THE HERALD OF PROGRESS.

DEVOTED TO THE DISCOVERY AND APPLICATION OF TRUTH.

Vol. 2, No. 41.

New York, Saturday, May 25, 1861.

TWO DOLLARS per Year.

[Whole No. 66.]

Philosophical Department.

We must now come to the consideration of the question, whether the Bible is or is not the inspired revelation of God. It is the subject of much discussion and argument, and the answer varies with the opinions of the answerer. But we feel that the Bible is the inspired revelation of God, and we are therefore willing to believe that it contains all the truths necessary to salvation.

Mysteries of the Bible.

There are many things about the Bible that are difficult to understand. But we do not believe that these things are mysteries, but only things that are not yet understood. We believe that the Bible is the inspired revelation of God, and we are therefore willing to believe that it contains all the truths necessary to salvation.

Whisperings to Foreigners.

To all who are friends of truth:

F. L. C.,--We have received-- "beings from alien lands," as you say. But these beings are not very interesting. They are not very intelligent, and they do not have much to say. We do not believe that these beings are the inhabitants of other worlds, but we do believe that they are the result of imagination, and we do not think that they are worth considering. We believe that the Bible is the inspired revelation of God, and we are therefore willing to believe that it contains all the truths necessary to salvation.

The Editor will be accessible to his friends and supporters. He will be glad to hear from them, and he will be willing to answer their questions.

- End of Page -
and therein the same great Saviour. He still Christ, but who set that duty far above all were believed or disbelieved. But of late thej' who believe that they are saved by what were connected with his birth, life, and death,—has led to do, will naturally who saves them from committing, and who world. It will, however, last as long as both in and out of botb in and out of
in and out of 1 1
the richest and truest views of God and man
1
1
the 1
1
the 1
the 1
1
the 1
1
the 1
Laws and Systems.

More about Land Monopoly.

In his ESSAY ON THE THEORY OF THE VALUE OF LAND, Mr. William E. Gladstone, in a recent number of the "American Economist," says:

"The value of land is not, in truth, a property of the land itself, but a property of the right of occupation, which it confers upon those who possess it. This right of occupation is the only true property of land, and it is the only thing that can be properly said to be a natural right. The land itself is not the property of the person who possesses it, but the right of occupation is the property of the person who possesses it."

This is a true statement, and it is one that should be borne in mind by all who are interested in the question of land monopoly.

The value of land is not a property of the land itself, but a property of the right of occupation, which it confers upon those who possess it. This right of occupation is the only true property of land, and it is the only thing that can be properly said to be a natural right. The land itself is not the property of the person who possesses it, but the right of occupation is the property of the person who possesses it.

The value of land is not, in truth, a property of the land itself, but a property of the right of occupation, which it confers upon those who possess it. This right of occupation is the only true property of land, and it is the only thing that can be properly said to be a natural right. The land itself is not the property of the person who possesses it, but the right of occupation is the property of the person who possesses it.

The value of land is not, in truth, a property of the land itself, but a property of the right of occupation, which it confers upon those who possess it. This right of occupation is the only true property of land, and it is the only thing that can be properly said to be a natural right. The land itself is not the property of the person who possesses it, but the right of occupation is the property of the person who possesses it.

The value of land is not, in truth, a property of the land itself, but a property of the right of occupation, which it confers upon those who possess it. This right of occupation is the only true property of land, and it is the only thing that can be properly said to be a natural right. The land itself is not the property of the person who possesses it, but the right of occupation is the property of the person who possesses it.

The value of land is not, in truth, a property of the land itself, but a property of the right of occupation, which it confers upon those who possess it. This right of occupation is the only true property of land, and it is the only thing that can be properly said to be a natural right. The land itself is not the property of the person who possesses it, but the right of occupation is the property of the person who possesses it.

The value of land is not, in truth, a property of the land itself, but a property of the right of occupation, which it confers upon those who possess it. This right of occupation is the only true property of land, and it is the only thing that can be properly said to be a natural right. The land itself is not the property of the person who possesses it, but the right of occupation is the property of the person who possesses it.

The value of land is not, in truth, a property of the land itself, but a property of the right of occupation, which it confers upon those who possess it. This right of occupation is the only true property of land, and it is the only thing that can be properly said to be a natural right. The land itself is not the property of the person who possesses it, but the right of occupation is the property of the person who possesses it.

The value of land is not, in truth, a property of the land itself, but a property of the right of occupation, which it confers upon those who possess it. This right of occupation is the only true property of land, and it is the only thing that can be properly said to be a natural right. The land itself is not the property of the person who possesses it, but the right of occupation is the property of the person who possesses it.

The value of land is not, in truth, a property of the land itself, but a property of the right of occupation, which it confers upon those who possess it. This right of occupation is the only true property of land, and it is the only thing that can be properly said to be a natural right. The land itself is not the property of the person who possesses it, but the right of occupation is the property of the person who possesses it.

The value of land is not, in truth, a property of the land itself, but a property of the right of occupation, which it confers upon those who possess it. This right of occupation is the only true property of land, and it is the only thing that can be properly said to be a natural right. The land itself is not the property of the person who possesses it, but the right of occupation is the property of the person who possesses it.

The value of land is not, in truth, a property of the land itself, but a property of the right of occupation, which it confers upon those who possess it. This right of occupation is the only true property of land, and it is the only thing that can be properly said to be a natural right. The land itself is not the property of the person who possesses it, but the right of occupation is the property of the person who possesses it.

The value of land is not, in truth, a property of the land itself, but a property of the right of occupation, which it confers upon those who possess it. This right of occupation is the only true property of land, and it is the only thing that can be properly said to be a natural right. The land itself is not the property of the person who possesses it, but the right of occupation is the property of the person who possesses it.

The value of land is not, in truth, a property of the land itself, but a property of the right of occupation, which it confers upon those who possess it. This right of occupation is the only true property of land, and it is the only thing that can be properly said to be a natural right. The land itself is not the property of the person who possesses it, but the right of occupation is the property of the person who possesses it.

The value of land is not, in truth, a property of the land itself, but a property of the right of occupation, which it confers upon those who possess it. This right of occupation is the only true property of land, and it is the only thing that can be properly said to be a natural right. The land itself is not the property of the person who possesses it, but the right of occupation is the property of the person who possesses it.

The value of land is not, in truth, a property of the land itself, but a property of the right of occupation, which it confers upon those who possess it. This right of occupation is the only true property of land, and it is the only thing that can be properly said to be a natural right. The land itself is not the property of the person who possesses it, but the right of occupation is the property of the person who possesses it.

The value of land is not, in truth, a property of the land itself, but a property of the right of occupation, which it confers upon those who possess it. This right of occupation is the only true property of land, and it is the only thing that can be properly said to be a natural right. The land itself is not the property of the person who possesses it, but the right of occupation is the property of the person who possesses it.
ing a "free lover." Anthony had not much been 252, had repeated, in Christian experience of going unwashed, unfed, unclothed, for Very possibly he might have deserved, as formed many notable miracles. One young maxim. The past teaches us, by showing disturb our friendship, I bid you a fraternal Hoping that no word, hastily uttered, under ordered Paul to exercise his gifts on the sweeping all living forms out of existence,
"You shall go, you evil." But it obeyed with his spiritual eyes, an attendant angel
preaching unconditional immortality.—
Sight and Insight,
SAINTS AND SINNERS.

And he had
And, nothing doubting, nothing fearing,
Freedom; exclusive and universal, or Slave-Which shall prevail—the idea and fact of out its Principle. Thc idea which allows and an econo-
THE FUTURE OF AMERICA.
If we doubly for the fashionable rights of men; for present Wallace, future President and universal, and so on.
Children of the Continuent and the behind her the Northern, the architects to the decoration of the batten, and, being surrounded by a Freedom, or the idea and fact of Slavery,
and an economical organization, but by a system
in two branches of business, namely, the States, the
where, as a means to make their ideas into a fact,
practical men about corresponding Facts and
answering movements, recently held at the
intended for publication, should be sent to the
weeks of $1 50 each.
RHETORIC.
26,1861.
A. J. DAVTS & CO., Publishers,
All letters to be addressed to

"I do not belong to the back track."
"I have seen the complete works of
Very possibly he might have deserved, as
be tortoiseshell, tawny, gold, and brown, or
I cannot choose but think that
in two branches of business, namely, the
and an economical organization, but by a system
in two branches of business, namely, the States, the
where, as a means to make their ideas into a fact,
practical men about corresponding Facts and
answering movements, recently held at the
intended for publication, should be sent to the
weeks of $1 50 each.
RHETORIC.
26,1861.
A. J. DAVTS & CO., Publishers,
All letters to be addressed to

"I do not belong to the back track."
"I have seen the complete works of
Very possibly he might have deserved, as
be tortoiseshell, tawny, gold, and brown, or
I cannot choose but think that
in two branches of business, namely, the
and an economical organization, but by a system
in two branches of business, namely, the States, the
where, as a means to make their ideas into a fact,
practical men about corresponding Facts and
answering movements, recently held at the
intended for publication, should be sent to the
weeks of $1 50 each.
RHETORIC.
26,1861.
A. J. DAVTS & CO., Publishers,
All letters to be addressed to

"I do not belong to the back track."
"I have seen the complete works of
Very possibly he might have deserved, as
be tortoiseshell, tawny, gold, and brown, or
I cannot choose but think that
in two branches of business, namely, the
and an economical organization, but by a system
in two branches of business, namely, the States, the
where, as a means to make their ideas into a fact,
practical men about corresponding Facts and
answering movements, recently held at the
intended for publication, should be sent to the
weeks of $1 50 each.
RHETORIC.
26,1861.
A. J. DAVTS & CO., Publishers,
All letters to be addressed to

"I do not belong to the back track."
"I have seen the complete works of
Very possibly he might have deserved, as
be tortoiseshell, tawny, gold, and brown, or
I cannot choose but think that
in two branches of business, namely, the
and an economical organization, but by a system
in two branches of business, namely, the States, the
where, as a means to make their ideas into a fact,
practical men about corresponding Facts and
answering movements, recently held at the
intended for publication, should be sent to the
weeks of $1 50 each.
RHETORIC.
26,1861.
A. J. DAVTS & CO., Publishers,
All letters to be addressed to

"I do not belong to the back track."
"I have seen the complete works of
Very possibly he might have deserved, as
be tortoiseshell, tawny, gold, and brown, or
I cannot choose but think that
in two branches of business, namely, the
and an economical organization, but by a system
in two branches of business, namely, the States, the
where, as a means to make their ideas into a fact,
practical men about corresponding Facts and
answering movements, recently held at the
intended for publication, should be sent to the
weeks of $1 50 each.
RHETORIC.
26,1861.
A. J. DAVTS & CO., Publishers,
All letters to be addressed to

"I do not belong to the back track."
"I have seen the complete works of
Very possibly he might have deserved, as
be tortoiseshell, tawny, gold, and brown, or
I cannot choose but think that
in two branches of business, namely, the
and an economical organization, but by a system
in two branches of business, namely, the States, the
where, as a means to make their ideas into a fact,
practical men about corresponding Facts and
answering movements, recently held at the
intended for publication, should be sent to the
weeks of $1 50 each.
Mr. E. D. Peckham has opened a room located permanently at Willimantic, Ct.

The money market and the funds in the interior are still more active than usual. The New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and Baltimore banks all report a large amount of business. The banks are all well supplied with specie, and the rates of interest are low. The money market is expected to continue active for some time to come.

The Physician.

(From the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.)

CIVILIANS AND SOLDIERS' HEALTH.

 Leigh, and for the benefit of...
Agriculture has received a great impetus in late years, and the agricultural societies, which have sprung up in almost every county of the country, have done much to elevate the mind and improve the condition of our citizens. An agricultural society was held at the town meeting of Bloomfield, Crawford county, Ohio, last April, which was presided over by the Rev. Mr. Coles, and was attended by upwards of thirty citizens. The society was organized, and the Secretary appointed. The business of the evening was to consider the attempts of the government to promote agriculture, and the improvements which are necessary to make it a profitable occupation. The members of the society were of opinion that the government has done much to promote agriculture, and that it is necessary to encourage the cultivation of the soil. They also recommended the establishment of agricultural schools, to which they would contribute towards the support. The society is at present a flourishing one, and is doing good work. It is to be hoped that other societies will be formed in this county, and that they will be as successful as this one.

The Herald of Progress, a valuable periodical, is in preparation for publication under the editorship of Mr. H. P. Smith. The object of the publication is to promote the progress of science and art, and to disseminate useful knowledge. The journal will contain articles on agriculture, horticulture, and the mechanical arts. It will also be a repository for missionary intelligence, and will be issued every month. The subscription price is one dollar per annum.

The town of Bloomfield, Crawford county, Ohio, has decided to enter a delegation to the Universal Exposition, to be held at Paris, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty. The purpose of the delegation is to exhibit the improvements which have been made in the agricultural and mechanical sciences, and to present the produce of the soil. The delegation will consist of a number of citizens, who will represent the various interests of the town. The Conversations will be held by the Rev. Mr. Coles, and the Secretary will have charge of the business of the evening.

The Agricultural Society of this county will hold its annual meeting on the fourth of May, in the town meeting house. The business of the evening will be to consider the state of agriculture, and to make arrangements for the improvement of the soil. The members of the society will then hold a dinner, at which they will have the pleasure of entertaining the Rev. Mr. Coles, who will be the chief speaker of the evening. The subscription price is one dollar per annum.

The Agricultural Society of this county will hold its annual meeting on the fourth of May, in the town meeting house. The business of the evening will be to consider the state of agriculture, and to make arrangements for the improvement of the soil. The members of the society will then hold a dinner, at which they will have the pleasure of entertaining the Rev. Mr. Coles, who will be the chief speaker of the evening. The subscription price is one dollar per annum.

The Agricultural Society of this county will hold its annual meeting on the fourth of May, in the town meeting house. The business of the evening will be to consider the state of agriculture, and to make arrangements for the improvement of the soil. The members of the society will then hold a dinner, at which they will have the pleasure of entertaining the Rev. Mr. Coles, who will be the chief speaker of the evening. The subscription price is one dollar per annum.