JUBILANT!

Horace M. Richards read the following poem. originally written by him, at the Twenty-fifth Anniversary held in this city, being the first general celebration of the day.

Another year hath relied away Into the slient past— Another jubilee to-day Is added to the last.

I feel the mighty current
That sweeps the earth along,
And my soul keeps step to music— Of nature's holy song.

There's a grand and rythmic measure In the march of every star, That fills my soul with grandeur, As I gaze on it afar.

I know that countless ages
Lie buried in the past; That nature on her pages Will prove this truth at last

I know that God holds in his hand These ages as they roll; His care is over every land, And every human soul

The mighty ones who walk the earth, Or weakest of them all, His hand has held since hour of birth— Each answer to His call

I hear a swelling chorus, Resounding from the sky: I know that close unto us The Angel-world draws nigh,

I know dear forms we laid away, Beneath the flowers to sleep, Whose spirits congregate to day, This jubilee to keep. Their voices join in every prayer-

There is no vacant seat, Their holy influence calms me, Till sweetly o'er my soul A far diviner melody

Each song we sing, repeat; I feel their presence everywhere,

In waves of music roll. I feel a glad thanksgiving, And my soul is full of praise To know that I am living In these grand progressive days.

I feel the coming conflict,
That tests the worth of men,
When armed hosts will rally, From mountain and from glon,

Truth's mighty forces gather As stars that gem the night, I know the coming victory, Will be for God and right,

We never more need question The power that rules our land; He holds the mountain and the valley In the hollow of His hand.

SPIRIT COMMUNICATIONS.

March 28, M. S. 35,

ONE OF THE GUIDES.

I have been very much interested in the work which you are doing, for I see from a different standpoint than you, the effect of your labors and the result of your struggle to maintain your independence, and to give liberty to the rest of the human race. We have learned since we commenced holding these circles, a few months ago, that we possess unlimited power when we come in harmony with the law, that it is, not only holding the medium to give communications, but we can reach out in every direction and act upon other minds to work in the direction we wish them to go, to complete this important work that we have been talking about. Every circle that is held gives us varied opportunities to experiment, and to see how far we are acquainted with the law; and soon we will be able to make a universal application of a principle that has always existed and never been understood by any human being. I thought this morning that there were some things we had spoken of some twenty years ago, that were now coming before the people as a fact. One is that we would use electricity as the motive power, to conduct the inhabitants of earth from one place to another. To-day, there are experiments being made in that direction, and they are giving very satisfactory results. But we expect to act upon other minds and produce a better condition for that power to act. To-day, we are doing our utmost to bring every mind into a condition to study that power which is called electricity, and which no individual claims to understand. You have experimented, and looked carefully into the subject, and you are satisfied in your own mind that it can be made a great power, but you do not understand how to bring about that result to your entire satisfaction. You will necessarily have to wait a few months, and then, as we have promised, we will put our energies in that direction and give you a plan, or at least impress you, in a way to make machinery that can be acted upon with unlimited power. It will be simple in construction, and seem to the eye scarcely worth anything, or at least it will look to individuals as being something of very little use, but it will hold a power that is beyond the capacity of any piece of machinery that has ever been manufactured or constructed by the human brain. It is simplicity itself, yet it will be a power to move to get that power, for there will be very little outlay with a great deal of force to be used in various directions in mechanical pursuits of all kinds. And it will also be used upon the physical organization, to overcome many of the difficulties that now exist among men and wo-men. One of theGuides. I will give no name. It is just as well, for it is one of the great links in the chain, and it shows the direction in which spirit force is being used for our mutual good. I do not wish to be considered insane by the readers of your paper, but I will say to you what can be done by that power, because it is a universal principle, acting upon all matter. When it is understood, there will be no necessity for individuals to converse, or at least to use their organization to express thought, because you will come so completely in rapport with the law, that each one will understand the other without giving expression to thought. [When that day comes there will be an end to hypocrisy and deceit.] That is what we are working for, and that is the condition of spirit

JULIUS CASAR. (The Roman Emperor.) I heard the words hypocrisy and deceit men-tioned, and it left a feeling in my innermost being that necessitated me to take hold of this organization, and to speak thought in a manner, perhaps, no other individual has ever given utterance to. I mean the disposition of individuals to be governed by the power tney call religiousa power that means to control all humanity, whether it wishes to be controlled or not. I see that it has its origin in hypocrisy and deceit, and know that if you search the power of the church, through all time, you will discover that it has been the cause of all the misery that has existed in the human family. You understand? (Yes.) And whatever good men and women possess is the origin of their own individuality, independent of creed or sect. I do not hesitate to express myself as I do, for I know I am simply stating a truth, that no reasoning mind can overthrow. Now, I ask the readers of the paper, not to be startled at my expressions-not to be startled when I make an effort to give them the evidence of what I am speaking of. The origin of all evil belongs to the church, because it assumes that man can be something that he is not-that he can call upon a power to relieve him of his own individuality, or responsibility, and make him either a saint, or something superior to the rest of mankind. That is the origin of the cloak that almost all men and women wear, simply because they know that they are expected to be something different from themselves. And they have learned to hold converse with one another, and hide in their innermost being the real thoughts that exist within them. If the world could be freed from this power, you would stand then upon your own individuality. The motive for hypocrisy and deceit would cease to exist, because you would study your own organizations and know that you were human beings, governed by an organization that made demands upon you, and by paying heed to the forces of your being, you would learn to be true, noble and good. Now we have congregated here to-day, to talk upon any subject that may be presented to us, and I wish every reader of the paper to understand that I do not come here to abuse or crucify human beings. I only give utterance to my own individual thoughts, that men and women, reading the communication, may learn to be themselves. I condemn no one for being held by creeds, because it has been a force which they, of themselves, have been unable to resist. Until the present time men felt the nenecessity of some profession—felt the necessity of leaning upon some power, not knowing the power that they possessed within themselves. And, naturally, individuals look to something beyond themselves, but they have been so accustomed to some power of control, that they scarcely knew how to rely upon their own individuality. Now, the hour has come for men and women to lay aside the cloak and stand out in their own individuality. If the landscape is bright and beautiful, all eyes will be attracted to it; and if it is dark and gloomy, all men will assist in resurrecting it and making it a scene of beauty instead of distress. I am not here to make a lengthy speech, but I will be with you in your labors; I will watch and enable each human mind to see

I do not know as I care to have this published. but you can do as you please about it. You spoke of the ability of spirits to manifest power, and I thought perhaps I would be able to explain the matter to you, as I understood it. I do not claim to be a power that is able to demonstrate every-works hard to obtain certain objects, and is earnest in the direction in which he moves, let it be for good or evil, does not lose that power by what is called death. And spirits there, that have existed in a physical form, perhaps a century ago, after they enter into our plane of existence, add to that power, link by link, the same as you would in constructing a chain. They retain the power they | let it come from what direction it will. We want possessed while in their physical organizations, and they gain strength to work in the direction they are going, just the same as you would do if you were accumulating a fortune; and when the time comes for them to use this power for any particular result, it will be concentrated in such a manner that no person in the physical organization can resist the current as it falls over the minds of men. I am not going to remain with you long-I only give you my views of that one particular thing. My name was Hannah Loness. Ques. What place were you of when here in physical life? Ans. Fair Oaks, Virginia. Ques. Did you know Aunt Hattie? Ans. Yes; and she is watching round for patch-work. Ques. Had her coming anything to do with your coming to-day? Ans. Most assuredly it had. JOHN COON. I lived about seven miles from Cincinnati, Ohio. Some people are slower in acquiring knowledge than others, and some of us cannot readily take hold of the instrument and move right along as if there were no obstructions in the way, but I have concluded to make an effort to speak, for I feel that every spirit ought to take hold and work as soon as they discover this thing called mind controlling mind, or spirit changing organizations. When I lived in my physical organization, I would have considered any one an idiot to have said would ever return and hold an organization to express my ideas of matter and things. But I find from experience that individuals may think they have acquired conside able knowledge, when in reality they do not know anything, and I am perfectly willing to class myself among the number. I thought that it was necessary for people to pray and sing, and to have faith in the power called Jesus Christ, and for a long time I looked in every direction to find that heaven that I had so longed to reach; not that I had lived any better life than other individuals, or even tried to make individuals happy, for I was so exalted in myself that I never had time to attend the afflicted and weary. But of all the crimes it seems that the human family is guilty of, self-righteousness goes further to destroy the happiness of the human family than anything else, and I am anxious for men and women that claim to be so perfect in themselves, to study a little while before they come into spirit life without having some other kind of experience. It is not well for individuals to ignore the suffering of men and women around them. I would like now, if I could use this organization, to go out in the world and heal the sick, if I possessed the power, and to encourage and lift up the weak and erring. But, as that is impossible, I will make whatever effort I can in the direction of good. There are many men and women on the earth plane who have never had any opportunities; they have been taught despotism from the cradle to the grave, and it has always been their fullest idea of men and women. And the time must come, and that very soon, when there will be a complete revolution in society. If you observe the events of to-day, you will see that there is a great commotion going on around you. Some part of it you are able to see with the material eye, but many of you that have become spiritual are conscious of some power moving, that is a blessing to the elements around you. Now this is for the purpose of ushering in that grand and beautiful time in which men and women will live in harmony with one another; when all the discordant elements will disappear, and there will be a complete unity among men and women. To day, as I look out over the world, I see, that most families seem to think that they possess different interests and woman watches man's acts and forms her conclusions from his way of doing. Mon look upon women as simply tools to gratity their tastes and desires, and if she becomes a good housewife and a servant to her children, she is filling tell all I want to. I have studied this matter a her mission, in his estimation, to the best of her ability, and is worthy of being noticed occasionally when he happens to be in a partically good humor. Now that is all wrong, for the interest of one human being is the interest of another, and as the of earth life in the future. [Who is it that speaks?] Julius Casar. [We have august company.] Where could the noble be better enterpositive and negative forces have worked out a principle, which will be applied soon, we ask you to throw aside all prejudice, and look upon yourtained or more kindly received than here? But I do not wish to blame any man or woman for the education that they have received, but I do wish them at the present time, to open their eyes and drink in the truth, no more slaves or oppressed women, but we do want independent men and women, and we expect to work until we get them all over the world. They will not be an isolated few, but all will be taken into the fold. Ques. Who is it that speaks? Ans. John Coon. I lived about seven miles from Cincinnati, Ohio.

ANNIE LEACH.

(From the Neck, below Philadelphia.)

How do you do? I thought I would come in here a little while and see whether I could gain any strength, for I felt very weak and my friends told me that there was but one physician, and that was some person who was called a medium. That if I came and controlled one, all that disagreeable feeling would leave me. [I think you will find that is so.] I would like while I am here, to get a little better acquainted with this thing, for I never had any idea that people could use other tolks to cure themselves with. I thought they would have to take some medicine or do something. [No, you will find you will feel strong without taking medicine.] I am very glad it is so, because if you could see how many poor peo-ple are congregated around here, each one talking about their own particular ailments, and not one of us able to help the other, you would certainly feel glad to know there was such a thing they call a medium. And the gentleman who told me to come here, said that they could. through such a delicate organization, perform some wonderful cures. And I would like very much to have a hospital, or something, erected, where she could go and we could all come, every one that I am acquainted with, for I want every body to be cured as quickly as possible, be-cause there is a good deal to be done, and if we have no strength you know we cannot do much. You feel like going to work?] Yes, I do. [You will feel strong now when you go away from here.] I never was one that ever found fault with anybody. I did not know anything about mediums, or the power of spirits to come back, as I am doing now, but I am very glad it is so. because there are so many people here, and they are brought here day after day, and some come and stay from one circle to another, to get a chance to gain a little strength, but they cannot all control the medium, but sometimes some powerful spirit takes control and throws out a force upon them and that heals them. [I guess Julius Caesar did that?] Yes, he did a wonderful work. You know it is this way, when you get by somebody that has strength, it seems to give you strength. I want you to keep on as you are, for the people who would abuse you are coming in and trying to get some power, and when they come here it seems as if they were all broken up, or at least the big spirits get power over them, and they have to do just as they say. Ques. What was your idea of spirit life when you lived in the form? Ans, I did not think much about it. I did not make any pretension to being a Christian, because I did not know how to be one. I was not wicked though. Ques. You did not go to hell? Ans. No, nor to heaven neither, but I have felt awful weak, and they said that was the first start I was to make. Ques, Don't you feel stronger now? Ans. Yes, I feel all right, [You will feel better when you go out.] My name is Annie Leach, and I lived in a place called the neck, below Philadelphia. Ques. Have you friends here? Ans. No, I was an orphan, and was an only child, and lived around where I could. Some may think that is not a good place, but I saw no bad there you must know. [You are welcome here.] I know that, but I did not want you to think I was different from what I am.

DOCTOR FRLL. (New Hope, Backs Co., Pa.)

Will you please put my name down as Doctor Fell, of New Hope, because I may not be able to little, and I kind of have a faint idea that I was here before, I don't know whether I spoke or not, because since I came in contact with this organization, I took on some old conditions that made me unfit to speak intelligently to any one. and I cannot say that my brain is entirely clear now, because I have astonished myself very much. I possessed very good abilities, or at least people thought I possessed good abilities, and was able to heal diseases when many physicians would the direction of reformation. [Doctor, we are very glad to have you come.] I had some habits which would cloud and as I have but one way to do it, that is, through some organization, you may expect me to remain pretty close around you for some time until I can demonstrate my power to you. In speaking of certain events which you are expecting to transpire in a few days, sometimes a man that is not exactly balanced can tell as much as one who thinks he is exactly on a level, I will say to you that there seems to be considerable of ah excitement on your side, and if I can discriminate in the condition I am in; I would say that you would come out all right—that is, what you would condsider right, but some one else might consider entirely wrong. I do not know as I am able to explain that, but I see it tem, which, if it was completed, would not necessitate you to be perplexed or annoyed, because you would understand that there was a perfect result-progressive principle. I have done better than I expected to and I don't know that I have robbed any body while I was here. Dr. Fell, of New Hope, Pa.

JOSEPH HEDE. (Lumberville, Bucks County, Pa.)

GOOD MORNING: - I think I had better give my name the first thing, for so many spirits seem to fail when they come to that. Will you please put down the name of Joseph Hede, of Lumberville, Bucks County, Pa. This lady has seen me, but was never personally acquainted with me, but I have for some time felt anxious to return, for I felt that it is through that means that we become able to make the change in our spiritual condition. I was a faithful member of the Christian church; that is, I believed. I was not a fanatic, but I believed in the Christian religion, and I was a man of considerable means, but I never made any effort to acquire immense wealth. I was satisfied if I possessed sufficient resources for myself and family. I entertained my friends as a plain unassuming man, but since I have come into spirit life, I find that I have made a mistake, with thousands of others. I do not wish any individual to come into spirit life ignorant of the true principles, when it is possible for them to obtain them. If ever in my life I directed any one in the direction of the church, I ask them now to investigate the Spiritual philosophy before they come to any conclusion about the future state of existence. I am hardly able to talk, and I feel all the time as though I was doing something I ought not, in using this organization. I have a family with me and a family in material life, and as my family in spirit life are anxious to come if communication, so as to be able to work with their friends living in the physical form, I have hastened, or at least taken the first opportunity I have ever seen to give a communication. This lady's husband was at one time well acquainted with me, and will perhaps recognize me, and I would ask him to send a paper to some of my friends, that they may know that I am not dead, and in the arms of Jesus Christ, and have worked out my salvation to the best of my ability. [We will see that they get your message.] Joseph

LIZZIE SMITH. (Doylestown, Bucks Co., Pa.)

My mama is looking for a communication from me, but I don't know how to give it just yet. I promised to come back. Uncle promised grandpa that I would come back to give a communication for the paper, but I don't know what to say here. I would rather talk to papa and mama than to give a communication. I don't know how to. Now you talk to us, we are just as kind as they are.] My mama, she gets the paper sometimes, and she thinks it is so nice. I would give a communication so that every body could see it, but she feels uneasy about it, but I don't want any body to feel uneasy, for I am happy with my books here, and since Auntie came, I am all right. My name is Lizzie Smith, and I fived in Doylestown. And I will say, sometime I want to see mama and talk to her. Ques. Your mama is living there? Ans. Yes. Ques. Is your papa living too? Ans. Yes. I want to see Mamie real Ques. Is Mamie your sister? Ans. Yes. [Ail right, Lizzie, we win see that your triends

ELIZA CARLYLE. (Manatawny, Berks Co., Pa.)

Sometimes I think, as I see one after another come, that in time your patience will be exhausted, and you will cease to feel any interest in our coming to you. [Not at all.] But when I take into consideration what a great amount of labor is to be done and how few laborers there are in the field, I almost tremble for the future, and if I had not come in rapport with minds who have studied this principle century after century, I would sit down somewhere and fold up my hands and feel that it was not worth while to exert myself, for it could never be accomplished. But they say it is impossible for any one to perform an important labor if they allow themselves to grow despondent before they begin. Such a feeling takes the real soul, or vigor, out of the labor they are to perform, and as I do not claim to be I lived for many years in a town called Pitcher, more than any other spirit, and know that I have not had opportunities that many spirits have had, I watch with a keen interest each unfoldment I may see, anxious that every man and woman | veiled-there has never been any doctrine proshall understand this divine philosophy; understand that there is no such thing as death; that all men and women live, only in a changed condition. They possess the same spirit that inhabited the physical organization, the only difference is, that it is not trammelled by a form. It has the power to see and understand many things the same as I am leading the instrument I am | understand why it is that men who have presched such district year after year, of the immortality of the human soul, can turn their backs against the eyidence that we are bringing to bear upon them. I cannot understand why they persecute, and produce such great misery for individuals that are investigating come.] I had some habits which would cloud the brains of any man if he persisted in them, and as I did persist in them, I cannot expect for, some time to do the work that I really desire to do through this instrument. It will be able some time to perfect some wonderful ones, but I must let my brain become clearer. I was not accustomed to prescribing for people, inless I knew I was in a condition to do so. I am gaining considerable knowledge, and I feet that I want to make a practical illustration of the knowledge I possess, and as I have but one way to do it, that is, —make life as useful as it is possible for human -make life as useful as it is possible for human life to become, and allow no such thing as distrust and discord to spring up among you, for in unity you possess strength. But when you sever the forces that surround you, you may look for misery and distress in whatever direction you may go. We are working for all humanity. We are working to elevate. We are not working to bow men's souls down in sorrow and grief. We are working to wash out the necessity for sorrow. We are working to make the weakest and most powerless of created, beings one entire strength that we can gather from material elements. And we are grateful to you for the opporthat way, for I see that there are some minds tunities you have given us to come occasionally that I esteem very highly, operating in a wonderful manner. They are working or building a sys-And your hour of victory is coming—your hour of triumph is near to you—and you will feel that although you have struggled against almost in-surmountable difficulties, that there is such a thing as a valley of peace, where the clouds of the past will disappear, and and the joys of the future will be revealed to you. Eliza Carlyle. Ques. Of what place? Ans. I lived in what you might consider to be part of the country, near Manatawny. I had a kind of affliction. I had

CARRIE MARTIN. (Centralia, Pa.)

I just thought I would come in a little while, to tell you my name and go out like the rest. Just say Carrie Martin, Centralia, Pa. Ques. You have got something to tell us, haven't you? Ans. I don't know; the big man said I put something in this lady's throat that made her feel bad, because that was my condition, and I had to stay around so that I could come. I had to wait till it went away. I went out in a hurry. Would you like to know how old I was? [Yes.] Well, I was thirteen years old. I just wanted you to know, because you might think I was a young woman. [You will be a young woman now. You will be jourself. You will have ever so much nicer a body than that.] It makes me feel all upside down, [You will feel all the better for it when you leave. We are very glad to have had you come. Have you got any friends?] Yes, I knew somebody, and the big man said he would send the paper to him. The big man, he watches out to see how to get word to folks.

JACOB TODD.

I don't know as I will be able to say very much to you, because there is a power around that seems to be absorbing the strength of the medium to build up the weary and afflicted and make them strong to do their spiritual labor. But, feeling a perfect sympathy with the work that you are doing, I have thought that I would | jecting themselves into the circumference of life; come to you and say that there are innumerable | and as they do this, they bring with them the | and I deny that the sexes are identical with the spirits that surround you, and are working to enable you to complete your work in a manner entirely satisfactory to yourself, and also entirely satisfactory to the forces that surround you.-Sometimes you feel antagonistic influences around you, and you are fully aware that they would destroy your labor if it were possible for them to do so. But let me say to you that these influences are operating, as they think, against your power, when in reality they are breaking down their own selfishness and fixing their own dooms, if such a thing is possible. You have observed in all great reforms that individuals who take the conservative side and wish to hold back the advance of the human mind, are the ones that generally, in the sion in America and Australia, that the organism end, make the conditions for the human mind to liberate itself. And in this instance it will be the of India. It is important that there should be a same as in the past. Their jealousy and desire for power will lead them on until they will become India. One has already demonstrated the pheindiscreet, and in a moment, when they think not, they will sink into insignificance and lose habitants of British India (we refer to Willie the power they have used to create a condition of such misery in the past. I am inclined to think that if you keep your mind in a passive condition, and do not allow yourself to weigh matters too carefully, or to feet too anxious about any event that is likely to come in your pathway, the power that surrounds you for good, and the power that is working for the elevation of humanity, will possess strength sufficient to do the work in a manner that will be satisfactory to you, and will allow you the liberty to go on in your work without any further interruption in the luture. Ques. Who is it that is speaking? Ans. Jacob Todd. I will say that the circles are the things that are going to do the work. Ques. If we can only keep negative enough? Ans. Yes, be true to one another, and your success will be assured.

[All right, go on.] I was a minister of the gosper, and I am suffering so much, for the work I done here. I can tell you who I was and where I lived, and you can find it Chenango County, New York. I feel that I must say, in a voice that will reach to the end of the earth, that there has never been anything unmulgated—that has done so much harm—that has so much sorrow, as the doctrine of the atonement. That adds greatly to the responsibility of a conscientious erson. Do you think the time will ever come, that these poor creatures that look up to me now, asking for bread, and I can give them nothing, to man, and regret to see my brothers, who are in will the time come, when I can compensate them will the time come, when I can compensate them authority so thoroughly wedded to class legisla-in any sense? [You can compensate them by tion, lest they should have to step down and out going among them now, and informing them of your mistake, and of your returning to earth here, and realizing the error of your teachings while here, and the necessity there is for their under- the development of manhood to woman than to brotherhood, and to do this we need all the standing and knowing that their regeneration is within themselves, as salvation depends upon' their own efforts, to get out of any condition of darkness, or of suffering in which they may bethat the remedy lies within themselves and not in a Jesus—not in yourself—your counsel—or your prayers—but in their own desires to do good; and their own efforts in that direction.] I think I see a ray of light. I thank you—I thank you.

SPIRIT COMMUNICATION.

MR. WALTER HOWELL, MEDIUM.

Given at MIND AND MATTER Office, March 29th, M. S. 35.

EMANUEL SWEDENBORG.

Good Morning, My Friends: - We have been requested to give publicity to the plans and purposes that we have in view, in relation to the promulgation of our philosophy. Under our direction, this instrument has come to your shore for the occult reasons, namely, that the organism, by atmospheric changes, as well as new surroundings, both physically and mentally, may be prepared for a more interior metaphysical work. It is our purpose to take our instrument through the various States of this country, westward across the Pacific ocean to Australia, during which time we shall be preparing the organism psychologically, to meet the Buddhistic and Brahmanistic schools of thought in India. We believe a crisis has come in the history of Spiritualism, when it is necessary for the development of some medial powers, that shall deal directly with the occult sciences of India. The great question to be decided to day, still, is the continuity of the conscious individuality. The Theosophical Society are promulgating in a metaphysical and philosophical form the doctrines of conditional immortality. We desire to meet this question of reached Nirvana, or the Indian heaven, and having reached that state of rest, they desire now to commence a new creation, and therefore are prolight from the inner realm of being. They must sooner or later dispel the darkness and ignorance that exhibits itself in the Western materialistic philosophy, and by its potency, overthrow the ecclesiasticisms of to-day. The age in which you live has indeed become materialistic in the extreme, and the tendency of the present systems of education now in vogue, is to build up the as I have asked you to do repeatedly, you stand mind from externals, and thus clog, so to speak, the avenues through which the soul can express itself. True education consists in the descent from this drawing from the infinite side of human nature the wisdom and the power to enlighten and uplift humanity. And we believe that by the time we have accomplished our misof our medium will be prepared for the platform representative of this great movement sent to nomenal part of Modern Spiritualism to the in-Eglinton.) It is however our mission to deal more especially with the philosophic, and we trust by magnetic contact to assist the elimination of some of the atoms of the Nirvana. As this elimination becomes more complete, there will be a manifestation of more perfe t harmony. India herself will receive much from her contact with the western mind, and the western mind can be greatly enlightened by a conjunction with the oriental sphere of thought. When there is established that spirit of reciprocity, whereby the western world may impart its knowledge of the more external phenomena in the material world. with its power of classification-with its modes of thought-different from the oriental mind, and yet capable of being harmonized therewith, we believe that it may be the means of establishing that harmony on earth that shall bring peace and good will to men. For until there is established that at one ment between the east and west-between the spiritual nature of man and the more external nature of man-you can never enjoy that equilibrium through which alone the diviner humanity may be ultimated upon the earth. India. Egypt and Greece represent the more celestial and spiritual nature of man, while the western world manifests more the external nature of mankind; and when there is a combining of the inner-interior nature with an influx from the spiritual realm, and the avenues of expression are no out to be so. My name was Shubell Carver, and longer clogged, then the soul life shall flow out, and you shall behold man as a more perfect expression of the likeness and image of the divine. We will, on some future occasion, give you another communication in this direction, but we have said sufficient now as an introduction to this department of our work. Those whose interest caused so much blood to flow-and has wrought or perceptions are opened, will see the necessity of a conjunction—a more perfect conjunction between the East and the West. For the time. farewell. Ques. Will you give us your name? Ans. We are speaking the thoughts of the sphere I held myself above my fellow creatures. In in which we move, and therefore would rather that it is impossible for it to do while in an short, I lived a hypocrite, and now they are im- give expression to them as the thoughts of the ERIEND TINNEY DEAR SIR: Thanks for your full name. L'am glad to know that with your ability to change your sex, ad libitum, your appellation is at least masculine. But how was I to know that from your initial J.? But if this were all that has been left by you to be guessed at in your discussion of organic law, I should be much better satisfied with the result.

No, I intended no reflection upon woman, as a class, for I believe the average woman to be equal to give place to many a woman, if all impediments to her advancement were removed; and I owe more to the possession of moral character and man, and have received more solid instruction pertaining to the laws of life from Mrs. Jane Thompson Frohock, (Jean Story.) than from Tyndall and Huxley, to say nothing of Joseph.

Intelligence is not less wise nor perfect because manifested through a female organism, nor can we always measure a person's capacity by the caliber of his or her skull, or the weight of brain. The office of the male functions through all diversified nature is to beget, and of the female to con-ceive, and you might as well think of making the sun and moon interchangeable as the sexes. I am aware that aggregation and segregation are nature's methods of reconstruction, but in all her operations, so far as I can learn, the elements out of which every form of production is created, never lose their identity.

Now, my dear sir, when you came forward with your extraordinary claim of having discovered by thorough investigation, that the sexes are identical with the positive and negative poles of the magnet, and accused scientific men of this age of reason of having impeached their intelligence by refusing to accept your bold assertion as scientific truth, and that too in absence of any proof to sustain your theory, I was reminded of an old lady who was in possession of so many signs and whims that she had but little use for brains. She tested her indigo by putting it in water, if good it would either sink or swim, she did'nt know which; and if she found her cat asleep with her tail pointing north, she would prepare for a severe storm, which nothing could prevent under such circumstances. I admit that two or three ladies have come forward to thank you for your discovery, and happening to meet one of them, I complimented her upon her penetration, since I had utterly failed to see any reason in your claims, and she replied: "Oh, I do not understand what J. T. is driving at, at all, but took it for granted from published claims it must be something wonderful and worthy of everybody's sanction, since it made woman man's equal in one respect at least." Even Jean Story seems to think she saw something in the magnetic interchange, and in her explanation of the magnetic muddle has made it just as clear as mud to the readers of MIND AND MATTER.

Now, regarding the interchange or convertibility of the positive and negative forces, I must deny it until some proof of it can be produced; poles of the battery, and for the same reason, I am open to conviction, but not without evidence. You may deal in theories if it suits you best; but as for me, give me the solid facts that will stand the test of time, and put unsupported theorizing to the blush at every examination. But instead of coming forward with the proof of your theory up like a school boy, proud of his first lesson, and who repeats it at every turn in his path, and instead of referring at all to the proof called for by me, you close by asking,

"What elements there are in nature not represented in the two poles of the magnet?"

Thus flying to one inexplicable mystery, as if that could substantiate an unfounded theory of another mystery. In reply to your last question, neither you nor I possess the apparatus or the wisdom adequate to analyze magnetism and electricity, so as to make ourselves acquainted with their constituents, nor need we hope to until we can solve the child's question, "Who made God?"
Still if you have any facts tending to prove what you claim, I wish to know the nature of them. But, sir, do not ask one to disprove a thing too many times over that has no existence.

I have written thus at length because the operation of nature's laws are interesting to every intelligent mind. For this reason I have been interested in the answers to J. W. C., but not knowing who J. W. C. is, and supposing that person would have something to offer on the subject, I refrained from entering upon the discussion, but may have something to offer upon the laws of life at some future time, independent of other peoples views or questions.

Yours for the Truth, CHARLES THOMPSON.

St. Albans, Vt.

To the Brothers and Sisters Everywhere. The time has come when I feel justified in making an appeal to you for pecuniary aid. For thirty years I have been a Spiritualist, for the last twenty an earnest worker, by pen and speech, for the cause I love, and in days gone by my purse has been open, and my means freely given to all who needed aid.

For over three years I have been fighting a terrible disease, Epilepsy and so far have been a loser in the battle, until I am compelled to give up for a time my profession, as a healer, and being entirely without means to help myself make this appeal to friends everywhere who would care to aid me. Many of you have read poetic contributions from my pen-one of which I will quote from, as a fitting close to this appeal.

If you come as a helper to a soul that's in need, Or lend to the weary your strengthening hand, You are tilling God's garden and sowing the seed For a harvest of love in the soul's summer-land.

Any remittance in care of MIND AND MATTER office will receive my personal acknowledgment. Fraternally yours, DE HORACE M. RICHARDS.

Anniversary Colebration of the American Health Col- Psychometrization of Mr. Walter Howell, Now Leclege, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Editor of Mind and Matter:

Please inform the many readers of your paper that the 35th anniversary of Modern Spiritualism was appropriately and spiritedly celebrated at the American Health College in this city, on the evening of the 31st of March, 1883, by the students in attendance at its spring session of lectures, from different States of the Union. Dr. S. Rohwer, of Telluride, Colorado, was selected Chairman, and Dr. S. S. Cook, of Cincinnati, Secretary. After the selection of officers, Prof. J. B. Campbell, President of the College, was called upon for the opening address of the evening, to which he readily responded in his usual animated and cheerful manner, by referring to the analogies of Ancient and Modern Spiritualism, and particularly detailing in a graphic and lucid manner the commencement of the manifestations, by raps, in the Fox family, at Hydesville, New York, on the evening of the 31st of March, 1848, just 35 years from this present date, and whose Anniversary we now celebrate. Prof. Campbell also produced a pamphlet, published by him $2 years ago, and read from its pages many very interesting items, showing the evidences and progress of Spiritualism up to that time, and also stated that he published the first pamphlet, and gave the first public lecture ever delivered west of the Alleghany Mountains. The Professor further explained the wonderful spread and great success of Spiritualism, since that date, and the good it was doing, and predicted still greater success for it in the coming future.

Dr. S. S. Cook, an experienced and very successful physician, of several different medical schools, a graduate of Vitapathy, made some spirited and appropriate remarks well suited to the occasion.

Then followed Dr. John B. Wills, of Missouri, a member of the class, in a well timed speech. After him. other students from other States, made short speeches, and all seemed very hopeful of the future.

Dr, Rohwer, the worthy Chairman, made the closing speech, telling of the development of media in his far off home; after which the meeting adjourned, with three cheers for Spiritualism, and one big extra cheer for Spiritual Vitapathy, and the American Health College, at the same time requesting all spiritual papers to please publish the account of this anniversary.

A Card.

The hall of the First Association of Spiritualists of Trenton was pretty well filled on Sunday evening, March 18th, it having been announced that Mrs. Glading, of Philadelphia, would occupy the platform.

Mrs. Adeline M. Glading has been with us several times, and is certainly very well liked by all and a truthful and reliable medium.

She belonged to the Episcopal church, and was a devoted Christian, until by the help of spirit friends, and through the instrumentality of Mr. Samuel Wheeler of Philadelphia, she was rescued from what seemed inevitable misery and death. Since then, having fully developed as a medium, she devotes her life to the spreading of the truth of Spiritualism, that she may, after having herself received such unhoped for blessings, bring hope to the weary and desponding heart.

Mrs. Glading certainly is an excellent instrument in the hands of the spirit world, her guides being able, through her, to give the most con-vincing proofs of spirit existence, as well as to express the most sound and liberal, and at the same time, eloquent thoughts. At Mrs. Gladings' last engagement, Hoolah, an Indian maiden, and one of Mrs. Gladings' controls, after the most masterly reading of a poem on "Nature and Nature's God," gave a lecture on "Clouds." It will be well to state here, that while lecturing, Mrs. Glading is perfectly unconscious, and that Hoolah speaks English to perfection and without any mixture of the Indian, she having lost her parents when but a babe, and being then adopted and raised by a white family. Hoolah's lecture on "Clouds," was eloquent and instructive, and held the audience as though bound by a spell, picturing to the mind's eye the various and numerous clouds, that did, in ages past, and do yet, darken the horizon of the human family. The language flowed in eloquent terms, and produced pictures of exquisite beauty and rare and varied tints. After the lecture, as is common with her, Machee-ha, another Indian control, stepped in to answer some questions by writing. When under this latter control, Mrs. Glading is perfectly con-scious, her right hand only being controlled, which is cold and clamy, and appears as though paralyzed, Mrs. Glading herself being unable to do the most trifling thing with said hand while under the control of Ma-chee-ha. The writing is from the bottom upward, backward and reversed, and therefore only readable when held to a light or mirror. The questions sent up are invariably answered to the satisfaction of the senders, and many have been led to investigation through this most wonderful mode of writing. On the evening in question, the control answered, in this peculiar way, from fiften to twenty questions, all, as far as we could learn, to the satisfaction of the propounders. Mrs. Glading is a shining light, is doing a great deal of good, and bids fair to become a star of the first magnitude in the mediumistic sphere, casting an effulgent light over the horizon of a seeking, sorrowing multitude.

The executive committee of the First Association of Spiritualists of Trenton feel it to be their duty to thus publicly proclaim the worth of Mrs. Glading as a medium, she having worked as such most zealously in our city; and having been the instrument to carry the truth of Spiritualism into many families, we, the undersigned, offer her herewith the thanks of said committee and association, hoping that she may often give us the pleasure of her presence, and praying to the angel world that they may prepare a kind reception for her wherever she may go.

(Signed.)

A. NIEDERMEIER, Secretary; JAMES W. ROYLE, President. First Association of Spiritualists.

Trenton, N. J., March 29, 1883.

turing Before the Spiritual Temple Association, by Mr. John M. Spear, March 29,

One generation passeth and another cometh. Old nations, old combinations, do what they can in their day and in their generation. Patriarchism. Judaism, Christianism, as it were, are links in a vast chain—the first preparing for the second, the second for the third, and thus on. So each nation has within itself certain important qualities. As an old nation dies, from that a new nation springs. And so there is divine, as there is consecutive development.

Modern Spiritualism is, so to speak, an outgrowth of the religious and socialisms of the past. It gathers to itself the essentials of the past, and receives into itself new elements, and the two, interblending, constitute a New Dispensation. It. as it were, cableizes thought; it sends it out in divers directions, over rivers, oceans, islands, nations, and is aiming to a divine universality. Universe upon universe are, like kindred drops, to melt into one.

Organizations in the spirit world require organizations in the earth sphere, so that correspondingly the twain shall be married and bring forth children.

The English speaking people, in the outset, most easily coalesce, and stronger and more immediate bonds form with that people. They become, as it were, the core of the new movement. The best seeds are sown there. Years have rolled on, and the English speaking people understand somewhat fully the needs which are peculiar to them.

Now, while that circle is being perfected, another circle, so to speak, outside of that, is being formed. And in wisdom, love, you have been selected to, in a large measure, form that second circle. And the necessary conditions being made, other and still broader circles will spring into life and beauty. The pebble has been dropped into the ocean; circle after circle is being formed, blessing every creature of every kind.

Comprehensively, this is the work to be understood and carried forward. In blessing others, persons are themselves blest. This metropolis, Philadelphia, is in a marked sense a centre. In America, this city is so positioned that it becomes a centre, acting upon sub-centres. Congresses, associations, bands, convocations, are continuing to form modes of action. You bring to this continent certain elements. Pass through it, and you gather certain elements. And so you deposit, and so you receive, each being a necessity. The church is a mother; the state, commerca, education, and other departments spring from her loins. She must be universal—thus bearing children of universal thought. And here the mind necessarily rests.

It is a Spiritual movement, because the persons moving are moved from within, and bring forth what they have.

As you proceed in your work, you will find yourselves forming circles, churches, and founding temples. Having done so, you pass on in an orderly, methodical, and somewhat, in what may be called, a Wesleyan way. Your education comes of experience, observation, intuition, and a divine spinituality. With your wonderful ability of adaptation, you can be a little child, a Cicera, a Demosthenes, a Plato; and persons will gather about you because of what they feel is within you. If you were to receive a name, you would be called The Alleviator. You remove main, dry up tears, take away doubt, raise up the oppressed. And alleviated persons will declare what you have done for them, and will become a body of intelligent co-operators.

Here, again, the mind pauses. It sees a vast and Cathomiese ocean. You are here, then, at this location, to do a certain work not to be done by another. And when that work is completed, your feet shoul with the preparation of the new movement; you march on, gathering materials for a new armor—the breastplate of righteousness and inexorable justice. Clothed with this armor, you cannot be permanently harmed.

All things are to become new. The very insect beneath the feet, the lowing cattle, the neighing horse, the motherly elephant, the soaring eagle, and kingly lion, are to rise to a higher condition. The spirit within and around them is to make them new beings; and the leopard and the bear and the little child are to lie down together.

So comprehensive are these thoughts that words cannot express them. But deeds are to speak. Words are but air; and so you are to live in deeds, and to command the influences regulaite to great deeds.

Completing the circle, and again reaching the metropolis, you will look down upon lords and kings, and feel that they are but instruments in bringing that time when nation shall not lift up the sword against nation, nor learn war any

ALLIANCE, O., March 27th, 1883. Editor of Mind and Matter:

Mrs. Shepard Lillie has just closed a lecture course of three months engagement. She has met with good success, adding thirty more members to our already strong society, and adding more to our spiritual wants, that makes us a power among orthodoxy. Please publish the following resolution at the request of our society.

Mrs. J. D. Jones, Sec.

RESOLUTIONS. WHEREAS, As Mrs. Shepard Lilly's engagement with the Independent church of Alliance, Ohio, is being brought to a successful close, and as her lectures and social qualities have been productive of great good, and of lasting benefit to this society, which is attested by a large increase of membership, therefore,

Resolved, That we, the members and friends of this Society, extend to her our cordial and heartfelt thanks, and invite her to renew an engagement with us at any future time, when her other engagements will admit of it; also,

Resolved, That we heartly thank Mr. Lillie for contributing with music and song so much that entertains and delights; also,

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be given to Mrs. and Mr. Lillie, as a testimonial of our regard and esteem, and that a copy be furnished to MIND AND MATTER for publication.

Passed by a unanimous vote of the Society.

Editor of Mind and Matter:

DEAR BROTHER: - Again from this land of flowers and perpetual summer, on the far away shores of the Pacific, would I send you a kind greeting. Not only in my own behalf, but also in behalf of many earnest workers here, who have learned to love you for your zeal in a cause so dear to us, and to humanity; would I send kindly greeting.

What grand communications are given to the world from week to week in MIND AND MATTER! What a glorious day is beginning to dawn, for benighted, priest-ridden humanity! The reward also must come to those who have been faithful obedient servants to the behests of the angel world, who are guiding and directing the entire movement, and will continue to guide and direct, until all apposition is overcome, and humanity shall be redeemed from all the errors and superstitions of the past, and the reign of a universal brotherhood shall be established on earth.

One of the old veteran workers in the cause of Spiritualism, Hon. Warren Chase leaves us on Friday next to make his future home among you of the East. He is so well known that I doubt not he will be kept constantly employed in the lecture field which is his desire for the future. He was tendered a farewell reception at the theatre here last night, which was well attended and a very pleasant evening passed by those assembled.

Mrs. Murst the celebrated materializing medium from Tere Haute, Ind., is expected here tonight by steamer, to make her permanent abode with us. Thus as one worker departs another is writing to me for information on the above subject, I would like to inform them that I am so busily occupied that time will not permit of my writing brief articles for publication, and that I am at present writing a book on the subject, under ble dictation of Dr. Bonney and many other spirite, giving their experience in that line; alsorelating cases that have come under their notice as well as my own. This book is intended to show the modus operandi of the controlling by different spirits in the spirit world. It will be completed and ready for the public the latter part of the summer, providing enough subscribers can be obtained to warrant the publication of it. The price will be $1.50 per copy. All persons wishing to subscribe therefor, may avail themselves of the opportunity by addressing me in care of Mann AND MARTER, 713 Sansom street, Philadelpia. I would also inform my friends that I have changed my office and residence to 454 North Fifth street, where I will be pleased to meet my friends who wish to call upon me in person. Respectfully. Ecotor Mind and Matter:

Last evening, 25th inst, closed the engagement of Mrs. J. T. Lillie, (formerly Mrs. Sheppard,) in our city with a crowded house, many standing the entire evening, and many going away, not finding room within. Her subject was, "Life and its Crowns," and was handled with great power and eloquence, it being one of her grandest efforts during her stay of three months with us. We had thirteen additions to our ranks yesterday morning and evening, making thirty in all since she has been with us, all of whom are men and women of worth. Mr. Lillie is a fine musician and one of those genial hearts and natures that wins its way into your affections. They came here January 1st, with many friends, and go away with hosts of them, and the shadows as they bid us adieu, have a silver lining for they promise to come to us again. When we arrived at church, Sunday morning, we found a grand surprise awaiting us. The stand, pictures, clock and chandeliers, were all festooned with smilax and the stand beautifully decorated with flowers interwoven about it and a very handsome vase of flowers to complete the picture, a suprise from our young florist Leroy Lamborn. An enthusiastic vote of thanks was tendered him in the evening, at the close of service. Hoping our good work is only begun.

OUR CELEBRATION OF THE THIRTY-FIFTH ANNI-

VERSARY OF MODERN SPIRITUALISM. As the sun rose upon the morning of the thirtyfifth anniversary of Modern Spiritualism, it found us in a cell of Ludlow Street Jail in the City of New York, where we spent the day in close communion with our own soul, and the blessed spirit friends of humanity who ministered to our spiritual needs unto that peace within that surpasseth all verbal expression, and that can only be adequately realized when enjoyed by a conscience void of all offence. As the golden light streamed in at the grated window, it seemed to us that all nature smiled approval upon us and our efforts to maintain Spiritualism against those who, in their insensate selfishness and their desire to tyranmize over others, seek to blot out the truth against which they sin with light and knowledge. For a space, the duration of which we, at this writing, cannot foretell, we are deprived of our liberty by the acts of men who call themselves Spiritualists; and for what? Let the facts disclose.

In our last issue, in noticing the approach of this glorious—yes, most glorious—anniversary of all the eras, we were compelled to answer our recognizance as a witness for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in the trial of an indictment against Dr. Beals and his co-directors of the New England Sp ritualist Camp Meeting Association, for "contriving and unlawfully and maliciously intending to injure, vilify and prejudice one Jonathan M. Roberts," [ourself], "and to deprive him of his good name, fame, credit and reputation, and to bring him into great contempt, scandal, infamy and disgrace, unlawfully and maliciously did write and publish, and cause and procure to be written and published, a false, scandalous, malicious and defamatory libel, containing divers false, scandalous matters and things of and concerning the said Jonathan M. Roberts, as follows: that is to say,—

"LAKE PLEASANT, Mass., Aug. 22, 1882. "At a special meeting of the full Board of Directors of the New England Spiritualists Camp meeting Association held this day, the following preamble and resolutions were made and unanimously adopted:

"WHEREAS, One Jonathan M. Roberts, the editor and publisher of a newspaper called MIND AND MATTER, and published in Philadelphia, has dur-

Association, grossly insulted the President of the Association by shaking his flat in his face and the use of profane language; and in another case insulted Judge Patton, of Pennsylvania, by loud and obscene language too vile for record or publication; and in still another instance attacking the editor of the Religio-Philosophical Journal, and in a public place, using obscene and profane language, such as: 'You G-d d-d son of a b-!'
'You G-d d-d villain!' D-d liar, etc.; and only ceasing when the police laid hands on him, and all these outrages having been committed upon the open streets of the camp and in the hearing of numerous ladies and gentlemen; thus not only bringing disgrace upon the cause of Spiritualism, but violating the rules of decent society and endangering the good name of this Association; therefore it is hereby

"Resolved, That we instruct the police to arrest said Roberts promptly upon repetition of any such offence againse any person, and expel him from the grounds of this association.

"Resolved, That we exceedingly regret the necessity which compels us to take this step, and in order that it may be generally known that no such conduct will be tolerated upon the grounds of this association, we hereby request that the proceedings of this meeting be published in the columns of the Spiritualist newspapers of the country and of the Lake Pleasant Siftings, and in all other papers having an interest in promoting the welfare of Society and the peace and good order of camp meetings in general, and that a copy be furnished to Judge Patton and Col. Bundy respectively. T. W. COBURN, "Clerk pro tem."

We have given the foregoing publication at this time in order that the light of certain facts connected with the concocting of the libel, which came out at the trial, may be understood by those who may feel there was any reasonable grounds for that attempt to wrong and injure us. Among those present in the court room when the trial commenced, were John C. Bundy, editor of the Religio-Philosophical Journal, and William R. Tice of Brooklyn. The Commonwealth having proved the issuing and publication of the libel by Mr. Coburn, the Secretary pro tem., as prepared and copied for publication by himself with the exception of several interlinear alterations of his, Coburn's draft, the Commonwealth rested. After opening for the defendants their counsel called Dr. Joseph Beals. On his cross examination by District Attorney Bond, he disclosed the fact that Mr. Bundy had been concerned in the preparation of the libel alleged in the indictment. Several witnesses were then examined in relation to what they saw take place at our interviews with Mr. P. tton, who turned out to be no judge at all, "Judge" being only a nick name by which he was known at home, and being after all plain Mr. Patton and with Dr. Beals; when finally Mr. Bundy was called. He went on to state as well as he could remember what did and what did not take place, until asked as to what he knew about the draft of the alleged libel, when all of a sudden his memory became very halting, and his answers slow and embarrassingly uncertain. When he fell into Mr. Bond's hands on cross-examination, it soon became evident that the "jig was up and the piper had to be paid." The result was that Mr. Bundy finally admitted that he wrote the original draft of the alleged libel, and that while it was being prepared by him, and after it was completed, he was in company with Wm. R. Tice, alone, with whom he conferred about its preparation. What became of that original draft, neither Mr. Bundy nor Mr. Coburn could tell The original which was before the board and was unanimously adopted by that body, being withheld or destroyed, the copy prepared by Mr. Coburn, the clerk, was produced. The latter identified that copy as containing certain interlineations and alteration of the original, but in whose handwriting the interlineations were he could not tell The matter was settled by Mr. Bundy himself who recognized all the interlineations, except one unimportant one, as being his own writing, and made by his own hand. Thus the facts became evident on his own sworn statement, that Mr. Bundy, in consultation with Mr. Tice, if not others, prepared a draft of the libel laid in the indictment, which original draft was voted upon by the board-was afterwards put in shape by Mr. Coburn whether literally or otherwise he could not tell-and that this put in shape copy of Mr. Coburn's, of the original, was subsequently altered by Mr. Bundy, by what he Mr. B. considered essential interlineations, and neither Mr. Coburn or himself pretended that the altered copy, which was afterwards published was ever before the board for their approval. It is therefore clearly probable that Messrs. Bundy and Tice, more than any one or all others, were the real authors of the libel charged in the indictment, and had these facts been known to the Grand Jury, would have been included in the indictment, so far at least as to the procuration of the utterance and publication of it. But that was not all, after the greatest amount of questioning, and any amount of evasion on the part of Dr. Beals, Mr. Bundy and Mr. Coburn, as to how the untruthful publication was transmitted to the board from its concoctors, Dr. Beals testified that after the meeting of the board had begun, some one opened the door of the room, and handed the original draft to one of the board. He testified that he saw the person at the door when the paper was handed in, and knew it was either Mr. Bundy or Mr. Tice, he did not know which of them. From another source we have learned it was Mr. Tice who handed the paper in. Mr. Tice while at Greenfield, was told by one of the defendant's witnesses that he was charged resolutions, to which he neither assented or dissented, but replied, "If I did I was requested to do it by the directors, thus seeking to deprive his coadjutor in the defamation, Mr. Bundy, of the sole credit for the performance, which was due, to him alone so far as its composition was con-

It is by such means as these that John C. Bundy seeks to silence the man he dare not look squarely in the face; and to destroy the publication that he has not dared to answer in the only way that any honorable or decent journalist would attempt to do. Conscious of his weakness morally, mentally and personally, he sneaks about under cover of such men as Wm. R. Tice, Joseph Beals, William F. D. Perkins, A. F. Peirce, Amaziah Bullins, M. V. Lincoln and Marcellus H. Fletcher, and uses them to do his dirty work, and to shoulder the consequences of their subserviency to his worthlessness.

In his Journal of September 2, 1882, in publishing his false and libelous concoction, he heads it 'Jonathan M. Roberts. He Receives a Certificate of Character from the Board of Directors of the Largest Spiritualist Camp in the World." This untruthful and dishonest man calls his concocted slander, altered to suit himself after the alleged action of the Board of Directors, their act This is about as near the truth as Mr. Bundy generally comes. But where is there among that board of directors, a man who will show selfrespect enough to resent the insult offered to each and every one of them by Mr. B., when he, with out any pretence of authority, revised their action, and altered and published what he pleased in their name. That false pretence of Mr. Bundy was not confined to the Journal, the Bundyite organ, but it was copied into its Bundyite contemporaries, the Olive Branch, of Utica, the Progressive Age, of Atlanta, (now defunct,) and Light for All, of San Francisco, each of them small monthly publications of small circulation, and little or no influence. The Banner of Light, Spiritual Offering Miller's Psychometric Circular and the Mediums Friend, refused to notice the outrage; but not one of them had the fairness or courage to denounce it as their silent contempt for it made it their duty to do. If the course of the Journal and the Board of Directors in seeking to do us that injury was just and proper, they should have shown their approval of it openly; if they disapproved of it, justice, courtesy, duty, demanded that they should make that disapproval known, It is by that kind of shirking of duty on the part of those journals, that Spiritualism has been so long cursed by the opposition, and demoralizing and destructive effects of Bundyism. That we have been left alone to grapple with this moral monster, is as much the shame of those who advocate and encourage the pusillanimity of the spiritual journals we have named, as of the editors and conductors of those journals. But enough of that now.

The trial of the Board of Directors, as it may be called, began on Thursday at 2 o'clock P. M. and continued until nearly five o'clock of the next day, when at the close of the summing up for the Commonwealth, the Judge adjourned the court until Tuesday morning April 31. Wanting to return to our editorial duties, we left Greenfield for New York at 6 o'clock, John C. Bundy and Wm. R. Tice accompanying us in the same car all the way, and as matters afterwards proved, by a New York deputy sheriff, in the shadowing service of Wm. R. Tice. As we were coming into the city, this man came to us, hypocritically extended his hand to us, and called us by name. Having taken no notice of the fellow until he spoke to us, we replied. "I do not know you." He then gave his name as McLaughlin or Mc something, and said he was a deputy sheriff, and that he had an order for our arrest. On asking, "Upon whose complaint?" he replied, "Mr. Tice's." He then asked, "Have you never seen me before?" We replied we had not; when he said, "I have been close by your side for the past two days." We then told him that we thought it was no part of a New York civil officer's duty to hound a citizen outside of that State, and I felt nothing but contempt for the officer who would lend himself to it. At this he fired up and undertook to silence us by a loud and imperious reproof which served no other purpose than to make us adhere all the more firmly to our opinion. On leaving the car we went with the officer towards the Third Avenue elevated railroad depot, and had passed by the entrance when some one behind us said, "Stop, this is the way." On turning, we saw Mr. Tice and Mr. Bundy, who were about as close together as the Siamese twins. We at once protested against Tice's instructions of the officer, and this insulting and exulting manifestation of their mean and petty spite. It was nearly midnight when we reached Hotel Ludlow, and we had to abide in patience the morning hour to communicate with friends at a distance, we having, as Mr. Tice doubtless knew few acquaintances in New York on whom we could call for bail, which was fixed at $2,000, by the court. Having sent a note to an acquaintance in the city whose services we desired, we were waiting in expectation of his coming, when we were called for. On going down to the reception room, who should we meet but our friend Mac, with another order for our arrest on the complaint of Thomas S. Tice, who says his twenty thousand dollars, on which complaint we were required to furnish $1000 additional security.

side the grating, there stood the personification of Mephistopheles, Mr. Tice, looking as if he would like to devour us if he knew how. Turning to him, we asked, "What do you want here?" He replied, "I want to look at you." "Then you will look at my back," and suiting the action to the word we turned away. He made some remark about our back looking no handsomer than our face, and we left the poor fellow to gather what comfort he could from his shameful manifestation of petty malice. We can only say that if Mr. Tice slept last night with as light a conscience as did we, then is he a happier and more contented man now than we think he can possibly Having failed to get word to our friends of our whereabouts, until late on Saturday evening, it was impossible to give bail for our appearance to defend and answer the suits against us by the Tice brothers, in the courts of New York, and we were compelled to spend the Holy Sabbath day in durance. Having paid for the privilege of seeing our friends on that Holy day, quite a number of them who had heard of our detention. came to call on us, and made themselves merry over the good fortune that had befallen us. We received their congratulations with becoming appreciation, but were compelled to decline their several invitations to go out with them to dine or take tea, on account of pressing engagements in No. 44, Hotel Ludlow. Having opened up full communication with the outer world, and having the good offices of our brother Capt. E. F. Roberts to see about outside matters in our behalf, we turned in, assured that on the next day, Monday, we would be in our sanctum, trying to make up for our two days lost time while recreating in one of New York's model institutions. We have done some campaigning in our time, but never felt that we accomplished a greater victory than when we flanked and routed the man eating forces of a New York prison. On Monday, the self-possessed countenance of our veteran brother beamed upon us with the welcome words, "Come forth, you are a free man." And so, after a little more than forty-eight hours' enjoyment of the effects of Bundyite malignity, we stepped forth and resumed our journey homeward, where, on arriving, we received from hundreds of friends, and from many persons with whom we were personally unacquainted, the warmest welcome we ever received in our life-accustomed as we have been to receiving warm and heart-felt welcomes from those who know us for what we are. The interest manifested on this occasion, as to our return. arose from the industry with which our enemies had sought and used the public press to make the most of their brief, but as they will find, their disastrous advantage. We have neither time nor room to say more now; but we have some further facts to lay before our readers at an early day that will make clear to them the public nature of the contest in which we now appear only personally engaged. Until then, we ask leave to give our attention to more pressing matters. "We have met the enemy and" if "they are not ours," we certainly are not theirs.

A COLLISION BETWEEN BUDDHIST AND CATHO-LIC CHRISTIAN WORSHIPPERS OF THE CROSS.

We take the following announcement from the "News From the Old World" department of the New York Sun, of April 4th,

"CATHOLICS AND BUDDHISTS RIOTING IN CEYLON.

"London, April 3d.—Advices from Colombo, the capital of Ceylon, report that vicious riots have occurred lately between the Buddhists and Papists. The Catholics seriously objected to the religious procession of the Buddhists, in which was carried the crucifix, surmounted by a monkey. The latter combination, which the Papists held to be an insult to the Catholic religion, brought about a violent physical contest in the streets, which was only stopped by vigorous efforts on the part of the troops, who dispersed the rioters and restored peace without bloodshed. A number of the participants were, however, roughly handled, and several broken heads were.

What a blessed thing religion is, truly! When it sets its ignorant and bigoted bondsmen to breaking each other's heads, and seeking to take each other's lives. The ignorant and benighted votaries of the Buddhistic religion had been, for nearly a thousand years before the so-called Christian era, taught the worship of the phallic emblem of the male human organ of generation, and the same worship was to be found in every form of religion that regarded nature as its divinity. The phallus has from the earliest historic period, and for unknown centuries before the Christian religion was ever thought of, been represented by what has, since the inception of Christianity, been known as the Papistical or Roman Catholic cross. It was therefore perfectly natural and consistent for the Buddhists of Ceylon to parade their phallic emblem, the cross, (not the crucifix), in their religious procession at Colombo, the capital of Ceylon. That they paraded it, surmounted by a monkey, in their procession, was just as natural; for the phallic cross and the consecrated ape were the allied and combined emblems of the same religious idea, in the Buddhistic system of theology. They had relation to the inception of human individual life, which, to all reasoning beings, is the greatest boon of creative wisdom and power. If any people on the feelings have been hurt by us to the amount of face of the globe has an especial right to carry the phallic cross in their religious processions, it is the Buddhists who, owing to their non-proing the past few days, while upon the grounds of the defendant's witnesses that he was charged were required to furnish $1000 additional security. Is the Buddhists who, owing to their non-proof the New England Spiritualists Camp Meeting with or suspected of writing the preamble and This we cared nothing about, but on looking out gressive and stationary religious polity, still adhere to the worship of the procreative and generative principle in nature, symbolized by the phallic cross.

It would seem that the ignorant and bigoted Papistical Christian inhabitants of Colombo. were not aware that the Papistical Christian Church had borrowed, stolen, or appropriated and consecrated this heathen phallic emblem, as their most holy Cross, and hence jumped to the conclusion, that the Buddhist display of that heathen symbol, was intended as an insult to the religious belief of the Papists. We venture to say that no Catholic priest or prelate took any step to undeceive their insensate and ignorant followers, as to the true meaning of that Buddhistic cross, or to disclose the fact that the cross before which they kneel, and which they set up for the worship of their choused followers, is the same phallic emblem, and nothing else.

nonsense and folly of all symbolical, creedalized, or ritualized religions, than this warfare between the Buddhistic heathens and the Papistical Christians, as to who shall monopolize the use of that heathen emblem the phallic cross. As to which has the better right to its use on the score of their mutual superstition, ignorance and bigotry, there can be no doubt whatever. The sole right is with the Buddhists, who have a prescriptive title to its use, besides having a correct understanding of its religious meaning.

It is true, in this instance, that the Protestant Christian votaries of the phallic cross, who derived their veneration of it from their Papistical ancestors, are not mentioned as taking a hand in this crusading contest; but we venture to say they bore a full hand, in resenting this Buddhistic claim to the use of that purely heathen emblem. We wonder the Christian priesthood and clergy, Catholic and Protestant, did not see the danger of having such au issue raised, as to the rightful ownership of that heathen cross. With what supreme contempt the learned Buddhist priesthood must look down upon their Christian priestly rivals, in thus turning their ignorant minions loose to murder their patient and confiding followers. Such events as these suffice to show that religion is a curse wherever it exists, and serves no other purpose than to alienate one part of the human race from the rest, and to uphold the vilest and most destructive kind of tyranny that ever weighed upon humanity, the absolute enslavement of the mental and moral natures of all who bow their necks to its yoke. Is it not possible for us to have less religion and more humanity than now prevails under the domination of priestcraft? We believe so, and therefore we labor against it, and wait for the day of entire deliverance from its iniquitous dictation.

BUNDYISM AND COLBYISM VS. MODERN SPIRIT-

We have pretty fully illustrated the nature, aims and objects of Bundyism, during the past four years, and have so riddled and exposed its true inwardness that few indeed are they who do not now understand its deadly antagonism to Spiritualism. It has been kept afloat, thus far, by a combination of men who posture as mental giants and moral beauties upon about as lean a stock in trade as any business, reputable or disreputable, was ever conducted upon. For a time, Mr. Bundy, the editor of the Bundyite organ, pretended that the publication of the R.-P. Journal was a paying business, and in order to scare his Bundyite following into the support of it, from time to time announced that should the time come when, to continue its publication would necessitate loss, it would stop forthwith. We had reason to believe at that time that the Journal was being published at a loss. Many schemes and plans were resorted to by the publisher to counteract the shrinkage of the Journal's subscription patronage, but with little if any success. At length the strain became so great that Mr. Bundy, as if in the agony of despair, frankly acknowledged that he had been running the Journal at heavy pecuniary sacrifice to himself, and made a pitiful appeal for help to keep it afloat. That Mr. Bundy did not appeal in vain seems proven by the fact, that after running The Two Worlds aground after a five months' fruitless cruise, Dr. Crowell pooled resources with Mr. Bundy, and, as we are credibly informed, gave the latter $2500 to keep the Journal at sea for a time longer What other contributions were made with the same view by other parties, or what other contributions may be made hereafter, we have no means of knowing. It is sufficient for our present purpose to conclude that Bundyism is a losing ism, and destined to an ignominious, if not an early end. We may therefore turn our attention to another ism that is not one whit less calculated to obstruct the Spiritual movement. We refer to Colbvism, as exemplified in the skulking, shuffling, evasive and treacherous course of the Banner of

Light. Bundyism, as our readers well know, was instituted for, and has been engaged in, a persistent war upon spiritual media, who have ventured to give their mediumistic services to the public, without regard to the let or hindrance of Mr. Bundy, and his coadjutors of the spirit grabbing. medium persecuting, and medium slandering fraternity. On the other hand, Colbyism has consisted in pharisaical profession of friendship for assailed, slandered and persecuted mediums, while at the same time it silently winked at and | schemes of selfishness and treachery.

approved the methods of Bundylsm, in its persistent and active efforts to oppose, discourage, and suppress public mediumship. As between Bundyism and Colbyism, we have infinitely more respect for the former. We never could read Milton's Paradise Lost, without sincere respect for Satin, that evil genius of the conception of the great poet's brain, in his heroic efforts to attain the object of his mistaken and disastrous ambition. But the matter that we have more immediately before us, is the course taken by Mr. Colby in relation to the recent infamous, personal attacks made upon Mrs. Cora L. V. Richmond, by Mr. Bundy and Mr. Wm. Emmette Coleman, in the Religio-Philosophical Journal. Mr. Bundy's attack upon the personal and mediumistic charactor of Mrs. Richmond, as the editor of the Journal, was scandalous in the extreme. Yet, Mr. Colby whose especial duty it was to defend Could any occurrence more fully show the utter | the character and reputation of that grand, popular and widely respected medium, did not venture to so much as peep a word of protest against this Bundyite outrage, or say a word in her behalf.

Some weeks later, Wm. Emmette Coleman, the Bundyite representative in California, flatly impeached Mrs. Richmond's personal and mediumistic integrity, through the Bundyite organ. At length, shamed into saying something in Mrs. Richmond's behalf, by our vigorous repulse of her enemies, Mr. Colby in the Banner of last week, ventures to say thus much, and no more:

"We learn that Mrs. Richmond, the eloquent trance speaker, is lecturing each Sunday in San Francisco, to the general acceptance of the Spiritualists of that locality. Not withstanding this fact, her mediumship is attacked by a correspondent, in unmeasured terms, through the avenue of a Western paper. Those who have for many years listened to the inspired discourses given by her guides upon the public rostrum, in this country and in England, and who have so highly appreciated them, will no doubt feel deeply grieved when they become cognizant of this fact."

If there was any life, or sense of justice among those Spiritualists who are the patrons of Colbyism, Mr. Colby would never have dared to insult the friends of Mrs. Richmond with that whine of poltroonery and cowardice. Mr. Colby might have consistently remained entirely silent in relation to Coleman's attack upon Mrs. Richmond, and had he done so, we might have believed him sincere in his evasion of every obligation of personal and editorial duty; but when he tells the readers of the Banner, in that ambiguous manner, of an attack on Mrs. Richmond, without giving one particle of information as to what was the nature of the attack, by what correspondent it was made, and in what Western paper it was published, it becomes, evident he did not dare to let them know the nature and extent of his treachery to the cause in the interest of which he claims to edit the Banner. He did not dare to tell them that the correspondent was Wm. Emmette Coleman, and the "Western paper" in which Mrs. Richmond had been "attacked in unmeasured terms," was the R.P. Journal. Nor did he dare to tell his readers that Coleman had only very mildly continued or repeated the more villainous attack previously made by Mr. Bundy, in the R-P. Journal, on her setting out for San Francisco, a few weeks before, without so much as a grunt of objection from himself. It is simply an insult to every reader of the Banner, and especially to those who are friends and admirers of Mrs. Richmond. to say to them, you "will no doubt be greatly grieved when they" (you) "become cognizant of this fact," that Mrs. R. had been "attacked in unmeasured terms," How did Mr. Colby suppose that his readers would become cognizant of any fact, while he thus contemptuously withheld all information from them, about the matter of which he was speaking.

We have here a specimen of Colbyism pure and simple, and a more unsightly and disgusting thing it would be hard for any sincere and faithful friend of Spiritualism to look upon. Poor Spiritualism! What hast thou done that thou art subjected thus to be loaded down with the hypocrisy, imbecility, knavery, and selfishness that has, in the end, destroyed, in all the past, every movement for the alleviation of the misery of enslaved humanity, upon which they have been permitted to fasten themselves?

Spiritualists! you who see something in the Spiritual revelation of truth-something beyond your petty individual interests-arouse and insist that this loading down of the truth with the curses of selfishness, imbecility, cowardice and treachery shall cease. If you do not, a pall of spiritual darkness will settle down over humanity that will not be easily lifted in the near future. We are making such an effort in that direction as one man with limited means can put forth; but no one man-no hundred men-no thousand men-will be more than equal to the contest that must now be made if the truth is to live at all. Priestcraft is as rife to-day as ever it was; it is as powerful for evil; and it is thoroughly alarmed at the steady advance of Spiritualism. A struggle for truth is upon you, Spiritualists, such as this world has never known; but if you are true and faithful to the countless spirit allies who are at hand to aid and sustain you in the contest, you cannot fail of victory. Will you be so? Then, as the first measure, call a halt to Bundyism and Colbyism, in order that you may give all your attention to the open enemy, and the latter be without the help and support of these internal

ANTEXPLANATION NOT ONLY NEEDED BUT DEMANDED.

Last week we published the following letter, and (what purported to be) a spirit communica-

"KEENE AND DAVIGNON AT NEW ORLEANS." BROTHER ROBERTS:-The following communication was given to Mr. Geo. P. Benson, at a circle held by Messrs. Keene and Davignon on Thursday evening, March 15th, 1883, in the presence of sixty persons.

While in the trance state, Mr. Keene gave many remarkable tests, giving full names and messages, which were all recognized or received by friends present. He announced the presence of this spirit who gave his name, and said he would write on the slates. The slates used were new, brought there that evening tied together, having a small piece of pencil within. Mr. Davignon and Mr. Benson held the slates, their clasped hands forming the table. They stood in the light, in view of all present, when in about three minutes, both inner sides of the slates were closely written upon, the following message being an accurate copy, which I have carefully compared with the slates at Mr. Benson's request.

Messrs. Keene and Davignon are doing a good work here, convincing skeptics of the truth of spirit return, and bringing peace and hope to many weary souls. They are appreciated here as they should be wherever they may go. They have more callers (most of them from the skeptic ranks,) than their strength will permit them to

They have given a number of Etherializing sittings at private homes with success, giving full satisfaction to those forming the circles.

Let all unite in giving due praise to our true and tried mediums, and sustain and protect them wherever they may go.

COMMUNICATION.

Good Evening, Sir:—I will open my communication by this saying, "Honesty in belief is no criterion of truth," and spiritually, I have found it true. No man ever lived who taught and preached Jesus Christ, who did it more honestly than myself, but it has not given me happinessit has not even contributed one hour toward rest since I have been a spirit. "You taught us this, why did you not deliver us out of the spiritual darkness in which you have plunged us?" Far better be an infidel and deny all existence beyond the grave, than teach a delusion to your followers; as the Christian says, "A dying Voltaire may shout remorse;" but this cannot equal the awful responsibility of a Christian minister when he faces his dupes in spirit life.

I know that this is a vivid picture. It is one that ought to strike every one of these leaders of God's sheep—(they are well named, for whilst their shephord takes good care of them for their fat and fleece, he is soon ready to see them slaughtered).

If there were nothing but material death for them, this would be well enough; but it is the spiritual life beyond that cannot be escaped. There is no atonement that was ever offered by any dying God or man, that can prevent the consequences that are involved in the reproaches of those whom you led into error. While living in the mortal form, I would say, whatever the ism is, it is far better to rest all your hopes of a life beyond the grave on good deeds than on it, and even in this great modern light, Spiritualism, there is much more wasted upon the ism than is applied to the spiritual part of it. With a desire so strong that no tongue can express what I feel, I hope this communication may strike those self-elected God's shepherds with such fear that they may be unable to dupe any more trusting mortals.

My name was Isaac Ambrose, a Presbyterian minister. I passed away in 1674, in Lancashire England. God bless you, my noble brother, in your noble cause of truth, and your great efforts to get the truth before the people. I will come again when the time is offered to me. I shall ever be with you in your efforts to give truth. Good by, from your friend,

I. AMBROSE. Mr. Young's letter and that plagiarized communication came to hand just as we were starting, to Massachusetts, to answer our recognizance as a witness in the case of the indictment of the Commonwealth against Joseph Beals, et al., and thus found admittance to our columns before we had time to make the necessary examination as to its authenticity. On our return we had our attention called to the fact that the fraudulent communication sent to us by J. H. Young, and published as stated, was almost a literal copy of the following communication published in MIND AND MATTER of March 18th, M. S. 34, a little over one year before, through the mediumship of Alfred James:

" ISAAC AMBROSE.

"(An English Presbyterian Divine.) "Good Evening, Sir:—I will open my communication by this saying: 'Honesty in belief is no criterion of truth;' and spiritually I have found it true. No man ever lived who taught and preached Jesus Christ, who did it more honestly than myself; but it has not given me happiness. It has not even contributed one hour towards rest since I have been a spirit. And then, to see all around you hundreds of souls who, with outstretched hands, say :" [These italicised words are left out of the plagiarized copy.] "'You taught us this; why do you not deliver us out of the spiritual darkness in which you have plunged us? Far better be an infidel, and deny all existence beyond the grave, than to teach a delusion to your followers. As the Christians say," [Not "as the Christian says."] "'A dying Voltaire may shout remorse,' but this cannot equal the awful responsibility of a Christian minister when he faces his dupes in spirit life. I know that this is a vivid picture. It is one that ought to strike every one of these leaders of God's sheep, (they are well named, for whilst their shepherd takes good care of them for their fat and fleece, he is soon ready to see them slaughtered.] If there were nothing but material death for them, this would be well enough; but it is the spiritual life beyond, that cannot be escaped. [The words, "my noble brother, in your noble efforts in the cause of truth," and "I will come again when time is offered to me. I shall ever be with you in your efforts to give truth. Good bye, from your friend I Ambrose,' were not in the original communication.]

Such are the facts. It is therefore evident that a most vile and damnable fraud was perpetrated upon Mr. Jas. H. Young, either by mortals or spirits. If by mortals it lies between Edwin Keene, Nelson Davignon and George P. Benson. Upon them rests the necessity of placing the fraud at the proper door, or of being themselves held responsible for one of the weakest as well as the wickedest frauds that was ever attempted under the cloak of spirit manifestations. We do not hesitate to say that, as the matter stands, we regard one, or two, or all three of the persons named as the guilty party or parties. It seems almost impossible that it should be a spirit fraud, for many reasons that will strike the mind as contradicting such a presumption; and yet we do not say it may not be, for we have seen too much of the power of lying and cheating spirits to transact devilish iniquity, to undertake to fix a limit to that power. But there is one very significant fact connected with the affair, and that is, that Mr. Young does not tell us who Mr. Geo. P. Benson is, or what he knows of him. It is very manifest that Mr. Benson saw fit to use Mr. Young to seek to play a trick upon ourself and our readers, by getting him to vouch for the correctness of the copy of the fraudulent communication. In the absence of further information, we strongly incline to believe that Geo. P. Benson, if that is his name, is a Jesuit agent, who was willing to play a trick upon the mediums, or to aid them in playing a trick upon others. It is a fact that Edwin Keene and Nelson Davignon have been reared in the Catholic Church and it is more than probable that Benson, is a member of that Christian sink of all iniquity. Let the facts come forth that will place the responsibility of this outrage where it belongs, so that the innocent may receive no

It is not a little significant that we should receive a second missive from Mr. Young, urging us to be prompt in publishing the fraudulent transaction. As we cannot believe, as yet, that Mr. Young had any guilty knowledge of the trick, we infer that those who were the real actors in it urged him to use his influence with us, to lead us into the trap. We say to the villains, whoever they may be, that they are welcome to all they have made by their dishonest and fraudulent action. But this must be done, an explanation must be given, and that promptly, or we will publish the persons we have named, as its guilty authors, and caution the public against them. That Roman Catholic Jesuitism, either on earth or in spirit life, is at the bottom of the outrage, we are just as certain of as that we are now penning these words of defiant denunciation.

We want it understood that we are the implacable foe of all fraud, in Spiritualism, as we are in all things else, and at whatever trouble or cost, we will follow the guilty perpetrators, until we have driven them to the wall, and disarmed them from doing further injury to truth,

As it may be interesting, to know who the Rev. Isaac Ambrose was, we will give the following account of him from McClintock and Strong's Encyclopædia:

"Isaac Ambrose, a Presbyterian minister, born in Lancashire, 1591, and educated at Oxford. He officiated at Preston, and afterward at Garstang in Lancashire, from which he was ejected in 1602, for non-conformity. He was a man of great learning, which he adorned by sincere and ardent piety. He died in 1674. Amid the labors of an active ministry he found time to prepare several works of practical religion for the press."

The first communication was undoubtedly genuine, as it bore all the evidence of being so. It was a fearful blow, as spirit evidence. against the Christian religion, and it is natural that the Jesuit propagandists of that false religious teaching, should seek to discredit it, by such mean and contemptible trickery as that that was perpetrated in this instance. They will have to meet and endure the truth whether they will or not, and they might as well make up their minds to do it with a good grace.

THE Thirty-Fifth Anniversary of Modern Spiritualism was celebrated by the Second Association of Spiritualists of Philadelphia, in a very appropriate manner, on Sunday and Monday, April First and Second, at their church. scholars but also to their teachers. Several short addresses were given which were listened to with marked attention. Time and space will not permit of a mention of the exercises in edetail. But everything passed off harmoniously and agreeably. In the evening Miss Langham, by request, delivered her address of the afternoon, dressed in costume, which elicited warm applause, after which Mrs. Adeline M. Glading, gave the address of the evening, which was instructive and entertaining. On Monday the exercises were only conducted in the evening, but our time being fully occupied elsewhere, we were unable to be present on that occasion, but are informed that the exercises were of the same pleasing and satisfactory character as those of the previous day.

Anniversary Exercises-The Haverhill and Bradford Spiritualists-Banquet, and Literary and Musical Entertainment.

The Spiritual Association of Haverhill and Bradford observed the thirty-fifth anniversary of the advent of Modern Spiritualism with appropriate exercises and supper in G. T. Hall, Merri mack street, on Saturday evening. The word "Welcome" appeared over the stage, and the tables extended the entire length of the hall. Plates were laid for one hundred guests; all the seats were taken, and some fifty were served at the second course. At 6:30, President Daniel G. Davis announced that supper was ready, and invited the company to partake. An hour was spent in satisfying the wants of the inner man, after which the literary programme, as follows, was presented:

Song—"Our beautiful home over there."—Long-lev. Mrs. Young, Mrs. Huntington, Mr. Lang,

Address of Welcome. Mr. E. P. Hill. Selection-"Nuts to Crack."-Crey. Miss Bar-

Address. Mr. Cephas B. Lynn.

Selection—"A Vision." Miss Barnicoat. Song—"I am Waiting." Quartette. Duett—"The Old Mountain Tree." (By request.) Mrs. Young, Mrs. Huntington, Mr. Pierce.

Mr. Hill's address of welcome, though brief, was cordial and to the point. The selections sung by the quartette were rendered with good effect, and the harmony sustained were very beautiful. The guitar solo by Mr. Pierce was received with marked approbation, as was the reading by Miss Barnicoat and Mr. Kimball. The principal address of the evening, delivered by C. B. Lynn, of Boston, was given with ease and grace, which marked the speaker as a true orator. Spiritualism has come into the world to do a good work. To-night its advent was being celebrated by many both in this country and the old world. Its pathway was marked with light in the world. It has already accomplished a great work in the world and was destined to still bless the earth. The speaker traced the growth of Modern Spiritualism through the thirty-five years of its existence in this country, claiming that, considering its authenticity and truthfulness of each communi- humble origin, the progress it had made was cation. with close attention by the audience. The music by the orchestra, composed of Messrs. Witham and Pierce, added much to the interest of the occasion. The supper was prepared by the ladies of the Spiritual Aid Society, was rich and good. The programme was unique and very handsome, upon the corners of which appeared the quotation, "It must be so.-Plato. Thou reasonest well. Else whence this pleasing hope; this fond desire; this longing after immortality." And on the reverse, "Sempiterna." The whole was a fine

Letter From Mr. L. O. Weeks. Editor of Mind and Matter:

In the Banner of Light of March 17, I find a letter from J. M. Peebles, in which he seems to rejoice at what he pleases to denominate the growing liberality of the churches, inspired no doubt by the fact that he and some others of the same stripe had been invited to speak in many of the churches, and his utterances had been applauded and pronounced "Good enough Christianity for them;" and triumphantly exclaims, "Who so stupid that they cannot discern the signs of the times?" For one who does not seem to rightly understand them, I point to the Rev. Pilgrim" himself.

Now, Mr. Editor, Pagan Christianity stands just as equally on its mythical "Rock of Ages," as it did thirty-five years ago, (but by no means so securely), and they have no idea of accepting even the phenomena of Spiritualism, only as coming from the devil (another myth) and his traditional imps; while they reject in toto the beautiful philosophy of Spiritualism. Why? Because if we save ourselves by the true philosophy of good deeds, right actions, and pure and noble thoughts, as well as by a knowledge of natural law, they say, Christ will have died in vain; and as the Bible says, "Whosoever entereth in but by me (Christ), the same is a thief and a robber."

Instead of the churches accepting the facts of Spiritualism, as Mr. J. M. P. seems to suppose, he is walking straight into the open arms of the church, carrying "Christ the corner stone of Spiritualism" with him; and that is the place for him. There is no affinity between orthodox Christianity and Spiritualism. They are as opposite as darkness and light, as truth and error, and they will remain opposing forces in life until one or the other ceases to exist. Then, Spiritualists, do not rest in fancied security; the battle is not won; but I entreat you to work boldly and intelligently, for the light we have shall yet illumine the dark places in earth and spirit life.

A Christian Spiritualist said in our convention: "I do not agree with Bro, Weeks, I like the Bible because I can prove Spiritualism by it." I but one thing, to wit: its utter falsity! I agree with Bro. Thompson, when he says, "Kill Jesus," and I send out my voice from among the Green Mountains with equal earnestness, Destroy the Bible; it in the foundation of that cruel bloodthirsty monster, the Christian Churchl Down L. O. WEEKS.

Mt. Lebanon, Columbia Co., N. Y. April 1st, 1883.

Estremed Friend: Yesterday I received a package of ten papers from you sustaining my reply on the "Bible" subject. Accept my hearty thanks, please, for insertion of the article, and the gift of papers. I have disbursed them among friends in Kentucky, Ohio, New York, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine. Possibly they may call forth subscriptions.

We observe the spirits of all classes of society are availing themselves of the avenues of communication now open between this and the spirit world, showing the importance of the counsel of the Apostle John, "Believe not every spirit, but try the spirits, because many false prophets are gone out into the world," etc.

It is our humble opinion that hundreds of thousands of people are being seriously led astray from the paths of truth and virtue, under the supposition that spirits are all wise, and whatever they say must necessarily be true; whereas the fact is, that shuffling off the mortal coil does not necessarily add to a soul's store of wisdom or knowledge, or to their advancement in virtue and

May it not be a pertinent question whether the publication to the world of the multitudinous communications from low, degraded, ignorant spirits does not do an injury rather than a benefit to society? [We think not.—ED.]

It is wonderful how some persons will linger in the mere phenominal phase of Spiritualism! while the vast fields of revealed truth from souls in spirit life who have had ages of culture and education in wisdom are opened for a harvest of immortal garnerings of truth and light.

But the arena of the human family is immense in breadth, and vast accumulations of prejudice, through education, militates against all spirit life and intelligence. There are spirits who would strive to nullify the most prominent facts recorded in history. They would have us believe that Jesus was a myth; that Napoleon Bonaparte never existed; that Lord Bacon was an assumed name and character; that St. Paul had no revelations, that Moses was a mere charlatan, etc., and, in fact, listening to their vagaries, we would almost question our own existence, and suppose all life a mere vapory imagination.

But, thanks to God, there will ever be a class of humanity retaining some reason and common sense. These will take stock in the revelations of nature, and nature's God, and link the chain of God's truths and providences from earth to heaven! Accept our respects and thanks,

Your friend truly, GILES B. AVERY.

We would say to friend Avery, that he is but a tyro in regard to the work that is being done by spirits for the enlightenment and emancipation of mortals; and he is too much hedged in by religious prejudice to be beyond the narrow enclosure in which he is penned up. If friend Avery can shake the testimony of the spirits to whom he refers, he will do the Christian clergy a great service: but he, seems as little disposed, as they do, to undertake that formidable task.-ED.]

The First Christmas in America.

The chronicles of the Pilgrims, describing their arrival in Cape Cod Bay, in December, 1620, referred thus briefly to the first Christmas spent by them in America: "Monday, the 25th, being Christmas Day, we began to drink water aboard. But at night the Master caused us to have some beer; and so on board we had divers times, now and then some beer, but on shore none at all."

What was done in Plymouth village the next Christmas is more fully described in the quaint language of Gov. Bradford:

"On ye day called Christmas-day, ye Govr called them out to worke (as was used), but ye most of this new company excused themselves and said it went against their consciences to work on ye day. So ye Govr told them that if they made it mater of conscience, he would spare them till they were better informed. So he led away ye rest and left them, but when they came home at noone from their worke, he found them in ye streete at play, openly; come pitching ye barr, and some at stoole-ball and shuch like sports. So he went to them and took away their implements, and told them that was against his conscience, that they should play and others worke. If they made ye keeping of it mater of devotion, let them keepe their houses, but ther should be no gaming or revelling in ye streets."

Vinegar for the Sick Room.

There is a French legend that during the plagues at Marseilles, a band of robbers plundered the dying and the dead without injury to themselves. They were imprisoned, tried and condemned to die, but were pardoned on condition of disclosing the secret whereby they could ransack houses infected with the terrible scourge. They gave the following recipe, which makes a delicious and refreshing wash for the sick room. deny it. Anniversary at Yonkers, N. Y.

The Spiritualists of Yonkers celebrated the 35th anniversary of the advent of Modern Spiritualism by a circle at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Gale, two indefatigable workers for the cause, concerning whose wondrous work as healers I shall write you very soon. Several mediums were present, and tests and trance communications were given, which were very satisfactory to the members of the circle. The larger part of the communications were given through a beautiful young lady of eighteen or twenty years of age, who gives promise of great usefulness in future. Early in the evening these verses written for the gathering, were read:

Oh, life sublime, which blendest all.
We feel thy gladsome power to-night,
As to our spirit friends we call
To give us clearer views of right,

And fill us with their loving thought, Nor let an'ill or care betide, May some fresh view of truth be caught, To dwell with us this eventide.

We hall the 31st of March As Truth's glad jubilee, When ringing out from Heaven's pure arch, It spoke to set men free,

To liberate from iron creed; To put away all fear, And teach us that the kindly deed La all that's needed here;

To fit us for a home of light, Of joy and beauty rare, Where fellowship with beings bright Will make our souls more fair— More wise, more just, more wholly true,

More useful to our race; Then we'll return in efforts new To free Earth's dwelling place From sorrows, sin and crime's dark power,

And usher in the golden hour We've waited for so long; When peace and plenty, virtue, truth, Shall reign throughout the world, And freedom's banner without ruth

From ignorance and wrong,

Be everywhere unturied, When from out the distant ages,
To our sorrewing tear-dimmed earth,
Spoke the wisdom of the sages,
Heralding fair Freedom's birth:

First, the quick glad ear of woman Caught the tender, joyous strain, And with love so sweetly human, She paused to sing the glad refrain.

Oh! womanhood, the nation's hour With direst need is fraught; Speak quickly, and oh! speak with power The truths your ear hath caught.

For wrongs exist which you must right, Injustice walks abroad, And for his cruel deeds of might, Man quotes an angry God.

But Tenderness her message sends And Justice now has birth; The motherhood of Heaven blends With brotherhood of Earth,

ALFRED JAMES, MEDIUM.

March 16th, M. S. 35.

GEORGE CONLY.

Good day Sir: -My name is George Conley. basso singer. I was drowned in Lake Sunnapee, New Hampshire in 1882. I am here to-day because it is absolutly necessary for me to come (don't feel any hesitation whatever.) In this city at your great Centennial Celebration of 1876, I sung the "Star Spangled Banner" in the old State House, and I feel a reverence for you Pennsylvanians and Philadelphians. In my strong individuality as a spirt I have forced myself here today out of the usual line of communications given through this medium. I felt that I would like to talk here for a few moments. I left this world a materialist. I had no belief in a life beyond the grave, whatever. I thought that when a man was dead that was the last of him; but as a spirit I find myself, obliged, sir, to fight against a thousand difficulties of which I knew nothing; and I want to ask you what advice you would give? If you were launched into eternity, and you met a reality where you thought you were going into nothingness, and that reality in the shape of life, and a kind of life in which there is only this difference, the one is matter embodied and the other is matter disembodied, what would I know your readers, of like stamp, will prize it. you do? (I will answer you.) I will explain to "I am a medium myself—have given my seyou, as minutely as I can, the condition of my spirit to-day. It is invisible to you—it is an impalpable gas; but to me it is just as real as if it was in the body it left. If any person would sink a pin, into this, I would suffer just as much as if I was solid like you. Once What would as if I was solid like you. Ques. What would you have me explain to you? Ans. I want you to tell me how, in the name of God, I am to get free from this damnable notion I had that all them. free from this damnable notion I had, that all took —— and child, when she had not where to men are dead after they die? I know I am living lay her head, and kept them four months. She now; but I am suffering, in this life, because I have no energy and I cannot act as I wish to. (I can explain it to you. You are of a very strong and positive nature, and it is going to be of the greatest benefit to you as a spirit, and of the greatest utility to other spirits because of your greatest utility to other spirits because of your ability to force yourself amongst them and give them light, where they need it so much. For matter what it is. They are students of human you must remember that countless millions of nature, and mental chemists as well. Can play spirits have passed into spirit-life, with the same through mental power upon ignorant mediums, ignorance of what they would realize, as you had. who are vain, selfish and ambitious make them Now, you have waked up to desire something better than the condition that you find yourself in. That very desire will take you out of that of course they fail, as those old Jesuits knew they condition; but then it is necessary for you to would. Then lo and behold! the world is called know in what direction to move, and I will tell upon to see what Spiritualism has done. you where that direction lies. It is in the direction of a desire to be useful to your fellow beings, in spirit-tife as well as in earth-life. You will tigated Spiritualism. I saw Catholic priests in realize, in again resuming your spirit-life, what you failed to realize, when you passed out of your body. In leaving the medium you are controlling, you will realize a new state of things. That land as here; but what surprised me more than is; you will go back to spirit-life knowing that anything else, was the infernal stupidity of Spiris; you will go back to spirit-life knowing that there is an eternal and boundless field of progression for you; and you will realize that you will be enabled, not only to advance yourself, but to use the knowledge you acquire as you advance to instruct others, just in proportion as you desire and strive to know the truth; and as you desire and seek to give that truth to others, in that proportion you will find the way opening before you to a degree of happiness and gratificainteruption by a stranger coming into the office, and the sitting was unavoidably ended.

JACOB JONAS BICEBRETAHL.

I SALUTE You, Sir :- I was born in Sweden. I was a traveller, and to a certain extant an antiquarian. I died at Salonica, 1779, of the plague. During my life I wandered over a great deal of country. I was intimately acquainted with Voltaire, and we had many extraordinary conversations together. And it ended in Voltaire's wit killing my religion. I do not think, that in my boyhood days there was any person more religious than myself; but when I came to compare what I thought, against Voltaire's reason, I found it non est. Now, there is one particular point upon which my communication will bear. It is this. At the foot of the Little Ararat, you will observe a little stone, and it rises only a few inches above the sand, which I want you, should you ever get there, to uncover to the base of it. Ques. On which side of the Little Ararat is it? Ans. The side of it that you would naturally approach it, going to it from here—on the Western side. After you uncover it, you will find a standing solid argument against all Christianity. You will find there, on that stone that comes above the sand in an angular shape, the description of a great flood, that took place 27,000 years ago. I, as a traveller, knew this. It is a positive fact. Ques. Was it uncovered when you saw it? Ans. I uncovered it myself, but the winds have blown the sand against it since. There is not more than three inches of it above the surface; but there is a certain spirit manifestation going on there, which will never let it be entirely covered. It is at the base of the Little Ararat, about four hundred paces in the direction of Salonica, and any person who wishes to investigate this thing, that has really got the religion of Jesus at heart, and wants to know the truth in relation to it, can and there find positive evidence, that this world is 27,000 years old, at least.

The only mention we can find of Biœrnstahl we take from Thomas's Dictionary of Biography, and it is as follows:

"Jacod Jonas Biœrnstahl or Biœrnstahl, a Swedish traveller, born in Sudermania, in 1731, was sent by Gustavus III. on a scientific expedition to Greece, Syria, and Egypt, but died at Salonica, (in European Turkey), in 1779. See Ersch and Gruber, 'Allgemeine Encyklopædie.'"

This is perhaps the only mention of Biornstahl that can be found in any English publication, as his nome does not appear in any other of the Encyclopædias or Biograpoical Dictionaries. We therefore regard this communication, brief as it is, as of especial significance. Whether Biornstahl ever recorded the fact of this remarkable discovery, we have no means of determining; but if the did it was perhaps lost or suppressed, as he died at Solonica, it appears, as he was returning from his important mission, of the plague, as he tells

It is very certain that if Bicernstahl found such a monument at the place he mentions, he would have no doubt understood the full significence of it; as he admits that before making that discovery his religious predilections had been obliterated by the wit and logic of Voltaire, between 1750 and 1755 while the latter was at the Court of Frederick the great, at Berlin, in the highest favor with that kingly patron of learning. It is hardly likely that Biœrnstahl would have disclosed the full extent of his discovery, and it is therefore altogether likely, that his secret died with him. Had we the time and means to do it, we would, even at our advanced time of life, undertake to test the truth, hy personal observation of this and other of those remarkable spirit revelations. But this under existing circumstances is impossible.

A Letter from Lois Walsbrooker-To the Point. Editor of Mind and Matter:

I can give you the following extract from my correspondence without giving the name of the writer, and it will be no violation of personal rights; and, it is so full of vim and common sense, was badly obsessed by Jesuits; and no one can tell me anything worse than I know by actual experience what it is to deal with those old Jesuits behind our mediums. "They use these sensitives to their own dis-

"I saw the Catholic spirits, with my clairvoyant vision, eighteen years ago, when I first invescircles. I wondered why they were there, and I commenced to investigate in that line. I soon found out they were as busy over in the Summeritualists and mediums. They were all busy with some selfish interest—had no time to study into causation—and I found no sympathy as to my theory of Catholic power working silently to destroy us.

"O, no; they knew the good spirits would protect them. Their harmonial philosophy and summer-land was a settled fact to them. It was of no tion, mentally, morally and socially, that you a committee of one, to watch with all my soul, never dreamed was attainable. Do you under against the Jesuits. For five years I never knew stand this? (Yes.) At this point there was an what it was, day nor night, to be free from pain | - Troy Times.

in my head and down my spine. All this time I did my work for my family, with boarderstook in those obsessed mediums-fought with my mental power, Loyola, Torquemada, and their minions. *

"There is no end to the things they have done in their efforts to destroy me. I could fill a large book with their capers. I was paralyzed, brain and body-lost a year's time in recuperationhad to break up my home and go into the country, and am not yet fully recovered.

"I can aid mediums no more. J. M. Roberts has ventilated the matter; so now it is generally known among Spiritualists that there are evil disposed spirits as well as summer-land angels, with corner lots for sale to old grannies whom they can stuff. If Roberts would only stick to his work and leave Bundy to die a natural death, I should feel that we had some chance to ultimately understand this most important matter.

"I have no time to write articles. I have never been before the public. I am only a housekeeper and cannot write these things up as well as you can who are in that line. *

"There are about five hundred Spiritualists in this town, and but two families who believe that anything but summer-land spirits come back. The most of them are tainted with "Harmonial Philosophy," and I would as soon ask aid for any one, of a Fegee islander, as of a "harmonial philosopher." I have nothing to do with Spiritualists here or elsewhere, unless they have common sense and humanity. I have no time to waste on them. When I have circles I invite skepticsgive my time to skeptics—because I am a worker and have no time to talk of the "glorious spirit

"I know very much more of the miseries of life than its beauties; and I want my life to be of more use in helping to lift this terrible burden of ignorance from the human mind. I think if you investigate, you will find the Jesuits at the bottom of this Jesus and Mary business at Terre Haute. I do not believe a word of their claims. There is something in this materializing that most people do not understand."

So, Friend Roberts, I have given you what I thought was too good to be lost. As to materialization, I have witnessed undoubted proofs here, at Terre Haute, but I have much to say that I cannot say now. I feel as my friend does about the Jesus and Mary business," and if Spiritualists would stop persecuting honest mediums, and look for tricks among intruding Jesuitical spirits, they would make more progress. I have seen "Mary," so-called, or, as Minnie said, in a tone that I should have called sarcastic, had I heard it elsewhere, "That's what she says." I saw her her drop on one knee, raise her hands and eyes, then rise and spread her hands in blessing; this after she had been around and shaken hands. would have refused to touch her hand, only I did not wish to make a scene. As it was, I barely gave the tips of my fingers. As to Mrs. Stewart, she is a genuine medium, and, as I fully believe, a good woman, and to claim that the committee men are other than honest, is simply absurd. Lois WAISBROOKER.

[We would say to Mrs. Waisbrooker's correspondent, that we are doing our best "to stick to our work," and a very essential part of that work aged to cause such havoc and destruction among spiritual media. Bundyism is the immediate outcome of the work of Jesuitical spirits. That the lady medium in question has not been able to realize and appreciate that fact, shows that the Jesuits are even able to use her to soften our death-dealing blows against them and their work. So the matter looks to us. For any Spiritualist, whether man or woman, to ask leniency and forbearance towards those who are openly and avowedly banded together to war upon meup as being faithful to a cause whose sole foundation and support is mediumship. Mrs. Waisbrooker's correspondent may be an older soldier, in the war against Jesuit opposition to Spiritualism, but not a better soldier than ourself, as the end will make manifest. Better, by far, for each one to do their own work in their own way, and allow others the same privilege, than to waste time in finding fault with the useful work others are doing. At any rate we ask those who do not agree with us, in our methods of working, to waste no time in trying to change those methods. We have been doing our work in our own way, and will continue to do so, however much other people may think they know our business better than we do ourself. Compernez vous, une et tout?

A TRIBUTE TO THE MEMORY OF HOMER BONSALL.

BY ANN CLARK.

(An aged lady reformer, 83 years old. Homer passed to spirit life March 11th, 1883. He was aged 6 years, 4 months and 10 days.)

And hast thou left us, dear, attractive boy? Will thy sweet smile no more our hearts console?
Thy earnest eyes, all sparking bright with joy,
Could chase desponding thoughts from "Auntie's" soul,

Could not the earnest, universal love Which clustered round thy unpolluted life, Withhold thee from congenial scenes above, Safe from all earthly care or strife?

We hoped for thee a manhood, great and strong, To help humanity improve and grow, To battle with oppression, fraud and wrong, 'Till love became triumphant here below.

Is hope then blasted? Reason answers, no. Still art thou living, pure and undefiled; Thy sympathy still flows to those below; And humbly we invoke it, heavenly child.

Nature demands the tribute of our tears; Yet, consolation should this thought convey; That in a few short, fleeting, troubled years Each one who mourns for thee shall "know the way." Then let us all, by love and kindness show

That human welfare, animates our deeds For love can render earth a heaven below, And soar supreme o'er prejudice and creeds, Then, when this transitory life is o'er May we be found free from all deadly sin, And meet our darling on the heavenly shore, Where he will gladly bid us "enter in."

Oh, may old "Aunty," thee be worthy found, To meet again her much loved, darling boy; And midst the harmonies which there abound Enjoy with him, content without alloy. Salem, Ohio, March, 1883.

The Thirty-Fifth Anniversary at Erie, Pa.

Editor of Mind and Matter:

We had, in some respects, a fine celebration of the 35th Anniversary of Spiritualism, in Erie, Pa. It is true that farmers were compelled to stay at home to attend to their sugar making, and April lst, is in this city general moving day, thus two things kept hundreds away, whose hearts were with us. Yet the attendance was fair and the meetings superb. Sunday night, only, our hall was filled. The speakers were the ex-Rev. J. H. Burnham, of Saginaw City, Mich., Mrs. Hull and myself. The hall had been finely decorated by the ladies of the Erie Society for the occasion. Flowers, bouquets, hanging baskets, pictures, and singing birds, rendered the hall, to the eyes and ears present, simply magnificent.

Our meeting opened with a conference, after which, on Saturday night, J. H. Burnham, delivered an able lecture on "What shall I do with my thoughts." The next morning at 10 A. M. the exercises were opened with a fact meeting lasting over an hour, in which many interesting facts-were related. The most remarkable of which was Capt. Abraham Louchies disobedience to a spirit message which brought him face to face with death on the bottom of a lake at one time, with over 200 feet of water. At 11 A. M. Mrs. Hull delivered a very fine address on "The Gospel of Spiritualism."

At 2 P. M., the writer of this, by special request, delivered the regular anniversary address. His suject was, "The Easter of the Christian and the is to hasten the death of Bundyism—the last refuge of those Jesuitical spirits who have managed to cause such have and destruction among on March 21st. It was traced down through the Jewish passover (cross-over) to the time when Jesus Christ, the Christian's passover, was slain for them; and thus was the Xtian's Easter run down to the present time. The Xtian's Easter was shown not to have originated with Xtians, but with the sun making a St. Andrew's cross—a letter X over the equinoctial line.

Next, the great thirst for a positive knowledge of a life beyond was referred to, and it was shown that the ipse dixit of the Bible and priests was no longer convincing to thinkers. Just at this time the rappings commenced. The history diums, is to forfeit any claim that he or she may sets of Spiritualism was briefly traced, and Spiritualists were exhorted, now, upon the first day of the new year, to renew their energy in working for Spirituality in themselves and the world.

At night, Mr. Burnham, on "The Republic of Thought," was grand. The audience remained almost breathless with interest during the hour and a half of this discourse.

With renewed zeal and energy, we, in this part of Pennsylvania, buckle the armor on anew, and enlist for the fight, not simply during the 36th year of the new era, but to work until the "little leaven," hidden in "three measures of meal," leavens the "whole lump."

With hope for your success in every effort to bring the two worlds in more perfect communion, Moses Hull.
