any other name will smell as sweet."

Why all this correspondence and disputing about the omission of the word "Masonic" from the Temple nomenclature?

Do the new statutes say that the Templar Degree is for the future to be chivalric? Do they not on the contrary make this degree even more Masonic than it was before by enacting that a candidate must not only be an R.A., but also two years a Master Mason? What more can the well-wishers of the Templar Degree require?

Your obedient servant,

E. R.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

"When doctors disagree &c.," your correspondents G. Shanks, and Magnus Ohren, give very different replies to "Cheshire's" inquiry, unfortunately neither of them quote any authority in support of their assertions.

I write to ask if they would both of them be kind enough to state the authority whence their opinions are derived. It might probably help to settle a question which has long remained open.

As a P.Z. I may say that my experience is, that in practice, the First Principal only is addressed as M.E., but that he always obtains the assent of the second and third principals before issuing the commands; the summons too is by command of the M.E.Z.

But in theory I agree with Companion Shanks, that the three Principals jointly rule the chapter as one, and should always be addressed jointly, the summons too should issue by their joint authority.

Dr. Oliver in his "Masonic Jurisprudence" pp. 450 says, "the three Principals are severally three Masters and conjointly one."

As to the title by which they should be addressed I can only remark that it certainly appears unsuitable to address the presiding officer of a private chapter by the title appropriated to the heads of the Order, or the G. Supts. of Provinces. Can Comps. Hughan and Brett throw any light on this?

Yours fraternally,

Prov. G. S. E!

To the Editor of The Freemason

Dear Sir and Brother.

As one of those Masons of long standing, of considerable activity and energy, and I trust of fair skill and experience in carrying out the rituals, ceremonies, charges and lectures of the Craft, the Mark, and the Royal Arch degrees, who have resolutely refused to join the chivalric orders, having failed to see the connexion between genuine Masonry, as exhibited in the branches named, and that which has been professed to be a Christian extension of it in the various degrees of Knighthood, I have been much struck with the leading article in the Freemason of this day from which I learn that "the prefix Masonic being eliminated from the Orders of the Temple and Hospital, their only claim for recognition has been removed." It has always appeared to me that the only claim which the advocates of these (so called) high degrees could offer for acknowledgment as branches of Masonry, consisted in the fact, that none could be admitted to them who were not legitimate members of the Masonic body, and this idea seems to be now strengthened by the remarks of my valued friend Bro. Hughan, in the article referred to. I confess that I know nothing of the chivalric orders, nor have I attempted surreptitiously to gain information as to their objects and formularies. It seems to be admitted, however, that the "present Order of the Temple cannot be proved to be the legitimate descendant of the Ancient Order of that name." By recent decision I see it stated, that "the members discard their Masonic relationship," therefore, it is "neither a Chivalric Order nor a Masonic Body." As Bro. Hughan justly observes, "to cut away the prefix Masonic actually removes the only ground they can possibly have for their continuance, or existence," and with the views I entertain, I hope that such will prove to be the case. Sure I am, that a Mason who had a perfect knowledge, such as each of us should aim at acquiring, of all the rituals and lectures appertaining to legitimate Masonry, Craft, Arch, and Mark, (of course I am aware that the last is unrecognised) has quite as much strain upon his mind, thoughts, and memory as it is good for him to bear. There can be no objection to the formation of any amount of degrees and orders, however presumptuous, or ridiculous; but let them stand on their own respective merits, and not claim an association and connexion with other bodies of undoubted character, with which they have nothing to do, depending on this alleged alliance for such importance as they can obtain by such bolstering, the amount of which might be very questionable, if they relied solely on their own independent claims and merits. Some of them might perhaps take rank with the club of "snobs" to which it appears that the real Sir Roger Tichborne was affiliated, as is stated in the reports of the trial now in progress.

In the province to which I at present belong, no restriction, whatever, is put upon the members of lodges who openly and constantly wear the badges of the unrecognised degrees, and as these are showy, not marking high honours or skill, but merely membership, or at the most, the occupancy of one or other of the numerous offices, some of which I fancy require very little knowledge or ability, such as, Standard Bearer, Sword Bearer, Captain of Lines, &c., young Masons, and the many who know very little about the several distinctions, as marked by the jewels worn, are apt to imagine that they see before them brethren of distinguished rank, superior Masonic experience, and acquirements. I am aware that this is contrary to the Book of Constitutions, the regulations in which on this point are here systematically violated.

The Mark degree is unfortunately not recognised by the Grand Craft Lodge of England, though it is generally admitted to be a highly useful appendage to legitimate Masonry, if not even an essential part of it, as very many considered it to be. Certainly it is making steady progress, but I fear that in some cases this is somewhat interfered with by the introduction of one or other of the chivalric degrees; indeed I know of one instance in which such is clearly the case, and the Mark Lodge is consequently in abeyance, preference being given to the high sounding title, and handsome jewellery. It is to be feared that the impetus given to the Order of the Templars by the recent proceedings at Willis's Rooms, under high auspices, will tend still farther to enhance its popularity, unless indeed the severe strictures which have appeared in some of the public journals tend to neutralise the effect, and make our brethren shy of being held up to ridicule.

Yours fraternally,
H. H.

ROYAL ARCH CEREMONIES.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I am obliged to my friend and brother Bro. Shanks for his answer to my query on the above subject in No. 217, and equally obliged to Bro. Magnus Ohren, for his opinion in No. 218. But these brethren offer contrary opinions, so that I remain in doubt. My reason for making the question is, that a distinguished Companion deservedly high in the Craft, and much respected, recently told me that "M. E." was incorrect, but when kindly acting as P.S. one evening lately, he used the term "M. E." when at that portion of the working in which the Soj. repudiates with scorn the idea of having fled when the Holy City was oppressed, and assures the M.E. of his noble ancestry &c.

I should like to elicit further opinions on this very interesting subject. Bro. Magnus Ohren has most certainly thrown some light on the point from which no W.M. can materially err, but I would ask him why that is explanatory only to a Royal Arch Mason, as he seems to imply, since it is embraced in the Craft Ritual, and consequently ought to be intelligible to M.Ms.

Yours fraternally,

CHESTER.

PROXIES IN GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Being anxious for a thorough system of reform, not only in Grand Lodge, but in every lodge where reform is required, I am always glad when I find anything introduced that is capable of promoting the welfare of Masonry.

Having for several years been fully convinced that the proxy system of representation in Grand Lodge was unsatisfactory and detrimental to the best interests of lodges, I do heartily approve of Bro. Douglas's motion (see Freemason, vol. 6, p. 251), and beg leave to support the same.

The proxy system has not only been the means of placing at the head of the Craft a class of brethren in many respects entirely ignorant of the work of any lodge, but has also been the means of weakening the power and authority of Grand Lodge; and as it often happens that no regular correspondence is kept up between the Proxy Master and the lodge he represents, proxies can only be said to represent themselves. Since the proxy system has unfortunately been the means of raising a wall of separation between Grand Lodge and her daughters—for lodges having no actual voice in the management of Grand Lodge affairs do not realise the fact that they are part of it, and consequently do not entertain that fraternal feeling and respect for Grand Lodge, which is due when at the head of the Craft.

The expenses that would be incurred by sending the Actual Masters and Wardens to Grand Lodge will form a strong argument with some lodges in favour of continuing proxy representation; the interchange of thought and opinion, and the passing of a few wise and judicious laws, would soon amply repay any expense that might be incurred in that direction.

Allow me through The Freemason to thank Bro. Douglas for the circular that he has issued to the Craft in Scotland, and that his labours may be crowned with success is the earnest desire of

Yours fraternally,

ROBERT WALKER,
P.M., Lodge 66, S.C.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The General Committee of this Institution met on Thursday, the 24th April, Bro. T. W. White, in the Chair, when in accordance with the recommendations of the House Committee, it was resolved to increase the number of children in the School to 120, and to provide additional accommodation by extending the school-room, and dining hall wings in front, and building extra dormitories over them. Sixteen brethren were nominated for the House Committee, twelve to be elected by the General Committee in May, and eleven were proposed for the Audit Committee, of whom nine will be elected at the same meeting. With a vote of thanks to the Chairman, the proceedings terminated.

A NOTE TO EVERY HOUSEHOLD.—Boots, with the celebrated wicker-quiet shoes, wearing twice as long as ordinary leather, for all ages; and children's boots with metallic tips, which never wear out at the toes, may be had at most shoe dealers. Insist on giving these a trial, and judge on their merits;

SURREY MASONIC HALL COMPANY (LIMITED).

A special meeting of this Company was held on Wednesday, the 23rd April, at the offices, No. 47, Leipsic-road, Camberwell, for the purpose of confirming a resolution passed at a previous meeting:—"To increase the share capital of the Company to £3,000." This will enable the directors to build far more elaborate and spacious Masonic Rooms, also considerably increase the size of the hall. From the reception the undertaking has met with among the members of the musical profession who are in the habit of giving concerts in the neighbourhood, and who are united as to its convenience and position, the directors feel no doubt that a fair and remunerative income can be made.

At the termination of the above a Board meeting was held, at which Bro. W. Ramsey was elected to a vacancy in the Directorate. Bro. Geo. Kenning expressed his willingness to join at the next vacancy.

Bro. Edward Worthington presided. There were also present Bros. H. C. Levander, Geo. Kenning, Jas. Stevens, Dr. Pinder, and M. S. Larham.

THE BINCKES TESTIMONIAL.

It will be seen from an advertisement which appears in our impression of this day, that the Committee of the "Binckes Testimonial Fund," propose to close the subscription list on the 30th June next, and to make the presentation at the ensuing Summer Festival of the Boys' School, to be holden at Wood-green, on Tuesday, the 8th of July. The Committee express their belief that brethren who have not yet subscribed are anxious to do so. We trust their belief is warranted, and long before the 30th June, the Testimonial Fund will be a worthy expression of the sense which the Craft entertain of the great abilities and unwearied labours of the Secretary of the Boys' School, whose exertions in its interest have been marked with unexampled success. The debt so long an incubus upon the Institution has this year been extinguished, an event anticipated by the election on a late occasion of ten children in addition to those chosen to fill the vacancies occasioned by the discharge of such pupils as had attained the maximum age at which they could be retained in the Institution. We trust that the friends of the successful candidates will not be forgetful of the source of their unexpected good fortune. As stated in the advertisements, subscriptions are to be forwarded to the Hon. Sec. of the Fund, Bro. Edward Cox, 102, Chancery-lane, London.

CONSECRATION OF A ROYAL ARCH CHAPTER AT BURY ST. EDMUNDS.

The consecration of a Royal Arch Chapter (an unfrequent event in the provinces) took place at the Angel Hotel, Bury St. Edmunds, on Monday, 21st ult., the ceremony being impressively performed by Comp. R. Wentworth Little, Secretary to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, P.G. Scribe E., Middlesex, assisted by Comp. Smeed, P.G.F.A., Middlesex. The Principals were appointed as follows:—Comps. J. N. Yorke, Z.; Rev. C. J. Martyn, H.; W. H. Lucia, J. The Z. appointed Comps. T. J. Huddleston, Principal Sojourner, and W. Armstrong, Scribe E. The Chapter is called the "White Rose" Chapter, out of compliment to the first Z., Comp. Yorke. The companions afterwards sat down to a splendid banquet, provided in Bro. Guy's well-known style. The collection in aid of the Masonic charities was a very liberal one, and an esteemed companion made the total up to ten guineas, which will render the Chapter a Life Governor of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls.

The Crystal Palace Company have communicated to the Shah of Persia, through H. E. Hadji Moshin Khan, their desire to offer him a reception of the same character as those which they have on former occasions given to the Sultan, the Khedive, the Prince of Wales, and other Imperial and Royal personages.

Reviews.

MASONIC MAGAZINES.

Voice of Masonry (Chicago, U.S.A.). Bro. J. C. W. Bailey, editor and publisher of one of the voices of Masonry, in order to express his satisfaction at the continued prosperity of his monthly magazine, has considerably enlarged it for the new year, and it is now one of the largest of its kind (as it is also one of the best) in the United States. We are always pleased to receive it so regularly, and never fail to obtain some valuable Masonic information on referring to its pages. The series of articles by our friend and Bro. Haghan, on the "Early History of British Freemasonry," are worth more than the cost of the year's issue, so we do not wonder at the paper being such a success.

Die Bauhütte (Leipsic). The organ of the "German Masonic Union," and so ably edited by the learned Mason J. G. Findel, is still published weekly, and is as vigorous as ever. We should prefer it, however, in the octavo form.

Masonic Jewel (Memphis, Tenn. U.S.A.). The Jewel is the official organ of the State of Tennessee, and has lately appeared in a symbolical wrapper which certainly is as curious as it is handsome. Bro. A. J. Wheeler is the editor and publisher, and is evidently determined to make the paper worthy of its distinguished patronage. A condensed report of the last Grand Lodge is published in the number for February; 386 actual representatives of lodges were present, and apparently a happy and truly Masonic meeting was closed in peace and harmony.

The Keystone (Philadelphia, U.S.A.). The weekly No. (36) for March 22, is now before us, and we are glad to see our old friend is as full of genuine Masonry as ever. It is well named the Keystone, and we hope the Craft in Pennsylvania especially, has long ere this taken the only legitimate means of expressing its satisfaction at the able manner in which its worthy Editor conducts the paper, by liberally subscribing for copies, and introducing them to the notice of their friends. An effectual way, by the by, to make known even some other publications, as well as the "Keystone;" and lest we may be considered modest, we will at once own the "Freemason," and our new Monthly are in our thoughts just now, and are candidates for the universal suffrage of the fraternity.

Masonic Advocate (Indianapolis, Ind., U.S.A.). The name suggests the following, which heads the Paper—"Masonry: The Light reflected from her Altars reaches the Homes of the Widow and Fatherless." Bro. Martin H. Rice (P.G.M.) cannot have a better Beacon to guide him as Editor, and has only to remember the foregoing to be assured of his duty whilst steering the Craft in Indiana. The leader on "Masonic Obligations" in the March number is above par, and will repay a diligent perusal. Bro. Rice tells us truly that "Among too many, the obligations of Masonry appear to be almost forgotten. Though initiated—passed and raised to the sublime degree of Master Masons, they seem not to have realised the solemn and high obligations they assume of their own free-will. . . . The imprints of the Masonic lessons are not given to be rubbed out with pleasure; for their obligations are as perpetual as they are distinct and practical. There are none, indeed, that are higher, or that can supersede them in their moral power. . . . Therefore he that becomes a Mason, should remember that he his no longer a common man, for he has been ordained, set apart and obligated in the grandest fellowship fraternity that the wisdom of human genius has ever devised, a fraternity that has numbered millions in its ranks, and to-day counts among its brotherhood as many great hearts and true men as any fraternity on the face of the Globe." Brethren! think of these words and if you know any one who is shaking in his allegiance, and intending to cease paying his small subscription to his lodge, mark the foregoing, and mail him a copy of the "Freemason."

Freemasons' Monthly Magazine (Boston, U.S.A.). The veteran editor of the oldest Masonic monthly magazine in the world, Bro. Charles W. Moore, has our best wishes for a most prosperous career throughout the present year, and for as long as he can wield his facile pen, which we hope will be for many years to come. An extra "spurt" has been made to start this well-conducted periodical with a better chance of financial success, and therefore we have reason to believe that when the "balance is struck" at the end of the year, there will be more than sufficient to pay the printer. The first article is on Henry Price, the "first Grand Master in the United States." A copy of a letter has lately turned up, which was sent to the "Rt. Honourable and Rt. Worshipful Grand Master, or Deputy G.M. or G.W. of the Grand Lodge of the Free and Accepted Masons in England," and it is dated 23rd June, A.M., 5736. The letter is certainly a remarkable one for several reasons, and these mostly because antagonistic to Price's claim as Prov. G. Master by patent from the Grand Master of England. Why was this letter in A.D. 1736, addressed to the G.M., or D.G.M., or G.W. of England? Surely the Grand Secretary was the proper official to be addressed; and if Bro. Price was unaware of Bro. Read's appointment in 1734, he should have known that Bro. Read was the Grand Secretary in A.D. 1733, and therefore the addresses to the officers in question is, to the say the least, inexplicable. We may be quite certain that the Grand Secretary would be the medium of communication with the members of the Lodge at Boston, and as such an officer is mentioned in the Book of Constitutions A.D. 1723, ignorance of the fact could not be pleaded. Price signs as G.M. We should be glad to know his authority for so doing. The Earl of Loudoun was Grand Master, and Price, Prov. G. Master, if his claim was correct. Pine's engraved list of lodges, published in 1735, should have been known to Price and Officers of the lodge. In that little work the lodge is numbered 126, and we are told in the Constitutions of 1738 page 154 that "In the Mastership of Dalkeith, a list of all the lodges was engraven by Bro. John Pyne, in a very small volume, which is usually reprinted on the commencement of every new Grand Master, and dispersed among the brethren." If Bro. Price's claim to the Prov. G.M. was a valid one, and the foregoing letter is a true copy of the original forwarded to the Grand Master of England, A.D. 1736, how is it that subsequently in the Book of Constitutions of 1738, 1756 &c., Price does not appear amongst the Deputations granted abroad to Provincial Grand Masters. Please answer this Bro. Moore.

Hibernica, by Bro. D. Sheriff (London: Simpkin, Marshall, and Co.).—Bro. Sheriff is not only a poetical genius, but represents a strange union of the mathematical with the ideal, the practical with the beautiful, or in other words a combination of fact and fancy.

The Book of Poems, (Hibernica) is a book of gems, and if we mistake not our Bro. Sheriff should occupy a place in the front rank of poets hailing from the "Emerald Isle," for if ease of expression, beauty of diction and true musical ring are criteria whereby to distinguish one of nature's own, surely the author of Hibernica may lay claim to the distinction. Many of the poems we had marked (on scanning the volume) for reproduction in these pages, but want of space necessitates our refraining from giving anything like a fair proportion of the extracts we had selected. The following verses will serve to indicate the character of many of the lyrics scattered over the collection.

"My gallant bark with folded wings
Sleeps on the tranquil tide,
Lulled by the gentle murmurings
Of night winds as they glide."

"A thing of life and thought she seems Rocked on the billows' crest;
Of dangers long since past, she dreams—
Of tempests now at rest."

There is no lack of loyalty in its pages, for in the "Verses on the Queen's visit to Ireland, 11th August, 1849," there is a profusion of the most unbounded devotion to "our loved one, our fair one, our own chosen Queen," and patriotism is well represented in a most spirited and manly composition of ten verses, which if all Irishmen would but take to heart, the conclusion would soon become a happy reality, and,

"Then Ireland, from the foulest stain
Should stand in glory free,
The proudest island of the main,
Joint Mistress of the Sea."

A song at page 6, which reads very pleasantly, commencing "Success to the land where the Castle of Cairn," has since its publication been given a Masonic finish, and we have been favoured with the concluding lines as follows:—

"Hail Craftsmen. Oh! hail, for without thy blessing, What's most glorious in man had been lost in the shade,
For thy lovely design, and thy mission would seem
To prevent vicious discord, or harbour of spleen,
And disseminate love in this valley so green.
"May thy Royal Arch flourish, and truth aid its cause,
May virtue adorn, and give strength to your laws
In this land of wild mountains, and vallies so green.
May this peace-spreading banner be ever unfurled,
May its standard shed light to the whole peopled-world,
May its rays bright effulgence benign shed its beam
From the low cot of mirth to the halls of the king,
In regions remote from this valley so green."

We recommend our readers to procure copies and judge for themselves, and we conclude our sketch by wishing success to Bro. Sheriff in his literary enterprises.

Comets' Tails, no longer a mystery, By J. A. R. (Reeves and Son, London).—To us this little book has proved a most pleasant study, and if we are not now enlightened a little more on the subject of the Cometary Bodies, it is not the fault of J. A. R., who has done his best by diagrams and explanations to illustrate the confessedly mysterious subject. The author evidently assumes that the Tails of Comets, and in fact Comets generally, are composed of aggregations of gases of various densities, that they shine by reflected light, and that their heat is dependant upon the amount and constitution of the atmosphere surrounding them, (not upon their distance), hence he explains that the fact of a star not being apparently altered when seen in close proximity to the Tail of a Comet is owing to its being seen through the same medium as the Tail, a long time before the illuminated Tail interposes, and therefore under the same refraction. When the Tail has passed the star, no change of position of the star takes place until the atmosphere has travelled forward to a considerable distance. The above J. A. R. thinks "is the solution of the mystery" It is at all events most ingenious.

Obituary.

BRO. BENJAMIN PAINE TODD.

We regret to announce the death of a much-esteemed member of the Craft, Bro. Benjamin Paine Todd, P.M. and Treasurer of the Egyptian Lodge, No. 27, which occurred at his residence, No. 81, Kingsland High-street, on Tuesday, the 29th ult., at 10 o'clock a.m., aged 55, after a long and severe illness. Bro. Todd was initiated in the Egyptian Lodge in April, 1842, was the Master of that lodge in 1851, and has held the office of Treasurer ever since; also a P.Z. of Chapter No. 382, Uxbridge. He was a staunch and consistent supporter of the several Masonic Charities, and a Life Governor of them all. He was well known in the Craft for his kind and genial manner; a firm friend, and an affectionate husband and father. He has left a widow and eleven children to mourn his loss.

SATURDAY, MAY 3, 1873.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF LEICESTERSHIRE AND RUTLAND.

INSTALLATION OF THE RIGHT HONOURABLE THE EARL FERRERS AS PROVINCIAL GRAND MASTER.

A meeting of a very interesting character was held at Freemasons' Hall, Leicester, on Friday, April 18th, when the members of the late Provincial Grand Lodge, and the brethren of the Province, were summoned to attend and assist at the installation of the Earl Ferrers as Provincial Grand Master in succession to the R.W. Bro. William Kelly, F.R. Hist. Soc., who has recently resigned that office. There was a large attendance of brethren on the occasion, including several visitors from other provinces.

At 2 o'clock, the Craft Lodge, St. John's (No. 279), was opened, and shortly after that hour, the R.W. Bro. Kelly, P. Prov. G.M. accompanied by the officers of the late Prov. Grand Lodge entered the Hall in procession, and the P. Prov. G.M. having taken the chair, was saluted with grand honours.

Provincial Grand Lodge was then opened in due form, and the Rolls of Lodges and of Grand Officers were called, every lodge being well represented, and the following officers answering to their names:—Bros. the Earl Ferrers, P.D.P.G.M., J. J. Fast, S.G.W.; C. Stretton, J.G.W.; Revds. P. Phelps, and W. J. Fry, G. Chaplains; W. B. Smith, G. Treas.; J. H. Douglass, G. Reg.; S. S. Partridge, G. Sec.; E. J. Crow, G.S.D.; E. Ison, G.J.D.; J. B. Hall, G. Dir. of Cer.; J. Halford, Asst. D.C.; Capt. H. B. Burnaby, G.S.B.; W. J. Rowlett, G. Org.; I. G. Bennett, G. Std. B.; and J. M. Kew, and F. Grant, M.D., G. Stewards, together with upwards of 20 Past Grand Officers. Amongst the visitors present were Bros. Samuel Innis, D.P.G.M.; S. Jacob, P.P.S.G.W.; and Rev. F. H. Richardson, P.G. Chap. of Norths. and Hunts.; J. L. Kennedy, P.M. 1031; A. Wright, 1031, Walter Spencer, 263, and W. Simmonds, 445.

A communication from the Grand Secretary Bro. John Hervey was then read, announcing that the M.W.G.M. had accepted the resignation by Bro. Kelly of the office of Prov. G. Master, with expressions of regret that the state of that brother's health had compelled him to relinquish the post, and intimating that Bro. Kelly had not held the appointment for the prescribed period of five years which would entitle him to Past Rank, the Grand Master felt that the Craft in this Province had derived so much advantage from his guidance that it gave him pleasure, under the circumstances, to confer on Bro. Kelley, Past Rank, with the same seniority, rights, and privileges as if he had acted for the full prescribed term of years. A resolution that the Grand Secretary's letter should be entered on the minutes, was carried by acclamation, Bro. the Rev. Jno. Denton, P.P.S.G.W., the mover of the resolution very eloquently expressing the sentiments of gratification on the part of the brethren, at this graceful act of the M.W.G.M., in conferring a well-earned distinction on the worthy P. Prov. G.M., and read a congratulatory resolution on the subject from the members of the Ferrers and Ivanhoe Lodge, Ashby-de-la-Zouch.

Bro. Kelly as Prov. G.M., called on Bro. S. S. Partridge, Prov. G. Sec., to read the patent of appointment of the Right Hon. and R. W. Bro. the Earl Ferrers as Prov. G.M. A deputation was sent to receive his lordship, and he was conducted into the lodge and presented for installation by the acting D.P.G.M., Bro. the Rev. J. Denton. After giving his assent to the ancient charges, and taking the obligation, his lordship was duly installed and invested as Provincial Grand Master, saluted with grand honours, and proclaimed by his several titles, by the Prov. G.D.C., Bro. J. B. Hall.

The newly-installed Prov. G.M. returned thanks to the brethren for their support and attendance in such large numbers on that important occasion. He felt deeply the responsibility devolving on him as their ruler in Masonry.

The Province under the direction of the respected P. Prov. G. M., had attained a pitch of excellence which he was sure could not be excelled, but which he hoped might be maintained by the brethren working together with him in the endeavour to promote that object; and concluded by assuring the brethren that no efforts on his part should be spared to promote the harmony and prosperity of the province.

The officers of the late Provincial Grand Lodge were requested by the Prov. G.M. to retain their respective posts until the next annual general meeting, when their year of office would expire.

The minutes of the last annual general communication having been confirmed, the next business on the agenda paper was to present a testimonial, consisting of a purse of 130 guineas (the subscription being limited), and an illuminated address from the brethren of the province to Bro. Kelly on his retirement from the office of Prov. G.M. Bro. the Rev. J. Spittal, P.P.S.G.W., in making the presentation, alluded in a very eloquent manner to the long and distinguished Masonic career of Bro. Kelly, and to his eminent services in promoting the prosperity of the Order in this country. Referring to the great progress which Freemasonry had made in the province, and to the truly fraternal feeling which existed between the several lodges, the Rev. Bro. attributed it in a large measure to the influence of the worthy P.P.G.M. It was the work of no ordinary man to give the satisfaction which Bro. Kelly had done. The brethren all felt him to be their common friend, and so freely were his services given that they sometimes failed to appreciate their real value. In requesting acceptance of the testimonial, Bro. Spittal said the gift was but small, and had been made purposely so (the subscription being limited to a very small sum), and was a very inadequate return for the obligations which the province owed to Bro. Kelly. He trusted that that Bro. would not measure the gift by its pecuniary value, but would regard it simply as a symbol of the high esteem and respect in which he was universally held in the province.

The address, which was in the form of a book, most elaborately and beautifully illuminated and very handsomely bound, was as follows:—

"To the R.W. Bro. Kelly, Past Provincial Grand Master of Leicestershire and Rutland.

"R.W. Sir and Brother,—

"The brethren of the Province of Leicestershire and Rutland, ever bearing in mind, that during the lengthened period of your connection with our Craft you have laboured zealously to promote its welfare both in the Town of Leicester and in all the lodges of the Province, cannot allow you to sever that connection and resign your honourable office of Provincial Grand Master without placing upon record their hearty appreciation of the manner in which you have always managed their affairs.

"The M.W.G.M. of England ready at all times to reward merit, has conferred upon you Past Rank, and in his graceful tribute to your services we greatly rejoice, feeling certain that it must be gratifying to your feelings to know that they have met with acknowledgement from the head of our Order. It will also enable you, from time to time, to take that place in the Grand Lodge of England, which is your due, and for which your experience so well fits you.

"Although retiring from the active direction of the Province, we hope that it may be many years before you cease to attend our meetings; and we feel sure that your heart will ever warm towards that Institution, to the welfare of which you have devoted so many of the best years of your life, and of which you must have so many pleasing reminiscences.

"Our prayer is, that T.G.A.O.T.U. may long preserve your life, and that in His own good time He may remove you to the Grand Lodge above. We now ask your acceptance at our hands of this small token of respect and gratitude, accompanied by a purse containing 130 guineas."

A list of contributors follows the address.

Bro. Kelly, who appeared to be deeply affected, responded in a speech of some length, which from want of space we are unable to give in extenso. After thanking the brethren who had subscribed to the testimonial, also Bro. Spittal for the kind and eloquent terms in which he had made the presentation, and the Committee for their efforts in carrying the testimonial into effect, concluded in the following terms:—"So far brethren, my feelings are those of unalloyed pleasure and gratitude; but, alas, happiness in this world is never perfect, and those pleasant feelings are of necessity deeply tinged with sadness and regret when I call to mind that the occasion on which I receive at your hands, this valued token of your respect and gratitude is that on which by my resignation of the P.G. Mastership, I have severed those official ties which during the last five and thirty years have closely connected me with my Masonic brethren, the first half of that period in subordinate capacities, and during the other half as the Ruler of the Province, first virtually as Lord Howe's Deputy, and lastly as Provincial Grand Master; so that your offering is really a 'Parting Gift.' Your address, brethren, states truly that I must have 'many pleasing reminiscences of the Institution to which so many of the best years of my life have been devoted,' and you, brethren, whose names appear there, will have given me another very pleasing reminiscence in the assurance that I carry with me, in my retirement from office, your gratitude and esteem. One of the most satisfactory reminiscences which I shall carry with me in my retirement is of the fact that Masonry in the Province has not deteriorated during the seventeen years I have managed its affairs, and especially during the three years in which I have borne sway as P.G.M., but that on the contrary, I hand the Province over to my noble successor in an unprecedentedly flourishing and still progressive state. And now, brethren, I must take my final leave of you in my official character, by once more thanking from the bottom of my heart, all those brethren who have participated in this parting token of esteem, for the honour they have done me; and wishing the Province collectively, under its new ruler, and you brethren individually, every prosperity and happiness. Brethren, farewell."

At the last annual meeting a sum of money was voted for the purchase of a cup or other suitable testimonial to be presented to Bro. G. Toller, junr., in recognition of his services as Provincial Grand Secretary during the preceding three years. The R.W.P.P.G.M. announced that Bro. Toller in a truly Masonic spirit had requested that the amount so voted might be given in his name for the benefit of one of the Masonic schools instead of receiving it in the more tangible form which had been originally proposed. The amount had accordingly been appropriated as Bro. Toller desired, and he now had pleasure in handing to him the official receipt for the amount, and at the same time conveying to him the thanks of the brethren for his valuable and efficient services as P.G. Sec., during the above period. Bro. Toller, responded in suitable terms.

Some business of a private character having been disposed of, the lodge was closed, and the proceedings of the day terminated with a banquet, under the very able presidency of the newly installed Provincial Grand Master.

ANNUAL FESTIVAL OF THE STABILITY LODGE OF INSTRUCTION (NO. 217).

The 56th anniversary festival of this Lodge of Instruction, was held on Friday week, at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street. The lodge meets every Friday evening, from the first Friday in September, till the last Friday in April, on which day the "labour" of the session is brought to a conclusion by a specimen of Masonic working being given by the pupils of the lodge of which Bro. Muggeridge is Preceptor, and subsequent "refreshment," which forms the lighter part of the anniversary celebration. In such high estimation is the lodge held, and so worthy of recognition are the services of Bro. Muggeridge to the Craft considered to be, that a distinguished Freemason is always found ready to preside at the banquet or supper, and a numerous attendance of brethren to witness the working of the lodge, and partakers of the repast is ever secured. About 200 usually attend, and on Friday last that number was far exceeded. Among those who were present, we noticed Bros. Æ. J. MacIntyre, Q.C., G.R.; S. Rawson, P. Dist. G.M. of China, B. Head P.G.D.; Brackstone Baker, P.G.D.; Heather Bigg, Erasmus Wilson, M.D., George Lambert, F. Binckes, Sec. of Boys School; R. W. Little, Sec. of Girls School; James Terry, Sec. of Benevolent Institution, Hubback; J. R. Marks Hockley, A. A. Richards, John Cory Havers, Huggins, J. Stevens, F. Copestick, Diaper, Theobald, Morgan, Newton, George Kenning, J. G. Marsh, Trott, Abbott, Townend, and Crossfield.

The lodge was composed as follows:—Bro. H. Muggeridge, Preceptor, W.M.; T. R. Eames, S.W.; John Jonas, J.W.; J. B. Scriven, S.D.; Geo. Phythian, J.D.; Henry Birdseye, I.G.

The lodge having been opened in the first and second degrees, the lecture of the second degree was worked in sections by the following brethren:—

1st by Bro. Jonas.

2nd by Bro. Eames.

3rd by Bro. Scriven.

Lodge Board, the W.M.,

After this the lodge was closed in the second degree, and a vote of thanks was passed to Bro. Muggeridge, and the worthy brethren. Before the business was concluded five guineas were voted to the Girls' School, five guineas to the Boys' School, and five guineas to the Benevolent Institution. The closing was then performed, the lodge being adjourned till the first Friday in September at the Guildhall Coffee House, and the brethren retired to the

at which Bro. Æneas J. MacIntyre, Q.C., G.R., presided, supported by the brethren named above.

It was very late when the brethren sat down, and the speeches were not begun till long after ten o'clock. Under the direction of Bro. Frank Elmore, a splendid musical entertainment was provided, at which Bros. Ransford, P.G. Org., and Bro. Baxter assisted, and it is greatly to be regretted that the banquet was not arranged for an earlier hour, as a fair opportunity of enjoying the speeches and music, which were immensely above the average quality, would then have been given to the brethren, as it was, more than two-thirds of the brethren were obliged to leave before the post-prandial enjoyments had been well launched, and when the last speech had been delivered at a quarter to twelve, the remnant that remained could easily be counted.

The Chairman in proposing "The Queen, and the Craft" said, the first toast that I have to propose this evening is one that is always received among Masons with the very greatest pleasure and satisfaction in our own day. Our Sovereign Lady the Queen, the highest in the land, the mother of the most distinguished young Mason that has come among us, the Prince of Wales, and who at all times, and under all circumstances will be honoured by Masons as the head of the State, and therefore the head of the great Masonic body, of which we are members. At this late hour of the evening I shall not trouble you with long speeches upon any subject whatever, but certainly the health of our Sovereign Lady the Queen needs no encomiums from any one who occupies the chair of a Masonic body, or any other body in the world, and therefore I give you "The health of Her Majesty the Queen," and I couple with that "The Craft."

The Chairman said, the next toast is "The health of the Head of the Craft, the Marquess of Ripon, M.W.G.M.," and I am quite sure in mentioning the name of the noble lord who presides over Freemasonry in this country, I call to the attention of the brethren the health of a nobleman who is distinguished in the service of his country, and his Queen, and of whom we all feel proud, because he teaches us the very great lesson we ought to learn, that a man may be a good Freemason, and though he be a good Freemason it does not debar him from performing his duties to the outer world, but that it rather increases his powers, and enabled him to do that which unless he were a Freemason he might not be in a position to perform. We have seen that since he has been Grand Master the noble lord has received a greater honour at the hands of the Queen, that he has been made a Knight of the Most Honourable Order of Chivalry and received additional rank in the peerage of his country. Masonry has not been destructive of his advancement, but we may be of opinion that it has conduced to his being advanced as he has been by his Royal Mistress the Sovereign of this country and we are proud to have him preside over us as Grand Master of England.

The toast was duly honoured.

The Chairman: I have now to call your attention to a toast which I am sure every brother in this room will receive with the greatest pleasure and satisfaction. In the Grand Lodge of England we have two past Grand Masters,—one, who for a long series of years was the most distinguished Mason in this country, a brother who found Masonry when he became in the first instance the Deputy Grand Master of England, afterwards the Pro-Grand Master of England, and afterwards for five and twenty years the ruler of the Craft, not in a very flourishing position; but he left it a truly harmonious brotherhood that had increased in numbers, increased in importance, and increased in that great brotherly love which Masons ought to extend one to another. My Masonry does not carry me so far as to have seen him ascend to the great position which he occupied as head of the Craft. I only came into the Craft at a time when he was in the greatest zenith of his glory, when every Mason was proud of him as the head of our own noble order, and when he showed that great determination, which was one of his distinguishing characteristics, to call forth from young Masons the desire to promote the great cause of our order, and to extend to every young man in our body the courtesy that ought to be extended from the chief of the Craft to the most humble member. We have seen him now pass from that great position, and like the glorious sun that has shone in the firmament with undiminished splendour during a long summer day, sinks down at evening resplendent in the western sky, so we have seen that old man honourable, who had distinguished himself in the Craft for the greater part of his life, go down to his retirement which he has so well earned, with the highest aspiration from every Mason that his latter days may be prolonged with comfort and pleasure to himself, and with the highest gratitude of the great and noble order which he ruled, and with the assurance that he was one of the greatest men that has ever presided over them. (Cheers.) Brethren, we have nothing more to hope from that noble old man; but though we have nothing more to hope from him, let us now express, as we ought to express, the deep gratitude which every Mason feels for the great service he has rendered to the noble Craft of which we are members, and to him who has done so well, and who ought to be loved so well by every member of the Masonic body. The other Past Grand Master is one from whom we hope much. He is young in years, young in Masonry; but he has given a promise by what he has done of what he will do; and we may hope he will emulate, even if he does not surpass, those who have gone before him in doing honour and credit to the Masonry of this country. It is a proud thing for us to have to call the heir to the throne of England a Past Grand Master of the Craft. I trust the day may come when we may have the King of England a Past Grand Master of the order (applause). To both of those Past Grand Masters, to him who has served us so long and done so well; to him who is now the rising sun, and one to whom we look for the effulgence of daylight in Masonry—to both let us wish prosperity, length of days and health, and let us drink as we ought to do “The Health of the two Past Grand Masters of the Grand Lodge of England, the Earl of Zetland and the Prince of Wales.” (Cheers.)

The toast was drunk with the customary honours.

The Chairman—The next toast that I have to call to your notice is “The Health of the Deputy Grand Master, and the Officers of the Grand Lodge, present and past.” We have all of us been extremely sorry to find that our Deputy Grand Master, who is one of the most distinguished members of our order, has not been able to be present in Grand Lodge. We regret it the more because we know it is from ill health that that noble lord the Earl of Carnarvon, has not been able to attend to our numerous meetings; for we know well that when the present Grand Master was obliged to be away from England, his place was more than filled, and his duties more than performed by the Deputy Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon; and I know that every Mason, whether he comes from the west of England, where Lord Carnarvon so efficiently presides over an important province, or whether he has been a member of the Grand Lodge and seen Lord Carnarvon occupy the chair, must bear testimony to the great ability with which the duties of the chair have been performed, and must also bear testimony to the great zeal that Lord Carnarvon has always shown for the prosperity and the efficiency of the Freemasonry of this country. I do believe, and I am sure all that know him must believe, that the good of Freemasonry is at the heart of the Deputy Grand Master, and that no one is more capable of advancing its interests, and no one more desirous of doing so, than the Deputy Grand Master of England, and Provincial Grand Master of the important province of Somerset. Those who have been brought in contact with him as I have been, officially, must know that at all times, early and late, convenient and inconvenient, Lord Carnarvon has devoted himself to forward the interest of the Craft; and it was a very great pleasure to all of us to find that he was placed in the position he now occupies. The only regret that we feel is this, that his health has prevented him from performing the duties of that office as he would have done, not only to his own satisfaction, but to the great advantage of the Craft of this country. Brethren, on this occasion we have several of the Grand Officers present. One who has served us long and well in a distant country,—

I mean our Brother Rawson, Past District Grand Master of China, who knows more perhaps of Masonry in our colonies than any who are now present, and perhaps than any man who is a member of the Craft. We have our distinguished brother—I would say our old brother, though he looks so young, I dare not say old brother—Benjamin Head. Although old in Masonry he is young in constitution; although he is not young in years, yet he has also the full vigour of a man of thirty, and he is also a distinguished member of the Craft. Our Brother Brackstone Baker is also well known; I am not sure whether better in this country or in the colonies, for he has distinguished himself in both, and has made a name that will not soon be forgotten in Canada. We must not forget our Brother Ransford, Past Grand Organist, who not only has done good things in days gone by, but has shown on this present occasion that he is a most efficient supporter of Masonry by the lovely strains of his voice and the purity of his melody. I give you therefore, “The Health of the Deputy Grand Master of England, the Earl of Carnarvon, and the Officers of the Grand Lodge present and past;” and I couple with that toast the name of the Senior Grand Officer present, Brother Rawson, District Grand Master of China. (Cheers.)

The toast having been drunk,

Bro. S. Rawson said—I beg to return you the best thanks of myself and the other Grand Officers for the toast you have drunk, and am much pleased at the good opinion you have expressed of their services. In rising to respond, I do not think I do so in such good right as many others would whom I see around me. What your Chairman has said of the Deputy Grand Master's qualifications I must thoroughly endorse; but in alluding to the Grand Officers he spoke more of those Past Grand Officers who are present with us, than the actual Grand Officers. In any case I will say that they are worthy of the rank the Grand Master has conferred on them. Further than that I will not attempt to say, as it would only be detaining you unnecessarily, but I congratulate you on the success of the lodge and I return you my thanks and those of the brethren who stand up with me for the honour you have conferred on us by drinking our health.

The Chairman:—The toast which I have now to propose is very appropriately designated the toast of the evening, and I am quite sure that every brother who has come into this room for the purpose of seeing what the Stability Lodge of Instruction can do, and of hearing what our esteemed Bro. Muggeridge can perform, has not been disappointed by what he has seen and heard this evening. Brethren, I have not occupied this chair for very many years, but I have been here upon several occasions; and upon every occasion that I have been here I have found a great gathering anxious to do honour to the distinguished brother who has given the instruction to this most admirable lodge. I feel certain that whatever may be the shortcomings of the president who may come among you from time to time you will never forget the great debt of gratitude you owe to the distinguished Bro. Henry Muggeridge, who has made this lodge what it is and who continues to do his duty, and more than his duty to the Craft at large. (Cheers.) Brethren, I see upon the paper that is now before me that this is the 56th anniversary of the meeting of this lodge. I am well aware that from the juvenile appearance of my esteemed friend who sits upon my left that he was not present on the first occasion; but I know that as soon as he could come among you—I believe the very day after he was initiated into Freemasonry, or the day but one—I am told the next day after he was initiated into Freemasonry—he wanted to know what Freemasonry was; and he said “I have learned something from what has been told me by the Master in the Chair; I do not understand it very well,” because I have no doubt that from his extreme nervousness—which he has not got over at the present time—(laughter)—he did not exactly know the secret that had been imparted to him; but he thought he would find it out, and he took the earliest opportunity of pursuing his studies in Freemasonry, and finding out that secret. He said “that is only half a secret to me, or the third of a secret, and I must go a little further.” And he tried to find out where there was a Lodge of Masons or a body of Masons who could give him further instruction. He found that in the old established Stability Lodge of Instruction, which was under the direction of Bro. Peter Thompson—whose apron I think I have seen on my Bro. Muggeridge's body—it is worn out now; but though he cannot wear it, it is hung up in his house as an emblem of the great advantage he has derived from Bro. Peter Thompson's tuition; and he shewed the great spirit of enquiry which has existed in him ever since. Having placed himself among the great teachers of the Craft, he found, like a very ardent scholar that he caught up his instructors; and I think I may venture to say without fear of contradiction in this room, that he surpassed all of them, and went far beyond all that they ever taught him. In saying so I mean that where they were perfect he is perfect; where they, perhaps having grown old and having forgotten somewhat of the perfection of their knowledge and gone astray, he never has gone astray; but he hands down to us the practice of Freemasonry, the rites and ceremonies of our Order, in as pure and perfect a way as he received it in his early youth. We ought to be most thankful to him, because although the outer world may think that in the rites and ceremonies of Freemasonry, in what we teach, it is only the “dry bones” without any flesh and blood on them, I am quite sure if they could have the good fortune of hearing Bro. Muggeridge expound what the principles of Freemasonry are, and of receiving the advantage of his explanations they would see how on those “dry bones” he could put living flesh and flowing blood, and would learn that Freemasonry is a living science for benefiting mankind, and making man more desirous of having fellowship with his neighbour, and every man more anxious to be a good citizen and a good subject. We are told and we know that Freemasonry is a science that is “illustrated by symbols.” It is most beautifully illustrated by the symbols of Bro. Muggeridge; who in those symbols teaches us that as Freemasons we ought to be good men, and ought to do that which will make us loved of all men. If we followed that which he teaches us and which is taught not only by him, but by other good and loyal Freemasons we should be better citizens of the world, better neighbours to each other, and better subjects of our Sovereign Lady and Queen. Brethren, at this late hour I am not going to make a long dissertation: I have spoken already too long, and have occupied too much of your time, because I am preventing you from hearing Bro. Muggeridge, who is as eloquent here as he is when he teaches Freemasonry. I shall therefore conclude by giving you “Prosperity to the Stability Lodge of Instruction,” of which I have been a member for a good many years, and of which I have learned so much, and I couple with that toast the name of Bro. Muggeridge. (Great applause; after which a first-rate Masonic fire was given).

Bro. Muggeridge—It is with great pleasure I rise on the present occasion to thank you for the kind and hearty manner in which the last toast has been proposed and responded to. Having had the satisfaction of returning thanks for the same toast so many years, it is quite impossible for me to say anything different to the old story, but as we have a number of young Masons here for the first time, I trust the older brethren will kindly excuse me if I repeat a little of what they have heard so often. This Lodge of Instruction was founded in 1817 by Bros. Broadfoot, Satterley, Peter Thompson, Hearder and other good brethren of that period, I joined it on the 8th November, 1839, the night after my initiation, and I have been a regular attendant since (nearly thirty-four years ago) the last twenty-two years of which it has been under my management. I am happy to say it has been very prosperous and a source of great pleasure to me. I am greatly pleased at the good and successful meeting we have had this evening, and the admirable manner in which my friends and pupils “the working brethren” have performed their duties. I trust the visitors are satisfied and pleased. I thank you for the kind reception you have given me, and bid you farewell till the first Friday in September next, when I hope to have the pleasure of meeting many of you at the Guildhall Tavern in Gresham-street.

Bro. S. Rawson—I know Brethren, that my rising would be considered a great boldness, and if it were not for the character of the toast which I have the pleasure of proposing I should rise with very very great diffidence. I wish I had the eloquence of your worthy president to expatiate on his talents and virtues as he has already done in regard to the character of your preceptor. I believe however, that you will agree with me that every word he has addressed to you in proposing the health of your preceptor might be very well addressed by myself to you in speaking of him. You all feel that he is a credit to the high office he fills this evening as he is, whether in a private lodge or in Grand Lodge. Any office he fills he adorns, and you will best express the same sentiment by drinking his health with the greatest enthusiasm. (Cheers).

The toast having been drunk.

The Chairman said—I will not allow a moment to elapse before returning thanks for the kind manner in which you have been pleased to receive my name. I cannot forget that this lodge which has existed for so many years had as its president at the banquet, one of the most distinguished men in Masonry, I mean our Bro. John Havers; and I must say that anyone who had to come after him had a very difficult task to fulfil. I am quite certain that the task has not been fulfilled; but still I know this, that your kindness has made up for any want of that power that ought to have come from the chair. You have had formerly a great president, one who did honour to Masonry. I have tried to do my best; and you have no more than seconded me. I thank you very much for the manner in which you have received me on this occasion. I only regret that I cannot come up to the virtues and excellences of presideney which were always displayed by our distinguished Bro. Havers. I thank you again very much. I have, as I said, tried to do my best. My friend on my right (Bro. Rawson) says I have succeeded. I do not say that, but I have tried to do as well as I can; and on this occasion, and on all occasions, whether in the chair or out of the chair, it shall be my endeavour to support this great and glorious lodge. (Applause).

Bro. Brackstone Baker—I see the room is thinning so quickly that it is essential I should bring the second or duplicate toast of the evening before you at once, that is the toast of "The Working Brethren." Our Bro. Muggeridge has told you to-night that Masonry is speculative. I think it is also operative, and my opinion will be borne out when you reflect on the labour that has been bestowed by those busy bees who have worked the ceremonies, in acquiring a knowledge of their duties. You will admit that they well deserve that we should drink their health, and drink it with the enthusiasm that belongs to Masonry. It requires not only to have a good teacher, but an apt scholar; and I look upon the present meeting as a public examination of the results of the lectures of Professor Muggeridge. (Laughter.) Those particular scholars have passed that examination and have obtained their diploma and they well deserved to be called Masters of their art. They are the dramatis personæ of the evening's entertainment, and we should ill acquit ourselves of that gratitude which we owe to the brethren who have proved themselves so worthy of their preceptor, and who have manifested to us that the art which we all profess is not speculative but operative also. Bro. Eames will respond to the toast, as our Bro. Muggeridge who is also a working brother has already spoken.

The brethren then drank the toast with Masonic honours.

Bro. Eames—In rising to return thanks for this toast I can only express my feelings of regret that the duty has not fallen into the hands of some abler representative than myself. I can only say that we, the working brethren of this evening, are especially happy in having our Bro. Muggeridge among us as a working brother to-night, and if he had not already spoken we should have been glad to depute to him the honour of returning thanks for us. I would expressly wish to state that we, one and all, working brethren, feel how much we have been honoured to-night that Bro. Muggeridge has accepted the position of a fellow workman. I am speaking on behalf of the other working brethren besides myself, and on their behalf as well as my own thank him for the exertion he has used in making us acquire the knowledge we possess. In the acquisition of that knowledge we have experienced the greatest pleasure and delight, because we have the welfare of Freemasonry at heart, and in exhibiting our proficiency to you our pleasure has been enhanced by the knowledge of the attention with which you have witnessed it. In conclusion, I have only to add, that we thoroughly appreciate the kind expressions you have made use of, and having the good of Masonry at heart we shall do all that lies in our power to further the welfare of this lodge of Instruction.

Bro. Benjamin Head—Our good President has empowered me to propose the next toast, and I do it with a great deal of pleasure, because it is "Success to the Sister Lodge of Instruction." This has been the Mother Lodge of Instruction; but the other one has been associated with it for some years. In that lodge our good friends, Bro. Hervey, Grand Secretary, Bros. Fenn and Baker, have taken a leading position in imparting Masonic instruction, and we must all feel that that lodge is in the best of hands. It has gone on and prospered, with such instruction. So amiable, so kind, so benevolent in all their feelings, they yet think it a pleasure to give instruction, and they go on performing their appointed task. We have here some members of that lodge, and I can only say that it always gives me great delight when I go to visit other lodges, and hear their working. I am quite certain that everybody here feels as sincerely for the well being of the other Lodge of Instruction as they do for their own. I shall therefore ask you to drink "Success to the Emulation Lodge of Improvement."

The toast having been honoured, Bro. H. Brigg replied. He said—As members of the sister lodge we are greatly obliged to you for not forgetting it on this happy occasion. Many of us are members of this lodge as well as of the Emulation, and we have the sincerest feeling of pleasure at the success which has always attended you. This evening we have enjoyed ourselves very much, and while we are delighted at your prosperity we know you deserve it, and it is a pleasure to us at all times to come among you to congratulate you upon it.

The Chairman—Without a moment's pause I think I ought to propose the next toast, the last toast of the evening, because I know if we delay these things we get nearly empty benches; and I must say it has been always against my principle to propose this toast at the end of the evening. I think very much earlier would have been better, because if given so late as I now give it, as soon as the speaker begins, some one moves, and the attention which the toast deserves is not given to it. But as it is always given at this anniversary meeting in its present order, I now beg to propose "Prosperity to the Masonic Charities." Two of those charities have had their festivals this year. The Aged Freemasons had a very good festival; and the Boys' School, which had an unprecedentedly excellent list. There is one Masonic charity that remains to have its festival, a charity, I was going to say, dearer to us all than either of the other two—quite as dear, at all events, and that is the Charity of the Girls' School. We all know that men may struggle on even when they are beyond the period of youth. Boys may fight their way under very adverse circumstances; but girls are left in a very disadvantageous position if their parents have departed this life, and have had but little to give them; and therefore beyond doubt, I think the Girls' Institution ought to have the great support of Masons. The other two Charities have had their chance, and they have done well. The Girls' chance is to come, and I am glad to say that we know they have a most energetic Secretary, a man who has distinguished himself, and who will distinguish himself, because he is a young man. He has life before him, and he has the advantage of the Institution before him, and he will push it to the utmost. I think therefore that in drinking this toast "The Freemasons Charities," and in coupling that toast with the Girls' School and with its most distinguished Secretary, who will do so much for it (he has not had a chance yet), Bro. Little, we can do no more than wish prosperity to it—wish he may have most distinguished success on that occasion, and upon all occasions; and that Bro. Little may long be the distinguished Secretary of that Institution.

Bro. Little—Worshipful Sir and Brethren, following the very admirable example that you have set us this evening, I rise at once to return thanks for the toast which you have been pleased to propose. I am very pleased to know that the toast of "The Masonic Charities" is one which is always well received in Masonic bodies, and I am more especially pleased on the present occasion to testify to the great liberality the Craft has displayed in supporting the two charities which have preceded the charity which I now represent. In the year 1873 they have been most nobly, most liberally, most generously supported by the Craft. Their subscriptions have been, as you have remarked, Worshipful Sir, unprecedented, and unprecedented to an extent that we had no idea of at the commencement of the year. We have had many expositions of the principles of Masonry in the lodge which was held in this room. I fancy we had more than the exposition of this principle in that lodge, for I must remember this, that without carrying the principle into practice we were told we were guilty of not performing one duty as Masons. The admirable Institution established by our forefathers, the Masonic Institutions carry into practical life and into tangible existence the principle we all profess. They are, so to speak, "the outward and visible sign" of the principles of the Craft. I say it without fear of contradiction, that without those Charities Masonry were a mummy. You have well, as I have said, supported the Charities in the past, and I am sure that the brethren I see gathered round this board this evening will assist, and not only assist, but propagate, the principles of generosity and liberality in the future you have displayed in the past—that they will rally around the Girls' School at its next festival on the 14th May—that they will evince that the last of the charitable festivals, is not the least in their thoughts—that they will support Lord Skelmersdale, who is, they will have seen, to take the chair. However amply they have evinced their sense of the duties devolving upon them by supporting the other Institutions, I am sure they have not forgotten the oldest, and as our Chairman has said not the least dear of our Charities. I will not detain you at this late period of the evening longer than to remind you that although we are the oldest, and have been liberally supported in the past, we require liberal support in the present. We are now providing for an increased number of children. Only yesterday, at a meeting of the General Committee, they determined to increase the number of the objects of their bounty, and I am satisfied the Craft of this country will support them in their resolution to enlarge and increase the extent of that Charity, and in that desire they will be seconded by the general body of Freemasons. I have to thank you Worshipful Sir, for the way in which you have spoken of myself personally. I have every desire to do my duty to this noble Institution; and I may say during the short period I have occupied the post, I have received the utmost assistance, the utmost aid, the utmost encouragement not only in London but in the provinces in my desire to enlarge the scope of our usefulness, that we should extend the benefits of the Institution to the deserving children of all deserving brethren; and I am sure I shall continue to receive that support as long as I follow the same course. I have to return my sincere thanks for myself, and for the Institution of which I am the Secretary. I know, Worshipful Sir, the Masonic Charities have received the utmost aid and encouragement from you, and I am confident they will receive that encouragement in the future they have done in the past, and the encouragement of every brother around this board. (Cheers.)

Bro. Terry, who was loudly called for, said—Excuse me making any lengthened remarks, as I have not the power, owing to a cold, to make my voice heard; but I return my thanks to you sir, and to the brethren present, in expression of the very great sense I feel of the obligations and responsibilities which have been cast upon me during the present year, and for the very handsome manner in which the Craft have supported me. I may be permitted to say that I congratulate my Bro. Little upon the great success he will achieve at his next festival, and I congratulate the Craft generally upon the first occasion I had the opportunity of appearing before them as Secretary when the largest amount was collected. That has enabled the Committee to raise the annuities to our aged brethren from £26 to £36 a year, and to the widows from £25 to £28. That may seem a very small sum to give them, but I can assure you it is an enormous boon to those poor people. I can inform the brethren that the small pittance of an extra pound is like a perfect godsend to them. The letters I have received from them thanking the brethren are numerous; they feel that they cannot thank you enough. This impresses upon me the necessity to go on, and further to induce the Craft to give a sum larger if possible. It is a very gratifying thing to know that during the past year we have accomplished a red letter year in Freemasonry. The Boys' School is out of debt. We may congratulate ourselves very largely upon that: not that you will diminish in any one sense the exertions you have made in years gone by for that noble institution; but it will stimulate you to yet further exertions on its behalf, and to extend to the Girls' School and the Benevolent Institution in the future a part of that which they have felt bound to give to the Boys' School. I am proud to think we are in a flourishing condition. As the number of our members increases, so I hope the success of the charities will go on. The large number we have admitted into our Order is an assurance as it appears to me that larger numbers will apply to us for our benefits. It must of necessity be so: the larger numbers that come in the larger must be the number who want relief. You have nobly answered the call which has been made upon you by the committees of the various institutions, and speaking as the representative of the youngest of the Masonic institutions. I can only say that the success which has hitherto attended the Girls' and Boys' Schools and the Benevolent Institution will, I hope in years to come, still continue, and we shall be able to show to our descendants that those who preceded them endeavoured to do all they could to leave a bright example to those who should follow. I beg to return you my most sincere and hearty thanks for the honor you have done us, and I trust the support we have received will be continued, and that we shall all have one object in view, namely, the common good of the whole Craft. (Applause.)

The brethren shortly afterwards separated.

A selection of vocal and instrumental music was given (under the direction of Bro. Frank Elmore) by Bros. Baxter, Frank Elmore, and Bro. Ransford, Past Grand Organist.

INSTALLATION OF THE PROV. GRAND MASTER FOR CAMBRIDGESHIRE.

The Masonic ceremonies connected with the installation of the Provincial Grand Master, Lord Royston, M.P., appointed some months ago to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Bro. T. Hall, of King's College, who held the office above twenty years, took place on Monday, 28th ult., at the Sir Isaac Newton Lodge, Green-street, Cambridge; Bro. Deighton, Deputy Provincial Grand Master, presided, and there was a large attendance of brethren from all parts of the province. At the conclusion his lordship gracefully acknowledged the honour conferred upon him, and the lodge adjourned to the hall of St. Peter's College, where a grand banquet was prepared for the brethren, who assembled to the number of about 70, under the presidency of the newly-installed Grand Master supported by his wardens.

THE ROYAL VISIT TO WIGAN.—Last Wednesday, a public meeting was held at the Borough-court, Wigan, to appoint a committee to carry out the arrangements for giving a fitting reception to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, who with the Princess, will visit the town in Whit-week for the purpose of opening the new Infirmary, exhibition, and bazaar. The Mayor was supported by Bro. the Rt. Hon. Lord Lindsay, and a distinguished company. It was resolved that public subscriptions be raised to meet the expenses of the reception, and the Mayor promised to bear the cost of a banquet to the invited nobility, gentry, and mayors.

THE LOSS OF THE ATLANTIC.—It may be interesting to know that Captain Williams, the commander of the ill-fated S.S. Atlantic, is connected with the Prince of Wales Lodge (No. 1035), Liverpool, and is held in high estimation by the whole of the brethren. The Atlantic is the 45th large Transatlantic steamer that has been lost since 1841. The value of these vessels was about £3,000,000 sterling. Forty-one of the ships were of iron. Seven supposed to have foundered at sea, were never heard of. As an illustration of the danger of the Nova Scotian coast, it may be added that nine steamers running from the mouth of St. Lawrence to Portland were lost in seven years. Has this dangerous coast been seriously considered by those who utterly condemn Bro. Capt. Williams.

SAD RESULTS OF A FIRE.—In the course of the destructive fire which raged at Messrs. Parkinson's brassfoundry, Blackburn, on Monday, the 21st ult., Bro. Superintendent Joy, of the fire brigade, was killed instantaneously by the falling of an outer wall. Mr. MacCullum, a machinist, was also killed, and another man was badly injured. On Thursday morning, the 24th ult., the bodies of Bro. Joy, and Mr. MacCullum, were interred at the Blackburn cemetery. The procession was headed by Chief-Constable Potts, and the members of the Blackburn police force, followed by the mayor and corporation, and the fire brigades of Clitheroe, Church, Accrington, Bolton, Preston, Chorley, and Darwen. In addition to the funeral service of the Church of England, Bro. Joy had a full Masonic service. At least 5,000 spectators assembled at the grave side, and with the utmost order viewed the ceremony.

In consequence of the melancholy suicide of Earl Delawarr, (brother to the Countess of Derby), Bro. the Worshipful the Mayor of Liverpool, postponed a civic banquet which he proposed on Friday last, at the Town Hall, to Lord Derby, the Lord Mayor of London, and about 250 other distinguished guests.

The consecration of the Great City Lodge, (No. 1426), will take place at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, this day (Saturday), at three o'clock precise.

A Convent General of the United, Religious, and Military Orders of the Temple and St. John of Jerusalem, Palestine, Rhodes and Malta, will take place on Friday next the 9th inst., at 4 o'clock, at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street.

A meeting of the Grand Council of the Ill. Knights K.M. 30°, will take place on Tuesday the 13th inst., at the New Masonic Hall, Golden-square, at 4.45 p.m.

Royal Order of Scotland, the Prov. Grand Lodge of London, and the Metropolitan counties, will meet on Monday the 12th of May at 4 p.m., precisely, at 33, Golden-square.

RED CROSS OF CONSTANTINE.—A new conclave, the "De Shurland," No 97, is about to be opened at the Fountain Hotel, Sheppey, Kent. Its founders are chiefly naval officers, and it is expected to be in every respect a brilliant success.

The Right Hon. the Lord Skelmersdale, Intendant General, unattached, has accepted the post of Chief Intendant General for the County Palatine of Lancaster.

ROYAL ORDER OF SCOTLAND.—Provincial Grand Lodge of London, and the metropolitan counties.—The Knights Companions of the R.S. Y.C.S., are to meet in council at their Provincial Grand Lodge 33, Golden-square the 12th May. We understand that a large number of distinguished Royal Arch Masons will be advanced and promoted to the Royal Order on this occasion.

ANCIENT AND ACCEPTED RITE.—The Supreme Council of the 33rd degree meets on the 13th May, at the Masonic Hall, 33, Golden-square, when considerable additions to the ranks of the 31st° and 30th° will be made, many well-known and enthusiastic Masons of high standing seeking admission to these necessarily restricted and exalted degrees. The Supreme Council are gradually becoming a wealthy and important body, and if they continue to exercise in the future that wise discretion in the admission of candidates which they have exhibited in the past, the Ancient and Accepted Rite will hold a place in this country superior to most, and second to none, amongst the great Masonic organisations which practise the Royal art.

A portrait model of the late Mr. W. C. Macready, represented as in the character of Coriolanus, may be seen at Madame Tussaud's Collection in Baker-street.

EVILS OF PROXIES IN GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

It is pleasing to see such Masons as Bro. W. J. Hughan, and others, taking a common sense view of the evils of the system of proxies in the Grand Lodge of Scotland. If proxies are of any value for lodges in the Colonies, it would be wise that they select their Proxy Masters from amongst those that are Past Masters of lodges and not from members of the Craft who have no experience of the duties they are called upon to discharge in the settlement of important questions in Grand Lodge.

A PAST AND PROXY MASTER.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.
THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered. CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Croup, Hoarseness, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Fever, Cholera, Ague, CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Typhoid Fever, Cholera, Ague, CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhoea, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palsy, and Spasms. CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Catarrh, Venenitis, &c.

From Lord Francis Conyngham, Member of the Privy Council, 1868.
 " Lord Francis Conyngham, who this time last year bought some of Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne from Mr. Davenport, and has found it a most wonderful medicine, will be glad to have had a dozen bottles sent at once to the above address.

" Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he had received a dispatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Manila, to the effect that Cholera had been raging for days, and that the only remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, Dec. 1, 1864.

From W. VERSALIUS PETTIGREW, M.D., Hon. F.R.S. England;
 Formerly Lecturer on Anatomy and Physiology at St. George's School of Medicine.

From Dr. THOMAS SANDFORD, Passage West, Cork.

" I will thank you to send me a further supply of Chlorodyne. It was the most efficacious remedy I ever used, affording relief in violent attacks of Spasms within a minute after being taken. One patient in particular, who had suffered for years with periodical attacks of Spasms of a most painful nature, and unable to obtain relief from other remedies, such as Opium, &c., finds nothing so prompt and efficacious as Chlorodyne."

From J. M'GURCOA CROFT, M.D., M.R.C.P. London, late Chief Surgeon to H.M.F.

" Sir,—After prescribing Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne for the last three years in various cases of Neuralgia and Tic-Doloureux, I feel that I am in a position to testify to its valuable effects. Results in some cases it acts like a charm, when all other means had failed. Without being asked for this report, I must candidly state my candid opinion that it is a most valuable medicine, and I have recommended several Cases in this neighbourhood not to be without it for prescriptions."

From Jno. E. GOULSTONE, M.D., late Principal Surgeon to the Steamship "Great Eastern."

" I can confidently state that Chlorodyne is an admirable Sedative and Anti-spasmodic, having used it in Neuralgia, Hysteria, Asthma, and Consumption, with remarkably favourable results. It relieved a fit of Asthma in four minutes, where the patient had suffered eleven years in a most distressing manner, no previous remedy having had so immediate and beneficial an effect."

From Dr. B. J. BOLTON, and Co., Hornsey St.

" We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation, in whatever organ or from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after effects."

J. C. BAKER, Esq., M.D., Bideford.

" It is, without doubt, the most valuable and certain Analgesic we have."

CAUTION.—BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir V. Page Wood stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne was well and well known by the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the name of the Inventor, Freeman, was deliberately stolen, and he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See Times, 12th July, 1864.

Sold in Bottles of 1/2, 1/3, 1/4, and 1/8 each. None is genuine unless it bears the name of J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming evidence that the name is a registered trade mark.

ROYAL BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION FOR AGED FREEMASONS.

The Votes and Interests of the Governors and Subscribers of this Institution are earnestly solicited on behalf of BRO. JOHN LLEWELLYN, P.M., Pembroke-Dock, AGED 60 years.

This worthy Brother was Initiated, Passed, and Raised in the St. David's Lodge, No. 369, in the year 1847. He joined the Royal Welsh Lodge, No. 378, in 1849, and to which he has been a subscribing member to the present time. He filled the situation of Warden and the office of Master of the latter Lodge with credit to himself and advantage to the Craft; being, at all times when in prosperous circumstances, ready to contribute liberally, and to relieve distress wherever found. He is now dependent on a small agency for support, and has neither child nor relative to assist him when incapacitated by age and increasing infirmity.

This Case is strongly recommended by the following Brethren:— Sir Pryse Pryse, Bart., R.W.P.G.M., W.D., South Wales.

- Major J. A. Lloyd Phillips, D.P.G.M., ditto. T. C. Meyrick, Esq., M.P., P.P.D.G.M., ditto. Geo. Parry, Esq., W.M. 378, P.P.S.G.W., ditto. *Thos. Phillips, P.M. 378, 999, P.S.G.W., ditto. Dr. Geo. GRAND FESTIVAL.

Grand Festival of English Freemasons was held on Wednesday, in the Temple, and the Most Honourable the Marquess of Ripon was installed, for the fourth time, Grand Master of English Freemasons. Grand Lodge presented a very lively scene, there being about 300 brethren from different parts of the country, and a full dais of Past Grand Officers present in their gorgeous clothing.

Grand Lodge having been opened, Grand Secretary, Bro. John Hervey, read the minutes of last Quarterly Communication which were then put and confirmed.

Sir Albert W. Woods (Garter) then proclaimed the Grand Master by his numerous titles, and led the salutations which were given in ancient Masonic style.

On the brethren resuming their seats, the Grand Master said: Brethren, I beg to return you my hearty thanks for the kind reception which you have given me to-day, and for the marked proof of your confidence which you have accorded to me by this renewed election. I can assure you that I am very sensible not only of the high honour which that confidence confers upon me, but also of the great kindness and forbearance with which you have been pleased to judge of the course which I have pursued during the years that I have filled the great office of your Grand Master. I must in the first place offer you my apologies for my absence at the last Quarterly Communication, which, however, arose, as you are well aware, from an imperative cause. It was my full intention to have been present on that occasion, and all my arrangements for the purpose had been made; but, as you know, I was suddenly called away to the South of France by the very alarming illness which through an accident had happened to my son. I am very glad to say the cause of that anxiety which I then felt has been removed, and I rejoice heartily to meet you again on this occasion. I rejoice also that it is now in my power to congratulate you very unfeignedly upon the prosperous condition of the Craft at the present time. I believe that it may truly be said, that at no previous period in the history of Freemasonry in this country has the Craft been in a more prosperous and satisfactory condition than it is at the present time. Our lodges are increasing rapidly in number, and the enrolled members of the Craft are becoming more and more numerous, I had almost said, every day. But, brethren, we must all bear in mind that in Masonry as in other human affairs a state of prosperity has its peculiar dangers and its peculiar duties (hear, hear); and the two facts to which I have just adverted, namely, that lodges are rapidly increasing in numbers, and that the number of Masons is increasing also throughout the country, impose upon all of us very important duties. I feel it is a bounden duty, on my part, to tender to my Right Worshipful brethren, the Prov. Grand Masters, throughout the country, my warm and hearty thanks for the zealous and able assistance which they have given me in the regulation and management of the Craft; and in respect to that question of the increase in the number of lodges in the provinces, I must of course mainly be guided by the recommendations of the Provincial Grand Masters. I am sure that all of them who are here present will agree with me when I say that it behoves every one of us in our respective degrees—I do not say for one moment, to check the progress of the Craft, but to be very careful to investigate the circumstances of each new lodge that is established, to see that it is really required, that the desire for it springs from true Masonic motives; that it is not the result of party feeling or the want of Masonic harmony in the district in which it is proposed a new lodge should be established, and that it may justly and satisfactorily be recommended to me, and moreover, that I shall be doing good to the Craft in granting a warrant for that lodge. There is a duty which lies upon every one of us, upon every one of you here present, and upon every brother throughout the country, and that is the duty of always recognizing the responsibility that rests upon us of proposing any person for initiation. (Hear, hear). So far as the condition of Masonry at the present time goes we have no want of an increase of the Order by those who are fit to be admitted; but we ought invariably to put the duty of maintaining the character and position of the Order above the feelings of private friendship, and especially above the feeling that it is very disagreeable to have to say “No” to a person who may make application to us either in regard to Masonic or private affairs. Now, it is a great responsibility which lies upon lodges that they do not admit unworthy brethren into the Craft. Some circumstances which have recently come to my knowledge, make me afraid that there is a tendency sometimes to let in brethren who come from a distance, and about whom very little is known, without making enquiries of the Masons in the district from which they come. Now, nothing can be more unwise, nothing can be more un-masonic than that proceeding, because it often entails very serious responsibilities on the district in which the candidate habitually resides, and the inhabitants of which are the most fit judges of the brother's suitability to join the Craft. (Hear, hear.) Brethren, I thought it right to make these observations, because this point involves the danger which attends upon a condition of prosperity, such as that in which the Craft now finds itself; and I am sure I may rely upon every brother in this Grand Lodge, and on every brother throughout the country to second me in my efforts—which it is my duty to make—constantly to uphold the character and position of this ancient institution. (Cheers). Brethren, once more do I thank you most heartily for my re-election, and for the cordial reception which you have given me to-day. And now I shall proceed to the other business of the evening, the immediate portion of which is the appointment of the Grand Officers, the first of whom is the Deputy Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon, whom I re-appoint. You are aware, all of you, that he has been unable to attend Grand Lodge for some time, and many of you are aware that he has been in weak health during a large portion of last year. I am glad to say that his health is now very much improved, and I have every reason to hope, although he is not able to come among us this evening, we shall see him here very shortly, in fact at the next Quarterly Communication. (Cheers.)

The following brethren were then appointed by the Grand Master his Grand Officers for the year, and invested with the splendid collars and jewels of their respective offices:—
Lord Balfour of Burley (the inheritor of a very ancient peerage in the history of Scotland) S.G.W.

- Major William Platt, J.G.W.
- The Rev. A. B. Fraser and the Rev. Robert P. Bent, Grand Chaplains.
- Samuel Tomkins, Grand Treasurer.
- Æneas J. McIntyre, Q.C., Grand Registrar.
- John Hervey, Grand Secretary.
- Emil E. Wendt, Grand Secretary for German Correspondence.
- James Glaisher, } Grand Senior Deacons.
- Richard Havers, }
- F. A. Philbrick, } Junior Grand Deacons.
- E. J. Furner, }
- F. Pepys Cockerell, Grand Supt. of Works.
- Sir Albert W. Woods (Garter) Grand Director of Ceremonies.
- John Whichcord, Assistant ditto.
- Henry Bulley, Grand Sword Bearer.
- Wilhelm Ganz, Grand Organist.
- C. A. Cottebrune, Grand Pursuivant.
- Thomas Cubitt, Assistant ditto.
- Charles B. Payne, Grand Tyler.

Bro. John Boyd was authorized to take the rank and wear the clothing of a Past Grand Pursuivant, an authorization which elicited loud cheers.

The following brethren were approved by the Grand Master as Grand Stewards:—

- Bros. E. A. Baylis (259); James Mc Inlay (14); A. R. Martin (58); W. A. Colls (1); R. R. Holmes (2); J. Chynoweth (4); W. L. Holt (5); Sir G. R. Prescott, Bart. (6); R. J. Hayhow (8); Thomas W. White (21); Herbert Dicketts (23); F. Payne (26); R. A. Brooks (29); J. H. Paul, M.D. (46); E. H. Cox (60); F. W. Pamphilon (9); W. Leask (99); Chevalier C. E. Habicht (197).

Grand Lodge was then formally closed, and the brethren to the number of about 300, including the present and many past Grand Officers, sat down to a splendid banquet in Freemasons' Tavern, provided by the Grand Stewards. These consisted of Bros. John A. Rucker, President (259); Standish G. Grady, Treasurer (14); Frederick G. Finch, Hon. Secretary (58); Walter H. Wilkin (1); Charles A. Swinburne (2); George Kelly King (4); Francis Morgan (5); Lord Cremorne (6); Anthony Sim (8); Griffiths Smith (21); Jonathan Brandon (23); Thomas S. Soden (26); Edward M. Haigh (29); Frederick H. Rooke (46); Thomas Young (60); Henry Radcliffe (91); George D. Stibbard (99); and Henry Gauning (197). And it is but fair to say that the arrangements reflected the highest credit upon them. Of course they were not responsible for the gas, which all of a sudden went out, just as the ladies made their reappearance in the gallery. The circumstance caused considerable amusement, and will explain many of the humorous allusions in the speeches, which otherwise would be inexplicable. Public diners-out have frequently made disparaging observations on the wax candles, which almost always adorn the tables at which they sit; but those observations must in future be silenced by the remembrance, that if the candles had not been provided for Grand Festival of 1873, a state of confusion must have ensued, which would have entirely marred the very successful celebration of the Grand Master's fourth accession to office. Few Masons, we presume, remember the time when Masonic festivals, and public entertainments generally, were not lighted with gas; but the Freemasons of 1873, and the ladies who accompanied them to Grand Festival of that year, will be able to say that they have a notion of what dingy grandeur the splendid celebrations of our forefathers must have consisted, when compared with the resplendent beauty of modern illumination.

On the clearing of the cloth, grace was sung, and the toasts were proposed and responded to in regular order. In giving "The Queen and the Craft,"

The Grand Master said: I rise, brethren, under circumstances of no ordinary difficulty. I know well that the world at large in their ignorance of Freemasonry believe that we are very much given to deeds of darkness. (Laughter.) They are very much mistaken in that opinion, and we are quite ready to bring forward proofs, so far as is consistent with the ancient principles of the Craft, that we have light, if its rival, the gas, which is apparently a somewhat fickle element, will afford us the opportunity of doing so. But, Brethren, the toast that I have now to ask you to drink is one which requires no recommendation either of words or of illumination, because the health of one who is in every sense a light to her subjects—(hear, hear)—is the health of one who sets by her own brilliant example, whether it be in the earnest discharge of public duties or in the constant practice of every social and domestic virtue, a pattern which should be followed by every one. I give you "The Health of Her Majesty the Queen."

The toast having been drunk, was followed as usual by the singing of the National Anthem.

The Grand Master: The next toast that I have to propose to you is one which I know well you will drink with the utmost heartiness; it is "The Health of our Most Worshipful Brother, His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, the Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family." Brethren, we always should have received the toast of the heir of the Crown and the other members of his illustrious family with warmth and enthusiasm among a society so loyal as that of Freemasons; but we have peculiarities which unite us to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and the interest which he has always shewn from the first hour in which he entered into the Craft for all that concerns the welfare of Masonry has given him a place, and a very high place in the heart of every true Mason. (Hear, hear.) We all know that at the present moment His Royal Highness is worthily representing this country in the great capital of the Austrian Empire, and of course that explains his absence from us on this occasion, though I feel confident that had it been in the power of His Royal Highness consistently with his many necessary engagements to have been with us this evening it would have been to him a source of very great satisfaction to have been here. I give you "The Health of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, the Princess of Wales, and the other Members of the Royal Family."

The toast was duly honored.

Bro. R. J. Bagshaw, Provincial Grand Master of Essex: Brethren, it is my privilege to introduce to you the next toast. I could have desired that it had fallen into other hands, but I take upon myself this position because I share in active duty. But Brethren, although it is active duty, I do it with pleasure because I know you all feel sincerity in the warmth with which you will receive the toast—The Health of the Grand Master of England. I can answer for this great assembly that the feelings of enthusiasm which we shall exhibit will evince that our sentiments are not merely formal, but will shew him that we are delighted to see him here tonight after the trials he has undergone. I am sure that I express the feelings of you all when I say that we all feel proud that he occupies the high position of our Grand Master. I am myself a very old Mason, and it is from the fact that I am an old Mason that I have the honour to propose this toast. I am happy to say that after a long experience in Masonry no Brother has ever filled the high position which our noble Brother now fills with greater credit to the Craft than he. (Hear, hear.) Brethren, we have, I am sure, in another place listened to him this night with a degree of pleasure and satisfaction not to be equalled. On the duties of Provincial Grand Masters we have gathered much useful information. He has been pleased to say that he derives much of his strength from us, and falling as that expression does from one in his high position it is extremely gratifying to us. I hope the allusions he has made will have their due weight. He has taught us this, that we should exercise great caution in every thing we do in Freemasonry. I will not detain you by descanting on the merits of the nobleman who sits at my left hand, but as I know that you are all well acquainted with his merits and love him for his virtues you will drink with enthusiasm "The Health of the Grand Master."

The Grand Master: I thank you for the kind manner in which you have responded to the toast proposed in such friendly terms by my Right Worshipful friend on my right. You have added another to the many causes of gratitude which you have given me in times past. I should indeed be most ungrateful if I did not rejoice to have this opportunity of meeting once more those who have been pleased now for several years to honor me by the distinguishing marks of their confidence. I can assure you, Brethren, that I appreciate that confidence very highly; but there is one thing which I appreciate even more than that proof of confidence which is given by your re-election of me at the last Quarterly Communication, and that is the constant support which you are pleased to afford to me in the discharge of the duties of the office to which you have called me—which all of you from every part of the country are pleased equally to afford me. Now, Brethren, I think it cannot be contested that however difficult the art of driving may be, it is rendered comparatively easy when the horses of the coach are so well trained that they are always accustomed to go the right way by themselves without any aid from the rein and the whip of the coachman who sits upon the box. Now, I have been, I must say, during the time that I have had the honour to fill the office of Grand Master, singularly fortunate in that respect. If, as I had occasion to say a short time ago, these years have been a period of great prosperity to us it has been owing, I am bound to say and we are all bound to remark, due to the wise, the prudent, the disinterested administration of the distinguished Mason who preceded me in this chair. (Applause.) And it has been due also to the fact that there has existed throughout the Craft that truly Masonic spirit, and harmony and good feeling which have rendered the duty of ruling the members of this great society an easy task comparatively even to one who has had so many and such absorbing calls upon his time as have fallen to my lot during the last few years. And, therefore, Brethren, it is not merely for the honor you have lately done me in committing me for another year to the position in which I now stand, but it is yet more for the assistance which you have given me in maintaining the character and position of Masonry throughout the country by the spirit which has animated the Craft from one end of England to the other, that I thank you. Therefore, I rejoice to have this opportunity of returning my hearty thanks to all those, whether they be Provincial Grand Masters in their respective localities, whether they be the Grand Officers of Grand Lodge who have discharged their duties so well, or whether they be that great and important body, more important by far than G. Masters, or Prov. G. Masters, or G. Officers of any kind, the great body of Worshipful Masters of Lodges throughout the country—(hear, hear)—upon whose character and whose conduct depends in reality the position which the Craft holds in the public estimation of the country. (Cheers.) I rejoice to think, I may say without undue boasting, that it is the feeling by which Masters appear now to be animated—and it is the feeling which I trust will animate them yet more and more as time goes on, that they have cast upon them by the election of their brethren the great and important duty to hold high in the face of their countrymen the character of the Craft. (Hear, hear.) It is in that way that Freemasonry may do good—it is, so far as they may be able, to influence men to hold an honorable and an upright course among their countrymen, to practice those principles which they profess in words. It is that which will tend to make our institution valuable: it is that which will tend to raise it in the estimation of those who do not belong to it: it is that, and that alone which will make it worthy of the support of an honest man. (Great applause.)

The Grand Master: Brethren, the next toast which I have to ask you to drink is "The Health of the Most Worshipful the Past Grand Masters of England." That toast includes two illustrious names—one illustrious in the annals of Masonry and entitled by the services of a quarter-of-a-century to the deep gratitude of every true Mason (hear, hear); the other, illustrious by his birth and position and endeared to us by his zeal for the Craft. The health of the Prince of Wales we have already drunk, and therefore the name which rises principally to our minds in connection with this toast is that of the late late Grand Master, the Earl of Zetland. (Hear and applause.) Brethren, it does not need one word from me to recommend that toast to every one of you. There are many here present who recollect Lord Zetland's Masonic career longer than I do; but there is no one in this room who does not, either from his own recollection or from that which he has heard as the honoured tradition of the Craft, deeply feel the debt of gratitude which the Masons of England owe to Lord Zetland; and, therefore, with the most perfect confidence that this toast will be received with the warmest and heartiest enthusiasm I give you "The Health of the Past Grand Masters of England." (Cheers.)

The toast having been drunk,

The Grand Master said: Brethren, I have now to ask you to drink "The Health of the Deputy Grand Master of England, the Grand Wardens, and the other Grand Officers, present and past." I regret, very much, the absence of my noble friend and brother, Lord Carnarvon, upon this occasion.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF DRESS.

Shakespeare, who knew all qualities with a learned spirit of human dealing, rarely omits an opportunity of indicating how thoroughly he understood the Philosophy of Clothing. "The apparel," he says, "oft proclaims the man." Though the famous Lord Chesterfield, the author of the well-known "Letters to his Son," was not a great genius or a profound philosopher, he was a singularly shrewd man of the world, and was well fitted to pronounce a judgment or to offer advice on this subject. "I confess," he says, "that I cannot help forming some opinion of a man's sense and character from his dress, and I believe most people do so as well as myself." He gives excellent instructions to his son. "Take care always," he says, "that your clothes are well made and fit you, for otherwise they will give you an awkward air."

The foregoing remarks on the Philosophy of Dress are admirable, but they require to be supplemented with the advice to go to E. MOSES and SON, the celebrated MERCHANT TAILORS and OUTFITTERS, of the MINORIES and ALDGATE, NEW OXFORD-STREET, and TOTENHAM-COURT-ROAD, who supply every description of Clothing, ready-made or made to measure, for Adults and Juveniles of all classes, and who offer to their customers the rare combination of excellence in

Craft Masonry.

OXFORD.—Alfred Lodge (No. 340).—The annual festival of this, the senior lodge in the Province of Oxfordshire, was held at the Masonic Hall, Alfred-street, on Friday, the 25th of April, when Bro. G. T. Prior, who had been previously elected, was duly Installed Worshipful Master of the Alfred Lodge for the ensuing year, Bro. C. Park, W.M., performing the very impressive ceremony of the Installation. The Worshipful Master then appointed and invested the following brethren as his officers:—Bro. C. Park, P.M.; Bro. Walter Thompson, S.W.; Bro. W. Park, J.W.; Bro. Rev. W. C. Holliwel, Chaplain; Bro. H. Houghton, P.M., Treasurer; Bro. R. H. Hobbs, Secretary; Bro. J. Pratt, S.D.; Bro. W. Seeley, J.D.; Bro. W. G. Emberlin, P.M., S.M. Cer.; Bro. F. W. Ansell, J.M. Cer.; Bro. H. Deane, I.G.; Bro. J. Chapman, Organist; Bro. E. Horn, S. Steward; Bro. S. Harris, J. Steward; Bro. W. Stephens, Tyler; Bro. G. Norwood, A. Tyler. The lodge then being duly closed, the brethren retired to a recherché banquet, at which a considerable number of Past Masters were present, and a very pleasant evening was spent. The Worshipful Master presided, and his conspicuous zeal and ability augur well for the success and prosperity of the Alfred Lodge during the year 1873.

ALDERSHOT.—Aldershot Camp Lodge (No. 1331).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held at the Royal Hotel, on the 1st inst., the W.M., Captain Richardson, R.E., occupied the chair of K.S., and was supported by the following officers:—Bro. C. Carnegie, P. Prov. Grand Purst. Hants, as I.P.M.; A. MacKenzie, S.W.; R. White, J.W.; R. Bennett, S.D.; F. Anderson, J.D.; Usher Lucas, Secretary; R. Phillips, as I.G.; E. Harper, as O.G. The lodge was opened in due form in the first degree, and the minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed. A ballot was taken for Sergt. MacKenny, 19th Hussars, and Sergt. Carter, 16th Regt., candidates for initiation, which was unanimous in both cases. The candidates having been properly prepared, were regularly initiated into the mysteries of Ancient Freemasonry; the W.M. also presenting the working tools, and giving the charge pertaining to the degree. The lodge was opened in the second degree, and Sergeant Olpherd, R.E., a candidate for the M.M. degree, was questioned respecting his knowledge of the previous degree, which proving satisfactory, he was entrusted, and retired. The lodge was opened in the third degree, and Bro. Olpherd was raised to that sublime degree. The lodge was closed down to the second and first degrees. A loan of ten pounds was granted to a brother of the lodge. Bro. Drew signed his Grand Lodge certificate, which was then presented to him by the W.M. There being no provincial candidates for the Aged Freemasons, the votes of the lodge (eight) were, on the proposition of Bro. C. Carnegie, P. Prov. Grand Supt. of Works, Essex, given to Bro. Coppin, 433. Bro. Carnegie then brought to the notice of the brethren the loss which the lodge had had sustained by the death of the late Bro. Osmond, P.M., and moved a resolution recording the loss which the lodge had sustained by his removal from among them, and their opinion of his many and valuable services. The motion was seconded by the W.M. in words replete with earnest feeling and sympathy, and passed unanimously. The widow of the late Bro. Probart deposited her late husband's Grand Lodge certificate with the lodge. Some other business having been transacted, the lodge closed in peace, harmony, and brotherly love, about nine p.m.

Mark Masonry.

ALNWICK.—Hotspur Lodge (No. 135).—At a meeting of this promising young lodge, held at the Masonic Hall, Alnwick, on Wednesday, 16th ult., Bro. Edward Thew Turnbull, S.W. and Treas. (P.P.G.I.G. Northumberland and Durham), was installed Worshipful Master for the ensuing year. Bro. the Rev. E. L. Marrett, M.A., Vicar of Lesbury, I.P.M. (P.G.J.W. Northumberland and Durham), acted at installing officer. Bro. Turnbull invested the following gentleman as his officers:—Bros. the Rev. E. L. Marrett, I.P.M. and Treas.; William Burn, S.W.; Thomas Robson, J.W.; the Rev. G. S. Thomson, Rector of Acklington, Chaplain; Capt. Chas. Gandy, M.O.; George Busby (Deputy Coroner, N. Northumberland), S.O.; George Simpson, J.O.; James Davison, Reg. Marks; H. H. Blair, Sec.; H. S. Johnson, S.D.; J. G. Youth, J.D.; James Heatly, D.C.; M. Armstrong, I.G.; W. Walters, Tyler; G. Challoner, S.S.; J. W. Thorpe, J.S. Four brethren were advanced to this ancient degree. The brethren afterwards (according to usual custom) adjourned to a banquet at the Queen's-Head Hotel, where, under the presidency of the W.M., a pleasant and genial evening was spent.

Knights Templar.

LIVERPOOL.—Alpass Preceptory.—The regular meeting of this preceptory was held on the 30th ult., at the Masonic Temple, Liverpool. Sir Knt. H. S. Alpass, Preceptor, occupied his accustomed seat, and the officers present were Sir Knts. J. E. Jackson, Prelate; T. Clark, 1st Capt.; W. Doyle, 2nd Capt.; M. Mawson, Reg.; J. Lloyd, Ex.; W. Bulmer, 1st. Herald; J. Kenyon, 2nd. Herald; and P. Ball, Equerry. The visitors present were:—Sir Knts. A. C. Mott, Grand S.B.; T. Berry, P.G.S.B., P.E.C., &c.; J. Wood, William De la More, Enc.; and C. H. Hill, Jacques de Molay. Bros. W. Shortis, J. Chisnall, and J. Gallagher, were installed Knights of the Order. A most sumptuous banquet, at which viands and wines were of first class quality, was subsequently served.

Ancient and Accepted Rite.

IPSWICH.—The Victoria Sovereign Chapter, Rose Croix, met at the Masonic Hall, Ipswich, on Thursday, 24th April, when there were present—III. Bros. Major Shadwell Clarke, 33°; the Rev. R. N. Sanderson, 30°; and Emra Holmes, 31°. M.E. Bros. W. T. Westgate, M.W.S.; and C. T. Townsend, P.M.W.S., Recorder; Ex. Bros. the Rev. T. G. Beaumont, Dr. Beaumont, R.V.; F. C. Ord, R.A.; C. Chadwick, 7th Dragoon Guards, and others. It had been announced in the summons that there would be an official inspection on the part of the Supreme Council; but no members of the executive were present but the gallant and courteous Major, the latest member of the governing body. Bro. the Rev. A. W. G. Moore was installed and perfected a Sovereign Prince Rose Croix; and the Rev. T. G. Beaumont, Rector of Chelmondiston, was installed as M.W.S. for the ensuing year, the Rev. R. N. Sanderson, 30°, performing the ceremonies with his usual ability. Bro. Sanderson is, without doubt, the most learned and able Mason in Suffolk, and probably the only Ritualist who is equally master of all the degrees in Masonry which are practised in Ipswich. In Craft or Royal Arch he is well known as an experienced Preceptor, and in the Mark, Knights Templar, Knights of Malta, and Rose Croix degrees, he has no equal. If the Masons of Ipswich, or we may say of Suffolk, were asked to point out a brother worthy of the distinctive honours of Grand Lodge, we believe they would with one accord single out our reverend and learned brother for that distinction. Grand Lodge however does not set much store by Provincial Masons, but the Supreme Council 33° has of late years gained a character for distributing its favours with considerable judgment, and we venture to suggest the name of Bro. Sanderson as one in every way worthy of advancement in the A. and A. Rite. But we are digressing. Bro. Beaumont, whose elevation to the chair of the chapter we gladly welcome as a sign of better days for the 18° in Ipswich, appointed the following officers for the ensuing year:—III. Bro. R. N. Sanderson, 30°, Prelate; E. Bro. M. P. Mills, M.D., 1st. Gen.; E. T. Robertson, 2nd. Gen.; C. T. Townsend, Rec.; G. Cresswell, Marshall; P. Cornell Raphael; Rev. A. W. G. Moore, Capt. of Guard; C. Spalding, Janitor. The brethren afterwards banquetted together.

CONSECRATION OF THE GREAT CITY LODGE, No. 1426.

Few events which have occurred for some time past in the proceedings of Freemasonry have excited so much attention amongst the members of the Craft as the inauguration of the new "Great City Lodge," which was consecrated on Saturday last, [and which no doubt forms an important link in that great fraternal chain which is now of such immense length and power and extending over the whole of the civilised world. The reasons which led to the establishment of this new lodge are somewhat peculiar, for in the petition which was presented to the Grand Master, asking for a warrant to open a new lodge in the City of London, it was stated that there were many merchants and others engaged in the City whose time was so taken up with their business engagements during the week that they had no opportunity of joining a Masonic Lodge, however desirous they might be to do so, unless they could have that advantage near to the places of their ordinary occupation. They also desired that the meetings of the lodge should take place on Saturday afternoons, inasmuch, by common consent, that is a settled half-holiday in the City, when they would have an opportunity of becoming members of an Order to which they had long wished to belong. These reasons were considered to be sound, the warrant prayed for was granted by the Grand Master, and Saturday last was the day appointed for its consecration, which drew together one if not the very greatest assemblage of Masons ever brought together in the City of London.

The Marquess of Ripon, the Most Worshipful Grand Master, had deputed Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary, to be the Consecrating Officer, and he was assisted by Bro. the Rev. R. J. Simpson, P.G. Chaplain, and Rector of St. Clement Danes; Bro. John Savage, P.G.D.; Thomas Fenn, P.A.G.D.C.; John Boyd, P.G.P.; R. W. Little, P.G. Sec. for Middlesex; H. G. Buss, P.G. Treas. for Middlesex, &c., and amongst the brethren were the following:—V. W. John Hervey, G. Sec.; W. Rev. R. J. Simpson, P.G.C.; John Savage, P.G.D.; Thomas Fenn, P.A.G.D.C.; John Boyd, P.G.P.; W. S. Gover, R.G.S.; (No. 1); Thomas Meggy, P.G.S. (21); C. J. Hogg, P.G.S. (58) P.M.; H. G. Buss, Prov. G. Treas. Middlesex; H. C. Levander, P.P.G.S.D. Wilts; R. Wentworth Little, Prov. G. Sec. Middlesex; George Kenning, P.G.D. Middlesex; F. Binckes, Secretary Boys' School; J. Terry, Secretary Girls' Benevolent Institution; James Stevens, P.M. 720, 1216, W.M. Designate; N. B. Headon, S.W. Brown, 101; John Close, 463; George Newman, 192; E. J. Moore, 174; W. Mann, 186, W.M. 1381; E. Draper, 766; J. Hartley, 1286; E. Drewett, P.M. 777.

The whole of the fittings of the lodge, as well as the clothing of the officers, were provided by Bro. George Kenning, and were greatly admired. The chairs, pedestals, and tracing boards are really superb specimens of workmanship, and all the lodge jewels are of sterling silver, and every minutiae had been carefully studied to make the arrangements complete.

It ought here to be stated that Bro. Stevens, first W.M., presented to the lodge a very handsome bible, beautifully bound, and bearing an appropriate inscription.

The brethren assembled in one of the large rooms of the tavern, where the process of clothing took place, a large proportion of those present being Past Masters, who had come for the express purpose of hearing Bro. Hervey perform the important ceremony of consecration.

Shortly after three o'clock the brethren entered the lodge-room in procession, and took the places assigned to them. Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary, presided as W.M.; Bro. John Savage, P.G.D., as S.W.; Bro. Thomas Fenn, P.A.G.D.C., as J.W.; Bro. H. G. Buss as Secretary; Bro. Boyd, P.G. Purst., as P.M.; Bro. R. W. Little, Secretary of the Girls' School, as Director of Ceremonies; and Bro. R. J. Simpson, as Chaplain.

The lodge was opened in the three degrees, after which the Consecrating Officer addressed the brethren on the nature and object of the meeting for which they had been called together, and alluded to the excellent observations which had fallen from the Grand Master on Wednesday, in reference to the care which should be exercised by brethren in proposing any one for initiation, and said that no one should be proposed for that honour unless the brother proposing him was so well satisfied that he was a proper person that he would have no hesitation in introducing him to his own family and to his own table.

The Chaplain (the Rev. R. J. Simpson) then offered up a solemn prayer on the importance of the duties in which they were about to be engaged, to the honour of God and the welfare of their fellow creatures, followed by a response, chanted by the members of the choir.

The acting Secretary then read the petition presented to the Grand Master, and the warrant of Constitution.

The officers named in the warrant having been approved of, the Chaplain then delivered an oration on the nature and principles of the institution, and particularly enforcing a close adherence to its principles. He referred to the many works of charity which emanated from the City of London, not only for the relief of those living in it, not even bounded by England, but spread over the whole of the civilised globe, and as charity was one of the distinguishing characteristics of a Freemason's heart he thought the site of their lodge in the City of London had been well chosen.

Bros. Hood, Chubb, T. G. Smith, and F. H. Cozens, of the choir of St. James's Church, Camberwell, then sung, in excellent style, the following anthem:—

"Behold, how good and joyful a thing it is for Brethren to dwell together in unity!

It is like the precious ointment upon the head, that ran down unto the beard, even unto Aaron's beard; and went down to the skirts of his clothing.

It is like the dew of Hermon which fell upon the hill of Sion;

For there the Lord promised His blessing, and life for evermore."

After some verses from the II Chronicles, had been read, the lodge board was uncovered, and the elements of consecration, corn, wine and oil, had been carried round the lodge, the Consecrating Officer formally dedicated the lodge to God and his service, after which the following anthem was then sung:—

"Thine, O Lord! is the Greatness, and the Power, and the Glory, and the Victory, and the Majesty: for all that is in the Heaven and in the Earth are Thine. Thine is the Kingdom, O Lord! and Thou art exalted as Head above all!"

"How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings! that publisheth peace: that bringeth good tidings of good! that publisheth salvation: that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth! Break forth into joy! sing together, ye waste places of Jerusalem: for the Lord hath comforted His people; He hath redeemed Jerusalem. Hallelujah! Praise ye the Lord!"

This brought the consecration to a close, after which the installation of Bro. James Stevens, the W. Master designate, was proceeded with. A Board of Installed Masters was formed, at which 48 Past Masters were present, and Bro. Stevens was installed in due form. On the admission of the brethren, he was saluted in due form, and the usual addresses having been delivered by Bros. Hervey, Savage, and Fenn, The W. Master appointed his officers as follows:—Bro. N. B. Headon, S.W.; J. H. Townend, J.W.; Freeman, Treas.; E. Moody, Sec.; Seex, S.D.; Stanway, J.D.; Guyton, I.G.; Misby, D.C.; Blackie, Catchpole, Stewards; Steedman, Tyler.

The W. Master said he had great pleasure in proposing a vote of thanks to Bro. John Hervey, for his assistance in consecrating the lodge, and he was authorised to say that the brethren fully endorsed his sentiments by having them recorded on the minutes, and he had further to ask him whether he would accept a membership and act as Past Master for the ensuing twelve months.

Bro. Hervey expressed his willingness to do so, after which the motion was put and agreed to unanimously.

The W. Master said of course Bro. Hervey had kindly accepted that office without knowing what would afterwards be proposed. He had then to propose that Bro. Hervey should be asked to accept the membership of the lodge, and that he do become an honorary member.

Bro. Headon seconded the motion, which was put, and carried unanimously.

Bro. Hervey said he would not take up the time of the brethren by making any observations beyond that of thanking them for the compliment which they had been pleased to pay him. He was glad to have the opportunity of giving his services, and he was glad that he had been elected a member, as a mark of their approbation, wishing the lodge every success, and when they should meet at their anniversary he hoped he should find a large number of brethren present to show the good work that had been done. (Cheers.)

The W. Master proposed a vote of thanks to Bro. Simpson, for acting as Chaplain, and particularly for his beautiful oration. In connection with a vote of thanks he moved that he should also be elected an honorary member of the Great City Lodge.

The motion was put and unanimously agreed to.

Bro. the Rev. R. J. Simpson said he should follow the excellent example set by Bro. John Hervey, by not taking up their time with any lengthened observations, but he did appreciate very highly the honour they had conferred upon him, for he considered it to be a great privilege to be admitted as a member of their lodge.

The W.M. said he looked upon that as a great occasion, and what they were doing would have its effect elsewhere. He moved a vote of thanks to Bros. Savage and Fenn for the assistance they had given to the Consecrating Master, and he thanked them also for the services they had rendered.

This was also put and agreed to.

Bro. Savage returned thanks, and he said he was delighted to have been present, and to some extent to have assisted at the consecration of the lodge. In common with themselves he was deeply gratified at the occasion, which must ever be a memorable one in the annals of the Great City Lodge. He had been present at many consecrations, but never certainly had he seen that ceremony so well and worthily performed as it had been on that occasion.

Bro. Fenn returned thanks, and said he was glad to assist at the consecration of the lodge, which would supply a great need, and he wished them the highest prosperity.

A vote of thanks was also voted to Bro. R. W. Little, which the W.M. said had been accidentally omitted.

Thanks were then given to the brethren for their attendance, and after a number of propositions for joining and initiation had been announced, the lodge was closed in due form and with a solemn prayer.

The brethren then adjourned to the large hall, where a most profuse banquet was served, and which gave entire satisfaction.

On the withdrawal of the cloth, the W.M. said it was not his intention to make lengthy speeches (hear, hear), a thing unusual for him to do (hear, hear), but he could assure them that he intended to turn over a new leaf, and no longer indulge in long speeches (hear, and a laugh), and the reason was, because he was surrounded by brethren who could make a better speech than he could. [He should therefore content himself by a brief expression in proposing the toast, which would recommend itself. It was "The Health of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen and the Craft."

This was followed by the National Anthem and then,

The W.M. said—The next toast was "The Most Worshipful Grand Master, the Most Noble the Marquess of Ripon." It was a great advantage to the Craft to have rulers of sound judgment, and they had been fortunate in having for twenty-six years the Earl of Zetland as Sovereign of the Order, and he hoped that they would have the present nobleman who filled that high office for a similar period. He was sure that the observations which were made last Wednesday by the Marquess of Ripon were worthy of the consideration of every brother, and he felt assured that they had reason to be proud of their Grand Master. He trusted that the day might be far distant when they would be denied the services of their Grand Master, for he was not only a good Freemason, but his services were of the greatest interest to the Craft in general.

The toast was cordially responded to.

The W. Master gave the next toast, "The Most Worshipful Past Grand Masters, the Right Hon. the Earl of Zetland, K.G., and his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, K.G." To the Earl of Zetland all Masons owed a deep debt of gratitude for his valuable services for twenty-six years as a ruler of the Craft. Long might he live, and when the time arrived that he should be removed, which he trusted might be very distant, the name of Earl of Zetland would be loved and revered by every Mason, for he had nobly acquitted himself for the benefit of Masons, who had a warm recollection of his services for a very lengthened period. He thanked the Great Architect of the Universe that he was still amongst them, and he trusted that for many years his life might be preserved, and that they might have many opportunities of drinking his health as they did then. As to the Prince of Wales, speaking from below his lofty station, he appeared to have connected himself with the Order, and he doubted not that while that connection would do an immense amount of good to the Prince, the Order would receive a corresponding amount of good from him. All that they had to do was to emulate the qualifications if they could not arrive at the position of those reverend heads of the Craft.

The toast was drunk with enthusiasm.

The W.M. said the next toast he had to propose was, "The Right Worshipful Deputy Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon, and the Officers of the Grand Lodge, Past and Present." It was impossible for him to mention them in order, and although he might only select one of their body, he intended to compliment the whole of them. He named Bro. Simpson, their respected and venerated Chaplain. He saw present on this occasion Bro. Terry, the Secretary of the Royal Benevolent Institution, who had been most successful in his exertions on behalf of the charity with which he was connected. Then there was Bro. Buss, a man who was well known. Then there was Bro. Little, a man whom they were all proud of, and he took that first opportunity of congratulating him on becoming Secretary of the Girls' School, having been elected with such unanimity, and who conferred honour upon the Craft. Then there was Bro. Boyd, who was well-known, and it had recently pleased the Grand Master to confer upon him the rank of a Past Grand Officer, which he would enjoy as long as he lived. As to Bro. Hervey, the least they said about him the better (laughter). It would be his (the W.M.'s) study to make "The Great City Lodge" a pattern lodge in Freemasonry, and he would do all he could to carry out the precepts which their esteemed Chaplain, Bro. Simpson, had laid down. They had assumed an ambitious title when they called themselves "The Great City Lodge," and to deserve that title he did not think they could do better than follow the precepts he had set before them. He coupled with the toast the name of Bro. Rev. R. J. Simpson.

The toast was well received, followed by the song of "The Village Blacksmith," by Bro. Hook.

Bro. Simpson, in responding, said he thanked the W.M., on behalf of the Deputy Grand Master and the Officers of the Grand Lodge, for the high honour he had conferred upon them, and in calling upon them to respond to the toast, inasmuch as he was surrounded by other Grand Officers, abler and older men than himself, who would have responded to it. He could assure them that he had heard with pleasure the admirable address of Bro. Hervey, which he hoped would impress the members of lodges, for his observations were entitled to their highest respect and regard. They were like a piece of West of England cloth that would always bear the strain and stress of weather. It was an advisable thing for them to come in contact with the great rulers of the Craft, and they owed to them a deep debt of duty as well as that of the Craft to which they had the honour and the privilege to belong. It was highly gratifying to him to be present that evening, and to be received in such a princely manner at their hospitable entertainment; and although he had been a Mason for a quarter of a century, he could assure them that he had never received greater pleasure than he had that night in seeing how the lodge had carried out its duties. He was sure that Lord Carnarvon's heart would be delighted to hear how the duties had been performed, and the way in which a large number of officers of the Grand Lodge had been received. Having spoken of the admirable performance and the manner in which Bro. Little, the Director of Ceremonies, had performed his duties, he said it was like the main spring of a watch, unless that was in good order things would not go on well, but never were his duties better performed. They had met in a place where they had room to breathe, which was a thing most important amongst all conditions of Freemasons, and was attended with the happiest and most beneficial effects. He rejoiced as one of the members of the Grand Lodge in being present on that occasion, and he rejoiced that in the meetings of the Great City Lodge they would find a relief from the tedium of the week in the social recreation of Saturday, when they could meet without any detriment of their character. In the happiness which they enjoyed he felt it cast a halo around, and in the words of the poet he might say—

"Long long be my heart with such memories filled,

Like the vase in which roses have once been distill'd—

You may break, you may ruin the vase if you will,

But the scent of the roses will hang round it still."

He was glad to find that the Great City Lodge showed their appreciation of the value and principles of Freemasonry, and that they could enjoy themselves without detriment to their social, moral or religious character. He hoped to be present at many future meetings, and that the lodge would never be untrue to its antecedents.

The W.M. said the next toast he had to propose was, the health of one who was a perfect man and Mason, their "Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary of England," who had so kindly, so effectively, and so efficiently carried out the business of the meeting in a manner which rendered it an unprecedented success in Freemasonry, and as he was now connected by membership with the Great City Lodge he hoped they would give him a cordial reception by drinking his health as Consecrating Master. In him to become a member of the lodge they had done less honour to him, than he had done them by accepting it.

The toast was drunk with enthusiastic cheering, followed by the old song of "The Woodpecker," by Bro. F. N. Cozens.

Bro. Hervey, Grand Secretary, said,—He did not know a greater gratification a man could receive than the approbation of the brethren with whom he was associated, although he did not mean to say that was confined to the Masonic body, but pervaded through every institution in life, and no man but must feel gratified with the applause which was conferred upon him. The W.M. had been pleased to give his health, and to speak of him in a manner which far exceeded any services he had rendered, but upon the present occasion he was proud to receive the honour from the brethren who were then assembled round that table and for the way in which the Worshipful Master had proposed his health. He believed, however, that there were many in the City of London, or the confines thereof, who would have gone through the ceremony better than he had done that evening. (Cries of "No, no.") Would have done it as well, at any rate if not better, but it was gratifying to him to receive their approbation. He was gratified when he was asked to consecrate the lodge, and having met with such kindness from the brethren that evening. He trusted that would not be the last occasion upon which he should meet them. The gavel had been placed in his hands and he was then at liberty to do as he liked, and therefore he asked the brethren to do honour to the toast he was about to propose. He proposed with all solemnity and gratification a toast which was twofold, for in doing so he should throw two toasts into one, as he felt they ought not to be discovered, which was "The Health of the W.M., and Prosperity to the Great City Lodge." He had no doubt that its prosperity would be assured, that the Great City Lodge would maintain its came in the future, which would be at all times gratifying to the first Master, by whom it had been launched into existence, and baptised as it was by their worthy Past Grand Chaplain, Bro. Simpson. First of all, as he ought to do, he expressed his gratification at their kindness in having elected him as an honorary member of the lodge, and also for installing him as a Past Master. That was a position which entailed no future honour, but it entailed a great compliment. He gave "Prosperity to the Great City Lodge, and health and long life to its fist Master, Bro. Stevens."

The toast was cordially responded to, followed by the song "What better Themethan Masonry," sung by Bro. F. W. Cozens, the words by the Worshipful Master. The song was greeted with loud applause.

The W.M. said he had a double duty to perform, to thank them for the compliment they had paid him and also for drinking to the prosperity of the lodge. He thanked them most sincerely for the compliment, and hoped to appreciate it by any services he could render for the next twelve months. He could say that he intended to rule the lodge with courtesy, but with all firmness consistent with the principles of the institution. It was impossible that they could tire him with work, for he would rather be three hours at work than one at the banquet table, and he hoped at the end of twelve months he should be able to show that the Great City Lodge was worthy of the name it bore. He should remember the maxim "Noblesse oblige" and they would be great not only in name and prosperity, but in reputation, not great individually but collectively. They would seek to carry out the principles enunciated by the Consecrating Master, and the revered Chaplain, and although they might not succeed, they would endeavour to do so. They would endeavour to carry out the acmé of Freemasonry, as one of the principal lodges in the Craft, and in conclusion gave "The Health of the Visitors, coupling with the toast the name of Bro. Meggy."

Bro. Meggy returned thanks for the visitors.

The W. Master, in giving the toast of "The Masonic Charities," said it gave him great pleasure to have a representative of each of those institutions present on that occasion; and it was gratifying to him that they had each come amongst them that evening. As to their Masonic charities, he hoped that they would never be lost sight of. He did not speak of them in a sentimental way; and it was a mistake which he wished to point out, when it was said by the outer world that their Masonic charities were mere sentiments. Let them go to Wood-green, to Battersea, to Croydon, or to the homes of many poor Masons, and then they could well afford to disregard the sneers of the outer world, who said that their charities were sentimental and not practical; but he would say that the hearts of more men were touched by sentiment than by any other means. He complimented Bro. Binckes on the prospect of the Boys' Institution, and the Girls' Schools with Bro. Little, and the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution with Bro. Terry, and said that on no future occasion would a meeting take place without the charity box being passed round.

The toast having been drunk,

Bro. Binckes responded, and said that in consequence of a resolution which had been come to by the committee to extend the time of the boys remaining in the school from fifteen to sixteen years of age, the election of any others into the Institution would be stopped unless something was done to extend its benefits, and therefore they must ask the Craft to extend the accommodation, and give them the means of receiving the candidates who were constantly being sent to them. He did not think they ought to have three speeches in responding to one toast. Bro. Terry had had a most successful festival in February last, and he (Bro. Binckes) had also had a very satisfactory one in March, and he trusted the same success would attend Bro. Little at the festival of the Girls' School, on the 14th of May next. He knew how good the Craft were, and he had only to express one word of gratitude and he had done. It was no matter what they had done in the past, for Masonry was a progressive science, and as their numbers increased so a large increase of support would be required for the future. They must support their Institutions for it was their first duty, their first boast, their highest boast, and if they were true to their Masonic obligations it was their continued duty. He was deeply grateful to them for what they had done, but he wished to tell them that in consequence of the alteration which had taken place in retaining the boys in the school until they were 16 years of age, there would be no vacancies for any others either in October or April, which was a matter he was sure would receive their serious consideration. There were 41 unsuccessful candidates after the last election, and other candidates were coming forward week by week and month after month, and they must enlarge their school if they continued to send these candidates to them. Let them not blame him, but if they continued to send these applications, they must find space to provide for them. He thanked them for what they had done in the past, and he relied with confidence upon their exertions for the future.

Bro. Little returned thanks on behalf of the Girls' School.

Bro. Terry also returned thanks on behalf of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, trusting that the festival for the Girls' School would be liberally responded to.

The Tyler's toast was given, which brought the proceedings to a close.

The musical arrangements were under the direction of Bro. Hook, of 186, assisted by Bros. Chubb, T. G. Smith, J. H. Cozens, and Bro. Frank Toole, P.G.S.W. Essex, most efficiently acted as Toast Master.

We understand that the first meeting of this lodge for work will be held this (Saturday) afternoon, at the Cannon-street Hotel, at three o'clock precisely, notices containing a long list of joining members and candidates for initiation having been issued immediately after the closing of the lodge. Brethren of other lodges will receive a hearty welcome.

CONSECRATION OF THE SEVILLE LODGE, ST. ANN'S BAY, JAMAICA.

Wednesday, April 2, 1873, will long be remembered by the good folks of Saint Ann's Bay. A scene of the greatest interest, never before witnessed in that place, presented itself to the inhabitants. From a very early hour, the galloping of horses and rolling of carriages, with the fair sex from the adjoining parishes, foretold that it was to be a gala day. At a quarter to one o'clock, the Masonic Brotherhood began to assemble at the Court House, when the Provincial Grand Director of Ceremonies, Bro. Hoyes, arranged the order of procession.

Arriving at the door of the church, the procession halted, and opened out on each side. The Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Master entering the church, followed by the Prov. Grand Chaplain and members, the Prov. Grand Master and officers taking the seats reserved for them before the Communion Table, Divine Service was held, and a suitable and appropriate address delivered by Bro. the Rev. N. L. Ellis, illustrating the blessed triumphs of Faith, Hope and Charity, which was attentively listened to by the hundreds of persons who filled the church, as well as by those outside, who could not obtain seats. A collection was afterwards made on behalf of the poor of the parish.

Service being ended the brethren reformed in procession, and the band striking up the Masonic March, proceeded to the new lodge-room. The Provincial Grand Master entered, followed by his officers and the members of the Seville Lodge, the Grand Organist playing an anthem prescribed by the constitution of the Grand Lodge of Scotland. The ceremony of consecration was then proceeded with, the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master strewing corn, wine and oil upon the lodge, and the Prov. Grand Chaplain rehearsing several appropriate passages of Scripture suitable on such occasions. The ceremony of dedication being ended, the Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Master called on Bro. John Hoyes, Grand Director of Ceremonies, to read the Proclamation constituting the lodge. The Prov. Grand Master afterwards installed the following officers:—Bros. Michael Solomon, Worshipful Master; Alexander Lake, Depute Master; Edmund Hart, Senior Warden; Carvalho, Junior Warden; Abraham Noah, Treasurer; Albert J. Hart, Secretary; George Roe, Senior Deacon; A. N. Sutherland, Junior Deacon; W. R. Phillips, Inner Guard; and Edward Hall, Tyler.

The officers severally returned thanks, and the lodge closed in the usual way.

At half past 7, p.m., the brethren re-assembled at the Court House, where a grand display of all the good things of this life was exhibited, to which ample justice was done. A platform, erected on the south side of the building, was graced with the presence of the ladies, who seemed delighted throughout the whole ceremony. The usual loyal and patriotic toasts were proposed by the newly installed Master, Michael Solomon Esqr., the band playing the air appropriate to each toast. Among the assembled guest were noticed—the Hon. Charles Royes, Custos and member of the hon. Legislative Council; the Revd. Josias Cork, Rector; E. G. Barret, Esq.; Charles Fletcher, Esq.; E. B. Lynch, Esq., and several of the magistrates and influential gentlemen of the parish.

The Worshipful Master proposed "The Health of the Provincial Grand Master, the R.W. Saml. Constantine Burke," who had at great inconvenience attended for the purpose of consecrating the lodge.

The R.W. Provincial Grand Master returned thanks in an eloquent speech.

"The Health of the Provincial Grand Master for East Jamaica, R.W. Dr. Hamilton," was then drunk.

The Provincial Grand Master then proposed "The Health of the Wor. Michael Solomon, the Master Elect," and congratulated the Seville Lodge upon the choice of a gentleman who possessed the respect and esteem of his fellow parishioners.

The Wor. Master having replied, the following toasts were proposed and drank with enthusiasm:—

"His Excellency Sir John Peter Grant and the Legislative Council of Jamaica," proposed by the Provincial Grand Master, and responded to by the Hon. Charles Royes.

"The Bishop and Clergy, and Ministers of all Religious Denominations" by the Master, responded to by the Rev. Josias Cork, Rector, and Rev. N. L. Ellis.

"The Custos and Magistrates of St. Ann," by E. B. Lynch, Esq. Responded to by the Custos and Charles Fletcher, Esq.

"The Sister Lodges," by the Senior Warden. Responded to by the Worshipful D. DeSouza, of the Athel Union Lodge, Falmouth.

"The Visiting Brethren and Visitors," proposed by the Junior Warden, and responded to by Bros. Fray and E. G. Barrett, Esq.

"The Agricultural Interest" by Bro. Abraham Noah. Responded to by a member of the Seville Lodge.

"The Ladies," by Bro. A. N. Sutherland. Responded to by Dr. Saunders.

Bro. Samuel H. Watson, proposed "The Health of all Distressed Masons, and Widows and Orphans of Masons throughout the world," which was drunk enthusiastically; after which the band struck up "God save the Queen," and thus ended one of the best days that has been witnessed in Saint Ann's Bay for the last half-century.

"Some months since, my wife was suffering with a bad cough and severe pains in the chest, and totally unable to attend to her ordinary duties. She was advised to try your Pain Killer, and after a few doses of it was restored to perfect health, which she still enjoys. I also use it for Piles, from which I have long suffered, and one dose taken internally invariably gives me entire relief.—JAS. BRADSHAW."

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT: When Professor Holloway turned his attention to the relief of human maladies he felt that his curative means must be competent to thoroughly purify the system as well as to heal up its sores, he knew that nothing less than this double sanitary action would satisfy the public or enrich himself. How fully he accomplished both purposes, is known throughout the world. His Ointment is now universally used for subduing Erysipelas, cutaneous inflammation of a slighter order, pimples, boils, Scaldy Eruptions and the host of interstif skin complaints. The general acknowledgement of it, by the highest medical power, over deep and more malignant diseases, viz. eruptions, fistulas, carbuncles and abscesses, is voluntarily sent in convincing certificates from all parts of the world.—ADV.

DISTRICT GRAND LODGE OF BENGAL.

The Quarterly Communication of the District Grand Lodge of Bengal was held at Freemasons' Hall, Calcutta, on Friday, the 21st March, 1873.

There were present:—R.W. Hugh David Sandeman, District Grand Master; W. Bros. J. Pitt-Kennedy, as Deputy District Grand Master; H. H. Locke, P.D.D.G.M.; G. H. Daly, P.D.D.G.M.; I. L. Taylor, D.G.S.W.; J. B. Knight, as D.G.J.W.; D. J. Zemin, D.G.R.; W. B. MacTavish, as D.G. Treas.; Capt. R. G. Smyth, D.G. Sec.; Capt. A. J. Filgate, as D.G.S.D.; W. T. Amos, D.G.J.D.; J. C. Parker, D.G.D.C.; W. H. Jones, D.G.A.D.C.; J. Lindley, D.G.S.B.; E. F. Longley, as D.G.S.B.; C. H. Compton, D.G.O.; J. H. E. Beer, as D.G.P.; Bros. W. H. Ayres, A. J. Hughes, J. M. Evans, C.G. Stewards; and Alexander, Tyler.

There were also present representatives from lodges, Star in the East, 67; Industry and Perseverance, 109; True Friendship, 218; Humility with Fortitude, 229; Marine, 232; Anchor and Hope, 234; St. John, 486; Excelsior, 852; Temperance and Benevolence, 1160; and Sandeman, 1274.

Several visitors were also present.

The District Grand Lodge was opened in due form at 7 p.m.

The District Grand Secretary reported the receipt of apologies from the several brethren for non-attendance.

The minutes of the Quarterly Communication of the 27th December, 1872, having been printed and circulated, were, on the motion of the District Grand Master, taken as read, and, on being put to the vote, were confirmed.

The Worshipful the District Grand Master then delivered an address, from which we make the following extracts:—

In the absence of the Deputy District Grand Master, the duty will devolve upon the immediate Past Deputy, Bro. J. Pitt Kennedy, and I resign my command accordingly into his hands from this evening. I need scarcely ask you to give him that full support which you have given me for the past eleven years, so that when the time comes for him to give way to his successor, he may do so, as I now do, with a feeling of great sorrow and regret.

I have observed, and I am sorry to be obliged to say, not infrequently, that Masons have seceded from a lodge from a mere feeling of disappointment; sometimes at themselves not receiving that advancement to which they have thought themselves entitled, sometimes at seeing their lodge pass under the rule of a Master to whom they would have preferred another. Need I say, that such brethren are not acting up to the spirit which should govern Freemasons. Hear what the ancient charges say on this point:—

"None should discover envy at the prosperity of a brother, nor supplant him, nor put him out of his work, if he be capable to finish the same," and "all Masons employed shall weekly receive their wages without murmuring or mutiny, and not desert the Master till the work be finished." These brief sentences conclusively show that brethren are bound to stand by the award of their lodge, and to recognise and support their Master and his officers, although they might prefer seeing others in their place.

A very liberal donation of 500 rupees had been made to the funds of the Bengal Masonic Association by Rae Luchmeeput Singh Bahadour, of Baloochur, in the Moorshedabad district. This handsome gift was purely spontaneous, and he would venture to commend the act of liberal beneficence, on the part of one who is not a Freemason, as a good and worthy example to members of our Craft.

The warrant for Lodge Beauchamp at Roorkee had been received from England, and forwarded to its destination. The number of the lodge is 1422.

I have received a petition addressed to the Grand Lodge of England by Bro. Walter Bourne and others, praying for a warrant of constitution to empower them to meet as a regular lodge at Assam, a station on the line of the East Indian Railway, on the second Tuesday of each month, under the Mastership of Bro. Bourne, who has been for long known in Bengal as a promoter of Freemasonry. The Lodge will be known as the Pioneer, and I have, under the authority of the constitutions, granted them a provisional warrant to meet in anticipation of the receipt of the regular warrant from England, until when it will be known as No. 41 of Bengal. I regret to say that four lodges are reported to me as in arrears, and that the state of one of these lodges is so unsatisfactory as to have induced me to ask a special committee to investigate its position and to report the result for such orders as may be found necessary.

R.W. Bro. Pitt-Kennedy expressed a fear that his professional avocations would hardly permit him effectually to fulfil the arduous duties of a District Grand Master, but that he would endeavour to perform those duties to the best of his power.

The report of the Committee of General Purposes was read and adopted.

The following report of the Grand Committee of the Fund of Benevolence was read:—During the quarter ending 31st December, 1872, the Sub-Committee has had under its consideration eighteen applications for renewal, of which four were granted for renewal of Rs. 20 for six months each; one was granted Rs. 10 for six months; one was granted a donation of Rs. 50; and twelve refused with regret. The Committee took into consideration the difficulty under which they are at present labouring, from having no knowledge of the extent of their public income, and concerning which the District Grand Treasurer reports that he is unable to supply any information. The Committee resolved that the District Grand Treasurer be addressed, with the view of being informed whether he had carried out the proposition noted in paragraph 18 of the "District Grand Lodge Quarterly Communications," dated the 27th day of December, 1872; and further, that he be again solicited to submit a statement, showing what has been the actual annual income for the last five years, or to explain wherein the difficulty lies in affording this information.

The report was adopted.

In pursuance of the notice given at the Quarterly Communication of the District Grand Lodge, held on the 27th December, 1872, Bro. C. H. Compton, D.G. Organist, proposed, and Wor. Bro. Pitt-Kennedy, seconded:—"That a Select Committee be appointed to meet and report on the best scheme to be adopted for obtaining premises, either by building, or on a joint-stock principle, or otherwise, a temple or lodge for Masonic purposes in Calcutta, which was carried unanimously."

The District Grand Master hoped that the plan might succeed, although he had very slight hopes on this subject. He had sat on a committee some thirteen years back to consider a proposition to this end, and that Committee had risen out of the ashes of several previous Committees, all of which ended in nothing. During his tenure of office as District Grand Master, similar propositions had been frequently made to Grand Lodge, as frequently died a natural death. There was a general unwillingness to invest money in joint-stock speculations, that he feared the shares would not be taken up.

Right Wor. Bro. Pitt-Kennedy addressed the Right Wor. District Grand Master on behalf of the Masonic Fraternity:—"We the Officers of District Grand Lodge of Bengal, on behalf of the brethren of the Craft, working under the authority of the Grand Lodge of England within the District of Bengal, respectfully beg permission, before your departure from the principal field of your Masonic labours, to record our sentiments of regard and esteem for your services. The entire Craft feels deep regret at your departure, knowing, as we do, that in you we lose one who has for eleven years held the Hiram in Bengal with judgment, ability, tact, and liberality, and whose post we can hardly expect to see filled by any other so fitted for the post. We desire to acknowledge our high appreciation of the great services you have rendered to Masonry in the East, from the day you joined the brotherhood to the latest hour of your residence in this country; amongst which services we especially record the institution of the Bengal Masonic Association for educating Children of Indigent Freemasons, which, under your care and guidance, has already affected much good, and many improvements introduced by you in the management and control of the Fund of Benevolence. For these services you will ever be remembered with the deepest feelings of gratitude by the widows and orphans of departed Masons, as one who had provided the means of succouring their distresses, relieving their necessities, and giving them comfort in their old age. You have left them to our care, and we can but assure you that in your absence we will watch and guard this legacy as a sacred trust, and enjoin the same on our successors. We feel, however, that to those who had the good fortune to have sat under your Hiram, as well as to those to whom your name will come down as an honoured tradition, it would be a satisfaction to have before our eyes, in the hours of refreshment, the semblance of one whose memory we honour, and we therefore solicit the favour of your permitting your portrait to be painted for the District Grand Lodge of Bengal. As a small tribute of brotherly love, and token of the high esteem in which you are held by all Masons, from the Indus to the furthest limits of Burmah, and more especially in the District of Bengal, we beg permission to offer for your acceptance, on behalf of the Masonic Brotherhood, a token which will be delivered to you on your arrival at home. We must now say farewell. The warmest prayers of the Craft for your happiness and welfare will accompany you wherever you go; and we trust that in another hemisphere you will long enjoy the reward of your honoured career here as a public servant, as a man, and as a Mason.

The District Grand Master expressed himself wholly at a loss to reply, in anything like adequate terms, to the very kind and generously worded address which had been read to him; he thought that it over-rated his services to Freemasonry, and considered it was in itself an amply sufficient reward without being supplemented by any testimonial. He resigned his office with feelings of deep and sincere regret, and he felt that it still rested with him as a duty to watch from home, and to the best of his ability, the interests of the Order in the East. As touching the request that he would have his portrait taken for District Grand Lodge, he would, of course be happy to comply with the wishes of his Masonic Brethren, and follow any instructions he might receive from them on the subject.

Wor. Bro. J. H. Turner addressed the Right Wor. the District Grand Master on the subject of initiating Hindoo gentlemen, and stated that he had submitted a report, as required from him, at the last Quarterly Communication for investigation, but had as yet received no reply.

The District Grand Secretary explained that references had been made to other districts for information regarding the mode adopted in initiating Hindoo gentlemen; but as he had only that afternoon received a reply, he had not time to lay the matter before the Right Wor. District Grand Master for consideration.

A collection was then made for the Fund of Benevolence, and the amount announced by the District Grand Secretary to be Rs. 156-12.

There being no further business to be brought forward, the District Grand Lodge was closed, in due form, at 8 p.m.

It is with great pleasure that we have to announce that His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of Brazil has conferred a well-merited honour upon our esteemed brother, James Glaisher, F.R.S., Senior Grand Deacon of England, and Grand Soj. of Grand Chapter, by nominating him a Knight of the Order of the Rose, an order of Brazilian chivalry.

GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

The Quarterly Communication of the Grand Lodge of Scotland was held in their Hall, George-street, Edinburgh, on Tuesday, 6th May, 1873. There was an unusually large attendance.

In the unavoidable absence of the Most Worshipful Grand Master, the Earl of Rosslyn, the throne was occupied by Past Grand Master Bro. John Whyte-Melville, of Bennoch and Strathkinnes, supported by Substitute Grand Master Bro. Henry Inglis, of Torsonce, Colonel Campbell of Blythwood, Senior Grand Warden; Bro. F. A. Barrow, Senior Grand Deacon, Acting Grand Junior Warden; Bros. Walter Montgomerie of Queenshill, P.G.M. of Glasgow; John Laurie, Grand Secretary; Alexander Hay, Grand Secretary; John Coghill, Grand Director of Ceremonies; James Ballantine, Grand Bard; Daniel Robertson, Grand Bible Bearer; Albert T. Apthorpe, Acting Chief Grand Marshal; F. S. Melville, President; John Haig, of Cameron Bridge, Vice-President of the Board of Grand Stewards; Professor Blackie, Representative at Tennessee of the Grand Lodge of Scotland; Bros. C. W. M. Müller, Representative of the Grand Lodge of Saxony; William Hay, Representative of the Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia; Lindsay Mackersy, Representative of the Grand Lodge of Canada; William Officer, P.G.D.; Captain Neil, of Swinridge Muir, Deputy Grand Master of Ayreshire; Captain Gordon, of Craigmyle; and Captain G. R. Harriott, of Killimore, D.P.G.M. of Wigtownshire.

The Grand Lodge was opened in due form, and several proxy commissions were sustained.

Thanks were voted for presents from the Grand Lodges of France, Prussia, the Netherlands, Brazil, Chili, Virginia, and Kentucky, after which the minutes of Grand Committee were read and confirmed.

The Grand Secretary reported the demise of Bro. Alexander James Stewart, W.S., late R.W. Senior Joint Grand Secretary; as also of Bro. John Hart, late R.W. Prov. Grand Master for South Australia; and he read, in connection with the decease of Bro. Stewart, a letter of condolence from the Grand Lodge of Ireland. These intimations were received, and ordered to be recorded in the minutes, with an expression of regret.

An application for the recognition and establishment of fraternal relations with the Grand Lodge of Greece was received, and unanimously agreed to. On the nomination of the lodges in the Province of Wigtownshire, and the recommendation of the Grand Committee added thereto, Bro. G. R. Harriott was unanimously appointed Prov. Grand Master for that province, and, being present, was duly installed into office, with the usual honours, by the Acting Grand Master.

Petitions for charters to new lodges "Thistle," New South Wales, and "Myrton," Port William, Newton-Stewart, were, on the recommendation of the Grand Committee, complied with.

A motion for altering the days of meeting of Grand Lodge was, after some discussion, withdrawn.

The Grand Secretary intimated that he had received a communication from the M.W.G.M., the Earl of Rosslyn, enclosing a letter from the Grand Master of Quebec, on the subject of the recognition of that body. At his Lordship's request, it was remitted to the Grand Committee.

The following motion, after some discussion, was carried by a majority:—"That the Grand Lodge of Scotland, from and after the beginning of the Masonic year, be composed entirely of Right Worshipful Masters, and actual Wardens, and Past Masters."

A notice of motion for discussion at the next quarterly communication was, in the following terms, proposed by Bro. Captain Neill, seconded by Bro. Halkett:—"That for the good of Freemasonry in this country, it is expedient that business meetings of Grand Lodge be held in different places in Scotland, the suitable time and places for such meetings to be determined by the Grand Committee, or in such a manner as Grand Lodge may direct."

Grand Lodge was thereafter closed in due form, and the brethren dispersed.

SATURDAY, MAY 10, 1873.

THE NEW GRAND OFFICERS.

Upon no previous occasion, in all probability, have so many brethren whose names are perfectly unfamiliar to the great body of the Craft been appointed to office in Grand Lodge, as was the case on the 30th ult. In vain have we sought for some trace of the Masonic qualifications of the Lord "Balfour of Burleigh" upon whom the collar of Senior Grand Warden was bestowed, and who, but for the remarkably juvenile freshness of his corporeal appearance, might well have been mistaken for one of Scott's heroes by the members of Grand Lodge, so little is his name renowned as a working Mason, or as a supporter of the Masonic Charitable Institutions.

Of Bro. Platt, the Junior Grand Warden, we desire to speak with great respect, inasmuch as he has not been unmindful of those higher duties of Freemasonry which are, unfortunately, so frequently overlooked by thoughtless brethren. Bro. Platt is a member of a very influential London Lodge, he is a Mason of some years standing, and possesses qualities, which we are informed have made him appreciated in the limited Masonic circle to which he is known. Happily for him that circle is a highly influential one, and hence his Masonic merits are not suffered to remain for ever in obscurity.

Bro. Bent, the new Grand Chaplain, is simply un homme inconnu.

In the nomination of one of the Senior Grand Deacons we gladly hail the recognition of science in the person of Bro. James Glaisher, F.R.S., whose name is known, not only throughout England, but all over Europe. Bro. Glaisher has presided over the Britannic Lodge, No. 33, a lodge chiefly composed of men who represent progress and enlightenment, his appointment therefore stands out in marked contrast with that of his colleague, Bro. Richard Havers, who apparently owes his wand of office to a "fortuitous concurrence" of circumstances, not the least important of which is the relationship to a brother who has won a foremost place in the Craft by many years devotion to its service, a recollection which forbids too keen a criticism of an otherwise inexplicable appointment.

Bro. Philbrick, as Junior Grand Deacon, merely gives us cause to regret that he is not Senior, and certainly if the charms of eloquence, combined with many sterling Masonic qualifications, constitute a claim to reward, Bro. Philbrick might very gracefully have been offered a higher place on the dais.

Bro. Furner, the other Junior Grand Deacon, is the Deputy Provincial Grand Master for Sussex, beyond doubt an excellent man, although we have searched for his name without success in the lists of donors to our charities. This is most probably an accidental omission, which Bro. Furner would do well to have rectified by the officials before he retires upon the honours of Past Grand Rank.

The Assistant Grand Director of Ceremonies, Bro. John Whichcord, is an old P.M., and the Treasurer of the Jerusalem Lodge (197), in which he was initiated nearly thirty years ago. He took a leading part in the establishment of the Buckingham and Chandos Lodge (1150), in which he was the first I.P.M., and during its earlier existence did much of the Masonic working. He is also at the present time the First Principal of the St. James's Chapter, No. 2; and some time since served the office of Grand Steward. Bro. Whichcord is a Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries, and many other learned bodies, including the Institute of British Architects; and his works in Operative Masonry bid fair to become prominent features in modern London, as well as in the provinces.

We are pleased to find that a brother, who has worked well in the Province of Cheshire, has been appointed Grand Sword Bearer. Bro. Bulley is not an ornamental Mason, and we fancy we have heard of him before in connection with matters of practical Masonic utility.

By the promotion of Bro. Cottebrune to the post of Grand Pursuivant, Bro. Cubitt, a Past Master of the Bedford Lodge, No. 157, has become Assistant Grand Pursuivant. This appointment generally falls to the lot of one of the body of Metropolitan Masons, and Bro. Cubitt may fairly be taken as a good representative of this rather numerous section of the Craft.

Upon the whole we can only lament that the recent appointments in Grand Lodge lead us to the inevitable conclusion that there are really no Masonic giants in these days, that the age of mediocrity has set in, and that a brother who desires to obtain Grand office must on the one hand rigorously abstain from supporting the Masonic Charities, and on the other hand ruthlessly stifle whatever natural ambition he may possess to make a figure in Freemasonry, otherwise, we fear that for him the purple fruits of office will never bloom, and that he will end his Masonic career, as he commenced it, a happy and contented "blue."

ROSICRUCIAN SOCIETY OF ENGLAND.

The quarterly meeting of this body was held at Freemasons' Tavern, on Thursday, the 24th ult. In the absence of Frater Levander, M. G., the chair was taken by Frater R. Wentworth Little, P.M.G., and amongst the members present were Frater Colonel Burdett, Hon. V.P.; W. H. Hubbard, P.M.G.; W. R. Woodman, M.D., Sec. Gen.; J. Weaver, E. Stanton Jones, Angelo J. Lewis, and S. Rosenthal, Ancients, G. Kenning, M., W. J. Ferguson, C. of M.; Major E. H. Finney, H.; T. Cubitt, O.; R. B. Webster, E. H. Finney, Junr.; W. Roebuck, I. L. Thomas, D. R. Still, K.R.; H. Mackenzie &c. Bro. Vallance, was duly admitted a member of the Society, after which a highly interesting paper referring to the study of occult science was read by Frater Mackenzie to whom the thanks of the meeting were voted. The Abbé Conssant of Paris, (Eliphas Levi,) was unanimously elected an honorary member, and several names of aspirants having been proposed for the next meeting, the college was closed.

Mulum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

The "Masonic Student" is very greatly obliged to the Editor of Boston's Freemason's Monthly Magazine, as well as to a friendly American brother, for having been so good as to forward to him, through Bro. Kenning, the April Number of that Magazine, for 1873. He begs them to accept his fraternal thanks.

Reviews.

The Teeth, in Infancy and Age, by T. Burgoyne Pillin, L.D.S. &c. (J. Milles & Co. London).—Bro. Pillin's little book is most useful, and free from the technicalities of Dental Science. We are all interested in its contents, and cannot fail to be instructed and entertained by a perusal of its pages. We trust its circulation will be as large a one as it deserves.

Freemason's Repository (Providence, R.I., U.S.A.). This broadsheet, which represents Rhode Island, is issued monthly, and although not a very pretentious publication is no doubt useful as a means of communication for the Craft in that Masonic district.

A full report of the proceedings of Grand Chapter, on Wednesday last, will be given in our next.

A BOOK TO EVERY HOUSEHOLD.—Boots, with the celebrated wire-quilted soles, wearing twice as long as ordinary leather, for all ages; and children's boots with metallic tips, which never wear out at the toes, may be had at most shoe dealers. Insist on giving these a trial, and judge on their merits.

In Memoriam.

THE EARL OF ZETLAND, P.G.M.

A solemn and affecting duty now devolves upon us. The Earl of Zetland is no more! and in simple, but heart-felt praises, we wreath our chaplet for his tomb.

In our lamented departed brother, Freemasonry has lost a fervent friend, and the cause of progress in general an ardent and generous supporter.

No career in the Craft—not even excepting that of the late Duke of Sussex—was ever so distinguished, and few brethren—if any—have wielded the sceptre of Grand Master of England with so much credit to the Order. We say this without being guided in the least by the old quotation—De mortuis nil nisi bonum. Lord Zetland was not merely noble; he personified nobility, and all those who have enjoyed the honour of intimacy with our deceased illustrious brother can testify in the strongest manner to his urbanity, and kindly bearing.

The writer of this tribute to our late chief's memory feels that words which he had the privilege to indite upon the occasion of Lord Zetland's retirement from the government of the Craft are somewhat apposite to the present melancholy occasion, inasmuch as they embody and express the universal sentiment of the Craft as to his Lordship's merits, in connection with a brief but accurate statement of the Earl of Zetland's Masonic career.

We simply echo the feelings of every English Mason when we say that Lord Zetland has endeared himself to all our hearts, not only by his unswerving devotion to the high and holy principles of Freemasonry, but by the courtesy, the urbanity, and the dignity with which he has performed his duties as Grand Master of England. The post that his Lordship occupies is one of the most lofty and honourable positions to which a man can aspire during his earthly career. We would rather be the ruler of a glorious fraternity of good and true men, than the monarch of many a European realm. We would rather reign, as the Earl of Zetland has reigned, in the "hearts and affections" of his brother Masons than exercise command over their "lives and fortunes." We would rather have the epitaph placed over our tomb that we had served our fellow-men, and advanced the interests of truth and virtue, than to have recorded there those titles of majesty and dominion which sit so sadly on the cold brow of death. Give us the affectionate remembrance of those whom we loved and cherished, give us a name like that of Thomas Dundas, a Nobleman in every sense of the word, a Mason in every signification of the name, a Man in the most exalted acceptation of the term. It is true that we have a right to expect in the Grand Master of the Mother Grand Lodge of the world, a knight, like Bayard, sans reproche; it is true that we rely implicitly on the honour, the integrity, and the zeal of the brother who rules the Freemasons of England, and it is equally true that in our present Grand Master we have had one to whom we could point with pride, one whose consistency as a gentleman and a Freemason has never been questioned, and who will hand the sceptre of his office to his successor untarnished by a single stain.

The Earl of Zetland comes of a good Masonic stock, as we shall prove in a few words. His grandfather, the first Lord Dundas, was Deputy Grand Master under the Duke of Sussex, in 1813 and his father, the first Earl of Zetland, afterwards filled the same post, and died in 1839, Pro. Grand Master of England. Our Most Worshipful Brother was born on the 5th of February, 1795. His Masonic career dates from the 18th June, 1830, when as the "Honourable Thomas Dundas," he was initiated in the Prince of Wales Lodge, No. 259, in which lodge he eventually occupied the chair of Worshipful Master. His lordship was appointed Senior Grand Warden on the 25th April, 1832; he succeeded the late Earl of Durham, as Deputy Grand Master, on the 24th April, 1839, and followed the same lamented nobleman in the office of Pro. Grand Master in 1840; this high post he held at the death of H.R.H. the Duke of Sussex, in April 1843, when by the Constitutions of the Order, the Earl became the ruler of the English Craft until the next period of election, at which time, namely on the 6th of March, 1844, his lordship was elected Most Worshipful Grand Master, and was installed as such on the 24th of April following. In Royal Arch Masonry, Lord Zetland's career has been equally brilliant; he was exalted on the 1st June, 1832, in the Prince of Wales Chapter, No. 259, and duly served in each of the principal chairs; he was appointed one of the Grand Sojourners in 1832; as Deputy Grand Master he became, ex officio, Second Grand Principal, and of course as Grand Master he was elevated to the dignity of Supreme Grand Z., in accordance with the regulations of the Order. His lordship has also been Provincial Grand Master for the North and East Ridings of Yorkshire since 1835.

It now only remains to trace the progress of English Freemasonry under his benign sway. From seven hundred and sixteen lodges at the time of Lord Zetland's installation as Grand Master, we have increased to nearly thirteen hundred! From an estimated membership of twenty-seven thousand, we have increased, in England alone, to eighty-four thousand five hundred, and the increase in our Foreign and Colonial lodges is far greater in proportion. The immense Masonic constellation that now shines in the far Pacific Seas, has arisen in light and beauty during the period of our present Grand Master's rule. Remote and almost mythical corners of the globe have received the benefits of Freemasonry under his auspices. From Japan to Gibraltar, from the Gold Coast to the Himalayan mountains, through the ancient empire of Cathay, and the bleak regions of Newfoundland, the blessings of our friendly Craft have been spread, through the fostering care of the Earl of Zetland. This is a result of which any man might be justly proud, and like his great predecessor, Sir Christopher Wren, posterity will be able to say of our noble chief, "If you seek his monument, look around." The universe of civilisation will bear his name, and the hearts of men will hymn his praises. It is therefore with pain that we shall witness the retirement of one who has for such a lengthened period filled the foremost place in the regard of his brethren; we shall miss the stately presence, and the suave dignity, which so fitly represented the innate nobility of the Masonic Institution.

In this brief notice we shall not say one word of the future—it is all too feeble a tribute to a loved and venerated name—but as the accepted organ of the great English Craft, as the voice of many thousands of the household of faith, we tender to the Most Worshipful Grand Master, our unfeigned gratitude for his life-long devotion to the interests of the Order; for his recognition and support of those principles which are dear to the hearts of all Masons, and we cordially wish him, on his retirement from the active duties of Freemasonry, that repose and happiness which are ever the accompaniment of a conscience void of offence to all mankind.

Let us but add to the above that, although Lord Zetland's career has not been greatly prolonged, he leaves behind him not only remembrances in many hearts, but an imperishable memorial of charity, in the shape of the Zetland Fund, which by our late brother's own desire, is to be devoted to the relief of distress and affliction amongst those who have rendered eminent services to the Craft.

We have every reason to believe that the latter days of Lord Zetland were peaceful and happy. We know that his interest in Freemasonry never slumbered—full of honours—burdened so to speak—with good wishes and with the gratifying testimony of a good conscience. The venerable Earl has gone to his rest, lamented by Freemasons more particularly, but also by the great body of his countrymen, to whom he had ever presented an example "void of all offence." Peace to his manes and may his successor in the family honours, who we rejoice to know is a Mason, emulate the virtues of the great and good Dundas, whose ashes we now reverently commit to the dust.

GRAND FESTIVAL.

The Grand Master, continuing, said: I am quite sure that you have all deeply regretted the cause which of late has prevented him from taking that active part which he has been accustomed to take, both in public and in Masonic duties. I rejoice to say that he has returned from a yachting expedition in greatly improved health. (Hear, hear.) I received from him a letter this morning, in which though he said it would not be in his power to attend here to-day, he informed me that it is fully his intention to be present at the next Quarterly Communication in June. And, brethren, that is quite consistent with the character of my noble friend, because he is accustomed to prefer occasions when there is work to be done and business to be transacted, to occasions which are more purely of a festive description. With his name I have to couple the rest of the Grand Officers, past and present; and, brethren, though as they, the Grand Officers of this and the past years, have been my own selection, I may feel some difficulty in speaking of them, yet it would be a misplaced feeling on my part if I were not to avail myself of this opportunity of returning to the Grand Officers of past years my warm thanks for the assistance which they have given me, and for the manner in which they have discharged the duties to which they have been called; and expressing my hope and my full confidence, that those who have honoured me by accepting office on this occasion, will prove fully worthy of the fame of their predecessors. Brethren, I have great pleasure indeed in coupling with this toast the name of one who, if I am not mistaken, is likely to take a leading, important, and grand part in the Craft, I mean, the Senior Grand Warden, Lord Balfour of Burley (cheers).

Lord Balfour of Burley, S.G.W.: Most Worshipful Grand Master and Brethren, no one can regret more than I do the absence of the Deputy Grand Master, though perhaps had he been present I should not have been brought into the prominence that I have been, to respond to this toast. I desire to thank you for the kind manner in which you have received me. My constituency is somewhat numerous and is separated from me by some distance. I have not therefore been able to consult them individually, but it is impossible for them not to be much gratified by the way in which you have received this toast. Speaking for myself, I have attained to an eminence which I never hoped to attain when I was initiated into Freemasonry. We have to thank you, Most Worshipful Grand Master, for appointing us as your officers, for the most handsome way in which you have proposed this toast, and to you, brethren, for the hearty manner in which you have responded to it. We have received an ovation which is far beyond our merits and deserts; and while it is gratifying to the Past Grand Officers as testifying to them the approbation their efforts have met with, it imposes upon us, the officers for the ensuing year, a debt which we can hardly hope to repay. We shall endeavour to do so by an assiduous attention to our duties, by regular attendance at Grand Lodge, and by endeavouring to assist the Most Worshipful Grand Master in furthering that scheme which he has held out for us in his speech, which although high in its aims and ambitious in its objects, is not too high or too ambitious for the Freemasons of England. (Cheers.) Allow me to thank you for the kind manner in which you have received this toast. (Applause.)

The Grand Master: Brethren, I now ask you to drink "The Health of the Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Masters of England." In proposing that toast I am suddenly reminded that I have pursued this evening a somewhat improvident course, for I have expressed already my gratitude to those distinguished persons which I ought to have reserved as the principal topic of the toast which I am now about to propose: but there can be no harm in expressing over again the obligations under which I myself and the Craft lie to those distinguished brethren who have accepted the office of Provincial Grand Masters throughout the country. I can only say that I have always received from them the most loyal and the most hearty co-operation in the government and management of the Craft; and if I may judge by the tranquility of Masonic affairs, by the absence of trouble, and by the fewness of appeals—if the saying is true which has been spoken of nations that "Happy are the people whose annals are dull," then I may truly say that during my period of office, so far at least as disputes and difficulties have to do with amusement, the annals of Masonry have been dull indeed; and that has been due to a large extent to the wise government and the judicious rule of those who have filled the offices of Provincial Grand Masters. Brethren, I beg to couple with this toast, having already called upon Bro. Bagshaw for a speech, the name of my Right Worshipful and Noble friend, Bro. Lord de Tabley.

The toast was enthusiastically received.

Lord de Tabley, Provincial Grand Master of Cheshire: Most Worshipful Grand Master and Brethren, I feel it a great honour to have been called upon on an occasion so important as this to return thanks for the Provincial Grand Masters present at this auspicious celebration. I shall detain you but a very few moments; but it is necessary that I should, after the flattering way in which the Most Worshipful Grand Master has been pleased to speak of those who support his rule in the provinces—occupy your attention for a short time. I assure you in the name of my Brother Provincial Grand Masters of their hearty desire and their strict determination to do their duty not only for the sake of the spread of those great principles which are embodied in the present constitution and landmarks of our Order; but out of loyalty to him and, I may say, attachment to his own particular person. I have spoken hitherto, as I know I may do, in the name of the Provincial Grand Officers here present; but I may speak also I am sure, in the name of that more important body, the Worshipful Body of Masters of Lodges to whom our most Worshipful Grand Master has alluded, and I assure him that every member of the Craft throughout his widespread dominion is determined to support him in the office he holds—and long may he continue to rule over us! In doing this we shall always feel the greatest pleasure and satisfaction. (Cheers.)

The Earl of Limerick (who was received with great warmth) said: Most Worshipful Grand Master and Brethren, a toast has been committed to me which will require but few words of preface for it is one that commends itself in a most especial manner to all Freemasons. If there is anything that the Craft is proud of in this country it is its Masonic charities—(hear, hear), and those charities have been most nobly supported in the past, and I am quite sure that they will also be most nobly supported in the future. One of the most noble virtues to which Freemasonry is consecrated is that of charity. We all are proud of supporting that charity which relieves the declining years of our old and distressed brethren; we also are proud of supporting those charities which relieve the children of those Freemasons who may have fallen into want. Even at this moment of our gloomy splendour—(laughter)—we can Masonically look to three great charitable lights, our Benevolent Association, our Boys' School and our Girls' School. (Hear, hear, and cheers.) Two of those great charities have been very well supported during this year, and I am quite sure that the third of those charities, the one whose festival is shortly to be held,—the Girls' School—will also receive its full amount of support from the brethren of the Craft. I will not detain you longer, brethren, but I will couple with the toast of "The Masonic Charities," the name of Bro. Little, the Secretary of the Girls' School. (Cheers.)

Bro. Little: Most Worshipful Grand Master, Lord Limerick and brethren, it must be a source of great gratification to us all to have heard from the lips of the Most Worshipful Grand Master, that Freemasonry is making such rapid strides and progressing in such a prosperous manner. I am sure you will be equally pleased to hear that our Masonic charities are working hand-in-hand, and with equal steps keeping pace with the material prosperity of the Craft in general. Of that, brethren, we have had a very great example in the two recent festivals of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution and the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. I believe that on few previous occasions have the subscriptions of lodges and brethren been exceeded. Taking both Institutions together something like £14,000 have been contributed to those two institutions; and I am satisfied that in appealing to you on the present occasion, and in advocating the broad principle of charity which pervades every Masonic heart, I may anticipate an equal result for the Girls' School Festival which is about to take place. (Cheers.) I will not at this late period of the evening detain you further than to say that that festival is fixed for the 14th of May, when Lord Skelmersdale will preside; and from the number of Stewards we have already obtained, and from the promises of support we have already received, although we may, to some extent, fall short of the results achieved by the other charities I believe we shall achieve a success which will be not only beneficial to the institution itself, but an honour to the Craft of which we are members. I beg to thank you for the toast which has been proposed and drunk. (Cheers.)

The Grand Master: Brethren, the toast which I have now to ask you to drink is "the Health of the Grand Stewards of the year" (hear, hear), and I am quite sure that you will with me heartily drink that toast, and will concur with me in thinking that we owe them much gratitude for the successful arrangements of this festival. (Hear, hear.) I understand, brethren, that that volatile element, which has failed us this evening is no more under the control of the Board of Stewards than it is under the control of any other description of mortals, and that consequently we must not hold them responsible for that shortcoming (laughter); but this at least I think I may say, that it seems to me high praise to accord to the success of this evening, that the dinner was of such a quality that even if we had been involved in total darkness we might safely have eaten the viands that were placed before us. Now, if that be true I cannot pay a higher compliment to the Board of Stewards, and I shall therefore propose their health and call upon Bro. Rucker to respond.

Bro. J. A. Rucker: Most Worshipful Grand Master and brethren, the duties of a Grand Steward, if we except those duties which are performed by the honorary Secretary, are not very onerous; but such as they are the Board of Grand Stewards who were presented to you, M.W.G.M., and approved by you last year, entered upon their business with the full determination that no effort should be wanting on their part to give satisfaction to Grand Lodge. The terms in which you, my Lord, have expressed and the kind way in which the brethren have expressed your and their opinion that the result of our labours is successful is the highest compliment you can pay us, and is more than a recompense for the time and care we have taken in the task. We hope that the musical entertainment under our Bro. Grand Organist, which will take place in the Temple after the banquet, will be a fitting and agreeable termination to this Grand Festival. We thank you most heartily for the manner in which you have proposed our health, and we thank the brethren for the way in which they have received the toast with which you have honoured us. (Hear, hear, and cheers.)

The Grand Master: Brethren, I have never risen to propose a toast at the Grand Festival under circumstances of such difficulty as those under which I rise to propose this toast upon this occasion. It has usually been my good fortune when I have risen to propose "The Health of the Ladies" to have had before me in that gallery a beautiful vision which cheered me on, encouraged me in my speech, and gave flow to my words; but those unforeseen occurrences which have cast a shadow even over the brilliancy of these rejoicings have deprived me of that encouragement, and have taken from our eyes that brilliant vision. (Laughter.) But whether the ladies be present or whether they be absent in the body, they are always present to our minds, and we can truly assure them that we drink their health with equal enthusiasm in their absence as when they are before us. I therefore doubt not that on this occasion you will avail yourselves of the peculiar circumstances to shew even more than ordinary zeal in the reception of this toast, and without further words—for what words of mine could recommend the toast to you better than the very name of the toast itself—I give you "The Health of the Ladies." (Cheers.)

His Lordship then proceeded to the Temple, where he was followed by the rest of the company, and where a charming concert was given under the direction of Bro. Wilhelm Ganz, Grand Organist, by Miss Carola, Miss Banks, Miss Adelaide Newton, Madame Patey, Bro. George Perren, J. C. Patey, Mr. Lewis Thomas, Bro. Payne (solo violoncello), and Bro. Radcliff (solo flute).

Bro. Goodchild was an able and successful

CONSECRATION OF MASONIC HALL, AT BALLARAT.

The hall built in Camp-street by the Masons of Ballarat was consecrated on the 13th February with great ceremony, and in the presence of a large number of Masons, many of whom came from long distances. There were some from Melbourne, and from country districts thirty miles away. The building is commodious, substantial, and admirably suited for the purposes for which it is designed.

At five o'clock the Provincial Grand Lodge of Victoria, I.C., was opened under a special dispensation at the British Queen Hotel, by Bro. W. Scott, P.G.D. Inspector, who appointed the following acting office-bearers:—R.W. Dep. Prov. Grand Master, Bro. H. Cuthbert; V.W. Prov. Grand S.W., Bro. Gibbings; V.W. Prov. Grand J.W., Bro. Alfred; V.W. Grand Treasurer, Bro. Macartney; V.W. Prov. Grand Secretary, Bro. Peake; V.W. Prov. Grand Chaplain, Rev. Bro. Russell; W.P.G. Senior Deacon, Bro. Whitby; W.P.G. Junior Deacon, Bro. Rowe; W.P.G. Superintendent of Works, Bro. H. Davies; W.P.G. Director of Ceremonies, Bro. Robertson; W.P.G. Organist, Bro. King; W.P.G. Stewards, Bros. Radcliff and Trevor; W.P.G. Sword-Bearer, Bro. Sleep; W.P.G. Inner Guard, Bro. Ware.

At shortly after six o'clock the procession was formed, and headed by the rifle band, marched up the south side of Sturt-street as far as Doveton-street, thence by the north side to Camp-street.

In Camp-street the leaders of the procession divided and two lines were formed, through which the brethren marched in inversed order. The members of the Provincial Grand Lodge then walked three times round the building and entered the hall. The other brethren followed, the band playing them in. On entering the hall a very pretty sight met the eye, and not a few of the brethren who had not made themselves acquainted with the intended ceremonial were not a little surprised. Round the hall was a line of ladies seated on chairs raised on a slight dais, and their pretty, tasteful, and in some instances somewhat brilliant dress lent a bright, picturesque, and perhaps, un-masonic appearance to the room. The hall was set out in form for holding a lodge, the very elegant furniture belonging to the North Star Lodge being used. The spacious floor was covered by a very handsome and costly carpet, which gave what may be termed a furnished appearance to the hall.

The acting R.W.P.G.M. took the Master's chair at the head of the lodge, and the acting Senior and Junior P.G. Wardens were in their chairs. The R.W. Master was supported by P.G. Secretary, Bro. Lempriere, and Bro. Russell, Chaplain, on the right, and by the Dep. P.G.M. Bro. H. Cuthbert, on the left. The ceremonial throughout was of the most impressive character, as will be judged from the report below, and the R.W.M. and all his officers showed that they were thoroughly at home in their various duties. There was not a hitch through a long and intricate ceremonial, and all prayers and addresses were given in an earnest and solemn manner, and impressed not only the brethren but gave many of the ladies a higher opinion of Masonry than they perhaps had before. No doubt the slight peep into the mysteries may make some of the fair visitors curious to know more, but they must needs rest content with having seen a more thoroughly Masonic ceremony than is often witnessed by the gentle sex.

The Secretary delivered the following address:—Right Worshipful Sir,—Freemasonry, like many other institutions in a young country, has experienced a very varied existence: it has enjoyed periods of prosperity and suffered those of depression. In this good city of Ballarat, in its more prosperous days, the Craft boasted of no less than six lodges, the first of which was opened on the 28th September, 1855, at Bath's Hotel. As the district became less prosperous it was deemed advisable in the interests of the Craft to reduce the number of the lodges to two. This was successfully accomplished in April, 1867, and has had such a happy effect that I am proud to say, we have been enabled in our depression to carry out that which in our prosperity we could not effect, viz., the erection of a building which the Craft can call its own. I need not here, Right Worshipful Sir, recapitulate the action taken by the Yarrowee and St. John's Lodges to erect this building, it having been so fully explained at the laying of the foundation-stone, on the 16th October, 1872, by our esteemed Bro. Past Master Henry Cuthbert; suffice it to say, that the original design, although not yet finished, is so far complete that the brethren can, without any inconvenience, pursue their labours therein. The total cost of the erection, up to the present time, including purchase of ground and all incidental expenses, amounts to £1303 14s. 9d.

The brethren then left the hall and returned to the British Queen Hotel, where the Prov. Grand Lodge was closed. The Yarrowee Lodge was opened, and after the transaction of some little business was closed.

The banquet was given in the hall, and nine o'clock had been fixed as the hour, but in consequence of the ceremony occupying longer than had been expected, it was ten o'clock before the chair was taken. There were then present nearly 200 of the Craft.

The Chairman, Bro. H. Cuthbert, said they had reason that day to think that Masonry was prospering in Ballarat. The erection of a hall dedicated to Masonry had been long thought of in Ballarat, but projects had failed. It was not until 1872 that Masons, most of whom were comparatively young in Masonry, determined to have a hall erected, and that day they had seen the result in a building that was alike creditable to the building committee, to the architect, and the contractors. The Chairman briefly sketched the career of Masonry in Ballarat from the opening of the first lodge, in which men of many nations assembled, to the present day. He was sure all had been much pleased with the way in which that day's ceremony had been performed, and the addresses they had heard would have a lasting effect on them. He was sure Bro. Watson's address inculcated lessons that would not be soon or speedily forgotten. After referring to the principles of the Order, brotherly love, relief, truth, honesty of purpose, and, above all, charity, he proposed "Prosperity to Masonry."

Bro. Scott, chairman of the building committee, responded. The first lodge he visited in Victoria was the Golden Lodge of Bendigo, in 1853, which was the first lodge established in Victoria out of Melbourne. Bro. Scott referred to the career of Masonry in Victoria, and trusted that in future, in Ballarat at all events, Masons would be more consolidated than they had been.

Bro. Scott proposed the W.M. of the St. John's Lodge, and the W.M. of the Yarrowee Lodge, and paid a very high compliment to Bro. Little, W.M. of the Yarrowee Lodge, and Mrs. Little, to whom were due the arrangements for having such very excellent music. They had determined to have good music at the consecration, and the brethren could bear testimony to the result. To Bro. Trevor, W.M. of the St. John's Lodge, was due a large proportion of the success of that day's ceremonial.

Bro. Little, W.M. of the Yarrowee Lodge, responded. He was glad to have an opportunity of acknowledging the gratuitous services so readily and courteously given by the choir, some of whom it should be remembered were professional musicians.

Several other toasts were given, and the brethren separated shortly after one o'clock.

ORDER OF THE TEMPLE.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

A letter, signed F. H. Newman, Past G. Hospitaller, &c., inserted in your columns of the 3rd inst., leads me to the conclusion that the writer is unfavourably impressed with the natural desire to restore to its proper status the United Order of the Temple and Hospital.

I believe he is not a little mistaken in supposing that it is wished entirely to disconnect that body from Freemasonry. Without further reference to the History of the Old Crusaders and the succession of the heads of that order, I think I am right in saying, briefly, that all the Crusader Knights were Freemasons, and that the latter position was either a qualification for the former, or was esteemed at that time a concurrent necessity. In this sense we are still "Masonic" Knights Templar, and there is no reason why we should repudiate the connection, which would be kicking away the ladder by which we have risen, and thus depriving others of a similar means of ascent. It has been recently observed, the Pope had something to do with establishing the Order, (true) and the Pope dissolved! That is quite another matter. Did he! Could he! Has he not excommunicated the whole Craft of Freemasons, as well as those whom he pleases to call heretics. Much obliged to him; but we remain in statu quo, as far as he is concerned, and not much the worse for his Holiness's anathemas, indeed the Craft seems to thrive, in spite, if not in consequence of them.

It is not, however, certain that Freemasonry was originally a qualification for a Crusader; it seems more probable that it might have been a concurrent step, a collateral advantage. And why not? Are there not hosts of Freemasons amongst our own officers and soldiers? and is our army therefore necessarily Masonic? The foregoing seems to indicate that I believe in the pure and lineal succession of the Order. I do: but still I would not disconnect it from Freemasonry, because the R.A. degree is, to a certain extent, a guarantee of the eligibility of a candidate; not conclusive, however, for the authorities have wisely provided other securities against indiscriminate admission, and I should be pleased to see them go further, and require a social qualification. I trust that your correspondent may be induced to reconsider his views, in regard to the intentions of the supreme authorities of the Order, which views I confess I was, at one time, disposed myself to entertain, until I became, as I believe, better informed on the subject. I believe him, however, to be actuated by thoroughly conscientious motives, thus open to conviction, and not by that jealousy which prompts another correspondent to "fear that the impetus given to the order by the recent proceedings at Willis's Rooms, will tend still further to enhance its popularity," etc.

The Order is honoured by the patronage of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen; it is presided over by the future sovereign of our native country; let us shew our gratitude by our loyalty, and endeavour to perpetuate, without dissensions, those sacred and noble principles which have been handed down to us by our illustrious ancestors.

I am, dear Sir,

Yours fraternally,

DEVONIENSIS.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGES.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

On the refusal of the correspondence relating to the holding of a meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall at Truro, an idea occurred to me that neither Bro. H. nor Bro. Hughan are quite correct in their opinions in respect to that meeting.

By the Book of Constitutions, page 45, we are told that the Prov. G.M. is appointed by patent granted by the M.W.G.M. and that by such patent he is invested with a rank and power, in his particular district, similar to that possessed by the M.W.G.M. He shall be installed at the first Provincial Grand Lodge which he may hold after his appointment.

On reading on we find that he is empowered to appoint a Deputy, two Wardens, two Deacons, &c. At page 50, it is stated after renumerating the qualifications for the office of D. Prov. G.M. that he shall simply be authorised by patent to hold office during pleasure.

There is nothing in the Book of Constitutions about any further installation or investiture of the D. Prov. G.M., but the Wardens and other officers, not holding their offices by patent from the Prov. G. M., are to be invested in the Prov. Grand Lodge. Now, my opinion of the whole matter is, that, as the Book of Constitutions states that the Prov. Grand Lodge ceases to exist on the death, resignation, suspension, or renewal of the Prov. G. Master, until a brother is appointed or empowered to perform the functions of Prov. Grand Master, by whose authority the Prov. Grand Lodge may be again be established. The Province, masonically speaking, never ceases to exist, because it is, as it was, subject to the authority of the M.W.G.M., and that the Grand Master takes the province under his protection and authority, until he appoints by patent a Prov. G. Master, and that the officers of the Prov. G. Lodge only cease to exist, or to hold any power, or to act as a lodge, until their re-appointment and investiture by the Prov. G.M., or acting as him, by his Deputy, appointed by patent, and of course duly registered in London. I believe that the Deputy Provincial Grand Master had full power to hold the lodge, and that all business or a town councillor, or a parson, the laws relating to such appointments are nothing to do with Masonry, and we as Masons have nothing to do with them.

With regard to Bro. Rogers I hold that the same reasoning does not, most decidedly apply; he was duly appointed by patent from the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe as Prov. G. Master for Cornwall, by patent from the M.W.G.M., to act as his Deputy Prov. G. Master, and had fulfilled all the requirements of the Book of Constitutions, and had registered his patent, a matter of the greatest importance. His appointment needed neither investment in lodge, or installation; the Book of Constitutions says nothing about that. And in answer to Bro. Hughan's last question I am of opinion that the Provincial Grand Lodge transacted at that lodge, was masonically speaking in strict conformity with the Book of Constitutions; but had the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall been held by the Prov. G.M., or by his deputy, on his authority, he, the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe was bound by Masonic law to have been installed on that occasion, and that to my mind was the only error committed at the meeting.

With regard to the instances mentioned in support of his opinion by "Bro. H.," as regards Earl Percy, and the Mark Lodge, as Craft Masonry in England does not recognise the Mark degree, (and the more the pity) that circumstance does not apply, and although the W.M. elect of a Craft Lodge cannot act until his installation, his I.P.M. or P.M. can, in that instance does not apply in his favour, and as for the multiplication of such instances as the appointment of a J.P., acquired a legal existence, when it was resuscitated by the Deputy Prov. Grand Master, acting under the only authority which the Book of Constitutions provides, by appointment and patent of the Prov. G.M., who had received his patent from the Most Hon. the Marquess of Ripon, M.W.G.M. of England,

Fraternally and faithfully yours,

HERBERT BUSY HODGES.

GRAND ORIENT OF GREECE.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

We hail with the greatest satisfaction, and with feelings akin to those of the astronomer when some new planet comes within the field of his view, to add another link in the great chain of the Solar System. We hail with the greatest satisfaction the rise of the Grand Orient of Greece, and at once recognise in the establishment of this new National Lodge, under the presidency of H.I.H. the Prince Rhodocanakis, well supported by the Prince Navrocordato, a name so familiar to us all, and M. Rothschild, even more so from his family connection with England, the dawn of a new era for Greece, when the present disturbed elements of social life, gradually harmonised under the mild and yet powerful moral influence of the noble Craft, will inevitably subside into the current of civilised progress, with its concomitant circumstances of greater security for life and property, and the restoration of peace and prosperity to the long-oppressed, or at any rate, uncared for mass of the people, whose personal endowments, despite their adverse political destiny, have always commanded the admiration of other more fortunate European States.

In the remarkable report, containing many valuable particulars respecting the foundation of the Grand Lodge of Greece, it is worthy of especial note, with what consummate ability and tact, the First Grand Master succeeded in reconciling differences and overcoming successive obstacles, that might well have disheartened one less ardent in pressing to its consummation the realisation of a generous and patriotic scheme for the social amelioration of his country.

Turning then to the rules for the Government of the New Grand Lodge, we at once perceive the happy adaptation of many of those in force amongst ourselves, to local differences; while, at the same time there are several enactments contained in this official report, which deserve the careful consideration of the Masonic body in England, as defining more broadly and yet not the less precisely and even minutely, the various duties attached to the executive of the governing body.

A like success has attended the coeval establishment of the Supreme Grand Council 33° in Greece by the same Prince, and which the G.M. has very judiciously brought into close union with the Grand Lodge, although not necessarily so.

The ultimate result of this remarkable movement we cannot doubt, and we have good reason for believing that the present Grand Master will in due course be succeeded in that office by His Majesty the King of the Hellenes.

CONSECRATION OF THE HYDE PARK LODGE (No. 1425.)

This new lodge was consecrated at "The Westbourne," 1, Craven-road, W., on Saturday, the 26th day of April, by the V.W. Bro: John Hervey, Grand Secretary, assisted by Bro. John Savage, P.G.D., as S.W.; Bro. John Terry, P.P.G.S.B. Herts, as J.W.; Rev. Bro. Heaton as Chaplain, and Bro. John Weightman, P.P.G. Deacon Berks and Bucks, as I.G. The musical arrangements were under the able direction of Bro. Henry Parker, P.G.O. Middlesex.

The ceremony was worked in a most impressive manner, and in the addresses from the Presiding Officer and the Chaplain, some excellent advice was given, of which we are sure that the brethren will take heed.

The lodge being resumed in the second degree, a Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. A. H. Longhurst, P.M. 780, was presented by Bro. Crittenden, sen., P.G.R. Kent, and was placed in the chair of K.S., according to ancient custom, and the brethren being admitted, saluted him in due form.

The Worshipful Master then proceeded to appoint and invest his officers, viz., Bro. Henry H. Tathano, S.W.; Bro. A. Beasley, J.W.; Bro. W. Langridge, Treasurer; Bro. G. Read, P.M., Hon. Sec.; Bro. J. H. Landon, S.D.; Bro. W. F. Savage, J.D.; Bro. Sydenham J. Knott, I.G.; Bro. F. E. Moore, D.C.; and Bro. Daley, T. The other founders present were Bros. Thomas Vine, G. H. Browing, Samuel Headon, John Headon, S. Morgan, John Crittenden, jun., Thos. Allen, S. Jones, R. C. Rickett, Robert Clarke, Thos. Colson, H. Eccles, and Hy. Jno. Alexander.

The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned from labour to refreshment.

The visitors present were, in addition to those already mentioned, Bros. A. C. Alais, P.M. 834; L. Bryett, W.M. 834; J. Trotman, S.W. 834; C. Barker, J.W. 834; W. T. Wrighton, 23; E. G. Woodward, 382; Chas. B. Payne, P.M. 27; John Walker, P.M. 274; John Bond, S.D. 889; John T. Brown, W.M. 1101; J. Price, J.W. 59; G. Moxon, J.W. 209; G. Alexander, S.W. 59; L.

O. Carter, S.D. 209; L. J. Waddington, J.D. 1309; Thomas Kingston, J.D. 862; J. Brown, W.M. 780; Thomas Cross 1194; W. Dodd, P.M. 1194; W. R. Baker, 192.

The brethren afterwards sat down to banquet, served in a most excellent manner by Bro. Browning, which gave unqualified satisfaction. The Worshipful Master proposed the various toasts in appropriate terms.

Bro. Hervey G.S. in responding for himself, and also in proposing prosperity to the Hyde Park Lodge, expressed his wish that the brethren would be very careful in the admission of members and endeavour to maintain the high character of the Order. Bro. Terry strongly exhorted the brethren to follow the advice given by Bro. Hervey. The numerous visitors responded, and all wished the lodge hearty success.

Bro. Wrighton gave great pleasure to the meeting by singing several of his excellent songs, and Bros. Parker, Beasley, Vine, Alexander, and Savage also added much to the enjoyment of the evening.

Not a single hitch occurred during the ceremony and banquet, and so good a start augurs well for the success of the lodge.

Reviews.

Mackay's National Freemason (Washington, D.C., U.S.A.) No. 6, vol. 2., is full of interest, and our well known Bro. Dr. Mackay presides in the editorial chair with his accustomed grace and efficiency. An article entitled "Revival of Masonry in the eighteenth century," by Dr. Mackay, though unfortunately brief, gives a fair outline of a discussion which was published in The Freemason sometime since, and in which our readers will remember Bro. Hughan was left in "possession of the field." The editor states as follows, "That Bro. Buchan is right in theory, that the three degrees of Master, Fellow Craft, and Apprentice were unknown to the Masons of the seventeenth century, and that these classes existed only as gradations of rank, will be generally admitted. But there is unquestionable evidence that the modes of recognition, the method of government, the legends, and much of the ceremonial of initiation, were in existence among the operative Masons of the middle ages, and were transmitted to the speculative Masons of the eighteenth century. The work of Anderson, of Desaguliers, and their contemporaries, was to improve and enlarge, but not to invent. The Masonic system of the present day has been the result of a slow but steady growth. "An old Diploma" at page 313, we find to be a certificate of the Royal Order of Scotland, granted at Edinburgh in the "year of Masonry 579, and of Salvation 1791" to the grandfather of Bro. Alex. W. Marshall, jr., of Charleston, S.C.

"A brief reply to Bro. Drummond" re Knights Templars and Knights Templar, quite expresses our view of the matter, whatever our printer will have it to be! "Knights Templars" appears to us to be the proper title by which to express more than one member of the Order of the Temple. Dr. Mackay observes "The whole gist of my argument is, that Knights Templar is wrong, because Templar is here a noun in apposition with Knights, and we know that it is not an adjective, but a noun, because it follows Knights and does not precede it, as an adjective would." We should like to give Bro. Hughan's article on "Picart's Ceremonies" in answer to certain leading questions propounded by Bro. John M. Richardson, of Georgia, but forbear making our reviews too lengthy. Bro. Hughan conclusively proves in his own words as follows "No. 126 Boston, New England, was not warranted A.D. 1691, but during the year 1733; and that it is a fact, that no constituted lodge by a Grand Lodge dates from an earlier period than the Revival of Masonry, 1717; all antecedents being on the older system of separate organisations, as no Grand Lodges were known.

The Freemason (St. Louis U.S.A.) This paper we are told is the largest and most successful (financially) in the United States. Bro. Geo. Frank Gouley, the Editor, if he has thus accomplished so much, (and we believe he has) may now feel honestly proud of the achievement, seeing that he has not sought success by an overweening pandering to the least worthy aims of the Craft, but on the contrary has ever been the fearless advocate of the brave, the just, and the true. The Masonic Trowel has been transferred to The Freemason, and no doubt the arrangement will prove advantageous to all concerned, for the subscribers to the former will benefit greatly, and the latter cannot be the losers. "Knights Templarism in England" is on the whole well written, but viewed from the standpoint that the pre-requisite of R. A. Masonry has been abolished, which we believe is not the case. If it is so, or intended ultimately to be so, Bro. Gouley truly says "an act will be committed, which must be repented, or regretted as long as it lives . . . and the Templars of England will have cut themselves loose from the other Templars of the world."

Proceedings Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, Dec., 1872. We have again to express our thanks to the obliging Grand Sec. for his attention in keeping us so well posted up in all that concerns this Grand Lodge. The present volume is a most readable and interesting account of the last annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, and were it not that we are expecting a long notice of this important body shortly from that indefatigable Mason, Bro. Hughan, we should have quoted at length from its pages.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.
DISEASES OF THE LUNGS AND AIR-VESSELS.
CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.
 Opium, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.
SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
 Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."
 This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.
 * * * Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had gratis of all Chemists.

YOUNG'S ARTICATED CORN AND BUNION PLAISTERS are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d. and 1s. per box. May be had of most chemists.
 Observe the trade mark.—HY—without which none are genuine be sure and ask for YOUNG'S.

ROYAL BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION FOR AGED FREEMASONS.

The Votes and Interests of the Governors and Subscribers of this Institution are earnestly solicited on behalf of BRO. JOHN LEWHELLIN, P.M., Penlroke-Dock, AGED 66 years.

This worthy Brother was Initiated, Passed, and Raised in the St. David's Lodge, No. 360, in the year 1841. He joined the Royal Welsh Lodge, No. 378, in 1849, and to which he has been a subscribing member to the present time. He filled the situation of Warden and the office of Master of the latter Lodge with credit to himself and advantage to the Craft; being, at all times when in prosperous circumstances, ready to contribute liberally, and to relieve distress wherever found. He is now dependent on a small agency for support, and has neither child nor relative to assist him when incapacitated by age and increasing infirmity.

- This Case is strongly recommended by the following Brethren:— Sir Pryse Pryse, Bart., R.W.P.G.M., W.D., South Wales, ditto. Major J. A. Lloyd Phillips, D.P.P.G.M., ditto. T. C. Meyrick, Esq., M.P., P.P.D.G.M., ditto. Geo. Parry, Esq., W.M., 378, P.P.S.G.W., ditto. *Thos. Phillips, P.M., 378, 990, P.S.G.W., ditto. Dr. Geo. Griffiths, P.M., 360, P.P.S.G.W., ditto. T. TO THE PUBLIC.

E. MOSES and SON (the Originators of the Ready-made Clothing system) have maintained their popularity through a long series of years by constant and unwavering attention to the wants of all classes, by punctuality, promptitude, and care in the execution of orders, and by giving their customers full value for their money.

Every department is furnished with a large assortment of goods for all occupations and all occasions, and notwithstanding the great advance in the prices of material and labour, E. MOSES and SON have made no appreciable advance in their charges, but continue to supply well-made fashionable, comfortable and durable articles at prices which are only rendered possible by the extraordinary advantages they possess.

E. MOSES and SON beg to acquaint the Public that they have recently made extensive internal alterations on their City Premises, and the additional accommodation thereby afforded will be found a great convenience to their numerous customers.

N.B.—The price of every article is marked on it in plain figures, and no abatement can, under any circumstances, be made.

Any article not approved of will (if not worn or injured,) be exchanged, or the amount paid for it will be returned.

E. MOSES and SON subjoin a List of their

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

SUNDERLAND.—Williamson Lodge (No. 949).—The annual meeting of this lodge was held on Monday, the 5th inst., when Bro. Jas. H. Coates was re-installed W.M. for another twelve months. Bro. W. Liddell, I.P.M., P.G.J.D., ably officiated as Installing Master. The following is a full list of the officers for the ensuing year, viz.:—Bros. Jas. H. Coates, W.M.; W. Liddell, I.P.M.; J. Foster, S.W.; R. Shadforth, J.W.; R. W. Halfhight, P.M., Treas.; J. Barlow, Sec.; A. Gray, S.D.; J. Harrison, J.D.; J. Taylor, I.G.; E. Gardiner, M. of C.; J. H. Foster, O.; J. Thompson, Tyler; E. Beckwith and R. Richardson, Stewards; C. Bell and J. H. Eggleston, Auditors. The lodge being called from labour to refreshment, after the usual loyal and Masonic toasts had been duly honoured, Bro. Liddell, P.M., proposed, "The Health of the W.M.," and expressed his conviction that the affairs of the lodge would be as efficiently conducted in the coming year as Bro. Coates had done in the past year. It was an honour (Bro. Liddell said) not accorded to many to be re-elected to the chair of their lodge; he only remembered of late years in Sunderland the case of Bro. Wade, who for two years filled the chair of No. 80, but he was certain that the members of the Williamson Lodge had done a wise act in placing their W.M. in the chair of K.S. for another year. Bro. Coates, in responding, warmly thanked the brethren for the honour they had a second time conferred upon him, and assured them that as in the past, so in the future would he continue to do his utmost to promote the interest and prosperity of the Williamson Lodge, and from the experience he gained during last year's working he hoped to be able still more efficiently to perform the duties devolving upon the Master of the lodge. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, nearly sixty brethren were present, among whom were Bros. J. Davison, W.M. 80; S. J. Wade, P.M. 80, P.P.G.D. of C.; J. S. Pearson, W.M. 94; T. Henderson, P.M. 94; J. J. Clay, P.M. 97; H. Fryer, S.D. 97; G. Young, 80; &c.

MANCHESTER.—Shakespeare Lodge, (No. 1009).—On Monday, the 5th inst., the festival of St. John was celebrated in connection with this lodge at the Freemasons' Hall. The members assembled in force, and were honoured by the company of a goodly number of distinguished visitors, including Bro. William Romaine Callender, W.D.P.G.M. of East Lancashire. The Worshipful Master elect, Bro. Thomas Biddulph, was installed in the chair of King Solomon in a most impressive manner by the Worshipful Deputy Prov. Grand Master, assisted by Bros. Past Masters S. W. Petty, P.P.J.G.D.; Charles Henry Coates, P.M., Treas., and J. A. Birch, P.M. After the lodge business was over, the brethren, to the number of about seventy, sat down to a sumptuous banquet served by the Freemasons' Club, in a very elaborate and artistic style. The usual loyal toasts were proposed by the W.M., and enthusiastically received by the whole of the brethren. The W.M. also briefly proposed "The Most Noble the Marquess of Ripon M.W.G.M. of England," and "The Rt. Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, V.W.D.G.M. of England." Bros. Past Masters J. W. Petty, P.P.J.G.D., and Charles Henry Coates, introduced respectively in very effective speeches, "Col. Le Gendre N. Starkie, R.W.P.G.M. of East Lancashire," and "William Romaine Callender Esq., W.D.G.M. of East Lancashire." All these toasts were drunk with the greatest heartiness and greeted with the customary honours. The toast which has always been considered the greatest toast of the evening at the annual festivals of this lodge was entrusted to Bro. Chas. E. Austin, P.M., and D.C. Its announcement was welcomed with great enthusiasm. Bro. Austin said that the cordial welcome which had been extended in anticipation to the toast he had the honour to submit, did not diminish, but increased the feeling of diffidence with which he addressed them; nevertheless it was none the less pleasing, evincing as it did, the unflagging interest which the brethren continued to manifest, in the intimacy of the association which subsisted between it and the well-being and success of the lodge. Happily the great fact had never been lost sight of that this lodge had not simply been baptised in the name, but was consecrated to the genius of their immortal bard. The glorious banner under which they sailed had not been hastily or thoughtlessly adopted as unlikely to exert much influence on the character of the lodge; but it was carefully and wisely chosen for the high tone it would give, and the ever fresh and inexhaustible fountain of wisdom it would supply. Its selection was inspired by a somewhat similar wish to that expressed in Ben Johnson's lines on the portrait of Shakespeare:—

"Wherein the graver had a strife,
 With nature to outdo the life;
 Oh! could he but have drawn his wit,
 As well in brass as he hath hit
 His face; the print would then surpass
 All that was ever writ in brass."

It was felt that, however futile the attempt must prove to imitate his sparkling wit, or emulate his wondrous genius, they might at least hope to catch somewhat of his divine spirit; unfold themselves as it were in the expansiveness of his grandly catholic mind, and sound the depths of his sublimely sympathetic heart. It was a matter of small moment to their founders whether Shakespeare had been a member of a Freemason's lodge or no. Sufficient it was that his marvellous works were in perfect harmony with the principles of the order; that they contained as true a religion, as pure a morality, as lofty a philosophy, and as boundless a charity; that he not only understood and taught, but lived out the principles of Masonry, so that it was a happy thought to identify this lodge with his deathless name, and seek its inspiration in the matchless products of his mighty mind. The ceremony, which was performed nine years ago was more than a baptism, it was a betrothal—a union of the divine art of poetry with the mystic Craft of Freemasonry. The installation meetings were as much the reunions of a Shakesperian club as the festivals of a Masonic Lodge. From the outset they had been regaled with a sumptuous intellectual feast in the introduction of this great toast. Discourses had been delivered of great power and varied styles, differing as did the impetuous mountain torrent from the serenely placid stream in the vale beneath; some carrying them triumphantly forward with a rushing brilliant flood of rhetoric, others winning their hearts and captivating their minds with a quiet, even, melodious flow of metaphor and simile. But if he (Bro. Austin) experienced a feeling of diffidence in handling this toast, because of the successes which his predecessors had achieved, and the large expectations in which the brethren naturally enough indulged, how much more was that feeling increased by the nature and magnitude of the toast itself. In the first place it was difficult to bring oneself to approach the subject at all. Almost in proportion to the reverence they had for Shakespeare was the disinclination that was felt to speak of him. Perhaps it was because the delight he gave them was so inexpressibly sweet: he was a near and dear friend with whom they loved to commune, but were shy of talking about. And then again his genius was so vast; its range so illimitable: like Juliet's bounty, boundless as the sea, and like her love, as deep. To speak for a short time upon it was like making a first and flying visit to a new and charming country. It was impossible they could even glance at a thousandth part of its beauties in the limited time at their disposal; and although they could not do wrong, strike which way they might, delight awaited them, as the country was rich with every variety of scenery which could please the eye, gratify the taste, or strike the imagination;—the charmingly sweet, the fantastically grotesque, the touchingly beautiful, the grandly picturesque, and the awfully sublime; still, the very infinitude of variety puzzled them in their choice as much as it dazzled and delighted them. In the few remarks he should make, he should not attempt to proceed upon any particular road, but should ramble hither and thither without plan, though he trusted, not without purpose. It had, no doubt, occurred to many of them what a vast difference there was between the pleasure of seeing Shakespeare's plays represented on the stage, and the indescribable felicity of a quiet perusal of them at home. It was because he was such a truly great poet that this was and must be so. There were among his admirers, those who owed their acquaintance with him solely to the representations of his plays upon the stage. Such people could never really know him. Indeed they lost the better part of him. They were utterly unacquainted with his deeply spiritual and divinely poetical nature, which was his most endearing characteristic. Even in the historical plays, which least appealed to the imagination, they were exhorted to "Piece out our imperfections with your thoughts; Into a thousand parts divide one man, And make imaginary puissance. Think when we talk of horses, that you see them Printing their proud hoofs in the receiving earth." And again,

"Still be kind
 And eke out our performance with your mind."
 If imagination was necessary to the proper comprehension of such plays as "Henry the Fifth," how essential was it in such enchantingly charming creations of the fancy as "The Tempest," and the "Midsummer Nights' Dream." These inimitable productions were poems—poems of an ethereal lightness and beauty, which could neither be understood nor thoroughly appreciated in the theatre. It was only at the fireside that they could give the reins to the imagination, and unreservedly revel in their charms. Theseus says,

"The lunatic, the lover, and the poet,
 Are of imagination all compost.
 One sees more devils than vast hell can hold,
 That is, the madman, the lover all as frantic,
 See's Helen's beauty in a brow of Egypt.
 The poet's eye, in a fine frenzy rolling,
 Doth glance from Heaven to Earth, from Earth to Heaven,
 And, as imagination bodies forth,
 The forms of things unknown, the poet's pen,
 Turns them to shapes, and gives to airy nothing
 A local habitation and a name."

The sympathetic Ariel who flies on a bat's back, and lies in a cowslip's bell; the wanton Puck who lurks in a gossip's bowl, and the fairy elves who hide in acorn cups, were not beings to represent on the stage in the form of flesh and blood, but beautiful poetical creations, "airy nothings" which could only properly be seen by the "mind's eye." They partook more of the character of personifications, than impersonations, notwithstanding their wonderful individuality. These remarks did not simply apply to the fairy pieces, but to the comedies generally, and the tragedies in particular. In fact not a play that Shakespeare had written, but read infinitely better than it could ever be represented, however great the actor might be, however deep he might have studied, and however thoroughly he might comprehend such wonderful roles as those of "Macbeth,"

"Lear," "Hamlet," "Othello," and "Iago," it was impossible he could ever delineate them upon the stage with anything like the truth and consistency in which they were pictured on Shakespeare's golden page. There only could they fully enter into the loftiness of conception, accurately note the delicate niceties of distinction, and feast upon the sublime imagery. There had been critics who claimed a higher excellence for the comedies, others had given the palm to the tragedies. The fact was, they were almost equally great. Shakespeare was "always good alike," "he is your only tragedy maker," "he alone is high fantastical," certainly he was the most versatile and universal genius the world had ever seen; the most absolute master of the human heart, the very high priest of nature. He possessed a talismanic, "open sasive," which enabled him to enter at will into the very souls of his characters, and represent them to the very life. He described better than anyone else has ever done, the tenderest emotion, the most violent anguish, and the wildest passion. As he could frown like thunder, so he smiled as the sunshine. As he was terrible as the lion, so he was gentle as the dove, and sweet as the nightingale. Who but he could have portrayed such angelic creatures as "Imogen" and "Cordelia." Who but he could have penned such paradisiacal love scenes as those of "Romeo and Juliet," "The Tempest," and the "Winter's Tale?" What a spring-tide freshness did they exhibit, what a glow of imagination, what celestial beauties, what truly pastoral charms? The very exaggerations into which the lovers ran were as natural as they were charming. Bro. Austin gave extensive quotations from these scenes, and went on to speak of Shakspeare's intense love of nature, his passionate fondness for flowers, his glowing patriotism, and his complete universality, illustrating his remarks by numerous quotations, and concluded by saying, that it was impossible to estimate the extent of their indebtedness to this darling Shakspeare, this prince of poets, this king of men, this imperial monarch of the muse. They could not conceive how vast had been the influence he had exerted in moulding the character and guiding the thought of the nation, nor how much they owed to him for the purity of that "Native English" he so much loved and used with such magical effect. They could not better display their reverence for his glorious memory than by cultivating a nearer companionship with him; following him more closely in the wild flights of his imagination, and drinking still deeper of the perennial springs of his inspiration. No nobler or more indestructible monument could be raised to perpetuate his memory than he himself had built up in his unrivalled works. "Age cannot wither them, nor custom stale their infinite variety." the toast was drunk in solemn silence. Several other toasts followed, including, "The Worshipful Master," proposed by Bro. Hartly, P.M., which was most enthusiastically received, and suitably responded to by the W.M., "The Immediate Past Master," (Bro. W. H. Pratt), proposed by the W.M., "The Visitors," proposed by Bro. J. L. Hine, P.P.S.G.W., and "The Officers of the Lodge," proposed by Bro. the Rev. S. J. B. Bradshaw, P.P.G. Chaplain, Northumberland. The last toast was given at about eleven o'clock, and closed a thoroughly successful and most enjoyable meeting.

LANCASTER.—Rowley Lodge (No. 1051).—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held at the Masonic Rooms, Atheneum, on Monday, 5th May. In the unavoidable absence of the W.M., Bro. W. J. Sly, the chair of the lodge was taken by Bro. Dr. Moore, P.G.S.B. of England, who was supported by Bros. W. Hall, P.M.; T. Mason, P.M.; E. Airey, S.W.; John Hatch, P.M., as J.W.; James Taylor, S.D.; George Sutton, as J.D.; H. Longman, I.G.; N. W. Helme, F.C.; James Ellershaw, 281; Thomas Jackson, Steward; J. Watson, Tyler. The ballot having proved unanimous in favour of A. L. P. Dodson, Esq., of Little Dale Hall, he was duly initiated into Freemasonry by the acting W.M., after which the third degree was conferred on Bro. Helme by Bro. Hall, P.M. Several Grand Lodge certificates were delivered to the brethren, and a grant of three guineas from the Lodge funds was made to Dr. Moore's list for stewardship of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls. An emergency meeting of the Lodge was held on the 2nd of May, for the purpose of instruction.

ABERYSTWTH.—Aberystwith Lodge (No. 1072).—The last meeting for the season of this lodge was held at the Masonic Rooms, Aberystwith, on the 1st inst., under the presidency of Bro. G. T. Smith, P.M., Prov. G. Sec. South Wales, Western Division, supported by his officers. Among the visitors were noticed the W. Bro. Captain S. G. Homfray, D.P.G.M. Monmouthshire, and Bro. W. M. Rees, P.M. Cambrian Lodge, Neath. The business consisted of raising Bros. Dr. Pugh, and Griffith Jones to the sublime degree of M.M. and passing Bro. B. Ellis Morgan to F.C. The ceremonies in each degree were conducted in Bro. Smith's well-known style, and calling forth well deserved encomiums from both visitors and members. The brethren again missed the welcome sight of the W.M.'s face (Bro. Wm. Williams, F.R.C.S.) through continued indisposition and wished him better health. The well-known S.W. was unfortunately absent, owing to a severe cold, his chair being ably filled by Bro. E. L. Cole, P.M. The lodge was closed in perfect harmony, and adjourned until the 1st Thursday in October, and the brethren adjourned to refreshment. The cloth being removed some excellent songs were ably sung by Bros. Homfray, Smith, Baker, and others, and the brethren separated at an early hour.

HARROW LODGE (No. 1310).—The installation meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday, 6th May, at the Railway Hotel, Harrow. The Lodge was opened by Bro. W. H. Green, Prov. G. Dir. of Cer. Middlesex, the W.M. The minutes of last lodge were read and confirmed, report of audit committee read and adopted, and ordered to be recorded on the minutes. Ballot was taken for Mr. James Chapman as a candidate for initiation, which was declared to be unanimous in favour of his admission, and he, being in attendance, was initiated. Ballot was taken for Bro. M. D. Lowenstark as a joining member, which was declared to be unanimous. Bros. Speed and Wilks were passed to the Second Degree. A dispensation from the M.W.G. Master having been read by Bro. W. H. Green, W.M., authorising the brethren to instal Bro. Spencer Home-wood as the W.M., he being at the present time the W.M. of the Belgrave Lodge, No. 749, Bro. Homewood was presented by Bro. William Smeed, and installed by Bro. Coutts, P.M. The W.M. appointed the following brethren as his officers for the ensuing year:—Bro. W. H. Green, I.P.M.; George A. Smith, P.M. Beadon Lodge, 610, S.W.; John Harrison, J.W.; John Coutts, P.M., Treas.; George Cattel, P.M., Sec.; Frederick Harrison, W.M. Egyptian Lodge, No. 27, S.D.; Thos Hammond, W.M. Euphrates Lodge, No. 212, J.D.; James A. Martin, I.G.; William Kippis, Org.; Edward Rawson, Dir. of Cer.; Josh. Bavin, P.M., Tyler. The brethren afterwards adjourned to a banquet. The W.M., in proposing the toast of "Bro. W. H. Green, the I.P.M.," presented him with a very handsome P.M.'s jewel, voted from the lodge funds in recognition of his valuable services to the Lodge during the past year. The visitors present were:—Bros. William Seaman, W.M. Beadon Lodge, No. 619; William Kindon, J.W. Beadon Lodge, No. 619; J. W. Avery, P.M., Acacia, 1314; Geo. Allen, J.D. St. Luke's, 144; Edwin Scott, S.W. Belgrave, 749; J. Palmer, P.M. Egyptian, 27; A. J. Ireton, I.G. 1343; John R. Goodior, Gihon, 49; Hayward, Domestic, 177.

THE GREAT CITY LODGE (No. 1426).—The first meeting of this lodge since its consecration took place on Saturday last, at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, for the initiation of candidates and the admission of joining members, and also to agree upon a code of bye-laws. Bro. J. Stevens, W.M., and all the officers were present. A ballot took place, and five candidates for initiation were all approved, and subsequently 30 joining members were affiliated to the lodge. The bye-laws, as proposed, were agreed to, fixing the initiation fee at seven guineas and the joining fee at 20 guineas. The following candidates were then severally initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry.—Mr. George Jenkins, Mr. William Jackson, Mr. William Barber, Mr. William Frederick Kibble, and Mr. John Boulton. The ceremonies were well performed, and was materially assisted by accompaniment on the harmonium by Bro. Worrell, Organist of Beckenham Church. Bro. Simpson, P.G. Chap., was invested as the Chaplain of the lodge, who afterwards moved a vote of thanks to the W. Master for his present to the lodge of a very handsome bible, and in doing so said that as Freemasonry was essentially a religious order, and that the foundation of all blessings was to be found in that sacred volume, they must all feel happy and thankful that the Wor. Master had made them such a gift, and he hoped that the lodge might long meet and prosper. Bro. Headon, S.W., seconded the motion, which was unanimously agreed to. The Wor. Master said he was very much obliged to the Grand Chaplain and the brethren for the compliment they had paid to him in passing the vote of thanks, and he could assure them that it was a great pleasure to him to have the opportunity of making such a gift, and he hoped that it would remain on their pedestal for many years to come, and that the principles contained in it would be followed by each member of the lodge, as it was a book which ought to actuate them in all the phases of life. It was a large book, but it was for the Great City Lodge, and that lodge, of course, required a great book. He remarked, however, upon the contributions made by other members of the lodge, and thought they ought also to be included in the vote of thanks which was given to him. This was done, and afterwards Bro. Simpson expressed his intention to present the lodge with a photographic album, on condition that every member should contribute his portrait towards it. The lodge was then closed, and after light refreshment the brethren adjourned.

Royal Arch.

PANMURE CHAPTER (No. 720).—This chapter held its ninth installation meeting on Monday, the 12th instant, at the Horns Tavern, Kennington. Every officer was in his place, and the meeting was well attended. Among those present were the M.E.Z., Comp. R. H. Harvey; Comps. S. Davison, H.; H. Smith, J.; James Stevens, P.Z. and Scribe E.; H. C. Levander, P.Z., and Treasurer; C. Hammerton, Scribe N.; G. Waterall, P.S.; T. H. Pulsford, A.S.; W. Worrell, D.C.; M. S. Larham, Steward; Joseph Runn, P.Z.; John Read, P.Z.; John Rexworthy, Thomas Jones, R. A. Field, A. Burrell, &c. and visitors, Comps. Hyde Pullen, P.G.S.B.; William Ough, P.G.D.C.; S. Poynter, 902; S. R. Rogers, P.S. Hermes Chapter; and A. G. Bragg, 857. The minutes of the previous convocation having been confirmed, Comp. John Read, P.Z., proceeded to instal the newly elected Principals, and respectively inducted Comp. Davison into the chair of Z., Comp. H. Smith as H.; and Comp. C. Hammerton as J. The perfection with which this difficult and important duty was performed by Comp. Read, called forth expressions of well deserved eulogy. The officers of the chapter were then invested as follows, viz.:—Comps. James Stevens, P.Z. and Z. 771, Scribe E., (re-invested for the fifth time); H. C. Levander, P.Z., as Treas. (re-invested for the fourth time); George Waterall, as N.; T. H. Pulsford, P.S.; W. Worrell, Senior A.S.; M. S. Larham, Junior A.S.; John Rexworthy, D.C.; and R. R. Field, Steward. On the proposition of the Scribe E., the chapter, in consideration of the services rendered by their Janitor for many years past, and of his increasing infirmities, voted him a retiring pension of two-thirds of his salary. Propositions were then taken for the ensuing convocation, and the chapter was then closed. A pleasant supper followed labour, and the companions separated at an early hour.

CONSECRATION OF A ROYAL ARCH CHAPTER IN GLASGOW.

The members of the Lodge St. Andrew, No. 465, although the youngest in the City of Glasgow, and located in the extreme north, have shown that they are not deficient in Masonic light. They have purchased spacious premises, and converted them into a hall with all the necessary accompaniments.

There is nothing pretentious in its outward appearance, but for the beauty and completeness of its internal arrangements, it will vie with any in the city. Finding they had succeeded so well in the Craft, the brethren determined to apply for a Royal Arch Charter, and on the 9th inst., M.E. Comp. F. A. Barrow, Provincial Grand Superintendent for Lanarkshire, proceeded with his office-bearers to consecrate the chapter and instal its officers.

The Provincial Grand Chapter, having been opened in the spacious room adjoining the hall, entered in the following order, G. B. Adams, P.G. 3rd Soj.; G. Thallon, Z. 119, Acting P.G. 2nd. S.; J. Balfour, P.G. 1st. Soj.; T. Halket, Z. 113, P.G. Bible-Bearer; J. Singleton, Z. 87, Acting P.G. Scribe N.; A. McTaggart, M.A., P.G. Scribe E.; J. Crabb, Z. 50, Acting D.P.G.S.; G. W. Wheeler, Acting P.G.S.B.; F. A. Barrow, P.G.Z.; J. Duthie, Z. 67, Acting P.G.H.; T. D. Humphries, Ph. D., M.E.Z. 69, Acting P.G.J. Comp. Banks presided at the harmonium, doing full justice to the solemn music appropriate to the ceremony, the whole of which was rendered in a very impressive manner by the Provincial Grand Superintendent and the companions he had chosen to assist him on this the second occasion of his performing this beautiful rite.

After the chapter had been duly consecrated, and the P.G. Scribe E. had read the charter constituting them as the St. Rollax Chapter, No. 144, on the Roll of Grand Chapter of Scotland, the following companions were installed as the first officers of the chapter:—Comps. David Bell, M.E.Z.; James Dunbar, H.; James McLeish, J. Comp. Tweed was also installed as J. of 73, each receiving the degree appropriate to their office. The other officers were then installed, Comps. D. Reid, Scribe E.; J. Hughes, N.; H. McCallum, 1st. Soj.; A. McLeod, 2nd Soj.

Comp. Bell briefly thanked the companions for selecting him for that important position, and also the P.G.S. and the Officers of the Provincial Grand Chapter for their kindness in coming to consecrate the chapter and instal himself and officers, and as they were all new to their respective offices and there was a deal of work to be done, he would take it as a great favour if the D.P.G.S., Comp. Crabb, would occupy the chair and choose his officers from those of the P.G.C. present, so that he might have a good lesson, and be thus enabled to work better in the future. This having been acceded to, the P.G.C. was closed, and a Mark Lodge was opened. Comp. Crabb, as M.M.; J. Halket, S.W.; G. W. Wheeler, J.W., when the following fourteen gentlemen were advanced to that degree.

A Holy Royal Arch Chapter was afterwards opened, Comp. Crabb, Z.; Duthie, H.; Humphries, J.; G. W. Wheeler, 1st Soj.; J. Balfour, 2nd Soj.; Dr. S. J. Sinclair, 3rd Soj.; when twelve gentlemen received the Most Excellent and Royal Arch Degree. Notwithstanding an unusually large number of candidates, the whole of the ceremonies were performed in a way that reflected the highest credit upon Comp. Crabb and his assistants. The M.E.Z. having thanked the officers, then by the wish of the chapter requested the whole of them to accept of honorary membership, and requested the Provincial Grand Superintendent to administer the oath of affiliation to the following companions, J. Crabb, Z. of 50; J. Duthie, Z. 67; T. D. Humphries, Z. of 69; G. W. Wheeler, H. 73; J. Tweed, 73; Joseph Singleton, Z. 87; Thos. Halket, Z. of 113; G. Thallon, Z. of 119; and J. O. Park, Z. of 122; these nine Companions were duly entered as honorary members of St. Rollax, No. 114. This large amount of labour having been most satisfactorily performed, the companions adjourned for refreshment, the new chapter having, with the greatest liberality provided a banquet for the P.G.C. and all the Principals of the province. At the table were sitting, besides those already named, Comps. A. Smith of 50; J. Tibberd, J. 73; R. Bell, T. 73, and M.E.C., K.T.; J. Wallace, Z. 79; J. O. Park, Z. 122; J. McMillan, P.M. No. 3 bis; and A. McKay, D.M. 73, and about twenty other companions. The chair was occupied by D. Bell, the Z., who was supported right and left by F. A. Barrow, P.G.Z.; A. McTaggart, P.G.S.E.; J. Crabb, P.G.S.N., and T. Halket, P.G.T. After the usual loyal and patriotic toasts had been given, and welcomed with that enthusiasm that they always receive from Masons, he gave "The Provincial Grand Chapter of Lanarkshire," saying that, though his own experience of it was limited to his meeting them to-day, yet, from what he had seen of the kindness and urbanity of one and all, from the Grand Superintendent and each of his officers, he was sure that he should be able to speak in yet higher terms of them when he had had a longer official experience amongst them.

The M.E.P.G.S., F. A. Barrow, assured the new M.E.Z. that it had afforded him great pleasure to instal him as the first First Principal of the new chapter. He was sure, from the character that Comp. Bell had obtained in Craft Masonry, that he would also do credit to the Arch; and as he and his office bearers were new to their duties, he could promise, on the part of the P.G.C., that any of its members would come forward and "lend them a hand," to assist in rendering the beautiful ceremonies of the Order in such a way as to impress the candidates with proper views of its solemnity. He then proposed, "Prosperity to the Chapter St. Rollax, 144."

Comp. Bell, M.E.Z., replied, stating—The new Chapter had been started, not in any spirit of rivalry with the others, but to supply a want long felt by brethren residing at the north end of the city, and in Cowlass and Sprinbrure, so far from any existing chapter. He regretted that he had not previously, for that very reason, been able to direct so much attention to the degree as he ought, for the more he looked into it, the more beauties he discovered in it; and with the assistance of his officers, he was determined that at the next official visit from P.G.C., they would strive, at any rate, though the youngest, not to be the least in number, or the lowest in proficiency in the province. To aid him in this, he must have also the help of all the newly-initiated companions, and he hoped that also of the working brethren whom he had been honoured by receiving as affiliated companions that day. (Cheers.)

"The Officers who assisted in the consecration and installation," was then proposed.

Comp. Crabb replied, assuring them it had been a source of pleasure to them all to assist in these ceremonies, and though their worthy First Principal had been pleased to highly eulogise his working, yet without the assistance of Comps. Halket and Wheeler in the ritual, and Comp. Banks in the musical department, the ceremonies could not have been so efficiently rendered. Owing to the length of the five different ceremonies, he had been obliged to considerably curtail the lecture, but these brethren had promised to come up again, and he trusted at the next meeting of their chapter to supply to their candidates what had necessarily been omitted.

The Chairman then gave "Masonic Press" Bro. Basset, on behalf of the Masonic News, and Comp. Wheeler, for the Freemason, replied in suitable terms. Comp. Wheeler, proposed the "Visiting Companions." He considered it an honour to belong to St. Rollax. Few Chapters, could boast of having initiated 14 gentlemen at their first meeting, and they were also honoured by the presence of the elite of Arch Masonry in the Province.

Comp. A. McMillan, P.M. of 31, replied, regretting that like their M.E.Z. he had devoted so much time to the interests of Craft Masonry, that he had only recently been embodied in o the Arch, but he was determined also to make himself proficient in that degree.

The Chairman then gave "The newly initiated Companions." Comp. A. Robotham replied. Comp. J. O. Park, Z. 122, proposed "The Officers of 144." Comp. A. Read, the new Scribe E., said he was no speaker, but as Scribe he would try to write for the benefit of the Chapter. "Masons, their Wives and Bairns," was given by the Croupier, followed by the final toast from the chair. Comps. Bank, Fraser, Crabb, Smith, and Barker, by their excellent singing, enhanced the pleasure of this very memorable evening.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF GLASGOW.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow met on Thursday, the 24th of April, at St. Mark's Hall Buchanan-street. Bro. Walter Montgomerie Neilson, Prov.G.M. presided, and was supported by F. A. Barrow, D.Prov.G.M.; J. Bair, S.Prov.G.M.; G. Mc. Donald, R.W.M. 73, acting S.W.; Miller, J.W.; A. Mc Taggart, Prov.G Sec; J. Walker, Prov.G.T.; J. Halket, Prov.G.S.D.; G. Thallon, Prov.G.J.D.; J. Balfour, Prov.G.D.C; J. Bain, Prov.G.B.B.; William Phillips, Prov. G.I.G.; J. J. Pollick, Prov.G.O.G.; and a large number of the brethren.

The Treasurer's account and Auditors' report having been read, the Prov.G.M. rose and congratulated the lodge on their financial position, and also the high moral standing they were taking. They had not quite finished the annual inspection of the whole of the lodges in the province. The reports of their numerical and working power was therefore deferred till the next quarterly communication, yet he felt quite justified, from the facts that had come to his knowledge, in stating that Masonry in Glasgow was pursuing an upward and onward course.

The circular of Bro. Douglass, R.W.M., of Lodge 48, a copy of which appeared in the Freemason of April the 19th, on the subject of proxies, was then read and discussed. All present agreed with the general purport of the same, but that proxies might be retained for the more distant parts.

The Treasurer of the Provincial Benevolent Fund, Bro. G. Sinclair, R.W.M. of No. 27, presented his report, which was unanimously approved of, and the lodge was duly closed.

LODGE ST. CLAIR (No. 362), held an emergency meeting at 170, Buchanan-street, on Tuesday, April 22nd, the R.W.M., Bro. G. Thallon, presiding, Bro. Clerk, S.W.; Bro. Stevenson, J.W.; Bro. J. W. Dobbie, P.M., acting as S.D. Among the visitors were Bros. Russell, of San Francisco, J. Lusk, 362, and G. Wheeler, 73. The lodge was opened in the first degree, and two gentlemen initiated. The S.W. then, at the request of the R.W.M., passed to the degree of F.C. Capt. Wm. Robinson, and Jas. Cottrier, Bro. G. W. Wheeler, acting as S.W. As these two brethren were leaving the Clyde with their vessels next week, the R.W.M., after opening a lodge of Master Masons, raised these two brethren to that sublime degree. Though the attendance was not large, owing to its being an emergency meeting, yet the work was performed in a highly satisfactory manner, both by the Master and the S.W., it being the first time Bro. Clerk had publicly worked the second degree. Refreshment followed labour, the health of "The New Laid Stones" having been proposed, also a successful voyage to the two new Master Masons. Bro. Wheeler proposed the health of "Bro. Thallon, the R.W.M.," who briefly responded, and gave "The Health of the Visitors," which was responded to by Bros. Banks, Russell, and Wheeler.

GLASGOW.—St. Mungo Encampment met at 213, Buchanan-street, on the 21st inst. The encampment was opened in due form by R. Bell, the M.N.C., assisted by the following Knights:—M. Clarachan, C.C.; G. W. Wheeler, Sec.; Acting as Prelate; J. O. Park, Warden; T. Perkins; Marshal; and W. Nolan, 1st A.D.C. The ballot was taken for three gentlemen, Messrs. Alexander Cummerson, David Douglas, and Reddie Currie. These companions were then admitted as Esquires, and afterwards with Comp. Joseph Johnston, were created Knights of the Temple, and entrusted with the peculiar secrets of this exalted degree. The Secretary read a communication he had received from one of the Knights of this Encampment, who had been present at the installation of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, recommending another effort to be made to effect a union with the K.T.'s of England and Ireland. A motion to that effect was moved by Sir Knts. Noland and Sinclair, but in consequence of the late hour at which the ceremonies had concluded the further consideration of it was proposed till the next meeting. All those present appeared to think some sacrifice should be made, if necessary, in order to effect so desirable a union.

Multum in Parvo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

OLD MASONIC BOOKS.

I have been informed that the "Ancient and Accepted Rite" possesses a catalogue of valuable books. Would it be possible for me to see the "catalogue," or copy of it? It is purely as a matter of literary interest that I make the enquiry and request. Any information or copy sent to Bro. Kenning's care, 198, Fleet-street, I shall duly receive.

I am truly obliged to the Editor of the Boston Freemasons' Monthly Magazine for his courteous and fraternal reference to my request with respect to the April number, 1863. I also have to thank Bro. Jacob Ribton for a second copy of the same monthly, as well as for his interesting transcript and letter, which I will privately acknowledge.

A MASONIC STUDENT.

THE ST. CLAIR CHARTERS AND BRO. D. MURRAY LYON.

In reference to these charters some words have passed between Bros. D. Murray Lyon and C. I. Paton, in the pages of the Freemason, with which I do not intend to interfere. But when speaking personally of Bro. Lyon, Bro. Paton observes: "When Bro. D.M. Lyon makes any real contribution to our knowledge of Masonic antiquities, I shall be prompt to acknowledge it, and to give him all due credit for it; but I am not aware of anything of this kind which he has yet done," I cannot refrain from expressing my admiration at the charming simplicity displayed in this honest confession of Masonic ignorance.

Bro. D. M. Lyon, is a Scotsman, so also is Bro. Paton, and as to the latter we have only to look at the advertising columns of the Freemason, to read the claims he puts forth as a Masonic Historian, yet with it all he tells us as above that he is quite ignorant of anything that Bro. Lyon, has done. However other brethren are not so ignorant of Bro. Lyon, for when we open the "History of Freemasonry" second edition, by that eminent Masonic Historian, Bro. J. G. Findel, we find that the brother selected by our German friend to revise his work is just this same Bro. Lyon, of whom we are speaking. We find also in the body of the work that many "real contributions to our knowledge of Masonic antiquities" are selections from the writings of Bro. Lyon. Lastly, I find that although Bro. Paton's residence, &c., is in or near Edinburgh, and Bro. Lyon's is at Ayr, yet somehow it is to the latter that the brethren of the lodge of Edinburgh Mary's Chapel go when they wish to lay before the public the valuable information contained in their old records. It would seem, therefore, that notwithstanding Bro. Paton's ignorance or short-sightedness on the subject others have been taking note of and appreciating the labours of Bro. Lyon, and I have no doubt but that when the result of his labours in connection with the Mary's Chapel records are laid before us, which I trust will be soon, we shall see him taking his place in the front rank of Masonic Historians.—W. P. BUCHAN.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Premature Decay:—When from free living, excessive indulgence, or the enervating effects of hot climates, the nervous system becomes shaken, the muscles flabby, the heart's action irregular, and the bodily powers generally debilitated, Holloway's remedies may be used with the certainty of their producing relief.—For dyspepsia, liver complaints, sick headache, and loss of appetite, this ointment should be very well rubbed twice a day, over the pit of the stomach and right side, whilst Holloway's Pills are being taken, in such doses as can conveniently be borne. This treatment will always restore strength and energy. Nervousness, flushes, and fainting fits, may all be prevented by a timely recourse to and diligent use of these remedies.—ADVT.

ROYAL VISIT TO LIVERPOOL.

Bro. E. Samuelson, the Worshipful the Mayor of Liverpool, was honoured with a visit, on Friday last, from his Majesty the King of the Belgians, King Leopold II., with a view of inspecting the docks and making himself personally acquainted with the manner in which the business of the port is carried on. There was not so extensive an exhibition of flags in various parts of the town as would have taken place if the entry had not been semi-private, but several flags, including the Royal Standard at the Town Hall, floated gaily in the breeze. The vessels also in many of the docks and in the river were gaily dressed, and an unusual number of persons thronged the streets, the weather being extremely fine. His Majesty arrived at Lime-street at one o'clock, and was received by a guard of honour of volunteers, who doubtless remembered the kindly welcome given in Belgium to their brethren in arms at the Tir National. The King's progress from the station to the Town Hall was one continued ovation. Immediately on alighting from the carriage, a gratifying illustration was given of the interest which his Majesty has always taken in the volunteer movement of England. Instead of entering the Town Hall and joining the circle of guests invited to meet him, His Majesty, attended by Viscount Torrington, and the gentlemen of his suite, walked along the centre of Castle-street and carefully inspected the uniform and accoutrements of the various volunteer detachments, and entered into conversation with the volunteer officers and also with Colonel Jones, the commanding officer of the forces in the northern district, and with Colonel Molyneux, of the 7th Dragoon Guards. This incident, unimportant as it might be deemed by many, immediately raised the Sovereign in the estimation of the crowd, who cheered again and again, and the attention thus shown to the volunteers by his Majesty was duly appreciated. On entering the Town Hall, his Worship the Mayor was introduced to His Majesty, who expressed the great satisfaction he had derived from the enthusiastic manner in which he had been received by the inhabitants of Liverpool. After a short delay the King was escorted by the Mayor, dressed in his robes, and wearing his chain of office, to the reception room, where about 60 of the leading gentlemen connected with the commercial, mercantile, and corporate interests of the town awaited his arrival. A sumptuous luncheon was subsequently served, about 70 specially invited guests being present to meet his Majesty. Bro. Samuelson, the Mayor, proposed, "The Health of the Royal Visitor," who responded in fitting terms.

Before leaving the room, the King was asked to appear upon the balcony overlooking the Exchange flags, when such a sight presented itself as the King of the Belgians will not easily forget. Every inch of standing room in the capacious area was occupied by a compact living mass of men and boys, whilst the windows and upper portions of the corridors were equally crowded with ladies. The moment his Majesty appeared upon the balcony he was received with repeated hurrahs, accompanied by waving of hats and handkerchiefs, which continued for some time. His Majesty was sensibly moved by this outburst of popular enthusiasm, which he acknowledged by removing his hat and bowing again and again to the people. After the Mayor had explained the purpose to which the Exchange building was appropriated, his Majesty gave a parting salute, and retired into the Town-hall.

The King subsequently visited the "lions" about the docks, and examined one or two of the principal ships lying in port. On Saturday he visited the Sailors' Home and Birkenhead side of the Mersey, and started for London in the afternoon.

Rumour states that the proprietors of that unique paper, The Bazaar, are again about to try their fortune with a new cheap weekly journal, which is to be called "The Country, a Journal of Rural Pursuits," and is to embrace in its scheme all sports in which gentleman engage, natural science, horticulture, agriculture, and other subjects referring to country life.

Masonic Tidings.

At the last meeting of the United Pilgrims Lodge of Freemasons, 507, held at the Horns Tavern, Kennington, a portrait in oil of the late Worshipful Master, Charles Milner Haddock, who died in April, 1872, was presented to the lodge, each of the brethren having subscribed towards the expense. Bro. Haddock was worthily and justly esteemed for his many endearing qualities, and from his long connection with the "Pilgrims," during which he had eminently distinguished himself, his sudden death was very severely felt. The brethren being desirous of possessing some memento of their deceased Master, instructed Mr. Tear, of the Clapham-road, to paint the portrait in question from a photograph which was fortunately in existence. The result has been a very faithful and striking likeness. The occasion was also taken advantage of to present the Secretary, Bro. John Thomas, P.M., P.Z., P.G.D.C.G.C., with his portrait, also by the same artist, as a mark of the very high esteem in which he is held by his brother Pilgrims. Bro. John Thomas has been connected with the lodge 507, for upwards of 20 years, and is not only one of the oldest, but one of the hardest-working Masons in South London. His long and honourable career as a Mason has been marked by the most zealous desire to promote the interests of the Craft, and the presentation to him of his portrait by the lodge, in which he so long been an ornament, was but a very slight mark of the high esteem in which he is held by the Craft generally throughout South London.

A movement is on foot to establish a Royal Arch Chapter in Upper Norwood, in connection with the Crystal Palace Lodge.

It is believed that Earl de Grey, the eldest son of the Marquess of Ripon, will come forward at the next election as a Liberal candidate for the representation of Hull.

VISIT OF THE AMERICAN KNIGHTS TEMPLAR TO GLASGOW.—Sir Knight Bell, M.N.C., of St. Mungo Encampment, having read a communication from our transatlantic Fraters that were about to set out on their promised pilgrimage to England and tour through Europe, and would arrive in Glasgow on the 27th of June, a meeting of the most influential Masons in Glasgow was held in the Kilwinning Hall, Bro. R. Bell in the chair, when it was determined to give our American visitors a hearty reception; and in order that it might be as large as possible it was determined to meet them as Craft Masons, and engage the City Hall, the largest building available for that purpose, the entertainment to take the form of a conversazione. A Committee consisting of the 1st Principals of the Chapter and the Masters of all the lodges in the province, with the addition of the Commander, Secretary, and two others. From the unanimity of the meeting and the fact that the demonstration is to be under the immediate patronage of the P.G.L., we augur for it a complete success.

THE PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF LINCOLNSHIRE will be held in the Town Hall, at Louth, under the auspices of the Lindsey Lodge, No. 712, on Thursday, 29th inst. A banquet will be provided at the Corn Exchange. Tickets may be obtained of Bro. J. G. Tupholme, Secretary of the Lindsey Lodge; or of W. Bro. Wm. Griffin P.Prov.G.D. of C.

It is stated that Sir Henry Rawlinson, formerly Minister at Teheran, will meet the Shah of Persia on his arrival in London, as Envoy-Extraordinary on the part of the Queen.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The most successful, hitherto, of all the festivals of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, was celebrated on Wednesday evening, at Freemasons' Tavern, London, when the newly-installed Provincial Grand Master of West Lancashire, Lord Skelmerdale, a Past Grand Warden of England, took the chair. The result which was obtained, we presume was not expected, for a reference to two or three of our previous numbers, wherein some speeches of the Secretary are faithfully reported, trod rather lightly on the ground of what would be the total of the Stewards' lists. He referred in those speeches to the magnificent subscription to the Boys' School and the Benevolent Institution, and while informing the brethren that upwards of £14,000 in the aggregate had been collected at the festivals of those two institutions, merely expressed his hope and confidence that the Craft would liberally support the favourite institution, of which he had recently taken the duties. We presume that, when he spoke, either modesty restrained him from anticipating a great collection for the Girl's School, or by keeping down the ardour of his fellow Craftsmen, he intended to take them by surprise. But whether or not either of these were his motives, it cannot be denied that the general body of Freemasons were not prepared for such an announcement as he made when he concluded his reading of the Stewards' lists, that they amounted in the whole to £7,448, with several lists yet to come in. Of the exertions made to obtain such an amount we cannot speak too highly. We care not at all for the different Masonic qualities of any brethren. We sink all differences when we are engaged in the one great work of charity, and however widely our notions may differ on points which are only of minor detail, we unite as a band of brethren when the poor and distressed are out in the cold appealing for aid. Masonry is increasing now with unprecedented rapidity and we congratulate all the Institutions on their great success, and viewing the daughters of the distressed Freemasons as the most helpless of all the objects of the brethren's bounty, we hail with immense satisfaction the glorious success which attended the Girls' Festival of Wednesday last.

About 250 brethren sat down to banquet, among whom we noticed:—Bros. the Rev. A. B. Fraser, Samuel Tomkins, John Hervey, H. Browne, John B. Monckton, D. Erasmus Wilson, Major W. Platt, Dr. Jabez Hogg, Dr. Barringer, R. J. Spiers, of Oxford, Raynham W. Stewart, Peter Matthews, Hyde Pullen, John Read, Rev. D. Shaboe, Thomas Fenn, Joshua Nunn, P.G.S.B., Sir Gilbert Campbell, H. Bridges, A. J. D. Filer, F. Binckes, Sec. Boys' School; James Terry, Sec. Benevolent Institution; W. Paas, J. A. Rucker, Dudley Rolls, W. Gumbleton, P.G.D., W. Winn, Lieut.-Col. Peters, George Kenning, J. J. Wilson, H. Keeble, W. West Smith, Lieut.-Col. Peters, George Theobald, H. Thompson, H. M. Levy, A. A. Pendlebury, W. Dodd, F. Harman, F. Walters, Thomas W. White, W. Kench, Joseph Last, W. Smeed, Thomas Cubitt, G.P., and J. T. Moss.

A large number of ladies also attended, who were regaled at separate banquets, presided over by Bros. Thomas William White, and George Kenning.

The different banquets were excellently supplied by Bro. Francatelli, and Bro. Goodchild was very assiduous in his attention to the duties of Toast Master.

The fiction of the removal of the cloth having been observed, the labours of the chairman commenced, and it is but fair to say that these were discharged in a way which showed that they were no fiction at all.

In giving the first toast, the chairman said: Brethren I rise to propose the first toast of the evening, that toast which is always well received in every assembly of Englishmen, and never better than among assemblies of our own body, "The Health of Her Gracious Majesty the Queen," the Patroness of our Order. (Cheers.)

The toast was followed by the National Anthem.

The Chairman: Brethren I hope you will excuse me if I seem to hurry the toasts a little but I fancy that there are fairer scenes for us in a neighbouring room, and perhaps a better amusement for you than listening to dry speeches; therefore, I will get on with the toasts, and the next I have to propose is that of "The Health of the Prince of Wales, Past Grand Master and Patron of this Institution." I need not dilate on the merits of H.R.H. as a Mason, for I am sure that many of you were in this room not a very long time ago, and heard the Prince of Wales declare how much he was devoted to the Craft, and how much he intended to uphold the tenets of the Order. I give you also "The Health of the Princess of Wales, Patroness of this Institution."

The toast having been drunk, The chairman said: Brethren the next toast I have the honour to propose to you, is that of "The Health of our Grand Master, the Marquess of Ripon," (hear hear). I think I need say no more than to ask you to drink his health. His own acts speak for themselves, and you know what a worthy Grand Master he is, I give you his health.

The Chairman: Brethren, before I propose the next toast on the list I cannot resist expressing my deep regret that there is one toast that we have to omit this evening, the toast that usually I believe appears after that I gave last. It has pleased the Great Architect to take our late Grand Master to himself, and I am sure that no brother Freemason ever went to his grave more deservedly honoured than he was. The next toast I have to give you is "The Health of the Earl of Carnarvon, the Right Worshipful Deputy Grand Master and the rest of the Grand Officers, Past and Present." The Earl of Carnarvon asked me especially to say that he had every intention of being here this evening, but unfortunately a banquet which sometimes calls many a public man away from other affairs prevents him from being here—I mean a political banquet. I give you "The Health of the Earl of Carnarvon, Deputy Grand Master, and the other Grand Officers, Past and Present."

Capt. Platt, Junior Grand Warden, replied. He said, Most Provincial Grand Master, and Brethren, your good wishes for the health of the Deputy Grand Master and the Past and Present Grand Officers deserve and demand their unqualified and hearty thanks. As far as regards the present Grand Officers of the year, so short is the duration of their official existence, that it behoves them to "bear their blushing honours" with becoming humility and meekness. "Drest in a little brief authority," they "strut and fret their hour upon" the Masonic "stage," and perchance are heard no more." We are not every biennial! We are only annual. The period of our reign being so limited, it would be most inconsistent with this ephemeral existence and an idle waste of time to dwell any longer or to launch any more words or language, or I may say "Platt"—itudes, or be

"Like Mr. Trower,
Who would take half an hour,
To say, nobody knew what;
Or like the famed Dr. Fell,
Who spoke very well,
And sat down fatigued and hot."

Again, brethren, I beg in the name of the Grand Officers, Past and Present, to offer our sincere and hearty thanks for this compliment and recognition.

The Rev. A. B. Fraser: Brethren, an hour ago, I thought Masonry had nothing left in store for me, but I find I was mistaken. I have been entrusted with the privilege of proposing to you the health of that distinguished Mason who honours us by presiding over us this evening. No words of mine can by any possibility be necessary to commend the toast to you. I will, therefore, simply call upon you to honour it as enthusiastically as it always should be. I give you "The Health of Lord Skelmersdale, the Provincial Grand Master of Lancashire."

The Chairman: Brethren, I thank you most heartily for the kind and warm way in which you have received my name, and I thank the brother who proposed it, for the kind way in which he did it. There are a good many of my Lancashire brethren about the room, and I am sure they will feel flattered by it. It has given me great satisfaction indeed to be present on this occasion as Chairman. I have long wished to be connected more intimately than I have hitherto been with the Masonic Charities. This is an opening, and I hope I shall be able to follow it up. It is rather a bold thing for me to say with two Secretaries in front of me to take down my words; but I am sure I mean what I say. All I hope is, that any future chairman may not find himself in the same position as I am—a Chairman unfitted to speak well or persuasively, or to bring forward all that can be said. But for myself, if I can but induce you to subscribe liberally I do not care about anything else. I thank you most heartily.

The Chairman: Brethren, I now rise to propose the toast of the evening, viz., "Success to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls." I need hardly ask you to drink that toast heartily. You would not be here if you were not ready to do so. I can assure you, that last Friday, when I had the honour of being present at the annual prize-giving-away at the School, it made me proud to think that I should be here to-day as Chairman of the festival. (Hear, hear.) I can assure you I never was more gratified in my life, or more struck with the completeness and the thorough efficiency of the School, the healthy look of the children, and the evidently good discipline and good teaching that prevailed in that School. (Hear, hear.) I am sure that our warmest thanks are due to those who more immediately interest themselves in that institution—the Committee the Secretary, and, more especially, I may say the Governess. (Hear, hear.) Long may she continue the Governess of that Institution, for it will be very hard to replace her. Brethren, there has been a very great addition to that building lately, viz., the infirmary, a very useful building, and a most necessary one in the event of an epidemic, which I hope we may be long spared from having. That infirmary—I can bear testimony, having been all over it—is a most perfect building. Why do I mention this? Simply because when we see Committees exerting themselves we ought to support them by coming forward more and more liberally every day. I am told, that when the school was originally founded there were few lodges in the country, and we were only able to provide for a small number of girls. In the year 1851 there were 470 lodges in the country, and there was accommodation for 40 girls in the School. Now that there are upwards of 1,400 lodges, what is the deduction we ought to draw? I leave it to the mathematical gentlemen among us to answer it, but I think we ought to quadruple the number, if not more. There are 112 girls in the Institution now, and I believe there are eight vacancies to be filled up, making 120 in all. I should like to see that Institution with double the number, and I do not see why it should not be done, I am told, but I will not trespass on the Treasurer's province, or the Secretary's, that we have been receiving a gigantic list to-day. I am glad to hear it. I wish, and I repeat what I said last Friday, that we could take that school down to the provinces in order to show the brethren their work in providing such a school. have no doubt if we could do so, we should get subscriptions enough to build ten schools. And as to the education, brethren, people may ask what is the result? A very high standard of education is looked for now. I am happy to say it is given in that school. We have only to look at the Oxford and Cambridge middle class examinations and we shall see that all the Girls have had honourable mention, many have passed with distinction, and not one had not come out well. There is another thing that I ought to mention, as a reason for additional subscriptions. Unfortunately we are in the days of expensive living and still more expensive fuel—perhaps I ought not to say much about that, as I come from a fuel county—but unfortunately it is so—all the more reason, I say, for those that are in the fuel-producing counties to subscribe more liberally. I say that it needs your subscriptions and hope it will have them. I give you "Success to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls," and "The Health of the Treasurer, Bro. Tomkins," with my hearty good wishes for its thorough prosperity.

Bro. Tomkins replied, and Bro. Little, the Secretary, read the subscription lists, which amounted to £7448.

SUPREME GRAND CHAPTER.

The Quarterly Convocation of the Supreme Grand Chapter of England was held on the 7th inst., at Freemasons' Tavern. The Marquess of Ripon, Z.; and the Earl of Carnarvon, H., were not present, and the Grand Principals were there fore represented by the following companions—Lord de Tabley, N., as M.E.Z.;

Comps. F. Pattison, as H.; and Æ. J. McIntyre, Q.C., G.R., as J.; John Hervey, S.E.; W. Pulteney Scott, as N.; Murton, as P.S.; John Savage, as 1st A.; Benj. Head, as 2nd A.; were also present, besides many other companions, among whom we observed:— Lord de Tabley, Z.; F. Pattison, H.; Æ. J. McIntyre, J.; John Hervey, G.S.E.; Pulteney Scott, N.; C. Murton, P.S.; John Savage, 1st A.; H. Browse, 2nd A.; J. P. Dumas, Sword Bearer; Lord Balfour of Burleigh; Horace Lloyd, Q.C.; E. Snell, Griffiths Smith, H. G. Buss, James Brett, N. Bradford, J. Whichcord, John Boyd, James Stevens, George Kenning, R. Wentworth Little, E. Harris, John Read, T. J. Sabine, A. J. D. Filer, F. Adlard, Richard Spencer, A. A. Pendlebury, Joshua Nunn, W. Ough, Joseph Smith, Benjamin Head, H. Muggerridge, Hyde Pullen, and C. B. Payne.

Grand Chapter having been regularly opened, Comp. Hervey read the regulations for the government of the Supreme Grand Chapter during the time of public business, and also the minutes of the February convocation.

The installation of Principals, and appointment and investiture of Grand Officers being the next business, Lord de Tabley rose and said—Companions, I have the honour to stand here, unworthily representing our Excellent Grand Z. There can be no doubt that, holding the high office which he does as the Grand Master of the Freemasons of England, we hail him also with hearty congratulations as our own Grand First Principal. The Earl of Carnarvon, I am sure, is equally acceptable to the Grand Chapter of England. Holding as he does the post of Deputy Grand Master, he is, virtute officii, our Second Grand Principal. Upon the request of our Grand Z., I have, although feeling unworthy of the honour, accepted the appointment of Third Grand Principal. (Cheers.) Comp. John Hervey, our excellent companion, virtute officii, as G.S., is G.S.E. of Grand Chapter. As N. I have to nominate, in the name of the Grand Z., Lord Balfour of Burleigh, as P.S., Comp. Horace Lloyd, Q.C.; as 1st Assistant S., Comp. William Platt; as 2nd Assistant S., Comp. James Glasher; as Treasurer, Comp. Samuel Tomkins; as Registrar, Comp. Melutere, Q.C.; as Sword Bearer, Comp. Richard Havers; as Standard Bearer, Comp. E. J. Furner; as D.C., Comp. John Whichcord; and as Janitor, Comp. C.B. Payne.

The whole of these appointments were loudly cheered.

Lord De Tabley then said: Companions, before proceeding to the order of business of this Supreme Grand Chapter, I feel it my duty, unworthily holding the position which I do, to call the attention of Grand Chapter—if it was necessary, indeed that attention should be so called—to the melancholy news that has been published to the world in the papers of to-day. The news of death of Lord Zetland has caused a pang, I am sure, in every Masonic breast through the length and breadth of this country. Equally in Grand Lodge and in Grand Chapter are his Masonic and other virtues known; still more known are they to those private friends of his who enjoyed the privileges and advantages of his friendship. There is not one of those friends who has not felt the deepest pain at the announcement made to-day; there is not one of his Masonic brethren, or any one with whom he has been personally brought into contact, who cannot remember some of his kind acts, of his fraternal regard, some joy derived from his benignant presence. We all feel that a great light in Masonry has ceased, has gone out. We have the consolation of knowing that he always led a highly honourable life, and although lately his strength has been declining so much that he felt it his duty to retire from Masonry, still his latter years have been a period of comparative ease; and we are pleased to know that he has been spared much pain in the last days of his life, and that without a lengthened trial of bodily suffering he was called to the Supreme Grand Chapter above, where I have no doubt he will reap the reward of his deeds of charity and mercy which he so liberally dispensed here. I think it would be very unworthy of this Grand Chapter of England, meeting now in the evening of the day on which we received the melancholy tidings if we did not record on our minutes the great grief with which it has afflicted us, and with which we are sure it will afflict everyone. We, therefore propose that some record of our grief should be placed on our minutes. I do not know in what form it should be done, whether as an address to the present Lord Zetland, or whether a testimonial to the late Lord Zetland's virtues, but in some way or other I think we ought certainly not to allow his merits as our P.G.Z. to pass unnoticed, and I think it would be best done by an address to the present Earl, expressing the regret we feel at the late Earl's death, and the grateful remembrance in which we shall always hold his memory.

Comp. McIntyre, acting J., thought this last was the proper course to take.

Grand Chapter then resolved that a record of its grief at the loss Masonry had sustained by the death of Lord Zetland should be entered on the minutes.

Comp. W. Pulteney Scott moved, and Comp. Joseph Smith seconded, that the following report of the Committee of Grand Composes be taken as read, and recorded on the minutes, which motion was carried.

TO THE COMMITTEE OF GRAND COMPOSES OF ROYAL ARCH LODGE, No. 1, ST. MARK'S LANE, LONDON.

The Committee of Grand Composes beg to report that they have examined the accounts from the 15th inst. to the 15th of April 1873, both inclusive, and find the same as follows:—

To Balance	...	£572	3	4
To Subsequent	...	354	3	11
		£926	7	3
By Disbursements being the
Quarter	...	£162	10	2
Purchase of £300 Consols at
92½ and Commission	...	277	2	6
Balance	...	486	14	7
		£926	7	3

which balance is in the hands of Messrs. Willis, Percival and Co., Bankers of the Grand Treasurer. Grand Chapter then granted Charters for new chapters, in accordance with the prayers of the following Petitions:—

1st. From Comps. Robert Margrave, as Z.; William Swinney as H.; and Aaron Stone as J., and six others, for a chapter to be attached to the Prince of Wales', Lodge, No. 671, Llanelly, to be called "The St. Elliw Chapter," and to meet at the Masonic Rooms, Llanelly, in the County of Carmarthen.

2nd. From Comps. Henry Walrond as Z.; John Walter, Keyworth as H.; George N. Burden, as J.; and seven others, for a chapter to be attached to the Benevolent Lodge, No. 303, Teignmouth, to be called "The Benevolent Chapter," and to meet at the Masonic Hall, Teignmouth, in the County of Devon.

3rd. From Comps. James Mackey Cunningham as Z.; William Robert Wood as H.; Charles Horsley as J.; and seventeen others for a chapter to be attached to the Yarborough Lodge, No. 811, Brighton, to be called "The Yarborough Chapter," and to meet at the Royal Pavilion, Brighton, in the County of Sussex.

4th. From Comps. James Weaver as Z.; William Hurlstone as H.; William John Hargrave Jones as J.; and six others for a chapter to be attached to the Whittington Lodge, No. 862, to be called "The Whittington Chapter," and to meet at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, in the City of London.

The Committee also reported that they had received a memorial from "The Moira Chapter," No. 92, meeting at the London Tavern, Bishopsgate-street, in the City of London, praying for a Charter of Confirmation, the original being irrecoverably lost, and having every reason to believe the truth of the allegation set forth in the memorial, recommended that the prayer thereof should be granted.

Comp. Scott moved, and Comp. Joshua Nunn seconded, the granting of the Charter.

Comp. Snell said he should like to know how it was the original Charter had been lost, for it was an extraordinary thing for a London Chapter to lose its charter.

Comp. Scott replied that he knew the fact as stated in the memorial which was before Grand Scribe.

Comp. Snell observed that the late Comp. G. W. K. Potter, was long the Scribe of the Moira Chapter, and he should like to know whether he had lost the charter.

Comp. Scott said that search had been made among the deceased's papers for it, but it had not been found.

Lord De Tabley remarked that he should presume the Committee of General Purposes had made full enquiries into the accuracy of the petition, and had satisfied themselves that no exception was to be taken to it.

Comp. Scott said they had, and they so stated in their report, which he had just read.

Comp. John Savage also remarked that the Committee were satisfied so far as they could be satisfied. There was always a great difficulty in proving a negative, but they had every reason to believe that the charter had been lost and could not be found.

Comp. H. Browse said that lost or not, there could be no harm done by granting a charter of confirmation. If the old charter were to be found Grand Chapter could recal the charter of confirmation, but if the chapter had two charters so much the better for it.

Comp. H. J. P. Dumas, thought that there might be some indication on the new charter that it was a duplicate.

Comp. H. Browse: Oh! yes; it says it is only a charter of confirmation.

The motion was then carried.

Comp. Scott said the next paragraph in the report of the Committee was their recommendation, which stood over from last convocation in consequence of his inability to attend. The recommendation arose in consequence of certain irregularities which had occurred in distant provinces, certain District Grand Superintendents having, pending the granting of petitions for chapters in their provinces granted, dispensations to the petitioners to work the chapters as though they were chapters in esse. That was a manifest breach of the regulations of Grand Chapter. The District Grand Superintendents had no power to grant such dispensations. The Grand Principals themselves could not do so, and therefore the Committee, seeing that it was a very irregular proceeding, reported the facts to Grand Chapter last November.

The Committee were then desired by Grand Chapter to frame a rule or regulation to meet the difficulty, and in consequence they recommended that in the Book of Regulations for the Order of Royal Arch Masons, in page 15, under the head "Of Private Chapters" paragraph 3, the following Rule be substituted for the existing one, viz:—

In a province or district for which a Superintendent is appointed, the petition must first be transmitted to him for his recommendation or opinion, but such Superintendent shall have no power to authorize the temporary working of any Chapter, pending the transmission of such petition to England, the consideration thereof, and report thereon by the General Committee, and grant of a Charter in consequence by the Grand Chapter. We would therefore move this as a resolution by Grand Chapter.

Comp. James Brett seconded the motion, which was put and carried unanimously.

Comp. John Hervey then read the concluding paragraph of the committee's report, which was in the following terms:—

"After E. Companion Scott had left the chair, it was resolved:—That the best thanks of the Committee be tendered to the President, Comp. William Pulteney Scott, for the very great attention he has at all times paid to the business of Royal Arch Masonry, for the time he has devoted to the interests of the Order, and for the urbanity and kindness he has evinced to his colleagues while presiding over the meetings of the committee."

Comp. John Savage said he had much pleasure in moving this as a motion of Grand Chapter. The committee were unanimous in their conclusion that such an acknowledgment of the services of Comp. Scott, should be placed on the report of the committee to Grand Chapter.

Comp. Joshua Nunn seconded the motion.

Comp. Browse said that every member of the committee having witnessed the business-like way in which the courtesy, and consideration, with which, at all times, Comp. Scott brought before them the matters which they had to take under their care, felt that not only their thanks, but the thanks of Grand Chapter were due to him. He therefore supported the motion, and felt great pleasure in doing so.

A companion observed that it was exceedingly gratifying to him, as a member of the same Chapter as Comp. Scott, in which he was highly respected, to see such a compliment passed on him.

Lord De Tabley: Sir, I understand the motion by which the thanks of the committee were given to Comp. Scott already has been received by Grand Chapter, and is recorded on our minutes; but I believe the present motion is that this Grand Chapter should also mark its sense of obligation to Comp. Scott for the way in which he has discharged his duties in the chair of President in which he was placed. That will be the motion, will it not?

Comp. John Savage: Yes, my lord, the confirmation of the recommendation by the committee.

Lord De Tabley: As such, I have very great pleasure in putting it to the Grand Chapter. I am quite sure it will be received with the unanimity it deserves. It will be an encouragement to the companions to emulate the example of our Comp. Scott. Therefore, I put the motion to Grand Chapter.

The motion was carried unanimously and with cheers.

Lord de Tabley: Comp. Scott, I have much pleasure in announcing to you that this Grand Chapter has unanimously passed a vote of thanks to you for your able services as President of the Committee of General Purposes.

Comp. W. Pulteney Scott: Most Excellent and Companions, I am greatly surprised at receiving this signal mark of your favour. It is a matter of great gratification to me, still I feel I have done nothing more than my duty—(cheers)—but I thank you heartily for your kindness.

The appointment of the Committee of General Purposes for the ensuing year was next taken, when Comps. W. Pulteney Scott, Benj. Head and John Savage, were nominated by the Grand Z., and Comps. H. C. Levander, Joseph Smith, F. Adlard, James Brett, H. Browse, and Joshua Nunn, were elected by Grand Chapter.

Comp. James Stevens asked whether private chapters should not be directed to go in mourning for the Earl of Zetland.

Lord de Tabley said this must rest on the decision of the Marquess of Ripon, and whatever that might be, he was sure it would meet with the approval of Grand Chapter.

Grand Chapter was then closed.

RECEDOS, GLOUCESTER CATHEDRAL.—The ceremony of presentation will take place on Thursday, June 5, 1873. The R.W. the Provincial Grand Master, Lord Sherborne, will hold a Provincial Grand Lodge at the Bell Hotel, Gloucester, at twelve o'clock. The Masonic procession will be formed at the Chapter Room and in the North Cloister, at half-past two o'clock. The Recedos will be unveiled and presented by the Provincial Grand Master. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. C. R. Davy, Past Grand Chaplain of England and Provincial Grand Chaplain. After the service, the Freemasons will return, in procession, to the Chapter Room in seniority, headed by the Provincial Grand Master.

FUNERAL OF THE EARL OF ZETLAND.

The funeral of Lord Zetland took place on Tuesday, at the old church of Marske-by-the-Sea. In accordance with the wishes of the late Earl, there was as little display as was consistent with the character of the ceremony. There had been a desire on the part of public bodies, including the Masonic brethren and the Corporation of Richmond, to attend officially to pay a last tribute of respect to the memory of the deceased nobleman; but the request for leave to take part in that prominent manner had not been acceded to. Notwithstanding this, however, there was a large gathering at the funeral.

The remains of Lord Zetland were enclosed in a triple coffin, the outer one bearing the following inscription:—"Thomas Dundas, second Earl of Zetland, K.G., born 5th February, 1795; died 6th May, 1873."

About half-past eight o'clock, a.m., the funeral procession formed in front of Aske Hall. Among the mourners were:—Lady Harriet Lane, only surviving sister of the deceased; the present Lord Zetland; Miss Barclay; Mr. W. H. Williamson; the present Countess of Zetland; Mr. J. C. Dundas; Mrs. J. C. Dundas; Mr. Foljambe; Mr. Dixon, the late Earl's agent in Scotland; and Mr. Forster, his agent in London.

The cortège, which was half a mile in length, proceeded slowly up Aske Bank, down Timberhill, and so on to the station. The streets on the route were densely lined with people. Closing of the shops and cessation from business were universal in the borough, and the bells of the parish and Trinity churches were tolled. No time was lost at the station in removing the coffin from the hearse to the private carriage waiting on the line to receive it.

The North-Eastern Railway authorities had offered facilities to all who wished to accompany the train, and a large number of tradesmen availed themselves of the opportunity. Shortly after ten o'clock the train moved from the station.

At Marske the funeral procession was joined by a number of other mourners, among them Mr. Dodds, M.P. for Stockton, and Mr. G. Leemen, M.P. for York. Reaching the church at twelve o'clock, the cortège was met by the Rev. Mr. Robson, the rector, and conducted into the church.

The mourners having entered the pews set apart for them, the service was commenced, the rector officiating.

After having witnessed the last melancholy ceremony, the company proceeded to Marske Hall, an ancient residence, occasionally occupied by Mr. H. W. Yeoman, a near relative of the Zetland family, where they partook of luncheon.

Most of the mourners, including the new Lord and Countess of Zetland, then returned to Richmond, where they arrived at five o'clock. Hatchments were erected immediately after the funeral at each residence of the deceased earl, exhibiting the insignia of the Order of the Garter, with St. George and the Dragon, and the Order of the Thistle, with St. Andrew's Cross.

THE LATE M.W. PAST GRAND MASTER.

The following circulars have been issued by the Grand Secretary:—

UNITED GRAND LODGE OF ANCIENT FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND
The Most Hon. the Marquess of Ripon, K.G., &c., &c., &c., M.W. Grand Master.

W. Master, your attendance, together with your Wardens and Past Masters, is particularly desired at an Especial Grand Lodge, to be holden at this place on Wednesday, the 21st day of May instant, at eleven for twelve o'clock at noon punctually, to consider and resolve upon an address of condolence on the much regretted death of the Rt. Hon. Thomas Dundas, Earl of Zetland, K.G., M.W. Past Grand Master, and to arrange for the presentation of the same to his lordship's family.

By Command of the Most Hon. the Marquess of Ripon, K.G., M.W. Grand Master.

UNITED GRAND LODGE OF ANCIENT FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF ENGLAND.

The Most Hon. the Marquess of Ripon, K.G., &c., &c., &c., M.W. Grand Master.

In consequence of the much lamented death of the Right Honourable the Earl of Zetland, K.G., M.W. Past Grand Master, an event which has filled the breast of every Mason with the most poignant grief, it is ordered that the Grand Lodge and all subordinate lodges be placed in Masonic mourning for the space of six months from this date.

The mourning to be worn by brethren individually to be as follows:—Grand Officers, Present and Past—Three rosettes of black crape on the badges, and one at the point of the chain or collar just above the jewel.

Masters, Past Masters, and Master Masons—Three black crape rosettes on badge.

Fellow Crafts and Entered Apprentices—Two black crape rosettes at the lower part of the badge.

White gloves.

By command of the M.W. Grand Master,

JOHN HERVEY, G.S.

Original Correspondence.

THE COLOGNE CHARTER.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

In reply to "a question for our Dutch brethren," in your number of April 19th, 1873, I beg to state:—

1st. The original of the Constitution of the Amsterdam Vrendendal's Lodge has never been found; neither the list of members of that Lodge from 1519 to 1610. Most probably they never existed at all. There is only made mention of them in the minutes of that Lodge of 1637 (period of its pretended re-opening), as extant at that time.

2nd. The original of the Cologne Charter is lost: it disappeared as mysteriously as it had come to light; and its actual existence is, at all events, unknown to the Dutch brethren.

3rd. Copies of the fac simile of the Charter (but not of the Vrendendahl's minutes) have really been sent to all the Dutch lodges, in whose archives they are to be seen. There is also a inserted a copy in the "Annales de la Maçonnerie des Pays Bas," Brussels, 1822, J. iv.

I venture to direct the "Masonic Student" for further notice, to the "Allgemeines Handbuck der Freimaurerei," Leipsic, 1865, ii.

I am, dear Sir and Brother,

T. P. VAILLANT,

W.M. of Lodge Union Royale, The Hague.

THE QUESTION OF HEREDITARY GRAND MASTER.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I beg to endorse the statements on the question of Hereditary Grand Mastership made by my friend, Bro. William James Hughan, and my other associates in the "German Masonic Union," in their communications to the Masonic News. Bro. J. S. B., who appears to be wedded to the fables of the Order, states that the fact of the Hereditary Grand Mastership of Masons having been vested in the St. Clairs of Rosslyn, can be proved from certain records in possession of the Grand Lodge. This is incorrect. I have examined every ancient Masonic M.S. preserved in the archives of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, and neither from that nor any other source can I find proof that there ever was an office such as that referred to.

D. MURRAY LYON.

Ayr, March 7, 1873.

THE GRAND OFFICERS.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother.

Not I alone, but all good Masons will thank you for one feature, at any rate, in your last week's "Editorial" on this subject, and let me at once say, that so far from being one of the disappointed, if such there be, I have attained all the Craft honours I could possibly expect, and more than I deserve. Far be it from me to suggest that the way to the dais is through the breeches-pocket; but if it were true that those alone should be honoured who have done well for the Craft, can any brother be said to have done thoroughly well for the Craft, be he townsman or countryman, whose name is not in the donation lists of those great institutions which of themselves justify Freemasonry.

Yours faithfully, and fraternally,
A PAST GRAND OFFICER.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Referring to your remarks in your leader as to Lord Burleigh's qualifications for the office of Senior Grand Warden of England, I beg to inform you that his Lordship was admitted to the order in Oxford, that he has held and discharged the duties of the office of Provincial Grand Secretary of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Oxfordshire, and has been Master of the Apollo Lodge, of Oxford, and is at present its I.P.M. Lord Burleigh is also a member of the Lodge "Alpha," of London, of which His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales is Master. He is a Royal Arch Mason, and has held high office in his chapter, and he is a thorough master of the blue and red rituals.

In the Grand Lodge of Scotland Lord Burleigh holds the rank of a Provincial Grand Master, being Proxy Provincial Grand Master for Western India.

He is a nobleman of excellent capacity, and an ardent member of the order.

Speaking with some knowledge of circumstances, I think it not unlikely that, at a comparatively early period his lordship will receive the highest honour which the Grand Lodge of Scotland can confer on any one of its members.

The remarks you kindly make on Bro. Platt are in every respect applicable to Lord Burleigh.

Yours fraternally.

S.G.D.

THE LATE EARL OF ZETLAND.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

In your excellent article on Lord Zetland, you omitted to notice that his Lordship was, in 1870, made an honorary member of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, in recognition of his services as G.M. of England. This honour had hitherto been conferred only on crowned heads.

In August, 1870, Lord Zetland was admitted a member of the Lodge of Edinburgh (Mary's Chapel) No. 1, and at that meeting, which his Lordship attended, the Earl of Dalhousie—the then Grand Master of Scotland—placed the badge of honorary membership of Grand Lodge upon his Lordship's breast.

Yours fraternally,

W.M.

THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I have read with dismay the remarks of Bro. Binckes, reported in your last; and I hasten to ask whether what he has stated be dry probability, or merely a clever blister "applied as before." If the latter, he has my best wishes for as handsome a response at his next festival as the Craft usually accords him. If, however, the House Committee or other governing body have so mismanaged the very proper process of extension of age from fifteen to sixteen as to probably stop all election of fresh boys for a twelvemonth, then I say that those who are responsible are deserving of the severest reprobation. The same extension was not long since carried out by one of the great London Asylums, and having been prepared for, or so to speak discounted, beforehand, caused none of those heart-breaking disappointments that must needs accompany the chilling announcement of "No vacancies for a twelvemonth." One cannot conceive a greater damper on the energies and liberality of those who have worked and paid so freely. Verbum satis, (can I add sapientius?)

I am, yours very fraternally,

A LIFE GOVERNOR.

12th May, 1873.

"WITHIN THE CENTRE."

To the Editor of the Freemason.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—

Will you be good enough to allow me to make the following remark with reference to the answer of Magnus Obren, in No. 216. If the centre be a point, as it undoubtedly is, and a point has no dimension, neither length, nor breadth, nor thickness, how can "within the centre" be a correct phrase.

Yours fraternally,

J.B.

BRO. DR. HODGES, BRO. H., AND BRO. HUGHAN.—RE PROVINCE OF CORNWALL.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

My friend and brother, Dr. Hodges, has favoured us with his opinion respecting the points in dispute, and we thank him for his kind and fraternal communication; but as in reality no light is authoritatively shed on the subject, his letter must simply be taken as the belief of a worthy and intelligent Mason.

The Constitutions declare that the Prov. Grand Lodge "ceases to exist on the death, resignation, suspension, or removal of the Provincial Grand Master, until a brother is duly appointed or empowered to perform the functions of Provincial Grand Master by whose authority the Prov. Grand Lodge may be again established."

The points we want elucidated are (a) Is the Provincial Grand Master competent to perform any of the functions of such an office prior to installation. (b) If so, then may such a brother appoint a Deputy Provincial Grand Master by patent. (c) If not, what is a Provincial Grand Master designate permitted to do?

Yours fraternally,

W. J. HUGHAN.

THE EARL OF ZETLAND, M.W., P.G.M.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Kind permit me to state that in the article upon the decease of our late Illustrious Brother Lord Zetland, which appeared in The Freemason last week, the printer omitted to mark as a quotation a considerable portion of the article, which was written in November, 1869, when Lord Zetland first announced his intention of retiring from the Grand Mastership, and which of course alluded to the lamented decease in the present tense. I may also note that I wrote "phrases" not "praises" in the first sentence, and that one of the concluding paragraphs should have been printed thus, "full of honours—burdened—so to speak—with good wishes, and with the gratifying testimony of a good conscience, the venerable Earl has gone to his rest, &c."

Yours fraternally,
THE WRITER OF THE ARTICLE.

Reviews.

Supplement to Reminiscences of Worcester Lodge, etc., by C. C. Whitney Griffiths, Worcester, 1872. The Historian of Worcester Freemasonry, Bro. Griffiths, has done well to complete his capital account of the origin and progress of the Craft in that ancient city, by the issue of the present supplement, with its carefully prepared rolls of members of the Worcester Lodge, and other Masonic Institutions with which it has been allied (revised to December, 1872). Few better than ourselves can appreciate such a work, as we know practically the labour involved in the preparation of lists of members extending back more than century, and can only express a hope that the brethren in Worcester have already expressed their appreciation of so much zeal and ability being manifested on their behalf. The book however has a value far beyond the walls of their city, and hence we regret to see it has been "privately printed," because its usefulness has thereby been confined to a limited circle.

Masonic Mirror. (San Francisco). A neatly printed monthly, and carefully edited by Bro. A. W. Bishop and his two assistants. Under the title "A Rare Old Book" Bro. Bishop alludes to a book lately presented to him of the year 1766, printed it is said at Jerusalem, but being in German, we must take this statement to be apocryphal; but the value of the work consists in the fact that one of the degrees, out of the many mentioned, viz., "The Noatracite or Prussian Knight," claims to have been founded by Frederick the Great. Is this any information of use to the Supreme Grand Council, we wonder? Of late the Frederick the Great story has been doubted, but here is a book in 1766 which accepts it!

Loomis' Musical and Masonic Journal (New Haven, Conn., U.S.A.) The wonder to us is, how so many magazines pay in the United States? They may be counted almost by dozens! This magazine is unique, however, in its combining music with things Masonic, and so we can quite imagine its circulation will be more extensive than ordinarily falls to the share of exclusively Masonic publications. Several pages of music, and a number also devoted to Freemasonry, should certainly find a patronising public.

Boletim, Brazil. (2nd year, No. 1., Jan.) We notice a short appreciative sketch of the Right Hon. the Earl of Zetland, P.G.M., in this indispensable magazine for the Craft in Brazil, and also an account of the Installation of the Most Noble the Marquess of Ripon, K.G., as Grand Master. The editor is our learned Bro. Dr. A. F. do Armaval.

Masonic Record of Western India. This magazine is published monthly at Bombay, "under authority," and we are sorry to hear it receives so meagre a support from Masons in that Presidency. The number for March completes the ninth volume, and Bro. Bease, the accomplished editor, in mentioning this fact, informs his readers that "he had little hopes a few months ago of being able to continue the publication . . . but a few well-wishers in different parts of India came to our aid." Take heart again Bro. Bease, do not despair, and seek to bring the journal more before the Fraternity, by appointing trusty agents over the country. Add to its value also by writing more about the History of the Craft, and devote less space to meetings, which as a rule only interest the correspondents, and a few of their friends. Quote from "exchanges" freely, and you are bound to succeed.

Boletim Oficial Dei Oriente de Espana (Madrid). According to the summary on the fly sheet of this petite publication, we find there are ninety-one lodges under the Grand Orient of Spain, twenty-four of which are located in the city of Madrid.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF EAST LANCASHIRE.

The annual meeting of this Provincial Grand Lodge was held in the Town-hall, Rochdale, on Wednesday, the 7th of May, the proceedings being made unusually attractive by the opening and consecration of the magnificent church dedicated to St. Edmund, which has been erected at Falinge, Rochdale, at a cost of £20,000, by the Right Worshipful Bro. Albert Hudson Royds, Prov. G. Master of Worcestershire, and Past Deputy Prov. G.M. of East Lancashire.

At ten o'clock in the morning the Craft Lodge, St. Chads, No. 1129, was opened in the Town-hall, by the W.M., Bro. the Rev. E. W. Gilbert, Vicar of St. Edmund's, assisted by his officers; and after the Lodge had been opened in the three degrees, the R.W. Prov. G.M. (Colonel Le Gendre N. Starkie), and his officers entered, and the Lodge was opened in due form.

Amongst those present, in addition to the R.W. Prov. G.M., were Bros. A. H. Royds, R.W. Prov. G.M. Worcestershire, P. Dep. Prov. G.M. East Lancashire; W. R. Callender, Dep. Prov. G.M.; George Mellor, Prov. S.G.W.; John Gibb Smith, Prov. J.G.W.; Rev. H. H. Robinson and Rev. Dr. Cranswick, Prov. G. Chaplains; Samuel Cheetham, Prov. G. Treas.; John Tunnah, Prov. G. Sec.; G. B. Brockbank, Prov. G.S.D.; James Holmes, Prov. J.G.D.; George F. East, Prov. G. Director of Ceremonies; James Pollitt, Aest. Prov. G. Dir. of Cer.; William Barlow, Prov. G. Sword Bearer; Thomas Law, Prov. G. Org.; Marshall Taylor, Prov. G. Pursuivant, and a numerous assemblage of Past Provincial Grand Officers, including Bros. J. L. Hine, P. Prov. G.W.; R. Hopwood Hutchinson, P. Prov. G.W.; Rev. J. B. Philips, P. Prov. G. Chap.; Rev. P. C. Nicholson, P. Prov. G. Chap.; Rev. J. Littler, P. Prov. G. Chap.; John Barker, P. Prov. G. Treas.; Charles Tiplady, P. Prov. G. Treas.; J. Handley, P. Prov. G. Treas.; Chas. Heywood, P. Prov. G. Reg.; John Chadwick, P. Prov. G.D.; Isaac W. Petty, P. Prov. G.D.; J. S. Veevers, P. Prov. G.D.; John William Maclure, P. Prov. G.D.; Richard Radcliffe, P. Prov. G.D.; also E. A. N. Royds, Dep. Prov. G.M., Worcestershire; C. J. Vigne, P. Prov. G.M., Somersetshire; C. R. N. Beswicke-Royds, P. Prov. G. Sword Bearer, Worcester-shire; Frederick Binckes, P.G.S., Secretary Royal Masonic Institution for Boys; and others.

The roll of lodges was called over, and representatives from the whole of the seventy-seven lodges in the Province were in attendance.

The minutes of the previous meeting were confirmed. The Prov. G. Treasurer presented his accounts for the past year, which were adopted and confirmed.

The election of Prov. G. Treasurer for the ensuing year then took place, and on the proposition of the R.W. Bro. A. H. Royds, seconded by Bro. the Rev. J. B. Phillips, Past Prov. G. Chaplain; Bro. Edmund Grundy Heape, P.M. St. Chads, 1129, was elected to that office.

The R.W. Prov. G.M. then appointed his officers for the ensuing year, viz. :—

Bros. W. Romaine Callender, Dep. Prov. G. Master; Clement R. N. Beswicke Royds, Prov. S.G. Warden; Rev. J. M. Cranswick, Rev. E. W. Gilbert, G. Chaplains; Edmund Grundy Heape (elected) G. Treasurer; Joshua A. Elliott, G. Registrar; John Tunnah, G. Secretary; Thos. Joseph Lancashire, S.G. Deacon; Herod Turner, J.G. Deacon; Thomas Entwisle, G. Sup. of Works; Jas. Pollitt, G. Dir. of Ceremonies; Robert Whittaker, Assistant Director of Ceremonies; James Holroyd, G. Sword Bearer; Ralph Collingwood, G. Organist; Thomas Hargreaves, G. Pursuivant; R. J. Duckworth, Assistant Pursuivant; Alfred B. Roberts, John Higgin, James Blacka, Charles Grindrod, William Schofield, James Taylor, Prov. G. Steward; William Dawson, Grand Tyler.

On the proposition of Bro. W. Romaine Callender, W. Dep. Prov. G. Master, seconded by Bro. Rev. E. W. Gilbert, Prov. G. Chaplain, a vote of condolence was passed to the R.W. Bro. A. H. Royds and his family on their recent bereavement.

A grant of ten guineas was made to the East Lancashire Systematic Masonic Benevolent Fund.

The business being concluded, the Prov. Grand Lodge was closed.

The ceremony of the consecration of the church was fixed to take place at two o'clock in the afternoon, previous to which time the brethren had assembled at the Town-hall, representatives being present from every lodge in East Lancashire—a rather unusual circumstance. A procession was formed in front of the Town-hall, under the direction of the Prov. Grand Director of Cers., and headed by the bands of the local volunteer corps, marched to the church, the route being by Yorkshire-street, Cheetham-street, and Spotland-road. Great interest was manifested in the proceedings. Flags and banners were displayed in great profusion throughout the town, and the streets through which the procession passed was thronged with people, and a large crowd assembled in the immediate vicinity of the church. The Masonic brethren entered the church by the west door, preceded by the Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Master and Prov. Grand Officers, and there was a crowded congregation. The church is an exceedingly handsome and massive building. There are 470 sittings, one-half of which are free and unappropriated. On the southern side of the chancel there is a private chapel, which is secured to Mr. Royds, his heirs, and assigns, for ever. In the church there is a brass plate, with the following inscription: "This church was erected for the worship of God, the good of his fellow men, and in memory of his father and mother, by Albert Hudson Royds, of Falinge, 1873."

The Bishop of Manchester, who was accompanied by the Ven. Archdeacon Anson and Mr. Burder, was met by at the western entrance by Mr. Royds, who presented the petition to his lordship asking him to consecrate the church. His lordship replied that he had very great pleasure in complying with the request. He then entered the church and the consecration service was proceeded with. Evening prayers were said by the Rev. E. W. Gilbert, vicar of Falinge; the first lesson was read by the Rev. Canon Rains, of Milnrow; and the second by the Venerable Archdeacon Anson. The Bishop preached the sermon, after which a collection was made in aid of the Rochdale Infirmary. At the conclusion of the ceremony the procession was reformed, and the brethren returned to the Town-hall, where a grand banquet was held in the evening. About 400 gentlemen sat down to dinner. The Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Master (Colonel Le Gendre N. Starkie) presided, and was supported by the Bishop of Manchester, the Very Worshipful Deputy Prov. Grand Master (Bro. W. Romaine Callender), and the principal officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge.

After dinner the Right Worshipful the Prov. Grand Master proposed the usual loyal toasts, which were received with great enthusiasm. He next proposed "The Health of the Most Hon. the Marquess of Ripon, Most Worshipful Grand Master," which was received with the usual Masonic honours.

The Deputy Prov. Grand Master (Bro. Callender) proposed "The Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, Right Worshipful Deputy Grand Master," which was warmly responded to.

Bro. R. H. Hutchinson proposed "Col. Le Gendre N. Starkie, Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Master," which was received with great cheering.

The Prov. Grand Master, in responding, said he should always look upon that day with great pride. It was a day associated with many peculiar circumstances. They came to Rochdale that day to honour one who had honoured the Masonic brethren on many occasions by his words and actions, his duties and kindly feeling, and by his Masonic and manly bearing—(cheers)—one who had done a great act; and he (the Grand Master) was happy to say that in that act, while he first of all enumerated the great principle of benevolence to mankind, he also introduced the principles of Freemasonry, true charity and brotherly love—(cheers)—and having come to pay him that respect, he was certain they all sympathised with Bro. Royds, and he felt deeply the affliction which had marked the day and which deprived them of his presence amongst them, (hear, hear). In conclusion he begged to propose the health of one whom they all loved, a man whose like it would be difficult to find, for the kindness of his feeling, the nobleness of his heart, and the generosity of his disposition—(cheers)—"the Worshipful Provincial Deputy Grand Master of this province, William Romaine Callender," (loud cheers).

The Deputy Prov. Grand Master (Bro. Romaine Callender) in rising to respond was received with great cheering. After thanking the brethren for the cordial manner in which they had drunk his health, he said they stood in a most unfortunate position—a position not held by any other body of persons. From the time the Passover was first instituted, divine wisdom anticipated the inquiry of the wandering heathen, and furnished a simple and satisfactory solution of the nature of the great Jewish festival, and from that time forth there never had been a body of men associated together for public or private purposes, men honourable, loyal, and true, who had not the means, if they chose, of explaining their sentiments in public, to appeal to that public for sympathy, and for confidence. But with them it was not so. They were forbidden to solicit adhesions (hear, hear). They were not allowed to explain their mysteries. They were compelled to be subject to the derision, or the contempt, or the scepticism of the outside world, although everyone amongst them knew that there was no part of their ritual, ceremony, or dress which was not based upon principles the most valuable, and contained lessons the most instructive. (Cheers.) He should not presume to occupy their time that evening, if he were allowed, to lift the veil of secrecy which shrouded their secret ceremonies; but, perhaps, he might be allowed to take the opportunity, in which strangers came amongst them, to indicate two or three of those principles by which Masons ought to be recognised. (Hear, hear.) They had been told in the able discourse to which they had listened that afternoon that the worship of Christianity was distinguished from that of the Chinese and Mexican by certain distinguished and well-known forms, which he would not say were found in every place of worship, but which were found if that place of worship was well cared for; and so there were distinctive marks by which the Mason, if he understood the principles of his order, could not fail to be recognised among men. (Hear, hear.) By common consent they considered that the most important of their duties were those of religion—religion which recognised the power of divine mercy and love, which believed in a future state, which inculcated humility and holiness, which sought to subjugate evil passions, and prompted them, by divine aid, to seek for eternal life. (Cheers.) But they knew that religion was often characterised by dissension and animosity. The history of the Christian Church itself was only too well signalled in bygone times by bigotry and intolerance, while their system was widespread and comprehensive, and embraced men of every sect, and was founded on the dual principle of love to God and love to men—(cheers)—which the great author of the Christian faith declared to be the sum and substance of the decalogue. (Cheers.) Next to religion he apprehended that most men would say that politic duties were most important. With politics in their baser sense—the strife of party, the contention of faction, the intrigues of cliques—they had nothing whatever to do. (Cheers.) Although as freemen, exercising their opinions in a free state, they had the right to form their opinions, and to act upon them, political discussion was not only prohibited, but, he ventured to say, unknown in their lodges. (Cheers.) And however high political animosity might be, he ventured to say that it had never disturbed a Masonic friendship or injured their Masonic ritual. (Cheers.) But in the higher sense, their Masonry was intensely political. Every one who came amongst them was taught to be a peaceable subject in the country in which he might reside, to pay due attention to the laws of the state in which he might live, to remember the allegiance due to the Sovereign of his native land, and, if the inspired writings be true, to serve God and honour the king were the whole duty of man, then they said that Masonry was very synonymous with the apostolic injunction. (Cheers.) This was a commercial country. Nearly everyone there lived by trade. All of them were affected by its progress, and there was no one who was not proud of that good feeling and that reputation which accompanied the name of the British merchant in every part of the world. (Cheers.) But he would ask, what better principles could there be to act upon than those which told every Mason that he should so act that he could always meet on the level and part on the square. (Cheers.) Their private duties were not forgotten. They were reminded, in the most solemn way it was possible to imagine, of that natural equality and mutual dependence which ushered them into this mortal life; they were taught to walk humbly before God, not turning to the right hand or to the left, and that all their movements ought to be guided by prudence, chastened by temperance, supported by fortitude, and guided by justice. (Cheers.) So completely were its precepts interwoven with every feeling of the human heart, that those who knew it best strove to persuade by its beauty and religion. Hundreds of years ago the Christian chivalry of Europe went forth to conquer a small spot of Eastern land, venerated alike by few, Mahomedan, and Christian as the abode of God's ancient people. They as Masons had the same duty to perform, though their mission had a wider and nobler and more important scope. They sought to rescue from heathen domination, from the laws of tyranny and sin, a small part of the heritage which God gave to men. It was their duty, not by force of arms and wordy strife, but by the more persuasive eloquence of precept and example, to win back that world of love and happiness which their first parents forfeited, and by obedience to the divine law, to recall that glorious time foretold by the Hebrew seer and sung by the Latin poet, that day of universal happiness when the songs of the angels of Bethlehem should be echoed from every heart, and when the Gospel might be not only believed but practically and implicitly obeyed. (Loud cheers.)

The Bishop of Manchester, in rising to respond, was greeted with loud and prolonged cheering. He was afraid he would not be allowed to call them "brethren"—(laughter)—and he must therefore address them as "gentlemen." (Laughter.) He rose with very great satisfaction to return thanks to them for the very kind and flattering way in which they had received the health of himself and the clergy in general. Indeed, he was more than flattered; he was profoundly affected by the kind and cordial reception they had been pleased to give him. He could only attribute that reception to the fact which Mr. Callender mentioned in his speech—that attachment to religious principle was among their first and fundamental principles of doctrine, and that perhaps they recognised respect to a minister of religion as in a certain sense an expression of those religious principles. (Cheers.) For himself he could unfeignedly say that he wished he could feel himself to be worthy of the only too flattering praise which the Provincial Grand Master, in the fulness of his heart, had been pleased to bestow upon him. He had listened with great pleasure to the eloquent and luminous exposition of the principles of Masonry, so far as they might be indicated to the outer world, which fell from Mr. Callender. He might say that his respect for Masonry had increased in consequence of what he had heard. (Loud cheers.) He said his respect for Masonry, because it seemed to him that every Mason ought, if he was true to the principles of his Craft, be a good Christian, a good citizen, and a good man. (Cheers.) He did not know whether these were entirely convertible terms, and whether every good Christian, every good citizen, and every good man was a Mason; but it was at any rate a satisfaction to know that every Mason ought to unite those three qualities in themselves. (Cheers.) He was now and then favoured by some rather troublesome correspondents, who asked him a great number of petty ecclesiastical questions, which they would find better answered in some Church dictionary. For instance he had been asked why the clergy at certain times during the service turned to the east. He could not do better than refer the correspondent to their Master of Ceremonies, who had been asking them all night to turn their "attention to the east." (Laughter and cheers.) Further he noticed from the titles of the various officers that they must have been at one time an ecclesiastical guild, if not a guild consisting of clergymen. They used the well-known and familiar ecclesiastical titles quite in an ecclesiastical sense, for while in the Church we had the Most Rev. the Archbishop of York, the Right Rev. the Bishop of Manchester—(cheers)—and the Very Rev. the Dean of Manchester, he saw that they had the Most Worshipful Grand Master, the Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master, and the Very Worshipful the Deputy Provincial Grand Master. (Cheers and laughter.) These matters were very interesting to him as an outside spectator of the mysteries of Masonry. But putting all playfulness apart, he really thought that Masonry had a number of charities in this country, which were admirably organised and well administered. (Cheers.) They had a real answer to give to the outside world—that any distressed Mason could always go to his fraternity and get relief and be helped from his difficulty. (Cheers.) All he could say was, that that was an object which justified their existence as a Craft, and if they practised those principles which had been so eloquently enunciated by Mr. Callender—the more Masons they had in Lancashire and in the country the better. (Cheers.) In conclusion, his lordship proposed the health of Albert Hudson Royds, the founder of St. Edmund's Church, Falinge, and the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master of Worcestershire. (Cheers.) He was sure that Mr. Royds was distressed at not being able to be amongst them that evening, but, under the circumstances, it was impossible that he could be there. He was sure, however, that it would gratify Mr. Royds to be told that his health was received with the warmth and cordiality which it deserved, and to know that his munificent gift to his native town was appreciated by his brother Masons. (Cheers.)

The toast was received with due Masonic honours. Several other toasts followed.

Obituary.

BRO. C. T. ADCOCK.

It is with deep regret we have to announce the death of Bro. C. T. Adcock, of Port Elizabeth, Cape of Good Hope, which sad event took place, at his residence at Port Elizabeth, on Sunday, March 23rd.

Bro. Adcock was the fifth son of Mr. Christopher Adcock, one of the British settlers of 1820, was born and brought up in the colony, and had ever since resided there. He was a member of the Good Hope Lodge, No. 863, in which he held office. He was a kind and loving husband and parent, and a good Mason.

His funeral was numerously attended by his sorrowing relatives and friends, amongst whom were a large number of Freemasons, who thus paid their last tribute of respect to his memory.

BRO. W. L. CROSBY.

On Wednesday, the 30th ult., the remains of Bro. W. L. Crosby, P.M. of the Lodge of Perseverance, No. 155, took place at Smithdown-lane Cemetery, Liverpool, in presence of a large company. Bro. Crosby was for many years treasurer and manager of the Liverpool United Gas Light Company, and in that capacity faithfully fulfilled the duties of his office. Besides the friends of the deceased, there were also present several of the leading gentlemen connected with the company, and the following officers of the 86th L.R.V. (or Press Guard), of which the deceased was a captain:—Lieut.-Col. Hamilton, and Captains Newman, Mawdsley, and Whitney. The arrangements connected with the funeral were conducted by Messrs. Woolright and Co., of Bold-street. The service was admirably read by the Rev. W. Leveson.

BRO. G. H. FRENCH.

On Sunday evening, the 4th inst., after a short illness, Bro. George Henry French, for some time engaged as maitre de ballet at the Theatre Royal, Liverpool, passed away at the age of 53. Bro. French was formerly known all over the country by his association with Mr. Harvey in "The Nerves;" and latterly he had distinguished himself by his exceedingly clever and artistic management of the ballet arrangements at the Royal. He last appeared in a capital ballet called "The Electric Spark," and the burlesque of "The Corsican Brothers," on Monday, the 28th ult., and was seized with sudden illness on the following day, and died at his residence in Brownlow-street, on Sunday evening, the immediate cause of death being erysipelas in the head. Bro. French was not only a clever artiste, but an exceedingly able writer, both in poetry and prose. His urbanity, kindness of disposition, and honesty of character secured for him a large amount of respect, which was clearly evinced by an attendance of about 200 at his funeral on Thursday the 8th inst., at Smithdown-lane cemetery. Nearly every one connected with the Theatre Royal was present, from the proprietors to the humblest servant of the establishment, and amongst the general company were representatives from the Alexandra Theatre, Amphitheatre, New Star Music Hall, St. James's Hall, and nearly all the other places of amusement in the town. Several brethren present threw sprigs of acacia and myrtle into the grave, and every one present showed the greatest sympathy for the memory of the deceased. The funeral arrangements were carried out by Bros. Brumby, Fox, and others, and Bro. C. Smithers, scenic artist at the "Royal," took special interest in organising the day's affecting proceedings.

CROSBY'S
BALSAMIC
ELIXIR.
TRADE MARK
DISEASES OF THE

LUNGS AND AIR-VESSELS.
CROSBY'S

BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.
Opium, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."
This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsey, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.
* * * Invaders should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had Gratis of all Chemists.

YOUNG'S ARTICATED CORN AND UNION PLAISTERS are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d. and 1s. per box. May be had of most chemists.
Observe the trade mark.—HY—without which none are genuine be sure and ask for YOUNG'S.

Mourning for the late Earl of Zetland.

LODGES AND CHAPTERS put into suitable Mourning at a days' notice.

A large quantity of superior Black Crape Rosettes always on hand, to be had of Bro. FREDERICK ADLARD, Masonic Clothier, and Inventor of Masonic Jewel Attacher 225, High Holborn, W.C.

BRO. W. BLACKBURN begs to express his deep feelings of gratitude to the Members of the ROYAL MASONIC ANNUITY FUND, for conferring on him the benefits of that Institution.

Attacked by an illness which totally incapacitated him from making any exertion to assist himself, he found among the Craft brothers and friends who well knew by constant practice in the walk of social life, how to help those who require it. His painful condition rendered him unable to duly thank them at the time, but he begs them to accept this medium for expressing his heartfelt thanks assuring them that the balance of his days shall be passed in grateful remembrance of their kindness.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF DRESS

Shakespeare, who knew all qualities with a learned spirit of human dealing, rarely omits an opportunity of indicating how thoroughly he understood the Philosophy of Clothing. "The apparel," he says, "oft proclaims the man." Though the famous Lord Chesterfield, the author of the well-known "Letters to his Son," was not a great genius or a profound philosopher, he was a singularly shrewd man of the world, and was well fitted to pronounce a judgment or to offer advice on this subject. "I confess," he says, "that I cannot help forming some opinion of a man's sense and character from his dress, and I believe most people do so as well as myself." He gives excellent instructions to his son. "Take care always," he says, "that your clothes are well made and fit you, for otherwise they will give you an awkward air."

The foregoing remarks on the Philosophy of Dress are admirable, but they require to be supplemented with the advice to go to E. MOSES and SON, the celebrated MERCHANT TAILORS and OUTFITTERS, of the MINORIES and ALDGATE, NEW OXFORD-STREET, and TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD, who supply every description of Clothing, ready-made or made to measure, for Adults and Juveniles of all classes, and who offer to their customers the rare combination of excellence in materials and workmanship, the newest designs, and unparalleled cheapness.

E. MOSES and SON subjoin a List of their Departments:

- Ready-made Clothing for Adults.
- Ready-made Clothing for Juveniles.
- Ready-made Clothing for Sailors and Mechanics.
- Clothing made to order.
- Hosiery and Drapery.
- Mantles, Shawls and Ladies Underclothing.
- Hats and Caps.
- Boots and Shoes.
- Outfits for Sea or Shore.

E. MOSES and SON respectfully invite an early inspection of their Stock for the Spring and Summer Seasons, which has been prepared on a scale of magnitude surpassing all their previous efforts.

E. MOSES and SON'S easy and accurate system of self-measure together with list of prices, fashion sheet, and patterns, gratis and post free.

E. MOSES and SON'S Establishments are closed every Friday evening at sunset, till Saturday evening at sunset, when business is resumed until 11 o'clock.

The following are the only Addresses of E. MOSES and SON:—

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

BEDFORD LODGE (No. 157).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held on Friday, the 9th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, the lodge was opened at one o'clock p.m. by the W.M., Bro. James Brander. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and unanimously confirmed, apologies were received from the candidates who were unavoidably absent. Some formal business having been disposed of, the lodge was closed. The brethren then adjourned to the Royal Hotel, North Woolwich Gardens, where it was arranged to have their Summer Banquet. The proprietor, Bro. William Holland, the Immediate Past Master of the lodge, was present to receive his guests. After an agreeable turn round the gardens, which looked well and promising, the banquet was announced. The table was splendidly laid out, and a princely repast served, everything in and out of season being placed before the brethren. There were present during the evening Bros. James Brander, W.M.; J. T. Briggs, S.W.; L. J. Drew, J.W.; J. Hills, P.M., Sec.; W. Follitt, S.D.; R. A. Kelly, I.G.; S. Millis, P.M.; W. Holland, P.M.; H. Treadway, G. T. Silcock, W. R. Gill, and others. The visitors were Bros. W. H. Baylis, P.M. 9; E. Coste, P.M. 9; S. H. Barnett, W.M. 95; G. S. Ayres, P.M. 95; F. Walters, P.M. 73; T. Meekham, P.M. 619; and many others. Many ladies, wives and daughters of the members, also graced the board with their presence. After dinner was over a magnificent dessert was served, apricots, cherries, and other fruits were provided in profusion. The business of the evening was then proceeded with, and some toasts were given, but a wise discretion was used in their selection. The great event of the evening was the presentation to Bro. Wm. Holland of a massive 18-carat gold Past Masters' Jewel, which had been unanimously voted to him from the lodge funds at the previous meeting. On its back it has the following inscription, viz.:—"Presented by the brethren of the Bedford Lodge (No. 157) to Bro. W. Holland, P.M., as a testimony of their fraternal regard and for his zeal in the interest of the lodge during the year he presided over it.—March, 1873." The W.M., in a neat speech, made the presentation, and the recipient, Bro. W. Holland, P.M., in an appropriate speech, expressed his gratitude for the handsome and costly present. The toast of "The Visitors," was responded to by Bros. Ayres and Walters, the latter brother praised the splendid reception given to them, the admirable manner in which every thing was served, and congratulated the lodge on having one of their Past Masters selected for office in Grand Lodge. He alluded to the appointment of Bro. Thomas Cubitt, P.M., as the A.G. Purst., which he considered was a well deserved compliment to the lodge, and a just tribute of respect to a very worthy Mason. Bros. Coste and Baylis also made appropriate replies. Songs from brethren, all accompanied on the piano the piano by Miss Annie Mills, passed the time in an agreeable manner, Mrs. Holland also presided at the piano, and proved herself an accomplished performer.

Tea and coffee having been served, the ladies and brethren took their departure for town, all were well pleased, and expressed the gratification they felt in having spent such a happy reunion. We can with confidence recommend Bro. Holland's hotel and gardens to any lodge seeking to have a Summer Festival.

LANCASTER.—Lodge of Fortitude (No. 281).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Rooms, Athenæum, on Wednesday, 14th instant, on which occasion, on account of the death of the M.W. Past Grand Master, the lodge was put into mourning. The W.M., Bro. W. Fleming, occupied the chair, and was supported by Past Masters J. Daniel Moore, P.G.S.B. England; J. L. Whimpray; Edmund Simpson, Secretary; Edward Storey; Bros. E. Airey, S.W.; Robert Gregson, J.W.; R. Jervis, S.D.; R. Taylor, J.D.; Duff, I.G.; and a number of brethren. The W.M. moved that a resolution expressive of the regret of the brethren at the lamented death of the Rt. Hon. Earl of Zetland, M.W.P.G.M. of England, be entered on the minutes of the lodge, together with a thankful acknowledgement and recognition of the valuable services he had for upwards of a quarter of a century rendered to the Craft. This was seconded by Bro. Moore, and seconded unanimously. Some other business was transacted, and two candidates proposed for initiation, after which the lodge was closed in due form.

LEICESTER.—St. John's Lodge (No. 279).—The brethren assembled at the Freemason's Hall, on Wednesday evening, the 7th inst., on which occasion there were present,—Bros. Clement Stretton, Prov. G.W., W.M.; A. Palmer S.W.; W. Weare, P.M., Treas.; J. M. McAllister, Sec.; C. E. Stretton, J.D.; S. Tebbut, Org.; W. Kelly, P. Prov. G.M.; Rev. W. Langley, P. Prov. G.S.W.; S. S. Partridge, Prov. G.S.; W. Sculthorpe, P.M., P. Prov. G.S.D.; J. Halford, W.M. 1391, and others. The Lodge was opened in due form, and Bro. John Bramley was passed to the second degree. An interesting feature in the business of the meeting was the initiation of Mr. John Fowke Montague Rolleston, a grandson of the late Sir F. G. Fowke Bart, whose distinguished Masonic career, extending over a period of forty years, receives prominent notice in Bro. Kelly's History of this Province. The pure and unsophisticated principles of Freemasonry were inculcated by Bro. Kelly, P. Prov. G.M.; assisted by Bro. W. Sculthorpe, P.M. During the period of refreshment the musical element was admirably sustained by Bros. S. Tebbut, Org.; A. Palmer, S.W.; T. A. Wykes, and R. Taylor. The toast of the W.M. was introduced with high encomiums on his administration of lodge business, and was enthusiastically responded to by the brethren.

BANBURY.—Cherwell Lodge (No. 599).—This Lodge met at the Red Lion Hotel, on Monday evening, the 12th instant. There were present—Bros. Pemberton, P.M., who, in the absence of the W.M., occupied the chair; Bro. R. Havers, P.M., who filled the chair of the absent S.W.; Bro. Grillin, P.M., who filled the chair of the J.W., who was also absent; Bro. Looker, P.M., Secretary; Bro. Humphrey, I.G.; and Bro. Foster. The Lodge was opened, and Bro. Pemberton proposed, and Bro. Havers seconded, its adjournment until the Monday nearest the full moon in January, 1874. No opposition was shown to this, and it was carried. The lodge was then closed. This was the first lodge held since the installation of the present Master, in February last. At the next lodge, in January next, it will be its duty to elect a Master for the then ensuing year.

BRADFORD.—Harmony Lodge (No. 600).—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Thursday, the 15th inst., at the Masonic Hall, under the presidency of Bro. C. F. Unna, W.M. There was a large muster of the brethren. Bro. S. O. Bailey, P.M., P. Prov. S. of W., owing to press of private business engagements, resigned the office of Secretary, which he had filled for eleven years, with the greatest satisfaction to the brethren, and advantage to the lodge. The ceremonies of one passing and two raisings were gone through by the W.M. in that excellent and most efficient style of working which has characterised him during his year of office, and which, coupled with his unrivalled courtesy and hospitality, has endeared him to all the brethren of his lodge, as well as to those of the province who have been favoured by his acquaintance. Bros. Wright, P.M., and Beanland, P.M., assisted in the ceremonies. Bro. C. D. Unna, W.M., alluding to the death of the Earl of Zetland, P.G.M., said: "It would ill become us to meet this evening without giving expression to our feelings of extreme regret at the decease of our M.W. P.G.M., and thus evince the sentiments of esteem and regard in which he was held by us. I feel convinced that the announcement of the death of our P.G.M., must have struck a painful chord in the breast of every brother who has come in contact with him, and brought home to each the thought of the transitory nature of this worldly existence, and the evanescence of all things lovely or noble. He was indeed a noble man, noble not alone in name, but in nature, a worthy Mason, and a worthy man, one who in all the relations of life carried out those purest of Masonic principles which tend not alone to make a good Mason, but a good true gentleman. The eclat which he imparted to the proceedings in connection with the ceremony of laying the foundation stone of our St. George's Hall will be in the memory of all of you, as well as the geniality by which he won the kindly feeling of all present at the banquet on that occasion. Masonically, and in the outer world he presented to us an example of what a Mason and a man ought to be, and when we shuffle off this mortal coil, may we leave behind us as many regretful hearts, as many admirers and friends as this our brother who has gone to join the Grand Lodge above. "The lodge was ordered to be put in mourning, and after the conclusion of other business adjourned."

PONTEFRACT.—St. Oswald Lodge (No. 910).—At an emergency meeting of this lodge, a large gathering of the members assembled to meet Bro. Bentley Shaw, Deputy Provincial Grand Master of West Yorkshire, and to ascertain from him the views of Grand Lodge in respect to an important application that had issued from the Castleford brethren. A memorial a short time since was forwarded to the Marquess of Ripon, M.W. Grand Master, signed by all, or nearly all, of the brethren residing at Castleford, praying for the grant of a Warrant of Constitution for a new lodge to be held at that place, and called the Prince of Wales Lodge. As the establishment of this lodge would withdraw a considerable number of members from the parent lodge, the change was not regarded with favour by the remaining members, as the tendency of the alteration would, it is presumed, create two comparatively weak lodges in place of one now enjoying a strong and vigorous existence. The Castleford brethren were very careful in disclaiming any intention on their part that their application imputed any misunderstanding or complaint as the foundation of their wishes, but that it arose simply from motives of personal inconvenience, occasioned by the distance which they resided from the lodge. Bro. Bentley Shaw, after patiently listening to the representations of all parties pro and con, promised to communicate to the Grand Master impartially what had been told him, but in the meantime it was not considered by the Grand Master expedient to grant an additional lodge at Castleford, but the subject was one which might another time be further considered and discussed. At the conclusion of lodge business, the brethren entertained Bro. Bentley Shaw D.P.G.M. of W.Y., and other friends, at dinner; at the Dragon Hotel. when between 40 and 50 of the brethren sat down to excellent dinner, supplied by Mrs. Saltmer in her best style. At the conclusion of dinner the various loyal and Masonic toasts were given and duly responded to, the musical part being under the superintendance of Bro. Dr. Spark, who, as his wont, presided with great skill at the piano-forte, and introduced several appropriate pieces from the "Freemason's Liber Musicus," while several brethren favoured the company with their vocal efforts to the enjoyment and edification of all present.

LEIGH LODGE (No. 957).—The Installation meeting of this lodge was held on Monday, 12th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, when the retiring Master, Bro. Kelso, installed, in admirable style, Bro. John Diprose in the chair. Bro. Diprose then appointed the following brethren as his officers:—C. Wootton, S.W.; Nixon, J.W.; M. Edersheim, Treasurer and W.S.; C. A. Cottebrune, Secretary; Cobham, S.D.; Arthur Wootton, J.D.; Schoeltensack, I.G.; and Woodstock, T. Afterwards the brethren sat down to banquet, at which the W.M. was supported by the Rev. R. J. Simpson, P.G.C.; John Hervey, G.S.; Raynham W. Stewart, P.G.D.; Bros. W. Hilton, John Smith, Geo. Pymm, and many others. The W.M., in giving the various toasts, did so with commendable brevity, expressing nevertheless the greatest warmth and heartiness in the subject of his respective addresses. The Grand Master and the Prince of Wales he eulogised in terms of honest praise, and spoke of the great exertions they had made for the good of Masonry. The death of the Earl of Zetland he alluded to with feelings of sorrow, and desired that the toast of "The Past Grand Master" might be drunk in silence. The toast of "The Deputy Grand Master and the rest of the Grand Officers, Present and Past," drew from him his thanks to the many Grand Officers who had honoured him with their company, all of whom he named individually, the services each had rendered to the Craft, and the peculiar gratification it was to him to entertain them. The Rev. R. J. Simpson, responding for Lord Carnarvon and himself, congratulated the lodge on having a brother in it who could work the installation ceremony so perfectly as Bro. Kelso, and he trusted that many brethren would emulate the excellent example he had set. It was a pleasure to him to see a W.M. instal his successor, and it was a thing that ought always to be done. Eighteen years ago he attempted the same feat himself, and he should have been most happy if he had done it as well as Bro. Kelso. He then touchingly alluded to the death of Lord Zetland, who had presided for a quarter of a century over the Craft. He also took occasion to draw the attention of the brethren to the shortness of their days, and advised them to exhibit that truest sense, a preparation for their end whenever it might come. Bro. John Hervey also responded, and was followed by Bro. Raynham W. Stewart, who informed the brethren of the great success of the Masonic charitable festivals this year, each of which had collected over £7,000. Bro. Cottebrune also replied. Bro. Kelso proposed "The Health of the W.M." The W.M., in reply, said it was such an exalted position he was occupying for the first time that he felt rather nervous, but he could not allow the opportunity to pass without thanking the brethren for having placed him in that position, and without assuring them that he should do his best to deserve the confidence they had shown. He then proposed "The Health of the I.P.M.," and presented Bro. Kelso with a magnificent P.M. jewel, which he said had been most fairly earned, as Bro. Kelso had always performed his duties to the satisfaction of every one of his brethren. Bro. Kelso responded very briefly, and thanked the brethren most for their magnificent recognition of his services. The other toasts were then given, and the brethren shortly afterwards separated. Some lovely music was performed by Bros. Edersheim, Creswick, and other brethren, and an evening which any visitor must have been proud of was spent by the company; the greatest cordiality and hospitality was bestowed on the visitors, and the Leigh Lodge proved itself not inferior to any other on the roll of Grand Lodge of England.

WARRINGTON.—The Gilbert Greenall Lodge (No. 1250).—The regular meeting of this flourishing young Lodge was held on Tuesday last, at the Masonic Rooms, Sankey-street, Warrington, when the W.M. (Bro. Hawkins) presided, and was supported by the S.W. (Bro. Pollitt), the J.W. (Bro. Brierly), and the rest of the officers. There were also present—Bros. Woods, P.M.; Richardson, P.M.; Mossop, P.M.; Finney, P.M. (Hon. Sec.); and a goodly number of other brethren. After the ordinary routine and other business, the brethren proceeded to the election of a W.M. for the ensuing twelve months. The ballot was taken in the usual form, and proved in favour of Bro. Pollitt, S.W. We congratulate Bro. Pollitt on his elevation to so distinguished a position.

URTON.—Upton Lodge (No. 1227).—On Thursday, the 15th inst., was held a thorough business evening at this active and prosperous lodge. Present:—Bros. English, W.M.; Bratton, S.W.; Chidley, J.W.; Wayland, Treas.; Goddard, P.M. Sec.; Leveck, S.D.; Holtham, J.D.; Slee, I.G.; Pickering, P.M.; Bolton, P.M.; Mather, P.M.; Bellerby, P.M.; Posener, Cohen, Smith, Brown, Gundelfruger, Owen, Kirby, Grover, and numerous other brethren. Visitors: Bros. Stevens, P.M. and Sec. Doric; Watton, Doric; Johnstone, 1000. Mr. F. Holl was initiated; Bros. Kinnear, Isaacs, Tremlett, and Walton, passed; Bro. Witherstone raised; Bro. Bellerby resigned, and elected honorary member. A more impressive speech than that delivered by Bro. Bellerby on his being compelled by Government appointment to retire from this, his beloved lodge (of which he was the leading founder,) could scarcely be made. Excellent orations followed, by Bros. Bolton, Mather, and Owen. The proceedings terminated in the usual Masonic manner, saving that there were no festivities, owing to the recent death of the late Earl of Zetland, P.G.M. of England, whose memory was recalled and great virtues affectionately extolled by Bro. English, the Worshipful Master.

RED HILL.—Royal Albert Edward Lodge (No. 1362).—This lodge met at the Town Hall on the 10th instant. There were present Bros. E. E. Meakin, W.M.; William Finlay, S.W.; A. Kelsey, J.W.; J. Clement, J.D.; J. Adam Acton, J.D.; William Kemp, I.G.; F. J. Besley, P.M. Secretary; Charles Joseph Smith, P.M. and W.M. 416, P.M.; J. H. Drinkwater, Organist; Henry Gee, P.M. 1003; J. Wood, P.M. 1149; R. W. Morrison, S.W. 416; with members and visitors, were present. The minutes being read and confirmed. Bro. W. B. Waterlow, J.P., having shewn efficiency in the F.C. degree, was raised to the sublime degree of M.M. A ballot was then taken for Bro. Wheatley, P.M., as joining member, and Henry Bull as a candidate for the M. and P. of the Masonic Order, which was unanimous. Mr. Bull then passed through the ordeal, and was congratulated on being made an E.A. Other formalities being attended to, brought the meeting to a close.

BRADFORD.—Chapter of Charity (No. 302).—The regular monthly meeting of this chapter was held at the Masonic Hall, Godwin-street, on Monday, the 19th inst., Comp. W. Beanland, M.E.Z., presiding. Bro. Saml. P. Firth, of the Pentalpha, 974, was exalted. The officers for the ensuing year were invested, namely, Comps. Wm. Beanland, M.E.Z.; Sugden, H.; Evans, J.; Hutchinson, N.; Broughton, S.E.; Andrews, P.S.; Farrar, Treas.; Proctor and Best, Assist. S. After business, the M.E.Z. invited all present to favour him with their presence in the refreshment-room, where they were entertained by him to a most sumptuous dinner. Comp. W. Beanland, M.E.Z., was supported by a large muster of companions, including the following distinguished visitors:—Comps. Ahrens, M.E.Z. Sincerity, 600; Dewhurst, F. C. Unna, J. Beanland, Althorpe, Mouckman, and Metcalf. The evening proved one of the most agreeable and interesting ones that this chapter has had, and the enjoyment was greatly increased by the excellent harmony volunteered by Comps. Unna, Jer, Rhodes, and others.

LIVERPOOL.—Walton Chapter (No. 1086).—This chapter held its usual monthly meeting at the Masonic Hall, Kirkdale, on Thursday, the 24th April. There were present:—Comps. T. Chesworth, M.E.Z.; J. C. Lunt, H.; Geo. de la Perrelle, J.; Wm. Archer, P.Z., Treas.; P. Armstrong, S.E.; John Lunt, P.Z., and a large attendance of companions. The visitors were Comps. Banning H. 823; and E. T. Jones, 220. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The ballot was taken for Bro. Rev. C. R. Hyde, L.L.D., and Bro. W. T. Warhurst, for exaltation, and Comp. Curtis, Chapter 220, for joining, who were duly elected. Bros. Rev. Dr. Hyde and Warhurst being present, were duly exalted of the degree of Holy Royal Arch Masonry, by Comp. Lunt, P.Z., Comp. Archer acting as P. Soj. and Comp. Banning as S.N. The Historic, Symbolic and Mystical lectures were given by Comps. Lunt, P.Z.; J. C. Lunt, H.; and Geo. de la Perrelle, J., each lecture being given in a perfect and impressive manner. Bro. Raw was proposed for exaltation, Comp. Jones for joining. There being no other business, the chapter was closed, and the companions retired for refreshment.

Scotland.

GLASGOW.—St. Andrew's Chapter (No. 69) held its regular meeting on Tuesday, the 13th inst., Comp. T. D. Humphries, Ph. D., M.A., Z., presiding, assisted by Comps. J. Crabb, Z. of 50, P.G.S.N. as H.; H. Park, Z. of 122, as J.; J. Campbell, Scribe E.; and G. W. Wheeler, H. 73, acting as P.S. A Mark Lodge having been opened, Bro. Charles A. Goldsmith, M.D., was regularly advanced to that degree. A lodge of Most Excellent Masters was then opened, when the same gentleman was initiated into its mysteries, and subsequently, with Bro. Cumming, exalted into the Holy Royal Arch. Comp. Crabb at the request of the M.E.Z., acting as 1st Principal, the Chapter was duly closed. At refreshment, Comp. Goldsmith, who is an American Mason, and has visited numerous lodges in both hemispheres, expressed himself highly gratified at the impressive manner in which all the ceremonies had been rendered, as well as the fraternal feeling exhibited by Scotch Arch Masons in coming forward so readily to assist each other in working.

GLASGOW.—Caledonian Chapter Unity (No. 73) held an emergency meeting to exalt Bro. Robert Ross, of Lodge 73, who was about to proceed to Japan. Comp. G. McDonald, M.E.Z. presided, assisted by G. W. Wheeler, H., John Donaldson acting as J. and J. Hanbrige as S.E. A Mark Lodge was opened with J. Bannerman, M.S.W. and T. Stewart Develin. The chapter having been opened in consequence of the absence of the three Sojourners, Comp. Wheeler left the chair of H., to act as 1st S., and the degree of Excellent Master, was given previous to the exaltation of Comp. Ross. Though this was only the second time of the M.E.Z. giving the whole three degrees the companions were highly pleased with his very efficient working.

THE FUTURE OF FREEMASONRY IN IRELAND.

FIFTH ARTICLE.

THE BOARD OF GENERAL PURPOSES.

The future constitution of the Board of General Purposes is a subject that requires very careful and dispassionate consideration.

As at present existing, the Board consists of a Past Master from each of the Dublin lodges, now numbering upwards of thirty; and of certain of the Grand and Provincial Grand Officers, the latter, however, being, to a certain extent, only permitted to attend and vote at the sittings.

In the proposed new laws, it is contemplated, in the first instance, to change the permissive character of Provincial representation by arranging that "One representative from each of the Provincial Grand Lodges, such representative being any one of its four principal officers," shall form an integral portion of the Board.

It is also intended to reduce the representation of the Dublin lodges by about one-half, the metropolitan contingent being, on the proposed new board, composed of fifteen Past Masters, elected, by an internal ballot, from the total number sent forward by the lodges of the "Dublin district"—one for each such lodge.

There has undoubtedly been, for some considerable time past, a feeling existing—and, I think, strengthening—among our Provincial brethren, that the members of Dublin lodges enjoyed too much preponderance in the government of the Order; and, as a fact, the entire working of the Board rested in the hands of the Dublin members, the presence of any Provincial representative being almost, if not quite, an unknown phenomenon. At the same time, it should be borne in mind that Dublin, being "the seat of government," naturally monopolise a large portion of the executive power of the Order; and that the attendance of those Provincial Grand Officers, who were entitled to a seat at the Board, could hardly be expected, when the loss of time, and the expenses involved in a monthly visit to the metropolis are taken into account.

The problem we have to solve is, how to secure an adequate and actual representative of the provinces at the Dublin Board, without impairing the power, or weakening its efficiency.

It seems to me that the solution is a very simple one. In the first place, let the Provincial Representatives be, not "Provincial Grand Officers" who are usually appointed because of their social standing and position, as much as, or more than, because of their Masonic zeal and ability, but brethren elected by the Provincial members, either from those brethren subscribing to lodges in their district, or from brethren resident in Dublin, as may seem most fit and desirable.

By those means a full representation of the provinces can always be relied on. If a Province selects a brother resident in the country, to represent it, it can easily elect one whose time is sufficiently at his own disposal to enable him to attend regularly to his duties, and the expenses attendant on his monthly visits to Dublin can of course be borne by the district he represents. If on the other hand, they choose to nominate a resident in Dublin, and there are few Provinces which do not possess several Dublin residents who were once members of provincial lodges, the question is very much simplified as to the time required, and entirely disposed of as regards the expense. I would not of course wish to be understood as limiting the power of nominating a resident in Dublin as Provincial Representative to those who are, or have been, members of provincial lodges. Any brother eligible to represent a Dublin lodge should be eligible to represent a province, should a province think fit to appoint him to that office.

It would be necessary to reduce the numbers of the Dublin Members of the Board if the above arrangement were adopted, in about the proportion suggested in the new laws. By doing so there would be no danger of its being unwieldy in numbers, as the total would be less than as at present constituted, and the proportion of Dublin and Provincial Representatives would be very nearly balanced.

I would however be inclined to suggest that the mode of appointing the Dublin members should be somewhat different from that proposed.

A better plan, I submit would be, to require each Dublin Lodge to send forward to Grand Lodge the names of two P.M.'s and from the total number so sent, let Grand Lodge elect by ballot, fifteen members to serve on the Board. The election could be so arranged as to time, as to enable the nominees of the Provincial Lodges to be selected from the unelected brethren, if such should in any case be found desirable.

By this means the Board of General Purposes might be made a more truly representative body, and the Order at large would probably have more confidence in its operations that would be attained by the plan proposed by the new laws.

It must not be forgotten that the rulings of the Board must, in essential matters, be confirmed by Grand Lodge before they can take effect.

The powers of the Board are increased in some respects by the proposed new laws, but as there is the right of appeal from their decision within a certain time, this will most likely be found an improvement in the administration.

THE CHARITIES OF THE ORDER.

The official Charities of the Order are the Fund administered by the Committee of Charity and Inspection, the Female Orphan School, and the Male Orphan School.

The latter institution does not figure in the proposed new laws; but this is clearly attributable to its very recent formation, and the omission will, of course, be rectified in completing the new code of laws.

The Committee of Charity and Inspection consists of the Grand Officers and the Masters for the time being of the Dublin lodges. Their duty is twofold. They form a board of inspection, by which all the candidates passed by the subordinates Dublin lodges (Grand Master's Lodge excepted) must be approved of prior to initiation; and they also administer certain funds provided for charitable purposes.

The meetings of the Board are held twice in each month, the first on the day succeeding the meeting of Grand Lodge, and the second a fortnight later. This last meeting is for the purpose of approving candidates only, and the attendance is usually not "plethoric." At the first monthly meeting the charity funds are distributed, by usually a large board, the members subsequently dining together.

It has been considered by some members of the Order that the dinner of this board could be dispensed with; but, on reflection, it will be found that such a change would be most injudicious. In the first place, no advantage would accrue to the Charity Fund, as the Masters' dinners are nearly paid for by special half-yearly dues exacted from the lodges for that particular purpose. Those monthly dinners are, moreover, useful in bringing together, in a social manner, brethren who might otherwise form but slight acquaintances; and no charge of extravagance can well be brought against them, as, while they are "full and plenty" in their providing, they are free from that costly profusion that swells the price of our "installation" banquets to absurd proportions; and they set an example of "refreshment meetings," that might well be imitated by the individual lodges.

The fund at the disposal of the Charity Board is an exceedingly meagre one. For a long series of years past it has been limited to eight pounds monthly; and when the number of applications—in nearly every instance deserving ones—are taken into consideration, it will be seen that the funds available are miserably inadequate. There is, at present, an endeavour to "strengthen the hands" of the committee, by obtaining subscriptions from the various lodges, in addition to the grant from Grand Lodge; and several of the subordinate lodges have intimated their willingness to contribute annually sums, that in the aggregate, would swell the fund to a more commensurate amount. The new laws seek to impose on the various lodges in Ireland a capitation tax of one shilling annually for each subscribing member, to be especially applied to the Charity Fund.

I am sorry to know that our Provincial brethren intend to oppose this trifling impost, I believe on the ground that they object to give to a body located in Dublin the administration of funds levied generally on the Order. It should, however, be borne in mind that very few of the applications are from Dublin brethren or their dependants, and that full consideration is given to each case, no matter from what quarter the application comes, a principle most properly extended under the proposed new law by enabling the board to relieve applicants holding under Foreign Grand Lodges. The existing rule rendering eligible for relief only those claiming under the Irish constitution.

Practically the effect of the existing system is, that when a case is favourably considered by the board of charity, the sum granted is so small as to be of little real permanent use. The largest grant in their power to make, is a sum of five pounds to any individual at any one time. A larger grant, in the rare instance where it is recommended, must be made directly from the Grand Lodge funds, on a regular notice of motion to that effect. When a case does arise that calls for the exercise of their relieving power to the full extent, the sum left from the monthly grant, viz., three pounds, is quite insufficient to meet the other calls on their consideration, which must be either dismissed, held over, or relieved by grants, which if the subject was not so painful, would be absolutely ludicrous in their attenuation. Another injurious effect of their inability to cope with the urgency of cases presented is, that a grant from the board of charity being recognised as a proof of the deserving nature of the application, those who have received but a small and most inadequate measure of relief are induced to try and increase that measure by an appeal to the individual lodges, who usually respond very fairly to really worthy cases, and thus in some instances, unfortunately a systematic "begging" for relief is initiated and encouraged, the result being, as can be well understood, most demoralising and injurious to the funds and interests of the Order. There is no doubt that there is room for considerable improvement in the administration of such portion of the funds of the order as are devoted to charitable purposes, and I believe our brethren in other parts of the world are far in advance of us in the system, by which they test the genuineness of all applications, and the worthiness of all applicants, and, having ascertained that worth, by the promptitude and liberality with which those claims are met. Niggardliness is not our national feeling, and I am sure if our machinery worked equally well, we would not be behind any other branch of the great Masonic family in "relieving the distresses, soothing the afflictions, and in all things doing unto others as we would they should do to us."

Meanwhile, let us do the best we can with what we have, and not let petty local jealousies stand in the way of making our means of usefulness in some degree proportioned to the wealth and position of the Order to which we have the honour to belong.

I had intended going, at some length, into the working of our Schools, but the subject suggests so many points for consideration that I prefer merely touching on it here, possibly reserving for a future opportunity more detailed expression of opinion on various points incidentally involved. In a general way, both Institutions are admirably managed, and the time is, I think, rapidly approaching when our Boys' School will be placed on the same footing as its older companion, the Girls' School, by having a "local habitation" as well as name. While however we have reason to rejoice at the success of both Institutions, so far, I do not think we ought to be very jubilant over them till we can proclaim to friends and foes alike, that the ballot for admission of candidates no longer exists, that every deserving case obtains admission as a right, a result that would be easily attainable if they received that general support they so much deserve, a result that the numbers, intelligence, respectability, and wealth of our ancient Order justify us in expecting.

THE ORDER OF THE TEMPLE.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

Will you allow me, through the medium of your excellent paper, to express my full concurrence with the opinions of my friend, Bro. Hughan, and Bro. "H. H." Knight Templarism, if not Masonic, is simply something with which, we, as Masons, have nothing to do, and we should uphold our dignity as Masons best, by now repudiating all connection with a society which has first usurped a chivalrous title, and to support that, made use of Freemasonry as a bolster. I cannot help thinking that the best interest of our order will be served by cutting off all such excrescences as the quasi-Masonic Chivalric Orders. I am convinced the best friends of Masonry will agree that they are quite unnecessary, and frequently most injurious to legitimate Craft Masonry. I believe with Bro. Hughan that many Freemasons will, now the Masonic prefix is most properly abandoned, rather leave the ranks than act a lie by claiming to be the lineal descendants of the original Knights Templar. An immense amount of research has been given, and a great deal of unnecessary and useless erudition wasted in the endeavour to establish such a claim. I cannot agree with "Devoniensis" (May 10th) who thinks that all the Crusader Knights were Freemasons. Indeed it is most fervently to be hoped that they were not, and in fact they behaved in numerous instances, so disgracefully and un-Masonically, one to the other, as to prove they were not all Masons. Bro. "Devoniensis" believes himself a lineal descendant of the ancient Knights Templar, and would not disconnect the modern order from Masonry, because, the R. A. is to a certain extent a guarantee of the eligibility for the candidate. I take that it may in a measure be a guarantee for his respectability.

Bro. "Devoniensis" would like in addition some social qualification, and I would suggest that the Order carried out one of the main principles of the ancient Order, and be all sworn to celibacy. I wonder what one of the old Templars would think of some of the present encampments, could he awake and visit one, and find it composed principally of men, who though excellent Masons, were carrying on (I trust successfully) the business of apothecaries, tailors, shoemakers, lawyers, and in fact a mixture of all trades and professions! He would, I doubt not, retire with very unmixt feelings.

Our esteemed brother, who signs himself a "Masonic Student" is justly proud of his position as a simple Craftsman; like him, I accept, ex mio corde, the universality of Freemasonry, and cannot see my way clear to accept, either Masonically or historically, what are technically called the "high grades," especially after reading the concluding portions of Bro. Yarker's "Speculative Masonry." Bro. Yarker, who can put after his name a string of high-sounding titles in every degree up to the 33rd, tells us that there is an immense amount of learning developed in the higher degrees, but that their advantages is a vexed question, and which, if Freemasonry could be conducted on its old principles, would be useless, as the whole of the learning which they are designed to convey is latent in the three degrees of Craft Masonry. The modern Knights Templar have, vulgarly speaking, not a leg to stand upon. They cannot possibly be a chivalric body, and they are not Masonic. I would, therefore, give them the homely advice frequently given in my county, to "let the old hare sit;" and I trust the Masonic prefix never will, in any possible form, be revived.

With regard to the complaint of Bro. "H. H.," that in the province to which he has the honour to belong, no restriction is placed on the wearing of badges of unrecognised degrees in some lodges in that province, he must know that the remedy is in his own hands. Now, of course, the Knight Templar badges cannot be worn; having relinquished their Masonry in Knight Templarism, they have not even the shadow of the claim they latterly perhaps imagined themselves to have. I would advise Bro. "H. H.," on every occasion of such an openly acknowledged contempt for the Book of Constitutions, to ask the W.M. of the lodge in which it occurs to direct the attention of the brethren of the lodge to pages 19, 68, and 115 of the the Book of Constitutions. Should the W.M. refuse to perform the duty he has sworn to on his installation, our Bro. would be remiss in his duty to the Craft did he not complain in writing to the Provincial Grand Master of his District.

Faithfully and fraternally yours,
HERBERT B. HODGES, P.M., P.Z.,
P. Prov. S.G.W. Herts.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

The letter of "Devoniensis," in reply to my queries on this subject, is such a curious medley of inaccuracies and irrelevancies, that I have waited to see if some more logical correspondent would vouchsafe a reply which should be plain, and free from assumptions and unproved assertions. Any attempt to discuss the aforesaid assumptions, or to dissect the illogicalities of the letter in question, would only lead me away from the real point at issue; and I respectfully decline to yield to the temptation.

The question I have asked is a very plain one, and only needs an answer of yes or no. I have asked it bona fide, and have signed my name to it. It may be politic, but it is not fraternal to withhold a straightforward answer.

Let me briefly restate the point at issue. I ask, are the two expressions "a Masonic Body," and "a Body composed of Masons" absolutely convertible, or equivalent terms?

Of course the old, but inaccurate reply is ready, that "The rose by any other name, will smell as sweet." But in this case, I think that the change of title is not the mere giving of a new name to the rose, leaving its original scent unaltered, but it also involves a great change of principle. Instead of a body of which Masonry was the vital essence, we have a body to which Masonry is a secondary appendage. We were all obligated to the former body. Do our obligations necessarily pass on to the new body?

The "Rosicrucian Society of England" lays down the following fundamental definition. "The Society of Brethren of the Rosy Cross is totally independent, being established on its own basis, and, as a body, is not otherwise connected with the Masonic Order, than by having its members selected from that fraternity." This position is straightforward, and intelligible. If the present rulers of the Order of the Temple intend to adopt a similar standpoint, let them tell us so in an equally straightforward manner; and then we can all elect for ourselves whether we will transfer our allegiance to the new body, which claims to be what we don't believe that it really is, or ever can become.

I am Sir, and Brother fraternally yours,
P. H. NEWNHAM.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

Being very much astonished to hear at the last meeting of N. G. Priory that Lord Eliot had resigned the Order of the Temple, I thought I would ask whether you or any of the readers of your journal know why one of the triumphant Triumvirate should have resigned at what may be called the very commencement of their headlong career? Surely we are going to have no first consul trick played over again.

Yours fraternally,
A KNIGHT TEMPLAR.

THE NEW GRAND OFFICERS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

Referring to a letter about the recently appointed Grand Officers, signed "S.G.D.," in the Freemason of this date, I beg to correct one or two rather grave errors which it contains.

Lord Balfour of Burleigh is not, and never was, the W.M. of the Apollo University Lodge of Oxford, although he is a member of it, and was its Senior Deacon in the year 1869-70.

Lord Balfour of Burleigh is the I.P.M. of the Churchill Lodge, No. 478, of Oxford, a lodge which is not a University Lodge, whose chair is at present occupied by the Senior Grand Chaplain, the Rev. A. Bruce Frazer; whilst the chair of the Apollo University Lodge, No. 357, is occupied by H.R.H. The Prince of Wales, K.G., who has appointed as his Deputy Bro. Reginald Bird, Prov. Senior Grand Warden of Oxfordshire, and I.P.M. of the Lodge.

In your leader of the previous week, there was an error which I may as well also point out, and it is this: Lord Burleigh's name is not unknown on the subscription lists of the Masonic charities, for two years ago he served the office of Steward for the Benevolent Institution.

Yours fraternally,

A LOVER OF TRUTH, AND A MEMBER OF THE APOLLO UNIVERSITY AND CHURCHILL LODGES.

Oxford, May 17, 1873.

NEW ZEALAND.

The annual installation meeting of the Pacific Lodge of Hokitika (No. 1229) was held at the Masonic Hall, Revell-street, Westland, on Tuesday, the 11th February. A very large assemblage of brethren took place to do honour to the occasion. The lodge-room was most tastefully and elegantly fitted up with flags, Masonic banners, devices, evergreens and flowers. The R.W.D.G. Master, Bro. John Lazar, presided and performed the duty of installation in the beautiful and impressive manner for which he is noted both far and near, assisted by Bro. John Bevan, P.M. 1229, and Bro. H. Guthell, P.M. 1241. There were also present on the dais Bros. J. R. Hudson, W.M. 1229; Edward Hardcastle, W.M. Lodge Westland Kilwinning, 437, S.C. Bro. J. R. Hudson, W.M., having been re-elected, was duly installed as W.M. for the ensuing year, and appointed the following brethren, viz.:—Bros. Patrick Crawford, S.W.; J. Branwell, J.W.; C. Linneman, Treas., (re-elected); F. Eisfelder, Sec.; Robt. Ferguson, S.D.; C. Hill, J.D.; J. R. Powell, I.G.; and G. Epping, Tyler, (re-elected.) The R.W.D.G.

Master having duly invested each of the officers, paid a very high compliment to the brethren for great state of efficiency in which he found the members, all able to perform the duties of their respective offices in such a manner as to reflect the highest possible credit on their preceptors, and referred to the important financial condition of the lodge, which he considered as second to none throughout the Colony of New Zealand. He further congratulated the brethren, for the very beautiful manner in which they had extended relief, and supported the charitable Institutions of the district, and expressed his admiration of the true Masonic zeal which seemed to actuate every brother of the lodge.

The Auditors' report, accompanied by the Treasurer's balance sheet, shewing a balance in favour of the lodge amounting to £484 19s. 4d. was then submitted, and adopted. A vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to the R.W.D.G. Master for his kindness in presiding, and the many favours he was always so willing to bestow on the lodge. The R.W.D.G.M., thanked the brethren in most feeling terms for the compliment, and trusted that they would all be permitted, with the blessing of the G.A.O.T.U., to enjoy such sincere friendships. Bro. Thos. H. Garland, M.D., was then duly proposed as a candidate for initiation, also Bro. J. E. Cuddeford, P.M., and Bro. W. Ramsay, as joining members. The lodge was then duly closed, according to ancient custom; but just before retiring Bro. Bevan, P.M., addressed the brethren as follows: "Now that the duties of this evening are concluded, and we are again about to mix with the world; let us not forget that there is much which might occupy the thoughts of Masons generally, much that might encourage them in their good works, much that might enliven the dull routine of daily life by inspiring within us the desire to become more acquainted with its manifold blessings, by striving to behold with an unclouded vision its vast though approachable beauties, its concord of good works, its elaborate design by sowing in our hearts the little seed of its greatness, there encouraging it to germinate and bring forth its luxuriance in good time; so that our knowledge thus acquired may in truth become wisdom, our practice strength, and our admiration beauty, the three great pillars which support our stately structure, and which adorn its ancient name—Freemasonry, which has stood the test of ages, and withal is so complete, being as it is reared on the solid foundation of all that is good and holy on this (pointing to the Bible)—the great rock, the Masonry of God. Therefore, brethren, let us be faithful, and adopt it in sincerity, its genial teachings will bring many happy surroundings, it will illuminate many of the dark recesses of our frail nature, it will pilot the good Mason over many treacherous rocks and shoals, and be assured it will prepare him for a better future through his trust in God the G.A.O.T.U., the brethren then adjourned to Bro. Osborne's Café de Paris, where a sumptuous banquet was provided, at which about fifty sat down. Bro. John R. Hudson, W.M., presided, a most enjoyable evening being spent; many excellent speeches were made and songs sung, every brother seeming to unite in the one great object of being happy; and so was brought to a close (after the Tyler's toast) another of those truly Masonic reunions which tend to cement the warm friendship of years and grace the grand teachings of our noble Institution.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT: Neuralgic and Rheumatic Disorders are perpetually recurring during the changeable temperatures of spring. All aches and pains in the nerves, muscles and bones, which often compel the man of business to neglect his usual avocations, may be speedily subdued by this powerful Ointment. It should be well rubbed into the part affected. The action of the Ointment is expedited by previous fomentations with warm water. The Ointment is then as easily made to pass into the human frame, as salt is made to pass into meat and none need apprehend any injurious after effects from it, for its cures are worked without the aid of a particle of Mercury or any other noxious substance.—It never does harm.—ADVT.

A BOON TO EVERY HOUSEHOLD.—Boots, with the celebrated wire-quilted soles, wearing twice as long as ordinary leather, for all ages; and children's boots with metallic tips, which never wear out at the toes, may be had at most shoe dealers. Insist on giving these a trial, and judge on their merits;

PROCEEDINGS OF GRAND LODGE OF MASSACHUSETTS, 1872.

A FRATERNAL REVIEW, BY BROTHER WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.

The extraordinary "Proceedings" of 1871, published by the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, put all customary issues in the shade! Accordingly the present compilation suffers in common with its predecessors in that respect, and though a valuable and interesting account of the progress of Freemasonry in the Commonwealth above noted, it is nevertheless of a much inferior character to the grand volume of 800 pages, which appeared during the past year, and which unquestionably, is the finest work of its kind ever issued in any country.

The first quarterly communication of the Grand Lodge was held at the Masonic Temple, Boston, on 13th March, 1872, when M.W. Bro. S. D. Nickerson, G.M., occupied the throne. On looking over the attendance, it is pleasant to notice the goodly array of Past Grand Masters, and other influential Past Grand Officers, who supported the Grand Master on the dais. This happy characteristic of Massachusetts Freemasonry is the outgrowth of Masonic zeal cherished in this State, and hence all are interested in whatever concerns the welfare of the Craft.

The Grand Master presented an epitome of his official acts since his installation in December. On 13th February, he dedicated the new Masonic Halls in the City of Lowell, and reported that they are very convenient, well arranged and elegantly furnished. The services were attended by about 500 brethren, and were followed by an Historical Address by the Masonic Orator, Bro. Gardner, P.G.M. In the evening an elegant and bountiful collation was provided by the ladies, and the whole building was crowded with a delighted and delightful company. On the 21st of the same month, the G.M. constituted Phœnician Lodge of Lawrence, and installed its officers. On the last day of February, the new Masonic Hall of Corinthian Lodge was dedicated by M.W. Bro. Nickerson. An address by Bro. W. H. Wheildon, and a collation after the ceremonies, afforded very grateful food for both mind and body.

A stated communication of "Winslow Lewis Lodge" was held on the 8th March, on which occasion the members, the Grand Master, and many visiting brethren bade an affectionate farewell to P.G.M. Dr. Lewis, who was to sail on the following day on his fourteenth voyage to Europe.

A copy of the "Constitutions of the Freemasons," published by Bro. R. Spencer, London, was accepted by the G.M. (on behalf of the Grand Lodge) from that well-known Masonic Bibliographer, and duly ordered to be acknowledged.

More stringent regulations were introduced respecting the visits of brethren to lodges, and certainly according to the evidence then and there submitted, extra precautionary measures are loudly called for, and to prevent the admission of impostors, the safeguards must be multiplied. The attention of Masters of lodges was also called to the importance of the appointment of competent brethren upon committees of examination, which should rarely, if ever, be conducted elsewhere than in the Masonic apartments, and always with the utmost dignity and thoroughness. Two new lodges sought warrants in lieu of dispensations, when a committee was appointed to consider their applications, who having examined the records submitted, and the by-laws, and also discovering that the dues had been paid to the G.L., unanimously recommended the charters to be issued.

The second quarterly communication was held on June 12th; the Grand Master presided, and a large number of brethren were also in attendance. Much of the time was occupied in considering a question affecting the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodges of Massachusetts and New Hampshire, which was finally amicably settled. We omit all reference to this purely private matter, but cannot forbear expressing our appreciation of the excellent spirit in which each party made known their statement of the case, and while there was no lack of argument, and of the keenest criticism, the whole was softened and permeated by the soul-stirring "bond of fellowship."

The Grand Lodge, we think very wisely, refused to countenance a scheme suggested by a few brethren whereby the families of deceased members should receive some fixed sum of money from every contributing brother to a lodge in that jurisdiction.

The right hand of fellowship was extended to new Grand Lodges in Utah, British Columbia, and Brazil, together with a cordial and fraternal God-speed in their Masonic relations, as an integral portion of our great brotherhood.

The third quarterly communication, held on Sept. 11th, was also presided over by the Grand Master in person. The record of the special Grand Lodge, held at Attleborough on June 14th, for the purpose of laying the corner-stone of Grace Church, was duly read and approved.

The committee on Grand Master Gardner's Annual Report of Dec. 13th 1871, made known the result of their deliberations, and explained the delay. Their report was most carefully prepared, and according to the expectation of all those who are familiar with M.W. Bro. Gardner, as a Masonic Historian, the committee expressed the entire satisfaction and appreciation of the Grand Lodge with the performance by the retiring Grand Master of his official duties, and its most hearty congratulations for the great success which has crowned his unremitting labours on its behalf. Need we say such a report was accepted by acclamation?

Another Special Grand Lodge was called, the reason for which is explained by the following inscription engraved upon a metallic plate:—"The corner-stone of the Standish Memorial, in commemoration of the character and services of Captain Myles Standish, the First Commissioned Military Officer of New England, laid on the summit of Captain's Hill, in Duxbury, under the superintendance of the Ancient and Honourable Artillery Company of Massachusetts, in presence of the Standish Monument Association, by the M.W. Grand Lodge of Freemasons of Massachusetts, M.W. Sereno D. Nickerson, Grand Master, on the seventh day of October, A.D. 1872, being the two hundred and fifty-second year since the first settlement of New England by the Pilgrim Fathers."

The last Special Communication was of more than usual interest, from the fact of its being ordered for the purpose of aiding a meeting of St. Andrew's Lodge, Boston, convened in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the membership of Bro. Charles W. Moore in the said lodge. The Grand Master, Dep. G.M., Grand Wardens, six Past Grand Masters, and a number of the most influential members of the Grand Lodge attended in honour of the occasion, and a most brilliant assembly it must have been. The hall was well prepared, a flood of light chasing away all darkness. Upon the altar was arranged a profusion of rare flowers. The marble bust of the venerable Bro. Moore, P.D.G.M., had been tastefully decorated for the evening with autumn leaves, flowers, open butterflies mingling with the branches of evergreens—emblem of immortality—and a bird of paradise holding above the head a wreath of immortelles. The W. Master of the lodge introduced the hero of the evening to the assembly of the brethren and their ladies. Bro. Moore subsequently delivered a lengthy and deeply interesting address, mainly descriptive of a vastly different kind of experience to the one they had then met to enjoy, and which told of bitter persecution, and of numerous changes and vicissitudes, which like milestones, dot the course of the journey, marking in regular gradation, the progress of his beloved lodge. Our brother's peroration was very fine indeed, and the rise of the Masonic Institution to a position of dignity and power, when the blast of opposition had passed away was traced by a masterly hand:—"And, if ever, in the providence of God, lashed by the storm and riven by the lightning, it shall, at length, totter to its fall, around its trunk will the ivy of filial affection, that has so long enclasped it, still fondly and firmly cling, and mantle with verdure and beauty its ruin and decay."

At the conclusion of the address, which was listened to with great interest by all present, and will be read by thousands besides, an ode, written for the occasion by Bro. Dr. Henry G. Clark, was sung by the choir.

Subsequently the Grand Master and members of the Grand Lodge were escorted to the Egyptian Hall, and invited to participate, with the members of St. Andrew's Lodge, their ladies and invited guests, in a sumptuous collation, which was duly enjoyed (we are told) after the manner of Masons.

A magnificent volume has since been issued by St. Andrew's Lodge, giving a full account of the proceedings.

The 130th anniversary of Masonry in Massachusetts was held on December 11th, when the Grand Master, members of the Grand Lodge, and representatives of a great many lodges, assembled to transact the usual business appertaining to the annual meeting.

The Grand Master, in his exhaustive and racy report, informed the brethren that he had devoted much time to the improvement of the library. By gift and exchange over three hundred numbers of Grand Lodge Proceedings had been added, and the whole of the books were now arranged upon the shelves—the States in alphabetical order, and the proceedings of each Grand Lodge chronologically, so that reference may be had to any number without difficulty or delay. The receipts for the year amounted to £26,000, and the expenditure £23,000. The present indebtedness however is about £63,000; but this drawback will soon be wiped out. Since 1867 the liabilities have been reduced by £17,000, and a few years more will witness the final extinction of the debt.

The P.G.M. Cregier of Chicago, on behalf of the Masonic Board of Relief of that city (formed to provide assistance for destitute Masons through the conflagration) returned over £300 to the G.L. of Massachusetts, being that amount more than was required, and sums in like proportions were returned to other jurisdictions. This sum was retained to be distributed by the "Committee on Charity," for the calls for aid in Boston were expected to be more than usually numerous and pressing, in consequence of the great fire, which for a time paralysed their fine city.

The "Freemasons' Monthly Magazine," which has been edited by Bro. C. W. Moore, of Boston, for thirty-one years, having shown signs of languishing, the Grand Master called upon the Craft to sustain it more thoroughly, and we are glad to see that his kind allusion to an old friend has been followed by renewed exertions on its behalf, and an increased patronage.

The number of subscribing brethren in Massachusetts was reported to be 23,125.

On December 12th a Grand Lodge of Instruction was organised, and the work and lectures of the three degrees were exemplified by the three Grand Lecturers, in turn, the other offices being filled by competent brethren.

A stated communication was held on December 27th for the installation of the Grand Officers, when the Grand Master, Bro. Nickerson, was installed as Grand Master for the ensuing year by P.G.M. Gardner, and congratulated upon the remarkable unanimity manifested in his re-election to the high and responsible office he had so well filled and honoured during the past year. The remaining ceremonies were conducted in a most impressive manner. The voting for the Grand Treasurer, R.W. Bro. John McClellan, and the Grand Secretary, R.W. Bro. Charles H. Titus, was unanimous, there not having been an adverse vote. We in England, and the brethren in Massachusetts can mutually congratulate one another on having two most excellent Grand Officers in the persons of our Treasurers and Secretaries. We must not omit to mention that Bro. Rev. C. H. Titus, the Grand Secretary, has done his work well as the editor of the "Proceedings," and is evidently the right brother to hold that responsible and most arduous office in the State of Massachusetts.

Among many beautiful dresses which have been worn at grand festivities this season, few could compare with one in which the Marchioness of Bute appeared at the state concert at Buckingham Palace, which was designed and made expressly for her by Mr. Augustus Ahlborn, of Quadrant House, Regent-street. Garlands of wild flowers charmingly grouped were embroidered on black silk tulle, the effect of which was exceedingly good; while the whole costume was exceedingly appropriate to this month of flowers.—Sunday Times.

SATURDAY, MAY 24, 1873.

ESPECIAL GRAND LODGE.

An especial Grand Lodge was held on Wednesday, at high noon, to record the feelings of grief which Masons feel on the lamented death of the late Past Grand Master, the Earl of Zetland. The Marquess of Ripon, M.W.G.M., presided, and was supported by the Earl of Carnarvon, D.G.M.; J. Fawcett, P.G.M. Durham; R. J. Bayshaw, P.G.M. Essex.

Grand Lodge having been opened with the usual formalities, Grand Secretary said he had received letters apologising for unavoidable absence from Lord Tenterden, and others. He then read the summons calling the Grand Lodge together.

Thereupon, the Grand Master said: Brethren, you have now heard read the summons which explains the reason of our being specially called together on this occasion, and, brethren, I cannot doubt that in directing this especial Grand Lodge to be summoned, I rightly interpreted the feelings of the Craft at large; for knowing well, as I do, the very high estimation in which our late brother, Lord Zetland, was held, and the affectionate regard which was entertained for him throughout the length and breadth of the country, I feel confident that I did not mistake the sentiments of the Craft, when I felt it my duty to call together this especial Grand Lodge for the purpose of giving expression to the feelings of every truly Masonic heart, and placing upon the records of this Grand Lodge our deep sense of the loss which we have all sustained by the death of our Past Grand Master, the Earl of Zetland. Brethren, I need not remind you of the services which Lord Zetland rendered, during his long Masonic career, to the Craft in this country. You will all remember how, for five-and-twenty years, he occupied this throne, and with what zeal, with what impartiality, with what high and honourable feelings he discharged the important functions of Grand Master of English Freemasons. I have, upon so many occasions, since Lord Zetland resigned the office of Grand Master, marked, both in this Grand Lodge, and other assemblages of the Craft, the feelings which you have entertained towards him, and your grateful recollection of his long career as Grand Master, to render it possible for me to doubt for one moment that there is not a brother in this Lodge who is not filled, upon this occasion, with feelings of sincere grief for the great loss which the Craft has just sustained, and who does not feel that that loss is one personal to every one of us; that there has been taken away from us, not only an eminent brother, but one who was, to each of us, almost a personal friend. I, who for many years had the honour—and the high honour, I shall ever esteem it—of being closely associated with Lord Zetland while he was at the head of the Craft, know well the spirit in which he laboured for the interests of Freemasonry. You all know how high and honourable was his character; you all know how utterly incapable he was of acting upon any occasion from any personal or any private motive; you know how much at heart he had the interests of the Craft at large; and it would, indeed, be surprising if, after such a career as his, we had not met together upon this melancholy occasion to associate ourselves with the many hearts—the hearts of his family, of his friends, and of his neighbours—who are now filled with grief for the great loss which we have sustained. Lord Zetland, indeed, lived to a ripe old age, to enjoy the honours which were showered, and justly showered upon him by his Sovereign, his countrymen, and his brethren of the Craft, and I know well that of all those honours there was none which in heart he appreciated more highly than those which were the result of the confidence which for a quarter of a century the brethren of this Grand Lodge were pleased to repose in him. Brethren, it needs no further words from me, I am confident, to secure your unanimous support to the proposal which I am about to make, that we should, by a formal resolution, place upon the records of this Grand Lodge those sentiments of grief for the great loss which we have sustained, and of affectionate recollection of the past services of our noble brother, which animate, I am confident the heart of every man in this lodge, and of every true Mason throughout the country. Brethren, with respect to the form of the resolution which I am about to submit, it has been prepared in accordance with previous precedents, which upon the principles of our ancient fraternity we are always so desirous of following, and on the whole it has appeared to me that it would be, under the circumstances of this case, more in accordance with propriety if I were to ask you now to agree to a formal resolution to be entered upon the records of this Grand Lodge, and instead of asking you to vote an address to the present Earl of Zetland, I were to suggest to you that you should submit to me the duty of communicating to his Lordship the resolution which I trust you will unanimously agree to. Brethren, this resolution, as I have said, in the first place records formally the death of Lord Zetland, in the manner consistent with the precedent which was followed in the case of his late Royal Highness, the Duke of Sussex, and then it proceeds, very briefly and very heartily, to record the feelings with which this Grand Lodge had heard of that melancholy circumstance. His Lordship then read the resolution.

The Earl of Carnarvon:—Most Worshipful Grand Master I have to express to your Lordship my very sincere and hearty thanks for allowing me the great privilege and honour, as I conceive it, of seconding the resolution which you have just now put to the Grand Lodge. I can add very few words indeed to the tribute which your Lordship has so feelingly and eloquently offered to the memory of Lord Zetland. Indeed, it is a case wherein it is hardly necessary; for he lives still in the recollection of almost all whom I see in this Grand Lodge, and feelings are often in these cases better than words. Yet this much I would venture to say, that in the case of those whom the Craft in England elect to rule over them, they look at least for two great conditions—they look for the Masonic qualifications, those attributes and virtues which this Order especially lays stress upon, and which it becomes all of us to know, and they look also to the moral qualities of the man; they look to a high character, they look to integrity, to an unblemished reputation in every estate, and in every condition and phase of social life. And I think these two conditions were most completely fulfilled in the case of our late Grand Master, Lord Zetland. I would add yet another to which your Lordship also alluded, and that is the personal feeling of affection and respect which he who occupies that throne ought also to inspire. On occasions like these, tributes to the memory of those that are gone sometimes seem to have the cold formality of funeral orations; but this is not the case in the present instance. I am satisfied that the feeling here is genuine, and deep-seated. In this great and stately hall in which he was so familiar a person, in which for so many years he played a leading and conspicuous part, he lives, as I have said in the recollection of those who are here present. As I stand speaking, the very tones of his voice, the form of the man, seem to come back to me; and I can remember this, that whatever may have been the differences in Grand Lodge, at any time, he always maintained that high character, that consideration for the feelings of others, that carriage and demeanour which emphatically belonged to him as a great English gentleman, (hear, hear). My Lord, there are, as we all know, great landmarks in the Craft, landmarks which have outlived all the change of time and successive generations, and stand up above the flood of circumstances untouched and unimpaired. When any individual is long connected with the Craft, so associated with the recollections of all who form the Craft as Lord Zetland was, when such an individual passes away we almost are tempted to feel that a landmark also has disappeared: But it is not so; and that I think is the great moral to be drawn on such occasions as this. It is not so. The Order to which we belong and of which we are so justly proud, may be said, like the constitution of this country, to be happy in this, that though it prizes, though it boasts of many great characters, still it is in a certain sense independent of them. The institution lives though the individual may die; and the individual does die, but at the same time in dying he leaves behind him a monument which fortifies and which sheds lustre upon the Order, which is a monument to which others point in future days, the monument of a high character, unstained, unblemished even by the faintest breath or shadow of reproach; and such I venture to say was the monument which Lord Zetland has left behind him. My Lord, I venture to second the motion which you have proposed.

The motion was then put and carried unanimously, and Grand Lodge was formally closed.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

Bro. Samuel Tomkins' reply to the toast of the evening, proposed by Lord Skelmersdale, was as follows:—My Lord and brethren, I thank you heartily for the kindness with which this toast has been proposed, and the enthusiasm with which it has been received. No brother could have argued the case and put the points of this noble charity better before you than our noble Chairman has done; and I do not doubt that when you hear the report of the Secretary, you will be all pleased as I am to find how the great Masonic body, have responded to the imperative claims of this Institution. It is a very great satisfaction that in these days, when Masonry is spreading through the community, our charities maintain so good a position, and no charity a better position than the oldest. It is important that every brother should have strongly impressed upon his mind the duty of exerting himself to keep up the amount of the subscriptions and donations, for we ought never to forget that while Masonry is increasing so rapidly and extensively as it is, the number of our brethren whose children may come upon us for assistance is increasing in equal proportion. Our excellent chairman has set an example which cannot be too carefully followed, of short speeches, and I will not detain you longer from hearing the report of the Secretary, which will be more pleasing to you than my speaking. I thank you heartily, for every officer of the institution, for the kind appreciation you have expressed of their services.

Bro. Little then read the list of subscriptions, giving the number of the lodge subscribing and the total amount subscribed by each lodge as follows:—

Dr. Jabez Hogg, P.G.D. :—The Chairman has entrusted the next toast to my hands. It does not require much to be said in its favour. It is the toast of the "Vice Patrons, Vice-Presidents, Trustees, and Committees of the Institution." These brethren, you are quite aware, fulfil the condition that our Right Worshipful Brother Chairman, thought was in the highest degree, the privilege of brethren united with our body this evening, that of contributing to charities. Charity, as we all know is the highest and most distinguishing attribute of our Order. These brethren having attained the distinguished position of Vice-Patrons, and Vice Presidents of the Institution have fulfilled the conditions the Chairman has imposed us, to support this noble charity. No words of mine are requisite to commend the toast to your notice, and I have the honour to couple with it the name of the most distinguished Vice Patron of the Institution, our Bro. Wm. Winn. (Cheers.) I hope there are many among us this night that are prepared to emulate our Bro. Winn in the noble deeds he has performed for all our Institutions. I give you with all cordiality the toast of "The Patrons, Vice Patrons, Vice Presidents, and Committees of the Institution, and the Health of our Bro. Winn." (Applause.)

Bro. W. Winn :—Lord Skelmersdale and Brethren, I scarcely know how it is my name has been connected with this toast, but as a true and faithful Mason I must do my best to give a response to it which I hope will meet with your acceptance. There are I dare say a thousand and two reasons why every brother should be a Vice-Patron of our Masonic Institution; but it is not my intention to night to trouble you with the thousand reasons, but simply to give you two; the one is, to the bachelor Masons here, and the other is to the married ones. If there is a Mason here who is not married, I say at once, go down to our Institution, see our dear girls, and then if he sees the training that they go through, if he sees the discipline, the education and the moral treatment they undergo under the guidance of the governess, the matron and the teachers of our Institution, he will do his utmost if he is a Freemason, not to leave the school without making himself a Vice-Patron. If he be a married man, by all means let him take his wife with him, then he will have this encouragement. Lady Skelmersdale said to his Lordship on Friday last, when she visited the school with him that she was proud to be the wife of a Freemason. Depend on it, brethren, if you do take your wives there you will have no more Caudle lectures when you get home, no endeavouring to know what the secrets are. Your wife will see for herself; she will see 120 dear girls educated and trained, and that is the true secret of Freemasonry. It is my honour to night to return thanks for the Vice-Patrons. Unfortunately we are but few, but if you would take my advice and go down to see that school, on the next anniversary festival, I feel persuaded every man present at that festival will rise to his feet as a Vice-President to respond when this toast is proposed. (Cheers.) I thank you from my heart for the honour you have done me, and I hope on the next occasion I may see not a few only, but very many rise to their feet to respond to this toast.

The Chairman:—The next toast I have to give you is "The other Masonic Charities and success to them, viz., The Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution and the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys." I do not think I need detain you with any remarks beyond saying that I think the observations I made in giving the toast of the evening apply equally well to those other charities. I have not had the pleasure of seeing the Boys' School; that I hope to see; nor have I seen the Asylum at Croydon; but I have no doubt they are equally well conducted with the Girls' School. I give you therefore "Success to those Institutions," and call upon Bro. Terry, the Secretary of the Benevolent Institution, to respond.

Bro. James Terry, P.G.S.B. Herts:—My Lord and brethren, in rising to respond to the toast of "The other Masonic Charities," I can assure you I do it with vast pleasure, because certainly it is one which must commend itself to the heart and affection of every true Freemason. But, my Lord, there is one thing more especially I would wish to do, and that is to thank the brethren of the Craft for the very large amount of support which during the past year they have extended to the three festivals that have taken place, positively unprecedented in the annals of Masonry. We have had the honour of receiving a sum of nearly £22,000 in one year for the three charities, and I venture to say, my Lord, that in no charitable societies has so large an amount been contributed as for Masonic Institutions generally. Well, my Lord, of course we have received a very large amount, but that simply teaches the Committees of our Institutions that the larger amounts received by them the larger are their responsibilities. I am pleased to inform you that they are rising to a sense of their responsibilities. The Boys' School have added ten more to the number they receive, and the Committee of the Girls' School intend to increase their number by the addition of eight; while with respect to the Benevolent Institution, not only have they made an addition to their number, but they have done what is of very great benefit to the recipients of your bounty, they have made an increase in the amount which the beneficiaries are to receive. I can only hope that as the past has gone on so successfully, as the present is so prosperous a career, the future will be no less so. Those brethren who have not contributed I trust will bethink themselves, during the recess, of the responsibilities imposed on them as Masons, and will in the next year rival the success already obtained by the three institutions. As Masonry is increasing in numbers, so there must be a proportionate increase in the recipients of our charity. I hope and trust we may never have reason to refuse the deserving distressed Masons or their widows assistance from a lack of funds. Let me call upon you, brethren, in the discharge of your Masonic duties, to give the executive the power to do all they possibly can, and rely upon it, so far as they can discharge their duties, nothing will be wanting on their part to render back to you every demand that can be made. In your lodges, and in your provinces, impress upon the brethren the duty they owe to the Craft; increase the activity of the energetic brethren and stir up the stagnant to the responsibilities devolving upon them as Masons.

The Chairman—I am afraid though I am not very lengthy in my speeches you will get tired of hearing me; but this is a toast I could not depute to anyone else viz., "The Health of the Stewards of the Day." I am sure after hearing the Secretary read the Stewards' lists we must all feel how much we owe to the Stewards for the success of that subscription list. We have a long list of Stewards for this festival, and by their aid you must confess the subscription list is a glorious one. I believe it has never been beaten, and as a slight return to the Stewards, I beg you will drink their health.

Bro. J. B. Monckton, P.G.D.; Right Worshipful Sir and brethren, I regret extremely the absence of our chairman Col. Burdett this evening, which is caused by a horseback accident, the duty of responding to this toast falls upon me. I shall take a leaf of his lordship's book, and be exceedingly brief, and shall simply thank you very much for your kind recognition of our services.

Bro. W. Platt, G.J.W.—Brethren, by the command of our noble Chairman I am entrusted with the last, but certainly not the least important toast, "The Health of the Ladies," whose presence on this auspicious occasion has shed a lustre and imparted a charm and grace to all around us. Who is there among us who has not experienced their gentle influence? In the hour of sickness their hand tenderly supports the drooping head; in the hour of adversity they smooth the brow of care and bind up the broken heart. Whether as mother, wife, daughter, or sister, they are upon all occasions our ministering angels. I am proud to be their humble representative, and invite you to drink their health; but before doing so, I would give you the estimate which a Northern poet had of them.

"Auld nature swears the lovely dears
Her noblest work she classes, O;
Her 'prentice han' she tried on man,
And then she made the lasses, O.

To this toast I shall call on Bro. Rucker to respond.

Bro. J. A. Rucker: It is traditionally reported that when the late Lord Brougham was placed in a somewhat similar position to myself, he expressed a difficulty to understand whether it was in consequence of his youth, his beauty, or his innocence. Whether that question was ever solved or not I do not know, and without a better solution I shall rest myself upon my own innocence, and the innocence of the ladies. I will elevate myself to their level, and address my response to you in the first person plural, instead of the first person singular. But before doing so, I think I should be wanting in my duty to you, and in my duty to a lady who is not here present to-night, if I did not express our thanks for the great honour Lady Skelmersdale did to this Institution by being present at the School last Friday. I do not know whether Lady Skelmersdale will be angry with his lordship for mentioning it, but we are exceedingly indebted to her, and pleased and delighted by the expression she made use of upon that occasion. Brethren, you have thanked us for our attendance. On the contrary, we feel it is our duty to thank you individually for giving us the opportunity of being here, and and we thank especially the Ladies' Stewards for the attention they have paid us; we thank you for the music you have given us, and we particularly thank you for the honour you have done us in drinking our health.

The brethren then joined the ladies in the Temple, where a grand concert was given, under the direction of Bro. Wilhelm Ganz, Grand Organist. The artistes were Madame Florence Lancia, Miss Emily Muir, Miss Lucy Franklein, Bro. George Perren, Bro. Thomas Baxter, Bro. Carter, Bro. J. G. Patey, Mr. Edward Lloyd, Bro. Caravoglia, Mdlle. Vittoria de Bona, and Bro. Lehmeier.

The banquet was well supplied by Bro. C. E. Francatelli, and Bro. Goodchild was toast-master.

INTERESTING MASONIC PRESENTATIONS IN LIVERPOOL.

At the usual monthly meeting of the Temple Lodge, No. 1094, held at the Masonic Temple, Liverpool, on Wednesday evening, 14th ult., two presentations of a deeply interesting character were made to brethren who have done good service to the lodge. Being an occasion of more than ordinary interest, there was a good muster of the brethren of No. 1094, along with several influential visitors. The first presentation was made to Bro. Joseph Wood, who, for seven years, since the consecration of the Lodge, has fulfilled the duties of Honorary Treasurer in a manner at once satisfactory to every brother, and calculated to promote the highest and best interests of the Lodge. The second was made to Bro. Richard Danson, the I.P.M. of the Temple Lodge, who, both as a brother of the Order, and also as the architect of the Masonic Hall, in Liverpool, now in course of erection, has fairly and fully earned the compliment paid to him on this occasion. The chair of K.S. was occupied by Bro. R. R. Martin, W.M., the officers and brethren present being Bros. R. Danson, I.P.M.; J. Kellett Smith, P.M.; Thos. Gibson, S.W.; R. Washington, J.W.; J. Wood, Treas.; Thos. Marsh, P.M., Sec.; J. F. Jeffery, S.D.; R. C. Yelland, J.D.; A. Jarvis, S.; P. Ball, Tyler; Dr. J. Speir; J. Hamer, P.P.G. Treas.; T. S. Williams, H. Hocpool, T. Birch, — Lovatt, J. Drew, W. Dixon, C. Leighton, H. Jones, E. Chater, E. Howell, and others. Amongst the visitors were Bro. J. Skeaf, P.G.O.; C. H. Hill, 1276; J. Ellis, 186; T. Jackson, 1264; J. Hargraves, 203; S. J. King, 960, and others.

After the Lodge had been opened, and the minutes of the previous meeting duly confirmed, one candidate was initiated, and five passed to the degree of F.C. in a highly effective manner by the W.M. and I.P.M. Danson. Calling Bro. Wood to the front, Bro. Martin, W.M., in the name of the Lodge, presented him with a very handsome gold snuff box and a chaste jewel of a highly attractive character. In doing so, the W.M. alluded, in a feeling manner, to the valuable services which Bro. Wood had rendered to the Lodge in his capacity of Hon. Treasurer during the seven years he had held that office, and expressed the great satisfaction and pleasure it gave him in being honoured in making the presentation to a much respected officer. The box, which is exceeding massive and elaborately chased, bore the following inscription, which was surrounded by the symbolic keys and square, and compasses.—"Presented by the Members of the Temple Lodge, No. 1094, to Bro. Joseph Wood, Treasurer, 14th May, 1873." The jewel, which is intended for a watch appendage, is made of 18 carat gold, and is remarkably striking in its design, combining, in an artistic manner, the square and compasses, and Treasurer's key, while at the top is a pure diamond set in the centre of the mystic "G," the whole being richly chased. The jewel bore the same inscription at the back as the snuff box.

Bro. Wood, in acknowledging the gifts, said: Worshipful Master, Brother Officers, and Brethren, I have not sufficient language at my command to thank you, in the way I should desire, for the honour which you have conferred upon me to-night. For the seven years during which you have honoured me with your confidence as your Treasurer, I have endeavoured, to the best of my ability, to do my duty. At the same time, I have received that perfect confidence and good feeling from every member of the lodge, which have always made it a pleasure rather than the performance of a duty. For the handsome present you have been pleased to make me this evening, I thank you sincerely, and I assure you it is one which will be treasured by me so long as I shall be spared. The general kindly bearing and confidence of the brethren have always made my work pleasant, and I have some little pride in saying I have never missed a single night when duty required my attendance at your lodge. W.M. and brethren, I again thank you sincerely for the handsome present you made me.

The W.M. afterwards presented Bro. Danson with a handsome P.M.'s jewel, and in doing so spoke in eloquent terms of his many excellent qualities.

Bro. Danson briefly thanked the W.M. and brethren for their kindness, spoke of his being connected with the lodge since its beginning, assured everyone that he had, to the best of his ability, endeavoured to perform his duty in whatever position he was placed, and would strive in the future to make any amends for past shortcomings.

During the evening, on the motion of Bro. P.M. Marsh, seconded by Bro. R. Washington, J.W., the lodge unanimously agreed to the recommendation that Bro. Danson should be made a Life Governor of the West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution, the necessary amount being furnished from the "charity-box," which has already done good work in this respect on many previous occasions.

The brethren, after business, sat down to an excellent banquet.

CONSECRATION OF A NEW MARK LODGE AT ROCK FERRY.

That this degree is making good progress in Cheshire cannot be doubted, for little more than a month has elapsed since the Provincial Grand Mark Lodge of Cheshire and North Wales was established, under the rule of Bro. the Hon. Wilbraham Egerton, M.P., the present W.M., of the Joppa Mark Lodge, No. 11, Birkenhead, and on Monday, the 12th inst., a new Mark Lodge was consecrated at the Rock Ferry Hotel, the first new one under Bro. Egerton's jurisdiction, and bearing his name.

The Egerton Lodge, No. 165, was formed by those who some four years ago inaugurated the Craft Lodge at Rock Ferry, now thriving so well, and there can be little doubt that the new Mark Lodge will be equally successful.

It was a matter of great regret that owing to a very important engagement, the D.P.G.M., Bro. the Rev. C. W. Spencer Stanhope, who had been appointed by the M.W.G.M.M. to perform the ceremonies, was unable to be present, but a very able substitute was there in the person of Bro. W. Romaine Callender, R.W.P.G.M.M. of Lancashire. He was supported by the following Provincial Officers of Cheshire and North Wales: Bros. Rev. J. W. Newell Tanner, P.G. Chaplain; Wm. Bulley, P.J.G.W.; R. Newhouse, P.G. Sec.; Thos. Platt, P.G. Treas.; Jos. Sillitoe, P.G.S.O.; Capt. Watson, P.G.J.O.; E. Friend, P.G.D.C.; Geo. Higgins, P.G.S.B.; J. S. Mort, P.G.P.; Thos. Kent, J. Heap, G. H. Wilson, P. Grand Stewards; and John Worthington, P.G. Tyler.

Among the visitors were Bros. J. P. Platt, P.P.G.M.O., Lancashire; Tysilio Johnson and J. M. Radcliffe, of the Joppa Lodge, No. 11.

The Mark Lodge was opened in due form by Bro. F. K. Stevenson, P.M. 11, P.G.S.D., and Bro. Callender and Officers admitted, and greeted with the usual honours.

Bro. Callender then proceeded to consecrate and constitute the Egerton Lodge of Mark Masons, according to ancient form, after which he installed Bro. Friend in the chair, who received the customary salutes.

The W.M. then appointed and invested his officers, Bro. S. Spratly, M.D., being unanimously elected Treasurer, and Bro. Holtoway, Tyler. Bros. F. K. Stevenson, S.W.; R. H. Moore, J.W.; Lilley Ellis, Sec.; Spratly, Treas.; G. H. Wilson, M.O.; F. L. Bolton, S.O.; Alex. Low, J.O.; J. W. Paton, M.D., S.D.; Stanton, J.D.; Sanderson, I.G.; Holtoway, Tyler.

Bro. Tysilio Johnson was elected an honorary member. A cordial vote of thanks was then recorded on the minutes to the R.W. Bro. Callender, for his extreme kindness in coming at great inconvenience to perform the ceremonies, also to the Rev. C. W. Spencer Stanhope, for his present of a handsome bible.

Several brethren were proposed for advancement, and the P.G.M.M. and officers then withdrew. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren dined together. Bro. Friend, W.M., presided, and was supported by Bro. Callender, and the other Provincial officers and brethren. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were heartily responded to, and the brethren separated at an early hour, after a most harmonious meeting.

Red Cross of Constantine.

The interesting and imposing ceremonies of inaugurating, dedicating, and installing the officers of a new conclave of the Imperial Ecclesiastical, and Military Order of Knights of the Red Cross of Constantine and Rome, and K.H.S., under the title of Saxa Rubra Conclave, No. 69, were performed on Tuesday evening last, in the elegant rooms of Dr. Witt Clinton Commandery, No. 27, Brooklyn, under the auspices and by the authority of Sir Albert G. Goodall, 33°, Most Illustrious Grand Sovereign of the State.

After the ceremonies of inaugurating and dedicating the conclave, the following officers and members were installed and constituted in ample form, with full power to do and perform all proper and lawful acts thereunto belonging:—E. Sir Robert Macoy, Grand Recorder of the State Conclave, First Sovereign; Charles Aikman, First Viceroy; J. Anson Foster, G. W. Gritman, John Z. Johnson, Erskine H. Dickey, Robert P. Lethbridge, Charles H. Peck, James D. Kingsland, Caleb A. Eairy, and Joseph L. Edwards.

The charter, authorizing the establishment of this conclave, emanates from the Grand Imperial Council at London, the Right Hon. the Earl of Bective, Grand Sovereign.

This ancient and chivalric Order of Constantine having for many years enjoyed the patronage and protection of the most distinguished members of the Masonic body, the Grand Mastership having been held for many years, and up to the time of his death, by the Duke of Sussex. None but Knights Templar are admitted to membership in this country.—New York Dispatch.

MANCHESTER.—County Palatine Conclave (No. 50).—The meeting of this conclave took place on Saturday, the 17th inst., at Freemasons' Hall. The chair of C. was occupied by Ill. Sir Knt. C. Fitzgerald Matier, P.S., in the absence of Ill. Sir Knt. W. Romaine Callender, M.P.S., who was unfortunately prevented by illness from being present. E. Sir Knt. Hargreaves discharged the duties of V.E. Among the other Sir Knts. present were Thomas Entwistle, P.S.; J. B. Robinson, Liverpool Conclave, and others. Bros. J. M. Beaton, and John Duffield, having been approved of, were received as Knights of Rome, and afterwards dubbed Knights of the Red Cross. Sir Knt. Hargreaves was then elected as M.P.S., for the ensuing year, and Sir Knt. Duffield as V.E. A college of Viceroys was then opened, and Sir Knt. Duffield was placed in the chair of E. by Sir Knt. Matier. The duties of High Prelate were most efficiently discharged by Sir Knt. Entwistle. All Viceroys having retired, a Senate of Sovereigns was then formed, and Sir Knt. Hargreaves was installed in the supreme chair with the accustomed solemnities, and saluted with the mystic number. On the conclave being resumed in the first grade, Sir Knt. Matier presented the warrant to the M.P.S. It was then resolved the installation fee should be raised to two guineas, and the subscription to one guinea. Several apologies were then read, and propositions made, after which the conclave was closed with the usual ceremony. The Knights Companions afterwards partook of the cup of cheerfulness, when the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and heartily responded to. We have every reason to believe that this conclave will be worked in a most efficient manner, and that with the assistance and support of the Past Sovereigns, the M.P.S. may look forward to a most prosperous term of office.

Masonic Tidings.

The Fifteen Sections will be worked in the New Concord Lodge of Instruction, held at Bro. Gabb's, Rosemary Branch Tavern, Hoxton, on the first Wednesday in June, by Bro. Austin, W.M. of the Doric Lodge, No. 933, and other brethren. Business to commence at 7 p.m. precisely. Brethren of other lodges are respectfully invited.

Bro. T. W. Boord has been introduced to the Conservative electors of Greenwich as a candidate in that interest for the representation of the borough.

Multum in Parvo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

THE ST. CLAIR CHARTERS.

In a communication which appeared in the Freemason of June 8, 1872, Bro. Chalmers Izett Paton gave copies of the St. Clair Charters, which he alleged to be "from Hay's MSS. in the Advocates' Library." On March 29, 1873, I published through the same medium a note on the subject, which is here reproduced to enable the reader to judge whether its tone is either unmasonic or unbecoming, as Bro. Paton alleges:— "These copies, minus the copyist's or printers' errors which they contain, appeared to me at the time to be a literal transcript of the copies from the originals made by myself for the 'History of the Lodge of Edinburgh (Mary's Chapel),' and published in the Freemason of August 27, 1870. I have since examined the Hay MS., and I am confirmed in that opinion. The document given by Bro. Paton is not a copy made from the Hay MS. It differs considerably from it in orthography, in abbreviations, and in the arrangement and rendering of some of the signatures, and is simply a copy of my transcript of the originals published two years ago. I had previously, through the Freemason informed Bro. Paton of the existence of the original Charters—a fact of which he was ignorant. If Bro. Paton was unable to decipher the original Hay MSS., he should not have palmed off my transcription of the original charters as copies of them, nor should he have appropriated my work in any case without the courtesy of acknowledgment."

Bro. Paton has published in the Freemason of April 26, a rambling statement in which after indulging his taste for personalities, he in the most ungraceful manner pleads guilty to the charge of having published my transcripts of the original charters as bona fide copies of these documents from the Hay MS. He says, "I preferred to send printed copies rather than take the trouble of transcribing them, and I do not hesitate to say I cut them out of the Freemason, instead of cutting them as I might have done, out of a valuable book." In other words he deliberately presented to the Craft copies of the originals, representing them to be transcripts of the St. Clair Charters from the Hay MSS.

It will be readily admitted that it is of importance to the history of Freemasonry that copies of ancient documents should be honest transcripts of what they purport to be; and it is therefore less upon personal grounds than from a regard to historical accuracy, that I impeach Bro. Paton for deliberately publishing as a copy of a particular document, what is in reality the transcript of another and different document.

Bro. Paton denies my statement that he was ignorant of the existence of the original charter till I informed him of the fact through the Freemason. His ignorance in this respect was communicated by himself in the Freemason of July 30th, 1870, where he says:—"I frankly admit that I was not aware that the originals of these charters were known to be in existence, and I would feel greatly obliged to Bro. D. M. Lyon or any one else for any information where they are to be found, as I would be glad to take the first possible opportunity of examining them. The copies made by the industrious Father Hay, and now to be found in one of the volumes of MSS. in the Advocates' Library, alone seem to have been known to the historians of Freemasonry, and other writers on the subject to the present time." The information asked by Bro. Paton I gave through the Freemason of August 27th, 1870. And now, in 1873, Bro. Paton, forgetful of what he himself had written, and to wriggle out a difficulty in which he had placed himself, declares that copies of the originals had been published many years ago—first in Hay's 'Genealogies,' and also in Laurie's 'History of Freemasonry'—and that he himself had seen the originals long before I had heard of them. I forbear from characterising conduct like this.

Will Bro. Paton have the goodness to give the name of the person who borrowed the original charters from Professor Aytoun, and state whether it was before or after he himself became a mason that he saw them in the hands of the alleged borrower. Bro. Paton's statement that the St. Clair Charters in possession of the Grand Lodge are "merely drafts," is a specimen, of the way in which he does not scruple to deal with historical documents to suit his own purposes. It is not usual for the autographs of parties, and attestations by notaries public, to be admitted to "mere drafts."

It is a curious and somewhat inexplicable fact that whereas the Hay copies of the St. Clair Charters are, like the originals, without date, the copies of the second charter which are given in Laurie's 'History of Freemasonry,' published in 1804, and Father Hay's 'Genealogies of the Saintclairs of Rosslyn,' published in 1835, bears the date "Ed., 1630." This and other facts in connection with the Hay MSS., I have referred to in my History of the Lodge of Edinburgh.

D. MURRAY LYON.

P.S.—Since the above was written, I have received a communication from James Maidment, Esq., advocate, Edinburgh, the learned editor of the "Genealogies of the St. Clairs," in which he states his impression that he copied the date from Laurie's 'History.' That seems to fix on Laurie the onus of interpolating a date into the second charter.

D. M. L.

[Having inserted Bro. Lyon's answer to the explanation offered by Bro. Paton, (which was a reply to the statements made by the former brother respecting the "St. Clair Charters" sent by Bro. Paton, as copies from the originals, we must now close the correspondence. We cannot afford our numerous subscribers the necessary space to express their opinions of the worth of Bro. D. Murray Lyon, and of his devotion to Freemasonry, for the sufficient reason that their communication would occupy the whole of our columns for one week. We all know that Bro. Lyon's fame as a Masonic Historian is world wide.—ED. F. M.)]

SOUTH LONDON MASONIC HALL.

For a long time Freemasons in South London have very justly complained that they had no regular place in which to hold their meetings, but were forced to resort to public-houses—a course attended with many serious disadvantages. The brethren have at last made decided efforts to obtain a hall exclusively for Masonic purposes. When the scheme was first mooted, now little better than 12 months ago, owing to some mistake made as to the amount of capital necessary to be subscribed, but little support was given; but this defect having been remedied, the affair has been brought to a successful issue, and a company formed, with a capital of £3,000, in 600 shares of £5 each.

The object of the company is to provide a building specially adapted to the requirements of Masonic lodges, chapters, and conclaves, held in the South Metropolitan district, and in connection with this building there will be a large hall for the general use of the public, when it is not engaged for Masonic purposes. A most favourable site has been secured for the erection of the building. It is situated in the Camberwell New-road, between the Post-Office and County Court, close to the station of the London Chatham, and Dover Railway Company, and to the tramways from Brixton, Vauxhall, Westminster, Blackfriars, Peckham, and Greenwich. The site possesses a frontage of about 70 feet, with a depth of 150 feet, and it has been secured for a term of 99 years, at a very low ground-rent. The plans have been prepared by a well-known architect and member of the Craft, and embrace every improvement and convenience that long experience could suggest.

The front of the building in the Camberwell New-road will be of red brick, faced with stone dressings. The large hall will be approached by a corridor leading from the vestibule. It will be 54ft. by 37ft. by 26ft., and at one end will have a raised platform, and at the back of this a small room, 15ft. 6in. by 10ft. Here there will be every accommodation for dressing, &c., so that the hall will be eminently adapted for amateur dramatic performances, and similar entertainments.

The size of the lodge-room is to be 28ft. by 22ft. by 13ft. It will be fitted in the most approved Masonic style, and in strict accordance with the rules of the craft, every attention being given to that detail which characterises a well-appointed lodge-room. In communication with this will be a reading-room, 18ft. 9in. by 13ft. by 13ft., fitted with a small library, and well supplied with papers and magazines. On the opposite side of the building the dining-room is to be situated. In size it will be 32ft. by 18ft. 9in. by 13ft., plainly but comfortably fitted. In connection with it will be a board-room, 18ft. 9in. by 11ft. by 10ft., for the transaction of Masonic business. The basement storey is to contain the most modern and perfect cooking appliances, as well a range of wine cellars and larders. The whole building will have excellent lavatory and water-closet accommodation, and in connection with the lodge-room there will be a well-fitted retiring and an ante-room.

Although the chief object of the company is to promote the good of Freemasonry, the directors seem not to have lost sight of the important fact that it is necessary to study the shareholders from a commercial point of view, so that their investments may give a fair return. Estimates have therefore been carefully prepared, and it is found that the annual expenditure for ground rent, taxes, gas, coals, and sundries, will amount to about £200; the estimated annual receipts from lodges, chapters, lodges of instruction, conclaves, &c., including rent of wine cellars, about £220; and from rental of hall for concerts, public meetings, &c., about £300.

The hall will be capable of accommodating about 700 persons, and the cost, including the spacious Masonic rooms, furnishing, &c., is estimated at from £2,500 to £3,000, so that if the expectations as to receipts are realised—and there is every reason to believe they will be—the concern should pay 10 per cent. interest on the capital. This may fairly be taken as the minimum, for a good hall for theatrical and other purposes is so much needed in South London, that public lettings alone should return a very handsome per centage. A more favourable site could scarcely have been selected, being as it is in the heart of the southern district, and easily accessible from all parts. In erecting the building great attention is to be given to drainage and ventilation, while every room will be well lighted and amply supplied with water.

Among the directors of the company are Bros. E. Worthington, P.M., P.Z., of Loughborough Park (chairman), and John Thomas, P.M., P.Z., of Denmark-street, Camberwell (deputy chairman); M. S. Larham, York-street, Walworth; E. Pinder, M.D., Wilby Lodge, Camberwell; North Ritherdon, Wellington-road, West Hackney; James Adley Reeves, Gresham Park, Brixton; Wm. Ramsey, Farringdon-street; George Kenning, Upper Sydenham. The bankers are the London and County Bank, and the solicitor, Bro. Percival A. Nairne, P.M., P.Z., of Grove Hill, Camberwell.

The offices of the company are 47, Leipzig-road, Camberwell. From the very large amount of support the movement is receiving from the craft, it may safely be predicted that the Surrey Masonic Hall will soon become a flourishing South London Institution.—South London Press.

"THE INITIATE'S WELCOME."

BY BRO. WILLIAM CARPENTER, P.M., P.Z.

Welcome brother! Well we greet thee!
Partaker of our mystic lore,
The gate of knowledge ope's before thee,
And, oh, how plentiful the store.

Linger not upon the threshold,
For nothing there canst thou acquire,
But onward press, nor pause a moment;
Let Truth and Virtue thee inspire.

The mystic pillars stand before thee,
The triad—Wisdom, Strength, and Beauty,—
To lure thee onward in the path
Of self-devoted duty.

To God we'll give our hearts and lives,
To man ungrudging aid;
And rise to that Grand Lodge above,
Where He who all things made
Lives and reigns for ever!

Obituary.

BRO. THOMAS PRINGLE.

With sincere regret for the death of a good man, much esteemed and respected of all other men, we record the decease of Mr. Thomas Pringle, at Donoghue's, in the Ross District, New Zealand, on the 7th March. He was one of the early business men located in Hokitika, where he carried on trade for some time before he removed to the Totara. In Hokitika he was ever ready to assist in any movement for the good of his fellow men, and, being a Freemason, he took an active interest in the formation of a Masonic Lodge here in the early days. He was one of the founders of the Pacific Lodge, and remained a member to the last. More lately, when a Royal Arch Chapter was formed in Hokitika he became a Companion. His funeral was therefore conducted with Masonic ceremonial. The body was removed from Donoghue's in funeral procession early in the morning, and being brought to the Masonic Hall was placed there for the usual exhortations at the death of a brother. The lodge having been opened in due form, the brethren were called off to assist in the ceremony for which they had assembled. The funeral cortege was headed by a band playing the "Dead March in Saul." The members of the Pacific Lodge (of which the deceased was a member) followed, the Entered Apprentices first, then the Fellow Crafts, and then the Master Masons. The Kilwinning Lodge joined with the Pacific Lodge, and the officers of the two lodges followed after the members. These were succeeded by the officers of the District Grand Lodge, the Royal Arch Masons, and the three Principals of the Chapter; Comp. Lazar, D.G.M., and Past Z., acting as Chief Principal. The hearse followed with four brothers as pallbearers, then the chief mourners, and after them the general public on foot, on horseback, and in carriages. Comp. Osborne marshalled the Masonic portion of the procession, which was one of the largest of the kind that has taken place in Hokitika. At the grave, after the church service was performed by the Rev. Mr. Kirkland, Bro. Lazar read the beautiful Masonic service most impressively. The brethren then returned in procession to the lodge. We may mention that Bro. Hudson, as W.M. of the Pacific Lodge, took a very active part in the Masonic ceremony, and was very ably assisted by his officers.

BRO. EDWARD TUNBRIDGE.

On Tuesday, April 22nd, Bro. Edward Tunbridge died at Alkham, near Dover, the residence of his father, aged 57. He had (returned for the benefit of his health) to England, from Port Elizabeth, Cape of Good Hope, after an absence of 30 years. He was a member of the Lodge of Goodwill, No. 711, to which he had subscribed 13 years. He was a good and affectionate husband and father. His death will be mourned by a large circle of relations and friends, in England and Port Elizabeth.

BRO. JOHN PRIDHAM.

The funeral of this much-esteemed and highly respected citizen of Exeter took place on Saturday morning, at the Cemetery, before a goodly number of spectators. The funeral cortege, which consisted of a hearse and three mourning coaches, left the residence of the deceased shortly after half-past nine o'clock. All along the route shutters were up and blinds drawn, as a mark of respect towards the deceased. He was a Freemason, in which Order he took high honours, and by the members of the fraternity he was highly esteemed. The following members of the Order, who wore sprigs of acacia and white gloves, attended the remains of the deceased to the grave:—Bros. S. Jones, P.P.G.S.D., 112; Brewster, P.P.G.R., P.M., 39; H. W. Hooper, P.M., 1,254; W. Easton, P.G.S.W., 39; J. Moas, W.M. elect, 1,284; Way, P.P.G.T., 39; Dand, P.G.S.B., 39; T. Gardner, P.G.S., 39; J. Tucker, P.M., 1,254; Bailey, W.M., 444; W. Hugo, W.M., 1,254; G. Heath, P.M., 371; Wills, P.M., 1,284; J. Heath, Totnes, P.M., 710; J. Northam, B.L;

371; G. H. Warren, S.W., 1,254; Paine, S.D., 1,284; E. A. Northey, Plymouth, J.W., 1,205; C. C. Kendrick, S.D.; G. Huxham, T.; B. Barbor, S.; J. Badcock, W. G. Carter, C. Langdon, 1,254; H. F. Willey, Hutchings, H. J. Yelland, T. Lascelles, J. Taylor, E. Smale, Hooper, W. Bartlett, Blacking, A. H. Wills, S. Bastard, 1,284; S. C. Halse, J. Stile, T. Chudleigh, J. Algar, H. Cross, Sturgess, H. Lake, Lang, George Jury, Long, Vicary, Bridge, 39; W. R. Commings, 54; R. Pidsley, 640; Sobey, C. Titherley, Robinson, 106; J. Hill, 164; O. Angel, 710; R. Rouse, Serena, 1,284; and Bradshaw, Leghorn Lodge. Following these were Messrs. W. J. Richards, Birkett, Sclater, Limpenny, 2; Cowen, Rowdon, N. Bennett, G. Ward, Lisle, Mitchell, Savage, Reed, Kenshole, Yeo, W. Humphreys, S. Cross, Gill, Underhill, Henley, Turner, Carthew, Barker, Melhuish, Sampson, W. Norris, Perkins, J. Huxham, F. Pollard, H. Bennett, T. Day, Dr. Coxwell, Nosworthy, Moon, Uglow, Furze, Templar, and others. Then followed the hearse and mourning coaches. In the first coach were:—Mr. Southcott, sen., Mr. Robert Southcott, Mr. G. Southcott, and Mr. Pridham, (nephew of the deceased). Second coach—Mr. W. Southcott, Mr. Richard Southcott, Mr. Henry Southcott, and Mr. Toby. Third coach—the two executors: Messrs. Harrison (Topsham), and Carr (Exeter), and Dr. Hunt. The outer coffin was made of polished oak and panelled, with plated breast-plate, which bore the following inscription:—"John Pridham. Died May 5th, aged 45." On the plate were also three Masonic emblems, and on the top of the coffin were white camellias, and the cross of a Past Eminent Commander of Knights Templar, the gift of W. R. Woodman, P.M. At the grave the Freemasons threw their sprigs of acacia on the coffin. The Rev. J. L. Galton, Rector of St. Sidwell's, conducted the ceremony in a most impressive manner. Mr. J. Kenshole, of Heavitree, was the undertaker, and carried out his arrangements very satisfactorily. Messrs. West and Pedrick supplied the mourning coaches.

THE NEW GRAND OFFICERS.

We have received the following from a correspondent:—
Bro. Rev. Robert Paul Bent, the new Grand Chaplain, was initiated in the Alfred Lodge, Oxford, No. 340, in 1849. In 1865, he was W.M. of the Lodge of Unanimity, No. 102, at North Walsham, and in the same year, and in 1866 was Prov. G. Chaplain of Norfolk, preaching twice to the Provincial Grand Lodge, in 1865 at Great Yarmouth, in 1866 at East Dereham. In the latter year he served the office of Steward of the Boys' School, representing the province of Norfolk. At the present time he is best-known in the province of Norths and Hunts, where he is frequently called upon to perform the office of Installing Master. His Masonic services came under the personal observation of the Grand Secretary, Bro. Hervey, at a Prov. G. Lodge at Peterborough a few years ago; hence probably his name being placed on the list of brethren eligible for the office of Grand Chaplain. Bro. Bent has been for the last few years a subscribing member of No. 10, Westminster and Keystone. He is the son of Bro. Major John Bent, an old Peninsular officer, who is probably one of the oldest Masons in England, having completed his 91st year on the 24th ult., and who entered both the Army and the Craft at the very beginning of the present century.

ADAIR HOUSE.—This freehold mansion of the Adair family, situate in Pall Mall and St. James's-square, was, after a very spirited competition, sold by Messrs. Rushworth, Abbott, and Co. for the sum of £35,500.

SEDABENT.—The only guaranteed cure for Toothache. This extraordinary application, marvellous in its effects, gives immediate relief, without injuring the tooth, and forms a temporary stopping, is sold post free 1s. 3d. The CORALINE TOOTH PASTE, for cleansing and improving the teeth, imparts a natural redness to the gums, and gives brilliancy to the enamel. Price 1s. 6d. The ROYAL DENTIFRICE, prepared from a recipe as used by her Majesty, gives the teeth a pearl-like whiteness, and imparts a delicious fragrance to the breath. Price 1s. 6d. Sold by all chemists and perfumers and by the proprietors, MESSRS. GABRIEL, the old-established Dentists, 72, Ludgate-hill, and 56, Harley-street, Cavendish-square, London.

OUR RAILWAYS.—Captain Tyler, in his report to the Board of Trade upon the capital, the traffic, and the working expenditure of the Railway Companies in the United Kingdom during the year 1871, remarks that the train mileage receipts increased to a greater extent than the expenses; and hence it may be inferred that the average amount of work done by each train was greater, or, in other words, that the traffic in each country was in that respect more economically worked in 1871 than in 1870. This economy was greatest in England and least in Ireland.

PEACE CONFERENCE IN SCOTLAND.—A conference of delegates from trades and other societies in Scotland, representing a constituency of 116,000 men, was held in Glasgow, on Monday last, in connection with the Workmen's Peace Association. Resolutions were adopted condemning war, and approving of the plan proposed by the Workmen's Peace Association, of a High Court of Nations for the settlement of all disputes between nations. A Committee, entitled the Scottish Department of the Workmen's Peace Association, was appointed. A memorial to the House of Commons in favour of Mr. Henry Richard's motion upon international arbitration was adopted.

CROSBY'S
BAL SAMIC

COUGH

DISEASES OF THE
LUNGS AND AIR-VESSELS.
CROSBY'S

BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsey, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.

* * * Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had Gratis of all Chemists.

YOUNG'S ARNICATED CORN AND BUNION PLAISTERS are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d. and 1s. per box. May be had of most chemists. Observe the trade mark.—HY—without which none are genuine be sure and ask for YOUNG'S.

WHITMORE'S STOMACHIC DINNER PILLS.

No Pill is so efficacious in promoting digestion, strengthening the Stomach, correcting acidity, preventing or removing Headache, Giddiness, &c. arising from a Costive Habit, Debilitated Stomach or Torpid Liver.

They require no change of diet, and those of the most delicate constitution can take them with safety.
Taken as an adjunct with Wilkinson's Sarsaparilla with the greatest success.

SARSAPARILLA.

WILKINSON'S ESSENCE, OR FLUID

EXTRACT OF RED JAMAICA SARSAPARILLA, prescribed by the Faculty for Purifying the Blood, Debility, Liver Complaints, and freeing the system from effects of Mercury. Exclusively used in India and the Colonies as a prevention to Tropical diseases.

"Superior preparations that may always be relied upon."—Sir Astley Cooper.

"We are in every respect satisfied with it."—Lancet.

"We recommend yours as the best."—Medical Review.

In Quarter, Half, and Pint Bottles.

CAUTION.—Spurious and injurious preparations are offered to the public. See that Bottle and Label have the name and Address, "T. Wilkinson, late Wilkinson, Bridge, and Co., No. 270, Regent-street, London."

QUINTESENCE OF JAMAICA GINGER

and CAMOMILE.
WILKINSON'S Preparation of Ginger and Camomile has long been deservedly known as an excellent domestic medicine. It is a most efficacious Stomachic Tonic, and the best remedy for Flatulency and disorders arising from impaired digestion, and is not affected by climate.

No European in India or tropical climates should be without it. In one-eighth, quarter, and half-pint bottles.

GRAND MASTER'S LODGE (No. 1)—On Monday May 19th, a jewel of exquisite design and workmanship was presented to Bro. William Sutton Gover, P.M. No. 1, P.P. of the Board of Grand Stewards and J. of St. James's Chapter, for his excellent working and zealous exertions for the elevation and improvement of the lodge. W. M. Wilkin, pointed out that [two similar jewels only had been presented by the lodge during the last 45 years. The jewel was presented to Bro. Gover, in appreciation of his unwearied endeavours to improve the working of the lodge more especially during his Mastership and Past Mastership. He trusted that Bro. Gover, would live long retaining the esteem and regard of all the brethren. Bro. Gover, said they were proud of their lodge for its antiquity and rank, and on account of the illustrious Masons who had been members of that lodge, likewise of the Grand Officers, and many eminent brethren who were members. That they all felt that the working of the lodge should be of such a character as to set an example to the Craft, that the loss of that good man and great Mason, Mr. Secretary Potter, had stimulated his own endeavours to this end in which he had been most ably assisted by the W.M., P. M. Trego, S. W. Colls, and J. W. Payne. That it was important that the ceremonies should be well performed so that the sublime and beautiful ritual might inculcate Masonic principles in the most impressive way; that Masonry was not a toy, an amusement, or a profession, but a life. The Masonic life was lived when brotherly love, relief, and truth were manifested in the every-day lives of the brethren. He felt deeply touched by this spontaneous recognition of services rendered which to him had been a pleasant labour of love, and the value of that beautiful jewel was enhanced by its indicating the high esteem of that lodge, the Mother Lodge of England, and while as a recognition of the past it was most grateful to him, as a stimulus in the future it would be most powerful. Thanking the brethren and wishing that the Grand Old Lodge might flourish for ever, he resumed his seat amid the plaudits of the brethren.

DARTFORD.—Lodge of Emulation (No. 299).—The annual meeting of this old lodge was held at Bro. Bray's, the Bull Hotel, Dartford, on Tuesday, the 20th inst., when Bro. J. G. Tyler was installed W.M. for the ensuing twelve months by Bro. C. Andrews, the I.P. Master, the ceremony was most ably performed. The W.M. appointed the following brethren as officers:—Bros. R. Russell, S.W.; H. G. Thompson, J.W.; N. Martin, Treas.; Peter Harvey, Sec.; W. Tebay, S.D.; G. Kingston, J.D.; J. Davison, I.G.; J. Wells, D.C.; Glover and Wingrove, Stewards; and H. Pelton, Tyler. After the business of the lodge was over the brethren sat down to a sumptuous banquet, served in Bro. Bray's usual good style. The usual loyal toasts were proposed by the W.M., and enthusiastically received by all the brethren. The visitors present were:—Bros. J. Welsford, P.M. 805; J. W Knight, P.M. 1107, P.G.D.C.; W. Hicks, P.M. 77, P.P.G.S.B.; F. Trott, W.M. 192; J.

Mortlock, P.M. 186; J. Pottinger, P.M. 77; G. Abbott, S.W. 192; C. Ralph, W.M. 77; Rev. H. C. Wilson, 77; G. Barker, 77; J. Tytherdige, 1076; J. C. Harryman, 23; and W. Barlow, 77.

STARCROSS.—Lodge of Union (No. 444).—The brethren of the Lodge of Union (No. 444) met on Saturday, the 10th inst., at the Courtenay Arms, for the purpose of installing the Worshipful Master for the ensuing year. The lodge was opened in ancient form by the Worshipful Master, Bro. Bailey, assisted by Bros. Chadwick, S.W.; H. W. Hooper, P.M., J.W.; W. S. Pasmore, P.M., Treas.; W. R. Woodman, P.M., Sec.; C. H. Edmonds, J.D.; J. Woodman, I.G.; John Gould, P.M.; T. Wilson Caird, P.M.; W. J. Richards, P.M.; J. H. Pendray, Samuel Jones, P.P.S.G.D.; J. Drew, P.M.; G. Huxham, J. Grigg, B. J. Fisher (Southampton), W. F. Quicke, P.M.; H. Northcote, T. Gardner, P.M.; T. Dand, P.M. P.G.S.B.; C. Vickary, Gregory, Tyler, and several other brethren. Bro. W. Cann, the Senior Grand Warden of the Province of Devon, performed the ceremony of installation in his usual impressive and efficient manner. The late Senior Warden, Bro. J. Chadwick, having been placed in the chair, was duly proclaimed Worshipful Master for the ensuing year. He then appointed his officers as follows:—W. H. Hooper, S.W.; C. H. Edmonds, J.W.; J. Woodman, S.D.; A. R. Down, J.D.; A. Gould, I.G.; J. Blanchard, Tyler. The compliment of a P.M.'s jewel to the I.P.M. was voted to Bro. A. Baily on his vacating the chair. The brethren adjourned to an excellent banquet provided by Bro. Ball, of the Courtenay Arms. The catering was all that could be wished, and nearly thirty brethren sat down thereto.

SUNDERLAND.—Williamson Lodge (No. 949).—The annual festival of this flourishing and vigorous lodge was held at the Royal Hotel, Monkwearmouth, on Monday, the 26th inst., having been postponed from May 12th to that date in consequence of the death of our late P.G.M., the Earl of Zetland. The chair was occupied by Bro. Jas. H. Coates (who has been recently re-installed as W.M. for a second year), supported by Bros. W. H. Crookes, P.G.S., W.M. 1389, P.M. 80; Jas. Davison, W.M. 80; J. S. Pearson, W.M. 94; R. Humphrey, W.M. 97, P.G. St.; W. Liddell, I.P.M., P.G.J.D.; R. W. Halfnight, P.M., Treas., P.P.G.P.; R. Hudson, P.M., P.G.D. of C.; John Potts, 7.P., P.M. 97, P.P.G.S.D.; W. Skelton, P.M. 97, P.P.G.S.B.; J. J. Clay, P.M. 97; &c. After justice had been fully done to the good things provided by the host, Bro. Cawthorne, the W.M., proposed the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, in doing which he gave a very feeling eulogium upon the Masonic merits of the late Earl of Zetland, P.G.M. Bro. W. Liddell next proposed "The Health of the W.M.," in doing which he referred eloquently to the ability Bro. Coates had brought to bear upon the discharge of the many onerous and arduous duties that devolve upon the occupant of the chair of a Masonic lodge, and expressed his conviction that the same zeal and assiduity would be continued during the second year as had been displayed by the W.M. during the past year. Bro. Coates, in responding, again thanked the members of the Williamson Lodge for the very high honour they had conferred upon him in having for a second time placed him in the high, honourable, and responsible position of W.M. of the Williamson Lodge, and assured them that nothing should be wanting if possible on his part to justify the confidence they had placed in him. The large number of brethren around showed him that during the past year he had to some little extent met with their approbation, and as he appealed to them twelve months ago, so now he repeated the same appeal, and asked the Past Masters, Officers, and members of the lodge to give him the same generous support as they had hitherto done, and the visitors and members of the other lodges still to show their kind and genial sympathy by continuing to visit the Williamson Lodge as regularly as they had hitherto done. The toast of "The Past Masters" followed, proposed by Bro. J. Foster, S.W., and responded to by Bro. R. W. Halfnight, "The Present and Past Officers" was next proposed by Bro. R. Hudson, P.M., and responded to by Bro. J. Foster, S.W., and R. Shadforth, J.W.

Bro. R. W. Halfnight, then claimed the attention of the brethren, and said that during the seventeen years he had been a Mason he had had no more pleasing duty to perform than that which now devolved upon him. Most if not all the brethren present were aware that within a few days of his installation into the chair of the Williamson Lodge twelve months ago the Worshipful Master took to himself a wife, and that within the twelve months he had been presented with a "Lewis." To mark this event, and also to show their high appreciation of the valuable services Bro. Coates had rendered the Craft he had pleasure in presenting him with the testimonial now before him. Bro. Halfnight then in suitable terms presented the W.M. with an elegant time piece, bearing the following inscription. "Presented to Bro. Jas. Coates, W.M., by the members of the Williamson Lodge and other Masonic friends, on the occasion of the birth of a son during his year of office, as well, and also in recognition of his valuable services rendered to Masonry." The W.M., in returning thanks for the handsome present that had been made, said he could truly say (as had often been said by himself and others) that this was one of the very special occasions when a man found it extremely difficult to find appropriate words to return thanks. Since his initiation into Masonry he had endeavoured to faithfully carry out the Masonic duties by the first of the working tools, presented to an Entered Apprentice, the twenty-four inch gauge. And as the time piece marked each of the hours as they passed by, he would be still further reminded of the morals implied by that implement of labour, and strive day by day to devote each hour to its proper objects. He thanked, them one and all heartily, and promised that he would continue to devote the same time, patience, and assiduity as hitherto, and would do everything in his power to promote the interests of his lodge and the welfare of the Craft, both of which he had thoroughly at heart. The toast of the "Visiting Brethren" was next duly honoured and responded to by Bros. J. Davison, W.M. 80; J. S. Pearson, W.M. 94; R. Humphrey, W.M. 97; Mudd, 111, (Darlington); Robson, 661 (Seaham); and W. H. Crookes, W.M. 1389. The "Masonic Charities" was also proposed by the W.M., and was responded to by Bro. R. Humphrey, W.M. of 97, who represented the Province of Durham, as Steward at the last Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, on which occasion the Williamson Lodge completed its qualification as a Vice-President of that most excellent charity. The lodge also appears for a small amount on the list at the last Girls' School Festival. At intervals the harmony of the evening was materially increased by the singing of Bros. C. H. Bastow, 97; W. H. Surtees, 97; W. H. Craven, 80; Mudd, 111; J. Potts, 94; Hepple, 80; J. Taylor, E. Beckwith, J. Cawthorne, and others.

CHIPPING NORTON.—Bowyer Lodge (No. 1036).—The festival of the Bowyer Lodge was held in the Masonic Hall, Chipping Norton, on Tuesday, 20th inst., and was well attended by the members, who, in consequence of the recent decease of M.W.P.G.M., the Earl of Zetland, appeared in full Masonic mourning. After the opening of the lodge and the usual preliminary business, Bro. F. A. Wheeler, who had been elected at a previous meeting of the lodge, was installed as W.M. for the ensuing year. The ceremony of the installation was impressively performed by the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Spiers, P.G.S. The W.M. then invested his officers. After the closing of the lodge the brethren, under the presidency of the W.M., were entertained at an excellent banquet, after which the customary loyal and Masonic toasts were received with full honours.

HAMPTON.—Lebanon Lodge (No. 1327).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Monday, May 21st, at the Red Lion Hotel, Hampton. At the appointed hour, half-past three o'clock p.m., the lodge was opened by Bro. Frederick Walters, P.M., Secretary, in the unavoidable absence of the W.M., Bro. John Thomas Moss, P.G.S.D. Middlesex, who was detained in town through numerous professional engagements. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and unanimously confirmed. Ballots, taken separately, were unanimous in favour of the admission of Messrs. G. S. Streeton, G. Mayer, P. From, and F. Jensen, as candidates for initiation into Freemasonry, and members of this lodge. The heavy agenda paper of work was then commenced by the introduction of Mr. John Johnson, who was duly initiated into Freemasonry. He was followed by Mr. G. S. Streeton, who likewise was initiated into the Order. The W.M. having arrived, he took the chair, and initiated Mr. B. Mayer, who was followed by Mr. P. From. The fifth and last candidate for initiation, Mr. F. Jensen, was then introduced, and the ceremony was gone through. The W.M. then requested the veteran Secretary, Bro. Frederick Walters, P.M., to take the chair, who at once acceded to the request. He proceeded to interrogate the applicants for the second degree, and finding them proficient, he opened the lodge in the second degree. Bros. J. Wallis, T. S. Lewis (1309), and J. J. Colman (1309) were properly introduced and passed to the Craftsman's degree. The candidates for raising passed a successful examination, showing that they had been carefully instructed, and had profited by their studies. The lodge was opened in the third degree. Bro. J. Deeks, J. W. George, 1309, C. W. Williams, 1275 and T. Spurr, 201, being in attendance were raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason. It is needless to remark that, with such experienced Masons in the chair, each spent more than usual care over the ceremonies, that they were most impressively given, and correctly done. The agenda paper being cleared of a portion of the work, the propriety of altering the day of meeting was moved and discussed. It was unanimously agreed that the regular meetings of the lodge should be held on the third Saturdays of May, June, July, and August; and emergencies to be held on the third Thursdays of the other months. On motion, duly made and seconded, it was unanimously resolved that, in addition to the names already sent for Provincial honours, Bro. John Thomas Moss be recommended for higher honours, and Bro. Frederick Walters, P.M., and Sec., for rank in the Provincial Grand Lodge. It was announced that the following members of the lodge had been Stewards at the Girls' School festival, on Wednesday, May 14, viz.:—Bros. J. T. Moss, W.M.; H. A. Dubois, S.W.; F. Walters, P.M., Sec.; W. Hammond, P.M., S.D.; H. Gloster, H. Goodwin, H. Nell, R. Limpus, J. W. Baldwin, E. H. Thiellay, E. Hopwood, P.M., and Moore, but as all were not present, the amounts could not be given. It was ascertained that Bros. J. T. Moss, H. A. Dubois, F. Walters, and W. Hammond had each sent in a list of not less than fifty guineas. Bros. H. Green, 1275, and R. W. Williams, 1275, were, with others, proposed as joining members. The usual large number of candidates were proposed for initiation. Some additional names were given for the proposed new chapter. Other important business having been disposed of, the lodge was closed at a few minutes to eight o'clock p.m. It was arranged that the next meeting should be held on Saturday, June 21st, at half-past three o'clock p.m. There were present during the afternoon and evening—Bros. J. T. Moss, P.G.S.D. Middlesex, P.M., W.M.; H. A. Dubois, S.W.; J. W. Jackson, J.W.; F. Walters, P.M., Sec.; W. Hammond, P.M., S.D.; E. Gilbert, J.D.; E. Hopwood, P.M.; R. G. Sprules, W. H. Livett, A. W. Dray, T. Archer, J. Deeks, W. H. Cox, J. Wallis, E. H. Thiellay, G. S. Haines, and others. Amongst the large number of visitors were Bros. J. Abrahams, P.M. 188; T. Spurr, 201; C. H. Murr, P.M. 504; W. Nicholson, S.W. 811; T. Jenkins, 384; H. Green, 1275; C. W. Williams, 1275; J. W. George, 1309; T. S. Lewis, 1309; J. J. Colman, 1309, and others. Refreshment followed labour. Some time was agreeably spent, and the brethren separated. The death of the Earl of Zetland was feelingly alluded to. Great expressions of sympathy were made for the Provincial Grand Master (who had met with an accident), which gave proof how much Bro. Colonel Francis Burdett is respected and beloved in the Province over which he rules. Strong hopes were expressed for his recovery, and if hearty good wishes could restore him to health, he would be well indeed, for they were spontaneously given for him. The members appeared, and the lodge was placed in deep mourning, in consequence of the death of the lamented Earl of Zetland, M.W. Past Grand Master.

MILLOM.—Whitwell Lodge (No. 1390).—This lodge held its usual monthly meeting on Tuesday, May 20, 1873, at the Masonic Rooms. The lodge was opened at 7.30, p.m. by the W.M., Bro. Roger Dodgson, P.G.S.B., supported by Bro. J. Dodgson, P.M. 995, S.W.; Bro. J. Mills, P.G. Steward, J.W., and others. Minutes of last regular communications were read and confirmed. The ballot was then taken for Mr. D. Laney, which proved unanimous in his favour, he being in attendance was, at the request of the W.M., initiated into Freemasonry by Bro. J. Dodgson. On Bro. Laney retiring, the lodge was opened in the second degree and Bro. Beck, a candidate for the third degree, proving his proficiency was entrusted and retired. Lodge opened in the third degree, when the W.M. again assumed the chair, and rose Bro. Beck, who retired. The lodge was then closed down to the first degree, when the W.M. very feelingly alluded to the great loss the lodge was about to sustain through the removal of the Chaplain to a distant town, and proposed that a letter be forwarded to Bro. Brown, Chaplain, expressing the regret of the brethren at his removal. This was seconded by the S.W., and carried unanimously. Hearty good wishes were given from No. 119, by Bro. MacKelvie, and from 995, by Bro. Lockett. The lodge was finally closed about 10, o'clock by the W.M. with solemn prayer.

HAMPTON COURT.—Campbell Lodge (No. 1415).—The second meeting of this lodge was held at the Greyhound Hotel, on the 21st inst., under the presidency of the W.M., Sir Gilbert E. Campbell, Bart. A large number of members and visitors attended. Several new members were elected, and five gentlemen balloted for as candidates for initiation. Among the brethren present were Bros. Col. Burdett, Prov. G.M.; R. W. Little, Prov. G. Sec.; J. Boyd, P.G. Purs.; T. Cubitt, A.G. Purs.; F. Binckes, Sec. Boys' School; H. Colls, G. Stwd.; W. Roebuck, E. Kimber, S.W.; D. M. Dewar, J.W. pro. tem., and many others. The W.M. invested Bros. Cubitt, Treas.; H. C. Levander, Sec.; T. Keene, S.D.; A. Colner, J.D.; E. S. Jones, Org.; W. R. Woodman, Stwd.; Col. Peters, D.C.; and F. W. Levander, I.G. On the conclusion Masonic business, the brethren adjourned to refreshment, and, after a very pleasant evening, separated at an early hour.

TORQUAY.—St. John's Chapter (No. 328).—This chapter held its first anniversary meeting at the Masonic Hall, on Monday, the 19th inst. on which occasion Excellent Comp. Dr. H. Hopkins, Past Z. of several chapters, was installed First Principal; Comp. T. Oliver, H.; and D. Watson, J. Ex-Comp. the Rev. R. Bowden, P.Z., acted as Installing Master for the first chair, and Ex-Comp. Dr. Hopkins for the other two. Letters of regret were received from several companions at their inability to honour the occasion by their presence. Bro. Hughan, of Truro, an honorary member of the chapter, was unavoidably absent, but wrote in his usual felicitous style, congratulating the chapter on having succeeded in inducing his valued friend Dr. Hopkins to occupy the First Principal's chair, as it was impossible for the chapter to confer any additional honour, beyond those already acquired by his friends in his long Masonic career. The business of the chapter having been disposed of, Comp. Dr. Hopkins, the newly installed Z., proceeded to deliver an address to the companions, from which the following are extracts:—Companions:—It has been my custom whenever I have been placed at the head of any Masonic body, to give a short address to those by whose favour I have been appointed to so high a position, for several reasons. 1st. To acknowledge with gratitude the confidence which has been reposed in me. 2nd. To pledge myself to efforts not to disappoint the reasonable expectations which have been formed as to my competency. 3rd. To solicit the kind and hearty indulgence and co-operation of those who have evinced their regard and confidence by accepting office under my rule. 4th. To request from all that fraternal assistance, that ready acquiescence in the decisions of the majority, that regard for the feelings and scruples of others, which is so essential to the promotion of harmony, and to efficiency in the working of our ceremonies; that desire, in cases of difference of opinion, to give others credit for the same uprightness and devotedness to the cause which we claim for ourselves; and lastly, to make some slight general allusions to the objects and principles of that branch of the Craft in connection with which we are now assembled. Companions, we have this day arrived at the termination of the first year of existence of this chapter, during which none of us can deny that we have been skilfully and efficiently ruled by our Ex-Comp. the Rev. R. Bowden, whose kind and genial manners and urbane conduct, under even trying circumstances, have won for him a high place in the estimation of brethren and companions; moreover, whose acknowledged Masonic reputation and acquirements are such as to guarantee important requisites towards prosperity. And though we have had difficulties and differences of opinion, which are necessarily inherent in all human institutions, where the passions and prejudices of fallible men prevail, even in Masonry, but where all should be smooth and tranquil, yet we may congratulate ourselves that the existence of a good spirit has led to concessions which have prevented serious disturbance. Let me entreat of you to endeavour to promote harmony, and as a chief means thereto to indulge no thoughts which may assign sinister motives to others, and to practice forbearance, not only through the second year on which we are entering, in which I am more personally interested, but also during the terms of office of my successors for many years, that nothing may occur which is not in accordance with the sublime and solemn rites peculiar to this branch of Freemasonry. Companions:—I feel that I almost owe to you an apology for assuming the first chair on this day. As most of you know I joined St. John's Chapter on the urgent solicitation of its founders, not with a view to any additional rank it could bring to that already acquired, but in deference to the desire that I should give you the benefit of such experience as I have had the opportunity of gaining during a long Masonic career. I think I may confidently say that during a quarter of a century I have never refused such an appeal for assistance, whether by taking office or by giving private instruction. At the same time I admit, that in Masonry, as in everything else, jealousies and misapprehensions of actions and motives will arise, of which I have more than once been the victim, perhaps naturally, on becoming associated with Masons and Lodges to whom I was a stranger. But I have always felt that a straightforward and honourable course would in the end lead to a vindication of my conduct and to an appreciation of such efforts as I have been capable of making, and I am happy to say that in the end all false impressions have been removed, and that whenever I revisit the scenes of my former labours, I have a most hearty welcome from all parties. To you, Masons of Torquay, my thanks are especially due. Coming amongst you as a stranger, a few years ago I have received at your hands the most uniform kindness, and your evidences of fraternal regard and appreciation will ever be cherished in my memory. I have said that I almost owe you an apology for assuming your first chair to day, because I have to some extent, at your earnest desire, violated one of the rules I have laid down for my guidance, that is never to take any Masonic office whenever one vote was hostile to me. To this determination I came early in my Masonic career, owing to my observation of the difficulties encountered by some Masters of Lodges and Principals of Chapters who had but a small majority, and hence had much to contend with from the formation of two parties among those under their rule. You kindly proposed a second ballot on the ground that my election had been nearly unanimous, and with an assurance that no hostile feeling towards me was intended, but rather an expression of compliment and unbounded attachment to him who is now the Past First Principal. To this suggestion I, with some diffidence, assented, and thus my scruples were removed by perfect unanimity. I trust that at this time next year you will have no reason to regret the course which has been pursued, and that as I appear to have your confidence now, when untried so far as you are concerned, I shall by my conduct in this chair prove that I have merited a continuance of it. Allow me to say, however, that I quite agree with all of you in the great respect and regard which is entertained for my predecessor, the Rev. R. Bowden, the first occupant of the chair of Z. in St. John's Chapter, under whom had it been your pleasure, I should have most cheerfully served for another year in the second chair, or have withdrawn entirely, so as not to disturb the position and prevent the progress of its present occupant. I have to crave your indulgence for having said so much which is of a personal nature, allow me now to congratulate you who have just entered on your new offices, on the position assigned to each, as a step towards the rank which I now hold, on the attainment of which you were told at your exaltation that you would be admitted to a full participation in our mystic rites." Further let me remind you, that if in some cases there has been disappointment, it is the duty of each to yield a ready acquiescence to the decision of the majority, and to each one I beg to offer such assistance as lies in my power when it is asked for, with a view to the acquisition of the requisite knowledge of our rites and ceremonies. Allow me to appeal to such of you as, though Royal Arch Masons, have not yet been invested with any collar, not only to avoid everything which may be inimical to our harmony and prosperity, but to endeavour to learn the duties of the several offices, so that in case of their unavoidable absence I may know to whom to apply for substitutes. This course is especially desirable in a new chapter, where there can be no old officers to fall back upon, and from personal experience in my younger Masonic days, I can state that there is no surer step towards one of the official appointments on a future occasion. Our labours at each meeting conclude with the solemn and emphatic expression of a desire to promote "Glory to God in the Highest, on earth peace, good will to men." None of us can join in our rites in this branch of Masonry, as distinct from that of the Craft, without conviction that it pertains to much higher things, that it regards the Most High and his dealings with mankind in a more lofty and majestic sense; that it has a special reference to exalted mysteries, attributes and symbols, of which they could previously have formed no conception, and that, in the words of our ritual, "it leads to the exercise of pure and sublime piety, a reverence for the Eternal Jehovah, the primordial source of all its principles, the spring and fountain of all its virtues." Thus it seems almost impossible that its votaries can fail in their aspirations to promote the glory of God. Companions: Considering that comparatively few of those who become Craft Freemasons ever attempt to obtain a knowledge of the higher and sublime mysteries of the Craft, as unfolded in capitular Masonry, I am not generally in favour of a too great multiplication of Royal Arch Chapters, which causes weakness in each, and there is a difficulty in finding men who can effectively fill the higher offices, the rituals of which are not easily acquired and retained in the memory, as the meetings are held at long intervals. We have but lately entered on our career, and I have some reason to believe that within a short period, two, and perhaps three other chapters will be formed at a moderate distance from us. It is not for us to consider whether such a course is politic. I trust, however, that this will prove a motive to us to be more than ordinarily careful in the conduct of our affairs, and especially in the effectiveness of our working. Above all that it will not be productive of an injudicious rivalry, which may result in our paying regard rather to the quantity than to the quality of our members, and thus lead to a depreciation of our system by those who have a very imperfect, and perhaps no idea of our objects, aims, and principles. I have now referred to all the points but one which I laid down at the commencement of my address, and have extended my remarks so far beyond what was my intention that I believe it will be prudent to defer to a future occasion any enlarged dissertation on the Royal Arch degree as distinct from the Craft system, which however is incomplete without it. Allow me, therefore, to wind up with a few remarks and suggestions on another subject. It may be well for us at the commencement of another year to determine what shall be the course to be pursued by us in regard to banquets. Personally I have an objection to expensive banquets in connection with Freemasonry, unless in districts where there are several lodges in a populous town or neighbourhood, and where it may therefore be wise to have different scales of expense to suit Masons in several grades. Much more do I object to the custom which prevails in some Masonic lodges and chapters, to expect the newly-appointed head to place champagne or other wines on the table, feeling that such honour ought to be bestowed on those most worthy of them on account of Masonic character and knowledge alone, without any claim of the kind I have mentioned. I have known instances where brethren have been promoted to the highest rank over the heads of others who had superior claims, without the slightest expectation of good work in the administration of our rites, or of judicious control over the proceedings, but simply in the prospect of splendid banquets and costly presents at their expense. All this I deem derogatory to Freemasonry, and injurious to our character in the eyes of the profane world. Notwithstanding the remarks I have made, in the present instance as one come accidentally, as it were, among you, and promoted to honour without passing through the lower steps in this chapter, I do not wish to disregard the occasion, but to confer some mark of regard and confidence on those from whom I must look most especially for support in the administration of the ceremonies. You may, if you like, take it as a bribe, or rather as an incentive to extra exertion. I have prepared four of my Masonic charts, all differing in the arrangement and mottoes, and yet in other respects, much upon a par; their execution has been a work of time, thought, and labour. I hope they will prove acceptable mementoes of this day's proceedings. (Dr. Hopkins here presented the charts to Comps. Oliver, Watson, Harland and Percy, giving a few appropriate remarks to each of the recipients. The charts are models of artistic skill, design and beauty.) I trust these trifling mementoes of my regard, and the lessons taught by them will be more lasting and beneficial than the frothy and evanescent effects of any wines, however rich or sparkling. And as years creep on, and I cannot but expect at no distant period to be summoned to the Grand Lodge above, they may, perhaps, occasionally remind you, after my removal from this sublunary abode, of my slender labours among you, and of the desire I had felt to advance the interests of the Masonic body by precept and example, however feebly and ineffectively. Permit me to offer you as an accompaniment to the charts, a prospectus of my little graphic productions, with a request that you will show it to your friends, whether members of our fraternity or not, as by so doing, you may perhaps, induce some of them to add a mite to the funds of our Benevolent Institution, by the purchase of some specimens of my handiwork. I have in hand an amount which, with some additions, may enable me to present another sum of five guineas to one of our charities, and thus carry on the good work of affording help to worthy but distressed Masons, either personally to themselves or to their children, a labour of love in which the Torquay brethren have shown that they take a deep interest.

Red Cross of Constantine.

COCKERMOUTH.—Dykes Conclave (No. 60).—The above conclave of Red Cross Knights of Rome and Constantine held their second assembly on Wednesday, at the rooms of Skiddaw Lodge, 1,002, Cockermouth. There was a good muster of Sir Knights from Whitehaven, Maryport, Wigton, Keswick, &c., inclusive of a few Masons, who attended for the purpose of being installed to the degree. Soon after twelve, the M.P. Sovereign, Sir Knight R. Robinson, ascended the throne, and opened the conclave, supported by his Viceroy, Sir Knight J. Pearson. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, six brothers were installed and dubbed Sir Knight, at the conclusion of which the M.P. Sovereign invested his officers for the year as follows: Sir Knts. W. Taylor, S.G.; W. Tickle, J.G.; Rev. H. Puxley, High Prelate; H. Dodgson, M.D., Treas.; T. F. Taylor, Recorder; Crowther Morton, Prefect; John Wood, Standard Bearer; James Porter, Herald; W. Potts, Sentinel. The conclave was then closed, and subsequently a first-class banquet was provided by Sir Knt. Stephen Thwaite, at the Old Hall presided over by the Sovereign. Dykes Conclave has only been a few weeks in existence, but so highly is the degree appreciated that there are no fewer than 41 names on the roll.—Whitehaven News.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

GLASGOW.—Saint Mungo Encampment held their usual monthly meeting, on May 21st, at St. Mark's Hall, Glasgow. On the dais beside the M.N.C., were seated, Sir Knights Robert Bell, Capt. Sanks, 18°, P.E.C. (E.C.); G. W. Wheeler, R.; D. Butler, S.C., and I.G.; Speirs, C.G.; applications for reception having been received from J. Chalmers, M.D., and T. H. Wilson, of Chapter 113, they were admitted as pilgrims, and afterwards as Esquires of this degree, both ceremonies were very impressively rendered by the M.N.C., who was assisted by G. W. Wheeler, acting Prelate; M'Clanenan, C.C.; J. Balfour, W., and W. Nolan, as A. de C. At the request of the M.N.C., Capt. Shanks, 18°, gave a description of the visit to London, to see the installation of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales as G.M. of the United Order in England and Ireland, and also of his interview with Sir P. Colquhoun, relative to the proposed treaty with Scotland. He also detailed what took place at Edinburgh at the last meeting of the Chapter General for Scotland, when himself, and Sir Knights Bell and Wheeler, were the only members present who were in favour of union, owing as he thought to an unwillingness to reverse a previous decision, even when that decision was shown to have been arrived at from a misconception of the scope and terms of the proposed treaty. Sir Knights Bell and Wheeler also spoke of the way in which the subject had been taken up to the Chapter General, but expressed a hope that they would yet see their way to join this Federal Union of the Three National Grand Bodies. A vote of thanks was past to Captain Shanks for his lucid expression of the state of our relation to the treaty, and the determination of the encampment to bring the matter again before the authorities in Edinburgh, Sir Knights Bro. Speirs, J.O., Park, Balfour, and Nolan also spoke on the subject, all of them advocating the desirability of union with England and Ireland.

ROYAL ARK MARINERS.

GLASGOW.—Lodge No. 73, was duly opened on the 22nd of May, when the ark having been unmoored, the command was taken by Bro. Balfour, F.N., assisted by G. McDonald, S.; T. Stewart, J.; G. W. Wheeler, Scribe; R. Bell, T., and J. Thay, Pilot. An application was received from Comp. G. S. McManus, who was received on board, and instructed in the duties of an Ark Mariner, he was afterwards entrusted with the secrets of this degree, and received his commission. The whole of the work was performed in Bro. Balfour's best style. There being no further work to perform, the cruise ended, and the ark was again moored in safety.

UNITED PILGRIMS' LODGE, No. 507.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

The report in your last issue of the proceedings at the United Pilgrim's Lodge, 507, is slightly inaccurate. The portrait of our lamented Bro. C. W. Haddock was not presented by the brethren privately, but was, at my suggestion, substituted by the lodge for a Past Master's jewel, voted to him before his death; the lodge also presented a copy of the portrait to his family.

The portrait of Bro. Thomas was not the gift of the lodge in its corporate capacity, but subscribed for some of the brethren privately, the idea originating with me. I trust you will excuse my troubling you on the subject, but as it was an opportunity given to me to pay the last tribute of respect in my power to a lamented brother, and at the same time offer a token of regard to our revered and respected Secretary, Bro. John Thomas, I am naturally anxious it should be known that both suggestions, which met with the heartiest approval of the brethren, were mine, and carried out solely by

BRO. D. MURRAY LYON'S "HISTORY OF THE LODGE OF EDINBURGH."

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

Owing to your taking such a lively interest in the above publication, a great number of letters from subscribers have been received inquiring when this important work is to be issued.

Will you allow me to state in the Freemason that the "History of the Lodge of Edinburgh" is at length printed, and is at once to be placed in the binders' hands, so its appearance may safely be depended on in June.

The cause of the delay (the strike amongst the compositors in Edinburgh) has already been made public through your columns, and I trust nothing now will occur to present its speedy issue, and its ready sale. I believe the whole edition is nearly subscribed for, and if so I beg to congratulate my friend, Bro. Lyon on such signal success.

Yours fraternally,

W. J. HUGHAN.

WITHIN THE CENTRE.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

A line in reply to J. B. (in No. 219) and I will not trouble you again on this point. I am not responsible for the word be it in, with, or within. I look to the allegorical meaning, and should prefer the word in, but as to "the phrase" one word is as good as the other. I gave that one generally accepted. We know that Masons do, sometimes, use wrong words. I have often heard W.M.'s say, rise newly obligated, which is simply ridiculous. The word of course is duly. At some time the word has been badly pronounced, and so handed down. I myself was taught to say it, but I afterwards rejected it, and all my initiates have been duly raised.

THE ORDER OF THE TEMPLE.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Allowing to others what I claim for myself, namely the holding of my own opinion on Masonic or any other matters, I am still sorry to note the tone of Bro. H. B. Hodges' letter at page 339. He surely need not be so angry about the alteration of title adopted by the Order of the Temple, and particularly as he does not appear to be one of the Knights of this Order.

I believe the Knights themselves, with few exceptions, are perfectly satisfied.

I have no doubt there some who, like Bro. Hodges, can see nothing attractive in "High Degrees." It will always be the case, and proves nothing but a want of a less prejudiced mind in approaching the subject.

I feel sure the Order of the Temple are quite willing to allow Bro. Hodges to uphold his dignity by repudiating all connection with them. If he thinks such a result will follow, and as to his advice to Freemasons to cut off all the High Degrees as excrescences, I have no doubt, when that determination is arrived at by those who may agree with Bro. H., that the present Order of the Temple will survive the shock.

The only reason Bro. H. gives is that he cannot see his way clear to become a Knight Templar, and that feeling is strengthened by reading a work of very questionable authority on the subject, inasmuch as the author had a strong bias against this degree, and he even then admits that an immense amount of learning has been developed in the Higher Degrees, but makes the excuse that the Craft is capable of as much if it could be worked on old principles—what these old principles are Bro. "H." does not explain.

As to his suggestion that the members of the Order of the Temple should be sworn to celibacy, and also his very witty allusion to tailors, shoemakers, lawyers, &c., and his homely advice to "let the old hare sit." I will leave for some Brother or K.T. more advanced in this style to reply to.

Yours fraternally,

EXCELSIOR.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Will you permit me to offer a few remarks in reply to your correspondents. I am sorry to see that Bro. Hodges should assert in your last issue that the Chivalric Orders are frequently most injurious to legitimate Craft Masonry, and I should like to know how he proposes to cut off all such excrescences as the "quasi Masonic Chivalric Orders." I fear he will find it rather beyond his powers.

I believe a great many Masons enter the Craft simply to qualify for the Order of the Temple, who would not otherwise join us, and the Craft gets the benefit of their initiation fees and subscriptions, at all events.

I have already shown that so far back as 1780 the prefix Masonic was not used, and I have also shown that in the articles of union between the two Grand Lodges in 1813, the position of the chivalric bodies, as such, was admitted and acknowledged.

Bro. Hodges believes with Bro. Hughan, "that many Freemasons will, now the Masonic prefix is most properly abandoned, rather leave the ranks than act a lie by claiming to be the lineal descendants of the original Knights Templar." For my own part, I do not believe any members of the Order who are worth retaining will do anything of the kind; on the contrary, I have every reason for expecting a great accession to our ranks as the results of the late legislation. So long as it is obligatory that Templars shall be Royal Arch Masons, the body is in a sense Masonic, and it is absurd to say that the mere abolition of the prefix makes us a different Order. Bro. Hughan has always been a great supporter of the Constantinian Degree, which till within the last year was known as the Imperial and Ecclesiastical Order of the Knights of the Red Cross and Constantine. In this year's "Cosmopolitan Masonic Calendar" this degree is dubbed the Masonic and Military Order of the Knights of Rome and of the Red Cross of Constantine, and I want to know whether by altering their title the body remains the same, or whether Bro. Hughan considers that is neither chivalric nor Masonic, and its members are absolved from their allegiance. If the Constantinian Knights assume their old title to-morrow, Bro. Hughan would try to be logical and recommend the members to leave its ranks rather than act a lie, and support a body, which of course by his own showing, would be neither Chivalric nor Masonic. I have every respect for Bro. Hughan, but I cannot accept his dictum, so far as the Knights Templar are concerned.

If I remember right my erudite brother utterly repudiates Bro. Yarker's assertion that there were documents in existence to show that the Grand Lodge of all England recognised the Knights Templar degree, and afterwards had to admit that he was wrong, and I venture to think that we are all too hasty in assuming that because the proofs are not ready to hand, the Knights Templar have no claim to their title. To our opponents of the Craft I would simply retort by saying, What claim have you to the arms of the Company of Operative Masons? What proof can you give of your descent from the builders of King Solomon's Temple? You know the old proverb about glass houses? Well, don't throw stones.

In reply to "A Knight Templar," who expresses great astonishment at the resignation of Lord Eliot, I must say that—whilst I, for one, deeply regret his lordship's withdrawal from active Masonic life—I have long expected and feared that the intolerance and bigotry of some of the members of the A. P. U. C. (the Association for the Promotion of the Unity of Christendom), of which Lord Eliot is now president, would drive him from amongst us, as a body antagonistic to the Association.

I shall be surprised if our noble brother does not ultimately withdraw altogether from Masonry, after the attack which was made upon him in one of the Church organs some time since. In reply to my friend Bro. Newnham, I say that Masonry is still the vital essence of the United Orders of the Temple and the Hospital; and undoubtedly the obligations we entered into when we joined that chivalric body, we are bound by now.

EMRA HOLMES, P.M.,

P.P.G.A.D.C., & P.G. Reg. Suffolk, &c.

P.S. Permit me to add that I was greatly disappointed at not seeing an account of the late meeting of convent general—which, through indisposition, I was precluded from attending—in your columns. There are many who, like myself, look to you to keep us au courant with what goes on in Masonry and its associated orders and degrees.

TESTIMONIAL TO BRO. CHARLES ROGERS, LL.D.

Our northern brethren will be pleased to learn that a movement is in progress for presenting "a house" to Bro. Dr. Chas. Rogers, honourably known in connection with the National Wallace Monument, and other patriotic undertakings. The testimonial house is to be reared at Moore Park, near Norwood, Surrey, and the sum of £1,200 will be required for its completion. Operations are considerably advanced, both in the building and subscription, and an appeal is now being made to the Scottish lodges, and some of those in the colonies. We hope the appeal will meet with a ready response, and that all our brethren who are more especially cognisant of our brother's services will be generous and hearty in acknowledging them. The following is a copy of Bro. Lawrence's appeal.

"Sir and Brother,—The Committee on Dr. Rogers' Testimonial are most desirous that all the Scottish Masonic lodges should have an opportunity of contributing to the Testimonial Fund. As the erector of the Wallace Monument, Dr. Rogers has merited well of his Masonic brethren in Scotland, and of all who are actuated by Masonic principles. He was, the Committee are informed, restorer of the Royal Arch Chapter of Stirling, which had long fallen into abeyance. In making the present appeal I am directed specially to request, that as most of the Scottish lodges may probably contribute, and the sum required to build Dr. Rogers' house does not exceed £1,200, you will make no effort to obtain contributions on an extensive scale. The sum of one or two guineas from each of the Scottish lodges would, while testifying approval of Dr. Rogers' labours, abundantly satisfy every requirement. To you, Sir and Brother, as Secretary of the lodge, I direct the present communication, since not infrequently the R.W. Master is non-resident. An answer before Midsummer would oblige. Remittances should be sent to William Herbage, Esq., Manager City Bank, Ludgate-hill, the Treasurer, or addressed to myself personally.

"I remain Sir and Brother, your fraternally,

"JAMES LAWRENCE,

"Corresponding Secretary.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF OXFORDSHIRE.

The annual meeting of this Provincial Grand Lodge was held in the University Masonic Hall, Oxford, on the 24th instant, under the auspices of the Apollo University Lodge, No. 357, the largest and most influential lodge in the Province. There were present at the opening of the Grand Lodge the R.W. Bro. Æneas J. McIntyre, Q.C., Grand Registrar of England, the Acting Provincial Grand Master; Bro. Reginald Bird, W. Deputy Master, No. 357, Prov. S.G.W.; the R.W. Bro. Richard Havers, Senior Grand Deacon of England; the V.W. Bro. A. J. Spiers, Deputy Provincial Grand Master; and many other brethren of rank in the Province.

The minutes of the last Provincial Grand Lodge were read and confirmed, and the accounts of the Prov. G. Treasurer were adopted amid considerable applause, as demonstrating the remarkably good financial position of the Province.

The election of Pro. G. Treasurer next took place, and Bro. Thomas Randall, P.M. 340, was unanimously re-elected to the office he has held for a great number of years, and the duties of which he has discharged with singular credit to himself, and great advantage to the Province.

The report of the charity committee was read and adopted. The number of the brethren who, during the past year, have served the office of Steward at the several festivals of the Masonic charitable institutions, was reported to be larger than in any previous year, a fact which proves that the Province of Oxfordshire, while progressing most successfully at home, has not been forgetful of the great duty which it owes to the Craft in general.

The R.W. the acting Provincial Grand Master then appointed his officers for the ensuing year as follows:—Bro. K. J. Spiers, (for the 18th time) D.P.G.M.; H. B. Samuelson, M.P., W.M. No. 599, S.G.W.; F. Wheeler, W.M. No. 1036, J.G.W.; Rev. T. Cochrane, No. 357, Senior G. Chaplain; Rev. C. F. Garratt, No. 1036, Junior G. Chaplain; Alderman T. Randall, No. 340, G. Treasurer; A. Akers, Nos. 357, and 478, G. Registrar; H. H. Riach, Nos. 357, and 478, G. Secretary; W. Park, No. 340, S.G.D.; F. Stockwell, M.D. No. 1399, J.G.D.; H. O. Wakeman, No. 478, G. Supt. of Works; F. A. Hyndman, Nos. 357, and 478, G.D. of C.; H. A. Cooper Smith, Nos. 357, and 478, A.G.D. of C.; Frank Spiers, No. 340, G. Swordbearer; W. Neville, No. 357, G. Organist; Lamb, No. 599, G. Pursuivant; Paris, No. 1399, A.G. Pursuivant; and Bro. R. T. Hodge, and others as G. Stewards.

The usual grants to the charities were made, and all business being concluded, the Provincial Grand Lodge was closed, and the brethren present adjourned to a banquet, which had been provided in the Clarendon Hotel.

CONSECRATION OF A MARK MASTER'S LODGE AT HASTINGS.

The interesting ceremony of the opening of a new Mark Masters' Lodge, called the "East Sussex Lodge, No. 166," took place on Tuesday, the 22nd inst., at the Swan Hotel, High-street, Hastings, the head-quarters of the Freemasons for East Sussex. Punctually at the time appointed, the R.W. Bro. F. Binckes, P.G.J.W., and Grand Secretary of the Degree, specially deputed by the Most Worshipful the Grand Master to perform the ceremony, entered the Lodge Room, and having appointed his Wardens, proceeded with the consecration, assisted by the V.W. Bro. Rev. Dr. Richards, Past Grand Chaplain, who delivered in a most effective manner an oration, in which he alluded to the origin of the Mark Degree, pointing out the peculiar teachings of its symbolism, and briefly referring to the intimate association of the practical bearing of this Degree as illustrating its fitness to be considered as the true Fellow Craft Degree in Freemasonry. He also briefly referred to the causes of the establishment of the Grand Lodge of the Order, and explained the deep interest which was day by day being taken in it by the Master Masons of the world, as shown by the opening of Lodges in every principal centre of the habitable globe, and congratulated the Mark Masons of Sussex in having among them so many earnest workers in all the branches of Freemasonry.

As soon as the ceremony of consecration had terminated, V.W. Bro. Dr. Cunningham, P.M. 75, P.G.J.O., then proceeded to instal in the chair of "A" the Worshipful Master Designate, Bro. Dr. Trollope, P.M. 40, P.Z. 40, P.P.G.W. of Sussex, a worthy and highly esteemed member of the Craft, whose zeal, ability and love for the Masonic charities, as displayed by him for many years past, peculiarly fitted him for the important and responsible post of first Master of this Lodge of Mark Masons. The ceremony of installation having proceeded thus far, special permission was given at this point for the introduction of candidates anxious to be advanced into this honourable degree. The W.M. was most ably assisted by W. Bro. Sabine, P.M. 22, P.G.A.D.C., who acted as Senior Deacon and Director of Ceremonies; W. Bro. Hudson, P.M. 75, P.G.A.D.C.; Bros. Ade, P.M. 315, and Sec. 75; E. Lewis, J.O. 75; Lockyer, W.M. 75; W. R. Wood, P.M. 63, 315, 811, P.Z. St. James's Chapter, 1, P.P.G.S.W. Sussex; and Bros. Duke, Langley, J. W. Wolton, of the Macdonald Mark Lodge, London, Baldwin, &c. A ballot was then taken for twenty-five candidates, all of whom were duly elected. Of these twenty-two were present, the following being a correct list:—Bros. B. U. Hearn, P.P.G.J.W., P.M. 311; J. Howell, P.P.G. Supt. of Works, P.M. 40; J. Dorman, Prov. G. Steward, P.M. 40; R. C. N. Davis, P.M. 341; W. B. Tanner, P.M. 341; T. Lane, P.M. 1110; W. Lamborn, P.M. 1184; R. Pidock, S.W. 916; G. Flint, S.W. 1110; J. A. Worge, S.W. 1184; T. Morris, J.W. 1110; G. Fairman, Sec. 40; C. M. Norris, S.D. 40; G. Moran, S.D. 916; C. M. Mathews, D.C. 1110; T. S. Jackson, I.G. 40; S. Chester, 40; A. Croucher, 40; G. E. Boor, 1110; G. S. Grey, 40; S. Hendy, 40; H. C. Davey, 1110.

The candidates having read and all signed the "declaration book," were duly received into the lodge, and properly placed. The ceremony of advancement was proceeded with, and rendered by the W.M. with commendable accuracy, it being the first occasion he had worked the degree in lodge. The W.M. then appointed and invested his officers as follows:—Bros. Kirkland, S.W.; Wellerd, J.W.; Rev. G. Richards, D.D., P.G.M. Chap., Chaplain; C. W. Duke, M.O.; Thomas Lane, S.O.; W. Lamborn, J.O.; G. Wellerd, Treas. (he having been unanimously elected by the members. This brother has been the Treasurer of the Derwent Lodge, No. 40, for the past 20 years, and is highly respected by all who know him); C. M. Norris, Secretary; J. Dorman, Reg. of Marks; G. Fairman, S.D.; W. B. Tanner, J.D.; G. Moren, I.G.; S. Hendy was re-elected Tyler.

The ceremony of installation was then completed, the addresses being given by Bro. Cunningham in a most impressive manner. Several candidates were proposed for advancement at the next lodge, which it is expected will be held upon an early day for the purpose of relieving the pressure of business consequent on so many Masons being desirous of entering the Order. Votes of thanks were especially given to those brethren who had rendered aid in establishing the lodge.

Shortly afterwards the members and visitors, to the number of between 30 and 40, sat down to banquet, the W.M. again presiding. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given. Bro. Binckes, in responding for the present and past Grand Officers, referred to the fact that the R.W. Earl Percy, Most Worshipful Grand Master Elect, would be installed as Grand Master of the Order at the Grand Lodge to be held in London, on Tuesday, June 3rd next. He also congratulated the members of the lodge on the fact of their having present so many Past Grand Officers, men who had taken a deep interest in the welfare of this particular degree, and who had done so much towards the great success of this lodge. He likewise entered at some length into an instructive explanation respecting the degree, which must have made a deep impression upon the younger members present; and specially impressed upon them that it was the only degree in universal Freemasonry which insisted on a due allegiance to the Craft Grand Lodge of England, by compelling every candidate to prove himself worthy of admittance to the degree by first proving himself to be a Master Mason. He concluded by stating that many Craft Masons holding positions of importance were assisting in promoting the degree; the R.W., the Earl of Carnarvon, the Deputy Grand Master of England, had been one of the Grand Masters of this Order.

The Rev. G. Richards, in responding to a toast with which his name had been associated, expressed the pleasure he felt in leaving the quiet retreat in Hertfordshire, now the place of his sojourn, to mix once more and work in harmony with those brethren of the Province of Sussex with whom, in former times, he had worked so happily, more particularly was this the case to-day in meeting the Masons of Hastings on an occasion so important, as he considered it was in the best interests of Freemasonry that the "Mark Degree" should be practised, and concluded by a graceful allusion to his friendship for the W.M., whom he was proud to find occupying so important a post as the first Master of a new Mark lodge.

The W.M. specially proposed the health of Bro. Sabine, and, in doing so, referred to the valuable assistance which he and the other members of the Royal Sussex Lodge, No. 75, had given him.

Bro. Sabine briefly responded, adverting to the fact that although the lodge that day established was the second in the county of Sussex, another lodge had been applied for and the warrant granted; this, the "Southdown Lodge, No. 164," would be opened in the course of a few weeks at the Station Hotel, Hayward's Heath (Bro. Golding's). He had also no doubt that efforts would be made before long to accommodate the Mark Masons residing at Eastbourne and neighbourhood; and in all probability, if not this year, at any rate early in the ensuing year, another Mark Lodge would be applied for, to hold its meetings in the western part of Brighton. With regard to the formation of the Sussex Mark lodges into a province, the preliminary steps had already been taken, and it was within the bounds of possibility that early in the approaching autumn the Provincial Grand Mark Lodge of Sussex would be inaugurated.

Various other toasts were proposed and responded to. The after-dinner proceedings were marked with a succession of capital speeches, characterised by a determination to uphold the cause, and to spread the principles of Mark Masonry in Sussex; and the brethren separated shortly before eleven o'clock, thoroughly satisfied with the remarkable success which had attended the establishment of the East Sussex Lodge of Mark Master Masons, No. 166 on the register of the Grand Mark Lodge of England and Wales.

Reviews.

Tweed's Illustrated Guide to Glasgow and the Clyde.

Bro. Tweed's new edition of his Guide is a marvel of cheapness when we consider the amount of information it conveys and the value of the maps, steel plates, and woodcuts that embellish nearly every one of the 120 pages. Guide books are so often mere dry descriptions as to scarcely repay perusal, but here we have an intelligent friend who not only conducts us to every place of interest in the second city in the empire, but takes us through the finest scenery of Scotland, right away to Inverness in the far North. To the stranger it will prove a safe and welcome companion, while to those who have before traversed the route it will prove like the intelligent remarks of an accurate and observing friend. To our Masonic friends it will possess an additional interest as it contains a calendar of all the lodges chapters and encampments on the route with the times of their meeting and the address of their Secretary. No Mason visiting Scotland should be without a copy.

THE RED CROSS OF CONSTANTINE IN THE UNITED STATES.

We have received the "Proceedings of the second annual Grand Conclave of the Knights of the Red Cross of Constantine and appendant Orders of Pennsylvania," held at Allentown, Pennsylvania, on the 20th February last. From this notice we learn that the Order, which was established but one year previously, now numbers, in Pennsylvania, no less than 14 Conclaves which are named and located as follows:—

1. (U. S.) Premier, Washington.
2. Orient, Bloomsberg.
3. Constantiae, Reading
4. Trinity, Harrisburg.
5. Mary, Allentown.
6. Bellefonte, Bellefonte.
7. Allegheny, Allegheny.
8. Philadelphia, Philadelphia,
9. Earl of Bective, Towanda.
10. Red Rose, Columbia.
11. Rose of Sharon, Rouseville.
12. Corry, Corry.
13. Sage, Franklin.
14. Lily of the Valley, Titusville.

Appended to the "proceedings" are the statutes of the order, including neatly executed engravings of the regalia, and a draft of bye-laws for the general use of subordinate Conclaves, and a variety of forms of petition, recommendation, charters, dispensations, returns, diplomas, documents, certificates, reports, &c. The whole exhibits an extraordinary state of completeness, notwithstanding the short time that the order has been established in the State.

The address of the M.J. Grand Sovereign, Calvin L. Stowell, is a document so full of interest that we feel constrained to make therefrom the following copious extracts:—

ADDRESS.

Eminent and Illustrious Knights of the Imperial Ecclesiastical, Military, and Masonic Order of Knights of the Red Cross of Constantine, and the Appendant Orders of the Grand Council of the State of Pennsylvania.

Called by your unanimous vote to be the first Grand Sovereign of the first Grand Council of Knights of the Red Cross of Constantine, established in the United States by authority of the Earl of Bective, Most Illustrious Grand Sovereign of the Grand Council of England, I cannot be insensible of the high honour conferred on me, and from my heart thank you sincerely and fraternally for this proof of your estimation of my Masonic abilities.

Whatever these may be, I shall place them all upon our Masonic Christian altar, and devoutly ask the Grand Master of Assemblies, for the sake of His Son, our Saviour, to direct and prosper all our doings, so that the pure, elevating, and evangelising principles of our Order may be disseminated to promote His glory, the good of every Christian Knight, and our brethren of every degree in the great Masonic family scattered over the face of the earth.

Knighthood, with its principles, its ceremonies and its grandeur, runs far back in the history of time, and since man first began to wage war against his fellow, have marks and badges been given by the Commander to the meritorious for signal services and daring exploits.

No nation has ever existed which has not been distinguished by some peculiar and characteristic device. Thus, the Israelites chose the Hebrew letter Tau; the Scythians, a thunderbolt; the Egyptians, an ox; the Thracians, a likeness of Mars, the god of war; the Romans, an eagle; the Persians, a bow and arrows; Prussia, a double-headed eagle; England, a lion; and our own beloved America, the eagle.

The founder of our Order, the immortal Constantine—immortal, because he was the first Christian Emperor—chose for our distinctive badge, the cross and its motto, In hoc signo vinces.

What thrilling memories are clustered around this device. A Saviour and his sufferings. His birth, life, death, resurrection, and ascension are all presented to our view. His divine teachings all tending to redeem this sinned world, and regenerate its inhabitants, through the potent, silent but all-powerful and all subduing influence of the cross, for by this sign we conquer.

Since the time of Constantine other Orders of Knighthood have been established, (numbering about seventy-three,) as the historic page abundantly shows, but none can boast of a voice uttered from on high with the emblem of man's redemption as its device, neither can they be compared with the Red Cross of Constantine, the Order of the Holy Sepulchre and the Order of St. John, as the means of elucidating to the novitiate those eternal truths taught in our first Great Light.

Our Orders, in their history, their conception, and their grandeur, infinitely surpass all others, and He who spake to the great Emperor, in the year of our Lord 313, and exhibited to him, both the sign and the motto, not only at the setting of the sun, but in his dreams, in the night season, has rendered them imperishable and deathless.

We greet all other legitimate Orders of Knighthood, and recognise them as co-labourers in the dissemination of great moral principles, but while they gather truth from some event of a national character, or by exhibiting the public and private virtues of an individual, of warriors or statesmen, our Order teaches lessons far more sublime. It infuses into the heart the genuine principles of the new dispensation, of Christ as the Second Person of The Trinity, co-equal and co-eternal with the Father and the Holy Spirit. It teaches our members to keep our solemn vows continually before their minds, commanding us to feed the hungry, give drink to thirsty, clothe the naked with a garment, visit and ransom the captives, give the widows and orphans where to lay their heads, visit and relieve the sick, and thereby become Christ-like in principle and action. In assuming our vows these tenets are inwrought in our hearts, and are therefore necessarily carried out in the active duties of life, because we are taught to love one another, to bear with one another, not to speak evil of one another, to pray with and for one another, and to unite together as children of one parent, and brethren of one family.

Such are the precepts and principles taught within and without our Conclaves; hence our Knights are reminded of the duties they owe to their God, their country, their fellow-men, and particularly their brethren and Sir Knights, and by following the divine injunctions, I may, in language of our ritual, truly say, that "faith will sustain their steps, immortal hope cheer their souls, and charity crown their lives." Nay, these eternal truths will alone satisfy Divine justice, justify man's repentance, and prepare him by deeds of mercy, pure beneficence and an humble and contrite heart, for the happiness of the life that now is, and for that which is to come through the power of the cross, for by that sign we conquer.

It is eminently fitting on this occasion that I should give a concise history of our three working Orders, that all people may know we practice no deception upon our novitiates, but teach them lessons of truth and history, deduced as well from the historic page as the inspiration of God's Holy Word.

First in order is the Red Cross of Constantine. This is the most ancient order of Knighthood, dating back to the 28th of October, A.D. 313, and is, consequently, about seven centuries older than any other. Although it bears upon its brow the imprint of age, yet amid the fluctuations of empires, kingdoms, republics, societies, aye men themselves, it stands forth to-day in the vigour and strength of its manhood. As age after age is added to its existence, its principles become brighter and brighter, extending themselves throughout the world for the evangelisation of man, and the promotion and practice of Christian truths.

It is unnecessary, on the present occasion, to give you a full history of Constantine. Suffice to say that he has rendered his name immortal by renouncing paganism, and embracing Christianity.

Gibbon, the historian, thus speaks of him in his history of the Roman Empire: "From the first moment of Constantine's accession to the throne, he declared himself the protector of the Christian Church, and at length deserved the appellation of the first Emperor who publicly professed and established the Christian religion."

He adds: "The motives of his conversion, as they may be deduced from policy, from conviction, or from remorse, rendered Christianity the reigning religion of the Roman Empire, hence it followed that every victory was productive of relief or benefit to the Church."

Eusebius, the great church historian, and as we shall presently show, the intimate and confidential friend of Constantine, in his ecclesiastical history, thus adds his testimony to that of Gibbon: "But the mighty and victorious Constantine, adorned with every virtue of religion, restored the Roman Empire to its ancient state of one united head, extending its peaceful sway around the world, from the rising sun to the opposite regions, to the north and the south, even to the last borders of the declining day." "With choirs and hymns in the cities and villages, they celebrated and extolled first of all God, the universal King, because they were so taught; then they also celebrated the praises of the pious Emperor Constantine."

Edicts were issued by the victorious Emperor, full of clemency, and laws were enacted indicative of liberality and genuine religion.

The friends and enemies of Constantine, whether Christian, Infidel, or Pagan, all bestow on him the proud and enviable title of the first Christian Emperor.

He assumed the government on July 26th, A.D. 306, by right of succession, as well as by the voice of the military and the people, to whom he had become endeared by his many acts of generosity, and eventually, after years of service in behalf of the Roman people, he was hailed by the title of Emperor, and name of Augustus.

The occasion of instituting the Order of the Red Cross, was a vision which he saw prior to the battle fought by him on October 28th, A.D. 313, at a place called Saxa Rubra, about nine miles from Rome, and in the neighbourhood of the Cremera, a small river immortalised by the valor and death of the three hundred Fabii.

There Constantine, with ninety thousand foot soldiers and eight thousand horsemen, met his adversary, Maxentius, who had recently been declared Emperor by a portion of the people, and who commanded an army of one hundred and seventy thousand footmen and eighteen thousand horsemen, and utterly routed the usurper.

In attempting to escape across the Milvian bridge, the weight of the hurrying horsemen caused it to fall, and Maxentius was drowned in the river Tiber, owing partly to the fact that his body was enveloped in a cumbersome armour, which he wore to protect his life, but which ultimately hastened his death.

This battle is regarded as the greatest achievement of Constantine's life, but the victory was perhaps owing to the influence over the soldiery of his sacred vision of the previous night, which infused into them the highest enthusiasm and military courage.

The Order of Knighthood has for its foundation-stone the vision of Constantine, which is asserted to be true by the learned Bishop Eusebius, to whom it was communicated by that Emperor himself.

The latter, as our traditional history states, "afterwards instituted the Order of the Red Cross as a memorial of the Divine miracle which effected his conversion to the Christian faith," and as a reward for the valour of his soldiers.

On the day previous to the ever memorable battle in which Maxentius was defeated, as Constantine was seated in his tent door "reflecting upon sublunary things," and the dangers of the approaching expedition, and "meditating also upon the various religious opinions which then divided mankind," he breathed forth a prayer to the First Great Cause "for inspiration and wisdom to choose the right path in which to persevere."

As he turned his face towards the setting sun, he beheld a celestial sign in the form of a passion cross, surmounted by the Latin inscription, In hoc signo vinces, or translated, By this sign thou shalt conquer.

This extraordinary appearance naturally created the utmost astonishment in the minds of the Emperor and his whole army, he himself regarding it as an answer to his pious ejaculations, and thenceforth he ranged himself as a subject of the Great Captain of our Salvation, regarding Jesus as the divine Saviour of men.

In the night season, as he lay upon his couch in refreshing sleep, he beheld in a dream the same sign and inscription, thereby confirming the event, and fixing in his mind the resolution that henceforward he would obey the New Law, take up the cross and follow the footsteps of the Lamb, by which means alone he expected to rebuild in his heart the Temple of God.

The following morning he communicated his dream to his officers and soldiers, and they too avowed their faith in the God of the Christians, and in commemoration of the event the Emperor directed his soldiers to wear upon their armour a red cross and sixteen stars, denoting the sixteen letters of the mysterious words.

Gibbon, the historian, thus describes the effect of the vision: "The same symbol (the cross) sanctified the arms of the soldiers of Constantine. The cross glittered on their helmets, was engraved on their shields, was interwoven into their banners, and the consecrated emblem adorned the person of the Emperor himself."

Constantine directed a standard to be made, which was named the labarum. It is thus described: "A long pike, a transverse beam, to which was attached a silken vail, wrought with images of the monarch and his children. On the top was a crown of gold inclosing the mysterious monogram representing the cross, with the initial letters of the name of Christ.

This consecrated banner was committed to the care of fifty chosen men, who were to defend it with their lives, because it was the emblem of power and courage.

When it was carried into battle the sight of the labarum or royal banner animated the soldiers, and scattered terror and death amongst its enemies.

It was the effect of the vision, the dream, the standard and the faith of Constantine, which, on the subsequent day, procured for him the victory over Maxentius and his army.

The Senate of Rome, to demonstrate its appreciation of his military services, and above all, of the truth of the Christian religion, caused to be erected in the very centre of Rome a statue of Constantine, with a cross in his right hand, with the inscription, "By this sign thou shalt conquer."

Medals on which were engraved this symbol were also made and distributed among the people.

Hence the vision of Constantine has been made the foundation-stone of the Order of Knights of the Red Cross, and upon no safer stone can it rest than the Rock of Ages.

The order teaches us faith, unity and zeal, and to carry out in our daily lives the divine principles of charity and truth, based upon the new law, which will admit all true and faithful followers of Jesus into that immortal temple not made with hands eternal in the heavens, for In hoc signo vinces. By the sign of the cross and the merits of Christ alone we can conquer.

CELEBRATION OF THE 150TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE LODGE OF EMULATION, NO. 21.

The Lodge of Emulation, No. 21, celebrated the attainment of the 150th year of its age on Monday last, at the Castle Hotel, Richmond, under the presidency of its W.M., Bro. Thomas White, whose family have been members of this lodge for more than a hundred years. The celebration was one of the most magnificent that could have been given, and for the purpose of furnishing additional éclat to the proceedings, all the Grand Officers were invited to partake of the lodge's hospitality. Of these only some were able to accept the invitation, but Lord Balfour of Burleigh in declining it expressed his great regret that other engagements prevented his joining the other brethren under the W.M.'s banner. The banquet was served in the beautiful dining-hall overlooking the Thames, which afforded sufficient space for the brethren to enjoy themselves without the disagreeable attendants of heated air and crowded tables.

The W.M. was supported on his right by the Grand Chaplain, the Rev. A. Bruce Fraser, Bro. John Hervey, G.S.; Bro. James Glaisher, G.S.D.; Bro. Joshua Nunn, P.G.S.B.; Bro. J. A. Rucker, P.G.S.; and among the visitors were Bros. Geo. Burt, 18; D. C. Nicholls, 198; G. Gurney, 28; G. W. Hubbuck, 58; D. W. Pentecost, 231; W. H. Trego, 1; E. W. Davis, 95; and E. L. Caffin.

An excellent pamphlet of 30 pages, handsomely printed by Norris and Son, compiled by the historiographer of the lodge, Bro. Brackstone Baker, P.G.D., gave the history of the lodge, its distinguished members, and the events connected with its career. From this useful little book we are informed that on the 15th of May, 1723, old style (26th May, new style) a warrant of Constitution was granted under the seal of Masonry, authorising certain brethren to assemble and hold a regular lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, and which lodge was accordingly opened at the Mourning Bush Tavern in Aldersgate-street, in the City of London, and called the Mourning Bush Lodge. The meaning of Mourning Bush at first sight not being quite clear, further search into Bro. Baker's pamphlet explains that the loyalty of a former landlord induced him, when Charles I was beheaded, to cover with black crape the bush which was the sign of the tavern. The original warrant was lost, and a warrant of confirmation was granted by Grand Lodge to the Emulation Lodge, and signed by Grand Secretary, William Henry White. The Emulation Lodge seems to have been a mixture of various lodges, part of its early history being associated with the Constitution Lodge and part with the Mourning Bush. The patent of the Constitution was granted on the 11th April 1767, and the lodge met at the Constitution Coffee-house, Bedford-street, Covent-garden. This lodge then stood No. 390 on the register, so that even at that time the number of lodges was numerous. The lodge books shew that the lodge used to pay for badges for the brethren and visitors, and it was not until 1814 that brethren found their own aprons. Lodge fees were not so heavy then as now; the three degrees were communicated for two guineas, and the subscription to the lodge was only 7s. 6d. a quarter. The Constitution Lodge was not long-lived under its original founders, for in three years and a-half dissensions were manifest among the members, the minutes were kept in a slovenly manner, brethren resigned, and it was resolved to wind up, sell the jewels and pay the debts. It was, however, revived by Bro. W. H. White and others, who removed it, in 1770, to the Guildhall Coffee-house, and named it the Lodge of Emulation. Bro. White was Master in 1771, 1772, 1774, and 1777, and in 1780 became Grand Secretary. At this time there was a great improvement in the keeping of the lodge minutes.

In 1771 the lodge left the Guildhall Coffee-house, and removed to the St. Paul's Head, Cateaton-street, and in 1773 it again removed, this time to the London Tavern. There it remained until it was united with the Mourning Bush Lodge in 1780. In 1773 a lodge of instruction was formed by Bro. White; in 1776 such lodge was held at the Fleece, in Well-court, Queen-street, and a few months later at Cole's Coffee-house. In 1780 the union with the Mourning Bush Lodge occurred, and was conducted with much formality and exchange of courtesies.

The united lodges met at the St. Paul's Head, Cateaton-street. From this time the prosperity of the lodge may be dated, as the initiations and affiliations became very numerous. On the 18th March, 1799, Bro. W. White, proposed his son, W. H. White, for initiation, and on the 15th April he took the two first degrees. In a year and eight months he became Master of the lodge, and was re-elected as such Master in 1804, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9. On May 9, 1810, he was appointed Grand Secretary jointly with his father, and so continued till the union of the two Grand Lodges in 1813. His exertions were constantly recognised, and a resolution to that effect, with a handsome jewel, were presented to him on the 21st Jan., 1811. Other names not less noteworthy are connected with this lodge. Bro. W. P. Norris was initiated in it 21st May, 1798. On the death of his father-in-law, Bro. Stephen Clark, in 1799, he was elected Treasurer, an office in which he was succeeded by his son in 1836, who held it till his death in 1857. The office of Treasurer was thus in the same family for 82 years. His son, Bro. T. R. Norris, is still a P.M. Bro. James Deans was initiated in this lodge, as was also his son, who was afterwards G. Sword Bearer. In 1816 Bro. Thomas Taylor joined the lodge, and his son Joseph was initiated on 18th Jan. 1819. On 20th April 1857, he was elected Treasurer. He held the office, however, only two years, for he died suddenly on 7th April 1859, after a membership of 40 years, and his son Thomas, the present holder of the key, succeeded him. Bro. Baker bears testimony to the great service this brother has rendered the lodge by the preparation of an alphabetical and analytical index to the minute books, a work which he describes as "of intelligent industry unequalled in its kind," affording a ready reference to all occurrences. The centenary festival of the lodge was held on May 27th, 1823, at the George and Vulture, when a number of Grand Officers attended, and on Monday last the completion of another fifty years led to the celebration we are now recording.

On the clearing of the cloth,

The W.M., in proposing the "Health of the Queen," and that of "The M.W.G.M.," spoke of Her Majesty as the daughter of a Mason and the mother of a Mason; and of the Marquis of Ripon as a Grand Master under whom Freemasonry was increasing, and prospering more and more every day. In giving the toast of "The Past Grand Master," he said he was sure all the brethren would agree with him in regretting that they had now to omit the late Earl of Zetland from this toast. With respect to the Prince of Wales, he had shewn himself very anxious to do all he could for Freemasonry, and had already occupied the chair of W.M. of at least one lodge, the Royal Alpha.

This toast having been duly honoured,

The W.M. proposed the toast of "The R.W. the D.G.M. and the Grand Officers present and past." The Grand Officers so far from thinking that when they were made Grand Officers it was for services already rendered, and therefore had no need to do anything more for Masonry, still continued to be hard working Masons and performed their duties as members of the numerous committees of Grand Lodge with zeal and fidelity. Among these Grand Officers who were then present were the Rev. A. Bruce Fraser, G. Chaplain, Bro. John Hervey, G. Secretary; J. Glaisher, G. S. Deacon, (a name well known in the world of science as well as in Masonry), Bro. Joshua Nunn, who was also well known in Freemasonry, more especially perhaps in connection with the Masonic Charities. There was also Bro. Brackstone Baker, a P.M. of this lodge, who with the rest, was a fair type of the good men and true who had helped to raise the position of the Order.

Bro. the Rev. A. Bruce Fraser, G. Chaplain, in reply said, I have several times lately had the pleasure of returning thanks for this toast. To night it is a great pleasure to do so, because you will excuse the expression, it has been most awfully jolly to me, so much so, that I have but one regret, and that is, that I can scarcely hope to be present at the bi-centenary of this lodge. I assure you it is a subject of serious regret to both the Grand Secretary and myself, and I have no doubt that other brethren at the table will share our feelings. I shall now conclude by thanking you in the name of the Grand Officers.

Bro. James Glaisher, S.G.D., in giving the "Health of the W.M.," said he felt it a great privilege to be present on so great an occasion as the 150th anniversary of this lodge; it was certainly a very grand occasion, but it was a still greater privilege that that he should be permitted to propose the health of the brother who had the high honour, by fortuitous circumstances, to be the W.M. of the lodge at the time it attained that great age. Bro. Brackstone Baker had prepared a history of the lodge, from which it would be seen that Bro. White's family name was conspicuous as a leading member of the lodge for many years back. The family had given some important members to the Order. One, Bro. W. H. White, had been Grand Secretary, and let them consider what were the qualifications for that high rank. It required a perfect knowledge of Freemasonry, not in theory, but in practice; he had to be almost more than a man: he had to bear with all the failings and ignorance of Freemasons who went to him for information, and when they were wrong to set them right. Such a man was the late Bro. W. H. White, and it was a proud position for the W.M. of the Emulation Lodge on the present occasion to inherit a name which was known all over the Craft, and not confined to this lodge. The W.M. must feel as he ought to feel, and as they all felt, proud that he should be there. They all know how good and kind a man he was, and as an instance he might mention that he (Bro. Glaisher) had recently to require his aid for a case which required great attention from the W.M., when he alone could perform what was required; and he was happy to say that the admirable way in which it was done proved that the Masonic feeling of the Whites ran fully within him. (Cheers.)

The W.M. after the toast had been enthusiastically drunk, said:—I hardly know on the present occasion how to return my thanks for the almost overpowering manner in which Bro. Glaisher proposed my health, and you, brethren, have received it. I am sorry to say, that though there is a Bro. W. H. White present, I am not the fortunate bearer of that name; however, I am proud to bear the name of White, and especially proud to be the W.M. of this lodge on the occasion of its 150th anniversary; and in addition to that, I am still more proud perhaps to be the fourth, I think it is, in direct descent of the name of White who have been Masters of this lodge. Brethren, I beg to thank you.

Bro. John Hervey, G.S., said that although wishing a more capable brother than himself had been deputed to propose "The Health of the Past Masters," no one could do it more heartily and sincerely than he, as he had long been a guest at the Lodge of Emulation, and had been present at the installation of many of their P.Ms., excepting indeed Bro. Wing. When he told them that he was present at the installation of their Treasurer, Bro. Taylor, they might judge that he was well acquainted with the proceedings of this lodge, and its good feeling. It was indeed an old friend of his, and therefore he thought they could not have selected a more suitable brother to propose this toast. He agreed with Bro. Glaisher that it must be a proud thing for the W.M. to find himself after 103 years a representative of the house of White as Master or the lodge. Bro. W. H. White was Master about the year 1772, or 3, and now his great grandson sat in his seat. But it was not only to Bro. White that it must be gratifying to be present on this occasion; there was another brother, Stephen Norris, whose family, not quite so long, but for 80 years held the office of Treasurer to the lodge. There was also Bro. Taylor, whose family had been represented in the lodge for many years, and as that brother now held the office of Treasurer, it shewed that he was equally respected as his forefathers. These facts being brought before the brethren must convince them that the Lodge of Emulation occupied a glorious position in the annals of Masonry. Few lodges could enumerate three families who had been in them for such a lengthened period, their descendents still continuing, and he hoped, would continue, for many years to come, members of the lodge. That the Emulation Lodge would continue to hold a high rank in the Craft he thought none of them would venture to dispute, and in giving "Health and Prosperity to the Emulation Lodge" he felt it was not only a toast which might be called the toast of the evening, but one which they would all drink with the most cordial feeling, and with the highest aspirations and hope for the future of the lodge. It was a pity the trains would not allow them to remain long, happy and jolly as they had been, but he could not allow them to separate without making one further remark. He must associate this toast with the health of one who was equally revered in the lodge with those he had already mentioned, "Bro. Wing,"—(Cheers), the father of the Lodge of Emulation, who was looked up to with the kindest feelings, not alone by the members of the lodge, but by the Craft at large. He had had the honour of knowing Bro. Wing for a great number of years, and although Grand Chaplain and Bro. Glaisher had not been able to settle which of the Grand Officers should return thanks at the bi-centenary of the lodge, he trusted Bro. Wing would be present to hear whoever might then propose success and continued prosperity to it.

Bro. Wing said that every member of the lodge must be proud of being present that day, and hearing the gratifying observations that had been so kindly made by the Grand Secretary. One hundred and fifty years was an extraordinary age for a lodge to attain! Grand Secretary had kindly wished success and continued prosperity to the lodge, but he was sure no one could more cordially wish the same than the Past Masters. Such a long course of prosperity must prove that the lodge had been well conducted, and that Freemasonry had been carried out faithfully by those who had had to instruct the members of the lodge. He hoped that the lodge would always be as well managed, and he had not the slightest doubt that those to whom they would leave their duties would not be unmindful of the great things that had been achieved by their predecessors. The proceedings of the evening had been exceedingly gratifying to him, and he thought it a great compliment that so many visitors had travelled such a distance from London to honour the celebration by their presence.

Bro. George Singer then proposed "The Health of the Visitors." The lodge had always been glad to receive visitors, and it was no less rejoiced on the centenary and a half of its existence to see such a goodly array of brethren from other lodges. He sincerely hoped that every individual had enjoyed himself, and he further desired that every member of the lodge would always endeavour to sustain the character the lodge had hitherto enjoyed of extending hospitality to their brethren.

Bro. J. A. Rucker: It seems such a treat to return thanks for the visitors this evening, that I hardly like to say I wish it had fallen to some one else. I therefore feel that I cannot do otherwise than express that feeling. Our Bro. Singer has waited upon you with a flood of compliment to us that really has almost overpowered me, and I hardly think that I can worthily, as far as the feelings of those brethren standing up with me are concerned, respond to it. Worshipful Master, I am sure I may say this for every one of those brethren that when you are celebrating the 150th anniversary of this lodge, and we concur entirely in the expressions that have fallen from your oldest member and father of the lodge, that a lodge must have been well conducted from the first that could have continued to this day in such prosperity as the Emulation Lodge does now exhibit; and we feel that having inscribed our names in the book as being present on this anniversary we have contributed to sending our names down to posterity, together with the members of the Emulation Lodge. We thank you all, brethren, cordially and heartily, for the opportunity you have given us of being present on this very happy occasion. We thank you for the splendid hospitality with which you have treated us. I cannot say, as I have often heard it said, that we hope to be here at the bi-centenary; that is a joke too often played upon to-night; but I may say this on behalf of myself and my brother visitors, that whoever may be present, we trust that the Emulation Lodge may very long continue to exist an honour to the Craft of Freemasons in England. We again thank you for the kindness you have shown in inviting us, for the hospitality you have displayed to us, and for the cordiality with which you have received this toast.

Bro. Taylor, P.M., proposed, "The Masonic Charities," which he said the Emulation Lodge had always supported. He congratulated the Craft on the enormous subscriptions which those Institutions obtained, which he contrasted with what were collected by institutions which were not Masonic. This one fact spoke for itself—Masons were eminently charitable; and for the information of those distinguished brethren who were present he would say, that whereas the contributions to the Fund of Benevolence were fluctuating and dependent on accidental circumstances, they had by a resolution of the lodge placed it upon a secure and firm basis, having decided that they should give one-tithe or tenth of their income for the purpose of Masonic benevolence. That the Lodge of Emulation might continue to prosper, and that it would be able to send members to support the great charities was not only his wish, but the wish of every member of the lodge. He would couple with the toast the name of Bro. Joshua Nunn, the Vice-President of the Board of Benevolence, who, as well as Bro. Rucker, had distinguished himself as a supporter of the charities.

Bro. Joshua Nunn, P.G.S.B.:—In the name of the Masonic Charities I thank you for the kind expression that have been used by your Treasurer. I may say that the Lodge of Emulation has done for the Charities what few lodges have been able to do; and when we are told by your Treasurer that one-tenth of its revenue is to be devoted to that purpose, it shows how highly you appreciate those peculiar views all Masons should take, and which are the mainstay and backbone of Freemasonry. I think I may say with pride that there is no other charity in the world that can show the return the Masonic Charities have this year. Over £22,000 have been collected for our three great Charities, and when you know that every month the Board of Benevolence distribute from £400 to £500 to those that are needy or distressed, some to the widows and the orphans, some to those who through misfortune, not their own fault, have fallen into decay, I am sure it must give pleasure to our hearts, and prove that the brightest jewel in Masonry is charity. It is true I have been connected for years with Bros. White and Rucker, in the Charities of the Order, and I have felt great pride in being so connected with them. I am glad to hear that the Emulation Lodge are going to set aside a tenth of their income for the purposes of Charity, and I hope it is an example which will be followed by other lodges. In the name of the Charities, I thank you.

Bro. Hubbuck proposed "The Health of the P.M.'s" and informed the brethren of the great service they had been to the lodge.

Bro. G. Smith replied, and said that all the Past Masters were proud that the chair of the lodge was occupied this 150th year by the great grandson of an old P.M., not only because he was a good Mason and a good man, but because he had ingratiated himself in the affections of the other members of the lodge. When the W.M. retired into the rank of Past Master, he hoped they would still spend many happy years together.

Bro. Brackstone Baker proposed the "Health of the Officers," to which Bro. Stoltenhoff responded, and the W.M. then gave "The Health of Bro. Sewell and Bro. Godden," the former of whom had obtained the excellent band which had played, and the latter of whom had had all the hard work of Secretary to the Committee for getting up the celebration.

Bro. H. J. Godden, P.M., responded, and was glad that the efforts which he and Bro. Sewell had made had met with the approbation of the W.M. and brethren.

The party then broke up, and the brethren returned to town.

A beautiful selection of music was played at intervals during the evening by the band of the Royal London Militia, by permission of Col. Sir W. A. Rose and the officers of the regiment.

Bro. C. T. Speight, the respected Tyler of the lodge, performed the duties of toastmaster most satisfactorily.

MARK MASONRY AND BRO. F. G. TISDALL.

BY BRO. WILLIAM J. HUGHAN.
[From Mackey's National Freemason.]

A friendly correspondence, relative to the Masonic claims of the Grand Mark Lodge of England, between F. G. Tisdall and W. James Hughan, was published in Pomeroy's Democrat, New York, the first portion of which appeared in the issue of the 30th March, 1872, but in reality the matter in dispute commenced from the 17th February, when Bro. Tisdall, as editor of the "Masonic Department," made some remarks adverse to the propriety of Grand Chapter's affiliation with the Grand Mark Lodge by representation. As, however, the legal status of the latter body was admitted, and its right to the government of the degree in question was fully recognized, we do not think it necessary at this time to again refer to the arguments pro and con. for the reciprocal appointment of representatives by the two grand bodies. The views of those unfavorable to affiliation by representation, although at the same time heartily supporting recognition, were ably expounded by Bro. Tisdall in the paper mentioned, as also in the Freemasons' Monthly Magazine for May, 1872, by the veteran editor, Bro. Charles W. Moore, and the Evergreen for March, 1872, in an article by Bro. Parvin, Grand Secretary of Iowa. We endeavoured to make known the arguments which might fairly entitle the Mark Grand Lodge to affiliation by representation, as well as recognition, by all Grand Chapters which adopt the Mark Master's degree as preparatory to exaltation, (which all do wherever the English language is spoken, save in England,) and we were assisted by our Bro. Langridge, the junior editor of the Evergreen, (Grand Secretary of the Grand Chapter of Iowa,) and Bro. V. D. Taylor, of Fort Madison, chairman of "Foreign Correspondence Committee, Iowa." The Grand Chapters of Pennsylvania, Iowa, Canada, &c., having extended the right hand of fellowship in a most hearty and fraternal manner, we intend to let the matter rest for the time, and desire to witness practically how such friendly interchange of representatives will affect the general interests of Capitular Freemasonry. In the discussion Bro. Tisdall made one or two observations which to us seemed somewhat apocryphal, and we had intended to reply to them, but unfortunately our courteous disputant's health gave way in the interim, and, in order to assist his recovery, all literary correspondence and editorial duties were for a time rigidly abstained from. So the question remained in statu quo until lately, when we received from the author the "Centennial Celebration of St. John's Lodge No. 1," 1870, including an address by Bro. F. G. Tisdall, W.M., 1857, which we were assured would prove our position historically, the Mark Master's Masonry to be erroneous. Accordingly we have examined the evidence, and now submit the result of the ancient Craft.

The historical sketch by Bro. Tisdall is most interesting, and so well written, that it really seems a pity to disturb it by the cold hand of criticism; but it is desirable under present circumstances to do so, and therefore we will proceed with our task. Our brother tells us that "one hundred years ago this evening (7th December, 1857), by virtue of an authority emanating from the Grand Lodge of Ancient Freemasons of England, St. John's No. 2 Prov. No. 272 English, and now No. 1 New York Registry, was instituted, with authority to enter, pass, and raise, having also also annexed a warrant with power to make Mark Masons."

The title "Ancient Freemasons" must not be taken to mean the seceding body known as the "Ancients" (or "Athol Masons") of England, for we find that the warrant was granted by Lord Aberdour, Grand Master, the Grand Secretary being Samuel Spencer, who represented the Grand Lodge familiarly known at that period by the name of the "Moderns," from which the so-called "Ancients" seceded, but subsequently united at the "Union of 1813."

In "Webb's Freemason's Monitor" (p. 314, edit. 1808) we read that the Prov. Grand Lodge of New York was constituted by "a warrant from the Duke of Athol," dated London, 5th September, A.D. 1781; so likely enough the St. John's Lodge joined that body, which was accordingly a departure from their original warrant, granted by the first Grand Body. In 1787 (September 5) the Grand Lodge of New York was formed on an independent basis, but still apparently with a bias in favour of the "Ancients," or seceders; and hence the St. John's still leaned to the "Athol Masons," rather than to the "Moderns" (incorrectly so designated by their opponents in England.)

We may state that all the Lodges warranted in the United States by authority of English Freemasons, prior to A.D. 1753, were under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of the "Moderns," the "Ancients" before that date having no separate organisation. We have the St. John's Lodge No. 2 New York, mentioned in a list of Lodges, under the regular Grand Lodge of England for A.D. 1765.

It seems that, "from the year 1757 to the year 1792, the records of the Lodge, though not entirely missing, are imperfect;" so we are not favoured with any excerpts of minutes affecting our discussion until "1795, December 11th," when the extracts of that date and others are given in full. "The following brethren were elected: Robert Cocks, Master; Robert Hunter, Senior Warden; H. Hays, Junior Warden. The Lodge numbered thirty-four members. September 9, 1796: The fees for admission of adjoining members were raised from 20s to 40s., and for initiation from £6 to £20. November 11: It was resolved, that the candidates pay a deposit fee. In this year the nights of meeting were changed from the second and fourth Wednesdays to the second and fourth Thursdays, and have remained since without alteration. There were four affiliations and seven initiations. The accounts of the St. John's Mark Lodge No. 1, made up to December 23, 1796, show a balance due to the treasury of £3 18s."

The next series of consecutive minutes we also transcribe from the history. "1801, December 20; The Lodge chose Ezra Weeks for Master; Thomas Richards, Senior Warden; John Sayre, Junior Warden. May 1, 1802: The Lodge moved from its old quarters, 89, William-street, to the City Hotel, the members of the Lodge subscribing £295 toward fitting up the room. May 20: The balance of funds belonging to St. John's Mark Lodge was paid over to the Treasurer of St. John's Lodge No. 1. There were seven initiations and three affiliations during the year."

Passing over certain minutes, which are both curious and valuable, we come to a short one of 1810, April 25: A committee of three was appointed "to obtain the warrant of the Mark Lodge, which is annexed to this Lodge;" but Bro. Tisdall reports: "I can find no trace of its having been recovered." He might (we surmise) with equal truth have observed that he could not find any trace of any such document being mentioned heretofore in the archives of the Lodge.

These are all the references to Mark Masonry we can discover throughout the racy history, and having thus given them due prominence, we will now turn to the remarks made by our brother, to which we at the time took exception.

Bro. Tisdall observed in Pomeroy's Democrat as follows: "We had the honour of being Master of St. John's Lodge, No. 1, New York city, in 1848, 1849, and 1850, and for the fourth time in 1857, the Lodge at the close of that year celebrating its centennial anniversary. These records gave the fullest evidence that what was asserted by the older Masons of the Lodge, as well as of other Lodges, was correct, and that the Lodge originally conferred the Mark degree. On the 24th October, 1794, the Lodge (as per records) determined that the sum for initiation of Modern Masons (including Mark degree) be reduced from £4 to 40s. In 1795 the minutes show that one Modern Mason was thus healed and admitted a full member of the Lodge. The minute-book of the Lodge, at the close of the year 1796, reads thus: "The accounts of St. John's Mark Lodge No. 1, made up to December 23, 1796, show a balance due to the treasury of £3 18s." meaning the treasury Master's Lodge.

Bro. Tisdall, in addition, stated that "These Records also showed not only that the Mark degree was given under the authority of the warrant, and that a special fee was paid for the same, but that the officers of the Master's Lodge were the officers of the Mark Lodge, the conferring of the degree preceding the conferring of that of Master Mason. This degree was continued to be conferred until May 20, 1862, under the Lodge warrant."

Whatever these records may contain, in the absence of an exact and complete transcript, we have simply to be guided by the few already copied and published; and we think it cannot be gainsaid, that none of these minutes prove Bro. Tisdall's position in the discussion to be correct. We promised to withdraw our assertions as to the Mark Master's degree not having been given in a Fellow Craft's Lodge, and the degree itself never having been authorised to be worked in any regular warrant of a Craft Lodge, on the production of evidence to the contrary; but in the absence of documentary proof, we cannot alter our views on the subject. Not one of the minutes published in Bro. Tisdall's History of St. John's Lodge declares the Mark Master's degree to have been given by authority of the warrant of lodge, or imparted, during the period of the lodge being open, in either of the three degrees; but they actually tend to confirm quite the opposite, as the disposable funds of the Mark Lodge No. 1 were paid to the treasurer of the St. John's Lodge, thereby evidently assuming the two lodges to be quite distinct; and moreover a committee of three was appointed by the St. John's Lodge, in 1810, "to obtain the warrant of the Mark Lodge, which is annexed to this lodge."

These quotations, to our mind, clearly prove that it was not the Craft Lodge which conferred the Mark degree, but the Mark Lodge, which met by virtue of a warrant or some authority wholly distinct from that by which the Craft Lodge was authorised to meet; and consequently there were separate meetings held for conducting the business of both bodies.

"The warrant of the Mark Lodge annexed to this Lodge" is a statement distinctly proving that the Mark warrant and the Craft warrant were two documents of a different and distinct character, and annexation means simply toleration by the members of the Craft Lodge, without even, necessarily, recognition. Chapters in England are annexed to lodges, but both are quite independent, and have their own separate funds, officers, assemblies, and laws.

Bro. Tisdall says that the sum for the initiation of a Modern Mason, "including the Mark degree," was reduced, on the 24th October, 1794, to forty shillings. We have turned to the history, and at page 10 we find a reference to the "Modern Masons," but not one word about the Mark degree. How is this? If the minute reads "including the Mark degree," why did not our brother say so? Surely he would not have omitted so important a resolution, and yet chronicled matters of comparatively trifling value, when considered in relation to the Mark degree and St. John's Lodge.

Knowing his quickness of perception and readiness to make known all facts of importance we are led to consider no such clause as "including the Mark degree" exists in the lodge records of the date specified. Even if such a clause does exist, and the fee for initiation of a Modern Mason amounted to forty shillings A.D. 1794, inclusive of the Mark degree, (although not in the history of St. John's Lodge,) that would only establish the fact of the fee securing more than the three degrees, but certainly not that the degree was given in a Craft Lodge; and should a minute be produced, as yet not made public, in which it is stated that the Mark degree was worked in a Craft Lodge, that would still be insufficient to disprove our position, as the "Mark degree" may mean the "Mark man," which we know was given to Fellow-Crafts in Scotland A.D. 1778, when and where the Mark Master's degree was confined to Master Masons; which latter is what we contend for as the general custom everywhere.

We regret being unable to find anything confirmatory, in the history of St. John's Lodge, of the officers of the Master's Lodge being the officers of the Mark Lodge, as we should gladly possess authentic transcripts of such occurrences, in which the officers of each are specified. This circumstance or custom, however, is not important, as it often is so now in England and Scotland, when the degrees are thus worked under the same roof, although at different times. A statement more to the point is as follows: the "conferring the Mark degree preceded the conferring of that of Master Mason." We shall be glad to have proof of this, especially if by that is meant the Mark Master's degree, which we have distinctly stated from the first is the one we allude to, and not that of the "Mark Man."

Another remark we must notice: "This degree (the Mark) continued to be conferred until May 20, 1862, under the Lodge warrant." Let Bro. Tisdall prove this, and we shall be satisfied, and own ourselves in the wrong. Let him do so, and then will be accomplished what hitherto, though often promised, has never been done, for up to the present time no Craft warrant has ever been exhibited which provides for the Mark degree being worked, whether Mark Man or Mark Master's, under its authority, and which is signed by the regular officers of any Grand Lodge in the world,

We take it that the St. John's Mark Lodge No. 1 was worked by some of the members of the St. John's Craft Lodge, and assumed the name and number of the latter. Independent Mark Lodges were scattered throughout the United States of America during the latter part of the last century and early in the present one. By independent we mean distinct from a Craft Lodge, and not under the wing of any Royal Arch Chapter, though sometimes under the General Grand Chapter. In "Webb's Masonic Monitor, A.D. 1808," there are the names recorded of seventeen such lodges under the jurisdiction of the Grand Royal Arch Chapter of New York, the numbers one and two being left vacant, evidently for two not in connection with the Grand Chapter. Lest it should be thought that these Mark lodges met by virtue of the Royal Arch Chapter's warrants, we should state that several were held where no Chapters met; and, moreover, the Constitutions of the General Grand Chapter of A.D. 1806 provided for warrants being granted to Mark Master's Lodges, separate from or without Royal Arch charters, and several clauses in these statutes refer especially to the regulations necessary for the government of the degree.

Bro. Tisdall declares the Mark degree to be "below and not above the third, * * * but a section of the second degree lopped off, and ought to be restored where it belongs."

As the only degree by the name of "Mark" worked in the United States is the "Mark Master's degree," it will be at once seen that either our brother is wrong or we are; and as we entirely and unequivocally deny Bro. Tisdall's assertions just quoted, (according to the evidence as yet made public,) the onus probandi certainly rests upon him to produce sufficient data to justify his new position, or his statements must fall to the ground. We think the inquiry one of considerable importance, inasmuch as if the Mark Master's degree was until late years regularly communicated to Fellow-Crafts, in regularly constituted Craft Lodge, it should be again placed in its proper position as an integral part of the second degree; while on the other hand, if the degree has never been worked, but only one known as the "Mark Man," then it is equally clear that the "Mark Master's degree," having been communicated only to Master Masons, is actually in a similar condition, historically and masonically speaking, to the Royal Arch, so far as its independence and superiority in grade are concerned with respect to the three first degrees.

Finally, let it be remembered that we are anxious simply to have the subject ventilated and examined by the light of facts; and if it can be proved that the Mark Master's degree is really nothing more than the second or superior portion of the Fellow-Craft degree, (which latter we consider much the older of the two as a degree,) then I shall be amongst the first in advocating its immediate restoration to its original condition.

WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.

THE UNVEILING OF THE REREDOS IN GLOUCESTER CATHEDRAL.

The arrangements for the ceremonial on the occasion of the presentation of the new reredos in the cathedral have now been completed. It appears by the revised programme that the ceremony will commence by the R.W. the Provincial Grand Master, Lord Sherborne, opening a Provincial Grand Lodge at the Bell Hotel at noon.

At one o'clock his lordship, with the other officers, will adjourn to the Deanery, where he will be received at luncheon, and met by the Mayor, the municipal body, the Canons of the Cathedral, and other guests. The service will commence at half-past three o'clock, when Dr. Wesley will play a voluntary. When the Provincial Grand Master enters at the west door the hymn, "The Church's one foundation," will be sung to Dr. Wesley's tune "Aurelia," as a processional. We believe the choir of Bristol Cathedral will be invited to assist. After the reredos has been unveiled the Hallelujah chorus from the "Messiah" will be sung; prayer will then be said, one of Dr. Wesley's Chant Services being used. The anthem will be from Bach, "Blessing, glory, wisdom, and thanks." Before the sermon, to be preached by the Rev. C. Raikes Davy, P.G. Chaplain of England and Provincial Grand Chaplain, the Old Hundred will be sung. After the sermon a voluntary will be played by Dr. Wesley.

A banquet will be held in the Bell Hotel in the evening, and it is expected that the cathedral gardens will be opened for promenade at the conclusion of Divine Service. A band will attend. A brass plate bearing this inscription is to be attached to the back of the reredos—"Glory to God in the Highest! This reredos was erected and presented by the Freemasons of the Province of Gloucestershire, June, A.D., 1873. The Rt. Hon. James Henry Legge Dutton, Baron Sherborne, P.G.M.; George Frederick Newmarch, D.P.G.M.; Thomas Gill Palmer, P.G., Treasurer; Edward Trinder, P.G. Secretary."

At the conclusion of the service the Masonic procession will return through the cathedral garden, and the east cloister, to the ancient chapter-room, where the presentation of the reredos will be formally made to the Dean by Lord Sherborne, with a list of the subscribers, beautifully written on vellum by Mr. Joseph Turner, of this city. As to the cost of the reredos, we may state that the contract with Mr. Redfern, who sculptured the figures, and with Messrs. Farmer and Brindley, who carried out the other portions of the work, amount to £1049, the whole of which has been defrayed by the Freemasons.—Gloucester Chronicle.

The San Francisco Masonic Mirror is republishing copious extracts from Bro. Emra Holmes' "Notes on the United Orders of the Temple and Hospital." We observed also that our Californian contemporary reproduced in a late number Bro. Wentworth Little's interesting article on the Buonapartes and Freemasonry, also collated from our columns. These evidences of the approval of our transatlantic brethren is very acceptable to us, as it will no doubt be to our readers.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS:—Wrong Made Right:—Every day that any bodily suffering is permitted to continue, renders it more certain to become chronic or dangerous. Holloway's purifying, cooling and strengthening pills are well adapted for irregularity of the human body and should be taken when the stomach is disordered, the liver deranged, the kidneys inactive, the bowels torpid, or the brains muddled. With this medicine every invalid, can cure himself, and those who are weak or infirm, through imperfect digestion, may make themselves stout and strong by Holloway's celebrated Pills. When the system is out of order and an unusual depression weighs down the spirits, a few timely doses of this medicine will dispel the threatening disease and spare suffering.—ADVT.

Masonic Tidings.

Ill. Robert Hamilton, 33°, of the Supreme Council of England, is the first member of that sovereign body who has visited this country. His sojourn among us for the past fortnight has been most agreeable. Masons of all grades in New York have vied in their courtesies to that "true English gentleman," and his early enforced departure for Canada will occasion much regret. He visits the Dominion on official Masonic business, and will sail thence direct for the shores of Albion. We bid him bon voyage, and a happy welcome to his nati land.—New York Dispatch.

There being no opposition to Mr. Dundas, his election as member of Parliament for the borough of Richmond took place on Monday. The formal nomination-paper was affixed in front of the Town Hall during the morning. The candidate was proposed and seconded by Alderman Smurthwaite and Councillor Croft. At one o'clock the Mayor, as returning officer, announced that John Charles Dundas, Esq., had been duly elected as a proper person to represent the borough of Richmond in Parliament. Everything passed off very quietly. At night Mr. Dundas issued a printed address to the electors, thanking them most heartily for the honour they had conferred upon him by returning him unopposed to Parliament as their representative. It would be his most earnest endeavour, he said, to preserve their confidence, and to prove, by attention to his duties in Parliament, his high appreciation of the responsible position in which they had placed him.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR. DISEASES OF THE LUNGS AND AIR-VESSELS.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR. Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy. SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsey, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 1rs. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.

*Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had Gratis of all Chemists.

YOUNG'S ARNICATED CORN AND UNION PLAISTERS are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d. and 1s. per box. May be had of most chemists. Observe the trade mark.—HY—without which none are genuine be sure and ask for YOUNG'S.

AROMATIC TINCTURE OF QUINOLINE For the prevention of FEVER, AGUE, and EFFECTS of MALARIA.

An Unfailing Remedy. Those who during the campaign in the Crimea, daily took a small quantity, passed unharmed through the Fever and Dysentery, that thinned the ranks. In Half, Quarter, and Pint Bottles. Prepared only by 270, Regent Street, London, W. May be had of all leading Firms in India and Colonies.

THOMAS WILKINSON,

WILKINSON'S BRONCHIO-THORACIC LOZENGES.

Prepared from the receipt of an Eminent Physician; experience has fully justified their recommendation as the most speedy remedy in Irritation of the Throat, Catarrhal Coughs, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, Spitting of Blood, &c. To public speakers and vocalists they are invaluable, as they impart a clear and beautiful tone to the voice. Free from opium, and of an agreeable taste. In bottles of one uniform size.

WHITMORE'S STOMACHIC and LIVER PILLS, composed of the Extracts of Dandelion, Turkey Rhubarb, and Jamaica Ginger.

No Pill is so efficacious in promoting Digestion, strengthening the Stomach, correcting Acidity, preventing or removing Headache, Giddiness, &c., arising from Costiveness, Debilitated Stomach, or Torpid Liver. They require no change of Diet, and the most delicate may take them with safety.

Taken as an adjunct with WILKINSON'S SARSAPARILLA with the greatest success,

In Bottles, Small, Medium and Large. Prepared only by THOMAS WILKINSON, 270, Regent Street, London, W.

May be had of all leading firms in India and Colonies.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF DRESS.

Shakespeare, who knew all qualities with a learned spirit of human dealing, rarely omits an opportunity of indicating how thoroughly he understood the Philosophy of Clothing. "The apparel," he says, "oft proclaims the man." Though the famous Lord Chesterfield, the author of the well-known "Letters to his Son," was not a great genius or a profound philosopher, he was a singularly shrewd man of the world, and was well fitted to pronounce a judgment or to offer advice on this subject. "I confess," he says, "that I cannot help forming some opinion of a man's sense and character from his dress, and I believe most people do so as well as myself." He gives excellent instructions to his son. "Take care always," he says, "that your clothes are well made and fit you, for otherwise they will give you an awkward air.

The foregoing remarks on the Philosophy of Dress are admirable, but they require to be supplemented with the advice to go to E. MOSES and SON, the celebrated MERCHANT TAILORS and OUTFITTERS, of the MINORIES and ALDGATE, NEW OXFORD-STREET, and TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD, who supply every description of Clothing, ready-made or made to measure, for Adults and Juveniles of all classes, and who offer to their customers the rare combination of excellence in materials and workmanship, the newest designs, and unparalleled cheapness.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

JERSEY.—La Césarée Lodge (No. 590).—The twenty-second anniversary meeting of this lodge was held on Thursday, the 29th May, at the Masonic Temple, for the purpose of installing the newly elected W.M. Immediately after four o'clock the lodge was opened by Bro. Jos. Gregg, W.M., supported by Bro. A. Viel, P.M., acting as S.W.; Ph. W. Binet, J.W.; A. Schmitt, P.M., Secretary; J. Durrell, P.M., Treasurer; E. J. Renouf, P.M.; J. Oatley, P.M.; Jos. Pallot, S.D. Among the visitors were Bro. Dr. J. Le Cronier, D.P.G.M.; W. Adams, W.M. 887; J. O. Le Sueur, P.M. 491, P.G. Secretary; Pitcher, W.M. 1003; J. Moss, P.M. 221, and others. The minutes were read and unanimously confirmed. The lodge was opened in the second degree, when, at the request of the W.M., Bro. Schmitt took the chair as Installing Master. Bro. Renouf presented Bro. Ph. W. Binet as W.M. elect. The ancient charges were read and duly assented to, and the Ob. of W.M. elect administered. The lodge was opened in the third degree, and all who had not passed the chair withdrew. A board of eleven Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. Binet was duly placed in the chair of K.S., in accordance with ancient custom. On the board being closed, the several classes of M.M.'s, Fellow Crafts and Entered Apprentices were in turn admitted, and the customary ceremonies were gone through with exactitude and impressiveness. After the usual addresses to the W.M. were delivered, the following appointments were made, the Installing Master in each case offering appropriate observations: Bro. Jos. Gregg, I.P.M.; Jos. Pallot, S.W.; H. E. le V. dit Durrell, J.W. and Org.; J. Durrell, Treas.; A. Schmitt, Sec.; Ph. Le Brun, S.D.; Captain Ph. Messervy, J.D.; Ph. Pinel, I.G.; Abram Graut, Assistant Secretary; and H. Du Jardin, Tyler. The Secretary read the proceedings of the Committee of Management of the lodge, containing several suggestions and recommendations, according to his custom, the Secretary presented a detailed report of the proceedings, during the biennial tenure of office by the retiring W.M. It was resolved that these reports be received, approved and entered on the minutes. The Secretary then said:—Brethren, since you have just awarded to our I.P.M. a meed of your approbation, I may be permitted to ask you to put it into a tangible form. Considering the zeal, the fidelity, and the valuable services rendered by Bro. Jos. Gregg to our lodge, considering his courtesy and kindness which every member received at his hands, considering also the attention which he has devoted to the business of the lodge, and also the ability and discretion with which he conducted its affairs, I propose that some token be presented to our worthy brother by the lodge, as a visible testimony of our feelings of gratitude, of esteem, which we entertain towards him. The proposition, seconded by the Treasurer was carried unanimously. No other business offering, the lodge was closed in love and perfect harmony. The brethren adjourned to the banqueting-room and sat down to a dinner provided by the Guardian of the Temple, Bro. W. H. Long. The W.M. presided, having on his right Bros. Dr. J.

LeCronier, D.P.G.M.; A. Schmitt, John Durrell, Ph. Binet, John O. LeSueur, and on his left Bros. Jos. Gregg, Wm. Adams, Renouf, A. Viel, and others. The Worshipful Masters of all the lodges in the province had been invited, several of them were present. After the removal of the cloth, the usual Masonic toasts were given. The Secretary proposed the toast to "The memory of our late M.W. Bro., the Earl of Zetland, alluding to his death with feelings of sorrow, enumerating the immense services he has rendered to the Craft during his long Grand Mastership of twenty-five years." He also proposed "The Memory of the thirty Members of the Lodge, who were removed to the Grand Lodge above, pointing out the respective worth of nearly all of them. After the last toast, given by the Tyler, the brethren separated about 9.30. (The Masonic Temple was put into mourning by command of Bro. Schmitt, Hon. Sec. to Masonic Temple Co. (Limited) on account of the death of the M.W. Past Grand Master, the Earl of Zetland.)

CAMDEN LODGE (No. 704).—This lodge met on Tuesday, at the Bull and Gate Tavern, Highgate-road, N.W., and was very fully attended. The W.M., Bro. Swatton, presided, and opened the lodge at 5.30, p.m. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, and the ballot taken for Mr. John Carter and Mr. E. G. Morris, the result in both cases being unanimous. The duties embraced the two initiations alluded to, and two passings, and the ceremonies were splendidly rendered by the W.M. Ten guineas, in addition to a previous donation of two guineas, were voted to a distressed brother. The vote was then taken for the W.M., and proved unanimous in favour of Bro. Boys, S.W. The proceedings then closed in perfect harmony. A banquet followed. The cloth having been removed and the usual Masonic toasts disposed of, the W.M. in the most impressive manner requested the brethren to drink in solemn silence to the revered memory of their late deceased Past Grand Master, the Earl of Zetland. The toast was received and responded to as desired. The health of the initiates having been proposed by the W.M., Bro. Morris responded, in a manner that was pleasing to the brethren, and trusted that all who joined, would enter Freemasonry with those favourable feelings and impressions that had just been stamped upon his mind for ever. He concluded by tendering his grateful thanks to Bro. P.M. Garratt, for introducing him, and the W.M. and brethren for having received him into their lodge. The health of the visitors was next proposed and responded to by Bros. P.M. Alexander, P.M. Myers, Collier, and other visiting brethren. Bro. Alexander, P.M., then rose, and eulogised the W.M. for the admirable working of his past onerous duties. Continually visiting other lodges, he had concluded that in all respects the Camden Lodge stood second to none. He further complimented Bro. Garratt for the excellent manner he invariably catered for the brethren. The healths of the W.M. and P.M.'s were likewise drank, and cordially responded to. Several excellent songs were given by brethren to the brilliant music rendered on the harmonium by Bro. Garratt, and the proceedings of a most enjoyable evening were at length brought to a close.

LANCASTER.—Rowley Lodge (No. 1051).—The regular meeting of the Rowley Lodge was held on Monday, 2nd June, at the Masonic Rooms, Athenæum. There were present Bros. W. J. Sly, W.M.; J. Daniel Moore, M.D., P.G.S.B. of England as I.P.M.; E. Airey, S.W.; James Taylor as J.W.; Richard Taylor as S.D.; T. Jackson as J.D.; H. Longman, I.G.; G. Sutton, Steward; J. Watson, Tyler; N. W. Helme. After some preliminary business had been transacted, the W.M. announced the lamented death of the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Zetland, P.G.M. of England, and moved that a resolution expressive of the regret of the lodge at his lordship's death, and an earnest acknowledgment of the services that he had for upwards of a quarter of a century rendered to the Craft, should be entered upon the minutes of the meeting. The brethren appeared in Masonic mourning, in accordance with the direction of the Grand Lodge.

LANCASTER.—Duke of Lancaster Lodge (No. 1353).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Rooms, Athenæum, on Wednesday, the 21st ult., on which occasion, on account of the death of the M.W., Past Grand Master, the lodge was put into mourning. The W.M., Bro. J. Barrow, occupied the chair, and was supported by Bros. Jonathan Acton, acting Secretary; John Bell, S.W.; William Heald, J.W.; William S. Carr, J.W., acting S.D.; J. Elenshaw, acting J.D.; R. Wolfenden, I.G., and a goodly number of other brethren. The W.M. moved that a resolution expressive of the regret of the brethren at the lamented death of the Rt. Hon. Earl of Zetland, be entered on the minutes of the lodge-book. Also, a thankful acknowledgment and recognition of the very able and valuable services he had for upwards of a quarter of a century rendered to the Craft. This was seconded by Bro. J. Bell, S.W., and carried unanimously. Other business was transacted, one brother raised, two initiated, and two candidates proposed for initiation, after which, the lodge was closed in due form.

Royal Arch.

SHERNESS.—Adams Chapter (No. 158).—The regular quarterly convocation of this old and flourishing chapter was held at the Masonic Hall, Mile Town, on Tuesday evening, the 27th ult. and which was attended by about 20 Companions. The following officiated:—T. Hughes, Z.; E. J. Bagshaw, H.; Captain Shepherd, R.A., J.; A. Spears, I.P.Z.; A. Oyston, E.; W. Pannel, N.; W. Tailford, P.S.; Jas. Woodley R.N., 1st Asst.; T. Russell R.N., 2nd Asst. The convocation being opened in due form according to the ancient rites. Bros. Thurlow, Simmonds and Ashworth, all of Lodge 158, being candidates for exaltation, were examined entrusted, and exalted to the supreme degree of R.A.M. The ceremony was most ably performed by the M.E.Z. and the other Principals, assisted by Comp. Alexandra A. Spears, I.P.Z. Business of the chapter terminating, it was closed in due form, M.E. Comp. A. Spears, I.P.Z., delivering the parting address. Chapter being closed, the companions adjourned to the Britannia Inn, Mile Town, (Late Comp. Green, &c.) for refreshment, two hours being pleasantly spent in harmony and friendly intercourse.

Royal and Select Masters.

GRAND COUNCIL OF ROYAL AND SELECT MASTERS.

A meeting of the members of the Degree of Royal and Select Masters was held on Monday, in the Masonic Hall, 33, Golden-square, Bro. Rev. G. Raymond Portal, M.A., M.P.G.M., presiding, assisted by Captain N.G. Phillips, in the 2nd chair; Bro. J. M. P. Montague, in the 3rd chair; Bro. Shaw, 33°, from America; and Bro. F. Binckes, G. Recorder. There were also present, Bros. G. Lambert, W. Hyde Pullen, Magnus Ohren, C. Hammerton, S. Rosenthal, James Stevens, and H. Massey.

The object of the meeting was to receive the report of the Finance Committee, to appoint a committee to draw up regulations for the Government of the Order, and to transact any other business which might arise.

The Grand body was constituted on the 4th August, 1871, and as the taking of the numerous valuable degrees under this head of Freemasonry has been making steady progress since that time, the necessity of drawing up a Book of Constitutions for the more certain regulation of the Order has daily become more apparent.

After the minutes of former meeting had been read and confirmed, a resolution was come to that the future meetings of the Grand Council should be held at 33, Golden-square.

A committee was then appointed to settle the rules, fees, &c., after which the report of the Finance Committee was read, received, adopted, and ordered to be entered on the minutes. The same steps were also taken with the Treasurer's report. It was afterwards resolved that the Finance Committee be the committee to prepare a book of regulations for the Government of the Order; and subsequently a motion was carried that a circular reporting the proceedings of this meeting should be prepared and sent to the Mark lodges under the English jurisdiction.

After long and able discussions had taken place on the various matters of business before the brethren, the Grand Council was closed in due form.

GRAND MASTER'S COUNCIL (No. 1).—A meeting of the Grand Master's Council, No. 1, was held in the Hall, 33, Golden-square, Bro. Frederick Binckes in the Master's chair. There were also present—the W.P.G.M. Bro. the Rev. G. Raymond Portal, M.A., and Bros. J. M. P. Montague, Capt. N. G. Phillips, Magnus Ohren, James Stevens, W. Hyde Pullen, S. Rosenthal, C. Hammerton, John Read (G. Org.), E. Stanton Jones, and H. Massey. The meeting was held for the purpose of installing the Rev. G. Raymond Portal as Master, and the other chief officers for the year. After the opening of the Council, Bro. Binckes obligated, invested, and installed Bro. Portal as M. Master; Capt. Phillips as 2nd Officer; Bro. Montague as 3rd Officer; and Bro. Hyde Pullen as Recorder. There was no other business before the brethren, and the council was closed and adjourned.

Ancient and Accepted Rite.

MOORE CHAPTER ROSE CROIX.—The meeting of Moore Rose Croix Chapter, 18°, for the election of Most Wise Sovereign and Treasurer, took place on the 23rd April, at its Asylum, Ritchie's building, St. John's, New Brunswick. There was a full attendance. D. R. Munro, 33°, was elected M.W.S., and W. H. Thorne, 32°, Treas. This branch of the Masonic Order in St. John is becoming quite popular, a large number of the most influential members of the Craft being connected with it. The Harington Sov. Consistory, 32°, under registry of the Supreme Council of England, is also now fully organised for the Maritime Provinces of the Dominion of Canada; its principal place of meeting is the City of St. John, Province of New Brunswick.

Red Cross of Constantine.

LIVERPOOL.—Skelmersdale Conclave (No. 77).—An assembly of Sir Knights attached to the Skelmersdale Conclave of the Knights of Rome and of the Red Cross of Constantine, No. 76, was holden at the Masonic Temple, Liverpool, on Monday evening last, the special business of the gathering being the enthronement of the M.P.S., and investiture of the officers. During its years' existence, the conclave has made steady progress, and it now numbers amongst its members many who are well-known within the mystic circle. The Knights were summoned for six o'clock, and shortly after that time the conclave was opened in due form by Em. Sir Knt. Thomas Ashmore, M.P.S., who was supported by the following:—Sir Knts. H. Nelson, V.E.; J. T. Callow, J.G.; J. Banning, H.P.; W. Cotterell, Rec.; J. J. Rose, Prefect; H. Jackson, O.; C. Leighton, Org.; P. Ball, S. Sentinel; J. Skeaf, Almoner; J. C. Lunt, T. Kamskill, J. Capell, T. Laurence, H. Burrows, H. Morris, W. Quayle, J. Lally, W. R. Corbin, J. McCarthy, W. H. Cooper, J. Dawson, J. C. McGuire, I. W. Robinson, T. Garrett, A. M. Elliott, &c. Ill. Sir Knight G. Turner, J.G. for West Lancashire; Em. Sir Knt. H. M. Molyneux, M.P.S.-elect, of the Liverpool Conclave, No. 55; and Sir Knt. F. Day, Conclave No. 55, were present as visitors. After the muster roll had been called, and the records of the conclave had been duly confirmed, Bros. W. Shortis, W.M. 724, and C. E. Tithian, of Lodge No. 1003, Jersey, were solemnly installed Knights of the Order. Em. Sir Knt. Ashmore then proceeded with the enthronement of Em. Sir Knt. Henry Nelson, as M.P.S., being ably assisted by Sir Knight Jackson, who gave the oration with striking effect. The newly-installed Sovereign subsequently invested the following officers:—Sir Knts. Jas. Callow, V.E.; Jesse Banning, S.G.; Wm. Cottrell, J.G.; Hy. Jackson, H.P.; Thos. Ashmore, Treas.; John McCarthy, Rec.; J. J. Rose, S. Prefect; J. Skeaf, J. Prefect; Wm. R. Corbin, S. Bearer; Hy. Morris, Orator; C. Leighton, Organist; Wm. Quayle, Herald; John Capell, S. Aide; Wm. Laurence, J. Aide; and P. Ball, Sentinel. The conclave was subsequently closed in peace and harmony, and the assembled Knights sat down to an excellent repast.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

GLASGOW.—A special meeting of St. Mungo Encampment was held on May 8th, the M.N.C., R. Bell, presiding, assisted by Sir Knts. J. E. Spiers, C.G.; D. Butler, D.C.; G. W. Wheeler, R.; M. Clanachan, C.E.; and J. Crabb, Acting Aide-de-Camp. Comp. T. S. Wilson was received into the Order of the Temple, after which a Priory of Knights of Malta was opened—R. Bell, Prior; G. W. Wheeler, Prelate—when Sir Knts. Johnston, Douglas, Currie, and Wilson were created Knights of Malta. Arrangements were then entered into for the purpose of welcoming our American Fraters on the 27th June, a committee was appointed, consisting of Sir Knts. Bell, Wheeler, Butler, Adams, and Crabb, to carry out the entertainment, and an order was given to Sir Knt. Kenning for some clothing and jewels for the officers to be properly clothed to meet them on that occasion.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF LINCOLNSHIRE.

The annual meeting of this lodge was held at Louth, on Thursday the 29th inst., under the auspices of the Lindsey Lodge, 712.

In the absence of His Grace the Duke of St. Albans, the Provincial Grand Master, the throne was occupied by the W. Bro., W. H. Smyth, D.P.G.M.

Provincial Grand Lodge was opened in form at 2.30 p.m., when, in answer to the roll-call, every lodge in the province was represented to, the number of seventeen, minus one, the Doric, 362.

Among the brethren present were W. Bros. Locock, P.P.G.W.; C. M. Nesbitt, P.G. Treas.; W. G. Moore, P.G. Reg.; H. E. Turnover, P.S.G.D.; Rev. W. Ace, D.D., as P.G. Chap.; W. H. Radley, P.P.G.W., and Sec. to the Prov. Charity Committee; J. H. Barker, 985, P.P.G.S. (Cambridge); J. Sutcliffe, P.P.G.W.; T. E. Jacobson, P.J.G.W., 130; F. D. Marsden, P.G. Sec.; T. B. Hildred, P.J.G.D.; Jas. Fowler, P.P.G.S. of W., with many other brethren of note in the province.

Among the visitors was Bro. A. A. Ainsworth, J.D. 1024, and Bro. A. K. Sidebottom, of the Apollo Lodge; 130 brethren having signed the attendance book.

The minutes of the last P.G. Lodge having been read and confirmed, the P.G. Reg. read his financial statement, showing a considerable balance in hand.

The Prov. G. Sec. then read a report of the Committee of the P.G. Fund of Benevolence, showing that they had this day been able to alleviate the distresses of more than one necessitous member in the province, and that they still retain a balance in hand of £70 8s. 11d., together with a capital of £450 already invested.

From the returns given by the P. G. Reg. it appeared that there was an increase of subscribing members on the last year of twenty, and that a new lodge is in contemplation.

Bro. Radley P.P.G.W., and Sec. of the Charity Committee, then read an interesting account of the efforts of the said committee during the past year, from which it appeared that the province had been successful in gaining the election of a candidate into the Boys' School, likewise a widow into the Home for Aged Freemasons. The province can now boast of possessing some 600 votes in the three grand charities, and the Secretary called on the members for an increase of exertions.

It was decided to give the support of the province for the ensuing year to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, W. Bro. Sutcliffe, 1294, P.P.G.W., kindly undertaking the duties of Prov. Grand Steward.

W. Bro. W. H. Smyth, D.P.G.M., in feeling terms, alluded to the death of our late P.G. Master, the Earl of Zetland, proposing a vote of condolence, to be sent to the family of the late Earl.

The following officers were then duly invested:—W. Bros. James Fowler, 712, S.G.W.; Joseph Bellamy, 588, J.G.W.; Rev. Daniel Ace, G. Chap.; W. G. Moore, 297, G. Reg.; C. M. Nesbitt, 712, G. Treas.; F. W. Marsden, 712, G. Sec.; J. H. Barker, 985, S.G.D.; J. Hadfield, 792, J.G.D.; Charles Hensman, 1304, G.S. of W.; H. Bates, 1294, G. Dir. of Cer.; Wm. Griffin, 712, Asst. Dir. of Cer.; Bro. A. Richdale, 426, G.S.B.; W. Bros. J. C. Lambert, 588, G.O.; T. Morris, G. Pursuivant; George Nelson, 1282, M. Cook, 792, C. Jackson, 272, C. Scorer, 297, T. J. Slater, 838, and Bro. J. G. Tapholme, 712, Grand Stewards; Bro. B. Box, 422, Tyler.

The lodge was then closed in due form, after which the brethren adjourned to the Corn Exchange, where a sumptuous banquet was provided by Bro. J. W. Richardson, 712, of the Masons' Arms Hotel, where a very enjoyable evening was passed in a truly Masonic spirit. Considerable disappointment was felt by the fact of Bro. Marsden, the W.M. of the Lindsey Lodge, being unable to be present, owing to a recent family bereavement. His chair was, however, ably filled by W. Bro. Porter, P.P.G.O., and I.P.M. of the Lindsey Lodge.

PROVINCIAL GRAND MARK LODGE OF DEVONSHIRE.

On Thursday, May 29th, there was a large gathering of Mark Masters of the Province of Devon, at the Huyshe Temple, to witness the installation of Bro. Captain John Tanner Davy, P.M. Mark Lodges 9, 29, P.P.S.G.W., Past G. Sword Bearer, G. Mark Lodge of England, in the room of Bro. the Rev. John Huyshe, M.A., the Right Worshipful the Grand Mark Master of the Province, who, in consequence of his advanced age and the heavy duties that devolved upon him, felt that he ought to resign. The Rev. Bro. has been Grand Master of the Mark in this Province for more than fifteen years, and in this, as in everything else, he has brought to his work a loving heart, a personal suavity, and an ability which has endeared him to all with whom he has come in contact. No one could have ever ruled a province with more satisfaction than the R.W. and Rev. Bro. who has been for many years past so intimately associated with Craft and Mark Masonry, as well as with the so called higher Orders, and his retirement from any of the offices he has held must be regarded with regret by all the brethren. He is, however, right to relieve himself of some of his heavy work, and we trust that he may yet live many years to enjoy a well-earned leisure.

The V.W. Bro. Gower called over the lodges and official members, in the order in which they should enter and take their places in the lodge. Bro. J. Hele, P.P.G. Org. of Cornwall, presided with great ability at the organ; and he was assisted in the musical ceremonies, which were elaborate and excellent, by Bros. J. Rendle, 50; W. H. W. Sargent, W.M. 96; W. S. Hearder, 18°, M.O. 50; Body, 76; P. B. Clemens, P.M. 64; and H. H. Arnold, Org. 96.

The Grand Officers then entered the lodge in procession, and the R.W. the Rev. John Huyshe having taken his seat, he proceeded to state the object of the meeting. Before he vacated that chair, which he had occupied for nearly sixteen years, he felt it to be his duty to thank the brethren for the great courtesy which they had always shown to him, and their ready acquiescence to all his commands. He need not tell them that, born as he was before the commencement of the present century, he had arrived at a time of life when it was impossible to carry out all the important duties with which he had been honoured during life. He could not now give the time or the physical strength to them. He believed that he had performed these duties to their satisfaction. (Hear, hear.) If he had at any time made mistakes, which, of course, he had, they had been mistakes of the head, and not of the heart. He first of all thanked the Grand Master of England for having so readily acted upon his suggestion when he asked him to appoint some one to take his place. Among the many members whose position and claims he had to consider, there was one who had been the first to introduce Mark Masonry into the province, who had acted so as to gain the approbation of all. The Grand Master acceded to his request, and having heard that Captain Tanner Davy had been a Mark Mason for upwards of thirty years, he kindly appointed him to that office which he was now resigning. The Grand Secretary of England, Bro. Binckes, had very kindly come down expressly for the purpose of installing the new Grand Master of the Province, and he would now resign the chair to that distinguished brother, and ask him to proceed with the duties. (The R.W. Master, on vacating the chair, was greeted with warm applause).

Bro. Binckes, the officiating P.G.M., then took the chair, and the lodge was opened in due form. A deputation then left the lodge to escort and introduce the R.W. the P.G.M. in due form. On entering, the brethren stood in order, and the 1st Psalm was chanted. This finished, the patent of office was presented and read by Bro. Rogers of Exeter, the P.G.S.

The officiating P.G. Master then addressed the R.W.P. Grand Master nearly as follows:—I think this meeting sufficiently influential, and the occasion sufficiently important to justify something more than ordinary routine observation. Permit me, therefore, to occupy your time for a few minutes in taking a retrospect of the degree under the auspices of which we are this day assembled. In doing this it is unnecessary for me to insist on the intrinsic value of the degree in connection with the general Masonic system. I regard that as conceded—and its place properly assured—and this I have a right to infer, seeing the success which has followed the organisation of our Grand Lodge; a success which, even if achieved, could not be maintained if the object of that organisation had been a sham or a mockery—(hear, hear). And this reminds me that I am speaking in the presence of one who was mainly instrumental in founding the Grand Lodge, who for years was the main-spring of the machinery, by which the work was carried on, who long held a high and responsible office, and who was worthily rewarded with distinguished rank by our second Grand Master—I mean Bro. Captain Ridgway. Associated as Bro. Ridgway was not only with Craft Masonry, but with the higher degree in which he had attained great eminence, he lent the weight of his influence and his great abilities to the formation of a governing body, whose laws are quoted as a model of Masonic legislation; and I hope my friend is well satisfied with the vigorous maturity attained by the child at whose birth he assisted. Let me not forget to add that Bro. Ridgway had also the glories of actual paternity to boast of, for I believe I am correct in stating that your new R.W. Prov. Grand Master owes to him his Masonic birth—(cheers). The general Masonic merits of Bro. Ridgway must be well-known to Devon, as he has filled the office of Grand Warden of the province, both in Craft and Mark, and is, no doubt, destined to higher honours. The Grand Lodge was established in 1855, and in 1857 Bro. Rev. J. Huyshe was appointed G.M. of Devon. At that time there were only two lodges in the province. In 1873 Bro. Huyshe hands to his successor the charge of sixteen lodges in this province—(hear, hear). Of the high qualities of Bro. Huyshe, whether we regard him in his exoteric position, speaking Masonically, as a gentleman, a clergyman, a magistrate—it is impossible to speak in anything but terms of praise—in his esoteric position as bearing rule and sway in the various degrees in Masonry, whether recognised or unrecognised, it is difficult to find expression which shall adequately do justice to his deserts—(loud applause). His retirement, full of honour, owing to increasing years, which demand and deserve repose, is, I feel confident, deeply deplored by all—(cheers). Two sources of consolation, however, are his—one that he carries with him the esteem and regard of all those amongst whom he has laboured, and over whom he has ruled with firmness and courtesy, and in whose memories he will be cherished in green remembrance; the other, that he is succeeded in the province by one in every way so worthy of his support and your trust—(applause). This brings me, Capt. Davy, to address you personally on the high position to which you are this day called. Initiated some years since, having filled the chair of your Craft Lodge, subsequently acted as M.M.M., and now for the second time occupying the chair of a Mark Lodge, having held high office in the Craft P.G. Lodge, and also in the Mark, you cannot be without experience in the science of ruling. The position of a Prov. G. Master is one of great importance and considerable responsibility, and is an honour sufficiently distinguished to be an object of laudable ambition—(hear, hear). It demands in its possessor high and varied qualifications—urbanity, firmness, patience, forbearance, and all the characteristics of a gentleman—knowledge of our laws and constitutions—a regard for order and regularity, and all the characteristics of a Mason. In none of these do we believe you to be wanting, and crediting you with the possession of all requisite qualifications for the efficient discharge of the duties appertaining to your office, we heartily welcome you as the head of this province, and bid you good speed in your work—(cheers). And now, brethren, bear with a few general remarks. You know the purpose for which you are this day assembled. A new chief has been legally placed over you. He has taken a solemn obligation to maintain the laws, and administer them impartially. And on your part, there is an implied obligation to render him your faithful allegiance, and a true and reasonable obedience, a kindly and fraternal support—(cheers). In a country such as ours, where we are enjoying to the fullest extent freedom, both of thought and expression where policy is openly discussed, and individuals sharply criticised, perfect unanimity is not, cannot be expected, and I have no right to regard the appointment to-day as an exceptional instance. I do not know of any divergence of opinion; I would fain hope there is none; but should there be, I ask from the minority a cheerful acquiescence in the wishes of the majority; I ask for a fair, dispassionate judgment on all questions affecting the order; I ask for a spirit of conciliation; I ask for loyal assistance and kindly sympathy, so that we may hope to be able to exclaim, "How good and joyful a thing it is to see these brethren dwelling together in unity." I look back at the history of Mark Masonry in this province, and I think I have warrant for taking the experience of the past as the foundation of the present, on which shall be reared the glorious superstructure of the future—(loud cheers).

The P.G. Mark Master having then taken his place in the chair, proceeded to return thanks for the distinguished honour which had been conferred upon him. He felt very much the kindness which had been lavished upon him on all sides. He then thanked collectively all those brethren who had contributed, by their expressions of good feeling, to his present elevation. He stood there in a very proud position; but it was one that was not unmingled with pain. He was the successor of one who had been for many years known to the Freemasons of the province, his old and much-valued friend, Bro. Huyshe, to whom his warmest thanks were due. (Cheers.) He was pained to think that his R.W. Brother, owing to increase of years, felt himself compelled to give up his office. He wished that he could have held the office for many years to come, for they all knew what judgment and kindness of heart he brought to bear in all his work. (Cheers.) Bro. Huyshe had most kindly promised to give him all the assistance in his power. The speaker then expressed his warmest thanks to Col. Elliott for accepting a renewal of office as D.P.G. Mark Master of the Province, and he added his personal thanks to Bro. Binckes for coming down expressly from London to instal him in his office. He next adverted to his indebtedness to Bro. Ridgway, who first instigated him to become a Mark Mason, and after that he (Captain Davy) applied for a warrant and established the first Mark Mason's Lodge in the province, at Southmolton—though he believed that at some former time there had been a lodge at Plymouth, but not under the present constitution. He should endeavour to carry out the duties of his office without favour or affection, and it would be his desire in the distribution of the honours that the working bees should get the honey. (Cheers.) In conclusion, the R.W. gentleman said that Bro. Metham had sent a letter expressive of his regret that his absence in London on business connected with the Orphan Asylum prevented his being present.

Bro. Colonel Elliott was then appointed D.P.G. Mark Master, and duly obligated by Bro. Binckes, after which he expressed his sense of the honour that had been conferred upon him, stating that he took 24 hours to consider whether he would accept office, and when he had decided he determined that he would perform its duties to the best of his ability. (Cheers.)

The P.G. Master then asked all the brethren now in office to continue to hold their offices till the end of the year. Bro. Langridge, who was G. J. Deacon, having died, his place was filled by Bro. W. Browning, who was transferred from the office of Steward. Bro. I. Latimer was appointed to the office of Steward.

It was then proposed that five guineas should be voted to the Grand Master, as a contribution to the Mark Benevolent Fund. The Treasurer (Bro. V. Bird) said they could afford to vote ten guineas, but some economists opposing, a vote was eventually taken, and the larger sum was carried by a very large majority.

An anthem from Psalm cxxxiii. was then sung by the choir, after which the Chaplain, the Rev. Bro. Newnham, offered up prayer. After some other ceremonies, Bro. J. Rendle sang very beautifully Mendelssohn's air, "O, rest in the Lord," which was followed by the "Hallelujah Chorus."

The other business was then soon brought to a conclusion, and the lodge closed in due form.

After the installation, the brethren repaired to the Globe Hotel, and partook of a dinner in every way worthy of Bro. Watts' reputation. The newly-installed P.G.M. presided, and had on his right P.P.G.M. the Rev. J. Huyshe, D.P.G.M. Colonel Elliott, and Bro. J. Latimer, P.G.S.; and on his left, Bro. Binckes, G. Sec., and Bro. Capt. Ridgway, P.G.R.

The loyal toasts having been given, the P.G.M. gave "The G.M. of English Mark Masons, and other Officers of the Grand Lodge." They had present a distinguished member of the Grand Lodge in the person of Bro. Binckes, the G.S., who so ably performed the ceremony of installation that day. Then there was present almost the father of Mark Masonry, their old and valued friend Captain Ridgway, who was, at one time, G.R. of England. Bro. Hopkins, Bro. Bird, and their universally respected P.P.G.M. were also Past Masters of the Grand Lodge, and he hoped they would all long be spared to be useful to Mark Masonry.

Bro. Binckes, G.S., in responding, remarked that not only had their M.W.G.M. held the office for the allotted term of three years, but, owing to the illness of the G.M. Elect, Earl Perry, he had held it for an additional year, and during that time most unquestionably a very large advance had been made in Mark Masonry, a very large number of new lodges had been formed, and new provinces had been constituted. Unquestionably the degree had made very marked and considerable progress, and a large amount of that progress was due to the energy, zeal and ability displayed by their W.M., who was not content to bear the honours of the Order, but took a very active part in its management, and never shrank from any legitimate duty. Then their D.G.M., the Earl of Limerick had displayed such energy and zeal that they expected great things of him when he became G.M. Devonshire had a very fair proportion of grand lodge officers. Every discrimination was exercised in the choice of those officers, and there was no "back-stairs" influence used. The P.G.M.'s and Masters of lodges were asked for the names of those who had signalled themselves by zeal and ability on behalf of Mark Masonry; and where merit was found, zeal displayed, and energy exhibited, there preferment was bestowed. Grand lodge officers had, therefore a right to infer that they might be proud of the distinction. This should be an incentive to others, and prove that the only road to promotion and preferment was hard work on behalf of the degree. Looking back at the history of the degree, and to its introduction, mainly through the exertions of Captain Ridgeway, in 1865, they could now see the seed sown spread in goodly proportions over the length and breadth, over the jurisdiction of Freemasonry in England, and shewing a vitality which surprised its friends, and those who at one time were its enemies, but were now numbered among its well-wishers. Unquestionably in its earliest origin Mark Masonry was regarded in a spirit of antagonism by the United Grand Lodge of England, but lately they had received from the Marquis of Ripon the best proof that a very different feeling now existed. Their great object was to preserve and conserve a valued degree in Masonry without at all forgetting their allegiance to the United Grand Lodge. He esteemed it a very high honour and privilege at being allowed to instal the P.G.M. in the chair at his (Capt. Tanner Davy's) express wish, and his earnest desire was that their new P.G.M. had that day commenced a career of happiness and prosperity—(applause).

The P.G.M. said he was now about to propose the health of a brother whose name had only to be mentioned to ensure its hearty reception and to raise the fervent hope that though that brother had retired from the P.G.M.'s chair of the Mark he would be long spared to preside over the Craft—(hear, hear). He had the opportunity of seeing Bro. Huyshe at home, and he could assure them he carried out the spirit and teaching of Freemasonry most thoroughly in his own parish—applause—for never a case of distress arose without its being relieved by Bro. Huyshe or his good lady—(hear, hear). He doubted if any P.G.M. had such a name for relieving the wants of the necessitous—(applause).

The Rev. J. Huyshe, received with applause, rose to respond with very mingled feelings, for it could not be supposed that a man who had held a very high position among Mark Masons could feel called upon to retire from that office without emotion. But there was no mistaking the inroads of age—there was no mistaking the fact that a man born in the last century could not exactly feel as he did some forty or fifty years ago. Then all was the hey-day of youth, and strength, and vigour. Now all was decrepitude. ("No, no.") To a certain extent it was, though perhaps not so much, thank God, as it might be, but still decrepitude, and sorrow, and labour. But he regretted it not; why should he? it was the natural law of man. Every man had his day, and he had his. If he had done any good, all the better for him and for those to whom it had been done. But he could hardly hope that the good had predominated, and if any good had come of his rule, it was simply from the kindness and ability of those brethren who had been his officers. And he had had most efficient officers, and to them he tendered his most sincere thanks. Though perhaps not in the immediate future, yet his separation from them must come before very long, and he should be acting sinfully if he hid his eyes to the fact. The friendships of this life were short, and it was well for them to keep before their eyes that they were short. Let them make the most of them whilst they lasted. He was happy in knowing that during the whole of his sixteen years' reign over them, no very serious difficulty had arose between them. It was impossible to prevent differences arising, and he liked that they should arise, because if in a provincial lodge with two thousand Freemasons there were no differences arising, he should feel sure differences existed in the heart, and that they simply agreed with him because he was their head and superior. He should not like that—(hear, hear)—and very much rather preferred a man's letting him know the difference of opinion he held, and the reasons for it. (Applause.) They had always acted on the principle that every man had a right to his own opinion, but that of the majority ought to prevail; and to his ruling on that principle, he attributed the extraordinary fact that though there were 41 lodges in the Province, very few persons had really any essential difference with him, and there was no unfraternal or improper feeling between one and another. (Hear, hear.) Feeling really too old and unable to carry out the duties himself, he resigned into the hands of the G.M. of England the powers he had held by his kindness over the Mark Masons for 15½ years. That he had exercised the office to the satisfaction of himself he could hardly say, but, remembering the way in which he had been received that day, and the exhibition of good feeling which had on all occasions been shown towards him, and taking that as an index of what was passing in their hearts, he trusted he was justified in saying that to their satisfaction, as well as to his own, he had endeavoured to do his duty. (Applause.) Then, as to his successor, he mentioned to the G.M. that Capt. Tanner Davy possessed all the qualities of a P.G.M., and the G.M. was good enough to say that any person he suggested would be a fit and proper person, and enquiries should be made. The result was that Capt. Davy had been installed over them, and his earnest wish was that they would show their new P.G.M. the same kindness, goodwill, and fraternal friendship they had extended to him. (Hear, hear.) As a pledge that they would do this, and forgive any little error of judgment, he asked them to drink the "Health of the P.G.M.," and may his reign be a prosperous and united one. (Applause.)

The P.G.M., in very feelings terms, acknowledged the compliment. Any error he committed would, he hoped, be charitably thought to be a fault of the head and not of the heart. Whilst fully appreciating the high honour that had been done him, it had "a twinge of the gout" about it in the fact, that the retirement of Bro. Huyshe had brought the honour on him; and he would have infinitely preferred to hold a subordinate position under him than hold his present high office. The kindness that he received from everybody since his appointment was more than he had any right to expect, and especially great had been the kindness of D.P.G.M., Col. Elliott.

Bro. Binckes next proposed "The Past and Present Officers of the P.G. Mark Lodge," and Col. Elliott and Capt. Ridgeway suitably responded, the former offering every assistance to the P.G.M.

The P.G.M. gave "The Masters and Officers of the Mark Lodges in the Province," mentioning that he hoped to visit every lodge in the course of the next twelve months, and to find the new ritual in universal use, as it ought to be.

Bro. Furze, I.P.M. 9, in responding, said he regarded the appointment of the P.G.M. as the highest compliment that could be paid to his lodge, of whom Capt. Tanner Davy was a Past Master.

The company separated, after toasting "Their poor and distressed brethren."

LABOUR ON!

By Bro. WM. CARPENTER, P.M. & P.Z. 177.

The mountain's steep, the path is rugged,
But yonder stands the sacred pile
Which none can reach, except with labour,
Then labour we, and hope the while.

Reward assured doth sweeten labour,
And level make the rugged way;
So, wisdom's feast that there awaits us,
Will cheer us on a cloudy day.

There's nothing gain'd without an effort,
There's nothing great achiev'd at once;
To reach the height to which we're bidden,
Let's onward press, nor fear repulse.

The height's attain'd! our object's gain'd!
Reward now crowns th' accomplish'd task,
And wisdom gives to us who've sought her,
The choicest blessings we can ask.

THE VIENNA EXHIBITION AND FREEMASONRY.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

The following correspondence may interest your readers:—

Vienna, 5th May, 1873.

"Sir,—I have the honour to apply to your Excellency on behalf of the General Order of Freemasons for permission to hold a meeting of the Order in Vienna during the Exhibition.

Their R. R. and Imp. Highnesses the Prince of Wales and the Crown Prince of Germany, are both Protectors of the Order in their respective countries, and, as your Excellency is no doubt aware, all subjects of religious and political discussion are most rigorously excluded from our meetings, one of the first principles of the Order, inculcated by precept and illustrated by example, being strict obedience to the laws of the country affording it protection.

"I have the honor to be, Sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

"P.D.G.M for Monmouth.

"To His Excellency the Minister of the Interior, Vienna."

British Embassy, Vienna,

13th May, 1873.

"Sir,—I am directed by Sir Andrew Buchanan to inform you that the letter which you addressed to the Minister of the Interior, requesting permission for meetings of Freemasons to be held in Vienna during the Exhibition, has been taken into consideration by that department, and His Excellency has now been requested by the Imperial Government to inform you that whereas permission for meetings of Foreign Societies in Austria can only be granted in exceptional cases, and the Order of Freemasons being one which, on account of the secret nature of its proceedings, fails to meet the requirements of the existing law, the request which you have made cannot be granted.

"I have the honour to be, Sir, your obedient Servant,

"G. F. BONHAM.

"Secretary to H.M. Embassy.

"Mons. C. W. DeBernardy."

"Sir,—Being thus shut out from Vienna, my attention was directed to the lesser Country Hungary, where Freemasonry in its infancy flourishes, and then proceeded to Pesth, where my proposition was cordially received by the M.W. the Grand Master.

On the 18th July, the mother lodge of the order, "Corvin Matyas" will hold its Annual Festival, and foreign brethren will receive a most cordial welcome. The Imperial Danube Steam Navigation Company will place a special steamer at our disposition from Vienna to Pesth and back, and the necessary arrangements will be made with the best hotels for superior accommodation, so as to make the visit an agreeable one.

I shall be happy to afford brethren from England all information and assistance they may require, and letters addressed to me, 14, Seiler Gasse, Vienna, will have my best attention.

"Sir and Brother, I have the honour to be, your very obedient servant,

THE ORDER OF THE TEMPLE.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

If our Bro. Emra Holmes is correct in his belief that "a great many Masons enter the Craft, simply to qualify for the Order of the Temple," would it not be well for that Order, now that it is making a "fresh start," and in theory, at least endeavouring to establish itself on a chivalric basis, to dispense with Masonic qualifications altogether? By doing so, the new institution could insert in its prospectus, "No connection with any other establishment." Its intending aspirants would not have the trouble of joining the inferior organization! and Craft Masonry would be delivered from receiving as members those who, having apparently no sympathy with the principles of the institution they are compelled to use as a "stepping-stone," are most decidedly no acquisition to its ranks.

Perhaps Bro. Holmes will kindly, at his leisure—it will take some time—proceed to prove his statement that "Masonry is still the vital essence of the United Orders of the Temple and the Hospital." Under the old working, the connecting link between the Templar Order and Freemasonry was extremely slight, and I believe the new ritual is yet unshaped, and if we look to principles, I am at a loss to see any similarity between the grand old Order that proclaims equality and religious toleration for all its members, and the modern high grade offshoot, that seeks to select its members from the gentlemen of the Order, and that imposes the Trinitarian test on those who seek its honours.

Fraternally Yours,

JOSEPH H. WOODWORTH, P.M., P.K. &c.

TESTIMONIAL TO BRO. CHARLES ROGERS.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I observed in your last the above heading to an application to raise funds amongst the Masonic community, wherewith to build a house for Dr. C. Rogers. Before paying towards this somewhat costly act of benevolence, I should be glad to learn what further claims the friends of the Doctor have to advance in support of so startling a proposition.

If you or any of your readers, in the presence of much suffering amongst poor Masons, and the legitimate charities of your Order, can show that Dr. R., through his friends, has a "deserving case," and is in bonâ fide distress, or houseless, I should not hesitate to place at your disposal for his relief a sovereign, but until I am so satisfied I shall most certainly give the preference to the excellent Masonic Educational Institutions, which seem at present to have superior claims.

Yours fraternally,
B. B.

A CORRECTION.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I think it but fair to let you know that in the report of the 150th anniversary of the Lodge of Emulation No. 21, there are some mistakes. The Master's name is Thomas William White not Thomas White, then the Grand Secretary, is, at the commencement of his speech, reported as deputed to propose "The Health of the Past Masters" and finally "Health and Prosperity to the Emulation Lodge," which was the toast he really proposed. Bro. Hubback proposed "the Past Master's." I have before more than once written and asked to print my christian name in full as Bro. G. Smith stands for anyone, and again I ask you to do so in future.

Yours fraternally,
GRIFFITHS SMITH.

The establishment of such important bodies in the Hellenic Kingdom as those mentioned in the handsome reports now before us, must be a matter of sincere congratulation amongst all Masons, who, impressed with the important part which we take in social regeneration, must recognise in this movement a spirit of union and security, the ultimate result of which must undoubtedly be a vast amelioration in the condition of all classes of the State in which it has been so auspiciously brought about.

We have only to express our own unqualified satisfaction at such an addition to the Institutions of Freemasonry, and we feel assured that with the leadership of the present talented Grand Master, the Grand Lodge of Greece will, when his term of office expires (to judge from the ably drawn-up constitution) be handed over to his anticipated successor, H.M. the King of the Helleness, in perfect order.

The Grand Lodge of Greece has now been fully recognised by those of England, Scotland, Ireland, Italy, France, America, &c., and the usual representatives have been nominated.

And now a few words for the reports themselves:—These are printed in the most sumptuous style, and embellished with handsome engravings of the official seals of the Grand Master, Grand Lodge, and Supreme Council.

Masonic Tidings.

SOUTHDOWN LODGE OF MARK MASTERS (No. 164).—The ceremony of consecrating this new lodge will take place at the Station Hotel, Hayward's Heath, on Saturday, June 28th, at 2 o'clock in the day, in the presence of a distinguished body of working Masons, who having carefully studied this degree, have learned to appreciate its practical use as a valuable adjunct of Craft Masonry. It is expected the officiating Grand Officer will be V. W. Bro. F. Binckes, P.G.J.W., and Grand Secretary of the degree, assisted by several past Grand Officers resident in the County of Sussex. Bro. William Hudson P.M. 75, P.A.G.D. of C. Mark degree, P.M. 315, M.E.Z. 732, and P.P.G.D. Sussex (Craft) is the W.M. designate. Bro. J. Pearson, S.W. 315, J.W. 75 Mark Lodge, is the S.W. designate and Bro. S.R. Ade, P.M. 315, Secretary 75 Mark Lodge, the first J.W. designate. It may not be out of place to state that no person is eligible for the honours of the degree unless he has been admitted a M.M. of some Craft Lodge of Freemasons. Many Masons of good masonic and social standing have submitted their names as candidates for advancement. Several joining members will be admitted, who, having taken the degree elsewhere, are anxious to work once more in a Lodge of Mark Master Masons, under a legal and acknowledged authority. The meetings of the lodge will take place during the summer months only, and will prove, from the convenience of the days selected (the fourth Saturdays in May, June, August, and September, highly attractive to the Masons of Brighton and the towns and villages adjacent to Hayward's Heath. It is somewhat singular that this place, the centre of an influential district, should have remained so long without a Lodge of Craft Masons having been established, and those who thought of this convenient place in which to hold a "Mark Lodge" deserve credit for the selection they have made. This will be easily understood when we state, the nearest towns available for Masons to meet in lodge are Lewes, Brighton, or Horsham, all upwards of twelve miles from Hayward's Heath; also, when it is further considered the train services are particularly accommodating: the last train to Brighton leaving at 11.30 p.m., the last train to London leaving at 9 o'clock p.m., and the last train to Lewes, Eastbourne, and Hastings leaving at 8.5 p.m. A large attendance is expected on this occasion, and every effort will be made by the promoters of the Southdown Mark Lodge, No. 164, to make it a success. The landlord of the hotel, Mr. C. Golding, is a Mason, much respected by the brethren of his lodge (the Royal York, No. 315). He from experience knows right well the requirements of Freemasons, and from our experience of the way he has placed dinners before his guests, we feel assured his best endeavours will be used to do all in his power to promote the comfort, to secure the convenience and to retain the good wishes of the members of the lodge, soon to be opened under his roof. The hotel contains special accommodation for such meetings, and it would not surprise us if, at no distant date, this hotel should become the head quarters of various degrees of freemasonry for the district. We congratulate the Mark Masons of Sussex on the spread of a knowledge and practice of this branch of genuine Freemasonry, and on the preserving efforts of those gentlemen who for the past eight years have so constantly watched over and cared for this truly, and we may add, highly necessary Masonic degree. Further particulars may be obtained of the three Principal Officers designate, whose residences are so well known it is needless to repeat them here, and to those gentlemen we recommend all Masons who may wish to be advanced on this occasion into the mysteries and privileges of the ancient and honourable order.—Brighton Observer.

STRONG MAN LODGE OF INSTRUCTION (No. 45).—Bro. Bickett, the Preceptor of the above lodge, held at Bro. Wickens, St. John's Gate, Clerkenwell, E.C., will work the 2nd and 3rd Tracing Board, on Monday evening, June 9th, at 7 p.m., and from the known ability of Bro. Bickett, all brethren who will favour the lodge with a visit on this occasion will be pleased with a Masonic working in this the oldest lodge of Instruction in London. Some of the jewels (all of which are silver), we are informed, date as far back as 1797.

A MOVE IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.—We have received the prospectus of an institution, established in December last, at a meeting held at the London Tavern, the object of which is, to provide the working classes and persons of small means with surgical appliances at a reasonable price, and on easy terms of payment. There are institutions where this relief can be obtained on letters of recommendation, but such charities are designed for the indigent, whilst the PROVIDENT SURGICAL APPLIANCE SOCIETY assists those who are able and willing—either wholly, or in part, to pay for the instruments they require. The charge for a truss or an elastic stocking is so small that, in most instances the patients can afford the amount, but when expensive instruments are needed, subscribers by giving tickets, may materially help those who endeavour to help themselves. The committee have published a statistical table of the instruments supplied since the beginning of the year, and it is gratifying to find that about two-thirds of the number have been entirely paid for by patients; and in cases for which instruments have been furnished on an arrangement to pay for the same by instalments, either the whole amount has been liquidated, or is in course of payment. But the supplying of an instrument is not the only benefit which the society affords, as every patient is seen by the surgeon who is in attendance at the institution—25, Bartholomew Close—both morning and evening, and the advice thus given is frequently of vital importance. When a patient cannot come to the institution, a form is supplied, which can be filled in by a medical man. This is a great boon to sufferers residing in the country. We heartily commend this society to the attention of our readers, who may render it assistance by making known its objects amongst the classes for whose benefit it has been established. The principle is sound, and we wish the managers great success in their laudable undertaking. Subscriptions and donations will be received by the Treasurer, Richard Stone, Esq., 66, Cannon-street; by the society's bankers, Messrs. Barnetts, Hoare, Hanburys and Co., 60, Lombard-street, or by the Secretary, at the institution.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS:—Comfort for the Afflicted:—When the blood becomes impure, through breathing foul air, or through the imperfect performance of any bodily functions, the greatest benefit will be derived from these pills, whose purifying alterative and tonic virtues, are too well-known to need any commendation here. After taking a few doses a marked amendment will be felt, from day to day, the appetite will grow better, the stomach stronger, the liver wholesomely active, and the bowels naturally regular. While taking these pills, there is no danger of taking cold, nor are any, save the simplest precautions (plainly set forth in the directions for use) necessary for securing the most beneficial results, derivable from this well-known, world esteemed medicine.—Adv.

SATURDAY, JUNE 7, 1873.

UNITED GRAND LODGE.

The June Quarterly Communication to Grand Lodge of England was held on Wednesday evening, in Freemasons' Hall. The Grand Master did not preside, but his place was ably filled by the Deputy Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon. Although the Grand Lodge was well attended, there were by no means so many brethren present as is generally the case, especially at this summer meeting; and after the first hour and a half the attendance had dwindled down to less than half the number who had assisted at the opening of Grand Lodge. The reason for the gathering being no larger than it was, probably arose from the agenda paper containing no very exciting business; while on the other hand, the cause of the muster being as large as it was may be attributed to the fact of the election of members of the Board of General Purposes being part of the business to be transacted, as the departure of the brethren was observable as soon as this business was completed.

Among the brethren who attended we observed:—Bros. Lord Tenterden, Fawcett, P.G.M., Durham; R. J. Bagshaw, P.G.M., Essex; Rev. John Huyshe, P.G.M., Devon; H. J. T. Dumas, P.G.D.; T. Fenn, P.G.A.D.C.; Sir Albert W. Woods, (Garter) G.D.C.; John M. Clabon, P.G.D.; H. Browse, P.G.D.; George Cox, P.G.D.; Joshua Nunn, P.G.S.B.; Brackstone Baker, P.G.D.; Benj. Head, P.G.D.; J. Savage, P.G.D.; Hyde Pullen, P.G.D.; Rev. A. Bruce Fraser, G.C.; Rev. R. T. Bent, G.C.; A. E. J. McIntyre, G.R.; S. Rawson; P. Dist. G. Sup. China; James Mason, P.G.S.B.; Rev. C. J. Martyn, P.G.C.; Rev. R. J. Simpson, P.G.C.; Capt. Vivian, P.G. J.W.; Earl of Limerick, P.G.M. Bristol; Dr. Jabez Hogg, P.G.D.; J. R. Stebbing, P.G. D.; R. J. Spiers, P.G.S.B.; W. E. Gumbleton, P.G.D.; Raynham W. Stewart P.G.D.; Richard Spencer, P.G.S.; W. Seaman, W.M. 619; Rev. Sir J. Warren Hayes, P.G.C.; Wilhelm Ganz, G. Org.; C. A. Murton, P.G.D.; W. Ough, P.G.P.; John Boyd, P.G.P.; Thomas W. White, W.M. 21; Griffiths Smith, P.M. 21; T. Adams, P.G.P.; H. G. Bass; E. C. Snell, P.G.D.; T. Bradford, P.G.D.; H. M. Levy, E. Kimber, James Stevens, P.M. 720; H. Marsh and James Terry.

Grand Secretary, after Grand Lodge had been opened, read the minutes of the Quarterly Communication of 5th March, of Grand Festival of the 30th April, and of the Especial Grand Lodge of the 21st May, all of which were confirmed.

The acting Grand Master then rose and said.—It now devolves upon me to make an announcement to this Grand Lodge on behalf of the Most Worshipful Grand Master, who cannot be present this evening. It is a matter which, as you are aware, falls exclusively within his Province, and it is not one therefore which will be a matter for discussion by this Grand Lodge. At the same time, I doubt not that Grand Lodge will recognise the wisdom of the change, and will see that it is altogether for the advantage of the charities that this fresh stimulant, as the Grand Master proposes, should be applied. The terms in which the Grand Master desires to make known these changes are as follows:—that every brother who shall henceforward serve the office of Steward, at any anniversary festival of any one of the Masonic Charities of some Provincial or Country Lodge, who shall personally attend such festival, and shall bring up there to contributions amounting to not less than 100 guineas, shall have the same rights and privileges as to wearing the charity jewel, or clasps, as if he had himself contributed the sum of ten guineas. The only other remark which it seems necessary for me to make, is that this is, of course, in addition to the existing system, and will not in any way interfere with it. All those, I understand, who choose to subscribe, so to speak, under the old system, will be still at liberty to do so, and will still enjoy the privileges they enjoyed heretofore; but there will be this additional power given to any brother who can bring up his contributions of any lodge to the extent of 100 guineas: he will obtain the same privileges and rights as he would have obtained under the old system.

The next business being the election of members of Board of General Purposes, scrutineers of votes were chosen, and sent to their room to perform their duties. There was no election of members of the Colonial Board or of the Committee of Management of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, as no additional names were proposed.

The report of the Lodge of Benevolence was then brought up, in which were recommendations for the following grants:—

The daughter of a brother of the Union
Lodge, No. 127, Margate	£50
A brother of the Pythagorean Lodge,
No. 79, Greenwich	£50
A brother of the Lodge of Perseverance,
No. 213, Norwich	£50

These grants were moved by Bro. J. M. Clabon, and seconded by Bros. George Cox and Joshua Nunn, and carried unanimously.

Bro. A. E. J. McIntyre, Q.C., G.R., in the unavoidable absence of Bro. Horace Lloyd, Q.C. President of the Board of General Purposes, moved that the following report of the Board of General Purposes be taken as read, which was accordingly agreed.

To the United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England:—

1. The Board of General Purposes beg leave to submit their report for the last quarter as follows:—

COMMUTED PAYMENTS FOR LIFE MEMBERSHIP.

2. At the last Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge, upon a motion of Bro. William Smith, P.G. Steward and P.M. No. 26, it was resolved that the subject of Commuted Payments for Life Membership be referred to the Board of General Purposes, to consider and report thereon to Grand Lodge.

3. The Board have, in accordance with this reference, very fully and carefully considered the subject, and have given due attention to various communications which they have received from brethren who take an interest in the matter. They have learned with regret from some of these communications that, in consequence of a misconception as to the Masonic law upon this point, private lodges have in some instances professed to confer life membership in return for a single commuted payment.

4. The law upon the subject is however clear, and does not depend upon single or isolated passages of the Book of Constitutions. Continual subscriptions as a member of a private lodge is insisted on throughout its provisions as the essential qualification for the continued enjoyment of the privileges of the Craft, and in order to enable these privileges to be enjoyed for all future time in consideration of a single payment, extensive alterations would have to be made therein.

5. The Board were however quite prepared to have recommended these alterations, if they had been convinced that the change thereby made would be beneficial to Freemasonry; and they felt no doubt of their ability to suggest adequate provisions as to amount of payment, mode of investment, and all other matters of detail.

6. But after full consideration the Board came to the conclusion that any change in this respect was undesirable, and at a special meeting, held on the 29th April last, they unanimously resolved as follows:—

“That this Board is of opinion that the principle of restricting the privileges of the Craft to those who continue to be subscribing members of some lodge, is not only sound in itself, but productive of material benefit to the Order, and that no sufficient reasons have been adduced to warrant a departure from the obligation in this respect prescribed by the Book of Constitutions.”

7. The Board are fortified in the opinion which they have expressed in the above resolution by finding that in the year 1869, the same subject was under the consideration of the Board of General Purposes of that day, on a reference from Grand Lodge, and that the following resolution was passed by them on the 16th March in that year:—

“That the Board, having duly considered the reference made by Grand Lodge, do not feel that sufficient grounds exist for altering the laws so as to allow of commutation for life.”

UNAUTHORISED WEARING OF MASONIC CLOTHING.

8. The attention of the Board has been called to a practice, which they are informed is not infrequent, of brethren appearing in Masonic costume at so-called “Masonic Balls,” and other public gatherings held without any sanction or permission from the constituted authorities of Masonry.

9. The Board are clearly of opinion that the wearing of Masonic clothing, or of any of the jewels or badges of the Craft, in such circumstances, is not only objectionable in itself, but is in violation of the spirit of the provisions of the Book of Constitutions on pp. 93, 94, under the head of “Public Processions.”

10. In order to remove any doubt as to whether such proceedings can be dealt with as Masonic offences, the Board very respectfully recommend to Grand Lodge that an addition be made to the Book of Constitutions which will provide for such cases, and will attach to them an adequate penalty, although somewhat less in degree than that imposed by the Book of Constitutions on page 94 for attending as therein mentioned “at any funeral or public procession.”

IRREGULAR REMOVAL OF LODGES.

11. The Board having had occasion to reprimand a lodge for an irregular removal, and having reason to believe that some misapprehension exists as to the manner in which the power of removal ought to be exercised, think it expedient to call the attention of the Craft to the provisions of the Book of Constitutions pp. 92, 93, upon this subject.

12. No lodge can be removed from one house or place of meeting to another, even within the same town or place, except in strict accordance with the regulations there laid down, and until such strict compliance has been ascertained by the Grand Secretary or (as the case may be) by the Provincial Grand Master, as mentioned on page 93, par. 3, the removal will not be recorded.

13. No degree conferred, or other Masonic act performed by any lodge at a place of meeting to which it has been illegally or improperly removed can be in any way recognised by Grand Lodge; and the lodge so offending exposes itself to admonition, fine, or suspension.

14. The President will therefore move:—

(1.) That the Report be received and entered on the minutes.

(2.) That the following paragraph be added after par. 2 of the title “Of Public Processions” on page 93 of the Book of Constitutions, that is to say:—

“If any Brother shall appear clothed in any of the jewels or badges of the Craft at any ball, theatre, assembly, or meeting, or at any place of public resort, unless the Grand Master, Provincial Grand Master, or District Grand Master (as the case may be), shall have previously given permission for Brethren to be there present in Masonic clothing, such Brother shall be liable to be suspended from all his Masonic functions for such period as the Grand Master, Provincial Grand Master, or District Grand Master may determine.”

(Signed) HORACE LLOYD, President.

20th May, 1873.

At a meeting of the Board held on Tuesday, the 20th ult., after the ordinary business had been disposed of, it was unanimously resolved:—

“That this Board cannot separate without tendering to their President, the V.W. Bro. Horace Lloyd, Q.C., their sincere and cordial thanks, not only for the undeviating courtesy and kindness which every member of the Board has received at his hands, but also for the untiring zeal and attention which he has devoted to the business of the Board, and the ability and discretion with which he has conducted its proceedings.”

(Signed) JOHN A. RUCKER,
Vice-President.

Bro. McIntyre, in moving that this report be received and entered on the minutes, reiterated the statement of Bro. Horace Lloyd at former Quarterly Communications, that the receiving the report of the Board by Grand Lodge did not commit the brethren to an assent to anything which was contained in the report. The report was only an expression of the opinion of the Board, and not of the opinion of Grand Lodge. He then referred to the subject of “commuted payments,” which the Board had carefully considered, but could see no reason for altering the laws as laid down in the Book of Constitutions so as to allow of commutation for life. With respect to life members the report of the Board would not affect any one who had not passed the chair of a lodge. It might be the case that, acting on an opinion, some brethren might have believed that by a commutation they retained their membership for ever. In such a case he (Grand Register) felt confident that Grand Lodge would not suffer such brethren to be injured, but would allow them to retain their rights. The Board would be but too happy to take that matter into consideration, and although they were not a legislative body, would recommend that if those rights were brought about by misapprehension of what the law was, they should be retained. It was well known that a most distinguished brother, who had occupied the post of Grand Registrar, and was a Provincial Grand Master, had advised that, life-membership could be retained by the payment of a sum of money. If brethren had been misled by that, the board would take care that they should not be injured thereby. But if brethren would take the trouble to read the Book of Constitutions, they would find that not only on one page but in almost every page where the Craft was spoken of, it was stated that a brother could not be a member of the Craft unless he continued a subscribing member. He trusted that the opinion of the board would go forth to the Craft with weight, that no brother who ceased to be a subscribing member of one of the Craft lodges could retain his privileges; but that if any brother relying on an opinion, expressed by a most distinguished Mason, had acted upon it, they would take care that his privileges should not be altered. (Cheers.)

Bro. Raynham W. Stewart, seconded the motion.

Bro. W. Smith wished to know whether this was the proper time to move that the matter be referred back to the Board.

The acting Grand Master replied that it was not, but still if Bro. Smith wished to make any remarks, it was quite competent for him to do so.

Bro. Smith, after a few observations, said he did not consider that the subject had been properly dealt with by the Board, as Grand Lodge was led by the 6th paragraph of the report to believe it had been, and he would therefore move that it be referred back. If it was necessary he would give a notice of motion to that effect.

The acting Grand Master said that if Bro. Smith was really in serious earnest to refer the matter back to the Board, it was within his power to do so now. He however thought that it would conduce to the convenience of Grand Lodge if it was brought forward by distinct motion at a future day, instead of being referred back now. He would not refuse to put the motion, if Bro. Smith wished it, but at the same time he did not think it would be convenient.

Bro. W. Smith, would be sorry to take up the time of Grand Lodge by putting the matter to the vote, but he would, at next convenient opportunity, move a fresh resolution, in the meantime withdrawing his amendment.

The reception and entering of the report on the minutes was then agreed to.

Bro. McIntyre next moved the second paragraph of the report on the subject of the “unauthorised wearing of Masonic clothing,” and read the section from the Book of Constitutions upon that point, and the punishment to be awarded for a breach of that rule. No doubt, he said, that was a very heavy punishment, which seemed to him to have been promoted by old Masons to prevent the appearance of Masons in the streets in “clothing” without first having the permission of the Grand Master or his deputy. Some brethren thought this law might be evaded by their not going out into the streets in the clothing, to theatres, or balls; and, in one case where permission had been refused, the brethren felt justified in carrying their clothing in their pockets and putting it on when they got to the place of amusement. He would, therefore, beg leave to propose, in order to meet cases of breach of Masonic discipline in this respect, that the following paragraph be added after par. 2 of the title “Of Public Processions” on page 93 of the Book of Constitutions, that is to say:—

“If any Brother shall appear clothed in any of the jewels or badges of the Craft at any ball, theatre, assembly, or meeting, or at any place of public resort, unless the Grand Master, Provincial Grand Master, or District Grand Master (as the case may be), shall have previously given permission for brethren to be there present in Masonic clothing, such brother shall be liable to be suspended from all his Masonic functions for such period as the Grand Master, Provincial Grand Master, or District Grand Master may determine.

Bro. Bulley, G.S.B., seconded the motion.

After a few observations from Col. Cole and Bro. Browning, which called from the Acting Grand Master the remark that he could not suffer any brother to go back to the question of the reception of the report, already decided, a brother asked whether it would be a breach of the law if the brethren dined in Masonic clothing, as it frequently happened in the provinces that lodges were held at public halls, where there was no convenience for dining, and then went to an hotel at some distance from the place of meeting, where they re-clothed and dined.

Bro. McIntyre said the banner of the lodge covered the banquet.

The Earl of Limerick asked whether if they marched in clothing from the lodge to the hotel the banner would cover the proceeding.

Bro. McIntyre said it made no difference whether the lodge was closed, or called off for refreshment the banner still covered it, and he apprehended that if it was a reasonable distance it might be allowed.

Bro. W. Smith, had had experience of country lodges, where no accommodation for dining was to be found in the halls where they met, and the hotel where they partook of refectation was at a considerable distance. He thought Bro. McIntyre's suggestion could never be carried out; and he hoped it would be distinctly understood that the brethren were not to walk through the streets in clothing.

Bro. McIntyre added, that if what had been the rule had the sanction of Grand Lodge, it would not be interfered with, but the new proposition did interfere with brethren in this respect, that they should not go into balls, theatres, or other public assemblies in Masonic clothing without the sanction of the Grand Master.

The motion was thereupon put and carried nem. con.

Bro. John Savage, P.G.D., in the absence of Bro. Joseph Smith at his duties as Scrutineer, brought forward the annual report of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, in which were suggestions for the following alterations of the laws:—

"That Article 2, page 11, of the Rules and Regulations for the Male Fund be altered, by substituting the figures '£40' in lieu of '£25.'"

"That Article 2, page 13, of the Rules and Regulations for the Widows' Fund be altered, by substituting the figures '£30' in lieu of '£20.'"

"That Article 7, page 12, of the Rules and Regulations for the Male Fund be altered, by substituting the figures '£40' in lieu of '£25,' and Article 8, page 14 of the Rules and Regulations for the Widows' Fund, by substituting the figures '£30' in lieu of '£20.'"

The motion, that these alterations be made, was put and carried without a dissentient voice.

Bro. Raynham W. Stewart, P.G.D., moved—

"That any grant made by the Lodge of Benevolence for the benefit of any brother, or the widow of any brother having been passed by the lodge at one meeting and confirmed at the following one, and recommended to Grand Lodge, shall, upon its being sanctioned by Grand Lodge, require no further confirmation."

Bro. Stewart said his object was to cause as little inconvenience as possible to brethren applying for relief. At present they had frequently to wait a long time after the grants were made to them before they got the gifts into their possession, owing to the existing laws requiring confirmation of the grants made. He fully explained the position of matters under the present system, and illustrating it by referring to cases which had happened. In conclusion, he thought the alteration would be gratifying to the brethren who assisted their needy fellows.

Bro. H. Browse, P.G.D. seconded the motion.

Bro. John Savage, P.G.D., rose in opposition, explaining that many years ago he was instrumental in removing some of the obstacles which stood in the path of brethren seeking immediate relief. The routine of the old days he thought was too great, and that was the cause of his moving an alteration. He objected to the form of Bro. Stewart's proposition, which, being positively an alteration in the law, could not be put.

The acting Grand Master ruled otherwise, and said the motion was on precisely the same footing as any other motion. Grand Lodge would decide whether they should receive it.

Bro. John M. Clabon, P.G.D., after explaining the present position of grants over £50, which required confirmation, ventured to suggest to Bro. Stewart that his motion was not a formal one, but asked him to submit one that was more formal.

Bro. Raynham W. Stewart consented, and withdrew his motion.

The scrutineers here returned and declared the result of the election of members of the Board of General Purposes to be in favour of Bros. Finch, Grady, Greening, Johnson, Mullens, Parkinson, Scriven, Bywater, Levander, March Poynter, Rucker, Griffiths Smith, Long.

Bro. W. SMITH, Steward, P.M. No. 26 moved.

"That inasmuch as 'The Freemasons Calendar and Pocket Book published annually for the benefit of the Charity Fund under the sanction of the United Grand Lodge of England, and by the command of the M.W. Grand Master, is neither so complete nor useful for Masonic reference as it should be, nor is it as profitable or beneficial to the Charity Fund as it might be, the attention of the Board of General Purposes is called thereto, and that it be an instruction from this Grand Lodge that they do make such changes or modifications in and additions to the said publication in the next issue as will increase its usefulness to the General Body of Freemasons, and greatly increase the profits from each issue; and to enable them to judge aright, they are to invite and receive evidence in support of the motion," and

"That inasmuch as the installation of the M.W. The Grand Master, the appointment of the Grand Officers and the nomination of Grand Stewards, as also the appointment and election of the Members of the Board of General Purposes and the Colonial Board for the year, all take place between the end of April and the beginning of June in each year, 'The Freemasons' Calendar and Pocket Book' as at present published under the sanction of Grand Lodge is, for the period of from six to eight months in each year, incorrect or inaccurate in many essential particulars, it be an instruction from this Grand Lodge to the Board of General Purposes (or the Calendar Committee), either to publish the Grand Lodge Callendar on the 1st of July in each year, so that it may contain correct lists of all office bearers of the Grand Lodge for the Masonic year, or to issue the Calendar twice in every year, as from the 1st day July respectively, and that they are to invite and receive evidence in support of this motion."

He stated that his reason for bringing forward these motions was that the Calendar might become a more useful book of reference for Freemasons than it was now. It was published in January, and in April, when the Grand Master was installed, the Grand Officers were changed, and the book was of no further use if any one wanted to see who the Grand Officers were. Then again, the members of the different Boards were, as the brethren had just witnessed, elected at the Quarterly Communication, and this further rendered the Calendar useless as a guide to the Craft, as to who were on those Boards. He had suggested to the Board to take these questions into consideration, and he trusted that now Grand Lodge would entertain the subject.

Bro. Mc Intyre on the part of Bro. Horace Lloyd, would give these motions his most respectful yet determined opposition. The Board of General Purposes no doubt would have great pleasure if the resolution could be carried out in its integrity. But Bro. Smith should put in writing before the board the certain things which he thought would be conducive to the interests of the Craft, and increase the sale of the Calendar. He had not done so, at least he Bro. Mc Intyre had no recollection of it. If the board did not choose to attend to the suggestions, then he might come to Grand Lodge. Bro. Smith's motion was really an indictment framed against the Board. He was the only brother who was prepared to make suggestions to the Board, and that only now, after all the years he had been a Mason; and when he came to Grand Lodge about it, he merely came with allegations, and without reasons to support them.

The motions were then put and lost, and Grand Lodge was closed in due form.

GRAND LODGE OF MARK MASTERS.

The summer half-yearly communication of Grand Lodge in the Mark degree, was held on Tuesday, at Freemasons' Tavern, London, and was so numerously attended to prove beyond doubt the widespread popularity of Mark Masonry in this country. Before the proceedings commenced, a Grand Lodge of Instruction was, according to custom, held, which was well attended by London brethren and representatives from the province. Bro. James Stevens, P.G.O., as usual, presided, and performed the ceremony of advancement with his accustomed ability. The full musical accompaniment with which the ceremony was worked was performed by Bro. John Read, P.G. Organist. At the conclusion of the advancement Bro. Stevens called on Bro. James Smith, Prov. G. Sec. for Kent, to deliver the lecture of the three degrees, which he did with great fluency and in a most impressive style. Before the lodge was closed many of the brethren expressed themselves highly satisfied with the instruction that had been afforded, and hoped that the Lodge of Improvement would be continued to be worked on all occasions of the meeting of Grand Lodge.

Before Grand Lodge met Earl Percy, who was to be installed as Grand Master, was installed as the Grand Master of Royal Ark Mariners, the degree being now given under the authority of Grand Mark Lodge by the Mark Lodges under its jurisdiction.

Grand Lodge was opened shortly after five o'clock by the M.W.G.M., the Rev. G. Raymond Portal, M.A., the following brethren occupying the different official posts:—Earl Percy, M.W.G.M.-elect; the Earl Limerick, Deputy G.M.; F. G. Irwin, S.W.; James Stevens, J.W.; the Revs. P. H. Newnham and W. M. Heath, G. Chaplains; Capt. C. J. Burgess, G. Reg.; F. Binckes, G. Sec.; the Rev. D. Shaboc, P.G.C., M.O.; K. Lawson, S.O.; W. Foulsham, J.O.; H. C. Levander, S.D.; Thos. Hargreaves, J.D.; S. Rosenthal, G.D.C.; T. J. Sabine, Asst. Do.; John Read, G. Org.; D. M. Dewar, G.I.G. Among the other brethren present were:—Bros. the Rev. John Huyshe, the Rev. T. F. Ravenshaw, J. H. Wynne, A. D. Loewenstark, W. H. Warrington, Le Gendre N. Starkie, E. T. Inskip, Emra Holmes, Col. Whitwell, S. Funkenzstein, and the Revs. D. J. Drakeford, and J. H. Jukes,

After Grand Secretary had read the minutes and balance sheet,

The M.W.G.M. rose and said that before proceeding further, there was one circumstance to which he desired to make allusion. Since the last meeting of Grand Lodge the Craft had sustained a very great loss in the removal by death of Lord Zetland, who had, for many years, presided over Grand Craft Lodge. Lord Zetland was a nobleman, for whose character and abilities as a man and a Mason every brother had the highest possible respect, and he thought it would be hardly fitting if an assemblage of Masons like Grand Mark Lodge omitted to pass a vote of sorrow that it had pleased the Almighty to deprive them of so worthy a Mason. He would, therefore, move that such a vote be entered on the minutes, and that the Grand Master should be entrusted to convey the same to his lordship's family.

The Earl of Limerick seconded the motion, and agreed with the Grand Master that it would not be fitting to separate without expressing the sense of Grand Mark Lodge of the inestimable loss they had sustained in Lord Zetland's death. He did not feel it necessary to go at any length into a recital of the virtues of the deceased brother, as many of the brethren present had heard, in words which he would not attempt to emulate, on another occasion and in another place, the feeling of the Craft expressed by the two distinguished brethren who now presided over the Craft in this country.

The vote was then carried unanimously.

Grand Secretary read the report of the General Board, from which it appeared that during the last half-year a larger number of Mark Masons had been made than at any previous period on record; that during the same time Cheshire and North Wales had been erected into a Province; that the Royal Ark Mariners' warrants of constitution had been issued; and that a favourable termination had been come to of the difficulties which had existed between Grand Mark Lodge and that grand body. The report recommended the obligating of the Grand Master as a Royal Ark Mariner before his installation as Grand Mark Master, and congratulated Grand Lodge on its friendly relations with other supreme jurisdictions. It further stated that the business of Grand Secretary's office continued to increase greatly and rapidly, and that Grand Lodge had secured premises at 2, Led Lion-square, at an annual rental of £75. An account was also given of the money invested since last Grand Lodge, and the report concluded with a statement that reports of proceedings of foreign Grand bodies had been received from Iowa and Columbia.

The report was received with applause.

Capt. Barlow proposed, and Rev. D. Shaboe seconded, the following motion.—“That the sum of ten guineas be voted from the funds of this Grand Lodge to the Portal Testimonial Fund.”

The motion was carried amidst great applause.

Capt. Burgess moved “That the sum of £45 be voted from the funds of their Grand Lodge to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and placed on the list of Bro. T. J. Sabine, P.G.A.D.C., who has offered to represent the Mark Degree as Steward at the festival in January, 1874.”

Bro. A. D. Loewenstark seconded the motion, which was then put and carried unanimously.

Grand Secretary having read the notice of Bro. Levander's motion, that the Order of the Red Cross of Constantine should be admitted into the tripartite treaty.

Bro. H. C. Levander rose to bring the motion before Grand Lodge, and in doing so observed that the time had now arrived for this step to be taken, and as other orders had been admitted, it did not require any observations to recommend the motion. He did not expect any opposition, and should therefore simply make the motion.

Bro. S. Rosenthal seconded the motion.

Bro. A. D. Loewenstark said a few words in opposition, but after a few words from Earl Percy and the M.W.G.M., stating that they saw no danger in the alliance, and that it did not affect Grand Lodge in the slightest degree, the motion was carried without a dissentient.

The M.W.G.M. moved the recommendation of the General Board, that the affairs of the Royal Ark Mariners degree should be managed by the Grand Mark Master, (who should be obligated first as an Ark Mariner), with the advice and assistance of a council of twelve brethren. He said that negotiations between the Grand Mark Lodge and the Grand Ark had gone on for a long time, and they at last came to an amicable understanding, whereby Grand Mark Lodge consented to be assisted in its management of Ark Mariners business by a council of Ark Mariners. The terms of arrangement had been carefully considered, and he could see nothing in them which would militate against the Mark degree, but he could see a great deal that would strengthen it.

Bro. H. C. Levander seconded the motion.

In answer to Bros. Irwin and A. D. Loewenstark, the M.W.G.M. said, the proposition had been submitted to Bro. Morton Edwards as the ultimatum of Grand Lodge. Bro. Edwards had said he would be perfectly satisfied with the resolution, provided those brethren who had held office in what he claimed, but Grand Mark Lodge denied to be a Grand Lodge, should be the first members of this Grand Master's board of advice in Ark matters. He (the M.W.G.M.) saw no objection to the adoption of this request, and on that footing the matter rested.

The motion was carried.

Grand Secretary read the Treasurer's report, which showed:—

Balance at last Meeting ...	£286	16	9
Receipts for last six months ...	417	19	0
	£704	15	9
Expenditure ...	263	11	3
	£441	4	6
FUND OF BENEVOLENCE.
Last Balance ...	£275	13	5
Donations received to 31st March 1873 ...	53	5	0
	£328	18	5
Disbursements on that account:—
Purchase of £300 Canadian Bonds and Brokerage ...	£313	10	0
Balance ...	£15	8	5

To which would have to be added the half-year's dividends received in January, and those which would be received immediately after the 30th inst. The announcement of the financial statement was received with cheers.

Bro. A. D. Loewenstark then proposed Earl Percy as Grand Master for the ensuing twelve months.

Bro. James Stevens seconded the motion, which was thereupon put and carried.

The Earl of Limerick, in presenting Earl Percy to you Brother the Earl Percy, who has been duly elected to preside over Mark Masonry for the ensuing year. I need not state to you the many eminent qualities that have so well fitted him for this post, and I am sure the degree in which Mark Masonry has flourished under your headship will continue under the headship of the brother who has been elected to-day. All Mark Masons regretted the cause which prevented him from coming among us up to the present time, but at the same time rejoice that Mark Masonry has not suffered from his absence, as during that unavoidable period it has been presided over by one so universally beloved as yourself. (Hear, hear.)

The M.W.G.M. :—Bro. Earl Percy, it is with great pleasure that I have heard the nomination, and received the presentation just made by our Bro. Lord Limerick. Having had myself the honour and very great pleasure of initiating you, my lord, into Masonry, I have naturally watched your career with very great interest; and I can truly say, that from your exertions for this degree in your own Province, in Northumberland and Durham, and from the energetic support it has always received from you as my deputy since you have held that office, I consider that you have every claim for the high honour which the Grand Lodge has conferred on you, and on the other hand, I think the Grand Lodge most fortunate in having the services of so worthy and well-esteemed a brother as yourself.

Earl Percy was then obligated by the Grand Master invested and installed, wherefrom he was greeted in the usual form adopted by Mark Masons.

The M.W.G.M. :—Most Worshipful Grand Past Master and Brethren, I feel unwilling to detain you very long with any observations of mine at the present moment, because I believe I may have to address you again this evening, perhaps more than once; but I am sure you will hear me with much greater pleasure after dinner than you will before. But at the same time, I cannot allow this occasion to pass without thanking you, Most Worshipful Sir, for the very kind way in which you have spoken of me, and for the terms which you have been pleased to apply to my poor services to Masonry, and I have to thank you, brethren, for electing me to this high office, and especially because you have had, I am sorry to say, to wait some time before I could obey this summons, which you were kind enough on a former occasion to lay upon me. I need not say how highly I feel the honour of being placed in this great position. This degree has now assumed proportions which make the occupation of this chair a prize which all, even the highest, Masonry may well be proud to hold. I therefore feel greatly the honour you have done me; at the same time I feel that our Order has now so widely extended, and its interests are so important, that I should shrink from accepting the onerous duties which this post will carry with it, were it not that I feel certain that the officers who are selected to sustain me in my position will ably perform their duties, and that you, brethren, will extend to me your kind indulgence and support upon all occasions when I shall need them. (applause). Before I proceed to invest my Grand Officers, I have a very pleasing duty to perform; it is to present, in the name of the lodge, our Past Grand Master with a distinguishing jewel of that office (hear hear). Bro. Portal, it gives me the very greatest pleasure to invest you with this jewel in the name of this Grand Lodge. My own private feelings perhaps may appear intrusive at the present time, but I cannot help saying that I look upon you, and always have done, as my father in Freemasonry and and if I have been able to be of any use to the Order, or if I have risen to the post I now hold, I feel that it is entirely owing to your kindness and consideration in aiding my steps and instructing me in the duties of Freemasonry. On behalf of the lodge, I think I may fairly say that you, sir, have held your term of office with a lustre of distinction which was not surpassed by any Grand Master who has ever preceded you. Greater steps have been made in Mark Masonry than ever were made during the term of office of any other Grand Master. Much valuable time and much exertion have been given by you to the advancement of the Order; and I am sure I speak the feelings of all here when I say that the jewel which I have now presented you with, in the name of the Grand Lodge, is but a poor testimony of the gratitude they owe you for all your exertions. (Cheers.) I will now proceed to appoint my Grand officers. I appoint Bro. Lord Limerick as Deputy Grand Master. I am sure this selection will be gratifying to Grand Lodge. I rather feel that he ought to be in the position I now hold.

The following officers were then appointed:—

Le Gendre N. Starkie ...	G.S.W.
Colonel Whitwell ...	G.J.W.

Grand Stewards for the year:—Bros. Clement Skelton, Leicester; Benjamin Cox, and — Gillard, Somerset; Greatorex, No. 3; W. A. Scott, Carnarvon Lodge, Somerset; G. Page, Holmesdale; John Boyd, No. 1; — Parker, No. 144.

The M.W.G.M. then presented each Grand Officer with the patent of his appointment. He then nominated the following brethren to serve on the General Board.

The Rev. G. R. Portal, W. A. Gumbleton, T. Meggy, James Stevens, Capt. Burgess, H. C. Levander, and S. Rosenthal. Grand Lodge nominated Bros. J. H. Wynne, T. J. Sabine, F. Davison, George Neall, and D. M. Dewar.

The M.W.G.M. then presented the following brethren who were last year's Stewards of the Benevolent Fund Festival with their jewels. The Rev. W. B. Church, George Neall, the Rev. P. H. Newnham, Major George Barlow, Capt. Burgess, and the Rev. T. F. Ravenshaw.

The M.W.G.M.—Brethren, I wish to inform Grand Lodge that by virtue of the power vested in me, I have appointed Bro. Drummond, Grand High Priest of the Grand Royal Arch Chapter in the United States of America, to be Past Grand Senior Warden in this Grand Mark Lodge.

Bro. James Stevens:—M.W. Grand Master, the proper period has now arrived at which in discharge of my functions as Chairman of the Committee, appointed on the 5th of December, 1871, when your Lordship was nominated as Grand Master, I have to ask you on behalf of that Committee, to perform what I am sure will be to you a most pleasing duty, and to the Committee and members of Grand Mark Lodge generally, will afford considerable satisfaction. It was proposed in Grand Lodge on the date to which I have referred, that to mark the appreciation of the eminent services rendered to the Order of Mark Masonry, by our now Immediate Past Grand Master during his Grand Mastership, a distinctive memorial should be offered to him on his retirement. The proposition was cordially received and it was intended that the presentation should be made at the ensuing communication of Grand Mark Lodge. The serious illness of your lordship, which permit me most respectfully to say caused great regret and sympathy amongst your brethren, only equalled by the joy and satisfaction with which they now again find you in their midst, prevented so speedily a consummation of their wishes, and consequently a long period of time has elapsed since the project was first mooted. But if anything had been wanting at any time to strengthen the reasons for acknowledging the good services of our Bro. Portal, it has been supplied in consequence of your personal inability to undertake the duties of your appointment until this evening, for during the prolonged interval the progress of the first three years of our Brother's Grand Mastership has been increased to the manifest advantage of the Order. My Lord, I will not further delay Grand Lodge by reiterating what has been already enlarged upon and is so well known to all of us, but shall now content myself by stating, as the mouth-piece of the Committee of whom I have had the honour to be a member, that they have been supported in their endeavours to carry out the wishes of Grand Mark Lodge, so as to enable them to place before you this magnificent jewel and tankard, upon which are suitable inscriptions, and which I am to ask you to make still more valuable to our Bro. Portal by yourself presenting them to him.

The M.W.G.M. then received from Bro. Rosenthal a massive gold P.M. jewel and tankard, and read to the brethren the following inscription:—"Presented, together with a distinctive jewel, to Brother the Rev. George Raymond Portal, M.A., on his retirement from the office of Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons of England and Wales, &c., by lodges and members of the Order, to mark their appreciation of eminent services, 1869-73.—3rd June, 1873."

The M.W.G.M., addressing Bro. Portal, said:—"Most Worshipful Sir, I do not know that I can add anything to the words which have already been used, in presenting you, on behalf of Grand Lodge, with these testimonials of their sense of the services which you have rendered us. It would be superfluous, in the presence of so many who know what you have done, to recapitulate all the services you have rendered, or to point out how greatly the position of Mark Masonry has improved since you have ruled over it. I have only one sentiment to express. It is one which in one sense is personal; but in another I am sure it is shared by every member present. It is that you may not only long be spared, and long be willing to render that assistance both to myself and those who shall succeed me in this office and generally, to all the Grand Lodge and brethren of our Order, that assistance which is so valuable, which has been so readily rendered in former times, and without which I myself could not have dared to sit here. (Cheers.)

Bro. G. Raymond Portal, P.G.M., in receiving the present from the hands of the Grand Master, said: Most Worshipful Grand Master and Brethren, I can assure you that it is no platitude I use when I say that I cannot find words to express my deep sense of the kindness of the whole of the brethren who have presented me with this very magnificent present. I feel that it is owing to you that I should give a very brief account of the progress of our Order during the time that I have had the honour of presiding over you, because I think that, as a general rule, it is the duty of all those who are in high office to do their duty to the best of their ability, and that, except in very exceptional cases indeed, any such testimonial ought scarcely to be given. In what I am now about to say, I hope Grand Lodge will distinctly understand that I claim no credit whatever to myself. I have been, all through, supported by my Grand Officers, by the General Board, and by Grand Lodge itself, in the most cordial manner; and if it had not been for the confidence Grand Lodge had reposed in me, and for the readiness with which they agreed to the several steps I proposed for the welfare of our Order, we should not have arrived at the satisfactory condition we are now in. Therefore, in what I am going to say, I hope I shall not be suspected of egotism, but shall be credited with merely wishing to lay before you the progress of the last four years—a progress, owing very much to those who went before us, and owing still more, as I have said, to the kindness I have received from Grand Officers and Grand Lodge from time to time. When I was first placed in the chair of Grand Lodge those who acted with me found that the Grand Mark Lodge was without one single ally in the whole Masonic world, and not only that, but there was a very powerful Mark organisation existing in this country exercising authority from time to time, which, though not threatening our existence, threatened our supremacy—the Mark degree as practised in this country under authority from the Grand Chapter of Scotland. Now it was useless to attempt by ourselves to get the Grand Chapter of Scotland to withdraw their warrants, or even to promise to issue no more; their natural reply was, you are a self-styled body, not recognised by anyone in the world. We, therefore, thought that the next point was to ally ourselves with other non-recognised bodies; and I make bold to say, in opposition to our Bro. Loewenstark and those who voted with him, that the beginning of our whole success was our alliance with the other non-recognised bodies in England. Having got that, we were able to approach the grand bodies working the Mark degree—the Grand Chapter of Ireland, the Grand Chapter of Canada, and the Grand Chapters of the United States of America, and to say to them that we, as Mark Masters and a Grand Lodge of Mark Masters, desired to be recognised by Grand Lodge of England. I need scarcely tell you that those bodies have branches extending through the United States, and the leaders there in one body are leaders in every other body, and if they found that their brethren were recognised here would be much more likely to recognise us. The consequence was that our application for recognition by the United States was immediately acceded to, and we are now, as you know, recognised by and have exchanged representatives with Canada and the United States. I have no doubt that at their next meeting the other grand bodies will recognize us also. Grand Chapter of Ireland have acknowledged our certificates as valid for admission into their lodges, that I attribute to the first step we took of getting recognised by the non-recognised Masonic bodies. Then came the time when there was a great rage for new degrees, one of which was the Ark Mariners. There was also a great rage for the degree of Royal and Select Masters, which, in America has extended very widely. We thought if these degrees were worked in this country, at all, they should be worked in concert with ourselves, knowing as we did that it was not prudent to have numerous supreme jurisdictions. Therefore, Grand Lodge after some hesitancy had sufficient confidence in us to give us the power to confer on Mark Lodges under our jurisdiction the privilege of working the Ark Mariners degree. Then, brethren, there is no point in my administration of your affairs which I look back to with greater satisfaction than the institution of our Mark Benevolent Festival. That has been singularly successful. We have lately invested a large amount of money on that account, and the report of the Treasurer, which has been read to you, must have been very satisfactory. We have moreover, while holding those annual festivals, adopted a plan, which has been well received and strongly supported, that of admitting the ladies of our families and friends to our festival banquet. We have also felt—when I say we, I mean those who act with me—that it is unfair on Colonial brethren that we should be taking their fees while they had no share whatever in the honours of Grand Lodge, and therefore you were good enough to confer on me the power to give past grand rank to brethren who had distinguished themselves in the colonies. We have appointed upon the recommendation of their colonial brethren, and no step could have been taken by us which could give greater happiness or satisfaction to the residents in our colonies. I have been fortunate enough to secure the services of no less than nine brethren of distinction to take charge of the provinces in this country, South Wales, Northumberland and Durham, (our W.M. in the chair) Lancashire, Somersetshire, Middlesex and Surrey, West Yorkshire, Kent, Cumberland and Westmoreland, and Cheshire, and though it may seem invidious to single out one brother on this occasion of the Installation of the Grand Master for distinction above others, I cannot refrain from saying we never should have overcome the Scotch difficulty, which has been overcome by Scotch lodges, in the most handsome manner, agreeing to work under us and throwing in their lot with us, if it had not been for our Bro. W. Romaine Callander, of Lancashire, Lancashire being one of the strong holds of the Scotch jurisdiction. I feel that our best thanks are due to Bro. Callander, and that we are under a deep debt of gratitude to him, for in so important a province as that of Lancashire the Scotch lodges would never have consented to work under any other brother than our much esteemed brother Romaine Callander. I have now come, I think, to an end of my history of the trust you reposed in me four years ago. I need not say that during that time 69 lodges have been warranted, and over 3,000 certificates have been issued. I believe that in no degree has such progress been made as in the Mark degree, and I am quite sure that in the hands of so worthy a brother as I have had the great pleasure of installing to-night in this chair, not only will our degree suffer no loss, but it will go on and prosper in a manner hitherto unseen. I beg once more to thank you for this most noble present. I assure you no words of mine can express the great value I set upon it; and I only hope you will believe me when I say that any services that I can any time render to this degree will always be as cheerfully rendered in the future as they have been in times past. (Great cheering.)

Letters of apology from absent brethren having been read by Grand Secretary, Grand Lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to banquet, a report of which will appear in our next impression.

THE RED CROSS OF CONSTANTINE IN THE UNITED STATES.

We shall now turn our attention to the Order of Knights of the Holy Sepulchre.

This Order teaches that as Christ passed through the gates of death, we also like him, may rise to life everlasting by the exercise of Faith, Hope and Charity, which are the pillars of the New Law, hence the desire to be enrolled as a Christian Knight must be founded on true Christian principles, by performing good works, such as giving food to the hungry, drink to the thirsty, and clothing to the naked, to be faithful in the house of the Lord, to love all Christian Knights, and especially to protect the Holy Sepulchre, and defend it against all the enemies of the Christian faith.

The novitiate having pledged himself to the performance of these duties, is permitted to unfurl the banner of the cross, and to be enrolled as a Knight of the Holy Sepulchre, as a member of which Order he learns that the grand mystery of Christian Masonic Knighthood is a sincere belief in Jesus, the Saviour of men, and that Christian Knights should occupy their time in the erection of spiritual buildings, instead of material edifices, as did our ancient brethren.

Let me now direct your attention to our traditional history. The historian Eusebius mentions the fact that after Constantine had witnessed his remarkable vision of the cross, with the motto, "In hoc signo vinces," he caused all the debris to be removed from a certain neglected grave hewn in a rock, which was said to be the identical one in which Christ had been buried.

History also informs us that at that very time Helena, the mother of Constantine, made a visit to the Holy City, and learned from aged Christians that the cross upon which Christ suffered had been thrown into a pit near the place of crucifixion, whence it had been removed.

Helena caused strict search to be made, and eventually a pit was discovered containing three crosses, one of which she recognised, by certain tests, as the cross of our Redeemer.

Over the spot where the crosses were found, St. Helena and Constantine caused a stately church to be erected, and from that circumstance is derived, and from that period we date the origin of the Order of Knights of the Holy Sepulchre.

These Knights were selected only from the members of the Order of the Red Cross of Constantine, and each upon receiving the accolade, and taking the vows of Knighthood, was bound to guard the Holy Sepulchre, protect pilgrims, and repel all attacks of the enemies of the cross of Christ.

The Holy Sepulchre remained an object of Christian solicitude until about the year 614, when Chosroes II., a Persian monarch, swept over Palestine with his army, and captured Jerusalem, slaughtering the inhabitants and destroying the churches.

Modestus, Vicar of the Patriarch of Jerusalem, afterwards rebuilt the churches on their ruins.

Adamantius, in the seventh century, described the pit or grave in the solid rock, over which the church was built, and St. Willibald, in 765, also gave a very minute account of the Holy Sepulchre.

In 969 the Caliph Muezz ordered the buildings to be destroyed, and during the Caliphate of Hakem, in 1010, the Church of the Temple was entirely demolished, and special efforts were made to destroy the sepulchre itself, by means of fire.

This church was again rebuilt in 1048, by the successors of Hakem, and in 1099, was enlarged and beautified by the Crusaders, the captors of the city.

At the time of the Persian invasion, of which I have just spoken, the true cross was carried away by Chosroes II., but was recovered by Heraclius, in 629, who, on September 14th of that year, marched barefoot and in sackcloth into Jerusalem, carrying on his shoulders this piece of holy wood.

Age after age we trace its course, until it falls into the hands of the Crusaders, over whom its influence is felt at the battle of Hittin, where the Knights of St. John fought so nobly, under command of Guy, King of Jerusalem.

At the beginning of the next century, when the Christians entered Jerusalem with Godfrey, Robert the Monk, says that the soldiers or Knights of St. John "went to the Holy Sepulchre of our Lord, in which he was buried."

In 1160, Benjamin, a Hebrew, makes honourable mention of it as a place of worship, and calls it the Holy Sepulchre.

In 1550, Father Beniface was appointed guardian of the Holy Sepulchre, by order of Pope Julius III., and undertook the work of repairing the same.

In 1808 the entire mass of buildings was again destroyed by fire.

An eminent writer thus describes the conflagration: "The heat was so excessive that the marble columns which surrounded the circular gilding, in the centre of which stood the sacred grotto, were completely pulverised." The lamps and chandeliers, with the other vessels of the church, brass and silver and gold, were melted like wax. The molten lead from the immense dome, which crowned the Holy Sepulchre, poured down in torrents. The chapel erected by the Crusaders was entirely consumed. Half of the ornamental paintings in the ante-chapel were scorched, but the Holy Sepulchre itself received not the slightest injury internally, the silk hangings and paintings of the resurrection remaining unscathed by the flames, the smell of fire not even having passed over them."

From these and additional historical facts that could be produced, it is self-evident that the sepulchre or grave which Constantine uncovered; and from which his mother, Helena, procured the cross, was the veritable tomb of Christ—the identical spot where the feet of our risen Saviour first pressed the rock of the world He had redeemed.

Our ritual instructs us that during the period of the Crusaders the Order of the Holy Sepulchre flourished; that since the loss of the Holy Land it has continued to exist in several countries in Europe, and that its ancient ritual and ceremonies had been preserved intact to this day.

We now come to the investigation of the Order of St. John the Evangelist.

This Order is unconnected with that of the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, or those which took possession of Malta.

It is the Order of St. John of Palestine, whose teachings are intimately connected and interwoven with those of the Knights of the Holy Sepulchre.

The writings of St. John the Evangelist develop all the essential truths of the Christian religion.

It was reserved for this highly gifted Apostle to declare in unmistakable terms who and what constituted the divine Logos or Word.

He disclosed and promulgated the hitherto mysterious secret that the Word was with God from the beginning, and was truly God. That it was He who made all things, and for Whom all things had been made. That He was incarnate in the person of Jesus, Who was born of a Virgin, and suffered death on the cross.

We may remark that one of the mysteries of Christian theology is the equality of the three divine persons composing the mysterious Trinity co-equal and co-eternal, hence these Orders of Knighthood are unfitted for Master Masons.

The substantiality of the Father and the Son was established by the Council of Nice, composed of three hundred Bishops, who were convened by Constantine, and in which Eusebius took a very prominent part.

The doctrine of the Trinity has been unanimously received as a fundamental principle of the Christian faith by the Greek, Latin, Oriental and Protestant churches, and it is upon this settled doctrine that none but Knights Templar can be received into our communion, a holy communion in which with loving hearts we eat the bread of love, teaching us to support each other, and drink pure wine, that we may remember our vows and learn to sustain each other.

It would be inconsistent with my vows and my duties as your Grand Sovereign to speak of our traditional history of the Gospel of St. John, of the manner in which it was brought to light, or of its remarkable and providential preservation. Suffice it to say that he who devotes his time and talents to the attainment of our mysteries is amply repaid for his faith and zeal, by the reception of that sanctified knowledge which St. John proclaimed, when he declared that "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God."

May we not truly say that among all the degrees of Masonry or Orders of Knighthood, there are no three which are so intimately connected as those of the Knights of the Red Cross, of the Holy Sepulchre, and of St. John, all tending to the same end, and teaching the same glorious and eternal truths.

Let us then, Sir Knights, as members of this Christian Order of Knighthood, all strive to make this world a Temple of Love and Peace, by dedicating our hearts, our talents, our lives, our all, to the service of our Great Master Immanuel, whose title may be read upon the cross, the emblem of our redemption.

These ancient and valuable Orders of Knighthood have been transmitted to America by the Earl of Bective, through our esteemed and illustrious frater Sir Alfred Creigh, LL.D., under whose enlightened direction and government, as Chief Intendant General of the United States, Christian Brotherhood has so largely increased both in numbers and influence.

Honoured Sir, I bid you a cordial and hearty welcome to this our annual Grand Council, and I here assure you that for the zeal, ability and faithfulness with which you have ever laboured to advance the well-being of our beloved Masonic family, you have, as you justly merit, the high respect and deep gratitude of every member of our fraternity.

May your useful life long be spared, that from your extensive research, long experience, and mature wisdom, we may gather much instruction in the noble and holy work in which we are all engaged, the reward and wages of which are "the gratitude of the Craft and the approval of God."

ALTHOUGH Count Renard did not achieve his anticipated victory on Wednesday, it must be owned that his countryman, Mr. A. Ahlborn, of Regent-street, secured a real triumph, as very many striking costumes in the Grand and Private Stands were of his design and manufacture. Specially observable was a well-known toilette of yellow and black—the colours of the winner—the beauty of which seemed to herald the approaching triumph of Doncaster.—Court Journal.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.
Opates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.
SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."
This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsey, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.
* * Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had Gratis of all Chemists.

YOUNG'S ARTICATED CORN AND BUNION PLAISTERS are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d. and 1s. per box. May be had of most chemists. Observe the trade mark.—HY—without which none are genuine be sure and ask for YOUNG'S.

SARSAPARILLA.
WILKINSON'S ESSENCE, OR FLUID
EXTRACT OF RED JAMAICA SARSAPARILLA, prescribed by the Faculty for PURIFYING THE BLOOD, DEBILITY, LIVER COMPLAINTS, and freeing the system from effects of Mercury. Exclusively used in India and the Colonies as a prevention to Tropical diseases.
"Superior preparations that may always be relied upon."—Sir Astley Cooper.
"We are in every respect satisfied with it."—Lancet.
"We recommend yours as the best."—Medical Review.
In Quarter, Half, and Pint Bottles.
CAUTION.—Spurious and injurious preparations are offered to the public. See that Bottle and Label have the name and Address, "T. Wilkinson, late Wilkinson, Bridge, and Co., No. 270-Regent-street, London."

QUINTESCENCE OF JAMAICA GINGER
and CAMOMILE.
WILKINSON'S Preparation of Ginger and Camomile has long been deservedly known as an excellent domestic medicine. It is a most efficient Stomachic Tonic, and the best remedy for Flatulency and disorders arising from impaired digestion, and is not affected by climate.
No European in India or tropical climates should be without it. In one-eighth, quarter, and half-pint bottles.

WHITMORE'S STOMACHIC DINNER PILLS.
No Pill is so efficacious in promoting digestion, strengthening the Stomach, correcting acidity, preventing or removing Headache Giddiness &c. arising from a Costive Habit, Debilitated Stomach or Torpid Liver.
They require no change of diet, and those of the most delicate constitution can take them with safety.
Taken as an adjunct with Wilkinson's Sarsaparilla with the greatest success.

Craft Masonry.

LIVERPOOL.—The Mariner's Lodge (No. 249). The brethren of this venerable lodge held their usual monthly meeting on Thursday evening, the 5th inst., at the Masonic Temple, Hope-street, Liverpool, under the presidency of Bro. Edwin Hughes, W.M. There was a full attendance of officers and members, together with a large muster of visitors. Indeed, it is the boast of members that their lodge receives during the year a larger number of visitors, especially of Masters, Past Masters, and Wardens, than any other in the province. The principal business to be transacted was the election of W.M. and Treasurer for the ensuing year, the appointment of Auditors and Trustees of the lodge, and also of the Lodge Committee. The latter is one of the very best features of this carefully managed section of the fraternity, being formed for the special purpose of making inquiries into the character, standing, and peculiar fitness of every candidate for initiation before his name is allowed to be placed upon the circular, or go to the members for ballot. After the usual ceremony of initiation had been gone through by the W.M. and his officers, and due consideration paid to the cause of charity, Bro. Hughes, W.M., addressing the lodge on the subject of the election, begged the brethren to follow carefully the time-honoured system of that assembly by rewarding merit in the officers who had so faithfully performed their duty heretofore. It was, he said, at all times disastrous to the best interests of the Craft to promote feuds and disorders by unnecessary changes, and he sincerely hoped the brethren would seriously exercise the important duty they had before them. This was uttered with the special intent of guiding the junior brethren. The W.M. and the whole of the P.M.'s present then signified their desire that their names should not be included amongst the candidates, and the ballot, upon being taken, resulted in the almost unanimous return of Bro. J. J. Rose, the S.W., who was at once declared duly elected W.M. for the coming year. Bro. Hughes warmly complimented the lodge upon the choice which it had made. Bro. Dr. J. K. Smith, P.M. 1094 and 249, was urgently pressed to resume the duties of the Treasurer, and after receiving his consent he was re-elected by acclamation. The business being disposed of, a notice of motion respecting an amendment of the bye-laws was adjourned until the next meeting, and it was unanimously resolved, on the motion of Bro. Dr. Smith, P.M., "That a Lodge of Instruction, in connection with the Mariners' Lodge, should be formed," and of this Bro. Hamilton, one of the most capable and respected members, was appointed Secretary. The lodge was then closed in due form. At the banquet, held subsequently, a most enjoyable evening was spent. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts being first given in their entirety, Bro. Nicholas gave his new "A. B. C. Song," which, embracing as it did local and Masonic matters entirely novel, convulsed the brethren with laughter. In response to the warmest appeals, Bro. Nicholas followed with Tom Hood's poem of "Mary's Ghost," in a most spectral and midnight style. Several other brethren ably assisted to make melodious this happy evening, and at a timely hour the "Tyler's Toast" was given. It is worthy of notice that of late years this old lodge has not only been the means of forming others, but also has, by most careful management and admirable working, succeeded; whilst being famous for giving large sums in charity, in keeping up its funds and keeping up its character as second to none in the extensive province of West Lancashire. On Saturday, the 7th inst., a Lodge of Emergency was held for the purpose of disposing of general business in arrears. Bros. Barrow, Tickle, and Walker were then passed, and Gardner, Roberts, and Carrington raised to the higher degrees.

LIVERPOOL.—Neptune Lodge (No. 1264).—The annual gathering of this excellent lodge was held on Friday last, the 6th inst., the principal business being the installation of the W.M. Elect, and the investiture of officers. The gathering was particularly large, and perhaps one of the most influential ever held in connection with the "Neptune," as there was an unusual array of brethren holding past and present rank. The lodge was opened shortly after four o'clock by Bro. P. Merriman Gee, W.M., who was supported by the following officers and brethren:—Bros. J. Taylor, P.M.; A. Davies, S.W.; J. S. Dixon, J.W.; J. Healing, Treas.; J. Pemberton, Sec.; T. Singleton, S.D.; W. Roberts, J.D.; J. Korn, S.; A. Cotter, S.; W. Royle, S.; W. H. H. Ball, Tyler; J. Ashworth, T. G. Wilkin, W. Barr, R. B. Bott, T. N. Jackson, P. West, H. Williams, J. Williams, E. T. Jones, E. Balson, W. Brewer, J. Cotterall, R. Farrell, J. Hughes, G. Smith, J. Hill, G. Cain, D. R. Davies, W. Heath, and others. Amongst the visitors were Bros. J. Skcaf, P.G.O.; J. T. Callow, W.M. 673; W. R. Bainbridge, P.M. 721; T. Leighton, W.M. 1325; W. Archer, P.M. 1086; T. Evans, S.W. 1356; R. W. Holt, 1276; T. Ashmore, P.M. 823; W. Shortis, W. M. 724; W. Doyle, P.M. 667; R. Ing, W.M. 594; J. Wood, Treas. 1094; P. M. Larsen, P.M. 594; R. H. D. Johnson, P.M. 249 and 1094; W. Jones, W.M. 220; C. Leedham, P.M. 220; J. Hocken, P.M. 673, and others. After the minutes had been read and confirmed, the W.M. vacated the chair, which was taken by Bro. J. Hamer, as installing officer. Bro. Arthur Davies, W.M. Elect, was then presented for installation by Bro. Gee, I.P.M., and Bro. Taylor, P.M. After the usual ceremonials in connection with installation, the following brethren were invested as officers:—Bros. P. B. Gee, I.P.M.; J. S. Dixon, S.W.; T. Singleton, J.W.; J. Healing, Treas.; J. Pemberton, Sec.; W. Roberts, S.D.; A. Cotter, J.D.; W. Royle, I.G.; J. Hill, Org.; J. Taylor, P.M., M. of C.; Korn, Fish, and Hughes, Stewards. Bro. W. H. Ball was unanimously re-elected Tyler. A vote of thanks was passed to Bro. Hamer for his services as installing Master. The W.M. subsequently presented a handsome P.M.'s jewel to Bro. Gee, who said he felt deeply the gift which had just been made. Nothing could have given him greater pleasure than that mark of esteem, and he could assure the brethren of the Neptune Lodge that he would cherish the remembrance of it till the close of his life. He also cordially thanked the officers for the active and valuable help they had rendered him during his year of office. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to an excellent banquet.

INAUGURATION OF THE DE SHURLAND CONCLAVE, No. 92.

The interesting and impressive ceremony of inauguration and dedicating a Red Cross conclave was performed on Saturday, the 24th ult., at the Fountain Hotel, Sheerness, Kent, when the De Shurland Conclave, No. 92 on the roll of the Grand Council of England, was ushered into existence by a deputation specially sent, empowered for the purpose by the Executive Committee of the Order.

The founders of the new conclave are chiefly Naval Officers, and comprise Sir Knts. J. Hancock, the first M.P.S.; Lieut. R. C. Jolliffe, R.N., Viceroy; Staff-Surgeon James Johnstone, R.N.; Lieut. Albert R. Wigham, R.N.; Lieut. Harry F. Yeatman, R.N.; Assistant Paymasters J. M. Bruce, and T. Russell, R.N.

The deputation from the Grand Council was composed of Ill. Knts. R. Wentworth Little, G. Treas.; H. C. Levander, M.A., G.H. Almoner; J. Lewis Thomas, G. Architect; and J. G. Marsh, P.G. Architect; the G. Recorder, Dr. Woodman, and Sir G. E. Campbell, Bart., Inspct. Gen. of Hospitals, being at the last moment unable to attend. A procession having been duly formed, the knights entered the conclave chamber, when the chair was taken by Sir Knt. R. Wentworth Little, who delegated Sir Knts. Marsh to act as V.; H. C. Levander, as H.P.; and Thomas as G. Recorder. The splendid rite of inauguration was then proceeded with, and nothing could exceed the precision and solemnity of the whole ceremonial.

The conclave was thrice dedicated, and after the invocation and an appropriate hymn, the "De Shurland," No. 92, was declared duly formed, and its members authorised to receive brethren faithful and true into the pale of Christian Knighthood.

Sir Knt. Hancock was then enthroned as M.P.S.; Sir Knt. Jolliffe inducted into the chair of Eusebius, and the officers were then appointed.

The following brethren were then installed as Knights of the Order:—Bros. Edward Penny (1089); Alfred Ingleton (1089); Robert Draycon (1273); and Payne (158).

Comp. Parsons officiated as, and was elected to the post of Sentinel.

A vote of thanks was ordered to be recorded on the minutes to the members of the Grand Council who had attended and assisted during the ceremonies, and this compliment was acknowledged by Sir Knt. Little.

The M.P.S. then proposed, the Viceroy seconded, and it was carried by acclamation, that the Conclave should become an annual subscriber to the Masonic Institution for Girls.

After some formal business the Conclave was then closed, and the Knights adjourned to the banqueting-room, which we may remark was the lodge room of the De Shurland Lodge, and very beautifully fitted.

No pleasanter evening was ever spent in Masonic fellowship than that which succeeded, the general regret being that, owing to the early departure of the Grand Councillors for London, it was considerably abbreviated.

Toast followed toast in quick succession, speech trod upon the trailing garments of speech in rapid rotation, and at the early hour of eight, the bell—the "railway bell"—close by, tolled the hour for retiring. "Then there was mounting in hot haste," a rush for chapeaux, a grasping of hands, nay, the whole posse comitatus of new-made Knights insisted upon seeing their "Conscript Fathers" safely off by train, and, accordingly, "accompanied them to the spot," where a comfortable carriage and a quiet "smoke up" counteracted the regrets experienced by the London Knights upon leaving such jolly good company as they had found amongst the gallant sons of Neptune and "De Shurland" the bold "Baronne."

ORIGINAL OR PREMIER CONCLAVE OF ENGLAND.—This conclave met at the Freemasons' Tavern, on Monday, the 2nd inst., when the chair was occupied by Sir Knt. R. Wentworth Little, P. Sov., in the absence, through indisposition, of Sir Knt. G. Kenning, M.P.S. Ballots having been taken for several candidates and joining members, Bros. Lieut.-Col. James Peters and James Pettengill were duly installed Knights of the Order. A College of Viceroy was then opened, when Sir Knts. Peters and Pettengill were advanced to the priestly grade, after which a Senate of Princes was held for the reception of Sir Knts. H. A. Dubois, Rev. J. M. Vaughan, Col. Peters, and Pettengill. Sir Knt. Moss was enthroned as M.P.S., and the following officers were invested:—Sir Knts. E. Sillifant, V.; T. B. Yeoman, S.G.; H. A. Dubois, J.G.; Rev. Dr. Bratte, H.P.; T. Cubitt, P. Sov., Treas.; R. W. Little, P. Sov., Rec.; G. S. Haines, Prefect; Rev. J. M. Vaughan, S.B.; H. Parker, Organist. The sum of one guinea was voted as an annual subscription to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, and the Conclave was then closed. A banquet, which gave the utmost satisfaction to all present, was then served, and upon the withdrawal of the cloth the usual toasts were given, and received with enthusiasm. The performances of Sir Knt. H. Parker on the pianoforte formed a most agreeable addition to the evening's proceedings, and several capital songs were sung. The Knights present comprised Colonel Burdett, Sir Gilbert E. Campbell, Bart., Colonel Whitbread, H. C. Levander, J. G. Marsh, W. C. Lucey, M.D., C. Hogard, E. H. Thiellay, J. T. Moss, E. Sillifant, H. Parker, F. Walters, R. W. Little, H. A. Dubois, Rev. Dr. Brette, Rev. J. M. Vaughan, T. Cubitt, W. H. Hubbard, Col. J. Peters, and J. Pettengill.

PALESTINE CHAPTER, ROSE CROSS, H.R.D.M.

—This Chapter was held on the 27th ultimo, at 33, Golden-square, when the following members of the Order attended:—Captain N. G. Phillips, 33°, Lieut. G. Com.; J. M. P. Montague, 33°, G. Sec. Gen.; Hyde Pullen, 33°; Major S. H. Clarke, 33°; R. Costa, 32°; J. Hervey, 31°, P.M.W.S.; Colonel Burdett, 32° (Ireland), M.W.S. Elect; R. Wentworth Little, 30°, P.M.W.S.; H. C. Levander, 1st Gen.; T. L. Fox, 2nd Gen.; C. E. Williams, 30°; J. W. Barrett, Raph.; J. T. Moss, Herald; E. Stanton Jones, Organist; Sir G. E. Campbell, Bart.; T. Cubitt, J. Boyd, L. Hirsch, E. Hewett, C. Hammerton, and E. Sillifant. The following candidates were admitted to the 18°:—Colonel James Peters, John Dixon, M.D., Constantino Peragini, and Eugene H. Thiellay. Colonel Burdett, who had hitherto been unable to attend, was duly installed as M.W.S. The elections for the ensuing year resulted unanimously in favour of Bro. G. Kenning, 30°, as M.W.S., and Bro. J. Hervey, 31°, P.M.W.S., as Treasurer. The alms having been collected, the Chapter was closed, and the brethren repaired to the Freemasons' Tavern, where an excellent dinner was served, and the evening was spent in the greatest harmony and social good feeling. Bro. R. Wentworth Little, P.M.W.S., presided at the banquet.

GLASGOW.—Thistle and Rose Lodge (No. 73). This old lodge had a visit from the officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge on Tuesday, the 3rd inst., headed by Bro. F. A. Barrow, D.P.G.M. The P.G.S., Bro. A. McFaggart, M.A., having examined the books of the lodge, reported that he had found everything in perfect order, the Acting P.G.M. then addressed the lodge, congratulating them on their continued progress, he found that not only had the Secretary done his duty with the books, but the R.W.M. and all his officers appeared to be thoroughly efficient in their several duties, and it was a source of great pleasure to the Provincial Grand Lodge when they came to inspect the various lodges under their jurisdiction to find them working so satisfactorily. The Provincial Grand Lodge then retired, having another visitation to make. The R.W.M. then initiated Mr. George McBeth in the Order, after which, at his request, Bro. Wheeler took the S.W. chair, and Bro. T. Stewart passed Bro. P. McAdams to the second degree. The lodge having been raised to the third degree, Bro. Bain, P.M. of No. 3 bis., in a very impressive manner raised Bro. Alex. Neilson to the sublime degree, for which he received the thanks of the lodge and the R.W.M.

This concluded a very lengthened meeting, all the work having been performed in a highly satisfactory manner.

ROYAL ARK MARINERS.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In your report of the proceedings of the Grand Mark Lodge in the last Freemason, you state, "Before Grand Lodge met, Earl Percy, who was to be installed as Grand Master, was installed as Grand Master of the Royal Ark Mariners, the degree being now given under the authority of Grand Mark Lodge by the Mark Lodges under its jurisdiction; and you have omitted my name as one of those Past Grand Officers present at the Grand Mark Lodge.

Perhaps you will allow me to add, for the information of all Royal Ark Masons, that I had the very great pleasure of presiding as W.C.N. at a special lodge of Royal Ark Mariners, at which the Earl Percy, the Grand Master elect of M.M.M., was elevated to that ancient and honourable degree, in the presence of, and assisted by, Bros. the Rev. G. R. Portal, M.W.G.M.M.M.; F. Binckes, R. W. Little, A. D. Loewenstark, G. Neal, S. Bryant, S. Funkenstein, and others; and I afterwards opened a special assembly of Commanders, assisted by Bro. F. Binckes as J., and Bro. R. W. Little as S., when Bro. the Rev. G. R. Portal and Earl Percy received the degree of Commander. Bro. Earl Percy was then invested and enthroned as Grand Commander of Royal Ark Masons, and saluted by the brethren present. It is with the greatest satisfaction that I am enabled to say that all Royal Ark Mariners may look up to the M.W. the Earl Percy as Grand Commander or Grand Master of Royal Ark Mariners, and to say that all matters between the two Grand Lodges have now happily been settled; and that the members of the new Grand Council of Royal Ark Mariners are to be selected from those Past Grand Officers of the Order who have qualified themselves.

In conclusion, I am quite sure that this very beautiful and ancient degree will—under the control of its new Grand Commander, Earl Percy, and its future Grand Council, and attached to the Grand Mark Lodge—receive the hearty support of all Mark Master Masons.

Yours fraternally,

MORTON EDWARDS,

P.G. Commander.

TESTIMONIAL TO DR. ROGERS.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

"B. B." is mistaken if he thinks that the testimonial to Dr. Rogers has anything to do with Masonry. The subject I know, was transferred to your columns, and when I saw mention of it there, I thought that the officious person who had sent it to you would have done well to leave it alone. The testimonials which has been on foot for some long time now, is got up by members of the Grampian Club, a body of Scottish gentlemen, anxious to promote the publication of works on Scotland's history. It is in recognition of the Doctor's efforts in this direction that the testimonial is proposed, and the "Masonic Educational Institutions" "B. B." is so desirous to puff are not likely to suffer one jot by it.

Query.—Was the original paragraph in The Freemason, about the testimonial, sent by "B.B." himself, to give him an opportunity to write against it next week, and so obtain a cheap advertisement for the "excellent Masonic Educational Institutions?"

Yours fraternally,

F. Y.

CHARITY JEWEL.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Will you inform me what right and privileges, as to wearing the charity jewel or clasps belong to a brother who has served the office of Steward at an anniversary festival of the Boys' School, and has contributed personally the sum of ten guineas.

Yours fraternally,

P. M.,

Steward and Life Governor, R.M.B.I.

THE "ORDER OF THE TEMPLE" AND BRO. HOLMES.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I am quite at a loss to know if our learned Bro. Holmes's letter, at page 356, is intended as an answer to Bro. Dr. Hodge's communication, to Bro. Rev. P. H. Newham's pointed questions, or to my short review. I say "intended as an answer," because the letter does not appear to me to be a reply to either of us, but is an evident attempt to draw us into a consideration of matters quite irrelevant to the present inquiry.

However interesting a consideration of the "Masonic Red Cross Degrees" may be, and though the discussion between Bro. John Yarker and myself was in some respects an important one, I fail to see why either should be examined to any extent now, seeing the points in dispute are wholly distinct from the aims and endeavours of our Bro. Holmes. I am ready at a suitable opportunity to discuss the historical position of the "Red Cross of Rome and Constantine;" meanwhile we have to do with the new Templar organisation, which I think Bro. Holmes has failed to prove either to be Masonic or desirable, and certainly not ancient or chivalric; although I cheerfully acknowledge his capital history of the Knights Templar to be an able production, apart from its Masonic bearings.

Yours fraternally,

W. J. HUGHAN.

UNVEILING THE REREDOS IN GLOUCESTER CATHEDRAL.

(From the Gloucester Journal.)

A public ceremonial in which the Masonic Craft takes part is of so rare occurrence that a great amount of interest necessarily attaches to it. The presentation of the magnificent reredos, which has been so liberally subscribed for by the Masons of the province, as their contribution towards the Cathedral restoration, which has been for some time in progress, naturally afforded such an occasion. It is scarcely necessary to remark how appropriate comes such a contribution towards the restoration and decoration of a fine building like our ancient Cathedral from such an august body as the Freemasons, which may almost be said to date its existence from time immemorial; for writers on Masonry, themselves Masons, affirm that the Order has had being "ever since symmetry began, and harmony displayed her charms." The Craft has been traced by some to the building of Solomon's Temple; and it is said the architects from the African coast, Mahometans, brought it into Spain about the sixth century. Its introduction into this country took place about 674. The Grand Lodge at York was founded in the year 926. The finishing, if, not the erection of many of our gothic cathedrals has been attributed to Freemasons, who, without considerations of pay, nobly devoted their lives and talents to the work of raising these "grand poems in stone," to their eternal "Grand Master." It is only from such devoted souls, living in a sort of atmosphere of religious fervour that we could possibly have the first conception of the exquisite form, exquisitely wrought out so conscientiously by patient and laborious hands, as far removed from the contract spirit in which modern public buildings are erected as it is possible to conceive. The most venerated and sacred spot of all in a church was, of course, the altar, and here it was in ancient times that the most solemn and impressive ceremonies of the church were performed, and none but the favoured few dare enter its sacred precincts. Beneath the altar, as the most perfect place of safety, were deposited relics and treasures, space for their reception being specially left in the shape of recesses beneath the walls, generally sunk below the level of the floor, reached by lock-guarded doors, which were let into the screen. The lavish manner in which many of the altars of our church in mediæval times were enriched with gems, precious metals, exquisite carvings, and pictures—the offerings of the wealthy devotee—indicate pretty accurately the spirit which prevailed. Our richest decorations, in comparison with them, appear dim and tame, though we may claim a purer, because a simpler, taste. The magnificent reredos, however, well recalls some of the glories of our ancient altar-pieces; while it has the merit of being in perfect harmony with the character of the venerable and stately building in which it is erected, with whose surroundings it blends most pleasantly, and in accordance with the strictest canons of taste in gothic architecture, as interpreted by the highest known authority, Sir Gilbert Scott. The Freemasons have therefore good reason to be proud of their generosity being directed into so fine a channel; and we are sure their gift will be regarded with pleasure and gratitude alike by the church authorities, by all admirers of noble architecture, and by the public at large, who look upon our cathedral with feelings akin to veneration.

The importance which has attached to the formal opening of this grand work justifies us in going somewhat into detail in describing its history and completion. We will, however, first briefly refer to the reredos and screen which previously existed on the site of the present new one. Between 40 and 50 years ago an altar screen from designs by the late Mr. Smirke was erected. This consisted chiefly of stone panelling, and had no pretensions to architectural or sculptural display. It was put in place of the older work, which Fosbrooke states was formerly behind it, in fresco. The latter old altar-piece is stated to have been removed to the parish church of Cheltenham. In 1718 it appears that a curious picture in distemper was discovered against the east wall of the nave, behind the wainscoting. This was removed to the triforium at the south transept, where it remained for many years. In the account of the cathedral published by the Society of Antiquaries in 1809, it was stated that "it is supposed this picture once made part of the decorations of the high altar, as its dimensions agree with the original altar screen now remaining, behind the modern one set up in the seventeenth century." It was nine feet seven and a-quarter inches in height. It had been painted on a white plaster ground laid on oak planking three-quarters of an inch thick. Portions only of the frame remained. It consisted of a striking though somewhat rough representation of the Last Judgment, a large number of figures being represented. Mr. Scharf considered it one of the most important specimens of English painting he remembered to have seen. It was a coarse epitome of the famous altar piece at Dantzig, of the date of 1467. He considered it to have been painted at the end of the reign of Henry VIII., or Edward

VI. Although not found in situ at the altar, the conclusion drawn from its dimensions, that it once occupied that place, seems to be a fair one. About two years ago, before the commencement of the present work by Sir Gilbert Scott, the screen which had been erected by Mr. Smirke was removed, and Mr. Waller, the resident architect of the Cathedral, who has always taken a special interest in all that appertains to the ancient work it contains, discovered the foundations of the original reredos, with two doors of approach between the reredos and the back screen. Each of these doors leads by three curved steps to a floor of a lower level, forming what is known as a feretory, in which it is supposed that valuables were deposited, three recesses apparently for that purpose exist beneath the altar, and two beneath the wall screen at the back. We understand a very correct plan of this ancient work has been made by Mr. Waller, who also found there the foundations of the two Norman pillars, one on each side, showing clearly, as the crypt indicates, the original form of the Norman Church, prior to the erection of the present Lady-Chapel. The lower portion of the walls nearest the east window is considered to be a part of the old chapel, and the main walls of the building, which were erected by Abbots Hanley and Farley about 1472-1498, are brought gradually from a much greater width to the same dimensions, so as to interfere as little as possible with the light to the great east window. There is no doubt that the ancient reredos which existed on the site of the present new one was a fine structure, gorgeously painted, probably in a similar style to the four sedilia on the south side, the colouring of which may be traced. These have been beautifully restored from designs by Sir Gilbert Scott, but of course without the colouring which covered the originals. The canopy work has been made to surmount twelve statuettes, by Mr. Redfern, which have an exceedingly fine effect. These represent the founder and several successive abbots who have taken the most prominent part in the construction of the building, in their order of date, the oldest standing towards the east.

The reredos is of Painswick stone, and screens of the same material are attached to it, reaching to the north and south walls of the choir. A small portion of an embattled cornice of the ancient work, which was attached to the north and south walls, gave the position and leading features of the design; the place and width of the doors were also found from the remains of the ancient work. The doors are of polished oak, and elaborately panelled and carved.

The lower stage of the reredos contains three large niches, and four smaller ones, the bases of the niches resting on a shelf which is four feet six inches from the level of the altar step; in each niche there is a pedestal of a semi-octagonal form with carved cornice and cresting, being two feet in height from the shelf. The pedestals in the large niches support groups of sculpture, while single figures rest on those in the small ones. To each niche there is an elaborate canopy, delicately panelled, and with pinnacles of a highly ornamental character at the angles. The arches to the canopies are richly moulded, cusped, and crocketed, the bosses to the arch of the central one being formed of angles, while the vaulting is of a very intricate nature. An ornate cresting completes the cornice of these canopies, and the niches are separated by panelled pinnacles, each having three rows of gables, and widened at the lower part by slightly projecting buttresses. At the extreme ends of the reredos are two large pinnacles of a similar character, and attached to the rest by flying buttresses, cusped and crocketed, the distance between these being seventeen feet, seven inches. Over each of the large niches is a lofty canopy, with pierced tracery on each side, and crockets at the angles, the central one being higher than the rest, and surmounted by a richly-carved and well-proportioned cross, while the other two have carved finials. The cross is upwards of twenty-six feet from the level of the altar step. Each of the canopies has three niches, divided as before with pinnacle buttresses, each having a tall canopy, with cusped ogee arches, and ornamented with crockets at the angles. All the canopies are vaulted, and under each pedestal is an angel bearing in his hand an emblem or instrument of the "Passion." Commencing on the north side the first carries the dice, the next the crown of thorns, and the third the whipping post and scourge. In the central canopy the angel carries the nails and hammer, the one in the centre bears the cross, and the third the sponge. In the canopy on the south side the first angel holds the chalice, the second the spear, and the third the ladder. In the lower stage of the reredos, the first figure commencing on the north side, is Moses bearing the tablets of the law. Next him is a subject representing the "Nativity"—a ministering angel stands behind the figure of the Holy Child, and S. Mary kneels in an attitude of adoration beside Him, while S. Joseph completes the group. Next to this is a figure of S. Peter, the Patron Saint, bearing his emblem, the keys. In the centre is represented the Ascension of Our Lord, His hands slightly raised in the attitude of blessing His disciples, who are kneeling in the foreground. Next to this is the figure of S. Paul bearing his emblem, the sword. Then follows the entombment of Our Lord, S. Mary Magdalene kneels in front, while figures of the Blessed Virgin, S. John, and S. Joseph of Arimathea, occupy the back ground. The series is completed by the figure of David playing on the harp. The group are two feet nine inches wide, and the single figures are three feet six inches high. The design for the reredos was given by Sir Gilbert Scott, R. A. the masonry and carving were executed by Messrs. Farmer and Brindley, of London; and the sculpture is by Mr. Redfern, of the same place. The stone is from the quarries belonging to Messrs. Wingate, of this city. The contracts for the work amount to about £1,200, which is all covered by the subscriptions given by the Freemasons. A brass-plate at the back of the reredos bears the following inscription:—"Glory to God in the Highest! This reredos was erected and presented by the Freemasons of the Province of Gloucestershire, June, A.D. 1873. The Rt. Hon. Henry Legge Dutton, Baron Sherborne, P.G.M.; George Fred. Newmarch, D.P.G.M.; Thos. Gill Palmer, P.G. Treas.; Edwd. Trinder, P.G. Sec.

A list of the subscriptions has been beautifully illuminated on vellum by Mr. J. Turner, and bound in black morocco, forming a handsome volume. The following is a copy of the title-page, as far as lettering goes:—

"On the fifth day of June Anno Domini, 1873,

THE REREDOS

Of the Cathedral Church of Gloucester, having been erected at the cost of the Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of the Province of Gloucestershire, was presented to the Dean and Chapter by the Right Honourable James Lord Sherborne, the Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master, in the name and on behalf of the Masonic body. Provincial Grand Master: The Right Hon. James Lord Sherborne. Deputy Provincial Grand Master: George Frederick Newmarch. Provincial Grand Treasurer: Thomas Gill Palmer. Provincial Grand Secretary: Edward Trinder."

This, as the title page of the volume, is elaborately and beautifully illuminated. The initial letters of the first two words are in crimson and blue, the rest of the letters being in blue, on a finely foliated background in orange. The interlaced ornament is firmly, though finely, painted, and the colours harmonise well. The names of the chief Masters of the subscribing lodges, which come next, are also brought out in brilliant colours, and surrounded by ornament. A representation of the sun in gold surmounts the lettering; and the whole is enclosed in a border of gold, shaded with brown. Encircled by the initial letters are represented various symbolic objects, an interpretation of which, as given by a Masonic authority, we append. "The three lesser lights of Masonry indicate the sun, the moon, and the Master of the lodge. The sun, the centre of light and heat, turns the thoughts to God that made it. The initial letter T has represented enclosed within it the moon, with the square and compass resting upon the tesserae of a Masonic pavement. "The square is an emblem of our duty to God and man. Inequality by its two sides, the greater and the lesser, it teaches duty, by reminding us that all our actions should be guided by the strict rules of rectitude. The compass teaches that as by its means we describe a circle which is confined within the boundary of its circumference, so we should at all time keep our desires within due bounds." Both the square and the compass are also emblematical of the sciences and the useful arts. The moon represents the Mason receiving his light from above; and as the moon is sometimes eclipsed, but regains her former brilliancy after a while, the Mason is reminded thereby when through accident or infirmity of nature he has fallen from his moral rectitude, to return to the path of light. In the initial R of the next word is another design, the letter enclosing a representation of the mallet, chisel, and plumb, resting on an unhewn block of stone, by the side of which lies a rule. "The rule directs that we should punctually observe our duty, press forward in the path of virtue, and incline neither to the right nor to the left. The plumb line teaches moral rectitude, to avoid dissimulation in conversation and action, and to direct our steps in the path which leads to immortality. The chisel demonstrates the advantages of discipline and education. The mind, like the diamond in its original state, is unpolished; but as the effects of the chisel on the external surface of the stone present to view the latent beauties of the diamond, so education discovers the latent beauties of the mind, and draws them forth to range the wide field of matter and space. The plumb admonishes us to walk upright in our station, and to hold the scales of justice in equal poise. The mallet teaches us to lop off excrescences and to correct irregularities. What the mallet is to the operative Mason, enlightened reason is to the passions of the speculative mason; it curbs ambition, represses envy, moderates anger, and encourages good dispositions." Then follows a list of the subscribers to the work, under the heads of the respective lodges to which they now belong, or have previously belonged, with the addition of some few non-members who have been subscribers to the work. Precedence in the list is given to the Royal Union Lodge, No. 246, Cheltenham, as being the oldest lodge established in the Province. Foundation Lodge, No. 82, Cheltenham, which comes next in order, is an older lodge in point of establishment, but was brought up from Berkshire. Then follow Royal Faith and Friendship Lodge, No. 270, Berkeley, where the Right Hon. Lord Fitzhardinge heads the list. Next come the Royal Lebanon Lodge, No. 493, Gloucester; Cotteswold Lodge, No. 592, Cirencester, which embraces the names of the Right Hon. Lord Sherborne, the Provincial Grand Master, and Sir M. E. Hicks-Beach, Bart., M.P.; Sherborne Lodge, No. 702, Stroud; St. John's Lodge, No. 761, Dursley; the Royal Gloucestershire Lodge, No. 839, Gloucester, which has the largest number of subscribers, and the largest amount; Lodge of Sympathy, No. 855, Wotton-under-Edge; St. George's Lodge, No. 900, Tewkesbury; Prince of Wales Lodge, No. 951, Stow-on-the-Wold; Zetland Lodge, No. 1005, Newent; Forest of Dean Lodge, No. 1067; Tynedale Lodge, No. 1363, Chipping Sodbury. A ribbon containing the name of the designer, Mr. J. Turner, brings the elegant volume to a close. The binding is ornamented with Masonic emblems in gilt—a double square on the face, and square and compass at each corner, with a foliated border, and similar emblems on the back.

THE CEREMONIAL.

Great preparations had been made at the Cathedral and the vicinity for the opening ceremonial. The reedos was hidden from view by a white cloth, which was suspended by cords from the triforium. When the unveiling took place these were loosened, and the covering slowly descended. In order that as many of the general public as possible might witness the ceremony, arrangements were made for the occupation of every part of the Cathedral, including the nave and triforium, from which a view could be obtained. Tickets for these latter places were obtainable by the general public on application to the Provincial Grand Secretary, Mr. Tinder. Although all the best places were early occupied, there was space in the nave for more spectators than were present. The choir was reserved chiefly for those taking part in the service and procession. Outside the Cathedral, ropes were stretched round portions of the College-green to preserve space for those entering by the south porch and west door. A large body of persons assembled, notwithstanding the rain which was falling, and had a good view of the procession as it wound round from the College Gardens into the western entrance. Most of the windows in the vicinity commanding a view were also occupied by interested spectators. The bells of the Cathedral and St. Michael's gave early intimation of a day of rejoicing, and rang merry peals at intervals during the day. Besides the numerous Freemasons coming from different parts of Gloucestershire, and from distant counties, many strangers were attracted to the city, which presented a scene of bustle and excitement, in which the gay dresses of a large number of ladies were conspicuous, reminding us of the times when the city is en fête at the Musical Festivals. Unfortunately the weather was not so fine as it had been hoped and expected it would be. The morning broke dull, and threatening clouds hung about. Soon after midday rain began to fall, and though not heavy, it continued at intervals until after the procession had entered the Cathedral at half-past three o'clock.

The day's proceedings, as far as the Freemasons were concerned, were initiated by the holding of a Provincial Grand Lodge, at the Bell Hotel, at twelve o'clock, by the R.W. the Provincial Grand Master, Lord Sherborne. Provincial Grand Officers were directed to wear their provincial grand clothing; other brethren Craft clothing, the officers Past Masters and P.M.'s wearing their collars and jewels. The Chapter Room and North Cloister were the place in which the brethren were directed to assemble prior to the starting of the procession, the time fixed for which was three o'clock. It was arranged that the Mayor and corporation should head the procession, proceeding round the Cathedral Gardens, and College Green, and entering the Cathedral at the west door. Here the Provincial Grand Master was to be met by the Lord Bishop, the Dean with the canons, clergy, lay clerks, and choristers preceding him with their choir, followed by the Provincial Grand Officers, the members of the lodges of the province, following in inverted order, according to their seniority. Soon after three o'clock the procession left the north cloister, and arrived at the west door in the following order:—

Two Prov. Grand Officers with wands.
The Mayor and Corporation, preceded by the Mace Bearers and Cap of Maintenance.
Brethren not Prov. Grand Officers nor members of any Lodge in the Province.
Members of Lodges of the Province in the following order:—

Tyndall Lodge, Chipping Sodbury, 1363.
Forest of Dean Lodge, Coleford, 1067.
Zetland Lodge, Newent, 1005.
Prince of Wales Lodge, Stow-on-the-Wold, 951.
St. George's Lodge, Tewkesbury, 900.
Lodge of Sympathy, Wotton-under-Edge, 855.
Royal Gloucestershire Lodge, Gloucester, 839.
St. John's Lodge, Dursley, 785.
Sherborne Lodge, Stroud, 702.
Cotteswold Lodge, Cirencester, 592.
Royal Lebanon Lodge, Gloucester, 493.
Faith and Friendship Lodge, Berkeley, 270.
Foundation Lodge, Cheltenham, 82.
Royal Union Lodge, Cheltenham, 246.

Owing to a slight hitch in the arrangements a little delay occurred in the reception of the procession, the first part which made a slight halt in the nave for the clergy, &c., to pass them, and then continued their advance into the choir, and took up the places allotted to them, a voluntary being played by Dr. Wesley. The Bishop, wearing his full scarlet canonicals and doctor's hood, and accompanied by his chaplains, took his place in the procession, with the Dean, canons, lay clerks, and choristers, the Grand Master, &c., following, and as they moved forward the choir commenced singing the well-known hymn "The Church's one foundation" to Dr. Wesley's Aurora. Two lines of the hymn were sung without the organ accompaniment, but at third line, commencing—"She is His new Creation," with some of the softer stops Dr. Wesley joined in with the organ, judiciously increasing the power as the procession advanced. The sight presented by the procession, as it filed along the Cathedral, was striking and picturesque. The light blue clothing of the first part of the procession contrasted with the darker blue and purple of the latter portion, comprising the higher dignitaries of the Order, with their richer and more diversified colours and glittering jewels, the scarlet uniform of some of the brethren who were militia officers, giving additional variety to the colour of the line. The hymn was concluded by the time that all had taken up their allotted places in the chancel. All eyes were now directed towards the reedos. The Provincial Grand Master, approaching the altar, gave the signal by a wave of the hand, and the curtain concealing the reedos was gradually lowered. The Grand Master then formally made the presentation of the reedos to the ecclesiastical dignitaries, who had taken their places at the altar, the Dean acknowledging the gift by a slight inclination of the head, first to the Grand Master and then to the brethren. The Lord Bishop then proceeded to his throne, and the other dignitaries to the places assigned them. The choir then sang the "Hallelujah Chorus." This magnificent and ever welcome chorus, so full of graceful harmonies, combined with freshness and beauty was exceedingly well rendered. The prolonged notes on the words "King of kings and Lord of lords," ranging from lower A to upper G, were remarkably well sustained in the treble by the chorister boys, and by the fine "filling up" of the other parts, produced a grand and impressive effect. The scene presented by the congregation was novel and striking. Near the altar were the brethren who were not Provincial Grand Officers, wearing their blue and silver collars and aprons; the Mayor, in his scarlet robes, faced the Bishop, also wearing his of a similar hue; next to the former came the black gowns of the other members of the corporation, and further on, the white robes of the lay clerks and choristers, and below these the chiefs of the Masonic order of the Province in purple and gold collars, aprons, gauntlets, and jewels, Lord Sherborne, the Provincial Grand Master, being distinguished by a gold collar. Opposite to him was P.P.G.W., Sir Michael Hicks-Beach. Near to him, with his black gown and crimson hood, sat the Past Grand Chaplain of England, the Rev. C. R. Davy, with purple and gold collar, gauntlets, and jewels, and the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Brother Newmarch, and numerous other officers. The brighter coloured dresses of the lady portion of the congregation were dotted about, the whole overlooked by another congregation in the triforium, gazing with interest on the scene below. Through the open door of the chamber could be seen a third congregation, in a vista of pillars, the nave, diminishing like a picture in the distance—

"With rich reflection of the storied glass,"

The usual evening service was then proceeded with, Dr. Wesley's well-known service in F being used. The Rev. Precentor Clark intoned the service. The First Lesson was read by the Dean, and the Second by the Bishop. After the third Collect, Bach's anthem, "Blessing, glory, wisdom, and thanks," was sung. This grand work, originally written for eight voices, which is generally considered one of Bach's finest, among his many fine productions, was perhaps the most impressive portion of the musical service. Especially was this the case in the fine chorale, "To Father, Son, and Holy Ghost," with the magnificent ending, in full harmony, "Hallelujah. Amen." The verse parts were taken by Master Thomas (treble), B. Gay (alto), Mr. Hargrave (tenor), and Mr. Woodward (bass). The grand Old Hundredth Psalm was then sang according to the old version, not only in regard to harmony, but also as to time. This is wholly at variance with modern ideas, which find it impossible to accept a style, in which each verse occupies about 75 seconds in the singing.

The Rev. C. Raikes Davy, who wore the insignia of Past Grand Chaplain of England and Provincial Grand Chaplain and a large number of Masonic jewels, then preached the sermon. He took his text from the 90th Psalm and 17th verse, "Let the beauty of the Lord our God be upon us; yea the work of our hands to establish thou it." The rev. gentleman said: Such was the pious inspiration of Moses, the man of God, when he concluded the affecting review which this Psalm contains of the shortness and frailty of man's mortal life and mortal labour, in contrast with the eternity and unchangeableness of God. After the ceremonial in which we have been engaged this day, what more becoming words can we utter when we come before the Lord than these?—"Let the beauty of the Lord our God be upon us; and establish thou the work of our hands upon us; yea the work of our hands, establish thou it." To us, my Masonic brethren, who have taken a prominent part in its proceedings, it must afford peculiar gratification that our Order has been privileged to engage in this work and labour of love in connection with this temple and its worship; and others who are here present, and particularly those who are in any way connected with this Cathedral—this ancient city—and the county of Gloucester must rejoice in the endeavour that has been made to adorn this sacred building and to promote the glory of the most High. And here a question may naturally arise—one which has often been asked, and one which is not easily answered—"What is Freemasonry?" I purpose, therefore, in the first place, to offer a few remarks on the nature and origin of our society; as on this occasion so many of its members are assembled within these hallowed walls, which were originally designed and executed by our Masonic fraternity many centuries ago to perpetuate the blessings of religion, and to transmit them to us and to generations yet unborn. Now, Freemasonry, in its primary signification, is an Art and Science as ancient as it is useful and extensive. Its antiquity and utility is generally acknowledged in most parts of the habitable globe. We may trace its foundation from the commencement of the world. Ever since symmetry began and harmony displayed its charms our Order has had a being. No art or science preceded it. It has existed for ages through various countries, languages, sects, and parties, up to the present period. It is so established that it may endure till time shall be no more. In our own country and in our foreign dominions it has flourished, and still continues to flourish, under the protection and guidance of some of our greatest statesmen, of our nobility, and even of Princes of the Royal Family. Yet it is a remarkable fact, that, though Freemasonry is so universally prevalent, the outward world is but little acquainted with its general principles, and totally ignorant of the more truly valuable parts of our time-honoured institution. A well-known learned author has given us an instance of the truth of this statement in his definition of the word Freemason. "One of a numerous society who profess having a secret to keep." But had he known anything at all of the subject, had he been favoured with one glimpse within the veil which hides our converse from the rest of mankind, had he been in the least acquainted with our esoteric teaching, he never would have uttered an idea so erroneous. If the essence of Masonry consisted in the knowledge of any particular secrets or peculiar forms, or imaginary benefits, it might indeed be alleged that our pursuits are trifling and superficial. But this is not the case. Our ceremonies are the only keys to our treasure. From the lessons which they inculcate the well-informed Mason derives instruction. They are laid before him for inspection. He views them through a proper medium. He adverts to the circumstances which gave rise. He dwells upon the tenets which they convey. Finding them replete with useful information, he prizes them as a sacred trust. Being convinced of their propriety, he estimates their value accordingly. Such is the nature of the teaching of our lodges, which, like the Adyta of the ancient temples, are hid from the eyes of the uninitiated. But as to the possession of a secret unknown to the rest of the world, we profess nothing of the kind. Such a supposition is utterly absurd. It is true that all our affairs and transactions are conducted in secret, but we do not on that account pretend to be better or wiser than our fellow creatures. Let us look at the present state of society in general. The diffusion of knowledge is a remarkable feature of the times in which we live. The strong barriers which formerly confined the stores of wisdom have been broken down; old establishments are adapting themselves to the spirit of the age; new establishments are rising; schools are introducing new systems of instruction; books without number are rendering every man's fireside a school, either for good or evil. From all these causes there is growing up an enlightened public opinion, which quickens and directs every art and science, and, through the medium of the press, is now becoming the governing influence in all the affairs of men. In the early ages of society men were destitute of these methods of diffusing knowledge, which we now so super-abundantly enjoy. The few discoveries in Art and Science which were then made were necessarily confined to a small number of individuals. In those times the pursuit of Science was a secondary consideration to public utility and the necessities of life. As architecture was the first occupation of mankind even in a rude state, for protection and support, so it is superior to every other mechanical profession. As men extended their dominion over the works of Nature, greater efforts of human skill would be demanded, and those who required the assistance of Art would alone endeavour to obtain it. The information which they acquired individually would be imparted to others of the same profession as themselves, and thus associations would be formed for the mutual communication of knowledge and the mutual improvement of its members. Hence originated particular societies of men to whom scientific knowledge was confined, and which gradually developed themselves, and combined to form an institution that has been sanctioned by ages, embracing individuals of every nation, of every religion, and of every condition in life, all united as brethren—considering that they are springing from the same origin, are partakers of the same nature, are sharers of the same hopes, and are destined to the same end. Thus in the earliest ages of antiquity our fraternity was founded. To it scientific knowledge was originally confined. This was communicated with the greatest care and circumspection—not in schools or academies, but in certain fraternities, the rulers of which instructed their disciples, and concealing their teaching, by hieroglyphics, symbols, allegories, and figures, such as they alone could explain. By this means they conveyed their knowledge, and handed it down to posterity. In process of time these societies gradually developed themselves and combined to form an institution which, like the electric telegraph, girdles the world with its magnetic influence, and extends from pole to pole. By secret and inviolable signs, carefully preserved among our fraternity, it becomes an universal language. Beside the common ties of humanity, we are bound by still stronger obligations to kind and friendly offices. The universal principles of our Art unite in one indissoluble bond of affection, men of the most opposite characters and habits, and of the most distant lands. The Briton meets a brother among the remote Chinese, the wild Arab, and the American savage. In every nation a Mason may find a friend, and in every clime a home. Such is the nature of Freemasonry, and he who cultivates this Science, and acts agreeably to the character of a Mason, finds a subject of contemplation that is inexhaustible and ever new. It not only enlarges the mind and expands its powers, but raises it above this world upwards towards heaven. Though it is based on morality and science, it does not end here. Having inculcate moral duties and led to the advancement of the intellectual faculties in the paths of science, it rises by degrees to higher and more heavenly themes.

Reviews.

A valuable little shilling book for tourists has just been issued by Messrs Cook & Son, the well known excursion agents, and at the present time, when so many are preparing to visit the Vienna Exhibition will prove a very valuable source of information. It comprises a Time-Table for all the principal railways, steamers, and diligences, &c., on the Continent. The Tourist is informed of the quickest mode of reaching the principal cities of the Continent from London, and Paris, without the trouble of hunting up the times of the trains from point to point from the general tables.

The special features which distinguished this book from its colleagues are:—the omission of all small and unimportant names of places, which in existing time tables serve only to perplex the traveller, in the arrangement of the time tables, a mode very little known has been adopted, one list of names of stations serves for both the up and down lines, or out and home journeys. The tables being read downwards in the one case, and upwards in the other. This arrangement reduces the matter to one half. The tables are illustrated with eight sectional maps, showing the different routes, &c.

Obituary.

We regret to announce the sudden death of Bro. J. N. Garrod, which took place at his residence, Wyndham House, St. John's Wood, on Thursday. Bro. Garrod was a member of the Common Council for the ward of Aldersgate, which he had represented since 1869. He had long been known in Aldersgate as one who took an active part in parochial affairs, and will be long remembered there for his many acts of kindness. It was with him that the idea originated of presenting the "Aldersgate Window" to the new library at Guildhall, and he showed a lively and practical interest in its erection. Much sympathy has been expressed for Mrs. Garrod and the family in their sudden and painful bereavement.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS: Healing not Harmful:—Persons striving to live honestly and to pay their way, have these never failing remedies within reach, which, used as directed, successfully dispose of a serious illness at a trifling expense. No application has met with the same universal approbation, for curing all external ailments as that which this unguent has received. Skin sores, deep ulcers, foetid discharges, burns, blistered surfaces and many similar affections are at once soothed and put on the road to soundness by Holloway's Ointment. With his Ointment and his Pills, the wealthy may save themselves much suffering and the poor may help themselves to health, since these medicaments are reasonable in price and can be purchased in every hamlet.—Advr.

THE ORDER OF THE TEMPLE.

The recent changes which have revolutionised the entire character and constitution of Masonic Knight Templarism in this country have evoked, as our readers are aware, a considerable amount of chagrin and bitterness amongst those members of the Order who believe, whether rightly or wrongly, that the revolutionists, in their pursuit of a chimera, have sacrificed the substance to the shadow. Neither has adverse criticism, we regret to say, been confined to the limited circle of Templars who happen to disapprove of the Colquhoun regime, inasmuch as the publicity given by the daily press to the installation of the Prince of Wales as chief of the non-Masonic Templars has brought down showers of sarcasm not only upon the devoted head of His Royal Highness, but upon the new Order in general. Nevertheless, although we entertain a strong opinion as to the gross impolicy of dissociating modern Templary from its foster mother Freemasonry, we should, in all probability, have refrained from comment upon the subject, in the charitable belief that, however mistaken in their views, the Colquhoun party were actuated to some extent by bonâ fide feelings, and by an excusable, although preposterous, idea of placing the Order in a better position before the public.

Our sentiments of benevolent neutrality have, however, now received a rude and startling shock. Not content with stamping out—as if he were dealing with the rinderpest—every trace of a Masonic origin, every evidence of a Masonic development in his revised Order of the Temple; Not satisfied with having torn from the history of the Order its very title-page to respect—Uneasy until he had deprived Templary of its raison d'être, the life, the spirit of Masonry which animated and sustained the whole body—not content, we repeat, with the success of his unholy and lamentable efforts in one direction, Sir Patrick Colquhoun deliberately steps out of his way to attack another Order—long akin to the Masonic Confraternity of Knights Templar—and one which is supported not only in England, but throughout the world by the best and noblest sons of the Masonic Craft. Out of his own lips this Arch Chancellor stands condemned, and we scarcely know which excites our greater astonishment in the following epistle, namely, the grandiloquent egotism which pervades its every line, or the marvellous folly that could allow such an anti-Masonic production to see the light. Fain would we hope that the subjoined letter is a clever hoax upon the Chancellor, but unfortunately it bears too much internal evidence to permit many doubts as to its authenticity.

Nothing but a solemn retraction of this libellous and uncalled for attack upon the Supreme Grand Council 33°, of which (we may remark en passant our popular Deputy Grand Master, Lord Carnarvon is a member), will ever set Sir Patrick Colquhoun right again in the minds of all honest Masons, and we trust he will speedily disown the letter as a crude, hasty, and ill-conditioned enunciation of his recent policy.

Premising that we copy the communication from the Washington Sunday Herald, we now leave our readers to judge for themselves, believing that at the present state of the question further comment is superfluous.

"The letter from London, which we publish to-day, gives an authoritative history of the negotiations that brought to a consummation, on the 7th of April, the great change in the reconstruction of the Order of the Temple, which was celebrated by one of the grandest and most interesting Masonic festivals that has occurred for many years in England, on the occasion of the union of the Grand Conclave of Masonic Knights Templar of England and the Grand Conclave of High Knights Templar of Ireland, together with the installation of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales as Grand Master of the United Orders.

The writer of the letter is Sir Patrick Colquhoun, Knight Commander of the Bath, (sic?) Queen's Counsellor, LL.D., &c., and Grand Chancellor of the Order. Sir Patrick, with all his diplomatic ability, could not prevail upon the Scotch Masons to join this great movement—hence the "pitching into" that sturdy crew of militants. It was at the suggestion of Sir Patrick that the new Order of the Cross was conferred upon J. Q. A. Fellows, of New Orleans, as Grand Master of the American Knights Templar, on the same occasion that the Cross was given to the Emperor of Germany and the King of Sweden, who are active Masons:

"2, King's Bench-walk, Temple,

"London, 13 April, 1873.

"To John Scott Cunningham, U. S. Navy.

"Langham Hotel, London.

"My Dear Sir: The questions you put to me require a somewhat lengthy reply, in making which I trust you will excuse inevitable prolixity.

"When the Ionian Islands (where I had been Chief Justice) were surrendered by Mr. Gladstone to the Crown of Greece, I returned to England, and found the Order of the Temple more or less in a state of disorder. The Grand Chancellor, Mr. John Halsey Law, a barrister and Fellow of King's, was anxious to resign his office, and the Grand Master Stuart, desirous to find some lawyer of standing to succeed him, the office was proposed to me and I accepted it. I, however soon found that there was everything to be done in the way of administrative reconstruction; official order and routine had been neglected, and the whole body in danger of lapsing into anarchy. I, however, applied myself seriously to the work, and by slow steps restored order and discipline, for the materials were for the most part good. The first step was to decentralise and render the provinces responsible to the governing body; in other words to make the Provincial Commanders responsible for their provinces, on a constitutional basis. Thus the Grand Master's authority penetrated to the youngest knight in a legitimate manner.

"Honours and dignities were no longer distributed by favour, but by merit, and the Provincial Officers became real entities instead of ornamental and unmeaning dignitaries. This system was followed out in all its consequences order began to revive, and the body was purged of many abuses.

"Convinced that the Prince of Wales must some day become a Mason and join the body, I conceived the idea of His Royal Highness being constituted its head, and directed my efforts to that end.

"The first step was to combine the three Kingdoms by a solemn compact of reciprocity. This done, soon after, His Royal Highness, as I foresaw, was made a Mason and Templar by the King of Sweden. I lost no time in waiting on His Royal Highness and inviting him to visit our Grand Conclave as a guest to judge for himself. He was graciously pleased to accept the invitation, and approve of the mode in which business was conducted. At another interview His Royal Highness consented to become a member of the Early Encampment of England of Faith and Fidelity. Again His Royal Highness sent for me and expressed his desire to attend Grand Conclave as a member of our body with His Highness Prince John of Glucksburg, (Her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales's uncle,) who was elected a member of the Early Encampment of England. Shortly after His Royal Highness accepted the command of that Encampment, and was duly installed by the Earl of Limerick. The Grand Master Stuart of England, being desirous of resigning his office, from his advanced age and failing health, I applied to the Prince to assume the supreme command of the Three Kingdoms, and statutes were passed to that end. The three Grand Masters were to become Great Priors of their respective nationalities and the Prince Grand Master of all the Empire. The Duke of Leinster at once resigned the name he had hitherto held, in the Prince's favour, the Grand Master Stuart did the same, but the Scotch, a small and unimportant body, in violation of their solemn compact, stood aloof, to the astonishment of all, and doubtless bitterly regret the step they have taken, and the disloyalty they have evinced, to their own detriment. The important section of the Irish Templars, on the other hand, showed an animus which demonstrates the real character of the upper and respectable class of Irish society, working heartily to the great consummation you witnessed on the 7th instant.

The principle accepted was that the body is not in itself Masonic, but has a Masonic basis and qualification, in other words, that nothing was Masonic in the strict sense, except the Craft, from which body alone Templars could be taken. This is so in Sweden, and originally also here, it was, therefore, a mere assertion of an existing principle. In Sweden the Order has State and Court recognition.

You inquire also how we can have Grand Crosses, Commanders, &c., in this Order. I reply that these dignities stand on the same basis and bear the same analogy to the Order as the Order does to Masonry. These honours can only be conferred on Templars, a status which is a condition precedent to those dignities. Just in the same manner as no one can be a bishop except he be a clergyman, no one a judge except he be a barrister, none a member of the military division of the Order of the Bath except he be a soldier, none a Provisional Prior except he be a Templar and Preceptor. It is also in some measure a substitute for Past Rank, that ridiculous aping of Craft Masonry with which it has no connection. Thus at present, if any member accomplish a worthy act, the Grand Master has the power of rewarding him, without the absurdity of appointing him to a temporary office which he does not perform; on the contrary, he directly and at once recognises and places a signal stamp on his deserts. The system heretofore adopted is as ridiculous as though a man were to go about styling himself Past President of the United States.

"As we profess to be a chivalric body and cannot be so in the sense of the 11th and 12th centuries, let us be so according to the usages of the 19th century. A voluntary body, bound by a vow of profession, modified so as to meet the exigencies of our age, we want no assistance from the law; no charter of incorporation. We all swear to obey our own internal laws or suffer the penalty our own constituted judicial authorities may inflict. We do not trade on our Order, we trust each other as a body of gentlemen.

"The Supreme Council of the so-called Ancient and Accepted Rite, has taken another view of their degrees, it has incorporated itself as a trading company for the sale of degrees under the Limited Liability Act, thus exposed itself to the interference of the ordinary courts of law. It has set up a shop for the sale of Masonic or quasi-Masonic Degrees, and thus exposed itself to the danger of having its title questioned, and its right to sell, the question of consideration raised, its accounts and transactions overhauled, and may be wound up by order of the court.

"We stand on a firmer basis; we do not seek the autocratic and irresponsible power of a self-elected body, considering ourselves safer under a limited monarchy so constituted as to combine representative government with military discipline, which enables us to amalgamate with other similar bodies, whereas the principle adopted by the Ancient and Accepted Rite only allows them to contract with others, as one mercantile firm does with another, and that only within the power contained within the four corners of its deed, whereby all elasticity and development is taken away or restricted.

"We could amalgamate with the United States of America, which the Ancient and Accepted Rite could not; we might form the most powerful organisation in the world by bringing under one head all speaking the same language or tongue. We might make one people out of various nationalities, while they must remain confined within their own narrow sphere. Ours is a truly cosmopolitan organisation, susceptible of extensions to any degree, and as in ancient times there was but one Grand Master, so now there is nothing to prevent even different nationalities assembling under one Supreme Head, divided into tongues or nationalities as of old, without any interference with their individual political allegiance.

"The first step has been taken by the late amalgamation. It may receive further development, at least it is capable of it.

"These, my dear Sir, are my views of modern Templarism—large and liberal views, based on conservative principles, tending to render the Order powerful and nationally useful to its members and mankind in general.

"Believe me, yours fraternally,

"P. COLQUHON."

REFORM IN THE GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

BY A PAST MASTER.

At the regular quarterly communication of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, held in the Freemasons' Hall, Edinburgh, on Monday, the 6th of May, 1873, a motion, of which due notice had been given, was made and carried by a majority, "that at the beginning of next Masonic year, the Grand Lodge be composed of Right Worshipful Masters, actual Wardens, and Past Masters." It is almost impossible to over estimate the importance of the change thus effected in the Grand Lodge of Scotland, a change which cannot but be hailed with delight by Freemasons in general throughout the Scottish jurisdiction, and regarded by their brethren in England and other countries as greatly conducive to the advancement of the interests of Freemasonry in Scotland. It is a complete reform of the constitution of the Grand Lodge, a reform calculated to put an end at once and for ever to abuses which have long prevailed, and have grown to great magnitude; to make the Grand Lodge a body such as, according to the principles of Freemasonry, it ought to be, worthy of the respect and confidence of the brethren throughout Scotland; truly representative of the lodges within its jurisdiction, composed of free, independent, and intelligent members, having the interests of the Order at heart, and not likely to be influenced by petty and personal considerations. The step which was taken on the 6th of May is one which can never be retraced. It may be matter for some wonder that it was taken, that the Grand Lodge agreed to reform its own constitution; but it would be matter of far more wonder if the Grand Lodge, such as it will be after the beginning of next Masonic year, were to listen with any degree of favour to a proposal for a return to the proxy system, now happily abolished.

We have so often pointed out the evils of the proxy system which has hitherto prevailed in Scotland, that it is not necessary to say much on the subject now, even to show what cause there is to rejoice over its abolition. It has been a fertile source of abuses which have brought dishonour on Scottish Freemasonry; it has made the Grand Lodge weak, and subject to the domination of a small clique, mindful of their private interests, more than of those of the Brotherhood; it has been a cause of weakness that has been felt throughout the whole Masonic body to the utmost limits of the Scottish Jurisdiction. The Proxy System was, so far as we are aware, peculiar to Scotland, nothing like it ever existed in England, nor anywhere else in the world. The change now made in the Constitution of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, assimilates it to that of the Grand Lodge of England, and of the Grand Lodges of other countries. It is henceforth to consist, like the Grand Lodge of England, exclusively of all the Masters and Wardens of lodges, and of Past Masters. Hitherto lodges could either be represented in the Grand Lodge, either by their actual Masters and Wardens, or by other brethren of any lodge within the jurisdiction, the lodge appointing a Proxy Master as one of its representatives, and he appointing two Proxy Wardens, who thereupon also become members of the Grand Lodge. This system was at first adopted, it would seem, in consequence of the tediousness and expense of travelling, and the consequent inability of the Masters and Wardens of lodges in distant parts of the country to attend regularly the communications of the Grand Lodge in Edinburgh. But practically, instead of securing the representation of all lodges, it only gave opportunity for packing the Grand Lodge, in order to the carrying of any particular motion, or the maintenance of a scheme of policy upon which a few active members of it, agreed in private.

Many lodges were not represented at all, neglecting to avail themselves of a privilege which they had no reason to regard as of great value. When therefore it was desired to accomplish a particular object in the Grand Lodge, those who combined for its accomplishment were accustomed to meet and consider how the members of the Grand Lodge might be expected to vote, and what addition to the number on their own side would secure them a victory. Then they set to work. Letters were written to unrepresented lodges recommending to each of them some trusty brother, and asking that he might be appointed Proxy Master, and soon as he had received his commission, he proceeded to appoint two Proxy Wardens. In the selection of Proxy Masters and Proxy Wardens, the one thing attended to was the certainty of a vote on the right side. Masonic knowledge, Masonic experience, and all other things worthy of consideration as entitling a man to the honour of a place in the Grand Lodge, were utterly disregarded, indeed a mean subserviency was a great recommendation. Thus the Grand Lodge came to have amongst its members, many who had just recently been admitted into the Brotherhood, and could not be supposed to know much about the questions which were likely to come before the Grand Lodge, or to make up their minds upon them intelligently and wisely; many of imperfect education, and of social position very far from elevated. It was not uncommon for men to be made Masons in order that they might be presently brought into Grand Lodge, to give their votes on the most important questions—questions of such a nature as they had never before heard of. An active member of the Grand Lodge went about among his acquaintances, particularly those of rather inferior station in society than himself, and after perhaps sounding them a little, suggested the idea of their becoming Masons, and getting into Grand Lodge.

To be members of the Grand Lodge was an honour much to be desired, but there was a difficulty in the way—the payment of the fees. This was quickly removed, the fees were to be paid for the new member, and the honour was to cost him nothing. However, a clear understanding was come to on the subject of voting, and the brother who feared he might be at a loss how to vote, was either instructed as to some particular question, or told that all would be right if he held up his right hand when he saw his friend do so who procured for him the appointment of Proxy Master or Proxy Warden for some lodge of the existence of which he had never before heard, situated in some village, the very name of which was new to him, and its geographical position unknown. And all was made right accordingly. In this and no better way were many motions carried in the Grand Lodge. What wonder that the Grand Lodge failed to command the respect which it ought to have received from the whole brotherhood in Scotland? What wonder that its affairs were grievously mismanaged; and that the lodges and Provincial Grand Lodges were often aggrieved by its proceedings? What wonder that the abolition of the proxy system is a subject of general rejoicing and mutual congratulations? It may be thought somewhat wonderful, however, that the motion for a thorough reform of the Grand Lodge was carried in the Quarterly Communication of 6th May. This was not accomplished without an effort, but it was by means of the most honourable kind; by an awakening of the interest of Freemasons throughout the country in a matter so deeply concerning their interests and that of those of the Order. Lodges were thus led to send up their Actual Master and Wardens to the Grand Lodge, in such numbers, that a majority in favour of the motion was obtained. New life was infused into the Grand Lodge, and means were at once adopted to insure its continued vigour—means very simple, but than which no better could possibly be employed.

The only reason which could ever be advanced in favour of the proxy system—that which has already been stated, has ceased to have the force it once had.

Travelling is now so rapid and inexpensive that the Masters and Wardens of lodges, even in the most distant part of the country, may easily attend the communications of the Grand Lodge. It may be mentioned that the Grand Lodge, at one of its quarterly communications, appointed a new office-bearer, a Grand Director of Excursions, who may be expected to make arrangements with railway companies, not only concerning excursions, but also the travelling of members of the Grand Lodge to and from its place of meeting on occasion of its communications.

Masters and Wardens of lodges will thus have the opportunity of taking part in the discussion and decision of all questions coming before the Grand Lodge, and those in which any lodge or Provincial Grand Lodge is particularly interested, are sure to receive due attention. Great advantage may also be expected to result from their saying how the Grand Lodge is worked, and thus acquiring Masonic knowledge and experience which they may afterwards turn to account in their respective spheres. Hitherto the means possessed by Scottish Freemasons in general of making such acquirements have been very limited. Great advantage may also be expected from the very diffusion of interest in the proceedings of the Grand Lodge, and the concerns of Freemasonry, by Masters and Wardens returning from its meetings to their own lodges.

A most important part of the reform just accomplished is the new position assigned to Past Masters. The office of Master of a lodge is made more worth aspiring to by the permanent right of membership in the Grand Lodge now conferred upon Past Masters. This, which has long been the rule in the English jurisdiction, is new to that of Scotland.

Hitherto in Scotland, through a blind mistake seriously detrimental to the interests of the Order, Past Masters have been shelved, and the knowledge and experience which they have acquired as Masters of lodges and in the inferior offices through which they ascended to this, has never been made available in any special way. As members for life of the Grand Lodge they will now be able to render valuable services; and much benefit may be confidently anticipated from the presence in the Grand Lodge of a large number of really well trained Masons, instead of its being in great part composed, as hitherto, of Masons as untrained and ignorant of Freemasonry, as any to be found in Scotland, who have never held any office in any lodge, and some of whom their own lodges would never think of appointing even as Stewards. It is not to be supposed that any man can attain a thorough knowledge of Freemasonry in a day. Years of careful study and observation are requisite, before anyone, however intelligent, becomes acquainted with all its laws, regulations, and modes of working.

The change now made in the Constitution of the Grand Lodge will give a fresh impulse to the study of Masonry amongst the younger brethren, with whom it will be a matter of honourable ambition to qualify themselves for those offices in the Grand Lodge which give the right of membership of the Grand Lodge, and especially for the office of Master which gives that right for life. A secondary advantage, but not an inconsiderable one, will be the discontinuance of the practice prevalent in many lodges of re-electing the same brother as Master year after year, by which the younger members are discouraged and made careless of all that concerns Freemasonry. Whilst well trained Masons take the place of untrained Masons in the Grand Lodge, or in Masonic phrase, smooth ashlar of rough ashlar—the process of training will be more assiduously carried on everywhere, and smooth ashlar will become more numerous in all lodges.

If lodges in the colonies wish any matter to be brought under the consideration of the Grand Lodge they will now have an opportunity of entrusting to the care of a Past Master, really capable of attending it well. The names of Past Masters will of course always appear in the Grand Lodge roll, from which a list of them can easily be obtained.

Of course in the motion carried on the 6th of May, the term Past Master must be regarded as denoting those who have been actually Masters of lodges and them only. There is a Masonic honour peculiar to Scotland, known as a Past Master's Degree, conferred on brethren who have never filled the office of Master of a lodge. On them no right of membership of the Grand Lodge is conferred. They were certainly not contemplated in the motion.

They are Past Masters only nominally, not really. It were to be desired that the conferring of a Past Master's Degree should be discontinued.

There is absurdity in styling a man Past Master who never was Master, and the confusion of the nomenclature is inconvenient.

GRAND MARK LODGE.

On Tuesday week, at the conclusion of the business of the Grand Lodge, the brethren partook of a sumptuous banquet at Freemasons' Tavern, when about sixty brethren sat down to table, headed by Earl Percy, M.W.G.M.M.M., who had on his left the Rev. G. Raymond Portal, P.G.M.M.M., and was supported by most of his newly appointed Grand Officers.

At the clearing of the cloth, the choir provided by Bro. John Read, P.G.O., sang grace, and the toasts of the evening were immediately proceeded with.

The Grand Master, in proposing the toast of "The Queen," said that the Institution which he should couple with the name of Her Majesty was one which was well worthy to be in such good company, the great institution of Mark Masonry, which was as widely spread as the British dominions. It had flourished under the rule of successive Grand Masters, but never more so than under the Grand Master who had immediately preceded him. He felt that he should have a very onerous task before him to emulate the works of these Past Grand Masters; but he was certain of this, that whether he could or could not in any way benefit Mark Masonry, it had now made such a start that it was sure to flourish, and would flourish in spite of everything.

The Rev. G. Raymond Portal, P.G.M., then proposed "The Health of the M.W.G.M.," and said he knew it would give the brethren as great pleasure to drink it as it did him to propose it. The Grand Master did not come before them as an unknown man. First of all they had known him as their Deputy Grand Master for some years, the duties of which he had fulfilled to their entire satisfaction. He was also Provincial Grand Master of that most important Province of Northumberland and Durham, and the great success which had attended Mark Masonry hitherto would continue, they might safely prophecy, from the excellent proofs he had already given of the regularity and rigour of his administration.

The M.W.G.M., who, on rising to acknowledge the toast was received with great applause, said:—Most Worshipful Past Grand Master and Brethren, I thank you very much for the cordial way in which my health has been proposed, and for the very kind way in which you have accepted it. I confess that I rise upon this occasion with feelings of more shyness, if I may be allowed to use the expression, than ordinary, because I feel, in the first place, that you have done me a kindness this evening which is not often accorded to one of your Grand Masters. When you were kind enough last year to elect me as your Grand Master, if I had been able to accept at once the honour which you designed for me, I should have felt that I had received great honour and great consideration at your hands; but when you were content to wait my time, as it were—although, perhaps, it might not strictly be called my time; yet when you were contented to wait to have to rule over you—though I do not give you much credit for that, because I know you had over you one in whom you placed more confidence than in most of those who rule the Craft, yet in some sense a state of uncertainty—and I think I should be very wanting in proper feeling if I were not to express to you my gratitude for the kind way in which you waited till I was able to occupy this chair, and then were kind enough to ratify your decision on the first occasion, and raise me to this proud position. I have said before, in Grand Lodge upstairs, that I should have been unwilling to occupy the position which I do, were it not that I felt that I should be supported both by Grand Officers and Grand Lodge. But I should like to add this one remark to what I have already said, and it is, that according to our constitutions, admirable as they are, we have Grand Officers selected, not, as it were, from the immediate cognisance of the Grand Master, but by the recommendation of lodges in the provinces. (Hear, hear.) The consequence of that must necessarily be that the Grand Master is not so intimately acquainted with the Grand Officers as he would be if he were to appoint his own personal friends; at the same time, I believe that for the good of the Order in general, it is much more advantageous that those who really know the merits of brethren scattered all over the kingdom should send up those who are eligible for office in Grand Lodge. I only say this to show that I trust to the good feeling of the brethren, as much towards the office I hold and to the prestige that lies upon it, and those who have held it before me, as I do to the personal feeling which I am proud to think many of you have towards me—some of you, doubtless, it is impossible you should have, knowing, as I do, that you are almost unacquainted with your Grand Master. At the same time, I know that you so far trust the holders of this office that you will support them with the utmost cordiality. I do not think I need further dilate upon the toast which you have just drunk so kindly. I will only say one word more on this subject, that you will find in me one who will try his utmost to benefit and advance the prosperity of the Order, and who will give his utmost attention to consulting the wishes of the brethren in any Masonic matter. I do not want to sit down without proposing another health, one which, I am sure, you will drink with pleasure, and that is, "The Past Grand Masters," and especially I shall couple with it the name of Bro. Portal. (Cheers.) The prosperity of our Order, as we have heard to-night, is unexampled in the history of Freemasonry, considering that we are, under our present organisation, somewhat a new one. And I wish to remind you, though doubtless you do not require to be reminded of it, that that prosperity is due to our Past Grand Masters. (Hear, hear.) They had consistently upheld the principles of our Order, and they have never been found wanting on any occasion when the interests of the Order required their attention or their zeal. I may say in passing that I am sorry that there should be none of them, except our immediate Past Grand Master, present on this occasion; but we are rather unlucky in the choice of a week for our festival when every one is taking a holiday. I will pass now to the name which I shall couple with this toast. Bro. Portal has done more, I will say, to raise this Order to its present position than any other Past Grand Master who has held this chair. I do not say that in an invidious sense, because I believe that, luckily for himself and Mark Masonry also, he succeeded to that chair at a time when energy, tact, and strict attention to the business of Mark Masonry were more than doubly necessary than at any other in the history of our Order. He has raised this degree to that position which will compare with any degree, not excepting the Craft at the present moment—I say not excepting the Craft, because you must look not to the number of lodges, or at the number of Masons, but whether they are good men and true, whether the Order is in a flourishing condition, and whether, considering the time that has elapsed since our organisation, our Grand Lodge was started we have not made wonderful progress—when I say progress, I think the goodness of our Masons and the soundness of our lodge, they will compare with any other body. The M.W.P.G.M. informed you this evening of the progress which Mark Masonry had made during his tenure of office. I do not know that I can add anything to it. I can only say what he did not say, which is, that it was to him, seconded by the efforts of his officers, that that progress is entirely due; and I can only assure all Mark Masons that they will ever find in him a true friend, a good Mason, and one who will readily and kindly assist them in every Masonic and social duty; and I speak from experience. I ask you therefore to drink this toast of "The Past Grand Masters," and especially our Immediate Past Grand Master, Bro. Portal.

The Rev. G. Raymond Portal:—I have already detained you so long in Grand Lodge that I feel I ought not to say very much more now, except I thank you for the kindness with which you have received this toast, and to assure you that I shall endeavour to make the only return in my power for the kindness that I have always experienced at your hands as Grand Master, and also for this magnificent present, which you made me to-night—I shall, I say, endeavour to make you the only return in my power by sticking as closely to the business of Grand Lodge in the future as I have done in the past. And it was with that view that I was willing to accept the office of the President of the General Board at the hands of the present Grand Master: in short, if I may borrow a simile from legal phraseology, I shall treasure that jewel as my retainer, and that cup as my refresher. (Laughter.) There are often some things very appropriate in the song put down upon the list to follow the toasts, but now and then the song selected is perhaps inappropriate; and I will venture to promise that the song which will now follow will be found to be very inappropriate indeed to my future conduct—"Sleep, Gentle Lady," I will promise to be as distant from my intentions as it is adverse to the interests of the Order. I shall pursue as diligently as heretofore the course which appears to your interest. I thank you for the kindness with which you have received me, and in conclusion, I assure you that amongst the most pleasant evenings of my life are those which I have passed among Mark Masters. (Cheers.)

The tankard which had been presented to Bro. Portal was here passed round as a loving cup.

The M.W.G.M. next proposed, "The Deputy Grand Mark Master, and the Grand Officers, Present and Past." With regard to the Deputy Grand Master, he did not believe he could have chosen one who would more efficiently discharge his duties, or who would be more acceptable to Mark Masons in general. (Hear, hear.) During that miserable year in which he (the Grand Master) might be said to have been in abeyance, the Deputy Grand Master had performed the duties of the Deputy Grand Master, and for a year or two previously, and he could not help feeling that his lordship would have a claim to be their Grand Master instead of himself. At the same time he hoped there was a good time coming, when the Earl of Limerick would be their Grand Master, and he was sure that would be a good time for the Mark Degree: at any rate he was certain of this, that whether he himself did or did not properly fill the office it would not be for want of cordial, hearty, and efficient support on the part of the Deputy Grand Master, and the other Grand Officers. As in times past they had always been ready to give advice and assistance to the Grand Master, so he had no doubt they would be found ready to aid the present occupant of the Master's chair.

The Earl of Limerick in reply said:—The M.W.G.M. a short time ago pleaded shyness in rising to respond to the toast of his health. I think I might do the same, and naturally I should have a better right to do so, as I am constitutionally of a modest disposition and my countrymen are proverbial for it. (Laughter.) But fortunately those with whom I am associated in this toast are a tower of strength, and it does not therefore require much to be said in responding to the toast of the Grand Officers, especially the Past Grand Officers, for what the Past Grand Officers have done for Mark Masonry speaks for itself. Brethren, as has been noticed before, the Grand Officers, from the mode of selection, represent all phases of thought, and all portions of Mark Masonry. They do, I am sure, all that in them lies, to the best of their ability, to further the interests of our Order. It is not their peculiar virtue to do so, because I am sure that every brother in Mark Masonry does the very same. The M.W.G.M. has been pleased to speak very kindly of myself. I can only say that during the time that I have been connected in any way with Masonry, whether as a Mark Master or in other branches of Masonry, I have endeavoured always to make myself acquainted with the history—if I may term it, the philosophy—of Masonry, and to work to the best of my ability. I, of course, and it is an Englishman's privilege, whenever I have got an opinion on a subject, have stated it, and we all do the same, and I have never found that any brother had a worse opinion of another brother for doing the same. We all meet together, we all know that every brother has the best interest of the Order in which he is meeting at the time at heart; we all express our opinions, and when we meet each other afterwards, each one knows they all had the same object in view—the general good of the degree. There are, no doubt, older Mark Masons than myself present to-night. I think it is twelve years this evening that I became a Mark Master. At that time Mark Masonry was in a very different state to what it is now. You had then to look far and wide before you found an English Mark Lodge. We have now greatly altered that, owing to the zealous services of our Immediate Past Grand Master, and following his example, I have made up my mind to do all in my power to promote in every way the best interests of English Grand Mark Lodge. (Cheers.)

The M.W.G.M. next proposed, "The Provincial G. Masters," and complimented them on their usefulness in promoting the good of the Order. Without the Prov. Grand Lodges and their support the Grand Lodge would be as nothing. Accordingly as Mark Masonry had flourished, the creation of Provincial Grand Lodges increased. The Past Grand Master had stated in Grand Lodge, that during the last four years no less than nine Provincial Grand Lodges had been created under his rule in England alone. As a Provincial Grand Master himself, he did not like to say much on this subject, because it appeared like proposing his own health; but he was happy to say his Deputy was present, and he was glad to say in that province they had met with great success. (Cheers.) The other provinces had also been very prosperous, and it was with great pleasure he proposed the toast of "The Provincial Grand Masters."

Bro. Sieklemore responded, and after a few other toasts the brethren separated.

DUBLIN MASONIC FEMALE ORPHAN SCHOOL.

The June meeting of the Governors of this Institution was held at the Schoolhouse, on Tuesday morning, June 3rd, and was numerously attended.

The chair was taken by the R.W. the Deputy Grand Master, as senior Vice-President.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and signed, and also those of the adjourned meeting—at which was adopted the resolution of the Committee "that they could not recommend the Board to co-operate with the Committee of the Boys' School in carrying out the proposition of securing the services of the same brother as the Assistant Secretary of both Schools."

The Reports from the Several Committees of the School were submitted. From the Finance Committee's Report it appeared that the Receipts during the month were £626. This sum included a donation of £100 from Serendib Lodge, No. 113, Colombo, Ceylon. The letter enclosing this donation contained the following extract from the minutes of the Lodge:—

"Bro. Captain W. J. Gorman, in pursuance of notice given by him at the last meeting, said,—That in view of the Special Appeal on behalf of the Orphan Daughters of Masons whose home is established in Dublin, he would propose that the Lodge 112 should shew its sympathy by voting a liberal sum. There was no charity more deserving, and in proportion as our sisters were weak and helpless should our aid be strong and generous. He did not wish to dictate, but hoped for an unanimous vote. He thought one hundred pounds would not more than indicate the sympathy and good will of the brethren of Serendib Lodge, 112."

"Brother Symons, in seconding the motion bore testimony, from personal observation, to the merits of the Institution."

"It was then unanimously agreed that £100 should be given, to be divided in sums of £10, to qualify the Officers and Past Masters of the lodge as Life Governors of the Masonic Female Orphan School, Dublin."

It was then unanimously resolved—That the best thanks of the Board be presented to the Serendib Lodge, No. 112, Colombo, for the kind expressions of sympathy towards the School conveyed in the letter enclosing their magnificent donation.

The following contributions were also acknowledged:—£114 6s. from the brethren of Cork, per Anderson Cooper, Esq. (including £10 from Thomas Greer, Esq. and £20 from the Mourne Preceptory No. 1); £10 from brethren of Lodge No. 44, Clonmel, per Charles Ffennell, Esq.; £25 from brethren of Wexford, per A. Davis, Esq.; £19 from brethren of Lodge 18, Newry, per H. W. Wallace, Esq.; £11 from brethren of 101, Athlone, per John Hodson, Esq.; William M'Comas, Esq., Lodge 4, £10; Jun. Warden, Furnell Chapter, No. 4, £10; Jun. Warden, 187, Manorhamilton, £10; Jun. Warden, Lodge 7, Belfast, £10; £22 from brethren of Lodge 47, Dundalk, per W. R. Rogers, Esq.; £23 from Belfast brethren, per F. Kinahan, Esq.; £5 4s. 6d. from brethren of Lodge 130, Bandon, per G. W. French, Esq.; £21 from Sligo brethren, &c., per B. Ferguson, Esq.; £16 6s. from Waterford brethren, per J. Sleator, Esq.; W. M., Lodge 357, Downpatrick, £10; John Warnock, Lodge 84, £10.

The Report from the Education Committee recommended that permission be granted to one of the elder pupils, to accept a situation which offered for her as governess in a family at Ambleside. The Committee also recommended that the Annual Meeting and Distribution of Prizes should be postponed until autumn; both of which recommendations were adopted.

The Report from the Scrutineers of the Ballot for the Election of three pupils was then read as follows:—

"We, the undersigned Scrutineers of the Ballot for the Election of Three Pupils, have to report that with the aid of the Assistant Secretary, we have examined the several Voting Papers sent in, and find that—

151 Brethren voted as Life Governors, 690 " " Annual Governors, and 321 " " Official Governors.
Of these papers we had to reject 7 as not properly signed, 33 from brethren whose subscriptions were unpaid, and 39 received after the day fixed for their being returned.

The total number of votes recorded was 3,428, viz.:

For Laura Anne Ballantine	189
" Catherine Brett	145
" Jane C. Crymble	322
" Susan Mary Curran	64
" Annie Wilson Cutter	85
" Elizabeth Mary Gill	183
" Florence Hendley... ..	253
" Eliza Janet Kewley	23
" Margaret M'Intyre	136
" Agnes Owen	282
" Edith Jane O'Reilly	361
" Frances Smith	568
" Elmina Banks Weldon	817

We have also examined the rejected papers, and find that if the votes given by them were recorded, it would not make any difference in the relative position of the candidates.

Dublin, June 2nd, 1873.

JOHN A. HOGAN, }
GEORGE HILL MAJOR. } Scrutineers.
SAMUEL B. OLDHAM, Assist. Sec.

Elmina Banks Weldon, daughter of the Rev. Percival Banks Weldon, of Lodge 646, Durrow; Frances Smith, daughter of William Smith, Head Constable, R. I. Constabulary, of (Old) Lodge 310, Killeshandra; and Edith Jane O'Reilly, daughter of Matthew G O'Reilly, Sub-Inspector, R.I. Constabulary, of Lodges 217, Ballina, and 13, Limerick, were declared duly elected as Pupils of the School.

Bro. Joseph Faviere Elrington, LL.D., Q.C., Past Grand Deacon, and Representative from the Grand Lodge of Hamburg was unanimously elected Honorary Secretary of the Institution.

Bro. W. E. Gumbleton proposed the alteration in the Rules of which he had given notice, of which the following were adopted:—

Vice-Patrons—Every individual donor of £60 in one sum, or in two sums of £30 each, or of £100, in payments of not less than £10 each, shall be a Vice-Patron.

Vice-Presidents—Every individual donor of £30 in one sum, or of £50 in sums of not less than £10 each, shall be a Vice-President.

Extra Votes—All payments made by any brother after he has become a Vice-President shall entitle him to double the number of votes which such payments would usually give.

The consideration of the other proposals was postponed, and a Committee appointed to rearrange the Rules embodying the proposals which have been adopted.

Bro. James Tyrrell, Lodge 143, handed in £50, as an additional donation to the School Funds, making in all £100, and was announced as the first brother who had qualified as Vice Patron.

Bro. Gumbleton also stated, it was his intention to transfer to the School, shares in the Masonic Hall Company, to the value of £80, making his contributions in all £150.

A MASONIC HALL IN JAMAICA.

We take from the Anglo Jamaica Advertiser, the following account of a Bazaar, held at Montego Bay, in aid of a project for the erection of a Masonic Hall, in that remote quarter of the globe:—

"The W. Master of the Friendly Lodge, No. 383, Montego-Bay, has achieved a success—both in its demonstration and sale of articles—which, we venture to assert, no other man at the present day would have obtained in such a limited space of time. The undertaking was, indeed, a great and hazardous one, and the amount of success obtained by the hearty response of the community at large, and the ladies in particular, must be exceedingly gratifying to the cause of Masonry. One like Mr. S. S. O. Jacobs, who has endeared himself, to the community in which he lives and moves and has his being, must obtain that subsidiary and substantial aid for which he appealed to them. And though this was at first thought by some as likely to have been a failure, we are glad to find they have been sadly mistaken.

"It would have puzzled any one with extraordinary vision to find out where the money came from, that for three consecutive days the attendance never flagged but continued superfluous—in fact the room was so crowded that no one could walk comfortably from stall to stall without coming in contact with some person or other, and there was an amount of business done as would be almost incredible if stated. It is worthy of note that the same friendly feeling which pervaded its opening continued to its close. Harmony and goodwill seems to have been the motto with all concerned, made doubly so by the lively interest exhibited by the community. Few in the humble position of life which the above-named gentleman occupies, would have undertaken such a gigantic task and carried it through, par excellence, as he has succeeded in doing—and that in times like the present, while his predecessors, in more flourishing days, thought and spoke of the purchase of a lodge room, but had not the courage to attempt. In point of grandeur its fittings-up surpassed anything of the kind ever yet placed before the public, and had only to be seen to be admired; support following admiration.

"It would be impossible to enumerate the amount of articles sent in as presents both from abroad and home. Among them we noticed a highly-finished lute table, tastefully and artistically worked up with different kinds of Jamaica wood, made and presented by Mr. William Kerr, cabinet-maker and coach-builder of this town, and a member of the Craft, which tedious and masterly work was executed within two weeks, and which was valued at £12, and met ready purchase.

"Success, then, has been achieved in the bazaar, and we sincerely trust the like success may attend the future exertions of this worthy brotherhood, and also that health, prosperity, and a long life of usefulness may continue to follow this large-hearted and much-esteemed gentleman throughout, that the means to the end may be gained for the purchase of that lodge room, hereafter to be a lasting memento to his present and future brethren, and held as a tribute for ever of his zeal for the Masonic cause, when he shall have quitted this earthly tabernacle.

We cannot conclude, however, without according that meed of praise to the lady stall keepers who presided over the several stalls. Too much praise—in fact our pen falls short of language sufficiently adequate to do ample justice to their several merits—cannot be awarded them for their attention towards, and endeavours to please, every individual who visited their stall, from the élite down to the meanest peasant girl. On the whole they acquitted themselves nobly. Indefatigable in their exertions, polite in their demeanour, agreeable in their manners, and charming in their bewitching smile and appealing look—a look that would touch the coldest heart, and a smile that would draw the last shilling from any man's purse, be he ever such a miser, and who, if he escaped one could not resist the other—they left not one loop-hole, through which a penny could be gained for the cause they had in hand, untouched. Each one threw herself heart and soul into the noble work to raise money, and so these ladies accomplished their arduous task, handing over the proceeds of their sales to the Worshipful Master. Overcome in part by exhaustion, physically and mentally, as well as by the overpowering efforts of these amiable ladies, silence being obtained, this worthy gentlemen, for whom so much was done, stood up and returned thanks to the inhabitants for their kind co-operation and support, and the lady stall-keepers, individually and collectively, for the very kind feeling displayed towards him, and the able manner in which they had acquitted themselves. This was followed by loud cheers, the band playing 'He's a jolly good fellow.' The bazaar was then closed. Public auction of the few remaining articles followed the next day.

"The amateur band was in attendance each evening, and discoursed some very pleasant music.

"We learn that the next matter on the Master's Trestle Board, during his term of office, to expire in December next, will be the consecration of the New Lodge Room to be afterwards named 'Riponville,' and the laying of a memorial stone, so soon as the same shall be sanctioned by the Most Worshipful the Grand Master of England."

BRO. AND MADAME FRANK ELMORE'S CONCERT.—Frank Elmore, well known in connexion with many City companies' and masonic banquets gave, in conjunction with Madame Streinburg-Elmore, a grand concert at St. James's Hall on Wednesday week. The programme was a most select one, and was carried out to a successful issue by some of our most popular artistes, amongst whom were Miss Edith Wympe, who admirably sang Clay's song, "She Wandered down the Mountain Side," and was encored; Madame Osborne Williams; Mdles. Girardi and Victoria Bunsen; Madame Thaddeus Wells, Signor Caravoglio, and Bro. Frank Elmore himself were the vocalists. For instrumentalists, Mr. F. Chatterton played his "Remembrances of Italy," on the harp, and Mr. Richard Blagrove his concertina fantasias with their well-known effect; and a young lady (Miss Sanders), a pianoforte pupil of Madame Elmore's, played a theme from Le Prophète with great power and firmness of touch for one so young; while Madame Elmore herself contributed to the applause which to some extent she conducted to by playing some of her exquisite solos. The humorous trio, "I'm Not the Queen," sang by Mesdames Wells and Williams and Mr. Elmore, concluded a most successful entertainment. The accompanists of the evening were Signor Mazzoni; Messrs. Man, H. Parker, Ganz, Osborne Williams, and W. Carter.

Mr. Michael James Whitty, formerly proprietor of the Liverpool Daily Post, was seized with paralysis at eleven o'clock, Tuesday morning, and died at five p.m., without having recovered consciousness. He was in his 79th year.

Coming as it does in the very height of the season, the Ascot race meeting, with its Royal and aristocratic patronage, fairly over-shadows, for the beauty of its accessories, all similar assemblages in any part of Europe. This year the toilettes of the lady visitors have been more bewilderingly beautiful than on any previous anniversaries, and Mr. A. Ahlborn of Regent-st. who now takes foremost rank for the beauty and taste of his costumes, had the satisfaction of designing several for leading members of the aristocracy, which were the observed of all observers on the "Stakes" day.

Masonic Tidings.

A meeting of Freemasons was held at the Masonic-hall, Lonsdale-street, Bro. A. K. Smith presiding, when a resolution was carried unanimously that it was desirable to form a Grand Lodge of Victoria. It was also agreed that a memorial should be sent home to the three Grand Lodges of England, Ireland, and Scotland, pointing out the necessity of having a Grand Lodge here, and praying the home Grand Lodges to recognise it.—Melbourne Argus.

Excellent woodcuts of the Masonic Temple of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania and of the interior of Gloucester Cathedral, the latter showing the Reredos presented by the Freemasons of the Province, appeared in the Graphic of the 7th inst.

BROS. DEFRIES AND SON were entrusted with the decorations and illuminations of the streets at Wigan and Bolton on the occasion of the recent visit paid by the Prince and Princess of Wales. The devices were of an unusually effective character, and the banqueting pavilion, also erected by Messrs. Defries, is described as "a marvel of decorative upholstery."

BRO. SHERIFF PERKINS has presented Stuart's painting of "The Battle of Trafalgar" to the Art Gallery of the Foundling Hospital.

HONOUR TO WHOM HONOUR IS DUE.—Many contradictory assertions have been made as to those who were most energetic and successful in saving life in connection with the terrible loss of the "White Star" Steamer Atlantic. From details gathered from recently received American papers, it appears that Bro. Quartermaster Thomas was the first to arrive on the mainland and give the alarm to the inhabitants. Procuring a rope, and accompanied by a number of the people, he returned to the scene of the disaster, tied the rope round his waist, and went out to the rock, by which means 60 persons were saved. Twenty-six of the crew and passengers, it appears have made a special declaration to the effect that it was mainly to the instrumentality, undaunted courage, and endurance of Bro. Quartermaster Thomas, that they owed their lives.

THE MASONIC CIRCLE.

BY BRO. WILLIAM CARPENTER, P.M. P.Z., 177
We're all alike pledg'd, in degrees though we differ,

The 'Prentice, the Craftsmen, the Master are here

Though the circle with some is not yet completed,

All may work with effect, each one in his sphere.

Oh 'Prentice drink deep of the spring ever flowing,

In copious streams, from the fountain divine,
That Virtue and Truth may unceasingly guide you,

And give you a part in our common design.

The Craftsman's more skilled, but yet he's not perfect,

Though Nature and Science their myst'ries impart,

He must still labour on, for another degree,
The highest, the proudest, the hope of his heart.

'The pride and the hope of his heart is attained!

In the Masters' Degree the circle's complete,
He's rais'd to a new life of labour and hope.

May his hope and his labour in unity meet.

We're unequal in rank, but united as one,
Bound together by ties of brotherly love,

And confiding in Him by whose word we are led,

We hope for a place in the Grand Lodge above.

THE PALESTINE EXPLORATION EXHIBITION.—The Exhibition of the Palestine Exploration Fund, at the Dudley-Gallery, Egyptian Hall, was opened to the public the 2nd inst. Among the visitors at the private view of Saturday were the Marquis and Marchioness of Bute, Lord Colville, Sir Henry Rawlinson, Lord Jocelyn Percy, Lord Wharnclyffe, Lady Milton, and a distinguished gathering of savants interested in the work of the society. The most important feature in this Exhibition is a large and beautiful collection of water-colour drawings by Mr. A. H. Harper, chiefly lent by Lord Dudley, Lord Wharnclyffe, and Sir Richard Wallace. Next in interest come the tracings of the new map of Palestine, with the recently received casts of the Hamath stones, the models and photographs of the Ordnance Survey of Sinai, and a collection which wants nothing but a lecturer constantly explaining the importance of the objects to make it one of the most interesting ever exhibited. We understand that the Princess of Wales, who recently visited the Gallery has expressed the gratification which her visit gave her. The Palestine Exploration Fund wants an exhibition of this kind from time to time—their last was held four years ago—to show the world what, in their quiet way, they are doing.

TRADES GUILD OF LEARNING.—A conference is to be held in the large room of the Society of Arts, John-street, Adelphi, for the purpose of establishing this guild and determining its constitution. The chair will be taken by Mr. Samuel Morley, M.P.

The Fête to the Shah of Persia will take place at the Royal Albert Hall, on Monday evening, the 23rd.

CROSBY'S
BAI SAMIC

ELIXIR
DISEASES OF THE

LUNGS AND AIR-VESSELS.
CROSBY'S
BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked for relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.
SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."
This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.
* * Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had gratis of all Chemists.

YOUNG'S ARNICATED CORN AND UNION PLAISTERS are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d. and 1s. per box. May be had of most chemists.

May be had of all leading Firms in India and Colonies.

WILKINSON'S BRONCHIO-THORACIC LOZENGES.
Prepared from the receipt of an Eminent Physician; experience has fully justified their recommendation as the most speedy remedy in Irritation of the Throat, Catarrhal Coughs, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, Spitting of Blood, &c. To public speakers and vocalists they are invaluable, as they impart a clear and beautiful tone to the voice. Free from opium, and of an agreeable taste. In bottles of one uniform size.

WHITMORE'S STOMACHIC and LIVER PILLS, composed of the Extracts of Dandelion, Turkey Rhubarb, and Jamaica Ginger.
No Pill is so efficacious in promoting Digestion, strengthening the Stomach, correcting Acidity, preventing or removing Headache, Giddiness, &c., arising from Costiveness, Debilitated Stomach, or Torpid Liver. They require no change of Diet, and in most delicate may take them with safety.
Taken as an adjunct with WILKINSON'S SARSAPARILLA with the greatest success.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF DRESS.

Shakespeare, who knew all qualities with a learned spirit of human dealing, rarely omits an opportunity of indicating how thoroughly he understood the Philosophy of Clothing. "The apparel," he says, "oft proclaims the man." Though the famous Lord Chesterfield, the author of the well-known "Letters to his Son," was not a great genius or a profound philosopher, he was a singularly shrewd man of the world, and was well fitted to pronounce a judgment or to offer advice on this subject. "I confess," he says, "that I cannot help forming some opinion of a man's sense and character from his dress, and I believe most people do so as well as myself." He gives excellent instructions to his son. "Take care always," he says, "that your clothes are well made and fit you, for otherwise they will give you an awkward air.

The foregoing remarks on the Philosophy of Dress are admirable, but they require to be supplemented with the advice to go to E. MOSES and SON, the celebrated MERCHANT TAILORS and OUTFITTERS, of the MINORIES and ALDGATE, NEW OXFORD-STREET, and TOTTENHAM-COURT-ROAD, who supply every description of Clothing, ready-made or made to measure, for Adults and Juveniles of all classes, and who offer to their customers the rare combination of excellence in materials and workmanship, the newest designs, and unparalleled cheapness.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

LIVERPOOL.—Croxeth United Service Lodge (No. 786).—The installation meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Temple, Hope-street, Liverpool, on Thursday evening, the 12th instant, when there was a large gathering of brethren who are specially and notably identified with the volunteer movement. In the unavoidable absence of Bro. G. Owen, W.M., the lodge was duly opened by Bro. G. L. Blundell, P.M., who was supported by the following officers and brethren:—Bros. P. A. Coulter, P.M., acting as S.W.; W. J. Newman, J.W.; G. G. Stopford Taylor, Sec.; J. B. Wallace, Treas.; E. C. Stevenson, S.D.; W. B. Caw, J.D.; W. H. Holt, I.G.; R. Neville, Tyler; J. Edwards, W. Tomkinson, J. J. Johnstone, A. W. Ronald, J. Bernheim, W. A. Tyerman, H. Joyner, W. R. Thomas, J. P. Wright, and W. Marwood. Amongst the visitors were Bros. A. C. Mott, P.G.S.W. of Westmoreland and Cumberland; J. Mc Kune, P.M. 216; J. Jones, P.M. 216; J. Kenyon, W.M. 1013; C. H. Hill, P.M. 724 and 1267; T. Leighton, W.M. 1325; J. Mercer Johnson, P.M. 155, and P.G. Steward; R. Bennett, Sec. 1209; S. Kisch, 216; J. Foster, 1013; T. W. Sergeant, W.M. 203; H. James, P.M. 203, and others. After the minutes of previous meeting had been read and confirmed, Bro. Blundell most effectively initiated Mr. Dale into the mysteries and privileges of the Order. Bro. A. C. Mott then ascended the throne, and Bro. Captain Wm. John Newman, W.M. Elect, was presented to him for installation by Bros. Blundell and J. M. Johnson. Bro. Mott then proceeded with the ceremony, and performed it with an impressiveness and efficiency which has rarely, if ever, been equalled in the Province of West Lancashire. The following brethren were subsequently invested by the W.M. as his officers.—Bros. G. L. Blundell, P.M. as S.W.; G. G. Stopford Taylor, J.W.; E. C. Stevenson, S.D.; W. B. Caw, J.D.; W. H. Tyerman, I.G. Bro. Sergeant Neville was unanimously re-elected Tyler of the "United Service." The lodge was subsequently closed, and the assembled brethren sat down to an excellent banquet, under the presidency of the W.M.

HERTFORDSHIRE.—Gresham Lodge (No. 869).—The installation meeting of this flourishing lodge was held on Saturday, the 14th June, at the Four Swans, Waltham Cross. There were present:—Bros. Capt. W. C. Barnes, W.M.; F. D. R. Copestick, S.W.; J. Copestick, J.W.; A. C. Wylie, S.D.; W. H. Etherington, J.D.; E. G. Pottle, I.G.; J. Forsyth, P.P.G. Sup. of Works for Herts, P.M.; R. Bruce, P.P.G.D., P.M.; O. F. Vallentin, P.P.G.D.; T. Lewis, G. Baker, A. Barnes, C. B. Cheese, J. J. Cox, James Bruce, S. S. Neck, R. Tustin, Thomas Perry, T. Stephens, and others. The lodge was opened in the first degree, when the W.M., Bro. Barnes, initiated two gentlemen into Freemasonry. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, and three brethren passed to the degree of F.C. The next part of the work was the installation of the W.M. for the ensuing year. Bro. Barnes then installed the S.W. of the lodge, Bro. F. D.

R. Copestick, P.P.G.S.B. for Herts, into the chair of K.S. in a most impressive manner, which gave great pleasure to all who witnessed the ceremony. The W.M., Bro. Copestick, appointed his officers as follows, viz.—Bros. Joseph Copestick, S.W.; A. C. Wylie, J.W.; W. H. Etherington, S.D.; E. G. Pottle, J.D.; T. C. Chapman, I.G.; F. G. Grocott, Treas.; W. G. Gompertz, P.P.G.P., P.M., Sec.; Thos. Stephens, Org.; T. Perry and H. Luter, Stewards; Thomas Hoare, Tyler. The W.M. then presented Bro. Barnes, I.P.M., with a handsome P.M. jewel (manufactured by Bro. George Kenning), expressing a wish on behalf of himself and the brethren, that he might long remain amongst them. Bro. Barnes replied and thanked the brethren for their good wishes. The lodge was then closed. The brethren then inspected the beautiful grounds attached to "Ye Olde Fourre Swannes," belonging to Bro. Hunt, the esteemed host. Afterwards the brethren sat down to a magnificent banquet, supplied by Bro. Hunt, in every respect perfect. The hour being late the toasts were necessarily short, and, after spending a most enjoyable day, the brethren separated with mutual regret that time and trains wait for no man. Amongst the visitors present were the following, viz.:—Bros. Dr. W. King, 1364; G. J. Smith, 30; T. Hyman, P.P.G.O., 403; Kilsby, 871; J. Glass, P.P.C.D. Essex; H. Birdseye, S.W. 715; W. Kibble, P.M. 715; J. Storey, 1107; E. Roberts, P.M. 192; S. P. Carter, 211; J. Cumming, 534; S. Smith, 742; W. C. Canton, 879; E. Parker, W.M. 1327; G. Cardwell, P.M. 3; J. W. H. Hill, 45; E. B. Warner, P.M. 325; G. Billiy, P.M. 345; S. H. Wagstaff, P.M., 1216; J. M. Kelway, P.P.G.W. Somerset; C. D. Tustin, P.M. 1178; S. Muggeridge, 192, and others.

STAR LODGE (No. 1275).—The election meeting of this well-established lodge was held at the Ship Hotel, Greenwich, on Friday, June 6th. Bro. H. Keeble, W.M., opened the lodge. The minutes were read and confirmed. The ballots for admission of Bro. E. W. Mackney, W.M. 134, as a joining member, and for some candidates for initiation, were declared to be in favour of their admission. The work done was raising Bros. R. W. Williams and H. Schartan, 871; initiating Messrs. A. Woodward, W. F. Gardiner, and F. Bessant Williams. The elections resulted in T. R. Darke, S.W., for W.M.; J. Smith, P.G.P., P.M., and Treasurer; and J. Gilbert, Tyler, being unanimously elected. The Audit Committee was appointed. A splendid chair for use of the W.M. was presented to the lodge by the united subscriptions of Bros. Henry James Green, Reginald William Williams, and Charles Woolmer Williams, and for which a vote of thanks (and the same to be entered on the lodge books) was given to them. Some candidates and joining members were proposed, and the lodge closed. There were present, besides those already named, Bros. G. Symon, P.M., J.W.; F. Walters, P.M., Sec.; G. F. Guest, S.D.; J. J. Leincheer, J.D.; W. Hipps, I.G., Organist; W. Ough, P.G.P., P.M.; G. J. Hogg, P.G.S., P.M.; E. Townsend, A. Stevens, E. W. Mackney, W. Askey, H. J. Green, W. P. Tong, and others. The visitors were Bros. J. Keeble, P.M. 94; E. H. Thiellay, S.D. 145; W. Vine, 1310; W. H. Perryman, 3; A. M. Thomas, 134; J. Barton, Sec. 1364; A. J. Adams, I.G. 857; A. H. Tattershall, P.M. 13, P.M. 140; T. Perridge, P.M. 79; G. W. Reed, 13; C. Raab, 1364; H. Schartan, 871, and others. Banquet and dessert followed labour.

TOPSHAM.—Brent Lodge (No. 1284).—The third anniversary of the opening of this lodge was celebrated on the 31st ult., and a goodly number of brethren from Exeter and elsewhere attended to do honour to the newly-elected Master of the lodge, Bro. John Moass. The lodge was opened in ancient form, and Bro. John Moass, having been presented by Bro. W. G. Rogers to Bro. S. Jones, who acted as installing Master, the ceremony was performed with due solemnity, and Bro. John Moass, in the proud position of W.M. of Brent Lodge, will occupy King Solomon's chair in that lodge for the ensuing twelve months. The ceremony of installation being over, the W.M. distributed collars of office to the following brethren, viz.:—Bros. Samuel Jones, I.P.M.; T. Lascelles, S.W.; H. S. Yelland J.W.; T. Hutchings, Chaplain; C. Pinn, Treasurer; J. P. Harrison, Secretary; F. Pollard, S.D.; W. Godolphin J.D.; W. H. Blacking, Assistant D.C.; Charles Hooper, O.; James Styles, I.G.; A. H. Wills, S.S.; H. F. Willey, J.S.; Blanchard, senr., Tyler; Blanchard, junr., Assistant Tyler. The W.M. was unanimously elected as the representative of the lodge on the Committee of Petitions, and the lodge having been closed with solemn prayer, the brethren adjourned to the banquet, which was splendidly served in the New Topsham Hall by J. P. Harrison. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and, after the close of the toast-list, the brethren adjourned to Bro. Harrison's Globe Hotel, where some excellent songs were sung, and the time pleasantly passed.

ACACIA LODGE (No. 1309).—The fourth installation meeting of this prosperous lodge was held on Wednesday, 11th June, at the Railway Hotel, Potter's Bar, Middlesex. There were present—Bros. J. H. Britten, P.G.S. Middlesex, W.M.; E. W. Richardson, S.W., and W.M. Elect; G. J. Loe, P.M., as J.W.; R. Limpus, S.D.; C. A. Ferrier, I.G.; George Horsley, P.G. Reg. of Middlesex, P.M.; G. Musgrave, Org.; J. W. George, T. E. Pewtress, C. G. Rushworth, H. D. Martin. The visitors were Bros. W. Myatt, W.M. 871, and Gould, 1158. The lodge was opened by the W.M. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed unanimously. The report of the audit committee was received and entered on the minutes. Bro. F. Walters, P.M. and Secretary (father of the lodge) took the chair, and installed Bro. Edmund William Richardson as the W.M. of the lodge for the ensuing year, who appointed and invested as his officers:—Bros. G. W. Schollar, S.W.; R. Limpus, J.W.; E. Silhant, P.G.S.D. Middlesex, P.M., Treas. (re-invested); F. Walters, P.M. Sec. (re-invested); L. J. Waddington, S.D.; C. A. Ferrier, J.D.; C. J. Rushworth, I.G.; G. Musgrave, Org.; W. Y. Laing, P.M., Tyler. A cordial vote of thanks, and the same to be entered on the lodge minute books, was given to Bro. F. Walters, P.M. and Secretary, for the admirable manner in which he did the ceremony of the installation. The following brethren were elected as the Stewards to represent this lodge at the Masonic charities in 1874, viz.:—R. Limpus, J.W., for Benevolent; E. W. Richardson, W.M., Boys'; and C. Horsley, P.G. Reg. for Girls. The following members were recommended to the Provincial Grand Master as those whom the lodge would like to see have Provincial honours, namely, Bros. J. H. Batten, P.G. Steward for Middlesex, P.M., for higher rank; F. Walters, P.M. and Sec., for Prov. G. Steward; and R. Limpus, J.W., for Prov. G. Org. Several gentlemen were proposed for initiation, and the lodge was closed. A good banquet and dessert followed. An agreeable reunion was happily spent.

LANGTHORNE LODGE (No. 1421).—An emergency meeting of this young but flourishing lodge was held at the Swan Hotel, Stratford, on Thursday, the 12th inst., the W.M., Bro. Charles Lacy, presiding, supported by his officers as follows, viz.:—Bros. G. T. W. Mugliston, M.D., S.W.; G. E. Slee, J.W.; T. Mortlock, I.P.M.; G. Levick, Treasurer; C. W. Ashdown, Sec.; R. G. Owen, S.D.; B. Candick, J.D.; John G. Stevens, D.C.; H. Carter, W.S.; and W. Steedman, Tyler. The lodge was opened in due form, and with solemn prayer. The circular convening the lodge having been read by the Secretary, the ballot was taken for the Rev. James Knaggs as a candidate for initiation, which, proving unanimous in his favour, the rev. gentleman, being in attendance, was admitted, and duly initiated into the mysteries and privileges of ancient Freemasonry, the ceremony being most impressively rendered by the W.M. Bros. Brown, Morley, and Woods, of this lodge; also Bro. Ellis, of the Doric Lodge, No. 933, being candidates for the second degree, were examined as to their proficiency in the former degree, entrusted, and retired. The lodge was opened in the second degree, the candidates readmitted, and duly passed to the degree of Fellow Craft. The lodge was then closed in the second degree, and, business being ended, uly closed in the first degree, and the brethren adjourned for refreshment, separating at an early hour. The following visitors were present, viz.:—T. Austin, W.M. 933; J. Miller, W.M. 14; Thomas Johnstone, 1000; and A. Ellis. 93.

3RA LODGE.—(No. 1423.)—This young, prosperous, and flourishing lodge held its usual meeting on Saturday, June 14th, at the King's Arms Hotel, Hampton Court. Bro. J. T. Moss, W.M., P.G.S.D. Middlesex, opened the lodge. The minutes of the previous meeting were read, and unanimously confirmed. Ballots, taken separately, were unanimous in the favour of the admission of Bros. Rev. J. M. Vaughan, P.M., and Chap. 907; C. Raab, 1364; J. Faulkner, 188; A. Ealdwin, 118, as adjoining members; and Messrs. C. P. Pritchard and C. B. Robinson, as candidates for initiation. Mr. C. B. Robinson was initiated into Freemasonry. Bro. F. Waters, P.M., Sec., took the chair, and passed Bro. E. W. Devereux, A Schiff, W. N. Matthews and Loos to the second degree. He raised Bros. W. C. Devereux, S. Woolff, and Jesse Smith (1326) to the third degree. The work was well done, and the ceremonies beautifully rendered. Bro. J. T. Moss, W.M., resumed the chair. He appointed and invested with the collar and jewel of office the Rev. J. M. Vaughan as the Chaplain of the lodge, who was unanimously elected to be recommended to the Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Col. F. Burdett, as the member whom the lodge would like to be selected for Provincial Grand Chaplain in the Provincial Grand Lodge of Middlesex. The following were returned to serve as Stewards to represent this lodge at the anniversary festival of the Girls' School, to be held in May, 1874, viz., Bros. H. A. Dubois, S.W.; J. W. Baldwin, J.W.; E. H. Thiellay, S.D.; and A. Baldwin. Several brethren were proposed as joining members, and gentlemen for initiation. Business being ended the lodge was closed. There were present, besides those named, T. J. Sabine, P.M., Treas.; J. S. Sweasy, J.D.; J. Baxter, Langley, I.G.; R. W. Little, P.G. Sec. Middlesex, and others. The long list of visitors included, Bros. J. W. Long, P.M., 569; A. Pulley, P.M., 169; R. R. Mabson, 1326; C. Hasel, 569; W. Hammond, P.M., S.D., 1326; F. Holmes, 1326; Jesse Smith, 1326, &c.

THE GREAT CITY LODGE (No. 1426).—The second emergency meeting of this lodge was held at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, E.C., on Saturday, the 14th inst. The officers of the lodge entered the lodge-room, precisely at the hour appointed, and the chair of K.S. was taken by Bro. James Stevens, the W.M., who was supported by the V.W. Bros. John Hervecy, Grand Secretary, P.M.; the Rev. R. J. Simpson, Past Grand Chaplain, Chaplain; and Bros. N. B. Headon, S.W.; Harvey, J.W.; J. Freeman, Treasurer, Edward Moody, P.M., Secretary; Stuart Barker jun., S.D.; R. Stanway, J.D.; J. H. Guyton, I.G.; J. H. Wisbey, D.C.; G. W. Blackie, Senior Steward; W. H. Catchpole, Junior Steward; and W. Steadman, P.M., Tyler. There were also present, amongst other members, of the lodge:—Bros. W. Barber, W. Jackson, George Jenkins, W. Crickmay, J. Boulton, W. T. Macqueen, George Hooper, D. J. B. Wrightson, Owen Bower, A. Portway, H. Thompson, P.M. 177 and 1158, and others. The following visitors also attended, viz.:—Bros. Wm. Ough, Past Grand Pursuivant; G. R. Graham, 69; E. M. Haigh, 29; R. D. Drysdale, P.M. 211; G. T. Hyde, P.M. 141; G. Yaxley and J. K. Pitt, 463; J. G. Attwood, 569; J. L. Coulton, W.M. 382; Dr. W. V. Bedolfe, and J. H. Vockins, 1329; and others. The lodge having been opened in due form, a letter from the W.M. of All Soul's Lodge, No. 170, requesting the W.M. to pass Bro. Crickman to the second degree, was read, and in accordance therewith Bro. Crickman, with Bros. Jenkins, Jackson, Baber, Kibble and Boulton having proved their proficiency as E.A.'s, were entrusted, and severally passed to the degree of F.C. Ballots were then taken for nine candidates for initiation, which were found clear, but of whom only two, Messrs. Thomas Preston, and James Tee could make it convenient to attend. These were severally introduced and admitted to the Order. The Secretary having announced the handsome donations towards the new furniture of the lodge, which had been specially designed in oak by Bro. Kenning, and was greatly admired, the lodge was called off, and under the care of the Junior Warden, refreshment was taken and the loving cup circulated. After a short interval the lodge was called on, the bye-laws were discussed seriatim and finally agreed, three candidates were proposed for initiation, a sum of money was voted towards the assistance of the widow of a deceased brother, the lodge was closed at an early hour, and the brethren separated well satisfied with the evening's proceedings.

BOLTON.—St. John's Chapter (No. 348).—The regular meeting of this chapter was held at the Three Tuns Inn, Moor-lane, Bolton, on Tuesday, the 10th inst., when there were present Comps. James Newton, Prov. G.R.A. Steward, Z.; Jas. Young, H.; Thos. Wilson, J.; Robt. Harwood, Past Z., Prov. G.R.A. Stand. Bearer; and other companions. The chapter having been opened and the minutes confirmed, the installation of the Principals-elect and investiture of officers ensued as followed:—Comps. James Young, Z.; Thos. Wilson, H.; Jas. Horrocks, J.; Thos. Chambers, Past Z., E.; Jno. Brandwood, Past Z., N.; Henry Greenwood, Prin. Soj.; Robert Harwood, Past Z., Prov. G. Standard Bearer, Treas.; Wm. Dawson, Janitor. A candidate for exaltation in the chapter was proposed, and the chapter was then closed.

JERSEY.—Césaire Chapter (No. 570).—The annual convocation for installation and investiture of officers was held on Thursday, the 12th inst., at the Masonic Temple. The chapter was opened by Comps. Abraham Viel, Z.; Jos. Gregg, H.; Wm. Adams, P.Z., as J.; A. Schmitt, P.Z., Prov. G.S.E., E.; W. H. Long, Z. 244. The companions were admitted, and the minutes of the previous regular convocation, held in March, as well as those of a special chapter, held in April, were read and unanimously confirmed. The circular convening the chapter was also read. Comp. A. Schmitt called upon the companions to assist him in forming a conclave of Installed First Principals, when at his request Comp. W. Adams installed in due form Comp. Jos. Gregg, as Z., after which ceremony, he assumed the chair, and installed Comps. Jno. Oatley, P.Z., as H., and Geo. J. Renouf, as J., according to the established rites and ceremonies of the Order. The companions were re-admitted and saluted their newly-installed chiefs. The installed Principals briefly returned thanks to the companions for the honour they had conferred upon them, and one and all pledged themselves to faithfully discharge the duties of their respective offices to the utmost of their ability. The elected officers present were invested by the S.E., Comps. Jno. Durrell, P.Z., as Treas.; P. O'Bryen, N.; Ph. W. Binet, P.S.; H. Du Jardin, Jan. The S.E. presented the annual report of the Audit Committee, which was approved. Moved by the S.E., seconded by Comp. A. Viel and carried unanimously, that another donation of £5 5s. to the Masonic School for Girls be granted by the chapter. Proposed by the S.E., seconded by Comp. Jno. Oatley, that the widow of the late Comp. P. Poisson be relieved in the sum of £2 2s., which proposition was carried unanimously. Among the visitors were Comps. Thos. C. Kelly, C.B., Capt. J. Williams, and others. The chapter was closed in love and harmony, when the companions adjourned to a supper. The usual Masonic and loyal toasts were given. The S.E. proposed "The Memory of our late M.E. Past First Principal, the Earl of Zetland," expatiating on his Masonic virtues, his energy, fidelity and zeal to our institution, and the extensive services he had rendered to the Craft. Two hon. members of this chapter, Ex. Comps. Dr. H. Hopkins and W. J. Hughan (Truro), were sympathetically toasted.

Mark Masonry.

LANCASTER.—Moore Mark Lodge (No. 146).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held on Monday, the 16th inst., at the Masonic-rooms, Athenæum. The M.W., Bro. J. Daniel Moore, M.D., Prov. G. Inspect. of Works, presided, and was supported by Bros. W. J. Sey, S.W.; E. Airey, J.W.; and others. The ballot was taken and proved unanimous in favour of four candidates for advancement, and Bro. Robert Godfrey of the Underley Lodge, Kirkby-Lonsdale, being in attendance, was duly advanced to the degree of M.M.M. by the W.M., in accordance with the new regulations of the Grand Lodge of England and Wales, the duties of S.D. being well rendered by Bro. Edmund Simpson. The following presentations to the lodge were notified and ordered to be entered on the minutes, viz.:—Three Overseer's Pedestals, by Bro. Capt. J. Storey; S.W.'s Wicket, by Bros. Sly and E. Airey; Minute and Signature Books and Axe, by the W.M.; Two Ashlars and Keystone, by Bro. Airey. A candidate was proposed as a joining member, and the lodge closed in due form.

Royal and Select Masters.

MACDONALD COUNCIL.—A meeting of this council was held on Monday, the 16th inst., for the purposes of installing, in due form, and under the authority of Most Puissant Grand Master, Comp. John D. Williams, of the State of New York, the principal officers, and of dedicating and constituting the newly-created council. The ceremonies were performed by Comp. Frederick Binckes, the Grand Recorder, as Acting Grand Master, specially authorised for that purpose, in the presence of the Deputy Grand Master, Capt. G. N. Phillips; the Grand Principal Conductor of Works, Capt. J. M. P. Montague; the Grand Marshall, Comp. Hyde Pullen, and other dignitaries of the Order. The Council having been duly constituted and dedicated, the officers installed were Comps. Sigismund Rosenthal, T.J.M.; James Stevens, I.D.M.; and Thomas Meggy, P.C.W.; and these were, on the completion of the beautiful ceremonies, respectively congratulated and saluted. Some matters of routine business having been discussed, and arrangements made for early admission of candidates into this interesting portion of Freemasonry, a vote of thanks to Comp. Binckes, for his services as Acting Grand Master, was ordered to be recorded on the minutes, and the very interesting meeting was brought to a close.

GLASGOW.—St. Andrew's Chapter (No. 69).—This chapter met at 170, Buchanan-street, on Tuesday, June 11th, Comp. T. D. Humphries, Ph. D., M.A., 1st P., in the chair. A lodge of Mark Masons was opened, and Bros. J. Middlechip and Wm. Bassett were advanced to that degree. At the request of the M.E.Z., Comp. Wheeler, of 73, then opened a lodge of Excellent Masters, and conferred that degree on these two brethren. The chapter was then opened in the Royal Arch Degree, with Comps. Park, Z of 122, as Z.; T. D. Hampton taking the chair of H; J. Campbell, that of J; G. W. Wheeler and J. Johnson as 1st and 2nd Soj. Bros. Middlechip and Bassett were then instructed in the mysteries of the Royal Arch Degree. Refreshment followed labour, "The M.E.Z., and the Health of the Candidates" having been given, Comp. Middlechip said that though shortly leaving Glasgow he should always remember the kindly feelings he had met with from the Masons of the city, and especially the way in which they had that night admitted him into deeper mysteries. Comp. Bassett said his only regret was that he had not come forward earlier to learn the sublime lesson he had been taught that night, and anything that he could do to forward the interests of the Royal Arch Degree he should feel to be a pleasure as well a duty. Comp. Humphries then proposed the thanks of the companions to the members of 73 and 122, who had so kindly come forward to assist him to-night, a kindness he had often before experienced, yet on that account it was only the more valued by him. Comps. Park and Wheeler acknowledged the compliment paid them, and expressed their pleasure to be able to assist a sister chapter.

GLASGOW.—St. Rollox Chapter (No. 144).—The first meeting of this chapter since its consecration was held in the Masonic Hall, Garnagad-road, on Friday, the 13th inst. D. Beil, Z.; J. Dunbar, H.; J. McLeish, J.; and D. Reid, Scribe E., were in their places. A lodge of Mark Masters was then opened, and Bro. D. Smith was proposed for advancement. At the request of the M.E.Z. the degree was worked by Comps. J. O. Park, Z. 122, and G. W. Wheeler, H. 73. Comps. Bell, Dunbar, and McLeish, though new to their work, were very efficient as M.O., S.O., and J.O. Being much wanted in the north end of city, there is no doubt that the new chapter will soon gain a firm footing.

GLASGOW.—Royal Ark Mariners' Lodge (No. 73), met at 73, Buchanan-street, on Thursday, the 12th inst., under the command of Bro. J. Balfour, N.; J. O. Park, J.; G. McDonald, S.; and G. W. Wheeler, Sec. Four gentlemen were received on board, namely, Bros. G. Bitdams, T. Middlechip, D. Douglas, and T. Boyde, and were very ably instructed in their duties by F. N. Balfour and his officers, G. W. Wheeler acting as the Pilot. The ark was again moored in safety.

A MASONIC HALL IN TASMANIA.

The Hobart Mercury makes the following editorial remarks on the occasion of the laying the foundation stone of a new Masonic Hall in that city, on the 20th March last:—

"Yesterday the intercolonial cricket match had, in the minds of the sight-seeing public of Hobart Town, to give place to the interest felt in the ceremony attending the laying of the foundation stone of the new Masonic Hall. The absence of the fair sex from the cricket ground seemed to have made the players relax their energies, for several of the best men put in an appearance simply to retire, as if their thoughts were with that 'galaxy of beauty' that lent a lustre to the Town Hall and to the site of the new building, though their presence at the latter was not sufficient to induce several of the brethren to make themselves heard. The ceremony of yesterday, so creditably, nevertheless, carried out, may be looked on as one of good omen. We regard it not from the Masonic standpoint alone. But it should be matter of congratulation to all who value the exercise of some of the nobler qualities of human nature, that an institution seeking to do good should be in so flourishing a condition as to be able to build for its own use a hall that must add so materially to the attractions of Hobart Town. Another handsome structure will be added to our buildings, and the interest attached to it will be increased by the fact that its walls are an evidence of personal care and thrift on the part of a body of men who, seeking to do one another good, find special merit in aiding a needy brother. It is not our intention to enquire into the secrets of the 'brethren of the mystic tie,' nor to discuss the issue raised by many, that the secret is so well kept because there is nothing to conceal. It is certainly impossible to conceive that successive generations of men, many of them of the highest intelligence and unblemished probity, should for centuries have lent themselves to a fraud by pretending to a mystic bond of union, while the whole affair is but a piece of masquerade and mummery. Yet a well-informed writer has said that 'the deep symbolical meaning supposed to be couched under the jargon of the Masonic Fraternity is, probably, as apocryphal as the dangers of Masonry to government and order,' which at various times were considered grave enough to subject the Craft to the anathemas of the Church, and to civil pains and penalties. The minority of Henry VI. was, on the suggestion of Henry of Beaufort, Cardinal of Winchester, remarkable for the passing of an Act of Parliament prohibiting the Masons from holding their wonted chapters and assemblies. But Henry VI. himself, on becoming of age, became a Mason. Henry VII. was their Grand Master in England, a precedent, however, which was not followed in the case of George IV., who when Prince of Wales, succeeded to the office on the death of the Duke of Cumberland, and held it till he became Regent, when he took the title of Grand Patron, it having been considered improper that he should longer exercise personal superintendance. Whatever Masonry may be, it has at various periods of England's history had Royal members. Besides those we have named, Charles II. and William III. were Masons. Within the memory of the elder brethren, the Dukes of Kent and Sussex were Grand Masters of rival lodges, and brought about an union of the two, since known as the "United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England," of which, in our day, the Prince of Wales is a member.

"Masonry can certainly lay claim to high sanction, and yesterday its lights were not hid under a bushel. The Rev. R. D. Poulett-Harris, while in his sermon he eschewed all tangible reference to the 'ceremonies and traditions of Masonry,' claimed for it the title to be recognised as 'a peculiar system of morality, veiled allegory and illustrated by symbols, the moral system of Masonry being founded on the Divine law;' and he added:—'One of the very first injunctions which a brother receives at his entrance into Masonry is to study the sacred Scriptures, to regulate his actions by the Divine precepts therein contained, and to seek in them a knowledge of the duties which he owes to God, his neighbour, and himself. As regards his duties to himself, he is enjoined to cultivate a spirit of prudence, temperance, and fortitude; so to discipline his body as may best conduce to the preservation of his mental faculties, and to exercise those faculties in such studies as may best enable him to use them to the glory of God and the well-being of his fellow-creatures. In respect to this duty to his neighbour, it is impressed upon the Mason that the principles most dear to the Craft are love of the brethren, relief of the distressed, and truthfulness in word and deed.' His Excellency the Governor, who—a singular admission in the face of such acknowledged obligations—took blame to himself for having forgotten those inner mysteries and ceremonial observances known only to the initiated, declared that 'whoever reads and acts up to the constitution and charges of the ancient fraternity cannot fail of being a good, useful, and honourable member of the community in which he lives.' His Excellency added, as showing the special claims of Masonry, "I find myself bound, as a Mason, in the first instance, to fear God and honour the Queen, to aid all works of genuine charity and philanthropy, to be a good man and true, and strictly to obey the moral law. I find myself bound scrupulously to obey dictates of my own conscience, but at the same time equally scrupulous to respect the consciences of others, and to interfere in no way with the religious or political opinions professed by any individual.' With all due deference to both the preacher and the repentant Mason, all these duties have been better expressed when it was said, 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind.' This is the first and great commandment; and the second is like unto it, 'Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.' The initiated may better know the higher claims of Masonry to the parentage of every virtue, but to the uninitiated the Rev. Mr. Poulett-Harris's definition of Masonry as 'a peculiar system of morality' is regarded as an exaggerated estimate of its influence. Such claims put forth in its behalf, and the language of the anthem that sings of 'Masonry divine' are to the uninitiated its weak point. There was not one single effect on the life and conversation dwelt upon yesterday as emanating from Masonry that has not a higher claim on the Christian to whom 'pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father, is this, to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world.' We advance the arguments of the Mason and of the sceptic. While we offer no opinion, we may not wonder at the unbelief of those who say that, since Masonry is represented as capable of effecting so great a good, it is to be regretted that there is so much secrecy maintained as to the means of effecting that good.

"There is no probability that any discussion on the subject will lead to light being let in where darkness has been so long, and on such high authority, maintained, though the mysteries of the Craft have within the past few years been so far enroached on, that the Grand Master has given leave to publish reports of the proceedings of grand and private lodges. Nor, perhaps, is an adherence to the practice of the past much to be regretted. The known things of Masonry give it a strong claim on the respect and approval of the well wishers of mankind. Masonry, whatever the source of its action, has unquestionably done, in times past, much good, and is as capable of beneficial results now, as ever. A writer, by no means an admirer of Masonry, has said: 'A set of passwords, and a peculiar grip of the hand, enable the initiated to recognise each other, and give a zest to their convivial meetings; and if the institution possesses any practical utility, it is in enabling a Mason, in a place where he is a stranger, to make himself known to his brother Masons, and claim their protection and assistance;' a practical utility the value of which can be hardly over-estimated, when it is remembered that, however much fable and imagination may have enshrouded the origin of Freemasonry, tracing it back to the time of the Pharaohs, the Temple of Solomon, and even the building of the Tower of Babel, its spread has been so very great as to make its existence almost universal. The Grand Lodge of England, that has given away large sums for philanthropic purposes, has upwards of a thousand lodges under its protection. A large family claims the parentage of the Grand Lodge of Scotland and Royal Order of Kilwinning. But Freemasonry is not confined to Great Britain. For a century and a half it has flourished in France, though discountenanced by Louis XV. and the clergy. There it now numbers upwards of 300 lodges. Freemasonry spread from England to Russia, where it was patronised by Catherine II., the Emperor Alexander having been 'a Free and Accepted Mason.' In America its ramifications are widespread. The 'grip of the hand' will give pass to the hearts of brother Masons in Germany, Holland, Denmark, Sweden. The iron hand of Russia has not crushed it out in Poland. The opposition of Governments, and even the ban of the Inquisition, have not been able to keep it out of Spain and Italy. In India, in the Colonies it flourishes. In fact, wherever else Freemasonry may be, it is sure to find genial soil in every clime and country in which Englishmen congregate; and in every such country, therefore, as well as at home or in the colonies, the British Freemason who may be in distress is sure of succour and relief. Whether Freemasonry is or is not founded on the 'practice of moral and social virtue,' its distinguishing feature is most unquestionably charity, and in its widest sense; and therefore its increasing prosperity among us as an Order is a matter of congratulation. The ceremony yesterday performed is the beginning of a work which the philanthropist may well bid 'God-speed.' "

The statue of the late Prince Consort, for the Albert Memorial Chapel at Windsor Castle, has arrived. It is of white marble, and has been executed by Baron Triqueti. It represents the Prince in full uniform, in a recumbent position. Angels support the head, and a favourite dog lies at the feet. The inscription is, "Albert, the Prince Consort, born August 26, 1819; died December 14, 1871; buried in the Royal Mausoleum, Frogmore. I have fought the good fight. I have finished my course." The statue has been placed on the sarcophagus for the Queen to view it.

Lord Carnarvon, on Tuesday, presided over a conference at the Albert Hall, with a view of promoting improvements in the silk manufacture. A resolution was passed recognizing the value of such discussions in connection with the series of annual international exhibitions which were inaugurated two years ago at South Kensington.

A BOO TO EVERY HOUSEHOLD.—Boots, with the celebrated wire-quilted soles, wearing twice as long as ordinary leather, for all ages; and children's boots with metallic tips, which never wear out at the toes, may be had at most shoe dealers. Insist on giving these a trial, and judge on their merits.

Original Correspondence.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I shall feel greatly obliged if you or any of your readers could inform me where I could procure the undermentioned works, by A. C. J. Arnold, LL.D.

"The Modern Eleusinia."

"The Conspiracy."

"The Mystery."

I am under the impression that these are United States editions, but know nothing more.

Yours fraternally,

HERALDRY IN THE NEW ORDER OF THE TEMPLE.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In a printed paper, officially signed, I read that the cross to be worn on the mantles of members of this new Order is a "cross potence," and in a report of proceedings of the Convent General published, by authority, it is stated that the cross to be worn in the same manner is a "cross patent." Having but a small acquaintance with the science of heraldry, it nevertheless seemed to me that I had never heard of crosses of either description, and I have therefore searched some heraldic works in my library with the following result. I presume that no one can question the authorities to which I am about to refer—Gwillim (1638), Carter (1660), Bontell (1863), and Cussans (1869), are silent as to such crosses, the "Parfaite Science des Armoires" (1670) however mentions "croix potence, qui est faite à ses bouts en forme d'une potence ou de notre lettre T qui est le mesme que le Tau des anciens Hebreux." As I have been shown a cross on a mantle of a member of the new Order, which is stated to have been officially pointed out to the Convent General as a "cross potence," and the proper form of cross to be now worn, and as this bears no resemblance whatever to the letter T, it is evident that the "croix potence" is not that which is referred to under the name of "potence." What a "cross patent" can be, I am unable to conceive, unless it be so called in order to openly demonstrate the crass ignorance of the official from whom the report emanates.

The cross patée has been generally recognised as the badge of the Old Templars, and plenty of examples of it may be seen in the Temple Church in London. The "Parfaite Science des Armoires" describes this cross as having "les bouts de ses branches plus larges trois fois que leurs racines et vindées sur ses flancs par un trait d'ovale."

The Masonic Templars, on the contrary, have borne what was called a cross patée, but which was composed of four triangles with the points inwards.

I would suggest that the officials of the New Order of the Temple should not assume a pretension to the knowledge of a science which they do not possess, as they make the Order and its members, as well as themselves, ridiculous by doing so. I believe a distinguished member of the College of Heralds belongs to the new Order, and he would no doubt, with his accustomed courtesy, gladly advise these officials on any point of heraldry. In the meantime it would perhaps be more satisfactory if, instead of being perplexed by new-fangled heraldic terms invented by Sir P. Colquhoun, and which are not to be found elsewhere, the members of the Order were furnished with a description of the new cross, as well as with the reasons for its adoption.

I have been anxiously looking out for some notice of the new Order, and the alleged reasons for its creation, in the London Gazette, and can evidently no longer a Masonic Order of the Temple, for that Order has committed suicide, and until the Order of Colquhoun is duly gazetted, it has no status out of Freemasonry.

Yours, heraldically,

ARGENT AND AZURE.

P.S. It has been suggested to me that the new cross is a phallic emblem, which the authorities did not like to call by its right name; hence the shuffling between "patent" and "potence."

THE ORDER OF THE TEMPLE.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I gather from a letter of Bro. E. Holmes, in your last issue, that Lord Eliot has retired from the Order of the Temple. I was present when our noble brother's name was mentioned as one of the recipients of the distinction of a Grand Cross; and I shall be glad to know whether it is that his Lordship has simply declined the Grand Cross, or absolutely resigned his connection with the Order. I think it must be a foregone conclusion to suppose that Lord Eliot has been influenced by any "Church organ" (instrumental or literary) in adopting any course he may have thought it right to pursue.

Yours fraternally,

C. C. W. G.

P.G. Expert of England.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I am a member of the A. and A. Rite, and a Knight Templar: Sir Patrick Colquhoun also belongs to both orders.

I think that the letter bearing his signature, which appeared in your last issue, must be a forgery, as I cannot believe that a man whom I have always seen most courteous to those around him, can have been the author of such a scurrilous and ungentlemanly production.

I am Sir,

Your obedient servant,

A. F. T.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

Assuming the authenticity of the letter attributed to Sir P. Colquhoun, and published in your last week's issue, I wish to call the attention of your readers to the fact that we have here a plain and authoritative reply to the queries which I have been reiterating in your columns.

That reply is contained in these words, "The principle accepted, was, that the body is not, in itself, Masonic."

The old body was, undoubtedly, in principle, Masonic. Therefore, it follows that the new body differs, in essential principles, from the old one. Therefore, it further appears to me, that the O.B. taken to the old body cannot be claimed, as a matter of right, by the new one. Nay, more: even if we exercise our option, and consider ourselves as obligated to the non-Masonic Templars, there is nothing on earth to prevent us from owing allegiance, as well, to the supreme jurisdiction of any other body of Masonic Templars that we may consider to represent the original body to which we were obligated.

I respectfully invite the heads of the new body to consider this difficulty.

Yours fraternally,

P. H. NEWHAM.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

Whoever may be the author of the letter attributed to Sir P. Colquhoun, he has some notions which I cannot quite reconcile with Bro. Emra Holmes's theory of the "brotherhood of gentlemen."

He says, "As we profess to be a chivalric body, and cannot be so in the sense of the 11th and 12th centuries, let us be so according to the usages of the 19th century."

He then goes on to exemplify "the usages of the 19th century" by two paragraphs brimful of venomous spite and deliberate false statements.

Is this your "brotherhood of gentlemen," Brother Holmes?

POTANDER.

A DISTRESSING CASE

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I am advised by several well-known Freemasons to state my case to you, in the hope that something may be done to enable me to support a sick husband and five helpless children.

My husband, who has been for many years a Freemason, has been afflicted with a severe illness, which has reduced us from comfort to extreme poverty, his recovery was hopeless until last week, but he is now so weak that the doctors say it will be some months before he can do anything for his family. If I had a little means to place me in some small business I could support them until it pleased the Almighty God to restore him. I earnestly implore his brother Masons to assist me, and keep my helpless children from want.

My husband is at present in the Convalescent Hospital, Southport, where if he were able to remain a few months, the doctors think he might recover, but I have no means to pay for his keep there. I have received £5 from the Benevolent Fund of Grand Lodge, which is now expended.

References may be made and contributions thankfully received and acknowledged by the following gentlemen:—Bro. Chas. Chard, P.M. 907; Bro. H. J. Lewis, P.M. 907; Bro. J. Dennis P.M. 907; and by Bro. John Albert Farnfield, solicitor, No. 90, Lower Thames-street.

I am, Sir,

Yours obediently,

ELIZABETH W.—

Reviews.

Samuel Plimsoll, Esq., M.P., "The Sailor's Friend," has issued a record of the draught of water of sea-going ships leaving ports in the United Kingdom, reported to the Board of Trade. It contains reports from May 8, 1872, to February 26, 1873, inclusive. It also contains the "Merchant Shipping Acts Amendment." The special features which distinguish this work are the tables, which show at a glance the name of vessel, port of sailing, port of registry, register tonnage, where noted, draught, depth of hold, destination, and general remarks. It consists of 160 pages, well printed on fine toned paper. We wish it a wide circulation. It is published by Virtue and Co., London.

"A descriptive notice on the Theatrical-historical religious Labarium, the Casanova Monumental Triptic," by the Cavaliere D. Casanova.

The writer has very ably described this piece of antiquity. The utmost pains has evidently been taken in the compilation of this book; its get-up is unexceptional, every point is explained in the highest possible degree. The name, form, and subject of the monument, has been got up with remarkable care and taste. We heartily recommend this little book, and trust it will be universally received. It can be procured through Turner and Go., Printers, Saint John's Gate Works, E.C.

We have received "Abstract of the Proceedings of the Grand Holy Royal Arch Chapter of Pennsylvania, and Masonic Jurisdiction thereunto belonging, for the year 1872." Contents: Quarterly Grand communications for February 1, May 2, August 1, November 7, 1872; Annual Grand Communication, December 27, 1872; Appendix. In the discharge of their duty, the Committee quoted largely from all the subjects that came under their notice. They determined that they would give a chance to all to benefit themselves by presenting everything of interest they could find, and we are sure they had a mass of wisdom to draw from.

We have received "Index to Heirs-at-Law, Next-of-Kin, Legatees, Missing Friends, Encumbrances, and Creditors or their Representatives in Chancery suits, who have been advertised for during the last 150 years." It contains upwards of 50,000 names relating to vast sums of unclaimed money. It is arranged by Robert Chambers, 90, Stockwell Park-road, S.W. This Index will be found of great value to solicitors, and others, in prosecuting inquiries respecting unclaimed money.

We have just received Part II. of "The People's History of Cleveland," by G. M. Tweddell. This part contains poetry on "The Banks of the Leven;" an excellent paper on geology; the fossils of the Yorkshire hills, with a systematic catalogue of the fossils; the agriculture of the district, &c. Its pages are profusely and splendidly illustrated with plates and wood engravings, and no expense is spared to render the work one of beauty, as well as of general utility. It is announced to be completed in 32 parts at 6d.

"A catalogue of works on Freemasonry from Spencer's Masonic Depot," contains a list with prices of rare and interesting works, many of them not elsewhere obtainable.

Directory for the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall, Royal Cornwall Gazette Office, Truro.

This little book, edited by Bro. Wm. James Hughan, P.M. 131, Past Prov. Grand Secretary, is in its third year of publication. On page 3, we have the names of the Prov. Grand Masters of Cornwall, when appointed, and number of lodges then in existence. Page 4, names of Officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall. Page 6 gives the Annual Meetings and Festivals of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall from A.D. 1863. It gives the name of town, date, and number of lodges represented. Further on, we have a list of the lodges in the Province, number, date of constitution, days of meeting, and towns in which the lodges are held. From page 10 to 32 we have the Past and Present Officers, and other members of the Provincial Lodge, which will be found very useful for reference, also the names of gentlemen who possess votes for the London Masonic Charities. The last two pages show an analysis of returns from 1869 to 1872. These pages will, at first sight, show the number of lodges, place of meeting, initiations, joining members, Past Masters, and total members. This book is well worthy of notice, it is carefully compiled, and will be found deeply interesting to all Masonic brethren. We heartily wish it a wide circulation.

The Oxford and Cambridge Masonic Almanack for 1873.

This valuable little book is the most attractive and charming we ever saw. It contains a calendar for each day throughout the year. The special features which distinguish this calendar from all others is—the reader is enabled by glancing down the days of each week to learn the exact dates on which the various Masonic bodies in the provinces of Oxfordshire and Cambridgeshire are held. It also contains lists of lodges, chapters, &c., together with the names of principal officers.

It consists of 46 pages of printed matter, executed in a highly finished style, and can be placed in the pocket without the least inconvenience. We cordially recommend all Masons to procure this excellent book. The price is 1s. 6d., and can be had through Bro. E. W. Morris, Shoe Lane, Oxford.

THE EXCURSION OF AMERICAN MASONS TO EUROPE.

This Masonic party sailed from New York, on Wednesday, June 4, and arrived in Queens-town a few days ago. Mr. Thomas Cook, accompanied by Mr. Cates, proceeded to Cork and Queenstown, on the 12th inst., to meet the Masonic brethren. The party will proceed from Cork to Killarney, and after spending a few days in the Lake District, will go to Dublin, and and from thence to the North of Ireland to visit the Giant's Causeway, Belfast, &c. At Dublin, if not sooner, Mr. Cook expects to be relieved by Mr. Alexander Howard, of Beyrou, who is engaged to accompany the Masonic brethren to Scotland, through England, France, Switzerland, Italy, Vienna, Germany, Holland, Belgium, &c., a tour of about 100 days. It is hoped that arrangements will be made for Mr. Alexander Howard to continue with the Masonic brethren to the end of their tour, and then to accompany them to America in connection with an English party for a tour to the United States, and round the world, leaving London as early as possible in September, so as to leave San Francisco not later than the 15th of October, and thus gain an extra fortnight in Japan and China, and get to Egypt by the beginning of February, in readiness for the Palestine work of the spring. Altogether it will be a magnificent excursion. There are in the party some ten ladies and about thirty gentlemen.

The Masons in Glasgow intend to give their transatlantic brethren, and the ladies who accompany them, a hearty reception. A soirée, concert, and assemblage, under the patronage of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow, will be held in the City Hall, on the 27th inst., when it is hoped a large number of our brethren and their friends will be present to do honour to the distinguished visitors.

SURREY MASONIC HALL COMPANY (LIMITED).

We are glad to report that the Directors of this Company, at their meeting on Wednesday, the 11th inst., unanimously resolved to instruct the architect, Bro. John Thomas, to prepare specifications of the plans adopted for the Hall and Masonic rooms, also to invite tenders from several eminent builders who are members of the Craft. The directors have determined energetically to carry the building forward and we trust they will receive from the Surrey Masons the support they deserve.

We are enabled to contradict a notice that appeared in a weekly contemporary, in its Masonic intelligence, "that shareholders only would be admitted to the ceremony of laying the foundation-stone" such a resolution has not yet been considered by the Directors, but merely the propriety of making the ceremony as grand as possible, and soliciting a very exalted and distinguished brother to take part in it. Should such be the case, it may become necessary to restrict the attendance of other than shareholders and eminent members of the Craft, or little room would be left for those who unquestionably should first be considered, as we do not doubt it would bring together such a gathering of Masons, such as never yet has been seen on the Surrey-side of London. We are also glad to notice that Bro. Edwin Sillifant, Public Accountant has been appointed Auditor to the company.

MASONIC HALL AT DERBY.

The Marquis of Hartington, Right Worshipful Master and Provincial Grand Master of the Freemasons of Derbyshire, laid the foundation-stone of a new Masonic Hall here on Wednesday. The brethren, who assembled in great numbers, met at the Assembly-rooms about one o'clock, and, subsequently, headed by the band of the yeomanry cavalry walked in procession to the site. Prayer having been offered and the usual preliminaries observed, the stone was lowered. The Marquis then addressed the spectators according to ancient custom as follows: "Men, women, and children here assembled to-day, to behold this ceremony know all of you that we be lawful Masons, true and faithful to the laws of our country, and established of old with peace and honour, in most countries to do good to our brethren, to erect magnificent structures, and to fear God, the Great Architect of the Universe. We have amongst us, concealed from the eye of all men, secrets which cannot be divulged; but these secrets are lawful and honourable and not repugnant to the laws of God or man. They were entrusted in peace and honour to the Masons of ancient times, and have been faithfully transmitted to us, and it is our duty to convey them unimpaired to the latest posterity. Unless our Craft were good, and our calling honourable, we should not have lasted for so many centuries, nor should we have been honoured with the patronage of so many of the illustrious in all ages who have ever shown themselves eager to promote our interests and to defend us against all adversaries. We are assembled here to-day in the presence of you all to assist in laying in ancient form the foundation stone of this Masonic Hall, which we pray Him to prosper for the promotion of godliness, harmony, and brotherly love till time shall be no more." The procession reformed, and returned by the same route. A banquet subsequently took place.

At the annual meeting of the Palestine Exploration Fund, which was held on Tuesday, both the Archbishop of York and the Dean of Westminster earnestly spoke of the importance of continuing the work of research which has been carried on under the auspices of this organization.

Masonic Tidings.

On Saturday last, at Masons' Hall Tavern, Basinghall-street the staff of Messrs. Burgoyne, Burbidges, and Co., gave a complimentary dinner to Bro. J. G. Attwood, on his entering upon a new venture which will take him out of this country for a short period. Covers were laid for thirty guests.

Mr. Walter Beard, son of Bro. Thomas Beard, C.C., has this week been admitted an attorney-at-law and solicitor, and will join his father in partnership.

The funeral of the late Bro. J. N. Garrod took place (privately) on Tuesday, at Willesden cemetery.

Bro. John B. Monckton has announced his candidature for the office of Town Clerk of the City of London.

ROYAL ARCH MASONRY AT BIRKENHEAD.—After several years of considerable depression, the prospects of the Royal Arch Degree in Freemasonry again look brighter at Birkenhead, "the City of the Future," and there now seems abundant reason to anticipate that the exalted degree will once more regain the high position and popularity to which it is well entitled. To Comp. E. G. Willoughby and Comp. Edward Harbord belong the lion's share of the honour of the restoration of the Chapter of Fidelity, No. 477, to Birkenhead, a work in which they were materially helped by Comps. H. Bulley, W. Bulley, J. P. Platt, T. Platt, and F. K. Stevenson, of the Lion Chapter, No. 587, each of whom spared neither body nor brains to aid in the excellent work, which has already borne excellent fruit. To a large extent, the Chapter of Fidelity has had reason to feel its obligations to Comp. F. K. Stevenson, and as a mark of their esteem and gratitude the companions have resolved to present him with a splendid drawing-room timepiece, bearing the following inscription:—"Presented by the Chapter of Fidelity, 477, to Comp. Frederick K. Stevenson, P.Z., in recognition of his valuable services, and of his worth as a Mason, June, 1873. A.L. 5873. E. Harbord, Z.; J. H. Johnstone, H.; S. Jones, J.; T. Dixon, S.E.; A. Samuels, S.N.; D. Fraser, P.S.; Wm. M. Asher, Treasurer." We may add, as showing the interest taken by the members in the welfare of this Chapter, that there has been presented to it a marble altar, of excellent workmanship. The altar is of pure marble, and bears the following inscription:—"Presented by Comp. Donald Fraser, to the Chapter of Fidelity, 477, Birkenhead, June, 1873. The altar is the joint production of Mr. Henry Tabiner, Price-street, and Mr. Dixon, marble mason, Conway-street, and will be on view for a few days at the rooms of the latter. The Provincial Grand Chapter of Cheshire under the auspices of the Right Hon. the Lord De Tabley, Right Worshipful P. G. Supt., will meet for the first time at Birkenhead in October next, and it is hoped that the Chapter of Fidelity, as the oldest chapter in the district, will, with the assistance of its juniors, take all the necessary steps to render the meeting as great a success as its importance demands.

MASONIC BALL AT OXFORD.—On Monday evening, June, 16th, a grand Masonic ball took place at the city buildings. It was also expected that His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, who had honoured the craft by the acceptance of the office of W.M. of the Apollo Lodge, would be present for the purpose of installation. On Wednesday the Masonic body held their annual fête in the beautiful gardens of St. John's College.

A concert and reading will be given at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, on Thursday, the 26th inst., in aid of the schools of St. John the Evangelist, Grove-road, E., of which Bro. the Rev. J. M. Vaughan is the incumbent. The concert will be under the patronage of the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor and sheriffs, and Lord Skelmersdale, Provincial Grand Master of West Lancashire; and other distinguished brethren have added the prestige of their names in support of the undertaking. Miss Edith Wynne, and other eminent artistes are engaged.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, JUNE 21, 1873.

GLOUCESTER CATHEDRAL.

The Freemasons of Gloucester have done a noble work, of which they may well be proud, and we can only say we hope ere long to see the fruits in the greater estimation in which our noble Craft shall be held by the outer world who are not Masons.

In these days of utilitarianism, people are constantly asking what is the use of Freemasonry, and it is no secret that we are charged with atheism, with a selfish disregard of others' welfare, and an ostentatious display of the charity which begins at home. It is true that you have noble institutions for the education of your youth, and for the succour of the aged and distressed amongst you; but then many great public bodies with not half your pretensions do as much for their kith and kin—say they. In business relations it is often found that you favour your own brethren in preference to strangers, and whilst in some provinces you make a public acknowledgement of the Most High by attending annually some temple raised to him; in many places the Freemasons never, as such, attend a place of Divine Worship from one year's end to another. This being so, how can you be surprised if, in the opinion of many people, you are looked upon as little better than infidels? We have often heard such remarks made, and often thought there was a great deal of truth in them.

Our Gloucester brethren have set us a worthy example in presenting the noble reredos to their beautiful cathedral, and the ceremonial of Thursday, the 5th, will live in the minds of thousands as one of the most impressive and most honourable to the disciples of the Royal Art, which has taken place of late years.

The West Country Masons have in truth set an example to the Craft generally, which might be followed with advantage; and if in this era of Church restoration, and the revival of architecture our wealthy brethren would lead the van, and, in their Masonic capacity, aid the erection and rebuilding of those historic fanes, which were the glory of the travelling Freemasons of the middle ages, much of the jealousy and suspicion with which we are viewed by the great mass of our fellow countrymen would be removed, and an answer would be given to the oft-repeated query, what is the good of Freemasonry?

Our contemporary, the Gloucester Chronicle, in speaking of the restoration of the Cathedral, gives the following succinct account of its history:—

No unimportant part of the history of the county for the last twelve centuries may be found written in stone in the columns and walls of this noble edifice. Wulphere, king of Mercia, an idolator converted to Christianity, is said to have planned the first "house of religion" erected in Gloucester. The foundation of this edifice is stated to have been laid in 672. Three years later Wulphere died, and the completion of the work which he had begun was carried out by Osric, King of Northumberland; and seven years after Wulphere's death the monastery was dedicated to St. Peter. In 729 Osric found his last resting-place within the walls of the church; he was buried before the altar of St. Petronille; his effigy, crowned, and holding in his hand the model of his church, now lies in a stately chapel on the north side of the choir. Kyneburgh, sister of Osric and Oswald, was the first abbess; Edburga, the second; and Eva, who died in 767, the third and last. The three abbesses, it is said, all were, or had been, Queens of Mercia. For half a century the monastery was desolate. But in 821, Bernulph, King of Mercia, restored it for the reception of secular canons. About a century and a half later these priests were ejected by Canute, and the Benedictines, the energetic pioneers of the arts and civilisation, took possession. The edifice, which had been restored by Bernulph, having been destroyed by fire, in 1058, a new minster, built by Aldred, Bishop of Worcester, whose see included the county of Gloucester, was consecrated. Fourteen years later William the Conqueror kept Christmas in Gloucester. At that time there were only two monks of age, and eight scholars, in the abbey; thirty years later the fraternity had grown to one hundred members. Again fire raged; the monastery was destroyed; and next, in 1100, a church, which Abbot Serlo had raised, and a great part of which remains, was dedicated. Robert Curthose was buried here in 1134; his effigy, one of the most interesting features of the Cathedral, was placed before the high altar. Centuries later this memorial was broken in pieces by Puritan zealots, but the fragments were collected by Sir Humphrey Tracy, of Stanway, and kept until the Restoration, when the effigy was again put together and deposited in the chapel of the Holy Apostles, where it now rests, but is about to be restored to its ancient position before the altar. The material is Irish oak. The face is good, the figure noble and expressive it is arrayed in a short hose, ancient breeches and stockings united, from which Robert got his surname of Curthose. The arms on the base of the tomb are the arms of Edward the Confessor, the ancestor of Robert, and those of France and England as quartered after the reign of Henry IV. About 1320 Edward the Second visited the monastery, and was entertained with regal honours. Sitting in the Abbot's Hall, and looking at the pictures of his Royal predecessors, the king enquired whether his picture was among them. Abbot Thokey—in a prophetic spirit, as was afterwards said—replied that he hoped to have his Sovereign in a more honourable place than in that hall. And so it proved; for after the murder of the king in 1327, when the cowardly ecclesiastics of Bristol, Keynham, and Malmesbury refused to receive the body, Thokey brought it from Berkely Castle to Gloucester, and it was interred with great solemnity near the high altar. Some of the events connected with the king's murder and funeral are pictured in luminous glass in one of the windows of the south aisle. Stimulated by filial piety, Edward the Third and his Queen made pilgrimages to the tomb of the martyr, and presented grateful offerings for the enrichment of the monastery over which Thokey so worthily presided. On the east of the south transept is St. Andrew's Chapel, which has recently been so gloriously decorated by the pencil and from the designs of Mr. Gambier Parry, as a memorial to Mrs. Marling. In 1378, Richard the Second held a Parliament here, and monarch and court were lodged in the Abbey. A year or two afterwards the Great Cloisters—the earliest and the most gorgeous specimens of fan-tracery in the world—were built. To Thomas Sebrok, appointed abbot in 1450, we owe the tower, which is unsurpassed for its elegance and lightness. About 1460 the erection of the Lady Chapel—one of the most beautiful parts of the fabric—was commenced. Eighty years later, in 1540, the Abbey was surrendered by Gabriel Moreton, the last prior, who was awarded the dignified pension of £20. At the surrender the revenues amounted to nearly £2000 per annum.

The Abbey, beautified by the offerings of the pilgrims to the shrine of Edward, was at that time probably at the zenith of its architectural glory. It is said that when it was converted into a Cathedral it had the good fortune to be so entirely preserved that no conventual church in the kingdom, excepting that of Westminster, had escaped so well. Towards the close of the sixteenth century, however, it had become much dilapidated, and when the famous Laud was appointed dean, in 1616, there was scarcely a church in England so much in decay. Laud soon procured an Act of Chapter, by which what appears now to be the insignificant sum of £60 a year was voted for the maintenance of the fabric. During the civil war the stately tower formed a fine target for the artillerists of the besiegers, who pounded away at it, and the church of St. Mary de Crypt, and the other prominent objects within the walls. Fortunately no Sir William Armstrong had arisen in those days, for, primitive as were the weapons of the King's forces, it is certain that they managed to hit the Cathedral, cannon balls having recently been found embedded in the exterior walls. But the Cathedral only escaped one peril to be menaced by another, as during the Commonwealth it was "in danger of total destruction from the plots and contrivances of persons who, "as one of the local historians tells us," agreed amongst themselves for their several proportions of the plunder expected out of it." Some two hundred years ago Mr. Dorney, whose name figures conspicuously in the history of the period, urged the authorities to join shoulders to "hold up the stately fabric of the College Church, the great ornament of the city, which some do say is now in danger of falling," and in 1657 the church was "granted to the Mayor and burgesses, at their own request, and Oliver Cromwell, under his broad seal, gave them an exemplification of it." Years of neglect, relieved only by spasmodic and ill-considered means of restoration, followed; works of Art in painting, glass, and sculpture, were beaten into fragments, or buried in limewash, wall, columns and floor were allowed to decay, or were ruthlessly destroyed. Ken, the designer of the present organ-screen, suggested to Bishop Benson that the decay-defying Norman pillars of the nave should be channeled and fluted, and it was only the discovery that the interior of the columns consisted of rubble that prevented the attempting of this "improvement." The duty of reparation has thus been thrown upon the present authorities, who have so far carried it out in a noble spirit.

To us Masons Gloucester is especially interesting as containing some curious specimens of Masonic Marks, which if we remember rightly, are to be found upon the Norman pillars in the nave, and also the sculptured Masons' Square, discovered we believe by Bro. the Rev. G. Roberts sometime since, and of which a description was given in the Freemasons' Magazine at that time. To Mark Masons these writings on stone are of great interest and significance, and some have gone so far as to assert, that in course of time we may discover through them, much of the ancient science of symbolism. Certain we are that many of these marks, as for instance at Gloucester, are in places widely remote exactly similar, and this points at once to a great solidarity in the universal mystery of Masonry.

The Masons of Bristol restored sometime since the Lady Chapel of St. Mary Redcliffe, the noblest parish church in the three kingdoms.

The Masons of Bath have helped largely in the restoration of their beautiful Abbey. The Masons of Worcester recently gave a magnificent window to adorn that noble edifice; but what have we done in London, and what have the Masons in the wealthy and prosperous provinces of the north done towards expounding the principles of wisdom, strength, and beauty?

To our shame we say nothing, absolutely nothing! The Chapter of St. Paul's Cathedral is greatly in need of funds to complete the work commenced by our Grand Master, Sir Christopher Wren, yet Grand Lodge gives nothing towards so noble an object.

Our late revered Grand Master dies in the fulness of years and full of honours, and what more natural than that the brethren of his own great province in Yorkshire should desire that some rich memorial window in their noble Minster should testify to the glory of God, and to his memory. Yet no step seems to have been made, no suggestion offered to connect the names of the Grand Master of Freemasons of England with those edifices which were reared by the piety of our ancestors, and which testify to-day to the greatness of their skill, and which we to-day emulate in vain.

To our metropolitan and northern brethren we say learn the lesson taught by the Masons of Gloucester, and "go do thou likewise."

CONSECRATION OF THE PERCY LODGE (No. 1427) AT NEWCASTLE.

On Thursday, the 5th inst., there was a great gathering of Freemasons in Newcastle, upon the occasion of the consecration of a new lodge, called the "Percy, 1427," on the roll of lodges of England and Wales, which took place in the Freemasons' Hall, Maple-street, in this town, by the Right Hon. the Earl Percy, M.P., Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master for the county of Northumberland, assisted by J. S. Challoner, Esq., Past Provincial Senior Grand Warden, in the absence of L. M. Cockcroft, Esq., Deputy Provincial Grand Master.

The ceremony of consecration took place at three o'clock in the afternoon, and was most ably performed by the Provincial Grand Master, who delivered an excellent address upon the occasion, in which, amongst other things, he pointed out the right principle upon which their friends should be induced to become Masons.

After the consecration, the Provincial Grand Master installed Bro. John Hooper as the first Master of the lodge.

The Master then invested his officers as follows:—J. H. Bentham, Senior Warden; Shaftoe Robson, Junior Warden; B. J. Thompson, Treasurer; J. Nicholson, Senior Deacon; J. R. Young, Junior Deacon; H. Nothwanger, Inner Guard.

The lodge was very fully attended upon the occasion, about 150 Masons being present; and upon the dais were several distinguished brethren, amongst them being—Bros. W. Foulsham, P.P.G.R.; Geo. Thompson, P.P.G.S.W.; T. Anderson, P.G.S.W.; Straker Wilson, P.G.J.W.; R. Smaile, P.P.G.R.; J. M. Ridsdale, P.G.J.D.; E. D. Davis, P.G.D.C.; H. Hotham, P.G.S.W.; Rev. W. Greenwell, P.P.G.C.; Rev. E. Marrett, P.P.G.C.; Thos. Robinson, P.P.G.D., and others.

The building in which the ceremony took place is one of the finest Masonic halls in Great Britain. At the entrance is a vestibule, the basement of the walls of which is decorated with encaustic tiles of a beautiful and appropriate design. Proceeding inwards, to the right is a lavatory, and to the left the Tyler's room, with tile work of a similar description, and with oak furniture corresponding with the entire suite of the hall. The adjoining room, in which candidates for the Masonic mysteries are prepared, is a beautiful apartment, suitably furnished, and on the same floor is the private room of the Provincial Grand Master, furnished with every requisite to domestic comfort. On the same floor is the Grand Lodge room, which is a most magnificent apartment, though it presented yesterday a sombre appearance, in consequence of being draped in black "in memoriam" of the late Right Hon. the Earl of Zetland, the late Past Grand Master of England. Notwithstanding this drawback, however, the appearance of the hall was that of splendour and magnificence, to which the grand emblems and jewels of the provincial officers, and the artistic stained glass window of the hall itself contributed not a little. Every care had been bestowed in order to do honour to Earl Percy, on this his first visit to Newcastle-upon-Tyne. Immediately above his throne was placed his crest, which was beautifully illuminated; and his Lordship sat behind a pedestal which he had himself presented to the hall on its inauguration. It is an unique piece of carving, and worthy of the donor. The chair in which he sat was presented by B. J. Thompson, Esq.; and at the right of his Worship was a chair presented by the late Earl of Zetland: the whole of the beautiful carved oak chairs on the dais had been presented to the hall by honourable members of the Craft. On the floor of the hall, to the right and left of the dais, are two superbly carved oak desks, one the gift of Major Joicey, and the other the gift of J. H. Thompson, Esq. Immediately in front of the Master's pedestal is a superbly carved oak reading-desk. In the centre of the room, on the left, looking west, is the Junior Warden's pedestal, presented by George Elliott, Esq., M.P. for North Durham, and on the opposite side of the hall is the Senior Warden's pedestal, presented by the Right Hon. the Earl of Durham. Each piece of furniture is emblazoned with the Masonic emblems and the coats of arms of the donor. The very elaborate mantelpiece was designed and presented by John Johnson, Esq., the architect of the building. The illuminated stained-glass window is the only instance of the kind that has been attempted in this country: it was presented by George Thompson, Esq., as the result of his own subscription and that of friends. On the north end of the dais is a fine portrait in oil of the late Sir Wm. Lorraine; and on the south is a portrait, also in oil, of the late Earl of Durham. A portrait of St. Peter, patron saint of the lodge, is esteemed a great work of art. In the centre compartment of the south wall, are copies of the late Duke of Cambridge's three tracing boards. Immediately opposite these is a handsome time-piece, presented by Bro. Ralph Thompson, of the Royal Arcade. At the west end are two finely proportioned pillars in the Ionic and Doric styles, surrounded by the celestial and terrestrial globes. A kneeling stool and rest, in carved oak, is a new feature in Masonic lodges. The three candlesticks have a somewhat curious history. They were consecrated by the present Pope of Rome for use in a Roman Catholic chapel in this country, and were purchased by the late Bro. Fenwick, by whom they were presented to St. Peter's lodge.

Several other gentlemen have made handsome donations, amongst them being Bros. Wright, Wilson, W. Smith, J. S. Wilson, Laycock, and Straker. The hall is surrounded by a dado, above which are the crests, most beautifully emblazoned, of the Knights Templar. Above them are the warrants of the different lodges and encampments, together with the various Masonic representations connected with St. Peter's and the Northern Counties' Lodges. The coronas and brackets are in the cathedral style, and of a most elaborate description. At each of the three pedestals is a splendid oak candlestick. The side elevations and fixed seats are covered with crimson to correspond with the dais, and the floor is covered with a handsome carpet. The officers' collars and jewels, the square and compasses for Bible, and the floor-cloth were manufactured by Bro. George Kenning. On the second floor is a grand club-room, which is decorated with Masonic emblems, and a peculiar portrait of an ancient Tyler.

After the ceremony of consecration, a banquet took place in the banqueting hall, and was presided over by the Worshipful Master, John Hopper, of the Percy Lodge, about sixty members being present. Bro. Challoner proposed "Success to the New Lodge," coupled with the health of the Worshipful Master, who responded. Bro. Foulsham proposed "The Health of Bro. E. D. Davis, who had done so much for Masonry in the province. The toast was most cordially received, and very ably and feelingly responded to. Many other toasts were proposed and songs sung, and a very pleasant evening was spent.

UNVEILING THE REREDOS IN GLOUCESTER CATHEDRAL.

Literature, and taste, and art, and philosophy, and science may enrich the intellect. They may wield an almost magic sway over the minds of men; but they will not sanctify the heart, nor change the natural disposition. The greatest extent of knowledge will not cleanse that moral corruption, or clear away that spiritual darkness which debases the soul of every man born into the world, for these attainments are no foundation on which to build for eternity "Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." From the building of Solomon's Temple, its wondrous architecture, its magnificent structure, we are led to the foundation stone of the spiritual Temple—Jesus Christ, himself of that true union which the Gospel produces, and which the Lord so earnestly desired on our behalf, even the one commandment that we "love one another as He hath loved us;" to that bright and morning star, whose rising brings health and salvation to mankind, and light to them that sit in darkness and in the shadow of death. Yes, Christ is set before us as the foundation-stone, the corner-stone, the top-stone, of our Masonic structure. We are taken to look to Jesus as the captain of our salvation; to look for Him as our incarnate God and Saviour; to look to him as Christ our Prophet, Christ our Priest, and Christ our King—our Prophet, to teach and guide us into all truth, our Priest, to make intercession for us—and our King to rule over us, by bringing every thought of our minds and every desire of our hearts into captivity to his sacred vow, so that we may be enabled to crucify the flesh, to follow it boldly, to fight manfully the good fight of faith, and to continue his faithful soldiers and servants unto our life's end. Such is Freemasonry, its principles, and its teachings. And now to speak with more immediate reference to the day's proceedings. We are well informed from Holy Writ that the building of Solomon's Temple was a most important epoch in the history of our order. From it we derive many mysteries of our Art and many valuable forms of instruction. When he succeeded to the throne we know with what magnificence he carried out the plans of his father David, making the Temple the most beautiful building in the whole world. It was a testimony to the majesty and glory of Jehovah, the God of Israel. As it was with the Temple in the days of old, so it is with the churches of the present day. Like Solomon, we all desire that decency and order and material beauty should pervade every part. We would have no stint of anything that would make the sacred edifice more fit for the worship of the Lord God. We would give the best we are able, to ornament, in architecture, in music, and in singing; then let us remember that all these things—all outward material ornament and decoration, and all forms of worship—are nothing when compared with the inward adornment of our heart and true sanctification of the soul. These are far more beautiful in His sight than all the triumphs of the sculptor's art, and all the colours of the rainbow upon the walls and windows of the material edifice. Without them every other apparent good is but an empty show. The heart of the true Christian is the abode in which God delights to dwell. To cause human souls to become the dwelling place is one principal use of the Church material. By the word preached within its walls is unfolded and displayed the great story of the Cross on which the Prince of Glory died. By it is infused into the minds of the people the love of Christ. They are made to know the power of His death and resurrection. This is the work of human preaching with the power of the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven, and in proportion as the hearts and minds of the worshippers are enlightened by the word, will the offerings of prayer and praise, and the eucharistic ministrations, in front of that consecrated structure which has been unveiled to day, become more devout and acceptable in the sight of God. Let us rejoice heartily that the material house—this palace of the Lord God—has been thus so greatly beautified. Let us pray God to make it a spiritual house—a house of living stones, that the inner palace may also grow up under the teaching of the Holy Ghost the Comforter. May He find it, both now and at all times, a most fitting abode for His most blessed presence in the midst of those who worship here; and may God's holy word and sacraments be ever ministered here with comfort and power, and life to many. And may it please God that all who have assembled within these walls this day, to take part in this solemn ceremony and service may return home with their hearts warmed for His glory. Many of us, who are ordinarily separated by a long day's journey, and who are personally strangers to one another, are come together on this day into one house—the house of God, and have uttered together common words—words of prayer and words of praise. Surely it must be a glad and a holy day which speaks to us, amidst our many divisions of agreement, unity, and concord—which brings us all to the same place, and puts into our mouths the same songs, telling us that we are members one of another, members of the Lord's body, that we being many are one body in Christ, and every one members of one another. May we return home comforted in our hearts and refreshed in our spirits by the participations we have enjoyed. Let us be encouraged and thankful to work on still in the work which God has given us to do, "building up ourselves and others in the faith and fear of God," "upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ being the chief corner-stone, into which all the building fitly framed together, groweth unto a holy temple in the Lord." May all of us who are here at present form part of that "building of God, that house not made with hands," wherein is all our hope of rest and happiness and blessing. We may be called upon to endure trials and afflictions; but let us remember how it is that the stone is shaped before it is fitted for the builder's use—

"Every stone by blows is squar'd
By the hammer rude prepar'd."

May we be built up in the walls of the heavenly Jerusalem, and there abide for ever. Let us implore the Lord God with our most earnest prayers that he would build us up on the most sure and precious foundation of Jesus Christ and him crucified; and now let us part with heartfelt supplication for the Divine blessing on the work of this day, and once more repeat the sacred strain, "Let the beauty of the Lord be upon it; establish Thou the work of our hands upon us; yea the work of our hands, establish Thou it."

The Bishop then pronounced the Benediction, and Dr. Wesley played a voluntary as the congregation left the building. The Freemasons, headed by the Provincial Grand Master, returned in procession to the chapter-room, where the presentations to the Dean and Chapter of the illuminated volume containing the list of subscribers, previously described, was made.

The cathedral choir was especially strengthened for the occasion. From Bristol there were three choristers, and Messrs. Franc and B. Gay, altos, G. Gay, tenor, and Merrick, Bass; from Cirencester, Mr. Green, tenor; from Hereford, Mr. Lambert, one of the vicars choral; and from Worcester three choristers, and Mr. Smith, tenor, and the Rev. Precentor Hays.

The following is a list of the clergy present at the ceremony:—The Lord Bishop of the Diocese, the Very Rev. the Dean, Revs. Sir John Seymour, Canon Lysons, Canon Evans, Canon Powell, J. Vambourgh Law, rector of Christian Malford; W. Ballour, H. C. Minchin, J. Nisbet, J. Vaughan Payne, J. Emris, H. Fowler, W. B. Stanford, H. C. Naylor, T. W. Hardy, St. James; W. H. Girdlestone, St. Marks; C. Y. Crawley, vicar of Taynton; F. T. J. Bayly, Brookthorpe; A. Williams, rector of Icomb; George Roberts.

THE BANQUET.

At six o'clock the officers of Provincial Grand Lodge, and other distinguished guests, were entertained in the Assembly Room of the Bell Hotel, at the joint invitation of the Royal Gloucestershire and Royal Lebanon lodges, which are both held in this city: The banquet, which was thoroughly worthy of the occasion, was attended by nearly 150 brethren. P.M. Bro. T. Taynton presided in a very able manner, introducing the various toasts in language peculiarly graceful and well-chosen. Sitting at the raised table with him were Lord Sherborne, Provincial Grand Master of Gloucestershire, and Bro. G. F. Newmarch, his deputy; the Rev. J. Bowles, D.D., L.L.D., Provincial Grand Master of Herefordshire, and Bro. H. R. Luckes his deputy; Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Bart, M.P.; Bro. the Rev. C. J. Martyn, Past Grand Chaplain; Bro. the Rev. George Roberts; Bro. E. W. Trinder, P.G. Sec.; Bro. T. G. Palmer, P.G., Treas.; Bro. Riach, (Magdalen College, Oxford), P.G.S. of Oxfordshire; Bro. E. G. Woodward, P.G. Organist. The vice-chairs were occupied by the Masters of the two Gloucester Lodges, who jointly arranged the banquet, namely, Bro. Cooke W.M. of the Royal Gloucester Lodge, and Bro. Worsley, W.M. of the Royal Lebanon Lodge. The following brethren were also present. Royal Gloucestershire Lodge:—Edward Trimmer, E. L. Kendall, W. H. Gwinnett, John Bryan, A. S. Helps, R. Moffatt, T. Nelson Foster, A. Slead, E. Tew-Smith, H. W. Bruton, W. Knowles. R. Hendewerk, A. Buchanan, Jas. Bruton, J. Campbell, F. W. Jones, W. Nickes, H. W. Hall, J. Castree, H. Bruton, H. Thomas. W. O. Watts, A. C. Wheeler, R. W. White, G. Hunt, T. Nicholas, T. H. Chance, T. Commeline, J. L. Bretherton, J. Lovegrove, B. Bonner, G. Whitcombe, A. Booth, J. D. T. Niblett, Redfern, Ashbee. Royal Lebanon Lodge:—H. Jeffs, T. Holmes, F. W. Fisher, T. J. Pooley, T. Alger, E. Niblett, J. A. Hopkins, W. B. Stocker, E. S. Josephs, G. C. Buchanan, J. Poytress, W. Waites, G. Peters, A. V. Hatton, G. Prowse, Jas. Davies, W. E. Pope, J. W. Jeens, O. B. Jeens, T. H. Rumsey, T. Powell, H. Carrington, E. Berry, &c. Among the visiting brethren were R. J. Brooks and others from Stow-on-the-Wold; J. A. Lloyd, Oxford University; Rev. H. B. Johnson, Cambridge University; James Shilcock, P.P.J.G.W. of Hertfordshire; J. Vizard and the Rev. G. A. M. Little, Dursley; J. Balcomb, Cheltenham; R. Ellett, Cirencester; H. D. Martin, Cheltenham; S. N. Dimpleby, Malvern; J. Gimblett, H. M. James, A. Gould, M. F. Carter, J. H. Greenham, T. Cadle, and S. W. Woods, of the Royal Forest of Dean Lodge, No. 1067; E. C. Lewell, Cirencester; W. P. Want and G. Ayliffe, Dursley; Forth, Bain, Ricketts, Haselton, and Robertson, Cheltenham; F. Moore, Tewkesbury; E. H. Edgell, Tewkesbury; E. T. Inskipp, D.P.G.M. Bristol; W. F. Barnard, Notcliff; F. Dowle, G. J. Atkins, and James Greenfield, Forth, J. B. Winterbotham and L. Winterbotham, Cheltenham; E. Cripps, Cirencester; Bryant, Cheltenham; W. F. Brown, Lovibond, Bubb, Montague, James, Cribb, Williams, Holmes, (Suffolk) &c. The above list is imperfect, but as near complete as we have been able to make it.

Bro. the Rev. Dr. Bowles said grace before and after meat.

The first toasts given from the chair were "The Queen and the Craft," "His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales," who is Honorary Past Master of Grand Lodge, and "The M.W. the Grand Master, the Marquess of Ripon; the R.W. the D.G. Master, the Earl of Carnarvon; and the other Grand Officers, Past and Present." Allusion was made to the loss sustained by Masonry in the death of the late Earl of Zetland, for whom the Craft are now in mourning. Bro. Sir M. H. Beach, Past Senior Warden, and Rev. C. J. Martyn, Past Grand Chaplain, responded for Grand Lodge.

Bro. the Rev. Dr. Bowles, Provincial Grand Master of Herefordshire, who spoke with painful effort, said:—I could have wished the honour of proposing the health of the Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master, Lord Sherborne, had been confided to other hands than mine, for I am year-worn and old, and am but now slowly recovering from a long and most depressing illness, which has left me both physically and mentally unable to do justice to this toast. But I will take comfort from the reflection that as good wine needs no bush, neither does this toast need any commendation; it speaks from the heart to the heart, and will I am sure, be drunk with all the enthusiasm it pre-eminently merits. (Applause.) Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, permit me before I sit down, to offer my most unfeigned and hearty congratulations both to your lordship and to the other Freemasons of Gloucestershire, upon the brilliant termination of the interesting ceremonial of this auspicious day—a day which will leave an enduring memorial behind it long after we have passed away, and will testify to future generations that although you are no longer practical Freemasons, you still evince your reverence for the things your fathers revered, and which their fathers revered in the old time before them. (Applause.) It was impossible to look around your magnificent cathedral to-day without being struck with the marvellous manner in which the ancient Masons exhausted their creative imagination in ecclesiastical architecture—covering Europe with monuments of their science in statics and dynamics, and giving proofs, in rich and rare abundance, of that plastic genius which from an infinity of elaborate, incongruous, and often worthless details, knew how to evoke one sublime and harmonious whole. If you desire, my brethren, to “read sermons in stones,” look upon the ancient and eloquent stones of your venerable cathedral, and you will find there is not a groining, a mullion, or a tracery which is not full of mystic significance, and in which the initiated eye does not read some Masonic enigma, some ghostly counsel, or some inarticulate summons to confession, to penitence, and prayer. What religious master-minds conceived its glories, what architects planned, what skilful workmen wrought on foliated capital, or stately column, or lofty arch, or oriel window, or cruciform plan, or central elevation, or lateral chapel, tradition saith not: but there your magnificent cathedral stands, and has stood for well nigh four hundred years, the pride, the grace, the glory of your ancient city. (Applause.)

P.G.M. Lord Sherborne, in reply, briefly congratulated the brethren on the completion of the reredos, which he said will reflect credit upon the masonic body for ages to come.

In proposing “The Health of D.P.G.M., Bro. Newmarch,” the Chairman said there was not a more worthy and thorough Mason in the province and to his constant and indefatigable efforts they were very largely indebted for the result which had that day been achieved.

Bro. G. F. Newmarch, who had a very cordial reception, paid a general compliment to the officers of the province, and declared that to the Secretary and Treasurer, and to Bro. Nelson Foster was due the greatest meed of praise. Masons had in this work shewn the world that Masonic philanthropy is not limited to their own Craft, and that Masonic charity knows no bound but that of prudence. He wished thus publicly to acknowledge the very great kindness and courtesy shown by the Dean and Chapter in this matter, in seconding all their efforts. They were entirely indebted to the Dean for the ceremony of that day, which originated from his desire to do especial honour to the Masonic Craft. Masons were not the only donors to the Cathedral restoration nor had they desired in any way to magnify the importance of their contribution to the noble work; but the Dean and the Cathedral authorities seemed determined to single them out for special honour. (Applause.)

P.G.M. Lord Sherborne proposed the health of the Chairman, in highly complimentary terms, with thanks to the brethren of the two lodges by whom he and his fellow guests had been so handsomely entertained.

The Chairman expressed his deep sense of the high honour and fraternal courtesy evinced by those who had placed him in that position, the practical movement for the reredos having originated in the Royal Gloucestershire Lodge while he was in office. He joined in the general congratulation on the successful completion of the work, and said that was a proud day for the Province of Gloucester and for all its citizens, and he was especially pleased to remind them that the work was not only completed but paid for. (Applause.)

The toast of “The Provincial Grand Officers, Past and Present,” was acknowledged by Bro. Jeffs, Junior Grand Warden; Bros. Palmer, Trinder, and Gwinnett.

“The Health of the P.G. Chap., Rev. C. Raikes Davy,” was cordially drunk, with thanks for his admirable sermon.

“The Guests of the Evening” were represented by the Rev. Rev. Bowles, who specially congratulated Bro. Redfern on the fame which must accrue from his work.

Bro. the Rev. G. Roberts, P.P.G.C., responded in an eloquent speech to the toast of “The Visitors,” and spoke warmly of the noble work that day inaugurated, adding that he should like to show the distinguished visitors present the Masons' Square in the cathedral which he had discovered. Upon the reverend brother taking his seat amidst loud applause, there were calls for the Rev. C. J. Martyn, P.G. Chaplain of England, Rector of Long Melford, Suffolk, who responded in a humorous speech, but deprecated being classed among the visitors, as he was a member of both the Gloucester lodges. He said that he only hoped that his friend, Bro. Emra Holmes, P.G. Reg., Suffolk, whose name was well-known in Masonry, would when he went back to Suffolk, encourage the Masons there to present a reredos to his church at Long Melford, and emulate the example of the Masons of Gloucester. (Laughter and applause.) Bro. Emra Holmes said, that he felt constrained to rise, after the remarks of Bro. Martyn, to express the great pleasure he had felt in being a witness of the magnificent spectacle that day exhibited. The brethren had been engaged in a great work, a work which would redound to their honour. Some of the brethren present might know that he had elsewhere strongly advocated the restoration of churches as amongst the principal objects in which Masons might worthily engage. They would remember that our cathedrals and churches were erected by our ancestors, the travelling Freemasons of the Middle Ages, who were Catholics. In these days we, who were Catholics in a truer sense than they, though we could not help with our hands to restore these noble edifices to their pristine beauty, might yet with our money help in the noble work of restoration. He begged to thank them very warmly on behalf of the Masons of Suffolk for the courtesy and hospitality displayed towards the visitors.

Bro. Inskip, P.S.G.W., Somerset, also responded, and advocated the cause of the Masonic Charities, other toasts followed, and the brethren after enjoying one of the best Masonic banquets we have ever sat down to in the provinces, separated at a late hour.

A deserved compliment was paid to Bro. Capt. Foster for his arrangement and marshalling of the procession. The proceedings at the banquet were throughout of a most harmonious and enjoyable character.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE.

As already intimated in our narrative of the proceedings, the R.W. the Provincial Grand Master, Lord Sherborne, held a Lodge at the Bell Hotel, at twelve o'clock, which was numerously attended. His Lordship presided, and was supported by distinguished brethren in the Craft, including the Rev. Dr. Bowles, the Provincial Grand Master of Herefordshire. Considering the business of the day before them, the proceedings were but of ordinary routine, and the whole of the officers were re-appointed. Bro. Redfern, the sculptor of the reredos, received a collar and jewel as a mark of deserved merit. The following is a list of the officers:—Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. G. F. Newmarch; Senior Warden, Bro. Capt. J. E. Dorington; Junior Warden, Bro. Henry Jeffs; Registrar, Bro. Gaisford; Chaplain, Bro. Rev. C. R. Davy; Secretary, Bro. E. W. Trinder; Treas., Bro. T. G. Palmer; Senior Deacon, Bro. Samuel Green, (Cheltenham College); Junior Deacon, Bro. W. Warman; Superintendents of Works, Bros. Ashbee and Redfern; Director of Cers.

Bro. Vizard; Sword Bearer, Bro. Bennett; Pursuivant, Bro. Rennie Powell; Organist, Bro. E. G. Woodward; Tyler, Bro. Wiggins.

Among the visiting brethren who attended Prov. G. Lodge, besides a numerous gathering of the two city lodges, were:—W. Gibbs, P.M., P.G.O., Rectitude, Corsham; T. R. Lord, P.M., P.G.D., Rectitude; A. Ludlow; C. H. Bush, S.D., Tyndall; F. W. Dowding, Tyndall; T. Mace, Prince of Wales; G. W. Colleen, J. W., Sympathy; T. Cadle, Royal Forest; Lawson, P.M., Concord Lodge; H. Cribb, P.G. J. W., Herts.; F. G. Powell, P.P.G.P., Bristol; W. P. Hadley, D.C., Faith and Friendship; J. Arthur, Unity; John Bullock, P.M., D.C., G.H., Prince of Wales; J. W. Hunt, Prince of Wales; Edward Vining, J. W., St. Marks; Brook Kaye, Foundation Lodge; Henry Basevi, W.P.G.M. of Bengal; R. H. Bigsby, P.G.C., St. Kew; W. H. Davies, W.M., P.G.R. Somerset; Rural Philanthropic Lodge. There were numerous other brethren whose names were not subscribed to the roll-book, but amongst them we noticed General Munbee, Major Hartley, Bros. Kirby, Pigott, E. T. Payne, Capt. Phayre, J. E. Gill, Llewellyn, White, Osborne Dauncey, Brooks, W. Thomas, J. Hearne, Gatle, Honey, Commander Townsend, Lord Pearson, and others. The minutes of proceedings were read by Bro. Palmer, in the temporary absence of the Secretary, the Secretary receiving a cordial recognition of his services in connection with the reredos fund. Oral reports were received from various lodges in the Province, and these were mostly of a very satisfactory character, showing that Masonry is receiving numerous and important additions, although the advice of Grand Master the Earl of Ripon is being followed, and due circumspection is observed as to the reception of candidates for Masonic honours. A sum of thirty guineas was voted to be distributed among the chief Masonic charities, leaving still an adequate balance to meet contingencies. The proceedings lasted an hour, and Prov. G. Lodge was closed in regular form.

Besides the lodges mentioned above, brethren were also present from Unity Lodge, Warwick; the Stonleigh Lodge, Kenilworth; the Provincial Grand Lodge, Leicestershire; and others from lodges in Oxfordshire and South Wales. All the members wore crape rosettes, as mourning for the late Earl of Zetland, K.G., M.W. Past Grand Master. The high appreciation shown by the Masons of the beautiful sculpture of Bro. Redfern was, we understand, shown by the graceful act of conferring the purple upon that gentleman—an unusual circumstance, as he is not the Master of a lodge, and but a young Mason.

The following were among the guests who partook of luncheon at the Deanery, previous to the service in the Cathedral:—The Mayor and Mrs. Robinson; the Lord Bishop; Lord Sherborne; Rev. J. J. Bowles, D.D., LL.D.; the Hon. Misses Price; Sir M. H. Beach; Sir D. Wedderburn; Lady and Misses Wedderburne; Rev. Sir J. H. C. Seymour; Mr. W. H. K. Wait, M.P.; Canon and Mrs. Lysons; Mrs. and Miss Lucy; Rev. C. R. and Miss Davy; Dr. Evans and Mrs. Pyrke; Mrs. Canon Harvey; Rev. K. V. and Mrs. Law; Mrs. George Law; Mr. Newmarch and Miss Ellett; Mr., Mrs. and Miss Palmer; Mr. Trinder; Mr. Marling; Mr., Mrs. and Miss Crawley; the Precentor of Bristol; Rev. J. P. Clark; Rev. I. Bowman; Rev. Donald Spence; Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds; Mr. and Mrs. Knight; Mr. and Mrs. Innell; Mr. Nicks; Mr. and Mrs. Fryer; Mr. and Mrs. Kiddiford; Mr. Redfern, architect of the reredos.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—This cooling medicine has the happiest effect, when the blood is over-heated and a tendency to inflammatory action is set up in the system, one pill taken shortly before dinner does away with the indigestion, fulness and flatulency, indications of a weak stomach or disordered liver. A few Pills taken at bed-time act as alteratives and aperients, they not only relieve the bowels, but regulate every organ connected with them, overcomes all acrid humours, and encourages a free supply of all the secretions essential to our well-being. Holloway's Pills thoroughly cleanse and perfectly regulate the circulation, and beget a feeling of comfort in hot climates and hot temperatures which is most desirable for the preservation of health.—ADVT.

LAYING THE CORNER STONE OF ST. AUGUSTINE'S CHURCH, HALIFAX.

The event of the week for the inhabitants of the north-westerly portion of the borough of Halifax was the laying of the corner stone of the intended new church of St. Augustine's, on Tuesday afternoon. It had been looked forward to with great interest, not only by those who will form the future congregation, but by the whole of the churchmen of the town, as was fully evidenced by the large gathering that took place around the stone. A spacious gallery accommodated many hundreds of ladies and gentlemen, whilst thousands of others witnessed the ceremony from the upper side of the ground and from various eminences adjacent. For more than five years services have been regularly held in the spacious schools, and efforts have been repeatedly made to secure a church that would be suitable for the requirements of one of the most rapidly increasing districts in the borough. The incumbent designate, the Rev. S. W. Darwin Fox, since he took charge of the district, has laboured assiduously for the accomplishment of this object, and by the liberality of Colonel Akroyd, M.P., and other churchmen, and the contributions of the members of the congregation, the new church has at length been fairly inaugurated. The building has been designed by Mr. Richard Coad, architect, of London, and the style of architecture is to be Gothic of the latter part of the 13th century. The nave of the church will be 83 feet in length, and 27 feet in width; and the aisles 11 feet 6 inches wide, with slightly projecting transepts, 21 feet wide. The church is to be 41 feet long, by 23 feet wide, with an apsidal east end, having chapels and vestry on either side. A tower, 21 feet square, is to be placed on the south-west corner of the south aisle. The material of the body of the church will be of hammer-dressed stone, from the quarries of Northowram; and the dressings will be of Ringby stone. The internal facings of the walls are to be lined with red and white bricks, in patterns. The roof will be of stained deal, framed with panels. The vestry roof will also be of the same material, and all the seats will be open. It is proposed to have lofty windows in the clerestory, as being suitable for a town church, and to ensure sufficient light in the nave. The nave, aisles, and transepts are only proposed to be erected at present, at a cost of £6,500, leaving the chancel and tower until sufficient funds are received for their erection.

At a very short notice, the members of the local lodges of Freemasons consented to be present, and take part in the ceremony. They met in the Freemasons' Hall, soon after one o'clock, and having assumed full regalia, marched in procession to St. Augustine's school. Mr. J. Fisher, P.M. of the Probity Lodge, directed the proceedings, and there were present about 50 Masons, representing the Lodges of Probity 61, St. James's 448, and De Warren 1208, Halifax; the Saville Lodge 1321, Elland; the Ryburn Lodge 1283, Sowerby bridge; and Prince George 308. At St. Augustine's school a procession was formed, consisting of all who were to take part in the ceremony. Amongst those present were Col. Akroyd, M.P., who had kindly consented to lay the stone, Col. Holdsworth, Major Waterhouse, M.P.; the Right Rev. Bishop Ryan; the Rev. W. J. Coghlan, Vicar of St. James's, Halifax; the Rev. W. H. Wawn, of Coley; the Rev. J. Palmour, Holy Trinity; the Rev. S. W. D. Fox, and the Rev. H. T. J. Lomax, St. Augustine's; the Rev. F. H. Roughton, St. James's; the Rev. C. R. Holmes, All Souls; the Rev. G. Bagott, Lightcliffe; the Rev. J. Moore, St. Mary's; the Rev. J. G. Rice, Bradford; the Rev. K. P. Manners, Bradford; the Rev. W. L. Morgan, Bradshaw; and other clergymen; Mr. W. H. Rawson, Mr. H. A. Norris, Mr. H. C. McCrea, Mr. J. R. Ingram, and others. The weather, which during the morning had been threatening, was fortunately very fine during the proceedings, and the sun shone out brightly upon the very animated scene. The clergy having taken their seats on the platform, and all being in readiness, the usual service of the Church of England for the laying of the foundation-stone of a church was commenced by the Rev. S. W. D. Fox, and continued by the Rev. Bishop Ryan, after which a hymn was sung. Bro. W. Tasker, P.M., Probity, then placed in a cavity under the corner-stone a bottle containing the local papers, the Yorkshire Post, and some documents relating to the Church, with coins of the realm. Over this was placed a brass plate on which was very neatly engraved the following inscription:—"This corner-stone of St. Augustine's Church was laid on the 3rd day of June, 1873, in the name of the holy, blessed, and glorious Trinity, by Edward Akroyd, of Bank Field, Halifax, Esq., M.P., merchant and worsted manufacturer, Honorary Colonel of the 4th West York Rifle Volunteers, and Deputy-Lieutenant and a Justice of the Peace of the West Riding of the County of York; S. W. D. Fox, M.A., incumbent, Richard Coad, architect." A silver trowel, supplied by Bro. Manoh Rhodes, of Bradford, and bearing the inscription, "Presented to Colonel Akroyd, M.P., on the occasion of laying the foundation-stone of St. Augustine's Church, Halifax, Whit Tuesday, June 3rd 1873," and a handsome mallet, were then presented by Mr. Hitchen and handed by Mr. Coad, the architect, to the gallant colonel, who spread the mortar, and the stone being lowered into its place, he said, "Thus and thus, and thus, in the faith of Jesus Christ, we place this corner-stone, in the name of God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost."

The Masonic ceremonies then followed:—Bro. Menzies, J.W. of Probity, tested the stone with the plumb-rule; Bro. Dyson, W.M., of the Savile Lodge, proved the stone with the level; Bro. Frank Crossley, P.M., of the Ryburn Lodge, proved the stone with the square. Bro. Wilkinson, P.M., St. James's Lodge, presented the mallet to Bro. John Fisher, P.M., Probity, who declared the stone duly laid. Bro. Jessop, W.M., St. James's, then scattered the corn; Bro. Marshall, W.M., Ryburn Lodge, the wine; after which the Rev. J. Hope, P.M., Probity, received the cup containing the oil from Bro. F. Whitaker, P.M., De Warren (who had carried it in the procession), and poured the liquid upon the stone, and, in accordance with the rites and usages of the ancient fraternity, the following words were spoken:—"These elements we have used as emblems of abundance and plenty, and may it please the all-bounteous Creator of the universe to pour down continually on this place and neighbourhood abundance of every spiritual and temporal blessing." Bro. Fisher then striking the stone three times, said, "May the liberal founders of this building witness its completion in joy; and may this work of charity and love redound to the honour and happiness of themselves and all near and dear to them. And, finally, may the work thus favourably begun be continued in peace—without accident or injury to life or limb of any one engaged in its construction; and may the cap-stone be speedily added in place, and the fabric itself become to all who worship within its hallowed walls the House of God, the Gate of Heaven."

The Chaplain (the Rev. B. Town, of Pellon), then offered prayer.

Bishop Ryan was then called upon, and said that, in the absence of the Venerable Archdeacon Musgrave, he had been asked to make a few remarks. He believed that all who engaged in a work like that had reason to feel strong encouragement. There never was a period in the history of England when there had been such a wave of church building as had been for the last quarter of a century, and was passing over the country at present, and he hoped that if St. Augustine's Church did not have the full flood of the movements, many little wavelets would flow towards it. (Applause). In this they had encouragement, and another point of encouragement was that when they got to the position of progress at which they were that day, they could look back and see from what small beginnings they had arisen. From what he knew of the parish, he understood that two devoted curates had tried hard to do something in a small cottage, then Mr. Fox was appointed, and a little larger building was procured. Then they erected the large and fine schools, and now they had arrived at that point—that was the laying the foundation stone of the church. He was sure that from the spirit of the Churchmen of Halifax they would not let the matter rest there, but would go on right to the end. As to the church not being finished at once, as he had heard some talk about, he hoped that the Bishop of the diocese would soon have come to Halifax to consecrate the finished building. Halifax was increasing in that direction, and since the present minister was appointed 2,000 persons had been added to the population of the district. He hoped that the spirit of those who had to do with the building would be stirred up to do work in the cause and the house of God. (Applause.) In conclusion, he said that although their worthy Archdeacon was not present with them in person, he knew from what he had said to him that morning that he was heartily with them in spirit.

Col. Akroyd, M.P., said that although he had prepared a few observations to offer on that occasion; yet for many reasons his heart had been too full to say anything. As one of the promoters of the schools and church, however, he had been prevailed upon to say a few words. He was sure they would all agree with him that they were greatly indebted to the Freemasons for the imposing effect of the ceremony of that day. Freemasons, he believed, were always in the right places when laying the foundation-stones of public buildings; but especially were they in the right place when laying the first stone in the erection of a temple dedicated to the living God. Alluding to the history of Freemasonry, they could not forget that they were originally a guild of architects, and that we were indebted for those glorious architectural beauties of the Middle Ages to a wandering body of Freemasons, who were really members of the Craft, until in the time of Sir Christopher Wren they first became a friendly society. He was grateful to them for their presence on that occasion, and though he was not himself a Mason, he could on that account perhaps speak more freely in their favour than if he had been a member of the Order. Referring to the immediate object of their assembling there that day, he congratulated his friend, the Rev. S. W. D. Fox, on that auspicious day. He could not forget that for more than five years that gentleman had been working uphill, trying as it were to build up the foundation of that congregation. More than five years had elapsed since these schools, which they had before them, had been opened for public services. These schools were only the first of a series of ecclesiastical buildings intended to be erected by the congregation of the church, of which they now laid the first stone. The promoters, of whom he was glad to reckon himself as one were delighted to arrive at that stage of their proceedings. The parish of St. Augustine could not be formed until the church of which the first stone was now laid was opened for public services, and appealing to those he saw around him—the future parishioners of St. Augustine's—he hoped they would agree with him that it was a great day for the inhabitants of that locality. Without seeking to raise in the slightest degree any feelings of rivalry between the various bodies of Christians—he must say that the great advantage of the Church of England was that it supplemented the voluntary efforts of all other bodies. In the able charge recently delivered by the Bishop of Ripon his lordship made an allusion to the parochial system, and said:—"I believe there never has been a system better contrived to promote the interests of true religion and the best welfare of the community than the parochial system of the Church of England." The truth of that remark had been illustrated in a neighbouring church—the parish of St. Mary's. They all knew that in about two years the Rev. Mr. Judd, contrived to attract all the people to him in a manner which he did not think was equalled in any other parish in this neighbourhood (applause). The secret of that success was due to the cordial and kindly union which subsisted between the clergy and laity. If from any cause that union was wanting, then the parochial system or any other system must be a complete failure (hear, hear). In the same charge the bishop remarked that the parochial system needed development. His lordship was against very large parishes being left in the hands of one incumbent, and was in favour of overgrown parishes being subdivided, so as to put an end to the anomaly of their being only one incumbent, for a parish with 15,000 or 20,000 inhabitants. The original parish of St. James's (from which St. Augustine's was taken) had presented that anomaly, as without St. Augustine's it numbered 17,000 souls, and this new parish of the Rev. Mr. Fox, already amounted to 5,000 souls—quite a numerous family enough for the rev. gentlemen to look after (laughter). He thought he could look hopefully forward to the future of St. Augustine's, because he recognised in his rev. friend the same earnestness which marked the career of the Rev. Mr. Judd—(hear, hear)—and he trusted that God's spirit might be shed on the future congregation of St. Augustine's, and that, in the words of the last collect, "The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, the love of God, and the fellowship of the Holy Ghost be with them all evermore" (applause).

Col. Holdsworth said he did not know that he could make any additions to what had been said by Bishop Ryan and Col. Akroyd: The words that had been spoken by them would no doubt encourage those connected with that place, and interest them in the work. He had too much faith in the liberality of the Church people of Halifax to think that they would let the clergyman of St. Augustine's struggle on for another five years before the church was completed. He was glad to know that they had that day begun a building which would be equal to any church in that district; and he called on all of them to give a helping hand to a work so nobly begun. He sincerely trusted that the church might be erected without further delay, and that the necessary pecuniary assistance would be freely forthcoming (cheers).

Major Waterhouse, M.P., said he had intended to have been a silent spectator; but he could not avoid the opportunity of expressing his gratification on that auspicious occasion. He congratulated Col. Akroyd that he had been spared to lay the foundation of a second church in his native town. He also congratulated the Rev. Mr. Fox, and trusted that what they saw that day indicated a spirit that they were not about to leave a fabric in debt for several years. He hoped not only those in the district, but also those out and around it, would lend a helping hand to the consummation of the work. He also congratulated the Masons on their joining in the ceremony, and regretted that he could not participate in the ceremonies they had gone through. He concluded by expressing an earnest hope that the church would soon be completed, and that the work would be safely accomplished. (Cheers.)

The 122nd Psalm was then sung, after which the concluding collects were read by the Rev. J. Lomax and the Incumbent. Upon the call of Major Waterhouse, three hearty cheers were given for the success of the undertaking, and three more for the Rev. S. W. D. Fox, which concluded this part of the proceedings. The Freemasons then re-formed in procession, and walked to their hall, where in the evening they partook of a banquet. During the proceedings the choir of St. Augustine's, assisted by the Sunday School scholars, who were conducted by Mr. Joseph Sugden, rendered good service in the musical portion of the ceremony.

At five in the evening tea was provided in the school-room, where 800 persons sat down, the arrangements being effectively carried out. The public meeting commenced at half-past seven, and during the evening a terrific thunderstorm burst, the spacious room being twice filled with the electric light, which was of very blue colour, causing the assembly to start and give a subdued expression of alarm. The chair was occupied by the Rev. S. W. D. Fox, in the absence of Col. Akroyd, M.P., who was unable to be present. There were also present on the platform Mr. F. S. Powell, M.P., the Revs. W. Aitken (Everton), J. A. Coghlan, J. G. Rice, R. Prowde, Mr. F. Darwin (near Otley), Mr. S. Smith, Mr. Champney, Mr. Coad (the architect), Mr. D. Hitchin, &c.

CONSECRATION OF A NEW LODGE AT JAMAICA.

The consecration of the Seville Lodge (No. 530) under the Scotch Constitution, took place recently at St. Ann's Bay, Jamaica, West Indies.

The following brethren assembled at the Court House in the town, and being formed in procession under the directorship of Bro. John Hoyes, Grand Director of Ceremonies of Provincial Grand Lodge of Scotland in Jamaica, the procession moved to the church, headed by a band of music playing the "Masonic March."

The following was the order of procession:—
Bro. David Carvalho, jun., Grand Marshal.
Music.

Bro. Jas. Atkins, Athole Union, 383, and Bro. Wm. Lewis, 367, Friendly, Grand Tylers.
John Hoyes, Grand Director of Ceremonies.
H. E. Delliser and William Armour, Stewards with rods.

Charles Royes, jun. Banner. A. J. Hart.
Stewards with rods.

Corn, borne by Wor. Alex. E. Bourke, Glenlyon Lodge, No. 367.

Wine, borne by Wor. Daniel C. D. Souza.

Oil, borne by Wor. Michael Solomon, Master Elect, Seville 530.

Grand Bible Bearer, Bro. George Magnus, Prov. Grand Lodge.

Geo. Roe. Banner—Faith. Wm. R. Phillips.
Grand Senior Deacons, Bros. E. N. Hant and A. N. Sutherland.

Grand Chaplain, Bro. Rev. N. Lechmere Ellis.
Grand Treasurer, Bro. Alex. M. Lake, 367.
Grand Secretary, Bro. A. Noah.

Bro. W. Peat. Banner—Hope. Bro. H. Fray.
Grand Steward, Bro. James Duncan.
Grand Senior Warden, Bro. A. T. Kidd.

Grand Junior Warden, S. H. Watson, 1377,
Prov. Grand Lodge.

Right Wor. Samuel Constantine Bourke, Prov. Grand Master G. L. Scotland.

On arriving at the church the order of the procession was reversed, the brethren marched up the aisle and took their seats immediately opposite the altar.

The morning service having been performed, the Chaplain then delivered an excellent and appropriate sermon, which was listened to with deep earnestness by a large congregation, who had gathered there to witness the proceedings. A collection was made at the end of the service, which was handed over to the rector of the parish to be distributed among the poor.

The procession again formed in previous order, and marched to the new lodge, where the ceremony of consecration and dedication was proceeded with, after which the following brethren were installed as officers by the Prov. Grand Master:—

Wor. Michael Solomon	... W. Master
" Alex. McLake	... Dep. Master.
Bro. E. N. Hart	... S. Warden.
" D. Carvalho	... J. Warden.
" A. Noah	... Treasurer.
" Albert J. Hart	... Secretary.
" Geo. Roe	... S. Deacon.
" A. N. Sutherland	... J. Deacon.
" W. R. Phillips	... Inner Guard.
" Richard Watson	... Tyler.

The lodge having closed its labours, the brethren repaired to the Court House, where a sumptuous repast was provided, to which ample justice was done. The following toasts were proposed and responded to in the true Masonic spirit. The room was neatly decorated with flags and evergreens.

Several brethren of Sister Lodges were present, as well as clergymen and officials of the parish, and last, though not least a good number of the fair sex, for whom accomodation had been prepared, and if we were to judge by their smiles they seemed to have taken a lively interest in all that was going on.

The brethren separated at about 10 p.m., apparently well satisfied with the proceedings of the day.

We may add, that the Seville Lodge promises to be a very flourishing and useful lodge, having for its Master one whom the brethren have the greatest confidence in, and respect for.

The total amount of the sale of the Perkins Library, at Hanworth-park, by Messrs. Gadsden, Ellis, and Co., was upwards of £26,000. The Biblia Sacra Latina, first edition of the Holy Scriptures, and the first book executed with metal types by the inventors of the art of printing, a splendid copy, printed upon vellum, Moguntiae, per Gutenberg and Fust, 1450-55, sold for £3,400. The same work, printed on paper, a matchless copy, fetched £2,690.

Her Majesty has forwarded a donation of one hundred guineas towards the Metropolitan Hospital Sunday Fund.

A stained-glass window, to the memory of the officers and men who perished through the foundering of her Majesty's turret-ship Captain, was placed in the north transept of Westminster Abbey on Tuesday.

CROSBY'S BALSMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

DISEASES OF THE
LUNGS AND AIR-VESSELS.

CROSBY'S BALSMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."
This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsey, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist Scarborough.

 Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had Gratis of all Chemists.

YOUNG'S ARNICATED CORN AND

are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d. and 1s. per box. May be had of most chemists.

Observe the trade mark.—HY—without which none are genuine be sure and ask for YOUNG'S.

QUINTESCENCE OF JAMAICA GINGER

and CAMOMILE.
WILKINSON'S Preparation of Ginger and Camomile has long been deservedly known as an excellent domestic medicine. It is a most efficient Stomachic Tonic, and the best remedy for Flatulency and disorders arising from impaired digestion, and is not affected by climate.

No European in India or tropical climates should be without it. In one-eighth, quarter, and half-pint bottles.

SARSAPARILLA.

WILKINSON'S ESSENCE, OR FLUID

EXTRACT OF RED JAMAICA SARSAPARILLA, prescribed by the Faculty for PURIFYING THE BLOOD, DEBILITY, LIVER COMPLAINTS, and freeing the system from effects of Mercury. Exclusively used in India and the Colonies as a prevention to Tropical diseases.

"Superior preparations that may always be relied upon."—Sir Astley Cooper.
"We are in every respect satisfied with it."—Lancet.
"We recommend yours as the best."—Medical Review.

In Quarter, Half, and Pint Bottles.
CAUTION.—Spurious and injurious preparations are offered to the public. See that Bottle and Label have the name and Address, "T. Wilkinson, late Wilkinson, Bridge, and Co., No. 270 Regent-street, London."

WHITMORE'S STOMACHIC DINNER PILLS.

No Pill is so efficacious in promoting digestion, strengthening the Stomach, correcting acidity, preventing or removing Headache Giddiness &c. arising from a Costive Habit, Debilitated Stomach or Torpid Liver.

They require no change of diet, and those of the most delicate constitution can take them with safety.

Taken as an adjunct with Wilkinson's Sarsaparilla with the greatest success.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

LEBANON LODGE (No. 1326).—The regular meeting of this well-established lodge was held on Saturday, June 21st, at the Red Lion Hotel, Hampton. Bro. F. Walters, P.M., Sec., opened the lodge at the specified hour. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Ballots were unanimous in favour of the admission of Bros. J. C. Jessel, 414; H. J. Green, 1275; R. W. Williams, 1275; and C. W. Williams, 1275, as joining members; and for Messrs. J. Hurst, J. Morrison, and J. R. Craft, as candidates for initiation. Bro. J. T. Moss, P.G.S.D. Middlesex, W.M., initiated Mr. J. R. Craft; Bro. F. Walters initiated Messrs. Hurst and Morrison into Freemasonry. He then passed Bros. G. S. Streeton, B. Mayer, P. From, H. Jensen, and H. W. F. Fellows to the second degree; and raised Bros. G. Shott, J. Wallis, W. N. White, J. A. Thompson (107), F. O. Roberts (1309), and W. Simmons (201), to the third degree. The work was well done. The elections proved unanimous for—W. Hammond, P.M., S.D., as Worshipful Master for the ensuing year; S. Wickens, P.M., as Treas. (re-elected); J. Gilbert, Tyler. Bro. W. Hammond, P.M., S.D., the W.M. elect, agreed to accept the office of Steward to represent the lodge at the Girls' School Festival in May. Several candidates for initiation, and brethren for joining, were proposed, which closed the business. There were present, besides those named.—Bros. H. A. Dubois, S.W.; J. W. Baldwin, J.W.; J. Gilbert, J.D.; J. Hayward, I.G.; H. Potter, P.M., W.S.; J. Hammond, P.M.; J. C. Woodrow, P.M.; J. E. H. Ross, E. Hopwood, P.M., C. W. Fox, E. H. Thiellay, R. Laurence, C. Heitzmann, W. Vine, and others. The visitors were Bros. T. Dand, P.G.S.B. Devonshire, P.M., 39; J. Sims, 834, and others. Refreshment followed labour.

LANCASTER.—Duke of Lancaster Lodge (No. 1353).—The regular meeting of this flourishing lodge was held on Wednesday, the 11th inst., at the Masonic Rooms, Athenæum, when the W.M., Bro. J. Barrow, presided, and was supported by Bro. Bell, S.W.; Bro. Heald, J.W.; Bro. J. Acton, S.D., Acting Secretary; Bro. Williams, Acting S.D.; Bro. Coulon, J.D.; Bro. Wolfenden, I.G.; and a goodly number of other brethren and visitors. Two brothers were passed, two initiated, and one candidate proposed. After other business, the brethren proceeded to the election of a W.M., Treasurer, and Tyler for the ensuing year. The ballot was taken in the usual form. Bro. Bell, S.W., was unanimously elected W.M., and we congratulate Bro. Bell on his elevation to so distinguished a position. The Treasurer, Bro. Holmes, was re-elected.

Royal Arch.

BRADFORD.—Chapter of Moravia (No. 387).—The usual meeting of this chapter was held at the Masonic Hall, Shipley, on the 13th inst., Comp. J. Gaunt, M.E.Z., presiding, the other officers for the year being Comp. Wm. H. Holmes, H.; N. Walker, J.; Fred. W. Booth, S.E.; J. R. Riley, S.N.; F. Murgatroyd, P.S.; Chas. Roebuck, and G. G. Atkinson, Ass. Secs.; Thomas Denby, Treas.; and J. J. Holmes, Janitor. The business and working of the chapter was gone through in that admirable style which always characterises Comp. Grant, after which he invited the visitors and all other companions to supper, which was excellent, and well served in the refreshment-room. The visitors present were Comp. Wm. Beanland, M.E.Z., and William W. Barlow, of the Chapter of Charity, 302, and John Beanland, of the Chapter of Sincerity, 600. We are glad to hear that much new blood has been infused into this ancient chapter, and that it is in a fair way of again assuming its legitimate position in the provinces.

Scotland.

GLASGOW.—Lodge St. Mungo (No. 27) held its usual monthly meeting on the 19th at 213, Buchanan-street, G. Sinclair, R.W.M., in the chair; D. Butler, S.W.; J. Stilter, J.W. The lodge having been raised to the third degree, Bros. J. Lawrence and A. Gregory were admitted, and a request having been preferred from St. John's No. 3 Bis., Bro. J. Adams of that lodge was also admitted to take this degree, which at the request of the R.W.M. was worked by Bros. Bain, P.M. 103; McDonald, R.W.M. of 73, acting as S.D., the work was admirably performed. At the conclusion of the ceremonies the Master intimated that they were honoured with a large deputation from the committee to receive the American brethren, and called on each to address the lodge. The object in view was then urged on the notice of the members—Bros. B. R. Bell, No. 0; G. B. Adams, No. 0; R. Fraser, 27; G. W. Wheeler, 73; J. Porteous, 360; and J. Johnson, 419. The lodge was then called to refreshment, when, after the usual loyal and Craft toasts had been duly honoured, the R.W.M. gave the health of Bro. F. Gadsby, of 260, Northampton, who, in reply, expressed the pleasure it had given him, as an English Mason to renew his visit to St. Mungo Lodge, where he had been so kindly received on a former occasion, also his gratification of witnessing such excellent working, at the same time regretting that there should exist so much difference in the modes of working on different sides of the Tweed. The toast of the "Visiting Brethren" was then responded to by Bro. Adam, of Mother Kilwinning, and Bro. Stracker, of 419, as representing the oldest and youngest lodges present. Bro. Johnson proposed the "Masonic Press." Bro. G. W. Wheeler, in his reply, while regretting with Bro. Gadsby the variation in the modes of working in the two countries yet, said that by the aid of the press, that, as well as other anomalies might be cured. Bro. Wheeler proposed "Prosperity to St. Mungo Lodge and long life to the R.W.M." The visitors, who at this stage of the proceedings equalled the members, having duly honoured this, Bro. Sinclair replied in suitable terms, and the Tyler's toast brought this pleasant evening to an agreeable termination.

GLASGOW.—The St. Mungo Encampment had their usual monthly meeting on June 16th. There was a large assemblage of the Knights present on the dais, the M.N.C., R. Bell; B. Butler, P.C.; Capt. Shanks, 18° P.E.C.; G. W. Wheeler, R; and J. Chalmers, M.D. The first business was, conferring the honour of Knighthood upon J. Chalmers, M.D. Further arrangements were then made for the reception of the American Fraters. The whole of the Sir Knights present appeared in the new clothing supplied by Sir Knt. Kenning, with which they were so well pleased, that they ordered an additional twenty, so as to be able to supply all the members who may wish to appear in the City Hall on the 27th. The case of the widow of a deceased Knight was brought before the Encampment, and her immediate necessities relieved by a small grant, and the Encampment closed in peace and harmony.

SURREY MASONIC HALL COMPANY.—A weekly contemporary states that Bro. Edwin Lillifant, public accountant, has been appointed auditor to the above company. The name should be Sillifant.

PROVINCIAL GRAND MARK LODGE OF SOMERSETSHIRE.

Some few months ago there was a very general opinion prevalent among the Mark Brethren of the Province, that a proper time had arrived when a new Mark Master Masons' Lodge might with propriety be formed for the brethren at Yeovil, accordingly as time advanced this feeling became so popular in the district, that it was at length determined to put this expressed wish of the brethren into a practical form, by presenting a petition to the M.W.G.M.M.M., Bro. the Rev. G. R. Portal, praying for a warrant of constitution to open a new Mark Lodge at Yeovil, under the title of "William-de-Irwin" Lodge so named as a just compliment to the very W. Deputy P.G. Mark Master, Bro. Capt. F. G. Irwin, of the affectionate admiration of his many striking virtues as a just and upright man and true Mason, whose courteous manner, and willingness at all times to serve a brother or friend, have endeared him to all, whose privilege it is to know him. The M.W.G.M.M.M., responded to the petition by at once issuing his warrant and the R. W. the Prov. G. M.M. Master, Bro. the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, fixed Thursday, June 12th, for the consecration of the William-de Irwin Mark Lodge No. 162 on the roll of the G. M. Lodge of England. His lordship honoured the promoters of this new lodge by holding at the same place and on the same day his annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Mark Lodge, accordingly a very numerous assemblage of Grand Officers, Prov. Grand Officers, and other Mark brethren of the province, who were anxious to testify the high esteem in which they held his Lordship, mustered in strong numbers. His lordship's many public duties preventing him being present, the day's programme was efficiently carried out by the respected Deputy Prov. G. M.M.M., Bro. Capt. Irwin.

Shortly after high twelve the V.W.D.P.G.M., accompanied by the Prov. Grand Mark Officers, entered the lodge room in procession, and the Prov. Grand Lodge was then opened in solemn form.

There were present, Bro. Capt. F.G. Irwin, Deputy Prov. Grand Master; Major General Gore Boland Munbee (F.P.) P.M. 102, and P. Prov. S. G. Mark Warden of Somerset; F. Vizard, P.M., Prov. S.G. Mark Warden; W. S. Gillard, P.M., Prov. Grand Senior Mark Warden R. C. Else, W.M. of Lodge 156, Prov. G.M.O.; W. H. Davies, Prov. G.S.O.; Benjamin Cox, W.M. designate of Mark Lodge 162, Prov. G. Secretary; A. W. Butter, W.M. elect of Mark Lodge 128, Prov. S.G. Deacon; S. Jones, S.W. of Lodge 102, Prov. J.G. Deacon; B. Atwell, Prov. G. Sword Bearer; W. L. Gaskell, Prov. G. Organist; J. Fry, Prov. G. Steward; Himbury, and Skinner, P.G. Tylers; Bros. A. W. Scott, P.M. and Grand Steward, Grand Mark Lodge; Edmund White, P.M.; E. Earle, Thomas Sherring, the Rev. M. Shackleton, J. B. Colthurst, R. G. Long, Wm. Munro, R. S. Chant, D. Belfield, John Chaffin, Wilton Proors, Thos. H. Holroyd, H. Amor, Commander T. Townshend, J. H. Ryall, G. F. Tuckey, J. Skinner, J. J. Himbury, T. W. Male, and many other brethren.

The first business was the confirmation of the minutes of the previous lodge meeting, after which, in the unavoidable absence of Bro. E. T. Payne, Prov. Grand Mark Treasurer, the Prov. G. Secretary read the annual financial report, which had been audited and found correct.

In accordance with article 55, Grand Mark Lodge Constitutions, which provides that the M.W.G.M. and Prov. Grand Mark Masters shall be elected every three years, the Right Hon the Earl of Carnarvon's present term of office as Prov. Grand Mark Master of the province of Somerset, will expire at the next annual meeting. It was proposed by the V.W. Deputy Prov. Grand Mark Master, and seconded by the Prov. S. Grand Mark Warden, that the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, present Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Mark Master for the province of Somerset, be nominated (in accordance with article 55, Grand Mark Lodge Constitutions), as the Prov. Grand Mark Master Mason, for the year 1874-5-and-6, and that the Right Worshipful Brother be earnestly requested to continue to preside over the Mark Master's degree in this province. On the motion being put to the meeting it was carried by acclamation.

The next motion was then made by the V.W.D.P.G.M. Master, and seconded by the Prov Grand Junior Warden. "That a Charity Fund be established in connection with the Prov. Grand Mark Lodge of Somerset, and that a committee be appointed for working out the details, the maximum of each yearly subscription to be ten shillings." This resolution was carried unanimously.

It was then proposed by the M.W.D.P.G.M.M. and seconded and duly carried, that the Provincial Board for working out the details of the previous resolution, should consist of the V.W.D.P.G.M. Master, the P.G. Secretary, and Bro. W. H. Davies, assisted by the W. Masters and Past Masters of the Mark Lodges in the province.

The V.W.D.P.G.M. Master proposed, and Bro. Major General Munbee, acting Deputy P.G. Mark Master, seconded, the re-election of Bro. E. T. Payne as Prov. G. Mark Treasurer for the ensuing year 1873-4, and the same was unanimously carried.

The Deputy Prov. Grand Master then appointed and invested the following brethren to Prov. Grand Office, (such officers having been previously approved of by the Right Worshipful the Prov. G. Mark Master) Wor. Bros. B. Cox, (G. Steward) Prov. S.G. Mark Warden; Richard Charles Else, (W.M. 155) Prov. J.G. Mark Warden; Edmund White, (P.M.) Prov. G. Mark Master Overseer; A. W. Scott, (P.M. and G. Steward) Prov. G. Mark Senior Overseer; Sidney Jones, Prov. G. Mark Junior Overseer; Rev. M. Shackleton, (Vicar of Wincanton) Prov. G. Mark Chaplain; E. T. Payne, (Past G. Deacon) Prov. G. Mark Treasurer; Benjamin Atwell, (P.M.) Prov. G. Mark Registrar of Marks; A. W. Butler, Prov. G. Mark Secretary; G. F. Tuckey, Prov. G. Mark Assistant Secretary; H. Amor, Prov. G. S. Deacon, J. D. Colthurst, Prov. G. J. Deacon; J. A. Clerk, Prov. G. Inspector of Works; T. H. Holroyd, Prov. G. Director of Ceremonies; Wm. Munro, Prov. G. Assistant Director of Ceremonies; Dr. Hodges, Prov. G. Sword Bearer; R. G. Long, Prov. G. Standard Bearer; W. L. Gaskell, Prov. G. Organist; R. S. Chant, Prov. G. Inner Guard; E. E. Earle, D. Belfield and T. Stokes, Prov. G. Steward; John Himbury, Prov. G. Tyler. By the especial permission of the Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Mark Master. Bro. E. T. Inskip had conferred upon him the rank of Past P.G. Junior Mark Warden and Bro. Commander J. Townsend, the rank of Past Prov. Grand Master Overseer.

After a few other preliminary arrangements had been made, the consecration of the William-de-Irwin Lodge was then proceeded with, the brethren of the new lodge being present were arranged in order and having signified their approval of the officers named in the warrant in Masonic form, the Rev. Chaplain, Bro. Matthew Shackleton, (Vicar of Wincanton) offered up prayer to the G.A.O.T.U. Other preliminaries being over, three Prov. Grand Officers carried the cornucopia, wine, and oil, in ancient form, solemn music being performed during the ceremony, Bro. Major Gen. Gore Boland Munbee P.M., P. Prov. S.G. Mark Warden, scattering the corn of nourishment, Bro. W. S. Gillard, P.M., P. Prov. J.G. Mark Warden, and Grand Steward of Grand Mark Lodge, sprinkling the wine of refreshment, and Bro. Benjamin Cox, P.M., Prov. S. G. Mark Warden, and Grand Steward of Grand Mark Lodge, pouring the oil of joy, these elements are to Masons, symbolic of the many gifts and blessings for which we are indebted to the bounty of the G.A.O.T.U. for the first is emblematic in Masonic symbolism, of health, the second of plenty, and the third of peace. The lodge being now solemnly consecrated "to the honour of God's glory," the V.W.D.P.G. Mark Master, Bro. Capt. Irwin, Past Grand Master Overseer, dedicated it to the holy patron of our order, in proper form and declared the "William-de-Irwin" Mark Lodge No. 162, duly constituted. Bro. Capt. Irwin then proceeded with the installation. Bro. Benjamin Cox, the W.M. designate, was presented by Bro. W.S. Gillard, P.M., and being required to signify his assent to certain propositions, which contain as it were, the Masonic confession of faith, he received the benefit of installation at the hand of the V.W.D.P.G.M., in the presence of a large board of Installed Masters, Bro. Irwin, thus addressing the W.M.—Worshipful Sir, I now place in your hand this mallet, it has for a long time been the symbol of authority over the brethren, as the chisel demonstrates to us the advantage of discipline, and the mallet, when applied to it, lops off excrescences and smooths surfaces, we are thus taught to correct irregularities, and reduce man to a proper level; so that, by quiet deportment, he may in the school of discipline, learn to be content. What the mallet is to the workman, enlightened reason is to the passions; it curbs ambition, represses envy, moderates anger, and checks every rising faculty. I have now to wish you happiness and prosperity, and pray the G.A.O.T.U., of His infinite mercy and goodness, to guide and direct you in all your actions, and to preserve you from any breach of the duties of the high office to which you have been called. The new Master was then placed in the chair of Adoniram and the board of Installed Masters closed. This being done the other brethren were admitted, and Bro. Cox, the W.M., received the usual salutations, as in all past time Masons in his position have done, after which he appointed Bro. W. S. Gillard as the I.P.M.; Bro. John Howe Tarley, S.W.; Bro. John Chaffin, J.W.; and Bro. R. S. Chant, Secretary, (reserving the other appointment for a Lodge of Emergency), the W.M. then resigned the gavel to the V.W.D.P.G.M.M., and no further business being proposed the Prov. G. Mark Lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to the inaugural banquet. This was served up at the three Chough's Hotel, and reflected the highest credit on the catering abilities of Bro. Sharland, (the proprietor) most of the brethren who had attended Prov. G. Lodge and witnessed the ceremony of consecration and installation sat down to the banquet, under the presidency of the Deputy Prov. Mark Master, Bro. Capt. Irwin, who was supported immediately on his right by Bro. Major General Munbee, P. Prov. S.G. Mark W.; B. Cox, W.M. 162, Prov. G.S.W. and G. Steward; Commander J. Townshend, P. Prov. G.M.O.; W. S. Gillard, P.M., P. Prov. J.G.W. and Grand Steward; A. W. Scott, P.M., Prov. G.S.O. and Grand Steward; R. C. Else, W.M. Mark Lodge 155, Prov. G. Junior Warden, and on his left were the Rev. the Prov. Grand Chaplain; Shackleton E. White, P.M. and Prov. G.M.O.; W. H. Davies, P. Prov. G.S.O.; F. Vizard, P.M. and P. Prov. S.G.W.; S. Jones, Prov. G.J.O.; Dr. Earle, Prov. G. Steward, and other brethren of distinction.

We regret that we are unable to give more than a bare outline of the list of toasts which comprised "The Queen." "The Prince and Princess of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family," "The W.W.G.M.M., Bro. the Earl of Percy," "The P.M.W.G.M.M., Bro. Portal," "The D.G.M.M., and officers of Grand Mark Lodge." This toast was responded to by the W.M., Bro. Cox, Bros. Gillard and Scott, Grand Stewards of the Grand Lodge of England. The D.P.G.M. then gave the next toast, which was that of "The Rt. W. Prov. G.M.M., Bro. the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, (Past M.W.G.M.M.)" his lordship's name is a household word in the province over which he rules, ever ready, cheerfully to extend the right hand of fraternal affection to a brother in distress, zealously promoting at all times the prosperity of Masonry in general, he is of a singular merit in the eyes of his brethren, his large-hearted benevolence has endeared him to his brethren of every persuasion in the firm and pleasing bond of Masonic brotherhood. His lordship's name, the mere sound of which is as music to thousands of Masons, not only in the province of Somerset, but throughout England. The next toast was that of Bro. Capt. Irwin, D.P.G. Mark Master, given by Bro. Munbee, in a most elaborate speech, and responded to by Bro. Irwin, in his usual complimentary way, expressing his thanks to the brethren for the honour they had done him. "The health of the Prov. Grand Officers, Past and Present," was then responded to by Bro. Major General Munbee, P. Prov. G.W.

The V.W. D.P.G.M.M. said:—Brethren, I now propose a toast to which I beg your earnest attention, and in which I am sure you will join with the utmost cordiality, it is "The health of the Newly Installed Master, Bro. Cox." I can assure you it is a toast which deserves your approbation, and in asking you to unite with me in drinking his health, I will express my greatest personal obligation to him, for on every occasion when I have required his assistance, he has been most ready to give it to me. He is one who really has the interest and the prosperity of Masonry at heart, and who has undertaken many arduous duties for years past. I initiated into Masonry, and have conferred upon him all the other degrees which he has received; he is a Royal Arch, member of the A. and A. Rite, Red Cross Knight, K.H.S. grade in Rosicrucianism, Knight of the Black Eagle, and a Cryptic Mason, indeed the degrees which he has received are so numerous that I can hardly name them, yet notwithstanding, he has worked zealously for the Craft and Mark degrees, and has given me kind and cordial assistance. It is therefore with great pleasure that I ask you to drink the health of Bro. Cox, the W.M. of the William-de-Irwin, Mark Lodge No. 162. Bro. Cox, who was warmly received, returned thanks, and spoke very much to the point, assuring the brethren that it should be his constant aim and earnest endeavour to fulfil the duties entrusted to his care, and with the able advice and assistance of their esteemed Bro. Gillard, the I.P.M., and that of his other officers, he would endeavour to carry on the work, the foundation of which had been laid that day, so as to raise a Masonic Mark Temple at Yeovil, which he hoped would meet with the approbation of the Right Worshipful the Prov. Mark Master and his excellent Deputy. As regards the Rainbow Ark Lodge, attached to the William-de-Irwin Mark Lodge, and which had been floated that day, it would be their duty sometimes to unmoor it, so that they may receive on board such like Master Masons as might wish to see its interior beauty, and partake of the mysteries of their Craft, yet it behoves them ever to keep in mind a due selection of the quality of the cargo, otherwise it may cause the Ark to sink. Beyond all other duties, the first and foremost should be to seek the aid of the Supreme Grand Commander of the Universe to guide us in all our undertakings, to enable us to steer the Ark safely through the stormy billows of this life, so that when we arrive at the final port of our destination, we may be considered a fitting cargo, to be received into the blessed haven of rest. (Applause).

The rest of the programme was gone through, and the Tyler's Toast brought a happy evening to a close.

PRESENTATION AT STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—On Monday evening the 16th there was an interesting gathering in the Reading-room of the Freemasons' Club, at Freemasons' Hall, Wellington-street, Stockton, when a considerable number of the members assembled to present to the club a portrait of Bro. John Hunton, P.M., the president of the club, as a mark of esteem in which he is held by the brethren, and as an evidence of their appreciation of the services he has rendered to the club, and the warm interest he has evinced in its welfare. The proceedings were opened by Bro. J. H. Jackson, P.M., calling upon Bro. W. J. Watson to make the presentation. In doing so he referred at some length to the indebtedness of the club to the exertions and interest manifested by Bro. Hunton, and to the kindly fraternal feelings which had prompted that proof of their high regard for him. The portrait, which had been executed by Mr. Hopwood of Middlesbrough, was enclosed in a neat gilt frame, and was a very good likeness. Bro. Hunton returned thanks for the honour done to him in a very appropriate manner. The portrait was then suspended in the club-room, amid the hearty applause of the company.

GRAND LODGE OF NEW YORK.

The ninetieth annual communication of the Most Worshipful Grand Lodge of the State of New York was opened at the Grand Lodge-room, Masonic Temple, corner of Twenty-third-street, and Sixth-avenue, on Tuesday, 3rd inst. The representatives of several Grand Lodges, and delegates from at least six hundred and fifty subordinate lodges were present.

The Grand Marshal, R.W. Bro. Charles Roome formed the Grand Officers, according to rank, in the Grand Secretary's office, and the procession moved up the main aisle, Bro. William Keating's band playing, in magnificent style, the "Coronation March," from Mendelssohn, receiving at its close deserved applause.

The Grand Lodge was then opened in ample form, and with prayer by the Rev. R. L. Schoonmaker, Grand Chaplain, a select chorus from New and Brooklyn Lodges, under the lead of W. Bro. William F. Sherwin, P.M. of St. Cecile Lodge, No. 568, Grand Musical Director, singing in exquisite style, the ode, "Hail! Brother Mason, Hail."

The Most Wor. the Grand Master then delivered the following address:—

Officers and Representatives:—In conformity to a time-honoured custom, and obedient to a provision of the Constitution, we are again convened in annual communication, to deliberate upon questions of moment concerning the government of the Craft of this jurisdiction.

The auspicious event which characterises our present meeting marks a new era in the history of this Grand Lodge, now for the first time duly assembled within an edifice wholly the property of the brethren who compose its widely extended and influential jurisdiction, and, though the building is uncompleted, they regard it with pride, and justly esteem it the harbinger of the accomplishment of an undertaking dear to their hearts. Their zealous labour in the past has furnished the Grand Lodge a seat of government whence its laws will be promulgated and its judgements pronounced, and where its archives will be securely preserved to their posterity. And they will yet, in compliance with the original plan, build the Asylum—a refuge for the aged and indigent, and the widows and orphans dependent on them for protection and support. That work may be hindered and impeded by indifference and local prejudice, but their efforts will surmount all difficulties, and time, silent but inevitable, yet observant, will witness the consummation of the Hall and Asylum, projected generations since by the Grand Lodge of New York, when she will rank the first among her equals for benevolence and charity.

The warmth of your friendly and brotherly greetings, the mutual congratulations of the hour and the interest of the occasion, inspire a unity of action in respect to the matters that will be presented for your consideration, unusual to so large a body, and induce the hope that harmony will be the guide to word and deed.

The several lodges to which warrants were granted at the last Annual Communication, were duly constituted, and their officers installed either by the Deputy Grand Master or myself, or by virtue of special dispensations issued for the purpose.

Constellation Lodge, No. 404, to which the original warrant was restored, was recognised and its officers elected and installed under the supervision of R. W. William A. Brodie, District Deputy for the Nineteenth District—some questions growing out of the peculiar condition of its membership requiring official interposition.

In the matter of the petition of Bro. James R. Golding, praying the Grand Lodge to terminate the sentence of indefinite suspension inflicted by Pacific Lodge, No. 233, which was referred to the Grand Master with power, I found the facts to be as stated in the report of the Committee on Grievances, submitted at the last Annual Communication, and agreeing with the conclusions of that Committee in respect to the punishment inflicted, and the promise of future good behaviour on the part of the petitioner, I addressed a letter to his lodge, recommending his restoration, which recommendation was complied with.

The relation of non-intercourse heretofore established between ourselves and the Grand Orient of France and the Grand Lodge of Hamburg still continues, neither of those bodies having retraced its steps respecting its unwarranted interference with our own and other Grand Lodge jurisdictions of this country. Our relations with other Grand Lodges of the world, recognised as legitimate governing bodies in Masonry, are of the most peaceful and fraternal character.

The usual variety of questions of law and privilege have been submitted for decision, and in their consideration I have kept steadily in view the provisions of the Constitution and Regulations of the Grand Lodge, and rendered decisions accordingly; indeed, the field of Masonic law has been so thoroughly cultivated by my predecessors, that I found no occasion to propagate new theories or principles of law or practice.

During the year, seventeen new lodges were organised, under dispensations issued for the purpose, twelve having been granted by the Deputy Grand Master, and five by myself. The report of the Grand Secretary will show the order in which they are granted, and the location of the several lodges organised pursuant thereto.

The district deputies of the districts in which the new lodges are located, have submitted special reports in regard to them, by which it appears that all have complied with the regulations of the Grand Lodge respecting lodges U.D., and their applications for warrants are recommended to the favourable consideration of the Grand Lodge.

A sense of duty has constrained me to refuse to grant five applications for authority to form new lodges, although the papers presented were in due form, and the petitions properly recommended. The considerations which induced me to deny the applications were briefly these: The territory sought to be occupied was already supplied with a sufficient number of lodges; warranted lodges, weakened by dissensions growing out of the attempt to organise others, were likely to be materially injured, and their existence imperilled, by the establishment of another lodge in the immediate vicinity; or, if organised, there was a lack of good material to sustain a lodge properly beyond the first few months of its existence. For similar reasons, I have felt at liberty to discourage efforts to organise new lodges in several localities, and with gratifying success.

Dispensations to confer the Master's degree in less time than the Constitution provides, have been granted, in some instances, by the Deputy Grand Master. Applications to myself have been frequent, but denied in all cases, with one exception, and that was granted early in my term, and in consideration of the fact that the requisite time had nearly expired. In declining to grant the requests, I have endeavoured to dissipate the impression which prevails that the mere payment of the required fee was all that was necessary to dispense with the law regulating the conferring of the Master's degree, but that good and sufficient cause must exist to warrant the exercise of the dispensing power.

Two applications were presented for dispensations to confer all the degrees at one and the same time, and numerous requests preferred for permission to initiate persons physically disqualified; the former were denied, and the latter, which I had no power to grant, were dismissed with an intimation that a landmark of the fraternity absolutely forbade the practice.

The investigation of a number of appeals brought to me from the action of lodges in trials for alleged offences satisfied me that the brethren charged with their commission were improperly convicted, and punishments inflicted without just cause, and in each case the action of the lodge was reversed. It ought to be well understood, by this time, that no Mason can be unlawfully convicted on insufficient testimony, nor be tried by commissioners manifestly unfriendly to him; and that the extreme penalty of Masonic law, for comparatively trivial offences, will be set aside.

Death has not been wholly unmindful of those high in authority elsewhere, or hitherto officially connected with this Grand Lodge. M.W. Gustavus Warnatz, Grand Master of Masons in the kingdom of Saxony, was stricken with apoplexy, and died suddenly at Berlin, on the 18th day of May, 1872, soon after his arrival there to attend the Constitutional Convention of the German Grand Lodge League, appointed to meet a few days afterwards. Bro. Warnatz was born at Kamentz, in Saxony, February 27th, 1810, and was a physician by profession. In civil life he was counsellor and medical member of the Provincial Government at Dresden. He was made a Mason in 1859, initiated in the Lodge of the Golden Apple at Dresden, and in 1866 he was elevated to the Grand Mastership. He was an enlightened and zealous Mason, prominent in the counsels of the Craft, and his death was severely felt, not only by the Grand Lodge of Saxony, but by the fraternity of Germany.

R.W. William Wagner, for many years connected with this Grand Lodge in various relations, died at his residence, near New York city, on the 30th May, 1872. He was born at Fuerstenberg, Germany, in 1804. He received the degrees of symbolic Masonry in German Union Lodge, No. 54, in 1835, with which he ever afterwards continued his membership. He was Master of that lodge in 1843 and 1850, and was for several years an officer of the Grand Steward's Lodge prior to the abolition of that body; and in 1846 was accredited to this Grand Lodge as the representative of the Grand Lodge of Saxony, and as such was well and favourably known to his brethren. His services as its representative near this Grand body were highly appreciated by the Grand Lodge of Saxony, and the utmost confidence was reposed in his discretion and ability. His death was sincerely mourned by his friends, and sundered his relation as the Representative of a Foreign Grand Lodge with which we are on terms of the most friendly nature.

In March last the sad intelligence of the death of R. W. Edward Barnett, representative of this Grand Lodge near the Grand Lodge of Louisiana, was officially communicated to the Grand Secretary. His death occurred at New Orleans, his place of residence, on the first of that month. He was born in New Orleans, March 15th, 1815, and from his long continued residence and upright character was well and favourably known to his fellow citizens. He was made a Mason about the year 1846, and subsequently became connected with the various bodies of the different Masonic rites, and ever had the love and respect of his brethren. He was Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Louisiana for two years, and in 1865 was elected Deputy Grand Master, in which positions he rendered faithful and able service to the Grand Lodge.

R. W. Charles B. Wade, one of the Grand Stewards, died at his home at Walton, on the 10th day of May last, after a brief illness—his health, however, was impaired for several years past. The late hour at which I learned of the said event, and the want of sufficient data respecting his personal and Masonic history, prevents a proper reference to it. He held the office of District Deputy under Grand Masters Gibson and Anthon, and acquitted himself in that capacity with marked success. My personal acquaintance with the deceased was limited to a casual intercourse in Grand Lodge and Chapter, and yet I came to esteem him for his manly character, modest demeanor, and amiable disposition; he seemed always ready to do an act of kindness, and his heart filled with love for his brethren. His death was indeed untimely, and his brethren mourn his loss with sincere sorrow.

The demand for the public ceremonies of the fraternity has been frequent and generally permitted; and I am gratified in being able to report that the solemn and impressive rites of the fraternity with their attendant festivities were in every case properly conducted, and with beneficial results to the Craft.

On the 24th of June, on the invitation of commissioners, the corner-stone of the City and County Hall, in accordance with the City of Buffalo and County of Erie, was laid at Buffalo, with the usual ceremonies, in the presence of a large and appreciative audience.

July 4th, R. W. Ellwood E. Thorne, Deputy Grand Master, laid the corner stone of the Soldier's Monument at Sing Sing.

On the 11th of July, R. W. John C. Boak, District Deputy for the Second District, acting under a dispensation issued by the Deputy Grand Master dedicated the fine hall erected by Wawarsing Lodge, No. 582, at Ellenville.

August 16th, the new and commodious hall of Blazing Star Lodge, No. 694, at East Aurora, was dedicated with appropriate ceremony.

September 10th, the rooms of Metropolitan Lodge, No. 273, in the City of New York, were solemnly dedicated by R. W. Ellwood B. Thorne, Deputy Grand Master.

On the 18th of September, at the request of the Board of Managers, the corner stone of the Buffalo State Asylum for the Insane, was held at Buffalo, in the presence of the chief magistrate, and other officials of the State Government and a large concourse of citizens.

October 4th, at high twelve, R. W. Elwood E. Thorne, Deputy Grand Master, officiated at the ceremony of placing the capstone of the Masonic Hall in the city of New York, in proper position. The local officers of the Grand Lodge, and many brethren were present, and participated in the exercises, which were of a very interesting character.

On the 10th November, R. W. Ellwood E. Thorne, Deputy Grand Master, in the presence of a large body of Masons and other citizens, dedicated and consecrated with solemn service the Burial Plot of the "Masonic Board of Relief of Williamsburgh," at Cypress Hill Cemetery.

November 14th, the new and elegant apartments designed for the use of the Craft of the city of Rochester, were appropriately dedicated to the purposes of Masonry.

Of the 6th December, R. W. George J. Gardner, District Deputy for the Sixteenth District dedicated a new hall suitably fitted up for the use of Centerville Lodge No. 648, at Centerville.

December 12th the new and beautiful hall of Oneida Lodge, No. 70, at Oneida, was dedicated with the usual ceremony.

On the 22nd of January, R. W. Norman Z. Baker, District Deputy for the Tenth District, dedicated the new and fine hall of Montgomery Lodge, No. 504, at Stilwater.

On the same day, R. W. and Rev. John G. Webster, Grand Chaplain, in the unavoidable absence of the District Deputy, and acting under my dispensation, dedicated a new hall for the use of Weedsport Lodge, No. 825, at Weedsport.

May 21, R. W. Ellwood E. Thorne, Deputy Grand Master, dedicated Euclid Lodge Rooms, at Stella Hall, in the city of Brooklyn.

May 28th, at the invitation of proper authority, the corner-stone of the new City Hall in the City of Rochester, was laid with the solemn and impressive ceremonies of Masonry. The large attendance of brethren and citizens attested the great interest in the proceedings.

On the 29th of May, the new and fine hall of Evans Lodge, No. 261, at Angola, was dedicated with the prescribed ceremonies of the Craft.

In March, 1872, complaint was preferred to my predecessor, through the Grand Master of Masons of the State of Pennsylvania, against Hancock Lodge, No. 552, for alleged violation of the jurisdictional rights of Freedom Lodge, No. 328, in the initiation of certain persons residing in the State of Pennsylvania, and within the jurisdiction of the said Freedom Lodge. The complaint was referred to the District Deputy for the Eighth District for investigation, who reported, "after careful search had been made, he was satisfied that Hancock Lodge was not at fault," and the report was forwarded to the Grand Master of Pennsylvania. That report, however, was not satisfactory to Freedom Lodge, and in July last, the complaint was renewed, with a demand for all moneys received by Hancock Lodge for the initiation of the persons named in the complaint.

An investigation of the alleged irregularity on the part of Hancock Lodge, convinced me that it was in fault, and had not only violated the jurisdiction of Freedom Lodge, but also a regulation of the Grand Lodge. It appeared, however, that the offence was committed inadvertently, the officers at that time leading the lodge to suppose that it had permission from the neighbouring lodges in Pennsylvania to confer the degrees on persons residing nearer to it than to their own respective lodges. The consideration of that fact, and the disposition manifested by the present officers of Hancock Lodge to meet the question fairly, induced me to treat the lodge with some degree of lenience; it was, therefore, only required to pay over all moneys received by it for the acts complained of, and the requisition was promptly complied with, and the money was forwarded to the authorities of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania for transmission to Freedom Lodge. The Grand Master, R. W. Samuel C. Perkins, while acknowledging the care and investigation of the matter in question, and fully appreciating the necessity of the infliction of some punishment upon the lodge for the violation of a regulation of the Grand Lodge, and of the Masonic courtesy due between sister jurisdictions, expressed his satisfaction that punishment had been inflicted on the offending lodge, but declined to receive the money, and returned the same, as it is not in accordance with the views and practises of that jurisdiction to regard the offence as a pecuniary wrong to be compensated by a return of the moneys received. It remains, therefore, with the Grand Lodge to make such disposition of it as may be deemed proper.

On the 14th of September last I received from M. W. Dewitt C. Cregier, Grand Master of Masons of Illinois, and chairman of the late Board of Masonic Relief of the City of Chicago, the sum of 3,404.17 dols., which was awarded this Grand Lodge on the dissolution of the Board, from the surplus of funds contributed by the fraternity in aid of their brethren of that city, rendered destitute by reason of the great conflagration of October, 1871. From the very kind and fraternal letter which accompanied the donation, I extract the following in explanation of the action referred to:—

"In addition to the disbursements by the Board, the several lodges were apportioned an amount of the surplus funds, in order to enable them to meet the demands referred to. This arrangement left a considerable amount of funds unexpended. Believing that we have carried out the instructions of the generous donors, it has been deemed proper to return pro rata the surplus funds. It would be impossible to make this return to each lodge; indeed, such an amount would be quite insignificant. Hence the amount due to each state has been aggregated, and, in your case, is for the benefit of your 'Hall and Asylum Fund,' or such other use as the Grand Lodge may apply it."

The expressed wish of the M. W. brother was partly complied with in the payment of the money to the Treasurer of the Hall and Asylum Fund, subject to such other disposition as the Grand Lodge may direct.

The money contributed by the Masons of this state was given to their brethren of Chicago in their hour of distress, with no wish or expectation that any portion of it was to be returned, and with no desire to enquire as to its disposition. Under these circumstances it seems proper, whether we regard the return of the money as a donation to the Hall and Asylum Fund, or as a contribution to the funds of Grand Lodge, that special action should be taken in recognition of this practical exemplification of an integrity inculcated by the teachings of Masonry, and a suitable acknowledgment of the liberality of the Masons of the city of Chicago.

In the month of October last, charges were preferred to me by the Wardens of Wildwood Lodge, No. 477, against David McKee, Master of the said lodge, for an offence of a serious nature. I immediately suspended him from office, and directed him to deliver the warrant of his lodge and the jewel of his station to the Senior Warden, which order was promptly complied with. The charges were referred to W. Alfred K. Jepson, Master of Governor Lodge, No. 217; W. E. G. Seymour, Master of Hermion Lodge, No. 500; and W. Hiram Bartlett, Master of Russell Lodge, No. 566, who were appointed commissioners to hear and determine the said charges. The trial was heard, and the accused found guilty, and suspended from all the rights and privileges of the fraternity.

October 15th.—Permission was given Pulteneyville Lodge, No. 159, to remove from Pulteneyville to Williamson, in the same township; but as such removal affected the jurisdiction of other lodges, the consent was granted to subject to the approval of the Grand Lodge at its annual communication.

The most important subject that will engage your attention at this annual communication is that of the proposed revision of the Constitution which has been under consideration for the past two years. The question has excited a very general feeling of disappointment which will prevail if the Grand Lodge shall not at this time take some decided action in reference to it.

On the 12th of December last, the committee composed of delegates duly elected from the several Masonic districts, pursuant to the resolution adopted last year, and comprising many brethren specially adapted for that work, convened at Syracuse, to consider the proposed revised Constitution submitted at the last annual communication, and referred to it by Grand Lodge. Their meeting extended over a period of four days, and resulted in the report that has been distributed to the lodges in accordance with the terms of the resolution referred to. The proposed Constitution, as revised by that committee, is submitted with the hope that in the main it will be found well adapted to the wants of the Fraternity, and that whatever imperfections may be discovered in it your wisdom will correct.

The one great need of Fraternity of this State, perhaps the largest body of Masons in the world, is a code of laws, as comprehensive as the wants and diversified interests of the Craft demand, as concise as the nature of the subjects of which it treats will admit, consistent with the accepted landmarks and usages of the Fraternity and expressed so plainly that no one need err in the interpretation of its provisions; and I feel confident that temperate, discreet and just action on your part will secure these results.

On the 23rd of December last, I appointed R. W. and Rev. John G. Luke, Senior Grand Warden of the Grand Lodge of Missouri, the Representative of this Grand Lodge near that Grand Body, feeling assured that no effort will be omitted on his part to secure a continuance of the friendly relations which have always existed between that Grand Lodge and our own.

Complaints were forwarded to me in March last by Ancient City Lodge, No. 452, against Blackford Lodge No. 106, of the jurisdiction of Indiana, and by Phillipstown Lodge, No. 236, against Bedford Lodge No. 320, of the State of Pennsylvania, for initiating persons rejected in those lodges. The complaints were promptly transmitted to the Grand Masters of those States respectively, and measures taken by them to investigate the complaints, but the results of their investigations have not yet been communicated to me.

On the 12th of April I issued a dispensation to the Master, Wardens, and brethren of Seneca River Lodge, No. 160, located at Baldwinsville, to enable them to maintain its organization, transact its business and conduct its work, with authority to hold its communications in Odd Fellows Hall, in that village, until this time—its room, furniture and warrant having been destroyed by fire. The lodge will make application for a duplicate of the warrant destroyed, and I recommend that it be granted without fee.

The condition of the Hall and Asylum Fund will be presented in the report of its Trustees, which will be submitted to you in accordance with their usual custom, and I respectfully but earnestly invite a thoughtful consideration of its details. The trustees were hopeful, at the commencement of the official year, that they would be able to present to you at this time the building in which the Grand Lodge is now assembled, completed in all its strength and beauty, and they have laboured earnestly to that end; but the need of money has so far interfered with their plans, that they are compelled to present, instead, an uncompleted structure. The sale of the bonds issued by the trustees for the purpose of raising money to prosecute the work on the building, has been limited to a small amount, owing to causes readily explained, and the contributions to the fund have been neither large nor frequent; and, in order to continue the work, the trustees were compelled to borrow money, and thus add a considerable amount to the debt previously reported, and they now appeal to you with confidence for such action as will tend to strengthen their funds and materially assist them to complete the building at the earliest moment.

In December last an appeal was made to the Fraternity throughout the State for aid in behalf of the Fund; but I regret to say that generally the appeal was not met with that spirit of liberality which was hoped for; in some parts of the jurisdiction, however, the responses were noble and generous. Soon after the close of the last annual communication, brethren representing lodges in the city of New York organised themselves into an Executive Committee, with the Deputy Grand Master as Chairman, for the purpose of holding a fair for the benefit of the Hall and Asylum Fund. Interesting the ladies in the project, they laboured dilligently for months to complete the necessary arrangements for holding the festival, which was formally opened on the 13th of March, and continued for a period of four weeks, resulting in an addition to the fund of nearly forty thousand dollars. The brethren and their ladies, who were interested in the good work of promoting the highest and best interests of the Fraternity, deserve richest guerdon for their unwearied exertions in that behalf; their reward is the consciousness of having aided a praiseworthy object in its greatest time of need. Their example is commended to the Craft everywhere in the jurisdiction.

My thanks are due and are heartily tendered to my associates of the Grand Officers and the District Deputies, for their uniform kindness and strict attention to their official duties. The Grand Secretary has placed me under renewed obligations for timely and valuable assistance in the discharge of my duties, and our official intercourse enables me to testify from personal knowledge of the value of his services to the Grand Lodge. To my brethren generally throughout the jurisdiction I tender heartfelt thanks for their many acts of kindness and courtesy.

In conclusion, brethren, permit me to remind you that the grave responsibilities which rest upon us as the representatives of the fraternity and the importance of the interests committed to our hands should make us earnest and faithful in the discharge of the duties which devolve upon us, to the end that the dignity of the institution may be preserved and its power for good increased. We have united in asking the Divine blessing on our labours—may its influence guide us aright in our intercourse at this time, that harmony may prevail in our counsels, and integrity of purpose and action be the aim of our endeavours.

On motion, the address was referred to a special committee of the three, for the purpose of subdividing its several parts, and referring its various subjects to appropriate committees.

The R. W. James M. Austin, Grand Secretary, presented his report, which, on motion, was received and referred to the Finance Committee. From it we make the following synopsis:

Amount received, 61,488.51 dols., as follows: Dues, 59,363 dols.; dispensations and warrants, 1,540 dols.; degrees, 110 dols.; certificates, &c., 453 dols.; from other sources, 25 dols. Nine lodges were granted warrants last year, and were numbered from 714 to 722, and one lodge, Constellation, No. 404, had its warrant restored.

The following lodges were granted dispensations during the year:—Rockland, Nyack, Rockland county; Ancient, New York city; Southern Light, Bureport, Chemung county; Cautious, Georgetown, Modena; Charity and Alma, New York city; Anchor, College Point, Queens; Sunnyside, Castleton, Rensselaer; Ezel, Brooklyn; Bethel, New York city; New Hope, Schenectady, Schenectady; Veritas and Uhland, New York city; Nepperham, Yonkers, Westchester; Guttenberg, Albany; Mizpah, Newton, Queens; and Radiant, New York city.

Six hundred and thirty-five lodges have made returns. There were 5,690 initiations and 925 affiliations during the year—total, 6,615. Dimitted, 1,781; expelled, 54; suspended, 32; stricken from the roll for non-payment of dues, 2,403; restored to membership, 397; died, 806. Total number of Masons in the State, 79,079. Washington Heights Lodge, No. 530, surrendered its warrant, leaving 665 warranted lodges. Eleven lodges were incorporated during the year.

M. W. John W. Simons, Grand Treasurer, presented his annual report, showing receipts of moneys during the past year amounting to 64,886.69 dols., and expenditures of 58,646.84 dols., leaving a balance paid over to Hall and Asylum Fund of 2,269.85 dols. On account of the current year, the sum of 28,162.12 dols. has been thus far received.

R. W. James M. Austin presented the report of the Hall and Asylum Fund, showing receipts during the year, from all sources, to have been 167,386.72 dols., all of which has been expended except a balance of 18,101 dols. About one-quarter of this amount has been raised from the sale of bonds, and the remainder from private donations, lodge subscriptions, and from the Masonic Fair held a few weeks since, 41,005.85 dols. By the personal exertion of the R. W. Isaac H. Crown, of Puritan Lodge, of this city, since the building of the hall was begun, the sum of 3,500 dols. has been collected. For the six lots on which the new temple stands, 340,000 dols. were originally paid, and 479,237 dols. have been expended thus far in construction. The indebtedness on the building is 271,000 dols., viz., 70,000 dols. in loans from trust companies, and 201,000 dols. for bonds sold.

The Grand Master then appointed the standing committees.

The time for the election of Grand Officers for the ensuing year was fixed for Thursday, at two o'clock.

M. W. John L. Lewis, in behalf of the Constitutional Convention, presented a copy of the constitution prepared. On motion, a select committee, consisting of M. W. Past Grand Master Lewis, M. W. James Gibson, and W. M. John W. Simons, was appointed, to which various amendments proposed should be submitted and classified.

On motion of R. W. E. E. Thorne, Bros. E. L. Gaul and John Mahon were appointed official reporters of the Grand Lodge.

The Grand Lodge then took a recess until Wednesday morning at nine o'clock.

On Wednesday the Grand Lodge resumed labour, pursuant to adjournment at nine a. m., the M. W. Christopher G. Fox in the East.

An impressive prayer was offered by the R. W. and Rev. Ferdinand C. Ewer, Grand Chaplain.

The report of the committee to whom was referred the Grand Master's address, was presented, with the following recommendations and resolutions. So much of the address as referred to lodges under dispensation, &c., to be referred to the Committee on Warrants. So much as referred to the decease of eminent brethren to a special committee of three.

Resolved—"That the sum of 3,604.17 dols., received from the Board of Masonic Relief of the City of Chicago, and the moneys received by reason of an irregularity in John Hancock Lodge, No. 552, be appropriated to the Hall and Asylum Fund.

Resolved—"That a special committee of three be appointed to prepare suitable resolutions expressive of the appreciation entertained by the Grand Lodge of New York for the generous conduct of the Masons of Chicago in making return to this Grand Lodge of monies heretofore appropriated by the Masons of New York for the relief of the sufferers by the Chicago fire.

Resolved, That the position maintained by the M. W. Grand Master, in reference to granting dispensations to confer the Third Degree within the time prescribed by the Constitution, merits the fullest approval of the Grand Lodge.

On motion of R. W. Ellwood E. Thorne, the report was received and adopted.

The W. John C. Baker, Librarian, presented his report: There are 1,200 volumes in the library, 900 of which are bound. The library is very valuable. Referred to appropriate committee.

The R. W. Fred W. Herring, Secretary, presented the report of the Board of Relief, by which it appears that the receipts from various sources were 6,168.49 dols.; that there were 508 applicants for charity, who received 3,714.36 dols. the largest amounts being paid to applicants as follows: from England, 418.12 dols.; Ireland, 423 dols.; Scotland, 364 dols.; Holland, 130 dols.; California, 246 dols.; Alabama, 155 dols.; Connecticut, 118.30 dols.; New York city, 1,558.71 dols.; New York State, 678.80 dols.; Pennsylvania, 184.38 dols.; Salaries, &c. amounted to 704.77 dols., leaving a balance in the treasury of 749.36 dols.

The R. W. Ellwood E. Thorne, D. G. M., presented the report of the Executive Committee of the Masonic Fair, which was opened on the 15th of March, and closed on the 19th of April. The receipts were 17,078.48 dols., and the expenses 5,791.73 dols. Net proceeds, 41,286.72 dols. Paid over to the Grand Secretary, 41,005.84 dols. Balance on hand, 280.91 dols. A supplementary report, handed in from two lodges, made 460 dols. additional.

The Grand Lecturer, R. W. George H. Raymond, presented his seventh annual report, in which he highly complimented his senior assistant, R. W. Isaac H. Brown, for the manner in which he had exemplified the several degrees in the various lodges by invitation. He found peace and harmony prevailing throughout the state, and the standard work in general use.

The following committees were appointed by the Grand Master:—

On the death of distinguished brethren—M. W. Joseph D. Evans, R. W. Seymour, H. Stone, and Sanford J. Thatcher.

On Chicago—R. W. and Rev. John G. Webster, R. W. Norman C. Baker, and Edwin M. Holbrook.

The Grand Lodge was then called from labour to refreshment.

The gavel sounded in the East to resume labour, at two o'clock p. m.

The M. W. John L. Lewis, from the Special Committee on amendments to the Constitution reported, apologising for the brevity of said report, as it took himself and colleagues a whole night to examine the large bundle of amendments submitted. The committee, he said, had carefully examined the votes of two hundred and thirty-one lodges, as well as the amendments and found that one hundred and seventy-one, in some form, voted in the affirmative, forty-six in the negative, three left the matter to judgment and discretion of representatives, and one was a tie vote. Out of those who voted in the affirmative, eighty-nine proposed amendments, the large majority of which, however, do not present any fundamental principle; so the committee deemed it their duty to present the amended Constitution, and leave the Grand Lodge to decide. They recommend, therefore, that the Constitution be adopted in committee of the whole, subject to amendments, as in legislative bodies. The following resolution was appended and adopted:

INSTITUTION OF A NEW ORDER BY THE SHAH.—We learn through Mr. Reuter's agency that since his departure from his native country his Majesty the Shah has instituted a new order called the "Order of the Sun," which is for ladies only. The recipients of this order are, up to the present, the Queen of England, the Princess of Wales, the Empress of Germany, the Princess Imperial of Germany, and the Cesarevna. The Shah has presented to her Majesty, and also to the Prince of Wales his portrait set in diamonds, which constitutes the highest Persian order existing.

The "audience question" in China is now settled. In the Pekin Gazette of the 14th there is an Imperial edict which announces that all duly accredited Foreign Ministers will be allowed to have audience of the Emperor.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, JUNE 28, 1873.

FREEMASONRY IN FRANCE.

Our brethren in France have recently sustained severe losses by the decease of several of our most distinguished confreres.

The last Grand Master of French Freemasonry, the Frère Babaud-Larivière, Prefect of the Pyrénées Orientales, died last month at Perpignan, aged only 54 years.

Brother Babaud-Larivière was an advocate of repute, a clever contributor to several journals, and a politician of progressive views. He had served as a member of the National Assembly some years, but retired after the coup d'état, when he wrote a history of that body. After the fall of the Empire he accepted the Prefecture of the Department in which he died. Our deceased brother was an ardent and zealous Freemason, and attained the high position of Grand Master of the Grand Orient in 1870, upon the resignation of General Mellinet, the successor of Marshal Magnan. Soon after his election, and with his concurrence, the Grand Orient decided, by a majority of 168 votes, to abolish the Grand Mastership, a course of procedure against which we protested at the time as one calculated to produce a severance of the jurisdictional ties which link together the various recognised powers in Freemasonry. Upon relinquishing his office of Grand Master, Babaud Larivière was elected President of the Council of the Order, and continued to exercise the functions of that office down to September, 1872, when his failing health, amongst other causes, induced him to retire from active Masonic work. The respect in which the illustrious deceased was held was evidenced by the immense concourse of persons who attended his obsequies at Confolens, the place of his birth, and whither his body had been conveyed for interment.

Funeral orations were pronounced at his tomb by the Mayor of Confolens, M. Lavillauroy, and his Masonic brethren, MM. Dussolier and Duclaud.

The Supreme Council of France has suffered an equally severe bereavement in the death of the Viscount de la Jonquière, who had for a lengthened period well fulfilled the duties of Grand Chancellor and Secretary-General of the Council. This distinguished brother was descended from an ancient family, and many of his ancestors and connexions were renowned in the annals of their country. Jonquière, the intrepid leader of several voyages of discovery, D'Orvillers, the well-known admiral, and Montcalm, the famous and heroic defender of Quebec against General Wolfe's victorious attack, were all related to the late viscount.

Bro. de la Jonquière was initiated in the lodge Clémentine Amitié of Paris on the 20th October, 1839, and was elected Secretary General of the Supreme Council 33° in 1860. He was also Representative of the Supreme Council of Peru, and is described in the Monde Maçonnique as having been the soul of Ecossisme in France. His successor, Bro. George Maurice Guiffrey, is however hailed by the Chaine d'Union as a brother worthy to wear the mantle of the lamented defunct.

We may also notice the decease of Frère Guépin, of Nantes, a medical man of great merit, and formerly Prefect of the Loire Inférieure; the Frère Cauchois, of Paris, author of several Masonic works, and the Frère Tellier, of Saint Germain-en-Laye, all of whose deaths are recorded with regret in the pages of our French exchanges.

The summer festival of the Lion and Lamb, (192) and the William Preston, (766) lodges will be held on Thursday next, July 3rd, at the Kosherville Hotel, Gravesend, proprietors, Bros. H. J. and W. J. Roberts.

Up to two o'clock on Saturday afternoon, the amount received at the Mansion-house on account of the Metropolitan Hospital Sunday Fund was £21,428.

CONSECRATION OF THE SANDGATE LODGE, No. 1436.

This Lodge, to be held at the Royal Kent Hotel, Sandgate, was inaugurated by consecration on Tuesday, the 24th inst.

Amongst those present we recognised the following:—Bro. George Adamson, P.M., P.P.G.D.C., 199, 1208; Rev. W. A. Hill, M.A., P.G.S.; Captain Charles Coates, R.A., W.M.; James Slack, P.M. 1070; H. C. Foster, P.M., G.A.D.C., 1208; S. G. Fairtlough, of the Greta Lodge; E. Evans, 1096, of the Lord Warden Lodge; S. Davis, W.M. 125; W. Lucker, G.W. 125; G. Tomlin, P.M., A.D.C., 125; Isherwood, W.M. 558; H. Day, R.A.; R. W. Meckling, M.M.; Bro. Stacy, R. A.; Chap. Concord, Jas. Bennett, S.W., Temple, 558; C. Fagg, F.C.; A. Clement, Sec. 1426; R. Pledges, I.G. 266; William Knight, 700; W. Davies, M.M.; R. J. Ferrell, M.M. 488; John Williams, M.M. 699; and other brethren.

The brethren having entered the lodge-room in procession, Bro. Adamson (the presiding officer) took the chair, and appointed the Wardens, pro-tem.

The lodge was opened in the three degrees, after which, the Chaplain (the Rev. W. A. Hill) offered up a solemn prayer on the importance of the duties in which they were about to be engaged to the honour of God and the welfare of their fellow creatures, followed by a response chanted by the brethren. The presiding officer then addressed the brethren on the nature and object of the meeting for which they had been called together. The Secretary then read the petition and warrant of constitution. The brethren having signified their approval of the same, the Chaplain then delivered an oration on the nature and principles of the institution. He further remarked on the close adherence to its principles. He said: We are gathered together on the very day we celebrate the festival of St. John the Baptist. We are reminded, when we think of him, that he was remarkable for his faith and duty to all men, and at last died a martyr to his faith. Again, we look on St. John the Evangelist as the Apostle of love—love, to be carried round the churches. To-day we are gathered together to dedicate a house—not a house of stone, but a spiritual one, which shall last till time shall be no more. We cannot think of this without deep interest, because we think there is something connected with us that shall live for ever. I would urge upon all brethren the cultivation of the study of science, to search out its hidden mysteries which are veiled in allegory. I wish to say that religion has great tendencies to enlarge the mind, and opens the heart to feelings of love. Masonry is the handmaiden of Christianity. We have been taught to look upon the Bible as the rule of our faith and practice; never to take God's name in vain, and we must take the Divine word as our basis. May the Great Architect of the Universe assist us to carry out the glorious precepts contained therein, then we shall pass through the scenes and conflicts of this world to a higher and happier sphere, and live with the blessed Morning Star that shall shine for ever. Masonry is the handmaiden of religion. As regards our intelligence, all Masons are directed to make progress in everything that is good; they are to exercise their intellectual faculties amongst those with whom they live. The study of astronomy is sublime. Gaze on those heavenly stars, learn their courses, and let us, from nature, go up to nature's God! If we study and follow up the arts and sciences our intellectual faculties will become fully developed. Let us take, and reflect on the words of the apostle of love, "Little children, love one another," and we shall be able to sympathise with a poor and distressed brother; to soothe the widow and orphan, and all those with whom we are connected. Masonry improves the intellectual faculties. May the Great Architect of the Universe bless you with peace and harmony, and at last take you in the Grand Lodge above.

After a short prayer by the Chaplain, the lodge was uncovered, and the elements of consecration, corn, wine, and oil, were carried round by P.M.'s Slack, Sherwood, and Tomlin, solemn music being performed during the procession. The consecrating officer performed the whole of the highly-imposing ceremony in the most efficient manner, after which the following anthem was sung:—

O Praise the Lord, and thou my soul,
For ever bless His name,
His wondrous love, while life shall last,
My constant praise shall claim.

After the anthem, the distinguished brother to whom the important duty of consecration had been entrusted then rose, and delivered a most impressive address, solemnly dedicating the Lodge to God, Masonry, and to benevolence and universal charity, and constituted it in form, concluding his remarks by asking the brethren to imitate the virtues of John the Baptist, and St. John the Evangelist, also wishing them every success. The National Anthem was then sung. This brought the consecration to a close, after which the installation of Bro. Charles Coutes, the W.M. designate, was proceeded with. After being duly installed as W.M. of 1426, he was saluted in due form. The W.M. appointed the officers for the ensuing year as follows:—Bros. J. Day, S.W.; Gosby, J.W.; R. B. Genner, Treas.; C. H. Clements, Sec.; S. Davies, S.D.; Woodman, J.D.; Farren, I.G.; Davey, Tyler. Bro. Adamson then explained to each of the officers their respective duties. Bro. Tomalin said he had great pleasure in proposing a vote of thanks to Bro. Adamson for his assistance in consecrating the lodge, and he was sure that the brethren fully endorsed his sentiments by having them recorded on the minutes.

The W.M. seconded the motion which was put and carried unanimously.

Bro. Adamson returned thanks, and said he was glad to assist at the consecration of the lodge, and he wished them the highest prosperity.

Thanks were then given to Bro. Hill for the able manner in which he performed the ceremony, which was put, and agreed to unanimously.

Bro. Hill thanked them for the compliment which they had been pleased to pay him. He was glad to have the opportunity of giving his service, and wished them every success. (Cheers).

Thanks were then given to the brethren for their attendance, the lodge was closed in due form, and with a solemn prayer.

The brethren adjourned to the Assembly Rooms, where a most profuse banquet was served, and which gave satisfaction.

On the withdrawal of the cloth, the W.M. proposed the following toasts—"The health of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen and the Craft," "Most Worshipful Grand Master of England, the Marquess of Ripon." "The Most Worshipful Past Grand Master, His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, K.G." "The Provincial Grand Master, Prov. Grand Officers, Past and Present, Presiding Officers, Rev. W. A. Hill, M. A. P.G.S." The toast was cordially responded to.

Bro. Hill in responding said, Masonry is flourishing abundantly, I think it is convenient that there should be Prov. Grand Lodges, should our brethren here need any help, I will come to your assistance.

The W.M. proposed "The Health of Bro. Adamson.

Bro. Adamson. I rise with the greatest of pleasure to return you my thanks for the honour you have conferred upon me. Everything that I can do for the benefit of a brother Mason, I am always willing to come forward to help. I am pleased to say that Masonry is flourishing in Kent, in 1868 there were 16 lodges, now there are about 34. I am glad to see a new lodge formed here, it is convenient for you, I know you prefer getting near your own place. I congratulate the W.M. to-day, on the great number of persons he has been surrounded with; on all future occasions I shall be happy to serve you, I wish you prosperity to the lodge and originators. (Cheers)

Bro. Day proposed "The Health of the W.M." The W.M. responded in a very able manner. "The Health of the Visitors" was then drunk. Bro. Sherwood returned thanks for the visitors, the W.M. next proposed "The Health of Bro. Goodban, Organist." This toast being drunk. Bro. Goodban returned thanks to the brethren for the compliment which they had been pleased to pay him; he said, I thank you heartily, and my assistance is always at your service.

Bro. Day next proposed "Bro. Past Master Slack." Bro. Slack responded in a very able manner. Bro. Clements gave "To all poor and distressed Masons." Bro. Clements gave great pleasure by one of his gallant songs, "The grasp of an honest hand."

The whole of the fittings of the lodge, as well as the clothing of the officers, were provided by Bro. George Kenning, and were greatly admired.

Not a single hitch was made during the ceremony, and so good a start speaks well for the success of the lodge.

THE ROYAL CHARTER.

BY BRO. JACOB NORTON.

Preston informs us that the "most remarkable occurrence during the administration of the Duke of Beaufort was the plan of an incorporation of the Society by Royal Charter." The plan was approved, not only by a majority in the Grand Lodge, but, "from the return of the different lodges, it appeared that one hundred and sixty-eight had voted for the incorporation, and only forty-three against it." "In 1771, a bill was brought into Parliament by the Hon. Charles Dillon, D. G. M., for incorporating the Society by Act of Parliament; but, on the second reading of the bill, it having been opposed by Mr. Onslow at the desire of several brethren who had petitioned the house against it, Mr. Dillon moved to postpone the consideration of it sine die, and the design of incorporation fell to the ground."

The same author also says that Arthur Beadmore, the then Grand Treasurer, who was opposed to the scheme of incorporation, went even so far as to refuse handing over £1,300 entrusted to his keeping, and that a lawsuit for the recovery of the money was contemplated.

Bro. Findel, in his history of Freemasonry, gives an insight into the rancorous feeling of the opponents to the incorporation scheme. A Bro. Muller, Master of the Caledonian Lodge, wrote to a friend at Frankfort, "We are woefully plagued with Jesuits. Dillon, who abjured his religion a short time ago that he might get elected into Parliament, and his father confessor, de Vignoles, have unlimited power in the Grand Lodge, which they maintain by innumerable intrigues, and an excessive abuse of influence which Dillon's position of Deputy Grand Master affords him. He wears the patience of many upright Masons who oppose him, disgusts others, employs force to expel those who will not suffer themselves either to be wearied out or disgusted when the welfare of Masonry is at stake, and blinds the rest."

The old documents, &c., submitted to my inspection by the P.G.M. Lewis, in 1869, gave me a still further insight into the mischief then brewing. Among those documents I found a letter from G. S. French, and several letters from G. S. Hesseltine, together with the printed documents issued by the Grand Lodge of England in 1769, &c. From all these sources I learn that excitement in both ranks run high, and that a split in the Grand Lodge would have ensued if the parties then in power had insisted in carrying their contemplated measure of incorporation. So far the history of the period is clear enough; but still I cannot understand all. For instance, if a clique in an American Grand Lodge proposed the building of an extensive temple, and I found some mystery about why, or wherefore the measure was strenuously opposed by a majority, or even by a minority of the brotherhood, I would naturally conclude that the said clique's motives were suspected, the brethren who opposed the scheme probably believed, and with good reason too, that the schemers designed to make a job o it of the operation. Such, however, could not have been imputed to the English authorities, and I firmly believe that the Duke of Beaufort, as well as D. G. M. Dillon, were actuated by purely disinterested and honourable motives, and that their sole desire was to elevate the standard of the society. They, in common with all other Masons of that period, no doubt sincerely believed that Adam, Noah, Nimrod, Moses, Solomon, Julius Cæsar, Herod the Great, Edward the Third, &c., &c., were each or all either Grand Masters or Grand Patrons of the ancient brotherhood, and consequently they were fired with a laudable ambition of restoring (as they imagined), "the fraternity to its grandeur," and there may have been another cogent reason for their contemplated project. We all know that the so-called "Ancients," as well as the so-called "Grand Lodge of all England," not only pretended to superiority, but each even denounced the Grand Lodge of England as a spurious body. A Royal Charter at that time would certainly have served to put a stop to their audacity; with such a charter, the Grand Lodge of England would have become a Grand Lodge, de jure, in every acceptance of the term. It seems therefore to me that all its sincere adherents ought, and should have rallied around its grand officers in support of the measure. Supposing, however, that some wiseacres foresaw that such a charter would not be necessary; yet, I ask, what harm could have been feared from its adoption to have caused such a furious uproar? One reason only suggested itself to my mind, viz., perhaps there was something very objectionable in the conditions of the charter, but where to look for a copy of the said charter, I did not know.

Last week, however, amongst a lot of old books that were about to be disposed of at auction, I noticed a small old volume called, "The History of Masonry, or the Freemasons' Pocket Companion. Printed by William Auld, Edinburgh, 1772, third edition." In the appendix to the said edition I found the following:—"Since printing the foregoing work, we have been favored with a copy of the Charter of Incorporation granted by his present Majesty to the Grand Lodge of England," which is followed by a copy of the Charter.

The words, "granted by his Majesty," are undoubtedly erroneous, but as the Grand Lodge of England, (according to Preston) had printed the contemplated charter, we may reasonably suppose, that the copy in the aboved-named work is genuine. This, however, only served to increase my puzzle. The document itself, is a verbose piece of flummery, such as lawyers, and lawyers alone, love to revel in, but I could see nothing in it that could give rise to such unheard of, determined opposition. I therefore, threw out the above hints, not only to call attention to the whereabouts a copy of the document, which produced such a ferment in the Craft a century ago, may be found by Masonic Students; but also to ask for information as to the real cause, or causes of that ferment.

Yours fraternally,

JACOB NORTON.

THE NEW MASONIC TEMPLE AT PHILADELPHIA.

In August last The Press gave to the public a full account of the exterior of the new Masonic Temple at Broad and Filbert streets, which was then approaching completion, and in the present article it is proposed to give a general description of the interior as it appears at present.

The various rooms are now all in complete order, except that the furniture and carpets are not yet completed or in place. The plastering and painting are finished, the gas, water, and steam fittings are all in, and the ventilators are in working order. Around the outside a wide slate pavement is being laid, and a handsome iron-plate fence will surround the whole structure. Three ornamental lamps will be placed on Broad street three on Filbert street, and three on Juniper street. There will be three entrances to the temple, one each on Broad, Filbert, and Juniper streets, surrounding the building.

The edifice is the only one in the world devoted exclusively to Masonic uses, and it is the most magnificent as well as the largest and costliest hall in Christendom. It is the property of Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, which is the wealthiest Masonic body in the world, and one of the most influential, its jurisdiction extending over the entire Commonwealth, and over three hundred and fifty lodges, with an aggregate membership of nearly forty thousand.

Thus far there has been expended upon the new building about 1,000,000 dols. and probably 300,000 dols. more will be required to pay for the work now in contractors' hands, such as for chandeliers, furniture, upholstery, etc. This will cover the entire outlay for the new Temple, which is considered very reasonable for so grand an edifice. Indeed, it is known that had the work been delayed even for a few months, the expense would have been at least twenty per centum in excess of the sum expended. Many of the contractors will reap very small profits, and some of them will lose upon their contracts, but they have all been fulfilled in the most perfect and satisfactory manner.

The old hall which is now for sale, will probably be disposed of during the coming summer, and will yield a sum of sufficient proportions to form an ample sinking fund for the payment of the new Temple loans as they mature, so that the permanent capital of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania will remain always intact, which fact alone insures a credit of very extended proportions, should it ever be asked for. Most of the furniture of the old hall has been re-upholstered, and will be used in the new Temple, as well as the statuary and paintings, which latter will adorn the library room.

Arrangements will be perfected for the formal dedication of the building to Masonry in September. It was at first designed to have the dedication take place on St. John the Baptist's day, 24th June, but it was found that the interior work of the structure would have to be hurried to carry out this intention, and so it was abandoned.

The estimated revenue to be derived from the rentals, &c., of the new Temple is about 50,000 dols. per annum, which will be paid by forty-seven lodges, ten chapters, three Mark Lodges, the Grand Chapter, five commanderies two councils and one consistory. It is proposed to have the general management of the new building conducted by a committee of members of the Grand Lodge, with a superintendent and assistants, under a new code of regulations. In addition to these officers in charge there will be an engineer, firemen, night and day watchmen, and several assistants about the structure. Certain days will be set apart for visitations by the public, and it is not unlikely that the new hall will be thrown open to inspection generally some time after the dedication in September next.

The basement has been splendidly finished in white plaster, and besides containing a number of eligible apartments for offices, contains the engine, pump, gas, fire kitchen, and heater rooms. These are fitted up with every known modern appliance and convenience. There are two immense ranges fitted together for cooking in the kitchen. The spring water from the sub-cellar is utilised by being pumped into tanks situated in different parts of the building.

Altogether this basement floor is one of the most interesting portions of the edifice to the initiated visitor. The gas fixtures are now being made from appropriate designs and models by Baker, Arnold & Co., noted in their trade. The furnishing and upholstering is nearly completed, and reflects great credit upon the contractors, Messrs. Smith & Campton, South Third-street, above Spruce.

On the first or main floor are placed rooms for the Grand Lodge Officers, for the library, one lodge-room, and other rooms. The library will be handsomely fitted up and will contain a fine collection of books. All the magazines and periodicals of the day will be kept on file, as well as many of the most prominent newspapers of the country. It will no doubt prove a place of pleasant resort for the members of the Order. The idea of establishing a library for the use of Freemasons, under the direction of the Grand Lodge, was originated in the last century, but the first real success in the movement has just now been made by the Grand Lodge Committee on

Library, of which Mr. Charles Eugene Meyer is Chairman.

On the upper floors are the Corinthian or Grand Lodge-room, four lodge-rooms, the banqueting, conversation, and committee-rooms, the Grand and Subordinate Chapter and Commandery-rooms. These latter have been fitted up with the furniture taken from the old Grand Lodge-room, replaced by temporary furniture for use until the new temple is ready for occupation. The Corinthian-room is furnished most gorgeously in the Corinthian style, highly ornate with a seating capacity of nearly four hundred. This room will be occupied by the Grand Lodge and by about twelve of the subordinate lodges.

The next room in size is the Oriental, which seats over two hundred persons, and is furnished in a profusely ornate style, embracing a score of bright tints. Next in order come the Ionic, Norman, Egyptian, and Gothic, all appropriately fitted up from designs furnished by the architect. The banqueting-room is provided with seats and tables to accommodate three hundred and fifty persons. The chairs are constructed so as to fold up, and are seated with perforated cherry wood. The furniture and upholstery of the chapter and Commander's rooms are gorgeous and elaborate, but are not sufficiently complete yet to warrant a detailed description.

Thus far the only persons who have been privileged to view the interior of the structure were the members of City Council and a few strangers, the idea and intention being that before the official inspection should be made the rooms should be sufficiently prepared to indicate their future magnificence and accommodation.

RINGS AND SIGNET RINGS IN MASONRY.

The ring, as a symbol of the covenant entered into with the Order, as the wedding ring is the symbol of the covenant of marriage, is worn in some of the high degrees of Masonry. It is not used in Ancient Craft Masonry. In the Order of the Temple the "ring of profession," as it is called, is of gold, having on it the cross of the Order and the letters P. D. E. P., being the initials of "Pro Deo et Patria." It is worn on the index finger of the right hand. The Inspectors General of the thirty-third degree of the Ancient and Accepted Rite wear a ring on the little finger of the right hand. Inside is the motto of the Order, "DEUS MEUM QUE JUS." In the fourteenth degree of the same Rite a ring is worn, which is described as "a plain gold ring," having inside the motto, "Virtus junct mors non separabit." It is worn in the Northern Jurisdiction on the fourth or ring finger of the left hand. In the Southern Jurisdiction it is worn on the same finger of the right hand.

The use of the ring as a symbol of a covenant may be traced very far back into antiquity. The Romans had a marriage ring, but, according to Swinbourne, the great canonist, it was of iron, with a jewel of adamant, "to signify the duration and perpetuity of the contract."

In reference to the rings worn in the high degrees of Masonry, it may be said that they partake of the double symbolism of power and affection. The ring, as a symbol of power and dignity, was worn in ancient times by kings and men of elevated rank and office. Thus Pharaoh bestowed a ring upon Joseph as a mark or token of the power he had bestowed upon him, for which reason the people bowed the knee to him. It is in this light that the ring is worn by the Inspectors of Scottish Masonry, as representing the sovereigns of the Rite. But those who receive only the fourteenth degree, in the same Rite, wear the ring as a symbol of the covenant of affection and fidelity into which they have entered.

While on the subject of the ring as a symbol of Masonic meaning, it will not be irrelevant to refer to the magic ring of King Solomon, of which both the Jews and the Mohammedans have abundant traditions. The latter, indeed, have a book on magic rings, entitled Sealcutchal, in which they trace the ring of Solomon from Jared, the father of Enoch. It was by means of this ring, as a talisman of wisdom and power that Solomon was, they say, enabled to perform those wonderful acts and accomplish those vast enterprises that have made his name so celebrated as the wisest monarch of the earth.

The most prominent use of the ring among the ancients was as a signet or sign of power and authority. Signets are continually alluded to in Scripture, and the name by which they were known was expressive of their form and use; for rings were called tabbaoth, which also signified in its root "to impress a seal." That they were in use at a very early period is evident from the relation, in the 28th chapter of Genesis, where Tamar demands from Judah, as a pledge, his signet, his bracelets, and his staff.

These signet rings were worn always on the right hand, and generally on the index finger, which is illustrated by the passage in Jereriah, (xxii: 24,) where we read: "As I live, saith the Lord, though Coniah the son of Jehoiakim king of Judah were the "signet upon my right hand," yet would I pluck thee thence."

Signets always bore a device, which was usually a religious symbol. Among the Egyptians, the sphynx, as the symbol of secrecy, and the scarabæus, or sacred beetle, as the symbol of eternal life, were the most generally adopted. The signets of the Babylonians were beautifully sculptured with images of Baal-berith and other Chaldean gods.

It is not therefore surprising that we should find a reference to the signet in Masonry. Thus in the ritual of the Royal Arch, according to the American system, we find as one of the symbols the signet of Zerubbabel. This is taken from that passage in the prophet Haggi, where God is said to have promised that he would make Zerubbabel his signet. Jeremy Cross, whose knowledge of the principles of true symbolism, would not at this day be deemed respectable, gives in his "Hieroglyphic Chart" the form of the signet of Zerubbabel as a triangular plate, which is about as correct as if he had represented a Jewish shekel by a walking stick. As the ancient signet was, without any doubt, a finger ring, in the ceremony of the Royal Arch it should be so represented. What was its peculiar device we may presume from the usual nature of such devices, and we perhaps would not be wrong in making it a sacred symbol, such for instance, as the "Yod" within a triangle, the hieroglyphic form of the Tetragrammaton. This at least would be consistent with the teachings of the degree.

The signet of Zerubbabel, thus used in the ritual of the Royal Arch degree, is also there called the "Signet of Truth," to indicate that the neophyte who brings it to the Grand Council is in search of Divine Truth, and to give to him the promise that he will by its power speedily obtain his reward, in the possession of that for which he is seeking. The Signet of Truth is presented to the aspirant to assure him that he is advancing in his progress to the attainment of truth, and that he is thus invested with the power to pursue the search.—(Mackay's National Freemason.)

TESTIMONIAL TO DR. ROGERS.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Your correspondent "F. Y." is quite right—I am fully aware that "the testimonial" "has nothing to do with Masonry."—But why refer to Masonry and Masonic feelings in a Masonic periodical, in an appeal for subscriptions for a non-Masonic purpose? I mean non-Masonic as regards Freemasonry. The proposed testimonial happens to be a house and therefore it rather concerns operative Masons, and should be advertised in The Builder.

If in the "plan," a garden be laid out and a maze projected, I may suggest applications to the "Royal Geographical Society" "the Horticultural," &c. Perhaps even the "Royal Geographical Society" might take up the Grampian claim. We Freemasons certainly encourage "Speculative Masonry," but then it is not in actual brick and mortar. We rear "Moral edifices," and do not "go in" for "the Craft" business. Surely some hundreds of Scottish gentlemen, if unanimous, could raise the funds in question—or is this one of those "active minorities about which we hear so much?"

I thank F.Y. very sincerely for his compliment to my modest advocacy of real charity. It so happens however, that I did not write the paragraph to which he refers, although I might have done so, had his ingenious idea occurred to me, before another had saved me the exertion.

Yours fraternally,

B. B.

SERVING BRETHERN.

Masons whose duty it is to serve the lodge as Tylers, waiters at the lodge table, and to perform other menial services, are called in European Lodges "serving brethren." They are not known in this country, but were long recognised as a distinct class in England and on the continent. In 1753 the Grand Lodge of England adopted a regulation for their initiation, which, slightly modified, is still in force. By it every lodge is empowered to initiate without charge "serving brethren," who cannot, however, become members of the lodge, although they may join another. In military lodges private soldiers may be received as serving brethren. On the continent, at one time, a separate and preliminary form of reception, with peculiar signs, &c., was appropriated to those who were initiated as serving brethren, and they were not permitted to advance beyond the first degree, which, however, worked no inconvenience, as all the business and refreshment of the lodges were done at that time in the Entered Apprentice's degree. The regulation for admitting serving brethren arose from the custom of lodges meeting at taverns; and as at that period labour and refreshment were intermixed, the waiters of the tavern were sometimes required to enter the room while the lodge was in session, and hence it became necessary to qualify them for such service by making them Masons. In France they are called "Frères Servants;" in Germany "Dienenden Brüder."

The Knights Templar had a class called serving brothers, who were not, however, introduced into the Order until it had greatly increased in wealth and numbers. The form of their reception varied very slightly from that of the Knights, but their habit was different, being black. They were designated for the performance of various services inside or outside of the Order. Many rich and well-born men belonged to this class. They were permitted to take part in the election of a Grand Master. The Treasurer of the Order was always a serving brother. Of these serving brothers there were two kinds: servants at arms and artificers. The former were the most highly esteemed, the latter being considered a very inferior class, except the armourers, who were held, on account of the importance of their occupation, in higher estimation.—Mackay's National Freemason.

MASONRY IN PERSIA.—Of the British officers who are at present in Berlin pursuing military studies and making themselves acquainted with Prussian military organization and arrangements, one belongs to the Masonic order. He is a Mussulman. He seems to have spontaneously sought recognition as a member of the Craft at a Berlin lodge, and his claim was allowed only after such an examination as satisfied the brethren that he was one of the brethren. From the statement of this Persian Mason it appears that nearly all the members of the Persian Court belong to the mystic order, even as German Masonry enjoys the honour of counting the Emperor and Crown Prince among its adherents. The appearance of this Mohammedan Mason in Berlin seems to have excited a little surprise among some of the brethren there, and the surprise would be natural enough to persons not aware of the extent to which Masonry has been diffused over the earth. Account for it as one may, the truth is certain that the mysterious order was established in the Orient many ages ago. Nearly all of the old Mohammedan buildings in India, such as tombs, mosques, etc., are marked with the Masonic symbols, and many of these structures, still perfect, were built in the time of the Mogul Emperor Akbar, who died in 1605. Thus Masonry must have been introduced into India from Middle Asia by the Mohammedans, hundreds of years ago.

Reviews.

Prosper the Art. (New Edition). Masonic Song and Chorus. Words by Bro. James Stonehouse. Music by George Hargreaves. The words, as well as the music are original, comprehensive and effective, and are of that character that all Masons will be delighted with. All brethren who admire beautiful and lovely poetry, should hail with delight this brilliant production of Bro. Stonehouse.

We have received "Report of Special Convent General of the United Pilgrims and Military Orders of the Temple, held at Willis's Rooms King-street, St. James's, London, Monday 7th April, 1873, for the purpose of installing His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales as Grand Master of the United Orders."

To hand, a calendar of the Great Priory of the United Orders of the Temple and Malta in England and Wales for 1873 and 1874. It gives the muster roll of Officers for the year commencing 9th May 1873. Page 6 shows the roll of Preceptories of the United, Religious, and Military Orders of the Temple, and of St. John of Jerusalem, Palestine, Rhodes, and Malta. It shows at a glance the Title of Preceptory, Province, number, where stationed, when holden, date of warrant, Preceptor per last return. Again we have a list of Preceptories, &c. Great labour has been bestowed in its preparation, to make it complete as well as accurate. A copy ought to be kept in every Encampment and Priory, ready for reference when occasion requires.

A notice appears in the Gazette that, by Her Majesty's direction, the brothers and sisters of the present Earl of Zetland shall henceforth enjoy the same title and precedence as if their late father, the Hon. John Charles Dundas, had survived his elder brother, the second earl, and had succeeded to the title and dignity of Earl of Zetland.

COAL CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY.

On Tuesday, the 10th inst., a conference was held in the Board-room of the "Agricultural and Horticultural Association," 47, Millbank-street, Westminster, when Dr. D. H. Rutherford, Chairman of the Ouseburne Co-operative Engine Works, and Mr. Burt, Secretary to the Northumberland Miners' Association, attended, and explained the cause of the extraordinary rise in the price of coal, and to suggest efficient means of protecting the public against its recurrence. Mr. Beale ably presided. After a few remarks, the chairman called on Mr. Burt to address the meeting. On rising, the gentleman said, that he should explain the cause of the rise in the price of coal. The evidence that has been given before the Committee of Enquiry has been attributed by all the gentlemen to the fact that the chief cause in the extraordinary rise in the price of coal is owing to the price of iron, and the quantity of coal which is required to be used in the manufacture of iron. At Cleveland there has been a strike, and the men were out of employment for some time, about one half whom were in the North of Durham began to manufacture iron.

Mr. Burt denied the mis-representations that had been given against the miners, such as laziness, &c., could not deny that the miners have asked for high wages, every care has preceded the price of coal to the miners. Before the rise in the prices the miners were satisfied with their pay, but when they saw that the markets were rising 5s. per ton, they considered that they should have a share in the price of coal, which resulted in an advance of wages to the miner. The rise per ton has been 9d. to 1s. Therefore it is absurd to charge the men as the cause of the high prices of coal.

Mr. Rutherford said the remedy would be for the people of London to join with the miners, and assist them to carry out their efforts. They have decided to form a "Co-Operative Mining Society," which shall have for its object, not only the interest of the miner, but that of the general community; it will also remove the great chasm that has existed between the employer and the employed.

Ten per cent. will, therefore, in the first instance be set aside for capital.

To give stability to the Society, a portion of the profits will be devoted to the formation of a reserve fund.

The remainder of the profits will be divided equally between labour, capital, and trade.

Everybody is a consumer of coals, and in dividing with all purchasers a portion of the profits, this Society adopts a principle which recognises a harmony of interest, and which, it is hoped, may promote a greater kindness of feeling.

Conflicts between capital and labour are costly, destructive, and wasteful. In this Society such conflicts will be impossible.

It is intended that every worker shall be a member: This, it is believed, will quicken intelligence, develop caution, stimulate activity and skill.

It was proposed and carried unanimously. That the sympathy of the conference be tendered to the working colliers of Northumberland and Durham in their efforts to establish an Industrial Co-operative Mining Society, and to the Coal Society of Westminster in its proposal to distribute the coals to the householders of London, on the most economical co-operative basis.

Capital to be raised in transferable shares of £5 each.

THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

A simple reproduction of the programme of the entertainments provided on Monday by the Crystal Palace Company in aid of the sufferers by the recent conflagration at the Alexandra Palace would, of itself, more than exhaust the space usually allotted to such subjects, so numerous and so varied have they been. The Alexandra Palace day at the Crystal Palace was a fête day in every sense of the word, for it was not only a display of its infinite variety, but afforded an example of human nature in its best aspects. When the Alexandra Palace was completed, the almost universal question which each one put to himself, or to his neighbour, was—what effect will it have on the Crystal Palace? And that question was as generally answered in a sense that regarded them as antagonistic. During the short-lived existence of the Alexandra in its completed glory, we believe it was a success, and gave promise of a healthy life, whilst its injurious effect on the Crystal Palace was found to be nil. The same phenomenon has been observed at the Crystal Palace with regard to the International Exhibition. The fact is, that the population of London is so vast that the demand for amusements is greatly ahead of the supply, and in one respect the Crystal Palace is unapproachable—viz., in its collections of art treasures. That the Palaces in the North and South were not antagonists in the bad sense of the word is likewise shown by the prompt spontaneousness with which the Crystal Palace Company came forward and offered its resources in aid of those who were thrown into distress by the calamity of its unfortunate rival, mindful, perhaps, of the similar, though less calamitous disaster which befel itself. Not only did the Crystal Palace exhibit its prompt and disinterested sympathy with the Alexandra Park sufferers on this occasion, but other establishments lent their assistance, and the services of all the artistes engaged were wholly gratuitous. The first thing to arrest the eye, and to inform the visitor of the object of the fête, was the exposition of relics saved from the fire, which were advertised to be on sale for the benefit of the sufferers. The circle of entertainments commenced at half-past eleven with an organ performance by Dr. Stainer, followed, at twelve, by an extract from the Oriental extravaganza of "Conrad and Medora," in which Miss Caroline Parkes, Mr. Atkins, Mr. W. Rowella, Mr. Yar-nold, M. C. A. White, Mr. Sweetman, Miss E. Pitt, Miss E. Kemp, Miss Marlborough, and Miss Shelley, and others took part—the principal dancers being Mdles Corrie and Collier. In the large stage, at one o'clock, was performed the second act of "The Wonderful Duck," in which Mr. George Honey, Mr. Perrini, Mr. Odell, Middle Rose Be'l, Miss Laverne, Miss H. Covey, Miss K. Ryan, and others, were assigned various rôles. The Globe company were to have performed the cottage scene in the third act of "The Lady of Lyons," but a message was received from them in the course of the day stating that at the last moment they were unable to come from London; but Mr. H. Jackson was ready with his entertainment, which supplied an amusing substitute. At three o'clock a flight of homing Antwerp pigeons was let off from the Upper Terrace for Alexandra Park, and at the same hour Mr. Mackney repeated some of his most comic songs; Mr. Milano gave selections from the Alexandra Park spectacular ballet, entitled "Azurine," followed by a comic ballet, on the large stage, by Mr. F. Evans and his troupe. The Strand company played in a selection from "Old Soldiers," by H. J. Byron, in which Messrs. Vernon, Terry, Wallace, Terriss, Stephenson, Carter, and Miss Ada Swanborough, Miss Gifford, and Mrs. Raymond appeared. There followed in succession a grand concert by the Alexandra band and a choir of 400 voices, conducted by Mr. H. Weist Hill, in which Madame Lemmens-Sherrington sang the solos. Later in the evening there was a piano recital by Master H. Walker; athletic exploits by Senor Romah; and, at seven o'clock, there was a grand vocal concert, in which Mr. G. Fox, Mr. Nordblom, Miss Hancock, Mdme. Ida and H. Corri, Mr. Celli, and Mr. George Perren, sang solos and duets, Mr. Manns conducting. The numbers in the Palace were not so great as might have been expected from the variety of the entertainments. We understand that vast preparations are being made in honour of the Shah.

LETTERS TO SHIPS OF WAR.—Much dissatisfaction having been expressed at the system hitherto pursued by the Post Office of forwarding private letters to the officers and crews of ships of war on foreign stations to the place where the ships were most likely to be found, the directions placed upon them by the writers being disregarded, it has been determined that in future all letters shall be forwarded strictly as addressed.

PENSION TO DR. LIVINGSTONE.—A meeting of the Royal Geographical Society was held on Monday, at Burlington House, when Sir Bartle Frere, the recently elected president, occupied the chair for the first time. In commencing the proceedings, Sir Bartle referred in eulogistic terms to the services of Dr. Livingstone, and intimated that, on the recommendation of Mr. Gladstone, the Queen had granted a pension of £300 per annum on the Civil list to the distinguished traveller, in recognition of the value of his researches in Central Africa. This announcement was received with general applause.

ITALIAN HONOURS TO NATIVE ENGLISHMEN.—The Workmanship Association, established for the recognition of good deeds in the cause of liberty, country, and the empire of the mind, in the Holy Name of God and the People of Italy, have promoted to the highest degree of honorary fellowship, this 8th day of June, 1873, Drs. William Hitchman, of Liverpool, and George Sexton, of London, graduates in philosophy and medicine, worthy labourers for the entire regeneration of mankind.

A WELCOME TO THE SHAH.

There comes a Royal Traveller
From a far and distant shore,
And we welcome him with cheering hosts,
And 'mid the cannons' roar;
But thro' the thunder of our guns,
And the cheers which never cease,
He moves on, calmly, kindly,
With friendly smiles of Peace!

The ruler of that Orient Realm
Of long and buried years,
Which still in historic freshness
On that mighty roll appears,
From which the great and gorgeous empires
Of a grand barbaric past
Have faded, with the feeble,
Like some still fading fast.

And we welcome him most joyfully
From that country strange and old,
Of which, in ancient annals,
Such wondrous tales are told;
Where, in its silent unity,
And in its calm array,
That nation, with its ancient laws,
Moves on its peaceful way.

We mind us, from that country,
Hafiz came, who still can charm;
That there Ferdousi flourished;
Those words of soothing balm
For wounded hearts,—and gentle hopes,
Seem still happily to inspire
The words of later poets,
But of no more poetic lyre.

And we joyfully remember, too,
How that, in years gone by,
From us, full friendly statesmen,
Soldiers with courage high,
Were sent in skill and power,
Tho' now of olden date,
To give the strength of discipline
*To that grave Persian State.

And we who often think at home
Of that far Indian clime,
Which in its magic marvel
And in its tales sublime,
Throws still a halo of romance
On every act and scene,
As well on each which greets us still,
As on all that once has been:

We feel in welcoming the Shah,
We forge but another link
Of that chain of true Cohesion,
Which, whatever others think,
Still binds old England to her lands
Thousands of miles away,
In all of zealous loyalty
And true and loving sway!

And thus our happy welcome
With which we gladly greet
The mighty Ruler from that land
Where past and present meet,
Will prove the bright foreshadowing
As years on years increase,
Between our Sovereign and her Visitor,
Of firm friendship, lasting Peace.

June 23, 1872.

* Amid many distinguished officers Major-General Sir H. Rawlinson was sent, many years ago, a young officer, to aid in disciplining the Persian troops, and by his application and energy, not only mastered perfectly the present Persian language, but the old Persian or Zeud, and, by the discovery of the trilingual inscriptions, deciphered the long unknown cuneiform characters.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS: Common Sense, ever the best of all learning, becomes invaluable, when its practice will renovate broken health and re-instate soundness, strength, and vigour. Summer is the season for removing coughs, shortness of breath, wheezing, asthma, and all pulmonary diseases, inflicted on the delicate and careless, by our rigorous winters, and Holloway's remedies are the means of effecting a happy transition from danger to safety. After the harassed chest has been fomented with sea water, or weak brine, and dried, this Ointment should be well rubbed into the skin, both in front and behind, between the blade bones.—Holloway's Pills should be taken to correct any functional irregularity, they will make each organ conform to health's requirements.—ADVT.

THE MASONIC TEMPLE.

BY BRO. WILLIAM CARPENTER, P.M. and
P.Z. 117.

May the Temple we build, by our united labours,
Be in all parts cemented by brotherly love;
The foundation was laid by true Masons aforetimes,
While we build let us look for our help from above.

May the Wisdom to guide us at all times be given,
The Strength that is needed but never denied,
And the Beauty to crown all the work we're engaged in,
From the source of all beauty was ever supplied.

Thus, in wisdom conceived, and cemented by Him
Who adorns, while He smiles on, the work
He approves;
Our Order shall stand, discharging all duties,
Involved in the mandate of brotherly love.

CONSECRATION OF A ROYAL ARK MARINERS LODGE.

Thursday, June 12th was a red-letter day, among the brethren of the Mark degree in Somersetshire. The occasion being the holding of a Provincial Grand Mark Lodge at the Three Choughs Hotel, Yeovil, and the consecration of a new Mark Lodge and Royal Ark Mariners' Lodge, in that town.

Under ordinary circumstances the meeting would have been one of an important character, but in this instance special interest attached to it, owing to the fact of this being the first occasion of any Royal Ark Mariners' Lodge, under the authority of the Grand Mark Lodge of England, being consecrated in the province of Somerset.

The proceedings commenced at 11 o'clock a.m., at the Three Choughs Hotel, by an Emergent Ark Lodge being opened by the Worshipful Brother Benjamin Cox, Past W.C.N. supported on his right by the V.W.D.P.G.M.M. Bro. Capt. Irwin, and on his left by Bro. Commander John Townshend, R.N., W. Henry Davies as J.; and F. Vizard, as S.; A. W. Scott, D.C.; Sidney Jones, S.D.; and F. G. Frickley, Guardian.

The business of the Royal Ark Lodge embraced the elevation of the following Mark Master, Masons Bro. Rev. M. Shackleton, Vicar of Wincanton, and M.M.M. of 128; W. S. Gillard, K.T., P.I.G. Mark W., and M.M. of 128; A. W. Batter, K.T., R.C., P.G.M.S.D. and W.M. elect 128; B. Atwell, P.M., P.G.M.S.B., and J.W. of 128; J. Fry, P.G.M. Steward, and M.M.M. 128; J. B. Colthurst, P.M., and M.M.M. 128; R. S. Chant, 128; R. G. Love, 128; T. Sherring, 128; J. Himbury, 128; E. E. Earle, M.M.M. 102; W. L. Gaskill, M.M.M. 102; and W. Munro, M.M.M. 119. The ceremony of elevation was worked in all its details by the W.C., Bro. Cox, and which elicited the warmest approval from the brethren. The W. Commander then handed the gavel to the V.W.D.P.G.M.M., Bro. Irwin, who installed as Worshipful Commanders, Bros. F. Vizard, K.T., R.T., Prov. P.S.G.M.W.; W. S. Gillard, K.T. P. Prov. G.S.M.O.; A. W. Butter, K.T., R.C., Prov. G.M. Sec.; and F. G. Tuckey, Prov. G.M. Asst. Secretary.

The V.W.D.P.G.M.M. then handed the warrant of the "Rainbow" Royal Ark Lodge No. 162, to Bro. B. Cox, the first W.C.N., who immediately invested Bro. W. S. Gillard, as his I.P.C.N. The other officers will be appointed at an Emergent Ark Lodge, which will be held shortly. The lodge was then closed in form. The room was re-arranged for the purpose of Provincial Grand Mark Lodge which was immediately opened in due form.

A BOON TO EVERY HOUSEHOLD.—Boots, with the celebrated wire-quilted soles, wearing twice as long as ordinary leather, for all ages; and children's boots with metallic tips, which never wear out at the toes, may be had at most shoe dealers. Insist on giving these a trial, and judge on their merits.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC

COUGH ELIXIR.

DISEASES OF THE LUNGS AND AIR-VESSELS. CROSBY'S

BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsey, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist Scarborough.

* * * Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had Gratis of all Chemists.

YOUNG'S ARNICATED CORN AND BUNION PLAISTERS are the best ever invented for giving immediate ease, and removing those painful excrescences. Price 6d. and 1s. per box. May be had of most chemists. Observe the trade mark.—HY—without which none are genuine be sure and ask for YOUNG'S.

London, Reeves and Turner, 185, Fleet-street

MIDSUMMER HOLIDAYS:

E. MOSES and SON have made special preparations, on a scale commensurate with the constantly increasing demand at this season of the year, for BOYS' CLOTHING for Seaside and Country wear.

CLOTHING FOR BOYS.

Every description of CLOTHING for BOYS can be obtained, ready-made or made to measure, at E. MOSES and SON'S.

CLOTHING FOR BOYS.

E. MOSES and SON'S STOCK of CLOTHING for BOYS comprises all the most popular styles for home and school wear, and they venture to assert that it is unequalled as well in magnitude and variety as in excellence and durability of materials and workmanship.

CLOTHING FOR BOYS.

E. MOSES and SON beg to state that the Departments for BOYS' CLOTHING in their establishments are quite distinct, which will be found a great convenience, particularly by ladies accompanying their sons.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

WARRINGTON.—Lodge of Lights (No. 148).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Rooms, Sankey-street, on Monday evening, 30th ult. The W.M., Bro. Sharp, was supported by a goodly number of brethren. The lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes read, after which the ballot was taken for Mr. Thomas Tunstall, and Mr. John Rymer Young, as candidates for the mysteries and privileges. The tongue of good report was rewarded by an unanimous election, and the two gentlemen were initiated, at the request of the W.M., by Bro. John Bowes, P.M., P.Prov. G. Reg. Cumberland and Westmoreland. The W.M. afterwards passed Bros. D. Wilkins and T. B. Carter. There being no further business, the lodge was closed with the usual solemnities.

ROCHFORD.—Lodge of True Friendship (No. 160).—This lodge held its meeting on Tuesday, the 24th of June, in the lodge room at the Old Ship Inn, Rochford, to instal Bro. Albert Lucking, the W.M. Elect, as Worshipful Master for the ensuing year. The ceremony of installation was performed by Wor. Bro. William Pissey, P.M. No. 160, and P.P.J.G.W. of Essex. The W.M. appointed the following as his officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. J. A. Wardell, S.W.; Joseph Reeve, J.W.; W. Bro. H. Wood, P.M. and P.P.G.O., re-elected Treasurer; W. Bro. George Burgess, P.M. and P.P.J.G.D., re-appointed Secretary; Bro. T. Gower, Assistant-Secretary; Bros. Rev. H. J. Hatch, S.D.; W. Bishop, J.D.; W. Allen, jun., I.G.; A. Harrington and Wiggins, Stewards; J. Allen, re-elected Tyler. The following Provincial Grand Officers, Present and Past, Past Masters, and visitors were present:—W. Bros. J. Burton, P.M. No. 276, and Provincial Grand Treasurer; W. Allen, P.M. No. 160, P.P.A.G.D.C.; H. Wood, P.M. No. 160, P.P.G.O.; George F. Browning, P.M. No. 160, P.P.J.G.W.; George Burgess, P.M. No. 160, P.P.J.G.D.; Jas. Wiseman, P.M. No. 160, P.P.G.S.B.; Fredk. Wiseman, P.M. No. 160; William Pissey, P.M. No. 160, P.P.J.G.W.; A. Veley, W.M. No. 276; Frederick Wood, P.M. No. 1000, P.P.S.G.W.; J. Allen, P.M. No. 160, P.P.G.S.B.; D. B. Grout, P.M. No. 160, P.P.S.G.D.; Edward Judd, I.P.M. No. 160; Provincial Grand Registrar; Garrington, P.M.; Peter Richmond, P.M.; J. A. Wardell, W.M. No. 1000; Beck, Secretary, No. 1000; D. Morrin, P.M. No. 172 and 190; E. E. Phillips, S.D. No. 1000; Geo. Harvey, No. 692; F. Cantor, No. 1000; Bradbury, No. 1000; Luker, No. 1000; Barrett, No. 1000, and others. After the lodge was closed, about 38 brethren sat down to an excellent banquet at the Old Ship Inn, Hertford, provided by host Bro. H. D. Brown. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, and the evening was enlivened by songs from Bros. H. Wood, F. Wiseman, Hatch, J. Allen, Wiggins, Beck, Jones, and Gower. A very enjoyable evening was spent.

LEICESTER.—John of Gaunt Lodge (No. 523).—The festival of the John of Gaunt Lodge, No. 523, was held on Tuesday, June 24th, under the presidency of the R.W. Bro. William Kelly, P.P.G.M., who was supported by Bros. F. J. Baines, S.W., W.M. elect; S. S. Partridge, J.W., and a large number of officers and brethren. The minutes of the last lodge having been read and confirmed, the ballot was taken for Mr. George Louis Vaughan, of Belmont Villas, Leicester, who, being unanimously elected, was introduced in ancient form and initiated into the mysteries of the Order. The Treasurer's report for the past year was then read, and adopted with the best thanks of the lodge to Bro. W. B. Smith for his services as Treasurer. Bro. F. J. Baines, the W.M. elect, having given his assent to the ancient charges and regulations, was presented to a board of Installed Masters, installed in due form, and saluted with the customary honours. The ceremony of installation was most ably performed by the R.W.P.P.G.M. Bro. Kelly. The W.M. returned thanks for the honour conferred upon him, and proceeded to invest his officers as follows:—W. Bros. W. Sculthorpe, I.P.M.; S. S. Partridge, S.W.; J. T. Thorp, J.W.; Rev. J. R. Spittal, P.M., Chap.; Bros. Rev. W. T. Fry, Secretary; T. A. Wykes, Assistant Secre-W. D. Rowlett, S.D.; A. Ross, J.D.; W. Bros. C. Johnson, P.M., Org.; R. Taylor, I.G.; J. F. Smith and A. Sargent, Stewards; C. Bembridge and T. Dunn, Tylers. A vote of thanks having been passed to Bro. Kelly for the admirable manner in which he performed the ceremony of installation, and hearty good wishes having been given by the visiting brethren, the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet. The W.M. presided with marked ability, and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given. The tables were beautifully decorated with flowers and plants from the conservatory of Bro. Charlesworth, and the proceedings of the evening were enlivened by the singing of Bros. S. Tebbutt, E. J. Crow, R. Taylor, W. T. Rowlett, and T. A. Wykes, and the instrumental performances of Bro. Henry Nicholson (flute), G. L. Vaughan (flute), W. T. Rowlett (oboe), T. A. Wykes (bassoon), and E. J. Crow (piano). Great praise is due to the Stewards, Bros. Smith and Sargent, for the excellent arrangements in connection with the banquet.

LIVERPOOL.—Downshire Lodge (No. 594).—On Thursday, the 26th ultimo, the members of the Downshire Lodge, No. 594, celebrated their anniversary, by the usual installation ceremonial, which was followed in the afternoon by the annual pic-nic. The assembly for business took place at 9.30 a.m. in the lodge-room, 60, Duke-street, where a large gathering of the brethren took place to witness the installation of Bro. W. D. Rowse, the W.M. elect. The chair was taken by Bro. R. Ing, W.M., supported by the following officers and brethren:—Bros. F. Sergeant, P.M.; P. M. Larsen, P.M.; W. D. Rowse, S.W.; H. Hunt, J.W.; S. E. Ibbs, Treas. P.P.G.S.B.; C. Leighton, Sec.; T. Dilcock, S.D. W. G. Veale, Org.; W. Crawford, Tyler. W. Leatham, N. Ludvigsin, J. F. Podesta, R. Williams, N. G. Miller, J. Le Comber, W. Cattell, J. Whitfield, R. P. France, T. Boswell, J. S. Houghton, D. Quayle, A. Morrison, G. H. Martin, W. Hillman, P. Askew, J. S. Jones, G. Maxwell, M. Figdor, H. Worthington, and W. H. Thompson. Amongst the visitors [were]:—Bros. J. Hamer, P. Prov. G. Treas.; J. Pemberton, P.M. 1264; J. Skeaf, P.G.G.; W. Pughe, W.M. 1182; P. B. Gee, P.M. 1264; E. Kyle, S.W. 673; T. Clark, P.M. 673; W. Doyle, P.M. 667, P.G.S.; A. Wineup, P.M. 1326; P. R. Thorn, P.M. 1182; R. S. Williams, P.M. 292; T. Fozzard, P.M. 1035; J. T. Callow, W.M. 673; J. Hocken, P.M. 673; T. Evans, S.W. 1356; R. Martin, jun. J.D. 1182; E. Ramson, 249; J. Bolton, 667; D. Jackson, 673; H. Burrows, 673; and others. After the transaction of some formal business Bro. R. Ing proceeded to instal Bro. W. D. Rowse as Wor. Master of the lodge, which he did in an exceedingly effective and impressive manner. The following brethren were subsequently invested as officers of the lodge:—Bros. H. Hunt, S.W.; T. Dilock, J.W.; S. E. Ibbs, Treas.; A. Morrison, Sec.; R. P. France, S.D.; J. Le Comber, J.D.; J. H. Martin, I.G.; H. Worthington, and T. Boswell, Stewards; P. M. Larsen, P.M., M.C.; W. Veale, Org. Bro. W. Crawford was unanimously re-elected Tyler. After the morning's business, about 170 of the brethren and their fair friends took busses for the pretty village of Hale. Although the weather was of the most disagreeable character, happily the rain cleared off in the afternoon, and the pic-nickers enjoyed the afternoon's "out" to their heart's content. A capital dinner was served in a tent on the grounds of the "Child of Hale" Hotel, the W.M. (Bro. Rowse) presiding. After dessert had been placed on the table, he gave the loyal toasts in short but happy terms, being responded to with the greatest enthusiasm by the large company. Bro. Ing proposed the toast of "The Right Worshipful Master, Bro. W. D. Rowse," referring to the excellent qualities possessed by him. After the W.M. had responded to the toast in eloquent terms, he gave the "Health of the I.P.M., Bro. Ing," to whom he presented, in the name of the members of the lodge, a handsome P.M.'s jewel. After the presentation had been duly acknowledged, and the health of the ladies proposed by Bro. Ibbs (seconded by Bros. Doyle and Callow), the party adjourned to the bowling-green, where the merry dance was kept up with spirit till the hour of departure arrived, when the party started on their return to Liverpool.

PORT ELIZABETH, CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.—Lodge of Good Hope (No. 863).—On the 24th of April a meeting of the members of this lodge was held for the purpose of installing the Worshipful Master and investing the duly appointed officers. Bro. S. Bain of the Lodge of Good Will, conducted the ceremony, and having duly installed Bro. C. T. Wheelwright, who had been elected for the second time W.M. of the lodge, assisted by the newly installed W.M. and P.M. Bro. Tonks, invested the officers with their distinguishing badges. The lodge is now constituted as follows:—Bros. C. T. Wheelwright, W.M.; J. Lonney, S.W.; T. Worrall, J.W.; J. Payne, Treasurer; W. Scruton, Secretary; J. Bredell, Organist; J. W. C. Mackay, S.D.; G. Holmes, J.D.; E. K. Smyth, I.G.; J. Morley, O.G.; B. Holmes and G. W. Humphreys, Stewards. The business of the meeting being over, the brethren to the number of about fifty, adjourned to the supper-room, and sat down to an excellent repast, laid out under the supervision of Bro. Phillips. Ample justice having been done to the good things, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, after which Bro. Bain proposed in flattering terms "The Health of the newly-installed W.M.," to which Bro. Wheelwright made a suitable reply. "The newly-elected Officers" was given by Bro. Tonks, to which Bro. Lonney responded. "The Retiring Officers" was given and duly acknowledged. There was next an interchange of compliments between the two lodges, which work together in the interests of the Order with true Masonic harmony and good feeling. The visiting brethren were toasted and Bro. Sissison made a suitable reply on their behalf. The proceedings were interspersed with some excellent musical efforts and altogether a very agreeable evening was spent by all present.

LIVERPOOL.—The Hamer Lodge (No. 1393).—Very rarely has a more genuine success attended the first year's existence of any lodge than that which has been realised in connection with the young Hamer Lodge No. 1393, holding its meetings at No. 2a, Windermere-street, Breck-road, Liverpool. In consequence of this brilliant commencement to its existence, the first anniversary of the "Hamer," which took place on Tuesday, June the 24th, at the splendid lodge-room in Liverpool was marked by the greatest clat, and formed one of the most brilliant Masonic gatherings which have been held for some time. There was a large and exceedingly influential gathering of brethren, the chief item on the business programme being, of course, the installation of the W.M. elect (Bro. J. Jones). Bro. W. T. May, who has most efficiently filled the office of W.M. since the consecration of the lodge, was present in the seat of honour, supported by the following officers of the lodge:—Bros. J. Jones, S.W.; J. Harriman, Secretary; C. Tyrer, Treasurer; Captain T

Berry, S.D.; R. H. Evans, J.D.; H. Jackson, I.G.; W. G. Veale, Organist; T. Dilcock, J.S.; and M. Williams, Tyler. The members present were:—Bros. J. Hamer, P. Prov. G. Treas.; T. Roberts, R. Dunderdale, J. McCarthy, T. Large, R. W. Rowlands, J. Bluck, R. Roberts, J. Windsor, J. Harding, E. Dutch, N. Thornthwaite, E. Wilson, G. Aspinall, T. Roberts, A. Gilfillan, R. Price, A. H. Brooke, I. Wolf, T. Durrans, N. M. Jones, H. Burrows, S. Millikin, R. Parry, E. B. Ingham, R. Leason, H. S. Griffiths, J. Denney, J. A. McKobie, G. Bewley, J. Houlding. The visitors present were Bros. J. Skeaf, P.G.O.; J. Thornton, P.M. 673 and 1182; J. Parsons, W.M. 203; H. James, P.M. 203; W. Boulton, S.W. 823; T. Fozzard, P.M. 1035; J. Ball, Sec. 673; T. Shaw; S.D. 823; G. Chapman, 823; R. Cox, 823; T. A. Jackson, 1264; W. Roberts, S.D. 1264; R. Williams, 1035; and G. Wynn, 673. The Lodge was opened in solemn form by Bro. May, W.M., and after the minutes of the previous meeting had been confirmed, Bro. J. Jones, (W.M. elect) proceeded to initiate Messrs. Messrs John Dance, and John James Griffiths, and pass Bros. J. Wolf, Large, Brook, and Durrans. Bro. W. T. May, W.M., then took the chair, and in the most effective manner installed Bro. J. Jones as the W.M. for the ensuing year. The following brethren were invested by the W.M. as the officers of the lodge:—Bros. Captain T. Berry, S.W.; R. H. Evans, J.W.; C. Tyrer, Treas.; J. Harriman, Sec.; H. Jackson, S.D.; W. F. Johnson, J.D.; J. M'Carthy, I.G.; W. G. Veale, Org.; W. T. May, I.P.M., D.C.; E. Dutch, S.S.; E. Wilson, J.S.; and R. Price, Assist. S. Bro. M. Williamson was unanimously re-elected Tyler of the lodge. The charges to the officers upon investment, were given by Bro. Hamer, but the ceremony in its other parts was most admirably performed by Bro. May. About sixty brethren subsequently sat down to a sumptuous banquet in the lodge room, under the presidency of Bro. Jones, W.M. When dessert had been placed on the table, the W.M. gave in a few but appropriate and impressive terms, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, which were very enthusiastically received, Bro. Skeaf, P.G.O., in responding for the P.G.M. and Officers for West Lancashire, referred to the popularity and zeal of Bro. Lord Skelmersdale, and expressed his conviction that the province must prosper under his presidency. Bro. May, I.P.M., next proposed the toast of the evening, "The W.M. of the Hamer Lodge, No. 1393, Bro. Jones," and in doing so said the members might congratulate themselves on having secured as their chief a brother who had already fulfilled the same and other offices in lodges and kindred assemblies with credit to himself and honour to the craft. The toast was drunk with immense enthusiasm, and after the W.M. had responded in feeling and eloquent terms, he proposed "The Immediate Past and Installing Master, Bro. W. T. May," to whom he paid the highest compliment for efficiency in working and true brotherly spirit. In the name of the lodge he also first presented Bro. May, with a splendid P.M.'s jewel, in which was set a brilliant of the first water, bearing the following inscription:—"Presented to Bro. W. Thomas May, P.M. first Master of the Hamer Lodge, 1309, as a mark of the esteem in which he is held by its members and as an acknowledgment of his zeal and Masonic ability." "The W.M. also presented him with a Past Principal's jewel, bearing the following inscription:—"Presented to Companion Wm. Thomas May, P.M.E.Z. of Chapter 673, by a few brethren and companions, members of the Hamer Lodge, 1393, in appreciation of services rendered by him to the order." The presentation was acknowledged by Bro. May, in exceedingly appropriate and happy terms. A number of other toasts followed, and the proceedings were greatly enlivened by the musical efforts of Bros. Gilfillan, Wilson, T. Roberts, Evans, Chapman, and the dramatic efforts of Bros. Jackson, and M'Carthy were novel and highly interesting features of the evening's amusements. "Karl the Martyr," as recited by Bro. Jackson, was a masterpiece of dramatic power and effect.

IPSWICH.—St. Luke's Chapter (No. 225).—The usual quarterly meeting of this chapter was held at the Coach and Horses Hotel, Ipswich, on Wednesday, the 25th ult., when there were present—Comps. J. Franks, M.E.Z.; H. Richmond, H.; J. Turner, J.; Emra Holmes, Prin. Soj., acting N.; S. D. King, P.Z., Scribe E.; G. S. Findley, P.Z.; J. Tracey, P.Z.; G. Abbott, J. Godball, and others. Bro. Alfred Fuller, of the St. Peter's Lodge, Peterborough, No. 442, having been proposed as a candidate for exaltation by Comp. Emra Holmes, and seconded by Comp. King, he was balloted for, unanimously accepted, and, being present, was duly obligated and exalted as a member of the Holy Royal Arch, the beautiful and impressive ceremony being most admirably conducted by the venerable and esteemed Bro. Franks, than whom there is no more able and erudite exponent of this beautiful degree in Suffolk. Comp. Richmond kindly officiated as Prin. Soj., and also gave the symbolical lecture in his usual lucid manner. Comp. Turner delivered the historical, and Comp. King, the mystical lecture, which he gave in his usual graphic and impressive manner. This being the meeting for the installation of officers, Comp. Richmond was duly inducted into the chair as Z.; Comp. Turner, as H.; and Comp. Emra Holmes was duly obligated and installed into the third Principal's chair as J. The usual routine business having been transacted, the chapter was closed, and the companions partook of refreshment. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given from the chair, and duly responded to, when the M.E.Z. called upon the companions to drink the health of their newly-exalted companion. Bro. Fuller, in responding, spoke briefly and to the point, and expressed himself as having been deeply impressed by the imposing ceremony he had witnessed that evening. Comp. King, in complimentary terms, then proposed their "newly-installed Third Principal, Comp. Emra Holmes," who, in replying to the toast, thanked the companions for the cordial way in which they had acknowledged the toast, and expressed a wish that the Royal Arch Degree might become better known and appreciated in the Craft. He thought this end might be best attained if the fee for exaltation were lowered to one guinea instead of three, so that it should be almost obligatory that every Master Mason should take it. Many good Masons objected on principle to pay so large a sum as three guineas for what was only a part of a degree, when they had paid but little more for three degrees, especially as they considered they were entitled to the full benefits of Masonry for the original fee of initiation. Such men would not object to one guinea, though they certainly would to the larger sum, and he thought it desirable that as many as possible should be attracted into the noble convocation of the Holy Royal Arch. The brethren present cordially fell in with Bro. Holmes' views, and approved of the suggestion for lowering the fee.

GIBRALTAR MARK LODGE (No. 43).—The regular meeting of this lodge took place on Thursday evening, the 12th inst., at 8 p.m. Notwithstanding the heat of the weather, and the numerous changes which have recently taken place in the garrison, there was a very goodly muster of the brethren, and certainly a glance at the agenda paper was enough to satisfy the most exacting that a fair amount of labour had to be gone through, before the column of the Junior Warden could be raised. The W.M. was supported by his officers, viz., Bros. Morgan, S.W.; Brown, J.W.; Price, M.O.; Seath, S.O.; Hepper, J.O.; Marshall, S.D.; Michie, I.G.; and Bro. Williamson, Secretary. Amongst the brethren we noticed Bros. Adams, Bachelor, Brown, Oxley, Prosser, Drysdale, Evjenth, Trenerry, Thorndike, Burt, Dunn, Pringle, Philpott, Ashton, Bottallo, Peterkin, and others. The W.M. commenced the business of the evening by balloting for Bros. Patterson and Aparicio, of Lodge 278, Bro. Recano, of Lodge 115, and Bros. McInvery and Randall, of Lodge 743. The ballot proving unanimous, and Bro. Patterson, McInvery, and Randall being in attendance, they were duly admitted and regularly advanced to the honourable degree of M.M.M. The W.M. then notified that Grand Lodge certificates had been received for Bros. Jones, Ryley, Satterthwaite, Chillingworth, and Elmes, and these were at once presented to some of the above-named brethren as were present. The W.M. then read a communication from the Grand Secretary desiring that the "title" for the R.A.M. Lodge, attached to No. 43, should be at once selected and forwarded to him with view to the completion of the warrant for the working of this degree at Gibraltar. Bro. Brown, J.W., proposed, and Bro. Bachelor, in a very eulogistic speech, seconded the same, that the lodge in question should be called the "Cockburn" as a small acknowledgement of the unwearied exertions of their excellent W.M. to establish this degree in Gibraltar. This proposition was put to the meeting and carried without a single dissentient voice. Some other matters of minor importance having been disposed of, the W.M. intimated that he would now proceed to instal the W.M. elect; Bro. Morgan was properly presented and inducted into the chair in due and ancient form, and, having been regularly proclaimed and saluted, proceeded to appoint the following officers:—Bros. Marshall, S.W.; Hepper, J.W.; Bro. Seath, M.O.; G. Brown, S.O.; Michie, J.O.; Evjenth, S.D.; Claveresso, J.D.; Oxley, R.M.; Ashton, I.G.; Bachelor, M.C., and Prosser, Secretary. The above-named officers having been duly invested and conducted to their various posts in the lodge, the S.W., Bro. Marshall, rose, and after a few well-selected and highly complimentary remarks, proposed that the following should be recorded and entered in the minute book:—"That this lodge learns with deep regret the removal of Bro. Balfour Cockburn, P.M., is about to be removed from Gibraltar, and the brethren beg him to accept their sincere and hearty thanks for the increasing zeal and devotion he has at all times manifested towards its prosperity, and also for the skill, ability, and courtesy with which he has presided over it as W.M. for the past two years." This was seconded by the W.M., Bro. Morgan, and carried unanimously. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren retired to refreshment, where the rest of the evening was spent in much social enjoyment.

GLASGOW.—Glasgow Chapter (No. 50) held an emergency meeting on June the 26th, for the purpose of exalting Bro. W. M. Neilson, P.G.M. of Glasgow. Comp. J. Crabb, Z., presided; G. B. Adams, J., acting as H.; T. Lankit Scribe E., acting as J.; G. W. Wheeler, H. 73 1st S.; W. Bromlie, 2nd S. On the dais were Comps. F. A. Barrow, P.G. Superintendent; W. Smith, P.G.H.; J. Tweed, J. 73; and A. McTaggart, P.G.S.E. The whole of the work was performed in Comp. Crabb's best style. At the conclusion Comp. W. M. Neilson invited all the companions present to accompany him to Bro. McKenzie's, the Clarence Hotel, where a most sumptuous banquet was provided for them. The chair was occupied by W. M. Neilson, P.G.M., who was supported by J. Cuth, Z. 50 and G. W. Wheeler, H. 73. The vice chair was filled by Comp. Barrow, P.G.Z., who was supported by W. Smith, P.G.H., and A. McTaggart, P.G.S.E. After full justice had been done to the viands, and also to the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, the vice proposed "The Health of their Noble Entertainer," whom they had long known and highly respected. He was at the head of the Craft in that province, but to-night they had to honour him in a new capacity. Comp. Neilson, in reply, expressed the gratification that it had given him to enter their ranks, and his satisfaction in the efficient way in which he had been received. Although as a candidate he was not able to judge from experience of this ceremony, still as the head of the Craft in that province, and their custom of visting each lodge in its working, at least once in the year, he thought he knew good work when he saw and heard it.

Bro. Barrow had been pleased to speak highly of his work in the province. He believed he had raised its status, yet, with the assistance of his officers and P.G.L., he hoped to do more during the ensuing year. He should not be satisfied till they had a hall of their own worthy of the Order to which they belong. The healths of the vice-chairman, H. Crabb, Z 50; R. Bell, M.N.C., K.T., the P.G.S.B., were duly honoured, but we regret that our space forbids us to give them in detail.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF WORCESTERSHIRE.

The annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Worcestershire was held in the Masonic Hall, Kidderminster, on Tuesday, 24th ult. The hall is a noble room, and was very handsomely decorated with the emblems and banners of the different lodges of the Province, while, in addition, on either side of the organ, were magnificent collections of flowering shrubs, ferns, and other valuable greenhouse plants, kindly lent for the occasion by T. Lea, Esq., M.P., and J. Humphries, Esq. Their kindness in lending that which so much and so effectually assisted in the decorations of the lodge is the more to be appreciated as neither of them are members of the Craft.

The business of the day was commenced by Bro. Hopkins, W.M. Hope and Charity, 377, opening his lodge to the third degree at 12.30.

The R. W. Bro. A. H. Royds, P.G.M., attended by his officers past and present, entered the lodge-room in procession at 1 p.m., Bro. Haynes playing a march on the organ.

The Provincial Grand Lodge having been opened in due form, the summons convening the same was read, and the minutes of the last Prov. Grand Lodge read and confirmed. The muster-roll of the lodges was then called over; every lodge was represented. The Prov. Grand Treasurer's accounts, having been audited, were passed. The brethren were then called on to elect a Treasurer for the ensuing year, when Bro. Griffiths at once nominated Bro. Masefield, saying that if again elected, it would make the twenty-first time that he had been chosen for that honourable and responsible office; this was seconded, and would have been carried unanimously, but that the Prov. G.M., calling Bro. Masefield to the front of the pedestal, invested him, amid the hearty cheers of the brethren, with the jewel of Deputy Prov. G.M.; upon which the new Deputy P.G.M. nominated as his successor in the Treasurership, Bro. Griffiths, W.M., P.M. 280, P.P.S.G.W. The officers for the ensuing year were appointed and invested as follows:—

Bro. W. Masefield, 498	...	D.P.G.M.
" R. Smith, 280	...	S.G.W.
" J. Rutland, 280	...	J.G.W.
" Rev. H. Brown, 1097	...	G. Chaplain.
" H. Cross, 529	...	G.R.
" W. Bristow, 252	...	Secretary.
" W. G. Hopkins, 377	...	S.D.
" G. Smith, 498	...	J.D.
" G. W. Grosvenor, 560	...	Sup. of Wks.
" W. Healey, 564	...	D.C.
" J. R. Wood, 377	...	A.D.C.
" Westbury, 573	...	S.B.
" W. Haynes, 1204	...	Organist.
" J. Blundell, 560	...	Pursuivant.
" W. Turton, 377	...	Steward.
" Jas. Morton, 377	...	"
" G. Taylor, 377	...	"
" J. M. Howes, 377	...	"
" J. T. Meredith, 377	...	"
" J. Prior, 377	...	"

It was decided that the next Prov. Grand Lodge shall be held at Stourbridge, under the auspices of the Lodge of Stability, 564.

Reference was made to the "Memorabilia of the Worcester Lodge," compiled by Bro. Griffiths, and an earnest wish was expressed that the book could be made more generally useful to the members of the Craft. As attention has now been drawn to the history of the Craft in the province, it was hoped that all having control or possession of old records respecting Masonry would look them up, and communicate with Bro. Griffiths.

The Prov. Grand Lodge having been closed, the brethren walked in procession to St. George's Church, where an admirable Masonic sermon was preached by the P.G. Chaplain from Ezekiel xxxiii, 6 verse. A full choral service was performed, the prayers being intoned by Bro. Rev. J. L. Cheshire. Bro. Fitzgerald, P.P.G.D.C., and P.M. 377, presided at the organ with his usual skill and ability.

After service, the procession was re-formed, and the brethren walked to the Lion Hotel, where a sumptuous banquet was provided. Great regret was expressed, that, owing to domestic bereavement, the Prov. G.M. was not able to stay; the chair was, therefore, filled by his newly-appointed Deputy. A very pleasant evening was passed, the brethren parting at an early hour, the principal drawback to the enjoyment being that the banquet-room was much too small for the number of guests. It is to be regretted that the arrangements of the year 1866 were not adopted on this occasion, as in future, we hope they will.

Among the brethren present, in addition to those above-named, were—Bros. Binckes, Secretary to the Boys' School; W. Woods, P.P.S.G.W.; S. Smith, P.P.J.G.W.; W. H. Jones, P.P.J.G.W.; G. Baldwin, P.P.G.R.; J. Aston, P.P.G.R.; W. H. Westwood, P.P.S.G.D.; Kendrick, P.P.G. Sup. of Works; Bloomer, P.P.G. Sup. of Wks.; Brettell, P.P.G.S.B.; Belitzay, P.P.G.S.B.; A. J. Hancocks, P.P.J.G.D.; and about ninety other brethren.

MASONIC AND GENERAL INSURANCE COMPANY.

On Wednesday, the 11th of June, some of the most influential supporters of the above company dined together at the Cannon-street Hotel, where an excellent repast was served by the proprietor, Bro. Spencer.

The chairman of the company, Bro. J. Rankin Stebbing, J.P., presided, and he was supported by the deputy-chairman, Dr. Beaman, and every other director of the company, many directors of local boards, and several of the agents of the institution. Letters of apology and regret were received from Sir Harcourt Johnston, Bart, M.P., Bro. Horace Lloyd, Q.C., Komaine Callendar, Alderman Addyman, Major Studly, and other influential patrons of the company.

After the usual loyal and introductory toasts had been given, which were severally responded to by Captain Trower, Captain Bennett, Captain Eglese, Dr. Fennell, and Bro. Llewellyn Evans, in eloquent and appropriate terms, the chairman in proposing the "toast of the evening," remarked:—

Gentlemen—When this company was originated, my colleagues entertained the firm conviction that a life assurance company, devoting itself to the interests of the great Masonic body, was certain to ensure a large measure of Masonic patronage, both from the Grand Lodge of England, and from that numerous and influential body of men who own allegiance to our noble order. Although it cannot be asserted at present that a full measure of encouragement has been received, I entertain the most confident opinion that it will come eventually, bringing with it all its substantial and powerful influences. (Hear, hear.) The Company laboured under the greatest disadvantages at the outset, for not only was it originated before the commercial world had recovered from the terrible panic of '66, but it started at a time when Mr. Cave's Act of 1867 was in operation, pressing with severity on the labours, and checking the aspirations of all young institutions. But, gentlemen, although this Act certainly militated against some of the interests of our office, the cloud had its silver lining, and the £20,000 that was required to be deposited by all new offices, subsequently established, closed the door to active competition, and attached a substantial good-will value to the Masonic Assurance Company. (Hear.) This office never considered the possession of a great capital to be the 'be all and the end all' here, hence the directors were satisfied to go for a moderate capital. The first ten thousand shares have just been subscribed for, on which £1 per share has been paid, and as there is still the sum of £10,000 at call on these shares, the directors would have remained content with this backbone had there not arisen, during the past year, in the minds of the assuring world a partiality for offices having larger reserved funds. The directors have not expended large sums in advertising, but they have devoted their attention to the cultivation of local boards, satisfied that if they secured in different parts of England the active support of the brotherhood, there is a wide and ever increasing field for the expansion of life assurance, more especially for the development of the positive system, which this company was the first to originate under the auspices of a life assurance authority of great mental activity. We are now engaged in securing the issue of the second 10,000 shares by warrants to bearer, a new and popular feature in scrip certificates, by which the liability of the subscriber is placed beyond question. This issue is to be conditional upon the whole 10,000 being placed, and when allotted, out of this fund a large proportion of the sum will be invested in the names of the trustees, and such a reserved fund established as will place the company on a still more solid and substantial foundation (cheers). But gentlemen, although this undertaking bears the title of Masonic Assurance Company, it is not exclusively Masonic, but opens its portals to the world at large. Directed as it is by men occupying certain prominent positions in the craft, it gives a sort of guarantee for just and equitable dealing. It dare not act unjustly, and this should encourage others to join its ranks and swell its numbers. I say it with all sincerity, and certainly in the hope that the remark will give no pain, that "Freemasons, as a rule, are not the most prudent of men." Whether it be that they are of too social and genial a disposition to think and care for the future, certain it is that although providing by their charities for the wants of others, they occasionally forget their more immediate obligations. I will present to you two pictures—There is the man who lives up to his means, spends all he earns, and makes no provision for the future. He dies, and not only are his wife and little ones, and all who are dear to him, deprived of their happy home, their costly luxuries, their carriage, their enjoyments, but they are suddenly reduced to a condition of dependence, rendered doubly harsh and trying from their former state of affluence and comfort. There is another who lives within his means, saving, but not penurious, and when he comes to die, though racked by pain and tortured by disease, his pillow is smoothed by the comforting thought that his wife and little ones will not be left to the mercy of strangers, but that his savings have provided for them such a solace in the life assurance policy, that he bows to the decree of the last enemy with resignation, if not with cheerfulness. (Loud cheers.) Gentlemen, in giving the toast "Success to the Masonic Assurance Company," I need hardly tell you that you yourselves can minister greatly to that success, if you will but bring to our worthy manager and actuary, Mr. Bigg, as many policies as you can secure between this and the end of next September, the period of our first quinquennial valuation. I couple the name of Mr. Bigg with the toast, because I have known and respected him for many years, and I know, moreover, he has the interests of the company most warmly at heart. (Cheers.) Joined to a profound knowledge of life assurance, and great administrative ability, he possesses those high principles of fair dealing between assurer and assured, that, well carried out, form the soundest basis of all assurance offices, and which confidence in our excellent manager entirely decided me in accepting the very agreeable office which it has been the good pleasure of my colleagues to confer upon me. (Renewed cheering.)

Mr. Bigg, on rising, was received with a most cordial greeting, and after some prefatory observations on the honour done him by associating his name with the toast, observed, "The race is not always to the swift nor the battle to the strong." is an old and very truthful adage. I can well remember that when this company was incorporated, some four years ago, there were, at least, some four offices that I can call to mind which started at such a rapid pace as to create in my mind a certain feeling of envy, and it was very painful to me to be asked by the directors why we did not make a similar rapid progress, but the directors of this company would never engage in the expenditure of money by anticipation, well knowing that a day of reckoning must come. Those four offices now, gentlemen, are not one hundred miles from Chancery Lane, while we still remain in New Bridge Street. In Grant's recent edition of "British Batties," he adverts to an incident that forcibly illustrates the axiom that the "race is not always to the swift." While commanding a British contingent in 1630, the French Marshal Biron complained to the English officer, Sir Roger Williams, that he did not bring up his companies—I don't mean life assurance companies (laughter)—fast enough. Sir Roger replied, "This was the pace, Marshall, with which our forefathers conquered your country (France), and I don't mean to alter it." Depend upon it, gentlemen, the slow and steady pace will, in the long run, prove in our case the safest. (Hear, hear.) As regards the "battle not being always to the strong," I may remark that phrenologists tell us that "Size, ceteris paribus, is the measure of power." I question if this applies in all cases. Take, for example, the Claimant. (Laughter.) I hope I shall not be considered guilty of contempt of court when I say he is a man of prodigious size, and yet he seems to have a very weak case. Then again, I have my eye on a worthy friend of mine at this table who weighs some three stone more than myself, and yet, in half an hour, I could walk him into a shadow, or a great perspiration. Neither does it invariably apply to life offices. Witness the European and Albert Companies. Why, sirs, it was their very size that sunk them, like water-logged vessels, in the very first gale they had to encounter! It should also be remembered that many of the greatest institutions of the present day, when of our age, had not accomplished the amount of business we have succeeded in obtaining. (Hear.) As regards the question of the ratio of expenditure to income, I should very much like, if time permitted, to read to you a recent article that appeared in one of the assurance journals, which is evidently the work of an able and independent writer. He speaks of the palpable injustice of comparing the expenditure of a young with an old office, and remarks, among other things, "It stands to reason that in the early years of an office its premium income will be comparatively small, because, obviously enough, it has its customers yet to seek." (Hear.) Now, gentlemen, the whole gist of the argument, as affecting our company, lies in this—We have done a small business, hence we have small liabilities. If we have assets of £4,000 to meet possible liabilities of £2,000, I contend that we are in solvent a condition as the company that has £40,000 to meet £20,000. (Hear.) We know we have at present an income that enables us to save money every year, and more than sufficient reserve to meet all probable claims. We know that our death claims, as estimated by the tables were about eight, at the average amount of about £2.75 each, or £1,950 annually. Of course, I am only giving you now a rough rule-of-thumb estimate. By the same rough estimate we know that if every one at this festive board were to assure with us for £1,000 each, while it would add £1,500 a year to our income, it would certainly bring us a claim of one life at least before the twelve months have expired. (Sensation) Life assurance, gentlemen, is a science of such unerring accuracy that I pin my faith to it. But it rests with you to make "assurance doubly sure" by bringing to the Masonic all the policies you can influence among your friends and connexions. You will thus be assisting in the promulgation of a noble cause, adding to the solidity of your investments, and, in the graphic and symbolical language of our Masonic ritual, "raising a superstructure perfect in its parts and honourable to the builders." (Applause.)

Bro. G. Lancaster, of Portsmouth, proposed "The Health of the Board of Directors," remarking that it was a great satisfaction to him to see them all present.

Bro. Surtees responded on behalf of his colleagues, and was necessarily brief, as he had only a few minutes at his disposal to secure the last train.

Bro. Bridger proposed the "Directors of the Local Board," which was responded to by Mr. Cudlipp, in a speech of remarkable ability and humour.

The Chairman then gave "The Visitors, Messrs. Bridger, Tallerman, and Loveland."

Bro. Loveland, of the Temple, responded, observing that as a director of another assurance company, he could scarcely be expected to do more than indirectly give his assistance to the Masonic in respect of assurances, but that from connexion with the Craft he felt bound to take shares in the company, which he should certainly do, and he advised the brotherhood to go and do likewise.

"The London and Provincial Medical Examiners" was proposed by Bro. Sunley, who acted jointly with Mr. Eglesse as one of the Vice-Presidents.

In responding for the London officers, Dr. Cross remarked that while the directors were the thought, and the manager the voice, the medical officers were the ear and eye to this body corporate, that both he and his worthy colleague, Dr. Hibberd, had every case under their inspection, and passed neither the lives nor the country papers until they had thoroughly satisfied themselves that the proposals and reports were satisfactory. He had been for many years the medical officer to a company which was now nulli secundus, but which, when of the age of the Masonic, was certainly not doing so large an amount of business. He said this in corroboration of Bro. Bigg's statement, and to give encouragement both to him and to the present assembly. (Hear, hear.)

Bro. Dr. Bower, of Windsor, responded for the country examiners.

"The Agents" were proposed by Bro. Bigg in appropriate terms. He highly eulogised certain of the agents, who, by their zeal and activity in their calling, had done much to promote the prosperity of the company, while he felt that an agent who consented to accept the appointment, and never exerted himself, was open to the severest censure, and was even worse than useless. He felt great pleasure in making special allusion to three agents now present, who by their energy and perseverance, seemed to realise Longfellow's "Village Blacksmith."

"Toiling, rejoicing, sorrowing,
Onward through life he goes.
Each morning sees some work begun
Each evening sees its close.
Something attempted, something done,
Has earned a night's repose."

—(Applause.) Our energetic and respected representative, Bro. Hacker, of Aldershot, had unfortunately left, but he hoped both Bro. Lloyd, of Sowerby-bridge, and Bro. Coram, of Dover, would favour the company with their views. (Hear.)

These gentlemen severally addressed the meeting, and spoke highly of their satisfaction at the way in which the business was conducted, and expressed the greatest hope of the future.

Bro. Murby also briefly responded.

"The Health of the Chairman, Bro. Stebbing," was given by Bro. Bullivant, and received by the company with the greatest enthusiasm. Though suffering from the effects of hoarseness, he displayed all his characteristic ability and eloquence, and appeared to afford the company the liveliest enjoyment.

The company dispersed at a late hour, after spending a most enjoyable evening.

GRAND LODGE OF NEW YORK.

Resolved—That the proposed amendments to the Constitution and general statutes be adopted as a whole, subject to amendments, and that such amendments be taken up and examined in numerical order. An amendment to adopt the Constitution as read, and then to offer amendments, as in committee of the whole.

M.W. James Gibson then read the amendments seriatim. The title was changed so as to read, "Constitution and Statutes of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of New York," thus striking out the word

"laws," and substituting "statutes," and the words "Most Worshipful" and "Ancient and Honourable Fraternity."

On the fourth section of Title I. being presented, which provided for "Acting Masters" and exclusion of Wardens to be representatives in the Grand Lodge, a long debate ensued, during which the five-minute rule was adopted, and, finally, the section limiting the representation in the Grand Lodge to one representative from one lodge, who shall be the Master, one of the Wardens, or a proxy duly appointed by the lodge.

The fifth section as adopted, makes the Grand Chaplains and Grand Lecturer appointed officers. They were formerly elected.

In the title, "Masonic Law," nineteen rules, heretofore known as "landmarks," were stricken out, and are, therefore, no longer a part of the Constitution.

A clause, in section 46, giving lodges power to exempt the Secretary, Chaplain, and Tyler from payment of dues, was stricken out, thus placing these officers on a footing with all the brethren.

A clause was inserted directing the compensation of the Grand Treasurer, Grand Secretary, Grand Lecturer, Grand Pursuivant, and Grand Tyler, to be fixed before they, or either of them, are elected or appointed, and not to be altered at any time so as to affect the incumbent in office.

An amendment, by R.W. Enoch P. Breed, empowering a lodge to disfranchise a member who has not paid his dues, was adopted.

The Grand Lodge was then called off until 9 a.m. next morning, when

The Grand Lodge again assembled at the appointed hour, the M.W. Grand Master on the throne. Prayer was offered by the R.W. and Rev. John G. Webster, of Palmyra.

The committee on exemplification of the work were directed to meet in Kane Lodge-rooms this morning at 9 o'clock.

The Grand Secretary announced that he had a check for 767.62 dols. from Holland Lodge, No. 8, which with 1,350 dols. already handed in by individual members makes a total from that lodge of 2,117.62 dols. for the Hall and Asylum Fund.

The amendments to the constitution were then declared in order, and M.W. James Gibson commenced to read the sections from where he left off the evening before.

To the section reading thus: "A warrant of a lodge can only be surrendered by a vote of two-thirds of the members present at a stated communication duly summoned, with notice of the proposed surrender stated in the summons, which vote shall have been previously called for upon the written request of at least two-thirds of the members of the lodge," the following amendment was added: "Provided, That a warrant cannot be surrendered if seven qualified members vote to retain it."

On reading the qualifications for membership, the clause conferring such by affiliation was made to read thus: "But no Master Mason shall become a member of a lodge other than that in which, or at the request, or upon the consent of which he received the third degree, unless it shall appear by certificate from a regular lodge that he is non-affiliated, and that he is not indebted to any lodge for dues or assessments, and that there are no charges for unmasonic conduct pending against him."

An animated debate took place upon a motion to strike out the following section, the motion being made by W. L. J. Belloni, Jr., of Arcana Lodge: "An unaffiliated Mason shall not be allowed to visit any lodge, or join in a Masonic procession, or receive Masonic relief or burial." The motion to strike out was lost.

An amendment was then offered to strike out the word "or" after the word "procession," and insert instead the words, "and shall not be entitled to." This was also lost; but an amendment to allow an unaffiliated Mason to visit a lodge once only was adopted by the committee, but was rejected by the Grand Lodge.

Section 101, which is as follows, was taken up:—

No member shall be permitted to dimit from the lodge of which he is a member until he shall present a certificate from some warranted lodge that he has been accepted for membership therein; on presentation of such certificate, and upon the written request of the brother, the lodge at a stated communication may, if the member is not an elected officer or indebted to the lodge, or under charges, issue a certificate of dimit, which shall not be delivered to the brother, but shall be transmitted by the Secretary of the lodge, to the lodge from which such certificate of acceptance came, which dimit shall not become operative, or the brother's membership in the lodge issuing the dimit terminated until the brother shall have consummated membership in the other lodge. But any member of a lodge against whom charges are not pending, and whose dues and indebtedness to the lodge are paid, may withdraw from membership by presenting a written application therefore at a stated communication. The lodge shall grant the request of the brother by dropping his name from the rolls, and his membership shall thereby be terminated, and he shall be subjected to the disabilities of an unaffiliated Master Mason, provided, however, that an elective officer cannot withdraw during his term of office.

The following was proposed as a substitute: Any member of a lodge who is not an elected officer thereof, nor under charges, and whose dues to the lodge are paid or discharged, may obtain a dimit from such lodge if he make application thereof in writing at a stated communication.

This gave rise to an animated debate, the ground taken by its opponents being that if a Mason left the State, and went to another, he would have nothing to show to enable him to join a lodge in the State to which he had gone. The substitute was ultimately lost, and the committee accepted amendments by M. W. Clinton F. Paige, changing the words "accepted" and "acceptance" for "petitioned" and "petition," and making it compulsory on the lodge to grant the dimit, and sending it to the lodge receiving the petition. The last clause in the first paragraph in the original resolution was also changed so as to read: "Which dimit shall not become operative, or the brother's membership in the lodge issuing the dimit terminated, until notice shall have been received that the brother has consummated membership in the other lodge."

A clause in the 102d section, providing that suspension (the punishment for non-payment of dues) should not extend to brethren who are manifestly unable to pay their dues, was, on motion of W. Bro. George W. Dilks, stricken out, but such punishment is not to be inflicted until two years' dues are "owing."

W. Bro. Couch, of Brooklyn, moved that any brother suspended for non-payment of dues may be restored to membership by a two-third vote of members present, and voting, provided he shall have paid the amount due at the time of his suspension.

This was amended by substituting the word "restoration" for "suspension," and "majority" for "two-thirds," and in this condition the substitute of Bro. Couch was adopted.

The Grand Lodge was called from labour to refreshment, to resume labour at 2 p.m.

On re-assembling the Committee on warrants reported in favour of granting new warrants to several lodges under dispensation.

Duplicate warrants were recommended to be granted, without charge, to High Falls Lodge, No. 428, Seneca River, No. 169; and Oriona, No. 229, in place of the originals destroyed by fire. At the same time the committee called attention to the gross carelessness of custodians of warrants, in leaving both warrants and records in their lodge rooms, often insecure, frequently inaccessible in case of fire, and recommended the Grand Lodge to adopt such measures as will hold the Master of a lodge to a strict accountability in case of the destruction of a warrant by fire. The name of "Abram's" Lodge, No. 20, was change to that of "Pioneer" Lodge, No. 20.

A motion to defer the order of the day until after the constitution should have been passed was lost, and the regular order of business proceeded with, the M. W. Isaac Phillips in the East.

The M. W. Christopher G. Fox, was elected Grand Master by a show of hands. The following committee was appointed to inform the M. W. Brother of his re-election: Past Grand Masters James Gibson, Stephen H. Johnson, and Nathaniel F. Waring.

The M. W. Brother, on presenting himself, was addressed by the Presiding Officer, on behalf of 80,000 Masons, in congratulatory terms, and was responded to by the M. W. Brother with thanks for the confidence reposed in him.

M. W. John L. Lewis nominated (and M. W., Stephen H. Johnson seconded the nomination) R. W. Ellwood E. Thorne for Deputy Grand Master. He was unanimously elected, and entered the Grand Lodge escorted by M. W. John L. Lewis, Joseph D. Evans and R. W. Isaac H. Brown, the committee appointed to inform him of his re-election unanimously, when he was congratulated on his re-election.

The following brethren were then re-elected unanimously: Senior Grand Warden, R. W. Edmond L. Judson, of Albany; Junior Grand Warden, R. W. General James W. Husted, of Peekskill; Grand Treasurer, M. W. John W. Simons, of New York; Grand Secretary, R. W. James M. Austin M.D.; Grand Chaplains, R. W. Res, R. L. Schoonmaker, F. C. Ewer, and John G. Webster, Grand Pursuivant, W. Johnston Fountain; Grand Tyler, W. John Hoole; and Grand Lecturer, R. W. George H. Raymond.

In returning thanks for his re-election, R. W. Bro. Husted gave a history of his labour in getting the taxes on the Hall remitted, which, by a blunder of an engrossing clerk, was made naught; but a supplementary bill, which he had introduced, would be signed by the Governor, and the Hall would be exempt from taxation.

The M. W. Luke Lockwood, Grand Master of Connecticut, was here introduced and received with the grand honours.

M. W. James Jenkinson here rose, and said: "Most Worshipful Grand Master, I think the labourer is worthy of his hire. I therefore move that the thanks of this Grand Lodge, properly engrossed, be presented to our Junior Grand Warden, General James W. Husted, for his able, efficient, and effective services, in the Legislature, in behalf of this Grand Lodge." Adopted unanimously.

R. W. Bro. Sinclair, moved for a convention of Masters of lodges in New York and Brooklyn, to be held on Saturday evening in the Masonic Temple, to devise means for the completion of the same. Referred to the Committee on Jurisprudence.

A clause was inserted in the section relative to the non-payment of dues, providing that for thirty days before a brother can be stricken from the roll for such an offence he shall be summoned to attend lodge and pay.

On motion of M. W. Bro. Johnson, the installation of Grand Officers was made the special order for nine o'clock Friday morning.

On motion of W. Levi J. Isaacs, the thanks of the Grand Lodge were unanimously given to the M. W. Isaac Phillips, for the able and courteous manner in which he conducted the election.

The consideration of the Constitution was resumed. On a question as to a waiving of jurisdiction by a sister lodge, R. W. Isaac H. Brown stated that he had three times asked a sister lodge for a permission to initiate, pass, and raise a candidate who had been rejected by said lodge. That lodge refused permission on the ground that the candidate is a Catholic. Now he knew no sect in Masonry, nor did he look for any religious qualification except a belief in a Supreme Being. The man in question had nothing against him, and was as fine a piece of material as he had ever seen in his entire Masonic career, yet he was refused by the lodge in question by but one vote, where there were only seven persons voting. The section on this subject was amended so as to make a majority vote, instead of a single black ball, sufficient to refuse such permission.

Amendments were passed preventing the initiation, passing or raising of more than five candidates at any one time, and the conferring of more than one degree or any one candidate in one day.

One of the amendments adopted read thus: "No officer or other member of the Lodge shall be permitted to procure the initiation of advancement of any candidate in any other lodge than that in which such candidates shall have been accepted."

On motion of M. W. Clinton, F. Paige, the report was recommitted, with instructions to report back complete.

The Grand Lodge then called off until 9 a.m. Friday.

On Friday the Grand Lodge resumed labour at 9 a.m., prayer being offered by R.W. and Rev. John G. Webster, Grand Chaplain.

The special committee to whom was referred so much of the Grand Master's report as referred to the Chicago Board of Relief, recommended that the $3,494.17 dols. returned by the Chicago Board of Relief be turned over to the Hall and Asylum Fund, which was adopted.

The officers of the Grand Lodge were then installed.

The following Commissioners of Appeal were nominated by the Grand Master and confirmed by the Grand Lodge: Chief, R.W. Andrew E. Suffern, of Haverstraw; Commissioners—Wm. T. Woodruff, of New York; W. Josh J. Couch of Brooklyn; W. John A. De Reimer of Schenectady; W. Alexander T. Goodwin, of Utica; W. George O. Baker, of Clyde; and W. David F. Day, of Buffalo.

R.W. Edmund L. Judson, from the Committee of Finance, reported various appropriations for salaries and for charitable and other purposes. The Grand Secretary was recommended to receive 6,000 dols. for salary and clerk hire, and the Boards of Relief of New York 1,500 dols., and Brooklyn and Williamsburgh 100 dols. each. Seventy-five dollars were appropriated for a safe for the Grand Treasurer, and all moneys over and above what was required to pay expenses were turned over to the Hall and Asylum Fund.

The First six Grand Officers having been appointed a committee to redistrict the State tendered the following report, which was confirmed:

CONSECRATION OF THE LIBERTY OF HAVERING LODGE, No. 1437.

FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.

This lodge, to be held at the Fox and Hounds Hotel, Romford, Essex, was inaugurated by consecration on Monday, the 30th ult. Amongst those present we recognised the following:—Bros. P. Matthews, P.M., P.G.D.C.; Rev. F. B. Shepherd, P.M. 276; Lacey, W.M. 1421; Wood, of the Angel Lodge; J. A. Wardell, P.M.; Day, P.M.; Beck, of the Priory Lodge, 1000; Scott, P.S.G.D., P.M. Antiquity Lodge, 214; Pearson, S.W. 1196; Roberts, P.M. 554; J. H. Sling, 1327; W. F. Cox, 1327; G. W. Patmore, 1327; W. H. Pearse, S.W. 214; T. Cochrane, P.M., P.G.C. 214; Saul, P.M. 276, P.P.G.S.D.; W. W. Gilbert, S.D.; F. G. Day, 1076; A. Penfole, 910; H. Payne, 1076; J. Evans, 1327; F. Whitmore, 276; J. Austin, 1327, Wakefield, 1327; J. Tydeman, S.W.; W. Allison, P.M. 13; Bolton, P.M. 1227; Gabb, J.D. 72; S. Piggin, S.D. 1312; J. Worken, 1237; W. D. Martin, of the Acacia Lodge, 1309; J. Maloney, 765; G. Tedder, 1107; J. Nicholls, P.M., P.G.S.W. Essex; A. Wackett, 1437; C. W. Ashdown, P.M. 1076; E. W. Long, W.M. 25; W. Money, 1327; R. Bolton, 1237; W. Parkinson, 1327; J. C. Whitworth, 1421; J. K. Young, P.G.W.; Wackett, 754; J. Williams, 699; and other brethren.

The brethren having entered the lodge-room in procession, Bro. Matthews, in the absence of the R.W. Bro. Robert J. Bagshaw, Provincial Grand Master of Essex, took the chair, and appointed Wardens, pro. tem.

The lodge was opened in the three degrees, after which the Chaplain, (the Rev. F. B. Shepherd) offered up a solemn prayer, imploring the G.A.O.T.U. to assist them in the duties in which they were about to be engaged, after which the following ode was sung:—

Behold the Lodge rise into view,
The work of industry and art.
'Tis grand, 'tis regular and true;
For so is each good Mason's heart.
Friendship cements it from the ground,
And secrecy shall fence it round.

Then may our views to virtue move—
So virtue, owned in all her parts.
Come candour, innocence and love,
Come and possess our faithful hearts;
Mercy, who feeds the hungry, poor,
And silence, guardian of the door.

Immortal science, too, be near;
We own thy empire o'er the mind;
Dress'd in thy radiant robes, appear
With all thy bounteous train behind.
Invention, young and blooming there:
Here's Geometry with rule and square.

United thus, and for these ends,
Let scorn deride, and envy rail;
From age to age the Craft descends,
And what we build shall never fail;
Nor shall the world our works survey,
For ev'ry brother keeps the key.

The presiding officer then addressed the brethren on the object of their meeting.

The Secretary then read the petition and warrant of constitution.

The brethren having signified their approval of the same, the Chaplain then delivered an oration. He said, brethren, whenever a Masonic lodge is consecrated, it is customary for some brother to deliver a short oration on the excellencies of our institution; doubtless you are well acquainted with the principles of Masonry, and may God help you to go through the several steps which leads us to the top of the ladder, the summit of which gives us entrance to the mansion of the Great Architect, and where the just shall shine for ever and ever. Our three grand principles are brotherly love, relief, and truth; they are laid down for our guidance in the great book of sacred law—that book which is, as it were, the spiritual tracing board of the Architect of the Universe, in it are laid down our principles and laws, which will, if we value them, bring us to the temple above—a temple not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. The sacred law is our text-book, the unerring standard of truth. It teaches us the important duties we owe to God, and all mankind. Benevolence and charity are two grand ornaments, besides these are secrecy and fidelity, which are two Masonic virtues—virtues which all brethren love. Wisdom, strength, and beauty, also are the three grand pillars which support our lodge. The virtues of faith, hope and charity, are the three principal staves in the ladder which reaches into Heaven. Faith in the Great Architect, Builder and Upholder of this Universe shall hereafter be revealed to those who love and keep His commandments. Temperance, fortitude, prudence, and justice are virtues which regulate a Mason's daily life; these virtues are likened to the four great rivers which flow out of the Garden of Eden, where our first parents lived, and happy will our future lot be, if we through life observe the lessons, which these virtues inculcate. Ye, who are this day erecting and dedicating this lodge, remember these virtues. Do not let this lodge degenerate into a place for mere social meeting, or what is still worse, a public-house club. See that you do not use liberty as a cloak of licentiousness. Finally, brethren, love the brotherhood, fear God, and honour the Queen, avoid quarrelling, slanderings, &c., be of one mind, live in peace, and the God of love will be with you.

Whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are of good report shall be added unto you. Now brethren, as the Father of our great Master prayed for the Jewish Temple, so will all true Masons present pray for this lodge. May peace be within thy walls, and prosperity within thy borders; for my brethren and companions' sake, I will—say peace be within thee.

The Director of Ceremonies then presented the W. Master to the presiding officer, who placed him on his left. The brethren of the new lodge then arranged themselves on each side of the lodge-board. After a short prayer by the Chaplain, Bro. P. M. Day uncovered the lodge, and the elements of consecration, corn, wine, and oil, were carried round by P.M.'s Day, Wardell, and Angell, solemn music being performed during the ceremony; after which, the following anthem was sung, "Glory be to God on high; peace on earth; goodwill towards men;—to which all chant, "So mote it be." The Grand Chaplain of Oxford then took the censer three times round the lodge, during solemn music. The second portion of the dedication prayer was then offered up—"May the God of love endue the brethren with wisdom from on high; may brotherly love, relief, and truth dwell among the members of this lodge; grant speedy relief to all who are in distress; finally, when we finish our work here below, grant that we may be taken to the Grand Lodge above." The presiding officer then constituted the lodge, concluding his remarks by wishing the lodge every success. The following anthem was then sung:

Behold! how pleasant, and how good,
For brethren such as we,
Of the "Accepted" Brotherhood,
To dwell in unity.

'Tis like the oil on Aaron's head,
Which to his feet distils;
Like Hermon's dew so richly shed
On Zion's sacred hills.

For there, the Lord of light and love,
A blessing sent with power;
Oh! may we all this blessing prove,
E'en life, for evermore.

On friendship's altar rising here,
Our hands now plighted be,
To live in love, with hearts sincere,
In peace and unity.

This brought the consecration to a close, after which the installation of Bro. John Josiah Wilson, W.M. designate, was proceeded with. After being duly installed as W.M. of 1437, he was saluted by the brethren in due form. The W.M. then appointed the officers for the ensuing year, as follows:—Bros. Tydeman, S.W.; E. West, J.W.; George English, S.D.; B. Brayshaw, J.D.; F. Day, I.G.; G. W. Patmore, Sec.; T. F. Bishop, Treas.; W. Steadman, Tyler.

Bro. Matthews then explained to each of the officers their respective duties. He said: Brethren, you cannot be insensible to the duties which are involved on you; success will depend on your skill in working this lodge, and may you imitate that grand luminary of nature which gives us light, to enlighten the minds of all mankind, and let the world know that we are one.

Bros. Matthews, Shepherd, and Nicholls were then elected honorary members. Bro. Matthews rose and returned thanks. He said he was pleased to be with them on that occasion, and was always delighted to assist in Masonry. Bro. Shepherd thanked them for the compliment they had been pleased to pay him. He said: I am pleased to come among you, and my wish is founded on scripture, "How pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." Bro. Nicholls returned thanks, and he wished them the highest prosperity.

Thanks were then given to the brethren for their attendance; the lodge was then closed in due form, and with solemn prayer.

The brethren adjourned to the Corn Exchange, where a most profuse banquet was served, and which gave great satisfaction to all present.

On the withdrawal of the cloth, the W.M. proposed the following toasts:—"The Health of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen, and the Craft;" "Most Worshipful Grand Master of England, the Marquess of Ripon;" "The Most Worshipful Past Grand Master, His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, K.G.;" "The Earl of Carnarvon, Deputy Grand Master of England;" "The Provincial Grand Master of Essex;" "The Provincial Grand Officers, Past and Present;" "Presiding Officers;" "Visitors," &c.

Bro. Shepherd, in responding, said: I thank you most heartily for the kind manner in which you have drunk my health. I am very sorry that our Prov. Grand Master is not amongst us; I saw him yesterday, and he told me he should try to be present. I know that he wished to be here. He would shed additional lustre to our proceedings. (Cheers.) I again thank you for your toast, and wish you every prosperity.

Bro. Matthews: I rise with the greatest of pleasure to return you my thanks for the honour you have conferred upon me. Nothing does me as much good as to see our brethren working together in harmony, and I shall come down to see you as often as I can make it convenient to do so. I wish you prosperity to the lodge and officers. (Cheers.)

Bro. Veley returned thanks for the visitors. He said, I congratulate you on your success to-day, and I congratulate you for your choice of your W.M. (Cheers.) We wish you every success.

The W.M. next proposed "The Health of Bros. Tedder, Sherbon, and Farquharson," for the able manner in which they carried out the musical arrangements.

Bro. Tedder responded in a very able manner.

The W.M. proposed "The Health of Bro. Tydeman."

Bro. Tydeman:—I am much obliged for your toast. Everything that I can do for the benefit of Masonry, I am always willing to come forward to help. (Cheers.)

The whole of the silver jewels for collars, and silver square and compasses for Bible, were presented to the lodge by the W.M. designate. Other presents as follows:—The tracing boards by the S.W., the three ebony gavels inlaid with silver by the J.W., the Bible J.D., the cushion by the I.G., and several other presents by various brethren.

A very pleasant evening was spent, and the brethren parted in love and harmony.

VISIT OF AMERICAN BROTHERS TO BELFAST.

The American Freemasons who recently landed per S.S. "Cuba" in Ireland, under the charge of Messrs. Cook and Sons, having been invited to dinner by the members of St. John's Lodge, No. 88, Belfast, on Wednesday evening, 25th June, were met on their arrival at the Northern Counties Railway station, by the W.M. and brethren of the lodge. Bro. Rev. A. F. Shanafelt, President, and Bro. Cecil S. Spates, Secretary of the excursionists, presented the W.M. and brethren to the members of the party.

During their visit to Belfast, they were escorted by several members of Lodge 88, over various places of interest in the town, including York-street Flax Spinning Mill, several linen and other warehouses, &c.

In the evening after witnessing the initiation of a candidate in Lodge 88, they were entertained at dinner by the members in the hall. The party comprised the following:—Rev. A. F. Shanafelt, (Chairman of the party), C. S. Spates, Secretary; Rev. A. S. Hank, D. W. Lawrence, Esq.; Dr. H. S. Campbell; P. B. Williams, Esq.; G. L. McCracken, Esq.; W. O. Hickow and wife, Colonel Le Grand Benedict and wife, Dr. S. P. Burdick and wife, Thomas Eginton, wife, and sister; George W. Craft and wife, A. J. Loecher and wife, Allen Craig and wife, B. F. Caldwell and wife, John C. Dolan and wife, C. S. Turner, Esq.; Dr. A. M. Barr and wife. C. H. Armstrong and two daughters, H. A. Moran, Esq.; Alex. Howard (conductor).

Amongst those who were present to meet the American brethren were:—The Right Wor. Bro. Sir Charles Lanyon, D.P.G.M. of Antrim; Very Worshipful Bro. John Hanna, P.S.G.W.; Very Worshipful Bro. James Scott, P.J.G.W., P.C. H.K.T. 88; Bro. John Ireland, P. Prov. S.G.W., P.C. H.K.T. 88; Bro. C. C. Wheeler, P.C.H.K.T. 22; Bro. John G. McGee, P.G.R.C.; O'Connell Shaw, P.C. McCullagh, Chaplain 154.

After dinner the following toasts were proposed:—"The Queen;" "The President of the U.S.A.;" "His Royal Highness Bro. Albert Edward, Prince of Wales;" "The G.M.'s of Ireland, England, and Scotland;" "The Duke of Leinster;" "The Marquis of Ripon;" "The Earl of Rosslyn;" "The Provincial Grand Lodge of Antrim," responded to by Bro. Sir Charles Lanyon, D.P.G.M.; the toast of the evening, "Our American Brethren," responded to by Bro. Rev. A. F. Shanafelt, and Bro. Cecil S. Spates; "Ireland and America;" "Our Local Visiting Brethren," responded to by Bros. J. G. McGee and John Hanna; "Our Poor and Distressed Brethren;" "Our next Merry Meeting."

During the evening the proceedings were enlivened by a varied programme of vocal and instrumental music, recitations, &c., very efficiently rendered by the following:—Bros. McCullagh, Shanks, Wheeler, Ireland, Shaw, Woods, Markland, Glass, Lindsay, Stott, Murrow, Allen.

Before leaving Belfast the Americans inserted the following resolutions in the News Letter of the 27th of June:—

"Whereas we have been so cordially welcomed, and so kindly and generously received and entertained by our Irish brothers, during our sojourn amongst them, and especially so by the Masons of Enniskillen, Portrush, and Belfast, therefore—

"Resolved—That we fully appreciate the hospitalities of our Irish brethren, and the sympathy and friendship that have met us on this side of the Atlantic; and we shall carry back to our Western homes the most pleasing remembrances of our associations with the members of our Order in the land of Erin."

"Resolved—That we recognise in these receptions by our Irish friends further proofs of the usefulness and advantages of our world-wide Order; and that now, as in days gone by, it is animated by the noblest impulses of the human heart.

"Resolved—That we extend to the Masons of Ireland our heartfelt thanks for all they have done for us in making our visit pleasant and enjoyable; and we trust the day may not be far distant when American Masons may have an opportunity of showing that they know how to reciprocate the kindnesses that have been so freely shown them."

The party having next to proceed to Glasgow, they were escorted to the steamer by members of the Order, to whom they expressed their deep gratitude for the kindness shown, and the cordial welcome they had received, and with many expressions of mutual goodwill, the vessel steamed off, after three hearty cheers and a "tiger" having been given.

The dinner was supplied by the House Steward, Bro. Hudson.

VISIT OF AMERICAN BROTHERS TO GLASGOW.

A party of Masons from America, who intend making a tour through Scotland and the continent, arrived on Friday, the 27th ult., at the Bromielaw from Belfast. They were received by Robert Bell, Esq., First Noble Commander of the Knights Templar, and during the day visited the various places of interest in the city. In the evening they were entertained to a grand banquet in the City Hall, by the Masonic brethren of the city. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather the large hall was well filled by the brethren of the various Masonic lodges in the city and their friends, and presented quite a brilliant appearance—most of the brethren appearing in the regalia of the Order. Walter Montgomerie Neilson, Esq., of Queenshill, occupied the chair, and was supported by a strong muster of Provincial Grand Officers and a full number of the Fraternity. The various Orders turned out in full distinctive Masonic costume for the first time, we believe, in Glasgow.

The proceedings, which commenced about eight o'clock, took the form of a soiree, concert, and assembly—the concert company consisting of the following well-known artistes:—Miss Isa Robertson, Miss M. Dunsmore, Bro. Charles Stewart, Bro. James Houston and Bro. Robert Fraser. Bro. H. A. Lambeth presided at the organ, and played a selection of national airs while the company was assembling—Bro. A. W. Banks officiating on the piano.

After tea had been dispensed.

The Chairman, who was received with loud applause, said they were met there under rather more than ordinary circumstances. He remarked that Masonry was not confined to their city; it was not confined to England or Scotland—it was not confined at all. They found Masonry all the world over; they found every nation and people giving themselves up to this worthy and excellent Craftship. However much nations may be separated, even geographically, they knew that the people were brought close together by the bonds of brotherhood, and by the mystic ties of the Craft; and however much people might differ in language, there was one universal language which they of the brotherhood all understand—that was, love to one another. They had to-night members of another nation with them, and, fortunately, these brethren and friends spoke not only the English tongue, but they were descended from their common ancestors, and were of the same flesh and blood as themselves. The ties of Masonry were strong, but he held the ties of kindred were still stronger; and whilst they held out the right hand of fellowship as Freemasons, they did so, not only as members of the Craft, but as really true Masons. He asked them to join him in giving a little stronger expression of welcome to their friends—viz., by giving them three hearty cheers. (The request was then heartily responded to by the assembly.) The Chairman went on to speak of the country from which their friends came—a country which was known to them—a country which had been the wonder and admiration of the world, and, if he was not mistaken, it was sometimes a wonder to the Americans themselves—a country they had very great interest in indeed; and why should they not? If the land did not belong to them, there were many people in that country whose hearts they claimed and meant to keep. They were proud of their own land, and he was quite satisfied their excellent friends reciprocated the feeling he now expressed. He thought in Scotland they had reason to be proud of their good old country, and they never would be the last country in the world to welcome friends from wherever they came. Their friends had been kind enough to take up their little city in their long tour, but he regretted they should have come in such unfortunate weather. He hoped, however, their friends would accept this meeting as an offering of their pleasure at seeing them in their city.

The Rev. Mr. Shanafelt, Philadelphia, then addressed the meeting. When he recalled the kindly reception extended to them—the music of the pipers, and their having ascended this prominent place in this grand hall, and the music and song—surrounded by fair ladies, and by the representatives of the Craft in all degrees—he confessed his position was exceedingly embarrassing, and he could only reconcile himself by believing that it was a part of their Scotch right thus to introduce strangers. Ever since their disembarkation at Queenstown, all through Ireland, they felt at home from the kindly courtesy they had received; and, as he assured the brethren of Belfast, if he was not an American, he could wish himself an Irishman. He had changed his mind. As he joined them in this very enjoyable evening, he could wish himself a Scotchman. Everywhere in Ireland they were made welcome; and as they approached Glasgow the glad music that fell on their ears, of the hammer which built the noble mighty ships that floated on the seas was to him and his associates in travel one of the grandest concerts to which they had ever listened. They all were Masons, and they joined and accepted their goodness; and their hearts were warm with loyalty towards them. He came from a city, and worked under the grand lodge of that city, under which 515 subordinate lodges were to-day in healthy, working order. They were all representatives of the 45,000 valiant Sir Knights of America. In a few weeks they proposed to dedicate to the uses of Masonry the grandest temple that stood on the western continent, in the city of brotherly love, known to them more familiarly as Philadelphia. So that when their Scottish brethren came over to America the grandest edifice on which their eyes would rest in that magnificent city would be their home as it was theirs—the Masonic Temple. This made their brethren and fair sisters forget they were transatlantic, and they felt as though their home commenced amidst the Scotch hills or the green hills of Ireland. They looked forward to the time when it would be theirs to greet their Scotch brethren to American soil—when it would be their privilege to prove to their Scotch and Irish brethren that America appreciated and knew how to reciprocate the kindly courtesy and hospitality which they had extended to them.

At the conclusion of the concert a banquet took place in the Lesser City Hall to which nearly 100 sat down, comprising the elite of the assembled party with their ladies. The chair was taken by W. M. Neilson, P.G.M., who was supported by F. A. Barrow, Depute P.G.M., and Capt. Shank, P.E.C., K.T.; Bro. R. Bell, M.N.C. St. Mungo, and J. Crabb, Z. of Chapter 50, were the croupiers.

After the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, the P.G.M. gave "Our American Guests."

Sir Knight Dr. Budick responded.

The P.G.M. then gave "The Committee" who had taken so much trouble in getting up this splendid festival.

Sir Knight Bell, as Chairman of the Committee, replied.

The P.G.M. proposed "The Health of the Ladies."

Bro. C. S. Spates, of West Virginia, replied expressing the great satisfaction the American visitors had felt at their reception.

On behalf of the ladies both English and American present, he thanked them as well as for themselves.

Bro. Barrow, D.P.G.M., then gave "A safe return of our Visitors to their Native Land."

The company then adjourned to the ball-room where dancing had commenced some time.

THE SHAH'S VISIT TO LIVERPOOL.

Although of short duration, the visit of his Imperial Majesty, the Shah of Persia, to Liverpool, the principal seaport of the kingdom, on Thursday, the 26th ult., was exceedingly brilliant, and must have impressed his somewhat unimpressionable nature with a sense of the pluck and enterprise of English commerce and shipping. There was a peculiar propriety in having the reception of the "King of Kings" entrusted to Bro. E. Samuelson, Mayor of Liverpool; for, while the former had thrown around him the tradition of ages, the latter was identified with the sacred brotherhood of Freemasonry, which can also boast of its traditions, but of an even more hallowed character than that possessed by his royal visitor. The morning of the day's visit was of the least inviting nature, as the rain poured down with a relentless equality from early morning until afternoon, but this did not hinder "country cousins" and townfolk from turning out in their thousands. The Lime-street station, at which the Shah was expected to arrive, was gay with the gayest and most diversified bunting, although there was nothing like artistic arrangement at any part of the station. There was also a good flag display in other parts of the town, amongst the most noticeable of these being the three huge Masonic flags displayed by Bro. G. Kenning, at his depot, 2, Monument-place, which were the observed of all observers in that part of the town. The arrival platform at Lime-street was crowded by a brilliant assembly of the elite of Liverpool, and as the royal train, drawn by the engine "Shah," emerged from the tunnel, there was a great flutter, and every eye was turned to gaze at the dusky stranger. The first to alight from the carriage was Sir Henry Rawlinson, in attendance on the Shah, and by whom the Earl of Sefton, Sir James Ramsden, the directors of the railway, and other gentlemen were introduced to his Majesty. This ceremony over, the Shah alighted from the saloon carriage amidst the acclamations of the assembled crowd.

After a short retirement at the North-Western Hotel, his Majesty proceeded to St. George's Hall, where he was received by Bro. Samuelson, the Mayor, in presence of a most distinguished company.

After the excitement of the royal arrival had subsided, his Worship the Mayor advanced to the foot of the dais, and said—Will your Majesty be graciously pleased to receive the address of the Corporation of Liverpool?

His Majesty having bowed his assent,

The Town Clerk, in the absence of the Recorder, read the address as follows:—

"TO HIS MAJESTY THE SHAH OF PERSIA.

"May it please your Majesty,—We, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the Borough of Liverpool, in council assembled, approach your Majesty with our sincere congratulations on your arrival in England, and humbly tender to your Majesty our especial thanks for the gratification you have afforded the inhabitants of this town by honouring it with your presence. We highly appreciate the enlightened policy which has induced your Majesty to visit this country, and we trust this event may tend still further to cement the alliance happily existing between Her Majesty the Queen and your Majesty, and to extend the commercial relations between the two countries. We hope that you will be gratified with an inspection of the public works and buildings of this town and port; and we assure you that the inhabitants desire to offer to your Majesty a very cordial welcome.—Given under the common seal of the Borough of Liverpool, this 26th day of June, in the year of our Lord, 1873.—EDWARD SAMUELSON, Mayor."

His Majesty replied, through Sir Henry Rawlinson, the interpreter, that he would return a written answer to the address on a suitable occasion; but in the meantime he desired to say how very much gratified he had been by the manner in which, since his arrival in this country, he had been received, both by the Government and by the people of this country. In fact, he had been received in the most flattering and gratifying manner, and he was very sensible of the attention which had been paid to him. He also said that from his early days he had heard of Liverpool as one of the great centres of the mercantile activity of the world, and he was glad that the opportunity had arisen of his being able to visit the place in person, and becoming acquainted with its institutions and its material prosperity.

A sumptuous luncheon was subsequently given at the Town Hall by Bro. Samuelson, and His Majesty afterwards took a trip on the river, going to Trentham, the seat of the Duke of Sutherland, in the evening.

A MASONIC MEDAL.

I have in my possession an ancient silver medal, which is evidently connected with some early period of Freemasonry. I shall be much obliged to you if you will allow me to give the following description of it in The Freemason, in the hope that some brother may be able and kindly willing to inform me what it represents, and upon what occasion it was struck.

The medal is of oval form, two inches seven-eighths by two inches three-eighths. On the right is a figure standing on a dais before a canopied throne, his left hand resting on an arm of the throne, and his right hand holding a sword, with which he is pointing to a scroll held open by a kneeling figure before him, by the side of the kneeling figure is another figure, standing, pointing to the scroll with his right hand. In the background are two arches, through the one on the left is seen a building in progress of erection, with scaffolding in front of it, above it is the sun. Through the one on the right is seen an obelisk and the moon. In the foreground is a smooth ashlar, upon which is cut the triple tau, upon it lies the compasses and something I cannot make out, against it are supported the level and square, by it are lying a plumb-rule and a scroll. The floor of the room appears to be tessellated. The whole is surrounded by a snake or serpent.

CHARITY JEWELS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

If there is no other reply to "P.M." as to the Charity Jewel, will you kindly inform him that I consider it is the most distinguished jewel a Mason can wear, and that he is now midway to obtaining the privilege of wearing one. The jewel is presented to a brother on his serving the office of steward to two of the three charities—the Boys' and Girls'—and he will be entitled to wear a clasp for the other charity when he serves the stewardship, and an additional clasp for every other stewardship of any of the charities.

Yours fraternally,
MAGNUS OHREN, P.M.,
Past Steward of all the Charities.

THE ORDER OF THE TEMPLE.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

As a Knight Templar and a member of the Ancient and Accepted Rite I have read with surprise and regret a letter, quoted in a leading article in your valuable paper, dated the 14th inst., addressed by Sir Patrick Colquhoun to John Scott Cunningham.

I pass over, with the silence I consider it merits, the unpardonable egotism displayed throughout the Arch Chancellor's effusion, and content myself with pointing out the decided errors into which he has fallen, and the equivocal position into which the entire body of Knights Templar have, through the ill-directed zeal of a "lawyer of standing," been placed.

I should first remark how utterly distant from the truth is the statement that honours and dignities are distributed, not by favour, but by merit, and that provincial officers are real entities instead of ornamental and useless dignities. I can instance within my own knowledge several cases in which Knights Templar, who have only been installed companions for a very short period, being appointed to nominally important, and responsible offices in a Provincial Priory, as it is now termed.

I have no doubt the Prince of Wales is deeply grateful for the paternal care with which his career has been watched over by Sir Patrick, and the exertions he has displayed to secure for H.R.H. the honour of Grand Master.

There is, however, a far more important point of view from which the matter must be considered.

I have no hesitation in affirming that such an alteration in the constitution of a body, which had until recently considered itself a "Masonic" one, has been made, is unwelcome to a very large proportion of its members, who although most willing to welcome the Irish Templars, would not, had they had an opportunity of considering the matter, and expressing an opinion on it, have consented to its having been made.

There were very few members of Encampments held out of London who had the slightest idea of what was proposed to be done until the resolutions forming the basis of the amalgamation had been passed, and this having been done, further discussion was burked by the assertion that as the Prince of Wales had sanctioned the so-called amendments, he would be unable to accept the office of Grand Master if they were not confirmed.

It is asserted "that the principle accepted was that the body is not of itself Masonic." Is this the case? What have many eminent authorities said upon the subject?

That worthy Mason Bro. How, to whose valuable work I shall hereafter refer, is clearly of opinion that it cannot be controverted that the Knights Templar possessed some features of similarity to Freemasonry, and the connection between the two bodies has frequently been asserted by the friends and enemies of both. Bro. Laurie says, "We know the Knights Templar not only possessed the mysteries but performed the ceremonies and inculcated the duties of Freemasons," and he attributed the dissolution of the Order to the discovery of their being Freemasons and assembling in secret to practise the rites of the Order. These views are adopted by Bro. Mackey, an American Mason of eminence.

A careful study of works relating to Knights Templar will, I think, prove that Masonry was a prominent feature of the Order, and it cannot be controverted that whilst Templary flourished Masonry prospered, churches were built and fortifications erected.

Again referring to the statement that the past rank hitherto bestowed was a "ridiculous aping of Craft Masonry, with which it has no connection." To use your own words "out of his own lips this Arch Chancellor stands condemned," for has he not written that the body "has a Masonic basis and qualification" and are not the ranks of the Knights Templar recruited from Freemasons alone?

Supposing for one moment that the Order of the Temple is not of itself Masonic, what then is the legal position occupied by it, and its members? This ought to be known to "a lawyer of standing" but although I am content to accept a more humble position in the ranks of the legal profession, I feel it a duty incumbent upon me to point out the lamentable position which the ill-timed and ill-directed exertions of the gentleman (who deprecating the use of past rank by others, does not fail to inform our American brother that he has been a "Chief Justice") has brought us to, if his assertion that the body is not Masonic is correct.

It is possible we "want no assistance from the law," but it is an undeniable fact that we are subservient to it, and I propose to point out what, in my opinion, the law is.

The Act 37 Geo. III., cap. cxxiii. is still in force. By it all persons administering, &c., "any oath or engagement . . . to be of any society . . . or to obey the commands or orders of any committee or body of men not having authority by law for that purpose . . . shall be guilty of felony;" and "any engagement or obligation whatsoever, in the nature of an oath, shall be deemed an oath within the intent and meaning of this Act."

By 39 Geo. III., cap. lxxix., every society then or thereafter to be established, the members whereof should be required to take any oath which should be unlawful under the last-mentioned Act, should be deemed unlawful, section 5 expressly exempting "Lodges of Free Masons;" and 57 Geo. III., cap. xix., enacts that all societies, the members whereof are required to take unlawful oaths, &c., within the two before-mentioned Acts, or "to take any oath not required or authorised by law," shall be deemed to be within the provisions of 39 Geo. III., cap. lxxix., "Lodges of Freemasons" in this instance also, being specially excepted.

If the Order of the Temple ceases to be Masonic, it at once becomes an unlawful society, and the whole of its members liable to be subjected to criminal prosecution.

And now as to the unwarranted attack made upon the Ancient and Accepted Rite.

In the first place, Sir Patrick Colquhoun, knowing that the Supreme Council 33° had incorporated itself under the Companies' Acts of 1862 and 1867; and being himself a member of the 32°—and, as such, pledged to support the authority of the Council—must be taken to be aware of the objects of the incorporation, which, as set forth in the memorandum of association, "are the promotion of Scientific and Archaeological Freemasonry, and the encouragement and development of Masonic Charity; and the doing of all such things as may be incidental or conducive to the attainment of the above objects."

Had Sir Patrick Colquhoun not been above the law he would have known that under the last mentioned Acts, associations may be registered for purposes other than that of trading and the license granted to the Supreme Council by the Board of Trade, by virtue of 30 and 31 Vict., c. cxxxi. sec. 23 was upon the express condition "that the income and property of the Association shall be applied solely to the promotion of the objects of the Association" as before set forth and no portion thereof is to be "paid or transferred directly or indirectly by way of dividend or bonus or otherwise by way of profit" to any person whomsoever.

How then does he reconcile this with his utterly unfounded assertion that the Council is a trading company for the sale of Masonic or quasi Masonic degrees?

Is then the Order of the Temple upon a firmer basis than the Ancient and Accepted Rite?

I think that I have clearly demonstrated that if the Arch Chancellor's assertion is correct (which I do not admit) then the latter has a legal instead of an illegal position.

It can amalgamate with other bodies, in fact generally do anything that may be conducive to the carrying out of the object for which it was incorporated.

I must apologise for these lengthy remarks, but the subject is one of interest and appears of too great importance not to require ample ventilation.

I am Dear Sir and Brother
Yours fraternally,
J. E. C.

A MASONIC FUNERAL IN NEW YORK.

The New York Dispatch gives the following interesting account of the funeral obsequies of the late Bro. Orr, Governor of New York:—

The sun has rarely shone on a finer day than the one set apart for the tribute offered by the fraternity and the civic authorities of New York to the memory of the late Governor Orr, whose remains were passing through our city to their final resting place in South Carolina. From the moment of the arrival of the steamer in the bay the casket was in charge of the Craft, under direction of R. W. Bro. Thorne, D.G.M., and the various commanderies, with ready devotion, guarded it and its honoured burden. Friday having been named for the public ceremonial, found the craftsmen ready to honour themselves in honouring one who in life had been a faithful exemplar and consistent exponent of the principles Masonry teaches. Promptly at the hour named in general orders, the Knights began assembling in the City Hall Park, and when the line of march was ready, there could not have been less than 800 Templars in it. The coffin having been placed in its place, the cortège moved in the following order:—

- Section of Mounted Police.
- Inspector Dilks, with Captain Leary as Special Aid.
- Platoon of the Broadway Squad, under Capt. Allaire.
- Knights Templar Band, H. B. Dodworth, leader.
- Grand Marshall and Chief of Staff.
- Aids to Grand Marshall, in full evening dress, black, with blue rosettes and lambskin aprons.
- The Grand Commandery of New York as follows:—
- Sir Frank L. Stowell, R.E. Grand Commander.
- Sir Robert Blake, V.E. Deputy Grand Commander.
- Sir Townsend Fonday, E. Grand Generalissimo.
- Sir Geo. W. Southwick, E. Grand Captain General.
- Sir James A. Read, E. Grand Prelate.
- Sir George W. Walgrove, E. Grand Senior Warden.
- Sir George H. Chase, E. Grand Junior Warden.
- Sir A. W. Shadbolt, E. Grand Treasurer.
- Sir Robert Macoy, E. Grand Recorder.
- Sir Charles Aikman, E. Grand Standard Bearer.
- Sir Edmund Cooper, E. Grand Sword Bearer.
- Sir Ralph W. Kenyon, E. Grand Warder.
- Sir Jackson H. Chase, E. Chief of Staff.
- Sir Peter Forrester, Special Aid to Grand Commander.

Commanderies of the State of New York, in the following order:—

- Columbian, No. 1, Sir Walter M. Fleming, E.C.
- Constantine, No. 48, Sir Geo. W. Walgrove, E.C.
- Morton, No. 4, Sir George Smith, acting E.C.
- Clinton, No. 14, Sir Claudius Beattie, E.C.
- Palestine, No. 18, Sir Henry Myers, acting E.C.
- De Witt Clinton, No. 27, Sir John H. Mott, acting E.C.

 Delegations from different commanderies, forming a hollow square.

The Hearse.

Chief mourners in carriages.

Mayor and Common Council in carriages.

Gen. Hancock and staff in carriages.

Citizens and others in carriages.

The hearse was drawn by six white horses, with black drapery and other mourning habili-ments, each horse being led by a coloured man attired in black clothes and silk hats, with crape around the outer arm. The hearse was enclosed in a hollow square formed of Knights.

The procession, which numbered 1,500
 knights, marched in the form of a Latin cross, up Broadway to Twenty-third-street, thence to and along Madison-avenue to Dr. Hepworth's church, on the corner of Forty-fifth-street. All along the line of route the houses and sidewalks were crowded with people, whose silent attention denoted great respect. Many of the houses along the upper part of Broadway were draped, and every flag along the entire line was at half mast.

On arriving at the church the knights formed in two lines, with open ranks, and stood at present arms, while the Grand Commandery went back to meet the hearse. The Grand Lodge band and drum corps followed the Grand Marshal and aids, the Grand Commanderies of New York, New Jersey, and Grand Officers from other jurisdictions, the Grand Lodge, pallbearers, and hearse then passed through the lines, the knights holding their swords at present. The Grand Officers then formed, from the kerbstone to the church door, an arch of steel, by crossing their swords, and beneath this the coffin was carried by ten knights into the sacred edifice, the Grand Lodge band playing a dirge, and the drum corps beating the long, muffled roll.

In the church there was no decoration, no display, except the floral offerings. The Grand Commandery furnished a "Kedge Anchor" in white flowers, representing also the Templars, cross and crown; the Grand Chapter contributed a "Keystone," encircled by a wreath, and bearing the symbolic letters, "H.T.S.S.T.K.S.;" Mrs. C. P. Leslie, of South Carolina, presented a beautiful wreath, nearly lyre-shaped, of white roses, immortelles, and lilies, with fern leaves, and having the initials "S.C." in violet forget-me-nots; and the Grand Lodge gave a square and compass. The front seats were reserved for the relatives of the deceased, the pall-bearers, the Grand Officers of the Order, the Common Council, the representatives of the State, and officers of the army and navy. As soon as the music from without announced the arrival of the procession, the Rev. Dr. Hepworth, pastor of the church, and the Rev. Dr. Tyng, junior, went to the door to meet the body. In a few moments they returned, preceded by Sexton
 Isaac Brown, and Chief of Staff, E. H. Kent,
 Dr. Tyng chanting that portion of the Episcopal Service, commencing, "I am the resurrection and the life."

After came the pall bearers, then the coffin, on the shoulders of ten Knights Templar, next, the Grand Lodge, the Grand Chapter, the Grand Council, the municipal authorities, including the Mayor, and General Hancock and staff. The two clergymen passed on the platform, followed by Rev. Drs. Ewer and Schoonmacher, Grand Chaplains, and the coffin was laid in front of the reading-desk.

When the Templars had taken their places the doors were open to the public, and in a few moments the church was crowded. While the cortège entered, the organ pealed forth a solemn march. The quartett who assisted at the church services were J. R. Thomas, bass; George Simpson, tenor; Miss Baron, alto; Mrs.
 Shepherd, treble. They commenced the musical portion of the services with the chant, "Lord let me know my end," at the conclusion of which
 Dr. Tyng read from the thirtieth verse, fifteenth chapter, of the first epistle of Paul to the Corinthians, "Now is Christ risen from the dead."

The hymn, "Jesus lover of my soul," was then sung, and at its conclusion Rev. Dr. Hepworth addressed the congregation. There were some events, he said, too grand and awful for expression, they were in themselves so eloquent that they stood in no need of interpretation by human lips; and this was one of them. They were now standing amid the awful silence of death, and it impressed its own lesson upon every heart. In after years such a scene would re-appear in the imagination, carrying its lessons with it. In this event they were taught the uncertainty of human life, which he advised them to lay closely to their hearts. He besought them also to remember that to-day alone is theirs, and they have no right to speculate on the morrow. Let them be strong in faith. It alone was the great sustaining power in all trials, the supporter in all life's trials.
 In concluding, he wished that the anchor of hope might be theirs, and when the Senior Warden came in death's shape to call upon them he would find them not afraid, and when as justice, the Junior Warden came with his plumb, he, too, would find them ready. Then might they look up to the Great Architect of the Universe, who hath builded a house for them in heaven, and when the summons came, say, "So mote it be."

Dr. Tyng next proceeded with the Episcopal funeral services, which closed with the funeral anthem, "I Heard a Voice." He next offered a prayer, and at its close the Masonic ceremonies commenced, opening with the dirge from Lurline, "Peace to the Memory."

The Grand Lodge officers next formed about the coffin, R.W. Ellwood E. Thorne, as Grand Master, taking his position at the head; W.
 Bro. James F. Morrison, as Deputy Grand Master, at the foot; R.W. William T. Woodruff, as Grand Senior Warden, standing at the left of the Grand Master; and W. Bro. Robert H. Thomas, as Grand Junior Warden, at his right hand. The Masonic ritual service was then commenced by the Grand Master, the Senior and Junior Grand Wardens taking up the responses. R.W. and Rev. R. L. Schoon-macher, Grand Chaplain, next offered prayer, after which the ritual service was again taken up, the Deputy Grand Master, Senior and Junior Grand Wardens reciting passages of Scripture appropriate to the occasion.

The Grand Master then delivered the ritual address to the brethren on death and their duty to prepare for eternity, after which he placed the lambskin apron and acacia on the coffin, at the same time explaining their moral meaning. The ceremony of committing the body to the grave, "Earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust," was then carried out, the Grand Master dropping earth on the coffin, after which the fraternity sang the Masonic dirge, "Solemn strikes the funeral chime."

After a concluding prayer by Rev. F. C.
 Ewer, the remains were again placed in the hearse, and the final procession formed. This consisted of the police, the Washington Grey Troop, looking superbly; the Seventh Regiment, in its usual magnificent array; the Grand Council R. and S.M., under G. Fred. Wiltzie; the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons, under Thomas C. Cassidy, G.H.P.; sixty-two subordinate lodges, numbering about thirty-five hundred Masons, properly clothed, and presenting a creditable degree of uniformity and bearing; then the escort of Templars, hearse and city authorities, as above described.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The annual distribution of prizes and summer
 fête, will take place on Tuesday, 8th July, 1873:

It is hoped that the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor will preside, but should he be prevented from doing so, the chair will be taken by Bro.
 Sheriff Perkins, P.M., P. Prov. G.W. Hants and Isle of Wight.

No better opportunity than this can be afforded for an inspection of the building—for witnessing the practical results of the system of education —and for an examination of the various arrangements for promoting the health and comfort of the pupils.

The programme (particulars of which will be distributed on the day) will comprise—Presentation of Prizes—Recitations—Vocal and Instrumental Music—Out-door Sports—Dancing in the evening, &c.

A cold collation will be served in the Gymnasium at Four o'clock.

Application for tickets should be made before Saturday, 5th of July, to Bro. Frederick Binckes, Secretary.

Masonic Tidings.

LAYING THE FOUNDATION STONE OF A NEW CHURCH.—On Saturday last, the 28th ult., Bro.
 Le Gendre Nicholas Starkie, R.W.P.G.M. for East Lancashire, laid the foundation stone of St.
 James's Church, Pleckgate, Blackburn, with full Masonic honours. The R.W.P.G.M. was assisted by the Grand officers of the province and numerous brethren from the different lodges within his jurisdiction. The local clergy, the Mayor and corporation, the Orange lodges of the district, numbering 800 persons, the scholars of St. John's and Pleckgate Schools, and several
