COUGH ELIXIR.
CROSBY'S
BALSAMIC
COUGH ELIXIR.

Opium, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S
BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night
Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.

Parkin, Old Globe Lodge, No. 200, Scarborough; R. Fraser, St. John's, Glasgow; and J. S. Jeans, of Commercial Lodge, No. 360. The routine business of the lodge having been transacted, the W.M. elect, Bro. B. Chadwick, was presented to the Installing Master Bro. W. Best, P.M., P.P., J.G.W., who performed the impressive ceremony in his usual able manner. The W.M. then invested his officers as follows:—T. Brunton, I.P.M.; J. Foster, S.W.; J. C. Martin, J.W.; Rev. E. Hutchinson, Chaplain; Hoggett, Organist; J. W. Armitage, S.W.; W. Hobson, Treasurer; J. Willis, D.; Jas. Graham, J.D.; H. Maddison, S.; Cowper Cain, D.C.; G. Cooper, J. Hodgson, Stewards, and T. Garge, J. The brethren afterwards sat down to a sumptuous banquet at Bro. Jos. Robinson's, King's Head Hotel, under the presidency of the newly-installed Master. After dinner the usual and Masonic toasts were proposed and ably responded to. The health of the I.P.M. was proposed by Bro. P. M. Jackson, who preceded him on behalf of the brethren of the lodge, bearing the following inscription:—"A handsome and valuable 18-carat gold jewel, bearing the following inscription presented to Bro. Thomas Brunton, P.M., by the brethren of Restoration, No. 111, as a mark of their appreciation of his valuable services while Master of the lodge, St. John's Day, A.D. 1873." Bro. Brunton returned thanks in a very appropriate speech. During the evening some selections of music were sung by the brethren, the musical arrangements being made by Bro. James Hoggett, P.G.O. and Organist of the lodge.

WORTH SHIELDS.—St. George's Lodge (No. 111).

The brethren of this lodge held an emergency meeting in the Masonic Hall, on Monday, December 22nd, for the purpose of installing a new W.M. elect, Bro. W. J. Ward. The lodge having been opened, Bro. T. T. Clarke installed Bro. W. J. Ward in the chair. The following brethren were appointed and invested as officers:—H. J. I.P.M.; J. Gillespie, S.W.; A. P. O., J.W.; J. D. A. H. Nicholson, S.D.; Hellberg, J.D.; T. T. Clarke, D.C.; O., I.G.; T. Haswell, Org.; J. Robertson, J. The lodge having been closed, the brethren adjourned to Bro. Field's, Albion Lodge, to celebrate the annual festival, when the brethren sat down to a most bounteous spread of every delicacy of the season. The following brethren were present, G. R. Strachan, 685; Thomson, W.M. 240; Buckland, 240; Denham, 240; Claughton, J.W. 240; Cooke, 624; Symington, 659; Dale, 786; Tulloch, Fuzzell, Hansen, Poppelwell, P.M's., and others. The usual loyal, Masonic, and complimentary toasts were given and duly honoured.

TIVERTON.—St. Peter's Lodge (No. 1125).

An unusual number of brethren met at the Masonic Hall, Fore-street, on the 27th instant, (St. John Evangelist's Day) being the day appointed for the installation of the W.M. elect, (Bro. Patterson) and also for presenting to a brother, whose aid in founding and working the lodge has been most valuable, a testimonial from its members. After the transaction of some formal business Bro. Davey, W.M., rose and expressed the pleasure he felt, that during his year of office it should fall to him to present, on behalf of the brethren, the testimonial for which they had subscribed. After some further remarks he requested his Wardens to unveil a life-size three-quarter length portrait of P.M. Bro. Reed, clothed in the paraphernalia of a First Principal of a R.A. Chapter, and painted by Mr. George Fare. This was accordingly done and a faithful likeness and an excellent work of art was exhibited amidst enthusiastic marks of approbation from those present. P.M. Bro. Mills, the Secretary was then called upon to read the following address, tastefully illuminated on vellum by the same artist and signed by the subscribers. "To Bro. W. H. Reed, P.M., P.Z., P.E.C., P.M.W.S.R.C., P.P.J.G.D., St. Peter's Lodge, Tiverton, 27th Dec. 1873. Dear Sir and Brother, We desire your acceptance of the portrait for which, in accordance with our request you have kindly sat, and that you will regard it as an offering of fraternal respect and affection. Many of us have long wished in some way to mark our appreciation of your zeal and assiduity in our Masonic circle, and to present in some appropriate and enduring form a testimonial to you the first Master of our lodge. We trust that this object has been realized, and that the faithful portraiture of one who has imparted and familiarised the teachings of our Craft with such success, may be instrumental in keeping in memory your endeavours to induce by precept and example the remembrance and practice of the obligations and lessons of Freemasonry, and of preserving in the lodge that correctness and order which are in a great measure due to your instructions. On this vellum, which we tender you with the painting, we record our testimony to your efficient practical labours, our sincere feelings of attachment, hearty good wishes for your welfare, and that your beneficial influence may long be felt amongst us." P.M. Bro. Reed, in very feeling and appropriate terms acknowledged the presentation, and stated that it was his desire the portrait should hang in the lodge, an announcement received with great satisfaction. The Installation ceremony was then proceeded with by Bro. Mills, P.M. At the conclusion of which the W.M. invested his officers as follows:—Bros. H. Davey, I.P.M.; Rev. R. Duckwood, Chaplain; H. S. Gill, S.W.; F. A. Payne, J.W.; E. Williams, P.M., Treasurer; T. F. Mead, Secretary; H. Melhuish, S.D.; W. H. Reed, Jun., J.D.; G. W. Cockram, I.G. Stewards: Wm. Bartlett, and E. Coleby; W. H. Reed, P.M., M.C.; A. Andrews, Organist; J. Patey, Tyler. The annual banquet took place at Bro. Martin's, Palmerston Hotel, at 5 o'clock, and was numerously attended. The catering was all that could be desired, and the usual toasts were given and received with much cordiality and heartily, and were ably responded to.

MILLOM.—Whitwell Lodge (No. 1390).

The regular monthly meeting was held on Tuesday, December 16th, in the lodge room, Prescott. Bros. Thomas Dodgson, the W.M., P.M. 995; and P.G.S.S. Cumberland and Westmoreland; J. Mills, S.W., and P.G.S.B. Cumberland and Westmoreland; Jas. Meredith, J.W.; Jas. Postlethwaite, Sec., S.W. 1308, and J.W. 995; J. Hartley, I.G. 995, and other brethren. The minutes of the last regular lodge were read and duly confirmed. Bro. Howes was in attendance to be raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason, which ceremony was performed by Bro.

T. Dodgson, the W.M., in a most excellent manner, for which he is particularly noted, the J.W. explaining the tools. Several communications were received and had attention, after which the lodge was closed in due form with solemn prayer at 9.30 p.m.

HAMPTON COURT.—Era Lodge (No. 1423).

The regular meeting of this young and flourishing lodge was held on Saturday, December 13th, at the King's Arms Hotel, Hampton Court. Punctually at the time named in the lodge summonses, viz., three o'clock, the lodge was opened by the W.M. Brother J. T. Moss, P.P.G.D., Middlesex, P.M., 169, P.M., 1326; he was supported by Bros. H. A. Dubois, P.G., Steward; Middlesex, S.W.; J.W. Baldwin, J.W.; T. J. Sabine, P.M., Treasurer; F. Walters, P.G. Steward, Middlesex, P.M., Secretary; E. H. Thiellay, S.D.; J. S. Sweasey, J.D.; Rev. J. M. Vaughan, P.M., Chaplain, J. Baxter Langley, I.G.; and many of the members. The visitors were Bros. W. Smeed, P.P.J.W., Middlesex, P.M. 946, &c.; W. Hammond, P.M. 201, W.M. 1326, and others. The minutes of the meeting held in October were read and unanimously confirmed. The ballots, taken separately, for the five gentlemen whose name appeared on the summons for initiation at the next regular meeting in February (for in this province the R.W.P.G.M. has wisely determined and ruled that no candidate for initiation shall be balloted for and initiated at one and the same meeting), and in each case it was declared to be unanimous in favour of admission. There being a heavy agenda paper and the W.M. feeling fatigued (he having travelled nearly three thousand miles during the week), Bro. Wm. Smeed, P.P.J.W. Middlesex, P.M., was desired to take the chair, which he did and commenced proceedings by raising Bro. Benjamin Wright to the third degree. Apologies were received from the other candidates for raising, and the several candidates for passing, excusing and deeply regretting their inability to attend, which was caused by circumstances entirely beyond their own control. Bro. J. T. Moss, W.M., resumed the chair, and initiated Dr. John Beresford, Ryley (a "Lewis"), followed by W. H. Wieland, who was succeeded by W. A. Simmons, and finally by D. Sullivan, as each candidate was introduced separately, agreeable to the instructions issued by the R.W.P.G.M., who will not have more than one person initiated at one time. The Secretary, Bro. Frederick Walters, P.M., by command of the W.M., read out aloud the bye-laws of the lodge. The ballots taken were declared to be unanimous in favour of Bros. H. A. Dubois, S.W., being the W.M. for the ensuing year, and T. J. Sabine, P.M., and Treasurer, re-elected Treasurer. On motion duly made and seconded Bro. J. Gilbert, P.G. Tyler, Middlesex, Tyler, was unanimously re-elected Tyler. The auditors were appointed. The audit was agreed to be held at the offices of the W.M. elect, H. A. Dubois, Accountant, of 1, Gresham Buildings, Basinghall-street, City. The splendid harmonium, supplied by Bro. George Kenning, was much admired, and pleased all who saw and heard it play. The work was well and ably done, as might be expected from the two worthy brothers who presided, a letter of apology from Bro. Col. F. Burdett, R.W.P.G.M., Middlesex, regretting his absence, was read, several propositions for joining, and new members were received. The lodge was then closed. There was not any banquet or refreshments.

BROWNRIFF LODGE OF UNITY (No. 1424).

On Saturday, December 27th, the brethren of this lodge met at three p.m., at their lodge room in Buckley Hall Soldiers' Institute, Chatham, to witness the ceremony of Installation of Bro. J. A. Bates, R.A., as W.M. for the ensuing year. Bro. Samuel Cole, P.P.G.P., most ably and efficiently performed the duty of Installing Master. Bros. W. H. Cole, P.M., was appointed Senior Warden, pro tem; F. Seabrook, P.M., as Junior Warden, pro tem; Capt. George Watson, P.M. and P.G.R., as Master of Ceremonies. It is a most gratifying fact that no lodge in this province has progressed with such rapidity as this in so short a time—only twelve months since its consecration by the R.W. Bro. Major-General Brownrigg, C.B., Prov. G.M. for Surrey. Unfortunately, he was unable to attend at its anniversary, as he—with his son, Capt. Brownrigg—was in Ireland; but letters were read, explaining their absence, and expressing regret in not being able to do honour to the assiduous and persevering brother, Quartermaster Samuel Cole, R.E., the first W.M.; and well he has done his duty. There were several provincial officers present. The officers of the lodge for the year ensuing were duly invested:—Bros. Samuel Cole, I.P.M.; Jervis, S.W.; Simmons, J.W.; Rev. Hill, Chaplain; Thompson, Treas.; Moorhouse, Sec.; McCoy, S.D.; Fowler, J.D.; Cottrell, I.G.; Wells and Brown, Stewards; Oram, Tyler. Before the business of the lodge was concluded, those brethren whose names are upon the warrant as founders were called to the pedestal by the W.M., and had each presented to them a very handsome jewel, to remind them of the interest they had taken in the lodge's foundation. The several brethren acknowledged their thanks in suitable terms. After the business was concluded, the brethren adjourned to the library, where a splendid banquet was ready, which was done ample justice to by them. The wines were excellent. After the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, the "Health of Bro. Samuel Cole," was most enthusiastically received, and he very feelingly replied and thanked the brethren who had assisted him during his year of office. The health of the Past Masters was suitably acknowledged by Bro. Capt. George Watson, P.G.R. We must not forget to mention that the health of Bro. Major-General Brownrigg, C.B., was heartily drunk with real Kentish fire. After a most happy evening, during which some excellent songs were rendered by Sergt.-Major Bro. Cotterell, the meeting broke up at 9.30, p.m., all pleased with the proceedings of their St. John's Day.

INSTRUCTION.

UNION MASONIC CLUB OF INSTRUCTION.—The above club was formed 12 months since to meet a want long felt in the neighbourhood, and we may say is now in good working order. The usual weekly meeting was held on Thursday, the 18th ult., at Bro. Lake's, the Windsor Castle, Victoria Station. The chair was occupied by Bro. Henry Smith, W.M. Lodge 1360, assisted by Bro. E. L. Cockerell, P.M., and several other brethren. After the usual Masonic business had been completed, it was proposed and seconded, and carried unanimously that the meeting night be altered to Friday, at 8 o'clock, so as to avoid clashing with the Ebury Lodge of Instruction, which meets on Thursday evening, in the neighbourhood. It was then resolved that the next meeting be held on Friday, the 2nd January, 1874. Brethren are invited to attend. It is worthy of notice that one of the rules of this Club is as follows:—That as soon as the funds reach the sum of £5 and £10 10s. alternately, it will be balloted for, and the member who gets the draw will become a Life Governor of one of the Masonic Charities.

ST. JOHN'S DAY IN EDINBURGH.

St. John's Day having this year fallen on Saturday, the great Masonic Festival was in most lodges postponed till Monday the 29th ult., when according to use and wont, the brethren met in their respective lodge-rooms for the annual election of office-bearers and the celebration of the festival. Most of the lodge rooms in the metropolitan district were tastefully decorated with evergreens and flowers, and presented a gay and lively appearance. The annual election and installation of office-bearers being over, the brethren of the various lodges dined together, and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts having been proposed and responded to with that enthusiasm which is characteristic of the Craft, the remainder of the evening was for most part spent in "jocund mirth and festive glee."

The time-honoured custom of each lodge sending deputations to the sister lodges to congratulate their new office-bearers and convey expressions of good feeling, was carried out with even more than usual cordiality, a fact which may be owing to the large number that have been initiated to the order during the past year, as also to the popularity among the brethren of most of the gentlemen who have been chosen to the Masters' chairs.

EDINBURGH.—Lodge St. Clair (No. 349).—St. John's day having fallen on a Saturday, the brethren of the above lodge held their annual election and festival on Monday the 29th Dec., when the following office-bearers were unanimously elected:—Bros. T. Sim, R.W.M.; A. Henry, (of Rife fame) P.M.; H. Harding, S.M.; J. P. Hutton, S.W.; J. Dawson, J.W.; A. M. Bruce, P.M., Treas.; J. Taylor, Sec.; G. Watson, Chaplain; J. Greenaway, S.D.; M. Baikie, who has filled the important office of Tyler for upwards a quarter of a century was again re-elected to that office, and the following brethren were elected members of the Committee, Past Masters Butti, and Grant, Bruce, Brown, Cow, Veitch, and Dobie. The R.W.M. then appointed Bro. Baird, to the office of D.M. After the election the brethren adjourned to the refectory, where about forty sat down to an excellent and sumptuous repast, purveyed by brother Gray, who displayed his usual artistic skill. The R.W.M. was supported by four P.M.s of the lodge, and among the guests were Bros. Schop, R.W.M. Canongate, Kilwinning, Bro. Merser, P.S.R.C. and Bro. Manners of Lodge Caledonia. The evening was enlivened with song, toast, and recitation, Past Master Bro. Henry, and Bros. Hogg, Greenaway, Dobie, and Manners kindly contributing their best efforts. Circumstances having prevented the attendance of the director of music, Bro. C. Stewart, Bro. Manners kindly consented to preside at the pianoforte, he also delighted the brethren with several exquisitely rendered airs on the concertina. In the course of the evening the R.W.M. received and replied to congratulatory addresses from deputations representing thirteen lodges in the district, showing the popularity and high esteem in which he is held by the sister lodges. Altogether the meeting was a most successful and enjoyable one, and the admirable way in which the new office-bearers performed the duties of their respective offices, together with the enthusiasm of the brethren, bespeak a future fully as brilliant as the past.

GLASGOW.—Mother Kilwinning Lodge (No. o.).—The annual festival of this most ancient lodge is always looked forward to as one of the great events in Scotch Masonry, and the meeting on Monday, the 22nd ult., was no exception to the general rule. In the absence of the R.W.M. Col. Mure, who in virtue of that office is Prov. Grand Master of Ayrshire, the chair was taken by Bro. Warley, P.G.S., and the following candidates were proposed by Bro. J. Tweed, S.M., making in all 40 members that he has proposed in the lodge. The present list was Messrs. George Grant, R. Johnston, J. Mello, and John Sutherland; and there being no objection, Bro. Wiley acted as Master, and Bro. Wenton duly conferred the degrees upon them. The lodge then proceeded to the election and installation of office-bearers. The following brethren were duly proposed and unanimously elected, viz.:—Col. Mure of Caldwell, R.W.M., and as such Provincial Grand Master for Ayrshire; R. W. Cochrane Patrick, of Woodside, Deputy Master; W. Ralstoe Patrick, of Trearne, Substitute Master; Roger Montgomerie, advocate, Edinburgh, Proxy Master; John Johnston, S.W.; J. Salter, J.W.; Rev. W. Lee Ker, Rev. John Sims, and Rev. A. Inglis, Chaplains; Robert Wylie, Secretary; John Whinton, Treasurer; Jas. Gibson, S.D.; J. Crawford, J.D.; James Sudden, S.S.; John Allan, J.S.; Charles Aitken, I.G.; and James Melvin, T. The brethren reassembled in the evening in the Eglinton Arms Hall to celebrate the festival of St. Thomas. The following is an extract from a letter received by the secretary from Col. Mure, dated Cannes, France, December 19, 1873:—"I regret extremely that I shall not have the pleasure of presiding at our annual meeting this year—circumstances over which I have no control prevent me from being in Scotland at this time."

time on Monday pray offer to the brethren in lodge assembled my most hearty congratulations and best wishes of the season, and assure them that, though I cannot be present with them, I often think of all the fraternal feelings with which they have ever evinced to me; and while I feel proud of the loyalty they have always shown, cannot help but believe that our mutual exertions for the good of the Craft, have during the last few years, not been altogether unsuccessful." The Deputy Master, Bro. R. W. Cochrane Patrick, was then called upon to perform the duties in the Grand Orient, and conducted the usual festivities with great tact and ability. The members resident in Glasgow though not so numerous as on some former occasions, were yet efficiently represented by Bro. John Turner, S.W., R. J. Smith, G. Grant, R. Johnston, J. Malvin, and J. Sutherland. In the course of the evening large and respectable deputations were received, headed by the respective R.W.M.'s, from the following lodges in the Ayrshire province, viz.:—St. John Kilwinning, Kilmarnock, 22; St. Andrew's, Irvine, 149; St. John Kilwinning, Beith, 159; Thistle and Rose, Stevenson, 169; Blair, Dalry, 330; St. John Royal Arch, Saltcoats and Ardrossan, 320; Neptune Kilwinning, Ardrossan, 442; and Burns St. Mary, Hurlford, 505. Eloquent and suitable addresses were delivered in the course of the evening by Bros. Patrick, Mackay (Kilmarnock), W. D. M'Jannet (Irvine), J. M. M'Cosh (Dalry), Rev. W. Lee Ker, Scobie (Hurlford), &c. The proceedings were enlivened by some excellent vocal and instrumental music. A most pleasant and harmonious evening was spent, and L 12 being announced in the S the lodge was closed according to ancient custom.

GLASGOW.—Cathedral Chapter (No. 67) met in their hall, 22, Struthers-street, on the 23rd ult. In the absence of the Principal, Comp. Wm. Taylor, P.Z., acted as Z.; G. W. Wheeler, H. 73, as H.; Comp. Distin, P.Z., as J. A lodge of Mark Masters was opened, when Bros. Robert Turnbull and Ernest Samuel were introduced and took that degree. A lodge of Most Excellent Masters was then opened, Comp. Martin acting as J.W., and Comp. J. Duthie, conferred on the same two gentlemen that degree. The Chapter was then opened with the above officers and companion Pirday, who was a most efficient 1st S., Comps. Goldie and Bail being the 2nd and 3rd. The ceremony was very efficiently worked, and the chapter was closed in harmony.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.—The Glasgow Early Grand Knight Templar Encampment and Preceptory of Red Cross Knights met in their preceptory, Glasgow, on Friday, the 19th ult. Deputations from the various Early Grand Encampments in Scotland were present, which added considerably to the imposing appearance of the assembly. Sir Knt. Martin, of the Early Grand Encampment, Ayr, presided, assisted by the following officers:—Sir Knts. Pollock, as C.; Spence, C.G.; Ferguson, M.; Mitchell, Adamson, R.; Rev. J. White, Prelate; Fisher, S.B.; Hodge, S.B., and others. The Encampment having been opened in ancient form, communications were read from the following candidates desirous of installation:—Comps. Holt, Walter, J. Walker, Leonard, and A. Webster, being in attendance, were subjected to the usual scrutiny, and, being approved of, were initiated for advancement. The impressive ceremony was ably performed by Sir Knt. Martin, and the perfect manner in which the various officers discharged their duties was worthy of all praise. To produce that reverence and love upon the minds upon the candidates, so that the ceremonies may have a lasting impression upon the memory, the presiding officer should be possessed of freedom of speech, simplicity of manner, and spirited working. This Sir Knight Martin possesses in an eminent degree, so much so that seldom have we listened to beautiful Ritual performed in such an admirable manner. In the way we might state that Sir Knt. Martin is from a good old branch of Templars in Scotland, his father the late Sir Knight P. Martin being to a great extent the promoter of the Early Grand Encampment in Scotland, early this present century, so that that time the Early Grand Encampment were held under the sway of Ireland, their superiors being the Early Grand Encampment of Dublin, whose Grand Charter dates from 1180, and is signed by the Keeper of the Holy Sepulchre, it also contains the names of the various priories of the provinces of Ireland to whom the Charter is dedicated. The late Sir Kt. P. Martin obtained early this present century a Grand Charter for the use of Scotland, so that encampments could be erected without so much trouble in petitioning the E.G. of Ireland. The Scotch grand warrant is an exact fac-simile of the Irish one, and Sir Knt. Martin was appointed Commander of the Order in Scotland. Since then it has flourished down to the present time, apparently intending to act up to its old motto, "We were the first and we shall be the last." The five candidates having been received under an arch of steel and loyally and lawfully dubbed Knights of the Holy Order of the Temple, the encampment was closed. A Preceptory of Red Cross Knights was then opened, when the same candidates were created Knts. of that Order, Sir Knt. W. Martin, M.P.S., and the other officers being in their respective places. This order was also successfully performed by the M.P.S., in his usual faultless style. The preceptory was then closed in due form, when the Sir Knights retired to the banqueting hall, where a repast of a most recherché description was provided for them. Sir Knt. James Pollock, of Newmilns, presiding, Sir Knt. Wm. Ferguson, Croupier. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to with satisfaction. The chairman, in proposing the toast of the evening, "Success to the Early Grand Encampment of Scotland," in a neat and appropriate speech, referred to the progress of the Early Grand in Scotland and the many obstacles it had to surmount. Of late years it had been so successful that a number of new encampments had arisen, and before long he only trusted that the many brethren of the Order throughout the country would resuscitate themselves and once more show to the world that they were not dead, but merely resting from the labours of the past. It was a fact well-known to the Sir Knights of the Order that their authenticity, and consequently their legality, had been questioned by the representatives of the Knights Templar acting under the Chapter General, but, as they knew themselves, these charges were altogether without foundation, and, if desirable, could be proven at large, both from written and printed documents in possession of the Grand Encampment. Spurious rites and degrees can of themselves never exist for any length of time, but must sometime or another dwindle down till they disappear for evermore, not so the Early Grand; it has lived through ages untarnished and will still continue to exist in spite of all the combined forces of their neighbours to reduce them in the scale of Knight Templarism. Sir Knt. Ferguson responded in an able and artistic speech, expressing the gratification and pleasure, the Sir Knights of the Glasgow Encampment had in welcoming their brethren from the provinces. It should always be his aim and endeavour to further the interests of the E.G. encampment in Glasgow, and throughout the country generally, there was nothing like unison in a scattered body, and where that was, they could accomplish anything. The vicissitudes of their fortune had already taught them the great lesson of unanimity and economy, and be assured where these are properly practised, nothing but success can follow. Sir Knt. Adamson, Edinburgh, proposed the Grand Officers, and in doing so paid a compliment to the Grand Officers present. Sir Knt. Spence responded appropriately. Sir Knt. Fisher proposed "The Health of Sir Knt. Hodge," and spoke in high terms of the services Sir Knt. Hodge had rendered the E.G. Encampment in Scotland. Sir Knt. Hodge replied feelingly and eloquently. Other toasts followed, and were responded to with pleasure, and with song and sentiment, the remainder of the evening was passed in a most pleasant manner. To the Sir Knts. of the E.G. Encampment in Scotland this is a day ever to be remembered, the harmonious meeting and social parting, happy to meet, sorry to part, and happy to meet again, being feelingly entered upon, the singing was excellent, some being in capital voice, diversified by the artistic accompanying on the organ by Sir Knt.

Head Holt. Altogether a more successful gathering of the E.G. Knt. Templars in Scotland has rarely if ever taken place. "Auld Lang Syne" being given, the Sir Knights separated at an early hour from a meeting to be remembered by those present for many years to come.

BRISTOL.—William Irwin Conclave (No. 17):—The first meeting of this conclave was held on Tuesday, Dec. 16th. Sir Knts. G. F. Tuckey, M.P. Sovereign; Sir Knt. W. Hodges, as Viceroy, E. There were also present Ill. Sir Knts. Capt. F. G. Irwin, Inspector-General of Bristol, and Sir Knt. W. A. Scott, M.P.S. of the Munbee Military Conclave. The minutes of the consecration and dedication of the two conclaves were read and confirmed. The following M.M.'s were then duly installed and proclaimed Sir Knts. of the Order, viz., E. E. Honey, H. W. Lane, W. Dubin, after which the M.P.S. installed the following Sir Knts. to the offices attached to their names; Sir Knts. J. T. Hallam, S.G.; W. Munro, J.G.; J. M. Hunt, H.P.; A. G. Williams, Treas.; G. Tonkin, Recorder; E. E. Honey, Prefect; H. V. Amor, Herald; M. Ansaldo, Standard Bearer; H. W. Lane, Orator; John Coles, Sentinel. Sir Knt. Hallam proposed a vote of thanks to Sir Knt. G. F. Tuckey, for the very great interest and trouble he had taken in establishing this, the William Irwin Conclave, in the province of Bristol. The Sir Knt. Tuckey, in thanking the Sir Knts. for the compliment they had paid him, said, since he had first seen the light of Masonry, he had made it his study, and he felt it his duty to do all he could to further the Order and carry out its principles, as far as his abilities would allow, especially in this the province of Bristol. He was pleased to see two conclaves of the Red Cross established here, and that it was becoming so popular among the brethren of the various lodges. He could not sit down without especially thanking Ill. Sir Knt. Captain F. G. Irwin for the very valuable assistance he had rendered him. There was not a brother in the province more energetic or more zealous in all appertaining to Freemasonry, he was always ready and willing to render any assistance. He would also thank Sir Knt. W. A. Scott, of the Munbee Conclave, for his able support. He was pleased to be able to inform the conclave that they were in a position to ask for a Provincial Grand Conclave, and the Inspector-General had stated he should open one at the earliest opportunity.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The General Committee of this Institution met at Freemasons' Hall, on Wednesday, the 24th ult. Bro. Major J. Creaton, P.G.D., a Vice Patron and Trustee, presided, supported by Bro. B. Head, P.G.D.; T. W. White, G. Steward, W.M. 21; F. Adlard; S. Rosenthal, P.M. P.G.J.W. Middlesex; H. C. Levander, P.M., P. Prov. G.D. Wilts; George Kenning, V. Patron, [P.M., P. Prov. G.D., Middlesex; W. Watson, P.G. Steward, and other brethren.

The minutes of several Committees having been read by the Secretary, Bro. R. Wentworth Little, the members proceeded to consider no less than fourteen fresh petitions, on behalf of candidates, two of which were deferred, and twelve recommended to the Quarterly General Court on the 10th January, as eligible for election in the following April. The Secretary then reported that out of the eleven unsuccessful candidates at the October election, two had become disqualified by having attained the age of eleven years, and one child had since been admitted by purchase, leaving eight, which with twenty-one new candidates, made the number of approved applicants twenty-nine, and there would be but five vacancies.

It was proposed, seconded, and unanimously resolved that ten additional children be received at the April election, making fifteen in all, and it was further decided that a former recommendation of the Committee for one case out of the twenty-nine to be placed on the eligible list be withheld, inasmuch as canvassing by circular had been resorted to before the General Court had authorised the insertion of the child's name as an eligible candidate.

THE RED CROSS OF CONSTANTINE IN MASSACHUSETTS.

Among the many Masonic Orders of high degree, that have flourished in England, and on the Continent, that of Knights of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, has been comparatively recently introduced into America, and on Wednesday, 17th Dec., there was constituted in this city, Roman Eagle Conclave, of this Order, the second in Massachusetts, and which initiates its work with every promise of obtaining high rank in Masonic circles. At five o'clock the Conclave was formally constituted, about twenty-five Masons having previously received the degrees of the Order; the Order is instituted under authority of the Grand Imperial Council of England and Wales, at the head of which is Earl Bective, and there were present to conduct the ceremonies as well as of those of installation of officers, the following representatives of the Supreme Council:—

Eminent and Ill. Sir Knight Samuel H. Herrick, Intendant General of Division of Massachusetts, and Representative of Grand Imperial Council of England; Ill. Sir Knts. William D. Stratton, Viceroy; Andrew S. Smith, Past Sov. of St. George's Conclave, Boston, as Sen. Gen.; William J. Stevens, Jun. Gen.; W. H. Chessman, Grand Marshal; B. Foss, Grand Prefect; J. T. Kimball, Grand Recorder; Chas. L. Ireson; Josiah H. Stearns, Grand Prelate.

The ceremonies were impressive and interesting, and the members highly pleased with the auspicious opening. Later in the evening the large hall of the Masonic Temple was taxed to its fullest capacity, with the audience of Masonic brethren and ladies assembled to witness the the ceremonies of installation. After opening the services the Ill. Intendant called Sir Knight Stratton to the chair, and the ceremonies were conducted by him, and the following officers duly installed over the new Conclave:—

Illustrious Sir Knts. John Haigh, M.P. Sovereign; Caleb Saunders, Viceroy, as Eusebius; G.M. Stoddard, Sen. Gen.; Horace C. Bacon, Jun. Gen.; Andrew Sharpe, High Prelate; S. M. Stedman, Treasurer; E. Frank Page, Recorder; Jas B. Smith, Prefect; Wm. F. Kimball, Herald; Wm. Smith, Standard Bearer; Louis Weil, Sen. Steward; Johnathan Craven, Jun. Steward, Otis Clater, Sentinel.

The singing, by Messrs. Parsons and Osgood, Mrs. Sprague and Miss Dana, with Miss Reed as organist, was one of the most thoroughly enjoyable features of the evening, indeed we doubt if Masonic gatherings anywhere are so exceedingly fortunate in their music as in our city.

After a sufficient period at the tables, the Knights, with the guests to a large number, repaired to Saunders Hall, adjoining, and to the inspiring music of Chapman and Butterworth's band, spent a couple of hours in dancing, merrily concluding a most pleasant and well enjoyed occasion.—Laurence (Massachusetts) Daily American.

A MAGNIFICENT FEAST.—Major A. B. Walker, Mayor of Liverpool, has announced that on the night of the marriage of the Duke of Edinburgh he will give a feast to all the aged poor of Liverpool who choose to be present. There is no central hall sufficiently large to accommodate the novel company, and therefore the feast will be in three sections. The meeting place for the North end of the town will be the North Haymarket, that for the centre, St. George's Hall, and that for the South-end at Sefton Hall.

Increasing activity of mind and motion in these modern days have gained ends undreamt of in olden times. For example, Holloway's ointment and pills remove rheumatism, neuralgia, and similar painful maladies—formerly scourges of both rich and poor. The number of testimonials of cures of these classes of diseases effected by Holloway's remedies is unprecedented, and should be enforced on the attention of all sufferers from these complaints. The parts in pain should be fomented for some minutes with warm brine two or three times a day, dried, and immediately well rubbed with the ointment. It will pass into the pores of the skin—as salt permeates meat—ease the local pain, and give the greatest relief.—Advr.

MASONIC BIBLIOGRAPHY.

Is anything known of a little pamphlet, entitled "The Principles of Freemasonry explained, or a discourse delivered before the very ancient Lodge of Kilwinning in the church of that place and in the year MDCCLXVI. By a brother. Glasgow, printed in the year MDCCLXVIII., price sixpence."

On the title page, is written in a peculiarly neat hand, to "the Rev. Mr. George Blair, from the author."

Who was the author? And who was the Rev. Mr. George Blair?

I may add the address is dedicated to "George Murdoch, present Grand Master of the lodges in Glasgow."

MASONIC RELIC.

"Sir and Brother.—I beg leave to forward you a fac-simile sketch of a very antique brass square presented to me this day by Brother Paine, Provincial Grand Architect. He was contractor, in 1830, for rebuilding Baal's Bridge, a very ancient one in this city, which he has replaced with a very beautiful structure, and on taking down the old one, the period of the erection of which is unknown (though noticed in records in 1558, at the proclamation of Queen Elizabeth), he discovered under the foundation stone, at the English town side, this old brass square, much eaten away; but I have traced the shape, size, and formation of the engraving on both sides, and marked the holes (I suppose for suspending it to collar); the most illegible character is the figure '5,' which might be 3, but history proves it must have been before 1558 at all events; a heart is in both angles. In haste, but ever ready to give information.—I am, &c."

Dear Sir and Bro.

I have thought it worth while to copy the above from the "Freemasons' Quarterly Magazine" for 1842 (page 289), and believing an exact transcript of the words engraved on the square will probably interest a few of your readers, who may not have an account of the relic, I append a copy from the engraving.

Yours fraternally,

ANOTHER MASONIC WORK.

This year is to be eventful in Masonic literature. Just as we had greeted Bro. Dr. Murray Lyon's "History of the Lodge of Edinburgh," (the grand Masonic volume) we received a short account of a great work, being prepared by our friend Bro. Dr. A. G. Mackay, of the City of Washington, U.S.A. It is entitled "An Encyclopædia of Freemasonry and its Kindred subjects, comprising the whole range of Arts, Sciences and Literature as connected with the Institution," and we know of no one better suited for such an extensive enterprise and labour, than the learned Mason, Dr. Mackay, whose fame is as familiar to Masonic students, and even to the Craft generally as that of the revered Dr. Oliver.

The book will be beautifully printed, and illustrated, in quarto size, and consists of many hundreds of pages. Its appearance may be looked for early in the ensuing year, and as the issue will be limited, the names of intending subscribers may be forwarded at once to Bro. George Kenning, Little Britain. We feel sure the Craft will thank us for drawing attention to this matter, and soon after the work has been published by Moss & Co., of Chestnut-street, Philadelphia, we hope to present a review of its contents in the pages of The Freemason. Meanwhile we wish our distinguished Bro. Dr. Mackay, the requisite health and strength in superintending its preparation by the publishers.

AN OLD PENNSYLVANIA MASONIC BOOK.

We acknowledge our fraternal obligation to Bro. William Hodges, of this city, for an old Philadelphia Masonic book, entitled "The Freemason's Companion, or Pocket Preceptor, compiled for the use of the Craft. By John Phillips, P.M. of Lodge No. 2, Phila: printed by Bartholomew Graves, A.D. 1805. Dedicated to R.W. Bro. Israel Israel, G.M. of Masons of Pennsylvania." Among its many interesting and valuable papers are; a history of Freemasonry; the Ahiman Rezon; Resolutions of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, dated November 23, 1795, providing for the creation of a G.H.R.A. Chapter, under sanction of a warrant from the G.L. of Pennsylvania; Rules and Regulations for the government of this Grand Chapter, confirmed in Grand Lodge March 5, 1798; History of Freemasonry in America; Address of Grand Lodge of Massachusetts to their Brother, Geo. Washington, dated Boston, A.D. 1792, with with Gen. Washington's fraternal response; Account of Bro. Washington's funeral; Address upon his life by G.M. Bro. J. B. Smith, of Pennsylvania; Account of the Dedication of the Pennsylvania Freemasons' Hall, Filbert-street, above Eighth, December 27, 1802; A Collection of Masonic Songs, &c. It is thus evident that in this little book of 211 pages there is much information of interest to every Pennsylvania Freemason. We shall shortly cull some extracts from its pages, for the benefit of our readers.—Keystone.

Obituary.

BRO. CHARLES SCHNIDER, GRAND TYLER, PENNSYLVANIA.

It is our sad duty to record the death of Bro. Charles Schnider, who for the past six years has filled the appointment of Grand Tyler of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania: Bro. Schnider's health was impaired for some time prior to his death, but he rallied sufficiently to be in his place at the outer door of the Grand Lodge, at its last Quarterly Grand Communication, on December 3rd. He suffered a relapse afterwards, which terminated his life on Friday evening, 12th ult., at the early age of 29 years. In common with the whole Pennsylvania fraternity, we lament his untimely demise. We give below a brief sketch of our deceased brother's life.

Bro. Charles Schnider was born on Oct. 13, 1844, in the old Masonic (late Washington) Hall, on South Third-street, above Spruce. He was educated at Allen's Friends' School, Second and Pine-streets. After leaving school he entered the printing establishment of Messrs. King and Baird, on Sansom-street. He continued at this business until the death of his father, the late lamented and excellent Grand Tyler, Bro. William B. Schnider, who died some six years since. The son (Charles) was then appointed to the position held by his father, Grand Tyler of the Grand Lodge of Masons of this jurisdiction. The appointment was conferred upon him by Bro. Hon. Richard Vaux, the then Grand Master, and dated from 1867.

His Masonic history commenced in the year 1865, when he was initiated into Lafayette Lodge, No. 71. In 1867 he was elected Junior Warden; in 1868 he was chosen Senior Warden, and in 1869 he was Master. He was also a member of Jerusalem Holy Royal Arch Chapter, No. 3; of St. John's Commandery, No. 4; Masonic Knights Templar; of Philadelphia Lodge of Perfection; of De Joinville Council of Princes of Jerusalem; of Kilwinning Chapter Rose Croix, and of Philadelphia Consistory.

The position of Grand Tyler of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania has been held by various members of the Schnider family for four successive generations, having descended from great grandfather, grandfather, father, and son. The position of Grand Tyler is one of great importance, and requires a person of great faculty of remembrance, he often being called on to vouch for the admission of persons to the meetings whom he has not met for years previously. In the Schnider family this faculty was developed to an eminent degree. The great-grandfather of the deceased held the office for eighteen years, his grandfather for twenty-one years, his father for thirty years, and deceased for six years, and during all that period there never was a single false recognition. The deceased leaves a widowed mother, a wife, and a son of seven years of age; and his death will be regretted by the Masonic fraternity at large.—Keystone

BRO. CHAS. W. MOORE, OF BOSTON, (U.S.)

We are deeply pained by learning of the death of R. W. Bro. Charles W. Moore, of Boston, Massachusetts, Corresponding Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, and editor of the Freemason's Monthly Magazine, the oldest Masonic periodical in the United States. He died on Friday 12th Dec., of pneumonia. On the Wednesday evening previous, the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts conferred upon him the rank of Past Grand Master.

Bro. Moore was made a Mason in Massachusetts Lodge, Boston, in February, 1822, and received his third degree in Kennebec Lodge, Hallowell, Maine, during the Grand Mastership of R. W. Bro. Hon. Simon Greenleaf, LL.D., afterwards the famous legal author, and Professor in Harvard University. On October 22, 1822, he was admitted to membership in St. Andrew's Lodge, Boston, and on Oct. 22, 1872, the Semi-Centennial Celebration of his membership was observed by his lodge, and participated in by many eminent Freemasons, with great eclat. In 1825, Bro. Moore inaugurated the first Masonic newspaper in the world—the Masonic Mirror, which was subsequently merged into the Freemason's Magazine, which he continued to edit with ability until the day of his death. He held the position of Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts for thirty-four years; of Deputy Grand Master for one year, and Corresponding Grand Secretary for six years; until his death.—Keystone.

NEW MASONIC HALL AT NEW BRUNSWICK, NEW JERSEY, U.S.

On Monday, November 24th, ult., the public dedication of the handsome new Masonic Hall New Brunswick, N.J., was formally opened by a Choral Concert.

The Hall is located on the corner of George Albany-streets, and occupies seventy-two front by one hundred and fifty-six feet in h. The building is of iron and brick, and presents a very ornate appearance. The style of architecture is the Renaissance, and the design reflects great credit upon the architect. The building is five stories high, and has entrances on both streets. Its main feature on Albany-street is a pavilion ornamented by pilasters, and windows and the seal of the Association, surmounted by a quadrangular dome, thirty-eight feet square at the base and rising one hundred and thirty feet above the pavement. The corner pavilions are each twenty-eight feet square at the base, and rising seventy-two feet to the top of the cornice, and capped by a Mansard roof thirty-three feet high.

The successful erection of the new hall is due in great measure to the untiring energies of Charles Dunham, M.D., Chairman of the Building Committee, seconded by Bro. William G. Esq., who is also a member of the Building Committee, as are also Bros. Goyn, D. and George Rule. The architect is Mr. Hatfield.

The hall has a large lodge room, on the fourth floor, which will be 36 by 48 feet, with a groined ceiling ten feet high, and connects with all the ante-rooms. The banquet room will be 100 feet. A room of the same size in the second story will be used, when completed, by the Templars. There are three main staircases leading to the galleries and upper story, connected by hall-ways in each story. The stairways are seven feet wide, built on iron girders for each story. Each of the hall-ways are five feet in width, and all are arranged in the most secure manner. We congratulate the Craft of New Brunswick on the prospect of their early occupancy of the hall.

Poetry.

A FELLOW-CRAFT'S PRAYER.

By Bro. WILLIAM CARPENTER, P.M., and P.Z.

Merciful Lord, who did'st all things create,
And on whose kind providence all creatures wait;
Wondrous alike in wisdom and power,
Whose glory the heavens shew forth from hour to hour!

Once the bright morning stars together sang,
And all heaven with angel voices rang;
To see another world hung up in space,
With all things furnished for a favour'd race;
Who than the angels are but little lower,
And form'd by Thee to live for evermore.

In the bright paths of nature and of science,
Do Thou me lead, and let my reliance
On Thee be placed as I my course pursue,
Doing in all things what is just and true;
So that the work that's in Thy name begun,
Continued be in me! Then Lord, say,

"Come—
Take thine own place in the Grand Lodge above,
And the full chorus swell of heavenly love."

THE CRAFT THAT HAS WEATHER'D THE STORM.

By Bro. O. MACGREGOR EDWARDS, M.D., (U.S.) No. 1107.

There's a good ship afloat upon life's troubled sea,
Trim, square-rigg'd and fair to the view;
Her timbers are stout as good timber can be,
Her compass unerringly true.

Like the ark ship of old, in dim ages by-gone,
Triumphant she's breasted the wave,
Through Bigotry's midnight, and Freedom's bright dawn,
Commission'd to succour and save.

Chorus:
Then a song and a shout—let them gaily ring out.

While we drink in Masonic due form,
For the stanch, gallant crew, and the officers true,

Of the Craft that has weather'd the storm.
Hurrah! for her colours, 'shook forth to the sky,

Hurrah! for the symbols they bear;
Truth, Honour, and Virtue the balyards, mast high,

With Faith, Hope, and Charity share.
While the lights at her binnacle, crosstrees, and prow

Shine as beacons for every land,
Her crew, 'mid the charm of their mystical vow,

Form a hallow'd, invincible band!
Chorus:

Then a song and a shout—let them grandly ring out,
While we drink in Masonic due form

To the officers true and the glory crowned crew,
Of the Craft that has weather'd the storm.

THE FREEMASON'S ANTHEM.

FOR MUSIC.

God bless the mystic band,
In every home and land,
Direct our way.

In darkness lead us right,
By thy power and might,
And guide us by thy light,
A prayer we pray.

God cometh from above,
Amaranthine our love,
In this blending.

Ev'ry eye is beaming,
Ev'ry heart set teaming,
Ev'ry soul make gleaming,
God defending.

This Wondrous Brotherhood,
Hard to be understood,
Some do confess.
We help all misery through,
Sure as the loadstones' true.
Faithful in what we do,
Assent to bless.

Can true friends be found,
In the wide world around,
Gracious and kind.
Taught by our Rites and Laws,
Ne'er to stand still or pause,
But plead the orphan's cause.
Such is our will.

Firm as a rock we stand,
Stronger than iron band,
For truth and love.
Our trust in God alone,
No other faith we own,
His will through us is shown,
And from above.

Now, our order still defend,
Earnestly we do commend
Its care to Thee.
Increase our means and ways,
Crown with thy heavenly rays
All hearts to sing thy praise
So mote it be.

THE CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENTS IN LIVERPOOL.—At all the theatres in Liverpool the pantomimes and kindred amusements are now in full swing, and there is every likelihood that they will have a long and prosperous existence.

"Little Lalla Rookh" occupies the Royal Alexandra.

"Twinkle Twinkle, Little Star" the Royal Amphitheatre.

"The King of the Golden Valley" the Theatre Royal.

"Lurline" the Prince of Wales.

"Little Red Riding Hood" the Rotunda.

"Little Bo Peep" the New Albert Theatre.

While at St. James's Hall, and the New Star Music Hall, special Christmas fare has been provided.

In the mounting of many of the pantomimes great liberality has been displayed, and for the complete effect of the dresses, scenery, &c., much is due to the goods supplied from George Kenning's Theatrical Depot, 2, Monument-place, Liverpool. This is particularly notable in the pantomime at the Theatre Royal, which in respect to scenery, music, and general effect, is certainly one of the best in town.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, JANUARY 3, 1874.

THE OLD YEAR AND THE NEW YEAR.

With the New Year, we beg most heartily and fraternally to offer our sincere good wishes to all our kind patrons, and friends, and readers. May 1874 be to them all a year of personal happiness, and Masonic progress, and all that this world of ours counts best and pleasantest, be their lot, and that of all near and dear to them, in the as yet unrolled calendar of the new year.

And a new year, full as it is of pleasant sympathies and hopeful emotions, seems ever also to speak to us with a clear and prevailing message of solemnity and pathos. For a new year reminds us of the old, of that period of our being which, whether in private relationships or public pursuits, is indissolubly bound up with all our individual hopes and fears, and grievances and struggles, and happiness, and sorrow.

None of us, if we are wise, will allow a new year to succeed the old, or take part in the customary gaieties of the season, without, as it were, a short and peaceful looking back on the hours and scenes which have slipped away, or the friends who have left us, and the joys which are no more, on the changes which have affected our home circles, or our public relations, on the void which advancing time has cast on many circles and on the missing links which no longer make up our once united brotherhood of love. Indeed, it is impossible at the close of an old, or the opening of a new year, not to be sensibly impressed with the alterations, which even twelve short months have wrought for us and ours.

Those who were with us for instance, this time twelvemonth, are with us no longer. Those who were standing at our sides, in all their freshness and grace, in all their fulness of old, in all the tenderness of young affection, no longer adorn our humble hearth, or join the gladness of this festive time.

On some households amongst us, sorrow and sadness have fallen in their darkening clouds, and have thrown both dimness and despondency, as well over the cheery associations of youth as over the unfaded energy of ripened years.

So that, say what we will, the advent of a new year cannot be to any of us a subject of unmixed rejoicing, neither would it be well or wise in us, to let go these more sober thoughts, which the lapse of time ever has, and ever must have for the considerate and the true hearted, and the reflecting. There is a voice speaking to us, from the grave of the old year, to which we may all well listen, a voice of kindness and tenderness and gentle recollection, and softening sympathy, which we should not drown in the loud gaiety of the world, or pass by unnoticed in the revelry of the hour.

But we did not intend, and we do not propose to preach a sermon, and therefore we will now proceed in our privileged Masonic greeting to our readers, with this closing 1873, and with this commencing 1874.

During the last twelve months, though our English Freemasonry has gone on the even and peaceful tenour of its way, under our excellent Grand Master, we have had to deplore the loss of our old and time-honoured chief, Lord Zetland.

His death had been preceded during the year that has vanished, by the death of a worthy and valued brother, his relative Bro. Frederick Dundas, and as the seasons came and went, the news of Lord Zetland's decease fell upon the Craft, as a great shock. It was true indeed, that he died full of years and honours, that he passed away peacefully and calmly, in full possession of his faculties to the last, amid the regrets of all who knew, and of many who honoured him.

But we of this English Craft, who had known him so long and well, who had seen him preside so often, so impartially and courteously over our long debates, we who had had good reason to appreciate his deep respect for law, and his unflinching sense of justice, we felt that, in his loss, ours was a void which could not easily be filled up.

Indeed it is almost impossible to estimate yet, the debt of gratitude we owe, as an Order, to our late lamented Grand Master.

While in other countries and under other auspices, Freemasonry has been sometimes marked, neither by a judicious administration or decorous acts, while we in England could not but regret that other ruling bodies did not adopt and imitate our simple laws of purely Masonic aim and organization, we in this good land of ours, were enjoying, under Lord Zetland's firm yet temperate sway, the fullest measure both of material prosperity and peaceful progress.

Kept happily apart and at a distance, in our Craft system, and our lodge gatherings, from the passing polemics, and political controversies of the hour, during Lord Zetland's "regime," while our lodges have increased in a most remarkable ratio, (a hundred per cent,) we have also witnessed the rapid growth of the warm and unselfish principles and practices amongst us, ready benevolence and fraternal charity.

No nobler crown to his long Masonic life, no happier testimony to the progressive and expansive sympathies of Masonic benevolence could be found, than the fact, that the very year which witnessed the removal of our old Grand Master from amongst us, witnessed also the development and extension £21,000 for our Masonic Charities, by the zealous and kindly members of our English Craft.

True it is, that, under the Marquess of Ripon English Freemasonry moves on with tranquil unanimity, and under his guiding hand, we have no doubt that our Grand Lodge will still continue worthily to represent the dignity and wants of our ancient Craft.

But no consideration of English Masonry today would be complete, which left out of its calculation and view, Lord Zetland's signal excellence as our Grand Master, his unsullied worth, and his happy rule; and no New Year's greeting would be acceptable among our loyal brotherhood, which did not come tinged with that feeling of respectful regret, and affectionate veneration which will ever we feel, characterise the utterance of all English Freemasons, when they talk of him who ruled them so truly and so wisely, for so many and eventful years!

We have had to deplore during 1873 the loss of many other excellent brethren, both at home and abroad.

Among them may be specially noticed, Bro. Labaud Laribière, Presiding G.M., of the French Orient; of Bro. Orr, American Ambassador at St. Petersburg, and P.G.M. of South Carolina; of Bro. Cauchois, an able French Masonic writer; of Bro. Schletter, long editor of the "Freimaurer Zeitung," and the intellectual editor of the "Allgemeines Handbuch" of Freemasonry, of Bro. Otto Franz Obermeier, in Berlin, a young physician, who died at the age of 39, of the cholera, a victim to his professional zeal; of Bro. Wm. Dunnaway, G.M. of Tennessee, and of Bro. Carl Wilhelm, celebrated as the composer of the German song, "Die Wacht am Rhein."

Many of us, too, will recall, to day, many worthy brethren and warm-hearted friends, we never more shall meet either in the lodge assembly, or in the festive circle.

We have already alluded to that remarkable proof of Masonic activity and fraternal benevolence, which 1873 witnessed, namely the large sum raised for our great Masonic Charities, far exceeding any previous year.

But with a new year we feel bound to remind our brethren, that, with the great increase of our lodges and members, come unavoidably increasing demands upon our charitable resources.

What the combined zeal and charity of our brotherhood, will do in this good cause in 1874, time alone will fully shew, but we do not believe for one moment, that, the many warmhearted and benevolent members of our ancient confraternity, will either slacken their efforts, or go back from the remarkable point to which they have reached. On the contrary, we believe, that, 1874 will behold as certainly a testimony of our fraternal goodwill and energy as did 1873.

We have to record in 1873, the appearance of the new serial, The Masonic Magazine amongst us, a new candidate for our patronage under an old name.

When we take up to-day a list of Masonic periodicals in all countries, we must be struck with their number.

One list we have seen, contains the names of forty-four monthly and weekly Masonic papers in all languages, and that list is far from being complete or correct. Perhaps it is not too much to say, that, at no given epoch of the history of Freemasonry, did there seem to be more earnest efforts made, or more considerable sacrifices for the advancement of Masonic literature.

It is a melancholy fact, however, as regards this apparently bright vision, that as a general rule Masonic literature to use a commercial term, "does not pay," and is with very few exceptions carried on at a loss.

Why should this be so?

There is no reason, "à priori," why, with our many lodges, and numerous brotherhood, Masonic papers and serials should not be remunerative, but so it is, and we can only hope, that in that "good time coming," Masonic "litterateurs" and Masonic publishers may reap some little benefit.

But what can you do when, in a lodge of fifty or sixty members, one member takes a copy of The Freemason, price 2d., and it is "loaned" to such others of the brethren as care to see it?

So with this new year, let us hope, that, amid their many sterling qualities of head and heart, our good English brethren will awake to the truth, and acknowledge the fact, that, our Masonic literature, to be efficient, must be both well supported and self-supporting, and then we may fairly hope, from an increased circulation of a good and wholesome literature amongst us, that a greater taste for reading Masonic works will be created, and the intellectual character of English Freemasonry will receive a quickening and a development.

May our hopes and anticipations be destined to receive a fulfilment in the next twelve months, and we repeat once more to all our readers, and to all Freemasons everywhere, our heartfelt aspirations for a Happy New Year!

WEEKLY SUMMARY.

Her Majesty is still at Osborne, where she has been keeping Christmas Day. H.R.H. Prince Arthur is also at Osborne for Christmas. Their R.H. the Prince and Princess of Wales have remained at Sandringham.

The home news is not important, the last week being mostly a holiday. The Christmas-Pantomimes have opened, with their usual amount of scenic effect to delight the young, and startle the old.

Long accounts have been received from the Gold Coast, but there is but little decided to report. The Ashantees are retreating, and by this time that fine brigade which has been sent is probably advancing on Coomassie. As the Irishman said of old, "more power to their arms."

An English company has opened, after twenty months of labour, the new Water Works at Odessa.

Dr. Hayman's removal from Rugby, has already led, as we foresaw, to a long correspondence, and threatens to end in legal proceedings.

Abroad we find equally little to note. Poor Marshal Bazaine is gone to the Isle de St. Marguerite, a fact which appears to afford unlimited satisfaction, to some very emotional minds, but which to thinkers, is very sad.

France is peaceful, and we will hope, will soon regain her material prosperity.

In Germany the combat between the Prussian Government, and the Roman Catholic Clergy, is "à l'outrance," and it is said will culminate in the deposition of the Archbishop of Posen.

The Virginus has been given up to the American Government, but some question has arisen, whether she can legally be considered an American vessel.

The report of Commander Braine of the U.S.

Navy, sent to Admiral Scott, commanding the American Squadron on the Havannah Waters, is a very clear statement of the utter illegality of the execution of the non-combatant portion of the crew, as well as of its Captain.

We have to announce the death of Chief Baron Pigott, of the Irish Court of Exchequer, of the Earl of Norbury, and of the Rev. James Lupton, minor canon of Westminster, and of St. Pauls.

A sad steamboat accident is reported from Newcastle-on-Tyne, in which eighteen lives of men and boys were sacrificed.

After a long search two of the bodies have been found in Loch Lomond, from the late fatal catastrophe, namely that of Sir James Colquhoun, and a boy named Anderson. The search is still continued, and it was hoped yet to recover the other bodies.

THE NEW YEAR.

Old Seventy-three has past and gone,
Young Seventy-four is here;
The old year's faded rapidly,
Its young hours now appear,
The rapid sands have soon run out,
Of twelve months more to day,
Another solemn year of time
Has travelled fast away.

And yet, tho' short that span appears,
Tho' soon its hours are gone,
Tho' noiselessly its seasons
Have followed one by one;
How many solemn thoughts and memories
Belong to what has ceased to be,
As now we bid a long adieu
To Eighteen Seventy-Three.

And if to us, as year by year,
We greet a New Year's Day,
Old Time seems passing leisurely
Upon its onward way.

Let's not forget, that still to us,
Each twelvemonth, as it flies,
Would teach us all a goodly lesson,
A truth which never dies.

Twelve months are gone; to us, no more
On earth they can return;
In twelve months more another year
Will leave us cold and stern;
For in those passing seasons,
And in each fleeting hour,
There lades of every mortal life
The swiftly closing flower.

For twelve months come and twelve months go,

To all as they depart
Bringing a silent witness,
In the memories of the heart,
As we linger often sadly now
By the graves of vanished years,
And strew their mounds with the garlands
Of dead hopes, and falling tears.

Spurn not the message then to-day,
A New Year brings to you,
For it has a voice most eloquent,
Most tender and most true,
As it turns away from the hillock,
Where its dead are lying still,
Shielded from every care and fear
From loneliness and ill.

Yes! from many a humble grave to-day,
From the withered hours of time
From this sad and weary world of ours,
From this sorrow-suff'ring clime,
Faith points in hope ecstatic
To heaven's roseate ray,
And whispers in all of love and trust,
Of an eternal New Year's Day.

CHARITY VOTING.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I have read Bro. J. Hogg's letter with close attention, but I feel forced to confess both my surprise at it, and my dissent from it. I think very few would suppose, who heard or read his speech, that, by the words, a "Masonic institution with which he was connected," he alluded to the "Lodge of Benevolence." What the similarity between that valued body and a charitable institution can be, I, for one, cannot understand. The Lodge of Benevolence is purely, so to say, a distributive body, and has nothing to do, either with the collection of funds, or the arrangements of an institution. A worse analogy could not well be found.

I also entirely differ from Bro. Hogg, as to his calm proposal to take away the voting rights of all the subscribers to the Masonic charities, and to give the selection to the elected members of the Lodge of Benevolence, or to some similar central body.

For ten years I had the honour to preside over the Charity Committees of West Yorkshire, and in that capacity had to consider and study carefully the whole question of our Masonic charities. I feel quite certain, that, had Bro. Hogg as much practical acquaintance as it has been my lot to acquire, respecting their actual working, he would at once retreat from the position he has so hastily taken up, namely, that of suggesting a hopeless and impracticable change.

Our Masonic charitable institutions are on the whole, working very well, and much of their extended support arises from the fact of the candidates being able to receive and profit by local efforts and individual exertions. Were everything left to the stereotyped forms and routine proceedings of a central committee, much of the provincial interest and zeal would soon evaporate, or concentrate itself on a local charity, or a provincial institution.

Having watched the working of our system carefully for many years, I am certain of this, that, on the whole in the long run, the proper candidates get in, and sure I am sure of this too, that if any cases do not succeed, it is either from some defect in the case itself, or that the zeal and energy of its supporters have not been properly or sufficiently called into play.

I do not see what possible good could accrue, though I do fancy a considerable amount of harm could be done to our Masonic charities, were Bro. Hogg's suggestion seriously entertained, as, however, well-intentioned, it is, I feel convinced, that, it is impracticable. That one or two reforms may be introduced into the working of our educational institutions, I for one am not prepared to deny, but they are purely within the competence of the house committees, and of the general body of subscribers, but certainly in no sense, in my humble opinion, could the reforms suggested by Bro. Hogg tend to the present or future welfare of our Masonic charities.

I am, yours sincerely, and fraternally,

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I see by last week's Freemason that the Rev. P. G. D. Perrott, M.A., has been elected Head Master of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, but I miss the familiar prefix "Brother" before his name.

I beg to call your attention to what no doubt is an error, a slight one no doubt, but still an error; for I feel sure that the committee could not have thought of appointing a Head Master who was not a Mason, when there were so many Masonic candidates of high attainments from whom to select.

Who, I ask, would be most likely to cultivate amongst his pupils a love of the grand old brotherhood which shelters and educates the offspring of its indigent members—he who had spent his life in Masonry or, he who, though advancing to middle life, has thought so little of our noble institution as to deem it unworthy to receive him into its ranks? Like Brutus, "I pause for a reply."

HONORARY MEMBERS.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

We have an understanding in our lodge that honorary members have a right to vote on all occasions, except when any money is voted for any purpose, and that they have a right to hold any office.

SCOTCH CHARITIES.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

A few weeks ago you commented with a great deal of truth on the backwardness of the Grand Lodge of Scotland in establishing and maintaining Institutions like those of which England is so justly proud—her Benevolent Institution and the Schools for Boys and Girls. I was in hopes that some abler pen would have taken up the subject, some one who from his position in the Craft might have had greater weight amongst Scotch Masons, for I am convinced that it only wants to be brought properly before the brethren to meet with a favourable response. In proof of this assertion, and also to show to our English brothers that we do not quite forget the Masonic Charities, as well as to place on record the good which even one humble member can accomplish, I will briefly state a few facts. In the early part of this summer Bro. Jacob Bright, a P.M. of Prudence Lodge, 632, New York, found himself ill, and unknown. In the streets of Glasgow, he accidentally met with Bro. Charles Richmond, a poor man, but a true Mason, who at once treated him as a brother, giving him food and paying for his lodging; but Bro. Bright, though deeply thankful, did not like to trespass too much on his kindness. He therefore went to get work as a dock labourer till his failing strength prevented him earning any thing. He had with him no diploma or any other documentary proof of the statement that he had been either a Mason or the Master of a lodge, Bro. Richmond did not wait for this though, he wrote to some friends in New York, and Bro. Mitchell, himself a P.M., having a sister going to New York, also instituted enquiries, but before an answer arrived the brother was removed to the Royal Infirmary, to a bed always kept by Lodge 332. While here he was attended to by Bro. Richmond and his wife, who deserves to have a Mason for a husband, for three times a week she went nearly three miles to see him and take him little comforts.

But it pleased the G.A.O.T.U. to call him to the Grand Lodge above. The two Bros. named, with Bro. Cunningham, of 116, and Harper, 408, in a few hours and from a few friends collected enough to bury our departed brother, and had a surplus of over £14, as the Treasurer of the Provincial Benevolent Fund found a coffin and hearse, and the Clyde Lodge, who have a large grave of their own, allowed him to rest in front of the granite monolith that bears 408 engraved on it, to mark the resting place of those of her members who have not vaults of their own. A committee has been formed to serve for like contingencies in future, and the £14 invested. This short narrative shows not only that the spirit of benevolence exists amongst our private members, but also that we have lodges with public graves, and others who provide beds in the hospitals for those who may require them, and further that we have also a Provincial Benevolent Fund. It therefore only requires that those in the purple, our rulers in Edinburgh, and their representatives in the provinces, should bestir themselves to utilise this feeling and make it national, so that we may get rid of the reproach that as a grand body they do so little for the Masonic charities. It only wants them to put on the effort, there are plenty of Charles Richmonds in Scotland, with as good hearts and longer purses, if they are only properly applied to. I trust, Sir, you will return to the subject and stir up those in power to greater activity, for undoubtedly, "Charity is the brightest gem that adorns the Masonic profession."

I am, yours sincerely and fraternally,

FREEMASONRY IN ITALY.

Lodges Areopagus—Concordia.
Liberty, Equality, Fraternity.

To our worthy Bro. Alex. Gallico, London.
Beloved Brother.

The Virtuosi Lodge, Lodge, G.O. of Leghorn, under the auspices of the Sup. Lodge G.O., having its seat in Palermo, is always happy when the triumph of Masonic principles and ideas is secured. Feeling this, it unanimously voted two addresses, the first one to our Prov. Bro. G.M. of the G.O., Sup. Couns. of Brazil in the valley Lavradio, Viscount Di Rio Bianco, now President of the Council of Ministers of the Brazilian Empire, who powerfully defended our brothers against the demands of the irreconcilable priests. The other address is to Sir Henry Richards, who on the 8th of June succeeded, in your Parliament, in obtaining the triumph of the grand Masonic idea of permanent international arbitration.

Be so kind as to publish both these addresses in your esteemed Masonic newspaper, and while begging you to accept in the name also of the Grand Lodge Ancient Virtuosi, the best thanks, I greet you with the mystical fraternal love, and remain,

The Grand Lodge Areop, and Anziani Virtuosi, under the auspices of the Supr. Couns. G.O. of Italy, having its seat in Palermo, to the Honorable Sir Henry Richard, M.P.

Greeting and Brotherhood,
G.O., of Leghorn, the 8th day of the 8th month of the year of the true light 5873, commonly indicated as 1873.

The splendid result obtained by your good self in the House of Commons on the 8th of June, 1873, has filled with joy the hearts of all us Freemasons of the respectable lodge Anziani Virtuoso, G.O. of Leghorn, as by your obtaining the acknowledgment that International arbitration shall become the absolute rule in the new law of nations, you co-operated to the end that this principle of so many ages, and insisted upon so vigorously by Freemasonry, should finally become a solemn fact.

Accordingly, Dear Sir and Bro., we brother Masons of the respectable lodge O. of Leghorn, both as Italians and in the name also of all our brothers of the Ancient and Accepted Scotch rite, under the auspices of the Supreme Council, having its seat in Palermo, genuine friends of peace and liberty, hereby tender to you the feelings and expressions of our deep respect and admiration, and we beg your acceptance of our best wishes for your happiness for so noble an achievement, and remain,

This Respectable Lodge was deeply moved on learning from the public papers the noble conduct observed by you in resisting the overbearing of the priests against our Brethren.

Your conduct was that of a true Mason, and praiseworthy, as by your eloquence you proved that Freemasonry emanates from Light and wishes progress and truth.

The Respectable Lodges Areopagus and Ancient Virtuosi, of the Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Scotch Rite, having its seat, in Palermo could not be indifferent to your conduct, but unanimously decreed the resolution which we hereby cheerfully communicate to you, giving you the pleasing intelligence that your name is already entered in the Album of the Honorary members of this Respectable Lodge, with the tr. myst. grip, whereby we fraternally greet you.

Extract from the Book of Architecture of the Respectable Lodge Ancient V. of the G. O. of Leghorn, at the meeting held on the 24th day of VIII. month of the year of True Light 5873, commonly known as 24 September, 1873.

Whereas it is the duty of a true and good Mason to oppose, to the best of his ability and with all his might the overbearing and usurpation of the clergy.

Whereas further, the clergy is doing its utmost to render the altar the seat of ignorance and superstition, and to revive the inquisition with all its horrors and excommunications, considering that the Gr. Com. G. O. and Supreme Counselor of Brazils in the Valley of Lavradio, Viscount of Rio Bianco, President of the Council of Ministers of the Brazilian Empire vigorously defended the rights of Freemasons against the tyranny of the clergy.

And Whereas he succeeded in securing before the representatives of the country the triumph and rights of Freemasons, and to bring under the arm of the law the bishops, our implacable enemies.

Whereas he thus fulfilled a duty and rendered real service to our institution. Whereas the rev. Grand Com. G. O. Viscount of Rio Bianco, by this his noble deed, has deserved the goodwill of the Great Widow.

The Lodge Areopago, Cap. A. V. O., of Leghorn, of the Ancient and Accepted Scotch Rite, by order of the Supr. Conns., veng its seat in Palermo, at greetings of true admiration and deep-felt congratulations be and are hereby sent to the and Powerful G. Com. Grand M. of the Valley of Brazils, in the valley of the Lavradio, count of Rio Bianco:— that, as an acknowledgment of his noble conduct, this lodge is proud of inscribing him among its honorary members.

That this resolution be at once transmitted to noble Bro. G. Com., and G.M. of Rio Bianco, contained and found in accordance with the Statutes of Leghorn, this... day of VIII. month, of the year of the true light 5873, commonly known as 1873.

Henry Richard, M.P., has recently sent following reply to the address presented to the Lodge Anziani Virtuosi, by order of G.O. of Palermo, in reference to his address of 8th July last, on international arbi-

Hotel Bretagne, Vienna, 7th Nov., 1873.

Dear Sir,

Owing to my absence it is only now that I have received the communication of the worthy society represented by you, wherein they congratulate me for the success of my motion in the House of Commons on the 8th July.

Be so good as to tender my thanks to the gentlemen belonging to your Masonic Order of Leghorn, for the kind words and hearty sympathy addressed to me, and to assure them that it has given me sincere pleasure to receive such an address after the difficulties I have encountered in the English Parliament in upholding the principles of reason, justice, and humanity.

In future my work will be weak in comparison with the support which the generous Italian nation will surely give to this principle.

I have the honour to remain, dear Sir,

Yours very respectfully,

(Signed) HENRY RICHARD.

VISIT OF THE PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE TO THE PORTSMOUTH LODGE (No. 487).

There was a large gathering of Freemasons at the Masonic Hall, St. Mary's-street, Portsmouth, on Monday, 22nd ult., to celebrate the opening of the premises of the Portsmouth Lodge, No. 487, after their restoration. The new lodge room is generally admitted to be one of the finest in this part of England, both for the convenience of its arrangements and its acoustic properties. In the restoration of the building the present W.M. of the Portsmouth Lodge (Bro. George S. Lancaster) has been untiring in his exertions, and it is mainly to his energy that the lodge is indebted for its completion during the present year.

In order to give additional eclat to the ceremony of Monday, the W.M. had invited the attendance of the Provincial Grand Master, (Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P.) and the officers of Provincial Grand Lodge, besides several other distinguished Masons of Portsmouth and the neighbourhood. The lodge was opened at 4.30., the W.M. presiding, with Bros. J. Astridge, A.S., as Senior Warden, and J. Maltby, Junior Warden, the other officers of the lodge present being Bros. Ubsdell, I.P.M.; E. M. Wells, P.M., and Treasurer; M. E. Frost, P.M., Secretary; T. Moore, S.D.; E. Bunting, J.D.; W. Barnes, Organist; George Bond, I.G. The Provincial Grand Master was accompanied by the following officers of Grand Lodge:—Bro. J. R. Stebbing, D.P.G.M.; the Hon. Somerset Calthorpe, No. 175, S.G.W.; Henry Cawte, No. 1069, J.G.W.; M. E. Frost, No. 488, G.T.; W. Hickman, No. 130, G.S., P.G.A.D.C., Eng.; J. E. Le Feuvre, No. 130, G.S.; G. H. De Fraine, No. 257, G.S.D.; E. Sheppard, No. 76, G.J.D.; Dyson, No. 394, G.S.W.; Sleeman, W.M., No. 903, G.S.B.; G. Stewards: Bros. Moore, No. 487; C. Cox, No. 394; R. J. Rastrick, No. 1,069, and H. F. Cox, No. 804.

The Past Provincial Grand Officers present were—Bros. J. Ogburn, P.P.G.W.; H. Ford, P.P.G.W.; S.D. Forbes, P.P.G.W. Essex; J. Morgan, P.P.G.R.; Bradbear, P.P.G.R.; W. H. Ford, P.P.G.W.; J. J. Galt, P.P.G.D.; E. G. Holbrook, P.P.G.D.C.; Tuohy, P.P.G.D.C.; G. Rake, P.P.G. Supt. of Works; A. Cudlipp, P.P.G.D.C.; T. Batchelor, P.P.G. Supt. of Works. The lodges in the locality were represented by Bros. Legh Bailey, W.M. 257; S. R. Ellis, W.M. 342; Capt. Trower, W.M. 1428; R. Brown, W.M. 1069; Francis, W.M. 804; Martin, W.M. 1461; C. B. Whitcombe, P.M. 903; and among the other brethren present were Bros. R. D. King, 447; J. Thompson, 654; Bradford, 1069; Bourke, 355; J. J. W. Moody, 1069; H. J. Guy, 1069, and others.

The attendance of the members of the Portsmouth Lodge was also unusually numerous, and included Bros. Sherman, J. E. Ivinry, G. Wendover, H. Threadingham, F. N. Cunningham, C. Groom, E. Lancaster, Anderson, R. W. Beale, J. Clay, Ahronsberg, and others.

A P.M.'s jewel, of the finest workmanship, was presented to the W.M. (Bro. Lancaster) in the lodge, by the Prov. G.M. In making the presentation the R.W. Prov. G.M. spoke of the lodge room, as now restored, in terms of the highest praise, and said it was a credit, not only to the Freemasons of Portsmouth, but to the province generally. He then referred to the services of the W.M. during the past year, which were deserving of the gratitude of his lodge, and said it afforded him great pleasure to be present on that occasion. He then presented the jewel to Bro. Lancaster, amidst the applause of the brethren. The jewel bore the following inscription:—

"Portsmouth Lodge, 487. Presented to Bro. G. S. Lancaster, P.M., by the brethren of the Portsmouth Lodge, 487, as an acknowledgment of his zeal and constant attention to the duties of the lodge during his year of office, 1873; also to commemorate the restoration of the lodge premises, of which he was mainly instrumental."

Bro. Lancaster acknowledged the presentation in feeling terms, and said he had endeavoured to carry out the duties of his office to the best of his ability.

The lodge having been closed, a recherché banquet was served in the new supper room, which was attended by about 80 of the brethren, and was presided over by the W.M., who was supported by the P.G.M. and the other distinguished visitors.

"The Queen and the Craft," "The Most Worshipful Grand Master, the Marquess of Ripon, K.G.," "H.R. Highness the Prince of Wales, P.G.M.," and "The Right Worshipful the Deputy Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon, and the Officers of Grand Lodge," were given from the chair by the W.M.

In responding to the latter toast, Bro. W. Hickman, Prov. G. Sec. (P.G.D.C. of England), said Lord Carnarvon was well known to most of the brethren present as one who was highly esteemed in every relation of life, whether they regarded him when performing his high functions in Grand Lodge, or when coming amongst them and adding lustre to their assemblies in the provinces, or when fulfilling his important duties in the Imperial Legislature, or when coming among them to promote the arts and sciences and the general welfare of the people. Everywhere he was welcomed, and he was one of those who added lustre to the kingdom over which our gracious Queen reigns, and added stability to this great Empire. He believed that the other officers of Grand Lodge endeavoured to fulfil their respective duties to the best of their ability, so that Masonry might not only advance, but influence the minds of all who came within its sphere. He believed that in this province Masonry was advancing, and was now placed upon a very solid basis. Their Prov. Grand Master, took very great and earnest care of all that concerned the province.

The Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P." was next proposed by the Worshipful Master, who remarked that the brethren took it as a great compliment that the R.W. Prov. G.M. had honoured them with his presence. He had distinguished himself, not only in the Masonic fraternity, but as a member of the greatest institution in the country—the House of Commons—and when they found a brother like him in the position of Provincial Grand Master, who was willing to give up a certain amount of time to the benefit of Masonry in general, they ought to be very grateful to him.

The R.W. Prov. Grand Master, Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P., who was greeted with much heartiness, said he begged to express his sincere and warm thanks to them for the very cordial manner in which they had received his health. It gave him the greatest gratification to attend there, and, indeed he should be most unmindful of the interests of Masonry in that province if he did not take an opportunity, when it was in his power, of attending an important lodge in such a large centre of Freemasonry as Portsmouth. The W.M. had alluded to his public duties, and, no doubt, they took up a great deal of one's time and rendered it, perhaps, impossible to devote so much time to Freemasonry, however much one might desire to do so, as he otherwise would. But if they managed their time properly, there was a time for a great many things, and he must say that among the duties which he strove to carry out was his duty to Freemasonry. He might not do it to the extent he ought, but still he always tried to do his best. It had given him the greatest pleasure to attend that lodge, and to see the flourishing way in which it was carried on. He saw, in an important town like this, the Portsmouth Lodge flourishing and like to flourish in the future, and he could not too much congratulate the brethren of this locality upon the event. It was extremely gratifying to those who had the honour to rule over the Craft to see lodges in their province flourishing. In the present day it was extremely necessary for the brethren to devote their utmost attention to promoting the efficiency of their respective lodges. Freemasonry was increasing to an unprecedented extent; but they had a deep responsibility cast upon them. Freemasonry had existed, as they knew, almost from time immemorial; it had flourished, more or less, at different times, but it had never been suffered to dwindle into insignificance. Attacks had been made upon their Order in previous ages, and they were not exempt from those attacks now. Their order stood arraigned before different tribunals, but the attacks made upon it only recoiled in the same manner as the waves did from the shore. They knew why—because they trusted to those principles which had been the mainstay of the Order in former ages, and which would be in the future. Let them, then, be specially careful not to give cavillers and objectors any ground on which to rest their objections. Let every brother feel that he had a stake in the matter, and take a pride in promoting, in his individual capacity, the efficiency of the Order to which he belonged. If any brother were to do an unasonic act, anything wrong, which the principles of their Order would reprobate, he ought to feel not only that he was doing something wrong according to his individual judgment, but that he was bringing a stigma upon the Order. In the same way any one who joined their Order, having previously within him an incentive to do right, the principles there inculcated would lend an additional weight to the impulses of nature. He believed that a brother who paid deep attention to their principles could not fail to be powerfully influenced by them, and if that was the case, objections which were made to them from other quarters must in the end be powerless and fail to have the slightest effect. In other countries, as well in this, Freemasonry was flourishing. There might be countries where it was not of the like importance that it was in England, but he was certain of one thing—that Freemasons in every part of the world did regard Freemasonry in England as of the highest importance. Let then, English Freemasons, be especially careful to promote the same respect for themselves. There was nothing, probably, which contributed more to promote good feeling between the respective nations than the amicable intercourse which Freemasonry gave them an opportunity of enjoying; there never was a period in the history of the world when the facilities of intercourse gave the opportunities to the Freemasons of different nations of cultivating amity and good will so much as at the present time, and he trusted that from Freemasons, numbering so many as they did in every part of the world, in the end greater good feeling among the nations would result. He knew they could not fail to produce some happy and lasting effects. He would only once more thank them most sincerely for the kind manner in which they had received them. He hoped success would continue to attend the Portsmouth Lodge, and he assured them he should be encouraged in the discharge of his duties by the very kind support extended to him by the brethren of every lodge in the province which he had the honour and gratification of presiding over.

The W.M. next proposed "The Very Worshipful Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. J. R. Stebbing." He referred to the fact that Bro. Stebbing was a member of the Portsmouth Lodge, and expressed the pleasure he felt at seeing him present.

The very Worshipful Deputy Provincial Grand Master (Bro. J. R. Stebbing) made a very feeling and able reply. He referred to his long connection with the lodge, he having some thirty-two years ago constituted and consecrated it, and he said nothing pleased him more than to see the lodge not only flourishing but in the occupation of premises worthy of its great historic name, and of the success which had attended it. It was very pleasing to find that they always drank the health of the Provincial Grand Officers and of the officers of the Grand Lodge, because, although Masonry did not depend upon grand lodges, as men of order they paid due attention to their Grand Officers. The Very Worshipful Deputy Prov. Grand Master then gave some information with respect to the past history of Freemasonry and its influence upon the arts and sciences at different periods, referring to St. Paul's Cathedral as a perpetual monument of the triumph of the principles of Masonry. In the course of an eloquent peroration the Deputy Provincial Grand Master exhorted the brethren to regard it as a sacred duty to transmit to posterity the fire of its youth and the undying excellence of the principles of Freemasonry.

Bro. J. J. Galt gave "The Visitors," and Bro. Legh L. G. Bailey, W.M., No. 257, in responding, congratulated the W.M. on having been successful in his endeavour to restore the lodge, which reflected the highest credit on himself and the brethren connected with it, and also upon the province. He thanked the Prov. G.M. and the Deputy Prov. G.M. for their remarks, saying it was the principles of Masonry which they ought to keep steadily in view, and if they lost sight of them their Order would become as "sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal."

Bro. Phillips, No. 173 (Yorkshire), also responded. Speaking from a long experience, he could state that their lodge was hardly to be equalled in the provinces, as regarded space and acoustics, but he remarked upon the want of suitable accommodation.

The R.W. Prov. G.M., in giving "The Worshipful Master of Portsmouth Lodge, No. 487," said he knew full well the feelings entertained towards him by the members of the lodge, and therefore it was a very easy task for him to introduce the toast. Their Worshipful Master had had a prosperous year, and they knew how much his exertions had tended to the efficiency of the lodge. It was a great advantage to a lodge when it had a Worshipful Master whose ability enabled him to discharge his duty well, and he was sure every member felt that their fullest thanks were due to the W.M. for his exertions during his year of office.

The Worshipful Master, in responding, said that when twelve months ago he accepted office, he felt he was accepting a very great responsibility, but he had endeavoured to do his duty. It was a satisfaction to him to see that meeting that night. They had had anxious moments, but when, shortly after his election to the post of W.M., his esteemed friend Dr. Frost took him round the building and shewed him what could be done he felt it was the right thing to accomplish, and made up his mind to do his utmost to carry it out. He gave "The Present and Past Wardens of the Province, and Provincial Grand Officers."

Bro. the Hon. Somerset Calthorpe, Prov. G. S. Warden, said there were many thoroughly efficient Masons amongst the present and past officers who did their work most creditably, and it would be extraordinary if such were not the case, when they had such brilliant examples as the P.G.M. and the D.P.G.M., who he ventured to say, even in their presence, were second to none in the excellent way in which they performed their various duties.

The Deputy Prov. Grand Master next proposed "The Past Masters of the Portsmouth Lodge, No. 487, and Prosperity to the Lodge," coupled with the names of P.M.'s Ubsdell and Forbes, who responded.

Among the other toasts were "The Worshipful Master Elect of the Portsmouth Lodge," proposed by the W.M., and responded to by Bro. J. Maltby, and "The Officers of the Portsmouth Lodge, No. 487," proposed by the Worshipful Master, and responded to by Bro. E. M. Wells.

Bro. F. G. Bradbear, Past Provincial Grand

Registrar, and Past Provincial Grand Organist kindly presided at the piano, and also sang several songs, contributing, as usual, very materially to the enjoyment of the company.

There are in connection with the College
THREE ANNUAL EXHIBITIONS, open for general competition to all students, and tenable for three years.

Special Classes are formed for preparing students for the Legal, Medical, Home, Colonial, and Indian Civil Service Examinations; and for entrance to Woolwich, Coopers-hill, and the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge, London, Dublin, Durham, and Edinburgh.

The Religious Teaching is based on strictly Protestant Principles, in accordance with the Doctrines and Liturgy of the Church of England.

Students requiring a commercial education only, are exempt from the classical course, if desired.

The year consists of two terms, during which there are no holidays, the only vacations being at Midsummer and Christmas.

The use of all class books, valuable library, stationery (except mathematical instruments) laundry, &c., is included in the terms. No Extras of any kind.

The High School—Students from 16 to 23 years of age.
The Middle School—Students from 12 to 16 years of age.

The Preparatory School—Students under 12 years of age.

The College is divided into three sections. In the

PREPARATORY SCHOOL

(entirely distinct, but contiguous)

Boys are well grounded in the elements of a sound English Education, with French and German (also in Latin and Greek if for the learned professions), and prepared for the High or Middle School. In the High School the course of study is a preparation for the Universities and the various competitive examinations; while the Middle School trains pupils in such subjects as will qualify them for scientific and commercial pursuits.

Alston College is pleasantly situated, about six miles from Preston, and half a mile from Longridge Railway Station; is in immediate proximity to beautiful mountain scenery, within half an hour's ride of the chief watering places on the western coast of Lancashire, and is considered by Medical Professors to be in one of the healthiest localities in England—a fact sufficiently proved by the remarkably good health enjoyed by the students and regularly confirmed by the half-yearly medical reports.

Extensive Cricket Grounds are attached to the College Farms, whilst a spacious covered Gymnasium and Student's Hall, available for recreation, drill, &c., adjoin.

Reports of all examinations, together with the names of those students who have distinguished themselves at the College and the Universities, as Exhibitors, Medalists and Prizemen, also the reports of the late examinations, together with views of the College buildings, and all necessary information, forwarded on application to the Rector, or to

Mr. GEORGE CLIFFORD, Secretary.

References kindly permitted to Bro. Masons, and to the late Examiners: Rev. T. H. Lindsay Leary, M.A., D.C.L. (Oxon), Assistant Examiner to Her Majesty's Civil Service Commission, Crawford Cottage, Epsom; T. W. Eyre Evans, Esq., LL.D.T.C.D., Nightingale Villa, Lower Norwood; and other University Examiners; Professor Pagel, Liverpool; R. Routledge, Esq., B.S.F.C.S., Manchester; also the Protestant Clergy, Nobility, and Professional Gentlemen (parents of present pupils) in London, Manchester, Liverpool, Birmingham, Leeds, Bradford, Bognor, Preston, Burnley, Chester, Lancaster, Boston (Lincoln), Wigan, Harrogate, Accrington, Haslingden, Kendal, Southport, Todmorden, &c., and various other towns; the Continent of Europe, the colonies, New York, and the United States, Brazil, Cuba, &c., who can bear ample testimony to the merits and success of the College.

ELIXIR.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC

COUGH ELIXIR

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

GUERNSEY.—Doyle's Lodge of Fellowship (No. 84).—On the 30th December, this lodge met for the purpose of installing its W.M. for the ensuing year. The W.M., Bro. Kinnersly, 18°, opened the lodge at 3.30 p.m., and was supported by Bros. Payne, S.W.; Randall J.W.; Bishop, S.D.; Wilkins, J.D.; Nicolle, I.G.; Marquand, S.; and a large muster of brethren of the lodge and visitors. The lodge having been opened in the first and second degrees, Bro. Kinnersly, who had been re-elected on the last regular night (the S.W. on account of ill-health refusing to take the chair) was re-installed in the chair of K.S., by Bro. Gallienne, P.D.G.M. for Guernsey. The board of Installed Masters being closed the brethren were re-admitted, and the W.M. was proclaimed and saluted in due form. He then invested his officers, as follows:—Bros. Gallienne, I.P.M.; Randall, S.W.; Lt. Col. Bishop, J.W.; Hutchinson, Treasurer; Clarke, Sec.; Wilkins, S.D.; Nicolle, J.D.; Truman, I.G.; Hutchesson, D.C.; Marquand, S.; Manager, Tyler. The brethren, between 50 and 60 in number, afterwards adjourned to Gardner's Royal Hotel, where an excellent banquet was served up in the large dining room; the "menu" left nothing to be desired, and the decorations of the room had been most tastefully carried out by Bro. and Mrs. Gardner. The W.M. was supported on his right by Bro. Gallienne, 18°. P.D.P.G.M. for Guernsey, and on his left by Bro. Balfour Cockburn, 30°. The loyal toasts were duly given, and heartily honoured, the "Health of the W.M.," proposed by Bro. Gallienne, was enthusiastically received, and in responding, the W.M. congratulated the brethren on the flourishing state, not only of this lodge, but of Masonry in general in this Island, (one proof is, that three years ago Guernsey had one vote for the Boys' School, and now gives 24). "The Visitors' Toast," to which Bro. Balfour Cockburn responded, was most heartily received, and the other toasts, interspersed with some capital songs, having been duly honoured, the brethren separated at an early hour.

MARGATE.—Union Lodge (No. 127).—This old established and flourishing lodge held its annual Installation meeting on Friday, the 2nd inst., at the Lodge Room, King's Head Hotel, Margate. The lodge was opened in due form with solemn prayer by the W.M., Bro. Alfred Wootton, P.G.S. Kent, assisted by his officers. Upwards of 30 members of the lodge and visitors, amongst whom were Bros. J. Terry, 18°, Sec. Royal Benevolent Institution; Finch, P.M. 429, P.P.G.D.C. Kent; W. M. Hill, P.M. 429, P.P.G.S.D.; W. Smeed, P.G.S.W. Middlesex; A. Ralph, W.M. 784, S. Kent; B. Hiscock, W.M. 1209; W. Nich, P.M. 429, P.P.G.S.D. Kent; and J. R. Ant, I.G. 813. After the minutes of the regular lodge were read, confirmed, and read, the W.M. proceeded to instal Bro. Knight Treves, W.M. elect. A board of officers being opened Bro. Treves was duly installed into the chair of K.S. The board of officers was then closed, the brethren admitted, and the newly installed W.M. duly proclaimed and saluted in the different degrees. The W.M. then appointed and invested his officers for the ensuing year, viz., Bros. E. Harnett,

S.W.; J. W. Smith, J.W.; in whose absence Bro. Vickers was invested pro tem., W. C. Brasier, P.M., P.P.G.S.B. Kent, Treas.; Rev. G. Lewis, Chaplain; W. Wallace, Sec.; F. L. Silani, S.D.; John Reeve, J.D.; William Crawford, I.G.; Alfred Aubrey, Organist; S. S. Chancellor, D.C.; Walter Gurr and J. H. Brown, Stewards; Cullum Marchant, Tyler. Bro. A. Wootton, as installing officer, gave the addresses to the W.M., Wardens, and brethren in a most impressive and forcible manner, Bro. W. C. Brasier then proposed, and Bro. E. Harnett seconded, that, a P.M. jewel be presented to Bro. A. Wootton, I.P.M.; carried unanimously. The lodge was then closed and the brethren adjourned to the banqueting room, when about 30 brethren sat down to a sumptuous banquet, (placed on the table by Bro. John Smith, the host, in his usual handsome manner) under the presidency of the W.M. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts, (including the P.G.M., and D.P.G.M., and all officers past and present) were given from the chair. The health of the newly installed W.M. was then proposed by Bro. I.P.M. A. Wootton, and was most heartily responded to by all present with true Masonic fire. The W.M. thanked the brethren for the very kind manner in which the toast had been received, and hoped that Union Lodge, 127, would still merit a continuance of that success it had already gained. The other principal toasts were the I.P.M., P.M.'s, and Treasurer of the lodge, the Visitors, the Officers of the lodge, the Masonic Charities, (which was very ably responded to by Bro. J. Terry), the Ladies, Bro. Smith, the host, and all poor and distressed Masons. Several brethren then handed in their names with subscriptions to the Masonic Charities. Some excellent songs were sung during the evening, and the brethren separated about eleven o'clock, after passing a most enjoyable evening.

LION AND LAMB LODGE (No. 192).—A meeting of this old lodge was held at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, on Thursday, the 1st of January, 1874, presided over by the W.M., Bro. Francis Trott, assisted by his officers as follows:—Bros. George Abbott, S.W.; George Newman, J.W.; W. Goodyer, P.M., Treas.; J. G. Marsh, P.M., Sec.; T. Cohn, S.D.; Charles Arkell, J.D.; E. Jones, I.G.; George Parker, Dir. Cer.; E. King, P.M., Steward. The lodge having been opened in the three degrees, Bros. Clark, Parker, and Poulton were raised to the sublime degree of M.M. This, the first day of the new year, was the auspicious occasion for installing the newly-elected Master of the Lodge, Bro. George Abbott, of the City Railway Terminus, Cannon-street, who had so worthily filled all the offices of the lodge, including that of S.W., to the satisfaction of the members, who unanimously elected him to the highest honour a lodge can confer upon any of its members. Bro. Henry Muggeridge, P.M. (the oldest member and father of the lodge), then occupied the chair for the purpose of installing the said brother, the interesting ceremony being performed with his usual ability—so well known to members of the Order far and near. The newly-installed W.M. then appointed his officers as follows:—Bros. George Newman, P.M. William Preston Lodge, S.W.; W. Goodyer (re-elected by the lodge), Treas.; J. G. Marsh, P.M., Sec.; Thos. Cohn, J.W.; Charles Arkell, S.D.; E. Jones, J.D.; Henry Legge, I.G.; E. Roberts, P.M., Dir. Cer.; E. King, P.M., Steward. We need scarcely say that the appointments gave general satisfaction. The Installing Master then concluded the beautiful ceremony of installation by giving the usual addresses to the Master, Wardens, and brethren. A notice of motion was given to present Bro. Trott, the retiring Master, with a P.M.'s jewel of the value of ten guineas; also to vote to each of the three Masonic charities, as recommended by the audit committee, the sum of ten guineas. There being no further business of particular interest, the lodge was closed in due form and adjourned. The brethren then repaired to a sumptuous banquet laid in the pillar room, which was ably presided over by Bro. George Abbott, the W.M. The cloth having been removed, the Master gave the usual Masonic toasts with great zest, that of "The Deputy Grand Master and the Grand Officers" being responded to by Bro. Raynham W. Stewart; P.G.D., and Bro. John Emmens, P.G. Pars. The toast of the evening—"The newly-installed W.M."—was proposed by his predecessor, the I.P.M., which was received with much enthusiasm, and elicited a most appropriate and promising speech from the chair. Bro. Henry Muggeridge, P.M., returned thanks for the P.M.'s. The W.M. then proposed "The Masonic Charities," coupling the same with the three Secretaries, viz., Bros. F. Binckes, R. W. Little, and J. Terry, all of whom, we are glad to say, were present. Bro. Terry returned thanks for the three charities in an appropriate and eloquent speech. The toast of "The newly-appointed Officers," having been given, Bro. R. W. Stewart, with the permission of the Master, proposed "Prosperity to the Lion and Lamb Lodge." The Tyler's toast then concluded a most agreeable meeting on New Year's Day, 1874. Amongst the members present we noticed the following:—Bros. E. Roberts, P.M.; John Johnstone, P.M.; E. King, P.M.; George Kenning, P.M.; J. G. Chillingworth, J. G. Chillingworth, jun.; J. H. Fuller, W. T. Rickwood, George Taylor, F. Fellowes, S. T. Lucas, W. Smale, W. F. Bates, T. Gardner, B. Perkins, W. Regan, John Curle, R. E. Bright, J. B. Clements, F. Baker, W. R. Baker, T. Fisher, George Hall, F. Jackson, R. G. Dixon, W. Ramsey, S. Edwards, Alfred Lewis, Henry Davis, S. Haynes, G. Bartholomew, A. G. Marks, J. G. Rollins, W. Waring, Henry Abbott, J. Kent, C. Cann, and J. G. Marsh, jun. The visitors who honoured the lodge with their presence were—Bros. R. W. Stewart, P.G.D. England; J. Emmens, P.G. Purst. England; F. Binckes, P.G. Steward (Sec. Boys' School); R. W. Little, Prov. G. Sec. Middlesex (Sec. Girls' School); J. Terry, P.P.G.S.B. (Sec. Royal Benevolent Institution); W. F. Smith, W.M. 862; H. Cohn, 1421; H. Dyne, J.W. 396; T. H. Fox, P.M. 21 and 192; C. W. Ashdown, P.M. 1421; J. H. Webster, I.G. 1309; Charles Jardine, J.W. 140; A. YORK.—York Lodge (No. 236).—The annual meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Duncombe-place, York, on Monday, Dec. 15. Present, Bros. the Rev. H. V. Palmer, W.M.; Farrer, P.M., P.P.S.G.W. North and East Yorkshire; Lawton, P.M., P.P.G.R.; Cowling, P.M., P.P.S.G.W., Treas.; Davison, P.M., P.P.G.S.B.; Todd, P.M., P.P.G.O., Sec.; Cooper, P.M., P.P.G. Sup. of Works; Hartley, P.M.; Southwaite, P.M.; Walton, P.M. 123 and 1337; Balmford, S.W., W.M. elect; Rawlings, S.D.; Monkhouse, J.D.; Camidge, P.P.G.O., Organist; Baskett, I.G.; and a large number of brethren and visitors. The minutes of the previous meeting having been confirmed and a candidate initiated into the mysteries and privileges of Freemasonry, the chair was taken by Bro. Cowling, P.M., when Bro. Balmford, S.W., P.P.G.O., and W.M. elect, was presented by Bros. Farrer and Lawton, P.M.'s, to receive the benefit of installation. After the ancient charges had been read by the Secretary and responded to by the W.M. elect, the ceremony of installation was performed by Bro. Cowling, who for many years past has acted as the Installing Master of this lodge. The newly installed W.M. was duly proclaimed and saluted in the three degrees, and afterwards appointed and invested the following brethren as his officers for the ensuing year, viz., Bros. Swann Maltby, S.W.; F. Rawlings, J.W.; Rev. W. Valentine, Chaplain; W. Cowling, P.M., Treas.; J. Todd, P.M., Sec.; F. J. Monkhouse, S.D.; G. C. Baskett, J.D.; J. S. Camidge, Organist, J. Cooper, P.M., M.C.; and G. Browne, I.G. The addresses to the several officers were effectively given by the W.M., and the lodge was then adjourned to the 30th December, on which day the festival of St. John the Evangelist was celebrated by a numerous company of the brethren, and visitors from other lodges, dining together at the Masonic Hall. The W.M., Bro. Balmford, presided, supported by his officers and by Past Masters Bro. March, (Lord Mayor of the City of York), Palmer, Cowling, Davison, Hartley, Cooper, Todd, Southwaite, and Lowray, and Bros. Haigh

GIRLS' SCHOOL.

Our readers will have perused with much satisfaction the report of the proceedings of the House Committee of the Girls' School, on the 24th Dec., and the recommendation to be submitted to the quarterly General Court summoned for January the 10th.

By that report it appears, there are now 29 candidates for the April election, though of these one case is to be withdrawn on account of previous canvassing. While we quite agree with the House Committee in principle, and feel that those injudicious friends may receive a proper reprimand from the Committee, yet we are inclined to think and to hope, that the child should not be made to suffer for the faults of others.

Perhaps having called attention to the subject publicly, and having openly condemned such hasty and irregular proceedings, the quarterly General Court may adopt the entire list of 29 candidates.

At first, according to the present arrangements, only five vacancies were declared, but such a number, with the existing amount of accommodation and the funded capital of the school, was clearly insufficient either to meet the wants of the brotherhood, or to do justice to that excellent Institution itself.

Accordingly, a resolution was unanimously carried, that, ten additional children should be elected in April next, making in all, fifteen, and such resolution is to be submitted to the Quarterly General Court on the 10th of January.

Of its success we need, let us hope, have no doubt, as its seasonableness is unquestionable, and its propriety we may add, self-evident.

The election of fifteen candidates, will still leave fourteen to come up again at the October election, and between this and October, it is, we fear, fully certain that, several more candidates will inevitably appear. The Girls' School stands in a very different position to the Boys' School, having, happily, such a large funded capital intact, and, therefore our English Craft fairly expects, that, the House Committee will not, by any mistaken notions of economy, or an adherence to former calculations of numbers and vacancies, fail to meet the pressing demands of our largely increasing brotherhood. It seems to us, that, before long, the House Committee of the Girls' school will have to consider the propriety, of still further permanently enlarging the school accommodation, as there is no reason, why, with the income belonging to the school from invested capital, and from the annual donations of our ever ready Craft, three fourths of the candidates annually, should not at least be elected into the Institution.

The Girls' School is in itself an educational seminary, of which as an Order we may well be proud, and which for its efficiency, and thorough practical character, its adaptation to the requirements of our fraternity, and the position and training of the children themselves, is we sincerely believe without an equal in this country.

It has always commended itself to the warm feelings of Freemasons, and we feel sure it will always do so, as long as it is conducted on the same wise, consistent, and large-hearted principles, which have marked its past work and administration.

In these days however, of active educational efforts, and earnest philanthropic interest, would it not be well (we say it in all deference to the very excellent actual house committee), to have a fresh election of members of the same every year? That is to say, could not a proportion retire annually for one year, so as to allow fresh metropolitan and provincial members of the Order to participate in the good work?

We throw this out merely as a friendly hint, as we live in an age of great reform, but we should not be doing justice to our own feelings, or to those of the Craft at large, if we did not express clearly to-day, how much we feel the success of the Girls' School is owing to the ability and zeal of its most efficient head Governor, and to the active and continuous interest and successful supervision of the House Committee. It has a most active and able Secretary in the person of our well-known Bro. R. W. Little, and we can only hope for his assiduous efforts and important duties, all of prosperity and success,

THE RECENT ADDRESSES FROM THE VIRTUOSI LODGE, 90, OF LEGHORN.

In our last number we published, at the request of Bro. Anselmo Carpi, of Leghorn, two addresses from the Virtuosi Lodge, of Leghorn which is also called a Grand Lodge, though we apprehend not in our sense of a Grand Lodge. These two addresses are sent, one to Mr. Richards, M.P., in recognition of his efforts in favor of international arbitration, the other to our Br. Lavradio, Viscount of Di Rio Bianco, G.M., the Grand Orient Supreme Council of Brazil in the Valley, and President of the Brazilian Council of Ministers, for his active defence

[AN. 10, 1874.]

Freemasonry against the unwise attacks of the Roman Catholic Hierarchy in Brazil.

In admitting such addresses into the columns of The Freemason, we are not bound or affected in any way, either by their verbiage or their opinions. But, in order to prevent any possible misconception, or misconception, we think it right to notice them to day, and to add, that we in this country, have nothing to do as Freemasons, with any matter appertaining to either politics or religion, as such. We neither express any opinion, nor do we in any way interfere or tolerate a discussion of the passing polemics of the hour, whether party or denominational.

When then the Italian "Orator," our worthy Bro. "Carpi," states boldly that such an address is offered to Mr. Henry Richards, M.P., on account of the triumph of the "Grand Masonic idea of permanent international arbitration," we can only point out to our readers to day, that, whatever may be the "Grand Masonic Idea," of the Italian Freemasons on the subject, we have no such "idea," as we are not warranted in expressing such an opinion, as English Freemasons.

The question of "International Arbitration," is a passing political subject, with which we have no connection, and about which we could not legitimately express our views as Freemasons, and we are entirely of opinion, that the less Freemasons concern themselves with such matters, which belong to other lawfully constituted assemblies, properly to discuss and settle, the better it will be for Freemasonry.

All Freemasons are lovers of peace, and opponents of war, but we are not at all prepared to say that any particular view of arbitration is "the grand idea of Masonry," as, though Freemasons, we are still Englishmen, and as such we most surely object, and probably always will object to "peace at any price."

But, as we said before, we do not feel that, as Freemasons, we have a right to discuss the matter at all, which may well be left to competent authorities and a proper tribunal.

We sympathize deeply with the Brazilian Freemasons in their unjust persecution by the mistaken policy of the Roman Catholic prelates in that country.

We do not think it wise to adopt all the strong expressions of our good and energetic Bro. Carpi, as we feel ourselves persuaded, that, great as is the justice of our cause, as Freemasons, and so self-evident the folly and perversity which actuate the present Roman Catholic attack on our Order, that, we can afford to meet with all forbearance and dignity, and self-restraint, remembering ever the good old adage, "magna veritas et prevalebit."

WEEKLY SUMMARY.

The Queen is still at Osborne, where H.R.H. Arthur remains on a visit.

The Duke de la Rouchfoucauld Bisaccia, the Ambassador to this country, has been appointed to her Majesty by Earl Granville.

The Prince and Princess of Wales are still at Sandringham, but leave for St. Petersburg on the 14th of January.

H.H. the Duke of Edinburgh left England on his happy journey, and a telegram announces his safe arrival at St. Petersburg. May all of good attend his august Fiancée and himself on their matrimonial voyage.

The usual kindly distribution of Christmas gifts to the labourers and domestics in the Royal households have taken place at Osborne, Windsor, and Sandringham.

The marriage of Miss Gladstone, daughter of the Premier, with the Rev. E. Wickham, headmaster of Wellington College, has taken place at Hawarden. And the marriage of the Duke of St. Alban's with Grace, second daughter of the well-known Mr. Bernal Osborne, M.P., has also been celebrated at Killaloe Church, Newton Anner, Clonmel.

Mr. Pettie has been elected R.A., to fill the place of the lamented Sir E. Landseer whose remarkable pictures are now collected by the Royal Academy for public inspection.

The Hayman correspondence continues in profuse quantity without, as it appears to us, much practical good. If anything is proved, it is the very questionable value of the system of "governing bodies" of our public schools. A somewhat similar controversy seems to be beginning at Eton, with reference to the proposed "supersession" of some of the under teachers by Dr. Hornby.

The news from the Gold Coast is not much, though any day may bring us some important tidings. The troops are at sea, awaiting an order to land, in good health, and we may be quite certain "ready for the fray." We have to deplore the loss of Lieutenant Alfred Charteris, of the Coldstream Guards, on the staff of the army, the gallant son of a gallant father, who died at sea of fever on board the Simoom. Much sympathy will be felt for Lord Elcho.

The investigation as to the loss of the Ville du Havre has taken place, and it seems as if in the collision, that unfortunate ship had "starboarded" instead of "ported" her helm, and so the Loch Earn struck her nearly "amidships."

Abroad the news is very limited, but the French Government has requested the prelates to moderate their language when dealing with matters which affect their neighbours, but otherwise all is tranquil in France.

There is nothing new from Germany, except that the ecclesiastical and civil controversy continues to be vehemently urged, and that happily the Emperor of Germany is much better.

In Spain a military coup d'etat has put an end near Cromwelliano, to the Constituent Cortez, and the Castelar Administration. General Pavia and Marshal Serrano, (the Duke de La Torre) seem to be masters of the situation, so far. It is not impossible that Don Alphonso, the son of Queen Isabella, may be raised to the throne by the Spanish army. In the meantime the bombardment of Carthage continues, and General Moriones seems to be in a scrape, as the Carlists are apparently again surrounding him.

The surviving crew and passengers of the Virginius have been given up to the American officer commanding the Juniata, Commander Braine, much to their joy. They were in a deplorable state from dirt and neglect, and want of clothes, but were warmly received and most kindly treated, by the American officers and sailors. The Virginius itself has in the meanwhile foundered at sea, and we have no doubt, but that "Uncle Sam" indulges in a quiet chuckle.

We have to announce the death of General Sir A. Roberts, Colonel of the 101st regiment; of General Robert Sloper Piper, and of Major John Bent, of Exeter, an old officer of the 5th Fusiliers, who died the other day, aged 92. Sir Richard Glasse's death is also mentioned, who was well-known for his successful labours in connection with the first Atlantic Cable. The medical profession has suffered a loss by the sudden decease of Dr. F. C. Webb, the editor of the Medical Times and Gazette. Mr. Mark Phillips has also passed away, formerly well known in Parliament as member for Manchester.

THE CONVIVIAL BOARD.

On this interesting subject we have received the subjoined communication from the versatile pen of our esteemed friend and brother, William Kilpatrick, of Hiram's (symbolic) Lodge, No. 97, England (now of this city).

The topic is one with which we claim some familiarity. It will bear ventilation in this country, and as the Craft here are no strangers when called "from labour to substantial refreshment," the question will come home to Masons of the Hautes Grades, as well as those of the inferior and more populous bodies.

Hence we, with great pleasure, give place to the entire article in this department, and shall be pleased to hear from those who differ with its conclusions, or of any suggestions to make in the way of response:

While Freemasonry is the same all the world over in its essential elements of brotherhood and charity, there is a very great difference in the manner of conducting the business of the organisation in various countries. For instance, in America, or at least in the State of New York, it is the law that "no lodge shall introduce intoxicating liquors within its lodge-room, or any room adjoining;" (vide Constitution, Art. XI., Sec. 25), while in England, Ireland, and Scotland, the "convivial board" is a sine qua non—if the expression be permitted—at every regular meeting of the lodge. True, lodges are not to meet in taverns or public houses where it is practicable to meet elsewhere, nor are intoxicating liquors admitted into the lodge-room; but the prevailing rule is that a "refreshment" room adjoins the lodge-room, and at the close of labour the brethren are called to refreshment, in the actual sense of the term. In fact, a very important part of the lodge furniture are the utensils used at the convivial board—the decanters, glasses, punch kettles, sugar bowls and tongs, and all the other et ceteras necessary at a carouse. And at the annual elections of lodge officers the position of Steward is considered one of considerable importance, his duty being to keep the cupboard well stocked with the "ardent" and the edibles required for the different palates.

There are few of your readers who have not read Douglas Jerrold's famous "Curtain Lectures," first published in the columns of the London Punch. The indignation of Mrs. Caudle, when she discovered that her spouse had become a Mason, was very great.

"I suppose," exclaimed the voluble lady to her lymphatic partner, "I suppose you'll be going to what you call your lodge every night now. Lodge, indeed! Pretty place it must be where they don't admit women! Nice goings on, I dare say. But it's only another excuse to get away from your wives and families, that you may feast and drink together, and call one another brethren. Brethren, indeed! That's the secret, and nothing else."

The truism uttered by the garrulous Mrs. Caudle some thirty years ago is a fact to a large extent at the present day, when the "convivial board" is a flourishing institution as of yore. But the members of the fraternity in the Old country are beginning to profit by the good example set them on this side the Atlantic, and the clause in the Constitution I have quoted above is being introduced into many of the lodges. An instance of this occurred a few weeks ago in London, where the key-note was sounded, which is likely to be taken up in every lodge throughout the length and breadth of the land. The brethren of the Great City Lodge met at the Cannon-street Hotel, and, after the usual lodge work was done, they adjourned to their banquet room, where, instead of the accustomed sumptuous dinner, with the costly concomitants of champagne, etc., there was spread a frugal meal of bread and cheese and ale. The W.M. presided, and all the officers and visitors partook of the repast, and when the cloth had been removed the president explained to the visitors that the lodge had determined to give up one banquet (which cost between 200 and 300 dols.), and to give the amount thus saved to the charity fund of the lodge. Most of the visitors, including several prominent Freemasons of England, spoke and expressed their delight at the novel banquet; and the members of the lodge were so gratified at the unexpected success of the experiment, that it was proposed to give up four of the six monthly banquets, and so increase the charitable fund to about 800 dols. The proposal was well received, and after the usual toasts had been duly honoured, the list went round for individual subscriptions to Masonic benevolent institutions, when over 250 dols. was subscribed and more promised.

When it is considered that the lodge here spoken of numbers among its members many of the nobility and merchant millionaires of the "modera Babylon," this innovation, so to speak, must be heralded as the avant courier of a new era in British Freemasonry. The example was not only well timed, but comes from the most influential lodge in England, and therefore the most uninterested personally in charitable matters.

I have no doubt but this "new departure" will cause a revival in Freemasonry in Great Britain and Ireland, as every person who is conversant with the Order must admit that the convivial board has often been the rock on which many a noble Masonic craft has come to grief, and has often acted as a deterrent to many an aspirant after Masonic light, sometimes causing him to hold aloof from the organization altogether.

And much as the practice is to be condemned, it is nowhere so much abused as in Scotland—the "land of Knox and whisky drinking"—where there are few Masonic halls in existence, and where the brethren almost invariably meet in taverns. In that country the lodge keeping the best table is the most patronized by the visiting brethren, the convivialities often extending to the "wee short hours ayont the twal."

But as Masonry boasts of the practice of every social and moral virtue, and tries to make all her sons true and trusty, good citizens, and virtuous members of society, it is the duty of every individual member of the Craft to promote in every way anything that conduces to brotherly love, peace, and goodwill among men. As Freemasonry advances, so also does civilization, and the time, I trust, is not far distant when Masonic halls, libraries, reading rooms, &c., will be as numerous as churches, and the brethren as numberless, so to speak, as the sands of the sea shore. The old country lodges have made a move in the right direction. That the example set by the Londoners may spread far and near, and be productive of good fruit, is the fervent wish of every true Mason.—New York Dispatch, Dec. 21, 1873.

CONSECRATION OF A NEW LODGE AT MANCHESTER.

On Wednesday, 3rd December, 1873, a new lodge was consecrated at Mrs. Kershaw's, the Lamb Inn, Oldham-road, Manchester, under the title of "Lodge of Truth No. 1458."

The ceremony was excellently rendered by Bro. William Romaine Callender, D.P.G.M. of East Lancashire, assisted by a goodly number of the P.G. Officers, and evidently made a deep impression upon the minds of all the brethren who had the good fortune to be present.

The consecration being over, Bro. John W. Turner, of the Ulverstone Lodge, Huddersfield, was then duly installed as first Worshipful Master, by the D.P.G.M., who, with the assistance of Bro. P.M. Caldwell, one of the best workers in this province, invested the following brethren as officers:—Bros. James E. Hall, S.W.; Henry Smith, J.W.; Thomas Tyers, P.M., Treasurer; Charles Pearson, Secretary; G. H. Needle, S.D.; J. W. Hartley, J.D.; Charles J. Kent, I.G.; Thomas Wallis, P.M., Tyler.

This business done, a most sumptuous banquet was served by the hostess (Mrs. Kershaw,) to which the brethren did ample justice.

Some fine glees were sung by Bros. William Dumville and Lister, of the Cathedral, Manchester, and Bros. Miller and Pearson, which charmed the evening harmoniously and pleasantly away.

The district in which the lodge is situated is a very populous one, and it is believed the lodge will be both prosperous, and a credit to the province.

Bro. James Batchelder's accompaniment to the glees on the pianoforte was perfection. He also played one of his pianoforte solos, so well as to prove him to be a thorough master of the instrument.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

The third meeting of the Board of Stewards appointed to carry out the coming Festival, was held at Freemasons' Hall, on Wednesday, the 7th inst., present: Bros. Major William Platt, Grand Junior Warden, Chairman; Limpus, Constable, Moss, Kenning, Cochrane, Stevens, Edenshaw, Jones, Richards, and about thirty other brethren. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed, the tender of Bro. Seymour Smith was accepted for the musical arrangements, the amount being £31 10s., for which he will provide 500 books of words, the use of two grand pianos, with the services of two pianists, and ten professional singers. Bros. Edenshaw and Hensworth, were appointed wine Stewards, the Secretary announced that the number of Stewards was now 124. The meeting was then adjourned to Wednesday, the 21st inst., at 3 o'clock, a vote of thanks to the chairman closed the meeting.

SURREY MASONIC HALL.

At a recent meeting of the Directors of this Company, the tender of W. J. Oliver, for the erection of the building, was accepted and the lodges on the Surrey side of the water, will therefore ere long be in a position to avail themselves of the advantages of the building, which has been specially designed for the accommodation of the Craft, will so amply afford them. Messrs. Pain and Clark, the architects of the company, have received instructions to make the final arrangements, and the building operations will be immediately proceeded with. The necessary steps for the laying of the foundation stone are under consideration, and probably early in March the ceremony will be performed in due Masonic form by an important member of the Craft. We understand that shares in the company have been readily taken up and that the list will be closed at an early date.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION FOR AGED FREEMASONS AND WIDOWS OF FREEMASONS AND MARK MASTER MASONS.

The energetic Bro. Thos. Sabine, has issued the following circular to which we willingly give insertion:—

16, GRAND PARADE, BRIGHTON,
August 1872.

SIR AND BROTHER,

I do myself the honour of informing you, that with the consent of the Grand Mark Lodge, I have undertaken to represent the "Degree of Mark Master Masons" at the Anniversary Festival in Aid of the Funds of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, which will be held at Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen-street, London, W.C., on the 28th January, 1873.

This institution deserves the support of every Mark Mason, as shown by the following statement:—The funds of the institution assist in supporting 115 aged Freemasons and 92 widows of Freemasons, of whom 14 men and 19 widows find shelter in the asylum at Croydon. The men receive £36 and the widows £28 per annum. The total sum required to meet this outlay and expenses, is upwards of £7,000 per annum, towards which the permanent income only reaches a sum of £2,000, leaving a deficiency to be made up by the voluntary subscriptions and donations of the Masonic body of £5,000 a-year. To assist in meeting this deficiency I have undertaken, as a Steward representing the degree of Mark Master Masons, to endeavour to obtain subscriptions, and I plead most earnestly on behalf of those who in the winter of life have need of the practical sympathy and protection of all true Masons. It is, I submit, a Masonic duty to remember the needs of our aged brothers and sisters, most of whom have in earlier life enjoyed the happiness and contentment of plenty; but, from circumstances of unforeseen calamity, misfortune, or illness, they have been reduced to such a position in life as compels them to rely on the assistance of their more fortunate and prosperous brethren. This assistance may be widely extended to the few without materially making a great demand on the many. It must be a source of satisfaction to the true-hearted Mason to experience the honourable pride that he is doing something to soothe the pillow of sickness and affliction, and to render happiness and comfort to the aged, during their few remaining years of life. I therefore beg of the many thousands who range themselves under the banners of the 170 Mark Lodges, to lend a helping hand, and thus show to the whole Masonic world that Mark Masons do not ignore those great principles of Charity and Benevolence which pervade the teachings given at every step taken in Freemasonry.

At a meeting of the Grand Mark Lodge, held June, 1873, the following resolution was unanimously passed:—

"That the sum of £45 be voted from the funds of this Grand Lodge to 'The Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, &c.,' and be placed on the list of Bro. Thos. J. Sabine, P.A.G.D.C., who has offered to represent the Mark Degree as Steward at the festival in January 1874."

I most sincerely hope you will do me the favour of following the example thus set by the Grand Mark Lodge, and assist me in the work which I have undertaken for the credit and advancement of the degree of "Mark Masonry."

I trust, that on behalf of the institution for which which I am now pleading, the Mark Masons under the English Grand Mark Lodge will assist me to the utmost of their power and enable me to take up a larger sum than I did as Steward representing the Mark degree in May, 1873, for the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, when my list amounted to upwards of £200.

I remain, Sir and Brother, yours faithfully and fraternally,

THOS. J. SABINE, 18^o,
P.M. 73, Treasurer 1423, P.Z. 73, Honorary Member of the Beadon Chapter, No. 619. Mark Lodges 22 (P.M.), 75, 164, P.A.G.D. of Ceremonies, Registrar De Warrenne Preceptory K.T's., Grand Registrar and Vice-Chancellor Provincial Priory of Sussex, and a Life Governor of all the Masonic Institutions.

Cheques to be crossed "Union Bank, Brighton."

Post Office Orders to be made payable at the General Post Office, Brighton, and crossed.

Stamps received for small sums:

Subscriptions or Donations may be sent direct to Bro. Terry, No. 4, Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Lincoln's Inn Fields, London, W.C., and the name and address of the Brother or Lodge sending should be sent (at the same time stating the amount) to Bro T. J. Sabine, as above.

FAITH CHAPTER (No. 141).—This newly established chapter, which, during its brief existence of about twelve months has manifested such signs of vitality that a prosperous future may be safely predicted; held a convocation at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, E.C., on Thursday, the 1st inst. at which notwithstanding it being New Year's Day, the majority of the companions were present, presided over by Comps. W. E. Gompertz, Scribe E.; N. Gluckstein, Scribe N.; J. Constable, acting P.S.; and J.H. Ross, 1st Asst. The minutes of the last convocation were unanimously confirmed. Comp. E. Gottheil then proceeded to install the three Principals, viz.: Comp. T. Mortlock, Z.; C. C. Taylor, H.; N. Gluckstein, J.; the newly installed Z appointed the Officers as follows: W. E. Gompertz, Scribe, E.; C. F. Hogard, Scribe N.; M. Bamberger, Treasurer; J. Constable, P.S.; the latter appointed Comps. Ross and Pinder as his two assistants. The following brethren were newly exalted into R.A.M., viz.: Kendall, 141; Ples, 141; and Henson, 180. Notice of motion was given by Comp. Constable to raise the annual subscription to one guinea and a half, and the chapter was closed; the companions then adjourned to banquet, served in the most satisfactory manner by Comp. Smith. The usual loyal and R.A., toasts were given. Comp. E. Gottheil then proposed the health of the M.E.Z. in praiseworthy and truthful terms, and in conclusion remarked, "There are some brethren, who, when first admitted amongst us are most enthusiastic; they attend Lodges of Instruction and bear every appearance of future ornaments to our honourable fraternity, but after having gathered such laurels as their abilities would procure and their ambition, gratified by receiving such decorations (too frequently unmerited), quietly drop out from the line of Masonic duty; and there are unfortunately some, who, often accepting tokens of distinction and brotherly love, are base enough to speak disparagingly of our institution, the genius and grandeur of which they fail to understand, and the beneficent influences thereof, their stunted intellect will not permit them either to grasp or comprehend, but Comp. T. Mortlock, our M.E.Z., happily is not one of this class, for many years past he has proved his love and adherence to our noble institution by an unceasing willingness to show his best energies where work was to be performed, and judging from his past conduct, will most assuredly continue to further the interest and prosperity of the Craft, and that the Faith Chapter would most certainly prosper under his guidance. It need be hardly remarked that the toast was drunk with great enthusiasm. The toasts of Comps. Taylor and Gluckstein, as usual, were given and responded to. The E.Z., in proposing the toast of the P.Z., E. Z., remarked that his zeal in the cause of Masonry, and his admirable conduct at all times, would continue to secure for him the respect of every person with whom he was associated and wished him many years of happiness with to wear the handsome jewel with which his companions had been pleased to decorate him. The toast of the visitors was ably responded to by Comp. T. J. Lacey, who commended the chapter upon its excellent work and stated that he had not heard in any of exaltation throughout rendered in a repressive and efficient manner. The remainders were given and responded to, and the evening was made further pleasant by harmony, contributions of Comps. Mortlock, Taylor, Ross, and Constable. The Companions adjourned at 10.30, after having spent a very pleasant evening.

inauguration of Lord Mayor Brooks, Sir John Barrington, one of the town's appeared without his robes, Alderman called attention to this breach of etiquette moved that the fine of £1, provided for in the bye-laws, should be imposed. The motion passed amidst much merriment.

LIFE GOVERNORSHIP-BALLOTS FOR THE ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

We understand that our esteemed Bro. John Constable, of 13, Sise-lane, London, (E.C.), has successfully managed a new plan of adding to the funds of our charities by starting subscriptions of one shilling each for tickets entitling the owners to participate in a ballot for life governorships of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution on Jan. 31st, at the Railway Tavern, Fenchurch-street. Bro. Constable is anxious to circulate at least 2,000 such tickets at one shilling each, and as that number has not yet been attained, may we ask the brethren who cannot well contribute their guineas, to at least forward their shillings without delay, and thus help onward a good cause, and encourage an active labourer on behalf of our charities. The ballot taking place on the 21st inst., affords plenty of time for those who sympathise in the endeavour to enable brethren of small means to join in helping the institution, to introduce the subject to the members of their lodges, and we hope Bro. Constable will introduce the same plan for life governorships of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls and Boys.

The Prince of Wales was installed as W.M. of the Prince of Wales' Lodge, at Willis's Rooms on Tuesday the 4th inst.

Alexander Keith, 29^o, Most Worshipful Grand Master of Nova Scotia, died at Halifax, recently, at the advanced age of seventy-four years. Bro. K. has, during a long and not uneventful life, been an untiring devotee at the sacred altar of Masonry. He has gone to his great reward full of years and honour, leaving behind the rich heritage of his great reputation. Peace to his ashes!

The Grand Council of the United Orders of the Red Cross of Constantine, and appendant Orders, will give a grand ball on Wednesday, February 11, 1874. Full particulars will be shortly announced.

The 15 sections will be worked Bro. E. Gottheil, on Friday, the 16th inst., at 7 p.m., at the Burdett Coutts Lodge of Instruction, Approach Tavern, Approach-road, Victoria Park. We hope the brethren will meet in strong force, and support so able and worthy an exponent of Masonic knowledge.

Reviews.

The Almanack and Diary for 1874, issued by Moses & Son, the tailors, is one of the most complete and cheapest works of its kind. Among its many attractions will be found, a list of foreign moneys, with their average equivalents in English currency. It also contains a list of the Ministry, City of London Corporation Officers, London Bankers, &c. It may be had at any of the bookstalls on the Metropolitan Railway for the small charge of one penny.

Messrs. Letts and Son's Diaries and Office Calendars deserve, and will have, we are confident, a large sale. We recommend them, for their information is both useful and advantageous.

Victor Hugo has just completed a new Romance entitled "93," full of stirring incidents connected with the first French Revolution. We understand that it will be published in England (commencing early in February) in the columns of "The Graphic," and will be illustrated by some of our foremost artists.

The Prince of Wales, in response to an invitation from the Benchers of the Middle Temple, has selected Mr. Watts, R.A., to paint the portrait of His Royal Highness, which the benchers desire to place in the Middle Temple Hall.

ANONYMOUS MUNIFICENCE.—During the past year we have had the pleasure of recording the distribution of no less than eighty donations of £1,000 each, and one of £5,000 to London charities, in addition to a multitude of sums of smaller amount.—London Mirror.

Poetry.

MASONIC LIGHT.

What art thou? strange mystic light,
Peering thro' the shades of night,
Making all things bright and fair,
Scatt'ring darkness in the air.

From whence art thou peerless stream,
With thy holy daz'ling gleam
Showing all things clear as day
Driving clouds and gloom away.

Art thou from Sinai's height?
Where the Glory shed its light,
Art thou from the Holy Land?
Th' abode of the chosen band.

Where wert thou born? what's thy name?
Hallow'd is thy sacred Fame,
Wert thou cradled in the East?
Yes! the star of Beth'lem's feast.

Tell me, pray, from whence thou art?
That such blessings can impart.
I'm the essence from above,
My name, Universal Love.

Down the stream of Time I've ran,
With Creation I began;
Lost, then found in Jesse's Son,
Emmanuel, th' chosen one.

Come then, faithful mystic band,
'Tis your Architect's command,
See thou love mankind at large
This my last and final charge.

THE COSMOPOLITAN MASONIC CALENDAR, DIARY, AND POCKET-BOOK, FOR 1874.

CONTAINING

Lists of Lodges, Chapters, Conclaves, Grand Councils, and K.T. Preceptories, with the Names of Officers, in England and Wales, Scotland, Ireland, France, Belgium, Germany, Italy, Denmark, Portugal, Sweden and Norway, Greece, Turkey, New Brunswick, Venezuela, Netherlands, British Columbia, Peru, Quebec, Canada, America, &c.

The LONDON MEETINGS OF EVERY DEGREE are given in the Memorandum space of each day. The COUNTRY LODGES appear in Towns, alphabetically arranged. It also contains the CHARGE and ENTERED APPRENTICE'S SONG.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

This small, but comprehensive Masonic guide contains lists of lodges, chapters, councils, and full particulars respecting the grand Masonic body throughout the globe.—Standard.

The "Cosmopolitan Masonic Calendar, Diary, and Pocket-book for 1874," published by Kenning, Fleet-street, must be very handy for the Craft, containing, as it does, a very complete list of lodges and officers, &c.—Figaro.

The fourth year of publication of this most useful and handy volume has arrived, and we are glad to notice various changes have been made in the arrangement of the information, which will considerably add to its value. As each successive edition has appeared, the Craft all have seen how numerous improvements have been introduced, and certainly the present copy has far excelled all previous issues. We are glad to see that an accurate list of all the London and Provincial Lodges and Chapters, have been arranged and classified alphabetically according to their names, and towns they are in; and a capital calendar is given, in which will be found all the London Lodges, Chapters, &c., as also the various Board and Benevolent Committee meetings. These, we know, have only been compiled after an expenditure of considerable time, labour, and patience. The information respecting the Mark Grand Lodge, Grand Council of Royal, Select, and Super Excellent Masters, the Orders of the Temple, of the Red Cross of Constantine, and the Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Free Masons, is especially full and valuable; and their Lodges, Councils, Preceptories, Conclaves, and Chapters, are carefully recorded, and nothing of importance seems to have been omitted with these rites—information, by the way, which cannot be obtained in any other publication, and which alone is sufficient to make the Calendar a great success. The "Cosmopolitan" is also thoroughly worthy of its name, for intelligence is afforded of the chief officers, and of the names, numbers, and localities, of nearly all the Grand Lodges in the world. Within the compass of 250 pages there is matter enough compressed, clearly and closely printed, to fill several ordinary sized volumes. We conclude by expressing our earnest hope that the support afforded it by the brethren of the "mystic tie," will be commensurate with its usefulness, accuracy, and compactness.—Freemason.

This work, published by Bro. Kenning, of 198, Fleet-street, has just made its appearance among the annual literary productions, and will no doubt be received with as much favour from the Craft as previous issues. The information contained in its pages is exceedingly useful, and must have occasioned the editor much care and labour in its compilation, a task few would be disposed to accept, considering the difficulties to be encountered in carrying out successfully such an undertaking. Lists of lodges, chapters, conclaves, grand councils, and K.T. preceptories, with times of meeting, are given in addition to other matter. In the diary for private memoranda are printed, opposite each date, numbers representing different lodges, chapters, &c., whose meetings are held on the particular day, an arrangement which must prove of great service to visiting brethren and others. Indeed, the work is as valuable and important to members of the various branches in the Masonic world as the Post Office London Directory is to business men and inquirers.—Sunday Times.

We have just received a copy of the Cosmopolitan Masonic Calendar, Diary, and Pocket-book for 1874, (London, Liverpool, and Glasgow, George Kenning). It will be found what it professes to be, a comprehensive Masonic book of reference, being a collection of very useful information with reference to the Craft all over the world. It contains lists of lodges, chapters, conclaves, grand councils, and Knight Templar preceptories in both hemispheres, giving the names of the officers and other particulars, including the days of meeting. All this special information is in addition to the items peculiar to calendars. Altogether the pocket-book will be found a very useful companion to the Masonic brethren.—Liverpool Daily Courier.

Bro. Kenning, in this handy pocket-book, has provided an acceptable New Year's purchase or gift for every member of the Craft who desires to be properly posted up in Masonic information. It is a carefully compiled and valuable little work containing between its covers not only what seems to be a comprehensive Masonic calendar, showing at a glance the day on which every lodge in the kingdom meets, but lists of members of grand lodges, of all Masonic representative and benevolent institutions, and of all true Masonic bodies throughout the world, and the names of their grand and other representative officers. The publisher is Bro. George Kenning, of London, Glasgow, Edinburgh, Dublin, and 2, Monument-place, Liverpool.—Liverpool Daily Albion.

May be had at Bro. George Kenning's Masonic Depots, and through any Bookseller or Newsagent.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered. CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma. CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague. CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhoea, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms. CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

Extract from "INDIAN ECONOMIST."

"We direct the attention of medical men to a fact observed some years since by ourselves, and corroborated by our subsequent experience, that Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is in many cases of Low Fever immensely superior to Quinine in curative power. We cannot persuade ourselves that the true value of Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is yet properly appraised in India. . . . It may be given with absolute safety even to a child three days old. Were medical men but to make a fair and exhaustive trial of it we are persuaded that it would work a revolution in the treatment of two-thirds of the diseases to which children are subject. Its curative power is simply amazing."

"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he had received a despatch from her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera had been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, Dec. 1. 1864.

From W. VESALIUS PETTIGREW, M.D., Hon. F.R.C.S., England,

Formerly Lecturer on Anatomy and Physiology at St. George's School of Medicine.

"I have no hesitation in stating, after a fair trial of Chlorodyne, that I have never met with any medicine so efficacious as an Anti-Spasmic and Sedative. I have tried it in Consumption, Asthma, Diarrhoea, and other diseases, and am most perfectly satisfied with the results."

From Dr. THOMAS SANDIFORD, Passage West, Cork.

"I will thank you to send me a further supply of Chlorodyne. It was the most efficacious remedy I ever used, affording relief in violent attacks of Spasms within a minute after being taken. One patient in particular, who has suffered for years with periodical attacks of Spasms of a most painful nature, and unable to obtain relief from other remedies, such as opium, &c., finds nothing so prompt and efficacious as Chlorodyne."

From JNO. E. GOULSTONE, M.D., late Principal Surgeon to the Steamship Great Eastern.

"I can confidently state Chlorodyne is an admirable Sedative and Anti-Spasmic, having used it in Neuralgia, Hysteria, Asthma, and Consumption, with remarkably favourable results. It relieved a fit of Asthma in four minutes, where the patient had suffered eleven years in a most distressing manner, no previous remedy having had so immediate and beneficial an effect."

From Dr. B. J. BOULTON and Co., Horncastle.

"We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Ant-Spasmic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after effects."

J. C. BAKER, Esq., M.D., Bideford.

"It is, without doubt, the most valuable and certain Anodyne we have."

CAUTION.—BEWARE OF PIRACY AND IMITATIONS.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWN was undoubtedly the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, Freeman, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See "Times," 13th July, 1864.

Sold in Bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 6d., 4s. 6d., each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each Bottle.

 BALSAMIC
CROSBY'S
 BALSAMIC
COUGH ELIXIR.

Opalates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief to Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling
 the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the mainly modern science points to CROSBY'S
BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
 Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night
 Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.

"Invaluable should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on 'Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels,' a copy of which can be had gratis of all Chemists."

CANTERBURY.—Royal Kent Lodge of Antiquity (No. 30).—The ceremony of installing the W.M. elect, Bro. Walter Downing, in the chair of K.S., took place at the Sun Hotel, Chatham, when a large gathering of the brethren assembled to witness the ceremony, which was most impressively performed by Bro. Coles, P.M. of the above lodge; Bro. Captain Watson, P.G.W., performed the duties of Director of Ceremonies in his usual efficient manner. After the installation about forty brethren sat down to the banquet, which was placed on the table with our host's usual liberality. On the part of the Earl, Carnarvon and the rest of the Grand Officers being proposed by the W.M. Bro. Dickens responded, and made a most touching appeal on behalf of the charities, to which being Bro. F. W. Edwards's, I.P.M. year of office this, the oldest lodge out of the London district, granted the sum of £50.

Borov.—Anchor and Hope Lodge (No. 37).—The installation meeting of this ancient lodge (established in 1773) was held in Freemasons' Hall, Church Institute, Bolton, on Monday, 5th January. There was a numerous attendance of the members, the lodge being also honoured for the first time by the presence of the R.W. Provincial Grand Master, Col. Starkie. Amongst others present were Bros. James Pilkington, W.M.; Wm. Slater, S.W.; James Walker, J.W.; and the whole of the officers of the lodge, also Bro. John Tunstall, Prov. G. Sec.; G. P. Brockbank, P. Prov. G. Deacon; J. H. Winder, P. Prov. G. Pursuivant; Reuben Mitchell, P. Prov. G. Sword Bearer; Samuel Isherwood, K. W. Knowles, Robert Harwood; Thomas Wilson, James Newton, and George Galloway, P.M.'s. Amongst the visitors present were Bro. Thomas Entwistle, P.M. 221, Prov. G. Supt. of Works; Robert Whittaker, P.M. 678, Asst. Prov. G. Director of Ceremonies; William Hewitt, W.M. 221; John Harwood, W.M. 140; J. W. Taylor, P.M. 231; John Lamb, P.M. 178; William Hamer, P.M. 350, and others. The lodge being opened in the first degree, the minutes were read and confirmed, the lodge was then opened in the second degree, when the W.M. resigned the chair to Bro. John Tunstall, Prov. G. Sec.; who proceeded with the ceremony of installing the W.M. elect, Bro. William Slater. When all below the rank of installed Masters had retired, the W.M. elect was duly installed into the chair of K.S., in the presence of no less than 22 brethren who had previously been installed as Masters of lodges. The brethren were then admitted, and after the usual salutations, the lodge was closed to the first degree, when the following officers were invested.—Bros. James Walker, S.W.; W. H. Horrocks, J.W.; Rev. F. Brindley, Chaplain; John Sharples, Treasurer; E. Ainsworth, Sec.; R. K. Freeman, S.D.; James Brown, J.D.; J. H. Winder, Master of Ceremonies; James Welch, Organist; Samuel Crowther, I.G. The charges to the W.M. Wardens and brethren, were delivered by Bro. Thomas Entwistle, Prov. G. Supt. of Works. After the transaction of some formal business the lodge was closed and the brethren adjourned to the banquet. After the cloth was drawn the W.M. presided, supported by the R.W. Prov. G. Master, and the other brethren, and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and heartily responded to, the proceedings being enlivened by the presence of a good glee party, consisting of Bros. Dumville, Bailey, Smith, and Lister.

WARRINGTON.—Lodge of Lights (No. 148).—The annual meeting of this lodge took place on Monday, December 29th, at the Masonic rooms, Sankey-street, at three o'clock in the afternoon. The W.M., Bro. William Sharp, was supported on the occasion by Bros. Gilbert Greenall, P.M., Past Senior Grand Warden of England; W. Monop, P.M. S.W.; W. H. Robinson, J.D.; W. Woods, P.M., Treas.; J. Pickthall, D. Wilkins, John Laithwaite, Thomas Grime, T. M. Pattison, Thomas Tunstall, John Armstrong, Thomas B. Carter, John Harding, W.M. elect; John Pierpoint, Charles Crosier, J. Rymer Young, James Taylor, J. Bancroft, and James Hannah, Tyler. The visitors on the occasion were Bros. D. W. Finney, P.M. 1250; John N. Sharpe, 33; J. Whitlow, P.M. 941; C. B. Robinson, 145; George Bacon, Hon. Sec. 297; W. Pollett, W.M., 1250, and W. S. Hawkins, P.M. 1250. The lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the previous meetings read and confirmed; the ballot was then taken for Bro. Gartside as a joining member. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, when the W.M. called upon Bro. Mossop, P.M., in the absence through illness of W. Bro. John Bowes, P.M., P. Prov. G. Reg. Cumberland and Westmoreland, to undertake the duty of Installing Master. Bro. John Harding, Past Senior Warden, and W.M. elect, was then duly presented for the benefit of installation and the ancient ceremony was rendered in an able manner. The following officers were appointed and invested.—Bros. W. Sharp, I.P.M. and Treas.; John Pierpoint, S.W.; John Laithwaite, J.W.; Rev. H. P. Steadman, M.A., Chaplain; Thomas Tunstall, Hon. Sec.; W. H. Robinson, S.D.; D. Wilkins J.D.; Thomas Mee Pattison, Org.; J. Pickthall, I.G.; and James Hannah, Tyler. Bro. Sharp, I.P.M., proposed, Bro. W. Wood, P.M. seconded, and Rev. W. Bro. Greenall, and others supported the following resolution, "that a vote of thanks and a gold P.M. jewel be presented to W. Bro. John Bowes for his services as Hon. Sec. for the past twelve years," which was carried unanimously. Bro. W. Sharp having intimated that he had undertaken the office of Steward at the forthcoming Festival of the Institution for Aged Freemasons and their Widows, the lodge unanimously voted five guineas to his list. There being no further business, the lodge was closed with the usual solemnities, and the brethren adjourned to the Paten Arms Hotel for the banquet, which was of the most recherche character, and did the host, Bro. Jabez George Hughes, every credit. After the cloth was withdrawn a long list of toasts was gone through, and the speeches were relieved by some excellent glees and songs, under the direction of the Organist, Bro. Thos. Mee-Pattison, assisted by Bros. W. Wood, D. Wilkins, and Thos. Tunstall. R.W. Bro. Gilbert-Greenall, P.G.W. of England, in proposing the toast of the W.M. said he did so with much pleasure, inasmuch as he had known Bro. John Harding, long and intimately, and entertained the highest respect for him. The lodge had conferred upon Bro. Harding the highest honour it had to bestow, and he felt confident he would so discharge the duties as to merit their confidence and esteem. He wished every success to his mother lodge, and prosperity to the new W.M., and he called upon all present to drink Bro. Harding's good health with every sentiment of affection and esteem. The toast was drunk with enthusiasm. The W.M., in responding, said he must ask the indulgence of the brethren, because he felt that he could not adequately express his gratitude for the very kind manner in which the R.W. Bro. Greenall had introduced his name to the brethren, and the very cordial manner in which it had been received by all present. He assured the brethren that he felt proud to occupy the position of W.M. of the Lodge of Lights, a position which his grandfather filled more than fifty years before. He hoped he rightly and fully appreciated his new responsibilities, and certainly he should do his utmost to discharge them so as to advantage the lodge. He again tendered his warmest thanks for the kindness shown him. The W.M. in proposing the next toast, "The P.M.'s and Officers of No. 148," said a W.M. was almost helpless in a lodge, unless he could command able support. It fell to his lot to be supported by a band of Past Masters "well skilled in our noble art and lovers of the Craft" and with reference to his officers he believed they would one and all do their best to promote the interest of the lodge, and at all times render him punctual, able, and willing assistance. He then proposed "The Past Masters and Officers of No. 148," which was received in a truly Masonic manner. The I.P.M., Bro. Sharp, and Bro. John Pierpoint, S.W., responded. The remaining toasts having been proposed and duly acknowledged, the Tyler's toast brought the proceedings to a close and the brethren separated in harmony.

NEWPORT (ISLE OF WIGHT).—Albany Lodge (No. 151).—The brethren of this lodge assembled on Tuesday, the 2nd inst., at the Masonic Hall, Lugley-street for the purpose of installing the W. M. elect, Bro. Edward Thomas Trew Hellyer, S. W. The ceremony of installation was preceded by passing a brother to the second degree, and the initiation of a gentleman, the scion of an old and much respected family in the island. At the conclusion of the above-named ceremonies, the Worshipful Master, Bro. George King, resigned his gavel to Bro. Past Master C. T. Allée, the Installing Master, who, as a skilled workman, performed the ancient ceremony in a most able manner, the musical part being effectively performed by the Organist, Bro. Thomas Kentfield, jun. After the ceremonial, the newly-installed W.M. proceeded to invest his officers, the Junior Warden being advanced to the senior chair, Bro. the Rev. E. W. Watts, M.A. (Master of the Grammar School), appointed to the office of Junior Warden, and Bro. the Rev. J. H. Hughes, M.A. (formerly of the Apollo University Lodge, Oxford), to the office of Chaplain, pro tem. At the close of the lodge business the brethren adjourned to the banqueting-room (lately substantially repaired and re-decorated) to banquet, the viands having been provided and served in a most satisfactory manner by Bro. Past Master James Read, of the Wheatsheaf Inn. After grace from the Chaplain, the brethren retired for a few minutes to their lodge room, and on returning to the banqueting room found that the Stewards in the meantime had re-arranged the tables, on which Mrs. Read had placed the fruits of the season; a pianoforte had also been introduced. The W.M., on resuming his gavel, commenced his list of toasts by proposing "The Health of her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen." Responded to with traditional Masonic loyalty by the brethren, and afterwards, accompanied on the pianoforte by Bro. Kentfield, the brethren sang a portion of the National Anthem. The second toast "The Grand Master of England, the Most Hon. the Marquess of Ripon, K.G.," was most loyally responded to, and the toast to "The Health of the Past Grand Master, Bro. His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales," was welcomed with the same enthusiasm as that of Her Majesty, the brethren, led by Bros. E. Wyatt and S. Pring, accompanied on the piano by Bro. Kentfield, singing "God bless the Prince of Wales." "The Deputy G.M. of England, Bro. the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, and the Officers of Grand Lodge;" "The Provincial Grand Master of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight;" "The estimable Bro. W. W. B. Beach, Esq., M.P.;" "The Deputy-Provincial Grand Master, the indefatigable and much respected Bro. J. Rankin Stebbing (late Mayor of Southampton);" and "The Provincial Grand Officers;" were toasts most loyally responded to; the next toast being of a more homely character, "Long life and every happiness to the Mayor of Newport, Bro. W. B. Mew, (initiated in the Albany Lodge in February, 1846, and continuing a subscribing member from that date), one of three Mayors of Newport registered on the roll of this Lodge." This toast received that hearty fraternal response customary amongst Freemasons when expressing their regard for one whom they estimate so highly for unassuming usefulness to the community of which he is the chief magistrate, and whose kind heart is proverbial. By request the W.M. allowed the gavel to pass into other hands, when "The Health of the Worshipful Master of the Albany Lodge" was proposed, whose qualification for the honourable office to which he had this day been installed was well known to the brethren who had attended ceremonial practice, and the brethren have expressed their confidence by unanimously electing him to the chair, the duties of which have already evinced that their confidence had not been misplaced. The W.M., thanking the brethren, proposed "The Health of the Immediate Past Master," at the same time soliciting the kind assistance of his worthy predecessor, and the continuance of the Past Master's generous support during his year of office, and proposed "The Health of Past Master Bro. George King," in conjunction with the Past Masters. The I.P.M. felt that his humble services in the chair had fallen far short of that he proposed to himself when taking office, but he had, to the best of his ability, performed those duties. It was said for the Senior Past Masters of the lodge, Bros. G. Dashwood and Joseph Poore, both of whom were present, and had been subscribing members for upwards of forty years—the former having attended forty installations, and the latter more than forty—and they had not missed attendance at Lodge during that period of time, excepting when prevented by illness, which they were thankful did not prevent their being present to witness the ceremony that day. On giving "The Health of the Officers of the Lodge" the W.M. remarked that he should look for that assistance from them, without which a Master could not properly conduct the duties of the lodge, but he felt confidence in those brethren he had that day invested to office, and that they would render him every assistance in their power. The toast of "The Visiting Brethren," was acknowledged by the Rev. Bro. J. H. Hughes, in a most feeling and fraternal spirit. Glees, recitations, sentiment, and song added much to the evening's entertainment, which terminated with the Tyler's toast.

STIMOUTH.—Lodge Perseverance (No. 164). On Wednesday, the 7th inst., the annual festival of St. John was celebrated at the Masonic Hall, London Hotel, when the W.M. elect, Bro. William Hine Haycock, was installed by Bro. B. T. Hodge, 30, P.M., P.G.D.C., with his well-known ability. Amongst the brethren were J. Ingleby Mackenzie, P.M. 372, P.P.G.D.; S. Jones, P.M. 112, P.P.G.D.; H. B. Stark, P.M. 106 P.P.G.O.; W. E. Stone, P.M. 372, P.G.J.W.; J. March, P.M. 847; A. Freeman, P.M. 372; W. H. Banfield, J.W. 847; S. Warren 372; W. Pile, P.M.; J. Northcott, P.M.; Herbert Orchard, W.M. 164; W.M. Mitchell, J.W.; Henry Dawe, Sec.; W. Carter, J.D.; R. Perryman, I.G.; W. Prout, T.; Fras. Halse, S. Wheaton, S. Cummings, P. Evans, R. King, and W. J. Rogers. The W.M. elect, having been presented by Bro. Jones, and duly installed, Bro. Mackenzie presented the working tools. The W.M. then informed the brethren that he had a pleasing duty to perform, namely, that of presenting to his predecessor Bro., J. Albert Orchard a testimonial of regard and esteem, subscribed by the officers of the lodge, which he hoped that brother would be pleased to accept and thereupon placed on Bro. Orchard's breast a very handsome gold P.M.'s jewel. Bro. Orchard, who was taken by surprise at this unexpected presentation, was so much affected as to be able to say but very few words in acknowledgment. The W.M. then invested the following brethren as his officers. Bros. J. Albert Orchard, I.P.M.; Henry Dawe, S.W.; Wm. Mitchell, J.W.; G. Board, Sec.; John Barber, S.D.; Wm. Carter, J.D.; R. Perryman, I.G.; William Prout, Tyler; F. Halse and S. Sweatton, Stewards. Bro. B. T. Hodge was unanimously re-elected Treasurer. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the ball room, where a sumptuous banquet was partaken of, the viands being of the choicest description, and the arrangements reflected great credit on the host, Bro. Rogers.

STONEHOUSE.—Lodge Sincerity (No. 189).—The annual banquet of Lodge Sincerity was held on Tuesday, 6th inst., and was attended by a very large number of the Masters of the various lodges in the Three Towns, to all of whom an invitation by the W.M. was extended—an exceptional feature in a gathering of the kind—as well as by a good number of the members of the lodge, and other brethren. The V.W. Bro. J. Latimer, W.M., P.P.G.S., presided, and he was supported on the right by the R.W. Bro. L.P. Metham, D.P.G.M., P.G.D. of England; and on the left by Bro. Col. Elliott, P.M., P.P.G.S.W., amongst the officers and others present being Bros. John Sadler, P.M., P.P.G.S.B.; T. S. Bayly, P.M., P.P.G. Treas.; J. E. Risk, P.P.G.C.; T. W. Lemon, P.G.C.; C. Leigh, P.M. 1205, P.G. Sec.; Josiah Austin, P.M. 1090, P.P.G.O.; Samuel Jew, P.M. 105, P.P.G.T.; J. B. Gover, P.M. 70, 1247, P. P. G. A. D. C.; C. J. Gibson, P.M., P. P. G. J. D.; R. H. Rae, Sec., 139, P.M., P.P.J.G.D.; E. A. Davies, P.M. 1099, and P.P.G.S. Works; W. Bros. Schultze, E. Manley, W.M. 230; Dr. Thomas, I.P.M. 1247; J. Chapman, W.M. 1462; J. Bartlett, W.M. 159; D. Cross, W.M. 1205; W. H. Gillman, W.M. 1099; W. J. Austin, W.M. 1212; C. Watson, W.M. 954; J. R. Lord, W.M. 1247; Joseph Manning, W.M. 156; R. B. Twose, W.M. 105; J. Oxley Oxland, S.W. 1205; J. E. Moon, D.C. 189; W. T. Monkhouse, 189; W. Tester, 189; J. E. Curteis, J.W. 189; S. Jones, Secretary 1212; J. Lewis, 189; William Harries, J.D. 1205; T. Waldo How, J.D. 189; G. Jackson, I.G. 189; J. E. Scott, 189; R. B. Oram, 189; A. Latimer, S.D. 189; T. W. Hussey, 189; T. W. Hussey, 189; W. T. Eascott, 1099; J. H. Taylor, 189; G. Croydon, 189; J. T. Fouracre, 189; and R. J. Laity, 189. The banquet was of the most excellent description, reflecting the highest credit on the cuisine of the "Duke of Cornwall," and the proceedings, which were of the most enjoyable character, were enlivened by the rendering of several songs, and the delivery of recitations by some of the brethren, and musical selections on the pianoforte by Bro. Moon, and accompaniments by Br. A. Latimer. After the usual loyal toasts had been duly noticed, the W.M. stated that he and the Secretary had received from the P.G.M., the Rev. J. Huyshe, the Earl of Mount Edgumbe, Captain Tanner Davy, and Bros. Coates and Rodd, letters expressive of regret at their inability to be present on the occasion. The health of the M.W. the G.M. of England, the Marquess of Ripon, was then proposed by the W.M., who in so doing, expressed the pleasure they felt as a body in having in their present G.M. so able a nobleman and so amiable and worthy a successor to such an eminent man as the late Earl of Zetland. The Grand Officers of England were next noticed, the W.M., in giving this toast, drawing attention to the fact that they had the pleasure of having amongst them that evening two brethren who had been Grand Officers. The V.W. Bro. Metham in responding to the toast, said in the Grand Lodge they at present had the very pick of Masonry, and he had never been in Lodge without admiring the way in which the work was there performed. The W.M. next proposed the healths of Bros. the Rev. J. Huyshe, P.G.M., and G. R. Metham, D.P.G.M. This toast, he said, would commend itself to every Mason in the province, for they all felt a warm affection towards their G.M., and regarded him as one of the best of Masters and the truest of friends. He regretted that the engagements of the G.M. prevented him from being amongst them, but the following letter which he (the W.M.) had received from him would explain the cause. The G.M. wrote:—"Believe me when I say that I am really very sorry that I am not able to accept your very flattering invitation for the 6th of January. During the whole of the week I shall have my house full of visitors staying with me, and I cannot with any propriety, be absent for a whole night from my house, which, of course, I must be if I were present (as I should like to be), at your banquet. I am the more sorry to decline your hospitality, because such an entertainment is unique in the province; and I should have been exceedingly glad to have had the privilege of being present at such a gathering. Pray tell all my brethren who will assemble under your presidency the deep regret which I feel at not being with them on such an interesting occasion, and assure them that they have my heartiest good wishes for their prosperity here and their eternal welfare hereafter." With regard to Bro. Metham, he could only reiterate what he said, the other night in the absence of that distinguished member of the Craft; of the many orations he had delivered, explaining in them, for the knowledge of the outer world, the benefits arising from Freemasonry, of the active part he had taken in raising the Province to a high degree amongst the Provinces of the country, for his sustentation of the great Masonic charities of the country, and of his continuous services, for each and all of which the W. Bro. was entitled to their warmest thanks. Bro. Metham, in response, expressed regret at the absence of the R.W. Bro. Huyshe, but was glad to see he joined with them in the holding of such meetings as the present, which he himself was of opinion were most valuable to them as a body, and which he trusted would never be done away with. Although in their excess he saw a great deal of evil, yet, in their occasional occurrence he saw much good. He was gratified at being received as he had been by Lodge Sincerity, and at the same time he had to apologise to them for not coming amongst them so often as might be wished. His was a hard working life, and he found some little relaxation necessary to fit him for his every-day work. He hoped, however, it would not be thought, either by his fellow townsmen or his brother Masons, that he did anything, either in his position as a townsman, or as a Mason, that had not a tendency in some way to promote Masonic good feeling. He trusted he should always be found at work, and that whenever he did disappear from this earthly scene it would be found that he had been worn out, and that he had not rusted out. He would ask his brethren to follow him in the advice he had to give them, to his younger brethren especially. He would ask them in all their daily avocations to practise the principles of Freemasonry. It was so easy to practise them, because it was so very easy to do that which was a pleasing thing. He had found an infinite pleasure and relief from all the anxieties and troubles and difficulties which they all in common with himself had met in the course of their lives, in finding it so easy, as every Mason would, whatever his profession or avocation might be, to put his finger upon some society, some charity, and help it forward, and, in so doing, practising Freemasonry. He did not think it was truly Masonic for them to sit there or to go into their lodges without something like that at their backs. If they only did a little individually, when they made up the sum total they would find that Freemasonry had performed a great deal at the end of the year, and he would beg his brethren to look at this, and see how much they could advance Freemasonry by so acting. The W.M. then proposed "The Health of the G.M. of Cornwall, the Earl of Mount Edgumbe. His lordship was a distinguished and worthy member of the Craft, and had occupied the chair with pleasure to himself and to his lodge. It must have gratified them all to have seen him appointed to his present position, and it pleased him (the W.M.) to find that that appointment had given universal satisfaction in Cornwall. That province was now in a flourishing state, and at Hayle and two or three other places they were constructing lodges of the most beautiful description, superior to any he knew in the country. Bro. P.M. Col. Elliott responded. He was present when their noble brother was installed in his present office, and he experienced great pleasure at seeing the manner in which his lordship at once grasped the position in which he was placed, assumed the office, and performed his duties so ably, that he was the right man in the right place. The Province of Cornwall, he thought, might well be proud of him who preceded over it. Bro. Twose next gave the toast of the P.G. Officers. In so doing he expressed the gratification he experienced on finding that the W.M. had extended his invitations to the banquet to every Master of the Three Towns—and he only hoped that this recognition of the other lodges in the district as now inaugurated would be followed up on future occasions. Bro. Lemon responded. The W. Bro. Metham then said there was one honour that attached itself to a man in a position like that he held, and that was the privilege of claiming the right to propose the toast of "The Health of the W.M. of Lodge Sincerity for the time being." He was glad to see Bro. Latimer in the chair of Lodge Sincerity, knowing that he would do it honour. Much of considerable social standing had occupied the chair in times past; it was a lodge which out of all England had given most officers to the Grand Lodge, it had given more P. Officers, and there was no lodge in which there had been so many men, who were desirous of doing their duty in a just, honourable, and upright manner. He believed Bro. Latimer would pass through the chair fulfilling his duties in a similar way, and would give not only satisfaction to Lodge Sincerity, which was a minor consideration, but also to the Province, and, above all, to the principles of the order. The W.M., in responding, said he felt he had had a great honour conferred upon him, an honour, that was unsought for by him, and that had only been placed upon him through the kindness of his brethren. He felt extremely gratified at the kindness he had received on every hand. He thought that was a very great manifestation of the fraternal feeling which the Order inculcated in all its high moral teachings, and it was that feeling which had influenced him to bring about a re-union amongst the W. Masters of the three towns. In giving the "Visiting Brethren and Sister Lodges," the W.M. thanked the numerous visitors for their attendance, saying in extending his invitations, and thus giving the whole of the lodges, through their masters, who were for the time being the representatives of the lodges, a friendly recognition, he thought it was the best way of bringing about the re-union he desired, and he was glad to see that he had been so successful. Bro. Twose responded on behalf of the visitors by expressing the great gratification they all felt at the fraternal feeling thus exhibited. The Wardens, the P. Masters and assistant officers of Lodge Sincerity, responded to by Bros. Curteis, Rae, and Bayly, and our poor and distressed brethren having been duly noticed, the lodge was closed, and a most pleasant evening's proceedings brought to a termination.—The Western Daily Mercury.

WINDSOR.—Etonian Lodge (209). The annual festival of this flourishing lodge was held at the Royal Adelaide Hotel, on Tuesday, the 8th inst. In the unavoidable absence of the W.M., Bro. J. Wilson, P.M., presided. The minutes of the preceding meeting having been read and confirmed, Bro. A. Pears was examined on the usual questions leading from the first to the second degree, which having been most satisfactorily answered, he retired to be prepared. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, and Bro. Pears re-admitted and duly passed to the degree of a fellow craft. Bro. G. W. Dixon, W. Bro., was then presented to the W.M., as the W.M. elect for the ensuing year. Bro. Dixon having pledged his submission to the ancient usages, the lodge was opened in the third degree, all brethren below the rank of an Installed Master then retired, and a board of eleven P.M.'s was elected. Bro. Dixon was then installed into the chair of K.S. by Bro. L. Bryett, W.M. Ranelagh Lodge, No. 834. The brethren having been admitted, saluted the new W.M. in the three degrees. The following officers were invested in the W.M., Bros. J. H. S. Reid, I.P.M.; W. Bladen, S.W.; J. O. Carter, J.W.; J. Pullen, Treasurer; J. Strange, P.M., Secretary; G. Stacey, P.M., Organist; W. R. Denne, S.D.; J. Crowhurst, J.D.; J. Cauvin, O.G.; G. Cave, S.D.; C. D. Hume, D.C.; R. Roberts, S.; E. Johnson, S. Bro. Wilson then delivered the addresses to the W.M., Wardens and Brethren. The working of the installing officers, Bros. Wilson and L. Bryett, and also the investiture of officers by the new W.M., was to our thinking as nearly better perfect as possible, and they were highly complimented by numerous brethren present. Bro. Stacey, P.M., then proposed, and the W.M. seconded, that Bro. R. H. Gibbons, P.M., the retiring Secretary, be elected an honorary member of the lodge, in consideration of his past services, carried nem. con. Bro. J. O. Carter, J.W., then proposed and the W.M. seconded, that Bro. T. Hiscock, I.G. 866, be admitted as a joining member. The Auditors, Bros. I. O. Carter and C. D. Hume, then presented the balance-sheet for the past year. There being no other business before the lodge, it was closed by the W.M., and the brethren adjourned to the banquet. The usual toasts having been duly honoured, the brethren separated at an early hour, after having held a most successful meeting. The following brethren were present—Bros. G. W. Dixon, Prov. G. Steward Berks and Bucks, W.M.; W. Bladen, S.W.; I. O. Carter, Prov. G. Steward Berks and Bucks, J.W.; J. Pullen, P. M., Treasurer; J. Strange, P. M., Secretary; G. Stacey, P. M., Organist; J. Crowhurst, J.D.; J. Cauvin, I.G.; C. D. Hume, D.C.; R. Roberts, Steward; E. Schiemaun, Steward; J. H. S. Reid, I.P.M.; J. Wilson, P.M.; Hailey, P.M.; R. H. Gibbons, P.M.; L. Bryeth, W.M. 834; J. McIlwham, P.P.G. S.B. Middlesex, and P.M. 946; W. S. Nicholes; A. Pears; C. Barkshire; Duffield; Webster; Riches; H. Stollens; J. Pennicoth and others. Visitors—Bros. Young, P.G.S., 60; G. Grisbrook, W.M. 771; W. H. Brigham, S.W., 771; G. Foley, P.M. 771; J. Berry, S.W. 866; W. Johnson, J.W. 865; J. Hiscock, J.G., 865; Maughan, S.D. 865; H. Craven, 257; J. W. Lyon, 865; Large, 771.

LIVERPOOL.—Harmonic Lodge (No. 216).—The installation of Bro. J. Ismay, W.M. elect of this lodge, which took place on Thursday, the 8th inst., at the Adelphi Hotel, Liverpool, was a most interesting meeting, and attended by a large and distinguished assembly of brethren. This was at once a well-earned compliment to the brother about to be entrusted with the reins of Masonic government for the coming year, and an evidence of the vitality and continued high character of the Harmonic. The lodge was opened according to ancient and solemn form, between four and five o'clock, by Bro. J. Beasley, W.M., who was supported by the following officers and brethren:—Bros. J. McKune, P.M.; J. Skeaf, P.M.; J. Jones, P.M.; T. Armstrong, P.M.; G. Rigby Smith, S.W.; J. Ismay, W. Laidlaw, P.M., Treas.; A. C. Moore, Sec.; G. Fowler, S.D.; W. Dwertryhouse, J.D.; W. H. Quirk, I.G.; D. S. Davies, S.; W. F. Naylor, O.; W. H. Ball, Tyler. Dr. Kisch, J. Busfield, W. Lennie, Cain, Councillor D. Campbell, Dr. E. N. Sheldon, and amongst the visitors were Bros. J. J. Rose, W.M. 249; and Hargraves. After the transaction of some business of the usual routine character, including the confirmation of the minutes of the previous meeting, the chair of K.S. was taken by the installing Master, Bro. J. McKune, P.M., a position which he has previously filled with great credit to himself and satisfaction to the lodge, who proceeded in a masterly manner to instal the W.M. elect, Bro. J. Ismay, presented by Bro. J. Beasley, I.P.M., and Bro. J. Jones, P.M. After the W.M. had been impressively and effectively "chained" in accordance with ancient usage, the following officers were subsequently appointed and invested for the ensuing year—Bros. A. C. Moore, S.W.; G. Fowler, J.W.; W. Laidlaw, Treas.; W. Dwertryhouse, Sec.; W. H. Quirk, S.D.; D. S. Davies, J.D.; E. Evans, I.G.; J. A. Jones, S.; Rev. J. R. Jenkins, Chaplain; W. F. Naylor, Org.; and W. H. Ball, Tyler. Mr. H. Simpson, a journalist of eminence, and very highly esteemed amongst his companions in literature, having been balloted for and declared duly elected, was initiated into the mysteries and privileges of the Order, by the newly-installed W.M., in an absolutely perfect and most impressive style, which elicited the admiration and approval of every one present, and augurs well for the efficient working of the lodge for the ensuing year. The brethren then adjourned to the dining hall of the hotel, where a sumptuous banquet was served in first-class style by Mr. Ludlow, the courteous and indefatigable manager. The "Harmonic" is peculiarly and particularly strong in its musical talent, and therefore the harmony furnished during the evening was far above the average. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to with the greatest enthusiasm.

SOUTH MOLTON.—Loyal Lodge of Industry (No. 421). The installation of W.M. and celebration of the festival of St. John the Evangelist took place at the Freemasons' Hall, South Molton, on Tuesday, the 6th January. The lodge was opened in due form and with prayer in the first degree, when the results of the last lodge were read and confirmed. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, when Bro. H. W. Higgins, S.W., the W.M. elect, was presented by Bro. Sanders, to receive the benefit of installation. The newly installed Master, having been proclaimed and saluted in the three degrees, appointed the following brethren as his officers for the ensuing year, viz.:—Bros. Snow, S.W.; L. Richard, J.W.; Ponsford, S.D.; F. Day, J.D.; G. Huxtable, I.G.; S. A. Kingdon, Treasurer; R. Paige, Secretary; J. Bickell, jun., Director of Ceremonies; Rd. Kingdon, Tyler. The lodge was closed in due form with solemn prayer. The brethren then adjourned to the Unicorn Hotel, where a banquet was served at Bro. Cole's, P.M., P.G.P., at 4.30, in his usual sumptuous style. After the cloth was removed the usual loyal toasts were proposed and responded to. "The Queen and the Craft;" "His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales;" "The Most Worshipful G.M. the Marquess of Ripon;" "The Prov. G.M. and Officers;" "The W.M.;" "The I.P.M.;" "The Newly-elected Officers;" "The Visitors" and the Tylers' toast. About 28 sat down, and a most agreeable evening was passed.

WIGTON.—St. John's Lodge (No. 327).—On Monday, Dec. 29, the anniversary of this lodge was celebrated. The lodge was opened in due form at "high twelve," by Bro. James Porter, P.M., P.P.G.S.D., of the Wigton St. John's, and Lodge Concord, Preston, who, in the unavoidable absence of Dr. Shannon, W.M., P.G.A.D.C., officiated as W.M. of the lodge, and also as the Installing Master, which impressive ceremony he went through in his usual thoroughly finished and effective style. Bro. Bowman, S.W., was the brother who had been selected to fill the W.M.'s chair for 1874, and Bro. Porter duly installed him as such. The new W.M. then appointed and invested his officers for the ensuing year as under:—Bros. McMechan, S.W.; W. H. Hoodless, J.W.; John Robinson, S.D.; T. Ross, J.D.; C. Y. Wright, I.G.; and Martin O.G. Bro. Richardson, Treasurer of the lodge for many years, was again elected the Treasurer for the ensuing year, and Bro. Lazonby was invested as Secretary. At about three o'clock the brethren sat down to the annual banquet, which is in the sixty-sixth held by the brethren of Wigton St. John's Lodge, when a repast was set out which reflected infinite credit on Mrs. Martin and Bro. Martin, the host and hostess of the Lion and Lamb, where the banquet was held. The chair was taken by Bro. Lemon, P.M., and the vice-chair by Bro. McMechan, S.W. Supporting the chairman were Bro. Bowman, W.M., and Bro. Shannon, P.M. Near to the vice-chairman sat Bro. Porter, P.M., and Bro. G. Carrick. Amongst the brethren present were: Bros. Halifax, P.M.; Bewes, P.M.; Gate, P.M.; J. Pearson, P.M.; Lazonby, Secretary; W. Carrick, P. H. Taylor, P.M.; Isaac Pattinson, J. Hall, John Robinson, S.D.; Wright, I.G.; and Martin, Tyler. On the removal of the cloth, the chairman proposed, "The Queen," "The Prince of Wales," and "The rest of the Royal Family," and "The Most Worshipful the Grand Master of England, the Marquess of Ripon, and the Deputy Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon," all of which were received with the usual loyal or Masonic honours. The Vice-Chairman proposed "The Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master of Cumberland and Westmoreland, the Earl of Bective," which was warmly received. "The Worshipful Master of Lodge 327" was then given from the chair, the newly elected W.M. receiving high praise for his attention to his Masonic duties from the Chairman. Bro. Bowman, responded in suitable terms. "The Immediate Past Master of Lodge 327, Bro. Shannon," was then proposed by the chairman, to which Bro. Shannon replied at some length, pointing out what had been done in the lodge during his year of office. Bro. Lazonby, proposed "The Provincial Grand Officers, Past and Present," to which Bros. Lemon, Gate, and Porter, responded. Bro. Lemon, in the course of his remarks, said he had attended above forty St. John's Day anniversaries of the lodge. "The Installing Master, Bro. Porter," was proposed by the Chairman, who complimented Bro. Porter on the masterly manner in which he had gone through the ceremony. Bro. Porter having responded, the health of Bro. G. Carrick, was proposed and duly acknowledged, after which the toast of "The Grand Masters of Ireland and Scotland," was proposed and responded to by Bros. Shannon and Bowman. Bro. Lazonby proposed "The Masonic Charitable Institutions," and The Memory of Deceased Brethren," which closed the list of the toasts. The agreeableness of the evening's proceedings were much added to by the excellent singing of Bros. Lemon, Shannon, G. Carrick, Porter, and W. Carrick. The company broke up at 8 o'clock, after spending a most agreeable evening.

DARWEN.—Harmony and Industry Lodge (No. 381).—On Monday last the annual festival of St. John the Evangelist was held at the Lodge room, New Inn. Previous to the banquet the installation of W.M. and his officers was performed by Bro. P.M. Franklin Thomas, of Lodge 269, Blackburn. The following brethren were duly installed, William Almond, W.M.; John Wardley, S.W.; D. Ainsworth, J.W.; McGregor, S.D.; B. M. Cromack, J.D.; W. H. Hargreaves, I.G.; P. M. Hutchinson, O.G.; Geo. Martin, Treasurer. Law P.M.; Roberts, Sec.; Thos. Grime, P.M., I.P.M. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts followed the banquet, and the evening was spent in a most enjoyable and rational manner, the toast to the host, John Gregg, and the hostess, Mrs. Gregg, bringing up the rear of a long list.

YARBOROUGH LODGE (No. 554).—The installation meeting of this popular East-end lodge was held in the Lodge Room, at the Green Dragon Tavern, Stepney, on Thursday, 8th inst., Bro. H. Morrison presiding, supported by Bros. H. Coard, S.W. and W.M. elect; J. Hood, J.W.; J. Berry, S.D.; H. Cotter, acting J.D., and I. Allen, I.G. There were also present the following Past Masters of the lodge, Bros. Vesper, Wynne, Kindred, Misseton, Stevens, Moseley, Roberts, Barnes, Chadwick, and Verry. The names of three candidates for initiation were submitted to the brethren and the ballot in each instance proved favourable to the intending neophytes, but the ceremony of initiation, as also other workings, was by arrangement postponed to prevent overtaxing the energies of the officers and to afford the members of the lodge ample opportunity for enjoyment after labour. The arrangements alluded to inadvertently left the Secretary, Bro. H. Moseley, to convene the meeting at a much earlier hour than the occasion necessitated, and when the W.M. proceeded with the ceremony of installation, a certain nervous hesitation, occasioned no doubt by the probable delay, characterised his remarks in opening. Progressing with his subject this temerity wore off, and his language in addressing the newly installed Master, Bro. H. Coard, and his Wardens, was distinguished by a firmness of style, and a sustained intensity of expression well in keeping with the theme of the words. We shall here observe that Bro. Coard, W.M., has appointed Bros. Hood and Berry, to aid him in his working in the respective positions of S. and J.W., with Bros. Cotter, S.D.; Allen, J.D., and Torr, I.G. In his position as W.M. Bro. Coard justified the expectations of the brethren, and his exertions were fully appreciated. At the conclusion of the installation ceremony, the brethren adjourned to their new dining hall, where the host, Bro. Walters, had provided an entertainment, at once recherché and attractive. The cloth having been removed, and the usual loyal and other toasts responded to, the W.M. expressed the pleasure it afforded him at being deputed to present Bro. Morrison, the I.P.M., with a token of esteem from the brethren of the lodge, which assumed the tangible shape of a handsome gold jewel. Bro. Morrison acknowledged the gift in appropriate terms, and alluded to the very many happy hours he had spent with the brethren. The toast of "The Masonic Charities" was responded to by Bro. Stevens, with remarks upon the noble institutions of which our order boasts, and inviting the brethren to reflect on the many unforesseen causes that have reduced our distressed brothers, while he appealed for aid in the cause of our afflicted brother, whose cause he will espouse at the next ensuing election. In his rendering of the ballad, "The old year's gone," Bro. Graves evinced true and intrinsic merit with an earnest intensity necessary to portray the different phases of the song, while conjointly with Bro. H. Thorn, much taste and power was displayed in the duet "Larboard Board," Bro. Vigers exhibited great power of voice in "Speed me on my bark" and the musical arrangements lacked nothing in the hands of the organist. The Tyler's toast was drunk about ten o'clock.

ULVERSTONE.—Lodge of Furness (No. 995).—This lodge celebrated the festival of St. John the Evangelist at the Masonic Temple, Ulverstone, December 29th, 1873. The brethren assembled at three p.m., when, in the absence of the W.M., the lodge was opened by the I.P.M., Bro. Pearson, P.G. Purs. The minutes were read and confirmed, and the lodge opened up, when Bro. T. Dodgson, P.M., P.G. Steward Cumberland and Westmoreland, ascended the throne, and proceeded with the installation of the W.M. Elect, Worshipful Bro. Roger Dodgson, P.M. 1390, P.P.G.S.B. Cumberland and Westmoreland, in which he was assisted by Bro. Pearson, P.G. Purs., and Bro. J. Case, P.M., P.Z., P.P.G.J. During the installation the chairs of Senior and Junior Wardens were occupied by Worshipful Bros. H. Cook, P.P.G. Reg. Cumberland and Westmoreland, and Thos. Wylie, P.P.G.J.W. The ceremony of installation was most impressively performed, and greatly admired by the large assemblage of brethren. Gunson, I.G.; J. Harper, Organist; Sergeant Major Paxton, S.S.; J. Geldart, J.S.; J. Robinson, Tyler. The lodge was closed at 5 o'clock, and the brethren, to the number of 50, adjourned to the house of Bro. Smith, Sun Hotel, where a banquet worthy of the occasion, and in Mrs. Smith's well known style, was partaken of. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and responded to, the visitors remarking that they had never seen the ceremonies so ably worked. The musical arrangements were entrusted to Bro. Harper, Organist, assisted by Bros. Parker, Dr. Robinson, J. H. Matthews, P.M.; R. Casson, F. Bell, and others, all well known for their musical talents. Amongst the visitors present were Bros. Wylie, P. Prov. G. J.W.; H. Cooke, P. Prov. G. Reg. C. and W.; J. Mills, P.G.S.B. C. and W.; J. W. Turner, W.M. 1458; J. Tyson, Sec. 119; J. Meredith, J.W. 1390, and others.

LIVERPOOL.—Prince of Wales Lodge (No. 1025).—The annual meeting of the brethren of this lodge for installation and other purposes, which was held at the Masonic Hall, Kirkdale, on Thursday evening, the 8th inst., was eminently successful, being attended by an unusually large number of the "purpled" officers of West Lancashire and Cheshire. The lodge was opened according to custom and approved forms by Bro. G. Stradford, W.M., and the usual joint officers as the supporters in their several positions.—Bro. G. Morgan, P.M., Colin McNab, S.W.; R. W. Crosby, J.W.; J. B. Bunting, P.M. Treas.; A. Willis, Sec.; J. Salmon, S.D.; W. Westbury, J.D.; T. Fozzard, P.M., D.C.; A. Salmon, I.G.; L. Peake, S., and W. Crawford, Tyler. Amongst the brethren who were present were the following:—Bro. T. J. McWean, J. W. McWean, W. J. Rées; D. Davies, J. Salmon, H. Tyrer, W. Longtake, R. Williams, W. Harrington, J. Eaves, R. R. Jones, 594; T. North, 216; R. Fairclough, 1356; T. A. Jackson, 1207; W. Vaughan, 724; J. Heyes, 220; and A. Woolrich, 241. A number of candidates were initiated with striking effect, by Bro. G. Sculthorpe, W.M., after which the chair was taken by Bro. T. Tozzard, P.M., who proceeded to instal Bro. John McNab, as the W.M. for the ensuing year, the whole of the impressive ceremony, as well as the investiture of officers, being performed in a most complete and careful manner. The following brethren were subsequently nominated by the W.M. as his staff of officers for the coming year:—Bros. R. Crosby, S.W.; J. Salmon, J.W.; J. B. Bunting, Treas.; J. Williams, Sec.; W. Westbury, S.D.; A. Salmon, J.D.; L. Peake, I.G.; and M. Crawford, Tyler. The lodge was afterwards called from labour to refreshment, when a capital banquet was served in one of the rooms upstairs, under the presidency of the W.M., who proposed the customary loyal and Masonic toasts with great felicity. The toast of "The Right Worshipful P.G.M., D.P.G.M., and Provincial Grand Officers of West Lancashire," was responded to by Bro. G. de la Perelle; and the same proposed with regard to the Cheshire Province by Bros. Platt and Friend. "The Army, Navy, and Volunteers," was acknowledged by Bro. Captain Berry; and "The West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution" (given by Bro. Fozzard,) by Bro. Gilbert G. Walmsley. A new toast, "The Hamer Old Men's Benevolent Fund," admirably submitted by Bro. P.M. Fozzard was received with the utmost enthusiasm, and after Bro. P.M. Morgan had made an eloquent and forcible reply, the sum of twenty guineas was voted from the funds of the lodge on behalf of the charity. The I.P.M., Bro. Sculthorpe, gave the "Health of the W.M.," who responded in pointed and effective terms. The other toasts were—"The Installing Master," given by Bro. Newell, and acknowledged by Bro. Fozzard; "The I.P.M.," by the W.M., and replied to by Bro. Sculthorpe; "The Past Masters," coupled with the name of P.M. Morgan; "The Officers," acknowledged by Bro. Crosby, S.W.; and "The Visitors," coupled with the name of Bro. Dr. Hughes. A very pleasant evening was spent, several capital songs being given.

BISHOP AUCKLAND.—Wear Valley Lodge (No. 1121).—On Friday, 9th inst., the members of this lodge celebrated the annual festival of St. John, when the W.M. for the ensuing twelve months was installed. Among the visiting brethren were Bros. E. H. Rahn, P.M. No. 970 and 1230; Wm. Brignall, P.M. 124, (Master of Granby), and P. Prov. G. Reg. Durham R. M. Cooke, P.M. 1230, Barnard, and others. The routine business of the lodge having been transacted, the W.M. elect, Bro. George Siddons was presented to the Installing Master, Bro. J. H. Rahn, P.P.G.D. Durham, who performed the impressive ceremony in a very able manner. The W.M. then invested his officers as follows:—Bro. J. C. Henry, W.M.; William Brown, S.W.; William Hines, J.W.; William Crowder

Sec.; Andrew Allan, S.D.; Thos. W. Kilburn, J.D.; George, I.G.; and John Dowson, Tyler. The brethren afterwards sat down to an excellent dinner, at the Talbot Hotel, under the presidency of the newly installed Master. After the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and heartily responded to. The new Master has served the offices of Secretary, Treasurer, and S.W., and has always given an unflinching attention to the interests of the lodge since its formation.

THE GRANIT CITY LODGE (No. 1426).—The usual meeting of this lodge was held on Saturday evening, Jan. 13, at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, and was numerously attended. Bro. James Stevens, W.M., presided, supported by Bros. Weedon, S.W.; Townend, J.W., the rest of the officers, brethren, and visitors. The business was as usual very heavy, and occupied the lodge from three o'clock in the afternoon until nearly ten o'clock at night. The lodge having been opened in due form, and with solemn prayer, and the minutes of the last lodge read and confirmed, the lodge was opened in the second and third degrees, and Bro. Lambers, Hannaford, Hugo, Hooker, and Townend were raised to the sublime degree of M.M. The next business was to pass Bros. Robinson, Taylor, Dolan, and Carter to the second degree. The next business was a ballot for Messrs. Edward Cochran and Henry Gradon, which being unanimous in their favour, and they being in attendance, were regularly initiated into the mysteries and privileges of Freemasonry, all the different ceremonies being most ably performed by the M.W. Master. Some other business was disposed of, and the brethren adjourned for light refreshment; when a number of toasts were drunk and the evening was spent in complete harmony. The W.M. will represent the lodge as Steward at the coming Festival for aged Freemasons and their Widows, and it is believed that the list he will hand in will by no means damage the reputation of the Great City Lodge.

Mark Masonry.

ST. MARK'S LODGE (No. 1).—This lodge met at Bro. Gosden's, Mason's Hall Tavern, Moscow-avenue, City, on Tuesday, the 6th inst. Bro. George Kenning, W.M., presided, and was supported by Bros. Rev. W. B. Church, P.M., S.W.; T. B. Yeoman, J.W.; Rev. P. H. Ernest Brette, D.D., S.O.; H. C. Levander, P.M., Treas.; R. Wentworth Little, P.M., Sec.; T. Cubitt, I.P.M.; Charles Horsley, S.D.; E. B. Holden, M.A., was advanced to the degree of Mark Master, after which, the Ark, Link, and Wreath degrees were conferred upon several members, and the lodge was closed. An excellent repeat followed the labours in lodge, and the W.M. during the course of the evening presented a P.M.'s jewel to Bro. T. Cubitt.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF GLASGOW.—This body met on Thursday, 8th inst., in the Masonic Hall, 213, Buchanan-street, Glasgow, 42 of the 25 lodges in the province, being represented. In the unavoidable absence of the Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Walter Montgomery, of Queenshill, the chair was taken by P. A. Barrow, D.P.G.M., who informed them the business to come before them on that day was the nomination of officers for the coming year. He had the commands of the Provincial Grand Master to re-nominate those whose appointment rested with him; and he was also pleased to be able to testify to the ability and punctuality of the whole of the brethren who had, during the past year, filled the various posts of honour in the Grand Lodge. The nomination was then proceeded to and in every case was unanimous. The following were, therefore, declared to be duly elected for the next twelve months:—Walter Montgomery, Neilson, P.G.M.; Frederick A. Barrow, D.P.G.M.; James Steel, Substitute P.G.M.; John Baird, P.G.S.W.; David Kinghorn, P.G.J.W.; Rev. Thallon, P.G.J.D.; J. Ritchie, P.G. Architect; R. Robb, P.G.M.; H. Allison, P.G.J.; Alexander Bain, P.G.B.B.; James Balfour, P.G.D.C.; Jno. Miller, P.G. Director of Music; James Gillies, P.G.S.B.; William Philips, P.G.I.G.; George Sinclair, Treasurer of Provincial Grand Benevolent Fund; and James Pollock, P.G. Tyler. The Acting P.G.M. announced that the installation would take place on the 27th, when he hoped the P.G.M. would be with them. The Provincial Grand Lodge was then closed in due form.

GLASGOW.—Caledonian Railway Lodge (No. 354).—This lodge met on Wednesday, 7th inst., Bro. J. Shaw, R.W.M., presiding. After the transaction of some private lodge business, the R.W.M. conferred the second degree in so highly a creditable manner, that it elicited great applause, and augurs well for the year of office on which he has just entered. At his request, Bro. G. W. Wheeler raised Bro. A. Buchanan to the third degree. Bro. Dolman acted as J.W., and J. Stafford, J.W.

THE TEMPLE AND HOSPITAL.

The anniversary meeting of the Mount Calvary Preceptory or Early Grand Encampment of England was held at the London Tavern, on Friday, the 9th inst. Knt.-Comp. D. M. Dewar, the E.P., presided, and amongst those present were Past Preceptors (or E.C.s, to use the older and more euphonious word) F. Binckes, W. Paas, S. Rosenthal, and J. Stohwasser, also W. Roebuck, E.P. Elect, John Hervey, Major Barlow, Rev. W. J. Shepherd, G. Neal, and W. Forster, and visitors, Capt. J. Watson, United Preceptory, Manchester, and R. Wentworth Little, E.P. Designate Holy Palestine Preceptory, London. After the usual preliminaries, the worthy and esteemed E.P. Elect was installed, and invested his officers, after which the Preceptory was closed, and the Knight Companions sat down to a banquet, and enjoyed the evening in the old Knight Templar style.

THE ROSICRUCIAN SOCIETY.

The Metropolitan College of England met at the Freemasons' Tavern, on Thursday, the 8th inst. Frater R. W. Wentworth Little, P.M.G. and S.M. presided, and a large number of fratres were present. Bros. R. Berridge, Rev. Dr. Ernest Brette, Wm. Forster, E. S. Norris, and T. W. Coffin were admitted to the grade of Zelator. Several promotions were announced, after which the elections of officers for the ensuing year were held. Frater W. Carpenter was chosen as M.G.; J. Weaver, D.M.G.; Rev. W. B. Church, E. Stanton Jones, T. Burdett Yeoman, T. W. White, S. Rosenthal, T. Cubitt, and Stephen Carey, Ancients; H. G. Buss, Treas.-Gen.; W. R. Woodman, M.D., Sec.-Gen.; K. R. H. Mackenzie, Assist. Sec.-Gen. There was a keen contest for the position of 7th Ancient which was awarded by a majority of two. A design for certificates was exhibited, and the reading of an interesting paper by Fra. Mackenzie terminated the business.

MASONIC BALL AT PRESCOT.

The sixth annual Masonic ball, carried out by the members of the ancient Lodge of Loyalty, No. 86, Prescott, was held on Thursday evening, the 8th inst., at the Assembly Rooms, Prescott, and as has been the case in all previous years, the proceeds will be given in aid of the funds of that most deserving charity, the West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution.

The annual festive gathering of the brethren and friends of the old Loyalty, is always of the most enjoyable character, a perfect spirit of good feeling and brotherly unity actuating every one, and the gathering of 1874, deserves a place beside those which have preceded it. Although the weather was of the most uninviting nature, being wet and thoroughly disagreeable, the ball was honoured by the principal Masonic and non-Masonic residents in and around Prescott, several also journeying from Liverpool, for the purpose of being present.

Bro. J. W. J. Fowler, P.M., P. Prov. G.A.D.C. again acted as the Honorary Treasurer, and Bro. Fowler, jun., as Honorary Secretary, both doing their duties most efficiently. The room was tastefully decorated, and as all the brethren appeared in full-dress Masonic clothing, with the jewels and insignia of their different orders, the gathering was exceedingly brilliant and attractive. Dancing was commenced shortly after nine o'clock, to the music of Mr. Martin's band, and was kept up with great spirit until an early hour.

The refreshments, supplied by Mrs. Lloyd, of the King's Arms, Prescott, were of the choicest and most satisfactory kind.

LORD SKELMERSDALE "AT HOME."

As landlord, neighbour, or head of an important province, no gentleman in his distinguished station enjoys more deserved popularity than Bro. the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, R.W.P.G.M. for West Lancashire; and the reason for this ultra-popular position is not difficult to find. Remembering that he occupies an honourable position, his conduct is invariably in keeping with the character of that position. Since his installation as P.G.M., less than a year ago, he has succeeded in not only confirming the high esteem felt for him by every brother in the province at his appointment by the M.W.G.M., but has greatly strengthened his popularity by the invariably courteous and friendly way in which he has conducted the affairs of the province. The changes introduced into the personnel of the Provincial Grand official list at the recent meeting at St. Helen's, were almost without a single exception, acceptable and satisfactory to the brethren generally, and the promises which his lordship has given to visit, at no distant date, every lodge within his province, augurs well for the future and continued favour of his Masonic reign.

As a landlord, he has given frequent proofs of liberality, and displayed more than once a generosity of disposition, which is too rarely to be met with in these days of money-making and money-keeping. More than one instance of his generosity in these "hard times" to tenants has come to our knowledge, all tending to show that his nobility of position has been quite in keeping with the nobility of his nature. As a friend and neighbour, ever since his return from America, he has also given sufficient proofs of friendliness and goodwill. Recently, at his lordship's country seat, near Ormskirk, he invited the principal townsfolk and tradesmen to a ball at Latham House, where mere ceremonial was utterly thrown aside, and where his lordship entered with as much zest into the evening's enjoyments as the youngest and least distinguished, Lady Skelmersdale vying with him as the hostess of the evening.

Again, as part of the Christmas festivities, he more recently entertained a large and notable circle of friends at Latham House, when private theatricals were given as the chief attraction, the two-act comedy of "Woodcock's Little Game" and the celebrated comediotta "Cut off with a Shilling" forming the programme, and his lordship playing a part in each with the greatest zest. The other characters were all supported by distinguished relatives of Bro. Lord Skelmersdale, and both pieces were admirably represented. Between the first and second pieces the guests were entertained at a supper, of the most recherché description.

It is refreshing to find evidences of hospitality and friendliness such as these, which are sure to make Lord Skelmersdale's popularity even greater.

THE RIGHTS OF VISITING BRETHREN.

Since the question affecting Bro. Bigg's complaint, by the Middlesex Lodge, has been under consideration, we have looked carefully into the Book of Constitutions, and think that now we see the whole matter clearly and completely, and can place it before our readers in a satisfactory and convincing manner. First of all, what are the authorities data and constitutional regulations on the subject?

Many of our readers will remember, that, by virtue of the "summary" of the "antient charges," read to every "Master-elect," as printed in the Book of Constitutions, the W.M. for the time being is bound to see, that, "no visitor shall be received" into his "lodge without due examination, and producing proper vouchers of his having been initiated in a regular lodge." Such is the undoubted duty of the W.M., on the one hand, and the undoubted antient and universal law of the Craft, on the other.

If there be some little ambiguity in the use of the word "vouchers," which may be interpreted to mean both printed and parole, and to include alike the Grand Lodge certificates, and the personal voucher of some member of the Lodge, yet, as a fact, we believe that the general rule of the order has been to require—due examination of a stranger, and the production of a Grand Lodge certificate.

There are three regulations, in the Book of Constitutions, bearing specifically on the subject of "Visitors," but we need only concern ourselves with No. 1.

That runs as follows: "No visitor shall be admitted into a Lodge, unless he be personally known, recommended, or well vouched for, after the examination by one of the present brethren, and during his continuance in the lodge, he must be subject to the bye-laws of the Lodge. The Master of the Lodge is bound to enforce these regulations."

It would almost seem, that, in the recent discussion this stringent constitutional regulation of our Craft has been somewhat overlooked, and we ourselves must even plead guilty to the "soft-impachment." For this is a clear direct enactment, by which the W.M. of every lodge is bound to see, not only that the visiting brother is duly "examined by one of the present brethren," but is perfectly known, recommended, or "well vouched for" by one of those present.

Hence, then, it necessarily follows, that, the W.M. of the Middlesex Lodge was really "dans son droit" in all that he did, and that, after all, the usage of the Middlesex Lodge is in accordance with the Book of Constitutions.

The only mistake the W.M. seems to have made, and that may be more in appearance than reality, is, that, he rested his advice to Bro. Bigg on the bye-laws of the lodge, and not on the Book of Constitutions.

But having said this, we feel bound to observe, that, the general rule of our lodges has certainly been to relax somewhat the stringency of the regulation. Having often been present when visiting brethren have applied for admittance, the course pursued has been this, the custom, we make bold to say, of 99 out of every hundred lodges in the Order.

If the visitor has come with his Grand Lodge certificate, and can satisfy the examining Bro. or brethren, he is straightway admitted, even though he be not personally known to any brother present; and while on the one hand, we feel, that after all, practically, the W.M. of the Middlesex Lodge was right, if he did not know Bro. Bigg, we yet feel compelled to say, that the lex inscripta of the Order, which admits all duly registered Masons after due examination, has hitherto worked so well, we would fain hope, except in very peculiar cases, our lodges will not fall back on the very stringent regulation of the Book of Constitutions on this "vexata questio."

HONORARY MEMBERS.

A good deal of correspondence has recently taken place in our columns relative to honorary members, their actual position and rights, their privileges, and voting powers, in our lodges.

Of honorary members our Book of Constitutions knows nothing, and makes no mention; consequently, there is, and can be, no authoritative law on the subject. There is undoubtedly a custom in the Craft in many lodges, though not in all, to admit honorary members, a custom somewhat questionable, and a right somewhat dubious, perhaps, according to the regulations of the Book of Constitutions which relate to the "admission of members." But still the custom exists, and has existed for some time, and no doubt, in some cases, the difficulty may arise as to what are the exact rights of honorary members.

Now it is clear to us, taking all the constituent regulations and prevalent system of our Order into account, that, the rights of honorary members represent what mathematicians call an "unknown quantity."

They are in fact, to use another familiar expression, "Vox et præterea nihil."

Honorary members are honorary members,—and nothing more and clearly have no right to vote on any question—affecting the lodge, to which they are not subscribing members.

All their privileges consist in attending the lodge, sharing in its festivities, and paying their own cost of expenditure whenever they join the banquet.

But as subscription to the lodges is the basis of all Masonic membership, and the guarantee of all individual privileges in the lodges, it is quite clear, that paying no subscription, honorary members stand on an entirely different footing to the paying members of the lodge.

It has been said, that, they can vote on all questions, except those on which money is involved.

But this proposition is erroneous, and involves a great fallacy.

It is quite clear, that, if they can vote at all, they can vote on all subjects, but if they cannot vote on money questions, they cannot vote on any matter at all.

Take for instance the election of W.M. Supposing, that, the numbers are nearly equal, does the brother who propounds the last-mentioned theory mean to contend, that the election could be decided by non-paying members?

Is it not patent to all, that, such a result must be reversed, on appeal to the Board of General Purposes?

Hence we fear, that, we must come to the conclusion, that as regards our lodges, honorary members have no rights at all, except such as are secured to them by the lodge bye-laws, and that, as regards the Craft at large, as governed by the wise provisions of our excellent Book of Constitutions, however excellent really in themselves, they are practically "nondescript."

But a Lodge, with the full consent of its members, can confer any rights upon them, which do not militate with the the Book of Constitutions, and here we must leave the matter to-day.

WEEKLY SUMMARY.

Her Majesty is still at Osborne.

The Confirmation of H.R.H. Princess Beatrice, by the Archbishop of Canterbury, took place at Whippingham Church, on January 8, in the presence of the Queen and their Royal Highnesses the Prince of Wales, the Prince and Princess Christian, Prince Arthur, and Prince Leopold.

Their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, attended by Lady Emily Kingscote, Lord and Lady Suffield, Lieutenant-Colonel Tesdale, Lieutenant-Colonel Ellis, Mr. F. Knollys, and Captain the Hon. Oliver Montagu, left Marlborough House on Saturday evening, en route for St. Petersburg.

His Royal Highness Prince Arthur, attended by Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Howard Elphinstone and Major Pickard, accompanied their Royal Highnesses.

H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh has safely arrived at St. Petersburg, where he has been most warmly received by the Emperor, the Imperial Family, and the Russian people.

H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge was assaulted in St. James's-street, by a Captain Charles Studdert Mansell, late of the 2nd Foot, on the 6th of January. It is only charitable to hope and to believe that the unfortunate man is insane. His Royal Highness appears to have shown the greatest dignity and forbearance towards his assailant.

The equestrian statue of the late lamented Prince Consort was unveiled in the presence of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Cambridge, the Lord Mayor of London, and other notabilities, at the western entrance of the Holborn Viaduct, on Friday the 9th. The statue is given by a donor, generally unknown, and executed very effectively by Mr. Charles Bacon. The speeches of the Lord Mayor and of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, were most interesting and well-received.

On the 8th, the coffin of Napoleon the Third was transferred to the sarcophagus in the little mortuary chapel at Chislehurst, with a short religious ceremony. The sarcophagus itself, is a gift of Her Majesty the Queen to the widowed Empress. That excellent and august lady, attended by her son, was present in the Mortuary Chapel, and a considerable number of distinguished adherents to the empire assembled to do loyal homage to the memory of their old master.

In general news we have little to record Lord Ilchester has succeeded Lord Cowper as Captain of the Hon. Corps of Gentlemen-at-Arms, and Lord Monson has been appointed Treasurer of the Royal Household.

Mr. Dorington has been elected M.P. for Stroud in the place of Mr. Winterbotham; and Mr. Townley appointed Lord Lieutenant of Cambridge in the place of Lord Hardwicke.

The Castro trial continues, and its end seems still far off. Old fashioned people feel, that, twenty-one days in summing up a defence is a serious tax on patience and propriety. It is delightful to contemplate the amount of costs a "grateful country" will have to pay. A most extraordinary correspondence appears in the Times, as between Mr. Whalley, M.P., and Jean Luic.

Another claimant has started up in Scotland, for the Eglington estates, and we fully expect to have now a succession of wonderful claimants, and still more startling claims, like for public and private property.

The legal profession, as well as the public, use a great deal by the retirement of Sir Samuel Martin. Those of this present, or rather, perhaps of an older generation, will long fondly remember his outspoken honesty, his unsullied integrity, and his increasing desire to be just, and administer the law, both in the letter and in spirit.

A curious case has been heard before that able Judge, Mr. Justice Keating, an assessor for the shop of Exeter, at Exeter. It seems a pity that Mr. Chancellor Philpotts could not restrain conscientious feelings, as it reminds us of what has been called in French, "une tempête en un verre d'eau."

Abroad, the news is still not important. In Germany the Roman Catholic Church is very militant indeed, and Prince Bismark shews clearly that "there's life in the old dog yet," to use a very homely proverb. But a war of conscience, or what is taken to be conscience, is always a very difficult one to wage, and we doubt much the efficacy of penal enactments, in such matters.

The elections for the German Parliament are meanwhile quietly proceeding.

In France the Ministry have been placed in a minority, and have resigned, but having obtained a vote of confidence, have resumed their portfolios.

Marshal and Madame McMahon gave their first ball at the palace of the Elysée, on the 14th when the fair "Parisiennes" would think much more of agreeable partners, than of disagreeable votes of the "Chambres des Deputés."

In Spain the military pronunciamento has so far succeeded, and is apparently quite approved of by Spaniards. Madrid tranquil, Carthagea bombarded, Moriones "in a fix," such seem to be just now the "Cosas de Espana."

The young King of Siam has abolished prostration on the "Kotoo," as it is called, and promises to be an enlightened ruler.

We have to announce the death of General Baron de Ros, of the Countess of Stanhope, of the Dowager Countess de Clifford, of General Sir James Chatterton, and of Mr. Henry Glassford Bell.

The Times also reports a very serious accident on the Great Northern Railway, at Barkstone Junction, by which two persons have been killed, and eight more or less seriously injured.

FREEMASONRY IN IRELAND.

THE NEW CONSTITUTIONS. PROPOSED LAW No. 133.

As it is pretty generally understood that we shall soon be called on to re-discuss and re-decide the question of the retention or expurgation of the above most objectionable rule in our proposed new constitutions, I avail myself of the friendly columns of The Freemason, to bring before the Order in general, and our Irish brethren in particular, a few reasons why we should at the very earliest opportunity expunge a statute, which, as has very forcibly been put in a recent editorial of this paper, never should have been permitted to find a place among the laws of "Free and Accepted Masons."

It is hardly necessary to quote the law in extenso, as probably nearly all your readers who take any interest in the subject, are by this time tolerably familiar with it. Briefly, it proposes to compel the Grand Lodge of Craft Masonry to suspend, expel, or restore any brother, suspended, expelled, or restored, by the Grand Royal Arch Chapter, the Great Priory of Knights Templar, the Grand Chapter of Prince Masons, or the Supreme Council of the 33° for Ireland, "without any further enquiry or investigation."

The principle attempted to be again forced on Grand Lodge for acceptance, is so utterly un-masonic, and so entirely subversive, not only of Masonic, but of general jurisprudence, that it seems almost a waste of time to argue the question, but as there is a compact, if not a very numerous, section of Irish members, who seem determined to enforce their particular views as being most for the advantage of the Order in general, I propose to notice a few points that naturally present themselves in examining the subject.

We are told by some, that the law referred to, is what is called a "Reciprocal Treaty," that the "Foreign Bodies," whose mandate we are called on, unquestioning, to obey, but ask us to do for them what they bind themselves to do for us, and we are threatened that if we do not pass this law, those other orders may possibly pay no attention to sentences of suspension or expulsion pronounced by Grand Lodge, and may retain Masons so suspended or expelled, in their community. Is this line of argument to be taken as serious? Is it not perfectly plain, as laid down by Bro. Mackay in his "Jurisprudence, that suspension or expulsion from Craft Masonry necessarily involves suspension or expulsion from all the so called "higher degrees," of which the offending party may be a member, but that the converse, is not, and should not be the case. But assume for a moment that the implied threat be made a fact, and let us suppose that a brother who has been expelled from the Craft, retains his position as a member of the Royal Arch Order for example. It is unquestioned that suspension or expulsion, from Freemasonry is a punishment applied only to serious Masonic crimes, the latter punishment being admittedly irrevocable, and equivalent to Masonic death. Can the members of the Royal Arch Body, composed as it must be of Blue Masons, sit in chapter with one who has been cut off, for serious offences from the Craft? or if they even so far forget their duty, as Masons, as to contemplate so doing, why should their conduct in the matter disturb the serenity of Grand Lodge? The Craft being freed from the presence of an unworthy member, whose conduct called for such condign punishment, if so called "higher orders" choose to tolerate such characters in their ranks that is their own affair, and Grand Lodge has no occasion to trouble itself further in the matter.

But again, if the law be passed, Grand Lodge will stand in a very inferior position to the other grand bodies, whose dictates it must however unhesitatingly obey without inquiry, even when those bodies order Grand Lodge to cut off a member, whose Masonic career may appear to Blue Masons unblemished. The members of those orders referred to, being of necessity Craft Masons, can be perfectly acquainted with all the charges and evidences brought forward in Grand Lodge, against a member accused of any Masonic offence, but the members of Grand Lodge are not to ask, nor would they be informed if they did, of what it is a member of the other bodies has been accused, and on what evidence he has been convicted.

The idea of reciprocity, with this fact borne in mind, has a tinge of the comical about it. We are told indeed, that a member is never suspended or expelled from those other bodies, save for a strictly Masonic offence, and we are expected to jump to the conclusion, that no brother can be cut off from fellowship in those orders, except for a crime, that would, if he were tried in Craft Masonry, involve a similar sentence. If so why not try him for the crime in Grand Lodge? Let all Masonic offences be examined and adjudicated on by the Craft. If the offence be a special one, such as a deliberate breach by the member, of his obligations in the order he belongs to, Grand Lodge cannot of course ask as to what special point he has offended in, but it can, and it ought, to be told, that the member has been ostracised as a punishment for wilful crime, after a trial by his peers, and with that fact officially before it, Grand Lodge may safely be left to do its duty in the matter.

The term Masonic offence, is besides, a very vague one. For instance, resistance to the powers that be, would be regarded by those powers as a Masonic offence, and yet it is quite possible that circumstances may at some time arise in those other bodies that would render resistance a necessity and a duty, and is Grand Lodge to be bound hand and foot, to strengthen by its power the hands of those who in those higher bodies may, by their misgovernment and imprudence, provoke an opposition which they may be strong enough to put down summarily by the very simple argument of suspending or expelling their opponents? I trust not.

The proposed law is altogether unnecessary. We have already, in rule 30, protected the interests of those other orders, and have gone very much out of our way as Craft Masons to secure for them a monopoly of the privileges they enjoy. The High Grades in Ireland, if this rule had not been passed, would have been exposed to the risk of two dangers. A "foreign jurisdiction" might invade their territory, and confer on Irish members, certain degrees, the possession of which is supposed to make a brother Masonically happy, or there might be a secession from the ranks of some of those "ineffable" degrees, and the seceding parties might issue counter manifestoes, and show a culpable want of that delicate appreciation of existing qualifications in candidates, for which the present orthodox grand bodies are so remarkable.

From those two dangers Grand Lodge has fully guarded the bodies referred to, by providing in rule 30 that all assemblies of Freemasons in Ireland, purporting to be Masonic, are unlawful and prohibited, unless held under a warrant or constitution from some of the grand bodies recognised by it, and as a consequence providing for the suspension or expulsion of any Irish Mason who may take part in, or join any such unlawful assembly held in Ireland.

Seeing then that proposed law 133, is, on the face of it, a serious interference with the liberty and independence of Grand Lodge, that the principle involved in its adoption would be completely opposed to Masonic jurisprudence and Masonic equity, and that it is quite unnecessary for the protection of the rights of the existing grand bodies, the question naturally arises, why is it sought to impose it on Grand Lodge.

There are two reasons which, whether admitted or denied, seem to me to be at the bottom of the strenuous efforts, undoubtedly being made, to get this rule adopted. One is, that if it continues to be part of our Constitutions, that the bodies popularly, though erroneously, supposed to be "high degrees" in Freemasonry, can by officially communicating their decrees on certain cases compel Grand Lodge, "without any further enquiry or investigation," to carry those decrees into effect against those under its jurisdiction, a tenable status is given to those bodies in Grand Lodge, and the holders of those decrees acquire in Grand Lodge a fictitious importance.

The other, and possibly the more important motive, appears to be, that such a rule would arm the governing bodies of those orders, not only with their legitimate authority over the members of those degrees, but with the obedient power, of Grand Lodge in addition, and when we bear in mind that as we advance upwards in Irish Masonry, the true Masonic element rapidly diminishes, and the unmasonic and anti-Masonic principles as rapidly develop, we cannot be too cautious how we give the rulers of those orders power to hold over the heads of their members "in terrorem," the authority of Grand Lodge, as an inducement to passive obedience in these degrees.

There are many Masons in those "Foreign Bodies" who might be disposed to take an independent position in what may be called their politics, if the greatest punishment to which they were liable for so doing, was the forfeiture of the privileges of that particular order, but who would think twice, before they would run the risk of a sentence which would, if this law be passed, send them out to the world branded as expelled Freemasons, without giving or allowing an explanation of the circumstances of the case. The members of the "High Grades" who retain Masonic independence, should for their own sakes be at their post in Grand Lodge when this law comes on for discussion, to help us to break at once and for ever, the power of the so-called "High Grades" over Craft Masons.

The tendency of all our recent legislation, and internal arrangements here, has been in the direction of drawing a distinct line of separation between Craft Masonry and its modern additions. It is not very long since the funds of the various bodies were separated. Previously the funds of the Royal Arch and Knight Templar orders were under the control of Grand Lodge. Now, the accounts of each grand body are distinct, and three of the other orders pay rent, as tenants to the Grand Lodge. With regard to the 4th grand body, the Supreme Council 33°, it is not a tenant of Grand Lodge, but by some mysterious process it has been made a tenant, for the use of rooms required in working the degrees under its control, to the Grand Chapter of Prince Masons, which as such pays a rent to Grand Lodge for apartments, gas, and attendance, the amount of which is simply absurd, and must I fancy, sooner or later, be at least doubled.

A still greater change came into operation on the 1st inst., by the removal of the office work of the new Templar Order from the general office to a special room, where in future, all Templar business is to be transacted, and as an arrangement is pending by which the office routine of the Prince Masons and 33° are also to be transacted in the new department, the result will be to confine the regular business of the general office to that connected with the Craft and Royal Arch Orders.

If rule 133 be struck out, as I hope and believe it will be, but one more change appears to be necessary to complete the separation of the Craft from degrees which have little in common with it, and much opposed to its principles, and inimical to its welfare.

The change alluded to, is the appointment of a different Grand Master for each of the distinct grand bodies, thus assimilating them to the English practice. Of course no change of this kind would be sought for or desired while our present venerated Grand Master is spared by the Great Architect to rule over us. He has, himself, however, wisely initiated it by resigning the leadership of the Templar body in favour of the Prince of Wales. Another strong argument against Rule 133, is to be found in the fact that the body alluded to, "the Religious and Military" Orders of the Temple and Malta, is not a Masonic body at all, and must not, therefore, be tolerated if it attempts to interfere with the rights and privileges of Freemasons. It is true that it restricts its membership to members of the Masonic institution; but that does not constitute it, inherently, a Masonic order. It is, henceforth, to be a chivalric order, and seems disposed to try to carry out the aspirations of one of its apostles, who, some time since, proclaimed, with dignified enthusiasm, that if the idea wrought out by Freemasonry of "a brotherhood of men" was a grand one, the idea to be wrought out by the new Order of the Temple—namely, "a brotherhood of gentlemen"—is still grander. Possibly so, if practicable. Meanwhile, seeing that the two fundamental principles of universal Freemasonry are, the equality of its members, and their unquestionable right to worship God as their conscience dictates, there can be nothing in common between it and a system where social position is intended to be indispensable, and where every candidate must profess a particular religious faith. It is not necessary to wait and see the result of this chivalric experiment. The leaders of the new Order have themselves cut the cable that bound them to Freemasonry, and whether their venture be a splendid success or a ridiculous abortion, is beside the question. One thing, however, Craft Masons should bear in mind. Many of them are members also of the Templar body, and it is not only quite possible, but very probable, that ere long questions will be raised in that body which will compel them to take sides in a division that is almost certain, and I would impress on them the wisdom of preventing Grand Lodge being dragged into a quarrel which it does not understand, and about which it cannot get any proper information. Let the "High Grades" manage their own affairs as they please, but do not place at their disposal the power and executive authority of Grand Lodge to be exercised at their bidding without knowledge and without question.

Finally, let there be no compromise in this matter, (accept no amendment. The rule is a bad one, strike it out.)

It is just possible that some of the brethren who are so desirous of retaining rule 133 may endeavour to bring to bear an influence which has been recently applied in another case, and rewarded by a temporary success. The Grand Master, whom all parties sincerely respect, may be induced to give a personal opinion in favour of this rule, and may be persuaded that it is of vital importance to retain it. If this course should be taken, it will be necessary to remember that our most esteemed Grand Master, has to depend for his knowledge of what is going on among us, on reports conveyed to him by those with whom he is immediately brought in contact, and if from their standpoint, those who are striving to purify Freemasonry in Ireland from abuses which have unfortunately crept into it, appear rather as Revolutionists than Reformers, it is of course only natural that similar views should arise in the mind of the G.M. I would earnestly deprecate any such course being taken, but if it should be followed, and pushed too far, the blame is on the head of those who would thus force us to make choice between our love for the individual and our loyalty to the principles of our institution.

I do hope that such a contingency may not arise, but that the question will be fairly and honestly fought out. I, for one, have little doubt as to the result.

THE CONVIVIAL BOARD

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

The extract from the New York Dispatch, on the subject of the Convivial Board (given in yours of the 10th) is sufficient to fill every right-minded brother with disgust; the allegations and deductions therein made are unwarrantable, untrue, and unworthy the pen of a true Mason. It is almost futile to go into a defence of the assertions Bro. Kilpatrick has thought fit to advance, for every English Mason knows that the charges are unfounded and only the emanations of a versatile brain, and bearing the impress of claptrap and falsehood.

The volubility of Mrs. Caudle, was, I presume intended by Douglas Jerrold to show the ignorance of the lower order of women, and why Bro. Kilpatrick should have introduced such a simile cannot be conceived, but may possibly have some slight application to brethren north of the Tweed.

I repudiate the assertion that the key note of charity (for this is really what is meant) was sounded in the Great City Lodge. Let those who desire to know where the key note of charity was sounded apply to the records of our institutions and there will be found a ringing and deafening reply to the writer's insinuations. Most lodges are in the habit, when circumstances require it, and when an act of benevolence has to be achieved, to forego a banquet or two during the year, but it is not usual with them to have it cried from the house-tops, so that the nations of the earth may know how virtuous they are, and what an amount of self denial they are capable of practising.

As to the assertion that the lodge spoken of numbers many of the nobility and millionaires of the modern Babylon, it is simply ridiculous, and as "to the most influential and disinterested lodge," it is another wild proclamation, and proves the weakness and ignorance of the writer. The lodge in question has not been in existence more than six months, and is not at present either Subscriber, Life Governor, Vice-President, or Patron of either of the Masonic Charities. The next time Bro. Kilpatrick wishes to promote brotherly love, and serve our charities, let him seek more honourable means than outraging principles of which he has exhibited his entire ignorance as well as deviated from the truth.

I am, fraternally yours,

JOHN CONSTABLE,
S.W., 185.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In the following remarks upon an article, by Bro. W. Kilpatrick, quoted from the New York Dispatch in your issue of January 10th, I much desire it to be understood that I am not by any means an advocate for indiscriminate carousing. Neither do I wish to be looked upon as an example of abstemiousness. I, however frankly acknowledge a partiality, shared, I will venture to assert, by the vast majority of my English brethren, for the pleasant gatherings which take place when the lodge is closed, for there the rare opportunity occurs, to enjoy with those we esteem, a few hours of social intercourse, free from daily cares, without indulging, as is suggested, in habits indictative of the gourmand or sot.

I did fancy a long experience in English Freemasonry had enabled me to attain a general knowledge of lodge business, the furniture thereof, and the duties of the various officers; but the news waited to us from the other side of the Atlantic has dispelled the illusion. I was not aware that a very important part of lodge-furniture consisted of utensils used at the convivial board, including all the et ceteras necessary at a carouse; nor did I know that the office of Steward is considered of the highest importance, his duty being to keep the cupboard well stocked with the ardent and edibles. But we live and learn. The notion of holding up American Freemasons, as patterns worthy of imitation, is, to say the least, curious, since Bro. Kilpatrick himself informs us, that, (in order I presume to restrain brethren there and keep them decorous) it was deemed necessary to prohibit intoxicating liquors being brought into the lodge.

Jan. 17, 1874.]

In England no such enactment is required, as, although an unwritten law, it is implicitly obeyed; and a brother would no more think of conveying intoxicating liquors into a lodge than dream of taking it into a place of worship.

The writer further informs the readers of the Dispatch of an event which occurred at the Great City Lodge in London, namely that the brethren agreed to do without one of the usual banquets and give the amount saved to the charity fund of the lodge.

From this fact he prognosticates that "the keynote sounded by the Great City Lodge consisting of Nobles and City Millionaires (?) is likely to be taken up in every lodge throughout the length and breadth of the land." For my part I do not think it at all likely. Englishmen generally will not content themselves to sup on bread, cheese, and beer; while they can well afford to enjoy such luxuries as venison and champagne; I have no means of judging the feelings of American brethren upon this topic; it is, however, notorious that the average American brethren are dyspeptic and do not possess the Englishman's power of digestion. It is quite possible the American Freemason may prefer intellectual refreshment and cold water; to a more substantial repast, but then tastes differ. The correspondent of the New York Dispatch has evidently but a slight acquaintance with the position of the Craft in England when he avers that this "new departure" of the great City Lodge (which, by the way, is not necessarily new, other lodges may possibly have done a similar thing, without trumpeting it forth to the four quarters of the globe) will cause a revival in Freemasonry in Great Britain, the fact being that at no time of its history has the Order been more flourishing and prosperous. Why Bro. Kilpatrick should publish such random allegations as are contained in the article in question is hardly possible to conceive, unless we suppose him to have fashioned his diction and opinions to please the idiosyncrasies of the people he happens to visit.

But why this crusade against Masonic dinners? Why, of all people in the world, should a Freemason rest satisfied with coarse and meagre fare, when he is able and willing to pay for delicacies? Is it just and fair to denounce masonic banquets, while we find other societies, be their purpose social, political, civic, parochial, benevolent, and even religious, indulging in similar "indiscretions." Nearly every public event of importance is celebrated by some such festivities. Almost daily we find in the newspapers reports of parliamentary dinners, civic dinners, banquets innumerable, upon every possible occasion, numbers of them in aid of charitable institutions, even the ceremony of installation of the Lord Rector of a great University is supplemented by a great feast where I am certain the "edibles" and the "ardent" played no unimportant part. Then why is the Freemason alone to practise so great an amount of self-denial. Is it because he is niggard in his charitable contributions, as the records of the Grand Lodge reply. It is an insult to question the generous liberality of the English Freemason. Is the giver to divest himself of all his superfluous wealth and deny himself every enjoyment, that the recipient might be pampered. From general experience it is just to infer that the abolition of refreshment performing four, five, and sometimes six hours labour in the lodge will tend to diminish attendance of our lodge meetings. A consummation certainly not to be wished. For Freemasonry to continue in its present successful course, it must be made as attractive as possible. Members of our honourable Craft are as a rule "true and trusty," and good citizens; but they are not likely to take the trouble of travelling many miles for the purpose of receiving lessons in moral conduct, when the same commodity, albeit in different form, can be obtained nearer home. But when, besides the moral advantages which are to be gained in the Lodge, there is a prospect of lively and brotherly intercourse a goodly muster of Brethren will invariably assemble.

Now, admitted, as Bro. Kilpatrick very properly points out, that Masonry inculcates every virtue under the Sun; and that it is the duty of every member of the Craft to promote in every way anything which conduces to brotherly love, peace, and goodwill among men. Nor can it be denied that as civilization advances, so does Freemasonry (by the way, presumably notwithstanding our banqueting propensities); granting also that American Freemasons are immaculate, and the members of the Great City Lodge virtuous, but why, oh why, should the rest of the brotherhood have no more "Cake and Ale."

Yours fraternally,
E. GOTTHEIL,
P.M. and P.Z.

Obituary.

BRO. T. WORMALD, F.R.C.S., FORMERLY OF NO. 2, LODGE OF ANTIQUITY.

We extract the following from the Times :—
"Mr. Thos. Wormald died suddenly at Gomersall, Yorkshire, the residence of his brother, on Sunday, December 28, in his 72nd year. He had filled most of the important offices and appointments open to the members of the profession. He commenced his professional studies under the celebrated John Abernethy, surgeon to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, to whom he was apprenticed at the Royal College of Surgeons. Having completed his hospital studies, he presented himself for examination, and was admitted a member of the College of Surgeons on the 5th March, 1824. He had previously assisted as Demonstrator of Anatomy at his hospital, and, in conjunction with the late Mr. M'Whinnie, published some anatomical diagrams of great use to students. After this he visited the continental hospitals to see the surgical practice and treatment of cases. In due time, he became assistant-surgeon to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, but, owing to the long tenure of the office of surgeon by his predecessor, was not appointed full surgeon until nearly the time for the compulsory resignation of the office, which he only held for a few years; he was, however, immediately appointed consulting surgeon to the hospital, holding the appointment until his death, and ever taking the deepest interest in the welfare of the hospital, its patients, and the large class of students, by whom he was much respected. In the Royal College of Surgeons he filled all the highest offices, having been elected in the first batch of Honorary Fellows of that institution on the 11th of December, 1843, and in 1849 he was elected, in conjunction with the late Messrs. Hodgson, Pilcher, and Bishop, a member of the Council. In 1857 he was appointed Hunterian Orator, when he delivered an admirable oration before a large audience; the discourse was published at the expressed desire of the Council, by whom he was elected the following year a member of the Court of Examiners. In 1865 he received the highest honour his colleagues could confer on him—the President's gown, and he performed the duties of this office to their entire satisfaction. He continued in office only a short time, and, in possession of an ample fortune, divided his time between Bedford-row, where he had practised many years, and his country residence—Bengeo, but latterly Epping House, near Hertford. Mr. Wormald leaves a widow, three daughters, and three sons. With the exception of the works already mentioned, and a few papers in the Transactions of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society and the Medi- cal Times, he did not contribute anything to surgical literature, but he has left a collection of valuable notes and cases."

The remains of this lamented gentleman were interred in the Highgate Cemetery on Monday week. His funeral, attended only by his sons; sons-in-law, and other near relations, was, as became his own wishes and retiring disposition, of a simple and unostentatious character. The service was read by the Rector of Bengeo, in whose parish he had formerly resided with his family, for many years.

Bro. Wormald's removal has left a blank, which cannot be readily filled up. In his busiest days, when his connection with St. Bartholomew's Hospital made a daily visit to London essential, he still appointed a time in each week when the poor could consult him gratuitously, and upon these occasions it was not unusual to find his gates surrounded with patients all anxious to secure the benefit of his great surgical skill. This practice was continued in his retirement to Epping House, and hundreds can testify not only to the permanent benefits arising from his prescriptions and advice, but to the sympathy and kindness with which every real case of suffering was met.

Bro. Wormald died at Gomersall, in Yorkshire, in his 72nd year. The sickness of a brother, to whom he had been instrumental in imparting considerable relief, had taken him there about three weeks before the attack which ended in his own removal. Thus to the end of life was fulfilled his great desire to do good to others, by enabling them to profit by that profound medical and surgical knowledge which in the providence of God had been so bountifully dealt out to himself. Bro. Wormald's connection with St. Bartholomew's Hospital, of which he continued a consulting surgeon, had an existence of well nigh half a century.

BRO. JOHN HARRIS.

We regret to announce that Bro. John Harris, P.M., P.Z., Lithographic Artist and Fac-similist, died in Croydon, on Dec. 28, 1873. He was initiated on the 10th February, 1818, in the Lodge Good Intent, No. 413, and served the various offices, (that of W.M. four years). He joined the St. James's Union Lodge, No. 180, subscribing to the same 15 years. He then joined the Royal York Lodge of Perseverance, No. 7, acted as Secretary for 10 years; and afterwards joined the Albion, No. 9, having been a subscribing member for 40 years. In 1823, he designed the tracing boards, approved by the late M.W.G.M., His Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex, K.G., &c. In August, 1856, he became totally blind from paralysis, and in 1860 he became an inmate of the Royal Benevolent Institution, Croydon. He has left a widow in advanced years, who will now be a candidate for the annuity.

MASONIC BIBLIOGRAPHY.

Under the above heading in last number of The Freemason, Bro. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford asks who was the author of a pamphlet, entitled "The principles of Freemasonry explained, etc.," published at Glasgow in 1768. The author was the Rev. Alexander Gillies, a member of the Lodge Montrose. He was the first recorded honorary member of Mother Kilwinning, and his admission is thus minutely—"Kilwinning, 20th Dec. 1766. Mr. Alexander Gillies, preacher of the gospel, formerly entered in another lodge, having this day preached before the brethren in the Church of Kilwinning, to their great edification, and with universal applause, the brethren, in consideration of the learning, sobriety, and sound divinity of the said Mr. Gillies, do unanimously receive and admit him as an honorary member of the Mother Lodge of Kilwinning, and he obliges himself to obey the rules of the lodge. Alexr. Gillies. Claud Thomson, Master." George Murdoch, to whom the sermon was afterwards dedicated, was then Lord Provost of Glasgow, and a Past Master of Glasgow Kilwinning. The circumstances under which he became "Grand Master of the Lodges in Glasgow" are referred to in my "Historical Notes on Scotch Lodges," in The Freemason, Nov. 1, 1873.—D. MURRAY LYON.

BRO. KINNERSLEY'S HISTORY OF No. 84.

We were much interested in reading a capital sketch of Bro. Kinnersley's History of "Doyle's Lodge of Fellowship, Guernsey, which appeared in The Freemason on Nov. 8th."

We sent to a friend to procure us a copy but not having heard as yet, we shall assume the "Review" in question to be correct as to the following:—Warrant granted by the "Antients" for a lodge at Guernsey, 24th June, 1763, No. 116. We find this lodge was in existence at the "Union" of 1873, and was then numbered 141 "Orange Lodge Jersey."

We are told that the same Grand Lodge issued a warrant 9th March, 1784, No. 222 for the "Mariner's Lodge" which was "erected in the island, under the same name, though now bearing the number 168 ever since.

Bro. Kinnersley then informs us that the "Doyle's Lodge of Fellowship" was formed on the 22nd Sept. 1806, also by the "Antient" as No. 536.

How the latter can be true we are at a loss to imagine, for on turning to the list of the "Antient" lodges we find No. 336 was held at the "Buckingham Arms, Stonehouse, Plymouth."

There was also at that time in Guernsey, under the "Antients" (A.D. 1813), 334, "Lodge of Harmony," 337; "Lodge of Unity, Bro. Gilliard's," and 343, "The Fourth Garrison Battalion," all of which ceased to exist before the alteration of the numbers in 1832. We have examined into the apparent discrepancy, and offer the following explanation for the information of our good Bro. Kinnersley, and his zealous friends of the "mystic tie" at Guernsey.

"Doyle's Lodge of Friendship," when under the "Antients" was neither 334, 336, 337, nor 343, but actually "No. 98," and owing to its position of the roll, was more likely to have been warranted about 1760 than so late as 1806.

We append the various numbers of the "Doyle's Lodge of Friendship," according to the various alterations, from its constitution to the present time:—

Under the "Antients" up to 1813.	No. 98.
At the "Union" of 1813.	No. 123.
	1832. No. 99.
	1863. No. 84.

It is a curious fact that the "Doyle's" Lodge of Fellowship accepted a warrant from the older Grand Lodge (the "Moderns") in 1810, as No. 615. We do not know whether Bro. Kinnersley alludes to it or not. Such "double-dealing," however, was not unique in the experience of lodges, for the able historian of the "Royal Gloucester Lodge," No. 130, Southampton, (W. Bro. J. Rankin Stebbing, P.G.D., and D. Prov. G.M.), affords intelligence of a similar act on the part of that distinguished lodge prior to the "Union," and it is probable others did not object to do likewise. The reviewer in speaking of Sir John Doyle being initiated, passed, raised, and had the Past Master's degree conferred upon him on one and the same night, remarks, "This was allowed under the old constitutions, and is even now done in America." We should like to know where four degrees are given in one night in America. It certainly will be news to our brethren in the United States. It is probable only the P.M.'s degree is referred to, and if so, excepting, we think in Pennsylvania, "passing the chair" is not worked in any Craft Lodge in America.

ARK MARINERS' DEGREE.

In the "Statutes and regulations for the Government of Royal Ark Mariners" (London, 1871), we notice the following.

"During some part of the eighteenth century Royal Ark Masonry was much in favour and practised. It has been discovered that in the year 1772, a Grand Lodge was re-constituted, and a warrant is in the possession of the Supreme Grand Commander of the Order, together with several documents relating to Ark Masonry and the Excellent Master's degrees, which have always been allied with it." "In London it has been worked from the year 1772, and long previously to the present time." "this Grand Lodge has had a continuous working long before and since 1793.

We have been examining into the antecedents of the degrees in any way connected with the Mark and Royal Arch Degrees, and desire to draw the attention of Masonic students to the above. We do not know who the writer is that compiled the introduction to the Statutes of Ark Mariners, and we therefore venture to ask for information through the columns of The Freemason.

1. We are not aware of any evidence to prove the existence of a Grand Lodge of Royal Ark Mariners before 1172, or even so early as that period.

2. No warrant that we have heard of as being in the possession of the S.G. Commander dates prior to the last decade of the eighteenth century.

3. We have never been able to discover any particulars respecting the "re-constitution," (or even the Constitution) of a Grand Lodge of Royal Ark Mariners in 1772.

4. We are not aware that the Excellent Masters' Degrees have always been allied with the Royal Ark Mariner, and having copies of minutes of the former dating before the latter can be traced, we think the statement made in the statutes must be an error. However, we suspend our final judgment until an opportunity has been afforded for the production of evidence.

4. What records are there of the Ark Mariner's Degree being worked in London in 1772?

5. What records are there of the foregoing degree being worked in London long before the year 1772? We shall be glad to have an answer to these queries, which are now written with the sole desire to receive "light," and if the extraordinary assertions in the interesting little Book of Regulations can be substantiated, then clearly the Royal Ark Mariner's degree has not yet been duly honoured. We believe our zealous and esteemed Brother Robert Wentworth Little is well informed respecting the Ark Mariner's Degree, and we solicit his reply, as also a similar favour from other competent public men.

W. J. HUGHAN.

The Great Fair at the Agricultural Hall is still visited by thousands of persons nightly, who seem to thoroughly enjoy the "Fun of the Fair." We advise all our readers who have not yet been to pay a visit at once. The splendid collection of wild beasts, including the lion cubs born on Christmas day, are alone worth the admission money, to say nothing of the Richardson's Show, marionettes, ghost shows, waxworks, merry-go-rounds, talking fishes, and the hundreds of other amusements.

ANOTHER ROYAL COURTSHIP.—The London correspondent of the Irish Times says:—"The cousin of Prince Louis of Hesse, is, if report can be relied upon, an aspirant for the hand of Princess Beatrice, the youngest daughter of her Majesty, and, what is more, is likely to be successful."

BRO. ABEL SMITH'S ANNUAL TREAT AT THE HERTFORD WORKHOUSE.

The somewhat monotonous existence of the inmates of the Hertford Union Workhouse was relieved on Tuesday, by two entertainments, which were given for their special recreation; and if cheerful countenances and hearty applause are to be regarded as evidences of pleasurable sensations, then there can be no doubt that both young and old thoroughly enjoyed themselves on Tuesday, and as thoroughly appreciated the efforts which were made for their amusement. At four o'clock in the afternoon a gigantic Christmas tree, some ten feet in height was lighted in the large dining hall, to the great delight of the juveniles. The tree was most profusely decorated with useful and ornamental presents, and being capably illuminated really presented an exceedingly pretty appearance. At the appointed time the tree was stripped of its fruit, which was distributed amongst the younger inmates of the house, who were pleased enough at receiving the numerous toys.

The hall was then cleared, and soon afterwards the inmates were seated at the tables enjoying a most liberal tea, which had been set before them, and to which they did full justice, each person being supplied with as much tea, cake, and bread and butter as he or she considered necessary for their bodily sustenance. The old women each were presented with a warm shawl, and comforters and mittens were distributed amongst the others inmates of the house. After tea the tables were cleared, and at seven o'clock the inmates reassembled in the dining hall to listen to an amateur musical entertainment, which had been specially got up for their enjoyment. In addition to the inmates of the house there was also a large company of visitors present.

The programme was most ably and efficiently gone through; the applause was very hearty, and all appeared delighted with the successful nature of the entertainment. We may here remark that the expense connected with the whole of the afternoon and evening proceedings was most kindly and liberally defrayed by Bro. Abel and Lady Susan Smith. At the close of the concert hearty votes of thanks were passed to Bro. Abel and Lady Susan Smith for their beneficence, to the performers for their services, and to the Master and Matron of the house for their efforts to promote the comfort of the inmates. We had almost forgotten to observe Mr. and Mrs. Stratford (the master and matron of the house) were each presented with a very handsome book by Bro. Abel and Lady Susan Smith. The efficient services of some of the other officials also received appropriate acknowledgment.

THE ATTRACTIONS OF REGENT-STREET.—

Among the brilliant displays which adorn Regent-street, there are none which attract more attention than the establishment of Mr. Ahlborn, in the Quadrant. Mr. Ahlborn has added largely to his establishment by the purchase of the hotel adjoining Quadrant House, at a cost of no less than £20,000. These extensive premises will be the most complete in Regent-street, and will contain an assortment, the richest and most unique, of the latest novelties. Mr. Ahlborn has expended an enormous outlay on a collection from the first houses in France of the richest silks and satins, which may fairly be said to be unsurpassed by any other throughout the world.—Morning Post.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—DISEASES OF THE CHEST.—

The daily increase of deaths from these causes is positively appalling. During the last few weeks, from the hot days and cold nights, many aged and delicate persons have died of bronchitis, inflammation of the lungs, and other chest complaints, perfectly remediable at their outset. Let no one afflicted in the chest hesitate for a moment to use Holloway's potent remedies. Properly used, they will mitigate each symptom, and avert those disastrous consequences grievously noted by the Registrar-General. Rub the ointment thoroughly over the chest at least three times a day, and take the pills exactly according to the printed instructions affixed to each box and pot. Immediate relief and permanent cure will result.

WHY CHIME THE BELLS SO MERRILY?

Words by Mrs. Herbert Hodges.

Inscribed, by permission, to the Lady Susan Smith,

Why chime the bells so merrily
From yonder grey church tower,
And why do sounds of mirth awake
The solemn midnight air?

The Old Year's past, and thus they bid
Its joys and griefs farewell;
And welcome in the New Year Morn
As though 'twould care dispel.

Why chime the Bells so merrily
In midnight's lonesome hour?
They strike within my soul a chord
Of strange and solemn power,

Can I, too, bid the past farewell
Without a sigh or tear,
And welcome in the New Year's morn
Without a thought of fear.

Ah! yes, for though past sins arise
In hues of scarlet dye,
A Saviour's love hath banished them,
E'en as the year gone by.

Then let the Bells chime merrily,
And bid the New Year come:
For each one as it speedeth by Leaves me but nearer home!

CROSBY'S
BALSAMIC
COUGH ELIXIR.

Opium, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling
 the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S
BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.
SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
 Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."
 This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night
 Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all re-

DOMATIC LODGE (No. 177).—On Friday evening last the installation meeting of this very popular lodge was held at Anderson's Hotel, where a very large gathering of the members of the Craft assembled to witness the installation of Bro. Frederick Kent into the chair of K.S. Immediately after the reading of the minutes, the ceremony of installation was performed by Bro. P.M. Brett, (than whom there are very few if any members in the Craft better qualified to work this beautiful ceremony) in an impressive manner, and all present must have been highly gratified at the Masonic treat Bro. Brett afforded them on Friday. After the newly installed Master had been duly proclaimed according to ancient custom, he proceeded to appoint his officers as follows:—Bros. Everett, S.W.; Treadwell, J.W.; Wilking, S.D.; Palmer, J.D.; Chapman, I.G.; Buscall, D.C.; Joseph Smith, Treas. Through the lamented death of Bro. Towner, the lodge has for some little time been without a Secretary, and this office was now filled up by the appointment of Bro. Willing. The important ceremony of appointing and installing the officers having been completed, the ordinary business of the lodge was proceeded with, and Bros. Jennings, Vinal, Plenderleah and Braid, were raised to the sublime degree of M.M. Bros. Currie, Lightfoot, Brown, Watson and Strange, were next passed to the degree of F.C., after which Mr. John Willis, Mr. Edward Purchase, Mr. J. W. Torrance, and Mr. Abel Simmer, being candidates for initiation, were balloted for, and the ballot being declared in their favour, were duly initiated into the mysteries and privileges of the first degree. The business of the evening was brought to a close by admitting on ballot, Bro. F. C. Bartlett, of the Victoria Lodge, Quebec, as a joining member of the Domatic Lodge. The members and their numerous visitors then repaired to the banquet room, where a noble repast was served by mine host, who knows so well how to provide those who, from their necessarily recent attendance at Masonic banquets, are adepts at the art of dining and therefore, not the people to be satisfied with anything but the best. The only inconvenience felt arose from the multitude of the diners, which rendered some crowding unavoidable, and a pocket full of soup a thing unheard of, or the back of a popular singer staid with gravy a spectacle not unseen. But what are inconveniences of this kind when we seek to do honour to those whom we revere? We English submit to such daily, when this is our object, and therefore these little mishaps were endured on Friday, with commendable good humour. We understood there were not far short of one hundred and fifty members of the Craft present at banquet, among whom were many very eminent Masons. We shall not attempt to record the names of the members of this lodge are so numerous, and it is quite possible that some of the names of some of the visitors may be omitted. Those we observed were s. Cottebrune, G. Faust, Eng.; Eve, G.S.V. W.; Major Campbell, Gower, George. Kei-ning, P.M. 192; J. D. Massey, 173; Beckett, Dalhousie; Lawler, 511; Sidney Thornton, Pomeroy, Higgins, 1381; Codner, Globe, Bingham, 56; Dwarber, 55; Bocking 34; Stephens, 1365; Tessett, 1365; Wheeler, Hoggard 205; Basnett 22; Vine, 173; Scott, 55; Row, Fidelity; Dawson, 186; Webb, 71; Kell, Hook, St. Lie, 1158; Brandt, and Vine. After the usual loyal and Masonic toasts had been duly proposed and honoured those which more particularly concerned the Domatic Lodge were proceeded with. Bro. P.M. Joseph Smith, the Treasurer of the lodge, rose to propose "The Health of their newly-installed W.M." He was sure that it was a toast that they were all desirous, anxiously desirous, to honour, because he was sure that they not only all esteemed Bro. Kent, very highly for the manner in which he had wrought in times past, but that they anticipated with regard to the time to come that Bro. Kent would be all that they could desire in a W.M., during his year of office. He would remind them that Bro. Kent was initiated in that lodge, and that he had fulfilled all the offices up to the chair, and now the meeting had conferred upon him the highest honour by making him their W.M. All W.M.'s are not gifted alike. Some evince special ability in their working, some are particularly genial at the banquet. They had the evidence of their senses that in the latter capacity their new W.M. excelled, and he thought he might venture to say that Bro. Kent would be found able to perform all the duties of the lodge. He reminded them that this was a very large lodge, and he held that the larger the lodge the higher was the honour of being elected its W.M. At the same time, however, the responsibilities were heavier. Every Master should endeavour to excel those who have gone before him, and to improve upon what they have done, and to show that Bro. Kent intends your comfort as well as your interests, he would tell them that their new W.M. had proposed that the Domatic Lodge should have a Masonic ball, that their chief's idea was that they ought not to be selfish, but that they should have an entertainment in which their wives and daughters might take part, and he had set his heart upon making the proposed ball a great success. He had moreover come to the praiseworthy resolution of not leading the lodge into debt, and this perhaps was the best part of the whole business, though they might think it selfish of him (Bro. Smith) to say so, being the Treasurer, for their W.M. had said that if the funds of the Lodge would not bear the expense he would be very willing to bear it himself. The toast was drunk with enthusiasm, and the W.M., in returning thanks said that ever since he became an officer of that lodge his idea had always been to be original, whenever it seemed right, to do something different to what had been done before. He thought he had done right in coming up to that chair, and he assured the brethren in all sincerity that his object would be to sink his individuality for the benefit of the lodge. There was nothing like unity in a lodge; if they would only bear it in mind they would never do wrong, never misunderstand each other. With the view of acting in unison, he had called a meeting of his officers, and they had promised that whatever he might suggest he should have their support. He thought that so far as they had gone they had had an exceedingly pleasant evening together, but his idea was that Masons ought not to be selfish; he was always pleased when he heard Masonry well spoken of by the ladies, and he believed that they would be helping forward Freemasonry by having entertainments in which the ladies could join. He believed that the result would be that husbands and brothers would be urged to join a body that, apart from and beyond its work of charity, not only sought its own enjoyment, but endeavoured to add to the happiness and social intercourse of their wives, their daughters, and their sisters. It was therefore that he had suggested the idea of a ball, that they should forget themselves in contributing to the happiness of their ladies, though they should not forget themselves when the ball took place. He thanked the brethren for the manner in which they had drunk his health; he trusted there would always be unity between them; let them go through his year of office hand in hand with him, so to speak, to do the best they could for the lodge, and then he was sure they would get on very well together. The W.M. then proceeded to propose "The Health of the Past Masters of the Lodge," coupling with it the name of the I.P.M., Bro. Tims, about whose conduct in the chair he spoke in terms of commendation, adding that the brethren had deputed him to present Bro. Tims with a P.M. jewel, as a mark of their esteem, and it gave him much gratification personally to invest him with it. Bro. Tims having made a suitable reply, "The Health of the Initiates" was proposed and drunk with the usual honours, after which the health of "The Officers, the Treasurer, and the Visitors" were proposed and very heartily responded to, and the proceedings, as usual, were brought to a close with the Tyler's toast, which however, was given from the chair and not, as usual, by the Tyler himself. During the evening some excellent vocal music was contributed by some of the members and guests, among the latter of whom was Bro. Dawson, who though still suffering from the effects of a severe cold sang his beautiful song "Violets," with great sweetness and effect. There were also one or two very good recitations by one of the members, and this pleasant meeting did not terminate till a late hour.

ST. JAMES'S UNION LODGE (No. 186).—This lodge's first meeting of the year was held on Tuesday, the 13th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. W. Smithett, W.M. in the chair. It was also the lodge's first meeting of the season, when the ceremony of installing the W.M. elect had to be celebrated. The choice of the brethren having fallen upon Bro. Gallico, a very worthy member of the lodge, who has shown himself a very zealous Mason during the whole period of his membership, there was a very large attendance of brethren to witness his installation into the chair of K.S., which ceremony was performed (as it always ought to be performed) by the outgoing Master. Besides the installation, the ordinary business of the evening consisted of four initiations (for this being installation night the passings and raisings had been deferred until the next lodge meeting) but as two of the candidates were absent, the initiation of Mr. Kirk, and Mr. Frederick Wright was the only work, besides the installation which the W.M. had to perform, before occupying the honourable position of I.P.M. Messrs. Kirk and Wright having been initiated, Bro. Gallico was presented to the W.M., and having assented to the Masonic principles laid down in the Book of Constitutions and pledged himself in the usual form, he was presented to a Board of Installed Masters and inducted into the chair. The ceremony of installation or proclamation was very ably performed, by Bro. Smithett, and it gives us much pleasure to record the fact that the installation of his W. successor by the Master himself appears to be growing into fashion, and it certainly is a very much better fashion than the somewhat lazy one of deputing the performance of this important rite either to an instructor or to an unusually zealous P.M. Having been installed and proclaimed, the new W.M. proceeded to appoint his officers as follows:—S.W., Bro. Parsons; J.W., Bro. Gillard (but as this brother is at present abroad Bro. P.M. Buht was deputed to act for him in his absence); Treasurer, Bro. P.M. Robinson; Secretary, Bro. P.M. Stacey; S.D., Bro. Arnott; J.D., Bro. Smithett, jun.; I.G., Bro. Pillinx; Wine Stewards, Bro. Jackson, P.M., Bro. Hart, and Bro. Van Duren; D.C., Bro. J. R. Stacey, P.M.; Tyler, Bro. Gilbert. Bro. Gallico, the W.M., installed the officers in a very able manner, and confirmed the expectations on his account in every respect. The large attendance of members and friends was no doubt also greatly increased by a very interesting notice which appeared upon the summons in addition to the other business of the evening, which was the presentation of a testimonial to Bro. H. A. Stacey, P.M., the Hon. Secretary of the Lodge. At the proper time, Bro. Jackson, P.M., rose and said: "Worshipful Master, Brothers Senior and Junior, Wardens, and brethren, I claim your attention to myself for a few moments, and ask you to bear with me while I speak for any sins of omission or commission of which I may be guilty; for I speak not of and for myself alone, for though I shall endeavour to express my own sentiments, I speak also in the character of the mouthpiece of the lodge, and as the representative of the feelings of its members. Had I the oratory of Demosthenes, backed by the reasoning of Plato, and the learning of Socrates, I should not be able to do more than justice to the subject in hand, but although I have not these qualities, I do possess the qualities of genuineness and sincerity, and must rely upon them to enable me to perform my task aright. I assure you I highly appreciate the honour you have done me in selecting me to present the testimonial to our Bro. Stacey, but although I do so, I must say that I also look upon the privilege as being my right; I feel entitled to it because I am the oldest P.M. of the lodge next to Bro. Stacey himself, and therefore, though not qualified by talents to do it, I was so through the length of time during which I have had the opportunity of appreciating his good qualities and his good services. In the performance of his duty a man will be influenced by the character of the duty, or by his own temper or disposition, and where there is a hard duty to be performed one man may take it as a matter of fact, and although doing it well he may lack energy; others might forget the hard and fast duty in the ardour of their dispositions, but for myself I will endeavour to steer a middle course. The duty I have to perform is not like that of a commander leading the devoted band on to storm a breach or to a forlorn hope, who must feel that however victorious he may be he will scatter death, desolation, and misery around him. I have the pleasure of leading on a compact and united band to a victory not to be gained by them, but already gained by our worthy Secretary, by his excellent fulfilment of the duties of his post, and the kindness and urbanity of his manners. I followed him in the chair. It was a great privilege to follow such a Master, not that I could excel or even emulate him, but having such an excellent example before me, and such excellent advice to follow, it would have been hard to go out of the path of duty. No words of my own could so well express the sentiments of the lodge towards him as the words inscribed upon the testimonial, which, I think, are exhaustive on that subject, and reflect great credit on those who composed them. They are as follows:—“This testimonial, together with a silver inkstand, and a clock and bronzes, was presented by the brethren of the St. James's Union Lodge, No. 180, to Bro. Henry Alfred Stacey, P.M., P.Z., at the lodge meeting held at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, on the 13th January, 1874, in testimony of their appreciation of his valuable services as Honorary Secretary for the past 14 years; for the uniform acts of kindness and urbanity of manner he has at all times evinced during his long connection with the lodge, extending over a period of 25 years; and also for the interest he has displayed upon all occasions in the promulgation of Freemasonry. Signed, on behalf of the brethren, Alfred Stoner, P.M., P.Z., Treas.; H. T. Robinson, P.M., Hon. Secretary.” Bro. Stacey, in the name of the lodge I have very great pleasure in presenting you with this slight mark of their esteem, and may the recollection of this often tend to alleviate any troubles of mind you may occasionally feel, and add a pleasure to your path through life. In handing it down to your children I trust that they may profit by the excellent example you have given them. I trust that your connection with us may be long, and that when at length your mortal term is ended you may ascend to the great lodge above, where the world's great architect “lives and reigns for ever.” Bro. Stacey:—“W.M., S. and J.W., Bro. Jackson, and brethren, I am extremely sorry that I am not good at making a speech, and that I really cannot find words to express to you my feelings on the present occasion. It is five and twenty years ago since I was initiated in this lodge, and I am now the only one out of the then members of this lodge remaining alive. I have taken a rather active part in the concerns of the lodge; for love I have done it; solely and purely for love of Freemasonry and admiration of it. I have always felt an interest in the prosperity of this lodge, and in making the members of the lodge comfortable. I may say that since I have joined the lodge I have seen some 360 gentlemen initiated into it, but I am sure I never expected that you would have deemed me worthy of this handsome testimonial for my past services. Words fail me to express my feelings. Believe me that I am extremely obliged to you, and I shall always highly value this testimony of your approval, and I do more sincerely thank you for your kindness to me.” The lodge then voted five guineas to the Royal Benevolent Institution, Bro. Storer being about to act as Steward at the next festival. At the conclusion of the business of the evening the brethren adjourned to a sumptuous repast, to which some 96 brethren sat down among whom were the following visitors: Bros. C. J. Matier, P.G.W. Greece, and P.G. Steward, Scotland; T. Beard, P.M. 101; McGill, 347; Jonas, 742; Blundell, 741; Styles, Smart, Hughes, Layton, Gallico, Kempster, Coulton, W. W. Browne, Koch, J. H. Stacey, Edenherm, Moore, Harding, Perry, B. W. Perry, Baylis, Taylor, Binckes, Baxter, Noyes, Godfrey, South, Allen, Taylor, and Willmet. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and responded in a very generous spirit, and we regret that we have not space for the many excellent speeches which were made in connection with them. Suffice it is to say that on the toast “Prosperity to the Masonic Charities,” being proposed, coupled with the name of Bro. Binckes, that worthy brother, with his usual untiring energy, failed not to seize the occasion to point out to young Masons their duties as regards their great institutions. Without wishing to prejudice them in favour of that to which he is especially attached, he urged them to give to all, but on no account to forget the Boys' School, that being the only unendowed institution, and being at the same time a very important one as it must be regarded as a nursery of future Freemasons. He pointed out, as he never fails to do, that though there were about 40,000 or 45,000 Freemasons, the Masonic Charities were in the main supported by some five or six thousand of that number and the remaining say five and thirty thousand might be sure that he would never relax his efforts to gain them also as practical supporters of the institutions for which it was both his duty and his pleasure to plead. This is but a slight sketch of a very excellent speech, but then Bro. Binckes always does speak well and very much to the purpose. During the evening there was some very excellent music, both vocal and instrumental, contributed by the members of the lodge. We cannot close our report without bearing our testimony to the great ability with which Bro. Gallico, though a foreigner, conducted the affairs of the evening both in the lodge-room and at the banquet table, and can but foresee that he will be a worthy successor to his predecessor.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—St. Hilda's Lodge (No. 240).—On Wednesday, January 7th, the Worshipful Master, Officers, and brethren of St. Hilda's Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, held their annual festival of Mr. J. Butchby's, Golden Lion Hotel, King-street, South Shields. There was a numerous attendance of the brethren, and it is only due to Mr. and Mrs. Butchby, the host and hostess, to say that the entertainment provided for the several guests was of the most recherché character, and well merited the encomiums so liberally bestowed. Bro. R. E. Thomson, W.M., occupied the chair, Bro. J. S. Wilson, S.W. in the vice chair. There were also present, Rev. D. E. Evans, Chaplain; Past Masters Wm. Wright, J. Hinde, G. Lawson, J. Ditchburne, J. S. Denham, Thomas Potter, St. Hilda's Lodge; W. Brignal, jun., P.M. Marquis Granby Lodge, 124, Durham; J. Ward, W.M., Past Master; Brown, St. George's Lodge, North Shields; J. T. Dickinson, W.M., Past Master, Hope; and E. Foster, and T. Baker, St. Bede's Lodge, Jarrow; G. C. Scarlaw, 208, Scotland; Cloughton, J.W.; T. G. Mabane, S.D.; J. J. Athey, I.G.; J. H. Morton, T. Lumney, Stewards; G. S. Shotton, Secretary, and others. In the absence of the Past Master Roddam, the duties connected with the office of Director of Ceremonies were ably discharged by Past Masters Lawson and Ditchburn, who were most attentive in looking after the requirements of the company. On the removal of the cloth, the chairman rose amid applause to give the first toast—“The Queen,” but previous to doing so expressed the high satisfaction he had in seeing so large an attendance of the brethren. The toast was received with applause. The chairman next gave the “Princess of Wales and the Royal Family.” He then gave “Army, Navy and Volunteers, including therewith the health of Lieutenant Mabane, of the Third Durham Artillery Volunteers,” who responded. The Chairman next gave the “Most Worshipful Grand Master of England,” The Most Hon. the Marquess of Ripon, and the officers of the Grand Lodge,” “The R. W. Provincial Grand Master of Durham, Bro. John Fawcett,” and “The Officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge,” associating thereunto the names of Bro. Brignal, P.G.R., and Bro. Denham, P.G.W., who responded. The Chairman then gave “R.W. Prov. Grand Master of Northumberland, the Right Hon. Earl Percy, M.P., and the Officers of Provincial Grand Lodge.” “The Health of the Worshipful Master of St. Hilda's Lodge” was next given, and was received with cheers, accompanied by the best wishes of the brethren for the success of Bro. R. E. Thomson, who made an appropriate response, in which he spoke of the many excellencies of Freemasonry, and of his earnest desire to maintain the pre-eminence of the lodge and generally of the Craft. The following toasts were afterwards given and responded to:—“The Health of the I.P.M. of St. Hilda's Lodge Bro. Potter,” “The Visiting Lodges,” “The Officers of St. Hilda's Lodge,” “Our Absent Brethren,” and others. After spending an exceedingly pleasant evening, the brethren separated in love and harmony.

BIRKENHEAD.—Mersey Lodge (No. 477).—The annual installation in connection with this lodge in Cheshire, took place on Monday afternoon, the 14th inst., at the Masonic Chambers, 35, Argyle-street, Birkenhead. Bro. J. Griffiths, W.M., opened the lodge, and there were present to assist Bros. R. Gracie, P.M.; S. Jones, I.P.M.; H. Martin, P.M.; J. M. Radcliffe, I.M., (acting Treasurer); J. Adams, S.D.; T. Dixon, Sec.; D. Fraser, I.G.; W. M. Asher, D.C.; and T. Rodan, Tyler. The members present were, Bros. T. Brown, H. Sabine, W. Pilford, E. P. Haddon, W. Lockyer, J. H. Bowne, G. Nelson, J. Jones, W. Cook, C. Marsh, W. H. Hume, T. E. Tomlinson, J. Rice, J. Thompson, H. E. Field, J. Ibeson, A. Mitchell, and W. Worrall, jun. There were present as visitors W. Bulley, P.P.J.G.W.; W. P. Platt, P.P.J.G.W.; A. Samuels, W.M. 1350; T. Leighton, P.M. 1035; E. Davies, S.W. 605; J. J. Rose, W.M. 249; E. Jones, 605; J. J. Aden, 605; J. B. Jackson, 215; W. Lownsborough, 823; J. Acton 823; W. Griffiths, W.M., the chair of installing Master was taken by Bro. W. P. Platt, P.P.J.G.W. (in the unavoidable absence of Bro. E. G. Willoughby, P.M., through illness), who proceeded to place Bro. R. Gracie, P.M., in the position of W.M. for the ensuing year. The whole of the ceremony was performed in a most effective manner, and the charge given by him to the following officers, invested by the W.M., were equally impressive and complete.—Bros. J. Griffiths, I.P.M.; D. Fraser, S.W.; T. Dixon, J.W.; J. M. Radcliffe, W.M. 605, Treas.; S. Jones, P.M., Sec.; V. Pulford, S.D.; W. M. Asher, J.D.; R. Rhodes, I.G.; A. Mitchell, D.C.; W. H. Forde, S.S.; W. Worrall, jun. Bro. T. Rodan was again unanimously re-elected and invested Tyler of the lodge. After several communications and propositions had been extended to the lodge was closed in season and harmony, and a most excellent collection of money was made at the time.

the Woodside Hotel, by Bro. Harbridge, at which between 60 and 70 brethren were present. The several loyal and masonic toasts were given in pointed terms by the W.M., that of the "M.W.G.M., M.W.D.G.M. the P.G.M. and Grand Officers of Cheshire" being responded to by Bro. W. Bulley, P.P.J.G.D., who referred especially to the great interest taken by Lord De Tabley in the whole of the lodges in the Province, and particularly in the Mersey Lodge. In the course of the evening a handsome P.M.'s jewel was presented by the W.M. to Bro. J. Griffiths, I.P.M., who acknowledged the gift in suitable terms. The other toasts were given and responded to with great felicity, and the evening was greatly enlivened by excellent harmony from several of the brethren. The jewel presented to Bro. Griffiths was furnished by Bro. Kenning, of London and Liverpool, whose choice stock was well represented by the sample.

SEACOMBE.—Combermere Lodge (No. 605).—Another installation in Cheshire took place on Thursday, the 15th inst., when the brethren of the Combermere Lodge, No. 605, met for the purpose of installing their W.M. elect, Bro. Ellis Davies, at the Seacombe Hotel, Seacombe, on the opposite shore of the Mersey, from Liverpool. There was an unusually large gathering of the members of the lodge and visitors. Bro. J. M. Radcliffe, W.M., presided at the opening of the lodge, and he was very efficiently supported by Bros. J. T. Lea, P.M.; H. Davies, P.M.; E. Davies, S.W.; E. J. Haddon, J.W.; J. Sillitoe, Treasurer; T. Leighton, Secretary; T. Shaw, I.G.; J. E. Jones, S.; and T. Redan, Tyler. Amongst the brethren present were Bro. R. Gracie, W.M. 477; H. Martin, P.M. 477; E. Jones, H. Roberts, T. Gregory, J. Denton, C. Staley, J. Spier, W. Dobie, T. Ambler, W. Ellison, H. H. Banks, J. Jones, E. H. Harris, M. McNerney, T. Strothers, and W. Smith. The list of visitors included the names of Bros. H. Bulley, G.S.B. of England; W. Bulley, P.P.J.G.D.; F.K. Stevenson, P.P.G.S.; T. Platt, P.P.J.G.D.; C. H. Hill, P.G. Reg., W.L.; J. Skeaf, P.G.O., W.L.; H. Williams, P.M. 249; J. J. Rose, W.M. 249; J. M. Eccles, W.M. 1325; Captain W. J. Newman, W.M. 786; T. H. Ward, W.M. 1276; R. W. Holt, P.M. 1276; D. Fraser, S.W. 477; J. Taylor, S.D. 1276; T. Dixon, J.W. 477; W. M. Asher, J.D. 477; W. Bulley, jun., 537; C. Leighton, S.W. 1325; E. Chater, 1094; H. O. Jones, 537; C. Haswell, 203; W. H. Hime, 477; J. Roberts, 292, &c. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, after which Bro. Radcliffe, W.M., nominated three candidates in a very impressive and effective manner. Bro. W. Bulley, P.P.J.G.D. (in the absence through sudden illness, of Bro. Horbury, P.M.), then took the chair, and Bro. Ellis Davies was presented for the benefits of installation as W.M. The ceremony of installation, as well as the charges to the several officers, could not possibly have been performed in a more masterly and impressive style, eliciting the universal admiration of the brethren present. The newly installed W.M. subsequently invested the following as his corps officers during the year of his Masonic reign: Bro. J. M. Radcliffe, I.P.M.; E. J. Haddon, W.M.; M. McNerney, J.W.; J. Sillitoe, Treas.; T. Leighton, Sec.; T. Shaw, S.D.; E. Jones, P.M.; J. Jones, I.G.; T. Gregory, D.C.; E. H. Harris, and H. R. Banks, Stewards. Bro. T. Redan was unanimously re-elected Tyler of the lodge. Before the lodge was closed, Bro. H. Bulley, G.S.B. of England, presented Bro. Radcliffe, I.P.M., with a very handsome gold P.M.'s jewel, in the name of the members of the lodge, in preference to the [very valuable services which had rendered to the "Combermere" during the course of such a jewel by the unanimous vote of the members showed that the I.P.M., during his year in the chair had won the entire approval of his brethren, and he (Bro. Bulley), said that the recipient would long live to enjoy the esteem of his brethren. Bro. Radcliffe said he could not possibly find words to express his thanks to the brethren of the Combermere for their handsome gift, but he would endeavour to do his duty in the future as in some measure to repay them for their kindness. Hearty good wishes for the W.M. were expressed by representatives of other lodges, and after several propositions for initiation had been made the proceedings were brought to a close. About 50 brethren afterwards sat down to a sumptuous banquet, provided by Mrs. Stokes, of the Seacombe Hotel, and a very pleasant evening was spent with toasts and songs. Bros. T. J. Hughes, C. Haswell, and J. Skeaf, contributed in the latter department. The jewel presented to Bro. Radcliffe was a beautiful 18-carat hall-marked jewel, set in real pearls, was supplied from Bro. G. Kenning's well-known Masonic depot, at 2, Monument-place, Liverpool, to which it did the utmost credit as an artistic production.

WHITTINGTON LODGE (No. 862).—The ordinary monthly meeting of this lodge was held at Anderton's Hotel on Monday, the 19th instant. The business to be transacted comprehended the passing of Brothers Sedgwick and Boothers, which was duly performed by the W.M. Bro. Frederick Smith. After this the lodge was opened in the third degree when the W.M., after the usual examination, most impressively raised Bro. Frederick H. Roberts and Bro. R. P. Tate to the sublime degree of a Master Mason. The lodge was resumed in the first degree, when Bro. Kenneth R. H. Mackenzie was unanimously elected a joining member. The brethren then adjourned to a capital banquet, over twenty members of the lodge being present. The visitors were Bro. David McGill (No. 347), Bro. J. S. Landy (No. 45), and Bro. W. Edesheim (P.M. No. 967, M.E.Z. 77). The usual toasts were loyally honoured and the brethren separated at a reasonable hour, after a very instructive and enjoyable evening.

BUCKHURST HILL.—Bagshaw Lodge (No. 145).—The regular monthly meeting of this new lodge took place on Saturday, the 10th inst., at the Bald-faced Stag Hotel, Buckhurst-hill, Essex. The chair was taken by Bro. J. Tanner, W.M., who was supported by his officers, viz., Bro. J. Clarkson, S.W.; J. R. Cover, J.W.; Samuel Lilley, Sec.; D. Reed, S.D.; T. W. Nicholson, J.D.; W. Holloway, I.G.; W. Babington, D.C.; W. A. Heath, Steward, together with other members and several visitors. The Lodge on this occasion was honoured by the presence of Bro. R. J. Bagshaw, the Prov. Grand Master. The business of the lodge was the raising of Bros. Edward Thompson and Kearley, which was carried through by the W.M. in a very impressive manner. The Prov. G.M. in expressing to the lodge the honour they had done him, by naming the lodge after him, was pleased to find the same in such working order, and he felt sure that the lodge would flourish under the management of such good Masons as he saw around him, and if they would allow him to become a member he should be very pleased to do so; this intimation was received with great pleasure by its members. A vote of thanks was passed for the attendance of the Prov. G.M., and the lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to a banquet served by Bro. H. Lock, with excellent taste. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, and a pleasant evening passed, which will long be remembered by those present.

BEADON CHAPTER (No. 619).—At the Masons' Arms Tavern, Masons'-avenue, Basinghall-st., City, the regular meeting was held on Thursday, 22nd inst. The chapter was opened by Companions W. Smeed, P.Z., as Z.; G. A. Smith, H.; F. Walters, P.Z., as J.; A. Avery, P.Z. J.W. Halsey, P.Z., and other Principals. The minutes of the previous convocation were read and unanimously confirmed. Ballots were unanimous in favour of the ten candidates for exaltation, and five being present, were duly exalted. The ceremony being so well rendered by Companions W. Smeed, P.Z. as Z.; J. W. Halsey, P.Z. as H.; F. Walters, P.Z. as J.; W. H. Green, J. as P.S. Companion W. Smeed installed G. A. Smith, Z.; W. H. Green, H.; R. H. Williams, J.; and invested A. Avery,

P.Z., Treasurer; F. Walters, P.Z., S.E.; J. H. Hannsworth, S.N.; W. Seaman, P.S.; E. Coste, 1st A.S.; J. Wyle, 2nd A.S.; W. Y. Laing, Janitor. A companion was appointed Steward at Festival of Benevolent Institution. Several propositions were received for exaltation, and the chapter duly closed. A banquet and dessert followed.

MOUNT LEBANON CHAPTER (No. 737).—On Thursday, January 8, at the Bridge House Hotel, Southwark, the regular convocation of this well-established chapter was held. There were present Comps. J. T. Moss, M.E.Z.; E. Harris, H.; J. H. Butten, J.; A. D. Loewenstark, P.Z., Treas.; F. Walters, P.Z.; Loewenstark, P.S.; G. J. Loe, 1st A.S.; J. W. Baldwin, and A.S.; R. Walls, P.Z.; J. R. Austin, F. J. Timms, H. A. Dubois, A. P. Stedman, S. W. Seyfang, J. H. Spencer, and others. Amongst the distinguished visitors were: Comps. Charles Horsley, P.G.R. Middlesex; W. Smith, P.Z. 246; J. B. Langley, 176, and others. The heavy agenda, containing 15 names, was only relieved by the exalting of Bros. J. Wells, 1326; G. Reynolds, 1326; J. S. Sweasey, J.D. 1423; C. Roach, 1423. Apologies were received from the absent candidates, excusing and regretting their non-attendance, which was caused by circumstances entirely beyond their own control. This being election night, the ballots were then taken for the officers for the ensuing year, and resulted in the unanimous election of Comps. E. Harris, as J.D.; J. H. Butten, H.; H. A. Dubois, J.; T. J. Sabine, P.Z., Treasurer; F. Walters, P.Z., S.E., M. D. Loewenstark, S.N.; J. W. Baldwin, P.S.; W. J. Laing, Janitor, (re-elected.) The usual five guinea P.Z.'s jewel was voted from the chapter funds to Comp. J. T. Moss, in recognition of his services rendered to the chapter during his year of office. Several candidates were proposed for next meeting.

Bell, he was sure there was a fine career of prosperity opening out before them.

AID TO HAPPINESS AND HEALTH.—Bilious affections, with all their concomitant annoyances, induced by atmospheric changes or too liberal diet, should be checked at once, or serious consequences may ensue. When any one finds his ideas less clear than usual, his eyesight dimmed, and his head dizzy, with indisposition for all exertion, physical or mental, he may be quite sure that he is in immediate need of some cooling and purifying medicine. Let him send at once for a box of Holloway's pills, which will free him from his sufferings, and speedily renew his usual healthful feelings. If the bowels be irritable, Holloway's ointment should be diligently rubbed over the stomach and liver every night and morning.—ADVT.

THE NEW IRISH GRAND LODGE CONSTITUTIONS.

Our attention has been seasonably called by our able Bro., P.M. J. H. Woodworth, to the proposed but objectionable Law No. 133.

As we understand the matter, on a point of order, the previous debate and decision have been adjudged to be informal, and the discussion is to commence "de novo" when next the Grand Lodge meets, on proposed Law 133, and other laws in the New Book of Constitutions for Ireland. Very weighty are our Brother Woodworth's objections to such an enactment, the parallel of which we venture to think never have been suggested to any Craft Grand Lodge before.

For "ipso facto" it violates every principle of Masonic jurisprudence, nay, even of secular legality and equity. In the first place, it is very like that famous law of old, which condemned a man first, and tried him afterwards.

In the next place it positively refuses a hearing to a member of the Craft, in his own Grand Lodge, and condemns him, unheard and irrevocably, on the sentence of an extern court, and of an alien tribunal.

It is proposed to be defended, it seems, on the ground of a "compact," or "concordat" with other coequal jurisdictions.

Now this position we entirely deny, and challenge as being both utterly unmasonic and untenable.

If, indeed, the clause was defended on the ground, that the laws of the three Craft Grand Lodges of England, Scotland, and Ireland, were so to say, interchangeable, and that a sentence of expulsion by one Grand Lodge was to be communicated to each Grand Lodge, and that equal penalties would attach in each jurisdiction even then, the unchanging principles of human justice, would, we think, dictate the propriety of an appeal, or at any rate a hearing, before the sentence of one Grand Lodge took effect in the jurisdiction of another.

But, in this case, four bodies, however august or important, which have nothing to do with the Craft Grand Lodge itself, and their decisions are to be binding on, and unchallenged by, the members of the Craft Grand Lodge of Ireland.

Indeed, the rôle of the Grand Lodge of Ireland under such circumstances, is a very passive and not a very dignified one.

The Irish Grand Lodge is to register "sub silentio" the decision of another body of men, of whom many may not even be subscribing members of any Craft Lodge!

Altogether we never remember to have seen or read such a thoroughly unmasonic proposition. How in 1874, such a law could be framed, and above all submitted to Irish Craft Masons, we cannot pretend to understand or to explain!

We do not think, that, our good Bro. Woodworth need at all labour the question, in what position an expelled Craft Mason will be as regards the high grades. Our opinion long has been, that, with every possible respect and goodwill for the high grades, we have nothing, as Craft Masons, to do with them, or they with us,—and that, they should legislate for themselves, while we legislate, as Craft Masons, for ourselves. This is, we think, the only possible position for us mutually to take up, and most consistent with reciprocal courtesy and respect.

According to the general Regulations of Royal Arch Masons in this country, viz., No. 10, page 51, "when the Grand Lodge or any other competent authority in the Craft, shall suspend or expel any brother who is a Royal Arch Mason, the Grand Chapter shall, immediately on such suspension or expulsion being communicated, proceed to declare such companion suspended or expelled from his Arch Masonic functions, for the period while such Craft suspension or expulsion continues." Thus, curiously enough, in England, the Grand Chapter registers the decision of the Craft Grand Lodge, in respect of a Craft brother who is a Royal Arch companion; whereas, in Ireland, by an inversion of the "natural order of things," it is proposed to make the Grand Lodge register the decision of the Grand Chapter, and of four alien, but apparently co-equal bodies. In England we wisely acknowledge the undoubted superiority and supremacy of the Craft Grand Lodge.

We therefore heartily echo our able correspondent's words, in the expression of our hopes, that, the good sense and discriminating judgment of our Irish brethren, will reject unhesitatingly this most dangerous innovation of a present Grand Lodge of Ireland, and will

CHARITY VOTING.

Our objections to some proposed "reforms," as they are called, in our great charitable institutions, especially in regard to voting, (and which reforms seemed to us somewhat crude and un-called for, and impractical), have been both strengthened and increased by the recent meeting of the subscribers of the British Orphan Asylum, and reported in the Times of January 17th.

The views which we had in some preceding leading articles modestly put forward from our own humble and personal experience, seem to have been the views of a very large meeting, and to be shared in by those whose reputation as men of business, stands very high indeed in the City of London. When among others we may mention Mr. Henry Huth, Mr. Thomson Hankey, and Mr. Alderman Figgins, M.P., we feel sure that our readers will agree, that, from their high character and practical experience, they are deserving of attention and consideration, for the opinions they think it right to express on this important subject. The Rev. T. J. Rowsell, who is well known for his earnest labours and his practical sagacity also spoke on the occasion adversely to the reformers while the views of Mr. Banting, whose short address was read by Mr. Osborne, deserve to be calmly weighed and carefully considered.

Notwithstanding our able Bro. Rev. R. J. Simpson, P.G.C., endeavoured earnestly to obtain the support of the meeting for his reforming suggestions, an overwhelming majority of a crowded assembly, determined to stand "super vias antiquas."

And, to confess the truth, we do not see what else they could well do. To our minds, the argument is unanswerable, which we ventured originally to put forward, and which we see is supported by so high an authority as Mr. Rowsell that the proposal in 1874, to take away the election practically from the subscribers, and vest it in a committee, savours too much of despotism and oligarchy, to be at all acceptable to Englishmen; and, notwithstanding the remarks of our excellent Bro. Simpson and Sir R. Alcock, we venture to think that Dr. Davis's speech is a complete answer as to the supposed necessity or value of these proposed alterations.

That some slight reforms may be needed, may perhaps be true, but, the changes proposed, would entirely alter the character of our great and admirable charitable institutions, and would, we feel persuaded, seriously interfere with their present and future prosperity. Much misrepresentation has been sedulously put forth, as regards the organization of the charities, and the motive of the managers, in resisting the proposed reforms, while many of the allegations made as to special charities, turn out on enquiry to be greatly exaggerated, and even completely unfounded.

Lord Lytton, in a letter to the Times, complains of the expense of an election, and no doubt if all canvassing be done away with, some saving will accrue. But we venture to express an opinion, with great deference to his lordship, that, such a policy would, after all, be only "penny wise and pound foolish," inasmuch as it is often by this very publicity, and canvassing—nay, expense—that new subscribers are obtained for the several charities, and the merits of the charities themselves are made thereby more generally known.

We doubt greatly, after some experience on the subject, whether a committee to select the candidates, would give satisfaction to the subscribers, and we doubt also equally, whether much, if any, improvement can be made in the present system of elections, whereby as a general rule, the deserving candidates almost always succeed.

As we have said before, the test of the most deserving candidate is a very difficult one to lay down, and in this free and outspoken country, such will almost always be looked at and decided in the light of individual opinion.

We therefore concur, with the result and assolution of the meeting we have alluded to, as we feel convinced that, these great and off-hand changes are neither called for, or expedient, in the interest of the Charities, or of those the Charities so greatly benefit.

WEEKLY SUMMARY.

Her Majesty is still at Osborne.

Their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, after having been hospitably entertained at Berlin by the Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Germany have safely reached St. Petersburg with Prince Arthur. They reached the Warsaw station with their respective suites at half past two on the afternoon of the 15th January. Their Royal Highnesses were received at the frontier by Russian officers of high rank, deputed by the Emperor and by the British Military Attaché, and were greeted at a station called Luga, more than 85 miles from St. Petersburg, by the Cesarewitch and Cesarevna, who had left the capital early in the morning by special train. The Emperor, surrounded by the Imperial Family of Russia and by the Ministers and high functionaries of the Empire, received the English Princes and Princess on the platform of the Warsaw Station. His Majesty and the Prince of Wales and Prince Arthur exchanged the Royal kiss. The band of the Ismailovski Regiment played "God save the Queen" and "God bless the Prince of Wales." After greetings and introductions the Imperial and Royal party drove from the station to the Anitchkoff Palace in a number of close carriages and sleighs. The broad streets were lined with people, and, although there was not a London crowd, there was a very good imitation of an English cheer as the first carriage drove away, containing only the Czar and Prince of Wales sitting side by side. H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh has been assiduously visiting the various establishments, and has held a reception at the Russian Admiralty. From all accounts his charming fiancée and himself, have to lead a very active life, according to the following report:—St. Petersburg has been busied this week solely with preparations for the Royal wedding, all actual festivities having been postponed until the arrival of the Prince and Princess of Wales and the other principal guests. No fewer than eighteen entertainments will be given to the bride and bridegroom. The Czar will give three balls, at the principal of which 3,000 are to sit down to supper, and which is intended to surpass in magnificence anything previous of the kind. There will be a ball given by the Cesarewitch, two others by the Emperor's two brothers, the Grand Dukes Constantine and Nicholas, and one by His Majesty's sister, the Grand Duchess Marie. Lord Loftus, our Ambassador, is preparing a splendid fete for the wedding, besides a grand dinner before the marriage. Theatrical and operatic performances and a parade of troops will also form part of the Court gaieties. The British residents at St. Petersburg intend to offer an address of congratulation to the Duke and Duchess, and will then present the Russian Lifeboat Institution with two lifeboats in the names of the bride and bridegroom, having decided on this gift instead of a present of gold and silver plate to the Royal pair.

Captain Mansell has been committed for trial to the Central Criminal Court, by Mr. Newton, for his shameful assault on the Duke of Cambridge. It seems that he had sold out of the army, receiving full compensation for his commission. His chief complaint seems to have been, that he was not promoted, but the result proves, that he was most unfit for command.

Dr. Kenealy has at last finished his wonderful defence, and Mr. Hawkins, Q.C., has begun his rejoinder. Let us hope, that, his speech, marked as it is sure to be by his usual ability, will be distinguished by point and brevity. Most Englishmen, and Freemasons especially, regret that the attack on Lady Radcliffe's fair fame has been repeated in any shape whatever, even though that attack was made more by way of covert insinuation, than by direct declarations. The good name of a woman especially is a very sacred thing, and ought never to be lightly dealt with, or slanderously, assailed.

Mr. Whalley, M.P., appeared at Bow-street, at Jean Luie's examination on remand, but Sir Thomas Henry declined to read his letters or hear his speech. What the eminent chief magistrate would have said had that eccentric individual attempted to "sing," we are completely unable to conjecture or to say.

By a curious coincidence, Mr. Guildford Onslow, M.P., also appears in the Times with reference to a photograph of the famous "grotto," but to which, strange to say, the photograph bears little or no resemblance. Mr. Guildford Onslow says it is only the difference between summer and winter—leaves and no leaves; but, as Mr. Samuel Weller would have said, it is no doubt owing to the "haye" of the photographer.

Mr. Cowen has been returned in his father's place as M.P. for Newcastle-on-Tyne, by a considerable majority over Mr. Hamond; and the enquiry into the last Taunton election has been commenced there, but is not yet concluded.

From the Gold Coast we hear that Sir Garnet Wolseley has crossed the Prah, and is advancing on Coomassie: as good old Field Marshal Radetzky used to say of his grenadiers, "when once they get to work it will be soon over," so we can say of that fine brigade under Sir G. Wolseley's leadership.

Marshal and Madame Mac Mahon's reception at the "Elysée" turned out as we expected, a great success, and the Parliamentary difficulty seems over for the present. Let us all hope that happier days are in store for France, and above all for Paris.

In Germany the Papal Brief as published in the Cologne Gazette, and indeed elsewhere, about the election of a future Pope has made a great sensation, but whether it is not to some extent apocryphal remains yet to be seen. There seems to be a little difference between portions of the Latin verbiage, and if the transmitter, as it has been averred, has reproduced it from memory, that may account for the variations in style, &c.

Cardinal Antonelli has been ill with gout in the stomach, but is better, Pio Nono could ill afford just now to lose his able adviser.

Carthagens has at last fallen, and over 2,500 of the Intransigentes with their leaders, are now in Algeria "internés" by the French Authorities. The Numancia iron-clad is to be restored to the Spanish Government, and as a large number of those now in Algeria are "convicts" for civil delinquency, they will probably be also given up, to the Spanish authorities. Those who are merely political refugees will remain in Algeria most likely for the present.

The Carlists seem to be concentrating for a great action near Bilbao.

We have to announce the death of Cadwallader Lord Blayney, and of Sir Montagu J. Chomley, M.P.

Revelations.

"Veritas: A Revelation of Mysteries, Biblical, Historical and Social; by means of the Median and Persian Laws." HENRY MELVILLE. Edited by F. Tennyson and A. Tudor. London: A. Hall and Co., 25, Paternoster-row, 1874.

Many of our readers will probably, as well as the writer of this review, remember some remarkable papers, with still more remarkable illustrations, which in 1869 appeared in the then "Freemasons' Magazine," signed Henry Melville.

The subject was a most recondite one, about which necessarily many and probably divergent opinions would be held, not however in any ill-feeling to, or want of respect for the writer, and we do not think, that any of our good brethren in England, can fairly under any circumstance be denominated as our late lamented brother terms some of his opponents, "Masonic Scorpions." The truth is, that, at the time the communications appeared, the attitude of the Craft was simply one of astonished hesitation. The views propounded were so peculiar, the conclusions so startling, that despite the evident learning and sincerity of the writer, many were unable to accept either the data which he put forward, or the claims which he made!

Indeed, like all discoverers of "new theories," or the excavators of long forgotten lore, our brother seemed somewhat strongly to feel that he did not succeed in making his way with our Masonic authorities. He complains of the apathy of our old friend Bro. White, (a more kindly and zealous Mason never lived in his working days), and passes on him a sentence from Dr. Oliver, equally imaginary and unjust. Neither in later years did, our able brother make headway with subsequent officers of our Grand Lodge.

Our acute Bro. McIntyre, G. Registrar, could not "understand" his system, the Marquess of Ripon could not attend to matters, which "lie beyond the scope of ordinary Masonry," but, favoured by Mrs. Lane, the subject was remitted, by the Duke of Leinster's direction to "a special Irish Committee," consisting of very eminent men, namely the Deputy Grand Master, the Hon. Judge Townsend, and George Chatterton, Esq. This committee, however, the writer says, treated his discoveries with "silent contempt," "proving clearly" to his mind "that men may become very exalted Masons without necessarily becoming fraternal." In the meantime our able brother has passed away, he has not unfortunately lived to see the publication of his work, which has been edited by F. Tennyson and A. Tudor, at a cost, we have been informed, of £450.

Despite all Bro. Melville's great learning, we fear that his work is still, and will remain a sealed book to very many.

As we understand his own explanations of his own views, we think we can clearly and succinctly place them before our readers.

We trust, that in doing so, we are not repeating the example of the famous German savant who said when he was dying, "I have left but one person, who understands my teaching, and he does not understand it at all."

Bro. Melville's "idea," or discovery is then simply this.

He supposed that the religions of the Buddhists, of the Chinese, of the Mahomedans, indeed all religions, ancient as well as modern, had but one foundation, and that astronomical, celestial, astro-Masonic. He thought moreover that he could construe 2,400 biblical passages, celestially, and that the knowledge thus acquired constituted the lost mysteries of Masonry.

This view, our brother sought to uphold and substantiate by many and elaborate illustrations, mostly derived from "astronomical configurations or representations of the ancient mysteries," a symbol of belief in the primeval world!

Now, there is, no doubt, much that is interesting, striking, and we may add startling, in such a theory, so earnestly propounded, and so carefully elaborated.

And, therefore as Masonic students, we welcome the appearance of "Veritas," and think that the "editors" deserve well of the Craft, for submitting it to their notice!

We trust, that, many besides ourselves will study the volume for themselves, as indeed among other points of Masonic Archaeology, the connection of the "Mysteries of the Ancients," really and truly with Freemasonry, ought never to be wholly overlooked.

As regards the merits of the discovery itself, we like Bro. McIntyre, whose opinion on this, as on most Masonic subjects, is a very good one, "cannot at present" quite "understand," either its scientific reality, or its practical bearing.

That the Bible is to be read astronomically, is a very difficult proposition for any one to accept, or that, such a word—as "Wall" for instance, might indicate a "celestial partition or a celestial colure," is we confess, beyond our grasp.

Still, the connection of the old forms of belief, the ancient religion of mankind, and the myths and traditions of a long buried past, of astronomical symbols, and of astrological formulæ, with some of the inner life and labours of our Masonic adepts has in itself much to interest the thoughts, and attract the attention of all educated Freemasons.

The work of our Bro. Melville, recondite and mysterious as it is in truth, and all but incomprehensible to many, has no doubt its germ of truth, and its claim of real and valid importance, for all Masonic students.

For Bro. Melville, we think, has done this, he illustrates in his own way, the old and important truth, that, all religions had a common origin and that the debased forms of superstition, and the grotesque exhibitions of idolatry, are but declensions from, or perversions of, the anteluvian and original religion of the descendants of Seth.

This is an old Masonic idea, and Bro. Melville may have aided to strengthen the conviction in some minds, that, in Freemasonry, in its esoteric form, and exoteric teaching, we have a perpetuation, transmitted through long generations, for some wise purpose of Almighty God (as was undoubtedly the case with the mysteries of all nations originally), of some teachings of Divine Truth, and Wisdom, and Love, intended to illumine the world in which we live with their own celestial light, and to prevent the obliteration of the Name of God Most High from among the thoughtless and the profane of the children of men.

MASONIC RELIC

It may interest many of your readers to know that a short time ago a portion of the ruins of Melrose Abbey gave way, revealing a crevice in which was found, embedded in the masonry, an old wooden mallet, wormeaten and decayed. Its appearance is such as to leave no doubt of its antiquity. The position in which it was found, and the appearance of the mallet itself, seem to justify the conclusion that it was accidentally, or otherwise, dropped by some workman at the time when the building of the abbey was in progress. Of course much of the original beauty of the mallet has disappeared, but, judging from the still beautiful carving, the curious characters and mysterious hieroglyphics, its superior make and the wood of which it is made, it is supposed to have belonged to no less a personage than the architect and Grand Master.

The mallet in question was a few days since forwarded to Glasgow, and presented to the Glasgow, Melrose St. John's Lodge, No. 1, where visiting brethren, after contributing a given sum to the Benevolent Fund of the lodge, will be allowed to inspect it.

Glasgow, Jan. 12, 1874.

ALEX. KIDMAN.

P.S.—It is understood that the valuable relic in question will be photographed, copies of which may be easily obtained from the R.W.M. of the lodge, Bro. Thomas Stratford, 31, Robertson-street, Glasgow, who I am sure will be happy to give any further information.—A.K.

MASONIC BIBLIOGRAPHY.

In continuation of the above, which I think a capital department for Masonic Students, I forward the following, which I saw in Mr. Geo. Bumstead's list of second hand books (of 10, King William-street, W.C. I never remember seeing or hearing of such a book before in the Craft.

"CLELAND (John) THE WAY TO THINGS by Words, and to Words by Things; also Two Essays, the 'one on the Origin of Musical Waits at Christmas, the other on the Real Secret of Free Masons, 8vo, bds., clean uncut copy, scarce in this state, 13s."

I did not write for it at the time the catalogue was issued, owing to an oversight, so I suppose it is gone now.

I am glad to see Bro. D. Murray Lyon, has answered the query of Bro. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, as I know no one else who could have done so.

We were vain enough to search amongst our notes, but failed to obtain a clue.

CONSECRATION OF A NEW LODGE AT PENISTONE.

A new Masonic lodge—to be called the Wharnclyffe Lodge No. 1462—was consecrated at the Rose and Crown Hotel, Penistone, on Saturday evening, in the presence of a large assemblage of the brethren, from various parts of the province.

In the unavoidable absence of the Marquess of Ripon and Bentley Shaw, Esq., D.L., the Provincial Grand Lodge was presided over by the Rev. E. B. Chalmers, M.A., P.M. of Sheffield, Provincial Grand Chaplain, 139.

The Lodge was opened by Bro. John F. Moss, P.M., of the Royal Brunswick Lodge, Sheffield who, acting as Deputy Provincial Grand Registrar, afterwards, in due form, called upon the Deputy of the Provincial Grand Master to consecrate the lodge. Bro. Henry Smith, Provincial Grand Secretary, produced the warrant from the Grand Lodge of England, and Bro. W. H. Brittain, P.M. 139, acting as Provincial Grand Superintendent of Works, reported on the correctness of the lodge appointments.

The ceremony of consecration was then proceeded with in ancient form by the Rev. E. B. Chalmers, and amongst those who took part in it were Bros. J. Denton, Prov, G.D.C.; Freeman, Prov. G.W.; Matthews, P.M.; Collinson, P.M.; codhead, Hawksley, W.M.; and Underwood, 139.

The W.M. designate, Bro. W. Smith, 139, P.M. of Luddersfield, was afterwards duly installed by Bro. Ensor Drury, of Sheffield, P.M. and Prov. Grand Warden. The Right Hon. Lord Wharnclyffe was invested as Senior Warden of the newly constituted lodge, and his lordship was very warmly applauded on being placed in the chair. Bro. Bottomley-Firth (barister-at-law) was appointed Junior Warden; Bro. Esketh, Secretary, and Bro. J. Jefferson Smith, being one of the Deacons.

A banquet followed, at which there was a numerous company.

Obituary.

BRO. JOHN KIRK.

We regret to have to announce the lamented death of Bro. John Kirk, P.M., which took place at his residence at Plumstead, on the 9th inst. He was initiated in the Pattison Lodge, No. 94, and afterwards was one of the founder and the first W.M. of the Granite Lodge, No. 1328, which has now attained a flourishing position in the Craft, and among a large circle of Masonic and other friends his memory will long be cherished with affectionate regard.

BRO. S. H. PERRIN.

The death of Bro. S. H. Perrin, of 15, King-street, Cheapside, took place at his residence at Lewisham, last week, at the early age of 34. Although Bro. Perrin had only been in practice, as a solicitor, for a short time, he was much respected. Several City friends attended his funeral. He was a member of the City Club and of the Metropolitan Lodge of Freemasons, City Street, London. He was a devoted husband and a

SURREY MASONIC HALL.

We are much gratified to be able to announce that at length the directors of this Company find themselves in a position to forthwith commence the erection of the Hall at Camberwell, and to proceed with the building with all proper dispatch. At the meeting of the board, held on the 14th inst., after the appointment of Bro. Edwin Sillifant, as Secretary, and the completion of other routine business, Bro. J. Oliver, whose tender had been accepted, was instructed to make all necessary arrangements for the laying of the foundation stone in March next, when it is anticipated that the ceremony will be conducted by a most distinguished member of the Craft. The share list is now rapidly approaching completion, and it is contemplated that an early date will be appointed for closing the same. It is therefore advisable that those who may desire to associate themselves with this undertaking should make immediate application for remaining unallotted shares. Weather permitting, the South London brethren may during the next few weeks see the necessary excavations and the builders preparations for the forthcoming ceremony.

DOUBLE WEDDING AT RICHMOND.

The merest stranger visiting Richmond on Thursday morning must have been struck with the holiday appearance of the principal streets. Strings of flags spanned the thoroughfares, and banners fluttered in the breeze in all directions, many of the houses being made gay by a stray piece of bunting. The few straggling gleams of sunshine which made their way through the clouds gilded on signs of out-of-the-way rejoicing. Had his curiosity led him so far, he would have judged from the preparations at the parish church (the carpet laid along the pavements and an awning stretching from the church door to the church-yard gate) that a marriage was on the tapis. Had he been content, however, with drawing his own conclusions, he would have gone away with but half the truth. He would not have known that a somewhat uncommon occurrence—a double wedding on a scale of magnificence which has not been seen, even in Richmond, for many years—was to take place that morning. Yet such was the case. Thursday was the day fixed for the nuptials of the two elder daughters of our justly popular neighbour, Lieutenant-Colonel Francis Burdett, of Ancaster House, Richmond; and the bourgeoisie, with a commendable spirit of emulation, "dressed" their houses in the way we have indicated in order to do honour to the auspicious event; and to show their sympathy with the Colonel and his family.

The wedding was, as we have said, a double one—Miss Flora Frances Burdett, the Colonel's eldest daughter, was married to Duncan Davidson, Esq., the "younger" of Inchmarlo, Aberdeenshire—that is to say, the eldest son of Patrick Davidson, Esq., the present laird—and Miss Clara Constance Burdett, the second daughter, bestowed her hand on Robert Alexander Houston, the eldest son of Colonel Houston, of Clerkington, East Lothian.

The wedding was fixed for a quarter past eleven, and long before that hour the church was filled in every part. Half the seats in the nave were set apart for the use of the wedding guests and the privileged few who were favoured with tickets which entitled them to admission within the charmed circle; and the rest of the sacred floor, including even the galleries, was occupied by a crowd of curious spectators. The costly dress of the ladies of the hymeneal party (the colours of which were at once rich and sober; they consisted of violet of every shade, blue, and white), combined with the Christmas decorations of the church, imparted a beauty and variety of colour to the scene, as charming in effect, as it is chaste in design.

Mr. Davidson entered the church soon after ten o'clock. He was attended by Mr W. F. Davidson, R.A., his brother, who acted as his best man, and by four other groomsmen—Major Bill; Mr. Alan Mackenzie, the younger, Kintail; Capt. Rickman, R.N.; and Capt.

Hales. With commendable punctuality, Mr. Houston arrived on the scene, at a quarter past eleven. His groomsmen were—Messrs. M. H. Houston (best man) and Wallace Houston, his brother, the Hon. C. Ruthven, the Hon. D. Murray, and Master Burdett. He had entertained his friends at a final bachelor's dinner at the Roebuck Hotel on the previous evening. The bridegrooms awaited the arrival of their ladyloves at the altar rails, with what patience they could summon to their assistance. And their patience was in the present case doomed to a sore trial. The ladies availed themselves of the privilege always—and especially on occasions of this kind—accorded to the fair sex, the right to be unpunctual, to an extent not often insisted upon. Half-past eleven struck, and the long hand of the clock had passed the VIII., but still they did not come. The organist (Mr. Abbott) played Mendelssohn's aria, "O rest in the Lord," and filled up the interval with a number of cleverly extemporised voluntaries; and the wedding party and spectators were evidently getting anxious, in spite of the fact, revealed by a pretty general consultation of watches, that the church clock was too fast, when just as the hand was approaching the IX., the strains of Handel's, "O! had I Jubal's lyre," announced the fact that the ladies had come, and that the wedding procession was being formed in the western porch. The said procession made its way up the centre aisle in the customary order, the organist playing the tune to the hymn (No. 65, Ancient and Modern), "Jesus, the very thought is sweet," which was to have been sung by the congregation, who, however, were so entranced by the good looks and charming toilets of the ladies that they forgot to use their voices.

Arrived at the altar, the ceremony was proceeded with without delay, the Rev. J. W. Reeve, of Portland Chapel, Baker-street, tying the nuptial knot for Mr. Davidson and Miss Burdett; and the Rev. W. M. Sherrard, rector of Kilcullen, County Kildare, consummating the happiness of the other couple. The Colonel gave both brides away. While the party were in the vestry performing the very necessary operation of signing the register, Mr. Abbot played, Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" and Handel's "Happy we;" and as they left the church, he struck up, "See the conquering hero comes." The first words which met the eyes of the newly-married brides, as they passed through the vestry door on their return into the chancel were those of the inscription along the front of the western gallery of the church, "Behold! I bring you good tidings of great joy." And no doubt each felt the joy that, in her case, true love had surmounted all the obstacles which want of smoothness in its course—for it is not always smooth—might have placed in its way, and that no impediments had been admitted to the union of true hearts. Just at that moment the church bells took up the refrain, and spread the "good tidings" far and wide.

Leaving the church the party returned to Ancaster House, the residence of Colonel Burdett, where a really splendid déjeuner was served by Mr. Ferrar, of the Queen's Hotel, Richmond.

The tables were ornamented with quite a profusion of silver and glass, and a number of choice plants, with white blooms, in ornamental pots, supplied by Mr. Herbst, besides a couple of monster wedding cakes. Everything was of the daintiest and choicest description; the hams, cakes, &c., bore the initials of the newly-married couples and their parents, and the boar's head was quite a model one. The colonel, of course, presided; he was supported on either side by his newly-married daughters (before each of whom was a bunch of lilies of the valley and a basket of "forbidden fruit") and their husbands and bridesmaids, the party numbering, in all, nearly a hundred.

The customary toasts were drunk, special honour being done to "The Brides and Bridegrooms," and the happy couples left Richmond on their bridal tours, amid a perfect shower of slippers, we are sorry to say, of rain also. Mr. and Mrs. Davidson drove to the Victoria Railway Station, en route for the Continent; and Mr. and Mrs. Houston to Waterloo, for Southampton and the Isle of Wight. We had almost forgotten to state—but "it is never too late to mend"—that before sitting down to breakfast, Mr. Byrne took a good photograph of the wedding group in their bridal attire; and that the upholstery in the house and at the church was executed under the direction of Mr. Piggott.

The wedding presents were both numerous and costly—those of each bride filling a room.

Immediately after the ceremony the news that the knots were fairly tied, was despatched to Scotland by telegraph, and bonfires were lighted, guns were fired, and bells rung on the estates of Inchmarlo and Clerkington in commemoration of the double event. The servants and labourers on each estate were entertained to a dinner and ball, and the healths of the young couples were drunk with all the honours.—Richmond and Twickenham Times.

Original Correspondence.

RIGHTS OF VISITING BRETHREN.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Your leading article of the 17th inst. on the above subject has taken me by surprise, and certainly I cannot endorse the decision you have arrived at. If the rule means that no visitor can be admitted without being personally known or recommended by one of the present brethren what can be the use of the words "after the examination by one of the present brethren?" You will, I think, hardly contend that when the visitor is known and vouched for, it is still necessary he should undergo an examination before being admitted.

It seems to me the following is intended by the rule in question. If the person applying for admission is not known by any present, he is then to be examined, and if the brother appointed to examine him can vouch for his being a Mason he shall then be admitted.

Perhaps some of our brethren who have previous editions of the Book of Constitutions will refer to them and ascertain whether it is not a mistake putting a comma between "for" and "after," as if so the sentence would read "unless he be personally known, recommended, or well vouched for after the examination by one of the present brethren."

As this question is a very important one, affecting as it does so materially the rights of visitors, I hope before it is allowed to drop we shall have some authoritative decision on the subject. Yours fraternally,

M. J. M.

INSTRUCTION.

BURDETT COURTS LODGE OF INSTRUCTION.

—The fifteen sections were worked in the above lodge on Friday the 16th inst. Bro. G. Gottheil, P.M. 141 presided, assisted by Bro. Verry, P.M. 554 as S.W., Bro. J. Constable, S.W. 185 as J.W., Bro. Mortlock, P.M. 174 as P.M., Bro. Crouch, I.G. The following brethren worked the sections:—Bros. Raven, Lazarus, Crouch, Fieldwick, Coles, Gross, Verry, Christian, Berry, Hoyard, Pindar, Vorry, Wallington, Constable, Mortlock. The proceedings commenced at twenty minutes after seven and the whole of the work, together with the ordinary business of the lodge, was completed a few minutes after ten. This speaks well for the efficiency of the members of the lodge, and the highest praise is justly deserved by Bro. Verry its excellent preceptor, who is unremitting in his attention to the lodge, which just before his advent, and whilst under the guidance of a brother who was certainly not the "right man in the right place," was on the point of drooping out of existence, but the tact, courtesy, ability and perseverance of Bro. Verry has so far succeeded as to place the lodge in a fair way to resume its former prosperous position. The brethren in the neighbourhood ambitious for advancement in the order are fortunate in the opportunity which this lodge offers for qualifying themselves, under the guidance of this able preceptor.

EBURY LODGE OF INSTRUCTION (No. 1348).

—The fifteen sections will be worked on Thursday next, January 20th, at Bro. Palmer's, Morpeth Arms Pensonby-street, Millbank.

THE
DIARY, AND POCKET-BOOK, FOR 1874.

CONTAINING

Lists of Lodges, Chapters, Conclaves, Grand Councils, and K.T. Preceptories, with the Names of Officers, in England and Wales, Scotland, Ireland, France, Belgium, Germany, Italy, Denmark, Portugal, Sweden and Norway, Greece, Turkey, New Brunswick, Venezuela, Netherlands, British Columbia, Peru, Quebec, Canada, America, &c.

The LONDON MEETINGS OF EVERY DEGREE are given in the Memorandum space of each day. The COUNTRY LODGES appear in Towns, alphabetically arranged. It also contains the CHARGE and ENTERED APPRENTICE'S SONG.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

This small, but comprehensive Masonic guide, contains lists of lodges, chapters, councils, and full particulars respecting the grand Masonic body throughout the globe.—Standard.

Useful to Freemasons.—Echo.
The Cosmopolitan Masonic Calendar, Diary, and Pocket-book forms a comprehensive work of reference for Freemasons, and should be largely patronised by them. Mr. Kenning, 198, Fleet-street, is the publisher.—Lloyd's Weekly News.

The "Cosmopolitan Masonic Calendar, Diary, and Pocket-book for 1874," published by Kenning, Fleet-street, must be very handy for the craft, containing, as it does, a very complete list of lodges and officers, &c.—Figaro.

The fourth year of publication of this most useful and handy volume has arrived, and we are glad to notice various changes have been made in the arrangement of the information, which will considerably add to its value. As the successive edition has appeared, the Craft have seen how numerous improvements have been introduced, and certainly the present year has far excelled all previous issues. We are glad to see that an accurate list of all the London and Provincial Lodges and Chapters, has been arranged and classified alphabetically according to their names, and towns they are situated in; and a capital calendar is given, in which may be found all the London Lodges, Chapters, &c., as also the various Board and Benevolent Committee meetings. These, we know, have only been compiled after an expenditure of considerable time, labour, and patience. The information respecting the Mark Grand Lodge, Grand Council of Royal, Select, and Superintending Masters, the Orders of the Temple, and of the Red Cross of Constantine, and the Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Rite, is especially full and valuable; and their various Lodges, Councils, Preceptories, Conclaves, and Chapters, are carefully recorded, and nothing of importance seems to have been omitted with these rites—information, by the way, which cannot be obtained in any other publication, and which alone is sufficient to make the Calendar a great success. The "Cosmopolitan" is also thoroughly worthy of its name, for intelligence is afforded of the chief officers, and of the names, numbers, and localities of nearly all the Grand Lodges in the world. Within the compass of 250 pages there is matter enough compressed, clearly and closely printed, to fill several ordinary sized volumes. We conclude by expressing our earnest hope that the support afforded it by the brethren of the "mystic tie," will be commensurate with its usefulness, accuracy, and compactness.—Freemason.

This work, published by Bro. Kenning, of 198, Fleet-street, has just made its appearance among the annual literary productions, and will no doubt be received with as much favour from the Craft as previous issues. The information contained in its pages is exceedingly useful, and must have occasioned the editor much care and labour in its compilation, a task few would be disposed to accept, considering the difficulties to be encountered in carrying out successfully such an undertaking. Lists of lodges, chapters, conclaves, grand councils, and K.T. preceptories, with times of meeting, are given in addition to other matter. In the diary for private memoranda are printed, for each date, numbers representing different lodges, chapters, &c., whose meetings are held on the particular day, an arrangement which must prove of great service to visiting brethren and others. Indeed, the work is as valuable and important to members of the various branches in the Masonic world as the Post Office London Directory is to business men and enquirers.—Sunday Times.

We have just received a copy of the Cosmopolitan Masonic Calendar, Diary, and Pocket-book for 1874, (London, Liverpool, and Glasgow, George Kenning). It will be found what it professes to be, a comprehensive Masonic book of reference, being a collection of very useful information with reference to the Craft all over the world. It contains lists of lodges, chapters, conclaves, grand councils, and Knight Templar preceptories in both hemispheres, giving the names of the officers and other particulars, including the days of meeting. All this special information is in addition to the items peculiar to calendars. Altogether the pocket-book will be found a very useful companion to the Masonic brethren.—Liverpool Daily Courier.

Bro. Kenning, in this handy pocket-book, has provided an acceptable New Year's purchase or gift for every member of the Craft who desires to be properly posted up in Masonic information. It is a carefully compiled and valuable little work, containing between its covers not only what seems to be a comprehensive Masonic calendar, showing at a glance the day on which every lodge in the kingdom meets, but lists of members of grand lodges, of all Masonic representative and benevolent institutions, and of all true Masonic bodies throughout the world, and the names of their grand and other representative officers. The publisher is Bro. George Kenning, of London, Glasgow, Edinburgh, Dublin, and 2, Moanument-place, Liverpool.—Liverpool Daily Albion.

May be had at Bro. George Kenning's Masonic Depots, and through any Bookseller or Newsagent.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered. CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma. CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague. CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhoea, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms. CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

Extract from "INDIAN ECONOMIST."

"We direct the attention of medical men to a fact observed some years since by ourselves, and corroborated by our subsequent experience, that Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is in many cases of Low Fever immensely superior to Quinine in curative power. We cannot persuade ourselves that the true value of Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is yet properly appraised in India. . . . It may be given with absolute safety even to a child three days old. Were medical men but to make a fair and exhaustive trial of it we are persuaded that it would work a revolution in the treatment of two-thirds of the diseases to which children are subject. Its curative power is simply amazing."

"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he had received a despatch from her Majesty's Consul at Manila, to the effect that Cholera had been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, Dec. 1. 1864.

From W. VERSALIUS PETTIGREW, M.D., Hon. F.R.C.S., England,

Formerly Lecturer on Anatomy and Physiology at St. George's School of Medicine.

"I have no hesitation in stating, after a fair trial of Chlorodyne, that I have never met with any medicine so efficacious as an Anti-Spasmotic and Sedative. I have tried it in Consumption, Asthma, Diarrhoea, and other diseases, and am most perfectly satisfied with the results."

From Dr. THOMAS SANDIFORD, Passage West, Cork.

"I will thank you to send me a further supply of Chlorodyne. It was the most efficacious remedy I ever used, affording relief in violent attacks of Spasms within a minute after being taken. One patient in particular, who has suffered for years with periodical attacks of Spasms of a most painful nature, and unable to obtain relief from other remedies, such as opium, &c., finds nothing so prompt and efficacious as Chlorodyne."

From Jno. E. GOULSTONE, M.D., late Principal Surgeon to the Steamship Great Eastern.

"I can confidently state Chlorodyne is an admirable Sedative and Anti-Spasmotic, having used it in Neuralgia, Hysteria, Asthma, and Consumption, with remarkably favourable results. It relieved a fit of Asthma in four minutes, where the patient had suffered eleven years in a most distressing manner, no previous remedy having had so immediate and beneficial an effect."

From Dr. B. J. BOULTON and Co., Horncastle.

"We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-Spasmotic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after effects."

J. C. BAKER, Esq., M.D., Bideford.

"It is, without doubt, the most valuable and certain Anodyne we have."

CAUTION.—BEWARE OF PIRACY AND IMITATIONS.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWN was undoubtedly the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, Freeman, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See "Times," 13th July, 1864.

Sold in Bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each Bottle.

GLENFIELD STARCH is the only kind used in Her Majesty's Laundry.
Those Ladies who have not yet used the Glenfield Starch, are respectfully solicited to give it a trial, and carefully follow out the directions printed on every package. It is rather more difficult to make than other Starches, but when this is overcome, they will say, like the Queen's Laundress, that it is the finest starch they ever used. CROSBY'S
BALSAMIC
COUGH ELIXIR.
CROSBY'S
BALSAMIC
COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief to Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S
BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.
SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
 Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:
 "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subduces cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment of this disease."
 This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, N Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, 100, Scarborough.
 *Inwards should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Disease of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had gratis of all Chemists.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

MOUNT LEBANON LODGE (No. 73).—The installation meeting was held on Tuesday, January 20th, at Bridge House Hotel, Southwark. Bro. G. J. Grace, W.M., opened the lodge. The minutes were confirmed. Bro. G. Free, I.P.M., installed, A. L. Dussek, S.W., as W.M., who appointed as officers, J. S. Gomme, S.W.; J. H. Wilkins, J.W.; E. Harris, P.M., Treas.; G. Free, P.M., Secretary; J. H. Butten, P.M., S.D.; C. Rayden, J.D.; T. Knott, P.M., I.G.; P. H. Ebsworth, P.M., M.C.; D. Rose, P.M., W.S.; W. Y. Laing, P.M., Tyler. Two gentlemen were proposed for initiation at the next meeting. The Stewards to represent this lodge at festivals for 1874 are—J. H. Butten, P.G.A.D.C., Middlesex, P.M., S.D., for Benevolent; G. Morris, P.M., for Boys, and I. J. H. Wilkins, J.W. for Girl's. A six-guinea P.M.'s jewel was given to Bro. G. J. Grace, I.P.M. Lodge closed, banquet, desserts and coffee served. Present—Bros. F. Walters, P.M., Dr. Dixon, P.M., and the others already mentioned. About thirty visitors were present, and we noticed Bro. J. Conitts, P.G.P., J. Terry, Secretary of Benevolent; Lazarus, and others.

LONDON OF TRANQUILITY (No. 185).—A numerous meeting of the members of the above lodge assembled at Cannon-street Hotel, on Monday, the 19th inst. The chair was occupied by Bro. N. Moss, W.M. The other officers present were, Bros. J. Constable, S.W.; Ross, J.W.; D. Barneld S.D.; D. Posener, G. The usual preliminaries having been disposed of, Messrs. Pare, Anthony, and Judge were admitted into the Order with the usual ceremony. Bro. Humphrey was passed to the 1st degree, after which, Bros. Grover, and Phillips had the privilege of being permitted to participate in the mysteries of the sublime degree. The whole of these ceremonies were very ably aided by the W.M. Then followed the election of W.M. for the ensuing year, which was fully anticipated, in favour of Bro. John Constable, W.M. The W.M. announced the unanimous election to the S.W., in flattering terms complimented the W.M. upon his Masonic abilities, trusting that a successful year of office might be in store for him. He was sure for what he knew of Bro. Constable, that he would perform the duties with to himself and to the satisfaction of the lodge. The W.M. elect replied in brief and appropriate terms. Bro. John Peartree was read Treasurer, and Vesper Tyler. A vote of thanks, granted by the committee of the benevolent lodge, to a member of the lodge, was conducted. The lodge being closed the brethren proceeded to refreshment, after which the usual and Masonic toasts were briefly given and all eloquence being reserved to do tribute to the toast of the evening, namely the W.M. elect, which was received in a manner flattering to Bro. Constable, and showing in him who he is held by all the members of the lodge. Bro. Moss, W.M., spoke of him in glowing terms, alluding more especially to the services rendered and the remarkably rapid progress the W.M. elect has made in a comparatively short time, both in his position in the craft and in his perfect acquaintance with the duties of the various offices through which he has passed. Bro. Constable could scarcely find words sufficiently expressive of his gratitude to the W.M. and the brethren for so many expressions of kindness and affection; he would, however, assure them that as it always has been so will it continue to be his study to carry out in their entirety as far as his abilities will permit the fundamental principles of the Order. He trusted to receive the support of each member on all occasions in his endeavours to strengthen the bonds of brotherhood, as well as in his resolves, by continued application and perseverance to increase the fair fame and good position which the lodge enjoys in the Craft. The toast of the initiates was responded to by Bro. Pare, who said he was deeply impressed with the ceremony in which he took part for the first time, hoped that by emulating the good example placed before him to become a useful member of the Order, and trusted in time to gather some of the laurels which he saw had been earned by some of his surrounding friends. "Success to the Benevolent Fund" was given by Bro. Saul Solomon, who dealt with his subject with such effect as to induce each initiate to subscribe £1 1s. towards its increase, not that the augmentation of that fund is at all required at present, it being in a most flourishing condition, probably consisting of £1,000 in the funds. Bro. A. Sydney, P.M., proposed "The Health of the W.M." who after thanking them for their support during his year of office proposed "The Health of the Past Masters," to which Bro. Sydney replied in a very neat speech, elegantly expressed. Bro. Peartree responded for the Treasurer and Secretary; for the rest of the officers Bro. John Ross replied. The visitors were—Bros. Myers 13, Henson 180, Wood 438, South Coast. Bro. Nardus Gluckstein, P.M. 51, late member of Lodge of Faith, 131, was unanimously elected a joining member of the lodge.

LEICESTER.—St. John's Lodge (No. 279).—The annual festival and installation meeting of this lodge was held at the Freemasons' Hall, on Wednesday, the 1st inst., Bro. Clement Stretton, P.P.G.W., W.M., in the chair. There were also present, Bros. Kelly, P.P.G.M., P.M.; S. S. Partridge, Prov. Grand Sec.; G. Toller, jun., P.P.G.R.; F. J. Baines, W.M. 523; J. Halford, W.M. 1391; R. Waite, P.M.; A. M. Duff, P.M.; J. T. Thorp, J.W. 523; R. A. Barber, J.W. 1391; T. A. Wykes, Sec. 523; A. G. Chamberlain and W. Chamberlain, Secretaries 1391, and others. The lodge was opened in due form. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, and a satisfactory report of the financial state of the lodge was read and adopted. The hearty thanks of the brethren were accorded to Bro. Weare, Treasurer, for his services during the past year, and he was unanimously re-elected to the same important office. The W.M. then addressed the brethren as follows:—"Before leaving the chair I desire to take this opportunity to tender my best thanks to my officers for the efficient services they have rendered to me during my term of office, and for the kindness and support which I have received from them on every occasion. Of course I am quite aware that it is impossible for business men to be present at every meeting of the lodge; it would be unreasonable to expect it, and although one or two of the officers did not attend quite so regularly as might have been desired, yet I fully believe that every one attended to his duties whenever he was able to do so. My thanks are therefore due to one and all. But, brethren, there is one officer whose duties do not terminate at the close of the lodge. I am not alluding to the Treasurer, who has already received your thanks, but to the officer whose duties so closely connect him with the Master, I mean the Secretary. In Bro. McAllister, I have possessed a Secretary who thoroughly understood his work and performed it in a manner deserving the highest eulogiums. He entirely relieved me from all anxieties respecting the conduct of the business of the lodge. If at any time any matter required my attention, I was sure to receive a reminder from Bro. McAllister, and in fact had it not been for his proffered assistance, I would not the second time have undertaken the duties of the chair. I trust, therefore, brethren, that I may not be considered as making an invidious distinction in asking to be allowed to present Bro. McAllister with a Secretary's jewel. Addressing the Secretary, the W.M. continued—I have great pleasure in placing this jewel on your breast and I trust that the feeling which now animates us may pervade our hearts for the remainder of our lives. This jewel is of beautiful design and exquisite workmanship, and bears the following inscription:—"Presented by Bro. Clement Stretton, to Bro. James Malcolm McAllister, St. John's day, 1873." It was supplied as a special order, by Bro. George Kenning, the well-known jeweller, 2, 3, and 4, Little Britain, London. Bro. McAllister feelingly tendered his grateful thanks to the W.M. for the valuable presentation, and deprecated any extra service on his part, while merely discharging the prescribed duties of the office with which the W.M. had been pleased to invest him. He expressed the deep obligations the lodge owed to Bro. Stretton for having undertaken the direction of its affairs for a second year at a time when death and other changes had removed the principal officers, and alluded to the extended exercise of that truly Masonic virtue, charity, which had so distinguished the rule of Bro. Stretton and cast such a halo of attachment around the brethren as to render the termination of his command a subject of profound regret. The W.M. elect, Bro. A. Palmer, was presented to Bro. Kelly, P.P.G.M., installing Master, by Bro. Stretton, W.M., as being well skilled in the Craft. The ancient charges were read over by the Secretary, and the W.M. elect having signified his submission thereto, he was regularly installed and invested with the badge of office. The ceremony was ably conducted by Bro. Kelly, P.P.G.M., who for the lengthened period of thirty-one years, has, with few exceptions, regularly performed this important duty. Bro. Palmer, W.M., then proceeded to appoint and invest his officers as follows: Bro. C. Stretton, P.P.G.W., I.P.M.; J. W. Smith, P.P.G. Std., S.W.; J. M. McAllister, P.P.G. Supt. of Works, J.W.; Rev. J. H. Smith, Chaplain; W. Weare, P.P.G.S.D., Treasurer; G. W. Statham, Secretary; C. E. Stratton, S.D., S. Cleaver, J.D.; T. Scampton, I.G.; C. Bembridge and T. Dunn, Tylers. A hearty and cordial vote of thanks to Bro. Stretton, the retiring W.M., expressive of the grateful appreciation of the integrity and fidelity with which he had discharged the onerous duties of Master, terminated the business of the lodge, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet. The brethren were much indebted to Bros. A. Palmer, T. Wykes, J. T. Thorp, R. Taylor, and the brothers Chamberlain, for the time spent in harmony and good feeling, and the old adage that "He who begins well has half finished his work," proves a happy demonstration of the success attending the first effort of the newly installed Worshipful Master.

BRADFORD.—Lodge of Hope (No. 302).—The annual re-union of this lodge was held on Friday, the 18th inst., in the Masonic Hall, Godwin-street, and fully sustained the prestige of this ancient lodge for its hospitality and catering for the enjoyment of the lady friends of the brethren at this festive season. The arrangements, so far as we could see, were all that could be desired, and gave the greatest satisfaction, the playing of the quadrille band being highly extolled, and was everything that could be desired by the most fastidious terpsichorean. The brethren, and Bro. B. Broughton, W.M. may congratulate themselves for having provided such an evening's amusement as has seldom been surpassed in the Lodge of Hope. The re-union was numerous attended, and we noticed amongst the company, Bros. M. Rhodes, P.M., P. Prov. G.S.W., (the Mayor of Bradford); W. T. McGowen, M.M., (Town Clerk); T. Hill, P.M., P. Prov. G.J.W.; J. Gaunt, P.M.; A. M. Matthews, P.M.; J. Green, P.M.; H. Butterworth, P.M.; C. H. Taylor, P.M.; A. Hunter, P.M.; J. D. Sugden, P.M.; W. W. Barlow, P.M.; G. O. Richardson, P.M.; C.

Brook, W.M. Harmony; J. Procter, W.M. Eccleshill; J. Foster, W.M. Pentalfa; Geo. Althorp, W.M. Shakespeare; S. P. Firth, F. Willey, J. G. Hutchinson, and F. W. Booth, of the Chapter of Charity. The brethren also, as is their annual custom, gave a juvenile ball on Monday evening following, to their children and their friends, which also afforded a great amount of pleasure as well as amusement, all the children being presented with a small souvenir, which seemed to give them great fun and hilarity, and will no doubt often be associated in their young thoughts with the pleasant evening spent amongst their Masonic friends.

SOUTHAMPTON.—The Lodge of Peace and Harmony (No. 359).—The brethren of this lodge celebrated the festival of St. John on Monday, the 19th inst., when Bro. G. H. Burtenshaw was installed as the Worshipful Master for the year ensuing. Bro. Alderman Payne, Past Master of the lodge, and one of those who assisted to resuscitate it on its removal from Romsey to Shirley, now upwards of a quarter of a century since, performed this duty in the presence of some thirteen or fourteen Installed Masters, the Deputy Prov. Grand Master and Prov. Grand Secretary, Bros. Stebbing and Hickman (two of the Past Grand Officers of England), Bro. W. Bemister, P.M., and, as a Mason of more than forty years' standing, the "father" of Masonry in Southampton; Bros. Rooth, Alfred Miner, Weston (2), Wilkinson, Barford, Thomas, Waters, Coles, Adams, &c. For the admirable and impressive manner in which this duty was performed, Bro. Payne was awarded a most cordial vote of thanks. The Worshipful Master afterwards invested his officers as follows:—Bros. Clark, S.W.; C. Dyer, J.W.; Stebbing, Treas.; Alfred Miller, Sec.; Bemister, Direc. of Cer.; Martin, S.D.; Cross, J.D.; John Gidden, I.G.; Biggs, Tyler; and Norris and Vane, Assistant ditto. Bro. Dartnall served the banquet in the evening, which was attended by upwards of 50 brethren, and gave great satisfaction; some most interesting addresses were delivered bearing upon the past history and present prospects of the lodge, which is one of the largest in the province; and Bro. Sharpe, the Prov. Grand Organist (who had also taken part in the earlier ceremonies of the day) giving some selections, in his most able style, upon the fifty guinea harmonium just purchased by the Royal Gloucester Lodge. Though the lodge of Peace and Harmony during the past year unfortunately lost its Master by death its influence in the town and district has been maintained, Bro. Coles, the I.P.M., having been indefatigable in his exertions and cordially supported by the Past Masters and officers of the lodge.

LIVERPOOL.—Alliance Lodge (No. 667).—The brethren of this lodge assembled in great numbers at the Masonic Temple, Hope-street, Liverpool, on Tuesday afternoon, the 20th inst., the special business of the afternoon being the installation of Bro. William Charles Bulman, the W.M. elect. The chair was taken about half-past three o'clock, by Bro. J. E. Skillicorn, W.M., who was ably supported by Bros. J. Devaynes, P.M.; J. Bolton, P.M.; W. C. Bulman, S.W.; T. Ockleshaw, J.W.; W. Doyle, P.J.G.D., P.M., Treas.; J. E. Jackson, Sec.; G. S. Willings, S.D.; R. Foulds, J.D.; J. Ellis, I.G.; H. Firth, S.; P. Ball, Tyler. Amongst the members present were the following:—Bros. J. Wainwright, H. Eastham, W. Langbottom, J. Yeatman, E. Carter, R. Owens, McDavies, E. Light, J. Archdeacon, D. Weir, D. Lloyd, J. V. Grant, D. S. Buchanan, W. Brittain, Squire Chapman, Y. Reid, J. Romero, T. Peake, W. J. Barry, R. Dangle, R. Bennett. There were present among the visitors Bros. J. Skeaf, P.G.D.; J. Hamer, P.P.G. Treas.; J. B. Lambert, P.P.G.D.; T. Chesworth, P.M. 724; T. Clark, P.M. 673; W. Shortis, W.M. 724; Peter M. Larsen, P.M. 673; T. Jackson, P.M. 580; R. R. Martin, W.M. 1094; J. Loft-house, P.M. 950; E. Rothwell, S.W. 1356; J. Wood, Treas. 1094; J. A. Rodriguez, 195; R. C. Yelland, S.D. 1094; J. Busfield, 216; G. J. Townsend, 1086; K. Fairclough, 1356; T. Evans, 1023; G. Musker, 1182; and D. Morris, 673. After two candidates had been initiated into the mysteries of the Order by the retiring W.M., the chair of installing Master was taken by Bro. W. Doyle, P.J.G.D., who proceeded to place Bro. William C. Bulman in the position of W.M., to which position he had been elected by the unanimous vote of the brethren. The ceremony, always impressive in almost every circumstance, was specially so by reason of the masterly and effective manner in which it was performed by Bro. Doyle, and the same efficiency marked his delivery of the charges to the following officers, invested by the newly-chaired W.M.:—Bros. J. E. Skillicorn, I.P.M.; T. Ockleshaw, S.W.; J. E. Jackson, J.W.; G. S. Willings, Sec.; R. Foulds, S.D.; J. Ellis, J.D.; T. Yeatman, Org.; Henry Firth, I.G.; Squire Chapman, and A. Bucknall, Stewards. It may be stated that Bro. Doyle had been unanimously re-appointed Treasurer for the third time. Bro. P. Ball was re-elected and re-invested Tyler of the lodge for the ensuing year. The brethren subsequently sat down to an excellent banquet, served in the lodge room, and during the evening a very handsome P.M.'s jewel was presented to Bro. Skillicorn, I.P.M. The jewel, supplied by Bro. George Kenning, of 2, Monument place, 18-carat, hall-marked, was the object of universal admiration, and it was generally admitted that no more chaste and rare specimen of workmanship could have been furnished. The jewel bore the following inscription:—"To Bro. John Edward Skillicorn, I.P.M., this jewel is respectfully presented by brethren of Alliance Lodge, No. 667, of Antient Free and Accepted Masons, in testimony of the warm regard towards him as a man and a Mason. 20th January, 1874." The presentation was made by the W.M. in an excellent speech, and Bro. Skillicorn, acknowledged the gift in a manner at once thoughtful and full of point. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to with unwonted enthusiasm, and capital harmony was furnished by Bros. T. J. Hughes, Evans, Yeatman, and Skeaf, who presided at the pianoforte.

WILLIAM PRESTON LODGE (No. 766).—A meeting of this lodge was held at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, E.C., on Thursday the 22nd January, 1874. The following brethren were present:—Bros. W. The business of the evening consisted of the passing of Bro. Honey, the raising of Bro. Partridge, and the initiation of Bros. W. Johnston, Bro. Francis Ince, and Bro. S. J. Emley, the ceremonies being worked by the W.M. The following motion was duly proposed, seconded, and carried unanimously:—"That this lodge do sanction and support a petition presented to the Grand Chapter of England for a warrant to hold a chapter to be attached to this lodge, and to be called the William Preston Royal Arch Chapter." The sum of £5 5s. was duly voted to the W.M., he having consented to stand as Steward for the lodge at the forthcoming festival of the Boys' School. Several candidates were proposed for initiation at the next lodge meeting. All Masonic business being ended the lodge was duly closed and the brethren adjourned to a sumptuous banquet presided over by the W.M., Bro. W. Worrell, after which the usual Masonic toasts were given, and the evening greatly enlivened by several excellent songs and recitations by various brethren.

DEAL.—Wellington Lodge (No. 784).—On Thursday, the 8th inst., the installation of the W.M. of Wellington Lodge, took place in the Lodge Room, Park-street, Deal. This interesting ceremony was very ably performed by the retiring W.M. Bro. A. E. Ralph, whose working was admirable. After Bro. J. M. Browning had been duly installed into the chair of K.S., he proceeded to appoint his officers for the ensuing year as follows:—Bros. A. E. Ralph, P.M.; Woon, S.W.; F. J. Mercer, J.W.; Rev. C. E. S. Woolmer, P.P.G.S.D., Chaplain; J. E. Apps, P.M., Treasurer, W. M. Cavell, P.M., Secretary; T. Paul, D.C.; T. J. Woodruff, and F. Fitch, Stewards; T. Norris, Tyler. At the conclusion of the business of the lodge the brethren adjourned to the Royal Hotel, where a sumptuous banquet was served by the respected hostess, Mrs. Allen, in her usual first-class style, the viands and wines being excellent. Amongst the visitors present were Bros. R. J. Emmerson, W.M., Sandwich; Fry, W.M., Dover; Rev. J. B. Harrison, W.M., Walmer; and Brazier, P.M., and Wootton, P.M., Margate. After the cloth was removed, the W.M. gave the usual loyal, Masonic, and patriotic toasts, which were duly responded to by several very able speeches, one by Chaplain Bro. Rev. C. E. S. Woolmer, on the Masonic Charities being especially remarkable for the eloquent appeal to every brother and the Masonic body generally to contribute, particularly pointing out the claims of the Girls' Schools. The remaining toasts having been duly proposed and acknowledged, a very pleasant and agreeable evening was brought to a close.

ROYAL OAK LODGE (No. 871).—On Thursday, Jan. 22nd, at the White Swan Tavern, 217, High-street Deptford, the regular meeting of this prosperous lodge was held. Bro. W. The minutes were read and unanimously confirmed, and signed by the W.M. Ballots, being taken separately, were unanimous in favour of the admission of Messrs. John Christopher Craig, and Frederick Hayward Burr, as candidates for initiation into Freemasonry and members of this lodge, and they being in attendance were duly initiated into ancient Freemasonry. The ceremony was beautifully rendered. Bros. J. H. Rodell, W. Atkins, W. Cockle, W. A. Summers, 1423; and D. Sullivan, 1423, were in an admirable manner passed to the second degree. The veteran Secretary, Bro. Frederick Walters, P.M., took the chair, and in a faultless, solemn, and impressive manner, raised Bros. W. Elgood, and W. Mitchell, 1326, to the third degree. The bye-laws were read. The elections were unanimous in favour of G. Andrews, S.W., for W.M., W. Andrews, P.M., Treas. re-elected Treas.; J. Bavin, P.M. re-elected Tyler; Bros. Ten guineas voted from lodges to charity fund, the initiation fee was increased to eight guineas, and the joining fee to two guineas by the unanimous vote of the lodge. Some candidates were proposed for initiation and some brothers as joining members. In addition to Bro. Leviner Lemo, who represents the lodge as its Steward for loyal Benevolent Institution, Bro. Benjamin James Cole, was also elected a Steward to act in conjunction with Bro. Leviner Lemo, at the festival to be held on Wednesday, January 28th. They were expected to take up an average goodlist. The occupants of the chair who had done the work, viz. W.M. and Secretary were warmly congratulated and complimented, for the correct manner they each had worked the ceremonies in the different degrees. All business being ended the lodge was closed. The usual banquet and dessert were then served. The regular toasts were given and responded to. An agreeable re-union was brought to a pleasant close. The long list of visitors comprised Bros. J. T. BASES.—Ancholme Lodge (No. 1000).—The brethren of the Ancholme Lodge met in the Town Hall, Brigg, on the afternoon of the 5th inst., for the purpose of installing Bro. W. Pigott, as Worshipful Master for the ensuing year. The ceremony of installation was most ably performed by Bro. Walter Reynolds, P.M., Minerva Lodge, Hull. The newly installed Master appointed Bros. Cave and Fryer as Wardens. The brethren then adjourned to the Angel Hotel, where a sumptuous banquet was provided by Mr. J. G. Kirkham.

G. T. W. Mugliston, the S.W. and W.M. elect, and one of the founders of the lodge, last whom as occupant of the chair for the ensuing twelve months, a better selection could not possibly have been made. Shortly after four o'clock the lodge was opened by the whole of his officers, viz.: Bro. G. T. W. Mugliston, S.W.; G. E. Slee, J.W.; Geo. Levick, Treasurer; C. W. Ashdown, P.M. and Sec.; T. S. Morlock, I.P.M.; R. G. Owen, S.D.; B. Cudick, J.D.; M. G. Stevens, D.C.; H. Carter, W.S.; Geo. Hollington, I.G.; and W. Steadman, Tyler. The following members of the lodge were also present, viz.: Bros. the Rev. Jas. Knaggs, E. T. Dix, James Wood, Thos. J. Barnes, Wm. Grover, R. J. Donovan, Thos. T. Kirby, T. S. Taylor, Wm. Shearman, and H. N. Taylor, besides a goodly number of visitors, who had assembled to do honour to the worthy and deservedly popular W.M. elect. The minutes of the last regular meeting, together with those of a lodge of emergency, held on the 8th inst., having been read and confirmed, the report of the audit committee was submitted and duly approved. The Lodge having been opened respectively in the second and third degrees, the W.M. elect was presented by Bro. John G. Stevens, D.C. to the W.M., Bro. Lacey, to receive at his hands the benefit of installation, which beautiful Ceremony Bro. Lacey immediately proceeded to perform, and in the presence of a board of sixteen Installed Masters. Bro. Mugliston was duly placed in the chair of K.S., according to ancient custom. The Board of Installed Masters having been closed, the brethren were re-admitted, and the newly installed W.M., duly proclaimed and saluted in each degree. He then proceeded to appoint and invest the following brethren as his officers for the ensuing year, viz.:—Bros. Charles Lacey, I.P.M.; G. E. Slee, S.W.; R. G. Owen, I.W.; Geo. Levick (re-elected) Treasurer; C. W. Ashdown, P.M., Secretary; Benjamin Cudick, S.D.; Geo. Hollington, J.D.; Henry Carter, I.G.; J. G. Stevens, P.M., D.C.; Thos. Taylor, Steward; and W. Steadman, (re-elected) Tyler. The ceremony was then summed and concluded, having been rendered throughout by Bro. Lacey in a manner which elicited the loud applause of the brethren present. The newly installed W.M. then rose and said that the first official duty he was called on in his new capacity to perform, was a very arduous one indeed, and he was quite sure the brethren of the lodge would entertain the same feelings as himself in this matter. He had the happiness and very great pleasure of presenting Bro. Lacey, on behalf of the brethren of the lodge, a very handsome Past Master's jewel as a recognition of his very valuable services as the first W.M. of the "Langthorne" Lodge. They were all aware of the admirable manner in which the duties of the chair had been performed by Bro. Lacey during the past year, and of the exertions of that Brother in endeavouring to obtain a warrant for the lodge, the consequence of a spurious lodge in the town of Stratford some few years since, rendering the place anything but popular with the authorities at Grand Lodge. But, thanks to the efforts of Bro. Lacey, in conjunction with the other founders, the "Langthorne" Lodge had now passed the first year of its existence and was making steady progress, and in the possession of that valuable jewel on his breast, he (the W.M.) earnestly trusted that Bro. Lacey might long be spared to wear it, and to be numbered amongst the Past Masters of the Langthorne Lodge. Bro. Lacey, in brief but feeling terms, expressed his gratitude to the brethren for this mark of their esteem; and added that so long as it pleased the G.A.O.T.U. to endow him with health and strength his services would always be at their disposal. Letters of apology for non-attendance were read from Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary, and Bro. the Rev. R. J. Simpson, P.G. Chaplain, both of whom are honorary members, expressing regret at being unable to be present, and promising to visit the lodge on some future occasion. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren and visitors adjourned to an adjoining room, where an excellent banquet awaited them, served by the worthy host, Bro. Morley, in capital style. The newly-installed W.M., Bro. Mugliston, occupied the chair, and the genial manner in which the duties of that office were discharged by him during the evening could not fail to convince the brethren that they had the right man in the right place. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given in succession from the chair, and duly honoured. In proposing the health of the W.M., Bro. Lacey adverted to the happy selection the brethren had made in electing Bro. Mugliston to occupy that proud position, and trusted that he might enjoy a happy and prosperous year of office. The toast having been enthusiastically received, the W.M. thanked the brethren for the very hearty manner in which they had been pleased to respond to the toast of his health, and assured them that during his year of office nothing should be wanting on his part to maintain and uphold the honour and reputation of the lodge. "The Masonic Charities," was most ably responded to by Bro. John G. Stevens, who in eloquent terms pointed out the duty incumbent upon every Freemason, to support the Charitable Institutions connected with the order, the result of his appeal being, that nearly every brother present gave in his name as a subscriber to the list which Bro. Stevens will present in his capacity of Steward at the forthcoming festival of the Benevolent Institution for aged and decayed Freemasons, shortly about to be held. Some excellent songs and recitations were given during the evening, which throughout was a most enjoyable one, the brethren separating in perfect peace and harmony soon after 11 p.m. The visitors who honoured the lodge with their presence on this occasion were as follows, viz.: Bros. E. Jex, P.M. 1459; H. G. Sisley, P.M. 1076; A. Robbins, P.M. 1036; S. Watkins, P.M. 212, and 1076; B. B. Brayshaw, P.M. 1076; F. Wakefield, P.M. 548; F. Lattrell, P.M. 1056; H. S. Masterman, P.M. 41; John W. Dually, P.M. 1178; W. Wainwright, P.M. 933; W. R. Marsh, P.M. 933; S. Priestley, S.W. 1074; L. Heath, 180; J. Norman, 174; A. Uloth, 275; E. G. Legge, 1196; J. E. Prior, 1228; H. B. Holliday, J.W. 1076; T. Cobu, J.W. 192; G. F. Henley, 186; G. Lewis, 1376; J. Boulton, 1228; W. C. Jewby, 1076; H. Boyes Mugliston, 1228; and M. Sherwin, 1076. The last named brother presided at the harmonium throughout the ceremony of installation, and also contributed greatly to the harmony of the evening.

IVY LODGE (No. 1441).—The third regular meeting of this youthful lodge, in which, from being well acquainted with the pure Masonic principles which actuate its founders, we feel particularly interested, took place on Tuesday, the 30th January, at the Windsor Castle Tavern, Southwark Bridge-road. At the first meeting of the lodge, three gentlemen were initiated into the Order; at the second, four presented themselves for the same honour; and on this occasion three more were successfully balloted for and admitted, while the seven brethren previously admitted, without exception, were present to receive the degrees to which they were respectively entitled. The lodge, this evening, was opened at six o'clock by Bro. C. Smith, W.M., whose officers were in punctual attendance to his call. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, and the lodge was then opened in the second degree, when Bros. H. Cox, T. F. R. Smith, and C. Mott, were examined and intrusted with what enabled them to demand and obtain re-admission to the lodge, when it had been opened in the third degree. The W.M. worked the sublime degree for the first time in the Ivy Lodge, which he did in a very beautiful and impressive manner. Many of our readers are doubtless acquainted with Bro. Smith's style of working, and they will endorse our remark when we state that his manner of delivering the solemn ritual is not to be surpassed. The lodge was afterwards resumed to the first degree, and Bros. C. Pantlin, G. Skegg, W. C. Ware, and J. Elmer, were examined, and having shown proficiency, were entrusted with sufficient knowledge to enable them to return to the lodge, when resumed to the second degree, and claim the privilege of being Crafted, a rank which was duly conferred. The lodge having once more been resumed to the first degree, Messrs. J. S. Dane, W. Doherty, and Gottfried Plock were separately introduced, and initiated into the order, the W.M. displaying the same excellence of working in the second and first, that he had previously shown in the third degree. After the usual enquiries the lodge was closed in due form and with solemn prayer. Simple refreshments were afterwards served, and a rational and most agreeable evening was spent by the brethren of the Ivy Lodge, and several visitors who enjoyed the advantage of being present on this very interesting occasion. Bro. C. A. Cottebrune, Grand Pursuivant, an honorary member of the lodge, was present, as were also Bros. George Matlock, S.W.; J. J. Cantle, J.W.; C. S. Jolly, Sec.; C. F. Poupard, S.D.; Louis Cornelissen, J.D.; W. Ashwell, I.G.; John Noke, No. 87, acting P.M.; and George T. Fox, P.M. and P.Z., Tyler.

Ancient and Accepted Rite.

MANCHESTER.—Palatine Chapter Rose Croix.—A special meeting was summoned for Saturday morning, 24th January, in order to allow the members of the Scottish jurisdiction to witness this beautiful ceremony, as worked in England, many of the Scottish brethren being in Manchester and having assisted at the Royal Order meeting the day previous. The Chapter was opened at the appointed hour by Illus. Bro. Hyde Pullen, 33°, as M.W.S.; Major Shadwell Clerke, 33°, as Prelate; Capt. W. D. Smith, 30°, (M.W.S.) as 1st Gen.; Shepher Smith, 31° and G.; C. Fitzgerald Matier, 30°, Master of Ceremonies, and the deputations from the S.G.C. 33° of Scotland, and of England and Wales was announced, and the "arch of steel" being formed the Ill. brethren entered in procession as follows:—W. Mann, 33° Sc.; Dr. Hamilton, 33° E. and W.; L. Mackersey, 33°; Captain N. G. Philips, 33°; Lord James Murray, 33°; and the Sov. G. Com., Bro. Vigue 33°. The ceremony was then proceeded with, the candidate, Bro. Craxton having been previously balloted for. The duties of the various officers were most efficiently discharged, indeed we have seldom if ever been more impressed with the beauties of this degree. Bro. Hyde Pullen, M.W.S.; Major Clerke as Prelate, and afterwards as Raphael; and Bro. Matier as Grand Marshal, were perfect in the ritual, and gave entire satisfaction to the Ill. visitors, who expressed themselves as highly pleased and gratified. The third point was held, and the brethren adjourned to a sumptuous banquet, which was presided over by Bro. McDowell Smith, 30°, M.W.S. In addition to the names already mentioned, Ill. Bros. Rawson, 32°; Fendelow, 32°; Sir M. Nepeau, 32°; Romaine Callender, 31°; Brockbank, 31°; Duffield, 30°; and a host of members of the High Grades, that time or space will not permit us to record. The customary toasts followed, and were heartily responded to by the brothers, many of whom had to leave by early trains for their several destinations, in some cases many hundred miles away. We can only say, we have never been at a more successful meeting, which we believe is the only instance on record of the joint visit of two sister Supreme Councils, 33° to a Chapter of Rose Croix, on which fact we must congratulate the candidate, who may well be proud of this event in his Masonic life. We must also express our thanks to the Palatine Chapter, and its M.W.S., for the kindness and hospitality with which the visitors were entertained, and our pleasure at the true Masonic feeling which actuated each member.

Royal Order of Scotland.

INAUGURATION OF THE PROV. G. LODGE FOR THE COUNTIES PALATINE OF LANCASTER AND CHESTER.

On the 4th July, 1873, the Grand Lodge of the Royal Order granted a warrant for a Provincial Grand Lodge of R.S.Y.C.S., and also for a Provincial Grand Master's Chapter of H.R.M. for Lancashire and Cheshire, and appointed Wm. Romaine Callender, Esq., J.P., D.L., F.R.S., etc., as Provincial Grand Master. Owing to several unforeseen circumstances, it was impossible to fix an earlier day than 23rd January that would suit the majority of the brethren desirous of being present at this most interesting occasion.

The meeting was held at the Freemasons, Hall, Cooper-street, Manchester, at three o'clock. The Grand Lodge was opened by Bro George Murray, 31°, G. Treasurer, as acting D.G.M. and Governor; Bro. Alex. Hay, 31°, and Wm. Mann, 33°, in the chairs of Senior and Junior G. Wardens, and Bro. J. B. Douglas, 31°, Grand Secretary. These brethren composed the deputation from the Grand Lodge of the Royal Order. The Supreme Grand Council was presented by the Rt. Hon. Lord J. C. P. Murray, 33°, D.G.M. of Scotland; Ill. Bros. S. Somerville of Ampherlaw, 30°, P.G.W., and L. Mackersy, 33°, P.G.M.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of London and the home counties was represented by the following distinguished members of the 33° of England and Wales; Ill. Bros. Dr. Hamilton, 33°; Prov. G.M.; Capt. Philips, 33°; Major Clerke, 33°; Hyde Pullen, 33°, also by Bros. S. Rawson, Prov. S.G.M.; and Rev. A. B. Frazer, Prov. C.P.G.

Among the brethren of high degree present we also noticed, Sir Molyneux Nepean, High Sheriff; Ill. Bro. Vigne, 33°, S.G. Com., of Dorset; Charles Fendelow, 32°; Major Barlow, 32°; G. P. Brockbank; C. Fitzgerald Matier; Thos. Entwistle; John Duffield; John Chadwick; Samuel White; and others.

The following candidates, whose names had previously been approved of by the Executive Committee, were then introduced, and advanced as brethren of H.R.M., namely, Bros. S. Gibb Smith, Dr. Spratley, G. H. Wilsord, J. Martin Ruther, J. T. Tweedale, W. Leader, J. E. Hall, George Higgins, Robert Harwood, Thomas Wilson, and Samuel Chatwood.

The following brethren performed the beautiful ceremony in a manner seldom, if ever, excelled in the annals of the Royal Order: Bros. G. Murray, as T.; Hay, S.W.; Mann, J.W.; Matier, Grand Introductor; Hyde Pullen, Grand Examiner; Entwistle, G. Guard; and Hargreaves, Organist.

The Grand Lodge of the R.S.Y.C.P., was then opened, and the before-mentioned brethren were promoted to the honour of Knighthood, and received the accolade from the presiding officer. The chair was then taken by Lord James C. P. Murray, who called on the Grand Secretary to read the dispensation from Grand Lodge authorising the meeting. This done, Bro. William Romaine Callender was presented and duly installed in the chair of P.G.M., with the usual formalities. The appointment of officers was then proceeded with by the newly-installed P.G.M., who nominated as Deputy P.G.M. Bro. Fitzgerald Matier, P.G.S.W.; Bro. Brockbank, P.G.J.W.; Bro. Entwistle, P.G. Sec.; Bro. Chadwick, P.G. Treas.; Bro. Duffield, P.G.S.B.; Bro. Prince, P.G.B.B.; Bro. Major Wilson, P.G. Marshal; Bro. Moore, D.P.G. Marshal; Bro. Hargreaves, P.G. Std.; Bro. White, P.G.G.; Bro. Gibb Smith, and as Deputy Guards Bros. Sly and Walker. Each brother in turn received the collar and jewel of office, and an appropriate address from Lord James Murray.

A hearty and cordial vote of thanks was then offered to the distinguished visitors, who had come long distances to be present and who had added so much to the success of this meeting. After a few minutes of routine, the Grand Lodge was duly closed and the brethren separated to meet again at the banquet, which was held at the Palatine Hotel. The chair was taken by Bro. W. Romaine Callender, supported by Lord James Murray on his right, and Bros. Matier and Dr. Hamilton on his left, while dispersed along the tables were the other R.W. and Ill. brethren, whose names have already been mentioned as having been present.

The usual loyal toasts followed, proposed by the chair, and special mention was made of H.H.H. the Duke of Edinburgh and his Imperial Bride. The toast of "The Grand Lodge of the Royal Order" was responded to by Bro. George Murray, one of the oldest surviving Knights in the world, who simply expressed the great pleasure he and the other members of the deputation feel at taking part in the inauguration of the P. G. Lodge of Lancashire and Cheshire under such auspicious circumstances, and under the leadership of a P.G.M. so universally beloved as Bro Callender. He had every confidence that the Royal Order would flourish in the northern district of England as well well as it had done in London. Bro. Lord James Murray, returned thanks for the S.G.C. 33° of Scotland, and Bro. Vigne, for that of England and Wales. In his reply, Bro. Vigne, mentioned that the S.G.C. 33° had elevated Bro. Callender to the rank of 31°, which announcement was received with great applause.

The toast of "Success to the New Provincial Grand Lodge and its P.G.M." was given by Lord James Murray, and responded to by Bro. Callender, who in a most able and comprehensive address, gave an interesting account of the success that had attended the other degrees of Masonry in the province, and expressed his hope, that in like manner, the P.G.L. of Lancashire and Cheshire should, by the laudable spirit of emulation, be second to none in the world, not even to that P.G. Lodge, the health of whose P.G.M. he was then going to propose. He begged to give "The Health of Dr. Hamilton, P.G.M. of London."

Dr. Hamilton returned thanks, and hoped the only rivalry between the two P.G. Lodges would be the desire to excel one another in improvement and discipline. The next toast was "The Health of Bro. Matier, Deputy P.G.M.," which was proposed by Bro. Mann, who thanked him for the untiring energy and zeal displayed by him in the formation of this P.G. Lodge.

Bro. Matier briefly responded, and trusted to give the brethren for the future that satisfaction that from their hearty response to the toast of his health he appeared to have done in the past.

Bro. Vigne then requested permission to propose the health of a neighbour of his from Dorsetshire, "Sir Molyneux Nepean," who is 32° of Scotland, and had travelled all night to be at the meeting.

In responding, the Illustrious Brother mentioned the fact that he had been a Mason for over forty years, and belonged to several English lodges, as well as to Scottish ones. He expressed his great pleasure at being present, and his gratification at the success of the inaugural meeting of the Royal Order in Manchester.

Several other toasts followed, and the brethren separated at an early hour.

Red Cross of Constantine.

LIVERPOOL.—Liverpool Conclave (No. 55).—The usual periodical meeting of this conclave was held at the Adelphi Hotel, Liverpool, on Friday, the 16th inst. Eminent Sir Knight H. M. Molyneux, M.P.S., was in his place, and amongst others present were, Ill. Sir Knight J. K. Smith, D.I. General, unattached; Eminent Sir Knight T. Clark, V.G.; Sir Knights W. Doyle, S.G.; R. Brown, J.G.; R. Washington, H.P.; J. Wood, Treas.; R. Young, Recorder; J. B. Mackenzie, P.; P. Ball, Sentinel; H. James, W.; Cron D.W.; Winstanley, I.W.; Robinson, Shakespeare, H. Burrows, No. 77, and others. The business before the conclave was of a formal character. The assembled Knights of the Order afterwards sat down to an excellent repast, and during the evening the usual loyal and knightly toasts were proposed. The M.P.S., in happy terms, gave "The Healths of Ill. Sir Knight Dr. Smith, (the Chairman of the Ball Committee), Sir Knight D. W. Winstanley, the Secretary, and Sir Knight Brown, the Treasurer," referring in terms of the highest commendation to their valuable services, which had contributed so largely to the satisfactory and successful result of the gathering. The toast was suitably acknowledged. Several capital songs and recitations were given by Sir Knights Brown, Shakespeare, Young, James, and others.

GLASGOW.—Star Lodge (No. 219).—On Monday, 19th inst., there was a large gathering of members of the Star Lodge. The chair was taken by Bro. J. Wilson, R.W.M., who was supported by Bros. J. Allstow, D.M.; J. Logan, S.W.; J. Hearn, J.W. On the dais were Bros. G. Sinclair, P.M. 27; G. Wilson, Chaplain 27; J. Bain, P.G.B.B.; D. Reid, R.W.M. 565; G. Wheeler, 75; and J. Arnold, 455. By the request of the R.W.M., Bro. Bain, P.M., initiated Messrs. Donald McNichol and Pickles, into the mysteries of the first degree, in a very careful manner. Bro. G. Wilson, of 27, then rose and said he had been requested by Bro. G. Turnbull to ask the lodge to accept of the portrait of an old and highly respected member of the lodge, the late Bro. James Campbell. As Bro. Turnbull was too modest to undertake this duty, he had accepted the office with a great deal of pleasure, as for many years he had had the pleasure of being intimately acquainted with their deceased brother, and he was fully conscious of his great exertions on behalf of Star Lodge in the days of her adversity. It was mainly owing to his exertions, and those of Bro. Maxwell (who he was glad to see present), that the Star had finally shone out with such effulgence as now graced its meetings. The R.W.M. said, on behalf of the lodge, he accepted with gratitude this handsome present. He, too, had long had the honour of knowing their lamented brother. The portrait, all must admit, was not only life-like, but perfect as a work of art. It reflected great credit on Bro. Turnbull, first as an artist, and secondly, as a brother of the Order, to make them so valuable a gift. When they remembered that Bro. Turnbull was not even a member of their lodge, but of Mother Kilwinning, No. 9, it enhanced the value of the gift, but now the least thing they could do would be to make him an honorary member. Bro. Turnbull was then affiliated, after which he briefly thanked the lodge for the kind way in which they had received his gift. The R.W.M. then called attention to Bro. Maxwell, the oldest member of the lodge, and for many years a co-worker with Bro. Campbell. Bro. Maxwell replied, thanking them for their kind remembrance of old members. Their day for work was now past, but he was glad to see that the lodge still prospering. The R.W.M. gave "The P.G.L. and the Provincial Fund of Benevolence." Bro. G. Sinclair, Treasurer of the fund, replied, stating that the satisfactory progress the fund was now making. During the two years he had held the office, their fund had increased from £100 to £450. They had now doubled the amount of the former gifts, in all cases where the recipients were found to be worthy. He was proud to say that the Glasgow Provincial Benevolent Fund, was now the first in the Kingdom. The Master said that, though last, not least, he had to call attention to their two "new laid stones." He felt sure from the way in which they had gone through the ceremony, that they would ultimately become good Masons. Bros. W. Nichols and Pickles, suitably acknowledged the compliment, and trusted they should never disgrace the Star or cause its light to be diminished on their account.

An emergency meeting of the Star Lodge was held on Monday, the 19th of January, to reduce the large amount of work on hand, consisting of three initiations, four ings, all of which were performed by Bro. Gilles in his usual effective style.

GLASGOW.—Thistle and Rose Lodge (No. 73).—On Tuesday, January 20th, there was a very large attendance both of members and visitors. Bro. G. Weston, R.W.M. presided; assisted by G. M. Donald, I.P.M.; Jas. Balfour, P.M. 332, acting S.W.; and McGregor, J.W.; W. Walton T.; and R. Richards, Secretary. On the dais were also Bros. A. Wright, R.W.M. 193; W. Philips, P.M. 275, P.G.I.G.; G. Thallon, P.M. 362, P.G.J.D.; J. Black, R.W.M. 361; and D. Reid, R.W.M. 465. The work consisted of passing and raising. At the request of the R.W.M., Bro. W. Wright, R.W.M. of 103, passed Bro. R. Pearson to the degree of Fellow Craft, after which Bro. Black, of the Saint Clair Lodge, asked to have a gentleman, a native of Sweden, raised to the sublime degree of M.M. Bro. John Hallgren was then introduced, and Bro. G. Thallon, I.P.M. of the St. Clair, performed the ceremonies. Arrangements were made for the forthcoming festival of the lodge, and Bro. Black thanked them for their kindness in raising this candidate for his lodge.

GLASGOW.—Commercial Lodge (No. 360) met in their own Hall, 19, Croy-place, Glasgow, on Friday, the 16th of January, Dr. Martin, R.W.M., in the chair. There was considerable lodge business to transact, at the conclusion of which Bro. Munro said he had now to ask them to give two special votes of thanks to Bro. Adams, their late Treasurer, and to their Worshipful Master. For some time the lodge had been in want of a set of working tools. Bro. Adams knowing this had got a very nice set made for them, and the R.W.M., Dr. Martin, had also purchased a very handsome set in a mahogany case, from Bro. George Kenning's Glasgow House, so they were doubly blest, and he asked them to give a hearty vote of thanks to each of these brethren, who unknown to the lodge, as well as to each other, had thus kindly supplied their wants. The tools were then handed round for inspection, and elicited the commendation of all present. The R.W.M. then requested Bro. Munro, his Depute Master, to work the 4th degree for him, and use the new working tools he had presented. Bro. Thellar was accordingly introduced and raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason, in a very impressive manner, by Bro. J. Munro. Altogether Lodge business may well feel proud of its present position, and of its prospects for 1874.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Union (No. 832).—The annual festival of this lodge was held in the Assembly Rooms, Bath-st., on Friday, the 16th inst. Both the hall and galleries were completely filled by the Masons with their wives and friends. Representatives were present from nearly every lodge in the province, Lodge 408 being very numerous for their numbers. The chair was filled by the R.W.M., Bro. J. McNair, in a neat speech, set forth the beauties of Freemasonry, and also explained the present position of the lodge, which is evidently prospering under the care of the Rev. Ferguson. He gave one characteristic speech, in the course of which he related several instances that had come under his own knowledge of the good of Freemasonry, in a worldly or pecuniary point of view, and the moral duties it inculcated were calculated to lead them into the paths of virtue and wisdom. Bro. Mitchell, P.M., also gave an address on the important duties taught in Freemasonry. The concert was well sustained by several artists employed, and an assembly of dancing was kept up till late in the morning.

GLASGOW.—St. Andrew's Chapter (No. 69) met on Tuesday, the 13th inst. In the absence of the First Principal, Comp. Humphries, Comp. Halket, Z. 113, presided. A lodge of Mark Masters was then when Comp. John H. Fish, master, and W. H. Ellis, master mariner, and J. Gibson, were advanced to that degree, and I. Dobbie, P.Z., performing the ceremony, acting as S.W.; D. Campbell, W. Wheeler, S.D. As those gentlemen about to proceed to sea, a lodge of Mark Masters was opened, and thereafter a Holy Royal Arch Chapter, J. Halket as Z.; J. Dobbie, H.; D. Campbell, J.; G. W. Wheeler, H.S.; J. Balfour, 2nd. S.; D. Fleming, 3rd S.; W. T. Oliver, S.E. At the conclusion of the ceremonies, Comp. Campbell, as the Senior Officer of the Chapter, proposed Comp. G. W. Wheeler as an honorary member. For the last two years they had been so much indebted to him for his constant attendance and services that he really thought he was one of their own members. He thought it high time he was made one. The Scribe E having seconded the motion, Comp. Wheeler was affiliated by Comp. Halket, and the chapter was closed in due form.

GLASGOW.—St. Mungo Encampment met on Monday, the 19th inst., when business of importance to the future welfare of the encampment was discussed, and a large attendance of the members was requested at the next meeting, when there are six candidates desirous of taking this exalted and chivalrous degree.

INVERNESS.—St. John's Lodge (No. 6).—The annual meeting and dinner in connection with the St. John's Lodge of Freemasons, Inverness, was held within the Lodge Rooms, Caledonian Hotel, on Saturday last. The Right Worshipful Master, Bro. A. Ross, architect, occupied the chair. The following office-bearers were elected for the ensuing year:—Right Worshipful Master, Bro. A. Ross, Architect, Past Master; Bro. Charles Innes, Deputy Master; Bro. Wm. Reid, Architect; Bro. Macewan, Senior Warden; Bro. Walter Carruthers, Junior Warden; Bro. Hugh Rose, Treasurer; Bro. D. Reid, Secretary; Rev. Dr. Macdonald, Chaplain; Bro. Robert Carruthers, jun., Senior Deacon; Bro. George Grant Allan, Junior Deacon; Bro. Wm. Macdonald, Inner Guard, Bros. Charles Spinks and J. Menzies, Stewards.

At several of the lodge meetings in Glasgow, this week, reference was made to the immortal memory of our departed brother, Robert Burns, the anniversary of whose birth occurs this week. We hope to insert some of the reports in our next issue.

GRAND MASONIC BALL IN LIVERPOOL POOL.

The 25th annual Grand Masonic Ball in Liverpool took place at the Town Hall on Tuesday evening, the 13th inst., and proved the most successful in every respect which has been held for several years. As on former occasions, the proceeds will be given in aid of the West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution, and as the attendance was exceedingly large there seems every likelihood that the charity will benefit to the extent of £200. The institution, since its foundation, has done a truly noble work, has long been recognised and patronised as one of the best Masonic charities in the provinces, and the success which has crowned the efforts of those who have devoted valuable time and careful attention to its interests shows how genuine and deep seated is the true Masonic spirit of charity and compassion which prevails amongst the brethren in the province of West Lancashire. Referring to the report for the year 1871, we find that forty-two children were receiving the benefits of the institution during that year, for whose education and advancement in life the sum of £274 3s. 8d. was paid. The number of children on the foundation during 1872 was forty-five, and the amount paid for their education, &c., was £341 1s. 3d., which shows how greatly the demands upon the funds of the Institution are increasing year by year. The total funds of the charity at the close of 1871 amounted to £9,220 6s. 3d., whilst the present statement shows a total of £9,779 4s. 5d., a result which cannot but afford the highest satisfaction to every supporter of the charity.

The Masonic ball of '74 fully maintained its reputation as the "crack" assembly of the season, and the popularity of the mystic Order could not have been better shown than by the exceedingly large and most fashionable attendance. The gathering was in many respects superior to those of former years, and the arrangements, in connection with it were of the most satisfactory character.

The splendid suite of rooms at the Town Hall need no adornment, and therefore, as of old, they were left without being decorated in the smallest degree. But the sight presented about midnight was one of the most dazzling character, and could not well have been exceeded in the brilliancy of its effects. The company began to arrive shortly before nine o'clock, and before the clock had chimed the "witching hour," there could have been no fewer than 800 persons present. The Freemasons appeared in the clothing, jewels, and insignia of their rank and office, and amongst the other orders more or less represented were the Knights of Rome, and of the Red Cross of Constantine, the Knights Templar, the Royal Arch, the Knights of Malta, the Rose Croix, the Mark Degree, &c. All this show of Masonic trappings contrasted strikingly with the invariably elegant dresses of the ladies, and the combination as a whole was of the most brilliant and effective character.

The general arrangements were of the most complete and satisfactory kind, and reflect the highest credit upon the committee, who spared neither time nor trouble in preparing properly for the annual merry meeting. Bro. the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, R.W.P.G.M., was the President, and Bro. Hon. F. A. Stanley, M.P., W.D.P.G.M., the Vice-President, Dr. J. K. Smith, P.M. 249 and 1094, who was Chairman of the committee, was most indefatigable in his efforts to make the ball a complete success, and he was well rewarded by the satisfactory and brilliant results. Bro. D. W. Winstanley, P.M. 1094, the Hon. Sec., also worked with a will and wisely arranged matters. Bro. R. Brown, S.W. 1380, who fulfilled the duties of Hon. Treasurer, merits more than a passing note. Not only did he personally labour hard to make the gathering a complete success, but he most generously gave up for some time previously all the spaces engaged by his firm (Messrs. Van Dyke and Brown) in the advertising columns of the theatrical journals for the purpose of giving a place to the advertisement with regard to the ball. This was a truly brotherly sacrifice, and worthy of imitation in spirit. A pleasant feature of the ball were the very handsome badges supplied by Bro. George Kenning, of London, Liverpool, Glasgow, &c., which were the theme of general admiration. The following were the Stewards:—Bros. Laidlaw, Armstrong, Bucknall, T.C. Jones, W. Hughes, Baxendale, Ashmore, Alpass, A. Ballard, Rose, Chudley, Pierpoint, Nelson, Goppel, G. R. Smith, Nicholas, McKune, Callow, Martin, Beasley, Pemberton, Broadbridge, Kenyon, Clegg, G. Turner, R. Wilson, G. Hutchins, R. Pearson, J. Wood, Strother, J. Lloyd, Cron, G. H. Turner, Doyle and Sheen. This important body faithfully and efficiently performed their duties, headed and directed by Bro. Mott, as captain. The duties of Master of Ceremonies were again performed with the courtesy and tact for which Bro. H. M. Molyneux has so long deservedly enjoyed a well-known reputation. During the arrival of the guests, the excellent band of the 1st L.R.V. (by the kind permission of Lieut.-Col. Steble) played a choice selection in the vestibule. The dance music was furnished by the quadrille band of Bro. G. A. W. Phillipp. Bro. W. S. Vines, P.M. 220 and 1299, again supplied the refreshments, which were very choice and plentiful; and the Stewards' supper table—which was admirably laid out—was greatly enhanced by a number of bunches of splendid grapes, sent for the occasion by Bro. J. Meredith, of the Vineyard, Garston.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—THE BEST FRIENDS.—In cases of erysipelas, inflammation, ulceration, and all the varieties of skin diseases, Holloway's ointment never fails to give relief. Its very first application lessens the inflammation, and diminishes both heat and pain. This soothing ointment, by depurating the blood on its route to or return from the affected part, promotes healthy action. Even old indolent ulcers, which have resisted every other treatment, speedily assume an improved appearance, healthy granulations spring up, the sore contracts, and soon closes by the judicious use of Holloway's noted remedies. In severe and chronic cases the pills should always be taken, as their purifying, alterative, aperient, and restorative qualities, place the whole mass of solids and fluids in a wholesome condition.—ADV.

THE HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY,
FROM ITS ORIGIN TO THE PRESENT DAY.

Drawn from the best sources and the most recent investigations.

BY J. G. FINDEL,

Second Edition, Revised, and Preface written by
Bro. D. MURRAY LYON.

One vol., 800 pages 8vo., with an Index. Cloth gilt. Price, 10s. 6d.

"This book is a strictly historical one, from which all is excluded that is not based upon ascertained or probable fact."—Builder.

"Of its value to Freemasons, as a detailed history of their Brotherhood, it is not possible to speak too highly."—Public Opinion.

"The author seems to have fairly exhausted the subject."—The Athenaeum.

"The edition we are now considering is a second English edition, which had the great advantage of Bro. D. M. Lyon's able superintendence and editorship in its English dress. There can be no doubt but that so far, Bro. Findel's work is the most complete work on Freemasonry which has yet appeared, and that he deserves the greatest credit for his careful and accurate treatment of all evidence on the subject, and for his honest desire after truth. Bro. Findel gives up in the view he has so clearly and consistently put forth our early Masonic history, the older theory of the Roman Colleges, &c., and limits the origin of Freemasonry to about the twelfth century, and as then arising from the operative Masons, and specially the "Steinmetzen" and "Bauhütten" of Germany. Bro. Findel gives us a good deal of evidence on this head, and one thing is clear from his work, that the German Freemasons were, at a very early period, organized into lodges with a Master over them, and with outward regulations and inner ceremonies peculiar to the Craft. Bro. Findel rejects all the views which have been from time to time put forward of a Templar or Rosicrucian origin. Whether or no Bro. Findel's theory of the date of the rise of Freemasonry be correct, matters very little: we do not ourselves profess to accept it; but this we can fairly say of Bro. Findel's work, it is marked from first to last by the most remarkable token of industry, ability, and care, of patient research, and of skilful criticism. We know of no work which so clearly sets before us our amount of knowledge up to the present time on the great question of Masonic Archaeology, and there can be little doubt that what Preston's work is to English Freemasonry, Findel's work is to cosmopolitan Freemasonry. Indeed no student in Masonry can now dispense with it, and it is a perfect storehouse both of Masonic evidence and Masonic illustrations. We earnestly recommend all the lodges in this country to obtain a copy for the lodge library before the work is bought up for America; and we believe that no Mason will rise from the perusal of its pages without a higher idea both of the historical truth and intrinsic value of Freemasonry, and of fraternal regard and recognition to the latest and not the least well-informed or effective of our Masonic historians. The present century has produced no such equal, in authority and usefulness, to the great work of our Bro. Findel, and we wish him and it, in all of fraternal sympathy and kindly intent, many earnest readers, and more grateful students."—The Masonic Magazine.

"This volume is the history of Masonry par excellence. Every interested person may regard it, therefore, as the present text-book on the subject."—Manchester Guardian

EXCOMMUNICATION OF FREE-MASONS.

In a London contemporary of Thursday last appears the following telegram:—"Brussels, Thursday. The Archbishop of Malines, Primate of Belgium, has issued a pastoral, in which he excommunicates all Freemasons in the kingdom, however exalted may be their position."

This short announcement is pregnant, no doubt, with serious reflections, though happily not likely to be attended by any serious consequences. Religious and devout as are the Belgian people, and devoted to the Roman Catholic Church, there is a spirit of fairness and justice very observable in their public arrangements, as well as in their private sentiments.

The Constitution of Belgium guarantees freedom of conscience to all religious communities, so long as they do not violate the laws of the State, and in such cases, we believe, the Belgian Government supplements the payment of denominational clergymen and ministers, by a proportional grant.

There is nothing, then, in the Belgian Constitution, or in the feelings and sympathies of the Belgian people, to foster intolerance or encourage persecution.

Indeed, in Flanders, amid that Flemish people, with the souvenirs of Alva, and in the country of Horu and Egmoat, it would be impossible, we feel persuaded, to excite or renew a similar spirit of religious intolerance. Why then are the Freemasons assailed? What have they done that they deserve that these vials of Archbishopial wrath should be poured on their humble and devoted heads.

The answer is, simply nothing, but it suits the Romish Church everywhere, at this moment, to represent the Freemasons as forming part of a great secret and political society of rampant Carbonari, and infidel illuminés, whose great end is the overthrow of all constituted authority and especially the destruction of the Roman Catholic Church. A more mistaken view never was propounded, or a greater error committed by those astute men, who as a general rule direct the proceedings of the Roman "Curia."

To say nothing of the indecency of an Archbishop of the Church, whose mission is and ought to be a mission of peace and benevolence fulminating a sentence of excommunication without trial and without hearing, of our harmless brethren in Belgium, and thus holding them up to the religious animosity of all other Roman Catholics, we venture to think that in doing so, the Archbishop is transgressing the laws of the country, and acting, at any rate, in direct defiance to the well-known leading principles of the Belgian Constitution. The excommunication of the Archbishop is an act evident in itself "ultra vires," and a proceeding which the Belgian law knows nothing of.

It is not the sentence of a competent Court of an authorised jurisdiction. The Roman Catholic Church may say, we will not allow any members of our communion to be Freemasons, and if they are, they lose the privileges of the Roman Communion, but the Archbishop can have no right whatever, no legal qualification to excommunicate Freemasons generally in Belgium, without rhyme or reason in the lump, so to say, it being known, that, there are many members of the Order who are not Roman Catholics at all.

As an act of authority, therefore, such an excommunication we believe to be utterly "hors de la loi."

It is very doubtful, indeed, whether any ecclesiastical sentence can be promulgated in Belgium, without the consent of the civil authorities, but even if it can be so, the law courts would only recognise a sentence passed after due hearing. We can imagine what our Lord Chief Justice would say and those eminent judges of the Court of Queen's Bench, if our Archbishop of Canterbury proceeded to issue, (which we admit is an absurdity), such a bituminous pastoral, or if any religious body whatever in England, excommunicated any of its members, without any hearing, and simply "Mero motu."

We recommend the members of the Belgian Grand Lodge to raise the question in the Belgian Law Courts by suing the Archbishop of Malines for damages done to them, as Belgian citizens, by the offensive publication of a sentence of excommunication. The Grand Lodge being the recognised representative of the whole body, can do so, and they will then make it clear to their "conciotoyens," that, the laws of their country do not sanction such proceedings, which are now assuming a frequency and position, to make us remember that, "du sublime au ridicule il n'y a qu'un pas."

Most painful are they to all serious and sober-minded people, because endorsing the outburst of a hopeless religious fanaticism on the one hand, or the resuscitation in 1874 of the dark principles of a sinful Inquisition, on the other.

THE ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

The annual festival of this society took place on Wednesday, the 28th ult., but as according to our present arrangements, we shall not be able to give a full account of the proceedings in this impression, we prefer simply to express our earnest hopes, that, this first anniversary meeting of our charities for 1874 may be both a successful and a satisfactory one.

There is no Institution in our Order, or anywhere, indeed, more useful, or more needed in itself, or which does, so modestly and unpretendingly such a large amount of good in the welcome aid it affords to many a struggling and ricken brother, who not only has fallen into the "sere and yellow leaf" of advancing years, but also had to experience the hard lot of failing time, and decayed prosperity.

We sincerely trust, that not only will the sponse of the Craft enable this valuable institution of our Order, to increase its benefits to a still further enlarged number of applicants, but in these "dear days" in which we live, perhaps before long, to augment somewhat the means we offer to those whom age or sickness, or a reverse of fortune most surely gives a great claim on Masonic Benevolence and sympathy.

We trust next week to be able to inform our readers of a very successful anniversary.

WEEKLY SUMMARY.

Her Majesty remains at Osborne.

The marriage of H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh and the Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, took place on Friday, amid much of religious ceremony, according to the rites of the Greek Church, and all the splendour of the Russian Court, and the rejoicings of the Russian people. Having been married, first according to the ceremonial of the Greek Church, the august couple were afterwards married, also by Dean Stanley, according to the simple ritual of the English Church. After a long day of court ceremonial they proceeded with a small suite to Yarsko Selo, to spend a three days' honeymoon, and having gone through a round of public receptions and festivities at St Petersburg, this week, they are to proceed to Moscow next week, to be again fêted and welcomed there. May all of happiness attend them in their voyage through life. The rejoicings throughout the country have been marked and universal.

Our home news has received a great impetus by the announcement of an immediate dissolution of Parliament. For the next two months our English people will be plunged into all the turmoil and excitement of a political contest. Formerly French writers delighted to term English elections "recurring periods of insanity," but under the new arrangement all seems to proceed with unbroken order, quietness and peacefulness.

Mr. Whalley, M.P., has been very properly censured by Lord Chief Justice Cockburn for contempt of court, and fined £250, but was committed to Holloway Prison for refusing to pay the amount. No one can understand his profound belief in the convict Jean Laie. That very interesting individual seems, by the strange perversity of human nature, still, however, to use a sporting phrase, to find "backers." Beyond this there is little to report.

Sir Samuel Martin has taken leave of the Bar, after a neat touching speech from the Attorney-General, and a feeling and simple reply from himself.

No news from the Gold Coast has arrived, though any hour may bring decisive tidings.

The relief of the Indian population threatened by famine occupies the constant attention of the Government of India. It seems to be hoped on good grounds, that by timely preparation this dreadful scourge may be greatly alleviated, if not entirely removed.

Abroad we have little to tell; Lord Lyons and M. Decazes have signed a supplementary convention to the Anglo-French Treaty of Commerce, on the 24th January.

A scientific expedition is about to start from St. Petersburg for the Amour-Daria, the Grand Duke Nicholas Constantinovitch will accompany it.

The Carlists have taken Portugaleta, and a large number of prisoners. Otherwise Spain is tranquil.

The Dutch seem to be successfully operating against the insurgents in their colonial possessions.

We have to announce the deaths of Lord Stewart de Decies, of the Countess of Loudoun, and of Mr. Adam Black, of Edinburgh.

THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH'S MARRIAGE.—Last week the West End of London presented a very brilliant appearance. All the club-houses and most of the shops were illuminated and decked with the flags and arms of England and Russia. One of the most striking of these was Quadrant House, Regent-street; the taste of the design and the success with which it was carried out are to be attributed to the originality and skill of the proprietor, Mr. Augustus Ahlborn.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF WEST YORKSHIRE.

The usual quarterly meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of West Yorkshire was held in the Masonic Hall, Great George-street, Leeds, on the 21st inst. The preliminary lodge was opened in the several stages by the W.M. and officers of the Excelsior Lodge, 1042—Bros. J. W. Beedle, W.M.; S. Stead, S.W.; and George Heuthwaite, J.W.

The Provincial Grand Lodge comprised the Right Hon. the Marquess of Ripon, K.G., M.W.G.M. of England and P.G.M. of West Yorkshire; J. Craven (290), P.S.G.W.; Captain Wordsworth (380), P.J.G.W.; W. H. B. Tomlinson (154), P.G. Registrar; Henry Smith (387), P.G. Sec.; T. Schofield (306), P.G. Purst; A. Titley (304), P.G. Steward, &c. After the Provincial Grand Master had declared the Provincial Grand Lodge opened, and a portion of Scripture had been read and prayer offered, the brethren saluted the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master according to ancient custom.

The Prov. G.M., the Marquess of Ripon, in acknowledging his reception, expressed his thankfulness at being permitted to meet them once more. He said it was about three years since he had the pleasure of meeting the brethren in Leeds; but it gave him pleasure to meet them under the banner of one of the youngest lodges in the province—a lodge, he hoped, that would bring honour on the Craft in the future, as he had reason to believe it had striven to do in the past. In the course of his remarks the Prov. G.M. urged upon the W.M. to use every care lest an evil might crop up of which he had seen an indication, viz., that of admitting persons into the Order in large towns to which those persons do not belong. Too much caution cannot be exercised in that direction. After a passing remark on initiation fees, his lordship congratulated the brethren on the condition of the Masonic charities, but urged those who had hitherto done nothing to make a beginning. Before resuming his seat his lordship informed the lodge that Bro. Dr. Spark, P.P. Grand Organist, had that day presented to the Prov. Grand Lodge a handsomely-bound copy of his valuable work of Masonic music, entitled "The Liber Musicus." In conclusion, his lordship again thanked the brethren for their hearty welcome, which always encouraged him in the discharge of the duties appertaining to his office.

The roll of lodges was then called over, and about fifty lodges were represented by about three hundred brethren.

The Prov. Grand Master said he now rose to discharge a duty painful in the extreme. No Mason in the province of West Yorkshire, nor any other person who had ever come in contact with him, could be otherwise than greatly troubled at the loss which had befallen the Deputy Prov. Grand Master, Bro. Bentley Shaw. A loss so great, so irreparable as that of his eldest son, could not otherwise than strike down in sorrow the whole family of the D.P.G. Master. Personally he felt very deeply impressed on hearing the painful intelligence. In proposing a vote of sympathy from the lodge he felt sure he expressed the feelings of every brother in the province; and whilst expressing their sympathy they should also express their high estimation of his ability and kindly disposition when among them. They all knew that to one of so warm and affectionate a nature as that of Bro. Bentley Shaw the loss he had sustained would be heavy. Already 50 lodges had presented their deep regret at his loss, and sympathy in his bereavement, and he now proposed that the Provincial Grand Lodge express its deep sympathy with Bro. Bentley Shaw, Past Grand Deacon, and D. Prov. G. M. of West Yorkshire, in his bereavement and deep suffering; and, at the same time, express its appreciation of the great ability he has always displayed in the duties of his office, and his courteousness to all. His Lordship concluded by anticipating the hearty approval by the brethren of the resolution.

The resolution was seconded by Bro. Manoah Rhodes, Mayor of Bradford, who had been appointed to act for the D.P.G.M. in the duties of the day, and carried unanimously.

Amongst the visitors who attended the Provincial Grand Lodge were Bros. J. R. Stebbing, P.G.D. of England; Dr. Bell, D.P.G.M. of the North and East Ridings; — Fabian, P.S.G.W. of Hants; and John Walker, P.G.D., North and East Ridings.

After the business of the lodge a banquet took place at the Great Northern Railway Hotel, Leeds, and at which about 160 sat down. The Provincial Grand Master presided, and after the usual loyal and Masonic toasts had been given and duly honoured, the health of M.W.G.M. of England was proposed and enthusiastically honoured.

The Provincial Grand Master responded, expressing his deep sense of the benefits resulting from Freemasonry when its principles were carefully carried out, and its precepts adhered to.

In proposing the health of the visitors, the Provincial Grand Master passed a high eulogium on Bro. Stebbing and on Bro. Dr. Bell, and stated that the province from which Dr. Bell came, and the Craft at large, could ill afford to lose a name which had been honoured in Freemasonry—the name of Zetland. The present Earl of Zetland had now been prevailed upon to take the office of Provincial Grand Master of the North and East Ridings.

Bro. Stebbings replied on behalf of the visitors, saying that his brethren in the south valued highly the Grand Master of the Craft, and he had that day come a journey to see how his brethren treated his Lordship on the soil of his own county and province. That reception, like his own, was as warm and generous as the reputed generous heart of a Yorkshireman could make it.

Various other toasts followed, that of the Marchioness of Ripon and the ladies being, at the request of the acting Deputy P.G.M., proposed by Bro. Dr. Spark, the whole of the brethren responding enthusiastically with cheers and musical honours.

Bro. Lancaster, of Leeds, acted as Prov. G. Organist in the lodge, and afterwards presided at the piano, when Bros. Jos. Tetley, Maw, and others rendered efficient service by their admirable singing.

CONSECRATION OF THE ST. MARYLEBONE CHAPTER, No. 1305.

The interesting ceremony of opening and consecrating a chapter in connection with the flourishing St. Marylebone Lodge, was performed on Wednesday, the 16th inst., at the British Stores, New-street, St. John's Wood, by Comp. John Hervey, the Grand Scribe E., assisted by Comps. T. A. Adams, P.Z., as H.; R. W. Wentworth Little, P.Z., as J., and A. A. Pendlebury as D.C. A procession was formed in the usual manner, and the chapter was opened by the President, the M.E.Z., and the other Past Principals present. Comp. Hervey then addressed the companions on the nature of the meeting, and expressed the great gratification he experienced to know that the parent lodge had progressed so rapidly during the three years of its existence as to be able to form a chapter with such a high promise of equal stability and success. The consecration ceremony was then proceeded with, Comp. H. Parker, Prov. G. Organist, Middlesex, officiating at the pianoforte, and leading the chants. Comp. Little delivered the oration, and the chapter was duly dedicated and constituted. Comp. Samuel G. Foxall, P.Z., was then installed as M.E.Z. Comps. A. J. Codner, P.Z., as H.; and J. J. Pope, P.Z., as J. These companions were, in the order stated, the first three masters of the St. Marylebone Lodge. It was unanimously resolved that Comps. Hervey, Adams, Little and Pendlebury be elected honorary members of the chapter for their attendance and services, a compliment which Comp. Hervey gracefully acknowledged. A large number of propositions for exaltations followed, after which the chapter was closed, and the companions sat down to a dinner, under the presidency of the M.E.Z., Comp. Foxall. The menu and wines reflected the utmost credit upon Bro. Fowler, the host, who was unremitting in his attention to the comfort of the guests. The cloth having been removed, the health of Her Majesty was given with all the honours, succeeded by the National Anthem. The chief ruler of R.A. Masonry, the Marquess of Ripon, was then proposed and heartily received. After the next toast, which was that of the Grand Officers, Comp. Parker executed a brilliant selection from "La Fille de Madame Angot," which was greatly applauded, and Comp. Hervey responded, concluding with proposing "The Health of the M.E.Z., and success to the New Chapter." Comp. Foxall returned thanks. The next toast was "The H. and J.," to which Comps. Codner and Pope replied. The M.E.Z., then asked the companions to drink "The Health of Comp. Little" whom he eulogised for Masonic zeal and perseverance, and that companion made a suitable response. The other toasts were "The Visitors" acknowledged by Comps. S. Foxall, P.Z. 742; F. K. Stevens, P.Z.; C. B. Payne, P.Z.; and W. Dodd, H. 1194, "The Officers" for whom Comps. Stringer, W.M. 1305, and Austin responded, and the Janitor's toast. Several excellent songs and recitations were given by the M.E.Z., Comps. Stevens and Parker, and the evening was most thoroughly enjoyed by all present. There can be no doubt of the new chapter's success, as its Principals are well-tryed and worthy veterans in the Order.

CONSECRATION OF THE NEW MASONIC HALL AT TIMARU.

One of the greatest events in the history of Freemasonry in Timaru, occurred Nov. 20th, when the ceremony of consecration of the new Masonic Hall, Church-street, was performed. To those of our readers who may not be au fait in Masonic matters in Timaru, it may not be uninteresting if we take a brief retrospective glance to the early days of the lodge here. For some time after the Lodge of St. John was first formed in Timaru, its members had to suffer the inconvenience of occupying a rented room, but finding their numbers increasing, and desiring to possess a meeting place worthy of the ancient Order to which they belonged, a piece of land was leased from Mr. R. H. Rhodes, on LeCren's-terrace, and tenders were invited on June 14, 1866, for the erection of a stone building. Shortly afterwards, an offer was accepted, and on August 30, 1866—the foundations having been completed—the corner stone was laid with full Masonic ceremony by the Acting District Grand Master of Canterbury—Dr. Donald. The ceremony passed off with great eclat, the day being observed as a public holiday in the town. The building then progressed slowly, and the first use made of it was the celebration of St. John's day, on June 24, by the holding of a banquet in the large room. A little while later, and close upon twelve months from the laying of the foundation stone (August, 1867) the building was completed at a cost of about £1,000, and although the inside was elegant and convenient, the appearance of the outside had little to recommend it, besides substantiality.

Nevertheless the building in those days was considered a great town improvement. The members of the lodge continued to use the hall until early in the year 1872, and were then compelled to vacate it in consequence of the cutting for the Timaru-Temuka railway, rendering it unsafe for habitation. The building was razed, and after the Government had paid the amount of compensation assessed by the District Court in January of the present year, a site for a new hall was purchased in Church-street, opposite the English Church. Competitive designs were at once called for a building, and those submitted by Mr. F. J. Wilson, architect, of this town, were selected. The calling for tenders for erection of the building followed, the result being that the offer of Mr. Thomas Parsons was accepted. Work was soon commenced, and on April 14 of the present year the foundation stone was laid by the Worshipful Master, Bro. G. H. Wildie, without Masonic ceremony. From that time till its completion (about three days ago) a period of about eight months, the building progressed without a hitch of any kind, and the Masons of Timaru are now possessed of a hall which all who have seen acknowledge to be the best in Canterbury.

The building, which covers an area of 54 feet by 50 feet, is composed of bluestone, with a galvanised iron roof. The foundations, averaging a height of about 10 feet, are built in random rubble, as also are the side and back walls, 15 feet in height. In the front wall, about 20 feet in height, the bluestone work is in block rubble, and the facings are in cement in imitation of white stone. The front elevation is in the Grecian style of architecture, and presents a very handsome appearance. Above the entrance to the vestibule is a Masonic emblem in cement, and above that on the coping, worked in the same material is the date of the building of the hall—A.L. 5873. After passing through the vestibule (8 feet by 5 feet) the walls of which are in imitation of white stone, a lobby 8 feet by 7 feet is entered. To the right of the lobby is situated the library and committee room, 19 feet by 12 feet 6 inches, with a recess, 8 feet by 8 feet, as a repository for books. This room is lighted by a large window, and is provided with a fire place. The Worshipful Master's room is at the eastern side of the committee room. Its dimensions are 50 feet by 25 feet in the clear, and its height 17 feet 6 inches. The room is lighted by three large windows and the wood-work around these is well finished, and painted a light blue. The skirting boards are also of the same colour. At the eastern end of the room is the dais, the top of which is gained by three steps, about eight inches each in height. The furniture, the woodwork of which is polished cedar, is of a very superior description, and is a credit to the manufacturer, Mr. W. L. Edwards, of this place. The chairs and couches, the latter extending along two sides and one end of the room, are stuffed, and covered with scarlet repp. In the centre of the room is placed an oblong piece of oilcloth, painted in white and black squares, and the remainder of the floor is stretched cocoanut matting. On the right hand side of the room at the front of the dais, is stationed a neat little American organ, which the lodge has just purchased at a cost of £60. The whole building is very creditably finished, creditable alike to the architect and contractor. The total cost of the building is £1250.

From noon the day was observed as a public holiday in the town, and all places of business were closed. Shortly before twelve o'clock an emergency meeting of the St. John's Lodge was held in the Oddfellow's Lodge Room, preparatory to proceeding to consecrate the Hall, and in addition to the members of the Caledonian Lodge, there were present the following representatives of the Grand Lodge:—Bros. Thompson, Acting Deputy District Grand Master, P.M.; Dobbs; Booth, P.M.; Shakleton, Master elect of the Canterbury Lodge; Mitchell, P.M.; and the Rev. W. H. Cooper.

Just before one o'clock, the procession issued from the Oddfellow's Hall in the usual order.

The procession, which was marshalled by the Grand Deputy Master of Ceremonies Bro. Mitchell, kept excellent order, and presented a very pleasing spectacle. The members were in evening dress, and decorated with full Masonic regalia. A large number of persons assembled to witness the procession, which after moving along Barnard and Sophia-streets, turned into Church-street and came to a halt in the churchyard. Here the procession opened right and left, and the Acting Deputy District Grand Master, who had previously occupied a rear position, led the way into the church followed by the procession and the spectators. The church was soon filled in every part, and service commenced at one o'clock.

The sermon, which was listened to very attentively, was preached by Bro. Rev. W. H. Cooper, Grand Chaplain, the text being taken from St. Paul's 1st Epistle to the Corinthians, xiii. chapter, 13 v.

At the conclusion of the service the Masonic body left the church and proceeded to the new hall, for the purpose of taking part in the ceremony of consecration. After the members of the lodge had become seated, and everything had been got in readiness for the service, the W.M. of the St. John's Lodge requested the Deputy Grand Master to consecrate the hall. A portion of the Holy Scriptures was then read, followed by the anthem 'Behold how Good and Joyful' (Masonic version.) The first part of the prayer of consecration having been read, perfume was sprinkled on the Hall by the Grand Master, and the second portion of the prayer delivered. A procession then marched round the room, and salt, wine, oil and corn were thrown on the hall, accompanied with appropriate words by the Grand Master, showing the symbolical meaning of the rite. The ceremony of consecration being concluded, the Grand Chaplain congratulated the W.M. and members of St. John's Lodge on the fine hall they were now in possession of. A vote of thanks was given by the W.M. to the A.D.G.M., Bro. Thomson, for his services, which was acknowledged in suitable terms. A vote of thanks to the officers of the Grand Lodge and the D.G. Chaplain, was responded to by Bro. Mitchell. An excellent oration on the nature and objects of Masonry was delivered by the Rev. Cooper, and shortly afterwards the lodge meeting was brought to a conclusion. The doors were then thrown open to the public, and for the space of about a couple of hours a large number of persons inspected the building. The Masonic ball, which was held in the Mechanics' Institute, yesterday evening, passed off very successfully.—Timaru Herald.

Original Correspondence.

THE GREAT CITY LODGE, AND THE CONVIVIAL BOARD.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I had proposed not to take part in the controversy which certain proceedings of the Great City Lodge have called forth; but in view of the remarks contained in your later numbers I consider it a duty to my lodge to endeavour to stop the current of misrepresentation now flowing through your columns:

Our proceedings of the 8th November last were not intended to be made public, and my officers and myself were equally surprised to find on the Monday following our Saturday meeting, that the Pall Mall Gazette contained a paragraph referring thereto, and to the subsequent paper, which that paper chose to designate as "banquet."

That paragraph was not correct in all its detail, although it certainly expressed correctly a determination on the part of the lodge to carry out a principle which I am glad to know has many supporters, namely Charity versus Prodigality, or in other words, observing a due medium between avarice and profusion, and holding the scales of justice with an equalise.

But we never for one moment thought of obligating to ourselves the "setting of an example," or the "striking of a key note." We must be very dull Masons indeed if we did not know that the "frugal meal" was before our common to many lodges, notably in provincial towns, and that there was nothing in the proposed arrangement. And before, when the paragraph aforesaid made the end of the press, both metropolitan and provincial, formed the subject of an article in the Standard; was quoted far and wide; and held our lodge as introducing an extremely proper, at the same time, novel, experiment (which as not): we almost regretted we had "done by stealth," and really "blushed to find it am sorry that you should have permitted the publication of the extract from the New York Dispatch in your impression of the 13th inst., particularly as regards one paragraph, the incorrectness of which no person could have known better yourself; and I think Bro. Kilpatrick was uninformally as unwise when he so misstates the social status of the members of the City, and the position of a lodge which is a mere baby.

So regret that Bro. Constable should have forgotten his usual courtesy and good feeling as to assume by his letter of this date, that Freemasons with whom he has associated, and whom he ought to know better, could desire to "cry their virtues from the house-top," or to seek to have proclaimed as noble deeds the performance of a charitable duty. He is right in stating that, being only six months old, the Great City is not either "subscriber, life governor, or vice president of either of the Masonic Charities," but he will be unable to sustain that assertion beyond another week in respect of one charity and, before the end of this year, in respect of either of them. The whole tone of Bro. Constable's letter does not, to my mind, and as I read it, appear to be pervaded by that sentiment of "brotherly love" to the exercise of which he commends Bro. Kilpatrick.

And now, I may say, in conclusion, that the Great City will not regret this controversy, if it should result that the attention of our lodges has been called to the policy of lessening the expenditure for banquets, and increasing the funds of the charities. Bless you! We have "cakes and ales," our feasts and junketings; but we limit the number, copying the example of many sister lodges, and hoping that our adhesion to their policy may strengthen their efforts. Out of six meetings we can be satisfied with three formal dinners, and their accompanying inconveniences; and if a large majority of us are content with three other gatherings, freed from all formality and made thoroughly "jolly" and agreeable by the conviction of duty performed and digestion unimpaired, why, we should be silly indeed if we did not carry out our desire. I know we are very young just now, and shall grow older, and probably wiser as we grow, but I, for one, sincerely hope that the folly (if it is folly?) which we have displayed in our youth, and in this matter, will despite all disparagement and opposition, remain with the Great City, until, with it, "time shall be no more."

Yours fraternally,

THE W.M. OF "THE GREAT CITY," No. 1426.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

It is with a deep sense of pain that I have perused the "Original Correspondence" under this head in your last issue. Neither of your correspondents appear to be members of the lodge the name of which they use so freely, and the motives of which they so glibly interpret. Nor is it apparent that their minds have been illuminated with the simple truth of the matter they write about. The spirit of charity "which thinketh no evil," and is "kind," and which, as we so often hear, should link us together in fraternal affection, is singularly malign in the letters of both your correspondents.

I am not a special pleader for Bro. Kilpatrick, but it is evident that he wrote in good faith, and if he has fallen into error, or made exaggerated statements, be it remembered that "to err is human," and that our brother is on the other side of the Atlantic. At all events, let us refrain from denouncing him in the vituperative terms employed by Bro. Constable. Rather let us point out his mistakes, and strive to correct them with calmness and dignity.

Notwithstanding Bro. Constable has the great advantage of being on the spot, and according to his letter, intimately acquainted with the Great City Lodge, he unfortunately leads our readers to the false conclusion that the lodge in question has taken the unusual course of having its doings "cried from the house-tops, so that the nations of the earth may know how virtuous they are, and what an amount of self-denial they are capable of practising."

Now, I have not noticed that that lodge has vaunted itself in any way, nor can I find a brother who thinks it has. On the contrary, throughout the controversy evoked by its dispensing with a banquet and applying it to charity, it has observed the strictest silence. It is to be lamented therefore that Bro. Constable is so uncharitable, and therefore so unmasonic in his imputations, particularly as he has stepped out of his way to take upon himself the special duty of rebutting Bro. Kilpatrick. Alas! How prone we are to discover the mote in our brother's eye and to forget the beam in our own.

I believe that the bread and cheese banquet was relished because the brethren thought they were carrying out the duties of the Craft, and without a thought of its being published "to the nations of the earth." The fact that almost every newspaper saw the motive, and commended it, is I think the best answer to your correspondents, and those (if any) who think with them. One would suppose, however, from some of the observations it has called forth, that it was an act of high treason against the Craft. I see no trace of treason; but full evidence of "fidelity," and to other lodges I would say "go thou and do likewise," the uninitiated will then perhaps believe that Freemasonry is not a mere excuse for feasting and drinking, as they have now some reason for suspecting, when they hear of lodges banqueting at every meeting—lodges which have never made a sacrifice for the charities established in their name and so sadly needing their help. There is no doubt that Masonic charities could do without lottery schemes for life governorships if every lodge would practice that virtue which we all profess to admire. I say, therefore, all honour to the young lodge for the step it took, and my deep regret is that brethren professing to have the great cause at heart should scoff at or disparage its early efforts to do its duty. Truly the members of that lodge, the majority of whom can scarcely yet have passed through the three degrees, in their endeavour to do good, "may blush to find it fame," and that blush may well assume a deeper hue when they find that unworthy motives are ascribed to them by brother Masons.

Yours fraternally,

M. M.

RIGHTS OF VISITING BRETHERN.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Bro. M. J. M. is no doubt quite correct in his reading of the rule as to visitors, and that it is a mistake to put a comma between "for" and "after," and I wonder the printer's error was not detected at the time it was made; for if you leave out the words between the commas, it reads, "unless he personally known, —, after due examination by one of the brethren present," which is nonsense. In an old copy I have of the Book of Constitutions, date 1784, the words are "No visitor, however skilled in Masonry,* shall be admitted into a lodge unless he is personally known to, or well vouched for, and recommended by, one of that lodge present." When that wording was altered, years ago, there was no "Lloyd" or "Havers" on the Board of General Purposes, or such an error would at once have been detected. No doubt it was intended that the comma should come after the word "examination." Then again, the word "and" is left out after word "known," although we have it in the old edition. The words should therefore be read—No visitor shall be admitted into a lodge unless he be personally known and recommended, or well vouched for after due examination, by one of the brethren present; and the Book of Constitutions should be altered accordingly.

MAGNUS OHREN,
P.M. 33 & 452, &c.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

It occurs to me that the regulation in the Book of Constitutions to which in your last week's issue, p. 31, you refer as settling the course to be pursued before admitting visiting brethren to a lodge is open to the charge of ambiguity and does not necessarily bear the interpretation you assign to it. It reads "No visitor shall be admitted into a lodge unless he be personally known, recommended, or well vouched for, after due examination by one of the present brethren."

Now this may be considered to give three alternatives (1), that the visitor shall be "personally known," (2) that he shall be "recommended," or (3) that he shall be "well vouched for, after due examination by one of the present brethren," the "vouching" presumably being the statement by the examining brother (after his due examination, inspection of G.L. certificate, or otherwise) that the intending visitor is entitled to admission.

This, I take it, would be the only construction the regulation in the Book of Constitutions would bear if the comma after the words "vouched for" were omitted, but it may be argued that even as it stands it can be read in the manner suggested, at least as well as in that adopted in your article.

Yours fraternally, P. M. 663.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

As a constant reader of The Freemason for the last four years, since my admission into the Craft, I have carefully perused its columns. For some time past it has contained discussions anent the refusal of the Middlesex Lodge to admit Bro. Biggs. In your leading article of the 17th inst., you incline towards justifying, on constitutional grounds, the treatment of Bro. Biggs by the Middlesex Lodge, and you base this justification upon the "Law of Visitors," page 88, section I, that "No visitor shall be admitted into a lodge, unless (1) he be personally known (2), recommended, or (3) well vouched for, after due examination by one of the brethren present.

Now, as a young Mason, I do not write to criticise, but to obtain knowledge. My opinion, then, is, that division first, "he be personally known," stands altogether distinct from 2 and 3. For, if an intending visitor be personally known, be it to one or all the brethren present in a lodge, no recommendation or voucher is required, in as much as the fact of his being personally known, is at once a recommendation and a voucher; of course I understand that the visitor be personally known, and be known to be a worthy Mason, member of some lodge. In such case there is no necessity to put him to "due examination." This examination may be, if not necessary, expedient.

II. He be "recommended" and we will suppose not personally known. A member of I.M.'s in my lodge are well known to G.L. and P.G.L. Grand Officers, and I have no doubt on me visiting London anyone of them would give me an introduction or "recommendation" to any of his London friends and brethren. These brethren might again "recommend" me to a brother in some lodge assembling on a day or at place when and where. They or any of them might not find it convenient to introduce me personally. I should as a stranger, though recommended, feel it perfectly in order if I were asked for my certificate, and were besides "duly examined."

III. If he be neither personally known, nor recommended, if neither be the case, how can a visitor be "vouched for"? Here I am in a dilemma, and I say, for want of any personal voucher, my voucher is my "passport," i.e. my Grand Lodge certificate, upon presenting which I may, and according to the law laid down in the Book of Constitution, ought to be "duly examined," and having produced my certificate and satisfied my examiners, I shall expect to be permitted to enter the lodge.

I am of opinion, therefore, that the law on visitors was wisely and considerably framed, and without taking the three recommendations in section I., page 86, together, each one will, according to circumstances, be sufficient in itself to meet the case. Moreover, Masonry recognizes a "strange brother," and on page 13, caput 6, it is distinctly stated, "you are cautiously to examine him in such a method as prudence shall direct you."

To sum up, when I was initiated, I was told that certain means (I will call them) are extant by which to know a Mason, and when properly given, will be answered. Further, Masonry is universal, and any brother, a stranger, having proved himself a Mason, will be acknowledged and meet with a fraternal reception by his brethren. Suppose, then, I go to town, where I am not personally known or recommended, how can I be vouched for, except by the production of my Grand Lodge certificate, and by satisfying my examiners? If these two points will not secure my admission into a strange lodge, what is the good of my certificate; what is the use of my being perfectly conversant with signs, &c.; and where is the universality of the Craft? Would this universality not rather dwindle down to a local coterie?

Yours fraternally,

Yorkshire.

LODGE REPORTS.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

Dear Sir and Brother,—

From the enclosed slips cut from the Sheffield papers, you will see that the Freemasons here are publishing the reports of their proceedings. I wish to ask you if such is not contrary to the spirit and letter of the Constitutions of our Order; for I remember reading therein some time ago that no Mason should print or publish any report of the proceedings of a lodge, or even give the names of Masons present, without the special sanction of the G.M. or Prov., G.M. under the penalty of expulsion from the Order.

Of course this has no reference to publishing reports in your valuable journal, which is under the sanction of the G.M., &c. &c.

Are our ancient landmarks to be allowed thus to disappear one by one, or is it one of the many innovations that are stealing upon us? For my own part I consider these reports in the common press offensive to good taste, and simply placing our noble art on a level with "Oddfellows," "Frozen-out-Gardeners" or "Druids," &c., and I will be glad if you will take up your pen in defence of our Constitutions. Apologising for trespassing so much on your space.

I am yours truly, and fraternally,

M. M.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

BOLTON.—Anchor and Hope Lodge (No. 37).—The usual monthly meeting was held at Freemasons' Hall, Bolton, on Monday, 2nd February. The lodge was opened in form at 6 o'clock, when there were present Bro. Wm. Slater, W.M.; James Walker, S.W.; W. H. Horrocks, J.W.; John Sharples, Treasurer; Edwin Ainsworth, Secretary; R. Knill Freeman S.D.; James Brown, J.D.; Samuel Crowther, I.G.; James Walsh, Organist; G. P. Brockbank, P. Prov. G. Deacon; John Robinson, S. Isherwood, James Newton, R. W. Knowles, James Pilkington, P.M.; Walter Pennington, W.M. 678; James Heap, 1170, and others. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. For practice of the officers the lodge was opened up to the third degree and closed down to the 1st. A portion of the antique charges having been read, the lodge was finally closed and the brethren adjourned to refreshment.

HULL.—Humber Lodge (No. 57).—The members of this old and influential lodge held their annual charity ball, in the public room, on Friday, the 30th Jan., which resulted in one of the most numerous and enjoyable gatherings which has ever taken place under the auspices of this lodge. The ball was under the patronage of the Mayor (Bro. John L. Seaton), the Sheriff (Bro. Charles Wells), the Most Hon. the Marquess of Ripon, K.G., M.W.G.M. of England, the Right Hon. the Earl of Zetland, the W. Bro. J. P. Bell, M.D., S.G.D. of England, and D.P.G.M. of North and East Yorkshire; Bro. Spikes, M.P., P.S.P.G.W.; Bro. C. M. Norwood, M.P.; Bro. J. W. Pease, M.P.; Bro. A. G. G. P., P.M. 57, P.P.G.D.; and Bro. Taylor, J.P., W.M. 1447. The W.M., officers, and brethren of the other Hull lodges, together with those of the "St Germain's" Lodge, Selby, St. Matthew's "Lodge, Barton, and "Sykes" Lodge, Driffield, also appeared on the 1st of the evening; and it was not surprising that, with distinguished countenance and support, the ball should have been regarded with so much appreciable interest. The visitors began to arrive at nine o'clock, and the constant rattle of ribbons along Albion-street told of a numerous company of ladies and gentlemen who had accepted the invitation of the committee to take part in the pleasures of their annual assembly. The ball-room, at eleven o'clock, a scene of great splendour presented itself. The floor of the public-rooms is so elegantly decorated that little extraneous aid was needed in department, but the silk bannerets displayed the scarlet facade of the orchestra, while mirrors were placed in the recesses, and the ousings of the room were draped with crimson cloth, imparted to the hall a warm and cozy appearance. A company of about 170 ladies and gentlemen had assembled, including many visitors from the neighbourhood, and it was at once apparent, from the air of comfort and luxury that prevailed, that pleasure was the order of the night.

The members of the Craft appeared in full Masonic costume, whilst the officers of the naval reserve forces wore their uniforms, and the rich colours of the ladies' attire combined to make up a spectacle of surpassing gaiety and animation. The Worshipful Masters of the Kingston and Minerva Lodges (Bros. P. Stromer and H. Haigh), together with several of the other officers and members, were present, thus testifying a spirit of fraternity which is an essential feature of the Craft. The three great essentials of an enjoyable ball—namely, good music, good light, and a good floor—were all present. The latter had been covered with white holland, which besides preventing dust, presented an admirable surface for the Terpsichorean exercises of the evening. For hours "fair women and brave men" mingled in the picturesque gyrations of the set dances, or in the more exhilarating waltz or galop, and when "Music arose with its voluptuous swell," the motto of the party evidently seemed to be "On with the dance! let joy be unconfined." At twelve o'clock a sumptuous supper was served in one of the ante-rooms, and the appearance of the tables elicited the greatest admiration, adored as they were with elegant vases and epergnes filled with delicious flowers. The W.M., Bro. Henry Preston, presided at the principal table, Bros. Dr. Hay, P.M., and W. Kemp, P.M., filling the chairs at the side tables, while the S.W., Bro. Boggot, assisted by the Deacons, officiated as Vice-chairmen. The usual loyal toasts were duly honoured, and the "Health of the Worshipful Master of the Humber Lodge" was drunk with great applause. Bro. Henry Preston suitably acknowledged the compliment paid to him. After supper dancing was resumed with equal, if not greater zest, and was continued until an early hour in the morning, it being the unanimous opinion of all present that this was one of the most successful and brilliant gatherings ever witnessed in Hull in connection with the Masonic order. During the evening Bro. J. L. Seaton and a party of his friends entered the ball-room, and they were received with every manifestation of welcome, the Mayor remaining some time, and seeming to take a warm interest in the proceedings. One of the ante-rooms adjoining the ball-room was handsomely fitted up as a retiring chamber for those who wished to rest during the intervals of the dance; and tables, chairs, and lounges were comfortably disposed about the apartment by Bro. Geo. Leggot (Messrs. Audos and Leggot, Paragon-street). Bro. J. Walker ably discharged his duties as Director of Ceremonies, and Bro. Haigh as Master of Ceremonies.

KENDAL.—Union Lodge (No. 129).—An emergency meeting of this lodge was held on Wednesday, Jan. 28th, at the Masonic Rooms, Stramogate. The W.M., Bro. Henry Rauthmell, was supported by Bros. Joseph Birtley, S.W.; F. C. Grayson, J.W.; R. J. Nelson, Hon. Sec.; John Bowes, P.M., P.P.G. Reg.; Jas. Gooding, S.D.; Thos. Cooper, I.G.; G. McKay, W. H. Akerigg, Thos. A. P. Strouville, D. Cleary, Tyler. The lodge was opened in the first and second degrees. Bro. John Bowes, P.M., &c., then took the chair, at the invitation of the W.M., and Bro. Strouville claiming preference, and giving proof of proficiency, was entrusted and retired. The lodge was then opened in the third degree, Bro. Strouville, re-admitted, and raised to the sublime degree of a M.M. The degree was given in ample form, and the brethren evinced the greatest interest in the working. The lodge was closed down and the brethren adjourned until the morrow, when they met at three o'clock to instal the W.M. elect, Bro. Joseph Birtley, and to celebrate the festival of St. John the Divine. There was an unusually large gathering of brethren, and its composition went to prove that Masonry knows no parties, either political or religious. Although the town of Kendal was at the time the scene of a strong political contest, the Deputy Prov. G. Master, Colonel Whitwell, on the one side, and Bro. Saunders, of Wellington Hall, on the other, were present, and contributed much to the harmony of the meeting. The lodge was opened punctually at three by the W.M., Bro. Henry Rauthmell, when the minutes were confirmed. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, when the W.M. invited Bro. John Bowes, P.M., P.P.G.R., to take the chair as Installing Master. Bro. John Holme, P.M., P.P.G.W., then presented Bro. Joseph Birtley, S.W., W.M. elect, for the benefit of installation. The presentation was at once attended to, and the ceremony worked in its amplest form. After the newly-installed Master had been saluted and proclaimed in the several degrees, and the charges to the W.M., Wardens, and brethren had been delivered, the W.M. appointed and invested the following brethren as officers for the ensuing year:—Bro. H. Rauthmell, I.P.M.; J. J. Talbot, S.W.; Jas. Gooding, J.W.; Rev. W. Chaplain, M.A., Chap.; W. Doubleday, Treas.; F. C. Grayson, Hon. Sec.; T. Cooper, S.D.; W. Cranston, J.D.; J. McKay, I.G.; and D. Cleary, Tyler. An interesting feature in the proceedings was the presentation of a gold Past Master's jewel to Bro. Henry Rauthmell from the brethren whom he had initiated during his year of office. The presentation was made by Bro. McKay. The auditors made their report, which showed a balance in favour of the lodge of above £80. There being no further business the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the Commercial Hotel for the banquet, which was served up in Bro. Barrow's best style. The grace before and after meat was said by the Chaplain. The W.M., Bro. Jas. Birtley, presided, and was supported by the Deputy Prov. G. Master, Bros. Whitwell, J. Saunders, John Bowes, P.H.D., F.R.G.S., S. Gawick, John Holme, H. Rauthmell, Drs. Page, Leeming, Noble, Matthews, and about fifty other brethren. The loyal and Masonic toasts were drunk with great enthusiasm, and the latter with Masonic honours, under the direction of Bro. Bowes. Bro. Holme, P.M., P.P.G. Warden, proposed "The Grand Masters of neighbouring Provinces," and in doing so referred to them in highly complimentary terms. He said in coupling with the toast the name of Bro. Bowes, it afforded him pleasure to refer to the able and impressive manner in which that brother had discharged the duties of Installing Master that day. All present had been greatly edified, and none would soon forget their obligations to Bro. Bowes. In acknowledging the compliment Bro. Bowes assured the brethren that the Prov. G. Master of the neighbouring province of East and West Lancashire and Cheshire had the true interests of Freemasonry at heart. Personally he felt amply repaid for any little sacrifice of time if his rendering of their beautiful ritual had met with the approval of his brethren. He always felt "at home" in the Union Lodge, No. 129, and when asked by Bro. Rauthmell to undertake the duty of Installing Master he felt proud to accede to the request. The D.G. Master proposed "The Health of the W.M." He had known Bro. Birtley, long and intimately, and he was quite sure the brethren had done themselves honour in unanimously electing that brother to the office. The duties of the office were very responsible ones, and he was confident that they would be discharged in an able and punctual manner. The W.M. said he was very grateful for the warm reception they had given to the toast. He fully appreciated their kindness and would do his best to justify their choice. He hoped ere long they would have a home of their own. He had prepared plans and he hoped during his year of office to see steps taken to carry out the plans, and then they could meet in their own Masonic Hall. He was a man of deeds more than words, and therefore he would conclude by again thanking the brethren for the handsome compliment they had paid him. The remaining toasts included "The Past Masters and Officers of No. 129," "The Wardens," "The Visiting Brethren," responded to by Bros. Mills, Bell, Godfrey, and others, all of whom spoke of the pleasure they had experienced in witnessing the ceremony of the day. "The Masonic Charities," was proposed by Bro. Bowes, and the Tyler's toast, most impressively given by the W. Prov. G. Master, brought the interesting proceedings to a close.

LODGE OF ISRAEL (No 205).—The members of the above lodge assembled at Cannon-street Hotel, E.C., on Tuesday the 27th inst., to witness the installation of the W.M. for the ensuing year. Bro. C. F. Hogard, the W.M. for the past year, very wisely cleared off the remaining portion of his duties at a Lodge of Emergency called a week previous. Upon that occasion he conferred the third degree upon Bros. Jones, Passington and Pardo, passed to the second degree, Bros. Crossthwaite, Webb, Fryberg, Painter and Stokey, and initiated Messrs. Van Minden, Reutsh, Reece, and Schuman. The preliminary business of the present meeting being disposed of the installation of Bro. Joel Emanuel, the W.M. elect, was proceeded with. With remarkable fluency and impressiveness did Bro. Hogard perform his onerous task. The delivery of the addresses elicited hearty applause. The newly installed Master at once appointed his officers as follows:—Hogard, I.P.M.; Buckland, S.W.; Lionel Jacobs, J.W.; Coote, P.M. Treasurer; A. M. Cohen, P.M. Secretary; Anerhahn, S.D.; J. B. Cohen, J.D.; Evans, I.G.; Cable, D.C.; Bassington, W. S.; Vesper, Tyler. To the Wardens he addressed some excellent words of advice, especially urging upon them the necessity of attending lodges of Instruction as the best means of perfecting themselves in the duties of their respective offices, a mode of obtaining Masonic knowledge a credible authority avers, the new Master has himself never thought proper to adopt. The next duty the new Master had to perform was to initiate Bro. Wilkes, into the mysteries of the order. Although his rendering of the beautiful ritual was not such as the fastidious might admire or even approve of still the earnestness of the new Master and his evident desire to excel, sufficiently indicate that time and perseverance may hereafter enable him to perform his duties with average ability. When the labours of the lodge were concluded, the brethren adjourned to refreshment, and ample justice having been done to the repast, the cloth was removed and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts given. Here it should be mentioned (it is done with great regret and deemed necessary only as a warning to others) that the new Master in proposing the health of the Queen permitted himself to drift into remarks of a decidedly biased political nature, thereby violating one of the first, most important and strongly inculcated principles of the Craft, namely, "in our assemblies to abstain from every religious or political discussion." It is true the new Master is but young and evidently inexperienced. This fact, as well as the loyalty of those present, in whom the very mention of "Her Majesty" is sufficient to excite the liveliest enthusiasm, fully accounts for the quiet manner the speaker was listened to and allowed to pass without rebuke. The various other toasts were given with remarkable ability, for the new Master is an excellent and fluent speaker, yet his speeches were not received with any decided marks of approbation, probably from the fact of the speaker's phlegmatic temperament failing to excite the sympathies of his hearers. Hearty applause can only be secured when, however crude his diction, the speaker is spirited, means what he says, and whose words and sentiments find a ready response in the heart of those addressed. The bearing of the new Master towards his visitors was such as has probably never been seen in any Masonic lodge. Several of them had been specially invited. The Joppa, Tranquility, and Montefiore Lodges had sent their representatives. It was a sight to note the cool indifference and haughty disdain the young Master chose to exhibit towards those brethren. No word of welcome was uttered by him, nor did he even deign to bestow a glance upon them, or any other of the numerous visitors, and only in proposing their health did he show any sign that he was aware of their presence, and even that part of his duty was done superciliously. Although several W.M.'s and P.M.'s were present, none were noticed except the name of a Bro. Lumley, who had never served any office in the Craft, but who was his personal friend. Such conduct deserves censure, and can only be excused upon the ground of youth and inexperience. It is to be hoped the new Master will in future shape his behaviour more in consonance with the principles of the Order, and at least make a show of common courtesy, if he is incapable of entertaining the feelings of fraternal esteem and affection which constitute the chief charm of our Masonic reunions. A very pleasant episode of the evening consisted of the presentation to Bro. Hogard, the I.P.M., a valuable gold Albert chain and elegant P.M. jewel. The present was well deserved, for Bro. Hogard has not only been efficient in and faithful to his duties, but has qualified himself for life governorship of all the institutions. He is, therefore, popular in the lodge, and deservedly held in high esteem among the brethren. On the obverse of the jewel were engraved the following words:—"Presented to Bro. C. F. Hogard, together with a gold chain, by the brethren of the Lodge of Israel, as a token of their fraternal regard and esteem, and for the great zeal and assiduity displayed by him in the discharge of his duties as W.M. during the year ending the 27th January, 1874." Bro. Hogard acknowledged the kindness of the brethren in brief, but feeling terms. Upon the appeal of Bro. A. M. Cohen, President, a sum of £10 odd was subscribed by the brethren in aid of the benevolent fund. There was no musical entertainment and but one song, which was well executed by Bro. Morris Abrahams, the proprietor of the Pavilion Theatre. Amongst the P.M.'s were observed:—Bros. Littauer, Coutts, Harris, Emanuel, etc. The visitors [were Bros. Fowler, 511; Isaacs, 447, New York; Tinney, 1319; De Solla, W.M. 1017; Beckham, 749; Albert P. 188, 1017, 439, Representative Proxy Master, Mauritius; Nathan Moss, W.M., 188; L. Davids, 188; De Roog, 188; L. Davids, 188; Van Stavem, 188; W. Musto, P.M. 1349; A. W. Baker, 746; Van Vollen, 188; E. Gottheil, P.M. 141, and several others.

ORMSKIRK.—Lodge of Harmony (No. 580).—The annual meeting of this lodge was held at the Wheatheaf Inn, Ormskirk, on Wednesday, the 28th ult., at 3 p.m. The brethren present were—the W.M., Bro. John Prescott, 7.P., P.G.J.W. West Lancashire; Bros. J. Baxendale, P.G. Supt. of Works; Lambert, P.P.G.D.E.L.; C. Hill, P.M.; C. Oxley, P.M.; R. Thomas, P.M.; T. Jackson, P.M.; Jas. Bromley, P.M.; S. Wyde, P.M.; John Wells, S.W.; Fogg, S.D.; Jas. Sergeant, J.D., and about forty brethren. The lodge being duly opened, Mr. Bramwall, mining engineer, Ormskirk, was initiated into Freemasonry by the W.M. in a very impressive and effective manner. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, and Bro. John Wells, of Liverpool, was presented by Bros. Prescott and Lambert to the Installing Master (Bro. Baxendale) as the brother unanimously elected to fill the duties of W.M. for the ensuing year. A board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. Wells placed in the chair according to the ancient rites and ceremonies. The following officers were then appointed and invested:—Bros. J. Prescott, I.P.M.; E. Ashton, S.W.; James Sergeant, J.W.; Lambert, Treas.; Bro. J. Aspenwall, Sec.; Bro. J. Fogg, S.D.; Jeffreys, J.D.; Charnock, I.G.; Wignall, Tyler. A vote of thanks was passed to Bro. J. Prescott for the very able and efficient manner in which he had performed the duties of the W.M. during the past year, and also to Bro. J. Baxendale for his excellent services as Installing Master. Several propositions of a charitable nature having been disposed of, the lodge was closed. The brethren then retired to a banquet, provided by Bro. Young, in his well-known liberal style, which elicited the thanks of all the brethren. Bro. Wells, W.M., presided, supported by the following visitors:—Bros. Rev. Goggin, P.G.C.; Jones, P.M. 216; Sephton, W.M. 1086; McArthur, P.M. 1086; W. E. Edge, W.M., 1403, and several others, with the brethren previously named. During the evening Bro. Prescott was presented with a splendid P.M. jewel. Bro. Prescott replied in suitable terms. Some very excellent songs, glees, and duets were sung by Bros. Jones, Fogg, Winnow, Glover, and McArthur, and a very pleasant evening was spent.

LIVERPOOL.—Derby Lodge (No. 724).—The annual installation meeting of the members of this lodge took place on Wednesday, the 28th ult., and was perhaps the most numerous as well as influentially attended of any gathering ever held in connection with the lodge. The meeting as usual, was at the Masonic Temple, Liverpool, and the very large attendance clearly showed the popularity of Bro. Wm. Shortis, the retiring W.M., and the excellence of the choice of the W.M. elect, Bro. John Davison. The cloud which for a time hung over the fortunes of the Derby Lodge, has, thanks to the indefatigable exertions of excellent Masons connected with it, been happily and permanently removed and the great prosperity which has marked its past year's existence has been equalled by very few local lodges. The attendance on this occasion was, as we have said, most influential, the visitors, including about a score of W.M.'s and P.M.'s, brethren who have well and worthily won their Masonic "spurs," and the whole of the afternoon's proceedings were of an exceedingly pleasant and unanimous character. The lodge was opened about five o'clock, by Bro. W. Shortis, W.M., and amongst his supporters we observed, Bros. J. F. Jones, P.M.; R. Cain, P.M.; W. Stedford, P.M.; J. Davison, S.W.; J. W. Ballard, J.W.; T. Chesworth, P.M. Treas.; G. Hutchin, Hon. Sec.; G. Beeken, S.D.; W. S. Barker, J.D.; E. McSwiney, I.G. and M. Williamson, Tyler. Amongst the visitors were Bros. J. Banning, P.G.O. of Westmoreland and Cumberland; J. Peters, P.G.S.D.; J. Pemberton, P.M. 1264; J. J. Rose, W.M. 249; R. R. Martin, W.M. 1049; J. Hamer, P.P.G. Treas.; R. Dawson, P.M. 1034; C. Leedham, P.M. 220; J. T. Callow, P.M. 673; J. Halton, W.M. 241; H. Williams, P.M. 1264; R. W. Holt, P.M. 1276; S. Haynes, P.M. 823; J. Holland, P.M. 823; J. Taylor, P.M. 1264; P. M. Larsen, P.M. 524; J. Parsons, P.M. 203; T. W. Sargent, W.M. 203; J. Devaynes, P.M. 667; S. J. McGeorge, P.M. 241; W. Hughes, P.M. 1013; T. Ashmore, P.M. 823; W. Boulton, W.M. 823; A. Davies, W.M. 1264; P. B. Gee, P.M. 1264; C. McNab, W.M. 1035; G. Sculthorpe, P.M. 1035; J. P. Gamble, 1264; H. Burrows, 673; T. Leighton, J.W.; 1264; J. S. Balmer, 1035; J. Gordon, 1264; W. G. Veale, 249; J. Abrahams, 1264; J. Archdeacon, 667; J. Wood, Treas., 1094, and others. The list of members included the names of Bros. Trevitt, Plaw, A. J. Henochsberg, W. Overend, M. Hart, J. M. Foote, J. Jacobs, A. Hart, D. L. Marcus, E. Griffiths, J. Ellis, M. Hynes, H. Vaughan, I. Platts, J. Rees, R. Crispe, H. Mendoza, F. H. Koster, G. Jelly, P. Armstrong, W. S. Balfour, J. Lipsch, H. Dutton, J. D. McLaren, E. Foxall, J. Foxall, H. Inwards, W. Geves, F. Heaton, and B. Roberts. After the transaction of some routine business, the installing Master's chair was taken by Bro. Chesworth, P.M., who proceeded with much skill, unction, and impressiveness to place Bro. Davison in the chair of W.M. The W.M. subsequently invested the following brethren as his officers for the ensuing year, the charges being given by Bro. J. Hamer:—Bros. W. Shortis, I.P.M.; J. W. Ballard, S.W.; G. Hutchins, J.W.; G. Beeken, Sec.; T. Chesworth Treas.; H. Vaughan, S.D.; E. McSwiney J.D.; A. Hart, I.G.; R. Crispe, S.S.; M. Hart, S.S.; and W. G. Veale, Organist. Bro. M. Williamson, was unanimously re-elected Tyler. Before the lodge was closed a P.M.'s jewel was presented to Bro. Shortis, I.P.M., as a token of the esteem of the members of the lodge. The brethren afterwards sat down to an excellent banquet, presided over by the W.M., and during the evening the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to with the greatest enthusiasm. The bill of fare and toast list was a most artistic production, and was greatly enhanced by portraits of the W.M. and I.P.M., executed very cleverly by Bro. H. Burrows.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—Hartington Lodge (No. 1421).—On Monday, 19th January, St. James Ramsden, Prov. Grand Senior Warden for West Lancashire, who had been unanimously re-elected to the chair of K.S., was installed for the second year as Worshipful Master of Hartington Lodge, No. 1021. The installative ceremony took place at the New Lodge Room Custom-house-buildings, in presence of a large muster of the Craft from lodges in the district who testified their approbation of the choice of the Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Master Lord Skelmersdale, in having selected so distinguished a gentleman to the station of Prov. Grand Senior Warden. The evening had been successful one for Hartington Lodge, by the assistance of Sir James in contributing so liberally to the charities, and the very costly and beautiful chairs and pedestals which he has presented to the lodge. Through the unavoidable absence of the Deputy Prov. Grand Master, the Hon. F. B. Stanley, M.P., who was detained in London, the ceremony of Installation was ably performed by Bro. Thos. Wylie, P.P.G.R., assisted by a large board of Installed Masters. The Worshipful Master re-appointed his officers, and in investing them, the Installing Officer passed a high compliment for the very efficient manner in which the lodge had been worked during the year. At the close of business, the whole of the brethren were invited by the Worshipful Master to a sumptuous banquet at Furness Abbey Hotel. Among the invited were the following:—Bros. Hon. F. A. Stanley, M.P., D.P.G.M.; Lord Muncaster, M.P.; John Whitwell, M.P., P.G.J.W.; Capt. Mott, M.P., G.S.W. for C. and W.; H. S. Alpass, Prov. G. Sec.; Thos. Wylie, P. Prov. G.J.W.; Kennedy, Remington, Roper, Case, Thos. Dodgson, R. Pearson, Matthews, P. Masters, 995; Roger Dodgson, W.M. 995, P.P.G.S.B.; W. Postlethwaite, S.W. 995 and 1398; A. Amislie, J.W. 995; Rev. J. Morgan, Vicar of Dalton Chapel, 1938; Baldwin, P.M.; Whitehead, W.M., Dr. Horn, J.W. 1398; Bro. Worrall, Silver, Ormandy, Graham, P. Master. Cornfield, W.M., Hooker, S.W.; Kershaw, J.W.; Jeavons, Sec., 1225; J. T. Smith, P.M., Mayor of Barrow, Henry Cook, P.M., P.P.G.R. for C. and W.; Rev. J. S. Barrett, Vicar of Barrow; Allison, P.M.; Relph, P.M.; Cox, P.M.; Bagot, I.P.M., 1021; and a large number of officers and brethren of 1021, and neighbouring lodges.

THE URBAN LODGE (No. 1196).—On Tuesday, the 27th ult., was held the installation meeting of this excellent lodge. The place of meeting, as the hospitable character of the members make inevitable, is known by experience to a great many brethren. The ancient room over St. John's Gate, Clerkenwell, so connected as it is, with celebrated names of note, both authors and actors of bygone days, is well fitted to be the rendezvous of a lodge of the ancient order of Freemasons, which numbers among its members some brethren who have gained a name in professional life. One cannot enter the room without being seized with an inclination to ruminate on the days of Garrick, Johnson, Goldsmith, Hogarth, and a host of others, memories of whom one sees on every wall; but as this is not the business on hand, we force ourselves from such thoughts and confine ourselves to recording the proceedings of Tuesday, when Bro. James W. Callingham, W.M., closed his year of office, and the effect was inducted into the chair of

The necessary business of opening the meeting and confirming the minutes of the preceding meeting having been concluded, the ballot taken for the admission, as a joining member, of Bro. F. B. Smart, of Lodge No. 22, which Bro. F. E. Taylor and Bro. R. T. Callingham were raised to the sublime degree of Master, and Bro. John Westward was passed to the degree of F.C., the ceremonies being performed in a very able manner by Bro. Callingham. The ceremony of installing the W.M. was performed by Bro. Marsh, and it may be believed, from his known excellence as actor and elocutionist, that beautiful as this day is in itself, it gained considerably by being entrusted to such able hands. The officers elected by the W.M. were as follows:—Bro. Pearson, S.W.; Bro. Japheth Tickle, Bro. James Simpson, S.D.; Bro. Edward Ham Legge, J.D.; Bro. J. G. Patey, J.D.; Bro. S. Schmezer, Organist; Bro. J. G. I.G.; Bro. Beckett, Tyler. We cannot do this part of our subject without acknowledging to Bro. Marsh for the Masonic treat we listened to his delivery of the addresses and the proclamation that followed the appointment of officers. On the termination of the lodge the brethren and their numerous guests were to an excellent banquet, served in a room that reflects great credit on Bro. W. C. Callingham, host of the Old Jerusalem Tavern, when we consider the large number of brethren he had to accommodate, and the attention and carefulness of the waiters in their somewhat difficult task, left nothing to be desired. We must add also that the presence of Bro. Terry, Secretary to the Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows, (formerly the Secretary of this lodge) was an immense assistance to the host; for he appeared to anticipate every want, to be everywhere at the same time, and contributed immensely to the success of the evening. On the cloth being drawn the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and heartily responded to, and some very excellent vocal and instrumental music was contributed by Bros. Donald King, Patey, and the Organist of the lodge. After the health of the Queen had been duly honoured, the following Masonic verses (from the pen of Bro. Carpenter, the Secretary) were sung, the first by Bro. Donald King, and the second by Bro. Patey.

God save our gracious Queen,
Long live our noble Queen,
God save the Queen.
May peace and plenty reign,
Through all her wide domain;
God save the Queen.

"Oh, Lord, our God, who sees
Our hidden mysteries,
On Thee we call:
So rule our hearts that we May, in Freemasonry, Faithful and loyal be—
Oh, save us all."

The W.M. proposed "The Health of Bro. Callingham, I.P.M.," in a short but excellent speech, in which he highly commended the work of Bro. Callingham in all the offices he had filled, but most especially in that of Deacon, styling him the "Prince of Deacons," and adding that the lodge had had no such other Deacon. He had been requested by the lodge to present Bro. Callingham with a P.M. jewel, which he now did in the name of the Urban Lodge, and with pleasure he invested him with it, trusting that he would wear it for many years to come, in remembrance of that evening. Bro. Callingham, in reply, thanked the W.M. for the kind things he had said of him, and the lodge for the handsome token of their regard which had been presented to him. He felt very proud of his position on the left side of the chairman, which was the right side at the same time. There was one circumstance of which he was truly proud, however, and that was, that he was the first brother, initiated in the lodge, who had passed the chair. He thanked them from his heart for the honour they had done him. Bro. Callingham concluded by proposing "The Health of the W.M.," trusting that he would have a successful year of office, and feeling sure that he is performing the functions of his high office with satisfaction to the lodge and credit to himself. The chairman having made a suitable reply, several other toasts were drunk, and many excellent speeches made which we have not space to repeat, and the proceedings were not terminated till a late hour. There were a large number of visiting brethren present.

HAMPTON COURT.—Burdett Lodge (No. 1293).—The installation of Bro. Henry Phythian as fifth Master of this flourishing lodge took place on Saturday, the 24th ult., at the Mitre Hotel, Hampton Court, and attracted a large number of members and visitors. Bro. D. R. Still, W.M., opened the lodge, supported by Bros. Phythian, S.W.; F. Keiley, J.W.; R. Wentworth Little, P.M., Treas.; H. G. Buss, P.M., Sec.; R. W. Stewart, P. D. Prov. G. M.; S. Rosenthal, P. Prov. G.W.; D. S. Pearce, P.M., D.C.; E. Baxter, P.G. Steward, and other brethren. Bros. H. M. Gordon and Sadler were passed to the second degree, and then Bro. John Hervey, the Grand Secretary, took the chair, and installed the W.M. elect in his usual finished style of working. The officers appointed or invested for the year were as follows:—Bros. Frederick Keiley, S.W.; D. R. Pearce, P.M. 657, J.W.; Rev. D. Shaboe, P.M. 554, Chaplain; R. Wentworth Little, P.M. 1295, &c., Treas.; H. G. Buss, P.M. 27, Secretary; I. Coalbank, S.D.; J. W. Berrie, J.D.; R. Kotzenberg, I.G.; D. Bindoff, D.C.; J. Gilbert, Tyler. The new W.M. then gave a proof of his proficiency in the Craft by initiating separately Messrs. Alfred Edmonds and Southwell—a ceremony which he rendered so excellently as to receive the congratulations of over twenty P.Ms. present. The auditors' report was read and approved, and several propositions—including one for a P.M.'s jewel to the retiring W.M.—having been favourably entertained, the lodge was closed, and the brethren sat down to a most enjoyable banquet. After dinner the usual toasts were given, and the evening passed away in the pleasant interchange of those Masonic sentiments to which a well regulated social board of brethren is assuredly not opposed.

Royal Arch.

KENDAL.—Kendal Castle Chapter (No. 129.)—A regular meeting of this chapter was held at noon on Thursday, January 29th, at the Masonic Rooms, Strogate, Kendal. The M.E.Z., Comp. John Holme, was supported by Comps: John Bowes, P.Z., P.P.G.S.B., as H.; Titus Wilson, J.; Samuel Gawike, P.Z.; W. Dodd, P.Z.; Jas. Gooding, N.; R. J. Nelson, P.S.; H. Rauthmell; W. Tattisall, John Bell, John Mills, and Daniel Cleary, Janitor. The chapter was opened in due form by the Principals, when the rest of the companions were admitted, and the minutes of the previous convocation read and confirmed. The ballot was then taken for three candidates, which proved unanimous in each case. The meetings having been hitherto held on the last Friday in certain months and that day being inconvenient, it was unanimously agreed to change the day to Thursday, and Comp. Scribe E. was requested to communicate the fact to the Supreme Grand Chapter. A long and animated conversation now took place with reference to the formation of a Provincial Grand Chapter for the regulation of Royal Arch Masonry in the Province of Cumberland and Westmoreland. There being no further business, the chapter was closed in ancient form.

HAMPTON COURT.—Burdett Chapter (No. 1293).—This new chapter met at the Mitre Hotel, Hampton Court, on the 17th ult., under the presidency of Comp. R. Wentworth Little, P.Z., the H. (Comp. Col. Burdett, M.E.Z., being unfortunately too ill to attend), J. Boyd, P.Z., as H.; F. Davison, J. After the usual ballot Bros. Lieutenant Colonel James Peters, T. Massa, P.M.; I. S. Gordon, W. Wrigglesworth, and R. S. Bennett, were duly exalted, the work being exceedingly well done by the Principals and the new P.S., Comp. Henry Phythian, who had only been exalted at the preceding meeting in January; Comps. D. S. Pearce and F. Keily, Asst. Soj., and J. H. Tyler, D.C. Presents of Bibles from Comps. Boyd and White were suitably acknowledged, and the chapter was then closed. A most agreeable evening was afterwards enjoyed at the social board by all present, amongst those already named, we noticed Comps. H. G. Buss, Treas.; H. C. Levander, S.E.; S. Rosenthal, P.Z.; I. Coalbank, W.; R. Woodman, M.D., P.Z.; and a visitor from the Rose of Denmark Chapter, No. 975.

STONEHOUSE.—St. John's Union Lodge (No. 244).—On the 29th ult., Stonehouse was all astir, as it was known that the Freemasons of that locality intended to hold high festival. The lodge room was tastefully decorated for the occasion, the most conspicuous object being a splendid new banner, painted for the lodge by Bro. G. Kenning, of 145, Argyle-street, the artistic finish of which elicited the admiration of all present. The viands, supplied by Bro. Miller, of the Black Bull Inn, were not only abundant in quantity, but excellent in quality, and well sustained his name as a caterer for the enjoyment of the brethren. After the removal of the cloth, the R.W.M., Bro. J. Barr, who was in the chair, gave the usual loyal, Masonic, and patriotic toasts, all of which met with a good reception. He then called on Bro. Gavin Mutter, to make the presentation to the I.P.M., Bro. John Froud. It consisted of a splendid apron and large gold Past Master's jewel, with a suitable inscription, which had been supplied from Bro. George Kenning's Glasgow House. In the course of his remarks, he said Shakespeare says, "There is a tide in the affairs of men which taken at the ebb leads on to fortune." Now Bro. Froud had taken their lodge in hand when it was at very low ebb, it was in fact quite low water with them, but under his skilful guidance, they were now in the full tide of prosperity, and his successor need only trim his sails properly to reach the haven of perfect success. Bro. Froud had so filled that chair that he had endeared himself to them all, and on behalf of the whole lodge he now would present him with that highest token of worth, a Masonic Apron, the "badge of innocence and truth," and also with a Past Master's jewel, to show the rank he had attained and the respect in which he was held by all his brethren, who wished not only to him, but also to his wife and family, all those blessings which the Great Architect of the Universe has promised to those who faithfully perform their duty. (Cheers.) Bro. Froud, in reply, assured the Lodge that he felt highly honoured by this flattering mark of their esteem. His only regret was that he had not been able to do more than he had done to deserve it. They had been pleased to kindly allude to his services to the Craft and to Lodge 244 in particular, but he felt that he had only been doing his duty, but he must confess that it made his heart glad not only to find that his efforts had been appreciated, but that they had resulted in the present high position of the lodge. The apron and jewel he should wear with pride as well as pleasure, and he felt sure that their new R.W.M. would worthily uphold the honour of the lodge and that all the brethren would rally round their new banner with as much love and enthusiasm as he and a few others had drawn round the old one. He would propose a bumper to their new Master and success to the old lodge. The R.W.M. replied in suitable terms, and toast, song and sentiment kept the brethren in social enjoyment till the hour of high twelve, when the lodge was closed in peace and harmony.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF GLASGOW.—On Thursday, the 29th inst., Bro. James Steel, P.M., Kilwinning No. 4, and Substitute Provincial Grand Master of the Glasgow district, invited the whole of the office-bearers to a banquet at his own residence, where a sumptuous repast was prepared for them. All the invited guests attended, with the exception of the P.G.M., who is in Naples. As the banquet was in some respects a private one, we will only say that full justice was done to the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, and that the health and prosperity of the kind host and his worthy family were not forgotten, all feeling that this social and fraternal meeting was a happy prelude and fine contrast to the excitement in political circles at this moment consequent on the election, here all were indeed brothers, though the next day they might stand on a different platform.

GLASGOW.—Caledonian Unity Chapter (No. 73) held their regular monthly meeting on the 27th ult., G. Macdonald, Z., presiding, assisted by Comps. G. W. Wheeler, H.; J. Tweed, J.; J. Balfour, P.Z., Scribe E. A lodge of Mark Masters was opened, when Bro. Thos Neal, of Lodge 73, was introduced and advanced to that degree, Bro. J. Park, acting as Master Overseer. On the dais were J. Crabb, P.Z. 50; T. Halkett, Z. 117; and J. O. Park, Z. 122. Some discussion arose as to whether it was competent for a brother to change his mark, ultimately it was decided that the Scribe should write to the Grand Scribe E., to know if a brother who by mistake had taken a Mark that has not the requisite number of points can be allowed to change it. As it is a question of some importance perhaps some of our readers could throw some light on the question.

The annual ball in connection with the Pembroke Lodge, 1299, will take place at the Assembly Rooms, Hardman-street, Liverpool, on the 12th inst.

A Grand Council of the Illustrious Knights K.H. 30th will be held at the Masonic Hall, 33, Golden Square, on Wednesday, 11th inst.

Original Correspondence.

THE CONVIVIAL BOARD. To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Your Correspondent, M.M., preaches, but does not practice. His letter upon the above subject is replete with unfairness and misrepresentation, he is evidently not possessed of that charity "which thinketh no evil and is kind;" his mind is either obtuse or he is prejudiced, or he would have perceived that the purport of my letter was simply to refute certain unfounded allegations put forth by Bro Kilpatrick, and not to question motives. I hope I am sufficiently conversant with the rules of propriety to avoid personalities when dealing with principles? This M.M. has yet to learn. He wishes to be taken as a guide, but himself, has lost his way. He denounces "vituperative terms," yet is not niggard in employing them; he disclaims being a special pleader for Bro. Kilpatrick, yet, in the same paragraph makes a special plea for him, demanding forgiveness on his behalf on the ground that it is "human to err," and at the same time reminds me of our duty to correct errors. I ask M.M., is it not the duty of all men as well as every Freemason to be sure of the truthfulness of statements before submitting them for publication?

M.M.'s next special plea is to point out an extenuating circumstance; Bro. Kilpatrick being on the other side of the Atlantic, cannot therefore be conversant with the exact state of Masonic affairs in this country; this does not in any way mend the matter, for his ignorance should have induced silence. I am not responsible for anything done against the wish of the Great City Lodge. I deal with facts and not intentions. Finding publicity given to an act of self-denial, which is frequently practised in most lodges, but which was supposed to be a novel virtue introduced for the first time by the above lodge, I felt it to be our duty to deny that such was the case. Is that high treason.

The spirit of charity which "thinketh no evil, and is kind" has not enabled M.M. to perceive this, prejudice causes the mental vision to become oblique and perverts the plainest truth.

The rest of the lucubration is so contemptuous, so devoid of truth, and so full of whining cant and maudlin sentimentality that I will pass it, and only point out that M. M.'s charity, which "thinketh no evil, and is kind," did not restrain him from administering a sly kick to the lottery for life governorships, of the working whereof he is obviously ignorant; its value I confidently leave to the judgment of those who have witnessed its results. Perhaps the charity which "thinketh no evil, and is kind," will induce M. M. to read the very fraternal letter by the W.M. of the Great City Lodge, which was published side by side with his own; he will find that I could not be far wrong, as the W.M. coincides in the main with the statements advanced.

Unlike M. M., who is either diffident or cowardly and hides his identity under very tantalizing initials, I frankly and fearlessly sign myself,

Yours fraternally,

JOHN CONSTABLE,
S.W. and W.M. elect, 185.

LODGE BANQUETS AND PAYMENTS BY THE CONSUMERS.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Much of Bro. Gottheit's second letter I endorse, and so also the communication from Bro. Constable.

My advocacy simply amounts to this, I do not pretend to advise the members to have "bread and cheese" suppers, or in any way to seek the curtailment of their legitimate enjoyment, and therefore particularly desire to be considered quite independent of any who think otherwise, so that my aims may not suffer from being involved with chimerical notions. All I say is, in having banquets after lodge meetings let the consumers pay for them, either by separate payments or inclusive subscriptions. Do not allow members paying twenty shillings annually, to eat and drink two shillings worth monthly, or in other words twenty-four shillings' worth every year.

Have as expensive or as economical banquets, brethren, as you desire, so that the funds subscribed for charitable and other Masonic purposes be not infringed upon. If you like, friends, to omit an expensive banquet now and then, as No. 765 (Lodge of Faith, London) did, or as others have done, and devote the money so saved to charity, I say well done. Who that is a Mason can say otherwise?

Yours fraternally,
W. J. HUGHAN.

LODGE REPORTS.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

In your last issue you inserted a letter on the above subject, but as the reports are not given, your readers are not able to ascertain whether the Editor of the newspapers in question may not have copied the particulars from The Freemason.

I think you should satisfy us on the point before asking us to condemn the Sheffield brethren.

M. J. M.

MASONIC RELICS.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Under the above heading you noticed in last week's impression a mallet said to have been found in the ruins of Melrose Abbey, but I am afraid that but few of the Glasgow brethren, however much they may be interested in Masonic relics, will be able to inspect this one.

The notice concludes with an intimation that it is to be seen at the Lodge Melrose St. John, No. 1, on paying a small fee to the Benevolent Funds of the said Lodge. Now, however willing myself or others may be to contribute our mite in aid of Masonic charity, we dare not exercise it in the present instance.

Doubtless you were not aware that the body calling themselves "Lodge Melrose St. John No. 1" is, to use the mildest term, an unrecognised assembly, working without a charter or other authority from the Grand Lodge of Scotland, and as such the Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow has twice issued notices to all lodges and brethren within their jurisdiction to take care neither to admit them into our Lodge or to recognize them in any other way, either by visiting their lodge, or by admitting them to be entitled to be considered as Freemasons in any sense of the word.

This being the state of matters here, we fear least any strangers visiting our city and unacquainted with the facts, may visit this so-called lodge, for they throw open their doors very widely to all visiting brethren, as they have much to gain and nothing to lose by the visits of recognised Freemasons. They certainly are not so exclusive as the Middlesex Lodge, and Bro. Biggs would not have been turned from their door because no brother present was personally known to him. On the contrary they frequently advertise their meetings and "request the attendance of visiting brethren."

There are said to be four lodges at present in Melrose, three of them, the No. 15 Kilwinning founded in 1745; the St. Peters, No. 210 founded in 1759; and the Incorporated Kilwinning, No. 102, founded 1792; these, since the Union of Lodge Mother Kilwinning No. 9, all hold charters from the Grand Lodge, and work constitutionally, but there is another called the Melrose which claims to be older than the Mother Kilwinning, and boasts that it can show direct list of Masters from the time of the founding of Melrose Abbey, but we believe they have failed to produce those proofs, either to Bro. Murray Lyon, Bro. W. J. Hughan, or any other Masonic Historiographer.

This lodge has always maintained its independence, not acknowledging the Grand Lodge of Scotland, but it is only recently that she has sanctioned the erection of daughter lodges. The one to whom this relic has been sent, we believe is the first.

It is a great pity that the relic should have been sent to a lodge which is not recognized by the Grand Lodge of Scotland.

times some arrangement cannot be made between the Grand Lodge and the old Melrose body, so as to prevent any Masonic scandal, and the working of unrecognised parties. Trusting that this communication may tend to this desirable result.
I remain, Yours fraternally,
G. H. W.

RIGHTS OF VISITING BRETHREN.

To the Editor of the Freemason.
Dear Sir and Brother,
I have never read the Book of Constitutions of the Grand Lodge of England, nor could I, on less reliable authority than your article of last week, on the above subject, have believed that such an absurd and truly un-masonic regulation existed in any Masonic work.
At our installation we state that "we admit that no innovation can be made in Freemasonry, &c." and yet we find in the Book of Constitutions itself, the most glaring, absurd, inconsistent, and suicidal innovation that could well be conceived (Regulation No. 1, on the "Rights of Visiting Brethren.") Glaring, because no Mason could read it and fail to see its absurdity; absurd, because directly opposed to the noblest principles of Freemasonry; inconsistent, because it forbids us to do that which our oaths and obligations compel, and our hearts prompt us to do; suicidal, inasmuch as it saps the very vitals of our institution, makes local that which should be universal, prevents the development of those virtues taught by St. John the Baptist and St. John the Evangelist, and virtually deprives Masons of the greatest benefits and most beautiful privileges of the Order.
I challenge any Freemason to prove that the regulation in question is either Masonic, just, or sensible.
What can be the use of signs, grips, and words, if we are not to admit to our lodges any but those who are "perfectly known?" How is it possible for a stranger in a strange province or county to be "perfectly known?" Five thousand years ago the "word" alone was deemed sufficient to travel into a "far country" with. We hear nothing of diplomas and the "perfectly known" business in those days.
You state that every W.M. is bound to see the regulations enforced, and yet you assert that, according to your own experience, 99 out of every 100 lodges do not enforce it. Surely something must be radically wrong? Either the regulation should be struck out of the Book of Constitutions, or it should be enforced by every lodge.
On this side the Tweed we are allowed more latitude. It is not often that any proof is required, and still more seldom that a diploma is required to be shown. I have visited over 100 lodges in and around Glasgow, and never tested, and then not half tested, but once, on no occasion have I been asked to produce a diploma. I care but little for documentary evidence myself. That could be forged. But a Mason can prove himself "good and true" and pass himself on all points, I know he has been taught. Strangers such as these, and only who can prove themselves, will be admitted in any lodge over which I may have control, no matter from whence they hail.
I am, Sir, fraternally yours,
THOMAS STRATFORD, R.W.M., of Lodge
Glasgow Melrose St. John's, No. 1,

AL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.
Dear Sir and Brother,
I beg to remark that the appointment of a non-Mason as Instructor at our Institution, Boys' School, is an encroachment on our rights and calls loudly for protest from the Craft. Many non-Masons are not only prejudicial to the Craft, but even enemies to it. It is wrong to detract in the least from the nominee, I do think that on principle ought to be dismissed. We have many good and worthy brethren who would be happy to assume a post, which ought to have been duly advertised for the benefit of the proper candidates:

Yours fraternally,
G.

OPENING OF A MASONIC HALL.
AT SEAHAM HARBOUR.

On Tuesday night, 6th January, the opening of the new Masonic Hall was inaugurated by a most successful ball. The Fawcett Lodge of Freemasons was consecrated on the 27th of March, 1856, now nearly 18 years ago, and ever since that time the brethren have held their meetings at the Lord Seaham Inn. For the last four or five years, however, owing to the large increase in the number of members, the want of more commodious premises has been much felt. The members of the lodge, therefore, resolved to form themselves into a limited liability company, and have erected a handsome and substantial building on the North Road, adjoining the Sea View Villas. With his usual liberality, the Most Noble the Marquess of Londonderry, P.M. of the lodge, and Fast Grand Warden of England, has come forward in a most handsome manner, and greatly assisted the undertaking. Geo. Elliott, Esq., M.P., W.M. of the Avon Lodge, has also lent considerable aid. The building, which has just been opened, is in the Italian style of architecture, designed by Bro. Wm. Forster, W.M., Architect, having a frontage of 60 feet, with four pilasters, with cement and white glazed brick dressings, carved and moulded architraves round the windows, the whole surmounted with cornice, pediment, and balustrading. The interior of the building consists of—on the ground floor—a large club-room, billiard-room, cellar, lavatories, residence for the attendants, &c. On the upper floor, the lodge room, forty feet long by twenty-two feet wide and seventeen feet high, with preparing and refreshment rooms. In rear of the building is a plot of ground which it is intended to use as a quoit ground, and for other out-door amusements. The ball on Tuesday night was, as we have said, a great success. The lodge room was used for dancing, the club-room for refreshments, the billiard-room for card tables, and the smoking-room for the ladies' cloak-room. The ball-room was very tastefully decorated with banners, evergreens, mottoes, and green-house plants, the latter being most effectively placed no very beautiful brackets in leather work, the work of, and kindly contributed by Bro. Shepherd, and Miss Watson. The ball was opened at nine o'clock by the W.M. and Miss Shepherd. Bro. H. B. Wright, officiated as M.C., assisted by Bros. Shepherd, Armstrong, and Wells. Dancing was kept up with great spirit till a late hour. Mr. Wetherall's band was in attendance, and refreshments of a first-class character were supplied by Mrs. Taylor, of the King's Arm Inn. On Wednesday night a juvenile party was given to the children of those present on the previous night, which afforded the rising generation an opportunity of enjoying themselves.
This being the first regular meeting of this lodge held at the New Masonic Hall, after having been opened by the above-named ball, under the presidency of the W.M., Bro. Forster, who was well supported by his officers, and a numerous attendance, the lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the last general lodge and emergency having been read and confirmed, the following gentlemen were balloted for and approved of, Mr. Jonathan Pearson and Mr. Jas. Clare, as candidates for initiation, also Bros. Henry Tomkinson, Robert Robertson, Frederick Maddison, Andrew Wickie and Gerald Bernard were admitted as joining members. The candidates for initiation not being present, Bro. Scofield, a candidate for the F.C. degree, was then questioned respecting his knowledge of the former degree, which proved satisfactory, he was entrusted with the test of merit, and retired. The lodge was then opened on the square, and Bro. Scofield was passed to the second degree. The lodge was then lowered to the first degree, when two brethren were proposed as joining members, afterwards a vote of thanks was passed with acclamation to Bro. W. A. Dawber, of Hull, for his handsome present of a set of candlesticks, supplied from the establishment of Bro. George Kenning, of London. The lodge was then closed with solemn prayer, and in harmony, and the brethren afterwards retired for refreshment.

BRO. CONSTABLE'S "DRAW."

The novel process of securing subscriptions in aid of the Masonic Benevolent Institution for the Aged, projected by Bro. John Constable, produced its first fruits on Wednesday, the 21st inst. The proceeds of the sale of 2000 shilling tickets were divided into ten life governorships of the institution. These were drawn forth in the presence of a number of brethren at the Confidence Lodge of Instruction, held at the Railway Tavern, London-street, E.C., immediately after the usual business had been disposed of. Curiously enough, five of those who had purchased tickets at the last moment in the lodge room, held successful numbers.

The following are the names of those who have been fortunate:—

- No. 5, Bro. W. Lane, Freemason's Hall.
- " 14, " J. G. B., 70, Church-street, Greenwich.
- " 433, " Fitzgerald.
- " 478, " R. Limpus, 41, Queen-square.
- " 1127, " E. Gottheil, 120, Mile End-rd.
- " 1372, " D. Posener, 11, Mansell-st., E.
- " 1704, " S. E. Moss, Lodge 185.
- " 1692, " Jabez Garret, 79½ Wailing-st.
- " 1889, " John Greenburgh, Surrey side, Ellesmere Park, Eccles, near Manchester.
- " 1998, " Hollands, Leadenhall-st.

The example set by Bro. Constable in this matter seems well worthy of consideration; although "praised by some and blamed by others." He had faith in his idea and pursued his course unflinchingly. With untiring industry and perseverance he brought his task to a successful conclusion.

Owing to the prevailing excitement, the meeting separated without according a vote of thanks to Bro. Constable, but gratitude is evidently due to that brother from all who subscribed, for the trouble he has taken in this matter, and especially so from those, who by his means have attained to the honour and privilege of being Life Governors of the institution. They at any rate should always be prepared to aid, as is in their power, in any future attempt which may probably be made by him or others in the same direction. For it must be borne in mind that however charitably disposed men are, it generally requires some energetic spirit to keep the sentiment of benevolence from becoming dormant, and guide and direct in into its proper channel.

MASONIC BIBLIOGRAPHY.

The book reported by Bro. W. J. Hughan in your paper of the 24th, is not, I think, correctly nor fully described. In a very carefully compiled catalogue of books on Freemasonry and other kindred subjects, in my possession, it is thus given:—"Cleland (William). The way of things by words, and to words by things; being a sketch of an attempt at the retrieval of the ancient Celtic or Primitive Language of Europe; to which is added a succinct account of the Sanscrit, or learned language of the Brahmins; also two essays, the one on the origin of the musical waits at Christmas, the other on the Real Secret of the Freemasons, 8 vo. pp. 130, London, 1776.

JOHN HOGG.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Disease in some shape is ever rife amongst mankind; impurity of the blood, or irregularity of function, is constantly giving rise to dependency, debility, or distempers. In the above-named remedies the community can have, at a little cost, the safe and certain means of preventing or checking, and curing, both outward ailments and inward maladies. Ample, plainly printed, and very intelligible directions accompany every package of both ointment and pills, which only require attentive study to enable any invalid to be his or her own medical adviser. The earlier these powerful remedies are employed after discovery of the disease, the more rapid will be their action in expelling from the system all noxious matter, and restoring health.—ADVT.

THE HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY,
FROM ITS ORIGIN TO THE PRESENT DAY.

Drawn from the best sources and the most recent investigations.

BY J. G. FINDEL,

Second Edition, Revised, and Preface written by
Bro. D. MURRAY LYON.

One vol., 800, pages 8vo., with an Index. Cloth gilt. Price, 10s. 6d.

"This book is a strictly historical one, from which all is excluded that is not based upon ascertained or probable fact."—Builder.

"Of its value to Freemasons, as a detailed history of their Brotherhood, it is not possible to speak too highly."—Public Opinion.

"The author seems to have fairly exhausted the subject."—The Athenaeum.

"The edition we are now considering is a second English edition, which had the great advantage of Bro. D. M. Lyon's able superintendence and editorship in its English dress. There can be no doubt but, that so far, Bro. Findel's work is the most complete work on Freemasonry which has yet appeared, and that he deserves the greatest credit for his careful and accurate treatment of all evidence on the subject, and for his honest desire after truth. Bro. Findel gives up in the view he has so clearly and consistently put forth our early Masonic history, the older theory of the Roman Colleges, &c., and limits the origin of Freemasonry to about the twelfth century, and as then arising from the operative Masons, and specially the "Steinmetzen" and "Bauhuten" of Germany. Bro. Findel gives us a good deal of evidence on this head, and one thing is clear from his work, that the German Freemasons were, at a very early period, organized into lodges with a Master over them, and with outward regulations and inner ceremonies peculiar to the Craft. Bro. Findel rejects all the views which have been from time to time put forward of a Templar or a Rosicrucian origin. Whether or no Bro. Findel's theory of the date of the rise of Freemasonry be correct, matters very little: we do not ourselves profess to accept it; but this we can fairly say of Bro. Findel's work, it is marked from first to last by the most remarkable token of industry, ability, and care, of patient research, and of skilful criticism. We know of no work which so clearly sets before us our amount of knowledge up to the present time on the great question of Masonic Archaeology, and there can be little doubt that what Preston's work is to English Freemasonry, Findel's work is to cosmopolitan Freemasonry. Indeed no student in Masonry can now dispense with it, and it is a perfect storehouse both of Masonic evidence and Masonic illustrations. We earnestly recommend all the lodges in this country to obtain a copy for the lodge library before the work is bought up for America; and we believe that no Mason will rise from the perusal of its pages without a higher idea both of the historical truth and intrinsic value of Freemasonry, and of fraternal regard and recognition to the latest and not the least well-informed or effective of our Masonic historians. The present century has produced no such equal, in authority and usefulness, to the great work of our Bro. Findel, and we wish him and it, in all of fraternal sympathy and kindly intent, many earnest readers, and more grateful students."—The Masonic Magazine.

"This volume is the history of Masonry par excellence. Every interested person may regard it, therefore, as the present text-book on the subject."—Manchester Guardian

Post Office orders to be made payable to George Kenning, Chief Office, London.

It is very necessary for our friends to advise us of all money orders they remit, more especially those from the United States of America, otherwise we cannot tell where to credit them. Several remain uncredited at the present time owing to no advice having been received.

OUR MASONIC CHARITIES.

A very interesting résumé of the past efforts and present position of our Masonic Charities has recently been published by Bro. Henry Watson, S.W. 1386, Lincoln, which deserves to be read and thought over by the Craft.

According to Bro. Watson's calculations, the funded property of the Girls' School is as follows:—Invested in Three Per Cent. Consols, £28,000; invested in Three Per Cent. Consols, as a Sustainment Fund and Improvement Account, £1,950; cost of freehold land and buildings, (all which are paid for) £30,062—or in all £60,012.

It would appear that the fixed income of the Institution is £840 per annum, and that the annual expenditure may be estimated at about £5,300 annually, leaving yearly a considerable sum to be raised from the benevolence of the Craft, which has always cheerfully and liberally supported this admirable Institution, of which, as Freemasons, we may be justly proud.

Probably before very long the increasing demands of our Order will require enlarged accommodation at the School, and we feel certain that when the time comes, the House Committee will be warmly supported by all the members of our Order.

Some alterations have recently been made to increase the accommodation, but we cannot shut our eyes to the fact, that, with our rapidly augmenting numbers, we shall eventually have more claimants on our fraternal sympathy; and if that be the case, unless, ere long, the accommodation at the Girl's School be increased, very many poor applicants must be "left out in the cold."

The Boys' School, which Bro. Watson next notices, will in April next accommodate 170 boys; but even this number cannot fail to be augmented before long by the constantly increasing demands for admission.

The Boys' School has been enlarged, as many of our readers well know, at a considerable cost, viz. :—£47,116 6s. 4d., the whole of which sum has been defrayed from the original funded property of the School, and from the liberal support of our brethren.

All honour to them!

But in consequence of the late death of the Boys' School has been all—no certain income—and depends entirely on the voluntary efforts and liberal support of the brethren annually.

The freehold property may be estimated as representing, we think, about £50,000 in value.

The ordinary expenses of the institution may be estimated at £5,400, in round numbers annually, but there are as a general rule, extraordinary expenses, which may be estimated at £750 more, making in all £6,100.

There can be no doubt, however, that these expenses must somewhat increase, as the numbers of the School increase, and our own belief long has been, that, the School, if its present healthy and improving "status" continue, will before many years have passed away, owing to the wants of our numerous fraternity, have to provide for not less than 300 boys; indeed there is no reason why the School should not eventually take a very high position as an educational Institution in the country.

Recently a new Master has been elected, and we shall all, as Freemasons, earnestly hope, that, the School under his "régime," will go on and prosper.

There can be no doubt, we are glad to think, that our ever-ready and large-hearted brethren will continue, as heretofore, liberally to support this very useful and needful Institution.

The two Benevolent Funds are lastly adverted to by Bro. Watson. The Male Fund has £23,700 invested in Government stocks. The expenses and annuities amount, in round numbers, to £3,500, and as, therefore, its fixed income is in round numbers £700 a year, nearly £3,300 are required annually to keep this excellent Institution in working order.

In all probability, before very long, the number of annuitants will have to be increased, and the amount of annuities, to meet the increased rise in prices of all kinds, and we have not the slightest fear, but that such increased expenditure will be at once provided for by the members of our kindly brotherhood.

The Female Fund it seems has £14,200 invested, which gives it a fixed income of a little over £300 a year. Its expenses amount to £1,786 15s. 5d. annually, so that £2,300 have annually to be raised from the lodges and brethren.

The asylum at Croydon represents about £5,000 in value.

Bro. Watson shews very conclusively, we think, that, our Charitable Institutions are very economically conducted, and bear a very favourable comparison with like associations.

He points out, that, the whole freehold and dotted property of the Order in these four cities, may be estimated at £149,912, which has been raised from the munificence of brethren, in excess of the amount required for their annual maintenance.

It is well known that the contributions received year for the three charities reached the very large sum of £21,000, but as Bro. Watson says, "we have so far only reached probably the 'minimum' of relief, not the maximum."

When we remember that the annual grants from the Order of Benevolence amount to not less than £300 annually, and the very large sum which is voted from our provincial and private lodges, we see what a constant claim there is on our Masonic Charity, and we may feel proud of that good old English Craft of ours, which so unostentatiously exemplifies, what ever has been, and we trust ever will remain, the distinguishing character of a Freemason's heart—Charity.

We feel persuaded that 1874 will witness a notable proof, once again, of the neverchanging sympathies, and undiminished benevolence of our great and prosperous Order.

THE ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

In the foregoing article we have called attention to our great Masonic Charities generally, and we have now great pleasure in reporting to our readers the result of the first Anniversary meeting this year, namely of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, on Wednesday, the 28th ultimo.

The gathering, which seems to have been most numerous and enthusiastic, and brilliant in the extreme—from the large attendance of our fair sisters, ever foremost in all works of beneficence and usefulness—was presided over by Lord Waveney, P.G.M. for Suffolk, and who made a thoroughly efficient Chairman. We refer our readers to the detailed report of the proceedings and speeches on the occasion.

We beg to congratulate the Order generally, on the remarkable result of this most interesting anniversary of so valued and important an institution.

Bro. Terry announced—and his few simple words—suggest countless, topics of thought and satisfaction that the lists then handed in amounted to £5,063 12s. with thirteen lists yet to come in.

We shall not be far wrong probably in assuming then, that the whole amount will eventually be nearer £6,000 than £5,000.

And even, if the amount announced, is not very largely increased by the subsequent lists, it is, it appears, the largest sum yet subscribed at any anniversary of the institution, except the one presided over by our illustrious and R.W.P.G.M., H.R.H. the Prince of Wales.

This, then, is a good beginning, and reflects the highest credit on the liberal efforts and actual benevolence of our brethren, and we trust, that at the Boys' School anniversary, to be holden March 11th, and at the Girls' School anniversary, to be celebrated May 13th, we may have happily to chronicle the same continued interest and the same unflagging energy, as have characterised this very successful gathering of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution.

THE GRAND LODGES OF CANADA AND QUEBEC.

By a communication from Montreal, it would seem (and we are very happy to report the fact), that the differences between these two bodies are in a fair way of being healed. A joint committee of 14, 7 from each Grand Lodge will, we are informed, shortly assemble, and all matters in dispute will be submitted entirely to their arbitrament and decision.

Let us hope that this Court of Masonic Arbitration will be entirely successful.

WEEKLY SUMMARY.

Her Majesty is still at Osborne.

General Count Peroffski arrived at Osborne, from St. Petersburg, being the bearer of an autograph letter from the Emperor of Russia to the Queen, announcing the celebration of the marriage of the Duke of Edinburgh to the Grand Duchess Marie of Russia.

Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh returned to St. Petersburg on Monday, the 26th January, from Zarsko Seloe, to take part in a succession of public festivities, and were to go to Moscow this week, for the same purpose.

The General Elections have begun, and in about a fortnight will be concluded. Some 242 members have been elected.

News from the Gold Coast has arrived, by which it seems, that the King of the Ashantees had sent an embassy of peace, but Sir G. Wolseley's reply was to the effect, that he would treat with the King in person, at Coomassie.

It is reported semi-officially that Dr. Livingstone died of dysentery on his journey, and necrologies have been written of him with that charitable rapidity, which sometimes distinguishes our good English Press. The news may be true, but as his death has been reported before, it requires distinct confirmation, the more so, as at a large meeting of the Geographical Society, Dr. Kirk doubted the fact, and stated that he had heard the same story at Zanzibar months ago. Let us hope that there is still some mistake, and that the kind-hearted traveller is as yet in the land of the living.

Mr. Hawkins has concluded his able address, on the Castro case, and the Lord Chief Justice has commenced his charge to the jury. It is said, that, it is to last ten days, but probably this week will see the end of this terribly protracted trial. The censure of the judges on Dr. Kenealy's recklessness of speech, and above all, disrespect to the judicial bench, will be approved of by every educated Englishman.

Mr. Jean Luie is again remanded. Mr. Whalley has been examined on his behalf, and "Castro" is to be called—what good such examinations can do Jean Luie, is a secret known only to Mr. Lewis. Sir Thomas Henry seems to be exceedingly astonished.

Mr. Guildford Onslow, who has made himself conspicuous in this unhappy case, has not been able to retain his seat for Guildford, but is replaced by a gentleman of the same name, "Denzil Onslow."

Abroad there is positively nothing of importance received.

The Carlists seem successful in the north, and to be becoming very strong there.

We have to record the deaths of Lord Colonsay, of Lord St. John, of Sir Walter Palk Carew, of Mr. Levy, director of the Association for Promoting the General Welfare of the Blind, and of an old retired officer, Major Dennis Dunn.

Reviews.

"Keystone Masonic Almanack."

We have received this useful little publication for 1874, forwarded by our excellent Bro. Clifford Mc Calla, of Philadelphia.

We were very glad to receive it, as we always hail any little matter which serves to connect us with our brethren in America, and to make us feel that the spirit of Masonry can pass over "dividing waters" and distant lands, and unite in fraternal interest and sympathy, American and English Freemasons.

The little volume is well got up, and contains a great deal of useful information. We would venture to suggest, that, another year, the advertisements should be relegated to the end of the little pamphlet, and nothing but what is purely Masonic should appear in the pages of the Calendar.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

On Wednesday, 28th ult., the annual festival in aid of Benevolent Fund for Aged Freemasons and the Widows of Freemasons, was held at Freemason's Hall, Great Queen-street, when the Right Hon. Lord Waveney, P.G.M. for Suffolk, presided, supported, on his immediate right by the R.W. Bro. Capt. Wm. Platt, J.G.W., P.M., of 6, and on his immediate left by V.W. Bro. Rev. Charles J. Martyn, Vice-president of the Institution, P.G. Chaplain, and W.M. of 1224. Among the many eminent members of the Craft present, we observed the following:—Bros. Major Creaton, B. Head, Raynham Stewart, C. A. Cottebrune, T. Cubitt, William Ough, John Boyd, Dr. Strong, Honorary Surgeon to the Institution, Thomas Wylie, John Hervey, Grand Sec., J. B. Monckton, R. Spiers, P.G.S.B.; Dr. J. D. Moore, M.D., A. A. Richards, F. Binckes, Secretary of the Boys' School, R. W. Little, Sir Gilbert Campbell, Bart.; Major Whithead, the Rev. Thomas Cochrane, H. Smith, William Hills, Prov. J.W. Suffolk, William Boby, Esq., P.G.S.W. Suffolk, and W. H. Lucia.

There was a very large gathering of the brethren to do honour to the presidency of Lord Waveney, and the end of the banquet hall was brilliant indeed with a large assemblage of ladies. All the arrangements for dining were excellent, and as the noble Chairman afterwards remarked, the assembled hundreds were enabled to enjoy the banquet with the same quiet and comfort as they might have had in private life. After ample justice had been done to the viands, however, the real business of the evening commenced, and was conducted to its close very pleasantly by Lord Waveney, who spoke well and very much to the purpose. The following is a detailed report of the speeches.

Right Worshipful Grand Junior Warden, Worshipful Officers and brethren, the toast which I now rise to propose is one which, given thousands and thousands of times in this country, comes always as fresh to the ears of Englishman, and is received with as warm a welcome as it was seven and thirty years ago, when it was new to the country. It boots not to tell the often repeated tale which has been so well told, of the virtues of the illustrious lady who is the subject of the toast, of the sympathy which she ever evinces with our sorrows and our joys, of the same influences which she has gathered round her throne, of the dignity with which she has supported that throne and established it firmly and solidly in the affections of her people. I give you "The Health of the First Lady of England, her Majesty the Queen."

Two verses of the national anthem were then sung, the solo being admirably rendered by Miss Banks.

The Chairman: The toast I am about to give you is one always warmly received and highly appreciated, though varied from time to time, as the happy years go by, with changes in the relations of those truly illustrious persons who are the subjects of the toast. I have to give "The Prince and Princess of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family;" and before entrusting this to your welcome I would remark upon the happy example of united love which it sets to the country. Of the Princess of Wales no one can speak too highly, for coming amongst us as a stranger, she has by her amiability and other admirable qualities enshrined herself in the affections of the people. Of the Prince of Wales I need not particularly to speak here to those who have worked with him in Grand Lodge and who know so well how energetic he is in the cause of Freemasonry generally. Then as to the other members of the Royal Family, there is that illustrious lady who has left her country for another; of some of these ladies who still remain to contribute to form that admirable domestic circle round our Sovereign; they have all their merits, you are well aware, but, as I said, circumstances vary from year to year, the toast that I now had to call upon you to honour, and I have to recall to your minds that a new member has been added to the Royal Family by the marriage of the Duke of Edinburgh—(cheers)— and when he brings his bride from beyond the seas you all know what a welcome she will receive. (Immense cheering.) "The Health of the Prince and Princess of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family, of those members of that illustrious family whose duty it is to seek homes elsewhere, and of those with whom they are united."

This toast was honoured enthusiastically, and the professional ladies and gentlemen present having joined in Brinley Richards' pretty part song, the "Cambrian Plume," the Chairman again rose and said,

On such an occasion as this the toast that I am about to give will commend itself especially to your favourable reception, the distinguished member of the Masonic body whose health I am about to propose is well known to you for his continued exertions, and his energy in the extension of the Craft which he has shown under particularly trying circumstances whenever he could at all find time from the public duties which have devoted his hours to the State, he has come amongst us brethren to assist, and perform, and to preside. Such devotion to the Craft merits acknowledgment from you. Placed at the head of the Masonic body of England his duties are no slight obligation. I believe that you will agree with me that he has fulfilled those duties in a complete and perfect manner, as a good Craftsman putting in good work, and maintaining good work in the way in which it should be done. I give you "The Health of the Marquess of Ripon, President of this Institution."

At the close of this speech the song, "Our Chosen King," was admirably sung by Bro. Frank Elmore, in the chorus of which all present joined very heartily.

The Chairman: Of all professions and employments of civil and civilized life, it is well indeed that men should be found willing and prepared to devote themselves to the duties in whatever degree of the Craft or profession to which they belong. All cannot of course rise to the highest and the guiding point, but all can contribute their efforts, and all such efforts are honourable, and especially in most cases where by continual exertions and labour brethren have brought themselves to distinguished positions in the Craft. And it is of such that I am about to speak. Honour and respect should always wait upon service, and that gradual ascent in the Craft should be, as it is practically, the reward of those exertions. Next to our Most Worshipful Grand Master comes his Deputy, who assists him in his labours for the public good, and none but those who have had occasion to profit by his excellent advice and support, only those who came next to these in rank, can form an opinion how valuable that support and those services are. That those services are most valuable to the Most Worshipful Grand Master I am well aware. That the services of the Present and Past Grand Officers are most valuable we know; I give the "Health of the Right Hon. Earl of Carnarvon, Deputy Grand Master, and the Present and Past Grand Officers."

This toast was honoured with three times three, and was followed by Bishop's song "The Ray of Hope," beautifully sung by Miss Banks, to an obligato accompaniment on the clarinet by Bro. Lazarus.

Bro. Captain Platt, J.G.W.: Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master and brethren, on behalf of the Deputy Grand Master, I beg to offer sincere and hearty thanks for the manner in which this toast has been received. High and honourable as the position of the officers of the Masonic year may be, the honour of their office is circumscribed. Thirteen lunar months embrace the full period of our high estate, we come like shadows, so depart, our reign may be short, but with the poet we can with pride proclaim "One crowded hour of useful life is worth an age without an aim."

The Chairman: Brethren, I now approach what I may term in an especial case the toast of the evening. It is with reference to this that this noble hall is filled with the hundreds of brethren whom I now address, men who have been brought here in furtherance of the great guiding principle which actuates and pervades all Masonic effort, that is, of charity to our brother man. And indeed, I fear I speak with personal ignorance of the merits of the Institutions which are now in question, an ignorance, however, which will be well supplied by the better knowledge of those who have laboured in promoting this festival. But there are some points which must strike every one, appreciation of this great charity written in letters which, in truth, he who runs may read. And first of all, it has struck me with an overpowering and a consoling sense of the association of charitable effort, to find that one of these institutions, which barely reckons five and twenty years of life, and one which reckons some five or six more, have in that time sprung from small shrubs into goodly trees, under whose shade the sick, the needy and the aged find comfort, relief, and rest. Nor in a careless or heedless manner are alms here given, as alms may sometimes be given, from mere weariness of supplication, but with that thought which makes a sustained charity, so to speak, more valuable. I learn what care has been taken in organizing the dwellings for the reception of the aged Freemasons and widows of Freemasons; and again, it has struck me with how noble a courage charity fills those who design to carry out her behests. We know how it is well said, and approved as a moral fact, which comes home to us at every turn of our lives, that if with such a purpose we cast our bread upon the water surely we shall find it after many days, and you (for I speak not of myself, except as one remotely connected with you in this work) have the courage to encounter the risks of such an undertaking in the hope and the belief that the Providence that has smiled upon your efforts will always continue to smile upon them. With regard to the numbers I find that there are 115 brethren, and 82 feeble and aged women who receive the advantages of these institutions, nigh upon 200 human souls, enabled to tread the path that leads to the last bourne of all in that comfort and self respect that Christian men and women of the whole world of humanity are entitled to. I find this also, and it is very striking indeed, that of these nigh upon 200, the average age is no less than 69, within one year of the appointed age of man. Think of how many there must be beyond that limit whose feeble efforts scarcely enable them to feel the warmth of the sun that you give them the means to bask in, that scarcely appreciate the taste, perhaps, of the food with which your generosity provides them, and then you may say indeed with modest pride that you have entered upon a task from which your hand shall not tura back. I speak of the bold daring with which you have taken the risks of the large funds that are required. When you found that the sum allotted to aged Freemasons was not enough, you did not hesitate to add one third to the annual allowance, and with regard to the widows to add the like, and I therefore stand here to tell you, as your Secretary will repeat to you, that you have engaged yourselves to furnish £6,000, for these noble efforts during the next year, and looking upon you and seeing your earnestness in the good cause I have no doubt that you will accomplish that astonishing amount. Then again it appears that there are thirty approved female candidates and only four vacancies. I leave the consideration hopefully in your hands, and with regard to the male candidates there are at present thirty-four approved and only eight vacancies. I doubt not that when your Secretary reads the list of subscriptions this evening you will be able to rejoice in the statement that he will be able to give you, and I am sure that you have abundant cause for thankfulness to Him who has put into your hearts to do such good deeds, and the means to carry them out. I give "Success to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and the Widows of Freemasons." (Great applause)

The toast was drunk with enthusiasm. Bro. Major Creaton; My lord and brethren, on behalf of the Institution, of which I am a Trustee, I beg to tender you my heartfelt thanks for the manner in which you have proposed and received this toast. Our noble Chairman has stated that we have a large number of candidates and very few vacancies. This Institution thank you most heartily for the support you have given it in the past, and trust that it will be continued in the future, and if you will only supply us with the means we shall be happy to place more candidates upon the list of our annuitants.

Bro. Terry, the worthy and energetic Secretary of the Institution, then proceeded to announce the totals of the lists brought up by the various Stewards, and stated that this was almost the largest collection of funds that had been made at any festival of this Institution, the only occasion in which it had been exceeded in amount was that in which His Royal Highness presided.

The following are the amounts on the lists of the several Stewards:—

The grand total amounted to £5,063 11s.; and Bro. Terry stated that thirteen lists, not included in that amount, had still to come in. (Great cheering.)

Bro. Capt. Platt: A sense of gratitude, if no other reason existed, calls upon us to drink the health of a brother whose constant endeavours are to promote the welfare of Freemasonry. The toast I wish to propose is "The Health of Lord Waveney, P.G.M. for Suffolk." By presiding over us at this meeting of benevolence he has won golden opinions from all, and by his influential presence has lent a charm and lustre to a charitable gathering. In grateful acknowledgment of his support let us charge our glasses to the brim, wishing that health and happiness and every blessing may be accorded to our brother during the remaining term of his natural life.

In returning thanks the Chairman said:— This last passage of my Masonic life has been honoured with a degree of kind reception by you for which I confess I was in no wise prepared. I do not speak in the language of self-deprecation, which I hold a very bad compliment to those I address; but indeed I was not prepared to believe that the duties of Chairman merited the kind reception which you have given me. I have done what I can for the benefit of the Craft and I hold that it is a great happiness to preside on this occasion when the enlarged bonds of your charity show, as I learn from your Secretary, a larger amount than in any year except that which was under the presidency of His Royal Highness, the P.G.M., and believe me those who are placed in trust in the Masonic body find their greatest reward in such kind receptions of their efforts as you have shown this evening. I thank you heartily and drink "Health and Prosperity to the Charity." And now brethren I will thank you to drink prosperity to the other Masonic charities. The Boys' School, of which the festival is on the 11th

March, and the Girls' School, whose festival will be held on the 13th May. I trust they will be equally fortunate with this charity. Of this I am sure, that you will find in the annual improvement of those children whose education and instruction you have undertaken, a sure proof of the value of the system under which those schools are conducted. With respect to the reproach that I have not made myself acquainted with the working of the Institution, perhaps the reason was that I could gather that the results were so satisfactory that I did not see the necessity of inquiring into the details; I was content to leave the schools to their able managers. I give you "The Masonic Institutions, the Boys' and the Girls' Schools, coupled with the name of Bro. Binckes, the Secretary of the Boys' School."

Bro. Binckes, in returning thanks, said that it was very characteristic of these associations for the success of the Masonic institutions, that at each meeting the prosperity of the others was never forgotten, and a toast for their prosperity never omitted. On these occasions it was always usual for the officer attached to the Institution whose festival was nearest to be called upon to reply, and as the Festival of the Boys' School was to be held on the 11th March, it was therefore that, he being attached particularly to that Institution, returned thanks on the present occasion. He went on to say that though for the next three weeks men's minds would be greatly occupied with the engrossing business of the parliamentary elections, he trusted that before the festival of the Boys' School came round, people would have had time to get over that excitement and that the success of the Festival would not be endangered thereby. He concluded by thanking the brethren for the manner in which the toast had been received.

The health of the ladies was then proposed in a few effective words from Bro. Capt. Platt, and duly honoured.

The Chairman: Brethren, the end of a very pleasant evening has come at last, an evening we shall all of us recollect with much pleasure, I am sure, but it would be strange indeed if we closed these proceedings without recollecting how much the success, the comfort, and the splendour of the reception and this banquet is dependent upon the exertions of those officers whose health I am about to give you. I give you the toast of "The Stewards." The Stewards is a wide word, and I take it in its widest acceptation, the Stewards who have in the first instance represented their provinces here, and those Stewards who have so thoroughly organised all that is satisfactory in this evening's feast. I have had occasion to remark for the first time how perfect the arrangement has been, to see indeed so great a number meet together for purposes of conviviality with the same quiet and comfort as at similar meetings in their own houses, is a marvel for which we owe service and obligation. The health of the Stewards, coupled with the name of Bro. the Rev. Charles Martyn, Past Grand Chaplain.

Bro. the Rev. C. Martyn having responded to the toast, the brethren adjourned to the Grand Lodge room, where they were entertained with some excellent music, both vocal and instrumental. The professional ladies and gentlemen who performed on the occasion were Miss Banks, Miss Marion Severn, Miss Matilda Scott, Bro. Frank Elmore, Bro. Chaplin Henry, Bro. Lazarus, Bro. W. Dawson, and Bro. F. H. Cozens, the musical arrangements being under the direction of Bro. Seymour Smith, to whom great credit is due for his successful management. The banquet was all that could be desired, even from Bro. Francatelli, the Manager of the Tavern. We must not omit to mention that the brethren had the advantage of the services of Bro. Harker, the Civic Toast Master, whose fine metallic voice rang from end to end of the great banquet room.

DEDICATION OF A NEW MASONIC HALL, AT BERWICK-UPON-TWEED.

Friday, 30th January, 1874, was a day of great interest and importance in the history of Freemasonry in Berwick-upon-Tweed, and, in fact, in the north of England, the occasion being the opening and dedication, according to Masonic rule, with all the appointed solemnities, of the beautiful new Masonic Hall, which has been erected, facing the parade, by the members of the Lodge St. David, No. 393, English Constitution. The new hall is a building highly ornamental to the town, and its erection is honourable to the lodge. It is so situated as to be seen to great advantage, and at once to command the attention of strangers. It is not too much to say that it is the neatest Masonic building in Britain of its size. The foundation stone was laid whilst Bro. Chalmers I. Paton filled the office of W.M. of the lodge, and it was during his reign that the brethren took up the idea that such a hall ought to be erected, and the energy with which they prosecuted the design is very creditable to the Freemasons of Berwick and its neighbourhood.

The members of the lodge, with many brethren, members of other lodges both in England and Scotland, among whom were not a few of high social position and high Masonic rank, assembled at the hall at half-past two o'clock p.m., and having clothed in the cloak-room, took their seats in the grand hall under the direction of a committee of Stewards, wearing blue rosettes; except the Grand and Grand Provincial officers and visitors of distinction present, who assembled in the library, and were conducted to their seats on the dais by a committee of Stewards wearing red rosettes, this committee being composed of Past Masters of the Province of Northumberland, and formed under the direction of the Provincial Grand Director of Ceremonies.

Among those present were—The Most Worshipful Acting Grand Master of the province of Northumberland, Brother Cockcroft; Brothers Hubert Laws, G.S.W.; William Foulsham, J.W.; the Rev. E. L. Marrett, Chaplain; Thomas Anderson, Registrar; T. Y. Strachan, Secretary; Thomas Gillespie, S.D.; Edward Thew Turnbull, J.D.; George R. Brewis, G.S.W.; Edward D. Davies, D.C.; Richard Henry Holmes, A.D.C.; J. R. D. Lynn, B.B.; Richard Watson, S.B.; Adam Wilson, O.; J. S. Trotter, P. of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Northumberland. The Past Masters present of the Lodges of Northumberland were—Brothers G. Moore, J. Ridsdale, R. Towerson, G. R. Brewis, R. H. Holland, E. Thomson, E. Besley, G. J. A. Hoyre, J. C. Chanoler, C. Hopper, C. I. Paton, H. Gibson, J. S. Macgregor, T. Strother, &c. And the visitors were—Brothers Lord James Murray, Sir Dudley Coutts Majoribanks, Lord Bury, T. Allan, E.C., and W. G. Russel, No. 291; J. Wetherhead, Lamberton; R. Dickson, No. 70; W. Steel, P.M., No. 261 S.C. Nearly the whole of the subscribing members of the Lodge St. David, No. 393 E.C., were present.

The procession was formed in the library at three o'clock, and proceeded in order along the corridor up to the Grand Hall. On the procession entering the hall, all the brethren present stood up and received the Provincial Grand Lodge according to ancient custom, whilst a Grand March was performed on the organ, the procession being conducted by the Provincial Grand Director of Ceremonies once round the hall, halting in the east and facing inwards, after which the Acting Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, Brother Cockcroft, took his place on the throne, and the other Provincial Grand Officers took their appropriate places, as did also the visitors of distinction present, under the direction of the Provincial Grand Director of Ceremonies and the Committee of Stewards already mentioned. The Provincial Grand Lodge being opened in the third degree, the Most Worshipful Acting Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Thomson, then addressing the Provincial Grand Master briefly stated the objects of the meeting, and the Provincial Grand Superintendent of Works, Bro. G. R. Brewis, presented the plans of the building to the Provincial Grand Master, who, having expressed his satisfaction, requested the brethren to assist him in the ceremony of dedication.

The Chairman of the Building Committee, Brother A. B. Visick, W.M. No. 393, then addressing the most Worshipful Grand Master, made an explanatory statement in reference to the progress and completion of the building, giving great credit to the various brethren who had made presents to the lodge, and complimenting Bro. C. Hopper, P.M., No. 393, for his great attention while the building was in process of erection. After this the Lodge Board was uncovered, a soft interlude meanwhile being played on the organ. The ceremony of dedication was then begun by the Provincial Grand Chaplain, Brother Rev. E. L. Marrett, giving an appropriate prayer.

The prayer being ended, the 133rd Psalm was sung as an anthem. A procession was then formed, the Prov. G. Chaplain, Bro. Marrett, walking first, carrying on a cushion the Holy Bible, with square and compass; then the Prov. S.G.W., Bro. Laws, carrying the cornucopia, in which was corn; then the Prov. J.G.W., Bro. Foulsham, carrying a silver cup, in which was wine; and then the Acting Deputy Prov. G.M., Bro. Thomson, carrying a similar cup containing oil. The procession having walked round the hall, the Prov. G. Chaplain read the 16th verse of the 72nd Psalm. The Deputy Prov. G.M. then proceeded to pour oil and wine upon the altar, with the customary ceremonies.

The Provincial Grand Chaplain took the censer three times round the lodge board, solemn music being played during his progress; and this being completed, he offered up the second consecration prayer.

Haydn's anthem, "The spacious firmament on high," was sung.

The Provincial Grand Master then said:—"In the name of the Most High, I declare this temple dedicated and consecrated to Masonry." Grand honours followed the utterance of these words, and the anthem "Hail! immortal Lord!" was sung.

After the anthem the Provincial Grand Director of Ceremonies made proclamation in the east, north, and west that the hall was now dedicated and consecrated to ancient Freemasonry, upon which followed a flourish of trumpets and music played on the organ. The anthem "Praise God in His holiness," was then sung, the Stewards covering the lodge board and extinguishing the lesser lights, and the lodge was closed as it was opened, in the three degrees.

The whole ceremony was very imposing, and could not but give delight to the heart of every Freemason present, particularly to the members of the lodge to which the hall belongs, and whose meetings are henceforth to be held in it. As the very fact that such a hall was in course of erection has already given new life to Freemasonry in Berwick and its neighbourhood, it may confidently be expected that now when the hall is opened the number of candidates for admission into the ancient and honourable Order of Freemasons will be greater than ever before.

A dinner was afterwards held in the King's Arms Assembly Room, and a ball in the Corn Exchange.

BRO. J. H. WOODWORTH, ON NEW CONSTITUTIONS, GRAND LODGE OF IRELAND.

As the question respecting Grand Lodge legislation for the "Hautes grades" is likely soon to be discussed at Dublin, and we warmly sympathise with our excellent Bro. Woodworth, and his numerous friends, in their opposition to such legislation, we think it advisable to give a copy of the proposed law No. 30, which he only alludes to, and yet to our mind it is still more repugnant to Freemasons than even the one particularised (133). What Grand Lodge has to do with the degrees of knighthood, and the Ancient and Accepted Rite, so long as its jurisdiction is not infringed by them, we cannot imagine, and so far as we are concerned in England, we feel quite certain neither No. 30, nor No. 133, would be entertained for one moment. Bro.

Woodworth may safely take the articles of late which we have noticed in the Freemason as a true index of the views of the brethren across the channel. It will be seen that No. 30 is so definite and sweeping in its character that should our brethren decide to introduce the "Royal Order of Scotland" into Ireland, they would ipso facto be liable to suspension, though it is more Masonic than a number of degrees worked under the sheltering wings of the Craft. Is it fair then for the Grand Lodge to constitute itself virtually the oracle of degrees entirely beyond, above, or beneath its knowledge?

W. J. HUGHAN.
"30. The Grand Lodge strictly prohibits as unlawful, all assemblies of Freemasons in Ireland, under any title whatever, purporting to be Masonic, not held by virtue of a warrant or constitution from the Grand Lodge, or from one of the other Masonic grand bodies recognised by and acting in Masonic union with it." "Any brother being a member of any lodge on the Registry of Ireland, or otherwise subject to the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge, who shall take any part in such unlawful assembly, or shall join or become a member of any body or society, purporting to be Masonic, and not in connection with or sanctioned by the Grand Lodge or other Masonic grand body recognised by it, shall be liable to suspension, or such other penalty as Grand Lodge may think fit."

used in Her Majesty's Laundry.

Those Ladies who have not yet used the Glenfield Starch, are respectfully solicited to give it a trial, and carefully follow out the directions printed on every package. It is rather more difficult to mix than other Starches, but when this is overcome, they will say, like the Queen's Laundry, that it is the finest Starch they ever used. "When you ask for the Glenfield, see that you get it."

CROSBY'S
BALSAMIC
COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiales, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling
the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S
BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

"Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the 'Anti-Lancet,' says: 'I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease.'"

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsey, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist,

THE

CONTAINING

Lists of Lodges, Chapters, Conclaves, Grand Councils, and K.T. Preceptories, with the Names of Officers, in England and Wales, Scotland, Ireland, France, Belgium, Germany, Italy, Denmark, Portugal, Sweden and Norway, Greece, Turkey, New Brunswick, Venezuela, Netherlands, British Columbia, Peru, Quebec, Canada, America, &c. The LONDON MEETINGS OF EVERY DEGREE are given in the Memorandum space of each day. The COUNTRY LODGES appear in Towns, alphabetically arranged. It also contains the CHARGE and ENTERED APPRENTICE'S SONG.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

This small, but comprehensive Masonic guide, contains lists of lodges, chapters, councils, and full particulars respecting the grand Masonic body throughout the globe.—Standard.

Useful to Freemasons.—Echo.

The Cosmopolitan Masonic Calendar, Diary, and Pocket-book forms a comprehensive work of reference for Freemasons, and should be largely patronised by them. Mr. Kenning, 198, Fleet-street, is the publisher.—Lloyd's News.

The "Cosmopolitan Masonic Calendar, Diary, and Pocket-book for 1874," published by Kenning, Fleet-street, must be very handy for the Craft, containing, as it does, a very complete list of lodges and officers, &c.—Figaro.

The "Cosmopolitan Masonic Calendar," (Kenning) is a very useful work of reference for Freemasons, issued in the convenient form of a pocket-book. It contains lists of Lodges, Chapters, Conclaves, &c., with the names of officers, times of meeting, and other information, referring to almost all parts of the globe.—City.

The fourth year of publication of this most useful and handy volume has arrived, and we are glad to notice various changes have been made in the arrangement of the information, which will considerably add to its value. As successive editions have appeared, the Craft have seen how numerous improvements have been introduced, and certainly the present has far excelled all previous issues. We are glad to see that an accurate list of all the London and Provincial Lodges and Chapters has been arranged and classified alphabetically, according to their names, and towns they are in; and a capital calendar is given, in which may be found all the London Lodges, Chapters, &c., as also the various Boards and Benevolent Committee meetings. These, we know, have only been compiled after an expenditure of considerable time, labour, and patience. The information respecting the Mark Grand Lodge, the Grand Council of Royal, Select, and Super-Excellent Masters, the Orders of the Temple, and of the Red Cross of Constantine, and the Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Rite, is especially full and valuable; and their various Lodges, Councils, Preceptories, Conclaves, and Chapters, are carefully recorded, and nothing of importance seems to have been omitted with these rites—information, by the way, which cannot be obtained in any other publication, and which alone is sufficient to make the Calendar a great success. The "Cosmopolitan" is also thoroughly worthy of its name, for intelligence is afforded of the chief officers, and of the names, numbers, and localities of nearly all the Grand Lodges in the world. Within the compass of 250 pages there is matter enough compressed, clearly and closely printed, to fill several ordinary sized volumes. We conclude by expressing our earnest hope that the support afforded it by the brethren of the "mystic tie," will be commensurate with its usefulness, accuracy, and compactness.—Freemason.

This work, published by Bro. Kenning, of 198, Fleet-street, has just made its appearance among the annual literary productions, and will no doubt be received with as much favour from the Craft as previous issues. The information contained in its pages is exceedingly useful, and must have occasioned the editor much care and labour in its compilation, a task few would be disposed to accept, considering the difficulties to be encountered in carrying out successfully such an undertaking. Lists of Lodges, Chapters, Conclaves, Grand Councils, and K.T. Preceptories, with times of meeting, are given in addition to other matter. In the diary for private memoranda are printed, for each date, numbers representing different lodges, chapters, &c., whose meetings are held on the particular day, an arrangement which must prove of great service to visiting brethren and others. Indeed, the work is as valuable and important to members of the various branches in the Masonic world as the "Post Office London Directory" is to business men and enquirers.—Sunday Times.

We have just received a copy of the Cosmopolitan Masonic Calendar, Diary, and Pocket-book for 1874 (London, Liverpool, and Glasgow, George Kenning). It will be found what it professes to be—a comprehensive Masonic book of reference, being a collection of very useful information with reference to the Craft all over the world. It contains lists of Lodges, Chapters, Conclaves, Grand Councils, and Knight Templar Preceptories in both hemispheres, giving the names of the officers and other particulars, including the days of meeting. All this special information is in addition to the items peculiar to calendars. Altogether, the pocket-book will be found a very useful companion to the Masonic brethren.—Liverpool Daily Courier.

Bro. Kenning, in this handy pocket-book, has provided an acceptable New Year's purchase or gift for every member of the Craft who desires to be properly posted up in Masonic information. It is a carefully compiled and valuable little work, containing between its covers not only what seems to be a comprehensive Masonic calendar—showing at a glance the day on which every lodge in the kingdom meets—but lists of members of Grand Lodges, of all Masonic benevolent and representative institutions, and of all true Masonic bodies throughout the world, and the names of their grand and other representative officers. The publisher is Bro. George Kenning, of London, Glasgow, Edinburgh, Dublin, and 2, Monument-place, Liverpool.—Liverpool Daily Albion.

May be had at Bro. George Kenning's Masonic Depots, and through any Bookseller or Newsagent.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague.
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhoea, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

Extract from "INDIAN ECONOMIST."

"We direct the attention of medical men to a fact observed some years since by ourselves, and corroborated by our subsequent experience, that Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is in many cases of Low Fever immensely superior to Quinine in curative power. We cannot persuade ourselves that the true value of Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is yet properly appraised in India. . . . It may be given with absolute safety even to a child three days old. Were medical men but to make a fair and exhaustive trial of it we are persuaded that it would work a revolution in the treatment of two-thirds of the diseases to which children are subject. Its curative power is simply amazing."

"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he had received a despatch from her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera had been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, Dec. 1. 1864.

From W. VESALIUS PETTIGREW, M.D., Hon. F.R.C.S., England,

Formerly Lecturer on Anatomy and Physiology at St. George's School of Medicine.

"I have no hesitation in stating, after a fair trial of Chlorodyne, that I have never met with any medicine so efficacious as an Anti-Spasmodic and Sedative. I have tried it in Consumption, Asthma, Diarrhoea, and other diseases, and am most perfectly satisfied with the results."

From Dr. THOMAS SANDIFORD, Passage West, Cork.

"I will thank you to send me a further supply of Chlorodyne. It was the most efficacious remedy I ever used, affording relief in violent attacks of Spasms within a minute after being taken. One patient in particular, who has suffered for years with periodical attacks of Spasms of a most painful nature, and unable to obtain relief from other remedies, such as opium, &c., finds nothing so prompt and efficacious as Chlorodyne."

From JNO. E. GOULSTONE, M.D., late Principal Surgeon to the Steamship Great Eastern.

"I can confidently state Chlorodyne is an admirable Sedative and Anti-Spasmodic, having used it in Neuralgia, Hysteria, Asthma, and Consumption, with remarkably favourable results. It relieved a fit of Asthma in four minutes, where the patient had suffered eleven years in a most distressing manner, no previous remedy having had so immediate and beneficial an effect."

From Dr. B. J. BOULTON and Co., Horncastle.

"We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-Spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after effects."

J. C. BAKER, Esq., M.D., Bideford.

"It is, without doubt, the most valuable and certain Anodyne we have."

CAUTION.—BEWARE OF PIRACY AND IMITATIONS.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was undoubtedly the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, Freeman, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See "Times," 13th July, 1864.

Sold in Bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each Bottle.

Craft Masonry.

GIBRALTAR.—Inhabitants' Lodge (No. 153.)
 —Another installation, distinguished like many preceding ones by its success, took place on the evening of the 5th inst., at the Inhabitants' Lodge, No. 153. Invitations had been given to the officers and members of the other lodges, and a goodly number did honour to the occasion. The lodge was opened by the W.M., Bro. W. J. Henry, and on being raised, was placed in charge of P.M. Bro. J. Morgan, who had kindly undertaken the onerous duties of Installing Officer, and if appreciation of, and interest in his subject are qualifications essential to success, the ceremony of the 5th inst. may be regarded with every degree of satisfaction. The brother on whom the choice for W.M. fell was Bro. A. Coley, the Immediate Past J.W., although Bro. J. Philpot was a worthy rival for the honour. The W.M. elect proceeded to appoint the following brethren as his officers. Bros. F. Williamson, S.W.; J. D. Slys, J.W.; Ward, S.D.; J. Bound, J.D.; G. Michie, Sec.; McGrath, I.G.; E. Barker, Steward. Bro. Donald, had again been elected Treasurer, and Bro. Staines Tyler. Bro. G. Gilbert, P.D.G.D.C., and P.S.W., had kindly undertaken the office of M.C., a position which will benefit from his experience. Owing to the departure for India of the I.P.M., the late Bro. F. Gilbrune, in 1872, previous to the completion of his term of office as W.M., Bro. P.M. Henry had been requested to undertake the duties, which he cheerfully accepted, and at the following election he was almost unanimously elected W.M. for the year 1873, and that the lodge has very materially benefited by the state of prosperity in which he has handed it over to his successor, indeed Bro. Coley begins his year of office under favourable conditions not always accorded to a W.M. on his accession to the chair, in having the support of Past Masters Bros. Gilbard, D.P.G.M., J. Francis and Henry, who unite liberality to their zeal and desire for the welfare of the Craft. At the conclusion of the evening the brethren saluted the W.M. with the wassail bowl, which had been carefully prepared by P.M. Bro. J. Francis, the Patriarch of Masonry in Gibraltar. The brethren then proceeded to the banquetting room, where, thanks to the untiring efforts of Bro. Mandyke, an excellent banquet was served to which the guests did ample justice. The toast of the "Visiting Brethren," proposed by Bro. Henry, and coupled with the name of Bro. Morgan, who had efficiently acted as Installing Officer, was heartily responded to, and after a few well chosen remarks from Bro. Coley, a very pleasant evening was brought to a close by the following happy appeal by Bro. Henry. "True friendship's law is by this rule expressed: welcome the coming, speed the parting guest!"

LODGE OF ST. JAMES (No. 755).—On Tuesday 4 inst., this lodge met at the Bridge House Hotel, Southwark. The W.M. presided, supported by his officers, save one—the S.W.—absent through severe indisposition. Five brethren received the benefit of the third degree, for were instituted, and there was one initiation. Other candidates arrived, but were not in due time, and had to be dismissed until a future occasion. The whole of the working was accomplished by the W.M., who acquitted himself most creditably. Bro. R. P. Hooton, P.M. and Treasurer, informed the brethren that the festival in aid of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, at which he had represented the lodge as Steward, had been a great success, upwards of five thousand pounds having been subscribed, with sixteen lists still to be brought forward. A proposition by the same brother, that the banquets of the lodge should be restricted to three per annum, was postponed till the next meeting.

NEW MILFORD.—Neyland Lodge (No. 990.)
 —This lodge assembled at the South Wales Hotel, New Milford, on the 26th ult., for the installation of the W.M. for the ensuing year. There were present the Worshipful Master, Bro. Chas. Willis, P.G.S.B., in the chair of K.S., Bros. Phipps, P.M. 290, P.P.G.J.D.; the Rev. W. Steadlin, Vicar of Dale, P.G. Chaplain and W.M. of 336; J. R. Owen, P.M. 426, P.P.G.R.; Nicholson, P.M. 378, P.P.G.J.D.; A. Long, P.M. 336, P.P.G.S.D.; Brace, P.M. 336; Paul, Vicar of Llanstadwell, and Chaplain of 880; Dr. Reynolds, S.W. 336, P.G.S.; Ladd, S.W. 336; Davis, S.W.; Cousins, J. W.; Harris, S.D.; Margraves, J.D.; Walkley, I.G.; Cook, P.M., Tyler, and other brethren. The lodge was opened, according to ancient form, at five o'clock p.m., by Bro. Chas. Willis, W.M. The minutes of the last lodge were read and confirmed. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, and Bro. Davies, S.W., was presented to the W.M., as the W.M. elect for the ensuing year. The lodge was then opened in the third degree, and all brethren below an Installed Master retired, when a board of Installed Masters was formed. The W.M., then proceeded to install his successor, which he did in a most superior manner. The newly installed Master was then proclaimed and saluted in the usual manner by the brethren. He then invested his officers as follows:—Bros. Willis, I.P.M.; Cousins, S.W.; Harris, J.W.; Phillips, Sec.; G. Phillips, P.M., Treas.; Walkley, S.D.; Guy, J.D.; Evans, I.G.; Cook, P.M., Tyler. The Installing Master then in a most impressive and eloquent manner delivered an address to the W.M., to the Wardens, also to the brethren, and sat down amidst applause, several of the P.M.'s shaking him warmly by the hand, and congratulating him on the excellent way in which he had performed the installation ceremony. The brethren were then called off from labour to refreshment. They then adjourned and partook of an excellent dinner, served up in Mr. and Mrs. Whithers best style. The W.M. presided, supported on his right by Bros. Stradling, P.G. Chaplain; Paul, Vicar Llanstadwell; F. R. Owen; Dr. Reynolds; on his left by Bros. Chas. Willis, I.P.M.; G. Phipps, P.M.; Richardson, P.M.; Long, P.M. On the removal of the cloth the chairman gave "The Queen," "The Prince of Wales," "The Most Worshipful Grand Master of England, the Marquess of Ripon," "The Deputy Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon," all of which were received with the usual loyal and Masonic honours. Bro. Willis, I.P.M., then proposed "The Health of the W.M.," congratulating him on attaining that high dignity, and said he felt sure he would sustain the high dignity of this lodge, and manage its concerns in a satisfactory manner. The W.M. duly responded. The W.M. then proposed a toast which he knew would be well received "The Health of the Installing Master," Bro. Willis. He most highly praised Bro. Willis, for the superior manner in which he had conducted the ceremony of installation, and also for the able way in which he had performed his duties as W.M. for the past year, and considered him one of the best working Masons in the province. Bro. Willis responded, thanking the W.M. for the kind manner in which he had proposed his health and the brethren for the very cordial way in which they had drunk it. He assured them it was most gratifying to him to find they were so well pleased with the way in which he had discharged his duty while in the chair; he had always tried to do his duty and uphold the dignity of his lodge and the honour of the Craft, and the cordial manner in which his health had been received by the brethren showed that he had not been unsuccessful. He was glad to see so many visitors present, and especially some of them whom he had the pleasure of knowing for many years, and from whom he had always received the greatest kindness; he considered the presence of so many visitors evinced that a good feeling existed amongst the different lodges in the province. The W.M. then proposed "The Visitors," coupling the name of Bro. Stradling, W.M. 336, P.G. Chaplain. Bro. Stradling responded, and expressed his gratification at being present, and thanked the brethren for the cordial manner in which his health had been given and received. He observed that he had visited several lodges, and been present at three installations, and was glad to notice that in nearly every case the retiring Master had installed his successor, which as they were aware, did not use to be the case, some able P.M. having to be called in to perform the ceremony. This, he thought, looked well, and showed a great improvement in the working of the lodges, that the installation seemed to be better performed at each lodge he attended, and had been far superseded that evening, by their most excellent P.M., Bro. Miles, who had installed his successor with such distinguished ability. He did not believe that the able manner in which the installation had been performed, could be surpassed. Bro. Nicholson then proposed the health of Bro. Parry, P.M., 990, and 378, P.P.G.S.W., which was most warmly received. No brother in the province has done so much for Freemasonry as Bro. Parry, he being one of the founders of this and other lodges in the province. Bro. Parry would have been present, as he always had been, but was laid up on a bed of sickness, but from which he was slowly recovering. Bro. Parry is most highly esteemed by the whole province. The brethren expressed their sympathy and much regretted his absence. "The Health of the Officers" was given and responded to. After spending a most enjoyable evening, the brethren separated about 11 o'clock.

DUKE OF EDINBURGH LODGE (No. 1259).—The members of this lodge held their usual monthly meeting at the Cape of Good Hope Tavern, Limehouse, on Tuesday, the 3rd inst., and had a very large attendance of members and visitors. Bro. Weatherill, W.M., in his usual able manner initiated five gentlemen (Messrs. Gilling, Charlton, Bennett, Williams, and G. Davies) into the Order, and we must not omit to mention the assistance rendered by his officers, who performed their duties in a very efficient manner. After the ceremony was concluded it was proposed by Bro. C. Jex, P.M.; and seconded by Bro. Salter, that the lodge should give the sum of twenty guineas to the orphan schools, which was carried unanimously. The lodge was then closed and the brethren adjourned to a banquet served by the worthy host in his usual satisfactory style, and spent a very pleasant evening.

ROYAL STANDARD LODGE (No. 1298).—The regular meeting of this flourishing lodge was held on Tuesday, the 3rd inst., at the Marquess Tavern, Canonbury. There were present the following brethren:—Bros. W. J. Woodman, W.M.; Ballantyne, I.P.M.; Gladwell, acting S.W.; Cattlin, J.W.; R. Shackell, P.M. 30, P.P.G.P. Hants, Hon. Sec.; Rafter, S.D.; Cohen, J.D.; Wright, I.G.; Bigley, Stevens, Linton, Blay, and many others, about 40 members altogether. Among the visitors we observed Bros. J. Shackell, P.M. of 193; Woodward, Dore, and Dickinson. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed, and Bro. Ballantyne then took the chair, and in his most able manner, raised Bro. Blackbee to the sublime degree of a Master Mason, and passed Bros. Hunter and Watford to the second degree. This being the night for the election of W.M., Treasurer, and Tyler, Bro. R. Shackell, P.M. 30, the able Secretary, was unanimously elected to fill the chair of King Solomon, for the ensuing year. Bro. Butterford who has won the esteem of the brethren, through his brotherly and courteous manner, was unanimously re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Gilchrist was also re-elected Tyler. We are glad to find that this lodge is making itself known amongst the charities, and it would be well if some of the older lodges would follow in its footsteps. Last month a Steward, Bro. Cattlin, J.W., was sent up to represent them at the Festival of the Benevolent Institution, headed by a donation from the lodge funds of £10, and they have now returned the name of Bro. Moxon, as a Steward to represent them at the ensuing Festival of the Girls' School, and a notice of motion was given to head his list with a donation of ten guineas from the lodge funds. The usual gold P.M.'s jewel was voted to the retiring Master, Bro. Woodman, not so much for his working as for the zeal evinced by him for the good of the lodge and the respect in which he is held by the brethren. After business the members retired for slight refreshment, all leaving at an early hour, much pleased with the evening's work.

KENNINGTON LODGE (No. 1381).—A meeting of this prosperous lodge, which has now entered its third year, was held at the Surrey Club House, Kennington Oval, on Tuesday, the 3rd instant, presided over by the W.M., Bro. Mann, assisted by Bro. Koch, S.W.; and Bro. Everitt, J.W. There being a good deal of business to transact, it being installing day the lodge opened at 3 p.m. There were three gentlemen initiated, viz., Messrs. J. C. Walls, Byfield, and Pritchard. Bro. Koch, S.W., who had been previously elected W.M. for the ensuing year, was ably installed to the chair of K.S. by the retiring W.M., Bro. Mann. The W.M. appointed Bro. Everitt as S.W., and Bro. Gardner as J.W. for the year. Bro. Ingram having resumed his position of Secretary, was in consideration of his services since the foundation of the Lodge, unanimously elected an honorary member for life. Bro. Steward, P.M., was appointed Secretary in his place. The installation banquet which followed was attended by fifty-two brethren, and the "menu" was exceedingly good, and reflected great credit upon Bro. Pope, the worthy host. The usual loyal, Masonic and lodge toasts were with commendable brevity given by the W.M., and heartily responded to. The toast of "The visitors" coupled with the name of Bro. Watson, P.M., was received with great acclamation and suitably acknowledged by that veteran of the Craft. The health of the initiates was also given and severally responded to by Brothers Pritchard, Walls and Byfield. The proceedings were enlivened by several songs, and the meeting broke up soon after 11 o'clock, everything having passed off in a highly satisfactory manner.

WIDNES.—Lodge of Equity (No. 1384).—The installation meeting of this young and prosperous lodge was held on Tuesday, the 3rd inst., at Walker's Commercial Hotel, Widnes, near Liverpool, where there was a good number of the brethren of the mystic tie. The lodge was opened shortly after three o'clock by Bro. Reginald Young, W.M., and his chiefs present were—Bros. J. W. J. Fowler, P.M.; R. D. Simpson, S.W.; H. S. Offenheim, J.W.; W. Jameson, Treas.; J. W. Wareing, Sec.; W. Newsome, S.D.; W. I. Thomson, J.D.; A. Borthwick, S.S.; J. White, J.S.; and G. Brown, Tyler. The members present were—Bros. C. Gerrard, J.A.; Stoddard, W. Lyner, J. Walker, F. A. R. Neill, W. C. Barker, J. Warburton, A. Tebbatt, and J. W. Carlisle. Amongst the visitors were—Bros. J. W. R. Fowler, I.P.M. 86; J. Hamer, P.P.G. Treas.; J. Hargraves, 203; J. V. De Denne, J.D. 86; and A. Fraser, I.G. The usual routine business having been transacted, the chair of K.S. was taken by Bro. J. W. J. Fowler, P.P.A.D.C., who proceeded to instal, with the greatest impressiveness and efficiency, his son-in-law, Bro. R. D. Simpson, as W.M. of the "Equity" for the ensuing year. Bro. Fowler, sen., was admirably assisted by Bro. J. Hamer in the investment of the subjoined officers:—Bros. R. Young, I.P.M.; H. S. Offenheim, S.W.; W. Jameson, J.W.; W. Newsome, Sec.; J. W. Thomson, S.D.; J. White, J.D.; A. Borthwick, I.G.; J. W. Wareing, D.C.; A. Tebbatt, S.S.; J. A. Stobbard, O.; and G. Brown, Tyler. After the lodge business was over a most sumptuous banquet was served by Bro. J. Walker, "mine host" of the Commercial Hotel, which gave complete satisfaction. The toast of "The Queen"

"H.R.H. Bro. Albert Edward Prince of Wales, M.W. Past G.M., the Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family," and "The Marquess of Ripon, M.W.G.M.; and the Earl of Carnarvon, R.W.D.G.M.;" were given in happy terms by the W.M., and most enthusiastically responded to. The toasts of the P.G.M. Master of the province, his Deputy, and his Officers, were responded to by Bro. Hamer, and the health of "The W.M. and his Officers," given in pointed terms by Bro. R. Young, I.P.M., was acknowledged by the W.M. "The Installing Master," given by Bro. Wareing, was responded to by Bro. J. W. J. Fowler, who subsequently presented Bro. Reginald Young, I.P.M.; with a very chaste and handsome P.M.'s jewel, subscribed for by the brethren, referring to the excellent services he had rendered to the lodge. The jewel bore the inscription:—"Presented to Bro. Reginald Young, P.M., as a token of brotherly regard and esteem, 1874." Bro. Young, in acknowledging the gift, spoke of the honour just conferred by the presentation, and referred to the satisfactory progress made by the lodge. "The West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution," given by the W.M., was acknowledged by Bro. Fowler, sen., and "The Visitors" by Bro. Hargraves and other brethren.

Scotland.

EDINBURGH.—Roman Eagle Lodge (No. 160).—On Tuesday, 3rd inst., in accordance with an invitation from Bro. George Laing, R.W.M., of the Roman Eagle Lodge, the M.W. Grand Master Mason of Scotland, Sir Michael Robert Shaw Stewart, Bart., accompanied by his Grand Officers and Grand Stewards, paid a visit to the lodge at its spacious and noble quarters in the Iona Hotel, Nicolson-street. The brethren of the lodge, it is hardly necessary to state, were present in full force, and deputations were present from nearly every other lodge in the province. The M.W.G.M., who was accompanied by the Right Hon. Lord J. C. P. Murray, Deputy G.M.; W. Mann, Esq., Acting-substitute G.M.; the Right Hon. the Earl of Kellie, R.W.S.G.W.; Major Hamilton Ramsay, J.G.W.; J. Laurie, Esq., G. Secretary; the Rev. V. F. Faithful, M.A., G. Chaplain; W. Officer, Esq., P.G. Duncan; A. Hay, Esq., G. Jeweller; C. W. M. Muller, Esq., G.D. of Music; A. T. Apthorpe, Acting G.D. of Ceremonies; Bros. McLean, Kinnear, Grant, Henry Law, and other Grand Stewards, attended by Bro. W. M. Bryce, G. Tyler, was received with every mark of honour and respect, due to his exalted position. Shortly after his being seated he was presented with a certificate of his visitation beautifully illuminated on vellum, by Bro. J. Melville, and bearing the signature of the R.W.M., not only as head and ruler of the Roman Eagle Lodge, but as Past Master of the Defensive Band Lodge

No. 151, and member of Nos. 1, 5, 31, 48, 112, 145, 223, 349, 392, 405, 429. The M.W.G.M., who was evidently gratified at receiving this compliment, expressed his thanks in terms which drew forth hearty and ringing approval from the brethren of the lodge. Nothing was wanting on this occasion on the part of the brethren of the Roman Eagle Lodge and its spirited Master that could be provided. A select glee party discoursed most eloquent music and instrumentalists were also ready and willing to witch the ears of their delighted hearers. After spending some hours in evident enjoyment, the M.W.G.M. rose and expressed the gratification he had experienced from his visit. He congratulated Bro. Laing, on the working and splendid appearance of the lodge, and he thanked him most heartily and cordially for the excellent arrangements made for his reception, which had been carried out in every respect to his entire satisfaction. He then entered a record of the visit on the books of the lodge, and, accompanied by his office-bearers, retired, amid the enthusiastic exclamations of the brethren. When shall we have the privilege of recording such a meeting in London?

GLASGOW.—Caledonian Railway (No. 354).—This lodge met on the 4th inst., Bro. Jas. Shaw, R.W.M., presiding. A good deal of business of a private nature was transacted, after which Bro. J. Hurley was initiated, and Bro. Weir and Howse were passed by the R.W.M. to the degree of Fellow Crafts. The Master stated that in consequence of the pressure of work lately he had arranged to have an emergency meeting on Saturday afternoon to work the third degree, accordingly on Saturday, at 4 o'clock, there was a good assemblage of brethren, Bros. Shaw, R.W.M.; J. Dolman acting S.W.; J. Stafford, J.W.; W. R. Dunn, Sec.; and Bro. H. A. Smith, P.M., as Director of Music, the excellency of whose playing added materially to the impressiveness of the solemn degree, which was very ably rendered by the R.W.M.; this being the first time he had performed this ceremony, but it speaks well for the future of the lodge. At the conclusion of the ceremony it was found that Bro. Hearse, who was also desirous of being raised had arrived the majority of the brethren determined to remain in order that he might attain that degree. Bro. A. A. Smith acted as Master, giving the solemn lesson of this degree in a way that must have deeply impressed the candidate.

GLASGOW.—Clyde Lodge (No. 408).—Friday the 6th inst., being the regular monthly meeting night, Bro. D. Downie, the R.W.M., assumed the chair. Bro. McGinne, S.W.; D. Mitchell, acting J.W.; A. Harper, Treas.; on the dais were Bros. J. Buchanan, P.M., and R. Mitchell, P.M. 332. The Treasurer presented the printed balance sheet, from which it appeared that there were £106, besides a cash balance of £47 17s. 8d. belonging to the benevolent fund, these gratifying results were received with loud applause. A motion was then made by Bro. J. Sturdy, and seconded by the Treasurer, "That in future the Steward do not open the refreshment bar till the close of the lodge, also in future the lodge shall hold a meeting once a quarter, which shall be devoted to harmony, or which occasion refreshment shall be procurable all the evening," they were both carried. Bro. G. W. Wheeler, then, on behalf of Thistle and Rose Lodge, 73, requested them to initiate a candidate for them; this was at once granted as the R.W.M. said the Thistle and Rose Lodge had done the same for them last week but he would ask Bro. Wheeler to act as S.D. for them, Mr. Dugald McCole, of 73, and Alex McKichnie were then introduced and initiated by the R.W.M. The lodge was then opened in the 2nd degree, when Bro. R. Mitchell confirmed that degree on these brethren, after which the lodge was opened in the third degree when Bro. McColl, Jas. Mitchell, and John McIllock were raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason by Bro. R. Mitchell, P.M. After this protracted labour some refreshment was deemed necessary, the chair was again taken by Bro. Downie, who very briefly gave the usual loyal and patriotic toast. He then proposed the three new Master Masons, Bro. Black of the Clyde, and

Feb. 14, 1874.

Bro. M. Coal, as a member of 73, responded in recent speeches. The next toast was "The Visiting Brethren, coupled with Bro. Wheeler," who appropriately acknowledged the compliment, and concluded by proposing "Prosperity to the Lodge Clyde, with Health and Long Life," when Worshipful Master Bro. Downie replied. Bro. R. Harper, proposed "Bro. A. Mitchell, P.M. 332," who in reply, said he had been connected with the Clyde ever since its foundation, and though he had for a time left it to fill the chair in his mother lodge, yet he still was at all times most happy to lend her a helping hand, and it had been a source of pride to him to night, while acting as Master, to have as his acting J.W. his own son. He wished yet to see him pursue his way till he got a seat in the east. Before sitting down he would propose their thanks to the Treasurer for the very elaborate balance sheet he had laid before them, and as he had by that shown his business capabilities, and they had elected him to manage the fund for the building of their new hall. He trusted every member of the Lodge Clyde will try to have at least one stone in the building. If they could not get a large corner stone, let them at any rate take a brick. Bro. Harper acknowledged the compliment, saying he had always felt it a duty, as well as pleasure to work for Masonry. Bro. Grant, who has just published a local calendar, at the request of Bro. Wheeler, replied for the "Press," the final toast, concluding this happy meeting.

Original Correspondence.

THE CONVIVIAL BOARD.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I am only a humble M.M., and do not aspire, nor desire, to enter into a controversy with so exalted a person as the W.M. elect 185; neither will I so far forget myself as to handly expelives with him; nor will I, by any act of mine, disturb him in the enjoyment of his own self-importance, nor "tantalize" him further, sign himself "frankly and fearlessly" as he may. Now that the fraternal letter has appeared, which so approvingly refers to, and which evidently most have acted upon him as a moral shower bath, I am truly sorry, for his sake, that I took any notice of his effusion, inasmuch as he has been thereby led to pen another painful and undignified exhibition of himself.

He laid himself open to reproof in his first letter, and does so still more in the second. If a "sly kick," he complains of has hurt him so very sorry, and I hasten to apologise, for it is the principle of the lottery scheme and not a principal that I aimed at. At the recent annual of the Benevolent Institution, subscription lists were announced from about one hundred and twenty lodges, and amounting to nearly £5,000, but only one hundred and fifty, out of a roll of nearly 1,500 lodges, repeat, if every lodge would do its duty, the trustees could dispense with all such extraneous port as lotteries, or "draws."

But, Sir, it is impossible to discuss principles with one who so confounds facts with motives, both with personalities. I have given the W.M. elect, 185, the content of my attention far beyond the merits anything he has advanced deserved. There is indeed, to be learned from his last letter extended, this obvious moral:—How foolish to write in a passion, especially when ones are not literary.

In conclusion, as our brother is so violent in language, and his mind wanders in such a way from principles to personalities, I must beg you to let me "cowardly hide my identity"

Yours fraternally,

M. M.

MASONIC RELICS.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I have read Bro. G.H.W.'s letter with interest, but would ask him, to which lodge he actually refers, Melrose St. John's No. 1, or Glasgow Melrose St. John's No. 1. Are they different lodges, or do they constitute one and the same body.

Yours fraternally,
AN ENQUIRING MASON.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

If G. H. W., has manliness enough about him to give his name, &c., I shall be happy to meet him on all points advanced in his letter on "Masonic Relics." He professes to have a desire that some arrangement should be made between the "Melrose body," and the "Grand Lodge of Scotland," and yet makes assertions which he knows, or ought to know are utterly false. He may be ignorant on the subject, or he must be worse.

Yours, truly and fraternally,
THOMAS STRATFORD,
R.W.M., Melrose, St. John, No. 1.

DOYLE'S LODGE OF FELLOWSHIP.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In answer to Bro. Hughan's remarks on my history of Doyle's Lodge of Fellowship, No. 84, I must inform him, that it was compiled exclusively from the minute books of that lodge, and Mariners' Lodge. In the minute book of the latter lodge, is the draft petition to Grand Lodge for the formation of Doyle's; the minute book of Doyle's Lodge gives in full detail its formation and consecration in 1806, under the number 336, and I have the authority of the Grand Secretary of England for stating that the first Masonic Lodge in Guernsey was established in 1763. Bro. Hughan would probably see these matters more plainly, were he to look through my book, (which is for private circulation only) and if he will give me his address, I shall only be too happy to forward a copy to so eminent a Masonic student.

Yours faithfully and fraternally,
W. J. KINNERSLEY.

REFUSAL TO BURY A ROMAN CATHOLIC FREEMASON.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

Have you observed that the Army Chaplain at Chatham has refused burial to a non-Commissioned Roman Catholic officer because he was "a Freemason." Another priest was applied to, but he could not bury the body as he was a junior priest. Finally he was buried by the Protestant Chaplain, and a large number of artillerymen, beside them told off, to attend the remains to the grave were present, testifying how much they respected him. (I read this in the Times I think.) I ask you to make this public, for I cannot understand how a paid officer in the service of our beloved Queen can decline to bury a Christian, simply because he is a "Freemason." Is the liberty of the subject real? Can a servant of the Pope of Rome refuse to obey the laws of this land with impunity? This non-commissioned officer was not a "felon-de-se" case which I believe is the only one which has not Christian burial allowed in this land. What must the relatives think of this cruel conduct?

Yours fraternally,

AUGUSTUS A. BAGSHAW.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—With the advent of the inclemencies of winter, many afflictions will arise, unless effective means for preventing or checking their courses be adopted. No lingering cough, hoarseness, nor shortness of breath on slight exertion, should be permitted to continue a single day without measures being taken for their removal, more especially when remedial means are safe, rapid, and effective. These qualities are displayed in a high degree by Holloway's preparations. The ointment rubbed upon the skin draws surplus blood from congested structures, and gives immense relief to every oppressed organ concerned in the respiration and the circulation. The wholesome effect externally, aided by the alterative action of the pills internally, dispels all danger from latent mischief.—ADVT.

MASONIC BALL IN WEST LAN-CASHIRE.

WAVERTREE.

The fourth annual ball in connection with the Duke of Edinburgh Lodge, 1182, took place at the New Town Hall, Wavertree, on Thursday evening, the 5th instant, and was, in every respect, a most complete success. Although election excitement, and a ball of another lodge, somewhat interfered with the attendance, there were present upwards of 150 guests; and as the ball was one of the best for dancing purposes, and as the arrangements were of the most satisfactory and admirable character, the ball was not only one of the most successful, but also the most enjoyable of the series. The proceeds, as in previous years, will be given on behalf of the West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution, which will, doubtless, benefit to a large extent by the festive gathering. The ball arrangements were entrusted to the following committee, who carried out the various details with the greatest success:—Bros. James W. Williams, W.M.; W. Pugh, P.M.; J. Thornton, P.M.; W. Woods, P.M.; S. Cookson, P.M.; P. R. Thorn, P.M.; J. Edgington, S.W.; T. B. Myers, J.W.; R. Martin, jun., S.D.; John Williams, J.D.; W. Brown, Treas.; T. Davies, I.G.; T. Musker, S.; C. Llewellyn, S.; and G. Scott, Org. The assembly was of the most fashionable character, and the zest and the cordiality which characterised the whole of the evening's festivities were evidences of the unity and fraternal spirit which mark the brethren of No. 1182. Amongst the guests and visitors present were Bros. W. Rowse, W.M. 594; R. Ing, I.P.M. 594; Peter M. Larsen, P.M. 594; S. Martin, I.G. 594; L. Bramall, F. Wilkinson, J. Williams, 241; Seddon, 673; Hignett, 1356; Bathgate and Newbold, 1182; Windell, 1356; W. Jones, 1356; Morrison, Sec. 594, and others. No more courteous or indefatigable Master of Ceremonies could possibly have been found than Bro. J. Myers, J.W., who had an efficient assistant in Bro. R. Martin, jun., S.D. The music was furnished by Martin's quadrille band, and the refreshments were supplied by Bro. T. Wright, of the Coffee House, Wavertree. Bro. Bales, the indefatigable Secretary of the lodge (who was prevented from being present in consequence of indisposition), earned great praise for his exertions in connection with the ticket arrangements.

MASONIC BIBLIOGRAPHY.

Bro. Hogg's account of the work he mentions is not quite correct. I give the exact title page of the 1776 edition.

"The Way to Things by Words, and to Words by Things, being an attempt at the Retrieval of the ancient Celtic or Primitive Language of Europe to which is added a succinct account of the Sanscrit or Learned Language of the Brethren. Also two essays, the one on the origin of the Musical Waits at Christmas, the other on the real secret of the Freemasons. Antiquos aut us recludere fontes. London—Printed by L. Davies and C. Regnurs, over against Gray's Inn Gate, Holborn, MDCCLXVI.

As I mentioned in a previous note, Cleland's name does not appear on the title page or on the preface, though the book is generally attributed to him, and neither his philology nor his derivations are now of much value or weight.

A. F. A. WOODFORD.

The W.M., officers, and members of the Gibraltar Mark Lodge, No. 43, E.C., have just presented to Bro. J. Balfour Cockburn, a massive and very elegant timepiece, the workmanship of Bennett, of Cheapside, on which is engraved the following highly gratifying inscription:—"Presented to Bro. J. Balfour Cockburn, 30th, P.M., P.G.S.D., by the members of the Gibraltar Mark Lodge, No. 43 E.C., as a token of their esteem and regard, and in recognition of his eminent services towards Mark Masonry in particular, 1873."

Bro. Balfour Cockburn was W.M. of Lodge No. 43, in 1871-72, 1872-73.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1874.

FREEMASONRY IN ITALY AND THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH.

Such is the heading of a very severe attack on the Italian Freemasons, by the Tablet, a Roman Catholic journal, and which is printed in the Church Herald of January 4th, without one word of comment, or one expression of doubt.

Indeed it would seem as if the conductors of that paper, professedly a Church of England serial, entirely agreed with the views, thus put forward.

The article though somewhat long for our columns, we have deemed it right to reprint "in extenso," and our readers will, we think, see at once, why we have thought well to recur to the subject:—

"In Great Britain the Society of Free and Accepted Masons is regarded by many Protestants as a harmless institution. The members of the various lodges are for the most part well-to-do, respectable men, who are supposed to be linked together by some secret bond or oath, which engages them to do something mysterious and not to be explained, at some indefinite period. The Masons themselves—except a very few—are supposed to be ignorant of the real secret of their Craft, and the only thing concerning Masonry which is known to the public with certainty is that Masons are convivial, charitable, and benevolent, and help each other in danger or distress. The objectionable feature in Freemasonry in England, supposing it to be otherwise harmless, is its secrecy. No association, which is a secret one, can escape suspicion. The civil power is of course jealous of all organisations which possess no well-known and well-approved object, but in Great Britain many of the governing class belong to Freemasonry, and in consequence that association enjoys protection and exemption from hostile interference on the part of the state. The Catholic Church makes no compromise with Freemasonry, or with any other secret society. Nor is it easy to understand how the Church could tolerate an association which has no honestly declared purpose, and which at the same time possesses a formidable and extensive organization, capable of being upon occasion turned into a terrible implement for the overthrow of society and order. Moreover, the real nature of Freemasonry and its hostility to religion are well known by the declarations and the conduct of continental Masons. The head of Freemasonry in Italy is Giuseppe Garibaldi, whose public speeches and writings leave no doubt as to the infidel and blasphemous disposition of that extraordinary man. His cry is "Extermination to the Pope and to his Priests." The Cross—the sign of salvation among Catholics—is to Freemasons a "sinister and dolorous symbol." "We shall never make a step in advance"—said Giuseppe Ferrari—"except through the downfall and ruin of the Cross." The Church and Freemasonry, while they are adverse to each other, exhibit a striking contrast. The sects—as a deep thinker has pointed out—"form an infernal parody upon the monastical institutions of Christendom"—"infernal prodia delle istituzioni monastiche del Cristianesimo." "In each of these institutions I see"—says Della Motta—one chief and ruling principle, which engages man to be harsh to himself, and trains him to be the docile instrument of a superior power. There is an organization which forms of the entire body, either an asylum for particular doctrines, or a potent lever for some work or undertaking. But on the one hand, while those religious or political institutions which make a part of Christian or of civil society, in so far as they are docile instruments in the hands of the ruling power, become its safeguard and its defence; so on the other hand the sects which enshroud themselves in mystery and stand in opposition to society and to the social power, becomes its danger and its scourge." The very terms of Freemasonry are copied from those of the Christian communities. There is the Order of Freemasons, and there are Brethren, just as there are Orders and Brethren, or Friars, or Benedictines, Franciscans or Augustinians. As if to travesty the nomenclature of the Catholic Church, the Freemasons in Italy divide their "National Communion" into "Consistories," "Conclaves and Chapters. Of consistories there are three, those namely at Rome, Naples and Palermo. The Conclaves are eight in number, and there are twenty-seven Chapters. There are besides 171 lodges. The Grand Dignitaries of the Order are twelve in number, and the first among them is Giuseppe Garibaldi, who is a Honorary Grand Master for life. Five Deputies to the Italian Parliament are among these Dignitaries; the Grand Treasurer being Luigi Pianciani, the Syndic of Rome. The titles of some of the lodges are suggestive. Four or five are named after Garibaldi, and three after Mazzini. There is one lodge called "Free Thought," another called "Progress" and there are two called "Aspromonte." There are also the lodges "Venti Settembre," "Mazzini Risorto," and "Dio e Popolo." The danger to which the Church is exposed from these secret societies was plainly shown by His Holiness in his last Encyclical. "Perhaps," said Pius IX., "some people may feel surprised that so extensive a war against the Catholic Church has broken out in our days. But whoever understands the character, aims and purposes of the sects—be those sects Masonic or called by any other name—and compare them with the character, purpose, and magnitude of this battle which the Church is now forced to sustain throughout nearly the entire world, cannot doubt but that the cause of the present calamity must be attributed to the frauds and machinations of the same sects. For they compose that Synagogue of Satan which marshals its forces, unfolds its banners, and forms its alliances against the Church of Jesus Christ." And Freemasons themselves are prompt to avow their enmity to the Church and to Pius IX. The Freimaurer Zeitung, of Leipsic, in a recent article, proclaims open war against the Pontiff, and adopts the German Emperor as champion of the Order. When two adversaries stand forth for conflict, such as the Emperor, who in his Masonic quality esteems and protects the order, and the Pope who prescribes and condemns it, Freemasonry must of necessity declare its proper position. It must range itself with those among whom it is understood and believed, and it must raise its voice against the man who treats it as the sworn foe of all faith and virtue. For Masonry the question is one of life or death." The same article compares the two old men—the Pope and the Emperor. It calls the prisoner in the Vatican "that old man, who, although declared to be infallible, is yet ignorant of the noblest actions of history and of nations, and whose range of vision is still bounded by the horizon of the ages which are past." The other old man of Berlin is, on the contrary, a "hero, whose ever-buoyant genius has strength to comprehend his own times to their very depths." The Emperor—so proceeds the Freemason organ—"wields with us and for us, the hammer of strength, the compass of combined inspiration, and the square of wisdom, which served to regulate, according to an ideal pattern, actions truly worthy of humanity." He is the "noble old man, who has known how to combat the power of darkness, which would else annihilate our designs." Whatever may be the designs of the Freemasons, and whatever be the true drift of their mysterious jargon, it is quite clear that the welfare of Christianity is not one of the objects at which they aim. It is also manifest that the Prussian Emperor and his Freemasons are determined to overcome the Catholic Church, which they describe as the "power of darkness." It is to be feared they will find many assistants in Italy in their work of combating the Church. In Rome the Prussian lodges are doubly resented. The Grand Master Lodge of Berlin has its local office in the person of Cesare Dezzani, who has just been appointed under the Italian Minister of Education.

The other Grand Lodge of Berlin, called the "Royal York," is represented in Rome by General Duke Filippo Lante di Montefeltro. There is thus an intimate connection between the Prussian and Italian lodges, not to speak of the common bond which unites together in obedience the members of all the lodges in all parts of the world. Yet, although the Pope has no allies amongst the rulers of this world, who seemed to have combined together to ignore or destroy the Pontifical authority, Catholics have no fear for the issue of this unequal combat. The aged Pontiff may be dethroned, his servants may be cast into prison or exiled, or even persecuted unto death. Yet the triumph eventually is certain and beyond doubt. The material conquests of the kings of the earth are destined, now as ever, to vanish before the moral might of that strength which is made perfect in weakness. The promise of the King of kings and Lord of lords to be with His Church to the end of the world is as valid now as when first uttered. And the victory of Christianity over brute force, of faith over scepticism, of life over death, is to Catholics as certain as the existence of God and the reality of the mission of Christ.—Tablet."

Now we will only permit ourselves to-day, to remark, that, the writer of this long-winded article entirely mistakes and misunderstands the position of English Freemasonry. It is not only tolerated, as he would put it, by our lenient laws, but it is, for its well-known spirit of loyalty and peaceful submission to the "ordinances of this realm," specially exempted by name from the operation of the Secret Societies' Act.

In the next place, as we said before, we have nothing to do with the proceedings of foreign Grand Lodges. Our own course of action is well known to all, our principles of entire neutrality in all matters relating to politics or religion, (that is as regards denominational differences), are admitted even by those who differ from us in England.

Indeed, our very abnegation on such topics, especially religious teaching, is one of the complaints curiously enough, most frequently brought against us.

But we cannot and do not profess to legislate for foreign Grand Lodges, and we are not responsible, therefore, for the differences which are to be traced between their proceedings and our own.

We can hardly believe that Bro. Guiseppe Caribaldi, or Bro. Ferrari used the words attributed to them, and we would like to see a refutation of them before we condemn the speakers on the ipse dixit of the writer in the alibi.

If these are the opinions of these two brethren, and the formal utterance of the Italian Grand Lodge, we deeply deplore the fact, and have no objection whatever, as Freemasons, in saying that the tolerating and charitable principles of our Order, they are equally indefensible and improper.

We do not think that there ever was any objection in the use of particular words to ridicule or parody the religious ceremonies or organization of the Church of Rome. The words were used, because, they were convenient words to the Masonic Order, and are used, we believe, only with that intent and end.

At the same time, we have often felt, that some of the foreign high grades, are so very peculiar in their forms and ceremonies, that they may appear objectionable to religious-minded persons.

As a strong argument, as it appears to us, for the simple forms and ritual of Craft Masonry. Neither do we believe, that, there is any foundation for the idea of a common crusade of the Italian and German Freemasons as against the Supreme Pontiff, the Roman Catholic Church, society in general, and legitimate authority in particular. This seems to be the chimera which is agitating Roman Catholics everywhere, at the moment, and the Masonic Order appears just now to be the bugbear of the whole Roman Catholic Hierarchy. One should have thought that they had something better to do than fulminate ceaseless anathemas against Freemasons.

But in the meantime the writer of this lachrymose jeremiad forgets this undoubted truth, that the Roman Catholic Church has commenced a most unseemly attack on the Freemasons. In Brazil, in Belgium, in America, and even in England, the Roman Catholic Hierarchy have, unceasingly proclaimed that the wicked Freemasons are the cause of all the present evils, and above all of the serious conflict between the state in Prussia, and the Roman Catholic Church.

We believe, that, never in their history, though they have made many great mistakes, has the Roman Catholic Curia and the Roman Catholic Dignitaries committed so great a blunder.

There may be in Germany, as elsewhere, some who seem to think they never can be satisfied, unless they are attacking "Ultramontanism and Ultramontanes." But such uneasy Masons are in a very great minority.

The great majority of our Order, true to their old teachings, are ever most opposed to the "debasing practice of persecution," from whatever quarter it comes, and are most anxious to live in peace and amity with all men, and above all, are seeking in all of sincerity, loyalty, and submission to the laws of their several countries, to pursue their honest callings, their one banner being the banner of toleration, sincerity, and charity, their watchword being ever, and under all circumstances, and alone—brotherly love.

REFUSAL TO BURY A ROMAN CATHOLIC SOLDIER, A FREEMASON.

As a very remarkable corollary on our preceding article, and a very striking commentary on the recent denunciations, and overt acts of Roman Catholic prelates, against our unoffending Order, we beg to call the attention of our readers particularly to the following extract from the Times's military and naval intelligence of February 5th:—

"Some excitement has been caused in Chatham Garrison by the refusal of the Rev. M. Cuffe, Roman Catholic Chaplain to the Forces, to perform the burial service over Armourer-Sergeant, J. V. Johnstone, of the 82d Regiment, a Roman Catholic Freemason, who died in Fort Pitt Hospital. The deceased had been a member of the Buckley Lodge of Freemasons, which met at the Soldiers' Institute. A resident Roman Catholic priest also declined, as the Rev. M. Cuffe was his senior. The Rev. Mr. Phillips, a Protestant clergyman, performed the Church service when the deceased was interred in the military burial ground near Fort Pitt. The deceased was much respected, and hundreds of soldiers attended the funeral."

Where then will this persecution of Freemasons end?

Though protected by the laws of the country, peaceable and loyal citizens, a Roman Catholic Chaplain, paid by the Government, actually refuses to perform the Roman Catholic Burial service, over a gallant Roman Catholic soldier, simply because he is a Freemason. To say nothing of the evident illegality of the above proceeding, even according to Roman Catholic canon law, we have in this act of the Rev. Mr. Cuffe, a most painful violation of the great Christian law of kindness and brotherly love.

It is not the first time Roman Catholic Clergy and Prelates have refused to bury Roman Catholic Freemasons. A case occurred at Gibraltar some years back, when Bishop Hughes, though a very kindly man himself, then the Roman Catholic Bishop at Gibraltar, declined to allow extreme unction to be administered to a Roman Catholic unless he abjured Freemasonry, and then after the poor man's death, refused to bury him.

Dr. Burrows, then the Resident Civil Chaplain at Gibraltar; and P.G.M., read the service over our brother, in the presence of thousands of spectators.

What good the Roman Catholic clergy can think will accrue to their Church or themselves by such unwise proceedings, we are altogether at a loss to guess, but of this they may rest assured, that such acts are utterly repugnant to the true spirit of that religion they profess to believe in. Matters however cannot be allowed to rest here, and the attention of the G.M. and the Grand Lodge ought at once to be called, to a course of action on the part of the Roman Catholic clergy, which is most subversive of the rights of Freemasons as peaceable citizens of the country, most derogatory to religion, and most unjustifiable on every ground of peace and toleration, and in the general interests of civilization and humanity.

Mr. Cuffe's refusal to bury Sergeant Johnstone is quite unprecedented in this country, and must be looked at in a most serious light, as in itself a most irreligious and unrighteous proceeding.

We feel quite certain that our Grand Master and our Grand lodge, will, on a proper representation from the Buckley Lodge, take such steps as will tend to uphold the right of our Roman Catholic brethren, as, be they ever so humble, they equally claim our sympathy, and deserve our support.

Messrs. Morton, Rose and Co. announce an issue of £1,000,000 Five per Cent. Sterling Sinking Fund Bonds or the Illinois Central Railway Company, at the price of 84 per cent. The proceeds are to purchase an equal amount of New Orleans, Jackson, and Great Northern Railroad and Mississippi Central Seven per Cent. Bonds, by means of which the Illinois company will gain 2 per cent. annually, thereby providing a sinking fund sufficient to redeem the whole of the present issue in about 26 years, and the bonds so purchased are to be held as security for the payment of the loan. This arrangement will give to the Illinois company through communication between Chicago and New Orleans. The total income of the Illinois company last year amounted to 2,860,742 dols.

WEEKLY SUMMARY.

Her Majesty is still at Osborne.

The Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh have been at Moscow, but have now returned to St. Petersburg, and are about to proceed to Zarskoe Selo, for a little quiet, after their public receptions, which have been most brilliant and enthusiastic.

The marriage party is breaking up, the Crown Prince and Princess of Germany have left for Berlin, together with the Duke of Saxe-Coburg Gotha, and we shall very soon be expecting to see amongst us again their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales.

The general elections have proceeded, 557 members have been already returned, and the elections will be over probably by the end of this week. Next week we shall be able to clearly estimate the result of the dissolution. As a fact, it is remarkable that the Lord Mayor of London, the Lord Mayor of Dublin, and the Lord Provost of Edinburgh have all three been returned to serve in the new Parliament.

Otherwise we have not much home news to record except another somewhat serious accident at West Drayton.

The Castro trial, and the Lord Chief Justice's summing-up still continues. We shall next week, we trust, be able to report the conclusion of this "cause célèbre," and the verdict of the very patient jury.

On Saturday his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, accompanied by General Sir Richard Airey, G.C.B., Adjutant-General of the Forces; Lieutenant-General Sir Charles Ellice, K.C.B., Quartermaster-General to the Forces; Major-General Sir Thomas M'Mahon, C.B., commanding the Cavalry Brigade, Aldershot, Inspecting-General of Cavalry; Colonel Middleton, C.B., Deputy-Adjutant-General (Royal Artillery); Colonel Clifford, V.C., C.B., Assistant-Adjutant General; Colonel Oakes, C.B. (late commanding 12th Lancers), Inspecting Officer of Auxiliary Cavalry; Colonel Fraser, V.C., C.B., late 11th Hussars, Aide-de-Camp to his Royal Highness; and Captain Fenn, Inspector of Saddlery, Royal Arsenal, Woolwich, paid an official visit to the Saddlers' Company, in the City of London, to inspect a fine exhibition of military saddlery now on view there, and in relation to which the company had offered a series of prizes, with the view to encourage technical education in the branch of art and industry, with which they are especially identified. They are one of the oldest guilds in the City, being coeval in existence with the famous steel-yard merchants who were settled in Upper Thames-street on what is now called Dowgate-hill, and who, according to Herbert's "History of the Twelve Livery Companies," were a branch of, if they did not give rise to, the famous Hanseatic League. The distinguished visitors on Saturday were received at the hall of the company, situate in Cheapside, by Mr. Deputy Harris, the Master, and the rest of the governing body, among whom was Mr. Alderman Cotton, one of the newly-elected members for the City of London. The competition for the prizes, which were from 50 guineas downwards, had been open to army and regimental saddlers and the trade generally. The exhibition was tastefully arranged in the principal hall of the company on Saturday, and his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, with the rest of the military authorities present, went carefully and critically over it, bringing their practical experience to bear upon the specimens shown. The hall of the company is adorned by a fine portrait in oil of Frederick, Prince of Wales son of George II., to whom the freedom of the guild was conferred in November, 1736, and also one of Queen Anne. It likewise contains a portrait of the late Sir Peter Laurie, long a noted member, and at one time Master of the Company. During the visit the Duke of Cambridge and the whole of the military authorities accompanying his Royal Highness were entertained by the Master and Wardens at a stately déjeuner, which was served in the court-room, a lofty and finely-proportioned chamber. The Company is rich in ancient drinking cups and tankards in solid silver, many of them massive and highly artistic in design, one being a cup nearly 200 years old, and another a very curious tankard—much admired—of the time of Queen Elizabeth, and many of them were used at the entertainment.

The news from the Gold Coast, seems decisive of this, that the King of the Ashantees has agreed to "cave in," unless it be a "ruse de guerre" of that wily old gentleman "Aman-quarta." Probably next week will bring us official tidings. Some doubt has been thrown however on the telegram.

The famine has we fear begun in India, though much rain has also happily fallen, and under Providence, let us hope, that by administrative energy, the disastrous consequences of previous famines in that densely populated country, may be happily averted from the suffering inhabitants.

Abroad the news is very unimportant. The "Préfet de la Seine" has given a successful fête at the Palace of the Luxembourg, and France is generally tranquil. In Germany Archbishop Ledochowski is in prison, and the Swiss authorities have expelled the Abbé Collet, a French clergyman, from Switzerland. The Dutch seem to be progressing in the Achinese war, and the Carlists appear to be on the eve of taking Bilbao.

We have to record the deaths of Earl Howth, K.P., of Baron Meyer de Rothschild, of Mr. Ireland Blackburne, one of the oldest ex-Members of Parliament, of Mr. Herman Merivale, under-Secretary, at the India Office, of that good officer General Gaspard le Marchant, of two old soldiers, Major Morgan and Lyon, and two Admirals who had seen much service, E. Gill and Balfour Maxwell.

RED CROSS BALL.

A grand ball took place, under the auspices of the Grand Council of England, of the Knights of the Red Cross of Constantine, at the Cannon-street Hotel, on Wednesday last, on which occasion there was a large attendance of the Knights of the Order, and their friends. Although the ball was under the special patronage of the Earl of Bective, Grand Commander, and the Grand Council, the privilege of attending was not exclusively limited to members of the Order, who were entitled to introduce friends, whether members or not, Masons or non-Masons, the only condition required being that the tickets should be signed by one of the Stewards. The natural consequence of this requirement was to make the ball a very select, and at the same time a very enjoyable one.

Dancing commenced at nine o'clock, to the music of an excellent band, provided by Bro. Weaver, and was kept up to a late, or rather early, hour.

The elegant apparel of the Grand Council and Knights of the Red Cross, toned down in a measure by the presence of a few gentlemen in the simpler evening dress, combined with the elegant toilettes of the ladies, and the tasteful decorations of the fine Ball-room of the Hotel, produced a mis-en-scene which can better be imagined than described.

At twelve o'clock, the company adjourned to supper. Bro. Col. Burdett, occupied the chair. The first toast proposed was that of "The Queen." The next toast was, "The memory of Constantine the Great, the founder, not only of the Constantinian Order of St. George, but also of the Masonic Order of the Red Cross," coupled with the name of H.I.H. Prince Rhodocanakis.

His Imperial Highness replied as follows:—"It is with sincere gratification that I rise to acknowledge the very high compliment which you have just paid me, and I feel assured, that under the circumstances, you will judge of my zeal in the cause of our orders of chivalry, rather by my acts, than by my words. I can conscientiously affirm, that in advancing the interests of our illustrious confraternity in general, and particularly in my native land, I have striven to carry out those wise cosmopolitan principles, which at the dawn of modern civilization, raised to such a pitch of grandeur, those renewed orders of chivalry which, even in modern times, we see, may be restored, if not with equal pageantry, at any rate with even more practical advantages. Fully alive to the importance in every state, of a social organization, divested of the disturbing influence of politics, and relying rather on my honesty of purpose, than on my own qualifications for the task, I accepted the mission of conveying to the Greeks a fuller knowledge of those noble principles which had so impressed themselves upon me in this great and enlightened country, and in finally establishing the Grand Orient and S.G.C. of the Hellenic kingdom, I also prepared a way for the establishment there, sooner or later, of the Red Cross Masonic Order, which here I have found dignified by the noblest of principles, and with an organization the excellence of which is best attested, by the rapid extension of the order in the remotest countries. As regards my purely personal feelings, I acknowledge with the greatest respect the courtesy and hospitality extended to myself, but which after all, was but to have been expected at the hands of a body of gentlemen of social distinction and personal accomplishments, true Knights, as I believe, sans peur et sans reproche."

"The Ladies," was responded to by Bro. Col. Peters, in a humorous speech.

The management of the whole affair reflects the greatest credit on the Stewards, which comprised the following:—

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.—Colonel Francis Burdett, Chairman; Robert Wentworth Little, Wm. Robert Woodman, M.D.; Henry Charles Levauder, M.A.

GENERAL COMMITTEE.—James Lewis Thomas, Raynham W. Stewart, Angelo J. Lewis, M.A.; John Boyd, Thomas Cubitt, Thomas W. White, Joseph Charles Parkinson, William Roebuck, George Kenning, Charles H. Rogers-Harrison, Sigismund Rosenthal, John T. Moss, T. Burdett Yeoman.

STEWARDS.—The Members of the Grand Council and Senate, and the following Knights:—Sir Gilbert E. Campbell, Bart.; Victor Cerehe, Benjamin Cook, Antonio J. Codner, Henry A. Dubois, William Forster, Hon. Judge Gibbs, Isidore S. Gordon, Charles Hammerton, Charles F. Hogard, Charles Horsley, Frederick Keily, William Kelly, F.S.A.; Thomas Kingston, James Percy Leith, John George Marsh, Thomas Massa, Alfred Moore, Alpheus C. Morton, Edward S. Norris, Alfred Albert Pendlebury, Colonel James Peters, Henry Phythian, Frederick W. H. Ramsay, M.D.; Ebenezer Roberts, Edwin Sillifant, David R. Still, Eugene H. Thiellay, Frederick Walters, James Weaver.

Bro. Ebenezer Roberts discharged the duties of Master of the Ceremonies to the satisfaction of all present.

Great praise is due to the spirited host, Bro. Spencer, for the excellent repast and the choice wines and other refreshments that were provided with no sparing hand during the course of the evening.

GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

The Grand Lodge of Scotland met again on Monday, the 2nd inst., in the Great Hall, George-street, Edinburgh. The Most Worshipful Grand Master, Sir Michael R. Shaw Stewart, Bart., occupied the throne, supported by the Right Hon. Lord James C. Plantaganet Murray, R.W. Deputy G. Master, and Scottish representative at the Grand Lodge of England; W. Mana, Esq., P.G.W., as S.G.W.; Major Hamilton Ramsay, J.G.W.; H. Inglis, Esq., P.S.G.M. and P.G.M. Peebles and Selkirk; Major Hope, P.M. East Lothian; Landerdale Maitland, Esq., P.G.M. Dumfriesshire; Captain G. R. Harnott, P.M., Wigtonshire; J. Laurie, Esq., G.S.; F. A. Barron, Esq., R.W.S.G. Deacon; W. Hay, Esq., J.G.D.; A. Hay, Esq., Grand Jeweller; Captain G.F.R. Colt, G. Swordbearer; C. W. Muller, Esq., Director of Music; R. Davidson, Esq., G. Organist; A. T. Apthorpe, Esq., Acting Chief Grand Marshal; W. M. Bryce, G. Tyler; and many past grand officers.

The usual preliminary business having been disposed of, Bro. Inglis, Past Substitute Grand Master, announced his presence as representative of one of the three great masonic bodies of Germany, also a Grand Lodge of the same which office he has lately been appointed, and Bro. Inglis having been ushered into Grand Lodge with the honours due to his rank, was received by the Grand Master with a hearty welcome and duly installed.

Petitions for charters for new lodges were granted for Allahabad, Islay, Larkhall, Jamaica, Dreghorn, Lima, South Queensferry, and Kilsyth; several others were remitted for further and future consideration. The power of the G.M. of Western India was extended over all Hindostan.

The resignation of P.G.M. of Victoria was accepted, and Bro. John Hislop was appointed P.G.M. of New Zealand, a cordial vote of thanks being accorded to Bro. W. Caldwell for his services in the G. Lodge of that distant province.

A motion was then discussed for the purpose of constituting all Past Masters as members of Grand Lodge, and warmly debated on both sides, but was ultimately rejected by a large majority.

Sundry motions for discussion were tabled, to be hereafter considered, and Grand Lodge was closed in ample form.

THE WILL OF THE LATE BRO. HENRY MELVILLE.

Henry Melville the author of "Veritas," recently noticed in our columns, whose will has just been proved, recommends that immediately after his decease his books, papers, manuscripts &c., should be secured by Mrs. Maria Gibbs, and that she should, without loss of time, apply to the Crown for a patent to use the Masonic symbols on planispheres and celestial charts, by which the original of the Sacred Bible and other mysterious works can be interpreted; and then goes on to say: "The patent having been secured, I recommend that application be made to the British Government by the said Maria Gibbs for a commission of inquiry to determine whether the knowledge should be made public, or retained for a certain time (to be determined by such commission and the said Maria Gibbs), and then made public. I recommend that copies of my manuscript works should be made, and that no one copyist should be allowed to transcribe more than one book, and that such copying should be executed only in the presence of the said Maria Gibbs."

ISSUE OF £1,000,000 Five Per Cent. Sterling Sinking Fund Bonds OF THE Illinois Central Railroad Company.

Of £200 each. Payable 1st April, 1903, if not previously redeemed by the action of the Sinking Fund.

Interest and Principal payable in London. Interest payable 1st April and 1st October, in each year, at the Counting-house of Messrs. Morton, Rose, and Co. The first Coupon payable October 1, 1874.

Redeemable in London by a Sinking Fund of at least 2 per cent. per annum—viz., 1 per cent. by Drawings at Par, and 1 per cent. by purchases by tender in London, at not exceeding par. The first drawing will take place in August next, and the Bonds drawn will be paid at par in London on the 1st October following; the first purchase will be in March 1875.

Price of Issue, 84 per Cent. or £168 per £200 Bond.
Payable 10 per Cent. or £20 per Bond on Allotment.
" 40 " " 80 " " 10th March.
" 34 " " 68 " " 25th April.
84 per Cent. or £168 per Bond.

Rebate on anticipated Payment of Instalments will be allowed at the rate of 4 per Cent. per Annum.

Messrs. Morton, Rose, and Co., are prepared to receive subscriptions for the above £1,000,000 Bonds, which are issued under the provisions of an Act of the Legislature of the State of Illinois, dated February 12th, 1855, entitled "An Act to enable Railroad Companies to enter into operative contracts, and to borrow money."

The loan is raised for the purchase of an equal amount of New Orleans, Jackson, and Great Northern Railroad, and Mississippi Central Railroad, Seven Per Cent. Bonds, by which means the Illinois Company will gain 2 per cent. annually, thereby providing a Sinking Fund sufficient to redeem the whole of this issue in about twenty-six years. The Bonds of the above Railroads so purchased are to be held by the Illinois Company as security for the payment of this loan.

The Illinois Company covenant to apply the whole of the interest received from the Southern Bonds, after providing for the interest on the present issue, to the Sinking Fund, thus making it accumulative. The surplus beyond the sum required for the interest and the Sinking Fund above provided, will be applied to purchases or drawings, at the option of the Company, the numbers of the Bonds so purchased or drawn, will be advertised, and the Bonds cancelled.

The arrangements with the above-named Companies afford the Illinois Company direct communication between Chicago and New Orleans, which, it is expected, will add largely to its traffic. Through trains are now running over a distance of 1,650 miles.

The net receipts from the local traffic only of the Southern lines, according to the returns for 1871 and 1872 (before the connection was made) showed even then more than sufficient to pay the interest on their Bonds.

The Illinois Company covenants that this issue shall be included in any future mortgage which hereafter may be created, and that such mortgage shall be made to secure no more than 15,000,000, doles, which sum shall include all prior liens on the mortgage property, and without preference.

The following is an extract from the last published Report of the Illinois Company, for the year 1872, showing its position:—

"During this period" (last ten years) "Dividends have regularly been paid amounting, in the aggregate, to 22,582,407.07 doles, and the debt has been reduced to the amount of 8,109,500 doles. Of the debt outstanding, 3,300,000 doles, of the Construction Bonds, and 2,500,000 doles, of the Redemption Bonds, will become payable April 1st, 1875. You have set apart a Trust or Sinking Fund of 2,750,000 doles, which, with its interest, will nearly provide for the Construction Bonds, leaving 3,000,000 doles. Redemption Bonds to be provided for. The residue of the debt will then consist of 2,500,000 doles, of Bonds, payable in 1880. The entire cost of the property has been 34,651,100.56 doles. It is now represented by a Share Capital of 25,000,000 doles, and a debt, which, after deducting the existing Sinking Fund, leaves 5,029,000 doles, making the aggregate 2,932,100.56 less than the actual cost of the whole."

"Match 20th, 1873." "JOHN NEWELL, President

Since the above report new Shares were authorised to be created, to the extent of 5,100,000 doles. The net earnings for 1873 are stated to be 2,539,800 doles. The revenue from other sources is stated at 2,329,851 doles, making the Total Income for the year 3,869,742 doles.

(Scrip Certificates to bearer will be issued against Allotment Letters, and will be exchanged for definitive Bonds as soon as possible after all payments are completed. In cases where no answer to applications is returned, it will be understood that it has not been practicable to make an allotment.

Default of payment of any instalment when due will render all previous payments liable to forfeiture.

Copies of the Acts of the Legislature and other Documents may be inspected at the Office of Messrs. Bischoff, Hompaas, and Bischoff, Solicitors, Great Winchester Street-buildings, London, E.C.

Applications, which must be made on the annexed form, will be received at the Counting-house of Messrs. Morton, Rose, and Co., on Thursday, the 12th inst., and the Subscription List will be closed at or before 4 p.m., on Monday, the 18th inst. Bartholomew-lane, 10th February, 1874.

CROSBY'S
BALSAMIC
COUGH ELIXIR.

Opium, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Palmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist Scarborough.

"Invaluable should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had gratis of all Chemists.

This Apparatus is a very clever invention; it not only adds to the great convenience of gentlemen, who are enabled to score their own games without leaving the table, by the simple pressure of buttons fixed on the cushions, at the same time ringing a bell, but likewise gives the proprietor or manager a thorough control over the table—inasmuch as

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

ST. JAMES UNION LODGE (No. 180).—This lodge held their usual meeting at the Freemasons, Hall on Tuesday, 10th February, being the first meeting after the installation of the new W.M., Bro. Gallico. The ceremonies of passing and raising were very ably performed by him, and it is much to be regretted that so few brethren were present, including as few visitors, to witness his excellent working; in fact many Englishmen might learn a good lesson from what has been accomplished by a foreigner. We are happy to learn that the W.M. is going as Steward to the Boys' festival in March, and the Lodge voted 10 guineas for his list.

LODGE OF TRANQUILITY (No. 185).—The high esteem in which this lodge is held was exemplified by the strong muster of members and the number of visitors who assembled on Monday, the 16th inst., at the Cannon-street Hotel, E.C. The prodigious amount of work to be accomplished necessitated the meeting to be called as early as 2 p.m. With his accustomed punctuality, Bro. Nathan Moss, the W.M., opened the proceedings, in which he was efficiently assisted by Bro. John Constable, S.W.; John Ross, J.W.; J. D. Barnett, S.D.; F. Cocker, I.G.; John Peartree, Hon. Treas.; Phil Levy, Hon. Sec. After the confirmation of the minutes, the W.M. conferred the third degree upon Bro. T. W. Humphreys, passed to the position of Fellow Craft, Bros. Pare, Anthony, and Judge, and initiated into the mysteries of the Order, Messrs. W. D. Bayley, and T. S. Smith. This being the appointed time for the installation of the W.M. for the ensuing year, Bro. John Constable, the S.W., who had been unanimously elected to that important post at a previous meeting, was presented in regular form and duly installed with the usual ceremonies observed on such occasions. The new Master's first duty was to invest his officers, and the various brethren selected seemed to afford the greatest satisfaction, judging from the approbation manifested as each name was called. The appointments were as follows:—Bros. John Ross, S.W.; J. D. Barnett, J.W.; John Peartree, Hon. Treas.; Phil Levy, Hon. Sec.; David Seener (unavoidably absent), S.D.; Child, J.D. I.G.; Spence D.C.; Reece, W.S.; Tyler. The installation ceremony was ably performed by the retiring W.M., who, though suffering from a severe cold, secured divided attention, and at the finish of the addresses to the officer and brethren, well merited applause. The auditors report was then read, in which it appeared that besides enjoying the usual banquets, the lodge was able to spend £38 liberally, without encroaching upon their private benevolent fund, and yet leave a balance of £144 in favour of the lodge, thus proving that "charity doth thinketh no evil" was "kind" in this instance and permitted benevolence and conviviality to hand in hand. The benevolent fund in connection with this lodge exists at the present time upwards of £600, invested in consols. During the past year the relief fund to indigent brethren amounted to £136. The adoption of the report ended the business of the evening.

The proceedings in the lodge were most decorous. The solemnity of the ceremonies being greatly enhanced by the addition of musical and vocal accompaniments, under the able conduct of Bro. G. Bilby. The lodge was then called from labour to refreshment. After so many hours of incessant work in the lodge the brethren most gladly availed themselves of the opportunity of raising their flagging energies. Ample justice was done to the many excellent things provided, all faces brightened under the genial influence. Hearts expanded and purse strings loosened, so that when during the toasts an appeal was made by Bro. Saul Solomon, P.M., to still further enlarge the private benevolent fund, £26 5s. were at once subscribed; visitors were not permitted to add their mite. The various other toasts were given and responded to in the usual manner, the most noteworthy of which were the one to the general Masonic Charities responded to by Bro. F. Binckes in his accustomed hearty manner. His energy is so contagious as to make one feel ashamed of oneself for not being at least Vice-President of all the institutions. In the course of his observations he complimented the W.M. upon his efforts in collecting an amount of nearly £400 towards the funds of the Benevolent Institution, and referred to a discussion lately carried on in the pages of the Freemason in which one of the correspondents thought proper to sneer at what is technically known as "Constable's Draw." Bro. Binckes agrees with this correspondent in this—"That if every lodge did its duty, we should not need such extraneous, and if you will, questionable help," but while such is not the case—while out of 1500 lodges under English jurisdiction only about 150 sent Stewards to the last festival, then, although not holding the opinion that in every case the "end justifies the means," in this matter the course pursued was highly commendable, and all honour is due to Bro. Constable for his very successful efforts in that direction. Bro. Terry followed suit in the same strain with an energy and earnestness scarcely inferior to the preceding speaker. Both Initiates replied briefly, as became novitiates, but showed signs of very intelligent appreciation of all they had seen and heard at their entrance into what they termed a novel view of life. The I.P.M. proposed the health of the W.M., who was exceedingly modest in his response, promising to use his best efforts to promote the welfare of the lodge. Bro. Maurice Hart responded for the P.M.'s. He alluded to the condition of the lodge some years ago, when it appeared on the lowest "round of fortune's wheel," but its resuscitation may be dated from the time of the W. Master's introduction. Besides other services, he has introduced some twenty-five of his personal friends, all good men and true, a credit to the lodge and an acquisition to the Craft. For the visitors Bro. Lazarus, P.M., P.G.S.W. Wilts, replied in few but appropriate words. This brother is nearly eighty years of age. It was therefore, pleasing to observe the almost youthful energy he possesses, imagination still vivid and intellect clear. A very handsome gold jewel was presented to Bro. Nathan Moss, I.P.M., a testimonial of esteem and affection seldom better deserved. The following notices of motion are worthy of record, by Bro. Saul Solomon, P.M., "That this lodge contribute annually £5 5s. to each the Boy's and Girl's School, and £10 to the Benevolent fund" by Bro. Constable, P.M., "That the sum of £10 10s. from the fund of this lodge be placed on the list of Bro. John Ross, S.W., who has consented to represent the lodge at the coming festival for the Boy's School. The P.M.'s present were—Holbrook Harfield, S. E. Moss, Saul Solomon, Maurice Hart, N. Harris. The visitors were—Bros. F. Binckes, P.M. Grand Stewards; Terry, P.M. United Strength; Lazarus, P.M., P.G.S.W. Wilts; Roberts, W.M. Joppa; Dr. Solla, P.M. and W.M. Montefiore; Hogard, P.M., Israel; Gottheil, P.M. 141; Parker, P.M. Beadon; Adreed, P.M. 181; H. M. Levy, P.M. 181; Wood, 438; Henson, 180; Page, J.W. 902; Cummings, 534; Braomilla, 392; G. Hart, late 185; A. Gluckstein, 141; L. Abrahams, 141; Broo-385; Thomas, 28; Myer, 63; Distin, 175; Webb, Lodge of Truth, Staffordshire; and Read. The vocalists were Bro. Parker, P.M.

Child, J.D.; Miss Dones and Miss Leo. Bro. Distin presided at the piano with his usual efficiency. The pleasant meeting will long be remembered by all who had the good fortune to be present. The prevailing harmony and good fellowship were truly Masonic. In the midst of thorough enjoyment, suffering humanity was not forgotten. In fact, the whole proceedings were conducted in the spirit of the grand principles upon which the Order is founded, "Brotherly Love, Relief and Truth."

WINDSOR.—Etonian Lodge (No. 209).—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held on the 3rd inst., at the Royal Adelaide Hotel, Windsor. Bro. Dixon, the W.M., was supported by Bros. Bladon, S.W.; Carter, J.W.; Strange, P.M. Sec.; Bryett, P.M. (acting) S.D.; Crowhurst, J.D.; Canvin, I.G.; Hume, D.C.; Roberts, S.; Stacey, P.M., Org.; Bro. Wilson, P.M., and several other brethren. The W.M. having opened the lodge in the first degree, the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The ballot was then taken for Mr. T. Hawker, for initiation, and for Bro. Hiscock of 865 lodge, as a joining member, both of whom were elected. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, Bro. Pears, after the usual interrogation, was entrusted with the pass grip and word leading from second to third degree by the W.M., who then transferred his collar to Bro. Wilson, P.M., who raised Bro. Pears to the sublime degree in his well-known style. The resignation of Bro. Binnie, P.M., was read and received with universal regret, he having by his exertions contributed materially towards the present satisfactory condition of the lodge. After discussion on various matters the lodge was closed and adjourned until the next monthly night.

LODGE OF UNITED STRENGTH (No. 228).—The brethren of this ancient lodge held their installation meeting at St. John's Gate, Clerkenwell, on the 10th inst. Present Bros. Crump, Winsland, Botterill, Terry, Davies, Colston, Carter, Robards, Hillhouse, White, Smith, Snare, Hill, Snell, Wickens, Skeate, Duckett, Tallerman, Halford, Hickman, Percy, Vine, Killick, Patmore, Jones, Ingall, Burkett, and numerous other brethren and visitors. The business of the evening consisted of the usual ceremonies by the outgoing W.M., Bro. Terry, whose able working is universally known, and the installation by him of the W.M. for the ensuing year, Bro. James Hillhouse. The occasion was rendered doubly interesting by the presentation to Bro. Terry of a valuable diamond ring by the brethren of the lodge, in token of the high esteem and regard entertained for him by the whole of the members. The W.M., after the banquet, in presenting the testimonial, alluded in appropriate words to the many excellent qualifications possessed by Bro. Terry, and paid a just tribute, not only to the able manner in which he had presided during his Mastership, and the satisfactory position of the finances of the lodge, mainly due to his exertions, but to the great regard personally entertained for him by every member, and referring to the inscription on the ring "Presented to Bro. James Terry, P.M. by the brethren of 228, 10th February, 1874. Probo et Fideli et Fido, remarked that those words represented truly the able, faithful, and trusty qualities so eminently possessed by him. In responding Bro. Terry heartily acknowledged the surprise and pleasure he felt at receiving the testimonial from the brethren, unexpected as it had been to him, and expressed the great pleasure it afforded him at all times to further the interest of the lodge by every means in his power, and that he felt deeply the kind expressions which at all times, and especially on that occasion, had emanated from the W.M. and all the brethren reciprocating their regard during the 14th year he had been connected with the lodge. The banquet was served by Bro. Gay, in his usual excellent style, and the brethren enjoyed a most agreeable evening.

BERKHAMPTSTEAD.—Berkhamptstead Lodge (No. 504).—The meeting for the installation of the W.M. of the Berkhamptstead Lodge was held at the King's Arms on Wednesday, 21st ult., and was attended by a larger number of brethren, than meetings of the P.G.L. Herts excepted, than has ever assembled in Berkhamptstead. This assemblage was due to the fact, that in addition to the ceremony of installation, an event always honoured by the Craft, the occasion was chosen as a fitting one for the presentation to the lodge of an excellent oil painting of the worthy Treasurer and Father of the Lodge, Bro. J. E. Lane, P.M. and P.P.S.W., &c. After the routine business of the lodge had been transacted, the brethren sat down to a sumptuous banquet, prepared by the worthy hostess of the King's Arms, Mrs. Baker; and it may suffice, once for all, to say that her skill and management in this important part of the day's proceedings, left nothing to be desired in them. The chair was taken by the W.M., Bro. W. H. Rowe, supported on his right by Bros. T. F. Halsey, P.G.M. Herts; Rev. F. B. Harvey, P.M. 742 P.P.G.C. Herts, C. F. Humbert, I. Houll, I. Howe, A. T. Parkes, E. Terry, &c., and on his left by Bros. J. H. Adams, P.M.; J. Johnson, P.M. and P.P.S.W.; J. M. Shugar, P.M. and P.P.S.W.; J. E. Lane, P.M. and P.P.S.W.; R. A. Wright, W. I. Adams, W. B. Heath, G. Lambert, J. Burton, all prominent members of the Berkhamstead, Provincial and London Lodges. The brethren present also, to the number of about 50, included representatives from the Grand Lodge of England, down to the entered apprentices of that day's celebration. After the usual loyal and Masonic toasts had been given by the W.M., Bro. W. Wilson, P.M. and Hon. Sec., 504, proposed in most appropriate terms the health of the newly appointed P.G.M. Herts, Bro. T. F. Halsey, which was drunk with full Masonic honours. In an able and characteristic speech that gentleman responded, pledging himself to the discharge of the duties entrusted to him, for the sole good of the Craft in general, and of the brethren in the province in particular. The toast of the evening confessedly was that of the Treasurer and father of the lodge Bro. J. E. Lane, P.M., and P.P.S.W. Herts etc., by Bro. Lambert, whose metropolitan and provincial Masonic honours and position are almost beyond enumeration. In an able and feeling address he alluded to the high character and Masonic zeal which for so many years had distinguished Bro. Lane, especially enlarging upon the stay he had been to the Berkhamstead Lodge, and the attraction which, through his management, the lodge had so widely and successfully exercised on the London brethren. In conclusion, as expressing the sentiments of the entire lodge, by whom the portrait of Bro. Lane had been subscribed for, he fraternally greeted him on behalf of the lodge, and formally presented the portrait. After the cheers, loud and long, had subsided, which responded to Bro. Lambert's address, and bore testimony to the regard and affection in which Bro. Lane was esteemed, he returned his best thanks to the brethren in a very effective and most appropriate reply. It is impossible to report as fully of this meeting as it deserves. One toast, however, must not be passed over, for it embodies a sentiment dear not only to every Masonic heart, but also of interest to hearts yet to be Masonic. This toast was that of the "Brother Initiates," who had that day been admitted into the Craft as "Entered Apprentices." There were Mr. F. Q. Lane, and Mr. Jostling, whose health in their newly acquired character was suitably proposed by the Rev. F. B. Harvey, P.M., and P.P.G.C., Herts, and duly received and responded to. The health of Bro. Wilson, Hon. Sec., was proposed by Bro. Lambert in a humorous speech, accompanying it with a handsome present of a cruet and sauce stand from the brethren. And lastly, that same vivacious and generous brother presented the Tyler, Bro. Thomas, an old, and highly respected member, with a handsome plated biscuit basket, from the same brethren. Freemasonry is thus progressing in Berkhamstead.

WINDSOR.—Windsor Castle Lodge (No. 771).—The installation meeting of the lodge took place on the 10th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Windsor, when there was a large assemblage of brethren to do honour to the new W.M., Bro. W. Hill Bingham, (amongst them the Rev. Sir John Hays, D.P.G.M.) Two gentlemen having been initiated, the W.M., Bro. Grisbrook, proceeded to instal his successor into the chair of K.S. The ceremony was admirably rendered, and gave great satisfaction to all present. Bro. Devereux, I.P.M., delivered the address, and the proceedings were rendered more impressive by the choral service performed by Bro. Fuller, P.G.O., assisted by Bros. Briggs and Large, of the Chapel Royal Windsor. The W.M. having been duly installed, proceeded to appoint and invest his officers as follows:—Bro. H. Greville Palmer, S.W.; W. H. Cutler, J.W.; Whitehouse, Treas.; Solley, Secretary; Rev. Sir John Hays, D.P.G.M., Chap.; S. Scott, S.W.; T. Fleek, J.W.; W. Brown, I.G.; W. H. Cantrell, P.G.S., D.C. A member of the lodge having served the office of Steward at the R.M.B.I. Festival announced that his list of subscriptions amounted to nearly £60, and entreated the brethren who had not contributed to do so at once. All business being ended the brethren adjourned to a very excellent banquet at the White Hart Hotel. After the cloth was drawn a most agreeable evening was spent, enlivened by the admirable singing of the musical brethren already referred to.

WHITTINGTON LODGE (No. 862).—The ordinary monthly meeting of this prosperous lodge was held on Monday, the 16th inst., at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street, Bro. F. Smith, W.M., in the chair, supported by Bro. W. J. Jones, P.M.; A. H. Haley, S.W.; Seeling, J.W.; and Quilty, Treasurer. After the confirmation of the minutes, ballot was taken for the election of Bro. Kenneth R. H. Mackenzie, as a joining member, and the ballot having been declared clear in the South and West, he was unanimously elected. The W.M., assisted by Bro. R. Wentworth Little, P.M., then raised Bros. Sedgwick and Brothers to the sublime degree of Master Masons. A vote of £10 was made towards the Girls' School, and a subscription was set on foot among the brethren to have the lodge adequately represented on the next recurring festivals. Bro. A. Moore handed a special subscription to the W.M. The lodge had to deplore on this occasion the decease of Bro. W. Anderson, J.D., which had taken place very suddenly. Bro. Jones, P.M., moved, and the S.W. seconded, that a letter be addressed to his widow, condoling with her upon the bereavement she had sustained. It was further announced that the Whittington Chapter would meet for dispatch of business on Friday, the 27th inst., Bro. James Weaver, M.E.Z. The visitors were—Bros. John Boyd, 145, P.G.P.; and H. Higgins, 184. At the banquet which followed, the usual toasts were duly honoured, and some delightful music from Bros. Weaver and Moore terminated a pleasant evening, although it was saddened by the melancholy event above mentioned.

HARROGATE.—Harrogate and Claro Lodge (No. 1001).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Rooms, Parliament-street, on Friday evening, February 13th. The W.M., Bro. Robt. Ackrell was supported by Bros. John Burke, S.W.; Rander, J.W.; Pullan, P.M., Powell, Harrison, and a goodly number of members; visitor, Bro. John Bowes, P.M., P. Prov. G. Reg. Cumberland and Westmoreland. The lodge was opened in due form, when the minutes were read and declared to be correctly recorded. The business consisted in the reading and consideration of a number of communications. Notably amongst them was a reply from the D.P.G.M., Bro. Bentley Shaw, to a vote of condolence. The W.M. stated that he had attended, with his Wardens, the recent Provincial Grand Lodge at Leeds, which was presided over by the Most Noble the Marquess of Ripon, and thereupon made a report of the proceedings. There being no farther business, the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned for refreshment.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—Hartington Lodge (No. 1321).—This lodge held its usual meeting on Monday, 12th inst., at the Masonic Rooms, Custom House-buildings, Hindpool-road, Bro. Henry Cook, P.M. 1021, 138, P.P.G.R. for C. and W., presiding, in the absence of P.M. Sir James Ramsden, Prov. Grand Senior Warden, who was confined to his house on account of severe indisposition. After the usual business had been transacted, the S.W. proposed that the thanks and gratitude of the lodge are due to Bro. Cook, P.M., &c., for the very handsome present of a harmonium. The high eulogiums passed by the speaker and other brethren fully testified the position Bro. Cook holds in the Craft, whose graceful and impressive delivery, combined with correct working unremitting exertions, devoted zeal, and by his suave manner has gained the respect of the brethren in this and other lodges. Bro. Cook's reply was given in his truly characteristic style. The lodge is fortunate in having such talented and influential brethren as Bros. Sir James Ramsden and Henry Cook to preside over them, by whose munificence the lodge has been to a great extent re-furnished.

HAMPTON COURT.—Era Lodge (No. 1423).—The anniversary meeting of this prosperous lodge was held on Saturday, 14th inst., at the King's Arms Hotel, Hampton Court, punctually at three o'clock, p.m. The W.M., Bro. J. T. Moss, P.P.G.D., Middlesex, opened the lodge. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and unanimously confirmed, and the report of the audit committee was read, received, adopted, and ordered to be entered on the lodge minute books. It showed the funds to be in a good state. As there were only initiations down on the list of work to be done, in addition to the installation that ceremony was proceeded with. Although a large list of names was on the summons, but two presented themselves, who were duly initiated into Freemasonry. Bro. T. J. Sabine, P.M. 73, Treasurer, took the chair, and in an able manner installed Bro. Henry Arthur Dubois, P.G. Steward, Middlesex, and W.M. elect, as the Worshipful Master for the ensuing year. The officers appointed are—Bros. J. W. Baldwin, S.W.; J. Baxter Langley, J.W.; T. J. Sabine, P.M., Treasurer; F. Walters, P.G. Steward, Middlesex, P.M. Secretary; J.S. Sweasey, S.D.; W. C. Devereux, R.N. J.D.; E. W. Devereux, I.G.; Rev. P. M. Holden, Chaplain; E. W. Mackney, Organist; S. Wolf, M.C.; B. Wright, W.S. J. Gilbert, Prov. Grand Tyler, Middlesex, Tyler. At the conclusion of the installation ceremony, a cordial vote of thanks was given to Bro. T. J. Sabine, P.M., Treasurer, for his kindness in performing the ceremony of installation, and it was ordered to be entered on the lodge minute book, which met with the unanimous approval of all present. The event of the evening was presenting the out-going Master, Bro. J. T. Moss, P.P.G.D. Middlesex, P.M., with a massive silver cup (unanimously voted to him by the lodge). The cup was made by Bro. George Kenning, Little Britain, and did him great credit, for it was perfection in every way. When Bro. J. T. Moss, P.P.G.D. Middlesex, P.M., had the cup given him and rose to return thanks he was received most cordially, and had an ovation. So great and long was the applause it was a work of time before he could return thanks, which he did in an excellent manner. The cup was handed round the lodge room, and was much admired for the beauty of its design and its excellent workmanship. When the Prov. G. Master, Col. F. Burdett, and Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. J. C. Parkinson, arrived, soon after the lodge was opened, they were each received with the honours suitable to their rank, and the gaid and position of the W.M. was offered, but kindly refused by each of them. However before the close of the lodge at the earnest solicitation of the P.M. and others. Bro. J. C. Parkinson, D.P.G.M. Middlesex, in the kindest possible manner gave the address as Installing Master to the Warden in a beautiful, agreeable, and impressive manner. Several brethren were proposed as joining members. The indefatigable veteran Secretary Bro. Frederick Walters, I.G. Steward Middlesex would not let them separate until he had all the Stewardships of the Charties filled up, as he said he had a Steward for Boys, three Stewards for Girls, 1874, but the stewardship for Royal Benevolent 1875 was vacant. He did not have to appeal very long, as he soon got a volunteer. Bro. John Faulkner, who was elected to that office, and agreed to accept it. Not satisfied with this success, the Secretary assured the brethren he had a member amongst them who had not been raised, whom he thought he could induce to be a Steward for the

the one already secured. We have no doubt that that Secretary could have his own way he would make everybody a Steward and Life Governor to all the Charities. In consequence of the large arrears of work, it was arranged to hold an emergency meeting on Saturday, March 14th, at two o'clock, so as to suit the many professional members contained in the list of members. All business being ended the lodge was closed. A splendid banquet and magnificent dessert was served and provided for by the hostess, Mrs. Diver, which gave universal satisfaction. Some good songs, sang by members, amongst whom were Bros. F. E. Rawlinson, F. Coyne, J. Hillier, and others of equal note and celebrity.

PORTSMOUTH.—United Service Lodge (No. 1528).—The brethren of this lodge assembled at the Dolphin Hotel, High-street, Portsmouth, on Tuesday, the 10th inst., for the purpose of giving their esteemed Worshipful Master, Bro. Captain P. C. Trower, a complimentary banquet, in return for the great personal zeal and assiduity he exhibited in the formation of the lodge, he having not only devoted a very considerable portion of his time, but added very materially in a financial point, to its prosperity, by presenting it with a complete set of regalia, silver jewels, with collars, etc. Captain Trower is the first W.M. of this lodge, and as it was only in August last year that the installation ceremony took place, and as it now numbers 42 members (many of whom are officers in both services), the W.M. may be congratulated on the success he has already obtained. A most interesting ceremony took place in this lodge on the 16th ult., viz., the initiation of Lieut. F. E. Trower, 95th Regiment, by his father, the Worshipful Master, and if the son will only follow in the footsteps of his father, in a military as well as Masonic career, he will do credit to the profession, as well as being an ornament to the Craft. It may not here be out of place if a brief resumé of Bro. Captain Trower's services—military and Masonic—be given here, which will show his devotion to the Craft, and active service in his professional career; both are so intimately blended as to be most inseparable. Mr. Frederick Courtney Trower was gazetted to a cornetcy in 1837, and as present with his regiment throughout the whole of the Afghanistan Campaign, where it received a portion of the Army of the Indus under Lord Kane from October, 1838 to February, 1840. He officiated as adjutant, and was present at the capture of Ghuznee, and the capture of Cabool, for which he received a medal. He was initiated into Masonry 6th July, 1840, in the Hope Lodge, at Merut, in India. He was promoted to a Lieutenantancy in the 9th Light Cavalry in 1842, and was appointed interpreter of his regiment on its arrival in India. He was gazetted W. Master of his Mother Lodge in 1842, and was exalted in the "Sincerity" Chapter, at Bangalore in 1843, and was made Noahhite of the same lodge also in 1843. He was present with his regiment during the Gualior Campaign of 1844, including the battle of Punnair, for which he received the Bronze Star. In 1845-6 he was present with his regiment during the Sutley Campaign under Lords Hardinge and Gough, for which he received a medal for the battle of Sobraon, in February. In 1848-9 he served with his regiment throughout the whole of the Punjab Campaign, including the passage of the Cheenab, the battles of Chillianwallah and Ferozshah, for which he received a medal and two stars. He was installed First Principal of the Allah Chapter in 1852, became Super Excellent Master and Knight of the Red Cross and Grand Mark Mariner in the same year. He was again elected W. Master of Umballah Lodge in 1853. He was appointed to officiate as Deputy Judge Advocate General during the war among the native troops, and his appointment was afterwards made permanent by the orders of the Honourable East India Company as a special case. He left India in March, 1854, through illness, after a residence of 17 years. He was promoted to Captain in the 9th Light Cavalry in June, 1854. In 1855 he exchanged into the 50th Queen's Own Regiment to serve in Greece. In 1856 he was appointed by the Most Gracious Majesty to the Adjutancy of the Artillery Depot at Brighton. Was Adjutant of the Royal 1st Devon Yeomanry from 1856 to 1862. Sold out of the army in January, 1858, as Captain of 4th Regiment of Foot. He was appointed Provincial Grand Sword Bearer of Devon in 1858; became Past H. in the Chapter at Exmouth in 1861; became R.I. in Portsmouth; was elected W. Master of the Phoenix Lodge, Portsmouth in 1872; was Provincial Grand Sojourner of Hants in 1872; is a member of the Royal Order of Scotland, 30th degree; and, finally, is one of the founders and the first Worshipful Master of the United Service Lodge, Portsmouth, in 1873. Such a career as this needs no comment; it speaks for itself.

INSTRUCTION.

DUKE OF EDINBURGH LODGE OF INSTRUCTION (No. 259).—The fifteen sections were worked in connection with the above Lodge of Instruction on Friday, 13th inst., at Cape of Good Hope Tavern, Limehouse. Bro. Yetton in a very able manner presided on the occasion. Bros. J. Stevens, Barnes, Berry, Fielderwich, Musto, Rugg, Weatherill, Potts, Hogg, Reeves, and Clayton were present.

Royal Arch.

INSTALLATION OF COMP. LORD SKELMERSDALE AS M.E.Z.

The companions of the Bridsen Chapter, No. 613, held a meeting at the Masonic Hall, Nevill-street, Southport, on Wednesday, the 11th inst., the principal business being the installation of Comp. the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, the Most Excellent Provincial Grand Superintendent, West Lancashire, as M.E.Z. of the chapter for the forthcoming year. The chapter was opened in ample form at five o'clock, and after the transaction of some formal business, his lordship was presented for installation by Comp. W. Dodd, the retiring M.E.Z., and was placed in the chair with much unction and impressiveness by Comp. Wylie, of Chapter No. 82. The rites and ceremonies belonging to the installation having been duly performed, the chapter was closed, and the companions subsequently adjourned to the Scarsbrook Hotel, where they dined under the presidency of the noble M.E.Z. The dinner provided by Bro. Watson was exceedingly sumptuous, and served in a most satisfactory manner.

The M.E.Z. proposed "The Health of Her Majesty," the patroness of the Craft, which was loyally responded to; and afterwards, "The Health of the Prince of Wales," whom he knew to be a thoroughly good and hearty Mason. He intimated that it was not unlikely that another of the Royal Princes would shortly seek admission as a member of the Craft. He did not know whether the Duke of Edinburgh would do so or not, having taken to himself Russia's lovely daughter to wife; it might be an obstacle in the way for the present.

In the hearty response this toast met with, Bro. J. Turvey sang "God bless the Prince of Wales," adding verses, which he happily composed ad hoc for the marriage of the Duke of Edinburgh. The toast of the evening, "The newly-installed M.E.Z., Companion the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale," was proposed by Comp. W. Dodd, who referred to the very high esteem in which his Lordship was held by all members of the Craft who have the happiness of knowing him, and by the inhabitants of Southport generally. They knew the high regard he had for Southport, and were grateful for the time he had spent, and the efforts he had made, to further the interests of the town.

Lord Skelmersdale, in replying to the toast, said he thought he did not deserve the eulogy which had been passed upon him by Comp. Dodd, and so heartily responded to by his companions around him, but he declared his very strong attachment to Masonry, and all that appertained to it, and that it ever would be his delight to advance the interests of the Craft throughout the province, and particularly in Southport. Referring to the town of Southport, he said he always looked back with pleasure to the days of his boyhood, when he used to dabble and dig in the sand on the shore, and although he did not visit the town so frequently now as in former years, Lady Skelmersdale and his family did frequently visit it. He looked forward always with increasing pleasure to his yearly visit of a week, with his troop of yeomanry, and he never failed to go away without feeling like a renewed man. Referring to the benefits he was supposed to have rendered to Southport, he said that had necessarily been little, but it had given him great pleasure that he had been instrumental in causing the Prince and Princess Mary of Teck to visit it, and lay the foundation stone of Cambridge Hall. It had been hinted to him that day that it would be a good thing if he could induce another member of the royal family to visit us when that hall was opened, and he expressed the pleasure it would give him to use all the influence he had to get one of the Princes to do so. In conclusion, he said the public spirit he saw exhibited in Southport in beautifying the town, and adding to its attraction on all sides, showed they had got the right spirit, the spirit of self-help, and that they required no help from him or any one else, but that he should always be glad to promote in any way he could the interests of the town, for he had a hearty love for the place. (Loud and continued applause.)

The "Visiting Brethren" and other toasts were given and suitably responded to.

Mark Masonry.

MACDONALD LODGE (No. 104).—The ordinary February meeting of this lodge was held on Saturday last, at the Head Quarters of the 1st Surrey Volunteers, when the W.M., Bro. Arthur Wolton, Prov. G.S.O. Middlesex and Surrey, presided. There was also a good attendance of brethren, amongst whom were Bros. W. Worrell, S.W.; Thomas W. White, J.W.; Alfred Williams, S.O.; T. Meggy, P.M., Treas.; W. C. Hale, Secretary; N. J. F. Barnett, Steward; W. P. Collins, I.G.; G. Motion, J. Dennis, C. R. Crommelin, J. H. Pill, W. Bell, C. W. O'Neill, W. H. Waghorn, I. J. H. Wilkins, W.M. 22; W. Scott, Thistle, E. S. Norris, 40; and H. Massey, P.M. 22. The W.M. and his officers performed their duties to perfection, and in the opening and closing of the lodge, and in advancing Bro. C. A. Hermann, to the Mark Degree, proved themselves efficient Mark Master Masons. Several candidates besides Bro. Hermann, were on the paper for advancement, but from lodges to which they belonged meeting on the same evening, they were unable to be present. Notice was given of a motion to charge only a nominal membership fee to brethren who were compelled to be abroad for any lengthened period, and a further notice of motion was also given by Bro. Thomas Meggy to elect Bro. James Stevens, an honorary member of the lodge, Bro. Stevens, being W.M. of the Great City Lodge, which meets on the same evening as this lodge, and on this account unable to be present at the meetings, of the Macdonald had sent in his resignation, but this the lodge declined to accept, and Bro. Meggy gave notice of the above motion. The lodge afterwards was closed, and the brethren partook of an admirable banquet. The W.M. proposed "The Queen," and then "The G.M. and the rest of the Grand Officers," remarking that Earl Percy was an excellent G.M., &c. Mark Masonry was progressing most favourably under his headship. The other G. officers were also an ornament to the Order, and many of the members of this lodge had the honour of holding grand office. Bro. W. Worrell, S.W., returned thanks on behalf of the Grand Officers. They were told in Masonry that they got promotion through doing their duties properly, and the members of this lodge who held grand office could flatter themselves that they had done their duty and had received their reward. Bro. T. Meggy, P.M., Treasurer, proposed "The W.M.," an officer who always conducted the proceedings of the lodge with precision, accuracy, and fluency. Whatever he did he did thoroughly, and he set a good example to the numerous brethren whom he (Bro. Meggy) was glad to see present that night to assist. Unless he was ably assisted they all knew that the work could not be done efficiently, but it was done efficiently, and the candidate was thoroughly imbued with the beauty of the ceremony. The W.M. in reply said he had endeavoured to make himself well acquainted with the ritual which it was his duty to deliver, and he was very much pleased indeed that he had so far succeeded as to meet with the satisfaction of so admirable a Mark worker as Bro. Meggy. He was also pleased with the punctuality of his officers, who had not suffered their business engagements or anything else to interfere with their duties to the lodge. He must say that without their assistance he must have broken down. The W.M. then proposed "The newly advanced Brother," whom he was delighted to find that he knew when he made his appearance in the lodge. He was glad he had selected the Macdonald Lodge for taking this degree, because he had obtained an opportunity of seeing the ceremony properly worked. Although sorry that Bro. Hermann was going abroad, he hoped when he got to Japan, where he was going, that he would establish a Mark lodge there, and do what he could for the benefit of Mark Masonry in that quarter of the globe. He also wished him a prosperous voyage, and that when he came back he would find the Macdonald Lodge quartered in better apartments than those he was then in. He must beg him to remember that the Macdonald was never a banquetting lodge, but it was always very hearty, and in support of that character, they wished Bro. Hermann a prosperous voyage, and hoped before long to see him back amongst them. Bro. Hermann, acknowledging the toast, said he had spent many pleasant evenings in his time, but none pleasanter than that evening in the Macdonald Mark Lodge. He had to thank the brethren for two compliments, one for electing him as one of their members, and the other for drinking his health. He was much pleased with the ritual of Mark Masonry, and with the way in which it was conducted. There was no Mark lodge where he was going, but they were going to establish one, and for that purpose he held a warrant from the Grand Lodge of Scotland, and he hoped to start one eventually. The toasts of "The Visitors," and "The Officers" followed, and the brethren directly afterwards separated.

Scotland.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Glasgow (No. 441) met on Thursday, February the 10th, in their own Hall, 22 Struthers-st., the R.W.M., Bro. W. H. Jackson, presiding, assisted by Bro. Main, S.W.; Bro. Mason, J.W.; J. Rennie, Secretary. There was a full attendance of members. The R.W.M. said, as the brethren would have seen by the summons convening the meeting, the first business would be to enquire into the charges brought against Bro. Thomas Stratford, who he saw was present to answer for himself. The charge was, that he being a Master Mason and a member of this lodge, had in violation of his Masonic obligation to uphold and maintain the Constitution of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, joined himself to a spurious and unrecognised body, calling themselves the Glasgow Melrose St. John's Lodge, No. 1, and furthermore that he had accepted office in this spurious body, and was or called himself the Master of this so-called Lodge of Freemasons, who hold no charter or warrant from the Grand Lodge of Scotland, nor from any other recognised Grand Lodge. He then called Bro. Thomas Stratford up to the altar, and desired him to say on his M.M.O.B. if he was guilty of the charges alleged against him. Bro. Stratford said if to have joined the Melrose Lodge, and to have taken office as its Master, was to plead guilty, then he was guilty, but he denied the competence of this tribunal to find him guilty, and he should demand a proper trial. After some little discussion, the S.W. moved that Bro. Stratford having admitted his guilt, the lodge proceed at once to erase his name from the roll, and expel him from the lodge, and that the Secretary be instructed to write to the Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow, and also to the Grand Lodge of Scotland, informing them of the facts, in order that they too may take action in the matter. This was seconded by the S.D. The accused asked for the question to be adjourned for a month, but there being no amendment, the motion was carried unanimously; the R.W.M. then ordered him to withdraw. Mr. Stratford before doing so, said he had one request to make, and that was that they would not erase his name from the roll till they heard from the Grand Lodge of Scotland, as he intended to appeal, and they would yet be sorry for the motion they had passed. He then left the lodge. The lodge was then reduced to the apprentice degree, and after some further lodge business, three candidates, Messrs. John Fulton, James Creilman, and Robert Gault, were introduced and regularly initiated into Freemasonry. The ceremony was admirably wrought, and we have seldom heard the "charge" given in more expressive terms than by Bro. Jackson. There was other work to be done, but as the extraordinary business had taken up so much time, it was determined to have an emergency meeting on the 18th inst.

GLASGOW.—The Star Lodge.—This lodge met on Monday, Feb. 9th. In the unavoidable absence of Bro. L. Wilson, R.W.M., the chair was taken by Bro. Alston, S.M.; there was a very large attendance both of brethren and visitors, amongst the latter present were—Bro. Bain, P.M. 3½; E. Wright, R.W.M. 103; J. Phillips 275; J. Shaw, R.W.M. 354; and D. Reid, R.W.M. 465. The work consisted of three initiations and two passings. At the request of the Acting Master, the first ceremony was performed by Bro. Bain, and the second by Bro. Wright, R.W.M. 103. Bro. Wilson, who had now arrived, tendered the thanks of the lodge to both those brethren, not only for their kindness in attending, but also for the very able way in which they had conducted the ceremonies.

GLASGOW.—The Scotia Lodge (No. 219).—This lodge held their monthly meeting on the 10th, Bro. Matheson in the chair, when two candidates were present; arrangements were then made for carrying out the annual festival of the lodge, which will be held next week.

GLASGOW.—St. Andrew's Chapter (No. 69).—This lodge met on Tuesday, the 10th, Bros. J. D. Humphries, Z.; D. Campbell, H.; J. Herne, J.; D. B. Fleming, 1st S.; Comp. Oliver, S.E.; there were three candidates for exaltation, the ceremony being worked by Comp. F. Halket, Z. of 113; assisted by J. Balfour, Scribe E. and P.Z. of 73.

GLASGOW.—Glasgow Chapter (No. 50).—This chapter assembled on the 11th inst., Comp. John Miller, Z., presiding. A lodge of Mark Masters was opened—J. Miller, W.M.M.; J. Brownlie, S.W.; G. W. Wheeler, acting J.W.; Comp. J. Halket, 213, conducted the ceremony, Comp. F. O. Park acting as S.D. At the conclusion of the ceremonies the 1st Principal proposed that thanks be given to Comps. Halket, Parks, and Wheeler, for their services on this as well as on previous occasions. The three companions briefly returned thanks, expressing the pleasure it afforded them to be of service to any Chapter in the province.

GLASGOW.—St. Rollox Chapter (No. 144).—This young chapter met on Friday, the 13th, under the able presidency of its new Z., Comp. R. Bell. Propositions were received for four candidates for exaltation at the next monthly meeting.

GREENOCK.—Kilwinning Lodge (No. 12).—A special meeting of this old and very flourishing lodge took place on the 10th inst., when a large number of the brethren assembled to do honour to the occasion, the business of the evening being the presentation to the lodge of a beautiful and costly set of tracing boards by Bro. Captain Shanks, Knight of the Imperial Order of the Medjidie, P. Prov. Grand Warden of Devon, &c. When the lodge had been opened in the first degree, the W.M. called on Bro. Shanks, who then addressed the meeting as follows:—Worshipful Master, Wardens, and brethren, a little more than fifteen years ago I had the honour and privilege of being initiated into Freemasonry in the body of this lodge, and although I have been separated from it for some time in consequence of being in Her Majesty's Service, although I have met with a truly fraternal welcome in every lodge I have visited or belonged to; although elsewhere I have attained a high position in all the degrees; yet I have never for one moment forgotten that place where I first saw the light, and to this, my Mother Lodge, my thoughts have ever reverted with feelings of the greatest pride and affection, but in saying this I must be simply echoing the sentiments of all the brethren present, for every one who understands Freemasonry properly everyone who goes deeply into its sublime teachings, must see that the privileges conferred upon us at our own initiation are very great, and he must therefore have this thought ever present in his mind, "What can I do to the lodge which has done so much for me?" He must be constantly saying to himself—

"I never enough can honour her
"Who, past all bounds, has honoured me."

Some few, indeed, there may be who will say "we pay for what we get, and there is no need to do more than that;" but, brethren, I hold that if the sum demanded from candidates for admission to our mysteries was a hundred fold more than it is, that amount even would be no equivalent for the inestimable advantage of being Freemasons; and I therefore, think we all ought to do as much as possible for our lodge. With these views in my mind, and after long consideration, I came to the conclusion that a set of tracing boards was most urgently needed in this lodge for the instruction of the brethren, and now beg to offer these for your acceptance [The boards were here unveiled and their splendid appearance drew forth long and loud plaudits from the brethren]. Bro. Shanks continued—I trust these tracing boards may be considered worthy of this lodge, and that their presence here will induce some of the brethren to study the science of Freemasonry more than they have hitherto done, and to search more deeply into the beautiful mysteries of its esoteric teachings for we should ever remember that one may be thoroughly well versed in the ritual, may be well-informed in our secret means of communication, and yet be only on the very threshold of the science. All the beauty, all the knowledge being within, but still freely open to that Master who would search for them properly, aided by the light of the sacred volume; and it has ever been found that the more we know of Freemasonry the better we understand its wonderful power for good, the more do we appreciate and love it. In the hope then that these tracing boards may conduce (even in a small degree) to the welfare of this lodge, I now ask your acceptance of them. A hearty and cordial vote of thanks was given to Bro. Shanks for his handsome present; and he then, by request of the W.M., delivered the lecture on the first tracing board in a manner highly gratifying to his audience, and was listened to with that close and interested attention which the Masonic lectures always command when ably delivered. This is the first time a lecture of the kind has ever been given in this lodge; the task being by no means an easy one, very few are willing to undertake it. At the close of the lecture Bro. Shanks was greeted with prolonged and rapturous applause. On one of the tracing boards is fixed an elegant silver plate, bearing the following inscription:—"Presented to his Mother Lodge, Greenock Kilwinning, No. 12, by Bro. Captain Shanks, K.M., Royal Marines Light Infantry, Past Master of 139, E.R.; Past Provincial Grand Warden of Devon, 1874."

MASONIC BALLS IN WEST LANCASHIRE.

LIVERPOOL.

The annual ball of the Pembroke Lodge, No. 1299, which holds its meetings at West Derby near Liverpool, came off with the greatest eclat and to the delight of every one concerned, at the Assembly Rooms, Hardman-street, Liverpool on Thursday, the 12th inst. The attendance was large and fashionable, and included a good muster of the rulers of the Craft. The arrangements, which were of the most complete and satisfactory character, making the whole festivity gathering like a happy family party, were admirably carried out by the following officers at members of the lodge:—Bro. J. Clegg, W.M. President; Bro. G. Ash, Treasurer; Bro. J. Jones, Hon. Sec.; and Bro. W. S. Vines, P.M.; P. Macmuldrow, S.W.; W. Jones, J.W.; R. Bennett, Sec.; A. T. Smith, S.D.; M. Bush, J.D.; E. Foster, J. Capell, F. Moss, W. S. Bennett, J. Loonsdale, E. Kirkpatrick, W. Hiles, and S. Stonewehr. Dancing commenced shortly after nine o'clock, and was kept with great spirit until an early hour in the morning, the music being furnished by Mr. Martin's band, which, as usual, was of the best quality. The supper and refreshments, which were of the most récherché character, were supplied by Bro. W. S. Vines. Bro. J. Clegg, the W.M. of the lodge, deserves special praise for the way in which he contributed, by his efforts, to the pleasure of the party, receiving valuable help from his chief officers.

BARROW-IN FURNESS.

A Grand Masonic Ball in connection with the local lodges took place on Thursday evening, the 5th instant, at the Town Hall, Barrow, and was attended by an amount of genuine success, which must have been satisfactory to the brethren engaged in carrying out the details, as it will be beneficial to the Masonic charities, to whose funds the proceeds will be given. The ball was under the distinguished patronage of the following brethren:—Bro. Sir James Ramsden, P.S.G.W., W.M. 1021, (who was unfortunately prevented from attending by illness); Bro. the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master for W.L., Lord Skelmersdale; Bro. the Right Hon. Marquis of Hartington, Provincial Grand Master for Derbyshire; Bro. the Hon. F. A. Stanley, Deputy Provincial Grand Master for W.L.; Bro. John Prescott, Provincial Junior Grand Warden for W.L.; Bro. H. W. Schneider, Esq., P.M., and P.P.G.J.W.; Bro. his Worship the Mayor of Barrow, J. T. Smith, P.M. 1021; Bro. H. Cook, P.M. 1021, P.P.G.R. for C. and W.; Bro. G. Cornfield, W.M. 1225, S.N. 995; and officers and brethren of the neighbouring lodges.

The application of the committee for the loan of furniture and decorations for the room, was liberally acceded to, special mention being due to Bro. Sir James Ramsden, J. T. Smith (Mayor of Barrow), Councillor Fisher, Councillor Townson, W. Ewart, T. A. Morphet, Pickavance, R. Taylor, F. Worrall, &c. The brethren appeared in full dress Masonic clothing, and amongst the numerous guests were representatives of the Knights Templar, Royal Arch, Mark, Red Cross, and other orders, there being a goodly sprinkling of the purple. The Durham Royal Fusilier Guards played capital dance music. Bro. R. T. Taylor, of the Hartington Hotel, provided the refreshments, which were of a superior order. Dancing was kept up until five o'clock the following morning.

The hall was profusely decorated for the occasion, and arrangements for the pleasure and comfort of the company left nothing to be desired. One of the main features in the arrangement was the utilisation of the gallery, to which spectators have been admitted in past years, for orchestral purposes, and certainly the effect produced justified the alteration. The room was used as a refreshment room, in front of which a temporary screen draped in green baize, and surmounted with ferns and flowers, was erected. A number of choice seats were also arranged in a very tasteful manner at the head of the room, and these, with the Masonic emblems, which hung on the green baize, gave this end of the hall a very agreeable and attractive appearance. Round the sides of the hall were placed a number of settees, placed at the disposal of the committee by the Furness Railway Company, and these, with the furniture of the Masonic Club at the Hartington Hotel, afforded the most complete accommodation. The mirrors were hung in suitable places in the room, and the floor was covered with a sheet of holland. There was a choice display of bunting on the rafters of the hall, and it added greatly to its appearance. Much is due to Bro. Townson, who superintended the decorations for the taste displayed.

owing to the popularity of the W.M., Bro. Miles. This young lodge may be congratulated on having such a brother as W.M., and we feel assured that he will add considerably to the prestige of the lodge during his year of office, aided as he is by the Hon. Secretary, Bro. B. Butler, a P.M. of one of the oldest lodges in the Craft, viz., Albion No. 9. Indeed the exertions of these two brethren during the evening made the ball the great success it undoubtedly was.

MASONIC BALL AT SHEFFIELD.—The first subscription ball in connection with the three Masonic Lodges in Sheffield, the Britannia, Brunswick, and Wentworth—took place last week, in the Cutlers' Hall. The large banquetting-room was used as the ball-room, and the floor was laid with holland. The music was supplied by Bro. Harvey, and the refreshments by Mr. Henry Mountain. There was a large attendance, the total number of tickets sold being 333. A feature of the ball was a dance named "Knight Templars," in each set of which four gentlemen appeared wearing the costume of the Knight Templar degree.

THE ANCIENT LODGE AT MELROSE, SCOTLAND.

I have been pleased to notice the letters from Bro. Stratford, R.W.M. Melrose, St. John, No. 1, and shall be glad, if he will kindly obtain information as to what records are still preserved at Melrose of the ancient lodge, so long in existence in that old Masonic district, and communicate the same to me. (Address, Truro Cornwall.) I desire especially copies of any old Masonic Rolls or MSS., similar to those being published in the "Masonic Magazine," and should like to have the same printed for the information of the Craft universal, provided the consent of the lodge be obtained for my so doing. A lodge which has records, so I am told, for about 300 years, must possess many memorials of its past career of interest to Masonic students. Hitherto, I am sorry to say my efforts to procure authentic information have failed, though I am willing to pay all the expenses attending a careful examination of the records, and when able, will gladly pay a visit to Melrose myself to personally investigate the matter thoroughly.

I have nothing to do with its present position, in opposition to the Grand Lodge of Scotland, but I may be permitted perhaps to express a hope that the members will soon be induced to join that body, for although it cannot boast of equal antiquity with the lodge at Melrose, it has many lodges on its roll, which have had an existence long before the institution of a Grand Lodge anywhere in the world.

W. J. HUGHAN.

THE NEW CONSTITUTIONS.—IRELAND.

Thanks to Bro. Hughan, for his fraternal expression of sympathy with our efforts to reform the Craft in Ireland.

Rule 30, which he refers to, and quotes, has been passed with the insertion of the words "in Ireland" in the second clause. As explained in an article some time since this second clause was a new rule, evidently aimed at the "Manchester Rose Croix Masons here, but that intention has been defeated by the amendment carried. The first clause has been "on our book" since 1st February, 1844, having been, I believe, composed and proposed by the late Archdeacon Mant. The Masonic community here had been divided and wearied by the discreditable struggle that had been going on for years between the body claiming to be the Grand Chapter of Prince Masons in Ireland, and the Self-Constituted Authority of the Supreme Grand Council of Rites, a struggle which eventuated in the surrender, almost at discretion of the weaker body, apparently the more legitimate authority of the two. In looking at Masonic legislation here, allowance must be made for the difference in the general social and religious conditions in Ireland and England. The retention of rule 30 is a matter of expediency, and having in view certain complications likely to occur in our Christian Orders, its repeal may ere long be found necessary.

JOSEPH H. WOODWORTH, P.M. 245.

ON THE DUTY OF CONSIDERING THE WANTS AND DISASTERS OF THE POOR.

When we consider that the expense of a single evening's amusement, or a single convivial meeting would give support and comfort perhaps to twenty wretched families, pining in hunger; in sickness, and in sorrow, can we so far divest ourselves of all the tender feelings of our nature (not to mention any higher principle), can we be so intolerably selfish, so wedded to pleasure, so devoted to our own gratification, as to let the lowest of our brethren perish, while we are solacing ourselves with every earthly delight? No one that give himself leave to reflect for a moment, can think this to be right, can maintain it to be consistent with his duty either to God or man. And, even in respect to the very object we so eagerly pursue, and are so anxious to obtain, in point even of pleasure, I mean, and self gratification, I doubt much whether the giddiest votary of amusement can receive half the real satisfaction from the gayest scenes of dissipation he is immersed in, that he would experience (if he would but try), from relieving a fellow creature from destruction, and lighting up an afflicted and fallen countenance with joy.

Let us then abridge ourselves of a few indulgences, and give the price of what they would cost us to those who have none. By this laudable species of economy, we shall at once improve ourselves in a habit of self-denial and self-government; we shall demonstrate the sincerity of our love to our fellow creatures, by giving up something that is dear to us for their sake, by sacrificing our pleasures to their necessities, and above all, we shall approve ourselves as faithful servants in the sight of our Almighty Sovereign; we shall give some proof of our gratitude to our heavenly Benefactor and Friend, who has given us richly all things to enjoy; and who, in return for that bounty, expects and commands us to be rich in good works, to feed the hungry, to clothe the naked, to comfort the sick, to visit the fatherless and widows in their afflictions, and to keep ourselves from the world, unpolitely by its vices, and unsubdued by its predominant vanities and follies.—Dundee Recorder, 1831.

LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

The Lodge of Benevolence met on Wednesday evening, at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. John M. Clabon, President; Bro. J. Savage, S.W.; and Bro. C. A. Cottebrune, J.W. There was a very full attendance of brethren. Bro. John Hervey, G.S., and Bro. H. G. Buss, were also present. There were but 14 petitioners, 13 of whom were relieved with an aggregate sum of £250; one case was deferred. There were two gifts of £30 each, one of £40, and one of £50.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The second meeting of the Board of Stewards of this Institution for the Seventy-sixth Anniversary Festival, will be held at Freemasons' Hall, on Monday, the 2nd of March, at half past four o'clock. Business: To receive a report from the sub-committee on music; to consider the arrangements for the festival; to appoint ladies' stewards; general business.

ERRATUM.—In the letter of Bro. Bagshaw's in the first line the words "Roman Catholic" should precede "Army Chaplain."

The vital spring contaminated sows misery, destruction, and death. To ensure health, it is absolutely necessary that the fluids and solids of the human body should be kept free from those impurities which are continually getting into the system through erroneous living, unwholesome atmosphere, or disordered stomach. The only safe and certain way to expel impurities is to take Holloway's Pills, which have the power of cleansing the blood from all noxious matters, and at the same time removing any irregularity which their presence has produced in any organ. Holloway's pills expel all humours which taint and impoverish the blood, which they purify, invigorate, and give general tone. They are applicable alike to both young and old—robust or delicate.—ADVT.

THE PRESENT POSITION OF OUR MASONIC CHARITIES.

Bro. Walker's recent pamphlet has called the attention of the Craft to our great Masonic Charitable Institutions, their actual position, their many claims, and their increasing importance to our fraternity.

Indeed no one can rise from the perusal of Bro. Walker's Pamphlet without feeling how very wide is the scope, and extended the radius of our Masonic charity, and with no little admiration for the past sacrifices and present exertions of our numerous and benevolent brotherhood.

Bro. Binckas, the active Secretary of the Boy's School, has also a short time ago stated, at a meeting of the St. James' Union Lodge, London, No. 180, that there were about 40,000 or 45,000 enrolled Freemasons, but of that number only about 5,000 or 6,000 contributed to the Masonic charities, leaving about 35,000 who at present did not contribute to the charities at all, and whom he should never relax his efforts to gain as practical supporters of the institution for which it was both his pleasure and duty to plead.

There can be no doubt too, whatever, that, a larger support should be given by the lodges to the Masonic charities, a large proportion of the lodges not giving any grant to any of the charities whatever. This then seems at first sight rather a dark picture, but there is a brighter side to it, namely the very cheering fact, that, during the last year, we believe, in all £25,000 were contributed by the Craft to our great Metropolitan Masonic Charities.

But the principal point which Bro. Walker's pamphlet forces upon our notice, is, that there is a very large sum required annually to keep the charities in working order, and that, that sum has to be raised at any rate, supposing that they are maintained at their present standard of numbers and expenditure.

There seem, however, to be unmistakable signs of the increasing wants of our Order, and of increasing demands inevitably for more accommodation in our schools, and for more grants from our annuity funds. Let us take the Boys' School as an illustration.

It has now no funded property—no actual income—and is, therefore, entirely dependent on the annual subscriptions and donations of the Craft. It has now 153 boys elected into the institution, and these, with three perpetual and one life presentation, and eighteen admitted on purchase, give a total of 176 boys to be educated and maintained in 1874.

In the election in April next there are 28 unsuccessful candidates from the October election, and 24 fresh candidates, making in all 52 candidates, of whom only 14 can be elected.

The question then fairly comes before us all, how are our charities to be efficiently maintained, how are these increasing claims to be met and provided for?

It may be well to remember here, that though our Order is very numerous, and we have many rich members amongst us, yet we have also a large proportion of brethren who are not able to do a great deal, and that we must always be on our guard, lest we overstrain or overtax the willingness and the means of our fraternity, and above all, lest we so largely increase our charitable institutions, as to induce some to gain admission into Masonry for the possible material good they may obtain from it.

But with this one word of caution, we would ask once more, how can we make the support of our great charities more general and more regular in our Order? One or two suggestions occur to us.—In the first place, the charities do not advertise, and they are not advertised sufficiently in The Freemason. Were the attention of the brethren called to the claims of the charities occasionally in The Freemason, there can be no doubt, many more of the Order generally would be made aware alike of their claims and needs.

Even the meetings of the Anniversary Festivals of the charities are not advertised in The Freemason, and the brethren, except through the Stewards, and the non-Masonic papers have not the means of knowing the many details of these important gatherings. And what is still more remarkable, the results of the elections are not uniformly advertised in The Freemason, the place of all others to insert them, one would think.

But no, they are sent to the Times, which many of our provincial brethren hardly ever see, or some other fashionable London paper.

What The Freemason has done to fall into such disrepute with those excellent brethren who manage our charities we know not, but certainly, though The Freemason, is now the only Masonic paper in England, it has received the "cold shoulder" from them in a most remarkable degree, and the "sweet shady side" of Masonic support and patronage, has been extended towards it. Though some of these worthy Masons subscribe for themselves, the charities do not extend the slightest countenance, to a "friend and a brother Freemason," and we would suggest to the House Committees, and to our good and august Bro. Binckas, and the other Secretaries, that, if they will make a little more use of even so humble a medium as The Freemason, they will whatever may be the spiritualistic results, we feel persuaded, greatly advance the cause they have all so much at heart.

Most seriously we repeat, were the charities more regularly brought to the notice of the brethren, through The Freemason, and their wants made known, their proceedings published and the brethren generally taken into council and confidence, we feel convinced, from what we know of our Order, a far more general and systematic support of our charities would be offered and annually maintained, through the length and breadth of our English Craft.

No one can deny the necessity of our charities or their importance, which all must admit, their admirable arrangements, their undoubted value and above all, their real charity, to those whose time and circumstances have compelled, to claim their fostering hand, or enjoy their friendly aid.

THE RIGHTS OF VISITING BRETHREN.

The question involved in this discussion is undoubtedly a very large one indeed, and a very important one for the Craft at large, but, the matter can hardly be disposed of in the off-hand way propounded by Bro. Thomas Stratford in our impression before last.

We observe, that he signs himself R.W.M. of Lodge of Glasgow Melrose St. John's &c., but we find that he has been expelled from Lodge Glasgow, 441.

The question however, is not one of sentiment, but simply of constitutional law, and has necessarily to be treated and decided in a dispassionate spirit, and according to Masonic precedent alone. It is now quite clear, we think, that the view we recently submitted to our readers in the pages of The Freemason, as regards the stringent regulation of the English Book of Constitutions on the subject, is the only correct view. It may not be a popular view, and the practical working of the law may be somewhat difficult in days when lodges are many, and visitors are as abounding, but we can quite see that at times such a law will be a great help and safeguard to many a lodge.

Indeed, much may be said in support of the position laid down so clearly in our English Book of Constitutions. For instance in the new edition of the "Masonic Jurisprudence," by our late learned Bro. Dr. Oliver, which has been republished quite recently, with a preface by Bro. Walter Spencer, the subject is so lucidly handled, and the law on the subject is so clearly set forth, that we prefer to quote the words of our learned and lamented brother to any which we could ourselves employ.

At page 113, sec. 111, he thus deals with the laws relating to visiting brethren:—"The laws respecting visitors are rather stringent in their operation, and it is frequently found expedient to relax from their severity, for no visitor can be admitted into a lodge, unless he be personally known, recommended, or well vouched for, after the examination by one of the brethren present."

At page 115, Brother Dr. Oliver says, "No visitor can be admitted unless he be known, or vouched for by some member of the Lodge, or he be a perfect stranger, produce his Grand Lodge certificate, and submit to the usual examination, of which no specific form has been prescribed, as it is commonly left to the discretion of the proper officers."

Dr. Oliver therefore leans evidently to the view, that the vouching "by one of the present brethren," spoken of in the Book of Constitutions, covered by the voucher of the examining brother, be he who he may.

If we do not so understand the law, it would require a particular voucher in addition to a general examination, which in some cases, would prevent a visiting brother obtaining admittance at all.

In the famous and recent Middlesex Lodge case, the W.M. ought, it appears to us, to have referred to Bro. Biggs, "I cannot allow you to be admitted in the lodge, as you are not personally known to me or any of the brethren present, until you have submitted to a proper examination, and produced your Grand Lodge certificate." But the W.M., it seems, preferred to accept the "voucher" of a brother of the lodge, no doubt reading the law as requiring that, as well as an examination, or in fact dispensing with the examination.

Dr. Oliver, at page 117, mentions the "declaration of a late Grand Master" whose name he does not give, "that a Mason's Lodge is a Mason's Church, and that no qualified brethren could be legally refused admittance under any circumstances."

And the Doctor goes on to say, "there will be no difficulty in the admission of a visitor, provided he has a friend or acquaintance in the lodge who will vouch for him; but many brethren who are desirous of visiting are strangers and sojourners, without either friends or acquaintances amongst the members to become their vouchers; in which case they may still be admitted by "certificate," and "examination."

The Doctor goes on to suggest, in a case of necessity, a special declaration to be made by the visitor, much used in America, and sometimes used in Ireland, yet hardly ever practised in this country.

It appears, that at a quarterly communication in 1819, a report was made by the Board of General Purposes, to the effect, that a complaint had been preferred against a London lodge for having refused admission to some brethren, well known to them, on the plea, that, as the lodge was about to begin work, no visitors could be admitted till the ceremony was over.

The Board therefore decided that it is the undoubted right of every Mason "who is well known or properly vouched" to visit any lodge during the time it is open for general business, observing the proper forms to be attended to on such occasions, so that the Master be not interrupted in the performance of his duty."

This decision appears to settle the question, generally, and if it be the correct interpretation of the law, that the voucher of the summoning brother or brethren is the voucher alluded to by the Book of Constitutions, the difficulty is at once got over, and that law may be most surely upheld, as a wise and salutary provision for the true interests and orderly work of all English lodges.

WEEKLY SUMMARY.

Her Majesty continues at Osborne.

Their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, are, we believe, soon starting homewards, and the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh are expected at Gravesend, March 7th. A very hearty and loyal reception awaits them in this good old country of ours.

The Dean of Westminster's allusion to the marriage of Vladamir Monomachus with the daughter of our King Harold, has brought out another interesting correspondence which passed between Ivan the Terrible, and our "good Queen Bess," who declined the offer of his hand and heart, but sent him a silver ship, which appeared at the recent festivities at Moscow, in honour of the newly-married and august couple.

The elections are now complete, and the result is a House of Commons of 653 members, including a double return for Athlone, in which 351 members may be reckoned as Conservatives and 302, including the Home Rulers, as Liberals. The full number of the House is wanting by six members, as the six seats for the disfranchised boroughs—Beverley, Bridgewater, Sligo, and Cashel—have never yet been redistributed. Out of the 653 members returned, 187 obtained their seats unopposed, so that there were 266 contested elections—that is to say, not seats contested, but members who had to fight for their seats, against about 360 competitors who were unsuccessful. The aggregate number of votes polled throughout the United Kingdom was 2,485,183, of which the unsuccessful candidates received 891,836, and the House of Commons, therefore, as it stands at present, has been elected by 1,593,347 votes. This shows an increase of about a quarter of a million on the polling in 1868. An enumeration of the votes polled of course gives no idea of the number of electors who exercised the franchise. It would be impossible to get at this, or the numbers who actually voted on each side, without an elaborate analysis of the polls, and a comparison of "plumpers," "straight splits," "cross splits," and other complications for which the materials at present are not forthcoming. According to a Parliamentary return published in February, 1873, the number of registered electors in the United Kingdom was 2,645,564—2,157,295 in England and Wales; 262,768 in Scotland; and 225,511 in Ireland. The aggregate polls in England and Wales were 2,053,511; in Scotland, 212,330; and in Ireland, 219,342. So that, taking into account the uncontested seats—viz., 147 in England, 14 in Scotland, and 20 in Ireland—there must have been large numbers who abstained from voting in all the three kingdoms. The 346 members who had to stand a contest in England and Wales received 1,306,405 votes, of which 718,545 were given to 188 Conservative members, and 587,860 to 158 Liberal members. In Scotland there were 36 contests, and in which 24 Liberals polled 102,160 votes, as against 30,218 polled by 12 Conservatives; and in Ireland, where 83 seats were fought, 83,970 votes were given to 50 Liberal candidates, and 54,696 to 33 Conservatives.

The Castro trial is not concluded. The Lord Chief Justice continues his summing-up, de die in diem, and will probably close this week. We withhold all comments on this most extraordinary case until next week, when we shall have before us, let us hope, the verdict of the patient jury.

A very great disaster has fallen upon many persons, in the destruction of the well-known Pantechnicon by fire, a disaster, which to Sir R. Wallace, as regards his treasures of art, must be irreparable. As usual there was a difficulty in procuring water. Surely somebody must be in fault for such defective arrangements?

Beyond this there seems but little of novelty to notice or record, except this most unpalatable fact, that, the Roman Catholics of England contrary to their wont, are imitating the folly and recklessness, and perversity of some of their ecclesiastics in foreign countries.

The refusal of a military Roman Catholic Chaplain (R. W. Cuffe, is the gentleman's name) to bury a Roman Catholic soldier, because he was a Freemason, is not only a very irregular step in itself, but very unwise in the interests of Roman Catholicism in the army. English Roman Catholic Soldiers are not likely to regard with approval the disrespect shown to a good comrade on such childish grounds, and Mr. Cuffe's letter to the Times, is a piece of unmitigated "cheek," to say nothing stronger. That such an excuse is likely to be "satisfactory," as he says, to the military authorities, we doubt very much, and though we know The Papal "Allocutions," and "Pastoral Letters" on the subject, we cannot find that, they support Mr. Cuffe's wonderful declaration that a Roman Catholic Freemason ceases to be a Roman Catholic. It has always been asserted, that in his young days, the present excellent Pope Pius IX., was a member of "Giovene Italia," and a Freemason. If so, according to the doctrine of the Rev. Mr. Cuffe, he ceased to be a Roman Catholic. Some years ago, high Roman Catholic ecclesiastics were members of our Order. What was their condition? In short, Mr. Cuffe's position is equally unsound and untenable.

Up to Saturday evening the public subscription now being raised at the Mansion-house, under the immediate auspices of the Lord Mayor and a committee of gentlemen in the City, in anticipation and towards the relief of those suffering from the impending famine in the Presidency of Bengal, amounted, in round numbers, far towards £5,000, though the subscription only began a few days ago. That sum is exclusive of about £700, notified to the Lord Mayor on Saturday evening as the beginning of a subscription set on foot on the Stock Exchange, and which will be continued from day to day. The donations received by the Lord Mayor on Saturday included, among others, one from Helmuth Schwarze, £105; Mr. Robert Loder, £100; Messrs. Whitbread and Co., £100; Mr. W. H. Lowe, £50; Mr. R. J. Bagshawe, £50; Mr. D. H. Macfarlane, £50; Count Michael de Souza, £40; Sir William de Capel Brook, £24; and Delta, £25. A meeting of the Relief Fund Committee was held on the 17th inst., at three o'clock, at the Mansion-house, under the presidency of the Lord Mayor.

It seems very doubtful whether there will be an Easter Monday Review of the Volunteers this year, owing to the difficulty of transit by the railway companies. The following resolution was unanimously carried at the meeting of Volunteer Commanding Officers. The Marquis of Westminster moved,—“That the Secretary of State for War be requested to forward the earnest expression of the Commanding Officers' hope to Her Majesty that she will be graciously pleased to review the Metropolitan Volunteers in the course of the coming season.” This was seconded by Lord Truro and carried unanimously.

Abroad there is positively nothing to chronicle, except that the Emperor of Austria has gone to visit the Emperor of Russia, and though some papers attach political significance to the interview, we believe that it is one of simple personal friendship and regard.

In Spain, General Moriones seems to be embarking and disembarking, marching and countermarching continually, but, nothing as yet appears decisive one way or the other. It will be a very curious fact, if the Carlists fail again before Bilbao.

We have to record the deaths of Dr. Strauss, the leader of the modern German Rationalistic school, and of Monsieur Michelet, the French historian, of the Honble. Jenico Preston, of Sir Edwin F. Scudamore Stanhope, of Sir Francis Stapleton, of Sir Francis Pettit Smith, inventor of the Screw Propeller, of Mr. Samuel Stone, (Stone's Justice's Manual), of Mr. John Pye, the father of landscape engraving, of Mr. John Christian Schetzky, Marine Painter, of Admirals Thomas Bullock and Carter, of Lieut.-General French, and of an artillery veteran, Captain Michael Tweedit. We have also to mention the departure from amongst us of Robert Brett, well known in the medical profession, and as a good man and true, in his time and generation.

Original Correspondence.

FREEMASONRY AND THE ROMAN CHURCH.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In common with all thinking Masons of my acquaintance, I am delighted to see that you have taken up the cudgels on behalf of our Order against the scandalous imputations of the Tablet. Those who are acquainted with that journal, however, and with the principles which it is its especial province to support, will not be surprised to find it descend to misrepresentation when such a course is necessary for the purpose of soiling the fair fame of our Order, against which it can allege nothing worse than that it is based upon the three great foundation stones of brotherly love, relief and truth. In the eyes of the Masters of the Tablet these three great principles, recognised alike by modern thinkers and the members of our Order, form in themselves a combination which, did they dare, they would willingly stigmatise as the “abomination of desolation.” But in these days of modern light and progress such a step would be highly impolitic, and a resort is therefore had to “lying fables,” a course of proceeding to which the Tablet is no stranger. The reason of the enmity existing between the Ultramontane party and the Masonic body, is to be looked for, not on the surface, but throughout their entire system. The Ultramontanes hold the same tenets precisely as those who have under the guise of religion and holding commissions from the Vatican, tortured, slain, and persecuted their countless myriads of fellow men ever since the assumption of temporal power on the part of the Popes. They are and have ever been the active enemies of light and progress, and truth is to them as the name of the evil one. Masonry, on the other hand, opens its arms of charity to all, irrespective of creed, only insisting upon its cardinal points; its objects are the pursuit of light or knowledge and it aims at truth. Is it difficult to see that two systems so diametrically opposed can ever flourish together, or even co-exist harmoniously.

Nevertheless, true to its ancient landmarks, Masonry takes its onward irresistible course, regardless of and unaffected by alike the commendations of friends and the slanders of foes.

We, in England, have not experienced what our brethren in Germany are now undergoing—hot opposition from a powerful religious party, and it becomes a question whether in their case, the provocations of the Ultramontanes may not have arrived at such a pass as to call for something more than passive resistance. Practically, Freemasonry is constantly affording a passive resistance to all apostles of persecution and error, but if the brethren under her banner have discovered that special circumstances have arisen whereby their interests and principles are gravely threatened, surely it becomes them to stand firm in defence of their Order, and, if necessary, offer even a threatening front to those who would deprive them of their rights and privileges.

I fear I have trespassed almost too largely upon your space, but the question seems to me to be one of the highest importance, and viewing, as we do, the activity of the Ultramontanes in this country at the present time, it is impossible to foresee the period that may elapse before we shall be called upon to take part in the great struggle, in which even now our brethren in Germany and Italy are engaged.

Yours fraternally,
T. B. WHYTEHEAD, 1338, E.C.

Feb. 14th, 1874.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

It is to be sincerely hoped that the W.M. of the lodge to which our late brother, Colour Sergeant J. W. Johnstone, was a member, will take a prompt step to lay the above case before Grand Lodge, not only to vindicate the memory of our late brother, it will also be a soothing balm to his relatives to know that although denied by his Church the last rites of the departed, we, as Freemasons, and free men of England, will not allow the dogmas of the Pope to trample on our freedom as Englishmen. There are many Roman Catholic non-commissioned officers in the army, that are Freemasons, and if the above be allowed to pass unchecked, where will it end? And further steps should be taken by the brethren at Chatham to see that the case is reported H.R.H. the Commander-in-Chief, who is the soldiers' friend, who will see justice done. Mr. Cuffe, being an Army Chaplain, receives his pay from the State, and as such his duty is to teach and inculcate the principles of brotherly love, kindness, and charity to his fellow men. By his act he has shewn that he does not possess these attributes, he should be turned out of the army with disgrace, being utterly unfitted for the position of a Chaplain.

Yours fraternally,
JOHN LENN, P.M. 1331.

MASONIC RELICS.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In answer to the letter in your issue the 14th inst. from “An Enquiring Mason” I beg to say that I refer to the body meeting in Glasgow who call themselves Melrose St. John's

No. 1. They profess to work under the authority of the old lodge meeting in Melrose, which I believe never had any distinctive number, as they never acknowledged the authority of the Grand Lodge of Scotland.

Your other Correspondent, Thomas Stratford asks if I have manliness enough about me to give my name, when he, as well as the active brothers in all the Masonic Orders in Glasgow, know very well the person whose initials are G.W.W.; this was also shown by his calling at my place of business wishing to see me about the letter, before his last communication was sent to you.

He states that my assertions are utterly false, but omits to state a single point in which I depart from truth. In my former letter I made three assertions.

1st. That the lodge of which he signed himself the R.W.M. was an unrecognised body.

2nd. That the Provincial Grand Lodge had issued circulars cautioning the brethren against having anything to do with them.

3rd. That the Melrose St. John's Lodge had by advertisement invited visitors to come to their Lodge.

The assertions refer to printed documents, and are therefore easily susceptible of proof. In reference to the first, the Lodge Glasgow 441, of which he also signs himself a member in his letter, published in yours of the 7th inst., met on the 10th inst., specially summoned to consider his case. Bro. Stratford was present, and by the unanimous vote of the lodge he was expelled for having violated his Masonic obligation by joining a body calling itself the Melrose St. John's Lodge No. 1, and also for acting as its R.W.M. This I think fully justifies my observations, and though after that decision I cannot meet Mr. J. Stratford to discuss Masonic subjects either in your pages or elsewhere, still, in justice to myself I could not allow his letter, published before that decision was given, to go unanswered, or lay under the charge of having published statements that I knew to be utterly false.

Yours fraternally,
G. W. W.

QUALIFICATION OF CANDIDATES FOR FREEMASONRY.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

As a good deal of correspondence has arisen in regard to the irregular initiation of a candidate into the mysteries of Freemasonry, perhaps it will be well that you allow the letters that have appeared within a short time in the Falkirk district newspapers to appear in your columns. When anything else that arises it would be more regular to correspond through a recognised organ of the Craft.

I have seen in your paper of the 15th inst., a letter signed “B. J.” on the qualification of candidates for admission to the rights and privileges of Freemasonry, with especial reference to the right of the deaf and dumb to be admitted. It appears that some Masonic lodge, within the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of Stirlingshire, has admitted a deaf and dumb candidate. I am sorry to think this is the case—that any Lodge in Scotland has so forgotten and contravened the essential rules of the Masonic Order. It is well, however, that the conduct of the lodge which has done so has been brought under review of the Provincial Grand Lodge. I have no doubt as to the decision to which the Provincial Grand Lodge must come. The laws of Freemasonry are so clear and explicit on the point that only one decision is possible. The lodge which admitted a deaf and dumb candidate must be found to have done wrong. What censure ought to follow on any of the parties concerned—whether such as your correspondent “B. J.” suggests, or somewhat milder—I know not. Without having the whole circumstances before me, I would not venture to express an opinion on this point. But I have no hesitation in saying that the initiation of a deaf and dumb man as a Freemason is null and void, and that all concerned in it are censurable. As “B. J.” says, “If the laws of Freemasonry require that the Grand Lodge should be notified of the admission of such a candidate, it is the duty of the lodge to do so.”

deaf and dumb man can be nothing else than rubble. It is impossible that a deaf and dumb man can take a part in the working of a Lodge. He cannot hear what is said; he cannot take part in a debate; he cannot listen to the lectures; he cannot give any of the lectures. But these, although important, are not the main things to be considered. The laws of Freemasonry require—and it is so laid down even in the Landmarks, which are unchangeable and the foundation of the whole Masonic system—that he who is admitted as a Mason must be perfect in body—must have all his members perfect “as a man ought to have.” The reason for this law is to be found in what may be called the very essence of the whole system of Freemasonry—its aspiration to perfection. Freemasonry seeks to promote in the utmost possible degree the welfare of all mankind, and more especially to lead on the members of the Masonic Order to the highest attainable degree of moral and spiritual perfection. And, as symbolism is inwrought into the whole system, and much employed in its teachings, the necessity of moral perfection is symbolically taught by the requirement of physical perfection. To introduce a deaf and dumb man into the brotherhood is contrary to the requirement, and involves the whole system of Masonic symbolism in confusion.

“I have had occasion to treat this subject recently in two works which I have published—“Freemasonry and its Jurisprudence,” and “Freemasonry; its Symbolism, Religious Nature, and Law of Perfection.” In preparing these works I found this subject to meet me under different aspects. In the first-mentioned, mainly in its relation to the Landmarks and Ancient Constitutions; in the second, more with regard to the reasons upon which it is founded and its intimate connection with the symbolism of Freemasonry, the symbolic character of the whole Masonic system. To repeat what I have said in them would occupy far more of your space than I can presume to think you would allow me; but I beg leave to refer my Masonic brethren to the works themselves, in which I hope they will find the whole question thoroughly discussed.—I am, yours obediently, Past Master No. 392 and 393, England.”

“CHALMERS I. PATON,

SIR,—In your paper of Saturday fortnight a letter appeared, signed “B. J.,” in reference to the admission of deaf and dumb candidates into the mysteries of the Craft. The admission of bastards and maimed parties has long been a vexed question, both in this country and America; but the right of admission of a candidate void of any one of the five senses is so absurd and diametrically opposed to the ancient Landmarks of the Order that it, so far as I am aware, or can trace, has actually never been raised. None of the Masonic writers within my grasp even touch upon this point, as will be seen from the following quotations. Dr. Albert J. Mackay, of America, says “that the candidate must be un mutilated, free born, and of mature age;” while J. W. Simons, in his work on the Principles and Practice of Masonic Jurisprudence, says “that the candidate must be free of lawful age and hale and sound at the time making.” The constitution of the Grand Lodge of New York sets forth that the candidates “must at least be 21 years of age, of good repute, hale and sound, not deformed or dismembered, and no woman nor eunuch,” while Bro. Luke A. Wood, in his work on Masonic Law and Practice, gives as the ancient Landmarks of the Order, “that every candidate must be a man of full age, born of free parents, under no restraint of law, and hale and sound as a man ought to be.” By Section IV. of the charges, approved in the year 1772, it is provided that “all candidates for Masonry must have no maim or defect in their body that may render them incapable of performing the Art, and of serving his Master’s duty.” In Scotland, if the candidate is freeborn, reported, sound in body and mind, and able to support his daily bread, he is considered a regular party, and entitled to crave to be initiated into the mysteries of the Order; but for any other candidate a candidate who was both deaf and dumb, or even partially deaf and dumb, was both in body and mind, is so absurd, masonically, that it would be wasting your valuable space in saying one single word more on the subject. Freemasonry is no chimera of a man or body of men, for self gratification, but a society formed for the real happiness and advancement of the common weal, and requires its members to be composed of men of pure and intellectual minds, with all the faculties in full development which God has granted to the human race. It is an art, and has often been called the royal art—its elements and force being derived from the head, heart, and soul, the intellectual and moral powers of man. All who wish to unveil its mysteries must on the first place conform to all its ancient Landmarks, and, if admitted within its portals, must study it by engaging in the work which it enjoins, and mixing with those who regulate their lives and actions by its sacred laws, which are founded on the purest principles of piety and virtue. The aspirations of the members of the Craft are everything that is fair, good, and true, and are united by this tie alone, untrammelled by the dragging chains of superstition, and unmindful of the prejudices of caste or nationality. The binding link is an intellectual one joined with the unchangeable and everlasting principles of truth, honour and virtue—a union which, in fact, invests every species of obligation our common humanity is under with a more sacred character. So far as the opinions of a non-Mason is concerned in reference to the Craft, I quote the words of the late Lord Derby when delivering a speech in the House of Lords on the 7th of June, 1869. He said—“I am not a member of the body, but I believe a more loyal, peaceable, charitable, and benevolent body does not exist.” A higher eulogium no society could get, nor could it be given by a non-Mason whose opinion is more worthy of respect and admiration. Such testimony given by such a man as Lord Derby should surely advance the interests of the Craft, and ought even to bias the minds of these in its favour who do not belong to it. I trust there are many such as Lord Derby in the outer or profane world of whom we can say—Although not of us, they are not against us. If Masonry was a little more studied by its members, and its grand principles and doctrines more widely diffused to the profane, we should certainly have more candidates seeking admission to its hidden mysteries in order that they might become disciples of its glorious principles. RUSTICUS.”

The most of the brethren that I have conversed with agree along with myself in the foregoing opinions expressed in the letter.

A MEMBER OF A LINLITHGOW LODGE.

REFUSAL TO BURY A MASON IN ENGLAND.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I have read Bro. the Rev. A. A. Bagshawe’s communication, with feelings of surprise and indignation, and shall be glad to co-operate with him in any way he may think necessary or desirable to expose such cruel and undeserved conduct towards the relatives of the deceased non-commissioned Roman Catholic officer, and such disgraceful treatment of the remains of our brother, whose only crime in the eyes of the Roman Catholic Army Chaplain at Chatham, was the fact of his having been a Freemason.

The leading article in The Freemason on the subject is to the point, and is a correct reflection of the opinion of the Craft.

Ought not a subscription list to be started, and the funds used to prosecute the Army Chaplain in question, in order that it may be decided whether he had the right to refuse burial to our lamented brother, and yet be allowed to continue in the service of the Queen. All honour to the Protestant clergyman who fulfilled the last sad office of respect and departed merit.

W. J. HUGHAN.

The Confidence Lodge of Instruction, hitherto held at the “Railway Tavern,” London-st, E.C., will be removed to Bro. Charles Chard’s “White Hart Tavern,” Abchurch Lane, E.C. The first meeting in the new room will take place on Wednesday, the 11th March, at 7.30. Bro. G. Gottheil, P.M., is the Preceptor.

Reviews.

The Gentleman’s Magazine.” (Grant and Co.)—We notice in the January number, the production of a new novel of great interest, entitled “Olympia,” by the author of “Earl’s Dene,” “Zeldas Fortune” &c. “Christmas day on a Growler,” is most amusing. This magazine, which is under new management, will, we trust, meet with the success it so well deserves.

We have received a copy of the “Life Boat,” a journal of the National Life Boat Institution. This little work, which is issued quarterly, contains a very interesting account of the various services of the Life boats and their gallant crews.

The “Westminster Papers” for February, a monthly journal of chess, whist, games of skill and the drama, will be found of great service to those of our readers, who study the noble game of chess.

“England and Russia.” (Wiley and Co.)

This is a very pretty march, introducing the popular airs of “Hearts of Oak” and “Rule Britannia.”

The following notice of the late Bro. Melville’s Book appears in the British Press and Jersey Times :—

“Veritas,” which conveys not the least idea of the subject-matter, is the title of a book we have received. The selection, however, is explained by the description of the work, as set forth in the title-page. It is a “Revelation of mysteries, biblical, historical, and social,” which, we suppose, being emphatically called “Veritas” is thereby set up as a true revelation; nor it would seem simply as something true (vera quaedam) but Veritas, the Truth. The old ironical formula, what is truth? is no longer a mock. The truth is here before us; nor shaming any by her nakedness as she emerged from her well, but clad in showy cloth and gilt lettered so as to befit a drawing-room table; vouched moreover by one author with two editors, and issuing from Paternoster Row. That she is no mere claimant, but the genuine long-lost, there may be no doubt. Neither discovered nor expounded, poor expedients addressed to erring reason, she is Revealed, Mr. Melville being the Seer; and a Revelation is not a thing to be trifled with, much less disputed.

We are not going to dispute it, the less so since we are reminded on the title-page that Omnia vincit Veritas; and we have no mind to be overcome and perhaps for ever silenced. We shall confine ourselves to telling, so far as we are able without studious examination, what the book is about, and, as it were trotting out Truth for the inspection of her admirers, if she have any; though these, we fear, preoccupied as usual with an abstraction, will find fault with the living Damsel as altogether ungainly, stubborn, and disagreeable. The Truth, then, is that Mr. Melville, being a Freemason, and a man with an inquiring but mystical mind to boot, making a great discovery, the subject of his Revelation is big with the “Lost Mysteries of Masonry.” If, as becomes one in the presence of Mr. Melville, we confess the truth on our own part, the discovery, whatever may be its worth, rather disconcerts us. We have been accustomed, like many others beyond the sacred circle to comfort ourselves with the shrewd belief that, notwithstanding the mysteries to which the Craft pretends, there is really no mystery in the matter beyond perhaps a common-place code of good-natured philosophy and a few formulas of trifling import designed for purposes of mutual recognition. Singularly enough, the whole body of Masons are disconcerted too. They appear, indeed, on their own showing, to have exceeding little mystery in their possession; and, to Mr. Melville’s utter chagrin, they are indisposed to accept of any more. He has offered them the “lost mysteries,” the truth secured by him in an apparently discursive ramble through eastern literature, the consideration of “intellectual religions,” whatever these may be, ancient and modern, and an examination, at which it becomes one to turn serious, of the

BALSAMIC
CROSBY'S
BALSAMIC
COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colics, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."
This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsey, and all affections of the throat and Lungs and Air-Vessels, a copy of which can be had gratis of all Chemists.
* Invaluable should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had gratis of all Chemists.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE,

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered. CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma. CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague. CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms. CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

Extract from "INDIAN ECONOMIST."

"We direct the attention of medical men to a fact observed some years since by ourselves, and corroborated by our subsequent experience, that Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is in many cases of Low Fever immensely superior to Quinine in curative power. We cannot persuade ourselves that the true value of Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is yet properly appraised in India. . . . It may be given with absolute safety even to a child three days old. Were medical men but to make a fair and exhaustive trial of it we are persuaded that it would work a revolution in the treatment of two-thirds of the diseases to which children are subject. Its curative power is simply amazing."

"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he had received a despatch from her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera had been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, Dec. 1. 1864.

From W. VESALIUS PETTIGREW, M.D., Hon. F.R.C.S., England,

Formerly Lecturer on Anatomy and Physiology at St. George's School of Medicine.

"I have no hesitation in stating, after a fair trial of Chlorodyne, that I have never met with any medicine so efficacious as an Anti-Spasmotic and Sedative. I have tried it in Consumption, Asthma, Diarrhœa, and other diseases, and am most perfectly satisfied with the results."

From Dr. THOMAS SANDIFORD, Passage West, Cork.

"I will thank you to send me a further supply of Chlorodyne. It was the most efficacious remedy I ever used, affording relief in violent attacks of Spasms within a minute after being taken. One patient in particular, who has suffered for years with periodical attacks of Spasms of a most painful nature, and unable to obtain relief from other remedies, such as opium, &c., finds nothing so prompt and efficacious as Chlorodyne."

From JNO. E. GOULSTONE, M.D., late Principal Surgeon to the Steamship Great Eastern.

"I can confidently state Chlorodyne is an admirable Sedative and Anti-Spasmotic, having used it in Neuralgia, Hysteria, Asthma, and Consumption, with remarkably favourable results. It relieved a fit of Asthma in four minutes, where the patient had suffered eleven years in a most distressing manner, no previous remedy having had so immediate and beneficial an effect."

From Dr. B. J. BOULTON and Co., Horncastle.

"We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-Spasmotic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after effects."

J. C. BAKER, Esq., M.D., Bideford.

"It is, without doubt, the most valuable and certain Anodyne we have."

CAUTION.—BEWARE OF PIRACY AND IMITATIONS.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was undoubtedly the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, Freeman, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See "Times," 13th July, 1864.

Sold in Bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each Bottle.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opium, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 12s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.

PORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

ST. JAMES'S UNION LODGE (No. 180).—The lodge held its annual ball at the Freemasons' Tavern on Thursday week, when a brilliant assembly of between 200 and 300 ladies and gentlemen were present under the presidency of Bro. Gallico, W.M. Dancing commenced shortly after 9 o'clock, and was persevered in with great spirit till about midnight, when the company adjourned to an excellent supper, which gave great satisfaction. Bro. Gallico, W.M., occupied the chair; Bro. Bubb, P.M., the vice-chair. After supper the chairman proposed in truly loyal and eloquent terms "The Health of the Queen," which was received, as it always is in Masonry and elsewhere, with unqualified approval. The Chairman then proposed "The Health of the Queen," who by their charming presence evening had made the St. James's Union such a grand success, that the gentlemen were present could not fail to look back on the evening as one of the brightest pages of its existence. The Chairman concluded an eloquent and genial speech by calling on Bro. Parsons, S.W., to return thanks, who in a well-turned sentence, succeeded in raising the visible muscles of his audience to such a degree that he was enabled to resume his seat in a short storm of laughter. Bro. Bubb, P.M., rose, and said it gave him mingled feelings of pain and pleasure in having been elected Vice-master of the Ball; pain, because he felt that he occupied that position so often before he thought it was time that some one else should have been elected, and pleasure, in that he now have the right of proposing a toast which he felt sure, he as acceptable to them as pleasurable to him. The toast he had proposed was that of "The President of the Lodge," who by his efforts had made such a success, as indeed he did every-thing he undertook. He could tell them that he persevered in Masonry that, although an old man, he was able to fulfil the duties of W.M. with the greatest possible efficiency. After a few remarks, Bro. Bubb concluded by proposing (in Italian) long life, health, and happiness. The toast having been received with applause, Bro. Gallico returned thanks in a few words, and proposed "The Health of the Queen," coupled with the names of Bro. Parsons, P.M., and Bro. Bubb, P.M., who both responded. Dancing was then resumed, and continued with unflagging spirit till an early hour, when the most enjoyable parties of the evening came to an end. Great praise is due to the Honorary Secretary, and the rest of the committee, for the successful arrangements and the comfort of the visitors.

Perfect Friendship Lodge (No. 376).—At the request of the W.M., Bro. Arthur P.G.P., the brethren of the lodge, and other Masonic friends, met at the residence of Bro. Mills, M.D., on Saturday last, to respect to the memory of Bro. Franks, P.G.P., Registrar, to attend his funeral at the place at the Cemetery on that day. Present were noticed Bros. A. Gamman, W.M., Bro. Mills, Dr. Elliston, Emma Holmes,

W. Spalding, S. B. King, J. A. Pettit, R. Taylor, J. Pitcher. The brethren, who, of course, all appeared in black, and wearing hat-bands and white gloves, wore no Masonic insignia. The pall-bearers, six old Past Masters, wearing scarves, then proceeded in procession to the residence of the deceased, which is just opposite the quaint little church of St. Mary-at-Elms. Opening out right and left to allow the relations and other mourners to pass between their ranks, the Masons followed them into the church, where the first part of the simple but solemn and touching service for the burial of the dead was read by the vicar, the Rev. Godrich Langley, assisted by Bro. the Rev. R. N. Sanderson, P.P.G.C. Before leaving the church the brethren formed in procession, and preceding the hearse and mourning carriages, marched to the pretty cemetery just outside the town, where the remainder of the funeral service was read with singular impressiveness by Bro. Sanderson, and the body of our greatly esteemed brother consigned to the tomb. Each Mason, as he gave a last look at the grave, dropped a sprig of acacia upon the coffin, and passing by, gave the sign of sympathy. The sad procession then reformed, and wended its way homewards. A contemporary, The Suffolk Mercury, speaking of our late brother, who was Master of the Blue School (two of the directors of which joined the procession as a mark of respect to the deceased), thus alludes to him:—"He was the perfect type of the true old English gentleman, and his benevolence will make him very much missed by the poor of St. Mary Elms. His purse was always ready to relieve distress, and no man carried out the duties of life better, his high moral character being enriched by the lenient construction he was ever anxious to put upon the mistakes of others. In politics he was a staunch old Conservative, and the recent borough election was the first he had missed taking an active part in. As a Freemason he will be greatly missed, having been one of the best examples of a true Mason, both by his outward conduct and the deep research he had made into the details of the Craft itself. So great was his knowledge and acquaintance with all the details of the Order, that his presence and advice were frequently sought by many lodges in the neighbourhood. He was a member of the 'Perfect Friendship' Lodge, No. 376, of which he had been twice W.M. He was also a member of the Royal Sussex Chapter." We have often in these columns borne our testimony to Bro. Frank's extensive erudition in all matters pertaining to the Craft, and particularly to his admirable working in the Royal Arch degree, and which we have never seen surpassed. Bro. Franks was also a Knight Templar, Knight of Malta, and was a member of the Prudence Preceptory, in which he had held high office. It was only a few weeks since that he was presented with a handsome silver goblet by the members of the Royal Sussex Chapter of Perfect Friendship, on his retiring from that chapter in consequence of increasing age and infirmity. The cup, which no doubt will be cherished as an heirloom in the family, bears the following inscription on one side:—"Presented to James Franks P.Z., by the companions of the Royal Essex Chapter, as a slight tribute of respect for his highly valued services during the period of twenty years." Upon the other was a brief record of his Masonic career:—"Bro. James Franks, initiated March 20th, 1844, passed 17th April, 1844, raised 15th May, 1844, elected W.M. 19 Dec., 1849, installed 28, Dec., 1849, re-elected 20 Dec., 1865, exalted 29, Dec., 1849, installed M.E.Z. April, 1856. The following letter, which reflects credit to the head and heart of the noble writer, was read at the meeting at the house of Dr. Mills, prior to the funeral, and the kindly sympathy expressed therein was much appreciated by the brethren present:—

"Flixton Hall, Bungay, Feb. 20, 1874.
 "Worshipful Sir and Brother,
 "I beg to express my sincere regret with which I have learned the decease of our respected brother, Past-Master Franks, to whose memory I should have been most prompt to pay my tribute of respect had it been in my power. Within a short time the craft have had to regret the loss of truly valuable members, whose services have been eminent, and will not fail to be held in due honour.

"I remain, Dear Sir and Brother, faithfully and fraternally yours,

"WAVENBY,
 "Prov. G. M. Suffolk.

"W. Bro. Gamman, W.M., 376."
 Lord Waveney alluded to the recent death of Bros. Tracy P.Z., J. Townsend, and H. Richmond, but there are few will be so missed as Bro. Franks.

WAVERTREE.—Duke of Edinburgh Lodge (No. 1182).—The usual monthly meeting of this popular suburban lodge was held on Wednesday, the 18th inst., at the Coffee-house, Wavertree, where two candidates were initiated into the mysteries of the Order by Bro. J. Watkin Williams, W.M., in a most effective manner. In accordance with ancient custom, the bye-laws of the lodge were duly read, and after several propositions of candidates for Masonry had been made, the lodge was closed in solemn form, and the assembled brethren subsequently partook of an excellent supper, provided by Mrs. Wright, the hostess, at which the greatest harmony prevailed. Amongst those present at the lodge were, Bro. J. W. Williams, W.M.; P.M.'s Thornton, Pughe, Woods, Cookson; Bros. Edginton, S.W.; T. B. Myers, J.W.; Bro. Brown, Treas.; Bro. Bales, Sec.; Bro. R. Martin, S.D.; T. Davies, I.G.; Mucker, S.; W. Crawford, Tyler; H. J. Hughes, J. Haslam, N. Walker, J. Jacobs, A. D. Hesketh, J. E. Ellison, Newbold, H. Sawyer, J. Whitfield, R. Pennock, W. Thomson, G. Byford, Snelson, and others, with Bro. J. Bush, J.D. 220, and G. Farmer, 823, as visitors.

STOCKWELL LODGE (No. 1339).—The installation meeting of this young but prosperous lodge took place on Thursday, the 19th inst., at the Half Moon at Dulwich. At the opening of the lodge, the W.M.'s chair was occupied by Bro. P. M. Morrell. The W.M. himself, who is an officer in a volunteer regiment, being under the necessity of attending a prize meeting of his corps to receive his reward as a rifeman, was unable to be present at the working of his lodge. However a very efficient substitute was found in Bro. Worrell, who performed the ceremony of initiating Mr. H. Hart into the Order, and did the work like a good mason. At the conclusion of the ordinary business, the chair was assumed by Bro. Francis, P.M. and Secretary of the lodge, to whom Bro. Klenck, the W.M. elect, was presented by Bro. Worrell, and having taken the usual obligation, and given his assent to the principles laid down in the Book of Constitutions, a Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. Klenck was duly installed into the chair of W.M. He was then formally proclaimed by Bro. Worrell, who delivered the usual addresses to the brethren in a very impressive and able manner. Bro. Klenck then proceeded to appoint and invest his officers. Bro. Klenck, it may be remarked, has passed from the J.W. chair into that of the W.M., in consequence of the (no doubt unavoidable) frequent absence of the S.W. at the meetings of the lodge; and in again appointing him to the S.W. chair, the W.M. expressed his regret that Bro. Payne did not on this occasion occupy the distinguished position to which he (Bro. Klenck) had just been elevated, but expressed a hope that the time would yet come when Bro. Payne would have that honour equally with the other founders of the lodge. The other officers were Bros. Benham, J.W.; Hammerton, P.M. Treasurer; Francis, Secretary; Bassett, S.D.; Bowyer, J.D.; Coe, I.G.; Pillinger, D.C.; and Bro. Harris, Wine Steward. To each the W.M. gave a few pleasant words of encouragement to work diligently, or commendation for what they had done in the past, and when the business of the evening had thus been brought to a satisfactory conclusion, the lodge was closed in due form, and the members of the lodge and their guests sat down to a well spread board, and did ample justice to the excellent viands provided by mine host of the Half Moon. (On the cloth being removed, the customary loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and responded to with true Masonic cordiality. In proposing "The Health of the Initiates," the W.M. remarked, for the information of Bros. Rogerson, Faith, Hazard, and H.

Hart, that five was the greatest number they could initiate at one time, and the fact that they had four-fifths of that number present, he said, augured well for the future of the lodge. They could not do without initiates; the initiation of new members into the Order was the means by which they were making for the lodge a position in the Craft, and proving their usefulness to the great cause of Masonry. He believed the initiates present to be the right men in the right place. He said this because they were very careful as to whom they initiated into the Stockwell Lodge; and believed that they had made a wise choice in selecting these initiates as fit and proper persons to be made Masons. The Immediate P.M., Bro. Brighton, having now arrived, proposed "The Health of the W.M.," who, in replying, proposed "The Health of the Past Masters," and presented and invested Bro. Brighton with a P.M. jewel, which had been voted to him by the lodge. The "Health of the Visitors" was responded to by several brethren, the neatest speeches of the evening, perhaps, being those of Bros. Webb and Cooper Wyld, who likened the traditions of Masonry to the waves of the ocean rolling one after another from the far, far, past, and which would continue so to roll on into the dim, dim future. Some very good songs were sung by a few of the brethren present, and this delightful meeting was not brought to a close till a late hour. The visitors present were Bros. Whiting, 87; Chesterton, 72; Dodson, 72; Crump, 764; Laskey, 72; Cooper Wyld, 420; H. A. Hart, 975; J. Webb, Poore, 720; Sutcliffe, 1139; and Pringle, 766.

Leddell, in the chair, supported by the newly-installed H., W. Skelton, and J., R. Humphrey, and a large number of Past Principals. The following is a full list of the officers appointed, viz:—W. Liddell, Z.; W. Skelton, H.; R. Humphrey, J.; T. Younger, E.; S. P. Austin, N.; James H. Coates P.S.; Alderman John Lindsay, J.P., Treas.; J. Thompson, Junitor; J. Turzell, and R. J. GLASGOW.—Lodge Thistle and Rose (No. 73) met on Tuesday the 17th inst., Bro. G. Weston, R.W.M., in the chair, assisted by A. McLeod as S.W.; and G. W. Wheeler, as J.W. There were three candidates for initiation, after which Bro. Jackson, R.W.M., of Lodge Glasgow, 441, by kind permission of the lodge, raised Bro. George Rowe to the third degree. A proposed alteration in the bye-laws, relative to the Benevolent Fund, was deferred till after the Annual Festival, which was fixed to take place on the 26th inst.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Clyde (No. 408) met on Friday, 21st inst. In the unavoidable absence of the R.W.M., the chair was filled by Bro. J. B. McNair, the R.W.M. of No. 332. On the dais were Bros. D. Reid, R.W.M. of 465; and G. H. Wheeler, of 73; the S.W., J. McInnes, and J.W.W. Bro. Manns, were in their places, and Bro. Stewart acted as S.D. The work consisted of one passing. Bro. Newbury, of 332, and Bro. Morley Bascot, of 665, were by the kind consent of this lodge, raised to the sublime degree. Both ceremonies were very efficiently rendered by Bro. McNair.

GLASGOW.—St. Mungo Encampment held their monthly meeting on Monday, the 16th. The E.C., R. Bell, presiding, G. W. Wheeler, Acting Prelate; M. Clanachare, G.C.; G. M. Allister, S.C.; T. Chadwick, J.C.; when Comps. R. Main, J. Stuart, William Bell, R. Grange, H. H. Henry, and C. Cochrane, were duly received and created Knights of the Temple. A letter was read from the E.C. of the Royal Veterans' Encampment, Plymouth, thanking officers and members of St. Mungo for the great kindness shown and the fraternal greeting given to their P.E.C., Captain Shanks, since his sojourn in Scotland and expressing a hope that they might have the pleasure at some future time to return the kindness to the Knights of St. Mungo. Sir Knight Wheeler, in moving that the letter be entered on the minutes, said that their kindness had already met with its reward, for in Captain Shanks they had found a kind friend and good fellow worker, and as he was about to try to open an encampment at Greenock, he hoped the Sir Knights of St. Mungo would be willing to go over there for a few times to assist their kind Frater in opening his encampment and getting it into working order. Some of the Sir Knights present gave in their names for this purpose. The following three Sir Knights were then elected to attend the Supreme Chapter General Meeting, on March 11th, R. Bell, M.N.G.; G. W. Wheeler, Recorder; and J. E. Speirs, C.G. Captain Shanks thanked the Sir Knights for their offers of assistance, stating there were a number of Royal Arch Masons in Greenock who wished to join the Temple Order, but it was too far to come to Glasgow, so that in asking them to assist him there he did not wish to act as a rival to his friends and co-workers in Glasgow, but only to extend the blessing of this most Christian Order of Masonry.

FREEMASONRY IN WEST LANCASHIRE CONSECRATION OF A NEW LODGE AT BOOTLE.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.]

The almost unprecedented increase of the Masonic body in the province over which Bro. Lord Skelmersdale rules with popular sway, has been abundantly shown by the remarkable addition to the roll of new lodges in the district of Liverpool within the last few years, and there is no doubt that when the new Masonic Hall in Hope-street, now rapidly approaching completion has been consecrated, the increase will be still greater. In all this there is an evidence of healthy vitality, and happily no apparent diminution in the desire to make Freemasonry, in the additions both of lodges and members, a worthy and estimable fraternity, notwithstanding all that bigoted and ignorant ecclesiastics may say to the contrary.

The need for a new lodge in the young and rising borough of Bootle, so intimately associated with Liverpool in many of its interests, has for a long time been felt by brethren resident within the borough, and in its immediate neighbourhood and therefore steps were taken some time ago by a number of esteemed and worthy brethren for the establishment of a lodge in their midst. Their efforts were happily crowned with success and the long-felt want was supplied on Thursday the 19th inst., by the consecration of the Bootle Lodge, No. 1473, with all the solemn and impressive ceremonial peculiar to the interesting occasion. That the ceremony was looked upon with more than ordinary interest was clearly evinced by the attendance of not only the largest gathering of brethren, perhaps 150, representing nearly every lodge in the district, which has ever been seen in connection with any consecration but by the presence of an unusual number of P.G. Officers, W.M.'s, P.M.'s, and officers. Most admirable and complete accommodation has been found for the new lodge in the Assembly Rooms, Merton-road, owned by our esteemed Bro. H. M. Molyneux, P.M. 823, and M.P. of the Liverpool Conclave of the Knights of Honour and of the Red Cross of Constantine; and the elegant appearance of the lodge room on Thursday induced many to remark that it was superior to anything in the province. The tout ensemble was heightened to a very great degree by the elegance, completeness, and thoroughly artistic character of the furnishings for the lodge, all of which were supplied by Bro. George Kenning, whose Masonic depots are in London, Liverpool, and Glasgow. Before the opening of the lodge, the chairs, tripod, floorcloth, working tools, &c. were closely examined by many brethren, and the general opinion was that nothing more complete or artistic could have been produced. It should be mentioned, imprimis, that the following donations were made by several members of the new lodge: A tripod from Bro. Donkin, ashlar from Bro. T. D. Pierce, a ballot-box from Bro. Barker, columns for the Senior and Junior Wadens from Bro. Wyatt, working tools from Bro. M'Arthur, swords from Bro. J. Johnson, floorcloth from Bro. Clemmey, emblems from Bro. Dr. Wills, a bust of the late Earl of Zetland from Bro. Hough, a Bible and cushion by Bro. Ibbs, the "charity plate, used in the first degree by Bro. J. W. Turley.

Amongst the brethren present were Bros. Prescott, P.J.G.W.; the Rev. J. F. Goggin, P.G. Chaplain; T. Armstrong, P.G. Treasurer; R. Wylie, P.P.S.G.D.; P. Maddox, P.P.G.S.W.; W. Doyle, P.G.J.D.; J. Skeaf, P.G.C. G. Broadbridge, P.P.G.C.; G. De la Perre, P.G.D.C.; C. H. Hill, P.G. Reg.; J. Hamer, P.P.G. Treas.; J. W. J. Fowler, P.P.A.D.; P. Ball, P.G. Tyler; J. W. Williams, W. 1182; W. Pughe, P.M. 1182; W. Septhorn, W.M. 1068; J. Pemberton, P.M. 1264; J. Gamble, 1264; T. Evans, W.M. 1356; J. Sharpe, 823; R. Ing, P.M. 594; W. D. Rowse, W. 594; A. Winkup, P.M. 667; B. B. Marsden, P.M. 1356; E. Rothwell, S.W. 1356; Thomason, 1182; G. Morgan, P.M. 1305; W. Holt, P.M. 1276; H. Pearson, P.M. 211; J. Vaughan, S.D. 86; H. Vaughan, I.G. 11; P. W. Oglesby, 823; M. Scott, 102 (S.C.); H. Ashmore, J. 1325; J. F. Newell, P.M. 1035; W. Overton, 524; J. E. Jackson, J.W. 667; A. Morris, Sec. 594; J. Wells, W.M. 380; Joseph Jones, Sec. 1356; J. Ireland, Treas. 1356; R. Roberts, Sec. 1356; P. G. Purves, H. Glover, 203; the Rev. J. W. L. Burke, 899; T. Chesworth, P.M. 724; W. Shortis, P.M. 724; W. G. Veale, C. 1359; W. L. Jones, 594; J. Feb. 28, 1874.]

1326, P.P.G.B., W.M. designate; D. Pierce, P.M. 823; W. S. Barker, H. Longb., G. Turner, J. W. Cave-Brown-Cave, G. arry, J. P. M'Arthur, James J. Johnstone, Harold, Wyatt, Dr. T. M. Wills, J. Turle, P.M. 035; W. Blake, W. H. Clemmey, Richard Roberts, J. J. Birch, J. J. Mills, A. Bucknall, Pattis, J. A. Ross, J. A. Simpson, I. Farry, Humphreys, T. Grant, E. Donkin, J. E. Davies, J. Lecomber, J. C. Caley, J. Sergeant, W. 580; J. C. Paterson, W. Hughes, S.W. 92; E. M. Jones, and E. Griffiths.

The brethren of the new lodge, numbering about 40, having been ranged on the right hand of the throne, and the visiting brethren placed on the other side of the room, the chair was taken by Bro. H. S. Alpass, P.G. Sec., the presiding officer being supported by Bro. J. Prescott, J.G.W., acting as S.W.; Bros. J. W. J. Fowler, P. Prov. A.D.C., 86 (Prescot) as J.W.; the Rev. J. F. Goggin, P.G.C., as P.M.; W. Doyle, J.G.J.D., as S.D.; C. H. Hill, P.G. Reg., as J.D.; and J. W. Turley, as I.G. The lodge was solemnly opened in the three degrees, and the usual preliminaries having been observed, Bro. J. Wylie, acting as P.G. Sec. read the petition for power to establish the new lodge and the warrant of Grant Lodge to do so.

After the brethren had signified their approval of the officers named in the petition and warrant, Bro. the Rev. J. F. Goggin, P.G.C., delivered an eloquent and impressive oration on the principles of the Order and the lessons to be drawn from that day's ceremonial. It was an admirable enunciation of the great truths by which the members of the Masonic fraternity are guided in the discharge of their daily avocations, as well as within the hallowed precincts of a lodge.

The consecration prayers were also offered by Bro. J. F. Goggin, whose presence gave additional weight to the interesting proceedings.

The corn, wine, and oil used during the consecration were borne by Bros. P. Maddox, P.P.G.S. of W.; T. Armstrong, P.G. Treas.; and G. De la Perelle, P.G.D.C.; and Bro. J. Hamer, P.P.G. Treas., acted as Director of the Ceremonies. Bro. J. Skeaf, P.G.O., presided at the harmonium, the other musical brethren being Bros. J. Busfield, 216; H. Ashmore, J.W. 1325; T. Welch, 241; C. Haswell, 203; and J. Jones, 115. Bro. Skeaf's fine anthem "Behold, how good," and his other consecration music, were very effectively sung during the ceremony, the "Hallelujah Chorus" being given to the close.

The chair was then taken by Bro. Hamer, who succeeded with the installation of Bro. Samuel Ellis Ibbes, as the first W.M. of the new lodge. A Board of Installed Masters had been held, which 40 W.M.'s and P.M.'s were present, the largest assembly ever held in the province, and the brethren, on their re-admission, saluted the newly-chaired W.M. in the three degrees, the following brethren were invited officers of the Bootle Lodge for the ensuing year:—Bros. Harold Wyatt, S.W.; J. Turley, J.W.; J. P. M'Arthur, Honorary Treasurer; Thomas D. Pierce, Secretary; Richard Roberts, S.D.; Dr. T. M. Wills, J.D.; W. S. Barker, I.G.; W. H. Clemmey, S.S.; and W. Hughes, J.S. Bro. W. Blake was unanimously elected Tyler of the lodge, and invested by the propositions for initiation and one for which were subsequently made, and votes of which were ordered to be recorded on the minutes to the Consecrating Officer, the Installing Master, the P.G. Chaplain, and other officers of the lodge, Bro. Skeaf, P.G.O., and the other brethren. After these compliments had been duly acknowledged, the lodge was closed in the usual form.

A sumptuous banquet was served in the large hall, after five o'clock. Covers were laid for about 100 brethren. Bro. Samuel E. B. Milbourn, P.M., presided, supported on the right by Bro. H. S. Alpass, P.G. Secretary; and on the left by Bro. the Rev. J. F. Goggin, P.G. Chaplain; Bro. the Rev. H. G. Vernon, P.P.G.C.; Harold Wyatt, S.W., and Bro. J. W. J. G.W., were in their respective places. A sumptuous repast was served by Bro. Milbourn, in Anne-street, Liverpool, and after the reading of the cloth the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to with Masonic honours.

The W.M. proposed "The P.G.M., D.P.G.M., and P.G. Officers of West Lancashire," which was acknowledged by Bro. H. S. Alpass, P.G. Sec., who said that, great as Bootle had been in the past, he believed its necessities had never been completely supplied until that day, when Lodge No. 1473 had been consecrated. No locality could be complete without its Masonic lodge, and therefore it gave him all the greater pleasure to be present on that occasion, to consecrate the Bootle Lodge, which he was sure, judging from the quality as well as the quantity of its membership, even at the beginning, had a brilliant and prosperous future before it. Lord Skelmersdale would have been present that day to consecrate, if the momentous events of the last few weeks had not monopolised his time; and he (Bro. Alpass) might state that when the warrant was applied for, his lordship said he thought it was one which should be granted. In conclusion, Bro. Alpass said he strongly repudiated the foul calumnies which had been made against the Order, and counselled every one connected with the Bootle Lodge to see that they admitted none but honourable men. Bro. Alpass then proposed "The West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution," and in doing so spoke of the immense advantages which had been conferred upon the children who had been sharers in its benefits. The Institution stood in the place of the deceased parent to the child, and enabled him to take his place in society as if that parent had been alive. Bro. G. Broadbridge, P.P.G.D.C., proposed "The Health of the W.M., Bro. S. G. Ibbes," and in doing so said their esteemed brother was well known to every brother in the province. He was the first Master of the De Grey and Ripon Lodge, and they all knew that in that capacity, as well as a P.G. Lodge Officer, he not merely pretended to do his duty, but he really did it heartily and well. He (Bro. Broadbridge) was quite sure there was a prosperous future before the new lodge, and he was equally certain that while Bro. Ibbes ruled over its affairs he was certain its dignity would be fully maintained. The toast was received with the greatest enthusiasm. Bro. Ibbes, the W.M. of No. 1473, in acknowledging the compliment, thanked the brethren for the honour which they had conferred upon him, an honour of which he did not feel worthy. He would endeavour to do his duty during his connection with the lodge, and thus repay in some measure the honour of the trust which had been reposed in him. Bro. P. M. Turner gave "The Consecrating Officer and Installing Master," which was responded to by Bro. Alpass. The W.M. proposed "The Musical Brethren," acknowledged by Bro. Skeaf, and the remaining toasts were "The Officers," also given by the W.M., which was responded to by Bro. H. Wyatt, S.W.; J. W. Turley, J.W.; T. D. Pierce, Sec.; and J. P. M'Arthur, Treasurer. The toast of "The Visitors," given by the W.M., was acknowledged by Bro. Captain G. Turner; and "The Ladies," "The Masonic Press," responded to by Bro. J. B. MacKenzie, and Tyler's toast, brought the list to a close. During the evening excellent songs were given by Bros. Busfield, H. Ashmore, Dr. Wills, Glover, Patterson, Veale, Robert Roberts, and others.

The want of a lodge in Bootle, which has long been felt by a number of brethren residing in the borough and neighbourhood, has been supplied by the consecration of the Bootle Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, No. 1473, at the Molyneux Assembly Rooms, Marton-rd., with all the solemn and impressive ritual peculiar to the interesting ceremony. The occasion was one of the greatest importance to the mystic Order, and this was evinced by the attendance of an unusually large and influential gathering of brethren connected with the Provincial Grand Lodge and representatives from the majority of the lodges in this part of the province of West Lancashire. It would be difficult to find a more convenient and handsome lodge room in the province than that which the new lodge has found in the Assembly Rooms; and as all the brethren whose names appear in the petition for consecration are known to be earnest and honest members of the craft, there seems every probability that the new lodge will occupy a position second to none in the division. By appointment of Bro. the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, R.W.P.G.M., the ceremony of consecration was to have been performed by Bro. Sir James Ramsden, W.P.S.G.W.; but, in consequence of absence from illness, his place had to be taken by Bro. H. S. Alpass, P.G. Sec., who efficiently fulfilled the duties of presiding officer.

After the brethren had assembled in the lodge room, the chair was taken by Bro. Alpass, as presiding officer, Bro. J. W. J. Fowler, P.P.A.D.C., as J.W.; Bro. the Rev. J. F. Goggin, P.G.C., as P.M.; Bro. W. Doyle, P.G.J.D., acting as S.D.; Bro. C. H. Hill, P.G. Reg., as J.D.; Bro. J.W. Turley, as I.G. The lodge was duly and solemnly opened, after which Bro. Alpass proceeded to consecrate the new lodge in conformity with ancient and established usage. During the ceremony a most appropriate, thoughtful, and instructive oration was delivered by Bro. J. F. Goggin, P.G.C., which was listened to with the greatest attention by the assembled brethren. The consecration prayers were also given by Bro. Goggin. The corn, wine, and oil used during the consecration were borne by Bros. P. Maddox, P.P.G.S. of W.; T. Armstrong, P.G. Treas.; and G. De la Perelle, P.G.D.C.; and Bro. J. Hamer, P.P.G. Treas., acted as Director of the Ceremonies. Bro. J. Skeaf, P.G.O., presided at the harmonium, the other musical brethren being Bros. J. Busfield, 216; H. Ashmore, J.W. 1325; T. Welch, 241; C. Haswell, 203; and D. Jones, 115. Bro. Skeaf's fine anthem "Behold, how good," and his other consecration music, were very effectively sung during the ceremony, the "Hallelujah Chorus" being given at the close.

The chair was then taken by Bro. Hamer, who proceeded with the installation of Bro. Samuel Ellis Ibbes, as the first W.M. of the new lodge. After a board of Installed Masters had been held, at which 40 W.M.'s and P.M.'s were present, being the largest assembly ever held in the province, and the brethren on their re-admission, had saluted the newly-chaired W.M. in the several degrees, the following brethren were invested officers of the Bootle Lodge for the ensuing year:—Bros. Harold Wyatt, S.W.; J. W. Turley, J.W.; J. P. M'Arthur, Honorary Treasurer; Thomas D. Pierce, Secretary; Richard Roberts, S.D.; Dr. T. M. Wills, J.D.; W. S. Barker, I.G.; W. H. Clemmey, S.S.; and W. Hughes, J.S. Bro. W. Blake was unanimously elected Tyler of the lodge, and invested by the W.M. Seven propositions for initiation and one for joining were subsequently made, and votes of thanks were ordered to be recorded on the minutes to the Consecrating Officer, the Installing Master, the P.G. Chaplain, and other officers of the P.G. Lodge, Bro. Skeaf, P.G.O., and the musical brethren. After these compliments had been duly acknowledged, the lodge was closed in proper form.

It is worthy of notice that the general furnishing of the lodge, entrusted to Bro. G. Kenning, of 2, Monument-place, Liverpool, was superior to anything yet seen in this part of the province, eliciting universal admiration. The following presentations were made by the several members of the new lodge:—Bro. Donkin, the tripod; Bro. T. D. Pierce, ashlar; W. S. Barker, the ballot-box; Harold Wyatt, columns for S.W. and J.W.; J. P. M'Arthur, the working tools; J. J. Johnstone, the swords; W. H. Clemmey, the floorcloths; Richard Roberts, three gavels; Dr. T. M. Wills, emblems; H. Hough, bust of Lord Zetland; and Bro. S. E. Ibbes, Bible and cushion.

In the evening, about 100 brethren sat down to a sumptuous banquet, in the large room of the building, which was provided and served in a very satisfactory manner by Bro. Milbourn, of the town. Bro. S. E. Ibbes, W.M., presided, and he was supported on the right and left by a number of the Provincial Grand Lodge officers. The loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed by the W.M. in short and pointed terms. Bro. Alpass, who responded to the toast of "The Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, P.G.M., the D.P.G.M. (Hon. F. Stanley), and the P.G. Officers of West Lancashire," also proposed the toast of "The West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution," and in doing so referred to the many blessings conferred by that charity. Bro. Broadbridge proposed "The W.M.," which was acknowledged by Bro. Ibbs. Bro. P.M. Turner gave "The Consecrating Officer and Installing Master," which was responded to by Bro. Alpass. The W.M. proposed "The Musical Brethren," acknowledged by Bro. Skeaf; and the remaining toasts were "The Officers," also given by the W.M., which was responded to by Bro. H. Wyatt, S.W.; Bro. J. W. Turley, J. W.; Bro. T. D. Pierce, Sec.; and J. P. M'Arthur, Treasurer. The toast, "The Visitors," given by the W.M., was acknowledged by Bro. Captain G. Turner; and "The Ladies," "Press," and Tyler's toast, brought the list to a close. During the evening excellent songs were given by Bros. Busfield, H. Ashmore, Dr. Willis, Glover, Patterson, Veale, Robert Roberts.—The Liverpool Mercury.

A grand Masonic ceremonial took place yesterday in the Town-hall, Merton-road, Bootle. The occasion was the consecration of the Bootle Lodge No. 1,473, and it was attended by an unusually numerous muster of the brethren from various parts of the province. Bro. Sir James Ramsden, W.P.G.S.W. had been appointed by the Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master to perform the ceremony, but as he was unable to attend, his place was taken by Bro. J. S. Alpass, P.G. Secretary. The new lodge, for which a warrant was recently obtained from the Grand Lodge of England, already numbers about fifty members, and its inauguration was most auspicious. The brethren assembled in the hall at half-past one o'clock, and shortly afterwards Bro. Alpass took the chair, and appointed Bro. William Doyle as Senior Warden and Bro. J. M. J. Fowler as Junior Warden pro tem.

The brethren of the new lodge having been arranged in order on the right of the chair, the lodge was opened on the first and raised to the third degree, and after a preliminary prayer and the performance of a solemn piece of music, the presiding-officer addressed the brethren on the nature of the proceedings. Bro. R. Wylie, acting P.G. Secretary, then read the petition for the formation of the lodge, which had been forwarded to the Grand Lodge by several brethren resident in the district belonging to other lodges, and the warrant for the consecration, signed by Bro. the Earl of Carnarvon, Deputy Grand Master of England. The members of the lodge then formally signified their approval of the officers named in the petition and warrant as given above.

Bro. the Rev. J. F. Goggin, P.G.C., then delivered an eloquent oration on the principles of the Order and the lessons to be drawn from that day's ceremonial. It was an admirable enforcement of the great truths by which the members of the Masonic fraternity are guided in the discharge of their daily avocations, as well as within the hallowed precincts of a lodge. An anthem composed by Bro. Skeaf was sung by the choir; and, after the consecration prayer, chant, and invocation, the lodge was uncovered, and three Past Masters carried the cornucopia, wine, and oil, three times round the lodge, strewing and pouring portions, as they went, upon the mosaic pavement. A halt being made in the east, the censer was carried three times round the lodge by the P.G. Chaplain, amidst the performance of sacred music. After some additional ceremonial and more music, the presiding officer dedicated and constituted the lodge, and this was succeeded by a closing prayer and anthem.

Bro. Alpass then installed the Worshipful Master designate, Bro. Samuel Ellis Ibbs, P.M. 594 and 1,356. The chair was then taken by Bro. Hamer, P.G. Treasurer, as Installing Master, and the following officers were appointed for the ensuing year:—Bros. Harold Wyatt, S.W.; J. W. Turley, J.W.; J. P. M'Arthur, Treasurer; T. D. Pierce, Sec.; R. Roberts, S.D.; Dr. T. M. Wills, J.D.; W. S. Barker, I.G.; W. H. Clemmey, Sen. Steward; W. Hughes, Jun Steward and Blake, Tyler.

Votes of thanks were passed to Bro. Alpass (the presiding officer), Bro. Hamer (the installing Officer), Bro. Goggin, and the other Provincial grand officers, and to Bro. Skeaf and the musical brethren, whose performances had added so much to the beauty and harmony of the proceedings.

A grand banquet was served in the hall shortly after five o'clock. Covers were laid for upwards of 100 brethren. Bro. Samuel E. Ibbs, W.M., presided, supported on the right by Bro. H. S. Alpass, P.G. Secretary; and on the left by Bro. the Rev. J. F. Goggin, P.G. Chaplain, and Bro. the Rev. W. H. Vernon, P.P.G.C. Bro. Harold Wyatt, S.W., and Bro. J. W. Turley, J.W., were in their respective places. A sumptuous repast was purveyed by Brother Milbourne, of St. Anne-street, and after the removal of the cloth the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to with Masonic honours. The programme embraced "The Marquess of Ripon and Grand Officers," "The Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, R.W.P.G.M.," the Hon. F. Stanley, W.D.P.G.M.; and the Provincial Officers of West Lancashire," "The West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution," "The Worshipful Master," "The Installing Master," "The Musical Brethren," "The Visitors," and "To all Poor and Distressed Freemasons and speedy relief." The toasts were alternated with glees and songs, and the meeting was brought to a close at a suitable hour, after such a pleasant evening had been passed as only "brethren of the mystic tie" can possibly enjoy. The musical party, consisting of Bros. Skeaf, P.G.O.; Haswell, 203; Busfield, 276; T. Welch, 241; D. Jones, 155; and H. Ashmore, J.W. 1325; contributed greatly to this result.

The scene at the consecration was one of the most impressive which we have ever witnessed, even amidst the always sublime mysteries of the Masonic Craft. The hall itself is a lofty, spacious and pretty one, and the insignia and paraphernalia of the order were at once so perfect and so artistically arranged as to constitute a striking picture. Amongst the articles displayed were the following donations from brethren who take an interest in the lodge, viz., a tripod from Bro. Donkin, ashlar from Bro. T. D. Pierce, a ballot box from Bro. Barker, columns for the Senior and Junior Wardens from Bro. Wyatt, working tools from Bro. M'Arthur, swords from Bro. J. Johnson, floorcloth from Bro. Clemmey, emblems from Bro. Dr. Wills, a bust of the late Earl of Zetland, for many years Grand Master of England, by Bro. Hough, and a Bible and a cushion by Bro. Ibbs. All the presents named, as well as the other tasteful furniture of the lodge, were supplied by Bro. George Kenning, of London, and Monument-place, Liverpool, publisher of the Freemason, who is represented here by Bro. Joseph Wood. As an example of the interest taken in the new lodge, and the influential nature of the attendance, we may mention that no fewer than forty-three Past Masters were present at the installation of Bro. Ibbs, when the Master Masons had to retire to the adjacent apartments. This attendance of advanced members of the fraternity is almost unprecedented.—Liverpool Daily Courier.

GRAND MASONIC BALL AT GREENOCK

A Grand Masonic Ball took place at the Town Hall, on the 13th February, under the auspices of the Greenock Kilwinning Lodge, No. 12, and proved to be in every respect superior to any ball ever given in Greenock; everything connected with it being of the most excellent character and leaving nothing to be desired, for no point that could ensure success was overlooked. The magnificent Town Hall required little in the way of decoration to be added to it save something to mark distinctly the peculiar nature of the festive gathering; therefore, beyond the graceful grouping of a few national flags, scarcely anything in the way of adornment was attempted; but the splendid tracing boards—themselves a fine ornament to any room—lately presented to the lodge by Bro. Captain Shanks, K.M., Royal Marines Light Infantry were placed on the front edge of the band platform, and excited the curiosity of all present who were not acquainted with the sublime mysteries of Freemasonry; over the central picture was placed a five pointed star, and underneath the three there was a scroll with the Masonic injunction. "Audi, Vide, Tace," also triple taus, etc., upon it. All these words and emblems were most exquisitely made with silver and white paper rosettes on a blue ground, and were the work of the wife of the honorary Secretary. These devices, with a few squares and compasses, completed the Masonic portion of the decorations, and were simply perfection. The hall never looked so well, and the greatest credit is due to all those who had the management in their hands.

The ball was under the most influential patronage, including the Grand Master Mason of Scotland, the Prov. Grand Master of East and West Renfrewshire, and others, and the working committee consisted of:—Bros. D. Cunningham, W.M.; J. B. Tarbet, J.W.; J. D. Walton, J. Agnew, H. King, W. B. Rodger, R. Rennie, J. M. Buchanan, and G. Shanks, Hon. Secretary and Treasurer; who all helped most materially to make the affair pass off well, but the lion's share of praise is due to Bro. Shanks, who would not be satisfied unless everything was perfect, and was most indefatigable in his efforts to ensure complete success; the satisfactory result, however, amply rewarded all who had any share in the arrangements.

The fine supper room was well provided with the choicest viands and wines, and drew forth the unlimited praise that is always given to such liberal preparations.

The brethren in their various and rich Masonic clothing, the military and naval uniforms of the officers in H.M. service, together with the elegant dresses of the ladies, made the scene such an one as is rarely equalled and never surpassed, and it will not readily be forgotten by those who were fortunate enough to witness it. We would remark, en passant, that we only noticed two ladies with the blue sash which it is commode il faut to wear at all Masonic balls; these were supplied by Bro. George Kenning, of Glasgow, London, and Liverpool. One of the most pleasant novelties at this ball was a vase of Eau-de-Cologne which was kept constantly filled during the whole night and was found very refreshing by the ladies; for this idea the dancers were indebted to the thoughtfulness of Bro. Shanks, who originated it, and carried it out at his own cost, and we regret to hear that in doing so he had a handsome and rare Japanese vase broken.

Dancing was kept up with unabated spirit until four a.m., then, with universal regret that so good a ball was terminated, and many a wish that it might soon be repeated, the votaries of Terpsichore wended their way homeward. The Stewards were distinguished by very beautiful badges which were designed, made, and kindly presented to them by Mrs. Shanks.

"BURNS AS A FREEMASON" (page 750).—

The life of Burns as a Freemason was written by Bro. William Hunter, R. W. Master of the Lodge Journeymen, Edinburgh, No. 8 S.C. and published nearly ten years ago by Bro. W. Paterson, Bookseller, Edinburgh. It is now out of print.

CHALMERS I. PATON.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—The stomach is the seat of centre of universal sympathy throughout the human system, upon the full performance of its functions, strength, energy, and tone depend, whereon life itself rests. The invaluable pills exert a greater and more beneficial influence over digestive disorders than any other medicine. Their mode of action is thoroughly consonant with reason. They completely purify the blood, purify both head and stomach of all faulty functions, and expel all oppressive accumulations from the bowels. With the blood purified and all poisons purged from the system, regularity may prevail throughout the body, and the most delicate and healthy nerves may be preserved in their normal state.

LAYING A FOUNDATION STONE IN RENFREWSHIRE, EAST.

The foundation-stone of the first houses built by the Glasgow Working Men's Investment and Building Society was laid with Masonic honours on Saturday afternoon in presence of several thousand spectators. The Co-operation of the brethren in Glasgow having been invited. A procession was formed at the washing-house in the green and marched to the field. The hour at which the Masonic body and members of the society fixed to be at the foundation stone was four o'clock, but they did not arrive till three-quarters of an hour there-after. Col. Campbell, P.G.M., of Renfrewshire, East, in which province the new houses are situated, proceeded to the Old Council Hall, Rutherglen and there opened the Provincial Grand Lodge of Renfrewshire (East), consisting of Colonel Campbell, P.G.M.; J. Caldwell, J.W.; W. T. Smillie, A.M.; W. Lind, J.D.; Fisher, B.B.; Forrest, J.G.; Somerville, acting S.D.; M'Pherson, L.B.; M'Leod, S.D.; Wallace, J.S.; Buchanan, L.B.; Robertson, S.M.; Carswell, M.; Duncan, acting Secretary, and Kirkwood Architect, brethren from lodges, 27, 38, 73, 103, 116, 128, 153, 177, 219, 275, 307, 332, 347, 354, 362, 400, 408, 426, 458, 512, and two bands of music proceeded to the spot. Colonel Campbell having requested the Chaplain to ask a blessing before they proceeded with the work in hand, the Rev. Mr. Simpson offered up a prayer.

Mr. James Miller, manager of Strathclyde Print Works, and president of the society, presented the trowel which bore the following inscription:—"Presented to Colonel Campbell of Blythswood by the Glasgow Working Men's Investment and Building Society (Limited), on the occasion of his laying the foundation stone of their first houses.—21st Feb., 1874."

The foundation stone having been laid in the usual manner.

Colonel Campbell was received with cheers. He said—Mr. Miller and gentlemen, I now declare that this stone has been duly laid with Masonic honours. I have to thank you, sir, for the kindness with which you have presented me with this most beautiful trowel; indeed I look upon it as a reflex of your opinions, and the good way in which you have spoken of the past will ever be riveted and cemented in my mind. I can assure you that the words of wisdom with which you concluded your remarks will never be forgotten by one who has received such universal kindness from all and sundry in and around this part where I have the honour and happiness to live, and I trust no actions of mine, under any circumstances will ever lower the estimation in which I am held at the present moment. (Cheers.) I consider it an honour no mean character to occupy the position in which you have placed me to-day, and I trust that the foundation stone which we have now laid may be not only figuratively but actually the foundation stone of fortunes yet to be made for those whom I have always been led to respect, the working classes of this country. (Cheers.) I feel, and no one more than I, the very which unthrift causes to many a home. I have often noticed that in those homes which have not been comfortable unthrift has often been the greatest. I trust that this movement, which has now been inaugurated here may go on to flourish, and that those whom it is intended to benefit may find in their comfortable abodes that their own personal comfort is not only a matter to be thought of, but also the comfort of their families, and the great future must come to us all. (Cheers.) I have to thank you again for your great kindness. I do not think any words of mine can do more at present than to work that is in hand, but I assure you I will always hold it as a great honour that I have been allowed to lay this stone. I shall be glad to get it, and I trust, if I am spared, that at the Provincial Grand Lodge of Renfrewshire I will ever assist me in helping forward all works for the furtherance of that which is honest, and true. (Loud cheers, and a call for Dr. Cameron.)

Dr. Cameron, M.P., said I have very great pleasure in taking part in this ceremony, because I have long been convinced of the very great necessity which existed in Glasgow for the provision of proper accommodation for the working classes. (Cheers.) In Glasgow, unfortunately I was going to say, houses have been too substantially built. (Laughter and cheers.) The consequence is that they outlast their use. Fashion changes, but the houses remain, and the house which was admirably adapted for a single family is utterly unsuited to its present use now that it has come to be the receptacle of some forty or fifty families. I have taken great interest in the housing of the poorer population of Glasgow, and I can assure you, gentlemen, that I have never been more deeply impressed with anything than with the squalor and misery in which a very large portion of our population live. I intended to say a few words upon the evils of overcrowding, but I myself have suffered so much within the last five minutes—(great laughter)—from overcrowding, and I think you also, gentlemen, must at the present moment be suffering so painfully from those evils, that I need say very little on that subject. (Laughter and cheers.) There was recently a very terrible catastrophe from fire in London, at least so far as loss of property was concerned. A great deal has been said relative to the fire in the Polytechnic, and it has been laid down as a rule which, I think, admits of no contradiction, that if we would have buildings fire proof—if we wish to prevent the spread of fire—we must have the buildings sub-divided by brick partitions. If we would render our vessels safe against the incursions of the sea, we must provide them with water-tight bulk-heads; and if we would render our dwelling-houses to any extent fever proof we must provide them with separate entrances. (Cheers, and a Voice, "Very good.") Earth-works have been found most efficacious in stopping cannon shot, and an outwork of fresh air is the best defence we can have against the artillery of disease. (Cheers.) I shall not at this late period of the afternoon detain you upon a subject on which I should much wish to dilate—the subject of the necessity for thrift, and I pass over that the more willingly in consequence of the very pointed and excellent remarks which have fallen from Colonel Campbell. (Hear, hear.) I will say, however, gentlemen, that when a man has acquired one of these houses which you see before you, he must have done so through an amount of self-sacrifice and thrift which will be the best possible moral training which he could undergo. (Cheers.) I am not an advocate of meanness or of parsimony, but I thoroughly believe in the advice of our national poet—

"An' gather gear by every wile
That's justified by honour.
Nor for to hide it in a hedge,
Nor for a train-attendant,
But for the glorious privilege
Of being independent."

(Cheers.) It has been said, if we would elevate the working classes, talk as we may of the schoolmaster, we must in the first place seek the assistance of the Mason. You have to-day received the assistance of the Mason, and I am satisfied that in the colony in which the foundation-stone has to-day been laid the schoolmaster will find an honoured place. (Loud cheers.)

The Rev. Robert Thomson expressed his cordial sympathy with the movement for the erection of workingmen's houses in the outskirts of Glasgow, and observed that as he had lived 45 years in that city he could well coincide with the remarks which had fallen from their gallant friend Col. Campbell and their representative Dr. Cameron. (Cheers.)

Colonel Campbell and the members of the Provincial Grand Lodge then returned to the hall in Rutherglen, where representative of the society thanked them for the services they had so kindly and efficiently performed. The lodge was afterwards closed in due and ancient form.

THE BUILDING OF THE TEMPLE.

There is a beautiful significance in the recorded fact, that no sound of iron tool was heard at the building of the Temple. The stones and the timbers were perfectly squared and finished in the quarries or the forests, and each, when it reached the sacred mountain, intelligibly marked, was at once fixed in its proper place, without confusion, with silence, celerity and accuracy. A master mind planned and superintended the whole work; fit agents were selected to oversee the carrying out of the details; and faithful obedience was found in the workmen who performed the labour. These three were necessary to success: the want of either would have been fatal.

The Temple was both a type and a model. It was a type of the great Temple of God, not made with hands, of which the worlds are the stones, and the Deity the builder. When matter hung drear, dark and shapeless in space; when the worlds were formless and waste, and the Spirit of God brooded over the abyss, the command of the Great Architect went forth, and the building of the Temple began. Then, as the design became apparent to celestial minds, the "morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy," because every stone in that wondrous edifice was found to be exactly fitted to the place it was designed to fill. Whether it was the central sun of a system, so vast that its proportions may not be grasped by human intellect, or the atom so small that the most powerful glass does not bring it to light, all were perfectly finished, and each fixed in its proper place without the sound of iron tool. The rivers carried to the ocean, and the ocean silently deposited vast accretions of lime and other stone; insects lived by countless millions, and died, and their carcasses formed chalk; forests of giant ferns grew and fell, and were buried, and formed coal; volcanic forces thrust the crude metals through the hardening crust to be ready to the hand of man when the proper time should come. And the worlds whirl in their vast orbits through space; system upon system wheels on its immeasurable course, regularly, smoothly, silently, irresistibly, because the great Temple was planned by Infinite Wisdom, and constructed by Infinite Power. So nicely balanced are all these worlds, that no confusion ever takes place. None ever break away from their orbits and fly wildly through space, and none ever sink into and are destroyed by their central sun. But all move smoothly and certainly—

"What though in solemn silence all
Move round this dark terrestrial ball:
What though no real voice nor sound
Amid their radiant orbs be found;
In reason's ear they all rejoice,
And utter forth a glorious voice,
For ever singing as they shine:
"The hand that made us is divine."

The Temple should be a model for every Masonic Lodge. The material selected should be carefully examined to begin with. No unsound stones or timbers can ever do any good. They will only rot or crumble away, and endanger the structure. They should be firm, and true and sound; and they should be carefully fitted, and made perfect ashlar in Lodge of Instruction, so that they will exactly fit their places in the Masonic Temple. They should be prepared by Prudence and Wisdom, adorned by Charity, and cemented into the Temple by Brotherly Love. A Masonic Temple, built of such material, so fashioned, so adorned, and so cemented, will stand all the storms of adversity and all the assaults of enmity. It hath its foundation sure; peace is within its walls, and prosperity within its gates. Its labours are labours of love, and its works, seen and known of men, bring it honour, and insure to it peace and prosperity.—The Craftsman.

THE SOCIÉTÉ ROYALE DES SAUVETEURS DE BELGIQUE.—The Royal Humane Society of Belgium has conferred upon Major C. J. Burgess the title of Membre Honoraire, with the Silver Medal of the Society.

sonic Press, as the most effective agents in such a wished-for consummation of things and of events.

And though we can perhaps in this old country, hardly follow our able and eloquent brother in his flights both of imagination and hope, we yet can heartily go with him, alike in the belief and the expectation, that, much intellectual and moral good will accrue to the world and to Freemasonry, by the wider diffusion, and the permanent success of a sound Masonic Literature.

In the United States, the Masonic journals are many, and the readers are counted in large numbers, while here in England, one solitary Hebdomadal journal, and one unpretending magazine, make up the sum and substance of any efforts in favour of Masonic intellectuality.

And even these alike in their cheapness and character, we venture to say, most creditable to their enterprising publisher, somewhat resemble those unfortunate persons, who are kept up, amid the surging waves, by the help of a safety belt.

It never seems to occur to some of our good brethren, who expect to have a Masonic periodical supplied to them, somehow, that, such an undertaking entails necessarily a considerable outlay on the publisher, and that whether they give to his efforts to afford the Order a good, a sound and a welcome literature, all the support they can, and all the patronage he has a right fraternally to look for at their hands, printers must be paid, and a staff of workers must be kept up.

We are led into these remarks by the remembrance, that, while the Freemason is the only Masonic paper in England, and while at the same time its publisher, after some years of sacrifice, has evinced a laudable desire to increase its power and efficiency in every way, some of our good brethren, forgetful of the past and regardless of the future, simply send the excessively flattering and encouraging message "discontinue"

We then would once more beg to remind our readers of the claims The Freemason has on all members of our Order, and ask them kindly to use their influence, in lodge and out of lodge, in seeking to extend its support, and increase its circulation.

It is undoubtedly true, that, of late, we have been favoured with much increased sympathy and countenance everywhere, and that, "discontinuing" subscribers have been happily overhauled by new friends and zealous supporters; and still we look forward to a greater measure of fraternal encouragement than we have ever received, and we hope that our numerous subscribers and correspondents will add to their personal favours, by urging others to follow in good example.

Were the support of the Craft at all commensurate with the sacrifices entailed on our publisher, no effort would be wanting, and no expense would be spared, to make The Freemason still more worthy of such kindly support and patronage. It is somewhat curious to remember here amid the singleness of our Masonic idealism, the general aspect of the newspaper serial literature of England.

From the Newspaper Press Directory for 1874, we extract the following, on the present position of the newspaper press:—

There are now published in the United Kingdom 1,585 newspapers, distributed as follows:—England, London, 314; Provinces, 915—total England, 1,229; Wales, 58; Scotland, 149; Ireland, 131; British Isles, 18. Of these, there are 95 daily papers published in England, 2 in Wales, 14 in Scotland, 17 in Ireland, and 2 in British Isles. On reference to the edition of this useful Directory for 1854, we find the following interesting facts—viz., that 1854 in there were published in the United Kingdom 624 journals; of these 20 were issued daily—viz., 16 in England, 1 in Scotland, and 3 in Ireland; but in 1874 there are now established and circulated 1,585 papers, of which no less than 130 are issued daily, showing that the Press of the country has very greatly extended during the last 20 years, and more especially so in daily papers, the daily issues standing 130 against 20 in 1854. The magazines now in course of publication, including the Quarterly Reviews, number 639, of which 242 are of a decidedly religious character, representing various religious communities of the United Kingdom.

As Bro. MacCalla hopes, so do we sincerely, that, a brighter day is yet to be, for Masonic literature in our good old Craft.

THE MASONIC CHARITIES.

Strangely enough with our leader of last week, came an advertisement for the next Boys' School Festival, which appeared in our last issue, and is repeated in our impression of to-day.

We are very glad to acknowledge it, and call attention to it, as we think this resolution of the Stewards to advertise in our columns a step in the right direction. We trust, that, the spirit of our last remarks on the subject will be fully understood and appreciated by the Craft.

They were not penned, we feel sure we shall be credited when we say so, from any selfish considerations, or a mere anxiety for paid advertisements, but they were prompted, by a sincere and heartfelt anxiety to promote the interests of our great charities.

We think at the same time, and we fancy our brethren will agree with us in the opinion, that, when there is one Masonic paper like The Freemason, it deserves all the patronage that can be given it, all the fair fraternal encouragement that can be offered it, instead of having to witness, as we often do, such support and encouragement so valuable to us, tendered to non-Masonic papers.

We should not have adverted to the subject at all, but, that, it seemed desirable that a change should be made, in the customary system of our charities in this respect, the more so, as they require all the support the Order can render to them.

Our pages have always been open to reports of their proceedings, reports which could not be obtained without expense, and we therefore thought it well to call attention, once for all, to what we felt to be unjust to ourselves, and in itself a great mistake, as regards the interests of the charities. We feel sure, that, such "penny wise and pound foolish" policy only requires to be pointed out, to be at once amended, and while we thank the Stewards of the Boys' School for their remembrance of The Freemason, we beg leave to express our hope, that henceforth whatever other papers may be favoured with the notice of our charities, we may be enabled to disperse the same advertisements, much to the advantage of the charities themselves, in those localities Freemasons most do congregate, and where The Freemason is habitually read.

The Rev. Sir Jox Blake, D.D., Principal of Cheltenham College, has been chosen Head

Master of Rugby School, in the place of Dr. Hayman.

The Castro trial continues, probably the summing-up of the Lord Chief Justice will be concluded before our impression appears, but we defer necessarily to next week, any comments on the trial itself.

If the news from Coomassie may be relied on, Sir Garnet Wolseley is in possession of the town, of the King and the Royal family. We have to lament the loss of Captain Huyshe, on the staff of the army. Some interesting details of the march have arrived, but the jungle does not improve in acquaintance, and the roads are susceptible of Macademic amelioration. Our soldiers seem to have shown of what good stuff they are made of as usual, as their principal enemies have been so far, the "climate," and want of transport, and a great many, we are sorry to say, are coming home invalided!

The search of the salvage corps continues at the Pantechon, but much has been irreparably lost to depositors.

Four railway accidents, more or less serious, occurred on four different lines of railway, which is rather an unusual number, in one week. As is commonly the case, they are all apparently unaccountable.

Up to Friday evening the fund now being raised in the City of London, under the auspices of the Lord Mayor and an influential committee, composed of Lord Lawrence, Mr. N. de Rothschild, M.P., the Hon. R. Bourke, M.P., Sir Albert Sassoon, Mr. Dudley Smith (banker), and other gentlemen of consideration, towards the relief of suffering by the impending famine in the province of Bengal, amounted far towards £18,000, and subscriptions were still coming in. The subscriptions included Mr. John Baring, £200; the Marquis of Bristol, £50; Matheson and Co., £500; the Mercers' Company, £525; the Borneo Company, £100; Messrs. Copstake, Moore, and Crampton, £105; Messrs. Allsopp and Co., £100; the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company, £100; N. R. B., £100; Sir John Macleod, £50; Messrs. Harker and Co., £52 10s.; and the Tiphook Tea Company, £50. A telegram received yesterday morning by the Lord Mayor from the Viceroy of India stated that the Chairman of the Central Relief Committee at Calcutta had been informed of the first remittance of £10,000, from the City of London Committee.

A most desperate highway robbery took place in the Fulham-road, of Mr. G. F. Dillon Croker, on Monday last, at midnight, by two interesting strangers. We trust these amiable footpads will soon be in the custody of the police.

Doubts are still thrown on the report of Dr. Livingstone's death, and we confess that we still do not believe it. If, however, the last telegram may be relied on, there is but little hope left.

Nothing more has been said about the Chat-ham Scandal, and Mr. Cuffe's combative propensities; the truth is, the least said, the soonest mended.

With regard to foreign news we have little to record.

France is tranquil, and trade apparently reviving generally, though in Paris many are suffering greatly.

Madame MacMahon has assisted at a meeting to commence a system of soup kitchens for the indigent.

In Japan, it seems, a civil war has broken out and Nagasaki is threatened with the "happy dispatch."

The Emperor of Austria was to leave St. Petersburg for Moscow on the 22nd, and was to be back at Vienna via Smolensk and Warsaw on the 17th.

Cardinal Tarquini is dead, one of the last appointed Cardinals, Cardinal Antonelli is unwell, and Cardinal Barnabo is in great danger. It is asserted that a new batch of Cardinals will shortly be created, among whom, will be Archbishop Manning, the Bishop of Orleans (Dupanloup), and the Archbishop of Malines.

In Spain, General Morione's movements are in such a state of doubt and mystery, that we are inclined to think they will all end in smoke.

We have to announce the deaths of Sir George Campbell, of Succoth, of Sir Thomas W. Holborne, of W. Vesalius Pettigrew, M.D., of J. Pearce Parker, M.D., of Charles Kidd, M.D., of C. Wordsworth, Q.C., of Lieutenant-General Sir Sydney Colton, Governor Royal Hospital Chelsea, of Colonels Jeakes, George Green Nicholls, John James Hamilton, of Lieutenant-Colonel Reed, Major Henry Chase, Major Mant, R.A., Captain De Lancey, Surgeon-Major A. F. Richard, 38th Regiment, J. C. S. Freemantle, late 2nd Life Guards, W. G. Andrews, late 1st Hussars, of William Bruce, retired Captain R.N., Comm. Hon. J. Vivian, R.N., and Lieutenant Hon. Basil Napier, R.N.

UNITED GRAND LODGE.

The following is the agenda of business to be transacted in Grand Lodge on Wednesday, 4th March, 1874:—

1. The regulations for the Government of Grand Lodge during the time of public business will be read.
2. The Minutes of the Quarterly Communication of the 3rd December, 1873, will be read and put for confirmation.
3. The election of a M.W. Grand Master.
4. Election of a Grand Treasurer.
5. Report of the Lodge of Benevolence for the last quarter, in which are recommendations for the following grants, viz.—
The Widow of a brother of the Alexandra Lodge, No. 993, Levenshulme ... £50
A Brother of the Royal Union Lodge, No. 382, Uxbridge ... £50
A Brother of the Portsmouth Lodge, No. 487, Portsmouth ... £50
6. Report of the Board of General Purposes to the United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England:—

"The Board of General Purposes have to report that memorials or complaints having been received from Brother Hemming and others of the British Oak Lodge, No. 831, Mile End, in which, amongst other things, it was alleged and charged, and acknowledged by the W. Master to be true, that, on a regular lodge night the W. Master, of his own motion, called the lodge off and left the room with his officers, remaining away five hours; when he returned and resumed the lodge, the board duly proceeded to the consideration of the said matters, and summoned before them the several parties.

"The W. Master, Brother Hackwell, delivered up the Warrant and Minute Book of the Lodge.

"The complaining brethren, the W. Master and others, were severally heard at considerable length, and the Board bestowed great trouble and pains to ascertain the state of feeling amongst the members, and it is with deep regret that the Board feels itself imperatively called upon, in the interests of the Craft, to report that the antagonistic feelings prevailing amongst the members of the British Oak Lodge, No. 831, are such that it appears quite certain that the continued existence and assembling of the lodge cannot possibly be attended with favourable results, either to its own welfare or that of the Craft. Under these circumstances the Board, unwillingly but unanimously, recommend that the lodge be erased and the warrant declared forfeited.

"The Board consider they should not close this report without stating, for the information of Grand Lodge, that complaints of a very grave character were heard before them from members of this same British Oak Lodge, No. 831, on August 26th, 1873, when, although the warrant was returned to the W. Master, he and the brethren were severely reprimanded by the President, and were then informed by him that the members of the Board had grave doubts as to whether they ought not then to suspend the lodge, and earnestly cautioned them as to the future.

"(Signed) JOHN A. RUCKER,
"Vice-President."

To the report is subjoined a statement of the Grand Lodge accounts at the last meeting of the Finance Committee, held on Friday, the 13th day of February instant, showing a balance in the hands of the Grand Treasurer of £4,905 11s. 6d.; and in the hands of the Grand Secretary for petty cash, £75; and for servants' wages, £90 17s.

7. Report of Bro. R. P. Harding, Auditor of Grand Lodge Accounts of Receipts and Disbursements during the year 1873.

THE PRESENT POSITION OF OUR MASONIC CHARITIES.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

There is much in the leading article, with the above heading, in your issue of Saturday last, and in articles recently published on the same subject, which appears to me to be worthy of, if not to demand, notice.

The pamphlet which you take as your text is not by Bro. Walker, but by Bro. Henry Watson, S.W. of S. Hugh Lodge, No. 1386, Lincoln, who has done himself much credit, and the Masonic Institutions good service by his disinterested advocacy. This is rendered more valuable as being the result of a minute analysis of expenditure and management, which it is hoped will prove as acceptable to the Craft at large as it must have been satisfactory to Bro. Watson.

Let me, however, first notice your complaint, of non-advertising in your paper. Now is it not a singular coincidence that in the same number in which contains this complaint there appears the advertisement of our ensuing Anniversary Festival, the first of three insertions, for which instructions have been given, the Freemason being the only paper in which this announcement has appeared up to the time of this present writing. In my humble opinion class institutions do not gain much by publicity, but at the same time I do not advocate its entire avoidance, and if the great majority of the Craft did but subscribe to and support The Freemason, the only English Masonic paper existing, that paper would unquestionably be the most proper, and the best, medium of information to our friends. But have we not your own repeated utterances that such is not the case. To reach our friends, therefore, who from lack of discrimination will not carefully and diligently peruse your columns, we are driven to resort in cases where publicity is desirable, to the prints which are generally read, by those in, as well as out of, our pale, and of these the paper you prominently instance—the Times—is, by common consent, accepted as best calculated to serve the object in view.

For myself I can assure you that there is no wish to withhold any advertisements which may legitimately find place in your paper.

There are difficulties in the way of advertising some of our meetings, but these and other questions connected therewith may be fairly considered, with a view to devise means for arrangements more generally satisfactory.

In perusing your leader does it not strike you how we meet on common ground? You quote my remarks as to the small proportion of the members of our Order by whom the institutions associated therewith are supported, and you complain of the "cold shoulder" to which The Freemason is treated.

If our complaints are both well-founded, in what way can a remedy in each case be best sought and applied?

Is there any intrinsic weakness in our institutions which renders them so comparatively unattractive, or which justifies the "cold shoulder" to which they and their advocates are occasionally treated?

Is there anything radically defective in the conduct and management of The Freemason which can reasonably account for the neglect you complain of?

To these questions we should both undoubtedly answer firmly, perhaps indignantly, in the negative. Where then is to be found the solution of the difficulty in each case, so often obtruded on the attention of the Craft?

Clearly, and at once, is the answer. All observers, that in all our life, the earnest and the zealous are in the minority. The commercial world may be an exception, but is not this exemplified in the political, religious, and social world?

To argue this out and to prove it the Q.E.D. of the problem under consideration would occupy more of my time, and your space, than either of us would like to spare.

But the knowledge of this fact is no reason why there should be any cessation of effort, to alter the proportions of the two classes or sections into which our community, as others, is divided. On the contrary it affords the best incentive to continued patient work, unremitting labour, and persevering toil.

My figures, as quoted by you, may not be found on investigation to be strictly accurate, but I am persuaded they are sufficiently approximate for all purposes of our argument, and I do not see how anyone properly impressed with a sense of responsibility can for a moment think of relaxing his exertions in behalf of our noble institutions.

It may be that if these prove eminently successful, an increased interest would be created in Masonic periodical literature. It may also be that if a more lively interest were created in Masonic literature a more extended sympathy with our charitable organizations would be the result.

On your part, I do not for one moment question the honest desire by which you are actuated, that of rendering every assistance in your power to the great, but too much neglected—spite of all that has been accomplished and is being done—cause of Masonic charity.

When the great bulk of Freemasons can be induced to adopt the maxim of universal philosophy, "Homo sum nihil humani a me alienum puto," and regard Masonry in its varied aspects, and its multitudinous capacities for good, and not be content lightly to estimate it from any one particular point of view, then the "consummation so devoutly wished," will be in a fair way of realization, with every probability of success in the directions indicated in your article—of more attentive study of Masonic literature, and the many interesting topics of discussion presented therein—of more wide-spread benevolence—of still further generous substantial support for the relief of distress, and the mitigation of suffering, based upon motives more exalted, upon knowledge more cultivated, upon convictions more deeply rooted and enduring.

As usual, I have trespassed unduly upon your space, but I am anxious to see the subjects treated of still further discussed, as I am confident general good will be the result. Thanking you for your kindly expressions towards myself, undeserved in many respects as they are,

I am, dear sir, and brother, yours faithfully and fraternally,

FREDERICK BINCKES,
Secretary, Royal Masonic Institution for Boys.

ROMAN CATHOLICS AND FREEMASONS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

One naturally asks, under recent circumstances especially, why the Church of Rome communicates all Freemasons alike. What here in Freemasonry itself to merit excommunication?

In referring to the Book of Constitutions, published in 1867, I see at page 7, pledges given to Masons to be peaceable subjects, and cheerfully to conform to the laws of the country, and to pledges, "not to be concerned in plots or conspiracies against Government, but patiently submit to the decisions of the supreme legislature, and to pay a proper respect to the civil authority." Similar passages may be produced in the initiatory charge. It appears then that loyalty and obedience to law are exacted from Masons.

I would hope that there is nothing in all this inconsistent with the Roman Catholic Faith. "Fraser's Magazine" for this month (pages 187, 197), speaking of certain "Select Reading Lessons" used by twenty-three thousand Roman Catholic boys in Ireland, says, "This fourth book is on the very principle of the Nationalist newspapers, which scrape together the abuse of England from all the journals of every country under the sun, with the view of feeding the anti-English resentment of the Irish masses. It is in fact a first-rate school manual for Fenianism. Its most pungent extracts point to insurrection."

Here we have loyal Freemasonry, and disloyal Fenianism side by side, and the bearing of the Church of Rome we forbear to comment on in these two cases.

Yours fraternally,

P.

FREEMASONRY AND ROMANISM.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In reference to the recent refusal of a Roman Catholic Chaplain to officiate at the burial of a Roman Catholic Freemason, as I cannot concur in the general expression of indignation at his conduct, I would ask your space for a brief statement of why I think the ground taken by the Rev. Mr. Cuffe is not only sufficiently distinct but logically quite tenable.

I need hardly say, I have no sympathy with the system of which he is the exponent, but looking at that system as it exists, it must, I think, be admitted that he acted consistently with his duty as a Minister of the Romish Church.

The very foundation of that church is practically implicit obedience to Clerical Authority. This dogma underlies all her teaching, and if in controversy, that teaching be proved to be irrational, unscriptural, and contrary to history and fact, the argument, "The Church says so" is unanswerable for those who hold her divinely commissioned to dictate to the consciences of her subjects, and divinely authorized to compel their unquestioning submission.

If then, in her infallible wisdom, she thinks fit to proclaim that reception into Freemasonry is, de facto, excommunication for any of her members so offending, and if excommunication deprives her members of their rights and privileges as Roman Catholics, whatever their rights and privileges may be worth, why should we blame a Romish Priest for refusing to perform his usual offices, beside the grave of one who; I presume, died excommunicated and unabsolved.

The question is one for the serious consideration of our Roman Catholic brethren. They will now probably realize their true position in relation to the church to which they nominally belong, and it may possibly have an effect the reverse of that intended by those whose decree it is, and may compel them to look more closely into the grounds for the authority claimed, and exercised, over purely secular matters by the ecclesiastical luminaries constituting the Church of Rome, as she herself understands the title.

JOSEPH H. WOOD WORTH

Dublin, February 21.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I have read your leader of the 14th inst., embodying an attack of the Tablet, copied by the Church News of Jan. 4th, entitled "Freemasonry in Italy and the Roman Catholic Church," and as probably the only English M.M., also W.M., and 30°, in Italian Freemasonry, feel called on to beg your insertion of a few lines in explanation of the present crisis in Italian Freemasonry.

I would first however point out that the Tablet is incorrect in some of its statements for instance, the G.M. is Bro. G. Mazioni, M.P., Bros. Maresca, Mussi, and Col. Tamajo being deputy G.M.'s Bros. Gen. Garibaldi and Campanelli, are honorary P.G.M.'s. as is the Prince of Wales in England. Bro. Pianciani, Mayor of Rome, is simply Treasurer of G.L., and not either a prominent, or distinguished member of the Craft.

I am ignorant of the writings of the "Bro. (?) Giuseppe Ferrari quoted, but can safely aver that the Cross, as the Holy Symbol of the one great sacrifice, on which the foundations of all Christianity are built, receives in Italy at least as much as in England, the respect of every Freemason. It is, (in its character, given to it by the Papacy) as badge of an usurping, tyrannical, and soul-oppressing priesthood, that Italian Masons endeavour, and hitherto with limited success, to resist, overthrow, or destroy it.

In the consideration of a question so nearly affecting the hearths and homes of our Italian brethren, it must not be forgotten, that, though to-day Protestants, Roman Catholics, and a host of dissenters, live happily and peacefully in intimate and friendly relationship, in our free England, yet the fires of Smithfield have burned. Is it surprising then, that in a country, where the doors of the Inquisition closed but yesterday, where many still live who have passed their lives in ecclesiastical dungeons for no other crimes than non-conformity with the letter of papal ordinances in matters of faith, that the masses, liberated from their physical and moral slavery by the wars of independence, seek to provide against a recurrence of the thralldom of they still so vividly remember.

Surely the English reverence for, and practice of "tolerance," cannot mean the shutting of the eyes to the war our fellow men and Masons are waging against arch-intolerance.

The recent refusal of burial by the Priest Cuffe, to the remains of a deceased Freemason, is a case in point. Few of us can approve the Priest's conduct, but it must not be forgotten that in England Roman Catholicism bows, where in Italy and Germany it would, and endeavours to ride rough-shod over all.

In regard to the question of burial, some years back, Bro. Gustot, W.M. of the "Pyramides" Lodge of Alexandria, Egypt, on his death bed was refused extreme unction and burial, he being a Freemason (I may explain also a most devout Roman Catholic.) The Consuls-General of France and Austria, in their position of joint protectors of the Roman Catholic Church in Egypt, with every wish to side with the Church, were compelled to decide, that if the body of the deceased Freemason was refused admission to the Roman Catholic cemetery, the cemetery must be closed to all. Surely in the "Chatham case" some one has some equally cogent argument ready for Father Cuffe, and his friends.—

Yours faithfully and paternally,

A. H. 30°.

[We publish this letter in a spirit of fairness, but we do not think the subject is altogether, for many reasons, suitable to our columns. The correspondence must end here, and we have not thought it well to print the letter of the Italian Grand Lodge.—Ed.]

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

As Bro. Hughan has taken notice of my letter about the Roman Catholic Chaplain at Chatham, refusing to bury the remains of Armour-Sergeant Johnstone because he was "a Freemason." I write to say I have heard from very high authority in the Roman Catholic Church that "a Freemason cannot be a Catholic, and a Catholic cannot be a Freemason," and "an Unbaptized child is in a better condition than a Freemason." I could tell you all that was said upon the subject, but refrain as I think the less said the better. All I can see that Grand Lodge can do, is to ventilate the subject, and warn all Roman Catholics for the future that they are under the greater excommunication if they join us. I cannot make "the Infallible Papa" alter his decision about Freemasonry; but I glory in being one more than ever!

Yours fraternally,

AUGUSTUS A. BAGSHAWE.

W.M. 1235. P.S.G.W. and P.P.G.C. Derbyshire.

Wormhill Vicarage, Buxton.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I feel much disappointed in not hearing of or seeing a protest or letter from the Senior Provincial Grand Officer, residing in these towns, respecting the unchristianlike conduct of Mr. Cuffe in refusing to pay the last sad office to a worthy soldier (who was also a worthy Freemason).

I, as an humble individual, a Catholic of Christ's Holy Apostolic Church, do denounce Father Cuffe as being unworthy to act in any way for the welfare of the flock entrusted to his keeping.

I feel such conduct would not have dared to be shown by him under any other circumstances so pressing. Had this refusal been known by the members of the Craft, there is no doubt the Grand Lodge would have taken immediate steps to have had the funeral rites respectfully completed to a much loved brother. Great credit is due to the Christian minister who performed the burial ceremony at a moment's notice.

As a Freemason, I will ask Mr. Cuffe, "What he will do when he is called upon to perform Mass for the repose of the soul of His Holiness, the Pope?" It is a well-known fact that the Pope is a Mason, and none the worse for it. Respecting Mr. Cuffe's letter to the Times, "What does he know, or how can he know about Freemasonry?" It shows his narrowness of mind and simplicity of those grand principles which he ought to know, and if known, forgets to teach—Brotherly love, kindness, hope, and charity.

I shall be pleased to contribute a guinea towards a fund to defray the expenses, that this case may be at once laid before His Royal Highness, the Commander-in-Chief, who is the soldier's friend, and who will most assuredly see that justice is done, for without doubt Mr. Cuffe has most deservedly brought upon himself the odium of the British army. He receives his pay from the State, and his duty is to teach and to inculcate the principles of kindness, love, and charity to those who are entrusted to his care. I most fervently hope that the military brethren will at once take such steps as may be legal, and show their confères that the conduct of Mr. Cuffe cannot be tolerated. His contumacy should be at once resented, for as a Roman Catholic priest, he is entirely unfitted for that office, or as a Chaplain, and ought at once be turned out of the army with disgrace.

If the most eminent men of the present age do not feel it derogatory to use the Trowel, is it not daring insolence and cool effrontery on the part of Mr. Cuffe to refuse to do what he is actually paid for as a servant?

If Mr. Gladstone's Government feel satisfied with Mr. Cuffe's conduct, I most sincerely hope that Mr. Disraeli's Government will take a different view of the case, and through the proper authorities cause an inquiry at once to be made, which will not only satisfy the friends of the deceased, brethren of the Roman Catholic persuasion, but members of the Craft in general.

I am, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

CHARITY.

OUR MASONIC CHARITIES.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In your excellent leader on the above subject in last Saturday's Freemason, you asked the pertinent question, "How can we make the support of our great charities more general and more regular in our order?"

Your assertion that they are not sufficiently known and advertised must be acknowledged by all who examine the subject in the most cursory manner, and if the money spent in advertising in non-Masonic journal were partially spent in making known the claims of our various charities, through the recognised organs of the Craft, a better knowledge of these institutions would prevail amongst us, and a subscription list increasing year by year would be the result.

All our charities stand much in need of assistance in the shape of increased annual or other subscriptions. There is a great need for a scheme that would collect amounts (in many cases in smaller sums than one guinea) from the very large number of the brethren who do not subscribe. No doubt there are very many of these brethren who, without any detriment to themselves or connections, could subscribe largely, and materially assist our charities. There are also, it must be admitted, many who though filling a respectable position in life, yet hardly feel justified, considering the many claims they have daily upon their purses, in subscribing the minimum amount required to appear on the subscription lists as individual donors or annual subscribers, but the great majority of whom would subscribe a small sum annually in support of one or all of the Masonic charities. Within a recent period a sum of £10 10s., and a further sum of £15 15s. was readily raised in my own lodge in this manner. In the latter case a worthy Past Master (who desired his name to be kept secret) giving £5 5s. additional on condition that the other members subscribed £15 5s. An appeal was made, and the amount was quickly raised, principally in sums of five and ten shillings each. Could not the managers of our charities devise and carry out some scheme by which an annual appeal could be made to every member of our craft for a subscription, be it ever so small? A joint appeal would, in my opinion, be best, as if an appeal was made separately on behalf of each charity it might become irksome, and tend to defeat the object in view. But to carry a plan of this sort out would require thorough organisation to reach every lodge and member, and should, to be effectual, receive a large measure of countenance from the higher powers in Masonry, some of whom ought to take an active part in the formation and permanent working of a special charity committee in connection with each Province, Lodge, and Chapter, for the purpose of collecting these small subscriptions. How many would refuse to pay a small amount yearly towards such a committee, and if only half the non-subscribers contributed five shillings each, a further sum of £5,000 would annually be added to the income of these very deserving charities. And what an amount of good this would do every year amongst us? There are also very many Chapters and Lodges who either do not appear at all as subscribing to the charities—or, if they do subscribe, the amount is not at all worthy of them. Could the claims of the charities be brought prominently before the notice of individual members, I am confident a large increase would soon be perceived in the amounts subscribed by Lodges and Chapters also, and Masonry pure and simple would become more and more a living reality, and would become less and less a series of gatherings, the only apparent aim of which appears to be the display of glittering jewels and a participation in the joys of the banqueting table.

Will some distinguished brother take the lead? A small beginning steadily worked out must in the end—and that not far off—become successful, and produce great results. Can Bros. Binckes, Little, and Terry, induce some good hardworking Mason whose name is well known, to make a commencement, and appeal to his brethren for their active co-operation. I need not add, that what little aid I could give would be ready and cheerfully given, and I have no doubt the Freemason would give its active support in every way.

Yours fraternally,

OLIVER'S MASONIC JURISPRUDENCE.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

The Grand Master who declared that, a "Masons' Lodge is a Masons' Church, and that no qualified brethren could be legally refused admittance, &c." as quoted by you, in last week's issue, from the new Edition of "Oliver's Masonic Jurisprudence" was H.R.H. the Duke of Sussex.

Yours fraternally,

THE NEW WORK STYLED "VERITAS."

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Would you kindly allow me space in your periodical to draw your attention and that of your readers to a work of a very unique character which has just made its appearance, as will be seen by the following Trade circular.

The subjoined obituary notice of our Brother, the author of Veritas, was published in the London Illustrated News, on the 3rd of January instant:—

"On the 22nd ult., in London, Henry Melville, aged 72. He was the author of a very intelligent work on the Australian colonies, where he was known as the father of the Australian press. More than forty years ago he was engaged in printing a work on Buddhism, which led him to investigate the origin of Eastern religions; and, as his vigorous intellect took no historical tradition for granted, he tested as he went, until rewarded by the discovery, one by one, of the Median and Persian laws, heretofore the oral, religious secret of Freemasonry, as well as by the discovery of the use of the keys of knowledge, still worn by Royal Arch Masons. His great work 'Veritas,' solving biblical and historical problems, by means of the laws and keys, was in the hands of the bookbinders at the time of his death, and is a solemn termination of his work in the Divine cause of Truth."

The opinions of religious reformers hitherto having been based upon their reasoning faculties alone, gave rise to various biblical interpretations and hence to conflicting creeds. But, it would now appear, from the discoveries set forth in "Veritas," that science is to supersede reason by demonstrating that the Bible is a record of Celestial and not of Terrestrial history, whence the cause of so many mysterious passages therein. Therefore it becomes an all absorbing question to know whether the discoveries are true or false? For if the former, then the future religion of civilization will necessarily become Masonic, or finely and simply theistic; but if the latter, then sectarianism will, peradventure, as heretofore, continue to abound to the end of time.

A friend whom I wished to write a review of "Veritas," thus replied:—

"If I had ever written a review—which I have not—and if I had written a hundred on unscientific subjects this would be no preparation for the task which you propose to me. In the first place the whole matter of Bro. Melville's discoveries was thrust upon me unexpectedly. I never entered earnestly into his science—never acquired more than the most superficial smattering of it—and was only interested in it as one of the interior senses of Scripture—going hand in hand with the spiritual sense of Swedenborg in shewing forth the inspiration of the Great Book written like no other. I could never devote time or patience now to the accurate acquirement of knowledge, which however wonderful, is a purely mechanical system—or to the practical application of it to Scripture or to history, &c., &c. Such a review should be undertaken by a man of profound insight into the relations between different mythological systems—should have gone deep into Philology—should have a passion for puzzles, and the long-suffering of a chess player—surely there can be no lack among Masons of able and learned men—men of science and research, who would take up and do justice to the subject, which I could never do were I to give my life to it. I got a copy of "Veritas" which is every thing that can be desired in the way of typography, illustration, &c., and I sincerely hope it may have an extensive sale."

"Yours Sincerely,"

Individually I regard the discoveries as a precious means of restoring man to the unmythified worship of his Omnipresent and adorable Creator—the Great Architect of the Universe.

I remain dear Sir,

Yours fraternally,

WALTER SPENCER.

THE GREAT MASONIC MYSTERY.

The first, last, and greatest mystery into which man ever was or shall be initiated, is death. In comparison with its sublime realities, the mysteries of Freemasonry are the faintest types or shadows. None have penetrated the darkness of the grave, and returned; its portals open only to the advancing, never to the retiring traveller. No expose of the secrets of the grave has been published, or ever will be; the obligation taken at death cannot be broken. And death is the gateway to eternity, the introduction to that incomprehensible celestial mystery, the immortality of the soul, the crowning glory of human nature, the link which affiliates man to God. We never tire of contemplating this great Masonic Doctrine, so positively taught both at the making and the burial of a Master Mason. At the Mason's birth and the Mason's death our Fraternity vividly impresses upon every Brother present the truth "that we have an immortal part within us which shall survive the grave, and shall never, never die." We propose to trace the dawning of this truth upon the human understanding, whence we may perhaps derive some curious and profitable thoughts.

To this day, we say that in the tomb man rests from his labors, and we express the wish that the earth may rest lightly upon him. These identical expressions are to be found in Homer's Iliad, and the other early Greek and Latin classics. Their origin was derived from the quaint belief of the ancient Romans and Greeks that the soul was buried with the body in the grave, and remained there, they never dreaming that any save their heroes were translated after death to a celestial home. They buried their dead as our American Indians do theirs, with their clothing and arms by their side; and once a year wine and milk were poured on the tomb, and cakes, fruits, flowers and perfumes were placed upon it. They had no idea of rewards and punishments in the hereafter, but their dead were to them purified, sacred beings—subterranean gods.

The idle belief in ghosts, which has survived, to a certain extent, until this nineteenth century, probably had its origin in the ancient custom to which we have referred. Burial was thought to be necessary to the happiness of the dead; the soul unentombed was a vagrant upon the earth, a phantom, a ghost, miserable itself, and the cause of misery to others. Criminals found guilty of heinous offences were adjudged to be slain, and left unburied—a punishment which even the most degraded shuddered at, since it involved their souls as well as their bodies, and was well nigh eternal in duration.

We have mentioned the fact of annual offerings of food being made at the graves of the deceased; this was for the physical sustenance of their bodies and souls. Plutarch relates that after the Battle of Plataea (B.C. 479), when the slain were buried the statesmen volunteered to offer the funeral feast every year; and he makes this remarkable statement in his life of Aristides that this ceremony was still performed, his personal knowledge, and he himself witnessed the six hundredth anniversary of this affords a wonderful testimony to lasting hold this curious partial doctrine of the immortality of the soul had taken of the minds of those who were unenlightened our Great Light, the Holy Bible.

This worship of the dead, or rather of the immortal part of man after death, is not yet obsolete. The Hindoos to-day make offerings upon the graves of their ancestors, to their spirits, and the sacred books of India refer to these as constituting the most ancient worship among men.

As Freemasons we place our trust in one only true and living God, the Grand Architect of the Universe. The primitive heathen religion to which we have been referring was and is exactly the reverse of this. Every family had its god, who belonged to it alone. This god was the father of the family, if deceased,—or if still living, the last lineal ancestor who was deceased. All the children gathered around one altar, that of the home. Their house was their sanctuary. This religion of the household was a powerful family tie. There is at once an analogy and a contrast to Freemasonry suggested by it. The members of each family were united by a tie in some respects as strong as that of our Fraternity, in that their worship separated them from the whole outside world. They were a unit, severed from all other family units; and each man loved his home as we now love our church or our Lodge. It was the centre of his belief, his hopes and his love. But, by way of contrast, charity was a principle unknown to ancient morality. Its family religion was exclusive and selfish. All outside of it were enemies, and even the god of one's neighbour was a hostile god. Not so with us. The Lord of the Universe, the World Builder, is also our family God; and we respect the religion of every member of the Craft, be he Christian or Hebrew, Greek or Mohammedan. Our charity is not only as broad as the Craft, but as wide as the world.

There is another analogy between the primitive morality and that of Masonry. A repast, or banquet, constituted an integral part of the former. This meal was accompanied by prayer and libations. We have an exemplification of it most clearly in the municipal religion of ancient Rome. Tables were spread in the streets, and the whole people ate at them. Homer's Odyssey gives us an account of the same custom in Greece that Virgil describes in his Æneid. As each family in Italy had its god, so had each city, and it was in his honour that the sacred meal was partaken. We may here remind the reader that the most important observance of the Christian Church is a feast—the Lord's Supper; and Freemasons have not been forgetful of the value of the banquet as a powerful means of cementing Brother to Brother in the bonds of fraternal love.

Freemasons have cause for earnest congratulation, in that they possess the true faith, in the unity of God and the immortality of the soul; and the true practice—that of a charity which never faileth. Rejecting the superstitious, and adopting the most approved customs of the past, we stand the pattern Fraternity of the world. The mysteries of Freemasonry are many, but the greatest of them all is the immortality of the soul.—The Keystone.

A HISTORIC BIBLE.

In St. John's Lodge No. 1, A. F. and A. M., of Newark, N. J., there is an old black letter Bible, printed in 1549. This bible is of Thomas Matthew's translation, a folio in the Gothic letter, and was printed by "Ihon Day and William Seres." The title-page to the Bible is gone, but the title-page to the New Testament is there, and perfect, with the date 1549, and it is, otherwise, in good condition, having the last leaf with the colophon and printers' names. It was presented to the lodge in the last century, by an emigrant from the mother country, the emigrant having previously affiliated with the lodge. In the year 1825, it was stolen from the lodge, and remained away for twenty-five years, and in 1850 was traced to Philadelphia, and finally recovered and returned to the lodge in 1857. During the wanderings of these thirty-two years it lost its first title-page, but also gained something, in having pasted on the inside of the cover a rare engraved portrait of Washington, one which the writer, although having seen many collections of Washington portraits, never remembers seeing before.

At the time Washington had his head-quarters in Morristown, N. J., a part of the jewels and furniture of St. John's Lodge was loaned to the "Travelling Lodge," formed in the part of the Colonial army then wintering at Morristown. Among the things so loaned was this Bible, and during the winter, General the Marquis of Lafayette, then with the army, was entered, passed, and raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason. This Bible was used in the ceremonies, and Lafayette took his obligations upon it. It is known that Washington officiated as "Master" on these occasions. The associations connected with this Bible make it an interesting object to all Masons, while its age and antiquity give it value to the book lover and antiquarian. Lowndes gives its first title thus:—

The Byble
Nowe lately with greate industry and Diligence recognized
(by Edm. Becke).
Lond. by Ihon Daye and William Seres.
17 Aug. 1549.

And further says that there are copies of this impression in the Lambeth, British Museum, Bodleian and other libraries. A copy, with one leaf wanting, sold at auction for £6 16s.; other copies sold for various sums, one as high as £40. The facts in reference to the Bible having been used during the "making" of Lafayette were obtained from several old members of the lodge, one of these members being now eighty years of age. He, with the others, had the circumstances related to him by other earlier members who assisted at or were known to those who did so assist at the ceremonies above related. It is unnecessary to tell any member of the Craft that information derived from thorough Masons in regard to matters of this kind are likely to be very correct. The Master's chair used on the occasion, though much worn, is looked on with veneration because it once sustained the form of the Father of his Country.—American Bibliopolist.

AN ACROSTIC.

Onward thro' this life, a path unknown we tread;
Under different aspects, to seek our daily bread.
Raised far from want are some, who to others lend
Most willingly a helping hand, and the poor befriend.
Assistance to the aged freely give, without display, Succouring the orphan, and deem it duty, every day.
On behalf of our charities we make this appeal,
Needing your aid, the widow's wounds to heal.
Illimitable the wealth contained throughout the land;
Collegued are men as stewards by the Creator's hand.
Collecting and dispensing, each according to his Trust;
Humbly; rich and poor, this duty do they must.
Assistance for the decayed Mason, wife and child we ask—
Render your aid freely: then easy is our task.
In turn at the coming Festivals your stewards will deliver
To each charity an account—we pray thee be giver.
Impelled by sympathy; in charity's great name
Each give his mite—if small, 'tis just the same.
Should means prevent a larger sum; still good your aim. F. F.

WHAT IS FREEMASONRY? BY BRO. E. NAVARRE, P.M.

In consequence of the repeated attacks of which Freemasonry is continually the object, we think it necessary to present a few observations which, although far from being new, cannot nevertheless be too often repeated.

What is Freemasonry, and what is its object? In its essence Freemasonry is nothing less than the practice of virtue and good breeding works fraternity and the love of well doing. As such it presents itself from its origin, although it may have experienced changes in its modification, organization, or government, required by the wants of the times, it has never deviated from those noble principles which make the richness of its science, and which render it eternally invincible. To every man who desires to know, it says, knock and it shall be opened unto thee, ask and it shall be given unto thee, seek and thou shalt find. How many men of the world who have come under its influence have been thankful for the great benefits they have obtained; how many ignorant or unjust have seen themselves, to their great astonishment, become brothers virtuous, if not learned, the consequence of the principles of light and truth which have been inculcated?

In our temples the profane axiom, "Mondus vult decipit ergo decipiatur," (The world wants to be cheated then let us cheat it), is altogether unknown, and the whole truth is one of its most brilliant lights. Concord and friendship are held in the highest veneration, and as a father pitieth his children, so Freemasonry cherishes its children. It has the same anxious solicitude for all its offspring, whether princes, nobles, merchants, or artisans, and it never recognises the slightest difference in them, whether English, French, Americans or Greeks, Russians, or Spaniards, or Prussians, the same path is open to all, for it is only by work that the fruit is gathered. But to be recipients of those generous gifts, there are duties which we must perform (we cannot shrink from), but which, nevertheless, are easy to fulfil to a man of noble and generous heart animated with sentiments of well doing, of beauty, and of truth. We will consider for a moment this essentially capital point, because it constitutes precisely the strength of our Great Family, and causes at the same time the vain attack of the prejudiced, the falsehood, hypocrisy, ignorance, or wickedness of societies of men which will fall the day when the principles of Light and Truth shall prevail. In our temples the "Bond of Unity," which animates us, obliges us to contract express obligations from which we dare not deviate, without running the danger of a terrible chastisement, which will meet us at every point, by the means of the fifteen millions of children possessed by Freemasonry on the face of the earth. It may be understood by that alone how much the Freemason is urged to meditation before committing an action which may by one fell stroke, cause his destruction. On the other side we see every day the profane thoughtless commit a wrong action as easy as he would commit a right. Nothing binds him, nothing attracts him. He feels himself alone, and hence, careless of his actions, hence, our strength. By the means of a sign, by a word, everywhere a brother is found, a friend who can console you and succour you, love you. Without constraint, without affectation, you can tell your all, you can confide in him, and nothing will ever transpire; you can receive without shame the help he offers you, because in "Freemasonry," the left hand knoweth not what the right hand doeth. In fact, never in this wicked world a society practices better these beautiful maxims of the philosopher "par excellence"—Christ—Love, succour and honour one another—"Do unto others as you would they should do unto you"—Peace and concord, union and friendship, fraternity and solidity (unity), among all. Such is Freemasonry.

To receive all men with indulgence who are willing, instruct them if they know not, correct them if imperfect, give them to understand if they are ignorant of the art of well-doing, of beauty, and of truth, the respect we owe to each other the protection of the weak against the strong, of the widow and orphan, the love of brethren the consolation of the afflicted, the tolerance of all high aspirations when based upon honest sentiments. Freemasonry, as we have already said, numbers about fifteen millions of children upon the earth, all capable of understanding each other. Who knows but that one day it will solve that great problem so long sought for by the learned, "an universal language."

Oh, profane world! tell us is there in thy bosom a group of men who understand to such perfection the love of well-doing, of justice, and of fraternity.

THE "SCARBOROUGH MS." CANADA.

The Masonic students of both hemispheres, and particularly those in the United States and Great Britain, will be delighted to hear that the MS. to which we directed attention some little time since, and which Bros. Norton and Hyneman, of the United States, have been most energetic in their exertions to trace, has at last been discovered, and is now in the possession of an accomplished Mason, resident in Hamilton, viz., Bro. J. B. Harris, Grand Secretary. Bro. Hyneman, per Bro. Norton, kindly sent me a transcript of the MS. in question which appeared in the Mirror and Keystone (edited by the former) on August 22nd, 1866, and as reference was made therein to its being dated 1505, we felt quite certain that the early period ascribed to it was an error, but alas, on enquiries being made of the Rev. J. Wilton Kerr, who owned it, he had lent it, and the brother to whom he had loaned the precious document having died, his books and papers were scattered?

However, his friends renewed the search, and advertised right and left for the MS. and the result is that the valuable record is placed for security in the hands of the Grand Secretary of Canada.

A copy of this "old charge" has been published in the Craftsman and Canadian Masonic Record for this month, and in an editorial notice we find that 1705 is the right date of the MS. and not 1505, the 7 having been altered to 5, and hence the erroneous date of the sixteenth century.

The editor informs us that a microscopic examination shows a difference in the colour of the ink between that part of the figure which makes a good seven, and that part which has been added if the seven has been transformed into five. It is a very awkward and unsymmetrical five as it stands; remove the part supposed to be added, and a very good seven remains. Our excellent Bro. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, M.A., and myself have christened this document the "Scarborough MS." because it was evidently transcribed for the Masons who assembled in that town, 10th July, 1705, in all probability by virtue of a deputation from the Old Lodge of York. We shall have occasion to refer to this old MS. again shortly, meanwhile we desire to express our delight at its discovery, and to thank Bro. George Kenning, the spirited Proprietor of the Freemason for the copy of the Craftsman announcing the fact.

MASONIC BIBLIOGRAPHY.

Mistakes will occur in the "best regulated families," and even among that excellent and useful body of men, "Printers." I have to call attention to three misprints in my last little communication, which otherwise might fairly lead Bro. Hogg to say to me "Physician heal thyself." By a redundancy of type, "Bremins" is printed for "Brahmins," and "Regnurs" for "Keymers," in my notice of Cleland's book. While as regards the Latin, it is clearly "canine" as it appeared in print. The quotation in the work is, "Antiquos ausus recludere fontes."

A. F. A. WOODFORD.

I wish also to call attention to a curious and somewhat scarce work, entitled "Rosæ Crucis Frater," with a very long title page, which I need not transcribe. It is written by S. Mundum Christopheri F. Theosophiæ ac Pansophiæ Amantem, and is printed in 1619, though no name of place is given. The work is in German, and has as the heading of the pages, "Bruder Spiegel," and is in truth a most violent attack on the Rosicrucian Fraternity.

In it allusion is made to another work of the writer, termed "Speck auf der Fallen," and also to a Rosicrucian work, "Clypeum Veritatis," which I have not seen. Perhaps Bro. Hughan has.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR. Includes an illustration of a bottle and a circular seal with a figure.

Opium, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief to Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such false remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which is at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdues cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment of this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Nausea, Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 12s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.

* Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had gratis of all Chemists.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

CLARKE'S WORLD FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE. Includes a logo with a figure.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

BOLTON.—Anchor and Hope Lodge (No. 37).—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Monday, 2nd March, in Freemasons' Hall, Church Institute, Bolton. There were present Bros. William Slater, W.M.; James Walker, S.W.; W. Horrocks, J.W.; E. Ainsworth, r.; R. K. Freeman, S.D.; James Brown, D.; Samuel Crowther, I.G.; G. P. Brockbank, Prov. G. Deacon; Reuben Mitchell, P. Prov. Sword Bearer; J. H. Winder, P. Prov. G. Assistant; John Robinson; Samuel Isherwood; W. Knowles; James Pilkington; and James Newton, P.M.'s; Walter Pennington, W.M. 678; I. F. Ainsworth. The lodge being opened, the rules were confirmed, and the W.M. practised officers by opening up to the third degree and going down to the first. A committee was appointed to co-operate with the other lodges in the town, with the view of suitably entertaining the members of Prov. G. Lodge, which it is understood will shortly be held in Bolton. A brother proposed as a joining member, and the lodge then closed.

IPSWICH.—British Union Lodge (No. 114).—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Ipswich, on Wednesday the 26th Feb., when there was a large muster of brethren present. The St. John's Festival Installation Banquet which had been postponed from December till now, in consequence of the illness in the family of the W.M., was celebrated on this occasion. Amongst those present were Bros. Peter de Lande Long, W.M.; J. Sanderson, Town Clerk of London, P.G.D. England; C. F. Long, P.M., P.G.D.C.; Rev. Sanderson, P.P.G.C., Chaplain of the lodge; W. Boby, P.S.G.W.; C. Schulen, D.C.; Emra Holmes, P.G. Reg., A.D.C., M.C.; P. Cornell, P.P.G.S.D.; Barber, P.G.O.; Clement Cobbold, Chief Officer of Legation, Lisbon, Knight of the Order of the Rose, 33° of Brazil; A. G. S.W.; J. J. Burton, J.W.; Rev. A. G. J. D.; Rev. J. B. Tweed, I.G.; G. H. Millor, S.D.; and others. Visiting Officers—G. Crosswell, W.M. Prince of Wales No. 959; A. Gamman, P.G.S.B., W.M. Perfect Friendship Lodge; and Stephen King, P.P.G.S.D., Secretary of the Perfect Friendship Lodge. The lodge having been duly opened, and the necessary business transacted, a candidate was proposed for initiation and the lodge was afterwards closed in accordance with solemn prayer. A very quiet and uneventful evening was spent in the adjoining room, to which the brethren adjourned, and in which ample justice was done to the candidates, grace having been said in the conclusion, the W.M. rose, and in brief terms, proposed "The Queen and the King" which was given with all due honour. The singing of the solo of the National Anthem and the brethren joining in with the fervour. In proposing "The Grand Marquis of Ripon," the W.M. had the brethren in the provinces had the vast amount of work the Grand Master had to perform, or how well he performed it. As a London Mason he could tell them how ably Lord Ripon filled his high office. The toast was drunk with due honour. The next toast was "P.G.M., H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, and the rest of the Grand Officers Past and Present." Bro. Minckton, Past Grand Deacon of England responded in admirable and well chosen language, and in a clear ringing voice it was a pleasure to listen to. Two or three members of Grand Lodge had been expected that evening, but the W.M. announced that the Grand Secretary, Bro. Hervey was prevented by indisposition, and Bro. Whichcord, Grand Assistant Director of Ceremonies, who was also invited, had been unable to honour them. Much regret was expressed at the absence of the amiable and talented Grand Secretary, to whom the brethren would have liked to have shown hospitality. The W.M. stated, however, that during his year of office, Bro. Hervey would certainly make it his duty to visit the British Union, which announcement was received with applause. In proposing the health of "The R.W. Prov. Grand Master," the W.M. announced that he had received a letter from Lord Waveney, regretting his inability to attend, in consequence of a prior engagement that evening. His Lordship would have been cordially welcomed had he come amongst the brethren of the British of which lodge he is a member, and we are sure that we express the sentiments of the brethren when we hope that we may be able ere long to record a visit from the gallant and popular Provincial Grand Master. Next came the "The W.D.P.G.M. and the Provincial Officers." Bro. Boby, S.G.W. of Suffolk responded to the toast with his usual eloquence, and afterwards proposed, "The Masonic Charities" in a strain of power which evidently told on the brethren. The W.M. and Bro. Boby both expressed their deep regret and at the very serious illness of the Rev. E. J. Lockwood, the D.P.G.M., which prevented his being present amongst them that evening, and much sympathy was expressed with the venerable and greatly esteemed brother in his great affliction. The name of Bro. A. Gamman, W.M. of 225, "was coupled with the toast of the Visitors" and Bros. G. Crosswell, W.M. of 959; and S. B. King also responded. Bro. Clement Cobbold proposed the "Worshipful Master" in happy terms, and the toast was drunk with great cordiality. Bro. Long responded in few sensible and modest words. Bro. Sanderson responded to the "Officers of the Lodge" and took occasion to remark "that the British Union held confessedly the foremost place in Suffolk, and he believed the success and present proud position of the Lodge was due to the fact that the brethren had never accepted candidates as members of the lodge who they would not like to see occupy the position of Worshipful Master." Other toasts followed, and the evening was enlivened with songs and recitations from Bros. Turner, H. Miller, A. Gamman, A. D. George, Emra Holmes, and Rev. R. N. Sanderson, Bro. A. G. Barber, P.G.O. presiding with his usual ability at the piano. Owing to the inclemency of the weather several country members were prevented coming. Viscount Mahon, M.P., was also expected, but was unable to come at the last; but in spite of many disappointments, a most enjoyable evening was spent, and the brethren were loth to separate.

FILEY.—Royal Lodge (No. 643).—The above lodge held its usual installation meeting on the 9th of February, at Foord's Hotel, Filey, when there was a good attendance of the brethren and also of visitors from other lodges. After two initiations and the usual business of the lodge had been concluded, Bro. R. Simpson, J.W., was introduced, and was duly installed by Bro. Fletcher, P.M., Old Globe, 200, who kindly officiated in the absence of Bro. W. Hawkes, P.M., the respected Treasurer of the lodge, who is so well qualified efficiently to perform this interesting ceremony. The newly installed W.M. then proceeded to invest his officers as follows:—Bros. S. Rimmington, S.W.; W. Hawkes, P.M. Treas.; H. A. Darby, Sec.; C. Reynolds, S.D.; J. MacFaden, J.D.; J. Cowton, I.G.; Rev. N. Blane, P.M., and P.P.G.C. Chaplain. After the closing of the lodge the brethren adjourned to a bounteous and well-served banquet, provided by Bro. Kilby, of Foord's Hotel. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given from the chair, also several toasts, songs, and recitations by various brethren. On the health of the newly installed W.M. being drunk with due honour, the worthy brother made a very feeling and appropriate reply thereto, and some excellent speeches were delivered by Bros. Blane, the esteemed Chaplain, Taylor, Old Globe, 200, Armitage P.M., P.P.G.W., Fletcher, P.M. 200, and other brethren. It is worthy of remark that the newly installed W.M. is one of four brothers all of whom are outlying members of the lodges, and residing some miles distance from Filey, and four jollier fellows, or more true-hearted Masons it would be difficult to find in a long day's march.

WILLIAM PRESTON LODGE (No. 766).—An emergency meeting of this excellent lodge was held on Thursday evening, the 26th ultimo, at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, when three hours were fully occupied in getting through the business for which the meeting was convened. There were present Bros. W. W. Worrell, W.M.; A. Brawn, S.W.; J. Pringle, J.W.; G. J. Kain, P.M., Secretary; W. M. Newton, S.D.; G. Cragg, J.D.; G. Newman, P.M.; R. H. Whiteman, P.M.; B. Abbott, P.M.; E. Kidman, H. F. Partridge, C. Cutmore, F. Ince, P. Steinmann, S. Wilkinson, W. E. Newton, J. F. Honey, S. J. Emley, and the following visitors, Bros. G. W. West, 1287; H. Garrod, P.M., 749; G. W. Lay, 569; J. H. Broomhall, 569; and J. C. Dousing, 108. The W.M.'s character as a good workman was amply tested on this occasion, for the work upon the summons embraced the whole of the three ceremonies, which were performed with great ability and impressiveness by Bro. Worrell. In the first place Bro. Honey was raised to the to the sublime degree of M.M.; then Bros. Stephen John Emley, and Francis Ince were passed to the degree of F.C., and finally five initiates, viz., Mr. James Alfred Keen, Mr. James French, Mr. Henry Reissmann, Mr. George John Paull, and Mr. Robert Lyon were initiated into the mysteries and privileges of the first degree. The working of the W.M. was, as we have already said, excellent, and we must add that he is fortunate in his officers, who all performed their allotted share in the ruling and working of the lodge with great ability. The work was very accurately measured also, being, by the skill and assiduity displayed, completed in exactly the space—from five till eight—allotted to it. The work being concluded, the lodge was closed, and the members and their visitors sat down to an excellent supper in one of the commodious rooms adjoining that in which the lodge was held. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed by the W.M., and received the hearty welcome of the brethren present. Bro. Worrell being about to represent this lodge as a Steward at the forthcoming Festival for the Boys' School on the 11th inst, an excellent custom for the benefit of the charities, adopted in this lodge, was continued on this occasion. The custom is this, volunteers are invited to contribute half-guinea shares in a fund of twenty guineas, which is added to the list of the brother who is to represent the lodge, and this fund is divided into four £5 5s. life governorships which are ballotted for by the subscribers. We mention this with pleasure, as we think that on learning how successfully it works in the William Preston Lodge, many brethren, belonging to other lodges, may club together in whatever shares they please for the same object. On the occasion of which we are now writing, Bro. Newman, one of the energetic P.M.'s of the lodge, announced that there were still five half-guinea shares to be subscribed, and in less than five minutes the amount was completed. In proposing the health of the W.M. Bro. Newman said that Bro. Worrell was one of the William Preston's own children, and it gave them all great pleasure to reflect that it was a brother initiated in the lodge who now occupied the chair. They had five initiations present that evening, and to them he would say that five years ago Bro. Worrell occupied the same position. It was quite possible for them to follow on the same road. The more they knew of Bro. Worrell the more perfectly were they satisfied with all he did. He was having a very favourable year of office, and it was not at all unlikely that the William Preston Lodge would complete its mission as far as its numbers were concerned (it is limited to fifty members) before he vacated the chair. In conclusion Bro. Newman wished the W.M. a happy and prosperous Stewardship to the Boys' School. In reply the W.M. thanked Bro. Newman and the brethren present for the kind manner in which his health had been proposed and drunk, and for the kindness and good feeling which was being extended to him on all sides during his year of office. He trusted that when he retired from the chair he would be able to reflect that he had done his duty to the best of his ability. Bro. Newman had alluded to the number of initiates present, and he would add that for some time past such a thing as the full number of initiates had not been known in that lodge. He might say, for the information of the initiates, that, without a dispensation from Grand Lodge, that was the greatest number that could be initiated upon one occasion. He had not a personal knowledge of all of the initiates, but he was very much pleased with the attention they had paid to the ceremonies that evening; he trusted that they would continue the work as well as they commenced it, and he hoped that some at least of them would in due time rise to be W.M.'s of the William Preston Lodge. He concluded by proposing "The Health of the Initiates." This toast having been responded to by the Initiates, the W.M. rose and proposed "The Health of the Visitors" in doing which he remarked that they were always honoured by several; and he was happy to say that when their visitors had been once, they often came again, the sentiment "I have been there and still would go" which prompted their visitors the William Preston Lodge to be as a great compliment, because it proved that their brethren were gratified by a visit to the William Preston Lodge. The health of the Past Masters and that of the officers were also proposed by Bro. Worrell, in doing which he acknowledged the obligation the Master was always under to those who had preceded him in the chair. He believed that Masons had no conception of the amount of assistance rendered by the Past Masters until they had been through the chair. As regards the officers he said that however good a Master a lodge might possess the work could not be properly executed unless the efforts of the Master were heartily and efficiently seconded by his officers. He was happy to say that he was assisted by an excellent staff of officers, who knew their duties and had the interest of the lodge at heart. The Past Masters and officers having returned thanks the brethren separated after a remarkably satisfactory evening, memorable alike for excellent working in the lodge, and for the very pleasant social gathering which followed it.

KENNINGTON LODGE (No. 1381.)—A meeting of this lodge was held at the Surrey Club House on Tuesday last. The officers of this lodge for the year are—Bros. Koch, W.M.; Everett, S.W.; Gardner, J.W.; Hunt, S.D.; Painter, J.D.; Reeve, I.G.; Webb, W.S.; Page, P.M. Treasurer; and Stuart, P.M., Secretary; all of whom were present with the exception of Bro. Hunt. The minutes of the previous meeting having been passed, Bros. Moore, Farr, and Catchpool were raised to the sublime degree of M.M., and Bros. Phillpott, Walls, and Byfield passed as F.C. There were five gentlemen on the business paper to be initiated, but only one attended, viz., Mr. Bates, who was duly admitted a member of the Craft. The whole of the proceedings were carried out with considerable ability, the W.M. having the assistance of Bro. Pulsford, P.M.; and Bro. Mann, P.M. The W.M. then gave notice of motion that at the next meeting he should bring forward a scheme for the establishment of a benevolent fund in connection with the lodge, which he said was a thing greatly to be desired. There being no other business the lodge was duly closed. The banquet which followed was held in the commodious room adjoining the Club House and was of a recherche description. The usual and Craft toasts were given by the W.M. and responded to with great fire and spirit by the brethren assembled. "The Health of the Past Masters" present at the banquet, namely, Bros. Pulsford, Page, Mann, Pope, and Stuart, was well received, and responded to by Bro. Mann for the whole. The "Visitors" toast was proposed, duly acknowledged and replied to by Bro. Myers. Between the toasts the lodge was enlivened by the harmony of Bros. T. C. Walls, Phillpott, Webb, Gardner, and the tenor singing of the first named brother in the popular ballads "Tom Bowling" and "Love's Request" appearing to give great satisfaction to the lodge. The Tyler's toast completed the proceedings, which were thoroughly successful.

LEICESTER.—Commercial Lodge (No. 1391). The second Masonic ball in connection with this enterprising and prosperous lodge was held at the Freemasons' Hall, Halford-street, on Monday evening, the 23rd ult, in aid of the Masonic Institution for Girls, under the most distinguished patronage. There was a numerous attendance of the brethren, and the various insignia of the different degrees, from the humble Fellow Craft to the exalted Rose Croix, contrasted with the rich dresses of the ladies, presented a gay and brilliant effect. Among those present were Bros. J. Halford, W.M.; J. B. Hall, I.P.M.; A. Palmer, W.M. 279; F. J. Baines, W.M. 523; C. Stretton, P.M., P.P.G.W.; W. Weare, W.M., Fowke Lodge; J. M. McAllister, W.M. elect, Fowke Lodge; J. Thorpe, J.W. 523; L. L. Attwood, S. Tebbutt, B. Moore, G. Brown, J. G. Crofts, Dr. Meadows, C. Wilkinson, O. Law, J. S. Tomlin, W. R. Tomlin, J. Hunter, J. W. Quin, — Roberts, and others. The ladies present were Mrs. Wilkinson, Mrs. J. S. Tomlin, Mrs. Weare, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Tebbutt, Mrs. Law, Miss Hewlings, Miss Hunter, Miss E. Hunter, Miss Weare, Miss Attwood, Miss Chamberlain, Misses Church, Miss Wade, Miss Winks, Miss Healey, &c. Dancing commenced at nine o'clock, to the stirring strains of Bro. H. Nicholson's celebrated wad rille band, and the enjoyment of the guests was promoted in a very high degree by the affability and brotherly courtesy of Bro. Halford, W.M., and Bro. J. B. Hall, I.P.M. The arrangements for the refreshment department were equal to the requirements, and fancy of the most fastidious taste, and reflected great credit on the care and forethought of the Stewards, and Mr. Fox deserved the especial thanks for the abundance, and excellence of the wines and other dainties supplied on the occasion.

The minutes of the previous chapter were read and confirmed, and five candidates and one joining member were balloted for. All below the rank of P.Z., then retired, and Comp. Samuel Haynes, M.E.Z., then took the throne, Comp. Ashmore P.Z., acting as H., and Comp. Mott, P.Z., as J., and proceeded to instal Comp.

Jesse Banning, as First Principal. Comp. Ashmore installed Comp. Holland, as H.; and Comp. Mott, installed Comp. W. J. Lunt, P.Z., as J. The work of installation was performed with an efficiency scarcely ever excelled in the division. The newly installed Principals were then saluted in the usual form, and the M.E.Z. subsequently invested the following as his officers:—Comps. Shaw, S.E.; Ballard, S.N. Boulton, P.S.; T. Ashmore, P.Z., Treas.; Pett Ball, was re-elected and invested as Janitor. The accounts of the retiring Treasurer (Comp. Shaw) were read and passed, and a vote of thanks to him was ordered to be recorded on the minutes for the very flourishing state in which he had left the funds of the Chapter. The M.E.Z. then in a very complimentary speech, presented beautiful P.Z. jewel to Comp. Haynes, I.P.Z. who acknowledged the gift in a neat speech. He thanked the companions of the chapter for the very handsome present, and hoped they might have broods of P.Z.'s, superior to all that had gone before. Wishing even increased prosperity to the chapter, and again thanking the companions for their present, Comp. Haynes concluded in a very happy manner. The P.S. then appointed Comp. Millikin, as Senior A.S., and Comp. Careful, as Junior A.S. Three brethren were proposed for installation, and after hearty good wishes had been given from several chapters, the business was brought to a close. The companions at once proceeded to a most substantial banquet, and after the cloth had been drawn, Comp. Jesse Banning, M.E.Z., in proposing "The Queen" spoke as follows:—Companions, we have the happiness to reside in a country where law is supreme and loyalty is deeply rooted in the hearts of the people, but companions, we have the additional privilege of membership in a society wherein reverence for those principles is inculcated in an eminent degree. It is therefore unnecessary for me to expatiate on the many excellent qualities, social and domestic virtues of the object of my toast, all I need to do is to ask you to unite with me in drinking to "The Health, long life and continued happiness of Her Majesty the Queen." The usual Masonic toasts were afterwards proposed, and a very pleasant evening was spent.

THE WHITTINGTON CHAPTER (No. 862) held a convocation at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street on Friday, February 27th. Present, Comps. J. Weaver, M.E.Z.; J. Brett as H.; W. Q. H. Jones, J.W.; F. Smith, N.; — Bingham, P.S. G. Pritchard, 1st A.S.; W. A. Tinney, 2nd A.S. and F. Pritchard, Visitor, Companion E.S.Q. M.E.Z. Joppa Chapter. The chapter was opened in solemn form. Letters of apology were read from the candidates for exaltation for the non-attendance; the bye-laws were submitted, approved, and resolved that they be printed in the form of a book. Proposed, seconded, and carried unanimously, that the exaltation fee be raised after the next convocation in May. The chapter was then closed in solemn form, and the Companions adjourned to the banquet-room, where a very pleasant evening was spent.

Mark Masonry.

IPSWICH.—Albert Victor Mark Lodge. An emergency meeting of this lodge was held Monday, 23rd ult., for the purpose of advancing several brethren, when there were present, Bro. Rev. R. N. Sanderson, P.M.M., P.G. Chap. England; C. T. Townsend, P.M.M., P.G.I. Emra Holmes, P.M.M., Grand Inspector Works; E. J. Robertson, W.M.; G. Cresswell, S.W.; E. Dorling; J. Townsend, J.W.; A. Cuckow; Chinnock; J. A. Pettit; W. T. We gate; Bennett, &c., &c. The lodge having been opened in due form, Bro. Robertson resigned, and gavel into the hands of Bro. Sanderson, and ballot having been taken for Bros. Frederick William Garnham, and Thomas Osmond, of Prince of Wales Lodge; and Walter G. Wallf and William Randell, of 433; they were elected, obligated, and advanced in the honours of the degree of Mark Master Mason. After other positions had been received, the lodge was dissolved, and the brethren retired for refreshment. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given in the chair, Bro. Sanderson proposing to toast the Grand Officers. In the course of the well chosen and sensible remarks, he observed that the appointment of Grand Officers was not in the hands of a clique. That merit alone was considered, and that he could not but remark upon the admirable manner in which the affairs of Grand Mark Lodge were conducted. The health of the W.M., Bro. Dorling, the newly advanced brethren, and others, were all given, and responded to with great cordiality. Several contributed to the harmony of the evening, and the brethren separated at a late hour.

GLASGOW.—Union and Crown Lodge (No. 103), met on Monday, February 23, Bro. A. M. Wright, R.W.M., presiding, J. Martin, S.M.; J. Moir, S.W.; J. Thomas, J.W.; J. Gilles, P.M. Sec.; J. Cochran, T. Minnie, S.D.; and a large attendance of members and visitors. The work consisted of one initiation and a passing, both ceremonies being performed by the R.W.M., in a way that is seldom surpassed. The lodge having been called to refreshment, the Master, in proposing "The Provincial Grand Lodge," said that though every lodge in the province always heartily responded to that sentiment, still it had peculiar claims on the Lodge Union and Crown, for she had the honour of having two of their P.M.'s as Prov. Grand Officers, neither could he forget the kindness of Bro. F. A. Barrow, at their festival last week. Bro. Gilles a P.M. of the lodge, and P.G.S.B., in reply, spoke of the harmony subsisting not only in the Prov. G.L. itself, but also between the daughter lodges, he also gave some interesting particulars relative to P.G.L. Benevolent Fund, stating they had now £400 at interest, and yet at the meeting last week they had passed grants to five deserving cases, in each instance being more than double the amount that was formerly considered the maximum grant. The W. gave "The Visiting Brethren." The Lodge Union had always maintained a name for welcoming visitors, he was pleased to see so many on the night, he welcomed them all, but would particularly name Bro. G. Weston, R.W.M. of Glasgow; and Bro. G. W. Wheeler. Bro. Weston carefully acknowledged the compliment, as well as the kind services of their Master in working the degree for him at his last lodge meeting. Bro. Wheeler also replied, and proposed "The Visiting Brethren," this list of illustrious P.M.'s the glory of whom was sure would be equalled if not eclipsed by the present Master. Bro. Wright, on behalf of the lodge, thanked Bro. Wheeler for his flattering remarks, and would endeavour to give the praise now given. He then gave the toast of the evening.

GLASGOW.—Athol Lodge (No. 413) met on Monday, February 24th, Bro. J. Wallace, M., in the chair. There was a good attendance of members and visitors. Three degrees were passed to the second degree, the ceremony being excellently performed by Bro. John I.P.M. Arrangements were then made for the annual festival on the 27th prox.

GLASGOW.—Cathedral Chapter (No. 67) met on Monday, February, at 22, Struthers-street, and only a small attendance of the members. The work was well performed by Comps. Taylor, and Pearce.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Caledonian (No. 392).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held in their own lodge room, in the Free-masons' Hall, George-street, Edinburgh, on the evening of Thursday, 25th February, 1874. Bro. Swanson, R.W. Master, occupied the place of the Warden in their places, Bro C. I. was deferred being read in consequence of the Secretary's absence, until the next monthly meeting. The lodge having received, a petition was read by the acting Master, signed and recommended in regular form by Mr. W. Wells, merchant, Glasgow, to be received a member of the ancient and modern lodges. The ballot having been taken and found unanimous, the first degree was then conferred on Mr. Wells. Amongst the Past Masters present were Bro. T. H. Douglas, Chalmers, I. Paton, and W. Wotherspoon. The visitors were Bro. J. Macpherson, No. 8, and Bro. J. Ford, R.W.M. 506. The R.W.M. asked in the east, west, and south if there were any further business, saying that as he intended visiting the Lodge St. Clair ball, he would not call the Lodge to refreshment that evening. The brethren agreeing to this, and there being no further business, the lodge was closed in due and ample form. The regular meetings of this lodge are held on the second and fourth Thursdays of the months of January, February, March, April, September, October, November, and December, and emergencies when required.

PRESENTATION TO BRO. J. BOWES P.M., P.Z., PROV. G. REG., &c., OF WARRINGTON.

Bro. Bowes has long been known as an active working Mason in both West Lancashire and the more northern province of Cumberland and Westmoreland, and for the past dozen years he has held the office of Hon. Sec. of the Lodge of Lights, No. 48. Some months since Bro. Bowes addressed a circular (which we published at the time) to the members, referring to his long services, and seeking official relief. The brethren reluctantly complied with his request, and the lodge voted him a handsome jewel as a small acknowledgement of its obligations. This, however, was not deemed a sufficient recognition by many, and it was determined to supplement it with an address and purse of gold. The matter was taken up warmly by the W.M. of No. 148, Bro. John Harding, and Bro. D. W. Finney, P.M., etc., and on Tuesday, 3rd inst., those two brethren, representing the subscribers, made the presentation. The address, which is artistically inscribed on vellum, richly illuminated, and handsomely framed, was read, at the request of the W.M., by Bro. Finney, and ran as follows:—

"To Bro. John Bowes, P.M., P.Z., &c., Warrington.

"Dear Sir and Brother,

"On behalf of a number of brethren of our ancient and noble Craft, resident in Warrington, and the neighbourhood, we beg your acceptance of this purse of fifty sovereigns, as a slight mark of their appreciation of your great Masonic worth.

"Your services, freely rendered, to Freemasonry in this part of the province of West Lancashire, have been greatly appreciated and have tended in no small degree to raise its character and tone among us.

"Several brethren from distant provinces have likewise expressed the pleasure they felt in being allowed to subscribe to this testimonial.

Trusting that T.G.A.O.T.U. may abundantly bless both you and yours,

"We are dear sir, and brother, on behalf of the subscribers, yours very fraternally,

"JOHN HARDING, W.M. 148.

"D. W. FINNEY, P.M. 148."

Bro. Finney then said: Bro. Bowes—Bro. Harding and myself have been deputed by a number of brethren resident in Warrington and the neighbourhood to wait upon you, and to ask your acceptance of a purse of fifty sovereigns, together with this address, as a slight mark of their appreciation of your great Masonic worth. As to the purse, I can only wish it had contained £500 instead of £50. As to the address, I am sure you will at least greatly admire the taste displayed in its artistic and exquisite design. Personally, I regard it as a great compliment to be associated with our excellent W.M., Bro. Harding, in the presentation of this little memento of our regard for you as Freemason, and when I say I entertain for both you and also your family a sincere and affectionate regard, I feel I speak not only my own and Bro. Harding's sentiments, but at the same time express the feelings of those brethren with whom you have been Masonically associated for the last 12 or 13 years. I have myself known you a good many years, and have entertained for you the same high feeling of respect and regard. When you look upon that beautiful picture, for it is really a beautiful work of art, it will remind you of your many Masonic friends, among the first and foremost of whom you may very truly reckon Bro. John Harding, the W.M. of 148. It was not my intention at first to have said more than these few words, but I feel I cannot refrain from reverting briefly to your history as a Mason, and perhaps the reflection may not be altogether out of place. For more than eleven years you held the office of Hon. Sec. to the Lodge of Lights, 148, a lodge which stands high in the province of West Lancashire and deservedly so, and I am bold to affirm that to you in no small degree is due its prosperity and efficiency; indeed this is invariably acknowledged by the Craft in Warrington. Your services, too, to the Gilbert Greenall Lodge, 1250, must not be forgotten. When that lodge was founded some five or six years ago, and named at your suggestion after the worthy and distinguished Bro. Greenall, P.S.G.W. of England, you became its first Acting Master, acting for Bro. Greenall in his unavoidable absence. Those services were freely given, and I venture to think they were performed in a manner such as reflected honour upon yourself and credit to the lodge. You were likewise one of the founders and are now the senior member of the Chapter of Elias Ashmole, in connection with the Lodge of Lights, and very great praise must be awarded to you for the able manner you filled all the offices of the Chapter. As Installing Master your services have frequently been called into requisition, not only in our own lodges, but also in those of other provinces, and in that capacity there are found very few to equal and fewer still to excel you. I cannot forget, too, that you have held high office in Prov. Grand Chapter, as well as in Prov. Grand Lodge, and in each and in all the various offices you have been called upon to fill you have invariably acquitted yourself in such a manner as to bring down upon yourself the highest possible credit. In fine your efforts to promote the good of Freemasonry in general, and of the Craft in Warrington in particular, have tended greatly to raise its character and tone among us, and I cordially endorse every word contained in that beautiful address which I have just read to you. I might say much more, but as Bro. Harding will have something to say, I shall conclude by expressing, in the words of the address, a wish that the G.A.O.T.U. may abundantly bless both Mrs. Bowes and yourself, and that you may live many many years to enjoy the affection and esteem of your brethren in Freemasonry I now invite the W.M. to address you.

Bro. John Harding said:—Dear Bro. Bowes, it is at all times a pleasing task to do honour to those whom we esteem, and especially so when that esteem is largely shared by others, and as the pleasure is increased so also is the difficulty one feels when called upon to be the exponent of the sentiments of others. I could have wished the duty of presenting this testimonial had fallen into more able hands than my own, but I yield to no brother in my high estimation of your character and the many valuable services you have rendered to Masonry in general and to my lodge in particular. It is well known that that you have sacrificed much time and laboured most assiduously for a long time in the furtherance of Masonry, and it is hoped you will continue your valuable services. To mark their sense of your high merits as a Mason, a friend and neighbour, the brethren have generously subscribed this testimonial. I will only add that I cordially endorse all that Bro. Finney has so well said, and that I experience extreme pleasure in conducting this well deserved presentation. That the Most High may abundantly bless you and yours is the fervent desire of every subscriber to this testimonial.

Bro. Bowes said, W.M. and Bro. Past Master Finney. My tongue will fail to express in adequate terms my heartfelt gratitude for this proof of the fraternal regard of my brethren. It has been my privilege to be an active officer of No. 148 for a long time. Indeed I have been accustomed for years to regard the lodge as a home in which I could always calculate upon a warm and hearty reception as a brother. For a long time, too, most of my hours of recreation have been spent in and about its concerns. In

 The Freemason of 22nd November, 1873, having come to hand at a time when I was too busy to read it, was necessarily laid aside, and then I unfortunately forgot it till it fell into my hands to-day, when I perused it. Although so long a time has elapsed since its publication, I cannot but take notice of some statements in Bro. HUGHAN'S letter concerning Masons' Marks which appear to me very extraordinary. Bro. HUGHAN professes himself quite ignorant that all Masonic Marks consist of an odd number of points. It is difficult for me to imagine how any Freemason having received the degree can be in any doubt on this point, and ignorance of the well-known and long-established rule concerning it can only be accounted for by strange thoughtfulness. I have, in the course of my life, seen the mark degree conferred on some thousands of Freemasons, and they have all been instructed that Masonic Marks ought to have an odd number of points. The words of ritual are very express and decisive as to this. "The Craftsmen are allowed to select any mark not previously fixed on by another in the same lodge. It consists of three, five, seven, nine, or eleven points, joined together so as to form any figure they please, except that of an equilateral triangle." The last words of this quotation affords an answer also to the remarks of the brother who heads his letter "The Double Triangle," and I beg leave to recall them to his attention. As the Double Triangle consists of two equilateral triangles, it cannot be considered a Masonic Mark. In connection with this I may mention that in a case brought before the Grand Lodge of Scotland by some brethren of the Royal Arch, who disputed the rights of a Craft Lodge to work the mark degree, the Grand Lodge after much discussion, and being guided very much by the opinion of Bro. A. KERR, W.M., No. 8, S.C., one of the most skillful Freemasons in Scotland, and by the arguments and proofs which he adduced in support of it, decided that the mark is a mere adjunct of the slow Craft.

Although some Masons may have made their marks with an even number of points, this is not so of that they were right in doing so, and it has been very far from common. I would be much surprised by any Mark Mason doing so, at its being sanctioned by any lodge. I am aware of what is called the Blind Mark, no Freemason has been instructed in this in the last hundred years. The words of the already quoted are at least one hundred years old, and have during that period been generally employed in the working of the Mark tree in Scotland.

Masonic Tidings.

Most Honourable the Marquess of M. W. Grand Master of Freemasons, appointed the Right Honourable the Earl of Ripon Provincial Grand Master of the North East Ridings of Yorkshire. The installation of his lordship, which was appointed to take place on the 25th inst., has been postponed in consequence of the death of his lordship's father, and we understand that the ceremony will take place in York under the auspices of the York Lodge, at Easter. The installation will in all probability be performed by the Marquess of Ripon, which will take place at the Guildhall, which along with the state apartments at the Mansion House has been placed at the disposal of the Provincial Grand Lodge by the Right Honourable the Mayor. After the ceremony of installation the brethren will walk in procession to the Royal Exchange, where, by the kind permission of the Chapter, a special service will be held, which a collection will be made on behalf of the local charities. The meeting will be of great importance to the Craft, and it is expected that a large number of distinguished brethren from this and other provinces will be present on the occasion.

Bro. Captain William Frederick Portlock Dadson, Citizen and Turner, is a candidate for the office of Mace-bearer to the Corporation of the City of London.

NEW ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY PAPER.—A new high class illustrated weekly newspaper is announced for first appearance this day (Saturday). The title is The Pictorial World. The list of artists and contributors comprises many well-known names; and as the paper will be published at a popular price—three pence—a large circulation is anticipated for it by its projectors.

ANONYMOUS MUNIFICENCE.—Among the donations and subscriptions acknowledged this week by the London charities are nine sums of £1,000 each, in addition to ten sums of similar amount announced last week.—London Mirror.

ROYAL AND SELECT MASTERS.—A council was held on Wednesday, at 33, Golden-square, when nine companions, being Royal Arch Masons, were exalted in this interesting degree.

CONSECRATION OF THE PECKHAM LODGE No. 1475.

Some time since a number of brethren, members of the Peckham Lodge, No. 879, a majority of whom appear to have resided in Bermondsey and its vicinity, overruled the wishes of the remainder of the brethren, and removed the lodge to Bermondsey. That portion of its members who had been outnumbered were in sufficient force to petition for a new warrant, which the M.W.G. Master, on condition of their adopting the name of the Peckham Lodge, and promising not to remove the lodge from Peckham without his express permission, was pleased to grant, and on Tuesday, the 17th ult., Bro. Wentworth Little, Prov. G. Sec. Middlesex, &c., &c., consecrated the lodge in the presence of a large and influential gathering of brethren at the Victory Tavern, Trafalgar-road, Old Kent-road. The musical arrangements were under the management of Bro. Seymour Smith, assisted by Bros. Dawson and Carter. To say aught of Bro. Little's performance of the beautiful and solemn ceremony, can convey no adequate description of the impression that great master of our ritual and ceremonies made on his hearers; he is so well known and deservedly respected, that his presence is always cordially greeted by every member of the fraternity.

The lodge being duly dedicated, Bro. W. J. Warren, P.M. 879, took the chair, and installed Bro. Alfred Henry Watkins, the first Master, in a manner that bodes well for the efficiency of the active members of the new lodge. Bro. Watkins then invested Bro. John Thomas Dalby, S.W.; Walter Charles Canton, J.W. W. G. Warren, Treasurer; Walter E. Gompertz, P.M. 866, Secretary; E. J. Cane, S.D.; George Duck, J.D.; Thomas Stephens, 869, I. Guard. Bro. Warren then delivered the three addresses in a manner that called forth a general expression of approval and delight. A vote of thanks to Bro. Little for his kind services, and the honorary membership of the lodge, which Bro. Little acknowledged in his usual pleasant and courteous manner, terminated the business of the day. Several propositions for initiating and joining were received, and the lodge closed. The brethren adjourned to banquet, which was laid by mine host, Bro. Rigglesworth, in a most recherché manner, and served à la Russe. Here the W.M., Bro. Watkins, at once convinced the brethren of his fitness for the honour they had done him. His knowledge of the duties in the lodge they had had abundant proofs of in the lodge of instruction, where he has been a constant attendant, and as president at the festive board, by his quiet, gentlemanly, and courteous manner and the original well-timed, and very excellent remarks in proposing the several toasts, won for him the most hearty and cordial expressions of pleasure and gratification. Bro. Little in responding to the toast of the "Consecrating Master" enlarged on the practical duties of the Masons, in the practice of the characteristic Masonic virtues. The usual loyal and complimentary toasts having been given and responded to, interspersed with some capital singing and music, the brethren broke up highly delighted with the whole proceedings. We may mention (en-passant) that the lodge has purchased the beautiful furniture, originally manufactured by Bro. George Kenning for the Golden Rule Lodge. Amongst the brethren present were, besides the officers and members—Bros. Allsopp, P.M. 879; D. Rose, P.M. 879; J. H. Tyler, P.M. 879; G. Fox, P.M. 73; W. E. Francis, P.M. 857; Henry W. Gompertz, 1364; G. Botton, P.M. 147; A. G. Hayward, P.M. 179; H. Bickerstaff, P.M. 700; C. Dille, W.M. 147; C. Hills, W.M. 13; S. J. Harry, 72; J. W. Jackson, 975; R. S. Suggett, 25; F. Stephens, 869; and others.

MASONIC BIBLIOGRAPHY.

I regret exceedingly not being able to throw any light on the subject mentioned by Bro. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, M.A.; in his interesting communication of the 28th ult., not having either heard of, or seen the Rosicrucian work "Glypeum Veritatis". I will again look the matter up, and report progress if any discovery is made.

Our able Bro. Woodford would do good service if he furnished the readers of The Freemason with a list of all the Rosicrucian works and date of issue, which have been seen by him, or traced in his researches either in Dr. Kloss's works, or any other of the German authors, with which he is so familiar. We hardly like to ask so much, knowing the many claims in our Reverend Brother's time, but his abilities as a linguist peculiarly fit him for such a labour of love.

W. J. HUGHAN.

It is not too much to say that the introduction of Pepsine into the list of modern therapeutic agents by Dr. Corvisart created a very veritable revolution in the pathology of dyspepsia, and all diseases of the digestive organs. Whereas no complaint was so common as a chronic indigestion, perhaps the most painful martyrdom to which any one can be subjected, this should now be positively unknown, for as the disease is due to a lack of gastric juice, a dose of Pepsine, which contains the active digestive principle of the gastric juice of the stomach, restores the equilibrium, and effects a cure. Fortunately, too, for its popularity, the preparations of Pepsine, for which we have to thank Messrs Morson and Sons, of Southampton-row, are of the most elegant character, enabling it to be administered with the most extreme accuracy, and also in very palatable forms.

Answers to Correspondents.

A. E. H.—We cannot give you the information. G. E. S.—The answer is plain. By our Constitutions a Mason is obliged by his tenure to obey the moral law, and if he rightly understands the art he will never be a stupid Atheist, nor an irreligious Christian. Let Glasgow flourish. Received with many thanks, but declined. Our able correspondent will see that such religious controversy is not wanted in the pages of The Freemason. Our motto is "Defence, not Defiance." "Popery and Freemasonry" received, crowded out this week.

The following Communications stand over—Masonic Festival in Glasgow. Consecration of the Marquess of Ripon Chapter. Consecration of a R.A. Chapter at Shetland.

FREEMASONRY AND THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH.

In our respected contemporary, The Manchester Guardian, of February 20th, appears the subjoined letter from a Catholic Defender under this heading, and to which our notice has been called by a correspondent. We think it better to allow the champion of his religious body to speak for himself, and then to append a few remarks and comments of our own. The subject is a very important one, and is evidently widening so much, that, the sooner the matter is carefully considered and decided in all its bearings, the better for both sides in the controversy. We therefore beg our readers careful attention to the following exposé of the Roman Catholic views on the subject:—

"FREEMASONRY AND THE CATHOLIC CHURCH. To the Editor of the Manchester Guardian.

"Sir, —You begin your leader to-day with the statement that 'it has been always difficult to understand the motive of the hatred borne by the Roman Catholic Church in modern times to the brotherhood of Freemasons.' I ask for some space in your journal to try to solve this difficulty, but would first suggest that the use of the word 'hostility' or 'opposition' would have been more appropriate in the passage that I have referred to than 'hatred,' which you used.

"The first of the two suggestions, which you put in the form of quotations, is that which I consider to be the true one, namely, 'the ho-tility engendered by antithetical principles.' No two sets of principles, objects, or modes of operation can be possibly more opposed than those of the Continental Freemasonry and those of the Catholic Church. Whilst I claim the use of the word 'hostility' or 'opposition' as that of describing the attitude of the Church, I think I may accept your word 'hatred' as describing that of the brotherhood towards the Church.

"To return, however, to the causes of this hostility, opposition, or hatred. I think that a reference to the latest formal condemnation of the brotherhood by the Holy See will sufficiently show these causes or motives. They are contained in the allocution of Pius IX., delivered on September 26, 1865. By citing the decrees of those of his predecessors who had previously censured the brotherhood, he renews and adopts against them those faults and errors which they had already pointed out. He discards that pretext of mere benevolence under which these associations wish to pass, and rests his condemnation—1. On what he describes as 'the wicked designs which are debated in their secret meetings.' 2. On their holding all religious doctrine as indifferent, and framing or professing a kind of religion which is merely the residuum after the rejection of all doctrine which any of their members may choose to reject. 3. On what he calls 'the terrible oath,' that is taken by those who are initiated, and the "frightful or atrocious penalties to which they voluntarily subject themselves if they should violate that oath." And then, 4, quoting the words of our Lord, St. John iii. 20—"For every one that doth evil hateth the light,"—he further infers that an association which thus greatly fears the light of day must be impious and wicked. Next, in virtue of his office as chief bishop of the church, he condemns the association for these reasons, as it had been condemned before; that is, for teaching what is contrary to divinely revealed truth, as hostile to Christianity, to the peace of the Church, and dangerous to the safety of kingdoms. Finally, he invites the thoughtless or unguarded who have been incautiously drawn into these associations to separate themselves from them, and warns and cautions unthinking persons and youths lest they be drawn into these associations or brotherhoods by the semblance of harmlessness which they profess externally, or by the pretext that he was indifferent to them or that he approved of them if he were silent in their condemnation.

"This appears to me to be a very clear accounting for the motive which you say it is always difficult to understand. The motive is here clearly assigned in an official and public document, that is little more than eight years old. It appeared at the time in many newspapers, and it would seem that all that is wanted in order to satisfy anyone is to know whether the reasons assigned are or are not well founded. I am confident that all reasonable men would approve the condemnation of such principles. Now, you yourself admit some of these imputations; for instance, those to which the Pope applies the words of our Lord, namely, the terrible oath and the frightful penalties; for you admit that every Freemason is well known to be bound by solemn and fearful obligations to keep the secret of his Order. I find this solemn and fearful obligation described thus by one author:—"The candidate then swears that rather than betray the secret he consents to have his head cut off, his heart and entrails torn out, and his ashes cast before the wind. I believe it is pretty well known that the Freemasonry of the Continent has existed in its present form only from about the beginning of the last century. Its principles were speedily condemned, between 1730 and 1749, by Pope Clement XII.; and I feel sure that if these principles be justly assigned you would join in condemnation of them, as, admitting your own words, supposing Freemasonry to be a system of morality veiled in allegory and illustrated by symbols, that may be traced back to the institutions of Pythagoras or some other Pagan fountain, you cannot be surprised that the chief bishop of the Christian Church should raise his voice against this Pagan innovation.

"I am, &c.

"LAW. CANON TOOLE.
February 17, 1874."

We have no fault "in initio," to find with the manner and matter of the writer. Unlike many of his co-religionists, and especially some Pastors which we have seen, the writer of the above letter can argue the matter, even from a Roman Catholic point of view, without being abusive of his opponents, without forgetting the common courtesies of social life, and without descending to meaningless vituperation.

The writer bases his explanation of the "antagonism," undoubtedly, as he asserts, existing between the Roman Catholic Church and Freemasons, not only "ex necessitate rei" as he puts it, owing, to their utterly opposed views and aims, and teaching, but also on the late allocution of Pope Pius IX., founded as, that, allocation no doubt is, on previous "deliverances" of Roman Catholic Pontiffs.

We may note "en passant," that, he by no means reasserts Mr. Cuffie's absurd proposition that, every Roman Catholic who is a Freemason ceases to be a Roman Catholic, ipso facto, a statement which, if true, would be very hard indeed, because affecting the position of numbers of devout Roman Catholics, but we believe Mr. Cuffie is entirely unwarranted in making such an assertion at all, and only betrays his own ignorance of the canon law of his own Church on the one hand, and his utter indifference to the rights of the Roman Catholic laity on the other.

But the correspondent of the Manchester Guardian gives us certain "heads or "notes" of the objectionable features of Freemasonry which as he mentions are referred to in express words by the last Papal rescript.

So we will take them in order:—

1. The first is, "the wicked designs which are debated in their secret meetings." What these wicked designs are, is not stated, but the truth is, they are as mythical as were certain theories or assertions of that respectable and useful assistant of our population returns "Mr. Harris."

It seems very amusing to us in England peaceable, loyal, friendly, genial, Freemasons as we really are, (despite all our little frailties) to hear of "wicked designs" in our secret meetings.

Perhaps one of the strongest arguments against Papal Infallibility comes from the fact of the extraordinary fallibility and gullibility of those who drew up and published such ridiculous asseverations.

If there be anywhere any "wicked designs" planned in a Masonic lodge, which we greatly doubt, certainly we in this country must laugh heartily at such a description by the Roman Pontiff of our very harmless meetings, and the views of our excellent brethren, who, as a general rule, are the most loyal of citizens, a never require the "surveillance" of the police.

2. The second head of wrong is "their holding all religious doctrines as indifferent a framing or professing a kind of religion which is merely the residuum of the rejection of all doctrines which any of their members may choose

Now this, though very fine writing, is simply in truth, an utter absurdity. Freemasons do not hold all religious doctrines as indifferent, neither do they frame a useless kind of religion, which merely is the "residuum," after all religious doctrines are rejected, which any of the members "may choose to reject." Freemasonry has taken up, as it appears to us—a very simple, and a very consistent position.

It is a great philanthropic sodality, based on the one great truth of the acceptance of the one Universal Father and Creator of mankind.

Were Freemasons, as in times of old, to limit their reception of members to those professing Christianity, they must shut out at once all who are not Christians.

But keeping before their memory ever the fact startling in itself, that Jewish and Tyrian Masons (who were idolators), worked together at the building of the Temple, Freemasonry since the beginning of the century, has undoubtedly been, universal and cosmopolitan, embracing in her wide fold all who acknowledge the one great Creator, Benefactor, and Preserver of all men.

This view is not palatable to many, and we do not deny that the Roman Catholic Church, has a right, to say to the members of their church, "such a view is opposed to the teaching of the Roman Catholic Church, and if you uphold it, you must leave us." But what the Church of Rome has no right to do, is, to anathematize all who are Freemasons, and then refuse, simply on the "obiter dictum" of some foolish person like Mr. Cuffe, to bury a devout Roman Catholic who happens to be a Freemason. Indeed, in our opinion, if the Roman Church were enlightened, which she won't be, and tolerant, which she never is, she would leave the Freemasons alone, and allow them to go on their way, without "let or hindrance," intent as they truly are alone on their kindly labours of peace and goodwill.

The Masonic Body everywhere repudiates, with indignation, the name of "Infidels," and "Illuminés," and "Socialists," all views and teachings most contrary to their "formulæ" of simple moral duty and obedience, but they will never surrender their great characteristic "toleration," which leads them ever to avoid the narrow limits of national differences, and even the arena of religious contentions, and to regard men as brethren of the dust.

Indifferent to religion they certainly are not, never have been, and never will be, but most assuredly they always will be found, to the instance of sectarianism, and the virulence ofroversy, and resolute in their protest against, their resistance to unholy "anathemas," debasing persecution.

The next point of objection is what the Roman Catholic champion calls the "terrible oath," the "frightful or atrocious penalties," which cling to the "Masonic profession of membership" and "rules of association."

On this point as the writer of the Allocution knows evidently very little, we mean to say, as we are of opinion that we, as Freemasons, are perfectly competent to manage our own affairs, and practice our own ceremonies, and that we neither require, nor do we need any opinion on the subject from the unenlightened outer world. Another point is our "Secrecy," and the popular fallacy that, because our proceedings are "secret" they must therefore be ipso facto bad.

We need hardly point out the illogical argument thus made use of, to demonstrate that the result of the Papal assertion is simply a case of "non sequitive."

Time was, for instance, in the history of Christianity, when the "disciplina arcani" was "secret." Was it therefore, in consequence, bad?

Time was, when the "mensa mystica" was zealously guarded against the eyes and even the knowledge of the profane. Was it therefore necessarily wrong? Secrecy may as a rule be objectionable as regards the association of persons for some unknown end. Secrecy may be objected to by the state, especially if the state has reason to believe that such secrecy is a veil for seditious practices or treasonable councils. But the laws of this country allow expressly the Masonic body to meet together, though they are in one respect a secret order, and we contend that we have nothing to do with any other law-giver, and we utterly repudiate the right of a spiritual authority, above all, to interfere with our undoubted right as English citizens.

As, therefore, theoretically the argument is bad, practically the secrecy of Freemasonry is alike harmless and defensible. The last point contains a sweeping accusation indeed, which, if true, ought to settle the question, now and for ever.

Freemasonry is said to teach what is contrary to divinely revealed truth; to be "hostile to Christianity," and "to the peace of the Church" and "dangerous to the safety of kingdoms."

We have already pointed out how utterly unfounded is the charge that Freemasonry and Freemasons are "indifferent" to "religion" and certainly they teach nothing "contrary to divinely revealed truth," nor are they ever "hostile to Christianity," or "to the peace of the Church."

It is undoubtedly true, as we have previously stated, that, whether rightly or wrongly Freemasonry does endorse and embrace a wide platform on which its members can act together.

But though to some it may seem to be "without religion," and to others even to antagonize the received dogmas of Christianity, yet it is by no means the intention or the consequence of the attitude which, as Freemasons, we take as regards the great truths of Christian doctrine and discipleship.

All that we do, (we may be wrong in doing so, but we are inclined to think we are right), all that we do or say is, we do not concern ourselves with denominational differences and special controversies.

Indeed, were we to do so, our utility and our existence must soon cease! We therefore are friendly to all, hostile to none, glad to aid in all common works of good will and sympathy, not interfering with other people's consciences or acting as the inquisition of old; but we leave every one of our members to stand or fall to his own Maker and Judge.

We do not indeed allow the open atheist or the avowed libertine to be welcomed into our Order, but beyond this our interference ceases—and tolerating others, we ask only for toleration ourselves.

As regards the ridiculous charge that Freemasonry is, "dangerous to the safety of kingdoms," in England the assertion is too absurd to need refutation, as no more orderly, peaceable, or loyal body of men exists anywhere, we make bold to say, than our "brethren in Freemasonry."

That in some foreign countries, Freemasonry and political societies may have banded together, we do not deny, but we in Great Britain have always openly regretted, and as openly repudiated any such alliance.

One more charge is made against us, namely, that our "morality," such as it is, "may be traced back to the institutions of Pythagoras or some other Pagan fountain."

A more mistaken theory never was propounded.

Our Masonic Morality is built up solely and simply on the "divine law," delivered on Mount Sinai, and still as binding now as when it was first miraculously given to Moses and though it may "be veiled in allegory and illustrated by symbols," it is both simple and truthful, because based upon the inspired Word of God. Surely then the time has arrived when any unworthy jealousy or unwise persecution of Freemasons should come to an end.

We live in an age of great toleration and greater cultivation, and without laying too much stress upon the latter, we would say this, that in most cases the feelings of the age in which we live are right, as the product alike of the individual, and the aggregate conviction. Even the able defender of his church, who claims for his infallible Pontiff a right to condemn Freemasonry, must feel, we think, that the days of anathemas interdicts, and excommunications are over; that the Sword of St. Dominic is sheathed for ever, that the fires of the Inquisition can be kindled no more.

No, thank God, with all our faults, we in this free, and happy England, at any rate, having rejected the intolerance of the past, and the "odium, theologicum" of controversy, are only anxious, nay resolved, to stand fast in the golden liberty of peace and toleration, of charity and consideration, of fraternal sympathy, and fraternal goodwill, as the members one and all of the great family of the human race.

We do not quarrel with those who earnestly contend for the faith they prize, the denomination which they love. All honour to the faithful and true of all religious bodies, but, we do ask once for all, that, we as Freemasons may be left alone by those who have no province to interfere with our proceedings, or to anathematise our principles, left alone to enjoy our undoubted right as peaceable and loyal English citizens, left alone to proclaim to others in all of genuine gentleness and love, our unchanged and unchanging principles, as Freemasons, of "Brotherly Love, Relief, and Truth."

THE MASONIC CHARITIES.

By a misprint "Walker" was substituted for "Watson" in our first leader the week before last, for which we apologise to Bro. Henry Watson. Bro. Binckes' able letter which appeared in our last impression, does not touch the main point we were anxious to impress upon our readers, upon himself and his brother Secretaries.

What we were desirous to call attention to, was the systematic advertisement by the charities themselves of their annual meetings, their committee meetings, their festivals, their elections, and the results of their elections.

We have casual advertisements, it is true now, and then, probably, of all the three charities, but no general rule or regular system of advertisement. If one charity does advertise this time, another charity does not, and if one result is announced by one institution, another is not by another, and so vice versa.

Hence the Craft as a body are practically in ignorance of the current business, of these our most interesting representatives, and they suffer exceedingly.

For it is one thing for the "Stewards" of the festival to advertise the festival, and it is quite good one for the Charities to advertise their own and proper proceedings! If there were no advertisements at all, though we might doubt the policy, we should have no "casus querimonie" but as the charities do advertise, all we ask is, that, whatever they do for non-Masonic papers, we may fairly receive a few "crumbs" as a brother "Freemason."

A large portion of the Craft never sees the Times or other London papers, and though it is true that on the principle of the largest circulation, probably, the Times is the paper for such advertisement, yet Bro. Binckes and his brother Secretaries should remember, that, the object of advertising at all is not to announce the fact to the non-Masonic public, but to obtain regular and liberal support from our own Order. Bro. J. H. Coates's letter in our last issue is entirely to the point, and he has put, in his own way, what we have before contended, that, what is wanted is more systematic support, be it large or little, from every lodge. At this moment a few zealous brethren and a few active lodges support practically, our great charities.

We think Bro. Coates's suggestion is a very good one for lodge subscriptions of small sums, which will enable them to benefit the charities and to obtain a perpetual vote or votes for the W.M., or some other officer of the lodge.

We thank Bro. Binckes once more, for his friendly and fraternal letter, and trust, that, every success may attend his praiseworthy efforts, on behalf of that excellent institution, of which he is the valued Secretary, while we shall hope in due time to chronicle an equally successful result for the efforts of Bro. R. W. Little, as Secretary for the Girls' School.

WEEKLY SUMMARY.

Her Majesty has returned to Windsor Castle, after a short visit in London of two days last week, and having held a drawing-room on Thursday last at Buckingham Palace.

Their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales are expected to pass through Dover for London, on their return journey from Russia, on Thursday next, the 5th.

According to the latest arrangements, the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh will leave St. Petersburg on the morning of the 28th ult. on their journey to England, and arrive at Berlin at midday on the 2d inst. They will remain there until Tuesday evening, when they will leave for Cologne in company with the Duke and Duchess of Flanders, and will arrive at that city on Wednesday morning. In the afternoon the Royal party will leave Cologne for Brussels, and arrive there about 9 in the evening. Their Royal Highnesses will remain at the Belgian capital the whole of Thursday and up to the afternoon of the following day, when they will leave for Ostend, cross the Straits in the Royal yacht Alberta, and disembark at Gravesend. The arrival at Gravesend is fixed for 9 o'clock in the morning of the 7th of March, and the Duke and Duchess will proceed direct to Waterloo station, and thence to Windsor. The Royal couple are expected to arrive at Windsor about 1 o'clock, and their Royal Highnesses will be received on the platform by members of the Royal Family and the Mayor and Corporation of the borough. Their Royal Highnesses will be escorted through the town to the Castle by a detachment of Life Guards, and a guard of honour formed by a detachment of Foot Guards will also be present. The cortège will proceed from the station through the town, and enter the Castle by the gateway facing the Long Walk. The Queen will receive the Royal couple on their arrival at the Castle, and the visit is expected to extend until the 12th. Their Royal Highnesses will then take up their residence at Buckingham Palace, where they will receive the various congratulatory addresses and remain until the close of the London season. Her Majesty the Queen will accompany their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh on their public entry into London on the 12th proximo. The route will be from the Great Western Railway Station along London-street, Grand Junction-road, Edgware-road, Oxford-street, Regent-street, and Waterloo-place, to Buckingham Palace. On or about the 7th of October, their Royal Highnesses will take up their residence at Clarence House, the alterations of which are being rapidly pushed forward, and which will by that time be ready for their reception. On the 14th of next month a grand performance will be given at the Albert Hall, when Her Majesty the Queen, the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, and several other members of the Royal Family are expected to be present. A magnificent service of gold plate is about to be presented to the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh. It is for twenty-four persons, and includes a centre-piece, four candelabra, to hold twenty-two candles, a pair of claret-pitchers, a pair of sugar-vases, two large oval and four round fruit stands, twelve figured salt-cellars, and a loving cup; but its most striking feature is a large epergne, bearing the following inscription on its hexagonal plateau:—"Presented to H.I.H. the Grand Duchess Marie Alexandrovna of Russia, on her marriage with Captain his Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh, R.N., K.G., by the officers of the Royal Navy and Royal Marines."

While driving to the deanery at Oxford on Thursday afternoon, Prince Leopold's horse fell in turning a sharp corner leading into Oriel-street, but his Royal Highness received no injury beyond a severe shaking. It is expected that on Saturday evening, March 7, after the arrival of the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh at Windsor Castle, all the members of the Royal family who may be in England will assemble at a private dinner party with Her Majesty. On the following Monday a grand State banquet will be given by Her Majesty in St. George's Hall, in honour of the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, at which there will be about 150 guests. Her Majesty's private band and the band of one of the regiments of Guards will, it is expected, be present and play during the banquet. During the stay of the Duke and Duchess there will be great festivities at the Castle. The Great Western and the London and South-Western Railway Companies will run special trains to and from Windsor on Saturday, and there will probably be a large influx of visitors on the occasion. Great and loyal preparations are being made at Gravesend for the reception of the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh on the 7th March, 120 young ladies, all very good-looking, have been selected to act as flower-strewers, and are going through a preparatory drill.

H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge presided at a numerous meeting of the Governors of King's College last week with great ability and tact, and a resolution was passed to submit the questions in dispute between the House Committee and St. John's Hospital to the arbitration of two persons. It is said that those eminent statesmen, Lord Selborne and Lord Hatherley, (both by the way Wykehamists,) are to be arbitrators. Let us hope that their arbitration will result in the continuance of the present system of good and skilful nursing.

The appointments to the new ministry are nearly complete. It is understood that the Duke of Abercorn returns to Ireland, Col. Wilson Patten is to be raised to the peerage, Sir Henry Barkly, Governor of the Cape, and Sir John P. Grant, late Governor of Jamaica, have been appointed Grand Cross of the Order of St. M. and St. G.; the Marquis of Normanby, Governor of Queensland; Sir Alfred Stephen, late Chief Justice of New South Wales; Sir James M'Culloch, formerly First Minister of Victoria; Mr. John O'Shanassy, also formerly First Minister of Victoria; and Mr. John Scott, late Governor of British Guiana, have been appointed Knights Commanders; and Mr. George Berkerly, Governor of the West African Settlements; Major Robert M. Mundy, Governor of British Honduras; Mr. W. W. Cairns, Governor of Trinidad; Mr. Henry T. Irving, Governor of the Leeward Islands; and Mr. W. H. Rennie, Governor of St. Vincent, have been appointed Companions of the Order.

The Castro trial is over, and the great impostor and imposture are at last unmasked and condemned. The sympathy of the English people for the matter had been generally we think, misunderstood. A great amount of it certainly arose from that love of fair play, and English good feeling to the troubled and friendless and persecuted and wronged, so creditable to our nation. Now that it is clear that their sympathy and kindness have been utterly misplaced, all feel, that not only ought Mr. Orton to be punished, but that it is a great pity he can't get a little more. From first to last, chicanery, imposture, fraud, and lying have marked the progress of the case, but at last the stern voice of justice has been heard and our lenient but effective law, and the borrowed plumage of the "Jay" is gone to return no more. All will rejoice at the vindication of Lady Radeliffe's honour, and all will approve of and applaud the Lord Chief Justice's well-merited castigation of Dr. Kennedy. The prisoner is very comfortably in Newgate, and will have time, in fourteen years of penal servitude, to remember his shamelessness, his villainy and his crime. Never was there such a trial in the annals of our country, and let us hope that we may never see such another. What it has cost the country no one knows.

Last Thursday London was startled by some Reporter's telegram from Cape Coast Castle, which anticipated the official message, but which by some proved to be wrong. On Friday we were all reassured by the following official telegram from Sir George Walsley:—

"COOMASSIE, Feb. 5.

"Reached this place yesterday after five days' hard fighting. Troops behaved admirably.

"Officers killed.—Captain Buckle, R.E., Captain [O'Neil or Nicol, Hants Militia, Lieutenant] Eyre, 19th Foot. All other casualties under 300.

"The King has left the town, but is close by, and says he will pay me a visit to-day to sign the Treaty of Peace.

"I hope to commence my march to the Coast to-morrow. All wounded doing well. Health generally good. Despatches follow by special fast steamer.

"G. H. PARKIN, Captain and Senior Officer.

"Present brought to Gibraltar by the transport E. Martin, No. 14."

* Words in brackets not clear.

The following telegram was received at the Admiralty this morning:—

"HEAD QUARTERS, COOMASSIE, Feb. 5.

"(From Commodore Hewett, V.C.)

"The army under Sir Garnet Wolseley entered Coomassie yesterday after five days' hard fighting. Casualties of the force about 300 killed and wounded. In the Naval Brigade seven officers wounded, two men killed and thirty-six wounded.

"Treaty expected to be signed to-day.

"(Signed) G. H. PARKIN, Captain and Senior Officer, Cape Coast.

"Sent by the E. Martin transport, to Gibraltar."

The next accounts will be most interesting.

We fear that the recent accounts seem to confirm the report of Dr. Livingstone's death, but we suspend our belief, still hoping perhaps against hope.

Abroad there is not much to report. General Moriones has failed, and we should think by this time is in a "pretty considerable fix." We shall never be surprised to hear of another Carlist victory and the fall of Bilbao.

We have to announce the deaths of Lady Houghton, the amiable wife of Lord Houghton; of the Dowager Duchess of Argyle, of the Duchess of Buckingham, and of the Countess of Northesk Chandos, of Lord Massey, of Lieutenant-General Garstin, R.A., of Lieutenant-Col. Adams, Royal Military College, of Lieut. Colonel H. Johnson, of Major Fife, of Captain A. L. Buckle, R.E., of Vice-Admiral Sir Andrew S. H. Greene, of Frank Munyer, R.N., Knight of the Legion of Honour and Medjidie, of Thomas Norris Hearn, retired Commander R.N., of the Rev. Thomas Binney, LL.D., Minister of the Weigh House Chapel for upwards of forty years. We have also to announce with regret the death, off Cape Coast Castle, of Capt. William Harris Blake, R.N., of H.M.S. Druid, and late in command of the Naval Brigade on the march to Coomassie. Mr. Shirley Brooks, the editor of Punch, died in his fifty-ninth year on Monday last. He was originally intended for the legal profession, and passed a distinguished examination with that view, but aving a preference for literature, he devoted himself to journalism and play-writing with so much success as to determine him to adhere to the literary profession. He was the author of several novels, including "Aspen Court," "The Arabian Knot," "The Silver Cord," and "Sooner or Later." He contributed political articles to the Illustrated London News, and had lately written a weekly column in that journal, and "Notes by the Way."

THE PRESENT POSITION OF OUR MASONIC CHARITIES.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In my former letter I purposely contented myself with little more than an allusion to anything practical in the shape of an answer to the question in your leading article, "How can we make the support of our great charities more regular, in our Order?" intending to devote a second letter to its consideration.

I have been to a great extent anticipated by Bro. James H. Coates, W.M. 949, Sunderland, whose letter in your last number contains many excellent suggestions. Let me, however, before dealing with these, or offering others, disabuse Bro. Coates of a misapprehension he seems to share, in common with you, that a considerable sum is annually spent by our Institution in advertising in non-Masonic journals.

A reference to our accounts, about to be circulated, will show that the entire amount expended in the past year in advertising by this Institution scarcely exceeded £35, and of this a great portion was necessitated by special requirements, which could only be met by a resort to non-Masonic publications.

The lack of continuous annual subscriptions is severely felt, and in this direction there is much to be accomplished. But how? The officials of our institutions cannot possibly get at the whole of the individual members of the Order. What they can, they do, and that is by placing themselves in communication with the Provincial Grand Secretaries, the W. Masters and Secretaries of lodges, and so endeavouring to avail themselves of the valuable assistance which our sectional organisation would seem so well calculated to afford. These communications, however, fail in effect, because, unhappily, it is too often the custom to disregard or ignore printed appeals. In how many lodges are read the circulars soliciting the services of brethren as Stewards at the Anniversary Festivals, or those with statistics and information on which are based the calls for special assistance, compiled as these are with care and no inconsiderable labour.

I see no remedy for this, and other similar instances which might be adduced, but the adoption by every lodge of the practice which obtains in some, with best results, that of appointing a "Charity Steward," whose duty shall be to bring permanently before the lodge—home to each member of it—every question bearing upon, or connected with, the charitable institutions of the Order. For the trouble thus thrown upon such officers—in my opinion—on the principle that "the labourer is worthy of his hire," they should receive remuneration.

I quite agree with Bro. Coates that there are a large number of our brethren who cannot afford to contribute even a guinea annually to the funds of the institutions, but who would be perfectly willing to assist them with such smaller sums as they could justifiably spare, and these the "Charity Stewards" would sedulously cultivate.

He would further see that an offertory, in some shape or other, took place on each night of meeting, and from this source alone—were the practice universal—in a manner unfelt by anyone, a substantial revenue in aid would accrue.

From the funds of the Lodge there ought to be a regular annual contribution, strictly enforced, as a means of support, on which reliance could always be placed. I ventured to state, at a recent meeting of the Lodge of Tranquility, that in my opinion every lodge ought to contribute in each year from its funds not less than five guineas to each of the Masonic institutions, and so favourably was this received, that in the report in your paper, it may be seen that notice of motion to that effect was given immediately.

The "Masonic Charitable Associations," happily multiplying, are doing an immense amount of service, by bringing in as members, many who not caring to contribute largely in one sum, are perfectly willing to do so by easy instalments, and through the medium of these associations there must necessarily be a very considerable diffusion of information with reference to our Institutions.

The means by which similar good may be accomplished are numberless, but they will be only partially adopted until every Mason is brought to the recognition of a duty positively incumbent upon him in supporting our institutions, so long as he is in a position to do so, to an extent commensurate with his ability. This duty his O.B. imposes upon him; to exceed that ability, or in any way to do anything detrimental to the interests of himself or his family, no one could wish or desire.

There is one subject which has often pressed itself upon my attention, and which I to have alluded in private, and that is the singular absence of any addition to our funds in the shape of legacies. It is rarely that a day passes without seeing in the public prints a long list of bequests to charitable institutions under the will of some wealthy philanthropist. In such list the names of the Masonic Institutions are conspicuous by their absence. Why? For this reason, as we are told. They are class institutions, and ought to look for support to the members of the Order to which they are attached. But Freemasons themselves do not bequeath any portion of their gifts to institutions in the welfare of which they took in life an active interest. How many noble and wealthy members of the Order, from their position in which they derived prestige and influence, have passed away, and in the distribution of their riches, while remembering certain of the general charities of the country, have altogether overlooked or forgotten those institutions, which they ever regarded as their own?

The question of Masonic charity and how best to foster it is absolutely inexhaustible. For the present, however, I forbear, but sincerely trust that now that the subject has again been ventilated, will not be allowed to drop, but that many earnest workers will give their attention to it with a view to derive the most efficacious means of enlisting the sympathies of the many thousands who are proud of being ranged under our banners, but who have, hitherto been extremely remiss in the discharge of this first and most bounden duty.

I am, Dear Sir and Brother, your's faithfully and fraternally,

FREDERICK BINCKES.

Secy., Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, Freemasons' Hall, London.
3rd March, 1874.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

The suggestive remarks on the above subject, by Bro. Jas. H. Coates, in your last issue, cannot fail to engage the serious attention of all who are interested in promoting the prosperity of the Masonic Charities. There can be but one opinion as to the necessity of more energetic exertion in the noble cause. The vast increase in the number of lodges, and consequently of members, naturally involves a greater percentage of applicants for relief. Year by year candidates for either institution augment, and for the great majority of applications there is scarcely a chance. It is to be lamented that the institutions should be so limited in the operations, and the question is: what can legitimately be adopted to place the charities in a position to enable them to keep pace with the ever-increasing demand for their power. Bro. Coates' suggestion for the managers of the different charities to devise some organization by which small sums might be collected, may possibly be tolerably effective, provided, as he very properly observes, the countenance and support of the higher powers could be obtained, failing which, success, I am sure is very doubtful. We have sufficient experience in this matter; propositions emanating from the rank and file—be they ever so beneficial—may sometimes be seconded by the enthusiastic few, but receive scant and apathetic support from the general Masonic body. Take the associations formed for the purpose of securing life governorships to subscribers by payment of the small sum of one shilling per week. Most of them are languishing for want of co-operation, some, it is true, are prosperous, but that is owing to the steady industry and activity of the managers, for if the collecting of the weekly subscriptions was left to the members, total collapse would speedily result.

We may safely take it for granted that every brother would be glad to contribute to the extent of his power towards the institutions, and the question to determine is, how can these small amounts be effectively and inexpensively collected. I do not know whether what I am about to suggest is practicable, but to mention it can do harm, namely, that the Grand Lodge should enact a regulation to make it imperative for every subscribing member to pay, besides his lodge dues, an additional five shillings for and towards the charities, the same to be optional to life Governors and life and annual subscribers, I am sure no member of any lodge would object to so trifling an extra charge. I would also suggest that the notices for the festivals should be distributed at least a couple of months prior to the event, to allow ample time for intending Stewards to visit lodges and chapters, to enable them to secure subscriptions. I heartily join Bro. Coates in his demand "Will some distinguished brother take the lead?" An authoritative appeal to the brethren cannot fail to succeed. I have never found unwillingness on the part of any individual member to support the charities, and with rare exceptions have I ever asked in vain. Some weeks ago I visited a lodge where an appeal to support the private Benevolent Fund was at once responded to by subscriptions amounting to £26 5s. Therefore we may conclude that were opportunity given, the claims of the charities made conspicuous, and kindred measures adopted, brethren might display their glittering jewels and participate in the joys of the banquetting table, and yet assist in making Masonry, pure and simple, a living reality.

Like many others, Bro. Coates has some idea that love of display and a good appetite are incompatible with a sympathetic heart and benevolent spirit. Those who observe know well the contrary to be the case. Bro. Coates's letter will have done good service, if it only provokes discussion upon this important question.

Yours fraternally,
E. GOTTHEIL, P.M. and P.Z.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

The following extract may be interesting to some of your readers. It is taken from an article in "Macmillan's Magazine" for February, 1870, on the "Constitution," promulgated by Pius IX at the beginning of the twenty-first Ecumenical Council. Speaking of the Bulla Coenae, the writer (Emanuel Deutsch) says;—"Then came Clement XIV, who abrogated it, and then—exactly a hundred years later—Pius IX, who renewed it in the shape now before us. We can but briefly glance at the rest of the edict, which embodies what obsolete "extra" cases it has been deemed proper thus solemnly to revive, referring such of our readers as are eager for some details to Mansi, Phillips, Hefele, Le Bret, Hausmann, Raumer, and the acts and histories of the Church generally. . . . Cursed are, further, all Freemasons and Carbonari. It was at the Council of Avignon, in 1325, that all secret societies were first condemned. But Freemasons, as such, of whose existence Clement XII. had heard a rumour, were especially anathematized by him in a Bull. And the Inquisitors received strict orders to look after the orthodoxy of the supposed brethren. Benedict XIV renewed this "Constitution," giving six reasons for so doing, and its last Papal confirmation dates 1846, and is signed Pius IX."

The date of the latest allocation against secret societies (Freemasons, Fenians, &c.) is, I believe, Sept. 25, 1865.

It appears then that Father Cuffe, in refusing to bury a deceased Freemason, was justified by the laws of his church. However much, therefore, we deplore the continued hostility of the Roman Catholic Hierarchy to a society founded on the great principles of brotherly love, relief and truth—objects which the Church itself professes to aim at—we must not too hastily, ourselves failing for a moment in that Christian charity which thinketh no evil, condemn as unwarrantable the conduct of a priest, who is bound to obey his ecclesiastical superiors. His practice is simply in accordance with the preaching of the Roman Catholic Church. We can only confess with regret, that, to apply the concluding words of the article above referred to, "they are both signs of the times as singular as they are humiliating."

Yours faithfully and fraternally,
H. C. L.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.

CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague.

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

Extract from "INDIAN ECONOMIST."

"We direct the attention of medical men to a fact observed some years since by ourselves, and corroborated by our subsequent experience, that Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is in many cases of Low Fever immensely superior to Quinine in curative power. We cannot persuade ourselves that the true value of Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is yet properly appraised in India. . . . It may be given with absolute safety even to a child three days old. Were medical men but to make a fair and exhaustive trial of it we are persuaded that it would work a revolution in the treatment of two-thirds of the diseases to which children are subject. Its curative power is simply amazing."

"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he had received a despatch from her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera had been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, Dec. 1. 1864.

From W. VESALIUS PETTIGREW, M.D., Hon. F.R.C.S., England,

Formerly Lecturer on Anatomy and Physiology at St. George's School of Medicine.

"I have no hesitation in stating, after a fair trial of Chlorodyne, that I have never met with any medicine so efficacious as an Anti-Spasmic and Sedative. I have tried it in Consumption, Asthma, Diarrhœa, and other diseases, and am most perfectly satisfied with the results."

From Dr. THOMAS SANDIFORD, Passage West, Cork.

"I will thank you to send me a further supply of Chlorodyne. It was the most efficacious remedy I ever used, affording relief in violent attacks of Spasms within a minute after being taken. One patient in particular, who has suffered for years with periodical attacks of Spasms of a most painful nature, and unable to obtain relief from other remedies, such as opium, &c., finds nothing so prompt and efficacious as Chlorodyne."

From JNO. E. GOULSTONE, M.D., late Principal Surgeon to the Steamship Great Eastern.

"I can confidently state Chlorodyne is an admirable Sedative and Anti-Spasmic, having used it in Neuralgia, Hysteria, Asthma, and Consumption, with remarkably favourable results. It relieved a fit of Asthma in four minutes, where the patient had suffered eleven years in a most distressing manner, no previous remedy having had so immediate and beneficial an effect."

From Dr. B. J. BOULTON and Co., Horncastle.

"We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Anti-Spasmic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after effects."

J. C. BAKER, Esq., M.D., Bideford.

"It is, without doubt, the most valuable and certain Anodyne we have."

CAUTION.—BEWARE OF PIRACY AND IMITATIONS.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was undoubtedly the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, Freeman, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See "Times," 13th July, 1864.

Sold in Bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each Bottle.

UNITED GRAND LODGE.

The Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge of England was held on Wednesday evening at Freemason's Hall, when there was a very large attendance of brethren, and a great array of Provincial Grand Masters and Past Grand officers. The M.W.G. Master, the Marquess of Ripon, presided, having Lord Balfour of Burleigh in the S.W. chair, and Captain Platt in the J.W. Bro. Gibbs, Dist. G. Master of Bombay, acted as Deputy G.M.; and Bro. Bagshaw, Prov. G.M., Essex, as P.G.M. Among the other notabilities in Freemasonry present we observed the following brethren:—Bros. D. Hamilton, Earl of Shrewsbury, Sir Albert W. Woods, (Garter); Colonel Burdett; F. Roxburgh, Q.C.; Æ. J. McIntyre; J. M. Clabon; Rev. R. J. Simpson; Rev. A. B. Fraser; Rev. C. J. Martyn; S. Rawson; Dr. Hogg; J. B. Monckton; T. Fenn; S. Tomkins; H. J. P. Dumas; Jas. Brett; J. Smith; J. Boyd; Brackstone Baker; J. R. Stebbing; E. S. Snell; T. Adams; W. Ough; J. Coutts; Raynham W. Stewart; Wilhelm Ganz; R. J. Spiers; T. Bradford; Hyde Pullen; Joshua Nunn; John Savage; F. Binckes, and Rev. Sir J. Warren Hayes, &c.

Grand Lodge having been formally opened, Grand Secretary read the following letter from the President of the Board of General Purposes:—

"42, Sussex-gardens, March 4th, 1874.
"Dear Grand Secretary,—Will you express to Grand Lodge my regret at not being able to attend in my place to-morrow, and explain that it is due to serious and long-protracted illness.

"Yours truly,
"HORACE LLOYD,
President of the Board of General Purposes."

I am sure, my Lord, said Grand Secretary, very member of Grand Lodge will hear that after read with very great regret. (Hear, hear.) Grand Secretary, by command of the M.W.G.M., read the regulations for the government of Grand Lodge, as is usual at the March Quarterly Communication; and afterwards read the notes of last Quarterly Communication, which were read and carried unanimously.

The next business was the election of the M.W.G.M. for the year, whereupon—

Bro. Standish Grove Grady rose and said: M.W.G.M. and brethren, the Grand Secretary just read to you the nomination of Grand Master which I had the honour of making at the Quarterly Communication of this Grand Lodge in December, and I now rise with feelings of very sincere pleasure and gratification to lay the keystone upon that nomination by re-electing the Most Hon. the Marquess of Ripon, Grand Master of our Order, for the ensuing year. (Applause.) When I had the honour of making the nomination it was with the unanimous approval of this Grand Lodge as confident it is of every member of the Order, of whose wishes, feelings and sentiments, approval will be the faithful echo. During the past year the Marquess of Ripon has done us the honour to fill the throne of our Order, the duties of its members, and the extent of its success have been unprecedented in former times, and its success has been marked by one continuous series of prosperity and unanimity. It is necessary in such an assembly as I am now the honour of addressing to adduce proofs of observation, they are to be found in the facts which I have formerly alluded to as well as in the fidelity and loyalty of the Craft to its principles, and in its adherence and devotion to those principles upon which our Order is founded. I cannot but regard the present and prospects of the Craft and its unparalleled success with the utmost satisfaction; and I am confident that the nobleman whom we have the good fortune and happiness to have to govern our Institution, of whose wisdom and good sense our country has had an opportunity of knowing, whose mind is enriched by the highest principles upon which our Order is founded, and who is the embodiment of those of those precepts and of those practices of our Order who serve him with the allegiance of loyal subjects.

In re-electing the Most Hon. the Marquess of Ripon as Grand Master of our Order, we assure him in the most emphatic manner of the high estimation in which we regard his acceptance of that office, the assiduous attention which he has devoted to the interests of the Craft, and the administration of our affairs amidst his other numerous engagements, the dignity and courtesy with which he treats every member of the Craft, and the firmness, ability, and impartiality with which he has discharged the duties of his exalted station and office. Brethren, I ask you unanimously and with acclamation to re-elect the Most Hon. the Marquess of Ripon, Grand Master of our Order for the ensuing year. (Great applause.)

Bro. Long seconded the motion, and was sure the proposition would be received with hearty unanimity. He also trusted that his Lordship would long continue to preside over Grand Lodge.

The motion was put and carried unanimously and his Lordship was saluted in due form by Grand Lodge.

The M.W.G.M., who on rising was received with hearty cheers, said: Brethren, I beg now to return you my warmest thanks for the great honour which you have just been pleased again to confer upon me. I hope that I need not tell you how highly I appreciate that honour conferred once more with complete unanimity by this great assembly of Masons as thoroughly and completely representing the Craft throughout the country. I assure you, all those of you who are here present, and those whom you represent alike, of the deep sense of gratitude by which I am animated at this renewed proof of your confidence, and I am very happy to be able once more to congratulate you upon the prosperous condition of the Craft at the present time. The Worshipful Brother who proposed my re-election in terms so much too kind and flattering, spoke of that great prosperity and of the truly Masonic Harmony which runs throughout the Craft in every part of the country. Brethren, that is true; but it is not to me as your Grand Master that that happy condition of things is due. I inherited that great heritage of prosperity and harmony from one who during the year that has passed away has been removed from amongst us, from one who had laid the foundation of that prosperity and harmony by a quarter of a century of untiring labour and by continued action, with the one desire to promote the prosperity and harmony of the Craft by every means in his power. When you succeed to such an inheritance, and have to rule a great community in quiet and peaceful times the task is easy. Little credit, therefore, on that score is due to me; but it is indeed a proud thing to be called, to stand at the head of a body of men who, while in the midst of such great prosperity and with ever-increasing numbers, are able to boast—as boast we can in these days of Masonry—that there has not been during the past twelvemonth a single cloud for one moment to over-shadow the perfect brilliancy of our Masonic Harmony. (Hear, hear.) That is a thing of which we may justly be proud, because it shews that we have been acting in the true spirit of this ancient Craft, and that we have been animated by those great principles which we ought ever to remember, and which, be it recollected, we ought to remember even more constantly and more unsparingly when we have to meet not the trials—the purifying trials as they often are—of adversity, but when we have to meet the trials, which are no less great, which attend upon all communities in times of peculiar prosperity.

I trust that we shall always bear in mind the duties that that prosperity casts upon us, that we shall always recollect that the strength of the Order does not lie in the number of its lodges or in the increasing roll of its members; but that it lies in the spirit by which those members are animated, and which lives and breathes in those lodges. (Hear, hear.) It is because I hope that those principles are deep-written in the hearts of all that I do esteem it a great honour once more to be called to preside over you. (Cheers.)

The next business on the paper, is the election of a Grand Treasurer.

Bro. Pearce (33): M.W.G.M. and Brethren, it is my great pleasure to have to propose to you the re-election of our brother Samuel Tomkins as the Grand Treasurer for the ensuing year. I am perfectly prepared, brethren, to hear some indication of great approval when the name of that brother is mentioned. His great fitness and his ability to serve in that position, coupled with, I may say, the large brotherly virtues that he possesses, must be a great recommendation to you all. If I were to go over those many virtues, I should only be travelling in the well-trodden path that many brethren have done before me; and, therefore, I would only say that I shall content myself—because I know it would be most consonant with the feelings of that brother I have mentioned that this proposition should be made in as modest a way as possible, but more modest than I think it really deserves—by proposing, Most Worshipful Grand Master, that our brother Samuel Tomkins be re-elected Grand Treasurer. (Cheers.)

Bro. Grunning (4): I beg most cordially to second the proposition. It is scarcely easy for us to give an adequate proof of our confidence in him; but a renewed expression of it is the best we can give.

Carried unanimously.
The M.W.G.M. in informing Grand Treasurer of the brethren's choice expressed his own hearty concurrence in the choice they had made.

Bro. S. Tomkins: M.W.G.M. and brethren, I assure you it is with very great pleasure that I receive this renewed testimony of your kind feelings of regard. It has been a very great pleasure and a great honour for me to fill the office of Grand Treasurer for so many years; I may say the longer I hold it the more pleasure I have in holding it. Especially it is a great honour to be connected with the Craft in such times, as our Grand Master has said, of pre-eminent prosperity. Long, brethren, and Worshipful Master, may that prosperity continue. I have nothing more to say, but I heartily thank you for your kindness in re-electing me (applause).

The Report of the Lodge of Benevolence for the last Quarter, in which are recommendations for the following grants, was then brought up.

The widow of a brother of the Alexandra Lodge, No. 993, Levenshulme £50.

A brother of the Royal Union Lodge, No. 382, Uxbridge £50.

A brother of the Portsmouth Lodge, No. 487, Portsmouth £50.

Bro. J. M. Clabon, President of the Board of Benevolence, in bringing up the report, said: before I proceed to move the recommendations to Grand Lodge, I would beg to remind Grand Lodge that the Board of Benevolence are spending much less than the income they have, that there is a considerable surplus accumulating every year; but the time is coming, I hope, when that surplus will not be invested in dry consols, but will be spent in doing good. (Bro. Clabon then moved, and Bro. Joshua Nunn, Senior Vice-President, seconded, the above three grants, which were carried unanimously; in the third case, on the Motion of Bro. Clabon, seconded by Bro. John Savage, the money to be entrusted to Bro. Clabon to be given as required.)

Bro. John A. Rucker, Vice-President of the Board of General Purposes, brought up the following report:—

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF GENERAL PURPOSES.

To the United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England.

The Board of General Purposes have to report that memorials or complaints having been received from Br. Hemming and others, of the British Oak Lodge, No. 831, Mile-end, in which, amongst other things it was alleged and charged, acknowledged by the W. Master to be true, that and on a regular Lodge night, the W. Master of his own motion called the Lodge off and left the room with his officers, remaining away five hours; when he returned and resumed the Lodge, the Board duly proceeded to the consideration of the said matters, and summoned before them the several parties.

The W. Master, Brother Hackwell, delivered up the Warrant and Minute Book of the Lodge. The complaining Brethren, the W. Master and others, were severally heard at considerable length, and the Board bestowed great trouble and pains to ascertain the state of feeling amongst the Members, and it is with deep regret that the Board feels itself imperatively called upon in the interests of the Craft to report that the antagonistic feelings prevailing amongst the Members of the British Oak Lodge, No. 831, are such that it appears quite certain that the continued existence and assembling of the Lodge cannot possibly be attended with favourable results either to its own welfare or that of the Craft. Under these circumstances the Board, unwillingly but unanimously, recommend that the Lodge be erased and the Warrant declared forfeited.

The Board consider they should not close this Report without stating, for the information of Grand Lodge, that complaints of a very grave character were heard before them from members of this same British Oak Lodge, No. 831, on August 26th, 1873, when, although the Warrant was returned to the W. Master, he and the Brethren were severely reprimanded by the President, and were then informed by him that the Members of the Board had grave doubts as to whether they ought not then to suspend the Lodge, and earnestly cautioned them as to the future.

(Signed) JOHN A. RUCKER,
Vice-President.

Freemason's Hall, London, W.C.,
17th February, 1874.

Bro. Æ. J. McIntyre, Q.C., Grand Registrar, said: It had been resolved by himself and the other members of Grand Lodge that this case should be asked to be adjudicated upon by the Craft of England. It was a case which had not happened for a great many years that such a resolution had been recommended by the Board of General Purposes. The members of Freemasonry were always careful whenever submission had been made by a lodge, where the Master and Wardens were to be censured it was known that they would have an opportunity of explaining their conduct to Grand Lodge. It had always been the custom of Grand Lodge to give them that benefit. He therefore begged to move "that Lodge 831, should be summoned for the next Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge to shew cause why they should not be erased."

Bro. F. Roxburgh, Q.C., seconded the motion, which was put and carried.

Bro. McIntyre—and I beg also to move that until the next Quarterly Communication the suspension of the lodge be continued.

This was also seconded by Bro. Roxburgh, and carried unanimously.

To the Report of the Board of General Purposes was subjoined a statement of the Grand Lodge Accounts at the last meeting of the Finance Committee, held on Friday, the 13th day of February instant, shewing a balance in the hands of the Grand Treasurer of £4,905 11s. 6d.; and in the hands of the Grand Secretary, for Petty Cash, £75; and for Servants' Wages, £90 17s.

There being no further business before the Grand Lodge it was then formally closed.

KILMARNOCK.—TORCH LIGHT PROCESSION.—

On Friday, Feb. 20, the members of St. Clement Lodge of Masons had a torch light procession. The lodge, preceded by an instrumental band, went through the principal streets to Riccarton, and thence returned to the lodge room in the town. A large crowd followed the novel spectacle.

A Grand Ball will be given by the Domatie lodge (Bro. F. Kent, C.C., W.M.) in aid of the Masonic Charities, on Thursday, April 9th. Full particulars will be duly advertised.

THE RED CROSS OF CONSTANTINE.

ANNUAL ASSEMBLY OF THE GENERAL GRAND CONCLAVE.

On Monday the annual assembly of the General Grand Conclave of the Masonic and Military Order of the Red Cross of Constantine was held at the Regent Masonic Hall, Regent-street. At six o'clock the armed Knights were drawn up in two lines, and shortly afterwards a procession was formed, and Sir Frederick M. Williams, Bart., M.P., entered the room, passing under an arch of steel, whilst Sir Knight Parker played a solemn march on the organ; and, in the absence of the Earl of Bective, the Most Eminent Grand Viceroy, took his seat on the throne. Sir Knight Colonel Burdett, officiated as the Most Eminent Viceroy.

The grand conclave having been opened in Imperial form, Sir Knt. W.R. Woodman, Grand Recorder, read the following report of the Executive Committee for the past year.

"The Executive Committee have much gratification in submitting their Tenth Annual Report, and in congratulating the members of the General Grand Conclave upon the continued progress and prosperity of the Order in all parts of the globe. During the past year twenty-four Conclaves have been established, making a total of 115, chartered by the Grand Imperial Council of England since the revival in 1865. By the organization of independent Grand Councils in the States of Pennsylvania, New York, and Illinois, 30 Conclaves have been removed from the roll; and the Committee have also recently received official notification that a fourth Grand Council was duly organized on the 22nd Dec., 1873, for the conjoined States of Massachusetts and Rhode Island; that Sir Knight Nathaniel G. Tucker was elected Grand Sovereign, and Sir Knight George E. Boyden, Grand Recorder. The post of Representative of the new Grand Council has been very cautiously tendered to Sir Knight Robert Wentworth Little, Grand Treasurer of the Order in the British Empire; but inasmuch as that Officer is already Representative for Pennsylvania, he desires to decline the intended honour, and has recommended that the name of Sir Knight Thomas William White, Grand Assistant Treasurer, be forwarded for the approval of the Grand Sovereign of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, as the Representative of the sister Grand Council in England. In thus holding out the right hand of knightly fellowship to our American freres, the Committee feel that they simply reflect the sentiments which will actuate every British Knight when he hears the announcement of the spread of the Order in America; still, it is but right to add that, while acknowledging the perfect right of the American Grand Councils to restrict the Red Cross Order to Knights Templar within their own several independent jurisdictions, the Executive Committee, in view of the original Statute of the Order, which recognizes every Christian Master Mason as eligible for admission, cannot allow Conclaves duly formed in the United States, in strict accordance with that ancient regulation, and holding charters from England, to be stigmatized as 'spurious' and 'clandestine' because they do not insist upon the Templar qualification, but admit Master Masons professing a belief in the Christian faith. The Committee cherish the hope that the Conclaves referred to—viz., Chicago Conclave, No. 81, and St. George's Conclave, No. 82, Boston, will be regularly recognised by the Grand Councils of their respective States, and be formally admitted under their jurisdiction; after which, as a matter of course, those Conclaves will be bound to conform to the rules adopted by the Supreme Bodies of the Red Cross Order in Illinois and Massachusetts.

"Turning to Great Britain, it is very pleasing to be enabled to note that a large proportion of the Conclaves chartered last year are located in the 'old country'; of these, England counts nine, Scotland one, and Wales no less than four. "Great credit is especially due to Sir Knights Captain F. G. Irwin, Captain G. Turner, and W. Williams, Intendants General, for the great energy which they have evinced in promoting the spread of the Order in their respective divisions; and the Committee have every reason to believe that in Sir Knight C. G. C. Christie, the recently appointed Intendant General for Midlothian and adjacent counties, the Grand Council has secured the services of an officer who will display equal ability and zeal in the important Scottish Division entrusted to his care; and they feel convinced that he will be worthily supported by the Scottish Knights, whose attachment and fidelity to the ancient landmarks of the Order, have ever been conspicuously exemplified during their connection with the Grand Council of England.

"The Committee beg to report that, in pursuance of the resolution, adopted by the General Grand Conclave in March last, a special Grand Conclave was convened at Leicester, by direction of the Grand Sovereign, on the 21st of October, at which Sir Frederick Martin Williams, Bart., M.P., who has held the office of Grand Viceroy since 1866, was nominated as Grand Sovereign in succession to the Earl of Bective, M.P., whose term of office expires at this meeting, in accordance with the Statutes (No. 5.) As the minutes of the moveable Grand Conclave will be duly published, the Committee need only add that the arrangements made for the reception of the Grand Council and Senate by the Leicester Knights, under their esteemed Intendant General, Sir Knight W. Kelly, and the M.P.S. of the Byzantine Conclave, No. 44, Sir Knight S. S. Partridge, K.G.C., were so admirable as to merit and elicit the warmest thanks of the presiding Officer, Colonel Burdett, G.S.G., and the illustrious Knights who accompanied him.

"The Committee regret to state that the Order in India, and particularly in Bombay, has suffered a severe loss by the return to Europe of Sir Knight J. Percy Leith, Chief Intendant General, whose assiduous labours in the cause are so well known; consequently, little progress can be recorded in the East; they trust, however, that Sir Knight Leith will continue to give the benefit of his assistance to the Order at home.

"A Charter for the Diamond Fields, South Africa, has been issued to Sir Knight R. W. H. Giddy, Treasurer General of the Colony, who entered the Bective Conclave, No. 22, during his stay in England. An application for a Provincial Grand Conclave has been received from New Zealand, where the Order is rapidly extending, under Sir Knight Dr. Bulmer's sway, and the Committee will recommend the Grand Sovereign to comply with the request of the applicants.

"The Accounts of the Grand Treasurer were audited on the 14th October, and showed balance on the General Account of £33 5s; the G. F. Almoner's Fund of £84 17s. 2d.; and the Suspende Fund, of £19 1s, making a total of £137 3s. 2d.

"Three donations have been granted from the Almoner's Fund—viz., ten guineas each, to the Royal Masonic Institutions for Boys and Girls, and ten pounds to the Fund, raised for the benefit of the widow of the late V. E. S. Knight Rev. N. Haycroft, D.D., G. Standard Bearer, whose decease was recorded with regret in the last report of the Committee.

"February 25th, 1874."
The reading of this report gave the highest satisfaction, and it was unanimously adopted.

Sir Knt. Little said the next business before the Conclave was to elect a Grand Sovereign, in the place of the Earl Bective, whose period of office had expired. Sir Knt. Colonel Burdett said: he rose with pleasure to propose that Sir Frederick M. Williams, Bart., M.P., be elected Grand Eminent Viceroy, should be elected Grand Sovereign for three years, in the place of the Earl of Bective whose period of office had expired: and from what he knew of Sir Frederick M. Williams, he was sure that he would feel gratified in coming amongst them when he could spare time from his other duties, to enable him to do so. He felt assured that he would do the utmost in his power to promote the interests of every member present, and the order in general.

Sir Knt. Lavender seconded the motion which was put and unanimously carried, amidst cheering.

Sir Knt. Colonel Burdett said: he had great pleasure in communicating officially to Sir Frederick Williams that he had been unanimously elected Grand Sovereign for the next three years.

The Grand Sovereign said he most cordially thanked the Sir Knts. for his election, although he could not hope to discharge the duties in the same able manner as had been done by the Earl of Bective, but he could assure them that nothing should be wanting on his part to promote the prosperity of the order. He did not know whether he should be able to preside at all their meetings, and as he lived nearly 300 miles off, if he was occasionally absent, he must ask for their indulgence, (cheers).

The Acting Grand Marshal then required all the Sir Knts. who were not members of the order of St. John to retire, which having been done, the ceremony of enthronement was proceeded with. The Grand High Chancellor then administered the oath of fidelity.

His Eminence the Acting Grand Viceroy (Col. Burdett), then invested the Grand Sovereign with the crimson robe of state. The Grand High Prelate then handed to him the sceptre, and the Grand Chamberlain presented him with the sword of state.

The Grand Council and other officers then advanced to the altar, and severally vowed faithfully to discharge the duties of their respective offices, and the Grand Heralds proclaimed the Grand Sovereign by his style and titles.

The whole body of Knights then formed into line, and marched past the Sovereign's throne, with banners displayed and swords drawn saluting as they passed; and while this was taking place, Sir Knt. Parker, the Grand Organist played a march on the organ. The Grand High Prelate then pronounced the blessing, and with an anthem the ceremony of enthronement was brought to a close.

Sir Knt. Little then rose and said: that in accordance with the notice he had given in October last, he had great pleasure in moving that a vote of thanks should be given to their late illustrious Sovereign, the Earl of Bective, for the services he had rendered to the Order for the last seven years in promoting its welfare. At the revival of it a few years ago, had not the Earl of Bective and Sir Frederick Williams then rallied round them, they should not have arrived at their present prosperity, and without their vigorous help they never could have come to that state of perfection which they now enjoyed. He regretted that they were about to lose the services of the Earl of Bective, but at the same time they had elevated another old worker in the cause, and one who took an early interest in the Order. He moved that a vote of thanks be engrossed on vellum, and presented to the Earl of Bective.

Sir Knt. Colonel Burdett said, he had great pleasure in seconding the proposition made by Sir Knt. Little. They all knew what the Earl of Bective had done for the Order, for he was always most anxious to assist it in every way in his power, and although he had retired from the head of it, yet, when it lay in his power he would again come amongst them. He had therefore great pleasure in seconding the proposition.

The Grand Sovereign said: he could fully endorse all that had fallen from the proposer and seconder of the motion, for he was sure that no one had taken a greater interest in promoting the prosperity of the Order than the Earl of Bective, and he was also sure that his Lordship would continue to do so.

The motion was then put and unanimously agreed to.

The Conclave was then closed in imperial form and with solemn prayer.

THE BANQUET.

The Grand Sovereign, Officers and Knights, then adjourned to the refectory, where a bountiful repast was provided.

At its conclusion grace was sung by the professional singers, and afterwards "God, Save the Queen." The solo parts by Miss L'Estrange, accompanied by Sir Knt. Parker on the piano-forte.

The Grand Sovereign then rose and said, that the next toast he had to propose he was sure would be received with a hearty welcome, as it was the health of "Their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family." It was true that the Prince of Wales was not a member of their order, but still he always felt a deep interest in all that concerned the welfare of Freemasonry. It was therefore with great pleasure that he proposed the health of "Their Royal Highnesses, the Prince and Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family."

The toast was most enthusiastically responded to.

Sir Knt. Col. Burdett said: he was allowed to propose a toast, which he was confident would be received with enthusiasm in that assembly, although he could hardly do so in appropriate terms. However, he would not trespass on their time, and the toast he had to propose was, "the health of the Most Illustrious Grand Sovereign, Sir Frederick M. Williams, Bart, M.P." (Loud and continued applause). He was perfectly aware when he rose to propose the toast, that it would be received in an enthusiastic manner, and he felt sure that they would never regret the day or the hour when they elected him as their Grand Sovereign. (Renewed cheering). They were aware that as he was a member of Parliament, there were considerable calls upon his time, and they knew how he had discharged his duties, in a manner which perfectly satisfied his Constituents; but now in addition he would be called upon to perform additional duties to the Constituents he had then around him. Sir Fred. M. Williams was not only a friend of the Order, but for a considerable time he had held a high position under the Earl of Bective, their late Grand Sovereign, and he felt sure they would never regret the still higher position in which they had placed him. He gave them the health of Sir Frederick M. Williams, their Illustrious Sovereign, and with a good fire.

The toast was enthusiastically responded to.

Bro. Elmore then sang "Thou art so near and yet so far," in his best style, and for which he received loud and continued applause.

The Grand Sovereign said: he had to thank Colonel Burdett for the manner in which he had proposed his health, and the Sir Knights for having so kindly responded to it, and he must say, that he was extremely proud of the high position in which they had placed him. He had always felt a great interest in the Order, and he sincerely hoped that the Order might still continue to prosper. Colonel Burdett had been pleased to speak of him in very gratifying terms in conjunction with his predecessors, but he was not sure that he deserved all he had said of him. All he could say, was, that he took a deep interest in Freemasonry, and he felt that he had been most fortunate in obtaining such a high position in the Craft. He had received their confidence in the past, and he hoped and trusted that he should deserve it in the future. Before he sat down he had briefly to propose a toast, which he was sure would be most cordially received by all, and the nature of the toast itself, would render it unnecessary for him to make a long speech, as it was the "Health of the Past Grand Sovereign, the Earl of Bective," and he had no doubt that such a toast would be received in the way it deserved. He had left them, but he would often be amongst them, as he took the same interest in the Order as he had always done, and he concluded by proposing his health.

The toast was drank most cordially. Song, Miss L'Estrange, "I love my love."

The Grand Sovereign said: the next toast he had to propose, was the health of one known to them all. When he mentioned the name of the Eminent Viceroy, Colonel Burdett, (loud cheers) he knew the mention of that name would be received with hearty cheering. From the position which Colonel Burdett occupied in Freemasonry, he was known to them all, and in appointing him to be his Viceroy, he should have the assistance of a very valuable friend, and therefore he had great pleasure in proposing the health of Colonel Burdett. (Cheers).

Song, Sir Knt. Parker, "The Red Cross." Words by Sir Knt. Little.

Sir Knt. Col. Burdett said: he believed a man must have nerves of steel adequately to reply to a toast which had been proposed and responded to with such cordiality; and as he did not possess such excessively strong feelings, he could hardly express his thanks for the toast which the Illustrious Sovereign had just proposed. It had given him great pleasure to be present that evening, if he could be of any benefit to the Order, but he felt a greater pleasure in accepting the office which had been conferred upon him that evening by their Illustrious Sovereign, and he hoped that it would be acceptable to every member of the Order. He felt indebted to the members of the order for the position he then occupied. It had been said that there was no locality at present without its lodges, but he would say, that no locality would be perfect without its Red Cross Conclave. Having alluded to circumstances which kept some members of the Craft from them, and the extension of this Order in India, America, and Canada. He thanked them for the kind manner in which the toast had been received, and expressed his desire to use every exertion to promote not only the prosperity of this Order, but every other connected with the Craft.

The Grand Sovereign then gave "The past and present members of the Grand Council," and coupled with it the names of Sir Knight Little. (Loud cheering). He would venture to say, that there was not a lodge or province in the kingdom, where the name of Sir Knt. Little was not known, for there was no brother in the Kingdom who had rendered more assistance to Freemasonry than Brother Little. He believed that through his untiring exertions, this order had been restored, and he therefore had great pleasure in proposing the past and present members of the Grand Council. (Enthusiastic cheering).

Sir Knt. Little, in responding, said he should adopt the salutary rule which had been laid down by making as brief a speech as he could in responding to the toast which had been coupled with his name, and on behalf of those who had borne the heat and burden of the day. This Order had been but recently revived, but they put their shoulders to the wheel, and they saw the state of prosperity to which it had now arrived. They must excuse him if he was a little egotistical when he said he might congratulate himself upon the position at which it had now arrived. From the mustard seed had come the enormous results they had heard from Sir Knt. Woodman, for 116 conclaves had been established in about eight years, which was an event that spoke volumes for the Order and Masonry in general. He was satisfied that the more they rallied round the Red Cross Order the more they would find that it embodied and carried out all those precepts which were taught in Freemasonry. It was to him (Sir Knt. Little) a great pleasure to congratulate Sir Frederick Williams on that day becoming the Sovereign of the order, and he was satisfied that the more that he saw of the order the more he would appreciate the high position in which he was placed. The order had extended to India, America, Canada, and wherever the English language was spoken, and he trusted to see it further extended and multiplied in every part of the world until time should be no more. (Cheers.)

The Grand Sovereign gave "The Illustrous Intendants General of the Order," coupling with the toast the name of Sir Knight Percy Leith.

Song, Bro. Elmore, "As I'd nothing else to do."

Sir Knt. Percy Leith said: he rose with particular gratification to return thanks for coupling his name with the Intendants General of the order, and he felt flattered that his name should have been so coupled when he saw so many distinguished members of the order who knew more about it than he did. He had seen how it was carried out in England, and he hoped to do better when he returned to India.

The Grand Sovereign proposed "The Very Eminent Grand Preceptor and the rest of the Grand Senate."

Sir Knight White returned thanks, and said although there had been a general shift he hoped that in a short time they should shake down and all would go on in a satisfactory manner.

"The Sovereigns and Viceroys of the several Conclaves" for which Sir Knight Moss returned thanks.

The Grand Sovereign gave "The Board of Stewards and Prosperity to the Order," for which Sir Knight Woodman responded.

The Sentinel's toast brought the proceedings to a close, which throughout had been marked with unanimity and the utmost cordiality and harmony.

The Thames Valley Lodge, No. 1460, was consecrated at the Ship Hotel, Shepperton, on Saturday, the 28th instant, at half-past 3 o'clock, p.m., precisely, by the Provincial Grand Secretary, assisted by W. Bro. T. W. White, G. Steward of England as D.C.

FREEMASONRY IN NORTH WALES.

CONSECRATION OF A LODGE AT MOLD.

(From our Special Reporter in Liverpool.)

Within the last few years Freemasonry has progressed in a remarkable degree in the Principality, and nowhere more than in the combined province of North Wales and Shropshire, governed by Bro. Sir Watkin Williams Wynn, Bart., M.P., the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master. This vitality was clearly evinced on Thursday, the 26th ult., by a very large and most influential gathering at the County Hall, Mold, when and where the consecration took place of the "Sir Watkin" Lodge, No. 1,477—named after the popular head of the province—will supply a want hitherto felt in the prosperous assize town of Mold. Up to this time there has been no lodge in the place, and as about 20 brethren of influence have already enrolled themselves under the "Sir Watkin" banner there is every reason to anticipate that it will be highly successful as well as a great convenience to those to whom Masonry is not a mere name, but a bond of true brotherhood. The announcement that the consecration proceedings would be graced by the presence of Bro. Sir Watkin W. Wynn was in itself sufficient to guarantee a large attendance, and, therefore, it was no matter for wonder that brethren attended from nearly every part of the extensive province, taxing the capacity of the hall in which the ceremony took place to its utmost. The weather from early morning was about as unpleasant as a strong wind, incessant rain, and cutting cold could make it, but even with this to detract from the pleasure of the "out" at Mold, there was a strong contingent of brethren from distant places—even from Birkenhead "the city of the (very distant) future." The imposing array of the brethren was thus not only a satisfactory feature of the day's proceedings to the brethren who had had all the hard work of organisation, but a worthy honour to the lodge which bore the honoured household name of "Sir Watkin," whose zeal for Masonry is so well known and greatly valued. It is worthy of note that, during the last few years consecrations have taken place at Wrexham, Bala, Carnarvon, and other places in the Principality, but in none of these places has any lodge been opened with greater éclat than that which formed the centre of attraction on this occasion, at which were present representatives from the provinces of West Lancashire, Cheshire, Herefordshire, South Wales, &c. Amongst the most distinguished of the brethren present were Bros. Sir Watkin Williams Wynn, Bart., M.P., P.G.M.; Dr. J. W. J. Goldsborough, P.P.G.S.W.; W. H. Spaul, P.G. Secretary; John Peters, P.G.S.D.; George Broadbridge, P.P.G.D.C., West Lancashire; and J. B. Boucher, P.G.O. Amongst the visitors were Bros. D. Thomas, P.M. 721; Edward Friend, P.P.J.G.D. Cheshire; T. P. Platt, P.P.S.G.W. Cheshire; Charles Dutton, P.S.G.W., Cheshire; W. Taylor, 425; John Hannah, J. W. 721; Leigh Howell, 425; Thomas L. Cottingham, 425; Thomas Knowles, 721; J. M. Radcliffe, P.M. 605; Edward Jones, J.D., 605; M. M'Nerney, J.W. 605; John Hughes, 1380; E. E. Seller, 721; William Wasley, 721; J. C. Davis, 721; W. H. Warner, P.M. 120, P.P.G.W. Herefordshire; J. N. Davis, 721; Ellis Davies, W.M. 605; John Dennis, W.M. 721; J. S. Lloyd, J.W. 597; W. Scott, P.M. 102; D. C. Jones, 721; J. C. Denton, 425; Dr. S. Spratley, S.G.D. Cheshire; Francis Smith, P.M., 201; John Williams, 421; R. W. Worrall, P.M., 721; J. S. Gerrard, P.P.J.D. Cheshire; Edward Mellon, P.M., 597; J. S. Pierce, S.W. 597; David W. Davies, 721; J. Sydney Dawell, P.M. 108; George Boydell, 425; W. Price, 1126; Thomas M. Lockwood, J.D. 425; J. B. Mackenzie, 1182 and 349; J. S. Pye, 425; F. W. Best, P.M. 704; R. J. Sisson, W.M. 1143, Denbigh; T. Sleight, J.W. 1143; W. D. Holbrook, 1120; George Tibbitts, P.M. 721; James Knox, I.G. 425; John M'Hattie, J.W. 425; E. Sutton, Jones, J.S. 1143. Amongst the members of the new lodge present were Bros. J. S. Salmon, P.M. 425, W.M. designate; A. J. Brereton, John E. Birch, C. J. Trevor, — Roper, T. Shimmin, D. Edwards, Rowland Morgan, S. Beresford, Algerdon Potts, John Williams, William Jones, J. D. Rowlands, R. Roberts, John Lear, A. F. Jones, J. L. Williams, A. J. Barrett, and Albert G. Smith.

The brethren assembled in the anteroom shortly after three o'clock, and, having clothed, entered the lodge, held in the grand jury room, when the craft lodge was duly and solemnly opened in the three degrees by Bro. R. W. Worrall, P.M. 721; Bro. D. Thomas, P.M. 721, acting as S.W.; and Bro. J. Dennis, W.M. 721, acting as J.W., the brethren of the new lodge being ranged in proper order, the Provincial Grand Lodge of North Wales and Shropshire, the most distinguished representatives being Bro. Sir Watkin Williams Wynn, Bart., M.P., R.W.P.G.M., entered the lodge room, and when the P.G.M. had taken his seat on the throne the usual honours were given. Bro. George Broadbridge, P.P.G.D.C., West Lancashire, acted as M.C. at the reception, as well as during the whole of the ceremony, and the manner in which he fulfilled his duties elicited general admiration.

The R.W.P.G.M. then opened the Provincial Grand Lodge, Bro. C. Dutton, P.S.G.W., Cheshire, acting as S.G.W.; Bro. E. Friend, P.P.J.G.D., Cheshire, acting as J.G.W.; and Bro. J. P. Platt, P.P.S.G.W., acting as P.G. Pursuivant.

Bro. Sir W. W. Wynn, P.G.M., as presiding officer, addressed the brethren, and said they were met together to consecrate that lodge at Mold. He had a strong hope that, from the manner in which it had been inaugurated, and the spirit displayed by all the brethren, it would prove an honour to Masonry and a great good to the order generally. After Bro. Spaul, P.G. Sec. for the province of North Wales and Shropshire, had read the petition and warrant of constitution of the new lodge, Bro. Dr. J. W. J. Goldsborough, P.P.G.S.W., proceeded to consecrate the lodge in solemn form, according to the approved ritual. The R.W.P.G.M., as presiding officer, then inquired of the brethren if they approved of the officers named in the warrant, and this having been signified unanimously, a solemn piece of music was sung. The consecration ceremony was then proceeded with in a most effective manner, Bro. Dr. Spratley, P.G.S.D., Cheshire, bearing the corn; Bro. Sisson, W.M. 1143, carrying the wine, Bro. G. Broadbridge, P.P.G.D.C., W.L., the oil; and Bro. the Rev. D. Edwards, senior curate of Mold, the censor. The musical portion of the ceremony was rendered with impressive effect by Bro. Halliday, 721 (presiding also as organist); Bro. Conway, 425; Bro. J. Knowles, 721; and Bro. T. J. Hughes, 216 (Liverpool). Himmell's anthem, "Incline thine ear," was given with splendid effect by the musical brethren, Bro. T. J. Hughes' solo being especially noticeable.

The position of installing master was then taken by Bro. J. P. Platt, P.P.S.G.W., Cheshire, and he proceeded to induct Bro. J. Salmon into the chair of the W.M., with all the ceremonial peculiar to the occasion. After a board of installed masters had been held, and the brethren generally had saluted in the several degrees, the following officers were invested for the ensuing year:—Bros. A. J. Brereton, S.W.; J. Corbett, J.W.; Rev. D. Edwards, chaplain; R. W. Lewis, treasurer; J. Beresford, secretary; A. Potts, S.D.; J. Williams, J.D., and J. E. Birch, I.G. Bro. J. Williams was unanimously elected tyler of the lodge. After the investiture of the officers, the newly-installed W.M. proposed a vote of thanks to Bro. Sir Watkin W. Wynn, P.G.M., for his great kindness in attending the consecration that day. The motion, which was seconded by the S.W., was carried by acclamation. The R.W.P.G.M., in acknowledging the compliment, expressed a hearty desire for the prosperity of Lodge 1477.—Votes of thanks were also cordially passed to Bro. Dr. Goldsborough (consecrating officer) and Bro. Platt, (installing master), who were elected honorary members of the new lodge.

GROSBYS BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to GROSBYS' BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.

Buxton.—Phoenix Lodge of St. Ann (No. 1235).—On Thursday the brethren of the Phoenix Lodge, and the companions of the Royal Arch Chapter of St. Ann, celebrated their anniversary by a most sumptuous banquet at St. Ann's Hotel, after the year's installations and appointments of officers had taken place in the lodge. There was a very good attendance of the brethren of the lodge, and the visitors included Bros. J. M. Cranswick, D.D., P.G.C., P.M., East Lancashire, and Chaplain "Robt. Burns," 599; Chas. Affleck, P.P.J.G.D. East Lancashire, P.M. 204, and P.Z. 204; J. Comyn, P.M., P.Z. Commercial 44; Thos. Dand, P.P.G.S.B., Devon, P.M. St. John's 39; John Thorpe, P.M. Peveril of the Peak, 654; S. W. Ready, P.M. 654; Capt. Arkwright, M.P., 884; J. Barrowby, W.M. 654; Thos. H. Holt, 654; James Whitehead, S.W. 654; John D. Simpson, 654; James Taylor, S.D. Cestrian, 425; Robert H. Swindlehurst, J.D. Loyalty, 320; Bernard Meyer, Lebanon, 1326; Jas. King, Anchor and Hope, 37; and others. The following brethren of the lodge were present:—Rev. A. A. Bagshawe, M.A. P.P.G.C., P.S.G.W., W.M.; F. Turner, I.P.M.; J. Taylor, S.W.; W. Millard, J.W.; W. Smith, S. Taylor, E. J. Sykes, I. Wilkinson, W. Goodwin, E. C. Milligan, J. I. Lawson, W. Skinner, W. Boughen, J. C. Lyde, G. F. Barnard, A. Barnett, Rev. A. J. Harrison, D.D.; J. Duke, G. Goodwin, C. Adams, Radbury, J. Martin, W. Shawe, G. Marsden; W. Duke, P.M., J. C. Bates, and W.M. Messour (at banquet only). The W.M. elect, Bro. Josiah Taylor, was duly installed in his office, the important and impressive duties being performed in a most impressive and effective manner, after which most interesting ceremony the W.M. invested the following officers:—Bro. Wm. Smith, S.W.; E. C. Milligan, J.W.; J. Harrison, D.D., Chaplain; G. F. Barnard, Assurer; W. Broughen, Sec.; E. J. Sykes, J. H. Lawson, J.D.; J. Whalley, St. B.; I. Wilkinson, D.C.; G. Marsden, Organist; P. Gros, I.G.; W. Goodwin, S.; W. Shawe, S. The lodge was then closed, and all adjourned to the Gros Hotel, where a splendid banquet had been prepared for them in the large dining room. The tables were beautifully laid out, the rich and glass being decorated and relieved with sprigs of acacia, and some of the finest flowers from Chatsworth Gardens. The Gros and his partner, Mr. J. Harrison, vaunted themselves of the talent and large resources of their celebrated establishment to the full effect and eclat to the event, and fully convinced the guests realise the truth of the saying "A Good Dinner is a Liberal Education." A Good Dinner the following toasts, with the usual interspersed with songs, were:—"The Queen and the Craft;" "H.R.H. Prince of Wales, the Princess of Wales, and the Royal Family;" "M.W.G.M. Marquess of Ripon; R.W.D.G.M. the Earl of Devon, with the Officers, past and present of the Grand Lodge;" "R.W.P.G.M. of the Marquess of Hartington, M.P.; W.D.P.G.M., Houghton Charles Okeover, and the Provincial Grand Lodge Officers and present;" "The Principals of the Lodge;" "The Worshipful Master;" "The Worshipful Board of Installing Masters;" "The Immediate Past Master, Bro. A. A. Bagshawe, P.S.G.W.;" "The Visitors," to which Capt. Arkwright, M.P., responded; "The Retiring Principals of the Chapter;" "The Charities;" "The Officers of the Lodge and Chapter, past and present;" The Tyler's Toast, and others. In the course of the proceedings a very handsome P.M. jewel was presented by Bro. Josiah Taylor, W.M., to Bro. A. A. Bagshawe, M.A., P.S.G.W., P.P.G.C., P.C. 1235, &c., from Bro. Thos. Bragg, P.M. 74; 1016; 1246; P.P.G.S.D Warwick, &c., and the present was acknowledged in the most feeling terms. Bro. J. M. Cranswick strongly protested against the recent refusal by a Roman Catholic Priest to bury a Freemason, and advocated an appeal to Government on the matter. The gathering from first to last was a most successful one.

MARKET RASEN.—Bayon's Lodge (No. 1286).

—When Bro. the Rev. John C. K. Saunders, M.A., was installed W.M. of this lodge, he announced his intention, as time and circumstances would permit, during his year of office, of delivering a course on lectures on Freemasonry. On the 2nd inst., after having held a Lodge of Instruction, he delivered his introductory lecture. "What is Freemasonry?" was its subject. He first examined the etymological derivation of the word, "Masonry," and its prefix 'Free,' and then proceeded to examine the well-known definition of Freemasonry, pointing out wherein that definition is defective, and suggesting such an alteration as would more clearly express the true principles of the Order. He then proceeded to point out what those principles are, whence derived, and what their effects. After giving a general outline of the objects of the Institution, the lecturer showed also what Masonry is not, and combated the various erroneous opinions which are often held by the outer world respecting the fraternity; and concluded with an earnest exhortation to the brethren by their lives, by their united and individual exertions for the welfare of the Order, to prove that the principles of Freemasonry, so divine in their origin, holy in their purposes, are conducive for the best interests of man.

[We cannot but think that if other W.M.'s were to adopt a somewhat similar plan of explaining and illustrating the principles and ceremonies of the Order, great benefit would result, as it is to be feared there are many brethren who though most worthy men and Masons, are lamentably deficient in their knowledge of what Freemasonry really is.—Ed. F.]

ROYAL STANDARD LODGE (No. 1298).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held at the Marquess Tavern, Canonbury, on Tuesday, the 3rd inst. The officers present were Bros. W. J. Woodman, W.M.; H. Ballantyne, I.P.M.; Wilson, P.S.W., acting S.W.; Cattlin, J.W.; Rev. R. J. Simpson, P.G.C. England, Chaplain; Rutherford, Treasurer; R. Shackell, P.M. 33, P.P.G.P. Hants, Hon. Sec.; Rafter, S.D.; Dupont, J.D.; Wright, I.G. Among the members, of which there were a very large number, this being the night of installation, we observed Bros. J. H. Younghusband, P.M., P.Z., P.P.G.J.W., West Lancashire, C. Woodman, Stevens, Dickinson, Mott, Cohen, Blackbee, Moxon, Blay, Shearman, Buderus, and Bigley. There were also several visitors, among whom we observed Bros. J. Terry, P.M. of the United Strength, P.P.P.G.S.B. Herts, &c.; R. Wentworth Little, P.M. of the Burdett Lodge, P.G. Sec. Middlesex, &c.; Barlow, W.M. Kent, No. 15; Howe, W.M. Prince Leopold Lodge; Lee, of the Rochester Lodge (N.Y.), No. 660; Jaques, 1158; Hall, of the Belgrave, No. 749, &c. The minutes of the previous meeting being confirmed, Bro. Ballantyne took the chair, and in his usual excellent manner raised Bros. Hunter and Watford, and initiated Bros. Shearman and Hurrell. The Wardens' chairs were then vacated by Bros. Wilson and Cattlin, and occupied by Bros. Little, as S.W., and Terry, J.W., so as to assist Bro. Ballantyne with the installation. Bro. Younghusband, who may be considered the father of the lodge, he having consecrated it, then in his usual kind manner presented Bro. K. Shackell, P.M. 30, who is the founder of the lodge, and who has acted as Hon. Sec. since its foundation, and worked it up to its present high position, as

as Worshipful Master elect, he having been unanimously elected to the high office, for installation, which ceremony was performed by Bro. Ballantyne, in an excellent manner, which called forth the plaudits of the brethren. Bro. Shackell then appointed and invested his officers as follows:—Bro. Cattlin, S.W.; Rafter, J.W.; R. J. Simpson, M.A., P.G. Chaplain of England, Chaplain; Rutherford, Treasurer; Bigley, Secretary; Wright, S.D.; Cohen, J.D.; Blackbee, Organist; Gladwell, I.G.; Buderus, D.C.; Stevens, A.D.C., and Bros. Blay and Shearman, Stewards. In doing so the W.M. informed the several officers that they owed their appointments to their regular attendance at the lodge, seniority, and ability to perform their duties, and we think it would be well if the several lodges were all to adopt the same course in the appointment of officers, by which means we should find the work better done, as a rule, than it is very frequently now done in some lodges. In accordance with the resolution passed on the last lodge night, the W.M. then presented to Bro. W. J. Woodman, P.M., a very handsome gold Past Master's jewel, as a mark of their appreciation for the interest evinced by him for the welfare of the lodge. According to the notice of motion given at the last meeting, Bro. Ballantyne proposed, and Bro. Shackell, the W.M. seconded, that the sum of ten guineas be given from the lodge funds to head Bro. Moxon's Steward's list, for the Girls' School, which was unanimously carried. Bro. Ballantyne having evinced so much interest for the welfare of the lodge, a committee, consisting of the W.M. and the officers, were appointed to consider the best means of acknowledging his valuable services. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to an excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Fuller. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were well given and received. The W.M. being honoured with the company of Bros. Terry, Secretary to the Royal Masonic Girls' School, gave the toast of "The Masonic Charities," and in doing so, spoke of what the Royal Standard was doing, and hoped to do in the future for those charities, and with the toast he coupled the names of the worthy Secretaries, Bros. Terry and Little, Bro. Cattlin, the late Steward of the Benevolent Fund, and Bro. Moxon, Steward for the Girls' School, all of whom responded in their usual happy and well-chosen manner, giving full details of the several institutions.

CARDIFF.—Langley Lodge (No. 28).—The installation of the W.M. of this lodge took place on the 26th ult. The Secretary having read a dispensation from the Grand Lodge of Mark Masters, granting permission to instal Bro. John Rogers, S.W., as W.M. for the ensuing year, he not having passed the chair of a regular Craft Lodge, Bro. S. Weichert, I.P.M., proceeded with the ceremony of installation, which he performed in a very able and most impressive manner. The W.M. then invested his officers as follows:—Bros. Wm. Williams, jun., S.W.; J. Hurman, J.W.; T. W. Jacob, M.O.; S. W. Hurford, S.O.; Marks, J.O.; South, Treas.; Glass, Roy. M.; N. D. Marks, Sec.; Ellis, S.D.; J. C. Sladen, J.D.; Edwards, I.G. A cordial vote of thanks was proposed, seconded, and carried unanimously, to Bro. Weichert, Installing Master, for his services on the occasion. Bro. Weichert suitably acknowledged the compliment. A vote of thanks to the visitors, coupled with the name of Bro. C. Holmes, P.M. 109, was carried unanimously and responded to. Several candidates for advancement were proposed, and the lodge closed in due form and perfect harmony. The banquet afterwards took place at the Royal Hotel, and the brethren passed a very pleasant and agreeable evening.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Glasgow (No. 441).—The festival was celebrated on Friday, the 27th ultimo. It consisted of a soiree, concert, and assembly, and was held in their own hall, Struthers-street, which was filled. The chair was occupied by the R.W.M., Bro. W. H. Jackson, who expressed the pleasure it gave him see such a gathering of the friends of 441. He was glad on this occasion to welcome the ladies to his lodge room, and if they knew what the benefits of Freemasonry really were they would cease to complain of its being a secret society, from which they were excluded, but they were not excluded from its benefits, but they had a larger benevolent fund in which, should any of them ever require it, they were all entitled to participate. Masonry had many advantages, just to mention two, applicable to a commercial city like this, where men were often leaving for foreign parts, here, before they left they would find kind hearts to press them, and caress them, and to bid them good-bye, and when after a long and perilous voyage, they landed on a distant shore, by the aid of the Masonic Calendar they would find out where the lodge met, and there they would meet again with the fraternal grasp of the hand, and the kind enquiry, "Brother, what can we do to assist you as a stranger in this land of ours?" Even if they did not want pecuniary aid the kind advice and hints then given to a brother might be of priceless value. (Cheers.) He then graphically sketched a shipwreck, and the relief coming from a crew whose captain was a Mason. These and many other reasons should induce the ladies to rejoice that their husbands and brothers were Masons. (Cheers.) The concert then began, and at the conclusion, Bro. Wheeler, of 73, delivered an address on the three grand principles of Masonry, viz., Brotherly Love, Relief, and Truth. After the second part of the concert, Bro. Gray, No. 1, Journeyman's Lodge, Edinburgh, proposed a vote of thanks to the committee, who had provided them with such an intellectual treat. He also congratulated the lodge on the number of military brethren present, paying some well deserved compliments to the gallant 21st regiment, of which they were members. Bro. Hugh Tulloch, I.P.M., highly complimented Bro. Jackson for his conduct in the chair, who suitably acknowledged the compliment. The concert was ably sustained by Messrs. MacDonald, Gray, Allen, and Christie, and Miss MacLean. The ball commenced at twelve o'clock, to the enlivening strains of the band of the 21st regiment, many of whom are members of the lodge, and by the kindness of the Colonel and Bandmaster, their services were gratuitously given on this occasion.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Union (No. 332) held their regular meeting on Monday, March 2nd, 1874. Bro. MacNair, R.W.M., in the chair. Three candidates were initiated into the Order in the careful manner in which all Bro. MacNair's work is performed, after which two Fellow Crafts, belonging to the Kilwinning Lodge, No. 4, were, at the request of Bro. Keild, the R.W.M., raised to the sublime degree.

GLASGOW.—Lodge St. John's (No. 3½), held their usual meeting on Tuesday, in their own Hall, Bro. F. Fletcher, R.W.M., in the chair, when the unusual number of seven brethren were raised at one time. St. John's has always been celebrated for its excellent Past Masters, and doubtless the present occupant of the chair will not detract from the ancient honour of this, the oldest lodge in the province of Glasgow.

GLASGOW.—Thistle and Rose Lodge (No. 73).—This lodge met on Tuesday, March the 13th, Bro. Geo. Weston, R.W.M.; J. Bannerman, S.W.; J. McGregor, J.W.; R. Richards, Secretary; W. Watson, Treasurer; and a number of visitors. There were two candidates for installation, which ceremony was creditably worked by the new Master. Two E. A.'s were then raised to the second degree, Bro. A. M. Wright, R.W.M. of 103, officiating.

GLASGOW.—The Clyde Lodge (No. 408).—This lodge held their usual meeting on Friday, March 6th, D. Dunvie, R.W.M., in the chair. J. McGenney, S.W.; F. Capit, J.W.; J. Martin, Secretary; F. Harper, Treasurer; and a very large attendance of members and visitors. After the usual lodge business, Bro. R. Mitchel, a member, and also P.M. of 332, spoke at some length on the refusal of the D.P.G.M. to allow the lodge to bury with Masonic honours Bro. Mitter this week, who was the oldest Mason in Glasgow, having been a member of the Craft above 65 years, and an affiliated member in this province for 23 years. Several other brethren also regretted that the permission had not been, given saying it was the first time it had been refused, and our deceased brother, though not rich in this world, had always shown them, through a long life, that he was possessed of true Masonic virtues.

ANNUAL FESTIVAL OF KILWINNING (No. 4).—This ancient lodge held their festival in their own hall, on Wednesday, March the 4th. The lodge was opened in due and ancient form by Bro. A. Thorburn, its R.W.M., assisted by Bros. Jameison, S.W.; and Johnston, J.W.; on the dais were Bros. J. Steel, P.M. and D.P.G.M. of Glasgow; J. Sage, P.M. 4 and 360; Captain Dewar, 4; J. Wheeler, 73; J. B. McNair, R.W.M. 332; J. Buchanan, P.M. 408; and G. Wilson, C. 27, while the Wardens were supported by Bros. W. B. Pattison, 5; R. Fraser, 27; W. Bassett, 27; and W. Porter, 441. A most excellent, as well as substantial menu, had been provided by Brother J. Mullings, a worthy member of the lodge. The cloth having been cleared, the R.W.M. gave the usual loyal toasts, then "The Three Grand Lodges of England, Ireland, and Scotland." To that of "The Army, Navy, and Volunteers" Capt. Dewar replied; in the course of his remarks, he reminded the lodge that a member of their own, a worthy son of a worthy sire, also one of their own members, Captain Allison, had highly distinguished himself recently in Ashantee, and as an officer of the Volunteers he could promise that if ever the necessity should arise that they would not disgrace their brothers in the regular army. The J.W. gave "The Visiting Brethren," coupling it with Bro. G. W. Wheeler, of 73 and Bro. Buchan, P.M. of 408, both of whom suitably acknowledged the compliment. The S.W. proposed "The P.G.L." They might well be proud to know that their I.P.M., Bro. Steel, had the honour of being Substitute P.G.M. of the province. Bro. Steel, S.P.G.M., was glad to acknowledge the flattering reception they had given to that sentiment. The P.G.L. he was happy to say, were not only working harmoniously amongst themselves, but also with all the daughter lodges, and no lodge in the kingdom was more loyal than Kilwinning, of which he was proud to be a member, as few lodges could show such an illustrious roll of names as those inscribed in their records. Bro. MacNair, R.W.M. of 332, having asked for the gavel, said it afforded him great satisfaction to be allowed to propose as the next toast "Prosperity to Kilwinning No 4, and Long Life to her Master." (Great cheering). Bro. A. Thorburn, R.W.M., said, as this was a toast not in the programme, they must pardon him if he was not prepared with an elaborate reply. Bro. Wheeler in his speech had alluded to their antiquity, and to their having lately recovered their old minute books, he had the oldest now laying before him, and would give them a few extracts to show how this lodge worked in 1735; by reading them some minutes taken in that year, and he thought the lodge might profit by some of the lessons there taught. He found that any member absenting himself and not contributing to the charity box after having been thrice warned was expelled from the lodge. Bro. Thorburn read several very interesting extracts, promising the lodge that whenever they had no pressure of business, he would read over to them some of the charges and lectures therein contained, some of them the contributions of master minds of bygone days. Bro. G. Wilson, of 27, proposed "The P.M.'s, and other officers of the lodge." It had been his good fortune to have known, and to have been intimately acquainted with all their Masters for twenty years back, and they could boast illustrious names like Sir A. Allison, (distinguished also as a judge and historian), Professor Nicol, and other eminent men, and he was proud to see that the present officers were active and attentive to their duties. The S.W. gracefully acknowledged the compliment. Bro. Sage, P.M., gave "Freemasonry all over the World." Since he had sat in that chair, he had spent many years abroad, and in America, in China, and Australia, he could testify to the high estimation in which Scotch Masonry was held. It had been his high privilege to hold High Commissions abroad, both in the Craft and Arch, having been the first to open a R.A. chapter in the latter country, and he had been well received by Masons working under the English, the Irish, and the American Constitutions. Bro. Carmichael proposed "The Masonic Press." Bro. Wheeler replied on behalf of The Freemason, showing that if Masonry was to hold its proper position in the world the brethren must become readers of Masonic literature as well as attend at lodge. "Happy to Meet, and Sorry to Part" was the next toast, and after the lodge had been closed, all joined in singing, "Auld Lang Sayne." Excellent songs were sung during the evening by Bros. Robert Fraser, J. Macdonald, T. Mullins, J. Johnstone, Grant, McCoullough, and others, all being delighted with their evening with Kilwinning No. 4.

GLASGOW.—St. Andrew's Chapter (No. 69).—On Friday an emergency meeting was held to confer this degree on three brethren from Cambleton. We understand these gentlemen, with others, have come to Glasgow with a view, as soon as there were a sufficient number exalted, to open a Royal Arch Chapter in Cambleton. St. Andrews was opened by T. D. Humphries, Z., as Mark Master; G. W. Wheeler, S.W.; and G. Heron, J.W.; when Bros. Duncan, Drain, and John McNaughton were advanced to this degree. A lodge of Excellent Masters was then opened, with the same officers present, when Comp. T. Halket conferred on them that degree. A Royal Arch Chapter was then held, T. Halket, Z. 113, P.G.T., as Z.; T.D. Humphries, Z. as J.; and D. Campbell, H.; Comp. Balfour, P.Z., 78, and G. W. Wheeler, H. 73, as Sojourner, when the same two gentlemen were regularly exalted as Arch Masons. Thanks were given to the visitors for attending at a short notice to exalt these brethren from a distance, who could not attend at the regular chapter meeting.

EDINBURGH CONSISTORY OF THE 30TH DEGREE.—At a meeting of this Consistory, held in Freemasons' Hall, George-street, on Friday, the 6th inst, Bro. H. J. D. Copland, R.W.M., St. Luke's Lodge, No. 44, was admitted to the 18th and Comp. Bailie J. J. Muirhead, R.W.M. Mary's Chapel, No. 1, was admitted to the 30th degree.

CONSECRATION OF THE HENLEY LODGE, (No. 1472).

The Henley Lodge of Freemasons was consecrated and established at North Woolwich, with grand ceremony and great eclat, on Friday, February 20, the importance of the occasion, and the sublimity of the ancient ceremonial being augmented by the presence of the Grand Officers—V.W. Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary, who was appointed by the M.W. Grand Master to officiate; the Rev. Bro. Simpson, P.G. Chaplain; Bro. J. Terry, P.P.G.S.B., Secretary to the Aged Freemasons' B. I.; and others holding high office in the Craft. The warrant of the new lodge (No. 1472) establishes it at the house of Bro. E. West, P.P.G.S.D., Herts, the Three Crowns, and requires that it shall not be removed without especial sanction from the district known as North Woolwich; it is an off-shoot of the Nelson Lodge at Woolwich, on the other side of the river, a lodge which is the parent of a flourishing progeny, including the Capper, at Tidal Basin, and the Sydney, at Sidcup. The Henley Lodge has been founded to meet a pressing demand which has grown up of late years with the growth of Mr. Henley's telegraph factory, and other large works in the neighbourhood.

At three o'clock, the petitioners for the new lodge, and a number of brethren from other lodges, assembled and proceeded to the lodge room, where the presiding officer appointed as his Wardens, pro tem:—Bro. P.M. Graydon, P.P.G.S.D., Kent (S.W.), and Bro. W.M. Hobson, W.M., 700 (J.W.). The lodge was then opened, and the beautiful ceremony of the consecration was gone through in a most superb and impressive manner. The address of the Rev. P. G. Chaplain was eloquent and practical. He enjoined on the brethren of the new lodge to make the principles of Freemasonry their rule in life—to practice charity, temperance, and morality; to conduct the duties of their lodge decently and in order, to cultivate degree fraternal affection and mutual esteem, and so to conduct themselves that other lodges should make the Henley lodge their model of perfection, and its members should be respected of all men. The musical portion of the proceedings was rendered by an efficient choir, under the direction of Bro. M. Sherwin, who presided at the organ. After the dedication, &c., the lodge was declared constituted, and the first Master of the Lodge, Bro. H. G. Sisley, was installed with the customary formula, and duly saluted in the several degrees. The W.M. then appointed and invested his officers, who are:—P.M. Bros. J. Rowland, I.P.M.; W. Griffith, S.W.; J. H. Chapman, J.W.; J. Barwick, Treas.; Braysbaw, P.M. Sec.; J. Ives, S.D.; W. Mayes, J.D.; Captain and Adj. Creagh, I.G.; Steedman, Tyler. A number of propositions for new members, and notice of some work for the next meeting, were then received, and resolutions, thanking the Grand Secretary, the Past Grand Chaplain, and Bro. Terry, for their services, and appointing them hon. members of the lodge, were carried; after which the lodge was closed in due form. The golden vessels belonging to the Grand Lodge were used in the ceremony of consecration, and were in charge of Bro. Payne, the Grand Lodge Tyler, their use having been granted by Bro. Sir Albert Woods, Grand Director of Ceremonies.

At half-past six a magnificent banquet was served in the lodge room, and about forty brethren duly clothed, sat down. The excellence of the carre, the quality of the fare, and the perfection of the wines, were themes of general admiration. "The Queen and the Craft" was given with the usual honours, followed by "The M.W. Grand Master," and "P.G.M. His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales." The next toast was "The Deputy Grand Master and the rest of the Grand Officers."

The V.W. and Rev. Bro. Simpson, P.G. Chaplain, responded, remarking, in the course of his observations, that while the change of ministry had required the Grand Master to lay down his robe, it had enabled the Deputy Grand Master to take it up, so that, whichever party was in power, Freemasonry was always represented in the councils of the nation. (Cheers.) He thanked the Henley Lodge for its princely entertainment, and expressed a hope, now that he was a member, that it would not be his last visit to the lodge. (Cheers.) The W.M. afterwards proposed "The Consecrating Officers."

The V.W. Bro. Hervey, Secretary of Grand Lodge, responded in suitable terms, and proposed "The W. Master, Bro. Sisley, and Successor to the Henley Lodge." He said that Bro. Simpson, Bro. Terry, and himself, had gladly availed themselves of the opportunity, so seldom presented near London, of coming down to consecrate the new lodge, and add another link to the long chain of lodges on the English register. He commended the W.M. to the support of his brethren, as the Master of a new lodge had many difficulties to contend against, which were unknown in old established lodges; and he trusted that the lodge would be so shaped and moulded as its youth, that it might become a model, not only for the neighbourhood, but for the Craft in general. From the great success which had attended this, its first meeting, he augured a bright future for the Henley Lodge.

The W.M. Bro. Sisley, in response expressed a deep sense of the honour conferred upon him by the post in which he had been installed, and the especial favour bestowed upon the lodge, in appointing such illustrious personages at their installation. He had every confidence in the officers of the lodge and the members generally, believing that they would give him their hearty assistance in the work before him, and zealously cooperate with him in the endeavour to make the lodge a pattern of harmony and good work, and an ornament to the Craft, worthy the name of the great engineer after whom it had been called. There was no charitable effort in Mr. Henley's name was not conspicuous, in like manner, he hoped that the Henley lodge might be a prominent supporter of their and glorious Masonic Charities, for charity is the first impulse of the true Freemason. Secretary of the Asylum for Aged Free-masons was Bro. Terry, now present, and he was sure that he would be well pleased at the next meeting to see a steward appointed from the Henley Lodge with £200 in his pocket. In conclusion, he expressed a hope, that, with the assistance and indulgence of the officers and members of the lodge, he should be enabled to steer the lodge safely through the shallows near the shore, and hand it over, a year hence, to his successor, safely launched on the ocean of permanent prosperity.

The healths of "The Visitors" and "The Officers" followed, and the Tyler's solemn remembrance of "all poor brethren by land and sea," brought the proceedings to a termination.

The Rev. Bro. Simpson has consented to become the Lodge Chaplain.

THE RECENT MASONIC BALL IN LIVERPOOL.

At the final meeting of the Masonic Ball Committee, held at the Masonic Temple, Liverpool, on Friday evening, the 27th ult., it was definitely ascertained that the actual monetary result of the ball recently held at the Town Hall, after paying all expenses, amounted to the handsome sum of £224 11s 1d., which will be given to the funds of the West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution. This is the largest amount which has ever been realised in connection with the annual ball, with the exception of what is known as the "royal" year. Cordial votes of thanks were passed to Bro. Dr. J. K. Smith, Chairman; C. H. Hill, Vice-Chairman; D. W. Winstanley, Secretary; and R. Brown, Treasurer, for their valuable services.

Masonic Tidings.

A Day Club of Instruction has been formed, which is held at the Windsor Castle, Victoria Station. The inauguration meeting took place on Wednesday, March 4th. The want of a day lodge for the instruction of Masons, whose occupation will not permit of their constant attendance at the evening lodges, is a requirement which has been long felt in the neighbourhood. The club is under the Preceptorship of Bro. Ash, a very able P.M., and there is every prospect that when it becomes generally known it will be numerously attended. The club will be held every Wednesday from 2 till 4 p.m. It is named the Union Club of Instruction, being in conjunction with the club which is held on Friday evenings.

The Great City Lodge of Instruction will be opened on Monday the 19th inst., at the offices of the London Warehousemen's Association, 33, Gutter Lane, E.C. The Fifteen Sections will be worked by Bro. T. Poore, W.M. 720, the Preceptor.

The William Preston Chapter will be consecrated on Saturday, 21st inst. at 3 o'clock, at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, Bro. Bro. Worrell is the M. E. Z. Designate.

As many questions have been asked us about Bro. Henry Watson's excellent pamphlet on the Charities, we beg to remind our readers that the pamphlet was reprinted, "in extenso," by Bro. Henry Watson's kind permission, in the March number of the "Masonic Magazine," and can be obtained from 198, Fleet-street.

We are always ready to hail with satisfaction any improvements in the manner of conducting financial business, and the extension of the cheque system bids fair to confer a great boon on a large class of the community hitherto debarred from keeping banking accounts. Messrs. G. Barker and Co., 39 and 40, Mark Lane, London, E.C., especially deserve our notice, as by imposing no limit on the amount of balance to be kept, and at the same time allowing good interest on the balance in hand (4 per cent.), unusual inducements are held out to open accounts with this firm, who also allow a uniform rate of 5 per cent. on deposits at seven days' notice. We are not surprised to learn that a large measure of success has hitherto attended Messrs. Barker in this branch of their business, and have no doubt that many will appreciate the facilities offered for enabling parties residing at a distance to keep accounts with them.—The Hour.

THE LANDING AT GRAVESEND.

March 7, 1874.

They've reached our shores at last,

From a great land afar;
The journey happily past,
And safe to day they are,
In this Old England true of ours,
Of high historic fame,
Of great deeds, and stalwart powers,
Of an all-unsullied name.

And so we welcome them to-day,
In pleasure, and in pride;
Amid a festival array,
Our Sailor and his Bride;
We greet them from o'er the crested foam,
With heart and voice so free,
With all the pomp of our ocean home,
Of peace and liberty.

Not one heart amid that surging crowd,
But hails them with joy sincere;
Not one voice amongst those plaudits loud,
But rings truly on the ear;
For 'tis with loyal heart and face,
That Britons gladly own,
Their love for all of Brunswick's race,
Their fealty to the Throne.

And she who comes with winning ways,
To claim our English hearts;
With whom mid' words of grateful praise,
A grave land sadly parts;
Will find in this—tho' severed wide,— United we shall be,
As we, too, greet that gentle bride,
Russia's beloved Marie.

And so amid that festive scene,
Those damsels blithe and fair,
Amid the serried ranks between,
Rejoicing everywhere,
Amid the cannon's sterner roar,
Amid soft music's sound,
Amid yon gay and flowery store,
They stand on Albion's ground.

May all of joy and peace be theirs,
May the sun brightly smile;
Dispersing life's more sordid cares,
As to day,—when in our Isle,—
Right royally a people's greeting,
In all of English truth,
Welcomes that gracious happy meeting,
Of Love, and Trust, and Youth.

And mid' the pageant at Gravesend,
Mid' loyal hearts to-day,
As the procession now must wend
Its stately onward way;
And while from each noisy steeple,
The bells toll out the pride,
With which our English people
Welcome our Sailor's Bride,

May we all calmly bear in mind,
When the day's work is done,
When we've left the gathering behind,
That People and Throne are One,
And that in One happy bond of peace,
With God's benison from above,
Our Sovereign finds her joys increase,
In her great People's Love.

Obituary.

We have to record the death of Bro. George Cox, of 4, Cloak-lane, which took place at his residence, Putney-park Lodge, Richmond-road, on the 26th ult., after three weeks' illness. He was eighty years of age. Bro. Cox was one of the oldest solicitors in the City. He had been for many years a member of the Old Dundee Lodge.

RESCUED FROM PRECARIOUS POSITIONS.—Systematic habits of forethought should be sedulously cultivated by all persons having households under their care; when disorder first displays itself the remedy should be ready, and its application immediate. When the throat, air tubes, lungs, or heart, have received mischief from atmospheric influences, or other sources, Holloway's Ointment well rubbed upon the skin, as nearly as possible to the affected organ, will give great comfort, vast freedom to respiration, universal exemption from irritation, and rescue the troubled sufferer. When skin diseases harry childhood, worry maturity, and torment old age beyond toleration, Holloway's means of relief should be handy. The Ointment acts as a prompt corrective under its soothing and salutary powers, the irritable patient calms, the drooping revives.

CONSECRATION OF THE MARQUESS OF RIPON CHAPTER, 837.

A new Chapter, styled the Marquess of Ripon, in connection with the De Grey and Ripon Lodge 837, was opened on Saturday the 28th February. The convocation was held at the Town Hall, Ripon. The Companions assembled at 2 p.m., and welcomed the Marquess of Ripon, First Grand Prin. of the G. Chapter, on arrival. The Visiting Companions were the Rev. Dr. T. C. Smyth, D.D.P.Z., Member of Fidelity 289; P.D.G.M. of the Eastern Archipelago; Henry Smith, Prov., G.S.E.; W. A. Musgrave, Philanthropic 304, P.Z.; Mr. J. Beck 289, P.Z.; B. Wordsworth, Z. 154; C. L. Mason, Z. 304; Thos. Scholefield, Z. 306; J. Loates, J. 304; Comp. Nussey, S.N. 304, and others.

The Chapter was opened by Ex-Companions, Dr. Smyth as Z., Mason as H., Beck as J. After the rest of the Companions had been admitted, the Charter or Warrant from the Supreme Chapter of Royal Arch Masons, constituting the Chapter under the style and title of the Marquess of Ripon Chapter having been read, information was sent to the Prov. Grand Superintendent, and the Marquess of Ripon, attended by the Prov. G. Scribe Z., Ex-Comps. Scholefield and Musgrave, entered the Chapter, the Organist playing at the time. Dr. Smyth having resigned the throne of Z., the same was ascended by the Prov. G., Supt., the Chapter having saluted him, he was requested to allow the Rite of Consecration to proceed, and under his commands, Dr. Smyth, with a few preliminary remarks, commenced by reading a portion of the Sacred Scriptures, and then, calling on the Companions to join him in Prayer to the Most High.

A procession was then formed, and the Companions marching round the Chapter, saluted the Provincial Grand Superintendent in passing who, descending from the Throne, scattered corn upon the altar: the procession passed again, and wine was now poured out, and proceeding round a third time the final libation of oil having been poured on the altar, the Companions resumed their seats, and Dr. Smyth, by command, proclaimed the Chapter duly consecrated; the ceremony being concluded by a final prayer, in which a blessing was invoked for the success of the Chapter.

The ceremony of installation was now proceeded with, and Companions Robert E. Collinson, of Zetland Chapter, 236, P.M., of 837, was installed as Z.; Colonel Frederick William Ripley, of Chapter Hope (Calcutta), 109, P.M. of Lodge Archan, 646; Joseph W. Bishop, of Britannia Chapter, Sheffield, 139, P.M. of 837, as J. Companions Lieutenant Edward Fletcher, R.N., of Chapter Union of Malta 407, was invested with the Collar of S.E.; Edwin J. Crow, Z.-elect of 279, Prov. G. Organist of Leicestershire Chapter as P.S.; Dr. Paley as 1st A.S.; John Irving as 2nd A.S.; Captain J. W. Patterson as Treasurer. Companion Robert J. Williamson, of Apollo Chapter 357, who had been chosen as S.N. was unavoidably absent, and Ex-Comp. Wordsworth was invested as his Deputy.

It was proposed and seconded that M. Ex-Companion, the Marquess of Ripon, Prov. Grand Supt. of West Yorkshire, and Ex-Comp. the Rev. Dr. Thomas Cartwright Smyth, of Fidelity Chapter (No. 289), be elected Honorary Members. Much regret was felt, owing to the unavoidable absence of Ex-Companion Bentley Shaw, Grand Z.; and W. Widdop, Grand J. of the Prov. Grand Chapter.

Several Brethren of Lodge 837 were proposed and seconded as joining Members, and it was resolved that an application be made for a dispensation for the exaltation, as a serving Companion for Brother W. Storle, the old Tyler of 837, with a view to his being appointed Janitor.

The Chapter having been closed, the Companions adjourned to the Unicorn-Hotel, where an excellent banquet had been provided by Companion Collinson: the Marquess of Ripon being in the chair. After the usual loyal toasts, M.E.Z. Collinson briefly proposed "The Health of the most Honourable the Marquess of Ripon,"

First Grand Principal of the Supreme Grand Chapter, and that of the other Grand Officers. Comp. Collinson expressed the thanks of the Chapter to his Lordship for allowing the Chapter the dignity of bearing his title, and also for his kindness in presiding at the first Convocation of the new Chapter. (The toast was enthusiastically drunk with all the honours.)

Lord Ripon, in an able speech, responded. He spoke of the high privileges of Royal Arch Masonry, and stated that while he eulogized and prized the more exalted degree, he must not be supposed to detract in any way from the honour and merits of Craft Masonry. He looked on the R.A. degree as being conferred only on Brethren selected from the general body, and one that was well calculated to advance the principles of Freemasonry, and confer benefit, not only on our Order, but on the general community. He thanked the Companions for the honour they had done him. He expressed the delight he felt on his first learning, through the application for the new Chapter to bear his name, that the Companions were stirring in the matter; that he had much pleasure in being enabled that day to be present at the Consecration of a Royal Arch Chapter, in the ancient City of Ripon, with which he and his family had always been so closely connected.

Dr. Smyth proposed the Provincial Grand Chapter with "The Health of Ex-Companion Bentley Shaw, and the rest of the Grand Officers past and present."

Prov. G.S.E., Comp. H. Smith, responded.

Ex-Companion Colonel Ripley, H., proposed "The Health of the Rev. Dr. Smyth," who had, with much inconvenience to himself, attended that day, and assisted in the Consecration of the infant Chapter; that the thanks of the Companions were due and were accorded cordially to him; that there was but one opinion of the admirable and impressive manner in which the ceremony had been performed. He (Colonel Ripley) had known Dr. Smyth for many years as a fellow mason in India; that his reputation as a worthy Brother, and high authority in all that pertained to our Craft was, if he might be allowed to say so, a household word from one end to the other of the large province of Bengal, which had not then been sub-divided, and also in Singapore and the Straits Settlements.

The toast having been drunk with honours, Dr. Smyth, in returning thanks, expressed the great pleasure he had had in attending and assisting under the commands of the Prov. Grand Superintendent in the ceremony that day. He said, he thought the Companions had made a mistake in proposing his election as an Honorary Member; he thought that they ought, on that occasion, to have confined the election of Honorary Members to that of their esteemed and excellent Companion—the head of Royal Arch Masonry—whose name the Chapter bore. He pointed out that this Chapter, under the very peculiar circumstances of its name and title, and the place where it was held, and the fact of it having been inaugurated by the noble Marquess in person, would have the eyes of all R.A. Masons upon it; that he hoped and felt confident from his knowledge of those who had, by the suffrages of the Companions, been that day installed as Principals; that it would be conducted in a regular manner and agreeably with the regulations. He then briefly alluded to his career as a Mason in India, and thanked the Companions for the honour they had conferred on him.

The Chairman proposed "The Masonic Charities."

Companion H. Smith, P.G.S.E., responded, observing that although the Province of West Yorkshire stood, he might say, second to none in their assistance to these noble institutions, still he hoped that he might see further efforts made in that direction, such as would enable the managers to extend their usefulness.

Ex-Companion Bishop, J., proposed the toast of "Our Visitors." Ex-Companion Mason returned thanks.

Dr. Paley proposed "The Marchioness of Ripon and the Ladies."

The Marquess of Ripon returned thanks.

Dr. Smyth proposed "The health of M.E.Z. Companion Collinson."

Comp. Collinson thanked the Companions for drinking his health. He said that he esteemed the honour they had conferred on him. He was proud of his having been elected to his present office, that no exertion would be spared on the part of his colleagues and himself to ensure the success and prosperity of the infant Chapter.

Dr. Smyth proposed "The healths of Colonel Ripley, H., and Companion Bishop, J." wishing them success.

Colonel Ripley in returning thanks, said that although an old Royal Arch Mason, his duty in India had confined him to stations where no Chapter existed, that nearly 20 years elapsed from the date of his exaltation, to his having the pleasure of visiting his mother Chapter, or any other Chapter, he had never held any office as a R.A. Companion. He felt it a high honour his having been thus selected, to fill at once so responsible an office as Second Principal of the new Chapter, and he trusted that the endeavours of his Brother Principals and his own would, with the assistance of the other Companions, succeed in promoting the welfare of the Marquess of Ripon Chapter.

Ex-Companion Bishop, J., expressed his thanks for the cordial manner in which his health had been received.

The toast of "Our Host and Hostess" was proposed by Prov. G.S.E. Companion H. Smith, who felt sure that all present would agree with him in thanking Mr. & Mrs. Collinson, for the excellent arrangements that they had made for their entertainment that day, such as fully sustained the long established reputation of the Unicorn Hotel.

The toast was drunk with musical honours: Companion Collinson briefly returned thanks, and the party broke up after a very pleasant evening.

The fittings, paraphernalia, and clothing of the new Chapter were principally supplied by Brother George Kenning, and much admired and approved of.

FREEMASONRY IN NORTH WALES.

CONSECRATION OF A LODGE AT MOLD.

The W.M. said he had received a note from Bro. Henry Cecil Raikes, M.P., No. 311, presenting a copy of the volume of the sacred law to the new lodge.

Bro. Lord Richard Grosvenor was proposed as member of the lodge, and it was also announced that the Rt. W.P.G.M. Sir Watkin Williams Wynn had announced his intention of becoming a subscribing member of the lodge which bore his name. The announcement was received with loud and prolonged cheering, after which the business was brought to a close.

In the evening about 80 brethren sat down to a sumptuous banquet in the large hall of the Lion Hotel, provided by Bro. Dean, the W.M. presiding, supported by Bro. Sir Watkin W. Wynn, and several P.G. officers on the right and left. The usual loyal and masonic toasts were given and responded to with the greatest enthusiasm.

Bro. Salmon, W.M., in giving the toast of Sir W. W. Wynn, P.G.M., alluded to the proverbial loyalty of masons, and humourously connected that feeling with their loyalty to the acknowledged masonic sovereign of the province of North Wales and Shropshire, whom they were glad to welcome on that auspicious occasion (Applause.) He referred to the prospects which had been entertained at one time that H.R.H. the Prince of Wales would be present at the Mold Eisteddfod, which he humourously contrasted with the presence of the Prince in Wales. In conclusion, he expressed a hope that the name of Sir Watkin would never be disgraced by that lodge.

The toast was received with the greatest enthusiasm.

In responding, the R.W.P.G.M. thanked the brethren for the hearty manner in which the toast had been responded to.

the members of the new lodge upon the highly favourable manner in which the day's proceedings had been concluded. He was much pleased to see that so many brethren were present from Chester, where he was first initiated into the mysteries of the order. The little that he did know of the principles and practices of Freemasonry he had learned in that city, and, therefore, he was glad that so many brethren were present from Chester to teach the same truths to the Mold lodge. Brother Sir Watkin referred to the recent general election, and to the bitterness of party feeling which had been engendered in some parts of the country, though not within his own experience, and said that in such circumstances Freemasons should not forget the feelings of brotherly kindness which bound them together—There were members of the order belonging to all politics and all religions. Though they might worship in different ways, he hoped that in that new lodge the brethren would always act in the spirit of brotherly kindness, and concluded by proposing the health of Brother Salmon, W.M., expressing a hope that though the lodge was the youngest it might prove an example to others of longer standing.

The W.M. replied in suitable terms, and Bros. Spaul and Dutton responded to the toast of the other P.G. lodge officers.

After several other toasts had been given and acknowledged, the proceedings were closed in peace and harmony.

It should be stated that the furnishings for the lodge had been supplied from Bro. G. Kenning's celebrated Masonic establishment in London, and, as usual, both workmanship and design were the subjects of general commendation.

CONSECRATION OF A HOLY ROYAL ARCH CHAPTER.

SHETLESTON.—On Wednesday, Feb. 18th, The Provincial Grand Chapter of Lanarkshire proceeded to Shetlestone to consecrate a Chapter. For many years, there has been a body in this village working under one of the old charters granted by the Duke of Kent. As that supreme body has long ceased to exist, the chapters formed under its sanction, of which there are several in Scotland who have not yet obtained the sanction of the Grand Chapter of Scotland, are, therefore, in an anomalous position; for, though working under charters that were once valid, they are, now, unrecognised by the Grand Governing body, and their members are not received as visitors by any other chapters. Comp. John Campbell, and a few others, being the disadvantages under which they were labouring, therefore, applied for admission into the Grand Chapter, and was most graciously received, both by the P.G. Superintendent, and the Scribe E., and on the 18th they were regularly received, and a new charter given them under the title of St. John's, No. 150. The ceremony took place in the old lodge-room of the Kirk, which was decorated with flags and evergreens for the occasion. The Provincial Grand Chapter was opened in due form by companions A. Barrow, Provincial Grand Superintendent, P.G.Z.; J. D. Porteous, P.G.H.; Thos. McKet, P.G.J.; A. McTaggart, M.A. P.G. S.; G. W. Wheeler, P.G.P.S.; J. Duthie, and S.; G. B. Adams, P.G. 3rd S.; and McNeill, acting P.G. Janitor. There were present, Comps. G. McLeod of 79, and Park, Z. of 122. The members of the chapter were then brought in and solemnly initiated by the P.G.Z.; after which the charter was read, and the following persons named in were duly elected by the Comps. present, —Companions John Campbell, Z.; Wm. Bell, H.; James Allan, Junr., J.; James Senr., Scribe E.; John Anoh, N.; James McKet, T.; 1st S., Walter Allan.; 2nd S., James Allan.; 3rd S., Ronald Reid; the office of Janitor being left vacant. The beautiful initiation Ceremonies were very effectively performed by Comp. Barrow and his attendant bearers; the newly installed 1st principal being the whole of them for their kindness in coming from Glasgow for this purpose, and expressing a wish that they would increase the favor by some of them coming again to put them in the correct way of working. After the ceremony, the Comps. partook of refreshment, the new 1st P. Comp., John Campbell, presiding. After the usual toasts, he proposed the Provincial Grand Superintendent, and said in consequence of the peculiar position in which the old chapter stood, he had been obliged to trouble that gentleman a great deal, but he could assure the Comps. that it would have been impossible for any one to have treated him in a more gentlemanly and brotherly way than Comp. Barrow had done; in fact, his kindness had been so great, that he could never forget it. The P.G. Superintendent in reply stated, if he had been of service to them and the Order it was all that would be required, and he trusted that the other chapters which still held aloof from the supreme body, would copy the example set them by the Shetlestone St. John, and come in to be recognised by the Supreme Chapter. Nothing could afford him greater pleasure than working in this object. Since he had been appointed Superintendent of Lanarkshire—twelve months since—this was the 3rd new chapter he had consecrated; while before officially acting in that capacity, he had consecrated four others in the province, so that he could say he had tried to do his duty to the order. Their chairman had, also, kindly alluded to his services to the Craft in the P.G.L. He would now propose "Prosperity" to chapter St. John, No. 50, and "Long life and happiness" to their 1st Principal.

Comp. J. Campbell replied, and gave the P.G. Chapter of Lanarkshire and its Scribe F., Comp. A. McTaggart, in the course of his reply, regretted that his other avocations had prevented him from devoting as much time to the province as he could wish, but as he had, during the last year, been only feeling his way, he trusted, during the ensuing one, to do much better, and that each chapter might be found, on their visitation, to be improving. They had been for many years without any Superintendent, but now that Comp. Barrow had been placed at their head, they might be sure that the order would progress—not only in numbers and influences, but that they would take a higher stand than heretofore, and all the old chapters still working, outside of the pale of the constitution, would be glad to come under the sway of the P.G.C., and under Comp. Barrow's rule.

The P.G. Chaplain now had to leave to catch the last train for Glasgow, but the Shetlestone Comps. remained to high twelve, song and sentiment following each other.

MASONIC FESTIVAL IN GLASGOW.

LODGE THISTLE AND ROSE, No. 73.

The 120th anniversary of the Thistle and Rose, Lodge 73, was celebrated on Thursday the 26th ultimo, by a supper and ball, held at the Trades Hall, Glasgow.

On the cloth being removed Bro. Thos. Stewart P.M., and now Deputy Master, read a letter from the R.W.M. regretting that unforeseen circumstances would prevent him being present till a late period of the evening. But Brother Stewart very efficiently supplied his place, giving as the first toast "the Queen and the Craft." Second "the Prince of Wales, the patron of Scotch Masonry, and the rest of the Royal Family," both of them having been duly honoured Bro. Bannerman, S.W., who was Croupier, in a neat speech proposed "the three Grand Lodges."

Bro. Benj. Wright W.S., of the Era, 1423 (E.C.), said he was very unexpectedly called on to reply, but having been named he could not refuse the honour. Of the Grand Lodge of Scotland he need not speak as they were all as well and perhaps better acquainted with its merits than himself, neither would he detain them by dwelling on those of the Grand Lodge of Ireland; but on behalf of that of England, he could assure them that that august body as well as the private members of the Craft were glad to see the progress that Masonry was making in Scotland; for his own part he was highly pleased with what he had seen, also the warm welcome given to him and the honour now conferred on him, and he could assure one and all of the brethren present if they ever crossed the border they would meet with a kind reception from their English friends, and nothing would give him greater pleasure than to meet any of them in 1423, when he would endeavour to repay them for their kindness to-night. On behalf of the Grand Lodge and the great body of the English Masons, he thanked them heartily for the very enthusiastic way in which they had received the toast (Cheers.)

Bro. G. McDonald, I.P.M., gave "The Provincial Grand Lodge."

Bro. G. Sinclair, P.M. 27, Treasurer of the Benevolent Fund replied, he stated that their Benevolent Fund was accumulating, for they had now funded £400 and yet they had fully relieved every case that came before them.

Bro. W. B. Paterson in a very elaborate speech gave "the Army, Navy and Volunteers." Bro. T. Stewart gave a humorous reply.

Bro. Basset of Lodge 27, proposed "the Glasgow Thistle and Rose Lodge, No. 73," and called upon the Treasurer to reply; he thought it would be prudent to let that brother speak of the position and financial prospects of the lodge.

Bro. W. Walton, Treas., said it gave him great pleasure, as Treasurer, to comply with that request for they were flourishing financially, thanks to the unremitting care of the late Master Bro. McDonald, and he might add, his own as Treasurer, for when he took office little more than two years ago he had only £9 8s. od. in hand, now though he had got them their splendid suit of Lodge clothing (from Bro. Kenning whose representatives he was glad to see there). Yet he had now nearly £100 in hand and in Bank (cheers) he thought he had better conclude as that fact was a speech in itself.

Bro. James Balentine then came forward to make a presentation to the late R.W.M. he said he supposed he was to do it as one of the oldest members of the lodge, but what he wanted in words he would make up in deeds and good wishes. A few friends has got this up for one who had worked hard and long in their behalf. Bro. McDonald had filled the chair for three years, and during that period had never been absent from a single meeting, and as his wife had had to suffer from his absence, they had not forgotten her, so in the name of the subscribers he would now present their gifts to Bro. McDonald and his wife (cheers).

The presentation consisted of an elaborately finished Time-piece, with suitable inscription, and a massive gold brooch and earrings for Mrs. McDonald, the workmanship of which was much admired.

Bro. G. W. Wheeler spoke of the merits of the recipients of the gift and recited some lines he had composed for the festival.

Bro. G. McDonald acknowledged the gift in appropriate terms the gift was valuable in itself but it was the inscription that possessed the greatest value in his eyes.

Bro. G. W. Wheeler gave the "Sister Lodges of the province," in the course of his remarks he said the best way to become bright Masons was by visiting Sister lodges and reading the Masonic literature of the day.

Bro. G. Sinclair P.M. of 27, replied on behalf of visitors present.

Bro. J. Handbridge in a truly eloquent speech proposed "the Ladies." Bro. Richard the Secretary responded on their behalf.

Bro. Stewart proposed the "Strangers," which was replied to by Mr. Elton who said though a stranger to-night he intended to become a member of their lodge at the next meeting, if the lodge would receive him. Bro. Weston, the R.W.M., who had now assumed the chair gave "the Committee who had made the arrangements." Bro. J. S. Ampleford proposed a vote of thanks to the singers, and especially to Bro. Owens of the Alexandra Music Hall for his kindness in sending two of his principal artistes, Mr. and Mrs. Elton, to amuse them.

A few remarks from the chair concluded this part of the entertainment. Dancing then commenced and was kept up with great spirit.

THE HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY, FROM ITS ORIGIN TO THE PRESENT DAY.

Drawn from the best sources and the most recent investigations.

BY J. G. FINDEL,
Second Edition, Revised, and Preface written by
Bro. D. MURRAY LYON.

One vol., 800 pages 8vo., with an Index. Cloth gilt. Price, 10s. 6d.

"This book is a strictly historical one, from which all is excluded that is not based upon ascertained or probable fact."—Builder.

"Of its value to Freemasons, as a detailed history of their Brotherhood, it is not possible to speak too highly."—Public Opinion.

"The author seems to have fairly exhausted the subject."—The Athenaeum.

"The edition we are now considering is a second English edition, which had the great advantage of Bro. D. M. Lyon's able superintendence and editorship in its English dress. There can be no doubt but, that so far, Bro. Findel's work is the most complete work on Freemasonry which has yet appeared, and that he deserves the greatest credit for his careful and accurate treatment of all evidence on the subject, and for his honest desire after truth. Bro. Findel gives up in the view he has so clearly and consistently put forth our early Masonic history, the older theory of the Roman Colleges, &c., and limits the origin of Freemasonry to about the twelfth century, and as then arising from the operative Masons, and specially the "Steinmetzen" and "Bauhütten" of Germany. Bro. Findel gives us a good deal of evidence on this head, and one thing is clear from his work, that the German Freemasons were, at a very early period, organized into lodges with a Master over them, and with outward regulations and inner ceremonies peculiar to the Craft. Bro. Findel rejects all the views which have been from time to time put forward of a Templar or a Rosicrucian origin. Whether or no Bro. Findel's theory of the date of the rise of Freemasonry be correct, matters very little: we do not ourselves profess to accept it; but this we can fairly say of Bro. Findel's work, it is marked from first to last by the most remarkable token of industry, ability, and care, of patient research, and of skilful criticism. We know of no work which so clearly sets before us our amount of knowledge up to the present time on the great question of Masonic Archaeology, and there can be little doubt that what Preston's work is to English Freemasonry, Findel's work is to cosmopolitan Freemasonry. Indeed no student in Masonry can now dispense with it, and it is a perfect storehouse both of Masonic evidence and Masonic illustrations. We earnestly recommend all the lodges in this country to obtain a copy for the lodge library before the work is bought up for America; and we believe that no Mason will rise from the perusal of its pages without a higher idea both of the historical truth and intrinsic value of Freemasonry, and of fraternal regard and recognition to the latest and not the least well-informed or effective of our Masonic historians. The present century has produced no such equal, in authority and usefulness, to the great work of our Bro. Findel, and we wish him and it, in all of fraternal sympathy and kindly intent, many earnest readers, and more grateful students."—The Masonic Magazine.

"This volume is the history of Masonry par excellence. Every interested person may regard it, therefore, as the present text-book on the subject."—Manchester Guardian

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, MARCH 14, 1874.

THE LAST GRAND LODGE.

The proceedings of the Quarterly Communication of the Grand Lodge on Wednesday, 4th inst., offered unmixed gratification to all the loyal and intelligent members of our Order.

The re-election of the Marquess of Ripon as our Grand Master will be hailed with unanimous approval and applause by our united Craft.

No one, we make bold to say, is there who has deserved so well of our fraternity, and there is no one amid our long rolé of able and willing men who is more truly a Freemason at heart than our exalted brother.

Those who have watched his long Masonic career, those who have been privileged to live under his provincial rule, as well as those who have marked his skilful handling of all matters, and his impartial attitude in his curule Chair, will feel as we do sincerely, that, to no worthier hands can the destinies of our Order be committed than to his, who unites in himself the rare qualifications of unwavering geniality, and yet of authoritative determination. While no one will extend more forbearance, or evince more consideration towards his brethren, in the discharge of his important duties, no one will uphold with more unflinching firmness alike the just prerogatives of his high office, the ancient liberties of the Order, and the honour and dignity and privileges of the Grand Lodge. The unanimous voice of the Craft hailed him as the fitting successor of our late lamented Grand Master, and each succeeding year only serves to show how wise was our choice, and how truly he has justified our happy selection.

From what we saw of his Provincial rule, to which we have before alluded, we feel persuaded that the more we know of him as our Grand Master, the more we shall like him, and more are the loyal hearts in our order to day, without flattery, and in all honest affection will say,

"Master lead on,
We will follow to the last gasp,
With truth and loyalty."

We also congratulate the order on the unanimous re-election of our very worthy Bro. Samuel Tomkins, to the important post of Grand Treasurer.

There are few brethren in the Craft who claim and so command, from his long and faithful services, the entire confidence and respect of the brotherhood.

Many of our readers will be very sorry to hear of the serious illness of the very respected Chairman of the Board of General Purposes, Bro. Horatio Lloyd, Q.C., and we are but expressing a universal hope, in saying, that we trust soon to be of his restoration to health and activity, and his again discharging, as always efficiently, duties of that important office in our execution which he fills so well.

The serious question raised by the report of the Board of General Purposes, and the resignation of the Grand Registrar, with respect to Lo 831, being now practically "sub judice," forbear to make any comments upon it, far rather than saying that we think the Board of General Purposes have most properly brought the matter before Grand Lodge, and that the motion of Grand Registrar, is the only fitting corollary to that report.

Beyond this, we do not wish to say anything to the subject.

the peaceable progress and happy condition of our fraternity "per se."

May such mutual prosperity, and tranquil working long continue to characterize our English Freemasonry, and may we also evince, (as we seem to be doing), that, amid all our outward well-being, and unanimity and increase, we are not forgetful of the greatest of our professed principles—Charity, but that we are "ready, eye ready," not for the combat or the strife, but for that noblest warfare of all—the relief of the old and the indigent, and the succour of the orphan and the friendless.

OUR MASONIC CHARITIES.

We shall be very glad if the discussion which has originated in The Freemason about our great Charitable Institutions, may lead to some really practical results.

Bro. H. Watson's pamphlet will have proved to all who read it how well our Charities are now managed, and how worthy they are of support; while the letters from Bro. Binckes and others will confirm the view we ventured originally to introduce to the notice of our brethren, that our lodges quâ lodges ought to do, far more than they do.

It is quite clear that here is the weak point of our charitable efforts.

Some liberal and wealthy lodges, indeed, exist amongst us, many large-hearted brethren give often and freely, but the great majority of our lodges do not subscribe at all to the Charities.

Were our lodges which give nothing, even only to select one charity this year, and qualify the W.M. for a Life Governorship for the lodge, a very large sum would be raised, which would serve to strengthen either the position of the charity funds and of the Girls' School, or to replace the capital of the Boys' School, expended in the erection of a very noble building.

The Boys' School has now no funded property whatever, and depends entirely on the annual festival and the liberality of the Craft, so it seems a very good opportunity, this year of grace 1874, by a steady and combined effort of our lodges, to enable the House Committee of the Boys' School to form the nucleus of funded property once again.

In saying all this, we do not shut our eyes to the fact, that, instead of the claims of, and on our charities decreasing, they are pretty certainly to increase, but such is always the happy penalty of material prosperity and progress, inasmuch as the very comfort and well-being we enjoy, entail on us the corresponding duties of large-heartedness and charity. So we trust then to witness through the length and breadth of our Order, that in expanding numbers and increasing means, we have not forgotten the abounding claims upon us all, of the great charities of our universal brotherhood.

WEEKLY SUMMARY.

Her Majesty is at Windsor Castle, where she is received all the members of the Royal Family, and a distinguished circle of guests, to meet the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh. Her Majesty came to London on Thursday with the newly-married couple.

The landing at Gravesend was a great success, and the arrangements there, to testify, the loyal attachment of the English nation to the Royal Family, and their satisfaction at this auspicious union, reflects the greatest credit on the municipal authorities, and all concerned in the preparations and decorations. We do not doubt, but that, the same loyal feeling will be exhibited on the 12th in the Metropolis, but as we go to press on Thursday, we reserve a report of that day's proceedings until next week.

Everything must have given the charming and august stranger amongst us, a most favourable impression of the English people. Happily she had Queen's weather, and from the pleasant faces of the flower-strewing maidens, down to the loyal cheers of the Eton Boys, with the naval and military and civil spectacle, as an interlude, and above all, the vast crowds of good natured exulting people of all classes and conditions, from first to last, in all and through all, there was everything befitting a thoroughly national reception of the daughter of the Czar, and the wife of the Duke of Edinburgh.

So as one of the Gravesend mottoes said, say we and all loyal Freemasons to the newly-married couple to-day, "may all of happiness attend you."

Perhaps not the least of the gratifying and touching sights of the day, was the motherly reception by the Queen of this new member of her family circle, and the representation thus happily and openly made, by the highest authority in the land, of the sanctity of those domestic ties of home life and home affections, and home union, without which public life is but a barren show, and the pageantry of the Court itself an unhealthy dream.

Sir Garnet Wolseley has taken Coomassie, burnt the palace and town, and has marched the white men back to the coast to escape the ravages of the wet season. By a later telegram the infatuated King had sent again to treat for peace. Capt. the Hon. H. Wood, 10th Hussars, A.D.C., has arrived with the official despatches, and nothing seems to have exceeded either the gallantry of the forces or the skill of their commander. Captain Glover seems to have done excellently well.

Parliament was formally opened by Commission on the 3rd. The Right Honourable H. Brand was unanimously re-elected Speaker. The swearing in of the members began on the 7th, and will continue this week. Next week we shall be able to report the actual opening and the Queen's speech. The following high officers of the Cabinet have been sworn in:—Marquis of Hertford, Lord Chamberlain; Lord Barrington, Vice-Chamberlain; Earl Beauchamp, Lord Steward; Earl Percy, Treasurer of the Household; Lord Henry Somerset, Comptroller of the Household; Marquis of Exeter, Captain of the H. Corps, of Gentlemen-at-Arms; Earl Bradford, Master of the Horse; Earl Hardwicke, Master of the Buckhounds. The following are the new Lords in waiting:—The Earl of Dunmore; the Earl of Roden; Viscount Hawarden; Lord Bagot; Lord De Ros; Lord Elphinstone; Lord Walsingham. The new Peerages are officially announced:—Viscount Sydney, to be Earl Sydney; Viscount Enfield, to be Lord Strafford; Mr. Chichester Fortescue, to be Lord Carlingford; Mr. Cardwell, to be Earl Cardwell; Sir Thomas Freemantle, to be Baron Cottesloe; Mr. Hammond, to be Lord Hammond; Sir John Pakington, to be Lord Hampton. The following gentlemen have also been recommended to the Queen by Mr. Gladstone for baronetcies:—Harry Stephen Thompson, Esq., of Kirby Hall, Thomas Nayler Grove, Esq., of Ferne House; George Burrows, Esq., M.D., President of the Royal College of Physicians; Thomas McClure, Esq., of Belfast; John Heathcoat Heathcoat Amory, Esq., of Knights Hayes; Richard Green Price, Esq.; William Miller, Esq., of Berwickshire.

The following account of Orton in prison from the Times, may interest some of our readers though we think the sooner he is forgotten the better for every one. It will interest the public to be informed how the prisoner fares in Newgate. In the first place, he stoutly refuses to answer to the name of Castro or Orton, but willingly responds to that of Tichborne. He was yesterday supplied with his prison dress, which consists of a light brown woollen cloth blouse, knee breeches, ribbed worsted stockings, common leather boots, and a cap with a little knob at the top, without a peak. He has been closely shaved and had his hair cropped. His shirt sleeves measure 37 inches round, the muscle of the arm being 27 inches, while round the chest he is 56 inches. He does not pick anything like the portion of oakum allotted to him; his fingers are somewhat delicate, and the tar-rope is very trying. He rises at 6 o'clock and goes to bed at 9, and attends chapel for the present every morning. He has hitherto maintained complete silence and, considering all things, takes kindly to the skilly. When his new dress was brought to him he appeared to falter a little, but soon regained his self-possession. He sleeps well."

Mr. Jean Luie has been finally committed for trial by Sir Thomas Henry, and Captain Brown, of remarkable memory, is "up" before that same excellent magistrate, and seems likely to follow in the steps of his friend and old acquaintance, Luie.

We would just observe that on the account of the spectacle of Saturday, few things we think will have gratified the general public more, or have probably saved their pockets, than the happy idea of shutting up safe from harms way, and from a tumultuous crowd, by the gentlemen from Scotland-yard, 35 of the most adroit of London pick-pockets. It is an act of energy and good sense, which cannot be too highly commended.

The following may amuse our readers as it amused us. At the Surrey Sessions (Second Court), before Mr. H. F. Harrison, James Godwin pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny as a bailee. The prisoner was intrusted by a number of persons, chiefly of the poorer class, with their watches to repair. He seems to have been in the habit of pawning the watches as soon as they came into his possession, putting the owners off with various excuses for the non-delivery of their property. In some cases he said that a new wheel had to be made, requiring a special kind of machinery. The prisoner was found guilty on another indictment of a similar character, and there being a previous conviction against him, the chairman sentenced him to seven years' penal servitude and seven years' police supervision. At the conclusion of the case, and before sentence, Detective Bell, of the M Division, stated that the prisoner was one of the cleverest rogues in London. He had known him for a great many years. His practice was to attend meetings and assume different characters (among others a Bible class teacher and a mesmerist), and having disarmed suspicion, he would set up a shop, receive watches to mend and repair, and after disposing of the watches make off himself. The detective had succeeded in the present case in recovering seven out of the eleven watches recently lost. It was rumoured in Court that the prisoner had attempted to "mesmerize" two warders who had him in custody, and had offered to mend their watches, but had on both occasions failed to accomplish his object.

The obituary of the Times of March 4th contains some extraordinary illustrations of prolonged existence in ten persons,—viz., seven ladies and three gentlemen—whose united ages amounted to 867 years, giving an average of 86 years and more than eight months to each; the oldest was a gentleman, who had reached the great age of 98 years, the youngest of the same sex being 85 years of age; of the ladies the oldest was 95 and the youngest 80 years of age. The following were the respective ages:—Two at 80, 82, 83, 85, 86, 88, 90, 95, 95, 98. There were also six septuagenarians, who averaged 73 years and ten months each.

Beyond this we have no news to record.

Abroad there is little to notice, except that the Hungarian Ministry has resigned, and that General Moriones is both in bad health, and in a bad way. Marshal Serrano has gone to his relief with 16,000 foot soldiers, but we confess, we do not expect that, he can retrieve the "fortune of the day." Nous verrons.

We have to record with regret, the death of that very eminent medical man, Dr. Forbes B. Winslow, M.D., and D.C.L.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The 76th Anniversary Festival of this Institution was held on Wednesday evening at Freemason's Tavern. The Most Worshipful Grand Master, the Marquess of Ripon, presided, and was supported by Lord Balfour, of Burleigh, G.S.W.; Col. Burdett, Prov. G.M., Middlesex; Bro. John Hervey, G.S.; Bro. R. J. Spiers, P.G.S.B.; Bro. T. Fenn, P.G.D.C.; Bro. Raynham W. Stewart, P.G.D.; Bro. Capt. Platt, G.P.W.; Bro. J. Boyd, P.G.P.; Bro. Goodall, Bro. Dr. J. H. Graham, G.M., G.L. of Quebec, and many other distinguished brethren. There were also about 400 brethren present, besides a large number of ladies, who were entertained at a separate banquet.

At the conclusion of the banquet grace was sung, and the toasts were proceeded with.

In giving the toast of "Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen," the Chairman said: I need not tell you what is the first toast which I intend to ask you to drink this evening. You are all well aware that that toast can only be the "Health of Her Majesty the Queen." Good Freemasons are invariably loyal subjects, and the "Health of Our Gracious and Beloved Sovereign" is always drunk with the utmost enthusiasm on every occasion when Freemasons meet together. But this evening, when we drink her Majesty's health, we do not merely drink it as Sovereign of these realms, but we drink it also as the illustrious patroness of the Institution on whose behalf we are assembled to-night. (Cheers.) By graciously granting her patronage to the Boys' School, the Queen has shown both her approval of our ancient Craft, and her interest in this valuable Institution; and I call upon you therefore with more than ordinary enthusiasm, if that be possible, to drink "The Health of Her Majesty the Queen."

The toast having been duly honoured,

The Chairman said: Again I rise to propose to you a toast which needs no words of mine to recommend it. It is "The Health of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, the Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family." (Cheers.) And I am proud to think that this toast in these fortunate times may be regarded not merely as a toast of national interest, but as also an especially Masonic toast. (Hear, hear.) The "Health of our Most Worshipful Brother the Prince of Wales," is a toast which goes straight to the heart of every member of this great fraternity. (Cheers.) But on the present occasion it is not impossible that our thoughts may turn even from His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to think of those two illustrious members of the British Royal Family who are about to make their entry into this capital to-morrow. (Cheers.) Brethren, we of the Masonic Craft are apt, though the outside world may not think so, to be beforehand with the rest of the country in all that is good. Let us show that that is true to-night, and let us be the first to welcome with a hearty welcome their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh. (Cheers.)

Lord Balfour of Burleigh, S.G.W., said: Brethren, a very pleasant task is imposed upon me this evening, at least, it would be very pleasant to me if it was a little easier for me to do it justice. But it is not easy to chronicle the virtues of the Most Worshipful the Grand Master. (Hear, hear.) I know that you will receive his name with the utmost enthusiasm, and that feeling makes me the more confident that any shortcomings on my part will not detract from the welcome you will give him this evening. It is but a very few nights ago that I was a witness to his re-election to preside over you for the ensuing year. His re-election on that occasion was conducted with a unanimity which cannot be too highly praised, and with a cordiality which I think can be rarely exceeded. Our M.W.G.M. has been born to a very high station, and we can say how well he adorns that station. (Hear, hear.) He has chosen one of the most arduous careers which it is possible for a man to choose, that of assisting in governing his fellow countrymen, and in that he has been most successful; and while we cannot but feel that it is a high honour to anyone to be called on to preside over a body like the Freemasons of England, we cannot but be most sensible of the fact that we are an exceptionally fortunate body of men to secure such a man to preside over us. (Hear, hear.) But, brethren, he has claims upon us this evening which are, perhaps I may be allowed to say, more urgent upon us than his being M.W.G.M.; he is President of the Institution the 76th anniversary festival of which we met here to-night to celebrate. I believe it is some time since we have been presided over, I may say, by the M.W.G.M., and I am sure it is a subject of deep congratulation to all that have the well-being of their Institution at heart, and I call upon you cordially to drink his health. (Cheers.)

After a Song,

The Chairman said: I know well that I cannot rival the dulcet tones which have just excited so much enthusiasm on your part; but at least I can say with the utmost sincerity that I thank you heartily for this cordial reception. It is, brethren, only one short week since, by the suffrages of Grand Lodge, I was called once more to preside over this ancient fraternity. I had then an opportunity of expressing to the Craft my deep sense of gratitude for the honour that was conferred upon me, and of laying before them upon an occasion more suitable than the present the principles by which I should endeavour to be guided during the time that I might hold the office which I was then called upon to fill. I have, therefore, only to-night to repeat to you my hearty thanks for the reception which you have given me now, and for the confidence which you have so lately reposed in me. The government of Freemasonry is a government which can only be conducted when the person who is called to the highest office in the Craft meets on all occasions with hearty support from his brethren. So long as that support is accorded to me I may hope to be enabled, however feebly, to discharge my duties. If that support was wanting I should not be foolish enough to undertake the duty. But, then, I appear here in another capacity as President of this Institution. Of the claims of that Institution to your confidence and support I will say nothing at this moment, because I shall be obliged to detain you for some time presently in reference to that subject. Suffice it for me to say now that I feel it a great satisfaction to hold the office of President of the Boys' School, and that I rejoice that I have been enabled once more to occupy this chair at one of the annual festivals of that Institution. (Cheers.)

His Lordship concluded by proposing "The Health of the D.G.M., the Earl of Carnarvon, the Prov. G.M.'s, and the rest of the Grand Officers, Present and Past."

Col. Burdett responded, and Bro. F. Binckes presented the winners of the Good Conduct and Canonbury prizes, to be received at his Lordship's hands. This having been done;

The Chairman said: Brethren, I now rise to ask you to drink "Prosperity to that excellent Institution" on whose behalf we are gathered together this evening, and I am sure it is not necessary for me to detain you at any great length in order to convince you that the Freemason's Boys' School is deserving not merely of being toasted on a festive occasion like this, but of higher and more substantial proofs of your confidence and regard. Brethren, this Institution has existed now for upwards of a quarter of a century. This, I find, is the 76th Anniversary Festival of an Institute that was founded in the year 1798. At that time there were only six recipients of the benefits of this school. At the present time there are 162, and within a very short period, if I mistake not, after the next election, the number of boys to be accommodated in it will be 176. Now, when you reflect upon the great advance which the Craft has made since the end of the last century, you will not regard with surprise the facts which I have mentioned; you will only see in them a proof that the managers of the Freemasons' Boys' School have endeavoured to keep pace in the extension of the benefits of that Institution with the general progress of the Craft. As you are aware, the inmates of this school do not merely receive education, but they are lodged, fed, and clothed, and you must take all that into consideration when you come to compare the cost per head of this school with the cost of other educational Institutions. I was only referring this very day to certain reports in my library in regard to the Endowed Schools of this country, with a view to seeing whether what I understand to be the average cost per boy of this Institution, viz., £45, including everything, expenses of office, and everything else, was an undue and exorbitant charge. Well, most of the Institutions that I had to look at did not include, of course, as you are well aware, any item in the nature of clothing. Now, that is an important difference to be borne in mind, and the result of my examination, I am bound to say, was this, that I do not think it appears from figures that have been placed before me, that any just charge can be made against the managers of this Institution for undue extravagance in respect of it. I doubt not that they will bear in mind that as an Institution increases in numbers it may be possible to make reductions in the cost per head. There is no doubt that very large schools of this kind can be conducted more cheaply than those which are much smaller; and that is a point which should be borne in mind as the Boys' School increases; but as I have said the impression left on my mind has been that we have no right to make any charge against those who are engaged in the management of this School, such as those which we have heard on some occasions made by persons who may not possibly have considered all the circumstances of the case. And you must recollect this, that boys are very expensive things. (Laughter.) Boys, somehow or other, take a great deal more to teach and to clothe, and, I was going to say, and I believe I might say, to feed, than girls; but somehow or other there is no doubt that schools exclusively devoted to the education and maintenance of boys must cost more than Institutions which are in any degree of a mixed character. (Hear, hear.) Now, brethren, I feel peculiar satisfaction on this occasion in taking the chair at the festival of the Boys' School, because my mind goes back to five years ago which was the last occasion when I had the honour of presiding at this festival. At that time this school was very heavily in debt of at least £10,000 upon the Institution at that time. On that occasion, in the year 1869, a very great effort was made to sweep off that debt. Since then it has been extinguished, and I have now the pleasure to stand before you to advocate the cause of the Boys' School when by the efforts of the Freemasons of England that debt has been cleared away, and the school stands free from all such incumbrance. (Cheers.) So far so good; but then this must be borne in mind, that although the debt has been cleared away, and the Institution can now proceed upon what I trust will be its long career of prosperity and usefulness without that terrible drag and encumbrance of indebtedness, nevertheless, if I am not mistaken, this Institution, in that respect less fortunate than its fellows among Masonic Institutions, has nothing in the nature of an endowment, nothing in the nature of funded property, to fall back upon. Therefore, though you have cleared off the debt, though you are, as I trust, ready upon this and upon every annual occasion to meet the annual expenses of this valuable Institution—and I understand that the estimate is, that to provide for 176 boys no less a sum than £7,000 a year will be required, though I have no doubt whatever that that sum will always be forthcoming. I cannot think that we shall have done our duty to this most important Institution, unless over and above providing for the annual expenses which year by year so come forward in its support to an extent which will enable it to lay by something out of its annual income to provide for the necessities of difficult times, and to establish it upon a basis of secure permanence. (Cheers.) And, brethren, there can be no doubt in these matters that the Boys' School—the Freemason's School—which is intended to provide means

EARLY GRAND ENCAMPMENT, SCOTLAND.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Through the medium of your valuable paper I beg to draw the attention of the Craft at large to a species of tyranny lately exercised on this side the Tweed by the "Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow."

Some few months ago the Lodge Star, No. 219 on the Grand Lodge Roll, removed to a new Lodge of their own, situated at 12, Iron-gate, Glasgow, the opening of which duly appeared in your columns. As is the custom in large towns where several Masonic bodies are situated, a number of them are generally found located under the same canopy exercising their various august rites and ceremonies. Such being the case, a body of Knight Templars, designated the "Glasgow Early Grand Knight Templar Encampment, and Preceptory of Red Cross Knights," applied to the said Lodge Star for permission to meet in their Lodge room. In due time notice was received by the E.G. Encampment that their application was sustained, and by paying a certain sum per year, which was also fixed, they were accordingly allowed to enter upon part possession of the premises, and continued to do so for some two months. In the meantime, the Lodge Star had applied to the Provincial Grand Lodge to have their new Lodge consecrated, and this little matter took the P.G. Lodge some time to determine when it would conveniently be able to do so. But in the interim, it had come to their ears that the Star Lodge harboured a spurious body of Masons—the E.G. Encampment being so termed.

The Deputy Provincial Master, Bro. M.W. F. A. Barrow being the principal actor in this little drama, and his Office-bearers, are also members of the R.A. Chapter and Knight Templar Encampment, acting under the Chapter General of Scotland. And, by the way, "Tempora Mutantur, et nos mutamur in illis," they have but recently become connected with the Chapter General themselves. Previously the Encampment with which they are connected in Glasgow was an independent one, acting under their own authority, their head being long since dead. As already noticed, Bro. F. A. Barrow is Dep. P.G. Master of the 3rd Deg. by St. John's Masonry; he is also Supt. of the R.A. Chapter in the Province, and also holds a position in the Encampment. This dignity with his exalted brethren, intimated to the Star Lodge that they would not consecrate their Lodge till once they had expelled from their bosom the spurious Encampment; and in the event of the Star Lodge refusing to do so, it was gently intimated that their charter would be withdrawn. This verdict of the P.G. Lodge we will leave to the Brethren of the Craft, who we are certain will denounce it as infamous.

Be it, however, understood that the E.G. Encampment and the Encampments acting under the Chapter General, have no connection but in name. The Encampments of the Chapter General have existed under their present head only for a few years, whereas the E.G. Encampment has existed without interruption in Scotland under the same Government for nearly 100 years; thus a scion of that body, the D.P.G.M. of Glasgow considers a set of dishonourable Masons, or at least he terms them spurious, which is equally the same.

It was deemed advisable that the E.G. Encampment should communicate themselves with the P.G. Lodge; this accordingly was done, and in reply that modus operandi was performed which is so befitting for great men to address their humbler brethren, they denounced the E.G. Encampment as spurious, governed by no head (not by any means the head they are connected with), and wishes to have nothing to say to them, and if any further communication should emanate from that quarter they distinctly state that no notice whatever will be taken of it. And to ensure their success in the Star Lodge, they make them pass a resolution that they let their Lodge room to no Masonic body unless they hold under the Chapter General of Scotland; and, strange to say, at the present moment the said Lodge is advertised to be let for Good Templars' meetings and other societies. "Sua cuique voluptas."

The question here arises, What right has the P.G. Lodge to interfere with a Lodge for letting their rooms to another body distinctly apart from them, who are veritable Freemasons made under the authority of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, and whose only crime (a crime called by them) is that of being connected with an old-established body of Knight Templars who do not act under their authority, and consequently the fees and other benefits accruing from new initiates and otherwise they do not participate in? The sooner matters are put on a more equitable footing, and every district Body governed by those connected with it without influencing and intimidating those who may be lower down on the Masonic ladder the better.

The time has long since arrived that the different degrees which to the neutral world are called "Freemasons," should live in that spirit which they profess, and put an end to those squabbles which sometimes exist, but which do much to lessen outer respect for the Order, and thereby infringe on its great and glorious precepts—Brotherly love to all mankind. We trust that the P.G. Lodge of Glasgow will revoke their decision, so that no ill-feeling may linger in the breasts of some of their brethren.

I remain, dear Sir and Brother,
Yours fraternally,
Glasgow, Feb. 17, 1874. FRIAT JUSTITIA.

"HORRORS ACCUMULATE ON HORRORS HEAD."

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

It is not an easy matter to do justice, in a letter, to the many subjects which I have to handle this week. But I cannot allow such gross misrepresentations to go unchallenged. I am compelled to defend myself and the cause I have espoused against all unwarrantable, unjust, and malignant charges. Having acted from the purest Masonic motives, and in strict accordance with my convictions, my conscience is quite clear on the point, and I fear not the result. The question at issue is an important one to the "Craft," and equally as important to myself, and I regret only that the lot did not fall to one more competent to deal with it. My heart is in the work; however, the cause is good, and, being confident of the approval of all intelligent and well-informed Masons, I go fearlessly to work, trusting to the protection of the Grand Master of the Universe against all threats and attempts that have been, and may be made, against my life.

Fair play is all I ask. I will proceed at once, and deal first with—

"MASONIC RELICS."

In reply to G. H. W., and G. W. W., which appear to be the same—to save time and space I will refer your readers to his letters published in The Freemason on the 7th and 21st February respectively. I think the circulars referred to by G. H. W. were not issued from the P.G.L. of Glasgow, but from the Grand Lodge of Scotland, a copy of one of which I give further on in my trial (?) It will speak for itself, and needs no comment now.

The Melrose St. John's (No. 1) referred to is the Lodge over which I have the honour to preside. It was started some fifteen or sixteen months since, and now numbers some 300 members. Other Lodges are also working in Glasgow under the "Melrose" body, and some four new Lodges are about to be opened in a month or so. All good Masons who can work their way into the Lodge are welcome. So few for those among our brethren who have been overtaken by misfortune, should be placed upon a foundation which can fear no contingency, and should be raised to a standard worthy of the education of the country. (Hear, hear.) Now, brethren, we live in times when the estimate of education in the mind of every reasonable man in the country is very different from that which it was when this Institution was founded. I venture to say that it was a much greater proof of the wisdom of Freemasons, and of their desire to promote the interests of their brethren when they founded the little school in 1798, than when now they maintain the great school of 1874, because you must measure the value and fruits then as compared with the fruits now by the estimate of education in the public mind at the two periods. Now, we know very well that in these days to be deprived of the means of acquiring a sound education is to be kept back in every career, is to be placed in a position in which it is hopeless to rise, and in which there can only remain a dreary struggle for those who find themselves by the neglect of others, unhappily placed in that position. (Hear, hear.) Look at the public service. You know that now it is not personal favour or political importance which gets men into situations in the public service. (Hear, hear.) There were times when the great event of the last month would have spread dismay through the hearts of thousands of candidates, and have raised the most extravagant hopes in the minds of thousands of others on the other side. (Laughter.) Those things do not exist. That is not the case now. (Hear, hear.) Now-a-days, those who desire to enter the public service of this country have to rely upon their intellectual attainments, and upon the instruction which they have received. But it is not only in those walks of life that education is now, I may say, a necessary of life; it is so, as you all know well, and it is so increasing in every career, public or private; and, therefore, it becomes a duty imperative, I say, upon every Freemason who has the means, to contribute towards Institutions of this kind which are founded for the purpose, and which we have every reason to believe are fulfilling the purpose for which they were founded; the great, the noble, the truly Masonic purpose of bringing within the reach of the children of our distressed brethren the means of obtaining a sound education which is calculated to provide for them, whatever faculties they may possess. Now, I know well that it is supposed to be the duty of the chairman of a public dinner always to congratulate everybody upon the satisfactory state which all the matters that are then under discussion are, and to endeavour to make everything pleasant as we desire that things should always be after dinner; and in many respects, indeed, I can truly follow that time-honoured usage. No doubt this Institution is receiving a very large amount of support from the Masonic body. It is increasing its numbers, has recently erected most commodious buildings; and it is, as we trust, advancing in its educational career, and taking the position which should desire it to occupy among the educational institutions of the country. But you will remember that we Freemasons have a duty, especially when we assemble together upon public occasions, of boasting exceedingly of our noble Institutions, and of telling those who are not Masons, that in those Institutions may be found the proof of what are the principles of the result of the Craft. Well, in one sense that is true; but there is another sense in which it is less true than I should desire (I am always of plain speaking on these matters, and I do, in my duty, holding the high position which I do, to say to you that which I really mean), and I have this to say, with regard to all Institutions, that it appears to me—and I become increasingly impressed with the conviction, that the burden of their support falls too much year after year upon the same shoulders. (Hear, hear.)

of the Glasgow Masons, however, can do that, that we are not troubled very much. I deny that we have "much to gain" by visiting brethren. We are continually strengthening our forces by affiliating brethren from Lodges under the Grand Lodge of Scotland, who should know which body practices the best Masonry. Brother John Kinnaird, 33°, member of Lodges Nos. 9, 13, 62, 111, 374 (under Grand Lodge of Scotland), 193, Pa., 194, N.Y. (United States), 76 (Canada), and 204 (New Brunswick), was duly affiliated into the Melrose St. John's, No. 1, on the 17th inst. I have his permission to make the fact public, and challenge any Mason to meet him and publicly discuss the question as to the genuineness of the Melrose St. John's Masons, for £100 aside, the winning money to be devoted to benevolent purposes.

I have never seen any advertisements "requesting the attendance of Visiting Brethren," or known of any emanating from the Melrose Body. If such ever did appear, was it any crime, pray?

A Melrose Mason of many years standing, who was brought up in Melrose, informs me that he never knew or heard of any other than the old Melrose St. John's being in Melrose. If this be true where did G. H. W. get his No. 15, Kilwinning, St. Peters, No. 210, and incorporated Kilwinning, No. 102 from?

G. H. W. is quite correct, however, in stating that "The Melrose Lodge has always maintained its independence." This is true in more than one sense, they are entirely free from debt and have plenty cash in hand. Had the Grand Lodge of Scotland maintained its independence as well, it would not be burdened with its present enormous debt, or be ashamed to publish an annual financial report.

I most emphatically deny having known who G. H. W. was before I sent off my letter, which appeared on 14th Feb. I had my suspicions after sending it, but I never knew it as a fact until the 21st, when I learned it in your office here. I did not even know G. H. W., or G. W. W. by sight until my so-called trial and expulsion, which is most unfairly reported in your issue of 21st inst. Trial indeed! A greater farce never was played in a penny show. A so-called summons (the real article I enclose to you for inspection, after which please return it to your office in this city for me, and I will call for it) of which the following is a copy:—

"Abercromby-street, Glasgow,
"22nd January, 1864.

"Sir and Brother,

"I am instructed to summon you to attend the next meeting of the Lodge "Glasgow" No. 441, on Tuesday, the 10th February prox., at half-past eight o'clock p.m., to answer to the charge of your joining the "Melrose" body of Masons,

"I am, yours fraternally,

"JOHN KENNIE, Secy.

"Mr. Thos. Stratford."

Having been personally served, I attended Lodge "Glasgow," 441, at time fixed. After the charge was read I requested the R.W.M. to cause all E. A.'s and F. C.'s to retire and the lodge to be raised to the sublime degree of M.M. That done, I insisted upon all visiting brethren withdrawing. This was objected to and overruled by the lodge. One brother (of 413), however, acknowledged the justice of my demand. I protested against the so-called trial, as being inforinal, irregular, unmasonic, and illegal, inasmuch as the so-called summons not being stamped with the seal of the lodge, was Masonically illegal, according to authorised works on the laws of "Masonic Trials," that by the same law no Mason can be tried in the presence of visiting brethren without his consent.

This notwithstanding, I was put on my M.M.O.B. to answer if I had joined the "Melrose" body, and held the office of R.W.M. I admitted that I had done so, but maintained that it did not constitute a Masonic crime. If it be a crime, then I would plead guilty to the charge. A circular was then read, of which the following is a correct copy:—

"Freemasons' Hall, George-street,
"Edinburgh, 26th Dec., 1874.

"R. W. Sir, and Brother,

"I am directed by the Grand Commission to call your attention to advertisements which have appeared in the Glasgow newspapers, intimating that a lodge styled "The Melrose St. John" had been inaugurated in Glasgow by the Melrose Masons, and to caution your lodge against giving countenance or recognition to any parties hailing therefrom. The following names appear to be connected with the movement, viz., Robert Renton, Andrew Hart, John Scott, Wm. Hart, Wilson, and M. C. Barclay.

"You are aware the Melrose has persistently withheld from union with the Grand Lodge of Scotland, and has no warrant or authority for establishing new lodges.

"Be so good as to read this letter to your lodge, and cause your members generally to be informed of its import.

"I remain yours fraternally,

"ALEX. J. STEWART, G.S."

The fearful crime was proved (?) by the above circular. I was charged (though this does not appear in the so-called summons), "with having violated my obligation by joining a body of Masons, contrary to the Constitutions of the Grand Lodge of Scotland." I asked why the circular above should say "the Melrose Lodge has persistently withheld, &c.?" That of itself proved that the Melrose Masons had frequently been invited to join the Grand Lodge of Scotland, and showed beyond doubt that they were genuine Masons:

I told the lodge that they knew nothing of the law of Masonic trials, and, as they were unprepared for the trial, and I wanted to have the case tried on its merits, I was willing, for their sakes, and the credit of the lodge, to have the trial adjourned for a month, at which time I would pledge my word to attend. And in the meantime they would have an opportunity to read up Masonic history and Masonic Law. I did not—as your report states—ask for an adjournment. Moreover, I told them distinctly that I was prepared then. I also stated that if they adjourned the case for a month, I would withdraw my objection to visiting brethren being present, and they might then have the Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow, and the whole of the Grand Lodge of Scotland too, if they liked. It was decided, however, that the trial proceed. I then said they had no jurisdiction in the case. That even if all was proved as charged—as an American-made Mason, I was affiliated, only to consider 441, as next after my Mother Lodge, and as I had neither violated my American obligation, nor infringed any of her bye-laws or rules, I was perfectly clear, and I defied them to find me guilty. It was held, however, that the circular, the Constitution of Grand Lodge, and the bye-laws of the lodge, empowered them to deal with the case. Bye-law No. 37, of the lodge was then read, which is as follows, "Should any member infringe these bye-laws, he shall, after being duly summoned to attend a meeting, be liable to such penalty as the majority of the brethren present at said meeting shall deem fit and expedient."

In this case it was "deemed fit and expedient" to expel me from the lodge. I denounced the whole proceedings as unmasonic and disgraceful, and I cautioned the lodge not to take steps that they would afterwards regret. I requested that my name should not be erased from the roll until the decision of the lodge had been confirmed by the P.G.L. and G.L. of Scotland, to which tribunals I said I should appeal. Your report omits to state that the request was granted. Some one proposed that the D's should put me out of the lodge, and the S.D. at once stepped forward, between me and the altar, with that brotherly intention, he was, however, ordered to his seat by the R.W.M., who by his promptness alone, prevented a scene which none would have regretted more than myself.

I shall always feel grateful for the kindness and courtesy I received from the R.W.M. throughout these painful proceedings. I would I could say the same for the members of the lodge. I am confident though, that most of them had no desire to injure me or disgrace the Craft, and, if they erred, it was only through ignorance of matters Masonic, or from bad judgment. I was not—as your report states—ordered but I was requested to retire. Nor was the word "spurious" or the term "spurious body" mentioned at all throughout the proceedings, your report to the contrary notwithstanding. Perhaps our friend G. W. W., who was present, will furnish your readers with an interesting account of the after piece, or the "dark scene," entitled "Moses when the candle went out," or "Noses when the gas went out." I am sure he can write feelingly on the subject.

I remain, fraternally yours,

THOMAS STRATFORD.

R.W.M., Melrose St. John's, No. 1, and still member of Lodges 106,
N.Y., and 441, Glasgow.

Glasgow, 23rd February, 1874.

P.S.—Since writing the above I have had the pleasure of two hours' conversation with Bro. W. H. Jackson, R.W.M., of "Glasgow," 441. I have also shown him this letter of mine, and he states that it is quite correct, and that anything to the contrary is false. Bro. Jackson also states that he never saw or heard of any other circular on the subject, but the one above, issued from Grand Lodge. What can G. W. W. say for himself now?—T.S.

OUR MASONIC CHARITIES.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

The importance of the subject, and your known readiness at all times to freely open the columns of The Freemason for the discussion of subjects interesting to the members of the Craft, induces me to trespass on your space, and supplement my former letter with a statement of the means which, in my humble opinion, might promote the object in view, viz.—An increased annual support to all our charities. These suggestions are necessarily very crude, but I venture to put them forward in the hope, that other brethren will bring their matured experience to bear on the subject, and that by amending them or proposing some better means instead, a practicable scheme may ultimately be worked out. I am not at all wedded to any of these propositions, my chief motive in giving them shape being to stimulate discussion, a discussion that, let us hope, will bear fruit in season.

Permit me, however, first briefly to notice the letters of Bros. Binckes and Gotthiel, which appear in your issue of the 7th.

I cannot altogether agree with Bro. Binckes's statement respecting the publication of the advertisements. The claims of the charities, the elections and the results should at any rate be regularly and systematically announced in the advertising columns of The Freemason.

Seeing that this journal is the only medium through which extended reports of everything pertaining to the Craft can be made known, seeing that the news columns must so frequently and so largely be used in notices and reports the proprietor has certainly a right to expect, both in accordance with the usages of other bodies and newspapers, and as a matter of justice and business, that the advertisements should also regularly appear; and not only would this systematic use of the advertising columns of The Freemason be advantageous to the charities themselves, but the members of the Craft who are interested in them (and who amongst us should not be?) would know where to look for information respecting them.

With Bro. Gotthiel I perfectly agree, that propositions emanating from the rank and file rarely succeed, unless some prominent leader takes the matter up, and one of my reasons in again troubling you, is the hope that, by continuing the discussion, some distinguished brother will step forward and by his countenance and assistance aid in causing something practicable and permanent being devised. A recognition of work instead of social position only (when the honours of the Craft are distributed), more frequently than is now done, would be a further incentive to many active members to continue their exertions and could not fail to produce good effects. For then work is but very moderately valued, unless the brother is in some position on the social scale. I am, Sir, very truly yours, that I do not mean to say that the charities are incommensurable.

the contrary, I think that Masonic as well as other bodies, and charities, are no doubt much benefited by the social ideas that generally reign supreme after a well ordered banquet; but alas how seldom with us is that opportunity taken advantage of to press forward the claims of charity, and that societies stand as much in need of them in moderation as the human frame does with a regular allowance of feeding. My objection is that in too many instances the dinner table is too much considered, and the charity vote postponed or altogether put on one side.

The suggestion Bro. Gottheil makes, that the Grand Lodge should make it compulsory upon every member to subscribe will hardly do, seeing that it would in the first place do away with the voluntary character of our contributions, would also have a tendency to confine all subscriptions to the minimum amount laid down by such enactment, and would also in time make us an insurance society, for seeing that every one was compelled to subscribe, so in time it would come to pass that every one would expect a share in the benefits. What we really want to do, is to make certain that the claims of our charities are brought under the immediate notice of every brother, and to educate our members until they all annually or at other intervals contribute in proportion to their means.

The personal subscriptions of members ought not to diminish the subscriptions of lodges and chapters in their corporate capacity, and I do not think they would, as the members being more alive to the charities would more readily initiate or support votes towards them. Every lodge and chapter (as Bro. Binckes justly remarks) ought to make an annual contribution to each of the charities. Educate the members into giving out of their own purses, and they will soon take care that regular votes are made from the common purse.

Seeing that the machinery at present in existence does not succeed in bringing our charities sufficiently under notice, what can be devised to supplement it? It is excellent as far as it goes, but it falls very far short. The circulars and appeals are even in too many cases never either read or announced from the dais of the lodge. The W.M.'s is careless about it, and each succeeding W.M. too frequently copies his careless example.

Let us take our present organization of processes, lodges, and chapters, and consider each separately.

Could there not be established in each province a special charity board, consisting of, as officio members, the Provincial Grand Officers the year, and one or more representatives in each lodge. The P.G.M., and the P.G.M. would take honorary rank as president and vice-president respectively, the board being themselves a working chairman, and too many provinces it would be too great upon the time of the P.G.S. were the extra duties of the Secretaryship of this board placed upon him, a separate Secretary, would in many cases be deemed advisable. This board should meet quarterly, or at any rate not less than once half-year. The business might be defined to consist of receiving reports from the Charity Committees of each lodge, advising and pressing committees to do their work; they might initiate movements by which permanent subscriptions might be obtained, and to them might be delegated the local claims for which they might also report to the London Committee upon the claims of any one in their province. Where the province is large this might double itself into district committees, reporting to and acting under the whole of the province. Take this province for example—Seaham, Sunderland, Shields and might form one district; Durham, Bishopton, Chester-le-street, and Gateshead might form a second, while Hartlepool, Stockton and Barnard Castle might form a third. These provincial boards an amply number of members would always be found ready to respond to the call on the anniversary of each province. A subsidiary to this Provincial Board a special committee might be appointed in each lodge consisting say of the W.M., the two Wardens and two Charity Stewards, the latter of whom might be specially charged with the duty of collecting subscriptions and appealing to each individual member at least once a year. This committee might depute any one of their number to be present at the meetings of the Provincial Charity Board.

Chapters might be dealt with in the same way as lodges.

I have already occupied so much of your space, that, I will but add one or two more sentences and close, leaving details and other matters to some one else, or to a future time.

The committee of each charity, would, I anticipate, be perfectly ready to supply to each member sufficient number of copies of an appeal, so that the Lodge Charity Stewards could forward one to each member.

I cannot help further remarking that in the opinion of many the movement made last year by which the sum necessary to qualify a lodge or chapter as vice-president, governor, or subscriber, was doubled, and was a move in the wrong direction. The old arrangements by which these bodies got a perpetual rank and vote, for the same amount that an individual donor only received a life interest, manifestly needed alteration, but it would probably have been better, instead of altering the amount, to have limited the duration of the rank and voting power to 20 or 25 years, instead of giving the votes or vote in perpetuity.

With Bro. Binckes and others, I trust, the subject will not be allowed to drop, but that the brethren will come nobly forward and assist. If once in form, no difficulty will be found in keeping the machine in motion, and the time would soon come when our present institutions would be fully employed, when there would be few remnants to carry forward at each election. And then many claims which are exceedingly stronger (but are not now brought, because on account of the numbers already on the lists the chances are hopeless) would receive due consideration. The claims would be necessarily more numerous, but we should have increased funds to satisfy them; and when the present institutions were taxed to the uttermost, money would be forthcoming to found branch institutions in different parts of the country.

Faithfully and fraternally yours,

JAS. H. COATES, W.M. 949.

MASONIC RELICS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I think "An English, French, and Scottish Mason" cannot have carefully read my former letter on this subject, as he would not say "they are calculated to mislead the unwary," as on page 78, I use these words, "An unrecognised assembly working without a charter or other authority from the Grand Lodge of Scotland," subsequently I say, when speaking of the old lodge at Melrose, "This lodge has always maintained its independence, not acknowledging the Grand Lodge of Scotland, but it is only recently that she has sanctioned the erecting of daughter lodges."

This, in my opinion is the pith of the case. I do not question the legality of the old lodge, I know and respect as brother Masons, gentlemen who first saw Masonic light within her bosom, but these legitimate sons join with me in questioning her right to charter fresh lodges. I am at one with an "English, French, and Scottish Mason," in thinking it would be better for the Grand Lodge to try to bring about a brotherly union, and concluded my letter on page 79, by expressing a wish that such an arrangement should be made.

I still hope that this slight controversy may stir up both parties to find out an amicable mode of settling the dispute and by granting extra privileges to the Old Melrose Lodge, as was done in the case of the Mother Kilwinning, induce that old and respected lodge to enjoy the advantages of union and universal instead of partial recognition.

I remain, yours fraternally,

G. W. W.

SUPREME GRAND ROYAL ARCH CHAPTER OF SCOTLAND.

The Quarterly Communication of the Supreme Chapter was held in the Freemasons' Hall, George-street, on Wednesday, the 4th inst. Present:—M.E. Comp. Wm. Hay, P.Z. No. 4, Grand Superintendent of Works, acting Grand Z.; Dr. J. T. Loth, P.Z. No. 38, acting Grand H.; Dr. J. Middleton, Z. No. 56, acting Grand J.; L. Mackersy, W.S., Grand Scribe E.; W. Mann, S.S.C. No. 107, acting 3rd Grand Sojourner; and a good attendance of the companions.

The Supreme Chapter having been opened in due form, the minutes of Supreme Chapter and Committee were read and confirmed.

The following Proxy Commission was read and sustained, viz., from Chapter Homer, Symrna, No. 132, in favour of Comp. J. W. Winchester, LL.D.

Presents from (1) the Grand Chapter of Texas, U.S., and (2) the Grand Chapter of Columbia, U.S., consisting of the published proceedings of these grand bodies, were laid on the table, and the thanks of the Supreme Chapter voted thereto.

The nomination of Grand Office-bearers for the ensuing year was then made as follows, viz.:

Sir Michael R. S. Stewart, Bart., First Grand Principal; the Right Hon. the Earl of Rosslyn, Past First Grand Principal; Samuel Somerville, of Ampherlaw, M.D., Deputy Grand Principal; the Right Hon. the Earl of Kellie, Second Grand Principal; the Hon. and Rev. A. C. Baillie Hamilton, Third Grand Principal; Lindsay Mackersy, W.S., Grand Scribe E.; William Mann, S.S.C., Grand Scribe N.; Alex. Mitchell, Grand Treasurer; Alex. Hay, Grand Recorder; Henry Inglis, of Torsonce, Grand Chancellor; George F. Russell Colt, of Gartsherrie, First Grand Sojourner; Lauderdale Maitland, of Eccles, Second Grand Sojourner; Major W. H. Lord Rosehill, Grand Sword Bearer; William Hay, Grand Superintendent of Works; Alexander Wilson, First Grand Standard Bearer; Captain Charles Hunter, Second Grand Standard Bearer; James Baillie, Grand Janitor.

The arrangements for the annual festival were remitted to the Supreme Committee.

Petitions for charters to—(1) Adamant Chapter, Bakley, Cape of Good Hope No. 151; and (2) Port of Leith Chapter, Leith, No. 152, were remitted to the Supreme Committee, with powers to grant the same when certain formalities were complied with.

Report on Mark degree.—The Supreme Committee reported that the Grand Chapter of Ireland by letter declined to recognise the Grand Mark Lodge of England in respect that the same is not recognised by the Grand Lodge of England, and for this and other reasons set forth in an elaborate report by the Committee, the Supreme Chapter also refuses recognition.

Supreme Chapter was then after closed in due form.

THE
 DIARY, AND POCKET-BOOK, FOR 1874.

CONTAINING

Lists of Lodges, Chapters, Conclaves, Grand Councils, and K.T. Preceptories, with the Names of Officers, in England and Wales, Scotland, Ireland, France, Belgium, Germany, Italy, Denmark, Portugal, Sweden and Norway, Greece, Turkey, New Brunswick, Venezuela, Netherlands, British Columbia, Peru, Quebec, Canada, America, &c. The LONDON MEETINGS OF EVERY DEGREE are given in the Memorandum space of each day. The COUNTRY LODGES appear in Towns, alphabetically arranged. It also contains the CHARGE and ENTERED APPRENTICE'S SONG.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

This small, but comprehensive Masonic guide, contains lists of lodges, chapters, councils, and full particulars respecting the grand Masonic body throughout the globe.—Standard.

Useful to Freemasons.—Echo.

The "Cosmopolitan Masonic Calendar, Diary, and Pocket-book forms a comprehensive work of reference for Freemasons, and should be largely patronised by them. Mr. Kenning, 198, Fleet-street, is the publisher.—Lloyd's News.

The "Cosmopolitan Masonic Calendar, Diary, and Pocket-book for 1874," published by Kenning, Fleet-street, must be very handy for the Craft, containing, as it does, a very complete list of lodges and officers, &c.—Figaro.

The "Cosmopolitan Masonic Calendar," (Kenning) is a very useful work of reference for Freemasons, issued in the convenient form of a pocket-book. It contains lists of Lodges, Chapters, Conclaves, &c., with the names of officers, places of meeting, and other information, referring to almost all parts of the globe.—City Press.

The fourth year of publication of this most useful and handy volume has arrived, and we are glad to notice various changes have been made in the arrangement of the information, which will considerably add to its value. As each successive edition has appeared, the Craft will have seen how numerous improvements have been introduced, and certainly the present copy has far excelled all previous issues. We are glad to see that an accurate list of all the London and Provincial Lodges and Chapters has been arranged and classified alphabetically, according to their names, and towns they are held in; and a capital calendar is given, in which will be found all the London Lodges, Chapters, &c., as also the various Boards and Benevolent Committee meetings. These, we know, have only been compiled after an expenditure of considerable time, labour, and patience. The information respecting the Mark Grand Lodge, the Grand Council of Royal, Select, and Super-Excellent Masters, the Orders of the Temple, and of the Red Cross of Constantine, and the Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Rite, is especially full and valuable; and their various Lodges, Councils, Preceptories, Conclaves, and Chapters, are carefully recorded, and nothing of importance seems to have been omitted with these rites—information, by the way, which cannot be obtained in any other publication, and which alone is sufficient to make the Calendar a great success. The "Cosmopolitan" is also thoroughly worthy of its name, for intelligence is afforded of the chief officers, and of the names, numbers, and localities of nearly all the Grand Lodges in the world. Within the compass of 250 pages there is matter enough compressed, clearly and closely printed, to fill several ordinary sized volumes. We conclude by expressing our earnest hope that the support afforded it by the brethren of the "mystic tie," will be commensurate with its usefulness, accuracy, and compactness.—Freemason.

This work, published by Bro. Kenning, of 198, Fleet-street, has just made its appearance among the annual literary productions, and will no doubt be received with as much favour from the Craft as previous issues. The information contained in its pages is exceedingly useful, and must have occasioned the editor much care and labour in its compilation, a task few would be disposed to accept, considering the difficulties to be encountered in carrying out successfully such an undertaking. Lists of Lodges, Chapters, Conclaves, Grand Councils, and K.T. Preceptories with times of meeting, are given in addition to other matter. In the diary for private memoranda are printed, for each date, numbers representing different lodges, chapters, &c., whose meetings are held on the particular day, an arrangement which must prove of great service to visiting brethren and others. Indeed, the work is as valuable and important to members of the various branches in the Masonic world as the "Post Office London Directory" is to business men and enquirers.—Sunday Times.

We have just received a copy of the Cosmopolitan Masonic Calendar, Diary, and Pocket-book for 1874 (London, Liverpool, and Glasgow, George Kenning). It will be found what it professes to be—a comprehensive Masonic book of reference, being a collection of very useful information with reference to the Craft all over the world. It contains list of Lodges, Chapters, Conclaves, Grand Councils, and Knight Templar Preceptories in both hemispheres, giving the names of the officers and other particulars, including the days of meeting. All this special information is in addition to the items peculiar to calendars. Altogether, the pocket-book will be found a very useful companion to the Masonic brethren.—Liverpool Daily Courier.

Bro. Kenning, in this handy pocket-book, has provided an acceptable New Year's purchase or gift for every member of the Craft who desires to be properly posted up in Masonic information. It is a carefully compiled and valuable little work, containing between its covers not only what seems to be a comprehensive Masonic calendar—showing at a glance the day on which every lodge in the kingdom meets—but lists of members of Grand Lodges, of all Masonic benevolent and representative institutions, and of all true Masonic bodies throughout the world, and the names of their grand and other representative officers. The publisher is Bro. George Kenning, of London, Glasgow, Edinburgh, Dublin, and 2, Monument-place, Liverpool.—Liverpool Daily Altion.

May be had at Bro. George Kenning's Masonic Depots, and through any Bookseller or Newsagent.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opium, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief to Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which is at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it obviates cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment in this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat & chest.

Invalidate should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had gratis of all Chemists.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

MALTA.—Zeland Lodge (No. 515).—The brethren of this lodge assembled on Wednesday, the 4th March, at three in the afternoon, to wish farewell to the W.M., Bro. James Ingram. The lodge being opened, the R.W. District Grand Master (Bro. Kingston) took the chair, and the P.M. read an address expressive of the regret felt by the lodge at the W.M.'s departure, and of the warm feelings of affectionate regard entertained by all the brethren towards him. A written testimonial was then presented to him to this effect, which owing to the brief notice received could not be presented in proper form, it was resolved to have this done and to forward it to him as early as possible. The lodge was then called off for a brief space, and due notice was done to the toast of "The Health and prosperity of the W.M." The lodge being resumed, was then closed.

LIVERPOOL.—De Grey and Ripon Lodge (No. 76).—The usual meeting of the brethren of this lodge was held at 140, North Hill-street, Toxtown, Liverpool, on Wednesday, the 11th inst., when there was a very large muster of the brethren. Marshall, George, and Crowther for their mysteries and privileges of the Order, which throughout being exceedingly good. Singing and raising of several brethren were mentioned of the evening's work, which was creditable to all concerned.

GATE LODGE (No. 1366).—The usual meeting of this flourishing lodge was held at the House Hotel, Highgate, on Monday, the 17th inst. The W.M. opened the lodge at the usual time, and three candidates being presented, a ceremony of raising was performed.

Bro. C. Greyhill announced that his list of subscriptions for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution amounted to exactly £70. A motion having been made to relieve relatives of certain deceased brethren, and sundry other business having been disposed of, the lodge was closed.

STAR LODGE (No. 1275), met at the Ship Hotel, Greenwich, on Friday, March 6th. Bro. T. R. Darke, W.M. presided. There were present: Bros. H. Keeble, P.M. as S.W.; G. F. Guest, J.W.; Rev. Colles, P.P.G. Chaplain, Oxfordshire, Chaplain; J. Smith, P.G.P. P.M., Treas.; F. Walters, P.G. Steward, Middlesex, P.M., Sec.; J. J. Limebeer, S.D.; W. Kippes, J.D.; S. Homewood, P.M., I.G.; Waugh, P.G.P. P.M., and others. The W.M. initiated Messrs. W. B. Woodman, H. Pratt, and G. Fawn; raised Bros. Ellis, Budgett, 1302, and Appleby, 1309. The lodge being closed, banquet was served, F. Hayward, J.W. 946; W. Waglowe, S.W. 946; F. Frampton, P.M. 17; Budgett, 1309; Appleby, 1309; Dr. Pope, P.M. 946; and J. Baxter Langley, J.W. 1423, responded to the visitors' toast.

ERA LODGE (No. 1423).—On Saturday, March 7th, at Kings Arms Hotel, this prosperous lodge was held. Bro. H. A. Dubois, P.G. Steward Middlesex, W.M., opened the lodge. He was supported by Bros. J. W. Baldwin, S.W.; J. Baxter Langley, J.W.; Rev. P. M. Holden, Chaplain; F. Walters, P.G. Steward, Middlesex, P.M. Secretary; J. S. Sweasey, S.D.; M. C. Devereux, (R.N.) J.D.; E. Devereux, I.G.; A. A. F. Crow, C.S.; J. T. Moss, P. Prov. G.D., Middlesex, P.M.; T. H. Miller, P.M.; C. Raab, S. Woolf, T. H. Millburn, and others. Bros. R. Liebmann, 160 S.C.; F. W. Johnson, G. W. Malim, F. King, F. B. Joyce, and G. A. Black. F. Walters, P.G. Steward, Middlesex, P.M., Sec., raised Bros. C. B. Robinson, D. Sullivan, and W. A. Simmons. The work was well done. The lodge was closed and banquet served. The only visitor was Bro. Captain G. Andrews, (late 74th Highlanders,) 784.

GREAT CITY LODGE (No. 1426).—A meeting of this lodge took place on Saturday night, March 14th, at the City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street. Bro. J. Stevens presided, and most of the officers were present, and about thirty members and visitors. The business consisted of two passings and two raisings, which the W.M. disposed of with his usual ability. The next business was the election of a W.M. for the ensuing year, and the choice fell unanimously upon Bro. Headon, the present S.W., who was warmly congratulated upon his appointment. An effort was made to alter the bye-laws, or at least to cause their suspension, so as to allow Bro. Headon to be installed on the anniversary of the consecration of the lodge, but this was resisted, and consequently that ceremony cannot take place until the regular meeting of the lodge in October next. This appears an absurdly long period between the election and the installation, as the present W.M. will retain that title for eighteen months. Instead of the period usually allotted to the office. Bro. Freeman was unanimously re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. W. Steedman, P.M., Tyler. A report was presented, and it was agreed that sanction should be given to holding a lodge of instruction, under the warrant of this lodge. The audit committee was appointed, and after some other business had been disposed of, the lodge adjourned.

BOOTLE.—Bootle Lodge (No. 1473).—The first regular meeting of this new lodge, (the consecration of which was noticed at length in The Freemason a fortnight ago), took place at the Molyneux Assembly Rooms, Bootle, on Thursday, the 5th inst., when there was a very large gathering of members and visitors. The lodge was opened by Bro. S. E. Ibbs, W.M., who was supported by the following officers:—Bros. H. Wyatt, S.W.; J. W. Turley, J.W.; J. P. McArthur, Treas.; T. D. Pearce, Sec.; Richard Roberts, S.D.; T. W. Wills, J.D.; W. S. Barker, I.G.; W. H. Clemmy, S.; W. Hughes, S.; and W. Blake, Tyler. The members present were Bros. J. A. Ross, J. Lawson, J. W. Cave-Browne-Cave, J. A. Simpson, G. Turner, W. Humphreys, C. Ewen, J. Sharp, J. Duncan, J. W. McWeare, J. J. Mills, J. Birch, J. C. Caley, G. Parry, T. Grant, D. McLaren, J. C. Patterson, E. Griffiths, A. Bucknall, F. M. Jones, and J. Evans. Amongst the visitors were Bros. H. M. Molyneux, Joseph Wood, R. R. Martin, R. H. Evans, H. Jackson, W. Hughes, G. Ellis, and about twenty more. After the minutes of the consecration meeting had been read and confirmed, the W.M. proceeded, in a most masterly and effective manner, to initiate the following candidates, who had been duly elected:—Messrs. R. J. Sprakeling, J. C. Hurbert, William Litt, Robert Roberts, and Owen Jones. The whole of the work was admirably done by the W.M. and officers. The lodge was afterwards closed in peace and harmony.

INSTRUCTION.

LIVERPOOL.—Downshire Lodge of Instruction (No. 594).—For a number of years this lodge of instruction, under the preceptorship of well-approved and capable brethren, has done good service in spreading and fostering a taste for Masonic education, which would not otherwise have been imparted, nor probably desired, and therefore the annual dinner of the brethren connected with it, which took place at the "Canton" Hotel, Victoria-street, Liverpool, on Tuesday evening, the 10th inst., was a pleasant re-union of those who had reaped the advantages of such an excellent institution, which ought to exist in connection with every lodge. Bro. W. D. Rouse, W.M., and Preceptor of No. 594, occupied the chair, Bro. Peter M. Larson, P.M., the vice-chair, and amongst the other members and visitors present were Bros. S. E. Ibbs, P.M., Treas.; T. Dilcock, J.W.; R. Ing, P.M.; A. C. Morrison, Sec.; R. P. France, S.D.; H. Worthington, S.; P. R. Thorn, P.M. 1182; J. Davison, W.M. 724; T. Evans, W.M. 1356; Jos. Jones, Sec., 1356; J. H. Edginton, S.W., 1182; W. G. Veale, Org., 1356; C. Leighton, S.W. 1325; W. E. Catelle, W. H. Moss, J. H. White, J. H. Burch, J. Whitfield, R. J. Wilkinson, R. Williams, P. Askew, J. L. Jones, W. Ferguson, S. Puce, R. Maddox, N. Ludvigsen, G. Maxwell, J. Le Comber, T. W. Knoop, and others. A dinner of excellent quality was served by Bro. W. S. Vines, P.M. 220, and 1299, which gave the most complete satisfaction to every one present. After the cloth had been drawn, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given by the W.M. in exceedingly appropriate and happy terms, and in the course of the evening he proposed "The health of Bro. R. Ing, I.P.M., and Immediate Past Preceptor," of whose valuable services he spoke in the highest terms. After an excellent speech, Bro. Rowse presented a very handsome silver tea kettle with stand, formed of the square and compasses, to Bro. Ing, as a mark of the great esteem in which he was held by the members of the Downshire Lodge of Instruction in his capacity of Preceptor. Bro. Ing, in acknowledging the toast and presentation, assured the brethren that his services had always been given gladly, and he would continue to use his utmost endeavours to make the Lodge of Instruction valuable to every one connected with it. Various other toasts were given during the proceedings, and the brethren separated at an early hour, after spending a very enjoyable evening. Several excellent songs were given by Bros. Ibbs, Evans, Veale, Edginton, and others.

Royal Arch.

IPSWICH.—Royal Sussex Chapter of Perfect Friendship (No. 376).—The quarterly convocation of this chapter was held at the Masonic Hall, on Wednesday, the 4th inst. There were present Comps. Stephen Burdett King, M.E.Z.; S. Wright, P.Z., as H.; W. Tracy, J.; Comps. Luff, Scribe E.; Emra Holmes, J. of St. Luke's Chapter, as N.; Fraser, Prin. Soj.; J. A. Pettit, Sen., Dr. Mills, Barfoot, A. Gamman, W. Daking, of the Union Chapter, Nova Scotia, Jack, &c. All below the rank of Principal having retired, the chapter who duly opened, and the companions then admitted. The minutes were read and confirmed, and four candidates were balloted for and accepted for exaltation, but none being present there was no special business before the meeting. This being the first occasion the companions had met since the lamented death of Comp. J. Franks, P.Z., Scribe E., the M.E.Z., took occasion to remark on the great loss the chapter had sustained through his decease, and dwelt on the death of Comp. Townsend, for many years Treasurer of the chapter. In few, but feeling words, he expressed his own sense of the irreparable loss that he and they had met with in the death of Comp. Franks, of whom, and of whose services to the chapter he spoke in terms of warm eulogy, and he hoped that these losses would make us all think of our latter end. The cup of memory was then passed round in solemn silence, and quaffed to the remembrance of our venerated and esteemed companion. Bro. Mills also spoke very feelingly of Bro. Franks, whose constant companion he had been for thirty-six years, and begged Comp. R. Tracy to accept a medal or jewel, which had belonged to our late brother, and which he felt sure that brother would feel, was placed in proper hands. Bro. Tracy, in responding, said he should never wear that jewel without thinking of all he had done in the furtherance of the objects of Masonry, and his constant endeavour would be to follow in his footsteps. Bro. Pettit and Bro. Wright followed with some suitable remarks commendatory of Bro. Franks. Comp. Emra Holmes said that the first brother who had welcomed him in a Masonic Lodge in Ipswich was Bro. Franks. He (Bro. Holmes) had frequently testified, both here and elsewhere, to the admirable manner in which he had worked in lodge and in Royal Arch Chapter, especially in the latter, where in conjunction with their present esteemed M.E.Z., Comp. King, the ceremonies were so impressively performed, and from all he had seen and from all he had heard of our late excellent and venerable brother, he felt sure that it would be a matter of hope and satisfaction to the brethren to remember that their brother had only gone before to the Grand Lodge above. Comp. Fraser would not harrow up the feelings of the companions by dwelling more on the loss the chapter had sustained in the death of Comp. Franks. Outside the Masonic circle his loss was universally felt, for he carried out the true principles of Masonry in his daily life. He (Comp. Fraser) would tread lightly on the ashes of the dead, but he must bear his testimony to the excellence of our late brother. It was decided to address a letter of condolence to the relatives on behalf of the chapter. At the conclusion of this mournful, but impressive episode in the evening's proceedings, the ordinary business of the chapter was proceeded with. On the initiation of the M.E.Z., Comps. Emra Holmes read to the chapter the famous Masonic poem, King Solomon's Temple, by Duganne, which is published by our learned Bro. Markham Tweddell, of Stokesley, and its exceeding beauty was the subject of much admiring comment. On its conclusion a cordial vote of thanks was accorded to Comp. Holmes, and ordered to be recorded on the minutes, and several brethren expressed a wish to procure copies of the poem. The chapter being then closed, and Comp. Luff, Scribe E., having given the beautiful exordium, the companions retired for refreshment. In proposing the usual loyal and Masonic toasts the M.E.Z. regretted that he could not propose that of the Prov. Grand Superintendent, and Prov. Grand Chapter, as unfortunately they had no Prov. Grand Chapter. Now that they had opened the White Rose Chapter at Bury he thought the time had come for a Provincial Chapter. Bro. Wright also expressed a hope that the Royal Arch should be made into a province in Suffolk. Bro. Kira Holmes, in returning thanks for the visitors, dwelt strongly on the beauties and excellencies of the Royal Arch, and remarked that he was surprised at the apathy of many good Craft Masons towards the Royal Arch. No Mason should consider his Masonic career complete until he had been made an R.A., any more than we should be content to stop short at the F.C. He thought with Comp. King, the M.E.Z., that a Prov. Grand Chapter ought to be formed, and he had no doubt the Prov. Grand Master, if properly approached, would lend the movement every assistance in his power. It is not customary to have the assistance of vocal harmony at these meetings, nevertheless the companions present enjoyed an agreeable albeit a rather sad evening.

RIPON.—Marquess of Ripon Chapter (No. 837).—On Saturday, 7th inst., a new Royal Arch Chapter was opened at Ripon, in connection with the De Grey and Ripon Lodge, 837. It is styled "The Marquess of Ripon Chapter." The Marquess of Ripon, as Provincial Grand Superintendent of West Yorkshire, assisted by Excellent Companions the Rev. Dr. Symth and Beck, of Fidelity Chapter, Leeds; H. Smith, Prov. Grand Scribe E.; Mason, Musgrave, and Oates, of the Philanthropic Chapter; and several other companions from Leeds, Wakefield, &c., duly consecrated the chapter, and installed Companions Rev. E. Collinson, Colonel F. W. Ripley, and Joseph W. Bishop, as Principals. The brethren afterwards adjourned to the Unicorn Hotel, where an excellent banquet was provided. The chair was taken by the Marquess of Ripon. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured.

ROSE OF DENMARK CHAPTER (No. 975).—The installation meeting of this chapter was held at the Star and Garter, Kew Bridge, on Saturday, the 7th inst. In the absence of the Principals the Chairs were filled by Comps. Pendlebury, M.E.Z.; Terry, H.; Longhurst, J.; Bro. Gorman, of the Egyptian Lodge, No. 27, was exalted, the whole of the ceremony being performed in a very able manner; those of the newly-elected Principals who had arrived were then inducted into their exalted positions, the retiring M.E.Z. having been presented with a jewel, and no other business offering, the companions adjourned.

UNIVERSITY CHAPTER (No. 1118), was consecrated at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, on Monday, the 23rd ult., by Comp. J. Hervey, G.S.E., assisted by Comp. Major J. Creaton, P.G.S.B., and Comp. R. Wentworth Little, Prov. G.S.E. Middlesex, as H. and J., and Comp. H. Radcliffe, P.Z. and M.E.Z. 91, as D.C. The various ceremonies of consecration and installation were rendered to perfection, accompanied on the harmonium by Comp. E. Stanton Jones, as Organist. Comp. S. Leith Tomkins was duly installed as M.E.Z.; Comps. Rev. A. Bruce Fraser, as H.; P. A. Latham, as J.; after which the following officers were invested:—Comps. J. Percy Leith, Treas.; E. Watson, E.; H. Sutherland, N.; H. H. Riach, P.S.; W. Masterman, A.S.; Aretas Akers, A.S. The usual compliments were paid to the consecrating officer and his assistants, after which the chapter was closed. A very enjoyable evening was afterwards passed at the banquet table, where the customary toasts were given and received with the utmost cordiality. The Hon. Judge Gibbs, D.G. Supt., Bombay, responded for the Grand Officers, and Major J. Creaton, for the visitors, and amongst other companions were Comps. S. Tomkins, G. Treas.; J. Whichcord, G.D.C.; Cooper, and Wood. Apologies for non-attendance were read from Lord Balfour, and other companions.

Scotland.

EDINBURGH.—Lodge St. Stephen (No. 145).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge took place on Monday, the 9th inst., in St. James's Hall, Writers' Court. Supporting the Right Worshipful Master, Bro. R. S. Brown, were Bros. D. G. C. Christie, P.M. of St. David's, No. 36; R. Wadler, W.D.M., nearly the whole of the office-bearers, and a goodly number of members. After the minutes were read and confirmed, a report was brought up by the Standing Committee, recommending certain alterations in the Bye-Laws, and by the adoption of which a step has been taken in the right direction, viz.:—That the admission of candidates for initiation or affiliation, henceforth be by ballot. (The use of the ballot-box at present is the exception, not the rule, in the Metropolis of the brethren over the border). After the transaction of the ordinary business, the lodge was called from labour to refreshment, when deputations were received from the Lodge Celtic, No. 2, headed by Bro. J. D. Wormald, R.W.M., Lodge Edinburgh Mary's Chapel No. 1, headed by Bro. Bailie Muirhead, R.W.M. A number of visiting brethren were also present, amongst whom were Bro. P. Sinclair, R.W.M. of Le Journeyment, No. 8; Bro. Sergeant Major Willmott, of the Roman Eagle, No. 160, Bro. D. Kinnear, P.M. No. 291. The evening was spent in love, peace and harmony, and labour was resumed, the R.W.M. proposing "That to mark the respect which is entertained for two such distinguished Masons, and highly respected citizens as Bailie Muirhead, and Councillor Wormald, they be affiliated as Honorary Members of this Lodge," this met with the unanimous approval of the members, who upon the oath de fidei was taken by Bros. Muirhead and Wormald, and they resumed their seats amidst hearty congratulations. Bro. Kinnear proposed a vote of thanks to the R.W.M. for the excellent manner in which he had carried through the business of the meeting, and that same be recorded in the minutes; this was carried nem. con. and the lodge was closed according to ancient custom.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF NORTH WALES AND SHROPSHIRE

In accordance with special announcements and public advertisements, the Provincial Grand Lodge of Freemasons for the province of North Wales and Shropshire was held in Holyhead on Friday. Though the local Masonic Lodge, the St. Cybi, No. 597, is holden at the Marine Hotel, on this occasion it was deemed expedient to exchange rooms for the time being, and to occupy the spacious and more commodious rooms at the Royal Hotel, now under the able superintendence of Mrs. Head, as the anticipated number of brethren in attendance would be so numerous to be conveniently, or at all events comfortably entertained at the former place. It proved to be a happy foresight on the part of those brethren whose duty it was to provide suitable accommodation for this auspicious event. A great number of years had elapsed since the last Provincial Assembly met here, and there were, therefore, considerable expectations in the town, more especially at the St. Cybi Lodge, 579, has progressed very materially in numbers and influence of late years. Sir Watkin Williams Wynn, Bart., M.L.R.W.P.G.M.; opened the P.G. Lodge at about 2.40 p.m., assisted by his P.G. Officers. There was a crowded attendance, and the business transacted appeared to fully take up the interest of the brethren. After discussing the various questions brought forward, and closing the P.G. Lodge, the brethren formed into a procession and proceeded to the St. Seiriol Church. The service was ably and distinctly intoned by Bro. T. Lloyd Kyffin, while the musical part was extremely well rendered by the choir of the St. Seiriol Church, under the leadership of Mr. John Williams, Mr. Charles Moran presiding at the organ with his usual skill and ability. The close of the service, Bro. the Rev. Williams Jones, B.A., S.W. and Chaplain to the St. Cybi Lodge, delivered a most impressive and applicable discourse, from the 1st chapter of Paul's epistle to the Romans, 20th verse. After dwelling on the general purport of the text, the rev. brother confined his remarks to the sacred teachings and excellent principles of Freemasonry, dilating to a considerable extent upon the value of the mysterious Craft inculcates in the thousand that range under its banners, and winding up his discourse by saying that an opportunity would be given at the close of the service to practice some of the highest of those virtues—charity, as it was a collection to be made, the proceeds of which would be divided between three noble institutions in the town—the Salterns' Day Hospital, and the Lifeboat Fund. After the men a collection was made by the care of the warden, Bro. K. T. Parry, of Brynallan, amounting to £5 2s. The procession was at 10 o'clock—Two Tyles, with drawn swords, and not members of any lodge, two and two, lodges of the province according to their ers, and each in the following order, juniors going first: The Sir Watkin Lodge, No. 1477; Tyler with drawn sword; brethren two and two; Inner Guard with a sword; S. and J. Deacons; Treasurer and Secretary; S. and J. Wardens; W. Master. The Fitz-Alan Lodge, Oswestry, No. 1432. The Bala Lodge, No. 1369. The Square and Compass Lodge, Wrexham, No. 1335. Chaplains; P.G. Steward of the year; Past D.P.G. Masters; the R.W. D.P.G. Master; the standard of the P.G. Master; P.G. Steward of the year; P.G. Sword Bearer; the Right Worshipful of the Provincial and Master; P.S.G. Deacon; P.G. Tyler, with drawn sword. Also Brocs. John Ellis, the M. of the St. Cybi Lodge, 597, who together with his officers, the Rev. O. William Innes, V.; James Lloyd, J.W.; John Peters, P.M., Assurer; John Lloyd Griffith, P.M., Secretary; A. F. Snelson, J.D.; Robert Parry, Assent, William Innes, I.G.; Edward Mellor, and William Lewis, P.M., had made effective preparations for the occasion. There was a large muster of the brethren of the Cybi Lodge in the procession. The Worthy Chairman having pronounced the benediction, the procession left the sacred edifice in similar order, to the Royal Hotel, to partake of a sumptuous banquet, prepared under the supervision of Head. Altogether 87 sat at table. After the banquet, the R.W. P.G.M., Sir Watkin, proposed with the toast list. It must have been a festive to the brethren assembled at the festive to see the good humour, and the pure element shining so brilliantly in the Grand Master on this occasion; and though he has nobly devoted years of his life to Masonic labours, his energy and zeal diminished; but, on the contrary, appears to be expanding, and becoming more prominent by day. Very suitable addresses were given by several of the brethren, among whom mention Bros. T. C. Roden, P.M., No. G.W., Bulkeley Hughes, P. Prov. G. I. Lloyd Griffith, P.M. 597; John G.S.D.; Edward Mellor, P.M.; and others. Independent of the members of the Cybi Lodge, there were in addition to the following named, Bros. F. Jones, 384; R. J. 1143; John Ormiston, 1143; Henry 384; Owen Roberts, 1113; Robert 384; R. T. Phillips, 755; D. Cameron 1113; Haly, 384; David Wynne 1113; George Higgins, 1113; E. Hood, 24; J. Frederick Mason, St. Barnabas, 1113; Lloyd Kyffin, J.W. 1113; W. W. and James Treweek, 1113; James 6; R. H. William, P.M. 1113; and We may state in conclusion that the occasion proved a great success; every individual took special interest in the proceedings and highly gratified and pleased with the may be mentioned that after the toast of Wales, and that of Sir Watkin, Jones' songs were sung with much eclat, Bro. Robert Parry, presiding with his usual good taste on the excellent harmonium belonging to the lodge.

The Chairman then continued:—In looking over the list of subscribers, and when I do so, I see the same men time after time coming forward nobly, with generous subscriptions to maintain these great Institutions; but I have heard an estimate made that after all there is not above one-sixth of the members of the Craft who are subscribers to these Institutions. I hope that there is some error about that calculation.

I am very well aware that there are many men in the Craft who with the best intentions have not the means of subscribing; but I am very well aware that there are very many men who might subscribe and who do not. What I want to impress upon you to-night is this, that it is far better that these institutions should be supported by small subscriptions from large numbers, than that they should be supported by large subscriptions from a few. You who do not subscribe and cannot, have no right to say that the Boys' School is a credit to Freemasonry; it is a credit to its members; it is no credit, but a discredit to those who do not subscribe. And I earnestly beg you to think these things are doubtless truly the proofs which are held up and which we may hold up to our fellow-countrymen of the advantages of the spirit by which the Craft in this country is animated; but they are only proofs in that degree, in which they are supported throughout the length and breadth of the Craft, by everyone who can give any support at all. Do not let any brother be ashamed to give a small subscription. A great many small subscriptions will in the end come, as you well know, to a great deal more than a few large ones, and what you want is that these institutions should rest upon the widest possible basis, that they should be truly representatives of the spirit of this ancient fraternity, that what we say after dinner we may say deliberately at all times without fear of contradiction, that the spirit of the Craft is to be judged by the points which it bears in institutions like this, because these institutions do not rest upon the generosity of the few, but because they are founded upon the general and broad and stable basis of the general support of the Craft. I beg to couple with this toast the name of one of "The Vice-Presidents, Bro. Raynham Stewart."

Bro. Raynham Stewart, in returning thanks, entirely concurred in the views of the Grand Master that it was more desirable that they should obtain small contributions from a large number than large contributions from a small one. Beginning operations in a very small building, the Craft had had the courage to get into debt to increase it, and now they had had the courage to get out of debt; and he added that the managers of the Institution were perfectly ready to carry out the views of the brethren as regarded extending the usefulness of the Institution if only the brethren would provide them with the means for so doing.

Bro. Binckes presented two of the boys from the Institution to the Grand Master, to receive the silver medals awarded, the one for general good conduct, and the other for popularity among the scholars. These tests of merit are somewhat peculiar, and the Grand Master wisely reminded the recipient of the popularity medal that there were many things in this world more worthy of being striven after than popularity.

Bro. Binckes then proceeded to read a list of the monies brought up by the various Stewards on this occasion, showing contributions from Town Lodges, £2,951 17s., and from the country £4,060 3s., making together £7,031. Of this sum Bro. John Sutcliffe, of East Lincolnshire, had contributed a very considerable sum. Having devoted some eight months to this cause, he had, after setting a noble example by himself contributing 250 guineas, collected in his Province in all a sum of £1,030. Bro. Binckes concluded by announcing that there were eight lists still to come in.

In proposing the health of the Vice-Presidents, Auditors, and Committee of the Institution, the Chairman remarked that no Institution can flourish unless it is well managed; and if they were satisfied that the Boys' School was in a prosperous condition, that was the best proof that the managers had done their duty. He added, that he congratulated the brethren heartily on the results of this evening; and he was proud to say that he was connected with the Province of Lincolnshire, which had sent so noble a contribution to the funds.

Bro. Philbrick having returned thanks, the Chairman rose to propose "Prosperity to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, and the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution." He was sure that those who had assembled there in such numbers to contribute to the prosperity of the Boys' School; must also have warmly at heart the prosperity of the other Masonic Charities.

This toast was responded to by Bro. Little, who made a short but able address on behalf of the Girls' School, and hoped that the brethren present would support that Institution at the forthcoming festival.

The health of the Stewards was then proposed by the Chairman, and responded to by Bro. Capt. Platt, and the health of "The Ladies," which followed, was acknowledged in a neat speech by Lord Balfour of Burleigh.

The more serious business of the evening being now ended, the company adjourned to the Temple, where an admirable concert, under the direction of Bro. W. Ganz, G.O., was held, the principal performers being Miss Rose Hersee, Madame Thaddeus Wells, Miss Alice Fairman, Bro. Geo. Perren, Mr. Trelawny Cobham, Mr. Maybrick, Bro. Caravoglia, Bro. Paque, and Bro. Lehmyer.

[By the courtesy of Bro. Binckes we have received a full list of the subscriptions handed in by the several Stewards, which we are unable to find space for this week, but which will be found in next week's impression.

FATHER CUFFE.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Your correspondent "H.C.L.," appears as an apologist for Father Cuffe in his recent refusal to bury a Roman Catholic soldier who was a Freemason. He argues that the reverend gentleman was simply acting in accordance with the laws of his Church, and says "we must not too hastily . . . condemn as unwarrantable the conduct of a priest who is bound to obey his ecclesiastical superiors."

Now, Sir, "H.C.L.," (as well as some of your other correspondents) seems to miss the vital point in the matter at issue. Father Cuffe, as a Romish priest, may be perfectly justified in refusing to bury an excommunicated person. We may deplore the intolerance, the bigotry, and the want of clarity of the Pope in excommunicating any one, and of the priest in obeying such a senseless and wicked order. We may rejoice that the increased enlightenment of the age renders almost harmless all these papal threats, anathemas, and excommunications, and causes them to fall upon the world as empty words, "full of sound and fury, yet signifying nothing." We may rejoice that the curses launched against Freemasons do not deter thousands of Roman Catholics from joining the Order. We may rejoice to observe that the passionate breathings of the most infallible of Popes are less regarded than the dicta of any of his predecessors. We may rejoice that there is now no chance of a revival of those days when men trembled at the Pope's anger, when children were refused baptism at his command, and when the excommunicated dead lay unburied in the land. Yes, we may thank God that those days of grovelling superstition are gone. Beyond this mere expression of opinion, however, we have no right to interfere in the internal discipline of the Romish Church, and, so far, "H.C.L." is right.

But, sir, as a Roman Catholic Army Chaplain, Father Cuffe owes an allegiance beyond that due to the Pope of Rome. He is a paid servant of the English State; paid by the money of Protestant and Romanist alike; paid to render to our Roman Catholic soldiers the services of their church. In his capacity of State servant, of what avail is it to prate of his duty to the Pope? We have nought to do with the Pope! The Pope has no sovereignty in these dominions. If, then, Father Cuffe says that his allegiance to the Pope will not allow him to perform the duties for which he is paid by the State, we reply, "Get you gone; resign your State Office and your salary to some one who will. There are now plenty of Catholic priests, fortunately, who have cast off the degrading fetters of an infallible Pope.

The case stands thus: Father Cuffe, as an officer of the British Army, has refused to discharge his duty; let him then be called to account by his military superiors, and be made to understand that such conduct must not and shall not be repeated.

I am, yours fraternally,
WILLIAM DATE, W.M., 814.

MASONS' MARKS.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

After all that has been said, and written upon this subject, it is quite amusing to read such remarks as those by Bro. Chalmers I. Paton, at page 139. Were he some newly made brother his ignorance might be excused, but for Bro. Paton now to pretend not to know that the old operative Masons before last century were at liberty to take their mark with either an even or an odd number of points just as they chose is inexcusable. As a proof of this, he has only to turn to page 67 of Bro. Lyons splendid new Masonic work, "Freemasonry in Scotland," where a large number of Masonic marks from buildings and old Masonic records are so beautifully lithographed, and counting the points in the marks there shown, he will find about one half of them with an even number of points. He must also remember, as shown at page 550 of The Freemason, for September 2, 1871, that it was the rule among the old operative Masons to give to every apprentice his mark when being entered as an apprentice. The idea of confining the mark to Fellow Crafts was a new style of doing things, introduced when the mark degree was first instituted about the middle of the last century. The rule that the mark was to be always of an odd number of points was a new rule introduced when the mark degree was started. The reference which Bro. Paton makes to Bro. A. Kerr is rather unfortunate, one might as well bring Ptolemy forward to prove that Sir Isaac Newton was wrong as bringing Bro. Kerr forward to prove Bro. Hughan wrong. Those who desire more light upon Masons' marks, and upon the mark degree, may find some at pages 474, 489, and 522 of The Freemason for July 29th, and August 5th, and 19th, 1871.

I am, yours fraternally,
W. P. BUCHAN.

FREEMASONRY IN CHINA.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT AT SHANGHAI.)

We have very interesting news of the progress of British Masonry in China, and an energetic old Mason once more appears to the front. We need only mention the name of Past Master Sidford to remind China Masons of the founder of the Tuscan Lodge, 1027 E.C., at Shanghai in 1864.

A new lodge has been established at Chin-Kiang, a rising port on the great Yang-tze River during last year, and has been very favourably mentioned as doing useful work amongst the community at that place, and from what we hear there is still plenty of work before it. We have been favoured with a copy of the minutes of a meeting of the D.G.L. of China, from which we make some extracts relative to the final constitution and consecration of the Doric Lodge of Chin-Kiang No. 1433, E.C., and wish the lodge and its members "God speed," a wish that will be generally expressed amongst all our Masonic readers.

Minutes of a special meeting of the Doric Lodge No. 1433, E.C., held at the lodge-room, Chin-Kiang on Monday, 15th December, 1873, for the purpose of constituting and consecrating the lodge, and installing its first Worshipful Master and Wardens.

Present.—Worshipful Bros. Thos. W. Kingsmill, P.D.G. Superintendent of Works, acting for D.D.G.M., J. H. P. Parker, P.D.G.S.B.; Henry H. Sidford, Bros. Gearing, Abbott, Menzies, Goldspink, Nunn, Middleton, Walker, Camajee, Sanders, Moore, and Williamson.

The lodge was opened in ancient form and with solemn prayer at 9.30 a.m.

The circular convening the meeting was read as follows:—

"Doric Lodge No. 1433, E.C.,
"Chin-Kiang, 13th Dec., 1873.

"Dear Sir and Brother,

"You are requested to attend a special meeting of your lodge, to be held at the Masonic Hall on Monday, the 15th Dec., 1873, at 9.30 a.m. precisely.

"By order of the W.M.

"Yours fraternally,

(Signed) G. WILLIAMSON,
"Secretary.

"Business—The consecration of the lodge and installation of W.M. and officers."

The representatives of the District Grand Lodge, Wor. Bro. Thos. W. Kingsmill, P.M., No. 570, P.D.G. Superintendent of Works, &c., &c., and Worshipful Bro. J. H. P. Parker P.M. No. 501, P.D.G.S.B., were then announced as desiring admission, and were received with Grand honours, they were then conducted to the East., Wor. Bro. Sidford offering the chair to Wor. Bro. Kingsmill, who desired the W.M. to continue the work.

The lodge was passed to the F.C.'s degree, and all brethren below the rank of M.M. having retired, the lodge was opened in the third degree.

Wor. Bro. Sidford, then vacated the chair and handed the gavel to Wor. Bro. Kingsmill, soliciting at the hands of the delegates of the District Grand Lodge the constitution and consecration of the Doric Lodge. The delegates were also placed in possession of the charter, furniture, jewels, Regalia, and minute book of the lodge.

Wor. Bro. Kingsmill opened a District Grand Lodge in form with solemn prayer at 10. a.m.

The ceremony of constituting, and consecrating the Doric Lodge, No. 1433, E.C., was then gone through.

The minutes of the meeting of the lodge held under the Provincial Dispensation were read by the W.M. Elect, the same being approved, Wor. Bro. Kingsmill in the name of the District Grand Lodge declared them fully confirmed.

The District Grand Lodge was closed in form and with solemn prayer at 10.40, the Doric Lodge resuming labour in the third and second degrees respectively.

The W.M. Elect, Wor. Bro. P.M., Sidford was then presented for installation.

The ceremony of installation followed, the W.M., P.M. Henry Aeneas Sidford, receiving the salutations of the brethren.

The lodge closed in the third, opened in the second, closed in the second, and resumed labour in the first degree at 11.15.

The W.M. proposed a vote of thanks to the delegates of the District Grand Lodge in the following terms:—

"Worshipful and dear brethren, as the mouth-piece of the brethren of the Doric Lodge, I beg most heartily and gratefully to return our sincere thanks to you for your kind assistance in coming up to Chin-Kiang and constituting and consecrating our lodge, confirming our previous work, and installing myself and the other officers. Looking forward to this auspicious occasion, seemed at one time a long, almost a faltering expectation, but those times of anxiety and weakness are numbered amongst the things of the past, and we now go forward with renewed strength, vitality, and hopefulness. The work already cemented by your approval and confirmation has done good amongst the community of this port; our minutes have shown you there is still plenty of labour before us, and promise as far as lies in our humble power continue faithful in the discharge of the Masonic duties which still await us. Worshipful [S] I may safely say you can never receive a more hearty expression of thanks than that which I now propose to offer to you."

Bro. S. W. Gearing gladly seconded the thanks of the Worshipful Master, and the brethren carried it with acclamation.

Worshipful Bro. Kingsmill acknowledged the pleasure it had given him in being the fortunate witness of the real prosperity of the Doric Lodge and trusted that when the time came round Worshipful Bro. Sidford to vacate the chair, successor would worthily follow his predecessor's successful example. He, Worshipful Bro. Kingsmill, would have great pleasure in testifying to the District Grand Lodge that the working of her youngest offshoots was worthy of all commendation.

The W.M. proposed, Wor. Bro. Kingsmill seconded, and the lodge carried unanimously, a cordial vote of thanks to the visiting brethren from Shanghai, coupled with the name of Bro. Camajee, whose presence amongst us was proof in itself of our universality and non-sectarian principles.

Bro. Camajee and also Bro. Saunders acknowledged the vote with a few suitable observations.

Nothing further offering for the good of Freemasonry in general, or this lodge in particular it closed in due and ancient form with solemn prayer at 11.35 a.m., the brethren separating in peace, harmony, and brotherly love.

(Signed) GEORGE WILLIAMSON
Secretary

A new Worshipful Master, R. J. Abbot, installed as W.M. (by W.P. Master H. Sidford) for 1874 early in January, and at next regular meeting, 13th January, a vote of thanks was proposed by the J.W. Bro. Geo. Williamson, seconded by the Worshipful Master and carried with acclamation:—

"Worshipful Sir and Brethren,

"Being one of the first to be elected upon the volume of the Sacred Law now before you, I have peculiar pleasure in proposing a cordial vote of thanks to our Immediate Past Master Wor. Bro. Henry Aeneas Sidford for presenting that handsome volume with the square and compasses, to this lodge.

I am sure all these who are privileged to this their "Mother Lodge" will join me in supplementing this proposal by gratefully acknowledging his kind and patient exertions to thoroughly fit us each and all for the several degrees he has been pleased to confer upon us. May he hereafter have the satisfaction of knowing that those whom he has placed in the corner of this lodge, not only tend to strengthen and adorn this edifice (in the rearing of which he has displayed so much ability and zeal), but that through his instructions they have also rendered better members of that vast lodge which we are surrounded, in which, as each individual has an influence for the better or the worse. And may he, and we, by acting conformably with that Sacred Law, meet again that Grand lodge above, where T.G.A.O. lives and reigns for evermore."

Chin-Kiang, 16th January, 1874.
Worshipful and Dear Bro. Abbot, Wardens, and Brethren,

The flattering and unexpected vote of thanks that I was so undeservedly honoured with at last regular meeting, took me so much by surprise that I was unable at the moment adequate to give utterance to all I then felt, and desired. You will therefore allow me now, explicitly to record my gratitude to, and my love for, all who joined in those expressive fraternal regards. May the time never be forgotten, that you alluded to, when, most earnestly and lovingly, to impress upon my mind, that with unity in your lodge, you would have strength, action and commandment, as it were, in one word, and only one, of fraternal union. Let the resources and charity of our unenlightened—possibly involved, if not —outside world pass, on almost every occasion, unnoticed, in short, as if they had not been heard. This is our only danger—an insignificant one perhaps, but still a danger, that it is necessary to provide against. I am sensible of my own shortcomings, but with the unanimity and concord that now obtains amongst you, I entertain no doubt but that your lodge, and mine, will continue on her path of duty and usefulness, to a greater attainment of success under her present officers than I could have anticipated during my first year of Mastership. May the Almighty, our Guide, our Comforter, be ever with you, bless and prosper you as a lodge, as Masons, and as His children.

Your loving fraternal servant,
HENRY E. SIDFORD,
P.M. 1027 and 1433.

The Worshipful Master, Officers, and Brethren,
Doric Lodge 1433, Chin-Kiang.
Worshipful Bro. Sidford will have the satisfaction on leaving Chin-Kiang as, we are informed, he shortly intends, of knowing he has left a good work behind him.

MASONIC BIBLIOGRAPHY.

Among some looks which came into my hands the other day there is bound up with another treatise a copy of a little work mentioned by Kloss, page 22, No. 251.

This is, it seems, a defence of Freemasonry by the Chevalier Ramsay, according to Kloss, and had the high honour of being burnt at Rome by order of the Inquisition in 1783.

This little work is written in French, and is alleged to be printed at Dublin by Patrick J. Donoho, 1738. Kloss mentions a copy printed at London, 1749, but does not say whether any English translation of it ever existed. German translations of it do exist.

A. F. A. WOODFORD.

I see that Kloss mentions "Clypeum mistic" at page 185, No. 2523, and "Speck der Fall," at the same page No. 2526. He also at page 188, No. 2554, he mentions the Lusæ crucis Frater Thrasionico Mendax, the title of which I alluded to, as all written by risopheri Filius Mundus.

A. F. A. WOODFORD.

Let me call attention to the "Encyclopædia of Masonry and its kindred sciences, comprising the whole range of arts, sciences and literature, as collected with the institution by Albert G. Key, M.D., author of "Lexicon of Freemasonry," "A Text Book of Masonic Jurisprudence," "Symbolism of Freemasonry," &c., with illustrations."

George Kenning having been appointed Agent for the United Kingdom for the above is now prepared to supply the same at his office Depots, London, Liverpool, Glasgow, Edinburgh.

THE MASONIC CHARITIES.

are much pleased to inform our readers of an excellent pamphlet by our Brother Watson, W.M. 1386, "Lincoln, on our Masonic Charities" has been reprinted in the Magazine for March, 1874. (George Watson, 198, Fleet-street, London, 7d., postage paid.)

again to express our warm appreciation of Bro. Watson's valuable little book, and most ardently that every Freemason in this country had a copy thereof to carefully study.

PHOTOGRAPHIC NOTICE.

Mr. Moses and Son have published two splendid and wonderfully cheap photographic albums of H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh and H.I.H. the Duchess. We were not aware that these enterprising "entrepreneurs" of modern habiliments were turning their attention also to photographic art. We were acquainted with the fact indeed, that they were prepared to clothe completely even the Emperor's famous New Zealander at the most on the easiest terms, and in the most satisfactory and fashionable manner, so that the interesting personage would no longer be the subject of those respectable members of P.F. who patrol Westminster Bridge, as the specimens of photography they have sent us are very good in themselves, we think them deserving both of notice and commendation. Any of our brethren who want these two portraits for their photographic albums, as most probably all do, cannot do better than apply for them forthwith.

SURREY MASONIC HALL.

The Directors of the Surrey Masonic Hall Company have at length completed all preliminary matters, and the excavations for the foundations for the new building are in course of progress. To such of our readers who may be interested in this undertaking, we recommend an inspection of the new plans and drawings which we have authority for stating can be seen at the offices of the architects to the Company, Messrs. Pain and Clark, Essex-street, Strand. The builder, Mr. John Oliver, signed his contract for the work on Monday last, and has engaged to have the most important portion of the building complete and ready for occupation by the 1st of September in this year. At the Board meeting on Monday it was resolved to make almost immediate preparation for the laying of the foundation stone, and it is anticipated that that ceremony will be performed by a high Masonic personage, whose convenience will, of course, have to be studied before a date can be absolutely fixed.

Obituary.

BRO. WILLIAM HENRY SMITH, OF HOLYHEAD.

The deeds of the brave and self-sacrificing brethren who have, from time to time, taken their place in the Masonic ranks are worthy of a place in a journal which is peculiarly for the Craft; and, therefore, notice is this week due to the obituary of a worthy brother, who for many years has been well-known and highly esteemed in Holyhead. The funeral ceremony of Bro. William Henry Smith, proprietor of the Marine Hotel, a member of St. Cybi Lodge, No. 527, which took place on Saturday week, was an event of more than ordinary interest, and the brethren of that and other lodges showed their respect for the deceased by attending on the occasion in large numbers. Amongst those present were:—Bros. John Ellis, W.M.; the Rev. O. W. Jones, M.A., S.W., and Chaplain; J. Peters, P.M., P.G.S.D., Treasurer; J. Lloyd, J.W.; A. F. Snelson, J.D.; R. Parry, Organist; W. Jones, I.G.; E. Mellor, P.M.; W. Lewis, P.M.; O. R. Ellis, 507; J. M. Harden, I.G. 755; and about 20 other brethren. The funeral service was impressively read by Bro. Rev. O. W. Jones, S.W., Chaplain, and at the proper time the brethren went round the grave, each dropping a sprig of acacia on the mortal remains of the departed brother, all evidently feeling the loss which had been sustained. Bro. W. H. Smith served in Her Majesty's customs for nearly 26 years, and in 1853 he was appointed collector for Beaumaris and its dependencies, from which he retired in 1866 with a well-earned pension. He was not only well known throughout the counties of Carnarvon and Anglesey, where his official duties lay, but also by repute beyond the United Kingdom, in consequence of his noble exertions in 1859 in succouring those saved from the wreck of the ill-fated Royal Charter, superintending, on behalf of the Crown, all the operations for recovering the bodies, as well as the specie and cargo. His zeal was most indefatigable; and so much were his services appreciated by the friends of those who perished, that a nobleman started a subscription for the purpose of presenting a testimonial to him. Bro. Smith, on hearing of the movement, at once declined to receive anything, stating that if he had done more than his duty he had only done what humanity dictated. The Treasury, however, were so highly pleased with his services that a special allowance was voted to him, the secretary being instructed to write acknowledging his great zeal and the satisfactory way in which he had carried out his painful and irksome duties. Exposure to the weather and his unwearied exertions laid the seeds of rheumatism, which compelled him to accept a pension in 1866. The deceased who was 52 years of age, died somewhat suddenly on the 5th inst.

As a mark of respect, the tradespeople in Holyhead closed their places of business during the hour of interment.

EDINBURGH.—Edinburgh College of the East of Scotland.—A special meeting of this College was held in Freemasons' Hall, George-st., on Saturday, the 14th inst., presided over by O. Frater John Laurie, Primus Adeptus, VIII^o, when the following brethren were admitted, members viz. J. M. Coventry, W.S.; H. J. Dickson, and John A. L. Barnett.

GRAND LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

The Lodge of Benevolence, met on Wednesday, at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. J. M. Clabon, President, Bro. Joshua Nunn, S.V.P., and Bro. James Brett, J.V.P. There was a very large large attendance of brethren. There were twenty-one cases relieved with a total of £463. Of this sum two cases were relieved with £50 each, three with £40, and two with £30; the remainder were relieved with smaller sums. The lodge sat for three hours. Six cases were deferred for further consideration, not being complete.

MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

The rank of Queen's Counsel has been conferred on Bro. F. A. Philbrick, Grand Junior Deacon.

Bro. Mackey's new work has just reached us, and we propose to call the attention of our brethren to it fully, next week.

A COMPREHENSIVE CURSE FOR THE FREEMASONS.

A Leeds correspondent sends us the Valparaiso Mail, of Jan. 2, and calls our attention to this paragraph in it:—

"The Bishop of Rio Grande and the Masons.—The Bishop of Rio Grande, says the Opinion Nationale of Rosario, excommunicated and anathematized the Masons of that province, cursing them in the name of God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost, of St. Peter, St. Paul, and St. Andrew, of all the Apostles and disciples of Jesus Christ, of the four Evangelists, of all the Martyrs from the beginning of the world to the end of time; he cursed them all by the heavens and the earth, all the things therein, in their houses, when travelling on land and on water, in church, coming, going, eating, drinking, playing, when courting sleep, asleep and awake, walking, riding, sitting, working, and resting. He cursed all the power of their bodies, interior and exterior, their hair, eyes, head, ears, jaws, nose, teeth, throat, shoulders, arms, legs, feet, all the joints, and finally wound up as follows:— Curse them. Jesus Christ, Son of the living God, with all the power of thy majesty, and may they be delivered up to eternal condemnation if they do not repent and confess their faults. Amen. Amen."

That is as bad a curse as that of Ingoldsby—vide "The Jackdaw of Rheims"—and approaches that quoted by Sterne in "Tristram Shandy." This was the curse on the thievish Jackdaw—

"He cursed him at board, he cursed him in bed; From the sole of his foot to the crown of his head; He cursed him in sleeping, that every night He should dream of the devil, and wake in a fright; He cursed him in eating, he cursed him in drinking, He cursed him in coughing, in sneezing, in winking; He cursed him in sitting, in standing, in lying; He cursed him in walking, in riding, in flying; He cursed him in living, he cursed him in dying!"

As to the curse of Bishop Ernulfus, of which Mr. Shandy obtained a copy from "the Chapter-Clerk of the Dean and Chapter of Rochester," some parts could not be reproduced in the columns of the Chatham News—readers of "Tristram Shandy" will know why. But all three excommunications are tolerably alike in the main—they are of a "common form." "Our army swore terribly in Flanders," cried my uncle Toby—"but nothing to this." We hope not.—Chatham News.

THE BOYS' SCHOOL FESTIVAL.

The second of our great Charity Anniversary Festivals has passed away, amid circumstances of singular interest and great success.

Under the Presidency of our Grand Master, we need hardly say, that full justice was done to the claims of the institution, as there are few more effective or powerful chairmen than our exalted brother.

We beg to commend his most admirable and truthful remarks to the notice of all thoughtful members of our Order, as they serve to express more forcibly and eloquently, what we for some time have been seeking to impress upon our many readers.

Bro. F. Binckes's untiring exertions have been rewarded with the liberal return of £7,004 7s., and we think such a fact in itself redounds not only to his credit, but to that of the numerous and active Stewards, and the many large-hearted members of our Order, who have again rallied round the Boys' School.

The simple fact, that the first two anniversary meetings of our charities have produced the total sum of over £13,000, is not only full of gratifying reflections, but must be a subject of some little pride to those who have worked so heartily in so good a cause, and to English Freemasons everywhere.

And so we conclude to-day with the good old adage, "Verbum sat sapienti."

THE GRAND LODGES OF CANADA AND QUEBEC.

We are happy, in being able to announce the adjustment of all existing differences between the Grand Lodge of the province of Quebec, and the Grand Lodge of Canada.

The Grand Lodge of Canada has consented in a very fraternal spirit, we understand, to withdraw her claim of jurisdiction over the province of Quebec and all the lodges therein, which are to be duly enrolled in the registry of the Grand Lodge of Quebec.

The Grand Lodge of Canada also formally recognizes the Grand Lodge of Quebec, and will establish a fraternal communication with her. The Grand Lodge of Quebec has, it appears, already been acknowledged by nearly all the Grand Lodges in the United States, and by several Grand Lodges elsewhere.

We are, then, glad to be able to announce a Masonic peace.

THE EARLY GRAND ENCAMPMENT AND THE P. G. LODGE OF GLASGOW.

We have carefully perused the letter of "Fiat Justitia," in our last issue, and assuming the writer's statements of facts to be correct, we do not profess to understand, what jurisdiction the Prov. Grand Lodge of Glasgow has in the matter at all, or how it can interfere with the undoubted rights and privileges of a private lodge. It is quite clear, that, as a Craft Provincial Grand Lodge, it has nothing to do with Templar Masonry, and has no locus standi whatever, in seeking to pronounce an opinion, as to the comparative value of two rival Templar orders, which as a Craft body it does know nothing, and can know nothing whatever. If the lodge thus unwisely and illegally interfered with, according to our Craft Regulations, had let rooms to a spurious body of Craft Masonry, then undoubtedly the Craft authorities could intervene.

But in this case, a Craft Provincial Grand Lodge, professes to interfere with a Craft Lodge because it has let its room to a body of Templar not in union with some Templar body, which commends itself to the Craft Provincial Grand Lodge.

Anything more injurious to Craft Masonry than this tendency of some of our Craft authorities to interfere with or take cognizance of Templary, cannot be well conceived, and furnishes another argument, if argument be needed, to our Irish Brethren, to get rid of any connection with any bodies or organizations whatever, extern to Craft Masonry. We shall await with much curiosity the defence, any, of the Glasgow Provincial Grand Lodge.

WEEKLY SUMMARY.

Her Majesty has returned to Windsor Castle after holding a Court at Buckingham Palace Friday.

The Prince and Princess of Wales are at Marlborough House.

The Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh remain at Buckingham Palace, for the present. The entry of Her Majesty with the august couple into London, on Thursday, the 12th inst., and her passage through the streets of metropolis, afforded unmixed gratification thronging masses of her people. Despite falling snow and the prevailing cold, the warmth and loyalty of those vast crowds knew no bounds, and seldom, if ever, has there been evidence more striking proof of the unchanged loyalty and hearty attachment of all ranks and conditions, in our industrious and well affected nation to the person of the sovereign, and the constituted authority of these realms. No doubt there was a good deal of honest English feeling for the newly-married couple, and of the welcome to the daughter of the Czar, but mainspring of all the remarkable pleasure joyous welcome proclaimed by the long and fringe of patient bystanders on Thursday was a devoted attachment to the Sovereign personally, and to our English Royal Family generally. Her Majesty and her children seem most sensible of the loyal manifestation sympathy and goodwill, which they beheld received from first to last, and all the arrangements alike of the military and of the police to have given the greatest satisfaction. Loyalty of Englishmen had changed our streets "for the nonce," into gay avenue flags, and carpeting and colour, and nothing more remarkable than the cheerful good humoured and orderly proceedings of the surging and gregated masses! It was, in fact, a pe-rejoicing with their Queen, and a pe-welcome to a gentle stranger.

Parliament is adjourned to the 19th, the business of the Session will commence.

Some remarkable correspondence has place between Mr. Charles Orton and the newspaper, as regards his brother in New York and both Mrs. Jury and Mrs. Pittman have appeared on the scene. Mrs. who was not examined at the inquest, maintains that the "gentleman in New York" is not her brother. Mrs. Pittman says that she is undoubtedly Orton's person's. One is reminded of the and the membership list of the last year.

The best opinion probably in the whole matter would be that of Mr. Inspector Whicher, though, we cannot expect that very cautious and skillful personage to condescend ever to write to the papers. We think that it is a great pity any more attention should be paid to a convicted criminal, and though we are daily assured that fresh proceedings are to be taken to set aside the judgment, we believe that they will turn out to be utterly futile. It seems very hard indeed to the rate-payers, and a great scandal to society, (relaxed undoubtedly as the moral feeling now is), that any persons should be associated to raise funds to continue such proceedings. Indeed it may be a fair question, whether, others besides Captain Brown, who is still "up" before Sir Thomas Henry, should not be made answerable to the laws of this country, for the part they have taken in this stupendous conspiracy.

The Bengal Famine Fund at the Mansion House, is now over £50,000 and it seems unfortunately as if a large sum would yet be needed to help the famishing multitudes in Bengal. The Government authorities are manfully straining every nerve to meet the terrible exigency; but it is, we think, clear without dispute, that their energetic efforts must be largely supplemented by our wonted English liberality, and kindly feeling at home.

Our fine troops are on their way back from Coomassie, and loyal Portsmouth is preparing to give them a right good hearty English welcome. They are expected almost daily, and may probably arrive before we go to press.

There is but little news from abroad. France is tranquil. Prince Bismarck is suffering from acute neuralgia. The Bishop of Treves is in prison, and the Bishop of Pernambuco sentenced to four years' imprisonment. This last energetic prelate could not, and would not, leave peaceable Freemasons alone, "hinc illæ lacrymæ."

From Spain we have nothing decisive. Marshal Serrano, who has taken the command, vice Moriones, is collecting a large army. Any day may bring important intelligence. Saballs has in the meantime fallen upon, and utterly routed, General Nouvilas.

We have to record the death of the Dowager Duchess of Richmond, of Augustus Chatham Strode, C.B., Captain R.N., of Col. Henry Salwey, formerly Coldstream Guards, of Sub-lieuts. R. Mundy, Victor Bradshaw, and Thos. Ficklin, on the march down from Coomassie, of Commander John Budgen, R.N., and of a military veteran, Charles Schaw, who carried the colours of a London Corps of Volunteers, being then an Eton boy, when George III. reviewed in Hyde Park 100,000 men.

The deaths of Col. the Hon. Richard Charles, of Brownlow North Garnier, late Major 53rd Regiment, of Captain Alfred Abercromby Dick, late Commandant of the 11th Bengalancers, and of the Rev. R. Demaus, principal of Whitelands Training College are also announced.

SPEECH OF BRO. J. C. PARKINSON, D.P.G.M., MIDDLESEX, ON HIS INSTALLATION AS W.M. OF ST. DAVID'S LODGE, NO. 679, ABERDARE.

In presiding for the first time as your Master, have to tender you my best thanks for unanimously electing me to that position. The handsome memorial, signed by the Past Masters, wardens, and members of this St. David's Lodge Aberdare, and the promises of diligent support contained in it, made it impossible to refuse honour they were good enough to propose. It is, no doubt, an uncommon circumstance for a Deputy Grand Master of one province to accept this office in another; but my connection with South Wales brings me frequently amongst you, and it is incumbent on us all to lend such assistance as we possess to the local development of national institutions. Experience has taught that the institution of Freemasonry is a moral and a social power, and I rejoice to have the opportunity of taking this leading position amongst the Freemasons of the Aberdare Valley, and of testifying publicly to my belief in the usefulness and potentiality of the Craft. I have proved its value in the four quarters of the globe, and whether at home in Europe, or on the burning shores of Africa, or by the crumbling tombs and palaces of venerable Asian races, or amidst the new theories, new ideas, and vigorous stirring life of the great Republic of the West, I have found our mystic bond of fraternity strong and valid, and the right hand of Masonic fellowship held out with unflinching cordiality. There has been so much nonsense written for and against Freemasonry; there are so few people, even amongst its members, who understand the full import of its working, and silent influence, that the outer world is not unnaturally confused between the denunciations of ecclesiastics who proclaim the works of Masonry to be evil, and irreligion, revolution, and social anarchy to follow in its wake, and the sneers of literary cynics who proclaim it to be a gorgeous game of make-believe, in which the weak, the credulous, and the vain exult in gay trappings over imaginary labours, and in titles of honour which, though full of sound and fury, signify—nothing! In the one case, Freemasons are portrayed as dark conspirators, whose machinations are dangerous to the common weal. In the other, as self-glorifying noodles, who indulge in harmless foolery with cap and bells, and whose pinchbeck symbolism and spurious claims are unworthy the attention of serious men. It is obvious that these assailants confute each other. Freemasonry cannot be—as the Romish Church would have men believe—a deep plot against religion and society, and also be a mere idle excuse for conviviality, or for male millinery tempered by alms-giving. The parts of Robespierre and Danton, of Jack Pudding, and Belphegor, the mountebank, are not played by the same men at the same instant of time. It seems almost a waste of words to say this, but as it happened only the other day that the rites of burial were refused in England to a British soldier, because he was a Freemason, and as all the Freemasons in a neighbouring kingdom (Belgium) were excommunicated at a blow on the day of my last visit here, it is expedient to let the wholesome air of truth blow through these fallacies, and never more so than on an occasion like this, when a decent respect for the opinion of neighbours and friends impels one to explain the grounds upon which we are willing to give personal support to an institution so deeply maligned. Two things are indisputable, the reality of the tie which binds Freemasons together, and their profound allegiance to Order and Law. The rulers they appoint, by an elaborate system of representation, they are bound by tenets and obligations, which are never violated, to honour and obey. And this brings me to what is little understood by the world at large, Masonic titles and ranks, the high value set upon them by, and their universal recognition within the fraternity. I venture to say that the distinctions of the outer world are not more highly prized than are Masonic honours by those within the circle in which they apply. Let us see how these honours are acquired. Freemasonry is a microcosm of constitutional government. A limited Monarchy; Lords, and Commons have in it their exact parallels. The Grand Master of the Order is a ruler, elected and loyally obeyed by subjects whose rights are clearly defined; and he governs by a Constitution which every Freemason can refer to, and which is never strained. The grand officers of England are life peers, a limited number of whom—never more than from eight to twelve—are created in acknowledgment of distinguished services by the Grand Master every year, and the Commons consist of all subscribing members, each of whom has a vote for the representatives composing the supreme Parliament, called Grand Lodge. This Parliament passes laws for the government of the Craft, and decides upon the disposal of its surplus wealth. Besides this, the whole kingdom is divided into Masonic provinces, each with its own Grand Master, who rules within it; the whole being represented in and subordinate to the central authority, and governed by laws which are clearly laid down and strictly enforced. The rank conferred by a Provincial Grand Master is only really valid in the province to which it relates, but the holder of it wears his insignia at all Masonic meetings, and courtesy awards him the title he bears at home. The Grand Officers of England—the peers—carry their rank for life, and thanks to that reverence for constituted authority, which is the keynote of our system, find their position acknowledged and respected by Masons all over the world. Masonic rank then, once won, gives its possessor influence over his fellows wherever Masons are. But as it is admitted that this rank only holds good among the initiated, the question may very naturally be put, "Do Freemasons include classes over whom influence is valuable, and with whom a reasonable man would wish to stand well?" This is a most pertinent query, and upon the answer to be given to it depends the value or worthlessness of that masonic rank which only a few can attain, but to which I should like to see every member of this lodge aspire. Lord Bacon said, two hundred and fifty years ago, "He that seeketh to be eminent amongst able men hath a great task; but one that is ever good for the public. But he that tries to be the only figure amongst cyphers helps to the decay of a whole age." It would not do, of course, to apply this sweeping saying too literally to an organisation like ours:—

In man this blunder still you find,
Each thinks his little set mankind.

But avoiding that error, we may fairly grapple with the question, "Does eminence in Freemasonry mean eminence amongst able men, or cutting a figure amongst cyphers?" We will not revert to the wisdom of King Solomon, nor bring forward proofs to-night that Shakespeare was a Freemason. Our reply shall be drawn from those whose life histories are indisputable, and if time permitted it would not be difficult to show that the eminent men who have been and who are Freemasons include every shade of opinion, every variety of talent, and diversity of avocation. To quote a few names almost at random, Sir Christopher Wren presided over Freemasons' lodges throughout the building of St. Paul's, and his gavel is preserved to this day by the Lodge of Antiquity, now meeting at Freemasons' Hall, London. George Washington, one of the purest patriots the world has seen, held Masonic Lodges during the War of Independence, presided as Master while President of the United States, when he initiated Lafayette, and was buried with full Masonic honours. Sir Walter Scott, Goethe (the great German), and Robert Burns (the sweetest and most natural of our own poets), were all faithful Freemasons. The most chivalrous of our great generals—the heroic Napier—and the most successful, the Duke of Wellington, were active Freemasons; as was that commanding genius in the art of war, Napoleon the First, who, it is well known was indebted to the Masonic organisation and his position in it for much of his marvellous power over the hearts and wills of his soldiers. Fox and Sheridan, brilliant orators and statesmen, both were Masons. The most eloquent prelate at this time on the English bench—the Bishop of Peterborough—is one of us; and from the Church, the State, the Bench, the Bar, literature, science, and the arts, lists might be compiled which would be positively startling in the intellectual wealth and lofty public service they would include. The only difficulty in drawing up the catalogue would be one of selection, owing to the abundance of rich material at our disposal. Moreover, opinion necessarily varies as to what constitutes eminence in the fields of intellect. There are often two opinions about science, and always two about literature. Discoveries are said to be not discoveries, but mistakes; books not to be good writing for which the author should be admired, but bad for which he should be despised. I, therefore propose to quote to you a list drawn from an assembly concerning which there can be no dispute as to whether a man is a member of it or is not, or as to the precise position it confers—I mean the House of Lords, which contains at this time the following Freemasons:—His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales (Past Grand Master of England, and Master of the Prince of Wales Lodge), the Duke of Cumberland, King of Hanover (Grand Master of Hanover), the Duke of St. Albans (Provincial Grand Master of Lincolnshire), the Duke of Marlborough, the Duke of Manchester (Provincial Grand Master of Northampton and Huntingdon), the Duke of Newcastle (Provincial Grand Master of Nottinghamshire), the Duke of Abercorn, the Duke of Leinster (Grand Master of Ireland), the Marquis of Ripon (Grand Master of England), the Marquis of Townsend, the Marquis of Downshire, the Marquis of Headfort, the Marquis of Donegal (Provincial Grand Master of Antrim), the Marquis of Waterford, the Marquis of Kildare, the Marquis of Londonderry (Past Grand Warden of England), Earl of Carnarvon (Deputy Grand Master of England), Earl of Zetland, Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot (Provincial Grand Master of Staffordshire); Earl of Sandwich (a Past Master), Earl of Shaftesbury, Earl of Jersey (Past Grand Warden of England), Earl Ferrers (Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Leicestershire and Rutland), Earl Cowper, Earl Mount-Edgcumbe (a Past Master), Earl of Rosslyn (Grand Master of Scotland), Earl of Durham (Past Grand Warden of England), Earl of Yarborough, Earl of Donoughmore, Earl of Limerick (Provincial Grand Master of Bristol), Earl of Dalhousie (Past Deputy Grand Master of England), Earl of Fife, Viscount Combermere (Past Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Cheshire), Viscount Hardinge, Viscount Gough, Lord Eliot (Past Grand Warden of England), Lord Sherborne (Provincial Grand Master of Gloucestershire), Lord Northwick, Lord Lilford, Lord Erskine (Past Grand Deacon of Scotland), Lord de Tabley (Provincial Grand Master of Cheshire), Lord Wharnclyffe, Lord Tenterden (Senior Grand Warden of England), the Very Rev. Dean Lord Plunkett (Past Grand Chaplain), Lord Skelmersdale (Past Grand Warden of England), Lord Abinger, Lord Leigh (Provincial Grand Master of Warwickshire), Lord Londeshorough, Lord Annaly (Past Grand Warden of Ireland), Lord Henniker (a Worshipful Master), Lord Lytton, Lord Methuen (Provincial Grand Master of Wiltshire), the Right Rev. the Bishop of Peterborough, Viscount Powerscourt, Viscount Dunboyne (Provincial Grand Master of Limerick), Viscount Blayney, Lord Colville. The following sons of peers are Freemasons:—The Marquis of Hartington (Provincial Grand Master of Derbyshire), Lord Maldon, Lord Royston (Provincial Grand Master of Cambridge), Lord Pelham (Provincial Grand Master of Sussex), Lord Holmesdale (Provincial Grand Master of Kent), Lord Amberley, Lord Lindsay (Provincial Grand Master of Aberdeenshire, and Past Grand Warden of England), the Earl of Bective (Provincial Grand Master, Cumberland and Westmoreland), Lord Kilworth, Lord Bernard (a Past Master), Earl Percy (Provincial Grand Master, Northumberland). This is a remarkable roll of names, and not the less so that it will take Freemasons generally by surprise. The prudent reserve of the Masonic body is so great that no list of our members has ever been printed; and while it is certain that the nobles I have quoted are Masons, it is equally certain that there are many more members of the Upper House who belong to us than I am able to name. Will anyone pretend that a Society numbering in its ranks more peers than there were in all England when the peerage was most powerful—more than wrung Magna Charta from John—more than swayed the throne itself during the Wars of the Roses—more than secured to us Protestant succession and the Declaration of Rights—that such a Society is dangerous to the Commonwealth, or that the importance claimed for it is factitious? And if, as was wisely written long ago, "the dignity of commandment is according to the dignity of the commanded; to have commandment over beasts, as herdsmen have, is a thing contemptible; to have commandment over children as schoolmasters have is a thing of small honour; to have commandment over gaily-slaves is a disparagement rather than an honour." If this be true, as it undoubtedly is, then, by a parity of reasoning the dignity and rank of those submitting to the commandment and obligations of Freemasonry must be taken into account when estimating its authority and weight in this country. It is even more interesting to turn to the new House of Commons and to note the number of Freemasons who have been just returned there. Again, I must ask you to remember that this is the first time it has been attempted to discover the Freemasons who are in Parliament, that the list I am about to quote is based upon personal knowledge and such partial information as could be obtained, and that it is necessarily incomplete. As in the case of the House of Lords, there are doubtless many members of the new Parliament who are Freemasons who have not been met or recognised as such either by me or by the friends whom I have been able to consult. The only mode of determining their numbers accurately would be to stand in the House of Commons itself on a field-night and to challenge every member there by signs—a proceeding which, even if it were practicable, might be attended with inconvenience. Taking them in alphabetical order, I submit to you the following list of members of the new Parliament who are also members of the Craft, giving you, as the joint-stock companies say, "power to add to their number," as your information becomes more complete.—Capt. P. Arkwright, (Derbyshire), Sir E. Anstobus (Wilton), Mr. James Ashbury (Brighton) Lord E. A. Bruce (Marlborough), Sir M. H. Beach, (Gloucestershire), Mr. T. Brassey (Hastings), Mr. H. A. Brassey, (Sandwich), Mr. M. Bathurst, (Cirencester), Hon. R. Bourke, (King's Lynn), Mr. Bristow (Newark), Sir R. Buxton (Norfolk, South), Mr. M. Bass (Derby), Mr. A. Bass (Staffordshire, East), Earl of Bective (Westmoreland), Mr. W. T. Boord (Greenwich), Romaine Callender, (Manchester), Mr. J. G. Dodson (Chester), Mr. W. H. Dyke (Kent, Mid), Mr. J. Dodds (Stockton), Hon. W. Egerton (Mid Cheshire), Mr. Eaton (Coventry), Mr. G. W. Elliot (Northallerton), R. Gardner (Windsor), Sir Daniel Gooch (Crickdale), Lord R. Grosvenor (Flintshire), Edward Green (Wakefield), G. Goldne (Chippenham), A. L. Goddard (Crickdale), G. Greenall (Warrington), Lord George Hamilton (Middlesex), G. Ward Hunt (Northamptonshire, N.), Marquis of Hartington (Radnor Boroughs), Hon. Col. Wood (Somersetshire, W.), A. S. Hill (Staffordshire W.), W. B. Hughes (Carnarvon Boroughs), J. Henderson (Durham), Viscount Holmesdale (Kent, Mid.), Marquis of Hamilton (Donegal), Mr. T. F. Halsey, (Hertfordshire), Lord C. Hamilton (King's Lynn), Lieut. Col. Hogg (Truro), Mr. S. Isaac (Nottingham), Mr. H. A. Johnstone (Canterbury), Sir H. Jounstone (Scarborough), Mr. Johnstone (Belfast), Sir F. Johnstone (Weymouth), Sir C. Knightley (Northamptonshire), Sir E. H. R. Lacon (Norfolk North), Colonel Loyd Lindsay (Berkshire), Colonel Egerton Legh (Cheshire, Mid.), Lord Lindsay (Wigan), Lord Muncaster (Cumberland, West), Viscount Mahon (East Suffolk), Viscount Macduff (Elgin and Nairn), Sir Lawrence Palk (Devonshire, East), A. Pell (Leicestershire, South), Earl Percy (Northumberland), Hon. D. Plunket (Dublin University), Sir F. Perkins, Southampton; Sir J. St. Aubyn, Cornwall; H. B. Sheridan, Dudley; Abel Smith, Hertfordshire; Hon. F. A. Stanley, Lancashire North; Mr. J. P. Starkie, Lancashire, North-East; Mr. C. Sykes, Yorkshire, East Riding; Sergeant Simon, Dewsbury; Mr. A. C. Sheriff, Worcester; Mr. MacCullagh Torrens, Finsbury; Mr. Cowper Temple, Hampshire South; Lord H. F. Thynne, Wiltshire South; Lord A. Hill Trevor, Down; Sir W. Wynn, Denbigh; Mr. J. Whitwell, Kendal; Mr. J. Walpole, Norfolk North; Sir F. M. Williams, Truro; Sir H. D. Wolff, Christchurch; Mr. G. H. Whalley, Peterborough. If proof were wanting that Freemasonry is not in this country, a political institution, it would be found in the nearly even balance of parties shown in the foregoing lists. If you analyse the names comprised in them, you will find that they include a nearly equal number of Conservatives and Liberals; and all we need care to congratulate ourselves upon as Freemasons is the number and influence of our brethren in both Houses of Parliament. Yes, there is one other point to rejoice over—the rarity of rejection amongst members of the Craft who have appealed to the constituencies. So far as I have been able to discover, out of the eleven or twelve hundred candidates who have been before the country during the last few weeks, and who have gone to the poll, there have been only sixteen Freemasons who have been unsuccessful, from which it seems reasonable to infer that while we are strictly non-political, it is not precisely a drawback even at election time to be one of a powerful society which binds its members together by secret and indissoluble bonds of mutual helpfulness and goodwill. Freemasonry, whatever it may be in less favoured lands, is not political with us, because England is free. Liberty of the subject has been secured here by many a bitter sacrifice and many a gallant struggle. But if it were possible for this nation to again undergo such throbs and throes as one of the old Puritan generals graphically described when the question in dispute was whether the king should govern as a god by his will and the nation by force as beasts? or whether the people should be governed by laws made by themselves, and live under a government derived from their own consent; it is not to be doubted that the teaching and organisation of Freemasonry, with its sound doctrine of natural equality and mutual dependence, would bear gallant and substantial fruit. It is only spiritual tyranny or civil oppression that that can have ought to fear from an Institution which is powerful in its unity, and in its skilful adaptation of varied means to given ends, but every principle of which is based on an inherent reverence for Constitutional law on a profound respect for the rights of the ruler no less than the ruled, and on that common ground of religious toleration and civil liberty which makes communities happy and nations great. In conclusion, let me say that it has seemed to me to be expedient upon an occasion of this importance to state plainly our grounds for upholding an organisation which is a power in the country for good or evil, and which may, perhaps take a deeper root in this portion of South Wales for the events of this evening. I, then, maintain that a well-ordered Freemasons' Lodge cannot flourish in a district without presenting valuable constitutional lessons in an attractive form, nor without fostering that unity of feeling and that cordial attachment between men of different degree which it is sound policy and true religion to encourage and support. And further, to those whose knowledge of life has taught them that mere personal aims, when not purified by high purpose, are of all earthly things the most unsatisfying—disappointing on attainment, and ignoble in pursuit; who cherish an inner life which is as far removed from common place surroundings as the glory of the sun is above the scenes it shines upon; who see in mankind and their pursuits puppets moved by an unseen Hand, and passing, some slowly, some rapidly, all surely off the stage to be no more seen—in a word, to the thoughtful few. Symbolism has in all ages possessed a deep attraction, when it has conserved purity of worship, lessons to humanity, faith in the Unseen, and lofty conceptions of a life to come. Advancement in Freemasonry, which is a system of morality veiled in allegory and illustrated by symbols, undoubtedly gives dominion of many hearts, but beyond this, it preserves an ideal which is revealed in proportion as it is sought for patiently, of happiness pure and high, because rooted in and inseparable from the happiness of others.

Who are the blest?

They who have kept their sympathies awake,
And scatter'd joy for more than custom's sake.
Steadfast and tender in the hour of need,
Gentle in thought, benevolent in deed;
Whose looks have power to make dissension cease—
Whose smiles are pleasant, and whose words are peace.

MEDICINAL EFFICACY FOR ANCESTRAL FREEMASONS.
Daily experience confirms the testimony borne to the benefits effected by Holloway's remedies in all descriptions of disease, which can assail mankind either at home or abroad. In cases of glandular or other complaints arising from impure blood, the use of these medicines and purifying remedies is always followed by the most gratifying results. The treatment made is well known, and the skin as near as possible to the string and string, and the Pills should be taken every day, as directed, rather than protracted doses. The treatment should be continued until the blood is purified, and the system restored to its normal state, and the mind and body thoroughly renovated. The medicines are sold by all the principal chemists, and are not to be obtained elsewhere.

MASONIC BALLS AT GIBRALTAR.

The Balls given by the Freemasons of Gibraltar have invariably taken a high stand amongst the enjoyments of the place, and when it was announced that the members of the Lodge of Friendship intended to entertain their friends, a pleasant evening was confidently anticipated. Never was public expectation more thoroughly realised than last night, when the lodge sustained its title by opening the doors of the Theatre Royal to about 300 guests. It is almost unnecessary to mention the theatre by name, seeing that so complete a transformation had been effected within its walls that, except for the presence of the well-known boxes, its very oldest acquaintances might have been forgiven for cutting the grimy edifice dead.

We are quite aware that we shall succeed only in conveying a faint idea of the elegance and beauty of the decorations, each one appropriate in itself and in keeping with the rest, but we must do our best, premising that in a long experience of Gibraltar we have never seen the Theatre so admirably arranged, whether for comfort or for effect, as was the case on that night.

The unsightly passage which leads to the body of the House was draped with gay bunting, and unworn carpet rendered the staircases pleasant, the eye and the foot being impartially benefited thereby. Over the entrance door of the ball room drooped the British and Russian Standards, their union a "happy thought" in reference to that recent matrimonial alliance between the two nations which has so particularly attracted the notice of the world at large. The upper end of the room had been converted into a canopy of glowing colours, beneath and at the termination of which stood, on a dais, the throne destined later on to be occupied by H.E. the Governor. On either side were the Wardens' pedestals, on one of which rested the Bible, betokening Christian Masonry, and on the other the Book of the Constitutions of the celebrated Craft. To the right and left below the dais were pillars bearing two globes, the celestial and terrestrial, and beyond those again were other emblems, from which none but the initiated may raise the veil. Behind all was a mirror, which as the evening wore on reflected the beauties of the room in every sense of the word, as well as those beings of sterner stuff, who, if not so elegant, are quite as necessary in a ball room as the fairer half of the human race. From the ceiling were festooned huge Union Jacks, and along the front of the boxes hung the banners of the various Christian Orders of Masonry, interspersed, with admirable taste, with numerous Masonic emblems, including our domestic friends, the ox and the cock, those more ferocious representatives of the inhabitants of the world, the eagle and the lion and, last but not least of tamed animals, man himself. Mingled at intervals amongst these were devices representing the jewels of the officers of the Lodge, and at the extreme end, facing the canopy, was a complete suit of armour, with the spurs and sword of a Knight Templar. Underneath the Governor's box was an illuminated scroll "Friendship, 278." The coup d'œil, of which we have given but a scanty idea, must have been seen to be appreciated, and the effect produced at the expense of so much exertion and trouble, reflects the highest credit upon the Ball Committee, under the invaluable personal superintendence of Bro. J. B. Imossi.

At a quarter past nine the arrival was announced of H. E. the Governor, attended by Lieut.-Colonel Smith, Gren. Guards, Assistant Military Secretary, and Lieuts. Lake and Ward, ides-de-Camp, and accompanied by Major deinton, R.A., and Mrs. de Winton, and Earl rosvener.

At the door His Excellency was received by the Director of the Ceremonies, Bro. W. Henry, and the Deacons, Bros. Evjenth and J. B. Imossi, by whom he was conducted to his box. H. E. the Governor was now conducted into the Ball-Room and led up between the two lines of Masons, where the following address was read presented by the Worshipful Master:—

"Gibraltar, 18th February, 1874.
Your Excellency,
It is with feelings of great gratification that officers and members of the Lodge of Friendship, whom I have the honour so represent as their Master, beg to welcome you to their festivities this evening, and at the same time to express their sense of the honour you confer upon them by your presence.

"It is the sincere hope of the members of this Lodge that Your Excellency, while kindly accepting their efforts for your entertainment to-night, will also excuse such short-comings as the small numbers of our honoured and ancient fraternity may unavoidably occasion. And it is in this hope, as well as in the firm assurance that our ancient Craft will receive from Your Excellency the support and regard which it has ever experienced from your predecessors in Gibraltar, that we have the honour to unite in bidding You Excellency, and those who accompany you, a cordial and fraternal welcome this evening."

His Excellency briefly replied, expressing the pleasure he experienced in accepting the invitation of the lodge, and the gratification which he felt at meeting the ancient Order for the first time since his appointment as Governor. Anticipating a genuinely successful ball, he trusted that this would not be the last time he should meet them, and he sincerely hoped that their enjoyment would be commensurate with their efforts to ensure it.

His Excellency was then conducted to the throne at the upper end of the room and presented to the Right Worshipful District Grand Master, Bro. G. P. Cornwell, after which he took his seat on the throne. The brethren having joined hands and given their chief guests a welcome after the true Masonic fashion, dancing commenced with the Masonic Quadrille and was kept up with unflagging spirit and evident enjoyment till an early hour of the morning, interrupted about midnight by a sumptuous supper, the most conspicuous items of which were two cakes, most tastefully decorated with Masonic signs, from the establishment of Mr. Parody, the Esmeralda, in the Main-street. The elegant appointments of the ball room were supplied by Mr. James Benatar.

The Ball Committee, headed by their indefatigable Secretary, Mr. W. Glassford, worked incessantly for the comfort and enjoyment of their guests, and right well they succeeded—so thoroughly indeed that the Ball given by the Lodge of Friendship will be remembered by all present as one of the greatest successes of its kind.

CONSECRATION OF A NEW LODGE AT WARMINSTER.

The Consecration of the Longleat Lodge, No. 1478, and installation of Lord Henry Thynne, M.P., as first W.M. took place at the Warminster on Friday, the 27th ult., when a large number of Masons from all parts of the provinces of Wilts, Somerset, and Hants were present, as well as many brethren from more distant provinces. Amongst those present were noticed—V.W. the D.P.G.M. Bro. Gabriel Goldney, M.P.; Bro. Major Bousfield, M.P.; Bro. V. Fane Benett Stanford, M.P.; Bro. Terry, W. Secretary of the Masonic Benevolent Institution for aged Masons; Bro. C. W. Wyndham, P.P.J.G.W., Wilts; Bro. R. Bradford, P.G. Treasurer, Wilts; Bro. H. C. Tombs, P.G. Secretary, Wilts; Bro. R. Stokes, P.P.G.S.W., Wilts; Bro. H. Ward, P.P.G.J.W., Wilts; Bro. C. J. Marshall, P.P.G.J.W., Wilts and Somerset; Bro. W. Nott, P.P.G. Reg. Wilts; Bro. S. Gauntlett, P.P.G.S.B.; Bro. General Doherty, P.S.G.D., Wilts; Bro. E. White, P.P.G.W.; Bro. J. S. Turner, P.P.S.D., Somerset; Bro. J. Whatley, P.G.D.C., P.P.G.R., Somerset; Bro. T. E. S. Jelley, P.P.D.C., Wilts, P.P.S.D.G., Somerset; Bro. F. Lord, P.P.G.D., Wilts; Bro. J. L. Stothert, P.P.G.S.W., Somerset; Bro. W. Parham, P.P.G.R., Somerset; Bro. M. Messiter, P.P.G.J.D., Somerset; Bro. John Chandler, P.P.G.S.W., Wilts; Bro. Rev. F. King, Prov. Grand Chaplain. The Lodge was formed at the Town Hall, where it is intended to be regularly held. The V.W. the D.P.G.M., Bro. Gabriel Goldney, M.P., was received by a goodly gathering of Provincial Grand Officers, and, after forming in procession, proceeded to the new lodge room, where the V.W. the D.P.G.M.

opened the lodge in the usual Masonic form. It was hoped and expected that the R.W. the P.G.M., Bro. Lord Methuen, would have been present, but he was compelled to go to London, consequent on the disastrous intelligence received from Ashantee, and the uncertainty as to any ill having befallen his only son, who had gallantly volunteered his services to act under Sir Garnet Wolseley. The ceremony of consecration was then very impressively performed by Bro. Terry, the Worthy Secretary of the Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Masons. The ceremony of installation of Bro. Lord Henry Thynne, M.P., as the First Master of the Lodge, was then performed by the D.P.G.M., assisted by Bro. Terry. The W.M. then invested the following brethren as officers for the ensuing year—Bros. John Toone, S.W.; G. Pike, J.W.; Henry Hardick, Treasurer; G. Bush, Secretary; T. Ponting, S.D.; S. J. Haden, J.D.; S. Cross, I.G.; John Tew, Tyler. Bro. F. King, Prov. Grand Chaplain, performed his part of the ceremony, and Bro. H. Taylor, P.P.G.O., Wilts, presided at the organ, and, aided by the musical brethren, added much to the impressiveness of the services. We have good ground for believing a large number of brethren and gentlemen of rank and position in the county are likely immediately to become members of the lodge, and we doubt not, under the able rule of such a truly Masonic and generous-hearted W.M. as Lord Henry Thynne is known to be, assisted by such active and discreet officers as he has been pleased to appoint, the lodge will speedily rank as one of the first in the province with regard not only to numbers, but especially as to influence and liberality towards the Masonic charities. After the labours of the day the brethren adjourned to the large room of the Town Hall, where a most recherché and substantial banquet had been laid. About 100 brethren sat down to do full justice to the excellent catering of Mrs. Pike, of the Bath Arms, to whom every credit is due for the sumptuous entertainment. The usual Masonic and loyal toasts were given and responded to, and the harmony, under the management of Bro. Taylor, conducted much to the happiness of the brethren. We may add that a collection in aid of the Masonic charities was made during the evening, and realised £10 5s. We are informed that Bro. Major Bousfield, M.P. for Bath, has been pleased to present to the lodge the requisite firing glasses. We will only add, in conclusion, that we wish—as we are sure all our readers will do—"Long life and success to the Longleat Lodge." Bro. Geo. Kenning supplied the furniture.

CONSECRATION OF A NEW LODGE AT CUCKFIELD.

Wednesday, the 11th March, was a red letter day in connection with Freemasonry in the province of Sussex, it being the day set apart for consecrating a new lodge, entitled the Ockenden Lodge, at the Talbot Hotel, Cuckfield. There was a very large gathering of brethren from all parts of Sussex, including the Worshipful D.P.G.M. Bro. Furner (the Right W. Prov. G.M. Bro. Lord Pelham was prevented by ill health from attending), Bros. Tatham, P.G. Treasurer; Dixon, P.G.D. of Ceremonies; Bransley Roberts, Assistant Director of Ceremonies, Turner, Grand Steward; and T. Hughes, P. Grand Tyler. In addition to the above officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge, we observed the following brethren:—Bros. W. W. Burrell, W.M. designate of the new lodge, Major Meek (High Sheriff of Sussex), T. S. Byass, R. Mead, McCorrogher, Chaplain, Sergison, C. R. Burrell, Gallop, E. Bright, G. Ford, Eberall, Stride, Robinson, James Curtis, Devin, Broadbridge, W. R. Wood, P. Nicholson, W. Hudson, P. R. Wilkinson, G. Day, F. Noakes, Molyneux, R. Ellman, W. Reads, E. Lafneat, E. Locoek, C. Vaughan, C. Lloyd, E. Carpenter, George Smith, Walter Smith, H. Davey, Golding, Reed, J. Fabian, V. P. Freeman, W. Kune, J. M. Cunningham, R. G. Clutton, R. Croskey, G. W. Willet, C. E. Saunders, &c.

The W. Prov. D.G.M., Bro. Furner presided at the opening of the lodge, Bro. W. R. Wood, acting as S.W., and Bro. Molyneux as J.W. The varied and interesting ceremony of consecration was performed most ably, and a most eloquent, practical, original and truly Masonic address was delivered by the P.G. Chaplain, the Rev. J. T. McCorrogher. Bro. W. W. Burrell was installed as W.M., and proceeded to instal his officers as under: Bros. Byass, S.W.; Sergison, J.W.; Gallop, Secretary; Meek, S.D.; C. R. Burrell, J.D.; Rev. Mead, Chaplain; and Hughes, O.G.; subsequently Bro. J. H. Scott volunteered his valuable services, and was installed as Immediate Past Master.

The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to a banquet in the adjacent large room, about 70 sitting down to a repast of a most sumptuous character, provided, in a style which did them every credit, by Messrs. Sayers and Marks, of the Western-road, Brighton.

The wines (of which a very liberal supply was placed upon the table, by Bro. W. W. Burrell), were of excellent quality, reflecting credit on the choice of Mr. Dumsday, host of the Talbot, who supplied them.

In the course of the after-dinner proceedings Bro. Furner proposed the health of Bro. W. W. Burrell, the W.M. of the lodge, observing that he never felt greater pleasure than on this occasion in attending the opening of a lodge. He believed the Ockenden Lodge would be found to be a comfort and a blessing to the neighbourhood. It was most gratifying to find Bro. Burrell devoting his energies to its success; than Bro. Burrell, no man was better-known, appreciated and beloved in the County of Sussex, and there could be no doubt of the prosperity of the lodge so long as his spirit pervaded it.

The toast was drunk with Masonic honours, and responded to by Bro. Burrell, where marked that he feared Bro. Furner had sung his praises too highly. He felt, as first Master of the Ockenden Lodge, that he had undertaken a very heavy responsibility, one that he was barely capable of undertaking, still he would do his best, no man could do more. With his Bro. Meek and others he had for long talked over the subject of establishing this lodge, and he had no doubt from the happy auspices under which it had been established it would make a thorough good lodge, a honour to the Province and the country. He thanked the brethren for the honour conferred upon him, and trusted, when they again met in that room, the Ockenden Lodge would be found to have proved an acceptable offering to the Province.

A number of other toasts, appropriate to the Craft and to the occasion, were given before the company separated, highly pleased with a most enjoyable entertainment. Bro. Geo. Kenning supplied the furniture.

CONSECRATION OF A NEW LODGE AT BIRMINGHAM.

On Monday, 9th inst., an interesting event in the annals of local Freemasonry took place at the Masonic Hall, Severn-street, the occasion being the consecration of the Lodge of Israel, 1474, and the installation of the W.M. designate Bro. Michael Davis, P.M. 74. In the unavoidable absence of Bro. Lord Leigh, the ceremony was performed by the V.W. Bro. Colonel Machen, D.P.G.M., who was assisted by nearly the whole of Provincial Grand Lodge. There was also an unusually large attendance of P.M.'s and other brethren eminent in the Craft (every local lodge being well represented), and the room was completely filled. After the consecration by the D.P.G.M., and an oration by Bro. Rev. Dickenson, Bro. Michael Davis was duly installed in the chair of K.S., by Bro. Jno. Pursall, P.M., P.P.G.W., in his usually impressive style. The new W.M. then invested his officers for the ensuing year as follows:—Bro. J. Myers, S.W.; Bro. S. Lyons, J.W.; Bro. E. Marks, S.D.; Bro. M. Silverton, J.W.; Bro. Rev. G. J. Emanuel, B.A., Chaplain; Bro. Philip Win. Newmann, J.G.; Bro. John Davis, Sec.; J. Silverston, Treas.; Bro. J. Brown, D.C.; Bro. Vigers, Org.; and Bros. J. Neilson, A. Jacob, and E. Abraham, Stewards.

The lodge being closed, about 110 brethren sat down to a sumptuous banquet, after which the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and duly received.

The musical part of the ceremonial was under the efficient care of Bro. Stimpson, Past G.O. This lodge, though formed under Jewish auspices, is by no means a sectarian lodge, as in fact it could not be. Several propositions for initiation were made, including the names of non-Jewish candidates.

Multum in Parvo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

I cannot confess at once, that, I do not profess to understand Bro. Paton's last remarkable communication "Anent" Mason's Marks. If Bro. Paton's statement be correct as to the Scottish Mark Ritual, it would to my mind at least only prove this fact, that such a rule belongs to speculative Mark Masonry and not to operative. Both Bro. Hughan and myself were treating on operative Mark Masonry, but could not of course know anything of such a rule, which I believe is utterly unknown to English Mark Masons.

Though Bro. Paton forbids the use of the equilateral triangle, and denies the use of the double triangle, they are most familiar marks to all who have studied a collection of Marks on the actual walls and stones of old buildings.

Indeed Bro. Paton has only to turn to the Collection of Scottish Mark contained in the pages between 424 and 425 of Laurie's History to find how utterly erroneous such a dictum as he quotes is and must be.

Bro. Laurie then gives us later marks from "St. Vinian's Masonic Lodge Book," and from "Journeymen Mason's Lodge Book," which entirely overthrows the "points" of Bro. Paton's argument. If the rule alluded to by Bro. Paton really be the ritual of Scottish Mark Masonry, I fear it only shows, how far that ritual differs from the customs and tokens that happily survive of the old Operative Masons, those too who built Brechin Cathedral and raised Holyrood Chapel.

A MASONIC STUDENT.

MASON'S MARKS.

I do not think it needful to refer to the remarks of Bro. Chalmers I. Paton, made some time since as to Freemasons' marks, but will rest satisfied by noticing his communication in The Freemason of the 7th inst. 1. It has been the custom for years in England for candidates on being "advanced" in lodges under the Grand Lodge of Mark Masters, to select Marks with an even or odd number of points. 2. Such a custom was sanctioned by the members in Grand Mark Lodge assembled, because in accordance with the ancient custom, as confirmed by an examination of the marks still existing on many old buildings. 3. The custom is of course, "sanctioned" by the great number of lodges on the roll of the Mark Grand Lodge, one of the most numerous and influential bodies in this country, apart from "Craft" Masonry. On these grounds, I object to the statements made by Bro. Paton, P.M., and unless to disprove similar statements, it is not my intention to continue the correspondence on the subject, especially as any Masonic student can see for himself, marks on old buildings with even points, and can consult the rolls of members of Mark Lodges, with similar marks. I have advanced over two hundred candidates myself, and each chose marks according to their tastes, and all were accepted in London.

DR. J. COLLIS' BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE,

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered. CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma. CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases—Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague. CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms. CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

Extract from "INDIAN ECONOMIST."

"We direct the attention of medical men to a fact observed some years since by ourselves, and corroborated by our subsequent experience, that Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is in many cases of Low Fever immensely superior to Quinine in curative power. We cannot persuade ourselves that the true value of Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is yet properly appraised in India. . . . It may be given with absolute safety even to a child three days old. Were medical men but to make a fair and exhaustive trial of it we are persuaded that it would work a revolution in the treatment of two-thirds of the diseases to which children are subject. Its curative power is simply amazing."

"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he had received a despatch from her Majesty's Consul at Manilla, to the effect that Cholera had been raging fearfully, and that the ONLY remedy of any service was CHLORODYNE."—See Lancet, Dec. 1. 1864.

From W. VESALIUS PETTIGREW, M.D., Hon. F.R.C.S., England,
Formerly Lecturer on Anatomy and Physiology at St. George's School of Medicine.

"I have no hesitation in stating, after a fair trial of Chlorodyne, that I have never met with any medicine so efficacious as an Anti-Spasmodic and Sedative. I have tried it in Consumption, Asthma, Diarrhœa, and other diseases, and am most perfectly satisfied with the results."

From Dr. THOMAS SANDIFORD, Passage West, Cork.

"I will thank you to send me a further supply of Chlorodyne. It was the most efficacious remedy I ever used, affording relief in violent attacks of Spasms within a minute after being taken. One patient in particular, who has suffered for years with periodical attacks of Spasms of a most painful nature, and unable to obtain relief from other remedies, such as opium, &c., finds nothing so prompt and efficacious as Chlorodyne."

From JNO. E. GOULSTONE, M.D., late Principal Surgeon to the Steamship Great Eastern.

"I can confidently state Chlorodyne is an admirable Sedative and Anti-Spasmodic, having used it in Neuralgia, Hysteria, Asthma, and Consumption, with remarkably favourable results. It relieved a fit of Asthma in four minutes, where the patient had suffered eleven years in a most distressing manner, no previous remedy having had so immediate and beneficial an effect."

From Dr. B. J. BOULTON and Co., Horncastle.

"We have made pretty extensive use of Chlorodyne in our practice lately, and look upon it as an excellent direct Sedative and Ant-Spasmodic. It seems to allay pain and irritation in whatever organ, and from whatever cause. It induces a feeling of comfort and quietude not obtainable by any other remedy, and it seems to possess this great advantage over all other sedatives, that it leaves no unpleasant after effects."

J. C. BAKER, Esq., M.D., Bideford.

"It is, without doubt, the most valuable and certain Anodyne we have."

CAUTION.—BEWARE OF PIRACY AND IMITATIONS.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was undoubtedly the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant, Freeman, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See "Times," 13th July, 1864.

Sold in Bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming Medical Testimony accompanies each Bottle.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR. Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy. SELECT TESTIMONIAL. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease." This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Indigestion, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough. REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

St. George's Lodge (No. 141).—The above lodge held its last meeting for the season on Wednesday, the 18th inst., under the Mastership of Bro. Shalless, at the Trafalgar Hotel, Greenwich, the business of the evening being one initiation, and one passing. Arrangements were also made for a summer festival, to be held at Maidenhead. After the lodge was closed, the brethren adjourned to a well-spread board, ably presided over by the W.M. and Wardens, the usual toasts being proposed, especial attention being paid to that of "The Visitors," of whom a considerable number were present, the Lion and Lamb Lodge 192 being represented by the W.M., and two P.M.'s, Bros. George Abbott, Francis Trott, and George Kenning, some songs and recitations bringing to a close a very enjoyable evening.

St. James's Union Lodge (No. 182).—The last monthly meeting of the above lodge, previous to the summer recess, was held at the Freemasons' Hall, on Tuesday, 11th inst. when a large number of members and visitors assembled. The lodge was opened shortly after 4 o'clock, by Bro. Gallico, W.M., assisted by his officers, all of whom were at their posts punctually. The minutes of the previous meeting having been confirmed, and the lodge opened in the several degrees, Bros. Fletcher, Goff, and Chaney were duly raised to the third degree. The ceremony was performed in a most able and impressive manner by Bro. Gallico. Mr. Symonds was then initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry, which ceremony was also worked in an admirable manner. Before the lodge closed, the W.M. rose and reminded the brethren of the fact that the Boys' Festival would take place on the following evening, and strongly urged those present to support it in as liberal a manner as possible, so that they might have the honour of handing in a list worthy of so large and influential lodge as he had the honour of representing. The lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to a most excellent banquet, which did great credit to Bro. Francatelli (a member of this lodge), on for the quality of its wines and viands, but also for the excellent way in which it was served. After the usual loyal and Masonic toasts had been given, the W.M., in proposing "The health of the Visitors," regretted the unavoidable absence of Bros. Hervey, G.S.; Binckes, I., Secretary to the Boys' School; Kenning, I., etc., yet had the pleasure of welcoming distinguished brethren, who had honoured them by their presence that evening. Bro. Smith, No. 700, returned thanks. Several of the brethren were enabled by their vocal abilities to enhance the pleasures of a most enjoyable evening.

ROMANIAN LODGE (No. 209).—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Adelaide Hotel, Windsor, on the 3rd inst. There was a large attendance of the members. The W.M., Bro. G. W. Dixon, was presided over by the following officers and brethren: Reid, I.P.M.; Bladon, S.W.; J. O.

Carter, J.W.; Pullen, P.M., Treasurer; Strange, P.M., Secretary; Stacey, P.M., Organist; Denne, S.D.; Crowhurst, J.D.; Cauvin, I.G.; Hume, D.C.; Roberts and Schiemann, Stewards; J. Wilson, P.M.; MacIllwham, P.M.; Bryett, Webster, and others. The minutes of the previous lodge having been read and confirmed, the report of a committee appointed at the previous meeting, recommending the removal of the lodge from the above hotel to the Masonic Hall, in St. Alban's-street (the property of the Windsor Castle Lodge), was submitted and adopted. The W.M. then initiated Mr. Thomas Hawker into the light of Freemasonry in a manner worthy of imitation. A P.M.'s jewel was unanimously voted by the brethren to the I.P.M., Bro. Reid. The sum of £5 5s. was ordered to be added to the W.M.'s list, he having announced his intention of acting as Steward at the approaching Festival in aid of the Masonic Institution for Boys. The W.M. proposed, and Bro. Bryett seconded the nomination of Mr. H. Clary as a candidate for initiation. The lodge was then closed, after which the brethren partook of light refreshment.

WHITTINGTON LODGE (No. 862).—The last spring meeting of this lodge took place at Anderton's Hotel, on Monday, the 16th inst., at five o'clock precisely. The business comprised the initiation of Mr. Louis Weber, who was duly balloted for and subsequently introduced to the lodge, the ceremony of E. A. P. being very impressively and accurately performed by Bro. Brett, P.G.P. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, and Bro. E. Southwell, of the Burdett Lodge, No. 1293, was examined, entrusted and re-admitted, upon which he was passed to the degree of a F.C. His proficiency was a matter of great admiration on the part of the brethren assembled. The lodge was then closed down, and the brethren adjourned to a banquet, served in Messrs. Clemow's usual admirable style. Thirty-four brethren of the lodge were present, and the visitors comprised the following brethren—Bros. John Hogg, 150; R. Reiley, 1293; Edward Southwell, 1293; H. J. Dagleith, No. 392, Scottish Constitution; J. Prosser, of Jersey, No. 244; Sir Gilbert E. Campbell, Bart., 1410; M. Hayden, 177; Capt. F. G. Irwin, 1222; and J. Trotman, 834. Several excellent speeches were made in reply to the various toasts, and Bro. Sir Gilbert E. Campbell stated his intention of becoming a joining member. Bro. Little proposed and Bro. Brett seconded, that Bro. Sir Gilbert Campbell be elected a joining member. It was announced by Bro. Wear that the last spring meeting of the Whittington Chapter would take place at Anderton's Hotel, on the fourth Friday in May next. The brethren separated at an early hour after a most enjoyable evening.

BURY ST. EDMUNDS.—Royal St. Edmund's Lodge (No. 1008).—The annual meeting of this lodge and installation of the Worshipful Master for the ensuing year, took place in the lodge room of the Angel Hotel, on Friday, 20th inst. There were between 30 or 40 brethren present, including several visitors from Stowmarket and Sudbury. Lodge having been opened in ancient form, a ballot was taken for a candidate for initiation, which resulted in a unanimous election. The choice of the brethren having on a previous evening fallen on Bro. Capt. and Adjutant C. J. T. Oakes, to fill the Master's chair during the next year, he was duly presented by Bro. J. M. York, I.P.M., and the W.M., Bro. W. E. Bailey, then proceeded with the impressive ceremony of installation. The new W.M., after having been regularly inducted into the chair of K.S., was saluted by the brethren in the several degrees, Bro. W. J. Nunn, Org., presiding at the harmonium. The W.M. then appointed and invested his officers, and the charges were given by the Installing Master. The officers appointed were as follows:—Bros. W. E. Bailey, I.P.M.; J. Hedley Bevan, S.W.; Major Huddleston, P.M.; J.W.; F. Fearnside, S.D.; W. G. Patrick, J.D.; Rev. R. Evans, Chaplain; W. J. Nunn, Organist; W. Armstrong, D.C.; W. H. Lucia, P.M., Secretary; W. Clarke, Steward; H. Miller, I.G. The brethren re-elected Bro. Major Huddleston, P.M., to the office of Treasurer, and Bro. Gooch, Tyler. A candidate having been proposed for election at the next meeting, lodge was closed in peace and harmony. The brethren afterwards sat down to an elegant banquet, prepared in Bro. W. G. Guy's best manner, and under the presidency of the W.M., Captain Oakes, a most pleasant evening was spent. A liberal collection was made for the Masonic charities during the evening.

THE GREAT CITY LODGE (No. 1426).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Saturday, 14th inst., at the Cannon-street Hotel. The lodge was opened at 4 o'clock by the W.M., Bro. James Stevens. Bro. A. Carter was raised to the sublime degree, and Bro. W. Ramm passed in the second degree. The business of the evening was then proceeded with, and after a ballot, Bro. Senior Warden, N.B. Headon was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing year. The result of the ballot was received with applause, and the W.M. took occasion to express his great gratification at having to announce to Brother Headon that he had been elected to fill the chair by the unanimous vote of the lodge. All the brethren knew that Bro. Headon was in fact the prime mover in the formation of the Great City Lodge, and indeed without his help it never would have been formed. He was beset with difficulties at every step, but his efforts had been crowned with success, and now that the lodge was fairly on its feet, the W.M. elect would step into the chair, conscious that he had got the hearty good-will of every brother at his back, and he (Bro. Stevens) felt sure the Great City Lodge might look forward to a successful year under the working of Bro. Headon. Several members tendered their congratulations, and Bro. Headon thanked the brethren for the high compliment they had paid him. He would do his best to maintain, and, if possible, improve, the position of the Great City Lodge, but he could not help feeling somewhat diffident, as he had to follow in the wake of such an able Master as Bro. Stevens. He trusted, however, that the officers would continue to be as attentive to their duties as they had hitherto been, then if they all worked together with a continuance of that harmony which had pervaded their past year's work, the position of the lodge would be something to be proud of. The question of holding the installation on the anniversary of the consecration (2nd May), was then discussed, but as it was found that the bye-laws would have to be altered to enable this to be done, it was ultimately decided that the installation should take place on the second Saturday in October, at the regular monthly meeting. Bro. Colmer then brought up the report of the "Lodge of Instruction" Committee, which, after a few technical amendments, was adopted, and the sanction of the lodge, as required by the rules in the Book of Constitutions, was granted. It was announced that the first meeting would take place at 33, Gutter-lane, Cheapside, on Thursday, March 19, when Bro. Thomas Poore, W.M. 721, would be proposed as Preceptor, and the fifteen sections would be worked by him. The W.M. congratulated the lodge on having been able to obtain the use of a room away from a public-house. He was sure it would follow, as a natural consequence, that the Lodge of Instruction would be well supported. Bro. Preston moved, and Bro. Colmer seconded, the following motion:—"That a Past-Master's jewel, of the value of ten guineas, be presented to Bro. James Stevens, on the completion of his Mastership, and that he be asked to accept an honorary membership in the lodge. Beside the W.M. and S.W., the following brethren were present:—J. H. Townshend, J.W.; the Rev. R. J. Simpson, P.G.C., Chaplain; Moody, Secretary; James Freeman, Treasurer; Seex, S.D.; Stamway, J.D.; Blackie, I.G.; S. Preston, Colmer, Taylor, Boulton, Hooper, Hosker, Browne, Jackson, Partway, Hawer, Roberts, Jenkins, Kibble, Cox, and L. Barker, jun.

INSTRUCTION.

The fifteen sections will be worked in the St. James's Union Lodge of Instruction, Winsley street, Oxford-street, on Monday, the 30th of March, at 7 o'clock, Bro. W. H. Coulton, P.M. 733, in the chair; Bro. J. R. Stacey, P.M. 180, Preceptor.

STONEHOUSE.—Sincerity Lodge (No. 35).—The regular meeting of this lodge of M. M. Masons was held at St. George's Hall, East Stonehouse, on Monday, the 5th inst. The lodge was opened by the W.M., Bro. D. Coates, P.P.M., Supt. of Works, who was supported by Bros. Coffin, P.P.M. J.G.W. Devon; J. E. Curtain, P.M. J.G.W. Devon, S. W.; Monkhouse, as J.W.; the Rev. The Right Worshipful Bro. Colonel Elliot, D.P.G.M.M. Devon, was then received and saluted according to ancient custom. The minutes of the meeting, held in December last, was read and unanimously confirmed. A letter having been read from the only candidate for advancement, expressing his regret at not being able to attend, the W.M. rose to state that it was with feelings of profound sorrow that he had to announce the fact that the present was the last occasion he was likely to preside over the lodge for a considerable period, as he had been ordered to join H.M.S. "Active" for service on the Gold Coast. Bro. Curters, S.W., proposed and Bro. Rae, P.M., seconded, a motion expressive of the regret which they were both sure could not help being felt at the loss, which it was trusted would only be temporary, and paid a high tribute of respect to Bro. Coates for his zeal and assiduity in all Masonic work. The W.M. having responded, a candidate for advancement proposed, and the lodge was closed, and a Lodge of Royal Ark Mariners opened by Bro. the Rev. P. H. Newnham, P.C.R.; T. W. Coplin, J.; and J. E. Curters, S.; and they having duly consecrated the lodge, Bros. Col. Elliott, R. H. Rae, J. S. Bayly, T. Lemon, Monkhouse, Lester, Moon, Coates, and Rogers elevated to the degree of Royal Ark Mariners. Bro. Sir Knight Coffin in returning thanks said that Sir Knight Curteis was mainly instrumental in founding the Conclave, which he trusted, and had every reason to believe, would prosper under his guidance. Sir Knight Curteis having also replied, the Conclave was then closed, letters of regret at non-ability to attend having been read from Sir Knights Irwin, Hughs, and others.

Thereafter five candidates were initiated into the Order, and as the evening was advanced, and a great deal of work on hand, the lodge adjourned to hold an emergency meeting on the following night, when Bro. Cunningham, R.W.M. of 347, conferred the first degree on five candidates, and Bro. Robert Mitchell, P.M. 332, raised seven brethren, six for this lodge, and one for his own. All the ceremonies were well wrought.

GLASGOW.—St. Mark's Lodge (No. 102).—This lodge held its usual meeting on the 9th inst., in their own hall, 213 Buchanan-street, Bro. J. F. Mitchell, R.W.M., in the chair. Bro. B. Herman, S.W.; A. Neville, J.W. There was a large attendance of members, as it was the night appointed for the Provincial Visitation. The Deputation was received with the usual honours. It consisted of the following brethren.—Bros. F. A. Barrow, D.P.G.M.; A. Mc. Taggart, M.A., P.G.S.; J. Walker, P.G.T.; T. Halket, P.G.; J. Balfour, P.G.D. of C.; J. Bain, P.G.B.E.; R. Robb, P.G.M.; J. Gilles, P.G.S.B.; W. Phillips, P.G.I.G.; J. Collison, P.G.D.C. The P.G. Sec. reported that he had examined the books, and found them well kept and perfectly correct. The Acting P.G.M. said it afforded the Provincial Grand Lodge great satisfaction to commence the series of visitations for the year, under such favourable auspices, but the St. Mark's had always maintained a good name in the Province, and he felt sure that under their present Master they would not retrograde, but rather they would continue to carry out all those virtues that constitute good and worthy Masons.

GLASGOW.—St. Andrew's Chapter (No. 69) met on Tuesday, the 10th inst., Comp. T. D. Humphries, Z.; D. Campbell, H.; G. Heron, J. At the request of the Z., Comp. Wheeler, H. 73, conferred the Mark degree on two brethren, and also that of Most Excellent Master. Comp. J. Campbell, Z., of 152, Shettleston, then exalted the same two brethren, G. W. Wheeler acting as First Sojourner.

GLASGOW.—Glasgow Chapter (No. 51) met on Thursday, 19th inst., in St. John's Hall, in consequence of the death of their old and much respected Janitor, James Pollock, who had resided in their own hall. The chair was taken by Comp. J. Miller, Z.; assisted by T. Brownlie, H.; Wm. Bell, J.; James Loutitt, Scribe E.; G. W. Wheeler, acting First S.; H. Hendry, Second S.; C. Gardner, Third S. It having been announced that a deputation from the Provincial Grand Chapter, would visit the chapter on this occasion, they were received in due form. It consisted of Comps. F. A. Barrow, Provincial Grand Superintendent; W. Smith, P.G.H.; A. Mc. Taggart, P.G. Scribe E.; T. Halket, P.G.T.; James Balfour, P.G. First S. G. B. Adams, P.G. Third S.; and G. McDonald; P.G.S.B. The P.G. Superintendent said it gave them great pleasure to commence their visitations for the season with the oldest Chapter, and as they had only just received their books, he hoped to meet them again to inspect them in the meantime. From what he knew of Comp. Miller, in the Craft a zealous worker, he had no doubt that in his new position, as Z. of 50, he would equally distinguish himself. Comp. Miller said, though new to the work, he hoped to be soon able to master it, especially as he had the support of so many kind friends. Five brethren were then introduced and advanced to the degree of Mark Master. The Z. proposed that the thanks of the Chapter be recorded in the minutes to the Principals of the other Chapter, who assisted the work not only on this, but also on other occasions, namely—to J. Duthie, P.Z. 67; G. W. Wheeler, H. 73; T. Halket, Z. 113, and J. O. Park, Z. 122. These Comps. expressed their pleasure in being able to be serviceable to No. 50, or any other Chapter in the Province.

GLASGOW.—St. Rollox Chapter (No. 144) met on the 13th inst. to receive the P.G. Chapter, Comps. Robert Bell, Z.; J. McLeish, H.; J. Duthie, acting J.; J. O. Park, Z. 122, First S.; G. W. Wheeler, H. 73, Second S.; J. Armand, Third S. The deputation consisted of F. A. Barrow, Grand Superintendent; J. Halket, McTaggart, M.A., P.G.S.E.; J. Halket, P.G.T.; J. Balfour, P.G., First S.; and G. B. Adams, P.G. Third S. The P.G.S.E. reported that he had found the books admirably kept, and having had the pleasure of knowing Comp. Bell for nearly fourteen years, he could testify to his good qualities both as a man and a Mason, and he felt sure that as long as he was the head, the chapter would flourish. The Most excellent Z., Comp. R. Bell, then rose and said: Most excellent Grand Superintendent, and excellent Grand Officers, We, the Companions of St. Rollox, No. 144, desire to welcome you with true Masonic greeting; we are proud to see that the infant chapter has been one of the first to engage your attention, we cannot boast like Chapter 50, that you visited last night, of a lengthened existence, we are now some eight months old, but we are not, nor will we be, behind, the oldest chapter in the province, our devotion to you. I believe your personal visitations are indisputably necessary for our Masonic growth. I am certain that Masonry in Glasgow has increased an hundred fold, since the lodges and chapters have been visited periodically. It was the want of proper communication between the root and the branch that has been the bane of the craft in days gone by.

dormant as well as irregular chapters. But happily this state of things is passing away, great improvements have, and are being made by your indefatigable exertions, and on this ground also, we are glad to meet with you at St. Rollox, and to promise you our best support. The want of success in lodges and chapters has not laid so much in themselves as to the want of proper supervision by the governing bodies. It is our wish that you may long be spared to come amongst us, and that you may yet enjoy the fruits of your toils and responsibility. It is gratifying also to see here so many learned, energetic, and disinterested Masons who are so able and so willing to aid both you and us in our noble work, which has for its object the good of all. I have, therefore, much pleasure in welcoming you into our chapter, and handing over to you the emblem of authority to rule this young chapter, 144. The P.G. Superintendent expressed the pleasure he felt at the cordial reception he had now received, but would decline to deprive Comp. Bell of the honour he had so well won, and which he so worthily deserved. When he remembered that it was not nine months since he had attended in that hall to open and consecrate their chapter, he could not refrain from praising, not only their excellent Z., but also the officers and members, on the progress they had made, but he knew they were composed of the right sort of men to succeed. He could not boast, like the G.S.E., of many years acquaintance with Comp. B. Bell, but from what he had seen of him in this and other orders of Masonry, his only regret was that he had not sooner become acquainted with him. It was gratifying to himself and officers, when they visited a chapter, to meet with so hearty a welcome and so cordial an appreciation of the object of their visits, this cheered them in the work, and it was no easy task, for, between lodges and chapters he had ten visitations to make next week. He then went into the reasons why, for some years previous to his recent appointment, the province had been without a Superintendent. The Chapter having been closed, the companions entertained the deputation with a slight collation, when the usual Royal Arch toasts were responded to.

GLASGOW.—The Supreme Chapter General of Knights Templar met at Freemasons' Hall, Edinburgh, on Wednesday, March 11th, the Grand Master, J. W. Melville, Esq., of Benodry, residing. The Grand Registrar Major W. L. Ramsay, read the minutes of the last annual meeting, and also of two council meetings held receive two deputations from the St. Mungo encampment, also an application from the encampment at Muirkirk, asking to be received into the chapter General. He was then instructed to inform them that they could be received on the same terms as those on which the St. Mungo had been received. Favourable reports had been received from the three foreign priorities. The business was the election of the Grand officers for the ensuing year. The Grand Master proposed the re-election of the last year's officers. Sir Kt. Douglas proposed an amended list of officers for the ensuing year. After some discussion the election took place, following is the list of the officers of the chapter General for 1874:—J. Whyte Melville, of Benochy, Grand Master; Viscount Ballan, Seneschall; Earl of Rosslyn, Preceptor; Colonel Kinlock, Constable; Lord C. P. Murray, Admiral; G. H. Harriott, Treasurer and Registrar; Rev. V. G. Gill, M.A., Primate; H. Inglis, of Ayr, Provost; J. Lawrie; Beaucennifer, of Great Standard; H. D. Copland, of the Vexillum Belli; T. H. Douglass, of Bamberlain; Robert Bell, Steward. Sir J. G. Shanks, P.E.C., and P.G.S.B., applied for leave to open an encampment at Enock. Application deferred till he could obtain the requisite number of fraters to properly constitute the same. Frater Bell, E.C., of St. Andrew's, tabled a motion that in future each ward or priority be allowed to send three representatives to the Supreme Chapter General. Shanks supported the motion, as did G. W. Wheeler, who also urged on the part of the General the desirability of their taking care to secure the adhesion not only of the Muirkirk body, but also that of the other nine independent bodies at present existing in Scotland. This being all the business, the Grand Master declared the Chapter-General closed.

CONSECRATION OF A "MELROSE" LODGE AT GREENOCK.

On Thursday, 12th inst., a deputation from Melrose Grand Lodge visited Greenock, and, after an excellent dinner at the Wheatheaf Hotel, with some of the Greenock brethren, proceeded to consecrate the Melrose St. Andrew No. 3. Bros. Robert Renton, M.W.G.M.; Andrew Hart, P.G.M.; Frank Hart, R.W.G.S. Warden; and John Pringle, R.W.G.J. Warden, opened the lodge, in the large room of the hotel, at three o'clock. The M.W.G.M. delivered a very impressive address to the brethren, dwelling particularly on the virtue of "charity in secrecy." Bro. Thomas Stratford (R.W.M. Melrose St. John's No. 1, and member of Mother Melrose No. 6, Maniton, 106, New York, Glasgow 441, &c.), read the charter. Bro. Andrew Hart, P.G.M., delivered the charges, and in a short address gave some excellent advice. Bro. Renton then installed Bro. James Sutherland, R.W.M., and Bro. Stratford installed and invested the other office-bearers. Bro. Donald Henderson, S.W.; Murdock Mathieson, D.M.; John Mackenzie, S.W.; David Stewart, J.W.; Robert Jamieson, Sec.; Alex. Bunting, Treas., &c. Bro. Jamieson presided at the harmonium. The R.W.M. and M.W.G.M. addressed the brethren, and the lodge was then closed. Visiting brethren were present from Lodges No. 6, 1, and 2 (Melrose Constitution), and from Nos. 68, 173, 182, 441, and 443 (Grand Lodge of Scotland). Refreshments were liberally supplied. "The Queen" was given with highest honours. Bro. Sutherland then gave "The Ancient Melrose Lodge," which was replied to by Bro. Andrew Hart, P.G.M., who said that the antiquity of the Melrose Lodge was unquestionable. They had always endeavoured to forward the interests of the Craft; they studied economy and practical charity; they had members in every part of the globe; they had plenty of cash in hand, and had never been in debt. They had always tried to be just and honourable, as they were ancient. They dated from A.D. 1136, and had documents several hundred years old. The Grand Lodge of Scotland had made overtures for them to amalgamate, and they had often discussed the matter themselves, but the terms and conditions were such as could not well be entertained. He thought it was not just for the Grand Lodge of Scotland to tax so heavily the lodges of working men. The Grand Lodge of Scotland charge £10 10s. for a charter, 5s. 6d. each for registering names of intrants, and 5s. for diplomas. But the Melrose charge only £5 for a charter, the deputation each pay their own travelling expenses, and 2s. 6d. pays for both registration of intrants and diploma. And yet they were comparatively rich, whilst the Grand Lodge of Scotland was worse than poor—they were heavily in debt. He had no ill feeling against the Grand Lodge of Scotland or their members, but these were facts which could not be denied. The Melrose Lodge welcomes all good Masons from wheresoever they may come. They had visitors from all parts of the world. Bro. Renton felt great pleasure at all times in promoting the welfare of the Craft. He thanked the St. Andrew's brethren for the hearty welcome they had extended to, and the splendid entertainment they provided for them on the present occasion. He wished them every prosperity. A vote of thanks was given by the lodge to the Melrose brethren, who then left by an early train. The pleasures of the day were continued into the evening, and in reply to "The Melrose Lodges, Nos. 1 and 2," Bro. Stratford said:—"The 'third' time was said to be 'never like the rest.'" He thought the old saying was applicable to the present occasion. A Mason could not properly be called a Mason until he had received the "third" degree; nor could a P.G.L. well be formed without a "third" lodge. The Melrose St. John's, No. 1, was the first important step, the St. Mungo's, No. 2, the second, and the St. Andrew's, No. 3, capped the climax.

With 300 members of No. 1, 71 of No. 2, and 200 of No. 3, he thought a Provincial Grand Lodge quite necessary—more particularly so when the three contemplated new lodges were started in Anderston, the West-end of Glasgow, and Kirkintilloch respectively, which would certainly be done within a month or two. He believed the cases of Nos. 1 and 2, were unparalleled in the annals of Freemasonry. No. 1 had been in existence less than 18 months, and numbered some 300 members, whilst No. 2 had only existed five months, and numbers 71. If they continued to make such gigantic strides, they must soon be heard of and their influence be felt. He was proud of their new ally, (No. 3); hoped they would go on and prosper, that the three lodges may always work up to the strictest Masonic rules and principles, and in unison with each other. He complimented No. 3 on their past achievements, their present flourishing condition, and their brilliant prospects for the future. They would never regret going under the Melrose body. He had himself traced the minutes of the Ancient Melrose Lodge as far back as 1674. There were many documents there of a much earlier date, and he had been told that some would be found as far back as about 1300. If so, Mary's Chapel would be put in the shade. How was it that Scotch Masonic authors so studiously avoid mentioning Melrose. Was it because they are afraid of revealing the truth? Or was it because they are too narrow-minded and prejudiced to do her justice?

"St. Andrew's, No. 3," was then given and in his reply Bro. Sutherland said that the Grand Lodge of Scotland, would not have granted them a charter for less than £10 10s., and 8s., or 10s. per head for their 200 members. He thought the £80 or £100 was quite as well in the St. Andrew's funds. They had received a charter from Melrose for £5, and he was sure Melrose was the best of the two. Bro. Stratford said he had gone over to the Melrose Masons, and espoused their cause, purely as a matter of principle. He found them injured, and cheated out of their rightful position. Although he had suffered much at their hands for the step he had taken, he felt no unfriendliness towards the Brethren under the "Grand Lodge of Scotland." He still had a tender feeling towards them, and was glad to see that body so well represented there to-night. He felt quite sure they were most of them right enough at heart, and that the existing bitterness towards the "Melrose Masons" was more the result of ignorance of the subject than anything else. If they would only enquire into it, and view the matter in the proper light, they would soon gladly extend the right hand of fellowship. Several had already seen their error, and had come over to our ranks. He was sure a better feeling would soon exist between the two conflicting jurisdictions. The present stir must lead to enquiries. Let the case be tried on its merits. The storm would soon pass, and we should be all the better of it. He would always welcome visitors from G. L. of Scotland. If we are to forgive a natural brother "71 times 7" surely we should forgive a Masonic brother 71 times 77. We can do more by a good example than anything. We must judge them charitably. We were none of us perfect. He could forget the treatment he had received at their hands, and look forward to a bright and happy future, when we shall be united, at least in the bonds of "Brotherly love." He had very much pleasure in giving "The Grand Lodge of Scotland," with the highest Masonic honours.

The toast was most warmly responded to, and a visiting brother replied. He said he hoped the day was not far distant when we shall open all our lodges to and welcome each other. He was quite sure if all Masons in Scotland would cultivate and practice what Bro. Stratford had so earnestly advised, and act in a truly Masonic spirit, all discord would soon cease, and the prosperity of the fraternity result therefrom.

Several other toasts were given, and replied to in regular Masonic style, and finally the meeting broke up, after one of the most enjoyable days ever experienced in the "St. Andrew's" No. 3.

[The report of the consecration of another Melrose Lodge in Glasgow will be given in our next.]

SATURDAY, MARCH 28, 1874.

THE INITIATION OF H.R.H. PRINCE ARTHUR.

The entire Craft will rejoice to hear, that, another member of the Royal Family has been admitted a member of our ancient and honourable Fraternity. H.R.H. Prince Arthur was, on Monday initiated by his exalted Bro. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, as Master of the Prince of Wales's Lodge.

As a fact it is most gratifying, and interesting, that the Heir-Apparent to the throne should be included amidst the active and working W.M.'s of our great brotherhood, and above all, that he should preside, and so effectively, on such a very happy occasion!

We congratulate the Prince of Wales's Lodge, not only on its Royal Master, but in having been the happy medium, through which so illustrious a representative of the Royal Family, saw the light of Masonry.

H.R.H. Prince Arthur is, indeed, a new member of whom our Order may be proud, not merely for his high rank and princely name, but for that distinguished position he has himself achieved in the hearts and attachment of all who know him, or have served with him.

The godson of the never-to-be-forgotten Duke of Wellington, he has ever made his motto, in his military career, as he said at Belfast, "duty first and pleasure afterwards," and wherever he has been, or whatever corps he has served in, whether with his regiment or on the staff, he has gained alike the attachment of officers and men, and has endeared himself to all, by his high sense of duty, and his many genial and excellent qualities of mind and heart.

It must have been a moment of great happiness to his Royal Brother the Prince of Wales to have received a relative so near and dear to him into that Brotherhood, to which he has directly shown himself so much attached, and we congratulate the Order once more on this most interesting event, pregnant as we believe it is and will be, of good to the Craft in every way.

OUR CHARITABLE ANNIVERSARIES.

The last anniversary meeting of the Boys' School was a remarkable one for many reasons.

In the first place the announcement of the subscriptions and donations, a little over £7,000, was in itself a gratifying fact to realize, as evidencing the continued zeal and sympathy of our Order, and in the next place, the large and excellent gathering heard from the lips of our distinguished Grand Master some very wise words of warning and of counsel.

For though the efforts of our beneficent brotherhood are very striking, and very creditable in themselves, yet the annual gathering only serves to show to all thoughtful Masons, how very reasonable and how very pertinent are the pointed remarks of our Grand Master. In this present case, the £7,004 or £7,031 are made up in the following way. The Metropolitan lodges and brethren have contributed the large sum of nearly £3,000; the Provincial lodges over £4,000. Of the £4,000, Lincolnshire alone has contributed £1,058, our very worthy Bro. John Sutcliffe, W.M. in that province, but formerly of West Yorkshire, and still we believe among its active Past Grand Officers, having given 250 guineas himself, and collected in his province about £800.

Now this list suggests several considerations, for while we must and ought to give due praise to those who have worked so well for the Boys' School, all Masons, we think, must equally feel how narrow at present is the basis on which our great efforts rest.

Year after year we have noble evidences of the zeal and good-will of our sodality in the best of all causes, but we confess we should like, as the Grand Master suggested, to see the support of charities more generally diffused over our entire Craft.

Some lodges never have subscribed anything, some lodges never do subscribe anything to our charities, and though the zeal of individual brethren, and the amounts voted by individual lodges, do a good deal, yet there is really no limit to what could be done, by a little more combined action and general effort.

We have said before, ourselves, and we agree with Bro. Binckes in his opinion, that, every lodge in the Order should have a life governor's vote at least for all the Charities.

It has been said that the somewhat heavy increase of the lodge qualification, has hindered the lodge support. That we do not believe, as exactly the same state of things existed, even when the qualification was lower and before any question arose of raising it.

But no doubt a good deal may be said "pro and con," the policy of such a material increase in the qualification of lodges.

We believe, however, that the practical solution of the whole question is to be found, in the course pursued by West Yorkshire, which some 12 or 13 years ago formed a Charity Committee composed of members annually elected by each lodge, to attend solely to the important question of the Masonic Charities.

Under its auspices a very large sum, on the whole, together with two perpetual presentations in the Boys' School, has been sent to the Metropolitan Charities, and we feel certain, that if every Province formed its own Charity Committee, a large amount of interest and new support would be elicited for our great Metropolitan Institutions.

One thing is clear, we have to Institutions now in full working order under most efficient management, in themselves a source of pride and gratification to all Freemasons. Let us then seek through their length and breadth of our great brotherhood to obtain for them universal sympathy and support, that so they may be maintained and improved, developed and enlarged as the needs arise, even to become as time moves on, still more worthy of Freemasonry more serviceable philanthropy, and fully equal to the demands and exigencies of the strong, in which our lodges

THE OLD MELROSE LODGE AND THE GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

It is a very wise maxim for all of us, never to meddle with other people's affairs, and some perhaps in Scotland may opine, that we had better "cool our ain porridge."

But as the great institution of "Amicus Curie" still happily exists, we venture to put in an appearance, and make a "deliverance" in that amiable and interesting character to-day.

It seems to be a great pity that some "mezzo termin" of agreement and unity cannot be found or invented between these two antagonistic corporations. The position of the Melrose Lodge, which so far repudiates apparently the authority of the Grand Lodge of Scotland resembles, in some points, the position of our famous Antiquity Lodge, in respect of our English Grand Lodge towards the close of the last century.

But by a little mutual forbearance and allowance on both sides, in those days, conflicting claims were harmonized and opposing jurisdictions were adjusted, and what took place then, may we think, can and should, take place now, without any surrender of principles or privileges, without any lowering of old prestige or long prescription.

The Antiquity Lodge was recognised by the Grand Lodge as having existed from "time immemorial," and became No. 2 permanently on the calendar of the Grand Lodge.

Why should not some similar process take place in Scotland "anent" the Old Melrose Lodge.

Surely that would be a far more Masonic way of settling all outstanding difficulties than unseemly bickerings and un-Masonic personalities? We cannot help thinking that if a delegation from each body could but fraternally meet together, terms agreeable and honourable to both might be speedily settled, and thus an end would come to those untoward and unseemly differences which appear apparently to exist.

We doubt very much, the right Masonically of the Old Melrose Lodge, to affiliate other lodges to itself, now that there is a Grand Lodge for all Scotland, whatever may have been the practice in "auld lang syne."

May our words be well taken by all the dissentants, and may the war-cry of party be speedily changed for the olive branch of Masonic peace and unity.

We are also interested in this question, from an archaeological point of view, as we shall like to know what old documents (if any), the lodge at Melrose possesses, though we have reason to believe, that, our indefatigable Bro. W. J. Hughan already endeavouring to make some researches re, and we shall trust to hear before long a full account of the "diggings."

WEEKLY SUMMARY.

Her Majesty has been in London, but has resided at Windsor Castle.

The Prince and Princess of Wales are at Marlborough House, the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh at Windsor Castle on a visit to the Queen. The Court goes to Osborne next week.

On Tuesday another member of the Royal Household, Prince Arthur, was added to the ranks of the Freemasons, received his initiatory degree at the hands of the Prince of Wales. Shortly after six o'clock the Princes proceeded from Marlborough House to Willis's Rooms, where the ceremony was to be held. They were received by the officers of the Prince of Wales's Lodge, together with the Marquis of Ripon, Grand Master; the Earl of Carnarvon, Deputy Grand Master; John Hervey, Grand Secretary; Bros. Fenn, P.A.D.C.; J. C. Parkinson, Deputy Provincial Grand Master for Middlesex, and several others. The lodge having been opened in due form, Prince Arthur was admitted to the ancient rites of Freemasonry, the Prince of Wales performing the usual ceremony. Bro. Radford was the Tyler of the Lodge, and Bro. Speight, from the Grand Lodge, assisted in the duties. The lodge having been closed, the Prince of Wales, Prince Arthur, the Grand Master, and others, sat down to dinner in the banqueting-room.

H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge, the Field Marshal Commander-in-Chief has reviewed the 23rd Welsh Fusiliers at Shorncliffe, and the 42nd at Portsmouth, and welcomed them back to England, with a few impressive words of approval and admiration.

There has been a great gathering at Chislehurst, to greet the only son of the late Emperor Napoleon III. on his 18th birthday. The young Prince, who has already attained high distinction at Woolwich, seems to have inherited the ability of his father, and the gentleness of his mother. Those who still believe in the Napoleonic star, and there are very many, will rejoice in the speech he made with so much clearness and tact, and will have departed deeply gratified with the high promise of "the Chef de la Famille!"

Parliament has opened, and the labours of the session have begun. So far the only important business transacted, besides the Queen's speech, has been the introduction of a loan of £10,000,000 for India, and several votes of supply. Nothing very interesting will probably occur until after Easter, the Budget being introduced on the 16th April. Mr. Hall, a supporter of the Government, has been returned, by a considerable majority, over his opponent, Mr. Lewis, for the city of Oxford.

Sir Garnet Wolseley, with a large staff, has reached Portsmouth in the Manitoba, and has had an interview with the Secretary of War, and her Majesty the Queen. King Coffee Calcutti's state umbrella is now at Windsor Castle.

The 23rd Fusiliers have been enthusiastically welcomed at Portsmouth, where they have also welcomed the 42nd, and are expecting the Rifle Brigade.

The Vice-Chancellor Malins has dismissed Dr. Hayman's bill of complaint, on demurrer, so that, though admittedly being illused, he appears to have no legal remedy. Probably no case for some time before our law courts, has excited a deeper interest in all classes, as it has an incalculable importance in its bearing on the future management of our great public schools. Dr. Hayman's treatment seems to have been from the very first unparalleled, alike in harshness and unfairness, and nothing can justify the unwholesome interference of the Bishop of Exeter, or the intemperate partizanship of Dr. Bradley. The mutinous proceedings of the under-masters deserve the severest condemnation, and many will regret now, that hasty legislation, which so unwisely interferes with the legitimate authority of the masters of our greatest educational establishments.

The Relief Fund at the Mansion House is now close upon £60,000, though we fear a good deal more will be needed.

Beyond this we have little home news to record, except that Col. Wilson Patten, M.P., has been created Baron Wymareleigh, and Lord Ravensworth Earl Ravensworth, his son the Hon. H. Liddell becoming Lord Eslington.

Abroad the news is very limited. The Emperor of Germany's birthday has been warmly and loyally kept, and the King of Italy has received congratulations on the 25th anniversary of his reign. Prince Bismarck continues suffering from acute neuralgia, and is still unable to transact public business. In Spain Marshal Serrano has done nothing, and General Nouvilas is to be tried by Court-martial. The bombardment of Bilbao continues.

We have to announce the deaths of the Dowager Lady Radnor, of Baroness Brunnow, of the Hon. and Right Rev. Amyand Harris, sometime Bishop of Gibraltar, of Sir Keith Ball, of Mr. Henry Roberts, one of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue, of the Hon. J. P. Mostyn, of Mr. John Williams, M.R.C.S., and of Lieutenant-Colonel George J. Carruthers, K.M., late of H.M.'s 11th Regiment M.N.I., and of George Lewis Coates, Commander R.N.

ITEMS OF LONDON NEWS.

A marriage is arranged to take place between the Hon. Francis Leveson Bertie, second son of the Earl of Abingdon, and Lady Feodora Wellesley, eldest daughter of the Earl and Countess Cowley.

The Duchess-Dowager of Richmond died on the 13th, at her house in Portland-place. Her Grace was the eldest daughter of the first Marquis of Anglesey, by his first wife, Lady Caroline Elizabeth Villiers, third daughter of the fourth Earl of Jersey. She was married to the fifth Duke of Richmond in 1817. She leaves surviving issue the present Duke of Richmond, Lord Henry, Lord Alexander, and Lord George Gordon Lennox; Caroline, Countess of Bessborough; Augusta, Princess Edward of Saxe-Weimar; and Cecilia, wife of Lord Bingham.

Lord Coleridge has consented to preside at the annual dinner of the Literary Fund, on the 6th of May. At the annual meeting on Wednesday, it was announced that a sum of £2,195 had been distributed among fifty-three authors, who were applicants for grants, and that the total amount of grants actually applied by the corporation from its institution in 1790 to the present time was 76,367. Earl Stanhope was re-elected president.

The Marquis of Salisbury, in replying to a deputation from the Manchester Chamber of Commerce on Saturday to urge upon the Government the importance of a certain proportion of the Indian Council being composed of the mercantile element, said he heartily agreed with the principle of the proposal, but there would be some difficulty in carrying it into effect; for a mercantile member of the council must not be connected with the Indian trade. We had to deal with an empire of some 250 millions of people, who were in the habit of looking for indirect motives on the part of their governors, and would be glad if any pretext were given to them for imputing motives of such indirect character to those over them.

The Birmingham Post has information that Sir Robert Peel has been offered by Lord Derby an ambassadorship to one of the great European Powers, and it is said the right hon. baronet has intimated his willingness to accept the offer.

The Queen had fixed Friday, the 27th of March, for a review of the troops who have returned from the Gold Coast, as Her Majesty would have preferred not holding the review during Passion Week; but as the Himalaya, which brings the Rifle Brigade, is not expected to arrive before Thursday, and may be later, the Queen has been obliged to name Monday, the 30th of March, for the review, in the Home Park at Windsor.

A very successful meeting of the Society of Engineers has taken place, under the presidency of T. U. Harrison. Very good speeches were made by H.R.H. Prince Christian, Mr. Huot, Lord Carnarvon, and Lord Granville.

The Times of Friday, March 18th, publishes some pretty Latin lines on the entry of the Duchess of Edinburgh. The Rev. M. G. Watkyns has made a translation:—

"Nympha, nives linquens patrias et inhospita brumæ

Littora, ad Angliacam nympha rogata domum

Cur tibi nos flores ferimus, cur fusa per urbem

Signa, tonat densis cur tuba leta viis?

Vincit adulatrix melior, telluris imago

Nota tuæ, et repetens arva relicta gelu.

Ipse tibi obsequitur sollertior annus, et ipse

Surgit hyperboreus, te veniente, dies."

"Forget thy country's snow-heaped waste and come,

Long-looked for, Princess, seek thine English home!

Why smiles with flags and flowers the crowded street?

Why blares the sounding brass thy steps to greet?

A better courtier waves his magic wand,
Frost changes Britain to thy well-loved land;
With craftier welcome, snows and skies of grey,
The year provides a more than Arctic day."

Reviews.

An Encyclopædia of Masonry and its Kindred Sciences. By Albert Mackey, M.D.
Bro. Mackey's work has at last reached this country, and can be procured at any of the offices of our worthy publisher, Bro. George Kenning.
It does not belie the great fame or high abilities of our excellent American Brother, and it will be welcomed by all Masonic students as the most valuable contribution to Masonic archaeology, history, and science, which has yet appeared either in the United States, or in Great Britain.
It is, we confess, a book of somewhat formidable dimensions, namely 950 pages of large quarto, and it is just possible that its size and its price, 38s., may at first deter some readers.
But those who will but break the ice, and peruse it with the interest of the student and of an archaeologist will find themselves fully rewarded for their expenditure of time and money.
It is sometimes said that the Craft is not a reading body, and this, though true no doubt as a fact, is susceptible of some explanation.
A very large portion of our order are absolutely "bread-winners," engaged in honest industry, and toiling laboriously for the support of their families and themselves. Amid the stern and pressing claims of daily, hourly business, many of them have little time for literature and study, and therefore they are not patrons of Masonic literature, because practically they cannot attend to it. With them, Masonry assumes, to a great extent, the form of the friendly and cheerful social gathering and innocent relaxation, after the labours of the busy day are over.
We think it therefore probable that the number of Masonic students, and even of readers, must always necessarily be a limited one, and this fact accounts for the unprofitable speculations in the supply of Masonic literature, of which this age has witnessed so many.
Still it is our duty to persevere in the dissemination of a sound and useful literature, and we may hope that the number of Masonic readers and students will gradually increase amongst us.
When that "good time" arrives, few will have done more to expedite it, than our able Brother Albert Mackey.
Some of us may be acquainted with his little but excellent "Lexicon of Freemasonry," and others may read the "Monthly Freemason," and all of us who do so, must be well aware, that a one is more competent for so important a work than he is. And therefore his "Magnum Opus" comes to us to day, recommended on every ground to our welcome, and our perusal.
He tells us in his interesting preface, that his materials have been collecting for 10 years, and that the preparation of these many pages has been done by the willing hands of his daughter: he himself suffering from a temporary affection of the sight. And we will simply say to day that the book, at last coming to the world, is due to his careful research.

and his skilful handling. It is a work which ought to be in the library of every lodge, and of every Masonic student, and we sincerely trust that its excellencies may be yet appreciated and its conclusions studied, by an enlarging list of appreciative Masonic readers in this country.

Do not let our brethren imitate the example of too many, who say "we can see the book at Bro.—" or of these energetic and zealous brethren whose support of Masonic literature is evinced by their giving up The Freemason (price 2d.) because they can see it in the Masonic Club, or the lodge reading room.

But rather, we respectfully beg to press upon our readers, to read and study, as we have, Bro. Mackey's work for themselves, a work most creditable to our brother, an honour to America, and destined we believe, to advance the great and happy cause of Masonic literature and of intellectual cultivation in our world-wide organization.

We believe that Bro. Kenning has only a limited number of copies on hand, and we recommend an early application.—W.

LODGE GLASGOW 441, THE MELROSE MASONS, AND J. STRATFORD.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

While, as stated in my former letter, I decline to enter into any controversy with Mr. T. Stratford, in justice to my own character, I cannot submit to aspersion on my truthfulness, and the accompanying letter from the Master and Wardens of Lodge Glasgow, 441, is all the reply that I need give to that gentleman.

Yours fraternally, G. W. WHEELER.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

We, the undersigned officers of the Lodge Glasgow, 441, having read the letter of T. Stratford in your last week's number, in which he says "my so-called trial and expulsion is most unfairly reported in your issue of the 21st inst.," and having also read that report, in justice to Bro. G. W. Wheeler, who wrote it, we declare it to be a truthful report. Bro. Wheeler did not get into the lodge till it was raised to the M.M. degree. The trial, at T. Stratford's request was then commenced de novo, and the report in question is a fair and impartial abstract of the proceedings from that period. T. Stratford certainly did ask for an adjournment, for no one else even mentioned such a thing, neither at any stage of the proceeding did he allude to his being an American-made Mason.*

While we deeply regret what took place at that Mr. T. Stratford calls the dark seance, we declare that G. W. W. was not at it, as he never fit the lodge room from the time he entered it till the lodge was closed, at 11 o'clock.

Witness as to Bro. Wheeler entering and leaving Lodge Glasgow on the night in question.

W. JACKSON, R.W.M.

R. MAIN, S.W.

JOHN MASON, J.W.

JOHN GUTHRIE, O.G.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I have just read in your issue of the 14th inst., Bro. Stratford's account of the meeting held in Lodge Glasgow on the 11th ult., to consider the question of his having joined the St. John No. 1. As to the correctness of said report, I cannot say, not having been present, but one error of a very glaring character strikes me, viz., where Bro. Stratford declares, "I then said they had no jurisdiction in the case, that even if all was proved as charged, American-made Mason, I was affiliated as a 441, as next after my Mother's, and as I had neither violated my American obligation, nor infringed any of her bye-laws, I was perfectly clear, and I defied them to make me guilty." Being a member of 441 at the time of this said affiliation, Bro. Stratford was not a Master Mason, having only received in America the E.A. degree, or perhaps also his F.C. degree, therefore the application he made to 441 was that he should be raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason, under the Constitution of the Grand Lodge of Scotland. Thus having requested himself to be tried on his M.M. degree, he requested to be tried under the constitution, he had not merely affiliated into, but to which he had solemnly become obligated.

I remain, fraternally yours,
HUGH TULLOCH, P.M., 441.

THE SURREY MASONIC HALL.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

Mr. Disraeli tells us that "to understand the tendency of public opinion is the secret of success," and we are emphatically told that the grand city of Solomon finally fell "because she knew not in her day the things that belonged to her place." For Freemasons to know what enlightened public opinion demands for and from them, now that all institutions are on their trial, is therefore surely most important.

Few will deny, in considering the Freemasonry of the present day, that there is one great requirement essential to its continued prosperity, and even for its existence, if it is to fulfil what is expected from it, and that is that those within her bosom should find a social home compatible with its requirements, each in their own locality, for as a former Grand Master remarked "the Mason's Lodge is his Church."

This want is to a certain extent fulfilled in the provinces, but in London, except at its centre, there is no special place available for its social or other gatherings. Its ark, like the ark in the days of Moses, dwells still beneath the curtains, and how shall its sons find rest in those tabernacles of Philistia, which chance provides and which the exigencies of trade or freaks of temper may grant or withhold.

This is not a satisfactory state of things. Far be it from me to speak unkindly of our friends the Licensed Victuallers, to whom we are so much indebted, and in whose ranks we have brethren good and true, but this condition of dependence is not consistent with the dignity of our body, or the position it claims to hold in society.

It should be the aim of each group of lodges to fix upon, as a settled home, a common hall. Each lodge is already by its constitution a corporate body, and might readily clothe itself with the usual adjuncts of such if desired. It might invite legacies and treasure its funds, whilst the sacred cause of charity, too often kept in abeyance by disproportioned outlay could, be elevated to its proper position.

The new programme now put forth by our esteemed Bro. Clark, P.M., P.G. Superintendent of Works, architect of the proposed Surrey Masonic Hall, fully meets the first grand object to be obtained. There the Craft and Ark Mason will equally find a house, and there the brethren of the Christian degrees may shadow forth their adornments.

Masonry may be said at present to be under the fire of persecution; to be a Mason is according to certain sects a crime, and is visited as a sin. It is under such circumstances, if they are duly considered, that true institutions take a deeper hold of men's minds, and rise to higher life, and for my own part I feel and believe that each one in our body, each true mason, is now called upon by his vow of fidelity to co-operate and contribute to this great end.

The design, as furnished by Brother Clark, is classical and artistic, and presents arrangements evidently the result of serious study. Few, indeed, know the thought that has been devoted to this object, for which the late esteemed Bro. Thomas, and others gone before, so cordially longed, but were not permitted to see accomplished.

Brother Clark has nobly done his duty, to him it is evidently a labour of love. Let each brother then, according to his ability, take so many of the £5 shares as his circumstances in life may fairly warrant.

Of each brother, thus bearing a hand in this great, this noble object, it may be truly said, each in his degree "He loveth our nation and hath built us a synagogue,

OUR MASONIC CHARITIES.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

The letters which during the past few weeks have appeared in your columns on this subject will have been noted with interest and attention by those Masons who believe that the great Charities of the Order are not only a distinctive mark of the Craft in the eyes of the world, but a fair test of its vitality, and of the extent to which its genuine principles pervade the breasts of its members. The adoption of Bro. Gottheil's suggestion of a compulsory contribution would destroy the foundation of the Institutions, and place them on the level of the Fund of Benevolence, which however grand its amount, and beneficial its work, cannot exercise the individual charity of each member of the Craft. I take it this is the glory of our three great institutions, and of those smaller and local associations, which are now happily increasing through the country. Bro. Coates has done good service by inviting discussion, and directing attention to some practical method of enlisting the general sympathy of the brethren. The proposal he makes for a Provincial Charity Board appears to me to be rather too elaborate in its plans for general adoption, except in the larger centres of population. In a scattered province, some difficulty would be experienced in the bringing up the members of the Board to a quarterly or half-yearly meeting. Nevertheless, the organisation proposed would probably work well in some districts, and is certainly worth a trial.

Will you allow me, for the information of brethren who desire to further the object of Bro. Coates's letter, to state shortly what we have, during the last three years, been doing in the Province of Staffordshire? In the year 1871, perceiving that the Charitable Associations in London were rendering very considerable assistance to the Institutions, I ventured to suggest to the brethren of my lodge, and subsequently to those of the Province that such an Association, established upon similar principles, but modified to suit local convenience, would materially increase the number of subscribers to the Charities. We accordingly formed an Association, making it permanent in character, and fixing the subscription at a guinea per annum. The working expenses are covered by an entrance fee of 2s. 6d. from each member, which up to the present time has been found amply sufficient. Meetings are held half-yearly in June, in some attractive place in the country, and in the winter in some convenient town. At these meetings a ballot is taken for as many life subscriptions as the funds in hand will allow. The result is that in the three years fifty-six members have been enrolled as life subscribers to the charities, and we have now a subscription list of 141 guineas, steadily increasing at each half-yearly meeting. I do not consider that the Province is by any means thoroughly canvassed at present, indeed the greater number of these members represent six or seven lodges. Recently a local fund (with a separate subscription of half a guinea), has been added to the association for the purpose of aiding by small or temporary grants to orphans, who may need such assistance, and especially those who are waiting for election to the Boys' or Girls' Institutions, but this fund has not yet been sufficiently developed to enable me to give any information respecting it. I believe that few, if any, of the sums subscribed by means of the association would have reached the charities but for this organization; besides this, the voting power of the province is materially and permanently increased. Brethren have met for a common charitable purpose, and cordial intercourse between members of various lodges has been promoted. I do not bring this association under notice as a model, for it is capable of much improvement, and especially of local adaptation, but I believe it possesses the advantage of being easy of adoption and elastic in character, since half a dozen brethren can form a similar one, and a province is not too large for its operations.

*T. Stratford received only the E.A. degree in 1871. He was passed and raised in the Lodge Glasgow, 441.

Apologising for the length of this letter, I remain, sir and brother, your's fraternally,

JOHN BODENHAM,—

P.M. 726, P.G. Treas. Staffordshire.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Now that this matter is fairly started I should like to re-iterate what I so strongly advocated some years ago in the "Masonic Mirror," viz., that the joint Secretaries of our Three Charities should unite and devise a handsome, effective, but inexpensive jewel, at a cost to them of about 30s., and induce all lodges who vote from their funds a sum of money for a jewel for their retiring Master, to let the amount go to the Charity or Charities the brother may select, either as a Life Subscriber or Governor, and let the Secretary or Secretaries record the fact upon the said jewel which they should hand to the lodge for presentation to the recipient.

It must be good business to give 30s. to bring in £5 5s.
