AN APPARITION 200 YEARS AGO.

The Colluming are copy from Glanville Saduramus Triumphates pub hand in L. adob, in 1662

WHICH IS A RELATION OF THUMAN CODDARD OF MARLEBOROTOR, IN THE CHATY OF WILTS, WEAVER, MADE THE 23 NOV. 1674.

Who saith, that on Monday the ninth of this instant, as he was going to Oglasta, at a style on the highway near Mr Goddard's ground, about nine c'clock in the morning, he met the apparition of his father-in-law, one Eliward Aron of this town, glover; who died in May last, having on, to his apparance, the some cluther, hat, stocking, and shows, he did usually wear when be was living, standing by, and leaning over that style. Which when he came near, the apparition spake to him with an audible voice these words, "Are you afraid?" to which he answered, "I am thinking on one who is dead and buried, whom you are like." To which the apparition replyed with the like voice, I am he that you were thinking on; I was Edward Avon your father-in-law; come near to me, I will do you no harm." To which Goddard answered, "I trust in him who hath bought my soul with his precions blood you shall do me no harm." Then the apparition mid, " how stand cases at home?" Goddard askt what cases? Then it askt how, "how do William and Mary?" meaning, as be con ared, his son William Avon, a shoemaker here, and Mary his daughter, the said tierblard's wife; then it said. "what! Taylor is dead!" meaning as he thought, one Taylor of Loudon who married his daughter Sarah, which Taylor dved about Mahaelwas last. Then the apparation beld out its hand, and in it as Goldard conserved, twenty or thirty shillings in effect, and then quite with a load voice: "Take this money and and it to surah, for I shut up my bowels of compassion toward there, whereon grew nothing, but seemed to Goldard to be as a her in the time of my life, and now here a somewhat for her?" and then mid, " Mary 'meaning his, the said Goddard's wife, as he concerred; is troubled for me; but tell her find hath she wed! mercy to me contrary to my deserts" But the said Goddard aneverily " In the passe of J. a. ("aret I refuse all so " more y." Then the apparition said, "I persone you are alread, I will meet his, but could not understand a word of it, nor saw any appariyou arms other time." And immediately it went up the lane to his approximate Sie he went over the same style, but saw it no the said Goddard then attested under his hand, and affirmed he party at the house of one of my friends. A gentleman and more that day.

He mith. "The next night about seven of the clock, it came and opened the shop window, and stood in the like clothes, looked him in the face, but said nothing to him. And the next might after, as Goddard went forth into his backside with a candle light in his band, it appeared to him in the same shape, but be being in fear, ran into his house, and mw it no more then.

But he mith, that on Thursday, the twelfth instant, as he came from Chilton, riding down the hill between the manor-house and Axford-familiable, he saw somewhat like a hare crossed his way. at which his horse frighted, threw him in the dirt and as soon me he could recover on his feet, the same apparition there met him again in the same habit, and there standing about eight foot directly before him in the way, spake again to him with a load voice " pourier, is word by commonly used when living; you have staid long;" and then said to itim, "Thomas, bid William Avon take the sword that he had of me, which is now in his house, and earry it to the wood as we go to Alton, to the upper end of the word by the way side; for with that so old I did wrong above thirty years ago, and he never prospered since he had that eword. And had William Aron give his sixer Sarah twenty shalling - The money which he had of me. And do you talk with Edward Lawrence, for I berrowed twenty shillings of him several years seen send did say I had paid him, but I did not pay it has ; and I would desire you to pay him twenty shillings out of the money which you had from dames built at two payments? Which money the said Goddard now saith was five pounds which James Pillet, a laker here used the said Aron on board, and which he the entit Goddard had received from the and fillest since Matherinae, at two payments, visc. 35s at one. and 43, is at a wellest payme it. And it further said to him. "Tell Marcaret (meaning his own wife, as he conceived that I would it me her to definer up the little which I gave to little Barah Taylor to the child, or to any one she will trust for it. The if she will are, speak to Edward Lawrence to perswade her; The will not then, to it her tout I will use her very suddenly. And smaller this be done within a twelve-mouth and a day wher my downer, and power be with you " And so it went sway over the roll into the word there, in the lies handler as any man would go over a style, to his apprehension, and we be now it no news at that time. And he saith, that he paid the twenty the Librard Laureuse of the town, who being present, me - control restant he least the east A von twenty shill upo shout twenty and wife, and thew but himself and wife, and As it is to wife and was perer juicit it again before now by 也与近时 thence, Goddard looking back, saw the same apparation again in are requested to experience writes un respecting visions which has the like habit as before. Whereupon he called to his brother inlaw, and said. "Here is the apparition of our father;" who said. "I see nothing," then Goddard fell on his knees, and said, MR PARTRIBOL: "Lord open his eyes that he may see it;" but he replyed, "Lord! grant that I may not see it if it be thy blossed will." And then panorama of impressions grand and be autiful, sublime and we the apparation to Goddard's appearance, beckoned with his hand to him to come to it; and then Goldard said, "In the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, what would you have me to! do?" Then the apparition said to him, "Thomas take up the sword and follow me." To which he said, "Should both of us come, or but one of us?" to which it answered, "Thomas, do! you take up the sword." And so he took up the sword and fol [lowed the apparition about ten lugs (that is poles) further into the copse, and then turning back, he stood still about a lug and a half from it, his brother-in-law staying behind at the place. where they first laid down the sword. Then Goddard laying ful doctrines over advanced; you may be sure that the Tribones down the sword upon the ground, saw something stand by the apparition like a mastiff dog of a brown color. Then the apparition coming toward Goddard, he stept back about two steps, and the apparation said to him, "I have a permission to you, and commission not to touch you;" and then it took up the sword, me until I became a Spiritualist. Now nature is so meet a and went back to the place at which before it stood, with a mastiff dog by it as before, and pointed the top of the sword into the ground, and said, "In this place lies buried the body of him which I murdered in the year 1635, which is now rotten and turned to dust." Whereupon, Goddard said, "I do adjure you in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, wherefore did you do this murder? And it said, "I took money from the man, and he contended with me, and so I murdered him." Then Goddurd wekt him, who was confederate with him in the said murder? and it said, "None but myself." Then Goddard said, "What would you have me do in this thing?" And the apparition said, "This is that the world may know that I murdered a man, and He cut them open, and streaked snakes by the dozen glided buried him in this place in the year 1635.

Then the Apparition laid down the sword on the bare ground Grave sunk in. And then the apporition rushing further into the copie vanished, and any it now more. Whereupon Goddard ankles." A few weeks after this the lady and mycelf quarreled; and his brother-in-law Avon, leaving the sword there, and com-ther husband left her, and she herself has proved to be a fall ing away together, A von told Goddard he heard his voice, and fair one. understood what he said, and heard other words, distinct from tion at all. Which he, now also present affirmeth, and all which will depose the same when he shall thereto be required.

"Trust not, trust not;" the barden of this story Is ringing evermore in youthful ears, Repeated by each dame and grandsire houry,-"Trust not, my child, this is a vale of tears; And friends who smile will smile but to deceive you. At Fortune's changes ready to depart-Will win your love, and win it but to leave you To londiness and weariness of heart." This is a mournful tale that they are telling-That friendship can be measured out by gold -That luve's a thing of buying and of selling A beart, and hand, alike untrue and cold. Remembering lowous that the past has taught us, We feel that hopes oft perish in their birth, Yet thinking of the joy dear friends have brought us, We know that truth remaineth yet on earth. And when we meet true friends, oh! must we darken Their bearts and ours, by doubting, and distrut!-To cold suspicioa's whispers ever hearken Too timed to be generous or just? No, never—we would may, trust, but trust slowly: Class not each hand, believe not every smile; Be sure the offering is mocere and boly, Undimined by willishness, unetained by guile. Then trust, believe no more the mocking story, Which rays all love decrives and then departs, For there are rich and exceeding glory" In the affection of pure, carnest bearts. SPIRITUAL IMPRESSIONS.

Some friend with whom we are not acquainted and whom a name have experienced from the letter we make the following extract and publish the statement of some of the phenomers experienced

For a year past, my brain has been a vast and never-resident rible -more terrible than anything ever conceived in the brain of a Shakspeare. It is a year since I first noticed that I was a subject of impression. I know nothing about Spiritualism encept from my own experience. I never conversed with a me dium, and I never have read any spiritual works with the exception of the Triedram, for the last six months; for I was at unbeliever until circumstances forced me to believe that I was a medium. I now regard Spiritualism as one of the most beams is highly prized by me. * * I think that the most of my impressions are letter tests than those I read in the Telegraph from week to week. * * To tell the truth, existence was a burden to harmony with my nature, that earth seems almost like a bear tiful heaven.

IMPRESSION NUMBER ONE.

Six years ago I formed the acquaintance of an interesting young ludy. The lady married and settled near my bome. A few months since, I dreamed that I called at the lady's howe. and found her in great distress. She said her ankles pained her; I advised her to send for a physician. The physician came, looked at her ankles, and said they must be cut open from her ankles. The doctor sat and looked at them a moment and said to the woman, "those snakes are bred in your boss; they are a mark, and very often snakes will come from you

IMPRESSION NUMBER TWO.

A few mouths since, I had the impression that I was at a myself were looking at the pictures in the room. We sopped before a large frame, and I distinctly saw, as natural as life, the portrait of my cousin. In the opposite corner of the frame was the portrait of a lady. The lady's name was distinctly written under her picture. Between the lady and gentleman in the same frame hung a small frame with a portrait in it. Las week my cousin and the lady who were in the frame, were married.

JUDGE NOT.

No man prosumes to grasp the boundless Universe, with in nature, movements, and destiny, in his perceptions. He is as infinitesimal though an immortal, and his field of view must ever correspond with his particular condition and position in the line of destiny decreed him by universal destiny. And thus nessearily making his observations from his own particular stand, as the center of the Universe, he should over remember that there are as many different views of things, as individuals in the Universe, multiplied by the number of changes expenenced in the never-inding life of each. How utterly childish then, to at in judgment on our neighbor, or condemn as all serong the conduct of the past which has nevertheless landed us in the high position we now feel proud to occupy.

A SINGULAR RELIGIOUS KINGDON IN APRICA.—In the highlands of Ethiopia, Major Harris found a so called Christian kingdom a nerional establishment dating from the earliest ages. By this charch, saints and angels are invoked, the Virgin and St. Michiel are mad reares y sale ordinate deities, a crowded calendar of saints receive hong r, and ball the year is composed of facts and festivals. It enjoins also contenies to the pricet, whose curse is dreaded by the people as the last calamity, while they confidently rely on the alms giving and penances he imposed as an expiation of sign. Its most extraordinary peculiarities are certain near - and ceremonies, either borrowed from the Jews or retained from the Ethiopic faith. Their churches, which generally are small and mean, resemble precisely the Jewish temple; they are divided his three parts: the innermost is the holy of holler, and may be entered by the priest alone. The service is in a dead lauguage and dancing is east of the coremonies. They keep in the same manner, and with speak strictness, the seventh div and the first-the Sabbath of the Jews and Lord's day of the Christians. They observe the Levitical probibilions as to suclean animais; they wash their cuprand platters as a religion duty; they will not eat with Pagan or Mortem, nor tame of the b that has not been slain to the name of the Trinity. it, which they did, when they found it as the Spirit said. But, said Dr. Orton, one week ago to night, when I went home to our office from this Conference, as Mr. Redman was about retiring, we heard a noise in one corner of the room, like that of a stick ratiling about the floor. The Spirit of the hones, (Cornelius Winey, as he bite of a tost, which occurred to Pencia, Ill and the foliation called himself,) said he had brought them another bone. On going to where the noise appeared, they found one of the long bones of the leg. The window opening into the yard, was at the time a little down at the top, and another bone came widezing in and fell on the floor, which was a bone of the arm. On looking in the yard no person was found and no seeming probability, and hardly positility, that any person had been there, or bad thrown the hour slate their research. But last evening, aid be, Dr. Redman, my alf and others were stending to the phone of and in the course of half an hour. sixteen hones fell all around us. We time to always to the gathered them up, and went into the office, the time having arrived for i Dr. Redman to hold his usual circle. The Spirit said. "You had better I consider the Sircum tables connected with the Grath of my not hold your circle this evening," and they did not. A statement of what has transpired was then written out, and all persons present sub. to the world its truly. In the first place, then, the child had scribe, to it. Other persons had then come in ; and while they were examining the bones and conversing about what hid transpired, bonce , begon to fail again in the room all around them, and whizzing into the ross from different directions. This shower of bones numbered thirty. Today, said he, I went into the office about 10 o'clock in the forenoun. when Dr. Redman was engaged with a circle. About half past 11 e'clock, bones began to whiz across the plazza into the office, some twenty-five or thirty feet to the far ride of the room. We picked them sp and placed them on our table. About half past 12 o'clock, the whole company were standing around the table, examining the bones when a bug of sixty one small bones fell on the table before us in the tack part of the room, apparently from the ceiling. This bag and benes were the same Mr. Redman had left in the garret of his father in havin Hariford. Subsequently, Dr. Orton went out and returned to the effice ab ut 3 o'clock; and as he had passed into the hall some twenty-five feet, and was about opening the office door, a large thigh base fell, or seemed to be laid, in his arms, which he carried into the elee and laid on the table with the others. He then said he heard a erach in or near the closet in the corner of the office; and on examinaties we found that a large bone had failen on a violin case which was there. All the human beace received this week, number 109, and ail eridently belonging to one human skeleton. The Spir't (Winny) says the loses are his, and that he, with one hundred and two other Spirits. (tuesty-three of whom chiefly) have analyted in bringing the bours! from the garret of the house in Hartfurd.

Dr. Orton was reachingly cross examined by the audience, and his sames may be summed up substitutially as follows: He said that during time abovers of bears, they had used every possible means of disexecuting the origin of them, and the force which brought or threw them. PHILANTHROPIC CONVENTION, HELD IN UTICA ON THE 19TH, 11TH, AND 12TH, SEPT., 1858, TO CONSIDER "THE CAUSE AND CURE OF EVIL"

> AUTHENTIC REPORT PREPARED BY THE BUSINESS COMMITTEE. LAST DAY.-FORENOON SESSION. [CONTINUED.]

Mr. G. B. STEBRISS, of Rochester, N. Y., said: He deemed it a great use of this Convention to send forth ideas which should aid in the work of man's growth. Ideas rule the world in the end. Looking at this life alone, we gain but an imperfeet conception of human existence. An immortal life hereafter, a state of higher conditions, broader wisdom, and richer enjoyment, gives still greater preponderance to good. We must comprehend principles and ideas, as well as have knowledge of facts. Here is the great principle or law of progress; an instinct in nature and the soul of man; a Gospel preached in the slow yet sure development to higher beauty and richer use, of rock, and vegetable, and animal; in the great facts of human history; in the opening of man's soul to higher views of life and immortality—to-day in the Atlantic telegraph flashing the mandates of mind across the ocean, more eloquent and prophetic than the dull drone of a thousand pulpits. Progress is but growth toward harmony, health and wisdom. Good must ever be overcoming evil, to make it possible; and hence we gain a rational faith in the positive and superior power of good, its final triumph over every successive phase of error. How cheering such a faith to the reformer. He can well conscious that the mightiest powers in the universe work with him, and must conquer at last. As we study the constantlyrepeated lessons of nature and human history, we see error, expose, with searching power, the evils that exist, in order to as the work on earth may have been more or less truly done; suffering, discord, evil, imperfect development, slowly yet surely show the need of their abolition. We have Slavery, with its but where, as here, good shall overcome evil, and the degraded, yielding, and passing away; and right, health, harmony, good, awful tyranny and suppliant victims, its corruptions through aided by higher influences and conditions, shall rise above their higher development, gaining ground. Thus we see that evil has no permanence. But all great principles and ideas are perma-stinct of humanity, as well as every dictate of wisdom, protests despair" forever, as unjust and cruel punishment for the misnent, innate and instinct in nature and the soul of man, gaining against cold inertness. many a battle-field

"The might that slumbers in a peasant's arm."

As it is more fully appreciated, we rejoice in the triumph of tree principles, the upbuilding of free institutions, and the overthrow of oppression.

But where, within us or about us, can we find any principle of evil, or idea of wrong? As for the personality of evil, although the shade of such belief still lingers, the man who should fling his inkstand at the Devil, as did stout Martin Luther, would get laughed at for his pains, and told, perhaps, he had eaten too many cucumbers for supper. Knowledge and obedience of great principles and noble ideas—or, in other words, of the eternal laws by which the universe is governedis wisdom, helping man to harmony within himself, with his sollow-man, with nature, and with God, the soul of nature—thus producing good.

Thus we find that evil is but imperfect development, ignorance, perversion, disobedience. To feel, to appreciate, to gladly obey those innate ideas, universal, everlasting, pointing on and up; to know and act with those great principles, also universal and eternal, which put man in harmony with Nature, and make him master of some of her great forces, is to "Overcome Evil with Good," and thus help humanity on its glad pathway.

It banishes the gloomy fictions of theology, and the devil departs, annihilated by a spell more potent than the priestly exoreism of "bell, book and candle," in by-gone days. It reaches beyond life to immortality, and sees the joy and glory of spiritual life as results of love, wisdom and higher development, such as we but faintly imagine here.

But in practical life our instincts of freedom of choice in action, and our moral consciousness, will ever be the guides.

As in this, so in every reform; varying in method, as events may dictate, sinking into no sickly sentimentalism or empty abstractions that will weaken our efforts, losing nothing in strength of purpose, or power and directness of rebuke; but gaining in a spirit of charity, that shall smite but to heal, This is waiting and working for better circumstances; this is practical wisdom inspired by rational faith in man's capacity to overcome evil with

The important question is, "What can we reasonably expect from the spread of these views of the "cause and cure of evil," and of some kindred opinions among mankind? We should bear in mind that

> "The nearer to the practical men keep, The mightier their power; God writes his thoughts In jects, in solid orbs, in living souls; His revelation is the concrete world.

We want true theories which shall respond to the needs of humanity, and yield good deeds as their natural fruits. Surely all real reform—each clear perception of truth in one direction we need a better life on this earth, full of beauty as it is. Well and truly did Gerald Massey—England's young and noble poet, -coming up from the din of the factory and the grime of the tree, which might well be pictured like the tree Igdrasil of coal mine, with soul all aglow with genius, and heart throbbing | Scandinavian mythology, with its roots all through the earth, for the poor, say, "God's world is worthy of better men!"

The world needs better brains in better bodies. Freely and gladly must we seek for harmony and purity of soul and lody by walking in the royal road of knowledge and obedience to the laws of our being; thus helping now, and still more in coming Rational faith in the power of good to overcome evil, will inspire men with that moral courage we so much need. Be yourself, bravely and serenely, is the lesson for each man and woman. In the moral warfare ever waging against the old and powerful institutions behind which oppression, slavery and higotry entrench themselves, we shall thus gain in power. We should ever seek to destroy the useless and evil in the old, that the new may rise in beauty on its ruins.

> "For wisely taught the Hindoo seer-Destroying Siva, forming Brahm, Who wake by turns earth's love and fear, Are one, the same."

We shall see the unity of truth, the oneness and concord of making the sight clearer in all others—each vital growth in any branch of reform flinging back healthful sap through the whole its branches filling the sky, and reaching even to the abodes of the gods. Thus must we be saved from that sectarian narrowness and devotion to isms which so belittles theology.

The advocate of the equal rights of woman need not protest against a fair hearing of the great question of marriage and learn it, except by free and candid speech?

The friend of human liberty need not say: "A way with this of spiritual beings should shine into the dark places of the earth, joy and excellence of TRUE MARRIAGE-may see that, and that it is his work to follow it, and smite down the barriers of oppression, which hide the brightness of its glory from the slave. So of all other movements in education, morals or acial life. The moment we seek to build up any theory, however excellent, by ruling out of sight and hearing all other theories or practical works, or to carry on any one reform, however good, by ignoring all others, we defy Nature, grow weak in out, poor in moral courage, and follow uselessly in the wake of all miserable bigots.

Suppose the inventor of the power-loom had said to the builder of the first locomotive, when both were struggling interest: "Don't sully my invention by talk of your dingy steam-horse; I don't want it mixed up with such things; it will save mankind, if left alone to do its blessed work."

How absurd! but far more so to man, by kindred narrowness in reform, the effort of others, since the practical development of true ideas is of more moment than the din and whirl of mechanism. From force of our natures, and of circumstances, some will be specially engaged in one branch of reform. some in another; of course, the examination of various subjects. the prosecution of different works, must be at such times and occasions as order and the fitness of things may dictate. But let us ever feel the fraternity of all true reforms, and keep a healthful interest in all. This must be a great help in the growth of the race.

We see the discoveries of science blessing the world in pratical benefits, and enlarging the scope of men's thoughts. Geology and Chemistry are improving the modes of agriculture. Charts of ocean currents and prevalent winds, in the past few years have done much to shorten sea voyages, and lessen "the perils of the deep."

This is the result of freedom of mind, seeking to know, to obey, and to gain the sure reward of obedience.

Lieut. Maury nobly says, in the introduction to his most usefal and eloquent work on "The Geography of the Sea," "As may be supposed, facts are sometimes misinterpreted or misunderstood when first developed. Whenever subsequent research shows such to have been the case. I have not hesitated to tear down whatever of conjecture or theory may have been built on unstable foundations, and to reconstruct according to best light. Truth alone is my object."

This is the broad and fearless eclecticism of science. Carry it into the domain of man's religious and spiritual life, and what an overthrow of Superstition! what a rattling among the dry bones of theology! what blessed triumphs of truth! Carry it into reforms, and we "overcome evil with good," our efforts blooming facing it with the following resolution: out in higher freedom and happiness for humanity.

Truly does Longfellow say,

"Were half the wealth that fills the world with terror, The treasures lavished upon camps and courts. Given to redeem the human mind from error, There were no need of arsenals or forts.

So of prisons and "criminal laws"-often criminal enough, putting one in mind of dame Partington's description of a comhouse, as "the place where justice is dispensed with." The cost of courts and prisons, expended in education in accordance with an enlightened idea of the "cause and cure of evil," would banish both from the world.

Seek to raise men above the blind perversion of depraved appetite, by showing the joy of health and purity; and as we succeed, the hungry are fed, the naked clothed, and a wise selfreliance would banish want in coming time.

What millions are yearly spent, even in our country, to sustain the warring jurgon of conflicting sects, and ring doleful changes from thousands of pulpits on old dogmas, that earnest men and women have long out-grown, and which should be buried beside the mouldering bones of their authors! Let but a part of this be expended in fostering and guiding freedom of the Report of the Rutland Convention, upon the audience. thought and speech, and what good might be done!

Mrs. Hyzek expressed the pleasure she had felt at witnessing the agitation of great questions here, and alluded in fitting terms to the interest felt by those in a higher state of being. She appealed to the audience to open their souls to the reception of in-

Mrs. Dr. Hair offered a resolution, but failed to give a copy to the secretaries or reporters.

A portion of the audience at this time were inclined to interrupt the proceedings by noisy demonstrations.

Mr. Linerand obtained the floor, but gave way to a person in the gallery, to offer a resolution.

The person declined to give his name, but subsequently gave the reporters the name of George II. Heath, of Brooklyn, though his real name was understood to be Hissinburon, of New York. The resolutions were long applanded by a portion of the audience.

Whereas, we judge of that which is good by that which is evil, and good and evil are relative terms, the one growing out of and depending for its existence, on the other, and the virtues of to day may be mindemeanors in a more perfect operatization; therefore

Resolved. That it is simply aboutd to talk of curing evils throughout the world: but as intelligent beings, we are, on a principle of self protection, bound to struggle against evil :

And whereas, intemperance in anything is one of the greatest infringements of the moral law, as leading to unnatural excitement and morbid sentiment: therefore Realed. That rum, same culotism intemperate temperance men. red mouthed abolitioniets, disunionists, women's rights men and Philantrophic Conventions, deserve our unqualified condemnation.

Resolved. That mind dwelling on pet bobbies makes a rack of the brain, where harmony previously existed, and this is the source of all the eccentricties we have encountered in this Hall.

Resolved. That while there is seems and beauty in the bloomer costume, especially when it clothes the mover of the resolution offered in this behalf, (Mrs. Dr. Walker) still we can not think that through it mankind are to be regenerated, or reclaimed, by the fair votary.

Resolved. That Mr. Tooliey's trouble with his wife is his own affair, and he exhibited great folly in asking the Convention to indorse his treatment of her; and we think it would be unwise to change the law of divorce so as to enable him to free himself. The world would be full of Toobers wanting to leave their wives.

Resolved, that the Union ought not to be dissolved, Peter Perpercorn or Parker Pill-bury to the contrary notwithstanding.

Resolved. That women ought not to be jurors or generals: 'her artistic procreative work" would seriously interfere with the performance of these duties.

Revolved. That there is nothing new under the sun, and the hobbins of this Convention have engrossed the cocentricities of all ages; Swedenborg, Volney, Voltaire, Tom Hobbs, Tom Paine, Hume, Goodwin, Betsey Gamp and Beckey charp, have discussed all these things to the fical disgust of a once admiring audience.

Resolved, All that produces most happiness is best, and the true Christian enjoys more true and substantial happiness than any other faith can administer. While the man who attempts to fathom, or finally adopts the i-m- and vagaries of human philosophers, finds himself in a whirlpool of doubt, depression and misery.

Reviewd. That ignorance is the cause of the greatest evils, and the only come of evil that can be overcome, and that on adjourning, this Convention ought to go home and go to bed, and after a refreshing sle-p, enter into the work of educating the mames.

Mrs. Barr next took the floor, and pointed out the source of the opposition manifested by a part of the audience to the sentiof the American people, all moneys collected for war and its appliances ments of the Convention. Very radical ideas had been advanced, and the opposers were as honest in their hisses and applause as was the Hindoo in defence of his faith (his......) He who has head actually required for killing men under the present expensive the truth need not fear. All who can not appreciate the views of others, must of course reject them. How specify the change in the feelings of the audience were the roof to fall in! Whe then would be most calm and tranquil?

Mrs. B. then proceeded to give some of her personal experiences, of an interesting character, to which the audience listened with a good degree of attention. She closed with an appeal to those present to allow of any sentiments being expressed, whatever might be their opinion of them. [The disquietness of the assembly which was very great when Mrs. B. began, was gradnally leasened by her persuasion, and soothing power, till at the hour of adjournment quiet was restored. To BE CONTINUED.

No amount of law or authority outside of man can longer hold him, as our quarentine operations, the lying, cheat ing and steding by our public officers, and the growing proclini then of the people, how. All moral delinquencies have a list observational with much real. It comes out, in the course common oxigin, and to say that makern Spiritualism has engendered them, he amply and profoundly foolish.

The people are merging from a tate of childish admin ion to out ide authority, to madeed wherein humanity wells to utter itself, not man slave, but us a man outwardly expression reference to Spiritualism has become so far mollified un to peran interfer reality. In this transition state, we must expect some errors will be committed, which will not be corrected by if uple complaints, but by instruction. Modern Spiritualism is the natural unfolding of a progressive providence, and it is folly to to at it as an enemy. Spirits are here of their own accord, communicating what were r, and with whoms ever, they please; and the planement and teachings should be examined and critiersed like and other subject brought before the human intellect. Polygumy and the Missionaries.

The Christian Index, published at Mucon, Ga., and the organ of the Baptist Convention in that State, is occupying at columns with an animated discussion upon the question whities converted polygramets ought to be haptized and received into the Christian Church, without first being required to give up their supernamerary wives or husbands. One of the disputants, in entering the arena, says, "I stand ready to maintain . . . that converted polygamists and their wives, in heathen and Mobammedan countries where polygamy is permitted by the law of the land, ought to be baptized in obedience to the great commistion." It is just to say that the negative side of this question of this discussion, that "some of the eastern missionaries do haptize polygamists, and that all, or nearly all, medonaries lagtize the wives of polygamists."

A Sphiluslist at the Polls.

At Ypeilanti, Mich., it appears that the public sentiment in mit the mass of the inhabitants to justly regard, in some good degree, the personal merits and qualifications of one of their own spiritualistic citizens, who was recently a candulate for their offraces. At an early tage of our love-tigations late the phenomena of modern Spicitual in, we remember earing to a contractigator of considerable note in the political world, " If the fact that Friends can communicate with men shall be fairly demonstrated to the world's server, it will revolutionize not only the religious world, but the political and humanial, and change the whole seperat of muchty." We felt this clearly, though we could not then have given the raturale of our constanton. But we now begin to me how this result will be brought about. Experimental Phiritualhas translates the verities of the soul's immortal life and growth from the doursin of authority to that of proof. It transferns the power of the religious faculty, from blind wallowers of dogmatian, into maticipatical investigators of ephritual phenones ens and laws--from atoms of an unreasoning mass, into individwalked thinkers and men. Is it not so? And has it not already began to tell, with immense force, upon all our church members and churches, in spite of all manner of priently opposiliene ?

As yet, the investigators of Spiritualism have seldom got much beyond its religious bearings; but it can not be long before these individualized thinkers will subject their political authoritariam and u-ages to the same mathematical accuting. They will treat the demagagene's appeal to their party projudies or king of the close in place of the Father of 2, 101. - Page 20. presons as coully as the note-baser does all appeals to his sympathles, when he is reckening up his usury. THE REVIVAL OF THE SLAVE TRADE.

() toma see (the risking (more) In or! I to leave no fariber room for dis-stiefaction or doubt, frome indications of which have reached use as to our course or signal we propose now to put on record the grounds of our used spromising appopostion to the revival of a traffe which the under ded meatiment of the exillered world, (our own country, and e per at y the Southern section taking the lead,) has long stone stamped and stigmatized with utter reprobating and abhorrence.

Were the revival of the slave trade practicable, judich we hold it not to be under our existing Constantion and log elation and in the present state of public sentiment through as the Union, and especially at the North, likely to be perpetual,) we at our faces against it for the

I The slave tride is inhimon and heutalizing, and we would not The recent arrival of a captared slaver in our poet is fa'l of eridence such their human victime, by hundreds, some factors, in a single vessel, without regard to decemer must be eleanthere beath or life; and numbers, in the m det of eleach and Sits frequently if not necessarily. the gold to poor blas of up through them like a blast furance. A Violance Countres -A C mm'tee, with this little, has been period from disease. The poor Africana are not as well cared for as are doze, become or other brute freight, a mercain per pratage of mortality among them is counted on as matter of merca title calculation; and, in case of et run or danger of shipstreck, or shirtness of provisions or water, they are more lowly thrown overboard, and with less to the deep. It is vain to say that, were the traffic licensed and regulated, there evils and atroditive would cease to edural vrige it; they ere i bereat in its very nature, and, for proof of this metancholy and revoluing truth, we eite the bistorical and conclusive fact that all take herrors of the middle passage" occurred, in their word form, when the slave trade was licensed by every civilized nation. The recont ducleeares of oppressions and ant ordical practiced in an grant ships, illustrain the entures.

The fact in that the slave traffic in in itself, brutalizing and defining. As a general rule the master and erew of a claver, as is shown by those new to ever poet, are $1.50 become extellenant or parates. We barn no eakir wealth leave on the entreet of slavery. We had stavery as an execution in our land, to be defentible, economically morally and scripturally, and to be maintained with our life's blood; we believe too, the condition of the england African in this civilized and Christian country to be infinitely better than that in his pative had; but said we say, God forbed that the since trade should ever again be proceeded under the flag of the Up on or the flag of the South

? The revival of the stave trade would deter orate, barbarine and bearbenize, or supersede, our now civilized and Christian states, by an unce-solur and ever increasing infu log of sative Africana, and intreat a said that the different many be overcome for a time. From the bushed and two scounder's named Brawdy and Reynolds, to deliver duce the insurrectionary element among car now orderly and combinated State domestics and peacenter.

3. The revival of the wave trade would bearn's consider. Were it cheaper to import than to cure started instead of making and repleasting the earth, as our bappy slaves now divities would be asset ally decimated, as they were formerly in Jama en and Brazil, and still are in Caba, and the places of the dead supplied by new importaitions of the raw material, and l'ech lines and Lagrens would be no longer fatalists permonages in the South. CHILDREN.

ST E. T LOVERSLLAW. Come to me, () ye children For I beer you at your play. And the agestions that perplemed me Have vanished quite sun ..

Ye open the eastern windows. That book toward the ma. Where thoughts are sing or allows And the brooks of morning ran.

In your hearts are birds and searbise. In your therebes the brooklets flow. But in mine to t - wind of Automa And the first fall of the spect.

Ah! what would the world be to us. If the collères were no more? We should dread the desert behind to Worse than the dark before.

What the leaves are to the forest. With light and air for food, Ere their sweet and tonder salore Have been hardened into a sed-

That to the world are children: Through them it found the glow. Of a brighter and rannier change Then reaches the treaks below.

Come to me. () ye children! And whener in my cur. What the birds and the winds are singing In your curus atmosphere.

For what are all our contriviage. And the windom of our leads. When compared with your curemen, And the gladness of year looks!

Ye are better than all the ballads That ever were many or said : For we are living posses. And all the rest are dead.

WHAT LITTLE WHITE HANDS CAN DO.

Children think they can do little good; and even their namets renerally think the name. They can be obedient and affectioners, this all admit; but few think they are old enough to do saything for the salvation of the world. Now children the savery great error.

Con a child do se mech se a worm ! Mittle reader. "and more, too." Let us we Imagine that you and I are mitting in a vessel made the South finan. How beautifully we guide along! The vomel skims the occur like a swan. But what is that yeader, riging shove the Millows like a manad island? Now it coarkles in the rape of the man libe a rook of minor: and now it assesses different colors red, gold, elivery have all burnded together in delightful richaete. Nearer and nearer we come to the attractive object all the while appearing more beautiful and heiliens than the Crystal Palace. when lo! we done it it is the spiended work of ma without so small that we can not see them with the naked eve. Yes, the little coral worm threw up these many-no eved recht a hatte at a time until we have this magnificant signs. And just over that like of reels, you see that Hittle fained ouvered with tall point-trees, as green and stender. The foundation of that inland, now a fit habitation for men, was laid by the some little coral worse. Myrande of them lived and died there, and left their hadies to make the foundation of the acral island : then the acti accumulated, and the trees grew as they are now seen. You corn! Is made of the exclutons of little sea-warms.

This is what the worms do toward making this world a habitation for maskind. They make islands. Got did not make them to be grehow in this world, where so much in to be done. Their works amount to meneralizer.

Would you not be as united as the little soral warms. You can not bailed blands, but you can help the prople who live upon them, and these who life in other parts of them. A percey is a small gift, but ten of them make a time; a grain of mad is very manute, but exceed of them will make a mountain. He the little which one chief does too Ged may seem too small to be counted, but perhaps twenty of these listle upen are equal to the work of one fail grown man or woman. Do not forget that it you do nothing for look, you are not worth as much as the cural worm.

A STRANGE BUT TRUE STORY.

For a long time we have heard nothing stranger than the story we are about to relate. When Thomas Galloway was 24 years of age, he married a lady of about the mass age in a village down in the State of Vermont. This larly had a district Mary by her first bushaud who at the time of her account marriage, was two years of ane. Just one year after Gallisway's marriage, his wife died. Little Mary was mut to live with a family by the name of Plunket: in a neighboring visinger. and Gallower lett upon a whiling expedition. He cruised and wasdered from place to place, and finally settled in Deserviry Co., lad., 20 years having elapsed since the drath of his wife. He sturward thought of visiting his old Vermout home, but he had heard from good revort that his only brother John had left the place soon after his departure. and that wille Mary had grown up to womanhood, merried and emigrated by samed not uncertain where. Has my no other time of effection to draw use, to the place, he acareely ever gave is a passing thought.

THE HOMAN FACE - In some shape or other, when manhood has been attained, time has begun to set its indebble stamp upon us all. In al. who mry ve the period of life when, but consciousness but the almanae tells as that filly years are post and gone, every lace of min and women becomes more and more a book in which the life and thoughts are written in hierograph on to be decaphered by those who have acousted skill in such reading. Almost at a glance we divocen the signs and quaint shapes of habitual thought, and occupations, of status and rock, of command or obediese, of convious wealth, and all the varie the of bruken down respectability; of intellectual greatness and calm need or of vain necessary tive, or of brases pretensions; and indeed of all the differential gradutions of social and montal life down to the worn has of ignomia use tall, and to the numberskable abjectness of nature or position, from which the eved even of the good and kind turn pulntally away. In the meantime, old age keeps steadily advancing. although mosally considered so distant that its roice starties those who and it close at hand, and who are unwarned by fatting faculties or even by the ever accommisting winkles which have enricarly nonemed all the face that was once we smooth and waraffed. Year after year the applicate of age gree on. Priends who meet after forty rears' appare ration do not recognize one another. Every subsequent twelvemonth has left the traces in some feature or another. The month once a double arc, expressive of what medical proce can not convey, has perhaps become a stereotyped sorrow, with lines drawn down laterally from its owners. There are griefs written in the even which have never been expressed in words. Thousands of intersecting lines are excitibled over the checks, as if a thousand elves had been employed to vary them. The fairest and broadest, and loftiest forebeard presents nervilan the shabby work of daily troubles and of those especially which fall on defenseless secularity. Yet the eyes though grief-worn. long retain comething of their immortal light, still remaining lustrous and noble, when a great and good soul chines through them, to the latest breath : but nevertheless (winkling, conningly and ominously, in those whose mortal eight has been ever best on the rich, base pavement of the world.

A CHIEF IN THE AIR-THE MIRAGE OF THE PLAISS.-Travelers across the Pinine amore that they have seen on the Noble's Pani route, about there miles the side of the Humboldt river, the most wenderful phenomenon t at they think could ever have been witnessed in any part of the world. It is no less a thing than a city in the air complete in every aspect and concountant. It is seen in the early morning, and stands self-suised above the dead level of a broad and airy plain, which is powered with a light white dust that rises in small clouds at the touch of a horse's book, or secends in magnifecent spiral towers in the breath of the little whislwinds that are occasioned by the intense heat. The line of the base of the city forms an angle with the line of the plain. so that the city seems to fear over toward the earth, and a full view of the streets and buildings is presented. All the streets mean to tend to one point. where they concentrate, and whence, of course, they diverge,

The architectoral beauty and epicador of this city in the air, are of a character appropried by anything upon the face of the parth. The buildings rue one after another, in proud, pulatial grandeur, and their tall towers silter like motten silver is the san. Clean and perfect was the work of the mest rious architect who framed those marbie-looking unceres of the air. The argument extent of the city is about six miles in executivence and the activation of the base to the earth in a division of about titly first. Not having seem the phenomenon, of course we can not enter into any misrate description of it: we can only 2000 the general blea which we have presented. We are assured that the filenden is perfect—nothing wanting, whatever to fill up the pleture -a marmific it city, a me at the button of the ... intt gluttering in the include of the summine, and believed in the terrene. Link from the Spirit world By Raw ! barles Hammon! Medium, Being written by Nature's Divine Revelations.

By A. J. Davis. This large work, which may be considered the pioneer of the modern spiritual unfolding, is still in constant demand by the inquiring public notwithstanding the namerous elitions through which it has passed. It is the product of a series of dictations by Mr. Davis, while in the cloryon ant or spiritualized state, during the years 1345 and 1545, and in it the subsequent and more general stiritual manifestations are foreshadowed and distinctly predicted. It may be said to occur, generally the whole range of human thought on mundane and spiritual subjects, in a progressive and, for the mo t part methodical way, and by discriminating minds has been found immentely fautful of suggestions. Published by t barles Partridge, at the Smarroad Telegraph office, 1.5 Maidea Lane, New York. Price $2 pestage 43 cents.
