THE NEW TREATMENT OF THE MIND.

By R. DEMAÏN-GRANGE.

Crown 8vo, 3/- net.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.

THERE is a world-wide awakening in the mental and spiritual realms of man's nature, causing an earnest search on the part of all thinking people for Knowledge to satisfy the mind and a deep yearning for Peace to still the restless cravings of the hungering soul. To such this book will come as a solace and a guide ; for it is intended to help those who are seeking to understand their Higher Nature, and who are therefore thus feeling after God as a practical Reality in their lives.

It shows how it is not normal that mankind should suffer and points the way out of suffering for enlightened humanity. For the object of this work is to meet the needs of those who are sick in body and mind, by giving them Hope and Comfort, and ultimately Health, by discovering to their minds the fact that Life must be guided by and lived according to a Principle in order that satisfactory results may be obtained in ourselves and in our environment.

To those who think deeply and are truly desirous of understanding Life in general and the problem of their own existence in particular, this book will appeal most strongly.

It ends by making the reader feel how truly well worth the living is Life when understood, and how privileged is every man when he finds he has the capacity for actually Knowing God.

The student will learn much from a perusal of this work to help him in the development of his soul and in the conduct of his life.

The Life and teaching of the Great Master are presented as a living model for the lives of men and women of to-day and not merely as a matter of ancient history outlived and done with, as far as its practical worth is concerned.

The book endeavours to show that all that man needs is to know himself, his origin and the object of his Being in order to expunge from his life all adverse conditions and to enable him to fall in line with the Eternal Law which in ignorance he is continually opposing, although it is always working, unconsciously maybe to man, for his Highest Good.

The keynote of this work is the Oneness of the human soul with the Divine Spirit of All-Good—therefore of the intrinsic goodness and divinity of Man who should awaken to a knowledge of his True Self and live accordingly, always casting back the reflection of His Likeness to God.

THE HEALING MEDIUM OF THE FUTURE.

THE certainty of Electro-Magnetism as a curative agent is slowly being recognized, although its sphere of usefulness for Therapeutical purposes is nearly as unlimited as in the commercial world.

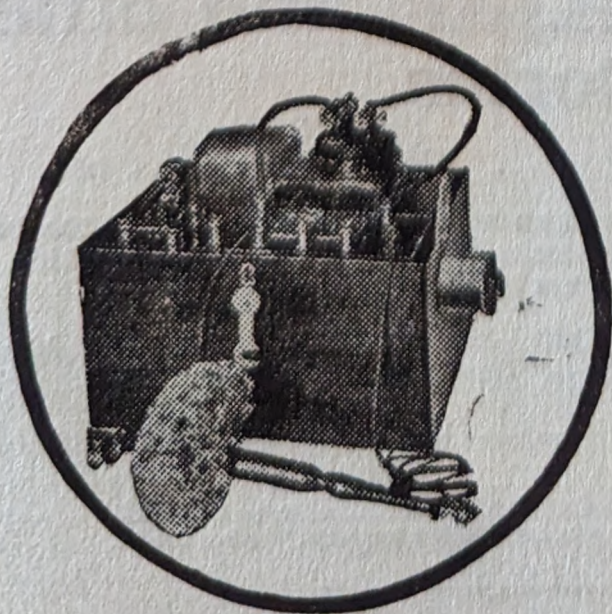

The necessity for a thoroughly reliable and scientific Apparatus is demonstrated by the failures which have followed the use of so-called Electric Pads, Belts, etc., and we are therefore introducing a Battery which has been found to be the most effective means of administering curative Electricity.

Our professional experience with the "Reliance" Batteries has extended over 25 years. The cures which we have effected have been simply astonishing, and subjected to tests by public men of repute, among whom is Mr. W. T. Stead, whose report is both interesting and instructive. Mr. E. A. Tietkens can also testify to having experienced satisfactory results from the daily use of one of these Batteries.

The "Reliance" Battery positively cures Rheumatism, Gout, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Gall Stone, Pleurisy. The nervous system is remarkably quickly invigorated and restored by this wonderful current, and diseases which arise from any disorders of the nerves (Paralysis, Neuritis, Neuralgia, Asthma, etc.) are effectively and lastingly overcome. Our Battery produces from 6 to 10 currents of such delicate and diffused Electro-magnetism that it can be reasonably expected to replace Human Magnetic force, which must naturally be limited as a curative agent.

FREE TRIAL SOLICITED.

We would urge you to apply for full particulars, which will be sent post free. We court the fullest inquiry, and will gladly explain the "Reliance" Battery and its various uses at a personal interview.

RUINS OF DESERT CATHAY. Personal Narrative of Explorations in Central Asia and Westernmost China. By M. AUREL STEIN. With Numerous Illustrations. Colour Plates, Panoramas, and Maps from Original Surveys. Two Vols. Royal 8vo, 42s. net.

Daily Chronicle.—"Though this class of book is very often completely outside the range of the average reader, the 'Ruins of Desert Cathay' will appeal to the most unarchæological. No one could pass uninterested, unmoved, or unthrilled through scenes distinguished by the presence of such mystic wonders and happenings."

THE PRINCIPLE OF INDIVIDUALITY AND VALUE. Being the Gifford Lectures for 1911, delivered in Edinburgh University. By BERNARD BOSANQUET, LL.D., D.C.L. 8vo, 10s. net.

Glasgow Herald.—"We await with keen interest the second course, in which Mr. Bosanquet promises to apply the principles which he here so brilliantly unfolds to human value and destiny."

THE AFTER-DEATH. Set in order by Henry Brandon. London : Theosophical Publishing Society. Cr. 8vo, pp. 224. Price 3s. 6d. net.

THE volume is dedicated by direction to the neophytes beyond : but the appeal, I suppose, is to neophytes and others of this world. If I think, on the whole, that inscriptions of this kind are a little regrettable, it does not follow that the narrative so introduced will be wanting in appeal to many who are seeking tidings of the unseen. It is difficult to think that it is more than a story about the post-mortem state in its first stages, yet it claims to be the result of a discovery among certain papers bequeathed by a woman-friend to the editor. The narrative part is well told, especially The Two Hands and the closing section, which indeed is not less than arresting. Supposing it to be a product of automatic writing, it is much the best of its kind that one is likely to meet with in a long day of questing. Most of these things are sufficiently bad to suggest that they can be scarcely creations of the normal mind, but Mr. Brandon's sheaf of imputed experiences is sufficiently good to indicate on every page something of the literary method. This is to his credit and on the claims otherwise of the volume one prefers to say nothing. Personally, I am thankful for the sovereign reason, aided by which it is possible to be saved from deception when the unseen and its substitutes rise up to testify.

THE RADIANT MORN ; OR, THE SECRET OF PERPETUAL YOUTH. By A. T. Schofield, M.D. London : James Nisbet & Co., Ltd., 22, Berners Street, W. Price 1s. 6d. net.

IN this delightful little book Dr. Schofield raises the significant question : " Why should the Radiant Morn of life, the period that is associated with the happiness, the purity and the brightness of childhood, why should it pass away ? " Indeed, why should it ? " As a man thinketh, so is he," the old proverb runs. If we allow the God within us to shine forth, if we open our minds to the wonder and beauty of creation, and assimilate into our being all that is noble and good, then the powers of darkness and the sorrows that spring from sin and ignorance will have no hold on us ; we

Do You Want to Know About
Your Business, Marriage, Changes,
Occupation, Friends, Enemies, or
What to Do to Achieve Success?

Attention of the mystically inclined seems to be centred at present upon the work of Mr. Clay Burton Vance, who, although laying claim to no special gift of supernatural powers, attempts to reveal the lives of people through the slender clues of handwriting and birth-dates. The undeniable accuracy of his delineations leads one to surmise that heretofore palmists, prophets, astrologers and seers of divers beliefs have failed to apply the true principles of the science of divination.

Arrangements have been made to give free test Reading to all readers of the OCCULT REVIEW, but it is especially requested that those who wish to avail themselves of this generous offer make application at once. If you wish a delineation of your own life, if you wish a true description of your characteristics, talents and opportunities, simply send your full name, the date, month and year of your birth (state whether Mr., Mrs. or Miss), and also copy the following verse in your own handwriting:

"Your power is marvellous
So people write,
Please read my life:
Are my prospects bright?"

Send your letter to Mr. Clay Burton Vance, Suite 37D, No. 14, Rue de Richelieu, Paris, France. If you wish you may enclose 6d. (stamps of your own country) to pay postage, clerical work, etc. Please note that 2½d. postage is required on letters posted to France. Do not enclose coins or silver in your letter.

Mr. Lafayette Redditt writes: "The Life Reading received. With the greatest amazement I read as step by step you outlined my life since infancy. I have been somewhat interested along these lines for years, but had no idea that such priceless advice could be given. I must admit that you are indeed a very remarkable man, and I am glad you use your great gift to benefit your clients."

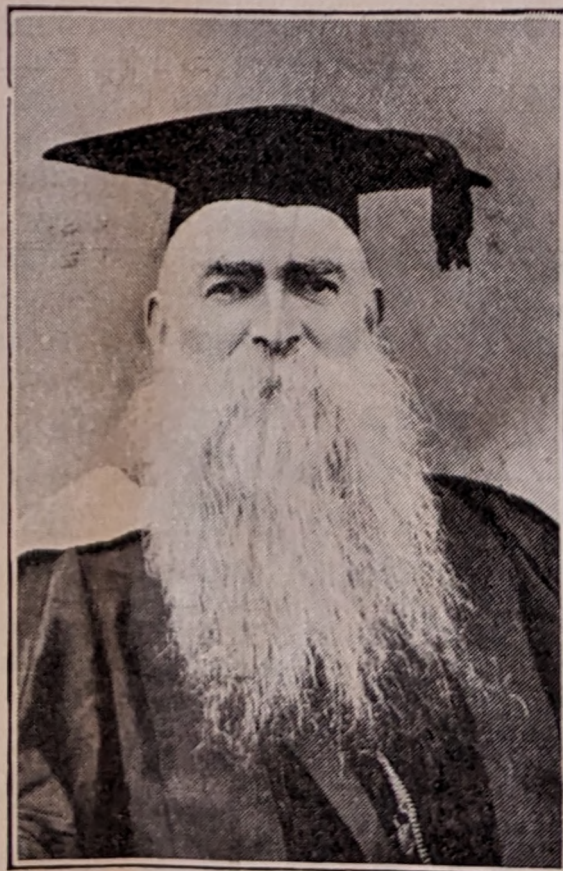

Miss Loretta Harvey writes: "I am pleased to express my entire satisfaction with the Life Reading. You have saved me many mistakes, and I am sorry I did not know of you long ago. To me your power is unexplainable, but nevertheless very beneficial. The matter upon which you gave me special advice has been worked out as you advised."

"Dear Sir.—I duly received your letter and Complete Life Reading. I am perfectly satisfied with your Reading, it is in nearly all the items as exact as it could possibly be. It seems strange that you should refer to my suffering from throat trouble. I have just had a bad attack and usually have it two or three times per year. I shall certainly recommend you to my friends who desire a Life Reading."

Professor A. C. Dixon, M.A., B.Sc.

shall still retain in later life the pristine purity and the brightness of childhood.

To myself, who am just now recovering from what was thought to be a death-bed, The Radiant Morn comes as a burst of spiritual sunshine through the gloom of slow and tedious convalescence. Dr. Schofield writes with a depth of conviction and a breadth of sympathy that are unmistakable. Let the sick, the care-worn, the broken-hearted and down-trodden read this book and judge for themselves. It will comfort and sustain them in the hour of darkness, when the waves of oppression and the winds of despair beat against the citadel of the soul.

The argument of The Radiant Morn is that the happiness and the buoyancy that characterize childhood, far from passing away with the advent of Christian maturity, should on the contrary be intensified and perpetuated. In order to keep young, we must give expression to the divine spirit that is within us, we must look at the panorama of life with the eyes of the spirit. This indeed is the secret of perpetual youth; for the spirit of man is eternally plastic, eternally young. Dr. Schofield wishes to show that Christianity, if properly practised and rightly understood, instead of restricting our pleasures and narrowing our outlook on life, enlarges both, and thus is the means of bringing into our existence a deep note of harmony and true happiness, as nothing else can. With all his soul he echoes Christina Rossetti's beautiful lines:—

"Lift up thine eyes to seek the invisible:
Stir up thy heart to choose the still unseen:
Strain up thy hope in glad perpetual green
To the exceeding height where all saints dwell."

The Radiant Morn is characterized by a lofty faith and a sincere and earnest desire to help, strengthen and sustain. A vein of true altruistic feeling pervades the book, and Dr. Schofield preaches a philosophy of life that cannot do otherwise than both materially and spiritually assist his readers.

BETWEEN TWO WORLDS. By A. E. Lloyd Maunsell. London: De La More Press. Cr. 8vo, pp. viii, 141. Price 5s. net.

It is a little book of testimony on the part of one who is pausing for a period between the hither and the further sides of existence, with an eye and an ear for both. It is a little book of reflections and intimations, about which it may be difficult to say whether one is drawn more by the one or other message. In the sense that I am using this term, the reflections are on the world without, as it is seen from the window of one who has no wider horizon, except in the memory of the past. But it is a window which opens on faërie, and the reflections are speaking likenesses, pictures, full of that observance and keenness which are possible only to deep and living sympathy. The intimations are of the other world, of "the eternity that stirs ever behind things transitory"; and they have spoken in the heart of one who—perhaps more fully and plainly than he can realize on his own part—has beheld and is still beholding, ever and continually, the vision of the noumenal through the veil and pageant of things that are manifest. Having regard to the personal note throughout, it must be said that the studies or impressions are those of "an ambitious student in ill-health," and in this respect there is no note of hope sounded through the whole volume, though it breathes in all things else the "tranquillity of an eternal assurance." The personal note, therefore, notwithstanding its over-frequent iteration, is an added, though pathetic, charm. There are beautiful and moving things in this modest memorial, which speaks, amidst conscious restriction, of liberation and union.

JAMES HUTCHISON STIRLING: HIS LIFE AND WORK. By Amelia Hutchison Stirling. London: T. Fisher Unwin, Adelphi Terrace. Price 10s. 6d. net.

THIS is a very interesting and ably written life of the Hegelian philosopher, who was also physician and poet and one of the most learned and profound thinkers of his day.

In it we learn that he was born in 1820 of Scotch parents at Glasgow and lived to the ripe old age of eighty-nine, with a brain capable and clear and faculties unimpaired to the end. In his boyhood he early evinced those traits of dogged determination that stood him in such good stead in after life, notably in his search for that "light" with which he wrote his scholarly book, The Secret of Hegel—the work that made his name.

The only woman he ever loved, he married, and to support her and his increasing family, he forsook the paths of literature for a time and took up medicine, practising in Wales with much success. He was one of those rare and delightful doctors to whom a patient is rather "more than a case."

His early efforts at Poetry were very striking and exceptionally good, and "Belshazzar's Feast" is a feast, abounding in originality and vivid imagery; he could easily have made his name along those lines, had he cared to do so, instead of choosing the more arduous task of following in the "Philosophic Succession"—making another man famous and familiar by the aid of his own great, conscientious brain.

We cannot but admire and like the Physician-Philosopher, with his uprightness, his sturdy principles and his unswerving faith, and consider, moreover, that he has conferred a lasting benefit upon mankind by reconciling philosophy with Christianity.

He numbered among his friends Emerson and Carlyle, some of whose letters are interspersed throughout the book.

He witnessed the Merthyr riots in Wales, and was present in Paris at the coup d'état of 1851, saw the streets and squares packed with soldiery and the doorsteps of private citizens "beastly with blood."

He belonged to the Established Church of Scotland and his political

THE TEXT-BOOK OF ASTROLOGY.

Second Edition, in One Volume.

By ALFRED JOHN PEARCE.

This standard and only complete work on the ancient science extant, comprising five books, on Nativities, Mundane Astrology, Astro-Meteorology, Medical Astrology, and Elections respectively, has been thoroughly revised and largely re-written; and the tables of right-ascension and declination corrected to the present O.E. New chapters on Uranus and Neptune, and Solar Revolutions, and fresh diagrams have been added.

It is indispensable to the student of astrologia sana, to the physician, and the general reader.

Extract from Modern Society, February 17, 1912:—"The Cosmos Society is gaining increased popularity day by day. The main object of this very up-to-date organisation is to have one of the broadest possible platforms in the Metropolis, without dogma, ritual, creed, or limitation. Its objects embrace all forms of scientific, advanced, progressive, and modern thought on physical, metaphysical, occult, and humanitarian lines; also it aims for the closer relationship of all existing and future societies, groups of earnest investigators, and leaders or students interested in physical, mental, and psychical culture, education, and investigation. According to the new prospectus, just issued, every great question of modern thought and interest has been and is being dealt with by some recognized leader in their own particular branch. A liberal, broad-minded, and very attractive programme, don't you think?"

IMAGINARY SPEECHES, AND OTHER PARODIES IN PROSE AND VERSE.

By Jack Collings Squire. London: Stephen Swift & Co., Ltd., 10, John Street, Adelphi. Price 3s. 6d. net.

THIS exceedingly witty book will please all political parties which have a sense of humour, and will convince sagacious readers that we have here a parodist of uncommon power who is able to seize characteristics and manipulate them in the most skilful manner to suit his purpose. The six imaginary speeches at the beginning are all good, and those by Lord Rosebery, Mr. Balfour and Mr. Ure, to mention only three, cannot fail to give unalloyed pleasure. In “The Sort of Poems Modern Poets Write,” the mannerisms and affectations of much modern verse are happily hit off, though Mr. Squire blunts the edge occasionally by making too slight a modification of the style of the supposed originals. While “The Sort of Prose Articles Modern Prose-writers Write” contains many good things, it is hardly up to the level of the imaginary speeches, but some of the parodies in “The Practical Journalist” are delicious, especially “The Model Art Criticism” and “The Model Column for Housewives.” If you want to be merry, read the book.

MEMORIES AND STUDIES. By William James. Longmans, Green & Co., 39, Paternoster Row, London, New York, Bombay and Calcutta. Price 6s. 6d. net.

THOMAS DAVIDSON, says William James in this book, on one occasion “denounced me for the musty and mouldy and generally ignoble academism of my character.” Such a description is humorous to the last degree, when applied to a man so signally distinguished for vivacity and freshness and generosity of mind towards all new ideas. But a remark like this, coming from a noble friend, of a character so free and a life so intensely individual as Davidson’s, must have held a lasting piquancy for William James. It was Thomas Davidson who said, “There is nothing in all the world like friendship, when it is deep and real,” and also acted up to that saying, and in the first part of this book of essays we see their author rejoicing in his love for his friends. The whole book is as notable for its fine spirit as for its intellectual acumen. Among the great variety of topics treated in the fifteen papers, we may specially notice a remarkably fair estimate of Herbert Spencer, and an appreciative, level-headed account of Frederic Myers’ services to psychology. The essay called “The Energies of Men” is full of illumination, and it is not an exaggeration to say that the reading of the last, that on Benjamin Paul Blood, a philosopher of rare quality, may easily be productive of a high excitement. We quote its final words: “Let my last word, then, speaking in the name of intellectual philosophy, be his word:—‘There is no conclusion. What has concluded, that we might conclude in regard to it? There are no fortunes to be told, and there is no advice to be given. Farewell!’”

A PSYCHIC AUTOBIOGRAPHY

BY

AMANDA T. JONES,

AUTHOR OF "UAH," "ATLANTIS," "RUBÁIYÁT OF SOLOMON," "POEMS,"
"A PRAIRIE IDYL," ETC.

With five portraits and an introduction by JAMES H. HYSLOP, Secretary of the American Society for Psychical Research.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.

MISS AMANDA T. JONES, the author of A Psychic Autobiography, is well known in America by numerous volumes of charming poetry. In addition she has achieved distinction as an inventor along mechanical lines. A Psychic Autobiography is a record of her own psychic life, and is written from a very candid and personal standpoint, and in a forceful and original style. None of those who are interested in the question of spirit communion and spirit identity should fail to read this fascinating human document. The Introduction is by PROFESSOR JAMES H. HYSLOP, whose name is so well known on both sides of the Atlantic in connexion with Psychical Research, and who has taken a special interest in Miss Jones' psychic experiences. He has stated his opinion that the volume in question is an interesting and valuable addition to the testimony relating to the communication between the visible and invisible world. The English edition is published by special arrangement with the author.

SOME OPINIONS OF THE AMERICAN PRESS.

"Probably no book since the appearance of ROBERT DALE OWEN'S Footfalls on the Boundaries of Another World, has contained more confident, continuous testimony as to the availability, practicability and actual intimacy of intercourse between disembodied spirits and embodied mortals than this book by AMANDA T. JONES."—The Rev. Jenkin Loyd Jones in "Unity" (Chicago, Ill.).

"What is most unusual is the personality of this woman, a frail, fervid creature, with a brain capable of extraordinary practicality on the one hand and of amazing mysticism on the other. Poverty, sorrow, ill-health have not been able to quench her vividness, and in her old age she still is able to write with a frequency, an unexpectedness, a vivid originality which often suggests MRS. BROWNING."—The Chicago Tribune.

"The book records the life experiences of an exalted soul dealing with the common affairs of life, in the full belief of spiritual direction and guidance."—Buffalo Evening News.

ALCHEMY: ANCIENT & MODERN. Being a brief account of the Alchemistic Doctrines, and their relations on the one hand, and to recent discoveries in physical science on the other; together with some particulars regarding the lives and teachings of the most noted alchemists. By H. STANLEY REDGROVE, B.Sc. (Lond.), F.C.S., Author of "On the Calculation of Thermo-Chemical Constants," "Matter, Spirit and the Cosmos," etc. With sixteen full-page illustrations. Demy 8vo, cloth gilt, 4s. 6d. net.

CONTENTS.—The Meaning of Alchemy—The Theory of Physical Alchemy—The Alchemists—The Outcome of Alchemy—The Age of Modern Chemistry—Modern Alchemy.

"He has sympathy with mysticism, and a wide knowledge of science, so that between the two one gets an admirable and balanced study of a subject which in less capable hands would offer many possibilities of extreme and erroneous statement."—Pall Mall Gazette.
 "The book is well worth reading as a study in parallelism, and it has the merit of being written by one who is thoroughly well acquainted with both sides of his subject."—Observer.
 "A thoroughly well-informed study of the subject, which has the merit of being more sympathetic than such studies often are, and not less learned."—Scotsman.
 "Mr. Redgrove gives a careful and unbiased account of alchemy, and traces its progress until it is absorbed by scientific chemistry. He also gives, from the layman's point of view, perhaps the most lucid account that has yet been rendered of the modern theories of matter and the ether."—Outlook.

HEALTH FOR YOUNG AND OLD. Its Principles and Practice. An Unconventional Manual. By A. T. SCHOFIELD, M.D., M.R.C.S., Author of "Elementary Hygiene," "Hygiene for Schools," "Fit for Work," "Nervousness," "How to keep Fit," etc. Crown 8vo, Cloth Gilt, 272 pp. 3s. 6d. net.

"The sale of a million copies of the book should reduce the death-rate by a visible percentage."—Review of Reviews.
 "Dr. Schofield has dealt learnedly and exhaustively with his subject and his manual should be welcomed by every household."—The Academy.
 "Mr. Schofield is doing a very practical service to his generation."—T.P.'s Weekly.
 "Any sensible reader will be the wiser for perusing its pages."—The Scotsman.
 "The book is simple, but most wise and practical in all its teaching."—Weekly Times and Echo.
 "Dr. Schofield discourses in sensible and breezy style upon the text that 'health, wholeness, and holiness are one.'"—Westminster Gazette.
 "It is a work that every one should read."—Daily Express.

THE KABALA OF NUMBERS. A Handbook dealing with the Traditional Interpretation of Numbers and their Predictive Value. By "SEPHARIAL," Author of "A Manual of Occultism," "Kabbalistic Astrology," etc., etc. 168 pp., crown 8vo, cloth gilt, 2s. net.

CONTENTS.—The Power of Numbers—Geometrical Relations of Thought—Numerology—Various Methods of Kabbalism—Number, Form, Colour, Sound—Names, Numbers, and Incidents—Chance Events—Reduction to Law—Number and Automatism—Thought Reading by Numbers—The Significance of Numbers—Of Things Lost—The Kabbalism of Cycles—Success and Failure—The Law of Values—God Geometries.
 "The Kabala of Numbers' is an astonishing book, that takes you back in spirit even further than Homer or the 'Arabian Nights.'"—Manchester Guardian.
 "There is much to provoke thought in the author's generalizations on the philosophy of numbers."—Birmingham Daily Post.
 "He never for a moment allows the reader to lose sight of the deep symbolism of numbers and its wide significance."—Ligh.
 "The author writes clearly, and understands the setting forth of his subject."—T.P.'s Weekly.
 "Every page of this remarkable book teems with the personality and experience of this author's life-long study."—American Register.

A MATHEMATICAL THEORY OF SPIRIT.

Being an attempt to employ certain mathematical principles in the elucidation of some metaphysical problems.

By H. STANLEY REDGROVE, B.Sc. (Lond.), F.C.S.

Assistant Lecturer in Mathematics at the Polytechnic, London, W.

AUTHOR OF "ON THE CALCULATION OF THERMO-CHEMICAL CONSTANTS," "MATTER, SPIRIT AND THE COSMOS," "ALCHEMY, ANCIENT AND MODERN," etc.

ILLUSTRATED WITH DIAGRAMS.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.

In this highly original work, the author shows how certain mathematical principles may be employed, in a manner which it is believed has never before been attempted, in the solution of some very important metaphysical problems, such as the origin of matter, and the existence and nature of spirit.

The author, who is an experienced teacher of Mathematics, has treated the subject so that it may be understood and appreciated by those who possess no special knowledge of mathematics; and his conclusions are such as will appeal to those who believe in the reality of spirit.

CONTENTS.—The Doctrine of Correspondences—Incommensurable Quantities—Nature regarded as the Embodiment of Number—Negative Quantities—"Imaginary Quantities"—The Mathematical Solution of some Metaphysical Problems.

STAR LORE OF ALL AGES.

By Wm. Tyler Olcott, Author of "In Starland with a Three-inch Telescope," "A Field Book of Stars," etc. With 114 Illustrations. Crown 8vo, Cloth, 10s. 6d. net. A Collection of Myths, Legends, and facts concerning the constellations of the Northern Hemisphere.

"The subject is treated in popular style, and at the same time with sufficient knowledge, alike as regards what may be called the archæology of the heavens and the later discoveries of science."—Scotsman.

"The lives and wars of the gods, the mythology and tradition connected with the dramatis personæ of the celestial amphitheatre will suffer no serious hurt, while there are among us students of the Greek and Latin classics and those who gather their astrological hints from a study of the Pantheon; and for these there will be found material of the deepest interest in the most recent work of Mr. William Tyler Olcott, entitled Star Lore of all Ages."—Occult Review.

DR. BRAMWELL'S REMARKABLE WORK ON HYPNOTISM.

Already Two Large Editions Sold.

HYPNOTISM : its History, Practice and Theory. By J. MILNE BRAMWELL, M.B., C.M., Author of numerous articles on the Practice and Theory of Hypnotism. Second edition. 478 pp., cloth extra (pub. 18s. net), 10s. 6d. post free. A limited number only for sale at this special price.

"Dr. Bramwell's book ought to be welcomed by a great number of readers, for it appeals to several different sections of the thinking public. Students of the history of medicine, moralists, psychologists, physiologists, as well as physicians and surgeons, may all learn much to their advantage from it, and we imagine a class of sensational novelists will seek for ideas and guidance in these pages. While we have here a handbook for those who desire to study or practise hypnotism, no practitioner can peruse the work without learning much, were it only as fresh demonstration of the immense value of the force of the mind.

"An interesting and important work dealing with Hypnotism written by Dr. Milne Bramwell, to whose persevering advocacy of hypnotic treatment the honourable position it now holds, as compared with its former discredit, is very largely due. Many medical ailments may be cured or relieved by suggestion. For a complete account of these conditions, reference may be made to Dr. Bramwell's book.

"The time has gone by when the phenomena of hypnotism can be dismissed as partaking merely of quackery and deception, and the genuineness of many of its manifestations is now generally recognized. A work on the subject, therefore, from Dr. Milne Bramwell, whose name is well known in connection with the revived interest in hypnotism which took place a few years ago, is to be welcomed, and the more so since there is a deficiency of authoritative expositions on the subject in this country."

THE MASTER SINGERS OF JAPAN. By Clara A. Walsh. London:
John Murray, Albemarle Street, W. Price 2s. net.

YET another addition to the already extensive "Wisdom of the East" Series brings home to us the growing interest that exists in the old-world thought and literature. Miss Walsh has succeeded in bringing together some fine examples of the poetry of Japan, much of which can be referred to a date as early as the third century. It is to Hitomaro, the Prince of the Manyôshû poets, who flourished in the seventh century, that the finest efforts are attributed. The narrative poem hardly exists and ballads are scarce, while the epic is unexpectedly absent. The great body of Japanese poems are emotional and nature poems, while some few, such as the Wasau, or Buddhist hymn, are of a religious character. Here is a nature poem from the tenth century poet Minamoto:

Out of the murky clouds the lightning's glare
Dimly reveals the brooding Autumn plain,
Shown for an instant in its 'broidery rare,
Then the dense darkness covers it again.
Such is our life, an instant in the light,
Then the Unknown, impenetrable Night!

How nearly the Buddhist poet may have been affected by the teachings of Christianity appears from a Wasau versified from the prose of Lafcadio Hearn entitled, "The Legend of the Murmuring from the Dry Bed of the River of Souls." It is impossible to escape the suggestion of the popular conception of the Good Shepherd:

Lifting the smallest and frailest
Into his bosom, and holding
His staff for the stumblers to clutch.

MYSTICISM AND MAGIC IN TURKEY

AN ACCOUNT OF THE RELIGIOUS DOCTRINES, MONASTIC ORGANISATION, AND ECSTATIC POWERS OF THE DERVISH ORDERS

By LUCY M. J. GARNETT,

AUTHOR OF "TURKEY OF THE OTTOMANS."

Crown 8vo, Cloth Gilt, with Illustrations, 6s. net.

The Times says:—Miss Garnett's intimate knowledge of the manners, folk-lore and life of Turkey is turned to good purpose in this instructive study of a widespread but somewhat hidden phase of Islam.

The Nation says:—Miss Lucy Garnett has collected a great store of curious learning about the various monastic orders of Turkey. There you may read much of their legendary origin, glance at fragments of their symbolical poetry, and follow curious descriptions of their rites of initiation, their singular cults, and their costumes and habits. The author's competence and industry are beyond doubt and praise.

SEVENPENCE NET. DEC. 1914 CHRI

NATURALISM OR IDEALISM? By Rudolf Eucken. Translated with an Introduction by Alban G. Widgery, M.A. 8½ in. × 5½ in., pp. xiii. + 30. Cambridge: W. Hetter & Sons, Ltd. (London: Simpkin, Marshall, Hamilton, Kent & Co., Ltd.) Price 1s. net.

THE works of Professor Eucken are not, perhaps, as well known in this country as they deserve to be. This translation of his brilliant "Nobel" Lecture, delivered at Stockholm in 1909, in which he gave a succinct statement of his fundamental views, will undoubtedly gain a wider circle of readers for his larger works.

Professor Eucken's philosophy may, perhaps, be best described as Ethical (as distinguished from merely contemplative) Idealism. He holds, and we think that all who give the subject due consideration must agree with him, that it is the activity of spirit which is primarily its reality, and that Idealism, rightly understood, is a striving towards the achievement of spiritual ideals. In the present work he briefly traces the origin of Naturalism, and whilst justly appraising what is true in it, he shows how inadequate it is to meet the demands of humanity. In human endeavour, a reality emerges which is higher than nature. This is spiritual reality. Moreover, Professor Eucken shows that this spiritual reality is not merely subjective and true for the individual alone, for despite the diversity of starting points, with the emerging of this reality we find ourselves in a common world; a world in which the spiritual ideals of the Good, the Beautiful and the True are universally valid. English-speaking people have to thank Mr. Widgery for presenting them, in an English dress and free from technicalities, a very fine piece of philosophical reasoning.

LA PHOTOGRAPHIE ET L'ETUDE DES PHÉNOMÈNES PSYCHIQUES.
By Guillaume de Fontenay. Paris: Gaultier-Villars, Quai des Grands, Augustins 55. 1912.

THIS is a little manual of Photography of Psychical Phenomena, and, though extremely technical, is so well and simply written that it can be readily understood by those wishing to take up this difficult branch of that science. In a series of lectures, the author explains what errors to avoid, and issues a solemn warning against fraudulent photographs, and the professional developer, who may be tempted to "fake" a proof in order to make it appear interesting. He also warns the amateur to be very chary of "effects" produced by perfectly natural means, that he may, in his zeal, mistake for psychic appearances, and goes on to relate how many a so-called spirit photograph is taken in this way.

But in spite of this he implores the beginner not to be discouraged, affirming emphatically that Psychic Photography is the science of the future, and that it will materially assist in Psychical research, reminding the reader at the same time that though for a very long time the Wright brothers flew in vain to an unbelieving world, and flying was an accomplished feat and fact—the time at last came when Santos Dumont was borne in triumph from the scene of his success by a bewildered, stupefied, but wildly enthusiastic crowd.

He concludes by exhorting students not to be discouraged, and in spite of the faults, errors and illusions into which they may fall, he promises them a certainty of success in the near future.

The book is copiously illustrated, and should prove both interesting and instructive.

A Mathematical Theory of Spirit.

Being an attempt to employ certain mathematical principles in the elucidation of some metaphysical problems.

BY

H. STANLEY REDGROVE, B.Sc. (Lond.), F.C.S.

Asst. Lecturer in Mathematics at the Polytechnic, London, W.

Author of

"ON THE CALCULATION OF THERMO-CHEMICAL CONSTANTS,"

"MATTER, SPIRIT AND THE COSMOS,"

"ALCHEMY: ANCIENT AND MODERN," ETC.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.—In this highly original work, the author shows how certain mathematical principles may be employed, in a manner which it is believed has never before been attempted, in the solution of some very important metaphysical problems, such as the origin of matter, and the existence and nature of spirit.

The author, who is an experienced teacher of mathematics, has treated the subject so that it may be understood and appreciated by those who possess no special mathematical knowledge, and his conclusions are such as will appeal to those who believe in the reality of spirit.

CONTENTS.—The Doctrine of Correspondences—Incommensurable Quantities—Nature regarded as the Embodiment of Number—Negative Quantities—"Imaginary" Quantities—The Mathematical Solution of some Metaphysical Problems.

Sree Krishna, the Lord of Love.

BY

BÂBÂ PREMÂNAND BHÂRATI.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.—In this book, written from the standpoint of true Hinduism, this well-known Hindu sage explains the Science of Creation, its making and its mechanism. He claims for himself that while he has thought in Sanskrit, he has expressed himself in English, his object being to impress English readers with the substance of Hindu thought in all its purity. The Western mind, he argues, asks for Eastern thought in Eastern dress, not what has so often been given to it, an amalgam of Eastern and Western thought.

CONTENTS.—PART I.—Introductory. Life's Source and Search. God is Formless and has a Form. The Concrete and Abstract God. The Science of Creation. The Steps of Creation. The Cyclic Motion of Changes. The Golden Age. The Silver Age. The Caste System. The Four Stages of Life. The Copper Age. The Iron Age. Manwantara or the Deluge. The Kalpa Cycle. Natural Dissolution. Modern Scientific Testimony. Science upholds Shâstras. Physical and Astral Bodies. Karma. Re-incarnation. How to destroy Karma. The Atom's Return Journey. Yoga. Bhakti Yoga. Vaishnav, Christian of Christians. Krishna Leelâ. PART II.—Proem. Sree Krishna, the Lord of Love. Messages and Revelations from Sree Krishna.

AS TO CHEIRO'S WORK.

Duke of Newcastle.

CHEIRO has told my life with wonderful accuracy, especially with regard to certain coming events which he could not possibly have known.

Madame Melba.

CHEIRO is wonderful! What more can I say?

Mark Twain.

CHEIRO has exposed my character to me with humiliating accuracy. I ought not to confess this accuracy; still, I am moved to do it.

John Strange Winter.

I would advise every mother of children to take them to CHEIRO, and to be guided in every way by his remarks.

Since "Cheiro" left London in the Autumn of 1899, many imitators have endeavoured to take his place, but the universal conclusion has been that there is only one "Cheiro," and there never will be another who can equal him in his strange study of Life.

"Cheiro" has now returned to London in order to continue the publication of his Books on Human Physiology, and has made arrangements to receive a Limited Number of Consultants each day.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.—Much of the doubt and uncertainty which have been so unfortunately created by the arguments of the Agnostic, the Materialist and the Atheist will disappear as the suggestive data and the compelling arguments of this most interesting work are perused, for the reader will realize that he has within his own cosmos sufficient evidence of a death-surviving consciousness to assure him that life on earth is but a test, and his body but the casket, in which is moulded for good or for evil that transcendental gift from the Architect of the Universe, the soul, or the death-surviving consciousness of man.

The reader is treated to some 500 pages of matter printed in a most readable type, on extremely light paper, elegantly bound, gilt edged, and clearly and elaborately indexed.

The preface is most valuable, and the weight of evidence by which the author proves his thesis will be gathered from the following chapter titles :—

THE HEALING MEDIUM OF THE FUTURE.

THE certainty of Electro-Magnetism as a curative agent is slowly being recognized, although its sphere of usefulness for Therapeutical purposes is nearly as unlimited as in the commercial world.

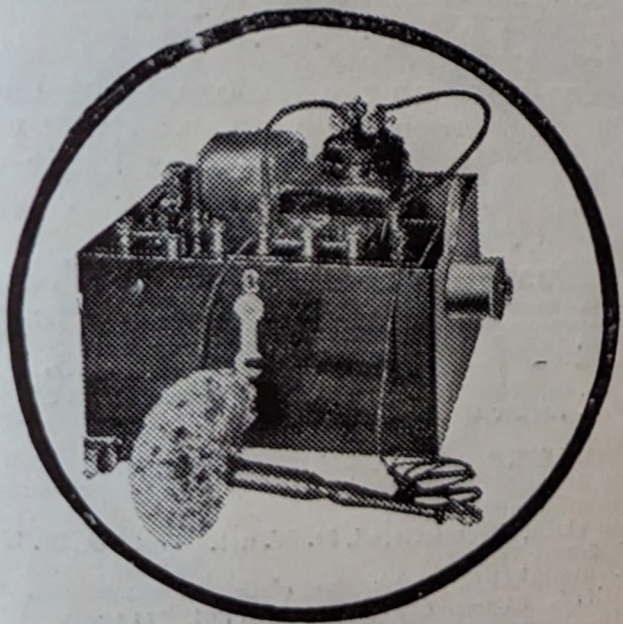

The necessity for a thoroughly reliable and scientific Apparatus is demonstrated by the failures which have followed the use of so-called Electric Pads, Belts, etc., and we are therefore introducing a Battery which has been found to be the most effective means of administering curative Electricity.

Our professional experience with the "Reliance" Batteries has extended over 25 years. The cures which we have effected have been simply astonishing, and subjected to tests by public men of repute, among whom is Mr. W. T. Stead, whose report is both interesting and instructive. Mr. E. A. Tietkens can also testify to having experienced satisfactory results from the daily use of one of these Batteries.

The "Reliance" Battery positively cures Rheumatism, Gout, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Gall Stone, Pleurisy. The nervous system is remarkably quickly invigorated and restored by this wonderful current, and diseases which arise from any disorders of the nerves (Paralysis, Neuritis, Neuralgia, Asthma, etc.) are effectively and lastingly overcome. Our Battery produces from 6 to 10 currents of such delicate and diffused Electro-magnetism that it can be reasonably expected to replace Human Magnetic force, which must naturally be limited as a curative agent.

FREE TRIAL SOLICITED.

We would urge you to apply for full particulars, which will be sent post free. We court the fullest inquiry, and will gladly explain the "Reliance" Battery and its various uses at a personal interview.

OUR ASTROLOGICAL BIRTHDAY BOOK. By Dr. J. R. Phelps. Hill-yard, Wis., U.S.A. : 515, Sheridan Street. Price 50 cts.

THE author has attempted a bold task and one that was doomed to failure from the fact of his having set too great a store by the influence of the Sun's position in the Zodiac at the time of birth. A very little knowledge of astrology suffices to show that the Sun has very little influence upon character, however much its position may have upon the general fortunes. The delineations of character here given are in groups of two and three degrees each, and frequently as many as five degrees are regarded as producing "similar characters." How thoroughly unreliable this system of characterization must be is illustrated by the fact that a large number of the "Birth Dates of celebrated Men and Women" are old style, when of course the Sun was not in the group to which the birthday, as given, refers. Thus I find Thomas Paine, William McKinley and Emanuel Swedenborg all grouped under January 29. The fact that I find myself among the upholsterers, decorators and machinists is blighting in the last degree. As a form of light amusement the book may find a market.

SCRUTATOR.

LOVE, TRUTH AND OTHER POEMS. By Clifford Cartwright. London : Elliot Stock, 62, Paternoster Row, E.C.

THE author of these poems is a South African, born in Natal, and writes of his native land with great and praiseworthy patriotism. The book is imbued with noble thoughts and a deep and sincere desire for the betterment of the race. Personally, I am inclined to think the poem called "Power" is the best in the book; I quote two verses—

"Who wisest is shall lead the thought,
And bring the world in tune;
Perchance a soul by Heaven taught,
In sorrow's grip rough-hewn,

"Shall feel a kinship with the gods,
And, struggling, reach their height;
Yea, chastened by their loving rods,
Attempt the world to right."

Mr. Cartwright's poems are more remarkable for the depth of thought and the noble aspirations they display rather than for originality of expression or refinement of rhythm. I may be mistaken, but I should think his writings have been considerably influenced by John Greenleaf Whittier, of whom some are very reminiscent.

MYSTICISM AND MAGIC IN TURKEY

AN ACCOUNT OF THE RELIGIOUS DOCTRINES, MONASTIC ORGANISATION, AND ECSTATIC POWERS OF THE DERVISH ORDERS

By LUCY M. J. GARNETT,

AUTHOR OF "TURKEY OF THE OTTOMANS."

Crown 8vo, Cloth Gilt, with Illustrations, 6s. net.

The Times says:—Miss Garnett's intimate knowledge of the manners, folk-lore and life of Turkey is turned to good purpose in this instructive study of a widespread but somewhat hidden phase of Islam.

The Nation says:—Miss Lucy Garnett has collected a great store of curious learning about the various monastic orders of Turkey. There you may read much of their legendary origin, glance at fragments of their symbolical poetry, and follow curious descriptions of their rites of initiation, their singular cults, and their costumes and habits. The author's competence and industry are beyond doubt and praise.

MYTHS AND LEGENDS OF FLOWERS, TREES, FRUITS AND PLANTS.

By Charles M. Skinner. Cr. 8vo, pp. 302. Philadelphia and London: J. B. Lippincott Company. Price $1.50 net.

THE sub-title says that these myths and legends are drawn from all ages and all climes, and the promise thus given is fulfilled literally. The arrangement is very simple in character—a few introductory sections and then the things in their order, as their names come alphabetically. The book is in this manner its own index, and we can turn to that which concerns us, taking and needing no pains. I call it a delightful book, suggesting no learning and yet shewing it on every page. It is a rosary of old-world lore. But I should not be a reviewer if I did not mention that there are a few things which I have missed. One of them is past all credit, though I am not sure whether Mr. Skinner should lose or receive a crown of roses for having ignored all reference to Rosicrucian symbolism in connection with the "type of beauty" and "symbol of peace"—as he calls the Rose justly. He has strung many pearls together on this particular subject; but he could have added more, and they would have been true jewels, from the Kabalistic Sepher Ha Zohar, or Book of Splendour. I am sorry also that he has omitted all reference to the plant which gives rape-seeds to some of our pet birds. He could have told us, on the authority of Francis Barrett, that it should be sown with curses and imprecations; I have always wondered why. Well, it is a charming book, with a heavenly want of method. And, such is my folly, I am not sure that I would not rather have it than the Rose-Garden of Sadi.

A Mathematical Theory of Spirit.

Being an attempt to employ certain mathematical principles in the elucidation of some metaphysical problems.

BY

H. STANLEY REDGROVE, B.Sc. (Lond.), F.C.S.

Author of

"MATTER, SPIRIT AND THE COSMOS,"

"ALCHEMY: ANCIENT AND MODERN," ETC.

PUBLISHERS' NOTE.—In this highly original work, the author shows how certain mathematical principles may be employed, in a manner which it is believed has never before been attempted, in the solution of some very important metaphysical problems, such as the origin of matter, and the existence and nature of spirit.

The author, who is an experienced teacher of mathematics, has treated the subject so that it may be understood and appreciated by those who possess no special mathematical knowledge, and his conclusions are such as will appeal to those who believe in the reality of spirit.

Psychic and Magnetic Healing.

THIS method of healing is now accepted by the medical faculty, under the name of hypnotism, in deference to Dr. Braid, the rival of Dr. Mesmer, who rightly and scientifically called the force used "Animal Magnetism"; and which term is now to-day formally accepted by the authorities of Berlin.

Animal or personal magnetism is the only force that can reach the hidden lesion on brain or spine! that can give force to the fagged brain and fading sight! or build up the shattered nervous system after severe mental shock, either from grief or surgical operations.

The qualified proficient Magnetiser must have full knowledge of the health conditions of the secretions. That colourless, odourless fluid, called serum, but better known as perspiration or sweat, is the essential force that keeps the human body healthy and in full tone. Animal magnetism is the force derived from these fluidic secretions; and can alone be transmitted from the operator to the patient by one specially singled out by Nature for this purpose. Herein lies the reason why only one medical doctor in one thousand can administer this force.

Professor W. H. Edwards having this great gift, and having publicly and privately demonstrated his natural abilities, to deal with every phase of disease by means of this power, warns the public against the numerous counterfeits who pretend to this gift, deceive the public, and so bring discredit on those who really possess it.

Obsessions.

This form of disease, which consigns thousands to the lunacy statistics, is much more prevalent than is generally known. The ordinary physician, not having given occult forces any consideration in his practice, simply consigns them to the mad house.

Professor Edwards has powers which are able to deal with these obsessions. Excesses of all kinds, the uncontrollable desires and actions which wreck both mind and body, are ably dealt with by him. Full proofs of this can be given by eminent public men. Members of the highest class of social distinction have benefited by his great gift when all else has failed them.
