THE JOURNAL OF BORDERLAND RESEARCH

BSRF No. 1 Published by Borderland Sciences Research Foundation, Inc., PO Box 548, Vista, California 92083 USA. Edited by the Director, Riley Hansard Crabb, Doctor of Metaphysics in the Society of St. Luke the Physician.

The Journal is published six issues a year with the assistance of the Associates, at the Director's home, 1103 Bobolink Drive, Vista. It is printed, 36 pages an issue. The Foundation is incorporated under California law, May 21, 1951, #254263, and has been in continuous existence since then. Address all correspondence to the PO Box. The Journal is included in the Foundation membership of $8.50 a year. Single copies and back issues of the Journal are now $2.00 each. If you dont care to join you may receive the Journal by donating $8.50 a year or more to the Foundation. The Director's wife, Ms. Judith Crabb, is office manager and Secretary-Treasurer.

PURPOSES OF BSRF: This is a non-profit organization of people who take an active interest in unusual happenings along the borderland between the visible and invisible worlds. In the words of the late Meade Layne, founder and director of BSRA from 1946 to 1959: "BSRA publications are scientific in approach but employ few technical expressions. They deal with significant phenomena which orthodox science cannot or will not investigate. For example: The Fortean falls of objects from the sky. Teleportation, Radiesthesia, PK effects, Underground Races, Mysterious Disappearances, Occult and Psychic Phenomena, Photography of the Invisible, Nature of the Ethers and the problem of the Aeroforms (Flying Saucers). In the year 1946 BSRA obtained an interpretation of the phenomena which since has come to be known as the Etheric or 4-D interpretation, and which has not been radically altered since that time. This continues to be the only explanation which makes good science, sound metaphysics and common sense."

The chief present concern of the Foundation is to make this kind of unusual information available as a publis service at reasonable cost. Headquarters acts as a receiving, coordinating and distributing center. An important part of the Director's work is to give recognition, understanding and encouragement to people who are having unusual experiences of the borderland type and/or are conducting research in any of the above fields. For consultation on borderland problems or for Spiritual healing through prayer, write or phone 714-724-2043 for help or for an appointment. Donations and bequests toward Foundation research programs and expenses are welcome.

The 31-page list of BSRF publications is available from Headquarters for $1.00 in check, bill or stamps. This includes brochures on borderland subjects, tape recordings of Mr. Crabb's lectures and of members of the Inner Circle talking through trance-medium Mark Probert. "SCIENTOLOGY: MONEY-MAKER OR RELIGION?"

By Cynthia Gorney
From the "Washington Post", July 24, 1977

Scientologists say he didn't mean it the way it sounds. That it was a joke. That the audience laughed, in fact, when Lafayette Ronald Hubbard said in the course of a 1949 lecture on science fiction writing, "Writing for a penny a word is ridiculous. If a man really wanted to make a million dollars, the best way would be to start a religion."

Then Hubbard gave Astounding Science Fiction Magazine an article about something called Dianetics, or the Modern Science of Mental Health. The article grew into a book and the book grew into a religion, Hubbard's religion. He named it Scientology, and to this day the man from Nebraska is referred to respectfully as "The Founder" by the members of a church whose international assets amount to many millions of dollars.

He has also been declared persona non grata in both England and Rhodesia. His church is prohibited in parts of Australia, is kept "under constant scrutiny" by the government of Ontario, is subject to certain restrictions in New Zealand, and faces fraud charges in France. And three weeks ago after simultaneous raids on Scientology headquarters here and in Los Angeles, American officials charged the church with stealing thousands of government documents.

Scientologists, meanwhile, have 59 Freedom of Information Act suits pending against federal and state agencies to obtain church-related documents. They are suing the FBI for the break-ins. They are suing a Labor Department official for writing a memorandum the Scientologists say was false and was used to keep them out of the country. They are suing a Paris magistrate for his investigation of the church, an inquiry they claim is being conducted for "political, ideological, and other improper reasons".

(This reminds us of the time in the 1760s when the Jesuits became so enthusiastic in carrying out the oppressive policies of the false Christ, Loaeamong, that they were banned from every nation in Europe! Their arrogant use and abuse of power as the Pope's "commandos" was so flagrant that the other Orders of the Church were glad to see them go. In Switzerland, the anti-Jesuit laws are still on the books.)

In fact, both Hubbard and his church have spent much of the last 25 years dueling officials -- Medical, psychiatric, and government officials -- in a battle over scientology's right to call itself a religion. The fights have been over taxes, over false advertising charges, over the immigration rights of Scientology officials. But behind all that, behind the details of tax law and protocol, looms a larger question: just what is this creation of Hubbard's?

Is it a multimillion dollar pseudoscientific hype, as its detractors have charged, posing as religion to keep from paying taxes? Or is it, as its three to five million members say, an honest spiritual alternative to more traditional churches -- and one that is being harassed for its teachings?

The answers that emerge from court records and interviews are as bewildering as they are varied. One court denied tax exemption to the D.C. church, saying Hubbard was profiting personally from Scientology activities. Another upheld tax exemption for the Hawaii church. A third approved Scientology ministers' right to claim religious exemption from self-employment taxes, and the presiding appellate judge in that case added, chiding federal officials: "We are disturbed by the length of time that the issue of the tax status of Scientology churches and ministers has been in controversy."

The church's teachings have also entered the puzzle. At least one court has deplored them: a 1974 California jury, for example, heard testimony that a Scientology defector had been labeled "fair game" -- in church jargon, an enemy who might be "tricked, sued or lied to or destroyed" -- and awarded the man $50,000 compensatory and $250,000 punitive damages. On appeal the California appellate court reduced punitive damages to $50,000 but wrote, "Any party whose tenets include lying and cheating in order to attack its 'enemies' deserves the results of the risk which such conduct entails."

SCIENTOLOGY HAS NO GOD

Other courts, guardedly, have upheld them. Scientology's "fundamental writings contain a general account of man and his nature," wrote Circuit Court of Appeals Judge Skelly Wright in 1968, when he ruled that the literature accompanying the church devices called E-meters were harmless, and not in violation of federal labeling laws. "The fact that it postulates no deity in the conventional sense does not preclude its status as a religion."

There are 73 Scientology churches now operating throughout the world, according to a church spokesman -- 24 of them in the United States. Each is said to be financially independent of the others, although church officials say the "mother church" in Sussex, England collects 10% of every church's earnings.

The earnings come from the pockets of parishioners, as Scientologists call themselves, who pay for the courses and counseling that are the essence of the church's teachings. Scientology is based on the belief that the human spirit is immortal, flawed in each of us.
only by memories of painful experiences -- either in this life or in past lives. Remembering these experiences (Engrams, Scientologyists call them) is said to lift them away from the spirit, bringing the Scientologist one stage closer to the utterly trouble-free state of mind the church calls "clear".

HUBBARD OUTGROSSES GRAHAM

Although church officials insist that a serious parishioner can study the teachings on his own, without cost, the courses and counseling sessions aimed at reaching "clear" are offered for prices that can range into the hundreds of dollars. Federal investigators say Scientology informers have told them the combined churches of Scientology in the United States may gross from $2 to $3 million per week, or more than $100 million every year.

Church officials refuse to talk about yearly income. "Frankly, I think it's kind of demeaning to ask a church how much money it makes," said Greg Layton, a public affairs officer for the Founding Church of Scientology (so named because it was the first incorporated church) in Washington. "Nobody asks the Catholic Church what their gross income is."

"We don't make anybody take these courses," said Jeff Friedman, another spokesman for the church. "People are willing to contribute in this way. My dad gives $20,000 or $30,000 a year to his temple, and they don't get anything back. He doesn't take any courses."

Federal investigators have taken a lively interest in the church's finances for some time, and to date the Internal Revenue Service has granted tax exempt status to only 13 of the 24 American churches. That does not necessarily mean it has turned down the others, though, because the law says a church need not apply for tax-exempt status -- it may simply withhold its taxes. The IRS will not give details of the status of the 11 remaining churches of which the Washington church is one.

A church qualifies for tax exemption, explained IRS spokesman Leone Levine, only if it is operated for strictly religious purposes, and if (in the words of the Internal Revenue Code) "no part of the net earnings...inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual."

The code does not define "religious purposes", because in a nation committed to the separation of church and state, that is a definition officials are reluctant to put on paper. Sometimes, though, the IRS has to. "We don't prescribe theological conformity," Levine said. "We've recognized a coven of witches as a religious organization."

Levine said the IRS looks for a clergy, for a congregation, for a conduct of worship; and on that basis the government has never publicly challenged Scientology's assertion that it is a religion. But in 1969 the U.S. Court of Claims ruled that the Founding Church owed $15,983.75 in back taxes because its sales of courses constituted "a substantial commercial (and hence nonexempt purpose)"; and because Hubbard was apparently benefiting from the profits.

During the years in question -- those ending in June 1956, June 1958, and June 1959 -- Hubbard was paid $125 per week by the Founding Church plus an additional $125 church "fee" adopted in October 1956, according to evidence in the case. He also had a car and personal residence provided by the church, and received 10% of the church's gross income, the evidence showed. In 1959, according to court transcripts, the Founding Church alone grossed $247,674.

A "FRANCHISE NETWORK" SALES SCHEME

"Such an arrangement suggests a franchise network for private profit," the court said. "Congress intended to extend the exemption only when the sole beneficiary of the institutional operation was the public at large."

Although the Court of Claims case involved only one church, and others have received their tax exemption, government investigators have said that similar tax questions account for much of their continuing interest in the Church of Scientology. Scientologists disagree -- strenuously. Using terms like "Gestapo tactics" and "little Hitlers", church officials say the government is monitoring Scientology because the church has attacked organized medicine and has charged Interpol, the international police organization, with drug-running.

The same is true overseas, Scientology maintains -- in Victoria, Australia, where a 1965 law banned the teaching or practice of Scientology; in New Zealand, where the law requires parental consent for anyone under 21 receiving Scientology training; in England, where Scientology students are prohibited from entering the country, and both Hubbard and his wife are excluded by government decree; in France, where Scientology has been accused of fraud on the grounds that it is psychotherapy and not religion.

"They hate us," Friedman said. Like most Scientologists, Friedman believes government officials simply cannot accept either the beliefs of the church or its frequent and sometimes noisy crusades. So they harass the church, Friedman charged, by compiling the sort of files that the government now accuses Scientologists of having stolen.

THE E-METER PROVES ITS VALUE

(Friedman offered reporter Cynthia Gorney a sample auditing session on the E-Meter, an electrometer which gives meter readings on emotional changes, nothing more.)

The E-meter looked incomplete somehow, as though it ought to be part of something else. Two tin cans, their labels removed, were wired to a small box less than a foot square. A needle rested on the left end of a small screen, and as I picked up the tin cans the needle quivered and began to rise. . . Friedman twirled the E Meter's control knobs and set it up for me.

"Okay," said Friedman, "I'm going to to pinch your arm." He did and although my grip on the tin cans did not tighten noticeably, the needle shot way over to the right. The sting of the pinch faded and the needle fell back to its resting position. "Now," said Friedman, "I want you to think of that pinch." Still holding the can I remembered the pinch. Again the needle jumped and moved right.

MORE RETROSPECTION

"Now think of it again," Friedman said. I did and the needle moved a little less. The third time it rose even less and by the fourth time I remembered the pinch the needle moved hardly at all.

"That's the very bottom rung of Scientology," Friedman said. The E Meter, he explained, had illustrated for me the memory of pain -- and confronting the memory had cleared it away.

These machines have been assailed as bogus medical aids, defended as religious artifacts, and dismissed as overpriced toys that do more harm than good. Fourteen years ago the Food and Drug Administration confiscated dozens of them, charging the Scientologists with false advertising of supposed E Meter medical benefits; 10 years and many court battles later, the meters were ruled harmless (though medically useless) church devices, and were returned.

THE DEAD HAND OF ORTHODOX PSYCHIATRY

"It's a gimmick," said Dr. Martin Orme, director of the Unit for Experimental Psychiatry at the Institute of Pennsylvania Hospi- tal, in a telephone interview. "It gives you the trappings of science. . . They're promising some of the same things which were promised at one time by psychoanalysis, but we have years ago learned that you can't deliver that." (For if you do, you lose your paying patient! RHC)

The problem, said Dr. Orme -- and many psychiatrists and health officials agree with him -- is that emotional counseling should in- volve more than simply measuring electrodermal response and believing that trauma can be erased from the mind. (Obviously, Dr. Orme hasn't studied Dianetics and Scientology, nor made any effort to have himself "cleared" of his academic prejudices. RHC)

"Working through a problem does not mean that you're going to be immune from it," said Dr. Orme. "There is no way a person is going to be without problems, without fears. To fear is human." The E Meters lend an aura of science to a practice he believes to be useless at best and dangerous at worst. "The purpose of treatment is to do yourself out of a job," he said, speaking of psycho- analysis. "The purpose of the cult is to get you hooked and make a lifetime proposition out of it." (By which standard Dr. Orme is judging all the religions of the world! RHC)
THE HOME-MADE E-METER

A - 2N138 Raytheon Transistor
B - 327-T Triplett 0-500 Microamperes Meter
C - U-54 Midgetrol 1 meg Mallory Potentiometer and d.p.s.t. switch
R1 & R2 - 1/2 watt, 220 kilohm resistors
X1 - 15 volt battery
X2 - 22 1/2 volt battery
Clips or electrodes for contact with subject, two
No. 88 Mueller clips
Necessary hookup wire, solder and suitable mini-box

This bio-feedback or lie-detector device can be loads of interesting and enlightening fun. It is as reliable as the big, expensive E-meter of Dianetics.

The batteries remain fresh/strong for ever it seems, since there is no current drain from being used.

The Mueller type clips seemed the best kind. The setscrews are removed and the clip twisted until it springs open, then replace these screws and attach to a pair of flexible lead wires. This makes for nice, comfortable and reliable hand or foot attachment. There is no danger of shock and is quite safe to use.

To operate, simply connect a clip to finger or toe of each hand or foot, then turn the control dial until the meter needle stands at about mid-scale. Now start the questions and you're in business. Remember, the meter needle may drift as the skin resistance or electrodermal response changes, other than the galloping-waving that goes on in response to questions.

AH, THOSE EMOTION-AROUSING QUESTIONS!

One of the most talented "graduates" from Ron Hubbard's Dianetics and Scientology in the early days in Los Angeles was Volney Mathison. He developed and used a very sophisticated type of E-Meter but concentrated on creating personalized Sleep Tapes by which a person could "suggest" himself or herself toward or into the "clear" state at home. Here are some of the questions Mathison found to be most effective in auditing thousands of emotionally distressed Angelenos.

1. When you were a child, how did your mother treat you? Did she give you lots of love?
2. How did your father treat you?
3. Mention, by way of example, one of the worst things that has ever happened to you.
4. What do you think of a person who commits suicide?
5. Have you ever been in a hospital? (State illness or operation in each case.)
6. Have you ever been injured in an accident?
7. Whom did you hate or fear most when you were a child?
8. Mention some things that you feel should not occur. Things that you should fight or struggle against to keep them from happening.
9. Who loves you?
10. Who used to love you but no longer does?
11. Do you feel remorse, regret, or blame over the way you have treated some person? Mother? Father? Wife? Husband, etc?
12. If you were writing a novel and you had to depict some injurious thing happening to a baby or child, what would this thing be?
13. Have you ever been struck or severely beaten?
14. What do you think of a homosexual person?
15. How do you think women feel about you?
16. How do you think men feel about you?
17. How do you think children feel about you?
18. Have you ever been through an unhappy love experience?
19. (Married examinee) Do you love your wife/husband?
20. How do you think your wife/husband feels about you?
21. Have you ever been attacked or severely shocked sexually?

Though the answers to these may be noncommittal, a sudden surge on the E-Meter to any of them reveals to the auditor some hidden complex or engram which is the cause of the trouble.

SCIENTOLOGY'S DRAMATIC DEPARTURE -- FROM HOLLYWOOD

Former Associate Bob Beck told us an amusing story of his attempt, and failure, to get Dianetic processing in Hollywood in 1952. He was a flight test engineer at Lockheed at the time. The great goal of Scientology then was to produce people "cleared" of all en-grams and capable of functioning physically, emotionally and mentally at their fullest capacity. It was thought that Clear could be produced in 36 hours of auditing and Beck volunteered to take the "cure" at $10 an hour. He paid $200 in advance and came to the Center, a large old residence, direct from work on a Friday afternoon. He was to stay there that weekend for the 36-hour marathon.

The Center's prize graduate was a queer clear named Bert Squirt. Bert's present function was to act as a receiver for the "junk" as it was cleared out of the subject by the processing. The Center was a busy place that Friday afternoon, with all auditing rooms occupied except the one reserved for Beck. Top auditor Hardin Walsh ushered him into it. There were two cots, foot to foot, and a chair of course for Walsh. Bob lay down on one cot, and Bert on the other, in line with him and foot to foot. Walsh seated himself, making conversation about the expected success of this case.

Squirt, full of high good humor, was confident and eager to get to work.

"Send me those black balls, Daddy-0," he exclaimed. "Send me those black balls. I'll take care of them!"

Walsh asked his first question and even as Bob gave his reply Bert started screaming at the top of his voice. He jumped violently from his cot and still screaming, rushed out of the room, down the hallway to the stairs and out of the house. Still yelling as though possessed he disappeared down the street.

The auditor got up and followed Bert out, not to return. Beck sat up on his cot in wonderment. He heard startled voices in the other rooms, doors opened and footsteps rushed down the hall. In a moment or two the Center was quiet. Bob got up and went out into the hall. A glance into the other auditing rooms revealed them empty. He went downstairs, all quiet and deserted there. He went out into the street, not a soul in sight! He turned and went back up to his auditing room. Walsh would probably be back shortly. As he walked along the hall he was aware of eyes peering fearfully at him from behind one of the doors. He turned into his room. There was a rush of footsteps down the hall. The last frightened Scientologist leaped down the stairway and out into the street.

As Bob sat there the quiet minutes ticked by. There was no escaping the obvious fact. The beginning of his processing had emptied the Center. Finally he put his coat on and went home. The next day he returned at an early hour. The place was locked up, quiet and deserted. There was a typewritten note on the front door. "The Scientology Foundation has moved to Phoenix, Arizona."

ERAS, THE ELECTRONIC REACTIONS OF DR. ALBERT ABRAMS
As Described By Upton Sinclair In His Article "The House Of Wonder", First Published In "Pearson's Magazine", June 1922, Part II

Now comes an actor to Dr. Abrams' clinic in San Francisco. He has had a tumor on the brain, had lost the power to make connected sounds, and was rapidly losing the power to walk. Now after two months' treatment he can both talk and walk again, and his stage ambitions have revived. He is a tall, black-coated figure, presenting a weird appearance because a part of his treatment has consisted of shaving his head and painting it a vivid red, some substance whose vibratory rate corresponds to that of sarcoma.

"Now show us how you can walk," says Abrams. "Can you stand on your toe?"

"Yes, sir," says the actor and he toddles around.
"You couldn't do that a few weeks ago?"
"I fell on my face every time I tried it."
"And now walk on your heels. You couldn't do that."
"No, sir, if I got up on my heels when I got out of bed, I fell back on the bed helpless."
"And your voice is coming back all right?"
"Well, you can hear it," says the actor proudly. His voice still falters, but he tells us how in the old days he acted in England, and how some day he is going to act Richard III. He shows us how he will do it, with many expansive gestures:

"Now is the winter of our discontent
Made glorious summer by this sun of York!"

LET US BEGIN WITH FIRST PRINCIPLES

What is the principle upon which these marvels of Dr. Abrams are based? Let us bear in mind to begin with that all our explanations in this matter are guesses. What Abrams has done is to find out what happens. He has done this by 20 years of minute and painstaking experiment. Having found out, he tries to account for the happenings, to rationalize them, but if all his guesses are wrong, that does not alter his facts.

Let us begin with first principles. Modern physical science has discovered that all matter consists of electrical energy. Each molecule of matter is composed of millions of minute electrical charges. This is not a theory of Abrams, but something which is taught in all school text-books of physics. No eye has ever beheld these "electrons", they are millions of times smaller than anything the microscopes can reveal; but it has been found possible by various devices to photograph or otherwise record the effects of their activity, and if you are curious you may find such photographs reproduced in modern text-books of advanced physics. These electrons constitute universes in themselves; the tiny electrical charges revolve about a central nucleus just as our planets revolve around the sun. Some of the electrons are thrown off, and this constitutes what is known as radio-activity. It is known that all matter has radio-activity, and Abrams has proven by many interesting experiments that the human body is an infinitely complicated electronic machine, with a vast variety of radio activities.

Every high school boy knows that water consists of two molecules of hydrogen and one of oxygen, and if it varied from that composition it would be something else than water. In the same way, Abrams has discovered experimentally that every disease has a radio-activity peculiar to itself, and uniform and invariable. He calls this the Vibratory Rate of the disease; but you must bear in mind that this term is purely arbitrary, a name which he gives to certain effects which he has observed and measured, though he does not know what they are or how they came to be. Tubercular tissue, and the tubercle bacillus and every drop of blood from a body which contains the tubercle bacillus -- all these substances produce a reaction when the rheostat is set at 42, and if the reaction does not come through at this point, there is no tuberculosis in that body. That this is amazing and new does not in any way alter the fact that it is so. It has been demonstrated by Abrams in many thousands of cases. It is demonstrated over and over again scores of times every day in his clinic, and it can be demonstrated by anyone who will take the trouble to understand his method.

AN INFALLIBLE METHOD OF DIAGNOSIS

It would be impossible to exaggerate the revolutionary nature of this one discovery. It gives us for the first time an infallible method for the diagnosis of disease; it gives us also a means of exploring and understanding its real nature. By this method we learn that many of the principal diseases exist in forms hitherto not recognized; also that some diseases, supposed to be entirely separate and distinct, are in reality different symptoms of the same disease. For example, the so-called pernicious anemia or deficiency of red corpuscles in the blood, turns out to be a symptom of congenital syphilis, human or bovine, of cerebro-spinal activity. Cancer and tuberculosis turn out to be consequences of syphilis, either congenital or acquired; that is, you never find blood in which there is either carcinoma, sarcoma, tuberculosis, or dementia, that you do not also find the reaction of some form of syphilis. This disease turns out to be the basic source of our worst troubles; lurking in our blood in forms hitherto unrecognized, and in places not accessible to other researches. As Abrams phrases it picturesquely: "Realized pathology is syphilitized pathology. Our sainted ancestors were tainted ancestors!" He has obtained the reaction of syphilis, both congenital and acquired, from the bones of Egyptian mummies three thousand years old.

BLOOD, THE DICTIONARY OF LIFE

Human blood contains many vibratory rates; it contains not merely the vibratory rates of disease, it contains other rates dependent upon age and sex, others upon race, others upon family. All these things Abrams has worked out by elaborate and painstaking experiment, and he provides you with tables so that by examining a drop of blood you can determine whether it contains a Negro strain, a Japanese, or Indian, or what you will. He has also an infallible method for determining paternity. He finds a number of different vibratory rates in the blood of the child and then he tests the blood of the father and finds the same rates. This aspect of his work brings him notoriety because it has to do with court proceedings, and scandals, appealing to the newspapers. It is a curious commentary upon our journalism that it telegraphs all over the country the news that Abrams has pronounced a certain child to be illegitimate, while it says not a word about the fact that there come to his clinic every day people who have been cured of all three of the dread scourges of our race, syphilis, tuberculosis and cancer.

I repeat: disease in all its manifestations, its germs, the poisons produced by these germs, and the body tissues in which these germs have been active, all yield the same invariable vibratory rate. Abrams has specimens of all the various diseases in test-tubes bearing the label of a well-known laboratory. With his divine patience he will stop his work and show you that if you place a tube near the instrument you get the same reaction that you get from the blood of a diseased person. He will take in his clinic a patient suffering from cancer and show you the reaction. He will show you that this reaction comes through at the number 50, and does not come through at the number 51. He will bring samples of healthy blood, or will put the electrode upon a patient who has no cancer, and show you that no reaction comes through. He will show you that certain persons are immune to cancer; that is to say, samples of their blood, placed between the cancer specimen and the instrument, will cancel out the cancer rate, and there will be no reaction. Abrams himself is one of these immune persons, and he proved it long ago. He was one of six physicians. in a certain hospital who experimented with X-rays in the early days. All the other five died of cancer and Abrams shows you scars upon his hands which would have turned to cancer had he not possessed the natural immunity. It happens that he has been twice married, and both his wives died of cancer, which accounts for some of the energy with which he has gone at the problem of this disease. He has undoubtedly conquered it. He can produce immunity in the blood and will demonstrate that immunity to you.

THE FINEST MEASURING INSTRUMENT, THE HUMAN BODY

Now to continue: it is impossible as yet to measure these infinitely minute vibrations, millions of millions of times smaller than anything our senses can perceive. There had to be an instrument to sort them out and manifest them, and the most subtle instrument Abrams could find was the human body. That accounts for his curious practice of using a "subject". He explains that the nervous system of the body consists of millions of minute fibers and lines of communication, and these apparently correspond to different vibratory rates.

At any rate, he has observed that if he presses an electrode to the forehead of a human being, and admits to that body radio-activity of a certain vibratory rate, that activity will affect certain nerve channels and no others; it will travel through the body and will manifest itself at certain nerve ends, locations which can be detected by patient search. Wherever the impulse goes, there will be a minute increase in the activity of the cells; a little more blood will flow to that spot, the cells will dilate, and there will be what physicians know as a "dull area", to be discovered by "percussion".

So here is Abrams' technique of exploring the human body; first, the specimen of blood, placed in a box connected with an electrode; second, an instrument which stops all electrical manifestations from this blood, except those at one certain rate; third, the body of the "subject", which takes the vibrations through and turns them into cell activity at a certain area.

In Abrams' practice the subject first places the electrode upon his forehead, and the reactions appear upon the abdomen. He then places the electrode a little further up on his head, and the reactions appear on the back. He then places the electrode upon the top of his head, just back of a line between the ears, and the reactions again appear upon the abdomen, but at a different area than when the electrode was upon the forehead.

The method of determining these reactions by percussion is an unsatisfactory one. Percussion is to some extent a lost art, and few physicians have the necessary skill to recognize the dull area. Abrams himself, I think, would never make a mistake if he were not hurried, if the work piled upon him were not several times too much for one man. But it should be understood that if his facts are correct, they are not in the least invalidated by errors in practice; any more than, for example, the method of wireless telegraphy is invalidated by sunspots, or a drunken operator. What is wanted is an instrument that will record the reactions from the body automatically; perhaps by the minute increase in heat at the "dull" area, or the still more minute increase of moisture. If such an instrument can be contrived, the method will be "fool-proof", and Abrams can die in peace. He has been robbing his sleep in order to seek this instrument. He hoped to find it in the pithball, but this depends too much upon the electrical conditions of the room and other accidental factors. He hoped to find it in a vibrating wire, but such wires have their nodes, their own dull areas, not dependent upon the radio-activity of the blood. I carry in my mind the image of this devoted and heroic man staggering under his too heavy burden, and I feel like calling out to all the inventors of the world to come and help him solve the problem -- to find some way of recording minute changes of vascular activity upon a dial!

THE UNSATISFACTORY SUBJECT OR REAGENT

Meantime, until the inventor comes, Albert Abrams must continue to spend his precious hours tapping, tapping, tapping upon the bare skin of a bored young man, and people in Boston, Toronto and Mexico City, waiting anxiously to know from what deadly disease they are suffering, are dependent in part upon the fact that this young man may have eaten too many waffles for his breakfast (or may have had polarizing sexual intercourse with his girl friend the night before!)

I see Abrams wrinkling up his forehead with exasperation and exclaiming, "Oh, your reactions are very poor this morning!"

He takes the flat of his hand and pounds upon the seventh cervical vertebra of the bored young man. There will be perhaps 25 blood specimens to examine that morning, and as many patients to be interviewed, each one a desperate case demanding compassion from a man who is as tender-hearted as a child; and if in the midst of all that pressure he should make one slip, and miss the reaction at 49, then some vulgar ridiculer will call in the newspaper reporters and proclaim the fact that he sent Abrams a specimen of his own blood and got a diagnosis of animal blood!

Up to a few years ago Albert Abrams was one of the most eminent practitioners in San Francisco, the head physician of large hospitals, recognized as the author of important discoveries. But now, when you mention his name, the average San Francisco physician shakes his head and says, "Oh, Abrams! He's crazy!" And if you ask why he is crazy, you will be told, first, he claims to locate disease from a drop of blood; second, he claims to tell paternity from a drop of blood; third, he claims that cattle have syphilis, and that you can get it from vaccination. You see what has happened, He has gone ahead a little too fast, and so they say about him what they said about Harvey, who discovered the circulation of the blood, and about Lister, who discovered antisepsis -- "He's crazy!"

Why should not cattle have syphilis? For nearly two centuries now we have been inoculating them with the virus of human smallpox. We know that cattle can take that disease; we know also that they can take tuberculosis. Why should they not have taken syphilis and developed a form of this disease which can be reinoculated into the human body? Whether or not this happens is purely a matter for experiment. Abrams finds that he gets a reaction of bovine syphilis, and he has the courage to say so; also he has the patience to take you in his clinic and show you the reaction. He will show it on your vaccination scar; he will have someone move the electrode up your arm, and tell you when it gets to that spot. And you can go to a drug store and buy some vaccination points, and put them in front of the electrode, and Abrams will show you the vibratory rate of 57 in five cases out of six. If you want to have yourself inoculated by one of these points, he will show the reactions some hours later in your own blood. If he is mistaken in all this -- somebody is free to prove it, but that somebody will have to start on the basis of Abram's findings.

A SIMPLE CURE FOR SYphilIS, BLUE LIGHT

George Sterling said to me, "When the anti-vaccinationists get on to Abrams' work, what a howl they will raise!" But Abrams has found a method of destroying the syphilitic proclivities of the vaccination points. All that is necessary to purify the virus is to expose it for five minutes to the influence of blue light, which destroys the activity of the spirochetes; and then to expose it to yellow light, which destroys the tuberculous factor. If you doubt this, Abrams has his ever-ready answer. He will put a tube of bovine syphilis to the electrode and show you the reaction; and then he will have his assistant throw a blue light on the tube -- and behold the reaction is gone!

This brings me to the most important aspect of Abrams' work -- the cure. It means, of course, a great deal to physicians to be able to diagnose infallibly, but to the patient it is cold comfort to be told that he has some deadly disease, if he has to go on having it. Abrams claims to cure, and here again we have two things to consider: first, the facts, and second, the theory. The theory may be wrong but the facts are beyond dispute.

Having ascertained the vibratory rate of cancer, it occurred to him in his gropings to find out what would be the effect upon a cancer specimen of a continued exposure to that same vibratory rate. He constructed an instrument called the "oscilloclast", which breaks up an ordinary alternating current of electricity into various vibrations. He measured these by the same instrument that measures the radio-activity of the disease; and when he had got a rate which gave the same reaction as the cancer specimen, he applied this rate to the cancer specimen, and discovered that the effect was to destroy the cancer reaction.

After such treatment had been given, you might put the cancer specimen near the electrode, but you would get no dull area. What could this mean? Could it mean that the cancer was no longer cancer? Imagine the state of mind of a physician who has seen two wives and many of his colleagues die of this hideous disease, and suddenly discovers that he can destroy its vibratory rate? How quickly he would hasten to get some animal that was suffering from cancer and try the experiment upon it. And then to take some human subject, in the last stages of the disease, and make the final, all-important test!

THE BODY EATING UP THE CANCER?

What happens? I have just read a letter, written by Dr. Wm. G. Doern, of Milwaukee, describing a case of cancer of the pylorus, the opening from the stomach into the small intestine. This was a far advanced case, and the patient was treated by the oscillolclast, and the malignancy of the disease destroyed; but the digestive disturbances continued, because of the mass blocking the stomach, and so an operation was performed. It was found that this cancer had degenerated, and around the edges of the body had begun changing into connective tissue, or what in everyday language is known as gristle.

In a case of sarcoma of the leg bone, the size of two fists, it was found that the mass could be scooped out by the handful; and all around the edges the body was turning it into fibrous tissue. As you may know, cancer and malignant tumors are the mysterious turning of human tissue into a lower form of unorganized cell life; those lower forms of cells begin to eat up the body. But here, suddenly the process was reversed; the mysterious power of the evil cells was gone, and the body was eating up the cancer!

What happened in these cases of cancer happens with every form of germ infection (when the oscillolclast is directed at it). Ascertain the vibratory rate of the disease, ascertain what current will cancel that reaction, and then pour into the body a current of that rate, and you destroy the activity of the germs. You cannot, of course, always restore tissue. If a lung has been eaten up by tuberculosis, you cannot build a new lung. But arrest the course of the disease and take good care of yourself, and then you will be astonished to see how far the healing forces of nature can rebuild what has been ruined.

FASTING CAN DO IT, TOO

I have known this from ten years' experience, watching what the body can do after the blood has been purified by a long fast. Here in Abrams' clinic you see it happening, and you feel as if you were watching the old-time Bible miracles. The blind begin to see, the deaf begin to hear, the lame begin to walk! I speak the literal truth when I say that after I had sat for a week in Abrams' clinic I had lost all feeling of the horror of the three dread diseases, tuberculosis, syphilis and cancer. (In the Alice Bailey writings, the Master D.K. says that Syphilis was the great general disease of the Lemurians, Tuberculosis of the Atlanteans, and cancer of the Caucasians.)

Why does the vibratory rate destroy the disease activity? Abrams

makes a guess and the guess is interesting. He tells how he once saw Caruso, at a dinner party, tap upon a wine glass and determine the musical note at which it vibrated, and then sing that musical note at the glass and shatter it to fragments. You can see how this happens. The vibration is reinforced by a new energy, its violence is continually increased as a swing is made to go farther and farther with each additional shove. (The engineer thinks of the Standing Wave created by two opposing forces interpenetrating each other—the incoming tide going up a downflowing river, for instance, with the tidal wave going inland for miles against the flowing stream.) You know that soldiers marching over a bridge always have to break step, otherwise they would bring down the bridge. In my wife's family they tell a well authenticated incident of an old gentleman who caused a stampede in a country church by his absent-minded habit of sitting with his legs crossed and one foot shaking persistently up and down. They thought it was the first earthquake in the history of Mississippi!

BUSTING UP THE CRYSTALLIZED FORMATION OF DISEASE

Abrams believes that this is what happens to the disease germs, or rather to the millions upon millions of whirling electrons which compose the molecules of the germs. The vibrations are intensified, the electrons are flung apart, and that which was disease germ becomes something else. This guess may sound fantastic, but it happens to be closely in line with what we know about radio-activity. One of its first developments was the breaking down of the atom.

The so-called "elements" were discovered not to be permanent; they could be changed into one another. Radium was a product of the degeneration of uranium, and was degenerating into a form of lead. Scientists of eminence, such as Sir William Ramsey, announced that the transmutation of metals had become a fact. So do not be over-skeptical when Abrams suggests that by means of a current he can change the atoms of cancer into the atoms of some other substance. (Substances such as simple proteins and carbohydrates which can be re-absorbed by the body as food, and poisons which are eliminated through normal channels of feces, urine and perspiration.)

I asked him if these same vibrations might not injure living tissue, but he answers that there is nothing in the normal body which yields the same vibratory rate as disease. He knows this, because he has tried tens of thousands of experiments. He knows it because he has had many thousands of patients, sitting with the electrode of the oscilliclast pressed to some portion of their body; and he has yet to learn of anything being injured except the hostile invaders.

You have no sensation whatever from the instrument; you can have it brought to your home, and take the treatment all night while you sleep. I know of one case where it was used for 11 consecutive hours, and completely cured a case of acute appendicitis. Dr. Abrams has ascertained that pain has a certain vibratory rate, and if you have a pain he can locate it; he also found the rate that cancels pain, and has taken the oscilloclast to a dentist's office and demonstrated to several dentists that work otherwise agonizing could be done practically without sensation. He has even made it possible to perform a surgical operation on the rectum, an extremely painful matter, without anesthetics.

"What about childbirth?" I asked him.

"I should like to know," he replied, "but I can't get time to find out."

"I will tell the women of America," I said, "and they will take the time to find out!"

THE INVADER NO ARMY CAN STOP

For the last few years a great part of the resources of modern science has been devoted to the destruction of human life in war. If today any foreign enemy should invade our land we have airplanes with which to fly over him, and bombs to drop upon him, releasing clouds of deadly gases which will poison and entirely destroy whole armies. Billions of dollars we have spent upon this kind of activity and we feel that our country is safe from invasion. But meantime, here are these deadly germs which invade our individual bodies, multiplying to an extent we cannot express in figures, and causing atrocious suffering, disfigurement and death to whole populations. And here in a little laboratory in San Francisco a lonely scientist has been working to give us mastery of these germs.

He tells us how we can destroy them once for all, rout them out of our systems and build barriers against them. He presents us with this knowledge, the fruit of many decades of toil, and for this service he will take rank in future times among the greatest of benefactors of the human race. I am one who believes in honoring men while they are alive, and I pay to this great scientist the tribute of my love and admiration.

There has been founded in San Francisco by some of Abrams' pupils an International Association for Racial Purification. Abrams, who happens by rare good fortune to be a man of independent means, has pledged the sum of fifty thousand dollars to its purpose which is to advocate that every child upon entering school be examined by the electronic blood test, before the ravages of congenital syphilis have made headway in the body. The treatments which remove the hideous disease take only three or four hours and the child does not know what is happening. The "oscilloclast" costs about $200 to manufacture, and it can be used day and night without limit.

"Any instrument in my possession will be donated freely to any institution that demands it," said Dr. Abrams. "If I could get someone to establish an institution, I would give up all my present work and devote the rest of my life freely to further the work."

The Psychic Warfare of Armageddon is On

By Edward Sigall, In "National Enquirer"
Aug. 23, 1977, and Sent To Us For The Journal by Marjorie Haas

The Soviet Union has developed the devastating capability to launch mind-boggling psychic warfare against the United States -- and is racing to build an arsenal of incredible ESP weapons, say top experts. The Russians, already have the capability to create deadly mind weapons according to an interview with a top American scientist who helped prepare a recently declassified report done for the CIA. These horrifying weapons could:

+ Murder President Carter and other heads of state by sending deadly psychic energy thousands of miles to trigger massive heart attacks and strokes.

+ Broadcast fiendish, invisible thought waves by "psychic radio" that can infiltrate and control the minds of our leaders -- or drive them stark, raving mad.

+ Brainwash unsuspecting statesmen into trusting and believing any lies that are spouted by Soviet officials.

(So what's new? The priesthoods of the world, and the Black Magicians, have been using such techniques ever since man developed enough self-consciousness to project his thought upon a hated enemy. 400 years ago Science separated itself from Religion in disgust during the Reformation. Now it has come full circle and is embracing those laws of Dynamic Mind Power which are used, or misused, to keep millions of people under hypnotic control.)

And secret information given to the ENQUIRER by Russians Scientists who have left the Soviet Union reveals that the Russians are pouring billions of dollars into the development of their deadly ESP weapons -- and already have put some of them to use against the United States.

The Russian scientists also disclosed that the Kremlin's diabolical psychic army includes: Tibetan monks who can crack skulls and snap spines using mind power. . . psychics trained to predict enemy troop maneuvers. . . and souvenir gifts -- given to foreign leaders -- that are charged with psychic energy intended to muddle their minds.

(Well, well, the Tantric Buddhism of the Gelugspas has been transferred from Lhasa to Moscow. Kabalactes, the False Buddha, lost his power base when the Chinese Communists overran Tibet and destroyed the Tibetan monastic system. Now apparently he has transferred his center of operations from astral Lhassa to astral Moscow, with immigrant lamas as his agents. Russia was a part of the principality of the false Christ, Looeamong, until the Russian Communists destroyed the Eastern branch of the Roman Catholic Church there in 1917. It seems likely that the Tashi Lama has moved from his cavern world headquarters, Agharta, under Tibet, to the cavern world under Moscow -- unless he and his horde of soul-less initiates were wiped out in the great earthquake of August 15, 1950. The collapsing cavern world under Tibet caused great changes in the landscape. See BSRF No. 18 "Secret City In The Valley Of Mystery" $2.25)

PUTTING RADIONICS TO BAD USE

"The Russian plan for psychic warfare is so dangerous it is like the atomic bomb," declared Dr. Jeff Eerkens, a nuclear engineer and laser specialist who worked on the CIA report. "It might sound like science fiction -- but it has a real basis in fact."

Dr. Edward Wortz -- a psychologist who headed the team of scientists working on the CIA report -- told the ENQUIRER "there is no doubt that the Russian scientists not only believe in what we call psychic phenomena -- they have actually proven it exists and have learned how to use it."

The CIA asked the scientists to make careful projections of where the Soviets have gone with their psychic research. Explained Dr. Eerkens: "I believe the Soviets are actually building prototype equipment for psychic warfare -- including machines to let them tune into the thoughts of world leaders (sounds like Radionics to me) -- or even drive them mad."

Dr. Eerkens believes the Soviets have been able to develop amazing psychic weapons -- because they have actually cracked the riddle of how ESP works. The Russians discovered that an energy field constantly flows around the earth at the speed of light, according to Dr. Eerkens (but Dr. Ruth Drown said that it flowed faster than that)! Quoting from her article in our Round Robin Journal of Borderland Research, Sept-Oct 1951: "The Life Force... goes out from the body and around the world at enormous speed. According to the Ancients it traveled at the rate of 345,000 miles per second, whereas ordinary light has a speed of 186,000 miles per second..." This article is in our book, BSRF No. 33B, "The Drown Radio Vision and Homo-Vibra Ray Instruments", $25.00).

The human brain acting as a transmitter, can put an electrically charged thought into this stream of energy which carries it until another brain, acting as a receiver, picks it up. Incredible psychic warfare machines could then amplify the thought and transmit it through the energy stream to another spot on Earth. The machines could also receive thoughts flowing in the energy stream, acting as a psychic radio receiver.

"It means they could tune into the thoughts of anybody they wanted," said Dr. Eerkens. "They could tune into the thoughts of military leaders in the United States. I think by another application of the same principles they could actually drive a man mad. You could brainwash a man. You keep sending signals into his mind. You could induce brain hemorrhage or heart attacks from thousands of miles away. The signals would command the brain to stop the heart or do other damage.

(Remember the television debates between Carter and Ford in the last presidential campaign? At one point in one debate Jimmy Carter was about to make an observation on the subversive activities of certain government agencies and his microphone went dead. TV listeners across the country could only see Jimmy's lips moving. Later it was found that a small resistor in the amplifier had suddenly failed. I believe this is an example of the pinpoint accuracy of which psychokinetic Radionics is capable -- in the hands of an expert. But it seems likely the expert was operating -- not in Moscow -- but rather somewhere in the Washington area!)

One of the Soviet Union's former top experts of parapsychology research, Avraham Shifrin, now living in Israel, revealed: "Otner Russian parapsychology researchers who have been immigrating to Israel have told me that they were continuing telepathic experiments. They are trying to develop the ability to spy psychically on western leaders -- possibly even on Jimmy Carter in the White House."

BEWARE OF RUSSIANS BEARING MAGNETIZED TALISMANS

Shifrin recalled that as far back as 1963 he learned firsthand of terrifying psychic weapons being built by the Soviet government -- some of which are now already in use. "They were starting experiments in which psychics projected their energies into copper, silver and wood objects. They call these objects batteries of power," he explained. "These batteries of power were often simple-looking dolls, wooden spoons and model sputniks. The person that handles these gifts can be affected by the energy that was projected into them. For example, if someone is a decision-maker the object could make him mentally weak and indecisive.

"I was on a lecture tour of Europe and the United States in 1975 and 1976. I personally met many American officials and I saw these objects in some of their homes and offices.

"They studied the possibilities of using the psychic weapon of long distance killing by means of thoughts only. They brought Tibetan priests to a secret Soviet laboratory. There they were able to crack the back of a skull -- by means of thought alone. These Tibetans are master of telekinesis (moving objects with the mind). They break the spinal column by using powers of thought."

Raphael Zidovetzki, who worked for three years as a parapsychology researcher in Moscow before moving to Israel in 1974, added: "We studied the possibilities of hypnotizing a person telepathically at a great distance -- without his knowing it. The possibilities are horrible. Imagine a few powerful psychics sitting in Moscow sending suggestions to Jimmy Carter. Why would you need an atom bomb, if you can make Jimmy Carter do what you want?"

Incredibly, the Russians have trained psychics who can help destroy enemy forces -- by actually predicting troop movements, according to Shifrin. "They had people trained in clairvoyance who used their abilities in experiments to predict troop maneuvers."

PROTECTIVE WORK FOR THE LEADER

The Russians also have psychics who are so amazingly sensitive to possible danger that they guard the most important man in the Soviet Union, their top leader, Leonid Brezhnev, according to Shifrin.

"These guards are capable of reading the thoughts of people in crowds," revealed Shifrin. Advising these special guards is Wolfgang Messing, who was chief of Stalin's guard. Messing works for the KGB (the Russian secret police) and has astonishing psychic powers -- he uses these powers as a weapon.

Zidovetzki, who is now working as a research assistant in biophysics in Israel, disclosed: "The parapsychology institutes in the USSR are secret and this means that their primary purpose is military. They are given billions of rubles (the equivalent of billions of dollars) for research.

"The Soviet Union is running a psychic race with the West -- and winning it."

Wolf Messing was in his seventies when Sheila Ostrander and Lynn Schroeder were compiling their outstanding opus on parapsychology, "Psychic Discoveries Behind The Iron Curtain", in 1968. It was published by Prentice-Hall in 1970. They devote chapter four of their book to this Polish Jew who escaped Hitler's hordes into Russia. Like Uri Geller, only better, he made his living demonstrating his remarkable hypnotic, telepathic and psychokinetic powers to paid audiences. Like Geller, Messing is an atheist, but he doesn't believe in spirits of any kind, thinking that spiritualism is a fraud. So this egomaniac attributes all of his super powers to himself, thus helping to set a blind, materialistic trap for all psychic research in Russia. Stalin heard of the man's startling powers and accurate prophecies and demanded proof. Messing was to rob a Russian bank merely by going in and hypnotizing the teller to give him 100,000 rubles. He pulled off the robbery with ease, thus convincing the hard-headed, hard-hearted Russian leaders of the reality and possibilities of psychic power as a military weapon. But it was the Russian physicists, not the psychologists, who were inspired by Messing to establish a material, scientific basis and explanation for psychic phenomena.
RUSSIAN PSIONIC WARFARE

Here's an interesting and significant talk given Sept. 9th at the Anderson Research Foundation, Inc., 3960 Ingraham St., Los Angeles, California 90005: "Russian Psionic Warfare Transmissions and Their Measurable Effects On Our Moods Today" by Bob Beck.

"Russian psionic warfare transmissions are bombarding the United States and Canada with mood-altering radio signals. Today's anxiety and tension may be traced to these E.L.F. (Extremely Low Frequency) magnetic disturbances. Bob Beck presents absolute proof, slides and electronic demonstrations. No tape recording or cameras."

It has been discovered by the Dr. Fausts of the electronic industry, both here and in Russia, that ELF waves, down around seven or eight cycles per second, do affect human emotions, perhaps because this is the area of the Alpha rhythms of the brain which represent subconscious activity.

Imagine the shock and surprise of these Russian "Fausts" when they pass on and find that they have sold their souls to the Beelzebubs of the false Buddha, Kabalactes, and will have to serve their time as his slaves on the Astral plane.

UNPLEASANT CONTACT WITH A "BATTERY OF POWER"

Mention of the use of magnetized gifts, talismans, "batteries of power", by the Russians to influence the minds of the unsuspecting diplomats of other nations reminded us of an illustrative anecdote from Dion Fortune's "Psychic Self-Defense" in the chapter on "Hauntings":

"There are many Europeans who have a great affection for the Buddha, and have His statue in their rooms (though sometimes they confuse it with Chenresi, the stout and beaming god of goodluck). That the influence of that great Being, the Light of Asia, is noble and benignant, I would be the last to deny; but the statues of Buddha are a different matter, and need to be approached with caution, if genuine. Some of the worst black magic in the world is a debased form of Buddhism. To say this is not to insult that venerable faith, for it is only lack of opportunity that prevents the Black Mass from occupying that dubious eminence. In the Tibetan monasteries of the Dugpa sect there are temples each one of which contained literally thousands of statues of the Buddha. On various occasions one or another of these monasteries has been raided, either by rival religionists or Chinese troops, and its curios scattered. To be the possessor of one of these Buddhas, magnetised by Dugpa rites, is not a very pleasant thing.

"I had a curious experience with a Buddha upon one occasion. It was an archaic soap-stone statuette, some nine inches high, and its owner had dug it up herself on the site of a Burmese city that had fallen in ruin and been swallowed by the jungle. It was placed on the floor in an angle of the stairs, and served as a doorstop on occasion. I had a flat on the top floor, and had to pass the melancholy little Buddha each time I came in and went out, and to me it seemed a desecration to see the sacred symbol of another faith treated thus. I tried to point this out to her, and asked her how she would feel if she saw a crucifix thus utilized, but without result. Meanwhile the little Buddha sat there patiently, getting the carpet-sweeper pushed in his face and receiving libations of slops (from the mop).

"One day, passing upstairs bearing a bunch of flowers, I was prompted to throw before him one of the traditional marigolds of Indian devotion. Immediately I was conscious that a link had been formed between myself and the little statue, and that it was sinister. A night or two afterwards I was returning home rather late, and as I passed the Buddha I had a feeling that here was something behind me, and looking over my shoulder, saw a ball of pale golden light about the size of a football separate itself from the Buddha and come rolling up the stairs after me. Thoroughly alarmed, and disliking this manifestation very much indeed, I immediately made a banishing gesture and the ball of light returned down the stairs and was reabsorbed into the Buddha, who, needless to say, got no more marigolds from me, and received a very wide berth until I left the flat shortly after. The experience was singularly unpleasant one, and was a sharp lesson to me not to meddle with the sacred objects of another system unless I knew exactly what I was about. I learnt subsequently that some of these statues are consecrated with the blood of a human sacrifice.

"I do not mean to imply by this that all Buddhist statues have been so treated; such consecrations are, I should imagine, comparatively rare; but I think no one who has a knowledge of the facts will deny that they occur, even as one might occasionally come across a Crucifix which had been used upside down at a Black Mass."

Kabalactes, the false Buddha, is always looking for victims, or recruits if you prefer, and Dion Fortune's anecdote reveals how some of the recruiting is done.

ONE PSIONIC BATTLE THE RUSSIANS LOST

English journalist J. Bernard Hutton, born in Czechoslovakia, wrote and had published a book on his four years as a reporter in the pre-World War II Russia of Stalin. It is titled "The Great Illusion" and was published in 1970. One chapter is devoted to a strange fight between dead Ukrainian soldiers and Russian officers and was reviewed by Maurice Barbanell in the London "Psychic News", Aug. 8, 1970: "In 1936 Hutton worked for a Moscow evening paper. He and a colleague were assigned to report Red Army manoeuvres in the Ukraine.

"Wearing uniforms they joined the officers in an improvised billet in the local mayor's house. When ordered to vacate his ground floor for this purpose, the mayor, with a strange look, said, 'I would not advise you to stay at this house.' The CO curtly dismissed this 'advice' demanding accommodations for the 22-strong party. After supper they bunked down on the floor boards, to get some sleep before the planned dawn 'surprise attack on enemy forces'.

"They were rudely awakened in the middle of the night by loud shouts outside. Hutton thought the 'enemy' had made a surprise attack. Fierce looking soldiers burst in. Instead of obeying military manoeuvre rules they began smashing the surprised Red Army officer's heads with their rifle butts!

"Within seconds a real battle was under way. The officers who were not wounded pulled their pistols and fired at their attackers. But, although their bullets struck at point-blank range, the attacking soldiers seemed bullet-proof, and continued their attack! Then they dashed out of the mayor's house, shouting and swearing in Ukrainian, leaving behind a 'horrible mess. Some of the officers were dead, others unconscious or groaning with pain. The CO lay on the floor in a pool of blood, his head split open'.

THE TWO REPORTERS UNHARMED

"While the dead and injured were put in ambulances, Hutton and his friend were interrogated. They were the only two unharmed. The mayor was asked about the massacre. He said the authorities would not believe his story that 'the Ukrainian Red Guards attacked the officers because they were Russians'. The secret police colonel warned him not to 'talk drivel. Don't you know there have been no Red Guards since the civil war ended?'

"The mayor replied that since these guards were shot by a White Russian firing squad in 1918, 'they come back. . . they are Ukrainians and hate the Russians. . . everybody here will confirm it.' The Russians arrested the mayor, the two journalists and the entire male population of the village, convinced they must be involved in the attack.

"Hutton asked the mayor to repeat his story. He was 12 during the civil war when the district frequently changed hands between Red Guards and Red and White Russians. Once the Russian Whites laid a trap for the Ukrainian Red Guards. They machine-gunned them down in the house where the mayor now lived.

"So you think they came back as ghosts while we were there and attacked the Red army officers?' asked Hutton.

"I know it was them. I have seen them come to my house often enough. I know that Red Guards' uniforms look like. I saw them all the time during the civil war. They don't harm Ukrainians, they only attack Russians because they hate them.'

"He said the journalists were unharmed because they were not Russians. Although they wore the same uniform, 'they just know . . . they often come to my house and never harm anyone. Ask anyone in the village, they all know it's the truth.'

"Much later Hutton learned the reason for their sudden release by the secret police. Soviet ballistics experts confirmed that the officers had fired at their attackers. Bullets were found which had hit walls, the door and window frames. Some dead or wounded Ukrainians should also have been found! They were forced to accept the fact that 'ghosts' were responsible for the strange raid.

"'Soviet ideology did not accept the existence of a spirit world or any other supernormal phenomena,' sums up Hutton. 'So it was advantageous to declare the case closed.'

"Some newspapers published leaked reports, disclosing names of killed and wounded Red Army officers before the secrecy clamp. These copies were recalled and the editorial staffs sworn to secrecy."

THE SEARL THREE-SEATER LEVITY DISC

New Zealand associates have sent us the latest piece of promotional literature from the Searl National Space Research Consortium, Swallow Command, 17 Stephens Close, Mortimer, Berkshire RG7 3TX, England.

It says the Primary Objective is to "demonstrate flight capabilities" at the "Farnborough Airshow 1978", and the Secondary Objective is to "cover the ground where it is intended to commence Passenger and Freight work with a 2,000 Seater Craft at a later date. The basic flight path of this Three Seater Craft will cover the Ring Circuit involved in the large craft plans. This Ring consists of the following airports: Auckland, Honolulu, Los Angeles, Seoul/Kimpo, Tokyo, Hongkong, Singapore, Sydney and Auckland. . .

In the case of the Three Seater craft the Pilot will change each time it arrives at Auckland International Airport, thus providing the flying instructors with opportunity to become acquainted with the first Levity Disc Circuit to become operative a few years ahead."

There's the catch phrase which lets Searl off the hook, "a few years ahead". In other words, the three-seater hasn't really been built and flown yet; so there is no proof that Searl's levity principles are any better in practice, or even equal to, those developed by Viktor Schauberger in Vienna. We first heard of Searl and his Research and Development work on levity discs at least 10 years ago, maybe 12 or 15, when a London Flying Saucer researcher went out to the Berkshires to see Searl's lab and discs at first hand. This was after BBC-TV did a news item on him and one of his little discs apparently in flight. The researcher found, to his extreme disappointment, that the Searl disc had actually been suspended by a string for "flight" before the TV cameras. He came away convinced that John Searl was a fraud. I have seen nothing in the years since then to prove otherwise, but if an Englishman or a New Zealander can come up with pictorial proof of a Searl disc, three-seater or 2,000 seater in flight and under its own power, I'll be more than glad to run the picture in the Journal, with details of when the flight took place and where and who flew it.

THE SECOND COMING - THE SECOND CHRISTMAS

A very recent message from one who identifies herself as Gloria Lee, whose story of her passing in 1963 was in the Sept-Oct Journal. This was channeled at Zelrun Karsleigh's Universarium center in Portland, Oregon. Aug. 24, 1977:

"It is a surprise to me to be here, beloved, because I am so much in the forefront in many places that need help more than you do here. We see you have a great and marvelous Light here, but I am working with cohorts that do not have as much interest and Light to bring into fullness.

"Now I want to speak to you as blessed workers of the Father's Kingdom. I want to speak to you tonight in regard to beautifying your house and cleaning it. This must be to you a sort of drudgery work because when you think of it you say, 'Oh, my, I am so tired of just work, work, work and it seems like I never get my rest.' Now you can make work a beautiful pleasure. So when you start sweeping, you find things which have been missing for some time. Have you ever found within yourself there was a secret Love you did not have that you could share with others? You finally wake up to the realization that 'It is not me. It is the Great Pearl I have found because I endured my cross! I endured because I said 'Well, if I dont clean up now it will just stay this way and we must prepare because there is going to be company, a celebration is coming!'

"This company or celebration that is coming is none other than the Master of the House Who shall return to your planet. And so you sweep your house and you find this Pearl and you set your house in order, do you not? I am giving you a symbolic lesson this night, my beloved children, because the Master of the House stands ready to take over the Father's Kingdom, you see, to bring forth the manifestation of the Sons of God into perfect balance; because the Father's Kingdom is within each and every one of you.

"So, clean the attic, clean the inner part, and also clean the outer part; for you need the scales of illusion scraped off from you, and fresh anointings brought upon your whole being so those who sit in Dark Places of the earth today may see the Light shining from within.

"I tell you that one who is lost at sea looketh toward land; for he can see the great tower of Light, the Beacon Light; and so when he discovers this Beacon Light he will head toward it. Are you not to be a Light, my beloved, set upon a hill, that others may see it and come to it? This, then I say, you must refurbish your outside and paint it with Light that others may see it. You must have within the soul a light coming from the soul.

PREPARE FOR THE GUEST THAT IS TO COME

"Look into your brother's eyes and see his eyes shining for you, and you for him, my children of Light. Now beloved children, co-workers of the Light, I say it is: time now -- to look well into your affairs and see that they are being prepared for a Guest; for a Guest is coming into your house to dwell and this Guest is the Holy Spirit that will cover the entire planet.

"You shall soon see a glorious Light that will overcome the darkness; for there is a great and shiny Angel Who has the Keys to the bottomless pit, Who shall bring forth the arch rebel and bind him for a thousand years. This is a record you all know by the Prophets of Old; and so it is reiterated this evening that soon this great and glorious Being shall bring a chain and bind this arch rebel and bring him into a state whereby he will deceive the nations no more. Then you can go forth and bring peace; for there is a Peace Giver above who will appear even before the arch and come to the earth from the West with a rainbow; for the rainbow is a sign of peace.

"There shall be no more floods to destroy the earth, but there shall be a Flood of Light instead, to bring forth the Father's Kingdom on planet Earth.

"Now I emphasize the importance of my discourse to you people, because when here myself I was trying to clean my house from the basement up to the attic, instead of from the attic to the basement! This is why I did not stay upon the earth plane. I did not know this important difference of direction through ignorance, until I came upon the other side of life, beloved. So start in your Attic; start with your mind and say 'What am I to do to help myself prepare for the coming Prince of Peace. I know He soon shall be my Guest; for I shall invite Him in; and there shall be a great supper of the Lamb; and we shall all prepare for this great Supper.

"This is the unification of the Sons and Daughters of the Most Mighty gathering in one consecutive move towards the restoration of the Planet on which you reside. . . So now, adieu, adieu; I say God bless you all in Light and Love.

I am Gloria Lee."

THE PRINCE OF ROCK AND ROLL

"I was working in Memphis when Elvis Presley was getting his start. When he moved from his little home in East Memphis to Graceland I helped do the lighting in his master bedroom, where the floors were covered with snow white rugs. I was standing in his backyard of a moving sermon the choir would sing softly in the background, 'Almost Persuaded'. How do you explain the almost mystical appeal of Elvis Presley's singing? I don't think anyone ever has, adequately. The nearest phrase that comes to mind is raw emotion. He was unschooled and awkward. His mannerisms were almost embarrassing at times, and yet when Elvis sang a song the listener was aware that he had stolen a glimpse into the forbidden regions of a man's soul. . . . He wasn't afraid to be himself. He let it all hang out and what we saw was a refreshing breeze of honest feeling and even beauty. We may never see his likes again." (Ben Ragan Austin of South Pasadena, California in the August 27, 1977 Los Angeles "Times")

Astrology is one means of lifting the Veil to Presley's soul and finding a reason for his "mystical appeal". Presley's birth date was Jan. 8, 1935 in Tupelo, Mississippi. The Ephemeris for 1935 tells us that his Natal sun was in the Sign of Capricorn, 17°. We turn to Sepharial's "The Degrees of the Zodiac Symbolised" and to his translation of the Las Volasfera symbols, 17° of Capricorn:

"A Lyre lying upon a wreath of flowers. This denotes one who will show some remarkable powers of expression, and by the power of sound will persuade where others cannot compel by force. He may become a poet or musician, and in the gentler offices of life will show considerable talent. His nature will be docile, tractable, harmless and inoffensive. He will be constant in his attachments and will undergo some singular persecutions and tests of his fidelity, emerging therefrom victorious and undismayed. Should he follow the highest expressions of his faculty he will be capable of enunciating in language that is harmonious, persuasive and subtly compelling, a new body of doctrine, or a new phase of philosophic truth. This is a degree of PERSUASION."

THE RAW POWER OF PRESLEY'S "DWELLER" or SHADOW

The great Swiss psychiatrist, Carl Jung, made some interesting observations on the ability of a great artist, a great evangelist or a great political leader to evoke the Pentecostal Fire from the sexual centers of his followers. This is a very dramatic example of what the physicist calls the Field Effect. The leader's success depends upon the power of his subconscious, his Dweller on the Threshold, his Shadow to create an electromagnetic field which attracts great numbers of Dwellers of other people, and gets them to resonate in tune with his. Here are pertinent quotes from Jolande Jacobi's "The Psychology of C.G. Jung": "The first stage (of self-awareness, of self-awareness) leads to the experience of the SHADOW, which symbolizes our 'other aspect', our 'dark brother', who, albeit invisibly, yet belongs inseparably to our totality. For, 'the living form needs deep shadows in order to appear plastic. Without the shadow it remains a flat illusion'. (The objectification or splitting off of the Shadow was portrayed with great dramatic artistry by Captain Kirk in one of the episodes of Star Trek. The split was caused by a malfunction of the Transporter Beam, and Kirk lost his will, his ability to make command decisions.)"

"The Shadow is an archetypal figure that often appears personified in many forms in the conceptions of primitives even today. It is a part of the individual, a kind of split-off portion of his being which is nevertheless joined with him just 'like a shadow'. Therefore it means sorcery for the primitive when someone treads upon his shadow, and its evil effects can be made good again only by a series of magical ceremonies. In art, too, the Shadow is a popular and frequently treated theme; for the artist's inspiration and choice of themes comes from the depths of his unconscious. What he creates in this way affects in turn the unconscious of his public, wherein ultimately the secret of his effectiveness lies."

"It is the figures of the unconscious that rise in him and appeal powerfully to men, though these do not know whence their fascination comes! Shakespeare's Caliban, Stevenson's Mr. Hyde, Mrs. Shelley's Frankenstein, Oscar Wilde's Dorian Gray, Aldous Huxley's Grey Eminence, Chamisso's Peter Schlemihl, Herman Hesse's Steppenwolf, Hofmannsthal-Strauss's Frau Ohne Schatten are examples of the artistic use of the Shadow motive. . . ."

For the Cabalist the Qliphoth of each Sephirah on the Tree of Life is the Shadow or Dweller of that positive God-force. And, as Dion Fortune warns, "he has no choice but to deal with them", if his magick would be effective; for the Qliphoth are the power which moves matter in the physical world. Francis "Shakespeare" Bacon reveals his understanding of this occult principle in his call to Caliban in Act I, Scene II of "The Tempest": "Caliban, my slave, who never gives us kind answer. . . he does make our fire, fetch in our wood; and serves in offices that profit us. What ho! slave! Caliban! Thou earth, thou! speak."
PSYCHIC SELF-DEFENSE WITH "RETRO ME"

"I have been using the protective rituals in your Retro Me brochure after I found some vampire teeth marks on the end of one of my big toes. I didn't think that I had any enemies but your May-June Journal gave me insight that I might have picked up some old contacts, as I have had less energy for some time. When I was under the supervision of a good trance medium I had none of this energy loss. After using the rituals regularly I feel more like my old self now and hope I keep on improving. Thank you for mentioning my old San Francisco Interplanetary Club so often in your bulletins."

B.B., Mountain View, California

Yes, "Retro Me, the Art of Psychic Self-Defense" -- a dollar a copy now -- has helped many friends and Associates to relieve themselves of obsessing entities. These human and non-human elementals can be picked up any time when one is out in public, even if one is leading a comparatively blameless existence! Impurities in the blood attract them like scavenging insects or animals. We all have these traces of the three major diseases in our systems: syphilis, tuberculosis, cancer. They are in the body of the Planetary Logos, the "curse of Adam", brought here through space by the Arch Fiend, when he "fell" from a planet even more evil than this one. So the ever-present need for daily rituals of purification and protection. That need grows more pressing in the chaos of the breakup of the Old Age as preparations are made for the New. Hordes of earthbound elementals have been removed by the Guardians in that preparation but there are still plenty around to cause trouble.

One of our favorite Flying Saucer lecture spots in the 1960s was the San Francisco Interplanetary Club. It is gone now, along with many of the first generation Flying Saucer researchers. There is a new generation of researchers and lecturers, with better academic credentials; but 3-D education is of no help in solving what is essentially a 4-D -- Fourth Dimensional -- problem! Sightings of UFOs continue as they have in the past, contacts are made by a few -- and some are kidnapped; but the government Silence Policy continues unchanged.

ANOTHER CAMPAIGN PROMISE INTO THE DISCARD

During the presidential campaign last year we were happy to include in CQC the news item that candidate Jimmy Carter had had a confirmed UFO sighting, and further that if he were elected he would open up to the public the government files on Flying Saucers. To us this was a hopeful sign of a possible change in the Silence Policy which has remained unchanged since Truman's day. Then in April of this year "U.S. News and World Report" magazine predicted in the "Washington Whispers" section that there would be "unsettling disclosures" about Flying Saucers from the White House, presumably after the president was briefed on the subject by the CIA.

So James Bolen, editor and publisher of "New Realities" magazine from San Francisco, called the White House and got Jim Purks, special assistant in the Media Liaison Office. Purks not only denied the "U.S. News" report but indicated indirectly that the Silence Policy would continue in effect!

"As it was explained to me, after President Carter took office," said Purks to Bolen, "all the available records over 22 years are now unclassified and available to the public. Everything known in the Government about UFOs is in those records and the Government, in effect was now out of the UFO business. . . (the President) is not pursuing it further at this time, unless some revelations come up that UFOs are a threat to national security."

Our reaction to these statements of Jim Purks is that President Carter has been briefed on UFOs by the CIA, and that whoever gives the CIA its orders decided that Jimmy had "no need to know" the hard, bitter truths of the phenomenon, any more than the presidents who preceded him. Back in 1954 when reporters asked President Eisenhower about the reality of UFOs he tossed the ball to the U.S. Air Force. We know that the Air Force was under orders to cover up the realities of the sightings and contacts. Now, President Carter is tossing the ball to NASA, our National Aeronautics and Space Administration. According to Bolen he got the following information from Stanley Schneider, a science assistant in the Executive Office.

"There is no plan at the moment for the Government to do any investigations. . . although our office has approached NASA with the idea that there might now be enough activity to justify a new study (since the Condon report in 1969) on the subject. . . It's only a possibility because there is currently no definite plan as such and that it's merely in the initial stages of consideration. . . The story on the CIA in 'U.S. News and World Report' was not true, because we checked it out for other people."

We know from George Leonard's book, "Somebody Else Is On The Moon", that NASA itself has been sitting on pictorial evidence of the moon as a Flying Saucer base, ever since the Surveyor and Apollo flights. So don't look for any "unsettling disclosures" about UFOs from NASA or any other government agency. We're not holding our breath here, but continuing the search for Truth on our own, as we have since the first Flying Saucer articles in magazines in 1949.

WHO GIVES THE CIA ITS ORDERS?

At a Mark Probert seance in San Diego, April 17, 1954, Ramon Natalli of Mark's Inner Circle gave Meade Layne this information in reply to a question about whether or not President Eisenhower would release anything about the Flying Saucer landings at Edwards Air Force Base in California in early 1954: "Do you feel, Ramon, that Eisenhower is sincere in his attempts at what he might try to do? Is pressure being put on him, or what?"
"This man (Eisenhower) like all men of his kind in high government positions is the leader or is a symbol of such in your country," replied Ramon. "They are always under pressure. They cannot act alone. Back of him in the shadows stand such individuals as Bernard Baruch (Wall Street and the Rockefellers) and next the high Roman Catholic Church. These are the two main forces. Next in line are the powerful dictators of Communism. Now if you will remeber a quote in the 'Magic Bag', 'Now it starts from words to blows'."

"Yes, I recall that."

"And it shall not stop until all of these insane forces are either destroyed or made so weak they can no longer function to any dangerous extent." (BSRF No. 2-P, "Flying Saucers At Edwards Air Force Base", $2.25)

And behind the Wall Street bankers and the bishops in the Astral shadows is the false Christ, Looeamong, and his hordes of human and non-human demons controlling them! Through their Shadows or Dwellers.

EARTH'S LAST MILE, WE SAID

Two years earlier a Flying Saucer research group in Prescott, Arizona held a series of seances with home-made Ouija board and ham radio which brought forth these messages from Guardian-type aliens. Their major concern was the threat of a world-destroying atomic war between contending power groups.

"Your government knows who we are...U.S.S.R. is aware of us, too. Earth's last mile, we sad. It is impossible to reason with the peoples of earth...Soon all could end here. Some will not see it, except from elsewhere, from outside... Certain great powers in your world wish to see us go away or see us destroyed. Neither will happen. These powers fear us, and when you fear anything you hate it. All planets have come to help certain ones on Saras (earth). Those of the right mind are one with us! We will not harm anyone, only their own thoughts can do that. Evil destroys evil. Bounceback! Certain seeds have been placed on Saras. To apples we salt we return."

It is clear to us now -- though it wasn't when these messages were received and distributed to certain Flying Saucer researchers in mid-1952 -- that the "certain great powers" Actar referred to were the elemental gods of the world's great religions and priesthoods: Looeamong, the false Christ; Kabalactes, the false Buddha; Enochissa, the false Brahma; Thoth-Gabriel, the false Mohammed; and the sub-human monsters worshipped by the ignorant devotees of lesser religions. These Astral playmates of ours are so childishly vindictive that they would destroy the earth if they cant control it through their "Dr. Fausts", their physical plane agents. One of the most obvious of these in 1952 was an egomanic named General MacArthur, a physical plane agent for Looeamong, the False Christ. When he pushed the Allied forces into North Korea Dugout Doug was hell-bent for an all-out atomic war with Communist China. Fortunately for us a physical plane agent for the true Christ, Harry Truman, fired MacArthur for insubordination and saved our planetary schoolroom for continued use -- for awhile, anyway.

THE GREAT AWAKENING IS HERE

The ham radio operator of the Williamson contact group in Prescott was wondering, in his mind, why prominent people were not contacted by the Guardians. They got this answer Aug. 31, 1952:

"Mr. R wonders why we have not contacted well-known scientists, We have contacted them, but many will not listen. They think Universal laws are insane. . . Worlds can end. Many scientists will refuse to continue work on bombs!"

And on Sept. 3, 1952 at 8:23 p.m: "Ponnar speaking. There are now many young people in your world who understand our message. They will accept it quickly for they are of the New Age. The Great Awakening is here. Many of our people are in your world now, and many people of Saras have been taken to outer space through the years. There is a young man in Ohio you must contact (probably Tom Comella of Cleveland, whose chart of blinking lights, star-like lights and streaks of light observed on the moon, is opposite page 105 in Williamson's book, "The Saucers Speak").

Part of that Awakening is the realization that evil comes from outer space, or heaven if you will. On Aug. 23, 1952 the Williamson group was told: "We must tell you about Orion. Many there wish to conquer the Universe! We are here to warn you of this also. However, we find few receptive persons on Saras. You are helping us now by what you are doing. The Orion Solar Systems are much like Saras. The principles of good and evil are universal. Saras (earth) is the lowest in progression in your solar system but there are planets in the Creation that are above and below you in state of progression. There is no beginning and no end; no big nor small; no low or high estate. We are all on the road to All Perfection. . ."

The Orion constellation isn't the only source of evil from outer space guiding Looeamong, Enochissa, Kabalactes, Thoth-Gabriel and others. These elemental gods of the priesthoods, without human warmth, without human love have deluded themselves into believing they are independent of the planetary and solar logoi, acting in their own selfish, self-centered interests. But the Master D.K. tells us otherwise in "The Treatise On Cosmic Fire". Remember, the "Treatise" was written in 1924, a whole generation before the Flying Saucer phenomenon burst on the world. He speaks of the laggard devas from dying constellations, planets from which the solar heat has been withdrawn. They are advanced enough for space travel but evil nevertheless, and looking for a new home. Earth apparently suits them very well! "There is one such constellation, situated between the lesser Dipper and our system, and another, interrelated with the Pleiades and our system which still have a profound effect upon the physical body of the Solar Logos," writes D.K., and the physical body of the Solar Logos is the planets of his system. "These two constellations have run their course and are 'dissolving'. Some of their life force and energy has been transferred to our solar system... the effects are felt in the lowest sheath of all (the etheric body of the earth and our own etheric bodies), and are responsible for much that is ignorantly termed 'black magic'."

THE SECOND COMING AND SOLAR INITIATION, FROM SIRIUS

There is nothing haphazard about all this. The function of evil is to furnish resistance which guarantees the forward movement of evolution. We are told the Solar System is going through a big change, a Zodiacal initiation. An important part of that change as far as we are concerned is the so-called Second Coming of the Christ here on earth. All of this orchestrated from the Sun beyond the Sun, Sirius, Logos, to a hundred suns and their planets. It was programmed thousands of years ago and is supervised by Cosmic avatars whose Power, Love and Wisdom are almost beyond our comprehension.

Western science has been staggered this year by the release of information that the Dogon tribe of West Africa has been worshipping the brightest star, Sirius, for thousands of years. They are worshipping a binary system and they know it! The object of their worship is the white dwarf of the pair, Sirius B which, under ideal viewing conditions can be seen only by our best telescopes at this time because the two stars are at their maximum separation. It was the rhythmic aberrations in the path of Sirius A which led astronomers a hundred years ago to suspect that Sirius...

A was one of a pair of stars revolving around a common center. The illustration here is copied from Harvard's "Sky and Telescope" magazine of January 1966. It was worked out by Lippincott and Worth of Sproul Observatory, Swarthmore College; and we republished it in our Aug-Sept 1966 Journal of Borderland Research, and in our Flying Saucer lecture, BSRF No. 2-K, ($2.25), "Spacecraft From Beyond the Sun"

But the witch-doctor priests of this primitive African tribe had known this for thousands of years, where did they get their advanced astronomical information? The Dogon tribal tradition has it that the information came directly from Sirian visitors themselves, or at least from "fish men" Visitors from outer space who arrived and departed in rocket-powered Flying Saucers. What seems more likely, however, is that this Sirius B worship is a surviving remnant of technical information given to the priest-scientists of the true Osiris in some advanced Egyptian civilization of the ancient past -- who themselves were in touch with the Visitors; for the worshipful recognition of Sirius and its cosmic influence on the affairs of men were an important part of Egyptian religion.

THE PRINCIPLE OF ALL THINGS

From the English translation of "The Comte de Gabalis" written by the Abbe de Villars and published in Paris in 1670 we have these significant words about Christmas and the Second Coming of Christ:

"Beyond the Sun in the direction of the Dog Star (Sirius) lies that incorruptible Flame or Sun, Principle of All Things, willing obedience from our own Sun which is but a manifestation of its relegated force. The existence of the Sun behind the Sun has been known in all ages, as well as the fact that its influence is most potent upon earth during that period every 2000 years when it is in conjunction with the Sun of our solar system. Then gathering to itself the power of its own Source and transmitting it through our Sun to this planet, it is said to send the Sons of God into the consciousness of the earth sphere that a new world of thought and emotion may be born in the minds of men for the stimulation of humanity's spiritual evolution. Such a manifestation marks the beginning or end of an epoch upon earth by the radiation of that divine consciousness known as the Christ Ray or Paraclete.

"To the Egyptians the Sun behind the Sun was known as Osiris (also as Amen-Ra, the Hidden Sun), said to be the husband of Isis (Nature) and parent of Horus (the Sun), symbolically represented as a hawk, because that bird flies nearest the Sun. This ancient people knew that once every year the Parent Sun is in line with the Dog Star. Therefore the Great Pyramid was so constructed that, at this sacred moment, the light of the Dog Star fell upon the square 'Stone of God' at the upper end of the Great Gallery descending upon the head of the high priest who received the Super Solar Force and sought through his own perfected Solar Body to transmit to other Initiates this added stimulation for the evolution of their own God-Hood. This then was the purpose of the Stone of God whereon, in the Ritual, Osiris sits to bestow upon him (the illuminate) the Atf crown of celestial light.

"North and South of that Crown is Love," proclaims an Egyptian hymn, "and thus throughout the teaching of Egypt the visible light was but the shadow of the Invisible Light; and in the wisdom of that ancient country the measures of Truth were the years of the Most High. The adorable Fire and immense depth of Flame which the human heart must not fear to touch is that power proceeding from the Lord and Giver of Life, the Creative Principle of the Universe, the Sun behind the Sun."

THE INVOCATION TO THE FLAME

"I call upon Thee, O living God, oh Unseen Parent of the Sun. Pour forth Thy life-giving Power, and energize Thy divine spark. Enter into this Flame and let it be agitated by the breaths of Thy Holy Spirit. Manifest Thy power and open for me the Temple of Almighty God which is within this Fire. Manifest Thy Light for my regeneration, and may the Breadth, the Height, the Fullness, and the Crown of the Solar Radiance appear, and may the God within, shine forth."
