The Journal of Borderland Research

TABLE OF CONTENTS

WE'VE ALL BEEN THROUGH IT MANY TIMES
From the Findhorn "Open Letter". . . . . 1 - 3

WHY WE HAVE THE HYPERACTIVE JITTERS
From the NHF "Bulletin". . . . . . . . . 4 - 7

DOWSING AND RADIONICS ARE ESP APPLIED
By Associate A.P.S. . . . . . . . . . 8 - 11

FRICKER TELLS VIEWERS WHY FIRST CURE
SHOCKED HIM, By Maurice Barbanell. . . . 12

THOTMA, BUILDER OF THE GREAT PYRAMID
Part III, from Oahspe. . . . . . . . . 13 - 15

THE ELECTRIC BATTERIES FROM BABYLON
By J.R. Jochmans . . . . . . . . . 16 - 20

CLIPS, QUOTES & COMMENTS
Death Rays and Other Morbid Fantasies,
BSRF No. 1 Published by Borderland Sciences Research Foundation, Inc., PO Box 548, Vista, California 92083 USA. Edited by the Director, Riley Hansard Crabb, Doctor of Metaphysics in the Society of St. Luke the Physician.

The Journal is published six issues a year with the assistance of the Associates, at the Director's home, 1103 Bobolink Drive, Vista. It is printed, 36 pages an issue. The Foundation is incorporated under California law, May 21, 1951, #254263, and has been in continuous existence since then. Address all correspondence to the PO Box. The Journal is included in the Foundation membership of $9.00 a year. Single copies and back issues of the Journal are now $2.00 each. If you don't care to join you may receive the Journal by donating $9.00 a year or more to the Foundation. The Director's wife, Ms. Judith Crabb, is office manager and Secretary-Treasurer.

PURPOSES OF BSRF: This is a non-profit organization of people who take an active interest in unusual happenings along the borderland between the visible and invisible worlds. In the words of the late Meade Layne, founder and director of BSRF from 1946 to 1959: "BSRA publications are scientific in approach but employ few technical expressions. They deal with significant phenomena which orthodox science cannot or will not investigate. For example: The Fortean falls of objects from the sky. Teleportation, Radiesthesia, PK Effects, Underground Races, Mysterious Disappearances, Occult and Psychic Phenomena, Photography of the Invisible, Nature of the Ethers and the problem of the Aeroforms (Flying Saucers). In the year 1946 BSRA obtained an interpretation of the phenomena which since has come to be known as the Etheric or 4-D interpretation, and which has not been radically altered since that time. This continues to be the only explanation which makes good science, sound metaphysics and common sense."

The chief present concern of the Foundation is to make this kind of unusual information available as a public service at reasonable cost. Headquarters acts as a receiving, coordinating and distributing center. An important part of the Director's work is to give recognition, understanding and encouragement to people who are having unusual experiences of the borderland type and/or are conducting research in any of the above fields. For consultation on borderland problems or for Spiritual healing through prayer, write or phone 714-724-2043 for help or for an appointment. Donations and bequests toward Foundation research programs and expenses are welcome.

The 32-page list of BSRF publications is available from Headquarters for $1.00 in money, check or stamps. This includes brochures on borderland subjects, tape recordings of Mr. Crabb's lectures and of members of the Inner Circle, talking through trance-medium Mark Probert. Write to BSRF, PO Box 548, Vista, California 92083 USA.
WE'VE ALL BEEN THROUGH IT MANY TIMES

"Birthing & Fathers (and Mothers!)"
By Bart, from the Findhorn Foundation
"Open Letter", May 1978

I was with members of the band, having a meditation on Saturday afternoon for Maria and the baby to give a little push, because the doctor had said he would like to induce labor on Monday. It was about five o'clock when Doug said "We welcome a new being into this earth."

When I heard that I knew it was time, everybody knew. I got up and rushed home as fast as I could. When I walked through the door Maria was lying in the bed and I could see it happening. She was having contractions and moaning. I could see it was very strong but I experienced a feeling of joy and release. This was it at last. All the anticipation and anxiety were gone. There was an overwhelming sense of fulfillment and excitement.

After a few moments with Maria I ran out the door to Denny's house to tell her and to call the midwives. After the call I ran back home, half crying, half laughing. When I got back to Maria I had a feeling of being really small and that the hugeness of God and Nature were taking over and we didn't have anything to say about it. As the labor became more intense, the whole room became filled with that intensity. I realized that I had to become very focused. I had to be there all the time. There was a feeling of timelessness and I was no longer aware of the time between contractions. Everything was right now and I could feel the power in that now.

The contractions were so strong that I tuned into Maria's experience and lost control. I let the moment overwhelm me and I began to shake. I could see that we were both becoming afraid because it was so powerful. And because of that fear I forgot the two most important things we had worked on, relaxing and breathing. It was much more intense than I had ever imagined it would be.

Then the midwives came. They were so beautiful. They knew what had happened. They felt it. They took control right away.
a warm loving control. The first thing they said was, "Go boil water", just like in the movies. It was just what I needed (we never used the water). By the time I had finished I had calmed down to the place where I could help Maria.

MARIA'S POINT OF REALITY

In the mean time the midwives had calmed Maria. When I came back I could feel the authority within me as a father and a husband. My reason for being there was to be Maria's point of reality and to affirm the contact we had as man and wife. The contact was between our eyes, (The eyes are part of the Fire system in the body, the sex system.RHC.) and when the contraction would come and overwhelm her, and her eyes became huge with fear, I could look into her eyes and say "relax and breathe", "relax your back", "relax your legs". There was authority within me to do that and she knew that and felt it, and it helped her to relax and breathe.

The energy of birth held my attention so strongly that I couldn't talk to anyone else. I didn't want to. It was a constant meditation and I didn't want to break it. Eventually Maria became fully dilated, and the midwife told her to push, and it became heavy again. The pain was so intense that Maria would have done or said anything to get the baby out. But amidst the screaming and shouting Maria almost made me cry when she said in a gentle voice "come out my baby, come out".

Then one of the midwives asked me to come down to help with the delivery. I felt awe while watching this big lump start to push against Maria's stomach. The head was beginning to come out, and I wondered how it was going to get out. I felt as if there was some kind of creature in there trying to come out. When the head actually started to crown and I could see a little patch of hair I just let go this wave of gratitude and joy and feeling of specialness at being present at this birth washed over me.

The birth was happening to me too and I was so grateful that I started crying what could have been uncontrollable tears, and would have missed the whole thing. I felt the feelings fill my whole body, but stayed aware of what was happening. I was just watching, watching, watching as the head slowly slipped out without tearing. And when the head came out I wondered what was the difference between life and death. It was strange to see this creature that was moving and kicking but was not breathing. It made me feel a little weird because it wasn't alive, yet it was. It was alive on some other plane of existence. It was mysterious and kind of grey, like stone. It wasn't human-being-coloured yet.

When it came out it made a little crying noise as it took its first breath. It didn't scream or cry. It was just like it was supposed to be, lying quietly on Maria's stomach. The room was buzzing and humming. Nobody said a word. We just listened. We were so absorbed in what was happening that we forgot to check to see if it was a boy or a girl. We were just listening and watching, hearing her gentle breath, and seeing the snow falling gently and quietly outside. That was when I began to love her, when she first breathed. She was part of me and it just naturally drew my love out. I still couldn't talk. All my awareness was focused on the baby--bonding, I guess.

Sept-Oct 1978 RR, Page 2

Then I picked her up and she opened her eyes. Everything was so peaceful. She looked at me with this ancient Tibetan look of wisdom checking me out, seeing if I had it together. Then there was a feeling of oneness, letting her know that I was there, that this was a safe place to be, that she had come out of one womb into a larger womb. I never felt love like that for anything or anybody, and it was totally natural, and it flowed back and forth between everybody in the room. I watched her change colour from grey to pink. I watched the life come into her. Everything was quiet and peaceful. When I gave her back to Maria I had to come out of the space I was in with the baby and be with everyone else.

(From the Open Letter of the Findhorn University of Light, The Park, Forres, Scotland.)

Here in California doctors and midwives of New Age birthing groups or teams not only insist that the husband be present at the birth of his child, but that his be the first hands that touch the new-born child as it emerges from the womb, and also that he cut the umbilical cord to complete parturition.

* * *

A JESUIT'S OOE (OUT-OF-THE-BODY) EXPERIENCE

"More than 300 years ago, world-respected Jesuit priest and scholar Athanasius Kircher wrote a book detailing a fascinating out-of-body visit to the moon, five planets and the sun. In 1656 Kircher -- known for his work in mathematics, optics, linguistics, history, geography, medicine, music, philosophy, theology and archaeology -- published a 464-page Latin volume called 'Ecstatic Voyage'.

Kircher's guides for his journey, he said, were the good angels named Cosmiel and Theodidactus. They first took the scientist to the moon, which he reported to have found 'deserted like a reef in the ocean of the ether'. Kircher claimed next to have traveled to Venus, which he described as 'a magnificent island, its air perfumed with amber and musk and with varied vegetable life which,' he said, 'was spread out like sparkling flowers'. He was met by a band of youthful angels of 'indescribable beauty' who danced and saug while strewing flowers." (From the National Enquirer, Aug. 22, 1978.)

Sept-Oct 1978 RR, Page 3
WHY WE HAVE THE HYPERACTIVE JITTERS
AND HOW WE CAN BE CURED

From the "National Health Federation Bulletin" and "Let's LIVE"

"As they pass through this life, some individuals make 'big waves', their discoveries affecting the health and welfare of millions. Such a person is Ben F. Feingold, M.D., internationally-known allergist, chief emeritus of the allergy department at Kaiser-Permanente Medical Center in San Francisco, and author of two books, with a third due soon.

"Dr. Feingold's contribution to society is the discovery and clinical proof that artificial coloring substances, flavors and preservatives in processed foods -- and even in some natural foods -- wreak havoc with the nervous systems of persons allergic to the compounds. The illness is known as hyperkinesis, manifests in children in all sorts of behavioral aberrations -- overactivity, abusiveness, aggressiveness -- and deprives the child of learning ability."

Now we know one of the main reasons why Johnny can't read! Or write! Or do arithmetic! Or fill out an employment form! He and Juanita are being drugged by profit-mad food processors.

"In 1973 his first book, 'An Introduction to Clinical Allergy', describing the amazing behavioral changes in children on the Feingold diet, was published by Charles C. Thomas. Two years later Random House published 'Why Your Child Is Hyperactive'.

"The first nutrition-minded writer to interview Dr. Feingold was Betty Franklin of Fairfax, California, long identified with the movement to end fluoridation. In 1974 she wrote the story for 'Let's LIVE' magazine -- the first health-oriented publication to carry the news of his work. Last year she updated the story with a second exclusive interview published in 'Let's LIVE's' 45th Anniversary issue in August.

"In that article she could report that as a result of this great man's work, the Food and Drug Administration has finally decided to conduct a 'far-reaching review of food additives which are entering the American diet at the rate of one billion pounds annually!' Dr. Feingold testified in 1975 before the Kennedy Subcommittee hearing on hyperkinesis that between 3,800 and 4,000 additives are used in food and beverages..."
and the number is growing. He pointed out that 'not one of these -- not only colors and flavors, but all additives -- ever has been subjected to pharmacological studies such as are required to license drugs.'

NO CONVENIENCE DINNERS PERMITTED!

"Dr. Feingold told Betty Franklin the diet for hyperinetic children is so 'basic and simple, it amazes me sometimes that it's so effective. It's a matter of eliminating chemical additives, especially colors, flavorings, and salicylates, and giving the child only wholesome, home-prepared, natural foods. That means all meals have to be prepared from scratch, with no convenience dinners permitted.'

"Salicylates, found in aspirin-type compounds, he noted, also occur naturally in such foods as almonds, apples, apricots, blackberries, cherries, cloves, cucumbers, pickles, currants, gooseberries, grapes and raisins, nectarines, oranges, peaches, plums, prunes, raspberries, strawberries, tea, tomatoes, cider and cider vinegars and wine and wine vinegars.

"Despite criticism from those biased in favor of the food-processing industry, Dr. Feingold's program is 'succeeding'. It will take 'years to fully understand the mechanism involved in why the diet works,' he says, but 'until we do understand, we're able to cure children without risk or drugs. Our parents think this is what success is all about.'

"And parents are rallying to this concept by the thousands. As Betty Franklin put it, 'the movement has spread like a prairie fire' across the United States, to Canada and Australia. The Feingold Association of the United States has been formed under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Morrison, with headquarters at 659 National Press Building, Washington, D.C. 20045. A 1,200-family group functions in Long Island, and Houston boasts a group of 1,000 families. Throughout the country there are some 80 organizations. A symbol of a shaft of wheat surrounded by a hexagon (representing the benzine ring, basic nucleus of coal-tar dyes) is being used to identify products unadulterated by artificial flavors and colors.

THE GREAT PROFIT IN ADULTERATION

"In his earlier research, Dr. Feingold uncovered the fact that over a 10-year period the increase in dollar-value of the output of artificial flavors and soft drinks has paralleled the increase in hyperactivity and learning difficulties among the nation's schoolchildren."

These poisonous food additives also cause meditation difficulties among adults trying to develop a spiritual life! -- Not to mention nervous disorders and other health problems. BHT and other coal-tar derivatives are a self-imposed hair-
Within a shirt causing random pin-prick reactions under the skin. These add to the problem of concentration for the beginner in meditation. Thus the gentle but insistent prodding of the Higher Self to simplify and purify the diet with natural foods, and to do regular, rhythmic breathing to oxidize or burn up the poisons already in the body and blood stream.

THE SOLUTION TO THIS EVIL IS AWARENESS

"'While the dollars pour in,' says Dr. Feingold, 'children's problems rise dramatically. As of 1975, at least seven million children have been diagnosed as having serious learning problems, and about five million are considered hyperactive. But I now believe we'll see important changes in this structure because awareness is growing about what's causing the problems and how easily offending substances can be eliminated -- in individual households at least, as well as in schools. And the problems certainly aren't being resolved by drugs -- which only mask hyperactivity and may cause serious troubles in themselves -- but by eliminating the offending chemicals in diets.'

"The San Francisco pediatrician says a major reason for the growing acceptance of the diet/hyperkinesis relationship is that it has provided 'emotional release'. Parents have seen for themselves what happens when their ailing children get off sugary snacks and onto the natural-food diet.

"The response is so dramatic that nothing can stop it. An emotional release is being generated, for parents and the kids too. Take the parents of a child who's had trouble since early infancy. Some of these babies are sleepless and carry on all night. They're restless, fidgety, and nothing has been able to help them. Then they're put on the diet and the change is remarkable, even with nursing babies. The most important factors to eliminate for these little ones are colors and flavors incorporated into the synthetic vitamin drops in common use today. And later on, the chewable vitamins prescribed often cause troubles. As soon as you stop these the baby usually will be well within 24 to 36 hours.

"And take an older child who's been disruptive at home -- aggressive, abusive, destroying everything in sight -- attacking everyone, and when in school, upsetting the entire class. These children can't learn, can't sit still. They've been on medication such as Ritalin. But that doesn't help, and often makes things worse. The family is desperate -- some are even on the verge of breaking up. Then these children are put on the diet and very soon -- sometimes within 10 days to two weeks -- they go through a complete transformation, and they and their families have a serene, happy life at last. So you can see what an emotional release this provides.'

"In his original study Dr. Feingold reported correction of behavioral problems in 30%-50% of the cases reaching him. Now..."
the figure has been upped to 60%-70%.

A MOTHER REPORTS SUCCESS

"He tells of 'thousands of case histories', and includes a typical letter from a New York mother whose child could not read, then was placed on the diet:

'Dear Doctor Feingold: Michael has just skipped a whole year in reading! He kept telling his teacher he'd already read his reader and knew all the words. I guess she got tired of listening to him about the baby work he was doing, sent him to a seat with the reader and workbook, and told him when he finished the workbook he would go to the higher reading room. So he did just that and not one mistake... The teacher got so excited she was jumping up and down. And Michael told her to go on the diet herself because she was hyperkinetic. (That was the laugh of the school year.) He's now on the upper level, excelling in many of his subjects, and still reversing total words when there is an infraction (when he goes off the diet). The school principal put his dog on the diet and the animal is also improved. By the way, we have a veterinarian here who says his patients are doing well, too, on the Feingold diet.'"

Dr. Feingold is well aware of the enormity of the problem, with white sugar a basic ingredient in so many of our processed foods. "We're living in a carbohydrate culture. Look at the breakfast foods, softdrinks, pastries, candies, cake, cookies we consume, and look at the softdrink industry alone. We'll have to change our whole food culture, which of course will take a long time. If it could be done within one generation, that would be achieving a miracle. At least I'm hoping our efforts are laying down a foundation that will generate understanding on the public's and everyone's part, including the manufacturers. But we get lots of resistance.

"However, let me say that it isn't right to incriminate only industry and the FDA. Parents have a very important responsibility too. Unless the public educates itself and lets industry and the government know what consumers want and what they will purchase, we can't expect a change..."

BHT is found in breakfast foods, cooking fats and oils, also in butter and in oleomargarine. There are other top offenders but the anti-oxident, BHT, is the worst. Feingold has found that for many hyperkinetic children, his natural food diet is ineffective until BHT is completely eliminated as an embalming agent. "What has to be done," says Feingold, "is to devise a new distribution system for keeping a product on the shelf for shorter periods -- say five months instead of five years... The only way is for all of us to work together to find ways and means of resolving this vast challenge..."
DOWSING AND RADIONICS ARE ESP APPLIED

By Associate A.P.S.

"I must apologize for imposing on your time but I feel that you perhaps are one of the few people who is at a level to understand the problems I am about to relate.

"I have been concerned with psychic studies for some two and a half years and apparently am at a plateau level at this time. I got into this area of study through taking a course in dowsing from Sam Wolf primarily for the purpose of treasure hunting. Almost from the beginning I became aware that dowsing is ESP applied and while I've never found any treasure, I began learning the other aspects of ESP and what I was capable of achieving in psychic work.

"This brings us to these problems I have been confronted with and what I have been able to achieve -- and what I have not. First of all, Radionics.

"About half the people I have used my Copen MK4 on responded very well, especially my mother, 1500 miles away. About one quarter I've helped to some degree, and about one out of four I can't seem to do a thing for in spite of their vocal desire for help. They just don't seem to accept this form of healing at a subconscious level.

"Huna works part of the time and doesn't seem to do anything for certain conditions. I believe the Low Self (the Unihipili -- Oo-nee-hee-pee-lee) is the primary messenger to the High Self (the Aumakua -- Ow-oo-mah-koo-ah) in making the Radionics unit work; but as I mentioned I seem to only hit about 50% of the time in accomplishing the healing. My healing prayers work for some and not for others. I have helped certain sensitive people to expand their psychic ability to a point, but can't seem to get them past certain barriers.

"I have taken work from William Finch and use the pendulum regularly for determining cell salts, vitamins and mineral deficiencies, and personality analysis. Have given Bio-energy exorcism to four persons and have only had one keep her aura clean -- and her only after a second cleansing. The others apparently just didn't care enough to keep and maintain a clean slate. I've found this most discouraging as there is always a risk of picking up these peoples' extra entities when working on them. Distance exorcism has been only partially successful as my projection doesn't seem strong enough at this time.

Sept-Oct 1978 RR, Page 8
THE BEST TREASURE HAS BEEN FOUND

"One of my present problems is that I haven't found any treasure to date; however, I have learned that a person's grea-test treasure is good physical, mental, emotional and spiritual health!

"I seem to set up a certain fear in some individuals when I am near tham. It is not my desire to do this; and I'm pretty careful about doing any mind prying; but I still get their reaction from certain individuals. One in particular has never forgiven me because I inadvertently stated to him that we had been enemies in some past life. He projects hate any time I am near him in spite of my efforts to be friendly. This is most disturbing to me as I consider it a direct barrier to my advancement. Also, when I am around people in general there is a certain attitude expressed silently that I am something of an abnormal curiosity; and people guard their attitudes like I am trying to take something from them. This is also disturbing.

"Would you care to take the time and trouble to work on my problem areas and help me in progressing to a higher level?
I would be more than willing to make a contribution to your and your organization for your efforts. I have the greatest respect and know you will never exploit people when using your advanced abilities for others' welfare."

Thanks for the expression of confidence in our abilities and moral principles, whatever they may be. I hope the confidence is deserved! Thanks also for the order for BSRF literature. The information in Psychic Self-Defense, Part I (BSRF No.
24-K. "Pre-Conditions For Attack", $2.50) may be helpful in understanding the origins and causes of some of the psychic static coming your way.

The MK4 Copen instrument you mention isn't listed in the old Copen catalog we have here but it's good to know you are putting this New Age therapeutic technique to good use. By now you should be experienced enough to know that not everyone who asks for healing help really wants it -- not if it means giving up their pet vices! Or give them the benefit of the doubt and say they don't really realize what is involved, for them, in the way of fundamental changes in their living patterns.

THE NEED FOR UNDERSTANDING

Suppose one of your patients has an ulcer, caused largely by a nagging wife. But the cause of her nagging is the fact that she knows he has turned to his secretary for the intimate consolation he isn't getting at home. Neither Radionics, nor dowsing, nor the pendulum are going to resolve a situation which calls for marriage counseling. What your patient's wife needs is more understanding. If he could be persuaded to give her that, she, in gratitude, would probably give him more sex; so with the real cause of the ulcer gone it would heal itself. Your Invisible Helpers know this; so they won't waste energy trying to heal a physical disease which will continually be re-created by the negative mental and emotional states of the patient. Your Helpers will bring people to you for two reasons: First, because they can be healed; Second, for your education.

Sept-Oct 1978 RR, Page 9

THE DWELLER ON THE THRESHOLD

In healing work you are coming up against the Sin Body or Dweller on the Threshold of the one who asks for help. This is the Lower Self or Unihipili, and this entity will resent your interference in the personality's indulgence of its vices of bigotry, racial prejudice, jealousy, criticism, gossip, love of power over others, and will strike back at you. This is why you must do your cleansing and protective rituals night and morning -- not to mention leading a comparatively clean and blameless existence yourself!

A 50% healing rate is good, in my estimation. You'll have to force yourself to take more satisfaction and feeling of achievement from your successes -- if only to sustain a more positive emotional condition which helps keep you free from psychic attacks. For heaven sake don't attract negative forces by your own feelings of guilt and inadequacy! Failures are an important part of the educational process because they develop the necessary humility. You aren't going to save the world! You will be lucky if you can save yourself!

To force healing on someone who doesn't really want it is Black Magick. Anyhow, the Lords of Karma are infinitely stronger than you, and your Helpers; and if someone must experience extended suffering because of deliberate wrongdoing in this or a previous life, they WILL go through that suffering regardless of anything you can do; and you'll get little or no help from your Helpers in such cases. Remember the Healer's motto: "Not my will but Thine, O Lord."

One thing to keep in mind when helping others, or yourself, to psychic development, is that early successes may be really only a reviving of latent talent developed in previous lives where thousands of laborious hours of meditation, concentration and practice were expended. The "certain barriers" reached by your students are an indication of where the work was interrupted by death, or other reason, in the past. Now it becomes a grind again because new ground has to be plowed and cultivated, and the growth of the precious plant of self-consciousness cannot be forced without great danger. Part of that "certain barrier" might be lack of moral development in one area. Your, or their, Guides deliberately hold back any more psychic development until that part of the character is strengthened and thoroughly tested, to make sure the personality can carry the load without without bending or breaking. The "load" is often temptation, temptation to use the psychic powers for personal gain, such as treasure-hunting. This puts one under control of the Lunar Pitris, rather than Solar Pitris.

Of course there is always the risk of picking up another person's entities, earthbound spirits so fearful of the astral dark they will cling desperately to you rather than face an unknown future alone. They had no strength of character in this life; so they have none on the other side either. This is true of some of those you try to help. Close the astral door for them and they open it again as soon as you or your help is gone. They feel lonesome too, without their "eating companions".

WHO WANTS TO BE A MARTYR?

If you treasure your freedom of choice, or free will, don't jeopardize that freedom by taking the free will of others away from them -- including the person who hates you. That's his right. But there is no law I know of that says you must be a martyr to his hate. Wall him out of your life as much as possible and go your way, concentrating your energies on those who come to you for help. With so many sick people in the world, your Helpers will find plenty for you to do! And they will see to it that you have the means to carry on your work and service, no more, no less; and it isn't likely that they are interested in treasure-hunting. That was a gimmick to spark your interest in developing your psychic powers for service. Your living should come from the people whose gratitude you have earned.

How come so much unwelcome attention and suspicion? Have you been boasting of your ability to pierce the Veil of Ignorance which blinds most men and women to the Divinity within? If so, you should be reminded of another important motto: "To know, to dare, to do, and to be silent." Here again you apparently are having to waste energy defending yourself from antagonistic thoughts and feelings directed at you by others who are envious or fearful. What are the circumstances that have brought this about? Who is responsible? If you are, better make some changes. Assume that your daily protective rituals are throwing a cloak of invisibility about you and your work, that it goes forward with as little opposition as possible.

We'll put your name and letter on the Prayer List for a month or so. Our combined Forces should be able to help you solve your problems in time. It is most encouraging to have this kind of letter from an Associate, from one who is a practical mystic, putting borderland science to good use. Keep up the good work. Aloha.
"FRICKER TELLS VIEWERS WHY FIRST CURE SHOCKED HIM"

By Maurice Barbanell
In London "Psychic News"

"My first cure shocked me," said famous spirit healer Ted Fricker last week (November 1977) when he appeared on a London-based TV programme. He was interviewed on Mary Parkinson's ITV "Afternoon" feature.

She said believers in "faith healing" as she wrongly called it, would term Fricker one of the world's most remarkable men. Sceptics would call him a crank. Nonetheless, many people, ranging from the man in the street to those who are famous, testified that Fricker has cured them. Mrs. Parkinson admitted she "knew nothing at all about healing". Fricker said it was a divine gift. "I was sent here to be a healer."

Mrs. Parkinson asked about the "voices" he heard as a child. "When I was five, a voice spoke to me and told me what to do. I was always guided by it." Fricker said that when young, "I had every illness you could imagine. It must have driven my poor mother crazy. But today it's a blessing. If I hadn't had all those illnesses I could not be doing what I am doing now. You have to understand how other people are suffering."

His first patient, a man "bent in two" had been deformed for 21 years. "He was in a terrible state. I thought, 'If I touch him he might drop down dead.' Fricker asked the patient to visit his home that night. "All day long I prayed he would not come." But the sufferer did. Fricker "did not know what to do". But when he placed his hand on the man's back, "He was suddenly growing. He screamed, 'I'm cured!' and became crazy. I was more shocked than he was. The man was completely straight."

Fricker described the part spirit doctors played. They told him what to do. "Though 'dead' they are more alive than we are." Most nights he visited the spirit world. Information was given to him about things patients would say the next day...

(Fricker estimates he has healed a million people in 25 years of service. Here is an advanced human, on the Path, who has conscious contact with his Invisible Helpers. You can see that his patients are selected and diagnosed before they come to Fricker for help! This must be understood.)

Sept-Oct 1978 RR, Page 12
THOTHMA, BUILDER OF THE GREAT PYRAMID

TEMPLE OF THE FALSE OSIRIS

From John Newbrough's "Oahspe"
The Book of Wars Against Jehovih
Part III

7. Thothma said unto Baal (after touring the lower heavens, the kingdom of the false Osiris): Thou angel of God, thou hast shown me, of a truth, God is in the image of man. Nor is there any but one God, who ruleth over all.

8. Baal said: How sayest thou, then; who is God? Thothma said: How sayest thou? For behold, his glory was so great I could not look upon him.

9. Then answered Baal, saying: Only angels and mortals; these are the sum of all things. He thou hast looked upon was even as thou art; a one-time mortal on a far-off star-world. He attained unto the Godhead, to create a world unto himself, even as thou, who art an adept, canst create flowers and plants and serpents. Thus he came into the void regions of space and created the earth and her heavens, and they belong unto him; for they are his. And in like manner is every star world, created and ruled by a God like unto thy God, who is Lord of all.

10. Thothma said: O that all people knew these things! O that I may remember them when I am returned to earth. Baal said: More than this shalt thou remember; for I will now take thee to the hells of the idolators and the Jehovihians. Baal then took the soul of Thothma to the hells of De'yus, and showed him the horrors thereof. But he took him not to the regions of God, in Craoshivi.

11. Now when Thothma had traveled in heaven for thirty days, Baal brought his spirit back to the Chamber of Death, and showed him how to regain his corporeal part, the which he did. And then Baal signalled unto Egypt, and the latter spake to the priest on watch saying: Behold, Thothma hath returned; go thou and fetch thy brother, and deliver him into the Holy Chamber.

12. And when they came they unloosed the sealing stones and delivered the king into the Holy Chamber, and he was awake from his trance, and remembered all he had seen in heaven, which he related to the high priests who were with him. And both Baal and Egypt same in sar'gis and talked in the Holy Chamber with with Thothma and the priests. For one day the king remained in the Holy Chamber, that his spirit might be reconciled to the flesh; and on the next day he and the priests came forth out of the temple and sealed the door thereof, and placed the king's guard in charge that no man or woman might molest the place.

Sept-Oct 1978 RR, Page 13
Now Thothma had been in the death trance forty days.

13. The three angels, Egypt, Baal and Asthtaroth, came into the altar in the King's palace that night, and showed themselves to the college students who had attained Adept. Baal spoke orally before them, directing his words to the king, saying:
Behold, I am the angel of God thy Lord, whom thou hast beholden in heaven; I am the same who traveled in heaven with thee. What I speak, I say in the name of the Lord our God, whose servant
I am. On the morrow shall thy high priests draw lots, and one of them shall enter the Chamber of Holies, in the Osirian Temple (the Pyramid) and do even as thou hast. And after him, behold, another of the high priests shall do likewise; and so on, until the four have had thy experience.

14. And it came to pass that the four priests in turn cast themselves in death, and visited (the false) Osiris' heavenly kingdoms, and also many of the hells of De'yuus, being led in spirit by Baal or Ashtaroth, Egypt being the Guardian God of the temple.

PARTNERS IN CRIME

15. When they had thus accumulated the same knowledge of heaven and earth, the five of them were of one mind as to attaining life everlasting in the corporeal body. Osiris said:
Behold, I will bring many back who are already dead; and they shall call unto their embalmed bodies and wake them up and inhabit them. Go ye, then, to the root of the matter, and prepare my people; for I will come in person and inhabit the temple ye have built; and my heavenly kingdom shall descend even to the earth. Prepare ye the Column of the Stars!

16. Thothma built a column to the east line of the slat, seven lengths, and the height was thirty-six lengths; of wood and stone built he it, with an opening from the bottom to the top, and the width of the opening was six lengths. In the walls thereof was a winding stairway, and there were windows looking out to the east and west and north and south, that the stars from every quarter might be observed. On the summit of the column were dwelling places for the seers and mathematicians, with places for the measuring instruments and lenses.

17. When this was completed, Thothma built of wood and stone an external wall across the slat of the temple; and within this wall were stairs also, and these led to the top of the pyramid. This wall was also provided with windows, that the northern stars might be observed.

18. Thothma made an observing column for the sun, and it was provided with lenses of all colors, so that adepts standing at the base of the pyramid could see the sun at every hour of the day, and distinguish the spots and their changes. A gau was set within each of the angles of observation, that the relative position of the sun with the northern stars could be determined every day.

Sept-Oct 1978 RR, Page 14

THE COLLEGE OF ASTROLOGY

19. By these two columns, therefore, Thothma and his mathematicians measured the sun and moon and stars, as to the distances and sizes thereof. And Osiris commanded the king to send into the far-off lands of the earth his wisest mathematicians, to observe the winds of heaven, and the drouth upon the earth; and the abundance of the yield of the earth in different regions, in different years and seasons; and to observe famines and pestilences, and all manner of occurrences on the face of the earth. He said unto the king: When thy mathematicians are returned to thee with their accumulated wisdom, thou, or thy successors (Successors? What an embarrassing slip of the tongue for the false Osiris! His No. 1 student was supposed to live forever!!), shall examine the sun and the stars and moon, as compared to the things whereof the mathematicians shall relate, one year with another; and three years with another three years, and five with five, and seven with seven, and so on for hundreds of years, and thousands of years.

20. And when thou hast taken in the term of three thousand two hundred years, and compared the sun and moon and stars, as relate to the occurrences of the earth, thou shalt have the key of prophecy for three thousand three hundred years ahead.
And thou shalt say of this land and of that land; and of this people and that people, now it will be with them, and thou shalt not err.

21. Thothma, the king, called together his mathematicians and, according to their grade, chose from amongst them twelve hundred. These he divided into groups of one hundred each; and he gave them a sufficient number of attendants; and he sent them toward all the sides of the world, allotting to them sixteen years each for observation, according to the commandments.

22. And they took with them all kinds of instruments to measure with, besides scribes to make the records of such matters as came before them. And they went throughout Arabin'ya (Arabia), and Vind'yu (India), and Jaffeth (China), and Par'si'e (Persia), and Heleste (Greece?), and Uropa, even across to the western sea; and to the south extreme of Arabinya (Africa), and to the great kingdoms in the interior, and to the north of Heleste and Par'si'e and Jaffeth, to the regions of everlasting snow.

23. And in sixteen and seventeen years they returned, save some who died on the journeys. And most wonderful was the knowledge these mathematicians gained. . .

(To be continued in the next Journal.)
THE ELECTRIC BATTERIES FROM BABYLON

By J.R. Jochmans
From #4 of his "Forgotten Ages" Journal, Summer, 1978

(On page 3 of "Closed Class No. 11" the Yada di Shi'ite refers to "an electrical battery found in the diggings in ancient Egypt", a type of battery in use in Egypt when he lived there. Here, from Mr. Jochmans, is considerably more detail on ancient batteries and knowledge of electricity.)

From "The Use Of Batteries In The Ancient World". In 1938 Dr. Wilhelm König, an Austrian archaeologist from Vienna, working for the State Museum in Baghdad, Iraq, was rummaging through the basement of the museum. He came upon a find that was to drastically alter all concepts of ancient science. The find was a storage box containing a number of clay pots two thousand years old, which had been unearthed on June 14, 1936 by the Iraqi State Railroad Department during construction near Kujut Rabua, a village to the southeast of Baghdad.

Each pot contained a cylinder of sheet-copper 5 inches high and 1 1/2 inches in diameter. The edges of the copper cylinder were soldered with a 60-40 lead-tin alloy, comparable to the best solder we have today. The bottoms of the cylinders were capped with crimped-in copper discs, and sealed with bitumen, or asphaltum. Another insulating layer of asphaltum sealed the tops, and also held in place iron rods suspended into the center of the copper cylinders. The rods showed evidence of having been corroded by an acid solution, now evaporated. To keep the cylinder-rod Plug assemblies upright, they were sealed into a small pot, made of bright yellow clay, standing 6 inches high.

Here is a cut-away diagram of the ancient Iraq batteries: 1. The clay pot, 2. Copper cylinder, 3. Copper plug, 4. Asphalt seals and 5. The corroded iron rod.

With a background in mechanics Dr. König recognized this configuration was not a chance arrangement, but that the clay pots were nothing less than ancient electric batteries. König published his findings in a book called "The Lost Paradise" which described his nine-year exploits in the Middle East. His account came to the attention of science historian Willy Ley, and in 1939, Ley -- working with Willard M. Gray of the General Electric High Voltage Laboratory in Pittsfield, Massachusetts -- constructed a duplicate model of the ancient clay pot batteries. They found that by adding copper sulfate, acetic acid or citric acid -- all of which were well known two thousand years ago -- the battery produced between 1 ½ and 2 volts of electricity. The model was later placed on exhibit in the Berkshire Museum in Pittsfield. A more recent test with another model, conducted in 1960 by John B. Pierczynski of the University of North Carolina, used a 5% vinegar solution as the electrolyte. The replica battery produced ½ volt of electricity for 18 days. What is truly amazing is that generation of electric current by the same means was not invented in Europe until 1800.

YESTERDAY'S MAGICK IS TODAY'S SCIENCE

Soon after Konig's initial discovery, other ancient batteries were brought to light. Four similar clay pots with copper cylinders were discovered in a magician's hut near Tel Omar (Selucia), also near Baghdad. With these were found thin iron and copper rods which may have been used to connect the pots in series in order to produce stronger voltage. The remains of ten other batteries were also unearthed at Ktesiphon -- again near Baghdad -- by Professor E. Kühnel of the Staalichnen Museum in Berlin. These were found broken down into their component parts: a large ceramic vase contained ten copper cylinders, a second vase had ten iron rods, and a third possessed asphaltum plugs with holes, ready for the rods to be placed through. It looked as though the batteries were mass produced, and their maker had been interrupted before assembling the pieces into working batteries.

Investigation indicates that the clay pot batteries were used in ancient times to plate objects with gold, silver and even antimony, using the electroplating process. Not only did the electroplating involve electricity, but also knowledge and manipulation of complex chemicals. The plating of gold, for example, involved preparing solution baths with ferrocyanide, lye and orate -- gold dissolved in hydroxide. Dr. Konig, before leaving Iraq in 1939, discovered that the gold and silver smiths of Baghdad still possessed such solution baths, and were using a crude form of the ancient batteries to electroplate their wares -- a process which had been kept secret by them and handed down from father to son for an unknown number of generations.

Electroplating techniques, however, generally need a current of only half a volt. Yet the finds at Tel Omar and Ktesiphon imply that methods were being employed to increase electric output beyond the two volt maximum of a single pot battery, and that the batteries were being mass produced. What had they been used for besides electroplating? The fact that the group at Tel Omar was found in a "magician's hut" might suggest that the batteries played an important role in scientific research. Those who were once considered magicians were usually members of an elite intelligentsia who helped preserve and experiment with forgotten knowledge of the past.

EVEN OLDER, MORE ADVANCED CIVILIZATIONS

The ancient batteries in the Baghdad museum, as well as those others which were unearthed in Iraq, all date from the Parthian period of the Persian occupation, between 248 B.C. and A.D. 226. However, Konig found copper vases plated with silver in the Baghdad museum, excavated from Sumerian remains in Iraq, and dating back to 2500 B.C. When the vases were lightly tapped, a blue patina separated from the surface, a characteristic of silver electroplated to copper.

Martin Levey of Pennsylvania State University has confirmed from cuneiform texts dating to the third millenium B.C. that the Sumerians possessed all the necessary metals and acids that went into the construction of the old batteries. It would appear, then, that the Persians and later smiths of Baghdad inherited their batteries from the earliest known civilization in the Middle East. The question is, however, where did the ancient Sumerians receive their knowledge of the batteries and electricity from? The evidence points to some unknown civilization older yet and more advanced -- not only more advanced than the Sumerians, but in some cases more advanced than us today.

(And that more advanced civilization very probably was Egypt! As for civilizations that are more advanced than we are today, in 1978, we turn to those Visitors from other planets and systems who have mastered space travel, and who have had earth and its comparatively primitive civilizations under observation for thousands of years. Once in awhile scientists are favored with a technical boost from such an outside source.

(Scientists from ancient Greece have aroused our respect, but were their ideas on the atomic structure of matter original with them? Not so, according to Pauwels and Bergier. In their fascinating book, "The Dawn Of Magic", on page 44, we have this informative quote: "Contrary to what modern textbooks say, it was not Democritus, or Leucippus, or Epicurus who first initiated and formulated atomic theories. Sextus Empiricus informs us that Democritus himself learned them from tradition, especially Moschus the Phoenician who, it seems (an important point of note) had declared that the atom was divisible." And the Phoenicians were ready to admit that they derived their culture and science from Egypt! There was also exchange of information with advanced civilizations in India.

(Sumer and Chaldea may have been separate civilizations but they overlap in time and space of the Middle Eastern world. We quote from our earliest lecture on Flying Saucers, June 29, 1954:

Sept-Oct 1978 RR, Page 18
"Occultism all over the world is intimately connected with Chaldean wisdom. The records show that these practical mystics at the head of the arts and sciences, astronomers and seers, were consulting with the stars and 'receiving instructions from the brilliant sons of Ilu'. Ilu is the concealed deity of the Chaldeans. Because of the sanctity of life and great learning of the Chaldean mystics, for long ages their name was a synony for Science. The Chaldean mystics were mediators between the people and the appointed messengers of heaven, whose bodies shine in the starry heavens. The Chaldean mystics and occultists were interpreters of the will of the Visitors from outer space; for heaven is outer space."

(How old were some of the "unknown, more advanced civilizations" of the past? In that same early Flying Saucer lecture we referred to the great Greek biographer and historian of the 4th Century A.D: "Laertius had access to the records of the great Library at Alexandria, Egypt (before it was burned by Roman Catholic fanatics). From his studies there Laertius traced Egyptian history back 48,863 years before Alexander the Great! The Egyptian priests kept accurate records." And Diogenes Laertius made good use of them. Egypt was the mother of advanced civilizations long before the Flood (9564 B.C.), which takes us back into Atlantean times. We can be sure that electroplating of jewelry for Atlantean beauties was a standard technique in great old civilizations which are now only a myth. Now back to Jochmans and the remainder of his article.)

Willard Gray, when constructing his model battery in Pittsfield, learned that modern asphaltum flows cold, and when he tried to use it as a sealant the way the ancients did in their batteries, the components gradually collapsed and ran together. Gray queried, "What kind of asphaltum did the Ancients have or what did they do to keep it nonfluid at room temperatures?" As an alternative, Gray finally resorted to black sealing wax. But the mystery of the "cold" asphaltum remains and whether we like it or not, it indicates that someone in the past possessed a chemical knowledge that we have yet to understand today.

While no other batteries have yet been unearthed outside of Iraq, there are indications that batteries were nevertheless used by other ancient civilizations. Electroplated objects have been found in Egypt, discovered by the famous 19th Century French archaeologist, Auguste Mariette. Excavating in the area of the Sphinx at Gizeh, Mariette came upon a number of artifacts at a depth of 60 feet. In the "Grand Dictionaire Universel du Dix-neuvieme Siecle" he described the artifacts as "pieces of jewelry whose thinness and lightness make one believe they had been produced by electroplating, an industrial technique that we have been using for only two or three years". Mariette's observation was later proven to be correct.
ALUMINUM HAS AN ANCIENT HISTORY?

Another disturbing indication of electricity having been a part of ancient metallurgical techniques was discovered in the burial site of the famous general of the Tsin era in China, Chou Chu, who lived from A.D. 265 to 316. The fastener was examined by the Institute of Applied Physics of the Chinese Academy of Sciences, and the Dunbai Polytechnic. Their analysis showed that the metal of the fastener is an alloy of 5% manganese, 10% copper -- and 85% aluminum!

Now aluminum was supposedly not discovered until 1807, and not produced successfully in pure form until 1857. Today, the process of extracting aluminum from bauxite mineral is very complicated and involves the use of a Reverbier oven, refraction chamber and regenerator, and utilizes temperatures exceeding 1,000° Centigrade. What is more, electrolysis plays a key role.

The question is, where did the Chinese acquire these elements of 20th Century technology in the Third Century? It is possible they may have even possessed methods of producing aluminum unknown to us today -- methods which could have employed electrolysis in a long-lost technique forgotten to modern science.

It appears that metals were not the only substance subjected to the electrolysis technique in ancient times. In the Princes' Library of Ujjain, India, there is preserved a document called the "Agastya Samhita", which dates back to the first millennium B.C. In it is this description: "Place a well-cleaned plate of copper in an earthenware vessel. Cover with with copper sulfate and then with moist sawdust. The contact of all these elements in this manner will produce an energy called Mitra-Varuna. By it water can be split into Pranavayu and Udanavayu. A chain of one hundred jars will give a very active and effective force." We have here not only instructions for making a battery, but a description of the electrolysis of water into hydrogen and oxygen.

It appears, too, that the Hindus were equally knowledgeable of the reverse process, creating water out of the elements in the air. Both the Rig Veda and the Brihat-Devatas mention that when Mitra-Varuna is placed in a water-jar and exposed to the heavens, the God born is named Khumbasambhava -- the Hindu equivalent of Aquarius, the Zodiacal god who carries on his shoulder a water jug that never empties.

We may well ask, what other knowledge of chemistry did the ancients possess? To quote Willard Gray: "Occasionally, we feel a bit smug about our tremendous advances, but when we find we are scooped by some ancient metal smiths in knowledge of electricity, we are most assuredly brought down to earth and humbled."

J.R. Jochman's address is PO Box 82863, Lincoln, Nebraska 68501. Copies of his "Forgotten Ages" are 35c each, 12 issues a year, $3.00.

Sept-Oct 1978 RR, Page 20
DEATH RAYS AND OTHER MORBID FANTASIES

"Having been your subscriber for a number of years I am very sad to see the declining quality of BSRF Journal in the past several issues. In the beginning your magazine carried a number of very interesting articles, MWO, Hermes device and related matters, but lately it seems to be confined to extracts from Dion Fortune's 'The Secrets of Dr. Taverner' an article from some queer liberation society, and various letters and articles from individuals who strongly remind me of inmates of a mental institution for paranoids, with their talk of demons, death rays and other related morbid fantasies.

"Surely with all the research into Radionics, ESP, Earth energies and related materials there is enough information available to publish interesting information data on research into human potentials, alternative energies, etc., without printing what amounts to garbage emanating from demented lunatics. I sincerely hope you will bring BSRF Journal back to what I once greatly enjoyed reading."

M.L.V., Chiropractor
Melbourne, Australia

We hope so too, Doc! Trouble is, when we go beyond the mechanics of such borderland gadgets as Radionics diagnostic and treatment equipment, the Hermes telepathy device, etc., to try to understand their operation, we get into the 5th Dimensional world of the mind. There we have the Positive Natural Forces which help to make such gadgets work, but there also are the demons who make the Death Rays work! These paranoid "morbid fantasies" are real in their 5th Dimensional world, and when one achieves a "zero point of vacuum energy" as Tom Bearden calls it, both the Good Guys and the Bad Guys show up in your magnetic "sink". They ARE that energy! You asked for it! It's up to you to handle it as best you can. If you turn away in fear and disgust, then that's the self-imposed limits of your growth.

"I FOUND THAT I WAS IN A DUSKY WOOD"

This confrontation is better described by poets. Dante dramatizes it in the opening Canto of his "The Divine Comedy". From our Pantheon Books edition, 1948, translated by Lawrence Grant White, we read: "Midway upon the journey of our life
I found that I was in a dusky wood;
For the right path, whence I had strayed, was lost..."

How I arrived there it was hard to tell:
So weary was my mind, so filled with sleep,
I reeled, and wandered from the path of truth.

Sept-Oct 1978 RR, Page 21
Canto 1: The Lion suddenly confronts Dante
"When I had come before a mountain's base --
The ending of that steep and rugged valley
That lately had so struck my heart with fear --
I raised my eyes and saw the mountain's shoulder
Already covered by the planet's rays
That safely guide the steps of other men.
Then was my terror somewhat quieted
That through the last night's anguish I had borne Within the very wellsprings of my heart.
Like one who having battled with the waves,
In safety on the shore, with panting breath
Looks back upon the perils of the deep:
So did my soul, which still in terror fled,
Turn back to contemplate with awe and fear
That pass which man had never left alive.

"After my weary body had been rested,
Again I started up the desert steep,
So that my lower foot was e'er the firmer.
When lo! Close to the bottom of the mount,
A leopardess, light-poised and passing swift,
Her hide all covered o'er with inky spots!
She always stood before me, face to face,
Blocking my path whenever I advanced,
So that I turned and turned again in vain..."

Then a hungry lion appeared before him -- as dramatically illustrated on the opposite page by the great French artist, Gustav Dore -- and a she-wolf "gaunt and grim, to oppose his further progress; so he despaired of ever reaching the heights above, bathed in glorious Light. Dante didn't realize then that these beasts were the creations of his own subconscious, his Dweller on the Threshold, his Frankenstein; and that even as he had created them he could destroy them, he must destroy them.

So he "lost hope of making the ascent" until the poet Virgil suddenly appeared before him and offered to guide him, through the Valley of the Shadow and on toward the heights. We must assume that Dante Alighieri had, by this time in his occult studies, learned the Art of Astral Projection and was indeed out of his body; and Virgil, the Roman, was an Initiate further along on the Path of return to the Father's House, who was sent to help Dante. Virgil also symbolizes our Higher Self, who is always ready to inspire and guide when we give Him, or Her, or It a chance.

The beasts of our subconscious want to live, too. These are Draculas vampirizing us of our life force to maintain their own vicarious existence. They are always hungry. They will destroy us if we give way to them completely, these demons and morbid fantasies of the underworld, the "dusky valley". But it is their very opposition which gives us a thrust-block for forward movement!

Sept-Oct 1978 RR, Page 23
TAKE CARE! THE BORDER IS PATROLLED!!

"It is with some sense of consternation that I write you. You will recall a certain James Raymond Wolfe who wrote to you some time ago seeking information on the Allende-Jessup affair? (BSRF No. 14, "M.K. Jessup and the Allende Letters", $2.50) You sent a copy of his letter to me along with a note that I might be interested in corresponding with him. I was, and I did for some time thereafter. It seems that he was also doing a book on the topic for NAL in New York, and we exchanged several bits and pieces of information on the theory that if either of our two books did well it should tend to help the other one. Naturally I did not give him anything approaching all I knew; nor he me, I presume. Anyhow, I last heard from him in October when he wrote a rather strangely toned letter in which he was under a great deal of stress and pressure. After that I heard no more from or about him until just a few weeks ago.

"Wolfe vanished sometime in February, just before completing the last chapters of his book, the ones in which he would have reached his conclusions and revealed whatever new evidence he had been able to turn up. .. The most recent word I have comes from an investigative outfit in Canada. (Wolfe was also associated with the CBC.) It is that he is reportedly dead. I do not know whether all this has anything to do with his work on the Allende-Jessup situation or not. All I can do at this point is speculate."

And we can speculate that Wolfe didn't make it through the "dusky valley". His "leopardess, lion and hungry she-wolf", freed by the rent in the Veil which Wolfe himself made, destroyed him.

"My own manuscript is virtually complete and is in New York. It should be published this fall. In the meantime, several strange things have happened around here, little 'coincidences' which don't seem quite in keeping with the norm of things. I am not afraid. I have taken precautions all along to insure that I am properly and adequately protected with regard to my work on this matter; but sinister forces seem to be at work nonetheless. Please do anything and all you can to assure that the present positive status-quo is maintained. You might try asking some of our 'friends' on the Other Side for insight as to what is going on so proper precautions can be taken. I believe I now have virtually the entire story as to what that Philadelphia ship experiment was all about and what happened as a result. The answers are even wilder than the story and I'm not sure even I believe all of it. If it is true I can understand the official policy of silence that has ensued up to this point and the BSRF explanation of the Flying Saucers is very nearly correct."

Professor Cornelius Pilsudski,
Thick and Thin Institute, Short Beach, California

Sept- Oct 1978 RR, Page 24
Welcome to the Club, Professor! So you have finally become aware of the very real threat to anyone who tries to pull aside the Veil which keeps most of mankind in ignorance of the Forces which affect them all the time, waking and sleeping. That borderland is patrolled all the time, the Brothers of the Shadow looking for accomplices who can be used to further their selfish interests -- such as Richard Nixon and his henchmen -- and then destroyed; and it is patrolled by the White Brotherhood, looking for helpers who can further the Plan of Evolution as God has laid it out for this planet, Earth.

Apparently your motives are honorable, Professor, and the results fruitful; so it's worth the while of the Brothers of the Light to see to it that you are allowed to work in peace -- as we are here! Judy and I can count three really vicious attempts to wipe us out, and there were probably others which didn't impress us as being a real threat to our existence and the continuance of our work. Wolfe obviously was vulnerable, as you observed, probably because his motives were selfish; and no doubt he had one or two vices which made him an easy target.

This is why the student of the Mysteries is enjoined to live as clean a life as possible. This is why he, or she, must do protective work night and morning -- and whenever else it seems necessary. Keep your vices under control; otherwise you tear down your barriers as fast as you build them. Also, and equally important, if you want protection give protection to others! That is the Law. So we'll put you on our prayer list for awhile, and remind you of King Solomon's instructions to his son, Roboam.

THE PRIVILEGE OF WORKING WITH THE ANGELS

"Firstly, it is necessary for thee to understand that God, having made all things, in order that they may be submitted unto Him, hath wished to bring His works to perfection, by making one which participates of the Divine and of the Terrestrial, that is to say, Man; whose body is gross and terrestrial while his soul is spiritual and celestial, unto whom He hath made subject the whole earth, and its inhabitants, and hath given unto Him means by which He may render the Angels familiar, as I call those creatures who are destined: some to regulate the motions of the Stars, others to inhabit the Elements, others to aid and direct men, and others again to sing continually the praises of the Lord. Thou mayest then, by the use of their seals and characters (contained in the Key of Solomon) render them familiar unto thee, provided that thou abusest not this privilege by demanding from them things which are contrary to their nature; for accursed be he who will take the Name of God in vain, and who will employ for evil purposes the knowledge and good wherewith He hath enriched us. . . "

Solomon was well aware of the dangers of rending the Veil, even under the controlled conditions of a properly constructed magickal circle and a properly performed ritual; for the "dusky valley" of Dante must be passed every time; and the spotted leopard, the lion and the hungry she-wolf are always waiting; so this admonition to the disciples working with the Magician:

"Furthermore, each of the Companions should have a new Sword drawn in his hand (besides the the consecrated Magical Sword of Art), and he should keep his hand resting upon the hilt thereof, and he should on no pretext quit the place assigned to him, nor move therefrom."

THE UFO MYSTERY CAN NEVER BE SOLVED

"Glad to see someone else arrive at a reasonable evaluation of John Keel, in your July-August Journal. I have had dealings with John Keel and am singularly impressed with the fact that first and foremost he is journalist who is trained to take facts and put a story together in such a way as to encourage perpetuity. For instance, if UFOs are a hoax, then the UFO mystery can never be solved. In fact, according to Keel, no solution is possible.

"What does that do for those who take him seriously? It convinces them that all interest in UFOs is meaningless; that official study is futile -- mainly because our collective subconscious is playing a massive, millinea-long trick on us. To Keel, World War II was just a figment of our imagination.

"Did you ever realize that the effect of the MIB and Keel are the same? And is it not interesting that Keel has been the purveyor extraordinaire of the Men In Black? Keel and a few fringes could carry the whole thing off by themselves. My thanks for expressing this realistic appraisal of Mr. Keel and what passes for thinking -- on his part. I have called Keel and Ivan Sanderson to task on several occasions and have found them grossly irresponsible with the facts.

"It may be true to some extent that Keel is a patsy for astral and etheric grunheads hoaxing him; it is no wise true that he has even a 10% grasp of our greater reality; and he wouldn't know a UFO is it sauntered up to him and bit him in the (ischial tuberosities)."

A.J.G., Santa Monica, California

In our correspondence with John Keel in the late 1960s we suggested that he really was a propagandist for MIRO, the Military-Industrial-Religious Oligarchy which runs America at a great profit, and that if he wasn't being well paid for his work, if he was doing it for free, he was a sucker! He was hurt by our questioning of his noble motives for Flying Saucer research. By comparison, look at the government propaganda of J. Wafflemouth Highneck. In the 1950s and 60s Highneck was well paid by the U.S. Air Force to call all Flying Saucer believers either dupes or frauds, no exceptions. Highneck also saw to it that his university received millions of dollars in government research money, especially the astronomy department which he headed.

Sept-Oct 1978 RR, Page 26

TOTAL VICTORY FOR THE MILITARY BUREAUCRATS?

"It is hard to understand how anyone can watch 'Close Encounters of the Third Kind' without being sick. The final message is total victory for the military bureaucrats with the blessing of the Star People. Those who followed their inner guidance were arrested (though two made it through anyway). The Government closed off the site by lying to the people. The Space Ship obligingly lands at the military field. The one man who made it through still ends up going aboard in a military (red, devilish?) uniform. The final message is that the Space People will only speak to Humanity through the Military Computer (Pope, President, Leader?), and that those who follow Inner Guidance will be arrested and put away.

"By contrast 'Star Wars' is a message of hope for humanity. On the one hand you have the Dark Forces personified in Darth Vader, representing total bureaucratic control of all human life. Opposite this you have the individuals holding out for the Republic. Symbolically, there is Youth guided by an Immortal Old Man, coming from an unimportant desert world to cast the final blow. It doesn't matter if your favorite devil is the FDA, the AMA, Phony Environmentalism, the Bankers, the Gangsters, the Communists, Naderism, the Military-Industrial Complex, or False Religion. In the end Luke Skywalker, allowing the Force to work through him, guided by the voice of the Immortal Old Man, and backed by many individuals, drops the bomb in the hole, and the whole Bureaucratic establishment is destroyed instantaneously and Mankind is Free.

"Take your choice! Free direct communication or everything channeled through the Government Computer."

J.H., Monticello, Utah

Thanks for pointing up the important differences between these two current, sci-fi movies, J.H. We have wondered if the producer of "Close Encounters" didn't get his ideas of a government-controlled UFO landing from BSRF No. 2-F "Flying Saucers At Edwards Air Force Base, 1954", $2.50. As far as we know, our founder-director Meade Layne was the first to release the information publicly. Mrs. Crabb and I did get a lift out of "Star Wars" and saw it a second time; but "Close Encounters" left us emotionally flat and slightly disgusted. There is no desire to see it again. We also stopped wasting time watching the government-controlled "Project UFO" series on TV Sunday nights, after seeing the third episode. Still the same old propaganda line generated by the first Secretary of Defense, James Forrestal, in 1947. When one remembers that Forrestal was a devout Roman Catholic and a Wall Street banker, the connection is obvious.
A POPE AND FLYING SAUCERS

No, not the recently deceased Pope Paul VI but a 16th Century Pontiff with a Close Encounter of the Second Kind, discovered by Prof. Pinotti, with whom we have exchanged Journals for years. We wish to thank Jean Orsolano of San Francisco for sending us this timely news clip from "Midnight Globe".

"I saw this UFO in 1954," Professor Roberto Pinotti of Florence University told Globe. "It flew back and forth over Florence for several hours at a fantastic speed. It was cylindrical, with red and blue lights or flames. I took a photograph of it.

"A few hours after it had disappeared, a strange white substance was found covering the city. When samples were analyzed they were found to contain boron, silicon, calcium and magnesium. It didn't make any sense. Then something clicked and I remembered a painting which had always puzzled me. It was done by a certain Masolino da Panicale and depicted something on the ground with a stick. The ground appeared what looked like whole formations of UFOs. I did some research and found that objects had been seen in the sky over Rome in the painter's time, and that a white substance had also covered the city during the incident."

The similarity in the two events started Pinotti on serious research, and today he is president of the Italian Central Bureau on UFO research in Florence and Italy's top UFOlogist.

"I'm now convinced that extraterrestrial beings do exist," he said. "With my team..."
of investigators I have checked over 20,000 sightings all over Europe. We reject any reports which are not completely supported by witnesses, and that still leaves us with thousands of cases which cannot be explained (away).

"In olden times people had no category in which to fit UFOs. They had no basis on which to form any concept of them, so they invented supernatural explanations. It is possible that our witches, fairies, dragons and other legends were really spacemen or space craft. In those days, anything abnormal like a man coming out of the sky had to be a god or a godlike thing. As a result, UFO sightings were translated into the supernatural, into religious phenomena. But today reports are coming in from a sophisticated civilization. . .

"Our group here is quite convinced UFOs and extraterrestrial beings do exist. We know they have existed for thousands of years, that their activities are increasing and they they are growing bolder. It seems very obvious that something out there is very interested in our planet."

"WE ARE NEITHER YOUR BOSSES NOR YOUR SERVANTS"

Associate Benjamin O. Bibb sometimes clears his lower mind while sitting at his typewriter to grind out his "Seventh Sense Newsletter" and allows the stream of Higher Consciousness to flow. Here is one result, in the May 15, 1978 Newsletter:

"Through these typing hands has come much information in the past which you did not consciously know, yet you in your higher consciousness did know but were not able to assimilate to the lower consciousness. Some has come from soul memory, some from the infinite book of knowledge. All has been knowledge and truth which you and those you reach can use for betterment in some manner.

"Above your physical world in the vibratory scale is a vast and never-ending series of plateaus, or planes, or dimensions, whereupon beings of immortality live and work in paraphrased comparison to life in the physical world. In lower strata are confused and aimless immortals, existing in waiting for that which they do not understand as yet, many having made the transition in a state of shock and fear and having not yet recovered. Their recovery will come.

"Higher in the strata, though, exist and work fully aware and conscientious beings whose major purpose and desire is to help those less advanced than they, be those in physical life or in non-physical life. By compassionate and dedicated service of that life, they continue their advancement to even higher state. Yet, in another respect, should their entire purpose be that of their own advancement, and thereby only of selfishness, they they would not have attained their present state at all.

"We must try to bring this explanation through to all of you

Sept-Oct 1978 RR, Page 29
in a manner which makes these beings 'more human', as you would say; so that you -- all of you -- will no longer remain aloof in mind from us; but instead will allow us to help you in the same stead in which you will accept the gracious helping hand of a neighbor in any endeavor, any day.

THE NEED TO HAVE SELF-SUFFICIENCY

"You recently admitted that perhaps you had tried to 'go it alone', in using your mind as much as possible without asking for higher help, too much in the past. You were told that such was true, but that it was not a liability for it aided in your growth. You knew without question that this was true. Had you not practiced self-sufficiency then your original growth, through confidence that your practices could be done successfully, would not have been as rapid.

"The time has now come, though, to heed the silent longings from the higher planes from those who need YOUR help by your asking them to help you! No supplication is needed or desired, but just your silent desire-request for help is sufficient. No loss of dignity nor self-sufficiency results; for the higher planes and the physical world act in mutual support, not unlike economics on the physical planets. All is natural law, and it is an interchange of helping, not an alms-pleading nor an alms-giving.

"You to whom we speak are of the higher strata on the physical plane, or we would not speak to you, could not. You are in the physical life now, and thus somewhat handicapped as to the free-flow of mind therefrom; yet you are either proceeding back to higher planes from which you returned to the physical world, or you are certainly bound for higher planes because of your advancement there."

The kind of mediumship demonstrated by Ben Bibb here is of the highest. Dion Fortune calls it Cosmic Mediumship, where the medium or transmitter remains fully conscious and in control of himself, or herself -- like a secretary accepting dictation -- but here the "dictation" is at the abstract mental level, the world or plane of Ideas. The communicating entity skillfully blends his stream of consciousness with that of the physical plane receiver. If the receiver or medium is not aware that he has opened his mind in this way, he will claim the ideas coming out as his own. Bibb's "Virgil" had decided it was time Ben should be more fully aware of this intimate relationship between Disciples, between Guru and Cheela, from the Inner Planes to the Outer Plane and back again.

"We of the higher planes are neither your bosses nor your servants. We are to help, not direct; guide, not control; assist, not slave. If you will reverse that statement, it will also be true of your relation to us. Commands we do not execute, but requests, desires, longings we move forward with immediately. We do not speak here of prayers to The Highest, of course; for prayers to us, by name or general, are not appropriate. Reserve prayers for your Highest, be that Highest one or more than one as you can conceive.

Sept-Oct 1978 RR, Page 30

TEAMWORK WITH THE INVISIBLES

"You have one to several entities with you always. They are like extensions to yourself, to help and guide. The numbers of these guiding entities are as needed by you at your present level of advancement. They are of the higher planes. And you must bring into realization that the Immortal Soul of you is in two-dimension existence, being of higher planes while being on your plane. The soul of you is your finest mentor, if you develop the ability, and the desire -- which necessitates conquering the ego-self -- for it to come through to your consciousness.

"Remember this. We on the higher planes and you on the advancing mortal state are embarked on a joint endeavor, whether you have been fully aware of this or not. That endeavor is the salvation of the human race and its planet through the raising, the expansion of the consciousness of the race as a whole. (In using the word 'salvation' we are not using it in the religious sense but in the 'rescue' sense.) It is only through such mass consciousness-raising that greater and greater numbers of Immortal Souls may, through raising vibration rates on a permanent basis, 'graduate' from the constantly turning wheel of reincarnation into permanent existence in the higher planes. Thus it will not be necessary to continue increasing the numbers of human beings in order to accommodate needful souls for reincarnation experience. Thus, also, as end result of that lessening of numbers, the inanimate universe will not be required to take catastrophic action to preserve itself through reducing the numbers of the human population. In sum, your world will preserve itself as a viable life-supporting planet in one way or another, and the preferred way of its preservation is for humanity to reduce its need for numbers by raising its race consciousness level.

"At the same time, that selfsame consciousness-raising will help raise our levels here; and we can, too, 'graduate' even higher so as to make way for upward bound souls in our place. Thus we are grateful for every opportunity to help you on that plane.

"We can make you the same as if you were many in this life, if you will ask our help. You can make us larger and higher by that same asking. Please, ask and you shall receive; and and we CAN give!"

Benjamin and Margaret Bibb
Seventh Sense Institute
311 Gaymont Circle
Statesville, North Carolina
28677

Sept-Oct 1978 RR, Page 31
THE MUCH-TRAVELED "FIVE RITES OF REJUVENATION"

"You might like to put in the new edition that I have taught those Five Rites in Alaska, England, Canada, Italy, Mexico and Hawaii because I think they are excellent! By keeping the Chakras in vibrant condition and the endocrine glands that are their extension in the physical body, we keep both our Etheric and physical bodies in good shape. This is why I prefer the Rites to yoga exercises. I have found them to be very beneficial to myself. I have done them for 3½ years.

"Thanks for getting the package of books off to me so promptly. Thought I had plenty for my Las Vegas lecture trip but just got an order for 10 which almost cleaned me out. I sold a lot in Anchorage, Alaska."

Elaine Peick, 23852 Wardlow Circle, Lagnua Niguel, California 92677

Your letter missed the new, enlarged edition of the Rites, Elaine, but here it is in CQC; and thanks a million for helping to make this the most popular book in our Catalog. We did add 20 pages of the 1978 edition of the Rites. These are letters of inquiry and comment on the Rites, and our comment and answers, along with an updated picture of ye editor. I have been doing the Rites regularly for 10 years now and there is no doubt that they help to keep the body and mind more youthful and vigorous. The Chakras or "eyes" -- as they are named in the Bible -- must be kept vibrating at optimum speed for spiritual growth, but the spine must also be kept flexible so the Life Forces can flow up and down it unimpeded.

The latest edition of "The Five Rites of Rejuvenation" is now $2.50, retail.

MIND OVER MATTER, ON THE FOOTBALL FIELD

In the March-April Journal CQC section we offered the opinion that the Denver Superbowl football team was hexed with ritual magick, making it easy for Dallas to win. Now we learn from the August 1978 "Pate" magazine that the New England "Patriots" football team has a self-styled Kahuna as a player!

"It's funny, but sometimes I think I can make something happen on the football field just by picturing it in my mind," says Russ Francis, the New England Patriots' All-Pro tight end. According to a story in "Sport Magazine", Russ, who comes from Hawaii, believes he just may be a born Kahuna. According to Hawaiian legend, kahunas can create what they want to have happen by conjuring mental pictures of whataever it is they want. He says he uses Kahuna power as a hex on opposing teams and it works.

"I believe in this stuff," Francis says, "It's not like Kahuna was just a big joke." In 1976 the Patriots wound up the season with a record 11 wins and three losses. Russ claims that he and a friend invoked the hex against Pittsubrgh, Oakland and the Baltimore Colts.

There is no indication in the "Sport Magazine" or "Fate" stories that Russ Francis is a hapa-hāole (half Caucasian, half Hawaiian) but it seems more than likely that he has Hawaiian blood in him and may very well be a reincarnated Kahuna -- or at least one who developed a powerful Dweller, an Unihipili, with appropriate rites in a past life. All memory of those practices was wiped out with the death of the personality at the end of that life but the essence is carried over by the soul into the present personality as latent talent or power which can be aroused again by strong desire, the Dweller aided and abetted by Devas of the Seventh Order, as DK calls them in the Alice Bailey material.

Ben Bibb's "Virgil" tells him that there are all kinds of layers or planes of consciousness above and below the human, a bewildering array of "universes". These have been explored and mapped out by those who have preceded us on the Path to freedom from the wheel of rebirth. Without such a topology or topography of the Universe the would-be borderlander is lost. Our choice is the Cabala of the Western Mystery Tradition, with the Tree of Life as our road map of the heavens and their relation to the earth, and the Christ as our over-all guide. For those of you who want to follow the pagan Path of Power, we have a fairly complete magickal system as taught by Kahuna David Bray, and written down by his prize pupil, a haole, Paul Douglas Low, "The Kahuna Religion of Hawaii", illustrated, $4.00.

Our explanation of the Three Paths for men and women, Pagan, Mystic and Hermetic, is in the first book of our series of lessons on the Cabala, BSRF No. 24-A, The Invisible Reality Behind Appearances, Part I, $3.50. It is well illustrated. The material was developed in classes in California and Florida. There are drills in concentration, relaxation, rhythmic breathing and visualization -- all necessary conditioning for controlled ESP, or the expansion of consciousness beyond the physical.

"HEATHER: CONFESSIONS OF A WITCH" As Told To Hans Holzer

Here is another reincarnated pagan magician, Heather P., a top secretary to executives of one of the major TV networks in New York City. It's the biography of a beautiful girl of Scotch ancestry as told to Hans Holzer, the ghost-chaser. She also has a powerful Dweller which takes over in times of crisis in her life, this life, in which she joins a Witch Coven in New York City and quickly works her way to the position of High Priestess. When her bosses learn of her powers they do not hesitate to call on her to help solve certain of their problems. Very instructive to any student of the Mysteries. Published at $8.95 by Mason & Lipscombe in 1975.
"OPERATION MIND CONTROL" by Walter H. Bowart

This is the story of our secret government's war against its own people. You may remember Bowart as editor and publisher of the "East Village Other", one of the more successful of the hippie weeklys of the rebellious 1960s. He chose the Hermetic Path, stumbled on to the Left Hand Path workings of the CIA, the NSA, the Office of Naval Intelligence, Air Force Intelligence, etc. and followed them up in an outstanding piece of investigative journalism. To quote from the back cover of this Dell paperback, $1.95:

"For over 25 years the CIA has been developing a Technology of Terror! Its purpose: To devise operational techniques to disturb the memory, to discredit people through aberrant behavior, to alter sex patterns, to elicit information and to create emotional independence. Its goal: To program individuals to carry out any mission of espionage or assassination, even against their will, even against such fundamental laws of nature as self-preservation."

Bowart quotes chapter and verse from government documents and from the published statements of government scientists. Among other things we learn that a government assassin can be programmed to forget the crime even before he commits it! If considered necessary, he or she can be programmed to commit suicide after the mission is accomplished. The War of Armageddon is indeed a battle for control of our minds and this is one phase of it which has been made more clear by brave Walter Bowart. If you cant find a copy on your dealer's shelves order direct from Dell Publishing Co., 1 Dag Hammarskjold Plaza, New York NY 10017.

"SUPERSENSONICS" by Christopher Hills

This is an impressively massive tome by Hills on Radiesthesia, over 600 pages! and profusely illustrated on every page; so if you dont care to read very much you certainly can look at the pictures, which illustrate every phase of psychic development from both the spiritual side and the science side. Hills was given a great accumulation of dowser and diviner material from the estates of the French borderlander, Turenne, and of English borderlander Noel Macbeth and finally organized and published them in this magnificent 8½x11 opus, along with his own interpretations and additions to the Art of Radiesthesia. If you want to develop psychic sensitivity, dowsing and/or the pendulum are good places to start, and Christopher Hills has supplied the complete textbook for beginners. $15, University of the Trees Press, PO Box 644, Boulder Creek, California 95006. We want to thank Associate Ansley Hill for lending us her copy for review.

"THE PULSE OF THE UNIVERSE" by Capt. Bruce Cathie

Or "Harmonic 288". This is the third of Capt. Cathie's borderland researches into the Harmonics of a secret world-wide grid system along which Flying Saucers fly and also draw energy. As in the second book, "Harmonic 695" (a lengthy review of which we have on tape), Cathie continues to enlarge on the scope and effectiveness of the grid system in many areas of life here on the surface of the earth. Of course he refines his mathematics also.

Sept-Oct 1978 RR, Page 34

We wish to thank NZ Associates White and Scott for getting review copies of "The Pulse of the Universe" to us. Your own copy can be bought from the ABC Bookshop, 284 Trafalgar St., Nelson, New Zealand, $8.95 in New Zealand dollars.

"COLOR, THE BRIDGE TO THE NEW AGE" by Riley Crabb and Eldon Nichols

We have more than doubled the size of BSRF No. 16 with the addition of the outstanding manuals on the use of color, incense and perfume -- in healing and in the expansion of consciousness -- by the late Eldon Nichols. He also coordinated the use of light classical and classical music into his Handbooks of color therapy.

In 30 years of experimentation he charted the body and identified the colored light most effective in re-balancing unbalanced conditions associated with that part of the body. These charts are reproduced in our brochure. There is a master list of 10 pages of known diseases and conditions, in alphabetical order, numerically keyed to his charts of colors, incense and perfume. Intelligent and willed use of these proved effective in upgrading cellular activity. Crystallized conditions are disturbed, broken up to allow the body's natural healing forces to flow and do their work of carrying away dead matter and rebuilding with new tissue.

Nichols' experiments with Neutral Sound, or white sound as it is generally called today, are worth the price of the brochure alone! With instructions for Relaxation, Tension, Headache, Insomnia, Breaking the Smoking Habit, Overcoming Loss of Appetite and Psychic Experiments. Illustrated, 8½x11. . . . . . . . $3.00

BSRF 33-D THE PATHOMETRIC JOURNAL and EXPERIMENTAL DATA

Radionics as reported by the experts of the 1940s. Osteopaths and Chiropractors who used the Wigglesworth-Hieronymous Pathoclast Diagnostic and Treatment equipment daily in their work. This is a book of a hundred pages of Pathometric Journals, Vol. 13 No. 1, Oct. 1, 1940 through Vol. 18, Sec. 5, August 1947. These are offset repros of the originals obtained from the estate of a California chiropractor, safe from the book-burning clutches of the medical Fascists. There are also 20 pages of Experimental Special Data Bulletins issued at that time by the late Louise Hierarchy from their Radiation Laboratories in Kansas City. This Acuarian Age Therapy was on the way to establishing itself as a viable alternative to the Piscean Age drugs and surgery of the Allopathic physicians -- until the hatchet men of the FDA and AMA hounded the manufacturers and users of the equipment out of business, leaving the Radionic research field to the British and the Russians. The latter, according to Tom Bearden, have added Radionics to their arsenal of offensive weapons; so now we'll have to play catch-up here in America. Illustrated, 8½x11. . . . $7.50

BSRF No. 24-H: TULKUS, A TIBETAN INITIATION Lesson 12 in our series on the Cabala. This is the Third Way, the Way of the Yogin, detailing the technique of Self-Conscious Reincarnation practiced successfully by thousands of Tibetan Lamas before the Chinese conquest. It was by this advanced Tantric Buddhist practice that the Lamas kept control of their power and wealth from life to life, and of unfortunate Tibet. Now the escaped ones are teaching it in the United States! Tulkus is a perversion of the Doctrine of the construction of the Solar Body or Body of Light, the only way to get out of the world alive! This advanced occult science was taught under highly secret conditions in the Western Mystery Schools as well, the Gnostics for instance, and in modern time the Golden Dawn in England; so Lesson 12 is one of our most fascinating Cabala lessons. Illustrated, $2.50; Cassette or Monaural tape, $7.00

CLOSED CLASS No. 11: With the Yada di Shi'ite (BSRF No. 10-R-11) Continuing the studies in Occult Science with a "living Buddha", talking through his entranced Chela on such subjects as: The Wonderful Power of the Atom, The Continuing Need For Martyrs, Abraham Lincoln, Man the Great God-In-The-Making, Earth the Last Chance, A Great Whispering Across the Deep, Try Love and Laughter For a Change, the Inner Circle Always Available. . . . $2.50

* * * *

The JOURNAL of Borderland Research

A Publication of: Borderland Sciences Research Foundation PO Box 548, Vista, California USA 92083 Bulk Rate U.S.POSTAGE PAID Vista, Calif. Permit No. 42