THE JOURNAL OF BORDERLAND RESEARCH

BSRF No. 1 Published by Borderland Sciences Research Foundation, Inc., PO Box 548, Vista, California 92083 USA. Edited by the Director, Riley Hansard Crabb, Doctor of Metaphysics in the Society of St. Luke the Physician.

The Journal is published six issues a year with the assistance of the Associates, at the Director's home, 1103 Bobolink Drive, Vista It is printed, 36 pages an issue. The Foundation is incorporated under California law, May 21, 1951, #254263, and has been in continuous existence since then. Address all correspondence to the PO Box. The Journal is included in the Foundation membership of $9.00 a year. Single copies and back issues of the Journal are now $2.25 each. If you don't care to join you may receive the Journal by donating $9.00 a year or more to the Foundation. The Director's wife, Ms. Judith Crabb, is office manager and Secretary-Treasurer.

PURPOSES OF BSRF: This is a non-profit organization of people who take an active interest in unusual happenings along the borderland between the visible and invisible worlds. In the words of the late Meade Layne, founder and director of BSRA from 1946 to 1959: "BSRA publications are scientific in approach but employ few technical expressions. They deal with significant phenomena which orthodox science cannot or will not investigate. For example: The Fortean falls of objects from the sky. Teleportation, Radiesthesia, PK Effects, Underground Races, Mysterious Disappearances, Occult and Psychic Phenomena, Photography of the Invisible, Nature of the Ethers and the problem of the Aeroforms (Flying Saucers). In the year 1946 BSRA obtained an interpretation of the phenomena which since has come to be known as the Ethereal or 4-D interpretation, and which has not been radically altered since that time. This continues to be the only explanation which makes good science, sound metaphysics and common sense."

The chief present concern of the Foundation is to make this kind of unusual information available as a public service at reasonable cost. Headquarters acts as a receiving, coordinating and distributing center. An important part of the Director's work is to give recognition, understanding and encouragement to people who are having unusual experiences of the borderland type and/or are conducting research in any of the above fields. For consultation on borderland problems or for Spiritual healing through prayer, write or phone 714-724-2043 for help or for an appointment. Donations and bequests toward Foundation research programs and expenses are welcome.

The 35-page list of BSRF publications is available from Headquarters for $1.00 in money, check or stamps. This includes brochures on borderland subjects, tape recordings of Mr. Crabb's lectures and of members of the Inner Circle, talking through trance-medium Mark Probert. THE PENDULUM, FOR DEVELOPING PSYCHIC SENSITIVITY

By Christopher Hills, From His Book "Supersensorics"

The author has compared many radiesthetic practices and visited many centers of radionic research and has personally made friends and colleagues of most of the leadings researchers in the field. In France, where most of this research was done, a colleague, who himself had lived many years in France and received personal instruction from many pioneers, showed me how to receive the diviner's feeling in the fingers when the pendulum resonated in tune with the correct result.

This friend, from whom I acquired a whole array of diviner's instruments to study the phenomena with, had made extensive notes on the practical and theoretical applications of what he called Radiational Physics. Later in Nice I was to visit Madame Turenne, who had inherited her husband's instruments and books but did not know what to do with them.

When Noel MacBeth, who studied with Turenne and translated his works from French into English, died I inherited all the original works and stencils from which he had printed his notes on 328 pages. About 10 years before this we had mutually agreed that I should distribute these notes for students in America and the West, while he would continue to sell them in England. However, as he translated each book, the material was put together in such a way that confusion amongst students arose. I have asked many students over the 20 years I knew MacBeth to rewrite these notes without finding anyone equal to the task. Now I am having to undertake it myself. Hence I will begin the practical task of how to train someone in using a pendulum to detect divinable phenomena.

First, let me begin by writing out in my own words the theory that Noel and his French mentors held regarding the phenomena of extra-sensory perception. They held that the perception of extra-sensory influences which are produced by matter are just as recognisable as those produced by electrical charges and that the rays sensed by the diviner's faculty are due to the operation of fixed laws no less than the laws of plain physics and that they can be made acceptable and repeatable by different methods of radiesthetic investigation. They claimed radiesthesia should be a part of radiology and this form of radiation, perceptible to extra-sensory powers because of the number of proofs available, should justify full claims to recognition.
THE ROLE OF CONSCIOUSNESS IGNORED

However, during over 50 years of research by all kinds of professors of physics, engineers and chemists and physicians, very little recognition by regular physicists has taken place and only now have some physicists taken an interest in explaining the role of consciousness in the matter.

Because of the rather bizarre demonstrations of breaking keys and spoons on television by paranormal means, a group of scientists have decided to investigate extra-sensory radiation and energy. While noting these bizarre attractions, little has been noticed of the whole body of knowledge contributed by classical physicists who refused to accept the theories of quantum physics as anything but highly imaginative explanations for the results obtained. That the energies were there was not disputed, but the reasons and theories advanced for their operations in purely statistical domains led to unnatural and impossible concepts.

Einstein himself was left behind by the quantum physicists who discounted his opinion that "God does not play dice with the universe". That Einstein also believed there were fixed laws of operation behind phenomena, which man would have to discover, was the driving force behind his long search for a Universal Field theory.

THE PHENOMENA ARE REAL, BUT NOT THE EXPLANATIONS!

The author does not subscribe to the fixed laws theory of Noel MacBeth and the French physicists of his times nor to the fixed laws of physics being of any absolute reality. The author's position is that the phenomena are real but the explanations are not. The position adopted throughout this work is to repeat the methods described so that the student can test them out himself and then conceive his own theories by the dozen.

The author's own theory is that consciousness alone is responsible for the fixing of all laws, for the creation of laws of Being as well as laws of operation and that to Beings of different levels of consciousness phenomena will appear vastly different. What may seem miraculous to someone imprisoned in fixed laws, may be explained quite simply by an observer with a higher level of intelligence. However, the lower intelligence may be functioning on too low a threshold to even see that such an explanation is of a higher intellectual order and may even reject it out of his own conceit.

As each phenomenon is described (in "Supersensonics") and the methods tested through the use of selected experiments, the laws of operation will become evident to the intelligence of the student from the actual results. The volume starts with a simple method of testing the sensory proof of the results by training the reader's own extra-sensory powers of divination. Experience will show that this will produce a practicing student in nine times out of ten. Many of the techniques are connected to standard physics and electromagnetism. We begin therefore with the more familiar field of magnetism.

(Then follows five pages of well illustrated explanation of magnets and magnetic fields before guru Hills gets into the first practical lesson on developing psychic sensitivity.)

CHAPTER FIVE, WHAT IS A PENDULUM?

... At least fifty diviner's methods are described in the remainder of this volume to help define the nature of the detected radiations. They are selected for their simplicity to make the greatest number of people successful diviners. At this stage we are selecting the pendulum for training because it is a more simple amplifier of the sensations and neuro-muscular changes in the operator's hands. We will later study the diviner's rods and rules used by professionals as we gain actual skills.

A diviner can make a pendulum from any weight of any material suspended by a string which is held in a downward-inclined hand. Since every material has its own particular radiation which is a divinable influence on his results, it will follow that the material used to make a pendulum can affect the operator's neuro-muscular reactions, which in turn affects the pendulum.

The pendulum can be made of bone, crystal, wood, ivory, plastic or metal but metal should be avoided if you want less interference. The student here is recommended to make a pendulum of a wooden, black cotton reel (spool) suspended by its own thread. The reasons here are many but one is that anything which smacks of chromium plate (such as the Mermet metal pendulum) or ultra-sophistication is bound to involve the operator's consciousness emotionally, whereas an ordinary spool of black thread helps to detach from such glamour. Another is that for reasons to be explained later the coil of thread wound on the wooded cotton reel helps to amplify the detected results.

To guarantee yourself results, get a pocket compass with its needle visible under its glass cover and place it on a bare table which has been covered by a dark green or neutral-colored cloth. Sit so as to look towards west across from the compass. Open slightly any drawers of the table since "cavities" have a remarkable effect on magnetic vibrational fields and may suppress the influence you are going to detect through your nerves.

Unravel enough thread to make the cotton reel dangle on one foot of thread by fastening it at the notch and then pass the cotton up through the reel hole. Tie the end of the thread to the middle of a piece of stick about 4 to 5 inches long, but be sure the stick has no color. Use unpainted wood preferably or a stick painted white or black or dark green as a second choice. Wind up the cotton on the middle of the stick until the reel which becomes the pendulum "bob" touches the stick holder.

With elbows on the table grip the holder with both hands between thumbs and fingers and hang the pendulum bob just slightly east or west of the center of the compass needle. The bob should be about half an inch above the compass and slightly to one side of it. Now still the mind and get rid of all expectations from the mind which could influence your muscles unconsciously and relax your muscles as you slowly unwind the wooden stick. You will have to raise your hands as the cotton thread unwinds. At a certain length you will notice the pendulum bob begin to gyrate, describing a circle or oval movement. Note the approximate distance along the thread when this begins. Then unwind the thread a little more until a to and fro oscillation begins. Note the thread length.

POSITIVE CLOCKWISE; NEGATIVE COUNTER-CLOCKWISE

Continue to unwind more thread length until gyration commences again. Note the thread length. Then unwind more until there is oscillation again. Keeping the thread length you have found for this second oscillation, move the pendulum gently to a place just north-east or north-west of the compass. If you found an oscillation on this string length just east or west of the compass center you will find a gyration when you move it to the NE or NW. Now move the pendulum without changing the string length to the SE and SW of the compass and here you will find gyration but its direction will be opposite to that on the northern side of the compass. If the diviner's gyration was originally clockwise in the northern half the southern half will gyrate anti-clockwise and vice versa.

Generally diviners find clockwise gyration on the northern side of a magnet or compass and anti-clockwise on the southern. This may vary with some people depending on their Shakti/Shiva balance of consciousness (or Yin/Yang, Kane/Wahine, Binah/Chokmah, Mary/Christ). Note what it is for you and take this as your own sign of positive or negative pole.

Now practice moving the pendulum gently from north to south along the compass needle and vice versa. The effects should be gyration at the pole, oscillation towards east and west as the center is passed, then opposite gyration. Now make a knot in the string at the point where you found the second oscillation most active. You can now experiment by moving the string length to where you find gyration over the center east-west line and moving it to the poles find oscillation on either side of it. In other words we do not find the same effects at all three places. When you have mastered this you have become sensitive to the invisible magnetic fields which pass through all creation.

LET NATURE TALK HER OWN BOOK

Should you find results slow in coming there could be a variety of reasons. You are blocking your imagination either negatively or positively. You should be expectant but not expecting anything in particular. In other words, let Nature talk her own book. Don’t try to tell nature what is happening or ought to happen. Be humble enough to accept and listen to what She is telling you. Some people get better results by changing their body position and facing east instead of west.

The diviner’s own body is a unique pattern of energies. We are not all made the same, therefore stick to the position which suits your own biological energies. Do not get concerned or anxious if the direction of swing taken by the pendulum is different from Steps One to Four. It may be necessary for training purposes to give the pendulum an initial swing forcibly and then watch the movement disappear until the reaction of your own nerves starts a natural gyration. By exercising this way and noting when you are forcibly trying to keep the pendulum still and vice versa you can train yourself to produce the usual reactions.

The pendulum string seems to have a roughness as soon as there is an incorrect gyration or oscillation. This is very fine and subtle for some people but sensitivity can be increased further by realizing that correct string length creates resonance and that certain of your fingers may be more sensitive than others. Having found correct string length and tuned the pendulum to the east-west and to and fro beat, grasp the holder by its center with just a finger and thumb of one hand and experiment with each finger to see if you get a more excited pendulum movement. That will be your dowsing finger.

Now give up using the holder and hold the thread directly between your thumb and finger, the length of thread being shown by the knot. Do not make knots at any other resonant points on the strength length. When you have become familiar with the magnetic field you can go on to discover magnetic influences which come from the direct center of a magnetic system over the null point. You will find there that the pendulum will perform quite independently over the radio-magnetic influence in the following order:

a) A positive gyration,
b) about 3 north/south beats,
c) a negative gyration,
d) about 3 east/west beats.

This serial of beats is the sign of R-M radiation and can come from different kinds of matter just as the positive magnetic or the negative magnetic influence can be detected in most forms of energy composing a magnet's field and may have more than one.

To recognize the polarity of any specific object, lay the specimen on top of the compass glass and take the reading, then lay it along on the bare table. To encourage yourself to be detached in your readings find out whether the following are positive or negative: squares of zinc, copper, lead, iron, drops of water, alcohol, etc. You will discover in a later chapter whether your results are correct.

USE OF A WITNESS OR SPECIMEN

Surrounding influences tend to mask the emanations of some elements and sometimes the shape and form of the pendulum interferes as well as the material it is made from. To find out the correct vibration of some element or object we find something which radiates the same pattern of energy or we make something identical to the object which will resonate a similar wave field. This acts as a tuning device and is called a "witness" or specimen. Later a whole chapter will be given to the preparation and use of witnesses and amplifiers and selectors of particular wave frequencies and wave fields.

In the meantime, for the purpose of directly experiencing, we can use a professionally made "witness" obtainable from the University of the Trees Press; or we can take a known specimen for the sake of testing a sample and compare it. For instance, if we take a specimen piece of lead element 82 as a witness, which has a negative vertical electric field and a positive horizontal magnetic field, we can then hide another small piece of lead in one of ten match boxes (not envelopes -- reason explained later).

Now shuffle or have someone else shuffle the boxes and arrange them in random order on the table top. Then by suspending the pendulum over each box in turn with the "witness" in your free hand, detect the positive magnetic horizontal field radiating within 8 inches of the top of the box containing this hidden sample. This selectivity will effectively cut down some of the surrounding influences set up by the electric wires in the walls of your room, or the shape of your pendulum, and make your pendulum a tuned instrument which you can test against a known source of vibratory phenomena . . . DR. KUBLER-ROSS MEETS HER "VIRGIL" FACE TO FACE

And in the Flesh! One of the Best Christmas Presents Any Student of the Mysteries Can Have!

From the London "Psychic News", Dec. 24, 1977
By Maurice Barbanell

About 2,500 people, including physicists, heard scientist, psychiatrist and psychic researcher Dr. Elizabeth Kubler-Ross testify that before 75 impartial witnesses and in good light, one of her spirit guides materialized.

He led her out of the seance room and talked privately about her pioneering work in helping dying people and their families. The solid form -- she felt his touch -- preceded another, the third to materialise, who appeared complete with a beard. This spirit visitor even sang a song. Her testimony was greeted by a "prolonged standing ovation".

These dramatic, documented details reached Psychic News from Gertrude Naugler, of Wilderness Drive SE, Olympia, Washington.

Swiss-born Dr. Kubler-Ross has been termed "the dead and dying lady" because of her research into experiences of patients who have clinically died, seen the Beyond and returned to describe what they witnessed. She was one of the speakers at a one-day seminar on the paranormal titled, "Mind Miraculous", held at the Seattle Opera House last month. It was under the auspices of the Church of Religious Science.

Mrs. Naugler, reporting the meeting for PN, said that Dr. Ross, "an unassuming person, appeared on the platform in a plain 'granny gown'. She asked that the lights be lowered so that she could forget she was on stage. The audience listened sympathetically as she told of preparing two young children to accept their mother's imminent death as a normal and beautiful transition.

"Then she announced she wished to share the story of the most important day of her life."

That morning she woke feeling depressed and in despair. Her work was wearing her down. There were thousands of letters awaiting replies. Picking one at random, Dr. Ross "read of a group of people in Southern California who had heard her express a belief that a guide or guardian angel accompanies each person through life. At their meetings they had prayed that their guides would be revealed to them. Their prayers were answered. (Which can only mean that there must have been one or more materializing mediums in the group to supply the necessary ectoplasm or living energy.) If Dr. Ross would meet them on a certain day her own guide would materialize."

DR. ROSS, THE SCIENTIST, SETS HER CONDITIONS

Then came a strange coincidence. She was about to reject the offer when her phone rang. Dr. Ross discovered she would be in that Southern California town on the same day to meet a group of physicians.

"She therefore accepted the strange invitation, provided 75 impartial witnesses could be found to attend the proceedings and there would be enough light for any manifestations to be clearly seen. In addition a taped recording should be made." The group accepted these conditions. (At the meeting) "to her amazement a seven-foot figure materialised in front of her, spoke for a time and then disappeared into the floor."

(The controlling spirit loses or relinquishes his or her willed "hold" on the borrowed vitality and it sinks back into a normally invisible pile on the floor near the entranced medium, awaiting the use of the next spirit to materialize. RHC)

"Then, to use her own words, a handful of ectoplasm appeared, and growing, was transformed into a tall Egyptian who announced he was her special guide who had been with her since birth. She could feel his touch as, cupping his hands under hers, he led her out of the room and into a nook where they were able to talk privately about her life's work. Then he led her back into the room, where his visible form disintegrated before the eyes of the group and the 75 witnesses."

But more was to come. There appeared a third guide, complete with a clipped beard. When this remarkable test seance ended and others left, Dr. Ross told two or three group members who lingered that she longed to see her special guide under more intimate circumstances. Would he be able to materialise again? It was possible -- and all three guides reappeared. The first two, including the Egyptian, spoke briefly. Then the bearded one stayed long enough to sing "You Are My Sunshine" to them to the accompaniment of a guitar.

"Dr. Ross played a recording of this to the Seattle audience. The guide's strong, deep voice was easily distinguished. She explained that he had to get the words telepathically. So his words were always a split second behind others. As the song ended the supposedly conservative audience rose to their feet and cheered the astonishing account of the materialisation seance."

Mrs. Naugler added that Dr. Ross is now well developed psychically and now able to allow her guides to appear almost at will. "She claims to have seen him a hundred or more times since that first historic meeting. . . " In a letter to PN's editor, Dr.
Ross says there is such an "enormous wealth of material" regarding her own experiences with materialised guides that it is being assembled for future publication.

ALL IT TAKES IS GROUP DEDICATION

"This is not a rare phenomenon any more," she writes. "It can be created by the right group of people who have no fear and no negativity, who pool their energies together for the purpose of communicating with their visible and very physically present spirit guides." She adds that a tape is being made to help people with the technical details of how to go about it. In another letter she says:

"We have been able to materialise our spirit guides, to be in their physical presence, to touch them, to talk to them, to sing with them, to record their teachings, to ask for advice, and even to share a sense of humour with them."

THE FIRST MATERIALIZATION FOR DR. ROSS'ES EDUCATION

A woman appeared in Dr. Ross'es office, when she was a University of Chicago associate psychiatry professor. The woman announced herself as a patient who had passed on ten months earlier. At first Dr. Ross refused to believe it was the same person.

The woman "knew I was considering giving up my work with dying patients. She came to tell me not to do so. The time was not right. I reached out to her. I was reality-testing. I was a scientist, a psychiatrist and did not believe in such things. I thought I could check her by the handwriting. She smiled in this all-knowing way to show she knew very well what my intentions were."

The solid-looking spirit form wrote and signed a letter. Handwriting analysis later indicated that the note matched the "dead" woman's writing while she had lived on earth.

We also in BSRF have "an enormous wealth of material" from Spirit Guides, accumulated in over 20 years of Inner Circle-Mark Probert seances. When this Ministry began back in 1945 it was the intention of the Yada di Shi'ite, Lao Tse, Professor Luntz, Sister Theresa Vandenberg and the others, to eventually have full materializations for the benefit of the people attending the sittings; for Mark Probert's wife, Irene, had the latent capability of being a materializing medium. This was mentioned more than once in the early sessions. But Mark Probert, her husband was against it. One medium in the family was enough! And he always had that lingering doubt about the reality of what was coming through him, and the Inner Circle respected his wishes. "CALL ME MIKE"

A CLOSE ENCOUNTER OF THE THIRD KIND

From UFOzine "Gold Sector 1" Issue No. 4, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio

Mike said that he likes young people who take the time to converse with their elders. I think this is one of the reasons we got along so well during our encounter. Incidentally, he appeared at first glance to be around 45 or so. After we talked a bit a veil seemed to drop away and the strangest thing happened, his facial features changed. He suddenly had longer hair and sideburns, less fat around the neck and chin area, and looked to be around 25 or 30.

Later he said that they dont age physically past the age of 25 or so where he comes from. The reason he appears to be 45 at first glance is that our earth with all its dirt and pollutants drags him down a little. He said that on the return trip home it all leaves him and he is normal when he arrives there.

At one point during our initial conversation he asked me if I wanted to go for a walk. I hurriedly agreed. We didn't walk more than 100 feet, when he stopped and looking at the stars seemed to make a minor calculation in his head. He then point to a "star" which was in a southwesterly direction and pretty close to the moon.

"That is not a star," he said. "Just watch it."

It was cold out and I didn't have a jacket on; so I asked him if it would be around a few minutes?

"Yes."

I flew back to the house and got my leather jacket. I sat down on the road and stared at the object for a period of 5 minutes. The object began to pulsate, getting larger and smaller, and at times would blink completely out for seconds at a time.

"That object is a Beacon Ship," he said. "In the period you have been watching it, it has moved from 100,000 miles away to 150,000 miles away."

Some strange things occurred during those few minutes which should be reported here. Previous to going for a walk, we were both talking about how nice it would be if everyone were in the spirit of Christmas all the time. Well, while I watched the ship, Santa Claus along with his reindeer materialized out in the sky. They had an orange cloud-like appearance and it seemed... to me they were simply made out of the cloud material. All Mike did was laugh pretty loud while I just stared at it. Then I laughed because I realized how powerful these people can be, and also because of how fitting the picture was! The impact the scene had on me still lingers. I am certain the objects were actually physically there and were not a figment of my imagination, and I am certain that I was not hypnotized.

RETURNING OUR "GARBAGE" TO THE SUN

While the whole thing was going on a huge fireball went steaming down the sky. I said, "Wow, look at that!"

"Oh, you saw that too? Make a mental note of its flight."

Later Mike told me that these fireballs which most of us think of as meteors or shooting stars when seen are in reality Fusion Balls. This was his own term for it, not mine. He explained that to help keep the sun from burning itself out the earth sends back the energy it receives at certain intervals. These balls are then simply miniature suns. By the way, the ball I saw was going in a path straight for where the sun would have been then. Remember, this all happened around 3:30 in the morning and the sun was well below the horizon. He mentioned that the ball I had seen was some 200 miles away on its curved arc toward the sun.

THE CRUCIFIXION IS A MYTH

We spoke awhile about the Bible. Mike said that a great deal of it was translated wrong. The words of Jesus were badly distorted. He had a rather negative attitude towards it. I am not a member of any church or cult, but I make it a point to check out many of them, Western and Eastern.

"What, if any religion, should I follow," I asked him.

"If you find it necessary to name your way of life in your language, call it Humanism, a concept of the universal sharing of love, goods, well being, through all life."

The conversation lead to the life of Jesus. He seemed to be giving me mental quotes of Jesus' teachings. The way the Lord's prayer was originally spoken and written was "Our Father who is in the Heavens -- " meaning of course the stars and planets. One of Christ's most important messages, he said, is simply the saying, "I am who I am". He repeated this to me several times during our conversations.

"How do you know so much about Jesus?" I asked.

"I've spoken to him. Jesus never died on the cross, but the resurrection and transformation are a real thing. Christ is depressed at times because the people idolize him, instead of heeding his ideas. This is the main reason he had to leave. The people tried to worship and make a king out of his image, and be saved, instead of following the teachings he put forth, which dealt with saving one's self! He said that Jesus is one of the most highly respected souls on their planet.

(To the orthodox Christian, this Ohio contactee's material poses one of the most profoundly disturbing problems created by the Flying Saucers: Is Jesus Christ the Savior of the people of this planet only? Or is He also the Savior of souls of people on other planets? If He is the Universal God the priests and ministers claim, then He is the Savior of fallen beings on other planets also; but the director of BSRF, at Flying Saucer lectures, has been questioned by orthodox Christians who obviously resented the implication that Jesus Christ was not their selfish possession, that they had to "share" Him with alien beings on other worlds! The obvious answer is that the advanced beings of any life wave on any planet are the teachers and "saviors" of those who follow behind them in evolution; but they also have helpers, volunteers from other more advanced civilizations to help guide their planetary life wave through the kind of Judgment Day we are experiencing now. Such a person, obviously, was Ohio contactee's Mike.)

ESCAPE? KIDNAPPING? OR VOLUNTARY MIGRATION?

At one point I asked if any more earth persons were taken to their planet and still alive? He replied that several of our sincere nuns are there.

"What about priests and ministers and such who run our churches?" I asked.

"Most of them are going to hell," he replied.

"You simply mean that almost all of them will be left to die?" I snapped back.

"Yes, that is the true meaning of the word."

"What of Buddha, was he taken?"

"No," said Mike,"Your God-concepts here on earth are most peculiar to us. When we reach a state of 100% brain capacity we hope to find the answers to the riddles of existence."

"Well, why do you even bother? Why are you here?"

"Because we came," he replied. There were tears in his eyes.

"Are you familiar with what we call the Law of Karma?"

"Yes," Mike replied with a smile. "Perhaps that's the reason for our coming. We owe some part of a Cosmic debt. Perhaps a mistake was made in the past when the earth was seeded with humans. I personally don't understand why your planet was left alone." He implied that some planets are nurtured by the sower, much as a farmer does to his crops or a mother to her baby. (This is the Golden Rule enunciated by the Christ and other Saviors. The Guardian-type aliens who come here from outer space LIVE the Golden Rule instead of just talking about it, as most of us do.)

EARTH, THE ZODIACAL TROUBLEMAKER

Mike said the earth is far off balance, which is causing the earth to fall short of its 24 hour cycle and that alone causes problems. (True, as every astrologer and navigator knows. This is known as The Acceleration on the Interval. The Sidereal or star day is 23 hours, 56 minutes and 4 seconds. The out-of-balance difference is about 4 minutes short of our standard, or Mean Time day of 24 hours.)

Not only is the pollution causing our planet to spin wrong, but our minds, bodies and thoughtforms as well. A rejuvenation is needed to put us back in harmony. Since our planet is off balance it also causes our solar system and the rest of the galaxy -- along with their own planet -- to be off kilter ever so slightly. This itself is a valid reason to explain one of their purposes for being here.

For some strange reason we on this planet are programmed to die, Mike observed. They dont! Our collective consciousness is such that almost everyone alive will swear that they are going to die. Since we are all subconsciously linked, the ones who believe in death not only die but help drag down others also. Our worries about population explosion are ridiculous. America alone could hold 750 million people. We plant unnatural hybrids such as inedible lawn grasses and tear up the dandelion weeds which are full of vitamins and minerals. When a tree is cut down another should be planted immediately. We use atomic fission when atomic fusion -- which has no radiation -- is available. Our tap water should be boiled for at least 15 minutes, no matter how clean we think it is.

"What the hell are flags?" he asked.

I explained to the best of my capacity. He couldn't understand the need for borders and boundary lines between properties and countries; or how we can go around appointing other people as judges. He disliked our police systems, lawyers and politicians.

THE KENNEDY ASSASSINATION

While driving around we got to the subject of presidents and the qualities one will need in the future to unite our world. Mike then asked me if I would like to know the true story behind John F. Kennedy's death. I, of course, answered yes. In brief he said that the C.I.A. poisoned Fidel Castro, but he did not die. The Cuban dictator retaliated in turn, with the help of a member of the Central Intelligence Agency. They instigated the whole plot and saw it carried through. The person responsible for the death of Kennedy is Richard Helms, said Mike, who is still very much alive and active. The space people really liked Jack Kennedy. "He was the man for the job but you people had to kill him off!"
"THE SMOKING GUN"

From "The Ends of Power" by H.R. Haldeman, Special Book Review in "Newsweek" Magazine, February 27, 1978

(John Dean called Haldeman on June 23, 1972 to warn that the FBI's Watergate investigation was running "out of control". Dean and John Mitchell had a remedial measure to propose, get the CIA's friendly deputy director, Vernon Walters, to intervene with acting FBI director L. Patrick Gray and try to have the inquiry reined in on grounds that it might disrupt some CIA operation. Haldeman bore the recommendation to the Oval Office -- "and as it turned out," he relates, (I) sealed Nixon's doom as soon as I closed the door.")

June 23, 10:05 a.m. After going over several other matters, Nixon listened silently as I read from my notes. "Mitchell came up with yesterday -- and John Dean analyzed very carefully last night and concurs now with Mitchell's recommendation -- that the only way to solve this -- is for us to have Walters call Pat Gray and just say, 'Stay the hell out of this -- this business we don't want you to go any further on it.'"

Nixon mused about it, "Well, we protected Helms from one hell of a lot of things."

How to make certain the CIA would cooperate? Nixon suggested the involvement of Hunt as a lever. "Hunt will uncover a lot of things. You open that scab, there's a hell of a lot of things -- Tell them we just feel that it would be very detrimental to have this thing (the Watergate investigation) go any further. This involves these Cubans, Hunt and a lot of hanky-panky that we have nothing to do with ourselves."

I didn't know what hanky-panky he was talking about, but Nixon wasn't finished. He gazed out the window, then turned to me, "When you get the CIA people in, say, 'Look, the problem is that this will open up the whole Bay of Pigs thing again.' So they should call the FBI in and for the good of the country don't go any further into this case. Period."

Dean had suggested a blatant political move by calling in the CIA. Now Nixon showed how much more astute he was by throwing a national-security blanket over the idea.

THE FEUD BETWEEN HELMS AND NIXON

John Ehrlichman and I were to meet the C.I.A officials -- Walters and director Richard Helms, I went to John's office to wait, "Guess what," I said, "It's Bay of Pigs time again."

"The man will never quit," Ehrlichman said. He thought about it and added, "Well, the President has a point. It will put pressure on Helms. But this time you're going to push the red button, not me. I've had it on that route."

As far back as 1969, Ehrlichman had found himself in the middle of an unspoken feud between Helms and Nixon. The two were polar opposites in background: Helms, the aloof, aristocratic Eastern elitist; Nixon the poor boy -- he never let you forget it -- from a small California town. Immediately after he assumed office, Nixon had called Ehrlichman in and said he wanted all the facts and documents the CIA had on the Bay of Pigs, a complete report on the whole project.

About six months later, Ehrlichman had stopped in my office. "Those bastards in Langley (C.I.A headquarters in Virginia) are holding back something. They just dig in their heels and say the President can't have it. Period! Imagine that! The Commander-in-Chief wants to see a document relating to a military operation, and the spooks say he can't have it." I asked what it was.

"I don't know, but from the way there're protecting it, it must be pure dynamite." (Ehrlichman gives his version of what the "document" was in his book on Watergate, "The Company").

I was angry then at the idea Helms would tell the President he couldn't see something. I said, "Well, you remind Helms who is president. He's not. In fact, Helms can damn well find himself out of a job in a hurry."

"Rest assured," Ehrlichman said. "The point will be made. In fact, Helms is on his way over here right now. The President is going to give him a direct order to turn over that document to me."

Helms did show up that afternoon and saw the President for a long, secret conversation. When Helms left, Ehrlichman returned to the Oval Office. The next thing I knew, he appeared in my office, dropped into a chair and just stared at me. He was more furious that I had ever seen him, absolutely speechless, a rare phenomenon. I said, "What happened?"
ORDERS FROM RICHARD "MAD MONK" NIXON

"This is what happened," Ehrlichman said. "The Mad Monk has just told me I am now to forget all about that CIA document. In fact I am to cease and desist from trying to obtain it."

Helms was never fired, at least for four years. And now in Ehrlichman's office on June 23, 1972, the CIA was stonewalling again: "Not connected." "No way." Then I played Nixon's trump card. "The President asked me to tell you this entire affair may be connected to the Bay of Pigs, and if it opens up the Bay of Pigs may be blown..."

Turmoil in the room, Helms gripping the arms of his chair, leaning forward and shouting, "The Bay of Pigs has nothing to do with this. I have no concern about the Bay of Pigs!"

Silence. I just sat there. I was absolutely shocked by Helms' violent reaction. Finally, I said, "I'm just following my instructions. Dick. This is what the President told me to relay to you.

Helms was settling back. "All right," he said.

But the atmosphere had changed. Surprisingly, the two CIA officials expressed no concern about the request that Walters go to see Gray. And Walters later testified that when he and Helms went downstairs, they talked briefly, and Helms said, "You must remind Mr. Gray of the agreement between the FBI and the CIA that if they run into or expose one another's assets" -- a CIA term for agents -- "they will not interfere with each other."

(So here we have the public testimony of H.R. Haldeman that the crime of covering up the crime of Watergate, by President Nixon, began on June 23, 1972, only a week or so after it happened.)

Again I wondered, during that meeting, what was such dynamite in the Bay of Pigs story? As an outgrowth of the Bay of Pigs, the CIA made several attempts on Fidel Castro's life. The deputy director of plans at the CIA at the time was a man named Richard Helms.

It seems that in all of those Nixon references to the Bay of Pigs, he was actually referring to the Kennedy assassination.

Unfortunately, Castro knew of the CIA's assassination attempts all the time. On Sept. 7, 1963, two and a half months before President Kennedy was assassinated, Castro made a speech in which he was quoted as having said, "Let Kennedy and his brother Robert take care of themselves, since they too can be the victims of an attempt which will cause their death."

After Kennedy was killed, the CIA launched a fantastic cover-up. Many of the facts about Oswald unavoidably pointed to a Cuban connection. But the CIA literally erased any connection between Kennedy's assassination and the CIA. No mention of the Castro assassination attempt was ever made to the Warren Commission by CIA representatives. THOTMA, BUILDER OF THE GREAT PYRAMID

TEMPLE OF THE FALSE OSIRIS

From John Newbrough's "Oahspe"
The Book of Wars Against Jehovih
Part IV

23. In sixteen and seventeen years the thousand mathematicians returned to Egypt from other lands. And most wonderful was the knowledge these mathematicians had gained. In some countries they found philosophers who had the knowledge required even at their tongue's end. Thothma received them in great pomp and glory, and awarded all of them with great riches.

24. And Thothma had these things rewritten and condensed into books, and named them books of great learning, and they were deposited within the south chamber of the Pyramid, where never harm could come to them. (And the knowledge would be used only by the priests, to maintain their power!)

25. And Thothma made it a law that other mathematicians should travel over the same regions for other sixteen years and make like observations; and after them, yet other mathematicians to succeed them and so on for for three thousand three hundred years. (Hadin't the false Osiris deceived Thothma into believing he would live forever in the flesh?) And accordingly, a new expedition started forth. Now during the absence of the first mathematicians, Thothma and his philosophers observed the sun and moon and stars every day, and a record was made thereof, as to their places and movements, and as to the earth in the regions of Thothma's home kingdom. And these observations were reduced to tablets and maps, and a record made of them in Par'si'e'an language, which was the language of the learned. For the Egyptian language of that day was spoken mostly by the unlearned, and was mixed with the Fonecean, a language of sounds.

26. After the mathematicians returned, Thothma and his philosophers examined the whole matter as compared with the maps and tablets of the heavens, and the facts deduced therefrom were written in a separate book and called "The Philosophies of God and His Son Thothma, King of Earth!" (What an ego!)

27. Copies of this book were made and sent into the lands of Arabin'ya, Vindyu, Jaffeth, and Par'si'e, and Heleste and Uropa, to the priests of God, but the original book was filed in the Holy Chamber, in the Temple of Osiris.
28. Thothma applied himself to impart wisdom unto all men. And during his reign he built in the land of Egypt seventy-seven colleges of Great Learning, twelve colleges of prophecy, two hundred houses of philosophy, seven adepteries, and three thousand free schools, and four thousand houses of sacrifice unto Osiris, Savior of all men.

OVER FOUR THOUSAND ADEPTS IN THOTHMA'S REIGN

29. Three hundred and forty obelisks to God, thirty triumphal arches to De'yus, four thousand oans-nus (or nu-oan - Ed.) to the Creator, and these were mounted on pedestals of polished stone, and stood at the street corners.

30. And there were graduated to the rank of adept during Thothma's reign more than four thousand men and three hundred women, all capable of the death trance, and of going about in spirit. And of these over seven hundred were permitted within thirty years to test the cast of the holy chambers in the Pyramid. And their spirits were conducted into (the false) Osiris' heavenly regions, and sojourned there many days, and returned to their bodies unharmed. Because of the position of the chambers, there was no action upon their bodies while in the swoon.

31. Thus did Thothma prove himself to be one of the wisest and greatest men that ever dwelt on the face of the earth. He believed all things the Gods told him, believed he was Thoth re-incarnated, and believed he would never die in the flesh.

(Yet like millions of other mortals in the flesh, devotees of the great religions, Buddhism, Christianism, Mohammedanism, Hinduism, Confucianism, Shintoism, etc. Thothma could not distinguish between the false Osiris, a Moon god, and the true Osiris, a Sun god. So what kind of wisdom is that?)

32. The false Osiris, through his servant God, Egypt, had said to Thothma: This is the manner of heaven and earth, as regardeth man: All men are reincarnated over and over until perfected to immortal flesh; and in that day man hath so perfected his adeptism he can remain on earth or ascend to heaven, even when he desireth. Hence of all knowledge, adeptism is the greatest.

33. Thothma asked if there were any new creations. Satan prompted Osiris, who said: Nay; thy spirit is old as the earth. At first it was small and round, like a grain of mustard, only it was spirit. And the multitude of these seed comprise the All Unseen. When one of them taketh root in gestation, then is the beginning. And it is born into the world a frog, or an ass, or worm, or lion, or small creeping thing; and it liveth its time and dieth. And the spirit hieth it back again into another womb, and it is born forth a man low as to knowledge, evil as to life. And he liveth a time and dieth again; but again the spirit hieth back to another womb, and it is born forth again another man, but wiser as to knowledge and less evil as to life. And this con-tinueth to hundreds of generations and to thousands. But he who hath attained adeptship hath it in his power to call forth out of the earth his own corporeality; he needeth no longer to go through the filth of others.

THE INEVITABLE WITHERING OF THE FLESH

34. Thothma was wise even in his belief; for when he was growing old, and beholding his flesh sunken, and his eyes growing hollow and dim, and his hands getting withered, he inquired of the Gods, saying: I know thou hast taught me truth, O God. I am weak before thee, as to judgment, and curious in my vanity. Osiris said: Speak thou, 0 king!

35. Thothma said: By all the force of my will; and by my great learning, I cannot stay the withering of the flesh. If, therefore, I already dry up like a mummy, above the power of my will, how will it be with me when I am further emaciated?

36. Satan prompted Osiris to answer the king, and so he said:
Until thou art even more emaciated thou canst not understand the power of thine own soul.

37. With this the king was reconciled, and even at the time he was tottering on his last legs he began to build a new palace, saying: After I have changed this flesh into immortal flesh, hither will I come and dwell forever. And I shall be surrounded by adepts, wise and faultless. And this shall be the first colony of the kind I will build on the earth.

38. But afterward I will build many colonies of like kind;
more and more of them, until I have all the earth redeemed to immortal flesh. For of such shall be my kingdom, and all men and women on the Earth shall own me Lord of all. (That colossal, Satanic ego again!)

39. Nevertheless, with all Thothma's wisdom, and the wisdom of the Gods, (Moon gods, that is) he fell on a stone and died suddenly on the day he was one hundred years old.

(Like all dictators, Thothma fully expected to live forever and made no provision for his successor; but years of study of occult science by your editor has taught him that this physical body was never meant to be anything but a temporary garment for purposes of experience in the physical world; and when that programmed experience has reached its terminus, that worn out body is to be cast aside like any other worn out garment.

(We've been practicing the Five Rites of Rejuvenation - Plus
One for over ten years now but have succeeded only in slowing down the aging process, not stopping it. There is no eternal principle in the physical body on which to build immortality. This is what the early Theosophists were told in their correspondence with the Masters through the mediumship of H.P. Blavatsky, and the one Master we quote here referred back to the teachings of ancient Greek philosophers, of our Western Mystery Tradition, in support of his explanation of "The Principle of Life". The letter is from Koot Hoomi. It was to A.P. Sinnett and A.O. Hume.

NO ABIDING PRINCIPLE IN MAN

"One of your letters began with a quotation from one of my own: 'Remember that there is within man no abiding principle' -- which sentence I find followed by a remark of yours, 'How about the sixth and seventh principles?' To this I answer: Neither Atma nor Buddhi were ever within man -- a little metaphysical axiom that you can study with advantage in Plutarch and Anaxagoras; the latter made his 'nous autokrates' -- the spirit self-potent -- the 'apeiron' that alone recognized noumena, while the former taught on the authority of Plato and Pythagoras that the 'Oiakonomos' or the 'nous' (I Am) always remained without the body, that is, floated and overshadowed, so to say, the extreme part of the man's head. It is only the vulgar (like Thothma and other Moon God deceived mortals) who think it is within them. Says Buddha: You have to get rid entirely of all the subjects of impermanence composing the body that you body will become permanent.

"The permanent never merges within the impermanent, although the two are one. But it is only when all outward appearances are gone that there is left that one principle of life which exists independently of all external phenomena. It is the fire that burns in the eternal light, when the fuel is expended and the flame extinguished; for that fire is neither in the flame nor in the fuel, nor yet inside either of the two, but above, beneath, and everywhere."

CHAPTER LI

1. When Thothma was quite dead the priests carried his body into the temple, fully believing his spirit would return from heaven and transform the body from corruptible into incorruptible flesh to live forever. And they laid the corpse in the place previously designated by the Gods, and sealed it up according to the commands of the false Osiris, Savior of men.

2. Osiris had said: Whoso believeth in me, him will I save unto everlasting life, and though he lose his body, yet again shall he find it, and the corruptible flesh shall be changed in the twinkling of an eye, and become incorruptible unto life everlasting, with the spirit that abideth therein.

3. On the fifth day the priests opened the chamber, for according to the Laws of Miracles, on that day the spirit should accomplish the feat; but lo and behold, it came not, and the body still lay cold and dead. (To be concluded in the next Journal)
ANOTHER POINT OF VIEW ON HEALING

"Although I have great confidence in your abilities as healer/teacher I have to disagree with you about one point mentioned in the last Journal (Sept-Oct 1978 issue), 'To force healing on someone who doesn't want it is black magic'. I have performed exorcisms when the people involved were possessed and out of their heads, and therefore unable to ask for healing. In the first place, it would be completely impossible to heal a person against their will. How could you force such a healing?"

Okay, to try to force healing on someone who doesn't want it is black magick. It seems to me that the Golden Rule applies here: Do unto others that which you would have done unto you. As human beings, freedom of choice is our most precious possession. To consciously and deliberately restrict the freedom of choice of another individual is to run the risk of having your own freedom of choice restricted. The Law of Karma works in healing as well as elsewhere. Each action produces an appropriate reaction.

The late Dr. Jan Meerloo, the eminent Dutch psychiatrist, was an excellent hypnotist as well. A successful businessman was sexually impotent and came to Meerloo for help because physical examinations in that area revealed no abnormalities of any kind; so Meerloo hypnotized and planted the powerful suggestion that the man was perfectly capable of performing normally.

The "cure" was successful, but the man's newly released creative drive turned to pretty boys rather than his wife! Which jeopardized not only his marriage but his standing in both the business and social communities! It would seem that sexual impotence was a device chosen by the Higher Self of this man to suppress a congenital homosexual tendency which would have disturbed, even wrecked, an otherwise normal career. So, successful healing involves more than one plane of consciousness, one level of existence.

"'On the other hand,' continues our Associate's letter, 'if you perform a healing ritual without their knowledge and it is successful, doesn't that mean the healing was part of their karma? I agree, the Lords of Karma are stronger than we, but how can we know until we try to help someone, if such help is not planned for them'"

Your points are very well taken. One of my first cases, that of a paraplegic, in Honolulu years ago, was rather obviously unhealable but I tried anyhow, for a week. Then the energies were shut off so decisively that I had to stop trying. There was nothing to work with in that case. Later the subject told me herself, "I realized that being healed meant facing the world as an adult does, with all its responsibilities. I didn't want that." We get letters from concerned relatives asking for help for some loved one who is ill. My response usually is to write back asking if the loved one really wants to get well, enough to ask for Absent Treatment himself or herself. If there is no positive reply to that, I prefer to spend my available energies on those cases where I know the door is open, and there are plenty of those!

"I, too, have had the experience of performing exorcisms, and it not lasting long. But also, thanks to God, I have been completely successful at times and there was no recurrence of the obsession. After one such healing I saw what can only be described as a Spirit in a very long robe and light, which came to me and said I had done 'well'.

"At the time I was naive enough to think it was the Spirit of Christ. Perhaps it was part of my High Self or part of the High Self of the man who was healed. Anyway, it wasn't black magic. It was good. The man is still free and well today and this was several years ago. I would do the same again and plan to in the future, if I am allowed to be of help to some temporarily lost soul."

There must be literally millions of Spirit Helpers, human and angelic, in the Healing Department of the Christ. This is only one aspect of His work for mankind. The occult or Hermetic scientist knows and understands this and gives recognition of their help in his rituals. It is only the naive Mystic who believes that his or her healing work is overshadowed directly by the Christ, with no intermediaries to transform the Cosmic voltages down to lower frequencies which can be safely channeled through our finite minds, emotions and bodies.

"I know of a case where a man was himself a healer, an M.D. Without his knowledge he was healed of alcoholism. He was well for over a year. Then he became addicted to drugs and died in that condition. Perhaps it could be argued that his soul was better off in the first instance, and he should have been left alone. I do not agree. At least his soul had a second chance. What he did with that chance was his problem."

S.H.H., Del Mar, California

As we said earlier, your points are all very well taken, dear Associate, and we thank you for sharing them with us and our readers. It's your life and your life energies. It's up to you to decide when to give and when to withhold. Out of those decisions come strength of character and the sense of discrimination.

BLUE AND RED LIGHT AS HEALERS

The case of the drug-addicted doctor reminds us of another temporary cure by Dr. S. Pancoast. She was a Cabalist who derived much of her occult science from the Sepher Jetzera, especially the Latin edition of Rittangel, published in Amsterdam in 1660. From her studies she turned gradually from practicing medicine to healing people, with a technique based on the great Masculine and Feminine principles of Creation as counterbalancing Forces, always in a state of dynamic tension. These are represented on the Tree of Life of the Cabala as Chokmah, Male, Blue, and Binah, Female, Red. There were no electric lights in Philadelphia in the 1870s; so to treat themselves at home, Dr. Pancoast's patients had to change the window panes of one room on the south side of the house to red or blue glass, as the case might be. From the "How To Apply Light" chapter of her book we quote example No. 4:

"IV. Mrs. H., aged 35 years. This was a case of Consumption in the third stage, with both lungs involved, the left hepatised with mucous rale through the upper third, and crepitation in the apex of the right lung; sputa copious, amounting to half a pint in twenty-four hours; her expectoration was a yellowish,ropyand frothy mucous and pus, a portion of which sank in water; she had severe night-sweats, and chills or 'creeps' regularly at 11 a.m., followed by fever with flushed cheeks; at times there was great dyspnoea and prostration — the latter so utter that she could sit up only an hour or two at a time.

"To increase the difficulty of successful treatment there was a strong hereditary disposition: her father, mother, brother and several sisters had died with Consumption; but one sister survived who was strong and robust (though troubled somewhat with Rheumatism). I placed Mrs. H. under red baths regulated by the effects produced.

"In two weeks improvement began to manifest itself in all her symptoms. In another week the mucous rale became a submucous, then successively a crepitant and a bronchial. Soon respiration was resumed through the entire left lung and the crepitation at the apex of the right lung disappeared. Expectoration improved and the cough became less frequent and less distressing. With the improvement in these symptoms, the chills and fevers and the dyspnoea disappeared and her strength rapidly increased.

"In two months and a half the only remaining trouble was a slight hacking cough arising from an irritated throat.

"Mrs. H. was from Boston, and had come to Philadelphia to her sister's home expressly for treatment. In the spring, after her recovery, she returned to her own home. She was so entirely cured she continued to enjoy excellent health even throughout the ensuing winter, though the climate had never agreed with her before. Her husband was subsequently unfortunate in his business, and she had become so hearty that she undertook to help" to help him by opening a boarding house; however, though still apparently well, she was overtaxing her recently acquired strength and, late in the fall, caught a severe cold which developed into Pneumonia which was very rapid in its advances. She was brought again to this city but too late for treatment -- she was already a dying woman sustained by stimulants.

"In an active and extensive practice covering more than thirty years, we have never known or heard of a case of Consumption at so advanced a stage successfully treated. Her recovery was absolute and entire, and her subsequent attack of Pneumonia and death in no way derogate from the proven fact that in Red Light is found an exceptionally reliable remedy, with some assistance from harmonious Medicines, for Consumption in almost its fatal stage."

Dr. Pancoast didn't rely entirely on color-conditioned sunlight for her cures, but also used Harmonious Medicines for internal applications. These were mostly oil or water apparently and were prepared in conditioned sunlight of the appropriate color; but she deliberately refrains from describing how this is done -- and what kinds of internal remedies she used -- in her book: "Blue and Red Light", published by J.M. Stoddart & Co., 723 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pennsylvania in 1877. If you would study the Universe with the intention of making conscious use of its Forces, you would do well to choose an occult system which has a tried and proven Road Map of the Heavens; otherwise you will get lost among those Forces and their myriad functions. Dr. Pancoast did and she enjoyed great success in her work.

ANOTHER COVERUP OF THE ORIGINAL COVERUP

Los Angeles "Times", Sept. 11, 1978: "The FBI agent whose name, car license and phone number were in Lee Harvey Oswald's personal notebook when he was arrested for killing President John F. Kennedy believes House Assassinations Committee leaders do not want him to testify because he knows too much. The Dallas Morning News quoted FBI agent James P. Hosty Jr. as saying: 'If they are going to try to contain this (investigation) like the Church (Senate Intelligence) Committee and the Warren Commission, they don't want me up there!' Hosty, the FBI agent in Dallas who monitored Oswald's activities before the Kennedy assassination, and who now is in the Kansas City office and nearing retirement, said he would 'drop bombs' if called to testify publicly."

OF COURSE RADIONICS WORKS!

"Enclosed is a check for $13.00, for a copy of BSRF No. 33-D 'The Pathometric Journal and Experimental Radionic Data' and for another copy of 'Radionics--New Age Science of Healing' (BSRF No. 33-A, $5.50). I have finished my radionics machine and it really turned out nicely. I added several modifications of my own, a Tuning Circuit, and am about to add a Memory Bank.

"If a person needs a treatment on four different things, they can (rates) be stored into the Memory Bank and all transmitted together.

"My father fell off a ladder, he's 71, and broke his right upper shoulder in five pieces, two weeks ago on a Saturday morning. I had been waiting for parts for this machine for six weeks. They finally came in on the preceeding Wednesday and I had an uncontrollable urge to get the machine done 'as quickly as possible'. I worked on it for many hours until I had it finished late Friday afternoon. Next morning my dad had his accident.

"Needless to say I tuned him in and ran all pertinent data on him. It's most interesting as I have one rate for 'perfect healing to the head of the humerus with increased blood supply to the upper right shoulder'. Every time I turn it on him across town he can actually feel 'a warm sensation in his shoulder, like a heat lamp'. So I know it works!"

R.D.S., Denver, Colorado

AND SO DOES THE PHOENIX RADIOCLAST

"The Phoenix Radioclast really works. My grandmother had daily arthritis back pain for eight years. Now all gone. God bless you. You have really helped me and my family."

M.D.F., Ft. Myers, Florida

You helped yourself, Max, all we did was publish the Phoenix Radioclast schematic in the Sept-Oct 1975 Journal, pages 30-31. The 8-inch antenna ring of the Phoenix projects a broad spectrum of soft radio waves through the body wherever it is placed; but the broadcast falls off very rapidly, so there is practically no interference with radio or TV reception in the same room!

AND SO DOES THE HITACHI "MAGIC WAND"

Yes, the Magic Wand vibrator made in Japan is a crude but effective multi-wave oscillator; though we wonder if the manufacturers are aware of this soft radio-wave bonus to users of their vibrator. If they are, perhaps that's why they call it magic. Anyhow, we had a call from a Kansas City Associate the other day. He had an annoying and painful bladder infection. The antibiotics prescribed by his doctor were not proving effective. He was afraid that if he took stronger doses there would be permanent damage to his liver and kidneys even if the irritating infection did clear up eventually. I told him that if I had such a condition there I would shake up the area several times a day with a vibrator pushed deep into the lower abdominal area, set at high speed, and held there for a couple of minutes.

If the radio is on, static at any setting of the tuning dial indicates that the Hitachi vibrator is broadcasting radio waves to stimulate new cell growth in the area, as well as shaking loose deposits of solids in the bladder which probably cause the irritation. If the TV is on, horizontal lines across the screen indicate that the Hitachi is also broadcasting in that area of the electromagnetic spectrum; and thus the "Magic Wand" is a multi-wave oscillator, producing both mechanical and electro-magnetic vibrations. Antibiotics may stop the infection temporarily but do they get rid of the original cause?

THE OLIVE OIL-GRAPESRUIT JUICE CURE

Years ago, radionic diagnosis of the lower abdominal area indicated that I had deposits of silver, coffee and other solids in my bladder. To break these deposits up so they could be eliminated through the urine, the Radionist recommended that I treat myself for a week with a mixture of one ounce of olive oil and the juice of one freshly squeezed grapefruit. This should be shaken up thoroughly in a covered glass and drunk one hour before breakfast. The mixture was more palatable than might be supposed and it was effective. Now I use the vibrator every morning just to make sure that whole digestive-eliminative area is actively functioning, in balance.

BORDERLAND RESEARCH IN INDIANAPOLIS

"Other than the FDA trying to put me in jail, things are going well in private research here. I have been granted a patent on my Magnetometer and have 57 other inventions ready to patent if funds become available (all gravitational). Did you know the Hendershot (free energy) device works! But the circuit has a short which must be removed (July-August 1962 Journal article and schematic by Ed Skilling). That was what the past problem was."

If you are interested in building and experimenting with a Psychotronic Generator -- which is what the Hendershot device is, we've made up some reprints of Ed Skilling's two-part article on Hendershot, with schematics. This can be had for a dollar. As for the short in the circuit, you'll have to write to Gallimore about that.

"In my Handbook, Vol. III, the reasons pyramids work are explained, also the Reich Orgone Accumulator; and more important, what is the power behind Parapsychology and Radionics. Both have the same carrier! In each case direct control is possible.
My Vol. III Handbook is the only book I know of that defines akashic records as a storage medium which is gravity and can be artificially accessed, or changed! It is probably no surprise that I was not trying to find out how the akashic worked or if real. I was simply prepared to recognize it when the data surfaced in research.

GURU GALLIMORE

"I have succeeded in changing a person's IQ upwards 30 points in four hours. It gradually (three months) returned to stabilize at +12 points. I have succeeded in teaching nine scientists (worst subjects) 11 different abilities each (psychic) in one week. I have succeeded in taking a normal person of high IQ and making him a total telepath in three weeks (instant total communication). I scare hell out of myself in the realization of what I have done!"

Jerry Gallimore
5627 E. Julian, #16
Indianapolis, Indiana 46219

Yeah, it scares the hell out of me, too! It's all very well to make a "total telepath" out of someone but you are welcome to the responsibility. To me, total means the ability to perceive evil as well as good, objectively. Some who have been opened up in such a way have wound up in the nut house, simply from seeing their own vices and lower passions as real and solid beasties -- as described by Dante, and illustrated by Dore, in the last Journal. To me your system sounds like buying a powerful car with no brakes! If you have some patented system for guaranteeing that your students or chelas receive only the good, and thus are in no danger of obsession or of deceiving themselves, tell us about it. I really am interested because scarcely a week goes by without a query from someone who is in trouble because they have -- not total telepathy, whatever that is -- but enough of it to be objectively aware of thoughts and feelings directed at them. The experience can be very unpleasant at times; so in my work with the Cabala I try to teach the student how to put on the brakes first of all, with such protective rituals as the Lesser Banishing Ritual of the Pentagram, described and illustrated in our BSRF No. 24-C brochure, "You Live In Four Worlds" at $2.50 a copy.

All your theoretical work on anti-gravity is fine but have you produced any usable, or flyable, hardware? With fossil fuels getting scarcer and more expensive, alternate sources of energy are surely going to be more and more in demand. Why not start with an improved version of the Handseshot device which will produce enough electricity to take care of a five-room house and its appliances -- or the apartment building in which you live? Or at least tell us where the short is in Skilling's original circuit.
the schematic and republish it for the benefit of the Associates? Our reply to Gallimore's letter was in February of this year. We have not heard from him since! Anyone who can produce "total telepaths" in three weeks is a threat to MIRO, the Military-Industrial-Religious Oligarchy which runs America at a great profit. The Anti-Christ, the Lords of Materialism who direct our largest corporations look with extreme prejudice on anyone who might pick their brains while planning their latest skullduggery at board meetings.

KEEP YOUR MOUTH SHUT, OR ELSE!

Remember Peter Hurkos, one of the more talented of the psychics researched by Dr. Andrija Puharich back in the 1950s? In December 1963 Hurkos boasted publicly that he could identify the murderers of Jack Kennedy. He was on tour in Wisconsin at the time. The Highway Patrol picked him up and put him in the nearest jail where, no doubt, he received a visitor from MIRO. When released Hurkos told reporters he had decided not to use his talents to reveal the Kennedy assassins after all.

Puharich's book, "Beyond Telepathy" is a parapsychology classic. In the Foreword he writes, this book "is an exploration of the personal world of your own mind. . . The nature of the individual mind is such that potentially every nook and cranny of the world can be reflected in it, and there are ways and means to experience this. . ." (Doubleday, 1962)

Doubleday is about to publish Dr. Puharich's latest, "Time No Longer". This is his summary of his research with 34 New Age Whiz Kids whose psychic talents were equal to or even superior to those of Uri Geller, the whole range: deep trance mediumship, cosmic mediumship, telekinesis, teleportation. Doc's conclusion is that these are forerunners of a new type of human being which will totally replace us present Piscean Age types, and they are showing up all over the world. He uses Theosophical terminology to identify them as 6th Root Race individuals, but I would be more inclined to relate them to the 6th Sub Race of our Fifth Root Race. The 6th Root Race won't be coming in for thousands and thousands of years yet. Jerry Gallimore, with his wild talents, appears to be one of these 6th Sub Race types, but farther along in years than the kids Puharich has been observing. In his book "Time No Longer" he gives his subjects pseudonyms, for fear that if their true identity is known they will be liquidated by the MIRO of the nation in which they live. At least that's what he says in an extensive interview in the September 1978 issue of "Gnostica" magazine. ($2.00 an issue, $10.00 a year, PO Box 43383, St. Paul, Minnesota 55164).

"KNOWLEDGE TOO PROFOUND FOR THE MATERIAL MINDED"

"I am being called upon increasingly to talk to the young who have been sucked into these Alpha rhythm and Feedback courses and are having terrifying reactions. It seems that the 'teachers' know only the mechanics of their subjects and none of the dangers I am told that I was able to assist in the prevention of a young school teacher committing suicide by having your 'Retro Me' pamphlet with its protective rituals available ($1.00). Would it be possible to bring out a pamphlet especially for those who are convinced that they have found the answer to all life and that any criticism is the work of the devil? It will be hard to make such a pamphlet convincing but it has to be done if we are to prevent a certain number of fine young people from self-destruction. Keep up the good work, your ideas are becoming more important every day."

R.D., Concord, Massachusetts

That letter came four years ago! We have part one of a series of three talks on "Psychic Self-Defense" in print. This is titled "Pre-Conditions For Attack" and is Lesson 15 (BSRF No. 24-K) of our Series on the Cabala, $2.75; and we have finally transcribed part two, "Methods Of Attack". When this is printed -- hopefully before the end of the year! -- it will be Lesson 16 of our Series on the Cabala, BSRF No. 24-L. Meanwhile we'll be transcribing part three from lecture tape and notes. This will be titled "The Dweller On The Threshold", Lesson 17. Cassette tapes of these lectures are available now at $7.00 each and so is "Retro Me" for those can't wait for philosophy but need immediate action.

It was encouraging to learn that this Associate was able to help people who are prematurely opening psychic vision and hearing with biofeedback training. What they are seeing and hearing -- of course -- most of them -- is their own Dweller on the Threshold, the embodied accumulation of all their past misdeeds and vices. It can be a most horrifying monster which scares the hell out of any person who summons it up out of the subconscious without being forewarned of what to expect. It has only as much reality as they give it but that's plenty! Jung spoke of the Shadow, but he was referring to the subconscious junk of this life only. The Dweller is far older and in most cases more difficult to cope with.

Mrs. Crabb and I haven't had any success in convincing Scientology auditors, Mind Control and Transcendental Meditation teachers of the dangers which lie ahead of them in this area; so there hasn't been much incentive to "bring out a pamphlet". The study and practice of occult science takes intellectual courage, which many of these kids don't have, yet -- courage to face up to their own passions when objectively aroused, and to face them squarely for what they are. The occult law as I understand it is that the Dweller has to be faced, accepted as one's own responsibility, absorbed and transmuted into positive feelings of love and service -- The Christmas every day of the year!
An impersonal dedication to scientific research is no guarantee of protection; for the Dweller, the Frankenstein, is always there; and when the student is away from the Biofeedback class and giving way to his or her normal, selfish passions for food, drink, drugs, sex or whatever, they are recharging the Dweller with the kind of nourishment which keeps it alive! The understanding and application of this knowledge is Occult Science. What is the definition of Occult? "Knowledge too profound to be understood by the material minded."

"MAN BECOMES MORE THAN MAN BY WAY OF THE CROSS"

An initiate of the Western Mystery Tradition and product of an earlier generation, Homer Curtiss, writing in his book "The Key To The Universe", states truly that the Dweller on the Threshold is the synthesis of all those mistakes and unredeemed creations we have pushed behind us. It awaits us on the threshold of the New Life.

Truly, Tarot Trump No. 8, Justice, represents this confrontation with our past. This is the collection of challenges of life we did not have the strength to conquer because we didn't have the necessary strength of character which comes only with long evolution. When we come to the point of awakening to the Spiritual Life this collection of emotional junk must be faced and redeemed before we can enter the next phase of evolution. The Number 8 should be compared to a power belt which transmits power from the drivewheel of the engine to the power wheel of the machine. Such belts are usually crossed in the exact shape of a figure 8. This symbolizes the transmission of force from one cycle or form into the next higher expression. The Caduceus is an occult example of this.

The student of the Mysteries should expect to meet his or her Dweller on the threshold at this point of crossing over. Another example is Dante meeting the lion in the Dark Valley. The Dweller ever bars our way until our courage has been proved, and the lessons of the lower wheel have developed the necessary courage and fortitude.

This crossing point represents crucifixion. The student dies on the Cross of Personality that the Christ within, the Higher Self, may rise and sit on the right hand of the Father. Man, and woman, becomes more than man by Way of the Cross.

The Dweller often appears as a horrible monsters which can paralyze the student with fright, even drive him or her mad from horror. This occurs when awakening has been premature, before fear has been conquered -- or pride!

THE BLINDNESS OF SELF-RIGHTEOUSNESS

Fright occurs when the student of the Mysteries has denied any evil in himself or herself. Because they have refused to recognize their faults and failings, they have made no effort to redeem them! Thus the sudden revelation of these emotional monsters as objective creations is a great shock; and if the student denies the mis-creations of his own mind, the Path is closed to him.

The student who has lived close to the Divine Love of his or her Higher Self, the Christ within, has no fear at this crossing, this self-conscious journey through the Dark Valley. He and she have recognized the Divine Power within, their ability to redeem the Dweller in their daily steps along the Path. The face and form of the Dweller are familiar to them because they know their own creation. This is true of the student whose Dweller has been built up by the grosser sins of drunkenness, lust and greed. He knows he has been violating the law and expects to suffer the consequences. He has probably already glimpsed his Dweller at times. He knows it as his creation regardless of how horrible it looks, and faces it with courage and peace of mind.

THE LIVES OF JESUS, THE SPACE MAN

"Can you expand on that old book, 'Antiquity Unveiled', in the Journal? Cayce's Association for Research and Enlightenment, (ARE) Virginia Beach, offers several lives prior to Jesus: Joshua, Zoroaster, etc. Ann Herbstreith and Garman Vol Polen claim he has a giant spaceship. Mandel's Helpers use a spaceship to help clear the Lower Astral plane. Did they jettison Pope John Paul I? They poisoned Pope John XXIII. He forgave them."

C.H.W., Hemlock, New York

Yes, we'll continue to dip into J.M. Roberts' "Antiquity Unveiled" (1894) from time to time. We have put together one brochure from it, BSRF No. 35, "Apollonius of Tyana" $2.50. Born in the First Century A.D. he is the historical prototype of the Jesus myth created by the priests of the Church and, we believe, a reincarnation of the great Essene Teacher of Righteousness, Joshua or Jehoshua, of the First Century B.C; but this is not a popular idea so why push it? We believe it is important for the student to distinguish between Jesus, the adept of our own evolution, and the Christ, a great Sun spirit, product of a much earlier evolution. As the World Teacher it is His job to overshadow the Savior of every race, nation and religion -- though Christian priests would have you believe He is the exclusive property of Christianity. If you believe this you've been successfully hypnotized and programmed by experts, who themselves have been hyp-notized and programmed from the Lower Astral by the false Christ, Looeamong, and his henchmen. The point of contact for hypnotic control is the Lower Self, the Dweller on the Threshold.

Why shouldn't the Christ have giant spaceships at His com-mand? -- as well as fleets of Flying Saucer volunteers from other, more advanced planets and solar systems, dedicated to guiding the Earth through its great trial or Judgment Day. We must get used to the novel idea -- but one which will be common-place in the Aquarian Age -- that there is constant traffic be-tween the planets of the solar system, at all levels of conscious-ness. The "Star Trek" TV series has been a major vehicle of the World Teacher, the Christ, to get this important idea across.

Was Luciani, John Paul I, the victim of dirty Church politics? Millions of Italians think so. After the new Pope's sudden death editors of Italian papers were demanding, in headlines, that there be an autopsy, but Vatican authorities refused, saying that an au-topsy was forbidden by Canon law. Also there were at least two different versions of how the dead Luciani was discovered. The official one was that Father Magee, his personal secretary, dis-covered him slumped over a copy of the "Imitation of Christ"; but others learned that he was discovered by a Sister who brought the Pope his morning coffee, and that he was slumped over some personal messages he had written. Neither Father Magee nor the Sister were available for interview by the press.

LUCIANI, THE REVOLUTIONARY

The key to Luciani's sudden and untimely end was spoken by a Jesuit priest over international television. We heard it here in Vista on one of the networks. This English-speaking priest in Rome was being interviewed by a network reporter. Among other things the priest said: "John Paul was a revolutionary!" Look it up in your dictionary. Revolution means the overthrow of the existing government. Looeamong, the false Christ, and his physi-cal plane agents will go to any lengths to prevent that, and poi-soning as a means of political assassination was endemic to Italy long before the Borgias made themselves infamous with its use. They, like all noble Italian families, secular and sacred, had their professional food-tasters. No food or drink passed their lips without first being tested for poison by an underling.

Even if there were an autopsy of John Paul I the official findings would be inconclusive. The Italian people are asking the Church to try itself for conspiracy. They are under the same difficulties as we are here in the United States in trying to discover the truth of the sudden deaths of the Kennedys, Martin Luther King and dozens of other political figures. We are asking our Government to put itself on trial. Sounds pretty ridiculous doesn't it? Jim Garrison found this out when he brought some of the conspirators to trial years later in New Orleans.

THE RE-SPRITUALIZATION OF THE CHURCH

"The Master Jesus will take a physical vehicle, and with certain of His chelas effect a re-spiritualization of the Catholic churches, breaking down the barrier separating the Episcopal and Greek churches from the Roman. This may be looked for, should plans progress as hoped, about the year 1980." Thus prophesied the Master D.K. in his "Treatise On Cosmic Fire", written through Alice Bailey in 1925.

In Rome today we see the invisible but powerful hand of the Master whose birthday we celebrate at this time of year. He must be inspiring and guiding the bloc of reform-minded Cardinals who voted Luciani into office, and who have again exerted their combined wills to place another liberal Pope on the throne. Maybe Jesus is one of those Cardinals, and Karol Wojtyla (Voy-TI-wah) is one of his chelas. Anyhow, the headline in the Los Angeles "Times" for October 18, 1978 tells the story: "John Paul II Vows To Pursue Church's Reform Program. New Pope says primary task will be carrying out changes introduced by 1962-65 Vatican Council." And of course that reform Council of the 1960s was convened by another of Jesus' chelas, John XXIII.

According to reporter Louis B. Fleming, filing his story from Rome, there were two important points in John Paul II's first public address: "Two elements were given particular emphasis. Collegiality -- that is the sharing of power with the bishops, with special mention given to the Synod of Bishops, and the Ecumenical Movement, pursuing the goal of communion among the Christian churches of the world." Later, in a precedent-shattering meeting with the diplomatic corps of the Vatican, representing about a hundred countries, the new Pope "gave a clear signal to political leaders that he will not try to interfere in their nations' affairs. 'It is not our business to judge governments,' he said."

Father Andrew Greeley, writing in the "Times" for Oct. 17, 1978, shows his enthusiasm for this chela of Jesus. "I have talked with several men who know John Paul personally and have worked closely with him. They are all surprised, but delighted. There's no question in any of their minds that the work of the Vatican Council will go on and that the revolution of the papacy begun by John Paul I will continue. The style may be somewhat different, but the job description is the same: 'A hopeful holy man who smiles' and who is what a pope ought to be, 'Young, vigorous, heroic'.

"The Roman Catholic Church has gone through dazzling and stunning changes since Aug. 6. A new era is beginning that we in Rome can only begin to understand. A bright, full October moon shining down on John Paul II on the balcony of St. Peter's hinted that the church will approach its third millenium with the promise of warm and glowing life."
AN EARLY CHRISTMAS PRESENT FOR THE ERA

Washington (AP) - "President Carter signed a resolution Friday (Oct. 20) extending the deadline to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment by three years and urged a quick start to win support for the proposed amendment. 'I urge all the people of the country to join me in correcting a basic defect in the American Constitution,' Carter said at the signing ceremony in the Cabinet Room. 'This amendment will give simple acknowledgement that women should have equal rights under the laws of our nation.'

"Immediately after the signing ceremony, Rosalynn Carter and other ERA supporters began that effort by addressing postcards to friends in Florida and Nevada urging their support for the amendment. . . ."

Back in February of 1978 we received an urgent letter from Eleanor Smeal, president of the National Organization For Women:

"A major attack on our human rights is under way. Despite the monumental 1973 Supreme Court decision upholding a woman's right to make her own decision about abortion, a strange and powerful coalition of anti-women forces is intent upon forcing its personal beliefs on every woman who faces an unwanted pregnancy.

"At stake is a principle which extends far beyond the immediate question of abortion law. At stake is the principle that the will of the majority shall not be thwarted by the reactionary, vociferous and well-financed pressure tactics of the few. 81% of all Americans and 76% of all Catholics support the right of women to choose a safe and legal abortion. And yet, despite the overwhelming feeling of the majority this fundamental right of women to control their own bodies is in greater danger now than at any time in recent history.

"Why? Because a powerful lobby generally known as the so-called 'right to life' group is well-organized, well-financed and getting bolder by the day. Supporters of the anti-women position include not only the traditional so-called 'right to life' groups but an unlikely axis of other groups including The Christian Crusade, The John Birch Society, The Ku Klux Klan, and The National States Rights Party.

"Although the Constitution guarantees separation of Church and State the major supporter of the anti-choice lobby is a religious group -- the National Conference of Catholic Bishops. The intimidation of the Presidential candidates by the Roman Catholic hierarchy is an exercise of political power which threatens the rights of all Americans."

You and your staff at NOW are learning to read between the lines, Eleanor. There is nothing "unlikely" about unholy alliance between the Birchers, the Kluxers, other right wing organizations and the Fascism which is Rome. They are all ideological bedfellows. When you go a step further and learn to read between the words in..."
the lines you will realize that the overshadowing genius guiding them is the false Christ, Loosamong, a Moon God failure from another planet in the solar system which he helped destroy ages ago. But he is only one among other lunar Pitris, Moon Gods; and when you learn to read between the letters in the words, Ellie, you will realize that the women of the world are up against the false Buddha, Enochissa, the false Brahm, Kabalactes, the false Mohammed, Thot-Gabriel, and the deified saviors of other religions. One of the cornerstones of their evil power is the degradation of women; so the "bishops" of all organized religions serve the Good, the True, the Beautiful, by opposing them.

MARY, THE STAR OF THE SEA

"Mary labours ever for the cause of human motherhood, and even now is bending all Her mighty strength and calling all Her Angel Court to labour for the upliftment of womanhood throughout the world. Through Her angel messengers, She Herself is present at every human birth, unseen and unknown, it is true, but if men but would open their eyes She would be revealed. She sends this message through the Brotherhood to men:

"In the Name of Him whom long ago I bore, I come to your aid. I have taken every woman into my heart, to hold there a part of her that through it I may help her in her time of need.

"Uplift the women of your race till all are seen as queens, and to such queens let every man be as a king, that each may honour each, seeing the other's royalty. Let every home, however small, become a court, every son a knight, every child a page. Let all treat all with chivalry, honouring in each their royal parentage, their kingly birth; for there is royal blood in every man; all are children of the King."

(From Geoffrey Hodson's "The Brotherhood of Angels and of Men", Theosophical Press, Wheaton, Illinois 60188.)

"Who stands against this reactionary coalition" of right-wing forces, writes Eleanor Smeal? "The National Organization for Women stands as a major nationwide organization with a concerted program to beat the well-funded efforts of the Roman Catholic hierarchy and the other anti-choice forces." You can stand aside in the battle or you can lend your support to the one nationwide organization which can slug it out, toe to toe, with the priests in the Congress, in the state legislatures, in the courts, and win! NOW headquarters are at 425 13th St. NW, Suite 101, Washington, D.C. 20004. A contribution of $15 will help the cause and bring you monthly copies of the "National NOW Times".

"THE OTHER MEANING OF CHRISTMAS" For the serious student of the Mysteries, an explanation of symbols and symbology in the Gospel story. Sub-heads: The Christmas Initiation, the Physiological Awakening, the Higher Trinity, the Three Signs of the First Great Initiation, the Winter Solstice, the Two Christmas Archetypes, the Womb of the Earth, Mary Queen of Angels, the Sun Behind the Sun, the Tree of Life, Tarot Trump No. 19 and a Christmas Ritual. Everyone who is trying to regenerate himself or herself under the stimulus of Aquarian Age influences is living the Gospel story whether they realize it or not! As Geoffrey Hodson says: "We all have nativity, conversion, baptism of sorrow, transfiguration or upliftment, betrayals and crucifixions", and this five-fold cosmic cycle is repeated over and over again as we move through incarnation here on the surface of the earth. This is preparation for the five Great Initiations which wind up our human evolution. Illustrated... $2.75

"THE FIVE RITES OF REJUVENATION (Plus One)" or Peter Kelder's "Eye of Revelation". Six time-proven Rites for Regenerating the Life Forces of Aura and body, augmented with 20 pages of questions by students, and answers and comment by the Director... $2.50

BSRF NO. 24-K: PSYCHIC SELF-DEFENSE, PART I, "Pre-conditions For Attack", a Cabala talk which goes deeply into the obsessive ideas, the neuroses, the psychoses, the hysteria which open us up to psychic attack, with suggested Rituals for protecting yourself and others from the Astral leeches and wolves... $2.75
