APHORISMS
on Consciousness-Without-an-Object
by
Franklin Merrell-Wolff

These aphorisms belong to a level of consciousness where thought and music unite. They are seeds which may develop into a comprehensive system of philosophy while, at the same time, they are a substance bringing sustenance to the soul. It is not necessary that the reader should understand them. He should use them as focal points for meditation and permit their meaning to develop in his consciousness as a plant grows from seed. They are symbols first and concepts afterward. As concepts they illumine the way for understanding. As symbols they open the door to the realization of that Reality which cannot be felt or thought.

Consciousness-without-an-object is.

Before objects were, Consciousness-without-an-object is.

Though objects seem to exist, Consciousness-without-an-object is.

When objects vanish, yet remaining through all unaffected, Consciousness-without-an-object is.

Outside of Consciousness-without-an-object nothing is.

Within the bosom of Consciousness-without-an-object lies the power of awareness which projects objects.

When objects are projected the power of awareness as subject is presupposed, yet Consciousness-without-an-object remains unchanged.

When consciousness of objects is born then likewise consciousness of absence of objects arises.

Consciousness of objects is the Universe.

Consciousness of absence of objects is Nirvana.

Within Consciousness-without-an-object lie both the Universe and Nirvana, yet to Consciousness-without-an-object these two are the same.

Within Consciousness-without-an-object lies the seed of Time.

When awareness cognizes Time then Knowledge of Timelessness is born.

To be aware of Time is to be aware of the Universe, and to be aware of the Universe is to be aware of Time.

To realize Timelessness is to attain Nirvana.

But for Consciousness-without-an-object there is no difference between Time and Timelessness.

Within Consciousness-without-an-object lies the seed of Law.

When awareness cognizes the world-containing Space then Knowledge of the Spacial Void is born.

To be aware of the world-containing Space is to be aware of the Universe of Objects.

To realize the Spacial Void is to awaken to Nirvanic Consciousness.

But for Consciousness-without-an-object there is no difference between the world-containing Space and the Spacial Void.

Within Consciousness-without-an-object lies the seed of Law.

When consciousness of objects is born the Law is invoked as a Force tending ever toward Equilibrium.

All objects exist as tensions within Consciousness-without-an-object that tend ever to flow into their own complements or others.

The ultimate effect of the flow of all objects into their complements is mutual cancellation in complete Equilibrium.

Consciousness of the field of tensions is the Universe.

Consciousness of Equilibrium is Nirvana.

But for Consciousness-without-an-object there are neither tension nor Equilibrium.

The state of tensions is the state of ever-becoming.

Ever-becoming is endless-dying.

So the state of consciousness-of-objects is a state of ever-renewing promises that pass into death at the moment of fulfillment.

Thus when consciousness is attached to objects the agony of birth and death never ceases.

In the state of Equilibrium where birth cancels death the deathless Bliss of Nirvana is realized.

But Consciousness-without-an-object is neither agony or bliss.

Out of the Great Void, which is Consciousness-without-an-object, the Universe is creatively projected.

The Universe as experienced is the created negation that ever resists.

The creative act is bliss, the resistance unending pain.

Endless resistance is the Universe of experience; the agony of crucifixion.

Ceaseless creativeness is Nirvana; the Bliss beyond all human conceiving.

But for Consciousness-without-an-object there is neither creativeness nor resistance.

Ever-becoming and ever-ceasing-to-be is endless action.

When ever-becoming cancels the ever-ceasing-to-be then Rest is realized.

Ceaseless action is the Universe.

Unending Rest is Nirvana.

But Consciousness-without-an-object is neither action nor rest.

When Consciousness is attached to objects it is restricted through the forms imposed by the world-containing Space, by Time and by Law.

When consciousness is disengaged from objects Liberation from the forms of the world-containing Space, of Time and of Law is attained.

Attachment to objects is consciousness bound within the Universe. Liberation from such attachment is the state of unlimited Nirvanic Freedom.

But Consciousness-without-an-object is neither bondage nor Liberation. Consciousness-without-an-object may be symbolized by a SPACE which is unaffected by the presence or absence of objects; for which there is neither Time nor Timelessness; neither a world-containing Space nor a Spacial Void; neither tension nor Equilibrium; neither resistance nor creativeness; neither agony or Bliss; neither action nor Rest; and Neither restriction or Freedom.

As the great SPACE is not to be identified with the Universe so neither is it to be identified with any self.

The great SPACE is not God, but the comprehender of all Gods as well as of all lesser creatures.

The great SPACE, or Consciousness-without-an-object, is the sole Reality upon which all objects and all selves depend and derive their existence.

The great SPACE comprehends both the Path of the Universe and the Path to Nirvana.

Beside the great SPACE there is none other.

Concerning Opposition Aroused by Sages

WHY DO THE WORDS of a Mystic or a Sage so often arouse such severe antagonism? Take, for instance, poems like the "Leaves of Grass" by Walt Whitman. They have aroused storms of criticism as well as enthusiastic admiration. Yet, on the other hand, readers of all sorts generally are not troubled by the weird meanderings of the written words of an insane mind. This reveals the fact that it is not simply the unconventionality of the form that stirs the antagonism. Now these storms of criticism are really tributes. They indicate, at least, an unconscious recognition of Power in the words of the Mystic or the Sage. The complacency of the forces of Mara—to employ a Buddhist term—has been struck a vital blow, and this arouses resistance. But in all such engagements, Mara is doomed to defeat, for the Power that has burst forth is united with the inexhaustible Fount. The only effective defense for Mara would be complete indifference. For if Mara causes any man to fight the Light, that man, sooner or later, is conquered by the Light and then becomes One with It. St. Paul affords us the classic example. He fought earnestly and sincerely so that quickly the Light conquered him and claimed him for Its own. From the standpoint of Mara there is nothing more dangerous than an effort to slay a Sage or Mystic. The latter, in Their real Natures are invulnerable and, in the end, win to Themselves their would-be slayers.

IDS SUCCESSFULLY CURED

BY: ALBERT ZOCK

HOW PENICILIN AND OZONE WORK ON AIDS

IDS the plague of this century lost its scare thanks to three German physicians working in o groups independent of each other.

ere is not only hope, but proof, that AIDS can be licked, as each group cured two AIDS victims independently, ing unconventional methods. Not that cures have been done by quacks or the like, oh no, but by three nventional physicians who just dared to go one step further.

D. Urban Walktähler with MD. Klaus Diering, both Immunologists who worked for years with antibodies, ng before AIDS became a scare word. their first patient had a bad time in the hospital, nobody seemed to ow the symptoms like fever, diarrhea and weakness. The physicians suspected a kind of omeba. The patient t the clinic on his own wish. With his last strength he went to Dr. Diering. An intensive examination vealed micrococcus of gonorrhea, a venereal disease, which had earlier weakened his immune system.

usions of 40 million units of penicilin a day - 40 times as much as a normal dose, over three weeks. The mptoms disappeared and blood became normal.

ormally, penicilin does not work on viruses, only on bacteria, however it worked in both cases - there must a connection? The second patient was cured the same way. He too had at one time a syphilis infection ich had been treated, but probably not sufficiently treated. In time, such a virus becomes resistant to reatment and has the ability to penetrate into the tissue leaving no trace.

other pioneer in the fight against AIDS is MD. Horst Kief, a specialist in ozonotherapy. His two patients are mosexuals who live together. It started with a cold of no end, followed by fever and weakness. The lymph des were swollen and both had a high perspiration at night. Both were short of dying, when they heard out Dr. Kiefs ozonotherapy, which is also successful with herpes and other virus diseases. It is a entific fact that ozone kills not only bacteria but viruses as well and does not create any resistance to one.

one is a gas which has 3 oxygen atoms, one atom more than air and as the ozone dissolves by loosing its ditional atom, it gives off much energy which kills the bacteria and viruses.

r. Kief makes his own ozone by forcing oxygen through a metal tube having a charge of 300 volts. He takes out a pint of blood from the patient at each therapy and forces the ozone into the infusion bottle which shakes to make the ozone work on the blood and even absorbs some. After that the patient gets blood back into his veins. This hyper-ozone therapy is given twice a week. The results are great.
th patients are active in sports and feel strong again. The lab reports normal blood - no AIDS.

the medical society as a whole, all this may not be proof enough. Long time research is needed before green light will be given to use it on patients. It may take decades and many will die. On the other id, one cannot blame them. As this is how the laws in this country are written, if a physician treats atient and something goes wrong, he or she may be slapped with a malpractice suit. However, this is awn on the AIDS horizon and lets hope that in the meantime gutsy pioneers like the three above multiply mushrooms and pop up everywhere.

ne looks over the whole picture given here, one cannot help but assume that AIDS is nothing else than outgrown syphilis virus who's evolution has been speeded up as man tries to control it chemically. Almost re of the strongest survive, and in each generation a stronger poison has to be used. AIDS seems to be monster, created by our physicians using antibiotics. It went into seclusion where it grows and from hence merges to show who is "the boss". but, if no virus can develop resistance against ozone - then that is answer to all plagues and not only AIDS.

ELECTRON THERAPY RESEARCH
John Crane

This report on Electron Therapy is primarily concerned with the detection and cure of cancer and related diseases. It is presented for research only.

It is a matter of record that, while orthodox medical and surgical methods have had limited success with cancer discovered in the early stage, they have had little or no success with treatment of the more advanced cases. The cause of cancer is still listed in some of the current medical textbooks as "unknown."

Since research to determine the cause and effect a cure of cancer is being carried out in many and various directions, it seems reasonable to explore every possible avenue toward a true understanding of the cause of cancer and hence, its proper treatment.

This report concerns itself with the discovery of a virus causing cancer and a method of treatment which excited considerable interest among reputable doctors and laboratory specialists as long ago as 1934. This theory has stood up under hundreds of controlled laboratory tests and has been applied to treat human cancer in dozens of cases.

Rife Virus Microscope Institute, in conjunction with various doctors throughout the United States and Canada, is at the present time (1960-ed.) engaged in carrying out a controlled series of tests in order to re-establish the findings of Dr. Royal R. Rife in his life study of the cause and cure of cancer.

Dr. Royal Raymond Rife first conceived the idea of the Frequency Instrument in conjunction with his work in developing the Rife Universal Microscope. Since the determining of the cancer requires the high power of the Rife Microscope, a brief description of the construction and theory of operation of the Rife Microscope will be included in this report.

THE UNIVERSAL MICROSCOPE

Dr. Royal R. Rife over a period of 30 years designed and built in his own laboratory five microscopes of power and resolution far beyond the so-called law of optical physics. In their power magnification these instruments vary from 9,000 to 50,000 times, far beyond the limits of the standard research instrument. The commercial microscope being manufactured today is inadequate for the observation of filterable viruses of disease (as these minute, live, living entities are less than $1/20$ of one micron in dimension). Thus the need for a device which would carry us farther into this important field of endeavor. We will describe in some detail the most powerful of these microscopes, known as the Universal Microscope.

The Universal Microscope, which is the largest and most powerful of the light microscopes, developed in 1933, consists of 5,682 parts.

Royal Raymond Rife

This microscope derives its name from its adaptability to all fields of microscopical work. The microscope is fully equipped with separate substage condenser units for transmitted and monochromatic beam, dark-field, polarized, and slit-ultra illumination, and includes a special device for crystallography. The entire optical system of lenses and prisms as well as the illuminating units are made of block-crystal quartz.

The illuminating unit used for the examination of the filterable form of disease organisms contains 14 lenses and prisms, three of which are in the hi-intensity incandescent lamp, four in the Risley prism, and seven in the achromatic condenser system. Two circular, wedge-shaped prisms are suspended between the source of light and the specimen being examined. The two prisms are used for changing the angle of incidence of the light passing through the specimen being examined. When the light passes through these prisms, it is divided or split into two beams, one of which is refracted to such an extent that it is reflected to the side of the prism while the second beam is permitted to pass through the prism and illuminate the specimen owing to its chemical constituents.

The mounting arrangement on the Universal Microscope permits each of the two prisms to be rotated in opposite directions by a vernier control throughout 360 degrees. This vernier adjustment permits bending the transmitted beam of light at variable angles of incidence while, at the same time, a small portion of the spectrum is projected into the axis of the microscope owing to the chemical constituents of the microorganism. The vernier adjustment permits only a small portion of the spectrum to be visible at any one time, but it is possible to select any portion from one end of the spectrum to the other. When that portion of the spectrum is reached where both the organism and the color band vibrate in exact accord, a definite characteristic spectrum is emitted by the organism.

PRINCIPLE OF PARALLEL RAYS

In the case of the filter-passing form of the Bacillus Typhosus, a turquoise blue color is emitted and the plane of polarization deviated plus 4.8 degrees. The predominating chemical constituents of the organism are next ascertained after which the quartz prisms are adjusted by means of the vernier control to minus 4.8 degrees so the opposite angle of refraction may be obtained. A monochromatic beam of light corresponding exactly to the frequency of the organism is then passed through the specimen along with the direct transmitted light. This beam permits the observer to view the organism stained in its true chemical color and reveals its own individual structure in a field which is brilliant with light.

The rays of light refracted by the specimen enter the objective lens and are carried up the tube in parallel rays through twenty-one light bends to the ocular lens. A tolerance of less than one wave length of visible light is permitted in the core beam of illumination. In the standard optical microscope, the light rays tend to converge as they rise higher and finally cross each other, arriving at the ocular lens, separated by a considerable distance.

In the Rife microscopes, as the rays are about to cross each other, a specially designed quartz prism is inserted which serves to separate the light rays to a near parallel line again. Additional prisms are inserted each time the rays are ready to cross.

These prisms, located in the tube, are adjusted and held in alignment by micrometer screws in special tracks made of magnelium, a metal having the closest expansion coefficient of any metal to quartz. These prisms are separated by a distance of only 30 millimeters. Thus, the greatest distance that the image in the Universal Microscope is projected through any one media, either quartz or air, is 30 millimeters instead of the 160 to 190 millimeters employed in the air-filled type of the ordinary microscope.

It is this principle of parallel rays used in the Universal Microscope and the resultant shortening of projection distance between any two blocks or prisms plus the fact that objective lenses can thus be substitutes for oculars, (these oculars being three matched pairs of 10-mm, 7-mm and 4-mm objectives in short mounts) which make possible not only the unusually high magnification and resolution but which serve to eliminate virtually all chromatic and spherical aberration.

The universal stage is a double rotating stage graduated through 360 degrees in quarter-minute arc divisions. The upper segment carries the mechanical stage having a movement of 40 degrees, and the body assembly which can move horizontally over the condenser and provide an angular tilt of 40 degrees + or -.

The microscope stands 24 inches high and weighs 200 pounds. The base is composed of cast nickel-steel plate, accurately surfaced and equipped with three leveling screws and two spirit levels set at 90 degrees. The course adjustment, a clock thread screw with 40 threads to the inch, slides in a $1\frac{1}{4}$ dovetail which gibs directly onto the pillar post. The stage, in conjunction with a hydraulic lift, acts as a lever in operating the fine adjustment.

A 6-guage screw, having 100 threads to the inch, is worked through a gland into a hollow glycerine-filled post, the glycerine being displaced and replaced at will as the screw is turned clockwise or counterclockwise allowing a 5 to 1 ratio on the lead screw. This hydraulic action assures complete absence of drag or inertia.

The fine adjustment being 700 times more sensitive than the ordinary microscopes, requires a length of time from ten minutes to one-half hour to focus. This time at first glance seems a disadvantage, but it is felt that, for the overall results obtained, the time required is only a slight inconvenience compared to the many years' research and the actual results obtained in isolating and looking upon disease-causing organisms in their true form. (to be continued)

A 45 minute video (VHS) of Royal Raymond Rife in his laboratory is available from BSRF for $25 plus $2.50 postage, sent Priority Mail. This tape shows the inflicting of cancer in laboratory mice, and their cure with Rife's ray tube frequency instruments. It is transferred from a 16mm film and isnarrated by John Crane. This film is proof that the cure for cancer (one of many) has been covered up!

RADIONIC ANALYSIS: A THEORETICAL APPROACH

Part II in a series

by PETER A. LINDEMANN

Last issue, I gave you a schematic on how to build your own radionic tuner. By now, some of you have probably built units and would like to know more about how and when to use them. In the next series of articles, I'll outline the fundamentals of radionic analysis and radionic treatment. But in this article, I'd like to discuss a theoretical approach to the whole radionic process. This will serve as kind of a backdrop on which I can paint a picture of radionics as I understand it.

RADIONICS IS AN ART

Radionic analysis is an art that requires an Artist to perform artfully. There has been endless discussions over the years as to answer the question, "what is Radionics?" David Tansley DC covers much of this territory in his book RADIONICS: SCIENCE OR MAGIC. I prefer to think of Radionics as an Art that uses a Scientific Method to produce seemingly Magical results. Radionics is an Art because the result depends entirely on the practitioner's personal level of development. The results also depend on the clarity with which the inventor conceived and built the equipment used. Radionics uses repeatable methods to produce repeatable results and so the process has scientific overtones. The problem is that NO ONE really understands WHY the treatment works. Science does not accept radionics as one of its recognized disciplines because there is no generally accepted THEORY to explain the connection between the radionic procedure and the biological changes that result. That's why it seems like magic. Tansley concludes that Radionics IS Magic and we should all go off on our merry way and be happy magicians. History suggests that yesterday's magic often becomes tomorrow's scientific breakthrough, such as the many revelations recently concerning electro-magnetic signals and health. Just because we cannot MEASURE the functioning of an "invisible" connection, does not mean that it will never be measured. The scientific foundation of radionic understanding is still being built. Radionics has been plagued by the fact that scientists don't take it seriously because they perceive that its practitioners are essentially ARTISTS and not SCIENTISTS. This will continue to be the case until someone definitively measures the "mechanism" that transfers the "treatment" from the radionic device to the "recipient."

THE DNA CONNECTION

The problem with the scientific approach to radionics is its mechanistic philosophy. There are many REAL agents that affect our health that cannot be measured scientifically. Among these are the Will to Live, Trusting that we live in a Safe Environment and Feeling Loved. One of science's biggest failures, is its inability to explain to us the "mechanism" of INTELLIGENCE itself. Life simply HAS intelligence, at every level of its manifestation.

In my last article (JBR May-June '86) I said that "the radionic method is simply a way of 'talking' to the DNA." This, of course, is a theory, a way of approaching an understanding of radionics. This idea helped focus my attention away from Dials and Rates and Boxes and on to the intricate intelligence that organizes all living matter. It is part of this theory to assume that Life's intelligence pre-dates all forms and actually determines the forms the DNA will take. It is the intelligence of life that is telling the chemicals what to do and not the reverse, as a mechanistic science would have us think. I feel that to understand Radionics, it is essential to have a clear concept of a LIVING DNA.

In my understanding, DNA is the FIRST PHYSICALIZATION of the INTELLIGENCE of LIFE. The DNA controls each process and function in every cell of the body. It also controls all of the interactions of cells to form organs, systems of organs and whole organisms. The amount of information that is organized into coherent forms, instructions, timing sequences, environmental feedback loops and interdependent mechanisms in a human body absolutely staggers the imagination. Why just to heal a simple cut on your finger, your DNA organizes hundreds of separate chemical reactions to breakdown and remove injured cells and to replicate healthy cells, each step timed to begin, interact appropriately and cease in an exact sequence. It all happens so automatically that we usually take it for granted. This only illustrates how efficiently DNA operates.

As soon as an injury occurs, the DNA somehow assesses the situation, determines what to do and starts doing it. The body built itself from scratch in the first place and it is this same set of instructions and procedures that it will use to repair itself no matter what injury or disfunction may occur. It seems imperative to assume that the body not only can assess its own condition but that it has its own predetermined methods to correct that condition down to the very last detail. The reason that everybody is not perfectly healthy is that the DNA's tasks have been inhibited by our CHOICES, TOXIC DEPOSITS, UNRESOLVED EMOTIONS, INCORRECT DIET and various other factors. The DNA knows how to correct these conditions but it is up to us to stop creating them!

Radionics, appropriately applied, is only meant to activate information resident in the DNA and precipitate it into physical motion and chemical activity. It is the radionic practitioner's duty to discover what the body has already decided to do and to cooperate with that by helping to remove obstacles (causes of imbalances) and by activating the "next step" in the body's predetermined correction sequence. Radionics is not medicine. A radionic treatment is not the "remedy." Healing is a natural process and the radionic procedures can catalyze those natural processes, accelerate what the body would normally do anyway.

A SIMPLE CONVERSATION

The entire radionic procedure can be thought of as an ongoing conversation with the DNA, that is, two intelligent beings exchanging information. The DNA will not speak English so it is up to us to learn the language of LIFE. This is our part of the bargain. But the DNA is vastly more intelligent than you or I. In fact, I have often thought that all of human knowledge combined is but a grain of sand on the beach of LIFE's intelligence as it resides in the DNA. So, a conversation between the self and its body is a curious sort of conversation. It reminds me sometimes of a science fiction story of contact between vastly superior extraterrestrials and ourselves. The difference is that it is real, we are the dummies and the DNA knows everything we want to know about our health.

Normally, a conversation has two parts. They are LISTENING and SPEAKING. We can think of LISTENING as radionic analysis and SPEAKING as radionic treatment. It seems miraculous that the DNA is willing to have such a conversation with dullards such as ourselves, but it is true. So the first thing we must do is AGREE to be in this conversation.

This concept of agreement is very different than to simply decide that stop signs are red and that we stop our cars for them. It implies a deep trust and commitment to ourselves and our health. The intelligence of our body responds to the level of sincerity that we bring to the project. So this agreement has to do with how honest we are with ourselves at the deepest levels of our awareness.

LISTENING WITHIN

To listen means to place ones awareness on a piece of incoming information. Since this information is inside of us, it requires that we become inwardly quiet with the ability to place our awareness in each and every location within the body. When we do this , we find that there are 7 major centers of activity. The ancient cultures of India called these the CHAKRAS. Since most of us do not speak Sanskrit, the word "chakra" doesn't mean too much to us. To help make this process of 'listening within' more understandable, I refer to the chart below where the CHAKRAS have been given names that correspond to the quality of energy that manifests at that location of the body. The aspect of ourselves that is most involved with this faculty of inner listening is the "third eye" or INTUITING ASPECT. So when we do a radionic analysis, what we are really doing is tuning into our own intuition.

THE SEVEN ASPECTS

Intuiting is just one of the seven major aspects of being human. And, in order for our intuition to function properly, all of the major aspects must be developing in a balanced way. We do not have to be a Spiritually Enlightened Master for our intuition to be accurate, but we must be familiar enough with all of our aspects to clearly know the difference between intuitive information and unresolved emotional material or our own unfulfilled desires.

A good place to begin developing these aspects of ourselves is at the bottom, with GROUNDING. Grounding relates to our being in the physical, having and living in our bodies and being connected to the earth. Centering relates to our ability to focus our attention, to move our bodies from our groundedness and to feel the power of our physical beingness. The Feeling/Thinking aspect relates to our attitudes, thoughts and feelings as well as our sense of personal power. Relating has to do with how we interact with ourselves, others and the whole of creation about us. Expressing relates to the ease by which we allow what is in us to come out into the world. Expressing relates to all of the other aspects as we can express our groundedness, our feelings or our intuitions. Intuiting relates to accessing knowledge from within ourselves. And Uniting relates to our connection with the source of infinite reality and our experience of being the infinite UNITY of ALL LIFE.

THE SEVEN ASPECTS OF BEING HUMAN

OPENING TO THE INTUITION

Even without any specific training, everyone has some intuitive ability. Some have more than others. Some people are quite gifted at birth while others seem to have very little access. It doesn't matter where you find yourself at this point. What is important is to realize that INTUITING is one of your natural abilities and that with the development of your whole self will come your inner knowing. It is far more important to promote a stable, balanced development of all the aspects than to try to develop one or two of them deeply while ignoring the others. Most people who try to develop their intuition without first beginning to deal with the unresolved emotional material of their childhood and their willingness to be in the physical become quite unbalanced. This imbalance shows up in many ways. In radionic analysis, it will show up as a "blind spot" because you will not be able to see in another what you have been unwilling to see in yourself.

The most important thing to do to develop a clear, open intuiting ability is first to establish a firm sense of GROUNDING. Be willing to be here in the physical plane and to feel your "roots" going deep into the earth. Don't forget, the purpose of all of this is to be able to listen to what our body (DNA) is telling us. Being in the physical, being in our body is being GROUNDED. Being grounded means to open up to the slowest, densest vibrations within the LIFE FORCE. This is the vibration of the mountains, the roots of the Sequoia tree, the most bound energy, the ancient rumblings of pre-historic primal ooze. These vibrations are within us and we must be familiar with them if we are to be in AGREEMENT with our bodies.

Once we can really feel our connection to the earth, the next aspect to develop is CENTERING. The centering aspect really allows the grounding energy to move through us. The development of our centering depends on the depth of our grounding because of the way these two aspects interact. Our centering relates to our ability to focus and move with our physical energy and our physical body. It relates to our overall balance and is the storehouse of our physical power.

Even as centering allows our grounding to manifest in our bodies, so does the intuition allow our sense of uniting to manifest. The balanced functioning of these four aspects and to a lesser degree of the other three are all necessary for clear intuiting.

LISTENING QUIETLY

A good way to begin the process of a radionic analysis is to find a quiet room and sit down in a comfortable chair that allows your spine to be straight. Plant your feet firmly on the ground and take a few moments to feel your connection to the earth. Take your time with the beginning. Breathe slowly, first through your feet and then deep in your pelvis and abdomen. From this solid, quiet base, slowly and carefully move your awareness up your spine and make any minor corrections in your posture that are necessary for good alignment. When your attention rises to your head, open your willingness to receive any information that you are meant to receive at this time, and remain still. You will begin receiving subtle impressions, which if you quietly observe, will start having meaning for you. This is a gentle and silent beginning, a place from which your radionic abilities will unfold safely and naturally.

COSMIC BLUEPRINT

Part III Chapter Eleven of The COSMIC PULSE OF LIFE by Trevor James Constable

The concept of life being ever-present on earth is in no way upset or disturbed by geological evidence that certain mineral substances were once liquid. As long as we are strapped to mechanistic conceptions of the earth's origin, we consider this onetime liquefaction of presently dense substances to have been due to colossal temperatures. Mechanistically, there is no way around this.

In our pro-Life viewpoint, we read our lessons directly from nature. We know that in biological processes within living organisms, substances are liquefied which, if they were external to the organism, would be solidly mineralized. Such processes go on continually in our own bodies, and especially in our digestion. All manner of "solid" substances are dissolved in protoplasm and in blood. The peculiar power and character of biological processes is exemplified in the vulgar television commercial that shows fabric in which a hole has been burned by "concentrated stomach acid." The acid does not burn through the stomach, but is held in check by biological processes that are, at best, poorly understood.

Hydrochloric acid is formed in external nature by massive processes of volcanism - a happening that approaches in temperatures those applicable to the Kant-La Place ball-of-hot-gas theory. In the individual human being this acid is formed without our even being aware of it, at a modest 37° centigrade! Why do learned men avoid and evade the clear testimony of all manner of liquefaction in living processes? Wilhelm Reich has provided the answer to this chronic evasion of the essential and we will deal with this in due course.

Given the undoubted ability of organisms to liquify otherwise solid substances, it is but a short step to grasping Steiner's account of earlier epochs of the earth. One goes back not into sterility, but into an earth far more actively permeated with life than it is today. The farther one goes back, the more the earth seethes with life. Today's earth has grown cosmically old and mineralized, like a human octogenarian. Steiner takes us back in time to progressively more active life forces, and hence we can entertain the idea of a liquid state and farther back a gaseous state as a teeming center of life, whose nature is quite different to present earth life.

This "backward progression" allows soul and spirit forces to enter the evolution of an earth constituted differently from the present earth. We can easily conceive of an epoch where all would consist of energy only. In modern times, we have a crude counterpart of this type of life in our plasmatic creatures that dwell in the atmosphere. My pictures are heat pictures, and they show living organisms. (Trevor is here referring to his groundbreaking work in photographing living entities in the atmosphere using infra-red film and filters.)

With Anthroposophical knowledge, one works back through ever more active life processes. Soul and spirit are admitted. Ancient men discerned their workings in earlier epochs, and recorded their perceptions in what we now discard as myth. Kant-La Place starts with the moribund, cosmically old earth of today, and attempts to go back into deadness to find life. In Steiner's conceptions, life and change are endemic. The mechanists are the misguided men who deny life and try to kill change - especially change in their own conceptions.

Radical as Steiner's conceptions may seem, they actually do no violence to the facts natural science has determined concerning prior evolution. This must be seen as distinct from the judgements and theories attached to those facts. When Morley-Martin brought critters to life in miniature out of azoic rocks, it is only the prior assumption that those rocks predate life on earth is demolished. Knowledge and understanding are thus advanced by such original empirical findings.

That particular discovery, given new force and merit by the correlative Bavarian salt-cave discoveries mentioned earlier, permits science to go forward and embrace new truths. The men who are troubled and disoriented by such findings are those whose neurotic security is anchored in the old theories and the old knowledge. Their eventual passage from the scene is a certainty.

Meanwhile, such people control natural science and its reception systems. They ensure that the living, vibrant youth embarking upon higher education is biased and deadened beyond redemption. The price of getting a living in science is compliance with established practices and knowledge. Although sound when properly applied, this principle has been misused and is now a major instrumentality of intellectual corruption.

At every hand, therefore, the real innovators, the real discoverers and trailblazers work outside the scientific establishment. They have no option. Much of the fury of today's young arises from an intuitive sense of right and wrong about what is taught. The discoveries made by the scientific mavericks of this century are positively staggering. Every one of them is a hammer blow at the foundations of the old order.

Consider the dating techniques possible with radioactive carbon, for example. Immense authority attaches to these dating techniques. When Dr. Wilhelm Reich discovered the orgone energy, he also discovered in subsequent work that concentrations of this energy were capable of so decisively altering the half-life of radioactive substances as to corrupt the dating process completely. An earth more alive than at present would be an earth more intensely permeated with orgone energy -- life energy -- and thus all those lovely linear projections of the mechanists back into the past go straight down the drain! Reich's work in this area is cited here as an example of yet another empirical assault on scientific views that are mere beliefs.

Basic natural science will inevitably follow the lead given by the maverick innovators, equipping itself gradually with the new modes of thinking and cognition that at this time are congenital talents of the mavericks. A new empiricism will, in time, spring up to verify and objectify the fruits of such expanded cognition. Dr. Steiner was a sort of archetype of the scientist of the future, with the old primeval wisdom living within him in harmony with modern natural science. Man needs both scientific method and new access to cosmic processes in the age that came upon him with the UFOs.

The primeval wisdom should not be taken lightly or dismissed as mere myth. Archeological research continually makes startling discoveries of the human past. Aided by such modern techniques as paleomagnetism and archeomagnetism, the human past is continually being moved farther back. Powerful cultures are uncovered by modern techniques. In 1967, for example, the Hohokam culture in the American southwest was unearthed. Suddenly, it was learned that Americans before Christ had learned such amazing arts as the acid etching of ornaments and artifacts, and had created masterful irrigation systems. Every decade verifies the presence of intelligent humans on earth farther and farther back into the remote past before written records.

The artifacts of such remote cultures bespeak a more spiritualized man than walks the earth today. These men of old were not sundered from cosmic forces and powers, and they precipitated their perceptions of these cosmic forces and beings into the media then available, such as clay and wood. Today, we will proceed with similar precipitations, except that our media will be films of all kinds, videotapes, and wonders soon to be born. In all these spheres of thought and work, Steiner's indications earn new authority via scientific investigation. On every hand, what comes forth has intimate relevance to ufology.

Functioning with a different mode of consciousness, ancient human beings perceived and thought differently from us. We cannot think their thoughts today. A significant point must now be advanced. In this book we have shown how modern photochemistry, in combination with some knowledge of etherian physics and occult science, has objectified a range of form adjacent to and probably interpenetrating our own. This range of form contains typical UFO shapes.

This amoeba-like, invisible UFO, with nucleoli, vacuoles, and the general appearance of a unicellular organism from the microscopic world, was photographed by the author on August 25, 1957, in the Mojave Desert. The object was over the author's head, though not visible to the naked eye. Infrared film, sensitive beyond the range of human sight, was used, in a Leica G 35mm camera fitted with an 87 filter; exposure—f3.5, 1/30 second; development—microdol, twice normal.

Surely it is not a wild surmise or a preposterous notion that ancient, closer-to-the-spiritual humans might have directly perceived such forms -- lost to untrained modern consciousness and perceptions. There is powerful evidence that ancient people did perceive such forms. The evidence consists of an indelible and comprehensive record of their perceptions -- side by side with other records that in themselves verify what accurate observers and highly attuned artists these ancients were.

This evidence is in the form of cave drawings found in southwestern France and Cantabrian Spain, dating from 30,000 to 10,000 BC. There are some seventy-two of these painted caverns, and the hundreds of drawings of mammoths, bison, horses, ibex and other species are unequivocal proof that the Stone Age men who carved, painted and sculpted these forms were vibrantly functional in those aspects of soul and spiritual life that sustain and inspire art. Truly, it is an astonishing record. Amid the animals appears a full spectrum of UFO shapes that might well have been lifted directly from an official NICAP publication.

The distinguished French mathematician, Aime Michel, internationally renowned also as a serious UFO researcher, has dealt with this incredible paleolithic art exhibit at length, in an article entitled Paleolithic UFO Shapes. Published in the November-December 1969 issue of the Flying Saucer Review, the article is required reading for all serious students of ufology. Particularly is its content required by those who naively believe that UFOs have been involved in earth life only in relatively modern times.

Pointing out that we have no direct knowledge of the 700 or 800 human generations responsible for this art, the brilliant Michel emphasizes that these masterpieces are still today numbered among the high peaks of world art. Independently of what I have set down here regarding the perceptions of ancient men, Aime Michel describes his own reactions on visiting the caves:

"Entering the cave at Lascaux is like visiting the Parthenon or Sistine Chapel. Every time I have been there I have seen the same impressive spectacle: the crowd of visitors, chattering, passes into semi-darkness. And then the walls are lit up, and suddenly all is silence: 15,000 years after the deaths of those who painted them, the pictures still produce the effect of a sublime presence that imposes respect for its genius, and prompts us to meditation and contemplation. The men who fashioned these masterpieces may lie beneath the dust of the centuries; but at the very first glance we understand that, if there is something in us that escapes death, that something is there, on that white stone, and it will remain there until the end of the world."

Aime Michel is that rarest of scientific thinkers, the formally trained and accomplished man whose feeling world remains vitally alive. Thus we may see from the above quotation that the distinguished Frenchman was able to come into full contact with the spirit behind this paleolithic art. The scientist in him, however, does not dream or lose vigilance for a moment. Michel immediately raises - as a scientist surely must - the question of the degree of confidence that can be placed in the accuracy of these cave drawings. Since the animal forms are as well known to modern man as to the paleolithic artists - and they appear intermingled with the UFO forms - the accuracy of both is self-evident. Says Michel:

"A mere glance gives us the answer. It is art of an admirably representational quality. The painters at Lascaux, Rouffignac and Altamira possessed a sureness of vision and of execution that is comparable to the great painters of the Renaissance, and that, by its realism and its movement and at times even its humor, is greatly superior to all that has been bequeathed to us by the Classical and Near Eastern worlds of antiquity."

That ancient men saw and drew UFOs can therefore hardly be doubted, although as Michel points out in his article, it is only the UFO explanation of these otherwise unknown forms that is fantastic to the orthodox mind.

THE ORGONE ENERGY BLANKET

by KLARK KENT

They put Wilhelm Reich in jail... So he must have been pretty bad, a scientist put in prison, for his science; now that is a mark of distinction !
Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary, 1957: The discoverer of "The Force" is behind bars. It was no flash in the pan, it was a career of effort that landed Reich in the can.

First, there was that Orgone Box - naked people getting into that thing, it didn't even plug into the wall; some sort of sex machine or orgasm device that was supposed to produce "orgastic potency". Or cure everything from colds to cancer - a cure all as it were. Well, it didn't take the authorities long to put a stop to that sort of nonsense; we can't have people running around curing cancer now can we ?

Then, if that wasn't bad enough, there was this business shooting down flying saucers... That's right, flying saucers ! Clearly the man was insane and for his own good - and to protect the public from further depredations of this sort of charlatanism... Well, to make a long story short, Wilhelm Reich MD was sent to prison and there he died.

Today the name of Wilhelm Reich is used much to tote the effigacy of various West coast therapies: "Reichian" breathing, "Reichian" emotional release, "Neo-Reichian" body work. Sexual freedom revolutions, various degenerations of all kinds can find succor under the banner of Reich. Witness a recent leaflet seen in Berkeley, CA. near a popular new age watering hole (Fat Apples): "Marathon Anger Workshop - For Lesbians Only. Use Reichian Breathing And Discharge To Touch The Rage Within Us". But surely the discoverer of the primordial energy called "The Force" in the Star Wars movie, surely his crime was greater than to teach angry young women in undershirts to pound on pillows with tennis rackets.

The crime committed by the criminal was serious, thought crime as it were - and to magnify the gravity of the offense, the criminal taught others to follow his example. Reich was a man of substance, successful; he had a following, and his followers were medical doctors. It was unprecedented for a group of so highly placed men to collectively break the unwritten rules that govern our Judeo/Christain culture. The criminal was leading members of the herd out of the corral of sexual taboo established by the chosen ones of the Old Testament. Reich was shining the light of truth upon the fetters of sexual repression as established in the origins of Christainity. The crime of Reich was to lead others to the laws of Nature; the crime of Reich was to point the way out of the trap established by the heritage of circumcision, of guilt, and of shame.

A lonely solitary inventor, a crackpot in a basement Reich was not. With a modern well equipped laboratory on a 320 acre farm in Western Maine, Wilhelm Reich set up shop for the final act of a lifelong drama that was to lead to actual and literal Contact With Space.

Wilhelm Reich was a German Army combat veteran from the Great War. He grew up on a farm that was destroyed by the invading Russians and was left with little choice but to join the army. Four years later Reich found himself as a veteran in a defeated army of a defeated nation. He went to Vienna and enrolled in the University under the veteran's benefit program. Switching from Law to Medicine, Reich gravitated to the group of students gathered around Sigmund Freud.

So the background of Reich was forged in a hard school. First in war, then as a medical doctor. A scientist by training and profession - in the Western tradition of medical science, perhaps the most rigorous single course of study offered, that of a medical doctor (not a new age "healer" by a long shot). Chemistry, calculus, Latin, anatomy; the full medical training and degree from Vienna in 1922.

Wilhelm Reich M.D. very simply discovered... "the force" !

Wilhelm Reich first observed this universally present mass free energy as human sexuality. As a student of Freud, he had ample opportunity to observe and work with patients from all social classes in Europe. In the Communist party, Reich introduced ideas of sexual hygiene to alleviate working class neurotic suffering. Reich observed that a sexual dysfunction was present in every case of mental illness. As a student of Freud, Reich realized that the id, the libido, the unconscious force that motivates our lives; Reich realized from his observations that this energy was human sexuality. If we can span the breadth of Reich's career from our vantage point in more distant time, we realize that Reich's first discovery was the specific nature of the energy so eagerly sought by present day free energy enthusiasts such as Bearden, Bedini and Dollard.

In the Function of the Orgasm (1927), Reich published his discovery that the sexual embrace between male and female is an involuntary convulsion that regulates the living energy metabolism of the organism. Thus: specific knowledge of the living energy that is our life is of an emotional nature and not cognitive; it is not intellectual. This means that the energy popularized as "the force" in the Star Wars movie; this energy was discovered by Wilhelm Reich MD as human sexuality. The way that people specifically relate ("know God") to this mass free energy is through the genital embrace of the reproductive function - the creation of Life. (Sorry to the Gays, but you are left out).

Reich developed a new kind of therapy to address the repression that society puts upon the sexuality of people. The energetic metabolism of nearly everyone has the freely pulsating four beat rhythm replaced by a rigid condition that Reich called "armoring". Children are born and almost immediately the process of circumcision, of toilet training, of learning shame produce a condition that carries into adulthood whereby the person is unable to express emotion, unable to feel sensations strongly. Reich noticed that this condition of chronic muscular tension blocks the feelings of pleasurable sensations within the body. This continual tension of the organism was successful in repressing the original sexual feelings but it gave rise to the secondary drives: the twisted feelings that had to find an outlet through the rigidity of the armor. Reich's new method of therapy differed from the Freudians in that he attacked the resistances directly: with breathing, with manipulation of the body, with discharge of the held in secondary drive energies of anger and rage.

While Reich and his colleagues were successful in developing a new kind of therapy described in Character Analysis (1933); it is hopelessly inefficient to have every member of society undergo lengthy energetic therapy to restore a naturally present condition. The armoring process, once the person passes puberty, is essentially an irreversible condition. On the bright side, children are born unarmored and have a fair chance of growing up as Nature intended if they are not circumcised and traumatized first (not to mention aborted!).

Reich noticed that a loosening of conventional, Puritanical mores and taboos did not result in a natural expression of love. Rather, a loosening of the traditional norms of patriarchy resulted in all sorts of just awful secondary drives being released such as sadism, homosexuality, masochism, & perversion such as we may witness today in New York, San Francisco or in Hollywood movies. Reich observed these secondary drives in Russia & Germany and described them in The Mass Psychology of Fascism (1933).

Quite simply, Reich discovered that it will be a slow process to learn to live with knowledge of the Life Energy. As adults, we can endeavor to free ourselves somewhat from the ties that bind us to the old way of original sin. Our best and only practical chance is to try to raise our children without the yoke of the Judeo Christian heritage of the old testament. If we follow the fashion of the liberals and practice birth control and kill our children through abortion, then even that chance of moving into the new age will be lost to us.

Reich's career spanned three periods: the first period in Europe where he started his discoveries as a medical doctor working with the new science of psychoanalysis that was being led by Sigmund Freud; the second period in Scandinavia where he discovered the electrical aspects of this sexual energy in his experiments investigating the antithesis between pleasure and anxiety at the University of Oslo (1934-1936). In Scandinavia Reich also observed that biological preparations of organic matter would exhibit the now familiar four beat rhythm of tension, charge, discharge, and relaxation. This four beat pattern was first observed in the orgasm, now it was observed in laboratory preparations under microscopes of high power. In these experiments, published as The Bions (1938), Reich would take organic matter such as coal dust or fine sand or rust and heat it to incandescence in a gas flame; then the incandescent organic material would be put into a sterile nutritive solution. In other experiments, Reich would take organic material such as dry moss or dry grass and soak it in water after it had been sterilized. In both series of experiments, the organic matter that had been sterilized began to organize itself into vesicles and the vesicles of this sterilized organic matter would organize themselves into groups and the groups would surround themselves with membranes and begin to behave as protozoa. Reich named these laboratory made life forms, "bions". One day an accident occurred with a preparation of bions made from sand. Reich left a pair of rubber gloves next to some test tubes full of sand bions. He was amazed when the rubber gloves were placed on the stand of an electroscope and the leaves of the electroscope parted as if a strong electrostatic charge were present. It was true, the rubber gloves had been charged by the radiations emanating from the sand packet (SAPA) bions. Furthermore, the SAPA bions would fog photographic plates and Reich noticed that a large number of them would produce a sun-tan effect upon the human skin.

The third period of Reich's career was in the United States. Each discovery was based on and grew out of the previous work. Reich often delayed publication of a discovery until it had led to a new discovery based on the previous one. Each period of Reich's career was based on the work that preceded it. Today, we can look upon all of the different aspects of Reich's work and see a unity: that of the discovery of the Life Energy. In America, Reich invented a device to concentrate the ever present atmospheric life energy first observed in humans as sexuality, then observed in the laboratory preparations called bions. In a continuation of this article we will investigate the path of discovery more fully; for now we will discuss how to make and use the ORGONE ENERGY BLANKET:

The materials to make the Orgone Energy Blanket are 100 % wool and galvanized steel screen. Wool is the organic material and it is one of the very best organic materials due to its high relative surface area and its position on the food chain; only fur is better than wool for making Orgone Accumulators. The metallic material in the Orgone Accumulator Blanket may be any form of iron. Galvanized steel screen is the material of choice, though steel wool will work but it tends to be lumpy and the fibers can work their way through the organic layer and scratch the user. Aluminum and copper are poor materials to use for the metallic layers and should not be used because they produce "DORish" effects. (more about DOR next issue)

Here is how the accumulator of Life Energy works: the organic layer (100 % wool) attracts and holds the energy from the atmosphere; the metallic layer (galvanized steel screen) attracts, then repels the energy in both directions at once. The energy that is passed back to the organic layer stays there to be re-attracted back to the metallic layer. The inside metallic layer of the Orgone charging device continuously radiates this energy. One layer of organic material and one layer of metallic material constitute one layer of Orgone Energy Accumulator. This invention may be considered to be a component of "the force". As a resistor or a capacitor is a component of the energy called electricity, the Orgone Accumulator is a component of the sea of energy in which we live.

CROSS SECTION: THREE LAYER ORGONE ENERGY BLANKET

In construction, the outside wool layer is doubled to add thickness to this outermost organic layer. Each metallic layer of steel screen is composed of two pieces of screen doubled to add mass to the metallic layer. A sheet of plastic is added between the final two pieces of steel screen; this plastic serves as a moisture barrier. In use, the bare metallic layer faces the body of the subject.

ONE LAYER ORGONE ENERGY BLANKET:

- organic layer, 100 % wool
- metallic layer,
galvanized steel screen

The organic and metallic layers are clamped together and then sewn with an awl. The construction of an Orgone Energy Blanket is quite simple in theory. In practice, the first several attempts tend to be a little sloppy. A three layer Orgone Energy Blanket made from galvanized steel screen and 100 % wool is a morning's worth of work that yields a fascinating experimental life energy charging device. Some hardware stores still carry galvanized steel screen, (not aluminum); check the surplus stores for 100 % wool blankets. Tandy Leather carries sewing awls for heavy materials.

In use, the experimental subject lays beneath the Orgone Energy Blanket for a period of twenty to thirty minutes each day. The function of this device is to charge the organism with the atmospheric life energy. The device is dependant upon the energetic level of the user and the level and quality of charge of life energy in the atmosphere.

At this point it becomes necessary to state that the Orgone Energy Blanket must NEVER BE USED FOR HEALING OR MEDICAL PURPOSES ! There are two reasons for this: first - healing or medical use of this device is definitely illegal. second - healing or medical use of this device may give someone false hope and prevent them from receiving proper attention and care from a physician. Thus, only for experimental purposes, only for investigative purposes are these devices offered to individuals who wish to pursue this new knowledge.

A clear fresh blue sunny day is ideal weather to use the Orgone Energy Blanket. Deep free breathing on a cold mountain morning invigorates the body and freshens the spirit. Feeling the streamings and the tingling of pleasure. Warmth, relaxation, reddening in the face, a tension of building charge - these are some of the subjective impressions that are felt, these are the feelings (not thoughts !) that users of the Orgone Blanket have reported. Sleeping under the Orgone Blanket is not recommended; when the subject falls asleep under this charging device, an overcharge results which prevents one from going back to sleep. The length of time of use depends upon the person and the conditions; when the user feels a certain irritability, when the subject becomes restless laying under the Orgone Blanket, then it is time to stop. Restlessness, irritability - these are symptoms of overcharge and indicate that the person has reached their saturation point. Thus the length of time beneath the Orgone Blanket will vary between different people depending upon individual levels of initial charge and atmospheric conditions.

The Orgone Accumulator Blanket not only concentrates the Life Energy from the atmosphere upon the experimental subject, it reflects back the living energy of the subject. Of the two energetic systems, the Orgone Accumulator and the human organism, the human organism is the stronger of the two. Life energy, like gravity, flows from the weaker to the stronger source. Thus the energy flows from the accumulator to the body of the subject. This orgonomic potential is opposite from that of heat or mechanical energy, which flows from the stronger to weaker.

Super Science offers for sale a three layer Orgone Energy Blanket for $160-. This Life Energy charging device is made according to the description given in this article. The innermost metallic layer is made from type 304 stainless steel screen instead of the usual galvanized steel because the stainless steel material resists the moisture given off by the body. The three layer Orgone Blankets measure 52" by 24" and carry a 30 day refund guarantee if the user is not satisfied for any reason. Complete safety and operating instructions are included with these powerful three layer flexible Orgone Energy Accumulator Blankets. It is too much to present the career of Wilhelm Reich in one article. Briefly, the discoverer of the Life Energy started out his career as a student of Freud in Vienna after the first world war. The second period of Reich's work was in Scandinavia where he discovered the bioelectrical aspects of human sexuality. This led to work with single celled organisms called bions that were observed to radiate this living energy. The final period of Reich's career of discovery was in America where he invented the Orgone Accumulator, discovered the relationship between Life Energy and nuclear radioactivity (The Oranur Experiment), invented the cloudbuster, and finally turned his attention towards a new phenomena: the UFO's.

Those of us who are positive, knowledge-seeking individuals of the New Age understand that most problems of the world have very simple and easy solutions. But so often, common misconceptions of the nature of the problems blinds people to the solutions. Many of us know, through personal experience, of the effectiveness -- especially in healing -- of alternative technologies. Yet the majority of people are totally unaware of these alternatives. Indeed the majority of people accept as normal, problematic states of affairs that are totally unnecessary. Why do so many accept war, famine, disease, poverty, inflation, taxes and so many other forms of suffering and oppression? Why are so many people on going-nowhere paths, feeling helpless and powerless, feeling that everything is being done to them; that they can make no positive change in the world? Why do they fail to see the beneficial alternatives that we know exist? An understanding of this may be found in MIND CONTROL IN THE UNITED STATES by Steven Jacobson.

In this new book, Steven Jacobson examines the concept that manipulation of the way people think has become quite a refined art and that a ruling class/establishment makes extensive use of this to maintain the status quo. (The author focuses in on the Council of Foreign Relations, the Bilderbergers and the International Monetary Fund as the ruling class/establishment. Although it seems a little simplistic as presented by the author, much has already been written convincingly demonstrating that these groups are at least a substantial part of a power elite.) This manipulation involves hypnosis, propaganda and mental programming. Mental programming is explained as; distracting the conscious mind, then programming the naked subconscious through repetition of an idea. The technique is used in music, TV, radio and movies.

The movie Reefer Madness is one of the better examples. This 1936 movie, while full of half-truths and lies about the dangers of marijuana, at the same time subliminally encouraged young people to try marijuana. Consequently, while legislation was being passed against marijuana, there was a simultaneous growth of interest in trying marijuana. Almost overnight a big source of revenue was created for law enforcement and organized crime.

Mr. Jacobson also points out excellent examples of language manipulation that seem to be right out of Orwell's 1984. But this "news-speak" was out of the Nixon administration during the Viet Nam War. Examples include calling bombing missions "protective reaction strikes," a refugee camp a "new life hamlet" and the American invasion of Cambodia an "incursion."

Other subjects discussed in MIND CONTROL include: Communism and the peculiarity of Western governments claiming to oppose it while at the same time exporting technology and economic assistance to the Soviets, Christian fundamentalist TV preachers and their precision at manipulation, Occult knowledge and church suppression of it, parapsychology and the CIA's keen interest, and the CIA's interest in hallucinogenic drugs.

Jacobson does not go into great depth on most of the subjects but brings them together to form an excellent outline of the field of mind control. Most importantly, the book sounds a strong warning: There are powerful groups exerting great effort -- through devious and covert means -- at controlling our thinking. That means suppressing alternative thinking that threatens the existing power structure. That so many people cannot see positive alternatives to world dilemmas, or cannot even imagine that world dilemmas are so often created and maintained by establishment forces to perpetuate their own control, would seem to indicate that Jacobson's theory is correct and the manipulators are having great success. We do, however, get the message from MIND CONTROL that we can reverse the process by informing ourselves and informing others. (This book itself is a step in that direction.)

"Knowledge is power." "They" know that this is true. So "they" try to monopolize knowledge and ration it out to us canned, filtered, processed and diluted. But "they" need our apathy. Let's not give it to "them."

MIND CONTROL IN THE UNITED STATES has an excellent bibliography for those wishing to do further research.

THANK YOU, MR. CLEMENS

"A God who could make good children as easily as bad, yet preferred to make bad ones; who could have made every one of them happy, yet never made a single happy one; who made them prize their bitter lives; yet stintingly cut it short; who gave his angels eternal happiness unearned; yet required his other children to earn it; who gave his angels painless lives, yet cursed his other children with biting miseries and maladies of mind and body; who mouths justice and invented hell - mouths mercy and invented hell - mouths golden rules, and forgiveness multiplied seventy times seven, and invented hell, who mouths morals to others and has none himself; who frowns upon crimes, yet commits them all; who created man without invitation, then tries to shuffle the responsibility for man's acts upon man, instead of honorably placing it where it belongs, upon himself; and finally, with altogether divine obtuseness, invites this poor slave to worship him."

RADIONICS IN POLAND

"Let me introduce myself. I am Zbigniew Wisniewski, from Szczecin, Poland, and I am a radiesthesist. I run a service shop for individual customers. The range of the services I carry out includes all activities in the field of radiesthesia e.g.:

- a) demarcation of construction sites
- b) searching for wells, mineral resources - coal, oil, etc.
- c) protecting flats, offices, etc. from harmful radiation of water veins
- d) Radiesthetic diagnosis of health condition

"I am interested in everything related to man, cosmos, life, health, death. That is why I dare to write you; I have some valuable information. I have an insulator I successfully use - it insulates rooms perfectly, regardless of the intensity of cations. It suppresses not only the water vein radiation but the radiation of electrical appliances (e.g. TV set). I think that hospitals, kindergartens and the like should be protected first. The range of the insulator is 24m, 72m and up to a few hundred m.

"I undertake any jobs connected with my occupation. since I am a teleradiesthetist, I work with maps, plans etc. Teleradiesthesia is superior to radiesthesia - the time and distance do not matter. I also carry out the expertise of health condition when I have a relatively new photograph of a person and I recomend the food to enable recovery from any disease. It may seem improbable but it is true and I can prove it with any test.

"Now I would like to write something about diseases. The movement of macrobioticians expands constantly. At present there are as many as a few thousand cures of illnesses called 'incurable.' The question is: What caused these cures? or: What is the cause of disease? The answer seems simple to me - if the effect (an illness) may be cured with food - food is the cause of an illness! The civilization of our age has made people eat anything, anyhow and anywhere!! If we add to that the enormous use of chemicals in the fields, forests and food - I claim that we tend directly towards self-extermination!

"I took to phytotherapy, the way indicated by the so-called 'folk' medicine.

"As I am not a doctor (and I never intended to be one), what I do began spontaneously. I started to treat man from the befinning, from the very basis and after having made about 1000 expertises, the real state of affairs began to emerge. I claim on my own responsibility that I know the causes of all diseases - the 'incurable' ones like cancer and AIDS! Moreover - after a number of tests and experiments I have obtained a medicine for cancer! The secret is very simple and due to its simplicity is very difficult to be discovered. The doctors whom I talked to explicitly claim that, if what I say were true, the discovery would revolutionize the medicine in the whole world.

"I concluded that the time had come to share my discovery with open-hearted people, who care about the state of health of our civilization. This is why I dare to write this letter. The subject is, obviously, too extensive to be discussed in a short letter.

"I would like also to mention that I am able to cure AIDS, at least the initial stage although you never know when you can help and to what degree. I will be grateful for sending me some addresses of clinics that deal with the disease and also those that do research on cancer. I want also to say that if you send me a photograph of an ill person, I may send a complete expertise. After getting in contact with such a person I may send a medicine which I believe is indispensable in the treatment.

"Send me, please, a few photos for trial.

"So if you or your colleagues are interested in what I say here, please be so kind and contact me on the phone or by the letter.

"Sincerely yours," ELF AND COLOR

"I'm a recent subscriber to your Journal and I really like it, especially the issues with home-brew projects in them.

"In your March-April 1986 issue you asked for information on ELF as it relates to color. I've done some research in that area. My inner plane spiritual guide gave me the color correspondences and another person with psychic sight verified them as correct also.

Red	= 33 Hz	Blue Green	= 5.00 Hz
Orange	= 21 Hz	Blue	= 4.57 Hz
Yellow	= 14 Hz	Blue Violet	= 2.00 Hz
Yellow Green	= 7.83 Hz	Violet	= 1.00 Hz
Light Green	= 6.53 Hz*	Violet Red	= 0.911 Hz

*6.53 Hz is what emanates from the top of a pyramid.

"Thus, ELF can be used for color healing and a pyramid energy device besides brainwave entrainment.

"Also, I found a quick way to determine the polarity of a magnet without using a compass. I held a rather large rectangular magnet up to my color TV screen and noticed one side had predominantly cool colors and the opposite side had predominantly hot colors which can easily be seen without psychic vision. As a result of doing that, it threw off the color on my TV set and I had to make several passes with the magnet to get the color back to normal. But it was worth it to see a verification of why a magnet could reduce swellings on one side and encrease energy on the other." Roger Hudd, Buena Park, CA.

Thanks, Roger, but you didn't mention which side of the magnet was hot and which was cold. I tried this with several magnets but could get no definitive results. All I got was blue and violet, with distance being more of a factor than the pole of the magnet.

EEG ENTRAINMENT?

There has been quite a bit of talk over the last few years about the use of ELF waves being used for EEG (brainwave) entrainment. Since we began making the JLN-Bio-Pacer series of ELF devices available for research I have received quite a bit of feedback on them. The response has been about 90% favorable, with people swearing by the units as the best protection they have ever found and those who say that the units didn't do anything. My own subjective feelings from using the Bio-Pacer is that the 4.9 Hz setting has proven to be very beneficial in getting to sleep after a busy day. The 14.0 Hz setting has helped on long drives to San Francisco. The other settings have no noticeable effect, though we have tested the effect via kinesiology and the body definitely reacts favorably.

Associate Christopher Hegarty of Novato, California took his unit to the University of California, Santa Clara, where resides some of the most advanced bio-feedback monitoring equipment made. He got no entrainment whatsoever, while being isolated in a Faraday cage with the unit. He has noticed favorable effects in Jet-Lag reduction with the 7.83 Hz unit.

So this has led me on the trail of whether or not these units incite entrainment. Associate Ray Beeson and his friend Ismael came by the office the other day with a Autogen 120 Encephalograph (EEG) Analyser, made by Autogenic Systems, Inc. We tested a variety of ELF devices using both the JLN no-magnetic-output antenna to several units with coils emitting electromagnetic waves, such as the Mood Enhancer and Ed Skilling's discontinued 7,83 pacer. We got absolutely no change in brainwave patterns from these devices. However we were able to subjectively notice effects and also use a pendulum to test reaction.

The verdict was unanimous that the devices do effect the person in some way. If anyone reading this knows how EEG entrainment is measured (perhaps we are using the wrong equipment) then please drop a line. We are also ready to test any device or method of entrainment that is offered. So far meditation is the only workable method we know of.

We have also recieved several reports that ELF devices cause cancer, and some that they cure cancer, depending on the frequency. All reports of this nature have proven to be very vague. If any cancer was manifest from an ELF device then it most likely was the "hard" component of the EM wave which the JLN-Bio-Pacer series antenna was designed to eliminate. Please supply us with any information along these lines if you have any. No goof stories, please, just some real facts derived from serious research.

One more effect that I have noticed is that when using the 4.9 Hz setting for sleep, I have had some very lucid dreams connected with the double spiral antenna. I have seen the antenna work in the dream-state, but this is purely subjective. The 4.9 Hz setting on the Mood Enhancer actually keeps me awake via a subtle irritation. It is very noticeable and is the reason for development of the JLN antenna. The 125 Hz and the 250 Hz settings on the Mood Enhancer work quite well in keeping the office active. Yup, these devices do work, but how can we measure them??

We will keep you posted on any developments.

U.S. jets sent in pursuit

Brazilians spot UFOs

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Multicolored UFOs the size of Ping-Pong balls were seen in the skies over Brazil on Monday and the government sent fighter jets to chase them, the air force minister said on television.

"Because they saturated our radar system in Sao Paulo and because they were interfering with air traffic, it was decided to send up planes to pursue them," Brigadier Gen. Otavio Moreira Lima said Wednesday.

The air force immediately dispatched four fighter jets — two Mirages and two F-5s — to find the unidentified flying objects, which the Air Space Defense Center had located over the cities of Sao Paulo, Sao Jose dos Campos and Rio de Janeiro. One of the F-5 pilots reported seeing objects that he said were multicolored, Moreira Lima said, adding, "He reported that 13 of these objects accompanied his aircraft, seven on one side of his jet and six on the other side."

Another pilot described the objects as "the shape and size of a Ping-Pong ball flying at a speed of (840 miles)," TV Globo, the country's leading news network, reported Wednesday.

The air force jets, which also picked up the UFOs on their radar screens, tracked them for almost three hours, but had to turn back when the planes started to run out of fuel, reported TV Manchete, another leading news network.

"I can't give an explanation for this because we don't have any," said Moreira Lima.

Cop spots UFO near Petaluma

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — More than a dozen people said they saw a mysterious UFO racing across the pre-dawn sky north of San Francisco on Thursday — a strange X-shaped craft with blinking lights that hovered above the hills of Sonoma County before speeding away into the dark.

A California Highway Patrol officer who declined to be named and radio station KTOB News Director Arlette Cohen were among those who reported spotting the strange craft at about 4:30 a.m. PDT between the cities of Petaluma and Sonoma about 40 miles north of here.

The sighting came on the heels of reports of pingpong-ball-sized multi-colored UFOs crowding radar screens in Sao Paulo, Brazil. The government scrambled jet fighters to intercept the tiny objects, and two pilots said they saw the objects flying nearby.

"I saw these two white lights to the east," Ms. Cohen said, estimating the craft was about 1,000 feet in the air. She said she noticed the UFO when it crossed to the west side of the highway, and "hovered almost stock-still ... for a few seconds."

Ms. Cohen said she was driving to work at her Petaluma station, northbound on U.S. 101, and made the sighting shortly before reaching Petaluma.

When the craft crossed the highway once again, she said she saw two "tiny green lights" glowing faintly on the side opposite the two bright white lights. She said she could hear no sound coming from the craft.

Blade-Tribune

As you can see by the above clippings, UFOs are still making the newspaper. This is a rare occurrence in the daily newspapers, though sightings still go on. Both of these sightings do not conform to the 'Flying Saucer' stereotype. The Petaluma sighting appears to be some sort of craft, but the Brazilian sighting of 'Ping-Pong' ball UFOs seems more on the line of Trevor Constable's 'critters.'

These two sightings show that there is not a single origin for these objective phenomena. The work of the late Thomas Townsend Brown, in electro-gravitic propulsion, shows that our government was into seeing if they could get operating ships. The work of Viktor Schauberger, with his implosion turbine, show that there are several potential powerplants available to make 3-D ships a reality. There are probably many different types of craft which have been assembled on this planet, both in the recent and distant past. There is, however, a source outside of our physical 3-D reality.

ETHER SHIPS

In the Bible we find mention of mysterious phenomena leading people around. In Exodus 13:21-22 it says, "And the Lord went before them by day in a pillar of a cloud, to lead them the way; and by night in a pillar of fire, to give them light; to go by day and night; He took not away the pillar of the cloud by day, nor the pillar of fire by night, from before the people."

A quite similar reference is found in myths of the Hopi Indians. Hopi history goes back through three worlds previous to this one. Various changes occurred between worlds which are similar to 'polar shifts' or 'moon falls.' Records of the last change-over exist in the Bible as the Flood.

The Hopi Indians describe how the earth is formed the same as the human body. "Through each ran an axis, man's being the backbone, the vertebral column, which controlled the equilibrium of his movements and his functions. Along this axis were several vibratory centers which echoed the primordial sound of life throughout the universe or sounded a warning if anything went wrong." (Book of the Hopi, Frank Waters, Penguin Books, 40 West 23rd St., NY, NY 10010). The myth goes on to describe the top five chakras, known in Eastern traditions, and gives mention of the Crown chakra as the "open door" at the top of the head.

I quote some more from the Book of the Hopi, concerning activities taking place at the end of the First World. "Said Sotuknang, (the physical, or finite, aspect of the Creator) 'You will go to a certain place. Your Kopavi (vibratory center on top of the head) will lead you. This inner wisdom will give you the sight to see a certain cloud, which you will follow by day, and a certain star, which you will follow by night. Take nothing with you. Your journey will not end until the cloud stops and the star stops.'

"So all over the world these chosen people suddenly disappeared from their homes and people and began following the cloud by day and the star by night. Many other people asked them where they were going and, when they were told, laughed at them. 'We don't see any cloud or any star either!' they said. This was because they had lost the inner vision of the kopavi on the crown of their head; the door was closed to them. Still there were a very few who went along anyway because they believed the people who did see the cloud and the star. This was all right.

THE END OF TIME

"After many days and nights the first people arrived at the certain place. Soon others came and asked, 'What are you doing here?' And they said, 'We too were led here by the vapor and the star!' They were all happy together because they were of the same mind and understanding even though they were of different races and languages.

"When the last ones arrived Sotuknang appeared. 'Well, you are all here, you people I have chosen to save from the destruction of this world. Now come with me.'"

The Book of the Hopi goes on to tell of how the people enter the realm of the Ant People, a clear reference to the Hollow Earth, or cavern world. After the surface of the earth is reformed, the people emerge to the light of day and the darkness of night. The symbol for the Emergence is the labyrinth, known in Initiatory Sciences as the archetype of our maze-like spatio-temporal reality impressed on the uninitiated. When Initiation occurs, the Labyrinth transforms into the Mandala (or Medicine Wheel) and the pattern of Life becomes apparent.

The Emergence between worlds is the story of the Initiatory stages of our planet Earth. The distant spacing of legends relating to guidance during times of crisis by clouds, stars and pillars of fire shows that there is validity to these mythical-historical records. We also get a glimpse of the primal archetype for UFOs.

QABALISTIC 'ONION'

QABALISTIC INTERPENETRATIONS

Many differing theories of the Qabalah exist. It appears to me that there is no way of putting the 'Tree of Life' on paper. It can only be experienced! I favor the analogy of an onion. The various realms exist as the layers of the onion. The primal form of the universe is a sphere, formed from opposing vortices.

Anyone working on drawing a parabolic or hyperbolic curve will find that it involves bending a line to conform to sequential layers of space. From this we can understand that shape of the UFOs is related to their origin and function.

You say that some of these ships are from other planets! I say that the other planets and stars are 'layers of the onion' but appear to be distant worlds because we mostly only comprehend the mechanics of this vibratory level.

We are not concerned with those who choose to waste their breath debunking all facets of UFOs. (Though many cases have been shown to be outright frauds). Those whose 'block of consciousness' denies anything out of recent experiential learning will not believe what they refuse to believe. Logic dictates the simplicity of that mindset. While they are waiting for someone to 'prove' to them that UFOs exist, they will die without the 'proof', that they wouldn't accept anyway.

The fact that life swarms through the universe is driven home by the understanding of the infra-red photos of Trevor Constable. A perusal of the evidence on UFOs will show that they range from living entities to nut-n-bolts craft to angelic and demonic energies. No one answer will satisfy the phenomena unless we accept that Creation is that which manifest all from nothing, in grades of density.

CYCLES AND DENSITIES

The four-fold pattern of Creation exists in many forms. I have not been able to discern the interconnections of the various forms, but I can clearly see the pattern of four.

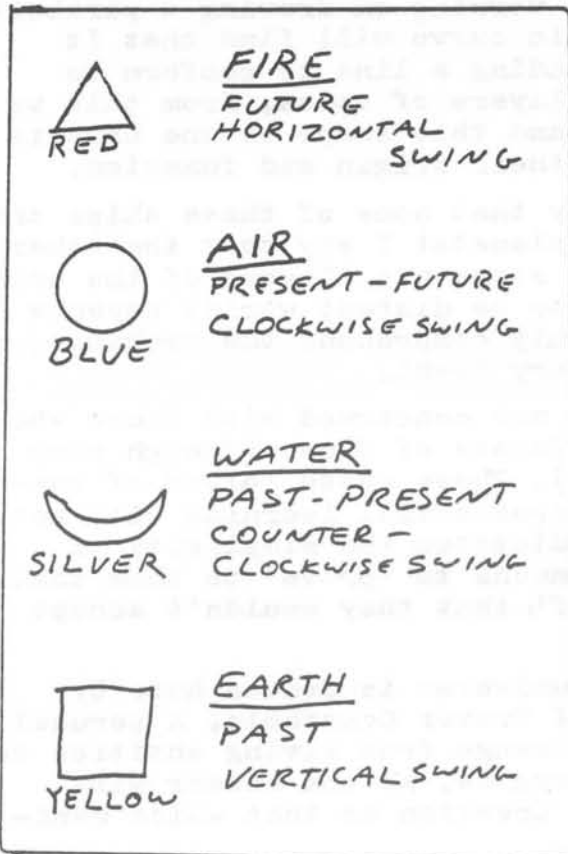

In the Tibetan Mandala (one of many) we see the primal path of the sun. The opening of the Mandala is the Eastern section, colored blue, which resonates with the dawn sun. The Southern section, yellow, is the sun overhead at noon. The Western quadrant, red, is the setting sun. And the Northern corner is the mid-night sun, green.

SOLAR MANDALA

This same pattern, with different colors and orientations, appears in Native American culture as the Medicine Wheel. The complex ramifications of the levels of interaction which these patterns manifest will not be covered here. We are concerned with the formation of our earth, and the proper balance of energy upon this living sphere.

Mandalas and similar symbols are representations of the four ancient elements Earth, Water, Air and Fire. Ether is the higher energy from which the four take form. Rudolph Steiner, Dr. Guenther Wachsmuth, Trevor Constable and others have written about the formative ethers. More on their work in this area will be in upcoming Journals. For now I would like to deal with the ethers as I first understood them.

THE TIME SPHERE

In various Tibetan texts (the real texts, not the channelled Masters) I read references to the KalaChakra. I could never figure out exactly what was being spoken of until I examined the etymology of the word. Kali - Goddess of Time, Kala, Calender; Chakra - wheel; hence - Time - Wheel.

There is a practice known as the Tattwa Vision. In this practice the four elements (or ethers) are given shapes and colors. By meditating on one of the Tattwas one can trigger visions of that elemental field. My studies included assigning time-fields to the Tattwas. The picture at left shows the pattern I was working with.

If the Tattwas can cause visions to arise from deep layers of the psyche then there must be some radiation, or connection between subject and object. I tested the Tattwas with a pendulum and got the results shown.

PATTERN OF LIFE

The results of my pendulum analysis of the Tattwas presented a picture of how energy forms into matter. The word Tantra gets a bit of use these days. Its root meaning is 'web' or 'net.' A primal lattice work in this context can be seen as two fields moving 90° to each other. This pattern is shown in the readings from Fire and Earth. (+) These are the archetype of the flows of time. There is no present, the flow is carrying us constantly. The fields of Past-Present and Present-Future intermingle to create the illusion of present. The P-P and P-F are opposing spins.

'Acceptable' occultism deals mainly with the Tree of Life. The Roots of the tree are never explored and rot beneath the veneer of Modern Occultism. To me, bringing in the 'New Age' entails a massive restructuring of the way of life on this planet. A glossy shellac over the old will not do. The plant must be properly potted!

During high-frequency plasma experiments with a Tesla Magnifying Transmitter, Eric Dollard has shown me that there is a conjugate spark intertwined with the visible discharge. This dark spark is conveying the energy from the ether, through the TMT, and into the earth. This phenomenon emanates from the Quadrants of Growth, which are not in present electro-magnetic theory. The pattern of the TMT discharge is congruent to the Tree and it's Roots, and to the readings from the Water and Air Tattwas.

The pattern of life can be understood in many ways. I favor the observation of Nature over theories on paper. The acceptance of Yin and Yang as equals allows us access to the One.

IMPLOSION GARDEN

In the January-February 1986 JBR we reprinted the article "Integration of the Lifeblood of the Earth" by E.V. Wilmont Ware from the November 1953 "PENDULUM." The article, describing how to construct a garden that produces beneficial life energies, looked so good that we took shovel in hand and dug ourselves a garden. I termed the project "Implosion Garden."

My wife, Alison, planted the garden on the day before the first full moon after Easter. According to Steiner this is the most opportune day for planting all year. The garden is broken into four quadrants. The East is the Airy quadrant and gets the leafy plants such as lettuce and celery. The South is the Fiery quadrant and gets corn. The West is the Watery quadrant and gets cantelopes, cucumbers and watermelon. The North is the Earthy quadrant and gets the root plants such as onion, garlic and carrots.

The South quadrant is doing the best, with the corn growing over four feet in a little over a month. The plants nearer to the center of the garden grow better. This may be because I planted a crystal about five feet under the surface. The overall effect of the garden is that all our other plants in the area seem to respond to the energies focused in this living mandala.

LIVING SPHERE

The Implosion Garden is one aspect of the Living Sphere project, which is basically a program of directing our energies into work that will benefit Mother Earth. The vision of Viktor Schauberger is the inspiration for this project.

Another aspect of the LS project is the publication of material oriented toward natural energies. In the late 1940s and early 50s Meade Layne issued a separate journal titled "The Flying Roll." In the same manner Borderland is now issuing "The Living Sphere." This publication will deal with more esoteric aspects of our work. The first issue contains articles on the Guardians of Earth and the genocide of native peoples, Occult Healing via the Chakras, Ancient Knowledge, Karma and an article on Viktor Schaubergger including astrological data on his life's work. The Living Sphere is to be issued at random and without warning. Issue #1 is available now for $4.44 post paid, overseas airmail add $1 extra (US funds).

ENERGY UNLIMITED

The etheric formative forces of the universe are a living example of perpetual motion. Our present civilization derives its power from decaying forces and the energies thrown off are desecrating the earth. Nature gives us unlimited energy if we can perceive her correctly. If we can create technology mirroring the three-dimensional patterns of growth then the two-dimensional death technology we now use will become obsolete.

A very good source of information on beneficial technology is Energy Unlimited, edited by Walter Baumgartner and Rhetta Jacobson. Their current issue (#21) is a well layed out voyage through the patternings of natural energy. They draw on the work of Walter Russell, Viktor Schaubergger and others, including the nuts-n-bolts research of Mr. Baumgartner himself. The information they put out can be used to develop working models, physical manifestations of the mind's view of nature.

To those seriously interested in developing implosion turbines, and other such apparatus of Vortexian Mechanics, Energy Unlimited is a must. They also publish "Theory of the Magnocraft", by Dr. Jan Pajak. This book gives instructions for building a small flying craft. I have not had the time to read this book yet, but I have had feedback from Associates who have read it, and it is a very serious book. The theory applies only to the laws and physical phenomena that are already known and accepted by science.

Energy Unlimited is available for $120 per year from PO Box 35637 Station D, Albuquerque, NM 87176. The Theory of the Magnocraft is available for $35 from the same address.

GOLDEN RATIO UPDATE

In the last issue of this Journal we presented the Golden Ratio Antennas for research. Our first run of these antennas is almost gone and we lowered the price by spreading the start-up costs over more units. The current price is $90 a pair or $50 single. The antennas were originally designed for Multi-Wave Oscillator research, but are being used for the cleansing emanations they produce. Out of the first 25 made, only one that I know of is hooked to a MWO, and that is here at headquarters. A friend of ours took a 15 minute treatment with this MWO and she said that the last time that she felt like that was when she meditated in the Great Pyramid! Similar results have been reported by Associates using them without power.

I have heard that electricity was considered a fallen ether by Rudolph Steiner. I don't know the exact reference to this, but it certainly makes sense. These antennas seem to produce an orgone-like effect in the area surrounding them. My first impression when we got the antennas was a cool breeze emanating from the antenna. Orgone usually is understood as heating up, and feeling warmth. Trevor Constable has presented that orgone is the Chemical Ether (we will undertake these ethers in the next issue) which is related to the water system of the planet. Other facets of this living etheric energy may produce cooling effects. This is just speculation and research has to be done. I'm just laying out some observations.

MWO INSIGHTS

It is my feeling that any apparatus used to heal are unnecessary. They may provide a physical grounding of the energies, but are not the means to an end. True healing comes from the energies of life. Wilhelm Reich discovered how to concentrate the living energy of the universe. The Yogic sciences teach us how to accumulate this energy without any outside apparatus. Since our society is not on the path of nature some people need these devices such as the MWO and Rife Ray Tube instruments. It is my job as Director of BSRF to investigate in this area. The simpler and more passive a device is, the closer it is to nature. Perhaps the MWO produces an ether compression which stimulates the cells favorably, however it does it by 'hard driving' the energies.

In this light I quote from a letter by Trevor Constable:

"The MWO I regard as a false path. The cellular Stimulation theories sound and seem good because they are mechanistic, and therefore sympathetic with the mechanistic weltanschauung. With the MWO you can avoid the etheric -- or so it seems -- and therefore those who feel adrift in the etheric ocean cling to things like this. Healing is one hundred percent an etheric problem. Any dysfunction or hyperfunction not caused by direct trauma has to be tackled via the ether body, and even the direct traumas respond best to etheric correction, such as getting the displaced double back into occlusion through the use of arnica compresses, etc., etc. In between the MWO antennas, there is a general marshaling or focus of light and chemical ethers. It's quite evident even with a minor extension of vision. This is the healing agency, not the sparks. The ether rushes to suppress the EM activity, and because it is low power, the ether accumulates around the spirals and in between them. Any stricken area placed in such a high concentration of formative energy, is going to respond with a return towards normal. BUT, why go to all that trouble when a simple orgone blanket -- a layered structure that can be directly applied to a traumatized or dysfunctional area -- does a much more efficient, controllable job without that infernal juice. In my time with Ruth Drown, I heard it over and over again, and I pass it on to you: keep that 115V juice away from the organism. The post material EM energy is life negative, but no one seems to feel that they can get results unless they INJECT the alien EM activity into the stricken carcass. It's pure ignorance really. My own experience with orgone accumulators and blankets leaves me with no other choice but to regard the MWO as superfluous. A good rule for any experimenter: If it gets simpler, you are on the right track. Remember always Steiner's dictum: "the spirit of man is always healthy".....it is the obstruction or dysfunction in the lower sheaths that distorts the manifestation of the spirit and personality via the body."

SEARCHING FOR AN ANSWER

Trevor brings up a very important insight into the research being done here. We have been pursuing the most beneficial way to regenerate living systems with "post material EM energy." In this course we have looked into the MWO and the Rife Ray Tube instrument, which is capable of eliminating viral diseases from the body. I agree that the orgone technology is a more preferred way of balancing the body, but it seems that an outbreak of a viral disease such as AIDS could be eliminated far quicker with the Rife apparatus. We don't live in an ideal world, and there are different answers for different people.

I am currently using an orgone blanket from Klark Kent. When I use a MWO there is no noticable effect, while the orgone blanket definitely gives energy. I can feel the warmth, and I only use it on clear sunny days - outdoors. The orgone blanket will attract DOR (Deadly Orgone Radiation) just as easily as OR (orgone). There have been some heavy DOR clouds over Vista for the past week, so I have used the blanket very little lately. The orgone is actually the only true "free energy" that can be measured and reproduced.

All we can do is keep open minds and keep searching. There is no pinnacle to reach, life itself is the goal. If we follow natural patterns then our lives will flower. Sometimes, though, mechanical rigging must carry us across some streams of energy. When this occurs, the artificial should mirror the natural. Deal with what you have at hand.

BECHAMP OR PASTEUR?

"As to the Rife experiments with light in treating cancer based on the changing of forms of bacterias, etc., I would like to point out that this last is not a discovery as already in the XIXth century, Antoine Bechamp discovered so but his work was canceled from officialdom by the ambition of Pasteur in being the 'recognized one.' On this subject see BECHAMP ou PASTEUR by E. Douglas Hume, available in French from: Les Editions Des Neiges, 7960A, St. Denis, Montreal, Quebec, CANADA H2R 2G1."

"BIO-ELECTRIC/MAGNETIC IONIC STABILIZER"tm

"You are the salt of the Earth, You are the Kingdom of God. If that salt has lost it's flavor, you ain't got much in your favor..."

The above is much more than words of a song from the Broadway musical or movie "GODSPELL." Sodium chloride (ole-fashion table salt - NaCl) is the finest conductor of electricity through water on our planet. The human body usually contains 65-80% water.

The sodium ionic charge in human systems appears to be the greatest casualty in modern civilized living. The sodium charge is easily knocked out or neutralized by artificial lighting, certain types of music and other sounds, food additives, artificial preservatives & dyes, micro-wave ovens, computer terminals, coffee, excess heat on hot summer days, negative thinking... the list goes on and on. "Psychic Vampires" or "Energy Leeches" often 'zap' the sodium charge from unsuspecting humans - temporarily.

It is essential that the sodium ionic charge operate at optimum frequency within the human frame for the individual to maintain balance/centeredness. This allows the physical body to transmute lithium which is the basic foundation from which all other matter is transmuted in adequate supply.

The BIO-E/M IONIC STABILIZERtm contains a combination of four mineral crystals including a lithium compound, which insures the body will retain an optimum charge if kept within three feet of one's aura. Carried in shirt or pants pocket allows excellent results. Use in right or left pocket, or both - for stronger protection. Exposure to direct sunlight for 10 minutes, twice a month, will allow the STABILIZER to function for one's highest and best good - indefinitely.
