INDEX OF 1958 AFA BULLETINS

As suggested at our last AFA Convention in New Orleans, we are presenting an Index of 1958 AFA BULLETINS for the convenience of members in finding articles. However, because many members desire to take AFA BULLETINS apart and keep serial material and special articles in their own special files, we have never numbered pages from the beginning to the end of each issue, but have rather numbered the pages of each article separately. Therefore, this Index will only show the month in which articles appeared. All are in Volume 20, and each is numbered in sequence from the lunation in January. Therefore, the month and number will identify the issue in which a given article may be found.

Pope John XXIII was born November 25, 1881 at Longitude 9E, Latitude 45N42, according to the New York Times, G. J. McCormack writes us. Some newspaper reports we noted in the last issue of the AFA BULLETIN give the date as November 15, 1881, which we understand is correct. Mrs. Zip Dobyns, MAFA has written us of her rectification of the birth time, presumably on November 15, 1881, as follows: "My figure is simple a rectified one but it seems to check events, and the formula which you know doubt know, using position of Moon and epoch, worked out. I place the time at a minute or two before 7 a.m. with 20° Scorpio Ascendant and 5° Virgo on the M.C. Thus the Moon falls within 2° of the MC and the Sun within 3° of the Asc. The Prog. MC this year is conjuncting the natal Sun and Prog. Asc. is trine Pluto, ruler of the Asc. from the 7th House. Neptune is in the 6th house (work) and Jupiter right on the Descendant. Saturn, Prog., has just moved into a trine to natal Moon from the 6th house. Jupiter is trine Uranus - Jupiter in the 6th, Uranus in the 10th. Prog. Moon is sextile natal Saturn and Moon and trine Mercury, but next spring it will conj. Mars at a time I previously picked for world tension (April - May). Minor progressions at that time show considerable personal prominence, especially in June-July 1959, when his minor Sun conjuncts natal MC and Moon. Prog. Mercury is also trine Mars which came into effect last year and ends next spring. The discordant Venus Prog. square Saturn shows the great responsibility of the job he has undertaken, and some inevitable sorrow and frustration connected with it. Natal Venus is the 11th, progressed to the 3d, Saturn solidly in the 6th."

GeeJay also reports that"the new Pope appeared on the flooded balcony above the main door of St. Peter's at 6:02 p.m." while"the white smoke signal appeared at 5:08 p.m."

GeeJay further says: "Based on the foregoing it would seem that October 28, 1958 would be the horary time of the proclamation announcing the new Pope," And further, he tells us, the Pope was ordained a priest August 10, 1904."

Doris Chase Doane will be Mistress of Ceremonies. Speakers will be Susan Peters, A TESTIMONIAL TO THE BROTHERHOOD OF LIGHT TEACHINGS; Edward Doane, President of the Church of Light, on C. C. ZAIN (Elbert Benjamine): THE MAN AND HIS WORKS; and Mayne Kenny, MAFA, who will present a COLORED SLIDE REPORT OF THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF ASTROLOGERS 1958 CONVENTION AT NEW ORLEANS. Mrs. Marbury E. Williamson, MAFA, writes us the following: "That Mars in Taurus has already collected several men in accidents---broken necks. Yesterday an elderly man fell off a ladder while scraping old paint off his home. Just now radio reports a farmer, driving his tractor, hauling milk early this morning in a fog, drove off the road into a 15 foot drop into a stream. Coroner reported a broken neck. A well-liked Undertaker fell down his stairway, foot slipped on rug, and broke his neck. I could name more." We wonder if any other members have been as observant of broken necks while Mars has been in Taurus!!!

Christmas is still coming, and it isn't too late to give that astrological friend a membership in the AFA as a wonderful Christmas present!!! Why not???

THE AQUARIAN AGE....ITS SIGNIFICANCE

(A LECTURE DELIVERED AT 8:40 P. M. WEDNESDAY MAY 28, 1958, A. F. A. CONVENTION NEW ORLEANS, LA.)

BY

DR. CHAUNCEY D. KING

Early in my Astrological experience, in this lifetime, I often heard the Aquarian Age referred to...there were many articles in our periodicals that mentioned it...but it was rather confusing to me! No clear-cut explanation was ever given. It brought up many questions. For example---

When did it begin?
When will it end?
Why should it follow the Piscean Age in Rx fashion?
What does it really mean to us?
How will it affect our lives? And why?

Personally, born with the Sun in Capricorn and Mercury in Aquarius, I was ambitious to know the answers to these questions, and proceeded to find out for myself. This lecture is prepared to help those, who, like myself, would like to know the answers.

We are not completely in the Aquarian Age as yet, although we have felt its influence in many ways since 1844, at which time we entered the cusp between Pisces and Aquarius.

This cuspal relationship always reminds me of the drunken sot who slowly ambled into the open air from a wayside saloon. Although he was now in the fresh open air, he still carried with him the stench of the bar-room he had left behind. And in a like manner, we are emerging from the emotional warlike period of Pisces, and entering into the open Air Age of Aquarius. This cuspal period will last approximately 186 years, before we are completely in the Aquarian Age, which will be in the year 2030 A. D.

Let us pause for a moment to consider the mechanics involved in this process. First, let us examine our Solar System. A year represents the period of time it takes our Earth to revolve around the Sun. Mercury does it in 88 days, whereas Pluto, our most distant planet, requires 240 years to make the circuit.

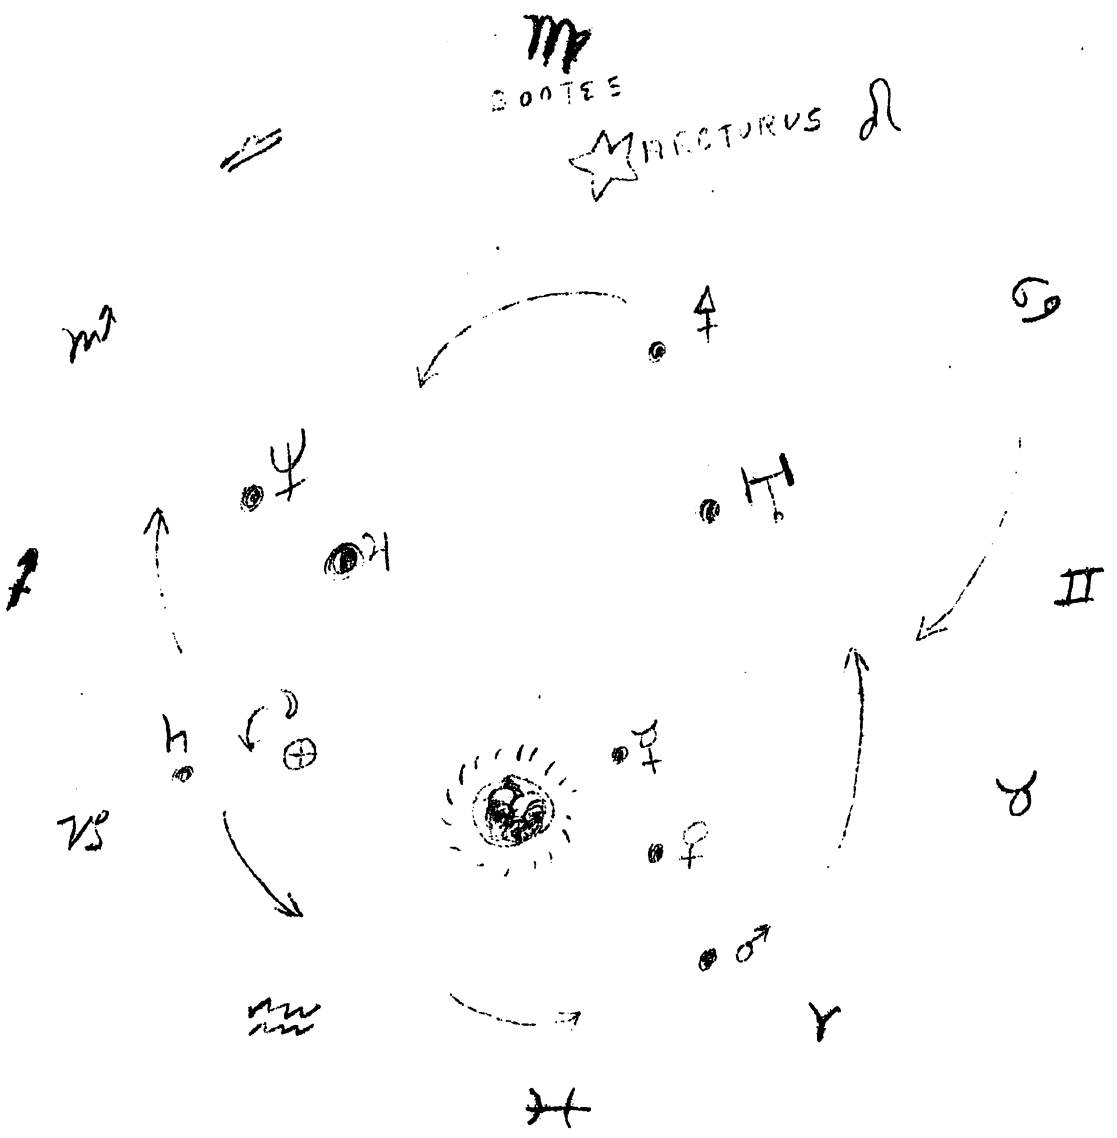

The planets of our system revolve around the Sun, passing from Aries to Taurus, and then on through the signs to Pisces.

But the Sun, along with the Solar System, revolves about a similar center in the greater universe. Its path, however, is in the opposite direction, as of now, from Pisces into Aquarius, and then on thus to Aries. Due to this reversed motion it is called "The Precession of the Equinoxes."

Now, the center around which our Sun revolves, is the great first magnitude star, Arcturus. Found in the constellation Bootes, it is the third brightest star in our heavens. To locate it, follow the curve of the stars in the handle of the Big Dipper, and it will point you to Arcturus.

Arcturus is quite a distance away from us. When you glance up at it, the sparkling light you see will be 125 years old; for this star is 125 "light-years" away from us. Most of you understand a light-year, but for the record I'll give it to you. Light travels at the rate of 186,772 miles per second. Multiply this by 60 seconds, by 60 minutes, by 24 hours, and by 365 days, and you have the stupenduous number of miles that light travels in one year. Multiply this by 125 and you will have the unthinkable distance that Arcturus is away from us.

Now the period of time necessary for a complete revolution of our Solar System around Arcturus is 25,884 solar years. That means we spend 2,157 years under the influence of each sign. The complete orbit is known as the Celestial Year, and the passage through each sign as a Celestial Month.

So much for the mechanics of the Celestial Year.

Cosmic ray activity from the various signs of the zodiac is the key to mankind's development. These rays are showered down upon us, and make a progressive change as we move from one sign to another in this orbit.

These cosmic rays affect man mentally, physically and spiritually and thus as he makes his progressive upward spiral of development, he changes ethically, morally, and religiously.

In our solar year, we pass through three periods of Fire, Earth, Air, and Water. In the Celestial Year, there are also three such cycles, but in this case they begin with Earth, then Fire, then Water, and finally passing through Air, at which time man reaches his highest peak of development.

The Earth periods might be thought of as Stone Ages. Here the cusmic rays affect man more physically than otherwise. He lives close to nature, and worships it. He is pragmatic mentally. Not sociable, he fights readily, using his muscles, and employing sticks and stones against his enemies.

In the Fire periods he makes more of a mental development. He learns to use fire, which he worships; he learns to use metals, and forms swords and spears to use against his enemies.

In the Water age that follows, his greatest development is emotional. Water symbolizes his religion, and great wars are engaged in to squelch his foes. He becomes more scientific, as he evolves upward.

Finally, man reaches his peak in an Air Age, mentally, morally, and spiritually. This period has been called the "Golden Age," in which man is highly scientific and cultured. He becomes intelligent enough to arbitrate his differences, and thus it becomes a warless age. His religion becomes idealistic, and this tends to abolish sects and creeds.

At the end of each such Air Age, there is a severe catastrophe, which creates major changes in earthly topography, in which mankind loses all that he has gained in scientific culture, and thus must start once more from scratch, in the next Earth Age that follows.

Now let us move backward about 8,000 years to the last Air Age. This was Gemini, the last Golden Age, dominated by that mighty nation known as Atlantis, located at that time in the tropical part of our Atlantic Ocean. Other nations highly developed at that time were Lemuria in the Pacific Ocean area, and Mongolia, which thrived in the so-called Golden Age of China.

Mankind at that time was far ahead of anything we know at the present time, ethically, morally, spiritually, scientifically, etc. At the end of this Gemini Golden Age, scientists in Atlantis tested an atom bomb deep in the bowels of the earth, with disastrous consequences, for great earthquakes and floods followed, precipitating the great catastrophe which completely obliterated Atlantis and Lemuria, and most of Mongolia, losing to mankind all the wonderful culture and scientific developments of that age. Thus man had to start from scratch once more!

So man began a new spiral upward from the lowly Earth sign of Taurus. Strongly physical, man turned to Nature worship, and adulated fertility. He worshipped the bull, which is still prevalent in India today, in their sacred-cow religion. In this ancient time the bull was ever the center of attraction in their religious parades. This was probably the origin of our teen-ager's "holy cow" epithet.

Converts to their religion at this time were baptized in fresh blood. A platform was built, upon which the sacrificial animal was slain...the converts were assembled in a group below...the fresh blood thus coursed down over their naked bodies. This is probably the origin of the song, "Washed in the Blood of the Lamb."

Since fertility was all-important, the Romans at this time venerated the Goddess Ceres, who ruled over abundance of crops from the earth. That is probably the root of our term "cereals."

When the cosmic ray bombardment entered the Fire sign of Aries, humanity made a great change, morally and ethically. Man worshipped fire, and universal Sun worship was the rule. This, too, was the age of metallic discovery, and man made swords and spears to fight his battles with. Burnt offerings were used in their religion, often sacrificing their own offspring. The Mayans in their annual celebration sacrificed their most beautiful maiden, by cutting out her heart, in a sacrifice to the Sun. The mental side of man made great strides in this age.

Then, about 2,000 years ago, we entered the Water sign of Pisces. Water became the dominant influence. Great Britain became the leading world power, due to her great naval development. Fulton invented the steam-boat, and steam was largely used for motive power and transportation; hydraulics were used for heavy lifting.

Religion made great changes...water baptism became common. Christ was born 913 years after the beginning of this age, and thus became a water Christ. His disciples were fishermen. He taught by the sea. He walked on the water, and the symbol of Christianity became the fish, and not the cross!

And now, behold the known world is feeling the stimulus of the Aquarian cosmic ray bombardment, which began approximately in 1844 and will continue until 4001 A. D. This is another Air Dispensation, and will be marked by all things aerial. Beginning with the invention of the telegraph and the telephone, then the airplane and radio transmission, electricity, the movies, T. V., guided missiles, and how the conquest of outer space by artificial moons. Atomic energy bids fair to supplant electricity as power. The airplane, the automobile, and the heating of our homes will soon be atomic triumphs. Thus you will note the tremendous strides that man has made in only 114 years that we have been on the cusp of the Aquarian Age, in spite of the great Piscean or emotional wars that have been fought during this time. What will man be able to do in the 2,043 years remaining in this great Age?

For this is another Golden Age, a warless dispensation, and probably the Millenium which church people have been looking for!

But religions will change their motif during this time. They will lose their emotionalism, and become more spiritual and intellectual. Water baptism will change to some form of air baptism. Psychical development will probably take over the religious motif. Edison's plan for inter-plane communication will probably be achieved.

It is not generally known that Edison had practically invented a sensitive radio as his final invention, which would enable those who had passed on to communicate with their friends on this plane.

But two great religious bodies put the kibosh on this great invention. The Methodists and the Catholics sent men to protest to President Coolidge. He called in Edison and pleaded with him to abolish the invention, because the Church did not like the idea! Unfortunately, Edison acquiesced. But there are indications that this will be completed during this Age, and probably also a T. V. success in the same field.

Thus we can watch the development of this Golden Age. International Brotherhood will flourish, with no wars to spoil it! Despotism will disappear, and nations will have more republican forms of government... I said republican, not democratic... probably following the United States, which has been set up as an example for the rest of the world to follow.

So let us enjoy our Golden Age! In these 2,000 years we should reincarnate at least four times, to get the great spiritual development which is possible during such a period!

About the year 4001 A. D. you can anticipate another great catastrophe, which will once again start mankind out on the beginning of a new Celestial Age, and this in the Earth sign of Capricorn.

Any way you look at it, it is all very interesting! And highly developmental to the spiritual evolution of mankind. Let's enjoy the whole of it!!!

THE INFLUENCES WORKING THROUGH A CHART

BY ANN McMULLIN

(LECTURE DELIVERED AT 7:30 P.M. WEDNESDAY MAY 28, 1958, NEW ORLEANS, LA., A.F.A. CONVENTION)

Now that scientific discoveries are being rapidly made in relation to cosmic energy, we who study Astrology should, indeed, take heart. Students have known and realized over the many years these different cosmic forces. We have seen events portrayed in individual lives pertaining to aspects put in motion from the seemingly invisible. How furtunate are those who have studied and contacted Astrology and seen the pattern ahead. It is of benefit to know ahead of time whether one faces the red or green signal pointing to go slow and carefully or to the knowing that happier days lie ahead. It is how one handles the progressed aspects in one's chart as to how one grows, as it were, in seeming stature. The horoscope, at birth, gives a wealth of potentiality even though it may be rather heavily afflicted. The adverse aspects give one the necessary go-get to meet and face difficult situations.

Watch the planet Mars and its aspects in any chart and therein is shown the driving force. This planet placed in an angle and heavily aspected will surely show the effort expended. Mars stands for action, constructive or otherwise. One of its tendencies is to impulsiveness, particularly if it is placed in the third house of the mind or rules on the cusp of same. Well aspected, it is truly the planet of energy. Afflicted, it is prone to give rising temperatures, fevers and severe pain. Watch in a chart and look if the planet is linked-up with the ruler of the sixth house of health or ruler of the Ascendant, denoting the physical body. Mars placed in the first house likes to get things done in a hurry. Right now is their favorite term of expression. Likewise, several planets in the sign Aries ruled by Mars produces an individual who likes to have things move quickly. Watch carefully the fellow who has Mars linked with Uranus at birth. He is like a kettle of water coming quickly to the boil - all fussed-up over some seemingly trifling matter. One thing that can be said in regards to a radical Mars Uranus aspect when such is touched off, sometime by even a heavy transit, it is like a summer storm which quickly disperses, having spent itself. The interesting factor to watch is how quickly the oftimes slightly sarcastic tempest of words is brushed aside and, ironically the one who has been the recipient of such is expected to forget just as easily. How very much it helps one to both understand oneself and also the other fellow when characteristics and their potentialities are seen in the chart. We must not by-pass the constructive element of the placing of planets, their elements and aspects to each other, though. In reference to the aforesaid Mars-Uranus aspect, such has produced inventors of articles of ingenious design. The progressive ideas of a strong Uranus combined with the quick constructive Mars gives both unusual ideas and the putting of same into action.

Not many dull moments when one possesses a chart wherein Uranus is heavily aspected. The intuitive faculty is often alerted prior to events that transpire later. So even from a combination of so-called malefics the seed is there which can produce much that is beneficial. It is how we meet the challenges that our charts portray at birth. From the handling of seemingly dire events with understanding that "this, too, shall pass," thus, does the soul grow and become more aware of the other fellow's problems.

Each and everyone can benefit from the study of Astrology. It is our road map of life to follow closely as we would on a journey from coast to coast.

Now to mention one of the benefics, Venus, the planet of art and beauty. What upliftment and enjoyment can be obtained from a prominent Venus well aspected. Social life comes to the fore and if either Libra or Taurus rules on the eleventh house, a long-awaited wish is fulfilled when a major progressed aspect contacts the radical Venus. Sometimes, this will definitely be related to romance, dependent upon the ruler of the fifth and what aspect is involved, whether adverse or otherwise, it produces sufficient energy to attract a member of the opposite sex into the life. Venus is also linked with real estate and such changes hands more rapidly when a good aspect to Venus is working. In the case of people who are real estate agents, it is interesting to find those with a number of earth signs at birth seem to be more furtunate in their chosen field of endeavor. A well-aspected Mercury to Jupiter gives the ability for salesmanship.

Returning to the planet Venus, let us assess some of its other values. Usually a keen appreciation of good music is found. A beautiful sunrise or sunset is enjoyed. One is apt to receive gifts if Venus is well aspected.

Now to the other side of Venus afflicted. Life often appears to deal with one unfairly. The person has a feeling of being left out or standing on the sidelines while the other fellow may appear to be getting the better break. It makes one unduly sensitive and calls for stamina to handle life's problems. Again, it is a matter of how one's mental attitude is geared and to know within that if each day was but a repitition of things coming easily to one, life itself could become monotonous. It is change that gives one a sense of evaluation.

I would mention here a Progressed Venus to Saturn aspect. What a blessing we who are students can see the approacning and departing of such. Tne most direct way is to describe this aspect in one word applied to Saturn - deprivation. He is tne fellow who practically pulls the rug from under our feet. Financial security is apt to teeter and totter under the impact. Oftimes, one loses the physical presence of one who has been near to them the many years. A feeling of aloneness is apt to attack the mental attitude until the aspect passes out of orb. Those who invest in stocks and bonds would be wise in not making changes in market holdings or they emerge taking a loss instead of a profit. Again, I must emphasize which department of the chart Venus and Saturn rule; also, what other progressed aspects are working at the same time. Much study goes into weighing and balancing of the whole before a clear picture of probable events can be stated.

Another aspect that seems to be of an outstanding nature is the one between Mars and Jupiter. This causes cash to flow out like a small river. The person who possesses such an aspect at birth should watch indebtedness. He may have a champagne appetite on a beer pocketbook. Also, if one is in the process of having a house built under a progressed aspect of this nature, the finished building invariably proves to have cost considerably more than the anticipated outlay. If a Mars-Jupiter aspect is linked up with the house of health, there is a change in an individual's blood pressure regardless of whether financial or emotional strain has been a factor. The blood pressure can even change to high whetner the natal chart shows a tendency to normal or below normal having registered over the years. One can trace the person, whether it is a relative or a friend, who is passing through such a period. Sometimes it is an in-law who is coping with the problem. So, naturally, we look to the ruler of the ninth and also the ruler of the second, which is the sixth of health of the in-law.

Now to progressed aspects involving the Sun. One duly receives recognition of some type, particularly if the progressed Sun aspects the Midheaven, tne latter having rulership over one's personal achievement. This aspect also brings one in contact with persons holding key positions in public life. The Sun in a horoscope nas a great deal to do with the vital life force itself, hence, the significance of its position at birth. Any aspect to the radical Ascendant from the natal Sun adds to the power of recuperation of the physical body. The house ruled by Leo would be affected also in proportion to the good or adverse aspects relating to the Sun. Quite often a business will be started under a progressed Sun aspect. If there is also an aspect relating to Saturn at the same time, one should go carefully as tne Saturn aspect would botn bring responsibility and probable delays. A set of progressions including both the Sun and Mars would show much energy expended, but also speed of action. Let's get things going would be the keyword of such a combination, the Sun aspect supplying the note of confidence in one's own ability to become the head of some business and Mars energizing the effort spent.

Things look rosy and come more easily under a good progressed Sun aspect to Jupiter. One possesses a more optimistic frame of mind and favors are attracted and received. It is most interesting to note how many people will plan a trip to the West Coast under this aspect. Others will go on a cruise to South America notably so, if Mercury, the planet of travel is also working. That is the advantage of studying a chart. However afflicted it happens to be, one can see ahead when more fortunate times will occur.

Astrology is like a piece of clay in the potter's hands. We can work with one's own chart and try and produce the best results from the ingredients presented to us at birth. In reference to major progressed planets leaving one house and entering the next, its contact with the cusp proves a good indicator of following influences - dependent to the extent of the strength of the varying contact between the planets brought in orb. The Sun entering the first house would be of considerable benefit as the vital life rays would become more pronounced. There would be more bouyancy to the personality along with a more optimistic outlook on life. It is nice to think that whatever the Sun shines on it brightens - so there is no wonder when persons see it about to enter their second house of finances they are happy; one feels less restricted from the economic viewpoint. When the Sun enters the third house, the mentality responds to the change. Lessons are more easily learned both in an academic manner and also in the school of life. It is as though one awakens to new concepts which have not revealed themselves before. Entering the fourth house, changes occur in the domestic environment. Quite often there is much renovating done which brightens the atmosphere. A new place of residence is talked about and enjoyment derived from plans in the formulative stage.

Now we come to the Sun entering the fifth house. Speculations, investments are studied, and, if the chart is one of feminine gender, suitors are attracted. Much entertainment is enjoyed. The one is rarely lacking partners at a dance as the Sun, male by character, attracts the opposite sex. The Sun traveling through the sixth house has a bearing on the health, also tenants and servants. Tenants would desire to rent who held positions of trust and responsibility. Servants, even in this day and age, would be desirous of pleasing their employers. Now, the seventh house of partnership and marriage. A desirable choice in either department would probably present itself. As to the influence of the progressed Sun and the eighth house, the prospect of gifts and inheritances would become more prominent.

The higher consciousness is illumined when the Sun travels through the ninth house; and, in the tenth, it definitely attracts recognition. One can be literally pushed into the limelight even if one is an introvert by nature. Next, through the eleventh house, shining on one's hopes and wishes. Passing through the twelfth, it oftimes produces vocations connected with institutions and hospitals but also supplying one with a position of authority in same.

Mars passing through each of the twelve houses supplies much energy to the different events linking-up, by aspects, between both radical and progressed planets. One may feel he is in the midst of a miniature storm, at times, as so much activity takes place. Mars stands for the red signal at the intersection, so care should always be the watchword. Mercury brings change. To Jupiter, it gives inspiration and thoughts of good will toward others. To Neptune, it tends to forgetfulness. Oh, yes, I am sure I placed those keys right back on the desk where I always keep them. How familiar that sounds! Just like foggy Neptune, we are in a mental fog temporarily. The place we really have placed the keys is amazing even to us. It is well to take good caution under such an aspect as so many articles are apt to be misplaced. Even writing a note to oneself doesn't always work as oftimes the note is not where one expected to find it. No, this does not apply to any particular age in life. All ages seemingly respond to this somewhat difficult aspect. Neptune stands for spiritual values, so it is well to remember such attributes can be beneficial to one at all times. The varied pattern of any horoscope is intriguing. No two exactly alike, only in very rare identical twins. To watch and see events unfold is indeed fascinating.

The tapestry of life, with its joys and sorrows. Astrology can teach so very much that is helpful to the many are we but willing to devote more of our time to its valuable purpose.

Character building is so very important, so it is invaluable to know one's own horoscope. We are all here to learn certain lessons in life and if we can point out to young people their own potentialities we are endeavoring to give service to mankind, a person growing up to be a good citizen both to their family and country.

We stand on the threshold of the new wherein higher concepts will be recognized and evaluated. We are fast working toward the Brotherhood of Man, so let us endeavor to be more avid students of Astrology. In so doing, we can render service to our fellow man.

I well remember first when I, myself, started the study. Frankly, I wondered from what I then read and tried to apply to my own chart, whether I should go out and dig a hole and bury myself along with the chart, or should I battle with all its afflictions. I chose the latter, and have not been sorry.

No one's life is a bed of roses, and if we had the other fellow's chart, we must always remember we may not have handled it even as well as he has done. Count your afflictions in the chart as blessings in disguise. They are but problems to be met and overcome. Continue to study. Rome was not built in one day. Astrology points to true freedom and the purpose of life itself.

"Pierce not with iron that part of the body which may be governed by the sign actually occupied by the Moon." (Ptolemy's Aphorism XX). A Hungarian family's flight almost half way around the world to save the life of an ailing son ended in tragedy on October 8th when Kaoly Nyitray, aged 9, failed to survive a delicate open heart operation. The heart operation, at a New York hospital, reportedly began at 8:45 a.m. E.S.T. (horary) and the heart apparently was responding satisfactorily at 12:40. After the chest was closed an adverse action came. The surgical team of 19 doctors, nurses and technicians re-opened his chest, massaged the heart and applied stimulants for an hour and ten minutes before losing to death at 1:50 p.m. E.S.T. The Moon was then in LEO!

THE SPUTNIKS AND L. EDWARD JOHNDRO

B y

CONTESTANT NO. 7

Let us take a look at the apparently neglected works of the late Mr. Edward Johndro, electrical engineer and astrologer. Back in 1929 he published two remarkable books explaining how to determine the focus of planetary energy on the earth in longitude and latitude. The two books, "The Earth in the Heavens" and "The Stars, How and Where they Influence" seem to have been well received, but of late years I have seen no mention of them in the literature. Perhaps their seeming neglect is due to the fact that they contain considerable theory relating to electro-magnetism and electro-physics, which is beyond the understanding of anyone but an Einstein. In addition, the calculations involved in working out the examples, while not difficult, are extremely tedious. However, by the use of patience it is possible to apply some of Johndro's principles with startling revelations. In this short article I would like to state some of the principles, without explanation, and to show how they account for the launching of the Sputniks, both Russian and American varieties. I hope that this will help to revive interest in Johndro's works. They certainly seem worthy of more attention.

The vernal equinox and Greenwich do not coordinate thruout all time. Rather, due to the recession of the equinoxes, there is a slow movement westward, relative to the earth, and not to the stars, at the rate of 42".1 per year, in R. A. In 1930 the equinox was in R.A. 29:10, equivalent to 1:19 Taurus in longitude. Its position for any year may, of course, be found by adjusting for its travel during the interval.

Since the ephemerides are calculated with the vernal equinox as a base, it is necessary to tie it in with this point. This is dong by adding east terrestrial longitudes and subtracting west longitudes. For any given place this results in a midheaven with a corresponding ascendant determined by the particular latitude. We can get the latter from the tables of houses or by figuring oblique ascension for that latitude. The following shows the calculation for Cape Carnaveral, Florida, site of the American "Sputnik" launchings.

R. A. Equinox in 1930	29:10
Corr. to 1957 - 46" X 28 yrs.	.21
R. A. Equinox 1957	29:31
Add the circle	360:00
	389:31
Subtract long. Cape C.	80:21
R. A. Cape C. MC	309:10	eq. 6:46 Aquarius
	90
	399:10
	360:00
O.A. Asc., in 28N28	39:10	eq. 21:36 Taurus.

With regard to the launching site for Russia, the AFA Journal states it to be Irkutsk, Siberia. This site happens to be given in Johndro's table of midheavens and ascendants in "The Earth in the Heavens". Adjusted to 1957, the locality MC is 11:33 Leo, the Ascendant 0:37 Scorpio.

In tracing out the planetary influences leading up to an event, of importance are eclipses, planetary stationaries, cross aspects between eclipses, and mutual aspects in the order named. It is permissible to go a year backward or forward from an event in order to explain it. I think it is more practical to look back at what has happened. Attached is a table of the eclipses during 1956 and 1957. Also a table giving the planetary positions for the various "Sputnik" launchings.

Russia launched Sputnik I with Uranus in 10:43 Leo, conjunct the locality MC and the Sun and Jupiter sextile to it. Around that date there were two eclipses, one on October 23 and one on November 7, with Uranus exactly conjunction the MC. In the latter case, Uranus was stationary. Important mutual aspects to the MC are September 29, Jupiter 10:49, Libra sextile Uranus 10:49 Leo, and October 11, with Mars 11:16 Libra, sextile Uranus 11:16 Leo. All year Neptune (aviation) had been on the Ascendant of the locality.

Turning to Cape Carnaveral, the eclipses of November 18, 1956, and December 2, 1956, are obviously important. In both cases, Uranus was on the locality nadir, in one instance stationary. The eclipse of May 13, 1957 closely aspects the locality Ascendant. This is a retarding influence of a disorganized nature. Their effect was dying out when the eclipse of May 13 came along conjunction the previous one and started it up all over again. The eclipse of December 2 aspects the Russian MC by trine.

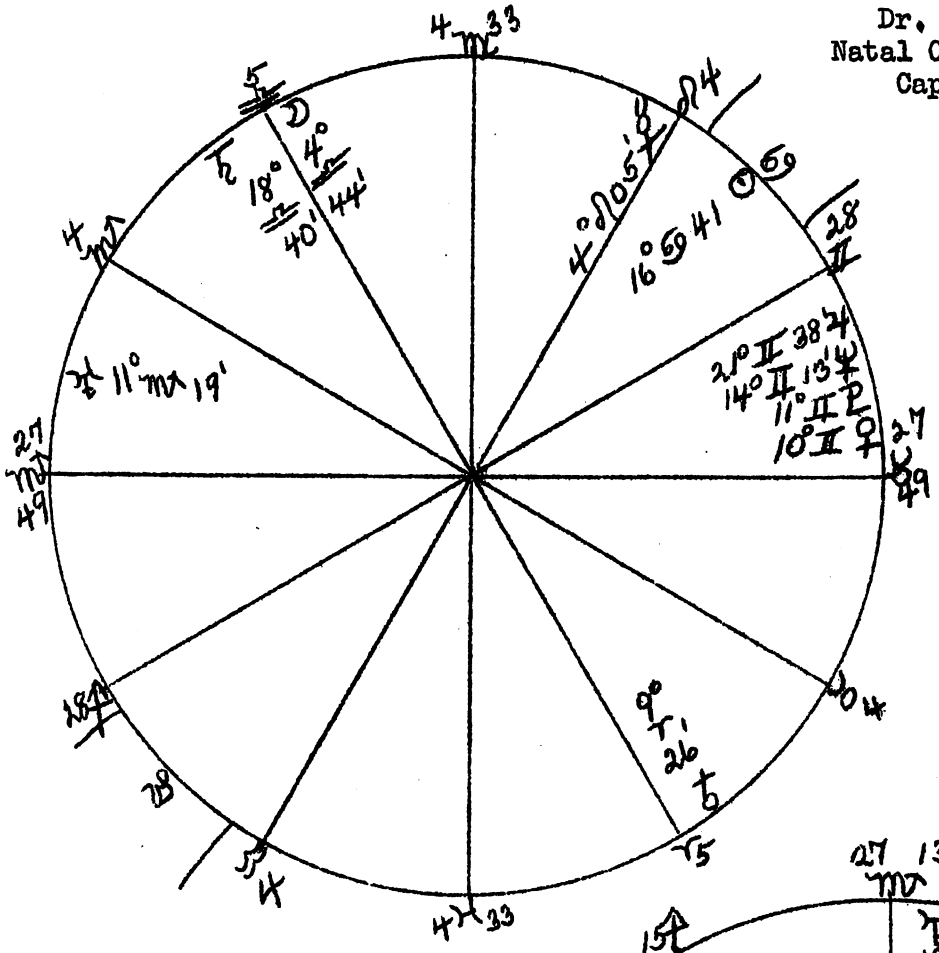

There are many fascinating cross aspects between the various events and the eclipses giving rise to them. Eclipse F seems to have been favorable for the satellite launching business - Sputniks I and II had the Sun in aspect to it, as did Explorer. In the United States, failures of February 5 and December 6, the Sun was in aspect to eclipse C which is favorable to Russia. (See diagrams). There are many more aspects, but I will not take up space enumerating them.

We may work directions using locality midheavens as the base and using the Sun's arc to the places of eclipses and events. Arcs in R. A. denote events due to nature and might be called "fatalistic". Those in longitude are related to events due to human activity. We direct the Russian MC for Spitnik I as follows:

Long. MC	311:33
Long. Sun 11:14 Libra	191:14
	502:47
	360:00
	142:47 eq. 22:47 Leo sq. Ecl. E.

In the interest of brevity I am adding a table of directions from which may be seen many couplings with eclipse elements, launchings and mutual aspects.

Mr. Johndro made another discovery, which he called Birth Locality figure. It is simply the locality MC directed to the Sun of the individual residing there. It may be drawn up in either right ascension or longitude. See page 3 for Natal Chart of Dr. Peter Kapitza, head of the Russian project, Chart C, and the Natal chart transposed to Cape Carnavoral, Chart D, with progressions, as of Sputnik I date. A curious fact is that the MC of the Russian chart becomes the Ascendant of the American one. Note that Uranus in Dr. Kapitza's Russian chart is square the Irkutsk MC of 11:33 Leo. That is fantastic. I am not going to read the charts as readers no doubt can do more with them than I could.

Since eclipses seem to interlock it will be interesting to see what happens with the April 19, 1958 eclipse in 28:35 Aries, which stirs up eclipse E, favorable to Russia. It should bring something spectacular out of Russia. Incidentally, it squares Dr. Kapitza's locality MC progressed for Irkutsk; and so on.

The focusing in latitude is governed largely by the fixed stars as they circle over specific latitudes on earth. A star conjunction a planet amplifies its effect. There are two kinds of conjunctions - in mundo and in zodiac. A conjunction in mundo occurs when a planet has the same longitude as a star's terrestrial meridian. A conjunction in zodiac occurs when a star has the same longitude as a star's celestial meridian. The calculations are fairly simple but tedious. Fortunately, the book "The Stars, How and Where they Influence" carries tables of over three hundred bright stars already calculated by Mr. Johndro. Following is a list of those circling in latitude 52N, corrected to the present epoch. Numbers are from the preliminary Boss Catalog as per Johndro's text:

No.	R. A.	Longitude	Declination
C2325	7:18 Leo	13:45 Virgo	52:34 S
3165	20:07 Leo	06:36 Leo	51:44 N
3521	1:32 Libra	26:40 Libra	50:34 S
3864	19:42 Scorpio	00:22 Libra	52:30 S
D4443	23:04 Sagittarius	10:59 Sagittarius	52:18 N
4541	29:06 Sagittarius	27:51 Sagittarius	51:22 N

South latitude stars have an undermining effect. Note C2325 and 3165 conjunction the U. S. nadir but circling in Russian latitudes. This might hint at sabotage. Those circling in around 28N28 latitude are as follows:

No.	R. A.	Longitude	Declination
4493 Var.	26:32 Sagittarius	26:40 Sagittarius	28:14 S
5370 Var.	10:12 Aquarius	25:38 Aquarius	28:09 N
5940 Var.	14:30 Pisces	28:40 Pisces	28:16 N
10	1:57 Aries	13:35 Aries	28:57 N
1304	22:18 Gemini	22:40 Gemini	28:35 N
2031	24:08 Cancer	22:49 Cancer	28:08 N
D3771	13:24 Scorpio	27:08 Libra	27:10 N
D4494	26:48 Sagittarius	24:56 Sagittarius	27:45 N
D4986	20:57 Capricorn	1:52 Aquarius	27:53 N

D stands for double star and hints at double dealings, sabotage, divided authority.

In this article I have tried to show that there is a great deal of most worthwhile astrology packed into those two small books of Johndro's and that they certainly merit more attention than they have received. There is a lot of work involved but it seems definitely worth while.

KEY TO ASTROLOGY

Members of the AFA at our Los Angeles Convention in 1950 requested that we republish some classics of Astrology that were difficult for students to obtain. In accordance with our principle of service to members, we published Simmonite's ARCANA OF ASTROLOGY, first. This began in the December 1959 issue of the AFA BULLETIN and ran for almost two years before it was completed. Next, we published James Wilson's DICTIONARY OF ASTROLOGY beginning with the March 1953 issue of the AFA BULLETIN and continuing through December 1955.

Beginning with the February 1956 issue of the AFA BULLETIN and continuing to the present (and on the following pages), we have been publishing the 1676 edition of Coley's KEY TO ASTROLOGY. We are following the spelling just as it is given in the original text, but shall omit certain tables he published which are not "out-of-date."

VI. If in the sixth House, the Native may thrive by Psysick, small Cattle, and good Servants, (if no other Testimonies contradict,) it sometimes shews also the mean condition of the Natives Parents; and that the Native may be too much addicted to fraudulent, treacherous Actions; except the fortunate Planets assist by their friendly Rayes.

VI. If you find the Lord of the fourth, posited in the seventh House, strong; this signifies profit to the Native by a Wife, or Wives; or from some Publique Imployment, or by dealing with divers People of different Qualities in the World; sometimes the Natives Father proves his Enemy, or strangely opposes the Person, or Interest of his Son.

VIII. If he happen to be Located in the eighth House; this portends, not only danger to the Natives Mother in Child bed, but also a short Life to the Father; but if the Lord of the fourth be well posited in the eighth, the Native may be much bettered by the Wills, and Legacies of deceased Persons; and in the end perhaps lay his Bones in some Forreign Country.

IX. If you find the Lord of the fourth in the ninth House, well seated, and free from the Hostile Beams of Infortunate Planets; then Judge the Native acquires profit, or advantage, from some thing properly signified by the ninth House, whether by Travel, or some Religious means, or otherwise by some secret Mystery which he may discover; but it also intimates the Natives Parents to live in a very servil e mean and low condition (the Father more especially,) and this the more certain, if weak, and afflicted in the said House.

X. But if posited in the tenth House, the Native and his Father, are then much esteemed by Honourable Pdrsons, he then lives happily by his Imployment; and is generally accounted a Person of good Credit in the World, (unless you find other Arguments in the Scheme, to contradict his Judgment.

XI. If in the eleventh House (which is the eighth from the fourth) and therein ill affected; this threatens short Life to the Father, and many Disasters to attend him during Life; but if well posited therein, Judge the contrary; and that the Native for the most part shall be happy and fortunate, during Life.

XII. If you find the Lord of the fourth in the twelfth House; 'tis then very probable that the Natives Friends (I mean his Parents) may be much afflicted with Poverty and other Crosses, which may occasion them to try their Fortunes in some remote part of the World, far distant from the Land of thdir Nativity. It also portends no great good to the Native himself; and shews he may end his days in a strange Country. These general Judgments may be Contradicted, in part, from other Configurations of the Planets, which ought to be well considdred, and reconciled by the Artist.

S E C T. V.

Of the Lord of the fifth House, his Position in any of the Twelve Houses.

I. The Lord of the Fifth in the Ascendant, signifies the Native should have many Children, and be respected by them; the Native should also delight in Sports, Games, and other Recreations, sometimes to his prejudice.

II. If in the second, and free from affliction, it denotes profit to the Native by the endeavours of his Children it shews they should thrive, and get Estates, and assist the Native thereby.

III. If the Lord of the Fifth House be posited in the Third, (which is the eleventh from the fifth,) the Natives Children are happy in their Friends, and acquaintance; and he takes many delightful and profitable short Journeys.

IV. If posited in the Fourth House, Schoner says, the Native will enjoy an Estate from his Parents; others say it signifies many Children, which unless he be strong and free from affliction, they may sustain many troubles, and vexations; and probably Imprisonment.

V. If in the Fifth House well seated, it denotes the happy and prosperous condition of the Natives Children; and that the Native will be very propense to delights and pleasures.

VI. If in the Sixth House, the Natives Children prove good, and profitable Servants to the Native; and are not much afflicted with Diseases, unless other Testimonies concur.

VII. If in the Seventh House, the Natives Wife and Children hold together to his prejudice; they sometimes prove his professed Enemies, unless there happen some benevolent Aspect between the Lord of the Ascendant, and the Lord of the Fifth House.

VIII. If in the Eighth House free from affliction, the Natives Children generally thrive, or gain by deceased Persons; and so doth the Native also.

IX. If in the Ninth House, the Natives Children will delight to take their pleasure, and to Travel long Journeys; they should be ingenious and apt to search after new Inventions; and probably to good purpose: they should be Religious also, or concerned in matters or things relating to the Church.

X. If posited in the Tenth House, the Natives Children may be advanced by the means of great and potent Persons, to the honour of the Native; and in regard 'tis the sixth House from the Fifth, the Children of the Native may prove but sick Persons, or at least be much afflicted thereby.

XI. By being posited in the eleventh House, it denotes ill to the Natives Children in the general; they will meet with many Adversaries and strange Oppositions, if other Testimonies contradict not; but the Native should be very prosperous in his hopes and delight in the Company of his Friends.

XII. When the Lord of the fifth House shall be posited in the twelfth House, this shews but few Children; and such as will be very unnatural, and bring sorrow and trouble to the Native, but they may thrive by dealing in great Cattle.

S E C T . V I.

Of the Position of the Lord of the Sixth, in any any of the Twelve Houses.

I. The Lord of the sixth in the Ascendant unless strong and well posited therein, shews that the Native may suffer much by Diseases of the Nature of that Planet; and that his Servants and small Cattle should prove unfortunate unto him in the general.

II. But if posited in the second House, this shews prejudice to the Natives Estate, chiefly occasioned from Sickness and Servants; and notwithstanding all the Natives Indeavours, he will rarely acquire an Estate, unless other good Arguments of Riches appear in the Figure.

III. If in the third House, the Natives Brethren should be sickly, and he himself subject to Diseases; and many times in his short or Inland Journeys.

IV. If in the fourth House, the Natives Father lives a poor Servile Life; and he himself, together with his Family, suffer much by Sickness; and this the more certain if the Lord of the sixth be Combust, or much afflicted in the Scheme.

V. By being posited in the fifth House, the Native is then afflicted with Sickness, proceeding from great Intemperance, Surfeits, and Debauchery; or from troubles of Spirit, arising from the affliction of the Natives Children.

VI. If the Lord of the sixth House be posited in the sixth House, strong, and in good Aspect to the Lord of the Ascendant, then the Native is strong and healthful for the most part, otherwise Judge the contrary.

VII. If in the seventh House, the Native will be subject to prejudice from or by the means of the Female sex; less he be more than ordinary careful: it shews also that the Natives Wife should be sickly & Infirm; and the Native guilty or at least accused of many evil Actions.

VIII. If the Lord of the sixth be in the eighth House, my Author says the Native shall be healthy and survive his Enemies and Servants; but if the Lord of the Ascendant apply to the Lord of the sixth in the eighth or the contrary, the Native then must expect to undergo Sickness and great danger of Death also.

IX. If posited in the ninth House, unless strong and potent there or in good Aspect to fortunate Planets; the Native will be afflicted by sickness in his Travels and not only so, but addicted to deceitful and vitious Actions.

X. When posited in the tenth House and weak the Native is afflicted by disturbance in Body or Mind, proceeding from much Labour in his Profession, or striving to gain Honour, or the favour of great Men, and attains not his desire; but if he be strong in the tenth or in reception or good Aspect with the Lord of the Ascendant, or tenth House, Judge the contrary.

XI. If in the eleventh House, he confides too much in pretended Friends, or suffers prejudice from new acquaintance; except there be other Arguments to Balance this Judgement.

XII. But being posited in the twelfth House, the Native suffers affliction by Diseases which may invade his Body in Prison, or proceed from much sorrow or vexation of Spirit; he receives injuries and affronts from base and unworthy Persons; or from private Enemies &c. and this Judgement is the more aggravated if the Lord of the sixth House be unfortunate in the twelfth.

S E C T. V I I.

Of the Position of the Lord of the Seventh, in any of the Twelve Houses.

I. The Lord of the seventh House, posited in the Ascendant, shews that the Native shall be well beloved by the Female sex and gain by them; but he must not expect to live free from Controversies, and if the Lord of the seventh vitiate the Ascendant, the Judgement is the more certain, that discords will arise, as well between the Native and his Wife, as between him and others.

II. The Lord of the seventh, in the second House, no way afflicted, the Native is then enriched by a Wife, or Wives; but if unfortunate therein, Judge the contrary, yet he may survive her, and many of his profest Adversaries and rarely escapes prejudice in Estate from Thieves or other Enemies; or at least much contention and debate concerning such matters.

III. If in the third House, well dignified; there is a good agreement between the Native and his Relations; and sometimes marries one of his own Kindred: but if you find the Lord of the seventh ill affected in the third, the Native and his Relations do not affect each other, but live at variance.

IV. If posited in the fourth House the Native may enjoy the possessions of his Father; and Marry one of his own Relations, who should prove vertuous and honest; but if ill dignified in the fourth, he may meet with trouble or contention about some Estate in Houses, or Lands, formerly appertaining to his Ancestors.

V. If in the fifth House ill dignified, the Native will have vexation both with Wife and Children; but if well posited he marries a young Person, which should be a Woman of a good deportment and behaviour; and not only vertuous, b u t beautiful.

VI. If in the sixth House, and ill dignified therein, the Native Marries a Person of low or mean esteem; and it shews the Native to be guilty of lying and treachdrous Acts, unless contradicted by other Aspects that are friendly and benevolent.

VII. If the Lord of the seventh be posited in the seventh House and well dignified therein, the Native Marries credibly, and doth not dishonour himself thereby; but if afflicted there, Judge the contrary: it also shews an ill agreement and much discord, and contention with Women, either Sweethearts or others.

VIII. If Located in the eighth House and free from Combustion or other affliction, the Native may Marry a Rich wife and be much bettered by her Fortune; yet he must also expect some trouble and vexation concerning the Wills or Legacies of deceased Persons, unless other Testimonies of good concurr.

IX. If in the ninth House, ill affected, the Native meets with some Controversie with his Wifes Relations; and not only so, but danger in his long Journeys and perhaps Marries in another Country; sometimes it signifies differences in point of Religion: but if well dignified there, the evil is much abated.

X. When posited in the tenth House, Authors affirm, the Native shall Marry a Wife both Rich and Noble; and thereby come into the favour of great and honourable Persons; but if he be afflicted there, the Native is perplext in his Imployment and all things signified by the tenth House.

XI. When you find the Lord of the seventh in the eleventh, (which is the fifth House from the seventh) the Native in all probability may Marry a Widdow with whom he may live happily, though she have Children; yet if ill dignified in that House, the Wife proves none of the best, perhaps addicted too much to Good fellowship; and the Friends of the Native unhappily prove unkind unto him also, which must needs aggravate his discontent.

XII. If in the twelfth House, ill placed; this signifies an unfortunate Marriage, he meets with a very unworthy Woman, which proves treacherous and hateful (unless some other way contradicted) it also shews many secret Enemies and much trouble and contention by their means, which will render the Natives Life very uncomfortable; but if the Lord of the seventh be well affected in the twelfth House, this evil is very much mittigated, if not totally abated.

SECT. VIII.

Of the Position of the Lord of the Eighth in any of the Twelve Houses.

I. If the Lord of the eighth House be posited in the Ascendant, the Native scarce lives many years but is very subject to misfortunes and infirm in Body; his Life is no way happy unless it be a fortunate Planet and he in good Aspect to the Lord of the Ascendant or the Luminaries.

II. If posited in the second House (especially there in his own Dignities,) then Judge the Native may receive much profit, lest by Persons deceased or by the Dowry of a Wife; but if unfortunately placed there, Judge the contrary.

III. If in the third House, Judge the Natives Brethren will be Indigent Persons, not likely to live long, being much afflicted with Diseases and other Disasters which frequently fall upon them to their great Detriment and the more if the Lord of the fifth be much afflicted there: it also shews danger of Death to the Native in some short or Inland Journey.

IV. If you find him posited in the fourth House, ill affected this prenotes much ill to the Natives Parents; they should be strangely afflicted, sickly, or unfortunate, unless befriended by the Benevolent Aspects of fortunate Planets; and for the Native he will end his Days at home or in his own Native Country; Schoner sayes & quod mors nati crit in propria domo.

V. When posited in the fifth House, the Natives Children dye in their Infancy, or if they live, they become Eminent; and are much Noted, either for their Famous Actions, or for their vitious humours, according as their proper Significator shall be affected in the Scheme.

VI. By being placed in the sixth House, this denotes prejudice from Servants, or small Cattle, of from some Relation signified by the sixth House; but these Aphorisms must be understood warily and with consideration of other Circumstances in the Figure, notwithstanding whatsome Authors preemptorily affirm in their Writings.

VII. If posited in the seventh House, this signifies the Native shall Marry a Wewlthy Person, in some remote Country from his, (or her) Native Place, and be the survivor; and lastly, end his days in some Foreign Country.

VIII. The Lord of the eighth in the eighth House afflicted, shews great danger of a violent Death; but if strong and potent there, the Native enjoys his health reasonably well for the most part; and lastly expires by a Natural easy Death.

IX. If in the ninth House, the Native rarely lays his bones in his own Country, but dyes in some strange Land; if he be unfortunately placed there, then the Native is very prone to evil Actions, which may be a means to shorten his days; If strong and free from affliction, Judge the contrary.

X. If in the tenth House, unfortunate; the Native may be put to Death, by the Sentence of a Judge, for the breach of the Law; yet he will dye no Ignoble Death, but end his days honourably, and probably by the Command of his Prince, (whether the planet be strong or weak in the mid-heaven of the Scheme.)

XI. If in the eleventh House, the Native may expect but few real and true Friends in whom we may confide, but rather a continual jarring, and debate arising between them; and lastly, he dyes in the prime of his years, unless this Judgment happen to be mittigated by other more prevela n t Causes concurring.

XII. If the Lord of the eighth be posited in the twelfth House, there afflicted, or infortunate; the Native may dye in Prison, or receive much Injury from his Enemies insomuch that his Life will be uncomfortable, and interwoven with abundance of misfortunes; if strong in the twelfth, the danger is the less considerable, and the Native may evade.

S E C T. I X.

Of the Position of the Lord of the Ninth, in any of the Twelve Coelestial Houses.

I. If the Lord of the ninth House be posited in the Ascendant, the Native will have a desire, or strong inclination to Travel, or see strange Countreys; he will be just in his Actions, and thereby gain the affections of knowing Men, who will be ready to guide, or intrust him in Curious Arts, to which he may be very propense, if other Configurations contradict not.

II. If in the second House, the Native gains by Travel, long Journeys, Merchandizing; or anything signified by the ninth House: and this the more certain if he be posited there in his Essential Dignities, and in good Aspect to the Lord of the second House; if otherwise, 'tis not Irrational to Judge the contrary.

III. If posited in the third House, the Native may Travel, and his Brethren and Kindred may be advantaged thereby; and probably he may Marry a Wife of some Forreign Country, (for the third is the seventh from the ninth House:) always consider, in Judgment, in strength, or weakness of the Significator, &c. since there is no general Aphorism, or Rule, but admits of exception, and must be moderated by the Judi - cious Artist.

IV. When in the fourth House, (which is the eighth from the ninth House,) the Native may end his dayes in another Country; and the Natives Parents should be very Infirm in Body, or afflicted with some Occult Distemper; and the occasion of the Natives Travel may be from his Parents Advice, or Promotion. Significat peregrinationis in causis Parentum saith Schoner.

V. If posited in the fifth House, the Native will have many pleasant Journeys, and probably Children in some remote Country, in whom he will be happy, and take much pleasure.

VI. But if in the sixth house, Natus ducet Seruam, &c. saith Schoner: To which Argol agrees in his Ptol. Parv. The

V. If posited in the fifth House, the Native will have many pleasant Journeys, and probably Children in some remote Country, in whom he will be happy, and take much pleasure.

VI. But if in the sixth house, Natus ducet Seruam, &c. saith Schoner: to which Argol agrees in his Ptol. Parv. The Native Marries a Servant, and may gain much by Servants, and small Cattle; and probably undergo some sickness in his Journeys, or other prejudice, either to himself, or Family, unless the Significators happen to be well assisted by fortunate Planets, or their propitious Rayes.

VII. If posited in the seventh House, the Native should then meet with a Vertuous Wife, a Woman well bred, and of an excellent Deportment; and not only so, but very tractable, and obedient to the Native for the most part; yet the Native should be subject to many vexatious Journeys, or meet with great discontent with Persons in his Travel.

VIII. Being located in the eighth House, this imparts to the Native Travel, sometimes upon some dangerous score, and sometimes to gain the Portion of his Wife, as a Legacy left him by a deceased Friend: let this be understood with the aforesaid Cautions, often hinted in this Chapter.

IX. If posited in the ninth House, the Native travels but few Journeys; he is a very just Person, a curious searcher into Divine Mysteries, and secret things, & his Dreams prove, for the most part, true; in fine, he proves a Person generally respected by most, and may at some time of his Life, take a long Journey upon the account of Religion, or the Discovery of some Occult thing.

X. By being posited in the tenth House, the Native will then undertake some Journey to acquire honour, or advancement or he travels with honourable Persons, or probably to acquaint himself with some excellent Art, or to gain preferment, or a new Imployment; and the Natives Brethren usually, upon such a Position, gain Rich Wives, or match themselves into Credible Families.

XI. If in the eleventh House, the Native is a Person (for the most part) in good esteem, and well respected by his friends; and deserves no less, both in his Native Country and in those places to which he may Travel, (though perhaps unwillingly,) to which may be added (according to the Opinion of some Authors) that the Native Brethren should Marry out of their own Country, I suppose, because the eleventh is the ninth from the third House.

XII. If the Lord of the ninth be posited in the twelfth House, ill dignified; it denotes the Native to be Irreligious and Athestical; also unnatural to his Brethren, and Kindred: but sometimes it falls out, the Natives Relations prove false and treachdrous to the Native, unless the Lord of the third or ninth be in good Aspect, or reception with the Lord of the Ascendant.
