members, and the lodge was closed. The brethren then sat down to an excellent banquet, provided by Messrs. J. and R. Hale, and after the usual loyal and Masonic toasts had been duly honoured, the W.M. proposed "The Health of the Newly Initiated Brethren," who briefly responded. Bro. Bywater in proposing the health of the W.M., congratulated the lodge on having so efficient a head, and spoke in the most eulogistic terms of the deeply impressive manner in which Bro. Grabham had performed the ceremony of initiation. He considered that the lodge had commenced its career most successfully, and predicted continued success and prosperity. The toasts of "The Visitors and Officers" followed, and the brethren separated after spending a most enjoyable evening.

INSTRUCTION.

LANGTHORNE LODGE OF INSTRUCTION (No. 1421).—A numerous gathering of brethren connected with this lodge of instruction took place in the lodge room, at the Swan Hotel, Stratford, E., on Wednesday, the 10th inst., the occasion being the half-yearly working of the Fifteen Sections, in accordance with the byelaws of the lodge, and which had been announced to be worked on this occasion by Bro. George W. Verry, P.M. 554, assisted by several brethren from Yarborough and Doric Lodges. At 6.45 p.m. the lodge was opened by Bro. Verry, Bro. Berry, J.W. 554, acting as S.W., and Bro. G. E. Slee, S.W. 1421, as J.W. The minutes of the preceding meeting having been read and duly confirmed, the lodge was opened in the second and third degrees, and resumed in the first degree. The Fifteen Sections were then worked:—

Verry, and the brethren who had so kindly volunteered their services, and they were also elected honorary members of the lodge. Several other brethren were also enrolled as members. The officers were appointed for the ensuing week, after which the lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren separated in perfect peace and harmony shortly after 10 o'clock, p.m. Amongst the brethren present we noticed the following, viz:—Bro. George W. Verry, P.M. 554, Graves, Hollington, Christian, Berry, Coates, Webb, Wallington, Dix, Wetherell, Crossthwaite, Willis, Smith, Watkinson, Cross, Wood, Lewis, Cull, Martin, Tucker, Bolton, Woolley, Walter, Robbins, Morley, Greenfield, C. CARNARVON.—Segontium Chapter (No. 606).—A convocation of this chapter was held in the Masonic Hall, Carnarvon Castle, on Thursday, the 18th inst., the anniversary of the Battle of Waterloo. Comps. P.Z. Worrall, Grosvenor Chapter, Hathaway, 606, H.; and Poole, 606, J., presided, and Bros. Owen Jones and Rev. J. R. Walters, M.M., were duly exalted, in accordance with ancient custom. Sundry business connected with the chapter was then transacted, and a vote of thanks unanimously passed to Comp. Worrall, for his kindness in coming from Chester to preside at this meeting. The chapter was then closed in due form. The companions then adjourned to the Royal Sportsman Hotel, where an excellent banquet had been provided by Comp. Pugh. About 12 were present, amongst whom was the Janitor, Comp. Michael Dyer, one of the few remaining Waterloo men now alive, who wore his uniform and medals. Comp. Poole, J. (with the permission of the M.E.Z.), proposed "The Health of Comp. Dyer," and slightly altered the words of Henry V., at Agincourt, to suit the occasion: "He that outlived that hour, and came safe home,

Should stand on tiptoe when the day is named;
And rouse him at the name of Waterloo.
He that outlived that day, and saw old age,
Shall yearly on the vigil feast his neighbours;
And say, to-morrow's named from Waterloo."

The veteran companion was in the act of returning thanks when the guns of the Carnarvon Artillery (Volunteers), began firing, carrying him dimly back in memory, as he said, to the thunders at Waterloo. A pleasant evening was spent, and the companions separated early. We may say that a visit to the Masonic Hall, Carnarvon Castle, (by order from any of the companions or brethren of the Segontium Lodge, 606), would be well worth the while of Freemasons travelling in North Wales.

LEICESTER.—Fowke Lodge (No. 19).—The regular meeting of this lodge took place on Thursday, May 28th, at Freemasons' Hall, Leicester, and was attended by the officers of the lodge, and a fair proportion of the members. Bro. A. K. Bairns, 523, and Secretary of the Arkwright Lodge, Matlock, which was consecrated on Wednesday last, was advanced to the degree of Mark Master. The ceremony of advancement was most efficiently performed by the W.M., Bro. J. M. T. Richardson. Sir Knight Quayle gave the oration in a very masterly manner. A resolution to the effect that the times of meeting having been passed, the conclave was closed, and the Knights adjourned to the refectory, where an excellent banquet was served. The customary toasts of loyalty and chivalry were given, and a very enjoyable evening was spent.

MANCHESTER.—County Palatine Conclave (No. 50).—The installation meeting of this Conclave was held on Saturday, May 23rd, and was well attended. The Conclave was opened by the M.P.S., Sir Knight Thomas Hargrave, assisted by Sir Knights Duffield, V.E. Fitzgerald Matier, D.I.G., South Lancashire, T. Entwisle, P.S. No. 42; Capt. The historical oration was pressively given by Sir Knight Entwisle, the theme was then assumed by Sir Knight Hargrave, who proceeded to open a college of Vice-Captain Watson was presented for consecration and regularly installed in the chair of Vice-Captain of sovereigns was then formed by Sir Knight John Duffield, who had been previously elected, was solemnly received and inducted to the chair of the Imperial Founder. The Sir Knights then passed to the banquet, and partook of the grand dinner of the day.

The labours of the evening being ended, the conclave was closed in Imperial form, and the Sir Knights were called to refreshment, after which the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, that of "The Int. Gen., Sir Knight Kelley," being received with the enthusiasm which it merited; and in proposing the toast of "The Past Sovereigns," the M.P.S. passed a high eulogium upon Sir Knight Partridge, P.S., for the able manner in which he had ruled over the conclave during the past year. Eloquent speeches were made by Sir Knights R. J. Bairs, V.E., and Dr. Hunt, Hon. V.E., expressive of their appreciation of their newly received honours. Sir Knight Ward responded in behalf of the newly installed companions, and the Sentinel's toast brought the evening to a close. GLASGOW.—St. Mungo Encampment held their regular monthly meeting on Monday, the 15th, in St. Mark's Hall, Sir Knight Robert Bell, M.N.C., presiding, assisted by Sir Knights G. W. Wheeler, Recorder, Acting Preceptor; McClanachan, C.C.; G. McAlister, S.C.; McKenzie, J.C.; T. Bates, T.; J. McLeish, W.; and S. Scott, M. Applications for admission were read from Comp. Thomas J. Smilie, Chap. 50; J. H. Miller, Chap. 50; Captain T. Ellis, Chap. 69; and T. Blackwood, Chap. 50.

They were then introduced, and duly attended the Knights, and a visitor, Knight George Adams, of the English Constitution, No. 93; Bombay, who expressed himself highly pleased with the working of the institution.

LYDSE LODGE.—An emergency meeting was held at the Hall, 170, Buchanan-street, on Tuesday, June 16, Bro. D. Downie, R.W.M., presiding. Bro. J. McGennis, S.W.; T. Stewart, T. Harper, T.; J. Morton, Sec. There were four candidates for initiation, the R.W.M. admitting them in a very impressive manner. A lodge having been raised, a request was forwarded from the Lodge Union, 332, for a certificate of theirs to be passed along with those of the lodge. This was cheerfully granted, the R.W.M. asking the Depute Master of Union to raise the degree. The lodge was subsequently raised to the sublime degree, and Bro. Downie raised four brothers to the dignity of Master.

MUNGO LODGE (No. 27).—A meeting held in St. Mark's Hall on the 18th, Bro. Ald Butler, R.W.M., in the chair. The evening consisted of a passing, and a raising, at the request of the R.W.M., was admirably performed by Bro. W. B. Pattison, the indefatigable Secretary of the lodge. There was also a variety of formal lodge business transacted, including arrangements for an excursion to the members.

PARTICK.—Lodge St. Mary's (No. 117) held the monthly meeting in their own Hall, on Wednesday, June the 17th. In the absence from town of Bro. A. Wylie, R.W.M., the lodge was opened by Bro. T. Bain, one of the Past Masters, Bros. D. Peacock, S.W.; T. Lennard, acting J.W.; T. Grainger, P.M., acting S.D. There was a good attendance of members, and several visitors, amongst whom we observed Bros. W. Bassett, Curry, Wheeler, from Glasgow, and Provost Caldwell. Bro: Bereland, in a very careful manner, then initiated Messrs. MacGregor and Colquhoun into the Order; Bro. Brunton, I.P.M., then assumed the chair, and some lodge business was transacted, including the ordering of a new silk banner. The lodge was then called to refreshment, and after the usual loyal and Masonic toasts had been heartily responded to, the Master expressed the pleasure they felt at seeing once more their old friend Provost Caldwell, who had been so near death's door since he last was amongst them. His health having been enthusiastically drank, Bro. Caldwell said it gave him great pleasure to be once more amongst them, it was about 50 years since he paid his first visit to Partick St. Mary's, and while he was spared, he hoped still occasionally to have the pleasure of coming amongst them. He then in a manner that many a younger brother might envy, contributed to the harmony of the evening by singing an excellent song. We may here say, that Bro. Bryde on the harmonium also did good service. Bro. T. Bain, P.M., proposed the "Last Laid Stones" which was suitably acknowledged. The R.W.M., in a highly eulogistic speech, gave "The Healths of Bros. Bassett and Wheeler" as the representatives of The Masonic News and Freeman. Both brethren suitably acknowledged the compliment, and Bro. Wheeler proposed "Prosperity to Lodge Partick St. Mary's." Bro. Brunton, I.P.M., thanked the brother for the flattering way in which he had spoken of the working of the lodge, although outside of the great City of Glasgow, they tried to keep up with their brethren, not only in working, but in those virtues of charity and brotherly love that should distinguish all Masons. The final toast was then given, all departing well pleased with the evening's labours.

BRO. WILLIAM PRESTON AND THE "GRAND LODGE OF ALL ENGLAND," HELD AT YORK.

The well known Masonic Historian, Bro. Preston, was a member virtually of the above Grand Lodge, seeing that he accepted office in the "Grand Lodge, south of the Trent" (Lodge of Antiquity and others, at the time of Preston's secession from Grand Lodge with his friends) which was an offspring of the York Masons. Added to which his name occurs in the records as a visitor once, and the main portion in his "Illustrations," which refers to York Masonry, was obtained from the letters sent by the Grand Secretary, (York) to him and others during the secession.

In my "History of Freemasonry at York," (Kingston Masonic Annual), and in "Mackay's National Freemason" Oct. 1872, I have communicated all that has so far been discovered on the subject. Doubtless the investigations of Bro. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, M.A., will still further increase our knowledge, and our able brother has my best wishes that they may so end.

W. J. HUGHAN.

The Lebanon Chapter No. 1326, was consecrated, at the Lion Hotel, Hampton, yesterday, Comp. J. T. Moss, was installed as M.E.Z.; Comp. S. Wickens, H.; and Comp. W. Hammond, J. A report of the proceedings will be given in our next.

Masonic Tidings.

Grand Lodge of Cornwall will be held at the Freemasons' Hall, Bodmin, on Tuesday, July 7, 1874, at ten a.m. At twelve o'clock the brethren will walk in procession to the church, where a sermon is to be preached by the Rev. Alfred H. Ferris, Prov. G. C. After the service the procession will be reformed, and return to the Freemasons' Hall, when the Prov. Grand Officers will be appointed, and the remaining business of the Province concluded.

The Provincial Grand Lodge will be opened punctually at 12.30 by the R.W. Bro. the Right Honble. Lord Waveney, P.G.M., assisted by the W. Bro. the Rev. E. I. Lockwood, M.A., D.P. G.M. The Finance Board will meet at the Masonic Hall, Lowestoft, at 10.30. The brethren will attend divine service in St. Margaret's Church at two o'clock. Banquet at 4.30, at the Public Hall, London Road. The Prov. G.S.W. will move that a committee be appointed by Provincial Grand Lodge to carry out a scheme for the better organization of the Masonic Charities of the Province, with a view of securing unity of action in the election of candidates.

The Provincial Grand Lodge for London and the Metropolitan Counties, of the Royal Order of Scotland, will be held at 33 Golden Square, on the 2nd July, when the Knights Companions of the R.S.Y.C.S. meet in council, and several distinguished brethren will be advanced and promoted. The late Dr. Oliver had a great opinion of this order, which he believed to be of undoubted antiquity. The ceremony is very quaint and interesting, and is supposed to be the original of the ancient investiture of the Order of the Thistle.

The Fifteen Sections will be worked at the Burdett Coutts Lodge of Instruction, held at Approach Tavern, Victoria Park, by Bro. G. W. Verry, P.M. and Preceptor, on Friday, July 3rd, commencing at 7 p.m. punctually.

The Salisbury Lodge of Instruction has adjourned their meetings till the 30th September.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—BAD LEGS.—Any unnatural discharge from the skin is at all times disagreeable, but in hot weather it becomes irritating—sometimes offensive. Bad legs, old wounds, scrofula, and scorbatic eruptions are cooled, soothed, and cured by Holloway's Ointment. It at once arrests all diseases of the surface by purifying and regulating the circulation in their neighbourhood, by giving energy to the nerves of the affected part, and by expelling all poisonous and noxious matters. It ejects the seeds of all virulent eruptions and ulcerations, and thus confers no partial or temporary boon, but a complete and permanent cure. By means of these remedies all sufferers may aim at attaining health, and will invariably succeed.—ADVT.

FOREIGN GRAND LODGES.

In the correspondence of some of our foreign Masonic contemporaries, we read from time to time, of the efforts of some brethren in some countries, not only to bring about a more complete agreement, nationally, of conflicting jurisdictions, but even to set up a sort of cosmopolitan Masonic central authority. We do not at all wonder, that, in Germany, for instance, where the jurisdictions are many, and the local arrangements, in consequence, alike perplexing and unsatisfactory, there should be a desire to promote German Masonic unity, and to have, if it be possible, one Germanic Grand Lodge. And though the difficulties in the way of such an arrangement are probably too great to be overcome, at present, if these efforts for unity are bonâ fide, we may yet hear of two Grand Lodges for Northern and Southern Germany. We cannot see why a Northern Grand Lodge from Berlin should not control all the lodges in Northern Germany, or why a Grand Lodge from Munich or Stuttgart should not rule over all the lodges in South Germany. That would, at any rate, be far preferable to the present state of Masonic jurisdiction in Germany, and to that overlapping, if we may so say, of territorial Masonic Grand Lodges, of which many of the German Freemasons complain. A good deal of the difficulty now existing has arisen from the fact, that a private lodge of Freemasons in times gone by has termed itself a Grand Lodge, and claimed for itself and officers, the title of a Grand Lodge and of Grand Officers. Now according to our English view of the matter, a Grand Lodge is and must be an aggregate of private lodges. No single lodge can constitute itself a Grand Lodge. And whether that Grand Lodge is formed purely by delegation, as with some, or by "virtute officii," as with us, or partly by nomination as with others, it is and becomes "ex necessitate rei," the representative body of the entire Craft, the supreme court of legislation and appeal for all its affiliated members. But it has so happened, as we have said before, that, in many instances abroad, private lodges have given to themselves the name of Grand Lodges, have issued charters and diplomas, though in no sense whatever a representative, or even legislative body, except in respect of their own local bye-laws. The first step in any such movement, that, has to be taken in order to act correctly on Masonic principles, is to reject the claims of all so-called Grand Lodges, which are not strictly representative bodies, and to aggregate assemblies of lawfully made Freemasons. All Grand Lodges ought to be formed on one of the principles we have before laid down, namely, by delegation, office, nomination, or by a combination of two of them, or even of all three. In our humble opinion, on the whole, our English Grand Lodge system is the best, and most practical, in that while it has regard to the principle of lodge selection, it makes, as the supreme assembly of legislation and appeal, alone whom the brethren have already honored with their confidence and approval, those who are amongst the working members of the body, thus combines both the lodge system, and the hierarchical character of English Freemasonry. Unlike most other bodies, our English Grand Lodge seeks always to keep the even balance between the authority of the Grand Master and the rights of the Grand Lodge, and has invariably done so, "de facto" and "de jure" with a determination of decision, and an unimpeachable authority of interpretation of the law, within the limits of well known and admitted conditions of "lex scripta and inscripta" of Freemasonry. Some of the American Grand Lodges are formed purely we believe, on the principle of delegation, which may commend itself to some minds, but we who have progressed so safely and so steadily in England, maintaining alike the liberties of the Order and the prerogatives of the Grand Master, we have every reason to be content with the result, which is, there is little doubt, more mainly owing to the wise constitutions of our Masonic forefathers and the peculiar and admirable composition of our English Grand Lodge. But supposing, that all national Grand Lodges became, as we think, properly, Grand Lodges, our true sense of the word, what chance would there be of any central Masonic authority, either possible, or acceptable, or even workable. As far as we can see to-day there is at present none whatever, nor is there in truth likely to be any. For whatever we may say, we must shut our eyes to the fact that many of the proceedings of foreign Grand Lodges are unbecomingly and unmasonic, from our point of view, and can we, old-fashioned Masons as we are, in this country, find any common basis of unity or action, or even principle with them. Their teaching is not our teaching, their practice is not our practice. To say nothing of the great divergencies of ritual, and the multiplicity of countless grades, they profess opinions on the questions of the day, of social, political, religious even, with which we in England have not, and never will have, the slightest sympathy. And we will not condemn the Church of Rome, and not only so, for its intolerant opposition to, and its able persecution of Freemasonry, but we must confess with pain that some of the published manifestoes of Freemasonry often do little credit either to their authors or their forbearance, their charity, or their wisdom. We in England, on the contrary, keep steady in our path, and our Masonic life and work which have stood the test of time, and which we have not the slightest intention of relaxing or letting go. Though we do not interfere with any religious opinions or controversies, in any shape, and though we carefully eschew all political declarations, yet we openly avow that, as an Order, we are, both in profession and practice, moral and respectable, and that the Law of God, as contained in the Bible, (a book always open in our Lodges), is alike our golden rule of personal duty and active benevolence. This one fact alone would bring us into collision at once with many foreign bodies, which, following in the path of the "Illuminés," would apparently seek to graft by degrees upon the pure and simple teaching of Freemasonry, the dogmas of a sceptical philosophy, and the cold negations of a refined stoicism. So to-day, as we know well the utter hopelessness of all such proposals, from whomsoever they may emanate, we do not in our practical English Freemasonry, give them any heed, content to leave to the future the things of the future, and in the meantime to progress, let us hope, alike, safely and truly in the good old ways of our honest and active English craft. Whatever else may betide, however other Grand Lodges may prosper, or decay, we shall adhere to our ancient landmarks in all of fealty and firmness. We shall march on contentedly under our goodly banner, "a band of brethren," a "phalanx," so to say, of those, who, cemented together in the ever sacred cause of toleration, peacefulness, and brotherly love, are also associated in all of fraternal good-will and sympathy, to aid, support, and relieve those for whom, in our numerous brotherhood to-day, by unavoidable calamity, or helplessness, or decay, our Masonic sympathy is justly claimed, or our kindly assistance is earnestly invoked.

MASONS' MARKS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

I had hoped, that, we had heard the last of this remarkable correspondence, and that your many readers had seen the last of my appearance "in this character." But many are the disappointments of life, and something like our good old friend, the clown, in happy pantomime days of yore, one has to say perforce, "Here we are again." For in the meantime Bro. Paton has re-appeared on the scene, with all the "vis" and length of his last "deliverance," and I openly at once profess my deep admiration for the controversial skill, (the snarling critic might say, perhaps, the cool assurance), with which he makes himself out to be right, and everybody else to be in the wrong, and with which, above all, he puts a good face on his own original blunder, and his own want of forbearance and self-restraint.

No one can regret more than I do, on every round, that, any possible exception could be taken to any words of mine, for any personal remarks especially, as I have always eschewed personalities; but, I have yet to learn that the pages of The Freemason are not open to free discussion, or that any one is to be debarred from expressing an honest opinion, because it runs counter to some claimant of Masonic infallibility. Now I am not a believer in infallibility in general, or in Masonic infallibility in particular, and certain I am, even from the present discussion, that, were I to seek for a "Ductor Dubitantium," in our Masonic controversies to-day, I should not take Bro. Paton for mine. My great offence, no doubt was, that, in our archaeological discussion I ventured, as an old "Masonic Student," to enter a "caveat" for the benefit of my brethren against that baseless pretension to dogmatic authority, anent Masons' Marks, to which Bro. Paton appeared to me, so rashly and so egotistically to lay claim.

"Hinc illæ lachrymæ."

Let us recall to our minds for a little space, and for my justification, how all this controversy arose, and how above all it took a personal turn, so, that, "culpam qui meruit ferat."

Bro. Paton in the plenitude of his archaeological knowledge of Masons' Marks originally boldly stated, that, the double triangle was not a Mason's Mark, because it had even points. All Marks he said must have an odd number of points.

Startling statement to me, and to others, who thought, that, we had studied the subject carefully, and yet had never heard of such a rule, and knew that as regards the Operative Marks, it was simply nonsense.

In his first precise statement, Bro. Paton never limited the discussion to Speculative Marks, whatsoever he may have intended in his own mind. We had only to deal with his bare and remarkable statement.

It was at this time, that, I ventured to modestly intervene, having carefully and specially studied Masons' Marks, now for over a decade of years, with the remark, that I had never heard of such a rule as regards the Operative Marks, and that the evidence of Laurie and D. M. Lyon's valuable works was fatal to Bro. Paton's sweeping assertions.

I also repeated, that, whether Bro. Paton knew it or not, the double triangle was an Operative Mark.

Bro. Buchan also intervened, if I remember, in the discussion almost simultaneously with myself.

Now this was a purely archaeological question and had to be met archaeologically.

How did Bro. Paton reply?

In a most unfriendly, uncourteous, unmasonic letter.

Put paraphrastically it amounts to this, and if any one doubts it, let them peruse the choice production, for "littera scripta manet," in the pages of The Freemason :—

"You neither of you know what you are writing about.

"My remarks apply only to Speculative Marks.

"As for 'Masonic Student,' he has never studied the question, or if he has, his studies have only been utterly profitless to him. For he does not even know the difference between Operative or Speculative Marks, and has evidently never read Laurie, or D. M. Lyon, or Oliver."

Now I say nothing of the gross discourtesy of any brother venturing to make such a reply to Masonic antagonists, and I pass over the personal rudeness of Bro. Paton's answer, ignoring my special reference to Laurie and Lyon, but I do say, that, from Bro. Paton such remarks are simply offensive.

Bro. Buchan replied very quietly that Bro. Paton had nowhere mentioned Speculative Masonry, and my reply was (which is the fact) that Bro. Paton had simply got beyond his depth altogether, and was laying down the law, without any authority whatever, and clearly to my mind, without any original study of the subject. I also recommended him to amend his vocabulary, and to become a little more, a true "magister operis," before he attempted to dogmatize to others, or overbearingly to prevent a fair discussion of the question.

Am I wrong, either in my opinion or my advice?

I think not.

And all that has taken place only confirms my original opinion, how utterly incompetent Bro. Paton is to attempt to set everybody else right on a matter of which he has yet to learn the very first principles.

It may relieve Bro. Paton's mind to know that I am a Mark Mason, and hold my "Mark" from one of the oldest English Mark Lodges. My whole interest in the question is an archæo-logical one, and as regards the evidence of the speculative regulations, it is to me worse than useless.

All I am anxious to impress upon your readers is, that, Bro. Paton is the original offender, and that his great want of true Masonic courtesy was the cause of any remarks I felt it to be my duty to make.

My one aim ever has been the promulgation of Masonic truth and light, but I could not overlook such a retrograde step as Bro. Paton was taking in our Masonic study of our own archæology and history, when he proposed to substitute for what was indisputable by evidence, the assertion of his own unfounded theory of Masonic Marks.

Yours fraternally,

A MASONIC STUDENT.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In looking over the controversy which has taken place upon this subject in The Freemason some may think that as Bro. Paton is dealing with the matter from a Scottish point of view, while "A Masonic Student," Bro. Hughan, &c., are English Masons, that, therefore, it may be possible that both may be right. If that be so, I fear that the idea is wrong, and, looking at the subject from a Scottish point of view myself, having personally received the Mark degree in a Scottish lodge, I feel bound to differ from Bro. Paton in many of his ideas. In the pages of The Freemason this question is not to be dealt with either as a Scottish or an English one, but as a historical subject of general interest, to be handled in a truthful manner, the great object of every worker and writer being not to pander to any mere notion of the time for the sake of the temporary popularity it may bring, but to earnestly strive after the elucidation of the truth. It is in such a frame of mind, therefore, that I again touch the shield of Bro. Paton with my lance, and, although a "Brither Scot.," for the sake of truth, I again challenge him to the combat. I did so before at page 250, April 25th, but he declined the encounter. At page 375, June 20th, he, however, repeats the assertion formerly made by him that the Scottish Mark Ritual "has been in use in Scotland for nearly 200 years." Now, as a Scottish Freemason, I take the liberty to deny that, and give it as my opinion that said statement is most decidedly untruthful, the Scottish mark ritual not being concocted until years after the introduction of our system of Speculative Freemasonry into Scotland by Desaguliers in 1721. If I am wrong let Bro. Paton bring forward substantial evidence to prove it, and I shall then be ready to acknowledge that he was right, and also to apologise for what I have said.

Yours fraternally,

W. P. BUCHAN.

[With this letter, the "Masons' Marks" controversy must close in our columns.—Ed.]

MARK MASONS AND THE ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Thus early I venture to inform the Mark Masons under the English constitution, that on their behalf my services have been accepted by the Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons of England, &c., as Steward at the next Festival in aid of the funds of the Masonic Boys' School. I trust that the support I shall receive from the provincial lodges, private lodges, and individual members will be of such a liberal character as to justify my appeal, and at the same time do credit to the Mark Degree. At the meeting of Grand Lodge, held on the 2nd of June, it was proposed by Bro F. Davison, D.P.G. Mark Master Mason of Middlesex and Surrey, and seconded by Bro. W. E. Gumbleton, P.G. Senior Warden, that the sum of forty-two pounds be placed on my list. The example thus set by the Grand Mark Lodge should, I most fraternally submit, be followed by the Mark Lodges and Mark Masons throughout the country, and the total of my list on the day of the festival, will I hope, amount at the least, to the sum of five hundred guineas. Permit me to suggest that in each lodge some brother should at once set to work, and endeavour to collect something, say the small sum of five guineas and the collection of such a sum is not a difficult task if an appeal is made to every member to give only a few shillings. This sum could be subscribed in the name of some brother and qualify him as a Life Subscriber. For example, twenty-one members at five shillings, or ten members at ten shillings and sixpence each, would accomplish the task, there are other ways to assist the object in view, but I shall not refer to them on this occasion. With your permission, Mr. Editor, (and I make sure of it by anticipation) I propose once in each month to report the progress I am making, and submit the list of subscribers, to the date through the pages of your useful paper. My first report shall be sent in August, by which month I hope to be able to report the foundation of a large and valuable list. Before closing I may be permitted to say that in May, 1873, my list for the Girls' School was £212, and in January 1874, my list for the Benevolent Institution was £213 13s. I feel that these amounts must be largely exceeded. My appeal this time is on behalf of an institution much in need of funds for its daily support, having no invested capital to fall back upon. The generous manner with which Committee of the Institution have increased the number of boys to be maintained cannot but call forth our warmest sympathies, and is deserving of our practical support.

I am, yours fraternally,

THOS. J. SABINE,

P.M. 22, W.M. 75,

Treasurer 168, P.A.G.D. of C.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Why have you not published a list of contributions of the Girls' School Anniversary? It is a subject of much wonder, and more comment.

I am told that yours is "The Masonic Paper," and yet I fail to find just the information that interests provincial Masons. Please Bro. Editor enlighten,

A FRATERNAL BUT COUNTRY BUMPKIN.

[We have, alas, but one answer, "non possumus."

We cannot give the information we do not receive. If any change can be brought about which would cause us to receive such information, none would more gladly receive it, or more speedily publish it than ourselves, for the information of our country cousins.—ED. FREEMASON.]

A CHALLENGE.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

As I think the time has come for us as members of the "Society of Free and Accepted Masons" to prefer facts to fiction, and of late many statements have been promulgated which cannot be proved, or which are unequivocally and demonstratively false, and as our silence as a body may be presumed to favour the acceptance of such declarations and be taken as equivalent to acknowledging their truth, I have jotted down the following which I am ready to prove in three communications in The Freemason, in answer to anyone who can conscientiously provide either, or the whole of the three, provided nothing but facts are to be considered admissible or as final, and that no personalities are introduced into the discussion.

1. (a) Freemasonry before A.D. 1717, was not wholly operative, (b) but partially speculative, (c) and at the "revival" the changes effected did not differ so radically from early Masonry, as to have obliterated the evidences of the operative origin of the premier Grand Lodge.

2. (a) The references to Masonic degrees (as we understand the term now) never occur in the ancient minutes, (b) no rituals of degrees prior to 1720, are in existence. (c) and whatever esoteric customs may have been communicated to Craftsmen, before the last century, they do not appear to have necessitated the temporary absence of either class of members from the lodge.

3. (a) That the three classes of Masons before the "Revival" of 1717 consisted of Apprentices, Fellow Crafts and Master Masons, and of no others. (b) That the members of each class were permitted to have marks, but no peculiar ceremony attending the selection of such is recorded in ancient minutes, (c) and that all so-called Mark Rituals of about 200 years old, in Scotland or elsewhere, are forgeries, or bear a wrong date, or said to be much older than they really are.

W. J. HUGHAN.

PRESENTATION TO W. BRO. W. J. HUGHAN, P.S.G.D. OF ENGLAND.

On Thursday, 18th inst., the brethren of the Druids Lodge of Love and Liberality, 589, Redruth, presented the Worshipful Brother W. J. Hughan, P.M., and P.P.G. Secretary, with a full dress P.S. Grand Deacon's apron and gauntlets, in recognition of the recent honour conferred on him by the Grand Master of England, and of the many eminent services he has rendered to their lodge.

The Worshipful Master, Bro. E. Milford Cock, on rising, said, "Brethren, the reason of our meeting this evening is so well known to you all that I will not detain you with a lengthy explanation, for as you are aware, we are assembled for the very pleasing duty of presenting Bro. W. J. Hughan with a small token, in testimony of the great esteem we entertain for him. Many of you have known Bro. Hughan longer than myself, and are far more competent than I to discharge the duty, which, in my official capacity, I have undertaken. But during the time I have had the pleasure of his acquaintance I have known him sufficiently well to be convinced that he is a Brother Mason in the truest sense of the word, and I feel that to possess his friendship is an honour. It is impossible for me to mention the many great services Bro. Hughan has rendered to Freemasonry in general. I say without fear of contradiction that I believe no Mason in England has done more, and I believe there is no Mason who is more deservedly esteemed. The manly and upright conduct that has ever characterised his course in life has won for him golden opinions, and that fair fame which ever crowns the worker of good deeds. Right glad am I that the Grand Master of England has lately conferred such a deserved honour on so worthy a recipient; in doing so he has conferred an honour on every member in this province, and I am sure you will one and all, heartily join me in congratulating Bro. Hughan on his high appointment. Equally impossible is it for me to enumerate the many past services Bro. Hughan has rendered this Druids Lodge in particular, to acknowledge one of which is our pleasing duty this evening. Bro. Hughan, on behalf of the members of my Lodge, and in their name, I thank you most sincerely for the great kindness you have shown, and the vast amount of trouble you have taken, in securing the election of an old and worthy Past Master of this lodge, as an annuitant of the Aged Freemasons' Institution; we feel that no one but yourself could or would have achieved such a result for us, and we shall ever be deeply indebted to you. This, and not only this, but your many previous disinterested acts of kindness have called forth our warmest admiration and esteem, and I have the very great pleasure of asking you to accept from us this Past Senior Grand Deacon's apron, with gauntlets, as a small memento of our fraternal regard, and, if you will allow me, I will invest you with them. May your useful life be long to look on this, as a feeble token of the high estimation formed of you by so many of your friends in the Druids Lodge, and so often as you wear the apron may you be reminded not only of its being the badge of Freemasonry, but also that by the purity of your life and of your actions it is indeed the bond of a true and lasting friendship. And when it shall please the Grand Geometrician of the Universe to remove you from all earthly honours, may you ascend to be a member of the Grand Lodge above, joining the many worthy brethren who have gone before, and there receive your just reward. May this illustrious memento then descend as an heirloom in your family, and stimulate them in the same strict path of virtue that won for you the praise, the esteem, and I may say the affection, too, of all your brethren."

Bro. Hughan on rising received a perfect ovation, and on the outburst of applause subsiding he observed that were he gifted with the wisdom of Solomon (looking around to the W. Bro. Thomas Solomon, ex-Mayor of Truro), or the eloquence of the W. Master of No. 589, who had just spoken, he might then be able to adequately express his feelings on receiving so handsome a present and so very hearty a reception, but as it was he could not do more than thank them most sincerely for their extraordinary manifestation of appreciation of humble efforts which he was glad to see had resulted so satisfactorily and so advantageously for the members of the province with which he had been connected for about ten years. He had always endeavoured to practically illustrate this important fact that Masonically speaking there was North, East, South or West in the province of Cornwall, so far as the interests of the fraternity were concerned, but that all belonged to one happy, united family, and consequently managing the votes for the "Great Masonic Charities," he had adopted candidates from different parts of the province, as circumstances demanded; one time it was a little boy from Falmouth, another time one from Truro, the another time from Scorrier. This last election he had succeeded in returning the oldest Master as an annuitant in London. A son while since a widow from Bodmin was elected. In October he should have a little girl for a daughter into the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls and in May, 1875, he had promised to support the application of Bro. John Ough, an old Master at Liskeard. The success attained proved what may be done by rendering obedience to the Cornish motto "one and all, unity was indeed strength. With reference to what the W.M. had so kindly said about Bro. Hughan observed that if he had to speak about his own deeds, or the fraternal esteem of them by the Craft, he was at once in a culy, which he certainly did not to the extent experience when having to speak upon a general topic, for then it was only for them to say how long their patience would last, and would endeavour not to exceed the limit when it became his duty to refer to his own motion, the high and important office bestowed upon him by the M.W. the Grand Master's splendid gift of the Lodge of Fortitude, a since (which was but one of several from members), and lastly the handsome present which he had just been invested, he felt incapable of saying anything, so the members would excuse him, and rest assured that long as his life was spared he would continue to value their esteem, and gratefully remember their kindness, and as he now felt that he himself respecting the clothing belonging to Truro, and half to Redruth, he would strive his utmost to prove worthy of their respect and friendship, and he could only say in conclusion as he had often told them before, that what he could be of any service at Redruth, or other part of the province, but more especially at Truro and Redruth, with which he was intimately connected since his residence in the province, it would be his delight to be in command with all the promptness and efficiency he could command.

The meeting was very interesting, and several of the Past Masters of the Province were present, the Fortitude gullow, present.

PRESENTATION TO BRO. W.M. MASEFIELD, D. PROV. G. M. WORCESTERSHIRE.

A lodge of emergency was held at the Dudley Arms Hotel, Dudley, on Tuesday evening, for the purpose of presenting the portrait of the Worshipful Brother William Masefield, P.M. and P.Z. 252 and 398, Past Provincial Senior Grand Treasurer, and now Deputy Provincial Master of Worcestershire. The portrait is painted in oil, in full Masonic costume, by Mr H.T. Munns, the distinguished artist, of Birmingham, and is a most excellent likeness. It is to be hung in the lodge room of the Harmonic Lodge, at the Freemasons' Tavern, Dudley.

Amongst those assembled on the occasion were the R.W. Bro. A. H. Royds, Prov. Grand Master; W. Bros. M. Dennison P.M. 252, P. Prov. S.G.W.; Wm. Bristow jun., P.M. 252, P. Prov. S.G.W. and Prov. G. Sec.; M. H. Jones, P.M. 554, P. Prov. J.G.W.; Samuel Smith, P.M. 262, P. Prov. J.G.W.; B. Brooks, P.M. 564, P. Prov. J.G.W.; E. M. Wormington, P.M., 489, P. Prov. G. Registrar; Geo. Baldwin, P.M. 560, P. Prov. G. Registrar; W. M. Westwood, P.M. 252 and 564, P. Prov. S.G.D.; F. Holcroft, P.M. 252, P. Prov. S.G.D.; and Joseph Stokes, W.M. 252.

The lodge having been opened in due form, the Worshipful Master, Bro. Joseph Stokes, rose, and in a feeling and appropriate speech referred to the invaluable services Brother Masefield had rendered to the Craft for 32 years past, and to the fact of his having been the first Senior Grand Warden of the province, and of his having held the responsible position of Provincial Grand Treasurer for 20 years. He congratulated him on his having at length attained to his present high position of Deputy-Provincial Grand Master, his appointment to which office has given universal satisfaction to the brethren of the province, and he hoped he would live many years to enjoy the honours he had so deservedly obtained. He felt it a high privilege to present to him, in the name of the brethren of the Harmonic Lodge, his portrait, and he hoped he would live many years to look upon it and continue to afford instruction and advice to his brethren, and when he (Brother Masefield) should be called from this sublunary abode, he hoped and prayed that he might ascend to that Grand Lodge above, where the World's Great Architect lived and reigned for evermore.

Brother Bristow, Prov. Grand Secretary, said the sentiment expressed by the W.M. would not only be endorsed by the members of the Harmonic Lodge, but by every brother of the province. He had known Brother Masefield for nearly twenty-four years as a Mason, and his association with him, which began in a Masonic Lodge, had ripened into a personal and dear friendship. He was pleased to witness the presentation that day, and he hoped the time was far distant when Bro. Masefield would be called away from them, but in years to come, when those who come after them looked on that picture and asked who was Brother Masefield, those of them who might be there to answer would be able to say, "He was a man; take him all in all, we shall never look upon his like again."

Bro. A. H. Royds, Prov. G. M. of Worcestershire, expressed his satisfaction at being sent to witness the recognition of Brother Masefield's valuable services. The observations he had heard made convinced him that in appointing Brother Masefield his Deputy Provincial Grand Master, he had put the right man in the place.

Bro. Masefield expressed his sense of the remarks which had fallen from the W.M. and brethren, and of the honour which had been done to him in having his portrait painted. He accepted it as an earnest of their fraternal feelings towards him, and requested that the portrait should be hung in the lodge room, and become the property of the Harmonic Lodge, and he trusted that his best services would be at the disposal of the brethren, as they had been in the past.

At the close of the lodge the brethren adjourned to a banquet, provided by Bro. Cleaves, the host of the hotel. The usual toasts were proposed, and in order to mark more fully that of the Worshipful Deputy Prov. G. Master, the verses at foot, commemorative of the appointment and presentation they had met to celebrate, were sung by the writer at request of the Worshipful Master, and the evening was passed in harmony and brotherly love.

OUR DEPUTY GRAND MASTER.

Let us greet our Deputy Grand Master
With hearts all loyal and true,
And in brotherly accord,
On his gaining his reward,
Rejoice that he now has his due;
For long and fully tried,
As a sure and faithful guide
He's ready to respond to duty's call,
He does the best he can,
As a Mason and true man,
For the weal and for the welfare of us all.

CHORUS.

Then honour'd be our Deputy-Grand Master!
All honour to our Deputy Grand Master!
With brotherly good-will, a bumper let us fill
And drink to our Deputy Grand Master!

Highly skilled in the Science and its teachings,
Our Craft he has loved right well,
And of much good work well done,
And a noble course well run

The annals of our Lodges tell—
Ever hearty, ever kind,
Full of zeal in heart and mind,
To observe our Landmarks and our Laws,
He has many laurels gained,
And has every where maintained

The honour of our great and glorious cause,
CHORUS.—Then honour'd be our Deputy Grand Master, &c.

Of a nature modest and retiring,
He is stout and strong of heart,
A helping hand to lend,
Or a brother to defend,
And to act a generous part;
For prompt by word and deed
To aid in time of need,
He is now, as he was in times of yore,
Found ever in the van
To befriend his fellow-man;
So we honour and we love him more and more.

CHORUS.—Then honour'd be our Deputy Grand Master, &c.

Then be sure this "Portrait of our Masefield,"
Which so like life doth seem,
Will now, and e'er proclaim
Good will, and honour'd name,
As a token of true esteem;
And whenever the Lodge shall meet
This shall move all hearts to greet
This "Toast" with fullest honours due,
And best wishes to extend
To the Master, Brother, Friend,
So much valued, so much loved by "252."

SAML. SMITH,
P. Prov. J. G. Warden.

FUNERAL LODGE.

On Tuesday, 16th inst, the Lodge Canongate and Leith, L. and C., No 5, held a Funeral Lodge in memory of the late Brother James Gordon, Past Senior Warden, in their Hall, Constitution Street. Brother Jupp presided at the organ. There were on the platform the Rev. W. H. Grey, D.D., V.W. Grand Chaplain, Past Masters Mathieson and Green, Deputy Master Hudson, Lieut. Maxwell, &c; and brethren from Lodges Canongate Kilwinning, No 2; Journeymen, No 8; St. David's, No 36; Defensive Band, No. 151; Roman Eagle, No. 160; Trafalgar, No. 223; Portobello, No. 226; Rifle, No. 405; Dunblane, No. 9; Montgomerie Kilwinning, No. 103; Dunearn, Burntisland, No. 140. Brother W. M. Bryce, Tyler of the Grand Lodge, was also present, and marshalled the brethren. The R.W. Master, Bro. J. Laurie, having ascended the throne, and the brethren being in their places, with insignia, jewels, and orders draped with crape, the lodge was duly opened and raised, after which prayer was offered up by the Grand Chaplain, followed by selections on the organ from Mozart's Requiem:—

Most Glorious God, Author of all good, and Giver of all mercy, pour down Thy blessings upon us, and strengthen all our solemn engagements with the ties of fraternal affection. Let this striking instance of mortality remind us of our approaching fate, and so fit and prepare us for that awful period, whenever it may arrive, that after our departure hence, in peace and in Thy favour, we may be received into Thy Everlasting Kingdom.—Amen.

The anthem,
"Holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, Who was, and is, and is to come."

was then sung to a well composed setting of Bro. Jupp's by the choir (Bros. Sey, Davidson, W. D. Johnson, P.M., James Johnson, and Francis Law), which was rendered with much pathos and devotional feeling. The Right Worshipful Master then proceeded with the service, the brethren responding:—

Master: What man is he that liveth and shall not see death? Shall he deliver his soul from the hand of death?

Brethren: Man walketh in a vain shadow, he heapeth up riches, and cannot tell who shall gather them.

Master: When he dieth, he shall carry nothing away, his glory shall not descend after him.

Brethren: Naked we came into the world, and naked we must return. The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away, Blessed be the Name of the Lord.

The tranquil beauty of the anthem which followed was deliciously brought out by the choir, who kept well together, and were remarkably clear and distinct in enunciation:—

Frail man! how like the meteor's blaze,
How evanescent are thy days:
Protracted to its longest date,
How short the time indulged by fate.
No force death's potent arm can brave;
Nor wisdom's self elude the grave;
Where'er our various journeys tend,
To this we soon or late descend;

Service with responses having been chanted;

was gracefully given, the flowing harmony and symmetry of the parts being carefully and touchingly translated.

The R.W. Master then said—We are met this evening, brethren, to perform one of the most solemn services prescribed by the ritual of our Craft—to take, Masonically, a long farewell of a brother who has been summoned suddenly from our midst to appear before the Grand Master Builder above: Death has entered our lodge, and passing by many whose years declared them ripe for eternity, has unexpectedly called away a young brother, whose career appeared only to have begun. But a few evenings past and Bro. James Gordon, in health and strength, sat here in our midst and cheerfully obeyed the stroke of the gavel. This evening the Master has called the lodge together, but the once familiar face appears not—the Craftsman no longer shares our labours—he has laid down the square and compasses on the tracing board for ever, and though young in years, his work is ended, and he has entered into his rest. Bro. James Gordon first saw the "light" of our mystic Craft in the Lodge Kirkliston Maitland, No. 482, in the year 1870, where he was highly esteemed by the brethren as a most promising Member of the Order. On his removal to Leith he became an affiliated member of our lodge, and displayed so much earnestness and enthusiasm in his Masonic duties that he was chosen in 1871 to fill the important office of Senior Warden, which he discharged with great credit to himself and advantage to the lodge down to last December, when his term of office expired. Constant at his post, assiduous in the discharge of his duties and courteous to the brethren, he gained our esteem and affection, and his presence here was ever hailed with pleasure and satisfaction. His decease was very sudden and unexpected—he was present at our monthly meeting in May, but ere the present month's meeting we had stood around his grave—a few short hours between night and morning was all the notice given him of the approach of death. He came into our midst young and fired with enthusiasm, he entered at once with earnestness upon his labours, he gained for himself respect and esteem, not only within our fraternal circle, but also beyond its borders. He was with us but a few short years, and now he has gone to that great eternity that awaits us all, and having laid his mortal remains to rest in the quiet shades of the cemetery, we meet this evening to give expression to our grief for his departure, our fervent hope in his everlasting weal, and to enter upon our records the fact of his decease. Such is a short notice of our friend and brother. There lies his apron, and beside it the broken rod emblematical of his earthly career having ended. We now say to him—Brother, a last, a long farewell—

“Thou art gone to the grave, but we will not deplore thee, Though darkness and shadows encompass the tomb;
For thy Saviour has passed through its portals before thee,
And the lamp of his love was thy light through its gloom.”

Long shall thy labours and worth live green in the memory of thy surviving brethren, and we shall look forward hopefully to the hour when the voice of the Archangel and the trump of God shall summon us all to meet in the Grand Lodge above, where partings are unknown. Let us, brethren, who are left behind, ever remember that the mere lapse of years is not life, but that life should be measured by the achievement of high purpose. On the other hand the mere dissolution of the body is not the end of life, but change or transition—

“There is no death, what seems so is transition. This life of mortal breath is but the suburb of the life Elysian, Whose portals we call death.”

Let us, brethren, so discipline ourselves as good Freemasons, under the divine teachings and guidance of the Great Architect of the Universe, that when this transitory life shall have passed away it shall be found that beneath the rough exterior of our imperfect nature here, our heavenly Father in his infinite mercy will discover the bright polish of a true humanity.

* * * * *

SO MOTE IT BE.

The elocution of the R.W. Master was most impressive, and the brethren were thrilled by the solemnity and feeling with which he delivered the oration and intoned the services.

The following elegy, by Dr. Calcott, was magnificently rendered by the choir, the last four lines being delivered with exquisite taste:—

Forgive, blest shade, the tributary tear
That mourns thy exit from a world like this;
Forgive the wish that would have kept thee here
And stay'd thy progress to the seats of bliss.
No more confin'd to grov'ling scenes of night,
No more a tenant pent in mortal clay,
Now would we rather hail thy glorious light
And trace thy journey to the realms of day.

The whole of the brethren then united in singing a dirge, composed for the occasion by Bro. Peter Gardner, Poet-Laureate of the Lodge—

We mourn a brother passed away,
In mystic rites with solemn strain;
In compass let our grief have sway,
And square and level measure pain.
For he ascends the Lodge on high,
More Light his ransomed spirit knows,
And flights of angels marshalled nigh,
In signs attest what rapture glows.
Then in our tears let joy have part,
Hope brighter show the shining shore,
Christ and the Craft shrined in each heart,
He is not lost but gone before.

Master: May we be true and faithful; and may we live and die in love.

Brethren: So mote it be.

Master: May we always profess what is good, and may we always act agreeably to our profession.

Brethren: So mote it be.

Master: May the Lord bless us and prosper us; and may all our good intentions be crowned with success.

Brethren: So mote it be.

Master: Glory be to God on high; on earth peace and goodwill towards men.

Brethren: So mote it be; now, from henceforth, and for evermore.—Amen.

The Choir then sang “Vital spark of heavenly flame,” with appropriate tenderness of expression, the clearness and flexibility of the voices, and emotional sweetness of tone, leaving a deep impression. The following prayer was then offered up by the Grand Chaplain:—

Almighty Architect of the Universe, unto the grave has been resigned the body of our loving brother, to remain until the day of general resurrection. We earnestly pray Thee at that great and dreadful day, to extend Thy infinite mercy towards all of us, and to crown our felicity with everlasting bliss in Thy heavenly kingdom.—Amen.

The entire proceedings of the evening were carried out with consummate tact and ability, all acknowledging the many superior attainments and qualifications of the Right Worshipful Master. Votes of thanks having been passed to the several brethren who rendered distinguished service on the occasion, the Right Worshipful Master closed the lodge in due form.

CONSECRATION OF THE ARKWRIGHT LODGE, No. 1495, AT MATLOCK-BATH.

On Wednesday, the 3rd inst., this interesting ceremony was performed by the D.P.G.M. of Derbyshire, Bro. H. C. Okeover, J.G.W. Eng., assisted by the officers and a large number of the craft.

The consecration ceremony took place in the lodge-room at Walker's Hotel, the P.P. Grand Chaplain, Bro. A. A. Bagshawe, P.S.G.W., delivering the oration. Subsequently, Bro. A. P. Arkwright, M.P., was installed as first Master of the new lodge, by Bro. C. Parkin, P.M., in a very able manner.

The brethren afterwards sat down to a splendid banquet, under the presidency of Bro. Arkwright, W.M., and a most enjoyable evening was spent. Amongst the brethren present were Bros. Cox, Crossley, Campion, Bobart, P.P.S.G. Wardens; J. Smith, R. Darwin, P.P.J.G. Wardens; Marsden, P.G. Sec; Wright, P.P.S.G.D.; Ward, Watson, Robinson, Hammond, Iliffe, P.P.G.A.D. of C.; Milligan, T. MASONIC PIC-NIC.

By invitation from the Rev. A. A. Bagshawe, I.P.M. of the Phoenix Lodge of St. Ann, Buxton, P.S.G.W., the whole of the brethren, with their Masonic friends, were invited to spend Waterlooday at Wormhill Vicarage. It is needless to add they were entertained in a truly Masonic manner by the host and his amiable lady, who were untiring in their efforts to make each one happy and comfortable.

The brethren, with their friends, left the Midland Station in a large saloon carriage for Miller's Dale. After a pleasant walk to Wormhill, they were regaled with a sumptuous repast. When responding to the toast of his health, the Rev. Brother took advantage of the occasion to say how pleased he was to have the brethren visit him once again, and hoped they would be spared to repeat the visit many times.

After dinner, some amused themselves with croquet and other games, whilst others contented themselves with admiring the beautiful scenery in which the place abounds. After partaking of tea, the brethren took leave of their kind host and hostess, and returned to Buxton, highly pleased and delighted with their outing.

The following visitors and brethren were present: Bros. R. R. Duke, P.M. (1235); Bro. F. Turner, P.M. (1235); Bro. Dr. Cranswick, P.M., &c, P.P.G. Chaplain, East Lancashire; Bro. J. Comyn, P.M., &c. NEW MARK LODGE.—A special meeting of the Bedford Mark Masters' Lodge, convened under dispensation from the Grand Mark Lodge was held at the Masonic Rooms, Severn Street, Birmingham, to open a new lodge, to be called the Athol Mark Master's Lodge, and install officers. Bro. E. Worrall officiated as W.M. and Bro. H. Sanderson as Installing Master. The Warrant of Constitution having been read, the brethren previously advanced under warrant of the “Athol” were duly advanced under the warrant of the Athol M. M. Lodge, and the W. M. Designate having been installed, and the officers invested, the new lodge closed in the usual fraternal spirit.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR
Opium, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked in the treatment of Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true and safe remedy.
SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," has repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend this most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening medicine.
This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and equalizes the constitution. Hence it is used with the most success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, febrile Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. 6d. of respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Cross, Scarborough.
Invaluable should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on the Lungs and Air-Vessels, a copy of which can be had of all Chemists.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

KENDAL.—Union Lodge (No. 129).—The usual monthly meeting of this old lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, on Monday evening, June 25th. The W.M., Bro. Jas. Bintley, was supported by all his officers and a large number of brethren. One gentleman was initiated and two raised. The W.M. invited Bro. D. W. Finney, P.M., to present the working tools in the second degree. The charge in the first degree was most impressively given by the S.W., Bro. John Talbot. After labour the brethren were invited to refreshment, and a most pleasant evening was spent.

ROCHFORD.—Lodge of True Friendship (No. 160).—The installation meeting of this old and flourishing lodge was held on the 24th June, at the Old Ship Inn, Rochford. The W.M., Bro. A. Lucking, P.G.A.D.C., in the chair, assisted by his officers. After the lodge had been opened and the minutes confirmed, the W.M. passed Bro. Thomas A. Boosey, to the second degree. Bro. A. Lucking, then proceeded to instal Bro. J. A. Wardell, S.W., P.M., and Secretary, 100, and P.G.J.D. (who had been unanimously elected at the previous meeting) as the W.M. for the ensuing year, the whole of the ceremony being very ably performed. The W.M. then invested the following as his officers for the ensuing year—Bros. A. Lucking, I.P.M.; J. Reeve, S.W.; H. J. Hatch, J.W. and Chaplain; H. Wood, P.M., P. Prov. G.O., Treas.; G. Burgess, P.M., P. Prov. J.G.D., Secretary; W. Bishop, S.D.; W. Allan, Junior, J.D.; T. Sowen, I.G.; G. Coodman, and G. Josling, stewards; J. Allen, Tyler. It is worthy of note that the Treasurer and Secretary had each served their respective offices nearly 20 years, and they each received the congratulation of the brethren on their re-appointment. The lodge was then closed and the brethren adjourned to a sumptuous repast, provided by Bro. H. D. Brown, of the Old Ship Inn, and presided over by the W.M., Bro. J. A. Wardell. Amongst the members present, besides those already mentioned, were Bros. W. T. Allen, P.M., P. Prov. A.D.C.; F. Wiseman, P.M.; James Wiseman, P.M., P. Prov. G.S.B.; P. Richmond, P.M.; Luker, A. Harrington, J. C. Underwood, Pettitt, W. Fust, H. D. Brown. Visitors, Nos. J. R. Hammond, W.M. 100; Savage, M. 174; A. P. Wilson, 1230; Barratt, 108; Ackborn, 179. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and heartily responded to, some excellent songs were given by Bros. H. Wood, F. Wiseman, Rev. Hatch, and others, and the brethren separated after spending a very agreeable and enjoyable evening.

LIVERPOOL.—Merchants' Lodge (No. 241).—The annual gathering of this, the most influential and distinguished lodge in the province of West Lancashire, which took place on Tuesday, the 2nd ult., was one of the most interesting character, and attended by all the éclat which invariably marks this particular meeting of the "Merchants." Bro. W. M. Chudley was the W.M. elect, and the very numerous as well as most influential assembly of brethren showed how popular was the selection and how famous the lodge, the government of which he was about to assume. The new Masonic Hall, Hope-street, is so nearly completed that it was available both for the interesting ceremony of installation and likewise for the splendid banquet which followed, which was in every respect worthy of the occasion, and the name and fame of the lodge. The hall has been built by Bro. Henshaw, 216, from the designs of Bro. R. Danson, P.M. 1094. We must reserve for a future occasion a detailed description of the building, contenting ourselves at present with the observation that it is in all respects a fitting temple for the Craft, and appears to have very ample, very convenient, and very elegant accommodation for the various lodges and chapters which will be held there. This was certainly the unanimous opinion of the many brethren who assembled there on Tuesday evening, and whose comfort and enjoyment were greatly enhanced by the good accommodation and the general excellence of all the arrangements. The lodge was opened at four o'clock by Bro. J. Halton, W.M., assisted by Bros. Wm. M. Chudley, S.W.; R. Brown, J.W.; S. J. MacGeorge, Treasurer; George Hutchin, Sec.; George Peet, S.D.; B. Ridalgh, J.D.; Thomas Welsh, Organist; James Windsor, I.G.; Peter Ball, Tyler. The minutes of the previous regular meeting (so far as related to the appointment of W. Master and Treasurer), having been unanimously confirmed, Bro. Wm. M. Chudley, the W.M. elect, was presented for installation by Bros. Baker, P.M., and R. Robinson, P.M. After the ancient charges, Bro. J. H. Youngusband, a P.M. of No. 241, ascended the throne, and proceeded with the obligation and installation, the whole ceremony being performed with that impressiveness and completeness for which the celebrant has so long been well known. At the completion of the ceremony, the W.M. appointed the following officers of the lodge for the ensuing year:—Bros. R. Brown, (Vandyke and Brown), S.W.; G. Hutchin, J.W.; Dr. M'George, Treas.; Geo. Broadbridge, P. Prov. G.D.C., D.C.; George Peet, Secretary; James Winsor, S.D.; Capt. T. C. Jones, J.D.; Thomas H. Sheen (Sheen and Broadhurst), I.G.; Peter Ball, was unanimously re-elected and re-invested as Tyler. Shortly after six o'clock, nearly the whole of the brethren present at the installation proceedings sat down to a most sumptuous banquet in the new dining hall, the tables being a perfect model of elegant decoration and refined furnishing. The splendid dinner was served in a style which elicited the highest encomiums from every one who sat down, and reflected the highest credit upon the caterer, Bro. Fisk (Fisk and Fairhurst, Castle-street). The menu carte was specially prepared for the occasion, and was one of the most elegant and appropriate we have seen. It was designed and lithographed by Bro. S. Jacobs (Wilson and Jacobs), South Castle-street, and was really a very artistic production, which all the brethren will greatly treasure, for besides being in itself a very neat memento of the occasion, it was surrounded in the borders with beautifully-executed miniature portraits of all the ten new officers of the lodge, specially taken for the purpose by Bros. Vandyke and Brown. Bro. Chudley, the newly chaired W.M. presided at the banquet, and after he had given the usual loyal and patriotic toasts (pointedly given and heartily responded to), Bro. S. Alpass, P.G. Sec. proposed "The Health of the W.M., Bro. Chudley," saying it afforded him very great pleasure to see that they had that day recognised Bro. Chudley's services by electing him to the high and important office of W.M., of their lodge. He had many pleasant recollections of Lodge 241, always known for its excellent work, and always to be depended on when any real work was to be done. Before sitting down Bro. Alpass took occasion to refer to the West Lancashire Masonic Institution for the Education of Children of deceased and distressed Masons, amongst the most liberal supporters of which had been Lodge 241, both as to officers to do the work and friends to subscribe money. He was pleased to be present that evening at a lodge which had done so much in the cause of Freemasonry, and so much towards the erection of that building. It was the first lodge to hold an installation and to dine in the building, and considering that it was the first gathering of the kind which had been held there, he thought they had every reason to be satisfied. Bro. Chudley responded in appropriate terms, expressing his gratitude for the honour which had been paid him, making an earnest and eloquent appeal on behalf of the West Lancashire Institution, and paying a passing tribute to the memory of Bro. Mott. He concluded by proposing "The Health of Bro. R. Brown, S.W.," the newly-appointed Secretary of the West Lancashire Institution, which was received with the greatest enthusiasm. Bro. Brown appropriately responded, and gave some interesting particulars of the working of the West Lancashire Institution. "The Masonic Hall Committee," "The Worshipful Master," "The Installing Master," "The Visitors," and other toasts followed, a most agreeable evening being spent.

BINGLEY.—Scientific Lodge (No. 439).—On Saturday, the 20th ult., the brethren of this lodge, together with their wives and lady friends, held a grand pic-nic at Goitstock, by the kind permission of William Ferrand, Esq., whose beautiful grounds it is a real treat to visit. The occasion was to celebrate the presentation of a couple of jewels to two indefatigable workers in the cause of Freemasonry. After two hours' enjoyable ramble through these delightful groves, sundry views of the waterfall from various positions, and hearty laughs occasionally at the humorous remarks of Bros. Blakey, and Sewell, the party halted for refreshment, which was ready laid out on elevated ground, some 200 yards below the fall and 30 yards from the road. A more suitable place could not possibly have been selected, here all set to work with a hearty goodwill to enjoy the good things before them, and it is needless to say that like the joyous birds sweetly carolling overhead, each one, individually, was equally in tune, especially in the way of appetite, and no wonder that a young urchin, noticing how busily all were engaged, should remark "my word, look at those folks; they might be eating for a wager!" But notwithstanding this uncourteous salute, the good work went on until every one was satisfied. The W.M. of the lodge, Bro. Robinson, then, after giving the usual preliminary toasts, made the first presentation to P.M.M. John C. Taylor, in a few select and choice words. This consisted of a Past Master's jewel, in 18-carat gold, of most beautiful, yet plain design. Bro. P. M. Pearson Clapham, in seconding the presentation, gave a short outline of Bro. Taylor's connection with the Scientific Lodge; he stated that that worthy and veteran brother had been a member for the long period of nearly forty years, during which time he had been an incessant worker, ever ready to forward, and always taking the deepest interest in, the cause of Freemasonry. Many of the brethren were much indebted to him for the assistance he had rendered them, and the lodge had very often benefited by the advice of his long experience. Bro. Taylor, he continued, likewise takes especial delight in transmitting his own Masonic knowledge to young Masons, and nothing affords him greater pleasure than to help and push them forward; whether met in the street or at home, it is alike to him, none can visit him at the wrong time, his desire and aim being to infuse the true and genuine principles in Freemasonry. Bro. Clapham concluded by saying, that there was no better proof required to show the esteem in which Bro. Taylor was held by the brethren of his lodge, than the tangible way in which it had this day been acknowledged. The second presentation was made by Immediate P.M. Hiram Leach to Bro. P.M. Seth S. Blakey. This also consisted of a Past Master's jewel, the only difference being that this was in connection with the Craft, consequently the 47th proposition took the place of the Keystone; in other respects the jewels were alike and exactly the same pattern. Bro. Leach in presenting the jewel did not expatiate long on the many good qualities of Bro. Blakey, but like Hiram of old, he thoroughly meant what he said, and his remarks were much appreciated. He concluded by acknowledging to Bro. Blakey, his (Bro. Leach's) own gratitude for the kind services which had often been rendered to him during his year of office, and hoped that Bro. Blakey would long live to wear the jewel that day presented to him. Bro. P.M. Sewell seconded this presentation, and remarked that no one had reason to thank and esteem Bro. Blakey more than he (Bro. Sewell) himself, and that it gave him the greatest pleasure to advocate the very high opinion he held of that worthy brother. Bro. P.M. Taylor, was then called upon, and rising, said that he begged to thank the brethren for the handsome jewel, of which he was the recipient, and that whatever he had done in the way of promulgating Masonry and its principles, had been considered and looked upon by him as a thorough duty, therefore he thought he had done nothing more than he ought to have done, and in his humble sphere was still anxious to do all he could. Bro. Taylor continued that he thought Bro. P.M. Seth S. Blakey, was more worthy of a presentation than himself, inasmuch as he had so generously come forward to assist him (Bro. Taylor) at a time when his services were indispensable, Bro. Taylor being then unable, through sickness, to visit the lodge at all. The W.M. then called upon Bro. P.M. Blakey, who in very few words expressed his deep gratitude for the manner in which the brethren had acknowledged his humble services, and said he highly appreciated the handsome gift so generously bestowed, and begged to assure the brethren that it would still be his study to advance the noble sentiments of Freemasonry, and render any assistance in his power to the Scientific Lodge. He was glad to say that it was now in a very promising condition, and in little need of help from him, and he trusted the lodge would continue to prosper. The W.M. afterwards called upon Bros. Webster, Hodgson, Murgatroyd, and Leach, each of whom unanimously expressed the pleasure it gave them to participate in such a delightful fresco gathering. The toast of "The Ladies" was then given by Bro. P.M. Sewell, and heartily received, Bro. Dean responding on their behalf. Bro. P.M. Sewell then proposed a vote of thanks to the W.M., Bro. T. Robinson, and his good lady, for the admirable manner in which they had catered for the party, the viands, &c., being of a choice and sumptuous description. Bro. Atherton, in seconding this proposition, remarked that special thanks were due to Bro. and Mrs. Robinson, for the way in which the arrangements in this important department had been carried out, considering that Saturday was the most inconvenient day in the week for Bro. Robinson to leave his business. Bro. Atherton further added that were another squad of rank and file to have put in an appearance, the commissariat department would have been found equal to the occasion. After a brief reply from Bro. Robinson, acknowledging the vote of thanks, the proceedings of this very interesting party were brought to a close by all expressing a hope that it would not be long before the brethren of the Scientific again assembled at Gostock, a place which had proved itself such a favourite resort. In conclusion, it should be mentioned that the jewels were selected from the extensive and well-assorted stock of Bro. George Kenning.

LEICESTER.—John of Gaunt Lodge (No. 523).—The annual festival of the John of Gaunt Lodge, No. 523, was held at the Freemasons' Hall, Leicester, on Wednesday, June 24th, when there were present the R.W. Bro., the Right Hon. Earl Ferrers, Prov. G.M.; W. Bro. Sir Henry St. John Halford, Bart., Deputy Prov. G.M.; R.W. Bro. Wm. Kelly, P.P.G.M.; Bros. F. J. Baines, P.P.G.P., W.M.; S. S. Partridge, Prov. G. Sec., W.M. elect; G. Toller, Prov. S.G.W., P.M.; A. M. Duff, P.M.; W. B. Smith, P.M.; R. Brewin, P.M.; Reverend J. F. Halford, P.M. 1330; A. Palmer, W.M. 279; W. Weare, P.M. 279; C. Stretton, P.M. 279; J. B. Hall, P.M. 1391; J. Halford, P.M. 1391; G. Clifton, W.M. 1391; R. Waite, P.M. 1330; Reverend W. Langley, P.M. 50; J. M. Moore, P.M. 1085; J. S. Kennedy, P.M. 1031; and a very large number of officers and brethren. After the transaction of the formal business, the W.M. elect, Bro. S. S. Partridge, having given his assent to the ancient charges and regulations, was presented to a Board of Installed Masters, consisting of upwards of twenty, installed in accordance with ancient form, and saluted with the customary honours. The ceremony of installation was performed in a very able manner by the R.W. Prov. G.M., Earl Ferrers; Bro. J. P. Hall, Prov. G.D.C., acting as an efficient Director of Ceremonies. The W.M. then proceeded to invest his officers as follows:—Bros. F. J. Baines, I.P.M.; J. F. Thorp, S.W.; W. T. Rowlett, J.W.; W. B. Smith, P.M., Treasurer; T. A. Wykes, Secretary, A. Ross, S.D.; R. Taylor, J.D.; C. Johnson, P.M., Organist; W. C. Shout, I.G.; A. Sergeant, and J. T. Smith, Stewards; C. Bembridge and T. Dunn, Tylers. A hearty vote of thanks was presented to the R.W. Prov. G.M. for his kindness in visiting on the occasion and performing the duties of Installing Master, to which a suitable response was made. After the lodge was closed the brethren sat down to an excellent banquet, under the presidency of the newly installed W.M., who gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts with great ability and good taste. In replying to the toast of his health, Earl Ferrers expressed the pleasure he felt in being present, and regretted he had been unable to attend the lodges in Leicester as often as he could have wished, but he hoped in future to be a more frequent visitor. Bro. Baines, I.P.M., proposed "The Health of the W.M.," who replied in suitable terms. Other toasts followed, and the enjoyment of the evening was enhanced by the vocal and instrumental performance of the musical brethren. Bro. Charlesworth, with his usual good nature, placed the contents of his conservatories at the disposal of the brethren, and the tables were decorated with a choice collection of flowers and plants. The whole of the proceedings passed off in the most successful manner, and the large attendance on the occasion served to show the great respect and esteem with which Bro. Partridge is regarded by the brethren of the province.

LIVERPOOL.—Downshire Lodge (No. 594).—The brethren attached to this most prosperous lodge were summoned to attend their Masonic duties at the Masonic Temple, Hope-street, at ten o'clock prompt, on the 25th ult., the reason for this early gathering being, that the installation and pic-nic were fixed to take place on the same day. In conformity with the notice on the circular there was a capital muster of the brethren at the hour named, and under the able presidency of Bro. Wm. D. Rowse, W.M., business was quickly set agoing. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, the W.M. as the closing act of his year of office, proceeded to initiate three candidates, Messrs Platt, Barnett, and Thomas, into the mysteries of the Order. Bro. Peter M. Larsen, P.M., then took the chair, and proceeded to instal Bro. Henry Hunt as W.M. of the lodge, the presentation being made by Bro. P.M. Harrer and Bro. P. M. Doyle. The following brethren were subsequently invested as officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. Thos. Dilcock, S.W.; R. F. France, J.W.; R. Ing, P.M., Treasurer; W. E. Cattell, Sec.; Jas. Lecomber, S.D.; J. H. Martin, J.D.; Thos. Boswell, S.S.; John T. Houghton, J.S.; Henry Worthington, I.G.; W. G. Veale, Org.; W. Crawford, Tyler; and F. Sergeant, P.M., D.C. Previous to the lodge being closed, the I.P.M. (Bro. Rowse), presented the W.M. with the lodge jewel left by the late Bro. Hayes, to be worn by the W.M. during his year of office. A beautiful P.M.'s jewel was also presented to Bro. Rowse in recognition of his valuable services to the lodge, and as a mark of the great esteem of the brethren. The ceremony of installation was most admirably performed by Bro. Larsen, P.M., who justly elicited the admiration of all who were present. At the conclusion of the morning's business, the brethren, after joining the ladies, took their way to the river side, and crossed by the steamer to the Royal Rock Hotel, Rock Ferry, for the purpose of pic-nicking. The "out" was one of the most agreeable nature, and as the arrangements were of the most complete and satisfactory kind, there was nothing to detract from the pleasure of the day. During the afternoon a very excellent banquet was served, after which the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given by Bro. Immediate Past Master, Rowse, was greeted with the greatest enthusiasm by all who were present, and was administered to by Bro. Hunt, W.M. Ga dancing, and a variety of other amusements formed the staple of a most enjoyable day's ing in Cheshire.

WORKINGTON.—Sun and Sector Lodge (No. 962).—The brethren of this lodge held festival of St. John the Baptist, on Tuesday the 23rd ult. At four o'clock Bro. Bro. P.P.G.P., the Worshipful Master, opened lodge in form, at the Assembly Room, Portland square. The minutes of the preceding meeting having been read and confirmed, the lodge raised to the third degree, when Bro. Bro. vacated the chair, which was assumed by W. B. Gibson, P.P.G.S.W. and P.G. Sec. Installing Master of the day. Bro. J. J. Be the Worshipful Master elect, was then presented to Bro. Gibson, and was duly installed into chair of K.S., the impressive ceremony being most correctly and efficiently performed by Installing Master. Afterwards the new Worshipful Master was saluted by the brethren the three degrees, and before the lodge closed his officers were appointed and invested as follows:—Bros. J. Price, jun., S.W. Salkeld, J.W.; C. B. Pitblado, Sec.; G. Archibald, Treasurer; Williams, Organist; J. McHarry, D. of C.; N. Topping, S.D.; Thomas, J.D.; G. B. McMullin, I.G. Johnstone, Steward; R. Scott, Tyler. Subsequently the brethren adjourned to the Dragon Hotel, where Bro. R. Barnes and Barnes had provided a sumptuous banquet. Bro. Gibson, the Installing Master, presided, reported by the retiring and new Masters of lodge, and faced by Bro. Price. After the Chairman proposed "The Health of Majesty the Queen." He said, if any soul could lay claim to loyalty it was the brotherhood of Freemasons. The beautiful incidents of a beloved ruler's life, that were continually coming up, demonstrated beyond all doubt, one touch of nature makes all the world kin. The Chairman next proposed the "Princess and Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family," but he remarked he should amend the toast, by including the names of Duke of Edinburgh and Duke of Connaught. The Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught they could speak of as Masons, although their distinguished brother the Duke of Edinburgh had not as yet been initiated into fraternity, he had no doubt that ere long he would become one of the Craft. (Appl.) The Princess of Wales could not be a Mason but she was warm-hearted, and that was one of the attributes of Masonry. The Chairman gave the "Most Worshipful Grand Master of England, the Marquess of Ripon." To the brethren who had read the reports of the proceedings in Grand Lodge, on important occasions when large assemblages of the most distinguished members of the Craft were present they must be satisfied that the Marquess of Ripon is a thorough working Mason. His ship has given every proof of being the man to be at the head of the English Masonic Craft. The toast was drunk with full honours. The Chairman then proposed, "The Worshipful Deputy Grand Master of England, the Earl of Carnarvon, and the rest of the Officers." On a recent occasion he happened to be in London on the business of the School, and quite naturally he went to the Lodge. He there witnessed a noble assemblage of Grand Officers, and he was convinced from the Earl of Carnarvon downwards were a first-rate body of men, who he considered the greatest virtue of the Craft at heart—a charity. The toast was received with full honours. The Chairman then gave the "Earl of Bective, M.P., Provincial Master of Cumberland and Westmorland." Their noble brother had endeared himself to every one under his authority who ever met him, by his courteous manner on occasion of the provincial festivals. His lordship took a warm and very close interest in Masonry, and was always ready to study the interests and time of his brethren. He (the chairman) had therefore every confidence in proposing the health of a nobleman who had so ably acquitted himself during the seven or eight years he had been Grand Master of the Province. The toast was drunk with every Masonic honour. The Vice-Chairman proposed the health of the "Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Colonel Whitwell, M.P., and the rest of the Provincial Grand Officers." The two most worthy and gentlemanly men as Masons he ever met in his life were Bros. Whitwell and W. Romaine Callender. He coupled with the toast the name of their excellent Chairman, the Provincial Grand Secretary. The Chairman, in responding to the toast, said he should take an early opportunity of acquainting Colonel Whitwell with the fact that his health had been drunk with so much cordiality by the Working-ton brethren. With regard to himself, it was difficult to reply to the toast, when he remembered the great talents of his predecessor; but he intended to follow in the footsteps of Bro. Busher, who was a giant in comparison with him, a mere pigmy. He should do his utmost for the province in the office of Grand Secretary. It was a very proud circumstance when recently, he had the opportunity to return above 800 members on the books of the Provincial Grand Lodge, and he had no doubt that before long they would be increased to 1,000. As he before remarked, he had had the pleasure and honour to be present at the last annual festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, as Steward from this province. Some hundreds of Stewards were there like himself, from all parts of England; but it was a proud thing to say that of all that great number only half-a-dozen carried more money for the Girls' School than he did; the Province of Cumberland and Westmorland had always come out strong for their charities, and particularly he complimented West Cumberland. Dr. Dick, Provincial Grand Steward, likewise returned thanks Bro. Brooker proposed the "Newly Installed Master, Bro. Beattie." It was a pleasurable duty to him on two accounts—one was that he was relieved from very arduous duties, and the second was that it was an extreme pleasure to him to have to propose the health of their newly elected Master. He could say without fear of contradiction that Bro. Beattie was one of the hardest workers in the lodge. He had never missed a meeting to his knowledge, and the selection made by the brethren of this lodge, last month, could not have fallen into better hands. Bro. Beattie, in response, remembered being present at a social gathering some seven or eight years since, when the Chairman told the company to prepare for an elegant speech, but they must not expect an elegant speech from him to night. He thought Bro. Brooker had spoken more of him than he deserved, but it was his full intention to strive to do his duty as Master of the lodge. The Vice-Chairman proposed "the Health of the Retiring Master, Bro. Brooker," who, he said, had scarcely been anything but Master of Sun and Sector Lodge for the last three years. Last year he was Master, the year before he did duty for their departed Bro. Brown in his last illness, and the year before that also he was Master. Bro. Brooker replied in suitable terms. The remaining toasts were "The Visiting Brethren," "The Masonic Charities," and the Tyler's toast. The company broke up about eight o'clock.

LIVERPOOL.—Stanley Lodge, (No. 1325).—The annual meeting of the brethren connected with this lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Kirkdale, Liverpool, on the 24th ultimo, the principal business being the installation of Bro. Crosby Leighton, the W.M. elect, and the investiture of officers. The "Stanley's" existence has been somewhat chequered, but under the far-seeing and discreet guidance of Bro. Crosby Leighton, who has acted in a self-sacrificing manner towards its interest, there seems now to be a strong possibility that it will battle bravely, and quickly assume the position to which it is entitled. There was a very large gathering of the brethren on this special occasion. Shortly after three o'clock, Bro. Thomas Leighton, P.M. (in the absence of Bro. J. M. Eccles, W.M.) opened the lodge according to ancient form, assisted by the following officers of the lodge:—Bros. Crosby Leighton, S.W.; Henry Ashmore, J.W.; H. A. Bell, S.D.; D. R. Davies, J.D.; F. Knight, I.G.; John Horbury, P.M., Treas.; J. W. Burgess, S.S.; and Geo. W. Chirnside, S. There was a full attendance of the members of the lodge. The minutes were read and confirmed, after which the chair was taken by Bro. Dr. J. K. Smith, P.M. 249, who proceeded to instal Bro. Crosby Leighton, as W.M., in an exceedingly able and impressive manner, the presentation being made by Bro. P.M. Radcliffe, and Bro. P.M. Thomas Leighton, H. A. Bell, Sec. At the close of the ceremony the following officers were appointed and invested for the ensuing year:—Bros. H. Ashmore, S.W.; F. Knight, J.W.; J. W. Burgess, S.D.; G. Smith, J.D.; and G. W. Chirnside, I.G. Later in the evening the brethren dined together at Milbourn's-rooms, St. Anne-street, where Mr. Milbourn provided a very fair dinner, though the manner in which it was served did not elicit much praise. Bro. Crosby Leighton, W.M., presided, and he was supported by nearly all the brethren who had witnessed his installation. The usual loyal and patriotic toasts were duly honoured, including "The Health of Bro. Albert Edward, P.G.M., Prince of Wales, the Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family," after which the W.M. proposed "The Health of the Right Hon. Lord Skelmersdale, R.W. Prov. G.M. West Lancashire, and the Hon. Frederick Stanley, W.D. Prov. G.M. which was duly honoured. Bro. J. Kellett Smith, P.M. 246 and 1094, then proposed "The Health of the Worshipful Master of Stanley Lodge, Bro. Crosby Leighton." He thought they would all agree that so far the career of the lodge had not been very brilliant, but he hoped and trusted it had now taken a favourable turn, and would ere long attain an important position in the province of West Lancashire. At all events, if anyone would be able to bring the Stanley Lodge to the fore, it was the Worshipful Master, whom he had had the pleasure of installing that day. The toast was very cordially received, and Bro. Leighton, in responding, expressed a hope that whatever had been the past of the lodge it still had a bright future before it. "The Health of the Installing Master," "The P.M.'s of Lodge 1325," "The Officers of the Lodge," "The West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution," "The Visiting Brethren," and "Poor and Distressed Brethren," were amongst the other toasts which followed, a most agreeable evening being spent.

Letters of apology were read from Bro. the Rev. H. Carpenter, Henry Nelson, P.M. 673, and others, expressing their regret at not being able to be present, and conveying cordial good wishes for the continued success of the lodge. The chair was taken by Bro. Jas. Hamer, P.P.G. Treasurer, who proceeded to instal the W.M. elect, Bro. R. W. Evans, into the chair of K.S. The manner in which this beautiful ceremony was performed excited the profoundest admiration, and fully justified the cordial vote to the veteran Installing Master. The newly chaired W.M. then invested his officers for the ensuing year as follows:—Bros. Henry Jackson, S.W.; John McCarthy, J.W.; Charles Tzyer, Treasurer; Edward Wilson, Secretary; Charles Dutch, S.D. (by proxy); Thomas Large, J.D. (by proxy); Robert Price, I.G.; Thomas Sammons, M.C.; Robert Leason, S.S.; E. B. Ingham, J.S.; Alfred Brooke, Assistant S.; W. G. Veale, Organist; and Michael Williamson, Tyler. The W.M. then proceeded to initiate Messrs. Lingham and Richardson into the mysteries and privileges of the Order, which he did in a manner that proved him to be possessed of Masonic ability of the highest order, and the lodge is to be congratulated on having elected a W.M. who can perform the duties in such a splendid style. The brethren were then called from labour to refreshment, and subsequently sat down to an excellent banquet, presided over by the newly installed W.M., who gave still further proof of his fitness for the position by the elegant and masterly manner in which he gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts. The "Health of the W.M." was proposed by Bro. John Jones, I.P.M., in well chosen terms, and was received with the greatest enthusiasm. The W.M., in responding, promised the brethren, that during his year of office, it would be his aim to promote the prosperity of the lodge and the happiness of its members, to the utmost of his power, and that he would consider no self-sacrifice too great to bring about those results. The W.M. then proposed the "Health of the Past and Installing Masters," which was responded to by Bro. Jones, I.P.M., and W. T. May, P.M. The W.M. next gave the "Healts of the Newly-Initiated," which was responded to in a most admirable manner by Bro. Lingham. The W.M. next proposed "The Officers of the Hamer Lodge, No. 1393." Bro. Jackson, S.W., in responding, expressed a hope that the W.M. would have no occasion to regret the selection that he had made, and Bro. McCarthy, J.W., said that he would endeavour to perform his duties to the satisfaction of the W.M. and the brethren. The remainder of the officers responded in similar terms. The W.M., in proposing the "West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution," paid a tribute of respect to the memory of the late Bro. Mott, and expressed his opinion that the present Secretary, Bro. Richard Brown, would be found a worthy successor to that much lamented brother, and also made a strong appeal to every member of 1393, to become a subscriber to the funds of the Institution, which he characterised as the most deserving Masonic Institution he was acquainted with. The W.M. next gave the "Visiting Brethren," which was responded to by Bros. Rose, W.M., 249; Shepton, W.M. 1086; J. Hocken, P.M. 673; C. Leighton, W.M. elect; and Ockleshaw, S.W. 667. The pleasures of the evening were greatly enhanced by several glees and solos, most excellently rendered by Bros. Gilfillan, Wilson, Robert, Merriles, Veale, Price, and others. The recitations of Bros. Jackson and McCarthy were also much admired. The Tyler's toast brought to a conclusion one of the pleasantest evenings ever held under the auspices of the Hamer, the proceedings throughout being marked by the utmost cordiality and good feeling.

ROMFORD.—Liberty of Havering Lodge (No. 1437).—The first annual meeting of this lodge took place on Wednesday, the 14th inst., at the White Hart Hotel, Romford. The lodge was opened shortly after three o'clock. Amongst those present we noticed—Bros. P. Matthews, I.P.M., and Prov. G.D.D.; J. J. Wilson, W.M. J. Tydeman, S.W. and W.M. elect; E. West, J.W.; T. Bishop, Treas.; G. W. Patmore, Sec.; G. English, S.D.; B. Brayshaw, J.D.; T. C. Day, I.G.; Steedman, Tyler; Sheldon, D. Wakefield, A. Young, J. L. Young, A. Wackett, and others; also the following visitors: Bros. Burton, P.M. and P.G. Treas.; Rev. Thomas Cochrane, P.M., and Chaplain of the Apollo Lodge, Oxford; Roberts, P.M. 554; C. Lacey, P.M. 1421, and P. Prov. G.J.D. Herts; E. Parker, P.M. 1237, and P. Prov. G.P. Herts.; Young, W.M. 1327; T. Hill, W. Gabb, Walker, Linzell, W.M. 1327; W. Gilbert, J.W. 1327; Jacobs, 1327, Payne, 1076; Malcolm, 1327; Fisher, 1327; Sherwin, Organist 1076, and others. The minutes of previous meeting having been read and confirmed, Bro. the Rev. T. Cochrane took the chair, for the purpose of raising Bro. J. Garnett. The lodge having been opened in the 2nd degree Bro. Garnett was entrusted and retired, when the lodge was opened in the 3rd degree, and being re-admitted Bro. Garnett was raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason, the beautiful ceremony being most impressively performed by the Rev. T. Cochrane, P.M. The Worshipful Master, Bro. J. J. Wilson, then took the chair, and resumed the lodge to the first degree. The ballot having proved unanimous for Mr. T. T. Orgathorpe, and Mr. N. Crozier, they were initiated into the secrets and mysteries of the Order. The next business of the lodge was to instal Bro. J. Tydeman, as Worshipful Master for the ensuing year. The Installing Master, Bro. Wilson, remarked that it was the highest honour that could be conferred upon a Mason. The very effective manner in which the ceremony of installation was performed, as well as the closing charges to the Master, Wardens, and brethren proved Bro. Wilson to be thoroughly Master of his duties. The brethren having saluted the new W.M. in the three degrees, the following officers were invested for the ensuing year—Bros. J. J. Wilson, I.P.M.; E. West, S.W.; B. B. Brayshaw, J.W.; T. Day, S.D.; T. F. Bishop, Treas.; J. Ellias, Sec.; G. W. Patmore, J.D.; A. W. Naylor, I.G.; Steedman Tyler. In investing Bro. Wilson, with the collar and jewel of I.P.M., the W.M., on behalf of the members of the lodge, presented him with a handsome 18-carat gold Past Master's jewel, and in doing so said that he was aware that the esteem in which Bro. Wilson was held and the high position he had held in the Craft had secured him similar presentations on former occasions, but never with a more hearty, sincere, and unanimous feeling of esteem and regard than on the present, but at the same time Bro. Wilson had justly merited that esteem, for never had a Worshipful Master worked harder or done more for the good and prosperity of a lodge than he had done for this during his year of office, thereby gaining for himself the entire approbation of the members. Bro. West, the Senior Warden, also passed some very flattering remarks on Bro. Wilson, and at the same time proposed that an address on vellum be presented to Bro. Wilson, expressive of the thanks and the very great satisfaction the brethren felt for the very able manner in which he had conducted the business of the liberty of Havering Lodge as its first Worshipful Master. This being seconded by the W.M., was carried unanimously, and with applause. Representatives of various other lodges expressed hearty good wishes for the new W.M. Several letters were received from brethren, expressing their regret that they were unable to attend. Several gentlemen having been proposed for initiation at the next meeting, the lodge was closed in due form. Afterwards the brethren adjourned to a sumptuous banquet, presided over by Bro. Tydeman, W.M., who, upon removal of the cloth, proceeded at once to give the usual loyal and Masonic toasts in the following order:—"Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen," "Bro. His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, K.G., M.W.P.G.M.," uniting with it the names of "Bro. His Royal Highness Prince Arthur, and Bro. His Royal Highness Prince Leopold." "The health of the M.W.G. Master, the Marquess of Ripon, K.G., &c.; the M.W.D.G.M., the Earl of Carnarvon, and other officers of the Grand Lodge," "The R.W. the Prov. G.M. of Essex, Bro. Bagshaw," the W.M. remarking that it was with pleasure he proposed this toast, but with regret that he had to announce that illness had prevented Bro. Bagshaw from attending this meeting. "The Prov. G. Officers, past and present," was next given, to which Bro. Burton, Prov. G. Treasurer, replied in suitable terms, commending the lodge for the progress it was making, and the excellent manner in which the ceremonies were conducted. The next toast was "The Immediate Past Master of the Lodge, Bro. Wilson." The W.M., in proposing the toast, said he had another presentation to make the I.P.M., in the form of a gold locket. A Past Master's jewel had been presented to him from the lodge funds, but the brethren, not satisfied with this alone, had voluntarily subscribed together for the purchase of this locket, and (addressing Bro. Wilson) by it they desire to convey to you their more than ordinary appreciation of the very excellent way in which you have conducted the affairs of the lodge during the past twelve months. I am sure you will value it, not so much for its intrinsic worth as for the kind feelings of regard it is intended to express. Bro. Wilson acknowledged the high compliment and the presentation in appropriate terms, expressing much gratitude for the kindness of the brethren. They had really filled him with such feelings by this further demonstration of their kindness that he could not give expression to them now, but if he had taken an interest in the welfare of the lodge in the past, he certainly should for the future. Bro. Wilson next rose to propose the "Health of the W.M.," stating that from the knowledge he had of him, he was confident that Bro. Tydeman would carry out the duties of the high position he was placed in with honour to himself and credit to the lodge. The W.M. in responding thanked the Past Master and brethren. He had entered into the high office in which the brethren had placed him with some little timidity, but that feeling was being overcome by the kindness of all present, and the knowledge that Bro. Wilson would ever be at his assistance, and that the brethren were so unanimous in placing him in the chair of K.S. Nothing in his power should be left undone that might tend to the prosperity of the lodge. He trusted in the excellent staff of officers under him, and felt confident of the future prosperity of the lodge. "The Health of the Visitors" was next proposed and enthusiastically responded to, the W.M. coupling with it the name of Bro. the Rev. Thos. Cochrane, P.M. 214, and Chaplain of the Apollo Lodge, Oxford, (of which H.R.H. the Prince of Wales is the I.P.M., and in which H.R.H. Prince Leopold has recently been initiated). Bro. Cochrane in his reply congratulated the lodge for the prosperity it had made in so short a time, but was not surprised at its success with so good a brother at its head. Bro. Wilson, the retiring Master, had distinguished himself in various ways in the Craft. He wore many honours upon his breast, including the charity jewel (with, he could hardly say how many bars attached), proof of the existence of what really is the leading characteristic of a Freemason's heart, and from what he knew and had seen of Bro. Tydeman, he congratulated the lodge on their choice, for he was already walking in the footsteps of his predecessor. He (Bro. Cochrane) had met him at the last annual festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution where both himself and Bro. Tydeman had acted as Stewards under Lord Waveny. He considered the lodge had made a good selection of a W.M. for the ensuing year. The health of the Initiates was next proposed by the W.M., and responded to both by Bro. Osgathorpe and Bro. Crozier, who replied in terms of satisfaction of what they had thus far seen of Masonry. In proposing "The Health of the Officers" the W.M. passed some very complimentary remarks upon the abilities of his Wardens and others, stating that he had every confidence they would render him all the assistance in their power. Bro. West, S.W. (a brother held in high estimation by the lodge), responded on behalf of himself and brother officers. The last toast, viz., "The Tyler's," was given by Bro. Steedman. The meeting, which was enlivened by some excellent singing (Bro. Sherwin, Organist of Lodge 1076, presiding at the pianoforte), was brought to a close precisely at ten o'clock, a very enjoyable evening.

Royal Arch.

IPSWICH.—St. Luke's Chapter (No. 225).—The annual meeting of this chapter was held at the Coach and Horses Hotel, on Wednesday, 24th June. There were present Comps. C. Tun P.Z., Second Principal H., as Z.; E. Holmes, J.; H. Harris, P.Z., as H.; S. King, P.Z., Scribe E.; George Abbott, Third Principal J., Alexander Chapter; C. Byford and others. Visitor, Comp. G. Cresswell. The chapter having been duly opened and the minutes of last chapter read and confirmed Comp. E. Holmes was regularly installed into the chair of H., as Second Principal, Comp. Byford in that of J., as Third Principal. The ceremony was performed by Comp. S. B. King, in an unusually impressive manner. Bro. Turner having already been installed as First Principal that portion of the ceremonial was omitted. A candidate having been proposed for advancement and other business having been transacted, the companions shared the secrets, and the chapter was closed. A substantial repast was supplied by that excellent host, Comp. Godball, to whom ample justice was done, and on the removal of the cloth, the M.E.Z., briefly proposed "The Queen," the brethren singing the National Anthem, followed by the toast of "The Thirty Grand Principals of England," and was honoured in the way usual amongst Royal Arch Masons. Bro. King then proposed "The Newly Installed Principals" in flattering terms, to which Comp. Emra Holmes responded. In the course of his remarks Comp. Holmes complained of the accountable apathy which seemed to be respecting the Royal Arch Degree, which he attributed to the fact that so few seemed to know anything about it, and many of those who were inclined to take it were debarred by the cost. A man was told he could become a Mason for three, four, or five guineas, as the case might be, yet when he had taken the third he found he had not taken the whole; for there was a portion of a degree, which, however, he could not get under three guineas more. The consequence of this was, that great numbers refused to go any further, as they thought the charge too high. Brethren ought, however, to remember that they could not rightfully call themselves Fellow Crafts till they had taken the Mark Degree, which was the completion of the second degree, nor could they consider that they were truly Master Masons till they had taken the Royal Arch. Brethren forget that all they got in the third degree were certain substantial secrets and the true Masonry was only derived in the Royal Arch degree. He called attention to certain portions of the third degree which it would be imprudent to print, but he showed where the continuity was broken in the third degree, and where it was taken up in the Royal Arch, and he expressed a strong opinion that the charge for the degree should be sufficiently low to admit all Master Masons. Some Chapters have felt that the fee was extravagantly high, remembering that the Constitution consisted of but three degrees at most, including the Holy Royal taught that it was only the portion of a degree, that evaded the regulations which required a fee of at least three guineas for exaltation, by pointing the candidate Janitor for the time and paying him 50s. for his services, thus reducing the fee one half. He did not do this, for the chapter to follow this plan, as he had doubt it would bring a great number of candidates, but he merely stated the fact.

authority, of a very distinguished Mason, who said he believed it was perfectly legal, and Grand Chapter could not interfere with it. There were 73,000 Masons on the roll of the Grand Lodge of England, and only 17,000 Royal Arch Masons. That was a fact for them to consider, and it ought not to be. The fee for exaltation was far too high, and it stopped many good men from becoming Royal Arch Masons. The companions present fully coincided with Comp. Holmes's remarks, especially with respect to the charge for exaltation. The M.E.Z. subsequently proposed "The Health of their Visitor, Bro. Geo. Cresswell, Third Principal of the Alexandra Chapter," who modestly responded, and Comp. King then proposed the M.E.Z., who briefly replied. A very agreeable evening was spent, and the brethren separated at an early hour.

KENDAL.—Kendal Castle Chapter (No. 129).

The regular quarterly convocation of this Chapter was held on June 25th, at the Masonic Hall, at four o'clock in the afternoon. The M.E.Z. Comp. C. G. Thomson, was absent through domestic affliction, and his place was kindly supplied by Bro. John Bowes, P.Z., P. Prov. G.S.B., who was supported by his officers, and a goodly number of companions. Bro. Cranston having been elected at the previous convocation, and being now present, was duly introduced, and exalted in ample form by the acting M.E.Z. There being no further business, the chapter was closed. On the next day the companions of this flourishing chapter held their banquet at the Grange Hotel, Grange. The chair was occupied by Comp. John Holme, P.Z., who was influentially supported.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—Fawcett Chapter (No. 764).—On Thursday 18th inst. the annual meeting of this Chapter was held at the Freemasons' Hall, West Hartlepool, when there was a numerous attendance of companions, including some from Stockton, Sunderland, and Bernard Castle. Companions R. B. Harpley, S. Gourley, and J. W. Cameron were installed as Principals for the ensuing year by Companion Levy, of Sunderland, assisted by Companion Knowles, Cadle, and Best, of Stockton; after which the usual banquet took place at the Royal Hotel.

Red Cross of Constantine.

PORTSEA.—Naval and Military Conclave (No. 35).—This conclave has left its original place of meeting, viz., the Freemasons' Tavern, Portsea, owing chiefly to the host Sir Knight Howell leaving England, and as the house was in rather an obscure place, it was deemed advisable to remove to a more central position. The result is that on Thursday, the 25th ult., the first meeting was held at Smith's Temperance Hotel, Landport, Portsmouth, and three candidates were balloted for and approved, one (the W.M. elect of Craft Lodge No. 804), being in attendance, was installed a Sir Knight by the M.P.S., Sir Knight J. Clay, who was well supported by three Past Sovereigns, most of the officers, and a large muster of Sir Knights, including one visitor, Sir Knight Groom, of the Premier Conclave.

Scotland.

GLASGOW.—Maryhill Lodge (No. 510).—This lodge met on St. John's day, in their hall, 157, Main-street, Bro. Hugh Niven, R.W.M., in the chair. Bro. B. Mercer, S.W., Bro. Neal acting, J.W.; F. Craigie, Secretary. The lodge having been duly opened, Bro. Ancell brought before it a case of a brother deceased, when the brethren present subscribed a sum sufficient to defray the expenses of the funeral. The lodge having been raised to the second degree, Bros. John Helston, Duncan Shaw and Thomas Wilson, were introduced, and at the request of the R.W.M., they were passed to the Fellow Craft degree by Bro. A. Nevay, the work being admirably performed. There being no further business, the lodge was then closed in due form.

GLASGOW.—St. John's Lodge (No. 3).—The members of this lodge celebrated their annual festival by a trip by rail to Dumfries.

There was a goodly muster of the members and their friends. The beauty of the scenery through which they passed took off the idea of the time consumed, while the fraternal greeting and good cheer that awaited them, contributed to make all things pleasant, and after a happy day spent in a truly Masonic style, all returned well pleased, with the knowledge that brotherly love sweetens all the intercourse between brethren, wherever located, and that the right hand of fellowship is always extended to meet a brother on his travels.

LANARK.—St. John's Lodge.—On the 24th of June, this lodge had the pleasure of meeting and welcoming lodges St. Mary Coltness, No. 31, St. John Carluke, No. 187, and Lockhart St. John Garnworth, No. 248, in the Masonic Hall Lanark. After the fraternal greeting the brethren partook of refreshments together, and then proceeded to Bannington to view the falls of Clyde. The storm of the morning had increased the bulk of the water, and this lent an additional charm to the truly romantic spot. The brethren from a distance were well pleased with their excursion, and also with the fraternal welcome they had received at the hands of the Lanark brethren, considering those reunions one of the best means of cementing these ties of brotherly love that should unite all parties of the Masonic fraternity.

GLASGOW.—Cathedral Chapter (No. 67) held their monthly meeting at 22, Struthers-street, on Tuesday, June 23rd, Comp. J. Duthie, Z., presiding. The names of three candidates for exaltation were read, but they were not present, it was resolved, in honour of St. John's day, to adjourn for refreshment, and the companions spent two hours very happily together.

GLASGOW.—St. Rollox Chapter (No. 144).—held an emergency meeting on Thursday, June 26th, at their Hall, Garngad-road, Comp. R. Bell, Z., presiding, assisted by Comps. G. McCallum, J.; J. McLeish, H.; D. Reid, Scribe E.; J. Booth, N.; W. Armand, T.; G. W. Wheeler, H. 73, acting 1st. S.; F. Halliday, 2nd S.; J. Appleyard, 3rd S. The chapter having been duly opened by R. Bell, and there being three candidates for exaltation, at the request of the Z., Comp. J. Duthie, Z. of 67, opened a lodge of Excellent Masters, when Bros. J. Aikman, Mills, and Smith, were introduced, and duly initiated into that degree. The chapter was then opened, and these three brethren were properly exalted to the Royal Arch degree. Thanks were voted to Comps. Duthie and Wheeler, for their services on the occasion.

GLASGOW.—Royal Ark Mariners (No. 73).—This body met at 170, Buchanan-street, on Tuesday, June the 23rd. In the unavoidable absence of Bro. J. Balfour, the F.N. of the lodge, Bro. G. W. Wheeler was called on to preside, who proceeded to unmoor the ark, with the assistance of Bro. J. A. Park, J.; G. Macdonald, S.; J. Bannerman as Pilot; Boyd and Oliver, assistants. Applications were received from two distressed mariners, Comps. James Gibson, of Chapter 69, and Wm. MacGregor, of Chapter 73. There being no opposition they were received on board and instructed in the mysteries of this ancient degree by the acting Noah, G. W. Wheeler. Some business of a formal character having been transacted, the ark was again moored in safety.

ST. JOHN'S DAY IN GLASGOW.—Wednesday, June the 24th, being St. John's Day Festival, highly revered by all Scotch Masons, Lodges Union and Crown, Nos. 103 and 219, agreed to celebrate it together by an excursion by water to Arran. Accordingly thus united they chartered that fine Clyde steamer, the Hero, and although the morning was a little unfavourable, the brethren mustered in strong force at eight o'clock, accompanied by their wives, daughters, and sweethearts, to the number of nearly 300. Fortunately the weather cleared up as they passed down the Clyde, and Lambash Bay was reached in safety, everyone pleased with the exertions made by Captain MacIntyre and his crew to ensure their comfort. After a short stroll round the bay, they re-assembled to partake of an excellent dinner, provided in his accustomed style, by Bro. Middleton. Bro. J. Wilson, R.W.M. of 219, presided, and Bro. J. Bain, P.M. of 103, acted as Croupier; the substantial part of the day's enjoyment having been attended to, some set off to examine the romantic beauties of the island, while others tripped it on the light fantastic toe, to the exhilarating strains of the musicians who had accompanied them, till the setting sun warned them it was time to depart towards the east in search of more light, even if it was artificial light. Notwithstanding the thunderstorm that visited different parts of the coast, our excursionists reached home in perfect safety, well pleased with their days' enjoyment.

CONSECRATION OF THE LEBANON CHAPTER, No. 1326.

On Friday, June 26th, at the Red Lion Hotel, Lion Square, Thames-street, Hampton, another chapter was added to the roll of Royal Arch Freemasonry, in the Province of Middlesex. The ceremonies of consecration and installation were performed in a faultless, energetic and painstaking manner by Comp. Robert Wentworth Little, (Secretary of the Girls' School) P.G.S.E., Middlesex, the officer deputed to do the work.

The chapter was opened by Comps. R. W. Wentworth Little, P.Z., as M.E.Z.; Col. F. Burdett, P.G. M.E.Z., Middlesex, P.Z., as H.; H. A. Dubois, as J.; with a numerous attendance of Installed Principals. The companions having been marshalled by the Master of the Ceremonies, the veteran Comp. F. Walters, P.Z., were duly admitted.

Comp. R. Limpus, P. G. Organist Middlesex, presided at the organ, and gave an excellent selection of music during the consecration.

The Founders, Companions F. Walters, H. A. Dubois, H. Cutress, L. Beck, E. Hopwood, H. Potter, R. Hayward, J. W. Baldwin, S. Gibbs, R. Limpus, and H. J. Green, having declared that they approved of the companions named in the warrant to be the Principals, viz., Comps. John Thomas Moss, P.Z., as M.E.Z.; Samuel Wickens, H.; William Hammond, as J.; the chapter was duly consecrated, Comp. Rev. P. M. Holden, officiating as Chaplain.

That interesting ceremony being ended, the installation of the Principals was proceeded with, and carried out in an able manner. Before closing the chapter a large number of joining members and candidates were proposed for exaltation.

Comps. R. W. Little, and Colonel F. Burdett, were elected honorary members, after a vote of thanks had been given them for efficient services rendered to the chapter at the ceremonies gone through.

Comp. Samuel Wickens, the newly installed Haggai, was unanimously elected as the Steward to represent this chapter at the Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, 1875, and the chapter was then duly closed.

Banquet then followed the arduous work of the afternoon. Some agreeable hours having been spent, the companions then separated, well pleased with this addition to the strength of the province in the Royal Arch Degree. There was a numerous list of visitors, too many to be given in detail.

Mr. Thomas Hughes, in presiding at the recent half-yearly meeting of the Crystal Palace shareholders, called attention to the manifold facts showing that the Palace maintained its reputation as a place of high-class public entertainment, adding that last week's Handel Festival had been the most successful of the series.

The funeral of Bro. Ebenezer Lewis, proprietor and editor of the Brighton and Hove Daily Mail, who died suddenly in his office on Sunday night, from heart disease, took place to-day at the extramural cemetery. There was a large attendance, including many members of the Masonic body, representatives of the Town Council, and journalistic friends.

THE HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY, FROM ITS ORIGIN TO THE PRESENT DAY.

Drawn from the best sources and the most recent investigations.
BY J. G. FINDEL,
Second Edition, Revised, and Preface written by
Bro. D. MURRAY LYON.

One vol., 800 pages 8vo., with an Index. Cloth gilt. Price, 10s. 6d.

"This book is a strictly historical one, from which all is excluded that is not based upon ascertained or probable fact."—Builder.

"Of its value to Freemasons, as a detailed history of their Brotherhood, it is not possible to speak too highly."—Public Opinion.

"The author seems to have fairly exhausted the subject."—The Athenaeum.

"The edition we are now considering is a second English edition, which had the great advantage of Bro. D. M. Lyon's able superintendence and editorship in its English dress. There can be no doubt but that so far, Bro. Findel's work is the most complete work on Freemasonry which has yet appeared, and that he deserves the greatest credit for his careful and accurate treatment of all evidence on the subject, and for his honest desire after truth. Bro. Findel gives up in the view he has so clearly and consistently put forth our early Masonic history, the older theory of the Roman Colleges, &c., and limits the origin of Freemasonry to about the twelfth century, and as then arising from the operative Masons, and specially the "Steinmetzen" and "Bauhuten" of Germany. Bro. Findel gives us a good deal of evidence on this head, and one thing is clear from his work, that the German Freemasons were, at a very early period, organized into lodges with a Master over them, and with outward regulations and inner ceremonies peculiar to the Craft. Bro. Findel rejects all the views which have been from time to time put forward of a Templar or a Rosicrucian origin. Whether or no Bro. Findel's theory of the date of the rise of Freemasonry be correct, matters very little: we do not ourselves profess to accept it; but this we can fairly say of Bro. Findel's work, it is marked from first to last by the most remarkable token of industry, ability, and care, of patient research, and of skillful criticism. We know of no work which so clearly sets before us our amount of knowledge up to the present time on the great question of Masonic Archaeology, and there can be little doubt that what Preston's work is to English Freemasonry, Findel's work is to cosmopolitan Freemasonry. Indeed no student in Masonry can now dispense with it, and it is a perfect storehouse both of Masonic evidence and Masonic illustrations. We earnestly recommend all the lodges in this country to obtain a copy for the lodge library before the work is bought up for America; and we believe that no Mason will rise from the perusal of its pages without a higher idea both of the historical truth and intrinsic value of Freemasonry, and of fraternal regard and recognition to the latest and not the least well-informed or effective of our Masonic historians. The present century has produced no such equal, in authority and usefulness, to the great work of our Bro. Findel, and we wish him and it, in all of fraternal sympathy and kindly intent, many earnest readers, and more grateful students."—The Masonic Magazine.

"This volume is the history of Masonry par excellence Every interested person may regard it, therefore, as the present text-book on the subject."—Manchester Guardian

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, JULY 4TH, 1874.

THE ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

We have received at last the official report of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, which contains the list of the successful candidates at the recent election, which list, as we stated in a previous impression, in which it appeared, we took originally from a paid advertisement in a non-Masonic paper. We are especially struck, however, as we think our readers will be when they read it, with one of the resolutions passed at the general meeting of the Institution, May 15th, our gallant and esteemed Bro. Major Creaton being in the chair. For there we read these, to us striking words, "resolved that the result of the ballot with the names of the successful candidates be advertised in the Times, Telegraph, Advertiser, Standard, and Daily News, daily papers, and in the Era, Sunday paper." So that as late as May 15th, this very year of light, the existence of The Freemason, our one Masonic paper, is utterly ignored, and we who are Freemasons, are actually debarred from inserting an advertisement of our own Masonic Institution, and of thus announcing officially the result of the election to our numerous readers. When the poor writer Theret was conveyed to the Bastille, he asked the lieutenant in the morning, "Sir, will you have the goodness to tell me why I am here?" "You have a great deal of curiosity indeed," replied the Lieutenant to the Police, and retired. And certainly our curiosity is very great indeed to ascertain why such a resolution should be passed, and why we are excluded from all recognition and patronage. We have wearied our brains in endeavouring to discover the answer to this official riddle, and last week we have discovered it. It is quite clear to us that the existence of The Freemason is still unknown to the excellent official of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. Some do no doubt, like Rip Van Winkle, and the sleep awakened, our kind-hearted and energetic Bro. James Terry will realise this most important fact in the natural history of English Freemasonry, and with that activity which ever marks all his actions, will at once proceed to rectify so palpable a mistake.

been suggested to us that this resolution of May 15th, is a remnant of red tape. But we reject the covert insinuation, as that we know has long since been banished from all our Metropolitan Charities. Seriously having called attention to the subject, we do not think it consonant with our own dignity to say anything more, on what almost assumes a personal aspect. We are content to leave the fact itself to the generous and fraternal appreciation of our brethren. From the first establishment of The Freemason, our publisher has given the most liberal and zealous aid to the metropolitan charities, in every way, and which still we shall continue to evince and to encourage, as we hope we know our duty to the Craft too well, either to be affected, or deterred by any want of consideration, or by any abstinence of patronage. We shall endeavour in time to come, as on past occasions, even at considerable cost to ourselves, to provide Masonic information to those who honour us with their approbation, and no where will the great charities of our Order find more genuine sympathy and support than in the pages of The Freemason.

THE IRISH GRAND LODGE.

Though we are not in possession of any official information relative to the recent meeting and Masonic proceedings of this distinguished body; though to us, alas! no favouring breeze of patronage or approval greets us from across the Irish Channel (to use a purely happy and Hibernian expression), we believe we are not wrong in stating, that, the objectionable regulation 133 has been expunged by a large majority. If then we are warranted in saying so much, and we assert it, in all deference, and with all reserve, "pace" our good Bro. Oldham, we must most sincerely congratulate the whole of the Irish Craft on this great proof of discretion, good sense, and true Masonic spirit. No. 133, in its relation to Craft Masonry, is as objectionable to us as No. 666 would be to many of the most fervent adherents of the Irish Grand Lodge, and anything more retrograde as a proposal, or more utterly unmasonic in its scope, we never have yet perused. It was in fact introducing the principles of the Inquisition, into the honest and free-hearted Irish Craft, whereby a Mason might be condemned unheard and undefended, and might forfeit all those Masonic rights and privileges he held most dear, on the secret and irrevocable decision of some irresponsible High Grade Tribunal. What has Craft Masonry to do with High Grade Bodies, or august Chapters of wonderful nomenclature? Above all why should our honest Craft Masonry be affected or weakened by the customs and arrangements of alien associations? Had the Grand Lodge of Ireland proposed to submit any such sentence to the consideration of any of the stated or special meetings as a Court of Appeal, and to have given the brother inculcated the opportunity of being heard in his own defence, there are grave objections to any such course, though it would, at any rate, have been both understandable and defensible. But to allow an extern body to pass a sentence against a member, and then to register such a sentence in the books of the Grand Lodge, without question or appeal, was such a backward step in legislation that it could have proceeded from that love of a bull, still prevalent amid the witty denizens of the Emerald Isle, and was, as Sir Boyle Rosch would have said, "a systematic proceeding backwards way."

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The usual monthly meeting of the General Committee of the Masonic Girls' School was held on Thursday week, at Freemasons' Hall Bro. H. Browse, V.P., occupied the chair, and he was supported by Bros. J. A. Rucker, Thomas W. White, Griffiths Smith, T. Q. Peacock, H. A. Dubois, Richard Spencer, Raynham W. Stewart, Jesse Turner, Major John Creaton, Sigismund Rosenthal, H. Guitierrez, J. G. Marsh, and R. Wentworth Little, Secretary. There was not a great deal of business before the Committee, but what transpired was of considerable importance. In the first place there were eight petitions before the brethren, seven of which being in all respects regular, the petitioners were placed on the list of candidates for election in October. This being the last day for admission on to that list, the list was finally settled, and announced to contain twenty-nine candidates. Vacancies for ten children in the school were declared for the next election, but the Committee, considering the vast increase in the Craft and the great extension of support given to the Freemasons' Girls' School, resolved to recommend to the next Quarterly Committee, which will be held on the 11th inst., that five more girls be elected at the same time, making the number altogether fifteen, admissible at the October election. Some brethren gave notice of various motions at the next Quarterly Committee, and the Committee then adjourned.

On Monday, the Girls from the above School, to the number of nearly 150, were entertained at the Crystal Palace, under the care of the indefatigable Secretary, Bro. Robert Wentworth Little, Miss Davis, and other members of the Institution, the cost being defrayed by the Festival Stewards. The weather being fine the Girls appeared thoroughly to enjoy the day's outing, the Palace and grounds being in splendid condition, the happy countenances and comfortable appearance of the Girls eliciting the unqualified approval of the thousands of visitors who were present, among whom we noticed some staunch friends and supporters of the School. Bros. Joshua Nunn, Rev. P. M. Holden, James Stevens, T. Cubitt, W. Winn, T. W. White, George Kenning, Rev. J. R. Simpson, P.G.C., Paas, Colonel Peters, Henry Mugeridge, Marshall, Mortlock, and many others, most of the brethren being accompanied by their ladies.

MASONIC BIBLIOGRAPHY

I picked up the other day a curious book of Robert Fludd's or Robert de Fluctibus, entitled 'de Macrocosmi Historiâ.'

It unfortunately wants the title pages.

There is a companion volume, which I have not got, which contains his treatise on arithmetic, geometry, and other sciences.

Robert Fludd, who also put forth a defence of the "Fraternitatis Rosæ Crucis" is the author "inter alia" of "the Mosaical philosophy" written in Latin and translated by him, which as a MS. note in my book says, "is a very valuable mystical work."

By a curious coincidence, I picked up a little book of Latin poetry, by a Jesuit (Colletius or Collet) but which contains the autograph of William Stonehouse. William Stonehouse was in all probability a northern antiquary, as he is called, who sold his museum of Roman antiquities to the celebrated Thorby.

Can any brother tell us, of what northern town Stonehouse was.

Gallum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

THE ROMAN EAGLE LODGE.

Can Bro. D. M. Lyon help me to any clue to the minutes, or ritual, or papers of the Roman Eagle Lodge, and of Bro. Dr. John Brown?

My object in this query is this.

On the principle of cause and effect, I have always felt persuaded that Krause's Latin so-called York constitution had an original somewhere.

But where is it?

"His" formula may be taken from two, or from three.

But it has always struck me as strange, that, it should be in Latin.

Now is it possible, that, Dr. John Brown, who is said to have put the ritual in Latin, may have put the constitution into Latin also, and added to it from several sources?

Is anything known of what became of Bro. John Brown, who is said to have gone to London about the end of last century from Edinburgh?

A MASONIC STUDENT.

BRO. WILLIAM PRESTON.

I have been looking into W. Preston's Bibliography, and have thought well, to call the attention of some of my fellow archaeological students to one or two notes and queries.

First of all where was Preston initiated?

Stephen Jones seems to say on authority, in what was practically an "Antient lodge," and which was afterwards warranted by the Grand Lodge, and was called the "Caledonian Lodge."

Where are the minutes of that lodge?

In a short and well written memoir in the "Bibliographical Magazine," to which my attention has been called by my obliging and able Bro. P.M. Wm. Cowling at York, this fact seems to be doubted, and Edinburgh is suggested as the possible place of his initiation.

Surely at the very outset of one's attempt to put together a reliable and satisfactory biography of the "father of Masonic History," we can ascertain that fact without a doubt, or the shadow of a doubt.

Bro. Stephen Jones seems to speak positively on the subject, but yet when you come to analyze his statements, you see at once, that, he is after all somewhat indistinct.

Where can I see a copy of the pamphlet, privately printed, but not published, in which Preston defends his position in the "Antiquity" controversy?

A. F. A. WOODFORD.

THE OLDEST HALIFAX MASONIC POEM.

Whatever the merits or demerits of the composition may be, it is certainly the first Masonic poem written by a Halifax Mason, and as far as known, it may be the oldest Masonic poem written in North America. I discovered it in a newspaper, and I believe it is unique. It illustrates the fact about the origin of Masonry in Nova Scotia, which I made known in former numbers of your journal. The writer was evidently dazzled with the handiwork of the colonists, when viewing the wooden huts which they raised in so short a time to shelter about five thousand human beings, and we may well pardon his indulging in the imagination, that in the course of a hundred years, Halifax would rival, in grand structures, both Greece and ancient Italy. I shall only add, that the poem is certainly a curiosity, and for this reason alone it deserves reprinting.

JACOB NORTON.

AN ADDRESS TO THE MASONS AT HALIFAX. BY A BROTHER.

When first from Nothing at the Almighty's call, Came this unbounded, this stupendous ALL; And that the Heavens and Earth's Foundation laid,

Were by unerring Wisdom perfect made; Beauty and Strength in due proportion join'd, To harmonize the particles combin'd; In various Life th' unnumbered myriads rise, Peopling the Earth, the Ocean, and the Skies; But man, created last, tho' first in Worth, Was made the Lord and Sovereign o'er the Earth;

After his Maker's Image form'd, his Mind
For more superior Knowledge was design'd;
But Disobedience wrought his hapless Fall,
And sore defac'd the fair Original.
Hence Science as his Progeny arose,
More difficult, the lovely Arts disclose;
And first in Architecture's charms unskill'd,
Taught by Necessity they rudely build,
By slow Degrees, towms in some Order rise,
'Till tow'ring Babel's Builders threat the Skies,
And wrought Confusion by their Vanities.
At length directed by Heaven's Architect,
Great Solomon a Temple doth erect
Surpassing ev'ry Structure fair in Fame,
As its wise Founder, every other Name;
Jehova's self inhabited the shrine,
And marked the consecrated Work Divine.
To raise this Dome, arose from distant Parts
The Emulous, and Excellent in Arts;
But he whose Skill was most superlative,
From whom our sacred Secrets we derive,
The most compleat Mechanick known to fame
Needless, to tell you Brethren his Name,
Engrav'd Life's figuring Imag'ry most true,
Wrought Linnen fine, in purple, scarlet, blue;
Skilful to work in metal, timber, stone,
And made the Circle of the Arts his own.
May his all perfect Precepts which we boast,
Prove efficacious to this Foreign Coast;
Those sacred, solemn Secrets we adore,
Enjoy from sure Traditions of our own,
Inspire us, who the glorious Title bear
Masons, (priviledg'd by the Badge we wear)
With all Mankind upon the Square to live,
And in a level Course of Practice strive
That ev'ry action may be so upright
It wou'd not shame, nor need not shun the Light;

And may our Halifaz which now appears
To all who view, the Work of many Years,
And from a Chaos may be justly said,
In decent Form to rear its Tow'ring Head;
May it in future Time, in Structure's Vie,
With antient Greece, or famous Italy;
That when our Progeny admiring ask,
Who first design'd, and plann'd this arduous task?

Which in the Compass of a hundred years,
So Lofty, Beauteous, and Superb appears;
Their Sires may say C—W—S., was the man
Who this extensive City first began;
Be not amaz'd its Progress was so fast,
And grew so great with surprising hast;
What cou'd not be expected he shou'd do,
A G—V—R so just, and M—S—N true.

INSTALLATION OF R. W. LORD VIS- COUNT BERNARD AS PROV. G.M.

The ceremonial of installing Lord Viscount Bernard as P.G.M. took place at the Masonic Hall, Turkey-street, in the presence of a large number of the brethren. The lodge was opened by the Right Worshipful Anderson Cooper, D.P.G.M. of Munster, who officiated in the absence of R.W. Bro. Shekleton, D.G.M. of Ireland, from whom a telegram had been received regretting his inability to be present. The order of the proceedings was then as follows:—The Provincial Grand Secretary, V.W. Bro. R. Walker, having read the circular convening the meeting, read also the Grand Master's patent appointing R. W. Bro. Lord Viscount Bernard, as P.G.M. of the Province of Munster. The popular young nobleman was then received at the porch, and conducted to the pedestal by the Deacons, Bros. James Hackett, and R. W. Doherty, where he was presented as the newly elected P.G.M. to the presiding officer, and then placed in the chair. After the charge came the procession, and such a large number of the brethren attended that only a portion of them were able to take part in it. The following ode was sung, and the musical arrangement had a very fine effect:—

Hail! Masonry divine—
Glory of ages shine!
Long mayest thou reign!
Where'er thy lodges stand,
May they have great command,
And always grace the land—
Thou Art divine!

Great fabrics still arise,
And grace the azure skies—
Great are thy schemes:
Thy noble orders are Matchless beyond compare,
No art with those can share—
'Thou Art divine!

Hiram, the architect,
Did all the craft direct
How they should build.
Sol'mon, great Israel's king,
Did mighty blessings bring,
And left us cause to sing—
Hail! Royal Art.

The P.G.M. was then proclaimed by the D.P.G.M.M., and grand honours having been given he delivered an appropriate address. The Prov. Grand Sec. next read the patent of appointment of R. W. Bro. A. Cooper as D.P.G.M.M., who was saluted with grand honours. Bro. Cooper addressed the lodge, and the Provincial Grand Lodge of Munster was then closed in ancient form. The Provincial Grand Officers present on the occasion were:—Anderson Cooper, D.P.G.M.M.; Francis Guy, Acting P.S.G.W.; R. Walker, P.G. Sec., Acting P.J.G.W.; J. W. M'Mullen, P.G.T.; Rev. Arundel Hill, P.G., Chaplain; James Hackett, P.G.S.D.; R. W. Doherty, P.G.J.D.; R. St. Leger, Atkins, and G. C. Edwards, P. G., Stewards; Dr. J. C. Marks, P. G. Organist; Henry Drury, P. G. I. G. The musical portion of the ceremonial was directed by Dr. C. Marks, and added largely to their impressive character. Nothing could have surpassed the admirable manner in which the installation was carried out, and the brethren present had reason to be thoroughly delighted. Not a little of the success was due to the fact that Bro. Walker acted as Prov. Grand Director of the Ceremonies. The following brethren were present on the occasion:—J. B. Sandford, Richard Meara, Dr. Richard White, W. M.; George Wills, A. H. Shaw, J. J. Kemp, H. J. Daniels, R. C. Mason, W. S. Campbell, Dr. Luther, Robert Denny, D. De Courcey M'Gillicuddy, W. Carr, Robert Howard, W. H. Daunt, F. J. Byford, John S. Austen, J. Lloyd, Francis Gannon, Dr. E. Appelbe, E. Ollife, Joseph Kildahl, H. L. Tivy, T. Ware, T. H. Jermyn, H. Kingston, F. D. Richards, J. Murray, Francis Campbell, W. G. Lane, J. Bloomer.

In the evening the provincial grand banquet was given at the Protestant Hall, it being the festival of St. John. The hall was appropriately decorated, and there was a large attendance of the brethren. The list of toasts was exceedingly appropriate, and a feature in the proceedings was the institution of responses after each toast, which had each a particular bearing on the subject with which it was connected. These selections were culled from different sources by the talented P. G. Organist, Dr. Marks, and were sung with effect by the assembled company, who were also entertained with solos, duets, and glees, by some well known amateurs. The following was the programme of toasts and music:—

GRAND LODGE OF NEW YORK.

The Annual Communication of the Grand Lodge of New York, just closed, was one of the largest ever held, notwithstanding the decrease in the number of Representatives under the new Constitution. Nearly 700 Lodges were represented. Bro. Christopher G. Fox, Grand Master, delivered an able address. The New York Dispatch publishes this address in full.
We give the following, which embodies some matters of general interest:

"The Constitution and Statutes adopted in the last Annual Communication have proved well adapted to the wants of the Fraternity, and in the main, are satisfactory to the Craft; but are somewhat defective, and require, to some extent, careful revision in order to secure the best effects from their administration.

"The provisions relating to the penalty of the non-payment of dues, and those in regard unaffiliation, restoration to membership, and dismissal, require such modifications as will result in a consistent course of action in accordance with Masonic usage, and at the same time protect the interests of the subordinate bodies the rights of their members, and those unaffiliated Masons as well.

"The imposition of Lodge dues, admitted resource of modern times, is nevertheless necessity that none will question; as, without the revenues derived therefrom Lodges could not be properly sustained and their works charity continued, unless resort was had to the requirement of excessive fees for initiation, which in effect would restrict the privileges of Fraternity to the wealthy alone, or lead to indiscriminate admission of members on the payment of a considerable sum, for the sake of the money thus produced—a result that would materially weaken the institution, and tend to destroy its influence, power, and dignity.
Grand Lodges on this continent, with some exception, permit their subordinates to be from their members quarterly or annual dues, and provide a penalty for their non-payment, but this provision is not uniform as to its and while the punishment is light in some jurisdictions, in others the offence involves the most severe punishment known to Masonry.

"The refusal or neglect to pay dues, when there is ability to discharge the obligation, indicates a want of integrity, and is a clear violation of a solemn compact; and in either case deserves the condemnation of all just men, and ought, in common fairness to the faithful and diligent Craftsmen, to subject the delinquent to a deprivation of certain privileges. My opinion is that the just penalty for the non-payment of lodge dues should be suspension from all the rights and privileges of Masonry, save that of charity (for that right is derived from a higher than the written law, and, in its application, the Masonic teaching recognizes no distinction among Masons). This penalty should only be inflicted in accordance with safeguards established by the Grand Lodge, and should continue until removed by the payment of the amount due at the time of suspension.

"That provision of the Constitution relating to unaffiliated brethren, is too sweeping in its restrictions. Brethren who have been honourably discharged from membership in lodges of our own or other jurisdictions, are justly entitled to the privileges of Masonry, if they desire to accept and discharge the duties which it imposes; and I recommend such a change in our present law as will recognise the claims, under proper restrictive regulations, of such brethren as may be necessarily affiliated for the time being. In regard to the terms of the law regulating dismission, I recommend such a modification of its provisions as will permit a discharge of membership, and the issue of the necessary certificate of the fact, to such brethren as may have removed from the jurisdiction of this Grand Lodge; as it is a requirement in almost all other jurisdictions that the certificate of dimitt shall accompany the petition for affiliation. In many instances this regulation, as applied to the restriction relative to granting dimitts contained in the law of this jurisdiction, has occasioned much annoyance and inconvenience.

"The rapid increase of ephemeral societies during the past few years has occasioned a demand in many localities for the use of Masonic apartments for their meetings. During the past year frequent applications were made in behalf of Lodges, for permission to rent their rooms to other associations; and while not refusing permission, except in cases where Lodge rooms had been solemnly dedicated, I could only reply that the Grand Lodge had no regulation on the subject, probably for the reason that it contemplated no such employment for Masonic apartments, and that a Lodge ought to have a sufficient degree of pride in its connection with our ancient and honoured Fraternity to refuse, for the sake of the few dollars it would gain, to allow the use of its rooms for any but Masonic purposes. Much contention and ill feeling has grown out of the practice, and it is recommended that a regulation on the subject be proposed for incorporation in the statutes, so that in the future, Lodges may act and govern themselves accordingly."

Bro. James M. Austin, M.D., Grand Secretary, presented his twenty-first report, from which the following statistics are taken: Receipts of the Grand Lodge for the year ending April 30, 61, 896.54 dols. Lodges granted warrants, 17; dispensations issued for the formation of new Lodges, 15, namely, Allemania, Brooklyn; Social Friendship, New Baltimore, Green county; Star of Cuba, New York; Moi-Monides, New York; Pentalpha, New York; Stuyvesant, New York; Fordham, N. York; Sanctorium, Brooklyn; Lincoln, New York; Fellowship, Rensselaer Falls, St. Lawrence County; Shakspeare, New York; La Universal, Brooklyn; Naphthali, New York; Justice, New York; Noar, Knowersville, Albany County. Number of lodges marking returns during the year, 682; number of lodges incorporated under general act during the year, 12; reports received from American Grand Lodges, 45; reports received from foreign Grand Lodges, 13. The following figures give the standing of the order in the State for the year: Initiations, 5,300; affiliations, 1,000; whole number registered, 6,300; dimitted, 1,777; expelled, 49; suspended, 25; stricken from roll for non-payment of dues, 2,840; restored, 352; died, 945; net increase of membership, 1,016; total number of Masons in the State, 79,849. In closing his report, Bro. Austin referred feelingly to his twenty-one years' service, and gave some interesting facts concerning the standing of the Fraternity now as compared with the time that he first took the office of Secretary.

Bro. James M. Austin, from the Committee on the Hall and Asylum Fund, presented the annual report, as follows: Receipts from all sources, loans, donations, &c., for the year, 273, 396.72 dols. of which sum has been paid out but 1,451.72 dols. The amount expended thus far in the purchase of the property and the construction of the new Temple is 932,757.40 dols. and the indebtedness is 352,710 dols. The subscriptions to the two years' loan amount to 89,990 dols. and to the five years' loan to 4,209 dols. A vote of thanks was tendered by the trustees of the fund, to M. W. Bro. Simons and W. Bro. Barker for services.

Bro. James E. Morrison, the Executive Committee of the late Masonic Fair, held in N. Y. city, presented a supplementary and final report, from which it was shown that the total receipts of the fair were 59,921.45 dols. and the net proceeds 44,793 dols.

The election for Grand Officers resulted as follows:

Bro. Ellwood, E. Thorne, Grand Master; Bro. James W. Austed, Dep. Grand Master; Bro. Jesse B. Anthony, Senior Grand Warden; Bro. Levi M Gano, Junior Grand Warden; Bro. John W. Simons, Grand Treasurer; Bro. James M. Austin, M.D., Grand Secretary.

An amendment to allow no Masonic labour to be done on Sunday, except the burial of a Mason, was adopted; also, an amendment which makes Section 49 of the statutes read thus:

"A lodge shall have the power to enact a by-law which shall provide a penalty for the non-payment of Lodge dues, which penalty shall be unaffiliation; but such penalty shall not be inflicted except for the non-payment of at least two years' dues, nor until the brother shall have been duly summoned thirty days previous, to pay said two years' dues, or show cause why he should not be adjudged an unaffiliate for such non-payment. If within said time he shall show that through indigence he is not able to pay the same and support his family, no penalty shall be inflicted during the continuance of such indigence, unless by a unanimous vote of his Lodge. Any such unaffiliated brother may be restored to membership by a unanimous vote of the members present, and voting at a stated communication, provided he shall pay the amount due at the time of such unaffiliation."

An amendment was also passed allowing unaffiliates to be received without fee; also one providing that "one who shall remain an unaffiliated Mason in this jurisdiction, for one year or more, shall not be allowed to visit a Masonic Lodge, or join in a Masonic procession, nor be entitled to receive Masonic relief or burial."

A petition was presented against the use of certain sectarianism expressions in the ritual. Resolutions upon this subject have been presented year after year for several years, without effect. The petition was referred to the committee on work and Lectures.

The Committee on work and lectures, to whom was referred the petition referred to, reported in favour of striking out the sectarian expressions in the ritual. The report was laid on the table.

After the installation of Bro. Ellwood E. Thorne as Grand Master of Masons of New York the Grand Lodge closed in ample form.

FREEMASONRY IN NEW ZEALAND.

The installation of officers of the Pacific Lodge No. 1229, E.C., was held at the Masonic Hall, Revell-street, Hokitika, New Zealand, on Tuesday evening, February 3rd.

The following brethren were duly installed, viz—Bros. F. Eisfelder, W.M.; J. Branwell, S.W.; W. Ramsay, J.W.; C. E. Linneman, Treasurer (re-elected); W. D. Banks, Secretary; C. Hill, S.D.; M. Pollock, J.D.; G. Benning, I.G.; G. Epping, Tyler.

After the minutes had been confirmed, the Treasurer's balance-sheet was read and adopted, showing a credit balance of over £400, besides assets valued at £250.

The installation ceremonies were conducted in a most eloquent and impressive manner by the R.W.D.G.M., Bro. Lazar, who, notwithstanding his advancing years, seemed to have increased his powers of rendering still more effective the beautiful charges of this truly elaborate ceremony, whilst at the same time thoroughly impressing his hearers with the importance of attaching themselves more zealously than ever to their noble work. The R.W.D.G. Master also complimented the members upon the flourishing condition of the lodge; stating his belief that there were but few lodges even in England, that were either worked in a more able manner or maintained such a position, or had proved themselves more worthy of a conspicuous place in the records of the Craft than the Pacific Lodge, Hokitika, and more particularly so when the large amount of money spent during the past twelve months, in that most laudable of all Masonic purposes, charity, was taken into consideration, for he was pleased to notice that that great virtue had been exercised even beyond the Craft, viz., in giving subscriptions to the hospitals, and other cases of public distress.

After the lodge was closed, the brethren adjourned to the Empire Hotel, and partook of a sumptuous banquet; about 60 brethren sat down to table. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, many excellent speeches relating to the advancement of the time honoured Craft were made, and occasion was taken by Bro. P.M. Bevan, and Bro. J. P. Klem to refer to the very fraternal reception recently accorded them by the Masons of Nelson whilst on a visit there, and when the toast was given "Success to the Southern Star Lodge of Nelson," it was received in a most enthusiastic manner, and drank in bumpers.

After the last and sacred toast was given, the brethren separated, feeling that they had once more strengthened that fraternal bond of union which is at once the glory and cape stone of that ancient and honourable institution—Freemasonry.

It is a pleasant fact to have to record that, notwithstanding the very praiseworthy example recently set by the Great City Lodge of London, respecting banquets, the Pacific Lodge adopted many years ago the plan of not allowing the lodge funds to be used for convivial purposes, as it was then, and is still, considered totally at variance with the intent and teachings of the sacred cause of Masonry. The result has in every way proved a success, for the brethren are no less warm in their fraternal greetings, nor is the lodge less well attended, but otherwise; and last, though not least, its best desires never languish for want of funds when the practical test is required to be applied.

FREEMASONRY IN SOUTH AFRICA.

CARE OF GOOD HOPE.—The installation of the recently elected W.M., and the investiture of the officers of the Lodge of Good Hope, No. 833, took place at the lodge. There was a large attendance of brethren upon the occasion, and everything passed off very satisfactorily. Bro. C. T. Wheelwright, I.P.M., was the Installing Master, and performed the interesting ceremony in a highly creditable manner. He was assisted by Bro. S. Bain, P.M., and Bro. J. Bell, W.M., and there were also present during the evening P.M. Bros. J. C. Kemsley, E. Tonks, and Nettleton. The following now constitute the officials of the lodge—Bro. E. R. Smyth, W.M., Secretary; Bro. G. Madge, S.W.; S. Alabaster, J.W.; Bro. W. Phillips, Treasurer; Bro. C. R. Whinfield, Secretary; Bro. Miller, S.D.; Bro. Proctor, J.D.; Bros. Holmes and Probert, Stewards; Bro. Jas. Grubb, I.G.; Bro. Morley, O.G. Due honours having been paid to the newly-installed Master, and the lodge closed, the brethren adjourned to the banquetting room, where an excellent repast had been most tastefully laid out by Mr. Fox, of the Club. To this full justice was done. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were then given, immediately following, which Bro. Wheelwright proposed, the health of the newly-installed W.M. In doing so he spoke in highly eulogistic terms of the enthusiasm which Bro. Smyth had always displayed in regard to Freemasonry, and referred to the many services he had rendered to the Craft. The toast was well received, and neatly responded to. Other complimentary toasts followed, which being interspersed with songs, a very enjoyable evening was spent by all present, and throughout the greatest harmony characterised the proceedings.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF WORCESTERSHIRE.

The annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of Freemasons for the Province of Worcestershire was held on the 23rd ult., in the Corn Exchange, Stourbridge, and a very numerous gathering of brethren took place. A Master Masons' Lodge was opened by Bro. R. Broomhall, W.M., Lodge Stability, 564, and shortly afterwards the Provincial Grand Master, the Right Worshipful Bro. Albert Hudson Royds, and the officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge entered the lodge room in procession. The P.G.M. having taken the chair was greeted with the usual honours, and then proceeded to open the Provincial Grand Lodge in due form.

The minutes of the Prov. Grand Lodge, held at Kidderminster, on Tuesday, the 24th of June, and of the special meeting at Worcester, on Wednesday, the 8th of April, were respectively read and confirmed.

The Prov. Grand Secretary next called the muster roll, when it was found that every lodge in the province was represented except the St. Michael's Lodge, 1097.

The Prov. Grand Treasurer's accounts having been duly audited, the balance declared was ordered to be recorded on the minutes.

Wor. Bro. Masefield, Deputy Prov. Grand Master, and Bro. Richard Smith, P.P.S.G.W., then moved that Bro. C. C. Whitney Griffiths, P.M. of the Worcester Lodge, 280, and P.P.S.G.W., be re-elected Prov. Grand Treasurer for the ensuing year. The motion was carried unanimously.

The P.G.M. then appointed his officers for the ensuing year as follows:—

- J. Rutland Prov. G.S.W.
- W. H. Westwood Prov. G.J.W.
- Rev. W. R. Cosens Prov. G. Chaplain.
- H. G. Goldingham Prov. G. Registrar.
- C. C. Whitney Griffiths ... Prov. G. Treas.
- W. Bristow Prov. G. Sec.
- G. Grosvenor Prov. G. S.D.
- E. T. Wright Prov. G. J.D.
- R. Broomhall Prov. G. S. of W.
- J. Stokes Prov. G. Dir. of C.
- A. A. Sylvester Prov. G. A.D.C.
- G. T. Bloomer Prov. G. S.B.
- T. Troman Prov. G. Organist.
- E. A. Broome Prov. G. Purst.
- C. Williams, T. Fisher, J. Foley, J. T. Thompson, C. Blunsome, and F. Perks ... Prov. G. Stwds.
- J. Stanley Prov. G. Tyler.

At this stage of the proceedings Bro. Goldingham, by desire of the Prov. Grand Master, advanced to the dais, and the P.G.M., in complimentary terms, referred to the handsome and hospitable reception and entertainment accorded to the Freemasons of the Province by Bro. Goldingham, as Mayor of Worcester, on the occasion of the re-opening of Worcester Cathedral in April last. The P.G.M. expressed the great pleasure he felt in appointing Bro. Goldingham to the office of Prov. Grand Registrar, and at the same time of presenting him with a Grand Registrar's gold jewel, in recognition of his Masonic spirit as displayed on the occasion referred to. The jewel bore the following inscription:—"Presented on the 23rd June, 1874, by the Provincial Grand Lodge of Worcestershire to Bro. Goldingham as a souvenir of the 8th April, 1864, when, as Mayor of the 'Faithful City,' he kindly entertained the Provincial Grand Lodge on the re-opening of Worcester Cathedral."

The presentation of the jewel gave marked satisfaction to all present, and Bro. Goldingham suitably acknowledged the receipt of it.

The Prov. Grand Master intimated that since the meeting at Worcester, in April, he had thought proper to order a brass plate referring to the Masonic window in the north transept of the Worcester Cathedral, and this plate had, with the concurrence of the Dean, been placed on the wall in a suitable position below the Masonic window. It bore an inscription which recorded the circumstances connected with the presentation of the window.

Bro. Johnson, W.M. 259, then on behalf of his lodge extended an invitation to the Prov. Grand Lodge to hold their next meeting, in June, 1875, at Worcester. The invitation was accepted.

With respect to the handsome collection made at the church, one moiety of the sum was voted to the St. Thomas's National Schools, and the other moiety to the Old Swinford Church Schools.

The Prov. Grand Lodge was then closed in due form, and according to immemorial custom.

On leaving the Grand Lodge the brethren formed in procession, and went to the parish church of St. Thomas, where a sermon of striking ability, power, and appropriateness was preached by the Rev. Dr. Cosens, Vicar of Dudley, the Prov. Grand Chaplain, from 1st Gen. Ep. of John, iv. 21—"And this commandment have we from Him that he who loveth God loves his brother also."

The brethren, on leaving the church, repaired to the Talbot Hotel, where a banquet was admirably served, over which the Prov. Grand Master presided, the vice-chairs being filled by Bros. Rutland and Westwood.

The Prov. Grand Master, after the banquet, gave the following toasts:—"The Queen and the Craft;" "The Prince and Princess of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family;" "The Most Honourable the Marquess of Ripon, Worshipful Grand Master of England;" "The Right Honourable the Earl of Carnarvon, Right Worshipful Deputy Grand Master of England, and the Officers of Grand Lodge, present and past."

Bro. C. C. Whitney Griffiths gave "The Right Worshipful Bro. Albert Hudson Royds, Provincial Grand Master of Worcestershire," whose zeal he fittingly eulogised.

The P.G.M. appropriately responded.

The remaining toasts were—"The Worshipful Bro. William Masefield, Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Worcestershire, and the other Officers of Provincial Grand Lodge, present and past;" "The Worshipful Masters of the Lodges in the Province;" "The Visitors;" "The Provincial Grand Stewards;" and "The Tyler's Toast."

During the evening admirable songs were sung by Bros. J. Gutteridge, G. P. Priddy and others, who were accompanied on the pianoforte by Bro. Troman with consummate skill.

Ancient and Accepted Rite.

BOLTON.—St. Peter's Chapter Rose Croix.—The annual meeting of this young and flourishing chapter was held on Saturday, 20th June, at Freemasons' Hall, Bolton. The chapter was opened by S. P. Entwisle, M.W.S., assisted by his officers. After the minutes were read and confirmed, and the ballot taken for several candidates, the M.W.S. announced the next business was the installation of the M.W.S. elect, Ill. Bro. C. E. Matier, 30°, for which purpose he requested Ill. Bro. C. J. Barnsted, 33°, to take the chair. That Ill. brother, who is now Deputy Inspector for the Northern Counties, having been saluted in due form, then assumed the throne, and Ill. Bro. Matier was presented by Ill. Bro. G. P. Brockbank, 31°, and Thos. Entwisle, 18°, Past M.W.S. Ill. Bro. Bannister, 33°, with all the customary solemnity, then installed Bro. Matier in the supreme chair of the chapter, and in a most impressive manner delivered the charges to the newly installed Sovereign, and the brethren. Bro. Matier appointed the following as his officers for the ensuing year: Dr. J. D. Moore, 31°, First Gen.; Robert Harwood, 18°, Second Gen.; Rev. E. J. Rollag, 30°, Prelate; Rev. Philip Hains, 18°, Asst. Prelate; J. Martin Rutter, 18°, Grand Marshal; J. Taylor, 18°, Raphael; Thos. Morris, 18°, Recorder; G. B. Brockbank, 31°, Treasurer; Reginald Young, 18°, Herald; J. E. Hall, 18°, C. of G.; T. Wilson, 18°, D.C.; and Walker, serving Bro., Equerry. Bro. Matier then presented to Bro. Entwisle the very handsome jewel which had been unanimously voted for his services as M.W.S., and thanked him for his great services to the chapter, whose prospects had been greatly owing to Bro. Entwisle.

Past M.W.S. thanked the brethren for their honour of the jewel, and assured them that whether in or out of office he would always esteem it a high privilege to be able to assist the M.W.S. in the discharge of his high and important trust. A unanimous vote of thanks was tendered to Ill. Bro. C. J. Bannister, 33°, for his kindness in undertaking a long journey purposely to instal the M.W.S. There being no further business before the meeting, the chapter was closed in ancient form with solemn prayer. The brethren then adjourned to the refectory, where a sumptuous banquet awaited them, to which ample justice was done. After the cloth was drawn, the customary toasts were proposed by Bro. Matier, who presided, and a special honour was paid to the 33°, and the representative Bro. Bannister, Deputy Ins. Gen. The next toast was "The Health of the M.W.S. Bro. Matier" and was proposed most eloquently by Illus. Bro. Bannister, who congratulated the chapter on having obtained the services of a zealous and accomplished a Mason, who was eminently distinguished for his thorough knowledge of ceremonial and ritual, and who had been rewarded by high honours in other degrees in which he took an interest. On rising to respond Bro. Matier was received with cordial warmth and applause by the brethren. He said, let me thank you sincerely, illustrious and excellent brethren, for that continued kindness on your part, which to night has reached its culmination point, in placing me in the chair of Most Wise Sovereign, and let me ask you to extend to me during my year of office, that same indulgence and support that my illustrious predecessors in the chair have received from your hands. There is but one way by which we can ensure the prosperity of the chapter, and that is by unity of thought and purpose, and I am perfectly certain that with the assistance and advice of our Past Sovereign, and that support which I now beg to speak from you individually and collectively I shall at the termination of my period of office be able to hand over the warrant to my successor with no decrease of that splendour in our processes. By the earnest attention of my officers to our beautiful ritual, we shall be able to retain in our chapter that proud distinction it already bears, of being second to none in the northern counties of England, and I can assure you, on my own part, nothing shall be left undone promoting the harmony and prosperity of the chapter. I thank you all, and especially a good Bro. Bannister, who in this Order fills the place of Provincial Grand Master, and I travelled some distance to install me, for which kindness I am not ungrateful. Brethren, I beg you to drink to "the continued success of the chapter." "The Health of the Past M. Sov." was then enthusiastically received, and responded to by Bro. Thomas Entwisle. Other toasts followed, and the brethren separated at an early hour. Besides those brethren already mentioned we observed S. P. Clarke, Shop W. C. Gilles, Longman, Phillips, Chapl. Lancaster; Wood, Liverpool; and many others.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—A genuine remedy possessed by Holloway's Ointment and Pills, is that no skill or experience is required in its successful administration. Its efficacy is so manifestly necessary for using them in self-medication, that it is unnecessary to understand the plain and logical instructions accompanying each box and pot. For the relief of all internal or external diseases, Holloway's Ointment and Pills are the most powerful and most successful remedies that ever existed. They are sold in every town and village, and are to be had of the Proprietors, 53, Abchurch Lane, London, E.C. 4. Sole Proprietors, Holloway's Ointment and Pills, 53, Abchurch Lane, London, E.C. 4.

Masonic Tidings.

The Quarterly Convocation of the Metropolitan College of the Rosicrucian Society will be held at the Royal Masonic Hall, 68, Regent-street, on Thursday, 9th inst., at 5.30. A paper on Rosicrucian Vitality will be read by Frater Kenneth R. H. Mackenzie.

French Freemasonry has lost one of its most active members in the person of A. Perriot, for 32 years Master and member of the Lodge of Sincerity, Perfect Union, and Constant Friendship, Orient de Besançon, His funeral was largely attended by his brethren and fellow citizens.

The Earl of Dalhousie, M.W.P.G. Master for Scotland, is reported to be seriously ill. Shortly after returning to Brechin Castle from the Bridge of Dun, where he had been to see the Queen, on her way south, his lordship was seized with a bilious attack of a nature from which his lordship had never previously suffered. The symptoms, having lasted over Wednesday and Thursday, grew so alarming on Friday that Dr. Watson was telegraphed for from Edinburgh, and he arrived on Saturday.

BRO. HUGHAN'S CHALLENGE.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I am highly pleased to see that the brethren who have recently, in The Freemason, (and in Masonic papers abroad) made statements respecting the existence of degrees beyond the "third" and of rituals of the Craft, prior to the last century, are now challenged by so competent a brother as your correspondent, William James Hughan, to prove their assertions, and I hope that after the friendly discussion, your able contributors, Bros. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, M.A., J. Findel, D. Murray, Lyon, Dr. Albert B. Mackay, S. Hertzfeld, Clifford, McCallor, Jacob Norton, W. E. Buchan, Charles E. Meyer, and other Masonic Students will give their opinions on the points in dispute, so that the readers of The Freemason may be informed as to the general views held at the present time by well informed Masons, and as in duty bound the writer will ever pray, &c.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR. Image of a bottle of Crosby's Balsamic Cough Elixir with text: OROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy. SELECT TESTIMONIAL. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease." This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsey, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 12s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough. Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had Gratis of all Chemists.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

STONEHOUSE.—Lodge Sincerity (No. 189).—The annual meeting of this lodge was held on Wednesday, the 2nd ult., at the Masonic Rooms, St. George's Hall, Stonehouse; and Bro. J. E. Curteis, the W.M. elect, was duly installed in ancient form. Sincerity Lodge is one of the most prominent and popular lodges of the Order in the Province. This, combined with the circumstance that the brother about to be installed was widely known, and much respected in the Masonic world outside his own lodge, caused a very large gathering of the brethren. The number of officers present also largely exceeded that of those present at any previous meeting of a private lodge in the Province, except on very rare occasions. The installation was conducted by V.W. Bro. R. R. Rodd, P.P.G. Regis., P.G.S.W., assisted by V.W. Bros. J. Sadler, P.P.G.S.B.; and R. H. Rae, P.P.G.S.D.; and supported by a numerous board of Installed Masters. At the close of the installation, the W.M. appointed the following brethren his officers:—I.P.M., I. Latimer; S.W., A. Latimer; J.W., W. Howe; Chap., the Rev. W. A. Sales; Treas., T. S. Bayly; Sec. R. H. Rae; D., J. E. Moon; J.D., the Rev. T. W. Lemon. G., W. Tester; D.C. Jno. Sadler, P.G.S.B.; T. W. Hussey, J. Fouracre, and Croydton, Stewards. The W.M., in thanking the brethren for the honour they had done him, said he had reason to feel very proud with so many officers of the Grand Lodge of England, and forty P.M.'s present at his installation. No similar circumstance had occurred in that lodge since the installation of the Earl of Mount Edgecumbe, several years ago, into the chair which he now had the honour to fill. After the close of the meeting, the brethren adjourned to refreshment, sat down to an excellent collation, provided in the adjoining room. In the speeches that followed afterwards given, the D.P.G.M. announced that the P.G.M., the Rev. J. Huyshe, with his ardent zeal for Masonry, had gone to London, despite medical admonition, in order to assist in arranging for the coming visit of the P.G.M., his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, to the district. The D.P.G.M. also made an eloquent appeal on behalf of the fund now raising for the Royal British Female Asylum at Stoke. It was, he said, to assist in adding accommodation for 100 more brethren to that excellent institution. That extension would be a benefit to many hundreds of brethren long after he was dead and forgotten; and he felt the importance of such a charity, and would urge its claims with all his powers of persuasion. England, without her navy, must become a prey to other nations; and from the ablest capitalist to the most wealthy peasant all owed a debt of gratitude for the protection of their property to their soldiers and sailors. The orphans of their protectors had a pressing claim upon their benevolence. He had much pleasure in stating that the newly-installed W.M. had made himself a life Governor of the Orphan Asylum by contributing ten guineas.

WORCESTER.—Worcester Lodge (No. 280).—It has for many years been customary for the members of the Worcester Lodge, 280, and their guests to celebrate the Festival of St. John the Baptist at their lodge in the city, but last year the then Worshipful Master introduced an agreeable change, and the celebration took place at Holt. This year the present W.M. having had the Moss Green Shrubbery at Pall Court, placed at his disposal, summoned his brethren to meet in lodge at the Bell Hotel on Tuesday, and to proceed thence in the steamer Perseverance to Pull Court. A very numerous party responded. The brethren assembled in lodge at 11 o'clock, when it was announced that communications had been received from the Provincial Grand Master (the Right Wor. Bro. Albert Hudson Roysds), the Deputy P.G.M. (Wor. Bro. Masefield), the P.G. Sec. (Wor. Bro. W. Bristow), Bro. W. E. Dowdeswell, P.M., Bro. Sir. Edmund Lechmere, Bart., the W.Ms. of the Stourbridge and Kidderminster Lodges, and from Bro. Dr. Roden (Mayor of Droitwich), and others, who had striven to be present, but were prevented from attending. The regular business of the Lodge having been transacted, Wor. Bro. A. A. Sylvester, the W.M., on behalf of the Lodge, presented to Bro. Goldingham, J.G. Registrar of the Province, a copy of a resolution (illuminated on vellum and mounted in a gilt Oxford frame) setting forth the appreciation entertained by his brethren of the great hospitality displayed by him on the occasion of the re-opening of the Worcester Cathedral, when, as Mayor of the city, he entertained upwards of 250 Freemasons, having liberally issued invitations to the whole of the brethren resident in the Province of Worcestershire. The W.M. referred to the Masonic spirit thus displayed towards the members of the Craft, and congratulated Bro. Goldingham on the feeling entertained towards him, as evinced in the resolution which was presented as a memento of his liberality, and as illustrated also in a still higher degree by his recent elevation to a distinguished position in the Provincial Grand Lodge. Bro. Goldingham, in accepting the resolution, appropriately acknowledged the fraternal sentiments which had been expressed. The brethren then repaired to the steamer Perseverance, which left the Worcester Bridge shortly before twelve o'clock. After a most delightful trip down the river, Pull Court was reached at half-past two o'clock, and the party proceeded to the Moss Green Shrubbery, where, through the enterprise of Mr. W. E. Webb, of the Bell Hotel, a superb banquet awaited them. Mr. Webb had signified a desire that, as this would probably be the last banquet he should serve prior to his quitting the Bell Hotel, it should represent his intention to do honour to the lodge, and everyone present has reason to be satisfied that this determination was most admirably fulfilled. At the close of refection, the W.M. gave in succession "The Queen, their Royal Highnesses the Prince of Wales, Prince Alfred, and Prince Leopold;" "The Grand Lodge of England, its M.W. Grand Master and Officers; the Grand Lodge of Worcester; the R.W. Grand Master, Bro. A. H. Roysds, and officers;" all of which toasts were received with enthusiasm, and the last was responded to by P.P.S.G. Warden, Bro. Richard Smith. The next toast, that of "The W.M.," Bro. A. A. Sylvester, was proposed by the I.P.M., Bro. Griffiths, who spoke of the efforts of the W.M. in extending the clat of the Worcester Lodge; and incidentally expressed thanks to Mr. Dowdeswell for having given the Lodge and their friends the privilege of enjoying that delightful retreat, surrounded by so much that was "ever charming, ever new," and in sight of one of those grand creations of our forefathers (the Abbey, at Tewkesbury), who were members doubtless of one of those ancient guilds we perpetuate. The W.M. responded, and proposed "The Visitors," which was duly acknowledged. The toast of "The Past Masters," "Treasurer and Secretary," "The Working Officers," and "The health of Mr. W. Dowdeswell, and Bro. W. E. Dowdeswell, M.P.," brought the list to its close; the pleasure of the evening being enlivened by the musical performances of the Organist, Bro. Randal Buck, and the songs of some of the brethren. After a brief ramble in the grounds, the brethren were recalled to the steamer, in which they returned to the "Faithful City" about ten o'clock, after a most enjoyable day.

LIVERPOOL.—Mariners' Lodge (No. 249).—The annual installation meeting of this numerous and influential lodge was held at the New Masonic Hall, Hope-street, on Thursday, the 2nd inst., and was very largely attended. The lodge was opened at three o'clock by Bro. J. J. Rose, W.M., and amongst the principals of the lodge present were Bros. James Hamer, P.P. G. Treas., P.M.; W. Crane, P.M.; H. Pearson, P.M.; J. Hayes, J.W.; J. Kellett Smith, P.M.; Treas.; H. P. Price, S.D.; W. Hamilton, J.D., H. W. Nicholas, I.G.; W. G. Veale, Org.; W. Foster, S.; J. Gordon, S.; and W. H. Ball, Tyler. After the lodge had been opened, the minutes of the previous regular meeting and "emergency" were read and confirmed, when the ballot was taken for four gentlemen proposed for initiation, and the result showed that they were duly elected. The ballot was also taken for Bro. E. J. Coe, of Scotia Lodge, No. 340, Barbadoes, as a joining member, which also proved unanimous. Bro. James Hamer, P.P.G. Treas., and P.M. of the "Mariners," then took the chair, and proceeded to instal Bro. John Hayes, as the W.M. of the lodge, the presentation being made by Bros. Dr. J. K. Smith, P.M., Treas.; and Bro. H. Pearson, P.M. After the charges had been given the brethren retired. A P.M.'s lodge was constituted, and on the re-admission of the brethren the newly-chaired W.M. was saluted in the usual way, the addresses in the subsequent part of the ceremony being given by Bro. Hamer, assisted by Bro. D. Smith. The W.M. appointed the following as his officers:—Bros. H. H. P. Price, S.W.; R. R. Martin, J. W.; Rev. P. Hains, Chaplain; J. J. Rose, I.P.M.; Dr. J. Kellett Smith, P.M.; Treas.; Collins (re-appointed), Sec.; W. Hamilton, S.D.; W. Foster, J.D.; W. G. Veale, Org.; J. C. Robinson, I.G.; H. Pearson, P.M., M.C.; W. Garlick, S.S.; J. Wood, J.S.; and W. H. Ball, (re-elected) Tyler; Messrs. Harold, Jones, Wainwright and Williams being in attendance, were initiated by the newly installed W.M. in a most impressive and effective manner. It was resolved to have the usual annual picnic, and a committee was appointed to carry out the arrangements. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren, numbering upwards of 100, proceeded to the dining hall, where an excellent banquet was served, under the presidency of Bro. Hayes, W.M. The great bulk of the usual toasts were given by the W.M., and the principal respondees were Bros. Skeaf, Doyle, Smith, Hains, &c. Excellent songs were given by Bros. Nicholas, Coe, Washington, Dawson, A. Ellis, H. Ashmore, and Veale, the last named presiding at the harmonium.

BRADFORD.—Lodge of Hope (No. 302).—The ordinary monthly meeting of this lodge was held in the Masonic Hall, Godwin-street, on Monday, the 29th ult. There was little business to transact beyond an application for assistance from an old and respected brother, who had been visited by sad affliction. His circumstances being made known, in his absence, the brethren at once unanimously directed everything to be done that might be found necessary. The W.M., Bro. B. Broughton, on the close of lodge business invited all the brethren to the banquetting room, where a sumptuous repast was prepared for them. The W.M., presiding, was supported on his right by Bros. M. Rogerson, P.M., P. Prov. G.W.; W. Mawson, P.M., P. Prov. G.S. of W.; W. Ibbotson, P.M., P. Prov. G.S. of W.; A. M. Matthews, P.M.; C. Pratt, P.M., P. Prov. G.S. of W.; J. D. Sugden, P.M., P. Prov. G. Forst; W. W. Barlow, P.M.; W. Bealand, P.M.; and on his left by Bros. Rev. J. Vaile, Chaplain, M. Rhodes, P.M., P. Prov. G.W. (Mayor of Bradford); Thomas Hill, P.M., P. Prov. G.W.; J. J. Schaepp, P.M., P. Prov. G.D.; C. H. Taylor, P.M., P. Prov. G.D.; H. O. Mawson, P.M.; George Richardson, P.M.; J. C. Taylor, P.M. Scientific, 439;

Thomas Rousby, Kingston, 311; H. Farrar, S.W.; M. S. Rhodes, J.W.; J. Clark, Treas.; C. Gott, Sec.; T. G. Andrews, Ast. Sec.; James Ambler, S.D.; A. Robertshaw, J.D.; T. Pettinger, J.G.; George Beanland, O.G. The W.M. proposed the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, which were duly honoured, after which Bro. Broughton, W.M., rose and said—We now proceed to the performance of the pleasing duty of doing honour to our old and esteemed Bro. P. M. Rogerson, by the presentation of the testimonial which has been subscribed for by brethren of the Craft, irrespective of the lodges to which they belong, as a token of the regard in which he is held. I have personally known Bro. Rogerson many years, though not so long as some of you, and perhaps many of you, but I am able to say that he is a good and worthy Mason in the truest sense of the word, and that by his honourable and upright conduct through life he has gained for himself what is of more value than silver and gold, namely, a good name and the respect and esteem of not only his brother Masons, but also of his fellow citizens generally, and of all with whom he has been brought in contact in the intercourse of daily life. As I am not about to take upon myself as the W.M. of this lodge, the pleasing duty of making the presentation, it may be proper that I should say a few words in explanation why such is not the case. When it was proposed that I should undertake this duty, I suggested that as the subscribers to the testimonial were not exclusively members of the lodge of Hope, but included also brethren of other lodges in the town, it might be more acceptable to them, as well as to Bro. Rogerson, that the presentation should be made by the hands of one who is perhaps his oldest personal friend, who is also an old P.M., and of the highest rank as a Provincial Officer of West Yorkshire, and although the testimonial is one of a purely Masonic character, the fact of the gentleman referred to being also the chief magistrate of the town, would not, I thought, lessen the importance and the interest of the presentation. For these reasons the duty has been delegated to our worthy Bro. P.M. Manoh Rhodes, and I have now the pleasure of calling upon him to offer, in the name of the subscribers, for Bro. Rogerson's acceptance, the beautiful testimonial now standing before me. The piece of plate consisted of a splendid solid silver salver, selected from the stock of Messrs. Rhodes & Sons, silversmiths, Bradford, at a cost of £90, and bore the following inscription:— Presented to Bro. Michael Rogerson, P.M. 302, Bradford, and P. Prov. S.G.D., of West Yorkshire, as an expression of the respect and esteem of the members of The Antient and Honourable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons of England, on the occasion of his leaving Bradford, and as a recognition of his valuable services as a member of the Craft, during a period of thirty years. Bradford, 29th June, 1874." The address was most beautifully and artistically illuminated by Messrs. Armitage, and Ibbetson, lithographers, Bradford, and elegantly framed by Mr. J. Harland of Bradford, and was as follows:—
 "To Bro. Michael Rogerson, P.M. 302 Bradford, and P. Prov. S.G.D. of West Yorkshire—We, the undersigned members of the Ancient and Honourable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons of England, having learned with feelings of regret of your intended removal from Bradford, and being desirous of expressing our sense of your worth as a man and a Mason, have much pleasure in requesting your acceptance of this testimonial and accompanying piece of plate, as a token of our fraternal regard, and of the sincere respect and esteem in which you are held by the members of the Craft, and also a recognition of the valuable services you have rendered in the cause of Freemasonry during the thirty years of your association with the fraternity. Be assured that you carry with you to your new home our united best wishes for your welfare, and that of your family; and that we earnestly pray that the Great Architect of the Universe may bless you with a continuance of peace, happiness, and prosperity.—Yours faithfully and fraternally." Here follow the signatures of 18 Provincial and P.P. Grand Officers, 16 W.

Ms. and P.Ms. and 39 other Brethren. Bro. M. Rhodes, P.M., P.P.G.W. (Mayor of Bradford), being called upon by the W.M., said: "Worshipful Sir, Officers, and Brethren, I could wish to imitate another brother, and excuse myself from attempting a speech, but I cannot hesitate to comply with your wishes. It was decided at a meeting of subscribers that I should be requested to make the presentation this evening to Bro. Rogerson, P.M., and it affords me much pleasure to do so. I am one of his oldest friends, it being some 40 years that we have had the advantage of each other's friendship. I have known him in boyhood, and now in declining years, and although we are getting into the sere and yellow leaf, neither of us is so far gone but we know how to appreciate your kindness, and I trust to act the part of brethren and Freemasons. One reason probably which influenced you in selecting me was from my holding the high and honourable position of Chief Magistrate of this Borough, and if I, as Mayor, can do anything to assist in giving éclat to the presentation, I feel that I am not stepping out of my proper course in doing it. Bro. Rogerson is a man all respect, honourable, just, and straightforward in all his dealings, and in this way has he come to be respected by all who know him. This presentation we are making him, however, is strictly confined to the Craft, and notwithstanding my position as Mayor, I am addressing you as a Mason. You have seen how he has acted in the lodge during his long membership, always aiding by his fatherly advice when called upon, and whenever needed, endeavouring to throw oil on the troubled waters, and to bring about that feeling of brotherly love and affection which should ever characterise the proceedings of a Freemason's lodge. Now he is intending to take matters a little easier, I believe partly on account of his wife, and I commend him for it. There is nothing a man can do better than endeavour to increase the happiness of her who has shared his cares and joys through life. I am sure, Bro. Rogerson, you will highly value this beautifully illuminated address, and this splendid piece of plate, and that your family also will greatly prize them. I have very great pleasure, on behalf of the subscribers, to request your acceptance of them, and to express the hope that you will long live to have the satisfaction of looking on them, with every wish of the brethren for a long life, and that your dear wife may be preserved to you, that you may both survive to a good old age, and that in the eventide of life these beautiful emblems of the love and esteem of your brethren towards you may prove some solace. Bro. F. C. Atkinson, Mus. Bac. Cantab., here played on the grand piano that most thrilling and favourite air "Auld Lang Syne." Bro. M. Rogerson, P.M., P.P.G.W., on rising to respond, said Bro. W.M., P.Ms., officers and brethren, I beg you to accept my most heartfelt acknowledgments for the way in which Bro. Rhodes, P.M., has proposed, and you, brethren, have responded to the toast. The presentation you have made this evening I receive with feelings more easily imagined than expressed. It has been said that "out of the fulness of the heart the mouth speaketh," but I never felt more than now the want of command of speech; and yet my heart is full enough. I feel much having to change my residence, but, unfortunately, it has been caused by the failing health of my dear wife. Many good friends I have had, and shall regret parting with them, and none more than my Masonic friends. Bro. C. H. Taylor, P.M., has long been the medical adviser of my family, and he recommended a residence in the country. He was good enough to go with me in search of a suitable house, and we found one at Boston Spa; to my surprise its appellation was "Hope Villa." Now, I have thought, in years gone by, that if I did leave and go into the country, I should name my residence "Darley Villa." It is a favourite name; my grandmother was a Darley, but Darley-street, for forty years, my place of business, is not named after my ancestors, but after Darley in Lancashire, one of the seats of my respected landlord, the late Benjamin Rawson, Esq., Lord of the Manor of Bradford. My good old house, has comfortably sheltered my family for 22 years, and I had a death in it, and naturally I much attached to it and all its surroundings the view across the valley to Airedale Peel Park, &c. Indeed the neighbourhood prospect was very good. Certainly there has been considerable alterations during the years, and recently they have built a new school on the old site, but I liked the old best; and speaking of scenery, I can say that of all I have seen nothing equals that of Darley-street. Where I have removed to a lovely country, which I intend to call on my pony. The other day I went to Walton, a very antique village, whose houses remind me of the picture given in the Illustrated London News of Coomassie. I trust to this, and to revert to, what should be uppermost in my thoughts, your goodness and generosity, which almost overcame me. I had not the slightest idea of the so beautifully expressed, tastefully illuminated and handsomely framed; it will be more by me than any picture I possess. The piece of plate is magnificent, the only drawback my safe is two inches too small to hold it. I feel quite at a loss to adequately thank you for these splendid gifts at least I feel that I have endeavoured to fulfil my duty as a Freemason, and I accept these noble presents at your hands, as a proof of your goodness and opinions you have entertained of my exertions for the advancement of the welfare of our good old Lodge of Hope, and fraternal towards me, and so long as I live the recollection of your kindness and regard towards me will ever most lively. It has been my privilege the last 30 years to belong to this lodge, and I trust that peace, prosperity and harmony will ever attend it. I am perhaps the oldest member, and no one can have a greater love for it. I again thank you for these tokens of your friendship towards me, with fraternal regard for this and all kindnesses shown to me, I wish to drink to the health, happiness and prosperity of every member of Bro. Rogerson, resumed his seat amid long continued applause. Bro. Dr. Taylor, P.P.G.D., rose and said: W.M., Officers, and brethren, I feel very much obliged to you, W. Sir, for giving me an opportunity of taking some little part in the proceedings of this evening. The pleasing duty you have allotted to me is to propose "The health and happiness of Bro. Rogerson, his Wife and Family." The knowledge that this is not a farewell leave taking adds to our pleasure. Although Bro. Rogerson is retiring from business to leave, and I trust, enjoy him in his beautiful country house, yet he will be found amongst his own friends in Bradford; as well know his love and attachment to his old Lodge of Hope, I feel sure I shall see him as often as he can make it convenient. Bro. Taylor, P.M. after some further remarks and allusions to Mrs. Rogerson and called upon the Brethren to drink to the health of Bro. Rogerson, P.M., in response to the toast, said he did not intend having to rise again, but he must thank Dr. Taylor, P.M., for his kindness and wishes towards his wife and family, and much reason to thank God he had a great measure of good health, and he trusted the brethren for their reception of it and he did this most cordially and heartily in his retirement should ever entertain a lively recollection of them. Before he resumed his seat, he would take the liberty of saying to them the health of Bro. Broughton, who I am sure will govern this lodge in the same harmonious manner as it has been for years preceding. I have done what I can to assist him, and cannot sufficiently express my kind feelings towards him, but call on him heartily to his good health. Bro. Taylor, W.M., on rising to respond, said: "I am gratified that we should not follow the routine of toasts this evening, it is an honour to be called upon to thank you for the hearty reception of this toast, and I compliment the greater by it proposed by Bro. P. M. M."

ou that it has always been my desire to see the greatest harmony and union prevail in the lodge, and whilst I endeavour to conduct its business with the firmness necessary for the maintenance of proper discipline, I hope that by a courteous demeanour towards all my brethren, I shall always have their support and good opinion; and trust that when I retire from this chair, I shall be able to hand down the badge of my office as tarnished as I received it from my predecessor. I will not now trespass further upon your time, but may say that there is one other toast which should wish to propose, or some brother to propose for me, but before doing so I will call upon Bro. P. M. Robt. Richardson for a little harmony. Bro. Richardson having favoured the brethren with a song, rendered with that ability and good taste for which he is proverbial, Bro. W.M. again rose and said, the toast to which alluded is one which is always received in this and other lodges, with the greatest cordiality and welcome—I mean "The Visiting Brethren," although it is a toast usually given from the air, I trust that in placing it in the hands of the whose voice we are always glad to hear, the visiting brethren will feel that we are not guilty of any disrespect, but will accept it as coming from the chair. The brother I shall call upon to propose this toast is, Bro. McGowen, Town Clerk, and we will fancy for the moment that he is occupying the position of W.M. of the Lodge of Hope. Bro. McGowen, on rising and saying, W.M., you are a most skilful president, I know how, when you call on a man to do it for you, to make him shake in his boots, and by way of encouragement, lead everybody to expect more than he can possibly perform. However we must all obey you as best we can. I was very much struck indeed by the genealogical description of Bro. Rogerson, P.M., when he said he was a descendant of the Darleys, on the other side, and entered so fully into the merits of that distinguished race. Now I am a descendant of a more eminent and widely spread family, and I claim allies in nearly every household. The first recollection I have of anything that of being called by the name of "Darling!" I doubt not this was an old family name. Many brothers present may have noticed how extensively the name is used, especially on the paternal side; the name was never disagreeable, indeed, there was a period of my life when it was very pleasant—when it was uttered by a young and charming friend in muslin. There is scarcely a brother here this evening who has not heard himself similarly addressed, in some green lane, or shady nook, with a fond maiden clinging on his arm. I feel justified, then, in saying, that however ancient and honourable the family of the Darleys may be, they are fairly eclipsed by the genealogical connections to which we can all refer. The allusion of Bro. Rogerson, to the inadequacy of his safe for holding the presentation plate was very distressing. He reminded me of the picture of the Vicar of Wakefield, very beautiful but too large to get it of the room door. We may however offer Bro. Rogerson comfort, from the chalk writing on the street walls, "Who is Griffiths," and he reply that "The only safe man is Griffiths." Let us take it to heart that, suppose he is the only safe man, the plate may yet be secure. There was one other remark of Bro. Rogerson's which touched me much, and that was the statement that his love for his dear wife was greater than ever, that the silken bonds had grown so strong that he would forsake friends, money, business, everything, aye Darley-street, so, for that dear lady. Well, it is pleasant, seriously speaking, to find that at last there has come a day when an active industrious man like Bro. Rogerson can retire from the cares of business. But you will say what has all this to do with the toast I have proposed. It has a great deal to do with it, for I am sure the visiting brethren will have been delighted to hear such interesting particulars respecting the genealogical descent and domestic relations of their friends. May they attain similar relations, and therefore call upon you to drink the healths of Bro. J. C. Taylor, P.M. Scientific, 439; Thos. Senior, P.M., P.P.G.R., Pentalfa, 974; S. P. Firth, and J. Rousby. We have heard to-night of a brother shedding tears, but we are going to do just the reverse. We are delighted to see our visiting brethren, and I ask you to join me in conveying that feeling to them in the most hearty manner, accompanied with the hope that we shall often see them here again. Bro. J. C. Taylor, P.M., in response, said; "W.M., officers, and brethren, it gives me great pleasure in being present to see those handsome presents made to Bro. Rogerson, P.M., and I trust you may long live to see prosperity, harmony, and brotherly love, prevail in the Lodge of Hope." Bro. Thos. Senior P.M., P.P.G.W., said; "W.M., officers, and brethren, I scarcely feel to be a visitor or a stranger. I unfortunately resigned my membership of the lodge a few months ago, and almost regret it when I meet you on such a festive occasion. I thank you very much for the very kind way in which you have received the visitors, and shall always have pleasure in meeting you. Bro. Rousby, for the brethren from a distance, thanked the members of the Hope for their hearty reception, and said he was delighted with the evening's proceedings. Bro. S. P. Firth Pentalfa, 974, said; Wors'hipful Sir, I thought I was out of your sight, and that I should not have been called upon. It is very little use me talking at this time, so much talent has gone before, but I wish to thank you very much for your kind reception. "The Tyler's Toast" brought this very interesting entertainment to a close, one which we are sure will long be remembered by all present. It would be remiss in us not to allude to the excellent harmony discoursed during the evening, not only by those brethren already mentioned, but also by Bros. J. Rhodes, P.M., P. Prov. G.D.C.; M. Rogerson, P.M., P. Prov. G.W.; and J. Brigg.

LIVERPOOL.—St. John's Lodge (No. 673).—The brethren attached to this lodge celebrated their annual festival on Wednesday, the 1st. instant, when the programme not only comprised the installation ceremony, but also a picnic in the charming vicinity of Rufford. The "St. John's" is undoubtedly one of the strongest in the province, and its popularity and stability were clearly shown by a very numerous and influential gathering, even at the early morning meeting, as well as at a most distinguished attendance at the run into the country during the after part of the day. The wisdom of the selection of Bro. Martin Corless, the W.M. elect, was also clearly evinced by the turn out. The lodge was opened by Bro. W. Kyle, W.M., shortly after eight o'clock, supported by the following officers:—Bros. T. Callow, P.M.; H. Nelson, P.M.; J. Thornton, P.M.; J. Hocken, P.M.; S. Johnson, P.M., Secretary; M. Corless, S.W.; J. K. Digges, J.W.; T. Roberts, S.D.; J. Meador, J.D.; D. Jackson, S.; and W. H. Ball, Tyler. Amongst the visitors were Bros. W. Doyle, P.G.J.D.; P. M. Larsen, P.M. 594; W. Pugh, P.M. 1182; J. Edington, S.W. 1182; E. Rothwell, S.W. 1356; R. Danson, P.M. 1094; W. H. Hignet, 1356; J. Williams, 1182; and numerous members of the lodge. After the minutes had been read and confirmed, Bro. T. Clark, P.M., proceeded to instal Bro. M. Corless into the chair of W.M. of the lodge, and in doing so he evinced the greatest amount of Masonic zeal and capability. The W.M. subsequently invested the following as his officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. J. K. Digges, S.W.; T. Roberts, J.W.; J. Meador, S.D.; H. Burrows, J.D.; R. Pearson, P.M., Treasurer; S. Johnson, P.M., Secretary; D. Jackson, I.G.; J. Seddon, S.S.; T. Falshaw, J.S.; T. Clark, P.M., D.C.; R. Hulme, Org. Bro. Crawford was re-elected Tyler. Before the closing of the lodge, a very handsome P.M.'s jewel was presented to Bro. W. Kyle, I.P.M., as a token of respect and esteem, and in recognition of his past services. After the lodge had been duly closed, the majority of the brethren, as well as others who had not been present at the early morning's business, and a large number of the fair sex, made tracks for Tithebarn-street, with the view of proceeding to Rufford for picnic purposes. The railway arrangements of the Lancashire and Yorkshire were simply disgraceful, not the slightest concession being made to the party of 150 and more, who proceeded from the station at Liverpool. The train did not start until after considerable delay, and then it proceeded at snail's pace to Rufford, after amusing the general company by about ten minutes shunting at Ormskirk; the destination, about 17 miles distant, being reached in the incredibly short time of one hour and a half! Verily the ways of railways are delightful. The arrangements for the "outers" made by the Lodge Committee were very complete, and, although rain fell during the early part of the day, there was scarcely any hitch in the continuous enjoyment. Dinner was served in the schoolroom of Rufford, under the presidency of Bro. M. Corless, W.M., who proposed the usual toasts in pointed terms, and afterwards the company wandered through the splendid gardens and walks of Rufford Park, where there were many points of beauty which attracted the numerous visitors. Dancing and a variety of games constituted the pleasant afternoon's amusements, and the ladies and brethren of "St. John's" returned to town at an early hour, highly delighted with the picnic.

LIVERPOOL.—Prince of Wales Lodge (No. 1035).—Amongst the numerous pleasant summer excursions of Liverpool Lodges, all the more pleasant and enjoyable, because ladies for once are allowed to join in the Masonic festivities, none have been so delightful as that which the brethren of the Prince of Wales Lodge made on Thursday, the 2nd inst., when about 140 brethren and ladies started from the Central Station, Ranelagh-street, by the Midland Railway, for Buxton and Chatsworth. Those places at once gave promise of some of our most charming bits of English landscape, recalling recollections of Peveril of the Peak, exciting anticipations of a visit to Haddon Hall, with its many interesting relics of one of the most eventful periods of our national history, and then of Chatsworth, the princely mansion of his Grace the Duke of Devonshire—a wonderful storehouse of almost matchless treasures, gems of the painter and the sculptor, which might well excite the envy of the proudest monarch. Then there are the magnificent gardens and grounds surrounding his Grace's residence, with the enormous conservatories, built under the direction of Sir. Joseph Paxton ere he designed that first Crystal Palace, which in 1851 excited the admiration of the world, as perhaps the most astonishing feature of our first Great Exhibition; the numberless and priceless treasures of the botanist and florist, the rarest and finest of trees and plants of every part of the known world. The very fine "artificial" waterfall, the powerful fountains, the parterres of flowers, all add greatly to the attractions of the place; and as the Duke very generously throws them open to all comers, it is no wonder that the visitors are very numerous, and that all who visit the place are both astonished and delighted. These, with the magnificent drive from Buxton, were the substantial pleasures offered for the long summer day's "out," and the fact that nearly all the places seen and all the pleasures realised showed that the arrangements were very complete and satisfactory. The party left the Central Station at 7.45 a.m., being about 240 in number, and all, not only on the best of terms with themselves but with each other. The arrangements of the Midland Railway Company were in every respect most excellent, and at all points and in every way manifested the greatest possible desire to contribute to the comfort of the travellers. Saloon carriages were placed at the disposal of the party, and every possible attention was paid to them in the course of the journey. A three hours' pleasant ride brought the party to Buxton, and even at this early stage it seemed as if there had been a full day's enjoyment, for the party had travelled through charming country districts, they had slightly "refreshed the inner man" on the way, and they had been accompanied by a band which had unceasingly discoursed most excellent music. But there was much, very much, more in store for them. Carriages—the cozy old stage coach, omnibus, wagonettes, and drags—were in attendance; and mounting these they were whisked off for a drive of some fifteen miles through the open country, the bright sunshine on the hills, the beautiful green foliage of the trees and fields as they spanked along by hill and dale over the white turnpike road, the bright colour of the ladies' dresses, the lively music of the band, and the cheerful good humour which pervaded all, contributing to the general gratification, and astonishing not a little the inhabitants of the clean and pleasant little villages through which they passed, accustomed though they must be to excursion parties. On arriving at Buxton, the telegraph to Baslow, on the confines of Chatsworth, was immediately set to work announcing the "outers" as en route, and on reaching the Devonshire Arms, Mrs. White, the hostess, had prepared an excellent dinner, which was disposed of without extra ceremony, all toast drinking being rigorously abolished for the nonce. As soon as dinner was over, those who had not previously visited Chatsworth House proceeded to do so; but the previously talked-of run to Haddon Hall was found to be quite out of the question. Indeed, there were many who gave up the idea of even going upon this occasion to Chatsworth, very well content with the enjoyment they had already had. As the band remained at the hotel, dancing on the green was soon commenced, and so the time was pleasantly whiled away until half-past four, when the company sat down to a good substantial "knife and fork" tea, so that it will readily be seen that the creature comforts were by no means neglected. A hurried tea, and a rush for the different vehicles, nine in number, which crowded the little village of Baslow, and then the whole of the party, as jolly as "sand-boys," were quickly en route for Buxton. Jokes, songs, and little adventures with milk carts, which would get into the procession of vehicles, were the chief features of a July evening return to Buxton. This pleasant little town was crowded with excursionists from Liverpool, Manchester, Derby, Leeds, Birmingham, Nottingham, Sheffield, and neighbouring places, all come to witness the annual floral holiday, on the occasion of the "well dressing." After some delay, the whole party at last got on board, and the train proceeded for Liverpool, the journey being agreeably lightened by songs, and other pleasant features. The whole day's out was was one of the most pleasant and agreeable, and the fact that the arrangements were carried out without the slightest hitch, was due in a large measure to the excellent generalship of Bro. Fozzard, P.M., D.C., who was assisted by Bros. Sculthorp, P.M. (acting as W.M. in the absence of Bro. M'Nab, who is at present in Egypt), R. W. Crosby, S.W.; J. Salmon, J.W.; J. B. Bunting, P.M., Treasurer; R. Williams, Secretary; L. Peak, I.G.; and S. Gardham, S.S. Amongst the visitors were Bros. R. Brown, S.W. 241, Secretary of the West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution; E. O. Rothwell, W.M. elect, of De Grey and Ripon Lodge; J. Vaughan, S.D. 86, &c. On the return journey, Bro. Cook proposed a vote of thanks to Bros. Sculthorp and Fozzard, highly complimenting them for the completeness and excellence of the arrangements of the day's proceedings, and congratulating the company upon the great amount of enjoyment which had been provided for them. The compliment was duly acknowledged, and Bro. Fozzard proposed a vote of thanks to the visitors, which was acknowledged by Bro. R. Brown (241), and the representatives of the Press, which was responded to by Bros. J. Vaughan (86), and J. B. Mackenzie, 349, 1782, &c. Ranelagh-street Station was reached about half-past eleven o'clock, and by the aid of a good supply of cabs the party was soon on their way to their respective homes.

FOREMONT.—Kenlis Lodge (No. 1267).—The brethren of the Kenlis Lodge having determined to mark their appreciation of the very efficient manner in which Bro. James Muncaster had discharged the duties of Worshipful Master of that lodge during the past year by re-electing him as W.M. for the ensuing twelve months, met together on Wednesday, 1st inst., for the purpose of giving formal expression to the compliment which they were thus desirous of paying him. Notwithstanding the inclement state of the weather, there was a large attendance of members, who assembled in the lodge-room at five o'clock, when the lodge was formally opened by the W.M. The newly re-elected W.M. invested his officers as follows:—Bros. R. Baxter, S.W.; J. B. Mossop, J.W.; E. Chapman, Treasurer; W. L. Towerson, Secretary; E. Clarke, S.D.; G. Douglas, J.D.; E. Satterthwaite, I.G.; W. Selkirk, Tyler. The Lodge having been formally closed, the brethren were entertained at the Wheatsheaf Hotel to a substantial repast; the excellence of which, and the style in which it was served, did great credit to the resources of that establishment. During the evening the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and duly honoured, those of "Her Majesty the Queen, the Prince and Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family," and "The Marquess of Ripon, the Grand Master of England, and the rest of the Grand Officers," being proposed by the Chairman; that of "The D.G.M., the Earl of Carnarvon," by Bro. Morton, P.M. 1267 and 872, and P.P.G.S.W.; that of "The P.G.M., the Earl of Bective," by the S.W.; that of "The D.P.G.M., Bro. Whitwell, P.M., and the rest of the Provincial Officers," by Bro. Mossop; and that of "The newly re-elected W.M. of Kenlis Lodge" (the host of the evening, Bro. James Muncaster), by Bro. Horsman, the W.M. responding in suitable terms. Bro. Matthews accompanied upon the pianoforte several of the brethren who were kind enough to sing songs, and other brethren, including Bro. M'Cauley, of Cleator, and Bro. Edward Tyson, of Whitehaven, contributed to the entertainment of the company by giving recitations. It will be interesting to the brethren throughout the province to know that the Kenlis Lodge is in a prosperous position, not only numerically, but financially, and that the sacred principles of Freemasonry are being satisfactorily promulgated. This result is mainly owing to the indefatigable exertions of the respected W.M., Bro. James Muncaster—a fact which, we doubt not, will afford no inconsiderable gratification to Freemasons generally, and especially to the P.G.M., the Earl of Bective, from whom Lodge 1267 derives its name.

ATHENÆUM LODGE (No. 1491).—The first regular meeting of this infant lodge was held on Wednesday evening, the 1st inst., at the lodge-room, Camden-road, N., Bro. Samuel Poynter, W.M., in the chair. The business consisted of initiations and the election and reception of joining members, of whom twelve were affiliated to the lodge. Bro. Poynter initiated into the Craft, Messrs. Shirley, Walsham and Summers, and when the brethren had adjourned from labour to refreshment, in proposing "The Health of the newly-made Masons" congratulated the lodge upon the quality of the material with which they were privileged to build up this the most recent structure in Masonry. The initiates each returned thanks. The W.M. in proposing "The Health of the Visitors," Bro. E. Foster Green, 475, remarked that in this instance this toast might almost be regarded as superfluous, as Bro. Green was very nearly one of themselves already, for he, the W.M., had the happiness to be able to recall their attention to the announcement made in lodge an hour before of Bro. Green's desire to become a joining member. Bro. Green briefly replied, and after the various toasts had been done due honour to—an honour in the case of the officers eminently deserved for their exceptional ability in conducting the work, an ability highly eulogised and gratefully acknowledged by the W.M.—the proceedings of an agreeable evening were closed by the outer guard Bro. Grant, who, by command of the W.M., gave the usual "Tyler's Toast." We are requested to announce that the next meeting of this lodge will be held (emergencies excepted) on Wednesday, 5th August.

ACACIA LODGE (No. 1309).—A meeting of this lodge was held on Saturday, June 27th, at the Greyhound Hotel, Hampton Court; Bro. R. W. Little, P.G., Sec., Middlesex, P.M., opened the lodge. The business to be done was rapidly disposed of, it being to receive the report of the committee, as to where the future meetings of the lodge were to be held. All were unanimous in agreeing that the future meetings be held at the Prince Alfred Hotel, Southall, the place recommended by the Committee. The lodge was then closed. Banquet and dessert followed.

Bro. R. Limpus, W.M., elect, presiding, usual toasts were given and responded to. R. P. Tibb made himself Life Governor of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, in conjunction with Bro. J. H. Butten, Middlesex, to act as steward of that institution at the festival, in May, 1875. For the publicly it was announced that the Cluff, of London, had left, by his munificent sum of £3,500 to the Royal Institution for Girls, and £3,500 to the Masonic Institution for Boys, subject to certain restrictions, all admirable in themselves. The announcement produced quite a furor, the body seemed delighted to know that legacies (by far the largest ever given) had been left by a gentleman who had never been into Freemasonry. Excellent music accompanied the meeting. This being the musical lodge of the province, fulfilled its reputation. The brethren spent time to catch the last train from London, so many hailed from. Amongst the number present besides those named, were Bro. E. Sillifant, P.P.G.D., Middlesex, Treas.; F. Walters, P.P.G. Steward; Sec.; C. A. Ferris, S.D.; C. H. Russell, J.D.; J. H. Webster, I.G.; G. J. Selkirk, J. H. Butten, P.G.A.D. Cer., P.M. Tebb, J. W. George, Budgett, Upstone, Murray, Collins, C. Horsley, Reg., Middlesex, P.M.; and others. Lists of visitors comprised Bros. J. H. P.G.S. P.M. 8; J. Constable, W.M., Hammond, P.N., 201, W.M., 1326; R. 192; Wells, McDavett, Hubbard, Jordan.

WIDNES.—Lodge of Equity (No. 1267). The brethren of this lodge and their friends, a most delightful pic-nic in Knowsley Park, Thursday, the 2nd inst. Bros. Simpson, J. W. R. Fowler, A.P.M., J. W. J., P.M.; J. T. Hall (86), Oppenheim, and others, took an active part in promoting the general interest of the party, and their efforts were successful.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The usual summer fete and distribution of prizes at the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, was held on Wednesday last, at the School, Wood-green. Lieutenant Col. Burdett, Prov. Grand Master of the Institution, presided, and was supported by Bros. H. Symonds, Raynham W. Stewart, Rosen, Dubosc, H. C. Levander, Edward Cox, Dosell, W. Roebuck, W. Paas, Captain Lock, Haigh, C. Lacey, T. Cubitt, T. worth, Magnus Ohren, S. Rawson, W. P.M. 73; Collard Moutrie, R. W. Little, Secretary of the Girls' School.

The distribution of prizes took place in the gymnasium, which was utilised for the purpose at the last moment, on account of the demand for tickets. The gymnasium was decorated with flags and evergreens. Prizes were placed in the centre, and the ladies' seats to the right and left. The proceedings commenced immediately after 3 o'clock, by which time the building was full, indeed so large a number of friends and supporters of the school has never been gathered together on a similar occasion, not even at the opening of the building years ago. The recitations were well given by the pupils, and it was stated on the programme that they were the result of a month's instruction. This of course, is one of the new regime under the Rev. O. Peck, Head Master. They were interspersed with musical pieces by the pupils and Madam deus Well.

The singing of the pupils was very good indeed and was much superior to the recitations. The proceedings were very successful, success was in no small measure contributed by the artistic singing of Madam deus Wells.

The following are branches of education for which they were awarded, and the names of the pupils who obtained them, as awarded on report by Rev. John Bell, Examiner appointed by the Syndicate of the University of Cambridge:—

Beaumont; Special Prize given by Mr. Lees (2nd Master) E. Wallbridge; Geography and Mapping, J. A. M. Barnes, J. Andrews; General attention to Studies, E. Varden, W. R. Parker; Mental Arithmetic, L. Smith, E. P. Bowles; Proficiency in Drill, N. Carter, E. P. Bowles.

Bro. F. Binckes, Secretary, at the commencement of the proceedings, after referring to the many previous annual presentations, stated to the chairman that for the progress, not only of the prize-winners, but the other pupils, had made in their studies, it appeared to him there was a bright prospect in store for them. Annually, he and other friends of the Institution hailed this semblance with a very large amount of satisfaction, and always with pleasure, as nothing was more agreeable than to distribute rewards for good work well done.

Colonel Burdett, as he presented the different prizes, accompanied the presentations with any kindly observations, remarking on the energy which was displayed by the pupils in the pursuit of their studies, as evinced by the amount of education in which each had excelled. The ceremony lasted a little over two hours, but at its conclusion a vote of thanks to Colonel Burdett was moved by Bro. B. Head, who said it was a peculiar pleasure to him to have to perform that duty as he had had the privilege of owing Col. Burdett for some years.

Bro. J. J. Chancellor, in seconding the proposition, added that the Chairman was at all times ready to render any service in his power to his as well as to other Masonic Institutions. The motion having been carried with much cheering, Colonel Burdett said I assure you I am very much pleased with what I have seen to-day, but must first of all thank you for the kind manner in which you have carried the vote of thanks to myself. At the same I thank you for the forance with which you have witnessed my shortcomings, which I am afraid have been very considerable. You may say I have not had much experience in this branch of business, but I hold that when any one feels an interest in what he undertakes, it gives him some little title to the kind consideration of his friends. I am greatly pleased that what I have done has been satisfactory to those who have witnessed our proceedings. With the general arrangements of the school I have to express the greatest gratification. The boys are a credit to every one who is placed in authority here, not only for the progress they have shewn that they have made in their education, but from their healthy, cleanly, and manly appearance.

A vote of thanks was passed to Madame Thaddeus Wells, on the motion of Bro. Rosenthal, seconded by Bro W. Pass.

Bro. Raynham W. Stewart proposed a vote of thanks to the Head Master which was also seconded and carried unanimously.

The Rev. Perrott, in returning thanks, said that a principle on which he held tuition should be conducted was that the tutor should win the hearts of his pupils and generally speaking, education conducted on that principle was the most successful. He then referred to the very short time that the pupils had had to prepare for the exhibition of that day, and congratulated them on having achieved such success. The company then adjourned to cold collation in the dining hall, and afterwards engaged in the out door sports which were on the programme, winding up with the usual ball inside the building.

The party separated about eleven o'clock thoroughly satisfied with the entertainment.

THE MARCHIONESS OF RIPON'S FANCY DRESS BALL.

—On Monday the Marchioness of Ripon gave a costume ball at the family mansion in Carlton-gardens, when a brilliant and distinguished company graced her ladyship's salons. The principal apartments were thrown open on the occasion; the saloon, lighted by three crystal chandeliers and girandoles, being selected for the ball-room. The boudoir adjoining the ball-room was appropriated for light refreshments, and with the ball-room communicated with the conservatory, which formed a pleasant retreat from the ball-room. An adjoining drawing-room, where the fancy quadrilles assembled in the early part of the ball, was also arranged for dancing.

THE FAITHFUL BREAST.

BY HARRY C. BLOUNT.

The world around, where'er we turn,
Presents so much to view
Of true and false, 'tis hard to discern
That which is false from true;
In man so intermix'd we find
These adverse qualities,
Some faithful test should mark the line
Where the distinction lies.

Have you a friend? To him be true—
True to yourself, beside—
In all that he may trust to you,
Should he in you confide.
Have you a brother! Faithful be—
Think of the mystic tie
That binds the heart in Masonry —
Think of Fidelity.

No one can prize as Masons do
The man of merit, worth;
The man that's faithful and that's true,
The proudest boast of earth;
For in the temple's sacred walls
The heart is taught to dare,
An answer faithfully the call;
That test all one can bear.

But we look about us, see
So much that's empty show,
We might, perhaps, too thoughtlessly
Declare that all is so;
But true men, jewels hid from eyes,
Deep down in treasured mine,
When brought to light, we recognize
How faultlessly they shine.

The greatest monuments of yore
Have bowed their heads to time,
Their places now know them no more
Or but exist in rhyme;
But Masonry, we may proclaim,
Has borne severest test,
And yet preserves her wealth the same,
Secure in faithful breast.

No wonder, then, we so much prize
The man possess'd of worth,
And will his merit recognize,
Though humble be his birth,
For 'tis with such we must commit
These riches more than gold,
For worth alone can make one fit,
Her mystic treasures hold.

You say unworthy men have crept
E'en to our temple's shrine?
'Tis true; but such have never kept Masonic lore. Incline.
Your ear, and let me whisper you:
When such an one you see,
Know that he is no Mason true,
Nor one, at all, can be.

The Master has prescribed for all
His righteous law—His will—
And we must answer at His call,
Our destiny fulfil;
And when we're called upon to show,
E'en by severest test,
We've kept the word,—the sign we know,
That proves a faithful breast.

DEATH OF EARL DALHOUSIE

We regret to announce to the Craft the death of our lamented and distinguished brother, the Earl of Dalhousie, better known perhaps, as Lord Panmure. As Grand Master of Scotland, and as Deputy Grand Master of England, he has rendered great services to our Fraternity in both countries, and his decease will be a subject of much regret to many old friends and associates, as well as to the Craft at large. We hope in our next issue to give a short sketch of his life and distinguished career.

The following has appeared in a modern contemporary:—

"The announcements which have appeared day to day respecting the illness of the Earl of Dalhousie, will in some degree have prepared the public for the intelligence of his death, which, we regret to say, took place at Brechin Castle at ten minutes past eleven o'clock, on Tuesday night. The deceased peer, who was Lord-Lieutenant of Forfarshire, was born April 22nd, 1801, and succeeded his father as Baron Panmure in 1831, and his cousin as Earl of Dalhousie in 1839. He entered the 79th Highlanders, 1839; served in Canada, and retired as captain, 1839. He was M.P. for Perthshire, 1835-7; for the Burghs, 1838-41; and for Perth, 1841-2. Under Secretary for the Home Department, 1835-41; Vice-President of the Board of Trade, 1841; Secretary at War, 1846-51. He was President of the Board of Control, 1852-53, and appointed Keeper of the Privy Seal of Scotland in 1853; elected Lord Rector of Glasgow University, 1843, and was a Governor of Charterhouse; married (1831) the Hon. Lady Abercromby, eldest daughter of the second Baron Abercromby (this lady was the ship's cousin, George Ramsay, M.P., son of the Hon. John Ramsay.

"Lady Christian Maule received a telegraphic letter and a telegram from her husband, expressing the regret with which he heard of the serious illness and death of the Earl of Dalhousie. It is expected that the funeral of the late Earl will take place on Tuesday, in the churchyard of Forfarshire.

THE PROSPECTS OF MASONIC LITERATURE.

Summer is upon us all, and another half year of Masonic literary work, has been reached and passed by. It seems to us a good opportunity then to review the past, and discount the future. And though the progress we have made be somewhat like that of the march of the tortoise, it is nevertheless progress, and if slow, let us hope sure. We have to thank an increased number of readers for kindly support to The Freemason, and we are glad to hear the same, and to be able to report the same, of our monthly contemporary, The Masonic Magazine. It would indeed have been a grave reflection on English Freemasons, and English Freemasonry, if these, our only two Masonic periodicals, should have failed for want of Masonic aid, or English fraternal sympathy. Now we want to put the matter as simply and as concisely as we can before the common sense, and calm appreciation of our readers. Many of our good brethren talk and act as if Masonic publications were the most lucrative investment in the world, and Masonic journalism required no aid. But the truth is, Masonic literary efforts have never yet succeeded, from a purely financial point of view. They would not be regarded a favourable investment in the City, and all Masonic publishers have had to cater for a very limited circle of readers. Either our brethren have no time, or they cannot devote sufficient attention to Masonic literature, for until Bro. Kenning took up the literary contest so to say, in the name of the entire Order, the competitors in the arena were few, and universally unsuccessful. And therefore with another half year, we think it well to ask our friends to help us by extending the circulation of The Freemason, amidst the lodges first of all, and then amidst the brethren. If every English lodge took a copy weekly, that would form a good basis for the subscribers' list, and it would be an encouragement and inducement to our enterprising publisher to make still other efforts in the good cause of literary improvement, and Masonic light. Having said this, we again thank our many readers for their kind and cheering support, and we trust that our continuous efforts will prove that we are alike grateful for the past, and hopeful for the future.

MASONIC ARCHÆOLOGY.

Bro. Geo. Bake, Deputy Controller in the War Department, has shown us very kindly a most interesting Chinese image, in yellow jade which, in his opinion, may perhaps represent Confucius, and which bears on it a long apron in red, tied round the waist by golden cords and tassels, and on which are clearly to be seen the Masonic square, and what is evidently intended for the double triangle. The square separates the two triangles. On this apron, painted in red, the square being in jade, and the triangles gilt, are also to be seen seven stars, and what have the appearance at the bottom of two pillars. There are also some Chinese Marks gilt on the apron. One great peculiarity of this statuette is, that, images in yellow jade are very scarce indeed, and date from a long antiquity. The green jade has not been worked for some centuries into images, and the yellow jade was given up long anterior to the time when the working in green jade began. This fact gives to the statuette a hoary antiquity, and renders it of the greatest interest and value to all Masonic students. It was taken, with other statuettes, by a French officer on the Staff of General Count Palikao from the Summer Palace of the Emperor, when the allied armies entered Peking. These statuettes were sold in Dublin to a friend of Bro. Bake, who discovered the Masonic emblems on this statuette alone. The person represented by the statuette must evidently have been a high personage, as he bears under his right arm the stone of honour, which is only presented by the Emperor of China to persons of great celebrity.

We believe that Bro. Bake would kindly allow the statuette to be seen by Masonic students at 198, Fleet-street. Brethren wishing to see it, had better, however, communicate with the Editor, who will make an arrangement with Bro. Bake.

THE TRUE MISSION OF FREEMASONRY.

There have been, there still are, many opinions now among Masons, as to what is the true mission of Freemasonry. Probably we shall not be doing any wrong if we reduce them to-day, for the purpose of our present argument to two principal ones, which may not unfairly be termed the Foreign view and the English view. We pass over necessarily in saying this, and laying down such a basis for our present consideration, many of those fancy views, if we may so call them, which have from time to time either startled society or amused mankind. Freemasonry, like anything else that is not clearly understood of men, has had its dogmatic professors, its "veiled prophets," and its calumnious critics. But it also generally happens, however, much its dogmatic professors, to use an old and a vile joke, have "barked," their "outcome," has been rather the yelping of curs than of thorough-bred Freemasons; they have often been ignorant of the first principles of the great science they professed so carefully to unfold, they have not added one iota of knowledge, or lent one gleam of light to the order, and they have for the most part left the subject, by their very treatment of it, darker and more mysterious than it was before! We have had—we are not without still some "veiled prophets," not of "Khorassan" but of Freemasonry; who, by the use of a few pet phrases of recondite verbiage, and a jargon which is a compound of mysticism and credulity, explain what needs no explanation, and leave an utter enigma what is, in truth, susceptible of an easy and simple explanation. While our calumnious critics, many of old, as now, complacently affect to treat a subject of which they are utterly ignorant, and as they are ignorant of what they profess to open out clearly to all men, they are very often abusive, and, being both ignorant and abusive, they, one and all, end, as some of us will remember, in mendacious calumny! Well, we leave out to-day all these professors, and mystics, and calumniators, and we look at the two great views, divergent and antagonistic, though they necessarily be, of Freemasonry. Let us take the Foreign view first. Without troubling ourselves with possible modifications or variations, let us assume this to be, as no doubt it is, the popular view of many foreign Masonic writers. Masonry to them, wheresoever it has sprung from, whence it is derived, is a great eclectic system, which, rejecting all other known religious and denominational views, is the one great school of illuminating philosophy and of moral elevation, and psychological training for man. With such it admits a belief in God and the immortality of the soul, (though this even is denied by some,) but beyond this it does not profess to go, and hence, as a natural consequence, where such views prevail the use and value of the bible in the lodges are often seriously questioned. To this view is superadded the expansive idea of a community or brotherhood in Masonry, which is to absorb all others, to extend universally and to educate and elevate the human race. Thus with such exalted notions of what Freemasonry is, and what it is meant to be, many writers have gone so far as to term Freemasonry the "true philosophy," the "great brotherhood," the "moral elevator," the "spiritual teacher and guide of man." We are, in this country, very practical, as a general rule, and we have sometimes to come down from the lofty summits of foreign teaching on this and kindred subjects, to our own humbler level of common sense and reality. We think that in advancing such a view of Freemasonry as we have laid before our readers, those good brethren, who so write and think are losing themselves in what is ideal and purely theoretical, instead of dealing with what is actual and evidential. We confess we have always been of opinion, and advancing years have only served to strengthen our original conviction, that, it is unwise, on well known principles of thought and action ever to attempt to claim too widely or to prove too much. Our English view is we think a far safer view, and more defensible by us to-day. We look upon Freemasonry as a great world-wide Order, of ancient date and peculiar organization. It extends all over the world, and we all rejoice to be considered brethren of the same one great family. It is founded, we believe, on that great principle which pervades the most divine of all prayers, namely the recognition of the Universal Father, and it excludes none from its lodges, except the actual unbeliever or the openly immoral. Thus Christians, Hebrews, Hindoos, Mahomedans, Parsees, are all, and can be Freemasons, and no religious views "par excellence" bar any from joining Freemasonry. But beyond this Freemasonry does not profess to go. It inculcates no dogmas, and it lays down no canons. It places before us the Bible, the inspired word of God, as the rule of our life, and the test of our practice, and it enjoins us to conform our outward steps, and our daily course, to the divine precepts the Best of Books contains. But Freemasonry with us has neither philosophical aspirations, or mystical illumination. It indeed supplies us with touching ceremonies, and a moralizing comment on sign and symbol, and would lead us, ever, to bear in mind, that we are all brethren, all mortal, and all members one of another. The earnest student, and the loving child of Masonry, may indeed find food, for much of philosophical contemplation, and elevating tendency, in every formula, and every adage of our ancient lore, in that ritual which is dear to us all, in those symbolical ornaments which grace our lodges, and in those lectures which our forefathers have bequeathed to us. But though Freemasonry to us is thus in one respect alike religious in its bearing, and philosophical in its scope, it is to us so personally and individually, rather than as members of a cosmopolitan order with great aims and lofty aspirations. This may be a defect in our English Freemasonry, this may make it appear dwarfed in design, and common-place in object, but we on the contrary, deem it to be both the excellency and the safeguard of our English Craft, in that it has preserved it alike from extravagance of profession and rhapsody of language, and has happily so far kept us free from some of those errors and complications, into which portions of foreign Freemasonry have fallen, and into which some writers have, as it appears to us, gone astray. But we will recur to the subject in our next impression.

MR. CLUFF'S BEQUEST TO THE MASONIC SCHOOLS.

The following are the terms of this bequest, which the Committee of the Masonic Schools have not yet determined on accepting, as it may bring them within the control of the Charity Commissioners. The testator, whose will was proved on the 18th of June, was a silk manufacturer, of 24, Spital-square, Shoreditch, and Walthamstow:—

"I bequeath to the trustees of the Freemasons' Charity Boys' School the sum of £3500 Metropolitan Board of Works Three-and-a-Half per Cent. Consolidated Stock, and I desire that every year out of the dividends and income thereof the sum of £100 may be awarded, subject to the conditions hereinafter mentioned, to the boy who shall be adjudged the most deserving boy in the schools, as a reward for good conduct and proficiency in his studies, but to be payable only if and when such boy shall attain the age of 25 years. I desire that such gift shall be called 'William Cluff's Gift,' and that every boy gaining it may have a certificate on parchment given to him stating the fact. From and after the award being made in favour of any boy I request and empower the last-mentioned trustees from time to time to retain the £100 so awarded and invest the same, and pay the dividends from time to time to arise from such investment to or for the benefit of such boy until he shall attain the age of 25 years or die under that age, and upon his attaining the age of 25 years, to pay the said sum of £100 to him, together with all accumulations (if any) of interest thereon; but if he shall die under that age, then to apply the said sum of £100 and all accumulations (if any) for the general purposes and benefit of the said schools in such manner as the trustees shall think fit. I desire that the balance of the dividends and income of the said sum of £3500 Metropolitan Board of Works Three-and-a-Half per Cent. Consolidated Stock, after deducting the said yearly sum of £100, be applied for the benefit of poor Freemasons, at the direction of the said last-mentioned trustees. No boy shall be entitled to have the said gift awarded to him more than once."

The bequest to the Girls' School is, mutatis mutandis, the same, except that the gift is to be payable to the girls at 21 years of age, to be for their sole and separate use, and free from the control and engagements of their husband. Both bequests are duty free.

Autum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

THE SO-CALLED "LOCKE MS."

I am induced to call attention to this question for one or two reasons.

There are some facts connected with this document which are very singular, and unprecedented in the history of similar documents.

It originally came before the world, and even our order, in the pages of the Gentlemen's Magazine. It was printed in a London newspaper, it was reproduced by Hutchinson and Preston, without a word of doubt, or a note of caution.

They evidently treated it as genuine. It has since then, been quoted in all Masonic works, "usque ad nauseam," and the great name of Mr. Locke has been added, to strengthen its claims to genuineness and authenticity.

It originally professed to have been translated from the German at Frankfort-on-the-Maine, said to have been found "on the writing table of a deceased brother." It purported to have been written by Henry VI., and to have been copied by Leland for his "Highness," but where was this MS.?

Unless the above sentence be an anachronism, Leland, who beheld the dissolution of the Monasteries, and was said to have found it there, transcribed it either for Henry VIII. or Cromwell.

Though published in German, it had originally come from England, and must be somewhere, if extant at all.

Mr. Halliwell searched for it in the Bodleian; others have looked for it in the British Museum, but no trace of any such original MS. was found.

But yet it is not correct to say that no MS. of it exists. A MS. of it does exist among the "Additional MS. British Museum." There, among the "Essex MS.," as they are sometimes called, written probably by the hand of Essex himself, an able architect, who died in 1784, may be found "certayne questions and answers," &c., &c. As I said before, the MS. is also apparently written by Essex, and may be, therefore, put down about 1770 or 1775, "the close," as Mr. Sims says, "of the 18th century."

Now, the question naturally arises, from what did Essex copy this manuscript? As a general rule men do not copy from printed documents, especially a document which was then in so many books, but we cannot lay down any such rule in Freemasonry. There is, for instance, among the "additional MS.," a transcript of "The Life of Coustos," evidently copied from either a French edition or our English edition. Still it is a matter of some little interest to know that there is a MS. version of this debateable document—of this, I confess, as it appears to me a suspicious document—and I will endeavour to collate the printed and the MS. versions, and ascertain if there are any differences. For, though we can hardly accept the document, both from internal and external evidence, as of the date of Henry VI., it may have some foundation in some old Masonic MS., which ignorance has perverted or credulity has appropriated.

It may be a "fraus pia" altogether, of some mistaken Freemason, though, prima facie, I do not see the object of such a proceeding. So far its manuscript date is not earlier, apparently than 1770.

A MASONIC STUDENT.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.—The directors have announced that not only will the new season tickets admit to the Park until the palace is re-opened to the public, and be available for all shows, concerts, festivals, fêtes, and other entertainments, but that the holders will be entitled to participate in the annual distribution of the Alexandra Palace Art Union. The arrangement is that two-hundred-pounds-worth is to be apportioned to every thousand tickets.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The General Committee of this Institution met on Saturday last, in the Board-room, Freemasons Hall. Bro. Henry Browne, V.P., presided, and there was a large attendance of brethren to support him.

The minutes having been read by Bro. Binckes, the Secretary, Bro. Jesse Turner moved that a vote, expressing the loss all Masons had sustained by the death of Bro. Henry Empson, recorded on the minutes, and that a letter of condolence be written to Mrs. Empson. He felt that it was due to the memory of Bro. Empson that at the first meeting of this committee after his death, such a recognition of the valuable services he had rendered the Institution should be made. He had always been zealous, honest, and straightforward, in the cause of Freemasonry and of the institutions connected with it, and the general welfare of those institutions was always near his heart.

Bro. J. W. Dosell seconded the motion and begged to add his assent to all that had fallen from Bro. Turner.

Bro. John Symonds said he should not like an opportunity like this to pass without saying a word or two as to their deceased brother, and the value he was to Masonry. When he (Bro. Symonds) was Master of the Ionic Lodge, Bro. Empson was introduced to Masonry, and initiated him. From that time he proved himself a thoroughly worthy member of the Craft, and when he got further in Masonry he took deep interest in the charities, and soon became known to the Fraternity by the very active, kind, and efficient services he rendered at the election. To him was due the organization of the present system of scrutiny, by which the result of elections was declared almost immediately after the close of the poll. He was a man whom it was impossible to speak too highly of, and with regard to cases for the elections which he took up, his inquiry into the merits of the cases was so well known to every one that it was only necessary for his name to be attached to a case to secure the general support of the brethren. Every case that came under notice was thoroughly inquired into, and the result was that he invariably carried it in.

The Chairman said he himself had met Bro. Empson from his earliest days in Freemasonry and had always found him a most worthy brother. Of the way in which he conducted the scrutiny at the elections it was impossible to overrate the value, and the brethren, for many years to come would be indebted to Bro. Empson for the saving of much time and labour. He felt his loss very much indeed, and it would be long before the void caused by his death would be filled up.

The motion was then put, and carried unanimously.

Bro. Binckes then read a letter he had received from the Prov. Grand Secretary of Lancashire, informing him that he would lay G. P. Brockbank's scheme for benefiting charities before the Provincial Grand Master.

Bro. Binckes then read the following extract from the will of the late Mr. William C. silk manufacturer, of 24 Spital-square, Shoreditch, and Walthamstow, which was proved in London on the 18th ult., by W. G. Cluff Stevens, and Eliza Spalding:—"I bequeath to the Trustees of the Freemasons' Charity Schools the sum of £3500 Metropolitan Board of Works 3½ per cent. Consolidated Stock, and I desire that every year out of the dividends and income thereof the sum of £100 may be awarded, subject to the conditions hereinafter mentioned, to the boy who shall be adjudged the most deserving boy in the schools as a reward for good conduct and proficiency in his studies, but to be payable only if and when such boy shall attain the age of 25 years. I desire that such gift be called 'William C. Cluff's Gift,' and that every boy gaining it may have a certificate on parchment given to him, stating the fact. From and after the award being made in favour of any boy, I request and empower the last-mentioned trustees from time to time to retain the £100 so awarded, and invest the same, and pay the dividends from time to time to arise from such investment to or for the benefit of such boy until he shall attain the age of 25 years or die under that age, and upon his attaining the age of 25 years, to pay the said sum of £100 to him, together with all accumulations (if any) of interest thereon; but if he shall die under that age, then to apply the said sum of £100 and all accumulations (if any) for the general purposes and benefit of the said schools in such manner as the trustees shall think fit. I desire that the balance of the dividends and income of the said sum of £3500 Metropolitan Board of Works Three-and-a-Half per Cent. Consolidated Stock, after deducting the said yearly sum of £100, be applied for the benefit of poor Freemasons, at the direction of the said last-mentioned trustees. No boy shall be entitled to have the said gift awarded to him more than once."

same, and pay the dividends, from time to time to arise from such investment, to or for the benefit of such boy until he shall attain the age of 25 years, or die under that age, and upon his attaining the age of 25 years, to pay the said sum of £100 to him, together with all accumulations, if any, of interest thereon. But if he shall die under that age, then to apply the said sum of £100 and all accumulations of interest (if any) for the general purposes and benefit of the said school, in such manner as the Trustees shall think fit. I desire that the balance of the dividends and income of the said sum of the £3500 Metropolitan Board of Works 3½ per cent. Consolidated Stock, after deducting the said yearly sum of £100 from time to time be applied for the benefit of poor Freemasons at the discretion of the said last mentioned Trustees. No boy shall be entitled to have the said gift awarded to him more than once."

Bro. Binckes said that fearing the acceptance of this bequest might bring the school within the control of the Charity Commissioners, he submitted the above extract to the Institution's solicitors, Messrs. Hopwood and Sons, 47, Chancery-lane, from whom he received a reply, stating that under the 62nd clause of the Charitable Trusts' Act such would be the effect of the acceptance of the bequest.

After some discussion it was resolved to communicate the matter to the Grand Master, as President of the Institution, and if deemed necessary, to take the opinion of counsel, and to communicate with the general committee of the Girls' School, to which a similar bequest was made. The further consideration of the matter to stand over till a future meeting of the committee.

Bro. Binckes then brought forward the subject of the alteration of the date of the Annual Festival of the Boys' School from the second Wednesday in March to the last Wednesday in June, and submitted the following among other strong reasons for the alteration:—1st. The accounts for the year close on the 31st of December, and have to be prepared for the audit on the last Saturday but one in January: these, with all the varied statistical information now required, have to be put in print, and made ready for the annual festival, as also has the report of the committee. 2nd. The list of candidates for election in April closes on the first Saturday in January, immediately after which date preparations of the voting papers for the election must be commenced, the number to be issued approximating 5000. 3rd. The festival, as now fixed, takes place on the second Wednesday in March, and simultaneously with the heavy work as stated above there is the labour incident to the arrangements for the festival, and the correspondence with 160 or 180 stewards, to say nothing of the meetings of the Board of Stewards, which commence at the end of January. 4th. The very day after the festival must be commenced preparations for the issue of a second batch of voting papers for the April election, in virtue of the money contributed at the festival. (This does not occur in connection with either of the other institutions.) 5th. The festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution was formerly triennial; it is now annual; and the sequence of the Masonic festivals is as follows:—Royal Benevolent, last Wednesday in January; Boys' School, second Wednesday in March; Grand Festival, Wednesday after 23rd. of April; Girls' School, second Wednesday in May. The etiquette, generally observed, hitherto has been for the official of one institution to defer the issue of his circulars to lodges appealing for stewards and support, until after the first meeting of the Board of Stewards for the earlier fixed festival. This operates most injuriously to the Boys' School, e.g., the first meeting of Benevolent Stewards would be held, say, early in December. Many London lodges do not meet either in December or January, and consequently the circulars sent from the Boys' School do not reach them until February, a date too near that of the festival to afford a steward a fair chance of success, and, therefore, the service is declined altogether. This has been proved by experience. 6th. The month of March, as now fixed for the festival, precludes all chance of a successful gathering of Stewards and friends at Wood-green. The beneficial results of such a gathering previous to the annual festival, may be estimated by those who have attended at Wandsworth in the more genial month of May. With the suggested change, a similar successful meeting would be held at Wood-green, and, as is believed, the interests of this institution considerably benefited. There are other considerations incident to, or arising out of, the reasons above detailed, which will readily occur to those experienced in the affairs of our several institutions, but it is assumed that what has been stated may fairly be taken as a justification for representing to the proper authority the policy of an alteration in the date of the festival, from the second Wednesday in March to the last Wednesday in June, or the first Wednesday in July. At all events, these memoranda are submitted to the House Committee for their opinion thereon.

Bro. Symonds said that a great many brethren, both clergy and laymen, objected to any festival being held in the season of Lent. He remembered occasions when it happened on Ash Wednesday, and the Grand Master had changed the day, and without expressing any opinion of his own on this religious question, he still thought that if it was at all prejudicial to the interests of the school, or at all offensive to the feelings of a section of the brethren that the festival should be held in Lent, another and more convenient period should be chosen. To hold the festival in June would offend no one's principles or prejudices, and he should have much pleasure in moving that the recommendation of the House Committee that the alteration should be made, be approved, and submitted to the Grand Master for his sanction.

Carried unanimously.

Fourteen petitions were thereafter considered. One was deferred, the other thirteen passed, and the candidates were placed on the list for election in October, and thirteen vacancies were declared in the school at that date.

Bro. Symonds then gave notice of the following motion for the quarterly court of next Monday:—

"That Rule 37 be amended by omitting all after the words 'Shall be made at the General Committee in April,' and adding the following: 'When, if more than twelve be nominated, a chairman, and two or more scrutineers shall be appointed by the members of the committee present, to conduct the election, which shall take place by ballot on the day of meeting of the General Committee in May, the poll to commence at three, and close at 5 o'clock p.m. Official balloting papers shall be provided, on which the names of the candidates shall be printed in alphabetical order. After the close of the poll, the result shall be reported to the General Committee then sitting, and at this meeting the result of the election (whether by poll or otherwise) shall be declared.'"

To add to rule 8:

"A lady contributing fifty guineas, in one or more payments of not less than five guineas each, shall be a Vice-Patron, with thirty votes at each election of girls."

He did this because Bro. Parkinson had given notice of such a motion for the Girls' Quarterly Court of to-day, and it was necessary to make the rules of both institutions correspond.

The Committee then adjourned, after sitting two hours. The proceedings closed with a cordial vote of thanks to the Chairman.

BRO. CONSTABLE'S "DRAWING."

PRELIMINARY ANNOUNCEMENT.

The "drawing" for Bro. Constable's next lottery, which is to be devoted to the Girls' School, is to take place on 28th April, 1875, at the White Hart Tavern, Abchurch Lane, E.C.

We understand that 3000 tickets are now being printed, at one shilling each, and another batch will be forthcoming if the response is so hearty and general as many are in hopes it will be.

We are disappointed in the small average paid by the 698 subscribers (the total being £100) for we had hoped the sum would not have been less than 5s. per member. There were 2000 tickets sold, which produced £100, the main portion of which, if not all, would never have been contributed to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, London.

The system started by Bro. Constable achieves in a public way what the Charitable Associations are doing well locally, and the plan offers every inducement to brethren to subscribe who cannot afford a guinea, and if they do not draw a "Life Governorship," they, at all events, have the satisfaction of knowing that the whole of their contribution goes to the charity in question.

There is a large field yet to be cultivated in this country, and we shall be much disappointed if Bro. Constable's able services do not supply the requisite means of cultivation. We refer to the "shillings," "the half-crowns," and "crowns," which many never think of giving, because the sum would confer no votes, but, if solicited, they would gladly embrace the opportunity of purchasing a few of Bro. Constable's tickets. We know of a case only recently where a 5s. piece was refused for the R. Mas. Inst. for Girls, and two half-guineas, simply because the brother who was Steward would not accept less than the customary guinea. The remarks of the M.W.G.M. are much to the point, as delivered by his lordship at the last festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, as follows:—

"I am very well aware that there are many men in the Craft who, with the best intentions, have not the means of subscribing; but I am very well aware that there are very many men who might subscribe and who do not. What I want to impress upon you to night is this that it is far better that these institutions should be supported by small subscriptions from large numbers, than that they should be supported by large subscriptions from a few. You who do not subscribe and cannot, have no right to say that the Boys' School is a credit to Freemasonry; it is a credit to its members; it is no credit, but a discredit to those who do not subscribe, and I earnestly beg you to think these things are, doubtless, truly the proofs which are held up, and which we may hold up to our fellow countrymen of the advantages of the spirit by which the Craft in this country is animated; but they are only proof in that degree in which they are supported throughout the length and breadth of the Craft, by every one who can give any support at all. Do not let any brother be ashamed to give a small subscription. A great many small subscriptions will, in the end, come, as you well know, to a great deal more than a few large ones; and what you want is, that these institutions should rest upon the widest possible basis that they should be truly representatives of the spirit of this ancient fraternity."

We again commend Bro. Constable's "drawing" to the fraternity, and wish him and his tickets all the success they deserve.

CONSECRATION OF THE WYCOMBE LODGE No. 1501.

The consecration of the above lodge took place at the Town Hall, at High Wycombe, on Wednesday, the 1st July, 1874, under the most favourable circumstances, and which will augur well for the prosperity of the commencement of the sixteenth century of lodges at present flourishing under the Grand Lodge of England. The ceremonies of consecration and installation were taken by the Deputy Provincial Grand Master of the Province of Berks and Bucks, the Rev. and V. W. Bro. J. Studholme Brownrigg, in a manner which elicited the warmest praise of the brethren, who were fortunate enough to be present.

The brethren assembled in ante-room of the Town Hall, and walked in procession to the lodge room. The presiding officer took the chair, and appointed his Wardens pro. tem. viz.—Bros. Terry, S.W.; and Warner, J.W.; Bro. Grishook I.P.M. 771, acting as Director of Ceremonies. The lodge was then opened in the three degrees, and the presiding officer addressed the brethren on the nature of the meeting, when Bro. Strange, the acting Secretary, addressed the V.W. the D.P.G.M., as follows—"A number of brethren here assembled have requested me to inform you that the M.W.G.M. has been pleased to grant them a charter, bearing the date 3rd day, of June, 1874, authorizing them to open a lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, at the Town Hall of High Wycombe, in the county of Bucks, under the title of the Wycombe Lodge, and they are anxious that their lodge should be consecrated and their officers installed and invested according to ancient custom, for which purpose, they are now met, and await your pleasure.

The Consecrating Master made a snitable reply and directed that the W.M. and officers designate should present themselves at the pedestal in the following order, viz.:—Bros. Jessie Owens, W.M. designate; John Palmer, S.W.; William Cantrell, J.W.; — Penny, S.D.; Leopold M. Nixon, J.D.; — Seward, Secretary; — Huckville, I.G.; — Nowell, Tyler. The petition and warrant were then read, and the officers approved of in Masonic form. The Consecrating Master, the Rev. S. Brownrigg, then gave an oration on the nature and principles of the Order in a manner truly worthy of his position in the province and the dignity of the task he was called upon to perform.

Then followed an anthem—"Behold how pleasant and how good," composed by Bro. S. Tolley, P.M., 771, who directed the musical ceremonial, assisted by members of St. George's Chapel, Windsor—the dedication prayer, and reading from the volume of the sacred law was followed by the dedication of the lodge, and the anthem—"Not unto us, O Lord." The sacred portion of the dedication prayer was then given, and the presiding officer constituted the lodge. The anthem—"God be merciful unto us, and bless us," terminated the ceremony of consecration.

The V.W. the D. Prov. G.M. then installed the W.M., Bro. Jessie Owens, who appointed his officers as stated above.

There were present the V.W. the D. Prov. G.M. of Berks and Bucks, the Rev. J. Studholm Brownrigg, Jessie Owens, W.M. 1508; Bros. Warner, P.M. 23; F. Harrison, 27; Bingham, W.M. 771; Dixon, W.M. 209; Bryatt, P.M. 834 and 209; Grisbrook, 771; Tolley, P.M. 771; E. J. Scott, P.M. 749; Stacey, 209; Longhurst, P.M. 780; Swallow, P.M. 302; Hodges, P.M. 795; Strange, P.M. 209; Palmer, 771; Terry, F.M. 228, P.G.D.C. Herts; Bros. Nixon, 771; Marriot, 771; Briggs, 771; Welham Clarke, 771.

The united hearty good wishes for the Wycombe Lodge was given by the visiting brethren, and numerous propositions for joinings and initiations were received.

Obituary.

BRO. ALDERMAN YATES.

The funeral of Alderman Yates took place on the 4th ult., at the General Cemetery, Birmingham. The funeral cortege left the late Alderman's residence, Norfolk-road, Edgbaston, about half-past eleven o'clock, and arrived at the cemetery about twelve o'clock. There were six morning coaches, four of which preceded the hearse. The other two, containing the mourners, came immediately after the hearse, and were followed by fifteen private carriages. The principal mourners were Messrs. James Yates, Thomas Yates, J. W. Yates, Robert Yates, S. Cardell, H. Yates, C. Yates, and W. Yates. A considerable number of the members of the Masonic Body attended to pay honour to the deceased, who was a prominent Mason. Several members of the Town Council, and a number of deceased's workpeople were also present. The body of the deceased was enclosed in a metallic case, within an ornamental oak coffin, which was covered with a splendid pall, upon which was placed five beautiful wreaths of flowers. The coffin was placed in a new bricked grave; the burial service being performed by the Rev. J. C. Blissard. Messrs. Holliday, of New street, were the undertakers.

Masonic Tidings.

The Grand Masters' Lodge, No. 1, under the direction of the W.M., Bro. Colls, ably assisted by Bros. P.M. Case and Rawson, gave a jubilee entertainment, at the Star and Garter Hotel, Richmond, on Monday last, in honour of Bro. Giraud; the banquet was held in the new Pavilion, the tables being tastefully laid out with fruit and flowers. The dinner, served under the supervision of Mr. George Hunt, the newly appointed manager, gave perfect satisfaction to the assembled guests; and we trust the ladies, who honoured the brethren with their company, thereby adding a charm to a very pleasant evening, will have many a happy reminiscence of the grand jubilee.

We have great pleasure in announcing that "Memorials of the Masonic Union of 1873," will be ready in a few months, or less, and be limited to 100 copies, at half-a-guinea each. Names of intending subscribers should be at once forwarded to me, at Truro, Cornwall, for if the number is completed a list will be published with the work "Memorials" will contain an introduction by me, list of lodge at and before the Union, numbers, places of meeting, &c. Articles of union, and other official documents, and Dr. Dassigny's "Enquiry of 1744," also a Frontispiece. 100 copies will be issued simultaneously in the United States. The work is dedicated by permission to the M.W. the Grand Master of England.—W. J. HUGHAN.

CROSBY'S BALSMIC COUGH ELIXIR. CROSBY'S BALSMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opium, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief to Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which is the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy. SELECT TESTIMONIAL. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancer," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 12s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough. * Invaluable should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had gratis of all Chemists.

COLCHESTER.—Angel Lodge (No. 51).—The annual festival of this lodge was celebrated on Wednesday, 24th inst. The lodge was opened at about half-past three, and after the transaction of the usual business, the Installation of Bro. Chas. Cobb as W.M. for the ensuing year was proceeded with, the ceremony being most admirably and impressively performed by his brother, Bro. Alfred Cobb, P.M. 51, and P.G. S.W. Essex. The new W.M. then appointed and invested his officers as follows:—Bro. F. A. Cole, I.P.M.; A. Welch, S.W.; G. Gard Pye, J.W.; Rev. C. L. Acland, Chaplain; W. Slaney, Treasurer; T. J. Ralling, Secretary; S. W. Crookes, S.D.; Capt. Tyssen Holroyd, J.D.; C. O. G. Becker, D.C.; I. Harris, I.G.; J. Hanly and C. E. Denton, Stewards; and C. Gunner, Tyler. Letters of apology for non-attendance were received from the Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master for Essex (Bro. R. J. Bagshaw); the Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master for Suffolk, Bro. Lord Waveney; Bro. Sir. Edwd. Greathed, K.C.B. Commanding Eastern District; Bro. F. A. Philbrick, Q.C., Recorder of Colchester, P.M. 21, Past Junior Grand Warden England; and many other distinguished brethren. A cordial vote of thanks was passed to Bro. Alfred Cobb for the very excellent manner in which he had performed the ceremony of the day; and to the I.P.M., Bro. F. A. Cole, for the assiduity and zeal with which he had fulfilled the duties of W.M. during the past twelve months. Bro. Richard Bolton Barton, L.L.D., Past Provincial Grand Master for Western India, stated that the R.W.P.G.M. had desired him to express his great regret that recent illness prevented his attendance, and wishing the new W.M. every prosperity during his year of office. Forty-three brethren subsequently sat down to banquet in the Assembly-Room, Three Cups Hotel, under the presidency of the W.M. The repast was served à la Russe, and Bro. Besford's excellent catering elicited the warmest commendation from the brethren. During the evening the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, and in returning thanks for the toast of his health, the I.P.M. reported the gratifying fact that the lodge was a Vice President of the three Masonic charities, two of which had been completed during his term of office. He also stated that the lodge numbered more than 100 members, and was in a flourishing financial condition. The pleasures of the meeting were greatly enhanced by the very fine vocal renderings of Bros. E. Ransford, Donald King, and F. G. Cozens. Among the brethren present, either at the lodge or banquet, were—The Right Worshipful Bro. R. Bolton Barton, L.L.D., P.P.G.M. Western India; Bro. John Wright Carr, Prov. Grand Secretary Essex; Bros. H. F. Hills, P.M., P.G. J.W. Suffolk; G. H. Grimwood, Secretary, and Fred. Wheeler, S.W., of No. 1224; A. Gammon, P.M. No. 376; J. E. Wiseman, P.M. and Secretary No. 433; the Rev. Eustace H. Crate, W.M., T. Eustace, I.P.M., T. Rix, Secretary, W. H. Bateman, and R. Hunt, No. 607; A. R. Clench, S.W. No. 1312; and the following brethren of No.

51:—Bros. C. Cobb, W.M., A. Cobb, P.M., P.P.G.S.W., F. A. Cole, I.P.M., P.G.R., Samuel Chaplin, P.M., P.G.S.W.; Henry Samuel, P.M.; T. R. Quilter, P.M.; C. G. G. Becker, P.M.; W. Shury, P.M.; W. Slaney, P.M.; G. Allen, E. Clarkson, S. Cousens, S. W. Crookes, W. W. Daniell, C. E. Denton, L. W. Ford, C. Gunner, J. Hanly, I. Harris, T. S. Holyrod, D. Kerry, T. Mothersole, J. F. P. Osborne, G. G. Pye, T. R. Quilter, J. J. Ralling, H. Sandford, G. Simmons, W. S. Sprent, E. Strong, J. W. Thompson, A. Welch, and Thos. Williams.

PRESCOT.—Lodge of Loyalty (No. 86).—The brethren of this ancient lodge held their annual summer festival on Wednesday, the 8th inst., the scene of the day's "out" being the charming neighbourhood of Chester. The party numbered about 50, and started from Lime-street Station, Liverpool, by two saloon carriages, shortly after eleven o'clock, under direction of Bro. Shaw, the local superintendent of the line. On arriving at Chester, the pleasure-seekers at once betook themselves to the Groves, where most of them were soon comfortably seated in a large pleasure barge, to be rowed up to the Dee by four stout and experienced boatmen. Others preferring the exercise of rowing themselves, had a smaller boat, while others drove to Eaton Hall by road. The river was as smooth as it was possible for it to be, and with a clear blue sky and bright sunshine, nothing could be more delightful than that run of seven miles over a charmingly picturesque portion of the Dee. The rich foliage of the woods which skirt the ever-winding margin of the river seemed never to have been so green or so full; and never were so many little pleasure boats of every description gliding up and down as there were on Wednesday. Indeed it was evident that there were many more pleasure seekers visiting Chester, and enjoying a row up the Dee, than were included in the Lodge of Loyalty party. The lady rowers were unusually numerous too, adding very much to the picturesqueness of the scene. Shortly after three o'clock the party sat down to an excellent dinner, supplied by Mr. Bolland, of Chester. Bro. Scott, W.M., occupied the chair, Bro. J. W. R. Fowler, I.P.M., the vice-chair; and amongst other brethren present were Bros. J. W. J. Fowler, P.M.; J. T. Hall, P.M.; S. Morris, P.M.; W. Tyrer, J.W.; J. Vaughan, S.D.; H. Vaughan, I.G.; Beesley, Shaw, Fogg, Simpson, W.M. No. 1284, Kitchen, Holmes, &c. A formal toast list was dispensed with, but the health of the W.M. was cordially drunk, as was also that of Bro. Shaw. Bro. J. W. J. Fowler, sen., with thanks to him for his personal superintendence of the excellent arrangements, Bro. Bolland, with an acknowledgement of his excellent catering; the ladies and other visitors, &c. After dinner most of the party strolled through the lovely grounds of Eaton-hall, the seat of the Duke of Westminster, and about six o'clock the select party returned to Chester, where a capital knife-and fork tea was provided by Bro. Bolland. The train started for Liverpool about a quarter past ten, the arrival taking place about half-past eleven o'clock.

ROCHFORD.—Lodge of True Friendship (No. 160).—The installation meeting of this old and flourishing Lodge was held on the 24th June, at the Old Ship Inn, Rochford, when Bro. G. Lucking, P.G.A.D.C., installed Bro. J. H. Wardell, S.W., P.M., and Secretary 1000, and P.J. G.D., as the W.M. for the ensuing year, the whole of the ceremony being very ably performed. The W.M. then invested the following as his officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. A. Lucking, I.P.M.; J. Reeve, S.W.; the Rev. H. J. Hatch, J.W. and Chaplain; H. Wood, P.M., P.P.G.O., Treasurer; G. Burgess, P.M., P.P.J.G.D., Secretary; W. Bishop, S.D.; W. Allen, jun., J.D.; Thomas Gower, I.G.; G. Goodman, and H. Josling, Stewards; J. Allen, Tyler. It is worthy of note that the Treasurer and Secretary have each served their respective offices nearly twenty years, and that each received the congratulations of the brethren on their re-appointment. The brethren afterwards adjourned to a sumptuous repast, provided by Bro. H. D. Brown, of the Old Ship Inn, and presided over by the W.M., Bro. J. A. Wardell. Among the members present, besides those already mentioned, were—Bros. W. S. Allen, P.M., P.P.G.A.D.C., F. Wiseman, P.M.; James Wiseman, P.M.; P.P.G.S.B.; P. Richmond, P.M.; H. Luker, A. Harrington, J. C. Underwood, Z. Pettitt, W. Frost, H. D. Brown. Visitors—Bros. Willson, 1230, Barrett, 1000, Blackburne, 179. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and heartily responded to, some excellent songs were given by Bros. H. Wood, F. Wiseman, J. Wiseman, the Reysds, H. J. Hatch, J. J. R. Hemmann, and others, and the brethren separated, after spending a very agreeable and enjoyable evening.

BERWICK-UPON-TWEED.—Lodge St. David (No. 393).—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held within the new Masonic Hall, Parade, Berwick-upon-Tweed, on Tuesday evening, 7th July, 1874. Bro. A. B. Visick, W.M., occupied the chair, and was supported by no less than seven Past Masters; Bros. Chalmers I. Paton, Winlaw, Wood, Gibson, Macgregor, Moore, Hopper, and an excellent attendance of members. The lodge having been opened with prayer, the minutes of previous meetings read and confirmed, the ballot was taken for admission of a gentleman, and declared unanimous, a gentleman who had been previously balloted for was initiated into the mysteries. The notice of motion by Bro. Winlaw to invite the Provincial Grand Lodge to a "Kettle" was unanimously agreed to; and the motions of Bro. J. S. Macgregor, P.M., occupied a good deal of discussion, and having been decided against him, he gave notice of appeal to the Provincial Grand Lodge. An oration was given by Bro. Chalmers I. Paton, Past Master, and listened to with great attention by the whole of the brethren, and so pleased were they, that a request was made by the Worshipful Master that it should be sent to The Freemason, that when it appeared in print the members would have an opportunity of getting it. There being no further business the lodge was closed in ample form, the brethren joining hands and singing a song, "Weel may we all be, until we meet again," when all parted to meet again on another night.

SUTTON.—Frederick Lodge of Unity (No. 452).—The ordinary July meeting of this lodge was held on the 7th inst., at the Station Hotel, Sutton, Bro. A. J. Dickison, W.M. Bro. Manning was passed to the 2nd degree by the W.M., after which, Bro. Magnus Ohren, P.M., took the chair, and introduced his son, Mr. Charles Magnus Ohren, accountant, and Mr. Samuel Henry Christmas, warehouseman, into Freemasonry. The ceremony was of course ably performed in the hands of such a distinguished Mason. The following motions, notices of which had previously been given, by Bro. Magnus Ohren, were carried.—"That bye-law No. 17 be altered as follows—'Each subscribing member at the lodge meeting in May, in each year, shall pay for the current year's subscription the sum of £3 3s. or the sum of 10s. 6d., on the following conditions, viz:—'The £3 3s. subscription shall entitle the member to all the lodge privileges of a full subscribing member, but he shall in addition to the subscription of 10s. 6d. pay the sum of 15s. for each banquet he partakes of. Any 10s. 6d. subscribing member may change to the £3 3s. subscription by paying that amount to the Treasurer at the May meeting in any year, and any £3 3s. subscribing member may change to the 10s. 6d. subscription on giving notice at the May meeting in any year, and paying that amount to the Treasurer—provided always that all arrears be paid at the time of giving notice.' "That bye-law No. 3, be altered as follows—'That from and after the present year the meetings will be held on the third Tuesday in each month, instead of the first Tuesday as at present.' The Treasurer's report showed a balance in hand at the end of June of £49 15s. Stewards' names were afterwards given to represent this lodge in the three festivals of next year, and were as follows:—For the Royal Masonic Institution for Aged Freemasons, and Widows of Freemasons, Bro. Manning; for the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, the W.M.; for The Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, Bro. George Wright, S.D. Mr. George Christie of Perry Hill, Sydenham, was then proposed for initiation, and the brethren then adjourned to an excellent banquet.

MALDON.—Lodge of St. Peter (No. 1023).—The annual meeting of this lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, High Street, Maldon, on Thursday afternoon. After the business was completed, an adjournment was made to the Blue Boar Hotel, where an unusually excellent repast awaited them. The tables were tastefully decorated, and the hostess, Mrs. Hickford, well deserved the expressions of satisfaction she received. The new W.M., Bro. W. W. Moffatt, occupied the chair, and there were also present Bros. W. Humphreys, G. P. Jay, T. Aldham, and J. W. Quihampton, P.M.'s; the Rev. E. R. Harwood, P.M., P.P.G.C.; S. Ratcliff, W. F. Francis, W. C. Bell, W. Wright, C. Clarke, F. Freeman, and R. Nightingale; A. C. Veley, Thomas Smeed, J. Nicholls, and T. Wood, P.M.'s, and F. Whitmore, 276; the Rev. E. H. Crute, W.M. 697, P.P.G.C.; Thomas Eustace, P.M. 697, and John Wright Carr, Provincial Grand Secretary, P.M. 160, &c., &c. Owing in great measure to the holding of meetings on the previous day at Colchester, Grays, and Rochford, the muster was not large, but a very pleasant evening was spent.

HAMPTON.—Lebanon Lodge (No. 1326).—An emergency meeting of this prosperous lodge was held on Thursday, July 2nd, at the Red Lion Hotel, Hampton. Brother W. Hammond, W.M., presided. The lodge was opened at half-past three. Messrs. C. Horne, J. Worster, J. Brogden, and C. W. Baker were initiated. Bros. D. D. Weinhausen, 1423; M. Underwood, 1423; and M. Munday, 142 were passed; and Bros. H. Faija, 1423, and T. W. Stone were raised. All the work was performed by the W.M. in an admirable manner. There were present during the afternoon and evening Bros. Walters, P.G. Steward; Middlesex, P.M., Sec.; H. Potter, P.M., W.S.; E. Gilbert, S.D.; R. W. Williams, Organist; J. J. Marsh; W. Y. Laing, P.M.; H. Jones, and many others. The visitors were Bros. D. R. Raw, P.M., 969; Burhitt, 933; W. Lane, S.W., 28; W. Munday, 1423; H. Faija, 1413; D. D. Weinhausen, 1423; M. Underwood, 1423; and others. A cold collation followed the work. The usual toasts were given and responded to.

ALDERSHOT.—Aldershot Camp Lodge (No. 1331).—The regular monthly meeting of this flourishing lodge was held on the 2nd inst., when the W.M., Bro. McKenzie, with the following officers, and a good attendance of the brethren, were present, viz:—Bros. Captain Richardson, P.M. and Treasurer; Smith, S.W.; Bennett, J.W.; Lucas, Secretary; Anderson, S.D.; J. Walton Mayer, J.D.; Griffiths, I.G.; Burns, Tyler. The lodge having been opened in the first degree, the minutes of the previous regular meeting were read and confirmed. Ballots were taken separately for two brethren as joining members, which were in each case unanimous. Bros. Kitson, Edmonds, and Rowsell, were interrogated to ascertain their proficiency in the first degree, which proving satisfactory, they were each entrusted with a test of merit, and retired. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, those brethren were admitted, and duly proposed as F.C.'s the explanation of the Tracing Board being given by Bro. Captain Richardson. Bros. Knight, and Hopkins having proved themselves proficient in the second degree were entrusted, and retired. The lodge was opened in the third degree, and those brethren raised to the sublime degree of M.M. The lodge was resumed to the first degree, and the W.M. notified that the R.W. P. Grand Master had intimated his intention of holding the annual meeting of the P.G. Lodge of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight, at Aldershot, on the 24th inst. After several propositions for candidates for initiation had been made and seconded, Bro. P.M. Richardson, in appropriate terms, proposed and Bro. Bennett, J.W., seconded, and the brethren resolved unanimously, that a vote of condolence with the relatives of the late lamented Bro. J. Rankin Stebbing, D.G.M. of the Province, and P.G.D. of England, be recorded in the lodge minutes, and that a copy of the resolution be prepared and forwarded to his next of kin, through the P.G. Secretary. The lodge was then closed with solemn prayer about half-past nine o'clock, and adjourned until the first Thursday evening in August.

LANCASTER.—Duke of Lancaster Lodge (No. 1353).—The annual festival and installation of this young and flourishing lodge, took place on Wednesday, July 1st, at the Masonic Hall, Lancaster, when there were present—J. Bell, W.M.; W. Heald, S.W.; W. S. Carr, Acting J.W.; J. Acton, Hon. Sec.; J. Ellersbaw, Acting S.D.; R. Wolfenden, J.D.; R. Parkinson, S.S.; J. Taylor, Organist; J. Watson, Tyler, Bros. E. Terry, W. Dixon, T. Longmire, H. Coates, J. Kent, Wm. Harrison, J. Bannister, F. G. Dale, D. Pattison, W. Jackson, Visitors, J. Hatch, P.M. and Treas. 281; E. Simpson, P.M. and Hon. Sec. 281; T. Dodgson, P.M. 995, W.M. 1390; J. Case, P.M. 995; E. J. Wilson, 950; J. Lowett, J.S. 281; E. Airey, W.M. 281; W. Stewartson, S.D. 950; H. Eankrozer, P.M. 61. At two o'clock the W.M. opened the lodge in regular form. The minutes of the preceding meetings were read and confirmed; the lodge was opened in the second degree, when Bro. J. Bell, W.M., vacated the chair, which was taken by the Installing Master of the day, Bro. Thomas Dodgson, P.M., Z. 995, and W.M. 1390. Bro. W. Heald, the W.M. Elect, was then presented by Bros. Bell, W.M., and Barrow, P.M. The usual questions were read and assented to, and the lodge was opened in the third degree, when the W.M. elect was presented to a Board of Installed Masters, and was then installed into the chair of K.S., by the Installing Master, in his usual able and impressive manner. The New Worshipful Master was saluted in the three degrees by the brethren, who then invested the following brethren as his officers for the ensuing year, viz:—Bros. J. Bell, I.P.M.; J. Acton, S.W.; W. S. Carr, J.W.; J. Ellersbaw, Treas.; J. Conlon, Sec.; R. Wolfenden, S.D.; J. Bannister, J.D.; E. Ferry, I.G.; J. Taylor, Organist; R. Parkinson, S.S.; Longman, J.S.; and J. Watson, Tyler. A beautiful P.M. jewel was then presented by the newly installed Master to Bro. J. Bell, the retiring P.M., by the members of the Duke of Lancaster Lodge, as a token of their esteem, July 1st. 1804. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to Bro. Longmire's, West View Hotel, Morecambe, where the banquet was held. The new W.M., Bro. Heald, presided, supported on his right by Bro. Dodgson, the Installing Master, Lieut. Airey, 24th L.A.V., W.M. 281; Simpson, P.M. and Hon. Sec. 281; B. Hutch, P.M. and Treas. 281; while on his left were B. Bell, I.P.M.; Rev. E. Chadwick, B. Barrow, P.M.; and others. The W.M. gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, which were received with great applause. F. M. Bell, in eulogistic terms, proposed "The Health of the W.M.," which was drunk with the utmost enthusiasm, demonstrating that Bro. Heald, the W.M., was held in the highest esteem by every member of the lodge. The W.M., in responding, thanked the brethren for the very high honour it was their pleasure to bestow upon him so unanimously, and he promised to them that during his term of office, it would be his bounden duty to have the landmarks of the constitutions most rigidly carried out, for by so doing the lodge he was then Master of would be respected, and he trusted that his officers would render him every assistance in their power, and would feel grateful for their constant attendance at the lodge meetings, so that the working of Masonry might be carried out in the "Duke" with satisfaction to the brethren. The W.M. then gave "The Health of Bro. Bell, I.P.M.," who in responding, thanked the brethren for the kind presentation he had received from them that day (a Past Master's jewel) which it would be the pride of his life to wear on all Masonic occasions, and after his days had closed, would hand it down to his offspring, as a family heirloom. "The Health of the Wardens," was given by Bro. F. G. Dale, which was drunk most enthusiastically, and briefly responded to by Bro. Acton, S.W., and Bro. W. S. Carr, J.W. Bro. Barrow,

P.M., proposed "The Health of the Inst. Officer, Bro. S. Dodgson, P.M. and Z. 295, W.M. 1390, and in doing so dwelt largely on Bro. Dodgson's very able and impressive manner, which was a treat to such of the brethren who had listened to it. Bro. Dodgson, in responding, was received with the utmost enthusiasm, over and over again. He said it gave him great pleasure to attend at any time when in his power to do anything for Masonry, as his feeble efforts could advance it. He expressed his great interest in the Duke of Lancaster Lodge, and was proud to see it advanced in the manner it was doing, and was glad that the working was done with so much perfection, he exhorted every brother to the utmost vigilance on behalf of Masonry, and ought to be the aim of every brother to endeavour to attain to that high position, they expressed their pleasure that day of placing their W.M. in the chair, and sincerely thanked them for their kind invitation that day, and hoped that the G.A.O.T.U. would spare him for many years to come to see the efforts of W.M.'s installed into the chair in the Duke of Lancaster Lodge. The minutes of Bro. J. Case, P.M. 995, were then read and received most enthusiastically by the brethren. He thanked them for his kind expression, and was very happy at all times his best to advance the cause of Masonry. P.M. Hartly, in rising to propose the next toast, said he felt great pleasure in doing so, and doubt when they heard what it was it would be received with the utmost enthusiasm; "Prosperity to The Lancaster Lodge, Fortitude, the Rowley, and the Duke of Lancaster." It gave him great satisfaction to be called on to give the toast—he named his Mother Lodge (The Fortitude), and he coupled with the toast, Lieut. Airey, 281; P.M. and Hon. Sec. Simpson, 281; P.M. and Treas. Hatch, 281. W.M. Airey, in responding, stated that it gave him great pleasure to be amongst the brethren of the Duke of Lancaster Lodge that day, and hoped that unanimity might long prevail among the brethren forming the Lancaster Lodge, that nothing but a kindred spirit of rivalry would exist to stimulate them in their work of Masonry, and invited the brethren of the other lodges to the meetings of the other two lodges, a spirit of emulation might exist in their midst, for there was always something to be learned. He thanked them most sincerely for the toast, and enthusiastic manner they had received. P.M. Simpson in responding, said that the able remarks of W.M. Airey were nothing for him to add, but he might say that he attended the meetings of the Duke, and was glad to see the lodge so prosperous, and hoped that nothing but amity and good feeling would always exist among Masons, no matter what lodge they belonged to. P.M. Hatch in responding, was received with great enthusiasm, and he knew very well they would require something from him, and stated this was not the first time he was received at their hospitable table, he was present at the consecration and installation of the lodge. He then went on to give good practical advice to the brethren, and stated that that day would be a red-letter day in his life, for he never witnessed an installation ceremony was delivered with so much animation, and he was sorry that Bro. Dodgson left before he had the opportunity and satisfaction of personally thanking him for his able assistance in considering the number of installations he witnessed, never in his life did he listen to a beautiful ceremony before. The minutes of the Sec. were read and were briefly responded to by Treas. Ellersbaw and Sec. Conlon. The junior officers were then given. Bro. W. S. D., responded on their behalf. "The Health of the Brethren" were given. Bro. Stewartson, 950, responded, and thanked the W.M. for his kind invitation, and stated the happy memory of that day would be long imprinted on his memory. Bro. Eankrozer, P.M. 61, responded, and said it gave him great pleasure to be among them that day, as he was delighted, and would wish to his life to inform his brethren in Yorkshire with open friendship he was received by the cashre brethren. The W.M. next proposed asonic Charities." Bro. Bell, I.P.M. responded, and urged the brethren to subscribe liberally to such institutions, as they were doing immense good. He himself had been made a life Governor of the West-Lancashire province during his year of office, by a vote of the members of the lodge, and further intimated that he would be satisfied until the W.M. of the lodge would be a life governor of all the charities. (Applause.) Several other toasts followed, including "The Host and Hostess," when "The Tyler's Toast" brought the banquet to an end, every brother appearing delighted. It may be marked that great praise was given to Bro. Congreave for his catering. The banquet was lived during the day with the singing of Mrs. Wood, Crane, and Parkinson.

LIVERPOOL.—De Grey and Ripon Lodge, No. 1356.—No lodge in the province of West Lancashire has made greater progress in respect of numbers, or more maintained its influence and position with respect to the quality of its members, than the De Grey and Ripon Lodge, No. 1356; and, therefore, the proceedings in connection with the annual gathering of its members on Wednesday week, the 8th inst., were marked by the greatest success and satisfaction. As an introduction to a long day of business and pleasure, the brethren were summoned to meet in the lodge room, No. 80, North Hill-street, Westeth-park, at eight o'clock in the morning, when and where the ceremony of installing Bro. Edward O. C. Rothwell, W.M.-elect, was fixed to take place. Even with this early hour for attendance on Masonic duties, there was a very large and most influential gathering of the brethren, who thereby evinced their great interest in the interesting day's proceedings. Bro. Thomas Evans, W.M., opened the lodge in simple and solemn form, supported by Bros. B. Marson, P.M.; S. E. Ibbs, P.M.; A. Vinkup, P.M.; E. O. C. Rothwell, S.W.; J. Dell, J.W.; J. Ireland, Treas.; J. Jones, Sec.; T. Horne, S.D.; T. Nickson, J.D.; C. Costigan, S.; R. Roberts, S.; and W. G. Veale, W.M., and a full attendance of members of the lodge. After the minutes of the previous lodge meeting had been duly read and confirmed, the installing W.M., Bro. Evans, proceeded to install his successor, Bro. Edward O. C. Rothwell, as the W.M. of the lodge for the ensuing year. The whole of the ceremony was performed by Bro. Evans in a most masterly and effective manner, thus closing a year's office in a style which reflected the highest credit upon him as a W.M. of the Order. The W.M. subsequently vested the following as his officers:—Bros. J. Dell, S. W.; T. Horne, J. W.; J. Ireland, Treasurer (re-elected); J. Jones, Secretary (re-appointed); W. G. Veale, Org.; T. Nickson, D.; Williams, J. D. (by proxy); C. Costigan, S.; Bros. Roberts and Woolbridge, Stewards; and Bro. P. M. Larsen, P.M., 594, was elected Master of the lodge. The business afterwards comprised the voting of a jewel to Bro. Veale for his invaluable services as Organist, to the lodge, and after this had been appropriately acknowledged, the lodge was closed in harmony. Over the brethren of the lodge, with a numerous body of visitors, proceeded to the West-street station of the London and North-Western Railway, where they joined a very large and elegant conveyance of ladies. Getting on board a special carriage, the jolly party, numbering about 250 persons, started shortly after seven o'clock for the lovely and picturesque region of the Overton-hills. The railway arrangements were of a very satisfactory kind, and were so arranged as they were by Bro. Shaw, and a very large party arrived at Frodsham shortly after midday. "Tracks" were at once made on the top of the hill, where a very excellent dinner was provided by Mr. Rigby, the dining arrangements being all the more creditable to the lodge from the fact that only about half the number of those who were actually present was ranted. As it was, the arrangements of the day and pleasant summer day's out were of the most satisfactory kind, and every one could but have been highly delighted with the excursion. There was much jollity over the summit of the hill, after the party had arrived at the station, and when the summit was reached there was a sufficiency of interesting sights to satisfy the most exacting. The views from the tops of the Overton Hills are unequalled in this neighbourhood, and therefore the curious at once rushed to each point of the extensive range to gaze upon a picture of the most captivating character; but, in the midst of this sight-seeing, the party did not forget the all-important dinner, which had been liberally provided by Mr. Rigby. Dinner over, the ladies and brethren were subsequently invited to witness the presentation of a P.M.'s jewel to Bro. T. Evans, I.P.M., made by the W.M. (Bro. Rothwell), which formed one of the choicest features of an excellent programme, inasmuch as it was made the means of recognising the valuable services rendered by Bro. Evans to the lodge. The "Health of the W.M.," which caused the greatest enthusiasm was given by Bro. Evans, I.P.M., who spoke very highly of the choice made by the brethren, and wished he might have as comfortable, happy, and prosperous a year of office as he (Bro. Evans) had enjoyed. Bro. E. O. C. Rothwell, W.M., in returning thanks, assured the brethren that he would spare no efforts in his endeavour to fulfil the duties of the chair to the entire satisfaction of the brethren. The W.M. then said he had now the most pleasing duty to perform of proposing the health of, and presenting a P.M.'s jewel to, Bro. Thomas Evans, I.P.M. He thought himself right in saying that a more worthy Master he could not mention, and therefore, he had all the greater pleasure in presenting him with the jewel as a token of the esteem in which he was held by all the brethren. (Hear, hear). He wished Bro. Evans long life to wear it, and trusted it would be looked upon by his children as a token of the high place he held in the affections of the brethren of the De Grey and Ripon Lodge. Bro. Evans very feelingly acknowledged the presentation, and hoped he would have some one to whom he could hand down the jewel as the gift of a goodly number of good men. (Loud cheers). "The Press," given by the W.M., was acknowledged by Bro. MacKenzie. "The Ladies," happily proposed by Bro. Ibbs, P.M., was most felicitously acknowledged by Bro. A. Winkup, F.M. What with dancing, croquet, roaming through the woods, and other kindred amusements, the afternoon passed most pleasantly; and, as a very valuable commemoration of the day's out, Bro. Burrows, the clever photographer, took a capital group of the general company, which will doubtless be treasured as a memento of the pleasant day's out by those who were photographed. Tea was served during the afternoon, and about nine o'clock the party made their way to the station at Frodsham, where a special train was provided, and arrived safely in Liverpool at eleven o'clock; very much delighted with their day's out at the Overton Hills. Excellent music was provided by a detachment of the band of the 80th L.R.V. (Press' Guard), under the conductorship of Bro. Veale, the band master of the corps.

All three degrees were worked, the first by Bro. Balfour, of 332, the second by Bro. J. Duthie, of 219, and the third by the acting R.W.M., all the ceremonies being most efficiently rendered.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Kilwinning (No. 4) held their monthly meeting in their own hall, on Wednesday, July 1st. The R.W.M., Bro. Thornborn, was early at his post, but the candidate being unable to attend, the only business done was the raising a relief fund for the assistance of a worthy distressed brother.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Caledonian Railway (No. 354) held their monthly meeting in St. Marks' Hall, July 1st. Bro. James Shaw, R.W.M., presiding, assisted by Bros. J. Stratford, S.W.; J. Dolman, acting J.W.; J. Dunn, Sec.; and A. A. Smith, P.M. There was one candidate for initiation, and the new R.W.M., by the careful way in which he performed the ceremony, is evidently determined that the ancient prestige of the lodge shall not suffer at his hands. The brethren were all highly gratified with the working of the Master.

GLASGOW.—Clyde Lodge (No. 408).—This lodge met on Friday, July 3, at 170, Buchanan-street. Bro. D. Downie, R.W.M., presiding, assisted by Bros. J. McGinnis, S.W., and Edward Acking, J.W. The work, which was excellently rendered, consisted of an initiation by the R.W.M., and a passing and raising, which ceremonies were performed by R. Mitchell, Depute Master and P.M. of 332. The lodge subsequently, after considerable discussion, agreed to raise the annual subscription of the lodge, so as to form a fund to increase that already set apart for benevolence.

A lodge of Excellent Masters, and subsequently, a Royal Arch Chapter, were opened, when Comp. James Crabb, P.Z. of 50, conferred both those degrees on three of the Mark Masters present, Comp. Duthie acting as P.S.

GLASGOW.—St. Rollox Chapter (No. 144) held its monthly meeting on Friday, the 10th inst. A lodge of Mark Masters was opened with R. Bell, Z., as W.M.M., J. McLeish, S.W., and T. Annand as J.W. Visitor Bro. Shield, of Boston, U. S. Subsequently the chapter was opened, and Comp. Shaw was unanimously elected Scribe E., in the place of Comp. Reid, who, since he has been called to the chair of St. Andrew, could not find the time to devote to this office. Comp. Shields was then unanimously elected an honorary member of the Chapter, and imparted considerable instruction to the Comps. by showing them the way a chapter was opened in America. Comp. Wheeler expressed his regret that there had not been a conference called of the English speaking Masons and Royal Arch Comps. so as to assimilate the working, as England, Ireland, Scotland, and America each having at present their own peculiarities, and each differing from all the others. Comp. Shield and Comp. Bell, Z., fully endorsed these views; Comp. Shield arguing that no one should be allowed to fill the chair, either of a lodge or chapter, till he was conversant with the different modes of working, as long as they were allowed to exist, so that visitors from a foreign jurisdiction might find no difficulty in gaining admission to any properly constituted body, if he gave the correct replies, according to the ritual he had been made under.

GLASGOW.—Star Lodge (No. 219) met in their own hall, 12, Tron-gate, on the 6th instant. Bro. J. Wilson, R.W.M., in the chair; J. Duthie, S.W.; J. Horn, J.W. The work consisted of one passing and two raisings, which were admirably rendered by Bro. J. Bain.

Fletcher, presiding, assisted by nearly all the office bearers of the lodge. There was one gentleman for initiation, who was introduced into the Order by Bro. Wm. Bell, the Deputy Master, in a faultless style.

GLASGOW.—Thistle and Rose Lodge (No. 73). This lodge met, on the 7th instant, at 170, Buchanan-street. G. Weston, R.W.M. in the chair; A. McLeod, acting S.W.; Wm. McGregor, J.W.; G. McDonald, I.P.M.; R. Richards, Sec. At the conclusion of the lodge business the R.W.M. announced the death of the Earl of Dalhousie, and paid a well-merited compliment to his memory. Bro. G. McDonald, I.P.M., spoke of the truly Masonic qualities that had always characterised the noble Earl when he sat on the Masonic throne at Edinburgh, and while officiating at the laying of several foundation stones at which he had been present.

GLASGOW.—Scotia Lodge (No. 148) held their monthly meeting on the 8th instant, at which there was a full attendance of members. Bro. John Miller, R.W.M., in the chair, who was assisted by Bros. J. Gardner, S.W.; J. Nott, J.W.; James Singleton, P.M.; John Matthison, I.P.M.; G. H. McNaught, R.W.M. 275; G. Thallon, P.M. 362. One brother was passed to the second degree by P.M. Singleton. The lodge having been raised to the third degree, Bro. Thallon, on behalf of the St. Clair Lodge, requested that a brother of theirs, who was going abroad, might be raised along with the four for the Scotia. I.P.M. Mathison then, at the request of the R.W.M., conferred the sublime degree on five brethren in a style which showed that his late severe illness had not materially weakened either his bodily or mental powers.

GLASGOW.—St. Andrew's Lodge (No. 465) held an emergency meeting at 3 o'clock on Saturday, the 11th instant, to confer the degrees on some brethren who were going to India. The R.W.M., Bro. David Read, was punctually at his post, and was well supported by office bearers, J. M. Leish, D.M.; J. Clark, S.W.; A. Youlle, J.W. The three degrees were all wrought, and then the lodge was closed in harmony, with kind wishes for the brethren who were going abroad.

LEITH.—Lodge Canongate and Leith (No. 5).—On Thursday evening, the 7th inst., the usual monthly meeting of the above lodge was held in their lodge room, Constitution-street, Leith. There was a large number of brethren present, and after the business more immediately connected with the lodge had been transacted, several eminent members of the Craft were proposed by the Right Worshipful Master, Bro. John Laurie, Grand Secretary, G.L. Scot., for affiliation, which was unanimously and most heartily agreed to. Deputations from various lodges having been received, the Right Worshipful Master proceeded with the work of affiliation. The following brethren were affiliated and duly enrolled members of the ancient and most honourable lodge, viz:—Chevalier Thevenot, of the Grand Orient of France; the Hon. Joseph King Wattly, Chief Justice, Pro. Grand Master, West India Islands, Tobago; Captain Charles Hunter, of Glencarss, P.G.M. of Aberdeenshire, East; Rev. Dr. Gray, Grand Chaplain; Edward Pike Albert, Esq., London; D. Swanston, R.W.M. Lodge Caledonia, Edinburgh, No. 392; P. Nevin, Esq., Lodge No. 8, Edinburgh; John Hervey, Esq., Grand Secretary, G.L. of England; James Smith, Esq., Roman Eagle, No. 160; Charles Sey, Esq., No. 36; and George M. Davidson, Esq., Lodge No. 405. The R.W.M. having gone through the ritual, the several brethren present in turn advanced to the throne, and in expressive and appropriate terms replied to the Right Worshipful Master's oration. The R.W.M. thereafter called the lodge to refreshment, and gave the usual loyal and patriotic toasts, and in proposing the Grand Lodge of Scotland, alluded in feeling and graceful terms to the loss the brethren had sustained through the death of two of its most esteemed and honoured members, Lord Dalhousie, P.G.M., and Lord James Murray, D.G.M. The next monthly meeting will be almost exclusively a musical reunion, when it is expected that several brethren of talent not unknown to fame will honour the lodge with their presence.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF SUFFOLK.

The annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Freemasons for Suffolk was held on Monday, the 6th inst., at Lowestoft, under the presidency of the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, Lord Waveney.

Lowestoft is the only town in the province, except Ipswich, which has more than one lodge of Freemasons, and, singularly enough, it contains both the oldest, Lodge Unity, No. 71, and the youngest, Lodge St. Margaret, No. 1452, the last named having been consecrated by Lord Waveney about six months ago.

The two lodges entered most heartily into the pleasurable work of receiving the Provincial Grand Lodge, and the arrangements made were most excellent. The streets were gay with flags and festoons, particularly in the neighbourhood of the Masonic Hall and the Town Hall, where the meetings were held. The Finance Board met in the morning at the Masonic Hall, and Grand Lodge was held at the Town Hall.

All the lodges in the province were represented, and the muster was one of the largest for many years, about 140 being present. Among the brethren present were V.W. Bro. the Rev. C. J. Martyn, P.G.C. of England; the Rev. E. I. Lockwood, Deputy Provincial Grand Master; Bro. W. Boby, P.G.S.W.; Bro. J. F. Hills, P.J.G.W.; Bro. S. Freeman, P.G. Treasurer; Bro. W. H. Lucia, P.G. Secretary; Bro. A. Barber, P.G.O.; Bro. W. E. Bailey, P.G.A., Secretary; Bro. Emra Holmes, P.G.R., Bro. A. Gamman, P.G.S.B.; Bro. Newton Garrett, P.P.G.R., Bro. F. B. Strathern, P.P.S.G.W.; Bro. W. O. Chambers, P.P.G.S. of W.; Bro. N. Tracey, P.P.J.G.W.; Bro. C. S. Pedgrift, P.P.G.R.; Bro. S. B. King, P.P.S.J.D.; Bro. J. S. Gissing, P.P.J.G.W.; Bro. S. H. Wright, P.P.G.R.; Bro. Hayward, P.P.G.D.C.; Bro. F. B. Burtall, P.P.G.P.; Bro. T. Williams, W.M. 71; Bro. Major Allez, W.M. 1452; Bro. Benjamin Head, P.G.D. of England; Bro. the Rev. T. G. Beaumont, P.G. Chaplain, and a few distinguished visiting brethren from other provinces.

Ten guineas were voted for the Masonic Girls' School, and the same sum for the Boys' School, and £5 each to the Royal Benevolent Institution for aged Freemasons, and for the widows of Freemasons. There were also three grants made of £5 each to the widows of three old Masons in this Province.

The R.W. Prov. G.M. appointed and invested the following brethren as officers for the next two years.—P.G.J.W., Bros. W. O. Chambers, 1452, Lowestoft; Captain C. J. T. Oakes, P.G. Reg., 1008, Bury St. Edmunds; Thomas Marks, P.G.A.D.C., 71, Lowestoft; Smith 516, Stowmarket; T. F. Lucis, Bury St. Edmunds, and H. Sidney, Ipswich, P.G. Stwds. Bro. S. Freeman, was unanimously re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Syer, as Tyler. Bro. the Rev. A. Moore was then appointed and invested as Chaplain.

The R.W.P.G.M. congratulated the province of Suffolk on the large amount sent up for the aged Freemasons on the occasion when he presided, the subscription on that occasion being, he remarked, the largest ever obtained, except on one occasion, when the Prince of Wales presided. His lordship also congratulated Provincial Grand Lodge on the steady growth Freemasonry continues to make in the province. The Provincial Grand Lodge, his lordship announced, will be held next year at Ipswich.

The brethren formed in procession, under the superintendence of Bro. Emra Holmes, Prov. G. Reg., and P. Prov. G.A.D.C., who at the special request of the Prov. Grand Master, acted as Grand Director of Ceremonies, in the absence of Bro. C. Long, and who was ably assisted in his arduous duties by Bros. N. Tracey, and S. B. King, P. Prov. G.S.D., and preceded by their respective banners, and headed by an excellent band of the East Norfolk Militia, marched to St. Margaret's Church, where an excellent sermon was preached, by the Rev. T. G. Beaumont, the P.G. Chaplain for the past two years. The service was full choral, and was very effectively sung by the choir, which is one of the best in Suffolk, and numbers about 40 members, Bro. Mann, the talented organist of the church, accompanied, and Bro. A. J. Barber played the voluntaries. The collection amounted to about £13 4s., and was devoted to the Lowestoft Hospital, and the Infirmary. After service the brethren again formed in procession, and went back to the Town Hall, to finish the business of the Grand Lodge, which was then formally closed.

We ought not to omit to notice that prior to closing, Bro. Boby brought forward an admirable scheme for concentrating the energies and votes of the province in aid of the various charities. Bro. Garret supported the scheme, and did also Bro. C. J. Martyn. It was however strongly opposed by Bro. Strathern, and on the motion to carry it into effect being put from the chair, it was rejected by a narrow majority, a feeling seeming to prevail amongst the brethren that Ipswich, with its four lodges, would acquire a paramount influence over the other lodges in the province. The Acting Director of Ceremonies suggested that the Grand Master's sword was non est inventus and the P. G. Secretary was directed to enquire into its loss, and purchase a fresh one if necessary. It was a subject of remark, that whilst the meeting had been freely advertised in the local papers, The Freemason, the only organ of the Fraternity, was not included. Hence no doubt the paucity of visitors from other provinces.

The brethren, to the number of about 120 afterwards sat down to the capital banquet, most liberally supplied by Bro. Clark, of the Suffolk Hotel. The menu was such as must have gratified the most fastidious, the dessert was profusely abundant, and the wines were of the finest vintages.

After the usual loyal toasts, Lord Waveney gave "The health of the G.M. of England (the Marquess of Ripon) and the Grand Officers, for which the Rev. C. J. Martyn, P.G. Chaplain responded.

The D.P.G.M. Bro. the Rev. E. I. Lockwood then proposed "The health of the D.G.M. Lord Waveney," which was enthusiastically drunk.

Lord Waveney, in responding, expressed a deep sense of the courtesy and good feeling invariably shown towards him by the brethren, and said it would be an encouragement for him to persevere in the course he marked out for himself when he first took the office. His Lordship then proposed "The health of the Provincial Grand Officers," for whom the Rev. E. I. Lockwood responded.

The "Visiting Brethren from other provinces" was then given from the chair, and was responded to by Bro. Carr, P.P.G. Secretary of Essex.

The P.G.M. gave "Success to the Lodges of the Province," with special thanks to the Lowestoft lodges for their magnificent hospitality.

Major Allez and Bro. Williams, the Master of the Lowestoft lodges, suitably responded.

The toast of "The Masonic Charities" was next given from the chair, and responded to by Bro. Head.

The P.G.M. then expressed his acknowledgments to the P.G. Secretary, and the other P. Officers, for their valuable assistance; and afterwards left to take the special train, which had been kindly provided by the Great Eastern Company, but which, unfortunately, though it left Lowestoft at half-past seven, did not arrive at Ipswich till after midnight.

The chair for the remainder of the evening was taken by the Rev. C. J. Martyn, who proposed in very eulogistic terms "The health of the P.G. Secretary, Bro. W. H. Lucia," who in responding, urged the claims of the Masonic charities, and congratulated the lodge for having given to those institutions years, besides having spent a good deal in leaving widows of deceased members, and in addition to the large amount which had been taken up from private lodges and individual members.

The Chairman then gave "The health of Bro. Athearn," who responded. This was followed by the toast of "The Press," acknowledged by J. F. Lucia, of the Bury Free Press; "The Health of the Organist, Bro. Mann," who briefly acknowledged it, and to whose great professional merit Bro. Fearnside bore testimony; and the Ladies" responded to by Bro. Bowler, Major Allez.

During the evening some capital songs were sung, and everything passed off most pleasantly.

GRAND MARK LODGE.

The annual summer festival of Mark Grand Lodge, in aid of the Benevolent Fund attached to it, was held on Wednesday last, at the Greyhound Hotel, Richmond, Sir Edmund H. Bouverie formerly a Deputy Grand Master of the Order presided; about 70 brethren and ladies attended him. Among the brethren were Bros. Burdett, H. C. Levander, Rev. D. Shaboe, Charles Horsley, Charles Lacey, D. M. Dewar, J. Wynne, W. Roebuck, S. Rosenthal, E. M. G. F. Richardson, Clement Stretton, E. J. Stidolph, W. C. Gilles, W. Hudson, J. F. Basnett, George Page, L. J. V. G. F. Binckes (Grand Secretary), and H. Binckes, (Assistant Secretary).

The banquet was admirably served by Bro. Burdett, the proprietor of the Greyhound, and in the cloth was removed, the chairman proposed the Mark Masonic toasts.

In proposing the first toast "The Queen, and Mark Masonry," he said that usually in our lodges the speeches were a great deal longer, which was a Masonic secret he was afraid of imparting, but he was sure that the brethren and ladies present would give the hearty appreciation and enthusiasm to the toast of "The Queen and Mark Masonry," as he had always done. The many revolutionary changes which had taken place in the last 50 years had made no alteration in this respect.

The toast having been cordially greeted, the Chairman next proposed "The Grand Mark Mason, the Right Hon. Earl Percy," and in doing so said the company would sympathise with his lordship in lately losing a distinguished member of his family as the Earl of Northumberland-house. His absence from that meeting was produced due to his having to superintend his residence at Lion House. All Mark Masons owed a deep debt of gratitude for the way in which he presided over the Order, and wished his health would enable him to come more frequently than he did among them. Such an assiduous Mason as he was would always be an immense service to the different branches of Masonry.

The Chairman then, in appropriate terms, proposed "The Past Grand Masters, Lord John, the Earl of Carnarvon, Viscount Holdernesse, M.P.; W. W. Beach, M.P., and the Earl of G. R. Portal, M.A." He remarked that this was a long and distinguished list of noble gentlemen for Mark Masonry to preside over, since it was established as a Grand Body in this country; and Mark Masons ought well to be proud in having secured such eminent men as their rulers. He was happy to say that on the first occasion of this Benevolent Fund Festival being held the then Grand Master, Bro. Burdett, presided over the company. They met at the Mitre, Hampton Court, and had a very successful meeting.

The Chairman next proposed "The Deputy Grand Master, the Earl of Limerick, and the Grand Officers, present and past." The Earl of Limerick he said, was a most energetic Mason, both in the Grand Lodge and Mark, and had always given great assistance to the various degrees of Masonry. The Grand Officers had won for themselves a title to the respect of their brethren, and zealously promoted the extension of the degree, and the cause of the Benevolent Fund.

Colonel Burdett responded, and took the opportunity, he said, although he was called upon unexpectedly to inform the chairman and brethren that he was ready at all times to be of whatever service he could to Freemasonry. (Hear, hear).

The Chairman then gave "Prosperity to the Mark Grand Lodge Benevolent Fund, and the Masonic Institutions." The company had met for the double purpose of mutual enjoyment and promoting the interests of the Benevolent Fund. It was exceedingly pleasing to him to see ladies assembled to take part in the enjoyment of the evening. It was well-known that they always took a leading part in the cause of charity, and they had been of great assistance to this fund. It had been with much satisfaction that he had visited the Masonic institutions, which were a memento of what the Order had done in a good cause. With Freemasons charity was a goodly principle, but it was also a principle with them to do a great deal of good without making a show of it. Of this Benevolent Fund, this was peculiarly the character; and yet was established to do a vast amount of good. With this toast he should couple the name of Bro. Binckes, (cheers) who was the Grand Secretary of the degree, and was also Secretary to the Boy's School, and who in both capacities had been an indefatigable worker in the cause of Masonry. He, the chairman, remembered as an old Mason, the school under both Bro. Binckes's and his predecessor, and he had watched the progress it had made. It was exceedingly gratifying to him to have seen its progress, and all the whole body of Freemasons were under great obligations and a deep debt of gratitude to Bro. Binckes, for the efforts he had made in bringing the school to its present state of perfection. The toast was one which would be acceptable to the whole of the company, and it was one which he had great pleasure in proposing.

The toast was drunk with great enthusiasm.

Bro. Binckes thanked the chairman for his kind expressions, and the brethren for the heartiness with which they had received them. With respect to the Masonic institutions he had certainly done his best for many years to advance their prosperity, and it was as much pleasure to him as it was to the chairman to see the Boys' School, the Girls' School and the Benevolent Institution so rapidly increasing. The number of boys in the school had extended in a few years from 70 to 178, the girls from 90 to 146, and the Benevolent Institution's pensioners were over 200. £25,000 were annually collected on behalf of these institutions by the liberality of the brethren, and he need hardly ask the company whether a better proof was required of the good which was being effected by this great Order. They might depend upon it that their generosity was not, and would not be thrown away. More or less their good deeds had followed them, and he hoped that any brother who had not yet visited the Institutions would do so, and see the practical effect of what they were doing. The Boys' School at Wood-green, the Girls' School at Battersea Rise, the Benevolent Institution at Croydon were always open to inspection, and an inspection could only lead to their still further support. Unless the brethren and ladies did go and see them they could have no idea of the amount of good that was being done. He could assure them they were deserving of all the assistance that could be bestowed on them. Speaking then of the Mark Benevolent Fund he gave a history of its formation, and said it was intended to assist poor Mark Masons, their widows and children. Happily up to the present time there had been no large demands upon it, and they had already had six anniversary festivals on its behalf, including the present. It had contributed to the Masonic Institutions; but about £200 would cover all the gifts it had had to make to poor Mark Masters. The fund now amounted to £400, which was well invested. But he was sorry to tell them there had just occurred two deaths which would necessitate an appeal to this fund. Bro. Binckes then mentioned the names of the deceased brethren, for neither of whom might they have expected an appeal to the charity of Freemasons would be made. He afterwards read the lists of donations brought in by the Stewards, amounting to some £200 (cheers), and thanked the brethren and ladies heartily for what they had done.

Col. Burdett proposed "The Health of the Chairman," who responded, and proposed "The Ladies," for whom Colonel Wigginton replied. Bro. C. Levander acknowledged "the Health of the Stewards," and the party shortly afterwards returned to town, having spent a most agreeable day.

The musical arrangements were under the direction of Madame Thaddeus Wells, who was assisted by Miss Lucy Franklin, and Bros. George Buckland and Frank Elmore.

ROSICRUCIAN SOCIETY.

METROPOLITAN COLLEGE.

The quarterly convocation of this society was held at the Royal Masonic Hall, Regent-street on Thursday, 9th July.

The M C was opened in the usual manner by the Supreme Magus, Frater R. Wentworth Little, and after the confirmation of the minutes, read by Frater William Robert Woodman, Secretary General, a communication from the High Council of the Order was then made. The accounts of the society, duly audited, were approved.

There were five candidates for the grade of Zelator, several of whom had been balloted for at former meetings of the college.

The usual arrangements having been completed, the following brethren, being Master Masons and of good repute, were then, in ancient form, admitted to the degree of Zelator:

Bro. Frederick Binckes, P.M., Secretary of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys; Bros. Eugene Thiellay, Devey Fearon Ranking, B.A.; Thomas Massa, Frederick Keily.

These gentlemen having been duly admonished, retired, and on their re-admission, received the rite of perfection at the hands of Frater C. F. Matier, Chief Adept of the Manchester College, assisted as Chaplain by Frater Kenneth R. H. Mackenzie, (known as Cryptonymus). It was proposed and carried by acclamation that a letter, couched in proper terms, should be sent to the widow of Frater William Carpenter.

Frater Captain Hunter, representative at the Metropolitan College of the Eastern Division of Scotland, moved a resolution of fraternity and good will from that college.

Frater Matier moved a similar resolution on behalf of the College of Manchester and East Lancashire, which was received in a thoroughly fraternal spirit. It was also moved from the east that a jewel be presented to Bro. Robert Wentworth Little, for his services to the Society.

Frater Kenneth R. H. Mackenzie then read a paper on "Rosicrucian Vitality," which was kindly received by the Frateres.

Among the Frateres present not specified above, we observed Frateres Hyde Pullen, the Rev. P.M. Holden, Captain George Lambert, James Willing, Jun.; George Kenning, T. Cubitt, Boyd, Foulger, Sigismund Rosenthal, Still, and others.

The college then adjourned its meeting until the month of October, and partook of a slight refectation, under the admirable management of Mr. Nichols, the entrepreneur of the Café Royale.

At a Masonic Lodge held sometime since in Bombay, India, there were present nine native brethren, three of whom were followers of Zoroaster, two of Confucius, and four of Mahomet, assembled together around one common altar, and engaged in the worship of one common God. What an illustration of the universality and unsectarian character of Freemasonry.

The three tenets of a Freemason's profession are Brotherly Love, Relief and Truth. Truth has been denominated the column of Wisdom, Brotherly Love the column of Strength, and Relief the column of Beauty.

THE HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY, FROM ITS ORIGIN TO THE PRESENT DAY.

BY J. G. FINDEL,

Second Edition, Revised, and Preface written by

BRO. D. MURRAY LYON.

One vol., 800 pages 8vo., with an Index. Cloth gilt. Price, 10s. 6d.

"This book is a strictly historical one, from which all is excluded that is not based upon ascertained or probable fact."—Builder.

"Of its value to Freemasons, as a detailed history of their Brotherhood, it is not possible to speak too highly."—Public Opinion.

"The author seems to have fairly exhausted the subject."—The Athenaeum.

"The edition we are now considering is a second English edition, which had the great advantage of Bro. D. M. Lyon's able superintendence and editorship in its English dress. There can be no doubt but, that so far, Bro. Findel's work is the most complete work on Freemasonry which has yet appeared, and that he deserves the greatest credit for his careful and accurate treatment of all evidence on the subject, and for his honest desire after truth. Bro. Findel gives up in the view he has so clearly and consistently put forth our early Masonic history, the older theory of the Roman Colleges, &c., and limits the origin of Freemasonry to about the twelfth century, and as then arising from the operative Masons, and specially the "Steinmetzen" and "Bauhütten" of Germany. Bro. Findel gives us a good deal of evidence on this head, and one thing is clear from his work, that the German Freemasons were, at a very early period, organized into lodges with a Master over them, and with outward regulations and inner ceremonies peculiar to the Craft. Bro. Findel rejects all the views which have been from time to time put forward of a Templar or a Rosicrucian origin. Whether or no Bro. Findel's theory of the date of the rise of Freemasonry be correct, matters very little: we do not ourselves profess to accept it; but this we can fairly say of Bro. Findel's work, it is marked from first to last by the most remarkable token of industry, ability, and care, of patient research, and of skilful criticism. We know of no work which so clearly sets before us our amount of knowledge up to the present time on the great question of Masonic Archaeology, and there can be little doubt that what Preston's work is to English Freemasonry, Findel's work is to cosmopolitan Freemasonry. Indeed no student in Masonry can now dispense with it, and it is a perfect storehouse both of Masonic evidence and Masonic illustrations. We earnestly recommend all the lodges in this country to obtain a copy for the lodge library before the work is bought up for America; and we believe that no Mason will rise from the perusal of its pages without a higher idea both of the historical truth and intrinsic value of Freemasonry, and of fraternal regard and recognition to the latest and not the least well-informed or effective of our Masonic historians. The present century has produced no such equal, in authority and usefulness, to the great work of our Bro. Findel, and we wish him and it, in all of fraternal sympathy and kindly intent, many earnest readers, and more grateful students."—The Masonic Magazine.

"This volume is the history of Masonry par excellence. Every interested person may regard it, therefore, as the present text-book on the subject."—Manchester Guardian. LONDON: GEORGE KENNING, 198, Fleet Street.

The Freemason

THE TRUE MISSION OF FREEMASONRY.

Though we had purposely limited, some of that expansive range of vision and of that which has marked for some time some of the continental writers on Freemasonry, in our article, we by no means intend, nor do we profess to take at all a narrow view of the mission of Freemasonry. We hold strongly and tenaciously, that Freemasonry is a mission, and a very good one in the world among our fellow men, but we honestly confess we cannot and do not accept what we may term, the rhapsodical view of Freemasonry. In the first place Freemasonry affords us a happy meeting-ground amid the warfare of the world and the division of thought and belief, where we can all lay aside the conventional "Shibboleth" of earnest but antagonistic denominations, the war cries of party are stilled in time, and where the petty animosities and quarrels of social life do not intrude. Freemasonry has, no doubt, in its very profession, something which runs counter to every zealous doctrinalist. Some persons do not profess to understand, and instantly condemn our actions; that while we are an eclectic society, we are also a handmaid to religion. Unless the principles and teaching of the body to which we belong are accepted, though the dogma of interdict and excommunication, "major et minor," let us fervently hope, are over, they are very much inclined to question the propriety and benefit of a society which takes no heed of them; we have always contended, and contend that the basis of our society, being the same of all who bonâ fide believe, in The Father of the Human Race, The Great Architect of the World, The Great Creator of Man. Whether our position be sound or unsound, whether our views be acceptable or unacceptable, such they are, and we are not ashamed to avow them. For if so our views are too expansive, if they are still not expansive enough, in this as in other matters Masonic super vias antiquas." We are friendly to all religious bodies, we are hostile to none, we are most willing to associate with them, and to help them in all works which tend to lightenment and education and elevation of humanity, and to promote the temporal well-being, or the medical relief of the suffering or afflicted of our fellow-creatures. Now abroad very often you hear of professions of Masonic dogmas and opinions which seem to claim for Freemasonry a coequal power of moral teaching, and of educational effect, with some long constituted religious body. Hence the antagonism which so often exists between religious communities and our Masonic brethren abroad. Were our continental brethren content, as we are, simply to avow themselves a purely unpolitical body, without any ulterior aims, except those of general philanthropy, toleration, and fraternal love, the unfortunate and regrettable antagonism, which at present exists in many foreign countries, might at any rate be materially lessened, if not altogether removed. But so long as Freemasonry, being a secret society, bounded by inner and mysterious ties of association and recognition, continues to avow the remarkably extended views in all points, political, philosophical, and psychological, which it does in many continental countries to-day, so long is it certain to perpetuate this present unsatisfactory and untoward position of affairs. Were our good brethren in Italy for instance, to give up attacking continually "Pio Nono" and the "Negri," and to devote themselves to the development of Masonic charity, or the erection of orphanages for the poor children of deceased brethren, and for the relief of pressing indigence, and to the granting of annuities to "aged and decayed Freemasons," Freemasonry in Italy would receive an impulse which nothing could check. For there is something in Freemasonry which specially commends itself to the quick apprehension of the tolerant Italian mind. Long ages of mistaken teaching have not deprived Italians of sympathy for their fellow men, and of love of each other. Hence a society which, though eclectic, is still religious in all its tendencies and teachings, and has nothing to do with politics or polemics, as with us, whose great axiom is brotherly love, and whose outward practical manifestation is genuine sympathy to all, and kindly aid to its own members, is certain to be both appreciated and approved of by the Italy of Dante and Manzoni. Were, too, our good German brethren, instead of constant censure of the Pope, and the ultramontanes, and priestly power, and the Jesuits (for whom nobody has a good word, today, though we should never forget that in darker days, they led the van in the great cause of general, moral, and scientific education), were those earnest German brethren of ours, we repeat, to devote themselves to the unification and consolidation of German Freemasonry, they would, we feel sure, greatly strengthen their own rightful position and their own good cause. We think, too, with due submission to them, and to their numerous lodges, that they might do a little more for general Masonic benevolence, than they are doing. We are quite aware that many of their old and famous private lodges are most truly to be commended for their laudable efforts in the cause of orphan education and Masonic benevolence. And when we remember, to day, what Masonic literature owes to German writers, when we recall gratefully the honoured names, of Krause and Kloss, Gädicke and Lenning, Rebold, and Mossdorf, Schletter and Findel, and many more, we must ever entertain the warmest admiration for German Freemasons, and feel the deepest regret, if anything should impede their onward course, or mar their high prestige. These two illustrations will suffice to day "to point our moral," and we conclude with the re-assertion of our belief, that Freemasonry has a true mission, and a great mission, in the world, to day. Here is a society, however some may criticize, and others may condemn, whose unchanging precepts are toleration, sympathy and good-will to all men. Here is a brotherhood which, leaving to the world the politics of the world, and to men the controversies of men, is only intent on propounding and propagating the kindly teaching of peace and mercy, and of unfolding to its members its own true religious views and words, based evermore and alone on the authority of the great moral law, by which we are taught to love one another, to be true and steadfast, decorous and honest, just and forbearing, pitiful and forgiving, loyal citizens, good subjects, and to fulfil with freedom, fervency, and zeal, the requirements of every path of duty and of every social vocation in life. We will close these little discussions and lucubrations in our next impression, with a statement of the practical manifestation and development of its true Mission, which Freemasonry can and does display, in active works of beneficence and love.

DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES TO THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

We congratulate the Craft on the remarkable advance of the Boys' School.

On Wednesday, the 8th, a sight was witnessed, which probably never was contemplated by those good brethren of ours in olden days, who in a far humbler guise, and with a less pretentious aim, laid the foundation of this excellent institution of our Order.

The new regime promises very well, and every one must be struck, by the interest manifested, both by the friends of the pupils, and the members of the Fraternity, when they hear of the large concourse of satisfied and applauding spectators.

We trust sincerely, that, under the new Head Master, the school may go on and prosper, and reach its true position among the educational institutions of our country.

We have always agreed with Bro. Binckes, in the view he has more than once expressed, that there is no reason why our Masonic Boys' School should not be our great Masonic public school, just as much as Winchester, Eton, Harrow, and Westminster, and others of great value, are looked upon with confidence by parents, and admiration by those who claim them as their "Alma Mater."

Happily the days are over, when it is supposed and contended, that, we can educate too much.

If education be good "per se," it is good in its fullest development, and as everything is rising in this country, so is education, we say it with heartfelt gratification, making giant strides amongst us.

Hence arises the unceasing and increasing demand for new schools, improved school-rooms, better sanitary arrangements, and superior paraphernalia of scholastic necessity.

Those who enter our school-rooms to day and compare them in their minds' eye, with the schools, in which they began an active career twenty-five years ago, in which they toiled, and perspired, "con amore" in "auld lang syne," while they wonder at what was done in those "good old days," must feel convinced, that a better time has happily arrived alike for teachers, and for pupils.

Our Masonic Boys' School now possesses apparently every attribute of steady improvement, and future success.

It has a new and energetic Head Master, who is alive to the educational wants and claims of the age in which we live, there is a noble school, a very fine aggregation of boys, everything seems alike in admirable organization, and in practical working order.

We congratulate the House Committee, and especially Bro. Binckes, on the present position of the Boys' School, and we feel it to be but justice to Bro. Binckes to remind our readers, that much of the actual success of the Boys' School may fairly be attributed, and ought not to be denied, to his persevering energy, and his correct appreciation, both of the wishes of the fraternity, and the requirements of the school.

We wish the new Head Master Bro. Perrot, and our Masonic Boys all possible happiness and progress, and success.

OUR LATE BRO. LORD DALHOUSIE.

The Earl of Dalhousie, so long known as Mr. Fox Maule, and afterwards as Lord Panmure, whose death we recorded last week, was born seventy-three years ago. He was the son of the Hon. W. Maule, second son of the ninth Earl of Dalhousie. He was educated at the Charterhouse, but he did not matriculate at any University. In 1852 he was called to the Upper House by the somewhat unexpected death of his father, who, in 1831, had been created Lord Panmure, and, in 1860, he succeeded to the Earldom of Dalhousie on the death of his cousin (first Marquis and tenth Earl), the distinguished statesman and Governor-General of India. After this he resumed his family name of Ramsay. His titles descend to Vice-Admiral George Ramsay, C.B., who was born in 1806, and who married in 1845 Sarah Frances, only daughter of the late Mr. William Robertson, of Logan House, by whom he has surviving issue two sons—John William, born 29th June, 1847, and Charles Maule, born 29th January, 1859.

Lord Dalhousie was a prominent member of the Free Kirk of Scotland, and was, as some of us will remember, Minister of War, during the last period of the Crimean War.

As a Freemason, he was distinguished by his clearness of expression, and his attachment to the true principles of Freemasonry.

Some of his speeches were very effective. He was made a Mason, we believe, in Canada, but subsequently became Grand Master of Scotland and Deputy Grand Master of England.

Though latterly he has not appeared often in Grand Lodge, yet alike by Grand Lodge, and the English and Scottish Craft, his loss will be sincerely regretted.

When his great relative Lord Dalhousie, afterwards Governor General of India, was addressing some Scottish electors, he told them "ye'll be daft to refuse the Laird o' Cockpen," and if the late Lord Dalhousie succeeded to that title, among others he inherited from the great Governor General, we think that he was indeed a true representative of that worthy and genial personage immortalized in Scottish poetry.

With Lord Dalhousie passes away another representative of our older statesmen, and of these brethren of our order, who once were grouped, a goodly band, around the Duke of Sussex and Lord Zetland.

The following notice appeared in a Scottish contemporary:—

A notable feature of his Lordship's public life was his connection with Freemasonry—a connection which may be called hereditary, seeing that his father, grandfather, uncles, and other members of his family had been prominent members of the Craft. Having been initiated in a Canadian lodge in 1824, he was, on his return to this country, affiliated to various lodges both in England and Scotland. Amid the labours and responsibilities of statesmanship, he somehow contrived to find leisure for Masonic engagements, and accordingly rose to high office in the fraternity. For some years, ending with 1860, he acted as Deputy Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England, which body he long represented in the Grand Lodge of Scotland. He was also for some time Provincial Grand Master of Elgin and Moray, and in 1852 succeeded his father as Provincial Grand Master of Forfarshire, which office he had held ever since. On the elevation of Bro. Whyte Melville to the Masonic throne of Scotland, his Lordship was appointed Depute Grand Master; and while occupying this position he was also chosen in July, 1867, to preside at the great funeral lodge held in Glasgow in honour of the late Sir Archibald Alison. In November of the same year, Lord Dalhousie was unanimously elected Grand Master Mason of Scotland, being the 68th in succession. This high office he held for three years, in the course of which period he laid the foundation-stone of the Glasgow Industrial Schools at Mossbank, of the Free Library and Museum at Paisley, of the Albert Bridge, Glasgow, and of the new hall built by Lodge Journeyman of Edinburgh in 1870. To his Lordship's influence the Scottish Order are largely indebted for the patronage of the Prince of Wales, who, it will be remembered, was installed at Freemason's Hall in October 1870, and on the following day laid the foundation-stone of the New Royal Infirmary. As an acknowledgment of Lord Dalhousie's Masonic services, a subscription was set on foot at the time of his demission of office for the purpose of presenting him with a suitable testimonial. This took the form of a fine marble bust, by John Hutchinson, R.S.A., which is now in the Masonic Hall, Edinburgh, the balance of the subscription being, at his Lordship's request, set apart as a fund for pensioning aged Freemasons or their widows.

BRO. HUGHAN'S CHALLENGE.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In common with your correspondent "Reviresco," p. 405, I was very much pleased at reading the challenge thrown out by our highly esteemed and talented Bro. Hughan at page 388, June 27th, and I trust that some of those who hold views opposed to his will have the courage and manliness to come forward and say what they can in support of them. In regard to "Reviresco" himself, however, I would beg to call his attention to his own words at page 405, and point out to him where he seems not to have properly taken Bro. Hughan up. "Reviresco" says, "respecting the existence of degrees beyond the third, and of rituals of the Craft prior to the last century." Now under his and head, Bro. Hughan, not only calls in question or denies "the existence of degrees beyond the third," before the last century, but he denies the existence of even the "third" itself, before about A.D. 1717. Nay, more, he also denies the existence of the second before then, or even of any degrees at all, his words being, "and whatever esoteric customs may have been communicated to Craftsmen, before the last century, they do not appear to have necessitated the temporary absence of either class of members from the lodge." In connection therefore with a truthful history of Freemasonry, it is surely a most important point to settle whether or not our three degrees existed before A.D. 1717. The majority of Freemasons, I fear, consider that our three degrees have existed since Solomon's time, or for nearly 3000 years. Until I began to study the subject personally, I believed so myself, but now I am with Bro. Hughan, in asserting that they are only about a century and a half old. In short I am as one with Bro. Hughan, upon his second and third heads. In regard to his first head, however, I cannot so unequivocally subscribe to my acceptance of it without a word of explanation. I admit that the "(a) Freemasonry before A.D. 1717, was not wholly operative, (b) but partially speculative," in the sense that the Masonic societies which existed before 1717, admitted men who were not operatives, but the in that sense, pre-1717, "Speculative" Masons no more became acquainted with our system of Speculative Freemasonry thereby, than did the Right Hon. Benjamin Disraeli the other day, when he was made a Speculative Tailor.

What the "Masons' Word" was in A.D. 1700 I do not know, nor do I remember of ever coming across anyone who did, neither do I know that said word in 1700 would be the same both in Edinburgh and in London. I remember Bro. Lyon stating that the old Scottish Masons' word was a monosyllable. One brother lately told me that when he was made a Mason amongst the operatives about thirty years ago, the word he got was "Bye and Bye," while the "word" in some of the other Crafts, was a verse from the New Testament, all being different from our post-1717 system.

Under clause (c) of Bro. Hughan's first head the placing of the word "Revival" between inverted commas tends to do away with such objections as I might otherwise have had at its use there, the year 1717, in my opinion, not being the era of the "revival" of our system of Freemasonry but of its institution; Desaguliers and his confreres simply making use of the "Masons' of their time to carry out their intentions and inaugurate their new system.

I am, yours fraternally,

W. P. BUCHAN.

The three ceremonies will be worked at the Confidence Lodge of Instruction, White Hart Tavern, Abchurch-lane, E.C., on Wednesday evening next, the 22nd instant, at 7.30. Bro. John Constable, W.M.

The members of the Tranquility and Confidence Masonic Charitable Association are informed that the 22nd inst. will be subscription night.

Batum in Varbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

WILLIAM PRESTON.

As a most interesting note, and for the information of the Masonic students like myself, I beg to communicate the following extract from a letter of my worthy and expert Bro. P.M., Wm. Cowling, of York, of date July 9th:

"I have looked over our old records to find any trace of Wm. Preston. A "William Preston" was proposed in the Grand Lodge of York, April 27, 1761. He was initiated and passed, May 25, 1761. I can find no description either of his residence or business. He never took M.M., and there is no mention of him after May 25, either visiting the lodge or in any other way. Could this be the William Preston? It would be about the time he came to England, and York being at that time rather famous for its printers; did he stay here on his way to London? 1774, January 31, present at the lodge as a visitor, Bro. Preston, and at this lodge he was proposed to become a member pro. tempore, and was balloted for and admitted. He attended the lodge, February 28, and March 28. No Christian name is given, and he is not entered in the list of members. There is nothing in the minutes to show who he was, or why he was admitted in such an extraordinary manner. In the correspondence that took place between the G.L. of York, and the Lodge of Antiquity, with respect to the formation of the G.L. south of the Trent, Bro. Preston is spoken of two or three times in a manner that shows that the members of the G.L. of York were acquainted with him. 1778, Aug. 29. The Secretary of the G.L. of York, Bro. Bussey, writing to Benjamin Bradling, J.W. of the Lodge of Antiquity, says, 'my best respects attend Bro. Preston, whom I expect you will make acquainted with the purport of this letter, and that it will be agreeable to him.' 1778, September 22nd, Bradling writing to Bussey, says, 'Bro. Preston joins with me in a sincere wish for the prosperity of Bro. Bussey, and all the other members of the G. L. of York.' I should say that Bussey was in London early in 1778, and indeed seems to have gone there pretty often. One of the lodges formed by the G.L. South of Trent was the Lodge of Perseverance and Triumph, at the Queens' Head Tavern, Holborn, and William Preston, P.M. was the first R.W.M.; it was opened August 9, 1779. A John Preston was one of the seven brethren to whom the warrant of the Union Lodge (now the York Lodge) was granted, and was the third W.M. in 1779. He was a musical-instrument maker, and took his degrees in the Apollo Lodge, York."

I think the above note most interesting and important, and am myself, unless the minutes of the Caledonian Lodge can be produced to verify Bro. Stephen Jones's statement, inclined to believe that the great historian was after all initiated and passed at York, and raised possibly in London, in the Caledonian Lodge. It now becomes a matter of deep interest to ascertain the real truth of the case, and if any brother can give me any clue to the minutes of the Caledonian Lodge, he will confer a great obligation on all Masonic students.

What does our able Bro. W. J. Hughan know about the Caledonian Lodge?

A. F. A. WOODFORD.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Rheumatism and Neuralgia.—It is sometimes difficult to determine which of these diseases is afflicting the sufferer, but this ignorance will not matter if Holloway's remedies be used. They alleviate all muscular and nervous pains. In hereditary rheumatism, after bathing the affected parts with warm salt water, Holloway's Ointment should be well rubbed on the spot, that it may penetrate and exert its soothing renovating properties on the deeper vessels and nerves, which are unduly excited, and cause both the pain and swelling. Holloway's treatment has the merit of removing the disease, without debilitating the constitution, which was the inevitable result of the bleeding, mercury, and colchicum practice, formerly adopted in these complaints.—ADVT.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF CORNWALL.

The annual Provincial Grand Lodge of the Freemasons of Cornwall was held on the 7th inst. at Bodmin, and was very largely attended, there being about three hundred brethren present, drawn together for the most part, probably, by the announcement that the new Masonic lodge "One and All" would be dedicated by the Provincial Grand Master, the Earl of Mount Edgumbe.

The inhabitants did their best to give the brethren a hearty welcome, and the town presented a very lively appearance by a large display of bunting in the principal thoroughfares. All the arrangements were of the most complete and satisfactory character, and every facility was afforded to distant brethren by Bro. Sandoe, of the Royal Hotel, who sent several conveyances to meet the up and down trains to Bodmin Station, single fares only being charged. Members met at the Shire Hall at ten o'clock the morning, and having clothed they formed procession, and at once marched to the Manic Hall, where the business of the Grand Lodge was transacted.

The members of "One and All" can boast of having as handsome a lodge as is to be found in the whole province. It is most tastefully decorated, the entire work having been entrusted to the master hand of Bro. Solomon, Truro. On one side of the building there are five fine stained windows, the centre one being a memorial window, the gift of the widow of the late Sir Hugh Molesworth, Bart., P.M. The window on the higher side has been subscribed for by the Past Masters of the Lodge, whilst the others and other members of the lodge have each contributed one. All three of them are exceedingly handsome, and Bro. Foursacre, of Stonehouse, who supplied them, is deserving of all praise for having produced such excellent works of art. A fourth (transparent) window overlooking the street, was given by the Hon. F. L. Ver, the much respected member for the county.

It was in the New Masonic Hall that the Grand Lodge was held, the Right Worshipful Bro. the Earl of Mount Edgumbe, Provincial Grand Master, presiding. The brethren present included Bros. L. P. Metham, P.G.D. of Cornwall, and D.P.G.M. of Devonshire, the Rev. Grand Chaplain of England, and William Hughan, Past S.G.D. of England, and Sir G. H. Colvill, W.M. 330, P. Prov. G.W.; and a number of other distinguished Masons.

The Provincial Grand Lodge having been opened in due form by the R. W. Brother, the Earl of Mount Edgumbe, Prov. Grand Master of Cornwall, Bro. Johns, Prov. G. Secretary, read the minutes of the last P.G. Lodge meeting, held at Truro in 1873, and they were confirmed. In the absence of Bro. Tweedy, P.G. Treasurer, the annual accounts were read by Bro. F. W. Ver, auditor. These accounts showed that the credit for the year had been £151 13s. 7d., and the receipts £168 17s. 4d. Added to this sum there was a credit balance brought forward from the last account, amounting to £9s. 5d., and this is now increased to £135 2s. 2d.

Bro. Johns read the report of the Provincial Secretary, which stated the number of brethren in the province was twenty-four. The number of initiations during the year was 176; and the number of members, 929; total number of members 36; members, 801; and the number of initiations during the previous year the initiations numbered 130, showing an increase of 46; the joining brethren were 37; decrease 1; members, 801; and the number of initiations during the previous year of 173. The committee were of opinion that the returns had been much more regular than heretofore, and consequently the Provincial directory so kindly and so efficiently compiled by W. Bro. J. Hughan, was issued in due time.

Hughan next read the report relating to the Provincial Masonic Annuity and Benevolent Fund, showing that the present entire capital of the fund amounted to £2,049 15s. 3d. Bro. Grand Master remarked that this was one of the principal features of the year, and to see that it was carried out in so satisfactory a manner must be very pleasing to all of them.

The report of the "Committee of Relief" was read by Bro. Jenkins.

Bro. Hughan reported that as Steward of the Province of Cornwall for the Masonic Charities, London, for 1873-4, he obtained over £170 for the "Royal Masonic Institution for Girls," which is the largest sum raised for any Masonic charity in Cornwall, for one of the annual festivals. The sum, however, would have been much larger, if the brethren in several lodges which contributed nothing, had thoroughly considered the claims of the Institution. He commenced the election in October 1873 in debt, but paid off all the votes owing, and not having any candidates he lent their votes as a Province to Octavia Helen Wheeler, Province of Worcester, and Ethel Seaton, Province of Yorkshire, both of whom were successful. In April last they had no candidate for Cornwall, but having Bro. Edward Penman, P.M., 589, Redruth, as a candidate in the following month for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, he again lent their votes, one portion being given to Cornelia Mary Allison (London); another portion to Wm. Lea (West Lancashire), both being elected; and the remainder of the votes were lent to the Province of Oxfordshire for Percy Edward Howard, who was unsuccessful. In May the votes were repaid in proxies for "Aged Freemasons," and (with those he borrowed and obtained from the Province of Cornwall, and elsewhere) he polled 794 for Bro. Edward Penman, and returned him fourth on the list out of the twenty who were elected. The "widows," votes he exchanged for "old men's," in favour of Judith Baker, of Bristol, who was elected, so that out of the six candidates he supported on behalf of the Prov. of Cornwall five were elected, and their friends repaid him the votes they borrowed, by which he secured the election of Bro. Penman for £36 per annum for life. Had the votes not been so collected and thus dealt with, Bro. Penman would not have been elected, neither would the little boy, Sparke, have been previously elected. In October of this year he should secure the election, all being well, of Emily Snowden Treleaven, for the Province of Cornwall, and in May, 1875, he hoped to return a Cornish brother, as a London annuitant, after which he should have to rest a bit, pay off all the debts, and then commence afresh. To do this he would require the earnest support of the Province, and if they followed the example set them by the Prov. G.M., the Earl of Mount Edgumbe, and the D.P.G.M., Sir F. M. Williams, he did not despair of fulfilling the programme to the very letter.

The whole of the reports were adopted.

On the motion of Bro. Carlyon, seconded by Bro. J. Paull, the sum of £25 was voted to the Cornwall Masonic Annuity and Benevolent Fund, and on the motion of Bro. Dabb, seconded by Bro. R. Rich, £20 was voted to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, London.

Bro. Metham, D.P.G. Master of Devonshire, introduced by the Prov. G.M., made an earnest and eloquent appeal to the Prov. Grand Lodge, on behalf of the Female Orphan Asylum at Stoke. He remarked that although the Asylum was situated on the other side of the Tamar, it had no local preferences of any kind whatever, children being elected from all parts of the country, they being the destitute female orphans of our soldiers, sailors, and marines, their only credentials being a record of their father's services. Although the charity had existed for a very considerable number of years, he had never yet made any appeal to the Prov. Grand Lodge of Devonshire, or to its lodges, until the present moment, but a claim had now come upon the committee of the institution to consider, either to enlarge the building so as to increase the number of its inmates, or to shut the doors against a very large number who were crowding upon them for admission. That decision was left to him individually, and when he remembered that during thirty-five years more than a thousand children had been admitted into the asylum, every one of whom he had known personally, and who, but for the shelter thus afforded them, would have been inmates of our hospitals and unions, he could not take upon himself the responsibility of saying "No," for he could not shut out from his mind how dismal and dark must be the future of those unfortunate children who would be shut out from the comforts of the asylum. Therefore he came to them as fearlessly as he went to Devonshire, or London, or any other place, and he came to them all the more readily because he felt that he had a special claim upon them from the fact that, leaving the three towns out of the question, Cornwall had as many children in the asylum as Devonshire, there being eleven or twelve Cornish girls within the institution; besides which, at the election which took place last week, out of the eight candidates who succeeded two of them were from Cornwall. The asylum having already done so much, the committee were now placed in the position of having to say whether its operations should be enlarged or not, but if they could not succeed in raising the £4,000 which was necessary for the purpose they would have to close their doors for years to come in the faces of the 125 children whom they were obliged to reject last week. He appealed to them as Cornishmen, as Englishmen, and as Masons, and he felt sure that he should not appeal to them in vain. (Applause.)

Bro. Carlyon then moved, and Bro. Grach seconded, that the sum of ten guineas be voted to the Asylum.

This was carried unanimously; several brethren also promised subscriptions in the room, and it was understood that the W.M.'s would bring the claims of the Institution before their various lodges.

The Prov. Grand Master mentioned that the memorial stone of the new wing of the building would be laid during the coming month by H. R. Highness the Duke of Edinburgh, and it was proposed that on that occasion there should be a Masonic purse filled with subscriptions from all Masonic sources. (Hear, hear.) He should be very glad to add twenty guineas to the ten guineas already voted by the lodge. (Applause.)

The Treasurer, Secretary, and two Auditors for the Cornwall Masonic Annuity and Benevolent Fund, appointed last year, were re-elected.

At this stage of the proceedings business was temporarily suspended, and the brethren marched in procession to the parish church, where an excellent sermon was preached by the Rev. H. Ferris, P.G.A. Chaplain. The usual collection was afterwards made, and it amounted to £13 15s.

On resuming business, the Prov. Grand Master at once proceeded to dedicate the hall of "One and All," Lodge, 330, to Masonic purposes. Captain Colville, as the W.M. of the lodge formally invited his lordship to perform the ceremony. He remarked that for many years the brethren were unable to obtain a building in which they could properly perform the ceremonies of the Craft, and it had been a matter of great regret to them that they had been obliged for so long a time to meet in undesirable places. But now they had a hall of which they might be proud, and the beauty of its decorations reflected high credit upon Bro. Solomon, in whose hands the work had been placed. (Applause.)

The interesting and impressive ceremony of dedication was then performed by the Prov. Grand Master with great solemnity, the use of the corn, the wine, the oil, and the salt, being observed according to ancient custom. There were also choral responses, the musical arrangements being under the efficient direction of Bro. J. Hele, Mus. Bac., P.P.G. Organist. His lordship was well assisted in the ceremony by the Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Devon, Bro. Metham; the acting S.G.W., Bro. Solomon; and the J.G.W., Bro. Worth, and during its performance the choir sang the anthems "Hail! Universal Lord," "Behold, how good and joyful a thing it is for brethren to dwell together in unity," and "Great and Marvellous are Thy works."

The dedicatory ceremony over the Prov. G.M. appointed the following as his officers for the year ensuing:—

The Auditors, Bros. Dabb and Johns, were re-elected for the ensuing year, as also were the Relief Committee, consisting of Bros. Reginald Rogers, W. Tweedy, E. T. Carlyon, W. H. Jenkins, and W. J. Hughan, P.S.G.D.

It was resolved that the collection at the Church should be divided in the usual way, one-fifth for the Vicar of the parish, two-fifths to the Masonic Annuity Fund, and the remainder to the East Cornwall Hospital.

On the motion of Bro. Hughan, seconded by Bro. Captain Colvill, it was unanimously resolved "That the sum of £100 or less be taken from the Masonic Annuity and Benevolent Fund, to be dealt with by the subscribers at the next Provincial Grand Lodge; that a vacancy be declared in the Annuity Fund, and that any grants considered desirable, and in form, be forwarded to the Secretary at Truro, in order that all subscribers may be informed thereof."

Before the business of the lodge was brought to a close the Provincial Grand Master called the attention of the brethren present to the coming visit of the Prince of Wales to Plymouth, on the occasion of the opening of the new Guildhall buildings, and he made an appeal to the W.M.'s of lodges to make their arrangements as speedily and as complete as possible. He said there was a strongly expressed desire that the two provinces of Devon and Cornwall should work together in the most perfect harmony on that occasion, and he would do all in his power to promote that end.

It was resolved that Bros. Sir F. M. Williams, Bart., M.P., P. G. W. England, W. J. Hughan P.S.G.D. England; E. T. Carlyon, Prov. Grand Secretary; and R. Iden, P. Prov. D.C., be the Committee to make the necessary arrangements.

The lodge was then closed in due form.

The annual banquet was provided by Bro. Sandoe, of the Royal Hotel, at the Town Hall, and was partaken of by a very large number of brethren. The Prov. Grand Master presided, and after dinner his lordship proposed the loyal and Masonic toasts usual on these occasions. At intervals, some excellent vocal and instrumental music was provided by Bros. Hele, Bodmin; Goodall, Devonport; Clemons, Plymouth; Rowe, Bodmin; Rice, Torquay; and Heath, Redruth. The health of the Provincial Grand Master, proposed by Bro. Captain Colvill, P.G.S.W., was drunk with great enthusiasm, and his Lordship, in returning thanks, spoke of the excellent arrangements which Captain Colvill and his officers made for the convenience, comfort, and accommodation of Grand Lodge. Nothing could have been better, and they were deserving of the highest praise.

DEATH OF AN OLD MASON.—There expired on the 22nd May, one of the oldest Masons in Canada, Chas. Clark, of Thorold, who was made a Mason 67 years ago in Ireland. At the opening of Mountain Lodge, Thorold, some five years ago, he wore the same Masonic clothing he had 62 years before. He resided for many years in Grantham, below the mountain, and some years ago he went to his son's, in Pennsylvania, whence he was removed on a mattress two weeks previous to his death, to his son-in-law, Geo. McArthur, in Thorold, to die and be buried beside his wife. He had reached the patriarchal age of 87 years.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The quarterly court of subscribers to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls was held on Saturday last, at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. Major John Creaton, V.P., President; there were also present Bros. John Symonds, H. Browse, Captain Wordsworth, Thomas W. White, W. Watson, Jesse Turner, Frederick Binckes, H. Massey (representing The Freemason), H. Muggeridge, and R. Wentworth Little, Secretary.

After the reading of the minutes, which were confirmed, it was resolved to admit into the school five girls beyond the number which it at present boards, clothes, and educates. Bro. John Symonds, in Bro. J. C. Parkinson's absence, brought forward the motion of which that brother had given notice, and which has appeared in our advertising columns. Bro. Symonds argued in favour of the alteration proposed, but on the motion being put for a seconder, none was found, and it therefore dropped. Bro. Symonds then moved, in place of Bro. Parkinson, the second alteration of which notice was given, and which also appeared in our advertising columns. This motion proposed to give to ladies who would become subscribers additional qualifications. The motion was seconded by Bro. Thomas W. White, and was carried unanimously.

Bro. H. A. Dubois was not present to bring forward his motion, and it consequently fell through. Bro. William Cluff's bequest of £3500 to the Girls' School, the terms of which were set out in our last impression, was then considered, and the letter of Bro. Hopwood and Sons, to Bro. Binckes, with respect to the effect of a similar bequest to the Boys' School, was read by Bro. Little. Bro. Binckes, at the request of the Chairman, stated what course the Boys' School General Committee had taken, for which we refer our readers to the full report of the proceedings of that Committee in our last number, and it was resolved that joint action should be taken by the two Institutions in the matter. Bro. H. Browse had first moved that the bequest be altogether refused, which motion, however, was not seconded. Bro. Peacock said he did not see that there would be much difficulty in carrying out the trusts of the will, and thought that under the Trustee Relief Act the Institution should pay the money into the Court of Chancery. He was in favour of the Boys' and Girls' Schools acting in harmony, and submitting the extract from the will to the Grand Master, who was President of both Institutions, to take the opinion of the Grand Registrar, Bro. McIntyre, Q.C. This being generally concurred in, was adopted, and a vote of thanks to the Chairman brought the proceedings of the quarterly court to a close.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The Quarterly Court of the subscribers to this school was held on Monday at Freemasons Hall. Bro. Henry Browse, V.P., occupied the chair. The other brethren present were Bros. Major Creaton, John Symonds, R. Wentworth Little, Capt. Wordsworth, James Perry, H. Massey (Freemason), and F. Binckes, Secretary. The list of candidates for election in October, was settled, and 43 boys were ordered to be placed on it. Vacancies in the school at that election for 13 boys were also declared. Mr. W. Cluff's bequest of £3500, having been considered and referred by the General Committee to the Grand Master, was not further debated. Bro. Symonds proposed the addition to rule 8, also proposed by him at the Quarterly Court of the Girls' School, on Saturday last, which in being seconded by Major Creaton, was carried. No other business being before the meeting a vote of thanks was passed to the chairman, and the proceedings closed.

CROSBYS BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR. Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked for Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility at the root of the malady, modern science points to BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true and SELECT TESTIMONIAL. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet" have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Phthisis, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend this valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening medicine. This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Inflammation of the Lungs, Quinsy, and all affections of the chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. 6d. respectable Chemists, and Wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Scarborough. *Invaluable should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on the Lungs and Air-Vessels, a copy of which can be had of all Chemists.

The lodge being closed the brethren adjourned to the Dolphin Hotel, where a well catered in his usual style. The usual Masonic toasts were drunk and responded to, and a very pleasant evening was spent.

The formal business of the lodge having been concluded, Bro. W. Boulton concluded his year of office in a remarkably effective and creditable manner by installing his successor, Bro. William Cottrell, in the position of W.M. of the Everton Lodge. The whole of the ceremony was performed by Bro. Boulton in a manner which elicited the admiration and approval of the many eminent students of Freemasonry who were present. Bro. W. Boulton, I.P.M., with a very chaste P.M.'s jewel, in the name of the lodge, as a mark of esteem for his valuable services; and after the gift had been suitably acknowledged, the brethren adjourned to the banqueting room for refreshment. During the evening, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given by the W.M., amongst which were "The West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution," acknowledged by Bro. P.M. Rothwell, W.M. 1356, both of whom made excellent speeches.

In continuation of the annual festival in connection with the lodge, about 280 ladies and brethren started shortly before ten o'clock on Thursday morning from the George's Landing stage for Gresford, where the picnic was fixed to take place. The weather was of the most delightful description, and, as the arrangements were of a very satisfactory kind, there was not a single hitch in the whole of the long day's pleasant proceedings. The company was bent upon making the best of the day's "out," and as a result the general satisfaction was expressed at the close of the enjoyable excursion. On arriving at Gresford, the party, as usual, repaired to the fine parish church, where "Old Hundred" was sung, and shortly afterwards the company set about seeking enjoyment in various ways. An excellent dinner was provided in a large tent at the top of the hill, and the afternoon was spent pleasantly in dancing, games, and sports of various kinds. Several groups were taken by Bro. Burrows, J.D. 673, the well-known photographer. Races amongst the school children of the village formed not the least pleasing feature of the day's proceedings, and several of the "oldest inhabitants" of the village were as usual regaled in a very hearty manner. Starting for Liverpool shortly after eight, the party arrived safely about ten o'clock, highly delighted with the day's excursion. Excellent music was provided by Mr. Martin's quadrille band.

Brashour, Crane, Thomson, Carter, Prescott, Eldridge, Tibbets, Aldred, Long, Bayliss, and other brethren, to the number of thirty. The lodge was opened in the first degree, and a highly satisfactory report of the Audit Committee was read, showing a very considerable balance in the hands of the Treasurer. The lodge was opened in the second degree, and a candidate present having proved himself qualified, was, in due course, raised to the degree of M.M., the ceremony of which being performed by Bro. Brown, in so impressive and solemn a manner, as to invoke the marked admiration of the brethren present. It being the installation meeting, a Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. Mark Prior, J.W., having been presented as the Master Elect, was duly installed, by Bro. Blakeman Brown, as the Worshipful Master for the ensuing year, and was proclaimed and saluted according to ancient custom. Bro. Prior appointed the following as officers:—Bros. Horne, Senior Warden, Pratt, Junior Warden; Brown, I.P.M., Sec.; Meeers, Treas.; Williams, S. Deacon; Reynolds, Junior Deacon; Brashour, I.G.; Bayliss, Tyler. After the investment of the officers, Bro. Brown, delivered the several addresses to the newly-installed Master and Wardens, and to the brethren of the lodge, at the conclusion of each of which, he was warmly applauded. A brother stated he had the permission of the W.M. to say a few words to the brethren, and he should use the privilege accorded him to express the very great gratification it had been to him as an old Past Master, to have been present to witness the perfect and admirable way in which the ceremonies had been performed by the immediate Past Master of the lodge, Bro. Brown; and he congratulated the lodge in having had the advantage of so able and experienced a guide and instructor during the first two years of its being. The Deacons having discharged their duty on behalf of the poor and distressed, the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to refreshment, the pleasure being greatly enhanced by the singing of Bro. Alfred Hall, who also joined with the other brethren in several favourite trios. The usual toasts were given, and loyally honoured. Bro. Hobbs, P.P.G. Sec., returned thanks for the Prov.

Grand Officers. In proposing the health of the New Master, the immediate Past Master said, "his good qualities you all know as well as I do. He felt diffident in taking office as W.M., it having been thrust upon him by necessity, as circumstances did not allow of another member being appointed. I am quite sure in his accepting that office, as good Masons we shall look over any little shortcomings (should there be any). I am very pleased he has accepted the office, and I shall be only too glad to render him any assistance. I have attended every meeting of the lodge during the past two years, and shall attend just as regularly during the present year. Bro. Prior, W.M., in returning thanks, expressed the regret he felt that Bro. Stockwell did not take the chair, but that he would try to the utmost to give satisfaction to the lodge. Bros. Dixon, Pratt, Alfred, and Carter, replied to the toast of "The Visitors." The toast of the "Masonic Charities" was responded to by Bro. Long, who represents the lodge as a Steward. The "Sister Lodges" of the province was associated with the name of the W.M. of the Alfred Lodge, Bro. Thompson.

At the earnest solicitation of the members of the chapter that he would continue his present position of M.E.Z., Companion James Stevens, although expressing his strong desire to retire, after two years service, ultimately consented to occupy the exalted position for a third year, and was unanimously re-elected on ballot, the result being received with expressions of warm satisfaction, and promises of strong support. Companion Devereux, P.Z., in announcing the result of the ballot, took occasion to offer the thanks of the chapter to Comp. Stevens, for the attention he had given during the first two years to his duties, and to the interests of the chapter, and to express his conviction that the ensuing year would perfect the work of resuscitation, to which he had devoted himself. The ballot for the remaining offices resulted unanimously in each case as follows, viz:—Ex Comps. H. W. Hodges, H.; J. S. Tolley, J.; E. Grisbrook, E.; Peter Watson, N.; F. Fleck, P.S.; G. H. Then Sir Knight G. Tickle, of Maryport, who had been elected Sovereign for the ensuing twelve months, last quarterly assembly, as also Sir Knight Ablett, Viceroy Eusebius elect, received superior grades appertaining to their respective seats of honour by Sir Knight R. night J. Porter.—“The Newly-invested officers,” Em. Sir Knight Dr. Dodgson; “The retiring Officers of the Conclave,” Em. Sir Knight J. Iredale. In the course of the afternoon a choice selection of music was sung, Dr. Mes, the Organist, presiding at the harmonium. The company broke up about six p.m. after a very enjoyable entertainment; and the proceedings of the day go far to prove that Dykes Conclave is one of the most flourishing organisations in England.

BRISTOL.—Irwin Conclave (No 17).—The progress of the Red Cross degree and appendant ceremony has been so rapid in this province that it became necessary to hold an emergency of the same. De Irwin Conclave, for the purpose of installing those brethren who were unable to attend the previous meeting. The Sir Knights were summoned for April 27th. The Conclave being opened by the M.P.S., Sir Knight F. Tuckey, assisted by Sir Knight W. Edges, V.E., and the office bearers, the following brethren were duly installed and promoted Sir Knights of the Order, viz: Bros. B. J. Sharp, J. Knill, T. Gclliver, F. W. ner, W. Richards, and W. Kirbey. Amongst visitors present were the M.P.S., W.A. Scott, t. Plant, V.E.; and Capt. Trick, S.G., of the Abce Conclave; also W. H. Bowden, H.P.S. No. 2 A. The ceremony of installation concluded the conclave was closed, when all Sir Knights not being R.A. Masons were requested to retire, after which the Mount Tabor sanctuary (H.S.), and commandery of St. John the Evangelist, was opened by M.E.C., G. F. Key, assisted by W. Hodges, and W. H. den, and those degrees conferred on the wing candidates:—I. T. Hollman, B. Gay, banner, T. Brook, J. Sharpe, A. G. Williams, ansalda, E. E. Honey, W. Kirbey, G. Ton and W. Munro. The beauty and solemnity of the ceremony was admired by the whole of the brethren present, and we infer a success to those degrees equal to that of the Red Cross in this province. Too much praise cannot be paid to Sir Knight G. F. Tuckey, for his untiring exertions in establishing these ancient Orders of Freemasonry in the province of Bristol; it is entirely owing to his zeal and of Freemasonry, that the brethren have been enabled to participate in those degrees, which are becoming so popular in other provinces, and are well certain, from the success which has attended this, the first sanctuary and commandery in the province will not be the only one. Subsequently a Council of Knights of Constantinople was held, and that degree conferred on the above brethren, also Sir Knights Bowden and the four brethren. The lodge was then raised to the second degree, and Bro. Phillips passed several brethren to that degree.

GLASGOW.—St. Mungo Lodge (No. 27).—This old and well-conducted lodge met on the 10th, Bro. D. Butler, R.W.M., presiding. Bro. Bain, P.M. 103, acting S.W.; Bro. J. Morrison, J.W. Amongst the visitors were Bros. Shields, of Boston, U.S. f33; J. Duthie, P.M. 275; J. Coulter, 275; J. Bannerman, S.W. 73. The R.W.M. said in consequence of the Glasgow Fair holidays they had been disappointed of the candidates, and that therefore they would devote a little time to refreshment. After the usual loyal and Masonic sentiments had been duly given from the chair, and honoured, the S.W. gave “Freemasonry all over the World.” Bro. Shields, 33, in reply, gave a graphic account of the progress of the Order in America. He had also just been making a tour through a great part of the Continent of Europe, and was pleased in visiting this, his native City, to find that Masonry was occupying so proud a position. The next sentiment was the “Masonic Press.” The R.W.M. spoke of the great advantages the fraternity had derived from the spread of Masonic literature, and called on Bros. Wheeler and Basset, to respond on behalf of The Freemason and Masonic News, which they did in suitable terms. The final toast was then given, and the lodge having been again called to labour, was thereafter closed in harmony.

GLASGOW.—St. Andrew's Chapter (No. 69) held their monthly meeting at 170, Buchanan-street, Comp. T. D. Humphreys, D.P.Z., presiding, assisted by Comp. G. W. Wheeler, H.; J. Heron, J.; J. Phillips, Scribe E.; William Thomas, T.; J. Blackwood, T. Fish, and J. Neville, as Sojourners. A proposition was made for removing the chapter to more central premises—consideration deferred till the next meeting. The Z. paid a high tribute to the memory of Earl Dalhousie, P.G.Z. Comp. Wheeler also bore testimony to the Masonic qualities of the late Earl, and a vote of condolence was ordered to be sent to the relations. The 2nd Principal having left for Tasmania, Comp. Heron, J., was elected to fill his place as H, and Comp. J. Blackwood was elected as J. Both Comps. were then installed in their respective offices by Comp. Wheeler.

GLASGOW.—Thetis Chapter (No. 122).—An emergency meeting of this chapter was held at their hall, St. James-street, on July 17th. A Lodge of Mark Masters was opened, J. O. Park, Z., as Mark Master; G. W. Wheeler, H. 73, as S.W.; J. Duthie, Z. 67, as J.W.; when two brethren were duly advanced to that degree. A Lodge of Most Excellent Masters then opened, J. Duthie, Acting Master, and Bros. Wheeler and Whiteman as Wardens, when the same two gentlemen received that degree. They were afterwards exalted into the Royal Arch, which was officered by Comps. J. O. Park, Z.; J. Duthie, H.; J. Wightman, J.; J. Johnston, S.E.; J. Rabb, N.; W. Green, T.; G. W. Wheeler, 1st S.; J. Ross, D. McGregor, A.S.

CONSECRATION OF A NEW LODGE AT EASTWOOD, NOTTINGHAMSHIRE.

The consecration of the Robin Hood Lodge, No. 1493, took place on Tuesday, 30th ult., at the Mechanics' Institute, Eastwood. The brethren of the surrounding Provinces assembled in strong force to meet the Installing Master, Bro. Edmund Percy, P.D.P.G.M. of Notts, who was assisted by Bro. the Hon. C. J. Willoughby, Chaplain, and Bro. Thomas Danks, P.G.T., P.P.G.S.W., &c. The ceremonies of constitution and dedication were most impressively conducted, after which Bro. W. W. Booth was duly installed W.M. for the ensuing year, amidst the hearty congratulations of the brethren assembled. Judging from the enthusiasm evinced by the promoters of this, the youngest addition to our Masonic Lodges, we are convinced that a prosperous career awaits the Robin Hood. At the inauguration banquet, which took place at the Sun Inn, upwards of eighty sat down, and in the course of the evening, in reply to various toasts, some very pertinent remarks were made by Brother Edmund Percy and others.

A GERMAN CRITICISM ON LYON'S HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY.

We have been favoured with a copy of the Bauhütte of the 16th May, 1874, published at Leipzig, containing a criticism of Bro. D. Murray Lyon's great Masonic work, of which the following is a literal translation:

“Another time we shall speak more fully of this interesting, important, and handsome work. To day we shall only notice in a general way the worth and contents of this book, of which some chapters have already been made known by a translation by Bro. Merzdorf, and which we have announced.

“The author is already known to our readers as an honourable, meritorious, Mason-writer. He has presented to us the oldest documents (protocols) of the oldest Lodge in Scotland—St. Mary's Lodge; and has written a special history of the Mother Lodge of Kilwinning, and others—a better than which can scarcely be found. Getting above the narrow circle of single Lodges, he also gives us a picture of the birth and growth of Freemasonry, in Scotland especially. He does so by giving us such a fulness of ancient materials, that the History of Freemasonry in Scotland, by Laurie, is not only confirmed in the more important points, but is extended. What German diligence of inquiry and acute combination has been able laboriously to discover out of scanty material, and was only able to indicate uncertainly, in this book receives full confirmation, and stands out in clear light, so that we can not only understand the historic progress of Freemasonry in Scotland, but are led throughout, always directly and conclusively, yet by good inference, to understand the Freemasonry of England better.

“The results and facts which the history reveals are altogether astonishing and of eminent significance; and the thanks of the brotherhood are due to the author.

“But, what is worth more, the author has been able to dig up the rich treasures of the past, and to present them in a clear picture, and to present them to the reader in a most agreeable form. He has also brought out the most important points; and he writes his work with the love of truth, critical spirit, and enlarged mind of the German men of science, which we have not before been accustomed to in English brethren. We hope to show our opinion of the great merit of this work of our friend Lyon in the best way by giving extracts in the Bauhütte and thus to show his labourious diligence, and what he has achieved. We shall long learn from him, and often quote him.

“The important sources of information which he has been allowed to disclose will hand down his name to the latest generations.”—Keystone.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF MONMOUTHSHIRE.

The annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Monmouthshire was held at Newport, on Thursday, 25th ult. The proceedings commenced with a Provincial Grand Lodge meeting at the Masonic Hall, Dock-street, where the business was transacted. It was held under the banner of the Isca Lodge, 683, and Bro. Capt. Pearson, as W.M., had the honour of opening the conclave, when the P.G.L., headed by the P.G.M. (Bro. Col. Lyne); his Deputy Bro. George Homrny Bro. J. C. Parkinson, the D.P.G.M. of Middlesex, and J.G.D. of England, the P.G.M. of the Western Division of South Wales, (Bro. J. A. Lloyd Phillips) and followed by a large gathering of those who donned the purple, entered into due form.

The business was of the ordinary nature, that possessing most interest to the outer world being the appointment of officers for the ensuing year as follows:—

Phillips, R.W.M. 556, P.P.G. installed the five gentlemen. At the conclusion of the ceremony it was proposed and carried that in consideration of the valuable services rendered to Lodge Star at their St. Andrew's Day trip, Bros. J. Muir, S.W.; W. Muir, J.W.; and J. Cameron, T.; all of 103, be affiliated as honorary members of the R.W.M. proposed, and the S.W. installed that Bro. Miller, R.W.M. 87, be also an honorary member. Bro. J. O. At two o'clock a procession was formed, headed by the band of the 1st Monmouthshire Artillery Volunteers, and proceeded from the lodge room along Dock-street, Commercial-street and Stow Hill, to St. Woollos Church.

Arrived at the door of St. Woollos Church, the procession halted, the brethren opening to the right and left and facing inwards, so as to leave room for the Provincial Grand Master to pass up the centre, he being preceded by his Standard and Sword Bearers, the Provincial Grand Officers and brethren following in succession from the rear so as to invert the Order of procession.

Bro. H. J. Groves, pealed forth the music of Hymn No. 385 as the brethren passed into the Church, the choir singing the words.

The prayers were read by Bro. the Rev. J. W. Osman, choir responses Tallis, Psalms for 25th day; Chants, Alcock, in A; Kelway, in D. Magnificat, Bro. H. J. Groves, in G.. Nunc Dimittis, Rimbault in F. Anthem, "Plead thou my cause," Mozart, The soloists were Miss Julia Jones, Miss Edith Taylor. R.A.M., Mr. E. W. Willey, and Bro. W. Hitchcox.

The Provincial G. Chaplain (Bro. A. L. Willett) preached an impressive sermon. He took his text from 3rd chapter of St Paul's Epistle to the Philippians 13th verse.—"Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended; but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark."

Once more, brethren, do we find ourselves assembled together, according to annual custom, from the various parts of our province. It has always been thought good—and good surely it is—that at such a time we should not fail to attend Divine service; that when we meet to take "council together" we should go up also to the House of God. I said surely it is good we should do this—good I mean, not more in the sense of being proper or fitting than in that of being beneficial to each one of us. For what individual can have been present here to-day without reaping benefit from having done so? Who can have knelt within the walls of this time-honoured edifice, dedicated of old to the service of the Almighty, without feeling a pious inclination to serve God more for the future? Who can have joined in the sweet strains of praise which have been sounded forth here this day without feeling his heart grow warm in response to the service of the lip? Yes, brethren, it is indeed, to use the words of St. Peter, "good for us to be here." But it is my duty, as I esteem in my great privilege, to address you this day. May the opportunity not be altogether a fruitless one. May the great God bless this occasion to us all—to you who hear, and to me who have to speak. The voice said "Cry!" and I said what shall I cry? What, then, should occupy our thoughts this day? Naturally we look back and think of our last great gathering a twelvemonth ago. And the first thought that should arise is that of the mercy of God in having spared us for another year also. Now many have been called from God's work here to His more glorious, more perfect, more finished work above? Yes, how many have been summoned from the antechamber of the Almighty's presence on earth onward and forward into His actual presence in heaven. Then why if this is so glorious—the change from earth to heaven—why is it the mercy of God that has spared us and left us here! Because we might not have been ready for the call. The state of man is, or should be, a state of progress. From the cradle to the grave there is no staying. It is a passing on from knowledge to knowledge, a pressing forward from one degree to another. So much so, that "live and learn" has become a trite saying. You, brethren, know this well; you can realise it yourselves each one of you. St. Paul knew it too. He felt it an incumbent duty to go earnestly forward in all that might fit him for the change from faith to sight, from imperfection to perfection. "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended (that is, I presume to have attained the reward), but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." This was what he, one of the wisest men who have ever lived, did; one of the most intimately conversant with our spiritual needs and necessities—he was not satisfied to rest tamely in one state, but kept progressing forward towards the great reward. And what induced him to do this? Why his belief, his trust, his faith? He was content to pass trustingly forward from darkness towards light, ever onwards from glory to glory, ever to something brighter, ever to a higher degree of perfection, from what he calls mortality to life. He says, "For we that are in this tabernacle (this earthly state he means) do groan, being burdened; not for that we would be unclothed but clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life." Again he says, "Wherefore we labour that whether present or absent we may be accepted of Him"—of the Lord. And the root of all was his faith. But it has always been "faith." Faith for success, the want of it for failure. Take the Old Testament. Read the life of Abraham, called in scripture the Father of the Faithful. Read of his journeyings, undertaken at the command of God. There was a promise of blessing given him if he obeyed, and he believed the promise. There is faith again. And the comment of the New Testament upon his conduct is this—"By faith Abraham, when he was called to go out into a place which he should after receive for an inheritance, obeyed, and he went out, not knowing whither he went. By faith he sojourned in the land of promise as in a strange country, dwelling in tabernacles with Issac and Jacob, the heirs with him of the same promise; for he looked for a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God." Or read of Joseph and of his trust in God's promise to bring up the children of Israel out of Egypt; so sincere a trust that at his death he took an oath of them, saying, "God will surely visit you, and ye will carry up my bones from hence." Of this again the New Testament says—"By faith Joseph, when he died, made mention of the departing of the children of Israel, and gave commandment concerning his bones." And as I have given examples of Old Testament faith and its success, so let me give an example of want of faith, and consequent failure. When the Israelites approached the promised land for the first time, and heard of the might of its possessors (the giants that dwelt in the land), they refused to enter it, doubting God's power to give it them. As a punishment that generation died in the wilderness; and, says the New Testament, of these very men, "To whom sware He that they should not enter into His rest, but to them that believed not? So we see (continues the writer) they could not enter in because of unbelief." Thus, then, we may learn how powerful faith is. Powerful enough to bring about the state of things behind, and pressing earnestly forward. We see it exerting itself in the same way with all the ancient worthies. Whether with Abraham journeying from place to place, or Israel toiling through the parching wilderness, or years after Nehemiah and his workmen rebuilding the walls of Jerusalem, when for fear of attack "everyone with one of his hands wrought in the work, and with the other hand held a weapon," or with St. Paul in latter times, suffering everything in his anxiety for the spread of the truth, or with the Martyrs, enduring the flames rather than renounce their religion. With all these it was "the forgetting those things which are past and behind, and the reaching forth unto those things which are before"—and all brought about by Faith. Brethren, what is our state? Let each one reflect for himself. Are we like those good examples we have been considering: we resemble the timorous, the doubtful, or the disbelieving? Are we so far from forgetting those things which are behind and pressing forward that we even cling to the things of looking back like Lot's wife of old? One year has passed, the sand-glass of life has once more emptied. It behoves us to take thought. We ought to be thoughtful any men are. Not all Masons are good. That is not the fault of Masonry. Alas! Christians even are good; that is not the fault of Christianity. None in the world are perfect as they should be. Even St. Paul was constrained to say "I count not myself to have apprehended," (and again), "Not as though I were already perfect." We, like the rest, can say this too, each one of us, every Christian. But can we go further? Can we say with "This one thing, I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize, even for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." "The fruit known by its fruits." Our spirit of charity to be tested this day. The collection is divided according to our custom between local charities, and our own Masonic Charities. Of the latter, the Masonic, I feel sure I say nothing, as they are near the hearts of you. With regard to the former, I would remind you that in a town like this, rapidly increasing in importance, rapidly spreading in extent and population, such charities as exist here are most acceptable, most useful, most needed. If we think of the Infirmary and Dispensary, which occur at once to us that in all building indeed in massive constructions of ever increasing size such as is being carried forward to a great extent here, accidents and injuries cannot even be very great care be altogether avoided, seems surprising how few do occur. The sick, the infirm, the aged, the destitute, the communications with the world be liable to of this. Then take destitution; in a rapidly increasing centre there is always great liability to this, from the ebbing and flowing, as it were, which must accompany a varying demand for labour, the supply sometimes being insufficient, and then, as a consequence there being a famine even to overflowing, I say a want of element must, under such circumstances, recur at intervals. It cannot be avoided or staved off any way by forethought, or any agency. But, in the way of allaying the suffering and want; and destitute with the ever attendant consequences, much may be done. When you have all this, you will give liberally, I feel sure. "He that hath pity upon the poor lendeth to the Lord, and look what he layeth out it paid him again." Yes Brethren, money given, but lent merely, lent upon the most interesting security, lent, too, at a marvellous interest. Ye shall be rewarded an hundred fold. "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these, ye did it unto me," says Christ in future Judge. And, as on this day you are sure, endeavour to abound in charity on other occasions, as the opportunity may offer, endeavour to abound in other Christian duties. Seek every help, avoid what is evil, and do that which is good. At a time like this, think over and obtain pardon for the sins and sins of the past, and supplicate the Almighty for grace for the future. Of our work we can do no good thing. The will must come from above. At the same time seek to work with the Spirit of God. Use every opportunity of assistance. Use Masonry as a help to you forward, for a great help it is. Yet of putting it before your Christianity. You have a Saviour, a Redeemer, a Mediator, saved by faith. I feel, myself, that the this, our Craft, in its plan, its precepts, its progress, an excellency which commend themselves strongly to one's mind as to give it a powerful influence. It draws one on so gently, so enticingly. It draws one on for its own sake, it does so by tending strongly to the good qualities a man may have, and to drive out the bad. It runs so straight, and so true, that it is the path of Christianity, that they should now not when nor where, like the waters of the rivers. Oh, remember, then, "Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid. Let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon. Hold fast to the one great headstone of the corner. This shall never fail you, whatever may happen. Like that of the wise man in the parable, your building shall stand through trial and storm, because founded on a rock, even the rock of salvation—our Saviour. Oh, love not the world, then, and the things of the world overmuch, but forgetting these things that are behind, and reaching forth to those things that are before, press forward restly and steadily toward the mark for the sake of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. When a Masonic Hymn was sung, whilst a collection was made on behalf of the Masonic charities.

The congregation then left the church, and procession was reformed, and proceeded to Masonic Hall, where the lodge having assembled,

The Provincial Grand Secretary announced the sum of £17 5s. 6d. had been collected at the church after the sermon.

Thanks were then accorded to the Provincial Grand Chaplain, to the Provincial Organist, and to the choir.

The Provincial Grand Master moved a vote of thanks to the visitors, coupling therewith the thanks of the Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master for the Western Division of the Province of South Wales, and also that of the Provincial Grand Master for Middlesex. The vote was acknowledged by the former.

A sum of £10 was voted to the Monmouth Infirmary, and thanks were given to the churchwardens for granting the use of the church.

The rites of closing were solemnly gone through, after which the brethren adjourned to quiet, which was held at the Victoria-hall, the evening being Mr. Gretton, of the King's Hotel. The chair was taken by the Colonel Lyne, who was supported by a distinguished company of the Craft, numbering 50.

Having been said, the Chairman gave "The Queen and the National Anthem was sung by the Chairman then proposed "The M.W. Grand Master of England, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, and the Royal Family." He said that the popular Prince of Wales was not only an ornamental member of the Craft, but also the gatherings of the Order and disinterested interest in the proceedings. H.R.H. had also been instrumental in introducing his brothers, the Duke of Edinburgh, the Duke of Connaught.

The Chairman, in proposing the health of the Grand Master of England, said he knew of no man who desired to do his duty to a greater extent than their M.W.G.M., the Marquess of Salisbury. The nearer they were brought to the Grand Master, the more sure they would say they could not possibly have a better Grand Master who represented them. Great and noble as the duties were in the various vocations which he was called, no day passed without considering what he could do for the best interests of their Order. He was to be found at his post, and they were to be found in having an illustrious nobleman as their Grand Master, and might the Great Architect of the Universe long preserve his life and health.

Shadwell Clerke proposed "The Right Worshipful the D.G.M., and Officers of the Lodge of England," and he thought would agree with him that the toast that stood upon its own merits, and a few words of introduction from him. Sir Walter Scott, who, whether looked at from a Masonic position or in the position of a nobleman, had appointed him, was regarded as an Englishman with esteem. He occupied their time in dilating upon the services of the officers of lodges. They were applying to merit. They had there a brilliant example of what he had just said. They had a brother highly distinguished in all branches of Freemasonry, who held the office of D.G.M., of one of the most important provinces. Many of them knew him well, having met him there so often, and to know him was to esteem him—he alluded to the Worshipful Bro. Parkinson, Grand Deacon of the Order.

Bro. Parkinson said he was most profoundly grateful, as all the officers were, for the distinction conferred upon them, and the satisfaction was materially heightened by the expressions of approval of those appointments. To be selected by the highest constituted authority of the Craft for signal marks of favour, and to have the selection endorsed by the popular body from whom they sprung, and with whom they were connected by the closest ties of affectionate regard, was a combination of favourable circumstances which more than satisfied the loftiest Masonic ambition. He reminded them that few had to be chosen out of a great many, and that all of them would be glad to serve, but were prevented by the inexorable law of numbers. They endeavoured to discharge the duties of their office according to their lights, and when the day came for them to put off their armour, they would be satisfied if they said "They have done what they could." He thanked them heartily for proposing the toast.

Bro. Augustus Homfray said he had permission to propose the next toast, and was sorry no one else had been appointed to do so. He proposed "The Health of the R.W. the Provincial Grand Master." It was a toast which they could always drink with the greatest cordiality. At the head of their Province they had a most worthy Mason who was most anxious to do everything he could to further the interests of the Craft. He congratulated the P.G.M., on the large attendance that day for a small province like Monmouthshire, which contained only seven lodges and little more than 400 brethren. There were no less than 170 brethren and 50 P.G. officers present at the lodge. He spoke in high terms of the P.G.M., and congratulated him upon the appointment of officers, making special allusion to the appointment of his son, Brother C. R. Lyne, as Sword Bearer.

The Chairman responded in a lengthy speech, observing that the P.G.M. had to undergo great difficulty in the performance of his duties: but he would be ungrateful indeed if he did not feel the honour that had been conferred upon him. He also referred to the handsome subscription (£200) which he was enabled to take to London from his Province, and said if ever he felt proud it was on that occasion when he was told that Monmouthshire stood third on the list. That subscription was for poor broken down Freemasons or their widows, and the entire sum amounted to £7000. He denied the truth of what was said outside that Freemasons banded themselves together for the purpose of enjoyment, and went on to observe that out of the offertory of £18 collected at Church that afternoon, they had voted £10 10s. to the Newport Infirmary.

Bro. Major Phillips responded.

The Chairman then proposed the health of the D.P.G.M. and the P.G. Officers, remarking that they were worthy of the offices they held.

Bro. George Homfray responded, and said he was very much obliged to them for the way in which they had drunk his health. In making his appointments it was impossible for the P.G.M. to please all; he endeavoured to select for office well-skilled Masons, and those who did their work and endeavoured to get on in the province. Those who had not been chosen would not be forgotten by him (the speaker) so long as he held the position he did.

Bro. Parkinson then proposed, "The Masonic Charities," and also expressed his pleasure at seeing ladies present.

Bro. Captain Pearson, P.G.J.W. proposed "The Visitors."

Major-General Doherty, C.B., briefly returned thanks.

The other toasts were "The W.M. of the Isca Lodge, Newport," "The Lodges of the Province," and "To all poor and distressed Masons."

LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

The lodge of Benevolence met on Wednesday evening at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. John M. Clabon, President, Bro. Joshua Nunn, Senior Vice President; and Bro. James Brett, Junior Vice President: Bros. E. J. M'Intyre, Q.C.; John Hervey, Grand Sec.; C. A. Cottebrune, P.G.P.; Joseph Smith, P.G.P.; and John Savage, Past Grand Deacon, and several other brethren were present. The sum of £448 in all was granted, after which the lodge was closed.

Dear Sir and Brother,—
I have to announce to you, and through you, to the members of your chapter, that the following change has occurred in the Supreme Grand Council of the Antient and Accepted Rite for England and Wales, and the Colonies.

I have resigned the Command of the Order, and the Right Honourable the Earl of Carnarvon, Deputy Grand Master of England, being my successor, I do not fear that under so eminent a Mason, the Antient and Accepted Rite will flourish to the extent that all its well-wishers must desire.

I avail myself of this opportunity to thank you all, individually and collectively, for the uniform kindness and respect which has ever been shown me, and with the firm conviction, that in future you will always receive me in the same fraternal manner as Past Most Puissant Sovereign Grand Commander, as you have done for the last five years and a half as the immediate head of the Order.

I remain, Dear Sir and Brother,
Yours most truly and fraternally,
CHARLES JOHN VIGNE, 330.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, JULY 25TH, 1874.

THE TRUE MISSION OF FREEMASONRY.

It is very remarkable, how of late years, the popular estimation of Freemasonry has been clearly rising in the great open market of English thought and opinion. As long as our useful and excellent order took the form to a great extent of a secret and social assembly, as long as it bore among men in general the reputation of a harmless, but mainly convivial fraternity, so long, for the most part, with the exception of those who had the courage to lift the veil of our Masonic Isis, the greater part of society took the easy but general explanation of what it was, and what it professed both to be and to do. In short, they accepted our own valuation of ourselves. But when, gradually, Freemasonry, so to say, detached itself from its social character, the merely convivial aspect, (though sociality must always be a great characteristic of our Order, and, we will add, innocent conviviality), from the hour that Freemasonry exhibited clearly to the world, that, its profession and practice went hand in hand, immediately, many saw good in Freemasonry who had never seen it before, and the world, which is generally guided, as is society, to a great extent, by the opinions of the many, rather than the few, chimed in at once with expressions of admiration and of praise. And hence, as we are inclined to think that the world is sometimes right—that is, it is not always wrong,—in the views it entertains of things, and persons, and events, we wish to impress upon our readers, that, this active manifestation of our great principles, which has so struck men and society, is, after all, the true mission of Freemasonry. We have nothing to do with politics; that is quite clear. We have no concern with the polemics of denominationalism, or that "odium theologicum," which, some writers, tell us, is the bitterest of all hatreds. We have little interest in the passing frivolities of the hour and less in the outward exhibitions of folly or fashion. But, as Freemasons, we profess to be tolerant and kindly, large-hearted and fraternal, looking beyond the narrow limits of local, or national, or sectarian divisions, and regarding with sympathy and interest, every "brother of the dust." Yet as we also know that true cha-city begins at home, we equally believe, is falsely called true charity, which, indeed, is high-flown sentimentality or unreal and neglects those who have the first claim on its heart and means, and leaves them to their privation, while it relieves with an over-zeal those who are far away, and who fairly look to their own friends for such support. So Freemasonry, first of all, her own. And we, in England, have years shown how fully we value the privileges of Freemasonry and enter into the teaching, as loyal members of our Order, that we have munificently every form of Masonic benevolence and which seemed to have a fair claim on our liberality, to call for our ready assistance and invoke our cheerful support. Thus both in the metropolis, and by our grants, by large sums from our benevolence by constant donations from our lodge alike assisted increasing indigence or suffering, relieved the widow and the orphan and educated with an unsparring liberality orphan daughters and sons of our distressed and less prosperous brethren. Whatever some may still entertain of Freemasonry, some foolish prejudices may still linger, unfounded impressions may still survive, ever the mistaken views of earnest reformers may question the propriety of our benevolence, or the expansiveness of our teaching, none will venture to assert that works of charity and utility are not alike and labours of mercy and love, and the din of human controversy, and strife of tongues surmounting the difficulties of wildly struggles and confusion rises, so to say, as once again and sweetly singing, "Glory to God in heaven, and on earth, peace, good-will towards all." This is ever the true motto of Freemasonry, relieving distress, in succouring old and young, providing for weakness, in mitigating suffering, in training up the young orphan child to brotherhood, and fitting them as well for the sterner battle of life, we are in the end, in teaching that we love our neighbours as that we are alive to the true mission of Freemasonry, that we are intent on unchanging precepts, and that we have realized how true it is, that "Christ, the divine sister Mercy is twice blessed, who blesses him who gives, as well as he who receives." How beautiful is the picture presented to the mind's eye of the reflection of mason. Freemasonry is endeared to us by warm and active memories of the past, calls happy hours and faithful friends, summons up even now, amid prevailing depression, a vision of "careless days of yore, when we found in the bosom of a genial friendship, many a refreshing season, amid the trying call of the continuous exertion of business. But beyond this, and above this, we have invested for us with even still more of beauty and of grace, when it is clothed in the garb of charity. How great and good a thing Freemasonry is, how admirable the Institution!

aims, how noble its end. Thus raised above the passing interests of the day, we see at once how real, after all, is the true mission of Freemasonry, and in what it indeed consists. Not in angry strife or uncharitable debate, not in the prolix utterances, or mournful "outcome," of censoriousness or detraction, not in the perpetuation of angry feelings or hostile camps, but in the peaceful avowal of a universal sympathy, and the glad belief of a universal brotherhood. Here then, we venture to think, is the true mission of Freemasonry, and those who, like us, thus make Freemasonry mean the both practical development of charity and mercy and sympathy, who believe that otherwise Freemasonry sinks into an aggregation of useless ornamentation, or parish show, they will ever hail that happy and onward movement in our honoured English Craft, which has of late years placed Freemasonry in its true position before our fellow citizens, has promoted so greatly the true cause of Masonic liberality and benevolence, has conferred countless blessings on young and old, the happy recipients of the generous and sympathetic alms of our fraternity, and is a lasting proof, if proof be needed, that we in England, at any rate, as faithful brethren of our good old Order, thoroughly understand, and practically carry out the true mission of Freemasonry in the world.

MR. CLUFF'S LEGACY.

A Mr. Cluff, who was not, we believe, a member of our Order, has in his will, left the sum of £3,500 to the Boys' School, and a similar sum to the Girls' School, in all £7,000, for the purposes of what appear to be a perpetual scholarship or scholarships. We say appear to be for we confess, that, though we have read over the terms of the bequest more than once, there seems to us alike a little ambiguity to the real meaning of the testator, and some little difficulty, too, as regards a literal compliance with the terms of the bequest. We quite agree with those brethren, who have referred the matter to the Grand Master, and to the opinion of the Grand Registrar, and we are inclined to think, that as Bro. Peacock suggests, under the provisions of the "Trustee Relief Act," will be the best solution of the whole question, as well as of the legal and technical difficulty. Some brethren seem to be afraid, that, by the mere acceptance of the bequest, the schools become once amenable to the interference of the Charity Commission. But such an objection would apply to any endowment at all, and if it is good as regards our schools, "ceteris paribus," it would hold good of all other schools in the country which have any funded capital. It is true, though it may be said, that the funded capital of the Girls' School, for instance, is but the saving of annual expenditure, yet both our schools have had legacies left them from time to time, and though too it may be alleged, that they are not foundation schools, yet the argument would not be pushed too far, and we are inclined to think, that whatever may be the position of our schools, especially the Girls' School, in the respect of funded capital, if before Mr. Cluff's legacy, they were not brought under the operation of the Charity Commission, they are not now. Without the Act before us, we cannot of course lay down, what exemptions are allowed, and under which head our Masonic Schools may range themselves, but our impression is, we confess, though we may be mistaken, that all institutions in this country, which have been founded, with the charitable design of educating others whom poverty or misfortune has afflicted or reduced, and those above all which have received legacies for the purpose, and have the benefit of a funded capital, are brought within the scope of the act. We have heard it said, that, there is a limit as regards the amount of capital, but that we believe to be an entire misconception of the Act. But even should this be so, should the legacy of well-meaning Mr. Cluff bring our two schools under the notice of the Charity Commission, either as eleemosynary or educational institutions, we do not see that much harm will be done. Sure we are of this, that no institutions will stand a severer scrutiny, or bear a more searching examination. They are admirably conducted, and as the Charity Commission has nothing to do with the appropriation of the yearly subscriptions, but at the most could only take cognizance of the appropriation of the funded capital, the amount of possible interference is reduced to a minimum, and need not at all alarm worthy brethren like Bro. Browne, or the many friends of both institutions, who may not have any desire to see the present excellent management and arrangement of our schools in any way interfered with. We hope, that, some means will be discovered, under the able advice of our Grand Registrar, by which the Boys' School and the Girls' School may avail themselves of the charitable bequest of Mr. Cluff.

Quantum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

BRO. HUGHAN'S CHALLENGE.

Did I understand my able Bro. Hughan to have laid down the proposition, as regards the three degrees, as broadly as my Bro. Buchan states, in his last interesting letter, I should be compelled, out of pure consistency, and in what I deem the cause of Masonic truth and historical accuracy, respectfully to controvert some of my Bro. Buchan's statements. But as I read Bro. Hughan's challenge, it by no means goes so far as Bro. Buchan seems to believe.

I do not at all understand that Bro. Hughan anywhere contends, that, the three degrees did not exist before 1717, but only, that there is, so far, no ritual evidence of their existence before 1720. But I do not think such a proposition need be understood as asserting, that, they did not exist, but only, that, so far, we have no ritual evidence of their distinct existence, as now. There may be other evidence of their existence though not actually ritual, and this Bro. Hughan's argument does not exclude.

If Dermott can be relied on, Dermott indeed settles the question, as an almost contemporary witness, by stating unequivocally, that, before 1717, the "master's part" did exist, though he contended the "antients" had it, and the "moderns" had not.

The evidence, both of minute books and of rituals, may however, be looked upon from more than one point of view. In minute books, such as the Scotch minute books, Bro. Hughan, and Bro. Lyon, and Bro. Buchan may fairly say, we have evidence that in Scotland all the three classes met on one common basis, and were present at all receptions.

Now my explanation of the Scottish system is this, "quantum valeat."

We have evidence that the apprentices were made often out of the lodge by the Master, and then "bukit in the lodge records."

We have also evidence that the word "passing" was familiar to the Scotch minute books and Freemasonry, and therefore, it is just possible that, the line of demarcation being very narrow between the degrees, they were admitted to the higher degrees on the same occasion.

It has also struck me that the old Scottish operative lodges retained a special form of making those admitted "free of the guild."

But though I admit all this may be fairly said, I do not think, that, because we have no mention made in the minute books, therefore, we are to assume that such degrees did not exist at all. The Scotch lodges had an open court for their members, but that does not preclude the possibility, as our Bro. Hughan sees, with his customary clearness and accuracy, of the existence of other secrets and separate degrees.

No one contends, I least of any, that the degrees existed exactly as we have them to-day, but that they did exist in some way all our documentary evidence proves, or else it proves nothing at all.

I am not one of those who set a great deal of store by ritual evidence, still it has its place in such a discussion as this.

I have seen a ritual which professes to date from before the separation between the "antients and the moderns," and there is no question in it of the existence of the three degrees.

And though there may be no known ritual in existence (though I should not at all be surprised if this discussion brings out some older ritual than we at present dream of) before 1720, as Bro. Hughan puts it. Yet it appears to me, that as these rituals must be antedated to the legal memory as they could not be all "pious frauds" or pure invention for the first time, in the face of the Sloane MSS. 3329, we I think shall see, that we cannot well limit the archaeological question to 1720 or 1717.

My own humble opinion is, we are still a little premature in coming to a conclusion on the question, as the Scottish system may be peculiar to itself, and the English system prior to 1700 has yet to be unearthed.

I say nothing to day of much other evidence which might be adduced in favour of the three degrees.

A. F. A. WOODFORD.

BRO. THE REV. A. F. A. WOODFORD, M.A., P.G.C., v. BRO. WM. PRESTON.

In a few weeks I hope to look again into the Masonic career of Bro. Preston, and will then make known the result in the columns of The Freemason. The valuable letter from our esteemed Bro. Cawling (kindly published by Bro. Woodford) is an evidence of the mine of wealth still left to be explored by Masonic students, and proves what may be done by a number of earnest enquirers, determined to do their best to discover old records of lodges, and other Masonic MSS., hitherto unknown to the fraternity of to-day.

W. J. HUGHAN.

REVIRESCO v. BRO. BUCHAN.

Bro. Buchan, I plainly see, is not quite sure of me yet, but likely enough, in the long run, if we cannot sail in the same boat, we shall spin along "side by side." But when? The answer shall be given as soon as possible. Meanwhile let us all do our best to appreciate and estimate the value of the important additions made to our rapidly accumulating stock of Masonic MSS., and lodge records. Such students of our ancient history as Bros. Woodford, Hughan, and Lyon, deserve the warm support and sympathy of the Craft, for to them we are mainly indebted for the important discoveries of late. I am not disposed at present to discuss the points in dispute, being anxious to see Bro. Hughan's challenge accepted by any competent brother who has been in the habit of stating to the contrary, in order that the truth may be elucidated. Bro. Buchan has done well to call attention to the matter, and I hope his remarks will bear fruit. Let us, however, be careful, and not require more evidence in support of our statements than the subject warrants.

REVIRESCO.

BRO. HUGHAN'S CHALLENGE AND BRO. W. P. BUCHAN.

I am much obliged to Bro. Buchan for his friendly remarks, respecting my views as to the origin and character of Freemasonry in early days.

I do not, however, quite agree with Bro. Buchan in his references to Freemasonry prior to the "Revival." Of course, the gentlemen who were admitted as members of Masonic lodges in the seventeenth century were not able in consequence to be employed as operative Masons. All we contend for is that they became the possessors of whatever esoteric ceremonies were peculiar to Freemasonry in those days. It is a fact that the lodges were "drooping" early in the last century, and that the first Grand Lodge, which was instituted 1717, was actually the offspring of four old lodges.

To suppose that these members under the ancient régime did not preserve the former secret word or words, and signs, in the enlarged ceremonies, and the three degrees, would to my mind, be shutting our eyes to much even of the present ritual, which is so suggestive of purely operative customs, and also refuse the testimony to these ancient mysteries being retained, which was afforded by the attendance of visiting brethren who belonged to the old system.

But all we can expect is a general agreement, and minor details will of necessity be open to criticism, as I accept the support of our Bro. Buchan, in the hearty spirit in which it is offered, and all the more because of his well-known independent mind.

W. J. HUGHAN.

PRINCE HALL.

Prince Hall, a negro, Master of a Masonic Lodge in Boston (Massachusetts), was born about 1738. After the peace, a Masonic Charter was obtained from England, but it seems that white Masons, out of pride would not acknowledge the African lodge. Mr. Hall said, "There are to be seen the weeds of pride, envy tyranny, and scorn, in this garden of peace, liberty, and equality." He published two Masonic charges, 1792, 1797.—American Biographical Dictionary. By William Allan, D.D., Third edition.

AN ORATION.

DELIVERED AT A REGULAR MEETING, ON THE 7TH JULY 1874, OF ST. DAVID'S LODGE, No. 393.

BY BRO. CHALMERS I. PATON,
(Past-Master No. 393, England.)

Worshipful Master and Brethren:—On an occasion like the present, it is natural that our thoughts should revert to the erection and dedication of the Temple of Solomon, that great and glorious work of which the connection with the history of Freemasonry is so intimate and important. I am not inclined, indeed, to assent to the opinion which has been expressed by many, that Freemasonry originated at the time of the erection of Solomon's Temple, but rather to ascribe it to a still earlier origin, an origin lost in the depths of remote antiquity. But it may very well be supposed that the system subsisting before that date was then consolidated and improved, so that the building of the first Temple at Jerusalem marks a great era in the progress of Freemasonry and is one of the great landmarks of its history. And now when the Temple of Jerusalem has long since disappeared, and the very form of worship for which it was intended has passed away, when cedar forests no longer clothe the slopes of Lebanon and Tyre, whose King supplied Solomon with a great part of the materials for his work, and from which also he obtained his master workmen, is no longer a great city, its merchant princes and its traffickers the honourable of the earth, but a scene of desolation, a place for fishermen to dry their nets, it is interesting to reflect that the institution of Freemasonry not only continues to exist, having been transmitted from generation to generation during these three thousand years and extended to lands of which Solomon never heard of, and, which in his day the only inhabitants were roaming savages, but that it is still full of life, as vigorous and prosperous as in the days of Solomon and Hiram, changed in nothing but for the better, as the wisdom and knowledge of age after age have been stored up and applied for its improvement, its essential principles still remaining unaltered, unmodified.

The dedication of Solomon's Temple was an occasion of special solemnity in the history of the peculiar people, and of whom he especially avouched himself to be their God. It is impossible, I believe, to conceive aright the solemnity and grandeur of that scene, such as has never been equalled and can never be realized again in the history of the world, when the temple, which had been seven years in building, was finished, with its symbolical pillars, and all its furniture, its altar of burnt offering, its altar of incense, its veil and inner sanctuary, the Holy of Holies, its molten sea standing upon twelve oxen of brass, its ten lavers of brass, its golden candlesticks with seven branches, its table of shew bread, its lamps, its tongs of gold, its bowls, its snuffers, its basins, its spoons, and its censers, and "Solomon assembled the elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, the Chief of the fathers of the Children of Israel," and brought up the ark of the covenant of the Lord to Jerusalem and to the temple which, under divine direction he had built, and when the priests were come out of the holy place in which they had placed the ark, "the cloud filled the house of the Lord so that priests could not stand to minister, because of the cloud, for the glory of the Lord had filled the house of the Lord," and Solomon addressed and blessed the people and offered to the Lord one of the most sublime and beautiful of all the prayers recorded in the Holy scriptures, imploring that the eyes of the Lord might be toward that house night and day, and that all the prayers which the people made towards it might be heard, even though from lands of exile and in distress. We have no right to expect any such divine manifestations as took place on that occasion, when we dedicate our temples; their purpose is not especial, as that of the temple of Solomon, and yet is a high and glorious purpose. No temple that we erect is the special selected place of God's manifestation of himself and of his meeting with his people, but every one is erected to his glory for the great purpose of maintaining and promoting the knowledge of his name, and for the great purpose of celebrating his pure worship, than which no nobler purposes can be entertained by man. Freemasonry has entertained these purposes throughout its history; they belonged to it when Solomon and Hiram presided in the meetings of the brotherhood at Jerusalem, and reduced the system to an order and perfection which it had not attained before; and they equally belong to it now. Every new temple dedicated declares their subsistence, proclaims their permanence. Let us look for the evidence of the divine favour, not manifested by a visible cloud of glory, but manifested not less really by the evident answer of our prayers, by the evident blessing resting on our meetings and our works.

It is with just pride that Freemasons reflect on the antiquity of their system and of their Craft, the most ancient of all existing institutions of mere human origin. And, this is not, I think, an improper occasion for adverting to the complete failure of attempts recently made to assign to our modern Freemasonry a mere modern origin, a very recent date. With no little show of learning and research, in a boastful spirit of unprejudiced inquiry and ruthless criticism, it has been maintained that Freemasonry was invented by Dr. Anderson, Dr. Desaguliers, and others, their associates, by them first established in England in the year 1717, and thence extended over the world. It may well be deemed a conclusive argument against this opinion the 1717 theory as it has been called, that it ascribes base imposture to men who were held in high respect by their contemporaries, and whose names have been mentioned with honour from their own time to the present. To make such an assumption without the clearest and strongest evidence to sustain it is monstrous, and especially unworthy of a Freemason, contrary to all Masonic principles and teaching. The character of a brother is not to be lightly assailed, the character of the dead ought to be held even more sacred than that of the living. Dr. Anderson and Dr. Desaguliers did not profess to introduce a new system to the world. The whole history of their proceedings consists with the notion that they acted in good faith, and is utterly inconsistent with an opposite notion.

I may observe that we have abundant evidence of the existence of Freemasonry in England dates long anterior to the beginning of the century. Our old constitutions and charges belong to much earlier times. But I will dwell on the evidence afforded by these. Permit me rather, in a few words, to refer you to the proof we have of the existence of Freemasonry in the 17th century, which itself sufficiently against the notion of its having originated in the 18th. In Plot's history of Staffordshire, we find an attack upon Freemasonry, evidence enough of its existence, and the better as coming from an enemy. And the works of Roger Ashmole we find a record of his having been a Mason in the 17th century and that is highly honourable company. So enemies of Freemasonry have asserted that it originated by Roger Ashmole and a few kind spirits, by way of amusement. It is an absurd guess, put forth at a venture, by men resolved not to acknowledge the antiquity of our system and our Craft; and is utterly inconsistent with Ashmole's own statement of facts as to initiation. The enemies of Freemasonry may choose between the 1717 theory and the Ashmole theory. Both are for its enemies, not its friends. But they are antagonistic, cannot be maintained together.

Some have imagined that Masonry was merely operative till its revival in England in the beginning of last century, and then became speculative, thus seeking to escape difficulties with acknowledging the antiquity of our present system of Freemasonry. It must be granted that there is a connection between operative and speculative masonry. It must also be granted that this connection was more intimate in former times than the present. But that Masonry until the time of Dr. Anderson and Dr. Desaguliers, was merely operative and then first became speculative, I emphatically deny. We have evidence of the connection with the Masonic body in England, in long past centuries of men of high rank sufficient proof that the fellowship of Masonic brotherhood was not limited to operative Masons. And coming down to the 17th century, we have a notable instance of initiation of one who was not an operative Mason in Roger Ashmole, already mentioned, and the names which the records of those present at his initiation affords proof that this was no regular and exceptional instance. And from Plot says in his History of Staffordshire, we clearly that it was common in England, in that day, for country gentlemen or others, who nothing to do with operative Masonry, to obtain admission into Masonic lodges.

But now, turning our thoughts from the with all its interesting associations, to the present and its interests and duties, to the future and prospects, bear with me when I say that a responsibility lies upon us. We have more power for the advancement of Freemasonry than our forefathers had. This new hall to the power of the Berwick Lodge, and I that my brethren, members of the lodge, be found equal to the occasion, and that the interests of Freemasonry will not suffer in my hands. I look with confidence for a rapid extension of Freemasonry in this town and district. But what, after all, is the advancement of Freemasonry? Not a mere increase of the number of members of a lodge or of all the lodges. Increase of numbers is highly desirable, if discretion is exercised in the admission of candidates, and care is taken to see that those who are admitted are worthy; for the admission of unworthy candidates is no accession of strength, but on the contrary a cause of weakness and a discredit to the Order. The advancement of Freemasonry depends most of all on the worthiness of the candidates admitted, and the worthy conduct of all the brethren. Let every one take this to heart, and see to it that conduct, and consider what may be the influence of our example. Let us see to it, that we walk according to our profession, true worshippers of God, strict observers of the moral law, constantly obedient to the laws of our country, good husbands, good fathers, good sons, good masters, good servants, for the true advancement of Freemasonry is in the accomplishment of the objects for which our Order was founded and exists, and the extension of the brotherhood, the accession of members is to be desired by us only that these objects may be more extensively attained.

And how admirable are these objects! The promoters of religion and virtue, of loyalty and good order, of domestic happiness, of social concord, of peace amongst the nations of the earth, of industry, of science, and of all that tends to the welfare of individuals, of families, and of mankind. These are glorious objects, objects to which it is good to devote all our energies, for which it would not be too much to give life itself. But what is demanded of us is not that we should sacrifice life for their sake, although that might be reasonable and proper, but that we should employ our lives in their promotion, all the while enjoying a reward in the increase of our own happiness, not only from the feeling of satisfaction which God has appointed to attend the doing good of others, but from the benefits which, under his gracious Providence, always attend a life of piety and virtue.

A CONGRATULATORY ADDRESS,

Delivered at the Consecration of the Isle of Axholme Lodge, Epworth.

By Bro. THE REV. JOHN C. H. SAUNDERS, M.A., W.M. AND C. 1286.

Brethren of the Isle of Axholme Lodge, in my own name, in that of the brethren of this Province, and I think I may confidently add, on behalf of every true hearted Mason, I beg to offer you our most sincere congratulations on the auspicious opening of your lodge. May it go on and prosper. Begun in order, may it progress in harmony and peace, may no discord, no dissension, gain admission here; may bickerings and heart-burning be unknown amongst you, but may true brotherly love and unity flourish and abound. Let your watchword be "Go Forward," but let caution and prudence dictate every step.

My experience of Freemasonry has taught me, that while there is much that is admirable—truly admirable—in the Institution itself, there are at the same time certain points which from the laxity of indiscreet brethren tend to bring the Order into disrepute. To two of these points I would briefly invite your attention, and in so doing I would ask you to bear with me, and to receive my few imperfect remarks in the same spirit of fraternal kindness as the ideas are conceived, and the words uttered by myself. What I say unto you I would say to all the brethren. The first point to which I would advert is this.—We cannot be too cautious whom we select as Masters of our lodge. The Master holds a most important and responsible position. Unless, therefore he is well qualified to perform the duties of his office, the lodge cannot prosper. It may continue to exist, but it cannot flourish. We cannot therefore, I repeat, be too careful whom we select as our Master. If we select a brother for that important position, merely because he has filled the office of Warden, utterly regardless of the manner in which he had performed the duties of that office, or because he is one of the senior members of our lodge. If we select him merely as a matter of policy, in order to avoid giving offence to some crotchety brother, or as a matter of expediency to gratify the craving after office of a restless ambitious brother; if we select him merely because he is a bon vivant and jovial companion, or because his social status is a grade above that of some other brother, who may be in all respects Masonically his superior. If we select him for any or all of these reasons, believe me, we are doing our best to lower the prestige of our lodge, to bring Masonry into disrepute, and to strike a grievous blow at the Order which we have pledged ourselves to uphold to the utmost of our ability. What then are the qualifications we should seek for? and what should be our governing principles of action?

We should select a brother who, by the zeal and energy he has displayed in the performance of the duties of the minor offices he has filled, gives promise of being able efficiently to perform the more important duties of the higher. We should select a brother who stands well with his brethren, one who is amiable in disposition, and affable in manners, one who is apt to teach, and able to govern, one whose moral character is beyond reproach, whose commercial reputation is above suspicion, one blessed with a retentive memory, able to learn, able to remember, able intelligently to recite and perform our striking and interesting ceremonial. When we find a brother possessing these qualifications we may venture to select him with full confidence that he will prove a most efficient Master. But if in addition he possesses that other most important qualification, the blessing of a liberal education, it will be found to add immensely to his efficiency. And inasmuch as the selection of officers rests entirely with the Master, as he is, such to a great extent will be his officers, and as are the officers, such will be the brethren. If he be inefficient or indifferent, a spirit of indifference will soon be engendered. Carelessness and laxity will soon be manifested, which must tend to the injury, it may be the irreparable injury of the lodge. But if the Master be zealous and efficient he will inspire his lodge, officers and brethren alike, with a spirit of energy and zeal, so that actuated by one feeling they will work in unison; bound together by the mystic tie of fraternal love, they will labour for the benefit of the Craft in general and for the welfare of their own lodge in particular. And what should be our governing principle of action, in the selection of our Master. Fidelity to our Order, and a firm determination, avoiding fear on the one hand, and favour on the other, to select that brother whom we conscientiously believe to be in all respects the best qualified for the office.

Another point, and one of paramount importance, in which great care is necessary, is this, "we cannot be too cautious whom we admit into the Order."

In the present day when Freemasonry is fashionable, and frequent applications are made for admission to our ranks, it behoves us to exercise more than ordinary caution whom we admit.

No one, as a matter of course, is proposed for admission unless some little is known of him by his proposer and seconder. But are we always sufficiently cautious? Do we carefully investigate the character and antecedents of a candidate? Do we inquire what are his reasons for wishing to be admitted to our ancient mysteries and privileges? If on investigation we find that he is a man who has gained the respect and esteem of his fellow men; that his character will bear the strictest scrutiny, that he is a faithful husband, an exemplary father, a constant friend, and a true patriot, if we find that he has been in the habit of practising the Masonic virtues, not knowing them to be such; if we have reason to believe that his head, his heart, his hand, his knee and his foot, will be energetically and zealously exerted on behalf of Freemasonry, we may venture to elect him, for he will probably become a good and worthy Mason.

But if on the other hand, we find on investigation, we have reason to suspect that his sole object in seeking to gain admission to our ranks arises from a morbid curiosity to become acquainted with our secrets, we must reject him at once, for he will prove but a sorry Mason. If we have reason to believe that his chief object is a mercenary motive in order that he may receive pecuniary benefit in the time of difficulty, or succour in the hour of sickness, we must inform him that ours is not a benefit club, and that he cannot be admitted on such conditions. If we suspect that his object is to bolster up a somewhat doubtful moral reputation, or to prop up a somewhat tottering commercial reputation, thus using Masonry as a cloak of hypocrisy; we must reject him at once.

If we have reason to believe that his object is for the value of the refreshment which sometimes follows labour, we must tell him that ours is no convivial club, and that we cannot receive him on such terms.

O let us be careful that at none whom we are instrumental in admitting into the Order, the finger of scorn may ever be able to be pointed, or the tongue of the slanderer ever have occasion to say, that "man! that liar! that thief! that drunkard! that whoremonger! is a Mason, and a disgrace to the Order."

Believe me far more injury is done to Masonry by the indiscretions of faithless brethren, than by all the open attacks of the slanderer and the coward.

One word more and I have done.

Again I beg most heartily to congratulate the brethren of this new lodge at Epworth on its foundation. May it progress and prosper, until it becomes as famous in the annals of Masonry as has the good old town of Epworth itself, in the History of the Church.

THE P.M. JEWEL.

Dear Sir and Brother,—
Will you or one of your numerous readers kindly inform me,

1. Whether any brother who has never attained the office of W.M. has any right to wear the P.M. jewel on his apron.
2. Whether holding office in a P.G. Lodge will confer that right?
3. Whose duty it is to see that brethren enter a lodge, whether P.G. or private, properly attired.

My reason for making these inquiries is that a brother in Lincolnshire in calling my attention to the Prov. Grand Lodge, lately held in that province, mentions that a brother had on an apron the three P.M. jewels, and which he has worn for more than twelve months, though he has never been a W.M.. I have always looked up to Provincial Grand Officers as patterns of Masonic excellence and correctness. Is not this a glaring breach of Masonic etiquette?

Yours fraternally,

S.W.

[No brother has a right to wear the emblems of a P.M., who has not been, bonâ fide, W.M. of a lodge.—Ed.]

BRO. CONSTABLE'S DRAWING.

Dear Sir and Brother,—
Permit me to thank you for the preliminary notice, contained in your issue of the 11th inst., of my project on behalf of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls; and to state that every purchaser of a shilling ticket will be entitled to participate in the ballot for a Life Governorship thereof, value £10 10s.

The ballot is arranged to take place on Wednesday, 28th April, 1875, and the result will be recorded in the columns of The Freemason.

My desire, in commencing thus early, is to secure a widely spread patronage, and I hope that our brethren will readily accept and support an easy means of doing good service on behalf of an Institution which has established its usefulness as a Masonic Charity throughout the world.

I am convinced that there are many charitable brethren in the kingdom who will gladly avail themselves of the opportunity thus afforded, and in furtherance of this I shall be pleased to forward tickets on sale or return, and, with permission, add names to the undermentioned list.

The Institution will receive the benefit of every shilling subscribed, not a fraction is to be deducted for working expenses.

JOHN CONSTABLE.

Tickets may be had from the following brethren:—
Bro. W. J. Hughan, P.G.S.D. England, P.M. 131, P.G. Sec. Cornwall, Truro
" Augustus A. Bagshawe, P.P.G.W.. P.S. G.W. Derbyshire, I.P.M. 1235, Wormhill Vicarage, Buxton, Derby.

- Bro. John Greenhough, P.M., Parker-street, Manchester.
 " W. H. Bowden, 2, Sunderland-place, Clifton.
 " Jesse Owens, P.M., Asylum, Hanwell.

MR. W. CLUFFS BEQUEST.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

I must ask you to correct your report of the last quarterly meeting of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, in page 436, of Vol. 7, No. 280, so far as I am concerned, for I did not, as you report, think that under the Trustees Relief Act, the Institution should pay the money into the Court of Chancery, for I stated that I did not see much difficulty in the Institution carrying out the trusts of the will, and in reply to Bro. H. Browse, I said we ought if possible to prevent the money being paid into the Court of Chancery, and I further stated, in my opinion, that if the acceptance of the gift did bring the school within the operation of the Charitable Trusts Act, the Commission would only acquire jurisdiction as to this particular fund, and that we should act in union with the Boys' School, and take the opinion of the Grand Registrar.

I shall feel obliged by your inserting this letter in your next number, for I should not like it to remain uncontradicted that I should wish the funds of the Institution to be absorbed by any unnecessary expenses.

Yours fraternally,

T. F. R. PEACOCK.

The annual Congress of the Royal Archaeological Institute was opened at the Town Hall, Ripon, under the presidency of the Marquess of Ripon. The proceedings commenced with the reception of the institute by the mayor and corporation. An address was read by the town clerk, and presented to Lord Talbot de Malahide, who thanked the mayor and corporation for the hearty welcome. His lordship then appointed the Marquess of Ripon to the presidential chair for the meeting, and the Bishop of Ripon, on behalf of himself, the dean and chapter, and the clergy, tendered a hearty welcome to the institution. By invitation of the mayor and corporation, the members and friends of the institute, to the number of 340, partook of lunch in a large marquee. The party then adjourned to the cathedral, where its architecture was described by Sir Gilbert Scott, who has recently been engaged in its restoration. The library was next visited, and its ancient MSS. and printed works examined. Two or three pieces of old music recently discovered were illustrated by the cathedral choir, under the leadership of Mr. Cross. The inaugural address of the Marquess of Ripon was delivered in the Riding-school.

The Grand Lodge of Indiana have under consideration plans for the remodelling of the Masonic Temple at Indianapolis. The estimated cost of the improvements is placed at 54,000 dol., and the plan is heartily commended by the editor of the Advocate, P. G. M. Martin H. Rice, of that State.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Enjoyment of Life.—When the blood is pure, its circulation perfect, and the nerves in good order, we are well. These pills possess a marvellous power in securing these great secrets of health by purifying, regulating and strengthening fluids and solids. Holloway's Pills can be confidently recommended to all persons suffering from disordered digestion, or worried by nervous fancies, or neuralgic pains. They correct acidity and heartburn, dispel sick headache, quicken the action of the liver, and act as alteratives and gentle aperients. The weak and delicate may take them without fear. Holloway's pills are eminently serviceable to invalids of irritable constitution, as they raise the action of every organ to its natural standard, and universally exercise a calming and sedative influence.

RUPTURES—BY ROYAL LETTERS PATENT. WHITE'S MOC-MAIN LEVER TRUSS

Is allowed by upwards of 500 Medical Men to be the most effective invention in the curative treatment of HERNIA. The use of a steel spring, so often hurtful in its effects, is here avoided; a soft bandage being worn round the body, while the requisite resisting power is supplied by the MOC-MAIN PAD and PATENT LEVER, fitting with so much ease and closeness that it cannot be detected, and may be worn during sleep. A descriptive circular may be had, and the Truss, which cannot fail to fit, forwarded by post, on the circumference of the body, two inches below the hip, being sent to the MANUFACTURER, Mr. WHITE, 228, Piccadilly, London. CROSBYS BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR. Includes an image of a bottle and text describing its benefits for various ailments.

Opiales, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBYS BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening tonic this disease. This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strength of constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Indigestion, Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 12s. each, respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Scarborough. REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

LIVERPOOL.—Neptune Lodge (No. 1264).—Another of the numerous pleasant summer excursions, in connection with Liverpool lodges, came off on Thursday, the 23rd ult., and formed one of the most pleasant of the series. Following the custom of former years, the brethren of the Neptune Lodge, No. 1264, accompanied by their wives and sweethearts, started for the charming grounds surrounding the Victoria Hotel, Thatto Heath. The weather was of the most gloomy and threatening character, when about 100 ladies and brethren started from Lime-street Station, and proceeded by the London and North-western Railway to the scene of the day's festivities. A short and sharp thunder-storm immediately after arrival seemed to clear the air, however, and the weather in the afternoon was as bright, sunny, and delightful as the most fastidious could have desired. The picnics in connection with the Neptune Lodge have always been looked upon as very delightful, because always cordial and fraternal; but the "out" on this occasion proved even more enjoyable than in any previous years—the result of almost perfect arrangements, the active and willing services of a volunteer band of Stewards, and the excellent spirit which marked the whole of the proceedings. An excellent dinner was served by Mr. Whittle, of the Victoria Hotel, in the spacious marquee, and the pleasure of the company was greatly increased by the valuable service of staff of volunteer Stewards. After the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, Bro. A. Davies, I.P.M., gave the health of the W.M. (Bro. J. S. Dixon), who, he said, had secured his present proud position by legitimate means and hard service. Bro. Davies then referred at some length to the advantages of Freemasonry, and especially to the charitable objects of the Order, with special reference to widows and orphans. He concluded by proposing the health of the W.M. and Mrs. Dixon. The W.M. said he was extremely grateful for the manner in which his health and that of Mrs. Dixon had been given and received. He was particularly gratified at the large attendance of ladies that day, and hoped every one would enjoy the picnic in the highest degree. He hoped to retain the good opinion of the brethren during his year of office. The W.M. then presented Bro. J. Healing, P.M., with a very handsome gold watch and appendages, as a mark of esteem of the brethren for the faithful and valuable services he had rendered as Treasurer to the lodge. The W.M. highly eulogised Bro. Healing for his services in that capacity, and more particularly for his efforts in connection with the West Lancashire Educational Institution. He remarked incidentally that the Neptune Lodge was now only second to one in the province in support of the funds, and hoped it would long occupy that enviable position. The watch, was made by Bro. Fish, and bore the following inscription:—"Presented to Bro. Joseph Healing, P.M., by the brethren of the Neptune Lodge, No. 1264, in recognition of his faithful and valuable services as Treasurer, Liverpool, 23rd, July, 1874." The testimonial was subscribed for by members of the lodge, honourable mention being due to Bro. Bushell, who spared no effort to make the presentation worthy of the occasion. Bro. Healing acknowledged the splendid gift in suitable terms. The W. M. then gave "The Ladies," acknowledged by Bro. W. Doyle, P.J.G.D.; "The Past Masters," responded to by Bro. P. B. Gee, P.M., M.C.; "The Officers of the Lodge," acknowledged by Bro. W. Roberts, J.W. (acting as S.W.) "Our Seafaring Brethren," which was replied to by Bro. Jones. Bro. Davies, I.P.M., gave "The Press," which was acknowledged by Bro. J. Vaughan, S.D. 86. After the formal toast drinking had concluded, the general company proceeded to enjoy themselves according to their different tastes. Some found delight in dancing, others in the merry song, several in a friendly game of bowls, and more than one in roaming over the beautiful grounds. Tea was provided about five o'clock, and after a few hours' additional pleasure the pic-nickers started on their return to Liverpool, which was reached about half-past nine o'clock. The band of the Prescot company of the 2nd L.E.V. (Mr. H. Fairclough, bandmaster) furnished excellent music during the day. The pic-nic was of the most enjoyable nature, and the complete success attending it was due in a large measure to the courtesy and kindness of the W.M., P.M.'s, and officers, and the attention of the band of voluntary Stewards.

HAMPTON COURT.—Burdett Lodge (No. 1298).—The regular meeting of this lodge took place on Saturday, the 25th July, at the Mitre Hotel, Hampton Court. There were present on that occasion the R.W. Colonel Burdett, Prov-Grand Master, who is a P.M. of the lodge, Bro. Harry Phythian, W.M.; Frederick Keily, S.W.; David W. Pearce, J.W.; R.W. Little, Prov. G. Sec.; Treasurer; H. G. Buss, P.G. Treas., Sec.; J. W. Berrie, J.D.; D. Bindoff, D.C.; Reverend D. Shaboe, P.P.G. Chaplain; George Kenning, P.P.G.D.; D. R. Still, P.M.; Bros. Owen, Southwell, Baxton, Sadler, Saunders, and several other brethren. The visitors were T. H. Edmonds, P.G. Steward, 8; E. B. Graham, W.M., Felix Lodge, 1494; J. R. Foulger, P.M. 177; E. Cobett, 243; L. Cottam, 197; Alex. Edwards, 227, Dublin; W. H. Riabook, 8; H. Whitfield, 60. The lodge was opened by the W.M., Bro. Phythian, at 3 o'clock, and the business consisted of the raising of Bro. Edmonds, the passing of Bros. Parnwell and Carrall, and the initiation of Messrs. R. S. Sindall, Thomas Ball and Edward G. Brooker, all of which ceremonies were rendered in a most perfect manner by the W.M., aided by his officers, who all proved themselves equal to their respective duties. After several propositions the lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to an excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Sadler, the worthy host, who is a member of this lodge, the W.M. being supported on his right by the R.W. Provincial Grand Master. After the cloth was cleared the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and responded to in the most hearty manner. The R.W.P.G.M. expressed his gratification at the good working and prosperity of the lodge. The visitors' health was responded to by Bro. Edwards, of Dublin, who also complimented the W.M. and Officers on their good working, and expressed the great pleasure he felt in being so warmly and generously received by the lodge, and hoped on some future occasion that he might have an opportunity of returning the compliment to some of the members of the Burdett Lodge at his own lodge in Dublin. Bro. Sindall, in a few appropriate words, stated the gratification he felt at being initiated in the lodge, and on behalf of himself and the other candidates, returned thanks for the proposition of their healths. After a few words from the other officers of the lodge, and also from Bro.

Shaboe, the P.P.G. Chaplain, who expressed his unfeigned satisfaction at everything that had taken place, and observing that a most enjoyable evening had been passed, the brethren dispersed at an early hour. It may be stated that the banquet, supplied by Bro. Sadler, was of the most excellent description, and the wines highly approved of, being of the choicest quality.

GARSTON.—Lodge of Harmony (No. 220).—On Wednesday afternoon, the 22nd ult., the brethren attached to the Lodge of Harmony, No. 220, held their annual meeting within the lodge-room at the Garston Hotel, Garston, near Liverpool. Not only is the "Harmony" one of the oldest and most genial of the numerous suburban lodges around Liverpool, but its influence and standing have long been recognised in the district, having sent out some of the best Masons in the locality. The success attending the '74 installation proceedings, still further enhances its position, and there is no doubt that, with the pleasant weather, cordial welcome, and capital Masonic working, the visitors on this special occasion, must have been highly delighted. Bro. Dr. J. W. Worthington, W.M., opened the lodge according to ancient form, supported by a large number of officers and brethren. After the minutes of the previous meeting had been duly confirmed, the W.M. concluded his valuable services for the year by raising three brethren to the sublime degree of Master Masons. Bro. J. Hamer, P. Prov. G. Treas., then took the chair, and proceeded to instal Bro. John Evans as the W.M. of the lodge for the ensuing year. The veteran presiding officer performed his duties in a very satisfactory manner. After Bro. Evans had been placed in the chair with all the ancient ceremonial, the following were invested as the officers for the following year:—Bros. Dr. J. V. Worthington, I.P.M.; J. Hughes, S.W.; T. B. Tallett, J.W.; W. Vines, P.M., Treas.; C. Humphries, Sec.; M. Bush, S.D.; I. Raw, J.D.; S. Tickle, I.G.; J. Tewkesbury, S.S.; G. Price, J.S.; J. N. Clark, Organist; and W. Jones, M.C. Bro. J. Robinson was unanimously re-elected Tyler of the lodge and invested with the collar, jewel, and sword of office. Before the lodge was closed, a very valuable P.M.'s jewel was presented to Bro. Dr. J. V. Worthington, I.P.M., as a token of respect and esteem. The brethren subsequently sat down to a most sumptuous banquet, which was served in a tent placed in the gardens attached to the hotel. The newly installed W.M. (Bro. J. Evans), was supported by nearly all who were present at the afternoon's meeting. The tables were adorned by a large number of the choicest plants, kindly sent by Bro. J. Meredith, 1182, of the celebrated "Vineyard," Garston. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given during the evening in a very hearty and pointed manner, and very cordially received by the brethren.

IVY LODGE (No. 1441).—It was a bold thing on the part of Bro. C. Smith, W.M., of this very young, and consequently not yet numerically strong lodge, to call an emergency meeting at a time of year when the calorific element is so exhaustingly in the ascendant; but the result fully justified his judgment, as all will readily allow when informed that five initiations, three passings and a raising took place at this meeting. The lodge was called at six o'clock on Tuesday evening, 21st ult., at the Windsor Castle Tavern, Southwark Bridge Road. The W.M. and all his officers were present with laudable punctuality, but the candidates were either very devoid of attention to their summonses, or unfortunate in their engagements, and the proceedings did not commence for nearly an hour, which prevented the lodge from being closed until eleven o'clock, and must have rendered the Worshipful Master's duties, in such an atmosphere, and he labouring under severe hoarseness, very exhausting. We have, on several former occasions, recorded the pleasure with which we have witnessed the admirable working of the W.M. of the Ivy Lodge and his excellent staff of officers, and can only again state that the three ceremonies were rendered in a manner never to be forgotten by the recipients of the degrees. Nothing could be better done. The five initiates were Messrs. W. G. Silcock, G. Cook, J. Birwick, F. Cocker, and R. Giles. Bros. J. Lawrence, J. Burgess, and A. Vernon were passed to the second degree, and Bro. C. J. Henton raised Master Mason. The hour at which the proceedings terminated would have precluded any extended festivity if any such had been intended, but such was not the case, the Ivy Lodge being established on a principle which makes the banquet not a rule, but a rare exception. We are sincerely glad to mark the progress of so well founded a lodge. There were present:—Bros. C. Smith, W.M. (who performed every duty of the chair), J. Noke, as I.P.M., G. Mattock, S.W., J. J. Cante, J.W., E. Thurkle, Treasurer, C. J. Jolly, W.M., No. 87, Secretary, C. F. Poupard, S.D., F. Cornelissen, J.D., W. Ashwell, I.G., and G. T. Fox, P. M., Tyler, also Bros. Ball, 144, Bond, 87; Drew, 749, Landfield, P.M., 1343, Laing, Roman Eagle Lodge, No. 160, Scottish Constitution, and numerous private members of the lodge.

WIGTON.—St. John's Chapter (No. 327)

The annual convocation of this chapter was held on Monday, the 20th inst., at the Lion and Lamb, at 1 p.m. The chapter was opened by M.E.Z. Lemon, E. Companions Porter, H., and Gate, J. The minutes being confirmed, the ballot was taken for Bros. R. H. Watson, R. Robinson, Jos. Abbot, J. M. Gill, Andrew Walters, Jno. Robinson, W. J. Carrick, and Ross, all being elected, and, with the exception of Bro. Robinson, being present. M.E.C. Jesse Banning, Z. 823, took the 1st Principal's Chair, and with the able assistance of E.C. Porter, as H.; E.C. Gate, J.; and C. Rickell, P.S., duly exalted them. M.E.C. Banning then proceeded to install E.C. James Porter as M.E.Z.; E.C. John Gate as H.; and Comp. Bewes as J., in a most satisfactory manner. The following companions were then invested by the M.E.Z. Dr. Shannon, E.C.; Gardiner, S.N.; Tickell, P.S.; McMechan, 1st A.S.; Lazonby, 2nd A.S., and Richardson, Jan. Nothing appearing for the good of the Order in general, or for this Chapter in particular, it was closed in solemn form, and the Companions adjourned to a most recherché banquet, prepared by the hostess, Mrs. Martin. M.E.Z. Porter presided, supported on his right by M.E.C. Banning, and on his left by M.E.C. Lemon; the vice-chair being occupied by E.C. Gate, supported on his right by E.C. Bewes, and on his left by Comp. Tickell; Comps. Dr. Shannon, Gardiner, and McMechan taking their respective posts. The good things provided having been thoroughly enjoyed by all present, and the cloth drawn, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and responded to, and some excellent songs were sung by Comps. Dr. Jones, Carrick, Banning, &c. About 8 p.m. the companions separated, highly pleased; indeed the day will long be remembered as one of the most successful and enjoyable meetings of the fraternity in the town.

Red Cross of Constantine.

LIVERPOOL CONCLAVE, (No. 55)—The annual assembly of the Knights of Rome and of the Red Cross of Constantine, attached to this Conclave, was held on Friday, the 17th ult., at the Adelphi Hotel, Liverpool. The Knights assembled at their respective posts in the conclave chamber, when Em. Sir Knight H. M. Molyneux, M.P.S., ascended the throne, and opened the duly-called assembly in an impressive form. There was a goodly muster of the Knights of the chivalric degree. After the transaction of some formal business, Ill. Sir Knight Dr. J. Kellert Smith, Int. Gen. Unattached, P.S. of the conclave, proceeded to enthrone Em. Sir Knight Clark as the M.P.S. of the conclave for the ensuing year, and afterwards Em. Sir Knight Wm. Doyle was duly consecrated V.E. A discussion arose respecting the notice for the meeting, and a motion was passed in future the meetings be held on the Saturday preceding the Quarterly Communications of Grand Lodge.

There being no further business the P. was then closed in due form.

The Prov. Grand Lodge was first formally opened, the Grand Master in the chair. Col. Calthorpe, S.W.; Bro. Caute, J.W.; the Rev. E. Y. Nepean, G.C.; Bro. Frost, G. Treasurer; Bro. R. L. Loveland, G. Reg.; Bro. Hickman, Grand Sec.; Bro. J. E. L. Feuvre, Assist. G.S.; Bro. Wallingford, G.S.D.; and Bro. Dew, G. J.D. After the opening the P.G.M. and Wardens were saluted, and Bro. Le Feuvre read the minutes of former Grand Lodge and especial Grand Lodge. The minutes of the last Grand Lodge having been put and confirmed, the Prov. Grand Master before putting the minutes of the special Grand Lodge, said, "I may be permitted perhaps to allude to a circumstance which took place at the last meeting of Grand Lodge. On that occasion the members present felt that they had sustained a severe loss in the death of our late lamented Deputy Prov. Grand Master, Bro. Stebbing, and in paying a tribute of affection to his memory a wide-spread feeling was manifested that it should be ascertained whether some more enduring memorial of the feeling that existed among us should not be erected to him. That wide-spread feeling took effect in the appointment of a Committee in order to ascertain what would be the most convenient mode of giving expression to the feeling which so extensively existed among the Masons of the province. It was difficult to say till the Committee had been appointed what would be the best course to pursue. That Committee, however, fortified with the instructions of the Grand Lodge, have since that period met, and I would now allude to the result of their deliberations. I would at the present moment make no substantive proposals, and I would invite no discussion on the subject, because I believe at a later period of the meeting a substantive proposal will be made. But I think, having been made President of that Committee, I should be discharging my duty by seizing the first opportunity of acquainting the brethren with what has transpired. The Committee, on entering on their proceedings, regretted to find that the circumstances of our late lamented brother were not quite such as they might have hoped, and consequently that it was desirable that the form which the memorial should take would be some assistance to the widow of him who is gone. The Committee resolved "That the Lodges and Chapters of the Province and Freemasons generally be solicited to subscribe to a fund, to be appropriated as the Committee shall determine, for the benefit of the Widow of our late lamented Bro. J. R. Stebbing, whose circumstances at the time of his decease render this appeal absolutely necessary." I need not on the present occasion allude further to the talents of our late lamented brother, or to the respect in which he was held; it is sufficient to say that we are all sensible of the loss we have sustained and we all wish to do something in respect to his memory. Some no doubt may be greatly disappointed that the circumstances of our late brother were not such as they would have anticipated; but, brethren, it is not always in the power of man to control the substance which he possesses, and at all events we must regret that Bro. Stebbing gave more consideration for the affairs of others than for his own. We must highly appreciate the sentiments which dictated his exertions on behalf of every charitable institution and every charitable cause that was submitted to him, for he exerted himself on behalf of all of them, we well know, and that may possibly, in some manner have interfered with the attention he gave to his own individual affairs. Other cases have been known where illustrious men have given up more of their time to the affairs of others than they have bestowed on their own. I need only allude to one of the most illustrious men that ever guided the affairs of this nation; I mean William Pitt. I believe that every section of the people of England, of whatever parties they were composed, did justice to his disinterested conduct on every occasion, and it was well known that it was simply from the care and attention he devoted to the affairs of the nation that his own affairs were comparatively neglected. I only allude to that casually to show that sometimes it is the case that those who give up a great deal of their time and attention to the affairs of others do not bestow that time and attention to their own affairs which otherwise they might have done. But however that may be, such is the case, that some exertions are urgently required for the assistance of the widow of Bro. Stebbing. What form that may take is another question. I would not enter into that at the present moment more than to say that any mode which one individual lodge may wish to give effect to their feelings will be gratefully received. I think that the most convenient mode for the Provincial Grand Lodge would be rather to give an annuity than a donation, but that we will discuss more fully upon the motion which is to be made; but I would at the present moment content myself with saying that the committee having considered that state of affairs, having ascertained that the case is really urgent, earnestly commend it to the consideration of any lodge in the province and all individual Masons who naturally feel an interest in paying a tribute of affection to one they loved so well, I beg to move "That the minutes of the last especial Grand Lodge be confirmed." Carried nem. con.

The report of the Committee for auditing the Provincial Grand Treasurer's accounts was then received.

Bro. Hickman brought up the report of the Committee for managing the Provincial Grand Lodge Funds.

Bro. Hickman proposed, and Bro. Frost seconded a grant of £20 to a brother, as recommended by the report, but Bro. Wallingford moved, and Bro. Nash seconded an amendment to the effect that the grant be made £30.

Bro. Hickman said he had no objection to the amendment, which was then put and carried, after being supported by Captain Moore.

Bro. Hickman proposed, and Bro. Wallingford seconded a grant of £5 to another case, which grant was made.

Another grant was also carried of £10 to an old and respected brother, on the motion of Bro. Hickman, seconded by Bro. Nash.

The sum of £288 annuities standing to the credit of the Provincial Grand Lodge with the Hampshire Banking Company was ordered to be invested in New Zealand Consolidated 5 per cent. Stock.

The Provincial Grand Treasurer's accounts next presented showed a balance of £194 10s. in hand, and Bro. Frost, Prov. G. Treasurer stated that since that account had been made up and printed, £58 2s. more had been received.

The accounts were then received and adopted.

On the motion of Bro. Eve, seconded by Bro. Loveland, Bro. Frost was unanimously elected Provincial Grand Treasurer.

Bro. Frost in acknowledging his obligations to the brethren for his election, said it was a great honour they had done him, and he begged to assure them that any efforts of his would not be wanting to carry out the duties of his office in as efficient a manner as he possibly could. He hoped those efforts would give the same satisfaction as hitherto.

The Committee for auditing the Provincial Grand Treasurer's accounts was then appointed. The brethren selected were the Masters, Wardens, and Secretaries of the fourth four lodges on the Provincial roll. Bros. Wallingford, Furber, Le Feuvre, and Hare, were appointed the Committee for managing the Provincial Grand Lodge Funds.

Bro. Hacker, W.M. 723, then introduced his motion, "That the sum of £100 be voted to the fund being raised by the Provincial Grand Lodge Committee for the benefit of the widow of the late Brother J. R. Stebbing." He said that after what the R. W. Prov. G.M., had said it would be unnecessary for him to say much. All the brethren knew the excellent character of their late Bro. Stebbing, and how he carried out his Masonic duties, although he had left his family so badly off. Whatever the Grand Lodge would choose to give as a memorial he thought should be given to a fund for the support of Bro. Stebbing's widow. He concluded by moving the resolution of which he had given notice.

The motion having been seconded, Bro. Hick-men said that with the view of increasing the fund to be appropriated for the assistance of their worthy brother's widow it had been suggested, and for the purpose of eliciting the opinion of the Grand Lodge upon the subject, he would conclude the motion proposed in these words, "That a sum of money should be appropriated annually from the Prov. G. Lodge Funds for that purpose," rather than that a capital sum should be taken from the funds of the Provincial Grand Lodge, and placed in the hands of a Committee or Trustees. The Provincial Grand Lodge seemed to him to be in a different position to other lodges; they had a Committee every year appointed, and therefore as a large sum of money would be diverted from the capital sum from the control of the Provincial Grand Lodge, and at the same time not yield so large a sum as he himself felt that Prov. Grand Lodge could afford out of its income, would rather mar the scheme. He begged to move "That £20 annually be appropriated from Grand Lodge funds for the benefit of the widow of Bro. Stebbing."

Bro. Hacker said that in that case he begged to withdraw his motion.

Bro. Furber thought that if £20 a year was given to Mrs. Stebbing, and that was moved for in Provincial Grand Lodge every year it would keep the brethren in affectionate remembrance of Bro. Stebbing. They would year by year have his name mentioned, and would be reminded of the good Mason they had lost. He had great pleasure in seconding Bro. Hickman's motion. He believed it would be more beneficial to the widow, than voting a single sum of money. They who knew Bro. Stebbing in Southampton, knew him better than most others. He had the pleasure of passing the last evening in Masonry with Bro. Stebbing, who was then in his most happy and genial spirit. It was a pleasure to see him go out of lodge that evening full of life and spirit and never happier or in better health. The next morning he went on his fatal journey and came back to die. He thought of Bro. Stebbing with a great deal of affection and respect. He was always among Masons. When an object of charity was brought before him he always forgot himself at once and threw himself into the business of carrying out the object of assisting it. That he always undertook to do, and he (Bro. Furber) thought they would all feel they were doing something towards following in Bro. Stebbing's footsteps when they were supporting, and adding to the comforts of one whom that brother dearly loved and left behind him, by giving her an annuity of £20 (applause).

The Prov. G.M. said they were all much indebted to Bro. Hacker for bringing forward his motion, and also for so cheerfully and readily agreeing to the amendment and withdrawing his own resolution. Anything which was like permanent assistance was no doubt more valuable than a single sum, which if invested was not capable of affording lengthened assistance. He thought it would be a very grateful tribute of their affection for the memory of him who had gone if the Grand Lodge assented to the proposition of Brother Hickman.

Bro. Hickman informed Grand Lodge that the £20 would be added to the fund which was being raised for Bro. Stebbing's widow.

Bro. Eve would bear his testimony to the character of Bro. Stebbing, and thought that all which had been said of him was not too much; for a more excellent Mason it would not be possible to find; anything he could say of him would not add one tittle to his worth. But with reference to the two questions submitted to the brethren he thought they ought not to come to a conclusion at once. He did not know exactly the position in which the widow was left; he did not exactly know her age; and those facts ought to be considered by Grand Lodge. He did not think they could do too much for Bro. Stebbing, but it ought to be considered by Grand Lodge whether it had the power of voting an annuity for any purpose. They might vote the whole of their present funds if they liked; but there was a question in his mind whether they had the power to charge future Grand Lodges with an annuity or payment of any kind.

Let them not suppose that he wanted to stop their bounty or interfere in any way with what Grand Lodge was disposed to do, but he did not think they had the power to bind Grand Lodge to do it in future. Their present Grand Master might die, and another would be placed in the chair who might not know so much as he of Bro. Stebbing, and might not feel disposed to continue the annuity. A sum total might now be given to mark their appreciation of the deceased brother, and if on a future occasion they wanted to do it again, then they might make a further vote, but they had no right to charge the future funds of the Grand Lodge with an annual payment. He would suggest that they should reconsider Bro. Hacker's motion.

A brother suggested that the annuity should cease if the widow should marry again. What was her age?

Bro. Le Feuvre agreed with Bro. Eve in what he had said with regard to Bro. Stebbing, that too much could not be thought of him, but he must support the amendment. The age of the widow was about 52.

The Prov. Grand Master said that no doubt this Grand Lodge had no power to grant an annuity for the future, but he thought that future Grand Lodges would make an annual grant in accordance with the views of the present Grand Lodge. It had been said that time would weaken the recollection of Bro. Stebbing. But no doubt a long time would elapse before there was a prospect of this grant being discontinued. Time did pass very quickly, and this grant would soon exceed the capital of £100, proposed by Bro. Hacker. Although it was very valuable to have suggestions on either side, he thought on the whole the proposition was the best that £20 be granted, with a prospect of it being continued from year to year. He would, therefore, as this was the only proposition at present before the Grand Lodge, put it, "That £20 be paid to the Committee appointed at the meeting of the especial Lodge."

The motion was carried unanimously.

The Prov. Grand Master then called upon the Secretary to read any communications that had been received, but said that before doing so he must inform them that H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, being a Mason, it was thought he might be in Aldershot or the neighbourhood, and would like to honour them with a visit, and therefore he had been invited. He was not able to come, but it would have been very gratifying to them all if he had found it convenient to come.

Bro. Hickman then read the following letter: "Buckingham Palace, July 15, 1874"

"Dear Sir,

"The Duke of Connaught desires me to say that he regrets he will not be able to be at Aldershot on the 24th. His Royal Highness will be somewhere in the neighbourhood, but is not able to say where he will be.

"Yours fraternally,
"F. FITZGERALD."

The next business was the appointment of Grand Officers for the year.

The Prov. G.M. said he was not going to appoint a Deputy Grand Master while Grand Lodge was in mourning for their late Deputy Grand Master.

The following brethren were then invested:—

(A second Grand Secretary being against the rules of United Grand Lodge, the Prov. G.M. requested Bro. Le Feuvre to assist as a friend in the performance of the work of Prov. G. Sec. without actually holding the office, as that was not "constitutional.")

Grand Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to a sumptuous banquet, provided with admirable skill by Mr. Marsh, confectioner, High-street, Aldershot, under the superintendence of Bro. Hacker, W.M. 723, and Bro. McKenzie, W.M. 1381, by which two lodges the Provincial Grand Lodge was entertained. After the banquet the toasts were proposed.

"The Queen and the Craft" having been duly honoured, "The Marquess of Ripon" was next proposed by the Prov. Grand Master. The Right W. Brother, he said, had shown great zeal in Masonry, and also in the cause of its charities. When he paid a visit to Southampton some short time ago he had an opportunity of proving the loyalty of this province. This toast having been also most cordially received, "The Deputy Grand Master and the rest of the Grand Officers, past and present," was proposed. The Prov. Grand Master said no Grand Master or W. Master could perform his duties properly without able coadjutors to assist him, and in the Earl of Carnarvon they had a nobleman who was both able and willing to discharge the duties of the Deputy Grand Master. They must not forget that his lordship was connected with the province of Hampshire, but he had no leisure moments at present, or he would most likely have been among the brethren on this occasion. He at all times took a warm interest in Freemasonry.

Bro. Hickman, Past G.D.C., responded. The name of the Earl of Carnarvon was a household word in Hampshire, and one they held in high esteem, not only in his lordship's capacity as a legislator, but as a brother Mason. They had the honour of his presence at Southampton when the Prov. Grand Master was installed. The Grand Lodge Officers did their best to perform their duties properly, faithfully, and zealously, and whatever was entrusted to them was carried out to the best of their ability. The duties were certainly very slight, but they made those who performed them legislators in Masonry for the rest of their lives. It was a great pleasure to all of them to uphold the dignity and usefulness of the Craft, and to assist those Masonic charities with which it was so intimately connected. He thanked them for the great compliment they had paid the Deputy Grand Master and the Officers of the Grand Lodge.

Bro. Eve said, in proposing "The Health of the Prov. Grand Master," that he knew it would be most warmly received. They had the pleasure of being presided over by a gentleman who had always endeavoured to promote the interests of the Order. There was no Prov. G. Master who devoted more time and attention to the duties of his office than he. Neither time nor occasion was lost by him in forwarding the interests of the Craft among the brethren over whom he reigned. It was due to him that a great many brethren had been enrolled in the Order in Hampshire and the Isle of Wight. During his reign several lodges had been added to the list, and he had been untiring in his endeavours to confirm the good order and regulation which were so well known in his province. He had succeeded a very old and tried Mason, Sir Lucius Curtis, one of those so well remembered by the brethren in Aldershot, as he had been there on more than one occasion. Bro. Beach had ably filled his post. He was at all times ready to come to their small town of Aldershot, not only on Masonic but on other occasions, when the good of his fellow creatures required that he should advocate their cause. It was a great satisfaction to know that he was ever ready to do good to the Craft, and that he was also foremost in assisting every charitable object (great cheers, amidst which "The Prov. G. Master's Health" was enthusiastically drunk).

The Prov. G.M. said that the marked man in which they had drank his health was pleasing to him, as he could sincerely say that he was greatly flattered at receiving such a testimonial at the hands of his brethren that appreciated his humble endeavours to promote properly over their province. It was an exceedingly difficult task for any one to rule an important province. It was astonishing many things turned up which no one any suspicion of, and which were continually being brought before the notice of the Prov. Master. He had to adjudicate upon them to the best of his ability, he had to try in some cases smooth over some little unpleasantnesses, acerbities which arose, and to exercise his in reconciling conflicting opinions. It was a difficult thing to know how to act to the possible advantage. But it was his earnest to promote, as Bro. Eve had said, the interests of Freemasonry in the province. He could only succeed in doing so, he should be heartily and sincerely pleased. They reminded of many things when they met together on these annual occasions, and certainly first foremost on this occasion they were reminded of the uncertainty of human existence. He could not help alluding to it, when he remembered last year he had one of the ablest assistants on his side, who was ready and willing to aid him in the work of Freemasonry, with his eloquent and cordial help. They had lost in Bro. Stebbing one of the ablest assistants that the Provincial Grand Master had. They could help reflecting, that any one of them, who in health and spirits that day might be stricken down the next, which was a fact that ought to impress upon them the duties of Freemasonry that they ought so to act up to the lessons received that they might the better be prepared to meet their fate when it arrived. When Bro. Eve was struck down in the prime of his life it must be some satisfaction to know that he had exerted himself to a great extent for the benefit of his fellowmen. Any one who had lived himself alone, and done little or nothing for others, could not be said to have lived his life of existence with the same profit as one who had devoted himself as far as he possibly could to relieve the wants of his fellowmen. In their late brother they had an example of a man who was ready on every occasion warmly to advocate the cause, and to assist the wants of others. They had many other lessons inculcated by Masonry. They knew very well that they belonged to a vast system which permeated through every part of the world; and when he saw the many brethren present on this occasion (great applause) he could not but be reminded that they might be called before long, some of them, to go to parts of the world where they would meet others whom they had never seen before; they might be sure that if among these strangers there were Masons they would meet with friends. (Cheers.) They would enter into no new phase of existence, they would enter into another part of that grand Masonic system which existed and was spread over the whole habitable world. It had existed time immemorial; its branches were everywhere, its roots had taken firm hold in the Every part of the world saw its branches wherever a Mason went he was sure to find a friend to assist him, and to hold out to him of fellowship to him. It was a gratifying reflection to know that they belonged to a brotherhood not restricted to their own part of the world, but which spread over the whole had himself had an opportunity of testing. He had travelled over other countries from end to another, and he had never failed to find Masonic hearts ready to render him any assistance in their power, and he had seen that he had in them a friend. (Cheers.) Although Masonry existed in every part of the world, yet, as Englishmen, they felt a keen interest in them to show, by their own practice, that they were capable of well example to Masons in other parts. (Cheers.) It might be a friendly rivalry, it might be a friendly emulation, but still the fact was that they had obtained such a high and noble position, and we should feel it incumbent on us to show as English Masons, felt that we had a great duty to perform to the Craft, not only as members of that great brotherhood but as English Freemasons who had to maintain the credit of their country. He trusted that such were the sentiments which would animate every Freemason who was present. Let them all feel that they had a great duty to perform; let them cherish this high Order to which they belonged; and let them act up to the sentiments and principles with it instilled. (Great cheers). He begged to thank the brethren very much for the kind way in which they had received the toast, so eloquently proposed by Bro. Eve, and to say, that he was very glad to visit Aldershot whenever it was in his power. He took the warmest interest in the prosperity of that town, and particularly in the two lodges which flourished there. (Immense applause). The Prov. G.M. next proposed "The Health of the Prov. G. Officers," whom he had had the pleasure of appointing that day. In a large province, he said, it was a difficult thing to select officers, because there was such a vast body of efficient candidates. He asked those who were not appointed to put a favourable construction on his acts, and to believe that the best had been done under the circumstances. There are twenty-eight lodges in the province, and the brethren must therefore admit that there is some difficulty in making a choice. He would couple the name of Bro. Best, Prov. S. W. with the toast, a brother who had taken the warmest interest in St. Hubert's Lodge, and is at present its W.M. He remembered it in connection with the Apollo University Lodge at Oxford, over which he had presided with marked ability. Under his rule, and by his advice, and with the assistance of St. Hubert's Lodge, he was certain of the prosperity of the lodge in the province. There was also Bro. Lanter, Prov. J.G.W., who had been obliged by the stern exigencies of the train time-table to make, and whose exertions at Portsmouth on behalf of Masonry had been crowned with success. Other officers had been appointed who were connected with Aldershot, and he anticipated that they would render the greatest assistance to the Craft this year.

Bro. Best responded, and said that echoing the sentiment that had been expressed that evening, no Grand Master, or W.M., could properly perform his duties without efficient officers to assist him. He hoped that the officers that had been appointed, would discharge their duties to the satisfaction of the Prov. G. M., and all the brethren. They would certainly try never to let him cause for regret that he had appointed them.

Bro. Hickman proposed "The Masonic Institutions," and after some flattering remarks on behalf of the Institutions connected with the Province, called on Bro. James Terry, the Secretary of the Benevolent Institution, to return thanks.

Bro. Terry said it gave him great pleasure to respond to this toast, because he felt that the Hampshire and Isle of Wight brethren had for years consistently and persistently united in supporting the Masonic Institutions; nor could he forget the loss the province had sustained by the death of the Deputy Grand Master, whom a more loyal or devoted advocate in support of the Institution, he believed, could not be found. It was not necessary for him to say such a company as that before him, how many Masonic Institutions there were, because the brethren of the Province of Hants had not only represented every one of them as well as at the festivals, and the affairs of this Province were so well conducted that he had been surprised to hear in Grand Lodge, just now, of how the votes for the Boys' and Schools had been applied. He had not expected to hear the votes for the Benevolent Institution applied, and it struck him as something new, for he thought the Benevolent Institution was so well known in the Province as it was. He thought it the more strange as it was scarcely an election in the Benevolent Institution where there were not one, two or three candidates from the province of Hants in the Isle of Wight. At the present time there were four widows coming forward, and he had two men, at all events, there was one man, making either five or six candidates for next election. The principle of assistance the Grand Lodge had certainly inculcated by the vote they had passed in connection with Bro. Stebbing's widow. The Benevolent Institution did not pretend to say that what they gave was sufficient to keep their pensioners in luxury; but they said it was a certain something which would enable them to live in an amount of credit and respectability. When he told them that to the men they allowed £26 a year, and to the women £25, it must be evident to the brethren that a large amount of money must be annually raised. It had been said, and very often believed, that the Boys' Institution was the one which was doing the greatest amount of good. It was not for him to disparage either one or the other of the Institutions, but he thought it right to say that the Benevolent Institution was doing a wide spread amount of good. They paid away £8,800 a year, and out of that there was but £2,100 permanent income. Then he left it to the brethren to say whether some quantity of labour did not devolve upon the executive to raise the remaining £6,700, so that the old people might not be sent empty away. By the liberality of the brethren they had been enabled to raise the fund last year, because the Committee, when they found that each boy cost £36 a year, and each girl £48, thought it not right to allow a poor old man or his wife only £26. Therefore last year they put something additional, like £10 a year on them, and he lived in hopes of seeing that annuity raised to a higher sum, so that they might have the satisfaction of knowing that every poor Mason would be provided for, and would be enabled to spend his latter days in comfort and decency. He then appealed to the brethren to come forward as Stewards for the next festival, which was the first in the year, and said he should be happy that evening to take the names of any brethren who would stand as such. He appealed to them the more strongly on account of the Hampshire cases which would come before the Institution at its next election. Whatever amount any of the brethren might give, it would be thankfully received and faithfully applied (cheers).

The Prov. Grand Master said he should like to propose another toast, and he was sure it would meet with cordial acceptance; it was that of the "Visiting Brethren." On all occasions the Provincial Grand Lodge and the lodges of the province were glad to receive visitors; and it was with much pleasure that he announced in Grand Lodge that the Duke of Connaught had been expected. He had also expected another Brother, the Prov. Grand Master of Herts, Bro. T. F. Halsey, who had made all his arrangements to come, when suddenly a meeting took place in Hertfordshire, which compelled him to be away from this Grand Lodge. That brother, however, wished very much to be present. There were many visitors among the brethren, and he greeted them with the utmost cordiality and enthusiasm. Nothing tended more to keep up the good principles of Freemasonry than the habit brethren had of visiting others at their lodges. There were many then present, though he did not know how many, but he should call on Bro. Spencer to respond; and he must also add that he had expected some Hindoo brethren to attend, who were now located at Wellington College.

Bro. Spencer, jun. (Bank of England Lodge, 253), said he had not anticipated being called upon to address this meeting, as he did not hold at present any rank in Masonry, and he did not know what to say, except that he was much indebted to the Prov. Grand Master, who had proposed, and the brethren who had drunk this toast. With regard to himself, he had had many vicissitudes in life. He had lived among convicts, served as a sailor before the mast, been a civil engineer in the employment of an influential corporation, in the far-east, been Her Majesty's representative, in the employment of the Duke of Edinburgh; till he found himself at last amongst his brethren, but he had never been able to attain the coveted honour of being a Past Master. He hoped however that would some day be conferred upon him. He again thanked the brethren for their hospitality.

The Provincial Grand Master at this point was compelled to leave, and Bro. Eve assumed the chair. He proposed "The Health of Bros. Hacker and McKenzie," the W.M.'s. of the two entertaining lodges.

Bros. Hacker and McKenzie briefly responded, and hoped that the brethren were satisfied with what had been placed before them.

Bro. Eve proposed "The Provincial Grand Officers."

Bro. Capt. Richardson, Prov. G.S.D., and a P.M. of 1331, returned thanks and spoke encouragingly of the prospects of Freemasonry in the province. As a P.M. of the Aldershot Camp Lodge, he informed the brethren of the great numbers that lodge had initiated and affiliated, and all those brethren were the best possible description of Freemasons. He hoped all lodges would be as successful as the Aldershot Camp Lodge had been. There were only two places in the province besides Aldershot, which had as many as two lodges, one was Portsmouth, with three, and the other was Southampton, with four. He thought this spoke very well for Aldershot's Masonic spirit.

Bro. R. Loveland-Loveland also replied and said he should carry back to the Isle of Wight a very pleasing recollection of the day he had spent at the Provincial Grand Lodge.

The brethren shortly afterwards separated, having spent a delightful evening, which was much enlivened by the musical services of Bro. Hackey, Eve, and several other brethren, who volunteered their services.

That estimable lady, Mrs. Thorne, wife of Deputy Grand Master Thorne, of New York City, was active in promoting the success of the late Masonic Fair held in that city, in aid of the "Hall and Asylum Fund," and at a recent meeting of the General Committee that had the fair in charge, a considerable sum was raised to make Mrs. Thorne a present, in recognition of her services. When, however, the lady intended to be complimented was asked by a friend of the family to name some article most agreeable to herself which the committee might procure, in discharge of their mission, she answered:—"Tell the gentlemen that I appreciate most warmly their intended kindness, and as my labour at the fair had no other possible purpose than to increase the Hall and Asylum Fund, I would prefer that the amount subscribed should be paid into that fund, and that the Trustees' receipt therefore be the testimonial."

That lady deserves to be a Mason! and we trust our brethren of the empire city will find some place in the new Temple to commemorate her womanly charity.—Loomis's Musical and Masonic Journal.

THE HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY, FROM ITS ORIGIN TO THE PRESENT DAY.

BY J. G. FINDEL, Second Edition, Revised, and Preface written by BRO. D. MURRAY LYON.

One vol., 800 pages 8vo., with an Index. Cloth gilt. Price, 10s. 6d.

"This book is a strictly historical one, from which all is excluded that is not based upon ascertained or probable fact."—Builder.

"Of its value to Freemasons, as a detailed history of their Brotherhood, it is not possible to speak too highly."—Public Opinion.

"The author seems to have fairly exhausted the subject."—The Athenaeum.

"The edition we are now considering is a second English edition, which had the great advantage of Bro. D. M. Lyon's able superintendence and editorship in its English dress. There can be no doubt but, that so far, Bro. Findel's work is the most complete work on Freemasonry which has yet appeared, and that he deserves the greatest credit for his careful and accurate treatment of all evidence on the subject, and for his honest desire after truth. Bro. Findel gives up in the view he has so clearly and consistently put forth our early Masonic history, the older theory of the Roman Colleges, &c., and limits the origin of Freemasonry to about the twelfth century, and as then arising from the operative Masons, and specially the "Steinmetzen" and "Bauhutten" of Germany. Bro. Findel gives us a good deal of evidence on this head, and one thing is clear from his work, that the German Freemasons were, at a very early period, organized into lodges with a Master over them, and with outward regulations and inner ceremonies peculiar to the Craft. Bro. Findel rejects all the views which have been from time to time put forward of a Templar or a Rosicrucian origin. Whether or no Bro. Findel's theory of the date of the rise of Freemasonry be correct, matters very little: we do not ourselves profess to accept it; but this we can fairly say of Bro. Findel's work, it is marked from first to last by the most remarkable token of industry, ability, and care, of patient research, and of skilful criticism. We know of no work which so clearly sets before us our amount of knowledge up to the present time on the great question of Masonic Archæology, and there can be little doubt that what Preston's work is to English Freemasonry, Findel's work is to cosmopolitan Freemasonry. Indeed no student in Masonry can now dispense with it, and it is a perfect storehouse both of Masonic evidence and Masonic illustrations. We earnestly recommend all the lodges in this country to obtain a copy for the lodge library before the work is bought up for America; and we believe that no Mason will rise from the perusal of its pages without a higher idea both of the historical truth and intrinsic value of Freemasonry, and of fraternal regard and recognition to the latest and not the least well-informed or effective of our Masonic historians. The present century has produced no such equal, in authority and usefulness, to the great work of our Bro. Findel, and we wish him and it, in all of fraternal sympathy and kindly intent, many earnest readers, and more grateful students."—The Masonic Magazine.

The Freemason.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 1, 1874.

FREEMASONRY AND ARCHÆOLOGY

It is very remarkable what progress has recently been made by careful students of Masonic Archæology. It may be that, to the world generally, to those outside Freemasonry, the result may appear small so far, and the advance inappreciable, but to those who have studied the question, it is, and must be, a source of some congratulation, that, so much attention now paid amongst us to Masonic investigation and archæological inquiry. Time was, and of us can even remember it, when all our studies were questioned, and even some discouraged. Freemasonry has, like every body of men, had its "dry as dusts," its "obstructives," worthy men, with their amount of utility and value, no doubt, but disheartening to the earnest student, "incubus" on the honest searcher after truth. We even now have those lingering among us who seem to doubt, and gravely shake their heads at, what they call the iconoclast proceedings of Bro. Hughan, D. M. Lyon, and Co. "Quæta non movetur" is a motto, and a very good motto it is, but not so closely applied, but most out of place, when to discourage the earnest labourer and per researcher of modern Masonic Archæology. All such worthy brethren, far be it from us to doubt their little industry, but they should remember that our Masonic history, so far, owing to its great bulk, and its having been marked by war, is almost a monument of oral tradition, owing to the imperfection and the daily process of uncertainty and loss. Our history is said a great deal, but it is not always anachronisms and errors as to persons and facts." And most true it is. Our great historians, like Anderson and Preston, relying on oral tradition, or rather incorporating it with what they professed to issue to the Craft and to the world as history, have unavoidably imported into their valuable works something of the uncertainty, unreliability, and anachronisms of oral tradition. If in the main their histories are still the best representation of our Masonic annals, it is because they themselves were thoroughly honest men, and have simplified, or arranged, or put into their own language, the old oral traditions, the "textus receptus," if one may so say, of Masonic history and record. But as the Germans say, their's was not a "sufficiently critical mind;" and here therefore the work of the Archæologist begins. To harmonise conflicting statements, to verify quotations, and, above all, to reconcile the known facts of history with the claims of ancient tradition, these are the Masonic Archæological student's aim and labours to day, and they are neither easy nor always satisfactory. We have happily outlived the time when any one could think that either or "suggestio falsi," or a "suppressio veri," or even a "fraus pia," could really advance the truth of history or the claims of Freemasonry. Either through carelessness, or ignorance, or hasty assumption, or imperfect generalisation, some of our writers have made statements on the faith of others, and the authority of others, unverified and uncollated. Later writers have most complacently accepted the same as facts, proven incontestibly, yet without an attempt to substantiate them, and hence the weary hours which are the lot of all zealous Masonic students, who search for "passages" which cannot be found, "quotations" which elude research, "books" even which have no existence, and "persons" who cannot be traced. Let us take one illustration of the labours of a Masonic student, and the hopelessness of many Masonic quotations. In all the old histories you hear of a judge of Canterbury, under Archbishop Chicheley, tempore Henry VI., and you are referred most categorically to the register of Wm. Molart, Prior of Christ Church, Canterbury. Everybody took the reference for many years as correct, though no one professed to have seen it. At last it occurred to one of our modern students, who was studying the question with a well known Archæologist, that the reference must refer to Wm. Molash, whose register did exist in one of the College libraries at Oxford, and not to William Molart, who was a mythical personage. And there, sure enough, is found, on a page on which Chicheley's name occurs, on the top, a list of the Masters, two wardens, so many brethren, and so many apprentices, "de la Loge, Lathomorum," who received "murrey cloth," annually as "liverie" from the Monastery, just as Chicheley did. I have selected this especial illustration, because it proves, remarkably, the true position of most of our Masonic traditions, that there is a basis of truth at the bottom, and if their "outcome" is not quite often in the way, we expect, as a general rule, Masonic Archæology is furthered, and true Masonic history is strengthened by their investigation. We trust that we have said enough to point out the true value and real importance of archaeological enquiry for our Order, and the expediency and duty, as far as we are concerned, of hailing all Masonic Archæological study, and encouraging all Masonic students as heartily as we can. Our most distinguished Grand Master has lately been welcoming one of the great Archæological Societies of this country to Ripon, and to Fountains. There, within that vast sanctuary of God, which under the happy auspices of Sir Gilbert Scott, we now can see restored to all the comeliness and beauty which religious restoration would demand, there amid the ruins, and the stately trees, and glades of Fountains, our Grand Master would, with his usual good taste and eloquence, heartily welcome the goodly band of Archæologists, and as worthily fill his presidential chair. No one knows better than himself, as no one has more effectively said, to whom we owe every form and feature, which fill the delighted visitor with admiration and with awe, for there, on many a lichened stone and many a crumbling arch, we still can trace the indelible mark of the Mason's hand, which tells us to day, though hundreds of years have rolled away, that our operative forefathers once were there, with square and compass, with chisel and with maul. Pleasant office of Archæology, as it were, to open out for us the roll of ages, to transform the ruin of to-day into the glory of a departed shrine, to fill those silent grounds with the forms and voices of buried centuries, and to show us how continuous after all are life and labour in this world of ours, how though time passes on and the years fade, and everything, around us shows tokens of decay, the true and beautiful, all that is useful and graceful and affecting, all that ministers to the honour of God, or the welfare of man, survive "decay's effacing fingers," and are continually restored and renovated, rebuilt or re-erected by us, who have inherited what our fathers have left, to our piety, our reverence, and our love.

THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

We have been looking into the Boys' School expenditure lately, and we think it well to call the attention of the Craft to its present position, and its future prospects. It seems that the whole receipts of the Boys' School to the close of 1873, amounted to £13,548 15s. 3d., which sum included a balance of £1,280 12s. 7d., from 1872. Its special receipts, as we may term them, such as purchased presentations and admissions, grants from Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter, and legacies, amounted to £2,893 4s. The annual subscription, and donations reached the large amount of £9874 18s.; in all, as we said before, £13,548 15s. 2d. And what was its balanced expenditure?—£13,548 15s. 2d. That expenditure may be divided as it seems to us, into four heads. First, Special Old Building Debt, £4,459 7s. 10d.; Secondly, New Building Account, £2,314 1s. 3d.; Special School Expenditure, £749 12s. 5d.; Ordinary School Expenditure, £5,946 13s. 9d.; actual Balance, and Credit, £78 19s. 11d. In all, as we said previously, £13,548 15s. 0d. Hence it is clear to us that to carry on the Boys' School efficiently and thoroughly, an annual income alone of £7,000 per annum is absolutely required, and that, be it remembered, is at the number of inmates of whom the expense is reckoned up to the close of 1873. If we increase the number of boys we must correspondingly increase our yearly subscription to the Boys' School. Each boy may be said to cost, reckoning all kinds of expenditures, £45. There are now 176 boys in the Institution, a number in excess of last year, so that the members of our kindly Order must always bear in mind, that the greater the efficiency of the School, and the greater the numbers in the School, the larger and more pressing becomes the demand on their continued exertions, and their sympathetic aid. The Boys' School will therefore require £8,000 at the least this current year to enable it to maintain its efficiency as a great Educational Institution!

The accounts, which we have carefully considered, convince us how well and economically our Boys' School is conducted, reflecting every credit as it does on the managers, and on the Craft which gives to it such warm and generous support. We must always bear in mind that the Boys' School has no funded property nor standing income, and we feel that we should not be doing our duty to so excellent an Institution if we did not urge upon all our readers to continue their active sympathy and support, trusting that by degrees a permanent endowment fund may again be formed, which will encourage the House Committee to persevere in its wise course of moral progress and improvement. Not one of our Institutions can be of more importance to us as a body than the Boys' School, and we are convinced that it will receive in the future, as it has in the past and present, the ready offerings and fraternal aid of the warm-hearted members of our benevolent fraternity.

REVIRESCO, BRO. BUCHAN, BRO. WOODFORD, AND BRO. HUGHAN.

I am glad to note the discussion which has now begun, and which, let us hope, may be conducted Masonically and Archæologically to the close. So far all the letters are excellent, in tone and temper, and the whole subject is evidently in the hands of those who study before they talk and understand what they treat. Let no personalities creep in, or crop up, and this discussion promises to be of great benefit to Masonic Archæology. SCOTICUS.

BRO. P. M. COWLING.

I see by a misprint that my able Bro. Cowling's name is made into Cowling in the last Freemason. He is, however, too well known in York to be mistaken for any one else.

A. F. A. WOODFORD.

BRO. HUGHAN'S CHALLENGE.

The challenge thrown down by Bro. Hughan, in The Freemason for June 27, will doubtless arrest the attention of many of your readers, and, in common with many others, I confess to having been much interested by it. In connection with it I perused a very clever little one-shilling work, advertised in your columns, and entitled "The Origin of Freemasonry. The 1717 Theory Exploded." I found, however, that there was considerable disagreement somewhere between it and the statements in Bro. Hughan's challenge, and in order to obtain more light upon the subject I would respectfully beg to point out where, as it seems to me, either Bro. Hughan must be right, and Bro. Paton, the author of the little work I refer to, wrong, Or Bro. Paton right, and Bro. Hughan wrong. And in order to settle the matter I would respectfully ask from each evidence in support of his ideas. Bro. Hughan styles the London Grand Lodge of A.D. 1717 "the premier Grand Lodge," while Bro. Paton says (page 7 of his work) "Sir Thomas Sackville was Grand Master of the Masons of England in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. The Grand Lodge then assembled in York."

A little further on Bro. Paton says that in 1567 the Earl of Bedford became Grand Master of the North of England, and Sir Thomas Gresham of the South. May I ask if it is true that these "Grand Masters" really existed at that time? On page 8 of his work Bro. Paton asserts that "the celebrated architect, Inigo Jones, was nominated Grand Master of England by James I., and was succeeded by the Earl of Pembroke in 1618." Are these statements true? If so the London 1717 Grand Lodge could scarcely be "the Premier Grand Lodge."

In regard to Scotland Bro. Paton also gives it as a "historic statement" that "in the reign of James II. the office of Grand Master was granted by the King to William St. Clair of Roslin, Earl of Orkney and Caithness." May I ask if that is correct? And if so where did the Grand Lodge of Scotland of that time meet?

In several places Bro. Paton asserts that the Freemasonry existing before 1717 had the same distinctive characters, and was substantially the same as the present Freemasonry. But upon this point Bro. Hughan states that he can find no evidence of the existence of our three degrees before 1717. If Bro. Paton can produce this evidence, perhaps he will kindly do so, as I was unable to detect it in his book.

In support of certain of his ideas Bro. Paton quotes a letter, said to have been written in 1696 by John Locke to the Earl of Pembroke. May I ask if that letter is genuine?

Bro. Paton also says that the old Masons of England and Scotland, as well as those of other countries, always recognised St. John the Baptist and St. John the Evangelist as their patron saints. Is that correct?

Until it is shown where the truth lies in the above statements I shall not intrude further upon your space.

ROGER ASHMOLE.

Who is "Roger Ashmole," mentioned three times in Bro. Paton's Oration, which was printed in last week's Freemason? As Sam Weller would say, "never heard tell of the 'gemmun.'" Is he meant for the same person as "Elias Ashmole," the great antiquary, who was made at Warrington, and if he is, why does Bro. Paton call him Roger? Was Bro. Paton thinking of Roger Bacon.

BEANS

SUMMER BANQUET OF THE CAPPER LODGE No. 1076.

The annual summer banquet of this prosperous and flourishing lodge, took place on Thursday, the 9th ult., at the Rye House, Hoddesdon, Herts, under the presidency of the much esteemed W.M., Bro. A. Knox, who on this occasion was supported by upwards of one hundred and fifty brethren and ladies, the largest number who have yet been known to participate in this, the now regularly established annual festival of the lodge. The arrangements for the successful carrying out of the affair devolved upon Bro. Brayshaw, P.M. and Acting Treas., who was supported by a Committee of able and energetic Stewards, who had previously been appointed to act in that capacity, at the last regular meeting of the lodge, and those brethren, to whom the work must have indeed been a labour of love, spared no pains to render the proceedings of the day a thorough success. A special train, provided by the Great Eastern Railway Company, left North Woolwich at 10.45 a.m., calling at all stations up to Stratford Bridge (where a large number of brethren and friends joined the party,) and proceeded over the loop and main line, and after a pleasant run of little more than an hour, the Rye House was reached about noon. Arrived at their destination, the company dispersed in various directions in search of amusement and recreation, some proceeding down the river in boats, others engaging in the good old English game of bowls, whilst not a few of the brethren of the party paid a visit to the Crown at Broxbourne, and exchanging friendly greetings with the Prosperity Lodge, No. 65, who happened to be celebrating their annual festival, in the extensive and beautiful grounds of that well known establishment. At four o'clock the party re-assembled for dinner, with appetites vastly improved by reason of the various amusements in which they had just indulged. The banquet, which was spread in the spacious dining hall of the old castle, was of a most sumptuous description, embracing every delicacy of the season, and was served up in that excellent style, for which Bro. Teale is now so deservedly famous, and reflected the highest credit upon his establishment, the resources of which were taxed to the utmost in order to provide sufficient and proper entertainment for a much larger number of guests than had been anticipated. This however, was successfully accomplished, and the dinner passed off to the satisfaction of all. The W.M., Bro. A. Knox, presided, supported by the I.P.M. and acting Treas., Bro. Brayshaw, (who had undertaken the whole arrangement of the affair), the other P.M.'s present being Bro. E. West, J. Gaskell, S. Watkins, and C. W. Ashdown, the S.W., Bro. Priestly, and the J.W., Bro. Holliday, occupying their respective positions at the other tables. Ample justice having been done to the excellent viands and wines provided, and dessert placed upon the table, the W.M. in brief, but appropriate terms proposed the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, which were most cordially received and heartily drank. Bro. Brayshaw, P.M., then rose to propose "The Health of the W.M., Bro. Knox," and in a short and pithy speech alluded to the excellent manner in which that brother conducted the affairs of the lodge, and the prosperous condition in which it still continued under his genial rule. The toast, it is needless to say, was received with the greatest enthusiasm, and was drunk with musical honours. The W.M., in feeling terms, acknowledged the compliment paid him, and thanked them most cordially for the manner in which the toast had been received. The other toasts were then proposed and duly responded to, the list concluding with that of "The Ladies," proposed in felicitous terms by the W.M. and responded to by Bro. Ashdown, P.M., in a short but humorous speech. An adjournment was now made to the lawn in rear of the dining hall, where dancing was kept up with great spirit to the strains of an excellent band, under the direction of Rev. M. Sherwin, the genial and popular Organist of the lodge, whose vocal and instrumental talents are well known and appreciated by the brethren. The shades of evening at length gave warning that the hour of departure was at hand, and after tea had been partaken of, a general move was made towards the railway station, where the "special" was in readiness for the return journey, which was safely accomplished shortly before ten o'clock, and with mutual farewells, the party separated after having a thoroughly happy day, and trusting to meet under similar circumstances another year. We cannot conclude these remarks, without stating that the success of the undertaking was mainly owing to the excellent arrangements of the Stewards, who were unremitting in their endeavours to promote the comfort and convenience of all. Bro. Geary, one of that body, particularly distinguishing himself by a display of zeal in carrying out the duties of his office, and which merited especial thanks.

THE GLENFIELD STARCH has been more imitated than all the other starches in the world. No higher compliment could be paid to it, as all those imitators are satisfied that it is the finest starch in use. Tradesmen have doubtless less profit on its sale, but still it is kept by all respectable grocers and oilmen, who prefer supplying their customers with the best articles to their own pecuniary profit. The public should insist upon having the Glenfield Starch.

FREEMASONS AND GOOD TEMPLARS

Dear Sir and Brother,

I am desirous of information upon a point of very deep interest to many besides myself. Is there any reason why a good Mason should not become in addition a Good Templar, and as such attend the usual Masonic banquet? The large-heartedness of Masonry, which makes no distinction between Mahomedans and Christians would surely recognise the abstinence as a brother of equal honour with the rest, and am by no means certain that to receive Good Templars with open arms would not be a means of proving to our many detractors that the object of Freemasonry is by no means festive and carousal. As to the usual toasts, which in reality more honoured by symbols than wine, a Good Templar could join in the one and imagine, without the other. I might go perhaps a step further, and ask would not a Good Templar Lodge of Freemasons gather into its ranks some of the noblest and self-denying men of nations, men who may be called bigoted fanatic, but who have this in common with Craft, that they are ready to suffer martyrdom for a principle,

Yours fraternally,

M.M.

PRESENTATION TO A BROTHER FROM INDIA.

The Feast of Roses, an annual Festival in connection with the British Union Lodge (No. 213), Ipswich, was celebrated on the 21st ult. (July) at the Masonic Hall. The event was made doubly interesting by the recognition of the merits and value of one of the members of the lodge, a P.P.G.M. of the Province of Western India, (Bro. R. Bolton Bartlett, L.L.D., of Bradford) by the Provincial Grand officers and brethren of that far-off dependency of the British Empire. The lodge having been opened in the first and second degrees, when business of importance was transacted, was closed and opened in the third degree, when Bro. H. Casley was raised to the degree of Master Mason, the ceremony being well worked by the W.M., (Bro. Peter de Laing Long and Bro. S. King, P. M. 376. After the closing the brethren retired to the Banqueting Hall, which had been magnificently decorated with choice exotics and roses. Roses appeared everywhere, their delicious perfume being quite revivifying in the head atmosphere of the room; these had been presented by Bro. P. Cornell, P.M., and Bro. Rev. J. B. Tweed. The banquet comprised many delicacies of the season. Among those who sat down to the banquet were Bros. Peter de L. Long, W.M.; A. George, S.W.; J. J. Burton, J.W.; C. Scher Treasurer; W. Spalding, Secretary; A. W. Moore, S.D.; Henry Miller, J.D.; A. J. Bar P.G.O.; Rev. J. B. Tweed, I.G.; R. B. Bar L.L.D., P.P.G.M., and Muncherjee Cowasji Murzeban, P.G. Treas., Province of Western India. S. Shortridge, Glenion Lodge, Jamaica; E. J. Lockwood, D.P.G.M. Suffolk; W. B. P. M.; P. Cornell, P.M.; G. A. Turner, P. M.; H. G. Moore, P.M.; C. F. Long, P.M.; Foster, P.P.G.O.; W. Clark, P.M.; J. M. S. D. 1150; G. Gard-Tye, J.W. 51; S. Wright, C. J. Meadows; E. T. Read; H. C. Casley; In proposing the toast of "The G.M., P.G. D.P.G.M., and the officers of the Grand Lodge of the W.M. highly eulogised the past and displayed by these officers in the performance of their Masonic duties, which Bro. Tweed responding also bore testimony to. The next gave "Prop. G.M. Bro. Lord Waterhouse, D.P.G.M. Bro. the Rev. E. J. Lockwood. He was certain this time required no other words from him to meet with favourable attention: it was a toast in which the G.M. and Grand Lodge were united, and they always carried out their duties in a admirable manner; he was extremely well

G.M. was unavoidably prevented from attending, but they were extremely gratified at having amongst them the D.P.G.M., who had now recovered from his serious illness. Bro. Lockwood responded, thanking the brethren for their congratulations upon his recovery, and proposed the health of the W.M., Bro. P. de L. Long, "more excellent Mason than whom no one could be, and a more able Brother could not have been placed in the chair. The W.M. in replying spoke highly of Masonry. Had it not been for many of his old and dear friends would have been forgotten, owing to his residence elsewhere, but by the advantages of the Order they were again known to him, and he rejoiced to meet and extend the hand of friendship to those whom he knew, and to all visitors also. A deeply interesting matter to him and the lodge was the fact of Bro. Barton fixing upon this Lodge wherein to receive an address from the Province of India, borne by Bro. Murzeban from the shores of Asia. Bro. Murzeban, who on rising, was greeted with Masonic welcome, expressed thanks for the kindness shown him in being invited to present the address in this lodge. The opportunity of his visit to this country was an advantage to present the address which was voted on the eve of Bro. Barton's departure for Bombay, now some time since, but no opportunity for its presentation had occurred. He was proud of having the pleasure to testify to the esteem in which his dear friend, Bro. Barton was held by his fellow subjects of Queen in India. He had not come to speak in ability, and evenhanded administration of justice, or zeal in the cause of education, and his able disposition, as that was not the place to do, but to speak of the noble work he had done, and the interest he took in everything Masonic during his residence in India. He wished long life to gaze upon the present address, the plate previously presented to him. The address was then read as follows:—

Right Worshipful Sir, and dear Brother,—The officers and members of the Provincial Lodge of Western India, under Scotland, have leave to convey to you the expression of grief and sorrow at your resignation of the honorable and high office of Provincial Grand Master of Western India, in view of your approaching departure and retirement from the shores of this island. For the past six years you have governed over the several Lodges working the Scottish banner in the various chiefs of Western India, in a manner becoming your high position. The relations between the daughter lodges, amongst themselves, and with this Provincial Grand Lodge particular, have been most amicable owing to the peaceable and conciliatory nature of the policy followed by you during the whole period of government. For many years we had the pleasure of holding office under you in the Provincial Grand Lodge of Western India and have become accustomed to listen to your many addresses upon Masonry, and your earnest exhortations to us to carry into practice outside the lodge those excellent precepts which are so constantly inculcated therein, that we shall not be reconciled to your absence from the fraternal chair. But, Right Worshipful Sir, the experience at losing you is not unshared, for we feel that though your departure is a heavy loss to us, still we derive consolation from the fact that it brings you pleasure and happiness by your being enabled to rejoin near and dear to you in your native land. Our best wishes will follow you wherever the Architect of the Universe may guide and your steps; may he, on your return home, be pleased not only to grant you health and happiness but may he also incline you to labour more than you have yet done for the advancement of that glorious and honourable foundation of which has been laid in the East. May God bless you are at parting words of your Brethren in sympathy.

The address, signed by 24 officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge, and which had been solemnly illuminated and engrossed on vellum, and enclosed in a morocco case, was then handed to Bro. Barton. In connection with this presentation was a gift of a superbly manufactured silver epergne, representing a Parsee figure in the centre leaning on a column, and pointing to the Grand Masters' jewel from the Lodge "Rising Star," and from the Grand Lodge and English Lodges under the jurisdiction of the P.P.G.M., a splendid silver salver appropriately inscribed. These testimonials of the value of the services of their late chief, had already been presented to Bro. Barton at Brighton, from our Indian brethren.

Bro. R. B. Barton, in responding, said it was unnecessary for him, on such an occasion as the present, to use the usual stereotyped after-dinner reply for the very great honour done him that night. When he received his respected friend's (Bro. Murzeban's) letter announcing his mission to present the address just read, he owned he was surprised, agreeably surprised, that his brethren in India were about to add another stone to the column of obligations under which he lay to them. All he could say was that he had been for a long series of years treated with the greatest kindness, generosity, and forbearance by all his brethren in Western India, and that as long as he lived he would hold them in the warmest corner of his heart, and prayed that the Great Architect of the Universe might bless that great country and its people, and that our own England would always look upon that country as the brightest jewel in its own honoured crown. In conclusion Bro. Barton thanked Bro. Murzeban for the great trouble he had taken in carrying out what he knew to him was a labour of love; and also the W.M. and brethren of Lodge British Union for the promptness with which they had arranged all the preliminaries for this, to him, most gratifying episode in the history of Lodge British Union. He was under a great obligation to the W.M. for allowing the presentation to take place in this lodge, and thanked Bro. Boby and Bro. W. Spalding, the Secretary, for their attention to his communication, and for making the necessary arrangements. The W.M. proposed "The Visitors," coupled with the names of Bro. Murzeban and Bro. Muzio. He claimed this occasion as a marking point in the annals of this Lodge, and the circumstances under which the presentation had taken place were very gratifying. Bro. Murzeban said he felt highly honoured by the kind reception accorded him that night. He had travelled thousands of miles to this grand country of arts and sciences, and to this seat of science and commerce (Ipswich) to testify to the regard in which one of their own brethren was held, and he owed a debt of gratitude to the Lodge for the manner in which he had been received. He belonged to the first lodge established in India under the Scottish banner, under Dr. Burns, and was initiated at the first initiation of a number of native gentlemen. A medal was cast to commemorate the establishment of Masonry, and would be found upon the breast of their respected Bro. Dr. Barton, on the one side was a portrait of their Grand Master, Bro. Burns, and on the reverse the portraits of the two first natives initiated. Since that event Masonry had scattered throughout India, and he had ever done his utmost to impart to the uninitiated the advantages of the Craft. He would carry back to his native country the impressions which had been indelibly impressed upon his heart by his visit to this country and this lodge. Bro. Muzio said this was his first visit to this town and lodge. He had often heard of the great Masonic qualities attached to Ipswich names and also their hospitality, now he could state they had more than realized his expectations. He strongly advised all brothers to attend Lodges of Instruction if they desired to become proficient in working out the beautiful ceremonies of the Craft. Bro. Shortridge, Jamaica, also replied and expressed his desirousness of becoming a member of this lodge. The W.M. proposed "The Health of Bro. Boby, P.G.S.W.," who, as the suggestor of the Feast of Roses, was entitled to their thanks. Bro. Boby thanked the brethren for their expressions, and in his usual humorous and jolly manner, gave an anecdote suitable to the occasion. Bro. Barton proposed "The Press," coupled with the name of Bro. Elkington, of the Suffolk Mercury, who having replied brought to a conclusion a pleasant evening, one which will be long remembered by all who were present, and that will be written in the annals of the British Union Lodge as a red letter event.

The whole residue of his estate falls to his sister, Lady Christina Maule, during her life, and after her death £6,000 each is to be paid to his nine nephews, and £4,000 each to his seven nieces or their children. His property in France is left to his eldest nephew, Major Thomas Young, along with such a sum as will make up £20,000. He also leaves £20,000 to the Free Church for the payment of stipends of £200 a year each to the ministers of the four Free Churches on his estate. The bust of Lord Byron goes to Mr. John Clarke Brodie, his bust of Fox to Mr. A. Rutherford Clark, and his picture of Dr. Guthrie preaching in Glenesk to the Free Church College, Edinburgh. Legacies varying from £60 to £300, and a year's wages are left to his servants, gardeners, gamekeepers, and foresters. The chief factor, Mr. Guthrie, is remembered with £1,000, and a valuable picture by one of the old masters is left to his local solicitor, Mr. Shields. All political correspondence and confidential public papers connected with his official life are to be selected and placed in a locked box by themselves, sealed up, and deposited in the family charter-room at Panmure, and not to be opened till the year 1990, and all correspondence with public men is to be arranged and similarly deposited.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC ELIXIR.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.
Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such false remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which is at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.
SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says he has repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it cures cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as the most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment of this disease.
This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Indisposition, Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jaa. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.
Lancashire should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had gratis of all Chemists.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

HAVANT.—Carnarvon Lodge (No. 804).—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held on the 3rd instant, at the Black Dog Inn. The W.M., Bro. Harrison, presided, and was supported by a fair number of members of the lodge, but, owing to the Bank Holiday Act, we regret that only two officers were present. The business of the evening consisted of three initiations, and a raising, at the conclusion of which Bro. H. Martin Green, P.M., moved, and the W.M. seconded, a vote of condolence with the widow and family of the late Bro. Stebbing, Deputy Prov. Grand Master of Hants and the Isle of Wight. The proposition was carried unanimously, for the loss of so zealous and kind-hearted a Mason as Bro. Stebbing has been severely felt by the members of the Carnarvon Lodge, in common with all English Masons throughout the world. A resolution to purchase a copy of Bro. Hughan's "Memorials of the Union" having been passed, the lodge was duly closed.

DEPTFORD.—Royal Oak Lodge (No. 871) held its regular meeting on Thursday, July 23rd, at the White Swan Tavern, 217, High street, Deptford. Bro. George Andrews, W.M., presided. There were present Bros. S. O. Lewin, S.W.; H. J. Tuson, J.W.; W. Andrews, P.M., Treas.; F. Walters, P.M., Secretary; J. Woodlett, W.S.; W. Elgood, W. O. Lockhead, R. T. Stringer, R. Harman, F. H. Burr, J. Rennie, E. James, J. W. Hadingham, T. Horton, A. Mæers, and others. The visitors were Bros. W. Hammond, W.M. 1326, P.M. 201; G. R. Turnbull, 1326; D. Steinbauer, 1326; T. W. Richardson, 1201; H. W. Elmer, 1275; and others, whose names we were unable to ascertain. The heavy agenda paper was relieved by initiating Mr. Alsford, passing Bros. H. W. Elmer, 1275, and D. Steinbauer, 1326, to the second degree, raising Bros. A. Mæers, G. R. Turnbull, 1326, and T. W. Richardson, 1201, to the third degree. The work was beautifully rendered and correctly done, Bro. Fisher, the Organist, aiding in an admirable manner by presiding at the organ. A notice of motion, given by an indefatigable brother, fell through for the want of a seconder. No banquet or refreshment being served, all separated when the lodge was closed.

HAMPTON.—Lebanon Lodge (No. 1326).—This flourishing lodge was held on Saturday, July 18th. In consequence of Bro. H. A. Dubois, S.W., and W.M. elect, being unable to get a dispensation to enable him to be W.M. of two lodges, at one time, he being the W.M. of the Era Lodge, that portion of the minutes (on his proposition) relating to his election was not confirmed. The other work did not present itself. On the motion, made by the Secretary, Bro. F. Walters, P.M., and duly seconded, it was unanimously resolved that ten guineas (second amount voted in less than four months) be given to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls. The lodge was opened and closed by Bro. W. Hammond, W.M., and adjourned until August. An excellent banquet and dessert followed.

PAIGNTON.—Torbay Lodge (No. 1351).—The anniversary meeting of this lodge took place on Monday, 3rd inst., when Bro. J. F. Goodridge, W.M. elect, was installed into the chair by the retiring W.M., Bro. J. C. C. Piller, assisted by Bro. Rev. R. Bowden, P.M., P. Prov. G. C., and a Board of Past Masters consisting of the following brethren, Col. A. Ridgway, P. Prov. G.S.W.; James Greenfield, P. Prov. G.J.D.; C. H. Law, P. Prov. G.S.W., (Herts.); S. Cash, 1358; Colston, 328; Drake 1396; Goodridge, 797; Mold, 414. The brethren on being admitted saluted in the usual manner, their newly installed W.M., who then appointed the following as his officers:—Bros. W. E. Warren, S.W.; W. H. Haswell, J.W.; T. E. Dyer, Treas.; J. C. C. Piller, I.P.M., Sec.; Rev. R. Bowden, P. Prov. G.C., Chaplain; J. Greenfield P.M., Dir. Cer.; J. H. Chinnock, S.D.; T. K. Tozer, J.D., W. Windrane, I.G.; J. Coudrey, and W. Rossiter, Stewards. Bro. Greenfield was also appointed by the brethren to attend the next meeting of the Committee of Petitions as the representative of the lodge. The lodge having been closed in ancient form, the brethren adjourned to the Esplanade Hotel, where Miss Chudleigh, the manageress, had prepared a capital dejeuner. Bro. Goodridge, W.M., presided, supported by his officers in their usual positions, and after the customary loyal and Masonic toasts had been given, a proposal was made and liberally responded to, to present the two Immediate Past Masters, Bros. Bowden and Piller, each with a souvenir at the next meeting, to mark the esteem with which they are regarded by the members of the lodge. In addition to a goodly array of brethren, members of 1358, the following visitors attended the lodge, Bros. Colston, P.M. 248; Drake, P.M. 1396; Goodridge, W.M. 797; Mold, 414; Jacob, 482; Stafford Lind, 797; Evans, 797.

MILLOM.—Whitwell Lodge (No. 1390).—The 21st of July, 1874, will long be remembered among the brethren of the Craft in this town, and may fairly be marked as a "red letter day" in the annals of the Whitwell Lodge, for on this occasion the founder of the lodge, the worthy and much-respected Bro. John Mills, S.W., P.G.S.B., was duly installed to the proud and honourable position of W.M. The services rendered by our excellent townsman, not only to the Masonic, but to every other good cause, are so well known and recognised in Milloom, that it is hardly incumbent upon us to enlarge upon them. Suffice it to say that any honour conferred upon Bro. Mills must afford general satisfaction to all who know him, whether in a public or private capacity. It is therefore with feelings of unmingled pleasure that we have to announce the complete success of all the ceremonial and festive incidents of his installation. The P.M.'s present were Bro. R. Dodgson, P.G.S.B., W.M. of 995; Bro. F. W. Dodgson, P.G.S., I.P.M. 1390; Bro. Wellmore, P.M., Concord Lodge, Preston; Bro. John Bell, P.M. Duke of Lancaster Lodge, Lancaster; Bro. W. Whiteside, W.M. Baldwin Lodge, Bolton. The brethren assembled at the old lodge room, and, after opening the lodge in the first degree, the minutes of the previous communication having been read, the lodge was duly closed. The brethren adjourned to their new lodge room, the new Masonic Hall, which has been specially built and arranged for them in the new Public Hall. Within the precincts of this lodge the glorious interest of the Craft was then to be witnessed in all its splendour, losing nothing from the dignified and becoming demeanour both of the installing officers and the W.M. elect. The ceremony ended, an immediate adjournment to the Station Hotel followed, where Bro. Waiting had provided a splendid banquet, the excellence of which was the theme of universal comment and approval. The new W.M., of course, presided, supported on the right by P.M. Bro. R. Dodgson, P.M. Bro. Willmore, and on the left by P.M. Bro. T. Dodg-son; P.M. Bro. Bell; P.M. Whiteside, &c. The S.W., Bro. Meredith, was supported on both sides by many distinguished brethren in the Craft. After the more substantial course had been done full justice to, the new W.M. proposed "The Queen, the Prince and Princess of Wales, and rest of the Royal Family," a toast always well received by the Craft, particularly when the close connection of the reigning family with the Masonic Order is so well and happily alluded to as on the present occasion. The toast of the evening, "The Newly Installed Master," which was most feelingly and eloquently proposed by Bro. T. Dodgson, and received with an enthusiasm that speaks volumes for the new W.M., Bro. Mills's, popularity among the brethren. The cheers burst forth with renewed vigour on the reciting of an acrostic, written by an absent brother in honour of the event. The toast of "The Visiting Brethren" having been ably responded to by Bro. Dr. Rogers, Guard, and Burne, Bro. P. M. Whiteside next favoured the company with a beautiful recitation, after which Bro. Bradley sang the "Death of Nelson" in excellent style and with marked effect, as was testified by every mark of warm appreciation. The visitors were now compelled, by the arrival of the last train, to take their departure, and the company afterwards broke up, having thoroughly enjoyed a most pleasant, sociable afternoon. We append a list of officers for the ensuing year:—Bro. Meredith, S.W.; Bro. Postlethwaite, J.W.; the W.M., Treasurer; Bro. W. Crooke, Secretary; Bro. Waiting, S.D.; Bro. Bell, J.D.; Bro. Blakeney, I.G.; Bro. Bradley, S.S.; Bro. Lang, J.S.

GLASGOW.—Provincial Grand Lodge of Glasgow.—The quarterly communication of this body was held in St. Mark's Hall, July 30th, 1874. There was a full attendance of members. In the absence of W. M. Neilson, the P.G.M., who is on the continent, the lodge was opened by Bro. F. A. Barrow, D.P.G.M. On the dais were the following P.G. Officers, Bros. J. Steel, S.P.G.M.; J. B. Walker, P.G.T.; A. M. Taggart, M.A., P.G. Secretary; G. Sinclair, Treasurer of the Benevolent Fund; J. Millan, D. of Music; J. Balfour, P.G.D.C.; G. Allison, P.G.T.; and J. Gillis, P.G.S.B. Bro. J. Miller, R.W.M. 87, acting S.W.; J. McNaught, R.W.M. 275, as J.W. The D.P.G.M. spoke with deep feeling of the loss the Masonic body had sustained by the death of our lamented brethren, the late Earl of Dalhousie and Lord J. Murray, paying a well-merited compliment to the memory of each of these noble brothers, dwelling on the debt that Scotch Masonry owed to our P.G.M., Earl Dalhousie. The minutes of the last P.G. Lodge having been read and confirmed, the P.G.M. spoke of the irregularity of the installation of the officers of the new lodge, Clydesdale, without the sanction of the P.G.M., and declared the installation null and void. A report was presented from the P.G. Committee in the case of Steven v. Wallace, the P.G.M. holding it should have been held here; before the petition went to G.L. The application for a Charter for a new lodge in Spring Course district was rejected, as being inconsistent with the Grand Lodge Laws, and also as it was unnecessary to establish a new lodge, as St. Andrew, No. 465, was well able to supply the requirements of that district. Bro. G. Watson, R.W.M. 73, inquired if it was the duty of the Deacons or the Wardens to eject a refractory member. The P.G.M. said it was the Wardens' duty. Bro. Weston also inquired if there was not a Charter in existence for holding a Lodge of Instruction in the province. The P.G.M. said there was, and he should be most happy to see it made use of, and if the brethren were willing to work it properly, he should be most happy to grant it, and he gave them all the assistance in his power. The Secretary read a communication he had received, asking if it was in the power of the Master to refuse to receive a candidate after the lodge had voted that he should be admitted. The P.G.M. held that the Master's will was law at the time, but the brother could appeal if he felt aggrieved. A question was also asked if a man born a slave could by the Scottish Constitution be made a Mason, though he had become free by coming into British territory. The brother was referred to the G. Secretary for an answer. The P.G.L. was then closed in due form.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Union and Crown (No. 103).—This lodge met on Monday, July 27, in the Masonic Hall, 170, Buchanan-street. There was a very large attendance, both of members and visitors. The lodge was opened at 8 o'clock by the R.W.M., Bro. A. Muir Wright; J. Muir, S.W.; Wm. Thomas, J.W.; J. Bain, P.M.; and J. Gilles, P.M., Secretary. After considerable private business, relating to the late trip, and other matters, it was unanimously agreed that honorary affiliation should be given to the following members of the Star Lodge, 219, for their services on that and other occasions, namely, Bros. Jas. Duthie, P.M.; J. Garth, S.W.; Jas. Horn, J.W.; G. Miller, A. McNeily, J. Park, F. Dow, and James Daly. At a subsequent period of the evening they were affiliated by Bro. P.M. Gilles, when Bro. Duthie, in an eloquent speech, returned thanks on behalf of himself and others. Bro. Garth also said a few words; and Bro. Wilson, R.W.M. of 219, thanked the lodge for the honour they had conferred on him and his lodge by thus admitting so many of them as honorary members. He had himself for some time enjoyed that privilege. Bro. James S. Scott, the R.W.M. of the Neptune Lodge, also received the same honour for his kindness in having given them the use of his lodge on several occasions. The R.W.M. then initiated five gentlemen into the Order, three for their own lodges, and one each for Nos. 73, and 408. The lodge was then raised to the second degree, when Bro. Bain, P.M., passed three candidates to that degree. Bro. G. Weston, R.W.M., 73; and Bro. McFennis, S.W., 408, tendered the thanks of their respective lodges to the Master for his kindness in initiating their candidates. Bro. Wright assured them that the Union and Crown was pleased at all times to be able to oblige any of the sister lodges. The lodge was then closed in harmony.

GLASGOW.—Lodge Commercial (No. 360).—The hall of this lodge having been taken by the Union Railway Company for their extension, they have been obliged to obtain fresh premises. The new hall is now nearly ready, and promises to be the most complete of any in the province, the ante-rooms being specially adapted for the proper reception and preparation of candidates, not only for the Craft but also for the higher orders in Masonry. The arrangements for light and ventilation, by Bro. J. McCombee, are all that can be desired, while the decorations, under the skilful hands of Bros. Stevens and Urc, will make a tout ensemble seldom surpassed. Great credit is also due to the committee, the exertions of the R.W.M. and Bros. McPherson, Munro, Adams, and others, having contributed greatly to the result.

GLASGOW.—Thetis Chapter (No. 122)—held their regular meeting on Monday, July 27th, Comp. J. O. Park, M.E.Z., presiding, assisted by Comp. J. S. Scott, H.; J. Weightman, J.; Comp. J. Johnston, Scribe, E.; W. Gunn, T.; T. J. Mackay, 1st S.; there were three candidates for exaltation; the work was performed in J. O. Park's known style.

GLASGOW.—Cathedral Chapter (No. 67)—met on Tuesday, the 28th ult., under the presidency of Comp. Jas. Duthie, Z. The attendance of members, owing to the fair holidays, was not large, but there were two candidates for exaltation. Comp. Wm. Taylor, P.Z., and W. Jackson, assisted in exalting them to this degree.

GLASGOW.—Caledonian Unity Chapter (No. 73).—This chapter met in their Hall, 170, Buchanan-street, on Tuesday, July 25th, in the Mark Degree, Comps. G. McDonald, Z. as Master; G. W. Wheeler, H., as S.W.; J. O. Park, Z. 122, as J.W.; J. Balfour, Scribe E.; J. Bannerman, T.; and J. Hay, I.G. After the business arrangements were made for the annual meeting and the election of officers.

GLASGOW.—Conclave of the Red Cross of Constantine (No. 114).—This body met at 109, Argyle-street, on Wednesday, July 29, 1874.

G. W. Wheeler, M.P.S.; J. Johnston, E.V.E.; J. Tweed, Hon. E.V.; D. Butler, S.G.; Wm. Bell, T.; D. B. Fleming, H.P.; G. B. Adams S.B.; and J. O. Park, H. Apologies were read, from two of the candidates, who were prevented by ill health from being present; and after the business had been concluded, arrangements were entered into for the purpose of renting a Masonic Hall for the future meetings of the Conclave.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF MIDDLESEX.

By OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.

On Saturday last the Provincial Grand Lodge of Middlesex was held for the first time at Enfield, when Colonel Somerset, of Enfield Court, placed his riding school and grounds at the service of the province. The lodge was attended by a very large number of the brethren, there being over a hundred who assisted in the performance of the duties of the day.

Grand Lodge having been first formally opened, the brethren marched in procession and in full Masonic regalia to the Parish Church, where, after a portion of the daily prayers had been read, the Rev. Bro. Collis preached a sermon from 1. Chron. ix. 14, "All things come of Thee, O Lord, and of Thine own have we given Thee." After stating that the collection which would be made at the conclusion of the service would be devoted to providing coals for the poor at Enfield, in the winter, he said he was not going to preach a charity sermon—a word which in one sense he abominated, because the divine word "charity" too often dwindled down into the dropping of an occasional shilling into the plate, or perhaps passing the plate by altogether—went on to explain that out of love to God, and for the good He has done to us, we should do good to our fellow creatures, and this was the object of the grand fraternity which were then assembled. In the Hebrew the words are rather remarkable, being, "Out of thine own hand have we given to thee, oh God." This he illustrated by supposing that a child out of love to its father, brought him and presented to him a beautiful nosegay of flowers, plucked out of the father's own garden; and, although the giving to God was merely restoring to him what was His own, still it was acceptable to God when given out of gratitude, love and affection, in the same way as the child's nosegay would be acceptable to the father. The father would not fling back the nosegay to the child and tell the child that it was only presenting him with what was his own; that he paid the rent for the ground in which the flowers were grown, and the man who cultivated them. No human parent with a spark of love and affection in his heart, would repel a child's love in such a way; and why not? It was not for the value of the flower, the child might bring, but for the love of that dear child's heart welling forth from its soul. Whatever we had was not our own, and it was our duty to give out of it to God. Ex Tuis Tibi Domine, out of Thine own to Thee. This altered the character of all we were and all that we had. Everything should be dedicated to God. The best we have should be given to Him. These bodies of ours should be devoted to His service. If we listened to the suggestions of the devil we would squander our lives in sin and profligacy and sensuality; but though these were in a certain sense pleasures, in the end they stung like an adder. On the contrary, viewing our bodies as "the temple of the Holy Ghost," a person dedicating his body to God Almighty carried out just what David had said in the text, "Out of Thine own have I given to Thee, O Lord." Then with regard to our minds, all our great mental faculties should be devoted to God's service. They were talents which he had given us, and whether they were one, or five or ten, they were to be brought to Him. The preacher afterwards went on to say that one-seventh of our time and one-tenth of our money, at least, were due to God. He then exhorted his hearers to devote their Sundays to God, and also when they "broke" a sovereign to "dedicate the first two shillings of it to Almighty God," not to let it be the last two shillings, for then very likely God would get it. We should bring up our children with notion that one-seventh of their time and one-tenth of their money was due to God, mere matter of saving, as a mere lesson of frugality; but this was a point which he would then press, as it was too long a subject; he exhorted his hearers to bear the text in mind and to act upon it; not to act on the principle Ex meis mihi, or Ex meis Tibi, Domine, but Tuis Tibi, Domine. There was no satisfaction to the man who made £100,000, if he spent all on himself. Many there were who did large towns and manufacturing cities; but were all bound to do something for God out of the money we made. Then on the day of judgment, when the books should be opened and Christ should be on His judgment throne, and we should be called up before it to account for what we had done in the body, for all we were, and all that we had, could we say any merit? No; nothing but the words of the text, out of the fulness of a grateful heart, exclaim—"For all that Thou hast done for my body, my soul, my mind, my time, my property of thine own have I given back to Thee, O God."

The collection which followed the sermon, which this is a brief outline, amounted to £93s. 3d.

The brethren then marched back to Colonel Somerset's, and lodge was resumed by Bro. R. Wentworth Little, Grand Provincial Secretary, first read a list of Prov. G. Officers who answered to their names, and the roll of provincial lodges, whose office-bearers answered.

The minutes of Prov. Grand Lodge of Middlesex, July, 1873, and 28th February 1874, were also read by the Prov. G. Secretary, and put in order, and the report of the Audit Committee was also read.

The Provincial Grand Master, in rising to read this report for confirmation, said that he congratulated the brethren on having a considerable balance in hand, although the province had been at great expense for furniture and many other things. It was a matter of great satisfaction to know that everything had been paid, and that there was every prospect of their going on as flourishingly as they had begun. They must all be aware that the province had increased, and that the roll of lodges continually being added to. This, of course, brought a large accession to the numbers of Freemasons, and with this therefore they congratulated themselves on the spread of the Order. This brought to their minds another fact. They must all be aware that an increase in numbers entailed an increased amount of work, and the work of the province which required to be done was largely above what it five years ago. It had therefore become necessary to take an office for the Grand Secretary where his work might be done better and more steadily than it had been capable of being performed hitherto. But in saying this he did not mean to infer that the work could be performed more efficiently, but without those hindrances and confusion which, when it was mixed up with a great many other things, it was subject to. They have therefore taken an office convenient and suitable for their purpose, and he was able to ask for a small vote to maintain it. It was not a large sum, and would soon be covered by increased revenue. He would therefore recommend the adoption of the report, and that £1000 be allowed for Provincial Grand Office.

Bro. Charles Horsley seconded the motion, and Bro. H. A. Dubois thought it should be £100 per annum, and not £10 for the present only.

The Provincial Grand Master said of course that £100 per annum.

Bro. J. C. Parkinson, Deputy Provincial Grand Master, put the motion to the meeting and it was unanimously confirmed.

The Provincial Grand Master in calling attention of the Grand Lodge to the next business before it, the election of the Provincial Grand Treasurer, stated that the Grand Lodge were not only satisfied but had every reason to be satisfied with the way in which Bro. Dubois hitherto discharged the duties of the office.

him during his retention of that important office.

Bro. Buss was then unanimously re-elected Grand Treasurer, amidst hearty cheers.

The Provincial Grand Master said he could assure Bro. Buss that it was with very great gratification he had to announce to him the pleasing intelligence of his unanimous re-election.

Bro. Buss acknowledged the brethren's continued confidence in him, and expressed the gratification he felt that his services had been satisfactory to the brethren.

The following brethren were then appointed by the Provincial Grand Master to hold the offices set opposite to their respective names:—

The Prov. G. Master said that the brethren had heard that the Provincial Grand Lodge had a large sum of money in hand, but it was of no use for that money to be lying idle. He thought they could not do better than give some part of it to the Institutions connected with the Order. He had, therefore, put down on the agenda paper a proposition to give £100 to the Girls' School, £100 to the Boys', and £100 to the Benevolent Institution. He hoped they would be able to do the same next year also.

The Deputy Prov. Grand Master seconded the motion.

Bro. Thomas Fenn, acting as G.S.W., put the motion, which was unanimously adopted.

The Deputy Provincial Grand Master moved that the lodges and brethren in the provinces be requested to send their votes for the Masonic Charities to the Provincial Grand Master, with the view of securing, by united action, the success of candidates connected with the province; and that the formation of a Committee to promote this object be authorised by the Prov. G. Lodge. His object was that any candidate taken up by the province should be successful. Unity of action only was wanted to do this. The Prov. Grand Master, to whom the votes would be committed, was the last man in the world who would monopolise the votes. By the brethren acting together, now giving, now taking, their individual force would not be frittered away. So convinced was he of the expediency of this course that he had thrown in his own votes, and he had a letter from Sir George Elliott to say that he would do the same. He (the Deputy Grand Master) trusted this motion for the formation of a Committee to carry the scheme out, would be adopted. He would propose that the Committee should be composed of three members appointed by the Prov. Grand Master, and three by the Provincial Grand Lodge. The Prov. G. Master would propose himself, his Deputy, and the Prov. G. Secretary.

Major Barlow said that a similar scheme was very successful in Cheshire.

Bro. Charles Horsley asked whether it was intended that the Master of a lodge should send all the votes that came into his hands during his year of office to the Provincial Grand Master. He really could not understand how unity of action would be preserved by this scheme. He himself belonged to the Royal Union Lodge at Uxbridge, and the Acacia at Potter's Bar. Each of those lodges might have a candidate it wished to bring in. How could it be done? He would ask the Deputy Grand Master, whether it was wished that all the votes which annually came should be sent to the Provincial Grand Master, and how the success of the particular efforts of each lodge would be guaranteed.

Bro. F. Davison thought that there was already too much monopoly of votes. To get any candidates into the institutions it was necessary to obtain the support of a very few good names. Every brother had a perfect right to give his votes to the most deserving case. He did not approve of the motion.

Bro. J. Baxter Langley said their great object should be to support the most deserving case, no matter what locality or province it came from. He could not imagine that charity, in the highest sense in which it had been so eloquently alluded to in the pulpit that day, could take so narrow a view of its duties as to cause the brethren to support a candidate from his own geographical district without reference to its merits. He was glad that the terms of the resolution had been so modified as to prevent that obnoxious view being taken, against which Bro. Davison had protested. They should have an election of brethren of influence and well acquainted with the districts, first of all to report on the case which seemed to them to deserve the support of the district, without any reference to its geographical position. If that was done he felt sure the province would accept the recommendation of the brother so elected, and the first step would be gained. At present a great many who were governors of the charities were unable when an election approached to give their votes to the most deserving case. If a committee reported on the cases, they would not have the difficulty they now experienced. He submitted that it would be the best course to take to appoint a committee to be, as it were, a committee of investigation, and that upon their report the votes of the province should be recommended to be given, above all things, the report should be upon the merits of the cases, and not be given with reference to the geographical locality.

Bro. Angelo J. Lewis, Prov. G.J.W., while giving a general support to the amended proposition of the Deputy Prov. G. Master, thought that all the lodges of the province should be represented on the Committee.

The Prov. G. Master thought the brethren might hit upon a scheme to be presented to next Prov. Grand Lodge. This was only the first movement made in this particular direction.

Bro. Charles Horsley seconded the proposition, Next Prov. Grand Lodge might adopt a decided mode of action.

Bro. J. J. Wilson, opposed the original motion. It had been, he thought, brought forward without due consideration. Four or five years ago, he tried to get the lodges of the province to act with him on the same plan. After several meetings, it was found it would not work. He wished the Deputy Prov. Grand Master every success in his scheme; but he would find the same difficulty as he (Bro. Wilson) had, by a brother being called upon for his votes by two lodges, to both of which he was equally loyally subject. Then it would also be found that the Committee could not meet without sundry expenses, and after they had met they would find they were no further then they were at the starting. He would propose that the matter be deferred till next Prov. Grand Lodge for further consideration.

Dr. Ramsey thought the matter should be left for the consideration of a Committee.

Bro. Angelo J. Lewis proposed "That a Committee be appointed, consisting of six members, three to be nominated by the Provincial Grand Master, and three by the Provincial Grand Lodge, to consider the best mode of promoting unity of action in the province."

Bro. Baxter Langley adopted this amendment, the original motion was withdrawn, and the amendment, put as an original motion, was carried unanimously.

The Provincial Grand Master nominated himself, Bro. Parkinson, and Bro. Little, and the Provincial Grand Lodge elected Bros. Pigden, J. Baxter Langley, and Glover, to form the Committee.

The Prov. G. Lodge was then closed, and the brethren afterwards sat down to a first-class banquet, supplied by Mr. Allsopp, confectioner. Enfield, in the best style. At the conclusion of the repast grace was sung, and the customary speeches were delivered, and a selection of vocal and instrumental music was performed under the direction of Bro. Limpus, Bro. Theodore Distin, Mrs. Limpus, Mr. Wray Brewster, and Miss Kate Wild.

After disposing of the loyal, &c., toasts, and duly honouring "The Health of the Grand Master," The Provincial Grand Master proposed "The Deputy Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon, and the Grand Officers," and spoke of the great service the Grand Officers were to the Order, one of whom, the Grand Junior Deacon, he was happy to say was Deputy Prov. G. Master of Middlesex. Speaking, however, of Bro. Fenn, who was present, he said he did not believe there was another member of the Order, who could do the working part of Masonry so well.

Bro. Fenn, Past Assistant Grand Director of Ceremonies, after thanking the Prov. G. Master, referred particularly to the province of Middlesex, which he said was a new province, but he found that there was a determination on the part of all connected with it to make it one of the most distinguished Prov. G. Lodges in the kingdom. With sufficient power and energy to carry that ambition into effect, this province, he was sure, could not fail in the course of a short time to become second to none but the Grand Lodge of England.

Bro. J. C. Parkinson G.J.D. of England, and Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Middlesex, proposed "The Health of Colonel F. Burdett, Provincial Grand Master." There were, he said, many ways in this world in which men obtained honours, but it had always seemed to him that these honours were the sweetest when they were derived from the free suffrages of free men. It was the exceptional privilege of the province of Middlesex, to have virtually chosen its own Grand Master. So far as he knew it was the only Masonic Province in the three kingdoms which could lay claim to that particular privilege. It therefore behoved all the brethren of the province to do what they could to make the province vigorous and strong, and it was really with that view that he (Bro. Parkinson) had been induced to bring forward the motion, which he had just spoken on in Prov. G. Lodge. He had not quite anticipated that it would provoke so earnest and animated a discussion as had been engaged in, but he was very glad that it had, for it proved that on all sides there was a very warm and healthy feeling on the subject of charity. His personal desires were limited to a very strong wish that they should consider fairly by means of a representative Committee what were the best means of utilising their votes and at the same time strengthen and solidify the province. If in committee they found, as he thought it was possible they might find, that it was not practicable that the peculiar circumstances of Middlesex, where many brethren who were active members also belonged to London lodges, or other lodges in the neighbourhood, would render the carrying out of the scheme practicable or beneficial to the province, he for one should heartily join with them; at the same time he begged to assure every one of the brethren, that those with whom the proposition originated, had no other feeling than that of promoting the cause of charity, and, if possible, strengthening the province. They sought for no monopoly of votes; that was a subject that would not bear a moment's thought. He then referred to the services of Col. Burdett, than whom a more earnest, popular, zealous brother could not be found, (hear, hear) a brother who had the happy knack of making and keeping friends, and who devoted a large proportion of his time in promoting the good of the Craft. (Cheers.)

The Prov. Grand Master returned thanks, and said it was with pride he heard the D. Prov. Grand Master say that it was by the free suffrage of the brethren that he had become Prov. Grand Master. He felt as proud as did an uncle of his, Sir Francis, when he was placed at the head of the poll for the county of Middlesex. From the kindness shewn to himself, he might say as his uncle had said, that he was returned as the champion of Middlesex. He had to thank the brethren very sincerely for their kindness to him on all occasions, and for the great hospitality with which they received him. With regard to the discussion to which Bro. Parkinson had alluded, he was glad it had taken place, as he believed it had simplified the question, by submitting it to a committee, who would recommend what they thought was best to be done, and Prov. G. Lodge would decide whether to adopt the recommendation. There was no wish on the part of Grand Lodge to centralize, but merely a desire that the whole of the province should be able to throw in their votes, and so far as the province had the power, to return one or two candidates to the different charities. It was a pleasure to know that they had done some little good that day. They had not met only for the purpose of dining together, and the brethren had evidently felt this when they so readily carried his proposition to give £31 to the Masonic Institutions.

The toast of the "The Visitors" was responded to by Bro. Thomas W. White, P.M. 21, who said he had been exceedingly gratified by what he had seen that day, and that he had no idea that in Enfield they would have got such a superb room to meet in.

Bro. J. C. Parkinson, D. Prov. Grand Master, acknowledged the special toast proposed in his honour, and recommended co-operation on the part of the Prov. G. Officers, for bringing and keeping the province in that position, and rank, in which, as Bro. Fenn had told them, it was entitled to be, from its geographical situation, second only to the Grand Lodge.

Bro. James Terry responded for "The Charities."

Bro. Little proposed "The Provincial Grand Stewards," and Bros. Lindsell and Fythian having replied, the brethren shortly afterwards returned to town.

SUPREME GRAND CHAPTER.

The Quarterly Convocation of Grand Chapter of England, was holden on Wednesday last at Freemasons' Hall.

As usual with the August Quarterly Convocation, it was very thinly attended, but the business nevertheless occupied the companions much longer than is usually the case. Dr. Hamilton sat as Z.; Comp. Hugh D. Sandeman, as H.; and Comp. S. Rawson, as J.

Among the other Comps. were John Savage, who acted as E.; Major J. Creaton, N.; J. A. Rucker, P.S.; Percy Leith, 1st. A.; James E. Saunders, 2nd A.; E. S. Snell, S.B.; F. Pattison, H. Browse, H. G. Buss, Griffiths Smith, F. Binckes, W. Roebuck, C. A. Murton, James Terry, Hyde Pullen, R. Spencer, M'Dodd, Joseph Smith, Major Brownrigg, H. J. P. Dumas, H. Massey (Freemason), and a few others.

After the opening of the chapter, and the reading and confirmation of the minutes, the report of the Committee of General Purposes was taken as read, and ordered to be received and entered on the minutes.

The following is the statement of the accounts of the Grand Chapter for the quarter, as reported by the Committee of General Purposes:—

To Balance 15th April.....	£499 6 0
„ Subsequent Receipts	370 8 6
	£869 14 6

By Disbursements during the Quarter	£153 6 4
„ Purchase of £200 Consols at 93 and Commission, &c.	186 7 6
„ Balance	530 0 8

which balance is in the hands of Messrs. Willis, Percival and Co., Bankers of the Grand Treasurer.

The Committee likewise reported that they had received the following Petitions:—

1. From Companions John Walsh as Z, Paul Antonio Cbarrier as H., I. D. Sharp as J., and ten others, for a Chapter to be attached to the True Brothers Lodge, No. 1215, Dinapore, to be called The St. Paul's Chapter, and to meet at Dinapore, Bengal.

2. From Companions Harry Dawkins Eardley-Wilmot Chester as Z., Gerard Noel Money as H., Charles Hyne as J., and ten others, for a Chapter to be attached to the Mooltan Lodge, No. 1307, Mooltan, to be called the Mayo Chapter, and to meet at Mooltan, Poojal.

3. From Companions Edwin Thomas Atkinson as Z., Henry Gye Porter as H., the Rev. James Baker Morewood as J., and ten others, for a Chapter to be attached to the Lodge Independence with Philanthropy, No. 391, Allahabad, to be called the Sandeman Chapter, and to meet at Allahabad, Bengal.

4. From Companions Edward Stanton Jones as Z., Charles Coote as H., James Weaver as J., and seven others for a Chapter to be attached to the Asaph Lodge, No. 1319, London, to be called the Chapter of Asaph, and to meet at Freemasons' Hall, London.

5. From Companions Thomas Baxton as Z., Joseph Copeland Gillman as H., John Barker as J., and six others, for a Chapter to be attached to the Victoria Lodge, No. 1345, Eccles, to be called the Victoria Chapter, and to meet at the Cross Keys Hotel, Eccles, Lancashire.

On the motion of Comp. J. Savage, seconded by Comp. Joseph Smith, those petitions for charters for new chapters were unanimously granted.

The Committee also reported that they had received a petition—

6. From Comps. John Hamlet Taylor, as Z., Robert Beaumont Fletcher, as H., Thomas Goggins, as J., and seven others, for a chapter to be attached to the Zenith Lodge, No. 1133, Sandhurst, Victoria, to be called "The Zenith Chapter," and to meet at the Masonic Hall, Sandhurst, Victoria.

The petition was regular in form, except that the proposer J. was not registered as a P.M., but subject to proof of that fact, the committee recommended that that prayer of the petition be granted.

The M.E.Z. said, that there was an idea in the colonies that it was not necessary for the Principals of chapters to be P.M.s before they could be installed, and it was no doubt on that account that the petition in this case did not comply with the regulations.

Comp. J. A. Rucker asked whether the petition was to be granted at once, but subject to proof of the J. being a P.M., being sent here.

The M.E.Z. said that was so.

Comp. E. S. Snell wanted to know what the Royal Arch regulations said on the subject, for it was very constantly thought that Principals of foreign chapters need not be Installed Masters.

Comp. Buss referred to regulation No. 2, p. 14, and said there was no doubt they must be P.M.s.

Comp. J. Smith said the law was very strict, and it must be carried out; until the law was repealed they had no option but to reject this petition.

Comp. H. Browse observed that it had been the practice of the Grand Chapter not to grant petitions unless all the facts connected with them were proved in due form. But he did not think they would be doing wrong if they granted this one conditionally. It had been said that the Grand Chapter did not grant petitions conditionally at all, and it had been its custom, whilst there was anything which was not proved, to let the matter stand over. The Committee, however, here was of opinion that the prayer should be granted, and he thought the Grand Chapter should grant it. It was entirely within its power; but the Grand Chapter must now take the onus upon itself, and not the Committee.

Comp. Snell assured the companions that the Grand Chapter could not grant it without first repealing the laws.

Comp. Percy Leith said he thought the Royal Arch regulations made an exception in favour of foreign chapters, and did not require any Past Masters to be Principals.

Comp. Savage:—That is not so. Comp. Snell asked again that the law refer to the matter might be read.

Comp. Savage:—No lodge can form or a chapter unless it has previously obtained charter from the Grand Chapter. The mod application is to be by petition, signed by regular and registered Royal Arch Masons, specifying the place where the lodge meets, and time when, and the place where, the chapter proposed to be holden, also the names of three intended Principals, and the names of numbers of the lodges in which they severally served the office of Master, chapters in which the petitioners were ex must be stated against their respective signat To the petition must be added the consen the lodge.

Comp. F. Binckes asked if there was not a exception in favour of colonial chapters. believed there was.

Comp. Savage said no, but we did not req that the intended Principals should be Masters of lodges under Grand Lodge of E lane. There was an addendum in the reg tions which said "Page 16, art. 8, lines 7 8, strike out the words 'except in the col and add the following words at the end of article:—'But this regulation is not to appl the colonies, where companions not ha served a subordinate office, if otherwise quali shall be eligible to be elected to a Princ chair, and where a regularly Installed Mast a lodge under a foreign constitution shall be eligible to be so elected.'"

Comp. Hamilton then proposed to put motion that the prayer of the petition be gran when Comp. Rawson said he had been under impression that in a foreign chapter any comp ion might be nominated as a Principal, in establishment of a new chapter, without having been a Past Master.

Comp. Sandeman thought there would be doubt as to the reasonableness of allowing co panions, who were not Past Masters, to be no nated as Principals of new chapters in fore parts. In the case of a colonial chapter it v not necessary that a companion should h filled the office of Sojourner or Scribe to qua him for a Principal's chair. But with refer to the case before G. Chapter he would sug that there would be no harm in a little de and that the petition might stand over to be in due form.

Comp. F. Binckes thought that the very F ing of such a resolution would be tantam to expressing the opinion of Grand Chapter no companion but an Installed Master was e ble for the first three chairs in a foreign colonial chapter. If his memory served such qualification had been dispensed with.

Comp. H. J. P. Dumas suggested that G Chapter should have confidence in its Com of General Purposes, and as it had recom the granting of the prayer of the petition recommendation should be given effect to, it might be presumed the Committee had considered the question.

Comp. Hamilton remembered being in chair of the Grand First Principal, when law that only Past Masters or Masters qualified to fill a Principal's chair was rescin and again when the law was passed th foreign parts P.M.'s of lodges not und jurisdiction of Grand Lodge of England sh be eligible for the chair. On the occ referred to by Comp. Binckes when num members spoke, it was carried that Past ters of other than English lodges shou eligible. That carried the first question vi viz., that Principals must be P.M.'s.

Comp. Percy Leith thought Comp. Bincke right, and that companions who were not M of English lodges were allowed to be Princ colonial chapters, for the very reason th did not want to be compelled to go to l under foreign jurisdictions for eligible Princ when we wished to establish chapters in colonies.

Comp. Browse said if the motion wou contrary to the R.A. Regulations it wou setting a bad precedent. He would like it granted, but at the same time he thought the law would have to be altered to enable them to do it. Comp. Savage was afraid that if the petition was deferred a delay of six or nine months would take place.

On a division the petition was rejected by sixteen votes to three.

The Committee also reported that they have received a petition—

7. From Companions John Henderson Scott & Z. John St. Clair as H., George Smith as J., and six others, for a Charter to be attached to the Union Lodge, No. 38, Chichester, to be called the Cyrus Chapter, and to meet at the Council Chamber, Chichester, in the county of Sussex.

The petition was regular in form, except that one of the signatories, exalted in May, of which he had given proof, was not yet registered. The Committee therefore recommended that subject to the companion referred to being registered, the prayer of the petition be granted. The following note was added. "The Companion here referred to has been duly registered since the date of this report."

The Board of General Purposes having called the attention of the Committee to a resolution passed at the Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge on the third of June last, increasing the salaries of the officials in the Grand Secretary's office, of which Grand Chapter, by arrangement, had one-fifth, and inviting the co-operation of Grand Chapter, so far as it was concerned, in that resolution, the Committee recommended Grand Chapter to concur in that resolution. Comp. Savage proposed the adoption of this recommendation.

Comp. Browse in seconding it said he had much pleasure in doing so, because the duties of his office, which were admirably performed, varied much increased of late years. Carried unanimously.

The Grand Scribe E. having submitted a letter which had received from the Grand Registrar of the Grand Chapter of Ireland, with reference to its connection with the degree of Mark Master, the Committee begged to recommend the same to the consideration of the Grand Chapter.

The letter was then read by Comp. Savage. He expressed the desire of the Grand Chapter of England to recognise the Grand Mark Lodge of Ireland, but desiring always to be on the same footing as it is now with the Supreme Grand Chapter of England, and wished first of all to have the views of the Supreme Grand Master.

Comp. Snell proposed, and Comp. F. Binckes seconded, "That the letter be printed and circulated among Royal Arch Companions, and taken into consideration at the next Grand Chapter." The motion was carried nem. con.

Comp. Snell—I hope the Grand Scribe E. will acknowledge the receipt of that letter.

Comp. Buss—He has done so. The motion was then carried to reprint the Regulations as they were out of print.

The motion of Comp. Browse, seconded by Comp. Major Creaton, £1,500 was voted for division among the three Masonic institutions, £500 to the Benevolent Institution, shared equally by the old men and women.

Comp. Sandeman brought up the following report of the Committee's report, which was read at a sitting on the 20th ult., when decided.—

At a special meeting, the Committee, having taken into consideration the proceedings of the Grand Chapter of the 6th of May, 1874,—in relation to the powers of Grand Superintendents in the colonies to grant dispensations for the formation of new chapters,—and the resolution passed thereat, viz:—

That the matter be referred to the Committee of General Purposes, with instructions to consider, report to, and propose at the next meeting of Grand Chapter, such alterations in the laws, if any, or addition to the authority of the Grand Scribe, as they may think it proper for the Grand Chapter to make in reference to the formation of new chapters in districts remote from the home country.

The Committee recommend that the regulations passed at the meeting of the 7th of May, 1873, viz:—

"In a Province or District for which a Superintendent is appointed, the Petition must first be transmitted to him for his recommendation or opinion, but such Superintendent shall have no power to authorize the temporary working of any Chapter pending the transmission of such Petition to England, the consideration thereof, and report thereon by the General Committee, and grant of a Charter in consequence by the Grand Chapter," be repealed, and that the following law be substituted, and form Article 3, page 15, of the Royal Arch Regulations, viz:—

3. "That so far as relates to the formation of new Chapter in the Colonies and Districts remote from England, the M.E. the First Grand Principal is authorized in such cases as he may think fit, to grant by Patent the same power to district Grand Superintendents in reference to the granting of dispensations for the formation of new Chapters, as that which the W.M. Grand Master exercises in regard to District Grand Masters for the formation of new lodges, subject at all times to a petition for a Charter, being submitted to, and being finally approved by the Supreme Grand Chapter."

In bringing it before Grand Chapter, Comp. Sandeman referred to the discussion which took place on the subject at the last meeting of Grand Chapter, and to the discussion which followed thereon. He also repeated the statements as to the difficulties which were experienced in the colonies in establishing chapters where Companions were far separated from each other, and only met in anything like numbers on some great occasion. At these times a chapter could be easily established, but if it was not done at that particular time the chances were it would not be done at all.

Comp. Ransom seconded the motion, which was then put and carried.

Comp. Hamilton—Before we go off this subject I might perhaps throw out a suggestion to the Committee of General Purposes that when they are considering these laws again it will be as well to assimilate in every respect the Grand Superintendents to the District Grand Masters; because it is at present held that the Grand Superintendent cannot delegate his powers to anyone. When I left Jamaica the papers used to be sent to me which I thought could be signed by my Second Principal. I do not see why a First Principal should not be able to delegate his powers to the second in command, in the same way as in the Craft, a Prov. Grand Master can delegate his powers to the Deputy Provincial Grand Master. This I throw out for the consideration of the Committee.

Comp. Savage—we will consider it.

The Grand Chapter was then formally closed and adjourned.

Masonic Tidings.

The Times states, as is seen below, that the prohibition against Freemasonry has been withdrawn in Austria—

"A Vienna Paper states that the prohibition of Freemasonry in Austria has been repealed."

The Daily News, on the contrary, states that "It is officially announced that the petition of the Freemasons requesting permission to establish lodges in Austria has been definitively refused."

When doctors differ who can agree? Perhaps some German Brother can enlighten us.

We have received the programme for the reception of Bro. H.R.H., the Prince of Wales, on Friday, August 14th, at Plymouth. We trust that it may lead to a most successful and satisfactory grand assembly.

We are a little surprised to note that the two Provincial Grand Lodges of Devon and Cornwall should officially style themselves "The United Grand Lodges" of Devon and Cornwall.

There are 43 Grand Lodges in the United States; besides these there are five in North America: Canada, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and British Columbia, making in all 48, with 8,646 lodges, and 554,758 members.

Bro. W. B. Burrell's interesting photograph has been received with many thanks.

FREEMASONRY IN NEW SOUTH WALES.

SYDNEY LODGE OF AUSTRALIA, 390, E.C.—This "senior" Lodge of the colonies held its ordinary meeting on Tuesday, the 7th April, as Monday was a holiday. In the unavoidable absence of the W.M., James Faulkner Marshall, P.M. Selfe, with his usual ability, filled the chair. Five candidates were accepted and one was withdrawn, in consequence of the absence of the proposer. Two candidates were initiated, and the ceremony was performed very impressively. Twelve pounds were voted to "an old Mason," and the same amount was cordially given to an aged widow of a brother. After "labour," the brethren adjourned to the refreshment room, when the Junior Warden superintended the Craft to the satisfaction of all the brethren. A most enjoyable evening was spent, and the brethren, though loth to separate, retired at a reasonable hour. This lodge held its ordinary meeting on Monday, 5th May, the W.M. in the chair. Three candidates were accepted, and four initiated, and two were passed to the F.C. Degree.

ROBERT BURNS LODGE OF AUSTRALIA, No 817, E.C.—The regular monthly meeting took place on May 11th, pursuant to summonses, and was opened by Bro. P.M. Cassidy, in the absence of the W.M., at ten minutes to eight o'clock. Minutes of the previous monthly meeting were read and confirmed. A good muster of members were present, and also a large number of visitors were chiefly invited. The dais was crowded with Past Masters and Grand Lodge Officers, among whom was one reverend brother from Ballarat, Victoria. At the conclusion of the reading of the minutes, the W.M. entered the lodge, took the chair, and explained the cause of his being late. The ballot for a joining member was deferred to the next monthly meeting, on account of some inaccuracy in the proposition. Three candidates were balloted for and elected, one of whom, together with one previously balloted for, but who had been unable to attend at the previous meeting, were introduced and regularly initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry, according to ancient usage; Bro. P.M. Cassidy delivered the charge, and Bro. P.M. Webster, a visitor, explained the first tracing board. Letters were read from various correspondents, and commented on, as likewise a circular from the Secretary of a committee formed to establish a General Lodge of instruction. The claims of this lodge on the body of Freemasons, under the English Constitution, in the City, were ably advocated by Bros. P.M.'s Cassidy and Mitchell. It was decided that such a lodge was essential, and should be supported by this lodge. On the motion of Bro. J. W. Cohen, seconded by Bro. P.M. Charlton, Bros. P.M. Mitchell and S. W. Isaacs were elected delegates of this lodge to represent it at the General Lodge of Instruction. The following notice of motion was then given by Bro. P.M. Charlton, and seconded by Bro. P.M. Mitchell, "That the sum of £3 3s. be voted as the subscription of this lodge for the present year to the General Lodge of Instruction." This being the whole of the business, the lodge closed in peace and harmony at 12 p.m. The brethren and visitors were then entertained at a banquet, elegantly provided by Bro. Cripps; a happy hour was spent, and all retired highly pleased with the way the evening was passed.

LODGE WOOLLOOMOOLOO, No. 386, S.C.—Monthly meeting, Monday, April 27th, 1874. The lodge opened at 7.50 p.m., in the first or E.A. degree. There was a good attendance of officers, members, and visitors. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, two candidates were examined in the first or E.A. degree, after which the lodge was opened in the second or F.C. degree, and the brethren were duly passed as F.C. Freemasons, and the F.C. Lodge was lowered to the E.A. degree. A letter was received from a brother, thanking the lodge for assisting him when in distressed circumstances. There being no further business the lodge closed in peace and harmony at 9.50 p.m.

THE HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY, FROM ITS ORIGIN TO THE PRESENT DAY.

BY J. G. FINDEL,

Second Edition, Revised, and Preface written by

Bro. D. MURRAY LYON.

One vol., 800 pages 8vo., with an Index. Cloth gilt. Price, 10s. 6d.

"This book is a strictly historical one, from which all is excluded that is not based upon ascertained or probable fact."—Builder.

"Of its value to Freemasons, as a detailed history of their Brotherhood, it is not possible to speak too highly."—Public Opinion.

"The author seems to have fairly exhausted the subject."—The Athenaeum.

"The edition we are now considering is a second English edition, which had the great advantage of Bro. D. M. Lyon's able superintendence and editorship in its English dress. There can be no doubt but, that so far, Bro. Findel's work is the most complete work on Freemasonry which has yet appeared, and that he deserves the greatest credit for his careful and accurate treatment of all evidence on the subject, and for his honest desire after truth. Bro. Findel gives up in the view he has so clearly and consistently put forth our early Masonic history, the older theory of the Roman Colleges, &c., and limits the origin of Freemasonry to about the twelfth century, and as then arising from the operative Masons, and specially the "Steinmetzen" and "Bauhütten" of Germany. Bro. Findel gives us a good deal of evidence on this head, and one thing is clear from his work, that the German Freemasons were, at a very early period, organized into lodges with a Master over them, and with outward regulations and inner ceremonies peculiar to the Craft. Bro. Findel rejects all the views which have been from time to time put forward of a Templar or a Rosicrucian origin. Whether or no Bro. Findel's theory of the date of the rise of Freemasonry be correct, matters very little: we do not ourselves profess to accept it; but this we can fairly say of Bro. Findel's work, it is marked from first to last by the most remarkable token of industry, ability, and care, of patient research, and of skilful criticism. We know of no work which so clearly sets before us our amount of knowledge up to the present time on the great question of Masonic Archaeology, and there can be little doubt that what Preston's work is to English Freemasonry, Findel's work is to cosmopolitan Freemasonry. Indeed no student in Masonry can now dispense with it, and it is a perfect storehouse both of Masonic evidence and Masonic illustrations. We earnestly recommend all the lodges in this country to obtain a copy for the lodge library before the work is bought up for America; and we believe that no Mason will rise from the perusal of its pages without a higher idea both of the historical truth and intrinsic value of Freemasonry, and of fraternal regard and recognition to the latest and not the least well-informed or effective of our Masonic historians. The present century has produced no such equal, in authority and usefulness, to the great work of our Bro. Findel, and we wish him and it, in all of fraternal sympathy and kindly intent, many earnest readers, and more grateful students."—The Masonic Magazine.

"This volume is the history of Masonry par excellence. Every interested person may regard it, therefore, as the present text-book on the subject."—Manchester Guardian London: GEORGE KENNING, 198, Fleet Street.

LABOURS FOR FREEMASONRY.

There is hardly a day passes over our heads but we hear of some old friend and brother Mason leaving the phalanx, falling out by the way, so to say, sometimes overborne by years or sorrows, to whom rest comes as a glad ending to many Masonic labours, or to the honest soul "weary with the march of life." Very few people are at all aware, and even very few Masons seem to realize, how very great sometimes are the sacrifices some of our good brethren make for Masonry, and for the Order. We seem to think it a very easy thing, as it is a very common thing, to see the brethren assembled in the lodges for private work, or in the provincial meeting, or at some Masonic ceremony, or at Grand Lodge communications. We hear their well-known voices, we listen to their cheering words, we are delighted with their admirable work, and we are impressed with their Masonic eloquence. We little think perhaps, as we seldom know, how many sacrifices that worthy Brother and Past Master has made to be there, to fulfil his appointment, to keep his promise in order to help, or influence, or delight his brethren. It may be he has left a struggling family at home, and made a long journey, at an expense he could ill afford, to give pleasure to an ephemeral meeting, which separates, as if it was all right, and the most natural thing in the world, that that well-known brother should come all that long distance for their satisfaction and behoof. They put it down to zeal for Freemasonry, and talk of him as a worthy and zealous Mason. And all the while it may be a grave question of prudence, whether, poor fellow, he ought to have been at all, whether that money, so ill wanted at home, did not properly belong "a priori" to his wife and children, whether he was justified in taking long a journey, and incurring such expense merely to add éclat to a lodge gathering, or to a crowded room with an eloquent after-dinner speech. Many a good brother of ours, who have known in days of earnest work of all kinds, has often, as we know, made many sacrifices, put himself much about, (though proud to complain of the burden), in order that the brethren might not be disappointed, in order that the programme might be duly carried out. Now we may lay it down as an axiom, incontestable that no one can travel about the world without much expense of money and time, and that there are a great many brethren of ours whose time and talents are freely offered to the service of the brethren, whom such inevitable charges are alike a burden and a serious consideration. Many a zealous earnest Mason goes on working to the last, speaking here, lecturing there, reanimating old, and cheering the young, and all the while amid the comfort, and even splendour of banquets, his thoughts must revert to home, who, after all, have the first claim upon him, and are leading a life of very strict self-denial and even privation at home. We have been led into these thoughts, having had several similar cases, brought before our notice in the years that are past, by the report of the proceedings of the Hampshire Provincial Grand Lodge, by which it appears that our excellent Brother Stebbing's widow and family are left in comparatively indigent circumstances. We feel that the fact needs only to be generally known to the Craft, both in England and south of the Trent to ensure a considerable amount of sympathy and aid. Stebbing's exertions for Freemasonry have been many and great. In his own Hampshire province, and indeed everywhere, his Masonic worth was admired and his Masonic worth was appreciated. That, after his long and active Masonic life, and as a business man, the labours of a long life, he should not prospered, must be a matter of deep regret to every reflecting mind, as to very few men have been given that remarkable combination of commercial excellence, great industrial energy, united with unswerving honesty, integrity, and lightened up with a kind disposition and a "bonhomme" of character which endeared him to his friends, and armed his foes, if he had any. We are therefore, be extremely glad to hear that outside the Hampshire province, a meeting is at once commenced, to assist Hampshire brethren in their laudable efforts to assist the widow and orphans lamented and valued Bro. Stebbing.

MASONIC PERSONALITIES.

It has long been a reproach to Freemasonry that its professed representatives by publication, especially in other days, allowed so much of personality always to intrude into pages given up to the teachings and principles of a peaceful and kindly brotherhood. It seems a strange fact in itself, yet not strange when we look back on the course of the world and of human thought and individual opinion, that all subjects treated on in the pages of Masonic journals, should not be free from personalities in every respect. As a general rule The Freemason has been singularly free, on the whole, from any such imputation; but even in some of the letters which have appeared, it might have been better, perhaps if the Masonic censor's pen had been editorially applied to several passages of questionable propriety, personally. But all who have to conduct a journal like this know the real difficulty of any such repressive process. We live in a land of free life and free enquiry, and are lovers of fair dealing and fair play, and were the editor to interfere between two angry combatants, as the foolish man did between an infuriated husband and wife, (shocking fact in itself), he would inevitably receive the reward of such interference; he would be condemned and attacked by both. In fact he would be in the position of amiable Mr. Pickwick, between the indignant Pott and the irascible Slurk. We should never hear the ast of "unauthorised excision," "garbled letters," "suppressed passages," "indefensible treatment," in all that glory of inverted commas, and fiery denunciation with which our "feeble oracles" would soon fill our crowded pages. So all we can do is to counsel a general abstinence from personalities, from imputing motives, from insinuating objects, from all that plethora of venueless incrimination and invective which weaken instead of strengthening, disfigure instead of improving, so many of the writings, so many of the writers, Masonic and non-Masonic, of the day. We shall henceforth exclude anything like actual personalities from our pages, noting the fact, and stating the reason, in all of the correspondence which appears weekly in The Freemason. But we can do no more than this! It is a little difficult to lay down an absolute rule, as to what is and what is not personality. Some people may call that "scurrilous," which is, after all, only fair criticism. Some may deem that "personality," which, after all, is only scholarly opposition, for we must bear in mind we have to deal with some very peculiar correspondents. We have the dogmatic, the self-satisfied, the self-laudatory, the impatient, the intolerant, who are sometimes somewhat difficult subjects, while we have those who trade upon a very little, and give less, and expect everyone to submit to some untenable tum, and who yet only show most conclusively to the true scholar, and the competent critic, how, in that one only sense, Pope's line runs, which runs, "a little learning is a dangerous thing." For they at once fall into the hands of those who understand the subject, who have died it "ab origine," and who cannot allow wantonness or superficiality, to impose on the credulous or the careless. Hence they sometimes treat their opponents a little roughly, driving them from pillar to post. No doubt the "victim" considers it personality. But it is not personality in its true sense, it is honest and well-considered criticism. For, as "truth" is the great object of all enquiry, no one has a right to propound hopeless and untenable theories, and proclaim them to be truth and expect every one to "vail his bonnet," and give assent. If so, honest criticism must be silent, and true knowledge must give way to the idle lucubrations of the incompetent and the sciolist. We must always, therefore, allow a wide margin, in archaeological controversies, as though we, in 1874, have not yet outlived the age of "fables," of "crude fancies," and of "unverified quotations and statements." We think, too, that a little more forbearance should be shown in all discussions and pamphlets, as regards Craft Masonry and the High Grades. It is not right, because we do not approve of the High Grades, for instance, to condemn their proceedings, or to cavil at their ways, to call hard names, and impute bad motives. Neither is it right for High Grade Masons to speak disparagingly of Craft Masonry or to assume any superior station or position. Craft Masonry and the High Grades can co-exist, and ought to co-exist in all of brotherly forbearance and good will. We do not agree in aims or end, it is true, but we must agree to differ, and we can surely demonstrate to others, that our true principles are best illustrated not by words of bitterness or antagonism, but by the deeds of benevolence, sympathy, charity and good will. Some of us will be content to remain, as we have ever been, only Craft Masons, because it is the very universality of our Order which commends itself to our personal support, and dispassionate judgment. Others of us see much of good and utility in the High Grades. So be it! Let us go on our way, treating each other with mutual respect and good will, and we shall see less of Masonic personality, and more, happily, we believe, a good deal more, of Masonic kindness and brotherly love amongst us all.

Culturum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

I think that "A Masonic Enquirer" has done good service by his letter. I hope that the "points" he alludes to may be cleared up by Bro. Paton, though, to say the truth, they all, or most of them, at any rate, belong to the good old period of unverified statements and un-historic traditions. If they are no more well-founded than the so-called Locke letter, I fear they are all in jeopardy as historical facts. For the greatest doubts exist, I believe, as regards the so-called "Locke MS." The fact that the latter existed in MS. was, for the first time, stated in The Freemason a week or two ago, by a contributor to Notes and Queries, and that MS. is in Essex's handwriting, and if so, cannot be earlier, by any possibility, than the middle of last century. Essex may have copied it from a manuscript copy, though that copy, if it ever existed, is now unknown, but he probably copied it from the printed version of it, which appeared in more than one Masonic publication. Of Mr. Locke's letter, appended, the original has never been seen, and at the present time, though it cannot be said, perhaps absolutely, that it is a forgery, we have no satisfactory evidence as yet of its genuineness. It clearly is not a reliable document therefore, in any Masonic controversy.

SLIPSHOD TERMINOLOGY.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

I see in your last Freemason, a report of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Hampshire in which it is called by more than one speaker and by the Provincial Grand Master, himself the highest authority there, the "Grand Lodge," "this Grand Lodge," etc. I hope your readers will not deem me hypercritical when I point out this little "erratum," and whether it comes from the reporter, or the brethren who spoke, it is a careless use of words, and deserves to be checked and commented upon.

Some time ago, the Yorkshire Provincial Grand Lodge of Mark Masters styled itself the "Provincial Grand Lodge of West Yorkshire," which, however, was properly animadverted upon at the time by a Yorkshire Provincial brother, and I think you will accord me space to permit me to submit my little fraternal criticism to day, and my protest against this slipshod terminology on the part of our good Hampshire brethren.

I am, dear sir and brother, yours fraternally,

PARTICULAR P.M.

LODGE BYE-LAWS.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

I wish to ask you a question on Masonic Law, if it is not too much trouble to insert it in The Freemason, to which I have been for some years a subscriber.

No. 3 of the bye-laws of the lodge, of which I am for many years a member, states:—That the Master, Treasurer and Tyler shall be annually nominated in February, and ballotted for in March, and this bye-law has been acted on ever since the lodge had existence. Bye-law No. 22, states—That any brother wishing to propose any alteration or addition to the bye-laws, shall give notice to that effect, at the regular meeting previous to that at which the proposal is to be taken into consideration, and notice of particulars of such propositions shall be inserted in the summonses convening the meeting at which it has to be put to the vote.

The Master, being on a visit to a sister lodge, heard a letter read from Grand Secretary, who said that such a method of electing a Master, was contrary to the constitutions.

At the next regular meeting of his lodge, the Master told the brethren present, what he had heard read at the sister lodge.

It was then proposed "as an unopposed motion," that so far as the election of Master was concerned, No. 3, should be expunged.

Question.—Can bye-law No. 3, be expunged by unopposed motion, in direct opposition to bye-law No. 22.

I am, yours fraternally,

M.M.

[We are of opinion, that bye-law No. 3 being clearly, as the Grand Secretary states, contrary to the Book of Constitutions, is ipso facto, bad per se! And though undoubtedly the more regular way would have been to have acted in conformity with bye-law 22, yet if bye-law 3 was radically unconstitutional, the lodge probably exercised a very wise discretion in expunging it at once, from the bye-laws, where it ought never to have been.

The same objection clearly applies to the election of Treasurer and Tyler.—Ed.]

FREEMASONS AND GOOD TEMPLARS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

IF M.M. has expressed himself correctly in his communication in your last issue, he has entirely mistaken the scope and aims of Freemasonry.

He surely knows sufficient of Freemasonry not to need to be told that a member of any society or sect is at liberty to become a Freemason, under the usual conditions, and if he had ever read our Book of Constitutions he would be aware that the idea of a Good Templar "attending the usual Masonic banquets, as such," even though he be a Freemason, is contrary both to the spirit and letter of the Order.

It is a matter for congratulation to Masons who are not given to hatching such wild notions as those of M.M., to know that the interests of their Order are sufficiently well guarded by Grand Lodge to prevent the concoction of any such anomalous abortion as "A Good Templar Lodge of Freemasons."

What M.M. means by "receiving Good Templars with open arms," it is difficult to discover, since, he admits the "large-heartedness of Masonry, which makes no distinction."

One of two things is certain, either M.M. has failed to master the simplest elementary principles of Freemasonry, or has not the faculty of expressing his meaning in plain English.

I am yours fraternally.

KEYSTONE.

SERMON.

BY REV. W. R. COUSINS, D.D., PROV. GRAND CHAPLAIN, VICAR OF DUDLEY.
Preached before the Pro. G. Lodge of Worcester-shire, 23rd June, 1874.

"This commandment have we from Him, That he who loveth God love his brother also."—I. St. John iv., 21.

Living in the middle of the nineteenth century, and casting our thoughts back over the rapidly passing period of four thousand years; we are almost forced to the unwelcome conclusion that arts and sciences have not been co-extensive in their development with the progress of revelation and inspiration.

Mighty nations of antiquity reared in their midst gigantic marvels of architectural beauty, which attest, even now, to the existence of master minds, planning and executing, by a wondrous combination of mechanical appliance and artistic skill, models of beauty, and monuments of graceful execution. Heliopolis, Thebes, and Karnak, Palmyra, Baalbeck, and Nineveh; and then, Corinth, and Athens, and Rome, speak from amid their ruins of one great principle which was underlying the varied systems of various nations; that principle was the worship of the Deity, and the cultivation of science. There was a dominant idea,—always differing, yet always carrying its grain of truth,—the characteristic of each leading nation of antiquity. The Persian might live on romance; the Assyrian might bend low before his monarch, as vice-gerent of the Gods; the Egyptian might mix, with all his musings, the intimate, never absent, thought of death; yet the Hiero-Laotomi, or sacred builders, the theocracy of Egypt, initiated, and then carefully guarded those principles which were connected with astronomy, astrology, and geometry; and which, in after years became to Solomon the basis of that pure Theism, of which he wrote, and in honour of which he erected that magnificent shrine at Jerusalem.

True, Brethren, it is in vain that we ask Baalbec's gorgeous domes, Palmyra's boasted temples, or Egypt's proud pyramids, who their mighty founders were. But the volume of the Sacred Law confirms the statements of Homer and Herodotus, as to the wonderful civilization of the Phœnicians, whose cities were the emporia of commerce, and whose people were noted for scientific knowledge and skill; while from the architectural monuments in the deserts of Egypt, and the mighty remains of the cities of the East, we turn to that colossal edifice on Salisbury Plain, speaking at once of the rude artificer, but also of the mighty engineering skill, and the geometrical plan, which raised such a temple, though all unworthily, to the worship of the sun. It is not my intention to turn a sermon, limited in length,—into a mere disquisition on Freemasonry, or into a defence of principles. We brethren of the Craft are alike proud of our antiquity, and conscious of the nobility of our purpose, and are this day sanctifying that purpose by religious ceremony, which shall also help to remind us of that principle, once enunciated in the fields of Egypt, but repeated in all the teaching of the Law, "Sirs, ye are brethren." Yet, since there are always those who, as Ovid writes, "damnant quod non intelligunt," (condemn that they do not understand), I will dwell for a few moments, upon the importance of that system which is of the very essence of Freemasonry, and which helps us to obey, experimentally, the words of my text, "This commandment have we from Him, that he who loveth God love his brother also."

Speculative philosophy has held its way through all ages of the world, whether amid nations purely deistical, or amid idolatrous polytheism, or, as now, side by side with the revelations of Christianity; and let us be thankful for what philosophy has taught in the past, and when united to true religion, for what it teaches now.

Freemasonry, as a system of ethics, originated before the times of direct revelation, can recognise in the simple principles of Zoroaster, before destroyed by Oriental fancies, the great theory—as set forth by Moses in the Pentateuch—the principle of the knowledge of good and evil. Freemasonry, as a system of personal morality, accepts Aristotle's account of the teaching of Pythagoras, as the account of a system that must underlie Christianity itself. "The Pythagoreans," he writes, "were the first who determined anything in moral philosophy. Their ethics were of the loftiest and most spiritual description; virtue was with them a harmony, unity, and an endeavour to resemble the Deity; the whole life of man should be an attempt to represent on earth the beauty and harmony displayed in the order of the universe; the mind should have the body and passions under perfect control. The gods should be worshipped by simple purifications, offerings, and above all, by sincerity and purity of heart." And in a manuscript, preserved in the Bodleian Library, in the handwriting of King Henry VI, it is expressly said, that Pythagoras carried Masonry from Egypt and Syria, and from those countries where it had been planted by the Phœnicians; that the Phœnicians carried it into France; and that it was in the course of time imported from that country into England.

The writings of Solomon, containing as they do the very essence of philosophy, are read by us as portions of the inspired word of God; while the works of Solomon, as the founder of the magnificent temple, overlaid with pure gold, connect architecture with the worship, and that a wondrously ornate worship, of the true God.

Thus do we see architecture and religion blended together in a wondrous harmony; and to Freemasonry has been granted the privilege of retaining and ennobling this harmony of thought; nay, to Freemasons must be granted the fame of having erected those elegant churches and stately cathedrals which stud the continent of Europe; and you, brethren, have recently shown yourselves descendants of those men, by your gifts and presence at the re-opening of, the beautiful Cathedral of this Province. To England has been granted the honour of preserving that fraternity which Roman Pontiffs would have otherwise driven into an ungrateful obscurity.

Religion then, brethren, of olden time, as now, is the basis of this our Order. "And in that awful day when the secrets of all hearts shall be disclosed, the gazing multitude who have curiously inquired our secret, shall be astonished to know that the greatest deep of Masonic secrecy was the unpublished act of doing good. Yes, and when we look upon the numerous guilds and corporations of this land, we remember that, older than them all, in ages long before the gentle influence of Christianity stole into men's hearts, Freemasonry taught that principle so essentially Christian, though so often forgotten in a Christian land; that principle so ably represented by Professor Ruskin, in these words: "Several centuries back the architect who finished the designs did not regard the men who executed them as mere machines, but all worked together with one mind, and nothing greater architecture has been done, save by associated bodies, where all the faculties of mind and hand had been brought out to the utmost."

Brethren, in conclusion, I wish to apply the words of the Apostle of love, though I am assured that none of you need to have them pressed upon you, for true are the words of Arnold, "Freemasonry is a moral Order, instituted by virtuous men, with the praiseworthy object of recalling to our remembrance the most sublime truths, in the midst of the most sublime pleasures, founded on liberality, brotherly love, and charity."

In modern Masonry we still read our duty in the light of those principles which guided our fathers of the time of Solomon.

The thought in my text has been carried into practice by Masons in all time, and comes to us as the commandment of Him who gave the Law to Moses, and repeated it on each of Himself.

Love to God! Love to the Unseen; the Creator, and Artificer of the material and spiritual world. In nothing that we undertake do we forget reverence for the Deity, and gratitude for the blessings of the heaven.

Love to the brethren! and this, because love to God. For charity is a complete and consistent thing. It is not a segment, but a circle. Its affections stream from God, their centre, and all mankind compose their circumference; they go forth, not only in one, but in all directions towards the production of good to others. Brethren, let us seek grace to persevere in every good word and work. By blameless purity of heart and conduct, unstained with sin and sullied with vice, let us be examples to our brethren. There is abundance of suffering humanity in this world of weariness and sorrow, beckoning to us for sympathy and help. Know no distinction of Samaritan and Jew, nor of nation nor religion. Ours is the Royal Law. Royal, but Cosmopolitan—Love to be tested by love to man—Masonry, then, to promote the social happiness of mankind in this world, by the practice of moral virtues. Oh, let us, brethren, never mention the Name of God, but with that awe and reverence which is due from the creature to the Creator. Let us render to our neighbour every kind office of justice or mercy may require, relieving his distresses and soothing his afflictions; thus using the talents wherewith God has blessed us as well to His glory, as to the welfare of fellow-creatures. Then, when Faith has been sight, and Hope, fruition, Love will lead us to the eternal city, to be, each of us, a pillar in the glorious temple in that new Jerusalem where the Great Artificer shall rule and be worshipped by His faithful sons for ever and Amen.

And now to the Mighty Architect of the Universe be ascribed all praise, and worship and adoration, now and for evermore.

CONSECRATION OF A CHAPTER PLUMSTEAD.

A new chapter attached to Pattison I. No. 913, was consecrated at the Lord R. Tavern, on Thursday, 16th July. The ceremony was performed in a most able manner by Comp. John Savage, P.G.S.B. of England P.Z.

The petition for the formation of the C. had been signed by Ex. Comps. John G. C. Coupland, and T. W. Knight, and C. Chapman, Denton, McDoogall, Belfield, Jessup, Butters, and Knodel.

The companions having assembled in the chapter-room, the Installing Principal took the chair, and appointed Ex. Comp. Pattison, P.Z., as H., and Ex. Comp. Coupland, as J.; Comp. James Chapman was appointed Scribe E., who addressed the presiding officer, and the latter having replied in most feeling terms, Comp. Chapman read the petition and warrant, after which followed the Oration, which was delivered in a most eloquent and touching manner, by Ex. Comp. Savage. To those of the companions who remember the occasion of the opening of the Pattison Lodge, now some 13 years ago, it was a matter for great congratulation, that this important opening ceremony was conducted by a noble and so genial a friend, and it was the remark of all who had the pleasure of being present on this occasion that it augured well for the prospects of the chapter that he had made a special point to honour the companions by undertaking the task in the unavoidable absence of the Grand Chaplain.

The Anthem (133 Psalm) and Glory God on High, having been sung by Comp. Sherwin, assisted by Bros. Martin and Farquharson, the interesting ceremony of dedicating and constituting the chapter was performed with due solemnity. Excellent Companion John Graydon, P.Z., is installed as Z.; C. Coupland, as H.; T. W. Light, as J.; Comps. James Chapman as Scribe E.; E. Denton as Scribe N.; John McDougall, Principal Sorjourner; Pend, 1st Assistant; Butters, 2nd Assistant; A. sup, Treasurer. These appointments met with the most cordial approval of the Comps. cordial vote of thanks was given to Ex. Comp. Savage for his kindness in coming to inaugurate the chapter, and a proposition that he be elected an honorary member was carried nem.

The occasion was one of more than ordinary importance in consequence of the presence also of Ex-Companion Pattison (who acted as H. on this occasion). It is well known that not only is the freeholder of the estate in this district ring that name, but he is and has always been an ardent supporter of the Pattison Lodge; which is second only in strength and influence in the province of Kent. The occasion was marked by his being the first joining member proposed. The names of Bros. Randall and Coe were then submitted for exaltation and approved. Bro. Barth as a joining member. Comp. M. Sherwin acted as Organist in an able manner. The Installing Officer took occasion to state that he was on the occasion, and with a warm satisfaction he looked upon the honours he had received, and for the strong prospects which he had received of future support, particularly from E. Companion Pattison, whose name is even now well remembered in connection with his zealous support given to the son Lodge when it was in its infancy, who not only seemed highly delighted with the full acknowledgments of his past favours but many present. The chapter having been duly installed, according to ancient custom, the Comps. adjourned to the large Banqueting Room at Lord Raglan, and partook of an excellent served banquet, provided by Bro. Harveymond. The usual toasts having been given, some choice songs having been sung by Companion Sherwin and Bros. Farquharson and Martin, the companions separated at an hour for their respective residences, but before many of them had expressed their gratification at having been spared to see so promising a chapter spring from so excellent a source as the Pattison.

CONSECRATION OF A LODGE AT COATBRIDGE (ST. ANDREWS, NO. 544.)

On Saturday, August 1st, 1874, the districts of Coatbridge and Airdrie were all astir, as it was known that a new Masonic Lodge was to be consecrated, and that afterwards a procession would take place. The time fixed for the commencement of the ceremonies was 8 o'clock, p.m., but before that hour arrived the commodious new hall, which the brethren have obtained, was completely filled, and the Provincial Grand Lodge Officers, who arrived punctually to their time, could hardly find their way to their proper places. In fact the overcrowded state of the hall was the only drawback in the day's proceedings, as nearly 100 brethren could not gain admission to the opening ceremonies.

In the absence of Bro. Merry, the Prov. Grand Master, Bro. J. C. Forrest, the S.P.G.M., very ably officiated. He was supported by Bros. A. Ramsey, P.G.S.W.; J. Mackie, P.G.J.W.; J. Nisbett, P.G.S.; R. J. C. Robertson, M.D.; Acting Chaplain; W. McMurdo, P.G.M. (to whose active exertions a great part of the success of the day must be attributed); H. Schroeder, P.G.D. of Music; W. Forrest, P.G.B.B.; and J. Bryson, P.G.I.G.

Owing to the crowded state of the room the consecrating elements could only be cast just round the altar.

The acting P.G.M. called on Bro. McMurdo to deliver the oration.

Bro. McMurdo, who had been rather suddenly called on to officiate in this capacity, delivered a most excellent oration on the nature and objects of Masonry, which we regret want of space compels us to omit.

The charter having been read, and the brethren present having expressed their satisfaction with the officers named therein, Bro. Alexander Kennedy, the Master nominated, was presented and approved, and thenceforth retired to an ante-room, where he was presented to a board of six Installed Masters, and at the same time eight Past Masters of lodges, who, under the old regulation, had not received the installation degree, were also installed with him. Bro. McMurdo then installed the following as the first officers of the lodge.—John Kennedy, D.M.; J. Knox, S.M.; Joseph Kennedy, S.W.; Jas. Brown, J.W.; R. Stewart, T.; Wm. Neville, Sec.; A. Morley, Chaplain; J. Thorne, S.D.; B. Hodge, J.D.; G. Westwood, S.S.; J. Munro, J.S.; Jas. McCullough, I.G.; and James Jack, Tyler.

The newly-installed Master, in a brief but effective speech, thanked the Prov. Grand Lodge for the honour they had done them by consecrating the lodge and installing him and the other office-bearers of St. Andrews, Coatbridge, No. 544, pledging himself to leave the honour of the lodge untarnished to his successor.

The acting P.G.M. suitably acknowledged the compliment, and proceeded to close the Provincial Grand Lodge.

The new R.W.M. then took his place and opened his lodge in a style which is seldom seen, when, as in this instance, none of the officers had ever before been elected to their respective chairs.

A procession was then formed, under the able direction of Bro. McMurdo, P.G.M., and accompanied by two excellent bands of music and a number of banners, perambulated most of the principal streets.

There were large deputations from most of the lodges in the province notably from No. 7, Hamilton; 31, St. Mary Coltness; 88, New Monkland; 112, Royal Arch, Cambuslang; 106, St. John's, Airdrie; 177, St. James, Old Monkland; 203, St. John's Operative, Airdrie; 305, St. John's, Woodhull; 406, St. John's, Dalziel; from Glasgow province, there were small deputations from 73, Thistle and Rose, and 128, St. John's, Shettleston; there was also a deputation in Arch clothing from the Robert Burns Chapter, 154, Holytown, of which Bro. McMurdo is First Principal. It was headed by O. Meek, Scribe E.

The banquet took place in the same hall, which had been re-arranged during the procession, when about 80 sat down to a substantial repast, for which the march had proved an excellent preparation.

The chair was occupied by the new R.W.M., who was supported by his Depute and Substitute Masters, the Wardens in their proper places. The acting P.G.M., and D. of M., had been compelled to leave, but the rest of the officers were present.

After the cloth had been cleared, the R.W.M. gave "The Queen and the Craft," "The Prince of Wales and Royal Family," "The Three Grand Lodges," and the "P.G. Lodge of Middle Ward of Lanark."

Bro. Robertson, acting Chaplain, replied briefly, and Bro. Nesbit, P.G.S., proposed "The New Lodge, and its R.W.M."

Bro. Kennedy said he felt that a very serious responsibility had been placed upon him, but he would try to act up to the obligation he had that day taken.

Bro. Forrest, P.G.B.B., spoke of the obstacles that had been placed in the way of the new lodge, but from past experience he knew that there was nothing like emulation in a district to keep it healthy, and now the only competition should be who could work best. The R.W.M. gave "The Health of Bro. McMurdo." They all had seen his unwearied exertions that day in every department, and without his assistance he felt their meeting would not have been such a success, he was under deep obligations to him, for Bro. Murdo first gave him the light of Masonry, and it was to him, principally, that he was indebted for the Masonic knowledge he possessed.

Bro. McMurdo said, if Bro. Kennedy was proud of him as his Masonic instructor, he had reason to be proud of his pupil, but as we are all human, he must own that he was getting just a little bit jealous, for he feared the pupil would soon outstep the master, but it was only right that young men should desire to take the places of those who have had to work in the good cause. The Prov. G.M. then left, having some miles to go.

The next toast was the Masonic News and The Freemason. Bro. Adams replied on behalf of the News, and Bro. Wheeler for The Freemason.

The R.W.M. gave "The Visitors." Bro. J. Campbell, R.W.M. of St. John Shettleston, replied. In the course of his remarks he asked what constituted a "Mason," saying it was not the ceremonies gone through, or words learnt by the head, but it was to have implanted in the heart the true tenets of brotherly love, belief, and truth.

Bro. Allen of No. 7, New York, also replied, expressing the pleasure it had given him to be present.

The R.W.M. gave "St. James, 177, the Sister Lodge," and trusted they should work amicably.

Bro. Winn, Sec. 177, replied, assuring them that there many members of 177 that would gladly hail the consecration of 544, and be willing, as he was, to do all that lay in their power to assist them.

Bro. Cameron proposed the Senior and Junior Wardens of 544; these brethren having replied, the lodge was again called to labour, and then closed in harmony.

GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

On Tuesday the 3rd inst., the Quarterly Communication of the Grand Lodge of Freemasons of Scotland was held in their hall, George Street, Edinburgh. In the unavoidable absence of the Most Worshipful Grand Master Mason of Scotland (Sir Michael Stewart, Bart.), the throne was occupied by Bro. J. T. Oswald of Dunnikier, R.W. Substitute Grand Master, supported by Major Hamilton Ramsay of Garion (R.W. Junior Grand Warden), Acting Senior Grand Warden; Bro. F. A. Barrow (V.W. Senior Grand Deacon), acting R.W. Junior Grand Warden; W. Mann, Past Grand Warden; John Laurie, Grand Secretary; William Hay, V.W. Junior Grand Deacon; Captain Colt of Gartscherrie, Grand Sword Bearer; F. S. Melville, President of the Board of Grand Stewards; Daniel Robinson, Grand Bible Bearer; C. W. M. Muller, Grand Director of Music; R. Davidson, Grand Organist; Murdock Mackenzie, Chief Grand Marshal; and W. M. Bryce, Grand Tyler.

(A full Report of the Proceedings will be given in our next,

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The General Committee of the Masonic Boys' School met on the 1st inst., at Freemasons' Hall. Bro. H. Browse, V.P., presided. The other brethren present were, R. Spencer, W. Roebuck, S. Rosenthal, W. Collard Moutrie, Hyde Pullen, John Read, Jesse Turner, E. M. Haig, and Frederick Binckes, (Secretary). A letter from the Marquess of Ripon, G.M., requesting the papers in the "Cluff bequest" to be forwarded to him, as, on account of his leaving town he would be unable to meet Bros. Binckes and Little. A letter from Mrs. Empson was read, in reply to the letter of condolence directed by last General Committee, to be written by Bro. Binckes to her on the death of her husband, the late Bro. Henry Empson. A letter was also read from Bro. Tunnah, Prov. G. Secretary of East Lancashire, informing Bro. Binckes that Bro. Le Gendre N. Starkie, Prov. Grand Master, fully consented to the proposal of Bro. Brockbank, of Bolton to be the general agent and representative, at Bolton of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. Two petitions were received from candidates, one of whom was sent back because he was not able to read. £20 was granted as an outfit to a lad recently in the Institution, and after the transaction of this business the brethren adjourned.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The General Committee of this Institution met on Thursday, the 30th ult., in the library, Freemasons' Hall. Bro. H. Browse, V.P., took the chair, and was supported by Bros. Major Creaton, Thomas W. White, Robt. B. Webster, Richard Spencer, A. H. Tattershall, W. Collard Moutrie, S. Rosenthal, William Stephens, H. Massey, and R. Wentworth Little (Secretary). Three cases of candidates to be placed on the list for election came before the committee, two of which were country cases, and one a London case. The two first were satisfactory, and were ordered to be placed on the list, but in the last, although the girl was eight years of age, she could not read at all. The mother said her daughter could spell the words. On the mother and child retiring, Bro. Browse said it was quite astonishing how parents could so neglect their children's education. Here was a girl eight years old, who knew nothing but her letters. The case was deferred for three months, or until the girl could read. Major Creaton, who then took the chair, as Bro. Browse was compelled to go, said that a rule must be laid down that in every London case a brother from the lodge which recommended it must attend the committee before which it came.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR. Includes an illustration of a bottle and a landscape scene.

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to relieve Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of the remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility at the root of the malady, modern science points to BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true and most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthened system. SELECT TESTIMONIAL. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet" have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and inveterate cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pleurisy, consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthened system. This disease. This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and constitution. Hence it is used with the most success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Catarrhs, Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the chest. Sold in bottles at 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 12s. 6d. by respectable Chemists, and Wholesale by JAS. M. FUND FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE WIDOW OF THE LATE W. BRO. J. R. STEBBING, P.G.D. (ENGLAND) AND D. PROV. G.M.

PRESIDENT.—The Right Worshipful W. W. B. BESCH, M.P., Provincial Grand Master.

At a meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge, recently held at Landport, it was unanimously resolved that a Committee be appointed for the purpose of raising a fund, to provide a suitable memorial to our late deeply-lamented Bro. Stebbing.

In pursuance of the foregoing resolution, a meeting was held at Southampton, which was largely attended, when the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:—

"That the Lodges and Chapters of the Province and Freemasons generally be solicited to subscribe to a fund, to be appropriated as the Committee shall determine, for the benefit of the Widow of our late lamented Bro. J. R. Stebbing, whose circumstances at the time of his decease render this appeal absolutely necessary."

"That copies of these resolutions be forwarded to each Lodge and Chapter in the Province, inviting their co-operation, as well as that of Brethren and Companions generally, to obtain subscriptions to the fund."

"That a circular stating the circumstances be also transmitted to all other Lodges and Chapters in England."

The name of the late Bro. J. R. Stebbing is well known in all Masonic circles that it is unnecessary to set forth at length his long and valuable services. For many years he was a constant attendant at Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter, assisting the interests of the Brethren and Companions. He was Vice-President of the Board of General Purposes in 1861, 1862 and 1863, and also an active member of the Building Committee of the present Masons' Hall, London.

He was rarely absent from the elections in various Charities, giving his valuable aid to the poor and distressed amongst the brethren and their relatives, contributing from his means to the advancement of those charities, in which he had qualified as Vice-Patron of the Boys' School, Life Governor of the Girls' School, and Governor of the Benevolent Institution; it is sincerely hoped that the Widow of one so actively engaged for the benefit of the poor (herself a Life-Governor of the Boys' School) should be placed in circumstances which will assist her in her present unexpected bereavement.

Subscriptions in aid of this fund may be sent to the Treasurer, Aldermoor House, Southampton; or to his bankers, Messrs. Gurney, Atherly, Hankinson, and Darwin, Southampton.

W. HICKMAN, Treasurer.

J. E. LE FEUVRE, Secretary.

SUTTON.—Frederick Lodge of Unity (No. 452).—The August regular meeting of the Frederick Lodge of Unity was held on the 4th inst., at the Station Hotel, Sutton, and was presided over by the W.M., Bro. A. J. Dickinson. Among other brethren who were present were Bros. W. S. Masterman, S.W.; J. W. Sugg, J.W.; James Robins, P.M. and Treasurer; Magnus Ohren, P.M. and Secretary. P.P.G. Warden for Surrey; George Wright, S.D.; N. J. Jeffery, J.D.; H. E. Frances, D.C.; Edward W. Sagg, Organist; Charles H. Edwards, I.G.; Wm. Sugg, P.M.; Samuel H. Christmas, Charles M. Ohren, R. J. Bell, F. A. Manning, Edward Ohren, and J. W. Gray. Bro. M. Sharpe, 197, was also present as a guest. After the reading and confirmation of the minutes of the former meeting, Bro. Manning was raised to the third degree. Bros. Charles M. Ohren, and H. Christmas were passed to the second degree. Bro. Edward Ohren, late of lodge Liberta e Progresso, Cagliari, under the Italian Constitution, having been balloted for as a joining member and unanimously elected, was passed to the second degree by his father, Bro. Magnus Ohren. Messrs. George Christie, of Perry Hill, and John Wm. Gray, C.E., of 16, Southampton-buildings, Chancery-lane, were successfully balloted for and initiated. The following motion, by Bro. Magnus Ohren, of which notice had been given, was then brought in by that brother, and carried nem. con.—"That Bros. F. A. Manning, A. J. Dickinson, W.M., and George Wright, S.D., having given their names as willing to serve the office of Steward to represent this lodge at the three Masonic Festivals for 1875, viz:—For the Royal Masonic Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, Bro. Manning, for the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, Bro. A. J. Dickinson, W.M.; and the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, Bro. George Wright, S.D.; that the sum of £5 be given from the funds of the lodge to be put on Bro. Manning's list, and that £5 5s. be given from the funds of the lodge for Bro. Dickinson's list, and the like sum for Bro. Wright's list, for the respective Institutions for which they serve the office of Steward, and that the Treasurer be instructed accordingly." The Treasurer's (Bro. James Robins) report, which was read, stated the balance in hand to the credit of the lodge on the 31st ult., at £61 17s. 3d. Some letters of apology from absent brethren were afterwards read, and the lodge then closed. The brethren afterwards partook of an excellent banquet.

WEST DERRY.—Pembroke Lodge (No. 1299).—The annual summer festival of the members of this lodge, which holds its meetings at West Erby, near Liverpool, took place on Thursday, the 6th inst., and pleasant weather, a well selected and charming locality for the days' out, and a company which started with the determination of making the day enjoyable, all went to make the Pembroke picnic of 1874, the most pleasant of the series. The arrangements, which were of the most satisfactory nature, were entrusted to the following committee:—Bros. Thomas Marsh, P.M., P. Prov. D. of C. West Lanc.; Wm. Crane, P.M.; J. M. S. Vines, P.M.; J. Sellar, P.M.; Wm. Jones, P.M.; Richard Bennett, H. Liversage, P.M.; Aspinall, Alex. Jones, Wm. Avis, J. Capell,

A. E. Kirkpatrick, Lonsdale, W. S. Bennett, Wm. Brown, Hiles, Stonewehr, Frank Moss, Boston. Bro. Joseph Clegg, P.M., was the Master of Ceremonies, Bro. A. T. Smith, Secretary, and Bro. Macmaldrow, W.M., Treasurer. In consequence of excellent generalising as to trains, boats, provisions, &c., there was not the slightest hitch during the whole of the long summer day's trip, special praise being due to Bro. Macmaldrow, W.M., for his exertions, to Bro. J. Clegg, the I.P.M., M.C. who was the very essence of courtesy and industry, and all the other members of committee deserve the greatest credit, being admirably assisted by a strong and willing band of Stewards. The spot selected for this year's holiday, was the grounds of the Rope Ferry Hotel, near Eaton, a charming spot on the banks of the River Dee, nearly five miles from the ancient city of Chester, and two from the Duke of Westminster's famous mansion of Eaton Hall. The weather was of the most enjoyable nature, and if it had been specially ordered, like the other et ceteras of the pic-nic, it could not have been better suited for the day's outing. The Pembroke party, numbering nearly 100 ladies and gentlemen, started from Lime-street station, Liverpool, in the morning, a large saloon, and other first-class carriages being specially allotted to them. They arrived in Chester about noon, and were soon on their way to Aikman's Gardens in the Groves, where several large barges were in readiness to convey them up the Dee. The row on the river was one of the most pleasant features of the day's excursion, for while the sturdy oarsmen plied themselves to their task, music meanwhile brightened the journey, and many a joke made the welkin echo with the silvery laughter of the ladies, and the more sober audible smile of the gentlemen. The Rope Ferry was reached, about half-past one, and shortly afterwards the whole party, with appetites sharpened by the "sea voyage," sat down to a capital dinner, provided by Bro. Bolland, of Chester. The volunteer stewards did the "state some service," which deserved to be honourably mentioned. No time was wasted in formal speechmaking, and the pic-nickers at once proceeded to seek enjoyment in the way most congenial to his or her individual taste. Many proceeded in the barges up the Dee to the Iron Bridge, where they landed and strolled through the magnificent gardens and grounds of the Duke of Westminster; others crossed the ferry and walked through the meadows to the Hall, whilst others remained at the Rope Ferry, and enjoyed themselves with dancing and other pleasant pastimes. At six o'clock tea was served up on a long range of tables laid out in the open air, on the margin of the river. This over, dancing and outdoor amusements were resumed till about half-past seven, when the signal was given for returning. All were soon in the barges and other boats, and the party started back for Chester in the cool of a most delightful summer evening, the playing of the musicians and many excellent songs greatly adding once more to the enjoyment of the party. Chester was reached about nine o'clock, and as the return train did not start till 10-15 p.m., many of the ladies and gentlemen took a quiet stroll through the quaint "rows" of the old city. All mustered in good time at the station, the train started punctually, and Liverpool was reached about half-past eleven o'clock. Others than "mystics" were allowed to join the party, and amongst the visiting brethren were—Bros. T. Page, 823; Carlisle, 823; J. Vaughan, S.D. 86; Smallwood, 823; D. W. Winstanley, P.M. 1094; T. G. Winstanley, 1094; Healing, J.W. 1041; &c.

DALTON-IN-FURNESS.—Baldwin Lodge (No. 1398).—On Friday, July 31, 1874, the brethren of this lodge assembled to take part in the august ceremony of the installation of the Worshipful Master elect. Amongst the members there were present Bros. Pearson, P.G.P.; John Case, P.M.; James Postlethwaite, W.M.; H. Horn, S.W.; F. C. Clarke, J.W.; R. Blake, Secretary; F. Bell, Treasurer; J. Walton, S.D.; F. Grieve, J.D.; Rev. J. M. Morgan, Chaplain; F. Hosking, Organist; F. Atkinson, S.S.; C. Godby, J.S.; W. Dazell, I.G.; F. Cooper, Tyler; John Hartley, Sec. 995, and 1398; Geldart, Matthews, I.P.M. 995; Francis Postlethwaite, John Geldart, and Joseph Rawlinson. The visitors were Bros. R. Dodgson, W.M. 995, and 1398, P.P.G.S.B.C. and W.; John Mills, W.M. 1398, P.G.S.W. C. and W.; Thomas Dodgson, P.M., 995, 1398, and P.G. Steward of C. and W.; and Bros. Hooker, Eckersley, Mann, Haslam, McKnight, Taylor, W. Waiting, Meredith, F. C. Warne, Kitchen, Parker, and Harper. The officers elect for the ensuing year are as follows:—Bros. William Whiteside, I.P.M.; James Postlethwaite, W.M.; Wm. Horn, S.W.; Francis Clark, J.W.; John Case, I.P.M.; Frederick Bell, Treasurer; Robert Blake, Secretary; John Walton, S.D.; Thomas Grieve, J.D.; Wm. Dazell, I.G.; Frederick Atkinson, S.S.; Christopher Godby, J.S.; and Thomas Cooper, Tyler. The installation ceremony was impressively performed by Bro. Reuben Pearson, Prov. G.P., and P.M. of the lodge, assisted by Bro. Roger Dodgson, P.P.G.S.B. C. and W.; and Bro. Case, P.M. After the W.M., Bro. J. Postlethwaite, had been duly installed, the members adjourned to the banquet, which was held at the Wellington Hotel, Dalton, Bro. Bell, the caterer, served up a spread which reflected the highest credit upon his abilities in that direction, and fully showed the capabilities of his establishment. Bro. Postlethwaite, W.M., occupied the chair, and Bro. Horn, Senior Warden, the vice-chair. Bro. the Rev. J. M. Morgan, vicar of Dalton parish, and Chaplain of the Baldwin Lodge, offered up the grace before meat. After the guests had done ample justice to the good spread provided, the W.M. proposed the toast, "The Queen, the Prince and Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family;" and after this had been suitably responded to, the company sang the National Anthem. "The Army, Navy, and Volunteers," was followed by a favourite song, "Let me like a Soldier fall," by Bro. Harper. The W.M. then proposed "The M.W. the Grand Master, Earl de Grey and Ripon, the R.W. the D.G.M., Earl Carnarvon, the M.W. the Past G.M., H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, and Officers of the Grand Lodge of England," which was then observed with the usual honours. Bro. Derbyshire then contributed a song to the harmony of the evening. The toast of the evening, "The W.M. of the Baldwin Lodge, No. 1398," was then drunk with enthusiasm, and Bro. Parker gave a song. The W.M. having feelingly responded, "The I.P.M., the Wardens and Officers of 1398," were then given by Bro. Postlethwaite, and who at the same time said he had another highly pleasing duty to perform, and that was on behalf of the lodge to present to Bro. Whiteside, the I.P.M., with a beautiful jewel, as a mark of the high esteem in which he was held by the brethren of the lodge over which he had so efficiently presided for the past twelve months, and who had also been the chief means of getting the Baldwin Lodge established in this town. Bro. Whiteside responded, in very feeling terms. The W.M. gave "The Installing Master," and Bro. R. Pearson, P.G.P., ably replied. The toast of "The Clerical Brethren," was answered by Bro. the Rev. J. M. Morgan; song by Bro. Harper, and Bro. Johnson also sang, "Judge not a man by the Coat that he wears." "The Masonic Charities" was followed by a song rendered by Bro. Bell, "The Old Water Mill." "The Visiting Brethren," was now duly honoured, and appropriate thanks were rendered. "The Ladies," by Bro. Blake, Secretary; "Our Musical Friends and Brethren," came on in turn, the toast list concluding with "To all Poor and Distressed Masons," by Bro. Cooper, Tyler. The entire proceedings were of a very pleasurable character, the speeches were pithy, and received with great favour, and the tone of the meeting was such that this gathering will be long remembered as one of the most enjoyable of its kind.

GLASGOW.—Thistle and Rose Lodge (No. 73).—The R.W.M., Bro. G. Weston, opened the lodge on Tuesday, the 4th inst., at 8 p.m., assisted by A. McLeod as S.W.; D. Rumsey, as J.W.; R. Richards, Sec.; and other officers, there being one candidate for initiation.

At the request of the R.W.M., Bro. Park, P.M., acted as S.D., and Bro. Wm. B. Pattison, Sec. 27, as Master, giving the initiatory ceremony with that care and minuteness that distinguishes all Bro. Pattison's working. The Secretary reported upon the case of a widow of one of one of the members, and a sum was voted for her relief. An application for relief from a brother under the Irish Constitution was also entertained.

GLASGOW.—Commercial Lodge (No. 360).—It having been announced that this old and influential lodge would assemble for the first time in their new hall in Hope-street, there was a goodly muster of visitors present to congratulate them on the auspicious occasion, amongst whom we recognised Bros. J. C. Speir, of Mother Kilwinning, No. 0; W. B. Patterson, Sec.; W. Bassett, 27; McGregor, 30; G. Western, R.W.M., and G. W. Wheeler, 73; J. O. Park, 175, Greenock, St. Johns; J. Duthie, P.M. 219; J. Potter, R.W.M. 153; J. Stewart, 332; J. McGennis, S.W.; Wm. Harper, T.; and several other brethren from the Clyde Lodge, 480. G. Adams, 342; J. Shaw, 354; J. Hughes, E. Montgomery, 465; J. D. Porteous, R.W.M., and J. Brodie, D.M., 541; and W. J. Pickerton, 452, (E.C.) A letter of apology having been read from Bro. Morton, M.D., the R.W.M., stating that he was unable to attend through illness, the chair was taken by Bro. Porteous, I.P.M., who was supported on the dais by Bro. J. Brodie, P.M., J. Davidson, P.M.; A. Martin, Sec.; J. Munro, D.M.; J. Anderson, R.W.M., Renfrew County Kilwinning, and J. Peters, R.W.M., Royal Arch Pollockshaws; Oliver, S.W.; Lamb, J.W., and all the other officers of the lodge being present. The Acting Master expressed his regret at having to take the chair, as it arose from the illness of his esteemed friend, Dr. Martin, otherwise he was proud to have to preside over such an influential meeting. He must also apologise for the unfinished state of the hall; they expected it would have been completed, but, as they saw, the decorations were not complete, and so visitors could hardly judge of the beauties of their new home. A hearty vote of thanks was given to the committee who had had the superintendance of the alterations. Bros. John Munro and Julius Brodie acknowledged the compliment. The lodge, having been placed under the care of the J.W., the Master gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. J. Davison, P.M., as the oldest member of the lodge present, proposed "Continued Prosperity to Lodge Commercial 360;" the R.W.M. acknowledged the toast, alluding to the happy hours they had spent in their old hall, and trusting this pleasant meeting might be considered as a good augury for the future. Bro. Munro, D.M., gave the "Masonic Press." In an eloquent address he pointed out the advantages of being adequately represented in the press, and called on them not only to support The Freemason and Masonic News, but also the Masonic Magazine. Bro. Bassett replied for the Masonic News, and Bro. Bickerton for The Freemason, who assured them that nothing would be wanting on the part of Bro. Kenning to render The Freemason in every way worthy of their support. Bro. G. W. Wheeler having been called on, spoke of the advantages of the Masonic Magazine to all who wished to study Masonic archæology, or to get a deeper insight into the real beauties of Masonry. The R.W.M. proposed "The Visitors;" they were proud to see so many present on this occasion. Bro. Speirs, as member of the Mother Kilwinning, was proud to be able to respond for the visitors, and thank the members of the Lodge Commercial for their fraternal greeting; if the lodge was glad to see visitors, those visitors were glad to see this old lodge in such comfortable new quarters. "Happy to meet, sorry to part, and happy to meet again" terminated the toast list. Bros. J. Crabb and J. E. Speirs contributed to the harmony of the meeting by their musical abilities.

Lodge Union (No. 332) held their monthly meeting on August 4th; there was one candidate, who was initiated in a very careful manner by Bro. McNair, R.W.M., who was ably assisted by his office-bearers.

GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND:

On Tuesday the 3rd inst., the Quarterly Communication of the Grand Lodge of Freemasons of Scotland was held in their hall, George Street, Edinburgh. In the unavoidable absence of the Most Worshipful Grand Master Mason of Scotland (Sir Michael Stewart, Bart.), the throne was occupied by Bro. J. T. Oswald of Dunnikier, R.W. Substitute Grand Master, supported by the officers of Grand Lodge, as reported in our columns last week.

After the usual preliminary business, The Grand Secretary, at the request of the Acting R.W. Grand Master, read letters from the M.W. Grand Master (Sir Michael Shaw Stewart) and the P.P.G. Master (the Earl of Rosslyn), expressing their deep sense of the loss which the Craft had sustained by the death of the Earl of Dalhousie, R.W. Past Grand Master, and by that of Lord James C. P. Murray, R.W. Depute Grand Master.

The M.W. Grand Master, writing from Norway on the 8th July, conveyed in feeling terms the regret he experienced at the death of these two noble and distinguished brethren, stating that he could well understand the gloom which such events must spread over the whole of the Craft in Scotland, and he begged that the brethren might be assured how sincerely he joined in the grief which they, one and all, must feel for the great loss the body had sustained, and how anxious he was to unite with them in the expressions of condolence which would be conveyed to the relatives who were mourning the loss of the departed brethren.

The Earl of Rosslyn (M.W.P.G. Master) in his letter stated that to him it was the subject of sincere regret that he was unable to be present at the quarterly communication, to express his sense of the severe loss Freemasonry had sustained in every part of the world, more especially in Scotland, by the lamented death of Past Grand Master Lord Dalhousie, and Depute Grand Master Lord James C. P. Murray. His intimate personal acquaintance with them both would enable him to speak of those qualities which illustrate the characters of good men, and serve as examples to guide and encourage those who survive them. It was but natural that they should deeply feel and truly deplore the death of P.G. Master Lord Dalhousie. Succeeding him upon the throne, he (Lord Rosslyn) was always glad to ask his advice and counsel on many points of interest and difficulty, and never did he find wanting that courteous consideration and that clear-sighted common sense by which he was so much characterised. It would not become him (Lord Rosslyn) in a few hurried lines to allude to those private virtues which endeared Lord Dalhousie to a numerous tenantry and a wide circle of friends, but in his death he had left this hope and consolation, that a life passed in maintaining deep and independent religious convictions, in the practice of good and numerous acts of brotherly kindness, and in giving up selfish amusements for the sake of the public service, had not passed in vain, but might serve to ornament the history of the Craft he so loved and which he so much advanced, and might prove a noble guide to those who endeavoured to tread in his footsteps and imitate his example. The amiable qualities of the late Depute Grand Master (Lord Murray) he was sure would be done full justice to by his relative, the Substitute Grand Master. But he (Lord Rosslyn) would yield to none in his heartfelt regret that it had not pleased Providence to spare Lord James Murray to complete the natural ambition of his life, and attain the highest place in Scottish Masonry.

The Acting M.W. Grand Master then said—Brethren,—After the very able and kind letters which have just been read, I do not feel called upon to say very much on a melancholy occasion of this kind. Our late lamented brother, Lord James Murray, was one whom I had known from infancy. He and I were brought up together; we went to the same school; we went abroad together. He entered the Scots Fusiliers while I entered the Grenadiers; still we served in the same brigade, and until the Crimean War, I may say that no man ever saw more of another than I did of him. After that, from the circumstances of our being in different parts of the country, I did not see so much of him; but you will believe me when I say that during the period of my acquaintance with him, I never saw him make an enemy. May it be ours, brethren, to have an epitaph to that effect—that during a long and anxious life we never made an enemy. He attended all their meetings, although that occasioned his coming from a considerable distance; and I am sorry indeed that he did not live to attain to the height of his ambition by occupying the throne. No doubt he would have done so had Providence been pleased to spare him, for I know well that in this lodge he was appreciated and loved as a true brother. With regard to our other deceased brother, Lord Dalhousie, there certainly never was one who occupied this throne in a manner that gave greater satisfaction to the brethren of the lodge. (Applause.) He was a man different in many respects from the other brother I have spoken of—a man of strong views, who did not hesitate to give them forth strongly; but his views in the main were just and right, and I know no one who could have filled the throne of this lodge with greater satisfaction. (Applause.) I beg to propose—and it will be no more than our duty to do so—that we, as Grand Lodge, send letters of condolence to Lady James Murray and to Lady Christian Maule, who have experienced so great a loss by the death of these near relatives, and who, I know, are deeply interested in Masonry. (Applause.)

"To the Right Honourable the Lady Christian Maule.

"We, the Most Worshipful Sir Michael Robert Shaw Stewart, Bart., Grand Master Mason of Scotland; the Right Honourable Francis Robert, Earl of Rosslyn, Right Worshipful Past Grand Master; and the Right Worshipful James Townsend Oswald, Esq., of Dunnikier, Substitute Grand Master, in our own names and on behalf of the remanent office-bearers and members of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of Scotland, beg leave to tender to your Ladyship the sincere expression of our heartfelt sympathy and condolence on the irreparable loss sustained by your Ladyship in the decease of your illustrious brother, the Right Honourable Fox Maule, Earl of Dalhousie, K.T., G.C.B., &c., &c., our Right Worshipful, much revered, and beloved Past Grand Master.

"Throughout a long life, passed for the most part in the service of his country, his Lordship took a deep interest in our Masonic Craft, and for a period of three years he held amongst us the first—the highest—place as Grand Master Mason of Scotland, during which period he governed the Craft as he had previously served it, with fidelity to its interests, loyalty to its obligations, and with entire self-devotion, unsparring of any sacrifice. His great aim was to promote and extend the benevolent institutions connected with our Order, and to disseminate as widely as his great influence extended the pure principles of fraternal love and charity. His efforts in these directions were attended with marked success, and it is to his Lordship's influence that the Scottish Craft are indebted for the patronage accorded to them by His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. In his intercourse with the brethren he was never found to be wanting in that courteous consideration and clear-sighted common sense, which, when combined, are among the highest attributes of natural ability and cultivated intellect, and which gained for him an affection and veneration to a degree rarely attained. These will ever be associated with his memory.

"While lamenting his loss, we fervently pray that the Almighty Architect of the Universe, to whom alone in the hour of darkness and of trial we must look for consolation, will bestow upon your Ladyship His everlasting blessing and give you strength and resignation to bear the severe dispensation with which it has pleased Him to visit you.

"Given at Freemasons' Hall, in the City of Edinburgh, in full Grand Lodge assembled, the third day of August, 1874.

"To the Right Hon. the Lady James Murray
"We, the Most Worshipful Sir Michael Robert Shaw Stewart, Bart., Grand Master Mason of Scotland; the Right Honourable Francis Robert, Earl of Rosslyn, Right Worshipful Past Grand Master; and the Right Worshipful James Townsend Oswald, Esquire, of Dunnikier, Substitute Grand Master, in our own names and on behalf of the remanent office-bearers and members of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of Scotland, beg to approach your Ladyship with the fervent expression of our heartfelt sympathy and condolence on the irreparable loss and bereavement sustained by your Ladyship in the decease of your beloved husband, our Right Worshipful Depute Grand Master, the Right Hon. the Lord James Charles Plantagenet Murray, by which melancholy event the great and widespread Craft of Freemasonry in general, and our own Scottish fraternity in particular, have been deprived of one of the brightest examples of a craftsman, in whose character was united all that is great and good and noble. His invariably kind and dignified courtesy and gentle demeanour made him beloved by all with whom he came in contact; and his services to the Grand Lodge of Scotland, extending over a long series of years, were, by his unremitting exertions, and the exercise of a well-cultivated experience in the discharge of the duties of the various offices in the Craft which he was from time to time called upon to occupy, most invaluable, and very sincere is the sorrow of our Scottish brotherhood throughout the world, which mingles affectionately with your own over his loss.

"His memory will long be cherished in the annals of Freemasonry, and ever be remembered by the Grand Lodge of Scotland with pride and affection.

"That the Great Architect of the Universe, to whom we look for comfort and support in every emergency, may take your Ladyship into His holy keeping, and graciously afford you every needed measure of strength and consolation, is our sincere and earnest prayer.

"Given at Freemasons' Hall, in the City of Edinburgh, in full Grand Lodge assembled, this 3rd day of August, A.D. 1874, A.L. 5878."

The motion to transmit the letters of condolence was agreed to unanimously.

Bro. Mann then proposed that Grand Lodge should, upon as early an occasion as possible, hold a "funeral lodge" in commemoration of these distinguished brethren. He moved that it be held on the second Monday of October.

Bro. Robertson seconded this proposal, which was unanimously carried; and on the motion of Bro. Hay, it was remitted to the Board of Grand Stewards to make the necessary arrangements.

There were presents laid on the table from the Grand Lodges of France, Belgium, and Brazil.

On the recommendation of the Grand Committee, Bro. Daniel Calvin was unanimously appointed Provincial Grand Master for Peru.

The matter of granting a charter to a new lodge at Springburn, in the province of Glasgow, was then taken up, and after considerable discussion, it was ultimately resolved that the petition could not be entertained in respect of its deficiency in point of order. This concluded the business, and in due form the lodge was closed.

ANOTHER ATTACK UPON FREEMASONRY.

The following appears in the Westminster Gazette, the accredited organ of the Roman Catholic authorities in this country. We make no apology for inserting it in extenso for the edification of our readers:—

"BOGUS DECORATIONS.

"We have had occasion, more than once, to protest against the always idiotic and often blasphemous rites of Freemasonry, and to raise a warning voice for the behoof of those dupes and knaves who support, and are supported by, his gigantic imposture. We are led to-day to protest against a detail in Freemasonry in which the same evil propensities are apparent as those which govern in the other details of its procedure. We allude to the shameless appropriation by Freemasonic canaille of the names and insignia of honourable Orders of Chivalry. Two of these Orders, to wit, the Orders of Malta and of the Holy Sepulchre, are essentially Christian and Catholic, and as such have a moral, if not a political significance. It is unnecessary to say that to the good Catholic the blasphemy and fraud of Freemasonry are as the abomination of desolation; and that no Freemason would have the remotest chance of legitimately belonging to either.

"We need not at this moment, and on this occasion, say much of decorations generally, or of the restrictions which govern their use in this country in particular. We confess that, personally, we are inclined to agree with Lord Houghton, the late Sir Emerson Tennant, and a host of other eminent Englishmen, in thinking that the Foreign Office rules thereabout might be relaxed with no little benefit. The gallant Nelson, as is well known, wore at the English Court several Orders for which he had no formal authorisation from his sovereign, and, indeed, that he lost his life at Trafalgar from the conspicuous manner in which he wore 'his blushing honours thick upon him.' 'Monsieur,' said Halley, the eminent jeweller of the Palais Royal, to us one day, 'les decorations ne sont que les bijoux des hommes.' This may be true, but decorations are a jewellery which usually mark important events in the career of their wearer. A treaty signed, a battle won, a book written, a discovery made, are marked by the cross or star which glitters resplendently on the proud breast of its bearer. Even if, as with the Garter, the badge is but a tribute to the social rank and importance of the individual, it is, nevertheless, a reasonable and worthy mark of distinction. But when tinsel stars and brazen crosses are distributed broadcast among the vintners, tapsters and other similar gentry who form the main body of Freemasons, these stars and crosses are nothing more than a miserable proof of the gullibility of our great middle classes. The pious faith of the Catholic in relics or reputed miracles is only too often the subject of the jests and gibes of the modern Englishman, who, whilst straining at the goat of true religion, swallows with gusto the camel of buffoonery, such as that of Freemasonry. Superstition, blind belief in falsities, stupid adherence to exploded mummery—in short, all the shortcomings imputed to Catholics by intolerance, ignorance, and mendacity, are here to be found in rank florescence, patronized by Protestant Royalty, favoured by Protestant Englishmen, and extolled by Protestant clergy. Can the irony of the Prince of Darkness further go? While we are not without some pity for the great mass of vain and ignorant farceurs who are boodwinked by these follies, we confess to have little for those noblemen and gentlemen for whom Satan has found 'some mischief still for idle hands to do.' No man of education and historical reading can credit, for a moment, the transparent blague of Masonic fables. It is said that gentlemen, among themselves, excuse themselves for connivance in this imposture by stating they use the influence thus gained for electioneering and other purposes. If so, this is 'doing evil that good may come' with a vengeance; and we earnestly implore all such as may read these lines to adopt the manly and straightforward course of ceasing to support, even if they cannot bring themselves to expose, this tissue of absurdities. With regard to those men who concoct such bogus Orders of Chivalry, and for their wretched confederates who sell the rubbish appertaining thereto, we have no commiseration whatever, and the fate which generally overtakes impostors and wrongdoers is no more than their due. We are informed by counsel "learned in the law," that whoever sells diplomas, pretending to admit persons into imaginary Orders of Chivalry, and so dub them knights by accolade or otherwise, is liable to be summoned before a justice of the peace, there to receive sentence of fine or imprisonment, as a rogue and a vagabond. Let the sellers beware!"

It is reported that the Sheffield Masons intend erecting a new Masonic Hall at a cost of about £10,000.

PORTRAIT CLUB OF THE GRAND LODGE.

We have been requested by Bro. E. M. Heigh (W.M. 29, P.G. Steward), of 213, Regent street to call the attention of our subscribers to the prospectus of the above. He says therein:—
"Encouraged by the general favour with which the several series of portraits I have had the honour to introduce have been received, I propose to extend similar advantages to the various Masonic Societies, and trust to have the patronage of the officers and members of the Grand Lodge of England.

"Amongst the various societies I have had the honour to prepare series of portraits for, may be mentioned the Members of the House of Commons, the Fellows and Members of the College of Surgeons, Fellows of the Royal Society of Engineers, the Odontological, and Obstetrical Societies.

"Conditions to be as follows:—

"1. Portraits to be taken of three different sizes: (a) gallery size, (b) cabinet size, (c) carte size.

"2. Each Member of the Grand Lodge to be privileged to have a set of portraits taken free of charge, and proof copies of the same presented to him; having signified his approval of which, he will then be entitled to make a selection of the portraits of the other members of the club, and also to have as many copies of his own as he may require, at the undermentioned charges.

"3. Copies to be supplied to the Members of the Club only.

"Specimens of the Portraits may be seen at my Studio."

IMPROVED LONDON SHOPS.—What is more delightful than shopping when the purse is well filled, and how greatly is the pleasure enhanced when we find ourselves in a fine shop, the architecture of which is as good as are the goods sold in the establishment. A very remarkable change for the better has taken place with regard to the construction of the metropolitan shops. Once upon a time, any stuffy, narrow, dark apartment appeared to be good enough for the sale of even the very best articles. Our practical natures caused us to think only of the useful, so we made no attempt to beautify trade premises, resting content with carefully arranging the interior, and disposing of the stock in the handiest manner. But artistic and hygienic notions have grown apace with us. Once it was always and only the "utile," now, happily, it is "utile and dulce" combined. The observant pedestrian will find it now impossible to traverse either City or West-end without being struck with the number of beautifully designed buildings, either lately finished or in process of construction. This is a change which every lover of a stroll through the metropolitan ways must welcome. Messrs. J. C. Cording and Co., than whom no tradesmen have a better reputation for the invariably good quality of what they sell, have also removed from comparatively insignificant premises to a handsome building of much architectural merit, and containing a shop which is a model of its kind. After being established in the Strand since the year 1839, Messrs. J. C. Cording and Co., have just migrated westward, to the corner of Air-street, Piccadilly. There, as formerly, are to be purchased the famous ventilated waterproofs for shooting &c., the fishing-boots and brogues, the celebrated "Idstone" shooting-boots (registered), and, in fact, every speciality in waterproof articles that the tourist, the country gentleman, or the sportsman may require.

The Lodge of Israel, Liverpool, for the constitution of which the warrant has been secured, will be consecrated on the first or second Monday in October. Another new lodge, to be called the Lodge of Emulation, will be consecrated at the new Masonic Hall, Hope-street, Liverpool, about the same time.

porary difficulty, in the passing questions affecting Freemasonry in the great Austrian Empire, that under its wise and judicious and well-disposed government, under that able administration which now directs the affairs of that most interesting country under its much-tried, but truly chivalrous ruler, our Austrian Masonic brethren may be able to work in happiness and peace, and in harmony and legality, in loyalty to their own government, and in all of goodwill to their Masonic brethren dispersed throughout the world.

ROMAN CATHOLIC AMENITIES.

We have had, on more than one occasion to animadvert on the peculiar style of the H Westminster Gazette, the accredited organ of the Roman Catholic community in the country, especially in all that relates to Freemasonry. There is a happy mixture of vulgarity and impertinence, of dreadful attempts at wit, and an overpowering rowdiness of language, which renders that truly Christian periodical, most delightful and improving reading, and which are redolent of the perfumes of cheap gin and bad tobacco. Let us take for instance, a charming little article in its issue for July 11th, entitled "Bogus Decoration." We invite the attention of our readers to the following animated and polite words, so thoroughly imbued with gentlemanly courtesy and Christian charity. In fact, they are a model for that style of writing which we have to peruse so often "usque ad nauseam," and which, strange to say, Roman Catholic editors and correspondents love so much to indulge in. In other days such remarks would have brought the writers undoubtedly under the notice of their own "Holy Office." So brethren:—pray attend.

"We have had occasion more than once, to protest against the idiotic and often blasphemous rites of Freemasonry, and to raise a warning voice for the behoof of those dupes and knaves who support and who are supported by their gigantic imposture."

This, as Sam Weller would say, is "coming it rather strong," and the sentence absolutely takes away our breath, magnificent as it is in its conception and composition. We good, old-fashioned, steady-going loyal Freemasons in England, with the Marquess of Ripon at our head, and with the Earl of Carnarvon as Deputy Grand Master, with the Heir Apparent and two of the Princes of the Blood Royal amongst our members, with that almost innumerable list of men of the highest social position, intellectual ability, and moral worth, included amongst our numerous and highly respectable brotherhood, we naturally resent such language, as a very great impertinence for any writer, from his "odium theologicum" view, to dare to stigmatize us, and the society to which we belong. We can only give to such remarks as he has thought proper to use a calm but indignant denial, declaring them to be utterly false, alike in theory and in fact. They deserve, as they will receive, when they are read by our brethren, their utter contempt, like as childish inanity and menacious vulgarity, on the part of a writer who is alike ignorant of the principles and practice of an order he thinks well to calumniate. For, in itself, as writing, the article is beyond criticism, and utterly beneath notice, and it only serves to convince us, as we have often felt before, that when Roman Catholic writers of the Ultramontane School affect witticism, they fall into meaningless platitude, and when they attempt "thunder," they become noisy and rowdy at the same time. But this well-informed scribe goes on to say:—"We are led to-day to protest against a detail in Freemasonry, in which the same evil propensities are apparent as those which run in the other details of its procedure. We allude to the shameless appropriation by Freemasonic canaille of the names and insignia of honourable Orders of Chivalry. Two of these Orders, to wit, the Orders of Malta and of the Holy Sepulchre, are essentially Christian and Catholic, and as such have a moral, if not a political significance. It is unnecessary to say that to the good Catholic the blasphemy and fraud of Freemasonry are as the abomination of desolation; and that no Freemason would have the remotest chance of legitimately belonging to either."

We say nothing of the grammar, which marks the passage from first to last, but we are at a loss to know why no Freemason would have the slightest chance of legitimately belonging to the "blasphemy and fraud of Freemasonry," which are, as the writer poetically adds, the "abomination of desolation." We feel, however, deeply the compliment to us of such words as "Freemasonic canaille." But "revengeons a nous moutons." How often have we to repeat to our Roman Catholic assailants that we in England as Freemasons, know nothing of the so-called "Knighthly Orders." Our Grand Lodge has nothing to do with any "degree" or "order," except the three old degrees of Freemasonry, and the Royal Arch. Of the "Order of Malta," or the "Holy Sepulchre," of the "Templars," or the "Red Cross of Constantine," we know nothing, officially, per se, except that they exist, and are supported by a good many persons, who are also, as it happens, members of our fraternity. As regards the special complaint of the Roman Catholic writer, that it is an insult to the Roman Catholic body, for persons to profess to belong to such orders, which are peculiarly Roman Catholic organizations, we can say nothing—that is a complaint to be addressed to their several societies, not to us. We have nothing to do, as Freemasons, either with their ritual, their names, their regulations, or their proceedings, but knowing how many "good men and true" do belong to them, we cannot believe but their aims are honest, and their ends are right. Historically and archæologically, of course, no well-informed Masonic student believes, or will contend to-day, that they are the lineal descents of those whose name they have assumed, but as no possible harm can accrue to society from their proceedings, and much positive good, in deeds of sympathy and benevolence, if our many Roman Catholic opponents will condescend to take any advice from us, we would say to them all, "what can it matter to you, they do you no harm; let them go on their way in peace and goodwill." But we fear it is like "preaching in the desert," or to those fishes to whom "Vieyra" once so amusingly and effectively addressed at Maranhao. Roman Catholics cannot learn that abuse is not criticism, and impertinence is not argument. When they talk of the "camel of buffoonery such as that of Freemasonry," one wonders whence the writer draws his illustration, or what is the analogy or force of such a ridiculous juxtaposition of words. When they talk of "blind belief in falsities, stupid adherence to exploded mummeries," as this sapient critic does, do they forget a recent astounding statement of their own, that it was the wicked Freemasons of Milan who dared to insult the precious relics, or those very shocking falsehoods about Freemasonry palmed off on the credulity of perplexed Roman Catholics? And once again, when this writer of July 11th asserts that it is said that "gentlemen, among themselves, excuse themselves for connivance in the imposture by stating they use the influence thus gained for electioneering and other purposes," he knows perfectly well, that he is penning an absolute falsehood; that no "gentleman" ever told such a lie, and that Freemasonry has nothing to do in this country, in any way, with politics in any degree. It is our one great and perpetual characteristic, that we utterly ignore alike political distinction and religious controversy. We shall all feel greatly flattered also by the writer's expressions of some "little pity for the great mass of vain and ignorant 'farceurs,' who are most affected by these follies; though," he proceeds, "we confess to have none for those noblemen and gentlemen for whom Satan has found 'some mischief still for idle hands to do.'" Can ineptitude and uncharitableness "further go?" This highly cultivated and amiable individual concludes by a sort of "argumentum ad hominem" to many who, like our worthy publisher, provide jewellery and decorations for our lodges and brethren, and for the members of the so-called "Knighthly Orders." He alludes in a most mysterious way to a "counsel learned in the law," who has evidently given a gratuitous opinion, which, as all lawyers know, is utterly worthless, as regards the illegality of the sale of Masonic certificates and jewellery. We have made enquiries and we feel warranted in announcing to the Order, that the "counsel learned in the law," who has supplied so important a dictum, is no less a person than our old and esteemed friend Mrs. Harris, who, in these days of "Women's Rights," has devoted herself to "Chamber Practice," and gives advice gratis.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Sudden changes of temperature sorely try all persons subject to rheumatism, sciatica, ti-doloureux, and many maladies scarcely less painful, though of shorter duration. On the first attack of stiffness or suffering in any muscle, joint, or nerve, recourse should immediately be had to fomentations of the seat of the disease with hot brine, and by subsequently rubbing in this remarkable Ointment, the uneasiness of the part will be assuaged, inflammation subdued, and swelling reduced. The Pills simultaneously taken will rectify constitutional disturbances and renew the strength. No remedies heretofore discovered have proved so effective as the Ointment and Pills for removing gouty, rheumatic, and scrofulous attacks, which afflict all ages, and are commonly hereditary.

human, require refreshment after labour, and ought to have it, and, if they can afford, and like it, a glass of good generous wine, to drink to the health of the Queen and the Craft, &c., &c., afterwards. If a Mason prefers water to wine he is free to drink it; so long as he honours the sentiment, and properly responds to the toast in the usual manner among Masons, it little matters what the liquor is he drinks. There are many lodges, some temperance lodges, where the banquet is the exception, dinner or supper being substituted, and conducted with the same propriety as in a private family gathering, and in such a manner as not to offend even the peculiar habits of a "Good Templar."

With regard to your correspondent's last question, I would advise him not to assist in any way to introduce anything like sectarianism or sectarian bitterness into Freemasonry, in the way of instituting a Masonic (Heaven save the mark!) lodge of "Good Templars." Scattered amongst us, they may endeavour to set an example of abstemiousness, and let us judge them by the result. Our Bro. "M. M." evidently knows more of his friends than I do, and he calls them "bigoted and fanatic." Such people we care little to have amongst us. Of the noble and self-denying, we have many; brethren who doubtless would suffer as much in defence of Masonic principles as the worthiest Good Templar would for his whim, fancy, habit, peculiarity, or whatever else he may please to call it. In conclusion, and with an apology for the length of my letter, I presume that "M. M." is not sufficiently proud of his subject to back his letter with his name; I would therefore say to him "Sum quod eris, fui quod es," and in order to show I am not in the same sorry plight, I will, with your kind permission, sign myself, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours faithfully and fraternally,
HERBERT BUSY HODGES,
P.P.S.G.W., Herts.

PRIVATE CHAPTERS ABROAD.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

May I be permitted to correct an error in your report of the proceedings of Grand Chapter, held on Wednesday last.

In speaking of the conditions on which private chapters in foreign countries are formed. I did not touch, as reported, on the reasonableness of allowing companions who were not Past Masters to be nominated as Principals. What I endeavoured to point out was that, in foreign as in home chapters, no companion is eligible to be elected to either of the principal chairs who is not then actual Master or Past Master of a Craft Lodge, and that the only exceptions in the conditions of eligibility to such office in a foreign chapter is exemption from the condition of having served as Scribe or Sojourner for a year. In other words that at home a companion must have been Scribe or Sojourner of a chapter, and also Master of a lodge to enable him to fill a principal chair, while in the colonies this latter qualification only is necessary.

I am yours fraternally,

HUGH D. SANDERMAN.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

I wish to know if an annuitant of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution can receive his annuity in any part of the United Kingdom.

Answer in your next will greatly oblige,

Yours fraternally,

AN OLD P.Z.

Ultimatum in Parvo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

I do not see that Bro. Paton has answered "Masonic Enquirer," or even your monolabie correspondent "Beans." I venture to another note on the subjects alluded to. I proposed of Locke's letter last week, that is to say, so far as we can dispose of it at present, as though it is most doubtful, I do not think we need declare it to be a forgery. At any rate, with our existing information, I now take the statement of "Sir Thomas Sackville's Grand Mastership."

I am aware it is often stated, and we find it in all our noted Masonic authorities, and in "Multa Paucis," but I am equally unaware of any authority for it. Neither can I find any confirmation of that Masonic episode which is said to have dawned at York, St. John's day, Dec. 27th, 1461, tempore Queen Elizabeth, according to "Multa Paucis," and in which the same Sackville plays so conspicuous a part, though Clavel has illustrated the story with an elaborate plate (page 92) in his "Histoire Pittoresque de la Francmaconnerie." I wish we could believe these statements. There is no record of them in the Lodge at York, and where Preston obtained them from he does not tell us. He seems, however, to treat the History of Sackville and his Grand Mastership as authentic.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC

CROSBY'S

BALSAMIC

COUGH ELIXIR.

Opium, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the “Anti-Lancet,” says: “I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease.”

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.

Invaders should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on “Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels,” a copy of which can be had Gratis of all Chemists.

FUND FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE WIDOW OF THE LATE W. BRO. J. R. STEBBING, P.G.D (ENGLAND) AND D. PROV. G.M.

PRESIDENT—The Right Worshipful W. W. B. BRECH, M.P., Provincial Grand Master.

At a meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge, recently held at Landport, it was unanimously resolved that a Committee be appointed for the purpose of raising a fund, to provide a suitable memorial to our late deeply-lamented Bro. Stebbing.

In pursuance of the foregoing resolution a meeting was held at Southampton, which was largely attended, when the following resolution was unanimously adopted:—

"That the Lodges and Chapters of the Province and Freemasons generally be solicited to subscribe to a fund, to be appropriated as the Committee shall determine, for the benefit of the Widow of our late lamented Bro. Stebbing, whose circumstances at the time of his decease render this appeal absolutely necessary."

"That copies of these resolutions be forwarded to each Lodge and Chapter in the Province, inviting their co-operation, as well as that of Brethren and Companions generally, in obtaining subscriptions to the fund."

"That a circular stating the circumstances be also transmitted to all other Lodges and Chapters in England."

The name of the late Bro. J. R. Stebbing is so well known in all Masonic circles that it seems unnecessary to set forth at length his long and valuable services. For many years he was a constant attendant at Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter, assisting the interests of the Brethren and Companions. He was Vice-President of the Board of General Purposes in 1861, 1862 and 1863, and also an active member of the Building Committee of the present Freemasons' Hall, London.

He was rarely absent from the elections in the various Charities, giving his valuable aid to the poor and distressed amongst the brethren and their relatives, contributing from his means to the advancement of those charities, in which he had qualified as Vice-Patron of the Boys' School, Life Governor of the Girls' School, and Life Governor of the Benevolent Institution; and it is sincerely hoped that the Widow of one who was so actively engaged for the benefit of others (herself a Life-Governor of the Boys' School) should be placed in circumstances which will assist her in her present unexpected bereavement.

Subscriptions in aid of this fund may be transmitted to the Treasurer, Aldermoor House, at Southampton; or to his banker, Messrs. Addison, Atherly, Hankinson, and Darwin, Southampton.

W. HICKMAN, Treasurer.
J. E. LE FEVRE, Secretary.

ALDERSHOT.—Aldershot Camp Lodge (No. 1311).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the Royal Hotel, High Street, on the 6th instant, presided over by the W.M., Bro. McKenzie, P.G.P. Hants and I. of Wight, who was supported by the following officers, and numerous brethren, including visitors, viz:—Bros. Captain Richardson, P.M. and Treasurer; White, S.W.; Hacker, W.M. 723, P.G.J.D., as J.W.; Lucas, Secretary; Anderson, S.D.; Walton Mayer, J.D.; Smith, I.G.; Burns, Tyler. The lodge was opened in the first degree, and the minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed. Three candidates for initiation were ballotted for, the ballot in each case being favourable. Two of the candidates being present (Messrs. Phelps and Davis) were then prepared, duly admitted, and initiated into the mysteries and privileges of our ancient Order, the beautiful charge of the degree being delivered to them in a very efficient manner by the S.W., Bro. White. The lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bros. Sitsen and Rowsell, candidates for the third degree, having proved their proficiency in the former degree, were entrusted with a test of merit, and retired. The lodge was then opened in the third degree, when Bro. Captain Richardson took the chair, and, on the admission of the candidates, raised those brethren to the sublime degree in his usual correct and impressive manner. He then closed the lodge in the third degree, and vacated the chair, which was resumed by the W.M., and the lodge closed in the first degree. Bro. P.M. Richmond then brought forward a notice of motion for the removal of the lodge to the Assembly Rooms, High-street, and fully explained to the brethren the motives which prompted him to submit the proposition. This notice being duly seconded by Bro. Walton Mayer, J.D., was directed to be recorded upon the minutes and inserted in the summons for the next regular lodge meeting, in order that the subject be then heard and decided on, in accordance with the instructions contained in the Book of Constitutions. Bro. Richardson also submitted a proposition for the reduction of the monthly payments of the members of the charitable association attached to the lodge, with a view to induce a greater number of brethren to become subscribers thereto. This was ordered to be referred to the Committee of reference for report. Hearty good wishes from Panmure Lodge, No. 723, having been received through Bro. Hacker, its W.M., P.G.J.D., the Aldershot Camp Lodge was closed with solemn prayer, about nine o'clock.

Scotland.

GLASGOW.—Royal Arch Lodge, Pollockshaws (No. 153).—This lodge held its regular monthly meeting on Friday, July 31, Bro. J. Peters, V.M., in the chair, supported by Bro. Duncan, P.M., the Wardens, and a goodly number of the brethren, who had come forward to welcome the R.W.M. on his return from a six months' tour on the Continent and in America. Bro. Allen, the Secretary, having read the minutes of the last meeting, which recorded the gift of a sum of money to a distressed widow of one of the late members, and there being no special business, the R.W.M. was asked to give them a sketch of his travels. Bro. Peters then, in a highly graphic style that would have done credit to many a professed lecturer, complied with their request, describing amongst other things his visit to some Italian lodges in Genoa, Milan, and Pisa, where the brethren were all armed with swords, and as a R.W.M. he was received under the Arch of Steel, and conducted to the dais. The vessel having met with an accident to her screw, they had to put into the Azores for a week, where he met with the Masonic brethren, and accompanied a small party of them to the Hot Springs in the interior of the Island. This delay, and the putting them out of their course caused them to meet a terrific hurricane, and for fifteen days they were driven about at the mercy of the winds and waves. In trying to steam against the currents and the storm they had expended all their fuel, and had to change their course for the Bermudas, to re-coal. Here again he met with the right hand of friendship. On arriving in America he visited several lodges in New York, and got letters of introduction to leading Masons in most of the large cities, the lodges of which he described. He had also visited Niagara, and from thence into Canada, going 15 miles from Montreal to see the installation of a country lodge. At every place he had met with a most fraternal welcome. Many of the brethren devoted themselves days to him, not only showing him lodges, but all other objects of interest in their respective localities. He had brought with him stereoscopic views of the Grand Masonic Temple at Philadelphia, not only of the exterior, but of each of the separate halls, with their appropriate decorations; also views of the Masonic Temples at New York, Boston, and Richmond, which he exhibited to the brethren. At the conclusion, Bro. G. W. Wheeler, 73, read a hearty vote of thanks for the able and highly instructive lecture to which they had just listened. He thought the lodge was highly honoured in having a Master like Bro. Peters, who had carried their name and their fame through so many lands, and who, on his return, was able to portray in such life-like terms the varying incidents of a long and eventful tour, during which he had been able to prove that Masonry is something more than a name, and the lodge must remember that they were themselves honoured by all the honours he had received while abroad, because they had been paid to him as their representative. Bro. Finlayson seconded the motion. The R.W.M. proposed the "Freemason," and also a special vote of thanks to its spirited proprietor, for the embellishment he had given them to adorn the walls of their lodge-room. Bro. Wheeler, on behalf of Bro. G. Kenning, acknowledged the compliment, and proposed "Prosperity to Lodge, 153." Bro. Duncan, P.M., replied, stating that during the six months' absence of the Master, he, as his D.M., had done his best to supply his place, and had initiated seven candidates; still he was glad to see him back, and able to give so good a Masonic report on behalf of the lodge. He thanked Bro. Wheeler for the flattering way in which he had spoken of them. There being no further business, the R.W.M. closed the lodge, all being highly pleased with the intellectual treat they had enjoyed.

THE ROYAL VISIT TO PLYMOUTH.

The Freemasons of the two Provinces of Devon and Cornwall met at Plymouth on Friday, 14th inst., to the number of about eighteen hundred, to give a loyal and fraternal welcome to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, Past Grand Master of England. The occasion was looked forward to with very considerable interest, and the weather being fine, the brethren mustered in great strength. Special trains from both east and west brought them to Plymouth at an early hour in the morning, and according to arrangement they assembled in the Millbay Barracks at half-past nine, where they were formed into procession in conformity with the order that had been previously agreed upon. It was no easy matter to get so large a number of people in the proper position within the limited time allowed for the formation of the procession, but thanks to the efficiency of the arrangements of the Committee who were appointed for the purpose, and more especially to the active exertions of Bro. Trevena, the Prov. Grand Director of Ceremonies, ably assisted by Bro. Jew, of Stonehouse, the whole thing was carried out without the slightest hitch, and with the most entire satisfaction to all connected with it. The procession, which started from Millbay Barracks at twenty minutes past ten, was led by the band of the South Devon Militia, followed by two Tylers with drawn swords, one from Devon and the other from Cornwall; and immediately following them came the members of a well trained choir, under the able directorship of Bro. Hele, P.P.G. Organist of Cornwall, who for many weeks past has devoted a large amount of time and attention to the practice of the National and other Anthems which it was arranged should be sung in the presence of His Royal Highness. Then came the lodges, seventy in number, with their banners, and bringing up the rear were the United Provincial Grand Officers, the Provincial Grand Masters of Devon and Cornwall walking together. The brethren marched two deep, and it will be seen, therefore, that the procession was one of great length. The streets were lined with thousands of people, and the crowd was so great that now and then the procession was intruded upon, but on the whole the line of route was maintained exceedingly well by the police, on whom the unpleasant duty devolved. Arriving at the door of the Guildhall, where the Mayor, and several members of the Corporation were present to receive them, the brethren opened to the right and left, facing inwards, leaving room for the Provincial Grand Masters to pass up the centre, preceded by the Standard and Sword Bearers, the Provincial Grand Officers and brethren following in succession from the rear, thus inverting the order of procession. By about twelve o'clock the whole of the eighteen hundred members had entered the hall, and His Royal Highness entering just afterwards, was received with an outburst of hearty cheering, which was renewed again and again when he took the chair. Then the choir sang "God Bless the Prince of Wales," and some Masonic preliminaries having been observed.

The Prov. Grand Master of Devon, who sat on the right of the Prince, addressed his Royal Highness as follows:—Illustrious Prince and Most Worshipful Past Grand Master.—As soon as it was known that you had graciously consented to come in person for the purpose of opening this beautiful Guildhall, in which we are now assembled, the brethren of our Craft in the two provinces of Devonshire and Cornwall were actuated by an earnest desire to testify their devotion to your Royal person, by assembling themselves together to greet you with a loyal and hearty welcome. There are some special circumstances which seem to us to connect your Royal Highness more closely with these two Western counties than with any other of the provinces of England. As Prince of Wales, you are Duke of Cornwall, your domains extending over a portion of both these counties. You are also Lord High Steward of this corporate town of Plymouth. We also know that, as Duke of Cornwall, you are the eldest son of our beloved Sovereign, Queen Victoria, the monarch of that mighty empire from whose dominions the sun never withdraws his rays, and being Heir Apparent to the Throne, you are destined (by God's blessing) to reign, in future years, over the British nation, that chosen people, who sway the destiny of the whole world, and are charged, by God's Providence, with the responsibility of maintaining law and order, and extending knowledge, civilization, and peace upon all the earth; that chosen people, whose glorious privilege it is to publish "the glad tidings of great joy to all nations" until the blessed period shall arrive, when (according to the sure word of prophecy), "the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea." But there is also one other bond of union between your Royal Highness and every one of the brethren who are here gathered together in this vast assemblage—a bond of union of which the popular world knows nothing, and in which a stranger cannot intermeddle; a mystic tie of fraternity felt and acknowledged by all the members of our Craft, a tie producing that friendship which (to use the emphatic words of our Grand Master, King Solomon,) "sticketh closer than a brother," Condescend, then, Illustrious Prince, and Most Worshipful Past Grand Master, to accept their hearty and loyal address, on behalf of the brethren of all the lodges in Devonshire and Cornwall, who in, United Grand Lodge assembled, desire now to offer you their warm and fraternal welcome on this your first Masonic appearance among them. With your permission, sir, I will request my Right Worshipful brother, the Grand Master of Cornwall, to read the address which I have now the honour to present.

The Earl of Mount Edgcumbe, Prov. G.M. of Cornwall, then read the address, which was as follows:—

"May it please your Royal Highness, we, the Provincial Grand Masters, Grand Officers, and brethren of Devon and Cornwall in United Provincial Grand Lodge assembled, desire to express the warm feelings of gratification with which we hail your first appearance amongst us as the most Worshipful Past Grand Master of England in the two loyal provinces of which the Grand Lodges are here assembled to welcome you. On a former occasion we met in our respective Grand Lodges to offer our heartfelt and fraternal congratulations on the happy recovery of your Royal Highness from a lingering and very dangerous illness, and on the present occasion we are unitedly assembled to greet your presence among us in the full enjoyment of renovated health and strength. We unite in grateful praise to the Great Architect of the Universe for having preserved a life so dear and precious to this mighty empire, and we dare to offer our fervent prayers that your Royal Highness may be long preserved in mind and body, beloved and revered by all her Majesty's liege subjects, and regarded with feelings of the most earnest and fraternal affection by your loyal and devoted brethren of the Provinces of Devon and Cornwall."

The Prince, received with a great outburst of cheering on rising, replied as follows:—"Most Worshipful Provincial Grand Masters and Brethren of Devon and Cornwall, I thank you for your address of welcome. It has been a matter of warm congratulation to me that I should have been able to meet the brethren of Devon and Cornwall in United Provincial Lodge, assembled on the present occasion, and I highly appreciate the motives which have led so many of you, at considerable personal inconvenience to yourselves, to assemble here to-day from all parts of the two counties. I cannot be sufficiently grateful to the Great Architect of the Universe for his merciful preservation of my life from so severe and dangerous an illness as that from which I suffered, and I am much touched by the kind terms in which you have alluded to my recovery."

The Earl of Mount Edgcumbe: May it please your Royal Highness, Right Worshipful Brother Huyshe, may I be allowed to take this, the only public opportunity I may have, of thanking my Right Worshipful Brother, and I may say of thanking also the officers and brethren of the province of Devonshire, for having so cordially and so fraternally given us, the brethren of Cornwall, the opportunity of joining with them on this occasion. I believe that this meeting is almost unprecedented as a United Grand Lodge, and I think I may also say that it has scarcely ever been exceeded in the numbers and appearance of the assembly. Our old Cornish motto is "One and All." It is a motto which we shall always be happy to share with our brethren of Devonshire, and on no occasion could we be more ready to do so than upon that which has called us together to-day. Our rugged peninsula has no neighbour except Devonshire, and therefore it would be indeed strange if the bond of fraternity was not strong between those two provinces. I may perhaps be allowed to say of the brethren of my own province, that I believe that so far as it is possible to do it, they have almost literally come here "one and all" to-day, and I am quite sure I may say for those who are unavoidably prevented from being present, both from Cornwall and Devonshire, that their feeling is thoroughly and entirely unanimous, in the loyal welcome to your Royal Highness, which we desire most earnestly to lay before you on this occasion.

The Prince of Wales: Brethren, I am anxious to have the opportunity of thanking my Right Worshipful Brothers Huyshe and Lord Mount Edgcumbe for the very kind words they have spoken on this occasion, and I am also glad to have an opportunity of thanking you once more for having met here to-day in such large numbers. I have been present at several great Masonic meetings during the six years that I have had the advantage of being a member of the Craft, but I never saw a gathering like the present. I do not only look on this immense gathering as a kind of personal expression of feeling on your part towards myself; but it is also a proof to me that Masonry flourishes in this part of the world. Long may it do so, brethren; long may it flourish as it does at the present moment, and may it uphold those principles for which it was instituted. Allow me to thank you once more for the reception you have given me to-day, one which I shall never forget.

His Royal Highness, in due form, then declared the Grand Lodge closed, and, before he left, Bro. Trevena called for three cheers for the Princess of Wales. The call was then responded to in the most enthusiastic manner, every brother standing and cheering with the heartiest good-will. As the Prince left the hall, the cheering was again and again renewed, and after a short delay his Royal Highness drove away to St. Andrew's Church, amidst the loyal greetings of the thousands of people who lined the streets.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF DEVON.

The annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Devonshire Masons was held in the afternoon at the St. George's Hall, Stonehouse. The Provincial Grand Master, the Rev. J. Huyshe, presided, and there was a very large attendance of brethren.

The Provincial Grand Lodge having been opened in the customary form, the Provincial Grand Secretary, Bro. Leigh, read the minutes of the Prov. Grand Lodge, held at Dawlish on the 28th of August last, and also of the special lodges held at Exeter, on the 29th of January, and at Kingsbridge on the 16th of April, and these were now confirmed.

The Prov. Grand Secretary also read the report of returns from the lodges for the year ending 31st December, 1873, which showed that the total number of lodges contributing to the Fortescue Annuity Fund was 45, that the total amount subscribed was £45 15s. 6d., and that the total amount of dues was £263 4s. 6d.

The Treasurer's report, read by Bro. W. A. Maynard, showed that there was a balance in favour of the Grand Lodge of £209.

On the motion of Bro. Jones, of Exeter, seconded by Bro. the Rev. J. Oxley Oxland, Bro. W. B. Hambly, of Lodges 70 and 1205, was unanimously elected as Treasurer for the ensuing year.

Bro. Lee read the report of the Treasurer of the Fortescue Annuity Fund, which showed that in August of last year there was a balance due from the Treasurer of £26 3s. 11d. Since then there had been received £171 18s. 10d., whilst the expenditure had been £141 18s. 6d., leaving a balance in hand of £30 0s. 4d. There were invested in Consols £928 15s.; in Williams' mortgage, £150; in the Devon and Exeter Club, £400; and in the Savings Bank, £311 10s. 9d., making a total invested of £1,780 5s. 9d.

The Committee of Petitions presented the following report, which was read by Bro. Gover.— "The Committee of Petitions have pleasure in presenting their annual report to the Provincial Grand Lodge, the result of their exertions having been highly satisfactory. Very much of their success is due to the continued exertions of Bro.

James Stevens, who undertakes the onerous duty of conducting their elections in London, and has not only given the Province his own, but by his influence and energy has secured a large number of other votes. The committee have secured the election of Bro. Abraham Freeman, of Lodge 372, Budleigh Salterton, on the funds of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. Bro. R. B. Thompson, of the Sun Lodge, 1000, was also selected an annuitant. The committee regret that several lodges and chapters still withhold their votes. They believe this indifference arises from misapprehension, and trust that when every lodge is represented they will have the pleasure of reporting that the Province of Devon is thoroughly united. The committee are pleased to report that from an entire absence of applications for relief there has been no cause for their meeting since January, but at their meeting on Tuesday the committee, after due consideration, voted a sum of £5 to Mrs. Windeatt, widow of a member of lodge 1247, and they also recommended the Prov. Grand Lodge to grant a further sum of £10."

The whole of the reports were received and adopted.

The Provincial Grand Master said that he had to bring before them the notice of the Grand Lodge the question of a donation to the Female Orphan Asylum at Stoke, with which their distinguished Bro. Metham had so long and so closely been connected. There was no doubt that the Institution, on whose behalf he was about to speak, was a National Institution, and one which the nation ought to subscribe to, and undoubtedly would subscribe to. If they liked they could make it a Masonic Institution, and, to a certain extent, they had already done so, because he had been informed that no less than twenty-two orphans of Masons had already been recipients of that charity. He did not know any person who was more destitute than the female orphan, and he was sure there was not a single Mason, present or absent, whose heart did not acknowledge that fact. The position of the female orphan was a peculiarly sad one. The boy could go into the world and gain a livelihood in many ways. The girl was differently constituted. She required some amount of education, especially religious education, because it was necessary that the rising generation of females should be brought up in the true principles of chastity and goodness in every respect. This could not be expected of them unless they are brought up by institutions such as the Asylum at Stoke. It had been conducted in such a manner as to gain the highest approbation. He had seen it himself, and he could bear testimony to the truly excellent way in which it was managed, and he did not know of any institution more deserving a general and liberal support. There were now forty-five lodges in the province almost too far, for a man of his age to be able properly to manage, and with such a strong body they ought really to do something more than was ordinarily liberal. They were called upon to support the daughters of those who were the real defenders of our country. It was to them that we owed the peace and the comfort in which we lived, and he was going to propose a sum which he at first thought would frighten the Grand Lodge, but on consideration, he believed they would willingly vote the sum which he was going to ask them for, and that was that they should give a donation of a hundred guineas towards the asylum, to be delivered at the time when the Duke of Edinburgh came down for the purpose of laying the memorial stone of the new buildings.

Bro. W. Bine Haycock, of Sidmouth seconded the motion. He was quite sure that the approval of the Provincial Grand Master would not be made in vain. He was quite willing to give a sum of ten guineas towards the charity himself. There were nine other brethren present from his lodge, and if they would each give a £1 amount, he would increase his own subscription to twenty guineas.

Bro. Metham said:—"Right Worshipful and Brethren: Who among us will ever forget the glorious scene in which he has taken part to-day? We have right loyal and obedient segment, a least, of our... We have prevailed..."

of our native land in the person of that gracious Prince, who is not only an illustrious chief in our Order, but heir to that empire on which the sun never sets, and heir, too, as we fondly hope of those virtues which have seated her so firmly in the affections of all her subjects. But a day so auspicious can best be made memorable among Masons by our rendering the circle of our Masonic duties complete by practising the leading characteristics of our order—charity. Without some such act the keystone of the arch is still loose, the brightest jewel in the Masonic tiara is still unpolished and unset. To this end I ask you to support the proposition of our revered Prov. Grand Master. The charity is, indeed, my child, both by inheritance and adoption, dearer to me than anything else in the world, save those whom God has given to me as my own, but I will plead to you for it on its intrinsic merits, not on personal grounds, although I should be ungrateful indeed if I neglected to acknowledge the munificent responses I have already received, and which have been accompanied by so many expressions of confidence and goodwill towards myself. I plead to you, then, on behalf of the Asylum, on benevolent, patriotic, and Masonic grounds. Is it not our recognised duty, as Masons, to carry comfort and consolation to every one of our fellow creatures in the hour of their need? The Asylum does this in the persons of the most helpless class in the world, the destitute female orphan. Already it has rescued 1000 such from want, ignorance, and vice, and it seeks by the erection of additional wings, to double the number of inmates, to give to those unhappy children wholesome food, instead of starvation, warm clothing and lodging instead of scanty rags and pinching cold, industrial, intellectual, moral, and religious teaching, instead of the blank mind which knows not wrong from right or good from evil, and the dulled soul which has been neglected as the body. They have been born into the world with faces as fair, with forms as graceful, with intelligence as bright as those possess, in whom all our affections are wrapped up, and it rests with you to say whether their future shall be as bright, although it may be more humble, or whether it shall be so dark that humanity shudders at the contemplation. But for the aid of charity, begin their history as you may, it is sure to end in beggary or the streets, the refuge, the hospital, the union, and the pauper grave. And the class of miserables for whom I am especially pleading have been reduced to this wretched plight, that our children should still be happy, and uncoloured by the touch of the invader. These children's fathers served, fought, and died that England might still be great, glorious and free. By the sword, disease, fire, and shipwreck they fell by thousands, and until we came to the rescue no one asked what had become of the old tree which had been overthrown, of the faithful wives who had been made miserable widows, and the happy children who had been made destitute orphans. And of these warriors, faithful to their trust, many were our brethren, with whom we have interchanged the grasp of the sure brotherhood. In the present there are now, and in the future there are sure to be any such claimants for relief, orphans of our defenders and our brother Masons. Will you not help them and shelter them within the arms where brotherly love shall guide and guard them. I know, I feel, you will not only in this Prov. Grand Lodge, but in your own lodges take in your own persons, and by your own influence. And such a testimonial of Masonic benevolence and patriotism, will silence all the wailers who ask "what is the good of Masonry?" But more can I say to commend so good a use to your support? When you go back to your own family circles, and your own dear children crowd around your knee, and ask with an enquiring tongue and eye what you have done and done to-day, tell them of the gracious presence in which you have stood, of the gorgeous exciting scene in which you yourselves played a part. But tell, too, that you have helped to plant a tree, which, when all who have taken a part in to-day's pageant have passed away, and which, when they and their children's eyes are forgotten, shall shelter under its widespread, fruitful branches, generation after generation of happy children, who but for its shelter would have drifted down life's rapid, turbid stream into the dread ocean of eternity, uncared for and unthought of, as neglected in mind and soul as in body.

Bro. Watts said no one appreciated the value of the institution more than himself, but at the same time he wished to call their attention to the fact that the object to which it was supposed that this money should be devoted was not a purely Masonic object. They ought not to lose sight of the Fortescue Fund, which had greater claims upon their consideration and support. He hoped that they would not hear of such a proposition again, because he thought they were taking money which should go into a more legitimate channel. He moved as an amendment that fifty guineas should be given, and if that were granted, he was quite sure it would be looked upon outside as a very handsome sum.

As the amendment did not meet with a second, it fell through, and a vote upon the original motion was then put and carried with unanimity, amidst loud applause.

Bro. Jew had upon the notice paper a proposed alteration in the Bye Laws, but after some discussion the question was postponed.

The P.G.M. then called the attention of the Grand Lodge to the beautiful ceremonial in which the Masons of the two Provinces had that morning taken a part. He said that the arrangements which were entrusted to the Committee had been carried out in the most efficient manner, and he asked the brethren present to join with him in giving the Committee a cordial vote of thanks for their services. Nothing could have been more orderly than the conduct of the immense crowd which filled the streets whilst the procession was going from Millbay to the Guildhall.

Bro. the Rev. C. J. Martin, of Suffolk, seconded the motion, which was carried.

On the motion of the P.G.M., seconded by the D.P.G.M., Bro. Metham, the cordial thanks of the Grand Lodge were given the Mayor and Corporation of Plymouth. Both gentlemen spoke of the extreme cordiality and courtesy with which they were received by His Worship and the municipal body.

Bro. I. Latimer expressed his cordial thanks for the unanimous resolution of the Grand Lodge, thanking the Mayor and Corporation for their having granted the use of the hall. When the question was put to the Mayor and the members of the Committee it was received in the most favourable manner, and everything was done in order to promote the success of the gathering.

Bro. Wood, P.M. 421, said there was a very strong feeling amongst some of our military brethren in consequence of their having been, for some reason or the other, prohibited from attending the procession of that day. He did not know the reason of it, but it was not due to the action of the military authorities, but to the action of the members of the Committee themselves, and he should like to know whether that was true or not.

Bro. Colonel Elliott said he was in a position to state that the order emanated from the Commander-in-Chief, and that it was in compliance with the Queen's Regulations, which prohibited non-commissioned officers from taking any part in public demonstrations.

The sum of £50 was voted to the Fortescue Annuity Fund, and a further sum of ten guineas to the Torbay Infirmary.

- J. Rogers, 202... Prov. G. Tyler.

In presenting the Rev. W. Whitley to the office of Prov. Grand Junior Chaplain, the Prov. G. M. said this was the first time in the history of Masonry in the province that a Non-conformist Minister had received such an appointment. He was quite sure that the two Grand Chaplains would work harmoniously together.

Provincial Grand Lodge was then closed in due form.

LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

The monthly meeting of the Lodge of Benevolence was held on Wednesday evening, at Freemasons' Hall. Bro. Joshua Nunn, S.V.P. sat as President; Bro. James Brett, J.V.P., as S.V.P.; and Bro. C. A. Cottebrune, as J.V.P. Bros. John Hervey, G.S.; Joseph Smith, P.G.O.; John Wright, G.P.; H. G. Buss, and several other brethren were also present. The sum of £170 was voted to cases of distress. An American brother, who was assisted last September, with £5 to take him to America, sent a remittance for that amount to the lodge, and expressing his thanks for the timely aid afforded him. At the Board of Masters which preceded the Lodge of Benevolence, notice of motion was given by the Grand Master that he would at next Grand Lodge move a vote of condolence on the death of the Earl of Dalhousie, as Past Deputy Grand Master of England, and another to be sent to Grand Lodge of Scotland, on the loss of the same nobleman, as Past Grand Master Mason of Scotland.

THE HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY, FROM ITS ORIGIN TO THE PRESENT DAY.

BY J. G. FINDEL,
Second Edition, Revised, and Preface written by
BRO. D. MURRAY LYON.
One vol., 800 pages 8vo., with an Index. Cloth gilt.
Price, 10s. 6d.

"This book is a strictly historical one, from which all is excluded that is not based upon ascertained or probable fact."—Builder.
"Of its value to Freemasons, as a detailed history of their Brotherhood, it is not possible to speak too highly."—Public Opinion.
"The author seems to have fairly exhausted the subject."—The Athenaeum.

"The edition we are now considering is a second English edition, which had the great advantage of Bro. D. M. Lyon's able superintendence and editorship in its English dress. There can be no doubt but, that so far, Bro. Findel's work is the most complete work on Freemasonry which has yet appeared, and that he deserves the greatest credit for his careful and accurate treatment of all evidence on the subject, and for his honest desire after truth. Bro. Findel gives up in the view he has so clearly and consistently put forth our early Masonic history, the older theory of the Roman Colleges, &c., and limits the origin of Freemasonry to about the twelfth century, and as then arising from the operative Masons, and specially the "Steinmetzen" and "Bauhütten" of Germany. Bro. Findel gives us a good deal of evidence on this head, and one thing is clear from his work, that the German Freemasons were, at a very early period, organized into lodges with a Master over them, and with outward regulations and inner ceremonies peculiar to the Craft. Bro. Findel rejects all the views which have been from time to time put forward of a Templar or a Rosicrucian origin. Whether or no Bro. Findel's theory of the date of the rise of Freemasonry be correct, matters very little: we do not ourselves profess to accept it; but this we can fairly say of Bro. Findel's work, it is marked from first to last by the most remarkable token of industry, ability, and care, of patient research, and of skilful criticism. We know of no work which so clearly sets before us our amount of knowledge up to the present time on the great question of Masonic Archaeology, and there can be little doubt that what Professor's work is to English Freemasonry, Findel's work is to cosmopolitan Freemasonry. Indeed no student in Masonry can now dispense with it, and it is a perfect storehouse both of Masonic evidence and Masonic illustrations. We earnestly recommend all the lodges in this country to obtain a copy for the lodge library before the work is bought up for America; and we believe that no Mason will rise from the perusal of its pages without a higher idea both of the historical truth and intrinsic value of Freemasonry, and of fraternal regard and recognition to the latest and not the least well-informed or effective of our Masonic historians. The present century has produced no such equal, in authority and usefulness, to the great work of our Bro. Findel, and we wish him and it, in all of fraternal sympathy and kindly intent, many earnest readers, and more grateful students."—The Masonic Magazine.

GRAND MASONIC GATHERING AT PLYMOUTH.

We rejoice to announce the complete success of the great and pleasant gathering of the united Provincial Grand Lodges of Devon and Cornwall for the reception of our Royal and Illustrious Brother, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. The whole of the proceedings seem to have passed over with the greatest éclat, and nothing appears to have hindered in the slightest degree the completeness and carrying out the appointed programme, or to have marred in any way the harmony of the assembly, and the happiness of the brethren. One complaint has, indeed come before us, which appears in another page, but which we hope has arisen purely from some little untoward misunderstanding, most regrettable in itself as a fact; it is yet let us trust, susceptible of friendly and fraternal explanation. Otherwise nothing, in fact, could be in better taste than the arrangements, and they reflect much credit on the joint committee. The addresses to our Royal Brother were most happily conceived and composed, and served unmistakably to demonstrate the loyal attachment of the Cornwall and Devonshire brethren to their exalted guest, and his royal house, at the same time that they remarkably evinced how Masonic truth is free always from mere adulation and how warm and devoted are equally our Masonic sympathy and our patriotic affection. Our Royal Brother's reply was both manly and eloquent, and spoken, evidently, from the heart. Amid ridiculous accusations of political conspiracy and the childish diatribes of heated adversaries, ignorant of our principles of belief and action, it must be most consoling to all true English Freemasons, to hear the Heir Apparent to the Throne speaking in such warm and hearty terms of fraternal appreciation and goodwill towards the zealous members of our calumniated Order. It surely is a good set-off to know, that, despite the attacks of the Ultramontane press and the fierce invectives of Episcopal assailants, our brother the Prince of Wales rejoices to own us as his brethren, finds a happiness and satisfaction in being amongst us, and reciprocates with all of heartfelt sincerity and sympathy to our honest and loyal and Masonic sentiments of devotion, affection and regard. And so mote it be! We can afford to treat as idle clamour and hopeless ineptitude, the jargon of controversial Romanists, and the incriminations of anonymous scribblers, when no less a person than our Royal Brother gladly accepts our unbought homage, and relies firmly on our loyalty and true Masonic devotion. We feel sure that we express the feelings of the entire Order when we congratulate our brethren of the Provinces of Cornwall and Devon on this most successful meeting. But one word before we close. We think it right to point out a use of Masonic terms, which we regret to see creeping in amongst the brethren. We have suffered so much from slipslop vernacular in things Masonic that we cannot afford to pass it over in silence. Why, with Bro. W. J. Hughan amongst them, did the united provinces term themselves the "United Grand Lodges?" The expression is, Masonically, most incorrect. And while more than one distinguished brother seems to have fallen into the error of using the same misnomer, we note with pleasure that our Royal Brother, always most particular and correct, calls that famous assembly at Plymouth most rightly, "more Lathomico," the "United Provincial Grand Lodge of Devon and Cornwall." We trust that our Devonshire and Cornwall brethren will excuse our honest and fraternal criticism, while it is with no expression of mere lip-service that we say to-day, echoing response of our great brotherhood "God bless our Brother, the Prince of Wales!"

OTHER ATTACKS UPON FREEMASONRY.

The Roman Catholic body is not the only religious body in this country which, strange say, is hostile to Freemasonry. There are some members in the Church of England, just as there are some members of the Presbyterian Kirk in Scotland, who think it well and becoming asperse the motives and impugn the constitution of our Order. But in England, as a general rule, despite an occasional scolding of some whose zeal, for his own sake, is his c cretion, the wiser and more tolerant majority of the Church of England have been content to regard Freemasonry with friendliness and goodwill. A young paper, called the Church Herald, has allowed some depreciatory remarks in its correspondence about our Order, but as a general rule we have little to complain of as regards the treatment of Freemasonry by the English Church, though there may be some of the clergy, no doubt, who, on their own peculiar grounds, do not approve of our wide and expansive principles. But in Scotland there has always been a latent dislike to the Order on the part of "Associate Synods," and "Kirk Sessions." From the date of the Edinburgh "deliverance" of August, 1757, more than once we have heard of condemnations of our Order, though why we cannot understand, from Presbyterian authorities. It is curious enough, in the history of the world, how true it is that "extremes meet," and how two such antagonistic organizations as the Roman Catholic and the Presbyterian should be found united in ecclesiastical condemnation of us poor wicketed Freemasons! And quite recently the Rev. Jas. Kerr, of Greenock, according to the Masonic News, of Glasgow, has, it happens, published a pamphlet, entitled, "The Principles and Practices of Secret Societies Opposed to Scripture and to Reason." The Rev. James Kerr prints the pamphlet, it seems, in deference to the express request of no less a body than the "Reformed Presbyterian Synod." Why, at a time when so many better subjects might interest a so-called religious body, one should be disposed to think, an attack upon Freemasonry should be considered seasonable or "improving," we do not profess to understand. But we do not venture, however, to question the deliberate resolution or judgment of so august a body, especially as there have floated over the border alarming whispers of ecclesiastical penance in the good old "Land o' Cakes," in which reference to a certain "cutty stool" prominently stand out. As far as we understand Mr. Kerr's proposition, Freemasonry is opposed to Scripture because, to use his own quotations, he finds in the Bible these words, "Come not thou unto their secret," "Be ye separate, saith the Lord," and upon these two texts, as we understand it, by what is in truth a blasphemous adaptation, he denounces the Masonic Order in toto. Of course, we need hardly point out to the most unlearned Freemason, that, such texts of the Bible never were intended to have any such meaning, and nothing is more dreadful or shocking, in our opinion, than such irreverent handling of the true meaning of that holy and inspired volume, we Freemasons so constantly use, and so habitually revere. Freemasonry is opposed to reason, because, as we understand the controversial Kerr, certain representations of supposed ceremonies which he dilates upon are repugnant to right reason—to his right reason! We can only say that the writer of this childish pamphlet has forgotten the very first principles of logic. He assumes the whole matter in dispute from his own purely theological point of view, and therefore his premises are as defective as his conclusion is erroneous. Freemasonry is neither opposed to Scripture nor to right reason. Without perverting texts or mis-quoting scripture, we could, if need be, from the very pages of God's word, bring forward much to prove the propriety of Freemasonry, while from its constitution and working, its aims and ends, we might surely demonstrate its "reasonableness" to every right thinking man. But such attacks as Mr. Kerr's are in themselves utterly harmless. They do Freemasonry more good than hurt, and they are only the relics of a past age of intolerant and unsound theology. The progress of time and the spread of education are happily gradually and greatly weakening all such "dark superstitions" amongst us. The test of all things now is a practical one, and if Freemasonry comes up to that truer standard, in vain are the denunciations of bigots, and harmless the lucubrations of the intolerant. The argument against the secrecy of Freemasonry is one which we believe is utterly untenable in itself, but it is one which requires more space for its investigation and treatment than we can afford to-day. On an early occasion we will revert to it, but in the meantime, let our good Scottish brethren believe that, as intolerance and ignorance of their true principles harmed them not in "Auld lang syne," they cannot hurt or hinder them to-day in the slightest measure, as they move on, true to their own great principles of brotherly love, and toleration, and above all, distinguished in this busy age, by the development of that comprehensive charity, which is not satisfied with words or professions, but is ever calmly and unostentatiously intent on deeds of kindness and labours of love. True Freemasonry is ever alike comprehensive and consistent, tolerant and forbearing, charitable and philanthropic, and such it will continue to be when Mr. Kerr's attack, like many other similar attacks on Freemasonry, is consigned to contempt and oblivion.

NEW MASONIC PUBLICATIONS.

We have great pleasure in calling the attention of the Craft to two new publications, which will shortly be in the hands of our reading Masons. The one is a "Life of Constantine," a translation, published by Bro. Kenning, with illustrations and engraved portraits, with a preface by Bros. R. W. Little and the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford. To this interesting book we beg to call the attention of all our readers. The other publication announced is a reprint of the First Edition of the Constitutions of 1815, together with the Memorials of the Masonic Union of 1813, by our indefatigable Bro. W. J. Hughan. The Memorials will contain not only an introduction and several official documents, such as the "Articles of Union," but also the valuable List of Lodges, compiled by Bro. Hughan with much labour and research, and especially Bro. Dr. D'Assigny's Enquiry, of 1744, containing (so far) the earliest printed reference to Royal Arch Masonry. Bro. Hughan proposes to give as a frontispiece a fac-simile of the Arms of the Ancient and Operative Masons, published in Ahiman Rezon, 1764. We understand that our Bro. Hughan only intends to have 100 copies printed for subscribers, at 10s. 6d., in Great Britain, and 100 for the United States. We would also call attention to an announcement, in another column; of the publication of a volume of Yorkshire poems, by the wife of our well known and able Bro. G.M. Tweddell, with the hope that her little poetic effort may receive the kindly support of the Craft.

FREEMASONS AND GOOD TEMPLARS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

"Keystone" applies the plumb-line rather closely to my last letter, but hardly gives me a satisfactory reply. He seems to allow, that a Good Templar is not debarred from becoming a Freemason by his peculiar views, which are in fact religious convictions. Yet he also appears equally positive that by the Constitutions, letter and spirit of the Order, he is debarred from attending Masonic banquets. Is not this somewhat anomalous? Revise the case and I may see reason in the Constitutions of the Good Templars, why one of their body should not be present at such banquet, but that is not the matter under present question.

I do not think I am ignorant of the elementary principles and objects of Masonry, nor am I wholly ignorant of its history, but I have certainly regarded the banquet as a friendly meeting after business, rather than an essential of the Order. If it is so, there can be no prima facie reason why a Mason should be excluded because of his holding views which in no way debar him from attendance at his lodge. The only question that occurred to my mind was that relating to the healths commonly proposed—honoured Masonically and drunk—and however imperfectly I fulfilled my intention, I meant to ask would it not be sufficient to honour the toast Masonically, without drinking to it, which a G. T. could and would naturally do. I have not the opportunity just now of looking into the Constitutions, although I am bound to admit their authority, and if the thing proposed is "impossible" the matter cannot be discussed. Yet I feel that there is something unsatisfactory in Keystone's reply, because it makes the banquet more exclusive than the Order itself. It certainly was a prominent feature of the Dionisia of old—so prominent as ultimately to put the mysteries and fundamentals in the background—a state of things that no good Mason would desire to see restored; but if the banquet is not the essential, why should it reject those whom the letter and spirit of Masonry does not debar from becoming brethren of the Order. M.M.

NON-COMMISSIONED OFFICERS AND MASONIC PROCESSIONS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

The United Provincial Grand Lodge and Brethren of Devon and Cornwall, assembled on the 14th inst., to meet the Most Worshipful Past Grand Master of England, His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, at the opening of a new Guildhall, by our Illustrious Brother, and you can easily believe that every loyal Freemason in garrison was anxious to testify his fealty by taking part in the proceedings.

I am, however, sorry to state, that, the Masonic Non-Commissioned Officers of the Army were not permitted to appear in the procession, owing to an order in the Official Grand Lodge "programme," that black coats, black silk hats, &c., were to be worn by all brethren attending.

This degrading, and insulting prohibition, will not be forgotten in a hurry, by over one hundred respectable Non-Commissioned Officers of this garrison, most of whom are in good standing in their lodges, and naturally enough expected that they, in common with their civilian brethren, were entitled to all the rights and privileges of Ancient Freemasonry; but such a prohibition should be condemned by all interested in sustaining the prestige of our honourable Order.

The executive of the Devon and Cornwall United Prov. G. Lodges may seek to escape deserved censure by throwing the onus on the Major-General Commanding, who actually did refuse to approve of our attendance at the demonstration, but, I am in a position to state positively, that, if we had not been completely ignored in the programme before alluded to, he would have unhesitatingly given his consent on this occasion.

Talk about being "cuffed," by Father Cuff, but Father Cuff's cuff is as nothing to this indignity.

I shall, as a soldier, hesitate to visit any lodge in this province, being (after what has occurred) impressed with the idea that equality in Masonry, in this part of England, exists only in name.

Trusting that some abler pen than mine will vindicate us from the slur thrown upon the Masonic Non-Commissioned Officers of the Army by the United Provincial Grand Lodges of Devon and Cornwall, I remain, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

SOLDIER FREEMASON.

[We entirely go with our Bro. "Soldier Freemason," and deeply regret that any foolish Masonic red-tape should have hindered our Soldier Brethren from joining in the procession.—Ed.]

MASONIC JURISPRUDENCE.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

The following case having been referred to the Standing Committee of Lodge _____ for consideration and advice is of so rare and peculiar a character, involving as it does so nice a point of Masonic equity, that I should (although the case has been decided) much wish for the opinion of some of our brethren who are more familiar with Masonic jurisprudence than myself, particularly as the case may hereafter be quoted as a precedent. The case, as submitted, stands thus.

1st. Bro. _____ applies in due form to be affiliated to Lodge _____, he is balloted for and rejected.

2nd. A Masonic Ball is about to be given by the lodge in which he was rejected, to which no funds of the lodge are to be devoted, the expenses being defrayed by brethren who wish to subscribe or attend. The custom has been that no brother (subscribing member of the lodge or not) should be invited unless he subscribes to the ball, the usual invitations to other lodges, and a brother on a journey excepted.

3rd. Bro. _____, who was rejected, say last evening, applies this morning (knowing he had been rejected) to one of the committee appointed by the lodge to issue invitations, and intimates that he wishes to subscribe to the proposed ball.

The question to be decided by the committee was—

1st. Are we are bound by Masonic law to acquiesce in the ballot of last evening. Would it be consistent to allow the brother to subscribe?

2nd. If not allowed to subscribe can he be invited as a guest?

I enclose the decision of the committee, which was unanimous on both questions.

1st. Bro. _____ cannot be allowed to contribute to the ball.

2nd. Bro. _____, being a resident, cannot attend unless he subscribes, and further that, having been rejected at the ballot for his affiliation to invite him as a guest would be inconsistent with the principles of Masonic Laws.

Yours fraternally,

ONE OF THE COMMITTEE.

[We agree with the committee, both in law and equity.—Ed.]

The Masonic Magazine for August gives a number of extracts from the criticisms passed by the local press on Mr. Emra Holmes's lecture on "Charles Dickens," and states that Mr. Holmes is preparing his lecture for publication in the pages of the Magazine, to the readers of the next number of which it is hoped it will be introduced.—Ipswich Journal.

Altum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

In answer to my able and excellent brother student, W. J. Hughan, I send him the following replies to his interesting queries, and shall always be glad to give him any help I can in his persevering labours in the good cause of Masonic Archaeology and Investigation.

1. The first edition of Ashmole's life was published in 1717.

2. The account of his initiation at Warrington is in the first edition.

3. There does not appear in the British Museum Library to be a regular second edition, but the matter is printed and inserted in the "The Lives of those eminent Antiquarians, Elias Ashmole, William Kelly, &c., 1774." In this volume the account of the initiation is the same as in the edition of 1717.

4. There is no earlier edition of Dr. Plot's History of Staffordshire, either in the Bodleian or the British Museum, than the one in 1686. I do not believe that any earlier one was published. A copy of the 1686 edition, with MS. emendations, by Dr. Plot, [is in the British Museum.

5. The work you allude to is probably a work by Stehelin, published in London, 1748, 850, and termed "Rabbinical Literature, or the Traditions of the Jews, contained in the Talmud and other mystical writings, &c." What is it I will try and let you know next week.

PRESENTATION TO BRO. FITZPATRICK.

On Tuesday, 11th inst., a number of brethren met in the dining-hall of the Masonic Hall, Molesworth-street, Dublin, for the purpose of presenting Bro. Andrew Fitzpatrick, of Stephen's-green and Nassau-street, with an appropriate testimonial of their esteem and brotherly affection, won after a long connection with the venerable Order, during which the favoured recipient won the golden opinions of all with whom he had to do, and ever proved himself a worthy brother as well as a warm friend. Few have been more active in forwarding the charities in connection with the Order, or, in an unobtrusive way, doing all he could to forward their interests generally. When the project of a testimonial for Bro. Fitzpatrick was set on foot, it was responded to with great heartiness, and a very large number of the Masonic brethren joined in the movement. Of these a small proportion—about forty—met Bro. Fitzpatrick, to present him, on behalf of the subscribers, with the valuable testimonial, consisting of a fine gold chronometer balance watch, with the following inscription:—

"Presented to

BRO. FITZPATRICK, P.M., No. 75,

As a mark of esteem and regard by a number of his Masonic brethren.

June, 1874."

There was in addition a splendid tea and coffee service, kettle, salver, &c., of a very pleasing pattern, each bearing the letter "F" inscribed, and an inscription as above on the salver. An excellent supper was provided by Mr. B. Murphy, of Clare-street, and served up in excellent style, Bro. Griffin, LL.D., G.S.B., in the chair.

Supper having been partaken of,

The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed and fittingly responded to.

The Worshipful Chairman then rose and said—Brethren, we have now come to the business of this evening. You are all aware of the purpose for which we are assembled—namely, to do honour to one to whom honour is due—to present our worthy brother Andrew Fitzpatrick with, I will not say a small token, but a very substantial mark of the esteem and regard entertained for him, by not merely the brethren of his own lodge, but by the Order generally. It has been written that out of the fullness of the heart the mouth speaketh, but, though this is generally true, there are times when the heart is too full to speak. If there were any strangers or guests present I should tell them of Bro. Fitzpatrick's many good and amiable qualities, qualities which have endeared him not merely to his brethren, but also to his fellow-citizens at large. However, you all know him, and he only requires to be known in order to be appreciated. I shall, therefore, content myself with presenting him, on behalf of the subscribers, with this gold watch and tea and coffee service, also with the address, which conveys in few words the feelings of many hearts.

The Chairman then called on Bro. Young, Hon. Sec., to make the presentation.

Bro. Young then, in handing over the testimonial, said—A few of your intimate friends had at first contemplated demonstrating in some small, though marked, manner their feelings of esteem and affection for you, but we are happy to state that as soon as the subject became known the subscription list attained dimensions which conclusively proved to us we should not be warranted in narrowing its sphere. It must always be a source of pride to you to learn, as it is a gratification to us to state that your unostentatious charity in responding to any appeal on behalf of a distressed or deserving brother, and your active sympathy and support shown in connection with our Masonic Schools, has been fully appreciated and recognised. Your Masonic worth and zeal, your active efficiency in the discharge of your duties, and the tangible evidences you have frequently given in forwarding the interests of the Craft, have commended you as a worthy recipient of the present tribute of our regard. We, therefore, on behalf of a large and influential section of our Masonic brethren, have much pleasure in presenting you with this address, accompanied as it is, by a more substantial evidence of their appreciation—viz., a gold watch, a salver, tea and coffee service, kettle and stand. May you long live to enjoy the few gifts we now offer you.

Bro. Fitzpatrick, in reply, said he accepted with sincere pleasure and gratitude their very kind address and magnificent testimonial, but altogether failed to find words to express his feelings. Having touchingly alluded to the recent demise of one who had subscribed, he went on to express his joy that he should have attained such a high place in the warm regards of his Masonic brethren, but he felt they had in their kindness said much more respecting himself personally than could bear the scrutiny of a less friendly examination. He continued—You have been pleased to notice my exertions in support of our Masonic Schools, but I assure you, that whatever humble efforts I may have put forth in their behalf, I did from a sense of duty, as I look upon these schools as deserving of the best exertions of every true Mason, and as being the one great feature in connection with our Order that stands out prominently before the non-Masonic world, undeniable evidence of one of the great features of our brotherhood—charity. In conclusion, he simply asked them to accept the thanks of a grateful heart as the only return he could offer for their marked expression of fraternal friendship.

A most harmonious evening was then spent; several toasts were proposed, songs sung, Bros. Ryan, Phillips, Doherty, Bouchier, &c., adding by their vocal efforts much to the enjoyment of the meeting.

THE CLEVELAND DIALECT.—Mrs. G. M. Tweddell (wife of our well-known Bro. George Markham Tweddell) is preparing for publication a small volume of "Rhymes and Sketches to illustrate the Cleveland Dialect." As Mrs. Tweddell has won the "golden opinions" of competent judges, both for her fugitive dialect pieces and others, published under the assumed name of Florence Cleveland, we anticipate a treat in her collected volume; many of the pieces in which, we understand, appear there for the first time. We have much pleasure in calling attention to a specimen of Mrs. Tweddell's productions, and beg to say that subscribers' names will be received by Messrs. G. and Sons, Cleveland Printing Office, 10, South Street, Scarborough. Price of the volume, one shilling.

CROSBY'S BALSMIC COUGH ELIXIR. Includes an illustration of a landscape with a building and trees.

Opium, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy. SELECT TESTIMONIAL. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease." This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 12s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough. Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had gratis of all Chemists.

FUND FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE WIDOW OF THE LATE W. BRO. J. R. STEBBING, P.G.D (ENGLAND) AND D. PROV. G.M.

PRESIDENT.—The Right Worshipful W. W. B. BRECH, M.P., Provincial Grand Master.

At a meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge, recently held at Landport, it was unanimously resolved that a Committee be appointed for the purpose of raising a fund, to provide a suitable memorial to our late deeply-lamented Bro. Stebbing.

In pursuance of the foregoing resolution, a meeting was held at Southampton, which was largely attended, when the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:—

"That the Lodges and Chapters of the Province and Freemasons generally be solicited to subscribe to a fund, to be appropriated as the Committee shall determine, for the benefit of the Widow of our late lamented Bro. J. R. Stebbing, whose circumstances at the time of his decease render this appeal absolutely necessary."

"That copies of these resolutions be forwarded to each Lodge and Chapter in the Province, inviting their co-operation, as well as that of Brethren and Companions generally, in obtaining subscriptions to the fund."

"That a circular stating the circumstances be also transmitted to all other Lodges and Chapters in England."

The name of the late Bro. J. R. Stebbing is so well known in all Masonic circles that it seems unnecessary to set forth at length his long and valuable services. For many years he was a constant attendant at Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter, assisting the interests of the brethren and Companions. He was Vice-President of the Board of General Purposes in 1861, 1862 and 1863, and also an active member of the Building Committee of the present Freemasons' Hall, London.

He was rarely absent from the elections in various Charities, giving his valuable aid to the poor and distressed amongst the brethren of their relatives, contributing from his means the advancement of those charities, in which he had qualified as Vice-Patron of the Boys' School, Life Governor of the Girls' School, and Governor of the Benevolent Institution; and it is sincerely hoped that the Widow of one who was so actively engaged for the benefit of others (herself a Life-Governor of the Boys' School) should be placed in circumstances which will assist her in her present unexpected bereavement.

Subscriptions in aid of this fund may be sent to the Treasurer, Alderbrook House, Southampton; or to his bankers, Messrs. Edmond, Atherly, Hankinson, and Darwin, Southampton.

W. HICKMAN, Treasurer.
J. E. LE FEUVRE, Secretary.

in presence of a Board of Installed Masters, duly formed, consisting, in addition to Bro. T. Perry, P.M., of Bros. H. Howell, P.M. 487; Col. Ridgway, P.M., S.G.W. Devon; Watson, P.M. 328; W. A. Goss, P.M. 328; J. J. Drake, P.M. 1396; W. P. D. Michelmore, P.M. 1138; and S. Cash, P.M. 328. The ceremony was performed in a faultless manner by Bros. T. Perry, assisted by D. Watson, H. Howell, and J. J. Drake. The W.M. then appointed and invested his officers as follows:—F. Sarre, S.W.; G. G. Johnson, J.W.; T. W. Morgan, S.D.; J. Dodge, J.D.; T. Perry, Treasurer; W. Bradne, Secretary; W. A. Goss, jun., I.G. The lodge was then closed and the brethren adjourned to the Queen's Hotel, where an elegant and recherché banquet was provided. After the usual loyal and Masonic toasts had been given in a graceful and elegant manner by the W.M., Bro. Perry proposed "The Health of the W.M.," followed by Bro. Watson, in deservedly laudatory terms. The members of the lodge were honoured by the presence of many visiting brethren from the sister lodge of St. John, and lodges in surrounding towns, whose healths were drunk with great enthusiasm, and were responded to by several brethren, headed by Col Ridgway in a humorous speech.

NEWPORT.—Albert Edward Prince of Wales Lodge (No. 1429).—The installation of Bro. Wm. Watkins as W.M. of this lodge took place at the Masonic Hall, Dock-street, on Thursday, 20th inst. The D.P.G.M., Capt. George Homfray, performed the ceremony in his usual able and efficient manner. Lodge was opened by Bro. Wm. Randall as W.M., and the following brethren recorded their names in the signature book:—Bros. Capt. S. Geo. Homfray, D.P.G.M. (Mon.); C. W. Ingram, S.W.; Wm. Watkins, J.W.; J. Wilson Bebel, (Sec.); J. Horner (Treas.); E. Whitehall, J.D.; John James, I.G.; F. Orders, Std.; Hy Fletcher, Tyler; Wm. Twist, Jas. Poole, W. Kinsey Morgan, Henry Richards, Chas. Rowe, W.M. 471; Jas. Sanders, R. Wilkinson, S. Brukewick, E. W. Perrin, Jos. Davies, 471; L. A. Homfray, P.P.G.S.W. and P.M. 683; R. B. Evans, P.M. 471, and P.G.S.W.; W. H. Wiskey Homfray, S.W. 683; Thos. Williams, P.P.G.A.D.C. and P.M. 583; George Griffiths, P.M. 95; Jno. Middleton, P.P.S.G.W. and P.M. 683; W. W. Morgan, P.M. 683; W. H. Lloyd, P.G.R. and I.P.M. 1258; Samuel Davies, P.G.S.W. (Gloucester) and P.M. 270 and 1363; J. Barter, 471; A. Sieverdin, 471; Alfred Jacob, 471; John Gamble, S.W. 270; W. Parfitt, P.S.W. 683 and P.G.D.C.; G. B. Rellhood, Royal Leeds, 53; Fred. Wits, 471; Henry Howells, 472; Isaac T. Dando, Isca, 683; Jacob Droiff, 394; H. Woolf, 471; A. Taylor, 471; John Pitman, 419; Isaac Jenkins, 442; W. Davies, 103; Jennings Hawker, 331; Peter Philands, Kilwinning Lodge, 4, Glasgow; George Bilson, 673, Liverpool; A. S. Fowler, 970, Stockton-on-Tees, and others. There were present at this interesting ceremony some sixty brethren at least. A Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. Watkins having been duly installed in the chair of King Solomon, and having done his devoirs to his confreres of the same degree, commanded the Tyler to "sound an alarm," and presently there trooped forth into the splendid lodge room a large gathering, who, according to ancient custom, greeted the newly installed Master with great enthusiasm. Then followed the investiture of officers, the W.M. making suitable remarks on the delivery of each collar. We subjoin a list of the fortunate candidates.—Bros. W. Randall, I.P.M.; J. G. Huxtable, S.W.; E. Whitehall, J.W.; J. W. Bebell, Secretary; James Horner, Treasurer; Frederick Orders, S.D.; John James, J.D.; Edward W. Perrin, Organist; Robert Wilkinson, Superintendent of Works; L. Hermessen, D.C.; William Twist, I.G.; J. Horner, junr. and J. Poole, Stewards; Henry Fletcher, Tyler. The financial statement of the lodge was distributed, and showed remarkable progress. The sheet exhibited a balance in hand of £44 17s. 10d. The W.M. (Bro. Watkins) cordially thanked the brethren for the confidence they had reposed in him. He would endeavour to merit the good opinion which his brethren had been pleased to form of him by their unanimous vote. He felt also deeply indebted to the large number who had attended to do honour to his installation. The W.M. then proposed, and it was seconded by Bro. C. W. Ingram, and carried unanimously, a cordial vote of thanks to "the Worshipful Brother Capt. George Homfray, D.P.G.M. (Mon) for his very able services rendered to the brethren this day, in the capacity of Installing Master." Bro. Homfray appositely returned thanks, promising his fatherly support as D.P.G.M. to the rising generation in Masonry. The usual votes of thanks to Bro. Randall, the retiring Master, and to the visitors, coupled with the name of Bro. L. A. Homfray, were recorded and duly responded to. The lodge was then solemnly closed. It is usual to have a banquet on these occasions, but we understand that it has been arranged to have a joint banquet of the three blue lodges, and January next has been indicated as the probable fixture for this festive gathering.

GLASGOW.—Kilwinning Lodge (No. 4) held their monthly meeting on Wednesday, the 5th inst., Bro. J. Prout, S.W.; J. Jameson, J.W.; there was one candidate who was initiated in first-class style by Bro. J. Thorburn, R.W.M.

GLASGOW.—Caledonian Railway (No. 354) met on the 5th inst., the R.W.M., Bro. J. Shaw, presiding, assisted by A. A. Smith, I.P.M.; D. Buchan, D.M.; Wm. Hadwell, S.M.; J. Stafford, S.W.; W. Joiner, acting J.W.; and a large attendance of members and visitors, who witnessed plenty of work, the R.W.M. initiating three candidates, passing three to the Fellow Craft degree, after which Bro. A. H. Smith raised four brethren to the sublime degree. The lodge having been reduced to the first degree, the R.W.M. said although it was late, he would like the brethren to remain a little, as they were about to lose the services of Bro. Hardy, their excellent Director of Music, who had helped them to pass so many pleasant evenings. Bro. Mackenzie then in a highly eulogistic speech, proposed the thanks of the lodge to Bro. Hardy, D. of M., who in reply said that when he got to Canada he should often think of the happy hours he had spent in company with the brethren of 354. The R.W.M. proposed "The Visitors," coupling it with Bro. J. O. Park and G. W. Wheeler. Both brethren replied, Bro. Wheeler giving "Prosperity to 354 and its very worthy Master," who promised to emulate the good P.M.'s, of whom the lodge could boast. Bro. Park proposed the Wardens and other officers. Bro. Stafford briefly acknowledged the compliment; after "The Fireside of the Master" had been given and acknowledged, the lodge was closed, all well pleased, though regretting to lose a brother.

GLASGOW.—Lodge St. John (No. 34).—This old and influential lodge held their bi-monthly meeting on Tuesday, August 15th, in their own hall, 213, Buchanan-street. There was a very large meeting. The chair was occupied by the R.W.M., Bro. Thomas Fletcher, who had the assistance of most of his officers, and in the working of the degrees the aid of Past Masters J. Smillie, McMillan, and Wm. Bell. There was a very heavy night's work, viz., two initiations, two passings and the raising of no less than thirteen brethren. All the ceremonies were carefully wrought by the Past Masters and Deputy Master. The raising of the fees has evidently not deteriorated from the popularity of this, the oldest lodge in the province, and which claims to date even before the Mother Lodge of Kilwinning.

GLASGOW.—St. Mungo Encampment of Knights Templar.—The monthly meeting of this body was held in St. Mark's Hall on Monday, the 16th August, Sir Knight R. Bell, G.S., the E.C., presiding; G. W. Wheeler, Recorder, acting Prelate; Wm. Cameron, C.C.; C. McKenzie, S.C.; J. Johnson, J. C.; S. Scott, M.; McClanahan, W. A petition was presented from Comp. P. Hastie, of 69. The ballot having been unanimous in his favour, he was admitted as a Pilgrim and afterwards created an Esquire of the Order. The nomination of officers for the ensuing year was then put forth.

GLASGOW.—Royal Ark Mariners' Lodge 73 met at 170, Buchanan-street, on the 14th inst., J. Balfour, F.N.; J. O. Park, McDonald J.; W. Wheeler, P. Application for admission on board was received from Hastie, of Lodge 4, who was admitted and installed in the duties of a Royal Ark Master.

GLASGOW.—The Council of Red Cross in connection with Chapter 73, Tuesday, 17th inst., J. O. Park, P. Balfour, acting President; G. W. Wheeler, W. McDonald, S.G.; J. Johnston, J. Bryde, 1st C.; J. S. Oliver, 2nd C.; J. man, S.; J. Hay, O.G.; Visitor D. R. Two companions of Chap. 69, Jas. Gibb, Jas. Hastie, were candidates for admission to the council being unanimous, they were and created Knights of the Sword. The lodge was subsequently opened in the other end and the same two gentlemen were then admitted into the other two points and Knights of the East, and also Knights of the East and West. Both the new Sirs afterwards returned thanks for the honours conferred upon them, and expressed their affection with the ceremonies they had passed through.

MACDONALD LODGE (No. 104).—This lodge met for an emergency on the 8th inst. in Charles Gosden's, Masons' Hall Tavern, half-street. A dispensation had been obtained from the Grand Master for the removal of the lodge from the 1st Surrey Volunteer Quarters, the future meetings are to be held at the same place. The brethren who attended on this occasion were Bros. Robert Berridge, S.W.; Stevens, P.R.W.M.; Thomas P.R.W.M., and Treasurer, W. P. G.D.; N. J. Z. Bassett, D.C.; G. Steward; F. H. Cozens, I.G.; J. K. F. M. Wohlgenouth, G. W. Verry, F. G. Sec.; and H. Massey (Freemason). Meggy, P.M., advanced Bro. Partridge to the degree of Knight, and as there was no other business before the meeting, the brethren adjourned to banquet. After the usual toasts were duly given, and Bro. James Stevens, in obedience to the W.M., responded for the Past Grand the Deputy Grand Master, and Grand Referring to Bro. Portal's reign over this Order he said that that brother had done more for this Order than probably any of his predecessors would do. Bro. Portal's service to the Order during his three years of office had been great in rendering it so perfect as it was at present time. The officers appointed had given every satisfaction, and they had deavoured by all the means in their power to promote the interests of the degree. That of those three years of Bro. Portal's rule had been lost, and it might safely be considered that the degree was both taking and holding in a manner which should give all members with the degree the greatest pleasure. The officers, it must be remembered, nothing of themselves if left alone, only by the support of the other members of the degree they could hope to achieve. From the support they were getting from the members there was no doubt that the degree was extremely encouraged. Bro. Bassett responded for the Grand Master for Middlesex and Sir Burdett, and said he was present at the annual festival of the Mark Benevolents at Richmond, when he represented this lodge, and he had to thank the brethren heartily for the support they gave him on that occasion. The Provincial Grand Lodge hold its next meeting in London in September, and he hoped that all the brethren of the Provincial Lodge, who were Provincial Officers would attend it.

Bro. T. Meggy then proposed a toast to the Provincial Grand Lodge. He said that from the day he had performed ed forward to a happy and prosperous year. gave this toast with confidence because he seen his working in a lodge before. The M. was one of those Masons who, when undertook a duty, did their best to perform properly. It was not every one who had the s to perform a W.M.'s work, but when a ther did all he could, and devoted much time attention to it, his efforts ought not to be acknowledged. Bro. Worrell did this, and he (Meggy) hoped that before this time next, when he went out of the chair, he would presented with that acknowledgment of his ges which the lodge was in the habit of owing on those Masters with whose work were satisfied. Bro. Worrell was glad efforts met with approval. Called upon at a short notice, to occupy the W.M., he had not been able to get up the ritual the fluency he should have wished, but he t to do so yet. There was no Masonic since he had been connected with the r, that he had shrunk from, and he did not id in this branch of it to shirk what fell to e. He should do all he could to work the ee to the satisfaction, not only of himself, of all his brethren. It was somewhat ult to accomplish the work of a Mark ege when the Master's duties in the Craft Arch also devolved on a brother, as he was to mix the little variations that occurred in : three together, and some confusion was reby created. Before the Lodge next met he ped he should overcome all difficulties that mented themselves in the working of the rk Degree.

Bro. Worrell next proposed "The Newly- nced Brother, Bro. Partridge," whom he d great pleasure in introducing himself. In Craft it was always a pleasure to shed the v light of Freemasonry on a brother, but en they came to this degree, with the new it they gave, a better and fuller enjoyment of emasonry was conferred, and he might also gratulate the brethren on having acquired a brother as the one they had advanced evening. He was of that kind and genial re which the brethren of the William ston Lodge were famous for. Moreover he a wonderful interest in Freemasonry, and anxious to go on in the various degrees. a brother he called on them to welcome.

Bro. Partridge said it was a difficult task for to reply, in fact "speechifying" he always ded, as he was not adapted for it. But after remarks which had fallen from Bro. rel, he could but state that he would avour to act as a Mark Master and should do was most conducive to the benefit of the r and this lodge. Bro. Worrell next pro- d "The P.M.'s" Bro. Meggy, Stevens, Wol- Crown, and Hammerton." Bro. Meggy nded, and in reply to some flattering rks of the W.M., on the use the P.M.'s had to the lodge, said that as regarded himself ked on this lodge as his family. He took pride in it, and he was glad the brethren ed as obedient children and with proper at- to the W.M. in the chair. He was glad d they were getting on in numbers, and he ht if they went on increasing as they had ly increased they would become the most ous lodge in the degree. It was always t pleasure to him to come amongst them any way he could assist them in the work- the lodge, because it was a great thing in egree that the work should be done cor- to give the candidate a proper appreciation beautiful ritual they had in Mark Masonry. ames Stevens, P.M., added that he should ve said anything to this toast if it had not hat some acknowledgment was due from or the kindness which enabled him to be at this meeting and others in the course year. They had made him an honorary er when he felt bound to resign on ac- of the Great City Lodge, of which he was , meeting on the same day as this lodge. ; Mark Lodges the Macdonald was the arest his heart, and if he had had to give on account of their clashing with his engagements he should certainly have d the Macdonald to remain connected with. ver he could promote the interest of the Macdonald Lodge they would always continue to have his earnest efforts on its behalf, in what- ever position he might be placed in Mark Masonry. "The Visitors," and "The Officers," were the remaining toasts, Bro. Berridge replying for the latter, and the brethren separated, some excellent singing having been given between the toasts by Bros. Meggy and Stevens.

DISTRICT GRAND LODGE OF BENGAL

A Quarterly Communication of the District Grand Lodge of Bengal was held at the Freemasons' Hall, 55, Bentinck-street, Calcutta, on Wednesday, the 24th of June, 1874.

Present:—The W. J. Pitt Kennedy, Past Dep. D.G.M., as District Grand Master; W. J. B. Roberts, Past Dep. D.G.M., as Dep. Dist. Grand Master; W. F. Jennings, Past Deputy District Grand Master; and the rest of the Dist. Grand Officers in their respective places.

Representatives of Lodges were present from Star in the East, 67, Industry and Perseverance 109, True Friendship, 218, Humility and Fortitude, 229, Marine, 232, Anchor and Hope, 234, Courage and Humanity, 392, St. John's, 486, Excelsior, 825, Star of Orissa, 1106, Temperance and Benevolence, 1160, Sandeman, 1374, Pioneer, 1490; and visitors from lodges 229, 234, 392, 486, and 1374.

District Grand Lodge was opened in form at 6.45 p.m.

The Acting District Grand Secretary reported the receipt of apologies from several brethren for unavoidable non-attendance.

The District Grand Master in the Chair said that, before proceeding with the work before the District Grand Lodge, he would call upon the Acting District Grand Secretary to read a letter lately received from the District Grand Master, R. W. Bro. Sandeman. He (the D.G.M. in the chair) was sure that it would be a great pleasure to all present to hear the words which their absent District Grand Master had addressed to them.

The minutes of the quarterly communication of the 21st March, 1874, having been printed and circulated, were, on the motion of the District Grand Master in the Chair, taken as read, and Bro. J. B. Roberts, P.D.D.G.M., wished to call attention to a very grave error of account in one of the reports embodied in the minutes of the last communication of District Grand Lodge. He thought that a note should be made of this.

The District Grand Master in the chair pointed out that the confirmation of minutes did not imply more than that, in the opinion of those present, they correctly recorded what had actually taken place at the meeting to which they referred. If the error in the report from a different body, now pointed out by Bro. Roberts, was actually in the report, as submitted to the District Grand Lodge, it was not only necessary, but it would even be improper for the District Grand Lodge to attempt to rectify it. As Bro. Roberts was aware the correction of the error referred to had engaged the attention of the body which was competent to deal with it, and the next report which the District Grand Lodge received from the Bengal Masonic Association would doubtless afford all that was necessary for the removal of any misapprehensions into which the members of the District Grand Lodge might have been led by the mistake in question.

The motion was then put and was carried, and the District Grand Master in the chair then addressed the District Grand Lodge as follows:—

Worshipful Brethren, I have not very many observations to make either on the matters which will come before you in the several reports which will be submitted this evening, or on the state and prospects of Masonry in the province generally. As there may be discussion on some of the subjects which are brought forward in the various reports, it appears to me to be a more convenient plan to reserve until then what I may have to say than to take up your time by entering into details now. I may, however, say generally, that the several reports seem to me satisfactory, and certainly, whatever opinion may be held as to whether Masonry is in all respects as flourishing as could be wished, it must be admitted that in one direction, and that which is, I take it, a sound test of the condition of the Craft, we have no reason to be dissatisfied. I congratulate the District Grand Lodge upon the condition of its Fund of Benevolence.

Of our other Charity, the Bengal Masonic Association, I am not able to speak so favourably. By a mistaken construction of one of its bye-laws it was supposed to be in a better position than it really was, and it is now, I regret to say, in a situation of temporary embarrassment. The capital, of course, remains what it was, and is even increasing; but the annual subscriptions have fallen off, and the result is that there are not enough funds to carry on with. This has been to some extent relieved—relieved I may say for the moment—but it will be necessary to consider what efforts can be made to place the association on a really safe footing, and I am informed that a proposition upon this subject will be brought before you this evening.

I regret to have to announce to you the exclusion of a brother from Lodge Marine, No. 232, for non-payment of dues.

I have next to make an announcement of a quite different character: I have appointed Messrs. T. Black and Co. to be book-sellers, stationers, and printers to District Grand Lodge. Messrs. Black and Co. are, as you are aware, our sub-tenants, occupying the ground floor of these premises; and the head of their firm is a well-known and esteemed brother among us, the Master of one of our Calcutta lodges, and an officer of District Grand Lodge. I venture to think that much convenience to the Craft in Bengal generally, as well as to District Grand Lodge in particular, will result from the appointment to which I am referring.

Finally, I would say a word or two upon a matter more personal to myself. In respect of one of the duties belonging to the office which I have the honour to hold among you for a time, I fear greatly that I must have seemed to you to be culpably negligent. I refer to the duty—the very pleasant duty as it has always been considered by the occupants of this chair—of officially visiting lodges. Brethren, I simply am not able to do it; my professional occupations will not permit me to do it. Visiting a lodge officially implies a late evening—not necessarily an unpleasant evening—quite the reverse, still less an evening that is not temperate and moderate in its enjoyments; but at the same time the result is decidedly a later evening than it is my custom to enjoy—later than the labours of my profession permit me to give myself. I have to express my regret that this is so, but so it is.

In other ways, it is possible that I may be able to be of use to you. I mean that in many questions that arise regarding lodges, involving reference to, and readings of, bye-laws, constitutions, and so forth, and it is not unlikely that, as a mere result of my professional training and daily habit of thought, I may be able to be of service; but in respect to that other duty, I must tell you that it is not possible for me to perform it, and I must ask your forbearance and indulgence regarding it.

W. Bro. Locke, Past Dep. D.G.M., moved—that the report of proceedings of the Committee of General Purposes, at a meeting on the 5th June, 1874, having been printed and circulated, be taken as read. Seconded by W. Bro. Mac-tavish, D.J.G.W., and carried unanimously.

The accounts of the Committee of General Purposes were passed.

W. Bro. Locke moved—that, under the circumstances urged in the second paragraph of section 3 of the report, the Committee of General Purposes be held excused for having taken up the question of the remission of rent to Lodge 392, informally brought before them.

W. Bro. Lindley, D.G. Registrar, seconded the motion, and it was carried.

W. Bro. Locke moved further—that the remission of the sum rs. 66-10-8, on account of two months' rent from lodge 392, as recommended by the committee in the last paragraph of section 3 of their report, be sanctioned.

Seconded by W. Bro. Turner, and carried unanimously.

Permission having been accorded by the District Grand Master in the Chair, W. Bro. Locke read the following, being a portion of Art. 50 of the bye-laws of District Grand Lodge, under the Chapter "Lodges placed in abeyance."

"The presiding Officer of a lodge, at the time of its being placed in abeyance, shall, with the above report [a report concerning the necessity of placing the lodge in abeyance] forward an account of the Lodge Property and Funds; and he will be guided by such instructions as may be communicated to him by the District Grand Master, with the view of holding the property and funds in trust until the lodge may be reopened; but if it be not resuscitated within two years, they shall be disposed of, and the proceeds made over to the Fund of Benevolence.

Wor. Bro. Roberts expressed himself as satisfied.

The report of proceedings of Grand Committee of the Fund of Benevolence, having been printed and circulated, were taken as read, received and ordered to be recorded.

Bro. Roberts had to make a remark which, he said, perhaps hardly came within the four corners of this report, but a mistake had been made, connected with the Fund of Benevolence which he thought should be set right. In the list of the members of the Executive Sub-Committee, a name, that of Bro. W. H. Jones, had been left out. There was also another mistake, the name of Bro. Le Franc had taken the place of W. Bro. Frew, but this was not perhaps a matter of very much consequence now, as Bro. Frew had gone away from Calcutta and his place on the Sub-Committee was filled by W. Bro. Le Franc. The omission of W. Bro. W. H. Jones from the list, however, was certainly a matter which he, Bro. Roberts, wished to have rectified, lest he might at any time be charged with irregularity in sending the minute book to Bro. W. H. Jones, as he was in the habit of doing.

The Acting District Grand Secretary was wholly unable to see how W. Bro. Roberts could ask District Grand Lodge to consider the statement which he had made as to errors, which whether they existed or not, were certainly not contained in, nor in any way connected with, the report which was now before the brethren upon regular motion. The motion before District Grand Lodge was to receive and record a report of proceedings at a meeting of the Managers of the Fund held upon a particular date therein set forth. The names of W. brethren found in that report were simply those of the members of the Grand Committee who were present at that meeting and of two who sent apologies for their absence. The report did not profess to give—it did not fall within its scope to give—a complete list of the Sub-Committee (or of the full committee for that matter), but only, as he had said, the names of those present at the meeting, with the incidental mention of two names of brethren who had sent apologies. He, W. Bro. Locke, regretted now that he had (with a view to the saving of time) moved District Grand Lodge to take the report as read, and, were it possible to withdraw that motion, he would, inasmuch as if the report was read, word for word, it would be seen how wholly irrelevant to it were the remarks which Bro. Roberts had made. He, Bro. Locke, would appeal to the Chair as to whether those remarks could be considered until the motion before the brethren was disposed of.

W. Bro. Roberts claimed the right of taking what steps he pleased in order to bring mistakes to notice. He was quite aware that those to which he was now referring were not in the particular report before them—he had said so on first rising—but they had to do with the Fund of Benevolence, and it did not seem to him to be at all out of order that he should ask for a mistake to be corrected.

The District Grand Master in the chair said he must overrule W. Bro. Roberts. The statements made by that brother certainly did not bear upon the motion which was before District Grand Lodge, and they could not be considered until that motion was disposed of.

The motion was then put, and carried unanimously.

Brother J. H. E. Beer, D. G. Organist, in moving the resolution of which he had given notice, and which stood in his name on the agenda paper, said that the object of his motion was the supply of a want which he had felt since he had held the office of District Grand Organist, and which he had ascertained had also been felt by his predecessors. District Grand Lodge did not possess a sheet of music, but had entirely to depend upon the kindness of musical brethren, who had frequently been sufferers by loss of what they had lent. He did not think that this state of things should continue. They had now a comparatively wealthy Musical Instrument Fund, and as it certainly appeared to him that the application of a small portion of this fund to the use which he proposed was quite a legitimate one, he would move that a sum of money not exceeding Rs. 100 be taken from the Musical Instrument Fund, and placed at the disposal of the D. G. Organist for the purpose of providing a suitable collection of music for the use of the D. G. Organist in Lodge and after banquet, and a box or almirah in which the music can be kept in safety. He would add that it was not his intention to spend the whole of the money at once, but carefully, from time to time, in getting what might be thought desirable. In selecting, he (Bro. Beer) intended to take counsel with other musical brethren, whose advice he was sure he could count upon.

The motion was seconded by W. Bro. James W. Browne.

The District Grand Master said that perhaps he could hardly refuse to put the motion, but he must confess that he felt considerable difficulty in putting it. It seemed to him to be really a motion for diverting the moneys of a fund to uses other than those for which they were subscribed. A sheet of music might be held to be a "Musical Instrument," but it certainly seemed to him to be stretching the definition. He could not himself think that the necessity for the purchase of music for special use at meetings of District Grand Lodge could be anything like a pressing one. Surely the musical brethren must have a large amount which they could use when they favoured us with music. It had always seemed to him to be a characteristic of musical people to have very large collections of sheets and books of music. He had often noticed in houses where music was cultivated what had appeared to him to be an over-abundance in this respect, and he really thought that the musical brethren in District Grand Lodge could hardly be put to much inconvenience for want of music books. As to the almirah or box in which to keep carefully any music that by accident or otherwise brethren might leave behind them occasionally, there was perhaps no objection to that; but he must confess that, for his part, he should be adverse to see any expenditure made from the Musical Instrument Fund for the purchase of music sheets or books. They must remember that pianos were not long-lived things. The amount now at credit of the Musical Instrument Fund bore but a small proportion to the cost of a new piano, and if drains upon the fund were made of the kind now proposed, we might at no very distant date find ourselves in want of a new instrument, and without sufficient money in the Musical Instrument Fund to buy one.

W. Bro. Locke asked whether, under Article 13 of the District Grand Lodge Bye-laws, which said that all questions of finance should be referred to the Committee of General Purposes for consideration and report, the mover of the present proposition could ask the District Grand Lodge to pass a definite vote upon the subject until it had been so referred. It seemed to him that the most that Bro. Beer could take by his motion that evening would be leave to refer the proposal to the Committee of General Purposes.

The District Grand Master concurred with Bro. Locke, whereupon Bro. Beer said he would, with the permission of District Grand Lodge, amend his motion by prefixing to it the words, "that the following propositions be referred to the Committee of General Purposes, viz." The seconded of the original motion expressed his assent to the proposed amendment.

W. Bro. Roberts was of opinion that there was no need at all for Bro. Beer to have been troubled to make any alteration in the wording of his motion. It was quite open to him to have moved it as it stood, and some other brother, if he had wished, could have moved any amendment.

Bro. Locke thought that W. Bro. Roberts was mistaken. He (Bro. Locke) had asked the chair whether by art. 13 of our bye-laws District Grand Lodge could be asked to take the proposition into consideration that evening, and the District Grand Master in the chair had said it could not. After that it was very evident that there had been some need for the alteration which Bro. Beer and his seconder had made.

The motion was then put—
"That the propositions be referred to the Committee of General Purposes."

The business as noted in the Agenda paper having terminated with the foregoing motion, the usual enquiry was made from the chair as to whether any brother had sought further to propose for the good of Freemasonry, upon which

W. Bro. Roberts said yes, he had something to propose for the good of Masonry. It was, he thought, decidedly for the good of Masonry that the public should see that our charities were not less cared for than they had always been. Amongst the works of charity which Masonry had always encouraged, that of educating the children of our poorer brethren had always been conspicuous. There was nothing that so effectually stopped the mouths of objectors to Freemasonry as our being able to point to those noble institutions at home which the Craft had founded and were supporting, those schools where the children of poor Masons received the inestimable blessings of education. We had among ourselves an institution of the kind, humble, of course, as compared with those at home, but still not altogether unworthy of it as a beginning. The work had been earnestly begun, and it had, there was no doubt, prospered under the hands of R. W. Bro. Sandeman, but he was willing to admit, for he desired not to raise contention of any kind over the proposition, he was now about to bring forward. He did not wish to contend even with the Acting District Grand Secretary. All would, however, admit—all did admit—that lately there had been a falling off in the support afforded to the Bengal Masonic Association, and the result had been that the Association had been placed in a position in which it had seriously to consider how it could continue to carry on that which had undertaken to do. The necessities of the present year, however, were not now so pressing as they were even a few days ago. There had been a deficit of Rs. 152, and the Fund of Benevolence had passed a resolution declaring that the remainder of the deficit were not made up by similar subscriptions, their Treasurer should meet the calls of the Treasurer of the Association up to Rs. 500. There was no longer therefore the pressing necessity to consider any such questions as the removal of a child from school, how means should be raised to prevent such a removal. There remained, however, a matter which he thought demanded their serious consideration, and it was upon this that he desired to give formal notice of a motion to be brought forward at the communication of the District Grand Lodge. Were the brethren in Bengal content that (supposing all difficulties up to that point to be surmounted) the Bengal Masonic Association should go no further than to undertake the charge of five children? Would they be satisfied to be able to reply to any caviller against Freemasonry that they had an institution which supported five children? Would they let an institution sicken and wither, or would they let that the time had arrived when it behoved them to place it upon a similar footing as regards regular and assured support as that which kindred charity, the Fund of Benevolence, enjoyed? Did they, or did they not, consider that the Bengal Masonic Association was less worthy of such support as the Fund of Benevolence enjoyed?

FREEMASONRY IN N. S. WALES.

ZETLAND LODGE OF AUSTRALIA, No. 655 E.C.—The regular monthly meeting was held at the Freemasons' Hall, on Tuesday, 12th inst. The W.M., Wor. Bro. Chas. Davis, and his Officers assumed their chairs at prompt time. On the dais supporting the W.M., were noticeable several distinguished past and present D.G.L. Officers and Past Masters. The lodge opened its labours in the first degree. The Secretary, Bro. Higstrim, then read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were approved of and confirmed. The lodge then took into consideration the propriety of becoming annual subscribers to a lodge of Instruction, which was unanimously agreed to; Wor. Bro. P. M. Ryall, D. G. Organist, and Bro. Cameron, Senior Deacon, being appointed delegates to assist in drawing up by-laws for the guidance of the same. A candidate for the second degree was approved of, intrusted, and retired. The lodge then passed to the second or F.C. degree, when the secrets pertaining to the same were communicated to him. The lodge then resumed business in the first degree. Apologies were tendered by the W.M. on behalf of two of his officers, who were unable to attend the meeting. A communication from a sister lodge, E.C., was read, announcing the erasure of sundry brothers' names, for non-compliance with by-laws, anent dues. The Treasurer's statement showed a healthy state of funds; exception was taken to the loose way in which invoices were rendered by various parties to this lodge, and an intimation, to be conveyed to them, that the same must be altered. Bro. Secretary received instructions to forward a G.L. certificate to a brother who had applied for same in the usual way. No further business offering, the lodge was closed at 9.45 p.m.; the brethren adjourning, with the W. M., to the banqueting room, where a social and happy hour was passed.

AUSTRALIAN LODGE OF HARMONY, No. 556, E.C.—The regular monthly meeting of this lodge was held on the 13th May. The W.M. opened in first degree with prayer, and accustomed formalities. There were present, amongst others, the D.D.G. Master and visitors. Apologies were received for the absence of several brethren. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, a ballot took place for the admission of a brother from the Armidale Lodge of Unity, who was unanimously accepted as a joining member, and who on entering the lodge after the ballot, was presented with his Grand Lodge certificate. A similar document was also delivered to another brother. There being a candidate for the second degree present, he was fully examined in the ritual leading to that degree, which was quite satisfactory; after which the W.M. opened the lodge of Fellow-Craft, and the brother was passed to that degree, with ancient form. A candidate for the third degree was now examined, and the test proving satisfactory, the W.M. opened the lodge in the third degree, and then vacated the chair, which was taken by the very Worshipful the D.D. Grand Master, who raised the brother, on the five points of fellowship, to the degree of a M.M. The various ceremonies attending the degrees were greatly enhanced by the performances of Bro. Read, the Organist, on the fine harmonium, which is the property of this lodge. The chair was resumed by the W.M., who then closed the lodge in the third degree, continuing labour in the first degree. The correspondence was then entered into. An application was read from the furnishing committee, soliciting further assistance (this lodge having already voted £20.) towards liquidating the expenses incurred by them, in decorating and improving the lodge room, and suggesting that a vote of £3, from each of the four principal lodges, meeting in that room, would be sufficient for the purpose. It was, after debate, proposed that £5 be voted, in addition to the previous amount paid, which was seconded and carried nem con. A circular was read from the Hon Sec. of the provisional committee, for the formation of an Instruction Lodge for the E.C. on a new and independent basis, soliciting the co-operation of this lodge towards its formation and support. The W.M., and other brethren, having explained the causes which led to the present Instruction Lodge becoming virtually defunct, it was carried unanimously, upon motion made and seconded, that £3 3s. be voted in favour of this subject; and the W.M., and Past Master Bullard, were elected to act as delegates from this lodge, to assist in framing by-laws, &c., for the new Instruction Lodge. A circular was then read from the Robert Burns Lodge, announcing the names of three brethren, who had been erased from membership of that lodge for non-payment of dues. A clearance certificate was signed by the W.M. and Wardens for a brother who desired to call off; and four candidates were proposed for initiation at the next monthly meeting. The lodge was finally closed by the W.M., with prayer and praise, at about ten o'clock, when the brethren and visitors were invited to partake of refreshment in the adjoining room.

FREEMASONRY IN SOUTH AFRICA.

GRAHAMSTOWN, CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.—Albany Lodge (No 389). The Masonic descendants of the Albany Settlers of 1820, in the Eastern province, forgot not the ancient custom of the Craft, by meeting at High Twelve on the Festival of St. John (24th June). Of the forty brethren who met together to form this lodge, on the 20th September, 1828, only one is now living to see the installation of the 40th W.M. The lodge being opened by the venerable P.M. Bro. R. Curren, (in the absence of the W.M. Bro. A. Brittain) and assisted in the ceremony by the W.M. of St. John's Lodge No. 828, and Bro. P. M. Solomon, duly placed the W.M. elect, Bro. O. Lester, in the East. The investiture of officers then followed, viz.—Bros. W. A. Smith, S.W.; Wm. Wedderburn, J.W.; D. Sampson, Treas.; J. Vials, Sec.; A. J. Alcock, S.D.; W. S. Streak, J.D.; J. Quait, I.G.; and A. Will, Tyler. An initiation and raising completed the labours of the day. The prospects of the lodge are once more encouraging, having again purchased a site with a building thereon, temporarily to be used as a lodge until time and circumstances, energy and liberal donations will enable them to erect a new Temple worthy of the oldest lodge in the Eastern province, and the oldest but two in South Africa, under the English Constitution, the oldest being the British, No. 334, (D.G.L.) 1812; and Hope No. 365, (1821), both in Capetown, six hundred miles from Grahamstown. When Albany Lodge is in a financial position to build, it must take the opportunity of inviting England's Naval Prince to lay the foundation stone, as they have in their possession the very self-same silver trowel the then Prince Alfred used in laying the foundation stone of the tower of St. George's Cathedral, Grahamstown, in 1860, which was given by him to the lodge.

ROMAN EAGLE LODGE.

Can Bro. D. M. Lyon tell me anything of the Roman Eagle Lodge, which our able Bro. Mackey says, received a warrant from the Scottish Grand Lodge, in 1874, to work in Latin?

I do not find the statement in Laurie.

Is Bro. Browne, whom Bro. Mackey terms the "celebrated and learned," the same as Dr. John Browne, who published the "Master Key," &c., in 1786?

A. F. A. WOODFORD.

BRO. PRESTON'S FUNERAL.

Can any brother give me a reference to an account of Bro. Wm. Preston's funeral, which is said to have taken place at St. Paul's.

A. F. A. WOODFORD.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.—Bad legs, ulcers, and all descriptions of sores are immediately cured by the proper and diligent use of these inestimable preparations. To attempt to cure bad legs by plastering the edges of the wound together is a folly; for, should the skin unite, a baggy diseased condition remains underneath, to break out with tenfold fury in a few days. The only rational and perfect treatment is to reduce the inflammation in and about the wound, to soothe the neighbouring nerves, to cool the heated blood, as it courses along the vessels, and to render the thin watery, ichorous discharge consistent and healthy. Happily for suffering humanity, Holloway's Ointment, assisted by judicious doses of his Pills, accomplishes these ends with unflinching certainty.—Adv.

hat support? These were the questions which was his desire to bring to an issue, and he therefore now gave a formal notice that at the quarterly communication of this District Grand Lodge, to be held in September next, he would ist.—That, in the opinion of this District Grand Lodge of Bengal, the Funds of the Bengal Masonic Association for educating children of indigent Freemasons should be aided to the like extent and in the same manner as is the kindred cognate institution, the Bengal Masonic Fund of Benevolence, by a fixed scale of contributions from all the lodges in the province.

and.—That such steps be taken to add to the by-laws of the District Grand Lodge of Bengal under the sanction of the W. Grand Master of England and the United Grand Lodge of England as may be necessary to give effect to the above resolution.

W. Bro. Locke:—Worshipful Sir, I too have something to propose in the interests of this District Grand Lodge, although I cannot for a moment pretend that it will stand comparison, to importance, with the topic that has just engaged our attention. It is nevertheless a matter which nearly concerns our convenience, at any time, if not our welfare, and it is one also which calls for immediate consideration. In fact, I am not able to content myself with merely giving a "notice" of motion: I am about to bring the District Grand Lodge to consider at once a subject which, owing to circumstances which I will explain, has not been entered upon the order of agenda for this communication.

The District Grand Master in the chair suggested that when the report of the Bengal Masonic Association was ready it might be sent to all those whom this notice of motion would reach. There was one remark made by W. Bro. Roberts with which he (the D.G.M. in the chair) could not agree, and that was when Bro. Roberts had seemed to speak with satisfaction of the Bengal Masonic Association having got rid of its immediate difficulty by means of a grant given to it by the Fund of Benevolence. Now, although he (the D.G.M. in the chair) is extremely pleased that the Grand Committee of the Fund of Benevolence should come forward in this way to aid the sister charity in temporary difficulty, he could not help feeling that the assistance thus proffered would only be taken as a last resource. If it were not really "a robbing of Peter to pay Paul," it had nevertheless a dangerous resemblance to it, and he trusted that a great effort would be made to without taking any portion of the money granted by the Fund of Benevolence.

W. Bro. Roberts entirely concurred with the D.G.M. It was quite a misapprehension to suppose that he (Bro. Roberts) was satisfied at a grant in the funds of one charity being made to another by a grant from the other.

The District Grand Master—Very well; I glad my brother Roberts repudiates the idea that, brethren, I want you likewise to repudiate coming forward to prevent Bro. Roberts, Treasurer of the Association, from drawing on Bro. Jones, the Treasurer of the Fund of Benevolence, and you can prevent it by means of a grant. I need not more particularly dwell on the other business was then transacted. A usual collection was made for the Fund of Benevolence. The amount collected (in cards and cash) was announced to be Rs. 117-8, and was handed over to the District Grand Treasurer. The District Grand Lodge was then closed, in form, at 5 p.m.

Devon and Cornwall Masonic Register has been issued by Bro. Leonard D. Westcott, of Exeter. It contains a capital photographic illustration of Bro. L. P. Metham, the Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Devon, and some account of his Masonic life. The accounts of Lodges, and of Mark Lodges, and of the other degrees, are extremely valuable for reference, and the work ought to command an extensive circulation amongst Masons.

Stability Lodge of Instruction, hitherto at Guildhall Tavern, has been removed to Charles Gosden's, Masons' Hall, Masons'-Basinghall-street.

THE HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY, FROM ITS ORIGIN TO THE PRESENT DAY.

BY J. G. FINDEL,

Second Edition, Revised, and Preface written by

BRO. D. MURRAY LYON.

One vol., 800 pages 8vo., with an Index. Cloth gilt. Price, 10s. 6d.

"This book is a strictly historical one, from which all is excluded that is not based upon ascertained or probable fact."—Builder.

"Of its value to Freemasons, as a detailed history of their Brotherhood, it is not possible to speak too highly."—Public Opinion.

"The author seems to have fairly exhausted the subject."—The Athenaeum.

"The edition we are now considering is a second English edition, which had the great advantage of Bro. D. M. Lyon's able superintendence and editorship in its English dress. There can be no doubt but, that so far, Bro. Findel's work is the most complete work on Freemasonry which has yet appeared, and that he deserves the greatest credit for his careful and accurate treatment of all evidence on the subject, and for his honest desire after truth. Bro. Findel gives up in the view he has so clearly and consistently put forth our early Masonic history, the older theory of the Roman Colleges, &c., and limits the origin of Freemasonry to about the twelfth century, and as then arising from the operative Masons, and specially the "Steinmetzen" and "Bauhutten" of Germany. Bro. Findel gives us a good deal of evidence on this head, and one thing is clear from his work, that the German Freemasons were, at a very early period, organized into lodges with a Master over them, and with outward regulations and inner ceremonies peculiar to the Craft. Bro. Findel rejects all the views which have been from time to time put forward of a Templar or Rosicrucian origin. Whether or no Bro. Findel's theory of the date of the rise of Freemasonry be correct, matters very little: we do not ourselves profess to accept it; but this we can fairly say of Bro. Findel's work, it is marked from first to last by the most remarkable token of industry, ability, and care, of patient research, and of skillful criticism. We know of no work which so clearly sets before us our amount of knowledge up to the present time on the great question of Masonic Archaeology, and there can be little doubt that what Preston's work is to English Freemasonry, Findel's work is to cosmopolitan Freemasonry. Indeed no student in Masonry can now dispense with it, and it is a perfect storehouse both of Masonic evidence and Masonic illustrations. We earnestly recommend all the lodges in this country to obtain a copy for the lodge library before the work is bought up for America; and we believe that no Mason will rise from the perusal of its pages without a higher idea both of the historical truth and intrinsic value of Freemasonry, and of fraternal regard and recognition to the latest and not the least well-informed or effective of our Masonic historians. The present century has produced no such equal, in authority and usefulness, to the great work of our Bro. Findel, and we wish him and it, in all of fraternal sympathy and kindly intent, many earnest readers, and more grateful students."—The Masonic Magazine.

"This volume is the history of Masonry par excellence. Every interested person may regard it, therefore, as the present text-book on the subject."—Manchester Guardian. London: GEORGE KENNING, 198, Fleet Street.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, AUGUST 29, 1874.

THE ONWARD PROGRESS OF ENGLISH FREEMASONRY.

At this dull season of the Masonic year, when almost all our London and many of our country lodges are in recess, when brother Paterfamilias has taken our sister, the partner of his bosom, and his little "Lewis," and many other little Masonic blossoms, to some seaside haven, to prawns, and sand, and donkeys, and dippings in the sea, we want something to write about. The heat of the dog days is over, August and grouse have come in, both "shadily" this year, and September and partridges are close at hand. What shall we "discourse" about? It is difficult to be eloquent when one has nothing to say, and useless to compose leaders, when you have little to tell. And yet we must say something. "What better theme than Masonry?" says a good old poetic brother, now, alas! no longer to the fore; and our worthy brother, P.M. Tim; McGuire, alluded to recently in the "Masonic Magazine," chimes in, "I'll tell ye what; write something nate about the Order, and put in a little poetry to make the prose rowl down asier!" So following alike the advice of our poetic and our prosy brother, we have composed the following article, (without, however, any poetry in it), which we carefully commend to the notice and the patience of our many and suffering brethren.

We have been perusing the quarterly paper and returns of Grand Lodge, and we are struck with this fact, that between the months of June and September, since the last quarterly communication in fact, nine lodges have been added to our English muster roll, and that 1508 lodge nominally, are on the list of English warrants. And even that number, we are inclined to believe, does not quite exhaust the Calendar, since this return was printed other warrants have probably been granted, and as we ourselves know, applications are being made almost daily for warrants for new lodges. What a wonderful fact in itself does this increase of our lodges present for our reflection and consideration. the beginning of the present century the number of lodges "returned by Grand Lodge," we told in the July number of the "Masonic Magazine," for 1873, amounted to 584; an increase of 224 lodges in thirty-four years. And now, 1874, despite a large number of lodges, dis-erasing and returning...

of lodges, in round numbers, reported by the Grand Secretary—an increase of nearly 1000 lodges in 73 years. In 1873, the Calendar contained the names of 1329 lodges, in 1874 of 1469 lodges. Thus, we note that close upon 200 lodges have been added to our numerical strength in two years, very nearly an average of 100 per annum, up to Midsummer, 1874. When our new Calendars are published in November, in all probability, some other additions will have been made to the long roll of English lodges. Thus far, we think we may fairly assume, that, we are progressing at the rate of 100 lodges per annum, and that, supposing, too, the present rate of increase is maintained, and that nothing occurs to check or hinder the extension of our prosperous and united Order, in ten years' time—say 1884—our English Grand Lodge will number about 2500 warranted lodges. There are those amongst us, who affect to think they see evil in this increase of our Order, and who are inclined to shake their heads at the applications for new warrants. We entirely dissent from such ill-founded and narrow views of the subject, and we will give our reasons [for so doing. In the first place, we think that, according to the Book of Constitutions, the appointed number of lawfully made Masons under our Grand Lodge, for "good and sufficient causes them thereto moving," applying for a warrant, according to the provisions of the Book of Constitutions, and duly recommended by the Provincial authorities should be encouraged in forming new lodges. Many of our popular lodges are far too numerous and unwieldy for Masonic sympathy and work, and sociality, from that very cause, to suit the position or gratify the not unreasonable Masonic aspirations of many of our younger brethren. Whenever a lodge exceeds 80, or at any rate 100 members, a "swarm" of industrious Masonic bees (not drones) should be encouraged from the mother hive. For each such new hive of Masonic industry and pleasant fellowship is, like its prototype in nature, a gain to the brotherhood of workers, a nucleus of other equally active little communities in due time, and a fosterer of strength and unity, of good will and light. It very often happens alike in London as in the provinces, that some of our lodges become, through material prosperity, so well to do and often so exclusive, that the hardest of all tests of admission, the most severe of all probations, are alike the voice of introduction and the word of favour. There is a tendency in Freemasonry, as in everything else human, to be led by cliques and sets, and if you belong to neither one nor the other, in some particularly famous lodge, you have not the slightest chance of passing successfully through the grave ordeal of the ballot. And without seeking to derogate for one moment from the absolute and inalienable right of all our lodges to exclude any one they think fit from their roll of members, we yet feel that cases may arise, and they often do arise, where many worthy brethren who are unable, from some cause or other, to join particular lodges, should be permitted to form new lodges, according to the wise and liberal provisions of the Book of Constitutions in that respect. And in the next place, we entirely disagree with those who think that we weaken old lodges, or unduly increase our body by granting new warrants. We, on the contrary, strongly hold, that, supposing all the preliminaries are arranged in a Masonic spirit, and on true Masonic principles, each accession to our Order is to be hailed with pleasure by every sincere and thoughtful Freemason. It is said in some things, that nothing "deadens like custom," and sure we are, that lodges, like everything else, are apt to become sleepy and indifferent, careless of anything but routine, alike in work and refreshment, and intolerant of improvement or change. Hence we are always requiring, so to say, a little Masonic revival amongst us, a little new blood thrown into the stagnant veins, a little awakening of the old "dry bones" of good old-fashioned easy-going Masonry. Every new lodge properly founded, and as properly ruled over, has a distinct place to occupy, and a mission to fulfil, in the economy of our little Masonic world. That then we conceive to be a very one-sided view of things, which deprecates new lodges, for fear of interfering with vested interests, or which condemns any active brethren, whether in town or country, to a practical exclusion from the rights and privileges and benefits of Freemasonry, because by some possibility, a young and new and active lodge may impinge on the prior claims of some old-established body, or in the slightest degree withdraw from its ranks or candidature, some who might otherwise have sought to be initiated in or affiliated to it. We therefore heartily approve of the fair and clear and truly Masonic principles, on which our Grand Lodge authorities are so happily acting with regard to the granting of new warrants and new lodges to-day.

A COMPLAINT FROM OUR SOLDIER BRETHREN.

We think, that, all our readers will have shared with us in the deep regret, with which we perused the letter from a "Soldier Freemason," which appeared in our last issue. We had warmly congratulated our Devonshire and Cornwall brethren on the successful result of their united "Grand Assembly" in honour of our Royal and Exalted Brother, when we received the letter of remonstrance and complaint, at what was looked upon as a distinct "slight," and unmasonic treatment, by a large number of worthy brethren, non-commissioned officers in Her Majesty's Forces! Now we say at once, and without any hesitation, assuming the facts to be correctly stated, that a very great mistake has been made by some one, and a mistake opposed to the true principles of Freemasonry. The sooner therefore, such a serious blunder is acknowledged, and rectified for the future, the better for all parties concerned. But one remark as to the facts of the case. Are they quite correctly stated? Our "Soldier Brother" makes the Masonic authorities liable for the error entirely, and distinctly states, that the Major-General-Commanding, did not object to the non-commissioned officers appearing in uniform, but did object to their appearing in "coloured clothes," or being utterly ignored as soldiers. And such is a very understandable objection. Bro. Col. Elliott, we observe, however, states, that, the non-commissioned officers were forbidden by the "Commander-in-Chief"—we presume he means the Major-General-Commanding,—according to the Queen's Regulations, to attend the procession. But we confess that, we do not quite understand the statement of our gallant Bro. Col. Elliott, as there is nothing in the Queen's regulations, which applies specially to "non-commissioned officers," to the best of our remembrance, which does not equally apply to commissioned officers, and private soldiers. On the whole then, we are inclined to hope and to believe, knowing well some of the excellent brethren who composed the Joint Committee, that no slight whatever, was intended to our gallant brethren, but that the whole dilemma arose, purely, from some inexplicable and fatal misunderstanding! We are quite aware, that amongst our Order, as amongst all bodies of men, ecclesiastical, or civil, or social, there are those ever to be found, who, "dressed in a little brief authority," take upon themselves to issue orders and concoct regulations, which in less excited moments, they would themselves be the very first persons in the world to repudiate and to protest against. In the "nature of things" as people say, our non-commissioned-officer brethren had every right to be in the procession as Freemasons, if not as members of the two provinces, perhaps, yet certainly as visiting members, belonging to military lodges, probably under English, or Irish, or Scotch warrants, supposing of course they were properly vouched for, and duly introduced. And if they marched in the procession, in what dress were they to appear? It is idle, and worse than idle, to talk to non-commissioned officers in a garrison town like Plymouth, of "black coats and hats," &c., when the offence of a soldier appearing in "coloured clothes," is in itself a very serious one, and for which, without special leave from his superiors, he would at once be placed under arrest. Is there then any objection to the uniform? Or is there any to the fact, that the complaining brethren were only non-commissioned officers? We at once repudiate both such ideas, as we feel persuaded, that such unworthy and unmasonic feelings never for one moment swayed any of our good Devonshire and Cornwall brethren. Let us trust, that, the real explanation may be found in this simple little fact, as we have before said, that, some worthy, but fussy brother, keenly alive to a sense of propriety and respectability, and also remembering the normal dress of the Craft on state occasions, did not unfortunately realize, what a parody on the teaching of Freemasonry, such a regulation must appear to our soldier brethren. We do not for one moment, ourselves see, that, any possible impropriety could be found in the circumstance of non-commissioned-officers, appearing both in uniform and their Masonic clothing, as we remember, years ago, seeing a long procession, when officers and non-commissioned officers appeared in uniform, and the paraphernalia of Freemasonry, with the approval of one of the best officers, and strictest disciplinarians, the English Army has ever seen. We do not however, profess or presume, to day, if Bro. Col. Elliott's version of the affair be correct, to call in question in any way, or complain of the decision of the Commander-in-Chief, or of the Major General-Commanding in Plymouth, which if arrived at by one or the other, in deference to the Queen's Regulations, no soldier and no Freemason, will seek to impugn or to arraign. But as we understand our correspondent, the "Soldier Freemason," the Major-General's real objection was this, and in this we quite agree with him, that the non-commissioned officers were utterly ignored, that if they appeared at all, they must appear out of uniform,—to use a classical expression—in "mufti." We therefore deeply regret, that our soldier brethren were excluded from the procession, though why they were so, we do not yet quite clearly comprehend! Perhaps some authoritative explanations may clear up the obscurity in which the matter is at present involved, and till then, let us assure our soldier brethren, that we are but expressing the universal feeling of the Order, when we say that we must truly grieve to think, that, any untoward mistake or hasty conclusion, (if such be the true cause of the error,) should have prevented so loyal and so worthy a body of men, from joining as faithful Craftsmen (soldiers though they be) in the public expression of their fraternal attachment, and their devoted allegiance, to their and our Royal Brother the Prince of Wales, in the famous meeting of the United Provincial Grand Lodges of Devon and Cornwall. Since we wrote the above, we have received Bro. W. J. Hughan's letter, which seems clearly to show, that the decision and regulation were purely Masonic. Like Bro. Hughan, we know of no such binding law of Masonic costume, whatever the custom may be.

Original Correspondence.

[We do not hold ourselves responsible for, or even as approving of the opinions expressed by our correspondents, but we wish, in a spirit of fair play to all, to permit—within certain necessary limits—free discussion.—Ed.]

BOGUS DECORATIONS.

Mr. Editor,

The Westminster Gazette hits out fiercely at what is absurdly called by Freemasons, that should know better, the "higher" grades, and I for one deem it no business of Craft Masons, to couch the lance in defence of the "vain and ignorant farceurs," that undermine the dignity of the Order, and are very properly ignored by you, Sir, and all true and accepted Masons.

As an old liberal Freemason, I have no thanks to render your editorial pen for the apologetic strain in which you speak of the principles of the Order, believing that it must tend to bring the English into contempt with their continental brethren, and lead them to suppose that we have no aspirations above number one, or that we are altogether oblivious of the fundamental principles of the Craft, inculcated throughout our formula in our lodges.

You tell the outside world that the great motto of Freemasons is "Glory to God, and good will to man." This is true, but you seem to keep back, or hold in "mental reservation," that Glory to God and goodness to man, can only be realized by and through the glorious principles of our Order, now blazoned all the world over, in the more expressive and direct terms of "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity." You say that no state need fear anything from the true principles of Freemasonry; this may be also accepted, if states were wise enough to receive them, but what of priest-ridden Spain? Freemasons of free countries can afford to be loyal and obedient to the State they are under, and indeed it is somewhat notorious that English Freemasons, as a body, belong to the old Tory school, and that the liberty-loving principles of Freemasonry have no vitality amongst them. With many of our continental brethren it is very different, and with all due deference to your view of Freemasonry, Mr. Editor, any citizen of the world without politics cannot uphold the principles of the Craft, and is, in fact, a non-entity. I am willing to admit that a large proportion of English Freemasons, especially amongst those of the "higher" grades, glory in the "abomination of desolation," more than the life-giving principles of Freemasonry, but because we have no longer a necessity to exercise our politics secretly, and in brotherly confidence, let us not deny or turn our countenance away from the principles of our Order, and our struggling brethren abroad.

A LIBERAL CRAFTSMAN.

[We print the above letter, as we have received it, on the principle of full and free discussion, with all its faults of grammar, and its somewhat startling statements. We think it will be a matter of great surprise to our brethren to learn of their supposed political "animus," and we believe that they will be equally astounded to hear that "Liberty, Equality, and Fraternity," instead of "Brotherly Love, Relief, and Truth," are the actual and implied teaching of Freemasonry. But, as we have said above, we are not responsible for the sentiments of the writer, who thinks well to term himself "A Liberal Craftsman" (as if every other brother was illiberal), and we alike repudiate his views, as we protest against his assertions. We have thought it only our duty to the Craft to say this much.—Ed.]

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

The remarks in your leading article of the 15th inst., on the language adopted towards our ancient and honourable fraternity, by the Westminster Gazette, are very much to the point and richly deserved. Of course, no true Mason, whether he has taken the so called exalted and Christian degrees or not, will care one straw for any amount of abuse lavished on us by the Ultramontane organs. And those amongst us, and I am thankful to say, they are not a few, who fall under the ban of the Westminster Gazette on other grounds know exactly how to estimate such expressions of hostility. I very strongly suspect that they are prompted by such a conscious weakness of our opponents' case, as suggests the abuse of the plaintiff's attorney as the most "pragmatic" course to be pursued.

But, Sir; such wholesale and reckless vilifying may perhaps alarm and mislead some amongst us who, being as yet young Masons, have had no opportunity of testing the value or sounding the true depth of our Masonic principles. It may too startle our wives and daughters, and other relations and non-Masonic friends, who are only too apt to take for granted whatever they read in print.

Let me, therefore, temperately and candidly state the case as it stands between the Roman Catholic authorities and ourselves. We admit of course, that it is within the power of any society, religious or otherwise, to make regulations for the conduct and guidance of its own members. We do not therefore assert that the Roman Church, or any other religious community, has no right to put us under a ban or forbid her members joining our Society, but we do say this,—that seeing we are what we are, that we have enlisted under our banners, not only Princes of the Blood Royal, but others of every degree, clergy in great numbers, and commoners of every respectable grade in society, each of them being men interested in maintaining peace and order, seeing this, we have a right to ask why we should be condemned, and not plead our cause if necessary, before our fellow countrymen, and answer as well as we can the charge brought against us.

For here is the position of affairs. The Roman Church has thought fit to forbid any of her faithful sons having any participation in our society. And many of the Roman Catholic laity ask "why." We know hundreds of our Protestant brethren who are zealous Masons, and have been so for years, who wilfully neglect none of their civil, religious or domestic duties. They tell us that to fear God and honour the Queen, and to do unto all men as we would they should do unto us, is stamped upon the very forefront of all Masonic obligation. Why, then, may we not be permitted to join with them in what is at least a harmless society, and go hand in hand with them, as far as our duty to the church will permit, in promoting the peace and good order of society, and inculcating the practice of every moral and social virtue?

Now the Christian way of answering such a very natural question would be, to point out calmly and temperately whatever objections may be urged against Freemasonry, as, for instance, the mischievous tendencies of secret societies generally, and then to show that these mischievous tendencies pervade the working of English Freemasonry, and, lastly, to prove that there are evils of principle or detail in the Craft which render it an unfit society for good Roman Catholics to be associated with.

This, Sir, would be the Christian mode of reply, and if there be any substance in these charges, not only Roman Catholics, but others also, would do well to pause before joining or continuing to work with the Masonic body. But no! Modern Rome does not reason. She travesties the old saying "Roma locuta est, causa finita est," and instead of giving her sons and the world at large the children's bread of reason and demonstration, she flings at them the stones of cursing and excommunication.

And what is the result? One of the best Masons and truest Catholics I ever knew, fell under the ban of his church in this matter. He bore a name well known in Grand Lodge, and honoured wherever it was known, and I believe if ever a man was faithful and true, it was the brother and friend of whom I am now speaking, Catholic to the backbone, and Mason to the core, he failed to recognize any just or lawful impediment to his joining the two characters in his own person, and other Masons, knowing the justice of our cause and the futile nature of the charges brought against us, came to the very natural conclusion that the layman was right, and the ecclesiastical authorities wrongheaded and tyrannical. Thus the Roman Church lost the respect she might have won, embittered her enemies, and alienated, to a certain extent, one of her most devoted sons.

I feel, Sir, that I have already trespassed at too great length on your space and patience, but if you will bear with me I will endeavour, on another occasion, to reply to their objections to our Order, honestly felt and honestly expressed, in many quarters, which claim at your hands, every respect and attention.

I am, Sir and Brother, Yours most fraternally,
P. PROV. G. CHAPLAIN, OXON.
CHAPLAIN AND HON. SEC. 489.

GRAND MASONIC GATHERING AT PLYMOUTH.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

I feel quite sure that you rejoiced most heartily on reading the report of our assembly at Plymouth on the 14th inst., and your very kind notice of our proceedings will, doubtless be perused by a large and appreciative body of subscribers to The Freemason. I am sorry, however, that you have again drawn attention to the fact of the meeting being termed the "United Grand Lodges of Devon and Cornwall," as the omission of "Provincial" was an unfortunate oversight, it having been ordered by the Committee that the prefix "Prov." or "Provincial" should be inserted in every instance where the "Provincial Grand Lodges" were mentioned.

If you will again consult the programme, you will find that the "Prov." (or Provincial) is omitted once, whereas it is inserted many times. Of course, you are quite correct as to its being an assembly of the "United Provinces of Devon and Cornwall," and not of the "Grand Lodges" and had the error not occurred in the title page I do not suppose you would have castigated because of the omission. As it is, we must submit to the punishment, but happily have a little wherewith to soften the stroke, by pointing you, as the Editor, head of the "Grand Masonic sume you refer to our Provincial Grand Masonic Gathering.

Relative to the alleged un-masonic treatment of the numerous and respectable non-commissioned officers, who are members of Lodges in Plymouth and neighbourhood, I can only say, as one of the Committee, we had no option, but to require the brethren to assemble and take part in the procession, clothed according to the usual custom, thereby naturally prohibiting any from appearing in regimentals. We were told on authority we could not question, and by one who had done his best to get the regulation relaxed in this case, that the orders were peremptory and that we should be running counter to the military laws, if we aided in our brethren appearing in uniform; hence though we regretted the fact, we felt compelled to adhere to our printed programme, any who attended as soldiers, doing it on their own responsibility.

I confess as to being in ignorance of such a regulation before, and have annually been in the habit of welcoming our military brethren, in our processions, and if the law is altered, I shall be delighted to continue to do so. Bro. Col. Elliott, also a member of the Committee, explained our position to the members of the Prov. Grand Lodge of Devon, at a meeting reported in last week's Freemason, but which I presume you had not read, when you noted your agreement with the "Soldier Freemason." We all desire the law was otherwise, and if the law has been incorrectly explained, please let us know.

Yours fraternally,

W. J. HUGHAN.
P.G.S.D.

MASONIC PIC-NIC AT LIVERPOOL.

No lodge in the province of West Lancashire enjoys a greater popularity than the Alliance Lodge, No. 667, which numbers amongst its members some of the best known and most respected brethren in this part of the country. What was familiarly called "Our Second Annual Pic-nic," which took place on Thursday, the 13th inst., at the Stanley Arms Hotel, Roby, about four or five miles from Liverpool, got up by a number or the leading spirits of the lodge, was one of the most pleasant character, and fully maintained the "happy family" characteristics of the lodge. The weather, it is true, was the very reverse of pleasant, rain fell almost continuously until a late hour in the afternoon, but as unpleasant untoward circumstances had little effect upon the "outers" there was no lagging in the enjoyment of the select party. A company of about 50 ladies and brethren started from Lime-street Railway Station, on the London and North-Western service, about a quarter to 3 o'clock, by special saloon and first-class carriages, and were quickly whisked away to the scenes of the afternoon's amusements and recreation. Amongst those present were Bros. W. Dayle, P.J.G.D.; A. Bucknall, who fulfilled the duties of Secretary with considerable tact; Bros. Gregory, Carter, Leaming, Firth, Douglas, Morrison, Maswell, Hikin, Lloyd, Brittain, Jacobs, and others, besides several visiting friends and brethren, the whole company comprising a party upon pleasure bent. On arrival at the "Stanley Arms" the large hall attached to the hotel was at once made use of, as the rain continued to come down with provoking persistency, and dancing was at once commenced to the strains of Mr. Martin's quadrille band. This was carried on with the greatest zest until about five o'clock, when a capital "knife-and-fork" tea was provided, to which ample justice was done. Afterwards recreation was again found in dancing, bowls, music, &c., and time sped very pleasantly with all who were present, until the train time arrived, when all returned to Liverpool, highly delighted with "our second annual pic-nic." The arrangements were most satisfactory and the committee therefore deserve much praise for their capital generalship.

MASONIC EXCURSION AT BIRKENHEAD.

One of the most pleasant and successful excursions of the season took place on Wednesday, 12th inst., when the members of the [Mersey Lodge, No. 477, held their first excursion and pic-nic, the place selected being Overton Hills, near Frodsham. There was a pretty good muster of members and friends, the party numbering about 50 ladies and gentlemen, and the weather being all that could be desired, the greatest enjoyment was experienced from first to last.

The party left Monk's Ferry by the regular train at 10 a.m., arriving at Frodsham in about an hour, and thence made their way past Overton village, to the top of the hills beyond. Here they dispersed in various directions in quest of recreation. To some bowls, to others croquet, dancing, and gymnastic exercises, while to a great many the splendid landscape which can be viewed from the summit of the hills, was a great attraction, the panorama being one of the finest in the country, having a wide sweep from Derbyshire and Delamers Forest, by Halton Castle, the river Weaver, Runcoit and Garston, the broad estuary of the Mersey, bounded by Oxtan and Bidston Hill and the Irish Channel, and thence to the blue mountains of Flint and Denbigh.

Dinner was presided over by Bro. R. Gracie, W.M., and amongst the other officers present were Bros. D. Fraser, S.W.; T. Dixon, J.W.; J. M. Ratcliffe, Treasurer and P.M. 605; Pulford, S.D.; John Griffiths, I.P.M.; J. P. Platt, P.P.J.G.W.; Thornton, &c. Dancing and other amusements were the order of the day. After tea, on the motion of Bro. Platt, a vote of thanks was passed to Bro. Gracie, and to Bro. Fraser, who had been the chief promoters of the excursion, for the trouble they had taken, and the party returned by the regular train, arriving at Monk's Ferry about ten o'clock. The balance in hand, after paying expenses, will be devoted to the funds of the Cheshire Masonic Educational Institution, for the education of orphans of deceased members of the Order.

MASONIC PIC-NIC AT BOOTLE.

The spirit of emulation and independence by which the inhabitants of the neighbouring borough of Bootle are actuated extended a short time ago to the formation of a Masonic Lodge (No. 2473), holding its meetings on the first Thursday of the month at the Molyneux Assembly-rooms, Merton-road. The lodge was fortunate in having for its promoters some of the most efficient and zealous members of the Craft, thus assuring its prosperity, which has exceeded the expectations of its founders, the lodge already numbering nearly seventy members. Unfortunately for the ladies, the rules of Freemasonry not only preclude their being initiated into its mysteries, but the performance of Masonic duties frequently deprives them of the society of their husbands and sweethearts. As a small solatium for this exclusion and deprivation, it has recently become the custom (at all events with the majority of local lodges) to hold an annual picnic, at which both brethren and their friends of the gentler sex can attend, without infringing any of the regulations of the honourable and ancient fraternity. In observance of this much-honoured custom, the members of the Bootle Lodge held their first excursion and picnic on Wednesday, 19th inst., and a most enjoyable one it proved to be. The party, which consisted of about thirty brethren and as many ladies, left Lime-street Station in saloon carriages by the 10.45 a.m. express train for Chester, the ultimate destination being the Rope Ferry Pleasure-grounds, near Easton, which, after an exceedingly pleasant row up the picturesque river Dee, were reached shortly after one o'clock. The services of Bro. Bolland, of Chester, had been secured as caterer, which is a sufficient guarantee that the creature comforts were well provided for. A substantial if not sumptuous dinner having been satisfactorily disposed of (the appetites of the guests being apparently unimpaired by the journey), the chairman, Bro. S. E. Ibbs, W.M., proposed in felicitous terms the toasts of "The Queen" and "The Ladies," which having been duly honoured, the party dispersed for further enjoyment. Some strolled about the grounds and along the banks of the river, enjoying the beautiful scenery, whilst others became votaries of the terpsichorean art, or engaged in the usual out-door pastimes. Owing to the celebration of Lord Grosvenor's majority at Easton Hill, the grounds were closed to the public; but there was no lack of enjoyment on that account, as the time of the pleasure-seekers was fully occupied in other amusements. Tea was served at five o'clock in the open air on the river bank, and at six the party embarked for the return journey, arriving safely home about nine o'clock, all much pleased with the day's "outing," and anxious for a repetition of it. Too much credit cannot be given to Bro. Ibbs, W.M., and his coadjutors, Bro. Wyatt, S.W.; Bro. Surley, J.W.; and Bro. M'Arthur, Treasurer, for the efficient and courteous manner in which the arrangements were carried out, the whole proceedings passing off without a single hitch. Bro. Burrows was in attendance with his photographic apparatus, and secured the "shadows" of several very effective groups, which will, no doubt, be in great request as pleasing mementos of the occasion.

MEMORIAL TO THE LATE REV R. J. F. THOMAS.

The late Rev. R. J. F. Thomas, vicar of Yeovil, was one of the most valued members of the Yeovil Lodge of Freemasons. He successively filled the principal offices, and was beloved and esteemed by every member. His death was deeply regretted by the members, in common with the whole of the inhabitants, and it was determined to raise a lasting memorial expressive of their feelings towards him. Bro. Shout, architect, of Yeovil and Wincanton, gratuitously prepared a design for an altar tomb to be erected over the vault in the cemetery, and the work was entrusted to Mr. Swatridge, marble mason, of Yeovil. The brethren also resolved to fix a monumental brass, appropriately inscribed, in St. John's Church, and Messrs Petter and Edgar, ironfounders, of Yeovil, were commissioned to carry out this portion of the work.

Saturday was appointed for the unveiling of the tomb, and the Committee deputed to carry out the arrangements invited the past and present officers of the lodge to witness the ceremony.

Obituary.

BRO. JOHN MEEARS.

The funeral of the late Mayor of Woodstock (Bro. John Meears), who died suddenly on the 19th inst., took place at Woodstock, with Masonic ceremonies, the deceased having been Treasurer of the Marlborough Lodge of Freemasons. At 3 o'clock the Masons from Oxford assembled in the town-hall, where they were met by the brethren of deceased's lodge, and at about half-past 3 they proceeded in procession, in their aprons and badges, to the residence of the deceased, where the members of the Volunteer Fire Brigade, and several representatives from the Foresters, of which body the deceased also was a member, had already arrived. A choir, principally composed of the singing men of New College, under the direction of Bro. Haliwell, was also present. The streets were thronged with spectators from different parts of the country, the deceased, who was 64 years old, and who had been twice Mayor of Woodstock, being highly respected, while the funeral was the first that had taken place in the province with full Masonic ceremonies. At the church adjoining the cemetery the Rev. M. Yuell, the curate of Woodstock, commenced the impressive service. On the termination of the Burial Service the brethren formed in a circle around the grave, and P.M. Brown, who conducted the Masonic arrangements, read the Burial Service generally used by Masons on the death of a deceased brother. At its conclusion the brethren, who each carried flowers and slips of acacia, dropped them on the coffin. The whole of the service was choral.

- The M.W. Grand Master will propose a resolution, expressive of the regret felt by Grand Lodge at the death of the late Earl of Dalhousie, K.T., G.C.B., Past Deputy Grand Master, and its sense of the eminent services which he rendered to the Craft; and will further propose, that a vote of condolence be transmitted, on the same melancholy event, to the Grand Lodge of Scotland, of which the late lamented peer was Past Grand Master Mason.
- Report of the Lodge of Benevolence for the last quarter, in which are recommendations for the following Grants, viz:—
A brother of the [Royal Alfred Lodge, No. 780, Kew Bridge £100

The widow of a brother of the Lodge of Unanimity, No. 102, North Walsham 50
The widow of a brother of the Ionic Lodge, No. 227, London 200
The widow of a brother of the Robert Burns Lodge, No. 817, Sydney, New South Wales 50
- Report of the Board of General Purposes:—

"The Board of General Purposes have to report that their attention having been called to an announcement in a public newspaper of a meeting of a 'Club of Instruction,' to be held at the Hind's Head, Chiswell-street, at which the ceremony of Consecration was to be rehearsed by Bro. James Terry, and that of Installation by Bro. J. Beckett, Preceptor, they resolved that the brethren mentioned in the said announcement be summoned to attend the meeting of the Board in July. The brethren so summoned duly attended and answered the questions put to them with a view of ascertaining the nature of the so-called Club of Instruction. After a lengthened investigation the further consideration of the subject was deferred until the meeting of the Board in August, and Bro. Simpson, who, was stated had acted as Secretary, was also summoned to attend, and to produce all books, papers, and other documents relating to the Club. The whole facts having been arrived at, the Board was unanimously of opinion, that the so-called Charterhouse Club of Instruction, held at the Hind's Head, Chiswell-street, is a General Lodge of Instruction, within the terms of the Book of Constitution, page 88, and they resolved, that the said Lodge of Instruction having been held without the sanction of a regular warranted lodge, or other lawful authority, that notice of the times and place of meeting not having been given to the Grand Secretary, that regular minutes of meetings not having been kept, Bro. James Terry, who presided at the rehearsal of the ceremony of the Consecration of the lodge, Bro. J. Beckett, who acted as Preceptor, Bro. Gilbert, the landlord of the tavern, and Bro. Simpson, who acted as Secretary, have committed a serious breach of Masonic law, and have thereby incurred the censure of the Board. The said brethren were then called in, the above resolutions were read to them, they were censured accordingly, and cautioned as to the future.

"(Signed) PETER DE L. LONG,
"Vice President."

To the report is subjoined a statement of the Grand Lodge accounts at the last meeting of the Finance Committee, held on Friday, the 14th day of August, inst., showing a balance in the hands of the Grand Treasurer £3,488 17s. 5d.; and in the hands of the Grand Secretary, for petty cash, £75; and for servants' wages, £95.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment in this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.

* Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had gratis of all Chemists.

PRESIDENT.—The Right Worshipful W. W. B. BENCH, M.P., Provincial Grand Master.

At a meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge, recently held at Landport, it was unanimously resolved that a Committee be appointed for the purpose of raising a fund, to provide a suitable memorial to our late deeply-lamented Bro. Stebbing.

In pursuance of the foregoing resolution, a meeting was held at Southampton, which was largely attended, when the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:—

"That the Lcdges and Chapters of the Province and Freemasons generally be solicited to subscribe to a fund, to be appropriated as the Committee shall determine, for the benefit of the Widow of our late lamented Bro. J. R. Stebbing, whose circumstances at the time of his decease render this appeal absolutely necessary."

"That copies of these resolutions be forwarded to each Lodge and Chapter in the Province, inviting their co-operation, as well as that of Brethren and Companions generally, in obtaining subscriptions to the fund."

"That a circular stating the circumstances be also transmitted to all other Lodges and Chapters in England."

The name of the late Bro. J. R. Stebbing is so well known in all Masonic circles that it seems unnecessary to set forth at length his long and valuable services. For many years he was a constant attendant at Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter, assisting the interests of the Brethren and Companions. He was Vice-President of the Board of General Purposes in 1861, 1862 and 1863, and also an active member of the Building Committee of the present Freemasons' Hall, London.

He was rarely absent from the elections in the various Charities, giving his valuable aid to the poor and distressed amongst the brethren and their relatives, contributing from his means to the advancement of those charities, in which he had qualified as Vice-Patron of the Boys' School, Life Governor of the Girls' School, and Life Governor of the Benevolent Institution; and it is sincerely hoped that the Widow of one who was so actively engaged for the benefit of others (herself a Life-Governor of the Boys' School) should be placed in circumstances which will assist her in her present unexpected bereavement.

Subscriptions in aid of this fund may be transmitted to the Treasurer, Aldermoor House, near Southampton; or to his bankers, Messrs. Maddison, Atherly, Hankinson, and Darwin, Southampton.

W. HICKMAN, Treasurer.
J. E. LE FEUVRE Secretary.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

PRESCOT.—Lodge of Loyalty (No. 86).—The usual monthly meeting of Lodge of Loyalty, No. 86, was held at the King's Arms, Prescott, on Wednesday, 26th ult., and Bro. J. W. J. Fowler, P.M., afterwards called attention to the fact that since their last monthly meeting, Bro. T. Sephton, who for an uninterrupted period of 25 years had been Tyler of the lodge, had been called away by death, after a long and severe illness. The deceased was well known, not only to the members of the old Lodge of Loyalty, but to the brethren in this district generally, and until disabled by sickness he was a most efficient officer. On the motion of Bro. Fowler a vote of condolence with the widow and family of the deceased was unanimously adopted, and ordered to be forwarded to them. Bro. Coward, who for some months past has temporarily discharged the duties of Tyler, was formally appointed to that office for the remainder of the year.

TOTTENHAM.—High Cross Lodge (No. 754).—Wednesday, 26th inst., was a red letter day with the members of the High Cross Lodge, held at the Seven Sisters' Hotel, Page Green, Tottenham. The occasion was fixed for the installation of Bro. J. Maller, the newly-elected W.M., and for the opening of the splendid room, built for the accommodation of the brethren and visitors by Bro. Oddy, the enterprising proprietor of the establishment. The hall is a fine apartment, 42 feet by 29 and 17 feet high, all inside measurement. On Wednesday evening, decorated as it was with choice flowers, and beautifully carpeted, the tables surrounded by nearly ninety brethren, many wearing jewels of the Craft, and the brilliant lighting bringing out all the details, the scene was certainly a very attractive one. The lodge was opened soon after two o'clock. The preliminary business on the agenda having been disposed of, the installation was proceeded with, Bro. J. Linzell, I.P.M., discharging the duties of Installing Master with great ability. The ceremony over, the W.M. appointed and invested his officers for the year. The next business gave unmixed satisfaction. It was the presentation of a jewel to Bro. T. Cunningham, the Worshipful Master of last year, and the exceedingly cordial manner in which he was greeted, on rising to receive the token of the brethren's esteem, proved that the gift was something more than a mere matter of form. Bro. Cunningham regarded it in that light. He said he was quite sure the jewel had been presented to him as an empty bauble, but as a sincere expression of the feelings they entertained towards him. He had not occupied the chair during the year of office with full satisfaction to himself. His deficiencies had manifested themselves on various occasions, but helping hands had always been near; and for the services rendered to him, culminating in the beautiful gift that day, he tendered his heartfelt thanks. He had now a very pleasing task to perform. He had been requested to ask Bro. Linzell to accept the full Masonic clothing suitable to his position as a Grand Officer. One of the brethren, recognising the exertions of Bro. Linzell to increase the prosperity of the High Cross Lodge and to benefit Freemasonry generally, suggested that some slight mark of their appreciation should be offered to him. The idea was warmly taken up; the result was before them; and it was hoped that Bro. Linzell would live many years to wear the articles—indeed, that they would grow rusty in his service. Personally, he (Bro. Cunningham) was much indebted to Bro. Linzell for the aid he had given him during the past year, and therefore made the presentation with increased pleasure. Bro. Linzell (having been invested with the magnificent purple and gold clothing) returned thanks. He had been taken quite unawares. He had not expected any present, and felt proud of such a signal mark of their esteem towards him. Whatever he had done to raise the status of the High Cross Lodge, or to further Freemasonry in other directions, not been for his own aggrandisement. He had only been actuated with the desire to add to the comfort and welfare of his fellow men, and if he had succeeded, even to a small extent, the contemplation would afford a sufficient reward for his labours. Still the present was most gratifying to his feelings, and he trusted he should be spared many years to wear it in the discharge of his duties. Bro. Maller presided at the banquet, which was of a very superior character, and nothing was wanted to render it a perfect success. There was a large attendance. The various loyal toasts having been given and received with real Masonic ardour, Bro. Cunningham proposed the health of the W.M., and, referring to the splendid room in which they were assembled, prognosticated a most successful reign to the worthy brother who had succeeded him (the speaker) as the head of the lodge. Bro. Maller responded. He felt proud of having been unanimously elected to the high position he now occupied, and trusted his conduct would justify their choice, and merit their approbation. Next came the health of Bro. George Martin, who had been initiated that evening, and the new member briefly returned thanks. Bro. Linzell then gave the "Visitors," which included many prominent members of the metropolitan and provincial lodges. Cordial hospitality had always been a characteristic of the High Cross Lodge, and he had no reason to believe that the feeling would ever change. On behalf of that lodge he gave all the visiting brethren a most hearty welcome. Several of the visiting brethren returned thanks, expressing their high appreciation of the unusually friendly manner in which visitors were always treated at the High Cross Lodge, and promising to return favours received whenever opportunity offered. Bro. J. Medcalf expressed himself so pleased with the treatment the Hertford Lodge had received that he wished, on their behalf, to offer a Tyler's sword to the High Cross Lodge, as a memento of the visit. The gift was accepted. Bro. W. Hall said he was charged by Bro. Binckes, Secretary of the Boys' School, Wood Green, to express his regret that a long-standing engagement in Dorsetshire prevented his attendance that evening. He (Bro. Hall) was afraid he was not entitled to be described as a "good Mason," but, knowing that, without healthy bodies there could not be healthy minds, he laboured conscientiously as a medical man, to maintain the healthy condition of their bodies. A brother of the Beadon Lodge suggested that every Mason should become a life governor of one of the charities connected with the Craft. Bro. Edward Clarke spoke of the public-spirited Bro. Oddy as a man of whom the Craft ought to be proud. He had put his hand into his pockets to the extent of several hundreds of pounds, for the comfort of the brethren of the High Cross Lodge, and they had much to be thankful for. There was also a fine Masonic hall at Wood Green, and no parish around London could point to such magnificent rooms as Tottenham now possessed. Wood Green was only a small place, but the members of the Lewis Lodge were always ready to give a sincere welcome to any visiting brethren. [A telegram was here received from the Romford Lodge, wishing the officers and members of the High Cross Lodge health and prosperity, and the Romford Lodge received a special toasting for their expressions.] The health of the Past Masters of the High Cross Lodge followed, and was acknowledged by Bro. Cunningham, who gave "Bro. Linzell, the Installing Master."

Bro. Linzell returned thanks in suitable terms; and, with reference to the suggestion of the members becoming life governors, observed that the High Cross Lodge had always taken great interest in the Masonic charities. Some time ago Bro. Roberts—whose indefatigable exertions on behalf of Masonry were so well known—carried up no less than 29 life governorships, and the High Cross Lodge has now a society of its own, through which a life governorship was obtained every month, by the payment of small subscriptions. Again, when a Steward was sent up on behalf of the Girls' School, he took with him nearly £100, so that the High Cross Lodge could not be accused of neglecting the charities of the Craft. Bro. Roberts subsequently made an effective speech on the general position of the lodge, tracing its establishment and growth up to the present time. He congratulated the members on the progress that had been made; but, having obtained that magnificent room, they must not assume that the climax had been reached. On the contrary, much remained to be done. Tottenham was extending in size and population, and if the members put their shoulders to the wheel, with the sincere intention of advancing Freemasonry, the time would come when even the large hall in which they were assembled would be found too limited for the accommodation of the brethren. Bro. Cunningham proposed the "Health of Bro. Oddy," making special reference to his enterprise and kindness in building the new room for the accommodation of the High Cross Lodge. He was ever anxious to conduce to the comfort of those with whom he was associated, and his last effort had been most successfully inaugurated that evening. Bro. Oddy acknowledged the toast. He intimated his desire at all times to secure the comfort and pleasure of the brethren, and assured them that it would be his ambition, from time to time, to merit their good wishes. As regarded the new room, he had been his own architect and builder, so that, if there were any faults, they rested with himself, and did not attach to any other individual. Other toasts followed, and the most successful meeting ever held under the auspices of the High Cross Lodge was brought to a satisfactory termination.

LIVERPOOL.—Hamer Lodge (No. 1393).—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Tuesday evening, the 25th ult., at the Clarence Hotel, Everton-road, Liverpool. Bro. R. H. Evans, W.M., presiding. The following officers and brethren were also present:—Bros. John Jones, I.P.M.; Henry Jackson, S.W.; John McCarthy, J.W.; Edward Dutch, S.D.; Thomas Large, J.D.; R. Price, I.G.; C. Tyrer, Treas.; and E. Wilson, Sec. Among the visitors were Bros. J. S. Russell, W.M. 292; O. R. Jones, 15; J. Vaughan, S.D. 86; J. Thomas, 203; T. Robinson, 249; T. H. Bibby, 673; J. Boyle, 823; Thomas Churton, 823; J. Whaites, 1035; A. Wylin, 1264; and others. The business on the programme was of an extensive character, six brethren being raised, two initiated, two joining members elected, and several gentlemen proposed for membership. At the conclusion of the business the W.M. presented Bro. John Jones, I.P.M., with a life governorship in the West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution, and an elegant marble timepiece, together with a pair of statuettes in bronze. The time piece bore the following inscription:—Presented to Bro. John Jones, I.P.M., by the officers and members of the Hamer Lodge No. 1393, as a token of their appreciation of his valuable services, Masonic ability, and private worth." The presentation was suitably acknowledged by Bro. Jones.

DAWLISH.—Salem Lodge (No. 1443).—The installation meeting of this lodge was held on Wednesday, 26th ult., at the Town Hall, Dawlish, and was interesting as being the completion of the first year of its existence. The lodge was opened in due form by Bro. Short, W.M., assisted by his officers. After some routine business and balloting for several brethren as members, Mr. W. Discombe was introduced and initiated. The work was admirably done by the W.M. The chair was then occupied by Bro. T. C. Hallett, I.P.M. No. 303, Ben-volent, Teignmouth; and Bro. S. Loram, S.W., was presented to receive the benefit of installation.

Having been obligated, a board of Installed Masters was formed, amongst whom we observed the W.M., Bro. J. Mills, P.G.O., P.M. 1125, Tiverton; Bro. Wellsman, P.M. 858, South Middlesex; and Bro. Bodley, P.M. 39, St. John Baptist. The ceremony was performed in a faultless manner, the charges to the W.M., Wardens, and brethren, being given in a manner we have rarely heard surpassed. The W.M. appointed as his officers W. Ball, S.W.; G. B. Avant, J.W.; J. S. Whidborne, Treasurer and S.D.; H. L. Friend, Secretary; R. B. Ferris, J.D.; H. Hatchet, I.G. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to banquet at Bro. Ball's, in the Strand. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given in excellent taste by the W.M., and in proposing "The Health of the P.G.M." a graceful allusion was made to the visit of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and the honour it had conferred on the Province. In the course of the evening a handsome jewel was presented to the I.P.M., Bro. Short, who returned thanks in a characteristically modest speech.

GLASGOW.—Star Lodge (No. 219) held their regular meeting on Monday, August 10th, Bro. J. Wilson, R.W.M., presiding. There was a very large attendance of members and visitors, the work consisted of one raising, which was ably performed by Bro. Wm. Phillips, R.W.M., of the new Lodge Clydesdale, and two passings, at which ceremony Bro. Bain, P.M. of 103 presided.

GLASGOW.—St. Mary's Lodge (No. 102)—met in their own hall, Buchanan-street, on the 10th inst. Bro. J. Mitchell, R.W.M.; J. Watson, D.M.; W. Gladsten, S.W.; J. Jameson, J.W.; Wm. Nelson, Sec. Visitors—Bros. Bell, and R. Grange, 3½; Basnett, 27; G. Weston, R.W.M.; Wheeler, Sec. of 73; J. Park, 137; J. Stuart, 408; and several others. The lodge having been opened in the first degree, and Bro. R. Murray having proved his proficiency therein, and being entrusted with the reward of merit, on the lodge being raised to the second degree, he was passed as a Fellow Craft by the R.W.M., who, on the conclusion of the ceremony, told the brethren that as a rule he objected to refreshment, but on this occasion if they would retire to the adjacent room, he should like as many as possible to stop to do honour to Bro. the Rev. G. Gordon Cuchrachan, who after an absence of 18 years in America, had come back to-night to re-visit this his mother lodge. This having been agreed to, at the subsequent meeting, after the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, Bro. G. Western, R.W.M. 73, replying on behalf of the Prov. Grand Lodge. The R.W.M. then proposed the "Health of their guest, Bro. the Rev. G. Gordon Cuchrachan," who they were pleased to welcome again to his mother lodge. The Rev. brother expressed his pleasure at receiving so cordial a welcome; he had that day been telling his son, that he was a stranger in his native city. 20 years ago, when he walked up the principal streets, he had every five minutes to acknowledge the salutation of some acquaintance; now he had pressed the streets three days without needing to bow once; but to-night the kindly greeting, not only of the sons of his mother lodge, but also of her visitors, told him that a brother Mason was never a stranger, and by the contrast he appreciated it the more. He then dwelt on the extension of the Masonic spirit in America, not only in the Craft lodges, but in chapters and commanderies. "The Masonic Press" having been given, Bro. Basset replied for the News, and Bro. Wheeler for The Freemason. He said that he attributed the satisfactory progress of the Masonic Orders in America, of which their brother had been speaking, to the greater number of Masonic publications that they supported. This opinion was fully corroborated by the Rev. brother. Bro. Wm. Bell, of 3½, responded for the visitors, G. Western, R.W.M. 73, proposed "Prosperity to Lodge St. Mark 102," speaking highly of the work he had that night seen them perform. Bro. Mitchell gracefully acknowledged the compliment, and then gave the "Parting Toast."

GLASGOW.—St. Andrew's Chapter (No. 69)—met on Tuesday, 11th inst., Comp. T. D. Humphries, Dr. Ph., Z, presiding. A lodge of Mark Masters was opened, and Bro. W. L. Ensor, of Lodge Tinwald, 1243, was affiliated, after which a Lodge of Excellent Masters was opened by T. D. Humphries, as M.E.M.; G. W. Wheeler, S.W.; J. G. Herron, S.W.; when Comp. Park, Z, 122, conferred that degree on Bro. Ensor. A Royal Arch Chapter was then opened, Comp. Humphries, Z; G. Heron, H.; Wm. Blackward, J. Oliver, S.E.; John Buchanan, acting N.; Wm. Thomas, T.; G. W. Wheeler, acting First S.; D. Pash, Second S.; D. B. Fleming, Third S. Visitor, J. Tweed, 73. Bro. Ensor was then duly exalted by Comp. Park to the Holy Royal Arch Degree.

GLASGOW.—St. Mungo Encampment (No. 1729)—An emergency meeting was held on Wednesday, August 12th, to confer the degree on Comps. Wm. Ledger, Ensor, J.P., of Dublin. The encampment was opened at 5 p.m. by Sir Knight R. Bell, the M.N.C., assisted by Sir Knights G. W. Wheeler, Recorder, acting as Prelate; D. B. Fleming, C.C.; J. Buchanan, S.C.; T. Leuttit, J.C.; G. B. Adams, first A. de C.; and Wm. Blackwood, W. The encampment was favoured by the presence of two distinguished visitors, Sir Knight George Kenning, P.P. of 48, Kemeys Tynte Preceptory, England, and Sir Knight Edwin Humphries, of the De Molay Commandery, Massachusetts. At the conclusion of the ceremonies, Sir Knight Wheeler expressed a hope that the visitors and the newly installed Sir Knight would kindly overlook any shortcomings, as it being an emergency meeting, and all the regular officers absent but the Commander and himself. It had not been performed with that precision they could have wished. Sir Knight Ensor thought the ceremony had been perfect, it had left an impression on his mind that would never be eradicated. Sir Knights Kenning and Humphries expressed the pleasure they had experienced in having an opportunity of visiting a Knight Templar Encampment in Scotland, and in seeing their mode of working.

PROVINCIAL GREAT PRIORY OF WORCESTERSHIRE.

This Provincial Great Priory met at Dudley, on the 21st ult., in the Preceptory of Richard de Vernon, when the late Provincial Sub-Priory, Sir Knight A. H. Royds (Provincial Great Prior of Lancashire), presided, in the absence of the Provincial Great Prior of Worcestershire, Sir Knight H. C. Vernon. The routine business of the Priory was transacted, and, on the resignation of office by Sir Knight A. H. Royds, Sir Knight R. Woolf, F.S.A., Past Grand Chamberlain, and past Deputy Grand Commander of Canada, was appointed Deputy Provincial Great Prior of Worcestershire. Other officers of the Priory were appointed, and the report of a committee on the subject of new bye-laws was received.

MASONIC CHURCH RESTORATION.—The ceremony of laying the foundation stone of the porch of Swanscombe Church, Kent, which is being restored by the Erasmus Wilson Lodge, No. 1464, was performed on Saturday afternoon by Professor Erasmus Wilson, the W.M. of the lodge. Swanscombe parish is in a pretty part of the country between Dartford and Gravesend, and bordering on the high road from London to Canterbury, and both the neighbourhood and the old church are rich in historic relics and associations. Professor Wilson was born at Greenhithe, and he has shown his regard for his native place by contributing over £2000 towards the general work of restoring the church. The ceremony was performed with full Masonic honours, and the guests of the Greenhithe Lodge included his Imperial Highness Prince Rhodocanakis, Grand Master of Greece, who wore the scarf of the 33rd degree, and several of the Grand Officers of the Province of Kent.

Bro. Haigh, of Regent-street, took an excellent photo, at an interesting point of the proceedings.

Bro. H. E. Knight, Worshipful Master of the Mount Moriah Lodge, 34, has been unanimously elected Alderman for the Ward of Cripplegate.

UNITED GRAND LODGE.

The Grand Lodge of Freemasons of England met on Wednesday, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Bro. the Rev. John Hayshe, M.P., Provincial Grand Master of Devonshire, on the Throne. He was supported by Bros. H. D. Sandeman, District Grand Master of Bombay as Deputy Grand Master; Bro. Major-General Brownrigg, Provincial Grand Master of Surrey as Past Grand Master; Lord Henry Thynne, M.P., Senior Grand Warden; F. Patterson, Junior Grand Warden; and a very full lodge members from all parts of the kingdom.

Grand Lodge having been opened, the Grand Secretary (Bro. John Hervey) rose and said: Most Worshipful Acting Grand Master, I have got a letter from the Most Worshipful Grand Master to lay before the Grand Lodge, which I have received with great regret, and which I am sure will be received with dismay by every member of the Grand Lodge. I do not know, sir, that it will be necessary for me to preface the letter by any further observations, and with your permission, I will read it to Grand Lodge. It is dated from Nopton Hall, Lincolnshire, Sept. 1, 1874.—

"Dear Grand Secretary—I have to inform you that I find myself unable any longer to discharge the duties of Grand Master, and that it is therefore necessary that I should resign my office into the hands of the members of Grand Lodge. With the expression of my gratitude thanks for the favours which I have ever received from them, and of my regret for any inconvenience which my retirement may cause them,—I remain, yours faithfully, "RPO."

The reading of this letter caused the most profound sensation and astonishment in Grand Lodge, and for some moments a dead silence prevailed.

Bro. Aeneas J. McIntyre, Q.C., Grand Registrar, rose and said: Most Worshipful Acting Grand Master—I can assure you and Grand Lodge that it is with feelings of the deepest sorrow that I rise for the purpose of proposing a resolution which I feel confident Grand Lodge will adopt, because they have no alternative to adopt the resolution which I am about to propose. We all of us must feel exceedingly sorrowful that the Most Worshipful Grand Master, who had presided over the destinies of the Craft with such very great credit to himself and with such great advantage to our Order, should for reasons which must be most cogent, although I am unacquainted with what the reasons are—but I do know this, that they are entirely unconnected with the noble Order to which we belong—has felt it incumbent upon him to resign the high post which he has held with so distinguished honour, and to which, no doubt he would have been re-elected from year to year by the body over which he has presided so long and so well. Deeply as we regret the fact, which the Grand Master has felt it his duty to take, we must know—all who know him so well and love him so dearly—that he never would have taken that step unless there had been reasons so cogent to his mind, and therefore to our minds, as should induce him to lay his resignation before us. Into those reasons I am perfectly confident that there is no brother throughout this great Order to which we belong would seek to pry with impertinent curiosity (Hear, hear.) The Grand Master has his reasons for resigning. We can only express deep regret that he feels bound to take that course, and on departing from us as our duty let us recollect this—that whilst he presided over the Order to which we all belong, the advantage of the Craft, and with the greatest credit in high office which he held. Then, brethren, think, accepting as we must do, and that is I now move, that the resignation of the Most Worshipful the Grand Master be accepted by this Grand Lodge with the deepest feelings of regret, and in hope that in his retirement among us we shall still be able to look upon him, as we have done in years gone by, as a bright ornament of this great Order, which he presided. (Hear, hear.)

Bro. Rayman W. Stewart, Grand Secretary, motion, said it would be lordship to know that he retired from his office with the esteem and love of every brother who belonged to the Order, and he might reiterate what was said, that they would still have the pleasure of his presence amongst them.

The Acting Grand Master, in putting the motion, said, if he expressed his own feelings, which were feelings of regret, he was sure they would be responded to most heartily. When the Grand Secretary read the Grand Master's letter, the feelings produced on his mind were those of the deepest sorrow and regret. (Hear, hear.) He could not possibly doubt, knowing as he did the character and conduct, the high conduct, of their late Grand Master, that he must have the most cogent reasons for adopting the plan that he had pursued. They would not think of prying into his reasons—his lordship had merely placed in their hands again that trust which they had so confidently reposed in him; and which they knew and felt he had carried out so as to gain the approbation and respect of every individual in the whole of this kingdom and every lodge under the English Constitution—certainly every member of this Grand Lodge. He (Bro. Huyshe) had no right to say a word more, and he thought he would best consult their feelings, as well as he certainly should consult his own, by merely saying he put it to them to carry the motion which had been proposed by Bro. McIntyre, and seconded by Bro. Stewart—that the resignation of the Grand Master be accepted, though in terms of the deepest regret.

The motion having been carried unanimously, The Grand Secretary again rose and said: Most Worshipful Grand Master—I have now to read a letter I have received from the Deputy Grand Master, The Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon. It is dated Highclere Castle, Newbury, 1st September, 1874. It is as follows:

"Dear Sir and Brother—I have within the last twenty-four hours learned the intended resignation of the Most Worshipful the Grand Master. In common with the Craft I deeply regret it, but am bound to accept his decision. Under the circumstances the government of the Craft, as provided for in the Constitutions, devolves on His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, if he will accept the office. I hope His Royal Highness will be pleased to do so; but if otherwise, then the duty will devolve on me to take the necessary steps for the election of a new Grand Master. Pending the great and serious inconvenience which any lengthened period between the resignation of one Grand Master and the election of his successor must need be, and desiring as far as possible to abridge it, I will, if called upon, give instructions for the summoning of special meetings of the Grand Lodge for the nomination and election of a Grand Master at as early dates as are convenient and practicable. I greatly regret that very important business prevents my attendance in Grand Lodge to-morrow evening.—I remain, dear sir and brother, yours faithfully and fraternally.

"CARNARVON."

The Grand Secretary, having read the section from the Book of Constitutions applicable to the case, said it would now become necessary to appoint three members of Grand Lodge to wait upon and invite the Prince of Wales, as Past Grand Master, to act until a new election took place.

Bro. Tomkins, Grand Treasurer, after again expressing the feeling mentioned as entertained by the former speakers, of regret at the Grand Master's resignation, proposed that the Earl of Carnarvon (Deputy Grand Master), Bro. John Havers (Past Grand Warden), and Bro. Aeneas McIntyre (Grand Registrar) be deputed to wait upon his Royal Highness for the purpose.

Bro. John M. Clabon seconded the motion, which was put, and carried unanimously; Bro. Thomas Meggy first observing that, whereas it had been said by a previous speaker, that they had an alternative but to elect his Royal Highness, they would be most pleased to see his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales at the head of the Craft.

The motion was then carried unanimously. Bro. Havers also expressed the pleasure which a Grand Lodge would have in being presided over by his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and, in the absence of Lord Carnarvon, accepted the office of one of the committee to wait upon the Prince of Wales. (Hear, hear, and cheers.)

The Acting Grand Master then said—It now devolves upon me to do what, I deeply regret to say, of course the Grand Master could not do, but it falls upon me to propose to you a resolution which stands upon the minutes here as coming from himself. I have therefore this resolution, which he himself has written, and which I will read to you as coming from himself. I am perfectly sure, when I say that, coming from the late Grand Master of England, you will receive it with that feeling of homage and deference which you always have paid to every word that proceeded from his lips. I am sure, therefore it will receive at your hands a most cordial acceptance. The resolution I have to propose is this—"That this Grand Lodge desires to express the sincere regret entertained by all the members of the Craft at the loss it has sustained by the death of the Right Hon. the Earl of Dalhousie, K.T., G.C.B. Past Deputy Grand Master, and to record on its minutes its high appreciation of the very eminent services rendered to Freemasonry by the late noble brother during a very lengthened period."

Bro. Hugh D. Sandeman, District Grand Master of Bombay: Most Worshipful Grand Master—This proposition you have just made comes under the category of many propositions which really only require seconding as a matter of form. Long speeches are obviously unnecessary in any case where apology or advocacy are not required. There must be many in this hall who have worked as Freemasons with the late Earl of Dalhousie, who knew him in his old days as Lord Panmure—probably before that as Fox Maule—and I think that there is no one in this Grand Lodge who would have the boldness to say that they have ever known any man whose heart was more entirely devoted to Masonry than was the late Earl of Dalhousie. Most Worshipful Grand Master, I would not like to make any further remarks, because I feel I should be in danger of making a long speech, after I have said that a long speech is unnecessary. I think that no words are necessary in this case, and I will therefore second the resolution.

The motion was then put and carried unanimously.

The Acting Grand Master again rose and said—I have now a further resolution emanating from the late Grand Master of England, similar in many respects to the last; but in this respect it differs, for we have to pass a vote of condolence with the Grand Lodge of Scotland, who have lost, in the decease of our late friend and brother the Earl of Dalhousie, a Past Grand Master Mason of the Grand Lodge of Scotland. I therefore propose the following motion—"Resolved, that this Grand Lodge also expresses its sincere condolence on the decease of the Right Hon. the Earl of Dalhousie, K.T., G.C.B., Most Worshipful Past Grand Master Mason of Scotland"—a brother not only eminent in the Craft, in which he had performed signal services, but who, by his sterling good sense and uncompromising honesty of purpose, had endeared himself to the whole of the fraternity, and whose work and exertions in the cause of Freemasonry were always highly appreciated. You all know that we owe a great debt of gratitude to our sister Grand Lodge of Scotland, and that we shall not allow an opportunity of this kind to pass by without offering our deep and fraternal regards on the great misfortune which has befallen her. (Hear, hear.)

Bro. H. D. Sandeman seconded the motion. This motion was also carried, and the Grand Lodge proceeded to the transaction of other Masonic business.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Wounds, scalds, burns, irritating sores. The peculiar, mild, soothing, and-inflammatory power exerted by this Ointment, strongly recommends its use by all persons who have charge of children. Accidents will occur in the nursery in spite of the greatest caution and utmost vigilance. The scratch, the burn, or the scald treated early with this Ointment casts off its angry aspect, and never long tortures the little sufferer, whose every cry excites each bystander's compassion, and pierces the parent's heart. Every nurse should consider this invaluable Ointment an essential to a well appointed nursery. No difficulty or danger attends its application provided moderate attention is bestowed upon the directions for use, enveloping every pot.

EARLY GRAND ENCAMPMENT, SCOTLAND.

The quarterly convention of the Grand Council of the E. G. Encampment was held on Saturday, the 29th ultimo., at the Sun Hotel, Kilmarnock. The various E. G. Encampments were well represented, attributable, no doubt, to the annual election of Grand Officers, which takes place at the quarterly assembly of Grand Council. The Encampment being opened by the retiring M.N.C., Sir Knight Pollock, of Newmilns, who in relinquishing the commandery through declining health, does not again seek election. A vote of thanks was passed to the retiring Commander for the very able manner he has discharged his sometimes arduous duties during the year, and that his health would be entirely restored by a change of climate, so that his services might again be had by the E. G. Encampment.

Sir Knt. Pollock in a neat and appropriate speech thanked the Sir Knts. for the kind manner they had spoken of him, and regarding his services to the E. G., he would only say that he considered it his duty, and the duty of every Commander to work faithfully for the benefit of the E. G. If the G. A. of the Universe should spare him, he did not doubt but that he would place himself at their disposal again.

Before proceeding with the election Com. Dr. A. Cameron, who attended, was duly dubbed a Sir Knight of the Temple, by Sir Knt. Com. Martin, of Ayr, in his usual faultless style, thereafter the election commenced. The Sir Knights who were nominated being Sir Knights Dr. A. Cameron, of Glasgow, and J. Hodge, of Kilmarnock. The ballot being proceeded with, it was found that Sir Knt. Hodge, of Kilmarnock, was duly elected, having the majority of votes recorded in his favour.

The newly elected Most Noble Commander, Sir Knt. Hodge, was received by the assembled Sir Knights with acclamation, and passed under an "arch of steel." The interesting ceremony of installation was proceeded with, the officiating Commanders Pollock and Martin accomplishing the beautiful ceremony in a masterly manner. The other Grand Officers who were likewise installed, were Sir Knight Pollock, of Stewarton, as Deputy Grand Com., Sir Knight Martin, Grand Treasurer, and Sir Knight Clark, Kilmarnock, Grand Secretary.

The new Most Noble Commander, Sir Knight Hodge, having ascended the Throne, "more Majorum," addressed the assembled Sir Knights as follows—Most Noble Knights, the position you have placed me in, a position far above what I am properly qualified to fill, and for which great honour I beg sincerely to thank you. I cannot at this moment adequately convey to you my feelings, standing as I do in the most honourable position, as Grand Commander of the E. G. Encampment in Scotland. I need not observe that my services at all times will be placed at your disposal, that by untiring energy in the faithful discharge of those duties connected with my office, to merit from you that esteem and reliance my position requires. I only hope we may proceed as we have commenced, so that our relationship in the end, will have been profitable to all parties.

The Sir Knights thereafter adjourned to a cold collation.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

The August meeting of the General Committee of this Institution was held on Thursday, 27th ult., at Freemasons' Hall. There was but a small attendance on this occasion, most of the brethren being out of town. Bro. Richard Spencer, V.P., took the chair, and was supported by Bros. T. F. Peacock, Griffiths Smith, Thomas W. White, Jesse Turner, H. Massey (Freemason), and R. Wentworth Little, Secretary.

The business before the Committee was merely formal, and after cheques had been signed for £1027 16s. 11d., and a notice of motion had been received as to a gratuity of 15 guineas to Miss Kernot, who discharged the duties of matron during Miss Jarwood's illness, the brethren adjourned.

RESIGNATION OF THE GRAND MASTER.

Our many readers will share in the regret and astonishment with which Grand Lodge heard, on Wednesday evening, the announcement of the Marquess of Ripon's resignation of the Grand Mastership. As our distinguished brother gives no other reason, in his letter to the Grand Secretary; but that he "finds himself unable any longer to discharge the duties of Grand Master," we can only record the event, adding to it the expression of our heartfelt sorrow at such a separation from our noble and excellent brother. No Grand Mastership has ever opened with fairer promise of permanent well-being and successful administration, and we deeply deplore the loss of so able, and so high-minded a Master. We shall recur to the subject in our next. It will be seen by the proceedings of the Grand Lodge, that, in accordance with the Book of Constitution, our royal brother the Prince of Wales is to be requested, by a deputation of three of our most distinguished brothers, to act as Grand Master until the annual election.

THE SECRECY OF FREEMASONRY.

We said in a previous article, that, we should recur to the question of the "secrecy" of Freemasonry, as one of the great objections made against Freemasonry is, that it is a secret society. We therefore think it well to return to the subject to-day, and would call the attention of our readers, to a very able letter in another part of our impression, bearing on the same subject. That Freemasonry is and professes to be a secret society, is a fact which "nobody can deny."

But "non constat," that because we are a secret society, that therefore we are a bad society; or hurtful institution, or objectionable organization. In order to prove so sweeping an assertion—our opponents, who object to secrecy so much, and are fond of saying, "if there was any real good in Freemasonry it would not be kept secret," must go on to prove, that, all secrecy, and all secret societies, "ipso facto," by the very nature of the case, are utterly wrong—wrong that is alike objectively and subjectively, in the abstract and in the concrete. In the mouth of our Roman Catholic opponents, such arguments come with a very bad grace indeed. What are we to say, of their own secret society the "Jesuit Order"? On their own principles it is radically bad, utterly wrong and indefensible. Those of us who have given any attention to the history of the Jesuits, know well that "secrecy" is the foundation on which their whole organization depends. I leave out of the question the "Secreta Monita" to-day, but plenty of evidence is forthcoming, to prove that they have a secret proposition, a secret probation, a secret reception, a secret obligation, and secret "counsels." So much so is this the fact, that, as the Jesuits are also divided into classes or degrees, some writers have foolishly endeavoured to prove them to be a Masonic Order. And what are we to say of the secrets of the confessional? What of the secret conclave? Many other points of secrecy might be brought forward, in the Romish system, which as it seems to us, render the position of our Roman Catholic assailants untenable, as, on their own arguments, secret societies of all kind are ipso facto bad! If our Roman Catholic opponents reply, we fall back on the decision of Roman councils, and of Papal rescripts, by which secret societies are condemned, our answer is: granted, that you have a right to forbid your own laity joining secret societies, you can have no right to dictate to us. But before you even do so with your own "fideles," before that you excommunicate many of your most faithful sons, just remember the good old adage, "people who live in glass houses, should not throw stones," and be consistent as regards all secret societies, which you denounce as wrong, quæ secret societies. Assailants like Mr. Kerr, who base their objections against Freemasonry as a secret society, must, we presume alike take up the position, that all secret societies are bad in themselves! Mr. Kerr quotes a scripture text to prove his point, but we need hardly add, that, it is one of those violent and unworthy adaptations, which reflect little credit either on the moral honesty of the writer, or on the skill and truth of his "exegesis." "Come thou not into their secret," was never meant to be applied to the Masonic body. Thus then, we have to meet two classes of objections to secrecy as a characteristic of an Order like ours, and we will take them "seriatim." The Roman Catholic, forgetful of the beam in his own eye, sees only the mote that is in a Freemason's eye, and ignoring the fact that secrecy is not unknown to his own religious body, condemns us on that very ground! But in order to do so, as between man and man, and on moral grounds, he has in the first place to demonstrate clearly, that all secrecy is objectionable, and all secret societies deemably bad. But unfortunately for him only can he not safely lay down such a proposition, but the whole history of the Christian Religion is against him, even on this very point. What was the Disciplina Arcani? It is an undoubted fact, that, in the early history of Christianity its religious teaching, and its most sacred secrets were sedulously guarded from the intrusion of the profane, and practised and taught in secret! If the mere fact of "secrecy" be objectionable, the objection must forcibly be traced to the earliest developments of Christianity itself, but the truth is, such a proposition can be accepted as an "universal," and the question of "secrecy" turns not upon secrecy really at all, but upon the object for which secrecy is used and maintained. States have a right, and it is their bounden duty to object and "surveiller," to use a French word, all secret societies whose real aim and end they deem to be incompatible either with the liberty of the subject, or the safety of the public. States often to interfere with secret political societies which use the cloak of secrecy, either to promote treasonable movements, or to promulgate seditious principles, in the body politic. No sane person, above all no true Freemason ever does or can approve of such societies, or abet them, or take part in their proceedings, or be affiliated to them, because they are in themselves opposed to the true teaching, the moral duty of all patriotic citizens, because they are condemned by the laws of the country to which we belong, or where for the moment reside. In their case secrecy is bad, most bad, "per se," and all such secret political associations, which seek to promote aims, or inculcate teaching, adverse to the peace and order and safety of society, or which are condemned, either "nominatim," or by the common law of the land, are to be shunned and to be disavowed by all honest men, and citizens wherever they may be. But Freemasonry, though a secret society, is not obnoxious in England, to the laws of the State, on the contrary, is expressly excepted by the legislative enactments bearing on secret societies. Secrecy is therefore recognised by the law as harmless and legal. What, then, can any man really say against Freemasonry on this score? It is recognised by the State, is excepted from the operation of an act directed against secret political societies, its non-political character is fully admitted and it is not as before the world, that what its secrecy may cover, whatever its secret tenets may be, it is a society whose object and end are not hurtful, but beneficial to society and to mankind. And if we know, in England, our Order is made of the highest and best in our land, in association with all classes of our fellow-countrymen. When we remember that men of the exalted position, the noblest birth, the highest education, the most true moral worth, are to avow themselves to be Freemasons, how much more than idle, how utterly childish is the objection, alike of our uneducated and of our educated and Presbyterian assailants.

political society, that our secrecy is in itself wrong, and lays our Order open to serious doubts and objections, that we must have some unworthy motives for retaining such secrecy, and that we are, in some mysterious way or the other, at the bottom of much of the mischief that goes on in the world. We can afford to smile at our impugnors, to shrug our shoulders at such imbecile attacks, and leaving our public works and acts to tell to others what our true principles are, we can safely maintain, without a doubt or a fear, that secrecy which time and tradition have thrown around our Order, and which we have inherited to-day from others, who, in their generation upheld with unwavering fidelity and devotion in all of secret organization and power, the unchanging tenets and constitution of our peaceable and loyal and world-wide Order. There are many other collateral issues, raised by these questions, which we shall propose to consider, ere long, at some convenient season.

THE PLYMOUTH QUESTION.

The correspondence which we publish to-day shows how much of doubt there still exists as to the facts of the case. Before any clear opinion can be formed or conclusion come to, we must ascertain, what is the correct state of affairs. Now it appears to us that the first point is to ascertain who actually laid down as a regulation, like a law of the Medes and Persians, that our soldier brethren must appear in "black coats, &c.?" Then the next question, was there any military prohibition of our soldier brethren marching in the procession. "Soldier Freemason" says the Major-General commanding at Plymouth only objected to the non-commissioned officers being ignored, and would not have objected to their appearing in uniform. Bro Col. Elliott says they were prohibited by the "Queen's Regulations," and "Leo" says that he knows that the Major-General commanding at Plymouth forbade them to appear altogether, and would not alter his decision. What, then, are the true facts of the case? When we have them, we can arrive perhaps at a proper conclusion as regards the whole subject.

Original Correspondence.

THE ROYAL VISIT TO PLYMOUTH.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In your report of the Masonic reception of H.R.H the Prince of Wales there were one or two inaccuracies, which I trust you will allow me to correct.

In the first place your reporter's estimate of the number of brethren present was far short of the mark. 1800 would have been a poor number indeed for the provinces of Devon and Cornwall to put into the field; the actual number was 2600 at least. Unfortunately we were not counted as we filed out of the Military Barracks, but we know that the procession was 700 yards in length; and again, the whole of the 500 seats provided in the Guildhall were occupied, while quite 100 brethren had to stand all the time. From both these sources we find that 500 is certainly within the total of those present on the auspicious occasion.

Again, you say "the route was well kept by the police." Now this was shamefully done, or rather, was not done at all, for throughout the line of march the procession was seriously inconvenienced by the spectators crowding upon it, the police making no effort, except here and there, to keep the people back.

Let me pass on now to your account of the proceedings of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Devon, held at Plymouth on the 14th inst.

I was very glad to read Bro. Wood's remarks about the exclusion of the military brethren from the Masonic procession. The blame, however, does not rest on the committee of management, but on the military authorities. I was sorry, however, to see such a thorough soldier as Bro. Col. Elliott make so grave a mistake as to say that the prohibition, (which emanated from the General in command of the Western district—not from the Commander-in-Chief) was in compliance with the "Queen's Regulations." There is nothing whatever in those regulations bearing upon the subject. Soldiers of all grades are forbidden to institute or take part in processions for party or political purposes, but most certainly Masonic gatherings do not come under that head. The prohibition was most unjustifiable, and can only be characterised as a tyrannical act on the part of the chief military authority at Plymouth, which was excessively galling to to our gallant and worthy brethren, especially to the Royal Marines, for their commanding officer, knowing there was nothing in the code militaire to prevent it, had sanctioned their joining the procession. Great dissatisfaction was felt and expressed by all present who knew the state of affairs, and H.R.H. was disappointed (being a soldier himself) at the marked absence of the military element. Your Correspondent "Soldier Freemason" is quite wrong in supposing that a slur was cast upon our military brethren, for it was the fiat of the Major-General that stood in the way, and I am in a position to state that several attempts were made to induce him to withdraw his prohibition (but without success) by those who have the welfare of the non-commissioned officers at heart, and of whom I am proud to consider myself one.

I remain, Dear Sir and Brother, yours fraternally, Leo.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

Your correspondent "Soldier Freemason" is evidently not aware that it is a distinct military offence to appear in a public Masonic procession in uniform. The offence is appearing improperly dressed, and the punishment very heavy. Commanding officers look upon an apron or collar worn over a tunic much the same as a billycock hat, worn instead of a forage cap. An instance occurred at Dover, three or four years ago, which would show your correspondent what an escape he has had, and how thankful he ought to be that the regulations he complains of were laid down. He allows himself that the Major-General Commanding disapproved, and although he asserts that the Major-General would have consented for once, he does not bring any proof to show that this was known by the Devon and Cornwall Prov. Grand Lodges.

Yours fraternally,
P.G.D.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In your impression of the 22nd Aug. you report, respecting the Royal visit to Plymouth, that the non-commissioned officers who are Freemasons, were prevented from appearing in the procession as soldiers, and you insert a letter from "Soldier Freemason," who appears much hurt that he with others were degraded and insulted, and alluded to the unfortunate affair respecting Father Cuffe's conduct, which was most reprehensible, as regards his treatment of Armourer-Sergeant Johnstone.

It is not, I think, very good taste to compare the conduct of the Romish Priest with that of the Major-General commanding in Plymouth—for red-tape has nothing to do with it.

Bro. Col. Elliot said "he was in a position to state that the order emanated from the Commander-in-chief, and that it was in compliance with the 'Queen's Regulations,' which prohibited non-commissioned officers from taking any part in public demonstrations." Now, if "Soldier Freemason" is a true and loyal subject of Her Majesty the Queen and a true and faithful Freemason, he must not be angry at being kept from joining the Freemasons on that occasion, for he has declared, both as a soldier and a Freemason, that he will submit to all lawful authority. I trust, therefore, that "Soldier Freemason" will withdraw his remarks made in your paper, and that he will take the earliest opportunity to visit his own lodge, or a neighbouring lodge, as speedily as possible, and with manly boldness, as a British soldier, state he was wrong.

I also think, for the unity of the Craft, you should withdraw your note at the end of the letter of "Soldier Freemason," I think, had the matter been carefully thought over, the letter would never have been sent to The Freemason.

The law of the land forbids a Clerk in Holy Orders in the Established Church to become a Member of Parliament. I might say it is a hard thing to have such a restraint put upon me, but I never for a moment look upon it as a grievance. So our dear brother "Soldier Freemason" should not feel it a hardship to obey his Commander-in-chief, being sure that the regulation must be a wise one, though neither he nor I know the reason why. He cannot, however, take it as anything personal to himself, nor to his comrades in the army.

AUGUSTUS A. BAGSHAWE,
P.G.S.W. AND P.P.G.CH. DERBYSHIRE.

[We cannot agree with our excellent Bro. Bagshawe's view of the case; on the contrary, as our leader last week shows, feel that the question deserves to be thoroughly ventilated.]

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

In the name of the military brethren of Plymouth, I beg to tender you their grateful thanks for the very kind manner in which you advanced our cause, the more so as we are suffering from what we consider a very great slight, as well as a deprivation of the great pleasure of meeting our Royal Brother at the Prov. Grand Lodge. That the Major General commanding this district was not averse to our taking part in the procession in uniform, is, I find, fully borne out by the fact that he sanctioned the Band of the Royal Artillery appearing in the procession and marching from Millbay Barracks, to the Guildhall, which it did, as well as the Band of the South Devon Militia.

If at the Prov. Grand Lodge Bro. Col. Elliott had answered the question fairly, he should have said that "officers, non-commissioned officers, and soldiers, are forbidden to institute, or take part in any meetings, demonstrations, or processions for party or political purposes, in barracks, quarters, camp, or elsewhere," and not have put it off on non-commissioned officers and soldiers; he should have quoted fairly or not at all.

But it seemed all of a piece. The soldiers were not wanted to spoil by their uniforms the respectability of the procession. Bro. Hughan states in his letter that the Committee "had no option but to require the brethren to assemble and take part in the procession, clothed according to the usual custom, thereby naturally prohibiting any from appearing in regimentals."

Now it is certainly not the custom in Plymouth for soldiers to attend their lodges in mufti, but they do almost invariably in the uniform of their respective regiments or corps, a fact well-known to the members of the Committee residing in Plymouth, and who must have stated to Bro. Hughan, that which they well knew to be not true, for I am sure Bro. Hughan is too old and good a Freemason to say anything but the truth in such a case, and therefore I cannot but presume that he was misinformed, and I should, as well as my comrades, be extremely glad if Bro. Hughan would state by whom he was so informed, in order that the affair may be thoroughly sifted, for we feel, sure, and that, too, bitterly, that we have not been treated as Masons and brethren, but rather as cowards and intruders in the Order.

Sincerely hoping that you will insert this in your next edition. I remain Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally and sincerely,
ANOTHER SOLDIER FREEMASON.

To the Editor of the Freemason.
Dear Sir and Brother.—

I hope you will kindly give the enclosed a place in your next number of The Freemason. I went a long way to Plymouth in order to be present at the Masonic reception of H.R.H. and you may imagine how disgusted I was when I found that my comrades in arms were prevented from joining in the procession. I, with others, endeavoured to get the prohibition cancelled. In the Plymouth garrison there were about 120 non-commissioned officers who are Masons, all of them very estimable men, and I know that all we who could put on a black coat for the occasion would have been delighted to have seen those sergeants and corporals walking side by side with us, and were very much disappointed at their absence.

Yours truly and fraternally,
AN OFFICER AND A P.P.J.G.W.

"WHAT BETTER THEME THAN MASONRY?"

To the Editor of the Freemason.
Dear Sir and Brother,
In your leader "On the Onward Progress of Freemasonry" in your last impression, I observe the following sentence—"What better theme than Masonry?" says a good old poetic brother, now, alas! no longer to the fore."

As the author of the Masonic song bearing the title quoted, I am, naturally enough, surprised to find myself referred to in the above named terms, for, whatever qualities may be credited to me by your contributor, as I am only now about to celebrate my jubilee, I do not think the second adjective altogether applicable, and as to the remainder of the sentence, it reads like a lament over one departed, which, I thank the G.A.O.T.U., is not yet my case.

Of course I presume your contributor really refers to my song, the title of which, "What better Theme, &c," I have always believed to be original, never having met with any similar words in any of my Masonic researches. If otherwise, and he will kindly inform me thereof, he will confer a favour which will quite satisfy me for the surprise his remarks have occasioned.

If, on the contrary, he does allude to me, I should wish it to be known, that if I am "no longer to the fore," I am not far in the rear, and am as ready for service in the vanguard of Freemasonry as ever.

Yours truly and fraternally,
JAMES STEVENS.
P.M., P.Z., &c.

Clapham, August 29, 1874.

[We apologise to our most excellent and worthy Bro. Stevens for taking away his due honours from him, and inadvertently consigning him to the "limbus poetarum." The truth is we made a slight "beefsteak," and confounded our living Bro. Stevens, with our defunct and regretted Bro. Carpenter. Will Bro. Stevens, on the Masonic principle of returning good for evil, favour us with a little "refrain" for the next Freemason.—ED.]

THE SECRECY OF FREEMASONRY.

To the Editor of the Freemason.
Dear Sir and Brother,
In my former letter I suggested that the first objection which can with any degree of reason be urged against Freemasonry arises from the fact of its being a secret society. In other words, that this is an inherent objection to any society, however innocent or even praiseworthy its objects may be, whose meetings are held in private, and whose members have a bond of union, known only to themselves, and kept concealed from the world at large.

Now if in reply to this broad assertion we ask, "What is the objection," or, why is there such objection? we get from some of our opponents, generally people of a pragmatical disposition, the same sort of answer as ladies sometimes give to the question asked by their male friends, "Why is smoking an ungentlemanly habit?" "Because it is." In other words, such persons entertain an objection which they cannot express in words, but which is sufficiently apparent to themselves, and valid enough to keep them outside the pale of our Order. And such a feeling ought by all means to be respected. God forbid that Masons above all men should mock at a difficulty, honestly felt and consistently regarded! But surely we may demand that an attempt should at least be made to formalise the objection, in order that we may, in our turn, have the opportunity of attempting a reply to it. Let me then state the objection thus, "Much mischief, political and religious, has been wrought by secret societies, therefore secret societies are mischievous." Now we will examine the logic of this reasoning presently, but first let us observe that it is "nihil ad rem." In granting that there are, and have been, at home and abroad, secret societies of men, banded together to promote civil and religious discord, Freemasonry has nothing in common with these. "But," pursues our objector, "Freemasonry abroad has been actually forbidden in some countries, because of its fomenting political strife; and as Freemasonry is one and indivisible, the stigma attaches to the whole body." To which we reply, "Freemasonry is one and indivisible in this sense only, a Freemason in London is a Freemason in Paris, or Vienna, or any where else. But each country has its distinct constitution, and if foreign Masons allow their Craft to be prostituted to civil purposes, it in no way affects us, whose Masonic constitution absolutely forbids anything of the kind. Nay, further; if any English Mason was visiting a lodge, say in Vienna, and he found that any plotting against the government were going on therein, it would be his bounden duty, as a Freemason, to leave that lodge at once, because he is bound not to propose, or in any way to encourage any act which may tend to subvert the peace and good order of society, and to render a due obedience to the laws of any state which may for a time become the place of his residence, or afford him its protection."

Let me now put the objection grounded on the secrecy of Freemasonry in a syllogistic form. It will run thus, "All secret societies are mischievous; Freemasonry is a secret society, therefore Freemasonry is mischievous." My good friend, I deny your major premiss. I have shown you that we have nothing to do with any mischief-plotting abroad; and to turn our eyes homewards, what secret societies are there here, absolutely unsuspected of any mischievous tendency! You must modify your major premiss, and so vitiate your conclusion. Granted that some secret societies are or have been troublesome in church or state, granted even Freemasonry abroad has been so abused in troublous times, we assert that there are many secret societies in England at the present time, not only illegal, but allowed and protected by the law. What are the Odd Fellows, Druids, Foresters, Good Templars, but secret societies? And has any one ever laid political or religious disturbance to their charge? On the contrary, are not their objects well known, and innocent, or even laudable? If members of Benefit or Temperance Societies may, without detriment to the commonwealth, league themselves together by the tie of a common secret and a solemn obligation, surely the Masonic body may do the same, whose object is not to receive a "quid pro quo" for their subscriptions, or to pick out one only virtue for practice, one only vice for abhorrence, but who are bound by the strongest ties to the fear of God, obedience to the laws, and the practice of every moral and social virtue. Nay more; if once political or religious discussion were admitted into our lodges, the very framework of our Order would fall to pieces, our obligations must be altered, our ceremonies re-modelled, our ancient charges abandoned, our exhortations and lectures scattered to the winds, in one word, Masonry would be Masonry no more. Of all men Masons have reason to cry, "Give peace in our time, O Lord," because when men are excited by the heat of religious or political animosity, they are not in a suitable frame of mind for the duties of a Masonic lodge. So then, we may triumphantly reply to all such objectors, "yes, Freemasonry is a secret society; its members, dispersed over the face of earth and water, need no letter of recommendation or introduction; wherever there is civilisation, there is Freemasonry, and there every Mason, however poor, may find friends and a home." "Public secrets to the world;—we need not blush are harmless in every respect—but by do you take away the very charm and recondensation of Freemasonry, you destroy the mystery which binds brother to brother; you deprive our means of mutual intercommunication which no stranger intermeddeth. Who dares to raise any objection to a husband and or father and children, separated by the ties of life, communicating, if they choose, the use of a cypher, in order that the expression of secret thoughts might not become legible to any one in the world? Who finds fault with us Masons, in the North, South, and West, bound together by ties, strangers cannot comprehend, because we have the power of making ourselves known to each other, in a way which you cannot divine? is no secrecy in our objects, in the time and of our lodge's assembling, in our long rolls of members, in our fidelity to the constitutions and laws, in our brotherly concord and affection. Our only secret, dear to us as itself, is the chain whose links of magic sympathy bind us each to the other. Join us, become partakers of our secrets, work with us, explore our mysteries, become in sympathy with our spirit, so far as we are ourselves worthy of our Order, and we will find that, not for a moment, or by the breadth of one single hair, will you be a less faithful servant of God, a dutiful subject of the Queen, a less loving husband, a less tender father, a less firm and able friend, a less honest and upright man. Sir, as I write, I feel assured that these poor words of mine will awaken an echo in thousands of Masonic breasts, and that they will add testimony to mine that, though we would rather die, God helping us, rather than betray the secrets of our Order, yet, so far as we are concerned, we need no fear the publication of our secrets to the whole world. Nothing is said in a Masonic lodge which would raise a blush on the purest cheek; nothing done therein which the most scrupulous penitent need fear to acknowledge in the presence of his fellow-men. Nay, if strangers could be admitted within our walls, and witness there our labours begun in order, conducted in peace, and closed in harmony, the shame would be to our detriment, and the ready blush would mantle on the cheek among those who, in their ignorant prejudice, have censured that they which they knew not, and derided that which they did not understand.

Sir; there are other secrets besides those of Freemasonry, which the Roman Priest in the Confessional, forbidden by the laws of his church to be either husband or father, cannot fatherly comprehend; and the authorities of that church may with as much reason forbid the sacrifice of marriage, as the deep mysterious bond of fraternal love, as forbid her children to be sons, because we are bound together by ties which the church and the world have no power to sever.

I am, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,
P. PROV. G. C. OXON
CHAPLAIN AND SEC.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGES.

To the Editor of the Freemason.
Dear Sir and Brother,—

In your leader of the 22nd inst. again draw attention to the title "Grand Lodge" being applied to "Prov. Grand Lodges," I quite agree with you, that it is very objectionable.

Can you, however, be surprised at the error being made, when the chief organ of the The Freemason, in its reports of the meetings, uses the same incorrect title.

In those cases where the words of the title are given, I suppose, he (the speaker) might be held responsible, though even in this case would suggest, the editor might correct the error, but in many instances the title of Lodge is used when reference is being made to what takes place, and is not an extract from a speech.

In one report of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Devon (which indeed is a question).

Treasurer's report, "There was a balance in favour of the Grand Lodge of £209," again, "The Prov. Grand Master called the attention of the Grand Lodge," and "the cordial thanks of the Grand Lodge were given, the Mayor &c.," and "Bro. Latimer expressed his thanks for the resolution of the Grand Lodge."

Your reply, will, I presume, be that you inserted the report as it was received, but as you insert it without making any remark that it is communicated, your readers must hold you responsible, and I certainly think you should correct such mistakes, instead of countenancing them, even if you do not see your way to alter the title given, when reporting the actual words used by the speaker.

Yours fraternally,

M. J. M.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opium, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL. Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Indigestion, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 12s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.

Invands should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had gratis of all Chemists.

UND FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE WIDOW OF THE LATE W. BRO. J. R. STEBBING, P.G.D (ENGLAND) AND D. PROV. G.M.

RESIDENT.—The Right Worshipful W. W. B. BARCH, M.P., Provincial Grand Master.

At a meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge, recently held at Landport, it was unanimously resolved that a Committee be appointed for the purpose of raising a fund, to provide a suitable memorial to our late deeply-lamented Bro. Stebbing.

In pursuance of the foregoing resolution, a meeting was held at Southampton, which was largely attended, when the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:—

"That the Lodges and Chapters of the Province and Freemasons generally be solicited to subscribe to a fund, to be appropriated as the Committee shall determine, for the benefit of the Widow of our late lamented Bro. J. R. Stebbing, whose circumstances at the time of his decease render this appeal absolutely necessary."

"That copies of these resolutions be forwarded to each Lodge and Chapter in the Province, inviting their co-operation, as well as that of Brethren and Companions generally, in obtaining subscriptions to the fund."

"That a circular stating the circumstances be also transmitted to all other Lodges and Chapters in England."

The name of the late Bro. J. R. Stebbing is well known in all Masonic circles that it seems unnecessary to set forth at length his life and valuable services. For many years he was a constant attendant at Grand Lodge and Chapter, assisting the interests of the Brethren and Companions. He was Vice-president of the Board of General Purposes in 1861, 1862 and 1863, and also an active member of the Building Committee of the present Freemasons' Hall, London.

He was rarely absent from the elections in various Charities, giving his valuable aid to poor and distressed amongst the brethren and their relatives, contributing from his means to the advancement of those charities, in which he had qualified as Vice-Patron of the Boys' School, Life Governor of the Girls' School, and Governor of the benevolent Institution; it is sincerely hoped that the Widow of one who was so actively engaged for the benefit of others (herself a Life-Governor of the Boys' School) should be placed in circumstances which will assist her in her present unexpected avocation.

Subscriptions in aid of this fund may be sent to the Treasurer, Aldermoor House, Southampton or to his bankers, Messrs. Edmond, Ather, Hankinson, and Darwin, Southampton.

W. HICKMAN, Treasurer.
J. E. LE FEUVRE, Secretary.

SOUTHALL.—Acacia Lodge (No. 1309).—The regular meeting of this lodge was held on Saturday, August 22nd, at the Prince Alfred Hotel, Southall. Bro. Frederick Walters, P.G.P., Middlesex, P.M., and Secretary, opened the lodge. He in his usual good style, passed Bro. Upstone to the second degree, and raised Bros. Joseph Boyce and David Steinhauer 1326 to the third degree. Bro. E. W. Richardson, W.M., presented Bro. R. Limpus, P.P.G. Organist Middlesex, J.W. and W.M. elect, for installation, and he was duly installed as the W.M. of the lodge. He appointed as his officers, Bros. C. A. Ferrier, S.W.; C. G. Rushworth, J.W.; E. Sillifant, P.P.G.J.D. Middlesex, P.M., Treasurer; F. Walters, P.G.P. Middlesex, P.M., Secretary; J. H. Webster, S.D.; J. W. George, J.D.; E. W. Collins, I.G.; A. E. J. Budgett, M.C.; R. P. Tebb, W.S.; W. Y. Ising, P.M., Tyler. A vote of thanks (and the same to be entered on the minutes was unanimously accorded to Bro. F. Walters, P.G.P. Middlesex, P.M., and Secretary (the father of the lodge), for his excellent, correct, and impressive working of the installation ceremony, also for his valuable services rendered to the lodge as its Secretary. The bye laws underwent a careful revision, and the day of meeting was altered to the fourth Tuesday (original day in the Warrant) of the months of January, April, July and October. Several gentlemen were proposed for initiation. The lodge was closed. A good banquet followed. There were present besides those already named, Bros. C. Horsley, P.P.G Reg. Middlesex, P.M.; Isaac Boyce, and others. Amongst the visitors were noticed, Bros. W. Smeed P.P.G.J.W., Middlesex; E. W. Lott, P.P.G.J.W., Jersey; A. Greatrex, P.M. and Treas. 22.

PRINCE LEOPOLD LODGE (No. 1445).—On Thursday, 3rd September, the installation meeting of the above lodge was held at Bro. G. Townsend's, "Lrd Stanley," Sandringham-road, Kingsland. The lodge has been established only twelve months but from the progress it has made during that time, has fully justified the reasons for its establishment, contained in its petition for a warrant, that there was room for another lodge in the neighbourhood where it was proposed to be held. It was started under very favourable auspices, and had the support of several prominent Freemasons, among whom were no less distinguished Past Grand Officers the Bros. Joshua Nunn, and John Braddick Mackton. By the exertions of these, among other brethren, the warrant was obtained from the 1st Grand Master, the Marquis of Ripon, in September of last year it was consecrated. During the succeeding year, it made considerable progress, and the joining members and initiates have become very numerous. At the first anniversary, which was held on the 3rd inst., (as was announced, and as will be seen from the following report, the limit, placed by the bye-laws, on the brethren entering at the first sale of fees was reached. The working of the lodge during its existence has, we were informed, been everything that could be desired, under the presidency of the first W.M., Bro. Howe, an excellent example has been set to the whole roll of lodges. In the working and the general conduct of business nothing has been omitted, which could tend to give the lodge weight or the Order influence. The proceedings of Thursday week, were in perfect keeping with the former instances of perfection and regularity, and the numerous brethren, who altogether mustered nearly sixty, openly admitted that the lodge was a credit to the Marquis of Ripon's authority. The lodge met at 4 o'clock, and was immediately opened by Bro. W. T. Howe, W.M., who was supported by his officers, members of the lodge, and visitors. Of the last, there were present in the course of the evening the following:—Bros. J. B. Monckton, P.G.D., President Board of General Purposes; John Hervey, Grand Sec.; H. G. Buss, G. Treas., Middlesex; W. Monckton, Prov. G.S.D. Kent; J. Terry, Prov. G.D.C. Herts.; R. Shackell, Prov. G. Pur. Hants.; E. P. Barlow, P.M. 15; Grime, P.M. 381; Stean, P.M. 212; Koch, P.M. 820; Mortlock, P.M. 186; Stephens, P.M. 1365; Frank, P.M. 212; Cunningham, P.M. 754; Massey, (Freemason) P.M. 619; Langridge, W.M. 874; Ashburner, W.M. 1278; Newbold, S.D. 1012; Preston, D.C. 1471; Grist, Marquis of Ripon; Fellows, Lion and Lamb, 192; Robinson, 65; Daley, 3; J. Green, J.W. 27; Wilson, 567; Larvon, 1365; Byfield, 1381; Moxon, 1298; Millen, 1349; and J. Badkim, 1365; After the usual preliminaries, Bro. Howe raised Bro. John Henry Vollum, and afterwards installed Bro. Frank Green, on presentation made to him for that purpose, in the W.M. chair. The brethren below that degree having been readmitted to the lodge, and the customary salutes having been given, Bro. Green invested his officers for the year as follows:—Bro. W. H. Myeis, W.M. 820, S.W.; Bro. F. Wilkins, J.W.; Bro. F. T. Howe, I.P.M., Treasurer; Bro. James Pinder, Secretary; Bro. W. F. Stevenson, S.D.; Bro. J. E. Simms, I.G.; Bro. J. Clark, D.C.; Bro. S. L. Green, W.S.; Bro. T. E. Goddard, W.S.; and Bro. Gilchrist, T. Bro. Howe then completed the ceremony with the delivery of the three addresses. Immediately afterwards, three candidates for initiation being in attendance, Bro. Green, W.M., commenced his duties, and initiated with great impressiveness and fluency Mr. F. Creed, Mr. J. C. Preston, and Mr. George Mowl into the threshold mysteries of Freemasonry. This ceremony completed, another interesting ceremony was performed, which was the presentation of two P.M. jewels, one to Bro. Howe, the I.P.M., and the other to Bro. Austin, who had acted as P.M., while Bro. Howe occupied the chair of the Lodge; and also a handsome engrossed vellum, framed and glazed, to Bro. Howe, recording his services to the lodge while he was W.M. In presenting these the W.M. said, Bro. P.M. Howe, one of the most pleasing and gratifying duties which could devolve upon me on behalf of the members of the Prince Leopold Lodge is what I am now commissioned to perform—to present you with this P.M. jewel; but before presenting it I will read the inscription on it. I feel that the addition of any words of my own to those I have just read would be altogether superfluous and uncalled for; but I may just observe that I do but express the sentiments of every member of the Prince Leopold Lodge when I say that we are confident that the jewel you have so worthily won you will no less worthily wear. May it remind you, for many years, of twelve months of hard labour, but labour which gained you the regard and esteem of everyone with whom you are connected. We wish to accompany that jewel with this testimonial, the written record of our fraternal regard; and we are confident that this slight recognition of our appreciation of the valuable services which you have rendered the lodge will be as acceptable to you as if it had taken the form of a costly presentation of plate. May it find a place in your house, Bro. Howe, many years, and may it there testify to your children's children the regard in which you are held. Bro. Howe: Brethren, your handsome gifts, and the very kind things you, W.M., have said of me have so taken me by surprise and robbed me of language that I feel quite at a loss for words, but let me assure you, brethren, that I shall never wear this jewel without thinking of the present occasion, and the kind friends who made me these gifts. As to the extra token of your regard for me, believe me, I shall ever value it as one of the greatest of my treasures. I pray that the Great Architect of the Universe may bestow on each of you in your turn as happy a year of office as I have had. The W.M. again rose, and in presenting a Past Master's jewel to Bro. Austin, who had acted as P.M. during the year, said: Bro. Austin, it is a somewhat singular privilege to have the pleasure of presenting two Past Masters' jewels on the same occasion, but on behalf of the members of the Prince Leopold Lodge, I now present you with this jewel. I can only add the name of Bro. Thomas Austin has long been a household word among Freemasons, and it is a name as highly esteemed as it is widely known, and the members, one and all, of the Prince Leopold Lodge can only wish you health, long life and happiness to wear that jewel. Bro. Austin said: W. Master and brethren, I thank you very sincerely for this kind mark of your respect. I shall always esteem it as one of the happiest Masonic years that I have ever enjoyed. I thank you very sincerely. The W.M. said it was now his duty to refer to the position of the lodge, and to call the brethren's attention to a necessary alteration of the lodge fees, as authorised by the bye-laws, according to bye-law No. 19, when the members of the lodge reached the number of 30, the initiating and joining fees were to be raised. The number now exceeded 30, and he would therefore move the stipulated raising of those two fees. This having been seconded, was carried nem. con. The W.M. proposed that Bro. J. B. Monckton, P.G.S.D., be elected an honorary member of the lodge and referred to the great services he had rendered in securing the warrant for the lodge. He was sure that there was no name they would receive with greater pleasure on their books. Bro. Howe, I.P.M., seconded the motion, and said that in conjunction with Bro. Joshua Nunn, Bro. J. B. Monckton took an active part in obtaining the warrant. The motion was carried unanimously, and Bro. Monckton acknowledged the compliment. Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, after acting in lodge four hours and a half, adjourned to a splendid banquet, provided and personally superintended by Bro. G. Townsend, the proprietor of the Lord Stanley. At the conclusion of the repast the toasts were proposed as usual, The W.M., in proposing "The Prince of Wales, the Earl of Carnarvon, and the rest of the Grand Officers," said, in consequence of what took place at Grand Lodge last evening and with which you are no doubt all now familiar. I have to refrain to-night from the pleasure of giving "the Health of the Marquis of Ripon" as our own M.W.G.M. The circumstances connected with his withdrawal from the lodge are not for me nor you to enter upon. Suffice it for me to say that he has sent in his resignation, which has been accepted by Grand Lodge. We are therefore without a Grand Master, but in H.R.H., the Prince of Wales we have one who has ever shown, since he became connected with the institution, the greatest interest in the welfare and progress of the Craft. I need not remind you here of the great and increasing influence which Freemasonry now exercises throughout this country, nor of the high office which H.R.H. has filled in the Craft. Perhaps if we look a little in the future, we may recognise a still higher office which he may be called upon to fill. That he will fill it with honour to himself, and benefit to the Craft we may all be well assured. With regard to the Earl of Carnarvon, I regret I have to apologise to you on behalf of our Secretary, because on account of excess of modesty on his part, he forgot to send his lordship an invitation to be here to-night, if he had, no doubt his lordship would have been here, and would have shown what a thoroughly good Mason he is. Under those somewhat melancholy circumstances therefore, we have the more reason to congratulate ourselves that owing to the rash temerity and never failing confidence of our worthy brother Past Master, we have secured the presence here this evening of several of the Grand Officers, and although it would be, I know, an unbecoming on my part—not to say invidious —proceeding to attempt in their presence to expatiate upon their merits individually and separately, at the same time I may, on behalf of the Leopold Lodge, assure them how deeply sensible we are of the honour they confer upon this lodge by their presence here this evening. Our Bro. J. B. Monckton, whom I am happy to congratulate on his being a member of the Prince Leopold Lodge, is one who has been so long a time connected with Freemasonry and the Grand Lodge, that he is now one of the highest officers in the lodge, and he fills a post which it is an honour for every member of the Craft to aspire to. I believe he is at the head of the Board of General Purposes, which exercises the greatest possible influence upon the Craft generally, throughout the country. Our Bro. John Hervey, Grand Secretary, we have seen here before, and have given him a welcome on previous occasions, but I am sure that he will receive none the less cordial a welcome on this occasion. I may say of him he is one of those who the more we see the more we want to see. Having said so much, I will, on behalf of the members of the Prince Leopold Lodge, thank our brother Grand Officers for being here this evening. The toast having been enthusiastically received, Bro. J. B. Monckton said:—A remark had often been made, but he had never felt its force more than he did at that moment, that it was easy to propose a toast, but difficult to respond to it; if, in his case, the difficulty had been increased by the over kind way in which the W.M. had spoken of the Grand Officers and the many things he had said in their and his own favour, he would, perhaps, get out of his difficulty by changing the venue and saying as little as possible of himself, and as much as possible of the W.M. Not very long ago they had talked together of Freemasonry, and the W.M. had asked him what he thought of his (the W.M.'s) going into the Craft. He told the W.M. what he sincerely thought—that if ever there was a man who ought to be a Freemason it was he. The W.M. did join Freemasonry, and what the brethren had seen that night, whether they were old Masons or young Masons, justified him (Bro. Monckton) in saying he defied them to be able to show that they had ever seen a Master installed into the chair do his work better than—he doubted whether they had seen it done as well as—the W.M. had done it that evening. The W.M. had told him beforehand, with a certain amount of modesty which he hardly knew what to make of, that he was going to perform the ceremony of initiation, but that he did not know whether his style of doing it would agree with that of the Emulation Lodge of Instruction. He (Bro. Monckton) could not see where the difference lay; in fact, he had never seen anything more completely, admirably, or masonically done, and could not conceive how it could be if the W.M. had been one of the preceptors of the Emulation (hear, hear). For the rest, he thought it only fair to say, as a good old Mason, that not only did the W.M. do well, but the subordinate officers did well, which was a very important point indeed. Masters often worked well, but a Warden, Deacon, or the Inner Guard made a mess of every thing. But in the Prince Leopold Lodge he had just seen the work done by every one in a clean, neat, businesslike, workmanlike manner. He congratulated the brethren who were instrumental in producing this result, and he felt it due to these brethren to pay this little tribute to the exertions of both the W.M. and his officers. Thanking the brethren for the toast, and also for his election as a member of the lodge, he was proud to recollect the very small share he had in assisting to get the warrant, but he was much more proud to see that the tree he had been slightly instrumental in planting had grown to be so capacious as this lodge had done (cheers). There were then loud cries for the Grand Secretary, which being persisted in, Bro. John Hervey said:—I appear to be pressed into the service, but I think it is rather in an unfair manner, because it is always understood that when a Grand Officer returns thanks for a toast his answer is final, and that no other should bore the lodge by a speech, but if I may say one or two words, I congratulate the lodge on its having progressed, and express the gratification I myself feel on seeing that it has progressed, in the manner it has in one short twelve-month. We met here only last year at this time for the purpose of consecrating this lodge. It was then a small twig, as it has been termed, I certainly was pleased and gratified at consecrating the lodge; I was pleased to think of, and to augur its future—to fancy, “in my mind’s eye,” that it would become a great tree in time, and to hope under the presidency of the then W.M. that it could not fail of success. Now I come here on its first anniversary; I see a gathering round this room that any old lodge in the Craft would be proud of. I see round the table not only old Masons, but I see a party of young Masons, many that I am totally unacquainted with, many that though now I am totally unacquainted with, at any rate I may look forward at some future period to be better known to; and I congratulate Bro. Howe, your I.P.M., upon the success which has crowned his exertions. I do therefore think I may fairly congratulate myself on the growth of this young twig, and which—well, I was going to say, which I had planted here. I congratulate myself, inasmuch as it is always a gratification to be associated with a society which from a small beginning takes large dimensions, and shows that by its intrinsic worth and merit it has grown to the size it now is. I will not weary you further, but I will say that it has afforded me very great satisfaction to be here to-night. I told Bro. Howe that nothing should prevent my being here. I determined nothing should prevent my being here to see what you had done, to congratulate the lodge on the success it has achieved, and to congratulate myself on having been the first, if I may so term it, I cannot say originator of the lodge, but at any rate the one who brought the lodge into existence, and to see it as it is now, flourishing, prosperous, and as I hope it will be for many years to come, carrying on the work of Freemasonry as our Bro. Monckton has told you, in an admirable manner. Bro. Howe, I.P.M., proposed “The Health of the W.M.,” and said he had had the pleasure of enjoying his friendship for many years. He also had had the honour of introducing him into Freemasonry, and could assure the brethren that he had watched with sincere pleasure the interest he had taken in that noble institution, and in all that concerned the Prince Leopold Lodge. The W.M. really assisted in laying its foundation stone; he had continued to help in its erection and he had now climbed to the top of the ladder to see that the roof was safe. He (Bro. Howe) could not pass by the present opportunity without congratulating the members of the lodge on placing its direction in the hands of so able and proficient a brother as Bro. Green. He knew he would do his duty as W.M. with honour and dignity, for he had the qualifications which were necessary for the highly important office. When at the end of his year of office they came to take stock (to use his own commercial phrase) of his work, he thought they would be able to say, in all sincerity, that the W.M. had discharged his duties to the advantage of the Order, and to his own lasting credit. The W.M. said: it would be impossible for me to return my thanks in anything like adequate language. I shall therefore compress the few words I have to say into as small a compass as possible. I can only assure you I am fully sensible of the compliment you have paid me, and the kind and cordial manner in which you have responded to the toast of my health. I can only assure you that I am deeply sensible of the responsibility I have undertaken, in conjunction with my officers. I am also deeply sensible that I shall fall far short of the requirements of a possessor of this chair. At the same time I can assure you my utmost efforts will be given to the duties connected with the office. It will be my highest pride and ambition to be able to hand over to my successor the warrant of the Prince Leopold Lodge in the same unsullied manner in which it has come into my hands. I can only hope that this night is somewhat of a promise of the future, and if I can struggle through my year of office with satisfaction to the officers and members of the lodge, I shall feel to have done so with credit to myself. Their approbation will be all that I shall seek for. Secure of that, I shall be secure of what I strongly desire. I shall simply tell you, perhaps, in addition that I shall do all in my power not only to maintain the efficiency of the lodge but its dignity. I trust that I may at all events be excused for saying that much. Those who have been connected with the lodge during the last twelve months know I shall not make a tyrannical Master. But at the same time, I have such a high appreciation, not of what is due to myself, but what is due to the chair, to the office to which it has been your pleasure at the present time to appoint me, and with that feeling I trust you will allow me to repeat what I have already said, it will be my object to maintain the dignity of the chair. With the dignity of the chair, of course I couple the dignity of the lodge. Without the one, the other cannot proceed. Brethren, I beg to thank you very much for the kind manner in which you have responded to the toast of my health. The W.M. next proposed “The Visitors.” He said were it not that for the last twelve months, I have worn that jewel which is the emblem of equality, I should be almost tempted to describe the next toast as the toast of the evening, for I am sure that there is nothing that affords the members of the Prince Leopold Lodge a greater amount of satisfaction and gratification than having the pleasure of welcoming their visitors on such occasions as the present, and I hope that we may upon this occasion be permitted to indulge in a certain, if not a considerable amount of pride at seeing assembled around our board this evening, such a goodly array not only of visitors, but of what you may term the very luminaries of Freemasonry. We have here, brethren, not only several officers from Grand Lodge, but such a list of visitors as may well fill the bosom of any Master of a lodge with the utmost possible amount of pride. I may perhaps first of all be allowed to depart somewhat from the usual order of proceeding, so far as to ask your indulgence while I express my own personal and individual thanks to those kind friends and brethren, who have travelled so many hundreds of miles, as they have done, in order to support me on the present occasion. I may perhaps be permitted to refer in the first instance to my good brother, Walter Monckton, who has come I cannot say how many hundreds of miles from the very wilds of Western Kent. Well you laugh, brethren, but I can assure you that until the last few months there was no railway nearer to Bro. Monckton’s house than some nine miles, and he had to collect his most unnatural material and to send his most ungodly manufacture long distances before he could get it conveyed to a proper market. But I am happy to inform you that his untiring energy, and the London, Chatham and Dover Railway between them (laughter,) they have now managed to get a line within a very short distance of his house, and therefore it is as much due to the London Chatham and Dover Railway, as it is to anything else that we have been able to secure his presence here this evening. I also see near me, Bro. Grime, I.P.M. of a lodge in Lancashire, and Bro. Newbold, who has travelled all night in order to see the light of day here. I cannot express to them the deep sense that I entertain, myself, of their fraternal regard in travelling so far in order to be present here. I cannot pass over our Bro. Langridge, Master of Tunbridge Wells Lodge; and I must mention, with your permission, one of my very old friends, one who if I can look back through the vista of the past, I was going to say, to that time when I first came to London unknown, a poor boy from school, without a friend, without one to whom I was known in this vast metropolis, but Providence led me, through one friend whom I had, to make the acquaintance of Bro. Jats Davy. I am sure it is a source of the very greatest gratification, that having known him through all these years, I should have the pleasure of mentioning his name here to night, and of seeing him in his presence, how delighted I am to see him. I feel I trespass very considerably upon your time, but on such an occasion as this, I assure you will pardon reflections of this nature. There are numbers of brethren here to whom I should like to tender my unfeigned thanks for their presence, but I know the time is passing, and at the clock and ough I do not mention them personally, here is one whom I am proud to see, and whom I must not pass over without mentioning. He is a friend of not so many years standing, but not the less a very valued friend indeed; I refer to Bro. Past Master Stephens. He was the first who took me by the hand on initiation. He does not know that he took me round the lodge, as he was the first to take me by the hand. As said before, I have trespassed very considerably on your time. I know you will very kindly pardon it. I will not delay longer or occupy more of your time, but simply conclude by king you to rise and drink with me "The health of our Visitors this Evening." Bro. Walter Mackon responded, and added his testimony to at already given of the excellent working of a lodge, as a proof of which he adduced the instance of the first W.M. of this lodge installing his successor. Several other toasts were proposed, and the "Tyler's Toast," brought the proceedings to a close, and the brethren then parted. The evening was enlivened with the very good singing, and Bro. Shelford, the organist of the lodge, accompanied the vocalists, with considerable ability, on the pianoforte.

HALLFORD.—Thames Valley Lodge (No. 1460).—The second regular meeting of this lodge was held on Saturday, 5th inst., at the Ship Hotel, Hallford, near Shepperton, Middlesex, Bro. Colonel James Peters, W.M., in the chair, supported by Bro. P. E. H. Brette, D.D., S.W.; and Bro. Lieut. C. B. Elliott, R.N.R., J.W. The lodge having fully digested and passed the laws, the following brethren were unanimously elected joining members:—Bro. J. G. Marsh, P.P.G. Purst., Middlesex; Bro. Jewell Jones, 657; W. T. Howe, P.M., 445; and W. Smale, 192. The W.M. then vested the remainder of his officers as follows:—Bros. Wm. Paas, P.M. 28, Treas.; J. G. Marsh, P.M. 28 and 192, P.P.G. Purst., Sec.; Llewellyn Jones, S.D.; W. T. Howe, J.D.; W. Smale, I.G.; P. R. Hobson, D.C.; and W. Hunte Doyle, Steward. Bro. Woodstock was elected the Tyler of the lodge. The lodge being duly closed, the brethren sat down to an excellent banquet, at which the esteemed first W.M. (Bro. Colonel James Peters) presided, Bro. the Rev. Dr. Brette and Bro. C. B. Elliott, Wardens, filling their respective positions. The W.M. gave the usual loyal and Masonic toasts with much zest, particularly that of Bro. Colonel Francis Burdett, Provincial Grand Master of the Province, and the Grand Officers. This was responded to by Bro. Dr. Brette, P.G. Purst., and Bro. Marsh, P.P.G.P. The W.M. then gave "The Health of the Visitors," which was acknowledged by Bro. Charles Vernon Wood, Lodge 478, and P.G.D. Oxford, in a speech. "The Officers" and the "Tyler's Toast" concluded a most successful meeting of a new lodge, which promises to be amongst the foremost in the province.

SECRETION OF LODGE ST. VINCENT, 553.—The Masonic brethren in the West-end of Glasgow, who have long complained of the want of a lodge convenient to their homes, which would at the same time reflect credit on the city, and the portion of the city in which it should be located, have at length got over their prejudices, architectural and Masonic, and on Monday, September 2nd, a new hall and a new lodge were dedicated to the spread of Masonry. The interesting ceremony was very ably performed by Bro. F. A. Barrow, D.P.G.M. and Bro. D. Nelson, in the absence of the P.G.M., Bro. M. Nelson, presided. The Prov. Grand Master was opened by the following officers, Bros. W. P.G.M.; Baird, D.P.G.M.; T. Halket, J.W.; W. Phillips, P.G.J.W.; A. McTaggart, M.A., P.G.S.; J. Walker, P.G.T.; J. Macneil, P.G.S.D.; J. Balfour, P.G.D.C.; T. Halket, P.G.M.; J. Miller, P.G.D. of Music; and Bro. Hardie, P.G.I.G. The lodge room is a handsome hall, with folding doors in the centre, the entrance of a procession, as on this occasion, while there are small but convenient rooms opening on each side. The hall was richly decorated, having only been in the possession of the lodge for eight days, but when the brethren had assembled and the new officers had taken their places, with the handsome clothing supplied by Bro. Kenning, the effect was very good. The Provincial Grand Lodge having been opened in due form, and the ceremonies commenced, the acting P.G.M., said, in consequence of the absence of both the Prov. G. Chaplains he would, rather unexpectedly, have to give the Oration himself, but seeing that for the last seven years, he had practically been at the head of the Masonic Order in the West of Scotland, he trusted he should be able to get through the task. He then briefly but eloquently traced the rise of Masonry, from the first rude huts of our forefathers till we got to the magnificent Temple of Solomon, and the introduction of Free or Speculative Masonry, stating that, while quite willing to uphold the present order of things, he considered the Master's Degree as only an innovation, and personally would prefer to see the old Order of Apprentices, Fellow Crafts, and Actual Superintendents. The Provincial Grand Lodge then perambulated the lodge, Bro. Phillips, the J.W., presenting the corn; again going round the lodge, Bro. Halket presented the wine; and on the third circuit, Bro. Baird, as D.P.G.M., presented the oil. As soon as the consecration was completed, Bro. Barrow proceeded to install the following brethren as the first officers of the Lodge St. Vincent, 553. Bros. R. McDugal, R.W.M.; M. Stark, D.M.; Thos. Walker, S.M.; Bastow, S.W.; Hamilton, J.W.; McClelland, T.; Halley, Secretary; Fletcher, S.D.; Best, J.D.; Neil Curry, I.G.; and Richard Lindsey, Tyler. Bro. McDugal thanked the D.P.G.M. and the rest of the P.G. Officers for their attendance, and promised that nothing should ever be done by him to make them regret the opening of this lodge. The choral part of the ceremony, on which so much depends, was most ably sustained by Bro. James Miller, P.M. 413, P.G.D. of M., who presided at the harmonium, and Bros. Gilchrist, Taggart, Dimslee, and Robertson. The Provincial Grand Lodge was then closed, and Bro. McDugal proceeded to open his own lodge, when applications were presented from fifteen gentlemen, and the lodge being unanimous in their favour, and they being all in attendance, were at once admitted. Bro. R. Stevens, of 419, acting as Principal Deacon, assisted by other visitors present. At the request of the R.W.M., his Deputy, Bro. Slack, then initiated these fifteen gentlemen in a style that proved that St. Vincent's Master has put the right man into office as his Deputy. He afterwards affiliated the members of the Provincial Grand Lodge as members of St. Vincent's. After an extraordinary amount of labour the lodge was called to refreshment. The toast list was gone into, the R.W.M. giving "The Queen and the Craft," "The Prince of Wales, the Patron of Scotch Masonry," "The Three Grand Lodges of England, Ireland, and Wales," was replied to by Bro. Barrow, the acting D.G.M., in his capacity of G.S.D. Bro. A. McTaggart, M.A., P.G.S., responded for the Provincial Grand Lodge in a very felicitous speech. Bro. Barrow, D.P.G.M., then gave "Prosperity to St. Vincent's Lodge, 553." In the course of his remarks, he said that, ten years ago, when he was residing in that district, he had tried to raise a lodge there, but, owing to the want of a proper place to meet in, he did not succeed, and he hoped their very successful opening would be the augury of still greater success; but they must look more to the quality of the materials for the building of the temple than the quantity. Their first stones appeared to be of good quality, but they must bear in mind that, although now a member of the lodge, still he should shortly have to visit it officially, and he hoped the P.G.S. would be able to report that, though the youngest they were the best working lodge in the Province. The R.W.M. in replying, said they would endeavour to profit by the advice of the D.P.G.M., and in order to secure good materials they had resolved to raise the fees above those of most of the lodges in the province. Bro. R. Stevens proposed "The Health of the Fifteen Initiates." Six of the brethren suitably acknowledged the compliment. The S.W. gave "The Visitors," which was responded to by Bro. Hardie, 3½. The J.W. gave "The Brethren who have assisted in the formation of the Lodge," replied to Bro. Baird, of 3½, P.G.S.W., who promised to still do all in his power to ensure its success. Bro. H. J. Shields, 33°, of New York, replied to the toast of "Freemasonry all over the World." The next on the list was "Bro. Stark, D.M.," proposed by Bro. Best. The Master said he could not allow this to pass without informing the brethren that not only had they been indebted to Bro. Stark for the work to-night, but he had been working day and night for the past week, in order to secure the success that had to-night accompanied the opening of their hall, as well as the lodge. Bro. Stark said while grateful to the lodge for their good opinion, he felt that an apology was due to the candidates for having as far as possible curtailed the ceremony of their initiation. But he would promise them that when they came up for the second degree, he would take care that they had not a similar ground of complaint. "The Masonic Press," was then given, Bro. Wheeler acknowledged the compliment on behalf of The Freemason, and Masonic Magazine. The R.W.M. then gave "The P.M. of 354, who has so ably presided at the Harmonium." Bro. A. Arrick Smith, said it was always a pleasure to him to give his services to any lodge in the province. Bro. Stevens proposed "The Senior and Junior Wardens;" Bros. Bastow and Hamilton replied. "Happy to meet and sorry to part," was then given by the Chair, and the lodge was closed.

GLASGOW.—Thistle and Rose Lodge (No. 73) met on Tuesday, the 1st inst., at the Masonic Hall, Buchanan-street, G. Weston, R.W.M., in the chair; G. McDonald, I.P.M.; T. Stewart, D.M.; Wm. Walton, T.; K. Richard, Sec.; A. McLeod, S.W.; and J. Murray, as J.W. The lodge having been duly opened and the minutes read and confirmed, an application for admission was made, and the lodge being unanimous in favour of the candidate, Bro. W. B. Patterson, at the request of the R.W.M., initiated him in a very careful manner. The lodge having being raised, Bro. G. W. Wheeler passed a brother to the Second Degree.

GLASGOW.—Caledonian Railway Lodge (No. 354) met at 213, Buchanan-street, on Wednesday, 2nd inst., Bro. James Shaw in the chair, assisted by Bro. Buchanan, D.M.; A. Smith, I.P.M.; T. Stafford, S.W.; A. Sanderson, as J.W.; and W. B. Dunn, Secretary. The work consisted of an initiation by the R.W.M., which was worked in his best manner. The S.W. then proposed that Bro. G. W. Wheeler, of 73, who had often wrought for them, should be affiliated as an honorary member. The R.W.M. having seconded this, Bro. Wheeler was obligated, and then, at the request of the lodge, worked the Third Degree, Bro. A. A. Smith presiding at the harmonium, and thus adding to the solemnity of the ceremony. The lodge was then placed in the hands of the J.W. Bro. H. J. Shields, 33°, spoke to the sentiment of "Universal Freemasonry," detailing his experience in many parts of the globe. In replying for "The Visitors," Bro. Wm. Bell, of 3½, said how gratified he had been with the working, and Bro. J. Bannerman S.W. 73, expressed the pleasure he had felt in being present, and also thanked them for the honour they had conferred on his lodge by making his fellow office-bearer, Bro. Wheeler, an honorary member.

GLASGOW.—Union and Crown Lodge (No. 103) met on Monday, 31st ult., at 170, Buchanan-street, Bro. A. M. Wright presiding, and working the First Degree. Bro. W. B. Paterson then passed two brethren to the degree of Fellow Craft, after which Bro. Bain, P.M., raised a brother to the sublime degree of Master Mason. The lodge was then closed in ancient form.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Colds, Coughs, Shortness of Breath.—These corrective remedies are infallible for these pectoral complaints, which, neglected often end in Asthma, Bronchitis or Consumption. The Ointment well rubbed upon the chest and back, penetrating the skin, is carried directly to the lungs, whence it expels all impurities. All the blood in the body constantly passes through the lungs, and there all noxious particles tending to produce disease can be quickly, thoroughly and permanently neutralised, rendered harmless, or ejected from the system. In influenza and all chest complaints early curative measures are imperiously demanded. One day's delay may cause a protracted illness, one week's neglect may consign the diseased to destruction.—ADVT.

ST. MARK'S LODGE (No. 1).—This lodge met on Tuesday, the 1st inst., at Masons' Hall, Basinghall-street, Bro. George Kenning, W.M., in the Chair. Bros. T. B. Yeoman, S.W., and George Newman, as J.W., in their respective chairs. Bro. Jelenger E. Symons, Lieut. R.N., Lodge 142, was advanced to this degree. It being the meeting for the installation of the new Master, Bro. H. C. Levander, M.A., and P.M., occupied the chair as Installing Master, assisted by the Rev. W. B. Church, M.A., and Bro. T. Burdett Yeoman, S.W. and Master Elect, was installed W.M. in the most able manner. The new W.M. then invested his officers as follows—Bros. T. E. Edmands, S.W.; Rev. P. E. H. Brette, D.D., J.W.; Charles Horsley, M.O.; E. H. Thiellay, S.O.; H. A. Dubois, J.O.; Rev. W. B. Church, M.A. P.G. Chaplain, Chaplain; H. C. Levander, M.A., Treas.; R. W. Little, P.M., G.M.O., Sec.; Rev. P.M. Holden, M.A., Reg. of Marks; George Newman, S.D.; W. E. Newton, J.D.; Wm. Stephens, I.G.; H. Parker, Organist; J. Gilbert, Tyler; Col. Francis Burdett, Prov. Grand Master for Middlesex and Surrey; J. G. Marsh, P.M., P.G.S. Works; Bro. F. Walters, P.M., P.G.S.D.; and other brethren being present. The business before the lodge having been concluded, the brethren retired to a sumptuous repast, prepared by Bro. Gosden, which was ably presided over by the W. Bro. T. Burdett Yeoman, W.M., and a most agreeable evening was the result. During the evening, a handsome Past Master's jewel was presented to Bro. J. G. Marsh, P.M., and P.G.T. Supt. of Works, for his services in the chair as W.M. during the year he presided.

THE RESIGNATION OF THE GRAND MASTER.

FROM THE "TIMES."

Some singular proceedings, which we reported on Thursday, at the Grand Lodge of Freemasons will have prepared our readers for a strange announcement. The Marquis of Ripon was, till Wednesday, Grand Master of the Freemasons of England. The offices of the Brotherhood are fanciful, but they are none the less positions of honour and of some social importance. That of Grand Master is, of course, the highest of all, and Lord Ripon had held it for three years with great satisfaction to the Craft and credit to himself. The Lodge met on Wednesday for the transaction of current business, when they were startled by the announcement that the Grand Master had resigned. In a brief letter, which states no reasons, Lord Ripon says that he finds himself unable any longer to discharge the duties of Grand Master, and that he is consequently compelled to resign. The Craft are reported to have received the announcement with dismay, and it may well have perplexed them. What should induce the Marquis of Ripon thus to withdraw, without apparent reason, from a position of dignity and influence, if not of real importance? How many of our readers can have surmised the strange answer? Lord Ripon has become a Roman Catholic! It is notorious that the Freemasons are under the especial ban of the Church of Rome. That Church tolerates no secret society, except that of the Jesuits; and the first sacrifice which would be demanded of a convert like Lord Ripon would be his withdrawal from the Craft. As the first pledge of his new obedience he has to abandon his honourable position in the Brotherhood, and to renounce a harmless and kindly association in which he might for years have held the foremost place. It was justly said that the reasons must have been overwhelming which could induce him to take so unwelcome a step, and they arise from nothing less than the important change in his religious convictions which we have stated.

Lord Ripon, it must be owned, is no ordinary convert. He has held high office in the State, and he was at one time deemed capable of the highest positions in public life. He is in the prime of life—in his forty-seventh year—and though he had in some respects disappointed seems sometimes attractive to the unquestioned expectation, a considerable career might still have been before him. As Viscount Goderich he entered Parliament more than twenty years ago as a pronounced Radical, and then cherished that tendency to a speculative Socialism which possessors of great wealth. It is such a pleasant romance for a man who knows that in the ordinary course of things he will be the undisputed possessor of fifty thousand a year to imagine himself on a level with ordinary mortals! A little experience of life, however, dissipates this romantic tendency and Lord Ripon soon settled down into a sober Liberal, exemplary in his submission to the control of his successive leaders. After serving as Under-Secretary for the War Department and for India under the late Lord Herbert and Sir George Lewis, he was in 1863, as Lord De Grey, appointed Secretary of State for War. He held the office nearly three years, and in 1866, on the retirement of Lord Halifax, became Secretary of State for India. In Mr. Gladstone's Ministry of 1868 he held the dignified office of Lord President of the Council. Mr. Forster, who served as Vice-President, has often spoken handsomely of the work of his official chief; but the Lord President was chiefly conspicuous as head of the Joint High Commission by whom the Treaty of Washington was negotiated, and who arranged the terms under which the dispute respecting the Alabama was submitted to Arbitration. There is much to which exception must be taken in those negotiations; but the selection of Lord De Grey for so important a duty sufficiently indicates the favourable opinion which his colleagues were disposed to entertain of his capacity. His services in this character were, at all events, deemed worthy of some special recognition, and he was advanced to the dignity of a Marquis. His selection to preside over the Freemasons is an evidence of the social consideration which he commands, and his great wealth renders him an important member of the party to which he belongs, and of any association to which he may attach himself. He is, in short, one of the leading noblemen of England, who has discharged high political functions, and might have been called on to discharge them again. His sympathies have, at least in action, been given to the party of progress and enlightenment, and he would have been regarded until yesterday as a valuable member of the Liberal Party. This is the man who, in the full strength of his powers, has renounced his mental and moral freedom, and has submitted himself to the guidance of the Roman Catholic Priesthood. The first impression which will be produced on his friends and the public will be one of profound regret that such a career should have been thwarted, and that so much valuable influence is henceforth to be misused. Lord Ripon, we dare say, will still adhere to the party in whose service he has won his honours and his Marquisate. But a statesman who becomes a convert to Roman Catholicism forfeits at once the confidence of the English people. Such a step involves a complete abandonment of any claim to political or even social influence in the nation at large, and can only be regarded as betraying an irreparable weakness of character. To become a Roman Catholic and remain a thorough Englishman are—it cannot be disguised—almost incompatible conditions. We do not for a moment doubt that men who have been born and brought up in the Roman Catholic Faith may retain their creed as a harmless and colourless element in their opinions. But when a man in the prime of life abandons the Faith of Protestantism for that of Rome his mind must necessarily have undergone what to Englishmen can only seem a fatal demoralization. We submit to many things if we are born to them, which we would never endure if they were imposed on us for the first time. But that a statesman, a man who has had twenty years' experience of the world, who has held high official posts in England, and has been a prominent diplomatist, should submit himself to the yoke of the Roman Catholic Priesthood can only be due to some fatal obliquity of temperament. The principles of English life and of the Roman Catholic religion are very difficult to reconcile, and when a man delibe-ately becomes a Roman Catholic he must held to accept distinctly the principles of new creed.

What, it will be asked, can be the cause which have been sufficiently powerful to induce a man of such experience and ability to abandon his moral independence? Lord Ripon has made no statement of his reasons, and it is impossible to be sure of the influences which have finally misled him. But it is, no doubt, most conspicuous illustration yet furnished of the force of some temptations which at the present day Roman Catholicism holds out even to intelligent minds. There are men who with enthusiasm at the outset of life indulge in speculations and visions of modern discords who are intoxicated by their novelty and attracted by their promises. But they discover afterwards while that they are being led into regions had never contemplated, and they are startled finding that they must be content with tentative conclusions. They were laudably ambitious to undertake the mountainous task which was proposed to them, but they were alarmed when they suddenly find themselves in mid air on the face of some difficult slope. This perplexity a guide appears, who offers indeed, to gratify their original ambition, to assure them of the safety they fear they have forfeited; and to commit themselves to his guidance, at all events, the least of the risks to them. They close their eyes, abandon individual enterprise, and submit to be led by the sole condition that they shall be guaranteed ultimate security. It is not a dignified or noble type of mind, but it is too common a type. Minds may, in fact, be divided into those which can and those which cannot stand alone. There is a large class who are born to be governed mentally and morally. If they happen to be under healthy government, all is well; but if they get loosed from their old moorings they find themselves drifting; they are at the mercy of the first pilot who will jump on board and steer the helm. It is the strength of the Roman Catholic Clergy that they are always ready to undertake this responsibility, but it is not a responsibility which they find so good a ship drifting in the hands of a Marquis of Ripon. It is a melancholy spectacle; but it indicates a weakness which is not an English characteristic, and though we may grudge to the Roman Catholic Clergy the Marquis's wealth and such social influence as he may retain, we may be sure that the many advantages he may bring to them will be only acquisition. Fountains Abbey passes more into Roman Catholic hands, but it is the defection of a stray peer which will mine the steady devotion of the English to a free and independent career of religious and political development.

FREEMASONRY IN SCOTLAND

How is it that in Scotland, the reputed home of the Craft, Freemasonry has not attained the status and repute among the social institutions that it has in England, Ireland, America, and the Continent? The question is often asked, but seems never to have been satisfactorily answered.

In some countries Freemasonry is, or has been, suppressed and persecuted by intolerant and jealous governments, but in Scotland, it is to suffer from too much toleration, both by the State and without. This dictum will, I know, be a strange one to advance in these days of limited freedom, and whose words must needs utter some unpalatable none the less wholesome truths.

I am not of those who would make a test per se of the standard of a man's respectability, nor am I, on the other hand, a believer in the aphorism that "money is the root of all evil." I take a middle course, and while admitting that a man may be eminently respectable and of high moral character, although even in poverty, I contend that money is, in a greater degree, indispensable to the carrying out of combined efforts for the advancement of works, and more particularly of the works of Freemasonry, and more particularly of the works of the poor.

of means, then, is in this respect, a want of vitality, and an obvious clog upon healthy action, and it is clear, that to bring individuals into an institution, who are either unable or unwilling to do anything for the promotion of the objects of the institution, says very little for the wisdom of their sponsors, and is a fatal thing for the institution itself. This suggests, then, the prime evil from which the Craft in Scotland appears to be suffering, and if a tree is to be judged of by its fruit, it is abundantly evident that Freemasonry in Scotland is too cheap.

This prime evil bring other evils in its train. What is cheaply had, is cheaply held, and under the absurdly low minimum fee permitted by the laws of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, many, very many, are admitted to the Order who have no desire, no intention, beyond the gratification of their curiosity, or their mere love of social intercourse, and in regard of whom Freemasonry may apply to itself the consolation to be obtained from this quotation "blessed are they that expect nothing for they shall not be disappointed." Thus also the grandeur and dignity inherent in all the ceremonials of Freemasonry, are sadly marred, if not even reduced to the level of burlesque in the hands of men, who either have not the ability to understand and work them as they ought to be understood and worked, or who fail to appreciate their teachings.

Again, in not one out of every ten lodges in Scotland, is there such a thing as an annual subscription levied, and in many cases where provision is made for such, so little do the members care for the objects of Freemasonry that they either fail or refuse to pay them. Indeed, I have known of cases in which the rights of membership have been deliberately forfeited in preference to paying a fee. The annual fees of membership, where they do exist, are, in correspondence with the fees for initiation, &c., miserably inadequate to any useful purpose, and the lodges in which it amounts to ros. a year, and is regularly paid, may be easily counted on the digits. In such circumstances the majority of lodges are dependent upon the initiation fees for their support, and what wonder that they are frequently induced to forget the dignity of the Order, in getting up emergent meetings to suit the convenience of some wished-for candidate, and in being in too great a hurry to snatch the fees, such as they are, to be very arching in their enquiries as to the character of their candidates. Hence it is that not only is Scotland itself, but England and Ireland also, plagued, by begging masons on the tramp, hailing from Scotch lodges, until the term "Scotch Mason" has become a bye word and a reproach, and stinks in the nostrils of our brethren in sister countries.

It would be unjust to ignore the fact, that my small acts of charity are done amongst us which do not find their way to the public notice. In some lodges a certain proportion of the fees to form a benevolent fund, and some Provincial Lodges have benevolent funds, subscribed by the daughter lodges, but these cases are an exception, and the sums dispensed are trifling, ranging from a few shillings to perhaps a couple of pounds, and as a necessary consequence, there is no system in it; indeed the only good ever done, is done through the personal exertions of individuals without reference to any organized fund. I am nearly forgetting that there is a Grand Lodge Benevolent Fund, out of which sometimes as much as £5 is dispensed each time. The operations on that fund are however to be rather restricted, so far as its utility is concerned, as I find the total amount raised from it for the nineteen months ending Nov., 1873, was £450 to 109 applicants, or at £4 4s. each, besides the handsome sum of £11 or about 3s. per week dispensed in casual charity. Indeed the principal object of this Grand Lodge Benevolent Fund seems to be to keep the Grand Lodge itself out of the bankruptcy Court, £3,650 out of a total of £39 being at present sunk in the debts of the August body.

There are many men in the Craft in Scotland, able and willing to make Freemasonry their business more than it is, if they would only put their shoulders to the wheel, and I am certain there are many others who could easily be brought to take a more broad and comprehensive view of their duties as Freemasons, were they placed under a wholesome system, and it is to these two classes I address my arguments in the present paper, viz:—Raise the Grand Lodge minimum to at least £3 3s. In daughter lodges insist upon an annual subscription to correspond, and to be paid regularly by all recognized members. Let every Master and member of a lodge exercise due care and caution in their admissions, and rigorously use the right of excluding in all cases, where the results of their enquiry are not satisfactory. Let emergent meetings and the conferring of degrees at others than the intervals laid down by the laws of the Grand Lodge be vetoed, excepting under special permission from the Grand Lodge. These things done systematically the inert mass of dead matter, which at present oppresses the body politic and obstructs healthy growth would soon be quickened into life or would fall away altogether.

We have in Scotland, a saying, pithy though slightly vulgar, that "its an ill bird that fouls its own nest," and probably, some of my brethren in Scotland may be tempted to apply that saying to me; if so, I shall sincerely regret it. I know I have spoken fearlessly, because I feel strongly, but I have "nothing extenuate nor set down ought in malice," and if I have exposed a sore, it is with a view to its cure. I earnestly wish to be in sympathy with all who honestly and sincerely desire to place our Order in Scotland upon a higher platform than it occupies at present, and although they may not agree with me exactly as to the means to be adopted to that end, I ask them to remember that it is not in the multiplication of lodges, nor the increase of membership that our strength lies, but rather in the beauty of our work and the wisdom of our rulers; and that in these days, when we are attacked from without, however ignorant and unmeaning those attacks may be, it behoves us to put our house in order and to have something to show as the results of our organization.

In conclusion, I cannot do better than quote the words of our Past Grand Master, Earl of Rosslyn, addressed to the Grand Lodge Committee on a memorable occasion, viz.—"I hope you will do your best to make Freemasonry appear not merely a mysterious collection of phrases and no action, but a positive good that will be understood by the outer world—that will redound to the credit of Scotland, as well as to the credit of ourselves, as Masons. (Cheers.) Let us be able to point to our schools and to our orphanages, and to say that we had so much money which we have spent, and have so much money that we are spending, in the benefit of our fellow creatures. (Loud Applause.) If you help me in this, I assure you that you will make me a happy man; and you will only be helping me to put Masonry on that pinnacle which I and I am sure the whole of you would wish to see it."

CHIT-CHAT ABOUT FREEMASONRY, FROM THE "TIMES."

It is not yet known whether the Prince of Wales will accept or refuse the Grand Mastership. But on his return the deputation nominated by Grand Lodge last Wednesday will wait upon him to ask his acceptance of the office. If he should consent to take it—and it is generally expected that he will—a Pro-Grand Master will no doubt be appointed, as is usually the case whenever Royalty is on the throne of the English Freemasons. Lord Carnarvon, the present Deputy Grand Master, will, it is expected, be appointed to the office, and the Duke of St. Albans or the Earl of Shrewsbury to the Deputy Grand Mastership. The other officers in Grand Lodge will remain as they are now, except that the Prince of Wales might introduce his brother, the Duke of Connaught, as Past Grand Master, in place of himself. If the Prince of Wales should not accept the Grand Mastership, he will hold that office by virtue of his position as Past Grand Master, till Grand Lodges can be called for the nomination, election, and installation. In this case, Lord Carnarvon would be unanimously elected, as he is very popular among Freemasons. The Marquis of Ripon, as it is understood that he entirely withdraws from all Masonry, will, of course, resign his Provincial Grand Mastership of West Yorkshire and his Grand First Principalship in Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Freemasons. This latter office is always held by the Grand Master for the time being, but the Prince of Wales is not a Royal Arch Freemason, though if he accepts the Grand Mastership there will be no difficulty in exalting him to that branch of the Craft. The three principal Chairs in Grand Chapter are now held by the Marquis of Ripon, Lord Carnarvon, and Lord de Tabley; but if the Prince of Wales refused the Grand Mastership, and Lord Carnarvon were elected in the Marquis of Ripon's stead, he would take the First Principal's Chair, leaving either Lord de Tabley to be promoted to the second, and the third to be filled, or some other Freemason to be appointed to the second chair.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The General Committee of the Masonic Boys School met on Saturday last at Freemasons' Hall. Bro. Henry Browne, V.P., presided. The other brethren present were H. C. Levander, Thomas W. White, Jesse Turner, Hyde Pullen, Collard Moutrie, Richard Spencer, F. Adlard, H. Massey (Freemason), and F. Binckes, Secretary.

A letter was read from the Marquis of Ripon, concerning Bro. Cluff's bequest, and regretting that his lordship could not meet Bros. Binckes and Little on the subject. Another letter was read from his lordship, authorising the alteration of the day for holding the anniversary festival of the Boys' School from the second Wednesday in March to the last Wednesday in June. The Committee deferred the consideration of Bro. Cluff's bequest till counsel's advice had been taken, and afterwards resolved that the annual festival should be held on the last Wednesday in June. Bro. Binckes announced that the Earl of Carnarvon, Deputy Grand Master, had, on Friday evening, most readily and cheerfully consented to take the chair at the next festival, which will be held on the 30th of June, 1875. General regret and astonishment were expressed at the Marquis of Ripon's retirement from the office of M.W.G.M., but at the same time no doubt was entertained that H.R.H. the Prince of Wales would accept it. The Committee, having sat an hour, adjourned.

Bro. William Worrell, W.M. 766, P.M. 1339, M.E.Z. 766, and W.M. Mark Lodge 104, has been appointed Secretary to the Royal Albert Orphan Asylum.

We regret to have to record the death of the son of our able Bro. D.M. Lyon, who perished with the ship "Mohawk," of Troon, supposed to have foundered in a cyclone between the American continent and the Bermuda Islands early in February last, on his voyage from Pensacola (Gulf of Florida) to the Clyde.

HONORARY DISTINCTION.—Bro. R. Wooff, F.S.A., of Malvern, Worcestershire, has received the French decoration of the Bronze Cross, for honorary services in the cause of the sick and wounded during the Franco-Prussian War.

SALE OF ARTISTIC JEWELLERY, &c.—Amongst the metropolitan jewellers of the highest class, the name of Mr. Richard Green, of 82, Strand, has long maintained a pre-eminence, which has been fairly gained by the beauty and artistic merits of his workmanship and originality of design. Purchasers have now an excellent opportunity of becoming possessors of some of these beautiful goods; the premises adjoining Mr. Green's are about to be rebuilt, and therefore he has resolved to sell off his admirable stock at the great reduction of 20 per cent. In addition to the stock of bracelets, brooches, rings, necklaces, necklets, &c., there is a large stock of plated goods, consisting of tea-services, centre-pieces, claret jugs, and inkstands, upon which the same great reduction will be made.

INDEX to Vol. VI. of "THE FREEMASON." May be had at the Publishing Office, 198, Fleet-street.

THE HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY, FROM ITS ORIGIN TO THE PRESENT DAY, Drawn from the best sources and the most recent investigations.

BY J. G. FINDEL,

Second Edition, Revised, and Preface written by Bro. D. MURRAY LYON.

One vol., 800 pages 8vo., with an Index. Cloth gilt. Price, 10s. 6d.

"This book is a strictly historical one, from which all is excluded that is not based upon ascertained or probable fact."—Builder.

"Of its value to Freemasons, as a detailed history of their Brotherhood, it is not possible to speak too highly."—Public Opinion.

"The author seems to have fairly exhausted the subject."—The Athenaeum.

"The edition we are now considering is a second English edition, which had the great advantage of Bro. D. M. Lyon's able superintendence and editorship in its English dress. There can be no doubt but, that so far, Bro. Findel's work is the most complete work on Freemasonry which has yet appeared, and that he deserves the greatest credit for his careful and accurate treatment of all evidence on the subject, and for his honest desire after truth. Bro. Findel gives up in the view he has so clearly and consistently put forth our early Masonic history, the older theory of the Roman Colleges, &c., and limits the origin of Freemasonry to about the twelfth century, "and as then arising from the operative Masons, and specially the "Steinmetzen" and "Bauhütten" of Germany. Bro. Findel gives us a good deal of evidence on this head, and one thing is clear from his work, that the German Freemasons were, at a very early period, organized into lodges with a Master over them, and with outward regulations and inner ceremonies peculiar to the Craft. Bro. Findel rejects all the views which have been from time to time put forward of a Templar or a Rosicrucian origin. Whether or no Bro. Findel's theory of the date of the rise of Freemasonry be correct, matters very little: we do not ourselves profess to accept it; but this we can fairly say of Bro. Findel's work, it is marked from first to last by the most remarkable token of industry, ability, and care, of patient research, and of skilful criticism. We know of no work which so clearly sets before us our amount of knowledge up to the present time on the great question of Masonic Archaeology, and there can be little doubt that what Preston's work is to English Freemasonry, Findel's work is to cosmopolitan Freemasonry. Indeed no student in Masonry can now dispense with it, and it is a perfect storehouse both of Masonic evidence and Masonic illustrations. We earnestly recommend all the lodges in this country to obtain a copy for the lodge library before the work is bought up for America; and we believe that no Mason will rise from the perusal of its pages without a higher idea both of the historical truth and intrinsic value of Freemasonry, and of fraternal regard and recognition to the latest and not the least well-informed or effective of our Masonic historians. The present century has produced no such equal, in authority and usefulness, to the great work of our Bro. Findel, and we wish him and it, in all of fraternal sympathy and kindly intent, many earnest readers, and more grateful students."—The Masonic Magazine.

"This volume is the history of Masonry par excellence. Every interested person may regard it, therefore, as the present text-book on the subject."—Manchester Guardian

The Freemason.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1874.

OUR LATE GRAND MASTER.

The week which has elapsed since the announcement of the resignation by the Master of Ripon of his high office of Grand Master of English Freemasonry, has only tended to increase the regret with which we first received the intelligence, which it was our unwelcome duty on Saturday to announce to the Craft dispersed throughout the world. At the time we were stunned by the suddenness of the resignation, and no one could profess to understand, or to surmise a reason for a step in itself apparently inexplicable. The Times, in a remarkable leader of Saturday, professes to give only explanation, an explanation which if correct, must be received by our entire Craft with equal surprise and regret. It is that "Lord Ripon has become a Roman Catholic." It is notorious that the Freemasons are the especial ban of the Church of Rome. The Church tolerates no secret society, except the Jesuits; and the first sacrifice which would be demanded of a convert like Lord Ripon would be his withdrawal from the Craft. The first pledge of his new obedience he abandoned his honourable position in the Brotherhood, and to renounce a harmless and association, in which he might for years have held the foremost place. It was just, that the reasons must have been overweighed which could induce him to take so unwelcome a step, and they arise from nothing more than the important change in his religious convictions which we have stated." The from which this sad extract is taken, and which is printed in another column, is a very remarkable one, and deserves attentive perusal, and the case alike temperately and unanswerable while we feel how great will be the regret of Freemasons on every account for this melancholy and ominous announcement, as a sad proof needed, of the antagonistic and irreconcilable tendencies of the Church of Rome to freedom of action and all liberty of thought. We feel, that justice requires of us a few words of grateful tribute to the services of our valued Grand Master. Freemasonry is just, and we must not allow our emotions of personal grief to us forget the respect due to conscientious convictions on the one hand, or to erase from our memories what we owe as Freemasons to our late distinguished chief, on the other. Those of us who know Lord Ripon the best, and love him the most, are perfectly well aware that he always acts conscientiously, and therefore we feel that, though we may deplore the sacrifice he has made, we are bound to give him the utmost credit for honesty of purpose and uprightness of intention. Many reasons combine, we venture to think, irrespective of the real cause of Lord Ripon's resignation, to render that resignation to our Order a deeply regretted reality. Subsequently to the death of our good and favoured old Grand Master, Lord Zetland, our Order had, as it were, gladly accepted with an unanimity seldom before witnessed and were peaceably labouring under the most flourishing and effective régime of a most popular Grand Master. For Lord Ripon had been from the first, a most zealous Mason, and had been emphatically always a working Mason. He had not sought the light of Masonry, as some do apparently for the prestige it may impart, or the honour it may confer, but he threw himself from the outset amongst his brother Masons, was never so happy, as we have often heard him say, as when he found himself amongst them, and gained rapidly, alike by his earnestness and assiduity, the character of a good workman, an eloquent speaker, and a true brother. In West Yorkshire, where his earliest Masonic work was done, he earned the golden opinions of all, not only by that zeal for our Order, and his love for Freemasonry, and his appreciation of our principles which he evinced on all occasions, but by those many excellences of the mind and heart, which won him so many sincere friends, which remarkably characterized his Mastership in the Lodge of Truth, Huddersfield, and rendered him ever so welcome a visitor, and so valued a brother, amongst the energetic lodges of West Yorkshire. When Lord Mexborough passed away, a well known Mason of the old school, and endowed, as many Yorkshire brethren well remember, with many genial qualities, there was but one wish in West Yorkshire, that his successor should be our distinguished brother, Lord De Grey, as he was then called. How he ruled over that great province we need not recount to-day; its acts best illustrate, we think, his active and beneficent sway; but sure we are of this, that in no province of England, are the true principles of Freemasonry better realized and developed, than in that flourishing and populous district, lately under the personal guidance of Lord Ripon, and his zealous Deputy, Bro. Bentley Shaw. From what we know of the brethren of West Yorkshire, we feel certain that nothing will cause them greater grief or regret, than to be separated, as we fear the Church of Rome will compel them to be, from their loved and honoured Provincial Grand Master. Many an earnest Freemason in Yorkshire and elsewhere, will not be induced to think more kindly of a religious body, which in an age of toleration and liberty requires such an act of self-abnegation, and demands so painful a sacrifice. It is unnecessary for us to dilate upon Lord Ripon's public services, for they have been many and conspicuous; he has in fact, served the State as well as he has served Freemasonry, and the high title he now enjoys, is alike a proof of the public appreciation, and of his sovereign's approval. When, as we said before, Lord Zetland resigned on account of failing health, and the Marquis of Ripon was unanimously hailed as Grand Master, this admirable selection of Grand Lodge was greeted with the approbation of the entire Order, with a warmth and satisfaction seldom equalled and never exceeded. And since that time, as year has followed year, under Lord Ripon's firm and temperate administration, everything has gone well with us. He himself has presided over the deliberations of the great assembly of the Craft both with dignity and ability, and his rule of English Freemasonry has been marked from first to last by a firm maintenance of our landmarks, and yet a scrupulous regard for the rights of Grand Lodge. He has most truly given to our contented and prosperous Craft the highest satisfaction as an impartial administrator of his high office, and has offered to them, amid their present well-being, the happy prospect of many after years of peaceful progress, and unity, and concord. No cloud, so far, has dimmed our horizon, to darken our pathway, or alarm us with forebodings of some coming gloom. Never has English Freemasonry witnessed before such a spectacle of universal tranquility and contentment, of material prosperity, and of universal development. No one, moreover, who has perused the minutes of our Grand Lodge, or has taken part in its proceedings, but must have been struck with the high tone on all points of Masonic teaching, or duty, or toleration, which characterised so remarkably always Lord Ripon's addresses and decisions, "ex cathedra." His was truly an impartial rule, calm, firm, equable, and consistent, upholding with dignified earnestness the prerogatives of the Grand Master, and yet never losing sight of for one moment the unchanged privileges of Grand Lodge, or the inalienable right of Freemasons, under the wise provisions of our Book of Constitutions. The government of our exalted brother was indeed a purely constitutional government of Freemasonry, alike "de facto" and "de jure." And yet to-day we have only sorrowfully to record the premature and unforeseen close of his Masonic administration of the Grand Master's office, and the abrupt termination of so much good promise and such admitted efficiency. Despite much regret, both on personal and public grounds, that such a step should have been deemed needful, and that such a sacrifice should be required, we yet feel bound to record in the pages of The Freemason alike our fraternal grief, and our fraternal gratitude. For the memories of Lord Ripon's Grand Mastership, and of our exalted brother personally, will long linger, we do not hesitate to say, among the happiest traditions of our Order. We shall recall in years to come, what an example he set to all Freemasons amongst us, old or young, by his zeal and love for Freemasonry, and, though, alas! he now has left our Order, apparently under the claims of imperious proscription, yet amid obloquies very many, and assailants not a few, even too, amid the childish and shameless persecution of the Church of Rome, some of us may gladly recollect, that, Freemasonry has had in our generation no truer advocate, no warmer admirer, and no more zealous friend, than our distinguished brother and late Grand Master, the Marquis of Ripon.

MR. KERR'S ATTACK UPON FREEMASONRY.

We have before us Mr. Kerr's pamphlet "The Principles and Practices of Secret Societies opposed to Scripture and to Reason," by the Rev. James Kerr, of Greenock, which we see has reached a second edition. We have perused it carefully and we must say at the outset that we have never read before so confused and illogical a compilation. As an attack upon Freemasonry it is absolutely puerile and harmless, contains nothing new as regards his complaints of our Order, is simply a "hash" of worthless authorities and may safely be left to the buttermilk and the trunkmaker, though it is ushered into the world with the "imprimatur" and approval of the "United Reformed Synods of Edinburgh and Glasgow." As Mr. Kerr is so fond of quoting texts of Scripture, we would respectfully remind him of one which talks about "blind leaders of the blind." For as the pamphlet has received the special thanks of the United Synod, we can only suppose they have little other profitable work to attend to, or they must be very hard up for something to talk about. A large part of the pamphlet consists of an attack on the Good Templars; on the Orangemen, and on the High Grades, or what are termed the Christian Degrees, so those portions of the pamphlet we leave unnoticed, to be answered in due season by those whom they concern, and simply confine ourselves to the defence of pure Freemasonry as we hold it and understand it. One little amusing fact we may notice ere we pass on, which is this, that Mr. Kerr's attack on the Orange lodges is based mainly on this, that these infatuated men, "proh pudor," actually recognize, and profess to uphold the "prelatic Church" of England. This little touch of a modern Reformed Presbyterian's nature is quite delicious. Mr. Kerr makes a violent assault on Freemasonry, which commences at page 18, and ends at page 36, and quotes from two professed authorities, the one being "The Light of Masonry," published at Dayton, Ohio, U.S., the other "The Master Mason, &c." by Thomas Wilson, a Deserter from the Banners of Freemasonry," published, we are sorry to see, by Page and Gray, Saltmarket, Glasgow. "Mackey's Lexicon," Mr. Kerr tells us, has also been consulted, as well as "a number of other works," and "no substantial difference could be detected." And here we must beg to be permitted to remark, that, Mr. Kerr seems to have both a strange idea of the meaning of words, and of the intense importance of veracity in such statements as these, especially when made by a professed minister of religion. Mackey especially tells us at page 650 of his invaluable Lexicon, "Much of the ritual is esoteric, and not being permitted to be committed to writing is communicated only by oral instruction."

Mr. Kerr has therefore not been able to find in "Mackey," at any rate, any agreement or difference with the quotations given us from Mr. Thomas Wilson's publication. It seems a great pity that Mr. Kerr cannot see how important an element is truth in all such discussions. But, then, when we note that he complacently gives, as the illustration of his argument, some excerpts from Mr. Wilson's publication, and which he has greedily swallowed, like a "veritable gobemouche," as truly representing our Masonic ritual, from the work, too, of a person, on his own admission, be he real or imaginary, self perjured, we can only feel how very lax are Mr. Kerr's notions both of honour and morality. He dogmatically goes on to say "let no Christian dare to affirm that he can never rid himself of such an oath rashly taken" (that is the "obligation" given by Mr. Wilson) "and binding himself to things so unlawful." "Oaths are never binding," he continues most authoritatively, "when the fulfilment is unlawful." Dreadful sophistry! It would be amusing, were it not sad, to see a Jesuit professor and a Reformed Presbyterian, standing on the same low level, though curiously enough, it is not the first time in history, that "extremes" thus "meet," or that the Roman Church and the Presbyterian Kirk, have so to say, made common cause in promulgating the most baneful of all maxims, "the end justifies the means," in asserting the lawfulness of persecution, and in assailing us poor Freemasons. Here, as we see, Mr. Kerr with that peculiar absence of logic which distinguishes him, makes a "petitio principii," assumes that the "obligation" is unlawful, "per se," and then says practically "you should not keep it, you may break it," and offers the sanction of religion for such a proceeding. We need hardly now tell our readers, that when Mr. Kerr asserts that secret societies are opposed to scripture and to reason, the scripture he quotes from has nothing to do with the question, and the reason is certainly not "pure reason," but emphatically his own. We wish we could think that Mr. Kerr had seriously studied the difficult question he gives so ready an opinion upon, but our honest belief is, that the pamphlet is purely "sensational" in itself, and reflects little credit either on his scrupulousness as regards the authorities he uses, or of his charity towards his brethren. To our minds, it is only another striking example of credulity and intolerance combined. What is it that renders Freemasonry so distasteful both to the zealous Romanist on the one hand, and the stern Presbyterian on the other? Mr. Kerr seeks to give an answer to this query, from his Presbyterian point of view alone (for the good man would be horrified, we fancy, really to find himself with a Catholic ally), in five allegations. First he says Freemasonry is irreverent in its treatment of the Bible. Secondly, he alleges that Freemasonry is a rival to the Church (he means the Reformed Presbyterian Body), making itself a "saving" institution. Thirdly, he affirms that Freemasonry forms a spurious relationship between men, and commits positive injustice towards those who are non-Masons. Fourthly, Mr. Kerr declares that Freemasonry profanes the "Ordinance of the Oath." Fifthly, Mr. Kerr solemnly announces that Freemasonry refuses admission to women. Serious charges, Master Shallow! but let us look into them:—In the first place we utterly deny that there is the slightest foundation for so shameful and unjust an accusation against our Order, that it treats God's Word irreverently; on the contrary, we affirm most conscientiously, after the experience of many years, that nowhere does the Inspired Volume receive more reverential treatment than it does in a Freemasons' Lodge and from Freemasons. Would that all professedly Christian teachers and expounders treated it as reverently. Mr. Kerr quotes in proof of his assertion, the Masonic use of two texts of Scripture, innocently adapted as they are, and as adaptations, necessarily purely "ad rem." But Mr. Kerr forgets that, while he charges us Freemasons with a very harmless adaptation of Holy Scripture, he has himself parodied, and offensively parodied, for his own purpose two other texts of Scripture, which have not and could not have the slightest bearing on Freemasonry and secret societies. II. In the next place, as regards "rivalry with the Reformed Presbyterians," we can only reply at once, Freemasonry would emphatically disclaim any such "soft impeachment," the more so, as Mr. Kerr's idea is a pure chimera, and founded on utter ignorance of our true tenets. For we do not hold that Freemasonry is a "saving institution," as Mr. Kerr calls it, or even "a religion," though we look upon Freemasonry as a handmaid to religion, and whatever some enthusiastic brethren have said or written, the Order never has held, nor does it hold such views to-day. As regards the alleged Masonic baptism which Mr. Kerr quotes as an illustration, we give it up at once; it is a hurtful excrement upon Freemasonry; though in use, we believe, and regret to believe, both in some continental countries and in America, it has never, so far as we are aware, received the slightest countenance under our three Grand Lodges. III. In Mr. Kerr's third allegation, he argues that Freemasonry forms a spurious relationship among men, and commits positive injustice to non-Masons. He quotes a supposed rule of a Royal Arch degree somewhere, of "promoting a companion Royal Arch Mason's political preferment in preference to another of equal qualifications." This is so palpably absurd on the face of it, that, we wonder Mr. Kerr, a canny Scotchman as no doubt he is, has allowed himself to be gammoned by such trash. There is no such rule in Royal Arch Masonry, and Freemasonry has no more to do with political questions than it has with religious controversies. We fancy we have seen the same rubbish before, and that it is one of the lies published against our American brethren at the time of the Morgan persecution. It is, indeed, a great pity that Mr. Kerr should be so very credulous, and should have evidently taken such little pains to obtain correct information before he wrote so diffusely and so verbosely on a subject of which he clearly understands nothing at all. IV. In his fourth objection Mr. Kerr states that Freemasonry profanes "the ordinance of the oath." We challenge Mr. Kerr's premise. We are, it is true, a secret society, and we have an "obligation;" but Freemasonry is recognised by the State as a secret society, yet as perfectly harmless, and what the laws specially permit, cannot be illegal. We certainly are not bound to take Mr. Kerr's view, or the reformed Presbyterian Synod's view, of what constitutes an unlawful oath. Such views may have force for a reformed Presbyterian, but they have none for us, or indeed for any one else. V. And, lastly, Mr. Kerr objects that we do not receive women. Well, we do not, and that is the truth, and for once Mr. Kerr is correct, and charming as women are, as Burns sang so well of old, and as our Masonic poetry declares,

"No mortal can more
The Ladies adore,
Than a Free and an Accepted Mason,"

Yet we are inclined to think that, despite Mr. Kerr's thunder, we shall not receive them just yet. Do not our readers begin to breathe a little, after such a long-winded article, and after the dreadful assault is over? We are greatly amused, we confess, with Mr. Kerr's commendation of a past or incipient Presbyterian persecution of Freemasons in America, just as if the "gude mon" would like to see the same at "Auld Reekie," or in the city of the ever famous "Baillie Nicol Jarvie." But we fancy our friends over the border are a little too long-headed to mind either Roman Catholic interdicts or Presbyterian condemnations. We believe, on the contrary, that all such "cursings," synodical or ecclesiastical, like Balaam's of old, turn to blessings. Freemasonry cares nothing for Papal rescripts, or Presbyterian anathemas, but marches on her way calm and composed, trusting and tolerant, knowing the justice of her cause, the purity of her intentions, and believing that she symbolizes, in her imperfect embodiment even now, a future and happier hour of universal brotherhood, and peaceful unity for mankind.

MASONIC RECEPTION AT PLYMOUTH AND THE MILITARY BROTHERN.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

The exclusion of our military brethren from the grand Masonic procession which took place in Plymouth during the recent visit of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has created so much feeling among the Masonic brethren of the three towns, that I should esteem it a favour if you will grant me space for a few words upon the subject. I have read with very great pleasure the article which appears in last week's Freemason. It is one with which the majority of Masons in this neighbourhood deeply sympathise, because they still feel, in spite of what has been said to the contrary, that our military brethren have been most unfairly treated, and that their exclusion from the procession was a deliberate act, and not the result either of a mistake or misunderstanding. This is not a mere hap-hazard statement, nor the outcome of the annoyance which the brethren in question might naturally feel under the circumstances, but it is based upon valid and substantial grounds, of which probably, a great deal more will yet be heard. Your correspondent "Soldier Brother" is not far wrong when he throws the responsibility of what you are charitably pleased to call an error, upon the Masonic authorities, that is to say, upon the Masonic Committee, whom he devolved the carrying out of the procession connected with the procession.

Let us see for a moment what are the facts of the case, and it will not be difficult, I think, to trace the source of the "error," so called. Some weeks before the procession took place, and long before the arrangements were matured, it was vaguely rumoured that the military brethren would be prohibited from taking part in the proceedings, but the statement was looked upon as so absurd, that little notice was taken of it. But bye-and-bye it gained ground, and at last there came a definite statement from the Committee, that the Queen's Regulations prohibited soldiers from joining in "party or political" processions, and that the Major-General Commanding could not relax them on this occasion. From the military authorities themselves no such order, so far as I am aware, was issued at all, but our soldier brethren acted upon the dictum of the Committee, and refrained from taking any part in the procession. But they naturally felt extremely sore upon the matter, and, refusing to believe that the Major-General Commanding was responsible for what occurred, Bro. the Rev. G. Oxley Oxland, W.M. of Metham Lodge, 1205, three-fourths of the members of which are service men, on their behalf asked for further information at the Prov. Grand Lodge meeting of Devon, which was held at Stonehouse, on the afternoon of the same day. Bro. Colonel Elliott in his reply, distinctly threw the entire responsibility on the Major-General Commanding, who, he said was bound by the Queen's Regulations, and could not allow military men to take part in a "party or political" procession.

But was this so? Is it probable? We can only judge from the surrounding circumstances. In the first place, can it be seriously contended that this was in any sense whatever, a party or political demonstration? In the second place, how can the General's order, excluding military men from the procession, be reconciled with the presence, in the procession, of two military bands in full military uniform? What is the inference to be drawn from this? Why, sir, that the General was never consulted at all on the matter, and that in the absence of further explanation, the Committee must rest under the stigma of having adopted a course of action which, as you have very properly put it, is a blunder, opposed to the true principles of Freemasonry. In a few weeks, sir, we are to have another Masonic demonstration, on the occasion of the visit of the Duke of Edinburgh to lay the memorial stone of a new wing to the Royal British Female Orphan Asylum, at Stoke, but in the meantime, let us sincerely hope that the present misunderstanding may be thoroughly cleared up, and that the success of the forthcoming demonstration may not be marred by a repetition of such an unfortunate blunder as that which has left behind it so much unpleasant feeling amongst a class of brethren who are a credit and an honour to the Masonic Order.

I am, Yours fraternally,
C.M., 1205.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—
In answer to your short "leader" and the various letters in The Freemason of to-day, permit me to say, that as a committee, we left the military part of the programme in the hands of our Brother Colonel Elliott (P.Prov.S.G.W. of Devon), and his report was adverse to the claims of our military brethren to walk in uniform. We were told as a committee by Bro. Elliott that non-commissioned officers would not be allowed to walk in the procession in uniform, and so we had no option in the matter. Doubtless, our good brother will kindly furnish you with his authority, so that we all may know why they were thus excluded from the procession, much to the regret of every member who took part in the imposing ceremony, and certainly at variance with all preceding processions in which I have had the honour to take part.

It resolved itself entirely into a question of military rules and regulations, or Bro. Colonel Elliott wrongly interpreted them, or the General to whom the brethren applied ought not to have refused permission to the military brethren who desired to attend in uniform.

Our "Soldier Freemasons" who have written on the subject have done well to ventilate the grievance, and you have also done well by drawing attention to the matter. Let the question now be authoritatively decided, and let Bro. Colonel Elliott mention to whom he applied for permission, and who it was that refused him. I am bound to state that, as a committee, we were entirely guided by Colonel Elliott, and I feel sure he had full authority from the "powers that be" for the course he pursued.

Yours fraternally
WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.
Truro, September 5, 1874.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—
In the correspondence you have published relative to this matter, one point seems to have escaped notice—viz., although the Major-General commanding the western district prohibited non-commissioned officers from joining in the procession in uniform, yet they were permitted to attend the lodge at which the Prince of Wales presided. I entered the Guildhall at the same moment that a non-com. entered in uniform and Masonic clothing, there may have been many others present, but not being in a good situation, I am unable to state.

I cannot agree with "Leo" that the route was not well kept by the police. I consider their conduct was admirable. I noticed an ugly rush was being made by a large body of spectators near St. Andrew's Church, but the police with great tact immediately prevented them from breaking in on the procession. I did not experience the slightest commotion amongst the thousands of spectators.

Yours fraternally,
J. STROUD SHORT, P.M., 1443.

ROYAL BRETHREN.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,
Will you oblige some of your brethren and friends, by information on the following question, which is left by us for your decision, viz:—How many of Her Majesty's sons belong to the Masonic Order?

Do they all belong to it? If so, when was the Duke of Edinburgh initiated, &c.

Yours fraternally,
M., W., & L.

[Three of the sons of Her Majesty the Queen are members of our Order. Our Royal Brother the Prince of Wales, Prince Arthur the Duke of Connaught, and Prince Leopold. H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh is not yet a Freemason.—ED.]

FREEMASONS AND GOOD TEMPLARS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—
M.M. is drawing back from the terms of his original enquiry, which were, whether a Good Templar could be present at Masonic banquets, as such. The two last words contained the whole gist of the matter, but he omits them in his reply in your last number.

It matters not what tenets a brother may hold, so long as he conforms to our obligations, but M.M. must surely perceive that, for a Good Templar, even though he be a brother, to enter a lodge or attend a banquet, "as such" (i.e., as a Good Templar) would be to infringe upon our fundamental constitutions.

As I stated in my first letter, the language of his enquiry can bear no other interpretation than that which I have put upon it.

Apologising for again troubling you. I am
Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,
KEYSTONE.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—
Referring to the letter in your last issue signed M.M., the previous correspondence on the subject, in my opinion there cannot be the slightest question as to whether a Good Templar may be a Freemason or attend the banquet of the Craft. The regulations for admittance of members are exceedingly liberal, and freedom of opinion is allowed to all, except on certain fundamental doctrines, and Good Templarism cannot be one of these exceptions.

If, therefore, a Good Templar is qualified in other respects, one fact of his belonging to that Order would not prevent him becoming a Freemason, and as to his presence at the banquets, so long as he does not press his own opinions respecting the use of stimulants upon the brethren, he has as much right there as anyone else.

For more than two years I have been an abstainer, though I have not signed any pledge, and during that time I have regularly attended both lodges and banquets, as well as Provincial Grand Banquets, both in this province, and also in other provinces, but have never found any difficulty, or had any unpleasant remark made to me in consequence of my drinking the healths in water. If those round me do not agree with my opinions their good feeling prevents their saying anything that would be likely to interfere with my enjoyment, and I have no doubt "Good Templar" will find this his experience. So far as the Book of Constitutions is concerned, I think it would puzzle anyone to find a paragraph that would prevent a Good Templar from attending lodge or banquet, that is, of course, supposing him to be a Freemason.

Yours fraternally,
M.J.M.

FREEMASONRY IN NEW ZEALAND.

The annual installation of officers in the Westland Pacific Royal Arch Chapter of Freemasons, No. 1229, E.C., took place at the Masonic Hall, Hokitika, last evening. The ceremony was most impressively conducted throughout by Past Principal Lazar, who installed the following companions in their respective offices, viz:—J. Bevan, Z.; J. Hudson, H.; F. Eistler, J.; W. Ramsey, Scribe E.; C. Hill, Scribe N.; T. Bramwell, P.S.; M. Pollock, Treasurer; G. Benning and R. Fergusson, A.S.; G. Epping, Janitor. A large number of members of the Order were present, including the three Principals of the Kijwinning Chapter, E.C., and a number of visiting companions. At the conclusion of the ceremony, all present retired to Host Hudson's, where a most pleasant hour was spent, and the fullest gratification was expressed at the appointments to the several offices under the able superintendence of First Principal Bevan, who is surpassed only in Masonic knowledge and experience by Installing Principal, who may be termed the father of Freemasonry, not only on the West Coast, but likewise of New Zealand.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR

Opium, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which is at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," &c. has repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strength of constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the chest. Sold in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, C. Scarborough.

* Invaluable should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had of all Chemists.

PORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

CHESTER.—Angel Lodge (No 51).—The bi-ly meeting of the Angel Lodge, on Tuesday, was availed of for the presentation of F. A. Cole of a Past Master's Jewel, subscribed for by the members, and the esteem in which the I.P.M. is held was evidenced by one of the largest gatherings of members and visitors that has ever been seen at any ordinary meeting of the lodge. In the unavoidable absence of R.W. the Prov. G.M. of the Province (Bro. Bagshawe), the presentation was made by W. Bro. R. Bolton-Barton, LL.D., Past G.M. for Western India, who, having expressed his regret at the cause of the P.G.M.'s absence, said, upon occasions like that verbosity is out of place. The very fact of Bro. Cole's presence there to receive, in a substantial form, the wishes of his brethren, showed that they recognised the zeal and good-fellowship with which he had carried out his duties as Master, and his general endeavour to promote the interests of the Craft. Dr. Barton then passed a eulogy upon Bro. Cole's private character. In placing the jewel upon Bro. Cole's breast, Dr. Barton expressed a hope that he might wear it for many years, and be an ornament to the lodge. Bro. Cole, in responding, expressed his heartfelt thanks to the brethren for their extreme kindness, and said he feared they had rather overrated his poor services. The jewel, which is a very handsome one, bore the following inscription:—"Presented to Past Master Fred. A. Cole, by his brethren of the Angel Lodge (No. 51), to testify his zeal for the Craft, and as a token of their esteem.—A.L. 1874."

WINDSOR.—Etonian Lodge of St. John (No. 771).—The first monthly meeting of the season was held on the 1st inst., at the Masonic Hall, under the presidency of the W.M., Bro. G. W. V. who was supported by Bros. Bladon, Carter, J.W.; Strange, P.M., Secretary; S.D.; Crowhurst, J.D.; Cauvin, I.G.; G. W. V.; J. Wilson, P.M.; Mc Illwham, Duffield, Webster, W.S. Nicholes, Stollery, and Clay. Visitors: Bros. W.M. of Windsor Castle Lodge, 771; W.M. 771; Tolley, P.M. 771; W.M. 771; Powell, P.M. 771; Owens, 1501; and Chorley, J.D. 865. The meeting was also honoured by the presence of the P.G.M. of the province, Bro. the Rev. John Holme Brownrigg, M.A., Past Grand Master of England, who on entering the lodge was received and saluted in a manner according with his exalted rank. Preliminary business of the evening having been disposed of, and the lodge opened in the second degree, Bro. Clay was, after the usual interrogation, entrusted with the pass grip and word leading from the second to the third degree and retired. The lodge was then opened in the third degree, and Bro. Clay raised to the degree of M.M. by the W.M., in such a manner as afterwards elicited universal congratulations from the brethren present. The lodge having been closed in the third and second degrees, the W.M. rose and expressed the very great pleasure it afforded him and the brethren of the lodge to be favoured on this occasion by the presence of the V.W.D.P.G.M., and in a few chosen words proposed that he should be elected an honorary member of the lodge, which was seconded by the S.W., Bro. Bladon. The V.W.D.P.G.M. in thanking the W.M. and the lodge for the compliment paid to him on this his first visit to the lodge, said he was much gratified by the way in which he had been received by the brethren, and also the excellent working of the W.M. and the officers; he impressed upon the brethren the necessity of upholding the high character of the lodge, which was in every respect worthy of the position of senior lodge in the province. The V.W.D.P.G.M. afterwards accepted the office of Chaplain to the lodge, an honour fully appreciated by the brethren, as the absence of a Chaplain has long been felt to be a serious and only drawback to the lodge. Brother Strange, P.M., Secretary, then proposed, and the W.M. seconded, that Bro. Biggs, the popular Grand Secretary of the Province, should also be elected an honorary member, which proposition, like the former, was carried unanimously. It would be impossible to find a province where the duties of Grand Secretary are better performed than they are in Berks and Bucks. Bro. Biggs' kindly disposition and general urbanity has gained a popularity to be envied. The remaining business on the agenda having been disposed of, and two propositions for initiations having been received, the lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to the Castle Hotel for refreshment.

PERFECT ASHLAR LODGE, (No. 1178).—At the "Gregorian Arms" Tavern, 96, Jamaica-road, Bermondsey, on Thursday, September 3rd, this prosperous lodge held its regular meeting. Bro. John Henry Harnsworth, W.M., opened the lodge punctually at six o'clock. There were present during the evening Bro. C. Deakin, J.W.; F. H. Ebsworth, P.M., Treasurer; F. Walters, P.G.P., Middlesex, P.M., Secretary; J. Ruse, S. D.; J. A. Smith, I.G.; J. W. Avery, P.M., W.S.; Dr. J. Dixon, P.M.; J. W. Dudley, P.M.; J. S. Hood, J. G. Tanyer, W. May, F. Ware, P. Fry, F. Mordecai, A. Lewis, F. Garbett, &c. The visitors were Bro. J. G. Marsh, P.G.P., Middlesex, P.M. 28; E. Harris, P.M. and Treasurer, 73; T. Nicholson, 101, 1457; Lingood, I.G., 879; G. Wilton, 879; T. Blakey, P.P.G.A.D.C., Kent, P.M.; H. Cutress, and others. The minutes were read and unanimously confirmed. The ballot was unanimous in favour of the admission of the candidate for initiation. This being election night, the bye-laws were read. The S.W., Bro. J. H. Fudge, being too ill and unable to attend, sent a kind courteous letter to the members, in which he stated that through his ill health and the recent loss he had sustained by the death of his beloved wife, that for the present he must decline being elected W.M. All were sorry and disappointed at this decision. The elections took place and were declared to be unanimous in favour of Bro. C. Deakin, J.W., as W.M., and F. H. Ebsworth, P.M. and Treasurer, being re-elected Treasurer. Bro. W. Y. Laing, P.M. 45, Tyler, was, on a show of hands, declared to be re-elected Tyler. The usual notice of motion was given to vote five guineas from the lodge funds to purchase a Past Master's jewel, to be presented to the W.M., Bro. J. H. Harnsworth, as a slight recognition of his services rendered to the lodge during his year of office, and for the admirable manner he presided over the meetings as the Worshipful Master. The audit committee meeting was appointed to be held on Friday, September 18th, at Lodge House at 7 o'clock. A gentleman was proposed for initiation, and all the business being finished, the lodge was closed and declared adjourned until Thursday, October 1st. A good banquet wound up a pleasant evening.

GREENWICH.—Star Lodge (No. 1275).—Installation Meeting.—At the Ship Hotel, Greenwich, on Friday, September 4th, the regular meeting of this prosperous lodge was held. There were present during the afternoon and evening Bros. T. R. Darke, W.M.; G. Pymm, S.W.; G. F. Guest, J.W.; Rev. G. R. P. Colles, Chaplain; J. Smith, P.G.P., P.M., Treasurer; F. Walters, P.G.P. Middlesex P.M.; J. J. Limebeer, S.D.; W. Kipps, J.D.; S. Marketis, as I.G.; R. W. Williams, Organist; W. Ough, P.G.M., P.M.; C. J. Hogg, P.G.S., P.M.; H. Keeble, P.M.; W. Okey, W. F. Gardiner, L. H. Williams, W. B. Woodman, J. Fox, J. Finch, E. Lane, H. W. Elmer, A. Tisley, A. C. Woodward, W. Hardman, F. B. Williams, H. Pratt, C. W. Williams, &c. Amongst the visitors we noticed—Bros. W. Smeed, P.P.G. J.W. Middlesex, P.M. 946, &c.; J. G. Marsh, P.P.G.P. Middlesex, P.M. 28, &c.; W. Hammond, P.G. Steward, Middlesex P.M. 201, W.M. 1326; E. W. Hubback, P.G.S., P.M. 58, P.M. 140; &c.; W. H. Waghorne, W.M. 946; W. Y. Laing, P.M. 45, F. Frampton, P.M. 87; J. Smith, P.M. 157; W. H. Stacy, 1239; W. Hilton, 135; A. C. Burrell, S.W. 1446; J. Jeffeie, 1351; A. M. Thomas, 134; J. Hyman, 188; C. A. Rose, 1446, &c. The minutes were read and unanimously confirmed. Ballots were unanimous in favour of all the candidates for initiation. Mr. William Hardman being in attendance was introduced and initiated into Freemasonry. Bros. L. H. Williams and H. W. Elmer were raised to the third degree. Bros. J. Smith, P.G.P., P.M., took the chair, and installed Bro. George Pymm, S.W. and W.M. elect, as the Worshipful Master. The officers appointed are Bros. J. J. Limebeer, S.W.; H. J. Green, J.W.; J. Smith, P.G.P., P.M., Treasurer; (reinvested for fifth time). F. Walters, P.G.P., Middlesex, P.M., Secretary; (reinvested for sixth time), Rev. G. R. P. Coles, Chaplain; (reinvested), R. W. Williams, S.D.; C. W. Williams, J.D.; W. Bell, J. G.; W. B. Woodman, M.C.; J. Gilbert, P.G. Tyler, Middlesex, Tyler. The work, as usual here, was done in an admirable manner. A letter of condolence was unanimously voted and sent to the widow of the late Bro. Edwin Townshend, who had died since the last meeting. A handsome Past Master's jewel was presented to Bro. T. R. Darke, P.M., for his efficient services rendered to the lodge during his year of office. Several propositions for candidates for initiation were received. The fees were altered for initiation from five to seven guineas. Joining, from two to three guineas. Visitors from five to ten shillings and sixpence on ordinary nights, and ten to fifteen shillings and sixpence on the installation nights. The usual splendid banquet followed.

LIVERPOOL.—De Grey and Ripon Lodge (No. 1356).—This influential and flourishing lodge met on Wednesday, 9th inst., under the presidency of its new Master, Bro. E. O. C. Rothwell, who gave the several degrees in a most masterly manner, reflecting great credit upon himself and lodge, whose chair he most ably filled. Amongst other important business the principal and most interesting part was the presentation of a very handsome gold Organist's jewel to Bro. Veale, for his energy and good services rendered to this lodge, since its formation. The W.M. in presenting the jewel, testified most feelingly the kind services rendered by Bro. Veale for some years, not only to this lodge, but to the Craft in Liverpool, as Organist, and hoped he would live many years to wear it, as an honour to the lodge and himself. Bro. Veale thanked the W.M. and lodge in his usual courteous manner, and after the other less important business, the lodge was closed in peace and harmony, the brethren retired for refreshment, and closed a most pleasant and satisfactory meeting. We hear it is the intention of this lodge to apply for a change in its name; we should advise the brethren, if such is done, to choose the name of "Amity," for a more friendly and well-worked lodge, does not, nor cannot exist in the province of West Lancashire.

Royal Arch.

SUTTON.—Frederick Chapter of Unity (No. 452).—A convocation of the above chapter was held on Tuesday evening, at the Station Hotel, Sutton, Surrey, when there were present, Comps. James Glaisher, F.R.S.; Magnus Ohren, James Robins, Walter Spencer, W. G. Davis, Charles H. Edmonds, Charles Pawley, and visitors, John Boyd, P.Z. 145, &c.; H. Potter, 829, and H. Massey (Freemason), P.Z. 619. Comp. James Glaisher, M.E.Z., presided, and with the able assistance of Comp. Boyd, who acted as N. and P.S., exalted Bro. George Wright, 452, into Royal Arch Masonry. Comp. Ohren having moved for an alteration in the days of meeting of the chapter, the companions carried a change of day to the third Tuesdays in April and October. Comp. Glaisher stated that he was always ready in the cause of Masonry to attend and do any work that might be required of him, but that meeting in September was not so convenient to the companions generally. Hence it was that at the September meeting, very few companions usually could be got together, and as it was essential to the impressive performance of the ceremony of exaltation as many companions should be got together as possible, it became advisable to consider what day was most suitable to the general body. He thought that by the third Tuesday in October most London people had returned to town from their holidays, and the holding of the meetings of the chapter on that day met with his entire approval. Comp. John Boyd installed Comp. Magnus Ohren, in the M.E.Z. chair. The officers for the year then stood as follows:—Magnus Ohren, M.E.Z.; E. A. Baber, H.; W. Sugg, J.; W. S. Waterman, S.E.; H. E. Francis, S.N.; Arthur J. Dickinson, P.S.; J. W. Sugg, 1st A.; W. G. Davis, 2nd A.; Walter Spencer, Std.; James Robins, P.Z., Treasurer; and C. T. Speight, Janitor, Companion W. G. Davis proposed Bro. James Charles Campbell as a candidate for exaltation at the next meeting of the chapter, after which the companions closed down and adjourned to an admirable supper, provided by Comp. Potter, the proprietor of the Station Hotel. This having been partaken of and thoroughly enjoyed, grace was rendered in due time, and the M.E.Z. proposed the toasts which fall to the share of the First Principal. After "The Queen and R. A. Masonry" had been honoured His Excellency said it was usual on these occasions to give the Grand Z. of the Order. Unfortunately at the present moment they were without a Grand representative; but there were Second and Third Principals who remained firm to their duty, and those companions he would, with the permission of the companions, couple with the next toast. With them he would join the present and past Grand Principals of the Order. He was sorry that Companion Glaisher had been compelled to leave, because as a Past Grand Officer he should have called on him to respond to the toast. He had invited some other Grand Officers, but business or absence from town prevented them from accepting his invitation. Comp. James Robins, P.Z. and Treasurer, then proposed "The M.E.Z.," whom he welcomed on his attaining the distinguished position of First Principal of the chapter. Not being so fluent a speaker as their M.E.Z., he hardly knew how to express himself, but he could not help saying that the position of First Principal was one of such dignity, that any one must be proud of it, and Comp. Ohren thoroughly deserved it. He was known so well both in lodge and chapter as a good worker, and an excellent Mason, that it was a benefit conferred on the chapter to have him for president. Therefore both their First Principal and the chapter were to be congratulated. His year of office would be a pleasant one, and no doubt during that time there would be a considerable accession to the number of the members. They had an earnest of this in another candidate having been proposed for exaltation at the next meeting. When Comp. Ohren left the chair, they would possibly number some nine or ten more. They were wanted, and a little zeal, if it could be imparted, would be a gain to all. The M.E.Z. having thanked Comp. Robins, and the companions, said he knew he was in a responsible position. At their last meeting, when they so kindly elected him, he was, unfortunately, on a bed of sickness, but it was a great pleasure to him to know that he had been unanimously chosen. He had now passed through every office in the chapter, and as Comp. Robins had intimated, he had done his best to carry on the duties of those offices. He felt a great interest in the chapter. It was not the first time he had filled the Z. chair in a chapter, having before been First Principal in his mother chapter (the Britannic). That was a winter chapter, but the Frederick was a summer chapter, and it was with great pleasure that he left the city to come down to the beautiful neighbourhood of Sutton to spend a few hours twice a year. The meetings were always pleasurable ones, and it was with great delight that he met the companions. He looked forward with much confidence to a successful year, and he would assure them that his best energies would be devoted to the prosperity of the chapter. The M.E.Z. next gave "The newly-exalted Companion." It was an important toast, because it was important to get new members. There were always members leaving the chapters, and of course if new ones did not come in, the chapters must necessarily die out. No efforts of the few who might stay in the chapters would be sufficient to keep them going. But there was another point which was of great importance, the character of members admitted into the R.A. In Craft Masonry brethren were admitted from the representation of a single brother; but in the chapter brethren were received from lodges, where they had all an opportunity of judging what sort of people they were. If they thought there was anything about those brethren which would render them unfit to join the degree no companions of the Order would propose them. As a chapter they rather selected the members of the lodge, and it was not every brother who presented himself as a candidate would be received. When he was received, however, and was a member among them, they knew he was one of whom they might be proud. Companion Wright was one of these, and it was in that light they received him. Comp. Wright in reply said, after thanking the M.E.Z. and companions for the toast, that it had given him much pleasure to be exalted as a R.A. Mason, and especially with the impressiveness of the ceremony. He trusted that the further he went in Freemasonry, the more he would like it. The M.E.Z. next proposed "The Visitors," whom he said they always warmly received; he was happy to see on this occasion they were favoured with the presence of Comp. Boyd, P.Z., of the Prudent Brethren Chapter, Comp. Massey, P.Z. of the Beadon Chapter, and Comp. Potter of the High Cross Chapter. He was particularly grateful also for their presence, as they had all assisted him in carrying out the duties of the Chapter, for it was a curious fact, that owing to the day on which they now met—and this was the reason he had for proposing the alteration of the day in future—a great number of the members were away on their holidays, consequently, five companions who were to have been that day invested had written excuses for absence. Without the visitors therefore they could not have got on with their work; but with them they had done it in such a way as to have called forth from the candidate for exaltation his approval of its impressiveness. It was a great pleasure to him (the M.E.Z.) to see it had been well performed. Comp. Boyd said it was always gratifying to him to visit a chapter, but that gratification was much enhanced when he found he could be of any service in rendering any portion of their splendid ceremonies. Comp. Massey also responded in similar terms. The M.E.Z. then proposed "The P.Z.'s," and in doing so said again he was sorry that, from the unavoidable circumstances to which he had already alluded, so many were absent. They had however Comp. Robins, their Treasurer, present, and he should therefore couple his name with the toast. They were very thankful to the Treasurer for the way in which he kept their accounts, and the companions knew how well he had done it, and how much he deserved any honours that had been placed upon him. Companions would think it was not much trouble to keep the accounts, and that all a Treasurer had to do was to receive the money; but there were many duties connected with the position, and if the accounts were properly kept they entailed the expenditure of a great deal of time and attention. Companion Robins discharged his duties in the most efficient and conscientious manner, in order that he might have his accounts in such form that any one might examine them without finding any difficulty. They would have an account next April, and all the companions who were of the Finance Committee would find the accounts kept most admirably. They had a handsome balance in hand, which showed not only were the accounts well kept by the Treasurer, but that he also keeps the companions within bounds. Companion Robins replied, and contrasted the present prosperous condition with what it was some past days that he remembered. He looked with favour on the alteration in the days of meeting which had been made that evening. In regard to the balance they had he could not say it was large, but still there was a balance, which was a grand thing, considering their subscription was small. This was very satisfactory. As trouble being attached to his office, he was certainly particular about the accounts, and at one of their meetings it took him half the following day to put the accounts in proper order. He hoped that when the Finance Committee met in April, they would find everything in apple-pie order. He also hoped that the prosperity of the chapter would continue. Companion C. T. Speight gave the "Janitor's Toast," and the companions returned to town after spending a delightful evening.

PANNURE LODGE (No. 139).—The Installation Meeting of this prosperous Lodge was held at the Balham Hotel, Balham, on Monday evening the 7th instant. In consequence of the absence of the V.W. Bro. James Stevens, P.G.O., the first W.M. of this Lodge, the duties of installing Master were specially undertaken by the V.W. Bro. Frederick Binckes, P.G.J.W. and Grand Secretary of the Order, who promptly opened the Lodge at the hour appointed. Amongst the brethren present were the W.M., Bro. G. Lilley, Bros. H. F. Huntley, P.M., Poore, S.W., Pulman, M.O., Trusler, S.O., Spiegel, Walmsley, Gibbs, Grant, G. Neal, and Rosenburgh, Visitors. The following brethren were duly advanced into the Order, viz., Bros. Cook, Vinnal, Larham, and Walmsley. Bro. Thomas Poore was then duly installed into the Chair of A. with all perfect ceremony and in the usual able and gratifying manner with which Bro. Binckes conducts the work of Mark Masonry. The newly-installed W.M., having previously invested his I.P.M. Bro. Lilley, and decorated both Bros. Lilley and H. F. Huntley with the P.M. Jewel of the Lodge, appointed and invested his officers as follows, viz., Bros. Payne, S.W., Pulman, J.W.; H. Huntley, P.M., Treasurer; Pulman, Sec. and Reg. of Marks; Trusler, M.O.; Larham, S.O.; W. Poore, J.O.; Larner, S.D.; Spiegel, J.D.; Walmsley, I.C. Cook and Vinnal, Stewards; Groat, Tyler. Having been suggested that one of the new prepared tracing boards should be provided for the lodge, and it being desired to preserve the funds of the lodge for another laudable purpose, the brethren present contributed a sufficient sum, and the Grand Secretary promised that the board should be at once forwarded. The lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to a sumptuous repast, prepared in a most liberal manner by Bro. Lilley, I.P.M., the host, which was admirably served. Subsequently the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly proposed, and Bro. Binckes supplemented the toast of thanks recorded in open lodge by a most excellent speech in response to the toast "The Installing Master." The W.M.'s health was drunk with much enthusiasm, Bro. Poore having rendered himself particularly popular amongst Mark Masonry brethren, and which he has the ritual of the Order, and the effective manner which he carries out all his duties, both Craft and Mark degrees. In acknowledging compliment, the W.M. expressed his thanks to the lodge for all the kindness and consideration which had been extended to him in his progress towards the exalted position he now had the privilege to hold, and assured the brethren his continued exertions in the discharge of duties of his office. Bro. H. F. Huntley acted on behalf of Past Masters Stevens, Ley, and himself, regretting the unavoidable absence of Bro. Stevens, who, whilst enjoying holiday, had nevertheless used his influence to secure the valuable services of Bro. Binckes on this occasion, so that the interests of the lodge might not suffer, and who, he (Bro. Huntley) felt certain, would, when he heard of the successful meeting, feel equal gratification and regret. The newly advanced brethren actively responded to the special toast referred to them, and each expressed great satisfaction with the ceremony through which they had passed. To "The Visitors," Bros. Neal and Edinburgh made earnest replies, and the remaining toasts were suitably responded to. The King's proceedings were enlivened by some excellent singing, and the brethren separated in peace and harmony.

CONSECRATION OF A NEW LODGE IN GLASGOW.

On Monday, September 17th, the Provincial and Lodge of Glasgow met in the Southside Assembly Rooms, Crown-street, Glasgow, for the purpose of consecrating the Clydesdale Lodge, No. 556. Bro. F. A. Barrow, D.P.G.M., presided, assisted by Bros. Halkett, as S.W.; Wilson, J.W.; McFaggart, M.A., P.G.S.; Baker, P.G.T.; Balfour, P.G.D.C.; Fraser, M.; and several other well-known brethren.

The hall, which is a handsome new building, opened some nine months since, as a concert hall, and was well adapted for the consecration ceremonies, there being ample room for the circumambulations with the consecrating elements.

The Deputy Provincial Grand Master delivered an address on the "Mission of Masonry," dwelling particularly on the duties of the officers of the new lodge.

At the conclusion of the consecration ceremony, the Deputy Prov. Grand Master proceeded to install the first officers of the lodge, the newly installed Master, having thanked the Prov. Grand Master, and his officers for attending to consecrate the lodge, and the officers, the Provincial Grand Lodge closed in due form.

Bro. Phillips then opened the Clydesdale Lodge, and congratulated the members upon the auspicious under which they had met, and added to the fact that in addition to many of the most influential Masons of the various lodges in Glasgow, there were present the Masd deputations from 116 and 347, Rutherglen, Pollokshaws, and eight of the officers of the lodge, all the way from Dreghorn, in Ayrshire. Bro. W.M. then, at the request of the lodge, and the officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge, as honorary members.

The lodge was then called off to refreshment. The toast having been paid to the toast of Queen and the Craft "The Prince of Grand Patron of the Order in Scotland." Three Grand Lodges, and the "Provincial Lodge of Glasgow." Bro. Barrow, in reply to the last toast, said that the Provincial Lodge of Glasgow was not only the most influential in Scotland, but without vanity he could say it was the most influential. And it only remains for the members and the lodges to make more influential in the Grand Lodge. There had been some danger of that body being the "Grand Lodge of Edinburgh," and the Grand Lodge of the Kingdom, and for the new lodge, in conjunction with the West of Scotland, to do their duty in the Craft at large, by attending at all

Grand Lodge, as well as Provincial Grand Lodge meetings. He was desirous of seeing the honour and dignity of the Craft fully maintained, and he thought they might with advantage take a lesson from the Grand Lodge of England. Let them carefully enquire into the character of every person who offered as candidates for the Order, for though Masonry was calculated to make every man who joined it a better man than he was before, yet for the permanent good of the Order they should see they had good materials to work upon. Before sitting down he would propose "Prosperity to Lodge Clydesdale, No. 556."

Bro. Phillips said he had for some years been trying to get a lodge established on the South side of the river, and having at length succeeded, he would take care that nothing on his part should be wanting to make it a credit to the Craft.

The next toast was "The Press," proposed by Bro. Miller, R.W.M. 87. He said they owed much to the Press; to night it was well represented as they had three gentlemen present. Bro. Bassett replied for the Masonic News and Bro. Wheeler, for himself and Bro. Jonge, on behalf of the Freemason and Masonic Magazine. In the course of his remarks he said as they had gone through the fire of heart, hand and pocket, he hoped all present would support the papers there represented, daily, weekly, fortnightly, and monthly, with heart, hand and pocket.

Bro. Bain, P.M. 103, proposed "The Health of the New Master, Bro. Phillips," giving some sound advice as to the conducting the business of a lodge.

The R.W.M. in reply, alluded to his having already filled the chair of 275, for five years, and the experience thus gained he would try to use for the benefit of the Clydesdale Lodge.

Bro. Wheeler proposed "The Wardens, and other office-bearers." The S.W. replied, and gave "The Visitors." Bro. Miller, R.W.M. 87, replied, and gave "Mrs. Phillips," who was worthy of being a Mason's wife, and proved herself a true helpmate to the R.W.M. in all his labours Masonic and otherwise.

The choir sang "Here's a Health to all good Lassies," the R.W.M. having gracefully acknowledged the compliment to one whom he could truly designate as his better half. The final toast "Happy to meet and sorry to part, but happy to meet again," was then given, and the brethren separated.

OPENING OF A NEW LODGE AT KILSYTH.

On Friday, September 4th, the Stewart Lodge, No. 547, was formally opened at Kilsyth, by a Deputation from the Provincial Grand Lodge of Dumbartonshire. The charter had been granted some months since, but owing to the unsettled state of trade in the district, they had delayed the opening ceremonies. The brethren had not been idle, however, and their showy Stuart Tartan sashes and aprons, and the handsome set of lodge jewels, with their Tartan collars, supplied by Bro. G. Kenning, from his Glasgow house, were admired by all present. The drive from Croy Station, through a very picturesque scenery, was a very pleasant preparative to the ceremony, while the keen air furnished the visitors with an appetite, the best sauce, for the substantial repast that awaited their arrival at Bro. Robinson's Hotel, for with considerate kindness they had made refreshment precede labour. Having crossed the market place to the old hall, the Provincial Grand Lodge of Dumbartonshire was opened by the following officers; Bros. John McLeish, R.W.M. 321, P.G.S.D. acting P.G.M.; James Marshland, R.W.M. 503, P.G.J.D. as P.G.S.W.; Wm. Ferguson, R.W.M. 543, P.G.S.; as P.G.J.W.; Alex. Denny, P.G. Sec.; A. S. McBride, R.W.M. 170, P.G.C.; J. Wigans, P.G.I.G. The acting P.G.M. having opened the lodge, informed the brethren that there was no necessity for consecrating the hall, as it had been consecrated many years ago for No. 39, St. John's Kilsyth. He should therefore formally constitute the lodge and then install the officers. The P.G.S. having read the documents, the following brethren were then installed into their respective offices: Bros. R. Miller, P.M. of 39, as R.W.M. of 547; S. Hamilton, D.M.; Johnstone, S.M.; Paul Black, S.W.; James McDonald, J.W.; J. Livingstone, Sec.; J. Robinson, Treas.; Wm. Heller, S.D.; R. McPhun, J.D.; J. Brown, S.S.; Wm. Lindsay, J.S.; Alex. White, I.G.; and James Black, Tyler. The R.W.M. having thanked the officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge for their kindness in coming over to install them, proposed that they should all be now affiliated as Honorary Members; this having been done, Bro. McBride, P.G.C., returned thanks for the honour thus conferred on them. Bro. Livingstone then said, as they had three brethren over from Glasgow to visit them, and they were all good workers in the cause, he thought they should also be affiliated. Bro. Robinson, Treasurer, having seconded this, it was carried nem con, and the P.G.M., at the request of the R.W.M., obligated as members of Lodge 547, Bros. Wm. Phillips, R.W.M. 556, P.G.I.G. of Glasgow province; Wm. Bassett, 27; and G. W. Wheeler, 73. Bro. Phillips returned thanks for the unexpected kindness. A procession was then formed, preceded by the band, and a splendid banner of the Athol 384, Kirk. Until 4 o'clock, they perambulated the principal streets of the town; on returning to the market-place, they opened up for the Prov. G. L. to pass through their ranks. The lodge was then called to refreshment. Bro. McLeish responded for the Provincial Grand Lodge of Dumbartonshire, the next sentiment was Bro. Denny, the P.G.S., the Sec. of the Stewart, 547, testifying to the kindness and attention with which their communications had been received. Bro. Denny gracefully acknowledged the compliment. The next sentiment was "The Masonic Press," responded to by Bro. Bassett for the Masonic News, and Bro. Wheeler for The Freemason, and Masonic Magazine. Bro. Wheeler then proposed "Prosperity to the Stewart Lodge, 547." Bro. Miller in reply, said for many years he had been studying Masonry, and being now again in the chair he would try to make the new lodge a credit to the old Craft, and should be most pleased to do all in his power to impart Masonic light as far as possible, both in the lodge and out of it, if the members would only try to learn. He then proposed the "Athol Kirkwhillick Lodge" which had materially assisted them in their starting. Bro. Kent briefly replied. As the train will not wait for anyone, the visitors took their departure, the band and a deputation of the brethren accompanying them beyond the precincts of the town on their homeward journey.

GLASGOW.—St. George's Lodge (No. 333).—The monthly meeting of this lodge was held in St. Mark's Hall on Wednesday, the 9th instant. Bro. Winton, R.W.M., presiding; assisted by Bro. McFarlan, S.M., J. Finley, S.W., J. Forsyth, J.W., and McIntyre, Sec. The lodge having been duly opened, and the minutes of the last regular meeting and also those of an emergency, passed. Bro. Bryon applied for leave to be passed and raised, as he was about to sail for America within a week. The lodge having granted his request, was then raised to the 2nd degree, and Bro. G. W. Wheeler, at the R.W.M.'s request, passed Bro. Bryon to the Fellow Craft, and on the lodge being opened to the 3rd degree raised him to the sublime degree of a Master Mason.

GLASGOW.—Clyde Lodge (No. 408).—This lodge held an emergency meeting on Friday, the 17th instant, when two candidates were passed and raised. Bro. D. Dawson in the chair, who was assisted in the work by R. Mitchell, D.M., J. McGaw, S.W., J. Stewart, J.W., J. Harper, Treasurer.

GLASGOW.—Union Lodge (No. 332).—This lodge held its regular meeting at 170, Buchanan-street, on Monday, the 7th instant. S. B. McNair in the chair. An application on behalf of the Lodge Clyde 408 was made for the initiation of a candidate, which was granted, and the gentleman initiated. The lodge was then raised, and Bro. McNair proceeded to pass one brother to the degree of Fellow Craft, the lodge was then closed.

the interest taken in the matter by his Royal Highness, which alone is sufficient reward to Bro. Deller for his trouble and care in the matter, at the same time his thoughtfulness has applied what has hitherto been wanting, viz:—poligree wheat for use for all Masonic purposes. Any brother wishing to keep up the breed, may have a few grains on application.

OUR MASONIC CHARITIES.

At the installation of the W.M. of the Stour Valley Lodge, on the 10th inst., the D.P.G.M. of Suffolk took occasion to refer to a scheme submitted to the Provincial Grand Lodge at its meeting at Lowestoft, by the P.G.J.W. of Suffolk, for concentrating the action of the several lodges in the province, in behalf of resident candidates for the benefits of the Masonic charities. He (the D.P.G.M.) would take upon himself to say that if the scheme of the Senior Warden was not at once adopted at that Provincial meeting, it was not from any hesitation on the part of the brethren to admit the importance and desirableness of its object, but from an unreasonable wish to have time to digest the details for its organization. The brethren of the Stour Valley Lodge would be glad to hear that it had since engaged the special attention of the Prov. Grand Master, and the brethren might be prepared for the issue of a commission from him for the careful revision of the subject, with a view to a renewal of its discussion at the Provincial Grand Lodge next year.

A similar scheme had been debated by the Provincial Grand Lodge of Middlesex, and a resolution unanimously passed to appoint a committee "to consider the best mode of promoting unity of action in the province." The Prov. G.M. also suggested, and the suggestion met with a hearty response from the brethren present, that the Masonic Charities might be materially benefited by the formation of funds, small monthly subscriptions, for the purchase a time to time of Life Governorships.

ANNUAL BANQUET OF THE HERVEY LODGE (No. 1260).

The summer banquet of the Hervey Lodge was held on Wednesday, in the picturesque gardens attached to the well known "Crown" Hotel, at Bourne. A more beautiful spot for an "annual" fête could not have been selected. It is now more than half a dozen years ago, that Shirley had said, in the Gardener's Magazine, "The Bourne Gardens are the most finished, the most beautiful and most tasteful of any I have entered." Since then, nothing that refined could suggest and liberal expenditure has been wanting on the part of the proprietor, Bro. Benningfield, to render them still more perfect. Amongst the brethren present, we noticed, Bros. C. Darby, W.M.; Harrison, Sec.; G. King, junior, P.M. and Sec.; Henry Angworth, S.D.; E. King, senior, P.M.; W. Leck, Southwood, Kingcombe, P. Sandi-ward, Vine, Batter, Bigwood, and Speight, Bros. Wright, W.M. 1153; Green, J.W. Williams, 453; Ballard, 511; and Saunders, nearly the whole of whom were accompanied by their wives and sisters. After the usual W.M. proposed the "Queen and the Staff," and the other usual Masonic toasts. P.M., Bro. G. King, then proposed the health of the Worshipful Master, "congratulating him on the prosperity of the Hervey Lodge, and the new idea he had inaugurated by inviting the wives and sisters of the brethren to share of their festivity. The W.M. made a noble reply, and proposed "The Visitors," which Bro. Wright, W.M. 1153, responded to. Bro. M. then proposed "The Past Masters of the Lodge," which was acknowledged by the senior. The next toast was that of the Banquet Committee," coupling with the name of Bro. Southwood, who, the W.M. observed, bore the heat and burden of labour in arranging all the details of the banquet, whose taste and tact they were so much indebted for the success which had crowned it. Bro. Southwood replied, and the last toast "The Hervey Lodge" was given by Bro. G. King, jun., and acknowledged by the W.M. We must not omit to notice that the expense of the orchestral music, the exquisite menus (had expressly from Paris) and the novel bon bons, each containing an elegant fan, or some other appropriate present for the ladies, was borne by individual members of the lodge, and the entire arrangements were devised, that a most enjoyable day was spent by the brethren and their friends, at a less expense to the lodge than would have been incurred at an ordinary banquet within its walls.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

The monthly meeting of the Committee of this Institution was held on Wednesday, at Freemason's Hall, Bro. Henry Browse in the chair. There were also present Bros. James Brett, C. A. Cuttebrune, J. Constable, L. Stean, Thomas Cubitt, Thomas W. White, Hyde Pullen, James Stevens, H. M. Levy, F. Adlard, F. Kent, and others. Bro. James Terry (Secretary), having read the minutes, which were put and confirmed, several applications from both males and females to be placed on the list for election were received; and the meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the chairman.

Obituary.

BRO. JAMES MASON.

We copy the following from a local paper:—We sincerely regret to have to record the death of Bro. James Mason, master mariner, of Fort Elizabeth, which sad event occurred with fearful suddenness on Tuesday afternoon, May 12th. Deceased was occupied about his usual business at his hotel at Kinkel Bush during the day and appeared to be in good health. In the afternoon he was greatly irritated by one of his servants, who, instead of preparing dinner for the expected passengers per Cobb & Co.'s cart, had got drunk and entirely neglected his duties, so that at the last moment deceased had himself to set energetically to work, and labouring under considerable excitement at the time, it is supposed that one of the vessels of the heart suddenly burst, as he fell down dead without the slightest warning being apparent of his approaching end. Captain Mason was a man greatly respected for his kindly disposition and bluff good humoured manner. His early life was spent at sea, and among other vessels he commanded the Alexandra and Hero of the Nile, both of which vessels were regular traders to this port, and, with Captain Mason in charge, were favourite passenger ships. Some fifteen years ago he settled down in Port Elizabeth by opening the Masonic Hotel, which he conducted until three or four years since, when, on leaving on a visit to England, he made it over to Mr. Steinman. On his return he kept a hotel at the North-end of this town for a short time, but afterwards, having purchased the Kinkel Bush Hotel, went to reside therein, and at the time of his death was driving a good business. Captain Mason was a member of the Masonic Lodge of Good Will, and his funeral, which took place yesterday, was conducted with Masonic honours, a large number of the brethren attending to pay their last tribute of respect to the memory of a departed and worthy brother.

The Great City Lodge of Instruction (No. 1426), have made arrangements for resuming their meetings, every Thursday evening, commencing on the 24th inst., at 6.30 p.m., at the offices of The London Warehousemen's Association, 111, Cheapside, entrance in Honey-lane, opposite Bow Church.

IT IS AS UNWISE, as it is dangerous, to shut your eyes to the approach of disease. In preserving health, as in making money, there must be no slackness of purpose, or the chance may slip away and never be recalled. Glandular swellings about the throat, neuralgia, rheumatism, gout, lumbago, and other diseases affecting the glands, muscles, and nerves, are permanently eradicated by Holloway's healing, anti-febrile, and soothing Unguent. Skin diseases and superficial or deeper seated sores soon lose their angry and painful character under its cooling, beneficial action. Holloway's Pills have never been administered either by hospital or private practitioners, in dyspepsia or liver complaint, without producing the desired result.—ADVT.

THE STRONG FOUNDATION.

A Poem composed for the occasion of the Masonic gathering at Wilmington, Delaware, June 12, 1874 and respectfully dedicated to Most Worshipful J. P. Allmond, Esq., Grand Master of Delaware.

By Bro. Rob Morris.

[The Temple built by Solomon, after standing 420 years was totally destroyed by the Chaldeans under Nebuchadnezzar. Its successor, erected by Zerubbabel, stood nearly 500 years. It was taken down by Herod, and replaced by a third. The Temple of Herod after standing about 100 years, was destroyed by the Romans under Titus. The Mosk of Omar, occupying the original site of those three edifices, has stood about 1200 years.]

But amidst all these changes, covering nearly thirty centuries, the foundations laid by the builders of Solomon, have remained unmoved. Composed of weighty stones, artistically laid together, each designated by the private mark of its quarrymen—the stones anchored together, and to the sides of Mount Moriah, by bars of iron and lead, the great foundation wall, 1000 feet thick, and 1500 feet long, stands, after defying alike the ravages of barbarians, and the force of the earthquakes, and the silent effects of time, for 300 years. And so it will stand, until the fiat of the Grand Architect of the Universe shall declare "time shall be no longer!"

It is so with the system of Freemasonry. Its foundations composed of the grandest principles ever communicated by God to man, stand as they ever have stood unmoved amidst all the changes of time. Lodges and Grand Lodges may perish, the opposition of evil men may raze our halls and temples to the ground, our Order may be villified and made unpopular by war from without, and the evil conduct of unworthy brethren within, but our foundation "standeth sure, having this seal,—the Lord knoweth them that are His!"

When the appointed time had come,
And Israel from his mountain home
Come up, by Solomon's command,
To lay, in state, the corner-stone
And build the temple high and grand,
An edifice that God would own,—
The monarch by a just Decree,
Thus set the law eternally:—

Lay the foundations deep! the fane
May not, to distant age remain;
The tooth of time may gnaw its side;
The foe deface its golden pride;
Pillar, Pillaster, height and base,
May mingle in one foul disgrace;—
But with foundations deep and wise,
Other and nobler works will rise,
And, till the earth in ruin sink,
Some structure crown Moriah's brink!

The people bowed obedient head;
Hiram, the Architect, began,
By long and wise experience led—
How sadly to our spirits come
The memories of that good man's doom!
To justify the Monarch's plan:
From mighty quarries raised the rock
In Ashlars huge and weighty drew,—
See, yet, they rise upon the view,
In spite of time and earthquakes' shock!
Until there stood as yet there stands,
The grandest pile of human hands;
A sure foundation, deep and wise,
On which the noblest works may rise.

Craftsmen! ye build but for a day,
Unless these precepts you obey!
How oft we see within our land,
A structure reared upon the sand!
Its walls—magnificent they rise;
Its towers they pierce the very skies;
Crowds, through its portals eager press,
Beauty and rank its altar grace,
And,—then the storm has blown,—'tis gone
From turret-top to corner-stone!

Craftsmen! the lessons heed and keep,—
Lay your Foundations wise and deep!

FROM ITS ORIGIN TO THE PRESENT DAY.

BY J. G. FINDL.

Second Edition, Revised, and Preface written by

Bro. D. MURRAY LYON.

One vol., 800 pages 8vo., with an Index. Cloth gilt. Price, 10s. 6d.

"This book is a strictly historical one, from which all is excluded that is not based upon ascertained or probable fact."—Builder.

"Of its value to Freemasons, as a detailed history of their Brotherhood, it is not possible to speak too highly."—Public Opinion.

"The author seems to have fairly exhausted the subject."—The Athenaeum.

"The edition we are now considering is a second English edition, which had the great advantage of Bro. D. M. Lyon's able superintendence and editorship in its English dress. There can be no doubt but, that so far, Bro. Findel's work is the most complete work on Freemasonry which has yet appeared, and that he deserves the greatest credit for his careful and accurate treatment of all evidence on the subject, and for his honest desire after truth. Bro. Findel gives up in the view he has so clearly and consistently put forth our early Masonic history, the older theory of the Roman Colleges, &c., and limits the origin of Freemasonry to about the twelfth century, and as then arising from the operative Masons, and specially the "Steinmetzen" and "Bauhütten" of Germany. Bro. Findel gives us a good deal of evidence on this head, and one thing is clear from his work, that the German Freemasons were, at a very early period, organized into lodges with a Master over them, and with outward regulations and inner ceremonies peculiar to the Craft. Bro. Findel rejects all the views which have been from time to time put forward of a Templar or a Rosicrucian origin. Whether or no Bro. Findel's theory of the date of the rise of Freemasonry be correct, matters very little: we do not ourselves profess to accept it; but this we can fairly say of Bro. Findel's work, it is marked from first to last by the most remarkable token of industry, ability, and care, of patient research, and of skillful criticism. We know of no work which so clearly sets before us our amount of knowledge up to the present time on the great question of Masonic Archaeology, and there can be little doubt that what Preston's work is to English Freemasonry, Findel's work is to cosmopolitan Freemasonry. Indeed no student in Masonry can now dispense with it, and it is a perfect storehouse both of Masonic evidence and Masonic illustrations. We earnestly recommend all the lodges in this country to obtain a copy for the lodge library before the work is bought up for America; and we believe that no Mason will rise from the perusal of its pages without a higher idea both of the historical truth and intrinsic value of Freemasonry, and of fraternal regard and recognition to the latest and not the least well-informed or effective of our Masonic historians. The present century has produced no such equal, in authority and usefulness, to the great work of our Bro. Findel, and we wish him and it, in all of fraternal sympathy and kindly intent, many earnest readers, and more grateful students."—The Masonic Magazine.

"This volume is the history of Masonry par excellence Every interested person may regard it, therefore, as the present text-book on the subject."—Manchester Guardian

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1874.

SCOTTISH FREEMASONRY.

We have been struck, as we think all our readers will have been, with a very able letter, which appeared in our impression of Sept. 12th, signed "Scoticus Masonicus." That letter is marked, in our opinion, not only by much ability and power, but by an especially straightforward way of placing the true state of the case before all thoughtful and zealous Freemasons. For, to say the truth, the state of Scottish Freemasonry has long been a subject of deep regret to many of our readers over the border. We have long felt how very unsatisfactory and anomalous was the position alike of the lodges and brethren in that fine country, and where so many good Masons do undoubtedly reside. Why are we to be so regular, and careful and precise, in England? Why are we to be so well managed and so financially prosperous, when just across the borderline, if we wish to see anything of Masonry, we find a completely different state of things, which in some respects is a matter of deep astonishment and deeper regret to us "Cannie Southrons"? Now "Scoticus Masonicus," give us the true key to the weakness and deficiency of Scottish Masonry. If it be true that his view is not a novel one, as we have alluded to it more than once ourselves, and our able Bro. Hughan has done the same, we yet never before remember to have seen the real state of the case put so lucidly, so forcibly, and so convincingly. But how in truth can Scottish Masonry or any other Masonry flourish under such a mistaken system? In the first place, financially, it is utterly wrong. The Scotch Lodges, and the Scotch Grand Lodge are living on their capital, not upon their income. Their "increment" of returns is very small indeed, and all that the Grand Lodge has to depend upon are the fees of office, small amounts for registration, &c., and the payments for new warrants, not many. The private lodges have no income except what arises from the initiation fees, which in many lodges are ludicrously small. Hence, in order "to make the two ends meet," they have to have recourse to frequent "emergency" lodges for initiation, and this hurried system precludes necessarily any very strict enquiry into character, and many brethren are initiated, and passed, and raised in Scotland, who never visit their mother lodge again, and from whom that lodge receives no further alimant of any kind. It is true that lodges in Scotland can have an annual subscription, if they will, but we fancy "Scoticus Masonicus" is right when he says you can count on your fingers those lodges which do so, as the Scottish Masonic mind is very much averse to an annual subscription. The consequence is that all Masonic charity is dwarfed and stunted in Scotland to a degree quite out of character with its kind-hearted people, and above all with the real wishes and intentions of our many warm-hearted brethren there. Scottish Masonry has no benevolent fund, of any value or importance, to show as a proof of the zeal and sincerity of its members. It has a benevolent fund, which however, is, as it were, rather a God-send to the financially crippled condition of the Grand Lodge, than available for any effective purpose of Masonic benevolence. The simple fact that in nineteen months it distributes £450 to 109 applicants, an average of £4.10 each, besides £11 disbursed in casual charities, speaks volumes as to the dormant condition of Scottish Masonic Charity. Some of the Provincial Grand Lodges have also benevolent funds, but the sums they distribute are alike so small and casual. We in England have our remembrances of applicants for relief, travelling from lodge to lodge, who, in nine cases out of ten, were Scotch Masons, and who, having been made Masons for a very small sum originally, and who, clearly ought never to have been admitted into our Order at all, had become Masonic vagrants. All the Northern provinces of England, and indeed the Midland, can testify to the same state of affairs, equally prevalent, and equally deplorable. It is said, there is grievance without reform, no ailment without cure. So we say to day to the Grand Lodge of Scotland, reform at once your present weak and defective system. Make all the members of Scottish Masonry pay a subscription to a lodge, and the fact of being a subscribing member to a lodge be the test of admission to Grand Lodge. Let each Levy annually a payment from each lodge we do, to be divided between your general purposes and your fund of benevolence, and will soon reap the benefit of the change, and a truer system of Masonry generally, and returning financial prosperity. It may be, there are some difficulties in the way, but the Scottish Grand Lodge only will adopt the motto "obsta principiis," it will ere long animate Scottish Masonry with a better system and a higher tone altogether of work and duty.

APPROACHING ELECTIONS OF BOYS' AND GIRLS' SCHOOLS.

We have received the voting papers for the next election of these excellent institutions, and we think that our remarks on the case contain may not be uninteresting to our readers. At the election of 1874, the to be filled up. At the April election this year, we may remember, 16 girls were elected from a list of 31 candidates. Of the 29 candidates for the October election, 14 are applicants for the first time. It is also important to note, that of these 29 candidates, 11 are from London, and 18 are from the provinces; and of these provinces, Kent has 3, East Lancashire 2, Hampshire and Isle of Wight 2, and Suffolk 2 candidates; while South Wales, Devon, Lincolnshire, South Africa, Staffordshire, Calcutta, Cornwall, Surrey, and Warwickshire, put forward 1 candidate each. For the Boys' School election, October 12th, out of 44 candidates, 13 are to be elected. At the last election, 15 boys were elected, out of 52 candidates. Of the 44 candidates for election in October, 18 apply for the first time. It is also instructive to remember that of these 44 candidates, 14 are from London, and 30 from the provinces. Hampshire and the Isle of Wight have 3 candidates, East Lancashire 2, West Yorkshire 2, Durham 2, Kent 2, Devonshire 2, North Wales and Salop 2, and St. Helena, Gibraltar, East Indies, Foreign Stations, Lincolnshire, Hong Kong, Gloucestershire, Oxfordshire, Derbyshire, Dorsetshire, Cambridgeshire, Norfolk, Cumberland, Northamptonshire, and South Wales 1 each. Now these, both as regards the Girls' and Boys' Schools, are very remarkable facts and figures, and suggest some special considerations, which, on an early occasion, we may think well to advert to. But today we will content ourselves with observing how very incontestably these voting papers convince us of the need and importance—may we not say the increasing need of these educational institutions of ours? The present position of our Order is one of unprecedented material prosperity, and numerical increase, but that very prosperity, and that very increase inevitably bring upon us still more abounding claims on our active Masonic sympathy and charity. May 1774 and 1875 witness the same unflagging zeal, and the same meritorious efforts on behalf of these two admirable institutions, the Boys' and Girls' Schools.

Little indeed did Freemasons in general, or even those assembled to hear the letter of the Marquis of Ripon, conceive the severity of the blow which had fallen upon them, and how that the truth is known in its entirety, a shock seems almost too great to be endured. The resignation alone of a Grand Master, who by his zeal for Masonry, unabated while he filled one of the highest offices of the State, and by his courtesy and affability towards those with whom he became officially connected, endeared himself to all his brethren, and gained a strong hold upon their affection and esteem, could have been received with feelings of the deepest sorrow, but when we learn that the man who so heartily deplores has been occasioned the alliance of our noble brother with the enemies of the Craft, whose undying love for our Order has from time to time prompted them to publish the most unjustifiable calumnies, and to utter the grossest perversions of the truth concerning us, then indeed the magnitude of our grief is increased tenfold, our sorrow is deepened with lamentation, and we are strained to cry out with the sweet singer of Israel, "How are the mighty fallen!" The importance of the occurrence can hardly be overrated. For the first time since the establishment of the Grand Lodge in 1717 has the Ruler of our Order become a Roman Catholic, and surrendered his moral liberty, that right so dear to and jealously guarded by Englishmen in general, to the keeping of his leaders in religion. And what is ostensibly the first sacrifice which they demand of their convert? It is nothing less than that he should sever himself from a body of men whose watchwords are charity and benevolence, whose aim and boast is to do good to their fellow creatures, and who are in possession of certain secrets which, for the purpose of keeping out unwelcome visitors and preventing the intrusion of impostors, they are in the habit of communicating in a peculiar manner. Verily, we Freemasons must be a dangerous lot! The help which we afford to those in distress—not, be it remembered, to members of our community alone—is called in question by the intolerant Church of Rome; our forms and ceremonies, harmless and unproductive of ill as our opponents know them to be, are stigmatized as unlawful and irreligious; and our instruction, for the most part conveyed in parables, as was the custom of One whose wisdom and goodness not even our slanderous assailants dare deny, is denounced by them as ungodly and impure. We cannot do better than quote the well known and forcible words of our Rev. Brother Osmond Dakeyne, which, though delivered thirty years ago, are still perfect in their truthful representation of an Institution "founded on the purest principles of piety and virtue." The speaker was referring to the charges which were then, as now, unjustly brought against us, and he proceeds—"Disloyal! Why at the very moment when Professor Robinson published his book, who were the heads of our Order; The chivalrous Earl of Moira, George, Prince of Wales, and Edward, Duke of Kent! Disloyal! Was not George the Fourth our Grand Master! Was not William the Fourth our brother and patron! Our last Grand Master was a Royal Duke! The Duke of York was one of our brotherhood. The King of Hanover is a Freemason. Would all these Princes have belonged to a disloyal society! Are we conspirators to overthrow settled institutions? Who is the present head of the army? The Duke of Wellington!—aye, the Duke of Wellington is a Freemason! Are we irreligious? The Archbishop of Canterbury, the Primate of all England, is a Freemason, and was once Master of Bristol lodge!" And these words, as they then were, in their bold enunciation of the truth, can at the present time be supplemented by many other royal and notable names, as witnesses to the loyalty to Throne and State, and the freedom from irreligion, nay more, the actual tendency to religious feeling which prevails in the working of our Lodges. Latterly the Romish Church, apparently afraid of the gigantic strides which Freemasonry has been making, and jealous of the wholesome teachings which it inculcates in its assemblies, has been by no means unsparing in its misrepresentation and attempts at coercion. Witness the uncalculated refusal of Mr. Cuffe to perform the burial service over the remains of a Member of our fraternity, and the scandalous and wholesale vilification of the Westminster Review. And now that by a blow in the dark, as it were, our head has been taken from us, it behoves us to consider what we should do. Shall we tamely submit to the aspersions of our foes, and quietly endure their slander and evil speaking? No! However much we grieve for what appears to us as the defection of the highest member of our Craft, it is our duty by earnest perseverance in our lawful work and steadfast adherence to the principles of our Order to refute the utterance of calumny, to "put to silence the ignorance of foolish men," and to prove to the world that Freemasons are loyal, honourable, and generous, and practise those sublime precepts which in other words they profess:—"Honour all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honour the King."

THE ROYAL VISIT TO PLYMOUTH.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

I have recently had my attention drawn to various articles and letters in the Freemason on the unfortunate exclusion from the Masonic procession of the non-commissioned officer brethren, on the occasion of the Royal visit to Plymouth last month:—

The two questions to be answered you say are: 1st. Who laid down as a regulation that our soldier brethren must appear in black coats, &c? 2nd. Was there any military prohibition of our soldier brethren marching in the procession?

In answer to the first of these questions, I should say no one laid down such a regulation. The committee numbered amongst its members more than one who knew full well the value to Masonry of these intellectual and highly disciplined brethren, the N.-C. officers of the army, and the regulations laid down by the committee to establish—wisely enough I think—a uniformity in the dress, were intended to apply to the civilian brethren alone, for it was well known by the committee, some of whom had been for many years connected with the service, that whilst to general officers commanding discretion is given by the Queen's regulations, to permit officers to wear plain clothes, no such discretionary power is given to extend the indulgence to N.-C. officers or men.

The custom of the service requires that soldiers shall appear in the public streets properly dressed in their uniforms. Your correspondent P.G.D. is quite right; it would be a military offence for an officer, N. C. officer, or private soldier to appear in a procession, with Masonic regalia worn over his uniform, unless previous permission had been obtained for his so appearing. Such permission has been accorded to the military on former occasions, and the committee had no doubt that the same indulgence would have been extended on the occasion referred to.

They universally regretted the absence of their military brethren.

Very fraternally yours,

J. ELLIOTT, Colonel,
P.P.G.H. & P.S.G.W. Devon.

Stonehouse, Devon, 9th September, 1874.

[Since the above was in type, we have received another and explanatory letter from Bro. Col. Elliott, of the letter we have just given, which we will print next week, as we have no spare space for it, unfortunately, this week, our columns being much crowded, and many communications having to stand over.—Ed.]

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Whatever may have been the alleged cause of the non-appearance of the military brethren at the recent Masonic public procession at Plymouth. I cannot help thinking that some of your correspondents on the subject have not viewed the matter quite in its right light.

The Queen's Regulations and Orders for the Army used to contain a paragraph forbidding officers and soldiers from belonging to secret societies. This has now disappeared, but in the present edition (31st Dec., 1873) you will find the following—"Soldiers are not to be permitted to go beyond the precincts of their barracks unless properly dressed." A Masonic apron, or collar, or badge, or jewel, is nowhere laid down as a part of their dress.

It appears that the Committee required the brethren to "take part in the procession," clothed according to the usual custom, this I take it was intended to refer not only to what is generally known amongst us as "Masonic Clothing," but also to the remaining portion of the usual proper attire of a Mason, when attending Masonic duty, black and white.

A man properly appearing in uniform and also wearing Masonic badges, is an anomaly, the combination of the two dresses involves a combination of two separate and distinct capacities. They are not Masons because they are soldiers, nor are they soldiers because they are Masons, and it is not in accordance with the fitness of things that the brethren should appear in public dressed as soldiers.

We feel quite sure that there has been no intention on the part of Bro. Hughan or the Committee to snub the Military Brethren, and I trust that the latter, on thinking over the matter, will see that as soldiers they could not have joined the procession, except in a manner not permitted by the regulations of the service, viz., in civilians' clothes, and I feel sure too that His Royal Highness's disappointment at their absence would give place to an unqualified approval of their conduct, on learning that their absence was caused by their disinclination to infringe the Queen's Regulations.

I have attended lodges in uniform with Masonic clothing superadded, but I should feel it wrong to appear in public in the combined uniforms, greatly as I honour both. My own experience tends to prove that instead of soldiers being looked down upon by the civilian brethren, they are everywhere regarded with the highest esteem, and civilians may in most cases learn a lesson from the simple, earnest, careful, and straightforward business-like manner in which our soldier brethren go about their work as Masons.

Yours fraternally,

C.B.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Supplementing "Leo's" letter in the Freemason of the 5th inst., I beg to say I have now before me the programmes of two Devon Provincial Grand Lodge meetings held at Barnstable on the 13th May, 1840, and 14th June, 1848, in each of which there is a foot-note to the "Order of Procession," in the following words—"The Brethren will be expected to appear in proper clothing, and to wear white gloves. Naval and Military Officers are requested to appear in their uniforms, and the Clergy in their gowns, with the hood appertaining to their Academic Degrees."

Clearly then, at the dates given, our Soldier Freemasons were not prohibited from appearing in Masonic processions by the "Queen's Regulations," or by the manifesto of either the Commander-in-Chief, or the General in command of the Western Counties. We are glad to observe from "Leo's" letter that no fault, with reference to the grievance, is attributable to the Committee of Management of the late magnificent gathering, but from whatever source the prohibition may have come (and we trust the source will be clearly traced), we are quite sure that all civilian masons must, and do, most sincerely sympathise with their military brethren in the harsh and unmerited treatment to which they have been subjected, and in the bitter disappointment they have been called upon to suffer.

Yours fraternally,

A DEVONSHIRE MASON

LODGE MINUTE BOOKS.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,

I enclose verbatim copy of a circular issued by the Prov. G. Secretary of West Lancashire. Will you kindly inform me if there is any power on the part of the Prov. G.M. to compel the W.M. of a lodge in his province, to send the minutes to a certain address, where they are to be retained for a week or more, much to the dissatisfaction of the lodge?

Yours fraternally,

AN OLD P.M.

"To the W.M. of Lodge No.—

"Worshipful Sir and Brother,—

"You are requested by the R.W.P.G.M. to send the Minute Book of your lodge by the 28th day of September next, securely packed and sealed, to the Masonic Hall, 22, Hope-street, Liverpool, (addressed to me), for examination by the R.W.P.G.M., and his examining officers. When the examination has taken place, and the books signed by the R.W.P.G.M., they will be returned at the Prov. Grand Lodge, on the 7th October, for which purpose it will be necessary for you to attend and receive back your Minute Book, or send some brother authorised to receive it.

"I remain yours fraternally,

"H. S. ALPASS,

"Prov. Grand Secretary.

"331, Park-road, August 25th, 1874."

[We are of opinion that the W.M. and lodge are bound to produce the Minute Book, &c., on the requisition of the P.G.M., at the place and special time stated, but the Book of Constitutions does not provide for such property being left. The W.M. has full power to take them away again, as they are the private property of the lodge.—ED.]

SECRECY OF FREEMASONRY.

To the Editor of the Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

You say in your leader of 5th inst., "that Freemasonry is, and professes to be, a 'secret society,' is a fact which, 'nobody can deny.'" Now, with all due respect, I do deny it. We as Freemasons are not a secret society. It is quite true we have secret words and signs, known only to the initiated, but that does not make us a secret society—and I have always maintained it—I have said, and I repeat, that any just and upright man properly introduced and vouched for as a respectable man, will be received in any lodge in England, without enquiry as to his religious or political opinions. How then can this be called joining a secret society? I see that you propose to refer to the subject again "at some convenient season." When you do so, pray do not call Freemasons a secret society.

Yours fraternally,

MAGNUS OHREN,
P.M. and P.Z.

OUR LATE GRAND MASTER.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

Dear Sir and Brother,—

Providing the Most Hon. the Marquis of Ripon does not communicate with those lodges of which he is honorary member, what course are those lodges to take. I am a member of a lodge of which he is honorary member; and perhaps you can inform me what to do under the peculiar circumstances.

By giving your opinion, or ventilating the subject in the Freemason you will oblige,
Yours faithfully and fraternally.

W.M.

[Probably, Lord Ripon will formally withdraw from all his Masonic obligations, till then it is clearly premature to take any steps in the matter of an honorary membership.—ED.]

Cultum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

RABBINICAL LITERATURE.

I have been expecting a further communication from the indefatigable Masonic student, Bro. the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, P.G.C., &c., and delayed thanking him for his interesting communication in the Freemason of August 22nd, in the hope that he would discover some more particulars respecting "Rabbinical Literature."

1. I remember most distinctly seeing in a work—Dr. Mackay's Magnum Opus I think (Encyclopædia of Masonry), that some English translations of the Talmud appeared in 1711, and one portion alluded to the "Hiram Abiff Legend."

I have searched without success so far for the paragraph, but will try again.

2. The information respecting Dr. Plot's Staffordshire, 1686, and 1st edition of Bro. Elias Ashmole's life, agrees my own researches, and I am glad to find Bro. Woodford confirms our previous statements as to the dates.

3. The "Masonic Notes and Queries" ought to be a well used department by the Craft.

WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.

THE NEW PORCH OF SWANSCOMBE CHURCH.

By the courtesy of Bro. Magnus Ohren we are enabled to give the following detailed account of the proceedings:—

A very interesting ceremony took place at Swanscombe, Kent, on Saturday last, when the memorial stone of the New Porch, which is being built by the "Erasmus Wilson" Lodge of Freemasons, was laid with full Masonic honours by their Worshipful Master. The circumstances attending the gathering were altogether exceptional, and attracted a large number of distinguished Masons and visitors, amongst whom was noticed Prince Rhodocanakis, Grand Master of Greece; the Provincial Grand Secretary; the Provincial Grand Superintendent of Works; and other Past Provincial Grand Officers. The Provincial Grand Master of Kent (Viscount Holmesdale), and his Deputy, W. Bro. Eastes, were unavoidably absent. The brethren assembled in their lodge room, at the Pier Hotel, at one o'clock, and then adjourned to Swanscombe, and having formed procession in the Rectory Grounds, proceeded to attend Divine Service at the Parish Church in the following order:—

The Tyler with drawn sword.

Brethren not members of any lodge in the County of Kent, two and two.

Brethren of Kentish Lodges, two and two.
Brethren of the Erasmus Wilson Lodge, two and two.

The Choral Director, Bro. Buckham,

The Architect with the Plans, Bro. Biguell, Cornucopia with Corn and Vessel with Coins,

—Bro. Treasurer

Two Ewers with Wine and Oil,—The Deacons.

The Malle; and Trowel,—The Secretary.

The Junior Warden, with Column and Plumb Rule

The Senior Warden, with Column and Level

The Chaplain bearing the Volume of the Sacred

Law on a velvet cushion.

Provincial Secretary of Kent.

The Worshipful Master, Erasmus Wilson, with the Square,

Past Masters.

Service at the church by the Rector, the Rev. T.

H. Candy, B.D., consisted of the usual evening service, to which was added two beautiful dedicatory prayers. The first lesson, 1 Kings, viii.

22 to 53 verse, was read by Bro. the Rev. C. A.

James, M.A., of Stone, and the second lesson,

Heb. vi. by the Rev. T. Blackburn, B.A., of Greenhithe. Two more appropriate chapters it would have been difficult to find in the whole of the sacred volume.

During the laying of the stone by the W.M. the following Hymn was sung:—

Here, Great God, to-day we offer

Of Thine own to Thee;

And for Thine acceptance proffer,

All unworthy

Hearts and minds and hands and voices,

In our choicest Melody.

Yea, we know Thy Love rejoices

O'er each work of Thine

Thou didst ears and hands and voices

For Thy praise combine,

Craftman's art and music's measure

For Thy pleasure didst design.

Honour, glory, might and merit,

Thine shall ever be;

Father, Son and Holy Spirit

Blessed Trinity!

Of the best that Thou hast given,

Earth and Heaven render Thee!

Amen.

The stone being lowered with three distinct stops, the W.M. standing on the East of the stone bearing the Square, H.I.H. Prince Rhodo-canakis, the Grand Master of Greece, on his right hand. The Wardens went to the level, and with them the Level.

The W.M. having proved the stone by the Mallet, Trowel and Square, the Wardens by the Level and Plumb Rule, it was pronounced all laid, the Deacons presented the Ewers containing the wine and oil to the W.M., which were poured out conformably to Ancient custom.

The Chaplain then offered a prayer and pronounced the Benediction, the proceedings being closed with the following Hymn:—

Praise to Thee, O! Master—Builder,
Maker of the Earth and Skies,
Praise to Thee, in whom Thy Temple,
Fity framed, together lies;
Praise to Thee, Eternal Spirit;
Binding all their lives in one,
Till our earthly praise be ended
And the eternal Song begun. Amen.

The ceremony being concluded the Worshipful Master addressed a few remarks full of deep feeling and congratulation to the Rector on the restoration of the Church. He expressed a hope that around its Altar an ever increasing throng of worshippers would assemble to sing praises to God whom they had that day delighted to honour with their work. He hoped that love, peace, and harmony would continue to tempt all who were engaged in carrying on the work in the Church. The work for which they assembled that day had given them all great assurance, and in the name of the Brethren of Erasmus Wilson Lodge, he bade him an affectionate farewell.

The Rector (who seemed highly gratified) gratefully acknowledged the kindness of the W.M. and Brethren of the Erasmus Wilson Lodge in undertaking the work they had brought to such a happy conclusion that day.

A photograph of the members of the lodge was then taken by Messrs. Watkins and Haigh, 113, Regent-street, London.

The brethren and visitors, accompanied by the ladies, then repaired to the marquee in the story grounds, where luncheon was served by Messrs. Wingrove, of the Pier Hotel, Greenhithe; the brethren afterwards returning to Greenhithe to close the lodge.

The stone bore the following inscription:—
This stone was laid and the Porch rebuilt, 1874, by the brethren of the Erasmus Wilson Lodge, Freemasons, No. 1464, as a tribute of affection to their First Master, Erasmus Wilson, Esq.

The mallet used in laying the stone was kindly lent for the occasion by the Lodge of St. Andrew, and was the one given to Sir Christopher Wren by Charles the Second, having been used by his Majesty on the occasion of his laying the foundation stone of St. Paul's Cathedral, London. A silver trowel was presented to the retiring Master, on which was engraved the following inscription:—

Presented to Professor Erasmus Wilson, Esq., First Master of the Erasmus Wilson Lodge, No. 1464, by the brethren of the Erasmus Wilson Lodge, on the occasion of his laying the foundation stone in the Porch of Swanscombe Church, Kent, Saturday, August 29th, 1874. The stone being lowered to its resting place, a bottle was placed underneath it, containing the following mementoes:—
A silver coin of the current year; a silver coin of the current year; a copy of the "Times"; a copy of the "Greenhithe Magazine"; a piece of vellum, on which was inscribed the particulars relative to the laying of the foundation stone; and a list of the brethren of the Erasmus Wilson Lodge who assisted at the ceremony. The erection of the Porch, as well as the restoration of the church, is being carried out in the direction of Bro. Jabez Bignell, architect, who presented to Erasmus Wilson, on the occasion of the laying of the stone, a beautiful perspective of the new Porch.

The arrangements for carrying out the ceremony were entrusted to Bro. F. C. W. Atkinson, Treasurer, and Bro. A. Keep, Hon. Sec. The lodge whose efforts were most successful, whose services will long be remembered with gratitude, not only by the brethren of their lodge, but by all who were present and shared the benefit of their labours.

Hodges, P.G.D.C., &c., &c. Letters apologising for not being present were received from Bro. Earl Methuen, Bros. Goldney (Chippenham), the Rev. C. R. Davy, D. Bush, W. W. Beach, and many others.

At the conclusion of the meal, the noble Chairman proposed the toasts of "The Queen and Craft," and "H.R.H. Prince of Wales, K.G., P.G.M. of England."

The Right Hon. Lord Carnarvon said that he found himself for the first time in great difficulty in proposing the toast of the "Grand Master of England," as there was no Grand Master at present in existence. All the brethren had no doubt heard that the Marquis of Ripon had tendered his resignation as the M.W. Grand Master of England on Wednesday last, and that resignation had been accepted. He greatly regretted the fact of that resignation, but he thought it was not for the Grand Lodge or any other body of Masons to inquire into the resignation which Lord Ripon had thought fit to specify, but whilst regretting so unusual a course, which he believed to be so unusual as to be unprecedented in the annals of Masonry; yet, extraordinary as the present state of affairs is, he believed that whatever powers existed and whatever functions had to be performed, they all devolved upon him. But whilst those functions continued to exist he was glad to say that although there existed no Grand Master of England there was a past Grand Master, in the person of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, than whom no one had taken a more lively interest in Masonry. He had therefore undertaken to convey to H.R.H. the desire of the members of the Grand Lodge that he should entertain their request to assume those powers which now devolved upon him. It would be for his Royal Highness to exercise his own discretion; but it was a duty as agreeable to himself as he felt it was consonant with the wishes of the whole Craft, whether in London or in the country, that his Royal Highness should be requested to assume the duties.

General Doherty then gave the toasts of "The R.W.D. Grand Master of England, the Earl of Carnarvon, and the rest of the Grand Officers, past and present," and "The R.W.P.G.M. of Somerset, the Earl of Carnarvon." The toast was received with due Masonic honours.

The healths of "The V.W.D.P.G.M. of Somerset, Captain H. Bridges, and the rest of the P.G. Officers, past and present," and "The Visiting Brethren," were both proposed by Earl Carnarvon, and duly acknowledged. The Earl Carnarvon then vacated the chair, having to leave the city, and in the absence of D.C.D., Bro. General Doherty took the chair. Bro. Binckes (of London) acknowledged the toast of "The Masonic Charities." The other toasts were "The W.M.'s, Wardens, and Brethren of the Bath Lodges, Nos. 41, 53, and 379," "The W.M.'s, Wardens, and Brethren of the other Lodges in the Province," "The Stewards," "The Secretary," and finally "The Tyler's Toast." The whole of the arrangements were entrusted to the following gentlemen on behalf of the three Bath lodges:—J. W. Preston, W.M.; T. Wilton, P.P.G.J.W.; J. Rubie, P.P.G.J.W.; R. Carey, P.M.; George Helps, W.M.; R. D. Commins, P.P.G.S.W.; J. M. Shum, P.P.G.S.W.; H. E. Doherty, P.P.S.G.D.; C. Phillips, W.M.; C. E. Davis, P.M.; H. Gore, S.W.; and H. C. Hopkins.

CONSECRATION OF ST. ELETH LODGE (No. 1488) AT AMLWCH.

It will be gratifying to the Masonic Fraternity at home and abroad, to find that the tenets and principles of the Craft are so rapidly extending, and that the number of lodges, and the members of those lodges, continue steadily to increase. We record, with much pleasure, the opening of a new lodge in a somewhat remote corner of the Island of Anglesey. This forms the third in the county, of which its scattered population numbers less than 60,000. It had been announced by circular and otherwise that the R.W. Bro. Sir Watkin Williams Wynne, Bart., M.P., P.G.M., would inaugurate and consecrate a Masonic Lodge at Amlwch, to be called "The Saint Eleth, No. 1488," on Thursday, the third day of September, 1874. In the warrant obtained from the Grand Lodge of London, the following names appear, Bros. R. T. Philips, W.M. Designate; B. Roose, S.W. Designate; H. Hills, J.W. Designate. Every possible preparation had been made for the auspicious event, and the weather, which was beautiful and bright, seemed to conspire with all other contingencies in making the day joyous and happy. A number of Masons, and a crowd of non-Masons were waiting, with considerable anxiety, the arrival of the two o'clock train, by which the R.W.P.G.M. and other distinguished brethren were to come. It came at last. The Provincial Grand Officers, and a goodly number of the brethren, proceeded forthwith to the Castle Hotel, where the lodge is to be held. In due time the Consecrating Officer, Bro. Dr. Goldsborough, took the chair, appointed S. and J.W.'s pro. tem., and opened the lodge in the three degrees.

After preliminary arrangements the R.W.P.G.M. Master and P.G. Officers having entered, Sir Watkin opened the Provincial Grand Lodge, and the beautiful and impressive ceremony of consecration was proceeded with in a most solemn and effective manner. It was enlivened by music, consisting of a voluntary, Ps. cxxxiii. (St. Stephen's), a number of suitable responses, and an anthem, prior to installation and investment of W.M. and officers, Bro. Thomas, of Bangor, ably presiding at the harmonium.

The R.W.P.G.M. having closed the Provincial Grand Lodge, the following brethren were by unanimous consent installed to preside over the destiny of the newly-opened Lodge St. Eleth, No. 1488.—Bros. R. T. Philips, S.W. 1113, J.W. 755, and W.M. 1488; B. Roose, J.D. 1113, and S.W. 1488; Charles H. Hills, I.G.

1113, and J.W. 1488; James Treweek, 1113, 957, Sec. 1488; E. M. Jones, 597, and S.D. 1488; Charles S. Dyer, 597, and J.D. 1488; Rev. Henry Lloyd, 1113, and Chaplain 1488; John Hughes, 1113, and I.G. 1488; Thomas Richard, 1113, and Steward 1488; Thomas F. Evans, Treas. 1488.

The presiding, or consecrating Bro., Dr. Goldsborough, shone as much in this as in the former part, and after all charges, and other details had been gone through, the Craft Lodge was closed in due form.

The brethren then formed into procession, in full regalia, and in the usual Masonic fashion, from the lodge room to the Dinorben Arms, 53 in number. Their respective names, not including those already mentioned in connection with the new lodge are herein subjoined.—Bros. Sir. W. W. Wynn, Bart., M.P., P.G. 17, R.W.P.G.M. of North Wales and Shropshire; Dr. W. G. Goldsborough, P.M. 202, 998, P. Prov. G.S.W. of North Wales and Shropshire, and P.M. of 1113, 1143, &c.; Wm. Bulkeley Hughes, M.P., P. Prov. G.S.W., and W.M. St. Tudno, 775; Charles Hunker, P.G.M.G. Aberdeenshire East, and P.G.W. of Greece; Charles Dutton, P.S.G.W. Cheshire; T. C. Roden, P.M. 43, 482, 606, and 755, P. Prov. S.G.W. Warwick; John Peters, P.G.S.D., P.M. and Treasurer 597, Comp. 241; J. B. Hyde, P.G. Tyler; J. B. Boucher, W.M. 117; W. L. Banks, W.M. Eastern Division; Thomas Hathaway, P.G.S.; George L. Woodley, P.G.S.W.; J. Lloyd Griffith, P.M., Sec. 597, 1113; John K. Elias, 1113; Dr. Wynne Williams, I.G. 384; John Mason Hadden, I.G. 755; William Jarvis, I.G. St. David's, 384; R. Rowlands, S.D. 384; Watson Robinson, W.M. 384; D. Cameron, 384; William Pritchard, 384; A. F. Snelson, St. Cybi, S.D. 597; John Ellis, W.M. 597; J. Phillips, 597; William Jones, 597; Owen R. Ellis, J.W. pro. tem. 597; O. W. Jones, B.A., S.W. and Chaplain 597; A. Jones Brereton, S.W. 1477; Alfred E. J. Watson, St. Tudno 755; W. S. Penny, S.D. 755; T. R. Peel, St. David's, Sec. 1147; David R. Davies, 1264; John R. Wilson, 1182; John H. Wilson, 1182; R. H. Williams, Anglesey, P.M. and Chaplain 1113; A. Walker, St. Oswald, 1124; James Neven, Segontium, 606; J. H. Warrington, Anglesey, 1113; Wm. Evans, P.M. 1113; Rev. T. Lloyd Kyffin, J.W. 1113; Salmon, M.M.; Sir Watkin, 1477.

The procession was watched by a numerous concourse of spectators, to whom it would seem the chief source of attraction was "Sir Watkin," who, we may state, never appeared more princely in his life. The dinner was provided by the Misses Hughes, and could hardly be surpassed in any respect. The tables were literally groaning under their heavy burden of delicacies, in quantity abundant, in quality excellent, and extremely well prepared. The blessing having been asked by the Rev. O. W. Jones, B.A., Chaplain 597, there was a general set to, each one vying with his neighbour in the enjoyment of the several dishes.

Dessert being well-nigh over, and the Prov. Grand Officers and others having to depart by the 7 p.m. train, Sir Watkin, who presided, commenced with the usual Masonic toasts as follows—

After a brief address, "The Queen and the Craft," response, "God Save the Queen," lustily sung. "His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales," heir-apparent to the Crown, &c., responded to with Masonic honours. "God Bless the Prince of Wales," sung with remarkable spirit.

The "Grand Lodge of England," coupled with the G.M. of the Masonic fraternity in this country. The R.W.P.G.M. expressed his deepest regret, that, owing to some reasons of which he did not venture, as yet, to express an opinion, that distinguished nobleman had resigned the office he so honourably held for a number of years. He had been faithful in the execution of his Masonic duties, and unquestionably had done much good as regards individual cases of charity, and the Order in general. He (Sir Watkin) trusted that good fellowship, charity, and the other virtues inculcated by the Craft had not been disturbed by his somewhat sudden and unexpected resignation. At present, H.R. Highness the Prince of Wales was nominally acting in that high capacity. He, however, had great pleasure in proposing as a toast, the health of Lord Ripon, Lord Carnarvon, and prosperity to the Grand Lodge of England, responded to Masonically.

Bro. Bulkeley Hughes, M.P., P.P.G.S. &c. then rose to propose the health of Sir Watkin. He highly eulogised his career throughout, as a Christian and as a Mason; always overflowing with those excellent virtues commended and binding upon every individual member of the brotherhood. It did not matter in what circle his noble friend and brother turned, he always added grace, dignity, and lustre to it. He was verily a Prince in Wales. He (Bro. W. B. Hughes) hoped the brethren would all unite in drinking his jolly good health, and he trusted that his valuable life would be long spared to him, and that they should see another Sir Watkin, in time to come, occupying the same prominent position, which he held now.

"Can Sir Watkin?" by Bro. Cletter Jones.

Sir Watkin in responding, observed that he had visited most parts of North Wales, and hoped this would not be his last visit to Amlwch. After expressing his gratification at the reception he had received from the brethren, and his heartfelt joy at the progress Masonry was making in this province, as well as in other places—new lodges multiplying—old lodges flourishing, &c., &c. He proposed the health of Provincial G. Officers, coupling with the toast Bro. W. B. Hughes, M.P., &c.

Bro. B. Hughes delivered a very telling and appropriate response. His reasons for coming to Amlwch on this occasion and embracing membership in so many lodges, were to do good to his fellow men, to elevate his fellow creatures to a standard, if possible, of every moral and social virtue. He was, like his worthy and noble friend, proud to see so many new lodges coming into existence. They could never, in his opinion, become too numerous. He would like to see a lodge in every parish, if it were possible, as the pure principles of Masonry could not possibly be too widely disseminated; there was but one grand object in view, and if all the brethren worked together, and pulled together, that could be achieved.

"The prosperity of the Lodge of St. Eleth, coupled with the W.M., Bro. R. T. Phillips and Officers." After a few congratulatory expressions, it was announced that time, tide, and the train, "would wait for no one."

The W.M. responded in brief, but very suitable terms, and before resuming his seat, proposed the health of Lady Wynne, which was received with enthusiasm. Sir Watkin responded in behalf of his lady.

The next toast, proposed from the chair, was "The R.W.P.G.M. of East Aberdeenshire, and P.G.W. of Greece, Bro. Charles Hunker." Sir Watkin thanked him most cordially for his much esteemed presence at the first gathering of the St. Eleth Lodge. Toast drank with Masonic honours.

This celebrated gentleman responded, thanking the R.W.P.G. Master of North Wales and Shropshire, and the brethren all, for the great kindness they had shown him. He was glad to find a Masonic lodge founded, and established, he hoped, at Amlwch; and sincerely trusted it would prosper.

This brought the chief Masonic toasts to a close, as it was well-nigh train-time. Sir Watkin was escorted to the station by the brethren, a great crowd following in the wake.

The few who returned to the banquet room, spent a couple of very pleasant hours in social toasts, songs, and recitations,—thanks to the hostesses forming not the least prominent feature of the concluding scene. Bro. Treweek responded in her behalf. This rather lengthy report must come to an end, with the half untold; but from has been already stated, it will easily be understood that this inauguration meeting of the St. Eleth Lodge proved a great success in every respect, and augurs well for its future.

HISTORY OF CLEVELAND AND ITS VICINAGE.

being an Historical, Topographical, and Statistical Account of the past and present state of each Parish, Township, and Hamlet within the Wapentake of Lancaashire, and the Boroughs of Whitby and Stockton-on-Tees; the Soil, Produce, Manufactures, Antiquities, Natural Curiosities, and Benefit Societies; with copious Pedigrees of the principal Families. Memoirs of Memorable Men, careful Chronicles of the most Remarkable Events, Notices of the Manners and Customs, Sports and Pastimes, Legends and Superstitions, and a Glossary of the North York Dialect.

BY BRO. GEORGE MARKHAM TWEDDELL, Fellow of the Royal Historical Society; of the Societies of Antiquaries of Scotland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne; of the Royal Society of Northern Antiquaries, Copenhagen, &c.

To be completed in 32 Parts at 6d. each (or by Book-post 7d).

In addition to nearly all the fine Woodcuts given in Ord's History, the Work is illustrated by numerous other Engravings, executed specially for it; is neatly printed, with a new type, on good paper; and contains all the information to be derived from previous histories of the district, with a mass of other curious particulars relating both to the Past and to the Present, collected by the Author during the last thirty years. A chapter on the Geology of Cleveland has been kindly contributed by Professor Phillips, and the manuscript information collected by the late Mr. Justice Temple for his long-projected History of Cleveland (including some useful communications by the late learned Archdeacon Todd), has been obligingly placed at the Author's disposal.

FUND FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE WIDOW OF THE LATE W. BRO. J. R. STEBBING, P.G.D (ENGLAND) AND D. PROV. G.M.

PRESIDENT.—The Right Worshipful W. W. B. BEECH, M.P., Provincial Grand Master.

At a meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge, recently held at Landport, it was unanimously resolved that a Committee be appointed for the purpose of raising a fund, to provide a suitable memorial to our late deeply-lamented Bro. Stebbing.

In pursuance of the foregoing resolution, a meeting was held at Southampton, which was largely attended, when the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:—

"That the Lodges and Chapters of the Province and Freemasons generally be solicited to subscribe to a fund, to be appropriated as the Committee shall determine, for the benefit of the Widow of our late lamented Bro. J. R. Stebbing, whose circumstances at the time of his decease render this appeal absolutely necessary."

"That copies of these resolutions be forwarded to each Lodge and Chapter in the Province, inviting their co-operation, as well as that of Brethren and Companions generally, in obtaining subscriptions to the fund."

"That a circular stating the circumstances be also transmitted to all other Lodges and Chapters in England."

The name of the late Bro. J. R. Stebbing is so well known in all Masonic circles that it seems unnecessary to set forth at length his long and valuable services. For many years he was a constant attendant at Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter, assisting the interests of the Brethren and Companions. He was Vice-President of the Board of General Purposes in 1861, 1862 and 1863, and also an active member of the Building Committee of the present Freemasons' Hall, London.

He was rarely absent from the elections in the various Charities, giving his valuable aid to the poor and distressed amongst the brethren and their relatives, contributing from his means to the advancement of those charities, in which he had qualified as Vice-Patron of the Boys' School, Life Governor of the Girls' School, and Life Governor of the Benevolent Institution; and it is sincerely hoped that the Widow of one who was so actively engaged for the benefit of others (herself a Life-Governor of the Boys' School) should be placed in circumstances which will assist her in her present unexpected bereavement.

Subscriptions in aid of this fund may be transmitted to the Treasurer, Aldermoor House, near Southampton; or to his bankers, Messrs. Maddison, Atherly, Hankinson, and Darwin, Southampton.

W. HICKMAN, Treasurer. J. E. LE FEVRE, Secretary.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC

COUGH ELIXIR.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC

COUGH ELIXIR.

Opium, Narcotics, and Squills are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs, and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancer," says: "I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued cough, pain, and irritation of the chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Cough, Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Indigestion, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold in bottles at 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, by all respectable Chemists, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist, Scarborough.

"I have read and heard read Crosby's Price Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be had gratis of all Chemists.

REPORTS OF MASONIC MEETINGS.

Craft Masonry.

PLYMOUTH.—Lodge of Fortitude (No. 105).—The above lodge met on Monday evening, 15th inst., at the Huyshe Masonic Temple, there was a full attendance of the brethren, Bro. Robert B. Twose, W.M., was supplied by the whole of his officers. The lodge opened by the W.M., and the minutes having read and approved, W. Bro. James Stevens, W.M. of Great City Lodge, and a member of the Lodge of Fortitude, being present, by the W.M., occupied the chair of K.S., for the purpose of performing the ceremonies in the first and second degrees. Brother Griffin passed to the degree of F.C., Brother Stevens (the acting W.M.) concluding the immense ceremony by delivering the lengthy oration on geometry peculiar to this portion of the craft working. Mr. John S. Roach, after being duly balloted for and accepted as a member of Freemasonry, was introduced in an appropriate manner and duly initiated into the Order, as proposed by V.W. Bro. S. Jew, and seconded by James Rowe, P.M., Secretary. On the proposition of Brother John Northey, seconded by the Senior Warden, a ballot then took place for Bro. John S. Gray, of Loyalty Lodge, Plymouth, as a joining member; and Bro. Robert B. Twose, W.M., who was in attendance, was admitted. After reading the chair, and on its being resumed by Bro. Robert B. Twose, W.M.; the thanks of the lodge were voted by acclamation to W. Bro. James Stevens for his interesting services on the occasion, in acknowledging which he expressed his pleasure and gratification in having the opportunity to attend the lodge, and the honour which had been accorded to him in being requested to perform the ceremonies. The same were also most cordially passed to V.W. Bro. S. Jew, for the very efficient manner in which he had performed the onerous duties devolved upon him at the recent Masonic demonstration.

He (Bro. Jew) has also taken a very active part in assisting the Deputy Provincial Grand Master in collecting subscriptions for the building of the new wing to the Royal British Orphan Asylum. At the supper, the usual toasts were given, and altogether a most pleasant evening was passed.

PLYMOUTH.—St. John's Lodge, (No. 221).—The 15th meeting of this lodge was held on Monday, the 16th inst., at the Commercial Hotel, at seven o'clock in the evening. There was a very large attendance of members of the lodge, and amongst the visitors was Samuel Walker, of Radcliffe, who had been active Mason for 42 years, and now in receipt of the receipt of an annuity from the Benevolent Institution. The lodge opened promptly at 6 o'clock, every member present, viz., Bro. W. H. J. Jones, Bro. Grime, S.W.; Bro. Rutter, J.W.; and a large array of Past Masters, including G. P. Brockbank, P. Prov. S.G.D., and Bro. Entwisle, P. Prov. Superintendent of Works, and Bro. J. W. Taylor, Prov. G. Organist. The lodge having been opened, and ordinary business transacted, proceeded to the third degree, when Bros. Aldred and Stead were raised to the degree of Master Mason by Bro. Entwisle, the concluding portion of the ceremony being very effectively rendered by Bro. Thomas Mitchell, an old Past Master of the lodge. At the proceedings subsequent to the banquet, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, and in reply to the "Masonic Charities," Bro. Brockbank announced that he had now twenty members in that lodge who had become life subscribers or governors to one or more of these institutions, and that he had succeeded in obtaining the services of one brother in the lodge to serve as Steward for each of the charities for 1875, viz., Bro. Rutter for the Benevolent Institution, Bro. Green for the Boys' School, and Bro. Entwisle for the Girls' School. The pleasure of the brethren was greatly enhanced by the musical treat given by many of the number who, under the able guidance of Bro. Taylor, Director of Ceremonies, and Bro. Staton, Organist, contributed materially to the enjoyment of a very pleasant and happy re-union.

PARNMURE LODGE (No. 720).—This lodge met for its duties at the Balham Hotel, Balham, on Monday evening last, when there were present, Bro. Henry Payne, W.M.; C. Pulman, S.W.; W. Withall, S.W.; G. Lilley, Treasurer; Henry F. Huntley, P.M., Secretary; D. Trusler, S.D.; Thomas Poore, P.M.; James Stevens, P.M. and W.M. 1426; B. Richardson, Smith, C. P. McKay, W. Cole, T. Kirtland, T. Broadbridge, T. E. Biddlecome, and Dr. Moore. The following visitors also attended:—W. Steedman, 754, F.M.; Geo. Mead, 1328, W.M.; and E. A. Frances, 4. The minutes of the last lodge meeting, and of the lodge of emergency, were read and confirmed. Bro. C. P. McKay was passed, having been initiated at the previous meeting. Bros. J. E. Biddlecome and T. Kirtland were raised. A discussion then took place with respect to the arranging of the proposed musical portion of the ceremonies, but the question was adjourned. Two propositions were received for initiation at the next meeting. Among the other Masonic business which came under the consideration of the lodge was the granting of Boys' votes to Bro. Stevens for the son of a late P.M. of the lodge, which was agreed to. There were no toasts nor songs at the banquet, held at the close of the meeting, and the whole of the proceedings terminated at a comparatively early hour.

WALTHAM NEW TOWN.—King Harold Lodge (No. 1327) held its monthly meeting on the 15th September, at the Britannia Hotel, Waltham New Town. There was a numerous attendance of the brethren. The lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Middleton was passed to the second degree. The election of the W.M., Treasurer, and Tyler for the ensuing year then took place. Bro. Charles Lacy, P.M., P.G.J.D. Herts, was elected as W.M. Bro. Barwick, who has filled the office of Treasurer since the foundation of the lodge in 1870, was re-elected. Bro. Steedman was re-elected Tyler. A Past Master's jewel, together with five guineas to purchase a life vote in one of the Masonic charities was voted to Bro. J. K. Young, the W.M., who has, during his year of office, given entire satisfaction, both as regards the management of the lodge, and also the zeal and ability with which he performed the several duties of his office. A Past Master's jewel was voted for Bro. W. C. Barnes, junior, who served the office of W.M. in the King Harold Lodge for ten months in the years 1871-2, and who worked very energetically in the formation of the lodge, but was obliged to resign before serving his full year, in consequence of being about to settle in Canada. The death of Bro. James Martin Austin, proprietor of the Swan and Pike Inn, Enfield Lock, on the 26th ult., was announced to the lodge, and the Secretary was instructed to address a letter of condolence to Mrs. Austin, expressing the regret and sympathy of the King Harold Lodge at her recent sad loss. The business of the meeting was brought to a close, and the lodge was closed in perfect harmony. The brethren present were Bro. J. K. Young, W.M.; Bro. J. W. H. Evans, S.W.; Bro. W. Gilbert, J.W.; Bro. E. West, P.M.; P.P.G.S.D. Herts; Bro. C. Lacy, P.M., P.G.J.D. Herts, the W.M. elect; Bro. E. Parker, P.M., P.P.G.P. Herts; Bro. James Barwick, Treasurer; Bro. Thos. Reilly, Sec.; Bro. W. Moony, S.D.; Bro. Tydeman, J.D.; Bro. Holmes, I.G.; Bro. Steedman, Tyler; Bro. Calvert, Cole, Cox, Creed, Bull, Eversfield, Fisher, Hodges, Jacobs, Kent, Imrie, Leemsden, Middleton, Malcolm, Noyes, Pritchett, Price, Sheldon, Skinner, Shepherd, Robinson, Soul, and Wyatt.

LEYTONSTONE.—Beacontree Lodge (No. 1228).—The last meeting of the season of the above lodge was held in the Masonic Rooms, Red Lion Hotel, Leytonstone, on Monday last, on which occasion Bro. W. Mundy was installed in the chair of K.S. The ceremony was efficiently performed by Bro. Alcock, P.M. of the lodge. Mr. Jas. Gallagher was subsequently initiated into the mysteries of the Order by the newly installed W.M., in a most impressive manner. At the close of the business the brethren adjourned for refreshment, and sat down to an excellent repast, prepared by the host, Bro. Thos. Barford, in the best style. The lodge was honoured by a goodly attendance of visitors, among them Bro. Hervey, Grand Secretary.

IVY LODGE (No. 1441).—The brethren belonging to this youthful and vigorous offshoot of Metropolitan Freemasonry, were summoned to attend to their duties on Tuesday, the 15th inst., at the Windsor Castle Tavern, Southwark Bridge-road, on repairing to which hostelry the brethren were gratified to find that during the recess, the spirited proprietor, Bro. Block, had made some extensive and very much wanted improvements in the lodge accommodation, which is now equal to all which is likely to be demanded for some years to come. The lodge on this occasion was announced for 6.30, and the officers and candidates were particularly requested to be punctual in their attendance, a request, which we regret, was not more rigidly attended to, the consequence being that the W.M. was unable to proceed to the duties of the evening until nearly eight o'clock, and although only the second and third ceremonies were worked, owing to the scrupulous and careful manner in which every candidate receives his various degrees in the Ivy Lodge, it was long after ten o'clock before the lodge was closed, and considerably after eleven before the cold collation which succeeded could possibly be served. We hope some pressure will be put on future candidates to obviate this unseemly delay. We have before now, in these columns, bore cheerful testimony to the excellence of the working of the Ivy Lodge, by Bro. Charles Smith, W.M., and his talented officers. The working of the two degrees this evening was up to the former high standard, being listened to with the greatest interest by many brethren to whom every syllable uttered was as familiar to them as their own names. The ceremonies were beautifully rendered, the various candidates for the third degree, as we have already stated, being separately introduced. Propositions of fresh candidates were made before the lodge was closed. Besides the W.M., there were present Bros. G. Mattock, S.W.; J. J. Cattle, J.W.; E. Thurkle, Treasurer; C. S. Jolly, W.M. 87, Secretary; C. F. Poupard, S.D.; L. Cornelison, J.D.; and many others. Also Bros. J. Ashwell, 22; Laing, P.M.; 45; E. Harris, P.M. and Treasurer, 73; G. Morris, P.M. 73; W. M. Robinson, 87; E. Farwig, 189; W. P. Drew, 749; D. S. Stewart, 1158; C. C. King, 1321; and others.

P.E. Preceptor; Richard Brown, Prelate; J. K. Smith, Constable; R. Young, Marshall; T. Ashmore, Registrar; J. Wood, Treasurer; P. H. Whittaker, Almoner; H. Nelson, Sub-Marshal. Tyrer, and C. D. Turton. Sir Knight J. K. Smith, was unanimously elected E. Preceptor for the ensuing year, and Sir Knight Wood was also re-elected Treasurer for the ensuing year. After five candidates had been proposed for installation, the encampment was closed, and the Knights sat down to an excellent banquet.

The M.P. Sovereign, Eminent Sir Knight J. C. Lunt, occupied the throne, surrounded and assisted by the following officers:—Em. Sir Knt. Thos. Ashmore, P.S.; Sir Knts. Jesse Banning, Viceroy, Eusebius, M.P.S. elect; Revd. T. W. Richardson, H.P.; Wm. Quayle, Rec., G. E. Hanmer, S.B., M. Williamson, Sentinel. Amongst the visitors were Ill. Sir Knt. J. Richardson, the Viceroy Eusebius elect, received the superior grades appertaining to their offices, and were respectively installed in their seats of honour by Ill. Sir Knight J. Kellett Smith, the Deputy Int. Gen. for West Lancashire, assisted by Em. Sir Knight Thos. Ashmore, P.S., and the M.P.S. of the conclaves 55 and 77. The officers for the next twelve months were appointed and invested as follows:—Sir Knts. W. Quayle, S.G.; G. E. Hanmer, J.G.; W. Dwelly, H.P.; J. C. Lunt, P.S., Treasurer; Hayner, Recorder; R. PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE, RENFREWSHIRE, EAST.—This body assembled on Saturday, Sept. 19, at Paisley, in the hall of the Renfrew County Kilwinning Lodge No. 370. The lodge was opened at 5 p.m. by Colonel Campbell, of Blythswood. P.G.M.; Oliver McGregor, P.G.S. W.; Caldwell, J.G.W.; J. Jack, P.G.S., and a good attendance of Masters and Wardens of the province. The lodge having been opened in due form, the P.G.M. addressed the brethren, informing them that as he was about to leave Scotland for some time, and was desirous to ensure the good working of the province, and see that the lodges were properly visited as soon as possible after their next election, he had called this special meeting to nominate those officers which, by the constitution, he had the right of appointing, leaving the P.G.L. to elect the others at their next regular meeting. Some of the officers had now been in harness for a long time, and were desirous of being relieved, he had therefore to announce that he had appointed the following brethren to office for the ensuing year:—Henry Lee Harvey, of Castle Temple, as D.P.G.M.; Capt. F. McDonald, R.W.M. 205, as P.G.S. M.; Bro. O. McGregor had long and honourably filled the office of S.W., he would now, as he had wished be relieved of those onerous duties, place Bro. Caldwell, the present J.W. in the post of P.G.S.W. This would enable him to reward one of the best working Masons in Scotland, one who he was glad had become the Master of a lodge in the province, thus enabling him to give him an office that he knew he would adorn, namely, that of P.G.J.W., (Cheers.) The Chaplain, Bro. Stephens, he re-appointed, and the only other officer he would appoint was the Secretary. They all knew how well Bro. Jackson had filled the office for the last eight years; he could not induce him to retain it, but at a very short notice he had been enabled to find a most efficient successor in the person of Bro. R. L. Henderson, of 370, whom they all knew and respected. These brethren were then installed into office, except the D.P.G.M., who was not present. Arrangements were then made for the visitation of the 14 lodges in the provinces. The bye-laws of the Marie Stuart, 341, and the East Kilbride Lodge, were then passed, and the P.G.M. gave a cheque for £10 to the Benevolent Fund. Bro. Proctor reported that his lodge, by an entertainment they got up, had realised £24 for the widow of the late Chaplain. This being all the business, the P.G.M. favoured the P.G.L. with a highly interesting sketch of the work in which he was about to engage, which necessitated his leaving; this was to join one of the scientific parties sent out to examine and report on the Transit of Venus. He would start on Monday to proceed to Egypt. He then, in a familiar and lucid style, explained the nature of the various modes of observation that would be employed by the different sections of observers sent out by our own and other Governments, the modes of correcting those observations, and dwelt on the good to be derived from those investigations, not only in a purely scientific sense, but also the shipping and commercial interests of the community. The P.G.S.W. moved the thanks of the lodge to the P.G.M. for the very instructive lecture he had given them; they would now read with additional interest the accounts they would from time to time see in the papers, knowing they had their respected P.G.M. out there exploring; seconded by the P.G.J.W. There being nothing further offered for the good of Masonry, the lodge was closed in due and ancient form.

LAYING THE FOUNDATION STONE OF THE BARNCLUITH RAILWAY BRIDGE AT HAMILTON.

On Tuesday, September 15th, the ancient Burgh of Hamilton and the adjacent villages presented an animated appearance, it having been announced that the foundation stone of the Barncluith Bridge was to be laid with Masonic honours.

The bridge, when completed, will be a handsome, as well as solid, structure. It has four arches of 72ft. span. The line, although only two and a half miles in length, has presented many engineering difficulties, and will cost no less than £250,000. The bridge is close to the mouth of a tunnel that passes under the Duke of Hamilton's deer forest, and facing Barncluith Terrace, close to the mansion of Lady Ruthven, who, with the élite of the ladies of Hamilton and district, were accommodated with seats on a raised platform at the mouth of the tunnel, forming, with the gardens, a picturesque background.

The platform had been erected by Bro. Scott, of Mother Kilwinning, No. 0, the contractor for the whole railway, who defrayed the whole of the expenses of the day's proceedings, including the holiday, with an extra day's pay to the whole of the workmen on the line.

The Masonic ceremonial was under the charge of Lodge Kilwinning Hamilton, No. 7, who met and opened their lodge in their own hall. Lodge Hamilton No. 233, met in Waddle's Hall, while the Provincial Grand Lodge of the Middle Ward of Lanarkshire assembled in Bro. Spalding's Commercial Hotel, from whence each, preceded by a band, proceeded to the Town Hall, where the various lodges from the surrounding towns had assembled.

The procession left the Town Hall at three p.m., in the following order of lodges;—557, 551, 544, 437, 424, 406, 347, 306, 305, 244, 233, 177, 153, 118, 114, 88, 73, 40, 31, 20. Then Mother Kilwinning, No. 0, headed by Bro. Scott, the contractor, and Bro. Tweed, P.J.W., the Provost Baillie, and Town Councillor of Hamilton. The working tools were borne by Bros. Purday, Allen, Scott, and Henderson, of No. 7. The weather, which had been stormy, now cleared up, and when the procession arrived at the bridge, which is about one mile out of the town, the sun shone out as if to bless the undertaking. On reaching the entrance to Barncluith Valley, the ranks opened out for the Provincial Lodge, No. 7, to pass through their midst. Bro. John Clark Forrest, P.G.S.M., then laid the stone with the usual Masonic ceremonial, Bro. Graham, Chaplain of No. 7, offering up the prayer, and the band playing appropriate music. At the conclusion, the cheers from the Masons were loud and hearty, while the labourers gave others—not in the programme—for the Freemasons, and also for Bro. Scott, their employer.

Brother Forrest then said—Ladies and Gentlemen,—I have now the pleasure to declare this stone duly laid—

Deep in the quarries of the stone
Amid vast heaps of other rock,
In darkness hid, to art unknown,
We found this rude and shapeless block.
Now shaped by art, its roughness gone,
And fit this noble work to grace;
We lay it here, a corner-stone,
Chosen and sure, in proper place.
Within this stone there lies concealed
What future ages may disclose,
The sacred truths to us reveal'd
By Him who fell by ruthless foes;
On Him this corner stone we build,
To Him this edifice erect,
And still until this work's fulfill'd,
May heaven the workmen's ways direct.

This is no ordinary occasion. We are assembled to-day for the purpose of laying the corner stone of the Barncluith Bridge—of a splendid work of art—which is in course of erection for the Caledonian Railway Company by that celebrated contractor, Mr. Scott, of Ibrox Holm. Mr. Scott is no apprentice. He is a trustworthy Master Mason, who has had much experience in successfully carrying through many contracts, the following amongst others:—The Busby Railway, Habbies Howe Water Works, Barthead Water Works, Fife and Kinross Railway, Monklands Railway, Peebles and Broughton Railway, Albert Dock, Leith; Graving Dock, Govan; and Douglas and Muirkirk Railway. This structure is the first railway bridge which has ever spanned the River Avon, and it will be the connecting link between Hamilton on the Clydesdale Branch and the main line of the Caledonian Railway. So soon as it is completed and the short line of railway opened from the present Hamilton terminus to Fernegate, we will have direct communication with every place of any consequence in Scotland and England. I dare not venture to attempt a description of all the bridges in this neighbourhood. We have the famous old Roman Bridge at Orbiston, reminding us forcibly of the words of King Solomon—"There is nothing new under the sun." We have the comparatively new and improved one over the River Clyde at Bothwell which took the place of the old "Bothwell Brig" of the times of the Covenanters; but what Scotsman is there who has not indelibly impressed upon his heart a faithful history of these stirring times. Within a short distance we have several across the Avon, which are worthy of notice. The old Hamilton Bridge was erected about the eleventh century, by a body of masons from Lesmahagow, in consequence, it is said, of a monk of that place having been drowned in attempting to ford the river on his return from Hamilton. The masons of Lesmahagow were then skilled beyond others as builders; and it is recorded that they travelled from one district of Scotland to another, and erected many handsome bridges which have long withstood the ravages of time. The present Avon Bridge of the Castle Road dates from 1844. The bridge was erected at Ross in a structure of iron and masonry.

It was renewed a few years ago by the present proprietor, and forms a very beautiful object in the landscape. The new stone bridge at Châtelerault was built by the late Duke of Hamilton to whose memory was erected the temple containing his bust, which now overlooks us, and we need not wonder at its strength and picturesque appearance when we recollect that the late noble Duke was a Master Mason, and that he held the office of Provincial Grand Master of the Middle Ward of the County of Lanark, and that the 10th Duke was Grand Master Mason of Scotland. Ladies and gentlemen, we are standing within a few paces of Cadzow Forest, and quite close to the ruins of the old Castle, celebrated in history as the resting-place of Queen Mary on her way from Lochleven Castle to the disastrous battle field of Langside. I wonder whether any of you regret that you did not live at the time

Ennobled Cadzow's Gothic towers,

When—

The song went round, the goblet flowed,
And revel sped the laughing hours.

These are said to have been good old times; but, ladies and gentlemen, we live in happier days; our lot has been cast under a brighter sun. Who would wish to "call back" the troublous times when

Proudly the chieftain marked his clan,
On greenwood lap, all careless thrown,
Yet missed his eye the boldest man
That bore the name of Hamilton.

I am sure it is the universal wish that the Fernegate Branch will turn out to be a profitable investment to the Caledonian Railway Company. I am certain it will confer great advantages on the general public—be the means of largely increasing the profits of many of our townsmen, and of developing the hidden resources of this immediate neighbourhood. It will be invaluable to the Lesmahagow mineral district, as it will give a shorter route to the present markets in the West of Scotland, and by the aid of the proposed East Kilbride Branch, will open up new markets in that thriving locality. I hope the people of Lesmahagow will be well repaid for the benefits conferred by the building of the Hamilton bridge 700 years ago. I will only add that it is to Mr. Scott and Mr. Best that we are indebted for the very comfortable arrangements, and for the success of this day's proceedings. The whole expense has been borne by Mr. Scott, and I ask you to join with me in wishing that, when this contract is completed, and when he has paid every man his due, he may give a comfortable balance to send to his banker.

Provost Dykes addressed the meeting, thanking the Freemasons for having done him and the Council the honour of inviting them to be present, and congratulating them on the highly satisfactory way in which the whole of the proceedings had been conducted. He also bore testimony to the satisfactory way in which Bro. Scott was executing the work and the peaceable and orderly manner in which the whole of his workmen conducted themselves, giving himself and the rest of the magistrates very little trouble.

Bro. Scott briefly acknowledged the compliment paid to him.

The procession then returned in inverted order to the Town Hall.

The banquet took place in the Masonic Hall, property of No. 7, and about 120 brethren dined on an excellent repast, prepared by Mr. Minto, the viands, wines, and liquors, being all of first-class quality.

Bro. Mackay, as Acting Master of No. 7, presided, having on his right Bros. Scott and Forrest, P.G.S.M., who in a eloquent speech thanked on behalf of the Provincial Grand Lodge.

Bro. D. Mitchell proposed "The Visitors," which was responded to in a humorous speech by Bro. Wm. Forrest, of 31, who feelingly spoke of the presentation he had received the preceding day at Wishaw.

Bro. Scott then presented the handsome silver trowel with which he had laid the stone to Bro. John Clark Forrest, P.G.S.M., who said he would treasure it, and hand it down to his children as an heirloom.

"The Army, Navy, and Reserve Forces," was given in a highly eulogistic speech by Bro. Spalding, S.W., and responded to by Bros. Main and Chaplain.

The Lord of the Manor (the Duke of Hamilton) was proposed by Bro. Best, and enthusiastically received.

Bro. Dr. Robertson, in a neat speech, proposed the Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council." The R.W.M., Bro. Mackay, who is Treasurer of the Board, was called upon to reply, which he did in a brief, but pointed speech.

Bro. Forrest, P.G.S.M., then gave "Bro. W. Scott, the guest of the evening," alluding not only to his good qualities as a Mason, but also to his liberality as an employer, and that exhibited this day, by defraying all the expenses attending the demonstration.

Bro. Scott, who, on rising, was greeted with loud cheers, said he only had to do his duty in that state of life in which he had been placed, and for the sake of the old lodge, Mother Kilwinning, he was glad that his conduct had gained him the approbation of his brother Masons.

"The Caledonian Railway Company" was given by Bro. Nesbet; after which "The Health of the Acting Master of No. 7, Bro. Mackay," who briefly acknowledged the compliment.

The Tyler's toast concluded a very happy day's proceedings, everything having gone off without the slightest hitch in the programme.

We should mention that Bros. Dr. Robertson, D. Mitchell, D. Wright, W. Dunlop, McCalbin, and Gardner, by their singing, and Bro. Schrider, by presiding at the organ, in the Town Hall, and at the harmonium in the evening, contributed much to the enjoyment of the mental part of the feast.

WISHAW.—PRESENTATION TO BRO. FORREST.

On Monday evening the brethren of "St. Mary's," Coltness (No. 31), met in Bro. Scott's Hall, where they were joined by influential deputations from "St. Clair's," Cambusnethan (427), and "St. John's," Woodhall, Holytown (305). Shortly after seven o'clock the lodge was opened in due form, after which Bro. Gilchrist, R.W.M. of "St. Mary's," issued instructions for the lodge to be formed into marching order, and to proceed to Wishaw House, there to meet Bro. Forrest, and accompany him back to the lodge-room, where he was to be presented with a mark of the esteem in which he was held by the brethren of the Craft. On leaving the hall, the procession was headed by the Clydesdale instrumental band, and as they marched through the policies of Wishaw House as shades of evening were beginning to close, the strains of music, as they re-echoed through the woods and gleas, had a grand and pleasing effect. On approaching Wishaw House the brethren were received by Bro. Forrest, who expressed regret at the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Russell, who happened to be from home; and would, he said, had they been present, heartily accorded the welcome to the Craft which he now humbly offered. Bro. Forrest then passed a high eulogy on Mr. and Mrs. Russell for the uniform kindness they had always shown to himself since they came to reside at Wishaw House, and also for their readiness in giving the public an opportunity of enjoyment by admitting them to the grounds. Three cheers were then given for Mr. and Mrs. Russell and family, after which the procession was re-formed, joined by Bro. Forrest, and marched back to the lodge-room to the inspiring strains of the "Merry Masons." When the lodge-room was again entered, after certain preliminaries that are only known to the members of the "mystic tie," the usual loyal and patriotic toasts were proposed and responded to with all the enthusiastic characteristics of the Order; after which Bro. Gilchrist, R.W.M., rose to propose the toast of the evening, and, in a neat speech, presented Bro. Forrest with a full equipment of Masonic regalia, tastefully decorated with gold and silver embroidery, in which were beautifully wrought his initials and the name and number of his lodge; also a handsome silver-mounted walking cane, bearing the following inscription:—"Presented to Bro. Wm. Forrest, P.M. Lodge "St. Mary's," No. 31, by the R.W.M., office bearers, and brethren of said lodge, as a mark of esteem and respect.—14th September, 1874." The whole of the articles, which were from Bros. G. Kenning's Glasgow establishment, were greatly admired for the highly artistic style in which they were executed.

In making the presentation, Bro. Gilchrist said that in representing "St. Mary's" on this auspicious occasion, although the feeble, he hoped to be the faithful, interpreter of their sentiments. He had known Bro. Forrest for a long period of years, and he had always found him to be the pioneer of everything that was likely to advance the interest of "St. Mary's" Lodge, and also to extend the general advantages that accrue from Masonry. (Cheers.) He then proposed the health of Bro. Forrest, which was responded to with Masonic honours.

Bro. Forrest, on rising to reply, was received with loud and prolonged cheers. Words failed him, he said, to express himself in terms sufficiently eloquent for the honour that had been conferred upon him on this occasion. They had made him a proud man—(cheers) not only by the handsome and tangible token of esteem with which they had presented him, but with their appearance there that night in such large numbers in response to the invitation of the committee to meet in his honour. (Applause.) He was not a hand, he said, at framing neat speeches, but only spoke out from the heart whatever happened to be uppermost, and he could not deny the pride and pleasure he experienced in being thus recognised for any little interest he had taken in the affairs of "St. Mary's," Coltness. Some of the pleasantest evenings of his life had been spent in a Masonic Lodge, and a large proportion of those were spent in the Lodge that was now met to do him honour. (Cheers.) The most of those who formed the local lodge when first he was connected with Masonry in Wishaw were now no more, but the great Architect of the Universe had been pleased to spare him to a good old age, and from the result of that evening and former marks of approbation he had received from the Craft, he was sure that he would be pardoned when he said that his life had been spent—"not without honour." (Cheers.) He again thanked them for the handsome token of their esteem, and said that while it was God's will to spare him he would always look upon the gifts with a happy remembrance of the brethren of "St. Mary's," Coltness. (Applause.)

The next toast was that of "St. Clair's," Cambusnethan, to which Bro. Smith, R.W.M., replied, in the course of which he complimented Bro. Forrest on the active interest he had always shown in anything pertaining to the advancement of Freemasonry, and concluded by hoping that their venerable brother might be spared to wear out to rags the handsome regalia with which he that night had been presented, and he was sure "St. Mary's" would be happy to present him with another set. (Applause.)

In reply to the toast of "St. John's," Woodhall, (Holytown), Bro. M'Murdo, R.W.M., also paid a tribute to Bro. Forrest. After an acquaintance, he said, extending over a long course of years, he had never known Bro. Forrest to deviate from what he considered his duty to the ancient and honourable Order with which they were all connected. "St. Mary's," Coltness, he said, in thus honouring Bro. Forrest, was doing honour to herself, as he (Bro. Forrest) had been instrumental in a high degree in bringing about that happy state of prosperity which was now a characteristic of the Lodge. (Cheers.)

The rest of the evening was spent in song and sentiment, and the company broke up at a seasonable hour, after spending a most enjoyable evening.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF CHESHIRE.

By command of Bro. the Right Hon. Lord de Tabley, R.W.P.G.M., a Provincial Grand Lodge of the Masonic brethren in Cheshire was held on Thursday, the 17th inst., in the Town Hall of the ancient city of Chester. No larger gathering of the brethren of the province of Cheshire has ever been held; and if any proof of the vitality and progress were wanted by outsiders, they were abundantly furnished, not only in the mere numerical strength of the assembly, but also by the most influential nature of the gathering. Every one of the 37 lodges under Bro. Lord de Tabley's jurisdiction was represented on the occasion. No. 721 (Independence, Chester) sending 50 brethren, and No. 477 (Mersey, Birkenhead) no fewer than 48 brethren—and the total number of those who were present could not have been fewer than about 400, these included upwards of 80 W.M.s and P.M.'s, a brilliant array of P.G. officers, and a strong muster of Wardens and other officers.

The use of the Town Hall had been kindly given by the Corporation of Chester, and about one o'clock the Craft lodges assembled in the council chamber, to receive the P.G.M. and P.G. Lodge, which they did with the usual honours. Bro. the Rt. Hon. Lord de Tabley, R.W.P.G.M. was accompanied by a numerous assemblage of Provincial Grand Officers of his own and other provinces, and a large gathering of members of the various lodges in the province.

After the Provincial Grand Lodge had been opened, and letters of apology for non-attendance from several distinguished brethren had been read, the roll of lodges was called by the P.G. Sec., Bro. E. H. Griffiths. He also read the minutes of previous P.G. Lodge, held at Altrincham, and a special P.G. Lodge held at Knutsford, in September last; in connection with the laying of the foundation stone of the new college there. The minutes having been confirmed, Bro. Jackson, Assistant P.G. Treasurer, submitted the annual accounts, from which it appears that there was a balance to the credit of the Fund of Benevolence, amounting to £1402 18s. 1d., and to the Provincial Grand Lodge of upwards of £363 5s. 8d. After the accounts had been passed, the P.G. Sec. read a letter from Bro. Bland, P.G. Treasurer, resigning his office, in consequence of ill health, after holding the appointment for upwards of a quarter of a century.

The R.W.P.G.M. (Bro Lord de Tabley) said he would now address a few words to the brethren of his province with respect to the state and progress of Masonry during the past year, its present condition, and also refer to its future prospects. Those words, however, must be very few, because he was present that day at the Provincial Grand Lodge meeting in disobedience to his medical adviser's orders, and for this reason he must also apologise for not taking his usual place at the banquet. He could hardly address them on the state of Masonry without mentioning what must be a subject of the deepest regret to the whole Craft throughout the kingdom, namely, the retirement of their late Most Worshipful Grand Master, the Marquis of Ripon. Into the reasons for that retirement it was not for him or the brethren to inquire, far less to judge; but in the regret which that retirement had occasioned, let them not forget the eminent services which his lordship had rendered to the Craft, not only during the short time he presided over them as Grand Master, but also during the series of years when, as Deputy Grand Master, he so ably and zealously supported Lord Zetland, their late Grand Master. He was certain that their thanks for those valuable past services would follow the Marquis of Ripon into the retirement to which he had gone. Referring to the affairs of the province, his lordship said he had only to continue the same congratulatory strain which it had been his good fortune to address to them in previous years during his Masonic rule. The very large assembly over which he had the honour of presiding that day sufficiently indicated the flourishing state of Masonry in the province of Cheshire. Every lodge in that province was represented there—several of them most numerous—and every lodge, he felt convinced, came there actuated by a spirit of good fellowship, and determined to do the best which could be done, not only to promote the welfare of their own individual lodges, but of Freemasonry generally, and the great and sacred cause of charity. The retirement of Bro. Bland, the P.G. Treasurer, his lordship said, must be a matter of great regret to every one who had known him during his long service as P.G. Treasurer, and he was sure that a vote of thanks, which he was about to submit, would be heartily passed to Bro. Bland for his valuable services in the past. During the period of his Provincial Grand Mastership, his lordship said, the efforts of that province in the cause of charity had been most successful. He had only held the office for nine years, yet during that time they had carried 18 candidates to their various Masonic charities. This had only been accomplished by the hearty co-operation of every lodge in the province, and he therefore trusted this co-operation would continue, for by acting together they were always sure to carry their candidates, whilst by acting separately they must very frequently fail. The lodges of the province had, as a rule, acted very energetically in the cause of charity. When he first assumed office, scarcely a lodge had votes for the charities, but now most of them had, and he would specially refer to the Cestrian Lodge, held in Chester, which had made most zealous and liberal exertions, greatly aided by Bro. Williams, of that lodge. Last year he (the P.G.M.) suggested the propriety of their making a Masonic gift to the Chester Cathedral, now undergoing restoration, and the subscriptions for that object had been most liberally contributed by almost every lodge in the province. Already £363 had been raised; and as other contributions had yet to come, he had no doubt about £400 would be realised, with which to make a gift to the ancient cathedral which would be worthy of the Craft. If the Provincial Grand Lodge approved, they would be able to present either a pulpit or a font, but it would be necessary to consult Mr. Gilbert Scott, the architect, as to the style; and he would suggest that Bros. Griffiths, Dutton, and Lloyd should be appointed a Committee to consult with the Dean of Chester as to the form and details of the gift. In conclusion, he thanked the brethren from his heart for the constant support which he had received at their hands, and hoped when he got over his present weakness he might long be able and have the honour of presiding over them. His lordship, before sitting down, formally moved that Bro. Bland's resignation as P.G. Treas. be accepted, and that the thanks of the P.G. Lodge be conveyed to him for his past services.

The motion was seconded by Bro. Dutton, and carried unanimously. Bro. J. Jackson was appointed P.G. Treasurer, and Bros. E. H. Griffiths, Dutton, and Horatio Lloyd were appointed a deputation to wait upon the Dean of Chester with respect to the proposed Masonic gift.

Bro. Lord de Tabley next moved that the salary of the P.G. Sec. (Bro. Griffiths) should be increased to £80 per year, a proposal, he was sure, which would meet with the entire approval of the brethren. When they remembered the amount of work which Bro. Griffiths had now to perform, and the zeal, courtesy, and kindness with which he discharged his duties, he was sure every one would agree with the propriety of the increase. When Bro. Griffiths was appointed, in 1839, there was only 17 lodges; but now, in 1874, there were no fewer than 37 lodges. The number of members then was 413, but they had now increased to 1550, thus greatly increasing the work and responsibility of their P.G. Sec.

Bro. Gilbert, W.M. of the Cestrian Lodge, seconded the proposition, which was carried by acclamation, the vote being suitably acknowledged by Bro. Griffiths.

Bro. Captain Cope then moved that the sum of 150 guineas be voted to the funds of the Masonic Institution for Boys, for the purpose of constituting the R.W.D.P.G.M., Bro. George Cornwall Legh, a vice-patron in perpetuity of that institution.—Bro. Dutton seconded the motion, which was also carried without a dissentient voice.

Bro. F. Binckes, Sec. to the Boys' School, acknowledged the handsome gift in very appropriate and eloquent terms.

On the motion of Bro. Cope, seconded by Bro. Dutton, the sum of £100 was also voted for the purpose of making the D.G.M. a vice-patron of the Royal Institution for Aged Freemasons.

The R.W.P.G.M. then appointed the following as his officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. Horatio Lloyd, P.S.G.W.; William Bulley, P.J.G.W. Rey R. Hodgson and Rev. J. Lomax, P.G. Chaplains; J. Wood, P.G. Reg.; F. Jackson, P.G. Treas.; E. H. Griffiths, P.G. Sec.; James Salmon, P.G.S.D.; G. Burrows, P.G.J.D.; W. Blackshaw, P.G.S. of W.; Wilmot Eardley, P.G.D.C.; R. Newhouse, P.G.A.D.C.; R. Worrall, P.G.S.B.; T. H. Kirk, P.G.O.; William Greatrix, P.G. Pur.; J. Swindells, P.G. Tyler; J. J. Cunnah, W. Johnson, J. Knox, T. M. Lockwood, W. Matthews, S. Spencer, P.G. Stewards.

The P.G.M. then presented a very handsome chronometer and appendages to Bro. J. P. Platt, P.P.J.G.W., subscribed by a number of brethren in the province, in recognition of his valuable and successful efforts in connection with the Masonic charities. Bro. Platt suitably acknowledged the presentation.

A charity jewel was subsequently presented to Bro. Williams, one of the P.M.'s of the Cestrian Lodge, in acknowledgement of his having filled the office of Steward to one of the London Masonic charities.

After the business of the P.G. Lodge had been concluded, the brethren walked in procession to attend divine service at the Cathedral, the musical portion of the service being rendered by the cathedral choir, under the direction of Bro. Kirk, the P.G.O. Mr. Gunton and Mr. Irons presided at the organ. The musical service comprised the processional hymn "Onward, Christian Soldiers," the "Magnificat," and "Nunc Dimittis," being "Tours" in F, and the anthem was Dr. S. S. Westley's "Blessed be the God and Father." The sermon was preached by Bro. the Rev. J. Lomax, one of the P.G. Chaplains, the text being taken from Romans xii., 5, "So we, being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members one of another." A collection was made at the close in aid of the Chester Infirmary and the Provincial Fund of Benevolence.

After the service about 250 brethren sat down to a banquet at the Town Hall, provided by Bro. Bolland, of Chester. In the absence of the P.G.M., Bro. Horatio Lloyd, P.G.S.W., presided, and after the toast of "The Queen" had been proposed and cordially responded, he gave "The Health of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales and Earl of Chester, M.W. Past Grand Master of England; the Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family." In doing so, he expressed a hope that when His Royal Highness returned to this country he would give a favourable answer to the request to become the Grand Master, so that the brethren might again have a royal scion at the head of the Order. It was a good thing for Masonry to have a member of the Royal Family at its head, and no one better could be found than the Prince of Wales.

The P.G.S.W. next gave "The R.W. of the Grand Lodge of England," and added that he could only follow the remarks which had been made that day by the P.G.M. with respect to the retirement of the Marquis of Ripon. They must remember him as an able and efficient Grand Master, and for the great services he had rendered to the Craft in that capacity, as well as in his position as D.G.M., they must all very much regret his loss, and he hoped that his successor might fulfil the duties of that high office as well as he had done.

Bro. Latham, Past Grand Deacon of England, responded to the toast, and remarked that their hour of danger and difficulty was not far off, and he hoped that the brethren would be able to say with what feelings of dismay they had received the tidings of the resignation of the Grand Master, and that they would be able to say one single word in support of the institution.—Bro. Dutton seconded the believed sincerely that the same feelings which had actuated him from boyhood—namely, of speaking as he thought, and acting on sincere convictions—had actuated his lordship in the case. Still, he (Bro. Latham) could not but wonder that the first mandate, which seems to have come from the Vatican, did not in some measure shake his lordship's resolution. When he found that the first condition of leaving his office was that he must say farewell to a society of which he must have never known anything but good, which was a great promoter of charity, he might well have hesitated in the step which he had taken. He had a more intimate knowledge of the Craft than any one in England, and he must have known that there was no moral or social reason why he should become disassociated with it. By the mandate he had received he had to say "good bye" to those with whom he had been intimately associated for many years; and his severance of ties was conveyed in a letter which was so short as to appear positively discourteous. In this letter there was not one word of desire for the welfare of the Craft, nor any expression or regret—the only expression of feeling which it contained being the hope that his brethren would not be inconvenienced by his resignation, but without one word of sympathy. He (Bro. Latham) was there to return thanks for a body without a head. All they wanted now, however, was time and opportunity to recruit their forces. He hoped the Earl of Chester would accept the offer made to him of presiding over the Craft, but if he and his advisers thought it better for the Craft that one so near the throne should not sit on the Masonic throne of this country, but continue to occupy the present position which he held, he (Bro. Latham) still there remained plenty of true and noble men to take the Grand Mastership—men like the Earl of the Province of Cheshire—who were perfectly able to preside over the Craft, under whose presidency the Grand Lodge would not lose its lustre, nor the Craft generally lose the glory of its name for charity and benevolence, gained under the presidency of him whose sense they now deplored.

The toast of "The Right Hon. Lord de Mabley, R.W.P.G.M.," and others of a Masonic nature, were subsequently given. Excellent music was furnished during the evening by Messrs. Halliday, Knowles, and Cuzner, and Mr. Lane, the accompaniments being played by Bro. Clark, P.G.O.

THE MARQUIS OF RIPON AND THE CRAFT.

However much Protestant readers and brethren regret the perversion of the Marquis of Ripon, it is quite clear according to the fundamental principles of Freemasonry—unconcerned with questions of a religious or political nature—that the individual right of following a special form of worship cannot be violated. The Grand Master of Freemasons in England somewhat curtly conveyed his resignation to the Grand Lodge, and however suggestive the apology to those acquainted with the forms and procedure common to perverts, it was, as the Marquis says, "caviare to the general." Yet, if we consider these spectral appearances happening now and again in a century, of the falling off of a man from a brave and honest profession of arms, we need not dismay us. On the other hand every shallowness of modern political Jesuits is something to be wondering at! Great jubilation has been entertained in the Roman Catholic camp upon the important conquest of an income; for to the conqueror the compromise of a soul or two can be nothing to his chief holds the keys of Heaven and hence to them, judiciously, or otherwise, by the pervert's conscience with purgatorial asbestos, warranted to preserve

"the delighted spirit
To bathe in fiery floods,"
Others little or nothing.

The fact remaining that the gain to Romanists is represented on the present occasion as exactly equal to zero. Of course the loss of the Marquis of Ripon is transferred—his brother Pius IX. of Rome is now his master—to him and his subordinates he owes an allegiance if he be sought of a man, which should be, in truth undivided. It is, in fact, impossible to temporize with Rome—but it is equally impossible to avoid such occurrences as the present. That, however, Freemasonry is likely to suffer cannot be entertained for a moment. The present state of things will ultimately do more good than harm. The secession of an individual, however distinguished, is after all only the secession of an individual, and, for my part, if our late Grand Master finds comfort environed by the sophistries of the Jesuits, I wish him a good viaticum and a happy deliverance.

CRYPTONIMUS.

THE NEW MASONIC HALL, HOBART TOWN.

One of the handsomest buildings recently erected in Hobart Town is the above hall. It is situated next the Savings Bank in Murray-street. The foundation stone was laid on Thursday, the 20th March, 1873, by His Excellency the Governor, in the presence of a large muster of the members of the Order and visitors. It has been erected from plans and specifications furnished by Mr. H. Hunter, architect; Mr. J. Gregory being the builder, and the handsome edifice, now nearly completed, reflects great credit on him.

The style of the building is Italian, of a plain and unpretending character, and is of brown stone, relieved with white dressings or mouldings. The entrance is from Murray-street, and is approached by a flight of seven stone steps, leading to a lobby and spacious entrance hall, 25ft. x 9ft. The ground floor consists of a fine banqueting hall, 33ft. x 25ft., with a height of 14ft. 6in., with a handsome panelled ceiling; off the banqueting room is a library and reading room, 20ft. x 16ft.; committee room, 15ft. 3in. x 12ft. 9in. The domestic offices are all below, and are fitted with every requisite comfort and convenience. Under the grand staircase is a lavatory, &c. The top floor comprises a spacious landing, robing room, 16ft. 6in. x 15ft. 3in., ante room, 20ft. x 16ft. The lodge room is a very fine chamber, 20ft. high, and 43ft. x 25ft. It has a handsomely encircled cornice and panelled ceiling, with a frieze of cornice and Masonic emblems. The room is lighted by five windows, and from the centre flower a 72 burner gas light, specially imported from England, will be suspended. At one end of the hall is a raised platform, on which the Master of the lodge sits. The Ionic pillars are beautifully got up, as also are the Corinthian and Doric pillars. The tympanum of the pediment over the entrance has the all-seeing eye in the centre on a shield, surrounded by handsomely carved foliage, interlaced with Masonic emblems, the same being introduced throughout the building wherever convenient. The whole of the plaster work is specially worthy of mention; the cornices and mouldings in the chief room reflect great credit on the workmen, and were done by three brothers named Paton.

The furniture to be used will be that belonging to the Tasmanian Operative Lodge, 345, I.C., which meets at Riley's Hotel in Murray-street.

When the building is finished and opened it will be one of the handsomest Masonic halls in the colonies, and reflects great credit on the spirited and enterprising gentlemen who conceived the idea of building such a hall, and have so successfully carried out their undertaking.

Germany possesses at the present time 325 Masonic lodges, with altogether about 30,000 members, under eight German Grand Lodges of different rites, of which three are at Berlin, and the others are those of Saxony, Hamburg (the oldest in Germany), Frankfort-on-the-Maine, Baireuth, and Hesse.

Obituary.

BRO. SAMUEL SOMERVILLE.

The grave closed, on the 18th inst., over the remains of an old Mason who was much respected and beloved in Edinburgh. Bro. Dr. Samuel Somerville, Hart-street, Treasurer of the Royal College of Physicians, whose sudden death on Saturday last cast a deep gloom over a wide circle of friends and patients. The place of interment was the family vault at Carnwath, and the funeral was attended by the President, Council and Fellows of the College in their official costume, and by a large train of friends and acquaintances, as well from Edinburgh as from the Upper Ward of Lanarkshire. The funeral service was conducted by the Very Reverend the Dean of Edinburgh. Bro. Dr. Somerville was the representative of the ancient family of Somerville of Ampherlaw, near Carnwath, and was held in high estimation in that neighbourhood, both as an improving proprietor and a most honourable and upright man. As Treasurer of the College of Physicians, he proved himself an excellent man of business, and had the gratification of knowing that the institution had attained unprecedented prosperity during his tenure of office. Every one acquainted with him well knew his gentlemanly bearing and his genial and unobtrusive manner. But his more immediate friends alone knew how deep were his feelings and attachments, and how anxious he was to consult their welfare. To some of them, indeed, his loss can never be replaced. Bro. Dr. Somerville had attained to the highest degree in Freemasonry, and was greatly esteemed by the brethren. He also represented in Scotland the Grand Lodge of Ireland. In politics he was a staunch Tory of the old school, as he was delighted to declare all his forefathers had been before him. The immediate cause of his death was found to be the rupture of an aneurism in the chest, and he passed away without any struggle.

BRO. JAMES HAMER.

On Friday, 18th inst., Bro. James Hamer, for many years closely identified with Masonry in Liverpool and district, died at his house in Crown-street, Liverpool, after a serious illness, which lasted for exactly seven weeks. Our deceased brother was conspicuously known for eleven years as P.G. Treas. of the Provincial Grand Lodge of West Lancashire, and for many years he was familiarly known to the brethren as P.M. of several lodges, P.Z. of more than one chapter, and P.M. of a local Mark Lodge. The deceased was for 34 years a Mason in Liverpool, and during the whole of his Masonic career he endeared himself to every brother in the district, as much by his Masonic zeal and ability as well as by his invariable courtesy and brotherly feeling. He was for some time identified with the Liverpool Licensed Victuallers' Association as chairman, and therefore he will for some time be very much missed in many circles. His funeral, which took place on Tuesday, was of a private nature.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—The most popular medicine for the cure of female complaints. After many years' experience it is incontestably proved that there is no medicine equal to Holloway's Pills for the cure of diseases incidental to females, and for the subjection of the many ailments to which the young and delicate are liable. The invigorating and purifying properties of Holloway's medicine render it invaluable. They may be taken by females of all ages for any disorganisation or irregularity of the system, speedily remove the cause, and thus restore the sufferer to robust health. As a family medicine they are unequalled, and may be taken by old and young, renewing health and energy after all other means have proved unsuccessful.—ADVT.

THE
FROM ITS ORIGIN TO THE PRESENT DAY.
Drawn from the best sources and the most recent investigations.

BY J. G. FINDEL,
Second Edition, Revised, and Preface written by
Bro. D. MURRAY LYON.
One vol., 800 pages 8vo., with an Index. Cloth gilt.
Price, 10s. 6d.

"This book is a strictly historical one, from which all is excluded that is not based upon ascertained or probable fact."—Builder.

"Of its value to Freemasons, as a detailed history of their Brotherhood, it is not possible to speak too highly."—Public Opinion.

"The author seems to have fairly exhausted the subject."—The Athenaeum.

"The edition we are now considering is a second English edition, which had the great advantage of Bro. D. M. Lyon's able superintendence and editorship in its English dress. There can be no doubt but, that so far, Bro. Findel's work is the most complete work on Freemasonry which has yet appeared, and that he deserves the greatest credit for his careful and accurate treatment of all evidence on the subject, and for his honest desire after truth. Bro. Findel gives up in the view he has so clearly and consistently put forth our early Masonic history, the older theory of the Roman Colleges, &c., and limits the origin of Freemasonry to about the twelfth century, and as then arising from the operative Masons, and specially the "Steinmetzen" and "Bauhuten" of Germany. Bro. Findel gives us a good deal of evidence on this head, and one thing is clear from his work, that the German Freemasons were, at a very early period, organized into lodges with a Master over them, and with outward regulations and inner ceremonies peculiar to the Craft. Bro. Findel rejects all the views which have been from time to time put forward of a Templar or a Rosicrucian origin. Whether or no Bro. Findel's theory of the date of the rise of Freemasonry be correct, matters very little: we do not ourselves profess to accept it; but this we can fairly say of Bro. Findel's work, it is marked from first to last by the most remarkable token of industry, ability, and care, of patient research, and of skilful criticism. We know of no work which so clearly sets before us our amount of knowledge up to the present time on the great question of Masonic Archaeology, and there can be little doubt that what Preston's work is to English Freemasonry, Findel's work is to cosmopolitan Freemasonry. Indeed no student in Masonry can now dispense with it, and it is a perfect storehouse both of Masonic evidence and Masonic illustrations. We earnestly recommend all the lodges in this country to obtain a copy for the lodge library before the work is bought up for America; and we believe that no Mason will rise from the perusal of its pages without a higher idea both of the historical truth and intrinsic value of Freemasonry, and of fraternal regard and recognition to the latest and not the least well-informed or effective of our Masonic historians. The present century has produced no such equal, in authority and usefulness, to the great work of our Bro. Findel, and we wish him and it, in all of fraternal sympathy and kindly intent, many earnest readers, and more grateful students."—The Masonic Magazine.

"This volume is the history of Masonry par excellence. Every interested person may regard it, therefore, as the present text-book on the subject."—Manchester Guardian

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1874.

PROPOSED ROYAL SCOTTISH MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

In our last week's impression we stated, that, up to the present time, no really worthy manifestation of Scottish Masonic benevolence had made itself known or felt, which state of things we deeply deprecated, as injurious to the prestige of Scottish Freemasonry, and certainly not in accordance with the real views and wishes of our warm-hearted brethren across the border. Since then, our attention has been called to a prospectus and a letter, which we print in another column, and certain suggested rules and regulations for a proposed "Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution." We not only offer to such a proposal our warm support and hearty encouragement, but our ever ready and liberal publisher will give, we understand, one hundred guineas, as proprietor of The Freemason, to the fund, if it shall be successfully floated and established. The proposed Benevolent Institution includes within its scope and end:—First, the maintaining, clothing, and educating the sons and daughters of Freemasons, as well as the clothing and supporting aged and decayed Freemasons and the widows of Freemasons. That such benevolent association is both wanted, and important to Scottish Freemasons and Scottish Freemasonry, we do not hesitate at once to say, and therefore we warmly welcome such an effort, and though we do not pledge ourselves, to day, the endorsement of all the suggested rules and regulations, or the proposed "modus operandi" we shall be sincerely glad if in the main the ideas of the benevolent and fraternal promote are carried out, and Scottish Masonry is able to hail the commencement of an effective benevolent institution, with such commendable aims. Scottish Freemasons are men of much sagacity, a business habits, and well able to manage their affairs, and all we would venture to say to day don't waste time or money about any mere tentative schemes, especially those in which both question of supply and demand, and success and failure most largely enter, but seek at once to raise funds which will enable you to be the good work of educating the orphan, and aiding the necessitous. We have said.

a true teaching of Freemasonry is best ways manifested to the outer world in works philanthropy and labours of love. Whatever we may say, or however others may hold forth upon the social charms of Freemasonry, though we do not deny their importance, we ought not to assert that no profession of Freemasonry can be real, and no system of Freemasonry can be sound, where no effort is made to put into effective practice that which we have been taught is the distinguishing characteristic of a Freemason's heart—charity. The benevolent offerings of Freemasons, the schools they maintain, the asylums we raise, the annuities we grant, the relief we provide; all these demonstrate to those who doubt, to those who are, alike, that Freemasonry is not merely a passing pageant of an hour, but symbolizes its great organization, certain sound and efficient principles which tend greatly to the welfare of society, the happiness of Freemasons, the peace and prosperity of the human race. A better reply to our many assailants, no more response to the voice of slander and obloquy, can be offered than that which says to the impugner, or the contemptuous, to all who undervalue the value of Freemasonry, "Si queris, circumspecte." So then, to-day, we hail this effort of good brethren across the border, as, emphatically, "a move in the right direction." We trust that all success may attend their initiatory efforts, and that we may congratulate the Craft of Scotland on possessing a benevolent institution, which in its principles and practice, its laws and regulations, its labours and its success, will lastingly credit to Scottish Freemasonry. As we said before, we do not necessarily pledge ourselves on merely an "ex-parte" suggestion of the proposed regulations, to accept them as the laws of the Medes and Persians, as we think it justly probable that some modifications may be introduced before the Scottish Benevolent Institution is working, or workable. But we wish all possible access to it and to its zealous promoters, and are glad to be allowed to be the medium of announcing the proffered donation of our worthy energetic publisher. May our anticipations be realised, and the proposed Scottish Benevolent Masonic Institution become an established sioned officers, at Plymouth, and that they have a right to complain, if, indeed, there be such a thing as equality in Freemasonry, or if the practice of Freemasonry is to accord with its professions. Every letter that has been transmitted to us only serves to shew, how very perverse has been, indeed this sad "contretemps," where everything else seems to have been so perfectly, and so happily arranged. We confess that, despite all the letters we have perused, we do not yet see it clearly proved that any military prohibition took place whatever. Bro. Col. Elliott all but distinctly states that no such prohibition was given, and though he quotes our gallant Bro. Capt. Shanks as stating that such permission was refused, he does not say so himself. "Leo," no doubt, also states the same, and perhaps "Leo" will favour us with the evidence on which he bases his statement. Nothing has as yet been brought forward which, to our minds, decisively contradicts the clear assertion of "Soldier Freemason," at the beginning of the controversy, that the Major-General commanding did not object to the non-commissioned officers marching in the procession in uniform, but, as they were altogether ignored, he did naturally object to their appearing in "coloured clothes." We are glad to see that Bro. Col. Elliott confirms our statement that permission has been accorded to officers and non-commissioned officers to march in Masonic processions, with Masonic clothing over their uniforms. We ourselves saw the foundation stone of the lighthouse at Europa Point, Gibraltar, laid by the Governor and Lieutenant-General Commanding, though, alas, now many years ago, in the presence of the Provincial Grand Master, Dr. Burrows, and a large number of Freemasons, and many officers and non-commissioned officers, with their Masonic clothing over their military clothing; and, as we understand several other precedents of the same usage can be brought forward, we feel that, if a Masonic procession, to meet our brother, the Prince of Wales, is to be considered a "a party or political procession," the sooner an authoritative decision on the subject is obtained, the better. We shall recur to the subject before very long, and finally.

PROPOSED SCOTTISH ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT FUND.

We have been requested to publish the following letter and short prospectus:—

KILLMORE LODGE, KIRKCUWAN, 1874,

Sir and Brother,—

The want of a Scottish Masonic Benevolent Institution has been long and keenly felt by many a Brother of the Order. In other sections of the United Kingdom, as also in foreign countries, such Institutions flourish and abound. Why then should the Freemasons of Scotland deny themselves that true exposition of "Charity," which all, from the first moment that they become Freemasons, so earnestly profess to admire?

Whence arises the fact that Scotland, alone of the different portions of Great Britain, is so wanting in its duty towards God, its neighbour, and itself?

Is it apathy? Is it unwillingness? Is it inability? Far be it from any one to say so. We have many great monuments of Scottish benevolence throughout the land. Our fellow countrymen are actuated by as high principles as any other nation. The real reason is that no scheme sufficiently certain and comprehensive has hitherto been brought forward. The short and full prospectuses enclosed will clearly explain their aims, and it is earnestly hoped by the promoter and those brethren who have so kindly given him their aid, that the scheme herein drawn out may, fully satisfy the acknowledged want.

To prevent confusion in arrangement, the several plans and systems have been carefully drawn out and based on similar plans of similar Institutions in other countries, especially England; so that the feasibility of the design and its practicability is amply evidenced by existing Institutions.

The scheme as worked out at present, will, of course, be the one to be followed out until a sufficient number of donors and annual subscribers can be obtained to form a General Court. At this Court it can be determined whether the scheme should be carried out in toto, or whether revisions should be made.

These preliminaries being gone through it will be our duty to bring the proposed Institution before Grand Lodge, officially, so that we may obtain its assistance and patronage. I say officially, as most of the members of Grand Lodge individually will have all information at once, and their co-operation obtained where possible.

What we at once seek to gain is the sympathy of our brethren, both in Scotland and in the Colonies holding under the Scottish Constitution, whether rich or whether poor. As will be seen by looking over the short prospectus, every opportunity is given for the wealthy to give of their abundance, while measures have been devised whereby the poorer brethren, either individually or collectively, can, out of their penury, contribute their widow's mite.

At first we only ask the brethren who approve of the scheme to send their names and amounts of donations or subscriptions to the appointed agents, collectors, secretaries, &c, so that a General Court might be summoned when sufficient members have signified their assent to the proposal. The short prospectus will show how we seek to carry out and combine the several branches in one Scottish Masonic Benevolent Institution, how we propose to maintain the same; as well as our estimates of probable expenses and receipts. It is, in fact, a general view of the whole scheme.

The full prospectus will show the details in every branch, as deduced from the following sources, viz.: Boys' School, Girls' School, Asylum for Widows and Decayed Masons, England; The Lancashire Benevolent Institution; the Irish General Masonic Charity, likewise several smaller works, the qualifications for candidates in all branches and other general rules.

It is earnestly hoped that those brethren who are able, will give Annual Subscriptions as well as larger Donations, as it is proposed to use all the Donations as Capital and to leave said Capital to accumulate to a sufficiently large sum to carry out the scheme on an extended scale.

The Annual Subscriptions will be Revenue to maintain the Institution in all its branches. This is fully described in the short prospectus.

Earnestly hoping for your assistance,

I am, Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

GEO. R. HARRIOTT,

Prov. G.M. Wigtown and Kirkcudbright,
Originator and Promoter of the Scheme.

ROYAL VISIT TO PLYMOUTH.

In many letters we weekly publish, demonstrate unmistakably that the subject has still of interest for our readers, and is not by means yet fully settled. Indeed, in one instance, the evidence becomes more conflicting than the week's Freemason, though we also think there is now to be discerned the possibility of an arrival at a pretty general understanding where the blame actually lies, of this great and, we repeat, of this very great blunder. Our correspondent indeed, (Brother Curteis, I presume), seems to deprecate the editorial footnote appended to the original letter of "A Soldier Freemason." But despite Brother Curteis's remarks, we adhere to our original opinion, that a mistake never was made than in this opinion of our brethren, the non-commissioned taken, extra donations of five guineas to the Building Fund to carry two additional votes for every five guineas.

Brethren acting as stewards at anniversary festivals to have one extra vote at all elections for such stewardship.
