Will the Silver Shirts Decide American Affairs in 1934?

THE YEAR 1933 is about to become a memory. At midnight of December 31st it takes its place with scores of other years, hectic with American history in the making or on the march. Already it has produced events of major significance, trending toward those awesome climaxes long forecast by Biblical and Great Pyramid prophecy.

It is fitting and proper to pause a moment and give more than conventional attention to what has transpired or is about to be realized.

These forecasts have declared that within definite months, events of national and international importance are going to bring about unprecedented changes in the social, economic, and political affairs of men.

At the present moment, as humanity stands on the threshold of 1934, vast hordes of people approvingly or unapprovingly believe that these events presage the wholesale introduction of the social order known as Communism.

These hordes of people do not correctly understand what Communism is. In the main they support it, or at least endorse it, for one of two reasons: Either the international racial clique that is promoting Communism has offered or promised them lucrative jobs, or they have been bilked by the existing commercial system and are subconsciously vindictive and want to strike back by helping to destroy it. That in its true essence and objectives it is anything but Communism and is really a freakish Racial Despotism, is not known to them—nor would it become known until their plight becomes too hopeless for them ever to extricate themselves. No matter!

It is recognized that recent events are inexorably building toward a social order that somehow or other shall be dif- ferent. So humanity waits uneasily to learn what form that "difference" is to take.

MILLIONS of persons who have suffered directly or indirectly from the events which have transpired since October, 1929, have blindly assumed that Communism is something new in the history of social evolutions, and comes as an answer to the distresses of the times.

They do not know that under a score of aliases Communism has existed since far back in the days of the Egyptian Pharaoh. They do not know that in its essence it can be recognized to have been at work in the famed Land of Canaan, up into and encompassing the destruction of the great Jebusite civilization, to have appeared and reappeared time and again in the various Persian and Roman dispensations, that it was at work in the crucifixion of The Christ, that it gained to an almost overwhelming power in the late Middle Ages and climaxed practically in the Reign of Terror of the French Revolution, that its final success in the land of Great Russia was not an accident but the result of deeply entrenched forces working persistently and with a single-track mentality for a specific cruel end: The reversal of the course of civilization from the constructive, evolving, path into an introverted, destructive, moribund social state where humanity all over the world should be completely mastered and ruled by a tightly-knit racial tyranny, whose ethics are avowedly the antithesis of The Christ.

Thus Communism can almost be said to have an esoteric origin and significance. The phenomenon of its existence and appearance, generation after generation, rests on the conflict of the two great elemental forces at work in Cosmos, and which will doubtless continue to exist until the end of time: The clash of the Forces of Destruction, Despotism, and General Evil Aimed at Man's Evolving Spirit, with the Forces of Construction, Freedom, and General Improvement and Enhancement for both Individuals and Races.

Communism, in other words, is the social embodiment of the efforts of Anti-Christ in this generation to obstruct, and if possible demolish, all which the Christ Spirit has been successfully cultivating and building up in both races and individuals since it began to manifest in earthly man after his original graduation from beastly forms into those of the Mortal-Divine.

The thing that criminally confuses and bedevils people about it is, that it basely steals the thunder and the paraphernalia of the Constructive, Evolving Forces to get itself accredited and sponsored.

It "deceives the very elect" with its lavish promises for bringing in Utopia, and effects to offer that Utopia full-fledged and wondrously developed for a mere change in the political order, whereas in its true character it murders, ravishes, and satanically destroys whenever and wherever it is given the chance.

THE SUCCESS of this deception, as the events of 1933 have shown, is in itself a mortal phenomenon. Communism enthroned, tortures and murders over 1,670, 000 persons and yet the figure is so colossal that it makes small impression, even to the so-called intellectual person who is disposed to give it trial. Communism says openly and unabashedly, "We will make any sort of promises to achieve our ends, but we serve notice in advance that we have not the slightest intention of keeping them," and yet whole nations of otherwise sane and responsible statesmen and business men say: "It is unthinkable that men could be so base and two-faced, so we accept these statements as the nefarious publicity of Communism's enemies and will traffic with its principals provided we make profit." Communism discloses under actual relationships with other nations that it seeks, and works openly for, their political and economic destruction. And yet hordes of nationals, designating themselves as intelligentsia debate it and proselyte for it as it projects itself in a philosophical idealism, idiotically ignoring the debauchery, starvation, and moral and commercial bankruptcy that everywhere discloses when it gains to real performance.

What is the matter with the human race that with such proofs before it, it perversely sticks to an acclaimed idealism in considering Communism and shuts its eyes tightly against the debasing horrors of Communism in practice?

THE ANSWER lies, of course, in the limitations of the mortal spirit to endure a campaign of economic attrition. Carried far enough, it is disclosed that humanity has not yet evolved to that point where it has acquired the stamina to combat the forces of social degradation if they are sufficiently well organized and cleverly persistent.

If they can bring about conditions where man's body suffers overlong, particularly from starvation, they can gradually gain ascendancy over his mind and enthrall him, making him an intellectual captive seeking to escape the very forces that are binding him in their toils even more viciously.

If in addition to this, mortality contains a racial minority that recognizes in the success of such destructive ethics a way to gain to world mastership—in fact, a permanent despotism—over the remainder of earth's people, then humanity is indeed "in" for a frightful period of personal and national experiencing.

That out of such experience comes gradually the capacity to better recognize destruction and construction, serfdom and freedom, debauchery and improvement, does not alter the pathos of the tragedy that such methods of suffering should be required to develop intellect or strengthen stamina.

If that is the way of Cosmic Spirit to accomplish its result in the mortal scene, however, we must only bow before it and accept it . . .

NOW THERE are two ways in which Satanic Communism—which is anything but the Community-ism from which it takes its name—moves to attain its objectives. And in the United States during the past year, we have seen the second of these succeed with a facility almost surpassing belief.

First, as Chief Pelley of the Silver Shirts noted in his current letter to Silver Shirt officials, bankers, and business men, "hitherto in the histories of nations, changes in the basic structures of governments have come from proletarian factions working Upward from humanity's substratas. Because a new technique has been employed in the American scene, and changes have been effected from the top, Downward, our gullible and unsuspecting populace refuses to recognize, much less accredit, what is in progress.

"When turnovers are consummated from the bottom, Upward, they are viciously characterized as Revolutions by Violence. When they are worked from the top, Downward, they are termed Bloodless Revolutions, or the Socialization of Industry to conform to the trend of Progress and Modernism. No one stops to investigate what this sort of Progressive Modernism is, where it originates, or why there should be any call for it to manifest. In other words, few grasp the fact that such Progress and Modernism is manufactured with malice aforethought to achieve objectives for certain predatory groups working out a self-enhancing plan."

Second, as Pelley goes on, "it is always a difficult and messy business to revolutionize by sabotage and assassination a people so predominantly intellectual as we Americans. The Violent arm is held in reserve, of course, and permitted to function to an extent to give the conservative citizenry an idea of what might happen if it refuses to acquiesce in manufactured Change in a docile manner. But if the same results can be attained by seizing and utilizing the country's highest political offices and functions, why go to the trouble and danger of making the bomb or drawing the sword? If the end is the same, what does it matter? Besides, Bloodless Revolutions are always the more difficult to discern and attack.

"There are millions of our citizens who cannot conceive that such a thing can happen, chiefly because it has never happened before. They declare it to be unthinkable that men should be so 'base' as to seize or utilize the nation's mightiest offices for purposes so 'vile' or without making it clear to the country in advance just what they are starting out to do. But baseness or vileness has nothing to do with it. It resolves into a question of opposing social philosophies.

"The men who in the present generation have set out deliberately to alter the type of government bequeathed to us by the forefathers, have been trained in a school which rationalizes that which they now advocate and actualize on the ground of a Higher Expediency. One of the chief tenets of this school is, that the End forever justifies the Means."

BUT—and history has shown how irrefutable this "but" is—it is an inexorable Law of Cosmos that these forces of destruction and debauchery are only permitted to exist in an educational capacity, and for the purpose of exhibiting to frail and underdeveloped mortals the fallacy of their worth.

In other words, destruction is only "allowed" because it gradually teaches humankind the personal enhancement to be found in following strictly a line of Construction. Debauchery is "permitted" from time to time in order that mortal flesh may recognize from its resultant sufferings how silly and unprofitable it is in its essence.

The moment humankind has had sufficient demonstration, or as we say popularly "had enough," a reaction always sets in; the pendulum of the public preference moves in the opposite direction, and reactionary movements come to the fore which triumph over and demolish these wicked and destructive trends, turning humanity away from vileness and perversion and sending it doubly-far forward in its climb toward omnipotence.

Just as for every poison there is an antidote, and for every engine of destruction a means of protection, so when epochs are given over to diabolic introversion, they already contain within themselves the seeds of reaction and antagonism which, if given enough time, ultimately develop into mighty social evolutions of the proper Christos character.

IT IS only obeying a Law of Cosmos that as surreptitious and predatory alien forces seek to gain an un-Christian ascendancy over Christian institutions, they should automatically birth defensive and constructive forces that in the end must hurl them out of power. For this Ultimate Triumph is also a Law of Cosmos. And the Laws of Cosmos cannot be defeated, else they are not laws in the first place.

Just after the close of the fanagled world war, alien cliques and racial cartels embracing the most potent phases of despotic Communism started their campaign to internationalize the United States and bring its Constitutional form of representative government down in a debacle. At the same time a similar campaign was clandestinely begun, by the atheistic element among these internationalists, to wreck and debauch the Christian religion and the Christian code of morals.

So cannily and subtly was this work carried forward, that America's adolescent-minded millions failed to recognize what was afoot until the "peace penetration" of its political government and economic structure was well-nigh accomplished.

The moment this recognition came to be a fact, the reactionary movement likewise began.

On the last day of the first month of the year that has passed, the United States heard of the projection of a patriotic Christian body known as THE SILVER SHIRTS OF AMERICA.

The fact that its members were designated as Silver Shirts was only an incident. The fact that a man named Pelley happened to be the one to project it, was likewise an incident. If these reactionary people were not called Silver Shirts, they would have been called something else. If a man named Pelley had not been the one to announce them, it would have been a man named Smith, or Jones, or Williams.

The Silver Shirts of America are but an elemental reaction to the age-old forces of darkness and destruction, birthed by a common spiritual antagonism to that which balks or defects for overlong the upward evolution of the Spirit of the Race!

They are everywhere attaining to mighty numbers, and calling up support from all grades of citizens from the lowest to the highest, because they are obeying a fiat of Cosmos. And in the jurisprudence of Cosmos it is an adamant tenet that right must eventually triumph over wrong, else the world is a hoax. And Christ never comes to a world that is a hoax.

BOTH historians and philosophers are of one mind in this: that such a reactionary movement, once gotten under way, cannot be successfully or permanently suppressed. The more evil the practises launched against society, the stronger will human opposition automatically become. The stronger the hand of despotism laid upon a nation of men accustomed to the privileges and prerogatives of Freedom, the more formidable will grow the social strength against all which they attempt. Sooner or later the two Forces must come tightly to grips. If Right and Construction does not triumph in one form, it will in another.

In the American scene it is in the nature of things that this contest should ultimately take the political aspect.

It is for this reason that hundreds of thousands of persons are now beginning to ask themselves: Will the Silver Shirts Dictate American Affairs in the Year 1934?

Here is the only formidable social-political movement which has appeared on the American stage since the forces of emasculation began to manifest an ascending control. It has miraculously weathered all venomous attacks. Out of the pockets of poor people it has received impregnable financial support. It has fallen into none of the pitfalls that usually loom before amateurish attempts to crystallize public sentiment.

Is not history repeating itself in this mobilized antagonism to debauchery and despotism?

Can any other organization spring into equal prominence now, and go on to greater expansion and defensive strength, without inane duplicating what 1933 has seen accomplished by THE CHRISTIAN SILVER LEGION?

Besides, why should it?

Why not THE SILVER LEGION as well as any new organization that yet might be created?

ON this basis, not to mention others equally as fecund, is it contended that the forthcoming issue in this nation, economically as well as politically, is the perpetuation and growth to invincible dominance of The Silver Legion and its program!

Representatives of the adversary may villify and ridicule, street riots may be started against Legion publications

"I Gave Pelley All his Information" . .

IT seems an excellent occasion, with 1933 in retrospect and 1934 in prospect, to address Silver Shirts generally on some of the more personal and intimate phases of the work which has pushed The Legion forward to its national prominence.

No work of this kind could be consummated without its strictly mortal aspects, and exhibits — forsooth — of equally mortal vanities. And chief among the latter has been the intrusion of little souls who, on finding that The Silver Shirts were actually breaking into the nation's headlines have taken upon themselves a polite form of "me too" swaggering.

When any Movement attains to the prominence of acquiring a Band Wagon, certain it is that individuals will not be wanting, eagerly desirous of climbing upon it.

Again and again this has come to Headquarters' attention during the closing months of 1933, in the form of reports arriving from well-wishers that have said: "... Joe Whoozis visited our Post tonight, and after the meeting made it known that he was, and is, the person who has supplied Chief Pelley with the information that has appeared in LIBERATION."

USUALLY such contentions have been made by people who have contrived to let it be known that they have had connection with the Military Intelligence, or have been connected with the various departments of the Secret Service, or have performed particularly dangerous missions for THE SILVER SHIRTS in penetrating adversary organizations and thus obtaining facts which fill this fight-fraught Weekly.

"What would Pelley have amounted to, if So-and-So had not once been associated with him?" is another polite form of diatribe clandestinely circulated among various groups when the efficacy of Silver Shirt work is mentioned.

Most of this sort of thing is, on the whole, pathetic.

It is the most elemental expression of the "me too" swagger—or the frantic gesture on the part of mistaken individuals to make a belated climb upon the Silver Shirt Band Wagon and blow a mighty horn, whereas six months or a year ago they were equally vociferous in referring to the Silver Shirt Band Wagon as a child's kiddie-car that must soon skid off the sidewalk and plunge beneath the traffic.

Now what are the facts behind this "educating" of Pelley, or the general supplying of information which has led to LIBERATION's campaign of public enlightenment?

In the first place, it is only common sense that no one person could have been responsible for providing the array of facts and quotations which have brought an alien enemy from its lair or set its teeth snarling at Silver Shirts.

THE CHIEF began to collect his own file of facts about the nature of the Communistic adversary some fifteen years in the past, when Kismet lifted him from a small Vermont newspaper office and set him down—in a matter of weeks—on the frozen Siberian steppes just after Lenin had charge of Russia from Petrograd.

After those fearful months with the Japanese, Czechoslovakian and White Russian armies in Siberia, meeting and dealing daily with officials from every embattled nation under the sun, fraternizing with soldiers and refugees from Bloody Moscow, he needed no parlor pink to harangue him on the "beauties of Communism" or how the Trotsky murder-bund was in reality a nice orderly collection of ex-Sunday School superintendents set down maliciously in an international predicament.

Returning to America with scores of kodak pictures of Sovietism in the making, which he had snapped with his own benumbed fingers, he thereupon spent the next eight years—in the main—working shoulder to shoulder with the producers of Jewish motion pictures in Hollywood.

There he made his own personal discoveries that Hebrews seemed to have a constitutional reflex against the sponsoring of pictures that had a moral uplift, or that sought in any way to augment and enhance the tenets of Christian institutions.

Time and time again, being present of business necessity at Hollywood parties from which on the following morning eminent producers, directors, or acting talent of the well-known persuasion were either assisted, pushed, or shoveled out from the respective premises, he took note of intoxicated asseverations of these dignitaries in regard to proselyting any of the accepted tenets of Christianity upon the nation's screen.

Returning east on an occasion when the Ford trial was in progress, Kismet further threw him in the way of the people—and one person in particular—secretly known to have written the articles in the DEARBORN INDEPENDENT. His education grew apace. He began to see a connection between some of his reactions to "Russian" Bolshevism, his Hollywood experiences, and the investigations which wrought the material upon which the Ford trial was based.

But he held his peace, "for his time was not yet come!"

NOT until after he had undergone his nocturnal esoteric experience in California, and started his metaphysical researches—which commenced to delineate in an appalling manner into what specific races and nationals certain pernicious souls had incarnated, to raise all kinds of cosmic mischief in this generation—did he take unto himself any serious responsibility for bringing them attention.

Whereupon Kismet went one step further.

The Chief began to meet in the most ordinary course of each day's business, a prolific series of individuals whose lives and careers had been seemingly "squandered" in concretely tracing down these racial diableries which modern Communism epitomized in its most insolent aspects.

An ex-Secret Service woman out of Washington of mature years and exceptional talent, an ex-dignitary of the British espionage forces, certain Gentile and Masonic members out of our own Departments of State, various members of the Congress and Senate who were in places of influence which rendered their cues and suggestions about the operations of the alien group irrefutable, an acquaintance with an ex-Chief of our Secret Service who because of his retirement and cessation of moral responsibility to the government allowed Pelley access to a shocking exhibit of data and documents not strictly government property but no less thunderous in its import if some of Pelley's attestments were legally challenged, a personal circulation among specific vigilante groups in different sections of the nation who had long been compiling dynamic facts against the marplots and who put them, in time, at Pelley's disposal—these, individually, and collectively, started him in his equipment to persevere in the task to which on January 31 of the passing year, he set his hand.

Add to these ten thousand Silver Shirts, actual or potential who in the business of the public welfare have made it their concern to apprise him of minute happenings in the adversary's camp, daily and hourly, good, bad, and indifferent, and some idea may be gained of the inanity of those single individuals who arise here and there and whisper behind a grimy palm:

"Hist! Look upon me! I, in the luxury of my espionage erudition, supplied this man Pelley with the material for the bombs he is hurling into the encampments of the marplots! Take it from me, if it hadn't been for the person on whom you now gaze, Pelley would still be writing mediocre novels in the amber-lighted shelter of a New York apartment."

Saying which, they begin to swell—and ye voice becometh throaty as ye vest-buttons pop! . . .

THE Chief has no intention nor inclination to deny those splendid advisers and helpers the full measure of their credit due them, as they have come along over a program of years and enabled him to receive his schooling in all the shameful national skullduggery that is going on at present.

His heart is very full when he thinks of the obligation which he is under to many of them—particularly those who are with him and doing the most valuable work at the moment. Without the constant assistance of the latter in particular, he could scarcely fill his function. At least he would be able to cover only a fraction of the ground which he covers at present.

But here is a point which must not be overlooked:

The persons, masculine and feminine, who are keeping The Officials of The Silver Legion supplied weekly and daily with the most potent and dynamic phases of the articles published in Liberation and The Silver Ranger, not to mention the Washington Weekly Letter to bankers and business men, would no more think of divulging their identities than they would give up their eyesight!

The moment they so identified themselves, their usefulness would end, for the stream of their information would be stopped at its source.

They are perfectly willing to work incognito, and remain incommunicado, for they wisely consider that they are not working for a man named Pelley, they are laboring for the ultimate good of a nation which they love, a culture which they cherish, American institutions which they mean shall be preserved.

SO therefore when you next meet one of these little souls who grows throaty of voice, thrusts out the chest, and taps the top vest-button in self-identification as the individual responsible for the sensational expansion of the Legion's work to date, be as charitable as possible and consider the suppressed personality that motivates the boast. It is not that the Chief wishes to minimize to his own aggrandizement what may be their due. He merely wishes Silver Shirts to realize the potential mischief which may easily result if some of them succeed in getting themselves thus overly accredited. It paves the way for them to convince individual members that they—as the Chief is claimed by them to do—should be taking their advice.

ONE more item should be mentioned as we confront a new year of dynamic publications: That is the equally pardonable vanity which exhibits in certain individuals—and a few in whom it is not vanity but subversion and defection with malice aforethought—to install a would-be censorship over groups or members by informing them that Headquarters or the Chief has authorized them to speak and deal for the Movement, particularly in their localities.

At no time has Headquarters, or the Chief, done anything of the sort! Neither will he do it at any time in the future!

It is not the intent of those who are sponsoring this organization to set up a system whereby any one individual can prevent either Headquarters or the Chief from hearing from that particular Silver Shirt directly, receiving any report or complaint which the latter may wish to make, or actualizing a condition where forces of mischief can bend the membership under them to their personal caprices.

When Headquarters asks that officials or posts in certain localities carry on routine business matters with district representatives, that is one thing. It is meant for the relief of Headquarters from a mass of business detail. Local executives may likewise be instructed to service posts or members.

But it is outstepping the bonds of sensible discipline to say that local officials or members must not communicate with the Chief or Headquarters as they elect, that it is dispensated that any irregularities in the conduct of the organization cannot be discussed with the General Staff without insubordination being thereby committed.

And the same holds good in the matter of contributions. To date no State officers have been appointed, but only organizers, and those were under personal contract with none but the Chief himself. If you are solicited to contribute large sums to the Silver Shirt work, and it is given to local representatives on the understanding that such sums are to be

"How Know Ye Recompense?"

M

Y DEARLY BELOVED: I bring you a promise, I make you a singing; I say, He who is faithful to the evening of his labor commandeth a recompense that the morning called a folly.

2 Not all who say: It is time I were paid, for have I not labored? are met with accounting by the lord of the harvest.

3 Not everyone who saith: I have worked and known labor but the chamberlain avoideth me, arriveth at that door where the chamberlain awaiteth him.

4 Behold there are many doors, and many chamberlains, beloved; only he who hath hired hath a memory of his stalwarts.

5 The wise servant saith: Behold I have labored, behold I have harvested, behold I have gathered into barns and the lord of the harvest hath gained wealth from my efforts:

6 Now therefore if I preserve my peace, it cometh to my lord that I have been faithful; verily he doeth all things justly for thereby is he the husbandman; he will reward me not for mine hours but for that which I brought him that his wealth might be greater.

7 I say it befalleth that servant that his reward shall have a bounty that his wits have not visioned: his lord showeth his pleasure not in accountings but in bestowals of affection that are sired of his righteousness.

8 I say to you, beloved, not all who labor are worthy of a recompense if mayhap they labor leanly, thinking only of their gainings.

9 It cometh to the wise in heart to say, Mayhap he who hath employed me hath discernment for my fervor and rendereth me a reckoning that is greater than our bargaining;

10 Mayhap I have pleased him in that I have labored because the harvest beckoned.

11 Doth not the harvest suffer if there be none to reap it? is not the pain of the harvest the pain of the husbandman? is there pleasure in suffering, even of a husbandman, even of a harvest?

12 Only the foolish man saith: The bargain hath been kept and I wait for my farthings, 13 For in that day and in that hour mayhap the husbandman is stricken at the pain of his harvest and cannot keep his reckonings.

14 The wise man knoweth a goodly time and a gladsome moment; he abideth by the richness of those who have called him; he knoweth that labor goeth not unrewarded, for if the husbandman payeth not in coinage, lo he payeth in a famine for that which was not harvested.

15 The wise man keepeth his peace in his reckonings, he seeth the increase and knoweth that he wrought it, he awaiteth the bounty of the lord of the harvest;

16 He hath only to say: I was one of those who labored, yet did I do it justly, for the sake of the harvest;

Q

OUT of the vastness of Cosmos the Psychic Antennae tunes in on a Voice. If the Word was made flesh and spake once to men, how much stronger may be its pronouncements when the handicaps of the flesh are perished? If we cannot believe this, to Whom or What shall we look for authority of commitments like the following?

17 Lo the harvest riseth up and rebuketh the husbandman in another season, if he be not rewarded.

18 A goodly recompense falleth on that man, his cot in the evening is aglow with benefactions, behold all things that fall beneath his hand rejoice with him richly, poverty escheweth him.

19 The unwise servant hath ever a quarrel with his lord; he saith, I have toiled in a pittance and a pittance is returned me, I have gone out and come in at the pleasure of my lord and now he repayeth me according to my slothfulness.

20 Behold, the unwise servant is always unwise, for he fareth forth expecting that which he receiveth, and receiveth no more;

21 The wise servant looketh not to his coffers but to the suffering of the harvest, behold his coffers are filled to overflowing and the harvest rejoiceth, in that it is gathered.

22 In that the wise servant hath made a promise not to his lord but to himself, and kept it, he hath cherished that which is his lord's and his lord hath rewarded him.

23 I say unto you, beloved, how know ye the measure of your payments, verily your recompense, unless ye be worthy, unless ye be faithful to the harvest in which ye yourselves are sheaves?

24 Ye toil for a Wise Husbandman who counteth the hearts and not the hands in the fields wherein ye labor; ye do look and see a mighty harvest and ye say: It is meet that we gather it, else doth it perish, and that were an evil;

25 Lo, ye do labor with a song, and gather it, and in the gathering ye do partake of a richness that knoweth naught of bargainings;

26 Ye do gather as husbandmen unto yourselves, and he who hath brought in one kernel in love, bindeth a sheaf for himself and his kin when that which is garnered is stored against famine.

27 I tell you it cometh to me, who is Lord of That Harvest; which of the laborers work for pence and which for love because a harvest waiteth in pain to be gathered.

28 I say that inasmuch as ye do gather that harvest because it is a harvest, ye do know the husbandman's joy that the harvest is gathered and the lean years rend him not.

29 Would we who love the harvest fail to give bounty to those who do save it? have we sown in a folly, that when the stalk ripened we gathered into barns without pence for the reapers?

30 Hear ye my words and know ye your recompense: Is the harvest of no value that we abandon it to cheatings?

31 What mattereth it if there be farthings and portions not of mention in the bargainings? the true lord giveth to those who have labored with a conscience, in that they labored and thus was He the husbandman!

The New Year will be Filled with Vital Occurrences

IT will perhaps be noticed that these two holiday numbers of LIBERATION in the main have avoided controversial contents.

For ten months this Weekly has been as a sword, slashing ruthlessly at those who would defile America and bring Christian tenets down to defeat. It has made bitter enemies. It has raised up a host of antagonists who have sworn to halt its service. Numerous have been the threats against the life of its editor. All of it has been an admission that its arraignments have been correct, that its slashings have drawn blood.

From the editorial standpoint, however, The Chief has considered the Christmas holidays as a period of armistice. Now 1934 opens and new battle invites.

It will be a more ruthless, challenging, devastating battle than anything experienced in 1933.

The alien horde considers that it has so entrenched itself in America by the events of 1933 that it can stand a test of strength in the year that now opens. The format of an American-Soviet has been set up throughout our nation, and while it has seemed to be officered by Gentiles—as a sort of shock-troops to avert too rampant a public indignation—in the weeks and months ahead it is believed “behind the scenes” that these Christians will be dropped. Resignations will be in order. Quite as the practice has shown itself in the closing months of 1933, as these Gentiles retire, persons of prominence in the politbureau fashioned for the United States in the cause of “progress,” “modernism,” and “industrial democracy,” will be insolently appointed or come to the fore.

Man by man and unit by unit this alien despotism will be strengthened, until the moment shall arrive when some national “crisis”—probably precipitated for exactly that purpose—or the woes of an outraged and suffering country, shall give it the courage to declare itself master of our destinies.

But as the politbureau grows in despotism, the seeds of rebellion at its dictates are flowering by the tens of thousands over forty-eight States.

In the twelve months ahead, these two factors in the contest will emerge into the open . . .

EVENTS which cannot be written about as yet, but which are privately known to The Chief and his Unknown Staff at Washington, forecast the passing of The Blustering Top-Sergeant early in the year that is almost upon us. The rage of the consuming public at the added costs of NRA to the public purse and to the private exchequer, is far, far deadlier than has thus far been allowed to be reported in the press. Indignation meetings have been held, at the White House and elsewhere, on which the politbureau censorship has clamped down a tight cover. Christian men and women of sound business sense and far more patriotism than the Adversary accredits them, have noted the fact that practically all of the loudly-acclaimed economies which the Administration has publicized so lavishly by its general curtailment in government departments, or the policy of cheese-paring in veterans' compensations, has gone to the four winds of heaven in meeting the expense of the formidable force of employees seemingly required to make NRA successful! The Jews responsible for NRA by their own admissions have a literal mob of angry women deploying against them in the capital city. Meanwhile great industries whose business has been crippled by the unsound economics of NRA, are drawing up their legal forces for a show-down on the constitutionality of the NRA in the nation's law courts.

If these consumers and damaged industries win their fight in the courts, NRA will be promptly flouted, even as the Prohibition Amendment was flouted. Then 1934 is going to witness whether the Jewish intimidators behind NRA have been right in their mischievous ballyhoo when they have declared that failure of their quack economics means chaos for the nation.

What they have meant to say was, that failure for NRA means chaos for themselves—so they are forestalling that dread eventuality with bombast and bluster, and charges of sedition against those who dare face them and call on them for show-downs.

OVER in the Treasury Department word leaks out that the printing presses are acquiring hot bearings, working night and day to turn off more lithographed paper for the financial thralldom of our children and our children's children. New bonds by the millions are alleged to have been printed, especially in the last fortnight, and the presses are still running.

Meantime the Washington papers that so dare, are gleeful over the anecdote of Morgenthau's Bath-Tub.

Just in case you haven't been allowed to hear it, the story goes that the Jew Morgenthau, Roosevelt's pet appointee for the Treasury Secretaryship, found his job so indescribably filthy that he ordered a nice new bath-tub to be installed in his suite of offices at the approximate cost of $1,000, the said bath-tub to be of a delicate pastel shade and to harmonize generally with this official's æsthetic temperament.

The reports did not emphasize whether or not the august Secretary, otherwise so active in setting up a nation of another ilk over in Palestine, contracted himself to pay for this personal innovation. If the Secretary so does, by all means let the document be photostated in a hundred million copies . . .

One thousand dollars for a pastel bath-tub in public business offices while native-born Americans are so hard-pressed that thousands of them are retrieving edibles from alley ash-cans! It is something to think about.

Somewhere in this Gentile country there is a family that underwent physical distress to raise taxes in the amount of $1,000 to pay over to the government that their property might not be confiscated. Is it impertinent to suggest that this specific family endured privation in order that the Secretary of the Treasury in this Jewish administration might forego his official duties during business hours and enjoy the luxury of a bath? Doesn't it amount to that?

Anyhow, that's the story that Washington is talking about, but it's an ugly sort of laughter that The Chief has heard whenever he was present where the anecdote was told . . .

UP in New York, as one of the potentialities of 1934, the soviet government is said to be considering an offer from officials of Rockefeller Center to build a one and one-half billion dollar edifice, probably on Fifth Avenue in New York, which would be a combined soviet commercial headquarters in the United States and a hostelry for visiting soviet students and engineers.

As we understand it, this is the same soviet government that said through one of its highest officials: "We are proceeding in America just as we are in Europe and throughout the world. We communists and socialists will haul down the dirty American rag and fly our own red flag over the White House. We are boring from within the labor unions. We are penetrating pacifists' organizations, organizing students' clubs, and planting our own workers in the culture clubs of women. We are organizing to fight the Boy Scouts, the rotten breeding-places of patriotism. We will infiltrate into the American Army and Navy, and stamp the men with our cause. Don't think we can't do it. We will drive them like sheep before us. We will put into your legislatures, into Congress, into the Senate, those who will do our work for us. Think these things over. Get America ready for its fall!"

Of course Mr. John DeBaptist Rockefeller, Junior, who made possible the wealth for this communist edifice under our sterling American institutions, has never heard of the Communist Manifesto which is the background and backbone of sovietism and which said: "There are, moreover, certain eternal truths, such as freedom, justice, etc., which are common to all social systems. But Communism abolishes these eternal truths; it abolishes religion and morality!" Or if he has heard of it, he considers it just a little joke—the sardonic humor of Mr. Stalin's enemies.

It is something to think about when next you drive your car up to a Standard Oil filling station and a clean-cut young college man steps out to greet your "Fill 'er up!"

AND consider this other choice morsel, which came through in the same despatches anent the Rockefeller-Finkelstein benevolence: "Litvinoff revealed an interesting angle in his recent recognition parleys in Washington as he sailed toward Europe. He said that while discussing with President Roosevelt the agreement assuring Americans residing in Soviet (Jewish) Russia freedom of religious worship, he received letters from numerous Americans urging that he demand freedom for atheist propaganda in the United States.

"The writers alleged that atheists frequently were persecuted in the United States!"

Think of international diplomats sitting about a table and discussing such matters as subjects for international dealings between nations. Think of the President of Christian America tolerating for one moment parley-pours that contained such hellish insinuations.

And, by the way, what was the nationality and racial extraction of these "numerous Americans" who so fervently prayed for freedom for atheist propaganda in the United States?

That, too, is something that 1934 may see come to an issue.

IF you wish to gain some idea of the "progress" which the Jewish nation has attained in American affairs during 1933, make the effort to procure the December 1 issue of The American Hebrew and Jewish Tribune and read the 76 pages of racial brag which lists the "Who's Who in Public Office" and the "Appointments and Honors" which have come to Jewry under the current Administration. Persons in public life whom you never hitherto dreamed as being Hebrews, will leap at you from a score of pages.

Notable in support of Silver Shirt contention over many hectic months of 1933, is the legend under the center portrait on Page 47. "Professor Felix Frankfurter of Harvard," reads the caption, "is among the President's closest advisors. He is held responsible for drafting the NRA."

Down the column is another significant item which reads: "Rabbi Abraham J. Feldman, of Temple Beth Israel, Hartford, Conn., was appointed in charge of the local speakers' bureau for NRA. He has the rank of 'colonel' in the NRA organization."

So they have begun to acquire "colonels" in the National Israelite Recovery Act—and they are recruited from among the Jewish clergy! Well, well, well!

Here is another significant item: "James G. Heller, of Cincinnati, in January was elected a member of the Governing Board of the Cincinnati Y.M.C.A., and in November was elected to the City School Board. The Young Men's Christian Association, mind you! And the American Hebrew and Jewish Tribune considers it as something to receive adulation.

In this whole issue the Jewish nation was adolescently indiscreet enough to lay itself wide open to most of the points of issue to which Silver Shirts have been calling attention since their January formation.

By the way, have you ever seen the Swedes, the Irish, the Germans, the Italians, ever putting out such propaganda? Not being a "persecuted" people, of course it doesn't occur to them as necessary . . .

being publicly sold, mass meetings may be held at which racial groups with guilty consciences may listen to ranting speakers seeking to camouflage the true issues, political hucksters in the public welfare may prate of "sedition" . . .

What matters it?

Would the whole Christian-American populace, Protestant and Catholic alike, from Boston to San Diego and from Michigan to Texas, be increasingly sponsoring this mighty challenge to an alien despotism if it were merely one man's attempts at personal aggrandizement, or the passing caprice of a disgruntled element seeking to express its prejudice toward races?

Hard-headed economists have declared that the program of CHRISTIAN DEMOCRACY sponsored by the Silver Shirts is the only ultimate solution to the commercial diablerie upon us.

History, philosophy, and Cosmic Law, would lend support to their attestments.

and public reputation . . . Having read most of the book, apparently all the patriotic priest did was to object to the influx of Galacian Hebrews under Sam's motivation at a time when good Catholics as well as good Protestants are having a hard time to eat . . . but Sam's integrity and public reputation must be preserved, no matter what his legal representings or associations with the Erie Corporation and its sponsors insofar as they appertain to the Catholic Bishop of Chicago hierarchy generally.

During 1934, Liberation will have much to say in regard to the fight of this penniless but patriotic priest. Not on the priest's case, for we have no intention or inclination of libeling Sam, or making him look ridiculous. Rather on whether or not the priest's booklet injured the "financial counsellor to the present New York City administration and president of both the World Jewish Economic Federation and League for the Defense of Jewish Rights." The American Hebrew, in its aforesaid brag number, calls Sam a "brilliant lawyer" . . . oh well, it's going to be a great year, anyhow, and we shall see what we shall see!

used for the promotion of the Legion as a whole, wait for a receipt for such funds from Asheville. If, by the end of at least ten days, it is not forthcoming, report the contribution fully to Headquarters, else the Legion has no check against false representatives, or those making claims of office to which they are not entitled, who may apply such donations to their own obligations without the Movement ever profiting by a penny.

Eventful 1933 is behind us. Dynamic 1934 lies ahead. There is glory and labor enough for all. Only wholesome integrity in every quarter will carry The Silver Shirt work to the splendid consummation which awaits it!

If Hitler had not come into power when he did, Germany would have been bathed in bloody, terrible, revolution!

Now for Expansion!

SILVER SHIRTS are now represented in every State in the Union in such formidable numbers, sub rosa or in the open, unknown and known, that the work of founding THE SILVER LEGION is practically completed.

January 31, 1933 saw the Silver Legion born. January 31, 1934 will see the hundreds of nuclei that have been instigated during the past twelve months taking on a sudden galvanism—a galvanism so great that the expansion of The Silver Shirts from now on is largely a matter of local activity. No longer is it a question in certain States: "Will you belong to the Silver Legion?" The question now is, "Do you belong to the Silver Legion?"

On the center pages of this number, published for all the nation to see, is the new Battle Line-Up by territory of The Silver Shirt forces. It is meant for the adversary as well as for Silver Shirt adherents.

During the past four months the swelling of the membership has come about, not by publicity either friendly or otherwise, and not altogether from the personal efforts of patriotic Christian organizers working alone by States. It has resulted from man-to-man promotion, solicitation, and personal sponsorship.

BECAUSE this is known to have been a fact, General Staff is accentuating this method for growth in the year that now opens. Little knots of Silver Shirts, in neighborhoods and districts, will be supported in expansion from within, building to ever-increasing proportions, enjoying the enlightenment and security that comes from group effort.

The place has now been reached where these "expanding knots and groups" will be served and encouraged by salaried executive committees directing from a common focal point as committees and not as individuals. Thus is the evolving organization not to be handicapped by the limited time or capabilities of any one person. The work must grow as a work, a vast, inexorable, elemental reaction to that which persons of alien philosophies are attempting to foist upon us. Thus, too, will changes and appointments within these committees not defect the workers responsible to them.

LIBERATION has charged certain individuals and cliques within the Hebrew nation, of promoting activities and introducing methods and ideals (?) that are forever inimical to Christian modes and ethics. In a hundred cities have sprung up what amounts to little private vigilante committees, who with the correct cue for most of the prevailing skullduggery and distress in their hands, have not been slow to at once turn over to Headquarters such a mass of specific detail that at times the staff has been buried beneath it.

A Jewish Communist cannot mount a soap-box in far-away Oregon, a "brilliant lawyer" cannot be closeted with a notorious Mexican revolutionist and anarchist in New York City, a gathering of Jewish Brain Trust Saviors cannot occur at the national capital, or a prominent Jew of Shreveport, Louisiana, cannot begin closing his mortgages wholesale, without the detailed facts arriving sooner than later in the Silver Legion archives.

The day is coming—and mayhap it will come in 1934—when all of this will become wholesale public property, what was said, and who said it, what was planned and who planned it, what was attempted and who bungled it, in such a devastating manner that if the marplots believe they can stand against it, they deserve their little hour of wretched self-deception as some measure of recompense for what may come later.

THIS country is not going soviet, not permanently. Neither is it going to acknowledge Judah and his materialistic representatives, as the national messiah.

This nation needs no national messiah. It merely needs to be let alone from pillaging and plotting.

When it gets the Messiah, He will not be a banker, nor a group of Brain Trust prophets!

America may undergo a brief bath of violence, when the Communists troop in under diplomatic immunity and show what a lechery was the "pledged word" of the Soviets. But it will be the same cleansing bath that awakened Italy, that awakened Hungary, that awakened Spain, that awakened Germany. It will awaken thousands of Americans to a realization of the Menace.

And when Americans are once aroused, they are known to be pure hell!

THE SILVER SHIRTS are "founded". . . now it is up to the present membership—on the edge of street crowds in Seattle, in bankers' conferences in New York, in cloak-rooms of western legislatures, in the shadowed depths of New England stores, on the rear seats of busses, more than all else in private homes where friends gather to commiserate with one another over mutual distresses suffered—to make their tenets of Christian Democracy, and an American renaissance, an accredited and thunderous reality.

It can be done by personal enlightenment, and in no other way. The year 1933 saw the Silver Shirts born. The year 1934 will see them expand to a staggering influence.

Thirty years from today will your children recount with pride: "My father and mother were SILVER SHIRTS!"
