COMPARATIVE MYTHOLOGY.

ВУ С. В. РЕСКНАМ.

In the Hebrew mythology preceding our era, the Bride or Möther of God had a presentation before the coming man or as the man-child born of her. When the sign Virgo or the Virgin was in the underworld she precluded the coming of mysteries of initial ones had God as the top of the God. "The keys of the creed " will also show the ladder, the ascent thereento was by doing the same aspect of the ancient "fulness of the Goder mode, "having for their primary object the cultivation of virtue and divine knowledge," still there was often much backsliding and the putting manifest in our modern churches, so that it is often hard to tell whether God or the Devil is at the top in our sanctuaries. "At the very start," then, says Lundy, "there was caution and reserve as to Christian docrine and discipline. The very advent of the Son of God to earth was at night. The Holy Supper was in tituted at night. The Resurrection itself took place in the night. The meetings afterward were at night. Why? Because the Kingdom of God cometh not with observation."

We must not look too curiously into the manifestations of the Spirit which is given to every man to prophet withal, and darkness in old time as in the modern was a "condition" rather favorable to the showing thereof. Thus in the Disciplini Arcani was John the Baptist in the deserts till the day of his showing unto Israel to go before the face of the Lord to prepare his ways, to give knowledge of salvation up to his people by the remission of their sins, through the tender mercy of our God; whereby the Day-spring from on high hath visited us, to give light to them that sit in darkness and the shadow of death, as per St. Lake. John was Aquarius or the Water-bearer in the Arcana mysteries, and preluded the Day spring, working up through the Fishes to the Sign of Aries or the Lamb, Do we not have our fish days or fast days even now in commemoration of the forty days fast of our Saviour, the Sun in the deserts before his showing unto Israel, and before he could feed his people as a Lamb in a large place or the seven signs which sent down their bread from heaven? nor less the heaven opened wherein were all manner of beasts and creeping things." This sheet, knit at the four corners, is the same four cornered canopy that St. John's four angels held at the four corners of the earth. and knit or woven from thestop throughout, as was the seamless coat. Those cattle of Peter's go up and down and to and fro the earth as minsheet were the Lord's cattle of a thousand hills and may be always seen by gazing into heaven like the men of Galilee. The seven fat and seven lean kind were a part of the same stock when Joseph was in his sign to push the people together to the ends of the earth. These cattle went to and fro and up and down the earth, now coming up from the sea like St. John's beasts, and then descending to the same and swallowed up as Pharaoh's host, and their chariot wheels lopped off by the Son or Sun from the pillar of a cloud. From all the various drama of a Sun, how shall we rescue the Christian Jesus from being one of the same family and identical with all the other Sun-gods? for as often as we lift a vail when Moses and the prophets are read, veil within vail reveals itself in apt relation to its fellow, like the Book written within and on the backside and sealed with seven seals. How shall we stand up for Jesus and hold the fort when there is so much variation in the song of Moses and the Lamb and strophe and anti-strophe are synchronous to all the heathen manifestations of the Spirit? What was the Divine Logos but the personification of Divine Wisdom in the mode of the Word made flesh? and when this Wisdom was spoken only to the initiated or perfect? The Christian mythology, like the Heathen, required Ariadae's thread to thread the way through the labyrinth, The scope of one measure paralleled the scope of all.

Word physically, morally and spiritually in the head bodily;" and so it was in all the old theoloharmonious blending of all things in the prop-er mode, "having for their primary object the interpretation alone is the shell without the ker-himself, and if he rompels us to believe the one, nel," says Anderson. In the touching gracefulness of Nanna may be found one Anna the feminine of cept no historical fact and we are then on same on of the old man instead of the new as must Annus, the year, in Luke's Gospel. She was of manifest in our modern churches, so that it is great age and had been with an husband seven years from her viginity while serving God night and day. In the Babylonish cycle she was a widow of about four score and four years, but when old things passed away and all things ecame. new, she was a very presentable damsel in the new year, for in all the old theologies or mythologies there were transmutations or changes, transfigurations from the sombre hue to the shining apparel, and the coat of many colors, and the coat without seam, woven from the top throughout, were in train of the goodly Babylonish garment when the God of Israel was from the way of the East.

As it was only the lion of the tribe of Juda in the root or key of David who prevailed to oper the seven-scaled book, so in Norse theology Balder was the strong god in the constellation of the Lion amidst the twelve dwellings of the gods, or the twelve signs of the zodiac, or twelve months of, the year, corresponding to the twelve names of and while he was in position, or held the fort, there was no other name given under heaven whereby to be saved, for he was the leader up of the other names of God, including the lion in the root of David. In the midst of the elders stood a lamb as it had been slain, having seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven spirits of God, the seven signs or producing months of the fat kine, and the filler of the seven baskets which fed so many from the right hand of God.

According to the biblical Esdras the highest was a young man of very high stature, taller than all the rest. This was the Son of God whom no knit at the four corners and let down to the earth. seest part of the signs past, as astrologically con- Josephus did live, that he did return and commuwhat can Josephus give us to authenticate the return of spirits, the visitation of angels, the working of miracles, such as the advocates of this thesays a wise man, "We will believe all, we will acground. What a tame world it will be-what an easy time school children will have! We will throw away the works of those who have gone before. The history of the ancients, no more will we peruse. The researches of Newton, Herschel, Fulton and hundreds of others must go in the same vortex. We did not know them, consoquently they did not live. No! indeed, Josephus, you must look to your logic. Give us something more substantial and reasonable. Take away all creeds, and the bare historical facts stare you blankly in the face. Says "A hand to hand battle. I am not so easily vanquished."

[Can any one imagine that the spirit of the Psalm singing David of Israel ever controlled that medium to write any part of that communication? It bears the impress of a spirit dissembler in every part of it. Making every pretension to being a logician, his pretended reasoning amounts hardly to the feeble effort of an imbeeile mind, He is God; but the Lamb had ushered in the new year, forced to admit the genuineness of Josephus's communication and tries to break its force as disproving the existence of such a person as Jesus of Nazareth. The communication of Josephus was published in MIND AND MATTER of July 24th. It is a most remarkable revelation, and if gonnino makes an end of the pretence that Jesus Christ was a historical personage. It will require something a good deal more to the point than the "bogus" David has given to lessen the significance of the communication the truth and genuineness of to the Rock-man, Peter, when "a certain vessel all the rest. This was the Son of God whom no the communication the truth and gonuments of descended unto him, as it had been a great sheet man could see but in the day-time, and when then which he did not dare to deny. He admits that our Saviour in being with child by the Holy Ghost or Spirit blowing where it listeth; hence biblical Esdras says that "the Bride shall appear and she coming forth shall be seen, that is now withdrawn from the earth, for my son Jesus shall be revealed with those that be with him." He was chieftest among those ten thousands of saints who came from Sinai, rose up from Seir, and shined from Mount Paran, and was the Alpha and Omega in the song of Moses and the Lamb, and the Amen and finisher where old things passed away and all things became new. Esdras says he was a very tall man, doubtless, head and shoulders above the giants of those days. In view of these and other things, such as many are called but few chosen. Esdras invokes his soul to "swallow down understanding and devour wisdom," The Lord of Esdras was "conversant in wind and fire, and whose look drieth up the depths: before whom the host of angels stand with trembling," especially when he speaks from the whirlwind or the western tornado. To the initiated, however, their "lines are fallen in pleasant places, whose reins also instruct them in the night seasons," Unto such "is Paradise opened, the tree of life is planted, the time to come is prepared, plentiousness is made ready, a city is builded, and rest is allowed." This, of course, is the New Jerusalem with the Sun in the midst conversant with wind and with fire, the Lamb that was slain, yet liveth again whether he rode on the sky by his name Jah, or moved as the Burning Bush.

In the Egyptian mythology Amon-Ra was the same as the Sun-God, having knowledge or intelligence. The Amen or Amun, the male and father, while the female or Mother in another aspect constituted a part in the make up in the he-she of the Lord. The Father, Mother and Son made the triad as manifest on earth as Osiris, Isis, and Horus. As per Lundy "the doctrine of the Egyptians constituted in a knowledge of this one God as a triad; the immortality of the soul, and future rewards and punishments. The hierarchy was the subordinate divinities. The worship was public and secret." The Hebrew hierarchy or God-men in the name of Moses and the prophets, knew how to engineer the secrets which belong to God, and some of these either in the flesh or out appear to have been in the control of St. John when he set forth the Virgin, the Sungod and the Great Red Dragon,

As quoted by Lundy, "Justin Martyr speaks of the mysteries of Mithras, as having reference to Christ, when he says that they represent him as | and that it is, so to speak, the key to the Norse begotten of a rock in the place or cave where those mysteries were celebrated by the initiated. and he perceives in this an invitation of Daniel's pronhecy of the stone cut without hands out of a great mountain, as well as some of Isaiah's prophecies."

Here, then, in these Persian mysteries we have a groundwork of Christianity as in the other mythologies-that same Rock or Stone of Israel whereunto all were baptized unto Moses in the cloud and in the sea, and that Rock was the basis of the Sun-Christ in the mysteries. The Rock was a movable one, the Sinai of the heavens which gushed with many waters when struck with the rod of Moses. It was the basis of the city that hath foundations for the twelve signs or thrones where sat the dramatic twelve to judge the twelve tribes of Israel. It was the same city of God which furnished the seven or twelve baskets for the thousands and there gathered up the frag-

"O, ye delicious fables! where the wave And the woods were peopled, and the air, with things so lovely !"

Says Anderson, "Every religion, Christianity included, is mythical in its development. * * Finally, an interpretation, that has been frequently alluded to in the preceding pages of this introduction, is the physical, or interpretation from nature -impersonation of the visible workings of nature. The divinities are the forces and phenomena of nature personified; and evidences of the correctness of this view can be abundantly presented by defining etymologically the names of the sacred divinties, their attributes, dwellings and achievments, and by showing how faithfully the works of the gods correspond with the events and scenes of the outward world. There is no doubt that this is the true interpretation of all mythologies; mythology, it is hoped will be sufficiently demonstrated in the second part of this book in connec-tion with the myths themselves; but the ethical, or perhaps better, the spiritual interpretation must by all means be added. The spiritual or | ion; and in a few centuries we shall not expect ethical and the physical interpretation must ber our children to believe there ever was a civil war combined. In other words, we can scarcely maked he interpretation too anthropomorphic."

All the wars in heaven between the giants and the gods, St. John included, were of the same nature, and the peculiar physical, with the ethical and say there was no Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus or spiritual combined, was in part phallic in the human aspect and corresponded with the angel who stood in the sun. The swearing with the hand under the thigh in the circumcised covenant of old Jewry made a very essential part of God's Word in those days. Dr. Inman's "Ancient faiths embodied in ancient names," and more emphatically in "Ancient Pagan and Modern Christian sidered, "then shalt thou understand that it is the very signo time wherein the Highest will be give to-visit the world which he made." This Most High God crowned his subordinates or saints in their starry courses. They receive palms as they istering spirits, sent forth to minister to them who shall be heirs of salvation. As much of the New Testament is in the fashion of the Old, we may suppose that St. John's twelve times twelve were within the compass of the young man of high stature and taller than all the rest, who redeemed the spring lambkins as the first fruits unto God and to the Lamb. The sum of the matters have many landmarks in parables and dark sayings, which the wise unto salvation in the esoteric wisdom may divine. He that has ears to hear let him hear.

The Spirit of Josephus Contradicted by the Spirit of David the Psalmist.

We publish the following letter and communiention as an illustration of what has caused so much doubt concerning spirit communications; and to show that the only safe rule is to test every spirit communication by the most searching scrutiny. If the communication is consistent with known facts and not inconsistent with reason, credit, not otherwise.

MR. EDITOR :- Your paper received, and a peculiar communication by Josephus has called the attention of our band of spirits, and a communication concerning the same has been given by a young lady medium who is a writing and trance medium. I should be pleased to have it published, She has from time to time spoken in circles here, and written also. Many other spirits have controlled her, but the one purporting to be David, never before. It is a subject I am very much inerested in, and should Josephus provo what he says true to my satisfaction, or give a clearer view mon the subject of Spiritualism than we have in the history of Jesus, I will be glad.

Yours with respect,

MINERVA MIRRICK. Quincy, August 18,

COMMUNICATION FROM DAVID THE PRALMIST. If it is assorted by any spirit, in or out of the body, that a person called Jesus of Nazareth never dwell upon the earth, you may as well say there never was a Josephus, never a David, never a Cicero, never a Plato, and so on ; for there is not a human being upon the earth who was ever personally acquainted with any of those personages. As well say, "We will not believe anything of past history-nothing but what is before our natural vis in the United States, Franco-Prussian war, or a famine in Ireland. Nothing of the past will we take, We will not rely upon any historian, for are they not all men?" Very well. Josephus may come may in like manner come and say, "There was no Josephus, no David-no one but himself. What then? In escaping Sylla we shall strike Charybdis, and what shall we believe? Josephus, by making this statement, overthrows what the spiritual world is attempting to build. The foundation of the structure is torn away by a Samson's hand. The structure topples, falls, plung-

nicate and he does not deny the truth of that communication, all of which would show that those spirits who are still trying to boost up the Christian superstition felt the staggering effects of that unanswerable communication.-ED.]

Communication Confirmed.

Editor Mind and Matter :

DEAR SIR:-In your issue of July 24th, is a spirit communication purporting to come from Rev. Henry C. Leonard. He was a gentleman I personally knew, whilst a Universalist minister. He formerly lived and preached in Maine, my native State, and subsequently moved to Massachusetts. Whether he settled in Annisquam, I cannot positively say; but such is my impression. He was a man of culture and very genial in his magnetic sphere of life, 'Reading, his communication through Alfred James, the medium, reminds me of a sermon I heard him preach long, long ago, respecting our moral relations with the next life, It was precisely in the same drift of thought as he now gives from the spiri'-world. His position caused considerable criticism from the Whittemore ring of Universalists. 110 contended that death bleaches the mortal from all earthly contamination. Bro. Leonard ably defended his ground, endorsed by other clorical brethren, What he then reasoned about and earnesily preached for years, proved a reality, as this finecommunication demonstrates. He says he "did not preach all he knew to be true, for fear of exciting prejudice." Clergymen of any faith will sometime have to make the same candid confession. Yours for the mediums,

P. O. BARRETT. Glen Beulah, Wis., July 28th, 1880.

This spirit message was first published in MIND AND MATTER, January 10th, M. S. 32, with the announcement that "Magnetized Paper" would be sent to all who were sick in body or mind, that desired to be healed, also, to those that desired to be developed as spiritual mediums, for three months for three 3-ct, stamps. The three months have now closed with the following result:

3,405 persons have sent for the paper by mail, 1,000 persons have received it at the office, and the hundreds of testimonials that have been received of its wonderful work in healing the sick and developing mediums, prove that Red Cloud and Blackfoot have faithfully kept their promises. That all may have an opportunity to test the merits of the paper, the price for the future will be as follows :-- 1 sheet, (postage paid,) 10 cents, 12 sheets, $1.00. Send a silver ten cent piece if you can. Address, James A. Bliss, 713 Sansom Street. Philadelphia, Pa.

LETTER FROM DR. R. C. FLOWER.

The Wealth of a Hidden World Coming to Light-A New Garden of Eden—The Wonders and Peculiarities in a Mountain District in East Tennessee—Something Which Will Interest Emigrants.

DEAB MR. ROBERTS :- I am now in Spring City, Rhea Co., Tenn., 280 miles south of Cincinnati, and, by the way, this is one of the most wonderful and strange countries in the little world, called earth. I reached this city about sunrise on the morning of the 20th. Here I met J. J. Palmer, formerly of Philadelphia, and well known to the Liberals. I also met Edward F. Roberts-your brother in the flesh-from New Brunswick, N. J. Mr. Roberts had preceded me to this place a few days, having come on the same business which called me, namely, the investigation of coal and iron lands. The coal and iron mines are in the Walden Ridge Range of mountains, six miles west of this city. After resting a few hours, Messrs. Palmer and Roberts informed me that they were ready to take me up into the mountains, where they were satisfied I would see a transfiguration or materialization of the largest coal and iron mines in the world.

OFF FOR THE MOUNTAINS.

About 2 P. M., after strapping our overcoats to the saddles, like Methodist preachers, we mounted three poor old horses, which were as tame as an old converted cat and as slow as the country in which they were raised. Roberts' horse was especially of and feeble, not far, I should judge, from the spirit land; at times this beast of burden would help her master along, and at times friend Roberts would speed her along with old time New Jersey exhortations, sandwiched with impressive adjectives. For one hour and a half we ascended the mountain, and had it not been for Roberts' exhortations I believe I would have despaired and gone back, I will never forget the ascent up this mountain, almost perpendicular, the Lord only knows for what height; and through ravines, by the mouth of yawning caverns and under the dim shadows of tall, cold, rocky spires, like silent sentinels of nature keeping watch over this wilderhess of stones. The following well expresses our ascent up the mountain:

- First, we stumbled and I grumbled; Second, we fell and Palmer yelled; Third, the horses slipped and we were floored, And Roberts roared—
- Such a roar as was never roared before.

Our murmurs suddenly cease, for we have reached the top of the mountains and find ourselves in almost a Garden of Eden, large meadows, beautiful rolling hills, fine pasture lands, fat stock superb orchard lands, in one of the most salubrious clime beneath the smiling sun. These valleys, dipping gracefully westward, amid the rich robed mountains, refreshed with a thousand gurgling rills fed by a million living springs, present a country like the Eden of imagination or the fairy lands of Artamma where the gods and goddesses developed a million worlds of wealth. Travelling over this country I am lost with amazement-rich beautiful, healthy and superb, and the world don't know it. Is it possible; yes, it is so. This Garden of Eden is as yet unknown.

CHILDREN'S COLUMN. Little Trotcosey.

BY LUCY RANDALL COMFORT.

Little Trotcosey was going to bring home the COWS.

A yellow-haired child, with cheeks sun-burned as brown as a berry, and bright brown eyes-a little girl whose bare feet danced along over the daisies as light as thistle-down.

And as she danced, she sang:

"Fairies fairies, come back once more Come from the old, forgotten shore! Bring your treasures from land and sea-Fairles, fairles, come back to me!"

For this was old Nita's favorite song and Nita had been telling her fairy stories all the afternoon, as they picked ripe blueberries together in the pasture, until Trotcosey's head was full of fairy visions

As she sang, she looked this way and that. and waved her branch of tall scarlet lilies in her hand; but she could see only the leaves rustling in the breeze, and the sunbeams braiding themselves in and out among the reeds and rushes by the river. "There must be fairies somewhere," said Trotcosey, "for Nita says there are, and Nita knows!" Here Trotcosey paused to pick up a poor little fledgeling which had fallen out of his nest in a hedge of alder bushes, and to put him back again, to the great relief of the fluttering bird-moth r, who was uttering sharp cries of terror and dismay as she flew around and around in ever widening circles.

"Don't be afraid, birdie!" said Trotcosey. "Do you think I would hurt your poor little one?"

And she trudged along, still singing : Bring your treasures from land and sea;

Fairles, fairles, listen to me !"

Just then she found a withered Rose lying by the roadside-a rose which some one had gathered and flung away

"Poor Rose, how pitiful you look !" said Trotcosey. "If I were to sprinkle some water on you perhaps you might revive again."

And she carried the poor withered Rose to the river edge, and laid it carefully down where the ripples could wash its dry stem and wet its drooping petals. "There, Rose," she said, "now grow beautiful again! Let me see—where was 1?

' Fairies, fairies, come back once more !'

Oh, here is a poor Rabbit, limping along with an ugly thorn sticking in his foot. Come here, Bun-ny, and I'll pull it out for you!"

The Rabbit was too lame to run away, and so he stood still. But Trotcosey thought he cast a grateful glance up into her face, as he scampered away, with the cruel thorn removed from his foot.

"He can't talk," said Trotcosey, "but he certainly looked as if he were obliged to me." And she stood still, with the branch of tall red lilies in her hand, to listen for the sound of the bell around the leadercow's neck. 'I hear it jingling up in the woods," said Trotcosey, "and it's coming this way. I'll sit down here and wait until they come."

So Trotcosey sat down on a round, moss covered stone, of which old Nita had that day told her,

The child had scarcely ceased marveling, when along came old Kattchen, with a face all smiles. . "Little Trotcosey," said she, "have you heard the news? I've found my blue hen again, eating berries in the cedar glen! And what is better yet, Lotty, the miller's daughter, is much better to-day, and the doctors say she will soon be well again.

And then Trotcosey knew that she had really been in Fairy-land.

When she got home, everybody cried aloud with surprise.

"What has come to our little Trotcosev?" said they. "Her hair is like spun gold, and her eyes are like diamonds, and her skin is softer than the heart of a rose!"

Trotcosey told them her adventure, but they shook their heads.

Except Nita, who was nearly a hundred years old, and knew many strange secrets. "Yes," she added ; "yes, the child has really been in Fairy-land!"

But although Trotcosey sat on the wishing stone at sunset many a time again, she never got another glimpse into Fairy-land.—Golden Days.

Radiant Matter.

TRANSLATED BY J. CHURCHMAN.

From the Revista Espiritista of Monte Video, 15th of June.

Evidently Farady was saturated with this new conception, for three years later, in 1819, we find him accumulating the proof and the arguments in support of his bold hypothesis. His notes have at this day the more illucidation and instruction, as during the intervening years he has reflected much and matured much upon this most elevated form of matter. He began by attributing to matter four states, solid, liquid, gaseous and radiant, which manifest themselves by differences in the essential properties which they present. He admits that the existence of the radiant state has not even been demonstrated, but by a series of ingenious ratiocinations, founded upon analogy, endeavors to demonstrate the probability of its existence. At the beginning of this century, if one hal asked, what is a gas, the answer would have been a tenuous matter rarified to the point of being impalpable except when violently agitated, invisible, incapable of taking a definite form like a solid or of forming drops like a liquid, always ready to expand when meeting with no resistence and to contract underpressure. Such were the principal properties attributed to gases some seventy years ago; but the observations of modern science have widened and modified our ideas upon the constitution of elastic fluids.

Gases are now considered as a conglomeration of an almost infinite number of diminutive particles or molecules, which are in incessant motion and animated by the greatest velocity imaginable. As the number of these molecules is extraordinarily great, it follows thence that one molecule cannot move in any direction without coming in contact with another. But if we withdraw from the vessel a great part of the air or gas which it contains, the enclosed number of molecules is diminished, and the distance which a given molestone, little dreaming that it was the very wishing cule can move without contact with another increased, the mean space of free movement being Garden of Eden is as yet unknown. About 5 o'clock we reached the ruins of an old upon which a fairy spell descended, once in every vear, just as the sun was setting. And the yellow molecules. The more perfect the vacuum, the light came down upon her head—the last beam of greater is the mean distance that a molecule can move before collision; or, in other words, the greater the mean distance of free circulation the greater is the change in the physical properties of the gas. Thus, when we reach a certain point the phenomena of the radiometer are rendered possible, and if we carry the rarification still farther, periments of which we are about to treat herein. "These phenomena," says Mr. Crook, "differ as The molecules of gas contained in this glass vessel have been sufficiently rarified, although they may still be counted by milliards of millions, not to obstruct one another in their movements, have acquired properties new, strange and of extraordinary energy. Here are revealed by the most brilliant phenomena, some of those mysterious forces of nature whose secret laws are yet so little known. Projected upon the diamond, or ruby, these molecules cause them to shine with intense rays of green or red; under their action glass is illumined with refulgent phosphorescence. By a rapid said-the-Fairy Queen. "Speak, and tell me what current of these molecules, made visible to our eyes by ingenious contrivances, platinum is heated to more than 20,000 degrees and melted like soft wax. It appears that all these molecules which have been made the freer and more movable in proportion to their rarification, work like globules of a minuteness which staggers the imagination, and despite this vacuum, upon which man so prides himself, their number appears infinite.

[SEPTEMBER 4, M. S. 33.]

to those used in some of the preceding experiments, should contain say a septillion (1,000,000,-000,000,000,000,000,000) of molecules of air. Now, if we should effect a vacuum of a millionth part of atmosphere, the globe would still contain a quintillion (sextillion?) of molecules. That is nothing? It is enormous, unimaginable. Let us pierce this crystal globe by means of the electric spark, which penetrates it with an aperture quite microscopic, but large enough, nevertheless, to permit the air to re-enter. How long a time would be required for the quintillion of molecules to return the globe? If one hundred millions should enter per second, it would require to fill it-

12,882,510,617,470,500 seconds,

or

- 149,103,132,147 days,
- 408,501,371 years.

More than four hundred million years! And yet the globe is filled at the end of an hour. What conclusion may we derive from this? That not only ten millions of molecules enter per second, but three hundred quintillions. The diminutiveness of the molecules is then utterly unimaginable they are, so to speak, mathematical points.

In the study of the fourth condition of matter, it seems that we have gathered and submitted to our power the minute indivisible atoms which may be considered the base of the universe; and that we have reached the point at which matter and force seem to be confounded, marking the obscure dominion-the dividing line between the known and unknown. May the learned experimentor permit us here a reflection inspired by his own experiments? That which he calls radiant matter, may it not be simply a mode of being of electricity? The radiation observed, the luminous and calorific phenomena produced, the deviations obtained under the influence of the mugnet and of magnetic currents,-do not these suggest to the mind the existence of operations of an electric order? But no matter what theory may be adopted, his experiments are none the less curious and of the first order, We will close by an indiscretion: it was in studying the phe-nomena of Spiritism that Mr. Crookes was led to his magnificient discoveries.

JAY CHAAPEL has gone to the Sunapce Lake Campmeeting and is authorized to receive subscriptions and represent MIND AND MATTER at the meetings.

MRS. JAMES A. BLISS will hold a few select. seances at Northampton, Mass., at no distant day. Her spirit guides are now showing two spirit forms and Mrs. Bliss at the same time.

Owing to our unavoidable absence for the past five days we were not able to obtain the usual supply of Spirit Communications for this week's issue. Next week we will make up for this deficiency.

GROVE MEETING.-The Spiritualists of Lakewood, N.J., will hold their second Grove Meeting on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 11th and 12th, com-mencing at 3 o'clock. Col. D. M. Fox, Mrs. Nettie Pease Fox, and other speakers are expected. All

OUR NIGHT ON THE MOUNTAINS.

About sun-down we halted at a little log cabin where lives a man by the name of Reed. We were kindly received by this mountaineer and his kind family. The old man (in his good old way) brought out a kin of drink known in this mountain country as "snake bite." Roberts and Palmer imbibed freely and declared that the drink was something new and wonderful. I did not partake myself, and consequently cannot speak from experience. It was almost a transparent liquid resembling pure spring water. Roberts soon delivered an exhortation, in which he called down the divine blessing of common sense, industry and happiness upon the household, much of which they need and all of which seemed to delight the family. The house was illuminated after dark by lighting a pine knot and throwing it into the fireplace,

OFF FOR THE MINES.

After a refreshing night sleep, notwithstanding we were awakened two or three times by a dog howling under the bed, while friend Reed pulled him out by the tail, for the purpose of driving some cattle out of the field, for they have all things in common down here) we started at 7 A. M. for the mines; and from 8 A. M. until 3 P. M. we explored these matchless wonders of the earth.

THE MINES DESCRIBED.

I am not overdrawing the picture, when I say a million of dollars worth of coal and ore can be brought into the market of the world every year. Many of these hills are covered with miltimber. and I may truly say the finest lumber timber in the world. As soon as the railroad is bloom of wealth and fruitage of prosperity unsur-passed if equalled in the sunny South.

It is my judgment that in view of this salubrious clime, the grandness of nature, the healthfulness of the country, the coming of the railroad, and the opening up of these extensive mines, (which will give work to thousands) that this country offers the emigrant what no other country in the South or West can. It offers wealth, it offers health, a good home, a good market, plenty of employment, and an absolute certainty of great financial success. These lands can be bought cheap at this time, though in a few months' nothing but an imaginative mind can guess what they will be worth. 'A company has been organized to operate the mines, and they will be opened forth-Arrangements have also been made to put these beautiful and matchless mountain form lands | hand. into the hands of actual settlers at exceedingly low rates, and on the best terms ever offered in the land market. While in this city, we are stopping with the Dickey family. The family consists of Mr. Dickey, as she went: his wife, his wife's sister, (Miss Goddard) a most excellent young lady, and a younger Mr. Dickey. This happy young family are doing a most excellent business in this place. The kindness I have received at their hands will lasting linger in the sweet and silent pages of my memory. And the Robin flew down among the blossoming trees, and the Rose, fresh and crimson, once. again dropped into the Fairy Queen's lap, and the lame Rabbit nestled at her feet, and they all cried out, at once:

Here she is! Here she is!"

" For this three wishes shall be granted to you," they are !

"If you please, Fairy Queen," said Trotcosey, very much frightened at the tone of her own voice, "I should like, first, for humpbacked Peters to be made straight again; and next, I should like little Lotty, the miller's daughter, to become as lions of dollars worth of walnut, poplar, and pine strong and well as I am, because she's dying ofconsumption, you know, Fairy Queen; and—and, you please, I want old Kattchen to find the blue completed, these Eden hills will burst into the hen she lost last week, because she's very old and poor, and she needs the eggs !"

The Fairy Queen smiled as she listened to the unselfish little girl.

"But you have asked nothing for yourself?" said she. "All the same, you shall not go emptyhanded out of the Fairy-world !"

She touched Trotcosey's tawny hair with her wand, and it become bright and shining likegold. She laid the withered rose against her cheek, and the loveliest tint overspread the sunburnt skin.

" I grant you a heart that is always merry, and footsteps that are ever light," said she-

And, as Trotcosey listened, there was the farsoff sound of chiming bells, and the pearl throne and glittering columns faded away, and she was sitting once more among the ferns, with the cow-bells close to her ears and the stalk o red lilies in her

So she walked along home, singing the old song

"Fairies, fairies, come back once more !"

And just on the edge of the meadows she met a little lad skipping and dancing.

"Why, surely !" she said, "that can't be humpbacked Peter, for he is as straight as a young birch tree. But he certainly looks like humpbacked Peter."

Wonder of wonders! It was humpbacked Peter, cured of his sad affliction.

With the aid of these varied and ingenius experimentors-Mr. Crookes demonstrates the following propositions:

Upon whatever point radiant matter strikes, it determines an energetic phosporescent action; it moves in right lines. When intercepted by a solid substance it gives a shadow; it exerts an energetic mechanical action upon bodies with which it comes in contact; it changes its course in right lines when in its path it approaches a magnet; and produces heat when it is checked in its movement.

MR. JAMES A. BLISS has returned from his four in the East and will now be able to attend to his much neglected correspondence. His labors in behalf of MIND AND MATTER, at the Lake Pleasant Campmeeting, were well rewarded by a large list of subscribers.

GEO. D. SEARCH, of Wichita, Kan., is authorized to act as our agent in that city. Our subscribers will aid him in the discharge of his duties. He offers to give a "seance for slate writing" or one admission to his materializing seances to all whowill subscribe for MIND AND MATTER through him. THE grand result of Col. J. C. Bundy's recent visit to Lake Pleasant Campmeeting was to disgust all true Spiritualists with the toadying of the officers of the association to that enemy of mediums and Spiritualism and has added 115 new subscribers to our list. We hope he will keep up his travelling, and if the will only let us know where he is going we will gladly send our representative to follow him.

NEXT WERK We will commence the publication of the facts which resulted in the Katy King Imbroglio, so-called. As that fiasco was the beginning of the attempt of the combined spirit and mortal enemies of Spiritualism to arrest the occurrence of spirit materializations, the narration of those facts will enable those who are made acquainted with them to appreciate the events of a similar nature, which have since transpired and which will doubtless occur hereafter. Those wishing to know the true inwardness of the hostility to spirit materialization will do well to subscribe for MIND AND MATTER at this time, NORTHERN WISCONSIN SPIRITUAL CONFERENCE.-We have the pleasure of announcing that we have secured a speaker for our next quarterly meeting, to be held in Omro, Wis., September 17th, 18th and 19th, 1880, Cephas B. LESSONS.

All lesser streams are silenced In ocean's grander roar; The cataract majestic Is sounding evermore:

Nature's eternal anthem Leaves nought unsaid, unsung; Type of the mind immortal, Whose lyre the Godhead strung.

How, like the wild sea's current, "Casting up mire and dirt," Are human souls still struggling The evil to avert.

To reach a higher stand-point, If heaven perchance be nigh, When sinking in the vortex, Where fear and discord lie.

But yet God's plan is onward. The burdened soul deseries, eyond the umbrageous forest The hills of promise rise.

Grander, because the valley Is nestling in between ; Fairer, because all tangled The thickets intervene.

Clearer, for sparkling dew-drops Like gems bedeck the way; Their scintilations blending With the peerless light of day.

All Nature, reads a lesson To this thinking soul of mine ; Truer than fabled story, More potent, more benign.

The page alive and glowing, Each word a spoken psalm, Sent with the force of lightning All error to disarm.

Read thou that page my brother, 'Tis open round thy way; All ample to thy vision; The golden sunlight's ray.

Shall gild thy mind's researches, Trace out the hidden plan, And teach God's ways are easy To the delving soul of man.

Then woman's mind so fitted Life's mysteries to discern Will poise with open vision A higher truth to learn.

'Tis laid on all your altars, This open book so fair ; Scan well the page before you ; Read thou the lesson there.

Perchance a problem deeper, May stagger and amaze; But patience on the morrow, Dispels the mist and haze.

While inspiration glowing, Still comes from the worlds above Where the Father's "many mansions" Are rayed with purer love.

Lake Pleasant Camp Meeting Notes.

SPECIALLY REPORTED BY JAMES A. BLISS.

A number of Philadelphians and Brooklynites are in camp.

A. B. Severance returns to his home in Milwaukee. Wis., at the close of the meeting.

Mrs. Carrie Van Duzee, of Philadelphia, is a quiet observer of affairs and is much out of health at present.

George Dillingham, magnetic healer, of Lynn, Mass., goes to Lake George, N. Y., this close of the meeting. Mrs. H. Jennie Warren, formerly of California, has been giving general satisfaction at the meeting as a trance medium. Miss Jennie Rhind, the typical medium, goes to the Sunapee Campmeeting, from there to Boston. Address her, in care of Mrs. Bowker, 312 Dudley St., Boston, Mass. Mary Eddy Huntoon will go to the Sunapee Campineeting, from there to Chittenden, Vt. thence to Plainville, Conn. She is meeting with success in her seances. Mrs. L. C. Pasco, Hartford, Conn., has a beautiful cottage overlooking the auditorium; it was planned entirely under spirit direction. A person cannot fail to feel at home in the genial presence of its proprietress. Mrs. Sue B. Fales (West Ingle) has been overflowed with business while at the meeting this summer. She is the most remarkable clairvoyant I ever met. She will soon resume her writings for the Voice of Angels. Mrs. Isadore E. Bassey, of Troy, N. Y., has been stopping at Excelsior Cottage and has made many warm friends in the camp by her genial manners. She is a private medium, but bids fair to become one of the brightest lights in the field of mediumship at no distant day. Mrs. Nellie Nelson, "the strong and substantial" medium, has delighted many with her spirit control, "Maggie," She has named her cottage "Maggie's Home," in honor of that faithful guide. The spirit friends are able to give wonderful tests by way of full names through this channel. Charles Watkins, the famous indepedent slate writer, has been a great blessing to this meeting. His slate writing tests are absolute, convincing sceptics against their will. His time has been fully occupied, and all have expressed themselves as perfectly satisfied. Long may such instruments live to bless humanity. Arthur Hodges has been very successful in his test circles in giving trance communications, and the grove resounded with words of praise uttered in his behalf. None can fail to respect Mr. Chas. Faulkner for his gentlemanly manner of conducting Mr. Hodges seances. Mr. H. has returned to his home, No. 53 Dover St., Boston, Mass. Mrs. J. J. Clark, of Plainville, Conn., is stopping at Excelsior Cottage, and has been very successful in giving tests to strangers. She is a public speaker, a subscriber of MIND AND MATTER, and would like to make engagements with societies in the West. She gives very fine tests from the rostrum, while lecturing. Address her at Plainville, Connecticut. Mr. F. E. Stedman, the gentlemanly caterer, fed over four thousand people last Sunday. This comes within one thousand of the number that were fed on the shores in olden times. How many basketsful of fragments were taken up we were not in-formed, but I am certain that it took more than five small loaves and a few fishes to feed that hungry crowd. Dr. W. A. Towne and family, of Springfield, Mass., are located at Chestnut Square, and they are enjoying themselves hugely. The Doctor is a portly gentleman and is filled with that vital power that will heal the most stubborn diseases. I spent a very pleasant hour with him at his cottage and found him a very sociable gentleman.

thence will return to his home in Amherst.

Horatio Eddy is one of the finest physical mediums the writer ever met. The manifestations out in the midst of an address, "You are a liar." that occur in his presence are absolute and un- This was enough to show the material that the questionable. Any person who doubts the mani-festations of spirits in the light would do well to publicly insulted the speaker, is a noted turbulent visit his seances. His clairvoyant powers are also fellow, and a general disturber of public meetings very perfect, and many tests of a striking charac- | ter are given during his seances.

Keeler and Rothermel, the well-known physical mediums, have held their seances in the hall him not only from the meeting but from the and done well. Mr. Keeler is a quiet gentleman and will soon recommence the publication of the Celestial City, Brooklyn, N. Y., which suspended a short time since for the Summer. He requests his subscribers to have a little patience with him. The paper will appear in an enlarged form.

At a physical seance held by Messrs. Keeler and Rothermel, Sunday afternoon, August 22d, Mrs. C. Hastings, of Sullivan, N. H., fully recognized by certain peculiarities the spirit hand of her husband, which gave a communication, in a fac simile of his own handwriting. Sceptics sought to dissuade this lady, but it was of no avail, for she remarked, "1 know that hand and I know it is my husband's hand."

W. L. Jack, M. D., of Haverhill, Mass.. at the close of the meeting, goes to Northampton, Mass. He will be happy to receive subscriptions for MIND AND MATTER. From Northampton he returns to his home in Haverhill. He says he has given seventy-eight private sittings to sceptics, besides regular patrons since he has been upon the ground. He has also been very successful in diagnosing diseases.

W. J. Colville's address on Thursday morning was a grand affair. The spirit guides took occasion to denounce all who seek to discredit the mediums for physical phenomena in the most positive language, saying to them, "Take away the physical demonstrations and away goes the whole structure of Modern Spiritualism." He was greeted with long and continued applause by the large audience there assembled.

Horatio and William Eddy are holding crowded seances two and three times a day. The manifestations in the presence of these mediums were never stronger than now. The writer has spent many happy hours with them in their cottage, and by the most careful observation failed to find anything in these two gentlemen but the strictest honesty. They are now being properly appre-ciated by Spiritualists and have the most harmonious seances the writer ever attended. Horatio goes to Chittenden, Vt., and will hold seances in New York City this Winter. William goes to the Sanapee Campmeeting, where he will hold in their performances." seances.

E. V. Wilson, materialized, came out of the fortune at the time, to be an inmate of th cabinet, shook hands with the writer and gave tests to the audience, last Thursday night, from the cabinet of the "Eddy boys." Every feature was perfect, and any person who had ever seen Mr. Wilson could not fail to recognize him. 11e has controlled several mediums on the ground this year, among them was Mrs. Stiles, of Worcester, Mass. Upon that lady's questioning the materialized form-if he had really controlled herhe answered, "Yes, my child," and told her that she would be called to fill the place he had once filled, as a platform test medium. So the good work goes on. Mrs. Carrie E. S. Twing, since the campmeeting opened, has given over one hundred and lifty private sittings, and those who have been so lucky as to have the chance to sit with her have always expressed the greatest satisfaction. She will remain during the meeting, and at its close will give a few select scances and sittings at the residence of H. A. Budington, No. 98 Sherman street, Springfield, Mass. She contemplates visiting New York and Philadelphia this winter. Any person who may desire a sitting for themselves or friends with this most remarkable mechanical writer will do well to address Mr. Buddington, her faithful agent, at once, as her services are in great demand. Campers who have been to this immense campmeeting for years, stated-that-there-has never been a time when mediums were-more successful than this year. One thing is certain, mediums are more independent than ever before and now dare to assert their rights. Many of them state that it is on the account of the vigorous action of MIND AND MATTER for the last year and a half, in denouncing the pretended exposers of mediums, and placing them in their true light before the world. Mediums! hold on, a little while longer, combine your powers, work to the one great end and ere long Bundyism will be a thing of the past. Show your love for the cause by inducing your friends to subscribe for MIND AND MATTER. Dr. Juliet H. Severance has won the love and respect of all, the physical mediums upon the ground, by her grand addresses in favor of materialization at the conference meetings." Her remarks were received with the loudest applause as she related her experience of late with Mrs. Bliss, where she saw two spirits at one time while the medium was in full sight. The management of the campmeeting have in every possible way sought to keep Mrs. Severance from their rostrum, but the people have demanded that her lectures should be given to them, and have crowded the conference meeting tent to hear them. She is a radical and able speaker and a lady in every respect, and has won the favor, respect and esteem of all who have met with her. She goes to New York State for a few weeks to visit a sister, after that sh? would be pleased to receive calls to lecture. Address her at Milwaukee, Wis. The question of "Mediums' Rights" has been fully answered by the persistent course of Miss Jennie Rhind, of Boston, Mass., in refusing to give up to the association the right to govern, or rather to preside over, the conference meetings held in a tent that she paid for with her own money. The "directors" threatened to take the tent down, but fearing legal consequences they desisted from such a disgraceful proceeding. The idea that a peaceable and orderly meeting of mediums should be broken up by the directors simply because a Bundvite called one of the speakers a liar is absurd. denouncing the medical law of New York State | was preserved in the meetings and that the dis-

> On Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, during a thunder shower, Dr. F. L. Patch, a magnetic healer, of Greenfield, Mass., was magnetizing paper in his tent. A flash of lightning and a sharp peal of thunder came simultaneously. The Doctor was thrown down upon the lounge that was in the tent in an unconscious condition. A lady waspresent who saw the bolt as it went through the tent, but was not effected by it. She commenced rubbing the Doctor and tried to restore him from his apparent dying condition. While doing so some intelligence controlled the Doctor, saying, "Send for Dr. Newton," pointing in a certain di-rection. The lady went in the direction pointed out by the Doctor and found a gentleman who said that he was Dr. Newton, and he (Dr. N.) immediately went to see the patient and proceeded to give him a treatment. The intelligence controlling Dr. Patch objected to his manner of treatment, and called for pencil and paper and proceeded to give full written instructions to Dr. N. how to restore at the first trial, and so are not as easily recoghim to consciousness. The instructions were followed to the letter and in about one hour and a half he was completely restored to his normal condition. During that hour and a half he was under a strong spasmodic influence. Drs. Patch and Newton are remarkable mediums and very successful healers. The above facts are vouched for by the following persons who have volunteered the use of their names : Mrs. R. C. Brigham, Mr. and Mrs. A. U. Roland, Dr. Luther P. Newton and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Leavenworth.

Who Are The Befooled?

Editor Mind and Matter:

From the Albany Daily Press of July 17th, 1 clip the following local:

"NEW BERLIN.-The Eddy brothers, Spiritualists, are fooling crowds here with their seances. They pretend to materialize various persons of ancient and modern times, including friends of the duped spectators. A number of people believe

I am one of the believers, and it being my good e house where the seances were held, I claim to know more about the matter than those who were not there. It was not the Eddy brothers, but William Eddy who held the seances. He held seven on consecutive evenings from July 9th, and in all one hundred and seventy-three forms were shown. Of these several were controlling spirits, and were sometimes repeated on different evenings, as were some other spirits who were presented. The different spirits which manifested must have exceeded a hundred. Think of that I "Crowds here," there were crowds on the other side far more eager than on this! The forms were almost universally recognized they were of great diversity of size and shape, and presented many marked personal characteristics. They were too real, too human, to please the critics. They seemed to expect something unreal thuman.

that prohibits the clairvoyant and magnetic heal- turber was ejected from the ground or placed un- the phenomena, and with the laws of mind and and conceptions, should feel doubtful of the genuineness of manifestations with which they are so unfamiliar.

> And perhaps it is not to be wondered at, that those outside who listened to the extravagant and wonder-working gossips about this strange, and to this locality comparatively new ism, should turnaway or join in the din.

> But to those who were there, by night and by day, who could know for a surety that there were no accomplices, no machinery behind the scenes; who could see the honest scientific product-be itmuch or little-their own souls bearing witness that these things were indeed so, it was the very gate of heaven. To me these were confirmations and revealments "too pure for the touch of a word." What if the rabble riot ! and the unbeliever scoff! It is sad only for them. What if society shut its unenvied door in the face, and friends turn sorrowfully away! The sorrow is theirs, that they are turning also away from their soul's best life, and from the faces and yearning love of their dear ones!

> They do not so understand it. To them it is a farce and a mockery. One said to me, "Be honest, tell me-for you was there and must knowcould not they have had puppets or figures? Don't laugh at me, for I want to know." "I want to know, too, the truth always. I do know there were no puppets nor preparations for the manifestations, excepting to hang up the curtain. We were entirely free to examine everything."

"Masks!—they say they had masks?"

"Did any body see them? I did not. You went up to your friend-did he have a mask on?" No; I felt his face with my hand. It looked like him. It was his shape and size. The eyes were natural at first, then seemed to sink away." "That was proof if you understood it. He began to dematerialize-could stay no longer. Some times they are not formed as fully and perfectly nized. You heard a controlling spirit remind us that when Jesus was arisen and first materialized his disciples did not know him. You had as much proof as doubting Thomas."

"Then you think it really was spirits?"

"I have no reason not to think so." Another said : "If these are our spirit friends, why do they come in this way?" "What way ?"

"Excuse me; but through these despised Spiritualists?

"An old, old question. 'Can any good thing come out of Nazareth ""

'I mean, why do they not come to other people, to myself, for instance?"

"They do-to every body-just as near as every body will let them. It is not their fault that we do not commune with them."

All are not mediums?"

" Not consciously ; all are not singers. Perhaps mediumship is as inherent as singing, and with like application to the culture of each, like progress might follow. With progress comes appreciation of higher excellence in a science. Listening to a Jenny Lind, would be, to the one, like enjoying the benefits of William Eddy's medium-e has a large practice and is very successful in healing the sick.

A resolution, presented by Dr. J. M. Peebles, was passed at the meeting, hast Sunday morning, The directors should have seen that law and order | all evil.

"Spirits!" say they, "we thought would look like spirits."

"Wings?"

"No; but something shadowy, angel faces." "Some show 'angel faces,' some show as they vere here, and some are as they were here."

" Do not like that-death should change them." "It is the law; our tastes have not been con-ulted." "And you believe in bad spirits?"

"Certainly; we send over enough to prevent a carcity."

And you think they influence people?"

"It is self-evident that they do." ³¹Then we will have nothing to do with Spiritualism.' "That will not help the matter. It is of no use for an ostrich to put his head in a bush and think there is no danger. Ignorance is neither bliss nor safety. Evil influences do not ask for creeds but for chances-weak points, control of surroundings, of appetite, of passion, of will power."

"There should be laws to prevent this?"

"There are; but of what use are laws unless their application is known? Knowledge is power. O, that there were more understanding of these things for the good of the whole world."

" How happen these Spiritualists to have all the knowledge and power ?"

"By seeking it, as in any science, but they have not all, only a few pebbles from the shores of truth.'

"We do not believe the doctrine anyway."

"That does not affect its reality." "They say that one of your spirits came out and danced. Is that so?' "Surely it is; why not? There is more cause for joy than sorrow." 'Smoke! one of the spirits smelt of tobacco smoke!" "Onite likely! what would you expect? There was smoking in the house, plenty of smokers in the circle, the 'spirit' smoked immoderately when here, and Grandma Eaton (a controlling spirit) says she smokes a great deal there, which is orthodox-very."

"We would rather our dead friends would not come in such a way, with so much talk about it. We would not go to see them if they did."

'Well, that may be the measure of love; but there are those who have laid the bodies of their dead away, who would run a worse gauntlet than talk, and go to a hovel, or a brothel, if need be to meet them once again, and come out scathless through the great law of love, which overcometh ship to the other."

"Some folks say, if William Eddy wishes to convert people, he must explain more and submit to test conditions."

"It is not a proselyting performance. He does explain when asked to do so. Understanding cannot be thrust upon people. They must be receptive-ask and they shall receive-seek and they shall find-knock and it shall be opened unto them.' He has been tested and tortured enough in the past. His time is more than full ministering to the eager, waiting ones, on this side and on that, who appreciate and comprehend something of his powers and of the work he is doing.

"I like the looks of William Eddy," said my fair friend, "he is not a handsome man, with his irregular features and thick-set organism, but when he speaks or smiles his face lights up beautifully."

"To me his manner says, 'I am about my father's business.' He seems not disturbed by the tumult he creates."

"I have been at it twonty years," he said, " and I do not expect to stop now."

"Do you never take a vacation?"

"Cometimes a night, when I am travelling." And with his patient, benignant face, he looked as if he meant to keep on forever.

Another interested one said: "Tell about the dark scances, I heard you had a regular Indian pow wow every night."

"The first two or three nights, after the people were in bed and the lights out, there was instrumental playing in the seance room, nothing more. Then, one evening after the house was still, I came down quietly and waited. I soon heard George Fox (controlling spirit) in the seance room, talking and tuning a violin. Then I heard Grandma Eaton-as we all call her-speaking to him and running her fingers over the organ keys. 'Grandma, can I come in?' I asked. 'Yes.' I glided in and found a seat in the darkness. I felt myself in the presence of those who had shuffled off this mortal coil. I had a confident, cared-for feeling-a happy, consciousness of the blessed opportunity. Grandma Eaton came near and conversed, like any person, on the trials of my past, hopes of the future, and spoke of my beautiful mother, whom I had seen in the seance that evening. Her hands patted my head, instruments played around me and rested on my lap, and George Fox said I was holding a 'dark seance.' They helped me gleefully to call the others, who came in joyously one after another from different ways. William Eddy was breathing deeply in a trance in his bed in an adjoining room; his young relative and bed-fellow, Frank Wade, was asking, in a frightened voice, for a big Indian to go out of the bed-room ; the organ and banjo were playing; the violin playing and sailing in the top of the room; the Indians whooped, and the Pow wow was well begun. Such a spirit of play and mirthprovoking influence as filled the place! I could have shouted in glee! The joke and laugh went round ; there was singing and improvising by the controlling spirits, all in merry good humor. 'We come to cheer you up,' said Grandma Eaton; 'you earth folks are too sad and sedate.""

And is it not so? Are not the faces of this generation growing set and dejected, like "the toilers of the soil" or the builders of the pyramids? Let the good angels come in."

AGAIN AT HIS WORK OF SLANDERING A TRUE AND FAITHFUL MEDIUM.

Chronicle published a statement, entitled "A Spirit Cast Out-How an Unbeliever Materialized a Seance," In order to illustrate what Col. Bundy regards as proper material to use against an outraged medium we will reproduce a portion of that article:

"On Monday evening there was one of these spirit shows given (by Mrs. Crindle) in the building to a large gathering of people, among whom were Col. J. P. Dameron, the distinguished Democratic statesman, Judge Collins, and other believers in spirits. There was also in the gathering ope Thomas H. Hannah, of No. 5151 Bush street, a graceless unbeliever, who had been coaxed by his friends into attending, to be convinced by occular demonstration that the spirits will, to oblige cer- tends he knows nothing about the truth or falsity tain gifted persons, return and put on their earnal vestments to talk with the living. The lights were turned low, when the medium entered a cabinet and began preparations for calling up the spirits. After the usual mystic persuasiveness, it was announced that the ghosts were acquiescent and were coming to commune with the circle. An aperture appeared in the folding doors; a curtain moyed aside, Spirit No. 1 was disclosed and was announced as the Empress Josephine material-gand under all circumstances. Our readers may ized. The spirits of several other defuncts returned in the flesh to talk with the select circle of sitters, who, with many 'Ohs!' and 'Ahs!' acknowledged the favor, holding their breath in a wed credence. A deserted sister of one of the party returned, and was recognized by him and talked with him at considerable length. Finally, the spirit of a lady long dead, who was annonneed by her celestial title of Star Eye, by which name she seemed a familiar of the circle. She appeared to be a spirit of superior rank, and the veteran sitters of the circle were much more awed at her appearance than at the condescension of the Empress Josephine, Duke of Wellington, Hannibal, or any other of the distinguished dead who had come for a few moment's gossip with the meeting. Mr. Hannah grew interested, for he noticed a remarkable physical resemblance in all the spirits of the evening, as if each wore the same fleshly garments over different spiritual framework. In fact, the spirits, to an eye which penetrated the outward disguises of headdress and pants, looked all of one family. Hannah put up his half-dollar for a chat with Star Eye—learned from her that his only sister-he never had one-was happy in heaven; that his mother-in-law-he was never married-was being rewarded according to her deserts, in the other world, and that his wife's spirit was rejoiced to see him coming to a belief in the spirits, and would come to commune with him at the next sitting of the circle. At parting the spirit put out a hand to lay it on his head, when he grasped the wrist with both hands and gave a violent pull. 'Star Eye' shrieked hysterically as her head banged against the door with a force that changed her to Blackeye, and proved the material part of her, whatever might be thought of her spiritual pretension. The company held up its hands and raised its voice in horror at the profanation of spirits. Hannah braced himself against the door, shouting above the clamor of the company, 'Come out of that, you son of a gun.' The spirit struggled hard, but Hannah tugged like a puppy at a root, and after a brief struggle, the spirit yielded with a shrick, and came through the aperture in the door, head first, with another spirit strangely clinging to her, The two piled on top of Hannah, who fell on his back in the middle of the floor with the violence of his pull and the sudden yielding of the spirits. In the fall the spirit's wig fell off, revealing the features of Mrs. Crindle, the medium, and the other spirit proved to be the husband of Mrs. Sleeper, the owner of the house and treasurer of the show. The circle broke up in considerable excitement and confusion, and Hannah made his exit through the front window." A copy of that manifestly lying statement was sent to us at the time of its publication, and with it the following correction on the part of the paper, the San Francisco Chronicle, that had published the unfounded libel. The only truth there was diumship but his dishonest baseness. about this vile attempt to injure Mrs. Crindle, was that the man Hannah, while drunk, had caught that Col. Bundy copied from the Chronicle, as pub- for altogether they do more harm than good, to themselves outside the spiritual lines.

hold of the hand of a materialized spirit and attempted to do it violence; but in this instance, as in many others, to the utter discomfiture of the drunken wretch who was ejected unceremoniously from the room for his brutality. The editor of the Chronicle, the next day, published the following:

"On Wednesday there appeared in the Chronicle, under the heading of "A Spirit Cast Out," the account of Mr. Hannah's tussle with the materialized spirit 'Star Eye,' according to that gentleman's version of the affair. He, however, appears to have been the only person present at the seance," (remember, there was a large gathering of those persons present) " who is of the opinion ance." that the advantage rested with him in his tug with the spirit, as may be seen from the subjoined communication from J. P. Dameron, J. F. Schaffer and Judge John A. Collins:

"To the Editor of the Chronicle-Sir :- We feel that it is our duty, in justice to Mrs. Crindle, to make the following statement. In reply to an article that appeared in your paper, July 14, entitled 'A Spirit Cast Out.' We say that the whole story therein is false, and that neither Mrs. Crindle nor any other person was pulled out of a cabinet or dark room by Mr. Hannah and exposed; that he did attempt to pull some one or some spirit, but that it got loose and disappeared in the dark; that at go time was there an exposure of any one or any person; that we were astonished at the effort made and the power of resistance, and the ease with which it jerked away; that there was no wig or mask or faces exposed; that Mr. Sleeper, who he says was pulled out with her, has been dead many years, and that Mrs. Sleeper is a lady of high standing and of wealth, and we believe that she would not lend herself to a fraud intentionally. We took all precautions to prevent any fraud. We admit it to be a phenomenon beyond our power of detection.'

The rest of the communication of these impartial and truthful gentlemen the Chronicle refused to publish. It no doubt related to the manner of the drunken ruffian Hannah's exit through the front window. We intentionally took no notice of this outrage on a defenceless female medium, feeling very sure that if we did not do so, that Col. Bundy would attempt to use it, to injure Mrs. As long ago as July 14th last, the San Francisco Crindle and give a color of excuse for his habitual scoundrelism towards assailed mediums. We can see no way of opening the eyes of Spiritualists to the real character of the founder of Bundyism, but to have him display his vile nature as often as possible.

> After waiting for nearly six weeks Col. Bundy walks into the trap we set for him, and publishes verbatim the whole lying slander of the Chronicle. but says not a word about the exposure of the falsity of that slander published the next day in the same paper. Having thus become the wilfully malicious libeller of Mrs. Crindle, Col. Bundy has the impudence to lie about the matter, and reof the statement, the nature of which he could not fail to have known, although he goes as far as he dares to lead his readers to believe it is in the main correct. His excuse for this outrage on truth and decency is as follows : " We publish the above without youching for its e tire correctness, but to show our readers the necessity of absolute test conditions at all times ask, why this sweeping assertion ? We reply that Mrs. Crindle has friends who believe in her as a genuine medium in some phases, yet granting the correctness of their belief, it seems that little, if any, confidence can be placed in the materializations which occur in her presence, not to mention the entire absence of scientific value of any phenomena produced in her presence without crucial test conditions." Spiritualists what can you think of the moral monster who can be guilty of professing to be a friend of Spiritualism, and of spiritual mediums, and at the same time resort to such base means to injure one of the best and most thoroughly tested mediums in the field. Col. Dameron, Mr. J. F. Shaffer and Judge Collins say that Mrs. Crindle at that very seance, was sitting after those present had taken all precautions to prevent any fraud, and yet the drunken brute who assailed the manifesting spirit, was not satisfied to allow the manifestations to take place without violent interference. What test conditions would have served to protect either a spirit, or medium from his assault. What does Col. Bundy mean by "crucial test conditions." The meaning of the word crucial, is a test which would subject a medium or manifesting spirits to real agonies, not less severe than the imaginary agonies of Gethsemane. In assailing Mrs. Crindle, Col. Bundy is compelled to seize upon such lies as the open and avowed enemies of Spiritualism put in circulation against her. He knows if he knows anything about Mrs. Crindle and her seances, that she always gives her seances under such circumstances as will show that the -manifestations that may occur, is the work of spirits, and not of herself or any mortal assistants. When Col. Bundy tries to make the fact appear otherwise, he is guilty of what he either knows nothing about, or that he knows is false. In either case he is equally the foe of truth. Col. Bundy's continued prating about the scientific value of spiritual manifestations, is the height of absurdity, in view of the fact that nine out of every ten of the dunderheads who claim to be scientists, declare that no spiritual manifestations have the least scientific value the important question. The cause of it is plain whatever.

lished in the same paper the following day, and let us see whether he will have the manly honesty to emulate the enforced fairness of the San Francisco Herald, a malignant foe of Spiritualism. Such a man is unworthy of the countenance of any properly informed friend of the cause. As little respect is due to those persons calling themselves Spiritualists, who encourage and countenance him in his villainous war upon tru h as it is manifested in Spiritualism.

BUNDYISM IN ENGLAND.

The Spiritualist, (London, England), of August 13th, ult., contains a notice of the arrival of Marry Bastian, in that city. It says:

"Mr. Harry Bastian, who is well known both in this country and in America, for his remarkable powers as a medium, reached London a few days ago, and intends to remain in England for a time. His address is 2 Vernon Place, Bloomsbury. He obtains the ordinary cabinet and dark circle manifestations; but cabinet manifestations have been falling into discredit in this country, for altogether they do more harm than good to mediums and to the movement. The most interesting feature of Mr. Bastian's mediumship, and the one most in demand in London is, that he can obtain the materialization of spirit hands, as well as a few other phenomena, in moderate light. There is a strong feeling abroad that new manifestations are much wanted, and that mediums that can obtain phenomena in broad daylight should be strongly supported. Mrs. Mary Marshall and Mr. Home could obtained strong manifestations while they were in full view, in daylight, and a return to those old fashioned seances in place of those now held in darkness, would be a welcome hange."

This is the way William H. Harrison, the editor of The Spiritualist, proposes to advance the cause of Spiritualism. Reading it in the light of common sense, it is difficult to realize that the man who wrote it was any other than some bigoted enemy of Spiritualism, rather than the editor of a journal that claims to be the leading spiritual paper of Great Britain. Mr. Harrison has been helping the cause of Spiritualism along in that same way since about the time that Col. Bundy has been devoting the R.P. Journal to the same absurd and destructive policy. And it amounts to just this. These men have resolved to take the control of spiritual manifestations out of the hands of the spirits, who can alone produce them, when provided with the necessary conditions for their production; or failing in this, to pursue a course of obstruction, that will effectually prevent the manifestations from taking place. No course could be more inimical and destructive to the spiritual movement, than is the attempt on the part of professing Spiritualists to defeat the work of the spirit representatives of supernal wisdom, in fulfilling the great mission they have been so grandly pushing on. Were these men, the mediums and to the movement." Here we have Mr. Harrison admitting that Mr. Bastian is a genuine medium for cabinet and dark circle manifestations, and yet he, a professed friend and advocate of Spiritualism, condemns such manifestations as injurious to the medium and to Spiritualism, those manifestations which have given Mr. Bastian the reputation he enjoys as a renowned medium, and converted to; or rather has convinced more ignorant people of the truths of Spiritualism than The Spiritualist will do if it is published for the next fifty years. Were it not for the persistent efforts of such pseudo spiritual journals to depreciate and discredit just such manifestations as occur through Mr. Bastian, and which have given him the prominence he has gained, it would be difficult to estimate what would be the result of his labors as a public medium. For The Spiritualist to array itself against Mr. Bastian shows that it fears the crushing effects of Mr. Bastian's seances on its scheme to defeat the spirit workers in their efforts to convince mankind, by postive evidence, of the truths which they come to teach.

The Spiritualist says: "The most interesting feature of Mr. Bastian's mediumship, and the one most in demand in London, is that he can obtain the materialization of spirit hands, as well as a few other phenomena, in moderate light." A more unfair attempt to depreciate the mediumship of Mr. Bastian could hardly have been hit upon by an open enemy, and justifies us in concluding that the object of it was to deceive those who could be induced to stay away from Mr. Bastian's seances. We know, from personal knowledge, that Mr. Bastian makes no profession of obtaining anything in the way of spirit manifestations. Like all honest and true mediums, he conforms to the instructions of his spirit guides, and by passively yielding thereto the latter produce the most remarkable manifestations of their knowledge and power. Not only do materialized spirit hands appear, but full forms, perfectly recognizable to those present, and this in sufficient light to be plainly seen; and these forms, many of them. speak and converse with their friends Mr. Bastian allows the fullest opportunity to test the genuineness of the manifestations. We advise all who can do so, to attend the seances of Mr. Bastian and of all other mediums for spirit materialization, and see for themselves the wicked absurdity of the Harrisons, Stainton-Moses, Bundys, Brittans, etc., to prevent the occurrence of spirit materializations; or, failing in that, to discredit them as far as lies in their power.

The Spiritualist says: "Cabinet and dark circle manifestations have done more harm than good to mediums and to the movement." Will Mr. Harrison or Col, Bundy tell us how that assertion is true? These have given them a chance to slander mediums and oppose Spiritualism to an extent that is deplorable, and when that is said all is said that has an appearance of truth about it. They know the popular prejudice which exists in the minds of those who have no knowledge concerning Spiritualism, against all spiritual mediums and manifestations, and they labor to increase that prejudice and prevent investigation as far as in their power. Doing this in the name of Spiritualism they operate with disastrous effect to the cause of truth and to their own interests temporal as well as spiritual. But what are we to think of the following stab. at all the phenomenal facts which have been the foundation of Spiritualism in the past? Mr. Harrison says: "There is a strong feeling abroad that new manifestations are much wanted and that mediums that can obtain phenomena in broad daylight should be strongly supported." Could any enemy of mediums for the production of spiritual phenomena have taken a meaner or more malignant method of injuring them than this recommendation that unless the phenomena can be given through them in broad daylight they should not be supported? We know it could not be done, and we believe that Mr. Harrison knows it could not and hence took that course. We are forced to conclude that Mr. Harrison, who claims to be conversant with the results of spirit effort, knows what he is doing; and that he must intend that what he suggests shall suppress all spirit manifestations that can possibly take place that will be accessible to the public. Where are the mediums that can enable the spirit forces to produce in broad daylight phenomena in the least comparable to those which occur under the negative terrestial conditions of nocturnal rest? To in-Spiritualism has become a dead quantity in the sist that the advantages which night affords for intercourse with spirits shall not be made this the fault of Spiritualism, or is it the fault of available for that purpose is to oppose that interthose men who have determined to rule or ruin equise in the only way that opposition can be successful. This is what the Spiritualist and the the conduct of the latter; editors, lecturers and R.-P. Journal are engaged in, and it is the most deadly and destructive opposition that Spiritualwide spread discouragement and apathy prevails | ism has ever had to encounter. Steadily the spirit among the true and disinterested friends of Spir. world is making headway against that opposition, and those engaged in it will be forced to succomb. When that time arrives, which is now not far in the distance, Spiritualism will make short work of and is clearly illustrated in The Spiritualist's notice the outside opposition against it. As long as cabiof Mr. Bastian's arrival in London and the charac- nets and dark circles are necessary or needed by ter of the manifestations which occur through his the spirit workers they will be used and all sensimediumship. Says Mr. Harrison : "He" (Bas- ble friends of Spiritualism will encourage them. None but enemies will oppose them, no matcle manifestations; but cabinet manifestations ter what they profess or call themselves. Let the lines be drawn sharply between the friends We will send the correction of the falsehoods have been falling into discredit in this country, and enemies of truth, and let the latter ever find and those who adopt their views, open and avowed enemies of Spiritualism, their arrogant and nonsensical conduct would amount to nothing. The influence which they exert, of an injurious chara ger, is, solely the result of the mistaken idea that they are honest and sincere friends of truth; and of the supposition that men who seek representative positions as Spiritualists, could not be so insane as to do that which would destroy the cause they aspire to lead.

Col. Bundy can go on with his lying to prejudice people against Mrs. Crindle, who know nothing about her; and her spirit guides will go on demonstrating not only the genuineness of her me-

Under the lead of Mr. Harrison, and others like himself, the cause of Spiritualism has been reduced to the most pitiable straits, and public in terest in Spiritualism in Great Britain, is as nearly dead as it could well be, under any circumstances. The Medium and Daybreok and The Spiritualist, two old and long established publications, and, indeed, the only two independent spiritual papers of much circillation in that country, are not selfsupporting, if we believe the statements of the proprietors of them. But for the advertising advantages which is afforded them in their book trade, it is more than questionable whether they would incur the expense of continuing non-paying publications, Recently, Mr. Morse, the celebrated English medium and speaker, in noticing the arrival of Mrs. Richmond in England, said that she would find it necessary to hold her services at a much more moderate valuation than when in that conntry a year or two ago. Mr. Morse did not hesitate to publicly admit the fact, that the best spiritual lecturers in England were compelled to speak without compensation, and often to bear their own expenses to keep up appearances, such had been the decline of public interest in Spiritualism.

Who will be bold enough to say that the state of affairs is much different in this country ? Since Bundyism made its appearance, and the preposterous policy of "reforming" Spiritualism begun, solution of the current questions of the day. Is the spiritual movement? MIND AND MATTER.

BUNDYISM AT LAKE PLEASANT CAMP-MEETING.

In his recent expedition to the East, Col. John C. Bundy, found himself at the Lake Pleasant Campmeeting, of which organization Dr. Beals is President. Having been permitted to ventilate his peculiar methods of propagating Bundyism, that association was so delighted with the "reform movement" of which the R.-P. Journal is the "organ"-declared so to be by Col. Bundy-that they tendered to him a formal public reception; at which, certain persons sought how low they could go down in the dust to do this traitor to Spiritualism honor. And now let us see what it was that so delighted the Lake Pleasant Camp-meeting Association; and what kind of friends of Spiritualism they are. Among other things Col. Bundy said to them:

"We need not be over anxious about adding to the number of avowed Spiritualists. However gratifying large numbers, great audiences and popular approval may be to our pride ; such signs of success are not in themselves evidences of genuine spiritual growth. We as Spiritualists need to cultivate a desire for and knowledge of the higher aspects of Spiritualism, rather than to continue our wandering through the wilderness of rudimentary facts. A higher spiritual culture, a anore profound and con prehensive knowledge of philosophy and ethics should be our aim."

What is all that but a deliberate attempt to make it appear that Spiritualism is precisely what its slandering enemies have sought to make it appear a perverted craving for rudimentary fa ts, tlfat was irrational and injurious to those who indulged therein. Spiritualists need and can have no higher desire than to attain to a know-Jedge of truth, and to satisfy that desire, they plainable in two ways is worthless as evidence of have been ruled by the demon Authority. It is must seek to determine the facts that can alone spirit intercourse. I came among you knowing (equally false that Col. Bandy has ever munifested give such knowledge. Col. Bundy calls such a search, as "wandering through the wilderness of rudimentary facts" and insists that Spiritualists should aim at a "higher culture" than can be derived from rudimentary facts. He prates of a more profound and comprehensive knowledge of philo ophy and ethics in Spiritualism than its rudimentary facts impart. We would like Col. Bundy to inform us in what department of human knowledge do the consistent and sensible friends. of learning contemn and diseard the rudimentary facts, without which there can be no knowledge of any kind. We venture to assert that he dare not attempt to do so, for he well knows he could not.

But to show that there is not a particle of hon esty in that attempt to detract from the importance of, what he contemptuously calls "rudimentary facts," in the same sentence he says :

"Spiritualism being the synthesis of well attested phenomena, is just what every one chooses he said:

"Conviction of the truth of spirit phenomena does not necessarily make a man better; indeed, it often makes him for the time bein ; worse." This is about as near the truth as Col. B. is ever likely to get. He knows the phenomena of Spiritualism are true, but instead of that knowledge making him a better man it seems only to have afforded him a field in which he could display his capacity for iniquity, falsehood and hypocrisy. Spiritualism has undoubtedly made Col. Bundy a worse man than he would have been, for it offered to his penchant for notoriety a chance for development which it could hardly have found elsewhere. That he has made the best use of his opportunities to display the dark side of his nature few who have watched his course, as we have, will deny. The only question now is to determine how many fools can be found among the professed Spiritualists to become his devotees. To show that if Col. Bundy is so indifferent about adding to the number of avowed Spiritualists, he is not so indifferent about adding to the number of avowed Bundyites, hear what he says:

"Man moves through life upon the line of the least resistance, and I am gratified that the line of least resistence to the majority of Spiritualists is carrying them up to a higher plane of thought and action. I see this unmistakably evidenced by the general sentiment of the several campineet ings which I have attended within the past few weeks. I am encouraged and strengthened by my intercourse with you here at Lake Pleasant. note with satisfaction the growing sentiment which demands that our phenomena must rest on a strictly scientific basis; that a phenomenon expersonally but few. I have met here the same cordial, hearty greeting from the officers of your association and the people that I have received at Neshaminy and Onset. I have absorbed new life his whole course shows the very opposite to be of the critical and analytical methods of investigation. I shall leave the green hills of Massachuchusetts, and the hospitable, sympathetic soils assembled here, with a higher courage and firmer | efforts to discredit many of the truest, best, andme. Truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, will continue to be my motto in the future as the past?"

If there is anything in that self-gratulation hav ing any relation to Spiritualism, we would like to be informed where it comes in. A more insulting insignation as to the motives which prompt those who are so carried away by moral cowardice as to give up Spiritualism, as taught and exemplified by the spirit world, for Bundyism, it would be difficult to clothe in language. They are told by their new idol that they have kneeled at his feet, because his kind of bastard "reform" calls forth less resistance from the enemies of Spiritualism That is very true, for Col. Bundy is doing the work of that enemy, and he intimates that you gratulatory approval of the alacrity with which you added to the number of avowed Bundvites? As we do not desire to withhold the names of those who stooped the lowest at the behest of the great editorial head of Bundyism, we will notice those who took public part in this most unbecoming spiritual campmeeting reception.

tended. In his efforts to depreciate Spiritualism, that demon, Authority! I thank you as a medium, who for ten years has been in the public field, for your earnest friendship and defence of neous display of approval and appreciation is true mediumship; and I also thank you for your lintended not alone for me, but as well for the efforts to purge our ranks of imposture and fraud. The time will come when mediumship will be recognized as a profession by the friends of Spiritualism and the general public; and character, as bling the spiritual movement." exemplified by pure lives and right living, will be demanded of all mediums; and above all, that hey give honest phenomena. When Spiritualists 5 ennoble Spiritualism? It has made it its especial will arise in their might, and say, as with one voice, 'We will not condone fraud no more than the world will condone wrong doing,' we shall see a new life."

In no disrespectful sense we ask Capt. Brown if he understood what he was himself saying? We doubt it. Capt. Brown assures us that he has been for ten years a public medium. We are led to ask, in view of that kind of talk, a medium for whom? Surely not for influences that are friendly to Spiritualism. That is not the way such spirits act and speak. What "excrescences that have polluted the platform" has Col. Bundy cleared from it? We defy Capt. Brown, his spirit guide, or Col. Bundy, to name such an excrescence. It is a -Bundvite insinuation, that any excrescence has ever polluted the spiritual platform. It is a mean and groundless slander that Spiritualists have ever allowed anything of an immoral or degrading character to find a place upon their platforms. The instituation is false. It is equally false that Spiritualists have ever needed urging by Col. Bundy or anybody else to use common sense. That is just what they have always done, and any one who is not in the habit of using common sense is not a Spiritualist. Equally false is it that Spiritualists an earnest friendship for true mediumship. What ever he or any one else may say to the contrary, and strengthened my convictions of the wisdom the fact. Col. Bundy under the false and lying pretense of "purging our ranks of imposture and fraud," has been guilty of every outrage, in his determination to do the work which may be given most faithful mediums any where to be found. God help the guilty villain when he has to render an account therefor to his now seared and callous. conscience, as he awakes in spirit-life. We would rather be in the place of the vilest criminal that ever lived, for his sin is committed with light and knowledge, the sin of conspiring to murder truth! But what does Capt. Brown mean when he talks about mediumship becoming a profession. The thought is absurd. Mediums have no active. agency in what occurs through them by spirit power or influence, and therefore can never honestly profess to be able to do anything. Mediumship is a natural attribute which may be developed to a greater or less extent, but only so far as spirits can find them suited to their purposes. It is not dependent up in or governed by the mental, moral or social conditions of the individual, and any idea that this natural law will ever change is absurd. The individual who would demand that no person shall become a medium unless their character is exemplified by pure lives and right living, would be simply a fool. But the king of all fools would be the individual who would demand that mediums should give honest phenomena. Mediums can give no phenomena houest or dishonest. They have no control of what occurs through them through spirit power, and what occurs through their own will is not phenomena in the only sense in which that term is understood. As if he desired to outdo Col. Bundy in slandering Spiritualists, Capt. Brown insinuates that Spiritualists have been addicted to condoning fraud in Spiritualism, it is a most false and groundless instruction. As Capt, Brown is a medium, charity demands that we shall regard him as under the control of inimical spirits, and was not accountably for his utterances. Otherwise Capt. Brawn is a most worthy devotee of Bundyism, S. B. Nichols in reporting the part he took in this disgraceful spiritual camp meeting proceeding savs:

ings would over power me, and in vain seek expression in language. But I feel that this spontanoble corps of contributors and associates who have aided me in making the R.-P. Journal a mighty power in elevating, purifying and enno-

What has the Journal done to elevate, purify or business to degrade Spiritualism by every falsehood it could apply to effect that object. If Spiritualism is and has been what Col. Bundy and his corps of contributors have labored to make it appear a greater abomination never found a place on earth. This barefaced editorial fraud has the audacity to call himself a Spiritualist and to falsely pretend he has sought to purify it. The pretense is an insult to truth. Spiritualism, as we have before said, is the embodiment of truth, and cannot be purified nor defiled. It is not dependent on Col. Bundy for its purity and elevation ; nor can he by any thing he can do or say defile it. 'His efforts to do so have been in vain, and he will be wise if he now desists.

Bundyism can never take the place of Spiritualism, for could it do so the eternal laws of natural propriety would be at an end.

A Remarkable Cure.

POTSDAM, N. Y., August 23, 1880.

My DEAR GENERAL:-I do not write for the sake of showing to the world that I can write and thereby gain applause or flattery My only object in contributing to your columns is to let others know that there is a natural remedy in Spiritualism for all the mental and physical disorders that man and woman are heirs to.

The willing and faithful patients, only can receive the benefits to be derived from spirit magnetism. I doubt that an unwilling, unseeking subject can possibly obtain healing from spirit sources. The earnest, honest seeker for truth, is not turned empty away. But those who shut and bur the doors of the kingdom, and will not allow those who desire to enter to go in; neither will they go in themselves. Such people, in my opinion, cannot receive help from spirit healers.

About six months ago 1 applied to James A. Bliss for some of the magnetized paper advertised y him or through him, being at that time so deaf could not hear but poorly. Soon after applying the paper, the ulceration commenced in both ears and copions discharges were continuous up to about two weeks ago, when the ulcers healed, and my hearing is good now, the best for six years,

I find that the ulcerations and discharges relieved the pressure upon the inside of the ear drum, caused by catarrhal deposits, to which I have been subject all my life. These deposits prevented free vibrations of the drums, consequently deafness. By producing ulcerations and discharges it naturally left the drum free to act. Now what to make it; either a barren jumble of enricities, or the very life-spring of an earnest, pure and undefiled religion."

Here we have Col. Bundy admitting that Spirit- join in and help him, because you meet with less ualism is the synthesis of well attested phenom- resistance, by your debasement, than by living ena. And what, pray, are those well attested phe- faithful to your convictions of truth and right. nomena, other, than the contemned "wilderness. That this man should have offered you this indigof rudimentary facts" which Col. Bundy seeks to | nity is natural, for he knew you would not suppress? Are those facts a "wilderness?" No retain sense of honor enough to resent it, friend of Spiritualism so esteems them. He who That Col. Bundy should be encouraged and does so with wordy pretensions to learning and strengthened in his scheme to Bundyize' Spiritualpurity is a hypocrite that is entitled to no respect lists is quite natural, and it will be no fault of yours from its true and intelligent friends. But why if he is not eminently successful. What Colonel continue to lay bare the insincerity, dishonesty Bundy needs is the tangible evidence of your and ennity of the hypocrite who resorts to such sympathy. If you are sincere in your professions methods to cover up his treachery to truth? Has of approval of Col. Bundy's course, cleave to the not Col. Bundy told us that he is not seeking to add | Journal with all your resources, for we tell yo to the number of avowed Spiritualists. No, not that he will need all the help you can give him he. The fewer avowed Spiritualists there are, the ere he supplants Spiritualism by Bundyism. That better Col. Bundy and those whose representative is what he openly fells you he is striving to do he is as editor of their "organ," will be suited. Col.] for has he not told you not to be anxious to add Bundy would have Spiritualism to reach that to the number of avowed Spiritualists? and has condition in which the fewest persons would dare he not almost turned himself juside out in his to avow themselves its friends-so much does this arch traitor desire to see it prevail. In the face of such avowals as that from the public stand before those who are avowed Spiritualists, what reason is there for any one to claim that Col. Bundy or those he represents are friends of Spiritualism. It is and should ever be the desire and aim of every friend of Spiritualism to add by all proper means to the number of those who are avowed Spiritualists. In that way-and in that way only can Spiritualists make head against the opposition, secret and open, that is made to it. The man or class of men that oppose the increase of the numbers of avowed Spiritualists can be nothing but enemies to Spiritualism, "and don't you forget it."

Is there one particle of truth in this slander of Spiritualists? Col. B. says:

Spiritualists there are, who once accepted the dogmas of the church, but now rejecting the once orthodox God and the vicarious atonement take to their hearts a thousand gods in the shape of, to them infallible, spirit guides, and instead of making one man a scapegoat for their short comings they throw the responsibility upon the spiritworld, assuming that man is a mere automaton This is only another form of the old superstition."

Is that true? Has it ever been true of any Spiritualist? If so, when, where and in what manner was it ever manifested? It is not true. It is wickedly and maliciously false, and intended to give the bigo ed enemies of Spiritualism a reason for denouncing Spiritualism as an irrational superstition, even worse than the Christian superstition responsible for the infamy which he contemof a vicarious atonement for sin. We wonder that plates. he was not then and there called on for one fact that would warrant his vile attempt to degrade Col. B.: Spiritualism by thus slandering persons who had discarded past superstitions for truth.

his Lake Pleasant admirers the truth than he in- ualists to use common sense, to break away from mendation and cheer, were for me alone, my feel-

The first was the President, Dr. Beals. It is true his avowal of Bundyism was brief, but it was without stint. He said :

"We have met here to tender to Col. Bundy a reception. As editor of the Religio Philosophical Journal, he has nobly battled for the cause of Spiritualism, and as President of this Association, I welcome him to Lake Pleasant."

To all of which we say, it will require but little more of that kind of battling for Spiritualism to leave nothing of it. The fact becomes more and more evident that prominent Spiritualists are dropping Spiritualism; and in order to win the favor of as vile an impostor as ever took the name of Spiritualism upon his lipscare lending themselves to the work of arresting the spiritual movement in the wonderful career of progress'it was making, up to the time when, by a murderous conspiracy, it was made possible for a traitorous assassin to strike it to the heart. Every man or woman who approves the editorial course of Col. Bundy, so far as they give public or private expression to that approval, are aiding him to carry out his damnable treachery, and will be morally

Capt. H. H. Brown, among other things, said to

"As a lecturer, I wish to thank you for clearing the platforms of our faith from the excresences that have polluted it. This was a work we could a

" The President called upon S. B. Nichols, who made a few brief remarks, urging upon us to sustain not only the Religio-Philosophic d Journal, but the Banner of Light and Olive Branch, and all other journals that do not pervert and misrepresent Spiritualism.'

We cannot sufficiently thank Mr. Nichols for leaving MIND AND MATTER out of the list of spiritual journals, according to his standard for such publications. We do not train with that crowd. We are in dead earnest in our advocacy of Spiritstalism, and there need be no better evidence of that fact than that we have the bitter enmity of the shanderers of Mrs. J. R. Pickering, belongs to the Bundyites, and spoke her little speech to encourage him in his slanders of honest mediums.

David Jones, editor of the Olive Brauch, has left Spiritualism to soil himself with Bundyism. It is a pity, but it cannot be helped. Miss Jennie Hagan's guides currendered to the Bundy influences and delivered their encomiums upon his abomniable treachery, but she is not to blame. Mrs. Hester M. Poole took Bundyism in the natural way and it sits well upon her. Cephas was prudent and fought shy. He well knew that as the representative of the Baumer of Light he could not approve of Bundyism without insulting Mr. Colby and he evaded the endorsement of Bundvism,

In replying to these complimentary words of approval Col. Bundy said:

"My friends, did I for a moment suppose this On one point Col. Bundy came nearer to telling not do. We thank you for urging upon all Spirit- splendid ov dion, these heart-felt words of com-was there in that paper that produced the ulcerations? Nothing, These pupers are mere letters of introduction. Our mutual friend Bliss kindly introduced me to a physician, who operated upon my diseased ears, by my consent and solicitation. This physician, understanding my case, and the why, and how, of it, went to work and the result s I hear well now for which I thank Dr. Blackfoot and Red Cloud more heartily than I can express here.

These letters of introduction did not cost so much as M. D. services – plasters and pills—used to when I was a boy. And, by the way, I never received permanent help of my deafness until I applied for help through Spiritualism. In 1854 was very deal and had been for about a year. applied to N.G. Fellows, of Orleans Co., N.Y., and in fifteen minutes I could hear as well as over I could, and the cure remained permanent for over twenty years. In that case I had letters of introduction to the spiritual doctor and L applied in person, and the result is as stated, as many of my neighbors and friends know. That treatment did not cost me but a few shillings, in fact I had to urge what I did pay upon my doctor before he would receive it. Dr. Fellows is now deceased, as the world terms it, but he and those who helped me recently, through the kindness of James A. Bliss, are my frequent guests-and I know it. They say that my case requires their close attention. One of them said to me lately, "We don't want you to get on your ear again." This is said to me by something like a whisper or low voiced utterance. It is impossible for me to explain just how these friendly doctors speak to me.

It is the grand privilege of diseased humanity to throw off the accursed shackles with which we have so long been bound, and receive natural medicines from doctors' hands who are not dopendent upon diplomas and certificates from educated fools.

I hope I shall not get on my ear again.

On the day previous to taking down with her list illness, she remarked to the writer; that Hiram (spirit companion) was present; that he had informed her the angels were coming for her soon, and that she was ready to go. Ten days hence her carth-form was given to the keeping of the grave; and her spirit was an angel in the brighter clime. 'n her departure there passed from earth one among the most charitable mothers that Nature ever made.

J. H. MENDENHALL,

MATTER. MIND AND

Spiritualism or the Devil-Which?

WHEELING, Delaware Co., Ind., Aug. 23, 1880.

To the Editor of Mind and Matter: A few days ago I wrote a letter to an old friend and, after the usual greeting of friendship, I took the liberty to write a little in relation to Spiritualism. He being a physician, and also a preacher, I had heard that he had become a Spiritualist and a clairvoyant, and gave the name of my informant. Well, i received a letter from him in answer, which I will give, keeping back their names. It runs thus:

"ROYORTON, Aug. 10, 1880. "My DEAR FRIEND, M. N. DUNLAP:-I received your welcome letter on 9th inst., am sorry to hear of your sad misfortune and trouble. We are all well, for which I am thankful. Your informant has overestimated my ability as I think. It is true I had good success in treating his family, but my strength and trust was in God, and not in Modern Spiritualism. You say you can prove Spiritualism by the Bible. I admit you are correct in that, but while the Bible tells you that many spirits have gone into the world, it also gives you a rule to try those spirits. Every spirit that confesses that Jesus Christ come in the flesh is of God; and every spirit that confesseth not that he come in the flesh is not of God and is a spirit of the evil one. I am not a clairvoyant, as you heard. I am convinced there has been much | Calvin and others protested against Roman Caharm done to families and individuals and communities through the corrupt influence of Modern Spiritualism. Have all the evils of Spiritualism, in society, no powerful cause acting in the background? Would it not seem that there must be an agency, an active, intelligent and a malignant agency somewhere? Have you visited the circle and received a message purporting to come from a mother or child; from father, husband or wife? Be not deceived. May it not be something besides? A message from the dead, even the sly, seductive, crafty and deadly vice of satan, though clothed in salutations gentle as those of a mother? For seven years, says the learned Dr. Randolph, once a noted Spiritualist, but now reformed, I held daily intercourse with what purported to be my mother's spirit. I am now firmly persuaded that it was nothing but an infernal demon who, in that guise, gained my soul's confidence, and led me to the brink of ruin. Five of my friends, he this now little understood cause of the evils continues, destroyed themselves, and he says, he once made the attempt to destroy himself by direct spiritual influence. He further says, every crime in the calendar has been committed or moved by these viewless beings. So far as there has been so successful in "calling sinners to God." are anything supernatural in Modern Spiritualism in this city, Brooklyn and elsewhere, we have a we can trace the system home to its fountain-head, the abode infernal." Thus much for Mr. Randolph.

He says his five friends committed suicide and he came near doing the same thing. What is there in Spiritualism to frighten people to commit suicide, I would think there is much in the orthodox doctrine to drive people to such an act, When held, as it were, over a burning hell every week. Such dreadful threats of hell fire and damination, we think, would affect some like my friend that wrote the above letter, and the learned Randolph also,

Now, there has been two persons within seven

Aries, which gives its name to the Sun, the only light that lighteth all who come into the world, when that Sun is crucified, at the vernal equinox, by crossing the line, between the respective realms of the Serpent and the Lamb. Mr. Dunlap's friend is nearer to being a Spiritualist than are a very large proportion of those who to-day profess to be Spiritualists; for while the latter do all they can to hold the helpless and unoffending mediums responsible for the iniquities of ignorant, vicious and sensual spirits, the former places the saddle upon the right horse, when he lays the blame where it belongs, on evil spirits, generically included in the allegorical personation termed Satan or the Devil. Our individual experience with these evil spirits is, that the worst of them and those who incite the most of the wrong which results from spirit obsession have once been Christian clergymen, who are seeking to perpetuate the errors of the only Christian religion that ever had an existence on the earth-we mean Roman Catholicism. To talk about Protestant Christianity is about as absurd as it is for the Bundyites to talk about being Spiritualists. When Luther, tholicism, they protested against all there was of a Christian religion on the earth. They called their new religion Reformed Christianity, thus admitting that Christianity was not a pure and true religion, and needed to be supplanted by something else. The Reformed Christianity which they set up was not a whit better or truer than that which they sought to substitute, and is in no. sense Christian but in name.

A great point is, however, gained when we find clergymen themselves being developed as mediums for the control of spirits, for it will not then be long before this will become so common an event as to compel the various religious denominations to recognize the necessity of mastering which beset poor, ignorant and blindly led humanity.

In the case of the Rey. Thomas Harrison, who case where a young man, an unconscious medium, is under the complete control of a powerful mulatto spirit, once a ranting Methodist exhorter. who makes him act in a way that would suffice to establish a condition of lunacy in the case of any advocate of Spiritualism who would act in a similar manner. This spirit has controlled a medium in our presence, and the perfect identity of the spirit with the controlling spirit of Mr. Harrison was evident. The spirit admitted that he was the controlling influence in the case of Mr. Harrison, miles of this place, who have committed suicide | but claimed that he was doing nothing wrong in taking that method of propagating religion, as he called it. How many other revivalist enthusiasts are the victims of the same kind of obsession it would be interesting to determine. We hold that there is no form of spirit obsession more to be dreaded than obsession by the spirits of religious zealots. Their hold upon their victims is the most It is a fatal mistake on the part of those who oppose Spiritualism to suppose they are exempt from spirit influence because of that opposition. Spirit obsession is the result of conditions that have nothing whatever to do with the views or opinions of those who become possessed. The proportion of such cases is the same, no matter what the religious or social training of those who, before they know it, are helplessly under the psychological influence of spirits.

ASSISTED IN DEVELOPMENT.

Chicago, Illinois.

Mr. Bliss:-The magnetized papers are truly magical. My guides requested me to keep it in my sleeping room for three nights, and they have succeeded in harmonizing and establishing forces, so that there is the greatest difference in my mediumship, and now I send for more. God bless you. Yours. S. C. LOOMIS.

BLACKFOOT VISITS A CIRCLE.

Bro. Bliss :- Blackfoot's paper is doing a great work for the healing of the people. He came to our circle last Sunday evening and we enjoyed his visit very much. We all felt so much better for his coming that we invited him to come every Sunday. Please send two more papers. Yours truly,

M. D. Folsom, Normal, Ill.

DOING WONDERS:

Boston, Massachusetts.

Mr. Bliss :- My complaint has been out of the each of medicine for over forty years; and f r the last two years I have been under the doctors' care. I suffer much with throbbing at the pit of the stomach. I am sure that your papers are doing wonders for me. Ask the brave to do his best. I will be so glad. - I will do better the next time, as I am all up in arms and moving. You may ad-dress me here this time. T. L. Howe. dress me here this time.

RECEIVED GREAT BENEFT.

Oakland, Aug. 23, 1880. Mr. J. B. Bliss-Dear Sir :- Enclosed please find stamps to amount of forty cents, for which send me Blackfoot's magnetized paper one sheet a week. I sent last March and got one sheet and it did me a great deal of good, but I did not get enough to make a permanent cure. I am now determined to give it a fair trial. Perhaps you had better send two sheets the first time. I want to put one on my stomach and one on my lungs, and after that one a week. Direct to Mrs. P. W. Clem, No. 1379 New Broadway, Oakland, California. I also acknowledge the receipt of two copies of MIND AND MATTER. I like it v ry much, and thank the publishers, but I cannot subscribe for it at present. May God and the angels bless you all in your good work. Respectfully,

MRS. P. W. CLEM.

WAS IT BLACKFOOT'S WORK.

Unionport, Ind., August, 1880. James A. Bliss-Dear Brother :- Your magne tized paper, for clairvoyant development, when applied to the forehead, resulted as follows ; First night's application, a sensation was experienced by the writer similar to finger pattings on the forehead under paper for some five minutes, when a translucent atmosphere filled my bedroom; and a full score of Indian spirits, including sexes, presented themselves to n (clairvoyantly) seeming to be in a state of indescribable glee. A general dance took place with them, in which every member took part. Heard also (clairandiently) much jovial conversation, amid shouts of joy, of which I can call to mind only the words sounding like "Barba," "Mara;" but their meaning to the writer was, as the saying is, "All Injun." Second and third night's application : Nothing experienced but pattings or sensations upon the forehead, best described by the sensation of a strong beating pulse, seeming to come from the brain within. A few nights following, with paper applied, in about ten minutes a light flashed across my bedroom, followed by a report very like that of an exploding bombshell; and it seemed that a thousand shot. pebbles, or some other missiles, fell upon the floor against the walls, etc. So great was the sensation produced upon my system by said phenomenon, that I arose from my bed, and with lighted lamn searched my room thoroughly for the noisy intruders, but found nothing. Other phenomena of minor interest occasionally occurred, not herein mentioned. If Bro, Blackfoot and his band were the performers of said feats, they must have enjoyed the sport exceedingly at the writer's expense. All right. Will you please inquire of Blackfoot, whether said phenomena were produced by his orders, and report in his reply through MIND AND MATTER. J. H.-MEMDENHALL.

within six weeks, and they are watching over two m're, expecting them to do the same thing; but they were of the orthodox faith-not Spiritualists. For the Spiritualists do not shake such a ghost in the faces of the people. When will such superstition end?" Mr. Editor, I have intruded too far and will come to a close. Yours in the faith, M. N. DUNLAP.

There are three principal methods of opposing insatiable and seldom fails to destroy the body Spiritualism. First, to deny all the phenomenal and curse the spirit of such unfortunates. facts which have given rise to it or to attribute them all to the deception of the media or their assistants. Second, to admit that some of the phenomienal facts are the work of spirits, but in so few instances owing to mundane fraud and deception as not to accept any of those facts as demonstrated to be caused by human spirits. Third, that the phenomenal facts are what they purport to be, the result of unseen human spirits, but that these are all evil spirits and work only harm, or more harm than good, to those who seek to know the truth concerning these mysterious and most important phenomenal facts, to Modern Spiritualism comprise all who regard themselves too learned and exalted to examine into facts that refuse to conform to their views of natural propriety; and these presumptuous occurrences are rebuked by these leaders, or wouldbe leaders, of human thought, either by open denunciation or silent contempt. The second class are only to be found among professed Spiritualists, and are indeed the only class that have it in their power to do Spiritualism any special harm. These persons, making loud professions of a thorough knowledge of all matters relating to media, and the manifestations occurring to them either dishonestly or with wilful ignorance, seek to propiliate the other two classes by denying the reality of the great mass of facts, and claiming little more than the possibility of Spiritualism being true. Of the three classes of opposers of Spiritualism, these are the meanest and most contemptible. Those who constitute the third class comprise either orthodox Christian clergymen, Catholic and Protestant, or the ignorant, bigoted and credulous followers of the Christian clergy. Of this class is the clerical friend of our correspondent. This man is no doubt very sincere in his views, and finding himself confronted by facts that he cannot deny, admits those facts, but attributes them to that scape-goat, the Christian devil, who is made to bear away the iniquities of his Christian foes and permit them to enjoy exemption from the wiles of that purely mythical personage Satan the mighty foe of the Lamb of God; Satan being none other than the zodiacal Scorpion, the malignant sign, that by introducing the darkness, misery and death of winter into the world, causes the direst ills that flesh is heir to; and the Lamb of Zion, the crucified Lamb of God, the zodiacal sign

We expect to make this an especial subject of treatment through MIND AND MATTER as soon as time and circumstances will admit, for it is the Those who constitute the first class of opposers great, question of the hour how this evil is to be prevented and overcome.

The Fourth Annual Congress of the National Liberal League.

TO THE AUXILIARIES AND MEMBERS OF THE NATION-AL LIBERAL LEAGUE, GREETING:

The fourth annual Congress of the National Liberal League will be held at a hall to be hereafter designated in the city of Chicago, Ill., on the 17th, 18th, and 19th of Semptember next. All charter and life members of the National Liberal Lengue, the President and Secretary of each local auxiliary and three delegates from the same are entitled to seats and votes in the Congress, and all annual members of the National League are entitled to seats, but not to votes. As a President of the United States is to be elected this year, it is important that every one of the now two hundred auxiliaries shall be represented, and that a republie, every citizen of which professes that the State should be independent of the Church, and the Church of the State, shall no longer stultify itself by subsidizing ecclesiastical corporations in exempting their property from taxation, supporting religious instruction in schools, robbing the people of their time by Sunday laws, paying salaries for religious services, and exacting religious oaths as security for truth and fidelity to civil obligations. If the National Leagne has any voice, now is the time to have it heard. The Constitution under which we live consecrates the rights of speech and opinion and has no punishing power except for accurately defined and proven crime; and the depositories of this punishing power, National and State, have their well defined provinces and limits as servants of the people and protectors against all personal violence and fanatical persecution. The great question of the day is whether these bulwarks of individual liberty shall be swept away by the greed of power truckling to bigotry and superstition, or the voice and votes of a free and enlightened people shall teach political partisans that the whole is always greater than any part in the administration of our republic.

[SEPTEMBER 4, M. S. 33.]

A NEW EXEGESIS (OR EXPOSION) OF THE GOS-PEL OF ST. JOHN.

BY STEPHEN PEARL ANDREWS. First Paper.-Continued.

The colossal stature of the Egyptian Memnon at Thebes is fabled to have uttered a voice, or harp-like tones, each day at sunrise. The significance of the fable has caused infinite speculation, but has heretofore met with no satisfactory solution. There can be no doubt, now, that the meaning of the myth is this: The Definite Twilight, meant by the word mem-non (yes-no) and symbolizing Exact Discrimination, Equity and Law, is the instant when the sun is half above and half below the horizon. This is the critical instant at which the issuance of the full radiance of the Solar Ray is, as it were, determinately effected by the turning of the balance in favor of Light and Day as against Darkness and Night. This issuance of radiance was, as we have seen, summed up in a single ex-press-ion and called "The Word." What so natural, then, as that mem-non (the yesno of this issue and verdict), this centering instant of the definite Sun rise, should be reputed to have uttered words, sounds or tones (a verdict of decision) at that critical moment.

Memnon, Menes and Moses are thus the same; the one prime originator of justice; the earliest and typical law-giver of the nations; the same name indeed, varied in accordance with the well known laws of the wear and tear of language. For the law was given by Moses (as nearly identified with Johannes or John as the exact or Determinate Morning Twilight is identified with the Indefinite Morning Twilight), but grace and truth (the warmth and the light of life) came by Jesus Christ," (the full radiance of the rising and the risen sun).

We are now prepared to enquire into the scientific significance of these two names, Jesus and Christ, with strict reference to the cosmical recital.

"Grace" and "Truth," the marks by which Jesus Christ is here contrasted with Moses, who is distinguished by the law and its rigors; mean, as we have seen, the fostering warmth and enlightening influence of the Sun, and its Luminous Emanation. These together constitute the total bundle of radiations, the Collective Emanation, which is called "the Word," and "the only begotten Son," or Issue (of the Sun, or of God, according as the Recital is Cosmical or Spiritual).

We come then to the etymological significance of Jesus and Christ, as connected with the meanings of John and Moses. It is well known that Christ is not originally a proper name, any more than Messiah or Emanuel; all of them being de-scriptive appellations, founded on office or function; in the nature of titles, as distinguished from names. The point that is new, in what is about to be shown, is that Jesus (as a word) is also de-scriptive, titular or official; so that of the reformer of Judea, who has borne these two titles (if we assume that he had a real or historical and personal existence) the given and family names are alike and equally unknown to us. Of his history it will be seen that we know very little, when the Cosmical Recital and the strictly Spiritual Recital are withdrawn; and of his name we are entirely ignorant. The two names, Jesus and Christ, originated | Christ, (the yes and half-yes, or full and half-full of its appropriateness, from its traditional and acin and belonged to the Cosmical Recital, of a date | radiance of the supreme luminary of the world.) | cepted significance. many centuries farther back; although, as previ- The "seven horns" or "seven eyes" of this supously suggested, they may also have been the real names of existing personages. In the same manner as Johannes or John (Yes signifying virtually nothing, or being merely or popularizer of a new doctrine. John, Jesus and and No) means (in one aspect) the diffusive light mystical and incomprehensible, they become Paul follow each other in the order of the dawn, of the early morning, partly, perhaps, before the bright effulgence of the Sun begins to appear, so Jesus Christ means the Bright Effulgence of the j indubitably the seven colors into which the white Sun, itself, distinguished from Johannes, the feeble light of the sun disparts prismatically; and thus than the New Testament features of the subject to prophetic light, on the one hand; and from the we have the most conclusive testimony that these Sun itself (God, the father,) on the other hand, early ancients had observed, probably through The Sun, as such, is the unrevealed Day-God, the phenomenon of the rainbow, the exact comwhich, as said, no one has ever really seen; (The Ding-m-Sich, thing-in-itself; or the Unknowable, of Philosophy.) This single, unific or sol-id-like Mass of Radiance. from the Sun is, then, the revealed Day-God, and virtually one with the Sun (the Existere from the Esse; father and son equal; "who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God."] But this solidoid radiance, the radiance in its massive condition, had to be carefully discriminated from the same radiance broken into an infinity of shimmering forms by the surfaces of reflecting objects. Hence it was called the Sole or Sol-id Emanation ("the only begotten Son"), while the other objects were recognized as secondary Suns (or Sons of God). It is this Solid Emanation which rests on the bosom of the Sun, and which reveals the Sun to us ("No man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him"). The day, or affirmative aspect of the cosmical appearance, is again the Ia, Yu, Ja, Jam, and so the Yea and Yes, which expresses affirmation in the different languages; and this word-form is, as was shown, the first part of the name Johannes. It is also, it may now be said, with the subsequently appended termination -us, the whole of the name Jes-us or Yes-us. It means, therefore, day, daylight, the affirmative aspect of cosmical existence, the sole revelation to us of the sun itself. But this complete affirmative aspect is only true when the sun is fully risen. There is the other aspect of the sun, as seen, in which it is only half risen (or half set); when it dips beneath the horison, and is half affirmative and half negative; that is to say, it is crossed, or cut simply across, by the line of the horizon. Completely to name, the true solid sun's radiance, the visible or revealed sun. two words are therefore needed, are, indeed, indispensable. Jesus, the Yes or fully affirmative condition is one; the other is Cruxi-sta (crossstand-ing or crossed), Crusi-sta Cry-sta (cf. crystal cross-axisted); and hence Christ. Crux is the Latin word or cross and sta for stand (put, place). The simplest idea of crossing is not two lines cutting each other, but the single line or stroke drawn through or across an object, as, in this case, the line of the horison cutting the sun. The more complex idea grows out of it; as in the religious cross where two lines cross each other ; or in the still more complex case of the crystal, where there axes cross each other. It has, indeed, been heretofore assumed by commentators, and, in a sense, rightly enough, that the Greek Christos is from chrio, I annoint; and that it translates the Hebrew Messiah, meaning the annointed. The point which is new is, however, that in both cases (Hebrew and Greek) the meaning to annoint is a secondary idea, from the more primitive meaning of those words, which is to cross with a line, whence also, to draw the hand the Sun (stricken across) became The Crucified gently across, first as in drawing any line across, (Lamb or) Son of God.

with any substance which leaves a mark; and then as in the act of annointing, or smearing with oil, salve, or any soft substance. The original meaning of Messiah or Christos is, therefore. crossed or cross-lined; whence also distinguished or marked; and the very idea of oiling or smearing any one distinguished, or set aside for a particular purpose, to mark him as such, probably took its rise from the sameness of origin, and the full discussion of this important verbal point would be, however, too extended and too technical for the present, and will be resumed, for the learned, elsewhere.

Another and striking instance of popular mistake in respect to the meaning of words is found in the substitution of the word Lamb for the word Lamp. In the 29th verse of the 1st chapter of this gospel, John is represented as seeing Jesus coming to him, and saying: "Behold! the Lamb of God," etc. Let us again contrast the two relations:

COMMENT.

The phrase "the Lamb of God" has no meaning except such as it is invested with by the traditional veneration for the mere sound of the words. such as religion tends to impress, as sanctity, upon any form of words, however intrinsically senseless, which is habitually repeated in its acts of Dawn. worship. The faithful do not know; they hardly attempt to conjecture any distinct significance for this phrase. It is perhaps, in st frequently supposed that it has to do with the fact that lambs were sacrificed on the altar; but this is no more true of them than of bulls, rams, and other animals. The lamb is also associated with innocence and uncomplainingness, but these are not of the higher order of divine attributes; and would probably, hardly have been thought of as such, Lamb, had somehow, uttaccountably, intruded into the most prominent place in the conceptionof the divinity; the young of this simple animal, the sheep, having planted, itself, indeed, in the Apocalypse (Chap. V. v. 6.) in the centre of the throne of God. "And I beheld, and lo, in the midst of the throne, and of the four beasts, and inthe midst of the elders, stood a Lamb. (as it had been slain,) having seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven spirits of God, sent forth into all the world," (Rev. iv. 6.)

The moment we substitute Lamp for Lamb, the meaning and relevancy of all this is obvious. The Lamp of the Sun is the solid effulgence of the Sun, the Solar Ray, the onterance or utterance of the great luminary; and identical, therefore, with "the word," with "the true Light that lighteth every man" with "the only begotten Son of God" (sole issue of the Sun) and in a word with Jesus (sole issue of the Sun) and in a word with Jesus posed "Lamb of God," this Lamp of the Sun, nowbecome exceedingly interesting expressions. From Anarged with a luminous importance. The "seven horns" of the Solar Ray, seven projections, signify position of light which Newton demonstrated more distinctively at a quite recent date. The 'seven eyes" of the Sun's lamp mean the same Jove and twin brothers. According to the mythothing; namely the seven kinds of light in the logical account Pollux was immortal, and when Solar Ray; (the seven amshaspans of the Persian theology.) William Dowe, the philologist, affirms that every word in any language meaning light, flame, fire; etc., is derived from a word whose earlier meaning was the eye; how natural and appropriate then that the seven kinds of light in the Sun's rays should be called "seven eyes," whereas "seven horns" and "seven eyes" in a lamb, are unnatural and somewhat absurd. But these popular mistakes from "the disease of language" always had some adequate cause. The word lamp and lamb are not of an accidental resemblance in the English language merely, as is liable to be the first impression of the reader. They go back to a common origin which, we find illustrated, if not actually exhibited, in the Latin verb lamb-ere to lap, from which we speak in English of a lambent flame, lap-ping or enveloping its fuel; and in the Acts of the Apostles, (Chap. II v. 3.) the descent of the Holy Ghost (the vivifying influence of this same "Lamb of God" or Lamp of the Sun) is likened to "cloven tongues like as of fire," from the lambent or lapping character of their appearance. These also are "the seven. spirits of God" (the same spirits or jets of the solar ell'ulgence) which are "sent forth into the whole world." The striking habit of the lamb is to lap or lick with the longue, the hand that caresses it, and other objects; and it is the well known testimony of language, th t animals received their names from their most ordinary habits or usages. A lamb and the light and flames of a fire or lamp are thus both lap-pers; and this being the common name for both, the popular error ensued which is called paranomasia, the same play upon words in a serious and mistaken sense, which consciously and humorously em-ployed is called a pun. This natural, and as it were, inevitable, error distilled through ages of tradition, and become part of the common expression of the people, was taken up in good faith, by the roligious writers of a later generation, wrought into their account of what they supposed to be actual history; and so has descended to us as a part of "the Holy Scriptures," Lamb has the same meaning as in English in the Old Gothic tongue, and is probably as ancient as lamp. Though the two are not preserved to us in the same branch of European speech, they occur in connection, in the English language, by our adoption of the Greek form lamp, and by the descent to us of lamb through the Gothic. This error itself not only naturally ensued, but it propagated itself into the more extended and some of the most important ideas of theology; and thus, for example, the cross-marked lamp of

The cross-marked Lamp of the Sun means, in the light of what has now been said : The solid mass of the Effulgent Rays of the Sun, crossed, streaked, or stricken across by the sharp or cutting edge-line of the horizon.

Attention has already been twice called above to a marked distinction, emphasised in the Cosmical Recital, between the Solid Effulgence of the Sun, the Unbroken Mass of the Sun's Rays, rencontinuous sameness or near resemblance of the dered theologically, as "the Only begotten Son of word meaning to mark, or draw a line across, and God;" and the Manifoldness of Lights, resulting the word of secondary meaning to annoint or from the breaking up and general diffusion of this smear (also by drawing the hand across). The same light issuing from the Sun (the many "Sons, of God"); the One or Sole Light, and the many Lights, taking their origin in the same back-lying occult source, the actual Sun itself, unseen by us (God, the Father, or the unrevealed God). This point is so important that it must now be enlarged upon. Another New Testament name, the one which would be thought most secure of all from doubt as to its purely historical and personal character is now to be drawn into the sweep of the far more ancient Cosmical Recital. It is that of Paul, whose name, we are told, was changed, from having been Saul. The simple mention of this fact, consigned to an incidental text, is pregnant with significance. Saul and Paul are merely broadened pronunciations of Sol and Pol, the root-word-forms of the Latin sol-us, sole or single, and the Greek pol-us many (dating back to the time when those languages were virtually one). They are used in this connection, as we shall see presently as referring to the Sole or Sol-id Effulgence of the Sun's Rays, on the one hand, whence the Sun is also named Sol (in Latin), and to the Manifoldness of the Reflected, Refracted and Distributed Rays of the Sun, on the other hand.

The following tabulation will show strikingly the several varieties of light, brought into com parison

1. Johannes or John, the Diffusive and Prophetic

2. Jesus Christ, Sol, the Sol-id and Half-sol-id Effulgence of the Sun.

3. Paul, or Pol, the Many Lights; or Manifoldness of Rays (either as the diffusive light of Day, or the stellar variety of the Night).

That Paul had been previously called Saul, or Pol Sol, was merely the popular or unlearned misapprehension of the learned statement that the Plurality or Manifoldness is derived from, or comes after the Singleness or Solid Volume of the except as an accommodation to the fact that a Light; or, more generally, that plurality is derived from singleness. The fact is noted that the single changes into the manifold; or cosmically, that the Solid Effusion of the Sun's Radiance (Jesus Christ as the "Word," and the "Only begotten") breaks up unto, or is followed by the Scattered Outsendings of Light (the various epistles, missiles or outsendings of Paul) which, when through misapprehension, this feature came to stand for a person and his acts, figured as Paul, whose name was transmuted from Saul; and his numerous epistles to individuals and the churches. The fact that we have an actual body of epistles extant and attributed to Paul, while it complicates does not antagonize this view. It would be in full accordance with many other facts which will be wool (perhaps the origin of the words silk and slick). The fiber of wool, hair and the like, is the direct analogue or repeater of rays of light, and the thick part of the fleece is the same as the unbroken or solid effulgence of the sun-whence also Sol, the Latin name for the sun; Greek Hel-ios, s and h being interchangeable as between those two languages. Fiber has, by a succession of word-form-changes, been converted into the English be ver (b for f, and v for b); and beaver is castor, an animal also distinguished by this thickness of fiber of its hairy covering, equivalent to the sol-id effulgence of the sun's rays. Hence sollux came, in popular usage, to be replaced by Castor; and Castor and Pollux remain in the constellation Gemini (the Twins) instead of the earlier and more twin-like naming, Sollux an ' Pollux (or Saul and Paul).

Sol (the Latin for Sun), Saul, from which Paul was a derivation or successor, and Sollux the Day as predecessor of Pollux, the Night; one and the same; were, therefore, also one with Jesus Christ. the Yes and Half-yes, or the full and half-full effulgence of the Sun; with "the Word," the utterance or Emanation of the Sun; with the Son or Issue of the Sun; with "the Only begotten;" and with the Lamp of the Sun (mistakenly called the Lamb), all of them meaning the sol-id or massive, and hence the single and sole effulgence and emanation of the Sun; it representing in turn, and sent out from, to represent the actual backlying Sun (God, the Father, the Sun per se, or Dingan-Sich; the Unknowable), which no man has ever really seen.

Another writer (2) not resorting to any profound lingual or philosophical consideration of the subject, and guided, so far as appears, by the merely obvious resemblance of the words, has furnished the following table of divine names, including several of those we have been discussing:

Greece, Uranus, Bacchus, Apollo.

Latium, Janus, Castor, P llux. Syria, John, Christ, Paul.

India, Arjuna, Christna, Kapila,

This remarkable collocation of names will now dmit of some enlargement and correction, Uranus (Gr. ouranos) coming ultimately to mean Heaven, was "the beginner of Greek mythology, the opener of the day, and originally, the dawn. The prefix ur (root var) means originally, uttering, publishing, forth streaming (3), and, as a prefix merely strengthens the force of Johannes or Janus, the dawn, or the opener or promissor of day; the prophet or forerunner, John (Ur-anus, Ur-iannus, or l'r-Janus). Janus was the opener, beginner or incipiator of things, hence of the year (Janu-ary). For Arjuna I should substitute Varuna, another Hindoo God signifying the dawn (4) and identifying this name with the Greek Uranus; and this with ur, var, vri, primal, all-embracing, and un-us or un-um one; the pr mal unity-Yes-and-No.

In the second column, Bacchus is the Iarchus of Apollonius of Tyana and other ancients, and still farther back Jakchos, the cry of drunken or excited revelers or worshippers, and the same in origin as the sacred names Iao, Ia, Jah (Javeh, Jehovah), and Yes, Yes-us, Jes-us (5) as previ-ously explained. For Castor we may now substitute Sollux or Saul.

In the third column, we find Apollo; but Apollo was not a Night, but a Day-God, and as such should be transferred to the second column. We

It is part of this appropriateness, that in the personal recital, Jesus Christ should be followed by Paul, the founder by the diffusive prohulgator the full sun light, and the broken, diffusive and scattered light of the evening and the night.

So the matter would stand if we had no other guide us. But a curious and important corroboration is found in the classical field. Castor and Pollux are a celebrated pair of personages in the Greek and Latin mythology; (written in Greek Kastor and Poludukes). They were the sons of Castor was killed, offered to share his fate ; and they were permitted to enjoy life by turns. Castor excelled in horsemanship and Pollux in pugilistic contests (that is to say, the sun excels in coursing through the sky, and the dying day in brilliant and striking effects). It is now well understood that these fabled twins were merely the contrast of day and night, or what we may now say is virtually the same thing; the sun or daylight, or the solid effulgence of the God of day, and the night-light, or the broken and scattered light of the night. The night, indeed, or primal darkness may be taken as immortal, and is only lighted at last by sharing with its dying brother the day. They were translated into or identified with the constellation Gemini, "The Twins," (simply because in each case there was a pair of objects involved).

Let us now take our departure for the better understanding of this myth, in its connection with our present subject, from the meaning of the name Pollux or Poludukes. This is, in both languages, a word-compound simply meaning many lights (or 1. any casting of light, or watchings); or the manifoldness of light, an idea which applies not only to the shimmer of refracted and reflected daylight, especially at the breaking up or death of day, but still more distinctly to the night as lighted up by the moon and the stars. Pollux is Pollux (pol, many lux light), a Latin half translation of he Greek Poludukes, from polus, many, and duk, from the root du, to go forth, to stream out as rays of light, (1.)

Pollux, which is Pol or Paul, more fully rendered, means, therefore, numerous and diversified outsendings o light, and so of knowledge; and nothing could, therefore, be so appropriate, as a cognomen, for the writer of numerous and varied epistles, coming after, and expounding in detail the more solid or condensed doctrine of a preceeding master or founder; the night with its many minor lights following the day with its one great overwhelming luminosity; Paul succeeding to Jesus Christ, and dispensing the conception, which in im was concentrated and intense.

We ought, therefore, it would seem, instead of Castor, an unrelated word, to find the great light of day, the solid effulgence of the sun, the classical equivalent of Jesus Christ, of "the word," or "the only begotten sun of God." named sollux (sole light) or solu-dukes (or holo-dukes) in Greek form. This was doubtless originally the fact; and we have the trace of this word in the Latin sollox which only remains as signifying the thick or solid portion of the fleece of a sheep; or as the name of a breed of sheep distinguished for such are authorized to make this change by regarding the initial letter of this name as being the alphaprivative, which reverses the meaning. A-pol-lo is then A-pol-lox, Apollux, or A-pol-udukes, and the same therefore as Sol or Sol-lux. The other names need not detain us. The table so reconstituted will then stand as follows:

1. Twilight or the Dawn, 2. Original Sun-Light. 3. Sequent Sun-light and the Night.

Greece, Ur-anus; Sollux, Sol or Saul, A-pollo; Poludukes.

Latium, Ur-janus, Janus; Jakchos, Jarchus; Pol-

Suria, John; Christ; Paul.

India, Var-una; Christna; Ka-pil-a. I conclude this subject by referring the reader to the 10th and 11th chapters of Science of Language, 2d series, by Max Mueller, quite at large, and with the two following extracts:

"In an 'Essay on Comparative Mythology,' published in the 'Oxford Essays' of 1856, I collected [says Prof. Mueller] a number of legends which were told originally of the Dawn. Not one of the interpretations there proposed has ever, as far as I am aware, been controverted by facts or arguments. The difficulties pointed out by scholars, such as Curtius and Sonne, I hope I have removed by a former statement of my views. The difficulty which I myself have most keenly felt is the monotonous character of the dawn and the sun legends. 'Is every thing the Dawn? Is every thing the Sun?' This question I had asked myself many times before it was addressed to me by others. Whether by the reremarks on the prominent position occupied by the dawn in the involuntary philosophy of the ancient world, I have succeeded in partially removing that objection, I cannot tell, but I am bound to say that my own researches lead me again and again to the dawn and the sun as the chief burden of the myths of the Aryan race." (6).

"I look upon the sunrise and sunset, on the daily return of day-and night, on the battle between light and darkness, on the whole solar drama in all its details that are acted every day, every month, every year, in heaven and in earth, as the principal subject of early mythology. I consider that the very idea of divine powers sprang from the wonderment with which the forefathers of the Aryan family stared at the bright (deva) nowers that came and went no one knew whence or whither, that never failed, never died, and were called immortal, i. e., unfading, as compared with the feeble and decaying race of man." (7).

It is by no means intended here to deny that the author of the remarkable body of writings attributed to Saul or Paul of Tarsus was a real historical personage, nor even to deny that his name may have been Paul. What is asserted, as virtually proven, by this investigation, is that the name Paul had a much more ancient existence (several thousand years, probably) than his personality; that it was at that early period mixed up with the ideas of Sun-worship, and that its being a substitute for Saul or Sol was a reminiscence of the early meaning of the name, and probably not at all a fact in the personal history of the Paul of the New Testament story.
