DIVINATION, OMENS & PROPHECY

Man's Endeavors to Predict his Fate

YOUR CERTAIN ROUTE TO OT AT AOLA

GOALS & GAMES OF THETA CLEARS

BY L. RON HUBBARD

MOVE TO CAUSE ACROSS THE DYNAMICS WITH CERTAINTY

"There's so much less effort connected to what I want to have happen," reads one of hundreds of success stories at AOLA each week. "Just two days ago, effort was there and now it is not. Each cycle that I've wanted to accomplish—small or large—has been realized..."

We point up this particular success because it was written not upon completion of a course or auditing action, but simply on arriving at AOLA. Like every Clear who makes it through our doors and onto services, this Clear instantly discovered just how rapidly—and easily—one starts to blow through all the considerations that once stood in the way of their going OT. But, considering this is just the starting point of a Golden Age of Tech Solo auditor's experience here at AOLA, there are far greater success stories to tell, and throughout this Advance! issue, we not only spotlight these successes but show how they come about.

And yet that is only a representative sampling of the wins that you—and every Scientologist from across the Americas—will achieve when you route onto your Solo and Advanced Course training. That's because, when you cross the threshold of our Advanced Course rooms, each step you take thereafter is a quantum leap toward your return to native state—to spiritual freedom man could only hope for for eons.

And then there's the day you'll walk out our doors, readied to move up to full OT. When you do, you'll be taking with you the pure, uncompromising certainty of your own personal destiny—on all your dynamics.

Writes another AOLA completion soon to move on to her upper OT levels: "This has been the most fabulous adventure. My service here has been very standard, swift and highly personal. I have achieved so many wins beyond my wildest dreams. I came to AOLA with little hope—with frankly just a resignation to 'try.' But with the intention and dedication of so many staff, the tide began to turn instantly. I am so strong now—so free—so happy, so in-ARC with life that I can't wait to help others find out about the road out and also to audit preclears myself."

With this glimpse of what's to be gained from the very moment you arrive here, read on and learn what you'll accomplish at each of the OT levels ahead.

ABOUT THE COVER:

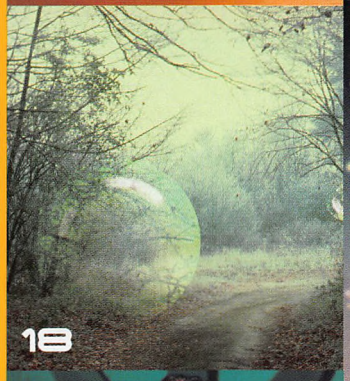

Man has always felt the need to predict future events or discover secret matters seemingly unknowable to him. Find out what developed into the "science" of divination on page 2.

IMPORTANT NOTE

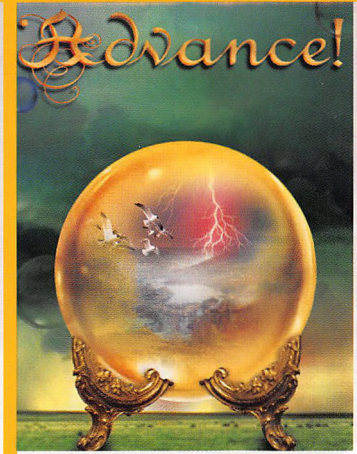

While reading this magazine, be very, very certain you do not go past any words you do not fully understand. If the material becomes confusing or you can't seem to grasp it, there will be a word just earlier that you have not understood. Immediately go back, find the word and get it defined. There is a brief glossary on page 24.

Divinatio

Omens & Prophecy

The young woman latched the door behind her, cradling a small round object in her arm. Moonlight rippled through sheer drapes, illuminating the outlines of a small, ornately carved table and single wooden chair in the center of the room. A single hanging portrait of a woman long gone smiled across the years.

Downstairs, her father and his guests, content in their Edwardian propriety, laughed over cigars and port, never imagining what mission had led her to beg an early retirement this evening.

Moving to the table, she laid the object down, then turning, lit a single candle in the far corner, its flickering light bending monstrous shadows against the walls. Crossing, she held the object and unwound from it a covering of sheer blue silk, which fell in shimmering folds all around. In the dimness, the object glowed dully, until the girl stepped to the side, allowing the fluttering candlelight to find and caress its smooth surface. The crystal sphere, newly energized from exposure to a full moon, seemed to explode and then pulsate with a hidden power. Sitting with the candle to her back, she huddled over the orb, concentrating, concentrating, concentrating.

For many minutes she sat thus, barely breathing, barely blinking, offering up the insignificance of her own soul and consciousness to interact with the great realms of past, present and future, where people she loved awaited and truths would be revealed to her that most mortals could not conceive. When, after a time, her eyes started to ache and her back stiffen with strain, the clear surface of the crystal began to cloud over, as if a storm were brewing inside the smooth confines. Still she kept her gaze steady, willing the visions to appear, surrendering herself to the messages reaching out to her across the boundaries between Earth and the spirit world.

What passionate obsession would send an otherwise proper young woman headlong down the path of the dark arts? What questions tormented her to pursue such a peculiar and unpredictable course? And did the answers she received calm her spirit or lighten her heart? Or disrupt and disturb her more deeply?

Gazing into a crystal ball, or scrying, as it is properly called, is one of the more commonly known forms of divination—the practice of attempting to foretell the future through various interpretive means. Scrying comes from the English word descry, meaning "to make out dimly" or "to reveal." And no more apt a definition could there be for a form of clairvoyance one undertakes by focusing attention on a reflective surface—water, a crystal ball or perhaps a mirror—hoping for a vision to appear from within.

But scrying is by no means the only form of divination employed through the centuries. Man has gone to inordinate lengths in an attempt to know his fate. What was he hoping to accomplish? And where did his many attempts lead him?

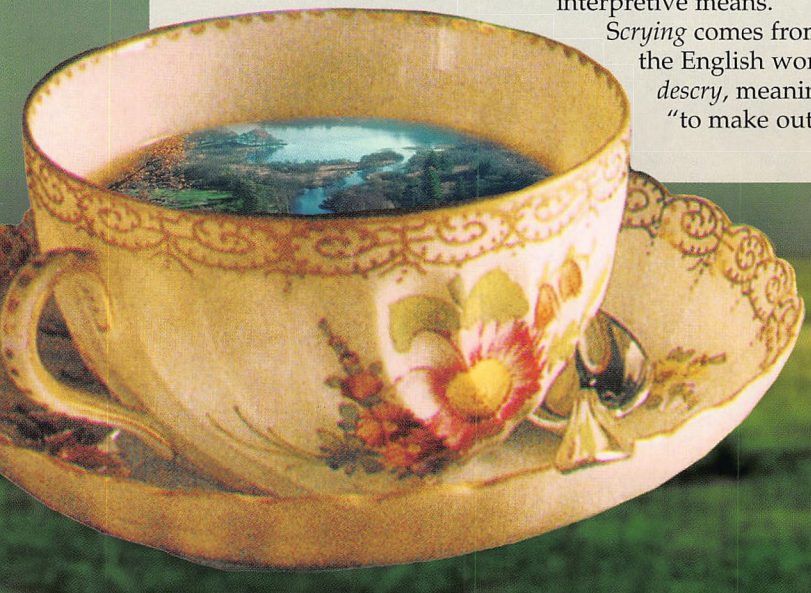

Hope for a better life

Divination has been found in all civilizations, ancient and modern, primitive and sophisticated, all down the track. It implies a gift man hoped to garner from the divine, from God or the gods, to assuage his fears, desires and quest for immortality.

The hunter, the farmer and the nomad in the far past needed to come to grips with seasonal changes, droughts, floods, fertility, upon which his survival depended. Thus he scanned the heavens at night, watched the flight of birds by day, looked deep into the flames of a fire or the depths of a calm pool, to establish a seeing or knowing of what his future held. Thus evolved methods as excessive as they were eccentric, and as curious as they were cryptic.

Most people have some familiarity with widely known practices, such as tarot card reading or palmistry, but there have in fact been an extraordinary variety of divination forms, each with its own specialist jargon and precise rituals. For example, one skilled at reading tea leaves practiced the art of tasseography, while the ancient Roman practice of observing omens for guidance in public affairs, called augury, employed an ability to interpret the shoulder blades of animals (scapulamancy).

Divination itself can be subdivided into two categories: 1) the observation and interpretation of natural phenomena, including weather patterns, the behavior of animals, the progress of celestial bodies across the sky, as well as dreams; and 2) the interpretation of deliberately caused phenomena, such as the pattern formed by ashes at a sacrificial fire, the numbers revealed by a throw of dice or the behavior of water when various substances are poured into it. Any interpretation of good or bad fortune constitutes an omen, which can be natural (storms or floods) or caused by man, as in the bad luck engendered by breaking a mirror.

Mirrors–the doorway of imagination

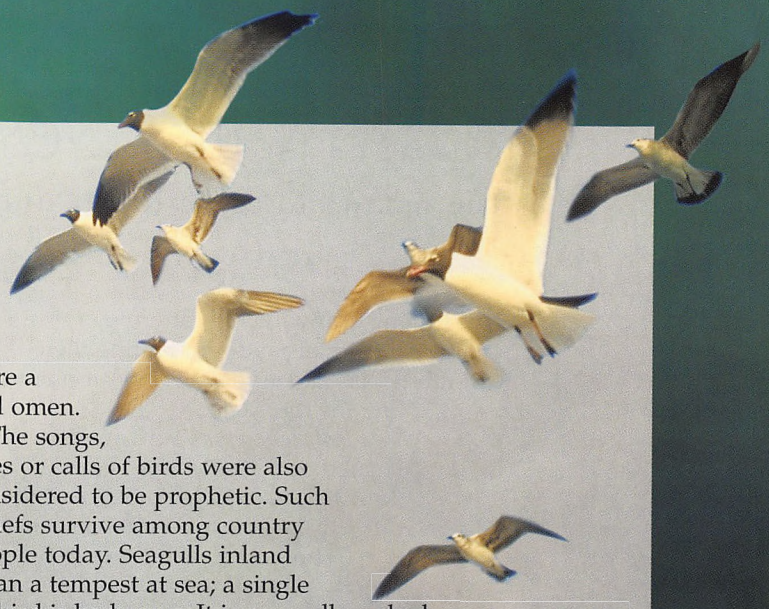

In numerous cultures a mirror—or any reflective surface—was considered a gateway to the astral world. Through this, a mortal could travel to and interact with the spirit world and perhaps glean insight into his fate or fortunes. A smooth body of water performed the same function and western folklore abounds with spells and incantations to be performed at such sites in order to learn the answer to a question.

Hundreds of "spells" to learn the identity of a future spouse are extant, such as one popular Halloween ritual still performed by young women: On the night of Halloween, a girl wishing to know the name of her future husband, would go into a darkened room, facing a mirror. She would then peel an apple, (all in one piece, or the charm would be void) and toss the peel over her left shoulder. The face of her beloved would then appear in the glass. Doubtless some have perceived faces during such a ritual, but how many favorable? And how many happy unions resulted?

The future predicted by the natural world

Augury was the practice of prophesying the future by means of observing natural occurrences and activities, particularly the behavior of animals and birds, as well as the examination of their entrails and other body parts. The term comes from the Roman augurs, who had the function, not of foretelling the future but of discovering whether or not the gods approved of a proposed course of action, especially political or military. The two most important were the examination of the entrails of animals (haruspicy), and the inspection of the liver of an animal (hepatoscopy) but an augur had to as well be versed in the flights and cries of birds (ornithomancy), the pecking behavior of sacred chickens (alectromancy), and the observation of the behavior of snakes (ophiomancy), among others.

Birds flying to the east, toward the sunrise, were considered propitious, while those flying towards the west and the sunset, in the direction of the underworld, were a bad omen.

The songs, cries or calls of birds were also considered to be prophetic. Such beliefs survive among country people today. Seagulls inland mean a tempest at sea; a single seabird is bad news. It is generally unlucky to see a lone magpie, but birds in pairs herald love and friendship. The cooing of doves in a forest in the evening is a warning against thieves, and a dove or any white bird at a window is a death omen. Flights of wild geese or wild ducks mean travel and news, but if the birds are flying toward the moon, the meaning is loneliness or news of a death.

Such animal augury was not confined to Rome. Tibetan Buddhism contains a carefully detailed description of such signs and rituals. Positive signs include the sighting of auspicious birds, such as cranes, swans or pheasants, or hearing their cries. Negative signs foretelling misfortune or obstacles include the chattering of monkeys, squeaking of mice or having a snake cross one's path.

A form of divination foretelling future events by observing atmospheric phenomena such as the death of a great man foretold by the appearance of a comet was called aeromancy. Within Christianity, an instance of this could be thought of as the phenomenon of the star glowing over Bethlehem when Christ was born.

Interpreting man-made phenomena

The second main form of divination involves an action deliberately undertaken which is then subject to interpretation, whether it be dropping precious stones in water, throwing straws on a red hot iron or reading random passages opened in sacred books.

Today, on the Advanced Courses, man has for the first time the means to come to an understanding of his true spiritual nature and to take control of his destiny.

The tossing, throwing or scattering of various materials and interpreting their patterns has had endless use in prophesying the future.

Belomancy was a divinatory method dating as far back as Chaldea but also practiced by the Greeks and Arabians. One shot a certain number of arrows into the air and the incline as the arrows fell indicated the course which was to be taken. Divination by arrows is related to rhabdomancy, or divining by the use of rods, wands or staffs. One set the wands on end, whispered verse or incantation and let the wands fall. The way each landed, forward or back, left or right, indicated a sign or portent which had significance for the person requesting guidance.

The observation of candle flames, ampadomancy, and smoke, capnomancy, has been a universal form of divination. A bright, golden, smokeless flame, burning strongly, indicates positive results to the questions posed, while a weak or smoky flame presages ill fortune.

Eastern influence

Two major forms of divination originating in the Far East have been practiced for thousands of years, even to the present day.

The I-Ching, also known as the Book of Changes, was traditionally used for fortunetelling and is a form of divination known as cleromancy or the casting of lots or sticks. An oracle tossed sticks and then read the pattern formed by them.

Another ancient Chinese practice is feng shui, (wind and water) or geomancy, which involves the erecting of buildings, tombs, temples by analyzing the currents of invisible energy believed to be coursing through the Earth at all times. The placement of the objects predicts the fortune, or lack of it, that will be experienced.

Interestingly, feng shui also places particular attention on mirrors, water and glass, which reflect electromagnetic waves, such as light. They are placed with care as they can intensify the flow of the Chi or Earth energy which is not beneficial to mankind.

Fantastic extremes

Among the dozens of obscure forms of divination are geloscopy, divination by a person's way of laughing; gyromancy, divination by whirling around until dizzy and falling on a preset circle of letters; myomancy, divination by observing the movements of mice; and the peculiar cleidomancy, divination by interpreting the movements of a key suspended by a thread from the nail of the third finger on a young virgin's hand while one of the Psalms was recited.

The extremes by which man has striven through the ages to know his fate are reflected in the volume of obscure but truly diverse forms of divination he has engaged in. Many seem humorous now but were at one time treated with serious, almost reverential regard born of a desperate need to become cause over the seemingly random events and elemental vagaries he found himself the effect of. None have been reliable, none have resulted in man attaining a more certain control of his destiny.

Today, on the Advanced Courses, man has for the first time the means to come to an understanding of his true spiritual nature and to take control of his destiny, knowing that the prediction of his future lies in his own ability to create that future and a world where his dreams truly do come true. And today, with Golden Age of Tech for OTs Solo Auditor training breakthroughs, every Clear's route to those dreams is straight and certain.

Come to AOLA and take your first step on that route.

What is OT all about? What is the essence of life energy and what does it take to really be OT? What power and ability await you on the OT levels?

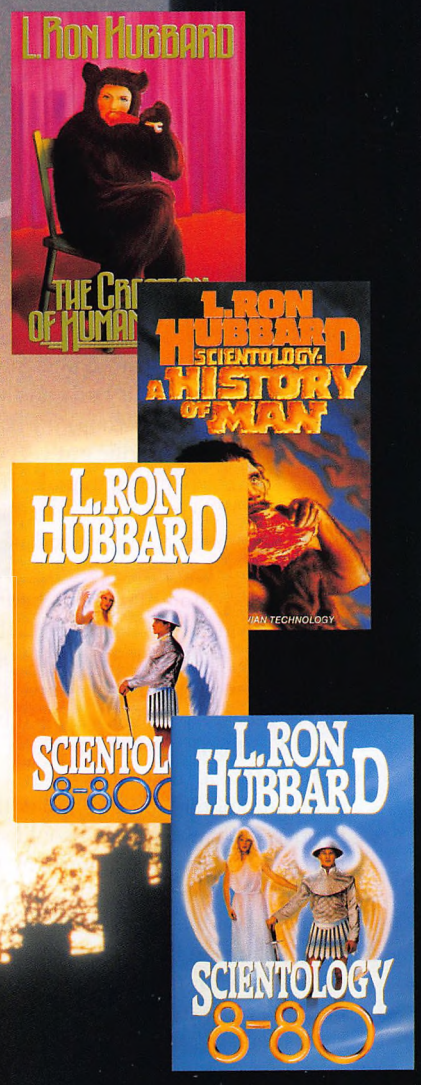

These books answer these questions and mark your swift, certain route to OT.

Scientology 8-8008
Originally presented to the attendees of the famous Philadelphia Doctorate Course, Scientology 8-8008 shows you how to free the spirit from the effects of the physical universe—and regain the true abilities of OT.

Scientology 8-80
The discovery and increase of life energy is a goal as old as man himself. Learn the truth of man's nature as a spiritual being that creates and uses the energies of aesthetics, thought, emotion and effort to operate in the physical universe.

Scientology: A History of Man
This book is, as LRH stated in the introduction, "a cold-blooded and factual account of your last sixty trillion years." Read it and discover the truth for yourself—including a description of the principal incidents on the whole track.

The Creation of Human Ability
Charting the route to the ultimate human ability, LRH presents more than 80 powerful processes that rehabilitate one's ability to operate as a spiritual being—fully exterior to the body.

GOALS & GAMES

of Theta Clears

BY L. RON HUBBARD

To give you a goal, we're going to make a Theta Clear[1]: A person who is going to be stable outside of his body and who does not have to come back in because the body is injured. That is a highly specific but very broad goal. That's what you're trying to make. There is no "why" you are making a Theta Clear. You know that in the process of doing this, an awful lot of a guy's upsets and viewpoints and educational malfunctions and all kinds of things will spring. As a matter of fact, you can sometimes take somebody and move him out two feet back of his head, drill him a little bit, orient him in space—you don't even stabilize him outside of the body, he comes back in like mad. You wouldn't hardly know the guy from the beginning to the end of the session. He's so much better; he's so much more alert, and so forth. That's just the Theta Exterior.

You make a good Theta Clear, you could kick him in the shins—or an automobile could run over that body or anything could happen to that body—he would stand there and be outside, not trapped. What you're doing is making a thetan trap-proof, as far as a body is concerned.

The individual exists and is without a body and no dependence on one, beyond his contact and communication lines, as long as he wants to stay in contact with bodies. But the body doesn't command him, he commands it. That's a terrific goal, right there.

You've got a human being made into a new kind of human being. It's a body being monitored by a trap-proof thetan, and that makes quite a guy. There's a big difference between that guy and Homo sapiens—an enormous guy. This goal is so far beyond the goals of the first book that I don't think you could measure them with lightwave meters[2]—light-year meters.[3] It's just way beyond anything because the bird's immortal.

Maybe you haven't taken even that into consideration—that you've just made a god. What is the definition of a god? It's an immortal. Since time immemorial in this language, the gods are immortals. The immortals are gods. This body can be bashed in, so forth; all he's got to do is pick up another one knowingly—full knowingly.

You've given him his identity, his own identification inside himself as much as he needs it, and his own state of beingness, and stepped him sideways off the track completely of having to flick back through between-lives areas and be this effect of God-knows-what-all. The body got killed: it'd be a sad thing because he would not be able to collect his social security as himself. That'd be real tough, wouldn't it?

So, don't sell this goal short—you've just made an immortal. That's a good enough goal, all by itself.

Now, if you're going to have a game, you've got to have rules. And if you've got rules, they must be obeyed. A rule which is not obeyed or is obeyed just some of the time or is so bad that it can't be obeyed all of the time, shouldn't be there at all. And a game which has no rules has no game. It's chaos: no alignment, nobody to agree on anything. After you'd won something, you'd never have won it. There couldn't be a goal in it. There has to be some sort of an agreement.

It's only when the agreements become compulsions on individuals that the game gets very upsetting. And a piece, then, degenerates into a broken piece, and nothing is making any sense to him. He knows it's no fun. He isn't a participant, really, he's just kind of used. And nobody really wants him or needs him. One of the things your broken piece asks continually—he asks to be needed. He wants to be wanted. He gets way down scale and he hits that bad. That's subzero on the Tone Scale. Imagine having to be needed.

And so your obedience to the rules, of course, makes the rule possible. But if they were bad rules, they couldn't be obeyed.

What's a good rule? It is a rule which aligns action and permits compliance. That's all.

You can't have a rule that doesn't permit compliance, although we've got a lot of them on the statute books. There are a heck of a lot of rules you can't comply with, by the way. "There's a rule in South Carolina says you have to beat your wife with a stick one inch in diameter." Just try and find a stick that's exactly one inch in diameter! Furthermore, you've got to have a wife to obey that rule.

Furthermore, a rule that doesn't apply to all hands isn't much of a rule—then you've got a specialized caste system going which is too complex.

THE RULES OF THE GAME

Now, "Unconsciousness of rules to add reality"—and after you'd gotten the rules, if they're real good rules, you can duck them.

You say, "Well, everybody obeys these automatically. Oh, you're here in this area? Why, of course, in this area we do so-and-so and so-and-so. Naturally. Nobody'd think of doing anything else."

"Well," the fellow says, "you mean, you got a law about this thing or so?"

"Yes," they say, "natural law, yeah. God gave it to us."

They just left the conference yesterday where they formulated it. "God gave it to us." That's it.

You've got to have ARC with others to play, and reverse ARC with others to play. There's got to be another team and you have to have teammates. But you could go up to a level where your need for ARC didn't exist at all. But you're making a game now.

"Pain as penalty which will be obeyed": You've got to have the rules obeyed. How do you enforce the rules? You put an automatic enforcement around that everybody desires to use. The second everybody desires to use the enforcement, they will obey it too. They obey it to set an example. Pain is the enforcer in this universe, but don't think that's the only one. It could be: "You disobey the rules, you are immediately surrounded by smoke, and the smoke continues until you're able to obey the rule." Just like that, you'd have no pain to bother with, but it'd certainly be annoying.

"Agreement to rules and penalties is necessary to continue a game": A fellow has to agree to a game before he can participate in it. And the reason why things have gone bad here on Earth and in the MEST universe at large, is simply that people didn't agree to this game. They thought they did. This game started out in a very strange way and of course went off of its rocker sooner or later.

It started out in an effort to never be unmade. Its goal was "eternity"; its dream was "forever"—can't have anything. Guy that made it up didn't know anything about the necessity to have rules to have a game.

"Deterioration of game until no game" is inevitability in any game. All games come to an end. This game tried to set up for an eternity. They keep "yap, yap, yap, yap, yap, eternity, eternity, eternity." There isn't any such thing as time—how can there be an eternity? This is very weird. Eternal, eternal. Boy, every time you turn around in this universe you see "eternity," "forever," "infinity of time"—they don't exist.

When a guy is unable to play, it's because he has never agreed to play the game and somebody's lied to him and said it isn't a game.

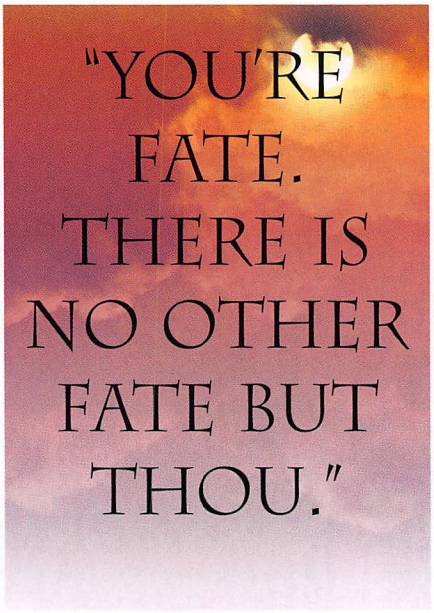

And how do you do that? You convince a guy he has to work by creating a scarcity and then making his continued existence completely dependent upon it. And that's work.

"A game of complexity and levels": Of course you've got to have complexity in a game, otherwise it becomes monotonous. Okay. We'll run that on down the line.

"Necessity to have a new game coded before one ends the old game, otherwise everyone else becomes a maker of games with no game": Every guy's trying to make his own game, and you just get a general wild scramble. Well, you start ending a game—you kill something without putting something in its place—and the darn thing won't die, not worth a nickel. It just won't die. What exists has a persistency in its existence. If you've ever tried to knock a group off, you would recognize how unwilling that group is to die.

I swear to Pete, you could take every member of a military company and stand them up against the wall and shoot them down and you'd still have a military company. Proof: the massacre of the Seventh Cavalry. We've still got a Seventh Cavalry. How could you have a Seventh Cavalry? The Seventh Cavalry was massacred by the Sioux Indians at the Little Bighorn in 1876. We've still got one—persistence of existence.

Well, you have to get a more interesting game before you end an old game. Now you want to know why your preclear stays around his body and hangs around and doesn't do anything and doesn't go anyplace? Two things happen: he hasn't found, one, that his mock-ups are more interesting than reality (laughingly called); and the other thing he hasn't found is communication in the state which he is in with others. So he feels there couldn't be any ARC and he's liable to cut himself off completely. These things, then, have to be rehabilitated.

He'll go on and he'll hold himself kind of static because he doesn't see any upper goal or he doesn't see himself going anyplace. Therefore, it really is of considerable interest that he sees that he can go someplace. Well, if he's just going to the state of Theta Clear that's fine. Let him go to the state of Theta Clear. That's pretty good. He can still operate as a mortal and be immortal. And boy, that's sure having your cake and eating it too.

If you want this to be a group, you want to cohese, you kind of have to get together and put your heads together and get some kind of an agreement on what you're doing. And then—and only then—can the group be cause. If you just idly spin this way and that and not think about it any further than that, the group will not become cause over any large area but is apt to become an effect of a lot of things. So even though it's a poor goal, it's better than none.

And you can put that down as a beautiful maxim. It sounds like one of these horrible truisms, but boy, it'll fish you out of more holes than you could possibly imagine you could get yourself into: A poor goal is better than none. And you'll find yourself very often squirreling around and spinning around and you won't know which way you're going or which end is up because you've decided all the goals you could put your eyes on were too vague or too poor or too unwanted to try to attain. And that itself is a bad aberration and it shows a misdirection on your own part and a misestimation on your own part and a lack of understanding on your own part of what you're doing.

There is no goal vast enough to absorb your total capabilities. Because your total capabilities are so vast that they make goals. You are, yourself, cause. So how on earth can you set it up so cause can have anything else but cause? Unless you come down scale a little bit.

A goal—any kind of a goal—is better than none. You say, "What am I going to do?" Oh, worry about it. You'll squirrel on it and squirrel on it. "What am I going to do? Oh, how am I going to handle myself? What are going to be my goals?" and so forth.

Set one up—any damn thing. Say, "I'm going to become..." or "I'm going to be..." or "I'm going to have..." Goals set up in the capacities of be, do and have. The start of a goal is beingness and the end of a goal is havingness in this universe. But you don't have to set them up like that.

Now, you'll find out there are a certain number of people that go for broke. And there's a lot of them that say, "Oh, boy. Gee, these beautiful, beautiful slave chains! Gee, they're—oh, how nice. Nice—nice big chains around my neck and my ankles" and so forth.

The hardest thing for any liberator to face is the fact that a large percentage of the people he was trying to free wanted desperately to be slaves. And it's broken the heart of every liberator to date. To date. Hardly any exception. A man would have to be awfully stupid not to see that. But he would be pretty dull if he didn't see this too. Sure, sure—but the guys he did liberate were worth liberating.

Why try to get these allnesses? That's typical MEST universe: "We have to do it 100 percent."

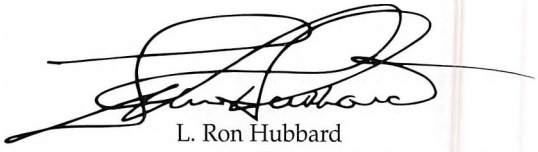

I used to fall into those traps too. "We have to do it all; we have to do it 100 percent."

You're fate. There is no other fate but thou. That's true. And so you say, "I'm going to free all and every..." No, you're not. Unless you were willing to become all and every, and then be yourself free. That's the way to do it.

There might be spheres and areas on theta that you could then move across into that would be different than game areas. If there are, I do not know about them. And I know many areas in which theta is operating. And whether they know it or not, they're operating on the laws of games. One way or the other they're operating within these laws which I've read to you. And they don't know these exist, which is the beautiful joke on the whole works. There are universes which know every law you've got in the MEST universe, and don't know the rules of games.

So you could set yourself up to be an interuniversal umpire team. You could—and get away with it.

Well, what do you want to do? If you have these rules of games, you can tell yourself that there are all kinds of things to do. But the first thing you've got to do is become a good, solid Theta Clear.

L. Ron Hubbard
From a Philadelphia Doctorate Course lecture of 12 December 1952

1. Theta Clear: one who operates exterior to a body without need of a body; a person who is at cause over his own reactive bank and can create and uncreate it at will.
2. Lightwave meters: a made-up name for a meter. Lightwave means "of or designating a communications system, equipment, etc., using fiber optics (the branch of optics dealing with the transmission of light and images, as around bends and curves, through transparent fibers)."
3. Light-year meters: a made-up name for a meter that would measure in light-years. A light-year is the distance traveled by light in one year (over five trillion miles).

"There is the primary principle of self-determinism," LRH wrote at the dawn of his discoveries of man's spiritual potential and the state of Operating Thetan. "The individual must be able to determine his own destiny, in his environment, to its utmost."

Nowhere is this coming more true today than in our Solo and Advanced Course rooms. For here one embarks upon a journey to cause over all life—across all one's dynamics—a journey one could only hope for through the millennia. At AOLA, that route to OT is clear and direct because it is the LRH route—purely and simply stated, the Grade Chart. And progress on it is both swift and certain, thanks to Golden Age of Tech for OTs breakthroughs that have brought Solo auditing skills to unprecedented levels.

How unprecedented?

To answer that we'll trace the steps of LRH's discoveries into Solo and Advanced Levels auditing technology:

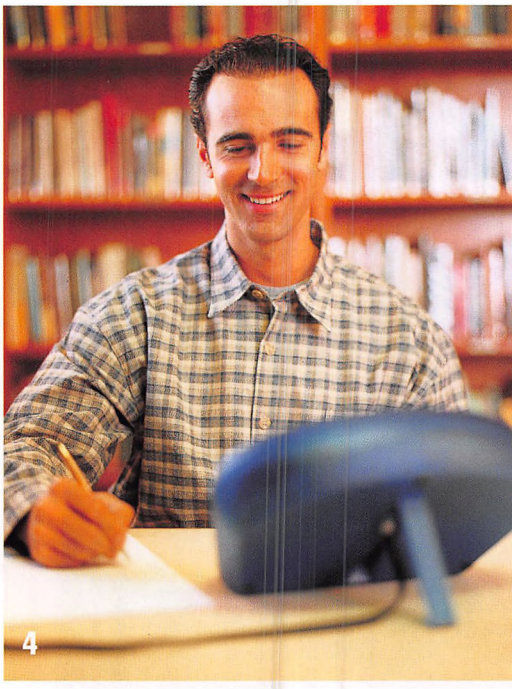

EVOLUTION TO A GOLDEN AGE OF TECH FOR OT

Prior to Ron's discoveries into the basic nature of Operating Thetan, there had never before been a hope, let alone a technology, for bringing about the rehabilitation of native state for a being. Solo technology was the means to achieve this.

In our Advanced Course rooms, our Golden Age of Tech Supervisors keep you on that certain route to OT, from the moment you receive your invitation to start the OT levels (1) and begin New OT I Theory (2), to the day you open your OT III Theory pack (3) and then audit yourself through the Wall of Fire (4).

In developing Solo technology at Saint Hill in 1964, Ron proved that the auditing comm cycle could in fact be carried out on a thought or intention level rather than by words. And, not only that, the processes were rapidly producing the expected results. To open the route to Clear and OT for everyone, Ron isolated the exact skills necessary in Solo auditing and by October 1965 it was all codified in a course he originally called the "Saint Hill Solo Audit Course." So powerful was it that it would eventually take one not only to Clear but through the zone of risk that has trapped beings in a MEST universe quagmire for millions of years.

Once the Solo Grades were codified and the first wave of Solo auditors were reaching never-before-achieved states of release and Clear, Ron discovered OT auditing technology—again developed for and administered by the Solo auditor. These Advanced Levels, in Ron's words, "rehabilitate the thetan to his OT abilities and last forever and give immortality... They are infinitely valuable and transcend time itself."

And by the thousands, Solo auditors have, every day since, been applying this powerful technology to results beyond one's wildest dreams.

But Ron, in his technical researches and writings had advised the development of standard auditor training drills that would ultimately result in the Golden Age of Tech breakthroughs of 1996—breakthroughs that refined and polished Solo auditing skill and made the achievement of OT abilities as unshakably certain as the Golden Age of Tech Solo auditors that were being produced on the New Hubbard Solo Auditor Courses, Part One and Two.

FORERUNNERS TO YOUR CERTAIN ROUTE TO OT

Best illustrating the gains you will make when you reach our Solo and Advanced Course rooms, are those attained today by our Golden Age of Tech Solo auditors. Advance! has traced their steps to bring you a flavor of what they are experiencing as they move through the zone of risk and out the other side of the Wall of Fire at OT III.

• NEW SECTION I OT: Here one enters the dynamics beyond the first. This is where one begins to confront life as an OT. To stably achieve cause over life, one must be familiar with certain mechanisms that are discovered and addressed on this first OT level. A being interrelates with all the dynamics and in New OT I auditing, you zero right in on relationships with others and the third, fourth and sixth dynamics. The tech on this level addresses basic thetan efforts to propel one towards survival. Restored is your ability to be cause over efforts to suppress that survival. The ability gained? A fresh causative OT viewpoint of the MEST universe and other beings.

And the successes?

"My dynamics are all moving in alignment and I have never felt this at cause in a long, long time! I have certainty as a Solo auditor and it feels like nothing is in the space between me and what I put my attention on. Everything is so clear and your affinity is extremely out the top."–J.M.

"All auditing is unbelievable, but to be able to audit yourself and produce excellent results actually makes you stronger—and produces the most unbelievable wins. I looked forward every day to going into session and never had a doubt that I would produce those excellent results, plus the wins and the charge that you not only feel blow but SEE blow make it unbelievably fun to do!"– B.K.

"Before starting this level, I thought I had the ability to confront the whole track—well... maybe. But now, WOW! I can see that I had a lot to learn. The stable spiritual gains I have today have been sought after by men on Earth for tens of thousands of years. I have a crystal clear, objective vision of who I am, who you are and the game we are playing here in this universe. The physical universe has little effect on me these days. It tends to bend to my will and simply give up when I challenge it."– C.S.

• SECTION II OT: There are explicit technical reasons why Ron termed the levels between Clear and OT III the No-Interference Area. On Section II of the OT Course, you learn the magnitude of what it would take to strip an OT of his powers and knock out his ability to confront what has happened on his whole track. Solo auditing the materials of this level, one begins to understand the crushing burden carried by everyone on this planet. On OT II the tech exists to handle it. The ability gained: Ability to confront the Whole Track.

Among the countless wins from Solo auditors on OT II are these:

"I've had many wins on this level and the main one is to have had a taste of what it means to be OT: how one feels and what one can cause. I've been able to cause something that I hadn't been able to in the past in spite of all the effort that I had put into it. And on OT II, it was totally effortless. I've heard songs playing and birds singing and music in the air—even though these things were not around me. I've seen the beauty of this world and how I'm part of all the dynamics and that it's going to be better and better and we're all going to make it."–K.N.

"This was an incredible level! It became very real that LRH has set the correct gradient needed for each of us to move through the OT levels. My ability to confront areas that, in the past, I would have avoided has greatly increased as has my affinity for my fellow man. I now know that I genuinely care about others—and of course with that knowledge, I want others moving up The Bridge."–D.J.

• SECTION III OT: While much can be said of this monumental level, its subject matter is best described by LRH himself:

"In the lower grades, one is mainly concerned with himself, and his own case or his immediate family. But as one moves up the line one becomes more concerned with the environment and the world in which he lives. And with this concern comes the realization that all has not been well.

"And it is very true that a great catastrophe occurred on this planet and in the other 75 planets which form this Confederacy, 75 million years ago. It has since that time been a desert and it has been the lot of just a handful, to try to push its technology up to a level where someone might adventure forward, penetrate the catastrophe and undo it.... No one has been able to do it for 75 million years. We are the first. In that period of time there has been nothing but suffering and misery for its populations."—LRH, Ron's Journal 67

Our Golden Age of Tech-trained Solo auditors effectively penetrate and as-is this once-insurmountable barrier to peace and tolerance for mankind. And therein lies your ability gained on OT III: Return of self-determinism, freedom from overwhelm.

From those moving on and through this level come these wins:

"Just in the first few pages of reading OT III materials my entire idea of Scientology changed and expanded to an order of magnitude of a million to the millionth power. The theory and drills are set up to push you through with no concerns about how to apply your tech. AOLA's supervision is spot on, tough and understanding."–S.S.

"I've had so many wins on this incredible level, finally culminating in freedom from overwhelm and return of my self-determinism. From the moment I went into the OT III course room and started reading the materials, I knew I was beginning an adventure and would never be the same. As I audited the level, day by day, more and more of 'me' was free—till finally I really felt in control of my life. I handle things much more quickly now, without Q&A and all the effort. I also had great gains as an auditor. My confidence has improved A LOT. As a being, I know how valuable I am. I feel well on the way to full OT!"–M.F.

As you take in these wins of your fellow Scientologists, and those on the pages to follow, realize that every executive and staff member at AOLA, your Advanced Organization for the Americas, is dedicated to bringing you all the way to such milestones yourself.

And with LRH's powerful technology, we'll have you reaching those milestones with utter certainty.

LEARN THE WHOLE STORY OF THE

GOLDEN AGE OF TECH FOR OTS

in this video presentation by the Chairman of the Board RTC

Your progress to OT depends on just one thing: your auditing skill.

The breakthroughs that encompass the Golden Age of Tech for OTs guarantee you will attain the skill to take yourself to full OT. And rapidly.

Those who have recently completed OT levels will tell you that with their Golden Age of Tech for OT training, it was a sure, smooth flight all the way. And the gains are beyond anything you could even imagine.

You want to go OT. You deserve it. You can do it.

Come in now and see this video presentation of the launch of the Golden Age of Tech for OTs.

COME TO AOLA AND SEE THIS VIDEO TODAY

MAKING IT TO OT—WITH CERTAINTY

Kathy Clark is a Golden Age of Tech Solo auditor and an OT V completion. She is currently on the OT Doctorate Course.

When I came to AOLA in January of 1999, I was a very stalled Clear and I wasn't doing well as a thetan. I had a lot of stuff going on in my universe, I was spending a lot of time in Review and it was time to do something about it, so I routed onto Solo One.

When I finished Solo One, I knew I was going to make it to OT. No question in my universe whatsoever. I was on my way. It was easy and I was actually pretty cocky about it!

When I took myself in for that first session, I was a little nervous, but it blew quickly and every session since has been a breeze. I mean, every session from the first C/S on Solo Two through the last session on OT III.

There are theory checksheets you do for OT I, II and III that have Golden Age of Tech Drills. They answer every single question and drill every single procedure. And the Sups are right there with you, answering questions and ensuring you are totally confident when you go in session. It's really so easy and simple. I never thought it would be so smooth.

Now I operate in the physical universe and enjoy it. I have no attention on myself at all, thetan-wise or body-wise. My husband is also now moving well toward OT. We were both stalled Clears for a long time. He's on Solo and has told me many times that he's gotten gains just from me going OT. We used to pick on each other a lot—not anymore. We have a great 2D.

People have been telling me for years that I needed to go OT. I finally realized there's only one way to get there; you have to sit down and do it.

"WHEN YOU COME TO AOLA, IT'S IMPOSSIBLE NOT TO GO OT. THE INTENTION IS SO STRONG."

As Golden Age of Tech Solo auditors, Tom and Judy Magee moved through the Wall of Fire and up to New OT V, and they're now on the OT Doctorate Course together.

Tom: I had completed Solo One before the Golden Age of Tech, so when the new course came out, I went right on to Solo Certainty. When I finished Solo Certainty, I knew I had what it takes. The gradient all along the way was perfect: from each step on the Solo One checksheet to Solo Two, then each step of the Solo Two checksheet to OT I and all the way through OT III. There was never any consideration on my part that I couldn't do that very next step. So of course auditing myself in session was a breeze. Even how and what you audit on each individual OT level is set up so perfectly that the only way to fail is not to do it.

Judy: After attesting to Clear, the only training I'd done was Student Hat, Pro TRs and Upper Indoc TRs. My Reg told me "you need to go to AOLA and go OT." I said, "okay" and went right over to AOLA.

I literally went from zero knowledge and certainty to 100% confidence and certainty. As I moved through the Solo Course, I had a very similar experience to Tom in terms of the gradient. I'd do a step and think, Yeah! I can do this. And the next one, etc. By the time I finished Solo One, I was so excited to start on Solo Two. The first time you see your own needle float, wow! You see that you as the auditor are creating the most positive effect on yourself as the pre-OT. It's pretty incredible.

Tom: My wins have been beyond what I ever imagined. One big thing for me is that it's so much easier to deal with people. It has allowed me to grant so much more beingness, to be a much more caring and in comm person and operate much higher on the Tone Scale all the time.

Being cause is a broad statement, and maybe it would be better understood if I said I'm not effect. I don't have ridges in my space. People ridge all the time and it only persists if you also ridge. If you don't, it has nothing to hit up against.

Judy: I found the effects I began to create shift—from being a source of know-best or enturbulation at times, to how I could help or take more responsibility for the group and those around me. In fact, so much so, that I've become a mission holder and will be going down to Jamaica this December to begin necessary surveys for the mission.

I am exterior most of the time now and can easily operate the body outside of it. My perceptions are very heightened.

Tom: When you come to AOLA, it's impossible not to go OT. The intention is so strong. Even if someone felt they couldn't do it, they would just need to arrive and it will be taken care of. You just get caught up in the flow. The service has been excellent and it's like home to me. It's a very theta environment.

Think of the happiest day you've ever experienced. Being OT is like having this one day every day. Who wouldn't want that?

Curt Sturgill is an architect living in the LA area. He came to AOLA two years ago and did the Solo Course on the alternate route to Clear. He is now on New OT IV.

I did Solo One originally back in 1994 but didn't move onto my OT levels at the time. In 1998, I was on another pc program when arbitraries got cancelled. I got my program changed and routed immediately onto Solo Certainty.

The Solo Certainty Course removed every unknown and handled every uncertainty in my universe. The Golden Age of Tech Drills, from the Patter Drills to the Final Session Drills, drilled in my ability to not only handle my own case, but another's.

Solo One made it so easy to go in on the first Solo Two session. Then each Solo Two C/S to the next one was a perfect gradient. It made it so enjoyable to realize I could do every one of the actions I was C/Sed to do.

There were times where things would come up in session and I would know exactly what to do—no Q&A. There was no way I could help but audit myself totally standardly to OT.

I've had so many life-changing wins. These were areas of my life I didn't even know needed handling! I used to have the phenomenon turn on where if I'd see people get upset at one another it would really bother me. I didn't like to be in that space at all. I got to see why and handled it on the OT levels.

I would be very uneasy in large groups, especially when they were in motion. This blew on my OT levels.

My ability to communicate went to a whole new level. If I wanted to be in comm with someone, either they'd contact me just after I had the thought or I'd call them and they'd say, "I was just thinking about you!" This is routine activity.

My postulates come into the physical universe so much easier with much less effort. I own my own business and it's doubled over the last few months. My projects are bigger, more exciting and much more viable. My stats are on an uptrend for months now.

I'm really there on the 2D. If there's a disagreement, instead of getting keyed in, I can just get in comm and sort it out. My 3rd and 4th dynamic participation has increased dramatically on all avenues.

My analogy of what it's like before and after the OT levels is this: it's like going from a field mouse to a lion. In the past, life would come crashing down around me. This hasn't happened at all since I've been going OT, but I know if it ever tried, I'd handle it before it ever came to that.

It's so crucial to do your next step on The Bridge. Too many people I know sit at Clear way too long. The best adventure you will ever have lies ahead. And it's so easy.

Now I'm on New OT IV and it's the most fun I've ever had in Scientology. My space is so large, I'm exterior most of the time and just having a blast. I can't wait for my next session!

GAIN TOTAL CERTAINTY THAT YOU CAN SOLO AUDIT

You want to reach Operating Thetan. But let's get real: If you've never flown an airplane, you wouldn't think of trying to fly until you knew how.
Similarly, when you're flying Solo on your OT levels, it's vital to know your business. And a Solo auditor who is thoroughly trained on the Golden Age of Tech Solo Auditor Course literally can soar up the Advanced Courses to OT! In fact, this course IS the foundation from which you achieve case gains on the Advanced Courses — gains that restore your full cause across the dynamics forever.

OT PHENOMENA

WILD EXPERIENCES FROM THE OTHER SIDE OF THE OT LEVELS

My father, who I was very close to, had dropped his body and I was home for the service. He'd told me shortly before he died that he had a very specific financial matter that he wanted me, not my mother, to handle for him. We didn't really discuss the details beyond that, other than him mentioning that the paperwork was in his briefcase.

A couple of days after the service, I was at home with my mother and suddenly realized we'd not worked out how to handle this cycle. But I did remember the data about the paperwork being in his briefcase. I then realized he was the one who had given me the comm on handling the cycle, so I gave him one: "Where is the briefcase?" I instantly got the comm that it was in a big walk-in closet, in the back behind some clothes. I went there, and there it was.

I picked it up, took it to his office and went to open it. It was locked. Okay, "Dad, what's the combination?" He responded. I used the code he gave me and it opened right up! – S.C.

I'm auditing on the OT levels right now and had a big win in the area of aesthetics.

I have always wanted to draw and paint and last year I took another go at it. My work was okay, but not what I hoped.

A few weeks ago I got the urge again. I went and bought some still life objects and set them up. I got out my pad and pencil and then went to work. As I began, I started to get this sensation in my left hand (I was drawing with my right hand). I ignored it and kept drawing. As I continued, again, I wasn't pleased with the product I was getting. It wasn't a very good duplication of the objects in front of me. I didn't like it. Then I got the idea that I should try it with my left hand. I'm not sure why, maybe it was because of the sensation I felt in my left hand as I continued to draw with my right.

Keep in mind that there are a few things—very few—I do with my left hand, so this was a perception that I decided to act on even though the physical universe said no. I put the pencil in my left hand and went to work.

In a few minutes I had a drawing that was amazing! It looked so real and was better than the image I'd set out to create. This is definitely a win from my OT levels. – B.M.W.

I work at a specialized employment agency and one day I had what seemed like a million things to get done. I woke up early, a little anxious anticipating this. Then it clicked….I just decided that all these things would get done. How? Not important, but they would. Impossible, sure, but I'm OT and impossible happens as a way of life. Here was my "usual" OT day:

1) I needed to provide the names of 20 potential applicants to a client by lunch. I started with zero. At 11:45, I had 15. The client called and said, "I hope you didn't go to the trouble to find 20—I only really need 15…." That was done.

2) I had to arrange for a meeting for two other applicants with a client. Coordinating their schedules was something that could have taken several days. Three phone calls; a total of three minutes of my time and it was done.

3) I was supposed to receive a message page between 1:00 and 2:00 PM to do a phone interview on another applicant. 4:00 PM; no call. I called his current employer and was told he'd stepped out, but would be back in an hour or so. About an hour later, I called a number on a "hunch" where I thought they may be and the person that answered the phone said, "That's amazing…he just walked in!" In 15 minutes, my interview was done.

4) I had a very good client who needed a highly qualified temp the likes of which comes across my lines about once a year. Before my OT levels, I would spend weeks trying to locate someone like this. This was one of my bigger problems of the day; I realized why it was a problem. The minute I blew this consideration, my assistant walked in with the perfect resume, and the person was available immediately.

Operating in the OT band has tripled my production…you can see why. – T.R.G.

A few days ago, my truck was stolen. The insurance company was going to give me an early settlement as, per them, this type of vehicle is rarely recovered.

I decided to do something about it. I received a review session and handled something directly regarding the loss of my truck. When I got home after the session, I went through all of my messages and the last one was from the Police Department. They called to inform me that my truck had been recovered! Not just that, but I went back and looked at the timing. I found out the time I was in session handling it was the exact time that the truck was located! – J.M.

I was on the phone with a friend who wanted advice. In order to help him, I needed information from someone else. I put my friend on hold and called this person's desk from my second line. No answer. I decided not to page him as he didn't usually answer quickly. Just then, my second line rang. It was him! He asked if I had paged him and I said no. He looked at his pager and realized the number on it was not mine but he had gotten my intention and called anyway. I was able to get the data needed and give it to my friend on the other line! – S.T.P.

One day, I was at work and one of the recovery room nurses said she couldn't find a patient's chart. I asked her where she had it last, and we started looking around. Then I thought, "This is silly! I'm an OT. Where is it?" I spotted it: under the patient's mattress on the portable bed. Someone had put it there.

I returned to the recovery room to tell her I knew where it was. Just then another nurse came up and I explained where the chart was. She went to the bed, got the chart and brought it to us. I don't know when it would have ever been found otherwise. What a way to find things! – J.C.

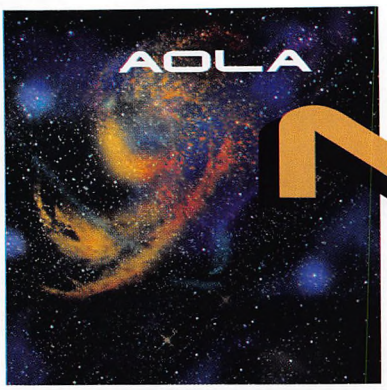

I had to get across town for an important job interview. My car was in the shop and a friend who would normally let me borrow his car had to work an extra shift that day and needed it. Public transportation was going to take too long, so I broke down and called a cab. Taxis in this town are not dependable, so I called early in the day and scheduled one in advance. I even scheduled it for 30 minutes earlier than I needed based on past experience.

Okay, so it's time. No taxi. I waited 15 minutes and called the company. There was a mix-up and someone is now on their way. "They'll be at my door in 10–15 minutes" (I'm still within my 30 minute window). Fifteen minutes go by, no taxi.

I just decided the problem would be solved. Somehow in the next five minutes I would have a solution (I had no idea how...). While postulating all this, I walked outside to get my mail. As I was going back into the house, I noticed that one of the envelopes was misrouted. It was sent to the right street number as my house, but the street was wrong; the correct street is one block over. It looked important, so despite my time situation, I decided to walk it over.

I went to the house and as I was putting the envelope in the mail box, the resident drove up into her driveway. I told her I was delivering an envelope that had been misdelivered. She seemed in a bit of a hurry. She thanked me and apologized for being so rushed, but she had to make it to the other side of town for an appointment and had come back to get something she forgot. "By chance," I asked her if her appointment was anywhere near the 300 block of Broadway. She said, "Yes. 350 South Broadway." It was the exact address I needed to go to. She said it was really "lucky" because if I'd come 30 seconds later, I'd have missed her. I looked at my watch and it had just been exactly five minutes. – G.J.

AOLA EVENTS HERALD CERTAIN ROUTE TO OT

Every week, AOLA holds graduation in our Atrium. And every week, more and more Scientologists attend. They come to hear the life-changing wins of those completing steps on the route to full OT.

Recently, graduation was packed with those completing steps on The Bridge from Clear to OT.

Jule Rotenberg, a New OT I completion, told of the high ARC she has gained for others and for handling life problems. She gave a specific example: in a financial situation where in the past she would be very upset, she was not. Her husband was becoming increasingly upset as they were working out how to handle the problem, then stopped and noticed that it just wasn't getting to her. Having ridded herself of case in the area, she wasn't part of the problem, but rather theta the solver.

"My husband asked me whether I was in a total non-confront or just really uptone," she said. "I laughed and told him I was just really uptone. The problem just did not seem that big to me."

Cynthia Dolce, an OT Preps completion, spoke of her wins from this auditing and from doing the Solo Course. She told her graduation audience how last year she'd gotten so physically ill that she quit working. She was a school teacher and just couldn't keep up with the demands of the job. She was home for 2 months "resting" and after all that time wasn't a bit better.

That's when she decided it was time to change something. She met with a friend of hers and they looked at her conditions across the dynamics. One of the dynamics that was furthest down the conditions was her first, specifically with respect to her Bridge progress. So she dragged her body into AOLA and got in comm.

Her folders were reviewed, and with all arbitraries off Bridge progress, she was given a precise program to move rapidly up to OT. She began coming in for session and started Solo One. She completed her CCRD, and realized there were two directions to go at this point: stay stalled another lifetime and have to go through this all over again, or make it to OT starting now. It was a turning point.

Soon she was able to put more and more time in on course and for sessions. Then one day she noticed that her body was the strongest it had been in many years. And she's well on her way to completing Solo One, whereupon it's full-time up The Bridge to OT.

Another completion, Karen Mosher, gave her wins from New OT IV. She recounted a

start on the certain road to OT
Join the "I Want to Go OT" Club
As LRH wrote, "If there isn't a flow there will be nothing. There won't be a no-flow. There will be nothing at all."
By joining the "I Want to Go OT" Club, you'll mobilize the entire AOLA team to help you reach your goal of full OT. We start by providing you a free Case Analysis, technical estimate and the exact technical program you need to move rapidly to OT. Plus:
• Your own OT Club Thetaccount with monthly statements to give you up-to-date information on where your account stands.
• Special Packages issued from time to time for members of the club only, designed to help you move swiftly up The Bridge to OT.
• OT Open Line—you'll have an open line to the Bridge Consultant at AOLA for case consultation or assistance.
To sign up, call AOLA at (323) 953-3300
Or fill out the application form in the insert and send it in.
There are two more clubs dedicated to moving Scientologists up The Bridge:
The "I Want to Go Clear" Club — for those not yet Clear • The "I Want to Go OT X" Club — for those who've begun New OT V or above.
For more information mark the Reader Service Card on the insert.

story of how she'd done Solo One some years ago, but had not moved onto her OT levels as she was not totally confident with her skills as an auditor.

She'd heard about the Golden Age of Tech, but had pretty much decided that going OT wasn't going to happen for her right now. AOLA staff decided differently, however, and continued to insist she arrive. She did—and got the surprise of her life.

She thrust herself right onto the fast track to OT at AOLA, starting with the Solo Certainty Course and before she knew it she was New OT IV. It took about a year, but, as she stated, she made it and will never, ever be the same.

These and many more wins like them are heard every week at our graduation. It's an uptone, exciting time and sends a very clear message to all who attend: Don't wait a second longer! Just come to AOLA and our staff will take care of the rest!

AOLA TOURS REACHING OUT TO MOVE ALL CLEARS TO OT

AOLA Tours staff travel to orgs from one end of the continent to the other, with one purpose in mind: moving all Clears up to OT. And this success story perfectly illustrates what happens when a Clear gets in contact with one of our Tour staff:

"I was out in the world running my own businesses, raising a family and knowing I had to do something about going OT. It was actually part of my medium-range plan and something I was intending on doing.

"The AOLA Tours Reg arrived at my local org. He called me one day and we met. I told him my plans and he really validated me for the targets I'd set and the way I had planned things out—but made it very clear that time was of the essence, I didn't have any to waste and starting on the route to OT was something I needed to make my top priority.

"It made sense, but I had things to handle before I could do that. He said I needed to come full-time and go OT, but it wasn't very real to me that I could remove myself from my business and family and do that. That was just my consideration, as I would later find out.

"Then, an opportunity presented itself that would have taken some financial resources and time that didn't fit in with making my Bridge progress my number one priority. I was really considering doing it. I was also in comm with my Tours Reg regularly, he got wind of it and immediately put my ethics in on it.

"From that point on, it was very clear to me that his response and viewpoint was based on my survival. No matter how attractive this opportunity was, it only boiled down to a distraction on my route to OT. And to go into agreement with it was just not the greatest good and therefore out-ethics. It was at that point that I made a complete shift in viewpoint.

"I have since donated for my Bridge at AOLA through New OT V, and am here full time going OT.

"I really appreciate the care and high ARC handling I received from him. I wouldn't be here now if it wasn't for this cycle." – M.C.

AOLA Tours are held across the Americas. Attend the AOLA Tour when it comes to your area. Not only will you learn just what it takes to make it to OT, but how easy it is to do with the assistance of an AOLA Tours Reg. We're here to see that YOU go OT—and your considerations don't stand a chance.

PUT SCIENTOLOGY HERE SECURELY FOR ETERNITY

What does it take to salvage this planet, for real?

It takes work in practically every activity of existence, and a dedication to the fact that anything can be done.

It takes an attitude that there is no field of endeavor one can't know and, no excusing "incompetence" or "lack of experience."

It takes Sea Org members, not just able to change the conditions of this planet, but actually doing it.

Sea Org members at AOLA deliver the OT levels. Our job of clearing the planet and bringing man to the state of OT is a big one. And while we are doing it—we can use all the help we can get. It's a tough challenge. The schedules are long, the discipline high. But for those with the commitment and dedication to achieve the Aims of Scientology, there truly is no other choice.

And down the track, when this universe is back in native state and impervious to the faults and traps of yesteryear, Sea Org members will be able to take pride in a job well done.

TECH FILM NEWS

LRH FILMS CREATE TOTAL CERTAINTY ON THE SKILLS TO TAKE YOU TO OT

AOLA's Solo auditors continually write up their wins on how much the LRH Technical Training Films and Advanced Courses Films help hone their skills to perfection. And often, it's when they actually get in session that they see the magnitude of difference these films make. Their experiences are well worth sharing:

"The Tech Films do something to you as an auditor like nothing else. They made everything so good and so easy. Instant reads, sizes of reads, the F/N, the parts of the comm cycle—all these things are indelible. These films provide certainty—the visual element takes so much of the anxiety out of auditing.

"When I was first on the metering part of my Solo Course—on E-Meter Drill 25 [Track Dating]—I was a buffoon. But by my fifth and final time through, I could do this drill so well, I was nearly scaring the Supervisor. This level of skill is due in no small part to EM 9 and 9A [E-Meter Reads and E-Meter Reads Drill Film] specifically.

"Then on E-Meter Drill 26 [Differentiation Between Sizes of Reads], I was so totally spot-on on my read size recognition, I passed on my first assessment.

"Seeing these films over and over again allowed me to duplicate like I've never duplicated anything before. When I'm in session I know I see an F/N or if something was instant or just prior or just latent — it's amazing, really, how much the Tech Films have assisted in my skills as an auditor." – C.E.

"Getting the whole subject of Instant Reads drilled up one side and down the other with the E-Meter Drills and EM 9 and 9A was really enlightening, both as the auditor and the pre-OT.

"But it wasn't until I went in session that I saw the magic of this. I remember one of my first sessions, something read, but it wasn't instant. The auditor wasn't going to take it up, but the pre-OT was protesting a bit. But I knew, no question, it wasn't instant and wasn't going to take it up—period. I knew exactly what to do to keep that pre-OT in session, and I did—and it was one of my biggest wins technically!" – S.C.

"I can never see EM 9A enough. It helped me all through my OT levels to the point where I know it in my sleep! And The Solo Auditor film was invaluable in giving me a visual demonstration of the simplicity of setting up for a Solo session. It's one thing to read something and duplicate it, and quite another to see it right in front of you.

"The confidential OT levels films are amazing. There are things we on planet Earth see every day and think, 'What's that all about?' So many of these questions get answered on these films. Your attention sticks on things you sometimes didn't even know you had attention on. In order to know what's really going on in life, you have to see these films. And to do that, you have to go OT!" – K.C.

"The films you see are crucial. They are easier to duplicate than the written word and there's nothing like seeing them and comparing that ideal scene to what you're doing. EM 9 and 9A are vital to get a clear understanding of all the reads and more specifically instant reads and F/Ns.

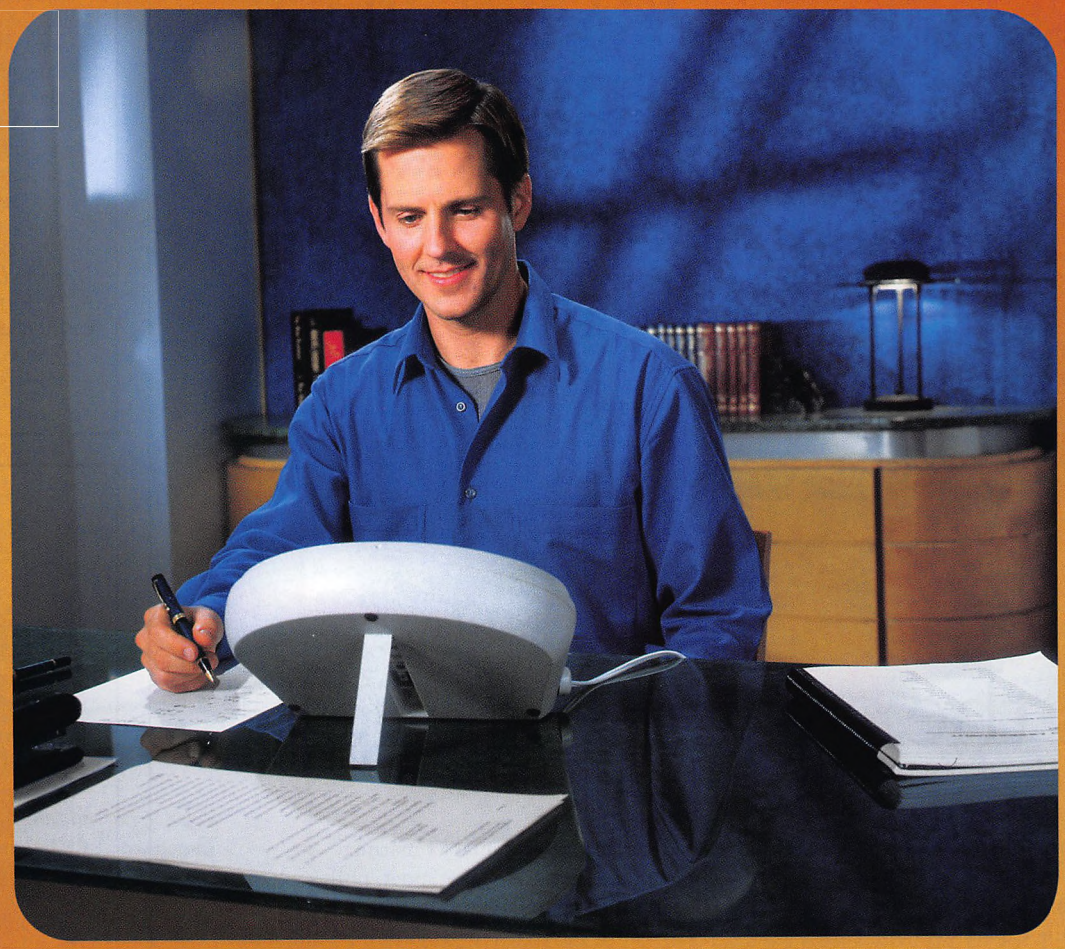

"The confidential films tell you how to audit the level. LRH explains why going OT is so crucial in a way that you won't hear or see anywhere else. He's there guiding you through the adventure you are about to take. I really felt like LRH was right there next to me many times when I was auditing on my OT levels." – C.S.

Come in and start your Solo Auditor Course Part One or Solo Auditor Certainty Course, and see these films. You'll soon be soaring to OT yourself, with the skill to take you all the way.

DEFINITIONS

Advanced Courses: those courses above Grade VA, specifically dealing with materials of which one has to Solo audit in order to attain the stable gains of the grade.
Bridge, The: the route to Clear and OT, which we call The Bridge Classification, Gradation and Awareness Chart. It is a term originating in early Dianetics days to symbolize travel from unknowingness to revelation.
Clear: the name of a state achieved through auditing or an individual who has achieved this state. A Clear is an unaberrated person and is rational in that he forms the best possible solutions he can on the data he has and from his viewpoint.
Dianetics: man's most advanced school of the mind. The word comes from Greek dia, through, and nous, soul. Dianetics is defined as what the soul is doing to the body.
MEST: the physical universe. A word coined from the initial letters of Matter, Energy, Space and Time, which are the component parts (elements) of the physical universe.
Operating Thetan (OT): a thetan exterior who can have but doesn't have to have a body in order to control or operate thought, life, matter, energy, space and time.
Org: an organization that delivers Dianetics and Scientology training and processing.
OT Committee: a committee formed of the OTs in an organization's field, who work with the organization to achieve the purpose: TO HELP LRH ORGANIZE AND CHANNEL OT FORCES, INTERESTS AND RESOURCES FOR THE GREATEST GOOD FOR SCIENTOLOGY.
OT Preparations: a tailor-made auditing program designed to handle any case areas that could cause one difficulty on the OT levels.
OT Eligibility: eligibility for the OT levels is determined by passing a False Purpose Rundown Confessional for which one is awarded an "Eligibility for OT Levels" slip. This confessional step is often called "OT Eligibility."
Rundown: a series of steps which are auditing actions and processes designed to handle a specific aspect of a case.
Theta: energy peculiar to life or a thetan which acts upon material in the physical universe and animates it, mobilizes it and changes it; natural creative energy of a thetan which he has free to direct toward survival goals, especially when it manifests itself as high-tone, constructive communications.
Thetan: the person himself — not his body or his name, the physical universe, his mind or anything else; that which is aware of being aware; the identity which is the individual.
Whole track: the moment-to-moment record of a person's existence in this universe in picture and impression form.

Apply Solo auditing tech exactly like LRH intended

See the LRH Tech Films on your Solo Auditor training

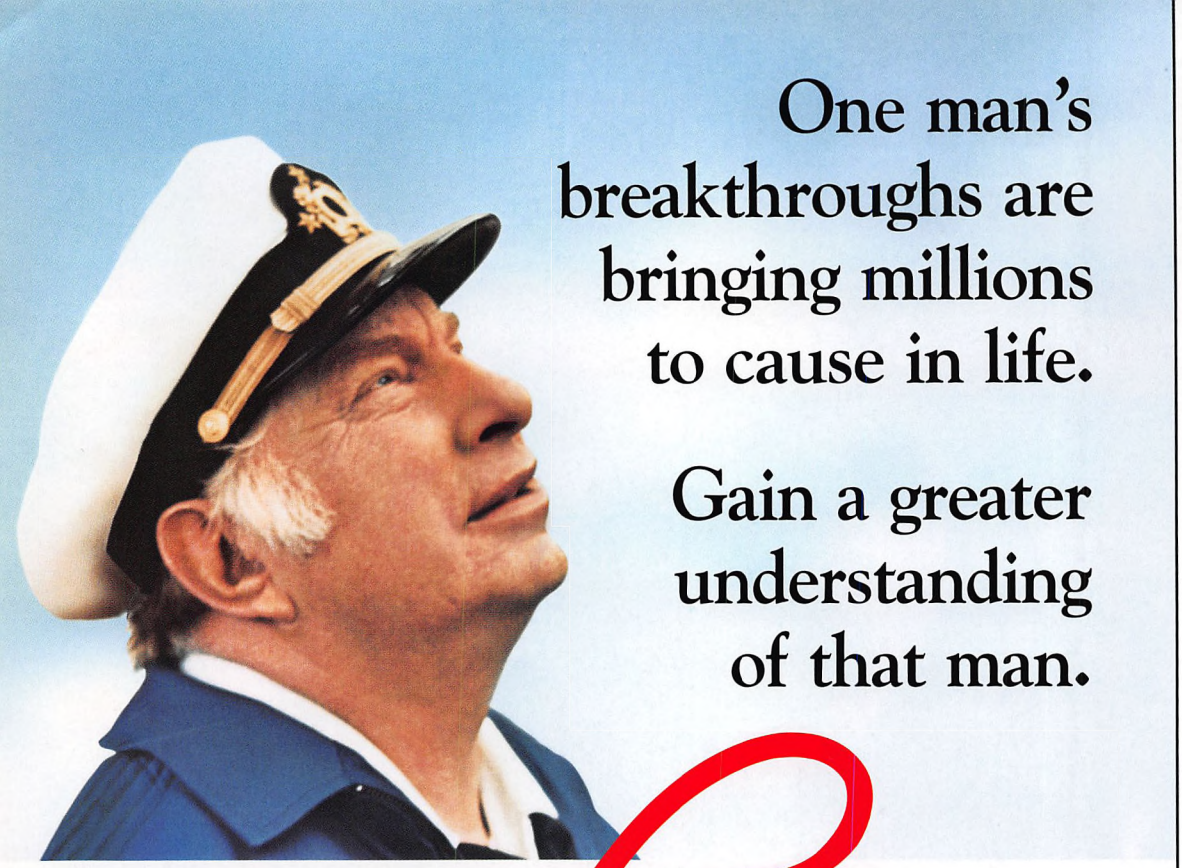

Key to total certainty you can Solo audit to the highest levels of OT are LRH's Technical Training Films—"visual HCOBs" which show you exactly how a 100% standard Solo session is set up, how the E-Meter works and how to spot each and every E-Meter read.

Every Technical Training Film you'll see was written by LRH and produced to his exact technical standards. On Solo, you'll see seven of these remarkable films—How the E-Meter Works, E-Meter Reads and E-Meter Reads Drill Film, PC Indicators and the PC Indicators Drill Film, The Cycle of Communication and The Solo Auditor.

Each one teaches specific parts of the tech you must know as a Solo auditor. Each contains technology you won't find any place else. And on the Solo Auditor or Solo Certainty Courses, you'll drill the skills shown in each of them until you know them cold. But that's just the beginning of the adventure because then you'll use every one of those skills to soar to the very heights of OT.

SCIENTOLOGY TECHNOLOGY
PROTECT IT
IT IS YOUR FUTURE
Report Matters of RTC Concern

For the first time ever, only because of the legacy of technology LRH left us, man has the means to reverse the dwindling spiral and return to native state. Moreover, achieving that state is possible only to the degree we apply the tech just as LRH intended. And as LRH stated, keeping Scientology working is a responsibility shared by all members of the Scientology religion.

The vast majority of Scientologists earnestly study and work hard to increase their knowledge and improve their skills to standardly apply Dianetics and Scientology to all areas of their lives.

At times some unintentionally misapply a technical or administrative procedure and fail to achieve the expected results. That is easily corrected. More rarely, ill-intentioned people deliberately alter standard procedure (known as squirreling) or attempt to prevent application of the technology entirely. Behind such activities is always the intention to prevent others from going free. That must be gotten off the lines.

Knowledge Reports exist to provide Scientologists with a communication line to report any off-policy, out-tech or out-ethics situations they may encounter. Such reports are sent to the Ethics Section of the organization concerned, with a copy to the person the report is about. The Ethics Section receiving the report is responsible for dealing with the matter and creating a safe environment in accordance with policy so those honestly seeking spiritual betterment are not hindered.

Such reports also are invaluable to Religious Technology Center and its Inspector General Network. As the owner of the Scientology trademarks, RTC is the protector of the Scientology religion. The Inspector General Network of RTC is an independent investigatory and policing body whose function is to keep Scientology working by ensuring the pure and ethical use of Dianetics and Scientology technology.

There are certain matters of particular importance and concern to RTC as provided here on a detailed list. Whenever these occur, copies of your reports should also be sent to RTC. RTC's Inspector General Network uses such reports to help locate hidden suppression, infiltration, subversion or corruption within and external to Scientology Churches, Missions and other Church organizations — to protect The Bridge for all.

In some cases, had alert and caring Scientologists not reported a situation to the Inspector General Network, it could have taken longer to detect a suppressive. But thanks to reports received, suppression often has been more rapidly detected and rooted out, and standard tech and policy restored.

You may communicate directly to RTC about such matters. Many public and staff members do so, and they also write in about good results they have received through standard application of tech and policy. All such communications are valuable to RTC.

Please send your reports to the Reports Officer RTC at 1710 Ivar Avenue, Suite 1100, Los Angeles, CA 90028, USA. Telephone: (323) 663-3258. Fax: (323) 667-0960.
