To the Reader

Your many letters to the Editor are much appreciated.

As you may have noticed we set aside our plans to publish the Hymn of Asia this issue because of the exciting news of the release of Mission Into Time by L. Ron Hubbard. This event is too important to pass by without devoting an issue to the book and its subject—past lives. So we rolled up our sleeves and gave you an issue on the exciting Mission Into Time and past lives.

As an Advance! reader I certainly hope you have your own copy of Mission Into Time.

If you're not yet Clear and OT, let's make 1974 the year you make it! Will you join me in that postulate? Spiritual freedom and power man has dreamt of for ages can come true for you in just months.

Set the target for yourself to make OT VI and OT VII as soon as possible in 1974!

Ron is waiting for you on the other side of the Bridge . . .

The Editor

IMPORTANT NOTE

In reading this magazine be certain you never go past a word or phrase you do not fully understand.

The only reason a person gives up a study or becomes confused or unable to learn is because he or she has gone past a word or phrase that was not understood.

If the material becomes confusing or you can't seem to grasp it, there will be a word just earlier that you have not understood. Don't go any further, but go back to before you got into trouble, find the misunderstood word and get it defined.

Any Scientology words which are not defined immediately in the text or in footnotes will be found in the "Definitions" on page 19.

Letters to the Editor

Letters from Advance! Mag readers are welcomed and as many as possible will be published in each issue. You can express your views on the articles and any other features of the Mag as well as on other subjects of interest to Advance! readers.

I read Issue 19 today and it is great. The book review was actually fun to read. It was an excellent review and certainly conveyed the excitement of the book. I never thought I'd read a book review that in and of itself was exciting and interesting.

Your selection of articles from Ron's works are very timely and to the point. It seems every time I read one of your selections that afterward I think, "I did have a question about that and now it's answered."

You should be commended on the excellence of the entire issue, from cover to cover. The picture of the sunset and storm clouds is truly OT. On page 74 of Scientology 8-8008 is an excellent description of your staff:

> "There is an astonishing level of winningness above 4.0 (on the tone scale) where competence becomes a joy like poetry."

Keep up the good work. Your magazine brings forth the essence of Scientology.

Thank you for Advance Mag and the excellent printing and layout job. The pictures of LRH are superb, surpassed only by his articles. The magazine invariably keys me out and rehabilitates my intention when I read it. It's a really good comm [communication] line with advanced students.

I appreciate the tips on the higher courses.

Thank you very much for doing your part in Clearing the planet.

I just wanted to let you know, and all those who publish their "OT Phenomena Successes" in Advance! know also, the effect these successes create on me, a VA. I forget that I can be as OT as I know I can be. And in reading the stories I am reminded of my own abilities and thus use them now. (Why wait until I get to the OT levels?)

When I read of these people doing these things (using their OT abilities) it somehow takes the mystery off this area and makes it OK for me to do these things, too.

Thank you for doing what you are doing.

Donetta Phelps

Thank you very much for the 20th issue of Advance! It was stimulating.

I certainly enjoyed the article on The History of Good and Evil. I found it most refreshing.

Ben Lee

I must commend you on your excellent mag. I had about six people come to me because they were not receiving copies. (They are now though.) This morning I received a letter from one of our students and he told me his wife, who has done nothing in Scientology, really freaks out over the mag. Yesterday we had a guy phone in wanting to know who to write to to pay for his subscriptions.

So, very very very very well done.

Just thought I'd write to congratulate you on producing the universe's best magazine. The artwork and photography are brilliant; and of course there are always Ron's startlingly sensible and sparklingly witty articles.

Congratulations to your Magazine! It is contributing so much to get more people on the road to Clear and OT. Now that I am doing the OT levels, I know how important it is to make this planet Clear and OT.

When I was still a pre-Clear most of the "OT Phenomena" and OT success stories were totally unreal to me. Now I have OT ability for myself!

The Egyptian goddess Isis. One of her attributes was the bringing back from the dead of her husband, Osiris.

The Tradition of Past Lives

That man is a spirit is the traditional concept and one common among peoples and religions of this planet down through the ages.

But the question of what happens to the spirit at death of the body has not always been so definite and is today a mystery for many people.

Looking back in history to the dawn of civilization we find that among ancient cultures the belief that man lived more than one lifetime, that he died and was born again in a new body, was not uncommon.

ANCIENT CIVILIZATIONS

We find that the very early Egyptians firmly believed that after death man was reborn into another body.

It is said that past lives were part of early Christianity and remained so up until it was arbitrarily banned by the Church Council of Nicaea in 325 AD.

In ancient Greece the question of immortality and past lives was one studied by the philosophers.

There is a legend which attributes the philosopher and mathematician, Pythagoras, as the first to cite past lives. This was to account for what happened to him in the Temple of Juno at Argos where he recognized a shield he recalled having used in an earlier life when, as Euphorbus, he fought in the Trojan War with Menelaeus.

Socrates and Plato looked positively on the idea of past lives.

The "Myth of Er" with which Plato's Republic ends is a story about a man returned from the dead to describe his experiences. He and other departed spirits had been told that they were now to choose new lives. Samples of lives were placed before them, "lives of every animal and of man in every condition."

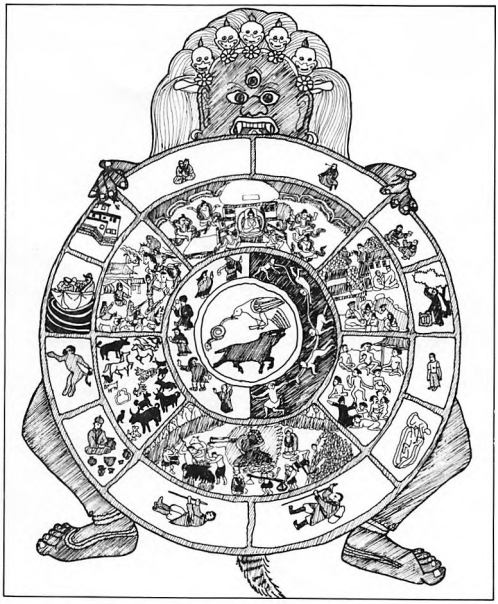

EASTERN RELIGIONS

In the East the concept of past lives and reincarnation has been fundamental to religion and life for many thousands of years.

In ancient India Siddhartha Sakymuni (the Buddha) developed his Buddhism as an answer to the endless treadmill of lives a being followed, lifetime after lifetime.

The first glimpse that a conscious recall of past lives could have a beneficial effect on a being's search for fulfillment is revealed in Buddhism. On the night of his great enlightenment under the Bodhi tree, Buddha, according to sacred scriptures, reviewed many of his past lives.

The theory of reincarnation plays a strong part in Lamaism or Tibetan Buddhism. In Lamaism the high priests are considered to return again in future lives as high priests, under knowing control on their part. It is said that at a certain stage of enlightenment a Lama priest views his past existences.

In Lamaism the belief in the spirit which underlies this is very strong and extends to all living creatures. Animals, since they are spirits, living entities, can ascend to a higher plane of existence in future lives through good behavior. Accordingly, animals aren't killed or treated without consideration in Tibet but are given their duties and expected to carry them out just as are humans.

Another religion in the East, Hinduism, has as an inseparable part of its theory and practice the caste system and reincarnation. These are based on the belief that there exists a caste system or order of four social units which rank in hierarchical order. According to this system men are born with different spiritual qualities resulting largely from their actions in previous existences. One is born into a particular caste and membership of that caste is seen as a spiritual condition which remains unchangeable during a lifetime. Through merit or demerit acquired in one life one's status in a future rebirth is affected.

In Hinduism reincarnation isn't really just simple rebirth, but rather a complex religious theory and strict social system.

Reincarnation and the caste system remain strong among Hindus today. Of recent accounts of past lives in books and magazine articles, a majority are from Hindus.

There is one which illustrates both the caste system and reincarnation: A child of a Hindu family one day became gravely ill. On recovering the child had a totally different personality and requested to be called by a different name. She said she was a person who had recently died. To complicate matters the child said she was of a higher caste and refused to eat with her family. She insisted her food be cooked by a local lady of her caste.

PRIMITIVE PEOPLES

In contrast with the complex theories regarding past lives in the East, various primitive peoples have had for centuries the simplest of theories. To them past lives was the most obvious answer to the question "where do human souls come from?"

In Africa a prevalent belief holds that many of the dead are eventually reborn, and far from wanting the Indian "released" from the burden of earthly existence, the dead are delighted to return to this warm and lively world of human sensation.

The aborigines of Australia go so far as to detail how the spirit manages to catch his next body: after death the spirit goes to a water-hole or other special spirit waiting spot to wait for a pregnant woman to come along. When she does, the spirit "hops aboard" to be reborn. Or a husband may "find" or see a spirit child at one of these spots which then follows him to camp and thence his wife. With their common knowledge of the spirit after death the aborigines hold no great fears of death for they know they will simply be born again.

IMMORTALITY THROUGH THE CENTURIES

Among primitive people and Easterners the belief in past lives has carried forward through time but in the West, in spite of the early traditions about the subject, it has faded into mystery and complexity.

An excellent mirror of this decline is seen in a comparison of philosophical statements on the subject down through the ages.

Aristotle of ancient Greece held that the nous or active intelligence alone is immortal. Likewise, in an Aristotelian school of Islam, Avicenna declared the soul immortal, while Albertus Magnus of a different Aristotelian school argued that the soul is immortal and independent of the body.

Moving down through the ages, we get more complex: Spinoza in the 17th century affirmed that "the human mind cannot be absolutely destroyed with the body, but there remains something which is eternal." (So far so good.) This is because, as something "appertains to the essence of the mind," it is "conceived by a certain eternal necessity through the very essence of God."

A bit later in time we find Kant announcing that "although we can deny the soul extensive quantity, division into part, yet we cannot refuse it intensive quantity, degrees of reality; and consequently its existence may be terminated not by decomposition but by general diminution of its power."

But in the 19th and 20th centuries psychiatry decided there was no soul at all, and so came up with materialistic explanations concerning past life experiences.

In 1884 Arthur Wigan, a theorist, stated that there was a physiological explanation for the illusion of having lived before: one part of the brain became conscious of a situation a fraction of a second sooner than the other.

More recently psychoanalyst Otto Fenichel felt that recall of past lives resulted from the ego being reminded of repressed material contrary to its will. Another psychoanalyst, Clarence Oberndorf thinks that it is a buffer, a means of defending the experiencer from the reality of the present and from future possibilities by reaffirming the past.

Currently many medical and psychiatric "thinkers" even consider recall of past lives to be a pathological disease.

In spite of the suppression of the spiritual nature of man, and with that past lives, in the last century, such a truth cannot be totally squelched.

We hear of experiences in déja vu (French for "seen again") when individuals find themselves in an experience or location which they have seen before. Famous people, especially writers, have recorded accounts of déja vu: Hawthorne, Walter Scott, Marcel Proust, Tolstoy, Shelley and Lafcadio Hearn are some. Charles Dickens recounts an experience in his Pictures from Italy in which he was wandering along a river at sunset and became aware he remembered the spot and setting thoroughly and with an "emphatic chilling of the blood" as though he had been murdered there!

We still today find articles and books on recollections people have of past lives.

A 1973 survey of the man on the street showed that the great majority are receptive to the consideration of past lives.

A cave painting of an Australian aborigine spirit god.

CONCLUSION

While man somehow has known he has been around before, he has never been able to predictably cross the threshhold of memory into a clear recall of his former lives. Occasionally through hypnotic trance or by accident an individual will call forth details of past lives, but never predictably or under the individual's control.

Thus for centuries the full truth about previous existences has been a mystery to the great majority of beings on this planet.

Then, in the mid-20th century, L. Ron Hubbard discovered the exact anatomy of the mind and developed processes to free the spirit from the chains of the memory of only one lifetime.

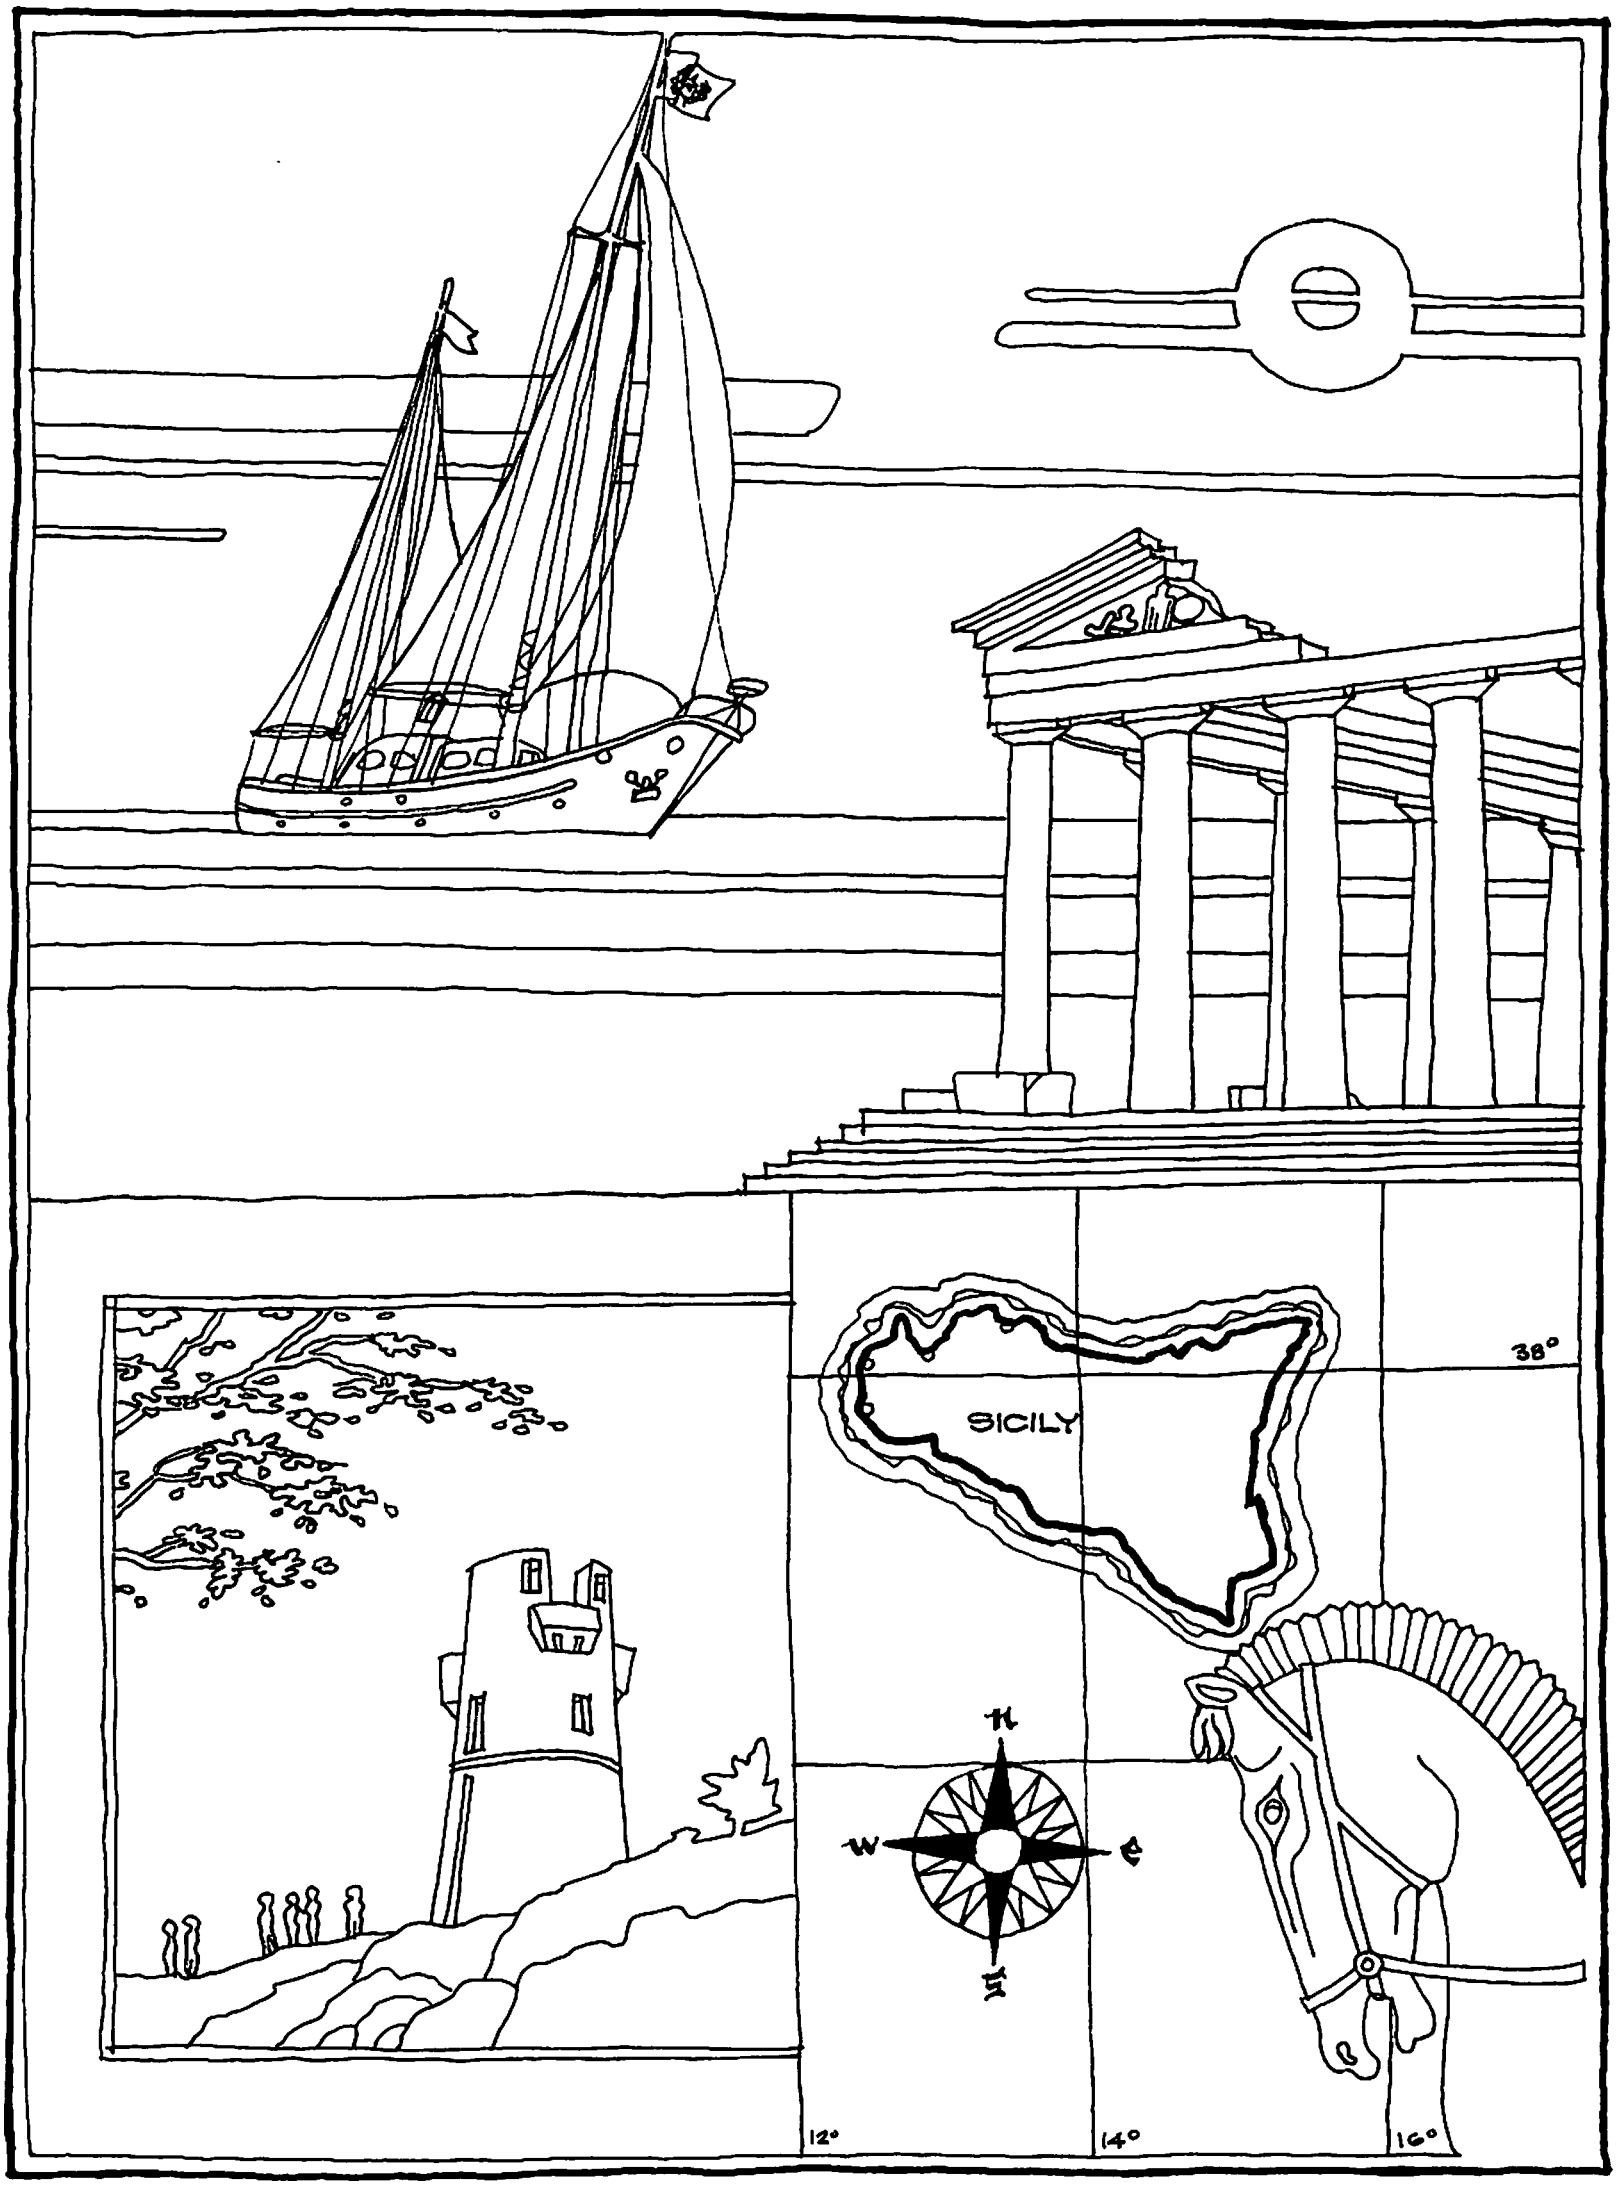

This was an enormous breakthrough!

Through Dianetics and Scientology a person can discover for himself, with great relief, that he has indeed lived before; that he is an immortal being!

For many millenia Man has sought the solution to the riddle of his existence in the physical universe. At last with Scientology the great questions have been answered, the shadows dissolved. A bright new day for Man has arrived!

Those who down through the ages have sought spiritual freedom and awareness would welcome this milestone on the road to total truth—the road that Ron has blazed for others to follow.

Mission Into Time
by L. Ron Hubbard

An exciting book that confirms past lives!

Mission Into Time portrays at once a voyage in the Mediterranean, an exploration of ancient sites and a remarkable test of whole track recall by L. Ron Hubbard, the Founder of Dianetics and Scientology.

As stated in the Preface of the book, the main body of the book itself, Mission Into Time, is edited from a lecture given by L. Ron Hubbard in 1968 to students of an Advanced Organization aboard a chartered vessel.

An account of this lecture was first published under the title A Test of Whole Track Recall in 1968 in limited edition (as a softback).

Mission Into Time is a new and greatly expanded edition of Test of Whole Track Recall. This edition has been completely re-designed as a hardback with a dustjacket, and the following has been added:

1. An expanded account of the "mission" by Ron.

2. A beautiful dustjacket photograph in color of the remains of the Temple of Tanit by L. Ron Hubbard.

3. Eight color and three black and white photographs to illustrate the text.

4. By far the longest and most detailed biography of L. Ron Hubbard yet published.

5. An appendix including an important never-before published essay on the whole track by L. Ron Hubbard. The appendix also contains interesting details on the sites visited by the mission.

6. Two newly released photographs of Ron, including one when he was 21 years old leading the first ever mineralogical expedition in Puerto Rico.

7. A comprehensive glossary of any unusual terms in the book.

Mission Into Time is a very attractive book, 8½ inches tall by 5¼ inches wide. Over 110 pages. Quality paper. The cover is bound in an exquisite leatherette with the title and author's name stamped in gold.

Here is what readers are saying about "Mission Into Time"

Mission Into Time is an exciting and revealing book. Ron opened up a whole new view of the ancient world for me. Ron's essay on the whole track gave me a much greater understanding of this vital subject. The long biography of Ron at the beginning of the book really thrilled me and after I read it I felt I understood this great man better.

Mary Shimmin

The most enjoyable part for me was reading Ron's conclusions of the "mission into time."

From his past track Mediterranean experiences, Ron predicted our current worldwide economic situations. And even better than that are future predictions and solutions.

It is a book of knowledge and insight. And who tells it better than L. Ron Hubbard!

Alethiea Taylor

My favorite part of this book was the biography of Ron. I've never before been able to put Ron's life into a whole view, into a single flow that made sense. He's done so much he seems to defy categorization. But this biography succeeds in making his life really real.

More than anything else, the whole book gave me the message of what a really amazing man we have as the Founder of Scientology.

Tom Atlee

The following article is edited from Philadelphia Doctorate Course Lecture 30 of 10 December, 1952

For the reader's information, following is a description of "anchor points" from Fundamentals of Thought by L. Ron Hubbard:

"It was discovered that a fixed electrical field existed surrounding a body entirely independent of, but influenceable by, the human mind. The body exists in its own space. That space is created by 'anchor points' (points which are anchored in a space different to the physical universe space around a body)."

Relative Size and Anchor Points

by L. Ron Hubbard

If you had a concept that a hundred thousand tons was a light weight and pocket-sized, your amount of space would have to be quite large, and your concept of yourself would have to be quite big. And sure enough, you could put this planet in your vest pocket, if this was your idea of size.

We could say, "Here is a particle flow, and each particle in it is the size of Jupiter and it's going like the dickens in this little light flow." Or if we're in some other universe, maybe we would be saying, "This is just a little place named the MEST Universe. You can look in there some time, but you sort of have to get down on one knee, and you see this vague blur of stars."

There isn't any reason why you, personally, couldn't have that viewpoint. You see, there's nothing blocking you from having that viewpoint. You'll attain viewpoints something in that direction.

One day you've got a speck in your cereal. You've decided in your universe to eat cereal or something so that you can read the boxes and there's that speck. You pick it up, you don't know quite how it got there, and you flip it off onto the floor and stamp on it. That was the MEST universe!

Question of Size

Now Man can get some funny ideas about this. A fellow can sit down and think of himself as being tiny. This is what others try to do to a person. This is the control operation beyond control operations. They get you to sit down and think very hard about how utterly insignificant you must be to be crawling on the face of a very small planet which is running around a very small star, which is in one of the smaller galaxies, and then your infinite smallness is almost incomprehensibly small. And that says your power is incomprehensibly small. Therefore, you're a slave. You can't throw off your chains because the chains, then, are infinitely heavy. It's a question of size.

Now, if I talked to you this way day after day, "Please, please come somewhere near Philadelphia in your contact with your body while you're listening to these lectures. And be rather careful about the farms. Don't step on any of the farms around here because we don't want a commotion in this little place." And we went on talking along in this line as though you were a flock of giants, just marching across the countryside with a thunderbolt in each hand, you know that alone would serve to help you get some kind of idea of size.

What Size Is

Size depends on what you want to do. If you want to go push change across a grocery counter, you don't want to be bigger than the grocery store. And if you want to go around and push around planets, and make them and break them and so forth, you don't want to be smaller than the planet.

The guy that started to run Earth would, of course, not exist in Earth space. He would be too big. He wouldn't be standing some place between earth and the moon. He would be existing in his own space with an attack or communications point somewhere coincident with Earth.

Anchor Points and Universe

Now how do you get your space and how do you get Earth space? Well, you'd be sitting there amongst your own anchor points. You wouldn't be sitting there with Earth anchor points. In the first place it would be too confusing to keep track of Earth on its own anchor points. It's much easier to keep track of Earth on your anchor points.

You want to know how your universe got taken over? Somebody gave it an anchor point, he made a present of a nice big shiny anchor point, and said, "Now look, your dimensions can get smaller, your dimensions can get larger, and isn't it interesting what you can do with these anchor points. Now you put your anchor points convergent with our universe's anchor points, and then these two universes will be co-visible and we will be all set." And all of a sudden there was a dull flash and a boom and your anchor points and their anchor points went into total coincidence. But your universe wasn't rigged to stand that, and ever since you've been going around saying, "I wonder what happened to my universe? It's here someplace . . ."

Looking for that universe is a silliness beyond silliness, because you can make it all over again without any trouble whatsoever. You also had to get the idea that you could lose something which you would not be able to create again, before you could lose a universe. The only way you could ever lose anything, you see, was to get the idea that you couldn't create it again.

Now you want to know where your Grandma is. You say, "She's dead." No, she's not. She just lost anchor points coincident with yours. Once upon a time you and she had identical anchor points. Now you don't have identical anchor points. She's got some other set of anchor points. Because you're still in the MEST Universe, you find great difficulty in getting into anchor point with her, because you would probably have to find some kind of proximity MEST Universe anchor points.

If you could just find Grandma, who's probably a little kid now in pigtails someplace or another, by pervasion, you just look around and find out what's the wave length of Grandma, you'd probably finally spot her. She's in East Podunk or North Keokuk, as a little kid.

You could probably talk with her the second that you established some sort of coincidence of anchor points. Or if you were existing in your own universe time, you could throw a couple of anchor points in there and just get her to accept those two anchor points and you could talk to her. This would probably be very disturbing to her parents, going around associating with some spirit.

Anchor Points and Memory

Now, you wonder what happened to your memories? If you only accept MEST Universe anchor points, then you're only willing to see what memories the MEST Universe gives you.

The MEST Universe says, "Now, look, there's some anchor points, and we're going to give you these MEST anchor points." And now, you can't seem to remember "the time that, just a few years ago . . ." mostly because you don't know where you were.

Have you ever been in a churchyard or passed by a public building or something like that and had the strange sudden feeling, "You know, I've been here before, I've gone up this road before, I've done this before, I belonged here before. I could swear that I know there's a house right around the curve . . ." and turn down there and there's such and such in it. Of course, you're not permitted to think that because you haven't been given these anchor points.

If you were to just search a neighborhood until something looked unquestionably familiar to you from your past life, that entire life would come back with a flash, because it requires MEST Universe anchor points.

As long as the MEST Universe gave you the anchor points, then you'd have to recover those anchor points in order to have a complete reality.

What is reality? We've narrowed this word "Reality" down to mean the MEST Universe but we're not having too much to do with it, you see, because it's so corrupt. It is slimy and dripping with confusion. So a little bit better definition of "Reality" is "what can I perceive with clarity."

Anchor Points and Facsimiles

You can look through your facsimiles [pictures] and find out what anchor points you ought to have, but don't try to find anchor points in the facsimile! Don't do that. There aren't any there. How can there be an anchor point in a facsimile? There can't. But there are pictures of anchor points in

If you could just find Grandma, who's probably a little kid now in pigtails someplace or another, by pervasion, you just look around and find out what's the wave length of Grandma, you'd probably finally spot her. She's in East Podunk or North Keokuk, as a little kid.

You could probably talk with her the second that you established some sort of coincidence of anchor points. Or if you were existing in your own universe time, you could throw a couple of anchor points in there and just get her to accept those two anchor points and you could talk to her. This would probably be very disturbing to her parents, going around associating with some spirit.

Anchor Points and Memory

Now, you wonder what happened to your memories? If you only accept MEST Universe anchor points, then you're only willing to see what memories the MEST Universe gives you.

The MEST Universe says, "Now, look, there's some anchor points, and we're going to give you these MEST anchor points." And now, you can't seem to remember "the time that, just a few years ago . . ." mostly because you don't know where you were.

Have you ever been in a churchyard or passed by a public building or something like that and had the strange sudden feeling, "You know, I've been here before, I've gone up this road before, I've done this before, I belonged here before. I could swear that I know there's a house right around the curve . . ." and turn down there and there's such and such in it. Of course, you're not permitted to think that because you haven't been given these anchor points.

If you were to just search a neighborhood until something looked unquestionably familiar to you from your past life, that entire life would come back with a flash, because it requires MEST Universe anchor points.

As long as the MEST Universe gave you the anchor points, then you'd have to recover those anchor points in order to have a complete reality.

What is reality? We've narrowed this word "Reality" down to mean the MEST Universe but we're not having too much to do with it, you see, because it's so corrupt. It is slimy and dripping with confusion. So a little bit better definition of "Reality" is "what can I perceive with clarity."

Anchor Points and Facsimiles

You can look through your facsimiles [pictures] and find out what anchor points you ought to have, but don't try to find anchor points in the facsimile! Don't do that. There aren't any there. How can there be an anchor point in a facsimile? There can't. But there are pictures of anchor points in

Success beyond man's wildest dreams

The following success stories illustrate a very important point: after thousands of years of trying Man can at last routinely attain the spiritual gains and abilities for which he has been searching.

L. Ron Hubbard, through his development of Scientology and the Advanced Courses, has made this possible for the first time.

These successes are but a glimpse of the powers of Clears and OTs. They use these powers constructively, to help, to build, to forward the purposes and goals of L. Ron Hubbard as envisioned in Scientology.

If you're not yet Clear and OT do all you can to move up fast to these fabulous states in the New Year.

My sister gave birth to a 9-pound boy (she is not a Scientologist). She had a rough time.

The day she came home she was rushed to the hospital because she started to hemorrhage. They rushed her in and started to operate.

This all happened in New Jersey. My mother called and told me they had just taken my sister back to the hospital and told me about the operation.

I was in New York City when I received this call. I calmed my mother down and acknowledged her. I then said I will do something and hung up.

I went to my bedroom and exteriorized out of the body to the New Jersey Hospital–just in time to handle this.

My sister was very near death (at 28 years old!) and had a suppressive doctor! He was not in present time and started to move his hand to cut and it was shaking. I then moved his hand! The nurses looked surprised. I made myself very solid in the operating room and controlled the doctor and nurses, which was vital! After the operation the doctor sewed her up.

I went to see her again later that day with my body.

She opened her eyes and said, "You were there. You saved my life! I don't know how, but you did. I saw you!"

I said, "Yes, I was there."

Gene, my husband, a Class VIII Auditor, then gave her a touch assist. She said, "I will never forget what you have done."

She was out of the hospital in three days after having a major operation and was doing great! This is phenomenal.

I'm sure glad I had the tech and data to handle this!

Arlyn Hobel / OT

A few weeks ago, despite the fact that for the first time I had gotten my Virginia driver's license without being requested to wear glasses, I decided I would buy myself a pink pair of glasses that would intensify my vision for evening driving.

After two weeks I lost them. I checked everywhere in the car, ran my fingers through the glass-case, a big strong red one. Nothing there. Gone.

After the glasses had disappeared for at least a week I was having lunch and the fancy came to me to look for my glasses in my bag. I was sitting there, drinking coffee, talking and thinking "I'll look but they won't be there." So I checked at the bottom of my bag. Nothing there, of course.

As I did this I became oblivious of the other person there and got the idea "I will open the red glasscase and the glasses will be in there. I got a precise image of my glasses; pink with gold rim and at the top of the right-hand lens I mocked up my fingerprints.

I opened the glasscase, full of anticipation and lo and behold, there they were, tightly folded, face down! I let out a squeal of delight and got them out and at the top of the right-hand lens was a fingerprint!

And they fit better than the bought ones!

Suzanne Commons / OT

About a week after completing OT III Expanded my husband and I flew to the bedside of his mother who had had a stroke three weeks before.

She was paralyzed completely on the right side, could neither move nor speak, and had not opened her eyes or recognized any visitors.

When I was alone with her I found that I was able to communicate "mentally" with her and understand her answers. With no words, mind you!

Then I gave her a touch assist all over her body, giving her mental commands and acknowledgements in order not to disturb the other three ladies and busy nurses in the room.

After this, she opened her eyes and her next visitors were very surprised to see that obviously she knew they were there and who they were, even though she could not communicate with them.

I was very pleased to use the knowledge I'd received in Scientology to help her at that time.

Pauline L. Shattuck / OT

Recently our telephone was out of order and we could not get a dial tone nor could we get incoming calls.

I was expecting a most important call to set up a meeting with the mayor. I simply knew that that particular call would come through—and come through it did, right at the scheduled time. Immediately after that I picked up the phone, but there was no dial tone. Normal service was resumed about four hours later.

Flo Bezazian / OT

Last spring my cat disappeared for two days. When he showed up he looked in very bad shape. I got in communication with him and found out he'd fought a huge rat and won, only the rat had been poisoned.

My husband, Jerry, and I took turns auditing him until he was in good enough shape to leave the body. However he decided he was in such good shape he'd fix the body.

We watched him drag this very bad looking body around for a week. He couldn't move his mouth as the poison had destroyed the nerve endings. I watched him and helped him for that week. He just wouldn't confront the fact that it was indeed dead!

After 10 days it was really pretty awful. I picked up the body, laid it on a towel. All the time I was in good communication with "Tiger," the being. I told him what I was going to do and got his agreement.

I entered the cat body, took "Tiger" the being out of the body, took him outside the apartment and reoriented him to the space around and then the Mest universe itself. He expanded a thousand times and became aware and happy.

He realized he had been hanging on to the cat body because he was afraid to lose the communication line with me. Now he knew he could never lose that, he thanked me and went off to play.

Nola Simmons / OT

While visiting a friend and her son recently I noticed they were apparently upset.

"Looking", I saw a "person" as a sphere of black energy impinging on both of them.

The "person" was shocked at being noticed and fought viciously using heavy energy beams, but my confront and intention held, driving the person back into her own body (which turned out to be in a 3rd floor apartment in a nearby city) and rendered her harmless until such time as auditing can clean her up.

This was done silently and occupied only seconds of Mest time. The immediate result was the friend suddenly looked up and said, "What did you do?" which required a brief but difficult "explanation" on my part.

The almost instantaneous and continuing result was that both the friend and her son shot upscale and stabilized there; a change dramatic enough to be noticed and commented on by all who know them.

Fred Connell / OT

I decided to play a game with a lovely cat named "Fred." Just for fun I put the intention in him to come to me and he did.

Then I put the intention for him to jump on the bed and he did. Then for him to jump off the bed, he did. Then again I put the intention for him to jump on the bed but since there were two beds he was undecided. He then looked at me and decided to jump on the other bed.

Then I put the intention for him to give me his right paw and he did.

I gave him a "Very Well Done." After such validation he licked himself off furiously and then went to sleep.

Anna Stanovich / OT

Man has searched for centuries for the answers! At full OT you have the keys to past, present and future.

As a full OT you will be knowing and willing cause over matter, energy, space, time, life and thought.

The knowledge and experience of your past will be at your fingertips.

The present will be fully under your control if you want it to be.

Your destiny is in your own hands.

For your future and the future of this planet, become an OT. Here are the steps you must take.

First, move up the Gradation Chart to the State of Clear.

Then take these steps:

OT I Your first step at OT I will acquaint you with the physical universe and people around you at a new level of higher awareness.

OT II Then OT II will open up for you another universe in full, the universe of others, in preparation for one of your biggest steps ever–OT III.

OT III The Wall of Fire, OT III brings you face to face with a great catastrophe that occurred 75 million years ago. This is a dilemma that for millions of years remained unresolved. Until 1967 when L. Ron Hubbard broke through the Wall of Fire and made it safe for you to confront and move through this tremendous level.

OT VII From OT III you will move to OT VII and discover the reality and power of OT communication, rehabilitating your ability to project intention across a distance. OT VII comes after OT III to make you powerful enough to fully complete OT III Expanded.

OT III Expanded As an OT VII you are now ready to move through the Wall of Fire to clean up any residual effects of OT III. You emerge as a fully self-determined being, free from overwhelm!

OT IV OT IV is in two sections. The first polishes up your previous levels and sets you up for the steps into the higher OT levels. On the second section you are proofed up as a being against the possibility of ever being spiritually trapped again. The result of OT IV is an exterior being, certain of self.

By this point you have truly stepped into the realm of OT!!

OT V Next you will get a look at this world around you from the viewpoint of an exterior being unencumbered by mind or body!

OT VI At OT VI you will learn to operate in the physical universe as a thetan exterior, and to constructively influence the universe of others without a body.

Full OT VII Full OT VII consists of the rehabilitating of the ability to project intention at a higher level, after OT VI.

You are truly in the realm of OT!

But there is more above OT VI and VII! Ron said on July 30th 1973, "There are perhaps 15 levels above OT VII fully developed but existing only in unissued note form, pending more peoples' full attainment of OT VI and VII."

Take the 8 steps of the OT Course! It means the fulfillment of your age-long dream, full spiritual awareness and abilities regained!

Move up to OT today!

Books by L. Ron Hubbard

Books are the gateway to Scientology and the Advanced Courses. Over 20 books by Ron form the foundation of a successful life through Scientology.

Scientology Missions

There are 100's of Scientology Missions around the world. These sell books and offer the Hubbard Standard Dianetics Course and auditing up to Grade IV Expanded. Missions help direct people onto Ron's Bridge.

Local Churches of Scientology

There are 63 local Churches of Scientology, located on four continents. All Dianetic and Scientology services, from the Introductory Lecture to Academy Level IV Auditor training are offered by your local Church. This includes Beginning Courses, Hubbard Standard Dianetics Course and Hubbard Dianetics Graduate Course (trains Dianetics Course Supervisors).

Above these services the local Church offers Academy training from Level 0 to Level IV and Hubbard Guidance Center spiritual counseling including Standard Dianetics and Expanded Lower Grades.

Continental Churches of Scientology

There are 6 Continental Churches. These are Washington D.C., Los Angeles, London, Johannesburg, Denmark and Sydney. These Churches offer all the services of a local Church, plus the Expanded Dianetics Course and handle any cases a local Church isn't able to fully handle.

Saint Hills

There are four Saint Hills–AOSH UK, AOSH DK, the New American Saint Hill Organization (ASHO) and Flag Saint Hill.

In the United Kingdom and Denmark the AO's and SH's (Saint Hills) are combined under a single management while yet maintaining their separate service facilities and administration. In the U.S. ASHO and AOLA are only about a 10 minute drive apart. The Flag AO and SH are separate organizations but both are aboard the Flagship of the Sea Organization.

Saint Hill level organizations specialize in Power Processing (prerequisite for Solo Auditor's Course and Grade VI at an AO) and all upper level auditor training, including the famous Saint Hill Special Briefing Course (Class VI), Class VII, Class VIII and Class IX. Flag Saint Hill offers superlative training and processing (famous as Flag Case Completion Intensives). Flag AO, in addition to offering Advanced Courses, is the only place where one can receive the special L 10 auditing rundown.

The Advanced Organization

The Advanced Organization is the most exciting place in the world–where the highest dreams of Man are exceeded through the regaining of native abilities and total freedom on the Advanced Courses.

The first step is the Solo Auditor's Course, then Grade VI Release, and from there to Clear and then the OT Courses, Sections I through VII.

This is Ron's Bridge to Total Freedom starting at your nearest Mission or Church, through Saint Hill to your Advanced Organization. Follow this route step by step to full OT VII!!

Advanced Courses Information and Tips

Coming to the AO? What to Bring

When you come to the AO you will need supplies regularly used in auditing such as an E-Meter, pens, stapler, worksheets and auditor report forms, a watch or clock, solo auditing cans. Of course, all of these items are available here at the AO or in the area, but you may want to bring your own.

You will also want to bring the proper clothing for the local climate. The climate varies with the seasons, so check the weather reports for the AO locale before coming.

How long are Courses?

The Solo Auditor's Course takes only 2 to 4 weeks full time.

The Clearing Course and OT Level Courses take varying amounts of time, depending on the level and on the individual case. It's best to give yourself plenty of time for your levels—a month or two is usually satisfactory. But you want to be able to do your levels without being rushed, so leave yourself enough time.

Occasionally set-up auditing or a short review session is needed. As service is speedy, these actions should not upset your schedule for courses. If you have any question that you may require auditing at the AO, it is best to write to the Director of Technical Services prior to coming who will see your question is answered.

Accommodations

There are a variety of accommodations available within short distance of the AO. These range from simple single rooms (no kitchen) at $40 to $90 per month, to full apartments at $175 to $350 per month.

For AO students there is a special new AOLA Expansion Unit. This Unit combines the convenience of having all AO services right at your "doorstep" with the luxury and comfort of the first all-Scientology Hotel. This special unit is separate and 15 minutes away from the main AOLA building. Prices range from $85 per month for a shared room to $160 per month for couples and $200 per month for shared room and full board. There are weekly rates available. See page 10 for full details.

Travel Information

As one of the main cities of the U.S. Los Angeles has frequent and extensive air, train and bus travel lines from all over the world. Have your local travel agent assist you in working out the best travel details for you.

Once you arrive in Los Angeles take a taxi or metropolitan bus to AOLA, your home for Clear and OT in the Western hemisphere. ■

the facsimile.

You do not think that a facsimile belongs to you or is yours if you haven't got the anchor points to tie them down to. You don't feel that you "remember it" because you don't know; you've seen a picture of an anchor point and yet you don't have the anchor point. If you were to go find the anchor point, that whole life would come into full view. But the MEST Universe would give you that anchor point.

How do you cure this and how do you recover past lives? Well, I can give you a very lengthy dissertation on that, but they have the complete importance of zero.

Your time for action is now and will be and will have, not had.

Now you think there's a lot of experiences and a lot of thought and so forth in memories of past lives. And you go back and you dig up one of these past lives and you find such things as, "Let's see, is it pages 72 or 73, how I find out how I round Cape Hatteras? Let me see, is it page 72 or page . . ." Good important data on a Coast Pilot that was printed a couple of hundred years ago! The sandbanks have since shifted and everything else. You couldn't use the publication anyway.

Or, "Am I going to get paid this Saturday." Or "Is she true to me?" And of course it doesn't matter whether or not you got paid that Saturday, and on the subject of "Is she true to me?" – of course she isn't!

These things are curiosa. They are amusing and they are very interesting.

But when a preclear cannot handle force and establish his own anchor points, they are very aberrative. That's why they're important.

So past lives are not important as subjects or facsimiles; they're merely important because they have force on a thetan.

VAs, Clears and OTs!

You should be actively working your way to Full OT. If you are not, read on....

I completed Power and Power Plus about a year ago and didn't then go on the Solo Auditor's Course. Recently I started the course. My attendance was poor and I was "too busy." Last week I had repair auditing on my Power Plus. The session lasted about 15 minutes and it's all very different now. I'll be Clear in no time at all.

Matthew Johnson.

Over two years ago I did Power Processing through to OT II. My case was brilliant when I left the AO. I re-entered the world feeling sane and secure.

However as time rolled on I began slipping—thinking 'What is going on here!' I plowed in deeper and deeper. I felt like I'd lost everything I'd gained.

Then I pulled myself together, got the money to do my OT III and hauled my body back to the AO.

My closing statement is—come and complete your Non-Interference Area auditing. It is where it is at.

Marc Farley

Just as with these two Scientologists there is a reason you haven't moved on and it can be easily located with a Free Solo Auditor Assessment at the AO. You are then free to move up to Full OT!
