AFA BULLETIN

The AFA BULLETIN is published each Lunar Month at Headquarters in Washington, D. C. , for the members of the AMERICAN FEDERATION OF ASTROLOGERS. It is not for public sale, but members may procure such back issues as are available for 25¢ per copy, plus postage. A sample copy will be sent to any inquiring student. It is suggested that 10¢ postage be enclosed.

All articles express the views of the author and do not necessarily reflect the official view of the FEDERATION. The FEDERATION in all cases assumes no responsibility for material which is presented. It urges students to test such material in their own experience. We will from time to time present controversial material that it may stimulate research. All articles, however, are the full responsibility of the author.

The AMERICAN FEDERATION OF ASTROLOGERS was organized and incorporated at Washington, D. C., May 4, 1938, at 11:38 a.m. E.S.T., for the purpose of promoting the science and art of Astrology through research and education; and to establish a high standard of professional ethics for legitimate astrologers.

Affiliation fee of groups or membership of individuals is $7.00 per year. There is also an enrollment fee of $5.00, which, with the first years membership fee, should accompany all applications for membership.

Members desiring a copy of Constitution and By-Laws may have same by writing AFA Headquarters for a copy.

BY HOWARD M. DUFF SR., PRESIDENT OF AFA 1959

GREETINGS TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE AFA -

many members in the body of the Federation but one Spirit animating all.

In these, the prophetic "Latter Days", man is being forced to decide between "togetherness" and "aloneness", with many apparent and concealed schemes to get us together externally through force or deception or, as all the sacred books have taught, through a recognition of our essential oneness through creation of One God.

Let us leave theology out of it and shelve the relative value of all isms however hoary, and just be practically sensible. Confine the idea for the moment to our own little world (pretty big after all since it involves the visible cosmos at least) and note that to us of Earth, we are significant and in fact only exist at all because we are an integral part of the Solar family. If the astrology we profess means anything, it certainly means that even our little individual lives as well as all beginnings of our enterprises, big and little, are successful or fail according to whether or not we are a harmonious and cooperative part of the overall pattern and its purpose.

So within our organization itself, we, as individual students and practitioners, have benefitted in the past by working together, sharing our findings and ideas, dropping our false concepts and practices when the experience of our associates shows us the error. Even here, if we persist in being lone wolves, with minds closed to all ideas save our own, we are excressences, not members, no matter how faithfully we pay our dues. This does not mean - I repeat - this does not mean that our individuality is lost, but that each individual knows he is only one instrument in the symphony orchestra and respects the worth of his companions. The rose does not become an orchid but is the best rose it can be in the glorious radiance of the flower garden and is aware that it is a member of that garden, inspired and enriched by his various neighbors.

Harmony does not consist in conformity. In the artist's palette, red and green are a muddy gray when mixed thoroughly, but is vibrant and alive when properly composed in a picture - side by side but not amalgamated into a static mess of sameness. The seven notes of the scale, sounded together, is noise. Arranged in purposive sequences and harmonious combinations of chords, it is music.

The American melting pot is not vital because all nations and races are mixed into a uniform nonentity, but is so when our individual national and racial characteristics exist side by side, in mutual respect and harmony, cooperating for a symphonic result that can be the salvation of civilization, once it emerges from the technical and material plane to the spiritual, where all real harmony is born and persists.

Let us within this organization, consider the findings of other members, examine and test them honestly and respectfully, use or discard them according to the results and give to our fellows the reasons for our decision in a way that will be helpful to them. The radiant sun of a friendly attitude can make a man shed his coat of erroneous theory or practice better than the windstorm of critical scorn.

So, as we approach our next convention, let us polish up our experiences since the last one, both old and new members, and let us be prepared to listen to other ideas and consider them on their merits, with appreciation, and become a celestial symphony orchestra, whose music will aid world harmony and understanding.

"HOW BIG IS ONE?"

One word might be to someone
A flag of hope unfurled;

One kiss that two remember
Can reach across the world.

One tiny seed awaking
Brings springtime to the clod;

One star can shatter midnight
One prayer can summon God.

THE EXECSEC SAYS

We have had an extremely busy month here at headquarters but we are gradually getting caught up in getting the knack of things. It is fortunate that we found an apartment so close to the headquarters building so that we lose no time going back and forth in the morning, noon and evenings. After being here this long, I first want to say "This is no job for a bachelor". Besides the domestic work, Vicky helps with gathering, assembling, proof-reading and innumerable little jobs and I hope she will be taking care of the library soon. Nobody can do this job alone, I need halp, and at the right time.

On the sheet in the Bulletin showing the new officers and Directors, and on the letter heads, you will notice our address as 138 Carroll Street, S.E., Washington 3, D. C. This is our home and mailing address. It is between First and Second Streets and between Independence Avenue and C Street, S.E. On the Bulletin envelopes shortly, you will notice the address of 6 Library Court, S.E. Washington 3, D. C. This is the address of the Headquarters Building. Library Court is not shown on the City maps as it is just a Court between Third and Fourth Streets and between A Street and Independence Avenue, S.E. You can mail things to either of these addresses. Should you come to Washington, make a note of these addresses. If you come to Washington without any addresses you can look us up in the phone book; the AFA is also listed in the phone book.

Ernest Grant's home address is 327 A St., S.E., the address all of you know so well. This is also the mail address of the National Astrological Library (N.A.L.) The NAL is an entirely separate organization from AFA. The NAL is a book publishing and selling business conducted by Ernest Grant. The AFA and NAL are mutually supporting organizations and work hand in hand.

We all live and work within 1000 feet of the Capitol Building. We are in the immediate vicinity of the Capitol, House Office Buildings, Library of Congress and its Annex. The Headquarters Building is the crossroads of world astrology. It is your headquarters and we would like as many of you as possible to see it. It is not a showplace, we call it the "Workshop". If you happen to drop in when we are busy on gathering, we will probably put you to work if you are nimble with your fingers. But, I am sure you would enjoy it as much as we do, and the Bulletin would mean a little more to you after that.

The first suggestions sent in have been about the Bulletin. Two members write that we do not have enough material for beginners; one member wrote that we do not have enough material for the advanced astrologer. What do you think? Do we have enough variety so that we help the beginner and the advanced and the in-between? Please drop us a card or letter if you would like to express yourself on this. I would like to see "A Show of Hands". This month we are starting a list of Keywords which should be especially helpful to beginners and newer students. We will go thru the signs, planets, etc.

For the advanced astrologer, the Data Exchange is a mine of wonderful material for research which might easily be overlooked.

In the three months we have been here, with the mailing of three Bulletins, we have learned a lot of things. I never realized how much time it takes to keep the membership list up to date. Every month we have to go thru the entire list to pick out those whose memberships are due. We hold out enough Bulletins so that we can insert Letter #1 before it is stapled together.

The next month we send them letter #2 and send another group Letter #1. The third month we send them letter #3 and two other groups Letters #1 and #2, etc. So, anybody that sends in their membership dues as soon as they get Letter #1 saves us a lot of time. And those folks that send us two years dues at a time are real Angels.

We appreciate members sending in new addresses in advance, this is a big help. When you move and dont send us a change of address, we have to pay postage three times on your Bulletin. The first time to the old address; the second time to have it returned to headquarters and the third time to the new address. We have to use two envelopes instead of one. Once doesn't mean so much but when you multiply it by 100 it mounts up in loss of time and in cost of postage. (We have had two instances in the last three days). So, if you are going to move, please send us a note or postcard giving us the new address. It will help us, and get your Bulletins to you that much sooner.

In the July Bulletin we made a typographical error. On the fourth white sheet, 1960 Mundane Data, in the first line of the third paragraph we have 1959, this should have been 1960. It is apparent that it should be 1960, so please correct this in your Bulletin.

We are preparing a new list of Teachers and Practitioners of Astrology who are members of AFA and who subscribe to our Code of Ethics. we are constantly getting inquiries for the names of qualified astrologers in all parts of the country. We mail out this list in response to these inquiries. We used up our supply of these lists so I ran just enough on the mimeograph to hold us over for a little while. We are making up a new list and would like to include any of you who would like to be listed. If you wish your name to be on this list, please fill out the last sheet of this Bulletin, and mail it to us, right away please. These inquiries come in every day, and some parts of the country are not represented so we would like to have better coverage if possible. This sheet is sent to all new members when they join, but we want to bring it up to date. Please do this right away as our present supply of the old list is almost gone, and we do not want to hold up repl ies to inquiries. These inquiries are from people requesting professional astrological work done and for those who have lessons personally or by mail.

Always watch the last sheet of the Bulletin. This sheet is the one most easily taken out for keeping or mailing back. The last three issues have had applications for Examinations as the last sheet. So all members have three applications for Examinations.

If you have sent in an article for the Bulletin that was a Convention Talk or for the Contest, and it has not yet been published, please bear with us a little longer. There are still quite a few to be published and we are getting to them as quickly as we can. We appreciate your patience.

Ivy M. Goldstein-Jacobson, a member of AFA and frequent contributor of articles to the Bulletin has written an outstanding book, the "Foundation of the Astrological Chart". It presents many facets of the foundation of the chart and is very compact. Ernest Grant (National Astrological Library) as one of the distributors of this book, will shortly send you a comprehensive review in a letter to all members.

He finished stencil cutting and published a mimeographed edition of Leigh Hope Milburn's book "The Progressed Horoscope simplified". Right now he is working on a mimeograph edition of Culpepers Astrological Judgement of Diseases from the Decumbiture of the sick, published in 1655. This will keep him busy for two or three months.

The following important appointments have been made by President Duff:

Chairman of Convention Committee: Blanca Holmes

COURTESY CERTIFICATES

PLEASE READ CAREFULLY. This is the last announcement we will make regarding the issue of Courtesy certificates.

Judging from the letters and the varied amounts on the checks received with applications for Courtesy certificates, there is some misreading or misunderstanding of the Certificates Program. This is a very important step in the life of the AFA and we would like our members to have a thorough understanding of it, both for their own guidance and so they can be helpful to others who want to know about it but do not have the information that has been published in the Bulletin for AFA members. In case you have missed any part of the information in the Bulletin, we list the following:

ANOTHER GREAT STEP FORWARD, and the COMMITTEE REPORT, in the APRIL issue.
The PERSONAL LETTER sent to all members by President Strater April 8, 1959.
RESOLUTION #8, a joint letter by President, Comm. Chairman, Exesec, in the MAY issue.
RESOLUTION #8, a two-page article in the JUNE issue.
"THE EXESEC SAYS" has references in the JUNE and JULY issues.

We are immediately concerned with the Courtesy certificates part of the program. Please read especially "Resolution #8" in the May and June issues of the Bulletin. These outline the requirements for a Courtesy certificate. From the holders of these certificates will be chosen the first Examiners who will prepare the examination material and then grade the examination papers. We hope to have a representative group (both geographically and organizationally) of real top-notch astrologers in the Natal, Mundane and Horary fields.

We had originally set a deadline date of July 31st for applications for Courtesy certificates. To give a little more time to those who may have missed some of the information listed above and those who have been away on vacations, etc., we have extended the closing date for Courtesy certificates to Aug. 31st.

Please remember that the Courtesy certificates are for recognized authorities who have demonstrated their ability and knowledge of astrology in their past activities, and meet the time requirements necessary for issue of a Courtesy certificate. No examination is required as their ability and knowledge has been demonstrated. When these Courtesy certificates are issued, no more applications will be received, and examinations will be required for the issue of a Proficiency certificate.

If there are any questions in your mind, there is still time to write us and get answers to your questions and then make application for Courtesy certificates. If you are going to apply for a Courtesy certificate, you will have to do so very soon as we will have to abide by the August 31st deadline.

When the Courtesy certificates have been issued, the Board of Examiners will be chosen from the holders of Courtesy certificates. The Board of Examiners will then prepare the examination material and questions. When the examinations material for Proficiency certificates is ready, the number of examinees and the places of their residences will determine the dates and places where these examinations will be held.

If you want to take an examination for a Proficiency certificate, it will help us if you will send in your application as soon as possible so we can plan the dates and places of the examinations. We expect the Proficiency Examinations to continue indefinitely. It is only the Courtesy certificates part of the program that will be closed August 31, 1959.

URANUS THE LIFE CHANGER

By

CAROL WILSON, LMAFA

(A lecture given at New Orleans 1958 AFA Convention.)

Officers of the AFA, Fellow Astrologers, Students, and Friends: Greetings! Let's think about Uranus, the Astrological Planet, for a few minutes.

The purpose of this lecture is to show that Uranus is instrumental in bringing major changes into the lives of individuals. Known as THE AWAKENER of the higher understanding and as a NEW PATH FINDER in realizations, Uranus is said to be equally powerful in the three departments of human nature: in action (will), feeling, and thought. For this reason, persons in whose horoscopes Uranus is strong often have such marked and peculiar changes in their lives as to divide the lives into distinct parts like chapters. Or, the statement "Three lives in one" may be basically Uranian since this planet may exert its influence in one direction for a series of years, largely to the exclusion of the other two departments, and then may change quite suddenly to an entirely different kind of life for another series of years; and, in some cases, a third series may become effective.

As an example, Uranus in the M.C. at birth would tend to bring complete changes in the occupation, and Uranus in strong aspect to the Moon would not only produce noticeable changes in the personality but in the whole subconscious structure from which the personality is reflected. In the two horoscopes which we are going to study today, Uranus is in Sagittarius in House III. This placement would bring changes in the intellect and in the surroundings or environment. The mental interests would be varied and many, and the enthusiasm would shift from one interest to another. The attitude toward brothers and sisters would become impersonal as the realization grew that true brethren are co-workers or persons of similar beliefs. Religious ideas would become increasingly idealistic and philosophical; the world would be seen as Mental, and God perceived as the I AM that seeks expression in its highest potential in every being and links them into One through Divine Mind. The Sagittarian characteristic of Brotherhood would dominate the nature of all environmental relationships, with Uranus trying to bring Spiritual Awaskening to every contact.

Furthermore, Uranus is said to have the passional energy of Mars, the intellectual power of Mercury, and a will as determined and powers of concentration as great as Saturn. As the Creative Will individualized in man, Uranus, therefore, becomes the creative power of the intellect, the energizer of the feelings, and the motive force of the physical body. The Uranian will is strong and determined while the impulse lasts, but changes occur so suddenly as to cause apparent contradictions in conduct. As the outstanding astrological characteristics of Uranus are SUDDENNESS and UNPREDICTABILITY, natives with Uranus strong can be expected to be deeply in earnest in their efforts as long as they remain in close contact with a definite mode of life.

A favorable Uranus gives a mentality of such scope that an ordinary mind compares to it as a candle to a great arc light. It not only grants the power to see the past, the present, and far into the future, but to see them clearly, coldly, and impersonally. This mental energy, perverted, makes the fanatic and destroyer; correctly used, the originator, the prophet, and the seer. Uranus is the mental Illuminator.

An Uranian type of mind is strong-willed, positive, very set on its own ends, difficult to influence, and disliking control. Natives with a powerful Uranus, therefore, though they change rapidly in thought and action, are not vacillating, irresolute, easily lead, or weak of will. In fact, they are so independent and freedom loving that they find it difficult to work in a subordinate capacity and do not easily co-operate even in a friendly way. They are intended for posts of authority and responsibility, or for venturesome positions, or for pioneering work. They function best as discoverers, or explorers in mundane affairs, or as formulators of new rules, laws, methods, ideas, or codes for application on the mental or moral states of consciousness.

As suggested in the foregoing, Uranus attracts individuals to psychology, metaphysics, occultism, astrology, and to all forms of truth or New Thought; also to travel, because of the novelty and change of scenery and the meeting with new and, if possible, unusual people. The tastes are antiquarian with a futuristic twist of some kind; the views and hobbies are humanitarian. The power of Uranus is felt strongly in the nervous system and in the mind. In middle and old age, this power is usually revitalizing; if badly afflicted, however, incurable diseases may develop. Cures, if responsive at all, are induced by such new methods of healing as electricity, hypnotism, or auto-suggestion.

> In good aspect to the Sun, Uranus increases the originality, the creative ability, and the will power. If afflicted, it rebels and rejects, and seldom, if ever, does that which is started under this influence come to a completed or harmonious conclusion.
> In good aspect to the Moon, Uranus gives a strong, fine imagination. When afflicted, the imagination pictures the wrong things, incompatible with positive thinking.
> In good aspect to Venus, Uranus intensifies the affections and gives love of beauty in color and in melody. If afflictions exist, estrangements, love of dress or of ornaments, and difficult-to-handle love experiences. Venus with Uranus brings love at first sight.

Adverse aspects to Uranus, when the individual is unable to comprehend the true Spiritual Awareness of this planet, causes actions that are unconventional, abrupt, explosive at times, rebellious, and restrictive. Such persons react as non-conformers because the rhythm of the life pattern is constantly being disrupted. The higher responses to Uranus give the ability to bring knowledge gained in the inner spheres of being into the waking consciousness. Individuals of strong Uranian nature say they receive their answers from within by means of a voice or in flashes of light. Uranus in Sagittarius often gives Spiritual or Second Sight, or, as in Swedenborg's case, the ability to "see" to great distances. And, it can expand the consciousness to contact the consciousness of all--Omniscient--as the Sons of Light, the ETERNAL in man.

Because Uranus absorbs energy from the outside, it contains within itself a very unstable condition, consisting of a great volume of energy which operates chiefly, as stated before, through the mind and nervous system. Just as a spark falling into gunpowder will produce enormous effects when the energy within is suddenly liberated, so that which may seem a trifling cause sets free the energy of Uranus, and the effects produced are suddenly out of proportion to the apparent cause. Well aspected, the energy will be channeled through harmonious and fortunate endeavors so that Uranus will be the Regenerator. Undirected, or adversely directed or channeled, and the disruptive effects will entitle it to the name of Destroyer. In either event, Uranus will function as THE LIFE CHANGER. "Be ye transformed by the renewing of your Mind" pertains to the adeptship power of Uranus. By higher mental knowledge--that of the Divine Mind that transcends the mortal mind--when the forces of creativeness and growth are opposed or blocked by those of decay or destruction--Uranus separates the worthy from the unworthy and casts aside the unworthy; hence Uranus is also known as the Rejector. Sometimes these forces are complementary, however, since out of the decay of the old comes the birth of the new, and destruction is a necessary process of creation. ("Men may rise on stepping-stones of their dead selves to higher things," said Tennyson.)

Whether life will persist and the soul plan shown by a horoscope be able to come forth into continued expression is largely determined by the Ascendant, or First House, and the aspects to it. For, it is said that everything comes to the native by the way of the First House, whose ruler is the Guiding Star. The spirit seeks to overcome the body shakles. Those, therefore, who vibrate to Uranus must learn to "bend before the Wind" and to adapt to suddenly changing and new circumstances. The personal characteristic to be acquired is RESILIENCE, plus the ability to tune in mentally to the Impersonal Eternal Life Stream, the I AM CONSCIOUSNESS OF GOD that seeks constantly to express its Divine Nature more fully through individuals.

Squares or oppositions in the horoscope work out through trines to the Ascendant; sometimes squares turn back to the protective opportunities evidenced by sextiles.

Major changes in the life occur when the Sun or Moon--particularly if in aspect to Uranus--progress to a strong aspect to natal Uranus; or the progression of an aspected planet may bring changes.

And, the influence of Uranus as it transits the horoscope stirs up events in each House that bring the light of awareness of that Sign and House to the consciousness of the individual's mind, as well as an awareness of the nature of aspects by their objectivity. New paths in life are often taken when Uranus transits the Angular Houses or Cardinal Points.

Now, which astrologer among you has not seen the working of Uranus, the Awakener and Life Changer, influencing the consciousness of individuals when activating their charts? A woman friend of mine who has the Sun and Mercury in Taurus, not in orb, became very interested in astrology when Uranus entered Taurus back in the 1930s. By the time Jupiter, Saturn, and some of the other planets had entered this Sign--in 1940-41--she had become a teacher of Astrology for the Rosicrucian Fellowship, specializing in the mechanics of setting up the horoscope.

A CHILD SHALL LEAD THEM

By

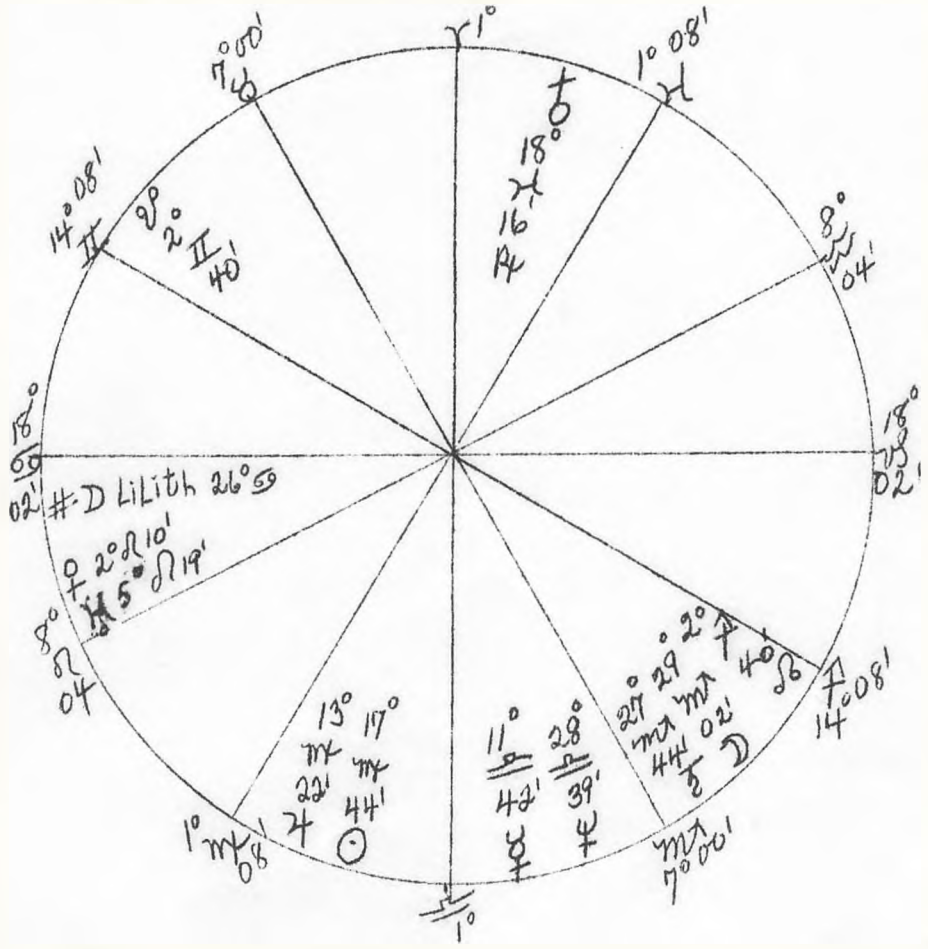

ELSIE MARGARET KNAPP, MAFA

(AFA 1958 Contest Article)

As an astrologer, I am frequently called upon at unusual hours. Such was the case the morning of September 10th, 1956. I was awakened from a sound sleep, and, needless to say, became greatly disturbed when the cries of a terror-stricken mother were heard.

Her question to me was, "Is my son safe; was he kidnaped or is he lost?" She revealed he left the morning before with his boy friend. Both boys were 13 years of age.

Knowing that I had to become fully awake before attempting to erect a Horary chart, I proceeded at once to take a cold shower and brew a cup of coffee. In order to find any object or a person, if either belong to the querent - in this case the mother - we must carefully analyze the Second House. In doing so, I find Leo is the sign on its cusp. The ruler of this cusp is the Sun, and because of its placement in the Third Zodiacal House, plainly denotes the mother's frustration. For the child, we must carefully analyze the Fifth Zodiacal House. Here we find the sign of Scorpio, with the rulership of Mars. This planet is posited in the Ninth House, which indicates being far from his home and base. It being in the sign of Pisces indicates being near a body of water. Pisces is a water sign, and as a sign, its direction is considered north by west. Mars, being in a watery sign, would indicate being on or near a river. Mars is in retrograde motion, which shows that the lad is not being helped very much with his plan to remain away from home and secreted.

The Moon is void of course, posited in a fixed sign, and this also indicates that the matter is no longer to be considered alarming. Nothing is lost, with the Moon in a fixed sign.

Venus rules the sign on the Fourth cusp, and said House always reveals the outcome of any issue at stake. Venus is applying to a trine aspect to the Dragon's Head, a benefic symbol. This promised a good outcome. It also conjoins the planet Uranus, and it would be of unexpected nature.

In Horary charts, we must specifically observe the House placement of a Planet or symbol, even though it is not controlled by the sign on its cusp. Here we observe that the Dragon's Head is posited in the Fifth House, the one associated with the child.

The mother asked if she should take a trip to Russian River, some distance from San Francisco in the northerly direction, but, after viewing the chart before me, I said, No, because his ruler, Mars, was placed in the Ninth House, which indicated being at a greater distance from his home.

In spite of my prompting, she started for Russian River, because it is a favorite camping spot for people living in San Francisco and surrounding communities, and her son often asked to be taken there weekends.

However, when she arrived, there was no trace of her son or his friend, and while there, the lad phoned his home and informed his grandmother that he was stranded in Lake Tahoe. He had planned to go as far as Reno, became frightened and hungry because his funds were running low. He asked if his mother would come for him and his friend.

When his mother returned the next day from her trip - made in vain - knowing he was safe at least, she decided to take some sleep and start off early the next morning.

As the story has been outlined to me, there was apparently a very good reason for this lad to leave his home. The father is a prominent newspaper man and considered a habitual drinker. Whenever he becomes intoxicated, he is very cruel to his son. When his mother finally found him on the river's edge, near the Stateline of Nevada, he told her he left home because of that being factual. She asked where he got the money for his anticipated stay away from home. He answered, saying he took what he thought he needed from his father's dresser drawer, thinking he could win some money from the slot machines in Reno and eventually pay it back. He explained he did not wish to steal it - just borrow it. He later realized that was a mistake and it frightened him. Since the mother asked the question, she is the querent and the First Zodiacal House relates to her and the Seventh to her husband. The ruler of the Seventh is Saturn, and said planet is posited in the Fifth, the one associated with her son. The last planet the Moon passed over was Saturn, and this plainly indicates the lad laid plans to separate from his father.

Fortunately, however, because the ruler of the Fourth Zodiacal House, also considered a benefic and the first planet to rise and well aspected, the outcome of the whole matter was favorable; success would be achieved. Venus, so placed, also indicates that if the mother would show a sympathetic tendency and use an affectionate approach, instead of scolding, she would be benefited in the final analysis. That, I am told, she did.

On June 8, 1956, we had a total eclipse of the Moon, and in reviewing the lad's natal chart, I discovered that it was conjoined to his natal Mars in the sign of Gemini, exact partile conjunction. We are told that eclipses have their effect both before and after their occurrence, if not at the exact time. Mars, over an eclipse-point, denotes quarrels, and they did precede the lad's departure and his father was abusive to him.

This Horary chart had the eclipse fall on the Dragon's Tail, also in Gemini in the Twelfth House sign. This denoted secret conditions and some self-undoing.

The mother's co-ruler, the Moon, also indicated she should travel northward, because the ascending sign has a Cancer rulership and the Moon its natural ruler. Cancer rules north - also everything allied to domestic affairs.

Lilith, a malefic symbol, was also passing through the sign of Cancer. This, too, indicated the mother's domestic condition - trouble, to say the least. This is further indicated because Neptune is posited in the Fourth, the House concerning home affairs, and the ascending degree was applying to a squaring aspect to Neptune and Mercury. Mercury usually indicates to the astrologer what the querent is concerned about, what is on his or her mind. Since some of the things Mercury concerns is business, (she being a private secretary to a very prominent man) her main thought when leaving for that trip to try to find her son was, "Can I return in time to attend business on Monday?" "This is our busiest season at the office." I could have told her No, because Mercury was conjoined to the nebulous planet Neptune in the Fourt

Although I, myself, was very tired and weary because of my interrupted sleep and because of delineating a chart in the wee hours of that m rning, I was happy to be able to see a very favorable outcome and later hearing it was confirmed. This was, indeed, compensating.

Since most happenings have a purpose, perhaps this very one taught his father a bitter lesson. I am told he drinks less and is attempting to stop entirely, because he, too, was terribly worried when his son did not return.

Postal card received from lad's mother September 10, 1956: My dear Elsie, the search is over, and here I am at the big body of water at Lake Tahoe near the Stateline, Drove all day yesterday the opposite way to the Russian River and now 250 miles to this place when we were notified of the boys being here. Your horary was perfect. A letter will follow when I get home. What a nerve-racking 36 hours.

RECTIFYING THE TIME OF BIRTH

From "Foundation of the Astrological Chart"
(All Rights Reserved)

By Ivy M. Goldstein-Jacobson MAFA

The birth hour is the basis of the Midheaven; if one is not right, the other is not right. If they are correct, the aspects made or received by the Midheaven at the time of an important event will be very close to exactitude. But if the progressed Midheaven has either passed or not yet reached the degree of the aspect that accounts for the event, we know we have to correct it first and through it find the correct natal Midheaven that will give us the rectified hour of birth. This is very easy to do: remembering that we always rectify through the progressed Midheaven because it provides us with the necessary adjustment-degrees.

The Midheaven

Note that the Table of Houses gives 360 Midheavens, one for every degree of the Zodiac, each of them being accompanied by its equivalent in sidereal time that increases at the rate of four minutes for each degree. For every degree the progressed M.C. is off, the natal M.C. is also off, which tells us that the birth hour is off too, by four minutes of time one way or the other. If the M.C. is off by two degrees, then the birth hour is eight minutes off, and so on.

Adding or subtracting the number of adjustment-degrees needed for the prog. M. C. to exactly aspect a natal planet at the event gives us the ADJUSTED Prog. M. C. The same number of adjustment-degrees added to or subtracted from the Natal M.C. gives the ADJUSTED Natal M.C. whose accompanying sidereal time in the Table of Houses becomes the Adjusted Calculated Sidereal Time for the chart. Remember that if we add at this point we must add to the given birth time later, and if we subtract at this point we must subtract then.

The Rectified Time of Birth

The difference between the Adjusted Calculated S.T. and the original Calculated S.T. is the amount to add to or subtract from the given time of birth (according to whether we added or subtracted the adjustment-degrees in the first place) which gives us the rectified time of birth for the adjusted natal chart.

If the Adjusted Natal M.C. includes MINUTES it is between two degrees, represented in the Table of Houses by a greater and a lesser sidereal time. Find the whole difference between these and divide. If the MINUTES are nearer 15 (1/4 of a degree) take 1/4 of the difference; if nearer 30 (1/2 of a degree) take 1/2; if nearer 45 (3/4 of a degree) take 3/4 of the difference. To this, add the lesser sidereal time, then subtract the orig. Calc. S.T. for the difference to add to or subtract from the given birth hour to rectify it; with this rectified birth time we set up the natal chart.

1. First set down the original chart data including the given birth hour and date, the latitude, the longitude & its EGMT, the Birth S.T. & date, the original Calc. S.T. and the Sign-&-degree it gave for the Midheaven:

5:57:55 a.m. CST Feb. 27, 1898 at 41N00 91W03 (EGMT 6:04:12)
22:25:25 Birth Sidereal Time Feb. 26th, 1898
Original Calc. S.T. 16:23:07 and Orig. M.C. 7:34 Sagittarius

2. Select an event in the native's life shown by the prog. M.C. aspecting a natal planet without exactitude, and set down that planet's natal position by Sign & degree. *Find the progressed S.T. for the age & note the prog. M.C. it gives and how many degrees it is off in aspecting that natal planet exactly. Add or subtract the adjustment-degrees to or from the incorrect prog. M.C. to find the ADJUSTED Progressed M.C. which does aspect the planet exactly. Add or subtract the same adjustment-degrees to or from the incorrect natal M.C. to find the ADJUSTED Natal M.C.

The native left her birthplace at age 15, the prog. date March 14th in the natal ephemeris but we take the sidereal time for the previous date because it was an a.m. birth. Subtract the Birth Sidereal Time to find the 15 years' increase, which add to the orig. Calc. S.T. to find the prog. S.T. for age 15 giving the prog. M.C. for the aspect. We want it to sextile natal Mercury 24 Aquarius closer than it did.

3. The Adjusted Natal M.C. 10:34 Sagit. falls between 10 and 11 Sagit. Find the whole difference in the sidereal times they represent & divide it (by 1/2 because the minutes are nearer half a degree). Then add the S.T. for the earlier degree, to find the S.T. for the ADJUSTED M.C. and from it subtract the original Calc. S.T. for the difference to apply to the given birth hour to rectify it. Then set up the chart as usual.

Sometimes it is the Ascendant that is making an aspect without exactitude, so that it should be in an earlier or later degree by progression. Remembering that we always rectify through the progressed Midheaven however, we look in the Table of Houses (under the birth latitude) & locate the Ascendant as it ought to be for the aspect; that is the correct progressed Ascendant and the Midheaven accompanying it is then the correct, progressed and ADJUSTED Midheaven for the event; note its Sign-&-degree.

The difference in degree between this Adjusted Progressed M.C. and the incorrect progressed M.C. is the adjustment-difference to add to or subtract from the incorrect natal M.C., thus finding the correct & ADJUSTED Natal M.C. as we did in Step 2, page 2 herein. We repeat: if you add at this point you must add to the given birth time later to rectify it; and if you subtract at this point you must subtract from the given birth time later to rectify it.

If there are no minutes in this Adjusted Natal M.C., take the sidereal time accompanying it in the Table of Houses as your Adjusted Calc. S. T. for the natal chart. The difference between this S.T. and the original Calc. S.T. is the difference to add to or subtract from the given birth time, thus rectifying it.

If there are minutes in the Adjusted Natal M.C., it is between two degrees as in our example in Step 3, page 2 herein. Set down the sidereal time for each degree, subtract to find the difference, take 1/4, 1/2, or 3/4 according to whether the minutes in the Adjusted Natal M.C. are near 15, 30 or 45; add the sidereal time for the earlier degree then subtract the original Calculated S.T. to find the difference to add to or subtract from the given time of birth, which will result in the rectified time of birth. With this, proceed to set up the natal chart as usual.

The Significant Events and Aspects

Planets in angles will always be aspected by the progressed Midheaven, giving us a surer opportunity to rectify the time of birth if necessary. Among the important events these cover are marriage, divorce or dissolution of partnership, purchase of real estate or a home, an accident or a serious operation, a death in the family, long journeys or voyages, public office or recognition, rises in the world, independent actions, etc.

A progressed aspect is more likely to register right on time when it is a conjunction, square or opposition involving planets in angular houses, but less promptly when involving a weak aspect or planets in succeedent houses. The cadent houses allow still more leeway & are more likely to suppress the news until later, even though the event occurs on time. In all cases, however, the event will take place in the period signified.

In our example, the mother's death in 1957 was timed by the Progressed Ascendant 28 Taurus exactly conjunct the Moon and sesquare the 8th cusp, 12:50 Libra (deaths in the native's circle), & the Prog. M.C. 5 Aquarius exactly square the Solstice Point of Mercury in the 8th itself. In 1933 the Prog. I.C. (father) in 13 Cancer was quincunx Mars while the 8th cusp in 28 Scorpio exactly opposed the Moon at the death of the father.

SUN CONJUNCTION URANUS IN FEMALE CHARTS

By
JAQUES DORSAN

(AFA 1958 Contest Article)

First of all we should keep in mind that a female chart should always be interpreted differently from a male one. The reasons are obvious in spit that, in the occident, astrologers do not pay sufficient attention to that fact, in my opinion. The nature of the woman is different; her comportment under a specific astrological configuration might be different. The Hindus, by whom I have personally been very much inspired, make a great difference between the sexes and there is a part of the Hindu astrological literature which is only dedicated to the delineation of female charts.

When speaking of Uranus one should keep in mind that there is no question of Tradition. Therefore, the last three planets discovered must be watched very carefully until those laws which relating to them are determine The present study has, as its object, to reveal a new aspect of the influence of Uranus in certain female charts.

The general significators of love affairs, in a female chart, are Sun, Mars and Venus. The particular significators, generally known, are the fifth and the seventh houses; to this we should add the third, which deals with lover(s), and the twelfth, which reveals the secret union(s). Sun represents the husband, the official partner, the chief of the family, the companion who has the most important role in the outside life - in the social life - of a woman. Mars represents the lover; I mean the intimate love partner; it will therefore inform us regarding the sexual behaviour of the husband. Venus deals with the affectionale life. Here we are only concerned with the Sun, let us say the husband in the exterior manifestations of the destiny of the woman.

Uranus was discovered towards the end of the 18th century, on the eve of the French revolution. It is a revolutionary planet par excellence; you all know that and I will not insist on that point. According to its position in the horoscope, by house, sign, governorship(s) and aspects it brings originality, independence, new interests, inventions; it dislikes routine and the beaten paths.

We should say also - and this is less widely known - that it deals with sexual life, as Mars does. Of course when Uranus is concerned with the significators of love affairs it brings something original, sudden or unexpected. For many years I have been working on a very serious study on "Uranus in the Vth House in Female Charts" for the benefit of our members; it is already over 30 pages long and I will present it to you later on.

The conjunction of Sun with Uranus, in female horoscopes, brings an ... unexpected influence which will be probably new to you. Personally I have never found anything similar to what I am dealing with at present in the whole astrological literature. When a woman is born under this configuration she will be attracted by a man who will bring something new into her life, something original. Her partner must be "different" and SHE WILL MARRY A FOREIGNER. This is the new rule of interpretation I am offering to you today. Of course there may be a few exceptions but they will be very rare if you give to the word "foreigner" a wide interpretation. If he is, by any chance, of the same nationality, he will be born under another religion, or he will be of a different race, (or color which is much rarer). The origin of her future husband, his education, his formation, his habits, his mentality, will be FUNDAMENTALLY "strange" to hers.

This statement does not need any commentary and I need not give examples. Just watch around you and look through your collection of horoscopes! Anyway, now that your attention has been directed toward that conjunction you may widen the delineation of the few charts which present this ccnfiguration and when dealing with a bachelor consultant you are enabled to make an ... unexpected prediction which will be confirmed by the facts for the benefit of our dear old science.

It is well known that Moon conjunction Uranus, in a male chart, frequently provokes divorce. Of course marriage is a great adventure and the matrimonial advisers usually recommend marriage between people having similar background, fortune and education. Marriage between foreigners does not facilitate the entente cordiale in the long run, and may be that is why this practice is frequently frowned upon even in the Bible. But I should say here that I am under the impression that Sun conjunction Uranus, in a female chart, does not predispose to divorce as much as Moon conjunction Uranus does in a male chart. I have not yet undertaken the very difficult task to make up statistics on that point. I merely cast the seed of the idea amongst you.

NOTES ON ECLIPSES

B y

SEPHARIAL

(Reprinted from MODERN ASTROLOGY MAGAZINE, November, 1895)

Claudius Ptolemy, in his 24th Aphorism, says: "An eclipse falling in the angles of either a Nativity or a Revolution figure, is hurtful."

"There shall many troubles happen in that year wherein there is an eclipse of both the luminaries during the same month." (Hermes Centiloquii, 53).

If there happen an eclipse, especially of the Sun, and Mars be the chief thereof, especially when in a fiery or an airy sign, Mars being strong, and ruling the year, there will be many house-burnings. (Alstedius, Vol. 1,096.)

If Saturn rules the Ingress at Solstice or Equinox, and even if he rules the place of the eclipse, and in a watery or earthy sign, there will follow earthquakes and inundations.

Eclipses of the luminaries falling in the Fiery triplicity, threaten the destruction of cattle and sheep, exile or imprisonment or murder of a great king or prince, or some great ruler. Amongst the common people and the potentates hatred, grudges, dissentions, will happen; and there will be movement of armies, sharp fighting, slaughters, house-burnings, thefts, rapines, depopulations, abortive births, sharp fevers, pestilences, scarcity of fruit and corn, especially in those regions that are subject to the sign of the eclipse.

In Airy signs it denotes famine, cruel sickness, pestilence, and most commonly it bringeth tempests and stormy winds very dangerous and hurtful to mankind.

In the Watery triplicity, death of common and ignoble people, daily motions of war, and also great destruction to fowls and fishes, and such things as live in or near the sea.

In the Earthy triplicity, it denotes that there shall follow a scarcity of fruit and corn.

An eclipse of the Sun falling in the last decanate of Aries denotes the death of a great woman in that country which is ruled by the sign of eclipse, and there will follow grief and sadness to mortals. (Prochus, de Eclipsibus.)

The time at which an eclipse begins to operate is to be taken from the time of the rising of the luminary to the middle of eclipse, or from the middle of the eclipse to the next rising of the luminary. The proportion of time the day may bear to the year, or the night to the year, will show the proportion of the year due to the interval thus obtained. In the solar eclipse the length of the day is taken, and in the lunar eclipse, the length of the night, and proportion made accordingly.

Example: Eclipse of Sun, 26th of March, 1895. Length of day from sunrise to sunset, 12 hrs. 29 mins. Time of sunrise, 5:51 a.m. Time of eclipse 10:09 a. m. Difference, 4 hours 18 minutes. Proportion, as 12 hours 29 minutes is to 365 days, so is 4 hours 18 minutes to 125 days. This measures to the end of July.

The above rule, taken from Cardan, I consider to be subject to modification, for how can the day or the night, taken separately, correspond to the complete circle of the year? I opine that the effects of an eclipse will begin to show themselves when the time from sunrise or sunset to the middle of eclipse has expired, at the rate of 24 hours to the year. Thus, in the case of the above mentioned, the proportion is taken as follows: As 24 hours is to 4 hours, 18 minutes, so is 365 days to 65 days, which measures to the end of May, when the eclipse ultimates, and the effects begin to be felt. This agrees with the facts already known to us.

Now, knowing when the effects will begin to be felt, the next step is to determine the length of the eclipse.

The hours of the duration of the eclipse must be taken and counted as years in the case of the Sun, and months in that of the Moon. (Ptolemy.)

Ptolemy says: If the eclipse falls in the eastern horizon the effects will manifest themselves about the next four months, and most strongly will operate during the first third of such period.

If it falls in the midheaven, the events thereof will begin to appear from the fourth to the eighth month following the eclipse, and the chief effects will happen during the second or middle part of that period.

If falling in the western horizon, the effects will appear from the eighth to the twelfth month following the eclipse, and the chief effects will be felt in the last part of that period.

Note: This is in accord with the rule given for the commencement of the eclipse effects, but I am of the opinion that the total period due to the eclipse should be divided into three parts, and the first, second, or third part taken for the time of greatest effect, according as the eclipse falls nearest to the east, midheaven, or west, of the figure for the eclipse.

KEY TO ASTROLOGY

Members of the AFA at our Los Angeles Convention in 1950 requested that we republish some classics of Astrology that were difficult for students to obtain. In accordance with our principle of service to members, we published Simmonite's ARCANA OF ASTROLOGY, first. This began in the December 1950 issue of the AFA BULLETIN and ran for almost two years before it was completed. Next, we published James Wilson's DICTIONARY OF ASTROLOGY beginning with the March 1953 issue of the AFA BULLETIN and continuing through December 1955.

Beginning with the February 1956 issue of the AFA BULLETIN and continuing to the present, (and on the following pages), we have been publishing the 1676 edition of Coley's KEY TO ASTROLOGY. We are following the spelling just as it is given in the original text, but shall omit certain tables be published which are now "out-of-date."

CHAP. XVIII.

Judgment Astrological Deduced from the Ninth House of the Geniture, to illustrate the Former Rules.

I. If the Enquiry be made whether the Native may Travel or not at some time of his life? I consider that part of Capricorn is descending upon the Cusp of the ninth House, but just passing off, and therefore Aquary should rather be accepted; however, Saturn is still Ruler of the said House, and disposed of by Mercury in the Ascendant; Mercury is in a moveable Sign in Trine of the Moon, the Sun and Mars, these are strong testimonies in Art, that the Native should have a strong inclination to Travel, to see remote Countreys of the world; or at least to undertake some long Voyage to Sea, and probably South Eastward, because the Significators are located in that Quarter.

II. Now Saturn being Lord of the ninth House in the Horoscope, and well dignified, argues the Native should not only be propense to Travel, but advantage himself thereby; which is seconded by the Moons Sextile to the Cusp of the ninth House (she being Lady of the second) but in regard the Lord of the Ascendant is afflicted, and Saturn, Lord of the ninth, is in Quartile to Venus, not beheld by Jupiter to the Moon, I shall not encourage the Native to adventure himself or expose his Body to that affliction which he may totally evade if he continue in his own native Country.

III. The motive that may induce the Native at any time to see far Countreys (and I know he was once strongly inclined and fully resolved some few years since upon such an undertaking had not Friends and Relations otherwise prevailed with him) must be chiefly out of Curiosity to see strange Countreys rather than hope to enrich or advance himself to Dignity or Honour thereby, and yet something of that nature would please the Native; (though I know him to be free from Covetousness, Pride or Ambition.) Saturn, Lord of the eighth, ninth and tenth Houses in the Ascendant in Gemini, the House of Mercury, and Mercury with Mars and the Sun in the eleventh in Aries, doth not improperly afford such a judgment according to the Canons of Astrology, - the time when is best discovered by Directions.

IV. As to the Natives Dreams, finding Saturn Lord of the ninth House in the Ascendant strong and Angular, denotes the Natives Dreams should for the most part prove true; and probably at sometimes somewhat terrible, or frightful to the Native; for 'tis the opinion of Astrologers that if Saturn be Lord of the ninth House, (and more especially being located in the Ascendant and no Planet in the ninth) that then the Natives Dreams should be of Persons or things Saturnine, and therefore many times produces fear and horror, or affords Dreams of occult and hidden things, Visions, Apparitions, &c.

V. Lastly, the premises being considered, and also the Sun, the Dispositer of Mercury, both in Trine to the Moon, this argues that the Native should be of solid and sound Principles as to Faith and Religion in the General, though the position of Saturn, Ruler of the ninth House in the Ascendant in Gemini, doth naturally signifie the Native should also know how to be Critical in some matters where he sees occasion, and have also an inclination to Science, &c., yet he deviates not much from those Principles he has been educated in.

This much is sufficient to be hinted upon this Subject, and shall conclude the Judgment of the ninth House.

C H A P. X I X.

Judgment Deduced from the tenth House, or Angle of Honour.

I. If Enquiry be made whether the Native may arrive to any considerable degree of Honour, &c. I consider that Saturn is Lord of the tenth, Angular and strong, Sol a general Significator of Honour and Dignity, is posited in Aries, his Exaltation in the eleventh House, and there in exact Trine to the Moon: moreover the Part of Fortune is posited in the Midheaven, and the Moon in Sextile thereunto. These are Arguments that the Native (according to his capacity and condition of Birth) should arrive to a considerable degree of Honour and Estimation in the world, and consequently live most splendid and happily therein.

II. But it cannot be expected that this Judgment should take place to the height thereof, in regard Saturn, Lord of the tenth, is within the Orbs of a Quadrate of the Sun from the Ascendant and eleventh Houses, howbeit the Major Testimonies demonstrate Honour and a good Reputation in the general, although perhaps some occurrences of difficulty may interpose and only seemingly for a time frustrate the hopes of the Native in that particular; and this is all probability from or by the means or endeavours of persons Solar and Saturnine.

III. In fine, what Honour is conferred upon the Native should be for the most part acquired by his own industry or deserts, because of the position of Saturn in the Horoscope; and therefore let not seeming difficulties discourage the Native in his hopeful attempts: and in regard a fixed Sign (viz. Aquary) possesses the Cusp of the tenth House, it imports the Natives Honour and Renown should remain fixed and durable.

IV. As to the Natives Magestry and Profession: The Determination thereof is not easily performed; but in this Nativity finding an Aiery Sign both upon the Midheaven and Horoscope, and Saturn therein, and in particular in Gemini, the House of Mercury, this aptly denotes some kind of Merchandizing, and that the Native should delight to deal in such matters or things that are both Venusian and Mercurial; he was bred to a Gentile Profession, suitable to his Birth and Education, and is indeed capable of excellent things, being a person qualified both with an apt and pregnant Genius, and a notable working active Fancy, well signified by Saturn in Gemini in the Ascendant and Mercury his Dispositor in Conjunction with the Sun and Mars in the Aequinoctial sign Aries.

C H A P. X X.

JUDGMENT UPON THE ELEVENTH HOUSE OF THE EXEMPLARY NATIVE

I. As to the Friends of the Native, such as are unrelated unto him, also their Qualities and Conditions, &c. Considering the Constitution of the Scheme, and finding so many planets in the House of Friendship, I conclude the Native should have many Friends and Acquaintances; and in regard the Moon doth behold those Planets by a Trine Aspect, 'tis an Argument they should (for the most part) be real; yet I conjecture the Native will be sensible of some that may prove mere Pretenders, only for their own particular ends, and to serve themselves, because Mercury is afflicted by Mars and the Sun, and Venus is in Quartile to Saturn.

II. Hence the Native may expect to find many Friends, some that are really so, others the contrary, which he will quickly discover, and respect them accordingly; but for such Friends which he finds real, he is so ingenious as to oblige them so to continue; and in short the Native will notwithstanding be so happy as to enjoy divers Friends which may prove assistant upon occasion, beyond all prejudice or injury that can be designed against him by subtile pretenders; the several humours or qualities of both kinds are discovered from the Nature of those Planets that are posited in the eleventh House, &c.

III. As to the Natives Hopes. From a due consideration of the position of the Significators aforesaid, the Native should be sometimes crossed or thwarted therein, though not much to his prejudice, but generally reasonable Fortunate in most affairs he hopes or desires to accomplish because the Moon, Lady of the second House, doth so friendly behold Mercury, and those other Planets in the eleventh House.

IV. Let the Native, if it be possible, gain the Nativities of those persons he has much Conversation withal, and compare his own therewith; and if he finds a convenient Harmony between them, it is a confirmation of true Friendship; if not, he ought to be the more wary how he trusts them. See Ptolomy's Centiloquium, Aphor. 33, together with some Aphorisms relating thereunto in the general Judgment of the eleventh House, and you may be the better able to judge of the real love or hatred of two persons.

C H A P. X X I.

JUDGMENT UPON THE TWELFTH HOUSE.

I. If it be demanded whether the Native shall have private Enemies, or receive prejudice from such? I find in the Nativity that Venus is Lady of the Twelfth House, and in Quartile to the Ascendant and to Saturn therein, which denotes the Native may have secret Enemies, such as are Signified by Venus and the Moon also, (who is in Platique Trine to Venus) possibly they may be of the Female Sex, and such as would be accounted, or at least pretend themselves to be real Friends, because of the position of Venus in her own Dignities in the eleventh House.

II. Yet Saturn being a Superiour Planet, and in the Ascendant, and in Quartile to Venus, shews the Native cannot be much injured by any such persons; it rather intimates he may be unpleasant carriage, or strangeness, give distaste or offence to some of his Female Friends, and in Revenge thereof they may become his private Enemies, but not sufficiently able to prejudice the Native thereby; for Saturn is the Afflicting Planet, and Venus was Passive, and suffered by the beams of Saturn darted upon her at Birth.

III. As to Captivity or Restraint. I conclude from the Premises that the Native will never suffer thereby, yet he may I confess be sometimes oppressed with Melancholy and discontented thoughts; and I fear too oft be subject thereunto, by reason of the presence of Saturn in the Ascendant in Quartile to Venus, Lady of the Twelfth, (which is the House of Sorrow, &c.) Lastly, from these Considerations doth also follow, that the Native should be but reasonably Fortunate in Dealing in great Cattle, (properly signified by this House;) but in regard the Native hath no inclination that way, (viz. to deal in such Creatures) this shall conclude the Judgment of the twelfth House, which is sufficient to illustrate the Rules before laid down. Here I might, confess, have been much more Copious in Judgment upon this and the other Houses, but I forbear purposely that the young Student may have occasion hereby to whet his Active Fancy in the Amplification of what remains.

C H A P. X X I I.

JUDGMENT PROPER TO THE EIGHTH HOUSE OF THE EXEMPLARY SCHEME.

I. From this part of the Heavens Judgment is taken concerning the death of the Native, as has already been shewed and herein I shall only consider two things (I.) who is Anareta, or the Intefficient or Killing Planet; and (2), by what kind of Death the Native may expire, whether Natural or Violent?

II. Now the Planet that in this Scheme appears to be the Abcissor, or Destroyer of Life, is Saturn in the Horoscope ,

Lord of the eighth House; and when the giver of Life, or Hylech meets with the Body of the Killing Planet in this Figure is the most dangerous time. The Sun is Hylech, and about the sixtieth Year of the Natives Age meets with the Body of Saturn by Direction according to Naibods Measure of Time (being Directed in the Aequator according to the usual Method,) yet the Native may labour some Years under the effects thereof before he change this Life for a better; thus much I intimate from the consideration of Natural Causes, no Man can, or dare be positive in this particular, since the Lives of all Persons are only at the Dispose of the great Creator of Heaven and Earth.

III. The Native has already passed the Direction of the Ascendant to the Body of Saturn, as also the Moon to the Opposition of Saturn; both which Directions have had their effects sufficiently upon the Natives Body, as he will readily acknowledge for the Confirmation, and Verification of Art to any Ingenious Person that may doubt of the secret Operations of the Coelestial Bodies upon Mortals.

IV. As to the kind of Death by which the Native may expire, whether Natural or Violent, &c. I answer thus: That considering the Sun is Hylech, and Lord of the fourth, and in Conjunction with Mercury Lord of the Ascendant in Aries a violent Sign, within the Orbs of a Square of Saturn in the Ascendant; and Capricorn, another violent Sign, descends upon the Cusp of the eighth: I say, these are Arguments that the Native may be in great danger of violent Death, which Cautions him to be the more careful to forbear all violent Actions. But on the other side (although the Moon be in a violent sign) she beholds Mercury, the Sun and Mars (as has been hinted) by a Trine Aspect; also Venus, and Jupiter, both the Fortunes are in Sextile to the Cusp of the eighth House, and no violent fixed Star posited therein; and therefore I conclude the Native may expire by some Disease proceeding either from Melancholy or from Phlegm, and moyst humours too much abounding; but at a considerable Age as before intimated; and thus I conclude the Judgment of this House, and of the whole Exemplary Scheme.

Bdfore I come to treat of Directions, I thought convenient here to Insert these Proposals therein, which had long since from a loving Friend, and singular Mathematician; and so leave them to the consideration and scanning of the Sons of Art.

I. 'Tis probable that the Antient Astrologers, by what they termed Directions upon Nativities, intended thereby some Position, or Configuration of the Heavens, happening within some certain days after the same, to signifie Accidents, good or evil to the Native at the end of so many Years.

II. And probably the Directions of the Sun and Moon only their applications of the Bodies and Aspects of the other Planets and Fixed Stars, every days distance in Time, from the Birth of the said Aspects giving one Year, and every two hours, one Month.

III. The Direction of the M. C. being the days elapsed from the Radix till the Bodies, or Aspects of some of the Planets do culminate at the same hour of the day, or point of time with the Nativity.

IV. And consequently, the Direction of the Ascendant, the days elapsed from the Nativity till some Promittor Ascendeth the Horizon at the same time of day agreeable with the Radix. These Propositions seem to agree with Keplar's way of Direction, as any Person may try if he please

Thus, suppose the Sun in some Nativity should Culminate in 00^{0} of Aries, and Venus should be posited in 00^{0} Taurus; now the Common Arch of Direction would be near 28^{0} but the Sun will not come to that point till more than 30 days, shew the Accident to happen at the end of 30 years.

(There is a Measure of Time mentioned in this Book, which agrees to this method of Direction, unto which J. Keplar's is equivolent.

C H A P. X X I I I.

OF DIRECTIONS OF SIGNIFICATORS TO THEIR SEVERAL PROMISSORS IN ANY NATIVITY.

S E C T. I.

Shewing what a Direction is, and how it is defined; As also, which is called the Significator, and which the Promissor, &c.

A Direction (or rather a Deduction) is defined by Argo, to be the Arch of the Aequator, intercepted between two places in the Heavens, viz. The Artificial measure of its Progress, which the Promissor doth absolve by the Motion of the Primum Mobile; or to Direct, is to find what Degrees of the Aequator pass through the Meridian, while the Promissor (or place inferiour) by the aforesaid Motion comes to the point of the Significator, (or place superiour) i.e. Until the Promissor comes to the very semicircle of Position of the Significator, which is vulgarly said to be Directed; this Motion in Directions is real, and no way feigned. Hence then that Motion of rising, wheeling, or turning about of the Promissor to the place of the Significator, by the swift Motion of the Primum Mobile, which is from the East to the West, is really absolute, and produces its effects according to the distance of the Degrees of the Aequator, between the Significator, and Promissor, giving for every Degree, or space of Time the Sun makes his Diurnal mean Motion, a certain Determinate Measure of Time, allowed by Experience, viz. about a year, &c. of which more in its proper place.

II. Others (and in particular one very Learned in Astronomy) defines Directions to be the Harmony of the Earth's Annual, and Diurnal Revolutions about the Sun; and Profec - tions (if anything) are defined to be the Harmony of t h e Moon's Mensural, and Diuranal Revolutions about the Earth from this ground, Kepler's Method of Direction is termed a most Demonstrative way, which in some place of this Book I shall endeavour to make plain and easie, Yet Argol's Method is now generally received, and practiced by all Astrologers of Europe, and is the same with Regiomontanus, the which hath been followed by many Learned Astronomers, and Mathematitians, as Johannes Keplerus, Tycho, the Danien School, Johannes, Antonius, Maginus, and others, as is attested by that great Master of Astronomy, viz. Andreas Argol himself, who hath taken much pains in this kind, being a Professor, as he saith, for about fifty Years, and never found the least Scruple whereby he might be enforced to alter his J u dgment, being well satisfied that this Subject is built npon a tru e Foundation; and grounded upon Mathematical Reasons, and Demonstrations.

III. By a Significator you are to understand any Planet or place of the Ecliptick that may signifie any matter o r thing in the Heavens, about the affection of the Body of the Native; as Life, Manners of the Mind, Preferment, Fortune , and any other thing inwardly or outwardly happening thereunto; for which Ptolomy assigned the Ascendant, Mid-heaven, Sol, Luna, and Part of Fortune. These five are termed Hylegicals, and Significators, by whose Directions all Accidents, as well prosperous as unfortunate, are pointed out, according as their Significators meet with the Bodies or Aspects of Benevolent or Malevolent Stars, or Planets. This Opinion is generally followed, others have added the rest of the Planets Saturn, Jupiter, Mars, Venus, and Mercury for Significators also, and may discern good or evil in those things that are signified by them; as also the Cusps of the Coelestial Houses, according to their several Significations, as the second House of Riches, the seventh for Marriage, &c. and so of t h e rest.

IV. The Promissor (or Promittor) is that point of the Ecliptick wherein the Body or Aspect of any Star or Planet that is said to be Directed unto, (or rather brought to the place of the Significator, as before noted) which may discry, or promise anything to the Native, either good or evil, denoted or signified by the Significator.

V. There is another sort of Direction, which by Astrologers is termed Converse, or Retrograde, that is to bring the Significator to the Promissor, which is contrary to t h e Motion of the Primum Mobile, and by Argol utterly abolished as feigned, and without a Foundation. But Converse Direction taken in the right sense, is nothing discrepant from direct Direction, as is testified by Carol, Antonius, Manginus in his Nova Dirigendi Ars, printed in 1626. But only in taking the Poles Elevation above the Circle of Position. F o r as in direct Directions you are to take the Circle of Position (as it is vulgarly termed) of the Significator; and so direct the Promissor under that Pole. So here in Converse Directions you are to take the Circle of Position of the Promissor only, and not the Significator; and under that Pole find the Ascention, or Descention of the Significator, and Subtract the Oblique Ascention, or Descention of the Promissor from the Oblique Ascention, or Descention of the Significator, &c. and the difference is the Ark of Direction required.

Suppose the Ascendant of some Nativity were 2^{0} of Libra, and the Trine of Jupiter fell in 5 deg. 10 min. of Virgo in the twelfth (this is contrary to the succession of the Signs) and I would know when the Ascendant or Horoscope came to the said Aspect of Jupiter. Now I find the Pole of Position of the Trine of Jupiter to be 46^{0} 2m. I take the Oblique Ascention of the Horoscope under that Pole, which is 183d. 24m. from which I deduce the Oblique Ascention of the Trine of Jupiter 147d. 21m. and there remains the Arke of Direction required, 36d. 3m. so that here you may observe that the Ascendant, which is the Significator, is brought to the Prommissor still according to the Motion of the Primum Mobile, and the Pole of Position taken at every Direction, which in the direct way is taken but once; and hence the difference between Direct and Converse is plainly laid open, and discovered. I suppose, if it were practised, (which indeed is very laborious) it would be found as significant as the former, since 'tis in effect but the same thing. But this I leave to the consideration of the more able Artists, who are Competent Judges in such Cases. 'Tis too laborious I confess and few Clyents will be willing to pay an Artist for such serious Work, I presume, because they are not sensible of the great pains that must be taken therein.

S E C T. I I.

I. There hath been much Dispute amongst Authors concern-in this very point, occasioned (as is supposed) by the false Interpretation of Ptolomy's Writings; but all that are skilful in mathematical demonstrations do unanimously agree that th e Latitude of the Planets in Directions ought everywhere to be observed. For every Man that is but meanly versed in these matters may easily apprehend that the Stars do unequally arise with, and without Latitude; so in these Northern Countreys that have Oblique Horizon where the North Pole is elevated, 'tis apparent that a Star with North Latitude ris-eth sooner, and sets later than the place of the Ecliptick; and contrarily, those Stars having South Latitude, rise later and set sooner than the place of the Ecliptick they are in; this is very easily discovered by the Globe, or Sphere, or by any Tables of Oblique Ascention with Latitude.

II. As in the Latitude of London, the Oblique Ascention of 10 degrees of Aries Sine Lat. is 4 degrees, 12 minutes; but with I degree of North Latitude 'tis 2 degrees, 36 minutes, and agrees to about 6 degrees of Aries; but with I degree of South Latitude, the Oblique Ascention is 5 ddgrees, 43 minutes, which agrees to almost 14 degrees of Aries; by which it is plain that a Planet with South Latitude ariseth farther in the Sign than the place of the Ecliptick he is in, and having North Latitude, the contrary; and by consequence the Ark of Direction is either increased or diminished by reason of the Planets Latitude North or South; this needs no more words to explain it, being a business so obvious.

III. Note this by the way, that notwithstanding North Latitude diminisheth the Oblique Ascention, and South Lati - tude augmenteth it; yet you are to understand the contrary in their Oblique Descentions: for as much as North Latitude makes the Oblique Ascention lesser than the Descention of the Ecliptick, so much the Oblique Descention will be greater; and so much as South Latitude increaseth the Oblique Ascention, so much it decreaseth the Oblique Descention l e s s than the degrees of the Ecliptick (I have said the more in this particular to explain the business to Tyro's.)

IV. The Premises considered, then the Latitude ought undoubtedly to be observed in Directions: Origanus contends for an Aequation of the Stars Latitude in their Aspects to be made in the Longitude. But Blanchinus, and Argol will have their Latitude Aequated in the Aspects only. Others would have the Stars Latitude Aequated, both in their Longitude and Aspects too; but if you Direct only to the Aspects of the Planets (which never have much Latitude, neglecting the Aspects of the Fixed Stars, as all Modern Astrologers do except Hartgil) there needs no Aequation in the Longitude for the Sextile or Trine Aspect, at eight degrees of Latitude (which is the most the Planets have) alters but 14 minutes in the Longitude, which is inconsiderable, considering the uncertainty of the Planets places in some Ephemerides; therefore to Aequate the Aspects only according to Argol is altogether sufficient, neglecting the Longitude Aequation, unless you Direct to the Aspects of Fixe'd Stars that have great Latitude, then indeed the Longitude will be altered considerably, as will appear by the following proportions.

Now the Reason why Argol gives the short Rule in his Primum Mobile, (the premises considered) is because that in so small Angles, viz. 30 degrees from the acute Angle (i.e. the Sextile, or Trine Aspect from the Quartile, the Perpendicular is near half the said Angle; and because the sides including so small Angles are almost the same, therefore Argol and others take half the Latitude in the Sextile, and Trine, and the side 60 degrees in the Ecliptick, although not exactly so, yet the difference is inconsiderabld, as appears by this following Example, viz.

First for the Aequation of the Longitude.

As the Radius to the Tangent of the Aspects distance from the □, viz. 30 degrees	)	976144
So the Co-sine of the Latitude in the ♂ which is never abovd 8 deg. in the Planets.	)	999575

To the Tangent of the Aspects Long. from the square 29 deg. 46 min	975710
Secondly for the Latitude
As the Radius to the Sine of the Aspect from the □ 30 deg	969897
So the Sine of the Lat. at the ☌ 8 d. 0 m.	914356
To the Sine of the Lat. at the Aspects 3d. 59m.	884253

Here follows: Blanchinus's and Argol's Demonstration of the Latitude of the Planets in their Aspects; by which, what is Asserted in the following Paragraph is confirmed by Ocular Demonstration, and therefore may be some satisfaction to the Curious Searcher into the verity of this kind of Learning, which to some Readers may be accounted no less than Riddles, Misteries, or very Occult Secrets, if not worse.
