The principal works of A. J. Davis have just been translated into German, by the joint labors of two learned admirers of their author.

The Rochester Express states, on the authority of a wealthy Virginian planter visiting that city, that there is a strong Union party in Eastern Virginia.

Another Virginian Unionist, writing the Times, says: "A few nights since I chanced to hear the evening devotions of the slaves in one of their huts."

Our banks in this city now hold over ten million dollars in gold, which has been sent here by individuals South for safe-keeping.

These facts tell their own story, and they greatly stimulate us at the North to develop and protect the Union party at the South.

Harpers Weekly has at last thrown off Southern allegiance. The following confession is certainly frank: "They have led us by the nose, and kicked us, and laughed at us and scorned us in their very souls as craven and tuppenny tinkers."

Gov. Randall of Wisconsin, at the conclusion of his message to the Legislature, has the following: "The people will never consent to any cessation of war, forced so wickedly upon us, until the traitors are hung or driven into ignominious exile."

A Canada exchange states that "Garibaldi, wearied with inactivity, and seeing no prospect of a war with Austria this year, proposes to come to the United States, to war for freedom in the New World against slavery."

The Harrisburg Patriot states that the Rev. B. Wimmer, Abbot of the Monastery of St. Vincent, Westmoreland County, Pa., has organized a company of eighty men, made up principally from among the members of his fraternity.

A fire broke out last November in the cellar of a candle manufacturer in Paris, in which were 200 tons of oil and great quantities of candles. The doors and windows were closed tight, and steam was introduced from a boiler by a pipe, when the flames were extinguished in five minutes.

LATEST NEWS.

As we go to press, the intelligence reaches us of the death, by assassination, of Col. Ellsworth, commanding the New York Fire Zouaves. This gallant officer had taken possession of Alexandria (Thursday, A. M. May 24) and was descending the stairs of the Marshall House, with a secession flag he had torn from the roof, when he was shot through the heart by James W. Jackson, keeper of the house.

Simultaneously with the movement of Col. Ellsworth's Brigade, other regiments, to the number of from six to ten thousand men, crossed the river at various points, occupying Arlington Heights and other positions on the Virginia side.

Probably the death of no single officer, below General Scott, could have created a more profound sensation over the entire North, than that of Col. Ellsworth.

Our latest advices from Europe are to the 12th of May. The English Government was about to issue a Proclamation, for the purpose of cautioning all Her Majesty's subjects against any interference in the hostilities between the Northern and Southern States of America.

Letters of marque, it is said, had already reached London and Liverpool, and it is supposed many of them have been purchased by Spanish bosons.

The English papers continue to be filled with discussions of American topics, many siding with the North, and others with the South.

The French Government was about to enter into a contract with a public company for the extension of postal service through the Eastern seas. The company was to serve the line from Suez to China, with branches to the French, Dutch, and Spanish East Indies, for twenty-four years.

It is said that Austria and Prussia approve England's determination to occupy St. Jean d'Acre, if the French remain in Syria.

The harvest prospects of France are represented as very bad, owing to inclement weather. It was feared that the fruit crop was lost, and the wheat crop had been seriously damaged by frost.

About 200 Bourbon soldiers had been defeated by the National Guard near Capua, and were afterwards surrounded by detachments of the Guards and Bersaglieri, but the affairs of Italy at large remain unchanged.

Great excitement prevailed throughout Hungary on account of the assassination of Count Teleki, which was announced in a dispatch from Pesth, of the 8th inst., in the Hungarian Diet. Fresh symptoms of insurrection had appeared at various points.

An insurrection of a religious character had broken out in the government of Kasan (Russia). Seventy peasants were shot. Disturbances had also taken place in the government of Pensa.

According to a Spanish paper, Spain, up to the 9th inst., had entered into no engagements in reference to the annexation of San Domingo. Slavery, however, is not to be introduced. The legislation will be the same as that now valid in the Antilles.

Notices of New Books.

"Talent alone cannot make a writer; there must be a whole mind behind the book."

THE CONDUCT OF LIFE. By R. W. EMERSON. Boston, 1861, Ticknor & Fields, Publishers. Price $1.00.

Novel readers and pedantic logicians, who are, as a general thing, both superficial and artificial, cannot be admitted to the golden presence of Ralph Waldo Emerson.

The volume before us is literally overclouded with the truest evidences of insight, by which the central truths of men, matter, society, and things, are detected and perfectly interpreted.

"Whatever limits us, we call Fate. . . . the limitations refine as the soul purifies; but the ring of Necessity is always perched at the top."

Then comes a discourse on Power. We are told very truly that "Concentration is the secret of strength."

THE EDINBURGH REVIEW: American Edition. Leonard Scott & Co., New York. We have received the April number of this periodical.

Twelve pages are devoted to the last article, which is upon the subject of paramount interest at the present time.

In the chapter on "Worship," we find some of the highest revelations of Spiritual Philosophy.

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY for June is emphatically an "Army Number." It contains in addition to the usual variety—including fresh chapters of "Agnes of Sorrento," by Mrs. Stowe—the following specialties: An Army Hymn, by O. W. Holmes; The Pickin'-and-Stealin's Rebellion, by James Russell Lowell; The March of the N. Y. Seventh, by a Member of the Regiment; Things Slowly Learnt, by the "Country Parson;" and Denmark Vesey, an Authentic History of the South Carolina Slave Insurrection of 1822.

We want the world to see how perfectly this great mind states the Harmonial Philosophy with regard to the supremacy of man's soul to all religious creeds and arbitrary ceremonies.

"No object really interests us but man, and in man only his superiorities!"—page 251. Thus, Mr. Emerson is a humanitarian of the spiritual stamp.

We have heard the opinion freely uttered that Mr. Emerson is not a logician, that he is chaotic, full of confusion, without system in his thoughts and writings.

A Distinguished St. Louis Physician writes: St. Louis, July 10, 1860. O. J. Wood, Esq.: Dear Sir.—Allow me the pleasure and satisfaction to transmit to you the beneficial effects of your Hair Restorative, after a trial of five years.

After my hair was completely restored, I continued its use by applying two or three times per month. My hair has ever continued healthy, soft, and glossy, and my scalp perfectly free from dandruff.

I have, within the past five years, seen and talked with more than two thousand persons that have used your preparation with perfect success—some for baldness, grey hair, scald head, dandruff, and every disease of the scalp and head are subject to.
