It is not intended for and is forbidden by the Church to be used in any medical or physical treatment or the diagnosis, treatment or prevention of any disease. By itself it does nothing and is strictly not to be employed for medical or scientific purposes. Its purpose is to assist the Minister to locate in his parishioner areas of travail so that he can assist in the relief of spiritual suffering. The existence and use of the E-Meter is sanctioned by law, and the copying of it or attempts by unqualified persons, doctors, scientists, psychologists or psychiatrists, to obtain or use one are actionable under law in the United States. DIANETIC CLEARS!

GAIN THE ABILITIES YOU NEED TO PILOT YOUR WAY TO OT!

As a Dianetic Clear, or as a non-Clear approaching the State of Clear, you are on the threshold of an adventure vaster than any voyage into space.

Like a space journey, your trip to OT requires training, knowledge and ability. You want to be able to rely completely on your own judgement and skill.

On the Solo Auditor's Course, you get all the training you need. You gain abilities far more important than any needed for a space journey — you gain the priceless ability to handle yourself with auditing.

This is not self-auditing, but the precision, standard technology of solo auditing, developed by Ron as an advanced auditing technique for the upper end of the Bridge.

If you're already a seasoned auditor, your training will be faster and you'll be a better solo auditor. But even if you've never audited before, you can get all the skills you need in just a few weeks full time — everything from the basics of how and why auditing works to the special techniques and drills of solo auditing.

Before you graduate, you'll actually audit yourself on non-confidential materials. This gives you valuable solo auditing experience while you're still "on the ground", and lets you — and the Solo Case Supervisor — know that you're all ready to blast off — all systems go!

The Solo Auditor's Course gives you the knowledge, skills and confidence you need to pilot yourself through the "living lightning" of the OT materials to the stellar heights of OT ability. As a solo auditor, you can fully trust yourself and win both as an auditor and as a pre-OT!

OT

MEMORY & ABILITY

becomes more and more capable of handling energy."

There is a contest, we find, between being an Operating Thetan and being an inmate of the MEST universe.

This universe is an interiorizing universe. And the first, fatal step of the thetan is to resist. If any sole aberration comes in upon the thetan, it is resisting interiorization, because, of course, that which one resists, one becomes. Resistance is the one step necessary to entrapment.

COURAGE

To face up to resistance, to be courageous, is so filled with nobility and beauty on the whole track, that it has misled the Operating Thetan, nullified all his abilities and misplaced him in the whole universe. He started by being courageous.

What is courage? It could be said to be "the ability to resist with aplomb." Courage is a persuasion that the individual should face up to certain things. They take a little kid and they teach him he's got to face up to a lot of things. Nonsense. All he's got to do is change his wavelength and they go straight through him!

The bridge between courage and cowardice is pain. No individual anywhere on the track has failed to have the experience of fighting like a lion and dying like a coyote. There isn't a man — I don't care of what magnitude — who doesn't break across the bridge of pain. A study of the records of the Inquisition proves that they could make a cur out of anyone.

Courage is a sort of a lower toned mockery of serenity. Serenity is just serenity — no further qualification. Courage is serenity in the face of something one has to resist, which is an enforced serenity. One desires to be serene, then one desires to be courageous and it goes on down scale from there.

But even courage, for one living in this universe at this time, is almost missing. Man has dropped so far below anything that even faintly resembles courage, that his ability to reach serenity — which is considerably above it — is very materially impeded. He's got a long way to travel to get up to a certainty of serenity.

HAVINGNESS

So the first fatal step of the thetan is to match wavelengths with the physical universe so that he can resist it. He has the ability to produce energy to resist energy. Well, if there's anything in this universe that is consistent, it is the continual pounding the thetan takes when he matches wavelengths with it. He cannot be bogged into a large amount of energy unless he has matched wavelengths with it so he can resist it. Only then can it pile up against those things with which he's matching wave lengths.

So this universe puts upon the thetan the stress of resisting interiorization — unless he keeps himself entirely away from any obsession about havingness.

A thetan can have and own, of course, but an obsession to have or own is aberrative. It follows as a direct result of the desire-enforce-inhibit cycle.

The thetan starts by inhibiting the inflow of the universe upon him. Failing this, he reactively inverts and now thinks he has to have it. As he now desires it, the universe can then enforce an inflow upon him. He doesn't like this enforcement, so he begins to inhibit the inflow of the universe upon him, and the cycle begins again. He inverts again and thinks he has to have this and so turns around and has it enforced upon him again.

All the way along the line, he is going back and forth dramatizing this. He gets into inhibit and resists interiorization again.

THE DWINDLING SPIRAL

So the thetan is progressively interiorized and exteriorized. But as he coasts down the track, his spirals get shorter and shorter, because he is depending more and more on the mechanism of exteriorization-interiorization itself. That's why spirals get shorter; why the universe itself is a dwindling spiral.

There he is, all the energy pounds him, and the next thing you know, he's mass. Or he puts up an idea, the energy pounds the idea, and the next thing you know, it's mass.

Of course, the first thing he inhibits is himself. That's the first inhibition that any thetan is engaged upon. He inhibits himself.

He does that in order to have a game. Actually, there's no proof at all that a thetan needs a game. It isn't absolutely necessary. He might be able to go up and sit on Cloud 9 for the next 99 thousand years. And, if he didn't have the obsession to have a game, maybe he'd be happy all those 99 thousand years. But he likes a game.

The trouble is, every once in a while he loses all the rules to the games he's playing. So he dies and grows up into a new game (which is actually the same game).

IDENTITIES

An identity is about the first thing a thetan has to be cured of. His thirst for identity is only the result of this constant pounding from all sides, which makes him obsessively desire to be a symbol, that is, to be a mass of energy.

By far the finest identity to have is a shiftable identity. As a young writer, I never used my own identity. An identity was cheap and easy to come by; all you did was write it down on a piece of paper. Once you put your own name to something as a writer, well, you're to that degree immobile. You're categorized.

Every time the society itself is able to categorize you and label you and say "you're a doctor" or "a lawyer" or "a bus driver", why, it is quite happy, because everybody is obsessed with the idea of interiorizing everything. That's agreement with the MEST universe. They want to make a symbol out of everybody.

If there's anything they'll fight, it's versatility. Anybody who can do several things well becomes very suspect. But the truth of the matter is, an individual is as able as he can do many things well.

IDEAS AND ENERGY

The interiorization tendency of the universe itself gives the thetan the idea that all of his ideas should be cloaked in energy.

Yet the more an idea is fixed in energy, the less effective it is, the less pervasive it is as a postulate.

Energy does not have to accompany an idea in any way, shape or form for that idea to be effective. As a matter of fact, the idea could be said to be as effective as it is not accompanied by energy.

An idea cloaked in energy gets into the fixed form of a symbol. The thetan feels that the more symbols he makes, the better off he'll be. This is not true. All down the track, you'll find individuals storing up masses of energy with great care. A being thinks he needs this energy, but his need for it is actually zero, because the more energy he has, the less he can create. The communication becomes more and more arduous the more mass you have impeding it.

FACSIMILES

In Scientology, we find a direct index between the sanity of an individual and the amount of energy which he has kicking around his bank. He is as sane as he doesn't have this energy; it's a direct index.

What is an engram? What is a facsimile? These are ideas fixed in masses of energy, aren't they?

They are caused by the resistance of the thetan to the environment. If you were to resist a bookcase, for instance, with a wall of energy, you would get a picture of a bookcase. It would be a funny sort of picture — it wouldn't have any depth. And that is true of a facsimile. It may have three dimensions, it may have all sorts of things, but it doesn't have a back side.

Exteriorized, sometime, you should "pick up" one of these newly manufactured facsimilies that some machine is kicking out. There's nothing on the back of them.

So if you were to take a thetan's energy and paste it over the bookcase, you of course would get a picture of the bookcase. That's a facsimile.

All a thetan has to do is push some energy at an object and he gets a picture. It's the most elementary photography there is. And that is this horrible thing called a facsimile.

MEMORY

An individual who is making facsimiles is dwelling under an obsession, because facsimiles are not necessary. They do not do anything for an individual. There is no plus value to them at all.

Memory does not depend upon havingness. It's just the reverse: as havingness increases, memory decreases. The feeling that one has to ransack his facsimile bank, the feeling that one must go into one's engrams to discover what is there, is born out of the fact that as the universe is continually interiorizing his ideas, he feels that his ideas are now interiorized into these facsimiles. Actually, they are not. No idea could ever be interiorized into anything except if one believed it was.

Let's take the idea, "I am going", for instance, and pound it from all sides with energy. We will have, finally, a mass of energy which has about as much "I am going" in it as the string on your finger, which you tied there to remind yourself to get a loaf of bread, has a loaf of bread in it.

Without the assistance of the individual, there is no memory restimulation from pictures.

Unless the individual himself knows what is in the picture, there is nothing in the picture!

If you consider all facsimiles to be pieces of string on people's fingers, you'll have it.

People think they make these things of their own free will, but they actually make them because of the set-up which causes them to continue to make a universe. As they outflow, they are met by inflows, and with these outflows and inflows, they get deposits of relatively fixed masses of energy. Now, as they know these masses of energy are there, they can "put them there" and use them to "know what happened".

You get how idiotic this is? It's like tying a piece of string on your finger to get a loaf of bread!

I knew a young lady who continually switched one of her rings to the opposite hand when she had to remember something. The only trouble was, she could never remember what it was she had to remember! I finally dissuaded her from continuing the practice, and her memory actually got much better at that point! She didn't have trouble remembering things after that.

Well, her memory had been bad be-

The abilities of OT are something that man has searched for and strived for all down the track. Without the technology we have today in Scientology, his search for a stable state of causativeness was doomed. Yet every once in a while, a brief flash of ability has startled and dazzled man with the promise of what could be. Another chapter in Man's Spiritual History:

Saints

When people talk about saints, we might get a picture of a group of robed and bearded men, ranked in neat rows, each with his halo in place like something out of a Gothic painting.

Yet if you were to actually walk into a large hall filled with all the people who have been named as saints down through the centuries, you would find an incredibly diverse group.

In among the crowns and miters* of the rich and famous would be the rags of the poor and the simple dress of ordinary farmers and country folk. You would see men, women, even children. Some would tower above the others, their voices booming out. Others would talk quietly. Some would be serious and withdrawn, others would gather in groups. You would probably hear a burst of laughter from the group around St. Phillip Neri, a priest known for his wit and cheerful good humor. Or you might hear the outspoken St. Catherine of Siena taking some pope or king to task with the bluntest language!

Among the robes and fur-trimmed gowns of the nobility, you would see the burnished breastplates and plumed helmets of soldiers, peasant smocks and simple boots, and the poorest rags. You would see the tall, the short, the meek, the boistrous, the brilliant, the simple.

What, then, you might ask, do all these people have in common? Why have they been singled out by man over the centuries for special respect and honor? What is it that makes a saint a saint?

* miter: The tall, ornamented cap worn by popes, bishops and abbots as a mark of office.

A 16th-century woodcut of Saint Jerome. The lion was a symbol of wisdom and generosity, two of the qualities man has always respected in his saints.

To answer this question, let's take a look at some of the well-known saints—what they were like and what they did with their lives.

THE CURÉ OF ARS

Jean-Marie-Baptiste Vianney (1786-1858) became a priest at 29 and was appointed Curé (parish priest) of the small town of Ars, about 16 miles from Lyons in France. This is a place from which he could have easily faded into obscurity, and remained unknown to history. But he did his job as Curé of Ars so well that by the end of his life, 100,000 pilgrims were visiting Ars every year, and Bishops and dignitaries came from all over France to seek his advice!

His first task, the conversion of Ars itself, took him only six years. He visited each family in the area and spoke to them, peasant to peasant. Seeing the inns as the source of sin and poverty in his community, he ran a campaign against them and soon had them all closed — he bought the last one out himself. As the taverns emptied, his church filled.

His most remarkable talent, however, was as a confessor. He had an uncanny, almost telepathic ability to penetrate to the heart of someone's troubles and give them relief with a few well-aimed words. His reputation spread far and wide, and soon a constant stream of pilgrims began arriving, looking for spiritual as well as physical cures.

As his fame spread, the Curé became quite an opinion leader in the Church, and churchmen came from all over France to hear his moving sermons and ask his advice.

Several times he tried to retreat from Ars and lead a quiet monastic life, but each time, the people asked him to return and he came. He died in Ars at the age of 73, a legend.

Saint Francis

One of the best-loved saints of all time is Saint Francis of Assisi, the joyous, nature-loving saint who founded the order of Franciscans.

Born the son of a wealthy cloth merchant, Francis grew up among a lively, pleasure-loving group. His energy and charm made him a natural leader in the revelry.

After a military career and a long illness, his life changed. He had a series of dreams or visions he interpreted as divine warnings and commands.

He turned to solitude, prayer, and service to his fellow man. He began traveling the country, preaching and ministering to the sick and poor, especially the lepers. Overcoming his lifelong revulsion of lepers, Francis forced himself to confront and help them without flinching — an act of almost superhuman self-control which he considered one of his greatest personal triumphs.

His magnetic personality and devotion soon gathered a large following. At first he resisted organizing, having a natural dislike for monastic rules and laws. Eventually he was persuaded and wrote the monastic rules which became the basis of the Franciscan Order.

He created a new type of religious person, the friar, who — unlike the hermit or monk — went out to the poor, to the city-dweller or pagan and lived a life of active service. The message of Francis was that one should live by one's ideals — uncompromisingly.

He existed very much on a spiritual level, driving his body hard and living a life of self-denial. His love and sense of brotherhood with all living things and the entirety of nature have made him one of the most popular and respected of saints.

Saint Vincent de Paul

Vincent de Paul was an ambitious young priest, hoping to become a bishop, when his life underwent a somewhat violent change. He was captured by Turkish pirates and sold into slavery!

After some years chained in wretched slave-galleys, Vincent managed to escape — he converted his third slave-master to Christianity and fled with him to France!

With this solid reality on the conditions in the world, Vincent decided to devote the rest of his life to charitable work. So successfully did he do this that he is now known as the father of organized charity.

In 1619, he was made royal almoner (a person who distributes alms) of the galleys under Louis XIII. He visited the galley slaves, became one of them, and discovered what their needs were. He established a hospital at Marseilles for galley slaves.

He was also known for his work among the peasants of France. Like St. Francis, he got his followers up and out of the monasteries, sending them out into plague-ridden cities, into North Africa, to the far corners of the earth. He established several orphanages as well as charitable organizations of women who ministered to the poor and the sick.

Joan of Arc

One of the most remarkable women who ever lived, Joan of Arc has inspired many artists and writers with her story.

An illiterate French country girl, Joan became convinced that she had been chosen by God to deliver France from the English. Beginning when she was about 13, she heard voices. When Orleans fell under siege, the voices instructed her to rescue the city.

If you were an unknown little country girl, how would you go about defeating an army?

Joan didn't hesitate. She secured a horse and an escort and rode across occupied France, through roadblocks, ambushes and sentries, direct to the Dauphin, Charles. She told him of her visions and said she would deliver Orleans if sent there with the troops. After a lengthy examination by a skeptical clergy, they were finally convinced, and Joan was sent off to Orleans, in full armor, with French troops behind her.

Inspired by Joan's enthusiasm and courage, the army marched on Orleans and, miraculously, freed it. The English were put to flight, and Joan marched on, defeating the English in four other battles.

In 1430, however, she was taken prisoner and put to trial by the English — as a witch. She was found guilty, and threatened with burning unless she recanted and denied that she had been inspired by her voices. She refused, and was burned at the stake as a witch.

She faced her death — as she had faced life — with such courage that an English official was moved to say "We are undone. We have burned a saint."

Saint Bernadette

In 1858, the Grotto of Massabielle in Lourdes was a rather ordinary, shallow, boulder-strewn cavern. Today it is one of the most popular places of pilgrimage in the world, with up to two million visitors annually.

What happened? A fourteen year-old girl, playing in the grotto one day, saw a vision: "I saw a lady . . . wearing a white dress and a blue sash . . ."

Ordinarily, such a thing might be forgotten, but Bernadette believed in what she had seen and stuck to her guns despite considerable skepticism from her family, her friends, local priests and eventually, as the story spread, the press.

Bernadette's matter-of-factness and honesty in relating her experiences soon had convinced many people, and crowds of spectators gathered at the grotto for her visits. No one else saw the white lady, but on one occasion, something unexplainable happened. Bernadette was commanded to drink from a spring that did not exist, and when she put her fingers into the mud, water bubbled up. This became a trickle, then a spring. The spring still exists today, yielding about 9000 gallons a day. Pilgrims began gathering the miraculous water in bottles and soon the first cures were reported.

What actually happened at Lourdes has been endlessly debated: did Bernadette actually see anything, and if so, what or who was it? But the fact is that Lourdes has become one of the most popular places of pilgrimage, and a pile of crutches attests to the fact that — like other places of "faith healing" — Lourdes does have its measure of success.

And Others

There are many other saints we could take up, men and women who lived lives of integrity, honor and service to others:

Another St. Francis — Francis de Sales — opposed the idea that to live a religious life you had to shut yourself up in a monastery or convent and never face the world. He showed in his writings — and in his actions — that a life of devotion is possible in the world.

St. Phillip Neri took up holy orders as a young man and ministered to the sick and poor in Rome. He founded a hospice for pilgrims and invalids. Known for his wit and playful humor, Phillip felt that a cheerful temper was more Christian than a melancholy one!

Saint Camillus de Lellis was an unusual saint: formerly a big, roistering soldier and general troublemaker, he one day experienced a change in his life and decided to spend the rest of his life in charitable work. He founded the Ministers of the Sick, who went into hospitals, into the streets, seeking out prisoners, slaves, the sick or injured. They were the forerunners of the Red Cross, having a red cross sewn onto their tunics.

Another former soldier, gambler, fighter and womanizer was Ignatius of Loyola, who gave it all up one day to become a "Soldier of Christ". With his courage and energy, he inspired a tremendous following, which later became the Society of Jesus, or Jesuits. His followers converted many thousands of people and started Christian communities from the Middle East as far east as Japan!

Many of the very early Christian saints — St. Stephen, St. Laurence, St. Catherine and others — are venerated because they refused to renounce their faith — even in the face of death.

What is a Saint?

What, then, is a saint? Why have these people been selected out by man for special respect and honor?

We can see that these are generally people who have combined great ability with high standards of personal ethics and integrity.

They have been called "spiritual models" — examples of the greatness of spirit that man can and should strive for.

The word saint comes from the Latin sanctus, "holy". And holy comes from the old Anglo-Saxon word halig, which means whole or healthy.

A saint, then, would be someone who was spiritually healthy!

It is a sad comment on our society that when someone does appear on the scene who is able and ethical, he shines as brightly as a lone star in an empty sky. He becomes an object of universal awe and respect!

In the early days of Christianity, the word saint was used to refer to all believers.

And why, indeed, shouldn't all men be that able?

Results

In his brilliant article on Miracles, L. Ron Hubbard says:

"A miracle is simply a wondrous occurrence. But anything is wonderful in a society which has not seen the like of it before. For example, if a bunch of saints walked down the street and routinely healed the lame and blind left and right, this would become so commonplace that it would cease to be regarded as miraculous.

"I think Man would be a little better off if he had a few routine miracles happening all the time, so such actions ceased to be miraculous. My feeling is that if we work well in Dianetics and Scientology . . . what we will be doing in the society will no longer be miraculous, but will be expected and routine. If somebody gets sick, feels hopeless, unhealthy and unhappy he will know exactly where to go to get some fast relief from that condition.

"As far as I am concerned we don't want miracles, we want results (such as exist in the countless success stories in the files of Scientology Churches) occurring all over the society as a routine and expected occurrence."

Beyond Man's Dreams

Today, we do have the technology to produce results far beyond the dreams of man. With Dianetics and Scientology, the road is open for anyone to advance towards the ability, honesty, integrity and greatness of spirit so respected in the saints of old.

And the path leads on, to levels of ability and causativeness only dreamed of in ages past.

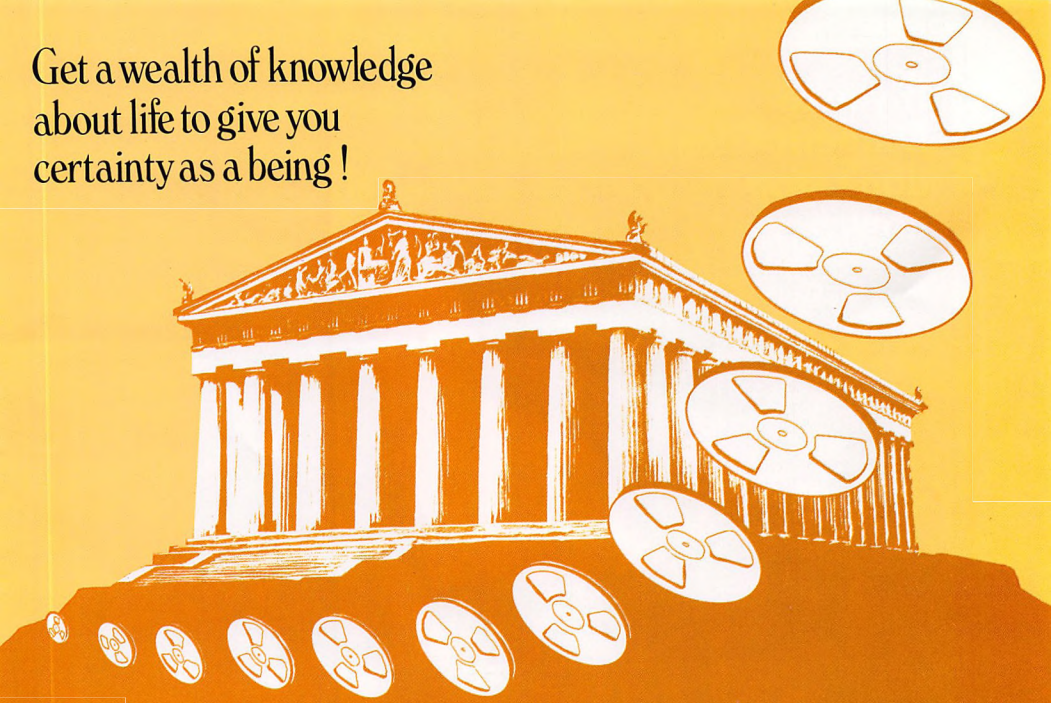

Today, thanks to L. Ron Hubbard's technology of Dianetics, there are thousands and thousands of Dianetic Clears.

And now, with the technical breakthroughs of 1978 and the full recognition and validation of this state, Dianetic Clears can proceed directly (after any needed setups including Grades) to their Solo Course and OT Levels.

Man has long dreamed of such a path towards higher states of spiritual beingness, where he could be true to his ideals, strong and unshakable in his purpose, and energetic and dynamic in carrying out his plans. On the OT Courses, that dream becomes a reality.

The traps of this universe can be overcome, and man can advance to stable states of ability, causativeness and integrity — on the OT Levels!

Get a wealth of knowledge about life to give you certainty as a being!

Man has often spoken of hell-fire. But he never had to go to hell to find it.

The traps of this sector of the universe have ensured that the earth would remain a hell of wars, madness, hate between people and nations.

OT WINS LIKE THESE AWAIT THE DIANETIC CLEAR!

SUCCESS!

BEYOND MAN'S WILDEST DREAMS!

On the Advanced Courses, a Dianetic Clear or Clear walks the route to full certainty of self and one's abilities as a thetan. Here are some of the recent spectacular wins and successes of those at the upper end of the Bridge!

Solo Set-ups

Thanks for the help in handling the last remaining things that needed taking care of before I could get onto my OT Levels.

I now know that I do not have anything that will keep me from getting the wins on the upper levels that I am looking forward to doing.

V.R.

Solo Course

I have become a solo auditor and was very surprised at the ease with which it happened and how good I am at auditing myself!

D.M.

I've looked forward to doing solo auditing but really had no idea how fun it would be! I feel very good about my auditing and feel I've gained the ability to really validate myself.

C.L.

R6EW

R6EW really handled so many things I'd never fully viewed or understood. I feel very clean and free from all flows of dramatization. It was truly a fantastic level. I have a much better reality on the reactive mind and I feel much more capable of handling it in myself or others.

E.M.

Clearing Course

Before auditing this action, I felt a great many "can'ts" about my auditing and myself. Then somewhere in the level I started looking forward to every session. It was as though each read of the meter was a final blow to that dragon I've carried with me for eons.

Everything is beautiful now. I feel I can confront the dramatization and entheta "out there" and recycle it into clean flows. It is a beautiful state!

C.H.

I have been operating freely now without influence of a bank for nearly two years now, and this state is stable. It's only common sense to operate without the influence of a destructive thing like a bank!

C.J.

OT I

I feel very stable right now and really in great ARC with my environment. This is a marvelous level that really opened my eyes as a thetan and got me to see how able I can really be!

D.L.

My normal owned space is about ten times larger. The perceptics I can use in the area are crystal clear — and the ability for me to flow real nice, genuine ARC and want to flow it to others around me is out the roof!

D.G.

OT II

My awareness seems to extend forever in every direction. I have never felt so fantastic!

G.S.

I had more change on OT II than any previous auditing — almost as much as all previous auditing! OT II addressed what I came into Scientology for, and really handled it!

B.S.

OT III

The most incredible level I've ever done, full of surprises and fantastic wins. It's very real to me now why things are the way they are in life. I've got the answers to so many questions I've had for so long — and found out things I never thought to wonder about!

P.K.

I have an enormous, huge, vast space, as big as I care to consider it. The space is very calm and I can take full responsibility for it. I feel safe in this space and I know that I am cause. As an extra "icing on the cake", I experienced exteriorization with full perception!

A.U.

OT VII EP

By far the best auditing I've had in ten years in Scientology. It is a real OT level, rehabilitating my basic OT abilities to be at cause, intend and postulate without effort and without the consideration of needing effort.

S.S.

OT III Expanded

This was the final polish. I really did get all the gains out of this level. I'm aware of myself and fully self-determined. All my intentions and postulates go the way I want. I feel so clean!

H.M.

A major milestone in a thetan's travels through the illusions of the mest universe — and a must before full OT can be reached.

B.F.

OT IV

This action was fantastic. How such a simple rundown can give so much case gain awes me! I don't think that I can remember ever feeling this exterior and this much myself.

H.M.

OT V

OT V blows all the seriousness and solidity of this universe — it was fun!

P.B.

Before starting OT V, I had a mock-up of what could be handled on it — this huge area that I thought might be confronted, and the gains I expected I might be able to get. Well, in my first one-hour session, I gained more than I expected from the entire level!

C.R.

OT VI

Learning to operate exterior was like learning to walk all over again. I'm free to be where I wish and create effects where I so desire. It's fun to play this game from a pan-determined viewpoint.

R.B.

I remember looking at the Grade Chart in 1973. Looking up at OT VI, I said to myself, those abilities I will regain. I will travel this road, and cross this bridge, and I did.

The endless trillenia stretch before me and I know I will achieve all my goals. My thanks to Ron.

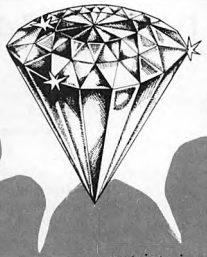

T.B.

Full OT VII

This is the greatest moment of my life to date. My dream has become a reality. My most important achievement is the ability to create effects in this universe and the knowledge and certainty of this ability. Before I came to the AO I knew I was able but something was holding me back. Well, no more!

OT: Memory & Ability

cause she believed she had a dependency. The ring was a dependency. A note is a dependancy. When you take notes at a lecture, for instance, you depend upon a piece of paper to do your recalling for you. But if you didn't know what was there already, you could never read it back. That's hideous but true. If you didn't know what was there in the first place, you could never get it back off the page.

WHOLE TRACK

One of the mysteries which has consistently confronted you is why you don't, with entire clarity, remember your whole track.

Where has your memory gone for 76 trillion years? Well, it's wrapped up in all the deposits of energy you had to remind yourself that you could know. It's wrapped up in all of those strings you had on your fingers to tell you to get a loaf of bread.

It's still there, in other words. It's just that the loss of havingness brings about a loss of memory on the line.

You know some of the grief which you've run out of preclears because they have lost an ally, and how badly they felt about this ally and how occluded everything was when the ally disappeared. Consider, then, the intimacy of one's own body which is endowed with his own energy and life. The loss of that is so much greater than the loss of an ally that we can see that we have a series of — not grief charges — but super apathy charges lying on the past death track. The feeling of unreality, the feeling of deprived havingness when one loses a body is quite serious.

If you have ever had the experience of losing something which meant a great deal to you and feeling immediately afterwards the entire universe sort of draw in upon you and everything become unreal, then you have some reality on this. This experience itself is a loss of memory, and is the reason why you've lost your former lives and former patterns of existence.

This unreality is all the unreality there is, and it is caused by a diminishing of havingness. It's caused by this "string on the finger" trick. The individual had these deposits of energy so that he would know to remind himself that he could know. All of a sudden they disappear, and he doesn't know whether he's supposed to pick up a loaf of bread or a Ford car!

The loss of havingness, the loss of

mass, then, brings about this condition of unreality. One loses an enormous mass and immediately believes that his reality is gone, because his reality is dependent upon particles. It shouldn't be, but because of the inflow of the universe, the thetan makes it so.

REMEDIES

There are two ways to remedy this. The first method, easily the slowest and clumsiest, is to restore the individual's havingness. When you do this, his memory comes back. The other way is to disabuse him of needing some havingness in order to have a memory.

If you wanted, for instance, to recover a language which an individual has spoken on the whole track, one method would be to remedy his havingness on the ridges and symbols which were, to him, the language. The fellow has lost all of those, so can't talk the language. It doesn't mean that he doesn't have the knowledge, of course, because the only way that he ever had it was simply to know that he had it!

A thetan, let us say, is convinced that he has lost everything French. He doesn't have anything French, so therefore he can't talk French. Well, by mocking up French ridges and French bodies that he had, and bringing them together into heavy masses, his reality rises and he will talk French again.

But mocking up masses is the slow way. It isn't necessarily true that he is dependent upon these masses at all to have his memory returned. So the other method is simply to disabuse him of having to have in order to remember.

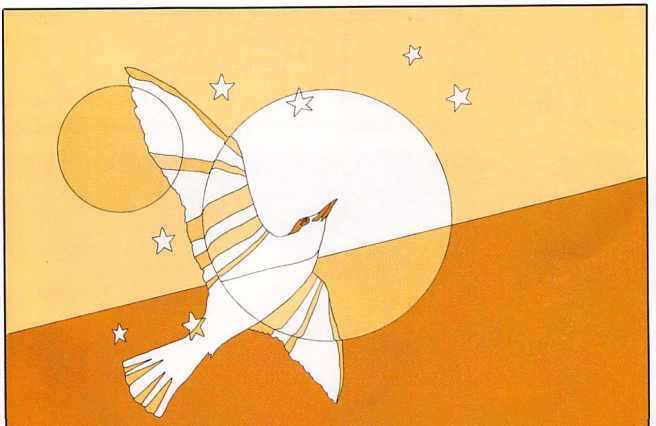

HANDLING ENERGY

It is not, however, one of the goals of OT to restore the individual's entire memory on the track. The goal, instead, is to restore the ability of the individual to handle energy.

Just because he has not handled it adequately here and there in the past is no reason why he cannot do so in the future.

A pilot, sent up immediately after a crash, will have enough nerve to fly again. But a pilot who is grounded for many months after a crash and does not take a plane up again will very often "lose his nerve". A pilot has to be permitted to take up a plane and fly it and do the things with it that he did before

DIANETIC CLEARS!

REALIZE YOUR

Gain levels of awareness and ability even the gods would strive for!

If you're Dianetic Clear, or approaching Clear, you're on the threshold of realizing one of man's most ancient dreams.

Legends tell of the gods of old – powerful beings with great creative powers. From Mount Olympus to Valhalla they created their vast effects.

Man has long dreamed that he too could someday learn to operate to his fullest potential as a being – independent of a body.

Throughout history, people have imagined such higher states of ability and awareness, and have tried to reach them. But they did not know how.

The mystics said that there was a chasm or abyss between the world as it is now and higher states of existence, and that anyone attempting to cross to these higher states fell into the abyss. So man remained unaware.

Today, thanks to L. Ron Hubbard, we have a Bridge.

The state of OT is a reality and can be achieved! Once only a dream of man, it now exists, not as a temporary state subject to relapse, but on a stable plane.

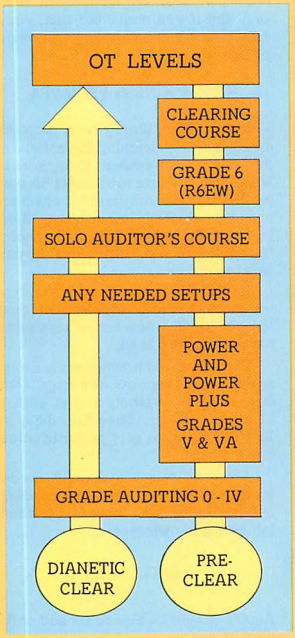

OT! How would it be to have complete certainty of yourself as a being. To be able to realize and tap your full abilities as a thetan. To be cause, accomplish goals and make your postulates stick! To be able to reach out and really use your abilities to the fullest!

Think what you could accomplish! What games you could play across all dynamics!

All this is within your reach. On the OT levels, you future will be a continual expanding of awareness, understanding and ability as a thetan. Stable, extroverted, causative!

Today, with the breakthroughs of 1978 (as described in Ron's Journal 30), the Bridge to OT is faster and more accessible than ever before!

FULL OT POTENTIAL!

Dianetic Clears – on the threshold of OT!

If you are Dianetic Clear, you're almost there. The Bridge to OT is considerably shortened and streamlined for you. The full validation of the state of Dianetic Clear has made many prerequisites unnecessary.

Just study the chart above. Once a Dianetic Clear has completed his Grades 0 to IV, and any necessary set-up actions, he goes directly on to the Solo Auditor's Course and OT Levels! A Dianetic Clear does not have to do Power Processing (Grades V and VA), Grade 6 (R6EW) or the Clearing Course. Naturally. He is already Clear!

So if you are Dianetic Clear, come to the Advanced Org right away! Get started on your OT Levels!

The incredible gains of OT await you. Remember that Ron has said that "there is probably a greater distance between Clear and OT than there is between humanoid and Clear."

Get the real story of Man's past!

BUY A History of Man by L. Ron Hubbard

Man's history is far longer, far more dramatic than Darwin ever dreamed.

Science has relied on old bones, dug up from ancient swamps and tar pits, to tell them what they know of man's past. And all they know, basically, is that bodies, somehow, must have evolved. They have no conception of how or why this occurred.

But the body line is only one facet of man's past.

In the early '50s, L. Ron Hubbard did some digging of his own. He dug, not with a spade, but with an E-Meter.

The result, verified in case after case, is the true story of man's past track – a past that goes far beyond the ideas of Darwin; a past filled with drama and adventure.

In A History of Man, Ron answers such questions as:

* How and why do bodies "evolve".
* What are the "control centers" of the body and how do they come about?
* What is the difference between a thetan, and a body's genetic entity?
* What is the history of the body line?
* What is the history of the theta line.

A clearly written book that anyone can read and understand, A History of Man is vital reading for anyone on the road to OT.

OT: Memory & Ability

the crash, until he has recovered his confidence.

The recovery of confidence is more important than the recovery of memory, and if you remember that, you'll save yourself from getting into many pitfalls.

KNOWINGNESS VS. DATA

Memory would simply be a pervasive knowingness concerning the pattern of particles as they existed. It degrades to the degree that one substitutes his own particles for the lost particles which are no longer there. In other words, it degrades to the degree that the individual has energy to represent where the particles were.

He has to already know what went on, and he has to be able to reinterpret these energy symbols before they mean anything to him at all.

Therefore, his knowingness is always senior to his deposits of energy. Data is a series of symbols and as such is ideas plus energy. Therefore data, by that definition, is very junior to actual knowingness.

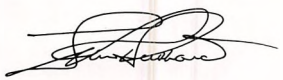

A thetan does not so much need a method of knowingness as he needs an exteriorization from those things which inhibit his knowingness.

POSTULATES

An OT should be able to fix and unfix ideas in energy. He ought to be able to fix into a car, for instance, the idea that it can't be stolen, and anybody coming along to steal the car would realize the car couldn't be stolen.

An OT also ought to be able to have or not have without consequences to memory.

As the level of Operating Thetan is approached, the individual becomes more and more capable of handling energy, and you get a gradient rise in ability all along this line, putting him, finally, in full command of his own postulates.

Dianetic Clears!

The wins of NED for OTs can be yours after OT III!

Ron's fabulous new OT rundown, NED for OTs, is now being delivered at the three Advanced Organizations as well as at Flag.

Word of mouth alone has created a planet-wide wave of excitement about this new rundown. The wins are beyond anything this planet has ever seen!

If you're Dianetic Clear, get through OT III as fast as possible and get this incredible rundown!

Here are a few of the recent wins from NED for OTs!

This level of auditing has been the most incredible I have ever experienced. I finally know where the source of aberration comes from and also know that it can and will be handled.

All my dynamics are in a very favorable and pro-survival state now and I expect them to never get any worse. Without this level of auditing, there is no getting out of the trap we're all in.

J.B.

I can only humbly say that in the last few weeks I have progressed further and gained more perception, ability and understanding than I ever thought would occur from the whole of Scientology!

Previous to NED for OTs I felt I was a survivor of the game — now it seems I'm beginning to create it!

D.S.

I am! This is the most wonderful experience I have had in eons. I have become myself again. I am able to function as a thetan without relying on the body to feed me data and information. Words are too poor a form of communication to relate what I have gained and feel. I look forward to each new day and all of the things I will be doing and handling. What joy, what freedom, what life!

M.F.

The success of this level is above and beyond anything I could have conceived of.

To me, what L. Ron Hubbard has done is given an OT back his ability to soar forever, never again to be trapped. This level fulfills every hope I had that Scientology could deliver Affinity between all beings openly and without any reservations.

B.S.

I know this really can't be put into words, but here goes: I am exterior with full perception and exterior to this universe when I desire to be either. I know anything I want to know. I am free to experience anything and do anything I desire to experience. I can have any game I want and play it or not play it. I can create my own universe. I am free from that which seemed to key in and steal my wins. I can choose any tone to be in and remain there as long as I want. This is the level that has made me a real full OT!

B.F.

There's nothing I can say to fully describe in words what I have achieved on this incredible level!

It is so tremendously different — so much me, and nothing else but me. So much serenity and power and so many regained long-lost abilities. It is so exciting! Life is so much fun!

A.G.

Ron promised us surprises on this level — he is a master of understatement. Love, beauty, truth are a few of the jewels one gathers along this path to understanding. It is a priceless gift to mankind and is there for all to share.

I.R.

Every wish and postulate you have, each and every one of you, for yourself and others, is obtainable on this level. You will know that you can have the game you wish to play.

J.N.

This is the most incredible, powerful thing I have ever done in my life!

R.S.

I know with total certainty that there is nothing — nothing — that can affect a thetan unless he, himself, agrees to it. There is no adverse condition that is bigger than a thetan. I keep getting this repetitive cognition on Axiom 1, and any other consideration palls to insignificance on confronting this basic truth.

This rundown is the major breakthrough for OTs. It is vital for every OT and cannot be underestimated as the rundown to handle any condition.

I feel very ethical and happy. For me, this rundown has been a life-saver.

A 2500 year old prophecy come true?

2500 years ago, in the foothills of the Himalayas, Gautama Siddhartha, the Buddha, made the astounding prediction that a second Buddha, whom he called Metteya ("friend"), would come to complete his work in 2500 years.

Ancient Tibetan scriptures predicted that "he shall be seen in the West, seated in the Western fashion, his hair like flames about his noble head . . ."

Now, in Hymn of Asia: An Eastern Poem, the startling fulfillment of this ancient prophecy is revealed!

In one of the most beautifully stirring poetic messages of all time, L. Ron Hubbard brings a message of hope, truth and spiritual freedom to all mankind.

For Scientologists and OTs, it provides a deeper understanding of our role in the world today.

Over 300 pages, elegantly hand-lettered and richly illustrated, this is a book you'll treasure for years and read over and over.

Mission Into Time

Let's face it. Archeologists can only dig so deep. They can only find out so much about the past. The fragments dug up and painstakingly pieced together tell only the smallest fraction of the story of man's past.

The real story of man's past lies in our own past track recall.

Mission Into Time by L. Ron Hubbard tells of the most unusual research expedition into man's past ever undertaken. An exploration into both time and space.

In 1968, L. Ron Hubbard, freed from his organizational duties and assisted by the first Sea Organization Members, at last had the time and facilities to confirm in the physical universe some of the events he had encountered in his journeys down the track of time.

The results of this expedition, published in a limited manuscript edition in 1968 entitled "A Test of Whole Track Recall", created such a wave of interest and enthusiasm that an expanded hard cover edition was released.

This expanded edition is complete with charts, maps, color plates, and notes on the target locations. It also features Ron's famous essay on Past Lives, and one of the most complete biographies of Ron ever published: "Explorer in Two Realms".

Find out what happened when the Founder of Scientology put his memory of personal past life experiences to the test.
