

SPIRITUAL TELEGRAPH

DEVOTED TO THE ILLUSTRATION OF SPIRITUAL INTERCOURSE.

"THE AGITATION OF THOUGHT IS THE BEGINNING OF WISDOM."

PARTRIDGE AND BRITTAN, PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS, NO. 342 BROADWAY --- TERMS, TWO DOLLARS PER ANNUM IN ADVANCE; SINGLE COPIES, FIVE CENTS.

VOL. IV.-NO. 37.

NEW YORK, SATURDAY, JANUARY 12, 1856.

WHOLE NO. 193.

The Principles of Nature.

THE DAVENPORT CIRCLE AGAIN.

New York, December 31, 1855.

The following article was written by Thomas L. Smith, Esq., a lawyer residing at New Albany, Ind., formerly one of the Judges of the Supreme Court of that State, and now on a temporary visit to this city. It was written on the evening of the day on which the manifestations occurred, without any view of its publication, and as a part of memoranda he has been making of the spiritual phenomena he witnessed in this city, for his own private use and that of his friends. Knowing the eager curiosity with which our readers are now perusing every reliable description of the phenomena developed through the Davenport medium, we have collected from Mr. Smith the privilege of publishing his manuscript, and to him, with some reluctance, consented to place it in our hands for that purpose. This description will be pursued with special interest by our patrons in Indiana, and other portions of the West, where Mr. Smith is extensively known.

Having heard that some extraordinary manifestations were to be witnessed at the spiritual circles held by a family named Davenport, I went this afternoon to attend one. It was to be held at No. 105 Bowery, at two o'clock, P.M.

Being there a little before the time, and understanding the manifestations were to be made in darkness, I examined particularly the room and its contents. It was an oblong hall, about forty feet in length by twenty in breadth. It was carpeted, and looked as if it had been fitted up for the use of some society. At the end opposite the entrance there was a narrow platform raised about a foot from the floor, with a desk in the center, and one at either end, as if for the use of a presiding officer, and a secretary and treasurer. At this end there were also three large windows, apparently opening into a back yard, but they were covered with a heavy drapery to effectually exclude the light. There was apparently but one door of entrance, and seats were disposed around the sides and ends of the room, which was in the second story of the building. The ceiling was about fourteen or fifteen feet in height from the floor. Two ordinary gas-burners depended from the ceiling near the middle of the room, and there was one or more projecting from the end wall, near the desks before mentioned. Two or three of these burners were lighted. There was no other window, door, or other opening into the room that I could perceive.

In front of the central desk on the platform, there was a small table with a marble top, and on this table was placed a dulcimer, a violin, and a speaking trumpet. The dulcimer is a stringed instrument about two feet in length, and nearly the same width, and weighed, I should suppose, about eighteen or twenty pounds.

Near the center of the room there was an oval table, made of mahogany or some other heavy wood. It had an extension apparatus, by which the ends could be drawn apart and the table lengthened by placing movable boards on the frame-work. There was no other furniture in the room beside that already mentioned and the seats, which were cushioned benches and heavy chairs, permanently fixed along the sides of the apartment, and some loose arm-chairs.

Upon this oval table there had been placed a guitar, a banjo, one or two violins, a tambourine, a hand bell about three inches in diameter, and a large speaking trumpet.

Two men appeared to have charge of the arrangements. One of them was the father of the mediums. These latter were two boys of ordinary and rather rustic appearance. One appeared to be about sixteen, the other about fourteen years of age. They were favorably impressed with the appearance of all the party. They seemed perfectly willing, and even desirous that every precaution should be taken to prevent imposition or deception, but when any proposition was made they said they must first ask the Spirits. They announced, indeed, that they could not promise anything, or make any arrangement whatever without such previous consultation.

At the time appointed the entrance door was closed and locked. There were about twenty-four or twenty-six persons present in the room, about half the number being ladies. The two boys were then seated at opposite ends of the oval table in arm-chairs. The spectators, together with the elder Davenport and his assistant, took seats around the sides and ends of the room, and all joined hands to prevent any one from taking part in the performances without the knowledge of the others. Throughout all the manifestations especial care was taken to have the hands of the two persons above mentioned held by some others in the company.

These dispositions being made, the lights were extinguished by shutting off the gas, and the room made dark. The visitors were requested to remain perfectly still. In a few moments a slight thumping was heard upon the strings of the guitar, which continued a short time and then died away. After a short interval several quick and loud sounds were heard from the guitar, as if the fingers of a player had been run over them abruptly and forcibly. These sounds were succeeded by a loud rapping, which, the medium said, indicated that the Spirits desired the alphabet to be called. One of them accordingly began calling the letters, and soon spelled out a request from the Spirits that the mediums should be tied.

After an interval of a few moments, the mediums continuing at the table still fastened to their chairs, two ladies took the places of Messrs. Day and Sweet, and held the hands of the mediums. The other parties were arranged as before, and the lights put out. Very soon the instruments began to clash and play, but not so violently. In a little while the table began to move, carrying the parties around it along with it. It could be heard dragging slowly and heavily along the carpet. The ladies holding the hands of the mediums announced that they were forced from their seats, but the mediums, being fastened, were dragged along in their chairs. One of them called out repeatedly, and apparently in earnest, for a light; but the elder Davenport requested them to hold on, and not be alarmed. While the table was thus heard grinding along on the floor, the instruments seemed to be passing around the room, sounding as before. Presently the table arrived at a corner of the room in close proximity to three or four ladies who were sitting there, and the gas-burners were now lighted.

When the light was produced, the parties at the table were found precisely as they had taken their places. Messrs. Day and Sweet were holding the hands of the mediums, and said they had continued to do so all the time. During the darkness, a lady (who I was told was Miss Gould, the postress) had a handkerchief violently snatched out of her hand, and it was found under the table at which the mediums were sitting. As before, some of the instruments that had been upon the table were found in different parts of the room, mostly in the laps of the persons sitting around.

After an interval of a few moments, the mediums continuing at the table still fastened to their chairs, two ladies took the places of Messrs. Day and Sweet, and held the hands of the mediums. The other parties were arranged as before, and the lights put out. Very soon the instruments began to clash and play, but not so violently. In a little while the table began to move, carrying the parties around it along with it. It could be heard dragging slowly and heavily along the carpet. The ladies holding the hands of the mediums announced that they were forced from their seats, but the mediums, being fastened, were dragged along in their chairs. One of them called out repeatedly, and apparently in earnest, for a light; but the elder Davenport requested them to hold on, and not be alarmed. While the table was thus heard grinding along on the floor, the instruments seemed to be passing around the room, sounding as before. Presently the table arrived at a corner of the room in close proximity to three or four ladies who were sitting there, and the gas-burners were now lighted.

The table was found to have been moved a distance of ten or twelve feet. The chairs of the mediums had been carried along with it, and the extension part had been drawn out, and the two ladies forced into the interval between the ends. It was also found that while most of the instruments that had been placed upon it were removed to different parts of the room, the dulcimer, which was before upon the other table, had been carried over and put in their place. The distance which this instrument was carried must have been eight or ten feet, and it must have been lifted over the heads of several persons who were between the table on which it was resting before the light was put out, and the table on which it was found.

A light was accordingly made, and some ropes were produced with which each boy was firmly tied to the chair in which he sat. Their hands were also bound together by means of handkerchiefs, and one of the arms of each boy was fastened to the arm of his chair by a handkerchief. Every one in the room was satisfied that the boys were securely tied, and could not, in that condition, reach or handle any of the instruments on the table with any effect.

The boys being thus fastened, the others again joined hands, and the lights were put out. Pretty soon there was again heard a thumping on one or more of the stringed instruments; then such as if they were moving about the table and striking each other; then loud snaps as if some of the strings of the guitar or violins were broken. Directly the trumpet appeared to be thrown violently upon the floor, and the stringed instruments, or some of them, were sounded in different directions, though not very far from the table, and occasionally their cases appeared to be thumped against each other and upon the floor.

After these noises had continued a short time they ceased, and the mediums spoke out and said their hands were being untied. Directly several things were thrown about the room. I was myself hit violently in the left eye by something. A light was now called for and upon the room being lighted, I saw lying upon the floor near me two handkerchiefs that had been tied with as many knots as possible. They were handkerchiefs belonging to some of the visitors, which had been used in tying the boys' hands or arms. One of them was doubtless, the substance by which I had been hit. It was found also that some of the instruments that had been upon the table had been removed therfrom, and left in different parts of the room.

Another disposition was now made. The instruments were replaced upon the table, and the hands of the mediums being untied, two gentlemen seated themselves at opposite sides of the table between the mediums, so that there were then four persons around the table, who all joined hands. I was informed that one of these gentlemen was Mr. Day, well known for his improvements in the India-rubber manufacture, and that the position both hands of each medium were secretly held by Mr. Day and Mr. Sweet, so that it was impossible that either of them could make any use of either hand without the knowledge of those gentlemen. As before, the other two men were again taken charge of by the visitors present, and all again joined their hands.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared to be a good deal exhausted, and an intermission was had of about ten minutes, to enable them to recover.

After these experiments, the mediums appeared

PARTRIDGE AND BRITTON'S SPIRITUAL TELEGRAPH.

MANIFESTATIONS TWO HUNDRED YEARS AGO.
While curiosities are still with reports of the wonderful spiritual phenomena accompanying the Davenports and the Koons, we now thought it proper to exhibit to our readers a specimen of what spirits could do and did do in the good old days of our great-grandfathers. The subjunctive narrative is taken from a collection of similar relations made by the learned Henry D. and published as an appendix to Rev. Joseph Smith's "Sudiculus Triumphant," in the year 1852. The story is abundantly authenticated, and the occurrences, only a small portion of which are here related, are said to have been instances of great notoriety in the neighborhood where they took place. It is granted that the features of Spiritualism which this story exhibits are sufficiently repulsive; yet as it is now generally admitted by Spiritualists that the moral conditions of Spirits in the other world remain for a time much the same as they were in this world, and that low Spirits can only be created by a course of repentance and severe discipline, these manifestations will appear as what might very naturally have been produced by the Spirit of Alexander Agnew, the "bold and sturdy beggar," to whom they were attributed, and who it was, was hung for blasphemy. In several particulars these manifestations resemble those which occurred at the house of Rev. Dr. Phelps, in Stratford, Conn., some four or five years ago; in some respects they are more striking, especially as to the instance of the Spirit speaking in an audible voice, and smiling the floor with a visible luminescence held by a naked arm. Of course we do not present this account as an example of what spiritual manifestations ought to be, or of what they now generally are; we give the case as one which, studied in its phenomenal aspects, will be instructive in more respects than one. It will be perused with interest by all.

STRANGE STORY TOUCHING THE STUNS MADE BY A DEMON IN THE PARLOR OF ONE GILBERT CAMPBELL, HIS PROFESSOR & WEAVER, IN THE OLD PARLOR OF GLENLUCE IN GALLOVAY IN SCOTLAND.
It happened in October, 1852, that after one Alexander Agnew, a bold and sturdy beggar who afterwards was hung at Dumfries for blasphemy, had threatened hurt to Gilbert Campbell's family because he had not given such an alms as he required, the said Gilbert was sometimes blinder in the exercise of his calling all his working instruments being, some of them broken, some of them cut, and yet could always by what means this hurt was done; which piece of trouble continued till about the middle of November; at which time the parson came with new and extraordinary assaults, by throwing of stones and darts and windows, and down through the chimney-head, which were of great quantity, and thrown with great force, yet by God's good Providence there was not one person of the family hurt, or suffered thereby. This piece of new and sore trouble did necessitate Campbell to reveal that to the minister of the parish, and to some neighbors and friends, which hitherto he had endured secretly, notwithstanding this, his trouble was enlarged; for not long after, a fresh onslaught his warp and threads cut as with a pair of scissars, and the red kerchief; and not only this, but their apparel cut after the minister, even while they were wearing them—their coats, bonnets, caps, shoes—but could not discern how or by what means; only it was known God to preserve their persons, that the least harm was not done, and in the nights time they wanted liberty to sleep, something coming and pulling their bed-clothes and linens off them, and leaving their naked.

Then their chests and trunks were opened, and all things in them were here and there. Likewise the parts of the working instruments of all escaped, were carried away and hid in holes and berths of the walls, where hardly they could be found again. Nay, whatever piece of cloth or household stuff was in any part of the house, it was carried away, and no one knew that the good man was necessitated, with haste and speed, to remove and to transport the rest to a neighbor's home, and he himself compelled to quit the exercise of his calling, thereby only to maintain his family. Yet he resolved to remain in his house for a season; during which time some persons thereabout, in every judicious, counseled him to send his children out of the only home and there (to try when the trouble did most follow), assuring him that this trouble was not against all the family, but against one person or other in it, which he too willingly obeyed. Yet in the space of four or five days after, there were no remarkable results as before.

The minister hearing thereof, showed him the evil of such a course, and assured him that if he reported not, and called back his children, he might not expect that he would end in a right way. The children that were nigh, by being called home howe no trouble followed, till all his sons, called Thomas, that was farthest off, came home. Then the Devil began afresh; for upon the Lord's day following, in the afternoon, the house was set on fire, but by His providence, and the aid of some people going from service, the fire was extinguished, and hence saved, not much less being done; and the Monday after being put in private prayer and fasting. The house was again set on fire on the Tuesday about nine of the clock in the morning; yet by Providence and the help of neighbors, it was saved before any harm was done.

Mr. Campbell being thus wearied and vexed, both in the day and in night, went to the minister, desiring him to let his son Thomas abide with him for a time, who condescended, but whilst assured him that he could not himself descend; and so it came to pass. For notwithstanding that the child was without the family, yet were they that remained more troubled, both in the day time and in the night season, so that they were forced to wake till midnight, and sometimes all the night over, during which time the persons within the family suffered many woes, as the cutting of their clothes, the throwing of peats, the pulling of turf and fuel from the roof and walls of the house, and the pricking of their apparel, and the pricking of their flesh and skin with needles. The Presbyterian having convened at the place for a solemn communion, persuaded Gilbert Campbell to call back his son Thomas, notwithstanding whatsoever hazard might follow. The boy returned home, and showed he heard a voice speak to him, forbidding him to enter upon the house, or into any other place where his father's calling was located. Yet he entered, but was sore abused, till he was forced to flee to the minister's house again.

Upon Monday the 12th of February, the rest of the family began to have a voice speak to them, but could not well know from whence it was.

Yet from evening till midnight too much vain discourse was kept up with the Devil, and many idle and impudent questions proposed without that due fear of God that should have been upon their minds under so rare and extraordinary a trial. The minister hearing this, went to the house upon the Tuesday, being accompanied with a gentleman, who, after prayer was ended, heard a voice speaking from the ground, from under a bed, in the proper country dialect, saying—

"Would you know the witches of Glencluce? I will tell you them."

The said Gilbert informed the company that one of them was long gone.

The Devil answered, "It is true, he is dead long ago; his spirit is living with us in the world." The minister replied,

"The Lord rebukes thee, Satan, and put thee to silence; we are to receive any information from thee, whatsoever fame any person under; then art not seeking to seduce this family, for Satan's kingdom is not divided against itself."

At which all went to prayer again; which being ended (for the time of prayer no trouble was made), the Devil, with many oaths, boasted and terrified the lad Thomas, who had come back with the minister, that if he did not depart out of the house, he would all set on fire. The minister answered, and said, "The Lord preserves the house, and the boy too, seeing he is one of the family, God's warrant to carry in it." The Devil answered, "He shall not be liberty to say, he was once put out already, and shall not be here, though I should pursue him to the end of the world." The minister replied, "The Lord will stop thy malice against him."

Then they all prayed again, which being ended, the Devil said, "I have a spouse and a shovell, and depart from the house for seven years, and I shall make a grave and lay down in it, and shall trouble no more."

The good man answered, "Not so much as a straw shall be given thee, through God's assistance, even though that would be."

The minister also added, "God shall renew thee in due time."

The Devil answered, "I will not renew for you; I have my command from Christ to tarry and vex this family."

The minister answered, "While curiosity has led me, but God will stop it in due time."

The Devil replied, "I have a commission that will last longer than my own."

After the minister and the gentleman arose to the place where the voice seemed to come from, to try if it could be heard. And after diligent search, nothing being found, the gentlemen began to say, "We think this voice speaks out of the children," for some of them were in their beds. The Devil answered, "You lie; God shall judge you for your lying, and I and my father will come and fetch you to hell with warlock thieves!" And so the Devil discharged the gentlemen to speak no more, saying, "Let him speak that hath a commission (meaning the minister), for he is the servant of God."

The gentleman returned back with the minister; they sat down near the place whence the voice seemed to come from, and then he spoke to them after this manner: "The Lord will rebuke this Spirit in his own time, and cast it out." The Devil answering said, "It is written in the 2d of Mark, the disciples could not cast him out." The minister replied, "What the disciples could not do, let the Lord, having heightened the parent's faith for his own glory, did cast him out, and so shall he be cast." The Devil replied, "It is written in the 4th of Luke, 'And he departed and left him for a season.'" The minister said, "The Lord, in the days of his humiliation, not only got the victory over Satan in that assault, but when he came again his success was no better. For it is written in John 14, 'Behold the Prince of this world cometh, and bath nothing in me.' And being now in glory, he will fulfil his promises, and God shall bruise Satan under your feet shortly." (Rom. 16.) The Devil answered, "It is written, Mat. 23, 'There were ten virgins, five wise and five foolish, and the bridegroom came. The foolish virgins had no oil in their lamps, and they went unto the wife to seek oil, and the wife said, Go and buy for yourselves and while they went, the bridegroom came and entered in, and the door was shut; and the foolish virgins were sent to hell fire.'" The minister answered, "The Lord knows the sincerity of his servants, and though there be sin and folly in us, yet there is a tombstone opened to the house of David for sin and for uncleanness; and when he hath washed us there, and purged all our sins for his name sake, he will cast the unclean Spirit out of the land." The Devil answered, and said, "That place of Scripture is written in the 13th of Zechariah. In that day I will cause the prophets and the unclean Spirit to pass out of the land. But afterwards it is written, I shall smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered." The minister answered, "Well are we that our blessed Shepherd was smitten, and thereby hath bruised thy head; and, albeit, in the hour of his suffering his disciples forsook him (Mat. 26), yet now having ascended on high, sit in glory, and is preserving, gathering in, and turning his hand upon his little ones, and will save his poor ones in this family from thy malice."

The minister returned back a little, and standing upon the floor, the Devil said, "I know not these Scriptures till my Father taught me them. I am an evil Spirit, and Satan is my father, and I am come to vex this house;" and presently there appeared a naked hand and an arm from the elbow down beating till the house did shake again, and also the devil entered a mace, scard and hond cry, saying, "Come up, father; come up; I will send my father among you. See, there is behind thy backs." The minister said, "I saw, indeed, an hand and an arm when the stroke was given and heard." The Devil said to him, "Saw you that? It was not my hand, it was my father's; my hand is more black in the least. Would you see me, put out the candle then, and I shall come but the house among you like fire-balls." After which all went to prayer, during which time it did no harm, neither at any other time when God was worshipped. When prayer was ended, the Devil said, "If the good man's sons pray at the College of Glasgow did not prevail more with God than yours, my father and I had wrought a mischief ere now." To which one of the gentlemen replied, though a check had been given him before, "Well, well, I see you confess there is a God, and that prayer prevails with him, and therefore we must pray to God, and will commit the event to him." To which the Devil replied, "Yes, sir, you speak of prayer with your broad-lipped lad (for the gentleman had lately gotten a new hat in the fashion with broad-lips). I will bring a pair of shears from my father, that shall clip the lip of a little."

The night being now far spent, it was thought fit every one should withdraw to his own home. Then did the devil cry out fearfully, "Let not the minister go home; I shall burn the house if he goes, and many other ways die be threatened." And after the minister was gone forth, the good man being instant with him to leave; whereupon he returned all the cost of the company going home. Then said the Devil to the minister, "You have done my bidding." "Not thine," answered he, "but in obedience to God I returned to hear this man company whom thou dost afflict." Then did the minister call upon the name of God; and when prayer was ended, he discharged Mr. Campbell, and all the persons of the family from opening their mouths in word to the evil Spirit; and when it spoke that they should only kneel down and speak to God. The Devil then roared mightily, and cried out, "What will ye not speak to me? I shall burn the house, I shall strike the barbs and all the clip the lip of a little."

The night being now far spent, it was thought fit every one should withdraw to his own home.

Then did the devil cry out fearfully, "Let not the minister go home; I shall burn the house if he goes, and many other ways die be threatened."

And after the minister was gone forth, the good man being instant with him to leave; whereupon he returned all the cost of the company going home. Then said the Devil to the minister, "You have done my bidding."

"Not thine," answered he, "but in obedience to God I returned to hear this man company whom thou dost afflict."

Then did the minister call upon the name of God; and when prayer was ended, he discharged Mr. Campbell, and all the persons of the family from opening their mouths in word to the evil Spirit; and when it spoke that they should only kneel down and speak to God. The Devil then roared mightily, and cried out, "What will ye not speak to me? I shall burn the house, I shall strike the barbs and all the clip the lip of a little."

The night being now far spent, it was thought fit every one should withdraw to his own home.

Then did the devil cry out fearfully, "Let not the minister go home; I shall burn the house if he goes, and many other ways die be threatened."

And after the minister was gone forth, the good man being instant with him to leave; whereupon he returned all the cost of the company going home. Then said the Devil to the minister, "You have done my bidding."

"Not thine," answered he, "but in obedience to God I returned to hear this man company whom thou dost afflict."

Then did the minister call upon the name of God; and when prayer was ended, he discharged Mr. Campbell, and all the persons of the family from opening their mouths in word to the evil Spirit; and when it spoke that they should only kneel down and speak to God. The Devil then roared mightily, and cried out, "What will ye not speak to me? I shall burn the house, I shall strike the barbs and all the clip the lip of a little."

The night being now far spent, it was thought fit every one should withdraw to his own home.

Then did the devil cry out fearfully, "Let not the minister go home; I shall burn the house if he goes, and many other ways die be threatened."

And after the minister was gone forth, the good man being instant with him to leave; whereupon he returned all the cost of the company going home. Then said the Devil to the minister, "You have done my bidding."

"Not thine," answered he, "but in obedience to God I returned to hear this man company whom thou dost afflict."

Then did the minister call upon the name of God; and when prayer was ended, he discharged Mr. Campbell, and all the persons of the family from opening their mouths in word to the evil Spirit; and when it spoke that they should only kneel down and speak to God. The Devil then roared mightily, and cried out, "What will ye not speak to me? I shall burn the house, I shall strike the barbs and all the clip the lip of a little."

The night being now far spent, it was thought fit every one should withdraw to his own home.

Then did the devil cry out fearfully, "Let not the minister go home; I shall burn the house if he goes, and many other ways die be threatened."

And after the minister was gone forth, the good man being instant with him to leave; whereupon he returned all the cost of the company going home. Then said the Devil to the minister, "You have done my bidding."

"Not thine," answered he, "but in obedience to God I returned to hear this man company whom thou dost afflict."

Then did the minister call upon the name of God; and when prayer was ended, he discharged Mr. Campbell, and all the persons of the family from opening their mouths in word to the evil Spirit; and when it spoke that they should only kneel down and speak to God. The Devil then roared mightily, and cried out, "What will ye not speak to me? I shall burn the house, I shall strike the barbs and all the clip the lip of a little."

The night being now far spent, it was thought fit every one should withdraw to his own home.

Then did the devil cry out fearfully, "Let not the minister go home; I shall burn the house if he goes, and many other ways die be threatened."

And after the minister was gone forth, the good man being instant with him to leave; whereupon he returned all the cost of the company going home. Then said the Devil to the minister, "You have done my bidding."

"Not thine," answered he, "but in obedience to God I returned to hear this man company whom thou dost afflict."

Then did the minister call upon the name of God; and when prayer was ended, he discharged Mr. Campbell, and all the persons of the family from opening their mouths in word to the evil Spirit; and when it spoke that they should only kneel down and speak to God. The Devil then roared mightily, and cried out, "What will ye not speak to me? I shall burn the house, I shall strike the barbs and all the clip the lip of a little."

The night being now far spent, it was thought fit every one should withdraw to his own home.

Then did the devil cry out fearfully, "Let not the minister go home; I shall burn the house if he goes, and many other ways die be threatened."

And after the minister was gone forth, the good man being instant with him to leave; whereupon he returned all the cost of the company going home. Then said the Devil to the minister, "You have done my bidding."

"Not thine," answered he, "but in obedience to God I returned to hear this man company whom thou dost afflict."

Then did the minister call upon the name of God; and when prayer was ended, he discharged Mr. Campbell, and all the persons of the family from opening their mouths in word to the evil Spirit; and when it spoke that they should only kneel down and speak to God. The Devil then roared mightily, and cried out, "What will ye not speak to me? I shall burn the house, I shall strike the barbs and all the clip the lip of a little."

The night being now far spent, it was thought fit every one should withdraw to his own home.

Then did the devil cry out fearfully, "Let not the minister go home; I shall burn the house if he goes, and many other ways die be threatened."

And after the minister was gone forth, the good man being instant with him to leave; whereupon he returned all the cost of the company going home. Then said the Devil to the minister, "You have done my bidding."

"Not thine," answered he, "but in obedience to God I returned to hear this man company whom thou dost afflict."

Then did the minister call upon the name of God; and when prayer was ended, he discharged Mr. Campbell, and all the persons of the family from opening their mouths in word to the evil Spirit; and when it spoke that they should only kneel down and speak to God. The Devil then roared mightily, and cried out, "What will ye not speak to me? I shall burn the house, I shall strike the barbs and all the clip the lip of a little."

The night being now far spent, it was thought fit every one should withdraw to his own home.

Then did the devil cry out fearfully, "Let not the minister go home; I shall burn the house if he goes, and many other ways die be threatened."

And after the minister was gone forth, the good man being instant with him to leave; whereupon he returned all the cost of the company going home. Then said the Devil to the minister, "You have done my bidding."

"Not thine," answered he, "but in obedience to God I returned to hear this man company whom thou dost afflict."

Then did the minister call upon the name of God; and when prayer was ended, he discharged Mr. Campbell, and all the persons of the family from opening their mouths in word to the evil Spirit; and when it spoke that they should only kneel down and speak to God. The Devil then roared mightily, and cried out, "What will ye not speak to me? I shall burn the house, I shall strike the barbs and all the clip the lip of a little."

The night being now far spent, it was thought fit every one should withdraw to his own home.

Then did the devil cry out fearfully, "Let not the minister go home; I shall burn the house if he goes, and many other ways die be threatened."

And after the minister was gone forth, the good man being instant with him to leave; whereupon he returned all the cost of the company going home. Then said the Devil to the minister, "You have done my bidding."

"Not thine," answered he, "but in obedience to God I returned to hear this man company whom thou dost afflict."

Then did the minister call upon the name of God; and when prayer was ended, he discharged Mr. Campbell, and all the persons of the family from opening their mouths in word to the evil Spirit; and when it spoke that they should only kneel down and speak to God. The Devil then roared mightily, and cried out, "What will ye not speak to me? I shall burn the house, I shall strike the barbs and all the clip the lip of a little."

The night being now far spent, it was thought fit every one should withdraw to his own home.

Then did the devil cry out fearfully, "Let not the minister go home; I shall burn the house if he goes, and many other ways die be threatened."

And after the minister was gone forth, the good man being instant with him to leave; whereupon he returned all the cost of the company going home. Then said the Devil to the minister, "You have done my bidding."

"Not thine," answered he, "but in obedience to God I returned to hear this man company whom thou dost afflict."

Then did the minister call upon the name of God; and when prayer was ended, he discharged Mr. Campbell, and all the persons of the family from opening their mouths in word to the evil Spirit; and when it spoke that they should only kneel down and speak to God. The Devil then roared mightily, and cried out, "What will ye not speak to me? I shall burn the house, I shall strike the barbs and all the clip the lip of a little."

The night being now far spent, it was thought fit every one should withdraw to his own home.

Then did the devil cry out fearfully, "Let not the minister go home; I shall burn the house if he goes, and many other ways die be threatened."

And after the minister was gone forth, the good man being instant with him to leave; whereupon he returned all the cost of the company going home. Then said the Devil to the minister, "You have done my bidding."

"Not thine," answered he, "but in obedience to God I returned to hear this man company whom thou dost afflict."

Then did the minister call upon the name of God; and when prayer was ended, he discharged Mr. Campbell, and all the persons of the family from opening their mouths in word to the evil Spirit; and when it spoke that they should only kneel down and speak to God. The Devil then roared mightily, and cried out, "What will ye not speak to me? I shall burn the house, I shall strike the barbs and all the clip the lip of a little."

The night being now far spent, it was thought fit every one should withdraw to his own home.

Then did the devil cry out fearfully, "Let not the minister go home; I shall burn the house if he goes, and many other ways die be threatened."

And after the minister was gone forth, the good man being instant with him to leave; whereupon he returned all the cost of the company going home. Then said the Devil to the minister, "You have done my bidding."

"Not thine," answered he, "but in obedience to God I returned to hear this man company whom thou dost afflict."

Then did the minister call upon the name of God; and when prayer was ended, he discharged Mr. Campbell, and all the persons of the family from opening their mouths in word to the evil Spirit; and when it spoke that they should only kneel down and speak to God. The Devil then roared mightily, and cried out, "What will ye not speak to me? I shall burn the house, I shall strike the barbs and all the clip the lip of a little."

The night being now far spent, it was thought fit every one should withdraw to his own home.

Then did the devil cry out fearfully, "Let not the minister go home; I shall burn the house if he goes, and many other ways die be threatened."

And after the minister was gone forth, the good man being instant with him to leave; whereupon he returned all the cost of the company going home. Then said the Devil to the minister, "You have done my bidding."

"Not thine," answered he, "but in obedience to God I returned to hear this man company whom thou dost afflict."

Then did the minister call upon the name of God; and when prayer was ended, he discharged Mr. Campbell, and all the persons of the family from opening their mouths in word to the evil Spirit; and when it spoke that they should only kneel down and speak to God. The Devil then roared mightily, and cried out, "What will ye not speak to me? I shall burn the house, I shall strike the barbs and all the clip the lip of a little."

The night being now far spent, it was thought fit every one should withdraw to his own home.

Then did the devil cry out fearfully, "Let not the minister go home; I shall burn the house if he goes, and many other ways die be threatened."

And after the minister was gone forth, the good man being instant with him to leave; whereupon he returned all the cost of the company going home. Then said the Devil to the minister, "You have done my bidding."

"Not thine," answered he, "but in obedience to God I returned to hear this man company whom thou dost afflict."

Then did the minister call upon the name of God; and when prayer was ended, he discharged Mr. Campbell, and all the persons of the family from opening their mouths in word to the evil Spirit; and when it spoke that they should only kneel down and speak to God. The Devil then roared mightily, and cried out, "What will ye not speak to me? I shall burn the house, I shall strike the barbs and all the clip the lip of a little."

The night being now far spent, it was thought fit every one should withdraw to his own home.

Then did the devil cry out fearfully, "Let not the minister go home; I shall burn the house if he goes, and many other ways die be threatened."

And after the minister was gone forth, the good man being instant with him to leave; whereupon he returned all the cost of the company going home. Then said the Devil to the minister,

