ADVICE FOR BEGETTING-WOMEN.

"I lay my burdens on the Lord."

While it is true that in each person some particular quality of character leads or dominates all the others, it is also true that in each one lies—whether wholly dormant, as in some, or partially awakened to action, as in others—all the qualities possessed by any.

The student who has entered the Path of Regeneration recognizes something of this as he or she becomes dimly conscious of powers and tendencies hitherto unknown unfolding in the nature.

These unfolding powers and tendencies may readily be related to the overcomings, following, as they invariably do, upon the successful control of the activities of the function related to the begetting department of the nature, and the retention and transmutation of the vital fluids at periods of crises.

There is in the consciousness of (E) persons a deep interior understanding of the true use of this function, and by often seeking, entering into, the inner closet of her being and there communing with the presence of her Maker, she may be instructed and illuminated with regard to true living, and true relationship of the sexes. She will find within her own being the sacred altar of sacrifice, and the Holy Flame of the Alchemist which shall transmute her baser metals into pure gold.

Let her daily consecrate the energies of her Being to God, and then live as if He were directing the use of them, which He will surely do, just in the degree that perfect consecration is attained. Let the daily word of consecration be "I consecrate all the energies and activities of my Being to God; Divine Wisdom now adjusts all my affairs; I lay my burdens on the Lord." and then seek to live in the realization of the Divine Presence.

Pride in possession, and in "my family, my friends," love of external show, fine clothing, desire to rule, passionate temper unreasonable exactions, jealousy, vindictiveness, selfishness, sensitiveness, bondage to the world's opinions and customs, are all barriers in the way of consecration, and are to be redeemed from their error manifestations. Consider this fact, make it a subject of contemplation and meditation, namely, the same energy that gives life to these untrue states of mind may be devoted to seeking the kingdom of Heaven and His righteousness, and this is the only quest worthy of earnest attention. The kingdom of Heaven or God is the only kingdom wherein the riches garnered do not pass away. Read Luke 12 : 16-21.

Begetting persons who live pure lives and control the appetites and passions of the sense or animal nature, even if not living the life of regeneration, are fountains of healing, giving forth life and health to all who come within their sphere of influence; but if living on a low plane, possessed only by worldly desires and ambitions and love of sensual gratification, consuming their life energies in anger, lust, pride, ambition, the life energies vitiated by indulgencies of various kinds, they are an equally prolific source of poison and contagion to immediate associates.
